Nixon Asks Details on Ending the Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird to set up a special commission "to develop a detailed plan of action for ending the draft."

The request announced by the White House yesterday represented one of several small steps taken at the same time to redeem campaign pledges.

★ ★ ★

These steps gained added impetus today with Nixon's planned statement to Congress calling for more policemen, judges and prosecutors to curb crime in the nation's capital.

That late afternoon message was on a schedule including a trip to the Pentagon for a briefing with the Joint Chiefs of Staff and a pep talk to lower echelon defense officials.

ALL-OUT EFFORT

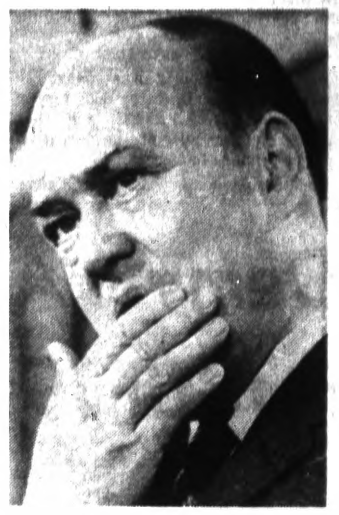

During the campaign, Nixon repeatedly pledged an all-out effort to combat crime, particularly in Washington, which he said should be a national model.

Nixon ordered Atty. Gen. John Mitchell earlier this week to map an urgent program against crime in the capital.

During the campaign, Nixon estimated creation of a volunteer army would cost $5 billion to $7 billion in pay raises. But he said part of that extra spending would be offset by reduced training costs.

Along with the request for an end-the-draft commission, the White House said, Nixon has called for studies or recommendations involving electoral reform, a possible hike in maximum interest paid by banks on savings deposits, all aspects of the program to develop a supersonic airliner, improvement of the postal service, the wisdom of thoroughly revising the Johnson administration's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year and a variety of others.

2 Detroit Sites Eliminated

City Gains in Stadium Bid

By ED BLUNDEN

Pontiac apparently has been pushed to the fore in consideration of a new domed stadium for professional sports in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Meeting in a secret session Wednesday, the primary group concerned with selection of a new site, the Metropolitan Stadium Committe, narrowed its selections to three sites — Pontiac, Walled Lake and Taylor Township.

★ ★ ★

This has apparently eliminated from consideration two sites inside Detroit, the river front and State Fairgrounds.

The vote on the issue was reported as 19-1 in the 34-member committee.

ATTENDED DINNER

The vote was accomplished without any of the six members from the Pontiac area. The members reportedly all missed the meeting because it conflicted with the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce annual dinner that night.

The Pontiac group's Sept. 11 presentation apparently won favor with the committee.

At that time a group from Pontiac unveiled a proposed 65,000-seat stadium that would cost at least $40 million and be located at the junction of I-75 and M59.

The site was termed ideal for a professional sports stadium and advantages such as central location and plenty of parking space cited.

LOCAL IMPETUS

The city did not rest its case there, however, but last month created a five-man Stadium Authority with full power to proceed with planning and negotiation for obtaining the facility.

If the final choice proves to be Pontiac, the authority could proceed quickly with bonding and construction, with final determination in the hands of the City Commission.

★ ★ ★

The Metropolitan Stadium Committee is composed of leading citizens from the entire metropolitan area.

The committee was set up at the request of both the Detroit Lions and Tigers to help them determine the best and most feasible site, it has been indicated.

Dwindling Hopes for DST Rest in State Appeals Court

LANSING (UPI) — The hopes of pro-Daylight Savings Times forces rested today with the State Court of Appeals after a recount of last November's disputed election failed to reverse defeat of fast time.

The court scheduled a Feb. 25 hearing on a petition by two law students that the election outcome be nullified and DST be presented to the voters again in 1970.

★ ★ ★

The students, Steven R. Servaas and Herbert J. Ranta, both of Grand Rapids, filed the petition yesterday, contending the ballot question was improperly worded and confusing to voters, and that pre-election publicity was misleading.

If the petition were granted, the official certification that fast time lost by 1,501 votes would be set aside. So would a 1967 law exempting Michigan from fast-time provisions of the federal Uniform Time Act.

DEFENDANTS NAMED

Servaas, a student at the University of Michigan, and Ranta, who attends Wayne State University, named State Elections Director R. Bernard Apol, Secretary of States James M. Hare and the Board of State Canvassers as defendants in their suit.

Earlier they had asked Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley to handle the litigation, but he declined to do so. Now he will defend Apol, Hare and the others.

In their pleadings the students cited a preelection newspaper story which stated a negative vote on the issue was a vote in favor of DST. The opposite was true, of course, since the question on the ballot was: "Shall Michigan observe Daylight Savings Time?"

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, election officials confirmed the ballot recount, in process for more than a month, would not upset the defeat of DST.

Area Weekend to Be Pleasant

A pleasant weekend is in store for the Pontiac area.

Here is the day-by-day U.S. Weather Bureau's official prediction:

TODAY — Gradual clearing and colder with high in mid-30s. Increasing cloudiness and cold tonight with chance of snow flurries, low 20 to 25.

★ ★ ★

TOMORROW — Cloudy with chance of snow and little temperature change.

SUNDAY — Partly cloudy and not much change in temperature.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are 10 today, 40 tonight and tomorrow.

Twenty-eight was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury had warmed up to 36 by 2 p.m.

GM Earnings Up 6 Pct. in '68 on Record Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp., the world's largest manufacturer, earned $1.732 billion last year on record sales of $22.8 billion.

GM's financial report for 1968, released yesterday, showed that earnings increased 6 per cent over the $1.627-billion profit in 1967. The earnings last year amounted to $6.02 a share, up from $5.66 in 1967.

★ ★ ★

The best previous sales year for GM was in 1965 when the company had sales of $20.7 billion.

GM's announcement followed a similar report by Chrysler Corp. in which the third largest U.S. auto maker reported record sales and earnings for 1968. Chrysler also said its share of the U.S. car market rose to 18.1 per cent from 17.9 per cent in 1967.

RISE FOR CHRYSLER

Chrysler earned $200.8 million, or $6.23 a share, last year on sales totaling $7.4 billion, a sharp rise from the $200.4 million earned in 1967 on sales of $6.2 billion.

Neither Ford Motor Co. nor American Motors have yet released their 1968 financial statements.

To discount the significance of announced production cutbacks in February by Ford and Chrysler, the auto makers are forecasting a continued high level of sales to back up last year's record 9.6 million cars.

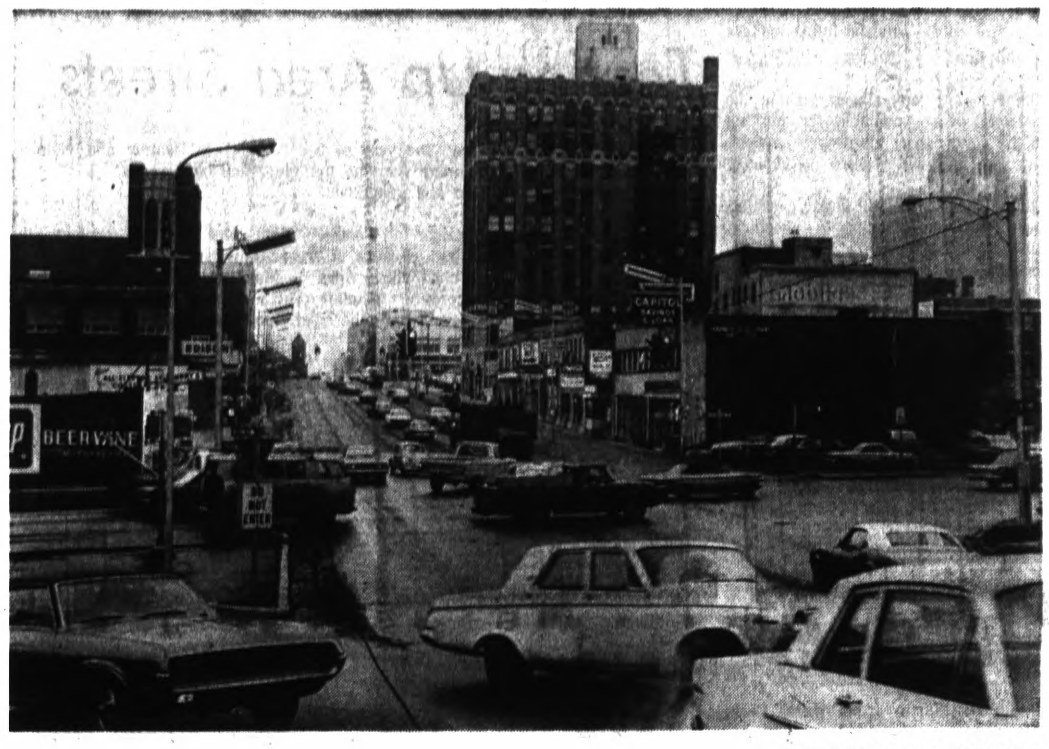

The cutbacks in February production were called because the industry's stockpile of new cars is at a record 1.6 million units and sales have not kept up with the inventory buildup.

TOPS JANUARY '67

Lee A. Iacocca, Ford executive vice president, noted that the sales rate in January has been almost 28,000 cars a day for the industry, better than last January.

January and February are normally tough months for the industry because of the wintry weather over much of the nation with sales picking up again in March and April.

"We don't see any reason why the upturn won't be there — we are planning on it," he said.

DEBRA LEE HORN

Girl, 11, Hunted; Kidnap Feared

ALLENSTOWN, N.H. (UPI) — Six snowmobiles as manned by volunteers searched 20 square miles of ice-encrusted woods throughout the night and into the morning today for an 11-year-old girl feared kidnaped.

Police Chief Roland Baillargeon, exhausted after nearly 48 hours without sleep, said his concern for the girl's safety had deepened.

★ ★ ★

State police called off their search for Debra Lee Horn last night, but Baillargeon and his 10-man force organized volunteers to comb the area.

State police operated on the assumption Debra was kidnaped while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Horn, were away at work. Blood found on a highway near the girl's home yesterday was being analyzed.

★ ★ ★

A white Cadillac which matched the description of one seen in the area on Wednesday was found abandoned six miles from the Horn home.

Debra was resting at home Wednesday after slipping on ice while walking to school. Her parents left her lying on a couch, and when they returned the door was ajar and the girl was gone.

Huge North Viet Troop Site Is Found North of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen have uncovered a huge North Vietnamese base spread over four square miles northwest of Saigon. U.S. officers said they think it was being built in preparation for a winter-spring offensive.

The base is believed to be the largest ever uncovered in the war and could accommodate perhaps 5,000 or more enemy troops. It contained hundreds of bunkers, a large underground hospital, dining halls, a bicycle repair shop, and a command post.

★ ★ ★

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division came on the base while on a sweep along jungle trails in the long-time Vietcong stronghold known as War Zone C. The base was found some 53 miles northwest of Saigon and 14 miles south of the Cambodian border.

Lt. Col. Frank Henry, of Franklin, N.C., said his troops had already counted 354 bunkers of various sizes and that he estimates there are 750 to 1,000 bunkers in the whole area.

TURNING UP FAST

The air cavalrymen were turning up bunkers so fast that engineers called in to blow them up were hard put to keep up.

Henry said one reason the North Vietnamese may have selected the site for a major base was that there had been several B52 strikes in the area in previous months. The enemy probably felt, Henry said, that the U.S. Command would conclude the area clear because of the air strikes.

★ ★ ★

The underground hospital complex alone could accommodate an estimated 3,000 patients, medics and other troops. It was still under construction.

The Air Cavalrymen also turned up quantities of medical supplies including 100 bottles of penicillin and some arms and ammunition.

Stadium Plan Is Hailed

A downtown Pontiac businessman sees the proposed domed stadium for professional sports as one more step toward a dynamic new Pontiac.

Jack Simon, an owner of Simms Brothers, vowed, "I will do everything in my power to help the Stadium Authority secure the facility."

★ ★ ★

The stadium would be built at I-75 and M59 and house the Lions' football and Tigers' baseball teams. Cities competing for the site are awaiting a decision by the owners.

Simon said: "The stadium ties in with other projects such as the $100-million Pontiac Plan for the urban renewal area and the Human Resources Center (Pontiac School Board project). These things promise a fantastic future for the city."

Pay for Supervisors Still Up in the Air

By JEAN SAILE

Members of Oakland County's Board of Supervisors aren't stating for the record what they think they should be paid, but privately most of them are talking in terms of between $5,000 and $10,000 a year.

Consideration of salaries by the full board was moved ahead two days yesterday. The matter will be considered publicly at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 11, and again at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 13, if necessary.

★ ★ ★

The advance of meeting dates was made in recognition that many supervisors will be attending the Republican State Convention Feb. 14, and 15 in Grand Rapids. The dates were originally scheduled as board meeting dates along with Feb. 13.

Wayne County Board of Supervisors votes today on salary provisions. The board is reportedly considering $12,500 per year with $40 per meeting. Macomb County has settled on $7,800 per year with $35 per meeting.

MATTERS OF CONTENTION

Whether questionnaires, intended as tools to determine salary ranges, should be made public became a matter of contention for the board.

Related Stories, Pages A-4, B-7

Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, asked for a roll call vote on a motion to make them public. It lost by a vote of 18 to 8 with one abstention.

Voting in favor of the public questionnaire were Supervisors Dennis Aaron, Mary Bawden, Lou Coy, Philip O. Mastin, James Mathews, Thomas O'Donoghue, Lawrence Pernick and Lee Walker. Christian Powell abstained. Party lines were split in the vote.

Some of those objecting expressed the idea that estimates of time are still too sketchy for concrete evaluation, yet it was noted that a salary decision under Michigan law must be made by Feb. 15.

TWICE A MONTH

Board members did determine that the full board will meet twice a month with special meetings allowed under certain circumstances.

The rules, also adopted yesterday, contained the provision that the board shall meet at 9:30 a.m. the first and third Thursday of each month.

A leaflet handed out with the personnel practices committee's questionnaire noted that last year 28 committees of the board met a total of 248 times. The committee number has been reduced to 12 with the new board, but some members noted that the duties remain essentially the same.

While supervisors were reluctant to publicly make known their ideas regarding salaries, those contacted by The Pontiac Press were agreeable to stating their opinions.

★ ★ ★

Dennis M. Aaron, D-Huntington Woods, wants per diem pay — $25 for a half day, $50 for a full day.

Mary W. Bawden, R-Birmingham, would consider between $5,000 and $7,500 salary with no per diem scale.

Oil-Gushing Ocean Well Still Threat to California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Beaches, wildlife and fish were threatened today as oil bubbled forth from a leaking ocean-floor well at a rate of 21,000 gallons a day.

★ ★ ★

The black slick covered 200 square miles of Pacific Ocean. Pilots prepared chemical air drops to disperse the oil and underwater crews worked to seal the leak.

★ ★ ★

A team of experts was dispatched from Washington, D. C., by Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel, and Gov. Ronald Reagan told of the threat of "major pollution to our coast."

Hickel said he is considering tighter regulations on offshore drilling as a result.

BLEW OUT TUESDAY

The undersea well being drilled five and a half miles offshore by Union Oil Co. of California blew out Tuesday.

With the migration of gray whales at its height, state fish and game officials expressed fear for safety of the mammals, which must come to the surface to breathe. Their route was through the oil slick.

Many birds were struggling on the beaches, their feathers sticky with oil. State marine biologists said chemicals used to disperse the slick may harm bottom-dwelling fish and plankton.

The Coast Guard warned ships to stay at least five miles from the drilling platform, from which oil workers sought to seal the leak. The well was drilled 3,000 feet below the ocean floor.

FLOATING BARRICADES

Logs were lashed together into floating barricades in an effort to trap the oil before it spread into harbors.

The oil was surging to the surface in two major bubbles last night, about 800 feet from the drilling platform. There may be other smaller flows as well, an oil company spokesman said.

★ ★ ★

In addition, natural gas was leaking near the rig.

GOING TO POT—Measuring a giant pothole in front of his busines is Henry Gotham, manager of Pontiac Retail Store, 65 University. The street, repaired yesterday shortly after this picture was taken, serves as access to the auto dealer and is the main route to downtown Pontiac from M59 east.

Thaw-Freeze-Thaw Cycle Tearing Up Area Streets

This is turning out to be "the year of the pothole" in Pontiac and vicinity, with almost unbelievable damage scarring main-line and back roads.

The holes are deep, wide and dangerous.

Gordon Matthews, supervisor of Pontiac's operations division, explains the year has been particularly bad because of freeze-thaw-freeze pattern.

And little can be done until about April 1, Matthews said the city has six trucks out daily making emergency patches. These patches are only temporary and road crews will have to wait until the frost season ends before "hot mix" or permanent patching can be made.

★ ★ ★

He warned of the danger of the holes and urged residents with a clearly dangerous spot near their home to call the department for an emergency patch job or placement of a danger signal.

There's little else that can be done, except hope for a long period of freezing weather, Matthews said. "That would stop it," he added.

Birmingham

'Total Support Is Needed for Urban Plan'

BIRMINGHAM — Total support of the proposed Urban Design Plan is imperative if this city is to be preserved as a retail drawing card and distinctive community, local civic leaders and professional men were told yesterday.

Effective use of the public right-of-way for automobiles and pedestrians is the primary goal of the Urban Design Plan, according to Cy Paumier of Johnson, Johnson and Roy, Ann Arbor planning consultants.

COMPETITION CITED

Paumier outlined the plan at a Community House luncheon yesterday.

"Recent revitalization of stores and development of new retail facilities continue to provide a positive shopping climate," he said.

However heavy shopping center competition in nearby areas makes it essential that emphasis should be placed on improving the environment that links the retail stores together in central Birmingham," Paumier said.

Cost estimates for the program, which will take a minimum of four years to complete, have been set at about $800,000. Financing will come from private business expenditures, public solicitation, general tax funds and possibly special assessments.

Key projects include the reduction in width of Woodward and Maple in the downtown areas, widening of sidewalks and establishment of tree islands and wood benches on shopping area sidewalks.

A "ring road" will also extend around the downtown shopping area enabling easier shopper maneuverability. This will be done by extending Park Street on the east side of the central shopping district.

EXPERIMENTAL BLOCK

Projects scheduled for this year include development of an experimental block on Henrietta as a prototype of what the entire finished urban design plan product will look like in 1972.

The block will feature modern experimental street lighting, widened inlaid brick sidewalks and street furniture.

★ ★ ★

Other scheduled 1969 projects include:

- Construction of a park plaza featuring inlaid brick pavement, fountains and benches in front of the municipal building.
- Installation of new public signs along the entrance corridors.
- Preparation of detailed plans for parking enclosure on one of the surface lots along the south side of Willits or on the east side of Chester.
- Preparation of sign ordinance revisions leading to the elimination of all roof and pole signs over 15 feet in height.
- Preparation of detailed site plans for two service stations on the southwest corners of East Maple and Hunter.

City Manager Robert Kenning said most of the initial projects will be financed from public tax funds with the exception of the civic plaza which is backed by the chamber of commerce and financed by public solicitation.

Dems to Air Disputes in 18th, 19th Districts

Disputes among Democrats in the 18th Congressional District of Oakland County, and another fight in the Wayne County portion of 19th District, will be aired tonight in hopes of resolving the issues before the State Democratic Convention gets under way in Detroit tomorrow.

The session is a result of a new procedure approved by the party's state central committee to streamline what has been a difficult and time consuming method of handling delegate seating challenges in the past.

Under the new arrangement, a preconvention Credentials Committee, composed of one representative from each of the 19 congressional districts in the state, will hear delegate challenges and a report from an investigation made by a state central staff member of the background on each challenge.

In the 18th District, liberals are hoping to gain further representation among the 23 delegates to the state convention from Royal Oak. The challenge was presented by the New Democratic Coalition, backers of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who claim that while they have about half the precinct delegates, they have only three state delegates.

The Wayne-19th fight is a result of the Jan. 17 district convention. Charges have been made that nominations were not honored and that delegates were not elected on an apportioned basis among urban areas.

Hospital Emergency Unit Opening Stalled

The opening of Pontiac General Hospital's new emergency department has been delayed to make corrections in its construction, according to hospital administrator Harold Euler.

★ ★ ★

He said workmen have begun to replaster the walls of an underground tunnel connecting the main hospital to the emergency building. The tunnel's heating will also be improved.

Euler estimated the building will be put into use in late February.

Bid for Stadium in City Gains

The Pontiac proposal would give the teams the same type of all-weather facility as Houston's Astrodome.

The Pontiac site is called ideal because of its nearness—freeway, rail and air routes—to the new and future centers of population.

★ ★ ★

Other strong advantages include the enormous areas available for parking and the condition of the property, which is vacant and will require no clearing away.

Of the three sites still under consideration, Pontiac's planning is ahead of both Walled Lake and Taylor Township, according to city officials.

★ ★ ★

About two weeks ago, William Clay Ford, president of the Lions, said on a television show that a decision would be made soon on a new site.

★ ★ ★

He voiced his dismay over the game played by the Lions Thanksgiving Day when it rained during all four quarters and the mud-mired Lions didn't score a point. The game was on national television.

Supervisor Pay Still Up in Air

George H. Grba, D-Pontiac, said, "I don't think supervisors should be paid less than the dog catcher." The chief deputy dog warden here is paid $8,300 to $9,200 with seven deputy dog wardens paid $7,300 to $8,200, according to county officials.

Delos Hamlin, R-Farmington, said $5,000 had been his original estimate, but "partisan politics are more expensive and I've revised my thinking to $8,000 including per diem pay." Hamlin, former board chairman, said the work of the board was taking longer than had been supposed.

Fred Houghten, R-Avon Township, said Republicans had been on record as favoring $5,000, but that he might go for more — "not a great deal but some."

Paul E. Kasper, R-Bloomfield-Troy, said he thought $5,000 without per diem pay adequate.

William L. Mainland, D-Milford, said between $5,000 and $8,000 total was as high as he'd want to go.

Philip O. Mastin Jr., D-Hazel Park, favored $5,000 base and $40 per diem.

James Mathews, D-Pontiac, said he'd be estimating the duties and time involved, but as yet did not have an answer.

Carl W. O'Brien, D-Pontiac, reported $8,000 and $45 per diem would be a fair wage.

★ ★ ★

Thomas H. O'Donoghue, D-Ferndale, opted for $2,500 base and "reasonable" per diem not to exceed $5,000 total, excluding expenses.

Robert F. Patnales, R-Royal Oak, stuck with the Republicans $5,000 but said he'd be willing to arbitrate to "get it settled."

Alexander C. Perinoff, D-Southfield, announced from his vice chairman's chair on the dais that he would seek $5,000 base and $50 per diem, the latter not to exceed $2,500.

Lawrence R. Pernick, D-Oak Park, wants a flat salary of $5,000 to $7,500 with no per diem.

★ ★ ★

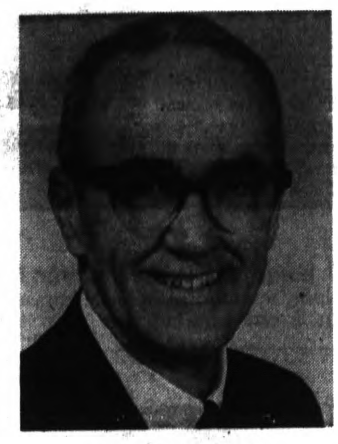

Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield, said he believed the area of $5,000 yearly adequate.

Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, said he hadn't had time to analyze the salary schedule yet. He said the committees he serves met 92 times last year with a dozen board meetings which might be tripled this year.

Richard R. Wilcox, R-Brandon Township, favored part-time pay, part-time position.

JACK HARRINGTON

HOWARD NELSON

To Manage City Store

New Sears Man Is Named

Jack Harrington has been named the new manager of the Sears store in Pontiac, replacing Howard Nelson, who is retiring effective today. A. D. Swift, Detroit area manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co., announced the change today.

Harrington, whose appointment is effective tomorrow was manager of the Sears store in Grosse Pointe Farms. He has been a Sears employe for 21 years, starting in Detroit as an engineering co-op student.

★ ★ ★

His experience with the company includes managing the engineering and installation departments and customer service department at the Sears store in Lincoln Park and serving as assistant manager of the Grosse Pointe store.

Harrington, 43, and his wife, Margie, have two daughters, Kathy, 19 and Colleen 13. Both he and his wife are graduates of the University of Detroit. They live in Dearborn Heights.

SERVED 9 YEARS

Nelson, 58, of 2654 Pendleton, Bloomfield Hills is retiring after nine years of managing the downtown Sears store. He is leaving next week to look for a spot for a possible winter home in Florida or Arizona, but plans to remain in the Pontiac area.

"This community has been very good to me," the trim gray-haired executive said, "and I have grown very fond of it and its people."

★ ★ ★

He added, Pontiac is the hub of one of the fastest growing counties in Michigan.

"The annual volume for the year ending today is 27 per cent higher than it was about 9 years ago, when I took over the management of the Pontiac store," Nelson said.

BETTER RELATIONS

"During that time I have seen the development of better human relations in the community," he said.

"I think the rehabilitation of downtown Pontiac is important to the development of better communications between the black and white people in the community."

★ ★ ★

Nelson is a past president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and is on its board of directors. He is also a member of the Elks, the City Club and the YMCA board.

Dethmers Won't Seek Post of Chief Justice

LANSING (AP) — Chief Justice John Dethmers of the Michigan Supreme Court announced today he will not seek reelection to the top spot on the state's high court.

Dethmers' term as chief justice is expiring, and justices are to vote Monday on selection of a new chief.

Dethmers, a member of the court for more than 20 years, said his announcement "does not mean, of course, that I am retiring from the court. On the contrary," he said, "I shall continue to be one of the justices of this court."

Chief justice for more than nine years, Dethmers, 65, said he felt it was "time to let somebody else have a crack" at the job.

Kosygin Health 'Okay'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet foreign ministry today denied "all rumors" about the health of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and said he will return to his duties "in the nearest future."

There have been widespread rumors that he is seriously ill with a liver ailment.

Sirhan Will Testify Briefly on Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's murder trial, after nearly four weeks of preliminaries, finally shows promise of some spark: The defendant takes the witness stand next Tuesday.

His appearance will be brief, chief defense attorney Grant B. Cooper told newsmen after announcing in court Thursday that Sirhan and his mother, Mary, will testify about their finances.

The judge has recessed the trial until Tuesday.

As Sirhan quietly chewed gum, Cooper called three Superior Court judges to the stand and asked how they chose nominees for the 1968 grand jury that voted the indictment. Each year 23 grand jurors are chosen by lot from nominations, two apiece, by all Superior Court judges.

★ ★ ★

Superior Court Judge Edward R. Brand said he would estimate his two nominees had incomes above $15,000. Judge Kenneth N. Chantry said he guessed his two earned more than $25,000 annually.

U.S. Bounces Back Year After Tet

SAIGON (AP) — One year ago the Communist command unleashed its mightiest offensive of the war. In one week, this sent the allies onto the defensive, caused casualties and damage on an unprecedented scale, rolled back pacification, shattered morale on the government side and quenched official optimism on the war.

"In short," one U.S. official said this week, "we were almost on the floor. The only way we could go was up. And that's just what we did, thanks to some big blunders on the enemy's side. We've recovered all the ground we lost during Tet and added a lot more to boot."

★ ★ ★

Another said, "We always knew we could beat the Communists militarily. Now they know it, too."

Pointing out there has been no major enemy offensive since August, a senior U.S. spokesman said, "Our position is vastly improved." He rated the enemy's capability for offensive operations as far lower than a year ago, with his leadership deteriorated because of battlefield attrition.

PACIFICATION PROGRAMS

A highly accelerated program aimed at pacifying the countryside is going forward with surprisingly little opposition from the enemy. Allied troops have better intelligence than ever and have turned up thousands of tons of arms, ammunition and food in enemy base areas.

The enemy, for whatever reason, is avoiding big battles with allied troops, causing a fighting lull. But no one in a responsible position is counting the enemy out. His military capability is formidable, and he is considered capable of launching a new major offensive.

Documents, prisoners and defectors again are pouring in reports that he is getting set for just such a push, possibly again tied to the lunar new year, which falls on Feb. 17 this year.

Last year Tet fell on Jan. 31, and for weeks before that the number of enemy defectors dropped dramatically. This year it is rising just as rapidly, and many of those coming over to government lines say they gave up to escape the bloodbath a new offensive would mean.

STILL TIME TO MOVE

U.S. military sources say the big enemy units are not now in position for a new offensive, but add that there is still time to move the divisions into position by Tet for an assault on Saigon and other cities.

There was ample warning last year that a big enemy offensive was brewing before Jan. 31. But the allies did not believe that anything of the magnitude of the actual attack was or could be coming. About half of most government units were on traditional leave since Tet is a time for families to reunite. American soldiers were relaxing under what they thought was a cease-fire.

★ ★ ★

The Vietcong and North Vietnamese hit Da Nang on the 30th and the following day battled in the streets of Saigon for control of the U.S. Embassy and other key targets. In all more than 120 cities and towns were hit, and some suffered up to 80 per cent damage. In the month of bloodletting that followed, official figures showed the dead included more than 2,000 American troops, 2,700 government regulars and militiamen, 10,000 civilians and 43,000 enemy troops.

During March and April the allies tried to stabilize the military situation and relieve the encircled Marine combat base at Khe Sanh. Then came the May-June enemy offensive which turned the Saigon area into a battleground again and proved to be almost as bloody as the Tet onslaught.

EVALUATE OFFENSIVES

One senior U.S. official with years of service in Vietnam—and often critical of the allied war effort—evaluated the twin offensives this way:

"We blundered first by grossly underestimating the enemy's capability. During Tet he scored an overwhelming military and psychological victory initially. Then he blundered and blundered badly in staying put in the cities to fight. And so some of his best units were wiped out or mauled.

★ ★ ★

"The same thing happened to him during May and June except most of his battalions were caught out in the countryside before they could get to the cities. Much of the Communists' psychological edge remains."

Senior U.S. military sources said the twin offensives lost the enemy his finest junior officers and senior sergeants, badly weakened morale among survivors, and weakened his support simply because those in the countryside no longer thought the Communist-led forces would win.

LACKED AGGRESSIVENESS

But the allies were far from aggressive in moving back into the countryside. Many if not most of the hamlets now targeted in the accelerated pacification program are ones that were under government control before Tet last year.

Statistically the government claimed to control 67 per cent of the population before Tet, 60 per cent a month later and 76 per cent now. The figures lose some of their meaning because of the one million or more refugees who fled the countryside, thus staying in the government column even though their villages and hamlets were not.

U.S. officers looking back across the year feel that the enemy vastly overextended himself, especially in view of the casualties he took—some 181,000 compared to 14,000 for American troops and 15,300 for government soldiers and militiamen.

As Tet 1969 approaches, there is some concern in the Mekong Delta that the allies are overextended this time and that the rush to plant government flags over contested hamlets may be dangerous. The "people rush" was ordered in late October to improve the allied bargaining position at Paris. Some advisers fear that a new enemy offensive may cause it to crumble again.

HOLD TOO TENUOUS?

These men point out that it was not until October and November that government troops and pacification cadre really began pushing back out from district and provincial capitals again and that their present hold on the countryside may be too tenuous to withstand heavy pressure.

But if a new push comes, a U.S. general said, the Communist command has a much different military problem to contend with. In addition to government soldiers, U.S. troops now ring Saigon and Hue. The United States has 20 additional infantry and armored battalions in Vietnam this year, and the Vietnamese army has 11 new battalions. Enemy strength has declined and many of the major North Vietnamese units are outside South Vietnam, either north of the 17th Parallel or in Laotian and Cambodian base camps. These units, of couruse can be recommitted at almost any time.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A silver-haired, 68-year-old grandmother, convicted of a $840 bank robbery, maintains that wasn't her picture snapped at the time of the holdup.

"I'd say, no, this isn't me," Ida Katherine Knutson told a judge Wednesday. "I've never been this heavy-set and never wear a scarf, even when I go to church."

★ ★ ★

U. S. District Judge Alfonzo J. Zirpoli placed Mrs. Knutson, a grandmother of six and a church worker, on three years' probation. She was ordered to make restitution to the Bank of America's Market-Geary branch of $20 a month.

Mrs. Knutson, a widow, served 20 months in the Washington State Prison at Walla Walla for a 1958 check forgery conviction.

Salvation Army Has Recruiting Woes

NEW YORK (AP) — A Salvation Army official said Thursday the organization is having trouble recruiting young men and women.

Commissioner Erik Wickberg, chief of staff and second in command of the Salvation Army's worldwide network, arrived in New York on a world tour.

★ ★ ★

"We have 600 or 700 training in Europe, but we would like to double that number," he said. "We would also like to double the number of 400 cadets now training in the United States." In Korea, however, there are 1,100 candidates awaiting admission to the cadet school, he said.

The cost of attending a private four-year college 10 years from now will probably be about 30 per cent higher than it is today.

Truck Plows Down Dequindre 'Canal' In Avon Township

January Thaw Floods Parts of County

By TOM GRAY

Oakland County is wet!

The weeklong January thaw — which will become a February thaw in another day — wiped three weeks' accumulation of snow and ice from the landscape and spread it around in rivulets, pools and, in some cases, honest-to-goodness lakes.

Roads, driveways and even lawns, at first glazed with a half-inch of ice from Tuesday's freezing rain, disappeared as drizzle and melting continued to push water levels higher.

★ ★ ★

One of the worst of the roads was Dequindre Road in Avon Township between Auburn and Hamlin, where a foot of water yesterday stranded at least one motorist and turned the road into what looked like a canal.

Another place for a canoe or rowboat was at the intersection of Paramus and Meadowlawn in Independence Township.

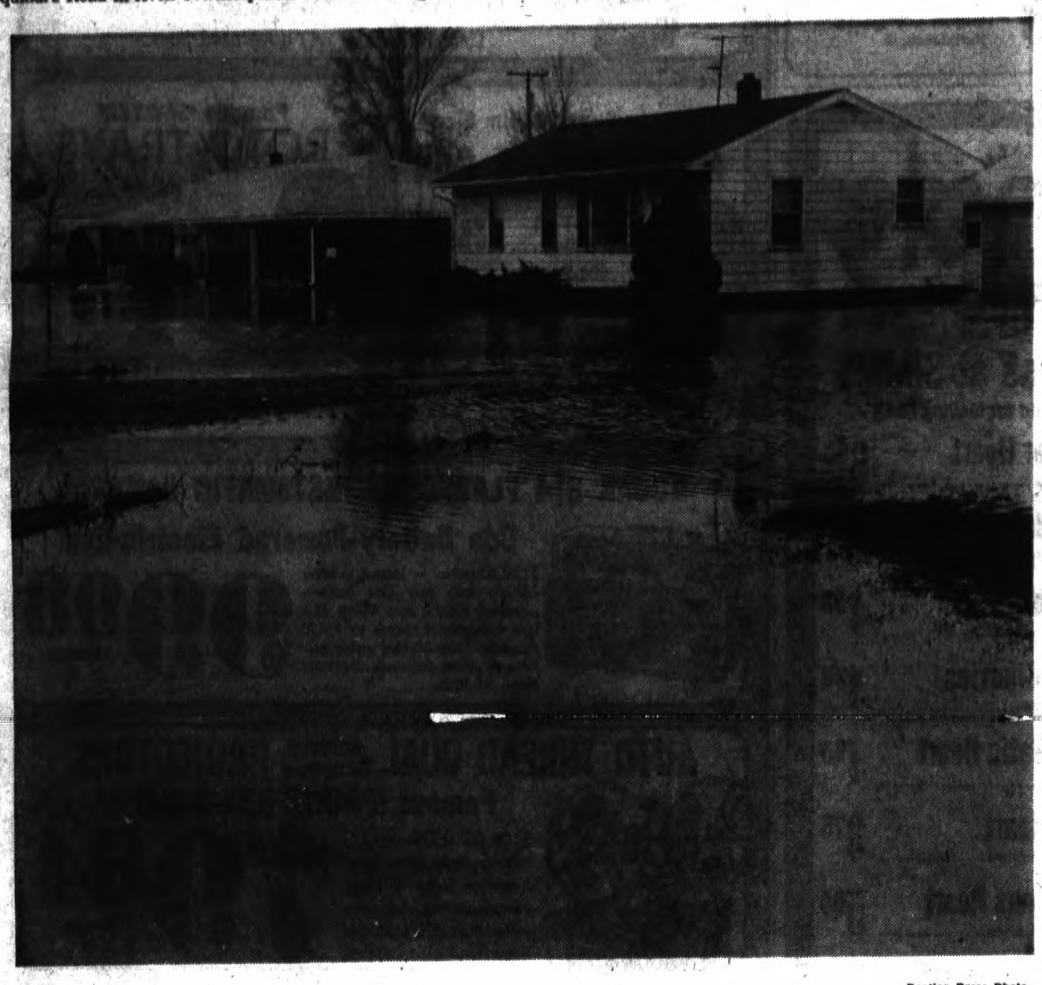

FURNITURE PILED UP

There water up to two feet deep collected, covering Paramus, invading some homes and forcing one resident, David Brandt of 6195 Paramus, to pile his furniture on wooden 2x4s.

"Water's been coming in through the heat registers ever since last night," Brandt said yesterday afternoon. Operating with pumps borrowed from the township, he said, he and two neighbors had pumped 3,400 gallons of water an hour from the lake for about 15 hours without lowering the level a great deal.

Brandt and neighbors blamed blockage of a nearby drain, but Township Supervisor Duane Hursfall ascribed the problem to generally inadequate drainage in the area.

"All they have in there is road ditches. Those are not ample, nor is there a storm drain, which there should be," Hursfall commented.

ABM Site Critics Repeat Opposition at OU Parley

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor-Suburban

"No ABM Here . . . Or Anywhere."

This is the new battle cry for opponents of a Sentinel antiballistic missile site in the Pontiac area.

★ ★ ★

And the bumper sticker standard appears to be drawing large numbers of supporters, judging from the turnout of more than 200 people for last night's "town meeting" at Oakland University on the ABM site fight.

ABM critics reiterated their opposition at the meeting called by WOMAN (Women Opposed to Missiles and Nuclear Warheads).

PHYSICIST SPEAKS

Featured speaker was Dr. Alvin M. Saperstein, Wayne State University physicist, who first led local opposition to a Sentinel site.

★ ★ ★

Saperstein again detailed a history of this country's ABM development, pointing out that civilian scientists in the Defense Department had repeatedly rejected the ABM system.

The WSU physicist said the only possible conclusion was that the Army isn't interested in the so-called "thin" line protection offered by the Sentinel program, but was really interested in the more expensive "thick" system.

He indicated neither system would entirely defend against an enemy missile attack.

SECONDS COMMENTS

Saperstein's comments were seconded by Robert M. Williamson, an OU physicist and a Rochester School Board member.

The Sentinel program, which includes long-range Spartan and short-range Sprint missiles, has been billed by the Army as a relatively "thin" protection against a missile attack by an unsophisticated missile power, such as Red China.

★ ★ ★

Critics of the Sentinel plan, including Spaperstein and the WOMAN organization, contend the Army is really aiming toward a much bigger ABM system, although this latter system does not have congressional approval or support.

Michigan's Democratic senator, Philip A. Hart, scheduled as the main speaker last night, did not appear because weather conditions did not permit his flying from Washington. However, a representative from Hart's office spoke briefly.

'STOP MOMENTUM'

The Hart spokesman urged ABM foes to stop the momentum of the ABM program currently under way, but pointed out that emphasis could not stay on just the local site selection issue. He claimed the Army would just move the sties to areas where opposition wasn't as strong or as well-organized.

Reading from the text of a Hart speech, the spokesman quoted the senator as stating that the Sentinel system was the first fateful step in a more dangerous escalation than the Vietnam war.

★ ★ ★

The statement also contended that the Sentinel program was a new escalation of the arms race.

Also appearing last night was a representative for Congressman John Conyers Jr., D-Detroit, who said the Sentinel ABM program was "like being a little pregnant."

TROY OPPOSITION

Others at the meeting were two city commissioners from Troy, one of the areas being considered for a Sentinel installation, and representatives from Clawson and Detroit. Although invited the Army said they wouldn't send a spokesman to debate the missile issue.

The two Troy commissioners said their city's government was opposed to a ABM site there, describing it as "economically disastrous."

★ ★ ★

Several Pontiac area locations are being considered by the Army as ABM sites or for their related radar installations. These included the city of Troy, and Avon, Pontiac and Orion townships.

Site selections for this area are expected to be filed with Congress by Feb. 28 where notice must be given to the House Armed Services Committee.

Organized late last year, WOMAN began primarily as a women's group to fight against local ABM sites, but has been expanded to include both men and women. The group is circulating petitions calling for public hearings on the site selections.

Romeo Board Faces School Site Fight

ROMEO — A pretrial hearing has been set for Tuesday on the board of education's attempt to acquire a 40-acre parcel as a proposed school site.

The trial in Macomb County Circuit Court will follow on April 1.

★ ★ ★

The 40-acre plot at the southwest corner of 28 Mile Road and Campground Road is viewed by the board as the prime site for the location of a junior high school housing 2,000 students and an elementary building accommodating another 800 students.

Both schools would serve the southerly and southwest portions of the Romeo school district, extending into sections of Shelby and Washington townships.

CONCENTRATION

Several new housing subdivisions, and apartment and trailer court developments in the area have indicated a growing population concentration toward the south end of the school district, making it essential that the Campground-28 Mile site be acquired, a board spokesman said.

Donald Mather of Mather and Glime, the Roseville law firm handling the board's case in court, said there is every indication that the owner of the desired property, Samuel Kashat, a Detroit investor, will fight the board's action to the fullest extent.

A report by two independent appraisers said the 40-acre parcel was worth $60,000. Kashat acquired the property in 1962 for $30,000 according to Mather.

The board offered Kashat $64,000 in cash for the land. "The fact that he has refused to sell at this price, making more than 50 per cent profit, indicates we have a fight on our hands," Mather cited.

PRELIMINARY PLANS

Preliminary plans call for the junior high building to be constructed first, followed by the elementary school. The board wants to place the schools on the same site since it would represent a considerable cost savings, said school officials.

Both schools would utilize common facilities such as music and art rooms. Architectural fees and funds needed to buy other property could also be saved by building the schools on a common site.

The Campground-28 Mile Road location is the only site the board has been able to find that would accommodate both schools and adequately service the growing areas of the district, Mather said.

The board would purchase the property with funds available from a previous bond issue. Cost estimates of the proposed junior high and elementary buildings have not yet been determined by Dearborn architects Jar and Anderson.

★ ★ ★

A bond issue to provide construction funds probably would be scheduled within a year following finalization of property site acquisition and building costs.

W. Bloomfield Kills Plan for Knollwood Sewers

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — After months of problems and debate, the Township Board voted to kill the proposed sewer assessment district for Knollwood Heights subdivision.

An estimated 50 residents from the subdivision near Inkster and Maple attended the meeting earlier this week to debate the proposed sewer system. The meeting was the continuation of a hearing started last week.

★ ★ ★

The two-year dispute started with the circulation of petitions for the sewers in 1967. Counter petitions were soon circulated by those opposing the sewers. Some residents apparently signed both.

Eventually, the Committee for the Preservation of Knollwood — a group of citizens against the sewers — sought legal aid to void the councils actions. They contended that many residents claimed they signed petitions on the basis of false information. They also said these same residents later asked to have their names withdrawn, but this the Township Board did not allow on the advice of its legal counsel.

DUMPED PROJECT

However, the Township Board dumped the project, claiming that there were not enough signatures in favor of the sewers.

Sewers are only installed when a majority of the residents request them or when a definite health hazard exists, say township officials.

Only 44 per cent of the residents had signed the petitions in the final count, according to township officials.

★ ★ ★

Trustee Mrs. William Evans, who offered the motion to stop procedures on the sewers, warned residents of the rising costs of sewers. The estimated cost of the Knollwood sewers per house had risen from $1,900 to $3,300 since 1967.

Supervisors Back Public Voice

Pontiac Supervisor James Mathews, a Democrat, yesterday led a successful fight before the Oakland County Board of Supervisors to assure the public of a greater chance to speak at board meetings.

Permanent rules were adopted yesterday. Those presented by Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township, contained the provision that an audience member could speak on invitation of a board member unless stopped by a vote of three other members.

Mathews won the right to have a majority of the board determine whether a speaker should be stopped.

It took a roll call vote on Mathews' amendment and the tally was 19 to 7 in favor with one absent. Voting against the measure were Supervisors Lou Coy, George Grba, Harry Horton, Paul Kasper, Carl O'Brien, Alexander Perinoff and Christian Powell.

AT COMMITTEE LEVEL

Objectors put forth the idea that the public should make its complaints felt at committee level, and that in the adoption of administrative rules provision could be made for the calling of public hearings.

Said Horton, R-Royal Oak, "If you ever care to get any work done (on the board), you can't allow the people to take up the time of the board."

'If You Ever (Are To) Get Any Work Done You Can't Allow The People To Take Up Time . . .'
Supervisor Harry Horton

★ ★ ★

O'Brien backed him adding, "People get their messages through." He reported he routinely receives a number of phone calls and holds meetings with people regarding governmental problems.

The new ruels keep the prerogative of board members to call the question after an hour's debate. This was forced through earlier by Republicans in a successful challenge to Democrat-purposed committee assignments.

JOURNALS REQUIRED

Also included is a rule requiring the keeping of journals by each committee. George Grba, who said he wrote this particular section, reported it was adopted from State Legislature procedure.

The rule includes the provision, "A member of the committee wishing to explain his vote may file a written explanation with the clerk of the committee within two board meeting days after the vote is taken, which explanation shall be attached to the action journal."

Grba privately deplored a lack of committee records, including those outlining duties.

The rules vote passed 21 to 1, with Lee Walker of Madison Heights abstaining. He said he had not had sufficient time to study revisions.

RIGHTS REPORT

In other business the board referred to its legislative committee the Michigan Civil Rights Commission report regarding race relations in the county as applies to employment and social service.

Rochester High School Will Host a Concert

ROCHESTER — The Jackson Chorale will present a concert Feb. 9 at 3 p.m. in the auditorium of Rochester High School, 180 S. Livernois.

The program for the concert will include madrigals, spirituals, and works by Hindemith, Sweelinck and Lotti, as well as Daniel Pinkham's "Christmas Canatata."

★ ★ ★

The chorale, a group of about 30 men and women from the metropolitan area, will include two Pontiac Central High School students, Pete Marinos and Jackie Washington, and will be directed by Gilbert Jackson, presently head of the Pontiac Central Music Department.

Tickets for the concert will be available at the door and cost $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. A reception will follow the concert.

Fire Badly Damages Bloomfield Twp. Home

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A fire, apparently caused by a portable electric heater, did an estimated $15,000 damage to the Harry Russell residence at 4351 Chamberlain early today, the fire department said.

Firemen said the fire broke out in the garage about 1:30 a.m. and spread to the attic.

★ ★ ★

Two automobiles and a large amount of household goods in storage were destroyed.

No one was injured. Firemen were at the scene for about three hours.

Citizens' Panel Pushing Rochester School Bond Vote

ROCHESTER — A citizens' advisory committee is pushing for approval of this school district's proposed $8-million bond issue in a special election scheduled for Feb. 8.

The committee has prepared a slide demonstration detailing the long-range building plan recommended by the board of education and the committee and the plan's cost to property owners.

★ ★ ★

Over 100 presentations of the slides have been scheduled, according to committee chairman Joseph Nedrow, 415 Cherry Blossom, Avon Township.

The bond issue, which would provide classrooms for 3,100 additional students within the next five years, is expected to to amount to a 2.2-mill tax hike for property owners.

★ ★ ★

The committee has also arranged two other methods of distributing information about the upcoming election.

A brochure giving background on the bond issue has been printed, and arrangements have been made for committee members to be on hand at the school district offices Wednesday evening from 7-10 to answer phone calls from citizens seeking information.

Harambee Needed

Of the many proposals for rehabilitating Pontiac's business and residential areas, Harambee, Inc. rates top consideration. As announced a short time ago, it's an all-Negro, nonprofit enterprise designed to upgrade existing housing units and construct new ones in the southeast section of the City.

It is a self-starting organization, financially able to get itself off the ground. As such, it commands the respect and support of the entire community; and, generally speaking, Harambee has had it.

In the light of this, it is difficult to understand the opposition to Harambee expressed from the outset by City Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr. Fowler is the representative of District 1, which the Harambee program embraces.

FOWLER'S explanation is that the development is seeking Federal funds for a black segregationist project, and is thus in an untenable position.

FOWLER is wrong on both counts:

- Nothing in Harambee's concept envisions racial segregation, black or white.
- Were segregation specified or even implied, it would be impossible to obtain Federal funding—funding on which Harambee will rely to further its objectives.

★ ★ ★

We suggest that Commissioner Fowler, who may be presumed to have the best interests of his City and District at heart, do a little soul searching with respect to Harambee, and shift his negative position to an enlightened and constructive one.

Support Our Courts

Our lower courts appear to be fighting fire with fire as far as the crime rate is concerned. The stiff sentences being meted out in some cases act as a welcome counterbalance to the high court decisions which have done more to hinder than to help law enforcers in recent years.

Two such recent examples occurred before Oakland County Circuit Judge PHILIP PRATT and Wayne County Circuit Judge EDWARD S. PIGGINS.

An Oxford Township youth and an Orion Township man were each sentenced by Judge Pratt to 20 to 40 years in the abduction and assault of a Pontiac couple. One of the defendants had pleaded guilty to rape; the other to kidnaping.

Going Judge PRATT one better, Judge PIGGINS imposed 40- to 50-year sentences on two Taylor men for beating and raping a 16-year-old baby sitter.

In imposing the sentences, Judge PIGGINS told the defendants: "It's high time people know that there will be no leniency from the courts in dealing with street hoodlums and criminals like you and that the courts are behind the police."

We commend both judges for their "get tough" attitude in sentencing criminals. Maybe a little more of this would put a dent in our rising crime rate. Additional police personnel at the enforcement end won't do the trick alone. We need solid support from our courts, too.

New Life for Dead Tires

Few things are more useless than used-up automobile tires.

Kids can have fun with them; fishermen say they make good artificial shoals for the breeding of fish; they protect a lot of garage walls from car bumpers; people in less fortunate lands carve them up and make sandals out of them.

But in general, nothing is more of an eyesore, burden and source of pollution than the mountains of wornout tires that dot the landscape. An estimated 100 million of them are thrown away, piled up, burned or otherwise disposed of annually.

This may not be true much longer. Researchers with the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines Coal Research Center are hopeful that old tires may one day become a source of valuable chemicals, as well as gas for heat and power.

In recent investigations, reports the National Highway Users Conference, scientists obtained surprisingly large quantities of chemicals, oil liquids, gas and tar by heating shredded tires in a reactor.

As much as 140 gallons of liquid oils and 1,500 cubic feet of gas, comparable in heating value to natural gas, were recovered from a ton of tires.

This is an example of what is going to have to be the normal thing in the not-very-distant future. A society more crowded, more industrialized, far more dependent on earth's limited resources than it is today simply will not be able to waste anything.

Big-Four Talks on Mideast Ill-Advised

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — It is obviously not in the interest of the United States to accept France's proposal for a Big Four conference on the Middle East.

DENNEN

President De Gaulle's suggestion, to no one's surprise, was hastily endorsed by United Nations Secretary General U Thant, who is hardly a friend of the United States.

But President Richard Nixon is experienced enough in foreign affairs to avoid international negotiations where the United States will be isolated.

The Russians and de Gaulle are already committed to an anti-American policy in the Middle East.

Britain, the fourth nation of the Big Four, can play at best a conciliatory role. The British have important economic interests in the Arab countries and, like the Russians, are eager to reopen the Suez Canal as quickly as possible.

Four-power negotiations thus will add tinder to an explosive situation.

MAY BRING STABILITY

However, in the view of East European diplomats, direct negotiations between the United States and Russia, who are the principal adversaries in the Middle East, may bring stability, if not peace, to the troubled area sooner than expected.

The proposal by Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban to exchange views with the Arabs through U.N. Ambassador Jarring — rather than by direct negotiations as Israel had previously requested — clears the way for serious negotiations.

★ ★ ★

The Israelis seem no longer convinced that massive retaliation discourages the Arab terrorists. They are also hinting that they will relinquish much of the Arab territory they conquered in 1967 in exchange for a settlement that will guarantee their right to exist.

On the Arab side, Egypt's President Nasser and Jordan's King Hussein, despite pressure from extremists and terroritsts for another military confrontation with Israel, are also anxious for a relaxation of tensions.

LESS LIKELY TO WIN

Even though Egypt's armed strength is now back where it was before the war in June 1967, the Arab leaders know perfectly well that they are today even less likely to win another round with Israel.

Moreover, it has now been confirmed that Moscow warned the Arab leaders to curb their terrorists and guerrillas who seek to escalate Arab-Israeli hostilities.

★ ★ ★

To be sure, Russia's role in the Middle East, the Kremlin's policy of "no peace and no war," is ambiguous.

Where their interests are involved directly, as in Czechoslovakia, the Russians will not hesitate to resort to armed force.

But it is increasingly clear that for the immediate future they are not interested in encouraging another war in the Middle East which they know their Arab clients cannot win.

Face In The Window

David Lawrence Says:

Prayer Breakfasts Are Big Hit

WASHINGTON — For more than two hours yesterday morning, most of the persons who head up the government of the United States engaged in prayer.

LAWRENCE

First there was a congressional prayer breakfast, at which members of both houses and their friends from different parts of the country were present. Then came the annual presidential prayer breakfast, attended by the Cabinet and members of Congress as well as the governors of several states.

President and Mrs. Nixon and Vice President and Mrs. Agnew were guests at both gatherings.

Altogether, nearly 2,000 men and women attended the two functions. It was the largest number to participate in an annual presidential prayer breakfast, which now have been held for 17 years.

President Nixon, in his talk, said that recently he had studied the inaugural addresses of all preceding presidents, and he pointed out that one theme was common to every one of them.

SPIRITUAL HERITAGE

Each president, he declared, "recognized the spiritual heritage of this nation and asked for the blessing of God on this country — in not only its affairs at home, but its affairs abroad."

Mr. Nixon said he also found one theme running through the majority of the letters he had been able to read among the thousands which have come to the White House from all over the country since inauguration day.

"In these days in which religion is not supposed to be fashionable in many quarters, in these days when skepticism and even agnosticism seems to be on the upturn, over half of all the letters that have come into our office have indicated that people of all faiths and of all nations in a very simple way are saying: We are praying for you, Mr. President."

GREETINGS

Vice President Agnew read a passage from the Bible.

There were greetings from a Senate prayer breakfast group by Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, and from the House prayer breakfast group by Rep. Graham Purcell of Texas, as well as prayers by Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine and Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon.

It was a thrilling occasion. Not only were portions of the event televised in this country, but it was broadcast overseas to the armed forces of the United States in Vietnam and elsewhere.

This emphasis on prayer is characteristic of the feeling of dedication that prevails in government nowadays, as the challenges of the era confront members of both parties with a responsibility of unprecedented proportions.

Bob Considine Says:

Birchers 'Unmask' Nixon —Just Another Red Plot

NEW YORK — Ah, there's good news tonight for the Nixon administration.

The John Birch Society has come out against it. All those millionaires and deep-dyed Republicans the new President has chosen are just another facet of the continuing Communist plot to do us in!

CONSIDINE

★ ★ ★

Robert Welch, the Bircher Big Brother who once accused President Eisenhower of being a tool of the Kremlin, has just issued an eagerly awaited bulletin giving his beknighted followers The Word on that blue-serge, button-down new gang in Washington.

"The false course has not been changed any by the recent elections," he writes. For proof he points to such Nixon aides as Robert D. Murphy, Henry Kissinger, Daniel Moynihan and a ghostly closet of unnamed "insiders" who are, he says, running Nixon.

'SERVED COMMUNISTS'

Murphy, according to Welch's gospel, served the Communist cause by conspiring to oust Camille Chamoun as president of Lebanon in 1958 and replacing him with "one Fouad Chehab, as originally suggested and desired by Nasser . . . the Communist dictator of Egypt."

Welch finally dusts off the distinguished diplomat with this: "Mr. Murphy's services to the Communist cause were always equally certain and effective, with regard to Algeria, with regard to the Dominican Republic, and in many other parts of the world throughout his whole career."

★ ★ ★

Kissinger, who once was a neighbor of Welch, may be out to lure the U.S. into a One World government "which would be run by Communists, (and) there is no reason to believe that Mr. Kissinger is disturbed by that prospect in the least," Mr. Welch tells us.

Other black marks against Kissinger: he holds three degrees from Harvard ("the alma mater of subversion"), worked for the Rockefellers, advised Henry Cabot Lodge on Vietnam matters, and served as a consultant to such arch foes of America as Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy.

As if that isn't enough to clinch his case against Kissinger, Welch writes: "One of his books was highly praised by Robert Oppenheimer; he got his Ph.D. degree by studying under McGeorge Bundy . . . and his appointment has met with such glowing praise from the New York Times and the Washington Post."

Welch sees Moynihan as a fellow who devotes lots of time promoting "revolutionary activities in this country, by supporting agitation to that end among the American Negroes, obviously Mr. Moynihan's forte and chief reason for existence." Also, he was a friend of "New York City's extremely left-wing Mayor, Robert Wagner."

"There are people who put a more sinister interpretation on Dr. Moynihan's schemes," Welch writes darkly. He sees a day when the white bureaucracy, having showered so many billions on non-working Negroes, will face chaotic bankruptcy and fall easy prey to the One World that is to be ruled by Communists.

Congratulates Challenge of Ruling Against Prayer

Congratulations to the Clairton, Pa., Board of Education for challenging the Supreme Court decision against prayer in public schools. It is interesting to note that one individual started the entire battle to end prayer in schools and that it was not based on a public decision but rather the influence of one person.

★ ★ ★

I advocate a test of this ruling by leaving it up to public vote or even a congressional vote. How interesting there has been no decision to abolish pornography in the movies or magazines, but something as constructive and good as prayer is ruled unconstitutional.

Object to Recent Display of 'Art' at U of M

When do we stop the headlong rush to decadence? We have a State Senator who states that there was no overt indecency in the exhibitionistic display at U. of M. If an old man had unzipped his trousers in a public park he would have been thrown in jail on a charge of gross indecency. Yet, in the name of art, are we to close our eyes to degeneracy and indecent exposure? I object to obscenity and degeneracy on a State-supported campus. True, the human body is not obscene, as the misguided Dean at U. of M. has stated, but I do not believe that it was meant to be displayed in questionable attitudes before hundreds of young, impressionable students.

Replies to Recent Letter About Airports

Mae Klipfel's letter concerning pilots was interesting. Since I am a driver in addition to being a pilot, who tells me when to use the roads, or who has told you that you cannot use the airports? Many instructors at Pontiac-Oakland will be glad to teach you to fly. Who has paid for all the interstate highways across the Country? What an airport we could have with that amount of money made available. I suggest you check with a few fixed-base operators to see how much they have invested in buildings and hangars. Postmaster Donaldson suggests the problem is probably a local matter at the final destination point. However, he would have to see the letter before he could check into it thoroughly. Equitable Law

Charlotte (N.C.) News

While major overhaul of the Selective Service system remains bogged down in Congress, the Supreme Court is quite properly insuring against abuse of existing draft laws. Back in May the court in a burst of uncommon clarity upheld a federal law prohibiting destruction of draft cards.

And in two new decisions the court prohibited draft boards from inducting into the Army individuals for political reasons but permitted local boards to draft most young eligible protesters who otherwise might choose to challenge their classifications in court.

★ ★ ★

Thus the court has acted decisively to curb occasional abuses of draft laws by both protesters and draft officials.

But it has left untouched some major problems. While curbing flagrant protests of the draft system, the court decisions seem to leave protesters a narrow range of choices, the most likely being going to prison or into the Army.

Further, the decision preventing the practice by some draft boards of inducting into the Army war protesters applies only to men who are exempt from the draft through federal law, including divinity students, veterans, reservists and sole surviving sons. It does not include the mass of eligible inductees who may still be liable to abuse by local boards.

★ ★ ★

It may be that the court has moved as far as it can on clearing up the confusion which surrounds the Selective Service. The problems which remain still reflect the need for Congress to insure a more equitable draft method.

Price of Success

Salt Lake City Desert News

Ever wonder why some nations prosper while others never seem to catch up? Or why the fellow at the next desk gets ahead faster than you do?

The explanation is simple: The successful, it seems, are neurotic. At least that's how an educational psychologist, identified by Atlas Magazine only as Dr. R. Lynn, sees it.

★ ★ ★

Based on studies he has made of University students, Dr. Lynn declares that scholars who do well rank high in neurosis. Moreover, he insists that statistics prove that the more anxiety-ridden nations are more successful economically.

By that standard Vietnam ought to be about the most prosperous nation in the world. And the ghetto dweller ridden by fears over his inability to meet his rent and grocery bills should be the epitome of the American success story.

Opinions Vary on Waterford School Needs

Waterford Township officials and children are crying again for more money for the schools. Our school taxes are close to $100 per $1,000 of property value. Property evaluation can be changed every year, so with each $1,000 of re-evaluation our taxes go up almost $100 — not just the $9 on $1,000 they would have the public believe. Nine dollars on each of the State's new re-evaluation plus the almost $100 school taxes on each new $1,000 equalization adds up to an awful burden. Then, a $2,000 raise for a superintendent that can only cut the quality of education. The average citizen is burning.

D. V. PILKINTON
960 Myrtle

When the elementary school children of Waterford go on half days next year, they will surely be shortchanged. The emphasis during this shortened time will necessarily be on the basic subjects: reading, arithmetic, spelling and writing. Many areas of study will be left out. At the grade level I teach, the following ommissions will have to be made: language, creative writing, art, physical education, special reports, Michigan, social studies, map study, science, book reports, library period, current events discussions, study periods, literary appreciation.

★ ★ ★

I hope responsible parents and citizens of Waterford will participate in the present petition drive to put a millage vote on the ballots again soon. This drive has been initiated by the students of Waterford. I hope the result will reflect the feelings of the many parents who do not wish their children to miss a full education.

Believes Prayer Is Important to Our Nation

Watching the inauguration, it was a blessing to hear the prayers offered to God to help Mr. Nixon lead this great nation of ours. With God's help, many things can be accomplished.

Why do we as a nation sit back and let a few people decide we do not need prayer in our schools? I pray something will be done to overrule this minority. Let us not only bring prayer back to our schools, but let us start the day with a prayer in our hearts, and present our God to our children in such a way that as they reach maturity they will not depart from His infinite ways.

'Disagree With Editor's Note on OU Affair'

In an editor's note to a recent Voice of the People letter by David Bradbury, you said "Senator Huber seems to speak for a small minority, of which you must be one." This is in reference to the Oakland University affair. In my estimation this is very untrue. I have heard nothing but commendable opinions of Senator Huber's action. Parents and citizens are very concerned over the loose morals in these universities and the permissiveness of the teachers and authorities, especially in the State-supported universities, which seem to be worse than the other smaller colleges.

★ ★ ★

The people who live in the vicinity of Oakland University hesitate to, and many will not, send their children there because of what goes on. All the rumors can't be wrong, and there are plenty of them. You showed bad taste in referring to Mr. Bradbury as "being one of a small minority." How do you know this? I believe you are somewhat biased in your defense of Oakland University. Please be fair in your editorials, which are generally good.

'More People Should Enjoy Snowmobiling'

I find it a shame some people are not broad-minded about sports. Snowmobiling is a healthy sport enjoyed in the country on cut trails and dead end roads, not streets. This is a sizable investment in winter fun, the season is short and prime snow conditions are rare. If more people would get out and exercise in this way, instead of sitting at home worrying about how to trouble others when they are having fun, it would be a better world.

Comments on Need for New State Capitol

So they want a new state capitol because the one we have is old and out of date. Before they build a new one, why don't they take a look at what the mentally retarded are housed in. Why doesn't The Pontiac Press take inside and outside pictures of our new courthouse and the Pontiac State Hospital and put them in the paper side by side? If that doesn't make County and State officials feel ashamed, they are in office for the titles and not for the mentally retarded.

'Need Raise in Deduction for Dependents'

I think we should have the $600 per person deduction raised on our Federal Income Tax. The person who stands in our way is Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. He thinks this would cost the government too much money. They don't think twice about raising our taxes. Maybe if he is swamped with mail he will come around to our way of thinking. His address is 1136 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

S. FOSTER

I have just learned that the reason there has not been a raise in the income tax deduction for dependents since 1948 is because Wilbur Mills is of the opinion that it would cost the government too much money. I have seven children at home (six in school), and it would cost the government a lot more money if my husband stopped working nine or ten hours a day, six and one-half days a week, and went on welfare. Let's all send Mr. Mills some letters.

Agree With Letters About Uncleaned Walks

I've read the letters about the cheap citizens who don't care for their walks in the winter. When the thaws come, those who have taken care of their walks have bare cement. The Scrooges still have slush and ice. They're a disgrace to this neat city.

Laird Orders In-Depth Study of Pueblo Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Pueblo study ordered by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird will range beyond the case of the espionage vessel to probe "thoroughly all existing policies and procedures related to such intelligence efforts."

This wide-ranging charter was spelled out in a memorandum from Laird to his deputy, David Packard, setting the study in motion.

★ ★ ★

The brief memo was made available after Laird announced Thursday at his first news conference as secretary of defense that he had assigned Packard the job.

The Nixon administration's Pentagon chief also handed Packard the huge task of reviewing in depth the Johnson administration's $79-billion defense budget for the coming fiscal year.

DETAIL WORK

These actions strengthened the impression that Packard will shoulder much of the detailed Pentagon work, leaving Laird free for "big picture" thinking and advising President Nixon.

Laird said objectives of the Pueblo review, which may take weeks, are these:

- To study "the whole matter of the role of this kind of craft . . . and the protection of this kind of ship if such a role is necessary at any time in the future so that we will not have these incidents again."
- To make sure that "the rights of all individuals are protected at all times, and to see that they are and have been in this case."

The defense secretary voiced no criticism of a Navy court of inquiry now taking testimony in the capture of the intelligence ship Pueblo by North Korea a year ago.

He said he believes the inquiry proceedings are necessary and are being handled "in a very fair way," but that he had ordered the Packard study because of the widespread interest in the matter.

SCAPEGOAT CHANGE

Some critics in Congress and elsewhere have charged that the Navy is out to make Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the Pueblo, a scapegoat—a charge denied by Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, the Navy's chief.

There also has been considerable public criticism that the Pueblo was permitted to operate in waters off hostile North Korea without naval warship or air protection, and that she was left unaided when the North Koreans moved in on the Pueblo Jan. 23, 1968.

★ ★ ★

Defense sources said Packard will conduct a "A-to-Z review" starting with such fundamental questions as: "Should we have these ships doing this job?"

★ ★ ★

The guess is that the answer will be affirmative—Defense officials have contended virtually unanimously that this, among other, means of gathering intelligence on hostile or potentially hostile powers is essential to U.S. security.

An electric bicycle has been developed which can travel 100 miles on one battery charged at about 20 miles an hour.

British Accented in Cars, Clothes

By JEANNE NELSON

As the ad says, "You've come a long way, baby, to get where you got to today," and that's what it's all about at Henry Ford Museum in Greenfield Village.

The newest, fastest, most beautiful sports cars engineers and designers have built, stand in dramatic contrast to the past within the Museum's great halls.

It's all part of the 17th Annual Sports Cars In Review — this year coupled with fashions, beginning now and headed for the future. Cars and clothes alike, are young, glad-to-be-alive, free-spirited and swinging all the way.

Hughes-Hatcher-Suffrin borrows the London Look in fashions as perfect go-togethers with the sleek racers. The press corps saw it Thursday in preparation for the big show on Feb. 7 whe Detroit's noted disc jockey, Dick Purtan, will narrate two shows, at 8:30 and 9:30 p.m.

The show chronicles 40 years of sports car development, emphasizing the significant influence of British styling and engineering, while the fashions parade a new influence of the British mod look today.

Among the cars, undoubtedly the Bentley holds a most special place in English motor history. This is the car that brought to Britain her greatest victories in international road racing. Following World War II, another fabled British car — the Jaguar — ran away with high honors.

Mary Quant — who can deny her bold new mini look that places an indelible mark on fashion world — is the British equivalent of her countrymen racing car designers. The racy look in fashion doesn't stop with the gals. Bold new shirt colors, giant plaids and shaped jackets invade the men's world of style in this special show.

The Museum will remain open until 10 p.m. the night of the show, as it does every Friday, Saturday and Sunday during the 1969 Sports Cars In Review. The cars on view and the fashion show are included in the regular Museum admission charge.

Boy meets girl in a Bentley. The race begins when a young man makes points in blue, olive and brown giant glen plaid sport coat boasting button initials of designer, Bill Blass. His olive slacks are slightiy flared at ankles. She's in brown and white pin striped bells that ride low on hips. A gold body shirt completes the mod look.

See-through print sleeves mark a white rayon and silk skimmer, a classic in spring's fashion race. The other half of the stand-out pair is a 1969 red Corvette Stingray sport coupe.

"Bared for action" is a jump suit in royal blue and white coasting to an easy win. Side cut-outs provide news on the fashion front. Her playmate is the Ford Lotus.

There's room for two here and a vivid red culotte suit with new, longer jacket spells out the message to would-be passengers of this '69 MG. White and navy carry out the spring '69 color mandate.

Husband-Wife Medical Team May Do Second SS Hope Tour

SARANAC (AP) — A globetrotting husband and wife medical team, currently completing a one-year tour aboard the mercy ship SS Hope, is considering serving a second hitch.

The former Mary Lou Reinhardt, a one-time Saranac resident who is a registered nurse, and her husband, Dr. Barry Panter of New Brunswick, N.J., have been stationed aboard the Hope since last March.

★ ★ ★

Both work in the children's ward of the ship, which is presently at Colombo, Ceylon.

Mrs. Panter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reinhardt of Saranac, has indicated in correspondence the couple is contemplating volunteering for a second year because they enjoy the work.

Mary Lou, among the top 10 finalists in the Miss Michigan Pageant in 1963, was graduated from Saranac High School in 1959 and from Hurley School of Nursing in Flint four years later. She worked briefly at a Belding Hospital before moving to Los Angeles.

MET IN LA

The Panters met in 1966 at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Los Angeles, where he was completing his final year as an intern and she was head nurse in the pediatrics department.

Following their marriage in 1967, and shortly after an around-the-world honeymoon, the couple joined the Hope medical staff.

In March the Hope leaves for Tunisia, and the Panters have indicated they just may be aboard the seagoing medical missionary ship for another year.

Senior Citizen Has Obligation to His 'Date'

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: When going to a dance with a gentleman and he knows a lot of the women present, is he expected to dance with each one? This is a Senior Citizens group and the women outnumber the men about five to one.

I go with this man steady and expect to marry him. The women come up to us and ask him to dance with them, so he feels obligated and I sit out.—Mrs. G.W.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. W.: When a man has a date with a woman—Whether senior citizen or 17—he is not obligated to spend the evening dancing with other women. In fact, it is most inconsiderate to do so if it means leaving his date alone.

Show your friend this answer—to let him know you would appreciate having the pleasure of his company when he asks you out.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter would like to plan a "Sweetheart Wedding." I have never seen one. Would you inform me as soon as possible as to details of this type of wedding? — Mrs. C.R.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. R.: I have never even heard of a "Sweetheart Wedding," let alone attended one! So once again I am appealing to my readers. Will any of you who know about such weddings please write and tell me?

Thank you, one and all!

'His and Her' Jobs Start Trouble in Large Family

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 24, been married six years and have five children — going on six. (No, we aren't Catholic, and we didn't have any of these kids on purpose, but oh well, you know how it is.) My problem is my husband. George thinks all he has to do is bring home the paycheck. Everything else is MY job.

He never once got up during the night to change a baby or give him a bottle. Nor has he ever lifted a finger to help me in the house. When I was seven months pregnant with our first I had to learn how to drive a car because George had a few beers too many, smashed up the car and had his driver's license taken away. I had to drive myself to the hospital to have the baby.

★ ★ ★

I don't know how we ever made it. I nearly had the baby in the car. I'm in my eighth month right now. This morning while I was on my hands and knees scrubbing the kitchen floor, George was laying on his backside on the sofa watching TV, and he had the nerve to complain because he saw cobwebs on the ceiling. Maybe if I had time to lay on my backside on the sofa I would have noticed the cobwebs myself.

★ ★ ★

Abby, how can I get some cooperation out of this guy? I'm ready to fall apart.

TIRED

DEAR TIRED: I don't know any magic formula to get instant cooperation out of a husband, but for openers you can close the "baby factory." If you've never heard of PLANNED PARENTHOOD, get acquainted.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: When a lady comes to your table at a restaurant, is offered a chair, but refuses saying she is going to stay only a minute, but she stands there talking, how long should a gentleman remain standing?

DON

DEAR DON: Two minutes. And if she's still standing and talking, sit down. She's no lady.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Here's a new one for you. My wife and I are the same size — 5 ft. 10 in. tall, and we weigh 130 pounds. We wear the same size shirts, shoes etc., which is my problem because my wife "pirates" all my clothing. Telling her doesn't do any good. Also, it wouldn't help if I were to buy her more clothes as she already has a beautiful ample wardrobe. Any serious suggestion would be greatly appreciated.

NEARLY NAKED

DEAR NEARLY: If you're not putting me on, the only way to keep your wife from putting your clothes on is to keep them under lock and key.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Schedule One-Night Hilarious Revue for and by Members of Open Hunt

By SHIRLEY GRAY

Come next Saturday, a bunch of the boys (and gals) will be whooping it up at Bloomfield Open Hunt. A just-for-fun revue entitled "Bored of Grievances," featuring a talented cast of 30 BOHers, will have a one-night run.

★ ★ ★

The musical skit was put together by Isabel (Mrs. Charles) Himelhoch of Lakeside Avenue in Birmingham and Helen and Lee Hackley of Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

The libretto, all in rhyme, is Lee's work.

Theme of the spoof, loosely, is an irreverent look at various club doings — riding, tennis, skeet shooting, what-have-you.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Irene Murphy of Birmingham visited the Presidential Palace in Manila, at the invitation of Philippine president Ferdinand Marcos and his wife, during her recent visit to the island nation.

★ ★ ★

BEAUTY

The first lady, Imelda Marcos, is a "breathtaking" beauty, reports Mrs. Murphy, and the darling of the press, which has dubbed her "The Fabulous One."

An unexpected treat was a reunion with Wong, the Chinese steward of the household staff during the Murphy years.

★ ★ ★

On Christmas Eve Mrs. Murphy visited G. Mennen Williams and his wife Nancy. The former state governor is now the American Ambassador to the Philippines.

"Soapy is very popular, and looks very happy," she said.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Once a year I write about cancer of the bust. I reach so many women through my column who might not be reached in other ways that I feel I have a chance to help save lives.

I recently wrote about this subject. Since then I have received so many letters from women who have had first hand experience with this threat that I want to publish a few excerpts from their letters. What they say will influence you much more than anything I can say.

Roosevelt's famous words "We have nothing to fear but fear" certainly apply here. Many women are so afraid of cancer that they put off seeing a doctor when they discover a lump in a breast. Their fear causes them to delay and may be fatal.

★ ★ ★

The chances are the lump is benign. Many women have these harmless lumps, but if cancer is present, time may be the difference between life and death. Cancer of the breast is highly curable if it is discovered and treated soon enough, the sooner the better.

Here are some of the things women wrote me. I thought it interesting that they all hoped I would publish their letters because of their desire to help.

★ ★ ★

"A year ago I discovered a lump in my right breast. I know what I am going to tell you makes me sound like an idiot, and I am inclined to agree. I was so frightened by the idea of cancer that I kept putting off seeing my doctor. I was so afraid to hear the truth if it was bad news. I kept thinking the lump would go away and it didn't seem to be getting any larger.

"The thought haunted me day and night. In fact I slept very little at night. I became exhausted and depressed. I was not myself at all. After about three months of this foolishness my husband made an appointment with my doctor and took me to his office. Fortunately, it was a harmless condition, but what I did to my health and happiness by my extreme and constant worry I cannot estimate. It wasn't very pleasant for my family either."

ANOTHER LETTER

Another, "Once when I was undressing in front of a mirror I noticed an indentation in one of my breasts but I could not feel a lump so I didn't worry. Then I read that any change in the shape of the bust should be investigated. The result was surgery and then cobalt treatments. Please tell women this."

One more, "Five years ago I had a lump in my breast. Yes, I was afraid to consult a doctor. I had had this lump for several months when I saw one. Why didn't I go sooner? I was afraid.

★ ★ ★

"My bust was removed. I thank God I finally got the courage to move to consult a physician. My doctor says I am cured. The important thing is I AM ALIVE! I am happily married and lead a perfectly normal life. Having a breast removed is not the end of the world. 'You learn to live with it.'"

★ ★ ★

This column is not meant to scare you but just the opposite. Only a small percentage of lumps are cancerous, and if it is cancer, timely treatment is effective.

Thousands of Cards From Loveland

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — With Valentine's Day only about two weeks away, postmaster Fred Brewer is getting ready to play Cupid again.

Each year, an estimated 100,000 valentines are processed by Brewer and his staff for people in all 50 states and many foreign countries who want their messages of love to carry the postmark of this fittingly named town.

★ ★ ★

Brewer himself hand cancels about 8,000 valentines, including the ones for his wife and five grandchildren.

In addition to the "Loveland" postmark, cards and letters sent to this city of 18,500 for remailing are stamped with a barebottomed Cupid in a cowboy hat and a verse. This year's reads, "The heart-L brand reaches far throughout the land."

★ ★ ★

The mailing campaign for the Feb. 14 hearts and flowers day was first thought of in 1947. Anyone who wants the special postmark simply stamps and addresses his valentine as usual, encloses it in another envelope and mails it to Loveland for redistribution.

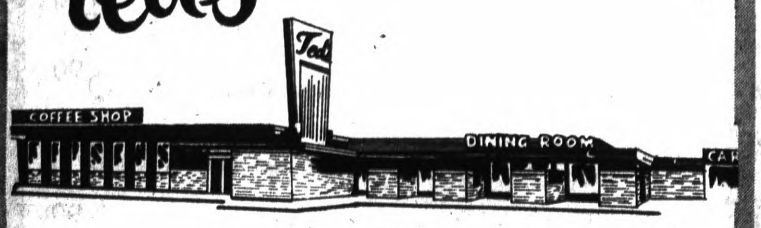

Getting into the spirit of things, the Chamber of Commerce has, for the past eight years, chosen as "Miss Loveland Valentine" from among the community's high school seniors.

This year's beauty is Sue Reab, 17, a cheerleader and straight-A student. Six of the seven previous sweethearts have married.

There are three other Lovelands in the postal guide — in Ohio, Oklahoma and Iowa. None of them, however, gets more than a few cards for remailing.

Other romantics can choose from Loving or Lovelady in Texas; Lovely, Okla.; Lovelock, Nev.; Loves Park, Ill.; or Love Valley, N.C.

Editorial Team Writes on Homosexuality

NEW YORK — Air pollutants aren't the only things wafting in the wind that worry Americans. That three-letter word — SEX — continues to shake up parents more than many will admit, overnight since there is just more sex in the air to disturb them, according to a man-and-wife writing team.

According to Peter Wyden, who credits his interest in sociological topics to his role as a magazine editor, "Ours is a country of overly worried parents. Americans are becoming the proverbial Jewish mother about their children. They are overly anxious and overly concerned. Even with this concern parents are not giving the love that is most important."

★ ★ ★

Wyden feels that he gets a "chronically free education" as does his wife Barbara, who is woman's editor of The New York Times Magazine. He is executive editor of Ladies Home Journal.

★ ★ ★

One particular phase of sex problems cropped up constantly in conversations. It was homosexuality and the possibility a son or daughter would take such a course.

"Barbara and I felt," Wyden explains, "that we knew of no other topic in which there are so many misinformed or divergent views." Their step was a direct one — to run down as much information as possible on homosexuality and present it in such a way as "to help parents understand or spot the problems."

This they did in "Growing Up Straight, What Every Thoughtful Parent Should Know About Homosexuality." "Stein and Day.)

CRITERION OF SUCCESS

Wyden, who has two teen-age sons by a previous marriage, says he feels the book will be a success if it reaches one parent who needs it and bolsters parents doing a good job and badly in need of reassurance. He also hopes it will reach relatives, friends, sisters and brothers "who can communicate their concern. This is a difficult topic to talk about."

★ ★ ★

Until recently few pediatricians were equipped to advise parents or even spot tendencies in children. Wyden doesn't consider, he says, that boys or girls note homosexuality earlier than age 8.

One of the country's tragedies is "that there is more homosexuality from 8 to 20 than most realize and these youths have no one to turn to they can trust. Fear and guilt of exposure or censure by family and friends without a helping hand haunts the potential homosexual."

★ ★ ★

The Wydens' response to the concern of other parents was one reason for their sensitive work. Another was their objection to the strong voice of homophiles who promote it "with widely erroneous information or tend to equate homosexuality with left-handedness."

A striking discovery the Wydens emphasize in their actual case studies is that dad is as much if not more responsible for a homosexual son or daughter than mom.

In outlining false notions and needless worries, the Wydens point out 'today the scientific consensus holds that homosexuality is very largely conditioned by the environment in childhood, and most particularly by parental influence in the home."

"Whatever their other differences, experts do agree that the role of fathers, in making of male as well as female adhomosexuality, has been inadequately reconized and that parents should develop a better understanding of why this is a that books about the raising of children are usually read only by mothers. We hope this book will be an exception."

The Wydens point out that "over and over, psychiatrists told us, 'I never saw a critical factor. We are aware homosexual who had a good relationship with his father.' " As one research reported: "We have come to the conclusion that a constructive, supportive, warmly related father precludes the possibility of a homosexual son; he acts as a neutralizing, protective agent should the mother make seductive or close-binding attempts."

★ ★ ★

However, it isn't the amount of time a father spends with his son, researchers learned, but "the loving quality of the fathering which the boy receives, and sometimes even the mere memory of it as reinforced by the mother, that now turn out to be a vital factor."

CONCORDIA, Kan. (AP) — There will be no more apples for the teacher in the schools of District 333. The school board has called a halt to the giving of presents by students to teachers and staff members at any time.

Packaging Is Subject of Program Kit

East Lansing — A look at food packaging, both present and future, is provided in a slide-lecture program available for use by teachers, service clubs, church groups and civic organizations.

Written and produced by consumer marketing information agents of the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, the program probes the $8 billion-a-year food packaging business.

★ ★ ★

The 45-minute program, which is entitled "Wraps and Packs for Food," explores: consumer "wants," industry needs and ideas, packaging regulations, industry growth, package colors that sell, and the advantages, disadvantages and costs of certain package materials and shapes.

★ ★ ★

The complete packet sells for $10 and contains 45 color slides, a teaching guide, a brief quiz on food packaging and 10 copies of a four-page leaflet, "Food Packaging is Big Business."

★ ★ ★

Kits may be obtained from the Consumer Marketing Office, Old Forestry Bldg., Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich., 48823. They may also be loaned from the consumer marketing offices in Detroit, Saginaw, Kalamazoo, Flint, Mt. Pleasant, Marquett and Grand Rapids, Mich.

Wear Tells Tale

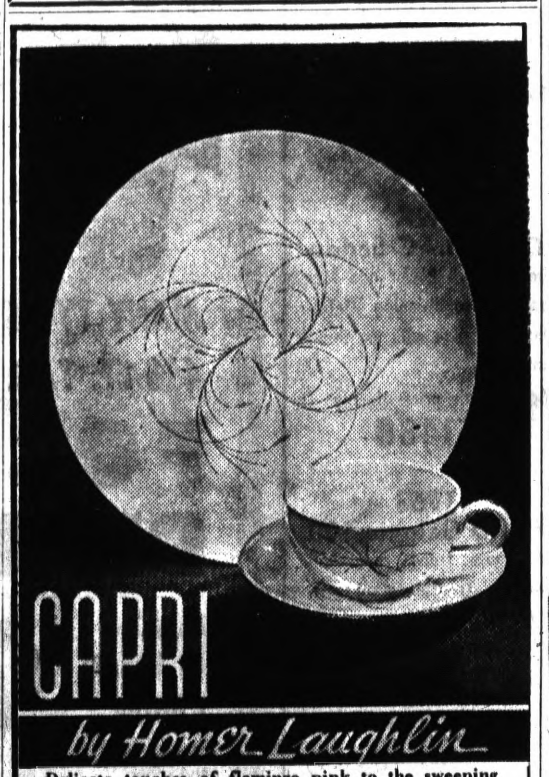

Points of wear on old shoes can tell whether they fit properly. Bad linings could mean the shoes are too loose. Excessive wear on tips means shoes probably are too short.

Human-Dog Cancer Link Explored

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five persons who came down with cancers of the digestive tract lived with dogs which had developed cancers on the part of the dog people most love to touch, namely the head.

This was the only "association" between human and canine cancers turned up in a scientific search for cancer relationships between the human being and his best friend.

★ ★ ★

The one association could be "spurious," said Dr. Robert Schneider and his associates of the California State Department of Health in reporting it. But they urged more extensive studies of people and dogs living in the same households.

★ ★ ★

"Particularly benign as well as malignant skin neoplasms in man and dog should be studied, since it is possible that an effect in one species would cause a malignancy which in another species would cause a benign neoplasm," they said in the journal of the National Cancer Institute.

ANIMAL SURVEY

The statistical base of their study was an animal cancer survey which compiled dog cancers in 427 households in California's Alameda County. These households were "matched" with 520 households in which the dog members had been cancer-free.

In those families whose dog members developed cancers, 54 human members also developed them. In those whose dogs were in continuous health, there had been 39 human cancers. Overall this meant nothing statistically, for solid reasons.

★ ★ ★

The crude cancer rate for dogs is estimated to be 360 per 100,000 dogs and that for peoples is 271.1 per 100,000 persons. With such low rates, statistical comparisons could reveal only an association of a high magnitude.

Such was the "association" of a cancer on the heads of five dogs and a variety of cancers in the human digestive tract in which the scientists, for technical reasons, had less than complete faith.

CANCERS SIMILAR

The question they sought to answer was as much whether cancer could be transmitted from people to dogs as from dogs to people or if both could acquire cancer from the same, undefined environmental sources.

Their cancers are similar, and "It is logical to question whether a relationship exists between the natural occurrence of this disease in these species," the scientists said.

★ ★ ★

They recalled that one type of dog mouth cancer is caused by a virus. Cancer science has yet to prove that any human cancer has a viral cause. Furthermore, the scientists said, a canine skin cancer has been transmitted to other dogs with cell-free filtrates of the cancer, indicating that a virus is involved, although it hasn't been isolated.

In addition to not recording benign growths, the California Tumor Registry for people does not record skin cancers, and this the scientists labeled as "unfortunate since the skin is one of the most suspected sites for association with animal cancers."

New Army Dentifrice 'Bests Any on Market'

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (UPI) — An inexpensive raspberry-flavored dentifrice is the Army's latest weapon in the war against tooth decay.

The toothpaste is a 9 per cent stannous fluoride mixture — about five times as potent as fluoride varieties available to the public. It comes in a small tube 1½ inches long, and one application — given under medical supervision — lasts six months. Cost per tube to the military is 15 cents. It is not available for general sale.

★ ★ ★

Col Walter J. Powers, post dental surgeon here, said the dentifrice is from 40 to 60 per cent more effective in fighting cavities than anything now available commercially.

Lt. Col. David E. Layman, post preventive dentistry officer, added that, "in addition to its immunizing properties, the paste has a rather profound effect in inhibiting some small existing cavities—it literally arrests them."

USED IN VIET

While the dentifrice has been used by troops in Vietnam for some time, its use at domestic military bases is relatively new.

However, the military thinks so much of the paste that a crash program has been instituted to provide it for all incoming basic trainees. At Ft. Lewis, that means up to 1,000 men per week.

★ ★ ★

Layman explained that as soon as recruits are organized into companies of about 200 men, the entire unit spends an afternoon at the post dental clinic. The paste is applied with a regular toothbrush.

Cherry Month Set

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed the month of February as Cherry Month in Michigan, citing the fact that the state ranks first in the nation in the production of red tart cherries and "annually harvests more of this delicious fruit than any other area of the world."

WMU Draws Line on Fall Applications

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Doors at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo have been closed to any more incoming freshmen for the 1969 fall semester.

★ ★ ★

"An increase of nearly 20 per cent in applications has necessitated this step," said Clayton Maus, dean of admissions and records. "We have had a record number of applications and this has meant that Western Michigan has had to close earlier than usual."

The only exceptions for enrolling more freshmen, he said, are in certain curricular and special ability areas.

Radio Students at Groves Get Good Practice

By KIM SEROTA

"Good morning, this is the WGHS Morning Report," greets Wylie E. Groves students as they prepare for the day's classes.

WGHS is a simulated radio station used by the radio speech department for morning announcements and class work.

Announcers for the station include regulars Judy Estroff, Dave Logan and Doug Spitznagel and students from the radio speech classes. The programming includes school news, sports events and a weather report.

The course has been the subject of continuous refinements, to give participants a good background in broadcasting and communication arts.

STUDENTS LEARN

Under the direction of Georgianna Jordan, the students learn different types of radio speaking, broadcast engineering and production of programs.

To become involved in the course a student must take a beginning speech class and then have an audition with Miss Jordan.

★ ★ ★

Students who qualify are enrolled in Radio Speech I. Preparing commercials, planning program format, and interviewing technique are then studied.

The culmination of class preparation is a "spot" on the morning program.

"IT GOES AWAY'

Radio Speech II student Mark Burnett remembers, "The worst part of the broadcast is the first few seconds, because you're really chewing on your heart, but then it goes away."

Recently the radio speech classes toured the studios of Radio Station WJR in the Fisher Building in Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Miss Jordan and the students sat in on announcer J.P. McCarthy's afternoon feature, "Focus."

The purpose of the field trip was to observe live interviews such as the conversation between McCarthy and his guests.

McCARTHY'S GUESTS

On the day of the trip, he spoke to folk singer Ron Coden, Detroit Free Press columnist Shirley Eder, and concert pianist George Ossius.

He also talked with an expert on Abraham Lincoln and discussed the University of Detroit's experimental Free University with its originator, U. of D. student Frank Lucatelli.

★ ★ ★

Broadcasts and field trips are a major part of the course, but many students feel that what they get out of it is the most important thing.

Several students commented on the improvement it has made on their speaking and articulation, and many feel that it has aroused their interest in broadcasting.

KEEP IN MIND

On the last point Burnett, quipped, "You've got to keep in mind that J. P. McCarthy makes $200,000 a year!"

Semester Break for PC Students

By GERI KLINKHAMER

Students at Pontiac Catholic High School celebrate their semester break this week. They received today off while the instructors record the previous quarter's marks.

Sunday, the varsity girls' basketball team won its second game against St. Ladislaus, 49-40. The junior varsity won, 21-12. This Sunday the girls play St. Clement at Pontiac Catholic Game times are 1 and 2 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Monday, the National Honor Society held an officers' meeting. The officers received their assignments from the administration.

The "call-back" list for the spring musical was announced by Howard Hoeflein, drama instructor. The people listed were instructed to come for their second tryout either Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday.

The call-back is an attempt to establish the talents of certain people whose abilities might not have been made clear on their first attempt.

SKI MEET

The ski-team held a meet against Berkley and Utica on Monday. The girls were successful against Berkley. The team is under the direction of Cynthia Moloney, physical education instructor.

The Ski Club, also under her direction, scheduled a trip to the Mt. Holly slopes on Wednesday but it was canceled because of the bad weather.

Senior government classes, under the direction of Sister Amedia Reddy IHM toured the Oakland County Courthouse yesterday.

Juniors report a profit of $135 on their sock hop held in the gym last Saturday.

Tonight the Titans will meet St. James of Ferndale at St. James.

Students to Cram for Class

Pancake Competition at PNH

By LARRY HELTSLEY

Pontiac Northern students will have pancakes coming out of their ears after the pancake supper Feb. 7. As a climax to the supper, three hungry, hearty lads from each class will "stuff" themselves in order to gain honor for their respective class.

Seniors will be represented by Greg Adsit, Dave Compangnoni and John Wyzgoski.

The host class of '70 will be represented by Dave Guy, Mario Costello and Gary Sherwood. Trying to uphold the honor of the class of '71 will be Tim Miller, Mike League and Jerry Vance.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the class whose contest representatives are able to consume the most pancakes.

IN CHARGE OF SUPPER

Sue Leever and Scott Hasted are in charge of the supper which will be from 5-7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Proceeds from the supper are to be used for the junior class prom. Adult tickets will be $1.25 and children will be admitted for 75 cents. Children under 5 will be served free.

★ ★ ★

PNH wrestling coach Bill Willson was honored as he gained his 100th coaching victory. The win came over Livonia — Stevenson. Cocaptains Robin McIlroy and Epi Gomez, presented Coach Willson with a cake from the team in celebration of the milestone.

John Osler has been appointed coach for the newly formed ski team. This will be the first time that Northern will be represented by an interschool ski team.

The student officials club, which has been responsible for the timing and functioning of swim meets, has decided to extend its interests. Club sponsor A. A. Landers states that the organization will also time track meets after the swimming season has been completed.

PNH Madrigals will perform in a solo and ensemble festival to be held tomorrow at Madison Junior High. Several members of the Madrigals and A Capella Choir will also compete in the solo competition in trying to qualify for the state finals to be held at a later date.

BATTER BRIGADE — Pontiac Northern High School juniors Scott Hasted and Sue Leever practice stirring up a batch of pancakes for the junior class pancake supper. The supper will be held Feb. 7 from 5-7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Scott and Sue are chairmen of the event.

Second Exchange Student at Lake Orion From Brazil

By CHERYL GRITZINGER

Lake Orion High School has a second exchange student. He is 17-year-old Marcel Goggin from Recife, Brazil, who is staying with the Harold Fields' family.

★ ★ ★

Marcel's American brothers attending LOH are Jim and Scott Fields.

Marcel, whose native language is Portuguese, understands Spanish and has studied French and English. His main purpose in taking part in the Youth For Understanding program is to gain a better understanding of the English language.

At LOHS, his courses include geometry, English, American history, Spanish, and physical education.

'HARDER IN BRAZIL'

When he first arrived, he was placed in a physics class which he greatly enjoyed however he had to drop it because the books printed in English were too difficult.

"The studies are harder in Brazil," Marcel said, "and we have to take nine subjects." He has attended four schools, two public and two private.

★ ★ ★

Soccer and swimming are his favorite sports. He also likes to hunt and fish.

Marcel is interested in music. His favorites are the samba, bossa nova, and classical music. He likes the Beatles, too.

HOPES TO BE ENGINEER

When he returns to Brazil after a six-month stay in the United States, he plans to study at the Escola de Engenharia U.F.P. or become a mechanical engineer. He would like to return to the U.S. someday.

Lake Orion is anticipating the arrival of a third exchange student, Monica Marciel from Rio de Janeiro.

Enrique Delfante, an LOH exchange student from Uruguay, arrived before Christmas.

He helped with the interview with Marcel by translating some of the questions. Enrique's advice to other exchange students is to "Talk, talk, talk, ask questions and talk all the time to gain a better understanding of English."

Teacher at Lakes Is New Moderator for NHS Chapter

By CHRIS GINGRAS

Ann Beardsley, new Spanish and sociology teacher at Our Lady of the Lakes, is the new moderator of the school's National Honor Society. The NHS has been rather inactive this year due to the loss of last year's moderator and the lack of a faculty member to guide it.

Plans now will be made for the induction of new members.

★ ★ ★

Another open forum is planned for the near future. At this time, students will have the opportunity to ask questions of Sister Paul and to offer comments and complaints.

The Student Council announced the formation of a Fund-Raising Research Committee, headed by seniors Doug Stock and Tim Flynn. The committee was established to study the fund-raising techniques of the various schools around OLL.

★ ★ ★

Last week saw the birth of Lakes' first Ski Club. The new club has 42 members and will meet every Thursday at Pine Knob. It is headed by student moderator Pamm Janik.

Mott Students Pitch for March of Dimes

By GEORGIA ROSEWALL

"Give that others may receive." This March of Dimes slogan is being used once again as Waterford Mott students begin their campaign to help in the fight against birth defects.

★ ★ ★

A lollipop sale and a penny pitch were some of the activities held this week, with a bake sale and possible Bermuda Day planned for next.

Grape and cherry lollipops were sold by the Student Council officers Tuesday and Wednesday. Heart-shaped sweet-tarts were also available.

Juniors and sophomores will be able to prove who has the most spirit with a penny pitch today.

Two barrels, one for each class, were placed in the lobby with an area of 10 feet around them roped off. Students pitched their pennies into the barrel of their class.

Each penny that lands in a barrel counts as one point. The pennies will be tallied at the end of the day and the winning class will be nnounced Monday.

★ ★ ★

A bake sale will be held Tuesday. Any students interested in contributing baked goods are asked to contact Cindy Ewer.

Deadline for the girls collecting money for the Miss March of Dimes title is Feb. 6.

PARTICIPANTS LISTED

Participants are Dawn Saffron, Connie Crawford, Cinda White, Kendra Solberg, Teri Barker, and Marie Prieto.

Mott's ski team traveled to Grayling last weekend. Friday, they raced the Grayling ski team at Bear Mountain Sports Park. The girls won the giant slalom.

Saturday, there was free skiing and skiers returned that night, according to coach George Perry.

Members of the ski team are John Cudnohufsky, Harry Drake, Richard Leitner, Chuck Engel, Ken Pass, Gary Solcum, Pat Godchalk, Ann Edwards, Sue Freeman, Pam Morris and Carol McCulloch.

Brotherhood Day, sponsored by the Foreign Exchange Club, will take place Feb. 12 and 13.

Students interested in having an exchange student stay with them overnight are asked to contact Joe Kahn.

Faculty Cagers Play at Brandon

By MARJORIE WIDMAN

Loud roars of laughter could be heard coming from the Brandon High School gymnasium as the high school "Hot Shots" played the elementary "No Shots."

Personalities such as Bombshell Baker, Stretch Flech, Streak Harvey, Tiny Tim, Handsome Hickey, Swingen Swanson and Engadine Krieg showed everyone just how much in shape they were as they panted off the floor.

In case the names sound a little unfamiliar, the contestants were teachers.

The game was sponsored by the Contemporary History Club.

BUSY DAY

Skiing, eating and dancing will be the agenda for the day and evening of Feb. 8, when Mt. Holly will hold its March of Dimes dance.

The $5 tickets are on sale by Student Council students during lunch.

★ ★ ★

Bands, including the Plain Brown Wrapper, will provide one of the many ways of entertainment for the evening.

SWEET CHARITY—Georgia Rosewall, a junior at Waterford Mott High School, collects from sophomore Chuck Dohner for a March of Dimes lollipop while junior Dennis Price tries his hand at a penny pitch for charity. Sponsor of the fund-raising activities for the fight against birth defects is Student Council. Next Tuesday a bake sale will be held at the school.

New Student at Waterford From Brazil

By JANICE CRISP

Another new student has been added to the enrollment of Waterford Township High School. Her name is Carmen Falcnao, and she comes to us as an exchange student from Brazil.

Carmen arrived in Detroit Jan. 15.

Unlike many exchange students that consider the high schools of the United States easier, she finds them to be about the same as those in Brazil. However, in Brazil, the school week lasts six days.

Brazilian students also have two major school vacations. Each lasts for two months; one in the summer and the other in late fall.

ENJOYS ACTIVITIES

Carmen, who is 17 years old and a senior, enjoys many activities such as swimming and roller skating. She is staying here with the A. A. Cavenee family, and will return to Brazil in July.

One of the big differences Carmen finds between here and her home in Recife, Pernambuco, is the climate.

★ ★ ★

She was accustomed to consistently warm temperatures in Brazil and had never seen snow before. Her opinion of it can be summed up in her statement, "It is nice only to look at."

Senior mock election primaries will be held next Tuesday.

NOMINATIONS

Nominations will be taken for students who will run for the titles of: most courteous, most dependable, class flirts, wittiest, most athletic, most all around, most talented, most likely to succeed, friendliest, and most valuable to class.

Fund raising for the March of Dimes is still going strong. Last Wednesday, the Girls Athletic Association sponsored a Slacks Day.

★ ★ ★

The WTHS basketball team will meet Walled Lake at home tonight. There will be an after-game dance sponsored by the sophomore class.

The wrestling match will also be held at home Teusday night with Waterford Kettering as opponents.

Avondale Teen Is Top Citizen

By KAREN SHELDON

The Student Council of Avondale High School has chosen its first citienship teen of the month. This month's teen is sophomore Rick McDonald, son of Mrs. Phyllis McDonald of College Drive, Pontiac Township.

Rick maintains a 3.0 average and made the honor roll this marking period. He participated in football during the past season and is a member of the Student Council, captain of the junior varsity basketball team and manages to hold down a part-time job.

★ ★ ★

The program is sponsored by the Avondale area Youth Guidance Committee. Outstanding teens for each month are recommended by teachers and must have the following qualifications: 2.0 scholastic average or better for the last marking period, a respectful attitude toward teachers and fellow students and loyalty to the school.

They also must have accomplished something for a class, school organization or the school itself.

CASTING COMPLETED

The casting of the spring play has been completed. Crew chiefs for "The Man Who Came to Dinner" are Darlene Frankowski, makeup; Diane Churchill, costumes; Mary Stade, props; and Bruce Niel, special effects.

Assistant to the student director is John Stork. Assistant to special effects committee is Tim Fortuna and assistant to house manager is Alice Leitch.

Rehearsals will begin Feb. 5. The play will be presented April 22, 23 and 24.

Exams Finished at Dominican

By ANDI BARNES

Outside activities all but came to a standstill this week at Dominican Academy, as students prepared for semester exams. The exams were given Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Today was a free day for students and teachers to rest up after the strenuous week.

★ ★ ★

For the exam day, classes started a half-hour later than usual to let late-hour "crammers" catch up on their sleep.

The Ski Club is now in full swing. Each Tuesday the club meets on the hills of Pine Knob to enjoy the sport.

This year the club is headed by senior Valerie Itchue. Valerie is aided by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Itchue in giving the girls a few helpful tips on skiing.

SCHOOL NEWS ROUNDUP

Novi

By THOM HOLMES

Midsemester exams are over, but some students are already beginning to prepare for the next ones. A committee of students from the Novi High Student Council will work with the faculty to organize a permanent exam schedule.

This past week, the exam schedule confused many students and many did not even know the exact date of their finals.

★ ★ ★

Because of the problems which arose it was decided that a student group work with Gerald Hartman, the principal, and a group of teachers to devise a new system.

The Novi N-Club will sponsor a dance Feb. 28 after the last home basketball game. The admission will be 50 cents and entertainment will be provided.

WINTER OUTING

Feb. 8 the Spanish Club is going to have a skating and tobagganing outing at Meadowbrook Country Club. Club members and guests are invited.

Freshmen go Hawaiian style Feb. 8 when they hold a luau dinner. The event is for freshmen and their guests only.

★ ★ ★

The Student Council soon will sell student directories for 50 cents each.

Feb. 6, and Feb. 20, group pictures will be taken for the yearbook. Students in school clubs are asked to wear their official garb.

Holly

By MARCIA CLARK

"The school should not stand empty after 3:30 p.m. every day. The community should use it, for it is its greatest investment," stated Donald Diegel, assistant principal of Holly High School.

HHS does not stand empty. It is being used for both adult education high school credit classes and Oakland Community College (OCC) credit classes.

★ ★ ★

The adult education classes are offered for adults in the Holly area who wish to finish their high school education. Classes include English (advanced), office practice, biology, English (general), typing, home economics, wood and metal shop, U.S. history, economics and algebra.

No tuition will be charged for persons who are working toward their high school diplomas, as well as veterans. For persons wishing to take post-graduate work there will be a $10 per semester class tuition fee.

OCC CLASSES

The OCC classes are offered for those who have graduated from high school and do not have time or means to attend college on a full-time basis and for those high school students who wish to take courses in preparation for college.

Offered are fundamentals of communication, fundamentals of speech, English II, life science, World Civilization I, college algebra and trigonometry, analysis of social problems and introduction to psychology.

★ ★ ★

Tuition costs are $9 per credit hour for those who either reside or work regularly in Oakland County and $12 per credit hour for nonresidents.

"It is heartening to see people come in to finish their high school education and then move on to college-level work," remarked Diegel.

The members of the various clubs at HHS are busy planning parties and money-making projects.

Walled Lake

By JOANNE SANDERSON

The journalism class of Walled Lake Central High School is presenting a new attraction at its dance this evening. The attraction will be one of Michigan's only mixed bands. The band, "Guys and Dolls", is made up entirely of college students from Michigan.

The dance will be held after the wrestling match with Waterford. Girls with slacks or shorts will not be admitted. This dance will be WLC's first dance in a month.

Schedule changes were made Monday and report cards given out.

The drama class will put on "All My Sons" by Arthur Miller.

The debate team held its last debate Monday night. It was presented before the Walled Lake Rotary Club.

MODIFIED DEBATE

The debate was a modification of the debates throughout the season. The affirmative side was taken by Joanne Sanderson and Ed McCallum. The negative side was argued by Dan Conway and Charles Hall.

The team was invited by the Rotary Club's program chairman, Dr. George Garver. Dr. Garver, superintendent of the Walled Lake schools, told the Rotarians that he wished to show them another activity which high school students take part in besides football and basketball.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday, a meeting was held for everyone wishing to participate in the spring forensic contest. There are several areas open to students. Included are: serious interpretive, humorous interpretive, extemporaneous speaking, declamations, original oratory, choral reading and radio and television news broadcasts.

The contest is open to any interested student at WLC. The local contest, held at WLC, will be in two weeks.

First- and second-place winners in each category will go to the District contest which will be held late in the month.

The local contest is judged by teachers from WLC.

West Bloomfield

By SHARON CARR

Jose says, "Havana is a very beautiful city." He is one of West Bloomfield High School's three new Youth for Understanding students, all of whom were aboard the airliner hijacked to Cuba.

Jose Hochman, a senior, is from Argentina, and staying with the Lawrence Bensmans of Cottonwood Knoll, Birmingham.

The other two students, both from Brazil, are sophomores.

Abilio Machado of Brasilia is residing with the Robert Chamberlains of 5548 Green Briar, Walled Lake. He attends WBH with his American "brother," Larry Morgan.

From Rio de Janeiro is Carlotta Parriera. She is making her home with the L. D. Burts of Orchard Lake Road, Orchard Lake. Carlotta and her American "sister," Julie, have similar interests. For when she returns home to Brazil, Julie will leave to spend the summer studying in England.

SPEAKER PROGRAM

The National Honor Society will launch its public speaker program Tuesday at 7 p.m. with a lecture on drugs in Room 200.

President of the NHS Carol Casselman revealed this speech deals with a revolutionary approach to drugs, and will contain not only a lecture, but a movie and a question - and - answer period.

Saturday evening is the annual American Field Service swimming party at Oakland University.

Oxford to Pick Its Snow Queen

By CAROL PRINCE

The halls of Oxford High School are ringing with the voices of the students campaigning for their favorite candidate for snow queen.

Candidates are seniors Nancy Hall and Clara Callahan and juniors Anna Kozachik and Sharon Gedert. Sophomore Clara Armstrong and freshman Sue Mapletoft will complete the queen's court.

★ ★ ★

Crowning ceremonies will be during halftime of the varsity basketball game tonight.

A dance honoring the queen will follow the game.

SKIERS RETURN

Ski Club members returned from Arrowhead Ranch, Collingwood, Ont., last Sunday evening. They skied at Georgian Peaks and Blue Mountain.

Sponsors were Christy Johnson, social studies instructor, Pat Presby, English instructor, and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Hallead.

A cooperative dinner for athletes was given recently by the Moms and Dads Club. The film, "Nature's Other Half Acre," was shown.

"Portrait of a Disadvantaged Child—Tommy Knight" was viewed by members of the Future Teachers Club Monday.

Latin Club Saying 'Et Tu, Milford'

By ROSE MAKI

Milford High School students are being reminded by the Latin Club to attend its activities night Wednesday at 7:30 in the high school cafeteria.

Students attending the game between Milford and West Bloomfield Feb. 7 may dance after the game to music in the Milford cafeteria.

Feb. 6, selected Milford Student Council members will visit Northville for the day.

Wayne-Oakland County League vocal music selections have been made by Mrs. Eleanor Beam, choral director of Milford High. Chosen were Sopranos Pat Duffy, Shelly Dahn and Janine Handyside; Altos Sally Craig, Melody McConnel and Kathy Lindgren; Tenors Frank Oppeneer and Tom Lewis; and basses Ric Gamble, Barry Schoen, Walter Mick, Howard Fowler and Randy Rodgers.

Alternates are seven other selected members of the vocal ensemble.

Storms Blast Both Coasts as the Midwest Shivers On

By the Associated Press

Winter heaped more weather woes on the Pacific Northwest today as still another storm system lashed the region with wind-whipped snow and cold.

Rain washed the eastern seaboard and fog shrouded the Middle Atlantic states, but the weather elsewhere returned for the most part to more placid midwinter conditions. Flood-producing rains which had drenched Indiana and Arkansas ended during the night.

★ ★ ★

Snow and blowing snow swept the Northwest from Puget Sound to the northern Rockies. Some coastal cities normally bare of snow were heavily laden with weekslong accumulations, preserved by a prolonged siege of below-normal temperatures.

Seattle, where the snow depth has piled up to 19 inches, shivered into its 10th consecutive day of subfreezing cold. Thursday's high of 30 degrees broke a 1909 record of nine days in a row of freezing temperatures.

DAMAGE MOUNTS

Eastward across the state, damage mounted from the collapse of warehouse and garage roofs under the weight of 30- and 40-inch snow accumulations.

Eight workmen escaped serious injury Thursday when the roof of a cold-storage warehouse in the north-central Washington community of Pehastin caved in while they were shoveling off 40 inches of snow. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

★ ★ ★

Cold, dry air seeping into the nation's midsection seemingly ended for the moment the threat of additional rains in flood-swollen streams and rivers in Arkansas and Indiana.

Three persons drowned Thursday as flash floods hit scattered parts of Arkansas, where some communities were swamped by up to 8 inches of rain in 24 hours. A woman drowned in a Little Rock suburb, and two brothers died when rushing waters swept their truck into a creek near Hot Springs.

FLOOD WARNING

The Weather Bureau warned that much of the Wabash River's bottom land below Lafayette, Ind., would be underwater for several days as the result of ice jams and three days of heavy rain. Farmers were alerted for evacuation of cattle and equipment.

The combination of washed-out roads, high water and deep mud on secondary roads closed numerous Indiana schools Thursday.

Fog continued to pose hazards for motorists and slow air travel in New York and Pennsylvania, but generally milder weather ended freezing rains of the past two days in all of the East except northern New England.

Sleet and snow combined with freezing rain to coat roadways with ice in parts of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

NORTHERN BLAST

Clearing skies and a fresh blast of arctic cold settled temperatures near zero or below across the northern half of the Plains and parts of the Midwest.

North-central Montana went into its third week of subzero cold. The mercury fell to —28 at Havre well before daybreak.

Secret Sessions Set in Probe of Colleges

LANSING (UPI) — The legislative committee assigned to investigate student conduct at state-supported colleges announced yesterday it will begin closed-door sessions in the Capitol next week.

Sen. Robert J. Huber, R-Troy, chairman of the eight-member unit, said testimony will be taken in private at the outset to give those who wish to remain anonymous a chance to come forward.

★ ★ ★

He said he has received indications from several faculty and student representatives that they would talk freely if their names were not disclosed.

"They are fearful of retaliation," Huber told a news conference.

PUBLIC HEARINGS LATER

The committee will open public hearings after the private sessions are completed. Witnesses will be subpoenaed from time to time, Huber said.

Huber said the investigation, sparked in part by a nude-scene play at the University of Michigan last weekend, will members familiarize themselves with the problems involved.

He said the committee won't be scared off college campuses by student protest demonstrations, though no final decision has been reached on whether to hold hearings at the various schools.

There are 13 state-supported colleges and universities in Michigan. The largest are the U-M at Ann Arbor, Michigan State at East Lansing and Wayne State in Detroit.

FOCAL POINT

"If we can be a focal point for public opinion, we can be a focal point for student opinion," Huber said. "We'll go where the action is."

Huber also announced the committee will hire a sociologist or "someone experienced about campus problems" and a constitutional lawyer to aid the probe.

★ ★ ★

The committee has been appropriated $25,000 to determine the extent of disruptive student influences in Michigan and what can be done about them. Recommendations could include cutting an institution's state appropriations.

★ ★ ★

Huber said he expects the legality of the committee's investigation to be challenged by those opposed to the study. But he said this would not deter the members' efforts.

Inflammations caused by poison ivy plants are responsible for an estimated 2.7 million days of restricted activity, 500,000 days spent in bed and the loss of 330,00 work days.

Area Minister Is Dead at 62

The Rev. Elbert W. Nuelken, minister of Ascension Lutheran Church, Beverly Hills, died Wednesday. He was 62.

Service will be 1 p.m. tomorrow at the church, with burial in Glen Eden Cemetery, Livonia, by the Vasu-Lynch Funeral Home, Royal Oak. Rev. Nuelken will lie in state at the church prior to the funeral, beginning at 10 a.m.

★ ★ ★

Surviving are his wife, Margaret; two sons, Paul E. of Battle Creek and Bruce H. at home; a brother; and two grandchildren.

Rev. Nuelken, of 816 N. Bates, Birmingham, was a 1936 graduate of Concordia Seminary, Springfield, Ill., and was ordained in 1937 in Detroit. He organized Redemption Lutheran Church in Detroit and was pastor there from 1937-54. Subsequently he served at Redemption Lutheran Church, Battle Creek from 1954-58, and at Ascension Lutheran from 1958 until his death.

Drug Raid Result of Casual Meeting

DETROIT (AP) — A casual contact between a Detroit youth and a police undercover agent resulted in a raid on a "hippie" apartment Thursday believed to be a depot for drug traffic to the city's affluent suburbs.

Police arrested 14 young people, including Mark Johnson, 18, who police said they suspect is supplying Birmingham-Bloomfield area high school students with marijuana, LSD and other drugs.

★ ★ ★

Inspector Joseph Brown, commander of the narcotics bureau, said Johnson's apartment had been under surveillance since Dec. 1. An undercover agent entered it Wednesday night and bought 11 pounds of marijuana for $1,050, Brown said.

He said the agent then introduced Sgt. Howard Austin to Johnson as "the man with the money," and that Johnson then handed him a business card and said: "Maybe we can do something in the future."

'YOU'RE UNDER ARREST'

"Here's mine," Austin said, pulling out his police identification card. "You're under arrest."

Police said they confiscated 15½ pounds of marijuana, 500 doeses of LSD and other unidentified drugs during the raid with a value of $68,000.

★ ★ ★

They described the apartment as a "typical hippie narcotics" place and one officer said those arrested "all look like a bunch of Tiny Tims," referring to the long-haired male entertainer.

Three young people were charged with possession of narcotics and stood mute before Recorders Court Judge Robert J. Colombo. They were Ronald Czarneck, 21, of Detroit; Carol Ann Hamilton, 5871 Kenmoor, Bloomfield Township, 18; and Mark A. Taylor, 19, of Mount Clemens. They stood mute and pleas of "not guilty" were entered for them and a hearing set for Feb. 7. A $5,000 bond was set for each.

THREE GIRLS

Ten others, including three girls, stood mute before Traffic Court Referee Lawrence Silverman on charges of loitering. They were in their late teens and early 20s.

Innocent please were entered for them and a hearing set for March 24. They were set free on personal bond.

★ ★ ★

Johnson was expected to be arraigned today after laboratory tests on the confiscated drugs are complete.

Rites Set for Owner of Shoe Repair Shop

Requiem Mass for Joseph C. Capogna, 69, of 1066 Premont, Waterford Township, will be 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Benedict Catholic Church with burial in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Foreign Press Views Pueblo, Cabinet, Nixon

LONDON (AP) — The Times of London said Comdr. Lloyd M. Bucher's surrender of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo "should not be allowed to distract attention from the administrative shortcomings in the U.S. Navy."

Other foreign comment about America this week concerned the U.S. Senate confirmation of David Packard as deputy secretary of defense and the problems facing the Nixon administration.

★ ★ ★

The Times asked: "Why for instance, was the Pueblo not equipped with an efficient system for destroying secret equipment and documents on board?"

Presumably, economies of this kind were forced on the Navy by continuing pressure to give priority to the immediate needs of the Vietnam war."

The Tokyo newspaper, Yomiuri Shimbun, said Packard was confirmed after he agreed to put his $300 million worth of stock in his electronics instrument company in a trust fund because "the public distrusts relations between the Defense Department and war industries."

★ ★ ★

"Tough political reaction against Packard's appointment emphasizes public belief that the will profit from the war," said Yomiuri. "Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower warned of the danger of the United States being controlled by the military and war industries. It is quite ironical that Mr. Nixon, now faced with this issue, was vice president at the time. How history repeats itself!"

★ ★ ★

The London Economist outlined what Nixon's administration has to do: "The young people will be clamoring for an end to what they mostly regard as the torment of compulsory military service. The defense industries will be maneuvering for contracts. The cities will be demanding subsidies to stave off their decay. The poor will be watching hungrily and the racial minorities in anger to see when something will be done for them.

"Like any other government, if on a vaster scale, the Nixon administration will face material choices in defense and diplomacy, while at home it will find itself allocating limited resources among practically unlimited possible uses."

'CORRECT DECISION'

The nationally circulated Die Welt of Hamburg said the Nixon administration made a correct decision to maintain the official price of gold at $35 an ounce.

★ ★ ★

"The free gold price, which has been an important barometer since the split of the gold market on March 17, 1968, will drop again to somewhere near the level of the official price. The consequence for the monetary system is that the importance of gold as a currency metal is dwindling. The era of new currency reserves, the 'paper gold' of the special drawing rights, has come," it added.

Junior Editors Quiz on CRYSTAL

QUESTION: What is the difference between crystal and glass?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Crystals and glass look much alike. Both a crystal — such as we find in a mineral like quartz — and a piece of glass, which is generally a man-made substance, are hard, smooth, shiny.

It is possible to look through them; they are transparent. But these two substances are different in structure.

In 1912, the German scientist von Laue found a way to use X rays to penetrate the inside of a crystal. It was then discovered that the way the atoms were arranged inside explained the outside crystal shape. These atoms, as suggested at upper left, are lined up in neat, orderly rows, thus producing the sharp faces or outside planes of the crystal.

In contrast, the atoms inside glass are scattered around at random, without a definite pattern. This means that glass is not only different from crystal, but acts differently.

Heat a crystal, like ice, and it will turn to water all at once. But glass, when heated, becomes flexible only gradually. It can be bent, and when cooled, will stay bent. This is how so many useful glass objects are produced.

1. The GREAT! Plymouth Sale—Our specially-equipped Fury, Belvedere, Barracuda, and Valiant models are now costing even less. But our GREAT! Sale of the Year is only one of a lot of good reasons why you should consider buying a Plymouth. 2. Engineering—Plymouths are tight and strong because structural steel members, body braces, and sheet-metal panels are welded into a single, unitized shell. Unibody construction gives more resistance to the twisting forces of rough roads than body-on-frame cars. 3. Good Handling—High-chrome steel torsion-bar front springs combined with rugged multi-leaf rear springs make Plymouths better handling, better riding than other cars. 4. Durability—7-Step Dip-and-Spray Anti-Rust Treatments on all Plymouth exterior body surfaces and all inner and outer surfaces of lower body metal mean longer body life. 5. Beauty—All Plymouths are painted with super-hard Acrylic Enamel that retains a mirror-like finish with only cold-water washes. Acrylic Enamel means beauty that lasts. 6. Safety—Plymouth's big brakes give smooth, safe braking. They're bigger and heavier than brakes on most other cars. 7. Comfort—Head room. Hip room. Shoulder room. Leg room. New Leader of Dems Busy on Party Work

SEN. HARRIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the 17 days since he was named Democratic national chairman, Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris says he has written 4,000 party leaders asking advice, set up more than half a dozen task forces and laid broad plans for party action in many fields.

And the 38-year-old Harris, opposed for the top party post by some who felt a full-time chairman was needed, indicated in an interview he was just getting started.

"I've got to dissipate all this energy some way, and I might as well do it in a useful way," Harris said.

"Last year I wrote a book, I was on the Kerner Commission, I was cochairman of Hubert Humphrey's preconvention campaign and I think if you would ask Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, he would tell you I was one of the more active senators," he said.

DEEP FEELING

"This year, I won't write a book, I won't be on the Kerner Commission, and I won't be Humphrey's campaign manager, so I'll do this instead. Besides," he concluded, "I feel deeply about all of these issues."

HIS HEART IS IN IT NOW—South African heart recipient Philip Blaiberg takes up arms and dons a tin hat for the first time in two years, and one year after his historic operation when he attended a monthly meeting of his old Moth Shellhole in Cape Town recently. Visiting Hours Cut for William Penn

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Although William Penn has been declared hale and hearty, his visiting hours are going to be shortened.

A recent safety inspection revealed that old William's statue stands staunch and steady as ever atop the tower of Philadelphia's City Hall. From this vantage point, he receives visitors who come to look over the metropolis he founded.

But the city is having financial troubles. So to save money, Mayor James H. J. Tate has decided to close the observation platform on four holidays—Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays, Memorial and Flag days.

Mimi Benzell Happy in Her New Arts Job

MANHASSET, N.Y. (AP)—Mimi Benzell, former star of the Metropolitan Opera and Broadway musicals, is enthusiastic about her new post as director of the Office of Performing and Fine Arts in a New York City suburban county.

"The position is not one where you can go in and say, 'I'm going to do this and this and this,'" Miss Benzell said in a telephone interview Thursday night, just after her appointment to the $18,000-a-year Nassau County post.

"This job is what I make of it," Miss Benzell added, "and what I will be doing will be something that will pay off for the people in five or 10 years."

The attractive brunette—who is Mrs. Walter Gould in private life—said, "I will be working closely with the county to try and create a better atmosphere in the arts and culture. I will primarily be functioning to help develop programs, to coordinate existing programs, to counsel."

LONG CAREER

Miss Benzell sang with the Met from 1945 to 1950. She starred in the Broadway musical "Milk and Honey" in 1961, and from 1964 to 1968 she hosted a radio interview show.

One program Miss Benzell said she is particularly enthusiastic about is a $40,000 experimental project designed to develop the arts in areas where "people don't have the opportunity of going to shows and theater . . ."

She said, "This will help discover talent that has no place to do anything. For example, perhaps there's a group that would like to do something in drama or jazz or rock or string quartet and doesn't have a place to practice or a teacher . . ."

A resident of Nassau County for 12 years, Miss Benzell has two children—Jonathan, 15, and Jennifer, 11.

How to Choose a College—9

Church Schools Reaching Out

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the ninth article in a series on the dos and don'ts to observe in selecting the right college for you.)

By ELLA MAZEL
NEA Publications
DECISION 8: Religious Orientation

It may surprise you, as it did me, to learn that almost half of the U.S. colleges and universities are church-related.

Of these, the Catholic sector accounts for about 30 per cent of the coed institutions, 80 per cent of the men's, and 85 per cent of the women's, while the remainder represent 37 different denominations.

* * *

Most of the church-related colleges have expressed themselves as being "interested in applicants of other denominations and faiths," and exempt such students from required chapel attendance and religious study.

Many so-called independent colleges, on the other hand, maintain ties to a church and do require religious observance (compulsory chapel attendance at least once a week) and-or study (at least one required semester course in religion or the Bible). A few state colleges, primarily in the South, also have compulsory chapel attendance.

CODES OF BEHAVIOR

Some church-related colleges tend to have more stringent codes of student behavior than do independent or state ones, to the extent that smoking, dancing, and movies may be prohibited.

But many are relaxing their rules along with their religious requirements.

* * *

There does appear to be a definite trend toward interfaith "integration." Robert E. Crosby, former admissions director of Findlay College in Ohio (Churches of God in North America), put it this way:

"The idea that a church-related or founded college is attempting to serve only that denomination is a myth . . . The general public is not aware of the fact that church-related colleges have, in most cases, shed the coat of narrow-minded provincialism of by-gone days.

DIVERSITY SOUGHT

"The feeling of our college is that the church-related college, by virtue of this affiliation, is obligated to foster and promote the search for truth by providing intellectual stimulation through diversity among students and faculty."

If you have not previously thought of considering a church-related school of a faith or denomination other than your own, it might be well worth your while to investigate any that fit all your other requirements.

The Gourmet Adventures of Jayson's

Cooking with a paper bag is not a new method. However, there are many women who probably never think of it. You can roast a chicken in a tightly closed bag after preparing it — put in 325 degree oven and forget for a few hours. Cooking in parchment is one way to produce anything from vegetables to fish or roasts so that eating the contents is pure ecstasy. A paper bag is something everyone has. So use it! It will reward laziness or absence, since no basting or watching is required.

You will always get a delicious dinner when you dine at JAYSON'S, 4195 Dixie Hwy. at Hatchery Rd., Drayton Plains, 673-7900. And to round out a beautiful dinner, enjoy a bottle of domestic or imported wine. J. C. Heard Trio Mon. thru Sat. Where dining pleasure and hospitality go hand in hand.

Visited by Japanese

Yank POWs 'Cheerful'

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese correspondent reported today that he visited an American prisoner of war camp in North Vietnam and found the American prisoners "surprisingly cheerful."

The correspondent of Denpa News, a leftist Japanese news agency, said he was the first Japanese to visit an American POW camp. His report was published in Tokyo newspapers along with a photograph of two young American prisoners lining up plates in a dining hall.

The report said four of the prisoners at the camp were Navy Apprentice Seaman Douglas Brent Hegdahl, serial number B626330, of the guided missile cruiser Canberra, captured April 5, 1967; Navy Lt. Richard George Tangeman, shot down May 6, 1968; Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard Allen Stratton, 602087, of the carrier Ticonderoga, shot down Jan. 5, 1967, and Air Force 1st Lt. Anthony Charles Andrews, shot down April 29, 1967.

Criminals in Philadelphia Netted by Operation Find

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two holdup men walked out of a downtown Philadelphia bank Jan. 2 with $10,599.

Eleven minutes later, police arrested two men and recovered $10,598.

The swift arrests were the result of Operation Find, a program started Sept. 18 whose full designation is Fugitive Interception Net Deployment. Police cars are sent to key locations such as bridges and expressway interchanges to watch escape routes.

★ ★ ★

Three minutes after the Jan. 2 holdup, an alarm flashed in the radio room at the center city police administration building. Two minutes later, the first police officer at the holdup scene radioed headquarters: "Two males . escape made in a 1962 white Cadillac . . . License number Pennsylvania 14716."

Patrol cars from five divisions sped to preassigned locations, supplementing regular patrols, and a search began within the net.

A moment later in north central Philadelphia, two patrolmen spotted a 1962 white Cadillac with license number 1H6716. The car was stopped, and officers found a canvas bag stuffed with cash in the back seat. The car's occupants were taken into custody.

★ ★ ★

If no one had been stopped 10 minutes after Operation Find was activated, the net would have been expanded.

The city is divided into 50 geographical sections with an operation plan for each, under the program which is an idea of Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo.

REQUIREMENTS

To activate Find, Rizzo said, "a crime of major importance must be committed; a vehicle must be used in the escape, and a fairly good description of the vehicle and occupants must be given to the police radio room."

"Radio personnel understand the seriousness in using 35 to 45 police cars on one plan," said Michael R. Mangione, who directs Find. "We use a checkerboard method in assigning police cars to pertinent posts in order to maintain effective police patrols during the period Operation Find is in effect."

★ ★ ★

Police records show Find has led to 27 apprehensions of people involved in 17 major crimes, including six bank robberies.

$12,500 for Part-Time Work

Wayne Chiefs Get Pay Plan

DETROIT (UPI) — A study committee appointed by the chairman of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, who favors $17,000 full-time pay for each member of the board, has recommended that supervisors get paid $12,500 for part-time work.

The committee's recommendations yesterday also suggested each supervisor should get $40 for each meeting he attends.

★ ★ ★

Albert Zak, the chairman of the board, said he would "not necessarily" try to push his demands for $17,000. "That's why I appointed a study committee, to come up with a formula. Though we may differ in opinions, that does not necessarily mean that my opinion or anyone else's must prevail."

The recommendation will come up for a vote at the next meeting of the 26-man board. A majority vote is required for approval.

PLANS LEGISLATION

State Sen. George W. Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield Township, said Tuesday he will sponsor legislation to regulate the salaries of county supervisors to between $4,000 and $5,000 per year for part-time work, with an additional $25 for board meetings and $50 per day for a full day's work.

Presently, county boards of supervisors have authority to set their own salaries.

Pair Accused of Spying by Iraq

Coed Concerned for Parents

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Katherine R. Bail, daughter of an American oil worker arrested in Baghdad, Iraq, and charged with spying, thinks her father and mother were picked up "just because they're Americans.

"It can't be anything else," she said in an interview yesterday. "I don't believe the espionage charge."

★ ★ ★

A 20-year-old Michigan State University coed, Kathy first heard the official announcement of her parents' arrests Wednesday. But, "Near the beginning of January, I was told that daddy had been picked up and mother was under house arrest."

Reports reaching Beirut, Lebanon, yesterday quoted the Iraqi information minister as saying Paul T. Bail had been formally charged with spying.

LENIENT TREATMENT

Other reports indicated the Iraqi government will probably treat him leniently and release him in a few days despite avowals to continue executing foreign spies.

"At first, I thought daddy had been in an automobile accident. They put you in jail for that. But, when I didn't hear anything else. I knew it was serious."

★ ★ ★

The information came from an official of Humble Oil Co. Kathy's father, Paul Bail, is on leave from Humble for a two-year assignment as an engineer with Iraqi Petroleum Co. in Baghdad. The Bails lived in Tulsa, Okla., and Houston, Tex., before going overseas a year ago.

The U.S. State Department has not contacted Kathy and she gleans little news through other sources.

RECEIVED POSTCARD

Her mother's only sister, Mrs. Ruth Rodriegez in Florida, is attempting to get information from the State Department. Kathy also has an uncle in Washington who is trying to contact officials.

Kathy received a postcard from her mother which was mailed Jan. 1.

★ ★ ★

"It didn't say anything about the arrest. None of their letters mentioned any trouble. My father usually just wrote to say study more and spend less money. Mother's letters were homey. She talked about people we knew and her cat," she said.

The execution of 14 alleged spies in Baghdad Monday has frightened Kathy even more about what may happen to her parents.

★ ★ ★

"Everyone says not to worry because they are Americans so no one can do anything to them — but I'm very worried," she said.

A State Department press officer, Robert J. McCloskey, said a representative of the Belgian Embassy in Baghdad reported the Bails are being treated well.

The Air Force will launch the biggest balloon ever made soon to set a record altitude for a research device. It will be 587 feet long when launched and carry 300 pounds of instruments.

Board Okays Wage Format in Macomb

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI) — The 21 members of the new Macomb County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved a plan to pay themselves an annual salary of $7,800 plus $35 for each committee and board meeting attended.

★ ★ ★

County officials estimated that it would cost the county twice as much to pay for the salaries of the new board members than it did for the entire 76-man board that was in existence before the revamping of the county governing system last year.

★ ★ ★

In 1968, the 76 board members drew $98,000. It was estimated that each of the new members would draw between $10,000 and $12,000 per year for a total of $210,000 to $250,000.

Overindulgence in Wine Making Hits Argentina

MENDOZA, Argentina (AP) — The National Wine Institute has announced that Argentines are second only to Frenchmen in their love of wine.

* * *

Although Argentina has only 22 million people, its wine consumption last year reached a record 2.16 billion quarts. That's 94 quarts per person. The average Frenchman consumes 126 quarts a year. Only France and Italy outrank Argentina in total annual wine consumption.

Wine is part of Argentine folklore—as typical as the gaucho, the Pampa and beefsteak. More than 1,000 brands are produced in the country, most from the grapes grown in the northwestern provinces of Mendoza and San Juan.

* * *

Nevertheless, the prosperious wine producers have been caught in an economic crisis since 1966. Despite the record consumption, the industry has managed to overproduce and is suffering from falling prices.

DROUGHT, HAIL

Drought and unseasonable hailstorms are damaging the vineyards and reducing the 1969 harvest, promising economic relief, but the long-range problem remains. It stems largely from the fact that Argentine wine is virtually unknown outside the country, although such experts as Italy's Pierre Giovanni Garoglio have written that some Argentine wines rank with the best in the world.

Overproduction finally forced Argentina in 1967 to make the first major effort at promoting and selling wines abroad. Nine producers of some of the best wines formed an export company, Vinos Argentinos S.A.

* * *

American Suppliers Inc. of New Orleans has U.S. distribution rights for 109 Argentine wines. An initial shipment of 17,000 cases is being sent to New Orleans — the largest single wine shipment abroad in the country's history.

Juan Peron, the former Argentine dictator, laid the foundation for today's overproduction. Until Peron came to power in 1946, wine was a drink for the wealthy, and only a limited quantity of fine wines were produced from the vineyards which flourished in the dry, hot climate of Mendoza and San Juan provinces, a desert area at the foothills of the Andes.

FED BY SNOW

An irrigation system three centuries old, fed by melting snow from the Andes, retrieves arid wasteland for vineyards and runs in canals under the sidewalks in the cities of Mendoza and San Juan, watering stately spruce trees which give these wealthy communities an oasislike quality of grace and shade.

Peron's labor-oriented policies raised wages sharply for the mass of Argentine workers and created the impetus to extend the irrigation system so that thousands of acres of desert could be converted to vineyards for the production of red table wine selling at 15 cents a bottle.

This table wine—often bottled in gallon jugs and sold in many restaurants in pitchers—is produced from a low-quality "criollo" grape which is easy to cultivate.

Since 1955, the year in which Peron fell, some 125,000 acres have been converted from wasteland to vineyard in Mendoza province. Merchants, lawyers, doctors, teachers and storekeepers found that with a minimum of capital, they could own 10 acres of vineyard and earn $3,000 a year.

MIGRANT LABOR

Official statistics show that 64 per cent of total vineyard acreage is held by 45,000 producers, each with 12 acres or less. Their operations are considered anti-economic because of size and because the owners do not work their land themselves. Field work in San Juan and Mendoza provinces is done by Chilean migrant labor.

When overproduction became a serious problem in 1966 and the prices of both grapes and wine fell below production costs, middle-class producers were hurt, although most had other sources of income on which to fall back.

As a result, some headway was made this year in bringing production in line with market possibilities. But the hail-storms last November and the drought brought on by lack of rainfall in the Andes last year are proving the best check on the 1969 harvest, which got under way this month.

Cantankerous Golf Ball Due for 'Sizing'

NEW YORK (AP) — As if the cantankerous golf ball isn't hard enough to hit now, the powers of the game are planning to make it smaller.

However, you should be able to belt it farther off the tee and it ought to be more fun to play, says Keith Mackenzie, secretary of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews—but he can't guarantee it.

★ ★ ★

Mackenzie, who holds forth in the old gray structure beside the North Sea where golf supposedly was cradled, stopped off in New York Thursday to talk with officials of the U.S. Golf Association about two subjects close to his heart—the British Open and the golf ball.

★ ★ ★

"Our aim is to arrive at a ball that is more pleasurable for the average golfer to play," Mackenzie, a typical Scotsman with a thin mustache and a brogue that walks on edge, said. "We are not concerned about the Arnold Palmers and Bill Caspers. We are concerned about the millions of golfers—70 per cent of all of them, in fact—who have handicaps of 17 and above.

"Our purpose is not to improve the score—the players must do that themselves. It is to improve the enjoyment of the game."

SLIGHT DIFFERENCE

The British and Americans, whose rules are accepted all around the world, play a different size ball. The Americans specify that a ball cannot be less than 1.68 inches in diameter. The R&A code holds that the minimum diameter shall be 1.62 inches.

The weight of the two balls is the same—1.62 ounces.

Now the two countries are trying to arrive at a uniform ball, the only area in which their rules do not agree. The British have come up with a ball 1.65 inches in diameter—3100ths larger than the present British ball.

★ ★ ★

"I sincerely hope that we arrive at a compromise ball," Mackenzie said. "Not for our own sakes, but for the sake of the rest of the world. There is a golf explosion, and other countries must be confused."

AWAITS REPORT

The R&A secretary said Britain had sent dozens of the compromise balls to this country for experiments. He has not had a full report. Meanwhile, representatives of the two countries will meet in Milwaukee prior to the Walker Cup matches this summer in an effort to get a solution.

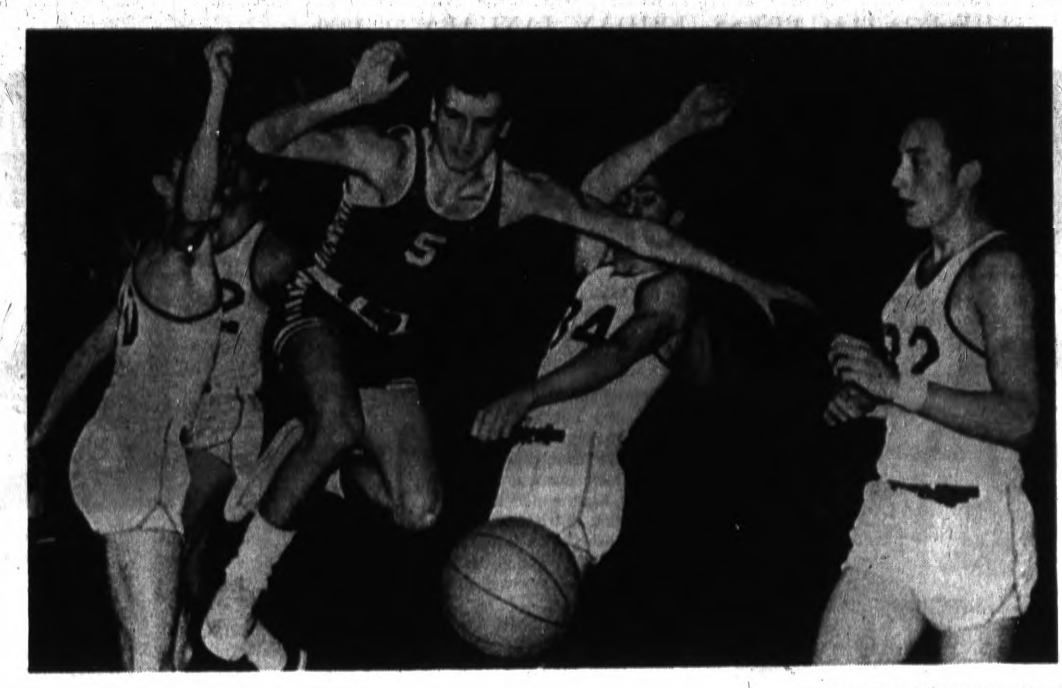

The difference in size of the golf balls long has been a source of controversy between players of the two countries.

In international matches, use is optional. Americans, competing in the British Open and Ryder Cup matches, always use the smaller British ball because they say they can hit it 20 to 30 yards farther off the tee. In matches in this country, the British prefer the American ball. They contend they can finesse and putt it better.

★ ★ ★

"I think we will find a single ball we can play—if not the 1.65 one, then we'll try 1.66," Mackenzie said.

On the British Open, scheduled July 9-12 at Royal Lytham and St. Anne's, he said he expected the largest U.S. entry ever, with such stars as Jack Nicklaus, Casper, Palmer and Lee Trevino competing. "I wouldn't be surprised if we have 15 to 20 of the top Americans," he added.

NO BASKET THIS TIME — Mark Johnson (5) of Royal Oak St. Mary, who led all scorers last night with 16 points, finds himself deprived of the basketball by a trio of Waterford Our Lady defenders on this play. Dave Calme (left), Jerry Yezbick (34) and Pat McColgan (right) combine their efforts. However, the Irish took home a 65-37 victory.

Titan, St. Mary Foes Announced

Thursday's drawings for the Detroit Catholic League Second Division playoffs put Orchard Lake St. Mary and Pontiac Catholic, who have already clinched the Northwest League berths, in opposite brackets against the Southwest League's two top teams.

Should the local quintets finish in a first-place tie as currently exists, OL St. Mary will face unbeaten and highly ranked Class D power Wyandotte Mt. Carmel 6 p.m. Feb. 9 at Harper Woods Notre Dame.

★ ★ ★

Also in that bracket tentatively are unbeaten St. Martin and Marine City Holy Cross, leaders of the East Side and Macomb Catholic circuits.

Pontiac Catholic presently is paired with St. Andrew at 4:30 p.m. Feb. 9 at Redford St. Mary High School. All Saints and St. Gertrude are the other two in the bracket currently.

OLSM tonight entertains third-place St. Francis de Sales. PCHS' Titans are at Ferndale St. James. Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows visits St. Rita in the other Northwest game.

DAY OF REST

Central Division pacesetter Birmingham Brother Rice is idle today but still has to hurdle the two second-place quintets, Catholic Central and Detroit Austin in home games that will determine the league title and two First Division playoff berths.

The Warriors' encounter with Detroit CC will be tomorrow night. Should Brother Rice retain its hold on the top spot, it would meet the AA League runner-up at 5 p.m. Feb. 16 in the University of Detroit Memorial Building.

★ ★ ★

Royal Oak Shrine and Holy Redeemer currently have a slight edge on Redford St. Mary in the battle for the two AA-playoff spots, but the Knights and Holy Redeemer have a first-place showdown Sunday afternoon.

The second time around wasn't so kind to Waterford Our Lady of Lakes Thursday night.

One of the few bright spots for first-year coach Dean Webster this season was a 59-56 victory at Royal Oak St. Mary earlier this month.

The Irish repaid the visit last night and the Waterford OLL gym proved to be a tonic for them. ROSM handed the Lakers a 65-37 defeat that kept them from gaining ground on the fifth-place Irish.

CLOSE START

Waterford OLL trailed, 13-12, after one quarter, but RO St. Mary outdistanced the home team in the next session, 18-6, to take a commanding 31-18 advantage at the intermission.

The lead continued to grow in the final half as the Lakers (3-10) couldn't find the range. Mike Johnson led ROSM (6-7) with 16 points and teammate Bill Bolton added 15.

Dave Calme's 11 was the only double figure effort for Waterford OLL.

Royal Oak also had another winner last night when Shrine posted its sixth straight, 76-56, over Detroit Benedictine. Bud Krause paced the win with 35 points as the Knights grabbed sole possession of the runner-up slot in the AA League.

Tim Wood Gains Figure Skating Lead

NEW PATRIOT BOSS — Boston Patriot football fortunes are now in the hands of Clive Rush who yesterday left the New York Jets after developing the offense that won the world's championship this season to assume the head coaching duties with the Patriots.

Bloomfield Hills Olympian Earns Highest Ratings

SEATTLE (AP) — Defending champion Tim Wood of Bloomfield Hills skated so close to perfection Thursday he earned top rating in school figures from every judge at the National Figure Skating Championships.

His five ordinals gave Wood a comfortable lead over Gary Visconti, also of Detroit, who had 12 and a slight edge in points over John Misha Petkovich of Great Falls, Mont.

★ ★ ★

Cold weather and traffic-snarling snow delayed the start and put the entire daytime program behind schedule. It was mid-afternoon before Wood and his 10 challengers completed the program of required figures at the Ice Arena.

★ ★ ★

Eleven candidates for the senior ladies championship vacated by Olympic star Peggy Fleming will skate school figures Friday morning and the men's championship will be decided tonight. That program will include the gold dance finale, with Syracuse University students Judith Kay Schwomeyer and James F. Sladky the defending titlists.

NO SURPRISE

The senior men's figures brought no surprise unless it was the margin of Wood's halfway lead. A smooth and consistent performance in the free skating should clinch his second championships, although Visconti is an excellent free skater and Petkovich is spectacular in the event's climaxing windup.

Jeffrey Hall of Skokie, Ill., was fourth at the midway point and Patrick Lalor fifth, both close enough to climb if they can eclipse the veteran Visconti and Petkovich in the free skating.

★ ★ ★

The three leaders, all collegians, finished in the same order last year and all skated in the Olympics, Wood winning the silver medal. He is a junior at John Carroll University, Visconti-champion in 1965 — is a student at Wayne State and Petkovich a sophomore at Harvard.

★ ★ ★

Louise Vacca, a dark-haired, 16-year-old from North Lindenhurst, N.Y., skated a brilliant program Thursday night to win the junior ladies title.

★ ★ ★

Moving up from a third place rating at the halfway mark, slender Miss Vacca scored her triumph shortly after John Baldwin, 18, of Colorado Springs, Colo. won the junior men's event to become the first 1969 champion.

Pistons Romp Over Seattle

By The Associated Press

The thought of playing near old neighbors seems to do something to the Pistons' Dave Bing. The former Washington, D. C. native scored 37 points and collected 10 rebounds at Baltimore Thursday night as the Pistons downed Seattle 144-118.

The runaway was within three points of the Pistons' single-game scoring record.

It was also quite a turnaround from Wednesday's fiasco when the Detroit team scored only 37 per cent of its shots and lost to San Francisco 133-126.

The Pistons led 64-59 at the half, then came back strong to outscore the SuperSonics 15-3 at one point. That lead, nevertheless, shrank to eight points before the Pistons exploded for 42 points.

★ ★ ★

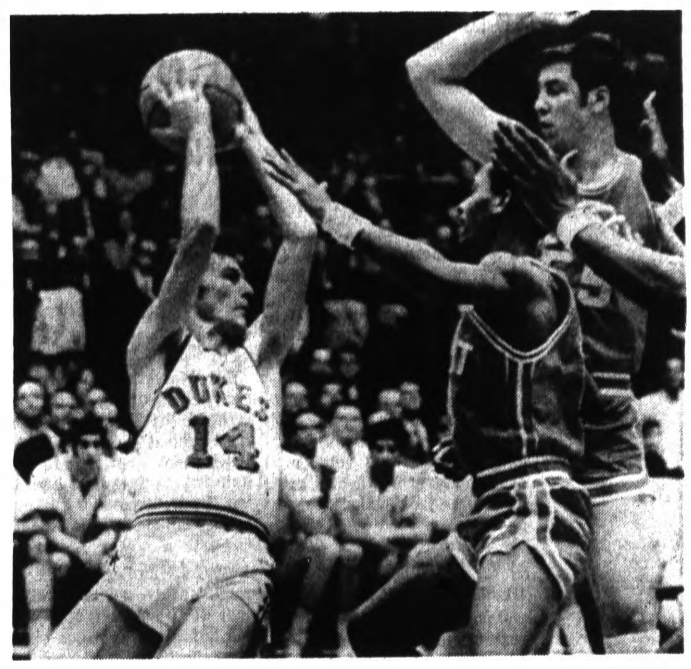

The considerably improved scoring amounted to 58 per cent of shots made from the floor by the Pistons, along with 84 per cent of free throws.

In other games, New York defeated the Baltimore Bullets 109-106, although the Bullets held onto first place over Philadelphia. The 76ers lost to Cincinnati 116-115 and Chicago topped San Francisco 111-110.

TITANS APPLY PRESSURE — Former Ferndale High School sharpshooter Dwight Dunlap of the University of Detroit moves in to defense against the playmaking of Duquesne's Bill Zopf (14) Thursday night. Backing up Dunlap's efforts is the Titans' Al Peake (55). Detroit upset the highly ranked Dukes at Pittsburgh, 76-66.

Haywood Leads Upset by Titans

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Spencer Haywood scored 31 points and turned in a steller defensive performance to lead unranked Detroit to a 76-66 victory over Duquesne Thursday night.

The Dukes, ranked 11th in the nation, were behind by 10 points at the half and, with six minutes left, tied the game at 64-64, but could never take the lead. A layup by Detroit's Bob Callihan shot the Titans ahead for good.

★ ★ ★

But it was Haywood's strong defensive play and shooting accuracy that kept the Dukes pinned down.

Haywood, the nation's fourth leading scorer, pulled down 16 rebounds, continually blocked shots from all parts of the floor and was deadly with his shooting.

GUARD INJURED

The Dukes played without Barry Nelson, a 6-foot-8 guard who suffered an eye injury in some horseplay with his twin, Garry, in their dormitory room just before the game.

Jarrett Durham was Duquesne's leading scorer with 23 points, 15 in the first half.

Purdue-Ohio State Game Highlights Big Ten Cage Play

CHICAGO (AP)—Purdue and Ohio State, two of the Big Ten's most evenly-matched basketball teams, try to crowd each other out of the title race lead Saturday in what could be one of the most important games of the conference season.

In a comparison between a common foe, Illinois lost earlier at Purdue 98-84. Illinois lost at Ohio State Tuesday 76-67.

★ ★ ★

The Ohio State-Purdue struggle is by far the top billing on Saturday's program. In another afternoon encounter, Wisconsin (1-3) is at Illinois (2-2). At night, Northwestern (2-3) is at Minnesota (1-4) and Michigan State (2-3) at Indiana (1-3).

In non-league action, Michigan meets Chicago Loyola and Iowa faces 4th ranked Davidson in a Chicago Stadium doubleheader.

Ohio State is 4-0 and Purdue 3-0.

TOP SCORER

In individual scoring, defending champion Rick Mount of Purdue heads the Big Ten with a 34.7 conference average while the Bucks' Dave Sorenson is second with 25.3.

Other leaders include Rudy Tomjanovich, Michigan, 24.0; James Johnson, Wisconsin, 20.0; Dave Scholz, Illinois, 19.8; Dennis Stewart, Michigan, 19.2, and Chad Calabria, Iowa, 19.0.

★ ★ ★

Sorenson is No. 1 in field goal accuracy with 38 out of 55 shots for .691. Glenn Vidnovic of Iowa tops foul shooters with 30 of 32 for .938.

Sorenson also is first in rebounds with a 13.8 average while Lafayette has 11.6, Tomjanovich 11.5 and Ken Johnson of Indiana 11.0.

Hawks on Rampage

Flyers Downed, 12-0

By the Associated Press

The Philadelphia Flyers knew they were in trouble when Chicago's Dennis Hull drew a first-period penalty and the Black Hawks, short a man, promptly scored two goals.

Things went downhill from there.

★ ★ ★

When it was all over, Chicago had pounded Philadelphia 12-0 Thursday night for the most lopsided defeat ever suffered by a National Hockey League expansion team. In other games, New York won its fifth straight, shading St. Louis 4-3 and Boston outlasted Los Angeles 7-5.

★ ★ ★

After Stan Mikita and Chico Maki each broke down ice to score while Hull was sitting out his penalty, the Hawks continued pounding away at starting goalie Doug Favell.

Pit Martin and Jim Pappin scored 41 seconds apart midway through the period and Dennis Hull fired a pair of goals late in the session. Favell was lifted after Hull's second goal and Bernie Parent yielded three goals in each of the final two periods as the Black Hawks piled it on.

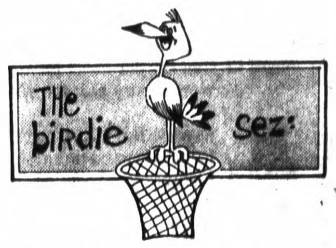

HAT TRICK

Pappin had the hat track with one goal in each period while Doug Mohns, Eric Nesterenko and Hull hit two goals each. Oddly, Bobby Hull, Dennis' brother and one of the NHL's top all-time goal makers, did not score.

It was not the most lopsided defeat in NHL history. That one was a 15-0 shellackng which Detroit hung on New York in 1944.

Vic Hadfield's 11th goal in the last 15 games snapped a 2-2 tie and the Rangers went on to beat St. Louis. The victory stretched New York's unbeaten string to seven games.

Derek Sanderson's three-goal hat trick powered Boston past Los Angeles as the rampaging Bruins extended their unbeaten-skein 16 games and boosted their East Division lead to eight points over idle Montreal.

The Birdie recovered some of the lost feathers from its nest last Tuesday and is looking for enough this week to carry it into the tournament season.

However, chirps our feathered friend, that last ear of corn sent in proved to be rather tough. Ferndale's unexpected sacking of East Detroit didn't help either.

PNH in I-L Showdown Tilt

Changes Made in Prep Cage Slates

This weekend's prep schedule includes two changes Saturday.

Waterford Mott's Corsairs will invade Lapeer tomorrow night for a makeup game with the Panthers. They were weathered out Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Walled Lake, who visits Waterford Township this evening for an Inter-Lakes League contest, has switched its game tomorrow night against Redford Union to Feb. 11.

Other I-L contests this evening pair Pontiac Northern against host Livonia Stevenson, and Farmington with visiting Southfield Lathrup.

★ ★ ★

The PNH-Stevenson game is a showdown for first place, the Spartans having won four straight in the circuit after opening with a loss at Northern.

Waterford's Skippers, losers of two straight in the I-L after streaking to three wins in a row, must beat Walled Lake again to retain any hopes of a championship.

PCH HOPING

High-scoring Pontiac Central is idle tonight but is pulling for Midland to upset the Saginaw Valley Conference unbeaten leader Flint Central. That would give the Chiefs a share of the top spot.

The key local games on tonight's schedule have West Bloomfield at Clarkston and Bloomfield Hills Andover at Milford in the Wayne-Oakland League, Troy at Lake Orion and Rochester at Clawson in the Oakland A.

The Southeastern Michigan spotlight is focused on Royal Oak where Kimball entertains Ferndale.

Northwest Suburban leader North Farmington is favored to handle Birmingham Groves.

★ ★ ★

Other games of interest find Lapeer at Holly, Chippewa Valley at Oxford, Madison at Avondale, Brighton at Kettering, Ortonville at Whitmore Lake, Utica at Romeo, Ypsilanti Roosevelt at Novi, and Berkley at Birmingham Seaholm.

Almont is home against New Haven and Capac travels to Dryden in two Southern Thumb League outings.

Richey Makes Tennis Sweep

Captures Singles Title in Omaha Tourney

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Scrambling Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., made a double sweep in the Omaha International Indoor Tennis Tournament Thursday night.

Richey, the 22-year-old second-seeded U.S. player in the tournament, turned Mexico's top-rated Joaquin Loyo-Mayo's errors into a 6-4, 6-2 victory in the singles competition championship.

Immediately following his singles match, Richey, who won the Sugar Bowl title in New Orleans three weeks ago, joined his doubles partner, Tom Edlefsen of Los Angeles.

★ ★ ★

The top-seeded duo proceeded to down Mark Cox of London and Jim McManus, of Berkeley, Calif., 7-5, 6-3, to fill out Richey's game bag with a piece of the doubles championship.

Richey sent a backhand return down the line past Loyo-Mayo to win the singles while he rifled an ace pace Cox for the doubles victory and an impressive beginning in the U.S. indoor tour.

Mangham Hits 51 in Ferris Win Over Adrian Five

BIG RAPIDS (AP) — Jesse Mangham, one of the top small college scorers in the country, pumped in 51 points to set a school record and pace Ferris State to a 94-64 basketball victory over Adrian College Thursday night.

Mangham, who is the fourth best scorer among National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic schools with a 30.5 average, hit on 18 of 28 field goals and 15 of 17 free throws in his performance. The point total surpasses the old mark of 49 set by Bernie Kilpatrick in the 1964-65 season.

The win pushed Ferris State's record to 10-4 while Adrian has won only once in 13 games.

ABOUT TO LOWER THE BOOM — Waterford Our Lady of Lakes' Jerry Yezbick (34) is about to foul the crouching Gary Bald of Royal Oak St. Mary after the visitor faked a shot at his basket during the first half of their Northwest Catholic League game Thursday night. Jim Tracey (50) watches.

Dick Fosbury Hoping to 'Flip' Jump Slump

NEW YORK (AP) — Olympians Willie Davenport, George Young and Ralph Doubell will try to keep their winning streaks alive while Dick Fosbury is aiming to start one tonight in the 62nd Annual Wanamaker-Millrose Games.

★ ★ ★

Davenport, the Olympic Gold Medal winner in the hurdles, has taken six straight races in his specialty on the indoor track tour this season while Young has five straight triumphs in the two and three-mile runs. Doubell is gunning for his third straight victory in this meet which has attracted 42 Olympians.

★ ★ ★

However, Fosbury, famous since the Mexico City Olympics where he won the high jump with a record leap of 7-4¼ with his unique backward flip style called the Fosbury Flip, has been shut out in four meets since.

Fosbury, who will be defending his title in this meet at Madison Square Garden, says, "I am a competitive jumper. I need motivation." He will get it here. The field includes seven-foot jumpers John Rambo, Ronnie Jourdan and West Germany's Gunther Spielvogel.

DEFENDING CHAMP

Davenport, the 1966-67 Millrose winner, will have his work cut out, going against defending champion and Olympic mate Leon Coleman and Olympic runner-up Erv Hall.

★ ★ ★

Young, the 31-year-old Casa Grande, Ariz., schoolteacher, unbeaten in 13 straight races over two years, will face the challenge of Olympian Tracy Smith, world record holder in the three-mile, and six others.

Doubell, from Australia, the 800-meter Olympic champion, has won eight straight indoor races over two years. In the Los Angeles Invitational 1,000-yard run, he won in 2:07, and last weekend in Albuquerque, N.M., set a world indoor record for the 880 with a time of 1:47.9, breaking the old mark by a full second.

U. of M. Faces Channel Swim

ANN ARBOR (AP) — No one on the University of Michigan swimming team has ever swam the English Channel but by Monday they may feel like they have.

★ ★ ★

The Wolverine tankers run into a scheduling quirk this weekend that has them swimming against Wisconsin in Ann Arbor today, against Michigan State Saturday at East Lansing, and back home for a meet against Illinois Saturday night.

★ ★ ★

"This scheduling is a little unusual," said coach Gus Stager, "but we have sufficient depth and this gives us a fine chance to rotate our lineup."

"Actually, this team is developing a lot better than I thought it would and we are well equipped to handle the three meets in this short time," he added.

★ ★ ★

Michigan has defeated two opponents and lost a squeaker 63-60 to Indiana, which is expected to be the power of college swimming this season.

Moving Day for Coaches

By the Associated Press

It was moving day Thursday for several coaches and players in football, hockey and basketball.

Two professional sports teams announced new coaches. Clive Rush, who molded the offense for the world champion New York Jets, took over as head coach of the American Football League's Boston Patriots. In the American Basketball Association, Verl "Gus" Young replaced Jim Harding as coach of the Minnesota Pipers.

Rush, the offensive coach under Weeb Ewbank of the Jets, takes over from Mike Holovak, who was fired as the Patriots' coach and general manager last month. No new GM has been named yet.

Young, former coach at Gustavus Adolphus College at St. Peter, Minn., moves up to the Pipers' coaching job after serving as the team's director of special promotions.

Harding was removed as coach of the ABA's Eastern All-Stars Tuesday night after becoming involved in an altercation with Gabe Rubin, minority owner of the Pipers, at a pregame banquet in Louisville, Ky.

OTHER CHANGES

In college sports, there were also coaching shifts.

James G. "Gerry" Alaimo was named basketball coach at Brown University, succeeding Stan Ward, whose resignation becomes effective June 30. Alaimo is a former Brown star and currently coach at Middlebury, Vt., College.

J. L. "Jake" McCandless was named football coach at Princeton University, replacing Dick Colman, who resigned last month to become athletic director at Middlebury. McCandless moves up to the top job after 11 years as Colman's assistant.

★ ★ ★

Marv Braden, head coach at Northeast Missouri State College, submitted his resignation to accept the coaching job at U.S. International university on the campus of California Western at San Diego.

In player trades, the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association acquired veteran Fred Hetzel from the Milwaukee Bucks in exchange for rookie Don Smith and cash, and the Pittsburgh Penguins and Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League swapped six players.

DENNY 'CROWNED' IN BOSTON — Denny McLain (second from left) of the Detroit Tigers is the subject of some fun Thursday night in Boston as Mike Andrews, named the Red Sox's unsung hero, uses his award from the Boston Baseball Writers to "crown" McLain. The Tigers' star hurler was the recipient of the Player of the Year award at the dinner. Also honored were Boston's Ken Harrelson (the Red Sox's most valuable player) and Carl Yastrzemski (right), for his contributions to baseball.

Hot Stove League Is Warming Up

By the Associated Press

Baseball's hot stove league warms up a couple of degrees this weekend with a handful of awards dinners, a meeting of the Major League Rules Committee and the annual free agent draft on tap.

The nine members of the Rules Committee convene in New York today to discuss several radical changes, including a proposal to permit a team to pinch hit for the pitcher each time he is due to bat while allowing him to remain in the game.

★ ★ ★

Another proposed change would eliminate the four pitches to a batter given an intentional walk.

Detroit southpaw Mickey Lolich, last year's World Series hero, will be honored at testimonial dinners in Houston tonight and New York Sunday night.

BATTING CHAMP

Lolich, who beat St. Louis three times in the Tigers' come-from-behind Series triumph, shares the spotlight with NL batting king Pete Rose at the Houston affair and will get the Babe Ruth Award at New York as the outstanding Series star.

The majors will conduct their free agent draft in New York Saturday. Sunday, the Oldtimers Committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America meets in New York to vote on suplemental candidates for the Hall of Fame.

★ ★ ★

Denny McLain, Detroit's 31-game winner, was feted Thursday night by the Boston Baseball Writers. The colorful Tiger hurler also played the organ for the 800 guests.

Thursday, John McHale, president and part owner of Montreal's NL expansion club, sent letters to the owners of the other 23 major league teams asking that he be ruled out as a candidate for the commissioner's job.

McHale, drafted as a candidate during the owners' fruitless December meeting to name a successor to William D. Eckert, cited commitments and responsibilities to the Expos in seeking to eliminate himself from consideration.

REJECTS OFFER

George Selkirk, fired as general manager of the Washington Senators Wednesday, turned down a lesser post with the club after a meeting with owner Robert E. Short Thursday and will look elsewhere for a baseball job.

★ ★ ★

Lopez-Doser Ahead by 2 in Golf Play

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Joe Lopez Sr., of Miami and Jack Doser of Gaithersburg, Md., posted a 34-31—65 Thursday to grab a two-stroke lead in the opening round of the 36-hole Senior-Junior Pro-Pro Golf Tournament.

Lopez, the senior pro on the team, sparked the drive to the top on the back nine with five consecutive birdies for a 31 in the tournament which pairs a senior pro with a junior pro. The teammates choose the better ball for scoring purposes.

★ ★ ★

Forty-nine of the 80 teams posted below par scores Thursday. The tournament, being played on the East Course of the PGA National Golf Club, ends Friday.

★ ★ ★

Four teams tied for the second spot after 18 holes at 67. Billy Gilbert of Palm Beach Gardens and Roland Stafford of Verona, Pa., carded a 35-32; Jim Turnesa, former PGA champion from Oyster Bay, N.Y., and Bill Davis of La Grange, Ill., managed a 32-35; Gus Popp of Rockville Center, N.Y., and Jim McCoy of Olean, N.Y., had 35-32, and Al Atkins of Ashland, Ky., worked with Bob Below of West Bend, iWs., for a 34-33.

point of a 22-point third quarter lead before subduing Baltimore for their 20th vitory in 24 games. Monroe's basket with 16 seconds to play, a pass theft and a bucket by Unself left the Bullets behind 107-106, and they picked off another Knick pass before Reed came up with the game saving plays.

After Reed leaped to bat down Monroe's shot, Unself tried to put in the rebound, but was called for charging Reed. The Knicks took the ball out and Dick Barnett sank two free throws after being fouled at the buzzer. Walt Frazier led New York with 28 points and teammate Dave DeBusschere had 22 points and 20 rebounds. Monroe's 33 points paced the Bullets.

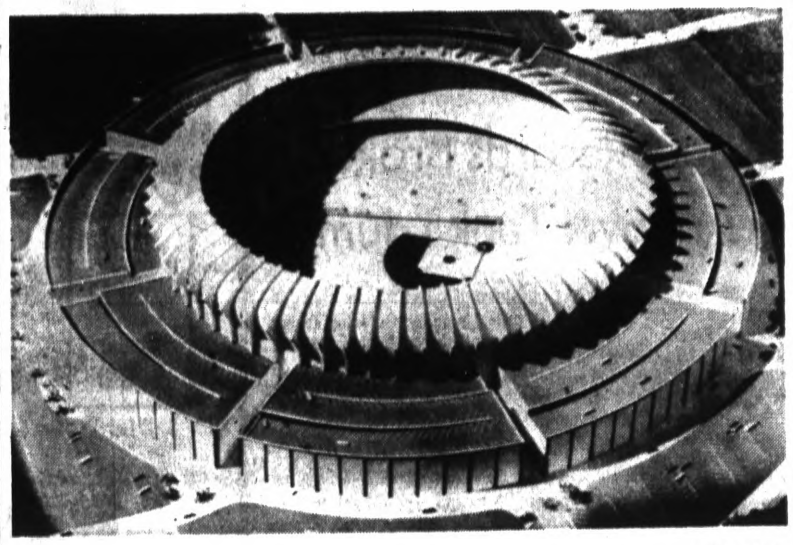

Bob Boozer scored 11 of his 25 points in the last quarter, helping Chicago break out of an 80-80 deadlock and snap San Francisco's winning streak at four games.

STATE FAIR PROPOSAL — A study currently is under way to decide if Detroit's State Fair Grounds could accommodate a domed stadium similar to this model (minus the dome). The study also would determine if such a stadium there would be self-sustaining. Efforts are also being made to get the goahead for such a stadium in downtown Detroit, in the Walled Lake area and on the eastern outskirts of Pontiac.

Stadium Bond Plan Studied

DETROIT (AP)—Can a sports stadium similar to the Astrodome be built on the State Fairground in Detroit and sustain itself without the use of state funds?

This is the question that the State Fair Authority hopes to answer with the help of experts.

★ ★ ★

Delmont L. Chapman of South Rockwood, chairman of the Michigan State Fair Authority and a former state representative, said one of the 12 engineering firms that bid on making the financial study is to be awarded a contract soon.

★ ★ ★

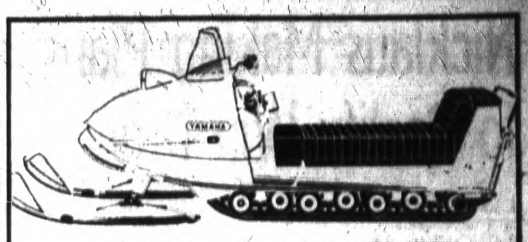

Four Michigan architects were interviewed Tuesday and the fair authority plans to meet again next Thursday to recommend one to work with the

★ ★ ★

The study is to determine whether the stadium can be built, financed and maintained strictly through its own earning power.

Present plans call for the issuance of revenue bonds to finance the structure, Chapman said.

As the stadium is to be built on state owned property, only the revenue can be pledged against the bonds. The State Building and Budget Departments are working along with the Fair Authority on the project.

Nicklaus Making Plans to Rectify Win Drought

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The years have been scarce and far between when Jack Nicklaus didn't win a major golf championship. The year 1968 was one of them.

The 29-year-old Nicklaus hopes to rectify the situation in 1969.

* * *

The leader going into the second round of the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open today, with an initial four-under par 68, the big and friendly bear from Columbus, Ohio, made a few revelations.

For one, he has begun his training program weeks earlier than usual. He used to delay perfecting his game until the Masters at Augusta, Ga., loomed ahead.

"I played a lot of golf starting Dec. 27 in Florida," said Jack of a period in which he used to relax and fish. "I didn't win a major tournament last year and naturally my objective is to win one of them this year."

BIG FOUR

He referred to the U.S. Open, the Masters, the PGA and the British Open, the crowns of which he has won at least once in his brilliant career.

Immediate target, of course, is the tournament here and its $30,000 top money. Last Monday, in his first tournament of the year, he finished just four strokes back of the winner, George Archer, in Bing Crosby's affair.

* * *

"I thought I played well up there," Nicklaus observed. His 68 Thursday left him one stroke ahead of Dow Finsterwald, formerly a tour regular who limits tournament play now to 18 or so events a year and spends much of his time as a club pro in Colorado Springs, Colo.

LEADING SCORER — Junior Greg Ranney is the leading scorer on Oakland University's basketball team with a 16.2 average. The Pioneers play at Kalamazoo College Saturday afternoon.

Pioneers Face Strong Defense

Oakland University will send its balanced basketball attack against the best defense in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association Saturday afternoon at Kalamazoo.

* * *

Although riddled by Calvin earlier this week, Kalamazoo College managed to hold its rating as the stingiest team in the MIAA. The Hornets have yielded 73.6 points a game while posting a 7-7 overall record.

* * *

Oakland is a difficult team to defense because all five starters are capable of having hot games. This is reflected in the averages.

Greg Ranney, apparently recovered from some feet problems that cut his efficiency, leads the Pioneers with a 16.2 average. He is followed by Tom Allan, 15.5; John Eley, 15.4; Gordon Tebo, 13.2; and Ed Holloman, 12.

* * *

As a team, the Pioneers are scoring at a 78.5 clip. Unfortunately, the defensive effort is 10 points above what Coach Gene Boldon would like. OU has given up an average of 80.1 while compiling a 6-7 record.

The 3 p.m. contest with Kalamazoo will be preceded by a junior varsity clash between the two schools.

Cage Party-Poopers

Homecoming Is Sad

By the Associated Press

Oregon State's party-poopers turned Portland's homecoming celebration into a Sour Sixteen party Thursday night.

The Beavers, seeking to become the second college basketball team to win 1,000 games, made it 995 with an easy 83-59 victory that left Portland the nation's only major team that hasn't won a game. The Pilots are 0-16.

* * *

Kentucky reached 1,000 wins earlier this month and Kansas, with 998, is in second place.

Coach Paul Valenti of Oregon State was worried about the game, mainly because Portland had won its last two homecoming games from the Beavers.

"Any time a team makes a special effort it can be tough," Valenti said, "and Portland has a habit of making a special effort against us."

The Pilots tried a zone but Oregon State shot over it at a 62.9 per cent clip in the first half to take a 47-28 lead. All five starters scored in double figures, paced by 17 apiece for Gary Freeman and Bill More, although Portland's Bill Ricks took game honors with 26.

"If we could put everything in one game, things might be a little different," moaned Portland's Bill Turner, who has a 5-37 record in his second year as head coach.

DRAKE CLIPPED

North Texas State blasted Drake's Missouri Valley Conference title hopes 118-99, the Eagles' highest total in 12 years against an MVC rival. Crest Whitaker scored 36 points and Joe Hamilton 31 for the winners, who connected on 36 of 40 free throws.

In a game between MVC also-rans, Greg Carney's jump shot with six seconds left gave Wichita State a 71-69 triumph over hard-luck Memphis State. The Tigers have lost four games by one point and two games by two.

* * *

Notre Dame got Georgia's Tech's high-scoring Rich Yunkus in foul trouble, held him to 15 points and whipped the Yellow Jackets 71-52. Bob Arnzen pazed the Irish with 25.

Oklahoma City outlasted Creighton 98-94 despite 33 points by the losers' Bob Portman, who set a school scoring record of 1,674 points, seven more than Paul Silas, now a pro with the Atlanta Hawks.

Morehead State, the leading offensive team with an average of 93.1 points a game, had the tables turned as Southern Mississippi made off with a 93-85 win thanks to Wendell Ladner's 34 points and 24 rebounds.

* * *

Larry Lewis, the country's top rebounder, pulled down 21, just under his 21.6 average, and Bill Snodgrass netted 24 points as St. Francis of Pennsylvania stopped Montana 96-79.

Marv Roberts, the nation's No. 6 with a 28.4 average, poured in 40 points but couldn't prevent Utah State's 113-82 loss to Brigham Young.

First Place Regained in Cage League

Duke's Speedo Service avenged last week's loss and regained first place in the Waterford Township men's basketball American League last night, and CIO 594 continued as the program's only undefeated team.

Duke's bounced back against Kampsen Realty, 69-51 as Gary Hayward scored 17 points. The winners had a 27-13 free throw edge in overcoming Mike Miley's 23 points for Kampsen.

Bud Hayward's 21 paced Coulacos Insurance to a 43-34 win over Lighthouse Lanes, and Genesee Welding built up a 34-15 first-half lead and coasted past Lakeland Pharmacy, 48-42.

* * *

Charlie Robison and Dan Greig each produced 15 points as CIO 594 won its seventh straight with a 50-35 conquest of Sparks-Griffin. A 27-17 last-half edge was the big factor.

The other International League results had Mel's Sport Shop outlasting Spencer Floor Covering, 55-53, when the losers missed three chances to tie the game; and M.A. Benson outshot Irwin Realty by five field goals for a 46-37 victory.

Lake Superior 6 Tops Tech JV's

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — Lake Superior State raced to its 15th straight hockey win Thursday night defeating the Michigan Tech Junior Varsity 10-2 in a nonconference game.

Paul Theriault and Jim Fuller scored two goals each for the Lekers, now 15-0 on the season.

School Records Broken in Andover Tank Triumph

Setting five school records, Bloomfield Hills Andover downed Lincoln Park, 70-35, Thursday night for its seventh win in nine starts and setting the stage for tonight's encounter with unbeaten Birmingham Seaholm at the BHA pool.

Steve Kuzma's 59.9 seconds triumph in the 100-yard backstroke, and a 244.75 point performance by diving winner Rich Metheny highlighted the Barons' victory. Both set pool as well as school marks.

Bill Beiser of Lincoln Park set a pool mark in capturing the 200-yard individual medley and Andover's Jeff Klann broke the school record in placing second, one-half second behind Beiser.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS!—Feelings ran high last night at Oakland, Calif., when the Indiana Pacers collided with the American Basketball Association's dominant power, the Oaks. Gary Bradds of the Oaks and Roger Brown of Indiana grapple on the floor while their teammates shove and mill around above them during a brief no-decision bout under the visitors' basket. The streaking Oakland quintet was a 146-143 winner in overtime.

Eagles' Owner Trying to Rally

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Luckless Jerry Wolman, stung by another misfired deal, hoped to save his faltering financial empire—and the Philadelphia Eagles' National Football League franchise—with yet another plan today.

Wolman indicated he may go to bankruptcy court in Baltimore with a contract under which Leonard Tose, a Norristown, Pa., trucking executive, would agree to purchase the Eagles outright.

The contract would need approval of Joseph O. Kaiser, U.S. referee in bankruptcy for the U.S. District Court of Maryland, who is overseer of Wolman's Financial affairs in behalf of some 200 unsecured Wolman creditors.

Tose, presently the conditional purchaser of the Eagles, was denied a $15 million loan Thursday from the First Pennsylvania Banking & Trust Co.

Wolman was to borrow the money from Tose to pay off secured creditors and buy 48 per cent of the Eagles' stock from Earl Foreman, a Washington lawyer. But the bank turned down the loan as too risky.

Wolman owns 52 per cent of the Eagles' stock, but will lose the team if he cannot satisfy his creditors by May 1.

The misfired deal Thursday was just another defeat for the one-time millionaire from Washington, D.C., whose financial empire collapsed with the loss of a Chicago building project over a year ago. A "tight money market" undermined Wolman's millions, and he now owes about $35 million to creditors.

His plan to borrow the money from Tose was previously approved by Kaiser as all of his deals must be. John R. Bunting, First Pennsylvania president, said Kaiser made some changes in the deal Thursday, and because of them, said the bank could not make the loan to Tose.

"Wolman and Tose would probably say the legal changes were only technicalities," said Bunting, "but the bank feels they go to the substance of the matter."

The changes were not spelled out, but Tose indicated they had to do with the time left for Wolman to try to work his way out of his difficulties.

★ ★ ★

Tose said he might go to another bank to seek the loan, but Wolman said if First Pennsylvania's lawyers didn't go for the deal, then he doubted if lawyers for the other banks would approve it.

Speed Weeks Under Way

Collegian Sets Daytona Pace

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Four Americans, headed by a 21-year-old Auburn University student, started ahead of the vaunted European drivers today in the 250-mile World Championship formula vee race opening Speed Weeks at Daytona International Speedway.

Steve Peiper of Alexandria, Va., earned the pole with victory in the fastest of four qualifying sprints Thursday. He averaged 87.080 miles per hour, barely nosing out Cecil Harris Jr. of Houston, and Bill Scott of Washington D.C., as they came across the finish line abreast.

James Cox of Chattanooga, Tenn., Eckhard Stenzel of Germany, and Peter Peter of Austria were close behind in the same six-lap sprint over a 3.81-mile road and track course.

European champion Werner Reidl of Austria won his print easily, at a speed of 86.030 m.p.h., which earned him the seventh starting place.

Jim McDaniels of Alexandria, Va., who won a third sprint, got ninth starting spot in the grid.

14 COUNTRIES

A field of 75 cars qualified from 114 entrants representing 14 countries in the richest formula vee race ever run. The winner gets $8,000 from a purse of $32,500. Reidl said a series of six races in which he won the 1968 European title earned him only $1,500.

The little lightweight cars, using Volkswagen engines and chassis, put a new event on the Speed Weeks calendar one day ahead of the established 2 hours of Daytona, which begins Saturday at 3 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The field of top challengers in the sports car event was reduced when the only French Matra entered wrecked in night practice Thursday.

Driver Henri Pescarol of France was only slightly bruised when his speedy car flipped at an estimated 190 m.p.h. and was run over by a Porsche 911. But the Matra was wrecked too badly for repairs.

Jim Mettstrom of Potomac, Md., the Porsche driver, was uninjured.

★ ★ ★

Top contenders remaining in the field are a team of five West Germany factory Porsches, a pair of Ford GT40s from England and a trio of new Lolas with Chevrolet engines.

★ ★ ★

Roger Penske, head of one Lola crew, clocked Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., its driver, at 120 m.p.h. on one lap of the 3.81-mile road course. That would be one mile an hour faster than the track record. Penske timed the fastest Porsche a shade lower.

Small College Point Leader Can't Let Up

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ken Hall of Westminster College of Utah increased his National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball scoring leadership last week, but the 6-foot-2 senior guard can't afford to let up.

★ ★ ★

That's because Marvin Schmitt of Western New Mexico is close on Hall's heels, and any slip might cost Hall the lead.

★ ★ ★

Hall raised his scoring average a half point to 35.1 for 13 games in this week's NAIA statistics, released Thursday. Schmitt didn't play last week, and his average remained at 33.9 for 10 games.

★ ★ ★

Five others remained in the NAIA's exclusive 30-point club —Herbert Hart of Texas Southern at 31.7; Willie Scott of Alabama State at 31.5; Jesse Mangham of Ferris, Mich.; at 30.5, Don Ings of Rose Poly, Ind., at 30.1 and Robert Thompson of Philander Smith, Ark., at 30.0.

Easy Victories for Rec Teams

Conn's, Perry Drug Overwhelm Foes

Conn's Clothes outdistanced Perry Drugs, 71-45, and Club One Spot blasted the Unbeatables No. 1 unit, 78-58, in city men's recreation basketball activity Thursday night.

Conn's, led by Bob Rahban's 20 points, put eight men in the scoring column. It outscored Perry Drugs in every period and had a 31-20 edge in field goals.

Larry Edwards netted 19 markers and teammate Cy Green (12), Felix Brooks (11) and Bob Finley (10) also were in double figures to pace Club One Spot's win.

Rudy Ransom's 15 points led the Unbeatables who had a 14-10 lead after one quarter, but didn't pick up their scoring tempo until it was too late.

Scoring Marks Fall in Church Playoffs

Two league scoring records featured Thursday quarter-final round of the Pontiac Church League Men's Basketball playoffs.

Ron Dillingham pumped in 54 points to lead Northside Baptist to a 110-54 win over the Oxford Free Methodists, and Trinity Baptist scored 113 points in thumping Lake Orion Baptist, 113-69.

Drayton Heights Free Methodist eliminated Gethsemane Lutheran, 68-62, as Jeff Harnack and Mike Peterson combined for 51 points.

Tonight in the semifinals at the Pontiac Free Methodist gym, Northeast Community faces Drayton Heights at 7:45 p.m., and Trinity clashes with Northside at 9:15 p.m. The consolation and title game will be Saturday night.

Northwood Wins Over Davenport

MIDLAND (AP) — Northwood Institute's Percell Singleton and Bill Oates combined for 54 points Thursday night as Northwood took a 96-85 basketball victory over Davenport College.

Singleton scored 28 points and Oates hit 26. Dave Gordon had 23 for the losers as Davenport fell to an 8-7 record. Northwood evened its record at 7-7.

BEST ON LANES — The nation's bowling writers have chosen Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., as the 1968 male Bowler of the Year. He earned a record $67,375 last season. Earlier, the writers picked Dotty Fothergill, North Attleboro, Mass., as the woman honoree.

Big Lead for Team in Classic

Pontiac Janitor Supply continues to stay well in front of the pack each week after the late Monday night men's Classic at West Side Lanes.

Runner-up Bloomfield Landscaping hit a 1000 team game this week sparked by Bob Moore's 254—661 highs, but remains 12 points behind the pacesetter.

Buck McDonald hit 243—630 for West Side's entry. Team No. 1 had a big night with 1026-1023 games, led by Dave Sherman's 627. Al Pietz posted a 236 for North Hill Lanes.

★ ★ ★

Bob Chamberlain just missed commanding the top honors Monday night at Wonderland Lanes in the Masters League.

He had 245—635 highs but was runner-up to Dudley Steinhilber's 247 game and Ray Boik's 638 series. Dale Rosenboom had a 243 and Ron Cotner a 628 for the other top totals.

Copper Mug outshot Tepco Inc., 1027-1023, and Emory Corp. had a 1006 actual game.

TEEN-AGERS

A pair of 16-year-olds drew the spotlight in Sylvan Lanes' Sylvan Teen-Agers League Monday. Danny Romain rolled a 244 game and 650 series. He now has high series for the year and shares high game honors.

Matching his 244 that same day was Jeff Rosner, whose 244 helped him to a 644 series. Both are Pontiac Central students.

★ ★ ★

The big scoring continued in the 300 Bowl Classic last week. The VFW team, in particular, was impressive with an 1118 actual game, the fifth best reported locally this season.

Mark Bowers gave a 247-262—677 performance and Chuck Richards' 657 included a 277 game. Ed Austreng rolled a 224-245—667, Bob Lowry hit 232-235—649, Bill Pittman had a 246 (617) and Bill Dunkel a 251 (610).

★ ★ ★

Mary Devine topped the 600 mark for the first time with a 209-214—606 last week in the Ladies All Star League at "300." Norma Conley had the high game with her 231 in a 574. Eula Vick produced 206-226—558 scores, and Phyllis Strickland rolled a 222 (544).

Russian Skaters Win

OTTAWA (AP) — Russia's national hockey team whipped Canada's eastern nationals 10-4 Thursday night.

By JERE CRAIG

It was all-or-nothing for the junior bowlers from the Pontiac Elks Lodge No. 810 in the Greater Detroit Association's Holiday Junior Trophy Tournament.

Four of the local Elks leagues' qualifying entries brought home trophies and they were all first-place awards. No other juniors from Lodge No. 810 placed among the leaders.

The results were especially rewarding to Chris Lewis, a Western Michigan University freshman who was home often enough to qualify for the senior boys' event.

He captured the singles with a 676 handicap total, and teamed with Ron Boughner to claim the doubles title. They had a 1226 total, including spot.

Among the junior boys, Bill Pack of Pontiac led the scoring with 613. Two 14-year-old local girls, Cathy Irwin and Terry Harris, had 1109 with handicap to rule in the junior doubles class.

EAGLES MEN

Waterford Township entries continue to pace the 27th annual State Eagles Tournament about to enter its third weekend of activity at Savoy Lanes.

There were no changes among the top five in all three classes last weekend.

The Road Runners from Waterford Aerie No. 2887 lead the handicap team standings. Tom Sommers and Bill Matsel are No. 1 in doubles, and Herman Montville leads the singles.

The competition will last through May 4. This weekend's participants include seven teams from Rochester.

WOMEN'S LIST

Eva Miller, secretary of the Ladies All Star at 300 Bowl, has reviewed her list of season high scores and the updated report has considerably changed the women's rankings on this season's High Score List.

Quite possibly a few other names of local individuals or teams should be on either the men's or women's charts, but have been overlooked.

Cowboys Sign 2 as Free Agents

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League signed two Livingstone College players as free agents Thursday.

★ ★ ★

Signed were Greg Smith, a 6-foot-3, 240-pound offensive lineman and David Hendrix, a 6-1, 205-pound running back who averaged six yards per carry.

Indiana Bowler Top Qualifier

Johnson Totals 5,399; Guenther Rolls 299

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Don Johnson of Kokomo, Ind. shot the highest six-game block of the tournament, a 1,449, to lead 15 other semifinalists into today's match-game play of the Professional Bowlers Association $60,000 San Jose Open.

The Kokomo Kid rolled 235-280-268 in his last three games Thursday night to highlight his rush to the top.

Alfonso Pujol of New York City was only eight pins back with 5,391 and veteran Billy Hardwick of Louisville, Ky., was third with 5,388.

★ ★ ★

Johnny Guenther of Seattle hit the big game of the night, a 299. Guenther's effort almost matched the 300 games shot earlier by Wayne Zahn of Atlanta, Mike McGrath of El Cerrito, Calif., and Tommy Tuttle of King, N. C.

The 16 semifinalists shoot 16 games in today's action with the top five going for the $9,000 first prize in Saturday's nationally televised final.

Opening lead—♣ K

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

All top scores aren't earned in duplicate play. Sometimes they are the result of pure unadulterated luck.

Some five-card major bidders won't approve of the heart opening bid by Jake Winkman's pupil but it meets with our full approval. We see no reason to complicate our bidding by opening this sort of hand with a minor suit.

We don't approve of North's double. A simple overcall is better with this type of powerful two-suit hand. Your partner won't know how strong you are but it won't matter. Somehow or other you always get a second chance to bid and can take strong action then.

★ ★ ★

Anyway, North doubled. Winkman jumped to four hearts. He didn't hold any high cards but he wanted to do his best to shut South out.

He didn't succeed. South managed to find a four-spade bid and it was up to West to take some action with his good hand. Author von Elsner has Winkman suggest a double. West can't tell that his partner has bid with no high card points at all.

★ ★ ★

He also points out that a double would lead to a five-heart call by Winkman sitting East and might even result in East and West buying the contract there.

However, the pupil passed. He opened the king of clubs and continued with the ace of hearts. Then he studied dummy awhile and led a low diamond. Declarer finessed but Winkman ruffed to hold South to his contract.

★ ★ ★

I turned out to be an absolute top score for our hero! Somehow or other North became declarer at four or five spades at every other table. East would open a heart. West would take one heart; then a club; then try to cash either a second heart or club, whereupon North would wind up making five spades.

Winkman didn't bother to point out that if East and West had staggered into six hearts they would have made it easily. It didn't matter. No one did make that bid.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
			1 ♣
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 N.T.
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 6 ♥ K J 7 ♦ A 10 4 ♣ K Q 10 8
What do you do now?

A—Pass. You have your previous bids plus a couple of 10s but these 10s won't make a slam appear likely since your partner is willing to settle for game.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding four hearts your partner jumped to four no-trump over your two no-trump. What do you do now?

Teacher Robbed in Classroom

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — An elementary school teacher was robbed at gunpoint in her classroom Thursday by a youth she had earlier ordered out of the building, police said.

★ ★ ★

Authorities said Mrs. Margie L. Lentsch, 43, lost a diamond ring valued at $1,000, when the youth walked into the classroom, demanded money and left. Mrs. Lentsch told police she had found the youth wandering the hallways and told him to leave.

Parochiaid Bill Offers Tax Credits to Parents

LANSING (UPI) — A bill that would give parents of parochial school students in Michigan $30-million in tax credits has been introduced in the Michigan House of Representatives.

The first so-called parochiaid measure of the 1969 session would exempt such parents from public school taxes equal to the amoung of tuition they pay at nonpublic schools.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Stephen Stopczynski, D-Detroit, sponsored the bill Thursday along with 13 other Democrats and a lone Republican, Rep. Donald Pears of Buchanan.

Stopczynski said an estimated $30 million in tax relief "would prevent the double taxation of these parents.

'ONLY WAY'

"This is the only way to properly give to the parents — where the help is needed most," he said.

Stopczynski said he wouldn't touch "with a 10-foot pole" a bill scheduled for introduction next week that would subsidize salaries of non-public school teachers.

★ ★ ★

"The parents would still be paying double taxes. My plan offers direct tax relief. The financial burden is on the parents, and it's about time we did something about it," he said.

The state has about 315,000 parochial school students, who, many education experts say, cannot be absorbed into the public school system without much higher taxes. However, the nonpublic students have been coming over to public schools at the rate of about 5,000 a year since 1960 due to financial woes.

NEW COMMITTEE

Also in the House Thursday, a new 11-member committee on urban affairs was approved. Rep. Edward Suski, D-Flint, was chosen by House Speaker William A. Ryan of Detroit as chairman of the group, which will handle housing, tenants' rights and urban recreation bills.

In related action, the name of the House Agriculture Committee was changed to the Committee on Consumers and Agriculture.

★ ★ ★

A pair of bills to implement the $335-million water pollution control bond issue approved by voters last November was introduced by Reps. Raymond J. Smit, R-Ann Arbor, and William Copeland, D-Wyandotte.

Detroit schools got into the bill-introduction act as Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, sponsored a measure that would break up the first-class district into 12 regional districts. Under the plan, regional districts would retain the powers of hiring and firing persons, planning the curriculum and planning budgets. However, a first-class district board would take charge over the 12 regions of contract negotiations, payroll duties and property management.

Other bills submitted Thursday would:

- Allow a policeman to stop any person he suspects has committed or is about to commit a crime and demand an explanation of his actions.
- Regulate driver training schools.
- Require a six-cent deposit on all beer bottles and prohibit the use of nonreturnable malt beverage bottles.

★ ★ ★

- Appropriate 4 per cent of the money collected in the motor vehicle highway fund to townships.
- Allow local school districts to charge fees for bus transportation to cover amount of cost not reimbursed by the state.
- Provide that unsolicited goods delivered to anyone shall be a gift without obligation to the recipient.

No Admission Bars---Catholic School Official

LANSING (UPI) — Catholic schools in Michigan do not deny admission to children of other faiths and currently enroll nearly 5,000 non-Catholic pupils, a church official said Thursday.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. William F. Meyers, superintendent of schools for the Lansing Catholic Diocese, issued the statement after Rep. James F. Smith, R-Davison, asked the attorney general to rule if a Catholic school could legally refuse to admit a non-Catholic student.

★ ★ ★

Smith's query stemmed from the refusal of St. Luke's Catholic School in Flint to process an application from a Protestant student for admission in the fall of 1970.

Father Meyers said St. Luke's is not accepting applications from anyone, Catholic or non-Catholic, for 1970 at this time.

Need a Bobcat? Town Is Getting Rid of Its Zoo

DELTA, Colo. (AP) — Any takers for a wolf, mountain lion, badger, two deer, two bears, two bobcats and four monkeys?

★ ★ ★

The city of Delta has to get rid of its zoo because there was no money to operate it after a city sales tax referendum failed.

"I had hoped to get rid of them last week because we have no money budgeted for their feed," said City Manager Wayne Simpson.

★ ★ ★

None of the animals would make a pet, he said, and explained that "because they're not afraid of people, they may be dangerous."

Simpson said he tried to give the animals to other zoos, one as far away as Goodland, Kan., but there were no takers.

OU Tutors Helping Children in Pontiac Make the Grade

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Cries of "Are you gonna be our teacher?" and "Will you be my tutor?" greeted Oakland University students in the POEAT tutorial program at several Pontiac elementary schools last week.

With the new semester starting at OU this month, POEAT had undergone some reorganization with the loss of some volunteers and the retention of others to work with underprivileged Pontiac pupils on the program's one-to-one basis.

★ ★ ★

POEAT (Pontiac Oakland Educational Assistance Team) is a group of about 170 Oakland University students who devote at least five hours of their time each week to the tutorial and enrichment program.

Once a week POEAT tutors travel to Pontiac to the elementary schools to meet their charges, and once a week the children eagerly board Pontiac Schools buses for a trip to Oakland University where their tutors await them.

2½-HOUR SESSIONS

POEAT volunteers are on their own in organizing the 2½-hour sessions. A tutor may study with his pupil, discuss problems with him or play with him.

"We try to do what we feel will be of the most benefit to the children," said Joe Davidson, a Detroit sophomore at OU who has been involved in the program for two years.

★ ★ ★

The schools involved in the program, including Wilson, Bagley, McConnell, Franklin and Whittier, all have community school programs, a concept to involve the community in the use of school facilities.

The schools have made the libraries, classrooms, gymnasiums and school yards available for the POEAT program.

GROUP ACTIVITY AT OU

When the pupils are at OU, group activities are usually available, such as movies, science demonstrations and entertainment programs. A program on black culture was recently presented by the OU Association of Black Students.

Most of the youngsters in POEAT are black, but only about a fifth of the tutors are black, according to Joe Hertzberg, program coordinator.

★ ★ ★

"This places upon each POEAT member a special responsibility. Pride, self-awareness and black-consciousness must be encouraged," Hertzberg said.

All POEAT volunteers go through several orientation and training sessions, before they are assigned to an elementary pupil chosen by community school directors, principals and teachers.

DIFFERENCES LEARNED

They must learn the nature of the racial and cultural differences they will face with the children, Hertzberg said.

One of the basic points of the program is that the volunteer must first learn to respect his pupil before his pupil will respect him. On the basis of mutual respect, the two can work together, Hertzberg said.

★ ★ ★

POEAT was organized four years ago, with a few faculty members and Oakland University students. With the help of the community school directors and the determination of the volunteers, the program has grown.

POEAT members receive no pay and no credit.

FACILITIES PROVIDED

Oakland University provides office space for POEAT and other facilities such as classrooms. Three faculty members, Henry Rosemont, David Bricker and the Rev. William Brewster, serve as advisers to the organization.

The program has no official financial backing, although a few contributions of money, as well as a number of books donated by the Ludington News Co. in Detroit have helped the organization to carry on its programs.

★ ★ ★

Financial contributions are not turned down, however, one faculty adviser mentioned.

POEAT is recognized as doing the youngsters good, although volunteers, teachers and parents sometimes have difficulties pinpointing the improvements. The volunteers are encouraged, though, as the children, often eagerly, show up for every single session.

★ ★ ★

"It's difficult to really evaluate the program by traditional standards, although we can see some day-to-day changes in the youngsters," said Wilson School Principal George Martuneac.

"This is a good program and some of the teachers have said they can see positive changes in a child's social relationships or academic attitudes. We are seeking an evaluation instrument to prove the worth of the program," Martuneac said.

READING CAN BE FUN — Cameron DeWalt of 450 Erwin, a fifth-grade student, enjoys reading with his POEAT tutor, Jerry Hill, a Detroit junior.

Steels, Motors, Oils Up

Active Stock Mart Advances

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels, motors and oils rose in an advancing stock market early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 140 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.68 at 943.81.

After five days of irregularity capped by Thursday's strength in selected blue chips, confidence appeared to be rising, brokers said. The investing public seemed less unsure of the Nixon administration and seemed to be anticipating a more stable economy in the months ahead.

AVERAGE UP

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 356.9 with industrials up 1.3, rails up 1.0 and utilities up .3.

Some of the coppers were unsettled by reports of a major copper deposit found in Panama by a United Nations exploration team. Cerro Corp., already weak because of rumors—since denied—that its properties in Peru were being expropriated, fell about 2 points in heavy trading. Anaconda dropped about 1. Phelps Dodge and International Nickel—a big copper producer lost fractions.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange. Warner Brothers-Seven Arts leaped about 3 points. AMK Corp. warrants (when-issued) were far ahead on volume, gaining about a point

Bill Seeks MCOM Board, Eventual State Support

An old controversy was renewed in the State Legislature yesterday with the introduction of a bill for a governing board and eventual state support of the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine, (MCOM), now under construction in Pontiac.

The bill was introduced by Sen. Raymond D. Dzendzel, D-Detroit, and 13 other senators, asking provision for an eight-member govering board to seek state and federal funding for the school.

★ ★ ★

The board would be appointed by the governor and consist of five laymen who would serve eight-year terms. The bill made no provisions for specific appropriations.

Opposition has developed against state support for the school among medical doctors and outstate legislators, who feel tax funds should be used to expand the three existing medical school facilities at Michigan State University, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University.

PARCEL DONATED

The MCOM site is a 164-acre parcel at Auburn and Opdyke on Pontiac's East Side, donated to the school in 1965 by Pontiac citizens after a $400,000 public subscription campaign.

The osteopathic profession in Michigan has borne almost the entire cost of setting up the new medical school here.

★ ★ ★

At the time of the MCOM ground-breaking in November, Michigan osteopathic physicians announced they would seek state funds for the project.

The college expects to complete construction of the entire school in 1971 and plans a freshman medical class of 64 students in 1972. The first class of 16 students, which would begin in September, would graduate with doctorate degrees in osteopathic medicine in 1973.

The school was granted a charter by the State Board of Education in 1964.

Edison Wins Suit Filed by Ex-Employe

An Oakland County Circuit Court jury found yesterday that a Royal Oak man had no cause for action in bringing a $3.5-million lawsuit against the Detroit Edison Co.

It was the second time in three years that the case of Joseph A. Ambrose had been dismissed. In January 1966, Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn made the same ruling after hearing opening statements.

★ ★ ★

Ambrose, an engineer, was seeking the damages for being fired by the utility company in October 1958. He claimed that he was discharged because of false and malicious statements and that, as a result he suffered physical and mental distress.

The case has a long court history, starting in Wayne County Circuit Court where it was also dismissed. That ruling was upheld by the Michigan Supreme Court.

ALLOWED TO FILE

In 1961, Ambrose, however, was allowed to file suit in Oakland County Circuit Court when he added names to the list of defendants, who he claimed had conspired against him.

The Michigan Court of Appeals upheld Judge Thorburn's ruling, but the Michigan Supreme Court reversed it and sent the case back.

The new trial lasted more than two weeks, with the jury receiving the case earlier this week. Jurors deliberated off and on for several days, returning to the courtroom on three occasions for clarification of instructions from Judge Thorburn.

Stage Director From Chile Is Dead in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Famed Chilean stage director Fernando Colina died Thursday of a brain hemorrhage, a week after he was stricken.

Colina, who had been in an intensive care unit, was director-designer with the Teatro de Ensayo of Catholic University in Santiago, Chile.

He had been in Dallas since October working on stage designing for a Dallas Theater Center production.

Bond Denied for Jailed Pair

The Michigan Court of Appeals yesterday refused to set bond that would free two men from prison while they appeal their conviction of extorting money from a Pontiac Township bowling alley proprietor.

The pair — Thomas F. Davis, 39, of Dearborn and Michael D. Bruno, 53, of Detroit — had appealed to the intermediate court after Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer canceled their bonds when he sentenced each of them to 3 to 20 years Jan. 15.

★ ★ ★

They had been found guilty by a jury Dec. 11 of threatening Donald A. Spalla over $4,600 which they claimed he owed to a friend. Spalla is part owner and manager of Orchard Lanes, 645 Opdyke.

They can now appeal the ruling on the bonds to the State Supreme Court. Their conviction has not yet been appealed.

County Services Cost Residents Less in Oakland

Oakland County residents appear to be getting their money's worth in county government.

A report issued yesterday by the State Treasury Department shows that Oakland County residents paid less per capita in 1967 for county services than residents of any of the other 82 counties of Michigan.

★ ★ ★

The cost per Oakland County individual was $33.07. A high cost of $88.47 was recorded in St. Clair County.

The report is the annual Michigan County Government Financial Report and 1967 is the latest year tabulated.

Off-Duty Politics by Police Upheld

DETROIT (AP) — Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard M. Maher has ruled that policemen have the right to participate in political activity when they are off duty.

The judge made the ruling after the Allen Park Police Officers Association filed suit against the city last week challenging an order from Mayor Leo Paluch that prohibited police from political activity on or off duty.

A new research study will probe the impact of smog on plants and animals during their total life system.

TO THE RESCUE—Two Wichita, Kan., firemen start to pull Ronald Roberts, 21, of Wichita from the middle of the Arkansas River yesterday. Roberts was taking a short-cut across the frozen river when the ice broke under him. He clung to a chunk of ice for more than 20 minutes until rescued.

Head of Intelligence Mission Testifies

Bucher Responsibility at Issue

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The question of how much authority Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher really had over intelligence operations on his ship seems to be getting a thorough airing before the court of inquiry into the capture of the USS Pueblo.

The question came into focus as Lt. Stephen R. Harris, in charge of the Pueblo's intelligence gathering mission, spent two hours in closed-door testimony Thursday and was ordered to return Monday.

★ ★ ★

The court went into a three-day recess for the weekend at a Navy doctor's recommendation to give Bucher a chance to rest. He testified nearly all of last week and has attended every session, open or closed. In addition, the court of five admirals said it wanted to catch up with administrative chores.

Harris was regarded as a key witness because Bucher testified early in his story of the capture that he had told the 30-year-old lieutenant to destroy material which fell into the hands of the North Koreans.

CLASSIFIED DATA

The Navy declined to tell about Harris' testimony, saying it was classified in the interest of national defense. But a spokesman said it concerned the "operation and mission" of the Pueblo that Harris was questioned by counsel for the court and Bucher, and that Harris was not warned he was under any suspicion of breaking any Navy regulations. Such a warning has been given to Bucher.

Part of how Bucher operated the Pueblo was determined by a division of authority between himself and Harris. While Bucher had complete military command and ultimate responsibility of the ship, he has told the court that the commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet "designated that the operational and management control of the research spaces working areas for intelligence be under the command and jurisdiction of Lt. Harris . . .

★ ★ ★

"He did not directly report to me."

It wasn't always that way, Bucher said. "While back in Washington, initially being briefed for my mission on this ship, I was told . . . That the research detachment would be in fact a department on our ship, the same fashion it was being done elsewhere, I went back to Puget Sound to report to my ship with the idea that the research detachment would be a department.

TWO POSSIBILITIES

"I later found out that the people from CINCPACFLT (commander in chief of the Pacific fleet)—that they thought that it would be much better in fact if the detachment would remain a detachment instead of a department.

★ ★ ★

"I wanted them a department so I would have positive control over them in all areas, not only in military but in administrative as well."

★ ★ ★

On occasion, Bucher said, the question of his authority over Harris' staff became "a very tender area and CINCPACFLT representatives for the research department on occasion made it known to me those people were not working for me."

County Dog Clinics Start Sunday at 1 P.M.

A series of county-operated clincis for dog incoulation and licensing will begin Sunday in the central garage of Oakland County Service Center.

The Oakland County Animal Welfare Division will work with private veterinarians in cooperaton with the county health department, said Dr. F. Hugh Wilson, director of the animal welfare division.

★ ★ ★

In areas where there is no clinic, he said, individuals are encouraged to obtain the service of private veterinarians.

The clinics will operate throughout the county from 1-4 p.m. through Feb. 23 at the following locations and dates:

- Sunday — Central garage, County Service Center, 1200 N. Telegraph and Brandon-Ortonville Fire Hall, Ortonville.

- Feb. 23 Central Garage, County Service Center, 1200 N. Telegraph.

GM Again First Outside U.S.

DETROIT — Preliminary sales figures reveal that General Motors in 1968 was again first in sales of motor vehicles outside the United States.

GM factory sales of passenger cars and trucks sold outside the United States totaled 1,595,000 units in 1968, compared with 1,446,000 in 1967. These 1968 sales included 1,326,000 passenger cars and 269,000 commercial vehicles.

★ ★ ★

Customer acceptance of new GM products contributed to GM's sales leadership. Opel, Vauxhall and Holden's introduced new products and in South Africa and Brazil GM began maunfacturing passenger cars in 1968.

U.S. motor vehicle production cumulative output in 1969 through Jan. 25 totaled 799,571 units, including 661,916 cars and 137,655 commercial vehicles.

★ ★ ★

In same period last year, 860,361 vehicles were produced — 719,489 passenger cars and 140,872 trucks and buses.

Piano Classes Start Saturday

Basic piano classes for both children and adults are scheduled to begin tomorrow at the Waterford Township CAI Building, 5640 Williams Lake.

Mrs. Dorothy Dingman will teach the course, with classes meeting 11 a.m. Saturdays through June.

Registration is at the CAI Building, where further information is available.

Deserters Find It Harder to Enter Canada

TORONTO (AP) — Canadian immigration officials are making it tougher for deserters from the U.S. armed forces to come to Canada, according to a spokesman for a Toronto organization that claims it has helped 600 deserters.

William Spira, 47, a former U.S. resident and now a Canadian businessman, said: "Virtually no one has landed for five or six weeks. The immigration officials tell deserters they can't apply at the border or that a so-called quota is full."

★ ★ ★

Spira said he had been helping a group called the Student Union for Peace Action.

James Cross, an immigration official, admitted tougher admission procedures had been instituted, but he denied that desertion from U.S. forces prevented a person from settling in Canada.

★ ★ ★

"There's no legislation which would permit us to refuse landed immigrant status on that basis alone," Cross said.

Spira said some deserters are still entering Canada by pretending they are visitors.

OCC Trustees OK Bond Vote

$7.9 Million Sought to Build 9 Projects

A $7.9-million bond issue proposal was unanimously approved by the Oakland Community College Board of Trustees at a special meeting last night. Approval of the State Municipal Finance Commission is needed before an election date is set.

The bonds would help finance nine construction projects on the college's three campuses. The funds would be supplemented by state and federal grants for the five-year, $17.6-million plan.

★ ★ ★

Included in the projects are three buildings already under construction — a vocational-technical building at the Auburn Hills campus in Pontiac Township, a maintenance building at the Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Township and a business building at Auburn Hills.

The bond resolution, set up a priority list for the various projects, which may not be deviated from unless application is made to the State Municipal Finance Commission and approval is granted.

★ ★ ★

Also at last night's meeting, David M. Preston was installed as a member of the board of trustees to fill the vacancy created in September by the resignation of Ralph F. Tyndall.

2 Michigan GIs Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty-three servicemen killed in action in the Vietnam war were named Thursday in a Defense Department casualty list. Two were from Michigan.

Killed in action were Army Spec. 5 Kenneth D. Hays, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn A. Sanders of Big Rapids, and Army Spec. 4 Nathan C. Crouch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat O. Crouch of Westland.

Program Set for 120 Youths at Institute

A summer program for 120 youngsters in the Oakland Training Institute was approved at a meeting yesterday of the Oakland Schools Intermediate District Board of Education.

The programs involves trainable mentally retarded youngsters, ages 14-21, for a six-week period of recreation programs, field trips and training in language arts.

★ ★ ★

The board appropriated $32,563 to operate the institute, located in Berkley, for 4½ hours a day for the six-week period. The program is reimbursable up to 75 per cent with state funds.

The board also authorized the Pontiac Board of Education to enter into contracts for the construction of a Pontiac Area Vocational Center for a cost not to exceed $1.55-million. The center is to be located on N. Perry near Pontiac Northern High School.

★ ★ ★

Approval also was given to preliminary architectural drawings of the Clarkston Area Vocational Center, and Clarkston was authorized to proceed with detailed architectural plans.

State GI Convicted of Rape in Manila

MANILA (AP)— A Philippine court today convicted U.S. Air Force Sgt. Gerald Thompson, 24, of Davidson, Mich., of rape and sentenced him to 10 to 17 years in prison.

Thompson said he would appeal. He was ordered held in the jail at Clark Air Force Base. A base spokesman said if the appeal failed, the airman would be transferred to a Philippine jail.

★ ★ ★

Thompson was accused of drugging and raping a 19-year-old Filipino housemaid last April. He was tried by a court in Angeles City, which is just outside the big air base north of Manila.

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Actor Jimmy Stewart says he shook at least 12,000 hands during a just-completed tour of Vietnam and found the GIs had a surprising complaint: Some of the entertainment from the states is lousy.

STEWART

"The kids are not languishing over there hungering for something from home. They have got taste," Stewart told newsmen yesterday.

Unlike many entertainers, Stewart and his attractive wife, Gloria, gave no performances.

"I'd just go in and shake hands," said Stewart, adding that Gloria got most of the attention. She said GIs would gather around and say: "Ma'am, would you do me just one favor? Would you please kiss me?"

"I'd kiss them and say, 'If I look good to you, you've been away too long'," she added.

College Grid Coach Signs Prospect for 1980

The head football coach of Stephen F. Austin State College in Nacogdoches, Tex., Travis (Shorty) Hughes, has signed an athlete to play football with his Lumberjacks in 1980. Acknowledging that he was looking ahead a bit, Hughes said, "The boy has the broadest shoulders and strongest legs I have ever seen." The prize athlete is Max Cruseturner Jr., 7, a first grade pupil.

Football Star Shows Good Pursuit After Thief

Two jewelers stepped to the sidewalk and hollered at a passing salesman, "Stop that man!"

Fortunately for the jewelers, the mild-mannered salesman was John Niland, an offensive guard for the Dallas Cowboys during the National Football League season.

Niland took off, ran down his quarry after a six-block chase across downtown Dallas and helped retrieve $945 in stolen diamonds.

"Guess I'm still in shape," Niland said later. "It was right out of the play book."

Sebastian Cabot to Entertain GIs in Vietnam

Suave, impeccably dressed Sebastian Cabot leaves Hollywood Sunday for South Vietnam. The British-born actor plans to entertain allied troops from the Mekong Delta to the DMZ. Cabot also plans to talk with servicemen in Thailand during his monthlong tour, his second since the war began.

Muriel Humphrey, wife of the former vice president, has been appointed to the board of directors of Louis Whiteberk Fraser School, a private institution for mentally retarded in suburban Richfield.

Dakota Governors May Take Basketball Floor

South Dakota Gov. Frank Farrar, a Republican, has invited North Dakota Gov. William L. Guy, a Democrat, to bring along his uniform for tonight's basketball game.

The annual Governor's Cup game pits the Pierre Governors against the Bismarck (N.D.) Demons.

"I thought he and I could each play a quarter at opposite positions to test our skills against one another," said Farrar, at 39 the nation's youngest GOP governor.

Guy, who was a North Dakota high school basketball star 30 years ago, has indicated he will attend the contest but hasn't made any promises about participating.

Marx Ordered to Pay $3,000 Monthly Alimony

MRS. MARX

Groucho Marx must pay his third wife $3,000 monthly alimony pending their divorce trial.

Edna Eden Marx, 38, says her 15-year marriage to the 73-year-old comedian was marred by what she described as his "hostile and abusive moods" and "uncontrollable temper."

Judge Edward R. Brand, in setting temporary support yesterday in Santa Monica, Calif., turned down her request that Groucho be evicted from their Beverly Hills mansion. Brand said she should find another residence pending the trial but could use the vacation home in Palm Springs. The judge also awarded her $10,000 in attorney fees.

Marx was divorced in 1942 from his first wife of 22 years. His second marriage ended in divorce after five years. He had three children by the former wives.

Mrs. Marx, a former model and actress, charges extreme cruelty and asks division of $3 million in community property.

Surface Shocks Slight From N-Blasts---AEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission said today that three powerful nuclear test blasts deep under the Nevada desert last year produced only slight, harmless surface aftershocks.

In fact, the commission said, in a report to Congress prepared for release today, studies of such aftershocks may help develop a method of forecasting earthquakes.

★ ★ ★

The AEC often has been accused of taking a chance that its underground tests might touch off dangerous earthquakes.

In its annual report, the AEC conceded that for several weeks following two of the tests—each of which was equal in force to about 1 million tons of TNT—weak aftershocks were noted intermittently as far away as Salt Lake City, Utah. None was strong enough to be dangerous, it said.

DEFINING PHENOMENA

"The investigation of aftershocks will continue in order to better define the phenomena," the agency said.

"From these studies a better understanding of the generation of earthquakes may be gained, thus enhancing the development of possible models for earthquake prediction."

★ ★ ★

Prior to one of the big tests last year, there was opposition from some scientists and laymen, including urgings that the AEC call off the test.

Saginaw County Gets HUD Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development Thursday announced it has approved a grant of $83,360 to Saginaw County to help pay the cost of housing plans.

The grant is part of a $644,000 package of six similar projects in various parts of the country.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WOULD LIKE TO express our sincere appreciation for the many lovely floral offerings and cards, to all our friends and neighbors, the Eastern Star, Rev. Winne and Mr. and Mrs. Wint of the Wint Funeral Home, at the time of our sorrow. The family of William L. Knox.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY of Rev. Ford B. Reed who passed away January 31, 1963. Sadly missed by his wife Frances Oler, children and relatives.

IN LOVING MEMORY of Edward Ellefson, who passed away January 30, 1968.
We cannot bring back the old days,
Your hand we cannot touch,
But we still have precious memories
Of the one we love so much.
Sadly missed by daughter Carol, Son Lewis.

"A PAD THAT'S RIGHT OUT OF PLAYBOY!"

30-DAY OCCUPANCY

That's what one young swinger said when he first glimpsed an Oakland Valley Apartment! Modestly, we agree. We've put all the latest luxuries into these 1 and 2 bedroom apartments . . . sunken living rooms, terrace dining rooms, even private balconies. We've carpeted them, draped them, installed air conditioning, and sound-condition them so as not to inhibit parties. And just to show we're serious about the Playboy bit, we've built the great new Oakland Valley Club for Oakland Valley Apartment residents and their guests. It has a pool, card and game rooms, exercise room, sauna baths, and a very free-wheeling atmosphere. All yours for as little as $177 a month. P.S.—Bunnies Welcome.

Models Open Daily and Sunday—1 to 8 P.M. Saturday—1 to 6 P.M. Closed Wednesday.

Groucho Engages Show-Off to Pen Marx Brothers Show

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Groucho Marx approved of a guy who looks like a hippie writing the story of the Marx Brothers for the Broadway stage.

The young man with the long hair is David Steinberg, the 26-year-old comedian and student of Hebrew literature who has frequently said on TV that God has a sense of humor and that the Bible in some places is a very funny book.

WILSON

Groucho arched his eyebrows recently and asked him:

"Steinberg, have you got a broad?"

Steinberg admitted having a date that night.

"You gonna see her dressed like that?"

Steinberg nodded. Groucho shook his head. "She must be deeply in love with you!" he said.

The play, "Minnie's Boys," will tell about the Marx Brothers in their early 20s before their movies.

★ ★ ★

"Groucho said he thought I was an irreverent rascal but that my charm pulled it off," Steinberg says. "Which, he said, always worked for him, too."

Everything's coming up for success for Steinberg, a Canadian who came to NY via Chicago. He'll be doing three more Smothers Brothers shows soon as a comic. He has just finished a movie with Sidney Poitier ("The Lost Man"), and put together a special, "This Is Sholom Aleichem," which NBC'll show Feb. 7.

★ ★ ★

Having lunch with Steinberg in the Brown Derby in Hollywood recently, Groucho looked up to see a priest who said, "Mr. Marx, I want to thank you for bringing so much joy into the World."

"And, Father," replied Groucho, "I want to thank you for taking so much joy out of the world."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Our favorite astrologist says Jackie Onassis will soon be making news but then isn't she always? . . . Jay Garner, who plays Lester Maddox in "Red, Hot and Maddox," got an autographed picture from Maddox—a gag of course, from some chums. Garner's real name is James but he can't use it because of the movie star's priority with that name.

Michel, the veteran, suave maitre d', is back greeting patrons at Hy Uchitel's Voisin . . . Carol Channing, whose TV show with Pearl Bailey will be shown March 16, met the Apollo 8 astronauts and said, "I watched your TV show—I hope you'll watch mine."

★ ★ ★

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Don Bergman tells of the teenager who ran away two weeks. But nobody missed her—they thought she was still in the bathroom.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Modern apartments are being built with every known modern convenience, except low rent." —Evan Esar.

EARL'S PEARLS: Jack E. Leonard told a Copa audience, "LBJ is making a great ex-presjdent."

Comic Pat Henry, appearing at the Rainbow Grill, says of the 65-story high cafe, "We're so far up that somebody tried to hijack the place and take it to Cuba." . . . That's earl, brother.

A Look at TV

Borge Bits Still a Delight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Victor Borge, the piano-playing Dane, has a couple of comedy routines which, with occasional updating of material, he has been using for at least 20 years.

He trotted both of them out on Thursday night's "Dean Martin Show," and even for those of us who were very familiar with the bits, they were still very amusing.

One was his plan to inflate the language to keep up with the rising cost of everything. In this Borge reads a story that starts "Twice upon a time . . ." and then goes on to escalate words like "before" to "befive," and "wonderful" to "twoderful." Borge added something really new to this — "sock it three me!"

This was followed by his "phonetic pronunciation" routine in which he illustrates punctuation marks by rather crude noises — and it must be said the whole thing benefited considerably in the course of a duet by Borge and Martin.

The NBC variety program continues with its easy, merry pace, with the star working comfortably with his guest stars — Lena Horne, Sid Caesar and Borge in the most recent one. The show's writers, however, are beginning to lean a bit heavily on the Martin-booze gags. Dean Martin, who is a very attractive performer, can get along very nicely without, for example, expressing his vast affection for his doctor "because he lets me lick the alcohol off his thermometers."

Borge, if memory serves, had his own television series — and was using those routines then — in the early 1950s. That was also about the time when Liberace, with a syndicated musical show complete with candelabra and sequin jackets, was enchanting the over-35 female viewers.

Well, the TV wheel has come full circle, for Liberace, presumably still with candlelit piano and sequins, will be back — at least for the summer. He will star in a variety show, taped in London, which will replace "The Red Skelton Show" on CBS in July and August.

Huge N. Viet Base Is Found

SAIGON (AP) — American air cavalrymen have uncovered a huge North Vietnamese base spread over four square miles northwest of Saigon. U.S. officers said they think it was being built in preparation for a winter-spring offensive.

The base is believed to be the largest ever uncovered in the war and could accommodate perhaps 5,000 or more enemy troops. It contained hundreds of bunkers, a large underground hospital, dining halls, a bicycle repair shop, and a command post.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division came on the base while on a sweep along jungle trails in the long-time Vietcong stronghold known as War Zone C. The base was found some 53 miles northwest of Saigon and 14 miles south of the Cambodian border.

Lt. Col. Frank Henry, of Franklin, N. C., said his troops had already counted 354 bunkers of various sizes and that he estimates there are 750 to 1,000 bunkers in the whole area.

TURNING UP FAST

The air cavalrymen were turning up bunkers so fast that engineers called in to blow them up were hard put to keep up.

Henry said one reason the North Vietnamese may have selected the site for a major base was that there had been several B52 strikes in the area in previous months. The enemy probably felt, Henry said, that the U.S. Command would conclude the area clear because of the air strikes.

★ ★ ★

The underground hospital complex alone could accommodate an estimated 3,000 patients, medics and other troops. It was still under construction.

The Air Cavalrymen also turned up quantitites of medical supplies including 100 bottles of penicillin and some arms and ammunition.

UNIFORMS, FOOD

More than a thousand green and khaki North Vietnamese uniforms were found in one bunker. Another yielded three tons of rice and 100 pounds of rock salt.

Little battlefield action was reported again today, but a 13-year-old girl and 19-year-old boy were killed in terrorist bombings on the northen edge of Saigon this morning.

Nixon Asks Details on Ending the Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird to set up a special commision "to develop a detailed plan of action for ending the draft."

The request announced by the White House yesterday represented one of several small steps taken at the same time to redeem campaign pledges.

★ ★ ★

These steps gained added impetus today with Nixon's planned statement to Congress calling for more policemen, judges and prosecutors to curb crime in the nation's capital.

That late afternoon message was on a schedule including a trip to the Pentagon for a briefing with the Joint Chiefs of Staff and a pep talk to lower echelon defense officials.

ALL-OUT EFFORT

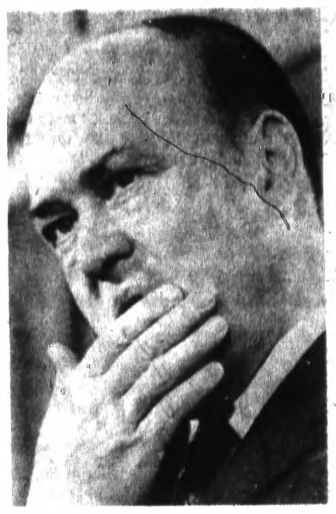

During the campaign, Nixon repeatedly pledged an all-out effort to combat crime, particularly in Washington, which he said should be a national model.

Nixon ordered Atty. Gen. John Mitchell earlier this week to map an urgent program against crime in the capital.

During the campaign, Nixon estimated creation of a volunteer army would cost $5 billion to $7 billion in pay raises. But he said part of that extra spending would be offset by reduced training costs.

Along with the request for an end-the-draft commission, the White House said, Nixon has called for studies or recommendations involving electoral reform, a possible hike in maximum interest paid by banks on savings deposits, all aspects of the program to develop a supersonic airliner, improvement of the postal service, the wisdom of thoroughly revising the Johnson administration's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year and a variety of others.

GM Earnings Up 6 Pct. in '68 on Record Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp., the world's largest manufacturer, earned $1.732 billion last year on record sales of $22.8 billion.

GM's financial report for 1968, released yesterday, showed that earnings increased 6 per cent over the $1.627-billion profit in 1967. The earnings last year amounted to $6.02 a share, up from $5.66 in 1967.

★ ★ ★

The best previous sales yaar for GM was in 1965 when the company had sales of $20.7 billion.

GM's announcement followed a similar report by Chrysler Corp. in which the third largest U.S. auto maker reported record sales and earnings for 1968. Chrysler also said its share of the U.S. car market rose to 18.1 per cent from 17.9 per cent in 1967.

RISE FOR CHRYSLER

Chrysler earned $200.8 million, or $6.23 a share, last year on sales totaling $7.4 billion, a sharp rise from the $200.4 million earned in 1967 on sales of $6.2 billion.

Neither Ford Motor Co. nor American Motors have yet released their 1968 financial statements.

★ ★ ★

To discount the significance of announced production cutbacks in February by Ford and Chrysler, the auto makers are forecasting a continued high level of sales to back up last year's record 9.6 million cars.

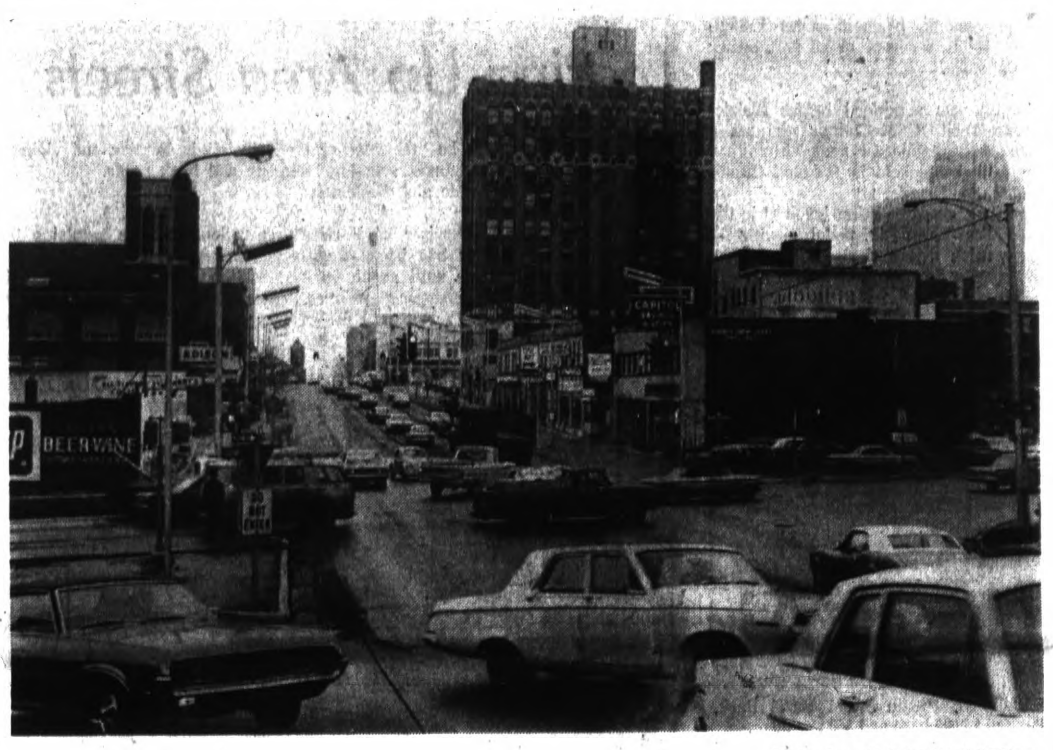

The cutbacks in February production were called because the industry's stockpile of new cars is at a record 1.6 million units and sales have not kept up with the inventory buildup.

TOPS JANUARY '67

Lee A. Iacocca, Ford executive vice president, noted that the sales rate in January has been almost 28,000 cars a day for the industry, better than last January.

January and February are normally tough months for the industry because of the wintry weather over much of the nation with sales picking up again in March and April.

"We don't see any reason why the upturn won't be there — we are planning on it," he said.

Dwindling Hopes for DST Rest in State Appeals Court

LANSING (UPI) — The hopes of pro-Daylight Savings Times forces rested today with the State Court of Appeals after a recount of last November's disputed election failed to reverse defeat of fast time.

The court scheduled a Feb. 25 hearing on a petition by two law students that the election outcome be nullified and DST be presented to the voters again in 1970.

★ ★ ★

The students, Steven R. Servaas and Herbert J. Ranta, both of Grand Rapids, filed the petition yesterday, contending the ballot question was improperly worded and confusing to voters, and that preelection publicity was misleading.

If the petition were granted, the official certification that was time lost by 1,501 votes would be set aside. So would a 1967 law exempting Michigan from fast-time provisions of the federal Uniform Time Act.

DEFENDANTS NAMED

Servaas, a student at the University of Michigan, and Ranta, who attends Wayne State University, named State Elections Diretcor R. Bernard Apol, Secretary of States James M. Hare and the Board of State Canvassers as defendants in their suit.

Earlier they had asked Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley to handle the litigation, but he declined to do so. Now he will defend Apol, Hare and the others.

★ ★ ★

In their pleadings, the students cited a preelection newspaper story which stated a negative vote on the issue was a vote on the issue was a vote in favor of DST. The opposite was true, of course, since the question on the ballot was: "Shall Michigan observe Daylight Savings Time?"

Meanwhile, election offcials confirmed the ballot recount, in process for more than a month, would not upset the defeat of DST.

Area Weekend to Be Pleasant

A pleasant weekend is in store for the Pontiac area.

Here is the day-by-day U.S. Weather Bureau's official prediction:

TODAY — Gradual clearing and colder with high in mid-30s. Increasing cloudiness and cold tonight with chance of snow flurries, low 20 to 25.

★ ★ ★

TOMORROW — Cloudy with chance of snow and little temperature change.

SUNDAY — Partly cloudy and not much change in temperature.

Preciptitation probabilities in per cent are 10 today, 40 tonight and tomorrow.

Twenty-eight was the low temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury had warmed up to 34 by 12:30 p.m.

DEBRA LEE HORN

Girl, 11, Hunted; Kidnap Feared

ALLENSTOWN, N.H. (UPI) — Six snowmobiles manned by Volunteers searched 20 square miles of ice-encrusted woods throughout the night and into the morning today for an 11-year-old girl feared kidnaped.

Police Chief Roland Baillargeon, exhausted after nearly 48 hours without sleep, said his concern for the girl's safety had deepened.

★ ★ ★

State police called off their search for Debra Lee Horn last night, but Baillargeon and his 10-man force organized volunteers to comb the Area.

State police operated on the assumption Debra was kidnaped while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Horn, were away at work. Blood found on a highway near the girl's home yesterday was being analyzed.

★ ★ ★

A white Cadillac which matched the description of one seen in the area on Wednesday was found abandoned six miles from the Horn home.

Debra was resting at home Wednesday after slipping on ice while walking to school. Her parents left her lying on a couch, and when they returned the door was ajar and the girl was gone.

Milliken to Set Up Agency to Coordinate Crime Fight

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. William G. Milliken today announced creation of a central crime-delinquency control planning agency to increase police efficiency and standardize law enforcement procedures.

He told a statewide anticrime meeting the agency would be set up within the governor's office and be responsible directly to him.

★ ★ ★

Funds will come, in part, from a $667,800 federal grant to develop a comprehensive state law enforcement plan. Other details will be released later in a special message to the Legislature.

The governor said there is a need for greater coordination of police efforts in Michigan's war on crime. He said a large number of agencies working toward the same general goal reduces total effectiveness.

"For example," Milliken said, "in just the five-county area surrounding the city of Detroit there are over 120 independent and separate police jurisdictions."

Milliken also outlined plans to improve police communications equipment, fashion a uniform crime report and beef up the state police department's organized Crime Division.

"Our challenge is to devise a strategy that will mobilize governmental units throughout the state in a coordinated effort to apply new approaches, new techniques and new understanding to combat that ancient evil — crime," the governor said.

Law officers from across Michigan attended the all-day session.

EXPRESSES ALARM

Milliken, in his first major address on crime since taking office nine days ago, expressed alarm over growing lawlessness in Michigan.

"Although state and local units of government spent over $139.6 million for public safety and protection in 1967-68, the crime rate increased by 19 per cent as compared to a 1 per cent population increase," he said.

Stadium Plan Is Hailed

A downtown Pontiac businessman sees the proposed domed stadium for professional sports as one more step toward a dynamic new Pontiac.

Jack Simon, an owner of Simms Brothers, vowed, "I will do everything in my power to help the Stadium Authority secure the facility."

★ ★ ★

The stadium would be built at I-75 and M59 and house the Lions' football and Tigers' baseball teams. Cities competing for the site are awaiting a decision by the owners.

Simon said: "The stadium ties in with other projects such as the $100-million Pontiac Plan for the urban renewal area and the Human Resources Center (Pontiac School Board project). These things promise a fantastic future for the city."

Pay for Supervisors Still Up in the Air

By JEAN SAILE

Members of Oakland County's Board of Supervisors aren't stating for the record what they think they should be paid, but privately most of them are talking in terms of between $5,000 and $10,000 a year.

Consideration of salaries by the full board was moved ahead two days yesterday. The matter will be considered publicly at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 11, and again at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 13, if necessary.

★ ★ ★

The advance of meeting dates was made in recognition that many supervisors will be attending the Republican State Convention Feb. 14, and 15 in Grand Rapids. The dates were originally scheduled as board meeting dates along with Feb. 13.

Wayne County Board of Supervisors votes today on salary provisions. The board is reportedly considering $12,500 per year with $40 per meeting. Macomb County has settled on $7,800 per year with $35 per meeting.

MATTERS OF CONTENTION

Whether questionnaires, intended as tools to determine salary ranges, should be made public became a matter of contention for the board.

Related Stories, Pages A-4, B-7

Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, asked for a roll call vote on a motion to make them public. It lost by a vote of 18 to 8 with one abstention.

★ ★ ★

Voting in favor of the public questionnaire were Supervisors Dennis Aaron, Mary Bawden, Lou Coy, Philip O. Mastin, James Mathews, Thomas O'Donoghue, Lawrence Pernick and Lee Walker. Christian Powell abstained. Party lines were split in the vote.

Some of those objecting expressed the idea that estimates of time are still too was noted that a salary decision under Michigan law must be made by Feb. 15.

TWICE A MONTH

Board members did determine that the full board will meet twice a month with special meetings allowed under certain circumstances.

The rules, also adopted yesterday, contained the provision that the board shall meet at 9:30 a.m. the first and third Thursdays of each month.

A leaflet handed out with the personnel practices committee's questionnaire noted that last year 28 committees of the board met a total of 248 times. The committee number has been reduced to 12 with the new board, but some members noted that the duties remain essentially the same.

While supervisors were reluctant to publicly make known their ideas regarding salaries, those contacted by The Pontiac Press were agreeable to stating their opinions.

★ ★ ★

Dennis M. Aaron, D-Huntington Woods, wants per diem pay — $25 for a half day, $50 for a full day.

Mary W. Bawden, R-Birmingham, would consider between $5,000 and $7,500 salary with no per diem scale.

Oil-Gushing Ocean Well Still Threat to California

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Beaches, wildlife and fish were threatened today as oil bubbled forth from a leaking ocean-floor well at a rate of 21,000 gallons a day.

★ ★ ★

The black slick covered 200 square miles of Pacific Ocean. Pilots prepared chemical air drops to disperse the oil and underwater crews worked to seal the leak.

★ ★ ★

A team of experts was dispatched from Washington, D. C., by Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel, and Gov. Ronald Reagan told of the threat of "major pollution to our coast."

Hickel said he is condiering tighter regulations on offshore drilling as a result.

BLEW OUT TUESDAY

The undersea well being drilled five and a half miles offshore by Union Oil Co. of California blew out Tuesday.

With the migration of gray whales at its height, state fish and game officials expressed fear for safety of the mammals, which must come to the surface to breathe. Their route was through the oil slick.

Many birds were struggling on the beaches, their feathers sticky with oil. State marine biologists said chemicals used to disperse the slick may harm bottom-dwelling fish and plankton.

The Coast Guard warned ships to stay at least five miles from the drilling platform, from which oil workers sought to seal the leak. The well was drilled 3,000 feet below the ocean floor.

FLOATING BARRICADES

Logs were lashed together into floating barricades in an effort to trap the oil before it spread into harbors.

The oil was surging to the surface in two major bubbles last night, about 800 feet from the drilling platform. There may be other smaller flows as well, an oil company spokesman said.

★ ★ ★

In addition, natural gas was leaking near the rig.

Birmingham

'Total Support Is Needed for Urban Plan'

BIRMINGHAM — Total support of the proposed Urban Design Plan is imperative if this city is to be preserved as a retail drawing card and distinctive community, local civic leaders and professional men were told yesterday.

Effective use of the public right-of-way for automobiles and pedestrians is the primary goal of the Urban Design Plan, according to Cy Paumier of Johnson, Johnson and Roy, Ann Arbor planning consultants.

Paumier outlined the plan at a Community House luncheon yesterday.

"Recent revitalization of stores and development of new retail facilities continue to provide a positive shopping climate.

COMPETITION CITED

However heavy shopping center competition in nearby areas makes it essential that emphasis should be placed on improving the environment that links the retail stores together in central Birmingham," Paumier said.

Cost estimates for the program, which will take a minimum of four years to complete have been set at about $800,000. Financing will come from private business expenditures, public solicitation, general tax funds and possibly special assessments.

Key projects include the reduction in width of Woodward and Maple in the downtown areas, widening of sidewalks and establishment of tree islands and wood benches on shopping area sidewalks.

A "ring road" will also extend around the downtown shopping area enabling easier shopper maneuverability. This will be done by extending Park Street on the east side of the central shopping district.

EXPERIMENTAL BLOCK

Projects scheduled for this year include development of an experimental block on Henrietta as a prototype of what the entire finished urban design plan product will look like in 1972.

The block will feature modern experimental street lighting, widened inlaid brick sidewalks and street furniture.

★ ★ ★

Other scheduled 1969 projects include:

- Construction of a park plaza featuring inlaid brick pavement, fountains and benches in front of the municipal building.
- Instalation of new public signs along the entrance corridors.
- Preparation of detailed plans for parking enclosre on one of the surface lots along the south side of Willits or on the east side of Chester.
- Preparation of sign ordinance revisions leading to the elimination of all roof and pole signs over 15 feet in height.
- Preparation of detailed site plans for two service stations on the southwest corners of East Maple and Hunter.

City Manager Robert Kenning said most of the initial projects will be financed from public tax funds with the exception of the civic plaza which is backed by the chamber of commerce and financed by public solicitation.

Dems to Air Disputes in 18th, 19th Districts

Disputes among Democrats in the 18th Congressional District of Oakland County, and another fight in the Wayne County portion of 19th District, will be aired tonight in hopes of resolving the issues before the State Democratic Convention gets under way in Detroit tomorrow.

The session is a result of a new procedure approved by the party's state central committee to streamline what has been a difficult and time consuming method of handling delegate seating challenges in the past.

★ ★ ★

Under the new arrangement, a preconvention Credentials Committee, composed of one representative from each of the 19 congressional districts in the state, will hear delegate challenges and a report from an investigation made by a state central staff member of the background on each challenge.

In the 18th District, liberals are hoping to gain further representation among the 23 delegates to the state convention from Royal Oak. The challenge was presented by the New Democratic Coalition, backers of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, who claim that while they have about half the precinct delegates, they have only three state delegates.

The Wayne-19th fight is a result of the Jan. 17 district convention. Charges have been made that nominations were not honored and that delegates were not elected an apportioned basis among urban areas.

Hospital Emergency Unit Opening Stalled

The opening of Pontiac General Hospital's new emergency department has been delayed to make corrections in its construction, according to hospital administrator Harold Euler.

★ ★ ★

He said workmen have begun to replaster the walls of an underground tunnel connecting the main hospital to the emergency building. The tunnel's heating will also be improved.

Euler estimated the building will be put into use in late February.

City Man Mute in Murder Case

A young Pontiac businessman stood mute Wednesday at his arraignment on an open charge of murder in the death of a truck driver nearly three years ago, according to police.

Harry J. Smith, 23, whose address is unreported, was arrested Wednesday afternoon by Pontiac detectives at a clothes-cleaning business at 463 S. Saginaw. He is reported to be part owner of the store.

★ ★ ★

Smith was arraigned before District Judge Cecil B. McCallum who set a court examination for next Thursday. Smith is being held in Oakland County Jail without bond.

He is accused of being involved in the 22-caliber automatic pistol slaying of Caro truck driver Carlaroy W. Henry, 29, outside the Jet Bar, 714 Woodward, at about 2:20 a.m. April 15, 1966.

★ ★ ★

Henry, father of three children, was shot in the chest as he walked from a telephone booth in front of the bar back toward his diesel cab, police said. He had just checked it with the Detroit office of Central Transport Inc. on his way to Saginaw.

Detectives termed the shooting motive as robbery since they didn't find Henry's wallet.

Thaw-Freeze-Thaw Cycle Tearing Up Area Streets

This is turning out to be "the year of the pothole" in Pontiac and vicinity, with almost unbelievable damage scarring main-line and back roads.

The holes are deep, wide and dangerous.

★ ★ ★

Gordon Matthews, supervisor of Pontiac's operations division, explains the year has been particularly bad because of freeze-thaw-freeze pattern.

And little can be done until about April 1. Matthews said the city has six trucks out daily making emergency patches. These patches are only temporary and road crews will have to wait until the frost season ends before "hot mix" or permanent patching can be made.

★ ★ ★

He warned of the danger of the holes and urged residents with a clearly dangerous spot near their home to call the department for an emergency patch job or placement of a danger signal.

There's little else that can be done, except hope for a long period of freezing weather, Matthews said. "That would stop it," he added.

Supervisor Pay Still Up in Air

George H. Grba, D-Pontiac, said, "I don't think supervisors should be paid less than the dog catcher." The chief deputy dog warden here is paid $8,300 to $9,200 with seven deputy dog wardens paid $7,300 to $8,200, according to county officials.

Delos Hamlin, R-Farmington, said $5,000 had been his original estimate, but "partisan politics are more expensive and I've revised my thinking to $8,000 including per diem pay." Hamlin, former board chairman, said the work of the board was taking longer than had been supposed.

Fred Houghten, R-Avon Township, said Republicans had been on record as favoring $5,000, but that he might go for more — "not a great deal but some."

Paul E. Kasper, R-Bloomfield-Troy, said he thought $5,000 without per diem pay adequate.

William L. Mainland, D-Milford, said between $5,000 and $8,000 total was as high as he'd want to go.

Philip O. Mastin Jr., D-Hazel Park, favored $5,000 base and $40 per diem.

James Mathews, D-Pontiac, said he'd be estimating the duties and time involved, but as yet did not have an answer.

Carl W. O'Brien, D-Pontiac, reported $8,000 and $45 per diem would be a fair wage.

★ ★ ★

Thomas H. O'Donoghue, D-Ferndale, opted for $2,500 base and "reasonable" per diem not to exceed $5,000 total, excluding expenses.

Robert F. Patnales, R-Royal Oak, stuck with the Republicans $5,000 but said he'd be willing to arbitrate to "get it settled."

Alexander C. Perinoff, D-Southfield, announced from his vice chairman's chair on the dais that he would seek $5,000 base and $50 per diem, the latter not to exceed $2,500.

Lawrence R. Pernick, D-Oak Park, wants a flat salary of $5,000 to $7,500 with no per diem.

★ ★ ★

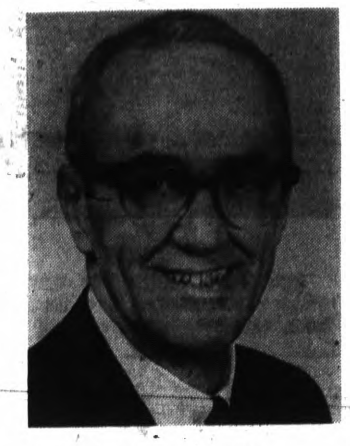

Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield, said he believed the area of $5,000 yearly adequate.

Lee Walker, D-Madison Heights, said he hadn't had time to analyze the salary schedule yet. He said the committees he serves met 92 times last year with a dozen board meetings which might be tripled this year.

Richard R. Wilcox, R-Brandon Township, favored part-time pay, part-time position.

Sears Manager Retires

Jack Harrington has been named the new manager of the Sears store in Pontiac, replacing Howard Nelson, who is retiring effective today. A. D. Swift, Detroit area manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co., announced the change today.

Harrington, whose appointment is effective tomorrow was manager of the Sears store in Grosse Pointe Farms. He has been a Sears employe for 21 years, starting in Detroit as an engineering co-op student.

★ ★ ★

His experience with the company includes managing the engineering and installation departments and customer service department at the Sears store in Lincoln Park and serving as assistant manager of the Grosse Pointe store.

Harrington, 43, and his wife, Margie, have two daughters, Kathy, 19 and Colleen 13. Both he and his wife are graduates of the University of Detroit. They live in Dearborn Heights.

SERVED 9 YEARS

Nelson, of 2654 Pendleton, Bloomfield Hills is retiring after nine years of managing the downtown Sears store. He is leaving next week to look for a spot for a possible winter home in Florida or Arizona, but plans to remain in the Pontiac area.

"This community has been very good to me," the trim gray-haired executive said, "and I have grown very fond of it and its people."

★ ★ ★

He added, Pontiac is the hub of one of the fastest growing counties in Michigan.

"The annual volume for the year ending today is 27 per cent higher than it was about 9 years ago, when I took over the management of the Pontiac store," Nelson said.

BETTER RELATIONS

"During that time I have seen the development of better human relations in the community," he said.

"I think the rehabilitation of downtown Pontiac is important to the development of better communications between the black and white people in the community."

★ ★ ★

Nelson is a past president of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce and is on its board of directors. He is also a member of the Elks, the City Club and the YMCA board.

Sirhan Will Testify Briefly on Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan's murder trial, after nearly four weeks of preliminaries, finally shows promise of some spark: The defendant takes the witness stand next Tuesday.

His appearance will be brief, chief defense attorney Grant B. Cooper told newsmen after announcing in court Thursday that Sirhan and his mother, Marv, will testify abotu their finances.

The judge has recessed the trial until Tuesday.

As Sirhan quietly chewed gum, Cooper called three Superior Court judges to the stand and asked how they chose nominees for the 1968 grand jury that voted the indictment. Each year 23 grand jurors are chosen by lot from nominations, two apiece, by all Superior Court judges.

★ ★ ★

Superior Court Judge Edward R. Brand said he would estimate his two nominees had incomes above $15,000. Judge Kenneth N. Chantry said he guessed his two earned more than $25,000 annually.

Plane With 63 Aboard Is Skyjacked to Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A National Airlines DC8 with 63 persons aboard was hijacked off the coast of Louisiana today by a "man with a gun at the head of the stewardess" and flown to Cuba.

The plane, Flight 44 from San Francisco to Miami with a stop scheduled at Tampa, carried 55 passengers and a crew of eight, the airline said. The plane landed in Havana at 6:58 a.m., EST.

Big 4 Talks Seen on Mideast Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassador Max Jakobson of Finland wound up a month as president of the U.N. Security Council today expecting that the Big Four members of the council will begin consultations "very soon" on how to settle the Arab-Israeli conflict.

He predicted that the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France would undertake such consultations "in one form or another" in February.

France has proposed that the Big Four representatives on the council meet here on the Middle East question. The Soviet Union has agreed, and Britain has expressed sympathy with the idea.

The United States has not yet replied to France.

Kosygin Health 'Okay'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet foreign ministry today denied "all rumors" about the health of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and said he will return to his duties "in the nearest future."

There have been widespread rumors that he is seriously ill with a liver ailment.

Truck Plows Down Dequindre 'Canal' In Avon Township

January Thaw Floods Parts of County

By TOM GRAY

Oakland County is wet!

The weeklong January thaw — which will become a February thaw in another day — wiped three weeks' accumulation of snow and ice from the landscape and spread it around in rivulets, pools and, in some cases, honest-to-goodness lakes.

Roads, driveways and even lawns, at first glazed with a half-inch of ice from Tuesday's freezing rain, disappeared as drizzle and melting continued to push water levels higher.

★ ★ ★

One of the worst of the roads was Dequindre Road in Avon Township between Auburn and Hamlin, where a foot of water yesterday stranded at least one motorist and turned the road into what looked like a canal.

Another place for a canoe or rowboat was at the intersection of Paramus and Meadowlawn in Independence Township.

FURNITURE PILED UP

There water up to two feet deep collected, covering Paramus, invading some homes and forcing one resident, David Brandt of 6195 Paramus, to pile his furniture on wooden 2x4s.

"Water's been coming in through the heat registers ever since last night," Brandt said yesterday afternoon. Operating with pumps borrowed from the township, he said, he and two neighbors had pumped 3,400 gallons of water an hour from the lake for about 15 hours without lowering the level a great deal.

Brandt and neighbors blamed blockage of a nearby drain, but Township Supervisor Duane Hursfall ascribed the problem to generally inadequate drainage in the area.

"All they have in there is road ditches. Those are not ample, nor is there a storm drain, which there should be," Hursfall commented.

ABM Slte Critics Repeat Opposition at OU Parley

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor-Suburban

"No ABM Here . . . Or Anywhere."

This is the new battle cry for opponents of a Sentinel antiballistic missile site in the Pontiac area.

★ ★ ★

And the bumper sticker standard appears to be drawing large numbers of supporters, judging from the turnout of more than 200 people for last night's "town meeting" at Oakland University on the ABM site fight.

ABM critics reiterated their opposition at the meeting called by WOMAN (Women Opposed to Missiles and Nuclear Warheads).

PHYSICIST SPEAKS

Featured speaker was Dr. Alvin M. Saperstein, Wayne State University physicist, who first led local opposition to a Sentinel site.

★ ★ ★

Saperstein again detailed a history of this country's ABM development, pointing out that civilian scientists in the Defense Department had repeatedly rejected the ABM system.

The WSU physicist said the only possible conclusion was that the Army isn't interested in the so-called "thin" line protection offered by the Sentinel program, but was really interested in the more expensive "thick" system.

He indicated neither system would entirely defend against an enemy missile attack.

SECONDS COMMENTS

Saperstein's comments were seconded by Robert M. Williamson, an OU physicist and a Rochester School Board member.

The Sentinel program, which includes long-range Spartan and short-range Sprint missiles, has been billed by the Army as a relatively "thin" protection against a missile attack by an unsophisticated missile power, such as Red China.

★ ★ ★

Critics of the Sentinel plan, including the Spaperstein and the WOMAN organization, contend the Army is really aiming toward a much bigger ABM system, although this latter system does not have congressional approval or support.

Michigan's Democratic senator, Philip A. Hart, scheduled as the main speaker last night, did not appear because weather conditions did not permit his flying from Washington. However, a representative from Hart's office spoke briefly.

'STOP MOMENTUM'

The Hart spokesman urged ABM foes to stop the momentum of the ABM program currently under way, but pointed out that emphasis could not stay on just the local site selection issue. He claimed the Army would just move the sties to areas where opposition wasn't as strong or as well-organized.

Reading from the text of a Hart speech, the spokesman quoted the senator as stating that the Sentinel system was the first fateful step in a more dangerous escalation than the Vietnam war.

★ ★ ★

The statement also contended that the Sentinel program was a new escalation of the arms race.

Also appearing last night was a representative for Congressman John Conyers Jr., D-Detroit, who said the Sentinel ABM program was "like being a little pregnant."

TROY OPPOSITION

Others at the meeting were two city commissioners from Troy, one of the areas being considered for a Sentinel installation, and representatives from Clawson and Detroit. Although invited the Army said they wouldn't send a spokesman to debate the missile issue.

The two Troy commissioners said their city's government was opposed to a ABM site there, describing it as "economically disastrous."

★ ★ ★

Several Pontiac area locations are being considered by the Army as ABM sites or for their related radar installations. These included the city of Troy, and Avon, Pontiac and Orion townships.

Site selections for this area are expected to be filed with Congress by Feb. 28 where notice must be given to the House Armed Services Committee.

Organized late last year, WOMAN began primarily as a women's group to fight against local ABM sites, but has been expanded to include both men and women. The group is circulating petitions calling for public hearings on the site selections.

Romeo Board Faces School Site Fight

ROMEO — A pretrial hearing has been set for Tuesday on the board of education's attempt to acquire a 40-acre parcel as a proposed school site.

The trial in Macomb County Circuit Court will follow on April 1.

★ ★ ★

The 40-acre plot at the southwest corner of 28 Mile Road and Campground Road is viewed by the board as the prime site for the location of a junior high school housing 2,000 students and an elementary building accommodating another 800 students.

Both schools would serve the southerly and southwest portions of the Romeo school district, extending into sections of Shelby and Washington townships.

CONCENTRATION

Several new housing subdivisions, and apartment and trailer court developments in the area have indicated a growing population concentration toward the south end of the school district, making it essential that the Campground-28 Mile site be acquired, a board spokesman said.

Donald Mather of Mather and Glime, the Roseville law firm handling the board's case in court, said there is every indication that the owner of the desired property, Samuel Kashat, a Detroit investor, will fight the board's action to the fullest extent.

★ ★ ★

A repoft by two independent appraisers said the 40-acre parcel was worth $60,000. Kashat acquired the property in 1962 for $30,000 according to Mather.

The board offered Kashat $64,000 in cash for the land. "The fact that he has refused to sell at this price, making more than 50 per cent profit, indicates we have a fight on our hands," Mather cited.

PRELIMINARY PLANS

Preliminary plans call for the junior high building to be constructed first, followed by the elementary school. The board wants to place the schools on the same site since it would represent a considerable cost savings, said school officials.

Both schools would utilize common facilities such as music and art rooms. Architectural fees and funds needed to buy other property could also be saved by building the schools on a common site.

The Campground-28 Mile Road location is the only site the board has been able to find that would accommodate both schools and adequately service the growing areas of the district, Mather said.

The board would purchase the property with funds available from a previous bond issue. Cost estimates of the proposed junior high and elementary buildings have not yet been determined by Dearborn architects Jar and Anderson.

★ ★ ★

A bond issue to provide construction funds probably would be scheduled within a year following finalization of property site acquisition and building costs.

W. Bloomfield Kills Plan for Knollwood Sewers

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — After months of problems and debate, the Township Board voted to kill the proposed sewer assessment district for Knollwood Heights subdivision.

An estimated 50 residents from the subdivision near Inkster and Maple attended the meeting earlier this week to debate the proposed sewer system. The meeting was the continuation of a hearing started last week.

★ ★ ★

The two-year dispute started with the circulation of petitions for the sewers in 1967. Counter petitions were soon circulated by those opposing the sewers. Some residents apparently signed both.

Eventually, the Committee for the Preservation of Knollwood — a group of citizens against the sewers — sought legal aid to void the councils actions. They contended that many residents claimed they signed petitions on the basis of false information. They also said these same residents later asked to have their names withdrawn, but this the Township Board did not allow on the advice of its legal counsel.

DUMPED PROJECT

However, the Township Board dumped the project, claiming that there were not enough signatures in favor of the sewers.

Sewers are only installed when a majority of the residents request them or when a definite health hazard exists, say township officials.

Only 44 per cent of the residents had signed the petitions in the final count, according to township officials.

★ ★ ★

Trustee Mrs. William Evans, who offered the motion to stop procedures on the sewers, warned residents of the rising costs of sewers. The estimated cost of the Knollwood sewers per house had risen from $1,900 to $3,300 since 1967.

Supervisors Back Publlc Voice

'If You Ever (Are To) Get Any Work Done You Can't Allow The People To Take Up Time . . .'
Supervisor Harry Horton

Pontiac Supervisor James Mathews, a Democrat, yesterday led a successful fight before the Oakland County Board of Supervisors to assure the public of a greater chance to speak at board meetings.

Permanent rules were adopted yesterday. Those presented by Christian Powell, R-West Bloomfield Township, contained the provision that an audience member could speak on invitation of a board member unless stopped by a vote of three other members.

Mathews won the right to have a majority of the board determine whether a speaker should be stopped.

It took a roll call vote on Mathews' amendment and the tally was 19 to 7 in favor with one absent. Voting against the measure were Supervisors Lou Coy, George Grba, Harry Horton, Paul Kasper, Carl O'Brien, Alexander Perinoff and Christian Powell.

AT COMMITTEE LEVEL

Objectors put forth the idea that the public should make its complaints felt at committee level, and that in the adoption of administrative rules provision could be made for the calling of public hearings.

Said Horton, R-Royal Oak, "If you ever care to get any work done (on the board), you can't allow the people to take up the time of the board."

★ ★ ★

O'Brien backed him adding, "People get their messages through." He reported he routinely receives a number of phone calls and holds meetings with people regarding governmental problems.

The new ruels keep the prerogative of board members to call the question after an hour's debate. This was forced through earlier by Republicans in a successful challenge to Democrat-purposed committee assignments.

JOURNALS REQUIRED

Also included is a rule requiring the keeping of journals by each committee. George Grba, who said he wrote this particular section, reported it was adopted from State Legislature procedure.

The rule includes the provision, "A member of the committee wishing to explain his vote may file a written explanation with the clerk of the committee within two board meeting days after the vote is taken, which explanation shall be attached to the action journal."

Grba privately deplored a lack of committee records, including those outlining duties.

The rules vote passed 21 to 1, with Lee Walker of Madison Heights abstaining. He said he had not had sufficient time to study revisions.

RIGHTS REPORT

In other business the board referred to its legislative committee the Michigan Civil Rights Commission report regarding race relations in the county as applies to employment and social service.

Rochester High School Will Host a Concert

ROCHESTER — The Jackson Chorale will present a concert Feb. 9 at 3 p.m. in the auditorium of Rochester High School, 180 S. Livernois.

The program for the concert will include madrigals, spirituals, and works by Hindemith, Sweelinck and Lotti, as well as Daniel Pinkham's "Christmas Canatata."

★ ★ ★

The chorale, a group of about 30 men and women from the metropolitan, area, will include two Pontiac Central High School students, Pete Marinos and Jackie Washington, and will be directed by Gilbert Jackson, presently head of the Pontiac Central Music Department.

Tickets for the concert will be available at the door and cost $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. A reception will follow the concert.

Fire Badly Damages Bloomfield Twp. Home

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A fire, apparently caused by a portable electric heater, did an estimated $15,000 damage to the Harry Russell residence at 4351 Chamberlain early today, the fire department said.

Firemen said the fire broke out in the garage about 1:30 a.m. and spread to the attic.

★ ★ ★

Two automobiles and a large amount of household goods in storage were destroyed.

No one was injured. Firemen were at the scene for about three hours.

Citizens' Panel Pushing Rochester School Bond Vote

ROCHESTER — A citizens' advisory committee is pushing for approval of this school district's proposed $8-million bond issue in a special election scheduled for Feb. 8.

The committee has prepared a slide demonstration detailing the long-range building plan recommended by the board of education and the committee and the plan's cost to property owners.

★ ★ ★

Over 100 presentations of the slides have been scheduled, according to committee chairman Joseph Nedrow, 415 Cherry Blossom, Avon Township.

The bond issue, which would provide classrooms for 3,100 additional students within the next five years, is expected to to amount to a 2.2-mill tax hike for property owners.

★ ★ ★

The committee has also arranged two other methods of distributing information about the upcoming election.

A brochure giving background on the bond issue has been printed, and arrangements have been made for committee members to be on hand at the school district offices Wednesday evening from 7-10 to answer phone calls from citizens seeking information.

Boy meets girl in a Bentley. The race begins when a young man makes points in blue, olive and brown giant glen plaid sport coat boasting button initials of designer, Bill Blass. British Accented in Cars, Clothes

By JEANNE NELSON

As the ad says, "You've come a long way, baby, to get where you got to today," and that's what it's all about at Henry Ford Museum in Greenfield Village.

The newest, fastest, most beautiful sports cars engineers and designers have built, stand in dramatic contrast to the past within the Museum's great halls.

It's all part of the 17th Annual Sports Cars In Review — this year coupled with fashions, beginning now and headed for the future. Cars and clothes alike, are young, glad-to-be-alive, free-spirited and swinging all the way.

Hughes-Hatcher-Suffrin borrows the London Look in fashions as perfect go-togethers with the sleek racers. The press corps saw it Thursday in preparation for the big show on Feb. 7 when Detroit's noted disc jockey, Dick Purtan, will narrate two shows, at 8:30 and 9:30 p.m.

The show chronicles 40 years of sports car development, emphasizing the significant influence of British styling and engineering, while the fashions parade a new influence of the British mod look today.

Among the cars, undoubtedly the Bentley holds a most special place in English motor history. This is the car that brought to Britain her greatest victories in international road racing. Following World War II, another fabled British car — the Jaguar — ran away with high honors.

Mary Quant — who can deny her bold new mini look that places an indwlible mark on fashion world — is the British equivalent of her countrymen racing car designers. The racy look in fashion doesn't stop with the gals. Bold new shirt colors, giant plaids and shaped jackets invade the men's world of style in this special show.

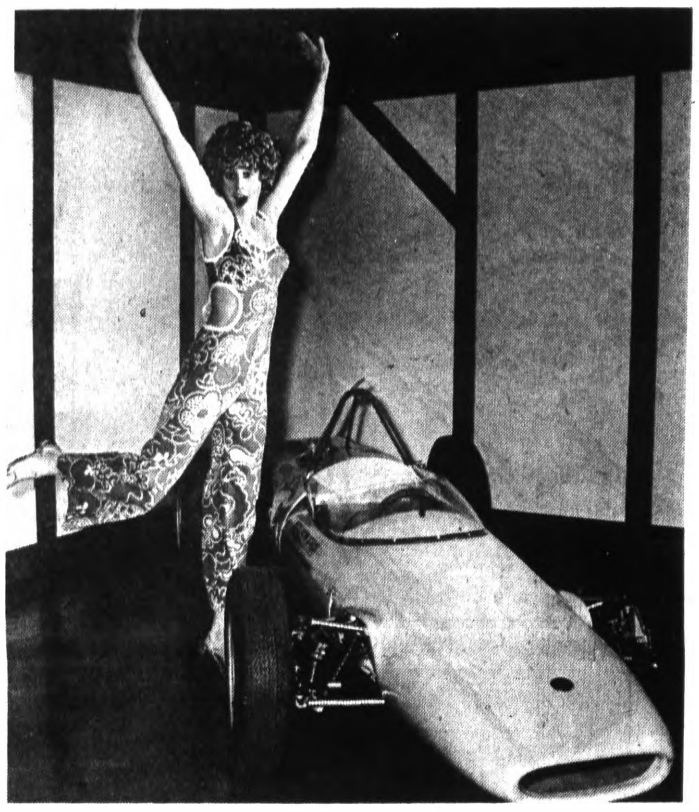

The Museum will remain open until 10 p.m. the night of the show, as it does every Friday, Saturday and Sunday during the 1969 Sports Cars In Review. The cars on view and the fashion show are included in the regular Museum admission charge.

There's room for two here and a vivid red culotte suit with new, longer jacket spells out the message to would-be passengers of this '69 MG. White and navy carry out the spring '69 color mandate.

See-through print sleeves mark a white rayon and silk skimmer, a classic in spring's fashion race. The other half of the stand-out pair is a 1969 red Corvette Stingray sport coupe.

"Bared for action" is a jump suit in royal blue and white coasting to an easy win. Side cut-outs provide news on the fashion front. Her playmate is the Ford Lotus.

Husband-Wife Medical Team May Do Second SS Hope Tour

SARANAC (AP) — A globetrotting husband and wife medical team, currently completing a one-year tour aboard the mercy ship SS Hope, is considering serving a second hitch.

The former Mary Lou Reinhardt, a one-time Saranac resident who is a registered nurse, and her husband, Dr. Barry Panter of New Brunswick, N.J., have been stationed aboard the Hope since last March.

★ ★ ★

Both work in the children's ward of the ship, which is presently at Colombo, Ceylon.

Mrs. Panter, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reinhardt of Saranac, has indicated in correspondence the couple is contemplating volunteering for a second year because they enjoy the work.

Mary Lou, among the top 10 finalists in the Miss Michigan Pageant in 1963, was graduated from Saranac High School in 1959 and from Hurley School of Nursing in Flint four years later. She worked briefly at a Belding Hospital before moving to Los Angeles.

MET IN LA

The Panters met in 1966 at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Los Angeles, where he was completing his final year as an intern and she was head nurse in the pediatrics department.

Following their marriage in 1967, and shortly after an around-the-world honeymoon, the couple joined the Hope medical staff.

In March the Hope leaves for Tunisia, and the Panters have indicated they just may be aboard the seagoing medical-missionary ship for another year.

Senior Citizen Has Obligation to His 'Date'

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: When going to a dance with a gentleman and he knows a lot of the women present, is he expected to dance with each one? This is a Senior Citizens group and the women outnumber the men about five to one.

I go with this man steady and expect to marry him. The women come up to us and ask him to dance with them, so he feels obligated and I sit out.—Mrs. G.W.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. W.: When a man has a date with a woman—Whether senior citizen or 17—he is not obligated to spend the evening dancing with other women. In fact, it is most inconsiderate to do so if it means leaving his date alone.

Show your friend this answer—to let him know you would appreciate having the pleasure of his company when he asks you out.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter would like to plan a "Sweetheart Wedding." I have never seen one. Would you inform me as soon as possible as to details of this type of wedding? — Mrs. C.R.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. R.: I have never even heard of a "Sweetheart Wedding," let alone attended one! So once again I am appealing to my readers. Will any of you who know about such weddings please write and tell me?

Thank you, one and all!

'His and Her' Jobs Start Trouble in Large Family

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 24, been married six years and have five children — going on six. (No, we aren't Catholic, and we didn't have any of these kids on purpose, but oh well, you know how it is.) My problem is my husband. George thinks all he has to do is bring home the paycheck. Everything else is MY job.

He never once got up during the night to change a baby or give him a bottle. Nor has he ever lifted a finger to help me in the house. When I was seven months pregnant with our first I had to learn how to drive a car because George had a few beers too many, smashed up the car and had his driver's license taken away. I had to drive myself to the hospital to have the baby.

★ ★ ★

I don't know how we ever made it. I nearly had the baby in the car. I'm in my eighth month right now. This morning while I was on my hands and knees scrubbing the kitchen floor, George was laying on his backside on the sofa watching TV, and he had the nerve to complain because he saw cobwebs on the ceiling. Maybe if I had time to lay on my backside on the sofa I would have noticed the cobwebs myself.

★ ★ ★

Abby, how can I get some cooperation out of this guy? I'm ready to fall apart.

TIRED

DEAR TIRED: I don't know any magic formula to get instant cooperation out of a husband, but for openers you can close the "baby factory." If you've never heard of PLANNED PARENTHOOD, get acquainted.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: When a lady comes to your table at a restaurant, is offered a chair, but refuses saying she is going to stay only a minute, but she stands there talking, how long should a gentleman remain standing?

DON

DEAR DON: Two minutes. And if she's still standing and talking, sit down. She's no lady.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Here's a new one for you. My wife and I are the same size — 5 ft. 10 in. tall, and we weigh 130 pounds. We wear the same size shirts, shoes etc., which is my problem because my wife "pirates" all my clothing. Telling her doesn't do any good. Also, it wouldn't help if I were to buy her more clothes as she already has a beautiful ample wardrobe. Any serious suggestion would be greatly appreciated.

NEARLY NAKED

DEAR NEARLY: If you're not putting me on, the only way to keep your wife from putting your clothes on is to keep them under lock and key.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Schedule One-Night Hilarious Revue for and by Members of Open Hunt

By SHIRLEY GRAY

Come next Saturday, a bunch of the boys (and gals) will be whooping it up at Bloomfield Open Hunt. A just-for-fun revue entitled "Bored of Grievances," featuring a talented cast of 30 BOHers, will have a one-night run.

★ ★ ★

The musical skit was put together by Isabel (Mrs. Charles) Himelhoch of Lakeside Avenue in Birmingham and Helen and Lee Hackley of Bloomfield Hills.

★ ★ ★

The libretto, all in rhyme, is Lee's work.

Theme of the spoof, loosely, is an irreverent look at various club doings — riding, tennis, skeet shooting, what-have-you.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Irene Murphy of Birmingham visited the Presidential Palace in Manila, at the invitation of Philippine president Ferdinand Marcos and his wife, during her recent visit to the island nation.

★ ★ ★

BEAUTY

The first lady, Imelda Marcos, is a "breathtaking" beauty, reports Mrs. Murphy, and the darling of the press, which has dubbed her "The Fabulous One."

An unexpected treat was a reunion with Wong, the Chinese steward of the household staff during the Murphy years.

★ ★ ★

On Christmas Eve Mrs. Murphy visited G. Mennen Williams and his wife Nancy. The former state governor is now the American Ambassador to the Philippines.

"Soapy is very popular, and looks very happy," she said.

Human-Dog Cancer Link Explored

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five persons who came down with cancers of the digestive tract lived with dogs, which had developed cancers on the part of the dog people most love to touch, namely the head.

This was the only "association" between human and canine cancers turned up in a scientific search for cancer relationships between the human being and his best friend.

* * *

The one association could be "spurious," said Dr. Robert Schneider and his associates of the California State Department of Health in reporting it. But they urged more extensive studies of people and dogs living in the same households.

* * *

"Particularly benign as well as malignant skin neoplasms in man and dog should be studied, since it is possible that an effect in one species would cause a malignancy which in another species would cause a benign neoplasm," they said in the journal of the National Cancer Institute.

ANIMAL SURVEY

The statistical base of their study was "an animal cancer survey which compiled dog cancers in 427 households in California's Alameda County. These households were "matched" with 520 households in which the dog members had been cancer-free.

In those families whose dog members developed cancers, 54 human members also developed them. In those whose dogs were in continuous health, there had been 39 human cancers. Overall this meant nothing statistically, for solid reasons.

* * *

The crude cancer rate for dogs is estimated to be 360 per 100,000 dogs and that for peoples is 271.1 per 100,000 persons. With such low rates, statistical comparisons could reveal only an association of high magnitude.

Such was the "association" of a cancer on the heads of five dogs and a variety of cancers in the human digestive tract in which the scientists, for technical reasons, had less than complete faith.

CANCERS SIMILAR

The question they sought to answer was as much whether cancer could be transmitted from people to dogs as from dogs to people or if both could acquire cancer from the same undefined environmental sources.

Their cancers are similar, and "It is logical to question whether a relationship exists between the natural occurrence of this disease in these species" the scientists said.

* * *

They recalled that one type of dog mouth cancer is caused by a virus. Cancer science has yet to prove that any human cancer has a viral cause. Furthermore, the scientists said, a canine skin cancer has been transmitted to other dogs with cell free filtrates of the cancer, indicating that a virus is involved, although it has not been isolated.

In addition to not recording benign growths, the California Tumor Registry for people does not record skin cancer, and thus the scientists labeled it "unfortunate since the skin is one of the most exposed to for association with cancer."

New Army Dentifrice 'Bests Any on Market'

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (UPI) — An inexpensive raspberry-flavored dentifrice is the Army's latest weapon in the war against tooth decay.

The toothpaste is a 9 per cent stannous fluoride mixture — about five times as potent as fluoride varieties available to the public. It comes in a small tube 1½ inches long, and one application — given under medical supervision — lasts six months. Cost per tube to the military is 15 cents. It is not available for general sale.

* * *

Col. Walter J. Powers, post dental surgeon here, said the dentifrice is from 40 to 60 per cent more effective in fighting cavities than anything now available commercially.

Lt. Col. David E. Layman, post preventive dentistry officer, added that, "in addition to its immunizing properties, the paste has a rather profound effect in inhibiting some small existing cavities—it literally arrests them."

USED IN VIET

While the dentifrice has been used by troops in Vietnam for some time, its use at domestic military bases is relatively new.

However, the military thinks so much of the paste that a crash program has been instituted to provide it for all incoming basic trainees. At Ft. Lewis, that means up to 1,000 men per week.

* * *

Layman explained that as soon as recruits are organized into companies of about 200 men, the entire unit spends an afternoon at the post dental clinic. The paste is applied with a regular toothbrush.

Cherry Month Set

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed the month of February as Cherry Month in Michigan, citing the fact that the state ranks first in the nation in the production of red tart cherries and "annually harvests more of this delicious fruit than any other area of the world."

Secret Sessions Set in Probe of Colleges

LANSING (UPI) — The legislative committee assigned to investigate student conduct at state-supported colleges announced yesterday it will begin closed-door sessions in the Capitol next week.

Sen. Robert J. Huber, R-Troy, chairman of the eight-member unit, said testimony will be taken in private at the outset to give those who wish to remain anonymous a chance to come forward.

★ ★ ★

He said he has received indications from several faculty and student representatives that they would talk freely if their names were not disclosed.

"They are fearful of retaliation," Huber told a news conference.

PUBLIC HEARINGS LATER

The committee will open public hearings after the private sessions are completed. Witnesses will be subpoenaed from time to time, Huber said.

Huber said the investigation, sparked in part by a nude-scene play at the University of Michigan last weekend, will members familiarize themselves with the problems involved.

He said the committee won't be scared off college campuses by student protest demonstrations, though no final decision has been reached on whether to hold hearings at the various schools.

There are 13 state-supported colleges and universities in Michigan. The largest are the U-M at Ann Arbor, Michigan State at East Lansing and Wayne State in Detroit.

FOCAL POINT

"If we can be a focal point for public opinion, we can be a focal point for student opinion," Huber said. "We'll go where the action is."

Huber also announced the committee will hire a sociologist or "someone experienced about campus problems" and a constitutional lawyer to aid the probe.

★ ★ ★

The committee has been appropriated $25,000 to determine the extent of disruptive student influences in Michigan and what can be done about them. Recommendations could include cutting an institution's state appropriations.

★ ★ ★

Huber said he expects the legality of the committee's investigation to be challenged by those opposed to the study. But he said this would not deter the members' efforts.

Inflammations caused by poison ivy plants are responsible for an estimated 2.7 million days of restricted activity, 500,000 days spent in bed and the loss of 330,00 work days.

Area Minister Is Dead at 62

The Rev. Elbert W. Nuelken, minister of Ascension Lutheran Church, Beverly Hills, died Wednesday. He was 62.

Service will be 1 p.m. tomorrow at the church, with burial in Glen Eden Cemetery, Livonia, by the Vasu-Lynch Funeral Home, Royal Oak. Rev. Nuelken will lie in state at the church prior to the funeral, beginning at 10 a.m.

★ ★ ★

Surviving are his wife, Margaret; two sons, Paul E. of Battle Creek and Bruce H. at home; a brother; and two grandchildren.

Rev. Nuelken, of 816 N. Bates, Birmingham, was a 1936 graduate of Concordia Seminary, Springfield, Ill., and was ordained in 1937 in Detroit. He organized Redemption Lutheran Church in Detroit and was pastor there from 1937-54. Subsequently he served at Redemption Lutheran Church, Battle Creek from 1954-58, and at Ascension Lutheran from 1958 until his death.

Ex-Supervisor's Wife Dies at 72

Mrs. David (Martha) Levinson, wife of a former Oakland County supervisor from Birmingham, died yesterday in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. She was 72.

Surviving besides her husband are a son, Bernard Nye Levinson of Birmingham, and three grandsons.

Memorial tributes may be made to Camp Oakland, Oxford.

★ ★ ★

Levinson of 2150 Northlawn served on the board of supervisors for 35 years. He was chairman of the board in 1941-42 and chairman of the board's ways and means committee for his last eight terms as supervisor before retiring from office last year.

Drug Raid Result of Casual Meeting

DETROIT (AP) — A casual contact between a Detroit youth and a police undercover agent resulted in a raid on a "hippie" apartment Thursday believed to be a depot for drug traffic to the city's affluent suburbs.

Police arrested 14 young people, including Mark Johnson, 18, who police said they suspect is supplying Birmingham-Bloomfield area high school students with marijuana, LSD and other drugs.

★ ★ ★

Inspector Joseph Brown, commander of the narcotics bureau, said Johnson's apartment had been under surveillance since Dec. 1. An undercover agent entered it Wednesday night and bought 11 pounds of marijuana for $1,050, Brown said.

He said the agent then introduced Sgt. Howard Austin to Johnson as "the man with the money," and that Johnson then handed him a business card and said: "Maybe we can do something in the future."

'YOU'RE UNDER ARREST'

"Here's mine," Austin said, pulling out his police identification card. "You're under arrest."

Police said they confiscated 15½ pounds of marijuana, 500 doses of LSD and other unidentified drugs during the raid with a value of $68,000.

★ ★ ★

They described the apartment as a "typical hippie narcotics" place and one officer said those arrested "all look like a bunch of Tiny Tims," referring to the long-haired male entertainer.

Three young people were charged with possession of narcotics and stood mute before Recorders Court Judge Robert J. Colombo. They were Ronald Czarneck, 21, of Detroit; Carol Ann Hamilton, 5871 Kenmoor, Bloomfield Township, 18; and Mark A. Taylor, 19, of Mount Clemens. They stood mute and pleas of "not guilty" were entered for them and a hearing set for Feb. 7. A $5,000 bond was set for each.

THREE GIRLS

Ten others, including three girls, stood mute before Traffic Court Referee Lawrence Silverman on charges of loitering. They were in their late teens and early 20s.

Innocent please were entered for them and a hearing set for March 24. They were set free on personal bond.

★ ★ ★

Johnson was expected to be arraigned today after laboratory tests on the confiscated drugs are complete.

Overindulgence in Wine Making Hits Argentina

MENDOZA, Argentina (AP) — The National Wine Institute has announced that Argentines are second only to Frenchmen in their love of wine.

* * *

Although Argentina has only 22 million people, its wine consumption last year reached a record 2.16 billion quarts. That's 94 quarts per person. The average Frenchman consumes 126 quarts a year. Only France and Italy outrank Argentina in total annual wine consumption.

Wine is part of Argentine folklore—as typical as the gaucho, the Pampa and beefsteak. More than 1,000 brands are produced in the country, most from the grapes grown in the northwestern provinces of Mendoza and San Juan.

* * *

Nevertheless, the prosperious wine producers have been caught in an economic crisis since 1966. Despite the record consumption, the industry has managed to overproduce and is suffering from falling prices.

DROUGHT, HAIL

Drought and unseasonable hailstorms are damaging the vineyards and reducing the 1969 harvest, promising economic relief, but the long-range problem remains. It stems largely from the fact that Argentine wine is virtually unknown outside the country, although such experts as Italy's Pierre Giovanni Garoglio have written that some Argentine wines rank with the best in the world.

Overproduction finally forced Argentina in 1967 to make the first major effort at promoting and selling wines abroad. Nine producers of some of the best wines formed an export company, Vinos Argentinos S.A.

* * *

American Suppliers Inc. of New Orleans has U.S. distribution rights for 109 Argentine wines. An initial shipment of 17,000 cases is being sent to New Orleans — the largest single wine shipment abroad in the country's history.

Juan Peron, the former Argentine dictator, laid the foundation for today's overproduction. Until Peron came to power in 1946, wine was a drink for the wealthy, and only a limited quantity of fine wines were produced from the vineyards which flourished in the dry, hot climate of Mendoza and San Juan provinces, a desert area at the foothills of the Andes.

FED BY SNOW

An irrigation system three centuries old, fed by melting snow from the Andes, retrieves arid wasteland for vineyards and runs in canals under the sidewalks in the cities of Mendoza and San Juan, watering stately spruce trees which give these wealthy communities an oasislike quality of grace and shade.

Peron's labor-oriented policies raised wages sharply for the mass of Argentine workers and created the impetus to extend the irrigation system so that thousands of acres of desert could be converted to vineyards for the production of red table wine selling at 15 cents a bottle.

This table wine—often bottled in gallon jugs and sold in many restaurants in pitchers—is produced from a low-quality "criollo" grape which is easy to cultivate.

Since 1955, the year in which Peron fell, some 125,000 acres have been converted from wasteland to vineyard in Mendoza province. Merchants, lawyers, doctors, teachers and storekeepers found that with a minimum of capital, they could own 10 acres of vineyard and earn $3,000 a year.

MIGRANT LABOR

Official statistics show that 64 per cent of total vineyard acreage is held by 45,000 producers, each with 12 acres or less. Their operations are considered anti-economic because of size and because the owners do not work their land themselves. Field work in San Juan and Mendoza provinces is done by Chilean migrant labor.

When overproduction became a serious problem in 1966 and the prices of both grapes and wine fell below production costs, middle-class producers were hurt, although most had other sources of income on which to fall back.

As a result, some headway was made this year in bringing production in line with market possibilities. But the hail-storms last November and the drought brought on by lack of rainfall in the Andes last year are proving the best check on the 1969 harvest, which got under way this month.

OU Tutors Helping Children in Pontiac Make the Grade

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Cries of "Are you gonna be our teacher?" and "Will you be my tutor?" greeted Oakland University students in the POEAT tutorial program at several Pontiac elementary schools last week.

With the new semester starting at OU this month, POEAT had undergone some reorganization with the loss of some volunteers and the retention of others to work with underprivileged Pontiac pupils on the program's one-to-one basis.

★ ★ ★

POEAT (Pontiac Oakland Educational Assistance Team) is a group of about 170 Oakland University students who devote at least five hours of their time each week to the tutorial and enrichment program.

Once a week POEAT tutors travel to Pontiac to the elementary schools to meet their charges, and once a week the children eagerly board Pontiac Schools buses for a trip to Oakland University where their tutors await them.

2½-HOUR SESSIONS

POEAT volunteers are on their own in organizing the 2½-hour sessions. A tutor may study with his pupil, discuss problems with him or play with him.

"We try to do what we feel will be of the most benefit to the children," said Joe Davidson, a Detroit sophomore at OU who has been involved in the program for two years.

★ ★ ★

The schools involved in the program, including Wilson, Bagley, McConnell, Franklin and Whittier, all have community school programs, a concept to involve the community in the use of school facilities.

The schools have made the libraries, classrooms, gymnasiums and school yards available for the POEAT program.

GROUP ACTIVITY AT OU

When the pupils are at OU, group activities are usually available, such as movies, science demonstrations and entertainment programs. A program on black culture was recently presented by the OU Association of Black Students.

Most of the youngsters in POEAT are black, but only about a fifth of the tutors are black, according to Joe Hertzberg, program coordinator.

★ ★ ★

"This places upon each POEAT member a special responsibility. Pride, self-awareness and black-consciousness must be encouraged," Hertzberg said.

All POEAT volunteers go through several orientation and training sessions, before they are assigned to an elementary pupil chosen by community school directors, principals and teachers.

DIFFERENCES LEARNED

They must learn the nature of the racial and cultural differences they will face with the children, Hertzberg said.

One of the basic points of the program is that the volunteer must first learn to respect his pupil before his pupil will respect him. On the basis of mutual respect, the two can work together, Hertzberg said.

★ ★ ★

POEAT was organized four years ago, with a few faculty members and Oakland University students. With the help of the community school directors and the determination of the volunteers, the program has grown.

POEAT members receive no pay and no credit.

FACILITIES PROVIDED

Oakland University provides office space for POEAT and other facilities such as classrooms. Three faculty members, Henry Rosemont, David Bricker and the Rev. William Brewster, serve as advisers to the organization.

The program has no official financial backing, although a few contributions of money, as well as a number of books donated by the Ludington News Co. in Detroit have helped the organization to carry on its programs.

★ ★ ★

Financial contributions are not turned down, however, one faculty adviser mentioned.

POEAT is recognized as doing the youngsters good, although volunteers, teachers and parents sometimes have difficulties pinpointing the improvements. The volunteers are encouraged, though, as the children, often eagerly, show up for every single session.

★ ★ ★

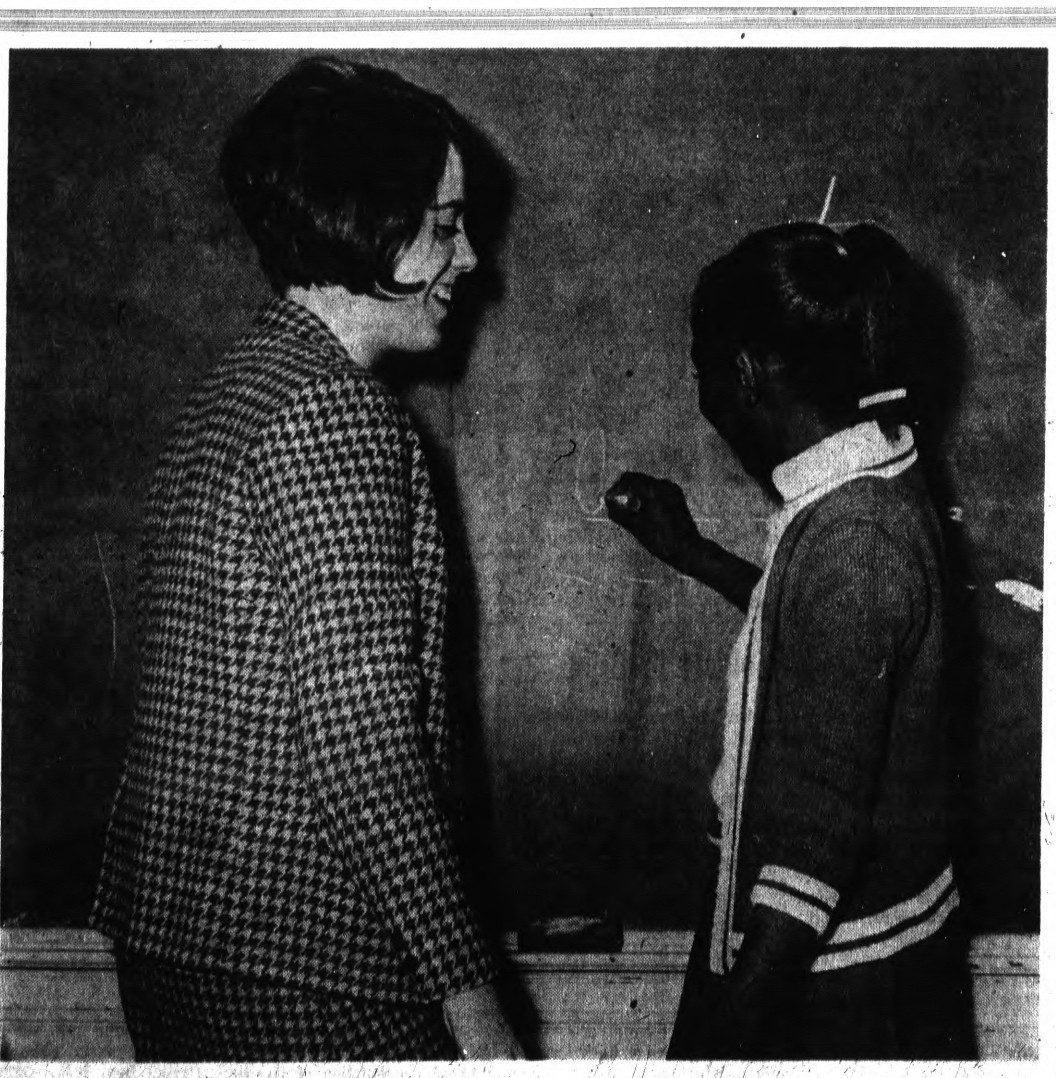

"It's difficult to really evaluate the program by traditional standards, although we can see some day-to-day changes in the youngsters," said Wilson School Principal George Martuneac.

"This is a good program and some of the teachers have said they can see positive changes in a child's social relationships or academic attitudes. We are seeking an evaluation instrument to prove the worth of the program," Martuneac said.

676 Prospects Eliminated So Far

Shaw Trial Still Short of Jurors

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Juror prospects came and went at a rapid rate in the Clay Shaw trial on a charge of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

"It already is a record for the city of New Orleans," said Criminal Dist. Court Judge Edward A. Haggerty. "No case in this city has ever interviewed so many prospective jurors."

★ ★ ★

Of 687 checked off in nine days of examinations, 11 willing survivors were in the jury box today, waiting for one more juror and two alternates to be found.

Having exhausted the venires of all eight sections of the court, Haggerty sent process servers hustling about the city Thursday night in an effort to summon 150 more prospects.

NO EXCUSE REJECTED

No excuse for prospective jurors to avoid duty was rejected, every opportunity offered.

The judge, after each prospect was sworn, opened the questioning. Would the prospect suffer pangs of "undue concern" about being away from work or family for several weeks? If he said yes, Haggerty glanced inquiringly at Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Alcock and defense lawyer F. Irvin Dymond.

★ ★ ★

"Gentlemen?" the judge would ask. Both would mutter, almost in unison, "Consent." "You are excused," the judge would say.

Groucho Engages Show-Off to Pen Marx Brothers Show

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Groucho Marx approved of a guy who looks like a hippie writing the story of the Marx Brothers for the Broadway stage.

The young man with the long hair is David Steinberg, the 26-year-old comedian and student of Hebrew literature who has frequently said on TV that God has a sense of humor and that the Bible in some places is a very funny book.

WILSON

Groucho arched his eyebrows recently and asked him:

"Steinberg, have you got a broad?"

Steinberg admitted having a date that night.

"You gonna see her dressed like that?"

Steinberg nodded. Groucho shook his head. "She must be deeply in love with you!" he said.

The play, "Minnie's Boys," will tell about the Marx Brothers in their early 20s before their movies.

★ ★ ★

"Groucho said he thought I was an irreverent rascal but that my charm pulled it off," Steinberg says. "Which, he said, always worked for him, too."

Everything's coming up for success for Steinberg, a Canadian who came to NY via Chicago. He'll be doing three more Smothers Brothers shows soon as a comic. He has just finished a movie with Sidney Poitier ("The Lost Man"), and put together a special, "This Is Sholom Aleichem," which NBC'll show Feb. 7.

★ ★ ★

Having lunch with Steinberg in the Brown Derby in Hollywood recently, Groucho looked up to see a priest who said, "Mr. Marx, I want to thank you for bringing so much joy into the World."

"And, Father," replied Groucho, "I want to thank you for taking so much joy out of the world."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Our favorite astrologist says Jackie Onassis will soon be making news but then isn't she always? . . . Jay Garner, who plays Lester Maddox in "Red, Hot and Maddox," got an autographed picture from Maddox—a gag of course, from some chums. Garner's real name is James but he can't use it because of the movie star's priority with that name.

Michel, the veteran, suave maitre d', is back greeting patrons at Hy Uchitel's Voisin . . . Carol Channing, whose TV show with Pearl Bailey will be shown March 16, met the Apollo 8 astronauts and said, "I watched your TV show—I hope you'll watch mine."

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Don Bergman tells of the teenager who ran away two weeks. But nobody missed her—they thought she was still in the bathroom.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Modern apartments are being built with every known modern convenience, except low rent." —Evan Esar.

EARL'S PEARLS: Jack E. Leonard told a Copa audience, "LBJ is making a great ex-president."

Comic Pat Henry, appearing at the Rainbow Grill, says of the 65-story high cafe, "We're so far up that somebody tried to hijack the place and take it to Cuba." . . . That's earl, brother.

A Look at TV

Borge Bits Still a Delight

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Victor Borge, the piano-playing Dane, has a couple of comedy routines which, with occasional updating of material, he has been using for at least 20 years.

He trotted both of them out on Thursday night's "Dean Martin Show," and even for those of us who were very familiar with the bits, they were still very amusing.

One was his plan to inflate the language to keep up with the rising cost of everything. In this Borge reads a story that starts "Twice upon a time . . ." and then goes on to escalate words like "before" to "befive," and "wonderful" to "twoderful." Borge added something really new to this — "sock it three me!"

This was followed by his "phonetic pronunciation" routine in which he illustrates punctuation marks by rather crude noises — and it must be said the whole thing benefited considerably in the course of a duet by Borge and Martin.

The NBC variety program continues with its easy, merry pace, with the star working comfortably with his guest stars — Lena Horne, Sid Caesar and Borge in the most recent one. The show's writers, however, are beginning to lean a bit heavily on the Martin-booze gags. Dean Martin, who is a very attractive performer, can get along very nicely without, for example, expressing his vast affection for his doctor "because he lets me lick the alcohol off his thermometers."

Borge, if memory serves, had his own television series — and was using those routines then — in the early 1950s. That was also about the time when Liberace, with a syndicated musical show complete with candelabra and sequin jackets, was enchanting the over-35 female viewers.

Well, the TV wheel has come full circle, for Liberace, presumably still with candlelit piano and sequins, will be back — at least for the summer. He will star in a variety show, taped in London, which will replace "The Red Skelton Show" on CBS in July and August.
