

Hearing Is Thursday in JFK Book Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—A Supreme Court justice today set a hearing for Thursday at the request of the publishers of "The Death of a President" in Mrs. John F. Kennedy's suit to block its publication.

Counsel for the ailing author, William Manchester, asked that the hearing, as it applies to him, be put off until Jan. 16.

WILLIAM MANCHESTER

Justice Saul Streit granted both requests.

Edward S. Greenbaum, counsel for the publishers, Harper & Row, demanded the Thursday hearing date.

Outside the court, Greenbaum said no hitch has developed in the negotiations with Mrs. Kennedy's representatives.

Negotiations were canceled yesterday when Manchester was taken to a hospital in Connecticut suffering from pneumonia.

NO SOLUTION FOUND

Simon H. Rifkin, Mrs. Kennedy's chief counsel, asked about the publisher's insistence on a Thursday hearing, said: "I don't quite understand it, but I won't comment."

Asking how close the parties were to an out-of-court agreement, he replied: "The solution has not been found."

Greenbaum, Rifkin and Carleton Eldridge, attorney for Manchester, conferred with Streit in his chambers for more than an hour before they went to an open courtroom where the motions for delays were heard.

The defendants had been ordered to show cause today why they should not be barred from bringing out Manchester's 300,000-word account of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Earlier, Rifkin had said: "I have no grave objections to putting the matter over as long as necessary. I'll make that very clear. Counsel for Manchester needs the views of his client and that's not possible now."

'Great Society' Review Asked

Include Old Disputed
Laws, Mansfield Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic leader Mike Mansfield set wheels in motion today for a suggested "major reexamination" by the Senate of "Great Society" programs and older controversial laws such as the draft, income tax and foreign aid.

Mansfield issued his recommendations for a "thorough-going, second look" at major programs from Medicare and civil rights to farm subsidies in a letter to the Senate's 17 committee chairmen.

Such studies, the Montanan said, could find rough edges, overextensions and gaps in newer programs and update and check equity of administration handling of older laws such as Selective Service.

Mansfield said his recommendations were not in response to Democratic election losses or complaints by Democratic governors about administration of some programs.

He noted that he had been saying for more than a year that it was time for Congress to "Stop, look and listen."

WAR COSTS

Nor, he said, were Vietnam war costs the reason for Congress to pause and reexamine.

"With or without Vietnam, in my judgment, the Senate of the United States, through its committees, would have a responsibility for beginning the kind of top-to-bottom oversight which is suggested herein," he said.

Christmas Toll on Highways Is Far Below '65

Chain of 9 Successive Records on Holidays Broken This Weekend

By The Associated Press

The nation's Christmas weekend traffic death toll fell far below the all-time high mark set a year ago — and broke a trend of nine successive holiday records.

Tabulations today showed the total for the three-day Yuletide celebration was 570. This compared with a nonholiday count of 391.

The Christmas holiday count didn't come close to the National Safety Council's advance estimate that between 650 and 750 Americans might die in motor vehicle accidents.

A total of 720 fatalities was recorded during the Christmas weekend in 1965.

A safety council spokesman said a weekend snowstorm which covered a broad swath of the nation from Oklahoma to New England kept perhaps a million motorists at home, cutting travel and accidents.

SIMILAR LENGTH

Nevertheless, fatalities far outstripped those of a nonholiday period of similar length.

The Associated Press surveyed traffic accident death from 8 p.m. (local time), Friday, Dec. 9, to midnight Monday, Dec. 12. The count of deaths then was 391.

The safety council issued an estimate for next weekend's three-day New Year observance when, it said, accidents probably would kill 10 to 90 more persons than on a nonholiday weekend.

The New Year traffic toll estimate by the council was 490 to 540 for the weekend from 8 p.m. (local time) Friday, Dec. 30 to midnight Monday, Jan. 2.

CHAIN BROKEN

The relatively low count for the holiday just ended broke the chain of holiday records.

Each holiday death toll since that of Memorial Day 1965 has set a record.

Thanksgiving weekend, a four-day, or 102-hour period, brought 748 traffic deaths, a record for any holiday.

Earlier holiday tolls this year, all for three-day periods, were New Year 546, Memorial Day 542, July 4, 576, and Labor Day 636.

North Viets Overrun 1st Cavalry Positions

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—North Vietnamese infantrymen overrun positions of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division today and inflicted heavy casualties on the helicopter-borne flying horsemen, U.S. military headquarters reported.

The headquarters said the North Vietnamese, an estimated battalion of the veteran 610th Division, penetrated several artillery positions of the elite cavalry division and blew up guns with satchel charges and grenades before the Americans pushed them back and restored their defense lines.

The furious engagement near the central coastal city of Bong Son, 300 miles north-east of Saigon, broke off this morning. The cavalrymen reported 43 North Vietnamese killed.

The action was the major combat on a day which also brought an assassination attempt against a leading South Vietnamese politician in Saigon and three raids by B52 heavy bombers against Communist positions in South Vietnam.

Dr. Phan Quang Dan, 48, a liberal politician and a member of the Constituent Assembly drafting a new constitution, was

He told newsmen he did not know whether the blast was caused by a device attached to his car or whether something was thrown from the roadside. Five Vietnamese bystanders also were wounded, two seriously.

Key Dems Oppose LBJ for '68

NEW YORK (AP)—Nearly half of a group of key Democratic leaders either believe their party would be better off with a candidate other than President Johnson in 1968 or are unwilling at present to endorse his renomination, the New York Times said today.

The story from Washington added, however, that few among the 125 leading Democrats in 30 states interviewed by the Times "were rash enough to predict Mr. Johnson would be challenged for the presidential nomination or would lose it if he should be challenged."

The story also said in part: Those questioned included state officials, Democratic state chairmen, members of the Democratic National Committee and candidates for major office in the last election, both successful and unsuccessful.

In the interest of candid answers, they were promised anonymity.

Of the group, 43 per cent either said they would prefer a new presidential nominee in 1968 or dodged the issue, usually on the ground that it was too early to tell what might be desirable then.

In general, support for the President's candidacy was strongest in the Northeastern states and weakest in the South and Midwest. He had some critics in almost every section of the country, however.

Fifty-seven percent of the party leaders favored Johnson's renomination, some of them enthusiastically, others with a combination of loyalty and fatalism.

Gift Changers Have 8 Days

Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce said today that area merchants have set Jan. 4 as the gift exchange deadline. Wrong sizes, colors and shapes may be exchanged.

Specially ordered or made-to-order merchandise is not returnable. Nor are items bought "as is" or "all sales final" basis.

Stores reserve the right to refuse merchandise which is soiled, worn, used or altered from the condition in which bought, Chamber officials said.

Hope Sounds Off on Viet

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the seventh in a 12-part series.)

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHEAST ASIA — (SPECIAL) — Today, with apologies to Walter Lippman and other pundits, I feel like doing a little commentary on the scene here as I have been privileged to see it — a view of the Vietnam war from the wings, so to speak . . .

This desire of mine was prompted by a chance remark from Reita Faria — "Miss World" — the other night on the plane back from Cam Ranh. Reita, a college graduate, and an extremely perceptive young lady, was obviously moved when she said, "I think it's wonderful that the Americans are doing all this for another country."

I hastened to set her straight, and answered: "Reita, we're not doing this for Vietnam, or Thailand, or even the U.S.A., but we are doing it for the free world . . ."

What I meant to tell her was that no man and no country in this 20th-century world of ours can be an island, and when the "heavies" start trying to take over someone else's back yard, and the little guys yell for help — there's no way but for the guy with the muscle to give that help.

Editorial writers call it "responsibility," and churchmen call it "concern and commitment to decency and freedom."

I think that Reita got the idea the next day when she watched Anita Bryant sing "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and move more than 5,000 battle-hardened veterans to tears.

Anita was crying, too. That was all the explanation our "Miss World" needed.

I've heard the same thing from Cardinal Spellman, Billy Graham, Martha Raye, John Wayne, Charlton Heston, and countless others . . . they've talked to the guys and shared their rations . . . they've seen them in rice paddies in the jungles and in the hospitals, and they've seen the dedication in their faces . . .

They have the certain knowledge that our men know they're over here in Southeast Asia, even if a few malcontents at Berkeley and in other parts of the states do not know . . . although the dates and the battle fields change, from two Jims to Gettysburg, from Chateau Thierry to Danang — the issue remains the same: the pursuit of freedom . . . it's like the ring on the merry-go-round — you may not easily catch it, but you will never stop reaching for it . . .

City Says Fiscal Crisis Deepening

By L. GARY THORNE

Pontiac's fiscal crisis has just taken a turn for the worse, according to city officials.

At least in the strict terms of a balance sheet, city officials feel the $500,000-plus wage adjustment made for 620 municipal employees has heightened the fiscal crisis.

The new wages negotiated with four employee groups are figured in 1967 to consume all the actual cash in the city's general fund surplus.

Thus, if the city's income stays the same next year and does not increase by the necessary half - million dollars, cutbacks in services and personnel would be needed for 1968 to balance that year's budget.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren already laid the proposed 1967 budget as deficit financing

since the surplus — built up over a three-year period — will likely have to be spent to balance the budget.

Actually, the city can only guess what its income will be for next year. The final tax base will not be set until late May.

Asked his view of the city's fiscal situation, Warren said, "The crisis is here. It's a very precarious perch. It's far more acute — now it's desperate."

While the city's financial health is not good, based on the projections for the coming year, help in the shape of a ballot proposition may be on the way.

The recently appointed Pontiac Finance Study Committee is to investigate and recommend to the City Commission both a short-term and a long-range solution to the city's financing woes.

TAX ALTERNATIVES

Essentially, two possible means of raising additional municipal revenue are to be considered — an income tax identical to the one rejected two years ago by voters and an increase in the property tax.

If the latter method is employed, a recommendation is expected by Feb. 15 to solve short-term problems.

Tentative consideration has been given to a two-mill increase in the property tax.

'N. Viet Civilian Areas Torn by U.S.'

NEW YORK (AP) — U. S. bombing raids along rail and highway supply routes near Hanoi have killed civilians and severely damaged residential areas, Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, has reported from Hanoi.

Some villages and hamlets have been "almost obliterated" by the American attacks "but the effect on transportation has been minimal," Salisbury said in a dispatch in the Times today. In another dispatch, Salisbury said he visited Nam Dinh, 50 miles southeast of the North Vietnamese capital, on Christmas Day and found block after block of "utter desolation." He said 89 people have been killed and 405 wounded by raids there.

He also reported that raids Oct. 1, 2 and 9 killed 40 persons and destroyed every house and building in Phu Ly, a town of 10,000 about 35 miles south of Hanoi. Nearly all the population had been evacuated.

He reported earlier that his personal inspection indicates U.S. bombing has been causing "considerable civilian casualties in Hanoi and its environs for some time past."

The Defense Department in Washington, asked for comment on Salisbury's reports, acknowledged that civilian areas have been damaged by the U. S. bombing of North Vietnam but said "all possible care is taken to avoid civilian casualties."

Reiterating that U. S. policy is to strike at "North Vietnamese military targets only," a Pentagon statement said "it is impossible to avoid all damage to civilian areas." Officials said both Nam Dinh and Phu Ly were "loaded" with antiaircraft batteries and missile-firing positions.

Commission to Consider Safer School Crossing

BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission tonight will be asked to consider a safer school crossing at Pembroke School, Eton and Derby.

Members of the Pembroke Manor Association are asking that the sidewalk on the east side of Eton and on the south side corner of Eton and Derby be extended to the curb.

They are also requesting that a uniformed crossing guard be located at Eton and Derby until corrections are made.

The association points out in a letter to the commission that a "high percentage of automobiles are not coming to a complete stop at the intersection."

A survey conducted by the city shows that the peak period for conflict between student pedestrians and vehicular traffic occurs between 7:30 and 8:45 a. m.

DIDN'T STOP During a period from 11:15 a. m. to 12:15 p. m., the study shows that of 100 cars at the four-way "stop" intersection, the wheels of 75 cars did not stop moving, 32 stopped beyond the stop sign and two did not stop at all.

The survey also showed that the majority of students were practicing safe walking and bicycling habits.

Also at tonight's meeting City Engineer William T. Killen is scheduled to report on a request of residents on Yosemite that the Detroit Edison Co. postpone proposed construction until after the holidays.

The company plans to install an underground conduit.

Ike to Leave Hospital Today

Stay Was Extended Until After Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is scheduled to leave the hospital this afternoon following his Dec. 12 gallbladder operation.

There has been no report from Walter Reed Army Hospital on his condition since Thursday, when he was said to be recuperating rapidly.

Eisenhower, 76, had hoped to leave before Christmas but last week doctors said he would be kept a few more days "for further adjustment of medications and observation."

He plans to go to Palm Desert, Calif., early in January from his Gettysburg, Pa., home.

LIMITED TENURE Writing in the current issue of Reader's Digest, Eisenhower called for a limit of 12 consecutive years in office for any member of the House of Representatives.

He also feels that House members should have terms of four years rather than two and should be elected during presidential voting years.

Limiting the tenure of House members, he said, would assure Congress of "a constant infusion of new blood from business, the professions and from the workaday world where most of us live."

Because House members are elected every two years, he said, it is likely that a president will find halfway through his term that the House is dominated by the opposition political party.

LESS EFFICIENT "It surely makes the machine of government work less efficiently," he wrote.

Extending the terms of office, Lewis Neal, 41, in Des Moines, Iowa, would give a freshman congressman a chance "to show the color of his thinking or to demonstrate his abilities" before a man believed to be George standing for reelection, Eisenhower said.

300 Rebels Said Slain in Angola Raid

TEIXEIRA DE SOUSA, Angola (AP) — More than 300 of a 500-man rebel force were killed Christmas Day when they crossed from the Congo — Kinshasa — and attacked this town on Angola's eastern border, Portuguese military authorities said today.

Portugal closed the Angola-Congo border this month after rebels killed 25 soldiers in an ambush near the frontier.

Authorities said five settlers and a police officer were killed in the Christmas attack during which the rebels sacked several houses and assaulted an army barracks. The rebels were said to have used rifles, swords and bows and arrows.

This town of fewer than 1,000 persons is a main stop on the British-owned Benguela railway over which the Congo exports more than 70 per cent of its copper ore. Portuguese authorities have threatened to halt the movement in reprisal for raids by rebels who hit and run back across the border.

RAILS DESTROYED One section of the railway near the border was reported destroyed during the attack Sunday.

The new governor of Angola, Lt. Col. Camilo Rebelo Vaz, flew in Monday for a personal inspection. The semiofficial Lusitania news agency said the area was calm.

$2,000 Damage in Pontiac Fire

An estimated $2,000 damage was caused in a fire this morning at a one-story frame home at 1041 Meadowlawn.

City fire fighters attributed the blaze to a child playing with a cigarette lighter. Damage was placed at $1,500 to the building and $500 to the contents.

The home is owned and occupied by Mrs. Betty London.

Firemen, who received the alarm at 9 a. m. and remained at the scene for one hour, said the first originated in a bedroom.

County Is Free of Road Deaths During Weekend

"Vigilance and common sense" were cited by Sheriff Frank W. Irons today as major factors in an apparently death-free holiday weekend on Oakland County highways.

State Police, sheriff's deputies and local departments recorded no fatalities in a period beginning at 4 p. m. Friday and ending at midnight last night.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the scenes of only six injury accidents in the 84-hour period, with none of the mishaps described as serious.

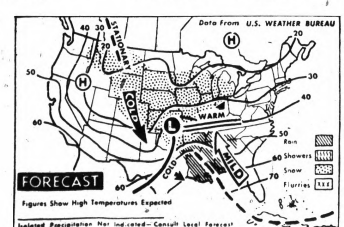

The Oakland County figure contrasts with the highway toll throughout the rest of the state, where 20 deaths have been reported.

Peking Leader Is Denounced

President Liu Draws Wrath of Red Guard

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist Chinese President Liu Shao-chi was denounced today as a "China's Khrushchev" at a mass rally by 100,000 Red Guards in Peking, according to Japanese news reports.

Chinese news reports said the Communist Party Secretary General Teng Hsiao-ping was also condemned.

Speaker after speaker criticized both men for pursuing a bourgeois reactionary line to satisfy personal ambitions.

"If we don't pull these two men down now, revisionism and capitalism will take over China," one speaker said.

One of the reasons relations between China and the Soviet Union are so poor is because the Chinese consider Khrushchev one of the leaders of the anti-Mao forces in the bitter struggle for power now sweeping China.

Liu, once considered a possible successor to Mao Tse-tung, has been identified by observers as one of the leaders of the anti-Mao forces in the bitter struggle for power now sweeping China.

Gunshot Death of City Woman Ruled Accident

The gunshot death Christmas night of a Pontiac woman has tentatively been ruled accidental pending further investigation by city police.

Dead is Mrs. Roy Jones, 33, of 363 Irving. Police said she was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital Sunday night after being shot once in the chest with a 22-caliber rifle.

The victim's husband, Roy, 34, told police he was cleaning the rifle in the living room when the couple's home when it accidentally discharged.

Wilson Reported Planning Cabinet Shuffle Early in '67

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson intends to reshuffle his cabinet early in 1967 to eliminate some dead wood and promote some of the Labor party's young men, reliable informants said tonight.

Wilson's aim is to refurbish his government's image of dynamic youth, retire the tired and aging and build a solid team that will last to the next national elections in 1969.

The top echelon of ministers, the sources said, will remain mainly untouched. The changes which will be directed at the middle and lower ranks.

Wilson spent Christmas with his family at Chequers, his official country residence near London. Then he left for a week's stay at his summer home in the Shetland Islands.

SECURE IN POSTS Sources close to the prime minister's office said Wilson planned to spend this week reflecting on the changes he needs to make in his government.

Most observers agreed that the chancellor of the exchequer, James Callaghan, 53; the foreign secretary, George Brown, 51; the education minister, Anthony Crosland, 47; and Defense Secretary Denis Healey and Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, both 45, were secure in their posts.

The top minister believed slated to go is Douglas Jay, 58, old president of the Board of Trade. He is considered ineffective and is a diehard foe of British entry into the European Common Market at a time when Wilson has committed himself to try to join the six-nation trading community.

Also expected to go is Agriculture Minister Fred Peart, 51, who has also been at loggerheads for months over farm policy with the National Farmers Union.

New men slated for promotion to be brought into the government are all in their early 40s or 30s except for Niall MacDermott, 50, now financial secretary at the treasury.

SON SURVIVES Heroic Deed

HOLLAND (UPI) — George Banks was very happy to learn yesterday that his son had been recommended for the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism in Vietnam.

But he was even happier to learn that Army Capt. Charlie Banks would be alive to receive it in award.

"Most of the time, they hang it on someone else," George Banks said.

His son, Charlie, 36, a pilot, threw himself on a grenade at a base in Can Tho, South Vietnam last Wednesday. The grenade had fallen near a gas truck.

It would have killed Banks, five airmen and could have destroyed 11 planes on a nearby flight line.

Banks was on top of the grenade for about 15 seconds before hurling it. It exploded harmlessly.

Investigators have closed 27.4 per cent of reported break-ins, nearly one-half per cent more than in 1965.

Officially unsolved In addition, two of the nine homicides remain officially unsolved, and arrests on assault complaints have dipped from 86 per cent to just over 78.

Smaller decreases in clearances are registered for larceny and auto theft.

Remarkably, the clearance rate in break-ins is higher this year than last, even in the face of a 30 per cent rise in offenses.

The rate of armed robbery complaints cleared by arrests is half that of last year, when more than four of 10 holdups

Fires Kill 57 Over Yule Weekend

By the Associated Press

At least 36 children and 21 adults died and many other persons were left homeless in fires during the Christmas holiday weekend.

The heaviest toll in one fire may have occurred in Northern California where seven are believed to have died since Christmas.

Blazes in Alaska and Maryland each claimed six lives.

The wife and five children of Maurice Stewart perished in a blaze at their home in Olivett, Md. The children were Violet, 5, Maurice, 3, Darlene, 2, Bruce, 1, and Linda, 7 months.

At Anchorage, Alaska, Alma Shull, 28, and her four children died in a fire at their home. The children were Adrianna, 9, Roland, 8, Logan, 7, and Sord, 5. An unidentified serviceman also was killed in the blaze.

Three children lost their lives in a fire that destroyed three two-story frame dwellings in New York. Nineteen were left homeless.

An explosion and fire in a bedroom of the new home of the Fred Tillery family at Falls Church, Va., resulted in the deaths of Fred Jr., 3, and Susie, 2. Eleven other children escaped.

The parents had gone to the television repair shop they operate to pick up two gifts they had forgotten to bring home.

Thomas and Michael Cole, aged 1 and 2, were killed when their home in East Peoria, Ill., burned after an oil burner explosion.

Connecticut recorded six deaths in three fires. The victims were Alfred Severblade, 49, and his mother, Anne Severblade, 79, of Danbury; William Cyr, 38, and his daughter, Diana, 6, at Prospect; and Tammy Searies, 7, and his brother, Jack, 5, at Bristol.

Other fire victims were 2-month-old Stacey James Thompson at Perry, Ga.; Mike Powell Harris, 58, of Coveta County, Ga.; Wiggins H. Navy's Black Berets Carry War to Vietcong

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — use of explosives is required for assignment to the SEALs, who are running into lethal opposition from the U.S. Navy's Black Berets, an elite group of guerrilla fighters who are the seagoing counterparts of the Army's Green Berets.

Called SEALs, because they are transported by sea, air or land, the Black Berets train at the Navy amphibious base here to become experts in unconventional warfare.

"We are using the Vietcong's hit and run tactics to harass them as much as they harass us," says Capt. Phil H. Bucklew, commander of the Navy's special operations mission.

There are about 200 of the amphibious commandos, all combat veterans as members of underwater demolition teams. Experience in diving and the tics and religions of the Far East.

House Fire Fatal to Kalamazoo Boy

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Fire swept a two-story frame home on the north side Monday, killing a 10-year-old boy.

The victim was Wiggins H. Snell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins Snell Jr.

Much of the SEAL story is classified information, but Capt. Bucklew says the units have been most effective in carrying the war to the Vietcong.

They are tough and competent men, says Bucklew, adding that "they have to be to survive. A simple cough by one member of a team can ruin an entire mission."

He cited the case of a SEAL who was troubled by an occasional cough.

QUIT SMOKING

"His teammates made him quit smoking, but it persisted," said the captain. "He was sent back to the States."

Many SEALs have had 36 months duty in Vietnam, he said, six times the normal tour. Bucklew described the typical mission as "sneaking, sinking, waiting and watching." The teams patrol Vietnam's rivers in rubber rafts or sampans, and set up ambushes to intercept the Vietcong.

"Then we can have a gun-fight," he said. "If the VC force is too large, we work closely with helicopters for backup support."

CAPTURE SUPPLIES

"For a small group of men we have had a hell of a take of Vietcong, rice and equipment."

How did the Navy get involved in guerrilla warfare?

"About four years ago, President John F. Kennedy asked a meeting of the National Security Council: "What are we doing to provide counterinsurgency forces?" Bucklew said.

The Army had its special forces, the Air Force its air commandos and the Marine Corps said all its men were being trained in guerrilla warfare.

"The Navy said it had SEALs."

"Actually," Bucklew said, "SEALs were just on paper and not many knew who had the paper. But it gave us our start."

Bucklew, 52, of Columbus, Ohio, holds the Navy Cross with Gold Star for espionage work during World War II.

He slipped behind German lines to gather information for the Normandy invasion, and he scouted the Japanese in China.

"But it's far more hazardous today in Vietnam than in my time," he said. "The enemy movement is not the same."

There's an uncertainty of who's around you. It's more reassuring when you know everyone's an enemy."

Junior Editors Quiz on BATON

QUESTION: How does the orchestra conductor use the baton?

ANSWER: The conductor has two main jobs. Using his baton, he indicates the beat of the music, with a downstroke at the beginning of each bar. This enables every member of the orchestra to follow the beat, with the result that they all keep the same rhythm or tempo. Even if the player is looking at his music, he can still see the movement of that baton out of the corner of his eye and can adjust his playing to it.

The conductor's job, however, has more importance than the simple keeping of time. During the rehearsals (top picture), the conductor explains carefully to the players just how he would like every passage played.

He is the one who is responsible for the effect of the orchestra's playing as a whole, and he will conduct each piece according to the way he thinks it sounds, the best.

In the actual performance (below), the conductor will not speak to the players or use the strong gestures he might in the rehearsal. This is not necessary, because from the rehearsals the players know exactly how the conductor wishes each phrase of the music to be played.

FOR YOU TO DO: Check with your school orchestra to find out how much of the final result is due to hard-working rehearsals.

1966 Was a Bad Year for the Rights Movement

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR., Executive Director National Urban League

The year 1966 is at an end, and I say good riddance to it. Those of us who looked forward to 1966 as the year in which the gains of the past would be extended still further were bitterly disappointed.

It was a year which saw Congress refuse to pass a civil rights law which would withdraw legal sanction for discrimination in housing and it was a year which saw attacks on those — but nothing that would solve the conditions which condemn millions to poverty and hopelessness.

Racism reared its ugly head in dozens of communities, where it was called "backlash," and the "good" citizens of many American cities gave way to hysterical prejudice when confronted with the possibility that Negro families might become their neighbors.

Within the civil rights movement itself, advocates of "black power" confused and alienated many supporters by proclaiming the phrase, thus diverting attention from the real problems of poverty and powerlessness which haunt the ghettos.

POVERTY FUNDS

By year's end, the inadequately financed War on Poverty was faced with further cutbacks of funds, and Congress stripped the most meaningful element of the "war," the community action program, of funds.

The war in Vietnam saw a greater involvement of Negro soldiers than any previous war — more than one of every four combat troops — despite the fact that Negroes make up only 11 percent of the population.

And instead of a massive attack on the problems that led to the riots, temporary measures were taken — a swimming pool for this ghetto, a few hundred jobs for that one

To 1968 Convention Bid

GO Primaries Are Important

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The political hot stove league is already aglow with talk about the 1968 Republican presidential primaries.

There are no announced candidates yet for the nomination, but it looks like a more valuable prize than it did before the Republican surge in the Nov. 8 elections.

In recent years, the presidential election in one or more key states has heavily influenced the eventual choice of the nominee of the party out of power.

And the weight of the evidence suggests that primaries will affect the convention outcome in 1968.

The 1968 GOP convention is still at least 19 months away and the first of the presidential primaries, permitted by law in 15 states, is 15 months away in the New Hampshire contest.

AVOID A BATTLE

With their new facade of unity after election victories last month, some party leaders began talking about a need to avoid the bloodletting that results from presidential primary races.

They suggest that a full quota of favorite sons in the primary states would avert factional divisions and lead to a managed convention and a minimum of lasting wounds.

The nomination of Barry M. Goldwater in 1964 split the party and left a heap of wreckage that was rebuilt into a working organization for the 1966 comeback.

Many Republicans doubt that there is any way to escape from presidential primary struggles, even if there are a few favorite sons who win command of their home state delegations.

2-MAN CONTEST

As of now, the nomination is viewed as a prize to be won in a two-man contest between Gov. George Romney of Michigan and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

An Oregon law compels the secretary of state to draft a presidential primary ballot with the names of all possible candidates recognized by national news media as prospective candidates.

Nebraska has adopted a similar law.

Fourteen other states have different types of laws, some of which are merely advisory and some of which bind the delegates in varying degree to the winning candidate in each state.

Nixon's a two-time loser—for the presidency in 1960 and for the governorship in California in 1962.

Republicans foreseeing primary contests in 1968 argue that he must show that he can win now. Hence, they think he must follow the presidential primary route.

Romney has said only that he is exploring whether to run for the nomination, but his recent comments have seemed to put him progressively closer to becoming an avowed candidate.

Knowledgeable Republicans expect him to announce by late summer or early fall.

Romantics deny it, but scientists insist that a blue moon is caused by the presence of sulphur particles in the upper atmosphere from mammoth forest fires or volcanic eruptions.

Educator Eyes Full Use of Schools

Under consideration in the Bloomfield Hills school district is a plan long in the minds of educators — a 12-month school year.

With the spiraling cost of education, it is becoming imperative that maximum return be derived from school buildings and teacher personnel, not now forthcoming.

Pointing out that summer vacation dates back to America's agrarian era when school children were needed for harvesting, Bloomfield Hills' school superintendent Eugene Johnson is inclined toward a four-quarter system (although there are other alternatives). The principal advantage is that students, attending three of the four quarters, are not all in school at the same time. The effect would be to increase the capacity of each school by a third.

The resulting increase in teachers' salaries and maintenance costs on a 12-month year over a nine, Johnson said, would be offset by the lower over-all cost of instruction because fewer teachers could cover the same number of students.

The year-round plan of elementary and secondary education would, during a child's 12 years in school, give him three three-month vacations in rotating quarters of the year.

Another advantage of an extended school year, the school official thinks, is the likelihood that vacation jobs would be easier to come by because only one-fourth of working-age school children would be in the job market at any one period.

Time brings changes, and maybe another aspect of our traditional educational system is ripe for one.

Decisions, Decisions, Decisions!

Review of 'Great Society' Urged

WASHINGTON — Review and revise and perhaps economize on the "Great Society" projects! This is what Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the leader of the Democratic majority in the Senate, says, in effect, in a letter sent to the chairman of each of the 17 committees of the Senate.

He advises LAWRENCE them to undertake "a major reexamination of what we have done in legislation during the past few years."

The Montana senator speaks with understated caution as he gently refers to "a number of rough edges, overextensions and overlaps and, perhaps, even significant gaps."

He doesn't want to seem to stress the need for revising only recent laws and says, therefore, that the changes should apply "with equal emphasis to those of older vintage."

He concedes that to do this may take a few years, and he doesn't anticipate much more than "a beginning" during the coming session of Congress.

What prompted these sober second thoughts about the "Great Society"?

CAUSED SPECULATION

Plainly, the election last November caused legislators to speculate on what the people really meant by their turn against the party in power.

While the clumsiness of some of the proposals for a "Great Society" may have produced only a part of the protest vote, political instinct tells the leaders of the Democratic party that maybe they had better look things over and at least give the impression that correct measures are to be taken where mistakes might have occurred.

Actually, the truth is that the promises and boasts about the "Great Society" have run ahead of the achievements. Also, the cost of these improvements in the social life of the nation is running higher than the economy can absorb, especially as the Vietnam war shows no sign of growing less expensive.

Sen. Mansfield apparently hasn't been convinced yet that the country can't have "butter and guns, too," but he's hinting that he may be wrong. He says:

"The problems which confront us at home and abroad are no less problems because of the serious demands on our resources for Vietnam. Nor is there any less need for efficient and effective government action, adequately but not wastefully financed, to meet these problems.

"With or without Vietnam, in my judgment, the Senate of the United States, through its committees, would have a responsibility for beginning the kind of top-to-bottom oversight which is suggested herein."

The Mansfield letter is timely.

Bob Considine Says:

JFK Would Have Done Better Reporting Death

NEW YORK — Jack Kennedy would have given them all hell, from his wife down, for their combined foul-up of the story of his murder. He was a good reporter; indeed, I knew him at a time when he was the main thing wanted to be in life.

It's a pity CONSIDINE have covered the assassination himself. He'd have turned in a better job, and his hard-bitten editors at I.N.S. would have handled it more expertly and in better taste.

As things now stand, the ugly charges and countercharges, the bandying about of huge sums in the form of guarantees, advances against royalties, first serial rights, foreign privileges, and posted bonds, are as obscene as a raffle of Lincoln's bones.

The dead need friends, too. The shade of JFK must have wondered where his friends were, really, in the heat of controversy.

This has been for his memory another Bay of Pigs, but grim circumstances afford him no chance for a recap.

The beautiful, widow's naive or lack of (or refusal to listen to) the advice of cooler heads has set two inexorable courses for "The Death of a President."

In the form in which it will eventually appear in magazine and book form in this country will be a sorry let-down to millions of readers.

It's too late to chastise Manchester for failing to clear the manuscript with the family, too late to suggest that the widow and Sen. Robert Kennedy should have evidenced closer interest in the book during its gestation period.

What's going to happen is that millions who never by, it doesn't explain why Congress rushed so precipitately into a spending program without taking into account the consequences.

Euphemistic phrases do not brush aside the fact that now, as in the New Deal years, "made-work" programs "which currently are called 'antipoverty' measures — are no answer to the problems of untrained as well as unqualified manpower."

(Copyright, 1966, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate)

have read the Manchester work will now read it.

They will read it not as an historical document, which is what the family hoped for when they chose him to the exclusion of other and perhaps more competent reporters, but to confirm (or disavow) hosts of rumors about what the original contained.

In Washington:

Message to LBJ: Improve Image

BY BRUCE BISSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Despite aftermath denials by some Democratic governors, the fact seems to be that their White Sulphur Springs caucus on the 1966 elections was very much concerned with President Johnson's personal image.

One source privy to their closed-door meeting at the West Virginia resort says many of the governors present indicated that unhappy over his image was a common thread running through their otherwise quiet individual complaints.

There was not, of course, much real company for Gov. Roger Branigan of Indiana, who suggested the President perhaps should decide not to run in 1968, or Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri, who publicly said the party itself might be advised to set him aside if matters did not improve.

Talks with several participants disclosed, however, that the most realistic among them believe that many of their gripes have as their root cause the President's insistence on doing too much himself — and letting go the things he either cannot handle or does not understand.

At least two governors say privately that he has to change materially in this respect if Democratic political mechanisms are to be more effective than they were in 1966.

That he has allowed the Democratic National Committee to atrophy is only part of the story, though

Reader Discusses Costs of Antipoverty Programs

Regarding the City Commission's feelings on anti-poverty programs, when I taught first grade in a Detroit, all-Negro school there was no anti-poverty program. The lessons the children learned in the streets were stronger than any lessons you could teach them. My favorite student was a six-year-old boy who was charming, inventive, got along well with the others, and was the best raconteur and comedian I had ever met. Recently, he was arrested for a double murder involving money owed him for narcotics. The streets and all that went with them had won after all.

Imagine the cost of keeping this boy in prison, possibly for life. Isn't prison the most expensive handout of all? I don't know whether an anti-poverty program would have helped this boy, but I would have grasped it as the best there was at the moment.

I agree that the rental for the OEO office is an immense burden for the City, but are there no adequate, centrally-located offices available at more reasonable rents? Since the OEO is a federal program, has it been clearly established that there is no room available in the Federal Building?

Questions Taking Sides in British Affairs

I see LBJ has imposed a boycott on Rhodesia which is strictly a British affair. The British have not sent one man to help us in Vietnam. They are trading with our enemies all over the world. I don't see why we have to take sides in something that's none of our affair.

'Disagree With Blame for Low Quality Cars'

Ed Greiger blames the union for the low quality of cars assembled, but the companies are responsible for production and quality.

The union is the mouthpiece of the workers in trying to make better working conditions and a living wage which allows for the dignity of a human being rather than a living machine.

Even though there is much left to be desired at the bargaining table, we need one as well as the other to counterbalance each other.

How many slaves were there in the U.S. at the time of the Civil War?

them at the last minute. They are equally weary of having no good White House listening post, no useful presidential guidance, no clear, unwavering sign of presidential interest in their problems.

The way the critical governors see it, Johnson's close-to-the-vest political methods imperil both their future prospects and his own chances of re-election in 1968.

Their outburst at White Sulphur Springs was unique in recent political history. It suggested depth of feeling which later backtracking by some governors could not paper over.

They chose to meet at all in the glare of a general governors' conference was a gauge of frustration. With perfunctory national committee meetings held only once a year, party figures have had no real way to talk out their common problems.

They seized their chance at White Sulphur Springs. And their real message to Lyndon Johnson was to change himself, not just the national committee or the working of Great Society programs.

Draft Expert Says Patriotism Not Commodity

At first blush, the idea seems eminently logical: In today's push-button, nuclear-missile, electronic age, the modern army should be composed of highly-skilled, highly-paid professionals. The unpopular and unequal draft should be done away with entirely, except in time of total mobilization.

Push-button warfare, however, remains strictly in the realm of the theoretical. It is to be hoped that it stays there. All the wars and military actions this Nation has been involved in since the advent of the atomic bomb have been the traditional kind. They have been fought by men who carried rifles, crawled through mud, dug foxholes, took prisoners.

No machine has yet been built which can do these things. Furthermore, it is difficult to conceive of any great number of men volunteering for such service, no matter how attractive the pay.

Lt. Gen. LOUIS B. HERSHEY, director of Selective Service, sees not only difficulty but danger as well in the idea of a volunteer army. He wants no part of mercenaries.

"When the Country gets to the point where the average citizen doesn't want to defend himself, then I don't think it makes much difference if anyone else does. We're goners."

There may be room for improvement in the Selective Service system, but until such time as the world is safe from wars and rumors of wars, the draft seems here to stay.

Nosy British Police Scent Inebriates

British bobbies, traditionally unarmed, are now carrying a new weapon. This is not a gun but a "nipper sniffer" — an alcohol detector. It is already credited with significantly reducing traffic accidents, says RODALE'S Health Bulletin.

Scotland Yard has instructed policemen to station themselves at strategic locations, such as pubs and parking lots. Whenever an officer spots a citizen who looks a bit under the weather, he approaches and with customary British politeness invites the person to breathe into the detector. If it rings, the erstwhile driver is persuaded to go home in a cab.

The "nipper sniffer" met with objections at first—the citizenry rather turned up its nose at it—on the ground that it was an invasion of privacy, but British courts have upheld its use.

Pesticides Vital to Adequate Food Production

One of the critical controversies of our times revolves around the use of agricultural chemicals in the production of food and fiber. Naturalists and wildlife protection groups, unaware of what is at stake and concerned over what they consider to be the hazards of modern chemicals to human and animal life, have sought prohibition of the use of chemicals in agriculture.

Fortunately, such prohibition has not occurred. It would be nothing less than catastrophic to the human race.

At a recent meeting in Texas, Dr. N. C. Brady, Director of Science and Education, USDA, stated: "In our intensely developed man-made society, it would not take much to tip the scales from plenty to scarcity. Scarcity, after all, has been a normal condition of man throughout all history and it is even now the accepted way of life for the greater part of the world's three billion people."

It is sobering to note that even in the U.S., the land of plenty, there is now but a 90-day reserve food supply in warehouses and government surplus storage.

Thanks to pesticides, we no longer have to face the horror of disease that wiped out whole populations in past centuries—the plague, typhus, yellow fever, malaria, sleeping sickness and many others.

Were it not for pesticides, the commercial growing of many foods would cease, because insects and pests would make high-volume production impossible. Here, for example, according to the 1965 Michigan Agricultural Conference, is what would typically happen to retail prices if use of pesticides suddenly stopped:

- Sweet corn would jump from 20 cents to 52 cents a can;
- Milk would go from 27 cents to 34 cents a quart;
- Green beans would climb from 29 cents to 87 cents a can.

From this it is not hard to see why agricultural chemicals are perhaps our greatest allies in the struggle to produce an adequate food supply for an increasing population.

Without the family of chemicals, life would be short—but not very sweet.

3-Day Week at Auto Plants

DETROIT (AP) — Most auto production lines were scheduled for only three days operations this week as the industry drove towards a goal of an 8.5 million car output for calendar 1966.

Virtually all assembly lines were closed Monday because of Christmas and they will be down again Friday and Saturday due to the New Year's holidays.

American Motors announced earlier its assembly lines would be down for this week's three working days to get production in line with demand.

Final output for the year was expected to wind up about seven per cent short of the record 9,329,000 cars built in calendar 1965. It would mark the second best production year to date.

TOTAL OUTPUT

Total output for the final quarter was estimated at 2,431,000 cars, second highest in three months showing of the year. The high was the 2,493,822 cars built in the third quarter.

U.S. auto makers scheduled overtime operations at 12 of their 47 assembly plants last Friday and there were indications some use of overtime might be made next Friday as well.

Chrysler had its sights on a fast finish to wind up with 499,000 cars for the quarter, highest of any three months this year for the firm.

Leukemic Girl Will Get Trip to Disneyland

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Suzy Dewey's dream comes true today in California.

She'll go to Disneyland — special Christmas wish fulfilled. Suzy is dying of leukemia.

A Los Angeles woman, who asked to not be identified, financed the trip for Suzy, her parents and her sister.

HEADED WEST

They boarded a plane Monday and headed for the West Coast. Christmas Day brought dolls, bassinets, an electric organ and other gifts for Suzy from people who learned of her illness.

"She had a wonderful Christmas," said her mother. "There was a talking Porky Pig from Frank Sinatra."

There also was a wig Suzy wanted to cover the baldness resulting from the medicine she takes to fight the disease.

NEVER APPEARED

Earlier, a man had promised Suzy the trip to Disneyland, the fantasy world of cartoon characters and circus fun created by the late Walt Disney. But the man, whose offer was made by telephone, never appeared again.

Doctors say that 6-year-old Suzy may die within a year.

Suzy remains cheerful. "She's been playing with all of her toys," Mrs. Dewey said. "She doesn't know which is her favorite."

"And she's been looking at a picture book about Disneyland for the past week."

AT LOSS FOR WORDS — Even Bobby, the chattering macaw, seems to have nothing to say as he is shown with Karol Kelly at Kennedy International Airport on their arrival from St. Petersburg, Fla., for the International Pet and Animal Show in New York. The blonde, blue-eyed beauty with statistics of 36-22-36—if you care about figures—was selected from 200 models to become "Miss Sunken Gardens" at the show.

'Heartbreak Corner'

Not All the Gifts Arrived

DETROIT (AP) — A bottle of 59-cent wine, with a card: "Here you go, Charlie."

A 1902 edition of "Napoleon-der," translated from Russia with a note inside: "Gospodi who collects Nap stuff...it's rare and you should have it."

A punching bag: "To the Champ."

And above them a sign: "Heartbreak Corner."

WAYWARD DREAMS

The corner is in the Detroit Post Office and it is jammed today with wayward dreams, Christmas presents that didn't get there.

"Most of this comes from carelessness," said Supt. C. R. Slongo, who heads the claims and inquiry section of the Detroit office. "If only people would put an address slip inside their package as well as outside."

The packages lacked outside addresses, or the outside addresses came loose in transit and were lost, or the packages came unwrapped completely.

"Of course, some of the mistakes are ours," Slongo said. "But we do our best to prove we're not a bunch of heartless bureaucrats."

DETECTIVE DIVISION

He said the office puts 10 extra employees on duty for Christmas to help what he calls "the detective division."

They check labels, trade names, serial numbers, postmarks and anything else that might provide a clue as to where the package was intended, or to whom it should be returned.

Two employees man telephones daily to call people who know something about particular packages.

More often than not — about 60 per cent of the time — the unaddressed or misaddressed packages eventually are delivered or returned to the sender.

MISTAKES

Among those mistakes the office has made, Slongo said, was the delivery of a bundle of girls' magazines to a minister.

Among the mistakes of luckless Christmas givers — about 12 mail hampers of them a day during the Christmas mailing rush — were:

- A Jerusalem Bible with an ornate silver cover inlaid with turquoise.
- Half a $5 bill.
- A box of Mary Poppins bath powder.
- A Winnie the Pooh doll set.
- A vase from Bangkok.
- A carved ebony elephant from India, with ivory tusks.
- Nineteen drill bits.
- A jar of marmalade from Poland.
- Two toy electric motors from West Germany.
- A baby shoe.

"—we tried very hard to keep that corner clear," Slongo said.

Joyous Sounds on Film

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Looking ahead to Christmases in the future, amateur movie makers may be able to put the joyous sounds of the holiday season on movie film as easily and almost as inexpensively as we now record the sights.

The probability is triggered by an announcement by the Norton Company of Worcester, Mass.

They have developed a new method whereby sound can be added to a movie camera at a comparatively inexpensive cost for component parts.

In addition it is far smaller in bulk, less complicated and much more rugged in use.

It eliminates the presently required magnetic oxide coating or sound stripe on films which adds about 50 per cent to film cost.

NORMAL PROCESS

And in the Norton method, the exposed film, with sound track on it, can be processed normally and played back on any standard optical sound projector.

The sound-on-film achievement is made possible by Norton's development of the first practical process for making silicon carbide electroluminescent diodes.

Such a diode — smaller than a match head — records sound on film by changing it to light patterns without lenses, optics, sensitive, intricate or expensive equipment. It requires only a microphone and a solid state amplifier to do the job.

Norton officials estimate that the diode and component parts would cost a camera manufacturer about $25 when put into mass production.

BEAM OF LIGHT

The Norton device utilizes the established principle of converting electrical energy into a tiny beam of light.

Simply stated, this is what happens: sound waves enter a microphone and are transformed into electric signals.

These enter an amplifier and are magnified. They are then led to the Norton diode which transforms them into needle-thin flashes of light directly onto the film.

This is the sound track which becomes visible when the film is processed. The diode records sound at a frequency response up to 6000 cycles per second.

ON FEASIBILITY

More than 100 sound movies — all in 16mm — have been made by company researchers to prove the system's feasibility.

But due to production and licensing problems, a company official estimates it may take up to two years before the system is available for amateur movie makers.

"However, use in 16mm educational and industrial films might come more quickly," explained Robert A. Stauffer, vice president for research.

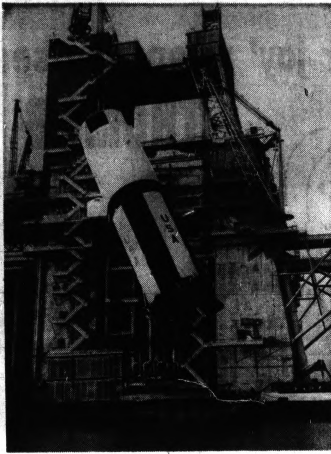

TOP PRODUCER

With a raw materials plant in Chippewa, Ontario, the Norton Company has become the leading producer of high purity silicon carbide crystals for electronics in cooperation with the Defense Research Board of Canada.

Silicon carbide has a diamond-hard surface and high temperature stability along with its ability to both generate and transmit visible light.

It took years of research to harness these advantages but the final breakthrough development of the electroluminescent diode took place at its Cambridge, Mass., research center.

Can't you picture it now? The Norton Christmas tree decorated with diodes and topped by an electroluminescent diode while the company photographer shoots diode-sound movies of the holiday celebration!

Drug Damage to Heart Muscles Feared

LONDON (UPI) — The human heart has many safety factors built into it by evolution.

It is a most remarkable and durable organ but in our time it finds itself, as never before, under what some scientists call "chronic bombardment from powerful drugs."

And the question a good many of these researchers like answered is: "What are these drugs doing to the heart's natural defenses?"

Some of the concern being felt by scientists was expressed recently by Prof. Eleanor Zaimis of the Royal Free Hospital School of Medicine.

"What worries me as a pharmacologist," she said, "is that we use hundreds of drugs without in most cases having the slightest idea of how they work, let alone how their side effects may be produced."

Too many doctors, she said, had come to rely on the use of these drugs with too little thought of possible consequences.

Prof. Zaimis said the heart beats an average of 70 times a minute for an average of 70 years — equal to an automobile travelling 1,500,000 miles without a breakdown or repairs.

There are many hazards along the way, aging, alcoholism, disease and other disturbances including the new drugs.

Prof. Zaimis said American researchers were considering that prolonged threatment with tranquilizers could lead to degeneration of heart muscle, a theory raised after the deaths of a number of patients in a United States mental hospital.

Costumes Near Completion

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor
There's a beehive of activity going on in the ether regions of the Meadow Brook Theatre at Oakland University.

Stage sets are being built to the sound of hammer and saw and in the next room, 112 costumes are being produced. The premiere performance of the John Fernald Company is only a week away.

The first play, "The Caucasian Chalk Circle," is a Russian period play. It called for a great deal of research on the part of Tom Aston, set and costume designer.

He not only did a lot of reading in libraries, but he consulted with Dr. Robert C. Howes, a specialist in Russian history, and Dr. John B. Cameron, assistant professor of art, both of Oakland University.

This first show is the most difficult of all to costume, Aston says.

Ross Young, head costumer, and his staff have the job of translating Aston's sketches into actual clothing.

All new material is run through the washing machine (there are two in the workroom, plus a dryer) for pre-conditioning. Most of the fabric is dyed to get the exact color Aston indicates in his sketches. Fabric is bought for texture.

Each actor's measurements are kept on file.

Having a resident company makes it easier for the costume department. The same people are there throughout the season and costumes can be reused.

Anne Saunders, assistant costumer, does most of the cutting on a waist-high table.

Two full-time paid seamstresses and a number of volunteers work at the four sewing machines.

Every so often someone who is cleaning out the attic has donated some old clothing or furs to the costume department. It is gratefully received and stored until a use is found for it.

This first show is, of course, the most confusing for everyone is new at his job.

As the season progresses, Young and Mrs. Saunders may become in turn, wig makers, shoemakers, jewelers and hat makers.

Commercial patterns are adapted for some costumes; for others, special patterns must be drafted.

On the first night, the costumers will be busy in the dressing rooms, seeing that all the costumes are right.

But after that, a wardrobe mistress will take over and the costume department will get on with clothes for the February production of "Love's Labour's Lost". This is set in Elizabethan England.

With fabric, a dye pot, needle and thread, the costumers help present the illusion onstage.

Tom Aston, set and costume designer of the Meadow Brook Theatre, examines a hat for one of the actors. Behind him are sketches made for the first play with swatches of fabric attached to each. Aston is now working on a souvenir program for the premiere performance Jan. 3. Those are fly blocks in all sizes in the foreground. Aston has been at Oakland University since 1964.

Young Man Wishes to Give Ring

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Dear Mrs. Post: I was engaged to a young woman about a year ago but the engagement was broken after a few weeks. I had given my fiancée a diamond ring which she returned to me.

Now I am planning to become engaged shortly to another girl, and the question has come up as to whether or not it would be proper for me to give this ring to my new fiancée. Your opinion will be appreciated. Dick

Dear Dick: I think it would be terribly bad luck, as well as in poor taste, to give her the identical ring. But I imagine the diamond could be reset and then it would be perfectly all right.

FAMILY FEUD!
Dear Mrs. Post: My mother is giving a party to announce my engagement and of course, my fiancée's family will be invited. However, his married sister and I had a run-in a while ago and she has not spoken to me since.

Under the circumstances, can we leave her off the guest list? I am undecided as to what to do and I hope you can help me. Louise Eric Berry decides the derby hat won't go with his rude peasant costume for "The Caucasian Chalk Circle." Anne Saunders, assistant costumer, checks the fit of a sleep. The chair Berry is standing on was made in the theatre workshop. It's a busy and interesting place.

Modeling the costume to be worn by Lorna Lewis as Grusha in "The Caucasian Chalk Circle" is Jill Tanner, an English actress in the John Fernald Company. She has the part of Aniko in the play. Admiring her in the background are (from left) Jerry Smith, an Oakland University sophomore who's working on sets and may be an extra in the play; Tom Towler of Rochester, master carpenter; and Fred Lodigiani from New York City, now technical director of the Meadow Brook Theatre.

Do You Really Want Abigail's Opinion?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a young mother who would rather go to work than stay home and take care of her four-year-old son?

ABBY

She doesn't have to work as her husband makes good money.

And do you think a husband who really loved his wife would let her go out to work? Your opinion of such people will be appreciated. Don't reveal the town this letter is from. And please sign it.

"A FRIEND"
DEAR "FRIEND": My opinion of "a friend" who appears to be inordinately concerned with somebody else's business is what comes to my mind at the moment. Would you like it?

"A FRIEND"
DEAR ABBY: A little over five months ago my wife passed away after 42 years of married life. It was a very happy marriage. I only mention this so you will know that what follows indicates no lack of love or respect for her.

Recently I have been seeing a neighbor. I have taken her out for dinner a few times. She is single, and I have known her for many years. She is 60 and I am 64, but we could both pass for much younger as we are young in heart and mind.

She has gone with me reluctantly because she is sensitive about what people might say. She thinks it is too soon for me to be taking anyone out.

To be honest, we are in love. Naturally, I wouldn't consider marriage until a full year has passed, but is there anything wrong with our seeing each other and making plans?

MR. X
DEAR MR. X: No. Providing you aren't silly about it and go out kicking up your heels in the bright lights.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN TROUBLE" IN EUGENE, ORE.: Tell your parents at once. They are your best friends in time of trouble. The alternatives you mention are foolish and extremely dangerous. I promise you your parents will be "on your side."

Bathe in Milk Just Use Glass

There's nothing new about a milk bath. History tells us Cleopatra bathed in it ages ago. Why not you? (Better start dating the milkman!) If a whole bath seems beyond your means, dip some cotton into half a glassful and wipe away the day's make-up... face and neck.

Blocks Assist in Child Study

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Black and white blocks may help a Pennsylvania State University investigator determine how children under four form concepts, and if they can be trained to develop them.

"Older children label objects verbally," explains Gloria Bernheim, research associate in educational psychology, who is conducting the study. "We want to train their younger brothers and sisters to use labels too."

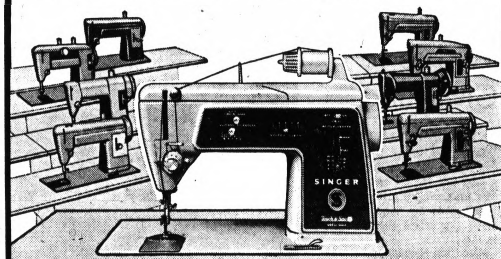

For the children in the test, the labels are the blocks. To show them the concept that black and white exist in a color relationship, one group of children is shown a white block and told to add another white one to it. A second group is asked to add a black block to the white.

Finally, a third group is given a white block and asked to match it with other color.

After the children in the third group have become used to selecting a black square, the rules of the game are changed to see if they actually understand the concept.

Duck Has Many Good Possibilities

Remember that wonderfully durable "hefty" fabric called duck? Most homemakers wouldn't know that it has been shades for schools, offices, apartments and hotels. Until recently it was not available for home use. Now the makers of Commander window shades have redesigned its colors and offer home decorators six high-style neutrals, from Snowcap White through warm beige tones to Midnite black in semi-opaque window shades, colorfast and with the assurance of vinyl protection from soil. Wanna buy a really sophisticated duck?

Save on Small Expenditures

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

It may pay you well to repeat after me: "In the new year, I promise to do the following, so that my income can best stand up to the inflationary prices it's going to encounter."

Comb the fine print in the Internal Revenue Service's income tax manual, so that I take all the small deductions I'm entitled to, and won't have to beat my head against the wall after it's too late.

Set up a small but regular reserve fund for appliance replacements, so I won't have to buy on the installment plan in an emergency and pay the kind of interest that hurts.

Pay myself first each payday — by making a regular deposit in my savings account that same day.

Take the time and trouble to be a comparison shopper — so that I'll know I'm getting the most for the money I spend.

FIX IT YOURSELF

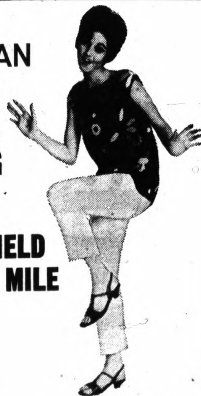

Dig out of the cookbooks and food pages of my newspaper at least six economy menus the family hasn't tried — so that I can combine imagination with thrift, and serve at least one of these economy meals a week.

Keep tabs on the "cream puff" spending each month—dining out, coffee breaks (that never stop with just coffee), unnecessary trips in the car, impromptu gifts, snack-shopping in the supermarket, toll calls on the phone. And weigh them according to their real worth.

Curb the tendency to "let George do it" where minor repairs are concerned. If glue, a screwdriver, a paint brush, or spot-remover can "mend" it, I'll do it myself.

Cut down on medical and drug

June vows are being planned by Carol June Tallon, daughter of Gordon R. Tallons of Third Avenue, and Roderick Emile Dufour, son of Mrs. Emile Dufour of Oneida Road and the late Mr. Dufour. Both attended Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C. and are juniors at Midwestern Baptist College.

Attitude Aids One to Old Age

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Certain social and psychological factors may help determine who lives to a ripe old age.

A survey of a rural Pennsylvania community by Joseph and Jean Britton, a husband and wife research team at Pennsylvania State University, indicates that women live longer than men because apparently the attitudes a woman holds, and general feelings of satisfaction and morale are more importantly related to her survival than the activities she carries out.

They also found that men who were better educated and men and women whose family wage-earner was in a higher status occupation tended to live longer than their fellows.

A rubber jar ring glued under each corner of your pantry board on the bottom side will keep it from sliding around as you roll out biscuits or cookies.

MRS. ROBERT T. MORIN

R. T. Morins Repeat Nuptials on Monday

Reception in the Italian-American Club followed the marriage of Judy Stevenson to Robert Theodore Morin, Monday, in St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Judy Stevenson, daughter of the John W. Stevensons of Hutchins Road and Robert Theodore Morin, son of Mrs. Leo Morin of Hickory Lane and the late Mr. Morin, were married Monday in St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Use a Tub or Shower, Just Wash

The tub versus shower controversy may rage on indefinitely. Adherents of each bath-type swear by their favorite method of keeping clean.

Tub enthusiasts claim that it is more relaxing to sink deep into warm soapsuds and just soak — while shower addicts insist it is impossible to beat the refreshment of a sudsing off under a tingly spray. It doesn't really matter that this argument may never be settled. Either tub or shower bathing is pleasant and efficient — just so you do it every day!

The John W. Stevensons of Hutchins Road, White Lake Township, Mrs. Leo Morin of Hickory Lane and the late Mr. Morin are parents of the newlyweds.

Lace applique accented the bride's white satin sheath gown and chapel train. A pearl and crystal tiara held her illusion veil. She carried gardenias and Stephanotis. With Mrs. Richard O'Brien of Gaines, her sister's honor attendant, were bridesmaids Mrs. Carl Pallas, Birmingham, Nancy Gilleran, Detroit, with junior maid Linda Hatherrill.

Susan Morin was flower girl, and David Stevenson, ring-bearer. David Morin stood as best man for his cousin. Seating guests were John Hatherill, Fred Pulum, Jess Herren and Bruce Smith.

After a northern ski trip the couple will reside in Pontiac. She is an alumna of Eastern Michigan University. Her husband attended General Motors Institute.

Let Kids See Your Limit of Power in Life

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: When my mother-in-law passed on three months ago, I did not fly with my husband to his home town for the funeral. I felt outtwo girls were too young to go with us, so I stayed at home to look after them.

They are aged 13 and 16 and I did not want them exposed to all the morbid details about their grandmother's illness and death that would be rehearsed by their aunts and uncles. My husband resents the position I took. I am sure you understand why I felt it was wrong to take the girls to this funeral...

ANSWER: Of course, I do. You're an American — one of the many Americans to whom death is something you pretend hasn't happened or is a little excursion into Hushabye-Land for a restful afternoon nap. And so I appreciate your desire to shield your children against the "morbid" reality.

However, I have little sympathy for it. It is educational experience for our older children to see us gripped and helpless at the death of a close family member. For children of the age of yours, the sight of our sorrowing helplessness suggests the limits of our power to make everything cozy and comfortable for people we love.

And the limit of that power is a very important thing for them to take in. While little children are entitled to regard us as gods gifted with unlimited powers to make them comfortable, it is dangerous for the adolescent child to endow us with this supernatural ability. We can certainly ease the hurts of cut knees, of stuffy winter colds and the upset stomach acquired by the small child's eating of too much candy.

The hurts resulting from the adolescent child's self-indulgence, we are less able to ease. A bandage, for example, doesn't staunch the bleeding from the wound of a teen-aged daughter's illegal pregnancy. Nor can croup kettles allay the pain of fractured bones.

For men: Do I continue the little attentions and courtesies? Am I stingy in money matters? Am I easy to live with?

For women: Do I make him feel important? Do I give him something fit to eat? Do I give him a little freedom, or do I become a ball and chain?

I think it's a mistake to shield older children against the "morbid" of family funerals. I think it's a mistake not only because later and inevitable contact with death can come as a deep shock to them but also because such overprotection does us a disservice.

It is educational experience for our older children to see us gripped and helpless at the death of a close family member. For children of the age of yours, the sight of our sorrowing helplessness suggests the limits of our power to make everything cozy and comfortable for people we love.

And the limit of that power is a very important thing for them to take in.

broken as a result of an adolescent son's drunken driving. Thus, to see us break down into the helplessness of sorrow over death of a parent is good for adolescent children to see. It tells them that we can no more jump them over the consequences of youthful folly than we could jump our dead parent over the consequences of age and illness.

Service Men Are Remembered

BALTIMORE, Md. — Mrs. Charles H. Clarke is 71 years old and troubled by arthritis. But she continues the job she started in World War II of soliciting gifts for sick and wounded servicemen in veterans hospital in this area.

"Mother" Clarke, a widow, became interested in the project while donating a pint of blood at Fort Howard nearly 25 years ago. She used to collect donations herself, but now mails out letters to businessmen and manufacturers who help support her project by donating articles to take to the boys in hospital wards.

Everyone agreed it was a crime when they heard Mrs. Gettold was throwing out her old furniture simply because it was dirty and dingy looking and suggested she buy some "Old Masters Liquid Wood" at Pot Lilly House of Color, 3139 West Huron St., Pontiac and with little effort made it look like new.

Why Grow Old?
by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Here come a few thoughts for the New Year.

"Nothing is easier than faultfinding; no talent, no self-denial, no brains are required to set up in the grumbling business."

—from Elbert Hubbard's Scrapbook.

Isn't that a wonderful name for that awful business? It doesn't take the least bit of talent. In fact it is a witless art! Faultfinders usually have few interests and a narrow viewpoint. They are sensitive, insecure, and have no tolerance or perception of others.

And what a blight they are on the lives of those who have to live with them! They take the joy out of many a day. However, they must be very unhappy persons, and they themselves take the biggest beating.

They damage the family relations which are essential to their own happiness, and they have few friends. If they have any friends at all, these are likely to be faultfinders too. They deserve each other.

STRONG HABIT

Faultfinding can be a very strong habit but I can't help thinking that many veteran faultfinders weren't that way originally or because of coming into the world under a faultfinding star. The habit may have started and become set during a time of fatigue or discouragement.

It is easy to allow such a habit to linger. If you are a faultfinder, watch it, because you are your own worst enemy.

Another gem: "It is not enough to be industrious; so are the ants. What are you industrious about?"

—Henry David Thoreau

Real Dollies
to Mothers

This season marked the eighth year that newborn infants at Pontiac General Hospital were presented to their mothers on Christmas morning in a large red Christmas stocking.

Even the "preemie" nursery celebrated the Yule season with miniature red stockings hung on each isolate.

Santa, of course, left his calling card in Pediatrics by hanging red stockings filled with presents, on the foot of each bed.

Philip Sauer, one of Santa's "best helpers" and members of the Women's Auxiliary are the ones to thank for these special services at the hospital during the holidays.

Gala for New Year

New Year's Eve will be celebrated with a dance and breakfast in the CAI Building beginning at 10 p.m. Don Pablo and his orchestra will provide the music.

Which Came First?

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. A. T. Dinwiddie's Sunday School class was discussing a Bible topic when she asked the class: "What must you do before you obtain forgiveness of sin?"

After a slight painful pause, one six-year-old volunteered an answer. He said: "Sin."

"Santa will be back for you, too." Precious bundles are delivered personally to new mothers at Pontiac General Hospital on Christmas morning by old St. Nick.

Polly's Pointers

Tapes on Sponge

DEAR POLLY — When my husband used a walker, his hands became very sore, so I were always pulling loose from it a nylon sponge in half and taped it to each side of the walker's handle with friction tape. This not only made it more comfortable but safer as his hands did not slip. Instead of a wire basket attached, such as Darrell suggested, I attached an old clothespin apron to hold his things. It seemed less cumbersome and just as effective.

This also ends the rooting to the bottom for something, as practically everything is in plain sight. — MRS. R.W.

God bless all who need this Pointer and God bless you, Polly, for all the help you give us. — MRS. F.S.

Thank you so much, Mrs. F. S. — POLLY

Bare Knees Indicate Nation's Economy

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The more barish women's knees, the more bullish the nation's economy.

Statistics back up one fashion manufacturer's theory that when business is bad and the national income is down, skirts also drop and waistlines tend to tighten. When business is good and the national income is up, skirts are short and waistlines not only are loose but often non-existent.

Working on this theory, the girl-watching economists see in the mini-skirt a maximum of prosperity — 1967 should be a good year. But watch two fashion trends, say the pessimists. Several leading designers have tightened the waist in spring collections. Tighter money. And some of the Paris and New York collections also showed long coats over short skirts. Lowering income too?

The H. W. Gossard Co., out with its 10th annual review of hemlines and their relation to national income, thinks optimistically. It reports estimated income for 1966 at $896 billion, an eight per cent gain over 1965, and says that the likes of Mrs. John F. Kennedy and other fashion leaders in keeping skirts above knees indicates the nation is pushing toward a $950 billion mark soon.

SCHOOL NEWS ROUNDUP

Marian

By PATRICIA POLMEAR

Seniors will transform the Marian High School lounge into a "winter wonderland" for their Christmas dance, "Jingle Bell Ball," tomorrow.

"I hope this dance will establish a tradition that will continue for years," said Barbara Benton, general chairman.

The Sounds of Steven McDaniels will provide music.

"We selected this band because of its magnificent performance at last year's Junior Prom," commented Sandra Jakke, chairman of arrangements.

Tinsel, jingling bells and candy cone decorations will complete the winter scene. In the courtyard, a huge lighted Christmas tree will be viewed through snow-covered windows.

Refreshments include holiday punch and Christmas cookies.

Committee chairmen are Barbara Benton and Sister Clara Frances, general plans; Sandy Jacks and Sister Veronika, arrangements; Susan Slavin and Sister Judine, invitations; Nancy Blakowski and Sister Mary Anne, decorations; Jeanne Rajewski and Sister Trinitia, refreshments; and Sharon Sobotka and Sister Clara Frances, clean-up.

Four Marian High School seniors defeated students of St. Mary's Academy of Monroe on the program, "Quiz 'em," Dec. 17, by a score of 870 to 640.

Amelia Janisz, Kathryn Kolas, Sharon Conners and Kathleen Anderson represented Marian. Junior Kathryn Hoener was the alternate, and Sister Veronika, I.E.M., chairman of the social studies department, coach.

READ PAPERS

Participants read the newspaper daily, Dec. 11 to 14.

The information was divided into four categories — local and state, national, international and sports. Each contestant was assigned to study in depth one aspect.

Brother Rice and Marian tutors played Santa Claus to over 30 children of Detroit's St. Rose last Saturday.

By JAMES PAKLEDINAZ

The spirit of Christmases past and present has a true hold on students of St. Lawrence High School as all thoughts turn to the biggest student event of the holiday season, the Christmas dance.

Sponsored by the senior class, the semiannual will be held tomorrow from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

Titled "Our Winter Love," the last social affair of the old year will be a fitting salute to the new year.

Live entertainment will be furnished by the "Latest Things," a home town band.

Much effort and work has gone into the preparation by dance, decoration and entertainment committees.

LATIN PROJECT

After the Christmas vacation, the Latin department will take the spotlight.

All Latin students have been urged to make a project for competition.

After winning in the individual classes, students will challenge winners from other classes, working their way through the school, the city and finally, if chosen, Detroit and Cobo Hall.

Cobo Hall will hold the statewide meeting of the Junior Classical League.

JUDGE PROJECTS

This meeting will be for members to discuss plans for the coming year and, of course, judge the projects.

Coinciding with Latin is the Science Fair, also at Cobo Hall.

Science students will make projects that best portray knowledge of the different sciences.

On Tuesday, they play Nativity away and, on Friday, they will play the Clippers of St. Gertrude.

The games begin at 7 p.m. both nights.

A French chapel under supervision of Madame Rosina

Roy, was presented. Sherri Lightstone, chairman of the planning committee, is being assisted by Karen Sedan, Kristine Johnson, Wendy Mitchell, Kathy Ploch, Martha McNaughton, Gaylinn Caldwell and the choir.

Santa Lucia Day was introduced to BCD in 1964 by Mal Britt Tharlin, our foreign exchange student from Sweden.

Known as the Festival of Lights, the celebration marks the return of more daylight hours to the dark Swedish winter.

IN TRADITION

Kathy Ploch was 'Santa Lucia,' wearing the traditional crown of seven lighted candles.

The girls in the procession were Jill Rose, Donna Magid, Gaylinn Caldwell, Wendy Mitchell, Susan Frank, May Ann Brickner and Kathy Claire.

Last week, Les Donnesues, a service organization, took gifts to children at Hawthorne Center.

Each child from the center makes a list of gifts. Using this as a guide, students purchase one present for every child.

PAINTED STONES

Dianne Brown has made gaily painted stones resembling lady bugs, flowers, and faces. One of these was included with each package.

Rochester

By KARIN HEADLEE

Snow and Mr. Holly are pass-words of the Rochester High School Ski Club, sponsored by Clifford Lilly and Carl Paschberg.

The club recently elected Gary Haffey, president; Jim Ball, vice president; Diane Cooper, treasurer; and Diane Stallard, secretary.

The annual Christmas assembly was held Friday. The music department presented a program of holiday favorites.

The treble choir, concert choir, varsity band and junior varsity band performed.

Soloists were Cheryl Smith singing "Have a Merry Christmas" and Nancy Capaldi singing "Virgin's Slumber Song."

ON PROGRAM

The Madrigal Singers and Triple Trio helped highlight the program.

Rochester's St. Paul Methodist Church youth group is sponsoring its annual New Year's Eve dinner dance. The event will last from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m. Music will be provided by The Psyche.

To obtain tickets, RHS students are asked to contact Mary Smith, Kay Reeves or John Bylen.

The Rochester High School Girls' Athletic Association will begin its basketball season Jan. 6, when it competes against Lake Orion.

Bloomfield Country Day

By KAREN SEDAN

Among traditions observed at Bloomfield Country Day School are special chapel services performed by students.

Susan Frank led a Chanukkah service assisted by Dana Carnick and Donna Magid.

Seaholm Homerooms Gave Yule Baskets

By HOLLY ALFS

For the last three weeks, students in Seaholm High School have been planning their individual homeroom Christmas baskets.

Each year, homerooms raise money and donate food and gifts for a needy family at Christmas time.

The Salvation Army selects the families and then the homerooms pick the family they want to give their basket too.

Most homerooms give more than one basket including turkeys, hams, various kinds of canned fruits and vegetables, staples, and extras.

If there is money left over after purchasing the food, the homerooms buy gifts for the members of the family.

This Christmas basket drive has been so well appreciated by the families that it has been continued annually at Seaholm.

The Girls' Athletic Association at Seaholm is planning a ski trip the weekend of Jan. 20. They will stay at Thunderbird Lodge in Baldwin and ski Saturday and Sunday at Caperbae.

Any member of GAA is invited to attend.

Next week the Seaholm Aquabellies, the waterballet club, will journey to Michigan State University for a synchronized swimming clinic.

They will be directed by members of the MSU water ballet organization who will teach them new stunts and help them develop better skills.

Other schools will also be sending girls to the Lansing clinic so they will get an additional opportunity to exchange ideas on stunts and costumes.

New Thespians Hosted

By Donna Furlong

The Christmas holidays are especially happy ones for 19 Waterford Kettering High School students.

Thespians recently hosted these students at an initiation cooperative dinner.

Membership in this honor group is attained through long and working in the Dramatics Club.

To be eligible, juniors must earn 20 points, sophomores 35. A play, "French Toast," was performed for the students and their parents by fellow Dramatics Club members.

NEW MEMBERS

New Thespians are Gary Biron, Roger Burries, Mark Campbell, Kathy Clarkson, Pat Davidson and Robby Dearth.

Also Cathy Eadis, Jane Eisele, Ed Gallaty, Carol Holmes, Ellen Kaul, Linda LeGault and Carol McInnes.

Completing the list are Dan Orders, Steve W. Peterson, Tom Reinhardt, Judy Thompson, Griff Verhey and Al Yates.

Tryouts for the third student play will be during the week of Jan. 3.

FACULTY PLAY

Faculty members will also try out for their production, "Wonderful Town," after vacation.

After the first home basketball game of the season against Oxford, a dance has been approved by Student Council.

There will be a small admission charge to the Jan. 6 dance and students with activity cards will be prorated.

Busy Week at Sacred Heart High

By MARY GRACE ALTAIO

Last week at Sacred Heart was spent packing Christmas baskets, delivering them to the poor in Detroit and preparing for the Christmas performance.

Nancy Huber, Anne Oskani and Mary Vison were in charge of this holiday project.

During school hours, high school girls, under the supervision of seniors, packed food and clothing which were delivered to the poor.

Wednesday evening, Sacred Heart held its annual Christmas program.

The program consisted of two tableaux, a number of songs by the Sacred Heart Glee Club, four selections by the Brother Rice Glee Club and two songs by both glee clubs.

FINAL RESULTS

Final results of the voting for members of the Student Council were as follows: blue ribbons to Denise King, Melinda Church, Phyllis Figiel, Nancy Huber, Mary Helen Lorenz, Mary Vison, Melanie Baer, Maureen Judge, and Susan Reck.

Awards were given to Barbara Healy and Christine Oldani.

Green ribbons in the senior school were awarded to Mari Fisher, Mary Mahmiester, Holace Gibbs, Christine Millon and Katherine Kane.

Christine Gerstanger, Joan Colombo and Linda Costello were also honored.

Yule Concert Is Presented at Utica High

By SUSAN OWEN

Utica High School's Christmas Concert was presented by the chorus, band and orchestra.

A vocal solo by Stanley Salter, band director, was highlight of the evening. For the grand finale, the entire chorus and band presented the Hallelujah Chorus.

"The Tree," this year's Christmas play, was produced by the drama club for the student body.

Students who performed were Jayne Bentzen, Diane Bristol, Linda Flitney, Colleen McNight, Thomas Miller, Clifford Rae and Gregory Zygiel.

Mark Craft directed the play. The play, selected by Gregory Zygiel, was written in 1934 by Ellen Lauren McMartin.

Christmas vacation started for UHS students Thursday, school to reopen next Tuesday.

She plans to attend Cambridge next year. The Howard Fitzgeralds are entertaining Doriel.

Doriel is the third exchange student at Kingswood this year. This is the first year Kingswood has had more than two students.

When Pub Closes, Watch Out!

By EDDY GILMORE
MANCHESTER, England
— "Just watch," said John Ridley, "and you'll see why it's called the coroner's half hour."

The time was 10:25 in the evening.

The place was a pleasant Manchester pub, one of more than 72,000 pubs in Britain.

"Time, gentlemen, please," sang out the pubkeeper. "If you please, gentlemen, time."

ANOTHER ROUND

Five men standing in a group in front of the bar ordered another round of drinks, and while the barman was making them, they gulped the contents of the glasses before them.

"Still time for another," sang out one of the five men. "The same as before, Bert, and this one's on me."

Behind the bar, bartender Bert handed out another round, and these five glasses of straight whisky — like those before them — were downed almost instantly.

Then, as the clock hands showed 10:30 p.m., the five men, and all the other customers, filed out into the night.

BRITISH LAW

By British law the pub had to close and they had to leave.

Separating outside the pub, the five men drove off in three different cars.

"The coroner's half hour," explained Ridley, "is the 30 minutes from the moment those men began downing their drinks, to the moment, God willing, they reach their homes." He looked grim.

"All over the country some men won't reach their homes," he said. "Some will be hauled from their wrecked cars and taken to hospitals, broken and bleeding."

MORE CUSTOMERS

"Others will end up on a cold slab down at the morgue. Customers for the coroner."

Ridley, who owns a hotel and a pub in two different parts of the country, is trying to get the law changed so those five men would not feel forced to drink two or three hurried rounds of drinks.

"If those men were allowed to take their time they probably would not have ordered those last two rounds of drinks. I think they would have quietly finished the drink that was before them when the pubman had to call time."

"The volume of going-home traffic would be spread over a greater period of time. This is the main point of our campaign. We want to eliminate that last wild 10 minutes or so of wild drinking."

"I'm sure it'll bring down the accident rate. Discuss this question with any policeman who knows anything about traffic and he'll tell you the coroner's half hour is the worst time of the day for the police."

An innkeeper, and one who likes to drink, Ridley added:

"Drunken driving is a terrible crime, and let me say this, I'm convinced the punishment isn't as tough as it should be. Eliminate the coroner's half hour and lighten up the punishment. That's what I say."

Ridley and his friends are trying to get one million signatures of British subjects on a

China Denies Selling Steel to U.S. for Use in Vietnam

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China today officially denied reports it had sold steel to the United States for military construction in Vietnam as "out-and-out lie and slander" instigated by the Soviet Union.

The denial was made by the official New China News Agency.

The London Observer earlier this month reported from Singapore that the United States purchased more than $1 million worth of steel — several thousand tons — through intermediaries in Hong Kong.

It said the United States was aware the steel was made in Red China and the Chinese knew the purpose intended for it — military construction in Vietnam.

Several U.S. officials have discounted the reports.

DISPATCH REPRINTED

A Chinese broadcast monitored here said the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reprinted the Observer dispatch on Dec. 20.

New China noted the Observer report and said it was "authorized to issue a statement on this matter."

"People with common sense can realize at a glance that this rumor is an out-and-out lie and slander spread with ulterior motives."

The broadcast stressed Communist China's "resolute opposition" to the United States and its "unreserved support" for North Vietnam and warned that "anyone who attempts to sow story," the Chinese said.

The accusation against the Soviet Union came in a separate New China report.

"The Soviet revisionist leading clique cynically fabricated and spread a shameless rumor about China having sold a large quantity of steel to the United States aggressor troops in Vietnam. Thus they are trying viciously to sling mud at the 700 million Chinese people, who are the most resolute in supporting the Vietnamese struggle . . .

"This is a ridiculous attempt . . . to cover up the Soviet revisionists' own dirty intrigues of collusion with U.S. imperialism to sell out the interests of the Vietnamese people," the Chinese said.

The broadcast went on to charge that the Soviets had, in effect, planted the Observer article.

"Noteworthy is the fact that in giving the source of this rumor, the article in the Observer stated that the disclosure of the story . . . closely followed accusations published in Izvestia last month about China 'trading steel' . . . on a grand scale" with the United States.

"This shows that the British Observer is only a small middle-man in peddling this rumor, while its true author is the Soviet revisionist leadership who ordered Izvestia to reprint the 'anyone who attempts to sow story,' the Chinese said.

Imitation of China

Cuba Has Its Own Red Guards

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Recently created shock troops described by exiles as similar to China's Red Guards are reported on the move in Cuba.

The units, officially called Youth Technical Brigades, reportedly have the dual role of serving as technicians in industries and on farms and making certain the workers are good producers and good Communists.

The official Havana newspaper Granma, which reaches some exiles, quoted Cuban Labor Confederation Secretary General Miguel Martin as describing the brigades as "describing shock troop against indolence, disorganization and lack of discipline."

Mario Fontela, secretary general of the Miami-based Democratic Revolutionary Labor Front, an anti-Castro labor organization, said brigade members wear blue shirts, work trousers and a holster with a revolver.

"Fidel (Castro) imitated the Chinese in forming the same type of groups as the Red Guards," Fontela said. "The functions are the same — overcome the rebellion of the workers."

Castro said in a speech monitored here Dec. 18 that young farm technicians receive military training. He told a graduate class in Havana: "This is a youth group that has received military instruction, that constitutes units for defense of the country." Castro did not mention the brigades by name.

A Havana radio broadcast monitored Nov. 14 quoted Martin as listing 761 brigades in the camps.

Cuba, with more being formed. The membership was placed at 8,103. Brigades were reported functioning at industrial, farm and other centers.

Fontela said: "Creation of these shock troops was due to Castro's failure to get workers to produce sufficiently. The militia failed in efforts to keep workers in line. The military draft failed in providing enough productive manpower. Labor courts where lazy workers were tried also failed."

SPECIAL CAMPS

The exile leader said that under Cuba's new setup, concentration camps called military units to aid production serve as a complement to the technical brigades. He said nonproductive and persons unenthusiastic about communism are sent to the camps.

'67 World Almanac Rolling Off Presses

NEW YORK (NEA) — The book that brings the day's million facts to your fingertips — the famed World Almanac — is blossoming on newsstands and book stores throughout the country as the presses begin turning out the new 1967 edition.

The 99-year-old annual one-volume reference book appears this year with new owners, The Newspaper Enterprise Association.

It also appears with a new, brighter cover, new four-color maps, and new facts and figures bringing the world briskly into 1967.

Newest and most exciting addition is the 16-page section of maps of the world in full color.

Key point is a double spread of Vietnam and its neighboring countries with scores of habitated points, major roads, air bases, railroads and waterways.

Other maps, all created by C. S. Hammond and Co., include the western hemisphere, North Central and South America, Europe, Asia, Africa, the Near and Middle East, the Orient, Canada and a map of the world.

Reflecting the great interest shown recently in the nation's highest military decoration, the Medal of Honor, The World Almanac this year for the first time gives a history and background story of the award, with a complete list of Medal of Honor winners from Vietnam, Korea, and both World Wars.

When the Pulitzer estate sold the World to Scripps-Howard Newspapers in 1931, The World Almanac passed to the management of the New York World-Telegram. Newspaper Enterprise Association acquired ownership of the prestigious book in mid-1966.

The World Almanac yearly brings its eager audience thousands of facts about everything from A to Z, from A.A.U. championships to zodiac, zoological parks and the Zuiders Zee. Schools and librarians rely on it. Copy editors, the men who check the facts for newspapers, find it indispensable.

From Paul Whiteman to the Tijuana Brass is The World Almanac term for a lively section on the recording business and sales, listing best-selling pop and classical records through the years.

Astronomically speaking, the exciting meteor shower of Nov. 17, 1966, is discussed in detail along with "heavenly doings" on tap for 1967.

The Montreal Fair, "Expo '67," has a place in the new edition, including information on exhibits, plans and even ticket prices.

For those who want to plan Archer, 15, Caught After Police Fight

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A 15-year-old boy was in custody today after barricading himself in his home and holding off police with a bow and arrow.

The boy, who had been in an argument with his mother, hit one officer in the chest with an arrow, but the policeman was not injured. The lad later was arrested without the aid of tear gas.

The boy's mother said that during the spat she gathered up the guns in the house before going next door to phone police, but forgot about the bow and arrows.

further in the future the popular perpetual calendar gives the day of the week for any known date to the year 2400.

Completely updated and revised Zip Code numbers for any incorporated or unincorporated place in the U.S. with a population of 2,500 or more will be a boon to anyone using the mails.

A detailed chronology of the events of 1966, space achievements, election reports and many more current news events and statistics are included in the bright new edition.

The lively 99-year-old publication first appeared as a booklet published by the old New York World, a collection of political and economic information. After seven years of publication it lay dormant until 1886 when the great journalist, Joseph Pulitzer, revised the book as a comprehensive record of American and foreign activities. It has been published annually ever since, growing as public interests widened and matured over the years but remaining as compact and incisive as ever.

The paperback edition at $1.65 has the latest distribution. A library cloth-covered edition priced at $2.75 is also published by the World Almanac for Doubleday and Company.

COLORFUL EDITION

"The 1967 World Almanac is the most complete, most colorful edition in the almost 100 years of its existence," says Boyd Lewis, president and editor of Newspaper Enterprise Association. "Its originators would scarcely recognize it in its bright new red-white-and-blue cover."

The World Almanac is written and edited in new quarters at 230 Park Avenue, New York quarters of its parent organization at 7 East 43rd Street.

Into the Park Avenue office are funnelled more than a million facts each year to be assembled, catalogued and indexed.

The present staff of the World Almanac headed by Luman H. Long is aided by hundreds of others: the people who keep the records of government, of scientific enterprises, of international affairs, of movements of ships, planes and stars, man-made satellites and spacecraft.

Long took over the book in 1965 at the retirement of Harry Hansen, famed World War I correspondent and literary critic. Long, a veteran New York newspaper editor, attended the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

Sato Dissolves Parliament, Sets Election

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato today called a parliamentary election Jan. 29 which his conservative party is expected to win despite charges of a "black mist" of corruption.

Sato's Liberal-Democratic party controlled 278 of the 467 seats in the House of Representatives dissolved by the prime minister, almost double the 141 held by the Socialists, the biggest opposition party.

The election will be Japan's first since World War II, the first since November 1963, and the first under Sato. Eligible voters will total 63.5 million.

Sato pledged to clean house after his administration was shaken by a series of scandals, including disclosures that most party members don't make complete tax returns, charges that members of his party were involved in questionable banana imports and illegal trading of government forests, and huge gifts to the party by a sugar refinery that received generous government loans.

REDUCED MARGIN.

The Liberal-Democratic party defeated Sato's president Dec. 1 by a reduced margin that also automatically ended the session of the 250-seat House of Councillors, parliament's upper chamber.

Besides the Socialists, other opposition seats in the House were held by Democratic-Socialists, 23, Communists, 4, and independents, 2. Nineteen seats are vacant.

on the first day of the regular parliamentary session.

Legislators shouted "Banzai!" as his notice of dissolution was read in the House. The dissolution also automatically ended the session of the 250-seat House of Councillors, parliament's upper chamber.

Besides the Socialists, other opposition seats in the House were held by Democratic-Socialists, 23, Communists, 4, and independents, 2. Nineteen seats are vacant.

Medicare Oath Ruling Is Saught

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) says it will ask the Supreme Court today to declare unconstitutional an anti-Communist loyalty oath in the Medicare law.

The ACLU said yesterday the oath affected all Medicare applicants for health insurance benefits who are not covered by the regular Social Security system, about 3.4 million elderly.

Desk Work Is on LBJ Agenda

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, making far less news in recent days than usual, is supposed to spend the day again working at his LBJ Ranch desk.

Press secretary George Christian did not say what matters are due for the President's prime attention.

Some speculate that Johnson may want to concentrate on economic, military, financial and political problems greater than he has faced in the past.

The size of the federal budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 and whether to recommend an income tax increase are decisions he must make by early in the new year.

Fore, 75, owned and published the Floresville Chronicle for many years and was voted "Mr. Texas Democrat, 1965," by the Texas House of Representatives.

Gov. and Mrs. John B. Connally were among other prominent Texans at the services.

Romney's Inaugural Will Be Different

LANSING (AP) — When Gov. George Romney is sworn in for his third term Jan. 2, the oath may be the same but the inaugural day ceremonies will bear little resemblance to those of some of his predecessors.

This year's swearing-in ceremonies have been switched from the Capitol steps to the Lansing Civic Center to avoid frigid, snowy conditions of 1965 and other years and to save money spent in building an outdoor platform and renting chairs and heaters.

The governor will hold a public reception in his office after being sworn in, and an inaugural reception and dance is scheduled for the Civic Center with the Glenn Miller Orchestra providing the music.

A special program arranged by Mrs. Romney will feature music by Mischa Mischakoff, concertmaster of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and John McCurdy of the New York Metropolitan Opera Company.

FEW RECORDS

Actually, few records exist recounting Michigan's early gubernatorial inaugurations.

The archivist at the State Historical Commission could not remember ever having seen any mention of the inauguration in the records.

However, the State Republican, an early-day weekly newspaper and forerunner of today's Lansing State Journal, kept a faithful record at least as far back as 1879.

In 1887, the State Republican had nothing to say about the inauguration of Gov. Henry H. Crapo, but noted on Jan. 2 that "the message of Gov. Crapo to the Legislature is of great length."

LONG SPEECHES

The 1879 inauguration of Gov. Charles M. Croswell was held in the house chamber of the newly completed Capitol and was devoted mostly to lengthy speeches by five former governors.

The Republican described the occasion:

"A beautiful winter day, hundreds of visitors from abroad and the interesting exercises in the new Capitol building were the greatest attraction on New Years Day."

"Long before the representative hall was opened to the public, hundreds of people were perambulating the new Capitol from basement to dome."

LADIES ATTEND

"The ladies were out in full force," the Republican noted, "nearly every member and state officer being accompanied by his or somebody's wife or daughter."

The newspaper said the Knights Templar Band provided music for the ceremonies, occupying the reporters gallery, "the members of the press having deserted that elated position in order to get nearer the people."

The governor held a reception in the Capitol that night, but the Republican noted that no refreshments were served.

Aaron T. Bliss was inaugurated Jan. 2, 1901, and the Republican, now grown into a daily newspaper, noted:

"The inauguration of Aaron T. Bliss as the first governor of Michigan of the 20th century failed to partake of the nature of international arbitration and peace on earth. Instead the insignia of war predominated and the military element of the Commonwealth of Michigan was everywhere in evidence."

ON THE GROUND

"The smooth politician and the legislator were on the ground, however, sedulously pushing their various boons for friends. Between the two factions the capital city was well-filled."

The Republican observed that the train bearing Mrs. Blair and friends from Saginaw arrived on time.

The swearing-in ceremony was held on the Capitol steps and "was a brief one" after which governor, escorts and ladies "hurried back into the warm corridors."

FORMAL RECEPTION

A short informal reception was held in the Capitol after the swearing-in ceremony and at least 4,000 persons including "swell ladies from all over the state" turned out for a formal reception that night at the Capitol.

"The Republican described it as 'the most successful governor's reception from a numerical standpoint that Lansing has seen in many years.'"

"The corridors were impassable at many points, where all sorts of conditions of men, women and children waited to enter the executive parlor and be-passed along the line of cordial state celebrities, whose smiles never wavered."

Gov. Bliss apparently was a man well experienced in the art of handshaking. The newspaper said, "He does not let you get an acrobat's clinch on him."

REGIMENTAL BAND

An orchestra composed of members of the 33rd Regimental Band of Bay City provided music outside the executive office and later in the Capitol rotunda while people danced in the corridors.

"Twenty-five Lansing young ladies formed a dancing party in the east corridor of the third floor where they entertained the Naval Reserve until 11," the Republican said.

This year's inaugural dance will wind up the festivities at 8 p.m.

The Indian Reorganization Act was passed on June 18, 1924, to provide a more enlightened policy toward the Indians.

'Big Drinkers' Mostly Male'

Study Shows Women Unlikely to Hit Bottle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "If you are a woman, chances are pretty slim that you'll ever become a 'booze hound.'"

Dr. Ira H. Cisin of George Washington University says that as women achieve "first class citizenship" with men, they take to drink, but in moderate quantities, statistically speaking.

Cisin reported his findings at a symposium on Recent Research in Alcoholism held in connection with the 133rd meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He said among the male boozers, 21 per cent are heavy drinkers, but among the fairer sex, only 5 per cent are in this category.

Cisin described heavy drinkers as tending to be the "doers" of the world, well-off and young men.

PROBLEM DRINKERS

It has been estimated that 4 or 5 million Americans are alcoholics, "problem drinkers" who are hurt by alcohol and cannot leave it alone.

In late 1964 and early 1965 the Social Research Group of George Washington University made a survey of U.S. drinking practices.

Analysis of the survey data has now disclosed, Cisin said, that the population (not counting Hawaii and Alaska) consists of these groups:

- Abstainers, 32 per cent. These include the "militant abstainers" (prohibitionists and the like) and "tolerant abstainers" who drink less than once a year if at all.

- Infrequent to moderate drinkers, 56 per cent, who tipple more than once a year but not often enough to be called heavy drinkers.

- Heavy drinkers, 12 per cent. These are not necessarily alcoholics, but they do include the problem drinkers. At a minimum they imbibe three or four times a week, with usually "three or more drinks per sitting," or else drink nearly every day with an occasional intake of five drinks or more.

The proportion of men drinkers in the population, Cisin said, has remained about constant in the past 20 years, but the proportion of women who hit it now and then has been steadily rising.

Why are women "entering the drinking population?" It is the result, Cisin suggested, of "a general revolution" that has been going on in society.

World Population, Hunger Reaching Critical Stage

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — More than half of the people on our planet are underfed or hungry because the world's food production is not keeping up with the birth of mouths to feed.

This is the grim conclusion of a recent study by the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization.

The net growth in world population was approximately 100,000 babies every 24 hours during the harvest year 1965-1966. This is equivalent to the inhabitants of a moderate-sized city.

Yet despite the fact that the world's population increased by 65 million, total food production was at a standstill.

It actually declined by 5 per cent in countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America where the population explosion presents the gravest problem.

SUPPLY DWINDLES

Even in the United States and Canada, the great surpluses of grain have been dangerously depleted.

Scientists warn that our crowded earth is facing disaster unless there is an effective global policy of population planning and control.

"The earth is limited, with a fixed amount of land and a limited supply of natural resources," said Sir Julian Huxley, Britain's noted biologist. "Science cannot find a way developing an undeveloped nation if it continues to produce more babies than it can feed." According to Dr. Paul Leyhausen of West Germany's Max Planck Institute, overcrowding is "just as great a danger" as the nuclear bomb.

In his view, the basic problem of the population explosion is not only that future generations will not have enough to eat.

He fears that their psychological and social health will be undermined by too many human beings crowded in huge blocks of houses where adequate space and privacy are impossible.

Experiments carried out by the Max Planck Institute have shown that rats and mice held in crowded conditions do not care properly for their young.

Scientists have found the damage to be true of human mothers forced to live in overcrowded communities where they often cannot maintain proper emotional bonds with their children.

This has contributed to an alarming increase in individual neuroses and social disorders. It may even lead to a breakdown in the democratic social structure.

In the natural state, animals respect the territory and autonomy of other animals of the same species.

But when artificially herded together, this social order breaks down into a "dictatorship" in which there emerges one strong and dominant animal.

The same applies to human beings, Dr. Leyhausen believes. Only a curb on human fertility will eliminate overcrowding and eventually solve the population crisis.

In a recent message to Congress, President Johnson also warned that "the task of bringing food production and population into balance is the most critical challenge many countries are facing today and in the immediate years ahead."

This does not mean, as Huxley said, that anyone should tell a woman how many children she should have.

"But the way to ease the population crisis is to make available all existing information on population control."

Trio Rescued From Mountain

ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP) — Three stranded Boulder, Colo., photographers were plucked from 14,555-foot Longs Peak, south of here, by a rescue party Monday just before a blizzard pounded the mountain.

The three — Gerald Brown, 17, John Squires, 19, and Bill Prather, 19 — spent a day and a night on the mountain in sub-zero cold.

CLIMB SCHEDULED They had traveled to the area Sunday in hopes of photographing two other men who were scheduled to climb the sheer 1,000-foot east face of Longs Peak. The climb was postponed because of poor weather.

Brown and Squires became separated from Prather as they came down from the peak, but were able to find their way to a ranger's cabin. They were hospitalized with severe frostbite.

Subtle Reminder LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Painted on the back of an ancient truck laboring through downtown traffic was this suggestion: "Don't hug me—I'm going steady."

To serve the public's health needs properly, the pharmacist must never stop learning. For example, he must learn all about the hundreds of new drugs that come out every year. He must learn what they're for . . . how they're used . . . how they're supposed to do safety and effectively. LBJ Version of Dallas Disputes Rumors

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Pres-his postassassination flight home offers sharp contrast with rumored descriptions of him as an inconsiderate boor in William Manchester's "The Death of a President."

Johnson's comments, in testimony for the Warren Commission on July 10, 1964, are his only known public remarks on the issue. Somehow, they have become obscured in a welter of rumor and speculation about Manchester's opus.

"We were ushered into the private quarters of the president's plane," Johnson told the Warren Commission. "It didn't seem right for John Kennedy not to be there. I told someone that we preferred for Mrs. Kennedy to use these quarters."

Those remarks hardly conform with reports that Manchester's book would portray the Kennedy party as having been shocked to find that Johnson had taken over his predecessor's airplane cabin and was giving short shrift to Kennedy's family and staff.

The Texas White House said yesterday that Johnson had refused to grant interviews to any publications about "the entire matter" of the Manchester book and had ordered his staff to remain silent, as well.

Johnson, according to a advance speculation about what Manchester was saying in his book and is a serialization by Look magazine, was inconsiderate toward Mrs. Kennedy, the Kennedy staff, and the slain president's brother, Robert F. Kennedy.

Johnson told the Warren Commission that Secret Service agents had taken him from the Parkland General Hospital in Dallas to Love Field, where the plane was waiting, and that the following ensued:

"When we got to the airport, we proceeded to drive to the ramp leading into the plane, and we entered the plane."

"We were ushered into the private quarters of the president's plane. It didn't seem right for John Kennedy not to be there. I told someone that we preferred for Mrs. Kennedy to use these quarters."

"Shortly after we boarded the plane, I called Robert Kennedy, the president's brother and the attorney general. I knew how grief-stricken he was, and wanted to say something that would comfort him."

"Despite his shock, he discussed the practical problems at hand — problems of special urgency because we did not at that time have any information as to the motivation of the assassination or its possible implications."

TALKED WITH AIDES

"The attorney general said he would like to look into the matter of whether the oath of office as president should be administered to me immediately or after we returned to Washington, and that he would call back."

Johnson said he thereafter talked with special assistants McGeorge Bundy and Walter Jenkins by telephone from the plane and both "urged that the return to Washington should not be delayed."

"I told them I was waiting for Mrs. Kennedy and for the president's body to be placed on the plane, and would not return prior to that time," Johnson told the Warren Commission.

He said his conversation with Bundy and Jenkins was interrupted to allow Robert Kennedy to come back on the line. Johnson related:

"He said that the oath should be administered to me immediately, before taking off for Washington . . ."

This is significant in that some of the advance rumors about the Manchester book have seemed critical of Johnson's decision to hold the plane in Dallas until after he took his oath of office as president.

Johnson recounted his arrangements for U.S. District Judge Sarah Hughes to come to the plane and give him the oath. He said that while this was going on, Mrs. Kennedy and the president's coffin arrived."

"Mrs. Johnson and I spoke to her," Johnson said. "We tried to comfort her, but our words seemed inadequate. She went into the private quarters of the plane . . ."

"About a half hour later, I asked someone to find out if Mrs. Kennedy would stand with us during the administration of the oath. Mrs. Johnson went back to be with her. Mrs. Kennedy came and stood with us during the moments that the oath was being administered."

Village Council Meets Tonight

ROCHESTER — The Village Council will meet at 7:30 to-night in a change of schedule due to the Christmas holiday.

On the agenda is a request for village water and sewer service for a gas station due to be built in North Hill Plaza outside the village limits.

No action is expected, according to Village Manager William Sinclair, since the township has refused to allow any construction for such services.

The township, in view of the coming Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor, has said it wants control of all utilities outside the village. The village at this point has refused to agree.

Pupils Help Charity

WALLED LAKE — Pupils at Clifford Smart Junior High School recently raised $120 to be donated to the Goodfellow's Drive to help needy families in the area.

FIGHT FIRE—This unoccupied house at 7002 Ormond, Springfield Township, was gutted in a fire yesterday reported to have started from a heating device being used to refinish the interior. Damage was estimated at $15,000. The Springfield Township Fire Department was assisted by Independence Township and Holly departments.

Lapeer City Tax to Begin Jan. 1

By JEAN SAILLE

LAPER — Residents and workers within the city limits are gearing themselves to a slightly reduced paycheck after the first of the year.

That's when Lapeer's new city income tax goes into effect. City residents will pay 1 per cent of their salaries and nonresidents who work inside the city a half per cent.

2 Presumed Dead in Lake Near Fenton

FENTON (UPI) — A father and his son were presumed drowned last night when their motor-driven ice sled hit a soft spot on the ice in Lake Pontchartrain and sank.

The younger man, Richard C. Elford, 28, managed to get his wife, Florence, out of the water and onto thicker ice.

He went back into the water to try to save his father, Wesley F. Elford, 50, but did not reappear.

Genesee County Sheriff's deputies said Mrs. Elford told them the sled hit a slushy spot and her husband tried to gun the engine.

Officials said they would send divers into the water, believed to be about 20 feet deep at the spot, today in an attempt to recover the bodies of the men.

LINDA HOWE

Holly Senior to Vie for Junior Miss Title

HOLLY — A senior at Holly High School is eagerly anticipating the Junior Miss Pageant in Pontiac on Jan. 27 and 28.

Linda Howe, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Howe, 1119 N. Saginaw, was recently chosen Holly-Davisburg Junior Miss in a contest sponsored by the Holly and Davisburg Jaycee Clubs.

First runner-up in the pageant was Cindy Caryl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Caryl, 208 Airport, and the second runner-up was Barbara Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Allen of Fenton.

News of the Area

Willingness to contribute on the part of city residents was signified in an advisory vote last April.

Computations show that the tax should produce about $10 per capita.

Based on the 1960 census figure of 6,160 population, the $10 a head would produce $10,800. However, Arnold Whitney, Lapeer city manager, expects that the population is now closer to 7,000.

MONEY COMING

The anticipated income tax revenue plus the $102,670.40 which 8 mills would produce on the 1965 assessed valuation of $12,833,800 would give the city $213,550.40, he figures.

The total is slightly less than last year's city income, but it is thought to be a more equitable tax.

The tax was instituted solely as a measure of reform, Whitney stresses, and not as any means of getting the city out of a financial bind.

"We've been in good shape," he said.

LOWER CEILING

With the approval of the new tax, Lapeer's debt ceiling has been lowered from 20 mills to 10 mills, Whitney said, and home owners can expect an assessment of only about 8 mills as opposed to last year's 14 mills.

The initiation of the new tax climaxes a year of giant steps forward on the part of Lapeer, according to Whitney.

Romeo Post Had a Little Yule Visitor

ROMEO — State Police here had unexpected company Christmas afternoon.

A motorist deposited blonde, brown-eyed 2½-year-old Joan Boughner at the station at 2:45 p.m. She had been found walking along Van Dyke in Romeo.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Boughner, 3240 Emmons, Rochester, had been playing outside at the home of friends in Romeo when she wandered off, according to police.

Joan told officers her first name, but was unable to remember her last name.

Police took her on a tour of the village to see if she could point out the house where she'd been visiting, but had no luck.

Her distraught father claimed her about an hour later at the post.

The National Guard is the oldest military force in the country, originating with the Old North Regiment of the Colonial Militia of Massachusetts in 1636.

30 Classes Offered for Adult Education

MILFORD—Thirty classes will be offered in the Huron Valley School District's first adult education program which starts Jan. 30.

Of the classes which will meet Monday through Thursday, five will be held at Muir Junior High School, 24 at Milford High School and one at Baker Elementary.

Schools Supt. Dr. Truman Owens points out that through the program, adults can refrain for new jobs, develop creative talents, reach educational objectives, act to keep democracy working, make the best of leisure time and follow other pursuits in school that will lead to better life.

Although the National Guard is commanded by state governors it is the primary reserve of United States Army and Air Force.

Whitney is proud of the fact that for the first time a citizens advisory group has been formed in Lapeer and that a community beautification program is coming up this next year.

The city in combination with the townships and villages of Lapeer County this year formed a Utilities Authority for the prime purpose of securing Detroit water and as a basis for future work.

A meeting has been called for 8 p.m. Jan. 18 at the Lapeer City Hall of all Lapeer County municipalities for the purpose of studying solid waste disposal, either by the establishment of land-fill dumps or other means.

Lapeer itself, according to Whitney, will initiate a program to separate all combination sewers into storms and sanitariums.

ANNEX ACRES

A move is currently under way to annex some 350 acres of Elba Township to Lapeer, and a movement is afoot to either update or build a new Lapeer County General Hospital.

The city was chosen this fall as the site of a new State Police Post and a year from now Whitney said the State Highway Department should be prepared to let bids for the widening of M24 through the city.

Whitney is proud of the fact that for the first time a citizens advisory group has been formed in Lapeer and that a community beautification program is coming up this next year.

AIN'T MISBEHAVIN'. The Story of Fats Waller. By Ed Kirkeby. Dodd, Mead, $5.

Fats Waller loved to play jazz on the piano, eat and drink. Making friends and writing tunes — including Aint' Misbehavin' — came easy to him. He was born in 1894 and lived 39 years.

After closing time, jazz musicians would go to "rent parties" in apartments and take turns playing all night. The host charged admission, the guests heard great jazz and the musicians frothed out their best for competition.

Fats' hero and guide was James J. Johnson. Much later, when Art Tatum came to New York from Toledo, he got into a competitive session, and as Kirkeby tells it, "beat the locals at their own game."

What did the defeated pianists do? "James, Art and Fats rolled out on the avenue, arms around one another's shoulders, looking for audiences. At every stop the delighted crowds applauded the new top pianist."

Mary Campbell

THE STATESMAN'S GAME. By James Aldridge. Doubleday, $4.95.

Rupert Royce is a member of a London family that has been running a worldwide shipping and shipbuilding business for nearly 250 years. But he has not been interested in the tough, ruthless warfare of big business.

Rupert returns from a trip to Russia, where some unusual things had happened to him. He had become a hero by rescuing a Russian flier, then had fallen in love with the flier's wife.

He had promised to serve as an agent for British Naval Intelligence, but then had balked at spying. And he had acquired some ideas about trade with the Russians, which made the intelligence people think he had been brainwashed.

The novel contains a remarkably convincing account of savage pressures, tricks and betrayals at the upper levels of big business.

Miles A. Smith

NORWOOD By Charles Portis. Simon & Schuster, $3.95.

Portis is a new writer who has discovered there is comic material in the odd mishaps of an utter nonentity.

His hero is Norwood Pratt, an ex-Marine who works in a service station down there in a corner of Texas, owns a cheap guitar and dreams of singing hillbilly songs on the radio. He is as corny as the songs he admires; he is so innocent of his innocence that he feels no lack in life.

This hero's odyssey begins after his sister Vernell has dragged a husband into their makeshift home — Bill Bird, a sort of professional pensioner with a crude talent for irritating poor Norwood.

This is low pressure humor, neither black nor bitter, but mildly tart. Portis has an excellent ear for the droning clichés of Southwest rural dialogue, a sardonic eye for the absurdities and contradictions of modern life, and an amusing taste for drill incidents.

PRIZED POSSESSION—James F. Byrnes, 87, and his wife of 60 years, Maude, display a simple bronze plaque on the desk of his office at home in Columbia, S.C. It is inscribed "To Mom and Pop Byrnes from your foundation children." fatherless boys and girls helped through college by the James F. Byrnes Foundation. During his long public career, he has been legislator, governor, secretary of state, Supreme Court justice and war mobilization director.

Dust Halo Surrounds Earth

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A cloud of dust particles surrounds earth, giving it a halo like one of the rings around Saturn.

It's apparently not a very dense or even ring, but might be visible from space, under some circumstances.

Astronomers weren't sure of its existence until 1961.

But what astronomers for the last five years thought was only two blobs of matter in the area of the moon's orbit around earth now appears to be a continuous, if mottled and uneven belt.

The halo of matter was detected by an expedition of the Polish

Astronomical Society under the direction of astronomer Dr. K. Kordylewski, Cracow, and his co-workers.

In 1961 Dr. Kordylewski had reported the discovery of two natural, cloud-like satellites circling earth in paths at the same distance as the moon.

Byrnes Aids Fatherless Teens

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — On the wall of the office den of a comfortable Southern colonial home in Columbia hang two striking symbols of a remarkable American's career.

One altstat that on Aug. 13, 1945, President Harry S. Truman directed that James Francis Byrnes be awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his work as director of war mobilization, a post in which President Franklin D. Roosevelt had tabbed Byrnes as his "assistant president."

Next to it is a simple bronze plaque inscribed: "To Mom and Pop Byrnes from your foundation children." It is engraved with the names of fatherless boys and girls whom Byrnes, never a rich man, has helped through college.

Now numbering 270 in all, most of the "Byrnes scholars" have received from the James F. Byrnes Foundation $500 a year for four-year college courses. But as the scholars agree, more important than the money have been the advice, admonitions on personal conduct and the love that go with it.

GIVES HELP — "You've got to give yourself," says James F. Byrnes. "You've got to take the place of the father these children have lost, as best you can. Money isn't enough."

At 87, Jimmy Byrnes is a 5-foot-7 package of wiry energy crowned with thinning white hair, twinkly greenish-gray eyes and expressively quizzical eyebrows.

Maude, his wife of 60, certainly doesn't allow for such luxuries as automobiles and hi-

The foundation came into being after Byrnes had resigned as secretary of state and had written a book about his experiences in high government offices. Royalties and newspaper syndication of his book, "Speaking Frankly," yielded Byrnes nearly $100,000. This was more money than he had ever seen at one time in his life. He decided to turn from services for which he had been paid by the government; it really didn't belong to him. He decided to put the money to work in helping orphaned boys and girls.

Screams Were Useless, Only Instinct Remained

Doesn't Believe in Killing, but When the Cong Came...

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
CU CHI, Vietnam — Like everybody else here, Leo Smith never wanted to come. Like everybody else he never wanted to fight a war. But he came. And he has fought.

It's all been improper for him, of course. A farm boy from Madisonville, Tenn., and a devoted Southern Baptist, the young man was always frightened by the idea of combat. It severely bent his convictions.

And in this land, where rice grows from paddies wet with blood, he became as confused and stunned as all men have under similar situations.

"It ain't right," he will tell you, "to kill people." Yet, sometimes, it is necessary to kill people... and, sometimes, Leo Smith, 19, a 25th Division machine gunner, kills as many as he can.

JUNGLE TANGLE
Take the other day as example. Smith's 26-man platoon was struggling through the tangle of nearby jungle. Dust clogged their eyes. Nettles sliced their skin. Sweat soaked their uniforms and flowed down their backs and legs.

At one moment, only heavy breathing was audible.

Then the shooting started. From the front a semicircle of automatic rifle fire exploded. It was so heavy that the forest jumped alive with bouncing vines and branches.

"We're hit! Christ!" "Down. Get down!"

The screams were useless. Clatter from the enemy guns, a steady, metallic drone, overwhelmed logic and only instinct remained.

MORE ARE HIT
Almost instantly, four men on the platoon's right flank were wounded. Survivors leaped for cover, or what they hoped would be, but in the first few minutes several more GIs were writhing with the pain of dime-sized holes in their arms and legs.

It was a half hour into the afternoon when the activity began. Within an hour the platoon's radio man was dead.

Gun Smoke, Fumes Upsetting to GIs

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Some of the Army's newer, more heavily armed helicopters have been found to be affecting their pilots' performance with all the gun smoke and missile fumes they produce.

Test pilots and crewmen who complained of nausea and dizziness during firing tests have prompted the Army and Air Force to run special analyses of fumes from 30-caliber, 7.62mm ammunition and 2.75-inch rocket motors.

The gases are being analyzed at the Army's Aeromedical Research Unit, Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Journalism Prize to Coed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Anne Groer, a University of Michigan student, tied for fourth in the monthly William Randolph Hearst Foundation's journalism award program, it was announced yesterday. Mel Zeigler, 21, Pennsylvania State University, was named this month's winner. Miss Groer won a $200 scholarship.

Increase Seen in Steel Runs

January Shipments Likely to Top '65

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Steel magazine says shipments during the month of January probably will exceed those in the same month last year by about 10 per cent.

Steel said users last year were trimming big inventories they had built for strike protection in 1965 and took only 6.6 million tons.

Consequently January shipments should be greater next month. There will be less inventory cutting.

Although the demand for most steel products presently is sluggish, the industry magazine reports railroad items, tin plate and semiprocessed steel are exceptions.

Steel makers have been building up inventories. Stocks were at the highest level at the end of October they have been since the Department of Commerce began keeping records in 1961.

INVENTORY RUN
The inventory ran 18.5 million tons.

Some attempts to trim inventories failed because some customers asked that December tonnage be held until January.

The magazine warned if the market weakens in the near future, overloaded mills may have to curtail ingot production. At present, ingot production is approaching a record 13 million tons. Holiday cutbacks were minor.

GOOD BALANCE
Most steel company analysts feel supplies are in good balance with consumption.

Tight money and year-end taxes have contributed to a substantial run-off since the fall.

The experts believe there is little reason to fear additional liquidation by auto makers and can companies. Business trends in other major steel-using industries will determine whether liquidation will continue.

same route and four more fell dead.

Smith shattered the enemy gun with fire and swung around to protect his other flank. There, to his left, he chopped up three men who were maneuvering behind the U.S. platoon.

OTHER DIRECTION

In another direction, four Communists tried to crawl into better firing positions... Smith filled them with a dozen punctures.

At the edge of a woodline, three enemy soldiers stood up and pointed in the platoon's direction... Smith crumpled them with a spray of bullets.

It went on like that but not long. Eventually it ended, as all horrors do. A rainstorm started; U.S. reinforcements helicoptered in, and the Communist guerrillas fled into the brush.

Finally, it was quiet and the survivors were able to survey the destruction. It didn't seem possible. Broken bodies, torn flesh, tortured and lifeless eyes. Not possible at all.

"How many did you get, Leo?" Leo Smith didn't answer. He put down his gun and turned away. "It ain't right," he will tell you, "to kill people."

So was the platoon sergeant. The platoon leader was torn with wounds and three of the outfit's four squad leaders were shot out of commission.

The unit fought back. Even some of the bleeding continued to pump M-16 shells and hand grenades into the VC lines. But it wasn't enough. The enemy had the advantage of numbers (five to one) and position (entrenched bunkers behind mud barriers).

CALL AIR STRIKE

Supporting air power was called for, but it was not available. The artillery people were radioed but they were engaged in other actions.

And there were other problems: "Ammo! Who's got ammo?" the men cried. "I need a medic!" "They're surrounding us!"

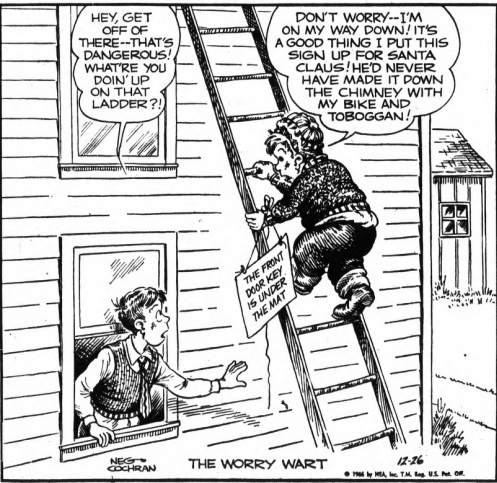

Through it all, Leo Smith watched and suffered with the rest. Then, fearing a complete Communist charge, he decided to suffer no more.

To his left, he spotted a Cong machine gunner. From his knees, his own weapon at his hip, Smith squeezed a burst which all but decapitated the man. Another VC ran to the vacated gun and Smith cut him down, also. Four more tried the

The olive shell mollusk actually resembles an olive.

Northwestern Upsets St. John's, 62-60

Holiday Basketball Festival Reaches Semifinals

NEW YORK (AP) — Northwestern is in the semifinals of the Holiday Festival basketball tournament because Dan Davis was in the right place at the right time. Providence is there because Jim Walker makes the right place and the right time.

Davis was under the basket with one second to play and converted a rebound into a three-point play that gave Northwestern a 62-60 upset over eighth-ranked St. John's, N.Y., Monday.

The Wildcats later learned they will play defending champion Providence in Wednesday night's semifinal. The Friars, with Walker dribbling, faking and shooting his way to 27 points, walloped Duquesne 82-55.

In the other games Rhode Island crushed St. Bonaventure 109-79 and St. Joseph's, Pa., upset Brigham Young 67-61.

Rhode Island and St. Joseph's will meet in the other semifinal contest while St. Bonaventure and Brigham Young play in today's consolation doubleheader. St. John's and Duquesne were paired in the other consolation game.

Walker put on a performance reminiscent of the 50-point show he gave last year in leading Providence to a 91-86 victory over Boston College in the title game and in winning the tournament's most valuable player award.

Against Duquesne, the 6-foot-3 senior scored the Friars' first nine points, 16 of the first 19 and 21 of the first 27. He added 16 more points to the shots from the 14,638 fans of "Walker, Walker, Walker."

What Walker does is dribble, dribble and dribble some more until the man guarding him makes a mistake. Then, even before the defender realizes what he's done wrong, Walker takes another dribble and is up in the air, firing the ball into the basket.

Against St. John's Northwestern's Davis had his best one second of this, his first varsity season.

FELL SHORT

St. John's led 60-59 with 23 seconds to go. The Wildcats had the ball, but no one could get clear for a shot. Finally, with four seconds left, Terry Gamber fired a desperation shot.

It fell short, but Davis leaped, grabbed it and put in a two-point. He was fouled and added the free throw.

Davis, who had entered the game for the first time only 3½ minutes before, explained how he happened to be in the right place.

"The odds are that when a man shoots from the right side the ball will come over to the left," he said. "I moved two steps to get there and jumped. I think it would have been entirely different if Sonny Dove had been there."

Dove, St. John's ace who is four inches taller than Davis, wasn't there because he was switched men when Redman Rudy Bogad fouled out nearly two minutes earlier.

"I had been guarding Davis," Dove said, "but we switched off. I was nowhere near the ball. I was on the other side of the court watching (Ron) Kozlicki."

Rhode Island's victory came a little easier. The Rams, led by Art Stephenson's 40 points, smashed the Festival record of 106 points in costing past St. Bonaventure.

Cliff Anderson led a scrappy

Brigham Young team. He scored 28 points, including a hook shot that snapped a 61-61 tie with 2:17 to play.

India Doubles Upsets Aussies

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The Indian pair of Ramathan Krishnan and Jaideep Mukerjee defeated Australians John Newcombe and Tony Roche 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4 Tuesday in one of the greatest upsets of Davis Cup challenges.

The victory means India's challenge for amateur tennis' most prized trophy remains alive into the third day, with Australia holding a 2-1 lead and two singles matches to go.

When Roche yielded the final point, the Indians, grinning broadly, put their arms about each other as they hurried to the net to shake hands with the shocked Australians.

The crowd of 10,000 stood and applauded the Indians as they left the court after a gallant fight which they won by brilliant tennis that nobody expected.

"I told you yesterday we had not lost hope," said a beaming Raj Kumar Khanna, captain of the Indian team. "Nobody thought our doubles team was able to defeat such a formidable combination as Newcombe and Roche."

"It was one of the best doubles matches I've seen. Although our boys lost the first set they were playing very well."

STILL HOPING

Commenting on Wednesday's singles matches in which Krishnan plays Roy Emerson and Mukerjee battles Fred Stolle, Khanna said:

"We are hoping and will do our best."

Harry Hopman, the Australian captain, said the singles "could be very interesting," adding:

"I think it was a very good doubles. These Indians played marvelously. Some of Krishnan's touch volleys were magnificent. They played much better than I expected."

Newcombe and Roche appeared as if they would wrap up the Cup for Australia for the third straight year in easy fashion.

"They won the first set and had the Indians down 0-40 in the second game of the second set. But the visitors battled back and held the service."

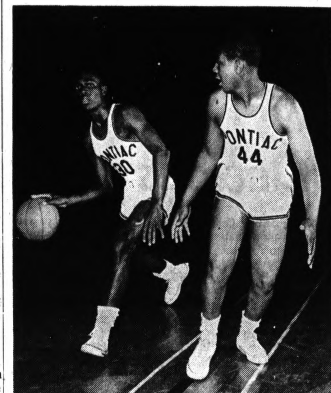

This seemed to give them confidence, and they proceeded to smash, volley and hit passing shots with precision and speed.

The dramatic Indian comeback had the crowd gripping their seats in excitement and yelling and cheering.

After tying the match at one set apiece, the Indians easily won the third set, never losing more than a single point in a game.

The fourth set was tied 2-2, but Mukerjee put his team ahead by smashing a game point between Newcombe and Roche.

The Australians had a chance to even the match in the eighth game, but they lost a 30-40 lead, then committed two errors and lost the game.

READY FOR PNH—Pontiac Central guards Ardel Shelton (44) and John Childs will be in action tonight when the Chiefs from West Huron visit the Huskies of Pontiac Northern in their annual holiday basketball contest. Both teams are 3-1 for the season.

Intra-City Tilt Lone Contest on Local Card

Northern, Chiefs Have Same Records to Date for Annual Meeting

Pontiac Central's Prentice Hill and Alton Wilson and Northern's tall front line probably will score most of the points tonight, but it will be the other players on the floor who could make the difference.

The 21st renewal of the city basketball rivalry will get under way on PNH's floor at 8 p.m. The junior varsity game, which could be just as interesting as the varsity clash, will start at 6:30.

Hill and Wilson have led Central for Central while Don Hayward, Dana Coln and Bob Traynor triggered the Huskies with strong rebounding and consistent point production.

When he's on target, Northern guard Jack Brown can wreck any opponent. In the first two games, Brown pumped in 27 and 21 points. Starting guards Jack Clancy and Craig Deaton both hit double figures in PNH's last outing.

Stan Allison, a 6-3 frontliner, joins Brown in giving the Huskies good bench strength. In addition to playing guard, Brown also can take over corner duties.

Junior guard Ardel Shelton is playing a stronger scoring role for Central. This helps take some of the pressure off Hill and Wilson.

Walter Causey has shown he can score in double figures and center Gordon Hamilton has a been over 10 points once as PCH compiled a 3-1 record. Northern has the same mark.

TWO WINS

Northern has defeated the Chiefs only twice since the season started during the 1958-59 season. The Huskies split with PCH during the 1962-63 regular campaign and then topped the Chiefs in the tournament.

PNH reached the quarter-finals that season, the longest tournament advance for any Northern quarter.

The highest margin chalked up by PCH in its 15 wins over Northern came in the first contest when the Chiefs won, 78-40. The highest winning total was recorded last season by Central when the Chiefs took the first meeting 82-57.

Northern's top point production against the Chiefs is 64 and that was posted in a losing cause.

Other basketball action this week will be a holiday tournament starting tomorrow night at Southfield. The area's college quintets are idle until January.

Confabs Slated for Volleyball

There will be large meetings for persons interested in volleyball and basketball recreation at 7 p.m. Thursday in the conference room at Troy's City Hall.

Those interested may attend by entering the door on the northeast side of the new municipal building.

Packer Drills Hampered

Tulsa Is Site for Workouts

Green Bay Prepares for NFL Title Game

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Green Bay Packer Coach Vince Lombardi could hardly be blamed if he declined the next time somebody suggests Tulsa's Skelly Stadium as a December training site.

It wasn't even certain the Packers would finish their final week of drills here for their Jan. 1 encounter with the Dallas Cowboys for the National Football League championship.

Lombardi was perturbed when the Packers arrived Monday to find Skelly Stadium's turf still covered with a thick layer of snow which fell last Thursday.

The Packers worked out in the snow and scheduled another drill for today after obtaining assurance the snow would be scraped off and the field covered.

HEAVY SNOW

Workers cleared the field and put down a plastic cover, but the weather bureau forecast heavy snow today, possibly extending into Wednesday.

Lombardi said the Packers would stay as planned if the field condition did not get worse.

"We can endure it as it is, but if it gets worse we might have to look for something else," he said.

Most embarrassed by the awkward chain of events was the Skelly Stadium Corp., which lures the Packers to Tulsa in hopes they would like conditions well enough to play an exhibition game next summer.

Besides encountering the snow, Green Bay became separated from its equipment, delaying the start of its first practice for more than an hour.

The equipment was left at the airport accidentally when the bus intended to haul the gear took off loaded with players. "This is one fouled up operation," Lombardi said.

Dallas QB Confident of Beating Packers

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "We have a very good chance of beating Green Bay and winning the National Football League championship," said Don Meredith Tuesday.

The Cowboys quarterback, who has become a Dallas institution—he has played football here for 11 years—wasn't speaking in a tone of braggadocio.

"There are a lot of reasons why Dallas can beat Green Bay," he said. "First we have a good team—good enough to win. Green Bay has the type team for us to play — they execute very well, rely on coordination, and we are the same. So it is a matter of execution and if we do it properly—which I believe we will—we will win."

It couldn't come sooner either, Meredith mused.

"I never have played on a championship team and I started in the sixth grade," he declared.

"Just think — 22 years of football. It ought to make me tired but I still have a lot of zest for it."

"Football gets better and better, even when I'm hit by Sam Huff (Huff knocked him out when he played against Washington two weeks ago). I love it and I want to win this championship."

Meredith said he guessed this was the biggest test he ever faced.

"The two weeks off has done me a world of good. I am at full strength and as are the other members of this team. We can win this game—and we are going to win it."

Detroit Golfer Award Winner

CHICAGO (AP) — Warren Pease Jr., of Detroit, 72-year-old former Chicago caddy, has been named winner of the Ben Hogan Trophy by vote of the Golf Writers Association of America for its comeback award of 1966.

Pease, once a scratch golfer, now has a handicap of 28 at Oakland Hills' course. He plays with artificial hips and hand crutches.

The University of Wisconsin graduate was stricken in 1941 while playing a match at Oakland Hills. Doctors diagnosed the attack as the result of a hip dislocation suffered when he was 10 years old.

Pease continued to play golf for 11 years. Ultimately, complications set in and months of surgery and hospital visits followed. But he never would give up golf.

DINNER SET

The trophy, donated by Robert A. Hudson of Portland, Ore., to the golfer who has made a notable comeback from a physical handicap, will be presented to Pease at the National Golf Awards dinner in New York Feb. 21. The award was named for Hogan who survived a near fatal auto-bus crash in 1949.

WARMER?—Head coach Joe Collier of the Buffalo Bills watches his team workout on the snow covered field at Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem, N.C. where the Bills went to practice for warmer conditions than in Buffalo. The Bills will meet the Kansas City Chiefs for the AFL championship New Year's Day.

SPORTS

AFL Teams Back at Work for Championship Game

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs ended a three-day holiday and began their final week of drills today for the American Football League championship game at Buffalo New Year's Day.

Snow was forecast, but Coach Hank Stram has said that unless the weather gets unreasonable the Chiefs will continue their practice in Kansas City.

The Bills left Buffalo for five days of practice in Winston-Salem, N.C., where the climate is warmer — but where snow still fell.

The Chiefs are looking for cold weather with possibly snow and a slippery field when the division titlists play for the league championship.

But Stram is undaunted by the weather predictions. "Contrary to what most football fans think," Stram said, "a slippery field favors the passing game."

"Look at it this way: The offensive players know where they are going, the defensive players have to react. It's tougher to get traction for the pass rush and the defensive backs have to be cautious because they are afraid they will slip."

GIVEN NO

The Chiefs, with the most potent offense in the AFL this season, will go into the game as slight favorites although they will have to contend with the heralded Buffalo defense.

Webb Ewbank, coach of the New York Jets, has said the Buffalo defense is equal to any in pro football. Ewbank should know. In the closing minutes of the Bills-Jets game, Buffalo's defense stopped the Jets twice inside the 1-yard line.

The Chiefs began their regular season last September by whacking the defending champion Bills 42-20. Then Buffalo came back to spoil Kansas City's home opener in October by beating the Chiefs 29-14.

Both teams now have pressure on them. Both are focusing on the AFL title game, each trying to forget the game after it — the Super Bowl in Los Angeles Jan. 15 that matches the AFL champion against the champion of the National Football League.

LA Classic Favors Two Home 5's

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Basketball Classic gets under way tonight for a four-night swing in which the host schools, UCLA and Southern California, are favored to meet in the finals.

The opening card at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion pitted suspension-wrecked Illinois against Arizona in the first game and Arkansas against Southern California in the second.

GIVEN NO

The Wednesday card has Michigan playing Georgia Tech and Wisconsin meeting UCLA. Illinois was hard hit with the loss of three players in last week's recruiting scandal. But the Illini came back to defeat California 97-84 Friday night.

Arizona has lost three of its last four games.

Southern Cal is favored over Arkansas, which has lost six of its first seven games.

RATED EVEN

Michigan boasts more height than an adept Georgia Tech team in what many regard as a toss-up contest while UCLA, winner of a 61-51 victory over a solid favorite over Wisconsin.

Badger standouts include Chuck Nagle, 6-foot-5 and Joe Franklin, 6-6, while 7-foot Eino Hendrickson, a sophomore, is rated a fine prospect.

Unbeaten UCLA, top rated team in the nation, has excellent strength behind 7-1 Alcindor, including Lynn Schakelford, 6-5; Neville Saner, 6-6, Mike Warren, 5-10, and Lucius Allen, 6-2.

Cotton Bowl Placements Loom Big

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — If Saturday's Cotton Bowl football game should go down to a matter of place-kicking — and with Georgia and Southern Methodist boasting defenses that could put a premium on field goals — there are a couple of guys who ought to meet the issue.

Bob Etter of Georgia has done more of it than his counterpart, Dennis Partee of Southern Methodist, but the results haven't been more successful.

Partee is the fellow who won two games with a total of 33 seconds to play. He kicked a field goal to pull Southern Methodist within two points of Texas, then booted a 32-yarder with 10 seconds left to win the game 13-12.

Partee's 10-yard field goal with 15 seconds remaining knocked down Baylor 24-22.

Etter kicked three field goals against Georgia Tech. His field goal tied the score and another won the game against Mississippi State.

OFF CENTER

His point after touchdown put Georgia ahead to stay against Auburn. He kicked two field goals against Miami and might have gotten another but for a bad center snap. Miami won the only game Georgia lost, 7-6.

Partee booted 21 of 23 extra points and landed on four of nine field goal attempts. He also punted 47 times for an average of 36 yards.

Etter sent 12 of 15 field goal tries through the crossbars and kicked 21 of 22 extra point attempts.

French Netter Upset Winner

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — U.S. hopes of winning the 18-and-under boys title in the Orange Bowl Junior Tennis Championships were jolted Monday when Steven Avoyer of San Diego, Calif., lost in round-of-16.

Avoyer, fourth-seeded was upset by Patrick Proisy, unseeded No. 2 French player, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

The remaining American in what began as a field of 122 from 33 countries is Zan Guerry of Lookout Mountain, Tenn. Guerry, seeded fifth, defeated Spain's Jose Guerrero.

In the boys 16-and-under division, top-seeded Fernando Gentil of Brazil led the way into the quarter-finals with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Steve Krulvitz of Baltimore, Md.

Peaches Bartkowicz, top-seeded and overwhelming favorite to win the girls 18-and-under title, defeated Judy Palmer of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-1, 6-0 in the quarter-finals. The Hamtramck, Mich., star has won the division crown three straight years.

Georgia Tech to Test Gator Duo

California Tracks Given Peace Offer

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Three years of labor peace was promised today to all California race tracks — unless trouble breaks out on some new front.

Santa Anita's big racing plant, which has learned to live dangerously, escaped its latest strike threat as a post-Christmas present Monday some 10 hours before post time for the first race.

Management representing the nine racing associations in California and representatives of the FL-CIO and Teamsters unions settled their long and bitter controversy.

Georgia Tech will find out Jan. 2 in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

While Spurrier was dominating the headlines with his heroics at quarterback, sophomore tailback Larry Smith was pounding his way almost unnoticed to the Southeastern Conference rushing title with 742 yards gained.

Spurrier and Smith were joined in the All-SEC backfield by Gator flankerback Richard Trapp, a slender junior who set conference records for passes caught (63) and yards gained on receptions (72).

Florida also placed guard Jim Benson and center Bill Carr on the All-Conference offensive team, to claim five of the 11 positions.

CAN BE STOPPED

Despite this awesome offense and a pretty good defense, it has been demonstrated that the Gators could be stopped by big, hard-nosed teams like Georgia and Miami.

Georgia defeated the Gators 27-10, and Miami manhandled them for nearly three periods to win 21-16 despite a late Florida surge.

The best way of stopping Spurrier from completing passes is to catch him before he throws the ball or to force him to throw before his receivers are open.

Even a hard rush isn't foolproof, however. Spurrier had his "worst" day of the year against Georgia — and even then he completed 16 of 29 passes for 133 yards.

The 203-pound senior quarterback from Johnson City, Tenn.

was the nation's most accurate passer this season, completing 179 of 291 passes for a 416 average. The completions were good for 2,012 yards and 16 touchdowns.

He gave up only eight interceptions, five of them coming in the Georgia and Miami Games.

Geoffrion on Scoring Spree

'Boom Boom' Booms in Comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — The hottest stick in the National Hockey League belongs to 35-year-old Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, who a year ago was coaching in the minors.

Geoffrion, who retired to coaching in 1964 after 14 seasons with Montreal, continued his amazing comeback with the just-as-amazing New York Rangers by scoring five goals in three games last week.

Official figures released today show Geoffrion tied with teammate Don Marshall and Detroit's Norm Ullman for sixth place in the NHL scoring race. The Boomer has 10 goals and 15 assists for 25 points.

Geoffrion's spurt moved him past Ted Lindsay into fourth place among all-time NHL scorers. He has 30 goals and trails only Detroit's Gordie Howe and former Montreal teammates Maurice Richard and Jean Beliveau in lifetime goals. Lindsay finished his career with 379.

TWO OTHERS
The first-place Rangers, enjoying their best season in 25 years, have two other players besides Geoffrion and Marshall among the leading scorers.

New York's Phil Goyette, with three goals and 27 assists for 30 points, is tied for second place with Montreal's Bobby Rousseau, 13 points back of Chicago's Stan Mikita, who shows a 14-29-43 log.

Don Gilbert, another Ranger, is fifth with 16-10-26, three points back of Chicago's Ken

PROPER BILLIARDS

by Jim Lidey

NO. 10—DON'T BE CARELESS

Never underestimate any shot on the table or in pocket billiards. Some of the easiest shots on the table are often missed because of the player's carelessness.

I have seen the world's best players miss easy, but vital shots because they didn't exercise the proper care in the execution.

The best attitude is to treat every shot as though it was difficult one.

You will find a reduction in the number of errors. In other words, the game should be played with confidence — not cockiness.

Ex-Wing Is Leader in CPHL Scoring

DETROIT (UPI) — Alex Faulkner, center for the Memphis Wings, pulled into first place in the Central Professional Hockey League scoring race with 41 points, according to CPHL statistics released today.

Faulkner, 30, played with the Detroit Red Wings in the 1962-63 and 1963-64 seasons. In 27 games this season, he has scored 15 goals and picked up 26 assists for his 41-point output.

Call for Stronger Faculty Control

CHICAGO (UPI) — The repercussions of Illinois' suspension of 12 athletes from competition for taking illegal aid spread today with a call for increased faculty control of Big Ten athletic programs.

It came from Prof. Samuel K. Gove, chairman of the University of Illinois' Faculty Senate Committee on athletics and recreation who said his and similar committee must take "a much more positive role to assure that we do have complete faculty control of athletics."

"Although the Big Ten Conference has determined that each institution shall determine its own constitution, full and complete faculty control," he said, "it is incumbent on each institution to examine its conscience in this regard."

Gove's committee, and ones like it at the other nine Big Ten schools, acts as a general policy-making agency in the athletic program.

The league was expected to begin ramping its investigative procedures into the schools' grant-in-aid programs for athletes this week.

Big Ten commissioner Bill Reed set the stage for a thorough examination of each school with a statement that Illinois' violations had underscored "The possible need for reintensified new directions of inquiry" by league investigators who failed to detect the Illinois irregularities since 1962.

Ex-Wing Is Leader in CPHL Scoring

DETROIT (UPI) — Alex Faulkner, center for the Memphis Wings, pulled into first place in the Central Professional Hockey League scoring race with 41 points, according to CPHL statistics released today.

Faulkner, 30, played with the Detroit Red Wings in the 1962-63 and 1963-64 seasons. In 27 games this season, he has scored 15 goals and picked up 26 assists for his 41-point output.

Fred (Buz) Borries earned nine N awards as a Navy athlete. He received three each for football, baseball and basketball.

Hallucinogen Cacti Stolen

By Science Service
WASHINGTON—Someone has been stealing mesquite-producing cactus plants from the Royal Botanical Gardens in London. To prevent their further theft, the plants have been moved to a restricted area of the gardens.

But Britishers with a penchant for taking LSD-type "trips" can always get the cactus variety from one of several London florist shops, which will order the plant and promise delivery within days.

Something of the kind can also be done in this country. The peyote cactus — from which mesquite comes — can be bought from Southwest cactus growers, ostensibly only for horticultural purposes; the Food and Drug Administration does not control its sale.

One reason is that peyote, used by Indians as a rite in the Native American Church, has never spread far. It has an obnoxious taste and produces nausea, unless the mesquite is abstracted.

Two New Playhouses for LA

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

LOS ANGELES—Is Los Angeles ready for living theater? The acid test begins next April, when two sparkling new playhouses will open for business.

The reputation of Los Angeles as a poor show town seemed to have been confirmed recently with the bankruptcy of one arena-type theater and the shutting down of another. But civic leaders hope to dispute that reputation with the completion of a $35-million "cultural complex" called the "Music Center."

First came the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion — named after the fund-raising member of the publishing family — which has offered symphonies, concerts and light opera to capacity audiences for two years.

The Mark Taper Forum, a jewel-like 750-seat theater with a stage that juts into the audience, opens April 9 as the home of the Center Theater Group, which formerly flourished under the auspices of UCLA.

ANOTHER SHOW

The Ahmanson Theater, also named after a benefactor, will offer "The Man of La Mancha" beginning April 12.

The hopes for the two new theaters were expressed at a news conference presided over by Lew Wasserman, movie bigwig who is board president of the Center Theater Group. He introduced the group's new director, Elliot Martin, 39-year-old producer of "Never too Late" and the current Broadway attraction, "Dinner at Eight."

"This is an historic event, the opening of two new theaters in one city within a week's time, both under the same management," said Martin. "I believe it is a major step forward in the American theater."

Why should he leave a successful Broadway career to bring theater to this Western outpost? "Because in New York the theater is confined by economics to playing to a certain audience with more or less formula material," the producer explained.

EXCITING PLAY

Many times, he added, he found a play of exciting content but couldn't cast it because name players would not sign for the run-of-the-play, which commitment was needed to pay off the investment.

"But Los Angeles offers the opportunity that exists nowhere else but in London," Martin said. "Here we find a vast pool of creative people in films and television. We can offer them the chance to act, direct and write for living theater without committing themselves to a year's contract. They can work in the theater and in films and television at the same time."

Gordon Davidson, 33, artistic director of the Mark Taper Forum, hopes to attract some star

Catheters Could Cause Calamity

By Science Service

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Polyethylene catheters can become detached and slip into a vein, causing severe injury or even death, a physicians warns in the December issue of GP magazine.

Physicians should make a loose knot in the exposed portion of the catheter to prevent slipping, Dr. Carl E. Northcutt of Stuttgart, Ark., says in a scientific publication of the American Academy of General Practice here.

Manufacturers could help lessen the threat of lost fragments of lengths of tubing if they would develop tubing more easily detected by X-ray.

Doctors now can inject a radiopaque dye into the vein to facilitate finding lost tubing, but this poses a dilemma because the dye might float the tubing farther along the vein and into the heart.

Major Snowstorm Lashes Southwest; Plains Next

By The Associated Press

The second major snowstorm in a week snarled traffic today in the Southwest and began a sweep into the Plains.

The Weather Bureau reported that up to two feet of snow fell in the southern Rockies. Gallup, in western New Mexico near the Arizona border, reported 12 inches at the airport, whipped into clouds and drifts by winds up to 35 miles an hour.

In northeastern New Mexico, U.S. 85 between Las Vegas and Raton was closed by heavy snowdrifts, as was U.S. 56 in that vicinity. Motorists were urged to keep off U.S. 66, the main Chicago-Los Angeles route, which was reported snow-packed from eastern Arizona to the New Mexico-Texas border.

The Weather Bureau issued heavy snow warnings, citing near-blizzard conditions today for an area from Colorado and New Mexico across northwest Texas, western and northern Oklahoma, Kansas and southern Nebraska to northwestern Missouri.

TRAFFIC AT STANDSTILL

Six to eight inches of snow fell between Dalhart, in the Texas Panhandle, and Clayton, N.M. Dalhart police reported traffic from the New Mexico side almost at a standstill. Visibility was very low due to driving snow. Roads and highways were icy. The rest of Texas was blanketed by rain, drizzle and fog.

The storm spread lighter snow as far north as Montana. Rain fell in the warm air east of the storm, from eastern Texas and eastern Oklahoma to Louisiana.

In the East, snow flurries persisted near the Great Lakes and in the northern Appalachians. Binghamton, N.Y., received an inch in the six hours before midnight, bringing the ground cover there to seven inches.

Subzero cold persisted in North Dakota and near the Canadian border of Minnesota. It was mild in the far South.

EARLY MORNING HOURS

Grand Forks, N.D., had -18, but Corpus Christi, Tex., and Key West, Fla., both had 65 degrees during the early morning hours.

The sudden storm development in the Southwest Monday night, hit northwestern New Mexico with 45 to 50-mile winds, causing minor damage.

Chill weather spread as far as the Northwest coast where the mercury dropped to the freezing mark, 32.

WATCHFUL EYE—Rinny, a German shepherd dog, continued to watch over 2-year-old Steven Smith yesterday after he rescued the youngster Sunday from a fire at the home of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Cincinnati. The parents and seven other children had escaped, but frightened Steven clung desperately to his dog until Rinny pulled him to safety. Cincinnati citizens replaced the Christmas presents destroyed in the fire.

GI Use on Docks Angers Viets

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. troops today began unloading vital military goods from American ships in the strikebound port of Saigon. Vietnamese labor leaders called the soldiers "strikebreakers" and threatened a nationwide strike.

The striking Vietnamese dockworkers were angered when about 600 American soldiers in two shifts arrived to remove cargo from 10 U.S. ships which have been idled in port since the start of the walkout yesterday.

It was because U.S. troops were being used at a nearby docking area that the 5,000 stevedores in Saigon went on strike.

Nguyen Hoang Tan, secretary general for the Port Workers Union, said, "There is only one reason" for sending in another group of American troops — "that is, to smash the strike."

He urged dockworkers at five other South Vietnamese seaports to "prepare for a nationwide strike."

Military police closely guarded the soldiers who arrived at the Saigon docks today.

Goon squads have been patrolling the waterfront armed with knives and clubs to help keep the strike in force.

Rumors that two American soldiers had been beaten by the "enforcers" proved unfounded.

'Navy Ships Undermanned'

Writer Says Viet War Has Drained Fleet

NICHOLAS DANDOLOS

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Vietnam war, says a military writer, has led to the stripping of some Navy ships to the point where it would be impossible — if a crisis developed suddenly — to man them quickly with a wartime complement.

The Navy's personnel shortage is most acute in the Atlantic Fleet's antisubmarine forces, says Jack Kestner of the Norfolk Ledger-Star.

In an article Monday, he pointed out there are three personnel levels aboard fighting ships — their complement, or the number with which they go to war; their allowance, the normal peacetime allotment; and their manning level, the minimum required to keep them operational.

"Many ships of the Atlantic Fleet, particularly those in the antisubmarine-warfare force, are now operating at this minimum," Kestner wrote.

AWARE OF THIS

The Atlantic Fleet's antisubmarine warfare commander, Vice Adm. Charles E. Weakly, is "well aware of this, but decisions that have resulted in his force's current status were made at a much higher level," the writer said.

But he said Weakly told a reporter last week the force is in "very good shape" when viewed within the framework of restrictions of hardware and personnel.

The Navy in Washington declined comment.

Gaming King to Be Buried in Las Vegas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nicholas Andrea (Nick the Greek) Dandolo, king of the high-rolling gamblers, will be buried in the city where he did most of his gambling — Las Vegas, Nev.

A spokesman for Edward Bros. Colonial Mortuary said Dandolo will be buried Thursday at Las Vegas' Woodlawn Cemetery.

DEVELOPS COMPLICATIONS

He died Sunday at Mt. Sinai Hospital, after developing complications from a heart attack suffered earlier this month. His age was listed as 85.

A trisagion, a requiem service of the Eastern Church, is to be recited this evening and funeral services are scheduled for Thursday afternoon at St. John's Baptist Greek Orthodox church in Las Vegas.

He is survived by a sister, Maria Daniolou of Greece.

Study of PKU Raises Doubts

By Science Service

WASHINGTON—Laws in 36 states have been rushed through for the testing of babies for phenylketonuria, an inherited metabolic disease that has been associated with mental defects; they may be a mistake.

Dr. Samuel Bassman, a University of Maryland scientist who has been doing research on PKU for nearly 20 years, has now come to the conclusion that not all individuals who have the untreated chemical syndrome are or will become mentally retarded.

He agrees that there is extensive evidence that the disease is inherited through a defective gene that controls the enzyme phenylalanine hydroxylase. He also believes that the lack of this enzyme results in accumulation of certain amino acids in the blood.

But he is not convinced that mental retardation in PKU patients is prevented by lowering high blood levels of phenylalanine through diets deficient in this amino acid, beginning at birth or early infancy.

Patrolman's Shot Is Fatal to Man

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Gus Klon of Bedford Township died Monday of a bullet wound suffered in a scuffle with Bedford Township Patrolman Richard Paschal night.

Paschal, 36, was suspended after the shooting pending further investigation. He answered a family trouble call at the Klon home and reported that Klon attacked him with a jack-hammer.

Eddie Continuously in Stew Over Connie's Show Debut

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Eddie Fisher looked very skinny bellying up to the bar at Billy Reed's Coney Island Pub. "I lost 10 pounds," he said. "I had a baby."

"Oh!" I said. Things like that happen in our Great Society.

He continually hugged his blonde little sweetheart Connie Stevens, the one-time "Cricket" of TV, now fat and beautifully grown. He'd been so anxious about her debut in "The Star-Spangled Girl," it was like having a baby. "After seeing what she's gone through in a B-way show, I don't want to do one," Eddie shuddered.

They were all huddled around phones and even doubling up in phone booths waiting for reviews of the Neil Simon show, one of the most hilarious evenings to be found in New York. Eddie and Connie are here together over the holidays.

In Hollywood they're known as a "durable duo"—"an old married couple"—being gone together over two months.

So Barbara Harris gets the Cue Magazine Entertainer of the year Award... but what about Lindsay? ... Sandler & Young got TWO standing ovations when they returned to the Plaza Persian Room. One when they finished, one after they did their encore. A Plaza source said it was the greatest Plaza opening in 30 years.

Anybody find a contact lens out in the street intersection of 3rd and D'way? My lens popped out of my eye during the rush hour. By the time I spotted it on the pavement, half of it was gone. So come on already, bring it in, what can you do with half of my contact lens? (By the way, that one I lost in St. Louis, I didn't find yet!)

THE MIDLIGHT EARL... Gina Lialbergh's escort at the Barbary Rm. was agent Danny Welles... Vanessa Redgrave missed the "Blowing" premiere because Warner Bros. (for whom she's making "Camelot") insisted on a $100,000 insurance policy for the five days.

David Bailey, husband of Catherine Deneuve, will photograph Shirley MacLaine for mag covers. (She's doing "Woman Times 7"... Joe Namath made the scene at the Scene, where The Rascals opened... A film actor moved out of his house just ahead of his wife's lawyers with orders to evict him.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Al Guttie doesn't understand all the fuss over new cars: "After all, they're just four wheels, a chassis, a motor and a bank loan."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "It's probably true that hard work never killed anybody," sighed a lounge, "...but why take a chance on anything a trend?"

Stalled Plane Lands on Street in Florida

MIAMI — Lady Luck must have been Ronald Albrecht's pilot when he aimed his stalled light plane between the street lights and snapped a powerline to break his speed and land safely.

Albrecht and three passengers in the plane, on route from Miami to nearby Fort Lauderdale, were only shaken up. Police called the landing "miraculous."

Albrecht told authorities shortly after takeoff around midnight Sunday the plane's engine suddenly stopped and he saw 64th Avenue below and glided to it.

He said the powerline, instead of flipping the plane, arrested its speed and eased the landing. The craft struck a parked car and truck but little damage resulted.

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Actor Robert Vaughn, "The Man From U.N.C.L.E.," received a tumultuous welcome when he flew in last night from Sydney for a two-day visit.

Vaughn, known as "Napoleon Solo" in the spy thriller series, is on a tour of Southeast Asian cities.

About 1,500 fans thronged the International Airport to acclaim their welcome to the visiting actor.

Short Prayer on Miniskirts

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Moroccan schoolchildren are being asked to pray for the salvation of women who wear miniskirts.

The skirts, said Morocco's 37-year-old King Hassan, offend the "principles of decency and virtue."

The Moroccan news agency reported today that the monarch denounced the wearing of miniskirts in a religious meeting last night.

It said Hassan "expressed his disapproval of incorrect dress on the streets — especially that of mothers and young girls wearing miniskirts."

The king was reported to have said that "The woman who offends the principles of decency and virtue not only commits a crime against her children and family, but against God."

Hassan announced that obligatory prayers would be in all Moroccan schools to request forgiveness for "the scorn shown by the younger generation for Islamic principles."

Lynda Bird, George Arrive at Acapulco

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson and George Hamilton arrived Monday night to visit Marie Oberon and her husband, millionaire Bruno Paglia.

The President's daughter and the actor came by private jet and were driven at once to the Paglia's palatial home overlooking Acapulco Bay.

There was no indication how long Mrs. Johnson would stay but it was assumed she would be here through New Year's Eve.

ALBRECHT told authorities shortly after takeoff around midnight Sunday the plane's engine suddenly stopped and he saw 64th Avenue below and glided to it.

He said the powerline, instead of flipping the plane, arrested its speed and eased the landing. The craft struck a parked car and truck but little damage resulted.

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Actor Robert Vaughn, "The Man From U.N.C.L.E.," received a tumultuous welcome when he flew in last night from Sydney for a two-day visit.

Vaughn, known as "Napoleon Solo" in the spy thriller series, is on a tour of Southeast Asian cities.

Key Democrats Opposed to LBJ

NEW YORK (AP)—Nearly half of a group of key Democratic leaders either believe their party would be better off with a candidate other than President Johnson in 1968 or are unwilling at present to endorse his renomination, the New York Times said today.

The story from Washington added, however, that few among the 125 leading Democrats in 30 states interviewed by the Times "were rash enough to predict Mr. Johnson would be challenged for the presidential nomination or would lose it if he should be challenged."

The story also said in part:

Those questioned included state officials, Democratic state chairmen, members of the Democratic National Committee and candidates for major office in the last election, both successful and unsuccessful.

In the interest of candid answers, they were promised anonymity. Of the group, 43 per cent either said they would prefer a new presidential nominee in 1968 or dodged the issue, usually on the ground that it was too early to tell what might be desirable then.

Illness May Delay JFK Book Hearings

NEW YORK (AP)—The dispute over "The Death of a President" goes into a judge's chambers today with Mrs. John F. Kennedy's attorney favoring a postponement of hearings on her move to block publication of the book.

Author William Manchester, hospitalized with pneumonia, and Harper & Row, publishers of his 300,000 word manuscript on the assassination of the president, have been ordered to show cause in State Supreme Court why they should not be barred from bringing out the account.

Lawyers for the two sides were to discuss the situation informally in Justice Saul Streit's chambers.

"I have no grave objections to putting the matter over as long as necessary," said Simon H. Rifkind, attorney for Mrs. Kennedy. "I'll make that very clear. Counsel for Mr. Manchester needs the views of his client and that's not possible now."

Streit, who issued the show cause order Dec. 16, suggested previously he would agree to postpone the hearings if negotiations on removing disputed passages from the text were not completed by today.

Edward S. Greenbaum, attorney for the publishers, declined comment on any postponement request.

Negotiations on trimming passages that Mrs. Kennedy considers intimate beyond the interest of history continued yesterday.

More talks — a Kennedy spokesman said they "are going along well" — were scheduled for today.

Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce said today that area merchants have set Jan. 4 as the gift exchange deadline. Wrong sizes, colors and shapes may be exchanged.

Specially ordered or made-to-order merchandise is not returnable. Nor are items bought "as is" or "all sales final" basis.

Stores reserve the right to refuse merchandise which is soiled, worn, used or altered from the condition in which bought, Chamber officials said.

City Says Fiscal Crisis Deepening

By L. GARY THORNE

Pontiac's fiscal crisis has just taken a turn for the worse, according to city officials.

At least in the strict terms of a balance sheet, city officials feel the $500,000-plus wage adjustment made for 620 municipal employees has heightened the fiscal crisis.

The new wages negotiated with four employe groups are figured in 1967 to consume all the actual cash in the city's general fund surplus.

Thus, if the city's income stays the same next year and does not increase by the necessary half - million dollars, cutbacks in services and personnel would be needed for 1968 to balance that year's budget.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren already laid the proposed 1967 budget as deficit financing

News Analysis

since the surplus — built up over a three-year period — will likely have to be spent to balance the budget.

Actually, the city can only guess what its income will be for next year. The final tax base will not be set until late May.

Asked his view of the city's fiscal situation, Warren said, "The crisis is here. It's a very precarious perch. It's far more acute now than it was a year ago."

While the city's financial health is not good, based on the projections for the coming year, help in the shape of a ballot proposition may be on the way.

The recently appointed Pontiac Finance Study Committee is to investigate and recommend to the City Commission both a short-term and a long-range so-

Christmas Toll on Highways Is Far Below '65

Chain of 9 Successive Records on Holidays Broken This Weekend

By The Associated Press
Traffic accident deaths during the nation's Christmas holiday weekend fell sharply lower than last year's yuletide record and broke a chain of nine successive holiday records.

The toll was 561 as the 78-hour period ended at midnight.

Last year, the three-day Christmas weekend brought 720 traffic deaths.

The count for the weekend just ended, is subject to upward revision from delayed reports of fatalities, but it was clearly under the 650 to 750 deaths estimated by the National Safety Council before the holiday.

A safety council spokesman said a weekend snowstorm which covered a broad swath of the nation from Oklahoma to New England kept perhaps a million motorists at home, cutting travel and accidents.

Nevertheless, fatalities far outstripped those of a nonholiday period of similar length.

The Associated Press surveyed traffic accident deaths from 6 p.m. (local time), Friday, Dec. 9, to midnight Monday, Dec. 12. The count of deaths then was 581.

The safety council issued an estimate for next weekend's three-day New Year observance when, it said, accidents probably would kill 10 to 90 more persons than on a nonholiday winter weekend.

The New Year traffic toll estimate by the council was 460 to 540 for the period from 6 p.m. (local time) Friday, Dec. 30 to midnight Monday, Jan. 2.

CHAIN BROKEN
The relatively low count for the holiday just ended broke the chain of holiday records.

Each holiday death toll since that of Memorial Day 1965 has set a record.

Thanksgiving weekend, a four-day, or 102-hour period, brought 748 traffic deaths, a record for any holiday.

Earlier holiday tolls this year, all for three-day periods, were New Year 546, Memorial Day 542, July 4, 576, and Labor Day 636.

NEW JUDGES—Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken (right) this morning swore in Oakland County's four new judges in a ceremony that drew a capacity crowd to the supervisors auditorium. The judges, elected Nov. 8, are (from left) Probate Court Judge Eugene A. Moore and Circuit Court Judges Farrell E. Roberts, Robert L. Templein and William R. Beasley. Law partners of the three new Circuit judges presented them with their judicial robes, and Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore presented the robe to his son, Eugene A.

'Great Society' Review Asked

Include Old Disputed Laws, Mansfield Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leader Mike Mansfield set wheels in motion today for a suggested "major reexamination" by the Senate of "Great Society" programs and older controversial laws such as the draft, income tax and foreign aid.

Mansfield issued his recommendations for a "thorough-going, second look" at major programs from Medicare and civil rights to farm subsidies in a letter to the Senate's 17 committee chairmen.

Such studies, the Montanan said, could find rough edges, overextensions and gaps in newer programs and update and check equity of administration handling of older laws such as Selective Service.

Mansfield said his recommendations were not in response to Democratic election losses or complaints by Democratic governors about administration of some programs.

He noted that he had been saying for more than a year that it was time for Congress to "Stop, look and listen."

Nor, he said, were Vietnam war costs the reason for Congress to pause and reexamine.

"With or without Vietnam, in my judgment, the Senate of the United States, through its committees, would have a responsibility for beginning the kind of top-to-bottom oversight which is suggested herein," he said.

Girl Scout Program in Financial Straits

On the eve of its disassociation with the Pontiac Area United Fund, the Northern Oakland County Girl Scout Council revealed it is in financial straits and facing curtailment of its program.

Council President Mrs. Elwyn Tripp says the separate November fund drive which the Girl Scouts staged outside of the United Fund drive brought in $12,000, at a cost of $8,000.

The Girl Scouts leave the United Fund organization as of Dec. 31, after a lengthy dispute over UF supervision and requested compliance with a UF study on agencies and their needs and organization.

Some $70,000 is needed to sustain the Girl Scout Council activities in the coming year, according to Mrs. Tripp. She blamed the United Fund for the poor result of the separate Girl Scout fund drive.

Bruce Annett, president of the Pontiac Area UF, denies the UF interfered with the Scout fund drive. He added that the UF "has an open door policy" but that organizations joining "will have to conform with the same rules and regulations as the other 54 agencies."

According to a United Fund position paper put out earlier this year, the Girl Scout council refused to give complete budgeting information to the UF at the time needed, and had not observed UF rules in employment policies, budgeting of expenditures, and other essential administrative practices.

NO RECOGNITION
Mrs. Tripp says the "UF regulations allow no recognition of the rights of Girl Scouting, and the policies which govern us."

When the Girl Scout Council refused to participate in the UF study, representatives said the financial cost was too great, and that certain questions were against Girl Scout policy.

UF officials said the other 54 agencies faced the same problems, but were able to comply.

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTHEAST ASIA — (SPECIAL) — Today, with apologies to Walter Lippman and other pundits, I feel like doing a little commentary on the scene here as I have been privileged to see it — a view of the Vietnam war from the wings, so to speak . . .

This desire of mine was prompted by a chance remark from Reita Faria — "Miss World" — the other night on the plane back from Cam Ranh. Reita, a college graduate, and an extremely perceptive young lady, was obviously moved when she said, "I think it's wonderful that the Americans are doing all this for another country."

I hastened to set her straight, and answered: "Reita, we're not doing this for Vietnam, or Thailand, or even the U.S.A., but we are doing it for the free world . . ."

What I meant to tell her was that no man and no country in this 20th-Century world of ours can be an island, and when the "heavies" start trying to take over someone else's back yard, and the little guys yell for help — there's no way but for the guy with the muscle to give that help.

Editorial writers call it "responsibility," and churchmen call it "concern and commitment to decency and freedom."

I think that Reita got the idea the next day when she watched Anita Bryant sing "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and move more than 5,000 battle-hardened veterans to tears.

Anita was crying, too. That was all the explanation our "Miss World" needed.

I've heard the same thing from Cardinal Spellman, Billy Graham, Martha Raye, John Wayne, Charlton Heston, and countless others . . . they've talked to the guys and shared their rations . . . they've seen them in rice paddies in the jungles and in the hospitals, and they've seen the dedication in their faces . . .

They have the certain knowledge that our men know why they're over here in Southeast Asia, even if a few malcontents at Berkeley and in other parts of the states do not know . . . although the dates and the battle fields change, from two Jimas, to Gettysburg, from Chateau Thierry to Danang — the issue remains the same: the pursuit of freedom . . . it's like the ring on the merry-go-round — you may not easily catch it, but you will never stop reaching for it . . .

Yanks Restore Lines, Kill 43 Red Attackers

Saigon Assemblyman, 5 Others Wounded as Explosion Throws Car

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—North Vietnamese infantrymen overran positions of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division today and inflicted heavy casualties on the helicopter-borne flying horsemen, U.S. military headquarters reported.

The headquarters said the North Vietnamese 66th Division, penetrated several artillery positions of the elite cavalry division and blew up guns with satchel charges and grenades before the Americans pushed them back and restored their defense lines.

The furious engagement near the central coastal city of Bong Son, 300 miles northeast of Saigon, broke off this morning. The cavalrymen reported 43 North Vietnamese killed.

The action was the major combat on a day which also brought an assassination attempt against a leading South Vietnamese politician in Saigon and three raids by B52 heavy bombers against Communist positions in South Vietnam.

Phan Quang Dan, 48, a liberal politician and a member of the Constituent Assembly drafting a new constitution, was combat on a day which also wounded slightly today when an explosion threw his car up on the curb as he was driving home.

He told newsmen he did not know when the blast was caused by a device attached to his car or whether something was thrown from the roadside. Five Vietnamese bystanders also were wounded, two seriously.

N. Viet Civilian Areas Torn by U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — U. S. bombing raids along rail and highway supply routes near Hanoi have killed civilians and severely damaged residential areas, Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, has reported from Hanoi.

Some villages and hamlets have been "almost obliterated" by the American attacks "but the effect on transportation has been minimal," Salisbury said in a dispatch in the Times today.

In another dispatch, Salisbury said he visited Nam Dinh, 50 miles southeast of the North Vietnamese capital, on Christmas Day and found black after black of "utter desolation." He said 89 people have been killed and 405 wounded by raids there.

He also reported that raids Oct. 1, 2 and 9 killed 40 persons and destroyed every house and building in Phu Ly, a town of 10,000 about 35 miles south of Hanoi. Nearly all the population had been evacuated.

He reported earlier that his personal inspection indicates U.S. bombing has been causing "considerable civilian casualties in Hanoi and its environs for some time past."

The Defense Department in Washington, asked for comment on Salisbury's reports, acknowledged that civilian areas have been damaged by U.S. bombing of North Vietnam but said "all possible care is taken to avoid civilian casualties."

Reiterating that U.S. policy is to strike at "North Vietnamese military targets only," a Pentagon statement said: "It is impossible to avoid all damage to civilian areas." Officials said both Nam Dinh and Phu Ly were "loaded" with anti-aircraft batteries and missile-firing positions.

Commission to Consider Safer School Crossing

BIRMINGHAM — The City Commission tonight will be asked to consider a safer school crossing at Pembroke School, Etan and Derby.

Members of the Pembroke Manor Association are asking that the sidewalk on the east side of Etan and on the south-east corner of Etan and Derby be extended to the curb.

They are also requesting that a uniformed crossing guard be located at Etan and Derby until corrections are made.

The association points out in a letter to the commission that a "high percentage of automobiles are not coming to a complete stop at the intersection."

A survey conducted by the city shows that the peak period for conflict between student pedestrians and vehicular traffic occurs between 7:30 and 8:45 a.m.

DIDN'T STOP — During a period from 11:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m., the study shows that of 109 cars at the four-way "stop" intersection, the wheels of 75 cars did not stop moving, 32 stopped beyond the stop sign and two did not stop at all.

The survey also showed that the majority of students were practicing safe walking and bicycling habits.

Also at tonight's meeting City Engineer William E. Killen was scheduled to report on a request of residents on Yosemite that the Detroit Edison Co. postpone proposed construction until after the holidays.

The company plans to install an underground conduit.

Fires Kill 57 Over Yule Weekend

By the Associated Press

At least 36 children and 21 adults died and many other persons were left homeless in fires during the Christmas holiday weekend.

The heaviest toll in one fire may have occurred in Northern California where seven are believed to have died near Williams. Blazes in Alaska and Maryland each claimed six lives.

The wife and five children of Maurice Stewart perished in a blaze at their home in Olivett, Md. The children were Violet, 3, Maurice, 3, Darlene, 2, Bruce, 1, and Linda, 7 months.

At Anchorage, Alaska, Alma Shull, 28, and her four children, died in a fire at their home. The children were Adrianna, 9, Roland, 8, Logan, 7, and Sard, 5. An unidentified serviceman also was killed in the blaze.

Ike to Leave Hospital Today

Stay Was Extended Until After Christmas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is scheduled to leave the hospital this afternoon following his Dec. 12 gallbladder operation.

There has been no report from Walter Reed Army Hospital on his condition since Thursday, when he was said to be recuperating rapidly.

Eisenhower, 76, had hoped to leave before Christmas but last week doctors said he would be kept a few more days "for further adjustment of medications and observation."

He plans to go to Palm Desert, Calif., early in January from his Gettysburg, Pa., home.

8 More Flee British Prison

LONDON (AP) — Eight more convicts have escaped from British prisons, bringing the total for the Christmas weekend to 23. Only four have been recaptured.

Nearly 1,000 police with tracker dogs searched the bleak moorland for five convicts who overpowered two guards Monday at Dartmoor Prison and scaled the 30-foot wall.

The escapees wore only prison shirts, trousers and sneakers on a night of bitter wind and rain.

Three other convicts slipped away from Leyhill Open Prison late Monday night and vanished into the rainy, misty countryside.

Peking Leader Is Denounced

President Liu Draws Wrath of Red Guard

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist Chinese President Liu Shao-chi was denounced today as "China's Khrushchev" at a mass rally by 100,000 Red Guards in Peking, according to Japanese news reports. Chinese Communist party Secretary General Teng Hsiao-ping was also condemned.

Speaker after speaker criticized both men for pursuing a "bourgeois reactionary line" in the rally at the Peking Worker's Sport Stadium, the Japanese Broadcasting Co. (NHK) reported.

"If we don't pull these two men down now, revisionism and capitalism will take over China," one speaker said.

One of the reasons relations between China and the Soviet Union are so poor is because the Chinese consider Khrushchev and the men who succeeded him, guilty of revising the basic tenets of communism—an unforgivable crime by Chinese standards.

Liu, once considered a possible successor to Mao Tse-tung, has been identified by observers as one of the leaders of the anti-Mao forces in the bitter struggle for power now sweeping China.

He was reportedly condemned at a meeting of the Communist Chinese Central Committee in August when Defense Minister Lin Biao was named successor to Mao.

Sewer Bond Proposal to Be Presented

A proposal for seeking state approval for a $1.8-million revenue bond issue to finance two trunk sewer projects is slated to be presented to the city commission tonight.

This is the third time the bond issue has been scheduled for commission consideration. Previously, the necessary paperwork had not been complete.

In other business, the commission will receive formal notice of the County Board of Supervisors action on the transfer of the city-owned airport for two downtown properties.

Also, the commission is scheduled to receive an administrative report and take formal action on agreements with four municipal employee groups.

An agreement with the Michigan State Highway Department for reconstruction of the Montclair-Oakland intersection is also to be presented tonight. The agreement, when signed, would commit the city to one-way traffic movements on Oakland and Cass.

Son Survives Heroic Deed

HOLLAND (UPI) — George Banks was very happy to learn yesterday that his son had been recommended for the Congressional Medal of Honor for heroism in Vietnam.

But he was even happier to learn that Army Capt. Charlie Banks would be alive to receive an award.

"Most of the time, they hang it on someone else," George Banks said.

Dead is Mrs. Roy Jones, 33, of 363 Irwin. Police said she was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital Sunday night after being shot once in the chest with a 22-caliber rifle.

The victim's husband, Roy, 34, told police he was cleaning the rifle in the living room of the couple's home when it accidentally discharged.

Jones was scheduled to make a formal statement to investigators today.

300 Rebels Said Slain in Angola Raid

TEIXEIRA DE SOUSA, Angola (AP) — More than 300 of a 500-man rebel force were killed Christmas Day when they crossed from the Congo — Kinshasa — and attacked this town on Angola's eastern border, Portuguese military authorities said today.

Portugal closed the Angola-Congo border this month after rebels killed 25 soldiers in an ambush near the frontier.

Authorities said five settlers and a police officer were killed in the Christmas attack during which the rebels sacked several houses and assaulted an army barracks. The rebels were said to have used rifles, swords and bows and arrows.

This town of fewer than 1,000 persons is a main stop on the British-owned Benguela railway over which the Congo exports more than 70 per cent of its copper ore. Portuguese authorities have threatened to halt the ore movement in reprisal for raids by rebels who hit and run back across the border.

County Is Free of Road Deaths During Weekend

"Vigilance and common sense" were cited by Sheriff Frank W. Irons today as major factors in an apparently death-free holiday weekend on Oakland County highways.

State Police, sheriff's deputies and local departments recorded no fatalities in a period beginning at 4 p.m. Friday and ending at midnight last night.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the scenes of only six injury accidents in the 84-hour period, with none of the mishaps described as serious.

The Oakland County figure contrasts with the highway toll throughout the rest of the state, where 28 deaths have been reported.

Gunshot Death of City Woman Ruled Accident

The gunshot death Christmas night of a Pontiac woman has tentatively been ruled accidental pending further investigation by city police.

Dead is Mrs. Roy Jones, 33, of 363 Irwin. Police said she was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital Sunday night after being shot once in the chest with a 22-caliber rifle.

The victim's husband, Roy, 34, told police he was cleaning the rifle in the living room of the couple's home when it accidentally discharged.

Jones was scheduled to make a formal statement to investigators today.

Landlords Put Chill on NY Yule

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven thousand New Yorkers complained to the city of a lack of heat over the Christmas weekend and Buildings Commissioner Charles G. Moerdler said he was "sick" about it.

Some landlords "ought to be condemned to live in their own buildings," he said today.

Break-Ins Biggest Headache

The sharp rise in burglaries pushed the number so far this year more than 30 per cent ahead of 1965, with 965 offenses reported to police.

The gunshot death of a 51-year-old man early in the month brought to nine the number of criminal homicides in 1966. Last year's total was six.

Major Crime Up in November

Major crimes reported to Pontiac police in the month of November are up 50 per cent from the same month last year, sending the city's climbing crime rate for 1966 even higher.

Six of the seven Part I (major crime) categories — murder, assault, burglary, larceny, and auto theft — showed increases ranging from 16 to 143 per cent.

Only in rape, where an offense was reported compared with two last year, was a decline registered.

By far the biggest headache to city investigators was break-ins.

A total of 123 was reported to police, nearly doubling the figure of 51 in November 1965.

Less Efficient

"It surely makes the machinery of government work less efficiently," he wrote.

Extending the terms of office would give a freshman congressman a chance "to show the people of his thinking or to demonstrate his abilities" before standing for reelection, Eisenhower said.

Educator Eyes Full Use of Schools

Under consideration in the Bloomfield Hills school district is a plan long in the minds of educators — a 12-month school year.

With the spiraling cost of education, it is becoming imperative that maximum return be derived from school buildings and teacher personnel, not now forthcoming.

Pointing out that summer vacation dates back to America's agrarian era when school children were needed for harvesting, Bloomfield Hills' school superintendent Eugene Johnson is inclined toward a four-quarter system (although there are other alternatives). The principal advantage is that students, attending three of the four quarters, are not all in school at the same time. The effect would be to increase the capacity of each school by a third.

The resulting increase in teachers' salaries and maintenance costs on a 12-month year over a nine, JOHNSON said, would be offset by the lower over-all cost of instruction because fewer teachers could cover the same number of students.

The year-round plan of elementary and secondary education would, during a child's 12 years in school, give him three three-month vacations in rotating quarters of the year.

Another advantage of an extended school year, the school official thinks, is the likelihood that vacation jobs would be easier to come by because only one-fourth of working-age school children would be in the job market at any one period.

Time brings changes, and maybe another aspect of our traditional, educational system is ripe for one.

Decisions, Decisions, Decisions!

David Lawrence Says:

Review of 'Great Society' Urged

WASHINGTON — Review and revise and perhaps economize on the "Great Society" projects! This is what Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the leader of the Democratic majority in the Senate, says, in a letter sent to the chairman of each of the 17 committees of the Senate.

He advises LAWRENCE to undertake "a major reexamination of what we have done in legislation during the past few years."

The Montana senator speaks with understandable caution as he gently refers to "a number of rough edges, overextensions and overlaps and, perhaps, even significant gaps."

He doesn't want to seem to stress the need for revising only recent laws and says, therefore, that the changes should apply "with equal emphasis to those of older vintage."

He concedes that to do this may take a few years, and he doesn't anticipate much more than "a beginning" during the coming session of Congress.

What prompted these sober second thoughts about the "Great Society?"

CAUSED SPECULATION Plainly, the election last November caused legislators to speculate on what the people really meant by their turn against the party in power.

While the clumsiness of some of the proposals for a "Great Society" may have produced only a part of the protest vote, political instinct tells the leaders of the Democratic party that maybe they had better look things over and at least give the impression that corrective measures are to be taken where mistakes might have occurred.

Actually, the truth is that the promises and boasts about the "Great Society" have run ahead of the achievements. Also, the cost of these improvements in the social life of the nation is running higher than the economy can absorb, especially as the Vietnam war shows no sign of growing less expensive.

Sen. Mansfield apparently hasn't been convinced yet that the country can't have "better and guns, too," but he's hinting that he may be wrong. He says: "The problems which confront us at home and abroad are no less problems because of the serious demands on our resources for Vietnam. Nor is there any less need for efficient and effective government action, adequately but not wastefully financed, to meet these problems.

"With or without Vietnam, in my judgment, the Senate of the United States, through its committees, would have a responsibility for beginning the kind of top-to-bottom oversight which is suggested here-in."

The Mansfield letter is timely, but it doesn't explain why Congress rushed so precipitately into a spending program without taking into account the consequences.

Euphemistic phrases do not brush aside the fact that now, as in the New Deal years, "made-work" programs — which currently are called "antipoverty" measures — are no answer to the problems of untrained as well as unqualified manpower.

Bob Considine Says:

JFK Would Have Done Better Reporting Death

NEW YORK — Jack Kennedy would have given them all hell, from his given time for their combined foul-up of the story of his murder. He was a good reporter; indeed, I knew him at a time when that's what he mainly wanted to be in life.

It's a pity couldn't CONSIDINE have covered the assassination himself. He'd have turned in a better job, and his hard-bitten editors at L.N.S. would have handled it more expertly and in better taste.

As things now stand, the ugly charges and countercharges, the bandying about of huge sums in the form of guarantees, advances against royalties, first serial rights, foreign privileges, and posted bonds, are as obnoxious as a raffle in Lincoln's bones.

The dead need friends, too. The shade of JFK must have wondered where his friends were, really, in the heat of controversy.

This has been for his memory another Bay of Pigs, but grim circumstances afford him no chance for a recon.

The beautiful widow's naive or lack of (or refusal to listen to) the advice of cooler heads has set two inexcusable courses for: "The Death of a President."

In the form in which it will eventually appear in magazine and book form in this country will be a sorry let-down to millions of readers.

Its unexpurgated, pirated and perhaps even embellished form, will become one of the most widely published and hawked books in the world.

It is too late to chastise Manchester for failing to clear the manuscript with the family; too late to suggest that the widow and Sen. Robert Kennedy should have evidenced closer interest in the book during its gestation period.

What's going to happen is that millions who would never have read the Manchester work will now read it.

They will read it not as an historical document, which is what the family hoped for when they chose him to the exclusion of other and perhaps more competent reporters, but to confirm (or disavow) hosts of rumors about what the original contained.

Message to LBJ: Improve Image

By BRUCE BLOSSAT WASHINGTON (NEA) — Despite aftermath denials by some Democratic governors, the fact seems to be that their White Sulphur Springs caucus on the 1966 elections was very much concerned with President Johnson's personal image.

One source privy to their closed-door meeting at the West Virginia resort says many of the governors present indicated that unhappiness over his image was a common thread running through their otherwise quite individual complaints.

There was not, of course, much real company for Gov. Roger Braunig of Indiana, who suggested the President perhaps should decide not to run in 1968, or Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri, who publicly said the party itself might be advised to set him aside if matters did not improve.

Talks with several participants disclosed, however, that the most realistic among them believe that many of their gripes have as their root cause the President's insistence on doing too much himself — and letting go those things he either cannot handle or does not understand.

At least two governors say privately that he has to change materially in this respect if Democratic political mechanisms are to be more effective than they were in 1966.

That he has allowed the Democratic National Committee to atrophy is only part of the story, though

Voice of the People:

Reader Discusses Costs of Antipoverty Programs

Regarding the City Commission's feelings on anti-poverty programs, when I taught first grade in a Detroit, all-Negro school there was no antipoverty program. The lessons the children learned in the streets were stronger than any lessons you could teach them. My favorite student was a six-year-old boy who was charming, inventive, got along well with the others, and was the best raconteur and comedian I had ever met. Recently, he was arrested for a double murder involving money owed him for narcotics. The streets and all that went with them had won after all.

Imagine the cost of keeping this boy in prison, possibly for life. Isn't prison the most expensive handout of all? I don't know whether an anti-poverty program would have helped this boy, but I would have grasped it as the best there was at the moment.

I agree that the rental for the OEO office is an immense burden for the City, but are there no adequate, centrally-located offices available at more reasonable rents? Since the OEO is a federal program, has it been clearly established that there is no room available in the Federal Building?

Questions Taking Sides in British Affairs

I see LBJ has imposed a boycott on Rhodesia which is strictly a British affair. The British have not sent one man to help us in Vietnam. They are trading with our enemies all over the world. I don't see why we have to take sides in something that's none of our affair.

Nosy British Police Scent Inebriates

British bobbies, traditionally unarmed, are now carrying a new weapon. This is not a gun but a "nipper sniffer" — an alcohol detector. It is already credited with significantly reducing traffic accidents, says RONALD's Health Bulletin.

Scotland Yard has instructed policemen to station themselves at strategic locations, such as pubs and parking lots. Whenever an officer spots a citizen who looks a bit under the weather, he approaches and with customary British politeness invites the person to breathe into the detector. If it rings, the erstwhile driver is persuaded to go home in a cab.

The "nipper sniffer" met with objections at first—the citizenry rather turned up its nose at it—on the ground that it was an invasion of privacy, but British courts have upheld its use.

Pesticides Vital to Adequate Food Production

One of the critical controversies of our times revolves around the use of agricultural chemicals in the production of food and fiber. Naturalists and wildlife protection groups, unaware of what is at stake and concerned over what they consider to be the hazards of modern chemicals to human and animal life, have sought prohibition of the use of chemicals in agriculture.

Fortunately, such prohibition has not occurred. It would be nothing less than catastrophic to the human race.

At a recent meeting in Texas, Dr. N. C. Brady, Director of Science and Education, USDA, stated: "In our intensely developed man-made society, it would not take much to tip the scales from plenty to scarcity. Scarcity, after all, has been a normal condition of man throughout all history and it is even now the greater part of the world's three billion people."

It is sobering to note that even in the U.S., the land of plenty, there is now but a 90-day reserve food supply in warehouses and government surplus storage.

Thanks to pesticides, we no longer have to face the horror of disease that wiped out whole populations in past centuries—the plague, typhus, yellow fever, malaria, sleeping sickness and many others.

Were it not for pesticides, the commercial growing of many foods would cease, because insects and pests would make high-volume production impossible. Here, for example, according to the 1965 Michigan Agricultural Conference, is what would typically happen to retail prices if use of pesticides suddenly stopped:

- Sweet corn would jump from 20 cents to 52 cents a can;
- Milk would go from 27 cents to 34 cents a quart;
- Green beans would climb from 29 cents to 87 cents a can.

From this it is not hard to see why agricultural chemicals are perhaps our greatest allies in the struggle to produce an adequate food supply for an increasing population.

Without the family of chemicals, life would be short—but not very sweet.

Joyous Sounds on Film

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Looking ahead to Christmases in the future, amateur movie makers may be able to put the joyous sounds of the holiday season on movie film as easily and almost as inexpensively as we now record the sights.

The probability is triggered by an announcement by the Norton Company of Worcester, Mass.

They have developed a new method whereby sound can be added to a movie camera at a comparatively inexpensive cost for component parts.

In addition it is far smaller in bulk, less complicated and much more rugged in use.

It eliminates the presently required magnetic oxide coating or sound stripe on films which adds about 50 per cent to film cost.

NORMAL PROCESS

And in the Norton method, the exposed film, with sound track on it, can be processed normally and played back on any standard optical sound projector.

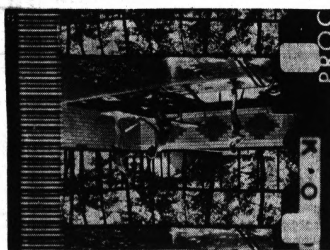

The sound-on-film achievement is made possible by Norton's development of the first practical process for making silicon carbide electroluminescent diodes.

Such a diode — smaller than a match head — records sound on film by changing it to light patterns without lenses, optics, sensitive, intricate or expensive equipment. It requires only a microphone and a solid state amplifier to do the job.

Norton officials estimate that the diode and component parts would cost a camera manufacturer about $5 when put into mass production.

BEAM OF LIGHT

The Norton device utilizes the established principle of converting electrical energy into a tiny beam of light.

NEW SYSTEM—Sound track at right on a 16mm Kodachrome film frame is a test made of the new Norton sound-on-film system. Using a comparatively inexpensive, tiny but durable silver carbide diode, sound is changed into varying patterns of light directly on the film.

Drug Damage to Heart Muscles Feared

LONDON (UPI) — The human heart has many safety factors built into it by evolution.

It is a most remarkable and durable organ but in our time it finds itself, as never before, under what some scientists call "chronic bombardment from powerful drugs."

And the question a good many of these researchers like answered is: "What are these drugs doing to the heart's natural defenses?"

Some of the concern being felt by scientists was expressed recently by Prof. Eleanor Zaimis of the Royal Free Hospital School of Medicine.

"What worries me as a pharmacologist," she said, "is that we use hundreds of drugs without in most cases having the slightest idea of how they work, let alone how their side effects may be produced."

Too many doctors, she said, had come to rely on the use of these drugs with too little thought of possible consequences.

Prof. Zaimis said the heart beats an average of 70 times a minute for an average of 70 years — equal to an automobile travelling 1,500,000 miles without a breakdown or repairs.

There are many hazards along the way, aging, alcoholism, disease and other disturbances — including the new drugs.

Prof. Zaimis said American researchers were considering of a number of patients in a theory raised after the death that prolonged threatment with United States mental hospital.

Why Grow Old?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here come a few thoughts for the New Year.

"Nothing is easier than faultfinding; no talent, no self-denial, no brains are required to set up in the grumbling business."

—from Elbert Hubbard's Scrapbook

Isn't that a wonderful name for that awful business? It doesn't take the least bit of talent. In fact it is a witless art! Faultfinders usually have few interests and a narrow viewpoint. They are sensitive, insecure, and have no tolerance or perception of others.

And what a blight they are on the lives of those who have to live with them! They take the joy out of many a day. However, they must be very unhappy persons, and they themselves take the biggest beating.

They damage the family relations which are essential to their own happiness, and they have few friends. If they have any friends at all, these are likely to be faultfinders too. They deserve each other

STRONG HABIT

Faultfinding can be a very strong habit but I can't help thinking that many veteran faultfinders weren't that way originally or because of coming into the world under a faultfinding star. The habit may have started and become set during a time of fatigue or discouragement.

It is easy to allow such a habit to linger. If you are a faultfinder, watch it, because you are your own worst enemy.

Another gem: "It is not enough to be industrious; so are the ants. What are you industrious about?"

—Henry David Thoreau

Santa Brings Real Dollies to Mothers

This season marked the eighth year that newborn infants at Pontiac General Hospital were presented to their mothers on Christmas morning in a large red Christmas stocking.

Even the "preemie" nursery celebrated the Yule season with miniature red stockings hung on each isolette.

Santa, of course, left his calling card in Pediatrics by hanging red stockings filled with presents, on the foot of each bed.

Philip Sauer, one of Santa's "best helpers" and members of the Women's Auxiliary are the ones to thank for these special services at the hospital during the holidays.

It seemed less cumbersome and just as effective.

AIN'T MISBEHAVIN'. The Story of Fats Waller. By Ed Kirkeby. Dodd, Mead, $5.

Fats Waller loved to play jazz on the piano, eat and drink. Making friends and writing tunes — including Aint' Misbeavin' — came easy to him. He was born in 1904 and lived 39 years.

After closing time, jazz musicians would go to "rent parties" in apartments and take turns playing all night. The host charged admission, the guests heard great jazz and the musicians trotted out their best for competition.

Fats' hero and guide was James J. Johnson. Much later, when Art Tatum came to New York from Toledo, he got into a competitive session, and as Kirkeby tells it, "beat the foals at their own game."

What did the defeated pianists do? "James, Art and Fats rolled out on the avenue, arms around one another's shoulders, looking for audiences. At every stop the delighted crowds applauded the new top pianist."

THE STATESMAN'S GAME. By James Aldridge. Doubleday, $4.95.

Rupert Royce is a member of a London family that has been running a worldwide shipping and shipbuilding business for nearly 250 years. But he has not been interested in the tough, ruthless warfare of big business.

Rupert returns from a trip to Russia, where some unusual things had happened to him. He had become a hero by rescuing a Russian flier, then had fallen in love with the flier's wife.

He had promised to serve as an agent for British Naval Intelligence, but then had balked at spying. And he had acquired some ideas about trade with the Russians, which made the intelligence people think he had been brainwashed.

The novel contains a remarkably convincing account of savage pressures, tricks and betrayals at the upper levels of big business.

NORWOOD By Charles Portis. Simon & Schuster, $3.95.

Portis is a new writer who has discovered there is comic material in the odd mishaps of an utter nonentity.

His hero is Norwood Pratt, an ex-Marine who works in a service station down there in a corner of Texas, owns a cheap guitar and dreams of singing hillbilly songs on the radio. He is as corny as the songs he admires; he is so innocent of his innocence that he feels no lack in life.

This hero's odyssey begins after his sister Vernell has dragged a husband into their makeshift home — Bill Bird, a sort of professional pensioner with a crude talent for irritating poor Norwood.

This is low pressure humor, neither black nor bitter, but mildly tart. Portis has an excellent ear for the droning clichés of Southwest rural dialogue, a sardonic eye for the absurdities and contradictions of modern life, and an amusing taste for drool incidents.

Tickets Brisk

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Highway patrolman R. A. Speedy recently flagged down a motorist for driving too slowly. The driver's name was Fast. Now it now appears to be a continuous. Speedy has given a ticket for speeding to Virgil Quick of Newark, Ohio.

PRIZED POSSESSION—James F. Byrnes, 87, and his wife of 60 years, Maude, display a simple bronze plaque on the desk of his office at home in Columbia, S.C. It is inscribed "To Mom and Pop Byrnes from your foundation children," fatherless boys and girls helped through college by the James F. Byrnes Foundation. During his long public career, he has been legislator, governor, secretary of state, Supreme Court justice and war mobilization director.

Dust Halo Surrounds Earth

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — A cloud of dust particles surrounds earth, giving it a halo like one of the rings around Saturn.

It's apparently not a very dense or even ring, but might be visible from space, under some circumstances.

Astronomers weren't sure of its existence until 1961.

But what astronomers for the last five years thought was only two blobs of matter in the area of the moon's orbit around earth now appears to be a continuous, if mottled and uneven belt. The halo of matter was detected by an expedition of the Polish

Astronomical Society under the direction of astronomer Dr. K. Kordylewski, Cracow, and his co-workers.

Byrnes Aids Fatherless Teens

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — On the wall of the office den of a comfortable Southern colonial home in Columbia hang two striking symbols of a remarkable American's career.

One attests that on Aug. 13, 1945, President Harry S. Truman directed that James Francis Byrnes be awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his work as director of war mobilization, a post in which President Franklin D. Roosevelt had tabbed Byrnes as his "assistant president."

Next to it is a simple bronze plaque inscribed: "To Mom and Pop Byrnes from your foundation children." It is engraved with the names of fatherless boys and girls whom Byrnes, never a rich man, has helped through college.

Now numbering 270 in all, most of the "Byrnes scholars" have received from the James F. Byrnes Foundation $500 a year for four-year college courses. But as the scholars agree, more important than the money have been the advice, admonitions on personal conduct and the love that go with it.

GIVES HELP

"You've got to give yourself," says James F. Byrnes. "You've got to take the place of the father these children have lost, as best you can. Money isn't enough."

At 87, Jimmy Byrnes is a 5-foot-7 package of wiry energy crowned with thinning white hair, twinkly greenish-gray eyes and expressively quizzical eyebrows. Maude, his wife of 60 years, is a vivacious, snowy-haired pixie who thinks that everything her Jim does is just what she needs. But as Emerson Andri-shak, one of the recipients, puts it, the $500 grant "gives any kid a kick in the pants, and if he's any good, that's all he needs."

Byrnes explained that the youngsters he picks all have been used to working, some even before going to high school.

"I believe in work," he said. "I never hurt me, and I don't think it will hurt them."

While Byrnes has some set ideas about cars, he doesn't join in the indiscriminate criticism of teen-age antics. He is convinced there is sound moral fiber in the younger generation.

"The people who believe that all teen-agers are crazy because of their nutty hairdos and their sloppy clothes don't know them as Maude and I do," he said. "The trouble is not with the teen-agers but with the mature people who are just letting themselves grow old and don't remember the offset things they did when they were young."

"The only time I object to a teen-ager's antics is when a boy gets behind the wheel of a car and a girl squeezes up beside him. Under those circumstances, a boy is either going to neglect his driving or his loving. You know which he is going to neglect."

'GRANDCHILDREN'

Byrnes once told his scholars at one of their annual meetings that, judging from results, he felt the foundation not only was sponsoring their education but must be conducting courses in courtship and marriage. At last count, the childless Byrneses have more than 300 "grandchildren."

The foundation came into being after Byrnes had resigned as secretary of state and had written a book about his experiences in high government offices. Royalties and newspaper syndication of his book, "Speaking Frankly," yielded Byrnes nearly $100,000. This was more money than he had ever seen at one time in his life. He decided turn from services for which he had been paid by the government, it really didn't belong to him. He decided to put the money to work in helping orphaned boys and girls.

Study of PKU Raises Doubts

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Laws in 36 states have been rushed through for the testing of babies for phenylketonuria, an inherited metabolic disease that has been associated with mental defects; they may be a mistake.

Dr. Samuel Bessman, a University of Maryland scientist who has been doing research on PKU for nearly 20 years, has now come to the conclusion that not all individuals who have the untreated chemical syndrome are or will become mentally retarded.

He agrees that there is extensive evidence that the disease is inherited through a defective gene that controls the enzyme phenylalanine hydroxylase. He also believes that the lack of this enzyme results in accumulation of certain amino acids in the blood.

But he is not convinced that mental retardation in PKU patients is prevented by lowering high blood levels of phenylalanine through diets deficient in this amino acid, beginning at birth or early infancy.

Patrolman's Shot Is Fatal to Man

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — Gus Klon of Bedford Township died Monday of a bullet wound suffered in a scuffle with Bedford Township Patrolman Richard Paschal Sunday night.

Paschal, 36, was suspended after the shooting pending further investigation. He answered a family trouble call at the Klon home and reported that Klon was attacked him with a jack hammer by breaking a hole three feet square in the roof.

Eddie Continuously in Stew Over Connie's Show Debut

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Eddie Fisher looked very skinny belying up to the bar at Billy Reed's Coney Island Pub . . . "I lost 10 pounds," he said. "I had a baby."

"Oh!" I said. Things like that happen in our Great Society.

He continually hugged his blonde little sweetheart Connie Stevens, the one-time "Cricketer" of TV, now fully and beautifully grown. He'd been married to her since her debut in "The Star-Spangled Girl," it was like having a baby. "After seeing what she's gone through in a B-way show, I don't want to do one," Eddie shuddered.

They were all huddled around phones and even doubling up in phone booths waiting for reviews of the Neil Simon show, one of the most hilarious evenings to be found in New York. Eddie and Connie are here together over the holidays.

In Hollywood they're known as a "durable duo"—an old married couple—been going together over two months.

So Barbara Harris gets the Cue Magazine Entertainer of the year award . . . but what about Lindsay? . . . Sandler & Young got TWO standing ovations when they returned to the Plaza Persian Room. One when they finished, one after they did their encore. A Plaza source said it was the greatest Plaza opening in 30 years.

Anybody find a contact lens in the street intersection at 53rd and B'way? My lens popped out of my eye during the rush hour. By the time I spotted it on the pavement, half of it was gone. So come on already, bring it in, what can you do with half of my contact lens? (By the way, that one I lost in St. Louis, I didn't find yet!)

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Gina Lollobrigida's escort at the Barbary Rm. was agent Danny Welles. . . Vanessa Redgrave missed the "Blowup" premiere here because Warner Bros. (for whom she's making "Camelot") insisted on a $10,000,000 insurance policy for the five days.

David Bailey, husband of Catherine Deneuve, will photograph Shirley Maclaine for mag covers. (She's doing "Woman Times Three"). . . Je McNamee made the scene at The Scene, where the Klon case is reported. A time spent out of the house, just ahead of his wife's lawyers with orders to evict him.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Al Gottlieb doesn't understand all the fuss over new cars: "After all, they're just four wheels, a chassis, a motor and a bank loan."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "It's probably true that hard work never killed anybody," sighed a lounge, "—but why take a chance on starting a trend?"

EARL'S PEARLS: Nothing is harder to handle than a woman who has just lost five pounds.—Angie Papadakis.

"The big advantage of those Christmas fruit cakes," says Bob Orben, "is they don't get moldy. Of course, some people think their big disadvantage is they don't get moldy." . . . That's earl, brother.
