

In Civil Rights Killing

Alabama Deputy Acquitted

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A jury of 12 white men acquitted Special Deputy Sheriff Thomas L. Coleman today of a manslaughter charge in the killing of a white civil rights worker, Jonathan M. Daniels.

The verdict came after the jury had deliberated one hour last night and one hour this morning.

In the intervening time the jurors spent the night locked up in Montgomery.

As the jury came out of the room and returned to the box, foreman C. E. Gates, Jr., handed the written verdict to the circuit clerk, Mrs. Kelly Coleman. She read it aloud in the courtroom.

Several of the jurors shook hands with the defendant after Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard discharged them.

NO DISPLAY

The spectators who occupied most of the seats in the courtroom took the verdict without any display of feeling.

The shooting took place Aug. 26 after Daniels and the Rev. Richard H. Hays of Chicago had been released from jail following civil rights activities.

Morrisroe, wounded in the same shooting, is recovering in a Chicago hospital.

Coleman, 35, prominent Hayneville resident, told newsmen afterward that he had nothing to say, except "I am happy."

KISSES WIFE

He kissed his wife after the verdict was read. A daughter-in-law sat nearby, tears streaming down her cheeks.

Members of the jury declined to comment. One of them, who would not be identified by name, told reporters, "You're wasting your time."

ACQUITTED IN ALABAMA — Thomas L. Coleman, special deputy sheriff of Lowndes County, walks tight-lipped from the courtroom at Hayneville, Ala., today after being acquitted of manslaughter charges in the death of civil rights worker Jonathan Daniels. The seminary student from New Hampshire was killed with a shotgun Aug. 26 in front of a country grocery store.

It was a fair and just verdict. Tom Coleman has been exonerated."

The acquittal means that Coleman cannot be tried on another charge in state court for the killing of Daniels, 27, an Episcopal seminary student and volunteer worker from Keene, N.H.

DISMISSED FROM CASE

Richmond Flowers, Alabama attorney general who has tried unsuccessfully to postpone the trial and ultimately was dismissed from the case by the judge, had said Coleman should have been tried for murder instead of manslaughter.

He said if the trial were postponed, he would seek a murder indictment from a later grand jury.

The shooting occurred in front of a country grocery store at Hayneville.

DEFENSE CONTENTION

Defense attorneys contended that the churchmen were armed with a knife and pistol and that Coleman, a prominent Hayneville resident, fired two shots from a 12-gauge automatic shotgun in self defense.

Boy From Troy Is Committed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ricky Thorne, a mute, mentally retarded Troy, Michigan boy who was abandoned 1,350 miles from home, may never live with his parents again.

"I know I'll miss him," said his mother, Mrs. Victor Thorne, 44, of 2435 Dalesford, Troy, who admitted leaving Ricky at the Miami Airport last week with the labels snipped from his clothes and only three cents and a sandwich in his pockets.

Juvenile Court Judge Ben Sheppard committed Ricky to a special school for treatment yesterday and ordered that his parents stay away for a year unless psychiatrists advise otherwise.

Sheppard allowed the parents to see Ricky for one last time before they go back to Michigan.

"Both parents had tears in their eyes when they saw Ricky," said a juvenile court officer. "Ricky was real glad to see them, too."

CHEERED UP

"Ricky brightened up when I told him he was going to school," said Barron Shields, the officer. "When I asked him if he wanted to see his father, he nodded his head."

"When I asked him if he wanted to see his mother, he nodded again and said, 'uh-huh.' It was the first time I had heard him say a word."

Judge Sheppard said: "There's not much hope Ricky will be returned to his parents. He'll probably remain in this school for two or three years before other arrangements are made for him."

Mrs. Thorne beamed when the judge announced Ricky would be put in a Miami school.

MOTHER RELIEVED

"This sure is a load off my mind," she said after the hearing.

The red-haired housewife said she had cared for Ricky since an illness damaged his brain when he was 18 months old.

"He was becoming a man and getting new problems," she said. "He was a little more resentful, a little harder to manage. He was getting bigger, too. I didn't want to get in any arguments with him."

Judge Sheppard dismissed neglect charges against Mrs. Thorne, but ordered her to undergo psychiatric treatment. She said she left Ricky in Miami because she had despaired of getting help in Michigan.

The Thornes face charges of neglect filed Tuesday in Michigan, but authorities there indicated they were filed against the possibility that Ricky's case would be referred back to that state and might now be withdrawn.

Ford Cuts Prices on '66 Models

DETROIT (AP)—Each of the auto industry's Big Three now has fixed recommended price tags on its 1966 model cars.

Ford Motor Co. completed the pricing picture yesterday, announcing its new models will cost less than its similar 1965 cars — though buyers savings will be cut by the cost of new standard safety equipment, previously optional.

The other Big Three carmakers, General Motors and Chrysler, announced their prices earlier.

American Motors, a smaller producer, is expected to announce new prices next week.

The Big Three's pricing decisions came with the giant auto industry already driving toward possible record production and sales in its new model year.

RECORDS SMASHED

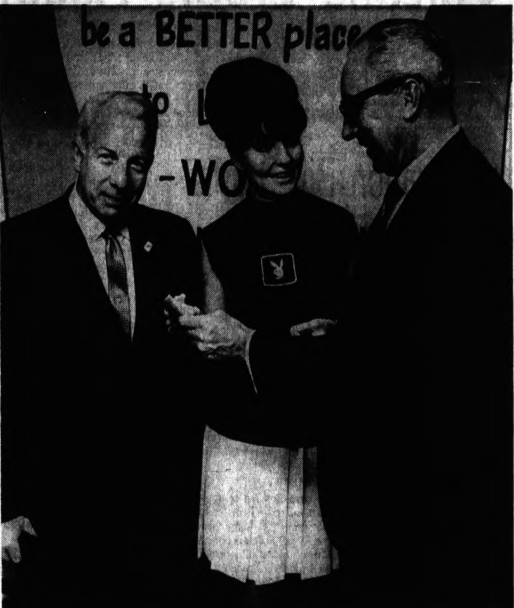

The 1965 model year smashed almost all records. With the national economy strong, industry leaders have forecast an unprecedented nine million sales for the new year.

Final figures will show a 1965 model total sales of something more than eight million.

Ford said in its price announcement that it reduced 1966 model prices an average of $4 below those of comparable 1965 models in 46 of the 65 models produced in both model years. Ford is adding 18 new models to its 1966 lines.

'Viet Freezing U.S.-Red Ties' Launch Campaign

Soviet Foreign Policy Viewed by Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP)—The war in Viet Nam is freezing Soviet-American relations and the Soviet Union will continue to supply military aid to North Viet Nam, Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev says.

Reviewing Soviet foreign policy before the party central committee yesterday, the bushy-browed first secretary also held out an olive branch to Red China.

Brezhnev said the war in Viet Nam "greatly complicated" Soviet relations with the United States and those relations "show a clearly evident tendency toward freezing."

"Normalization of our relations is incompatible with the armed aggression of American imperialism against a fraternal Socialist country — Viet Nam," he said.

"The nature of the further development of our relations with the United States will depend on whether or not the leaders of this country will show enough common sense to abandon the policy of aggressive attacks."

The first divisional campaign of the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund drive was launched today at a kickoff breakfast at Community National Bank's Club Overdraft.

Bruce J. Annett, chairman of the advance gifts division, announced a goal of $104,090 for his division and asked that the goal be met by the Oct. 14 kickoff for the balance of the Pontiac Area United Fund divisions.

Highlighting the breakfast meeting was the presentation of the first advance gift to the annual UF drive: a donation from Community National Bank.

Robert Eldred, executive vice president of Community National Bank, presented Annett with a check for $13,177 on behalf of the bank and its employees.

Commenting on the nearly 100 per cent attendance at the early morning meeting, Annett said that the turnout of 125 advance gift solicitors was an example of the kind of civic spirit that would insure the success of the drive.

UF solicitors were advised to begin immediately to contact the 430 individuals and area firms that are prospects for advance gifts.

TO HIKE CONTRIBUTION

The advance gift prospects will be asked to increase their UF contribution by nine per cent over last year.

Bunnies from the Detroit Playboy Club made a drive contribution in the spirit of the UF campaign by acting as official hostesses for the breakfast.

They greeted the volunteer workers and distributed campaign supplies.

The over-all United Fund drive gets under way Oct. 14th. A goal of $875,000 — seven per cent over last year — has been set for the 1965 UF drive in the Pontiac area.

TEAM CAPTAINS

Team captains for the advance gifts solicitors include Monroe M. Osmun, Henry Gotman, D. B. Eames, Howard H. Fitzgerald II and Edward Barker.

Last year the advance gifts division raised $99,462. This is to be increased by $4,628 in 1965.

Neighbor Fails to Scare Estes

GAYLORD (AP) — Chevrolet's number one man is not too worried about the guy across the street.

E. M. (Pete) Estes, a General Motors vice president and general manager of its Chevrolet Division, aired that view at Chevrolet's national press preview yesterday.

"The 'guy across the street' in this case is Donald N. Frey, a vice president of Ford Motor Co. and general manager of Ford Motor Co. and general manager of Ford Division.

By coincidence, the two men, who control between them nearly 50 per cent of the nation's auto output, live directly across the street from each other on Waddington Road in Bloomfield Hills.

Frey touched off the neighborhood exchange last week when he told Ford's national news conference that his division had cut heavily into Chevrolet's sales lead and might take over the No. 1 spot in 1966 if all went well.

STEADY LEADER

Chevrolet has led the sales race every year since 1950 with the exceptions of 1955, 1957, and 1959. Last year, for example, (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

5 Executions Said Planned by S. Viets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The South Vietnamese government is reported planning five more executions tomorrow despite Viet Cong threats of reprisals against American prisoners.

Informants said no Communist reaction was expected because those to be executed were convicted of criminal activities in no way related to the Viet Cong.

A police source said three were convicted of murder, rape and robbery, one of murder and rape, and another of murder.

When Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky became premier of South Viet Nam last June, he warned that his government would execute hoarders, speculators and war profiteers.

Refugee Aid Questioned U.S. Doubts Fidel Serious

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said today that if Fidel Castro is serious about assisting Cuban refugees in getting to the United States, he should make his proposal through diplomatic channels and it will be given "most careful consideration" here.

Castro announced two nights ago that he would open the doors to those who wanted to leave for what he called "the Yankee paradise."

U.S. officials said today they could not tell whether Castro was serious or trying to make anti-U.S. propaganda. They said there were propaganda overtones in his speech.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey told a State Department news conference today: "The terms of the proposal and the form and the tone in which it was presented raise doubts about its seriousness."

Nevertheless, McCloskey said, the United States has received more than a quarter million Cubans in recent years and it is also concerned about the risks they take in escaping from the island in small boats in the face of preventive measures by the Cuban government.

McCloskey said also that the U.S. government is "concerned about the problem of reuniting Cuban families."

House Kills LBJ-Backed D. C. Home Rule Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Home rule for the District of Columbia, in the form President Johnson pushed with all the powers of his office, is dead for this year.

A rebellious House, after passing all the major bills the President asked for this year, gave his home-rule plan the ax Wednesday.

Instead, it approved a substitute plan calling for a referendum by District residents and the setting up of a charter commission to study the type of self-government the city should have.

BACK SUBSTITUTE

Home-rule supporters, faced with the choice of the substitute plan or nothing, backed the substitute offered by Rep. B. F. Sisk, D-Calif. The final vote was 283 to 137.

The Senate already has passed the administration home-rule bill calling for direct election of a mayor and City Council next year.

Said Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., chairman of the Senate District Committee: "The Sisk bill and the Senate bill seem so far apart I don't see how they can be reconciled."

Bible said, however, that if the White House indicates it wants the Sisk bill, "the Senate might take another look at it." House Democratic Leader

Carl Albert of Oklahoma was pessimistic.

SAYS BILL DEAD

"We won't get a bill this year, and we will be lucky to get one next year," he told reporters after the House vote. "It's a dead duck for this session."

Rep. Charles M. Mathias, R-Md., one of the shapers of the bipartisan compromise bill the House rejected, called for a Senate-House conference.

He added: "At any rate, this is the first time in 70 years there has been an affirmative vote on the principle of home rule. This is the only positive thing that has come out of this week."

Parliamentary confusion enveloped the House on the final votes.

The key vote was on the Sisk amendment. When it carried 227 to 174, the picture was changed completely. Home-rule backers then were foreclosed from voting on the bill the administration was backing.

Fast-Train Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson today signed a rapid-transit bill aimed at developing high-speed trains to lure millions of traveling Americans away from airplanes and automobiles.

The bill, which provides $60 million for research during the next three years, is intended to speed up conventional trains to 150 miles an hour, and perhaps develop intercity subway systems capable of speeds up to 400 miles an hour.

The purpose of the measure is to offer attractively fast transportation that would alleviate the nation's jammed highways and airports.

The compromise measure was sent to the White House for the President's signature Sept. 20 after receiving final congressional passage.

The research program will be carried out mainly in the crowded northeastern corridor of the nation.

FIRST STEP

The Commerce Department plans to put the first step into operation by fall of 1966 by scheduling "fast trains" between Washington and New York and Boston and Providence.

Initially, the objective is to speed up conventional trains to 150 miles an hour, thus reducing the traveling time between Washington and New York from four hours to less than three hours.

However, Commerce Department officials have in mind a superfast train traveling on a cushion of air at up to 300 miles an hour, and an underground tubular train, similar to a subway, that would speed over steel rails between Virginia and Massachusetts at 400 miles an hour.

In the first phase, electric-powered or gas turbine cars able to travel 150 miles per hour will be used to determine if travelers are interested in using trains instead of automobiles and airplanes.

Officials foresee the time when high-speed rail transportation would be more efficient in populated corridors such as those between Chicago and Milwaukee or Los Angeles and San Francisco.

WASHINGTON — Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Royal Oak, is one of 12 Republicans who issued a detailed White Paper on U. S.-Canadian relations.

Among proposals: unlimited immigration from Canada to the U. S.; potential removal of duty-free limit of goods purchased in Canada by U. S. citizens; renegotiation of 1909 treaty setting up International Joint Commission to make recommendations for a continental water-sharing program.

Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain, R-East Lansing, would "prohibit aid to any nation permitting ships under its flag to carry cargoes to North Viet Nam" and calls the Senate version that it be "the sense of Congress" that aid be denied to countries which fail to prevent its ships from trading with North Viet Nam "not even a slap on the wrist."

Rep. James Harvey, R-Saginaw, not only lauded the bill permitting all servicemen to buy $10,000 life insurance at an estimated cost of $2 a month, but would provide free postage for first class mail for the forces.

Along with some other freshman congressmen, William D. Ford, D-Detroit, recently visited some defense installations at Colorado Springs, Colo. He was impressed by NORAD which has the assignment of defending the North American continent against aerospace attack.

North American Defense Command provides a ring of defense against possible attack on some 30 probable target centers.

"We must be prepared . . . and NORAD offers the ultimate in defense tactics," said Ford, hoping "that day of need never comes."

Coed's 'Big Sister' Mister

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Like hundreds of other freshmen women at Bowling Green State University, Sue Codington of Euclid was assigned a "big sister" to help her adjust to college life.

But Sue's first meeting with Pat Smith, a junior from Fremont, was a shock.

"Big sis" turned out to be a strapping male.

Smith submitted his name to the Women Students' Association as a joke last spring, but has since decided he likes the job.

He'll even accompany Sue to the "Big-Little Sis" picnic Saturday.

Ex-British Official Dies

HARTFIELD, England (AP) — Gen. Sir Reginald Hildyard, 88, governor of Bermuda from 1936 to 1939, died Thursday.

Hildyard was commissioned in the queen's own Royal West Kent Regiment in 1906 and saw service in the Boer War and through World War I.

U.S. Planes Pepper North Viets With Copies of Poem Found on Communist Soldier

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. planes peppered North Viet Nam this week with 720,000 copies of a poem found on the body of a Communist soldier. Addressed to the youth's mother, it told of disenchantment with the Viet Cong's war. The U.S. Information Service said the 41-line poem was found on the body of a young North Vietnamese killed in the recent battle of Duc Co, in Pleiku Province. The poem told of the hardships of the march from North Viet Nam through Laos to the South and of what the soldier found in the South— "I began to look around and wondered what there was here to liberate. CROWDED MARKET "The market was crowded with people in gay mood, the rice fields were green with rice plants. "From a curved-roof pagoda came the sound of a worship bell. The classrooms were full of cheerful children singing songs in chorus. "And in a plot of green the small butterflies were busy on the yellow cabbage flowers. "Peace and joy reigned throughout the country. But why — why they ordered me to burn the villages, destroy the bridges, lay mines to sow death around?"

The poet wrote that his hand often trembled when he placed a mine, and he asked his mother whose blood was it that he saw. "It was the blood of our people, those like mother and me," he wrote. "That night, my eyes were filled with tears and my sleep with nightmares." Some Americans in Saigon doubt the poem's authenticity. But the U.S. Information Service said the poem definitely had been found on the body of an enemy soldier and that propaganda experts considered it a highly effective, psychological warfare weapon. U.S. bottlers and canners of soft drinks produced over 2.2 billions gallons in 1963. This is more than 36.5 billion bottles and cans or 192 units per capita.

Commend Civic Pride of Our Area Neighbor

Under way in Waterford Township is a project worthy the support of every resident.

Sponsored by the Greater Waterford Community Council (GWCC), an organization established five years ago to further community betterment, the second annual cleanup and "face-lifting" campaign was recently launched.

Featured at a kick-off meeting were photographs and slides showing dilapidated buildings and unsightly car junk yards and dumps that clearly called for improvement and correction.

Pointing out the penalty such neglect imposes on an area by reason of declining value of adjacent property and higher insurance rates, the group, in carrying on its program, proposes to enlist the interest and cooperation of local business men, representatives of real estate and insurance companies, and civil authorities.

We warmly commend the GWCC on its progressive outlook and community spirit, which might well be given wide emulation.

He Reads U.S. Sinking in Deep Sea of Print

One of our practicing prophets of doom voices the tongue-in-cheek prospect that we will be drowned in the semantic sea of government "officialness."

The United States is "approaching a state of crisis in written communication," says he.

"He" is LAWRENCE R. KLEIN, who edits the Monthly Labor Review for the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

A lone voice crying out in the wilderness of grammatical gobbledegook, Klein's crusade is not necessarily against polysyllabic words or long sentences but against obscurity. He simply believes that government documents should be understandable. A few of the reasons he cites for the paucity of clarity in government writings are:

- Fear of commitment, of saying what you really mean.
- Showing off specialized knowledge.

- Laziness — not taking the time to organize, rewrite and polish.

KLEIN quotes the title of one report submitted to him:

"Per Cent of Total Family Personal Income Held by Fourth Highest Fifth of the Families and the Highest Fifth Less the Top Five Per Cent of the Families."

"What is that supposed to mean?" he asks.

Preservation of Nature a Growing Need in U.S.

Every 24 hours America loses over 3,000 acres of natural land to development. This amounts to about one million acres a year going into such things as urban expansion, housing subdivisions, shopping centers, highways and so on.

Fewer and fewer children today have the benefit of first-hand, intimate experience with the wonders and beauties of land in its natural, unexploited state.

Even our many excellent state and national parks are becoming overtaxed by a growing population with the leisure and money to travel whatever distances are required to reach these oases of nature. Realizing that the problem of conservation in an urban nation depends in large part on reaching children, who will have charge of our natural resources in the future, the National Audubon Society in 1944 came up with the idea of educational nature centers.

These would be areas of undeveloped land near communities, modest patches of forest and meadow with bubbling stream, by means of which trained naturalists could lead children to personal experiences with nature. They would be outdoor laboratories — "green islands for learning" — to which schoolteachers could bring their classes, scout leaders their troops, parents their children.

Today there are some 200 nature centers in the United States and Canada, both publicly and privately administered.

Through its Nature Centers Division, the society is working throughout the nation to sell the concept of these "green islands" and to provide technical assistance to local groups and agencies wishing to establish one for their communities.

Congress Dull but Productive

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — This session of Congress, heading toward a close now, has been the dulllest in memory and at the same time the most productive in more than 30 years.

Next year will probably be equally dull, if not as productive. For 1966 is a congressional election year and President Johnson, instead of leading the members down as he did this year, may let them go home early to campaign.

No other Congress in this century, outside of wartime, could match this year's performance unless, perhaps it was the one President Franklin D. Roosevelt dealt with in his first few months after taking office.

Then, with the country in depression chaos, Congress let the president write his own ticket and railroaded what he wanted to get the nation moving.

But much that it did was subsequently knocked out by one of the most reactionary Supreme Courts in history. Then the court changed its tune.

It began approving the far-reaching legislation — like the Social Security and Labor Relations acts — which Congress at a much slower pace began passing in 1935.

It's different now, due to a change in American thinking, the needs of the times and the personnel of the court. There's no reason to think this court won't uphold all the legislation passed this year if any is tested.

What made this year dull was that, while tremendous pieces of legislation were rammed through, there were little real conflicts. There were two main reasons for this: Johnson's skill in dealing with Congress and the huge Democratic majorities.

Besides, much that Johnson proposed and Congress approved had been long debated before he took office. In short, the country had been heading toward it.

In the public relations job of getting its views across, the Republican leadership in the House has been pretty inept. Its views are hackneyed, a true hangover from the past.

All this helped Johnson. But in the Senate, where Democratic presidents in the past suffered anguished ordeals from Republican opposition, the Republican leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, has done for Johnson what Johnson did for President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Dirksen has been cooperative. This was the policy Johnson followed from 1955 to 1961 when he was Senate majority leader and Eisenhower was in the White House.

There is, for example, much dissatisfaction on the part of management with the rulings of the National Labor Relations Board. Likewise, appointments to the National Labor Relations Board have been severely criticized.

OTHER PROBLEMS
But there are other problems in labor-management relations which are bound to come under review.

Such questions as how far the power to strike shall be carried and to what extent unions may be made liable for damage incurred through "wildcat" strikes are likely to produce several amendments to the proposed repeal of Section 14B.

In fact, an entirely new labor

How Long Is The Fuse?

David Lawrence Says:

It's Better to Put Aside 14B Bill

WASHINGTON — It's better for all concerned to let the pending bill on compulsory unionization be put aside until the January session of Congress as seems likely now.

The labor leaders will not admit it publicly, but privately they too, know that they could benefit by the delay.

A wait of only three or four months before the subject can be taken up in the new Congress is not a serious delay.

In fact, both sides are going to need the time to prepare for one of the most significant battles in legislative history. For it is probable that this highly controversial issue is going to be the principal issue in the next session of Congress and perhaps in the congressional campaign itself.

The controversy is widening. It will not be confined solely to whether the 14 states which have right-to-work laws are to be permitted to retain them. A counterforce now will be made to ban compulsory unionization in all the 50 states.

There is believed to be a narrow majority in Congress at present in favor of repealing section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, which permits the states to decide for themselves whether they wish to allow compulsory unionization.

NATIONWIDE PROHIBITION
If the section is repealed, it will mean that no state can hereafter enact or keep in force a law on this subject, and all must obey a nationwide prohibition ordered by Congress.

While the majority is in favor of such a repeal at present is the charming flavor of Lafayette Square, opposite the White House, where bureaucrats would have replaced the lovely old residences with garish modern government buildings.

Can President and Mrs. Johnson, who yearn to restore, "America the Beautiful," do less than that to preserve the dignity of our most revered national shrine, where "Independence" was born?

While we're in the wall-grooving mood, let's look at another irritant in today's less-than-perfect wonderland.

For instance, what about those people who happily accept appointment to top jobs in the administration then bow out after a year or two with the excuse that they can no longer law may be written, revising and clarifying some of the provisions of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act that relate to campaign contributions.

The whole subject needs further study, and the labor laws certainly are ripe for revision, for it has been a long time since these problems have been tackled by Congress.

Capital Letter:

LBJ Must Step In to Save Dignity of Revered Shrine

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—The time has come, the walrus said, to talk of many things, such as taste in architecture and job tenure.

Certainly Alice saw no more horrendous monstrosity in Wonderland than the flap-eared skyscraper that the U. S. government intends to erect on historic Independence Square.

Despite vehement protests from virtually every official and resident of Montgomery Philadelphia, the General Services Administration has okayed construction of a $40-million brick, glass and red granite U.S. Court Building that will completely overshadow Independence Hall.

The 35-story hulk needs only two eyes (a couple of lighted windows at night would do) to resemble a leering gargyle.

The ears are already in the blueprint — jutting out from both sides of the tower toward the top.

Another weird projection near the base looks like the teeth of a grinning aborigine.

TASTELESS OFFICIALS
What is the point of multimillion-dollar programs to beautify highways and parks, if tasteless government officials approve great globe of brick and steel that permanently mar our cities' skylines?

President and Mrs. Kennedy interceded to preserve the charming flavor of Lafayette Square, opposite the White House, where bureaucrats would have replaced the lovely old residences with garish modern government buildings.

Can President and Mrs. Johnson, who yearn to restore, "America the Beautiful," do less than that to preserve the dignity of our most revered national shrine, where "Independence" was born?

While we're in the wall-grooving mood, let's look at another irritant in today's less-than-perfect wonderland.

For instance, what about those people who happily accept appointment to top jobs in the administration then bow out after a year or two with the excuse that they can no longer afford the financial sacrifice of public service?

Oh, my fur and whiskers! Many of them had never before earned $27,000 a year, but after White House exposure they can make two or three hundred thousand dollars by writing tell-all memoirs, or snag a high-paying job with a corporation that needs their new "inside" knowledge of government.

No one expects officials to sprout wings, but when Alice told the March hare that he couldn't take "more" tea because she hadn't had any, he replied: "You mean you can't take less."

Makes as much sense, doesn't it!

In Washington:

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Red China's Mao Tse-tung has problems at home. The revolutionary fervor is beginning to fade. Peking leaders worry that Chinese youth are getting soft.

The young men are beginning to wear their hair long, pay more attention to their dress, spend more time listening to music.

Mao needs a "compelling reason" to get more of the youth into his armies, militia forces and "vol-cromley" worker corps where he can toughen them up and brainwash them daily with intensive political propaganda.

To carry out this toughening, Mao must constantly whip up his people.

That requires frequent outside threats so serious that the Chinese feel compelled to unite unquestioningly behind him.

It also requires constant expansion so the Chinese will feel they are going some place under Mao.

To be most effective, these crises must show short of all-out war.

Mao's push in India is a cheap way to meet these needs. If he is careful not to get in too deep. The more public threats Mao gets from India and the West, the better he likes it.

When the Indian crisis settles down, Mao will move in another direction to keep the Chinese restless. He needs to stir things up constantly.

It may be the Indian border one month, the Sino-Soviet border the next, Viet Nam after that, and then hints of a take-over in Thailand.

When these crises die down, Mao's agents will stir up things in Africa or in some Latin-American country. If these flips fail to stir up the excitement he requires, Mao will fire off another nuclear charge.

On occasion, Mao will have his leaders publicly outline how Red China will take over the world.

The resulting crises help keep Mao's people on their toes, prevent a slowdown.

Mao is troubled by men in the third generation of Chinese leaders (the "younger" men who will some day succeed his group in power) who haven't had the long, hardening revolutionary experience of the older group. He fears their "softness" might lead them to want peace.

Mao's "eternal threat" program eradicates peace talk.

Mao is expanding his militia. He is instituting tougher training for Chinese youth. Party men are being given stronger powers in the army. There will be stepped-up propaganda among

Johnson's Present Policy Supported by Ministers

Our Greater Pontiac Evangelical Ministers' Fellowship is sending the following letter to President Johnson:

"Thousands of Clergymen have received copies of the letter sent to you earlier this year from the 'Clergymen's Emergency Committee for Viet Nam.' This same committee is now urging all clergymen to join in their appeal to 'withdraw our troops' from Viet Nam in the hope that sufficient pressure will be applied to change our present course of action.

"We wish to go on record as praising God for the noble stand you have taken in South Viet Nam. We want you to know we not only back your present policy, but are praying faithfully for you during these troubled days."

Comments on Relocation of Scrap Business

This would be an opportune time for the residents in the North end of Pontiac to fight the City Planners and their paching Sam Allen & Sons, Inc. by approving 35 acres of the township property zoned M-3, Heavy Manufacturing, for the relocation of their scrap business. The 35 acres of scrap will certainly enhance the appearance of the John F. Kennedy Jr. High School, which is located a few hundred feet away, not to mention the noise.

The City Planners' decision to locate the "dump" and Sam Allen & Sons, Inc. in this area will deter further residential development and will make this area the sequel to our urban renewal development.

'Hang Onto the Football and Win the Game'

The University of Michigan should defeat Georgia Saturday, and could beat State if Bump could arrange to put handles on the football or get the Wolverine backfield a suitcase in which to carry it.

It does not help when the backs gain lots of yardage if they fumble the ball away as soon as they get into scoring position.

It is evident that they badly miss the fine passing, ball handling and power running of Bob Timberlake.

Reader Disagrees With Praise for Farnum

It is difficult to agree with Esther Tufty and her praise for Democrat Congressman Billie Farnum's views on economy. She should have said it is a liberal Democrat with an amazing reputation for "spending" the taxpayer's dollars.

His mythical title of "watchdog of the taxpayer's dollar" has been disproved repeatedly by his overwhelming, uneconomical spending record in Congress.

I don't know why Mr. Farnum should have a "five times size lump" in his throat when viewing the Lincoln Memorial. Abraham Lincoln was one of many Republicans who gave us the greatest government system in the world and end of which Mr. Farnum is trying to spend into inflationary bankruptcy.

Mao's Plan: Create New Crises

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Red China's Mao Tse-tung has problems at home. The revolutionary fervor is beginning to fade. Peking leaders worry that Chinese youth are getting soft.

The young men are beginning to wear their hair long, pay more attention to their dress, spend more time listening to music.

Mao needs a "compelling reason" to get more of the youth into his armies, militia forces and "vol-cromley" worker corps where he can toughen them up and brainwash them daily with intensive political propaganda.

To carry out this toughening, Mao must constantly whip up his people.

That requires frequent outside threats so serious that the Chinese feel compelled to unite unquestioningly behind him.

It also requires constant expansion so the Chinese will feel they are going some place under Mao.

To be most effective, these crises must show short of all-out war.

Mao's push in India is a cheap way to meet these needs. If he is careful not to get in too deep. The more public threats Mao gets from India and the West, the better he likes it.

Chinese youth while they're re-creates.

If Mao performs as in the past, western softness toward Red China won't pay off. Mao's plan requires each western country be matched by an additional Chinese demand so as to create a new crisis.

After each concession, Mao tells his people (as he did after western concessions in Korea) that the Red Chinese won over odds and that toughness pays.

Regardless of how many concessions the West grants, Mao's theory claims men in push for it. He fears a rapprochement as complete defeat.

The more logical solution is tough, persistent containment of Red Chinese aggression, while waiting until Mao's group dies off and Peking's revolutionary fervor becomes dull and palid.

By the second or third generation (20 to 30 years) China may be ruled by bureaucrats who say that aggression does not pay.

British May Seek Defense Load Letup

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — Britain is engaged in a sweeping review of her long-term defense policy. It may result in an attempt to pass on some of her present world-policing responsibilities to the United States.

The review, described as the most far-reaching undertaken since the war, will almost certainly result in a whittling-down of Britain's current overseas commitments.

The motives are largely financial. The government says Britain cannot afford to keep up her global defense commitments a side present scale.

The financial burden is weighing heavily on the uneasy economy and adds to Britain's balance of payments troubles which in turn endanger the stability of the pound sterling.

Something will have to give, the government says, implying a contraction of Britain's defense posture overseas. From here it looks as if the United States may have to jump into the breach, however reluctantly.

CEILING SET

The Labor government has set a ceiling for its future defense budget at $5.6 billion a year.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson holds this is the maximum that Britain will be able to afford, and there are some advisers who feel even this is far beyond the means of the impoverished United Kingdom.

Wilson's government proclaimed proudly when it comes to power a year ago that it wants Britain to continue to play a major role in international affairs.

This was to have been done through the "east of Suez policy" which implied Britain's continued policing of the Far East or important portions of it.

MAJOR FACTOR

A major factor here is containment of threatening Indonesian (Red Chinese-backed) aggression against British Commonwealth member Malaysia.

This policy has been aligned with the United States as complementary to the American effort to contain Communist aggression in South Asia, especially just now in Viet Nam.

Hard to Get Cash From This Banker

FOOTVILLE, Wis. (UPI) — All banks insure their assets, but the 65-year-old president of the First Bank of Footville went beyond the call of duty yesterday.

He chased a gunman who robbed his bank and recovered the stolen $2,000.

As soon as the young bandit fled from the building with the money, bank president W. A. Canary flagged a friend in a passing car, jumped in and took off on the chase for 70 twisting miles of rural roads.

The 80-mile-per-hour chase, which also involved Canary's son until the bandit thrust a revolver in his face and took his car keys, ended one and one-half hours later when a posse of 60 policemen from two states flushed the youth from an Illinois corn field after his car had run out of gas.

The suspect, Ron Retzlaff, 20, Beloit, Wis., appeared before a U.S. commissioner in Rockford, Ill., on federal charges of bank robbery.

He was held overnight in Madison, Wis., pending a scheduled court appearance today.

Canary was attending to routine duties at the bank where he has worked for 50 years when the bandit entered, brandishing a gun and covering his face with a redmap.

"Are you serious?" Canary asked.

"I'm deadly serious," the bandit replied.

The bandit ordered Canary, his wife, Marie, 40, executive vice president of the bank, and their son, Paul, 26, the assistant cashier, into the vault.

The bandit fled and Canary and his son rushed from the building.

The chase ended in a field on the Walter Koch farm near Harrison, Ill. The suspect surrendered meekly while officers encircled the field.

has set off second thoughts about the scope of Britain's defense role in the area.

Britain maintains major bases in Singapore and, at present, has the biggest fleet assembled there since the Korean War, in addition to V-bombers with nuclear capabilities.

MADE CLEAR

The United States has made it clear to Britain it wants her to continue in this role east of Suez which Washington considers important in the present unsettled state of affairs in the Far East.

But the changed status of Singapore and the political uncertainties they involve may result in a gradual whittling down of Britain's base arrangements in the area.

Alternatively, Britain may scale down her commitment in Aden, a vital base in the Mid-eastern defense setup.

There are suggestions that Britain should pull out from there and that she could afford to do it without major risks because of changed circumstances and defense needs.

DEFENSE VACUUM

Others argue that a withdrawal from Aden might create a defense vacuum, as would a withdrawal from Singapore.

Attention therefore focuses on the United States which, it is argued, might find itself in the position where once again it would have to jump into a breach, in the Far East or Mideast.

Britain has told the United States it would do nothing final before consulting Washington and other allies in NATO and the commonwealth.

Detroit Couple Killed in Kansas Car Crash

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Three persons, including a Detroit couple, were killed Wednesday night in the head-on collision of two cars on U.S. 75 about five miles south of Holton, Kan.

William C. Macharg, 61, and his wife, Pauline, Detroit, were killed instantly in one car.

Tetanus, an entirely preventable disease, kills about 200 persons annually in the U.S., with the highest number of cases occurring in the Southwest.

Can Purify Industrial Products

By Science Service

ATLANTIC CITY. Absolute purity, long believed impossible to attain, is now possible for industrial products such as naphthalene, the American Chemical Society meeting here was told.

Dr. Charles P. Saylor of the National Bureau of Standards Institute for Materials Research, Washington, D.C., reported designing a machine that may revolutionize procedures in some commercial plants.

The government plans to patent the device and use it widely for evaluating production standards, but it is sure to have commercial applications not yet worked out.

The new machine continuously refines a substance by counter-current crystallization, and the procedure is called the "freezing stair-step method," Dr. Saylor explained.

Naphthalene or whatever substance is to be purified is fed into a hollow glass ring in the shape of a doughnut about four inches across. The ring rotates on a tilting axis, and the temperature at all parts of the apparatus can be closely controlled.

PROPERLY ADJUSTED

When the machine is properly adjusted for tilt, speed of rotation and temperature, the material in the hotter parts of the ring starts to melt, while that in the cooler part crystallizes in highly pure form.

The liquid tends to wash down the impurities as the pure crystals are carried upward through a continuous melting and recrystallizing purification procedure.

Dr. Saylor explained that the stair-step method has advantages over other leading methods of working toward absolute purity.

One method reduces impurities to only about one-tenth for each "pass" but with the new machine the amount of impurity is reduced 1,000 to 10,000 times for each pass through the device, and it seems reasonable that an absolutely pure substance can be prepared.

SMALL MODEL

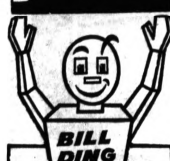

Dr. Saylor is using a small model of the stair-step device that yields about 12 grams of ultrapure naphthalene or 1, 4 dichlorobenzene in about 12 hours. A 20-inch model is under construction, however.

"Growth of single crystals has always provided greater rectification per stage than any other purification method," the scientist said, "yet this procedure has several drawbacks." The operation is slow and the material is subject to contamination.

Auditorium at U.N. Is Spectacular

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — Some say it looks like a gaudy movie theater. Some have likened it to a cathedral. But all agree — a modernistic, domed auditorium is as spectacular as the world-famous figures who have appeared in it.
This is where Pope Paul VI will speak Monday — the U.N.
Assembly chamber, scene of Nikita S. Khrushchev's shoe pounding, Fidel Castro's marathon attack on the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace speech, and countless other dramatic episodes.

Because of its involvement in history-making events, the chamber has become one of the great tourist attractions in New York.

When the Pope enters the 2-000-seat auditorium, he, like other visitors, is likely to be struck by the melange of brilliant colors. Blue and gold are predominant, but also present are forest green, red, black,

UNCONVENTIONAL SHAPE

The shape of the chamber is as unconventional as the color combination. All the walls are tilted, curved, or both. The sweeping curved wall behind the podium resembles a great mass of gilded organ pipes.
There is a gap in the center, for a giant insignia of the United Nations.

Near the back of the chamber are the big conversation pieces, two abstract murals by the late Ferdinand Legere. These are referred to by old U.N. hands as "Fried Eggs" and "Bugs Bunny." Each covers a whole wall next to the public galleries and will be visible to the Pope as he speaks.

The pontiff will enter the chamber through the lofty-ceiling public lobby, where he will be greeted by Secretary General U Thant. After a brief visit to the tiny U.N. meditation room, he will ascend a long ceremonial ramp, then proceed down the center aisle to the rostrum.

He will find the auditorium jammed with an audience of diplomats, invited guests and newsmen, all seated in advance of his arrival. His speech will be heard also by overflow crowds in nearby rooms. Thousands will be turned away for lack of space.

TO BE PROTECTED

As in the case of other world figures, the Pope will be protected by stringent security measures. Only carefully screened persons will be permitted in the areas through which he will pass.

U.N. security officials expect no trouble, but they never rule out the possibility of cracks or fanatics. They offer safeguards to all important persons and so far they have never had any serious trouble in the assembly.

In its 13 years, the assembly chamber has had a constant procession of kings, presidents, prime ministers and colorful personalities.

It has seen African leaders in their picturesque native costumes; rightist dictators, such as Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic; Communist dictators; churchmen, such as Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus; and conservatively dressed Western statesmen.

ONE OF FIRST

President Eisenhower was one of the first world leaders to speak in the auditorium. His visit was in 1953, just a year after the new assembly building was completed. President John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B.
Johnson addressed the assembly in later years.

One of the big events was the 1960 gathering of heads of government which brought together
Khrushchev, Castro, Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal
Nehru, Indonesia's President
Sukarno, U.A.R. President
Gamal Abdel Nasser, Yugoslavia's President Tito and a score of others.

Although Khrushchev and Castro got the most attention, some of the African leaders, including Guinea's Sekou Toure and Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah, were among the most colorful in their brilliant robes. There were others also, such as Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi of India in her exotic sari and Queen Elizabeth II, spoke behind the green marble lectern where the Pope will stand.

Bias Ruled Out for Real Estate Offices

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Civil Rights Commission ruled Wednesday that a real estate office is a place of public accommodation and its operators must give equal treatment to Negroes.

The ruling came on a complaint by William Smith, a Negro student at Michigan State University, that East Lansing real estate broker Richard Clau- cherty refused to show and ne- gotiate on a publicly advertised apartment because of Smith's race. The commission held that Clau- cherty's action "constituted unlawful discrimination under the Constitution." It directed preparation of a "cease and desist" order to apply in the fu- ture.

Clau- cherty said he had no immediate comment.

PUBLIC ACCOMMODATION
The commission said a real estate office and all extensions of its business must be regard- ed as a place of public accom- modation.

The action upheld the findings of commissioners Damon Keith and Mrs. Frank Wylie.

A claim by Clau- cherty's at- torney that the commission lacked jurisdiction in the matter was dismissed.

Iowa Amish School Plan Nixed

OELWEIN, Iowa (AP) — The Oelwein Community School Dis- trict has rejected a proposal of- fered by Iowa Atty. Gen. Law- rence Scallie to end the long im- passe over the schooling of Amish children.

The board, instead, renewed, with slight changes, an offer re- jected by the Amish earlier on religious grounds.

The once-rejected plan called for the Amish children to travel by bus to the Hazelton Public School where they would be taught in a nongraded class- room for one year. After a year, the plan would be re-evaluated.

Board members decided to re- submit the plan, except that they would give the Amish the alternative of sending the chil- dren to a rural school. Board members said it might be more acceptable to the Amish than a school in town.

If the modification is rejected, board members said, prosecu- tions and fines of the Amish fathers will be resumed.

ences. They say they cannot af- ford to hire certified teachers for their own schools.

Scallie recommended the board "consider supplying cer- tified teachers" for the Amish schools, meanwhile taking them over and operating them as public schools. The cost, he said, would be $3,000 to $7,000 a year, of which about $4,000 would come in state school aids.

Denver Quake Third in Month

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Three earthquakes in less than a month have jolted the Denver area.

The latest Wednesday brought scattered reports of cracked plaster, broken dishes and broken windows. It was felt in Boulder 30 miles to the northwest.

Seismographs measured the tremor at 4.5 on the Richter scale, matching the intensity of quakes Sept. 13 and 14. Seismologists say a tremor of 6.0 would bring serious damage.

They also attribute the quakes to an underground disturbance from two to 10 miles below the surface. Just what it is, though, is anybody's guess.

Service Insurance Is Signed Into Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed into law a bill providing group life insurance for men and women in the armed forces.

About $2 a month will buy the serviceman or servicewoman $10,000 coverage. A smaller contribution will provide a $5,000 policy.

Not to be covered are those who specify in writing that they do not wish to be.

Legislators Agree on Schedule That Prevents Recall

LANSING (AP) — Legislators agreed Wednesday to end their autumn session by Oct. 15 and to give Gov. George Romney no opportunity to call a special session on taxes.

At the same time, House Republicans apparently spiked any chance of legislative approval this year for a constitutional amendment to lift the ban on a graduated income tax.

The schedule approved by the Senate Wednesday and scheduled for final clearance in the House today provided for a recess from Oct. 15 until Dec. 29—too late for Romney to call a special tax session.

While declining to consider tax reform this fall, Democrats had placed the graduated income tax resolution on the agenda.

TWO-THIRDS VOTE

The graduated income tax amendment would need a two-thirds vote of each house of the Legislature, and then would go to a public vote—in November, 1966, if the legislature approved it this fall.

House Republicans, calling the resolution "no substitute for and not a part of total fiscal reform," decided unanimously in caucus to oppose it.

House Speaker Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, said Democrats backed the resolution 100 per cent. But even with all House Democrats present and voting in favor, at least one Republican vote would be needed to make two-thirds.

Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, said "fiscal reform is still a possibility if the majority party is willing to join with us in facing this vital responsibility."

SENATE WILLING

The Senate was willing to take up a bipartisan tax plan supported by Romney, but the House refused.

Leaving final adjournment until Dec. 30 was seen as only a precautionary move by Democrats against the Republican governor's calling a special tax session.

Romney had indicated earlier there would be no point in calling a special tax session if legislators refused to consider the tax plan he supports at the current session.

Under the schedule, bills must be introduced by Friday, passed in their house of origin by Oct. 7—or by Oct. 8 for money bills—and approved by the opposite house and put in final shape by the following week.

The Senate quickly took action on part of the autumn agenda, approving a technical change in the State Employees Retirement Act and passing a bill increasing the maximum jurisdiction of Wayne County Common Pleas Court from $3,000 cases to $10,000.

In the House, four bills were introduced—two for refinancing of the Mackinac Bridge, one to specify minimum workmen's compensation payments in case of an injured worker's death and one dealing with the workmen's compensation department.

A Mackinac Bridge bill sponsored by Rep. Einar Erlandson, D-Escanaba, promptly was reported out by the House Committee on Roads and Bridges.

The bill would replace the present bridge bonds with bonds backed by the full faith and credit of the state, saving on interest charges, and turn operation of the bridge—including toll setting—over to the Highway Department.

The committee amended it to specify that employees of the Mackinac Bridge Authority would be assigned to the bridge-operating division of the Highway Department.

The proposed workmen's compensation amendment would set minimum payments in the case of the death of a covered worker ranging from $27 a week where there were no dependents to $42 for five dependents for 500 weeks.

Theater Confab Begins

HARBOR SPRINGS (AP) — The Little Traverse Civic Theater is host today to the annual fall convention of the Civic Theater Association of Michigan. The three-day session, first time in northern Michigan, expects some 200 delegates who represent 57 civic theater groups in the state.

Attorney Says He'll Take Lake Plans to Court

By PAT MCARTY
WOLVERINE LAKE — Principals in the current Wolverine Lake improvement hearing apparently will next face each other in Oakland County Circuit Court.

As last night's session was adjourned, the attorney for the Wolverine Lake Rehabilitation Association, Inc., said he would take his objections regarding the proceedings to court.

Paul G. Valentino said he intended to file a suit today naming Oakland County, the three-member board of determination and County Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Berry as defendants.

The Pontiac attorney will attempt to enjoin the board from further consideration of the improvement of Wolverine Lake until "it has been determined what special assessment district has been established" and whether that district conforms to statute.

Valentino said he also will seek a declaratory judgment as to the scope of the hearing.

SPECIFIC PROTEST
Specifically, he has protested the inclusion of any cost figures in the consideration.

The board of determination scheduled its next meeting for 7 p.m. Oct. 12 at Walled Lake High School, but chairman Bruce Amet, a Pontiac resident, stated it might be postponed by the court action.

Last night's three-hour session attracted nearly 350 persons, more than half of whom indicated Valentino was representing them through the association.

The board of determination was called by Barry under provisions of the Inland Lake Improvement Act to determine the necessity of improving the lake.

CONFLICTING REPORTS
In the center of the three-year controversy over the proposed project are two conflicting preliminary reports by engineers.

One, prepared by Hubbell, Roth and Clark, Inc., of Birmingham under a contract

Lutheran Women Will Serve Supper

ROCHESTER — The Ladies Circle of Gethsemane Lutheran Church, 1822 E. Auburn, will serve a "Pennies for Missions Supper" tomorrow between 5:30 and 7 p.m.

For the early diners, a movie entitled "Africa and Doctor Schweitzer" will be shown in the church nave at 6:15 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m. the program will feature a mission speaker, Mrs. Ella Voss of Shaker Heights, Ohio, who will tell of her experiences as an assistant to her missionary husband in Korea.

Troy Board OKs Pilot Community School Program

TROY — School officials have been given the go-ahead by the board of education to set up a pilot community school program.

Asst. Schools Supt. Boyd Larson said planning will probably start after representatives attend a workshop at the Mott Foundation schools in Flint Oct. 27-29.

He said a survey must be made to determine the needs of the community.

The community school concept is designed to involve more fully residents of the community in their schools.

Its aim is to provide recreation and education for adults and enrichment for children. Larson said Troy has been interested in such a program for several years.

with the drain office, estimated cost of a hydraulic dredging project at $995,000.

Also included in the report was the prediction that Wolverine Lake would be emptied of water a quarter of the way through the project.

On the basis of this report, Barry deemed the project unfeasible.

LOWER ESTIMATE
Residents in the lake rehabilitation association countered with a report prepared by John R. Snell Engineers Inc. of Lansing, which estimated the cost at $530,000.

The firm is headed by the man who did the engineering for a dredging project at Long Lake in which a new process was used.

Barry has continued to maintain that the project is feasible from an engineering standpoint but not when finances are taken into consideration.

Noting that no definite cost figures have been established, the lake rehabilitation association claims that neither estimate should be considered by the board in determining necessity of the project.

BOARD'S CONCERN

The board is concerned with deciding whether the project is conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare.

Howard I. Bond, Pontiac attorney retained by the board, said the cost should not be a controlling factor in the board's decision.

"If it costs $50 million, this board would not be interested," he said. "But if it did cost $50 million, I submit this would affect the public health, convenience and welfare."

Valentino reiterated that cost should be considered after necessity for a project has been declared.

HEAR OPINIONS

While neither engineering report yet has been presented to the board, the panel last night heard the opinions of a half-dozen persons living in the area.

Following each statement, others were allowed to ask questions.

Leading off the speakers was George Belprez, 2121 Shanklin, former village president.

He urged residents to continue supporting a stump removal program, to deepen the lake's narrows and wait two or three years "while the weather goes through a cycle."

OTHER SPEAKERS

Speakers called by Valentino were Edward Thompson, president of the lake rehabilitation association; Vice President Mrs. A. Dallas Baines; and W. Dan Edmunds, a Walled Lake real estate broker who owns property near Wolverine Lake.

They traced the history of the improvement controversy, commented on the condition of the lake and told of diminished property values.

Thompson was asked if he was willing to gamble on a dredging process which has not yet proven itself.

He said he preferred to think of it as a pioneering project which could succeed if the financing were handled correctly.

BACKS REHABILITATION
For the record, he stated that he believes the lake should be rehabilitated.

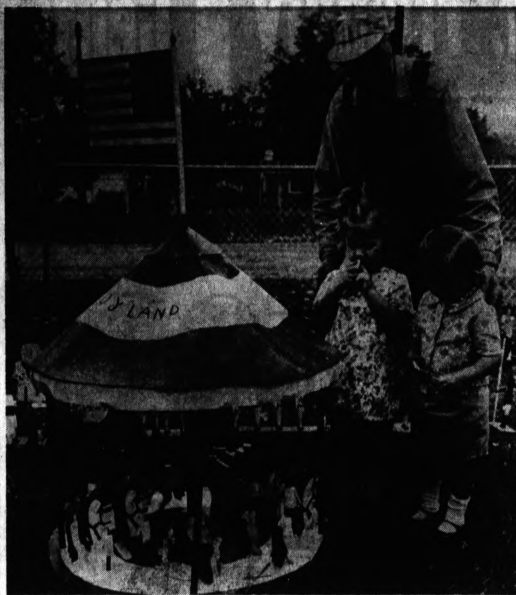

Board member Monroe M. Osmun, Pontiac businessman and president of the Pontiac Board of Education, changed the emphasis of the question.

"Do you think it can be done?" he asked.

"I do," Thompson replied.

U.N. Week Cochairmen

ROCHESTER — Chancellor D. B. Varney of Oakland University and Walter J. Renner, president of the United Auto Workers, have been appointed honorary cochairmen of the U.N. Week Committee of the United Nations Association.

Residents have been complaining of the noise, dust and dirt from the trucks carrying gravel from the mining operations north of town.

Village Manager Robert W. Smalley said a recent attempt to make the drivers use aggressive noise and dirt has not been too successful.

Gravel Truck Law Considered

OXFORD — The Village Council is considering the possibility of an ordinance requiring a cover on all gravel trucks traveling through town.

He said the council will consider the advantages and disadvantages of such an ordinance for a couple of weeks.

OTHER ACTION

In other action, a committee was set up to interview architects for a new library and civic center complex.

The complex is to be on West Burdick Road where the township hall and village hall are now located.

them," he said. "And how do you determine excessive noise?"

He said the council will consider the advantages and disadvantages of such an ordinance for a couple of weeks.

A Circus Is Born as Result of Hobby

By JANICE KLOUSER

AVON TOWNSHIP — Ten years ago, Frank Dunn decided he needed a hobby during the winter when it was too cold to work outside. So, he took up wood carving.

Today, the 71-year-old Dunn proudly displays a miniature circus, containing close to a thousand pieces.

A gardener, Dunn said he "nearly froze to death" one winter and figured it was time to give up working outside in the cold weather.

"But I had to have something to do while I was sitting inside for five months," he said, "so I got some wood and started to carve."

Dunn, who lives in Sylvan Village, has his circus set up at the home of a friend, Earl Miller, at 3092 Avalon.

NUMEROUS WORKS

He has made more than 200 animals of every description. There are 40 horses pulling 10 circus wagons, each of which contain two familiar circus animals.

There are three rings with their separate acts and tight-rope walkers.

He also has a merry-go-round, ferris wheel and a 42-foot circus train which he made out of wood and old scrap metal. He has put "passengers" on the train with "children" riding the merry-go-round and ferris wheel.

Several circus bands and a ticket office are also part of the intricate work.

ASSORTED PIECES

Straying slightly from the circus theme, Dunn has fashioned a miniature, a model train, a model car, an old-fashioned car and other assorted pieces.

His circus theme was a natural selection. Until a few years ago, his brother was with the circus, taking care of the horses and amusements of the acts.

"He kept trying to get me to go with the circus, too," said Dunn, "but I never wanted to." "But when I was trying to think of something to carve, the circus just seemed like the right thing."

STORAGE TIME

He plans to dismantle his work soon before the weather ruins it. He'll store it in a shed behind Miller's home.

"Dev got on it the other night," he said, "and I was out here in the dark with a flashlight trying to wipe it off."

"I couldn't leave it out here during the winter."

DAMAGE THREAT

"I can't let them all inside because I'm afraid they would ruin it," Dunn said.

"Today, a school bus went by so slow I thought it was going to stop. I guess the kids were looking at it."

When good weather comes and Dunn can again unveil his work, there will probably be numerous additions, as he plans to continue his hobby this winter.

"I'm never really finished," he said, "I just keep working on it."

Seek Teacher for Half-Days

SOUTH LYON — With kindergarten accounting for more than half of the South Lyon School District's enrollment increase, school officials are seeking a teacher for another half-day session.

Some 2,354 students now are attending South Lyon schools, marking an increase of 100 over last year.

The kindergarten enrollment is 249, a 62-pupil jump. The youngsters are divided into seven half-day sections.

Huron Valley Enrollment Up

250 More Students Than Anticipated

MILFORD — Educators in the Huron Valley School System find themselves with about 250 more students than they expected to have in district classrooms this fall.

Schools Supt. Dr. Truman Owens reported that budget figures were prepared for an anticipated student load of 5,150.

However, preliminary reports from principals indicated enrollment now is 5,401.

Last year, Huron Valley schools accounted for some 4,960 students.

ADJUSTMENTS

Owens said adjustments are being made to remedy both problems wherever possible.

Classroom problems have been heightened by the delay in completion of Muir Junior High School.

To provide the needed space, elementary school all-purpose rooms and six high school rooms are being used temporarily.

A breakdown of enrollment figures shows the largest increase in the sixth grade, which has 72 more youngsters than last year.

Also ranking high were eighth grade, with 68 more pupils; fourth, 64; third, 47; and first, 43.

The rice crop in 1963 is this year will exceed last year's crop by about two million metric tons or more than 5 per cent.

"We'll play that one next," says Mrs. John Ylvisaker (left) of Bloomfield Hills. She was hostess to the doctors' wives attending the first social event of the auxiliary year.

Annual Membership Meeting

M.D.'s Wives Have Tea

Oakland County doctors may have had the day off Wednesday, but their wives went out to tea.

The annual membership meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society was held at the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. John R. Ylvisaker. One of the main projects of the auxiliary is providing nursing scholarships.

Funds for this service are being raised by a theatre party at the Fisher theatre on Oct. 27 when "Carousel" will be playing.

Members also work with health agencies in their respective communities.

Tickets for "Carousel" may be had from Mrs. Kenneth Vandenberg of Orchard Lake or from any member of the auxiliary.

BPW Club's Week Busy With Events

National Business Women's Week Sunday through Oct. 10 will be observed by Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club.

Highlighting the week of events will be a dinner at Haven Hill. Plans for the affair were completed at the group's Tuesday meeting at the Cherokee Road home of Vera Bassett.

During the meeting Mrs. Raymond L. Cole reported on her briefing and tour at Cape Kennedy last week.

Following the business session members viewed color slides of the club's recent national and international convention held in Washington, D.C.

Assisting Miss Bassett as hostesses were Mary Eleanor Lockman, Mrs. Russell Brackett, Mrs. George Pudduk and Mrs. W. O. Coxen.

On Oct. 17 members will attend the meeting of District 10, BPW, at St. Clair Inn.

Reappoint Him

William Poffenberger of Fernbarry Drive has been reappointed as a graduate research assistant in the department of psychology at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa.

Mr. Poffenberger holds a bachelor of arts degree from Oakland University and is one of 17 men and women named by Bucknell as graduate research assistants.

Mrs. Robert Lyons, right, Bayou Drive, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society, arrives at the annual membership tea Wednesday. With her is Mrs. Nick Rendziperis of Rochester, a new member.

Swedish Council Ready to Crown Lucia Queen

By SIGNE KARLSTROM

A Lucia Queen contest has been announced by Glen A. Carlson, president of Detroit-Swedish Council. The event is creating tremendous interest in all those of Scandinavian descent throughout Michigan, not only because it is a "first," but because it is such a charming tie to the traditional Lucia Day in Stockholm, Sweden.

Lucia is known as the Queen of Light and, on Dec. 13th, the day of her martyrdom, she is celebrated throughout Sweden in homes, hospitals, offices, plants, wherever people gather.

BEGINS CHRISTMAS

Lucia Day is the beginning of the Swedish Christmas season.

On Nov. 27, the first Lucia Queen of Michigan will be crowned during the Lucia Banquet held by Detroit-Swedish Council in Detroit.

Girls of Scandinavian descent, between the ages of 18 and 23 are eligible to enter the Lucia contest. Six will be chosen to appear at the Lucia Banquet.

These six will be judged by a jury of prominent Michigan citizens, headed by Mrs. Sixten Ehrlich, wife of the conductor of Detroit Symphony Orchestra. The winner will be crowned as Lucia Queen of Michigan with the five remaining girls becoming her Court of Honor.

TO EUROPE
She will be flown to Scandinavia for a two-week visit to Norway, Denmark and Finland culminating in her appearance at the annual Lucia Day Festivities in Stockholm on Dec. 13. Here she will appear with all the other Lucia Queens of Sweden and Lucia Queens of Scandinavian descent throughout the world.

On her return home, she will appear several times before service clubs, children's hospitals or other organizations to carry on the Lucia tradition of goodwill to all.

The contest ends midnight, Oct. 30.

COMMITTEE

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin R. Anderson of Grosse Pointe are chairmen of the committee. Assisting them are: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Jones, the Lawrence R. Nelsons, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Lundin, Consul and Mrs. Edward Johansson, Mr. and Mrs. Karl-Gunnar Aronsson, the Bengt L. Swensons, and Mrs. Gunnar Karlstrom.

Luncheon Starter for Club Year

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Robert Shorey, Mrs. Kenneth Nagley, Mrs. Robert Ryson and Mrs. Fred Mills.

Highlighting the meeting was the bestowal of honorary membership upon three long-time members: Mrs. Maxwell Shadley, Mrs. Paul Gorman and Mrs. Clarke Kimball.

The program was conducted by Mrs. Carl Bird. She was assisted by club members in the enactment of a socio-drama "Scattered Showers," which depicted three mothers and their various reactions to situations of danger involving their children.

Mrs. E. W. O'Brien, president, announced committee chairmen who include: Mrs. Shorey, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Robert Flynn, Mrs. Richard Corl, Mrs. Wendall Doolin and Mrs. Robert Bego.

Others heading committees are Mrs. William Belaney, Mrs. Emil Bair, and Mrs. Leslie Miller.

Mrs. Robert Newill, Mrs. Robert Price and Mrs. Frank Schoenemann were the group's guests.

Start Jr. Music Groups

Junior Club activities sponsored by Pontiac Tuesday Musicals will be organized for the year this Sunday.

The three youth groups offer opportunities for musical service through performance as well as study and fellowship. Local scholarship competitions and state wide festivals are a special feature each spring.

Elementary school students in the fourth grade or higher belong to Matinee Musicals. Junior high scholars join the Junior League and high schoolers the Senior League.

Membership requirements include that the young people have studied their instrument for two years and perform upon admission to the group. During the season, members are expected to perform at least twice at the monthly Sunday meetings.

COUNSELORS

Mrs. Charles Matson Jr. is counselor for Matinee Musicals, assisted by Mrs. L. G. Cox. Mrs. Betty Quist and Mrs. Joseph Nouse work with the Intermediates and Mrs. O. L. Smith is Senior League advisor with Mrs. E. E. Harris her coworker.

Any music student in the Pontiac area is eligible to join one of the groups. Further information may be had by calling Mrs. Floyd Warczak, Sheffield Street.

PTA Will Meet

Roosevelt School PTA members plan a meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The program will feature a talk by Mrs. Gertrude Ealy, followed by a reception.

Mrs. M. G. Shane, Hammond Lake (standing) passes out music to Mrs. Collis A. Scott (center), Cherokee Road, and Mrs. C. F.

Larkay Jr., Strathdon Way. All are members of the Tuesday Musicals Chorus which held its fall organizational meeting Wednesday.

Sailor Has Sleepless Nights Worrying About Nightmares

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I'm a sailor aboard the USS Midway. I left my fiancée back in the States and we plan to get married as soon as I hit home port in San Francisco. Since our ship left the States I did my best to be true to my girl. However, after 40 days at sea we got liberly in Japan.

I went on the town, had a couple of beers and "sinned" a little. (A whole lot, I think, would be more truthful.)

I didn't think much of it until the guys I work with told me that I talk in my sleep, and very plainly! (Like I just come right out in plain language and tell everything.)

Now I didn't intend telling my fiancée, either before or after we marry, about this little episode in Japan, but what do I do if I admit something in my sleep and my wife hears me?

Chorus Gets Instructions for Year

Chorus members of Pontiac Tuesday Musicals met at the Hammond Lake home of director, Mrs. Ferdinand Gaensbauer on Wednesday morning.

Preparations for the Christmas program on Dec. 14 were begun.

Mrs. Gaensbauer gave highlights of her experiences with The Meadow Brook Festival this past summer. She studied with Robert Shaw.

40 YEARS OLD

The chorus, which has had only five directors in its 40-year history provides an opportunity for women who have had some experience in choral singing to use their talents.

Area women interested should contact a Tuesday Musicals member or call Mrs. Gaensbauer.

Baby sitting service is provided in Central Methodist Church nursery during rehearsals which are held Wednesday mornings.

Accompanist for the group is Mrs. W. A. Schmitts, chairman and Mrs. M. G. Shane, assistant. Mrs. C. F. Larkay is librarian.

DEAR CVA: Don't build a snow fence until the snow hits. And if it does, don't give out with a snow job.

White Knight Rode a Truck

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — Not all knights who rescue damsels in distress ride up on a white charger. Sometimes they arrive on a laundry truck.

Mrs. Lilly Voren, 57, stood at her window as smoke from her home billowed about her. The window was about 15 feet above ground. A laundry truck driver saw her predicament, drove his truck across the lawn and under her window, climbed atop the truck and helped her out.

The rescuing "knight" drove off without even giving his name.

She Stood Out

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Katie Mooreman, 19-year-old coed from Minneapolis, was the only girl in a class of 100 men students in Regis college here in a summer class. She attended a girls' high school and St. Catherine's college, a girls college in St. Paul. At first, she admitted being a bit nervous — but not for long.

Got Over Shock of Glass Crash

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shuman found a baby robin which had fallen out of its nest. They took it into their home for three weeks, caged and fed it and watched it grow.

The redbreasted guest was given short periods of freedom in the home — until it saw its reflection in a mirror and crashed into the glass. After recovering from the shock, it flew off to join other robins in the neighborhood.

AFS Workshop Slated

Mrs. Wilbur Crawford, Pontiac district director of the American Field Service, will moderate a panel discussion on Saturday.

Adults responsible for exchange students of the AFS from Ferndale north to Flint will participate in a workshop at the Birmingham Community House. The meeting is scheduled to run from 9:15 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Several members of the national AFS staff in New York City will speak during the workshop.

Other local women who will participate are Mrs. Lawton Tabor, Mrs. Norris Host and Mrs. William Sharrard of Birmingham, Bertha Seifert and Cicely Guenther of Kingswood School and Mrs. Don Hansen of Rochester.

Brown Pastry in Oil Dip in Syrup and Nuts

By JANET ODELL, Pontiac Press Food Editor

Each year when area organizations have booths at Bloomfield Miracle Mile's birthday celebration, the Philoptothas Society of St. George Greek Orthodox Church bring baked goods. That baked goods is scrumptious—and calorie! You'll find Baklava, Kourakiedes and Finkia. You'll also find Diples, the recipe given below. Mrs. Gus Christie is the cook.

DIPLES

By Mrs. Gus Christie

4 eggs
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
2 cups flour

Mix ingredients together to form soft dough. Let stand for 30 minutes. Divide into three parts.

Roll out with rolling pin until thinner than pie crust. Cut into 2-inch strips.

Heat more salad oil in a deep pan. Slowly twist strips of dough into hot oil and let cook until golden brown. Drain on paper toweling. When cold, roll in syrup and sprinkle with ground nuts and cinnamon.

Syrup

1 cup sugar
1 cup water juice of ½ lemon
4 tablespoons honey
Boil sugar and water 10 minutes, add lemon juice and honey.

Art Gallery Slates Show

Cranbrook Academy of Art Galleries will present as its first exhibition of the fall season "Colored Sculpture."

The exhibition of chromatic sculpture selected by Sidney Geist, sculptor and critic, will open Tuesday and continue through Oct. 24.

Gallery hours are 2 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays and 1 to 5 p.m. on week-ends. The works of 20 artists will be presented in the show.

Too much dirt in the dust bag or a clogged hose can cause a vacuum cleaner motor to overheat.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hotra of Lance Street, Orion Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann to Phillip Charles Hoadley, son of the Clarence Hoadleys of Second Street. Her fiancé attends Oakland Community College. November vows are planned.

Transplanted Fig Tree Is Fruitful

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — A fig tree that came a long way is bearing fruit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Verban. Some of the figs are as large as walnuts. The Verbanes have had the tree for four years. The last two years it has borne fruit.

Verban obtained the tree in Alabama after it had arrived in that state from a more natural climate — Italy.

Getting Home Often Trying for Tourists

PARIS (UPI) — The three things that most Americans forget when they plan for an overseas trip center around the problem of getting home.

Annik Touchadian, an ex-New Yorker who is a trouble-shooter for tourists at Orly Airport, says the three big problems she finds are:

• Tourists never remember the "45 Departure Tax." Before you can leave Orly Airport, it must be paid. "Too many travelers arrive at the airport to go home completely broke."

• The baggage limit. If a tourist packs his bags full and has a tourist weight limit of 44 pounds when he leaves America how is he going to have room for his gifts going home? Twenty-pounds of gifts, if overweight, could cost an American $40 extra weight charges.

• No matter how many times they are told, travelers keep forgetting to reserve a seat home. "Just because you have a ticket on some airline doesn't mean you have a seat," she said. "You have to reconfirm — in Paris. You have to telephone your airline and say you really will take that flight home." Too often, she said, passengers arrive with tickets — but somewhere along the line the travel agent "forgot," to tell the airline.

Boy's Resistance Shows in Work

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My son's teacher says he may not be able to do 8th grade work next year without summer tutoring. She says he is a bright child but a poor achiever. I am sure that this is my husband's fault and that Al could do much better school work if his father didn't yell at him whenever a mark goes down.

I haven't told him that Al will need tutoring because I know what a blasting the child will get...

Answer: I am sorry you're so frightened of your husband.

If you weren't, you might be able to convince him that we don't persuade children to do good school work by raging at them. All we do is to make it impossible for them to want to please us.

Our raging at them makes them so angry at us that they begin to equalize school effort with submission to us. Digging in their heels, they express their resistance to us by resisting school work.

Children do use poor school work to anger a parent who has angered them by trying to bully them into doing good school work.

To free them from their confusion, we have to be pretty clear ourselves on this self-defeating trick of anger. We have to see that our bright child who wants to do good school work is unable to do it because his resentment father wants the same thing.

Then we may be able to disconnect what his resentment father wants from what he wants. His brightness may come to his rescue so that he says, "You mean I'm so mad at daddy that I can't study because he wants me to? But if I stop thinking about what he wants and think about what I want, I can study. Is that what you mean?"

However, very bright children can also be very angry children—so angry that retaliation on us becomes more important than serving their own wishes to study.

Then, if we're bright, too, we get them some sessions with a psychiatrist who, after helping them blow the obscuring steam of anger, makes clear to them their own wish to study. Maybe Al could use a few sessions.

Meanwhile, try to appreciate your husband's anger at Al's poor school work.

His method is mistaken but getting that better work is what you all want, isn't it? It's sad that you're all so frightened of each other that you can't see the sameness of what you want. Maybe if you could find a little appreciation of the meaning of your husband's anger, the sameness of what you all want could be admitted.

Then the psychiatric sessions could be forgotten and their cost could be ungrudgingly diverted to Al's summer tutoring.

Y Director Gets Bonnet

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (U)—Miss Charis Clarke, YWCA director, has a new pale blue hat trimmed with forget-me-nots and ribbon—but there is resemblance to ordinary bonnets ends.

The hat is a hard helmet such as workers wear on construction jobs. It was presented to her by the architects for the new YWCA building now under construction. They felt the headdress, which carries the YWCA emblem and her name in bold black letters will come in handy as she visits the building site several times a week.

Polly's Pointers

Tape Buttonhole

DEAR POLLY—I have certainly profited from reading the column, which is part of my daily routine.

I have a sewing tip for the other girls. When making buttonholes across the ribs in corduroy, the material stretches until the buttonhole is entirely out of shape.

Place a small strip of gummed tape across the area to be buttonholed, work through the tape along with the material, then remove the tape and have a perfect buttonhole.

MRS. R. H. GIRLS—Put the tape on the back of the material and before you cut the buttonhole. I was so pleased that there was no sign of the corduroy raveling.

When the buttonhole is worked, pull the tape away from that area around the hole. Since the tape is on the back, there is no worry about trying to get any little bits out that are caught in the stitches.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—A pants hanger is handy to use to hold open the pages of a book or magazine when building or making an article from instructions in the book or magazine. Besides holding the pages open, you can use the hook on the hanger to hang it up so plans can be easily read without becoming soiled.—MRS. E. D. M.

GIRLS—This I liked for holding that cookbook open and hanging up out of the way of the cooking clutter.

DEAR POLLY—I really enjoy reading the homemaking ideas. One of my own is that of using a breadbox for storing bills, phone books, etc. As my telephone is on the kitchen wall, I find it helpful to have such things handy.

I keep my breadbox on the table beneath the telephone. The table looks neat and I do not have to worry about such things getting misplaced or falling and getting lost.—MARY ANN

DEAR POLLY—Anyone who sells eggs might be interested to know that one-foot-square of nylon net, folded several times over to form a pad, makes an excellent dry cleaner for eggs. Washing removes the "bloom" from eggs so that they will not keep as well. Wash eggs only before cracking to use them.—AUNT MARY

Pontiac 'Dollys' Head for UF Rally

Women working in the Pontiac Area United Fund campaign will attend a "Hello Dolly" rally Tuesday afternoon at the Elks Temple. Designed for all campaign "dolls," the rally will feature both a fashion show and a speaker.

Mrs. Marvin Barnett will be the commentator for the fashion show from Peggy's, Bloomfield Miracle Mile. Background music will be by Jack Hagan at the organ.

Arthur Brooks, program director of Adams, Lafferty, Madden and Moody, will address the women on "The Feminine Touch."

Lecturer in 25 states and conductor of personal improvement classes, Brooks inspires people to "stretch as much as possible."

Reservations for the rally are necessary. Any UF worker not receiving a card may call the UF office for a reservation.

Mrs. Merrell Petrie is heading the women's rally committee.

Lace Suede Is Latest 'In' Fashion

EAST LANSING — Last year's popular leather and suede garments — real and simulated — will go a step further this season.

In the new fashions you'll see printed suede, lace suede and plaid textured suede, predicts Bernetta Kahabka, clothing specialist with the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

FLORAL MOTIFS
The printed suedes take a variety of floral and Persian motifs in bright and subdued colors. Lace suede, created by perforating the skin in a definite pattern, is suitable with shirts, dresses and panel treatments, Miss Kahabka says. Two-tone effects are created by using contrasting linings.

But the standard suede coat with mink collar should continue to be a fashion favorite with shoppers looking for the less exotic.

"With the newest fashion developments in the leather and suede industry, care and cleaning problems have also gotten attention," Miss Kahabka notes.

CLEANING
"New finishes help take some of the complications and expense out of cleaning suede. One company is working on a finish that will let you dry clean a suede garment even in coin operated machines."

Nine Holes Close Season

Mrs. Phillip Cartwright presided at the closing luncheon and bridge of the Nine Holes of Pine Lake Country Club Tuesday.

Among the prize winners was Mrs. James Clarke Sr. for lowering her handicap.

Mrs. Len Thul was elected chairman of next season with Mrs. Harry Pearce as her co-chairman.

Study Club II

Mrs. Ernest Shegins of Jeffwood Drive opened her home to members of the Waterford Child Study Club II recently.

"Developing a conscience in children" was the topic of speaker, Rev. Miles Stine of the Lutheran Church of the Ascension.

Mrs. Gerald Irish was co-hostess.

Debs Wear White and Pastels

By the Emily Post Institute
Q: Will you please describe the proper dress for a debutante to wear at a coming out party? Must it always be white?

A: At a ball, the debutante wears the very prettiest evening dress she can buy. Old-fashioned sentiment prefers that it be white and that it suggests something light, airy, gay and, above all, young.

For the girl who prefers to wear colors, a pastel-faint rose, pale blue, or light yellow — is perfectly suitable. But not scarlet or a bright blue, and never black, no matter how sophisticatedly chic she thinks she would look in it.

At a multiple debut, the girls wear the same color, almost invariably white, but they choose their own style.

HUSBAND'S RELATIVES

Q: I just recently married and moved to my husband's home town. I do not know any of my husband's relatives but will be meeting some of them very shortly.

Will you please tell me what to call them?

A: You call your husband's relatives exactly what he does.

The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

Mr. and Mrs. William Higgins of Jackson Boulevard, Highland Township, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jo Ann Marie to Jerry Lee Boldt, son of the Darrell Boldts of Cloverdale Avenue, also Highland Township. November vows are slated.

'McKinley Era' Attire Suits Boyle Fine

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"Why don't you break down and buy yourself a new suit, Rover?" said the gal who burns my breakfast toast.

"What's wrong with the one I've got on?"

"Well, it looks like you wore it through a heavy downpour to vote for William McKinley, Er—BOYLE cept I don't believe lapels that wide have been in style since Grover Cleveland's first administration."

"When you married me, you knew I didn't look like Cary Grant," I replied.

BIG DIFFERENCE

"Yes," said my wife sweetly, "but I didn't realize the difference would increase so much—year after year."

That day I walked by a men's store several times but didn't have the courage to go in. I have a born fear of clothing salesmen. With me, buying a new suit is a committee job. So I asked a couple of office pals to go with me.

The salesman took one look at the three of us and promptly went to work on my two friends. Left alone, I walked down a rack of suits gingerly feeling the fabrics.

I overheard two other salesmen discussing me:

'SLEEVE MILKER'

"Now, he's just another sleeve milker. He's already got half the sleeves on the rack out of line."

I went over to a three-way mirror. Who was that seedy-looking character staring back? Could it be me?

Where do clothing stores find such cruel mirrors anyway? It takes all of a middle-aged man's self-flattery to get used to looking at himself in the single-imagined bathroom mirror.

But to see one's self from three angles is unerving to any unprepared fellow. I bent down and saw the gray on back of my head as well as on the sides, the spreading baldness on top. The wrinkles in my suit seemed to match those under my eyes.

COMIC MIRRORS

A few moments before that mirror had aged me 20 years. Why, I look better in those comic mirrors at Coney Island.

"Come on—we've got to get back to the office," said my friends. One had bought two suits, the other a sports jacket and a raincoat. I hadn't even bought a handkerchief to dry my tears.

A month later, my wife coaxed me into making another attempt by agreeing to go along as bodyguard. She isn't afraid of clothing salesmen at all.

The very first suit I tried on felt fine and I said, "We'll take it."

LOOK AROUND

"No, better look at this one to be sure," suggested Frances.

So I tried that one and another and another and another. Then we left that store and went to another and another and another.

At the fifth store while trying on the 35th suit, my strength finally gave out. The suit was $25 more than I could afford, I didn't like the color, and it rather made me look like the late Charles Laughton playing the role of a Princeton freshman. I bought it.

When the suit was delivered at home and I put it on, my wife studied me critically, sighed, and said:

"Well, I guess it will do, but frankly I really thought you looked best in the first suit you tried on at the first store."

"Now you tell me!" I groaned.

"Well," said Frances, "I wasn't sure you were thrilled by it—and I want you to be happy."

Science Fair in Costa Rica

By Sciences Service
SAN JOSE—Costa Rica will have its first National Science Fair in March as a result of plans formulated here by the minister of education, Ismael Antonio Vargas, who has accepted the cooperation of Science Service on behalf of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

A committee under the direction of the supervisor of science of the Costa Rican secondary schools, Prof. Carmen Luthier, is developing the plans for the fair.

It is expected that secondary schools throughout the republic will present projects and exhibits.

The binational centers in various parts of the country will cooperate with the schools in developing projects and give assistance to the students and teachers.

The Costa Rican National Science Fair will be a preliminary to the Atoms in Action Exhibition to be shown in San Jose beginning March 8.

ELABORATE EXHIBIT

The most outstanding exhibits from the science fair will be shown in this elaborate exhibit as a demonstration of Costa Rican youth in science and technology.

Science Service is aiding the Costa Rican Ministry of Education on behalf of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

HOW RACE HORSES GET THOSE FANCY NAMES

I Have Named A Thousand Babies . . . baby horses, that is . . . during my years in thoroughbred racing.

It is a fascinating part of the Sport. Every day when I go over the Detroit Race Course program, I find it a delight to check the names of the horses and to think of the stories or the possible reasons behind the choice of their names.

How do you name a race horse?

Well, it isn't as easy as you might think. The Jockey Club, which is the governing body of racing in the United States, exercises strict supervision over the choice of the names. All names must be submitted to The Jockey Club, and approved by it, before they can be used.

Names are limited to 16 letters and not more than three words. No name used in the previous 15 years can be duplicated. Names of famous horses of the past, trade names or anything hinting of advertising are not permitted. A horse can be named for a living person only if his written consent is filed.

I think over recent years Alfred Gwyn Vanderbilt has exercised greater originality, coupled with a pixish humor, than most owners.

Vanderbilt's brilliant Native Dancer was by Polynesian-Gaiha. He caused many a chuckle, and a few Jockey Club blouses, with Social Outcast, a star who took part in our 1954 Michigan Mile. Social Outcast was by Shut-Out-Pansy.

Sometimes there can be humorous political connotations to thoroughbred names. Lidoor Bieber had a succession of fine foals from the mare, Maaja, and in order, he named them: Russian Valor, Russian Action, Empty Noose, Appense Not and Champion Liar.

I once knew a cantankerous old Kentucky owner who hated to have women hunch players bet on his horses because they liked their names. So he deliberately gave his color-bearers unattractive names like Ugly Mary and Losing Clon.

In years past, when the late Col. E. R. Bradley was the Master of the famed Idle Hour Farm, all his horses had names beginning with the letter "B" . . . Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over, Burgoo King, Broker's Tip, Bimelech.

James Edwards, owner of the Audley Farm, who raced with us last season, has a horse named Bag of Ice. He selected it to commemorate the purchase of a sizeable number of uncut diamonds from a famed movie star.

The next time you come to the Detroit Race Course, and I hope it will be soon, spend a few minutes studying the names of the horses racing that day. You will find it just another of the little things which will add to your Racing Pleasure.

Our new Clubhouse is one of the Showplaces of Sports. We invite you to visit the beautiful "Winner's Circle" dining terrace; the colorful old world tavern, "Ye Olde Times House Pub"; the gay French Quarter Lounge, or just take a leisurely stroll about the Clubhouse and view the 30 exciting thoroughbred paintings in the DRC's Corridor Of The Stars by Fay Moore.

Lincoln Continental for 1966:
unmistakably new,
yet unmistakably Continental

With the newly styled sedan and four-door convertible there is a new Lincoln Continental model for 1966; the Continental coupé, making America's most distinguished motorcar available to more fine-car buyers than ever before. Discover for yourself how close you may be to owning a Lincoln Continental.

One look tells you Continental styling is new, totally new from the dynamic front grille to the graceful contours of the rear design. And yet you know that this new styling is a contemporary expression of the continuing Continental look. All three new models are distinctively Lincoln Continental. Each is built to the highest standards in the world and tested more thoroughly than any other car.

Inside Continental, you will find increased spaciousness; more head room, more shoulder room, more trunk space. New reserves of power are yours to command in the Lincoln Continental. There is a new high-performance 462 cubic inch engine and an all-new transmission. Together, they provide an even smoother flow of power.

In addition to an impressive list of standard equipment, Continental offers innovations in luxury options. For example, there is an all-new Stereo-Sonic Tape System/AM radio. Simply put in a cartridge and four-speaker stereo sound is yours. And there is the new temperature control system that automatically maintains the temperature you select, regardless of changes in the weather outside.

Come take a closer look at Continental for 1966. Accept your Continental dealer's invitation to drive it, experience it, and to discover how easy it can be to own a Lincoln Continental.

Romney to GOP: Unify, Broaden Appeal

NEWARK, N.J. (U-P) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan Wednesday warned New Jersey Republicans — and the GOP in general — that they must unify, broaden their appeal and think positively to be successful.

"We must win," Romney said, and in two separate appearances at the Robert Treat Hotel, he told how and why.

Romney is one of several big Republican guns in New Jersey to campaign for State Sen. Wayne DuMont Jr., the GOP contender against Gov. Richard A. Hughes.

In a speech to 650 party members at a $100-a-plate dinner, Romney said:

"It would be a tragedy, not only for our party but for our nation and the world, if . . . we were to turn down some dead-end road that would only take us deeper into the wilderness."

'DEAD-END ROADS'

He said the "dead-end roads" were:

• Appealing only to Republicans: "Our hope for Republican victory rests squarely on our ability to win the support of independents and Democrats."

• A sole support of the two party system: "Unless we present solid issues and strong candidates, a plea to the people to preserve the two party system is only the wall of a wandering, defeated band of sympathy-seekers."

• Intraparty squabbling: "Individually, crabs can climb out of almost anything, but when you place a lot of crabs in a shallow basket . . . when one tries to get out, the rest pull him back."

DEPEND ON GOP

"The future of the nation and the world depend on the Republican party again becoming the majority," Romney concluded.

Earlier, Romney told a news conference that gubernatorial elections were especially important to a party that had neither a president in power nor a Congressional majority.

Describing Michigan as an example, he said voters should be shown how a Republican governor could put a state back "on a firm economic basis," improving education, highways, state institutions and the general economy.

Romney scored what he called divisiveness in the Republican party, saying:

"Whenever members of the party have to belong to something outside the party to express themselves, this means there's something wrong with the party."

The highest tides in the United States are recorded at Passamaquoddy Bay, Maine. They reach 28 feet.

Wallace Calls Legislature Back to Act on Succession Measure

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace issued a call for a special session of the legislature yesterday, citing "widespread public demand" for a chance to amend the Alabama Constitution so that he may succeed himself.

Wallace goes before the legislature tonight to state his case. The people will see and hear the speech on statewide radio-television hookup.

Earlier this month, when the legislature met for the 11-day reapportionment session, Wallace made a similar speech to the people with little to say about remapping, but several hints which said worlds about his political plans.

If the people liked the job he had done, he said, they should write, telephone, and wire. The calls and telegrams began before the speech was done. The letters—more than 50,000, his office said—are arrayed on a table before his desk.

Despite the mail, Wallace fan clubs in the legislature itself may face membership troubles. Senate opponents of succession were in a strategy session in Montgomery as the call came.

DEATH BY FILIBUSTER

One of his leaders, Sen. Bob Gilchrist of Morgan County, said that he knew of 19 members of the upper house ready to vote against cloture and allow the succession measure to die by filibuster.

At the end of the reapportionment session, 11 to 15 staunch Senate opponents would have been a reasonable estimate, but enemies of the plan may have gained strength and number.

NOT GUILTY — Bert Michael Lana, 17, grins as he gets a kiss from his mother following his acquittal yesterday in Duncan, Okla., on a charge of a 1964 knifing attack on former Duncan High School beauty queen Tama Hallmark, 19, who testified against the youth. The jury deliberated only four hours.

India, Pakistan Dig In

Kashmir Fight Still On

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India and Pakistan dug in today for what promised to be more bloody skirmishing along the ineffective U.N. cease-fire line between their armies.

Spokesmen for both nations continued to adopt uncompromising stands that appeared to leave no prospect of a significant troop withdrawal or long-range peace settlement.

Both armies nervously fenced with each other, sending out patrols, consolidating their positions in several sectors and continuing the shootings.

The United Nations, which arranged the cease-fire on Sept. 28, still did not have enough observers to patrol the front. The chief U.N. officer, Maj. Gen. Bruce McDonald, of Canada, reportedly crossed no man's land in the Lahore sector in an effort to quiet the skirmishing.

FORWARD UNITS

McDonald was reported proposing that both armies initially withdraw 500 yards along the Lahore front, where their forward units now faced each other across the 100-foot-wide Ichhogil Canal.

A U.N. spokesman in New York said Secretary General U Thant had asked several Communist East European governments to contribute 46 the U.N. observer force. Yugoslavia is the only Communist nation which has received such a request in the past.

Both sides were charging cease-fire violations along the front stretching from Himalayan Kashmir southwest almost to the Arabian Sea Coast.

Some of the heaviest fighting was reported in the great Indian

HEAVY CASUALTIES

The Pakistani defenders said they inflicted heavy casualties and captured five Indian officers, including a battalion commander.

India claimed it was winning the desert fighting, causing the Pakistanis "previous losses in men and equipment." A defense ministry spokesman said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured when their units tried to infiltrate the West Indian state.

The Indians reported clashes near the villages of Kaloor, De-dasser and Chotan and said their captured booty included "18 camels complete with saddlery."

Unique Unit 'Weeds Out' Cong Hideouts

SAIGON (AP)—The most decorated, most shot at, Americans in South Viet Nam can't shoot back.

But judging from the stream of Communist propaganda—not to mention the bullets—directed against them, they are making things plenty tough for the Communist-led Viet Cong.

They are a small band of U.S. airmen who call themselves the "Ranch Hands," and who have volunteered to crew the unarmed flying "hit guns" of the Viet Nam war.

The aviators are members of a unique Air Force unit, with a unique role in Viet Nam's jungle war.

GRADUAL RESULTS

With an assortment of nozzles, tanks and tubing, thousands of gallons of ordinary weed killer, and a little seat-of-the-pants flying in the fashion of commercial crop dusters, the 20-odd Ranch Hands are gradually depriving the Viet Cong of their jungle concealment.

Secret experiments in defoliation, or killing jungle foliage, were conducted in South Viet Nam as early as 1961 under the code name Ranch Hand.

Other U.S. Air Force tactical units, whose presence in South Viet Nam were not officially acknowledged for years, operated under similar code names such as Farmgate and Mule train.

Most of the code names were forgotten with declassification, and the long present Air Force units simply reassumed their numerical designations. But since the spray planes had no designation, the name Ranch Hand stuck.

When defoliation was first tried in South Viet Nam, dense underbrush and mangrove thickets offered near-perfect concealment for the Viet Cong guerrillas, who had begun stepping up their ambushes along roads, rivers and canals traveled by government forces.

Viet Cong chances of springing surprise ambushes would be considerably diminished if there was less underbrush to hide in, American military men concluded.

Thus came the decision in 1962 to begin defoliating strips several hundred feet wide along either or both sides of the principal roads and waterways of the sprawling Mekong Delta.

There were times of heartening success and less frequent times of discouraging foul-ups in the months when the lumbering C130 spray planes transformed the dense green underbrush into bare, brown marks of twigs.

While the spray planes deprived the Viet Cong of brush and mangrove concealment, they also deprived numerous villagers of their coconut and rice crops.

Still today, an occasional rubber or jack fruit plantation withers and dies alongside a Communist-infested jungle.

(The Ranch Hands' unofficial theme song is "High Hopes," with particular stress on the line "Oops, there goes another rubber tree plant.")

And, of course, the Viet Cong made hay with propaganda charging that the planes were being used in germ warfare and to spread deadly poisons.

BEST DEFENDERS But ironically, the Ranch Hands' best—but unwitting—defenders are the self-same Communist propagandists who label them the most heartless and cruel killers among the American forces, and have placed a million plaster (roughly $10,000) price on their individual heads.

ADMITS CHILD KILLING

Mrs. John Vukovich of Milwaukee sits in the district attorney's office after being charged with first-degree murder in the death of her 20-month-old daughter, Mrs. Vukovich said she hurled the tot twice from a third-floor apartment, then ran water over her in a bathtub to make sure she was dead.

World News Briefs

Congo Troops Seize Port From Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Government troops report they have captured the port of Baraka, on Lake Tanganyika, from the rebels but that rebel resistance is stiffening.

One unit, led by Lt. Col. Michael Hoare's white mercenaries, killed 90 rebels while taking Baraka from the north and suffered three killed and six wounded, radio messages said Wednesday.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Two soldiers and two guerrillas were killed Wednesday when an army patrol overran a guerrilla encampment near the village of Las Pinas in Lara State.

An estimated 20 guerrillas raided the village of Uguire in Sucre State and escaped with food and clothing.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Bermuda's oldest newspaper missed an edition today, apparently for the first time in its 157 years, after a sudden storm knocked out much of Bermuda's electric power.

The storm had gusts of up to 86 miles an hour. The 7,641-ton American freighter Transcaribbean broke her moorings and went aground in the harbor of Saint George. Fallen trees littered streets and ferry service was suspended.

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Eisaku Sato said today that his government intends to bolster Japan's defense forces because of the world situation.

Sato did not specify how he would increase the defense force.

Japan has a 171,500-man army, 145,000-man navy with 223 ships and 39,563-man air force with 1,160 aircraft.

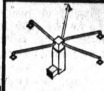

BERLIN (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., the first American to orbit the earth, and Soviet cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, will be in Berlin over the weekend but on opposite sides of the Communist wall dividing the city.

Glenn, on a goodwill tour, is to arrive in West Berlin Sunday. Leonov and his companion in Voskhod 2, the space ship, Pavel Belyayev, are to attend a rally in East Berlin Saturday.

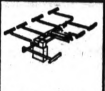

At Munich's Oktoberfest, Glenn's appearance Wednesday night caused such an uproar he had to be escorted to the safety of a police station. When he walked in, the crowd of 7,000 began a chant of "Glenn! Glenn!"

There are about 100,000 orphans in South Viet Nam as a result of the war.

Washington: Land of Legend and Towering Peaks

BORN OF THE SEA—Small fingers of land, miniatures of the mountains to the east, rise out of the Pacific at Rialto Beach and the Graveyard of the Giants on the rugged northwest coast of Washington. The high winds and the moisture-laden air rising out of the sea, here begin their assault which slowly eats away at the coastline and the mountains.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In the state of Washington, the great snow-capped peaks thrust skyward, and the wind sweeps in from the Pacific. This is the green wilderness of the Olympic and Cascade mountain ranges, the land of the forest, of jagged coastlines, of the giant pines and the Indian legends. The fifth and last story in the America, the beautiful series.)

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

IN THE HIGH OLYMPICS. Wash. — West of here, the wind rises from the sea, heavy with moisture, and gathers in slow swirls for its assault on this young land.

For these mountains are kin to the sea, born of the sea, still rising imperceptibly toward the sky.

And, like their sister range to the east, the Cascades, the peaks keep their family ties to the sea.

They rose from the Pacific Ocean only a few million years ago — and they are among the youngest of the world's mountains, beginning perhaps as some primeval dome, to be cut and jaded by the waters from which they rose.

Now they welcome the sea air, embrace the gifts of the sea in ice and snow, in rushing white water, and still green pools, in icy Alpine lakes, and in a slow retreat of the seasons.

GREEN WILDERNESS

These mountains of Washington State are a green wilderness — so vast they harbor in their dark woods the wreckage of at least seven airplanes and the bodies of their passengers, unfound since 1953.

Like some great fortification, these mountains stand at the western edge of the continent, a shield against the intrusion of strangers, a challenge only the wind can meet.

The wind has blown strange people to the land. The Indians, who forgot how they came here, linger still. These mountains are written in ancient Chinese chronicles. Some say that Buddhist monks from China sailed by here 500 years after the death of Christ. Then there was a 16th century Greek sailor with a Spanish name, Juan de Fuca. He charted what he saw, gave his name to the northern straits, marveled at the glacier-capped mountains, and carried their story to Europe.

But this is a land that is never discovered and ever tried.

The Indians who once lived on this land were finally owned by it. Their legends are as great as the mammoth Mt. Ranier they called God. And their mysteries are as deep as Spirit Lake.

The lake's ghostly sounds — wind-made and wind-borne — were the voices of the dead and the devils cast out from other tribes. And the great fish of the lake were the spirits of warriors who now mock their tribes for giving up the land to the white man.

The Indians saw Tacoma, the mountain, in anger — the clouds seething at its head, the volcanic fires and the voice of the avalanche. They worshipped it. And the slopes of the mountain were sacred refuge. Whatever his crime, if an Indian reached the long cape of Ranier, his pursuers would have to turn back.

But the Indians too found signs of love and tenderness in the mountains, where the small flowers hardly wait for the snow to melt before they break the winter spell.

Flowers, said the Indians, are the spirits of children whose footsteps have passed from the earth, but who now reappear to

Soviets Expel TV Newsmen

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviets today closed down the Moscow news office of the American Broadcasting Co. because of an ABC report from Washington which said a Kremlin shake-up was imminent.

The Soviet foreign ministry gave Sam Jaffe, ABC correspondent here, seven days to leave the country. The objectionable report from Washington said a power struggle was going on among the Soviet leadership.

The flowers are everywhere, fields of them waiting on the slopes with purples and whites, small clumps manuring the feet of pine and fir whose other life is perhaps 300 feet up.

UPRIGHT ARROWS

Like sheaves of upright arrows, the trees punctuate the mountains, standing so close together even the snow is dark.

To the white man, the forest is an unending crop, and he reaps it to panel his room, support his roof, make his paper.

On some highways, the huge logging trucks, dwarfed by their load, speed up, three or four minutes apart.

The signs of an earlier, more reckless day, are the man-high stumps of old logging days, rotting to become part of the woods again.

MORE TO GIVE

And in spite of what man takes, the mountains always seem to have more to give. The greenness is nearly unending, and blinding. After a few days, it has all the reality of black and white.

The mountains themselves — the Olympics and Cascades — offer strangely varying histories. The northern Cascades, like the Olympics, are soft mountains — the limestone, sandstone and shale of old seas, compressed and crumpled and folded over on themselves.

But the southern Cascades carry the fire and brimstone past of volcanoes, and the area hasn't cooled down yet, totally.

Mount Lassen blew its top in 1914-15.

Before that, Mount Mazama erupted with such force it opened a hole five miles across and 2,000 feet deep. There are newspaper accounts within the last 100 years of ash falling near Mt. St. Helens and Mt. Baker.

SPECIAL BEAUTY

But each set of mountains has its own special beauty. The Olympics — with the carrier glacier and Mt. Olympus — rise nearly 5,000 feet to wrestle with the wind for its cargo of moisture.

Olympus, like a cold and distant throne, lets its glaciers fall randomly like the flowing white robes of royalty, below, the melting snows feed the Hoh River and the forests as the great valleys and serried mountains sweep away to the northern shore.

The northern Cascades, great sleeping giants, rise higher than within a few hours walk in all directions, there may be 50 hidden lakes.

Still nothing quite matches the symmetry and the conical snow-capped beauty of Mt. St. Helens, in the southern Cascades, and the massive white tyranny of Mt. Ranier.

A RUGGED COAST

The coast is a rugged, tentacle place — would-be mountains that never made good. The waves hammer at the foot of the Olympics as they have for millions of years, reclaiming to the Pacific Ocean the stunted and abraded land.

From Cape Flattery southward are the beaten fragments of land, small unsuccessful islands, jutting shoulders of rock — resting to the last the relentless reach of the waves. Near LaPush, they have called them the Graveyard of the Giants.

The wind, building its strength, moves against the land from the southwest. With savage blasts, as high as 120 miles an hour, it has blown countless ships to death on the uneven shore.

And it drives the waves to batter the very edge of the forest. And when the waves and tide retreat, the white skeletons of the pine trees, shattered and broken, lie bleaching in the sun.

UNEQUAL DEBRIS

All manner of unequal debris finds a lodging place on the shore. There are glass floats from Japanese fishing boats, blown across the ocean from the Kamohaka Peninsula.

Great whales, their strength matched by the tides, have washed ashore. Even the metalwork braces of ships, twisted by wave and rock, rust and are buried at the waves edge.

At the foot of the Olympics, the sea wind has created a wonderland — strange, moss-hung groves. These are the rain forests — tropical interludes of fern and algae, rubbery parasite and rotting wood, a haven for the smallest of creatures in a pure green world.

Even the air seems to hang green, and seems to be alive in its stillness. Only the giant pine and fir seek the full light of the sun. The rest live in shadow and small glint of light.

Water descends here as a redundant source of life. Growth grows upon growth, life upon life.

A fallen pine, its huge timber coated with a stretch blanket of moss, becomes a nursery for the new seedlings, literally hundreds rising from the rotten bark, later to find a place in the soil.

And the moss itself, like a luxuriant pillow, is misleading. Its grip on its wooden bed is tenuous. It offers no place for hand or foot. And it is alive with a thousand tiny creatures, small worms, fleas and spiders.

Somewhere, the nearly constant rain and haze have created a tapestry of greens and golds worthy of a medieval church with small rays of sun filtering through the green windows of the trees.

ROOSEVELT ELK

Only the small, dark birds are real, and only the track of the Roosevelt elk is contemporary history.

Later on — after a pass through the moist, glacier-dug valley and low hills of Puget Sound — the winds are challenged again by the Cascades. And after the Cascades, they tap the Columbia River to irrigate the land.

Finally, at road's end, the traveler looks back at the heights he has visited, and the strange world they enjoy.

And in the minutes of his watching, the clouds seem to grow out of the sky and wreath the heads of the mountains, like the nervous mask of a shy young girl which hides, then reveals, more than it wants to.

Men 'Refuse' Work

Trash Can Open Career

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are sociable, honest, diplomatic and can lift 100 pounds there may be a job waiting for you — as a garbage collector.

Some cities are finding themselves with too much garbage and too few people to collect it. And what to do with it after they've collected it has a few city councils, if you'll pardon the comparison, down in the dumps.

Little Rock, Ark., for instance, is looking for bouncers — the men who haul garbage cans from back yards and bounce their contents into the trucks.

The work force was short 29 a week ago and the city hired 19 men. But six quit Saturday and Little Rock started this week 14 collectors short.

PILING UP

Atlanta is another city where the garbage is piling up.

"The biggest break we've had is using students," said Stafford Graydon, city sanitary engineer. "Last Saturday we had 30 students on the job and it looks like we're going to have up to 150 students before long."

The schoolboys collect $14.30 for working on Saturdays. Garbagemen in Miami struck the same week as Hurricane Betsy. The collectors walked out in protest of $1.40 an hour wages, prohibitions against scavenging for useful items and against the computer.

IRKS GARBAGEMEN

A rule which seemed particularly irk the garbagemen was that if the computer made a mistake in their paychecks they had to wait until the next pay day to get it corrected.

In the meantime, Dade county is trying to raise their pay and eliminate some of the objections.

City Collector Adam W. Wilson of Portland, Maine says he has a constant problem of finding "good collectors with the right requisites."

He said they must be in good physical condition and be able to carry up to 100 pounds. They must also be diplomatic in handling complaining patrons and sociable.

REQUIRES DISPOSALS

Lansing, Mich., requires that new homes be equipped with garbage disposal units and that all kitchen remodeling projects include the units.

Five years ago the city had to handle about 26,000 cans. Now they're down to about 12,000.

The morning after Hurricane Betsy pounded New Orleans, garbagemen were out making their rounds, dodging fallen trees and ducking power lines. Since then they have been working a seven-day week on overtime to clean up the debris.

San Francisco and Seattle are two of the cities running out of places to dump garbage. The San Francisco suburb of Brisbane voted Sept. 21 to end dumping privileges along its waterfront despite an annual payment of $30,000 from a private garbage company.

In Seattle the City Council has been looking for more dump space for five years. Atlanta uses city prisoners to collect trash, but the prisoners have a tendency to keep walking past the trash piles and on to freedom.

Albanian Is Expected to Echo Peking Line in U.N. Address

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Albania, Red China's voice in the United Nations, was expected to blast the United States and the Soviet Union before the General Assembly today and to take a few side-swipes at India.

Diplomats predicted that Albania's foreign minister, Behar Shytilla, would echo the Peking line that the United States is waging aggressive war against the Vietnamese people and that the Soviet Union has become an accomplice of the West.

There was also speculation that Shytilla would denounce India as the aggressor in the Pakistan conflict and accuse New Delhi of poaching on Red Chinese soil.

Shytilla was also expected to dredge up the issue of U.N. assessments that paralyzed the work of the assembly for a year.

PROCEDURAL VOTE

The assembly sat for the entire 19th session under a no-vote truce except for one procedural ballot — taken at the insistence of Albania. The arrangement was worked out to avoid a showdown on a provision in the U.N. Charter that countries two years delinquent in U.N. assessments shall lose their assembly vote.

The stalemate was broken last month when U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg announced the United States would abandon its insistence that the Soviet Union, France and 10 others be deprived of their vote.

Albania had bitterly opposed the efforts of a special committee to work out some compromise on the thorny dues issue.

Shytilla, a bespectacled diplomat, in the past two years has questioned the wisdom of the Moscow treaty partially banning nuclear weapon tests, accused the United States of following a policy of nuclear blackmail and declared that India, not Peking, was the aggressor in the 1962 border war.

Shytilla has been one of the most vocal advocates of a United Nations seat for Red China.

Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi told a news conference in Peking Wednesday his government will not join the United Nations because the world body is "a tool of U.S. aggression."

Nearly three-fourths of the members protested South Africa's segregation policies Wednesday with a walkout of delegates from an estimated 85 countries. They left the assembly hall as South Africa's Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller took the rostrum to give his policy speech: All the African and most of the Asian nations took part in the boycott.

Among the 32 members remaining in the hall were the United States, Britain and France.

Before Muller spoke, Ambassador Achkar Marof of Guinea, chairman of the U.N. special committee on apartheid (race segregation), took the floor and told Assembly President Amin-tore Fanfani of Italy there would be a walkout. He said the assembly should be adjourned for lack of a quorum.

Fanfani ignored his proposal. Defending South Africa's policies, Muller criticized "the tendency to ignore the separate identities of different peoples and to expect heterogeneous communities to share a common national consciousness and loyalty."

TRAGIC 1918 EPIDEMIC — Crowds gathered at churches, such as the Holy Cross Church in San Francisco, to pray for the dead and dying during the flu epidemic of 1918, the worst ever to hit this country. An estimated 548,000 died in the United States.

New Antiflu Pill May Ease Year's Expected Outbreak

WILMINGTON, Del. (NEA)—Pop-a-pill-in-the-mouth protection against the most common types of epidemic influenza is under government study as a replacement for shot-in-the-arm vaccines.

Oral immunization against the A strains of the respiratory disease has been developed by the DuPont laboratories. It awaits only approval of the Food and Drug Administration to stifle the sniffles and avert the aches and pains — and sometimes death — brought on by the widespread, and somewhat mysterious, virus infection.

The easy-to-take preventive couldn't have come at a better time. The American Medical Association, with characteristic restraint, has warned: "There may be an increase in influenza in the United States this winter."

Equally restrained, the Public Health Service forecasts: "Increased amounts of influenza may be expected in the coming season."

The new oral preventive of strains which include variants of Asian flu will be marketed under the trade name of Symmetrel. If DuPont is authorized to market it, the compound will be available by prescription only.

LONG SEARCH

Symmetrel is the result of 12 years in time and almost 100 man-years of effort by professional personnel in the company's research program into the control of virus diseases through chemistry.

It was started at a time when many scientists felt this would be impossible.

DuPont gave Symmetrel extensive laboratory and clinical tests for safety and effectiveness before submitting the compound to the Food and Drug Administration. Just when the government agency will make its decision has not been learned.

The first dependable history of an epidemic of influenza was recorded in 1618. Many epidemics were believed to have sprung from Russia, where a reservoir of the disease was thought to have existed.

HISTORIC OUTBREAK

The 1918 epidemic was one of the worst in history, ranking with the Black Death plague of the 14th century.

A great part of the northern hemisphere was blanketed in the fall of 1918. Isolated areas of the world were not affected until later. It is estimated that more than 20 million people perished in a few months and 50 times as many became ill from the disease.

In the United States, 548,000 died and India lost 4 per cent of its population, or 12.5 million.

At that time, no one knew the cause of the ailment, which was called Spanish influenza.

PRIMARY AGENTS

In 1933, viruses were identified as the primary agents of Influenza A and Influenza B.

In 1957 there was a worldwide epidemic of Asian flu, one of the A strain types. It apparently began in China early in the year, being detected in April among refugees in Hong Kong.

It was carried to Singapore and Taiwan from whence it spread everywhere.

Ex-Illini President Dies

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Lloyd Morey, 79, former president of the University of Illinois, died Wednesday of a heart attack while addressing a meeting. Morey was university controller from 1916 until 1963 when he became president, serving until 1965. He was born in Laddonia, Mo.

3,000 Cuban Refugees in U. S. Colleges Aided

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Education says about 3,000 Cuban refugees will attend 282 U.S. colleges and universities during the fall semester with the aid of federal loans.

The office said participating

Easy-Dial for Thai

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand will have an easy-dial nationwide telephone system within two years because of a $4-million loan from West Germany, a Thai official says.

Relief Payments Cut to Rhode Islanders

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Relief payments to Rhode Islanders receiving Social Security benefits will be reduced starting next month to compensate for higher Social Security benefits, says James H. Reilly, state administrator. Retroactive lump sum increases paid to Social Security recipients will not be deducted from relief payments, Reilly said.

Document Doesn't Bar Birth Curbs

By GERALD MILLER
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Conservatives in the Vatican Ecumenical Council complain that the birth control document before the assembly is vague and leaves the way open for use of contraceptives.

Possibly it does — and possibly on purpose.

As general and vague as the document might seem to be, a striking fact is that it does not specifically bar the use of contraceptives and suggests marriage involves other basic values than the perpetuation of the human race.

The document, originally described as a broad one without specific direction, has turned out to be different. This is made apparent in an official summary of the still secret text. The summary was made public Wednesday as the council began debate of the issue.

STRESSES VALUE

The summary says that the document "stresses the value of those acts which realize the intimate and normal union of the spouses and, at the same time, are a symbol of their reciprocal giving of one another."

"The institution of marriage and conjugal love are ordained to the procreation and the education of children," the document says, but it doesn't limit marriage to that end.

This is what many of the conservatives object to. They complain because the document doesn't come out with a flat condemnation of any purpose in marriage but procreation.

Many progressives want the document to go even further in the opposite direction with an explicit stand on the needs of the individuals in marriage for physical union as a manifestation of their love.

NOT INSTRUMENT

Paul Emile Cardinal Leger of Canada, for example, is happy that the schema states that marriage is not "a simple instrument for procreation."

But he told the council Wednesday he regrets that the wording of the document should allow any ambiguity on this score.

In an earlier time, there would have been no ambiguity. There would have been — as indeed there have been — specific bars to any change in the traditional church teaching on birth control.

Some parts of the document seem far from ambiguous. The official summary says, for example, that couples can "determine the number of their children. They will take into account considerations of health, education and economic conditions, the welfare of the family, the needs of society and the Church."

Brasilia Set for Historic 'Beer Bust'

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Sometime next month a group of workmen will lay down their tools and take part in an historic beer party.

The occasion will be a traditional "Fiesta de Cumeatra" when the workmen celebrate the erection of the walls of the building on which they are working. They crack open the beer and lay a tree branch across the walls to signify that the roof is being put on.

Usually the construction company buys the beer, but this time it will be the government because the building will be the new home of the Brazilian foreign ministry. The present home is 900 miles away in Rio de Janeiro.

Although the seat of government was officially moved from Rio de Janeiro to Brasilia in 1960, the foreign ministry — and most others remained behind. So, too, did the foreign ambassadors, and most other prominent persons connected with the government.

This has meant a government which has depended on the suitcase as much as the briefcase. This dashing back and forth between the new and old capitals is best illustrated by President Humberto Castello Branco, who divides his time almost equally between the two cities.

RELUCTANT TO MOVE

Officials have been reluctant to move to this city, carved out of the wilderness in an attempt to develop the interior. The main reasons have been lack of facilities and a sense of isolation.

Now, with the foreign ministry scheduled to move here in January 1967, the diplomats will have to follow suit. That's expected to start a further exodus of officials, making Brasilia the capital in fact as well as name.

All the foreign governments accredited in Brazil have been given choice lake-front lots on which to build their embassies. The majority stand vacant, although some nations like the United States and France have erected provisional buildings.

U.S. Ambassador Lincoln Gordon, who has a staff of 20 Americans and 20 Brazilians working in Brasilia, says the United States plans to build a permanent embassy here next year.

BANDIED ABOUT

The idea of moving the capital from Rio de Janeiro to the interior had been bandied about for 60 years until work was actually started in 1957 under the presidency of Juscelino Kubitschek. The $4-billion cost of the project started a wave of inflation, but on April 21, 1960, three years after work started, the capital was officially transferred.

Two branches of government since the inauguration — congress and the supreme court. If the move of the foreign ministry is followed by those of the finance ministry and the central bank, the lifeblood of the government will have been transferred to the new capital.

Still a city in the midst of construction, Brasilia has a population of less than 100,000, almost all government employees and their families.

The government is the biggest landlord, owning all but a handful of the buildings and apartment houses. The apartments, built in self-contained units with their own schools and supermarkets, rent for half the price of similar accommodation in Rio and Sao Paulo.

SELF-CONTAINED

The units are so self-contained, in fact, that people have little occasion to go out. This is especially evident in the evenings when the city appears deserted.

Cincinnati Council

Passes Bomb Measure

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The possession of homemade fire bombs called Molotov cocktails in Cincinnati is now an offense carrying a maximum penalty of six months in jail, or a $500 fine, or both.

The City Council adopted an ordinance Wednesday. It was proposed after the Los Angeles riot.

The oldest permanent settlement in South America is Santa Maria, Colombia, which was founded in 1525.

RUSK, GROMYKO VISIT—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko (right) visits with Secretary of State Dean Rusk at Rusk's hotel suite in New York last night. Rusk was host to Gromyko in a new U. S. effort to ease where agreements might be possible with the Russians.

Officials to Meet Again

No Thaw Seen in U.S.-Soviet Relations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko talked about disarmament and the India-Pakistan conflict Wednesday night without producing any noticeable thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations.

The two did agree to meet again Friday night, at the headquarters of the Soviet U.N. Mission.

This was in line with advance predictions. In their initial meeting, a three-hour dinner at Rusk's hotel suite, the two engaged in what U.S. sources described as a general "feeling out" of their diplomatic positions.

"Relaxed," "friendly" and "businesslike" were terms applied to the first such U.S.-Soviet discussions since Rusk and Gromyko attended the last U.N. General Assembly session in December 1964.

CHILLING NOTE

A chilling note arrived from Moscow just as the talks began. Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev declared that "the armed aggression of American imperialism" in Viet Nam imposed "a clearly evident tendency toward freezing" of Soviet-American relations.

U.S. officials downgraded this as Kremlin propaganda for Communist consumption. But it fit a pattern of Soviet gruffness on a number of fronts ranging from anti-American propaganda to harassment of U.S.-Soviet cultural exchanges.

The current interpretation by U.S. officials is that Moscow, caught up in its rivalry with Peking for leadership of the Communist camp, is being pressed into tougher sounding positions than it would prefer. The Red Chinese are accusing the Kremlin of collaborating with Washington.

Gromyko declined to comment to newsmen Wednesday night about Brezhnev's speech. Nor would he say there had been "progress" in U.S.-Soviet relations from his talk with Rusk.

NO ANSWER

"I would prefer not to answer such questions," he said.

U.S. officials and Gromyko agreed that most of the discussion had dealt with disarmament and with the India-Pakistan dispute as it stands before the U.N. Security Council. Both nations have supported the Security Council demands for a cease-fire on the subcontinent.

In the disarmament field, both sides have put forward a variety of proposals, including rival plans to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

The nuclear containment question was discussed in a general way, as was the U.S. proposal that both sides dismantle some nuclear warheads.

Several other items also came up during the dinner talk. But whether these included Viet Nam was not announced.

With Rusk were U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, East-West affairs specialist Llewellyn E. Thompson and Foy D. Kohler, ambassador to Moscow.

With Gromyko were U.N. Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko, ambassador to Washington Anatoly F. Dobrynin and K. V. Novikov, a member of the Soviet delegation to the U.N. who was formerly ambassador to India.

State Bar Parley Starts

DETROIT (AP) — The State Bar of Michigan opened its 30th annual convention Wednesday. Dr. Andrew S. Watson, associate professor of psychiatry and law at the University of Michigan, will be banquet speaker today.

Immigration Changes Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The immigration bill agreed on by a Senate-House conference committee marks a basic change in policy. Here are the chief differences between present law and the new legislation.

QUOTAS

Existing law places no numerical restriction on immigration from Western Hemisphere nations. For other nations, there is an annual quota of 158,561, apportioned on the basis of the national origins of the U.S. population in 1920, except that each nation has a minimum quota of 100. Britain's quota, 65,361, is the largest. Next is Germany with 25,814, and third is Ireland with 17,756.

The bill establishes an annual quota of 120,000 for Western Hemisphere nations and of 170,000 for other nations. There are no country-by-country quotas.

Not counted in the quotas are the wives, husbands, minor children and parents of U.S. citizens. At present, parents have quota status.

PREFERENCES

Existing law provides that, within each country's quota, first preference be given aliens with skills needed in the United States — 50 per cent of quota; second preference to parents and unmarried sons and daughters of U.S. citizens — 30 per cent; third preference to spouses and unmarried sons and daughters of aliens who have been admitted for permanent residence — 20 per cent.

If any quota numbers are left unused from these preference categories, half of the remainder are set aside for brothers, sisters, and married sons and daughters of U.S. citizens.

The bill establishes a different order of preferences, designed to emphasize reunion of families. Preferences for the 170,000 annual quota outside the Western Hemisphere are as follows: 1. unmarried sons and daughters of U.S. citizens, 20 per cent, or 34,000; 2. husbands, wives and unmarried sons and daughters of permanent resident aliens, 20 per cent, or 34,000; 3. members of professions, scientists, and artists, 10 per cent, or 17,000; 4. married sons and daughters of U.S. citizens, 10 per cent, or 17,000; 5. brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens, 24 per cent, or 40,800; 6.

skilled or unskilled persons capable of filling labor shortages in this country, 10 per cent, or 17,000; and 7. refugees, 6 per cent, or 10,200.

Polish Boys' Choir Schedules U. S. Tour

WARSAW, Poland (U) — The "Poznan Nightingales", a 65-member boys choir, plans to sail from Poland Oct. 5 for the United States, the Polish press agency reports.

The planned 25-concert tour takes the choir through Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Washington, New York and Milwaukee.

Warns of State Water Lack

SAGINAW (U) — A serious water shortage in Michigan can be averted only if proper water management continues, the Michigan Section of the American Water Works Association was told yesterday.

Some 500 administrators of water systems and city and county officials heard C. C. Crumley of the Engineering Division of the State Department of Health call for continued effective use of the state's water supply system.

Crumley noted the current water shortage on the eastern seaboard as an example of improper planning and lack of adequate facilities.

Saginaw Mayor James W. Stenglein called attention to his city's $13.7 million expansion of the Saginaw-Midland pipeline to Lake Huron.

under these preference categories will be available for the admission of "new-seed" immigrants. The preferences do not apply to immigrants from Western Hemisphere nations, who will be admitted on a first-come, first-served basis up to the 120,000 ceiling.

The limitation on Western Hemisphere immigration does not take effect until July 1, 1968.

ASIANS

Existing law requires that an immigrant of Asian stock be charged to the quota of his country of ancestry rather than to his place of birth. For example, if a person whose father was Chinese was born in Chile, he would be charged to China's quota instead of entering this country as a Western Hemisphere immigrant.

The bill repeals this provision, wiping out the last vestige of discrimination against Asian peoples.

Existing law provides that aliens applying for immigration to find employment shall be excluded only if the secretary of labor has determined sufficient workers for the types of jobs they seek are already available and their admission would have an adverse effect on employment or wages and working conditions. Under this procedure, the secretary certifies that aliens in specified occupational categories should be excluded.

The bill reversed this and requires such would-be immigrants to obtain certification from the secretary, on an individual basis, that Americans are not available to fill the jobs involved and that their entry would not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of U.S. citizens similarly employed.

This does not apply, however, to immediate-family members and other close relatives of U.S. citizens.

Talks Will Resume in Detroit Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said Wednesday that negotiations will resume in Detroit Oct. 5 in the 5-month-old strike against Wyandotte Chemical Corp. of Wyandotte, Mich.

The strike is by the AFL-CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union. Negotiations in the dispute were recessed here last week. Approximately 1,500 employees are on strike against the firm, a major producer of chemicals and cleaning compounds. The company has been operating despite the strike.

Lake Pageant Begins

CHARLEVOIX (AP) — Approximately 140 pleasure boats are expected on Lake Charlevoix starting today to take part in a three-day color tour program sponsored by the Grand Rapids Power Squadron. It is the first time for the event to be held here.

Days of Wine and 'Toes-es'

Grape-Stamping Is Seedy

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Along with the many advantages that automation provides, there are also a few disadvantages. One of these is the creation of "lost arts."

As our society becomes more and more mechanized, a number of skills and crafts are rapidly disappearing. Among them is the ancient and honorable art of grape-stamping.

A pitiful tale of the decline of grape-stamping was related to me by a young man with the distinguished name of Nuno M. L. de Sampaio Soares, whom I met at a wine-tasting party at the Portuguese Embassy.

"In my country, sir, the art of grape-stamping was handed down from father to son, generation by generation," Soares said. "Grape-stampers took great pride in their work."

"When sampling some of our noblest wines, a true connoisseur could identify not only the vintage and the vineyard but also the instep of the artisan who trampled the grapes."

"I myself have beautiful feet, which I owe to my childhood visits to the vineyards, where I was occasionally allowed to run barefoot over ripe grapes. Those were happy days."

SQUASH, SQUASH, SQUASH

"There was always an accordion playing and the grape-stampers kept time to the music. It had the charm and grace of a dance. Something like the frug."

Soares panned, almost overcome by nostalgia.

"But all of that has changed now," he continued in a husky voice. "All of the commercial vineyards have machines to squash the grapes. I realize that automation is an economic necessity but I regret it nonetheless."

"The wines tasted better when the grapes were squashed by human feet."

FEET QUESTION

I asked Soares, who is head of commercial services at the Portuguese government office in New York, what advantage feet had over mechanized grape squashers.

"It is a matter of delicacy, of finesse," he explained. "The art of grape-stamping lies in the ability to squash the grapes without crushing the seeds. Machines, being less sensitive than feet, sometimes crush the seeds."

Soares turned his face to the wall. The thought of a crushed grape seed was almost too much for him.

"Before many years," he lamented, "there won't be any grape-stampers left. The world will have lost something fine and good and beautiful."

NOW A FEW WORDS

Despite his emotion, however, he was able to work in a commercial.

He assured me that Portuguese machine-squashed wine comes the closest of all to reproducing the old-time foot-stamped flavor.

Urge Romney Not to Send Fugitive Back to Georgia

DETROIT (U) — A legal adviser to Gov. George Romney yesterday recommended that a 23-year-old suburban factory foreman wanted in Georgia as a prison camp escapee not be extradited.

Majorie McGowen, the adviser, will meet with Romney tomorrow to make the recommendation to him in the case of Jack Howard, exposed last month as Jackie Lee Ford who escaped from the Georgia prison more than two years ago.

Howard has lived an exemplary life in Michigan since his escape. He has married and his wife is expecting their first child next month.

In her recommendation, Miss McGowen cited letters and petitions signed by 2,800 persons asking Romney not to return Howard to Georgia.

Miss McGowen said she could not recall an instance when Romney did not follow her recommendation.

VITAL PART

A vital part of the testimony in Howard's favor came from University of Michigan psychiatrist Dr. Andrew Watson. He said it would be "a psychological as well as social tragedy to extradite him."

"I believe that, in fact, Mr. Ford has been rehabilitated," Watson added.

Howard of Warren, Mich., escaped from the Warm Springs, Ga., prison camp after serving 2½ years of a 10-year sentence for burglary.

Howard testified at the hearing that he walked away from the prison because he was convinced he would be killed by inmates who believed he had informed on a prisoner who had killed another inmate.

NO QUARREL

Steve Danielson, representing the State of Georgia, said he had "no quarrel" with Miss McGowen's recommendations. However, he said Howard could not leave Michigan because he would be arrested and extradited to Georgia.

Detroit Pfc. Sentenced

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP) — Pfc. John Mayberry, 22, of Detroit was sentenced by a U.S. military court Wednesday to 15 years in prison for the unpremeditated murder of a German woman.

Mayberry had pleaded guilty to the strangling of Helga Hoffmann, 28, in her trailer Aug. 1.

Teens Thrilled

Blind 'See' Space Exhibit

BALTIMORE, Md. (U) — Like a concert pianist, Willie Mincey's sensitive fingers caressed the model of the Gemini capsule.

"Oh, now I see them," he shouted as he touched the tiny model astronauts seated in the cockpit.

"Hey, that's great," the 15-year-old eighth grader said, a broad grin spreading over his face. "I'm surprised they can show that small detail."

Gary LeGates, 14, found the ejection seat tracks and then moved his fingers upward.

"Here's the antenna unit," he said guiding Willie's fingers toward it. GRISSOM'S VOICE

In the background came the sound of astronaut Virgil Grissom's taped conversation with earth as he was rocketed skyward under a force of 10 G's.

"Man, he sounds out of it," said Willie.

The two youths were among the first blind children of thousands from across the nation who will see the space exhibit designed for them by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The show consists of five booths and some 40 models constructed so they can be "seen" through the fingers of blind youths like Gary and Willie.

TAPEN COMMENTARY

A taped commentary explains each exhibit. "We get lost sometimes," said Gary, "but the tape recording gets us on the right model without trouble."

"It's great," said Willie. After the exhibit leaves Baltimore Sunday, it will tour schools for the blind across the nation.

Junior Editors Quiz on U.S. FLAG

QUESTION: What is the proper way to fold the United States flag?

ANSWER: Our flag is sacred; it is up to us to always treat it with reverence and respect. There are certain ways to handle it and it is most important that we know. Our picture shows steps in the proper way to fold a United States flag. It must be handled neatly and carefully, never carelessly or roughly.

After folding, put the flag away in some safe place where dirt and dust won't reach it.

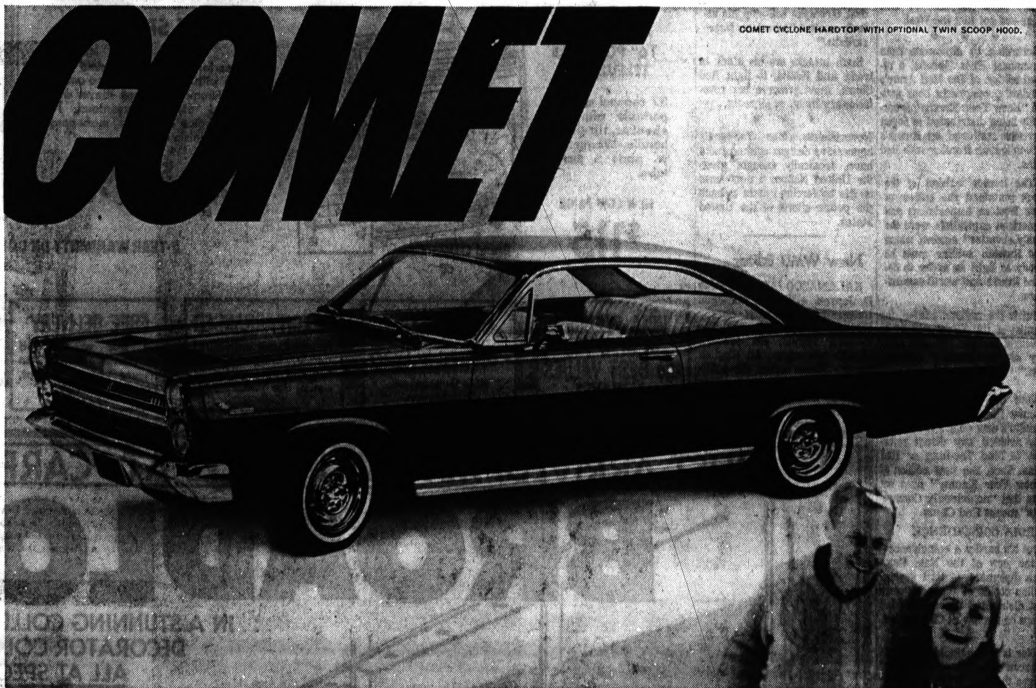

If you are hoisting the flag in the morning, pull it up briskly to the top of the staff. It should be taken down before sunset, and this time you are supposed to lower it slowly.

If you have to display it at half-mast in a time of national mourning, first hoist it to the top and then drop it to half-staff. When taking it down, hoist it to the peak before dropping it.

When the United States flag passes you, you should face it and come to attention. If in uniform, members of the Armed Services and Girl and Boy Scouts salute as the flag passes.

Others place their right hand over their heart, palm inward. Men hold hat in hand as they do this.

FOR YOU TO DO: Older members of a family usually like to have the young people care for the flag, put it up and take it down. Make yourself an expert on everything pertaining to the display and care of Old Glory.

Introducing the lively new driving machines: the big, new-generation Comets.

Listen to the roar of the '66 Comets. They're bigger, wider, up to 8 inches longer than any Comet before. They make driving other cars seem like walking. Comet's new fire and spirited luxury come in 11 roomier models: racy Cyclones, sporty Calientes, stylish Capris, rakish 202's. For a sample of Comet's style, take the Caliente. Notice the smart upholstery... the handsome, simulated wood-grain panels. For spine-tingling action try Comet's new Cyclone GT. Its new 390 4-barrel V-8 delivers the kind of go that can shove you right back in your bucket seat. Whatever you want — action cars with pure excitement, 3-speed or 4-speed manual transmissions or automatics, inviting interiors — Comet's got it. Plus a long, tempting list of options that includes built-in air conditioning... power windows, power brakes, and power everything. All this in a parade of Comets that promises the exciting performance you expect from the holder of more world's records than any other U.S. make.

TO CONTINUE KNOCKING U. S. — Despite the Soviet feeling toward Red China, there is little likelihood that Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko (right), shown shaking hands with U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations Arthur Goldberg, will stop attacking "American imperialism." The man in the middle is Anatoly Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to the U. N.

Soviet Soldiers Now Told China Is Among Enemies

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA) — Russian soldiers are now warned by the Kremlin that their "main enemy" is Red China and not just the West.

According to diplomats from Communist East Europe, a revised edition of the Red Army's standard propaganda book entitled "Know Your Enemy" is currently being distributed to Soviet garrisons stationed on Russia's 4,000-mile-long frontier with Red China.

The former edition of the book contained the statement that Western imperialists and American capitalists were the "only enemies" against whom the Russian soldier must be ready to fight in order to defend Russia and world communism.

But in the revised edition, the enemies of the "Fatherland" are to be fought include the new category of "nonfriendly Communists."

Since the demise of former Premier Nikita Khrushchev the Kremlin's new rulers have carefully avoided any direct reference to Mao Tse-tung or Red China. Thus, the new edition of "Know Your Enemy" does not state that "nonfriendly Communists" means Red China.

HARDLY COINCIDENCE
But it's hardly a coincidence—in the view of the East European diplomats — that several million copies of the book were first distributed among Russian troops on the Soviet-Chinese border.

Nor is it a coincidence that Moscow's latest propaganda urges the Red Army to stand ready to fight for the "Fatherland" and not for the victory of world communism.

A similar appeal was made by Stalin after Hitler attacked Russia in 1941. Aware that the ordinary Russian would fight for "Holy Mother Russia" but not for the Marxist-Leninist creed, Stalin declared that the conflict with Nazi Germany was, in effect, a "great patriotic war."

He even invoked the aid of the persecuted Eastern Orthodox Church.

HISTORY REPEATED
History is clearly repeating itself in Russia. There is little doubt that it is fear of Red China that forced Moscow to join the United States in seeking a peaceful solution to the conflict between India and Pakistan over Kashmir.

Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev said as much when he expressed the Soviet government's "anxiety" over the fact that it took place in "a region immediately adjacent to the frontiers of the Soviet Union."

Brezhnev also hinted that Red China is determined, sooner or later, to attack India.

The East European diplomats believe that any action at all by Russia would be in support of India. This could bring Red Russia into a direct armed conflict with Red China.

ISOLATE CHINA
Under the circumstances, there is little Moscow can do except to try to isolate China from the rest of the Communist world and back the United States and the United Nations in

About 40 per cent of the U.S. population is employed in some capacity directly related to agriculture, such as processing of food or manufacturing of farm machinery.

There are an estimated 10,000 polar bears still surviving, but there is the possibility that they may become extinct.

Birth control by means of an hypodermic injection has emerged from limited clinical testing and is now undergoing about 5,000 women.

Canada Hit for Collecting Bridge Tolls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., Wednesday accused Canada of a "morally wrong" repudiation of the agreement for toll-free operation of the Blue Water International Bridge linking Port Huron, Mich., and Sarnia, Ont. McNamara offered an amendment to the Canadian auto trade bill which would put Congress on record as urging Canada to resume toll-free operation of the bridge.

The Michigan senator said the bridge, spanning the St. Clair River, was dedicated in 1938 under an agreement between Michigan and Ontario that toll charges would end after the recovery of certain expenses.

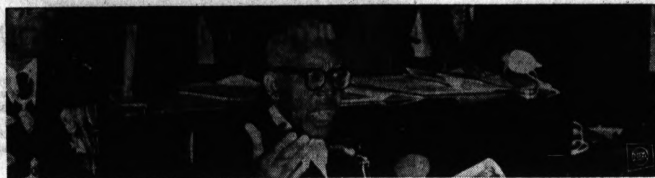

He said the tolls were stopped in 1964, but, after two years, Canada not only restored them, but insisted on collecting from cars going either way across the bridge.

He said this may have been Canada's right, but "it certainly was morally wrong."

For Michigan drivers, he said, it meant they have to pay twice a toll to Canada, and Michigan taxes.

Missile Readiness

PARIS (UPI)—France's long-range ballistic missile force, reported to be secreted in the valleys of the Alps and the massive central mountains, will be ready for action within three years, Defense Minister Pierre Messmer said yesterday.

Francois Duvalier Rules Haiti With Iron Fist And Calls Himself President For Life

Is Duvalier a Caribbean Hitler?

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — (NEA) — There is a smile on their lips but none in their eyes when Haitians talk — very discreetly — about their country's "Three D's," Dieu, Dessalines and Duvalier.

Dieu is, of course, God in French; Jean-Jacques Dessalines was Haiti's George Washington and Dr. Francois Duvalier is the Black Republic's "president a vie" — for life.

The newspapers, controlled by Duvalier, aren't as humble when they refer to "Papa Doc," the name he prefers.

To them he is the "Supreme and Effective Chief of the armed forces, the police forces and the civil militia of the fiery Haitian nation, the apostle of peace, the repairer of our past errors, first flag carrier of the Haitian nation."

There is every reason to believe that Duvalier has, indeed, a lifetime hold on the presidency and the country.

Since 1957, when he took office in the wake of strikes and terrorism, Papa Doc has become known as one of the most ruthless dictators in the hemisphere.

Haitians are unwilling to discuss politics. They just cry "Vive Duvalier" at the appropriate times.

But non-Haitians who have lived in the country for several years agree that Duvalier is virtually unshakable.

This, in itself, is unusual when you consider the stormy revolutionary history of this poor country with the lowest standard of living ($70 is the average annual per capita income) in the hemisphere.

8 YEARS

Presidents, kings and emperors (Haiti has had several of each since it gained independence from France in 1804) have seldom been able to stay in power for too long. Duvalier has been on top for eight years.

The reason, observers say, is clear. Duvalier, unlike his predecessors who were of Haiti's "Creole elite," is one of the people.

A physician by profession — he studied at the University of Michigan — he is also a scholar of Voodoo and Haitian folklore and has written several books on these subjects.

"He knows the Haitians better than the Haitians know themselves," a foreign businessman told me when he was sure we were not being overheard.

"He knows what they are thinking before they think it. And because of this, he is always one jump ahead of everybody else."

"The first error in judgment Papa Doc makes will be his last — and he knows it. This man is as shrewd — and as evil — as Hitler was."

Duvalier makes sure the illiteracy rate is kept hovering near 90 per cent. He is obviously unconcerned that many of the 1.5 million people who exist in shabby, smelly Port-au-Prince, the capital, are always hungry.

To make sure his people are kept in line, Papa Doc's private army of extortioners, murderers and grafters, the Tonton Macoute (Creole for bogeyman), prowls the pot-holed roads with pistol and machete.

MASS REVOLUTION

Officials in the various embassies in Port-au-Prince aren't predicting anything as dramatic as mass revolution. But neither are they saying a revolution can't happen.

Papa Doc is obviously worried about the revolutionary goings-on in the Dominican Republic.

Meanwhile, the slums in Port-au-Prince grow larger and missionaries in the bush report that peasants are dying of hunger, something which did not occur several years ago.

Haitian government officials assert that "at least 90 per cent of the country's more than four million people want and need President Duvalier."

Halt Pollution at Its Source, Says Official

DETROIT (AP) — A $184-million, 10-point program for preventing pollution on the Detroit River was proposed Wednesday by the general manager of the Detroit Department of Water Supply.

Speaking at a meeting of the Michigan Water Resources Commission Gerald J. Remus said today's pollution control efforts are focused on dealing with wastes and not with their prevention.

"We propose preserving Lake St. Clair, the Detroit River and Lake Erie, and their tributary streams — the Clinton, Rouge, Huron and Raisin rivers — with the emphasis on preventing pollution, rather than reacting to it," Remus said.

Remus' recommendations included the administration, operation and financing of lake and river preservation on a regional basis. It further calls for a regional waste collection system to prevent untreated wastes from reaching lakes and rivers.

The program as outlined by Remus calls for improved sewage treatment standards, prevention of industrial waste pollution, control of lake and river dredging and a cooperative agreement with Canada.

Remus said existing revenues can finance the program and no change in the present sewage disposal rate is considered. He said part of the program, improved sewage treatment, is under way in Detroit.

Traveler's Attitude Ideal

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures

Travelers have a special frame of mind geared to picture taking—a state of mind which was much in evidence on an escorted bus tour from which my wife and I recently returned.

It's an excitement, an adventure, an awareness of architecture, bridges, churches, museums, monuments, parks and people. And our group scrambled around energetically to shoot pictures of them.

It's a state of mind which we should take back home with us so that we can see the picture opportunities which exist in our own local environments.

NY Combed to Prepare for Pope

By GEORGE NEWMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — New York police have launched "Operation Fine Comb," a program designed to head off any possibility that harm may come to Pope Paul VI during his mission of peace to the United Nations next Monday.

Detectives and FBI agents are digging through the files of known religious psychopaths and troublemakers. Particular attention was given to checking several letters a police spokesman said have expressed violent intentions "in a manner that arouses concern."

Police did not disclose the contents of the letters.

Other detectives called Wednesday on owners of shops selling religious vestments to report any suspicious purchases.

In another security precaution, the Port of New York Authority, which operates Kennedy Airport, announced that the public would not be permitted to see the Pope's arrival and departure at the airport. Even airport employees were included in the ban.

The authority also announced that all flight activity at Kennedy will be suspended Monday between 9:45 and 10:00 a.m. The Pope's plane is to land at 9:30 and welcoming ceremonies are scheduled to start at 9:45.

The authority said it wanted to assure that the ceremonies would not be disturbed by the noise of planes landing and taking off. At that time of day, planes normally arrive and depart at the rate of about one a minute.

The Pope will arrive on a regular flight of the Italian airline Alitalia, holding a first-class ticket costing $880.50. Most of these aboard will be in the papal party. The pontiff will return to Rome on a regular Trans World Airlines flight.

A rehearsal of the papal arrival was held Wednesday at Kennedy. A plane was taxiing into position at the spot where the Pope's jet will arrive. Lines were drawn on the field to indicate where groups of officials will stand during the welcome.

Although the public won't have access to the scene, the Pope's arrival will be televised. The entire visit will be covered by a pool of the three major networks and the city's three independent television stations.

Of course, very few camera fans have a Leaning Tower of Pisa as a home town landmark, to take an extreme example. But if they had, would they tire of photographing it or would their pictures be repetitious?

With a "travel frame of mind," there would be no lagging of photographic interest.

NEW CYCLE

Every change of lighting from a glorious sunrise to a colorful sunset would make a different picture and every season would call for a new cycle of shooting.

To go from the mental to the practical, a very important item for a trip is a pocket notebook.

Do not depend on your memory, on scraps of paper scribbled with data or on a collection of travel brochures to recall all the details of where, when and whom you photographed.

Do make a complete diary of events as they transpire with dates, names and full information about everything pictured. It's a reference book you'll turn to again and again after the trip.

PLAYED GAME

It reminds me of the game we played in the latter part of our Gateway Holidays tour. "What hotel did we stay at three nights ago?" one of our group would ask, or "In what museum was the Bernini statue we photographed two days ago?"

These simple questions were not easy to answer. We visited so many places of interest in the big cities that the museums, monuments and statues started to swap locations . . . in our heads.

REFER TO NOTEBOOK

But reference to the notebook will identify people and places correctly, with chronological simplicity.

Be sure to keep the negatives in each roll of film together as a group and make an over-all contact print of the set. This is your master set.

Each negative has a number and shows the order in which the pictures were taken.

If your film is processed commercially, put each roll in a separate envelope and the first set of prints becomes your master set for identification. Identify your master set of prints from your reference notes.

COMPLETE STORY

For a complete picture story of your trip, shoot when you come across anything of interest. But don't be satisfied with the first, obvious camera angle.

After shooting, you can look for better examples of a native costume, a windmill, local architecture, etc., or you can select other viewpoints.

You can improve the mood of your pictures by using side or backlight instead of direct lighting, and make use of framing devices like archways and tree branches overhead. And come in for closeups of significant details.

Don't put the camera away when it rains. You can shoot from your hotel window, a doorway, the tour bus or from under an umbrella.

CONVERSATION PIECES

37 Million Americans Make Burgeoning Do-It-Yourself Music Field Big Business

NEW YORK (AP) — With music, good music all around — the world's finest symphonies in stereo at the touch of a record player or radio button and the orchestral music piped into elevators, factories, hotel rooms — who is going to knock out his own discordant chords on a piano or guitar?

Only more than 37 million Americans: Almost twice as many as 15 years ago.

Do-it-yourself music may not sound like Isaac Stern or Artur Schnabel, but it's booming in homes, chamber music ensembles, neighborhood bands, amateur symphonies and rock 'n' roll combos across the country in a resounding — if not perfectly sounding — swell.

Some statistics show that last year more money was spent on musical instruments and sheet music than on all spectator sports, cameras, comic books and playing cards put together. From prekindergarten sonny pipin on his "C" melody flute to symphonies of executives and doctors to granddaddy belting out "Home, Sweet Home" on his electronic organ, homemade music fills the air.

Why this boom in do-it-yourself music?

"People have found out that almost anyone can play," says Marion C. Egbert, educational consultant for American Music Conference. New teaching methods, new mechanical and electronic teaching machines and instrumental of Shakespeare's time, has inspired many a harmony quartet. And the great rock 'n' roll epidemic has tripled guitar sales in the past decade.

BY EAR

"Play it by ear," is the advice of Egbert, who tours the country conducting clinics and music workshops for teachers, to fill the vaulting demand for music classes that begin with kindergarten rhythm bands and continue through college symphonies.

DETROIT (UPI) — A new federal law goes into effect at midnight tonight which will cut off the booming duty-free import of liquor from Canada to the United States.

The new law provides that residents who have been abroad 48 hours or more can bring back only one quart of duty and tax-free liquor.

Heretofore, traveling Americans have been allowed to bring back a gallon of liquor without paying duty and taxes.

Also, heretofore, citizens have been able to have the liquor shipped from abroad if they filed a customs declaration.

After tonight, mail orders are banned. And that ends a thriving business that had been growing for the Duty Free Imports Agency, in Detroit.

"OUT OF BUSINESS"

John Mayer, vice president of the agency, said, "That law very clearly puts us out of business."

It is estimated that the law will put as much as $1 million a year into state liquor tax coffers which previously was lost because of the liquor imports.

638th Lord Mayor Takes Seat in London

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Jonathan Lionel Percy Denny, a bespectacled and mild-mannered dealer in preserved fruits, yesterday donned ceremonial robes as the 638th lord mayor of London.

Denny, 66, was elected by the city corporation to succeed Sir James Miller.

Only a third of the country's burgeoning number of music amateurs are school-age. Some are studying toward careers, others are playing for fun in some 63,000 school instrumental music organizations or 200 summer music camps.

The rest are adults, some expert enough to play in America's 1,400 amateur symphonies, 470 community bands, 1,700 industry-supported music groups.

Chamber music buffs have become so numerous that the Amateur Chamber Music Players publishes a world-wide directory so vacationers or traveling salesmen can find music wherever they go.

"Get-together" groups are all over the country. "The Many Splendored Stompers," all Madison Avenue ad executives, began with after-work jam sessions, now perform for dances. The "Fox 40's" do the same in Knoxville; a group of New York publishing executives has organized "The Oldest Established Floating Dixieland Jazz Band East of the Mississippi."

In Kansas City, 70 doctors and their wives formed the "Medical Arts Symphony," which Leopold Shopmaker, conductor of the Kansas City Symphony, coaches in his spare time. The Chicago Businessmen's Orchestra gives three concerts a year. The Business and Professional Women's Club of Laconia, N.H., has its own symphony; the Boston Women's Symphony, made up of business women and housewives, made a recent debut.

Gather Grapes for Great Dishes

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Can't you remember when you were little and came home from school to find mother making grape jelly? Maybe you got some of that new jelly on bread or maybe she made biscuits for dinner that night.

This is grape season. Out in California they're harvesting the crop for both grape juice and wine. In New York state and on some islands in Lake Erie, they are harvesting grapes to make champagne.

Here in Oakland County the Concord grapes are being picked for table use and for preserve making.

Because of their high pectin content, grapes make jelly easily, even without the addition of more pectin. You just have to be sure that you have some under-ripe fruit in the batch you use.

However, many homemakers do not want to bother with the longer cooking method and prefer the shortcut with pectin.

Both the spreads described below are simple to make and present no problems to beginning cooks. Just follow directions exactly and you'll be so proud of your results that you'll want to give a party to show them off.

Grape Conserve

4 cups prepared fruit (3 lb. fully ripe Concord grapes)
¼ cup lemon juice (2 lemons)
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1 cup seeded raisins
1 cup finely chopped pecans
7 cups (3 lb.) sugar
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Slip skins from about 3 pounds grapes. Bring pulp to a boil and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Sieve. Chop or grind skins and add to pulp. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Add lemon juice, rind, raisins, and nuts.

Then make the conserve. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit in saucepan. Pour over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and at once stir in fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes to cook slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with ¼-inch hot paraffin. Makes about 12 medium glasses.

Spiced Grape Relish
4½ cups prepared fruit (about 3½ lb. fully ripe Concord grapes)
¼ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
7 cups (3 lb.) sugar
1 box (1½ oz.) powdered fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Slip skins from about 3½ pounds grapes. Bring pulp to a boil and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Sieve to remove seeds. Chop or grind skins and add to pulp. Measure 4½ cups into a very large saucepan. Add vinegar and spices.

Then make the relish. Measure sugar and set aside. Mix fruit pulp into fruit mixture in saucepan. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to hard boil. Immediately add all sugar and stir. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes to cook slightly and prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with ¼-inch hot paraffin. Makes about 12 medium glasses.

Not all grapes go into beverage making or jams and jellies. Tokay grapes, besides being excellent for just plain eating, are good for dressing up other foods.

In this recipe they make halibut taste more exciting.

Halibut Tokay

2 pounds halibut steaks, fresh or frozen
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup rose wine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup light cream
1 cup seeded Tokay grapes
If halibut is frozen, let stand at room temperature about 30 minutes to defrost. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with 1 tablespoon of the butter. Pour lemon juice and wine over fish.

Cover dish with aluminum foil and bake in a 350 degree (moderate) oven 15 to 20 minutes or until fish flakes readily when tested with a fork. (If fish is still frozen, lengthen cooking time.)

Meanwhile, melt the remaining 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan; stir in flour. When fish is cooked, remove baking dish from oven and reset oven to broil.

Carefully pour or spoon juices from baking dish into measuring cup; then gradually pour the juices into the butter-flour mixture in saucepan, stirring constantly. Stir in light cream;

Bake Peaches Under Cake for New Dessert

Almost every variety of fresh Michigan peaches can be served fresh, baked, frozen, whole, sliced or diced. And, no matter how you use them, they add a wonderful sweet tanginess to top off any meal.

Want a warm dessert for these cool fall days. Try this Quickie Peach Crisp made with some of the ripe Michigan Peaches now in your market.

Quickie Fresh Peach Crisp
2½-3 cups sliced fresh Michigan peaches
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 small package cake mix (white or yellow)
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
Preheat oven to 350. Grease an 8" x 12" baking dish (or broil in baking dish). Place peaches in pan evenly.

Sprinkle sugar mixed with cinnamon evenly over peaches, then spread cake mix evenly on top of mixture. Pour melted butter over top.

Bake for 45-50 minutes. Serve warm with plain or whipped cream or ice cream.

cook, stirring, until slightly thickened.

Add grapes and cook just long enough to heat grapes. Pour sauce with grapes over fish.

Place dish in broiler to lightly brown surface and reheat fish. Serve garnished with parsley and a bunch of Tokay grapes. Makes 4 servings.

Tokays, mixed into tapioca pudding change this plebian dessert into something special.

Tokay Tapioca

1½ cups halved, seeded Tokay grapes
1 egg
¼ cup tapioca

HALIBUT WITH GRAPES

Orange Juice Is Tasty Topper

Although generally served as a morning eye-opener, frozen concentrated orange juice has such versatility it will enhance the flavor and tastiness of any meal, advises the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Now is an excellent time to use your favorite frozen orange juice recipes, as supplies of the juice are extremely plentiful. Or try the following recipes recommended by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service: Orange-Honey Balls. Prepare by brushing tops of eight soft dinner rolls with ¼ cup orange juice concentrate mixed with 2 tablespoons honey. Sprinkle with raisins.

Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 15 minutes, brushing frequently with orange mixture.

Another treat is Orange Ham Glaze. Begin by combining 6 ounces can (¾ cup) orange juice concentrate with ¼ cup each, prepared mustard and brown sugar.

Brush over 10-12 pound ham during last 30 minutes of baking time. (Use half of recipe for half ham.)

For a dessert with a tangy difference, blend 2 tablespoons orange juice concentrate with 1 cup of sifted confectioner's sugar and you have Orange Glaze for Cakes. Recipe will frost one 10-inch tea ring, or one angel cake, or a 9-inch square ginger bread.

Simmer a Chicken for Future Meals

Chicken has fewer calories than any of the other leading meats, according to the National Broiler Council. A three-ounce portion of chicken breast, for instance, has only 185 calories; without the skin, 115 calories.

The canny dieter purchases the economical two or three birds to the bag, cooks them together, and stores the surplus cooked chicken in the freezer for convenience.

The meat may be sliced and served simply, cut into serving pieces for casseroles, or diced to go in salads, sandwiches, or a wide variety of wonderful dishes made with cooked chicken.

Some prefer to simmer the birds, others to roast them. The simmered chicken yields a bonus of especially juicy meat and broth; the roast chicken has especially fine flavor. Whichever you choose, the cooking is simple.

Keep in mind that you can refrigerate the chicken while it is still hot, immediately after cooking. It is not a good idea to let the bird cool at room temperature in hot weather.

To freeze the cooked chicken, remove the meat from the bones and store it in a freezer container or vapor-proof freezer wrapping material. When you make simmered chicken, you may also freeze the broth; it comes in handy for soups and sauces. Store the broth separately in a covered container.

Basic Simmered Chicken
1 broiler-fryer chicken, whole or cut in serving pieces
2 cups water
1 small onion, sliced
2 celery tops
2 bay leaves
1 teaspoon Ac'cent
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Put chicken in kettle, add water and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil; cover tightly. Reduce heat and simmer 40 minutes. Remove from heat; strain broth.

Refrigerate chicken and broth at once. When chicken is cool, remove meat from bones; dice. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings. A 3-pound broiler-fryer chicken yields about 2½ cups diced cooked chicken and approximately 2 to 2½ cups broth.

Substitute of Hand

To make melon balls without a special tool, U. S. Department of Agriculture home economists recommend using the top of a pointed teaspoon or the 1-teaspoon measure from a measuring spoon set. For added interest, use all the measuring spoon sizes.

GRAPE CONSERVE

Attractive Dish

Cranberries Flavor Beef

Fresh cranberries are beginning to pop up in the market. Lots more on the way. But why wait to try them in this very pleasant combination of beef, onions, wine, cranberries and sour cream?

Cranberry Beef and Wine
2 pounds beef round, cut in 1½ x 2-inch strips
Salt, pepper and flour

Put Lettuce Into Burgers for Tastiness

There's something new in the world of hamburgers. "Western Iceburgers" is its name, and delicious is the word to describe it. Shredded western iceberg lettuce is heated through in a zingy seasoned mixture of ground beef and crushed pineapple for this refreshing new burger delight.

When coring and rinsing western iceberg heads, strip off any leaves that may seem coarse; outer leaves may be put to very tasty use in a wilted lettuce salad.

Western Iceburgers

1 head western iceberg lettuce
1 lb. ground beef
Butter or margarine
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 teaspoons Worcestershire
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon seasoned pepper
1 can (8½ or 8 oz.) crushed pineapple, undrained
Tabasco (optional)
6 hamburger buns
Core, rinse and drain lettuce; chill in plastic bag or saran. Brown beef in 1 tablespoon butter in skillet. Add vinegar, Worcestershire, salt, pepper, pineapple and Tabasco; heat.

Meanwhile, shred enough lettuce to measure 2 cups; chill remainder for use another time. Split buns, spread with butter and toast lightly under broiler if you wish.

Mix shredded lettuce into meat mixture; heat through, then spoon over buns. Serve hot with pickles and chips as desired. Makes 6 servings.

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons oil
2 cups sliced onions
1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups fresh cranberries
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup red wine
1 can (10½ ounces) beef bouillon
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup sour cream

Salt and pepper to taste
Sprinkle beef with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Heat butter and oil in a large skillet and brown meat on all sides. Remove meat and add onions; saute until tender.

Add meat, garlic, cranberries, brown sugar, wine, beef bouillon and Worcestershire sauce to onion in skillet. Cover and cook over low heat for 1½ hours, or until meat is tender. Stir occasionally during cooking.

Stir in sour cream and season to taste with salt and pepper. Heat to serving temperature. Serve with rice or noodles. Makes about 6 servings.

Mint Gives Peas a Fine New Flavor

When fresh mint is available, you'll find that it adds delightful freshness to a can of peas.

Green Peas With Fresh Mint

1 can (1 pound and 1 ounce) young small early green peas
24 fresh mint leaves, medium size
2 tablespoons butter
Turn the peas with their liquid into a saucepan. Wash the mint leaves and, with a kitchen scissors, cut them into thin strips right into the saucepan. Heat slowly; allow to cook gently just until peas and liquid have a decided mint flavor. Drain.

Add butter to peas and mint and stir gently to melt it. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Poaching eggs? Don't let the water boil after you add the eggs.

Here's a Cake for Date Devotees

One glimpse of frosted "Mocha Date Cake" will eliminate anyone's doubts that dinner is due for a glamorous climax. This imposing dessert with its delectable cocoa-coffee flavor and handsome fresh California dates is definitely one for your recipe files.

Versatile dates contribute mightily to the flavor rewards of numerous desserts, and the fruit is equally enjoyable as a part of Waldorf salads, fruit cups and sauces for curried main dishes.

Mocha Date Cake

1½ cups dates
3 tablespoons rum (optional)
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ cups granulated sugar
½ cup cocoa
¾ teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ cup soft shortening
1 can (6-oz.) or ½ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup cold coffee or 1 teaspoon instant coffee powder and ¼ cup cold water
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
About 3 cups sifted powdered sugar

Cut 1 cup dates into small pieces; sprinkle with 2 tablespoons rum.

Try Fig Juice Dip for French Toast

Every brunch should feature one dish which is unique. If that dish is also easy-to-prepare, you are ahead of the game.

Such a recipe is Fans' Favorite Fig Toast. In this new version of traditional French toast, convenient bottled fig juice is used instead of milk. It's sure to gain fans, and rate cheers at any time of the year.

Fans' Favorite Fig Toast
1 cup bottled fig juice
2 eggs, slightly beaten
8 slices white bread
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Confectioners' sugar

Mix bottled fig juice and eggs in shallow bowl. Dip bread in fig juice mixture and fry in butter or margarine until lightly browned on both sides. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and serve hot. 8 servings.

1 teaspoon salt and spices. Add ½ cup shortening, evaporated milk and ½ cup coffee. Beat 2 minutes at low speed of mixer or 300 strokes by hand. Add eggs and 1 teaspoon vanilla; beat 2 minutes or 300 strokes.

Turn batter into 2 greased and floured 8-inch round cake pans. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

Cool 10 minutes; remove from pans and finish cooling on wire racks.

Mix remaining rum, cocoa, salt, shortening and vanilla until smooth. Blend in powdered sugar and remaining coffee until frosting is of spreading consistency.

Place 1 cake layer on plate; spread top with about ½ cup frosting. Cover with cut dates. Top with other cake layer; spread remaining frosting on top and sides of cake. Garnish with remaining whole dates. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Crushed Pineapple Cheesecake Glaze

Sprinkle 1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin over ¼ cup syrup drained from a 1-pound 4½-ounce can crushed pineapple. Place over low heat, stirring until gelatin dissolves. Cool until slightly thickened.

Spoon well drained pineapple over the top of your favorite cheesecake, then cover with gelatin glaze. Chill thoroughly.

Ever heat drained canned bean sprouts along with sliced water chestnuts in a little peanut oil to serve as a vegetable.

Macaroni Snacks Are New

Have you ever made a macaroni snack? These Mac-Snax serve well too as party appetizers or lunchbox surprises.

To make Mac-Snax, cook 8 ounces (or more or less, as you like) of enriched durum elbow macaroni or medium shell macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender, yet firm.

While the macaroni is cooking, heat fat in your deep fryer or frying pan to 375 degrees.

When the macaroni is tender, drain, rinse and drain well again. Then deep-fat fry about ¼ of cooked macaroni at a time until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper.

When all the macaroni has been fried, pop it into a large paper bag.

Add ¼ teaspoon seasoned salt, ¼ teaspoon onion salt and ¼ teaspoon chili powder.

If you're a garlic fan, you might add a dash of garlic powder also.

Twist the top of the bag to close, then shake well to coat each macaroni bit. Sprinkle in more of the seasonings if you would prefer zipper Mac-Snax.

SWEET RED PEPPER RELISH — This preserve has a really different flavor.

Red Pepper Relish Is Unusual Jam

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Good Editor

Pepper relish, made from sweet red peppers, recently came to our attention when a friend sent us a jar of it.

When we asked for the recipe, our donor told us that she herself had been given the rule some 30 years ago by a home demonstration agent in Connecticut who originally came from the far west.

Sweet red pepper relish may indeed be a western contribution. To date we have not found recipes for it in comprehensive cook books published in the first quarter of this century.

It did not appear in a New England book on preserving that was published in 1915; only when the cook book came out in a revised edition in 1943 was the recipe included.

The southern compilations of preserving recipes that we have looked into do not include recipes for it.

This relish is sometimes called Red Pepper Jam. Be that as it may, we think it should be served as a relish with a main course.

Sweet Red Pepper Relish has a really different flavor that tasters either fall for or disdain. Its character is such that no one can be indifferent to it!

Red Pepper Relish

14 to 16 medium-size sweet red peppers (4½ to 4½ pounds)
2 tablespoons salt
5 cups sugar
3 cups cider vinegar
½ teaspoon onion powder
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon citric acid (comes in granule form from drug store)

Wash and drain peppers; remove seeds and ribs. Chop fine as many of the peppers as necessary to make 7 cups; turn into a non-metallic container and mix with salt. Cover and let stand for several hours.

Turn pepper mixture into a 5-quart kettle; mix in the sugar, vinegar, onion powder, ground ginger and citric acid. Boil, stirring often, until thick — about 1 hour.

Fill a sterilized hot wide-mouth fruit jar with boiling-hot relish, leaving ¼-inch head space. Put prepared dome lid and band on jar; screw band tight. Immediately fill the remaining jars, one at a time, in the same way.

Makes about 2½ pints.

Notes: Sterilize the wide-mouth jars and prepare the dome lids and screw bands according to manufacturer's directions.

Poach Peaches in Rose Wine

Just as most fruits go well together, so wine — naturally fermented grape juice — combines compatibly with all fruits except those that are most astringent.

All of the various types of wine go well with fruit. Some, like the dessert wines, Port, Sherry and Muscatel, are usually poured over the fresh fruit as a marinade and dessert sauce.

The dryer wines, such as the Sauterne and Burgundy produced in California, are more often used in cooking the fresh fruit. Poaching peaches in Rose, the fruity pink dinner wine, is one example.

Wine-Butter Glazed Peaches
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 small peaches, peeled ½ cup brown sugar
½ cup California Rose wine
½ cup heavy cream
Melt butter in large skillet. Add lemon juice and peaches. Turn fruit to coat with butter. Sprinkle with brown sugar and wine. Poach over low heat, turning often, about 15 minutes until heated and lightly glazed.

Push peaches to one side and stir in cream. Bring to a boil. Lower heat and simmer rapidly several minutes. Serve peaches warm with some of the pan sauce. Garnish with whipped cream and fresh mint sprig, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Fortify Milk Shake

An extra-rich chocolate milk shake is easy to make at home with two kinds of milk, chocolate syrup and chocolate ice cream.

For 6 servings, combine 1½ cups of instant nonfat dry milk with 6 cups of cold whole milk, 1 cup of chocolate syrup, 1 teaspoon of vanilla and 1 pint of chocolate ice cream. Beat or blend until smooth.

FRUIT WITH WINE — A small whole peach — ripe and full-flavored — makes a pleasant dessert when it is poached in wine and glazed with sugar and butter. The whole process takes only a few minutes. Serve it warm with whipped cream, sour cream, or cheese whipped until fluffy with a spoonful or two of wine. As a nice contrast, chill a dessert wine slightly and serve it as the accompanying beverage.

Dieters Better Stick to Eating Sour Balls

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Confectioners Assn. reports that a sour ball provides about 14 calories; a filled raspberry, 14 calories; fruit slices, 20 calories; a miniature chocolate, 27 calories; a chocolate-covered peppermint patty, 30 calories; a caramel, 38 calories; a chocolate candy bar (1½ oz.), 214 calories; layer cake with fudge icing (3-inch sector), 314 calories; a wedge of apple pie (4-inch sector), 331 calories.

A sweet-and-sour sauce made with butter, lemon juice and sugar gives zest to cooked carrots and green beans.

It's a Smooth Drink

Orange veltreen is a smooth, protein-rich beverage for breakfast or snack time. For 6 servings, combine 2 cups of instant nonfat milk with 1 quart of cold milk, 3 cups of orange juice and ½ cup of sugar. Beat or blend until smooth.

Imported Foods

In 1964, about 12 per cent of all the food we ate (on a value basis using 1957-59 prices) was imported from other countries. Major food imports included coffee, beef, veal, sugar and syrups, bananas, cocoa products and fishery products.

Hot Sandwich Broiler Brown

New products are producing new recipes. And most of them make short-cuts possible without short-changing flavor. Take the new chicken spread made by the makers of famous deviled ham.

This is finely shredded meat of chicken breasts, legs, and thigh. (No left-over parts are used.) It is lightly seasoned, not spiced like the deviled ham.

Use the chicken spread in any recipe calling for finely chopped cooked chicken. What a blessed short cut to chicken-sandwich making!

When the committee meets at your house, or when the game is over and something-good-with-coffee is called for, bring on this hot-out-of-the-oven Chick-a-doodle. You'll deserve the praise you hear.

Chick-a-Doodle

Using packaged corn muffin mix, bake a round loaf of cornbread.

Top with:
2 cans (4½ oz. size) chicken spread
6 slices cooked bacon, crumbled
4 tablespoons mayonnaise
Mix well together.

Cover the chicken spread with thinly sliced tomatoes. Cover tomatoes with shredded cheese or 2 jars of cheddar cheese spread. Place under broiler, 6 inches from heat, until cheese is melted and lightly browned. Serves 6 to 8, generously.

Leave Rim Free

When you are using a nut crust for a pie, it is usually best to spread the mixture only over the bottom and sides — but not the rim — of the pie plate. This type of crust calls for sugar, nuts (finely chopped, rotary-grated or ground) and a suspicion of flour or crumbs.

More to an Omelet Than Eggs

When it comes to the omelet, the Spanish omelet is vivid in flavor and hearty enough to serve as an entire meal.

This omelet borrows from the Spanish, but because it adds more nourishing ingredients to satisfy American-size appetites, it's called the Meal-And-A-Half Omelet.

It includes all the good things a Spanish omelet should have — eggs, butter, cheese, onions, and tomatoes — then adds a few native American touches such as shredded raw potatoes browned in butter and slices of smoked sausage links.

To give it even brighter flavor and color, there are sliced stuffed olives.

This isn't the kind of omelet that fails or meets with other disasters. The recipe is easy to follow and sure to delight your family.

Cook it 5 to 10 minutes on top of the stove, then slide on to a platter or, better still, serve it right in the skillet.

Meal-And-A-Half Omelet
½ cup butter or margarine
2 cups shredded raw potato
¼ cup sliced green onion
1 teaspoon salt
½ package (12 ounce) smoked sausage links (4 to 5 links), sliced
8 eggs
½ cup milk
½ cup sliced stuffed olives
½ cup shredded American cheese

Melt butter or margarine in 10-inch frypan. Add potato and salt. Cook slowly, stirring until potato is soft and lightly browned, 5 to 8 minutes. Stir in sausage.

Combine eggs, milk, and remaining salt; beat slightly. Pour over vegetable mixture. Cook slowly over low heat until egg mixture is set, 5 to 10 minutes. Sprinkle olives over mixture when partially set, about 5 minutes.

Lift edges of omelet with spatula during cooking to allow uncooked egg mixture to flow underneath omelet and cook. Sprinkle with cheese. Cut in wedges to serve. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Grenadine Colors Molded Dessert

This smooth creamy dessert will be a beautiful pink color. The color comes from the addition of grenadine which is a syrup made in France from pomegranates.

Danish Cream

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup pineapple syrup
2 eggs
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup grenadine syrup
¼ cup crushed pineapple, drained (canned pineapple)

Sprinkle gelatin over pineapple syrup to soften, then set container in a pan of hot water to dissolve. Beat eggs thoroughly. Stir in grenadine syrup, gelatin and pineapple.

Beat cream until it holds a shape. Fold into grenadine mixture gently. Pour into a 1½ quart mold or bowl. Refrigerate until firm.

Bombe Sounds Hard to Make—Really Isn't

To prepare an ice cream bombe for a party, take a melon mold with softened ice cream and place in freezer to become firm. Fill the center of the mold with sherbet and freeze until serving time.

Vanilla ice cream and orange or lemon sherbet are compatible flavors; serve this bombe with green cream de menthe.

French minister of finance; Henry Fowler, U.S. secretary of the treasury; Andre de Laistre, French finance inspector; and William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve System.

Actor to Enter Politics in Maine

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Gary Merrill said today he'll run next year for the State House of Representatives, and eventually for governor, in Maine.

"I'm not a dedicated actor; I've always been interested in politics and other things," said Merrill between takes on a Bob Hope television show.

"I've moved back to Portland. I've had New York and I don't like it here. "Maine is my state. When I was married to Bette Davis, we lived there and I went to college there (Bowdoin).

"BEST STATE" "I think it's the best state in the union. I just want to devote my political life to make it better."

Merrill, 48, will run as a Democrat in the traditionally Republican state.

"I helped campaign for Gov. Ed Muskie, the first Democratic governor in 20 years," he said. "In fact, it was Ed who talked me into going into politics."

"I know a lot of people in the state. There are 12 representatives from the Portland area, and I hope to be one of them next year."

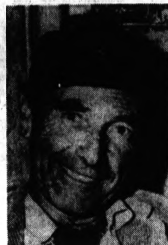

"As for running for governor, there's no use being a bank teller without having your eye on being president of the bank."

It is significant that Merrill's announcement came from Hollywood, where it's getting hard to tell the actors from the politicians. Since George "Murphy" was elected to the U.S. Senate, Ronald Reagan, also a Republican, has all but announced his candidacy for governor of California.

And Steve Allen is seriously considering running for fellow Democrat James Roosevelt's vacated seat in Congress from Los Angeles. Then there's Wendell Corey, a city councilman in nearby Santa Monica.

"I'm a fervent advocate of the good life," said Merrill. "Maine has it in abundance."

He has never run for office before, but has helped in many Democratic campaigns, both here and in Maine.

GARY MERRILL

Whips Up Controversy

Sen. Morton: Kick Birchers Out of GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton's announced aim of kicking the John Birchers out of the GOP whipped up the expected storm of controversy today among Republicans of every persuasion.

The Kentucky senator, in an interview with UPI yesterday, charged that the Birch Society was "as dangerous as the Ku Klux Klan and the Communist party."

He said it was infiltrating the GOP and urged Republicans to kick it "right square in the tail."

The GOP's 1964 presidential candidate Barry M. Goldwater and Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., both conservatives, said they saw no threat from the Birchers.

But Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., who is generally ranked as a conservative, applauded Morton's statement. He said it was past time for the GOP to take action to expel the Birchers.

KEY POSITIONS Goldwater said, "I don't know of any Birch member who occupies a responsible position such as state chairman or national committeeman or committeewoman."

He said that at least half of the Birchers were Democrats. He said that at least half of the Birchers were Democrats. Furthermore, he said, "I know members of the John Birch Society, but they haven't done anything dangerous to the party as far as I am concerned."

Tower, at a news conference in Houston, said he did not see any "grave threat" from the Birchers. He said, "their active participation in both parties is relatively small."

As for GOP infiltration, Tower said, "It is conceivable, but I don't know if there has been any deliberate infiltration of note."

GEARED TO PROVERB

As for the Birch Society, its response to Morton's challenge seemed geared to the Biblical proverb: "A soft answer turneth away wrath."

Former Rep. John Russell, R-Calif., the society's public relations director, and Morton was "misled... (by) pressures being purposefully stirred in Washington."

"All Sen. Morton has to do is to pick up the telephone and talk to J. Edgar Hoover to learn the John Birch Society is in no way similar to the Ku Klux Klan or the Communist party." Russell said the Birchers sought "less government, more responsibility and a better world."

Morton, who said he expected a lot of "heat" from his statement, told UPI he would probably make a formal statement of his views in the next few days. But he said he did not plan to offer a follow-up resolution at the Dec. 13 meeting of the Republican Coordinating Committee.

He said the proper place for such action would be at the January meeting of the Republican National Committee.

Negro Try to Board Bus Halted

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Negroes tried again today to board a bus carrying white pupils to school but they were turned away by state police. There was no trouble. For the third day, about 30 Negro pupils showed up at the place where white children get on their buses for the ride to schools at nearby Warrenton and Greensboro.

About 35 white spectators, mostly men, gathered at the scene. There were about 20 state police. Capt. Theron Alldridge halted the Negroes and told them they could not get on the buses. The group turned and walked away. A light rain fell. Troopers took up positions later at the Warrenton school where Negroes expected to integrate classes Wednesday.

TOP LIEUTENANT

Hosea Williams, one of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s top lieutenants, has promised an all-out movement to integrate Tallapoosa County schools.

Williams told a mass rally of about 200 cheering Negroes at the Friendship Baptist Church Wednesday night that Gov. Carl E. Sanders would have to fill every jail in Georgia to stop the movement.

Williams said Sanders can expect "a long hot winter in Georgia."

"We are about to involve ourselves in an all-out, nonviolent confrontation with the state of Georgia and its segregationists," said Williams.

'MUST MARCH'

He said he is certain that Negroes are going to have to march the 120 miles from Crawfordville to Atlanta. "Don't say you can't march 120 miles; you can," he told those at the rally.

"It will be the greatest thing since Sherman marched through Georgia," he said.

Williams, who in recent weeks has accused Sanders of "selling out" Negro support, said, "we put Sanders in office; we will take him out."

Referring to rumors that Sanders plans to run against U.S. Sen. Richard B. Russell next year, Williams drew thunderous cheers from the Negroes when he said: "Carl Sanders wants to run for senator. We may not become senator of Georgia, but I'll be damned if we're not going to decide who is going to be senator. And Carl Sanders is dead politically."

Negroes in Tallapoosa County are boycotting the schools after all white pupils transferred to schools in adjoining Green and Warren counties to avoid desegregation.

Conference Set by B'nai B'rith

Local Lodge to Host Fall Seminar Sunday

The Michigan B'nai B'rith men and women councils will hold their annual fall seminar in Pontiac Sunday. It will be the first time in 14 years that the joint conference has been hosted by Pontiac B'nai B'rith Lodge No. 850.

Between 150-175 persons are expected to attend.

All events will be held at the Holiday Inn, 1801 S. Telegraph. Registration will begin at 9 a.m., with separate workshops for men and women starting at 10:30 a.m.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Charles D. Solovitch, a Detroit attorney and a past president of International B'nai B'rith Women, will be guest speaker at 1 p.m. luncheon.

A panel discussion on "the church-state problem" at 2:15 p.m. will be moderated by Richard Lobenthal, director, Michigan League Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. Panelist will be Roland O'Hare, state chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union; Herbert Rubinstein, fourth vice president of the Michigan council; and Alvin L. Kushner, ADL chairman of the Harvey Leavenberg Lodge in Mount Clemens.

Earl Wechter, third vice president of District Grand Lodge No. 6, Chicago, will be the featured speaker at a 5:30 p.m. dinner honoring Pontiac attorney David Utley.

FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

A plaque will be presented to Utley for his contributions to Pontiac in the name of B'nai B'rith.

A reception for all of town guests will be held Saturday at 9 p.m. at the home of Jerome Weiss, 181 S. Josephine.

Tugboat Caught in Gas Blast Fire

DELCAMBE, La. (AP) — A submerged six-inch gas pipeline exploded and sent flames 300 feet high while a tugboat was passing over it in the intercoastal waterway near this south-west Louisiana town last night. "The blast rocked the boat and fire was all over," said 22-year-old Les Garsha of Sildell, La., skipper of the tug Anne G, which was pushing a barge loaded with fish oil.

"It took us more than a minute to get out of the fire," he recounted. "All I could do was just keep my hands on the wheel." Garsha and two deckhands escaped injury. The paint on the tug was scorched.

Eighth Body Recovered in Airliner Mishap

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — The eighth body recovered from Lake Michigan since the crash of a United Air Lines 727 jet plan Aug. 16 was identified today as Gerhard A. Schmid, 35, of Long Island, N.Y. A UAL spokesman said Schmid's body was recovered Wednesday in 240 feet of water 19 miles off Lake Forest, a suburb of North Chicago.

3 Lapeer Teens Are Hospitalized in 2-Car Crash

LAPEER — A 15-year-old boy is in very serious condition and two others in fair condition in Lapeer County General Hospital today as the result of a two-car head-on collision last night on Lapeer Road, south of Turritt Road. Anthony Schlaud, 15, of 3756 Newark, was in the driver's seat while Kenneth Schlaud Jr., 19, of the same address and Edward Schlaud, 16, of 3495 Newark are in fair condition.

The driver of the second car, Gary L. Locklin, 18, of North Branch, was treated and released.

Police said Kenneth was apparently attempting to pass three cars. They said Locklin apparently came over the hill from the other direction before Schlaud returned to his lane.

'Sex Anonymous' Started

SHEFFIELD, England (UPI) — A Society patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous has been formed for Sheffield University coeds who want help resisting sexual temptation. The anti-free love society was formed by June Heaton, a junior who said she was "shocked at the standard of morality in the university."

When a girl finds herself in difficulty resisting sexual advances, she can telephone a special number and reach another member of the society who will give her "moral support."

"Anyone who feels, like me, that sex is something slightly sacred and not to be practiced out of marriage can join," Miss Heaton said.

"It is difficult for a girl wanting to stay pure."

Blaze Levels Area Building

Contents, Valued at $2,000, Destroyed

Fire of undetermined origin swept through a five-room storage building in Waterford Township yesterday, leveling the building and destroying contents valued at $2,000.

Firemen called to the residence of Herbert Brewer, 7322 Pontiac Lake, found the building at the rear of the property engulfed in flames.

The blaze was brought under control in about 30 minutes.

Brewer said he saw smoke coming from the building, ran with a neighbor to get a garden hose but returned to find the fire out of control.

He said he was able to remove a garden tractor from inside before the fire drove him back.

15 TV SETS

Lost were tools, accessories to the tractor, about 15 television sets and antiques.

Brewer set value of the building at about $500.

Fire officials said cause of the fire was not known. It was the second fire in Waterford Township yesterday.

An earlier blaze destroyed a garage at 6331 Elizabeth Lake.

Into Ravine, Killing Girl

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A Buncombe County school bus plunged into a 50-foot ravine today, killing a ninth grade girl and injuring or shaking up more than a score of children. The dead girl was Marsha Ann Franklin, 13, who was to have been initiated today into the high school's Future Homemakers Association. Her head was pinned beneath the bus which turned on its side.

Fire Chief's Plane Goes on Spree; Pilot Unknown

KALAMAZOO (AP) — A single-engine light airplane, piloted by a fire chief, went on a spree after midnight Wednesday, made a touch-and-go landing at the airport, then disappeared. It turned up later at Kellogg Field in Battle Creek.

Police said the small plane is registered to John Kakabeke, assistant Kalamazoo fire chief. But he wasn't in it when the flight took place.

Authorities were investigating a possibility that a student pilot overstepped his bounds by unlawfully taking an aircraft a felony.

Americans Smoking

More Cigarettes in '65

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department estimated today Americans will smoke nearly 5 per cent more cigarettes this year than last. Consumption is expected to average about 216 packages per smoker.

This would more than offset last year's 2.5 per cent decline following a government report that said cigarette smoking causes lung cancer.

Damascus, Syria, is the world's oldest continuously inhabited city. It existed in 2,000 B.C.

Wilson Beats Labor Revolt

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson narrowly beat down a revolt by big trade unions today against his Labor government's crucial wage and price policy.

An emergency resolution seeking to reject the government's announced intention of outlawing wildcat strikes was defeated at the annual conference of the Labor party.

The voting for the resolution was 2,540,000 against 2,655,000. The 1,000 delegates cast votes for all the membership of the unions and other groups they represent.

The decision in effect gave Wilson's government the endorsement of the whole labor movement for its program to keep income and prices under control, even if this means resorting to legislation to control wildcat strikes.

The government's victory was one highlight of the five-day conference proceedings. Some of the delegates, however, said they thought some restive unions may still cause trouble.

Nudist Film Not Their Cup of Tea

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Cleanup TV Campaign announced today it has protested against the BBC's plans to show a nude movie on television.

Organizers of the campaign — mostly housewives and mothers — said they telegraphed Sir Hugh Greene, director — general of the state-supported British Broadcasting Corporation.

"In view of your position as interpreter of the BBC's duty to society, we would ask you to take personal responsibility for seeing that the program does not offend against good taste and decency."

The BBC said the film was planned as a parody of nudist films presently in vogue at some London movie theaters. It was made for a showing on the BBC's new satirical program, "BBC 2," which premieres Saturday night. The film shows a nudist wedding and a nudist cricket match.

A BBC spokesman said: "The film is still under review. Of course, the protest from the Cleanup TV Campaign will be taken into consideration."

Sandy Koufax Adds to Repertoire, Record, LA Lead

OPEN BOWLING
3 For $1
ALL THE TIME
All-Star Bowl
 19 N. Perry, Pontiac

By the Associated Press
 Sandy Koufax has found something for the pitcher who has everything.

Koufax, whose dazzling curve ball and fast ball have brought him just about everything a pitcher could want, now has presented himself with a forkball.

He displayed it more than ever Wednesday night, pitching a two-hitter and gaining his 25th triumph as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati 6-0 for their 12th straight victory and increased their National League lead to two games over the staggering San Francisco Giants.

The Giants lost to St. Louis 8-6 Wednesday and now face a four-game, season-ending series with Cincinnati. The Dodgers play their last four games with Milwaukee, and if they win only two of them, the Giants would have to sweep all four of theirs to gain a tie.

"I had a good curve, and my control was as good as it's been all year," the 29-year-old left-hander said. "Then I threw five or six forkballs — got 'em over, too."

Koufax has been experimenting with the pitch this season but had thrown it only once or twice in any game before Wednesday night. It only foreshadowed worse things to come for Dodgers opponents, who have stood by almost helplessly while Koufax has compiled a major league record of 369 strikeouts, eight shutouts and 26 complete games in 40 starts this season.

Koufax' 25 victories also equal his personal high achieved in 1963 when he won the Cy Young Award. He lost five that year compared with eight this season. He also reduced his earned run average to 2.06 as the Dodgers eliminated the third-place Reds from contention.

Koufax, who struck out 13, allowed only singles by Vada Pinson in the fourth and Deron Johnson in the seventh. The Dodgers' big blow, meanwhile, was Maury Wills' three-run triple in the seventh off Jim Maloney, now 20-9. Wills then scored as Jim Gilliam singled.

6-RUN HOMER

The Giants went down to their sixth defeat in the last eight games despite a six-run rally in the ninth. Bob Gibson, 18-12, held the Giants to two hits until that inning, but Curt Simmons and Hal Woodeshick had to come on before the Cardinals got out of it.

Jim Davenport hit a three-run homer in the rally, but that was nullified by Gibson's first major league grand slam in the eighth. Gibson also singled twice and scored the Cardinals' first two runs.

Jim Pagliaroni's two-run homer in the seventh carried Pittsburgh past New York. Donn Clendenon singled across a Pirate run in the fourth, then stole second and came home as Bill Mazeroski singled.

Ken Johnson stopped Houston on five hits, bringing his record to 16-10. He received early support from Mack Jones, who clouted a two-run homer in the third.

The Phillies edged the Cubs loaded walk to pinch hitter Bill Sorrell in the ninth. Adolfo Phillips helped Philadelphia build a 6-3 lead, driving in three runs with two homers, but the Cubs tied it in the eighth on homers by Billy Williams and Ernie Banks.

Hoople Calls Friend Bumgesser for Help

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Pigskin Prophet

Egad, friends, never in my illustrious career as a forecaster do I remember as trying a season as this one for the selectors, including your favorite correspondent.

The favored teams fell as fast as autumn leaves in all parts of the country last Saturday—hak-kaff!

From all indications predicting the winners of this week's leading contests will be just as difficult.

In fact, the situation is so confused I've asked my former colleague Dr. Izzy A. Bumgesser to assist me in preparing my forecast.

And—ahem—um—I wish to take this opportunity to state emphatically that there is no truth to the widely-circulated story that Izzy couldn't pick a head of cabbage out of a bushel of potatoes.

That is a base canard, Izzy was raised on a potato farm—ump-kumpli! Perhaps the most startling prediction is Florida to rebound from its shocking loss last week to spoil the unsullied record of Louisiana State. We see the 'Gators 24-18 victors.

Almost as surprising will be West Virginia's 9-8 conquest of Pittsburgh—hak-kaff!

Two of the big games of the day will find Illinois prevailing 21-20 in a fiercely fought contest with Michigan State, and Georgia's Bulldogs will continue to impress by turning back Michigan, 17-10—har-rumph!

Now go on with the forecast. Boston College 17, Army 8. Penn State 21, U.C.L.A. 16. Yale 8, Colgate 7. Princeton 35, Columbia 6. Alabama 22, Mississippi 7. Kentucky 14, Auburn 13. Baylor 14, Florida St. 10. Florida 24, L.S.U. 18.

McDowell—AL Answer to Sandy

By the Associated Press
Quickie Quiz: What pitcher is striking out batters at a faster clip than Sandy Koufax?

Stumped?

None other than Cleveland's Sam McDowell, whose individual performances have been overshadowed in recent weeks by the developments of the American League pennant race and without failure has joined Koufax as a member of the exclusive 300-strikeout club.

McDowell, a 23-year-old left-hander in only his second full major league season, raised his strikeout total to 318 Wednesday night by fanning 12 in a five-hit, 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

McDowell, who has a 17-10 record with a best-in-the-league 2.17 earned average, now has struck out 19 or more batters in 17 games this season, while becoming only the fifth pitcher in major league history to hit the 300-strikeout plateau.

While McDowell was adding to his laurels, the champion Minnesota Twins ended Baltimore's nine-game winning streak by edging the Orioles 3-2. Washington's Jim Hannan five-hit Kansas City 9-0 and Boston edged California 2-1. Chicago and Detroit were idle.

Fred Whitfield and Max Alvis supplied the only support McDowell needed. Whitfield hit a three-run homer in a four-run third inning while Alvis, who went 4-for-4, singled home the other run in the uprising and then hit a homer in the eighth inning. Cleto Boyer and Elston Howard homered for the Yankees.

Jim Grant, the lone 20-game winner in the AL, gained his 21st victory against six losses when Bob Allison won it for the Twins with a two-run homer in the eighth inning off Steve Barber. Allison connected with Cesar Tovar on base with a double.

Radiation Treatment Near Goal

By Science Service
LONDON — The long-sought goal of radiating the diseased area while sparing normal tissues during cancer treatment is well within sight.

Dr. Anthony Green, director of radiotherapy, Royal Northern Hospital, London, reports a cobalt tracking project in the Sept. 18 issue of Nature that "describes a new and accurate method of treating malignant disease by radiation."

Just as surgery has its complications and rare fatal accidents, Dr. Green said, so do a proportion of radiation cases.

"A high standard of accuracy in treatment does much to reduce injuries," Dr. Green said. "The new method has been the logical sequence of development over the past 25 years."

A new high-quality apparatus made by T.E.M. Instruments, Ltd. of Crawley, England, made possible through public contributions, will soon be placed in a specially constructed room, allowing the cobalt tracking project to get under way in earnest.

GREATER ACCURACY
The project will enable the spread of malignant disease from the primary growth along the lymph node chain to be irradiated with greater accuracy than ever before.

The expected spread of malignancy in lymph nodes, that is, the "track" was part of a recent exhibit at the International Congress of Radiology in Rome.

This spread is based on information from surgeons of vast operative experience, agreed upon by six senior United Kingdom radiotherapists, Dr. Green said. "Such spread is in contrast to the post-mortem findings, when the disease is spread far and wide."

Petty Officer's Reenlistment Brings Brass, Blunders

ABOARD USS KRETCHMER
South China Sea (P) — In his 19 years with the Navy, Petty Officer Charles Clous has had all sorts of experiences, but never in his dreams had he imagined himself receiving this kind of treatment.

Here he was right in the middle of a war zone, with the artillery rumbling along the shore and the bombers going over every night.

Four gobs were busy swabbing up the section of the quarterdeck just below the gunmount where he would stand in glory. Two admirals, wearing a total of five stars, stood by to pay him homage and say nice things about him. The skipper had ordered the laundry to run a special on his dress whites, which he hadn't worn in months. Practically the whole crew was polishing brass.

It all came about because Clous had decided to reenlist for four years, or "ship over" as the Navy calls it, on the same day that two admirals from the Pentagon unexpectedly came calling.

FROM IOWA

Clous was listed as from Carter Lake, Iowa. Vice Adm. B. J. Semmes Jr., chief of naval personnel, was taking a look at 7th Fleet operations in Viet Nam. An old destroyer man, he couldn't resist paying a call on the Kretchmer, a destroyer escort. He brought along Rear Adm. Tom Connolly, assistant chief of naval operations for fleet operations.

Not in the 23 years since it was commissioned had the Kretchmer had such a collection of brass aboard.

Lt. Cmdr. Clarence E. Chin of Grand Junction, Colo., the Kretchmer's young skipper, looked in vain for six clean-shaven seamen to meet the admirals as sideboys at the head of the landing ladder. From the time the Kretchmer steamed through the Panama Canal, early in July, beards had sprouted among the crew.

BEARDED WONDERS'

Chinn finally had to settle for three reasonably clean-shaven specimens facing the admirals as they came up the ladder, and three "bearded wonders" facing aft. The bearded boatswain tooling on the bow's pipe was beyond recall. No one could pipe the admirals aboard with quite the flourish that P.O. 3.C Howard Garland of Johnson City, Tenn., put into his work.

Lt. R. J. Stong of Philadelphia, the executive officer, scrounged around for a three-star admiral's flag, which isn't exactly standard equipment on a 1,800-ton destroyer escort. He finally came up with a square of blue bunting to which were pasted three paper stars.

As chief of naval personnel, Semmes was delighted to accept the skipper's invitation to be present at the ceremony marking Clous' reenlistment. Clous was a radarman 1st class, one of the critical skills in the Navy, and it would give the admiral an opportunity to make a few appropriate remarks about the training and expense that the Navy had gone to to bring Clous to this high degree of expertise. Halfway through his speech, one of the stars blew off the flag and Adm. Semmes' flagship suddenly became Adm. Connolly's flagship.

EXCELLENT MEAL

The admirals took it all in good grace, their general bonhomie having been considerably bolstered by the excellent meal that the mess boys turned out in the wardroom.

All in all it was quite a day for the Kretchmer. Petty Officer Clous got to rejoin the Navy with a three-star admiral administering the oath and a two-star admiral standing at attention nearby. The crew got to eat like it hadn't eaten in weeks. And nothing was said about the beards.

THERE WAS JUST ONE MINOR INCIDENT

While the skipper and the executive officer were otherwise engaged, a young ensign ruled the bridge as the Kretchmer steamed toward a rendezvous with the Castor, a general stores ship. On and on the Kretchmer steamed toward the Castor without changing course.

The Castor was less than 500 yards away and still the deck officer, who shall be nameless, kept his counsel.

The admiral standing at his elbow was patient, but there was a decided edge in his voice. "Tell me, ensign," he finally asked, "exactly where do you plan to ram her?"

It was broiling hot in the South China Sea that day, but you could have cut ice cubes from the air circulating around the bridge of the Kretchmer.

Federal Team Probing Miami Air Operations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal agents are investigating to determine if large transport planes are being used in illegal passenger and cargo operations at Miami.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) said yesterday it had sent a team of investigators to Miami after receiving reports that several multilingual transports are carrying passengers and freight to San Juan and Latin America without proper certification.

Although a spokesman declined to say how many persons or planes might be involved, he said, "We do know that in the Miami area alone, there are up to 50 large airplanes which represent a potential for being used illegally."

Ex-High Court Justice in State Dies at 77

CLEVELAND (AP) — George E. Bushnell of Detroit, a former Michigan Supreme Court justice, died early today in his downtown hotel room, apparently of natural causes. He was 77. Bushnell had earlier attended the closing session of the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Freemasonry for the northern jurisdiction of the United States.

What's Four Roses doing with a Fifth?

Plenty.

First we took our fifth size bottle and redesigned it. (All other sizes, too). Gave it a clean, elegant, handsome look, right?

But most important is what we're doing inside the fifth. We've added a Fifth Rose—the great new taste in Four Roses. The honestly good taste of Four Roses. The kind of whiskey taste you don't just say you like, but you really do like.

(A bonus note: see how surprisingly reasonable a good-tasting whiskey can be. The fact is, Four Roses doesn't cost any more any more.)

So now there's no reason in the world why you shouldn't buy Four Roses.

Agreed?

NOW: a sure-fire way to remove RED IRON STAINS from your wash, wash bowls, toilet bowls, tubs and kitchen sink...

Diamond Crystal REDOUT * NUGGETS

next time you recharge your water conditioner... use new Diamond Crystal REDOUT nuggets!

Your water conditioner often needs extra help to remove all the iron from your home water supply. Iron stains plumbing and laundry fixtures, is harsh to your skin, and spoils the taste of tea and coffee. To help your water conditioner work at peak efficiency, Diamond Crystal developed REDOUT nuggets—a new, exclusive salt-base product (patent applied for) that recharges your conditioner and completely removes iron deposits from the resin bed. In addition REDOUT gives you and your family these important benefits:

- Easily replaces ordinary salt, at no extra effort.
- No need to backwash your conditioner before laundering. REDOUT keeps the conditioner in top shape, ready for action at all times.
- No neutralization of chlorine in your water supply. Chlorine is added to your water as a special protection—some iron-removing agents destroy its usefulness.
- REDOUT preserves the effectiveness of the chlorine.
- No professional help needed in restoring an iron-fouled conditioner—REDOUT will clean the resin bed automatically and easily. Used regularly, REDOUT will keep it clean.
- Longer life for your water conditioner — because REDOUT keeps the unit operating smoothly and efficiently.

Treat your family to a better way of living, starting right now. REDOUT nuggets cost a few cents more, but are well worth it. Once the red iron stains have disappeared from your home, you'll be glad you got acquainted with this amazing new product.

Our Thom McAn Bootmaster has everything you expect from an expensive shoe.
Except expense.

Top, bottom, inside—Thom McAn Bootmasters spell luxury. The very finest obtainable upper leathers, like calfskin that is rolled and softened by hand. Double leather soles topped with the classic storm welt. Fully extended leather heels with that little inset steel "V" plate for longer wear—even a beveled corner so you don't snag your trouser cuff.

Inside, not any old leather—but linings of smooth, full-grain imported English kip. Premium hides from India, tanned in England.

All this and more, put together with unhurried, unstinting New England craftsmanship. Thom McAn Bootmasters: for the classic, authentic look. For superior quality and comfort. 15.00

Red China Roars Defiance for Enemies on Eve of 16th Birthday

TOKYO (AP) — Red China, lean but no longer hungry, trumpeted defiance at all its enemies today on the eve of its 16th birthday.

It was Oct. 1, 1947, that Red China was set up after defeat of Nationalist China forces.

Foreign Minister Chen Yi told foreign and Chinese newsmen during an impassioned, four-hour interview in Peking that China would welcome an invasion by the United States.

"Let them come when they like!" Japanese correspondents reported he shouted. "Let the Indians come with them. Let the British come, too. Let the revolutionaries in the north (the Soviets) combine with them."

SEE VICTORY

He promised that the Chinese would wipe out any attackers.

He also encouraged African and Asian countries to produce their own nuclear weapons, a direct challenge to the U.S.-Soviet stand against the spread of nuclear weapons.

Chen Yi laid down tough conditions for Peking's entry into the United Nations. He said the United Nations must withdraw its resolution branding China an aggressor in the Korean War. He said it must admit all "independent" nations and expel all "imperialist puppet states," including Nationalist China.

Today, the Chinese Communist party's theoretical journal, Red Flag, admitted that the class struggle still exists in China, and "at times is very acute."

PROTRACTED

"The old ideas, notions, habits and conventions are extremely tenacious," it said. "Our struggle against them will be a protracted one."

Though the Chinese have not abated their outward shows of belligerency, students of Chinese affairs in Tokyo note that their recent actions have prudently heeded to the line of self-interest rather than that of international communism.

The Peking regime appears concerned first with strengthening its domestic position, concentrating on further recovery in agriculture, expansion of light industry and continuation of the gradual buildup of heavy industry. Thanks to an improvement in the standard of living, experts say it is getting greater cooperation from the masses.

Half a million Chinese will march through Peking's Square of Heavenly Peace Friday in front of the ancient forbidden city under the gaze of aging Communist party chairman, Mao Tse-tung, and a few guests, including Cambodia's ruling Prince Norodom Sihanouk and the year's top defector, Li Tsung-jen, former acting president of Nationalist China.

Special programs have been arranged throughout the country to mark the anniversary.

LBJ Looking to GOP for Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Johnson administration was counting on House Republicans today to help whittle down a proposed $1.5-billion-a-year pay hike for all federal civilian employees, including congressmen.

Up for consideration was a measure approved by the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

The bill was a far cry from the more modest pay raise recommended by President Johnson earlier this year.

A handful of GOP members was prepared to offer amendments to the legislation, and a vote was scheduled today.

Under the committee bill, about 1.8 million government white-collar workers and postal employees would each receive an average 4.5 per cent pay increase on Oct. 1 this year with another hike due Oct. 1, 1966.

The second boost would be based on the rise of wages in private industry and would probably be in the neighborhood of from 4 to 8 per cent.

The committee also added a provision which would give congressmen, who last year hiked their pay from $22,500 a year to $30,000, the total percentage raise of the federal workers. The lawmakers would get their raise after Jan. 1, 1967.

The bill would make future congressional raises semiautomatic in that every time government employees got a raise, congressmen would get the same percentage boost as the highest grade civil servant.

Rep. Robert J. Corbett, Pa., ranking Republican on the post office and civil service committee, planned to offer an amendment knocking out the immediate 1965 - 66 congressional raise.

Lawmaker Is Soaked in Aussie Feud

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI) — A donnybrook broke out today during a postmidnight session of the Australian House of Representatives. One member doused another with a glass of water.

The recipient of the bath was Paul Hasluck, the minister for external affairs — or secretary of state. The water thrower was Gough Whitlam, deputy leader of the opposition Federal party.

The incident occurred shortly after 2 a.m. during debate on a bill to provide veterans of the Boer War and World War I with automatic medical and hospital treatment.

Hasluck and Whitlam exchanged curt remarks about their debating tactics, and Whitlam picked up a glass of water and hurled the full contents in Hasluck's face.

The House broke into an uproar.

When order was finally restored — and Hasluck had mopped off his face and suit with a handkerchief — both men apologized.

$1.7 Million Is Given to Rutgers University

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Rutgers University received gifts, grants and scholarship fund totaling more than $1.7 million during July and August.

Dr. Mason W. Gross, president of the university, said all but $31,431 of the funds represented grants and contracts awarded by government and private agencies.

An estimated 12.9 million people lived on farms in rural areas in April 1964, a decline of 17 per cent from 1960.

Jacoby on Bridge

Solons Short of Spittoons

By JACOBY & SON

The United States team carried a seven International Match points lead after the first 14 boards of the match against Italy.

They increased their lead in the second 14 boards when the Italian bidding failed.

JACOBY

America's South played a safe two-spade contract and managed to make four odd. He needed a lot of favorable breaks plus perfect play to make 10 tricks. Thus, the trump finesse worked and trumps broke 5-2.

Then it was a two-way finesse for the queen of clubs and he handled it the right way.

In addition he needed to make two tricks in the heart

The Italians actually bid the game when they got going and were unable to stop. In all probability if they had bid the game in spades they would have made it, but somehow or other they landed in four hearts.

Piero Forquet made a gallant try for his contract but he was forced to use a couple of his trumps to ruff diamonds and wound up losing three trumps and a spade. The net gain of 240 gave the United States another six IMPs.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — There will be only a few cuspidors for the desks of members of the State Legislature when the 1967 session rolls around.

The state has been selling the spittoons for as much as $17 each. A group with a passion for things of the past snapped up 150. Sales have brought in almost $2,000.

Only a handful will be kept for legislators who demand them.

Committee to Aid Small Business

A 21-member committee to aid small business development was announced today by James M. McNulty, executive director of the Oakland County Office of Economic Opportunity.

Serving as chairman of the committee is Arthur. Elliott, head of a Birmingham real estate appraisal firm.

The small business development program is one phase of the county's war on poverty.

Plans call for the establishment of a small business development center where loan applications from low income people with realistic business proposals will be screened.

Loan applications for expansion of businesses which would provide jobs for unemployed persons also would be evaluated by this center.

OTHER MEMBERS

Other committee members are Frank Andreoli, Charles Barnes, Jack Bedell, Forrest Bradley, Dr. J. Russell Bright, Emerson Brown, D. R. Calhoun, James Dickerson, James Doble and Howard Fitzgerald II.

Still others are Thomas W. Fowler, W. F. Gabler, Ronald Holland, Marie Johnson, Edward Kennedy, Robert Kilpatrick, Jacob J. Levy, Rev. Rob-

Police Hunt for Plane Carrying 3 Professors

EAST LANSING 6 — State Police are searching for a small plane, believed to be carrying three Ferris State College professors, missing since it took off from the Capital City Airport at Lansing Wednesday night.

The plane, a 1956 Cessna, left Reed City Airport at about 8 p.m. and flew to Lansing. It left between 11 p.m. and midnight, police said, and apparently has not been seen or heard from since.

The oldest life insurance company in the United States was organized Jan. 11, 1790. It now is known as the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund.

Car Trade Pact Hit by Ribicoff

Calls Action Violation of Tariff Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., charged today the pending trade pact with Canada involves U.S. breach of faith with many other nations.

If the other members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) refuse to forgive it, he said in a prepared Senate speech, the United States will be stuck on a course he denounced as "the way of expediency but not of honorable people."

He called this one more reason for the Senate to reject the administration bill which would permit the disputed agreement to take effect.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., in another prepared speech, accused the State Department of "playing international politics with American jobs and industries" when it negotiated the agreement.

BACK MOTION

Both senators backed a motion by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to shelve the bill until Jan. 10. The delay would permit time for a tariff commission study of what the agreement might do to small industries and their workers.

One of the tight centers on provisions of the agreement for tariff-free shipment of new U.S. cars and new-car parts or components shipped between U.S. manufacturers and their Canadian subsidiaries either way across the border.

The pact, and side agreements with the auto industry, require U.S. car makers' help in expanding Canadian car and new-car-parts production to the tune of millions of dollars.

The opponents contend this will hurt U.S. industry and employment, cause a migration of U.S. parts factories to Canada, and ultimately invite Canadian competition in the new replacement parts manufacturing business.

'WILL PROSPER'

The bill's defenders insist that employment, industry and economic growth will be stimulated. They will prosper in the long run from the pact.

Ribicoff contended the treaty runs counter to a GATT provision that a trade concession to one member must be offered to all its more than 90 member nations.

He said the State Department has acknowledged this with the explanation it expects to obtain waivers from GATT. But if no waiver is granted, he said, "we will simply stand in violation."

Death of Area Man

Reported to City Police

The death Tuesday of Cyril H. Lewis, 70, 701 Southfield, Birmingham, was reported to Pontiac police by the Wayne County Medical Examiner yesterday.

Officials at Woodside Medical Home, 838 Woodward, told authorities Lewis set fire to himself Aug. 26 while a patient there. He died at Harper Hospital, Detroit.

LA Produce Mart Has a Party for Its Queen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One morning, the fruit and vegetable market went nuts.

Dora ("Mama") Kaplan — matriarch of the fruit stands, produce trucks and farm products — had a birthday party Wednesday, a wee hours whopper.

Mama, in navy blue and sporting a big orchid corsage, was all a-bubble — along with 25 cases of champagne, seven big rum cakes and a three-piece combo aboard a flatbed truck.

Fellow market occupants chortled, to the tune of "Hello, Dolly".

"Hello, Dora. Yes, Mama Dora,

We remember when you wore some other people's shoes;

Pulled horse and buggy, Dora,

Drove trucks to the fields,

Dora,

To pick up daily every farmer's fresh produce."

SHE HAD DONE ALL THAT, and in 35 years built her business, Kaplan's Fruit and Produce Co., into a $10 million a year enterprise.

But it was a long row to hoe, stretching all the way back to Russia.

Dora Kaplan was born in Odessa, the Ukraine. She was orphaned at 9, and friends paid her way to America, where she worked in a New York City shoe factory before coming West.

Wednesday she turned 64, and folks at the produce market decided a party was in order.

GREETING FRIENDS

It started at 3 a.m., when the produce trucks began rolling in. Greeting friends, Mama stood beside a 10-foot-high artificial cake garnished with fresh corn, lettuce, apples, radishes and gilded pineapples.

"Mama," exclaimed one young man as he shook her hand and kissed her cheek.

"Baby," cried another.

"I know them all," Mama said. "Some of them I brought up. They came young here."

Workers in all corners of the busy market snatched a little time to come over and wish Mama a happy birthday as trucks came in bearing tons of apples, peaches, pears, cantaloupes and cabbage.

And the combo launched into Mama's theme song: "Tomatoes are cheaper, potatoes are cheaper, now's the time to fall in love."

GO HOME EARLIER

"Yes," Mama recalled, "I been coming down here for 35 years, every day I used to work till 2, but now I go home at 10 o'clock."

Could this also be a retirement party? No.

"You work your life," Mama said. "You don't know what to do with yourself at home. You have to work."

Mama's go-to-laws, Harry Molin, is now president of her company and her son, Milton, works there. A second son, David, is a college faculty member. Her husband, Harry, is retired from his furniture store job.

As the party gathered steam, the band played "Besame Mucho" — Spanish for "Kiss Me Much."

"Ah," Mama sighed. "He knows. That's my favorite. Have some champagne, everybody."

He's Played 52 Years

By JAMES BACON

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Louis Armstrong, who has been blowing the sweetest trumpet this side of Gabriel for 52 years, may retire next year.

"I got 12 weeks off next January," says old Satch, "and I may just dig this retirement jazz for size."

FAIRMOUNT, Ind. (AP) —

Florist R. P. Ernberger makes his annual pilgrimage with flowers today to the grave of actor James Dean. He has standing orders from admirers in Paris, Berlin, New York and other cities to decorate the grave each Sept. 30.

It was on that date 10 years ago that Dean, then 24 and at the height of his career, died in a traffic accident near Paso Robles, Calif.

A number of memorials established in Dean's name are gone, but Dean's uncle, Marcus Winslow, who reared the actor on his farm north of Fairmount, says he still is remembered.

"A few come to the house every week, asking about Jimmie," he said. "They just want to talk and find out more about him."

Keystone Kop Is Dead of Liver, Heart Trouble

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Eddie

Gribbon, one of the original Keystone Kops, is dead at 75, after a three months' illness with cirrhosis of the liver and congestive heart failure.

Even during his final illness, the big, New York-born Irishman with the comic mug would don his kops costume and play benefits, his wife said Wednesday.

2 Die in Traffic Wreck

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Dwayne

Champion, 32, and Mrs. Sandra Portage, 22, both of Portage, died today when their pickup truck was struck in the rear by an auto and slammed into a tree in Kalamazoo, police said.

Of course, an extremely busy schedule at the moment may make retirement look delightful.

He was interviewed between rehearsals for a Dean Martin television show after having played the night before at Disneyland until 3 a.m.

ONE-NIGHTERS

Louis was about to take off on 42 one-nighters that will take him up the Pacific Coast to Alaska and then down into Texas and Louisiana.

"Man," says Louis. "There just ain't no days off. Just looking at that itinerary makes me tired."

There's also a possibility that Louis will go to Viet Nam and play for the troops.

"It's up to the State Department," he says. "Pops will swing anyplace."

IRON CURTAIN

Iron Curtain.

"I had crowds in Budapest like I did in Ghana," beams Satchmo. "Those cats all swing alike."

At age 65 Satch's health is good and so is his lip — which is never given a rest. He blows a show most every night and practices every day — a ritual he began as a boy trumpeter in a New Orleans reform school.

"When I retire," says Louis, "I'll spend my time helping other young boys like I was helped myself."

LOTS TO DO

"There's lots of other things I can do like spending my time listening to other performers and visiting people. Just having myself a ball."

"I got a nice home in Corona, N.Y. I also got me a young wife who says she'll cook me anything I want to eat."

"And, daddy, that's livin'."

If Louis should decide to retire — and Lord knows, he deserves it — it will be a pity.

Armstrong who got his first jazz band job in 1917, probably has done more than any other single musician to spread America's contribution to world culture.

PLAYED RIVERBOATS

He played the riverboats that took the new music from New Orleans to the speakeasies of Chicago. In his prime, every note he hit was sheer perfection.

Louis is the only one of his kind and if when he puts down that horn, there will be no more when he is gone.

Fingerprinting Thing of Past?

By Science Service

LONDON — Hair may replace fingerprints for the sleuths of Scotland Yard.

The British Atomic Weapons Research Establishment at Aldermaston has joined forces with Scotland Yard and the Home Office to find a new and better weapon against criminals than the fingerprint system.

By placing hairs in a nuclear reactor and making them radioactive, it is possible to trace minute particles of elements in them.

Criminals can wear gloves to prevent the leaving of tell-tale fingerprints, but hairs are something different: most people shed them wherever they go, but they do not know they are doing so.

The first full-scale test is being conducted with hairs contributed by a thousand people all over Britain.

AT RANDOM

They were picked at random from electoral rolls and asked to comb their hair over a piece of paper and send it to Aldermaston.

Answers to a separate questionnaire, about age, sex, occupation and other details, are not being disclosed to the researchers.

The research is expected to provide a powerful new means of pinpointing criminals.

In the words of Dr. Hamilton Smith of the forensic medicine department of Glasgow University, who last year showed from a few hairs of Napoleon that the former French emperor was given arsenic 40 times between 1820 and his death the following year, possibilities of the experiments "almost approach science fiction."

A single hair left on the scene of a crime might lead detectives to the culprit. It might contain elements only found in a certain part of the country. It might show traces of an industrial process carried out in one particular plant.

Buckingham Palace has announced officially that the Beatles will receive membership in the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, one of the most staid of British institutions.

Queen Elizabeth II will confer the honor Oct. 26. A palace spokesman said it will be the queen's first meeting with the long-haired singers from Liverpool.

The Beatles' inclusion in the queen's birthday honors list last June 11 brought a flood of protests. A dozen British war heroes returned their decorations.

The government stood firm.

Actor Gets Marriage License

Actor Orson Bean and his fiancée, Carolyn Maxwell, have obtained a wedding license.

Bean, 37, and Miss Maxwell 24, indicated on the license application in New York yesterday that they would wed Oct. 3 at Judson Memorial church on Washington Square.

Miss Maxwell is a designer-dressmaker.

Actress to Have Appendix Removed

Television actress Brenda Scott has had her appendix removed, her studio says.

The 5-foot actress was stricken while filming a guest role. Producer Frank Glickman said he will a shoot around her scenes and Miss Scott's part will be waiting for her when she recovers.

436,000 Visit Britain

in July for a Record

LONDON (AP) — The British Travel Association says a record 436,000 foreign tourists flocked to Britain in July. This is 60,000 more than the July 1964 record.

Tourists from the United States in July numbered 116,000, an increase of 18,000 over July 1964.

Verdict Far Off in Drug Case

Board Is Rehearing Kroger Store Appeal

LANSING (AP)—A verdict in the prolonged Superdrug litigation still lies in the future.

The State Pharmacy Board said Wednesday no early decision could be expected after a day-long rehearing of the more than three-year-old case.

Both sides will be given 15 days to file additional briefs in the case, which had been fought up to the State Supreme Court and then handed back to the Pharmacy Board for a decision. There still is a good chance it may go back to the high court again.

SEEK LICENSE
Kroger Drug Co. is seeking a permanent pharmacy license for its Battle Creek store and hopes to establish a chain of economy drug stores across the state.

The five-man pharmacy board first denied the chain a license in 1962. Three board positions have been changed since that time.

The State Supreme Court has allowed the Battle Creek store to sell drugs and keep a registered pharmacist on the premises until the case finally is settled.

Richard Wilson of Beverly Hills, board president, said at the conclusion of the hearing that 15 days will be allowed for attorneys of the Kroger Co. and representatives of the attorney general's office to file their additional briefs. He could not forecast a date of decision.

LICENSE DENIED
The attorney general's office is representing the pharmacy board because the state agency originally denied the license.

The State Supreme Court still retains jurisdiction of the case. It specified it will allow a direct appeal within 30 days after any board decision.

The Supreme Court at one point issued a writ ordering the pharmacy board to issue Kroger a license, then split 4-4 on the same question later to make it a deadlock.

"Realizing as we did that the judicial dead center upon which we found ourselves was no credit to us and a disservice to the litigants, the majority of us voted for a rehearing," said Justice Michael O'Hara.

Storm Debbie Breaks Up to End Danger

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Tropical storm Debbie gave the Gulf Coast from Florida to Louisiana a scare and whipped a few palm trees before she broke up about 30 miles south of Biloxi, Miss.

Debbie, which formed last Friday off the Mexican coast, got within 100 miles of Pensacola before she stalled and lost her strength to a cold front on the mainland Wednesday.

Flooding, which the Weather Bureau feared might be Debbie's worst threat, did not develop.

A narrow strip of the Georgia coast near Brunswick got more than six inches of rain, flooding airfields and drainage canals.

Carol, the last tropical storm which grew into a hurricane, was expected to brush the Atlantic with winds that could reach 60 miles an hour. The Weather Bureau issued its final advisory on the storm Wednesday. It was much closer to Europe than the United States. The storm had remained in the Atlantic.

'Peyton Place' Star Improved

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Dorothy Malone was speaking easily and making excellent progress toward recovery — but remained on the critical list — Cedars of Lebanon Hospital spokesman said today.

A medical bulletin Wednesday said the Academy award-winning actress was starting to eat solid food and that her temperature was back to normal after massive doses of antibiotics were administered.

"The tracheotomy tube has been out since Tuesday night," the bulletin said. "She is breathing now without assistance of a respirator, but is taking oxygen."

The 40-year-old actress underwent surgery last Thursday for removal of blood clots from her lungs.

She won her Oscar in 1956 for her supporting role in "Written on the Wind."

KISS FOR TROY BOY — Ricky Thorne, 12, mentally handicapped son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Thorne of Troy, leans forward to get a kiss from his mother in Miami, Fla., yesterday. Ricky's father (left) and mother paid him a visit. A Miami judge yesterday ruled that Ricky remain under care in Miami. Mrs. Thorne brought her son to the city last week and abandoned him.

Parents Ordered Away

Troy Teen Committed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Ricky Thorne, a mute, mentally retarded Troy, Michigan boy who was abandoned 1,250 miles from home, may never live with his parents again.

"I know I'll miss him," said his mother, Mrs. Victor Thorne,

Juvenile Court Judge Ben Sheppard committed Ricky to a special school for treatment yesterday and ordered that his parents stay away for a year unless psychiatrists advise otherwise.

Sheppard allowed the parents to see Ricky for one last time before they go back to Michigan.

5 Executions Said Planned by S. Viets

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The South Vietnamese government is reported planning five more executions tomorrow despite Viet Cong threats of reprisals against American prisoners.

Informants said no Communist reaction was expected because those to be executed were convicted of criminal activities in no way related to the Viet Cong.

A police source said three were convicted of murder, rape and robbery, one of murder and rape, and another of murder.

When Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky became premier of South Viet Nam last June, he warned that his government would execute hoarders, speculators and war profiteers.

So far, none of these executions have been carried out publicly.

ENLARGING WALL. Workmen today were enlarging the sandbag execution wall in Saigon's Central Market Place where a firing squad put two young Viet Cong terrorists to death earlier this year.

Chevy Boss Sees No Ford Challenge

GAYLORD (AP) — Chevrolet's number one man is not too worried about the guy across the street.

E. M. (Pete) Estes, a General Motors vice president and general manager of its Chevrolet Division, aired that view at Chevrolet's national press preview yesterday.

The "guy across the street" in this case is Donald N. Frey, a vice president of Ford Motor Co. and general manager of Ford Motor Co. and general manager of Ford Division.

By coincidence, the two men, who control between them nearly 50 per cent of the nation's auto output, live directly across the street from each other on Waddington Road in Bloomfield Village.

STEADY LEADER. Chevrolet has led the sales race every year since 1930 with the exceptions of 1935, 1937, and 1959. Last year, for example, Chevrolet sold 2,110,279 cars, almost 375,000 more than Ford.

Frey said Ford's Mustang and diversified 1966 car line had made it a worthy challenge.

Not so, said his neighbor Estes.

Estes, asked whether Chevrolet would hold its sales lead, said: "I have a neighbor; he lives across the street from me and he is a pretty nice guy, as you all know, but when you are kind of down a little and you are fighting to get up there is a little tendency to get a little overambitious at times and say a few things."

SOME RUNNING. Frey said that he really has some running to do. I will guarantee you that. There is a fellow on Waddington Road who is moving just a shade faster. "I might add that, in the last 10 days, we increased our lead by 10,000 cars, instead of losing any to him, so he has to get going. I do not know just how he is going to accomplish that."

"Both parents had tears in their eyes when they saw Ricky," said a juvenile court officer. "Ricky was real glad to see them, too."

CHEERED UP

"Ricky brightened up when I told him he was going to school," said Barron Shields, the officer. "When I asked him if he wanted to see his father, he nodded his head."

"When I asked him if he wanted to see his mother, he nodded again and said, 'uh-huh.' It was the first time I had heard him say a word."

Judge Sheppard said: "There's not much hope Ricky will be returned to his parents. He'll probably remain in this school for two or three years before other arrangements are made for him."

Mrs. Thorne beamed when the judge announced Ricky would be put in a Miami school.

MOTHER RELIEVED

"This sure is a load off my mind," she said after the hearing.

The red-haired housewife said she had cared for Ricky since an illness damaged his brain when he was 18 months old.

"He was becoming a man and getting new problems," she said. "He was a little more resentful, a little harder to manage. He was getting bigger, too. I didn't want to get in any arguments with him."

Judge Sheppard dismissed neglect charges against Mrs. Thorne, but ordered her to undergo psychiatric treatment. She said she left Ricky in Miami because she had despaired of getting help in Michigan.

CASE PENDING

The Thornes face charges of neglect filed Tuesday in Michigan, but authorities there indicated they were filed against the possibility that Ricky's case would be referred back to that state and might now be withdrawn.

Rainy Debut for October

September will bow out tonight as October arrives accompanied by a few light showers.

Temperatures will fall to between 47° and 58° and rise to between 58° and 68° tomorrow to high of 62 to 68. Partly cloudy skies will continue through Saturday with not much change in temperature.

The mercury rose from a low of 58 at 1 a.m. to 71 at 1 p.m. today.

Ford Cuts Prices on '66 Models

DETROIT (AP)—Each of the auto industry's Big Three now has fixed recommended price tags on its 1966 model cars.

Ford Motor Co. completed the pricing picture yesterday, announcing its new models will cost less than its similar 1965 cars — though buyers savings will be cut by the cost of now-standard safety equipment, previously optional.

The other Big Three car-makers, General Motors and Chrysler, announced their prices earlier.

American Motors, a smaller producer, is expected to announce new prices next week.

The Big Three's pricing decisions came with the giant auto industry already driving toward possible record production and sales in its new model year.

RECORDS SMASHED

The 1965 model year smashed almost all records. With the national economy strong, industry leaders have forecast an unprecedented nine million sales for the new year.

Final figures will show a 1965 model total sales of something more than eight million. Ford said in its price announcement that it reduced 1966 model prices an average of $5 below those of comparable 1965 models in 49 of the 62 models produced in both model years. Ford is adding 18 new models to its 1966 lines.

Ford said this is the seventh straight year it has introduced models without a general price increase.

GM PRICES

Ford's announcement was similar to that of General Motors. GM said its prices were reduced below the comparable 1965 models without the added safety items.

Both also said they were allowing for refund to buyers of the 3 per cent excise tax reduction.

Russian Chief: Viet Freezing U. S.-Red Ties

Brezhnev Also Holds Out Olive Branch to Communist Chinese

MOSCOW (AP)—The war in Viet Nam is freezing Soviet-American relations and the Soviet Union will continue to supply military aid to North Viet Nam, Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev says.

Reviewing Soviet foreign policy before the party central committee yesterday, the bushy-browed first secretary also held out an olive branch to Red China.

NOTHING SURPRISING

U.S. officials in Washington found nothing surprising in Brezhnev's speech. For months, U.S. leaders have recognized that there is no prospect for substantial improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations while the two governments are so sharply divided over the war in Viet Nam.

Brezhnev said that the So-

UF Advance Gifts Launch Campaign

The first divisional campaign of the 1965 Pontiac Area United Fund drive was launched today at a kickoff breakfast at Community National Bank's Club Overdraft.

Bruce J. Annett, chairman of the advance gifts division, announced a goal of $104,090 for his division and asked that the goal be met by the Oct. 14 kickoff for the balance of the Pontiac Area United Fund divisions.

Highlighting the breakfast meeting was the presentation of the first advance gift to the annual UF drive: a donation from Community National Bank.

Robert Eldred, executive vice president of Community National Bank, presented Annett with a check for $13,177 on behalf of the bank and its employees.

Commenting on the nearly 100 per cent attendance at the early morning meeting, Annett said that the turnout of 125 advance gift solicitors was an example of the kind of civic spirit that would insure the success of the drive.

UF solicitors were advised to begin immediately to contact the 430 individuals and area firms that are prospects for advance gifts.

TO HIKE CONTRIBUTION

The advance gift prospects will be asked to increase their UF contribution by nine per cent over last year.

Bunnies from the Detroit Playhey Club made a civic contribution in the spirit of the UF campaign by acting as official hostesses for the breakfast.

They greeted the volunteer workers and distributed campaign supplies.

The over-all United Fund drive gets under way Oct. 14th. A goal of $875,000 — seven per cent over last year — has been set for the 1965 UF drive in the Pontiac area.

TEAM CAPTAINS

Team captains for the advance gifts solicitors include Monroe M. Osmon, Henry Gotham, D. B. Eames, Howard H. Fitzgerald II and Edward Barker.

Last year the advance gifts division raised $99,482. This is to be increased by $4,628 in 1965. Calvin J. Werner is general campaign chairman.

Reach Verdict After 2 Hours of Deliberation

Self-Defense Claimed in Shooting in Front of Alabama Store

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A jury of 12 white men acquitted Special Deputy Sheriff Thomas L. Coleman today of a manslaughter charge in the killing of a white civil rights worker, Jonathan M. Daniels.

The verdict came after the jury had deliberated one hour last night and one hour this morning.

In the intervening time the jurors spent the night locked up in Montgomery.

As the jury came out of the room and returned to the box, foreman C.E. Gates Jr. handed the written verdict to the circuit clerk, Mrs. Kelly Coleman. She read it aloud in the courtroom.

Several of the jurors shook hands with the defendant after Circuit Judge T. Werth Thagard discharged them.

NO DISPLAY

The spectators who occupied most of the seats in the courtroom took the verdict without any display of feeling.

Manslaughter, which under Alabama law is defined as a deliberate, unlawful taking of human life without malice, is punishable by one to 10 years in prison.

Defense attorneys, in closing arguments, readily conceded that Coleman, 35, a highway engineer, killed Jonathan M. Daniels, an Episcopal seminary student from Keene, N.H., and critically wounded the Rev. Richard Morrisroe of Chicago.

The shooting occurred on the afternoon of Aug. 20 in front of a country grocery store at Hayneville.

DEFENSE CONTENTION

Defense attorneys contended that the churchmen were armed with a knife and pistol and that Coleman, a prominent Hayneville resident, fired two shots from a 12-gauge automatic shotgun in self defense.

While the jury was out, the judge conferred with state and defense attorneys in still another civil rights slaying, and postponed that trial until Oct. 18. It had been expected to start today.

Thagard said he did not believe it was possible to finish the trial of Ku Klux Klan member Collie LeRoy Wilkins Jr., 21, by the end of this week.

And, because of a weighted docket in another county of his circuit, the judge said he could not let the Wilkins case run past the weekend.

Coleman's attorneys, to support their plea of self-defense in

Volcano Erupts Again

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
MANILA (AP) — The Taal volcano hurled steam and lava 2,000 feet into the air today while rescuers tried to determine how many persons died in the volcano's eruption Tuesday. New evacuation measures were ordered along the lake surrounding the volcanic island 40 miles south of Manila. The volcano had subsided

Tuesday night but continued to rumble and emit smoke and steam. Arturo Alcaraz, director of the Commission of Volcanology, said the new crater formed by the eruption Tuesday had widened to a diameter of about 1,640 feet.

The Philippine Constabulary estimated about 500 persons may have been killed Tuesday. About 2,000 Filipinos lived on the volcano's slopes. The first rescue parties to reach the island feared most had been killed, but more and more were turning in as refugees came.

Rescue workers said they found ash and volcanic debris 30 feet deep in places and saw no immediate sign of human life. Only rooftops showed in some villages.

The rescuers said apparently one-third of the island was badly hit but most residents elsewhere may have been able to get to boats and sail away.

An accurate death count seemed unlikely, since many drowned trying to flee and others were buried by ash and lava that rescuers said would be impossible to remove.

The constabulary said 22,000 persons were housed in emergency camps.

Final Congressional Action Near on Immigration Bill

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional action may be completed today on a bill which would wipe out the national origins quota system of immigration while, for the first time, limiting immigration from Western Hemisphere nations.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of a Senate-House Conference Committee, which whipped the legislation into final form, said it would be called up for a House vote during the day.

Senate action to send the measure to President Johnson may follow quickly, although this would require laying aside other legislation temporarily.

The chief difference between the immigration bills previously passed by each branch was that the Senate voted to put a ceiling of 120,000 a year on immigrants from Canada, Mexico and other Western Hemisphere nations beginning July 1, 1968.

The House under strong pressure from the administration, had narrowly rejected a similar proposal.

However, the administration later abandoned the fight and the House conferees yielded to the Senate.

For nations outside the hemisphere, the bill provides for the of Perryville, Ark., on June 25.

The Viet Cong announced Monday they had executed another two American servicemen in reprisal for the shooting of three Viet Cong sympathizers at Da Nang two weeks ago.

The Americans were Capt. Humbert R. Versace of Baltimore, Md., and Sgt. Kenneth M. Roraback, whose wife lives at Fayetteville, N.C.

HANOI THREAT

Threats of more reprisals against captured Americans came in a letter from North Viet Nam to the International Red Cross in Geneva and in the official Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan.

North Viet Nam told the Red Cross that captured Americans and South Vietnamese pilots will be tried as war criminals because they had "deliberately" bombed objects marked with the sign of the Red Cross. The State Department has denied this.

Most major war action reported today came from the air, a U.S. military spokesman said. U.S. Air Force B52 bombers from Guam pounded a Viet Cong area 10 miles northeast of Tay Ninh and 60 miles northwest of Saigon.

admission of up to 170,000 immigrants annually with preference given to those with close family ties to U.S. citizens or with skills needed in this country. Emphasis is on the reunion of families.

Under present law, nations outside this hemisphere have an annual quota of 158,561 allotted on the basis of national origins of the U.S. population in 1920.

Johnson, in urging abolition of the quota system last January, said it is incompatible with the basic American tradition of asking "not where a person comes from but what are his personal qualities."

The bill sets no country-by-country quotas. However no more than 20,000 immigrants may be admitted annually from any single nation outside the Western Hemisphere.

Not subject to the numerical limitations in the bill are the husbands and wives, minor children and parents of U.S. citizens.

The present quota system is to be eliminated over three years. During this transition, unused quotas of countries with large quotas would be made available to nations like Italy and Greece that have oversubscribed quotas.

the slaying of Daniels, 27, reminded the jury of the testimony of two witnesses who said they saw — or thought they saw — a knife in Daniels' hand and a gun in the hand of the Catholic priest, Father Morrisroe.

Leon Crocker, a lifelong friend of the accused man who was called as a prosecution witness, told the court he saw the secretary student clutching what appeared to be a knife and the other clergyman holding what looked like a gun.

Joe Bell Coker, a cousin of the defendant, was more positive. He said unequivocally that Daniels had a pocket knife in his hand. And, he added, Morrisroe had "a shiny object that looked like a pistol."

A state investigator, Capt. E. J. Dixon, testified that Coleman admitted killing Daniels and shooting the priest.

LOAD OF BUCKSHOT

He said that the accused man told him that he "saw what he thought was a knife" in Daniels' hand and fired the first shot, striking the clergyman in the chest with a load of buckshot.

viet Union, as "the strongest and best developed Socialist power," had already given Communist North Viet Nam considerable military aid.

"This aid will be continued," he said.

Brezhnev said that British support of American policy in Viet Nam also "substantially hampered" Moscow's relations with London.

HITS W. GERMANY

He again attacked West German "militarism" and warned that the Warsaw Pact nations of Communist Eastern Europe would take steps to strengthen their defense.

He said there are "no possibilities for mutual development of relations with West Germany" even though trade continues.

"At the present time the prospects of our relations with France are not bad," he said.

Brezhnev said this was due to "the realistic position of the French government" in attempting to improve relations with the Red camp.

Brezhnev again insisted that since last October, when Nikita Khrushchev was deposed, Moscow had attempted to restore with Red China but "unfortunately we were not supported by the leaders of the Communist party of China."

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — Some say it looks like a gaudy movie theater. Some have likened it to a cathedral. But all agree — the modernistic, domed auditorium is as spectacular as the world-famous figures who have appeared in it. This is where Pope Paul VI will speak Monday — the U.N. Assembly chamber, scene of Nikita S. Khrushchev's shoe pounding, Fidel Castro's marathon attack on the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower's stoma-for-peace speech, and countless other dramatic episodes.

Because of its involvement in history-making events, the chamber has become one of the great tourist attractions in New York.

When the Pope enters the 2,000-seat auditorium, he, like other visitors, is likely to be struck by the melange of brilliant colors. Blue and gold are predominant, but also present are forest green, red, black, gray and blonde wood.

UNCONVENTIONAL SHAPE
The shape of the chamber is as unconventional as the color combination. All the walls are tilted, curved, or both. The sweeping curved wall behind the podium resembles a great mass of gilded organ pipes. There is a gap in the center, for a giant insignia of the United Nations.

Near the back of the chamber are the big conversation pieces, two abstract murals by the late Ferdinand Leger. These are referred to by old U.N. hands as "Fried Eggs" and "Bugs Bunny." Each covers a whole wall next to the public galleries and will be visible to the Pope as he speaks.

The pontiff will enter the chamber through the lofty-ceilinged public lobby, where he will be greeted by Secretary General U. Thant. After a brief visit to the tiny U.N. meditation room, he will ascend a long ceremonial ramp, then proceed down the center aisle to the rostrum.

He will find the auditorium jammed with an audience of diplomats, invited guests and newsmen, all seated in advance of his arrival. His speech will be heard also by overflow crowds in nearby rooms. Thousands will be turned away for lack of space.

TO BE PROTECTED
As in the case of other world figures, the Pope will be protected by stringent security measures. Only carefully screened persons will be permitted in the areas through which he will pass.

U.N. security officials expect no trouble, but they never rule out the possibility of cranks or fanatics. They offer safeguards to all important persons and so far they have never had any serious trouble in the assembly.

In its 13 years, the assembly chamber has had a constant procession of kings, presidents, prime ministers and colorful personalities.

It has seen African leaders in their picturesque native costumes; rightist dictators, such as Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic; Communist dictators; churchmen, such as Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus; and conservatively dressed Western statesmen.

ONE OF FIRST
President Eisenhower was one of the first world leaders to speak in the auditorium. His visit was in 1953, just a year after the new assembly building was completed. Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson addressed the assembly in later years.

One of the big events was the 1960 gathering of heads of government which brought together Khrushchev, Castro, Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Indonesia's President Sukarno, U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Yugoslavia's President Tito and a score of others.

Although Khrushchev and Castro got the most attention, some of the African leaders, including Guinea's Sékou Touré and Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah, were among the most colorful in their brilliant robes. There were others also, such as Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi of India in her exotic saris and Queen Elizabeth II, spoke behind the green marble lectern where the Pope will stand.

Bias Ruled Out for Real Estate Offices

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Civil Rights Commission ruled Wednesday that a real estate office is a place of public accommodation and its operators must give equal treatment to Negroes.

The ruling came on a complaint by William Smith, a Negro student at Michigan State University, that East Lansing real estate broker Richard Clau-cherty refused to show and ne-gotiate on a publicly advertised apartment because of Smith's race.

The commission held that Clau-cherty's action "constituted unlawful discrimination under the Constitution." It directed preparation of a "cease and desist" order to apply in the fu-ture.

Clau-cherty said he had no immediate comment.

PUBLIC ACCOMMODATION

The commission said a real estate office and all extensions of its business must be regard-ed as a place of public accom-modation.

The action upheld the findings of commissioners Damon Keith and Mrs. Frank Wylie.

A claim by Clau-cherty's at-torney that the commission lacked jurisdiction in the matter was dismissed.

He Can Tell by the Smell

LINDSBORG, Kan. (U—Mike Chambers' pet de-or-dorized skunk ran away. Mike's cousin, Larry Webster, 14, was on his way to a school dance when he was sure he saw Mike's pet. He pursued the fleeing skunk and threw his coat over it. Larry didn't go to the dance. It wasn't Mike's skunk.

Iowa Amish School Plan Nixed

OELWEIN, Iowa (AP) — The Oelwein Community School Dis-trict has rejected a proposal of-fered by Iowa Atty. Gen. Law-rence Scallie to end the long im-passe over the schooling of Amish children.

The board, instead, renewed, with slight changes, an offer re-jected by the Amish earlier on re-ligious grounds.

The once-rejected plan called for the Amish children to travel by bus to the Hazelton Public School where they would be taught in a nongraded class-room for one year. After a year, the plan would be re-evaluated.

Board members decided to re-submit the plan, except that they would give the Amish the al-ternative of sending the chil-dren to a rural school. Board members said it might be more acceptable to the Amish than a school in town.

If the modification is rejected, board members said, prosecu-tions and fines of the Amish fathers will be resumed.

The Oelwein School Board is trying to force the sect to send its 53 children to schools with state-certified teachers.

The Amish have been operat-ing two small schools with teachers who have only an eighth-grade education. State law requires all children to attend schools with state-certified teachers. The Amish, however, object to sending their children to the public school at Hazelton for fear they will be subjected to "worldly" influences. They say they cannot af-ford to hire certified teachers for their own schools.

Scallie recommended the board "consider supplying certi-fied teachers" for the Amish schools, meanwhile taking them over and operating them as public schools. The cost, he said, would be $6,000 to $7,000 a year, of which about $4,000 would come in state school aids.

Annual Membership Meeting

M.D.'s Wives Have Tea

Oakland County doctors may have had the day off Wednesday, but their wives went out to tea.

The annual membership meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society was held at the Bloomfield Hills home of Mrs. John R. Ylvisaker.

One of the main projects of the auxiliary is providing nursing scholarships.

Funds for this service are being raised by a theatre party at the Fisher theatre on Oct. 27 when "Carousel" will be playing.

Members also work with health agencies in their respective communities.

Tickets for "Carousel" may be had from Mrs. Kenneth Vandenberg of Orchard Lake or from any member of the auxiliary.

BPW Club's Week Busy With Events

National Business Women's Week Sunday through Oct. 10 will be observed by Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club.

Highlighting the week of events will be a dinner at Haven Hill. Plans for the affair were completed at the group's Tuesday meeting at the Cherokee Road home of Vera Bassett.

During the meeting Mrs. Raymond L. Cole reported on her briefing and tour at Cape Kennedy last week.

Following the business session members viewed color slides of the club's recent national and international convention held in Washington, D.C.

Assisting Miss Bassett as hostesses were Mary Eleanor Lockman, Mrs. Russell Brackett, Mrs. George Pudduk and Mrs. W. O. Coxen.

On Oct. 17 members will attend the meeting of District 10, BPW, at St. Clair Inn.

Reappoint Him

William Poffenberger of Fernbury Drive has been reappointed as a graduate research assistant in the department of psychology at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa.

Mr. Poffenberger holds a bachelor of arts degree from Oakland University and is one of 17 men and women named by Bucknell as graduate research assistants.

Mrs. Robert Lyons, Bayou Drive, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society, arrives at the annual membership tea Wednesday. With her is Mrs. Nick Rendziperis of Rochester, a new member.

Swedish Council Ready to Crown Lucia Queen

By SIGNE KARLSTROM
A Lucia Queen contest has been announced by Glen A. Carlson, president of Detroit-Swedish Council. The event is creating tremendous interest in all those of Scandinavian descent throughout Michigan, not only because it is a "first," but because it is such a charming tie to the traditional Lucia Day in Stockholm, Sweden.

Lucia is known as the Queen of Light and, on Dec. 13th, the day of her martyrdom, she is celebrated throughout Sweden in homes, hospitals, offices, plants, wherever people gather.

BEGINNINGS CHRISTMAS

Lucia Day is the beginning of the Swedish Christmas season.

On Nov. 27, the first Lucia Queen of Michigan will be crowned during the Lucia Banquet held by Detroit-Swedish Council in Detroit.

Girls of Scandinavian descent, between the ages of 18 and 23 are eligible to enter the Lucia contest. Six will be chosen to appear at the Lucia Banquet.

These six will be judged by a jury of prominent Michigan citizens, headed by Mrs. Sixten Ehrling, wife of the conductor of Detroit Symphony Orchestra. The winner will be crowned as Lucia Queen of Michigan with the five remaining girls becoming her Court of Honor.

TO EUROPE
She will be flown to Scandinavia for a two-week visit to Norway, Denmark and Finland culminating in her appearance at the annual Lucia Day Festivities in Stockholm on Dec. 13. Here she will appear with all the other Lucia Queens of Sweden and Lucia Queens of Scandinavian descent throughout the world.

On her return home, she will appear several times before service clubs, children's hospitals or other organizations to carry on the Lucia tradition of goodwill to all. The contest ends midnight, Oct. 30th.

COMMITTEE

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin R. Anderson of Grosse Pointe are chairmen of the committee. Assisting them are: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Jones, the Lawrence R. Nelsons, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Lundin, Consul and Mrs. Edward Johansson, Mr. and Mrs. Karl-Gunnar Aronsson, the Bengt L. Swensons, and Mrs. Gunnar Karlstrom.

"We'll play that one next," says Mrs. John Ylvisaker (left) of Bloomfield Hills. She was hostess to the doctors' wives attending the first social event of the auxiliary year.

Luncheon Starter for Club Year

Child Study Group III opened the season with a recent luncheon in the Wenonah Drive home of Mrs. James R. Jenkins.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Robert Shorey, Mrs. Kenneth Nagley, Mrs. Robert Ryerson and Mrs. Fred Miller. Highlighting the meeting was the bestowal of honorary membership upon three long-time members: Mrs. Maxwell Shadley, Mrs. Paul Gorman and Mrs. Clarke Kimball.

The program was conducted by Mrs. Carl Bird. She was assisted by club members in the enactment of a socio-drama "Scattered Showers," which depicted three mothers and their various reactions to situations of danger involving their children.

Mrs. E. W. O'Brien, president, announced committee chairmen who include: Mrs. Shorey, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Robert Flynn, Mrs. Richard Cori, Mrs. Wendall Doolin and Mrs. Robert Bego.

Others heading committees are Mrs. William Belaney, Mrs. Emil Bair, and Mrs. Leslie Miller.

Mrs. Robert Newill, Mrs. Robert Price and Mrs. Frank Schoenemann were the group's guests.

Start Jr. Music Groups

Junior Club activities sponsored by Pontiac Tuesday Musicales will be organized for the year this Sunday.

The three youth groups offer opportunities for musical service through performance as well as study and fellowship. Local scholarship competitions and state wide festivals are a special feature each spring.

Elementary school students in the fourth grade or higher belong to Matinee Musicales. Junior high scholars join the Junior League and high schoolers the Senior League.

Membership requirements include that the young people have studied their instrument for two years and perform upon admission to the group. During the season, members are expected to perform at least twice at the monthly Sunday meetings.

COUNSELORS

Mrs. Charles Matson Jr. is counselor for Matinee Musicales, assisted by Mrs. L. G. Cox. Mrs. Betty Quist and Mrs. Joseph House work with the intermediates and Mrs. O. L. Smith is Senior League advisor with Mrs. E. E. Harris her coworker.

Any music student in the Pontiac area is eligible to join one of the groups. Further information may be had by calling Mrs. Floyd Warczak, Sheffield Street.

PTA Will Meet

Roosevelt School PTA members plan a meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The program will feature a talk by Mrs. Gertrude Ealy, followed by a reception.

ther information may be had by calling Mrs. Floyd Warczak, Sheffield Street.

Mrs. M. G. Shane, Hammond Lake (standing) passes out music to Mrs. Collis A. Scott (center), Cherokee Road, and Mrs. C. F. Larkey Jr., Strathdon Way. All are members of the Tuesday Musicales Chorus which held its fall organizational meeting Wednesday.

Sailor Has Sleepless Nights Worrying About Nightmares

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I'm a sailor aboard the USS Midway. I left my fiancée back in the States and we plan to get married as soon as I hit home port in San Francisco. Since our ship left the States I did my best to be true to my girl. However, after 40 days at sea we got liberty in Japan.

I went on the town, had a couple of beers and "sinned" a little. (A whole lot, I think, would be more truthful.) I didn't think much of it until the guys I work with told me that I talk in my sleep, and very plainly! (Like I just come right out in plain language and tell everything.)

Now I didn't intend telling my fiancée, either before or after we marry, about this little episode in Japan, but what do I do if I admit something in my sleep and my wife hears me?

Albanian Is Expected to Echo Peking Line in U.N. Address

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Albania, Red China's voice in the United Nations, was expected to blast the United States and the Soviet Union before the General Assembly today and to take a few side-swipes at India.

Diplomats predicted that Albania's foreign minister, Behar Shytilla, would echo the Peking line that the United States is waging aggressive war against the Vietnamese people and that the Soviet Union has become an accomplice of the West.

There was also speculation that Shytilla would denounce India as the aggressor in the Pakistan conflict and accuse New Delhi of poaching on Red Chinese soil.

Shytilla was also expected to dredge up the issue of U.N. assessments that paralyzed the work of the assembly for a year.

PROCEDURAL VOTE

The assembly sat for the entire 19th session under a no-vote truce except for one procedural ballot — taken at the insistence of Albania. The arrangement was worked out to avoid a showdown on a provision in the U.N. Charter that countries two years delinquent in U.N. assessments shall lose their assembly vote.

The stalemate was broken last month when U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg announced the United States would abandon its insistence that the Soviet Union, France and 10 others be deprived of their vote.

Albania had bitterly opposed the efforts of a special committee to work out some compromise on the thorny dues issue.

Shytilla, a bespectacled diplomat, in the past two years has questioned the wisdom of the Moscow treaty partially banning nuclear weapon tests, accused the United States of following a policy of nuclear blackmail and declared that India, not Peking, was the aggressor in the 1962 border war.

Shytilla has been one of the most vocal advocates of a United Nations seat for Red China.

Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi told a news conference in Peking Wednesday his government will not join the United Nations because the world body is "a tool of U.S. aggression."

Nearly three-fourths of the members protested South Africa's segregation policies Wednesday with a walkout of delegates from an estimated 85 countries. They left the assembly hall as South Africa's Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller took the rostrum to give his policy speech. All the African and most of the Asian nations took part in the boycott.

Among the 32 members remaining in the hall were the United States, Britain and France.

Before Muller spoke, Ambassador Achkar Mafek of Guinea, chairman of the U.N. special committee on apartheid (race segregation), took the floor and told Assembly President Amintore Fanfani of Italy there would be a walkout. He said the assembly should be adjourned for lack of a quorum.
