Eastern Seaboard Battling Deep Snow

Both Capital and New York in Storm's Path

Will Be Buried Under 12-15 Inches by Night; Traffic Crawls

NEW YORK (UP)—The heaviest snowfall in five years swept the mid-Atlantic seaboard today and was expected to pile 15 inches of snow on major cities before ending sometime tonight.

The snow was driven by high winds and Connecticut's weatherman called it an "old-fashioned blizzard" as drifts piled up from a fall that measured five inches at mid-morning.

New York was hushed under 8½ inches of snow at 10 a. m. Weatherman Ernest Christie said it was very windy—25 to 30 miles per hour—and cold—a low of 14 degrees before dawn—but not quite a blizzard.

The snow blanketed New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania, covering mountains and valleys as far south as Tennessee. Traffic jammed up in Boston and thinned out in the sub-zero woods of Maine.

The Washington Weather Bureau said the nation's law makers would be plowing through a 12-inch fall by night. Traffic on 56 major streets was restricted to chain-equipped autos.

Seven persons had been killed in storm-caused auto accidents in New Jersey. Two Brooklyn children died in the explosion of an over-heated oil stove.

Speed limits on major highways were lowered to 35 miles per hour and most motorists heeded repeated warnings from auto clubs, state and city police to keep their cars off the roads.

Schools were closed in communities throughout New Jersey and New York's suburban Westchester and Nassau counties.

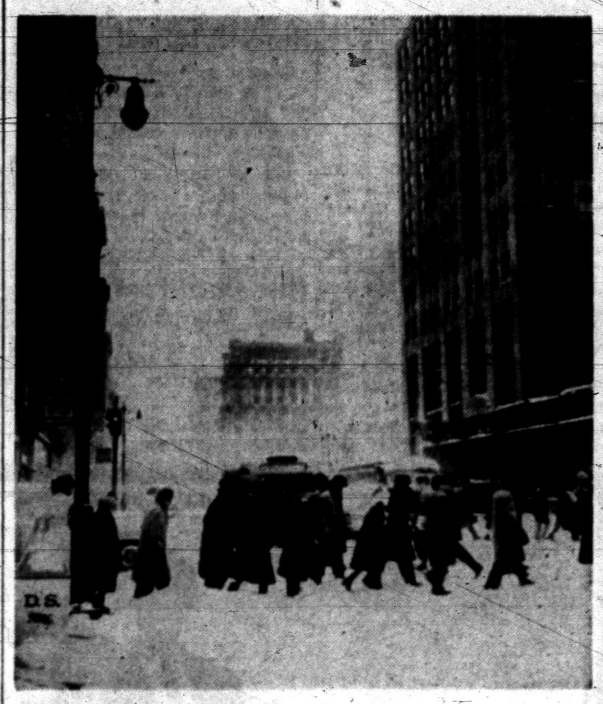

In New York City, trash collections were halted and every available garbage truck was on the streets behind a snow plow. The sanitation department issued a call for all available men and trucks to supplement the city's large snow-removal staff.

Commuter trains were running fairly close to schedule into New York City but commuting buses reported delays up to one hour—usually because of highway obstruction from stalled private cars.

A similar problem beset New York City's surface transportation with buses piled up on one major north-south avenue waiting their turn at a slight but slippery hill.

Airports reported ceilings adequate for flight and commercial flights operating with only the delays necessary for occasional clearing of the runways.

Legislature Gets Williams' 1st Balanced State Budget

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams submitted his first balanced budget to the Legislature today, eight per cent higher than the current year's appropriation.

Williams recommended that the Legislature appropriate $365,541,568 out of the general fund and said his fiscal authorities estimated revenues would reach that sum for the next fiscal year.

He told the lawmakers that "the state's long era of deficit financing and red ink appears to have been ended.

"The operation of the general fund for the current fiscal year is in the black," Williams said. "The continued favorable balance between revenues and expenditures is rapidly reducing the accumulated deficit. Assuming that there will be no unexpected changes in the picture during the next few months, the general fund will show a surplus estimated at a little more than a million dollars at the end of the current year (June 30, 1954)."

The Williams budget is $26,947,968 more than the current year's appropriations.

Of this increase, $10,526,396 or 39 per cent is the result of the automatic increase in state school aid appropriations under the sales tax diversion.

The lawmakers assemble Wednesday. In keeping with an implied promise to the people when annual sessions were approved, the WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles and Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin begin talks today on when, where and with whom the United States and Russia may negotiate on the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Says Reds Ask to Reopen Talks

Peiping Radio Reports Move to Renew Korean Parley Stalled Dec. 12

TOKYO (AP)—The Red Peiping radio said tonight the Communists have sent a letter to U. N. officials asking a reopening of the preliminary negotiations for a Korean peace conference.

The broadcast said the letter asked the U. N. Command to send liaison officers to Panmunjom at 11 a.m. Wednesday to meet with Communist liaison officers to discuss the time for resuming the talks.

Preliminary negotiations to arrange for the conference were broken off Dec. 12 when U. S. Envoy Arthur Dean walked out on Red negotiators after the Communists had accused the U. S. government of "perfidy."

Dean said then that the Reds would have to withdraw the charge if they wanted the preliminary negotiations to continue.

Later, however, a highly placed source in Korea said that the U.S. might consider a direct Red move to get the preliminary talks going again as tantamount to withdrawal of the perfidy accusation.

As heard here, the Red broadcast made no mention of Communist retraction of the accusation.

Peiping said the Communist letter was accompanied by statements from Red China's Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai and North Korea's Foreign Minister Nam Il calling for speedy convening of the conference.

4 Plane Crashes Kill 51, Listing Influential Men

BOAC Craft Explodes Over Mediterranean; 12 Die in Louisiana

From AP and UP Dispatches

Fifty-one persons, including the president of Braniff Airlines, were killed in four separate plane crashes around the globe Sunday.

Among them were persons of prominence and wealth and four U. S. airmen on training flights.

The worst disaster was the crash of a British jet airliner which was streaking toward London at the rate of 500 miles an hour. It fell in flames over the Mediterranean Sea between the storied islands of Elba and Montecristo, carrying 35 persons to their death, including two Americans.

A fishing boat recovered 15 bodies yesterday. Planes and ships kept up the search today for the other 20 aboard the Singapore-to-London pride of British air transport.

The airship plunged into the sea yesterday morning between Elba, Napoleon's island of exile, and the Isle of Montecristo, off the northwest coast of the Italian peninsula.

The government-owned British Overseas Airways, operator of the Comet, identified the American passengers as Mrs. Dorothy Baker of Wilmette, Ill., and H. E. Schuchmann, of the MacMillan Publishing Co. of New York.

It was not immediately known if their bodies had been recovered.

This morning British Overseas Airways (BOAC) had not officially given them up for lost.

Harrelson Hurt in Plane Mishap

Pontiac Representative Treated for Cuts After Forced Landing

State Rep. Leaun Harrelson (D-Pontiac) and a private Pontiac pilot were injured slightly Saturday when a smashed windshield forced their light plane down in western New York.

Pilot Joseph Pollina, 43, of 3540 Oakshire Dr., and Harrelson, 35, of 26 Delaware Dr., were treated at Tri-County Hospital in Gowanda, N. Y., for cuts. A passenger, Mrs. Velma M. LaMont, 36, of Detroit, was reported uninjured.

Pollina said they were up about 4,000 feet when part of the motor cowling broke loose and crashed through the windshield of the single-engine Cessna.

Cut on the face by flying glass and momentarily dazed, Pollina said the plane plunged into a tail-spin and flew wildly before he could bring it under control only 300 feet from the ground.

He made an emergency landing in a wheat field on a farm about three miles from Gowanda. Gowanda is about 35 miles southwest of Buffalo.

Pollina said they were flying toward Watertown, N. Y., to visit friends when the accident occurred. The men were released from the hospital Saturday afternoon and returned by train to Pontiac that evening.

Warrant Issued for Key Witness

Canadian Ex-Convict Named an Assailant in Reuther Case

DETROIT (UP) — A warrant was issued today charging Donald Ritchie, missing witness in the Walter Reuther shooting, with the attempted assassination of the labor leader nearly six years ago.

At the same time, Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard recommended lie detector tests for two Detroit policemen who let Ritchie escape from a downtown hotel suite Friday.

The warrant permits Canadian authorities to arrest Ritchie as a fugitive. He fled into Canada and was traced as far as Chatham, Ont., but Provincial Police could not arrest him because he was not charged with any crime.

Ritchie, 33, an ex-convict with a long police record, accused Santo (Sam) Perrone, 58; his son-in-law Carl Renda, 35, Clarence Jacobs, and Peter Lombardo, with the shotgun attempt on the life of the CIO president April 20, 1948.

Ritchie signed two statements describing the crime and said he was paid $5,000 by Renda for his part in the plot. He said he was in the car with Lombardo and Jacobs. His job was to drive the getaway car if trouble developed. He said Jacobs did the actual shooting.

Ritchie had been held in "protective custody" at a hotel. He was being guarded by detective Wayne H. Glisman and patrolman William M. Krupka when he escaped on the pretext of taking a shower in another room.

Court Lets Alien Draft Dodger Stay Free Till Hearing

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Supreme Court ruled today that Serge Rubinstein, Russian-born millionaire and convicted draft dodger, is entitled to go free on bail during governement deportation proceedings against him.

The ruling rejected the claim of Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., that Congress has specifically authorized the Justice Department to hold aliens in jail for six months during such proceedings.

The 44-year-old Rubinstein, who served two and one-half years in prison following his conviction for draft-dodging in 1947, claims he is now a "stateless" person, and that there is no country that will receive him.

President Asks Flexible Farm Price Supports

Wants $500,000,000 in Surpluses Frozen From Regular Markets

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower recommended today that two and a half billion dollars of present farm surpluses be "frozen" from regular markets and that the government move into a flexible farm price support program.

In a special message to Congress, the President said the agricultural problem is as "serious and complex" as any confronting the legislators.

"Immediate action is needed," he told them, "to arrest the growing threat to our present agricultural program and to prevent the subsequent economic distress that could follow in our farming areas."

As he did in his State of the Union message last week, the President said a flexible price support plan must be the back bone of new farm programs.

Eisenhower also said special emphasis in the future must be placed on efforts to develop foreign markets for agriculture's greatly expanded productive capacity.

Under his proposal to "freeze" certain surpluses, the excess supply of these commodities such as wheat and corn would be isolated from the market so as not to have a depressing effect on prices.

Under the flexible program, government price guarantees would be high in time of shortages to encourage production, and low in times of surpluses to encourage consumption and discourage over production.

The President said the present war-born mandatory supports should be permitted to expire at the end of this crop year.

"A farm program" he said, "first of all should assist agriculture to earn its proportionate share of the national income. It must likewise aim at stability in farm income. There should therefore be no wide year to year fluctuation in the level of price support."

He said too that "a farm program must fairly represent the interests of both producers and consumers."

Stabbing Fatal to Pontiac Man

Hold 3 for Investigation of Murder After Knifing Here Sunday

A 19-year-old factory worker, Raul Velez of 294 W. Wilson Ave., was fatally stabbed Sunday morning after he and several companions had left a wedding celebration, according to Pontiac Police.

Velez, according to an autopsy by St. Joseph Mercy Hospital authorities, died shortly afterward of a severed artery. He was knifed in the left arm and back.

Detectives Sgt. Donny Ashley and Raymond Meggitt said three persons are being held in Oakland County Jail for investigation of murder.

Scheduled to make statements today to Oakland County Prosecutor's office are George Theobald, 19, of 562 Arthur St.; Roberto Ortega, 21, of 270 Franklin Rd., and a 16-year-old boy.

Pontiac Shivers in Wintry Blast

Five Above Last Night Is Record for Season; More Snow Tonight

This winter's coldest weather gripped Pontiac today as the U. S. Weather Bureau held out little hope for relief.

An Arctic cold front that pushed into the Midwest this weekend dropped temperatures to 5 above zero here today—two degrees under the winter's previous low of 7 above, recorded Dec. 23.

The Weather Bureau expects snow flurries tonight and Tuesday with a low tonight of 8 to 12 degrees and high Tuesday of 15 to 18. North winds will rise to 12 to 18 miles an hour.

However, this area probably will escape crippling snows that have blanketed the Eastern seaboard.

W. W. Oak, chief meteorologist at the U. S. Weather Bureau's Detroit office, explained the heavy snows came when the Arctic air met warm, moist air coming up from the Gulf of Mexico. This "collision" happened, he said, a couple of hundred miles south of the Pontiac area.

Temperatures, falling from a high of 39 degrees Saturday morning, dropped to 25 at midnight—the high for Sunday. They kept dropping to hit 6 above just before midnight Sunday—the low for the day. Mercury stood at 10 above at 8 a.m. today, rising to 21 by 2 p.m.

Carmen Comes to Halt as Don Jose Rips Pants

LONDON (UP) — Bizet's opera Carmen came to a sudden halt in crowded Convent Garden when the clear tone of tenor Robert Thomas was accompanied by the sound of tearing cloth.

While singing Don Jose, the chubby tenor split his pants when he stooped over to pick up a rose thrown by Carmen.

One Proposal Calls for Vote Before Strikes

Another Would Allow States More Power in Labor Disputes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress to adopt 14 amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor law, including a provision that workers must vote approval of any strike before it can go into effect.

On the strike proposal the President recommended that before a union could order workers off their jobs the workers be required to approve the action in a secret, government-held election.

Eisenhower's proposals contained some changes suggested by management and some asked by labor.

Among the presidential proposals was one that would give states more jurisdiction in labor disputes. Others would require employers to submit non-Communist affidavits as well as union leaders, and would remove some of the present restrictions against union boycotts and strikers.

Eisenhower called on Congress to make a "thorough study" of union welfare pension funds "with a view of enacting such legislation as will protect and conserve these funds for the millions of working men and women who are the beneficiaries.

There have been numerous suggestions from management and Congress members that such funds should have public supervision, similar to insurance regulations now in effect.

The President reiterated his conviction that the Taft-Hartley Act is "sound legislation." But he said experience gained during the seven years the law has been in effect, indicates that changes are needed "to reinforce its basic objectives."

The President's recommendations appear to steer a middle course between the expressed desires of labor and management.

The proposal for a pre-strike poll of workers is not without precedent in American labor law.

The Smith-Connally act of World War II required assent from workers before they could legally go out on strike.

In suggesting the adoption of this provision as part of the Taft-Hartley Act, Eisenhower said, "There is nothing which so vitally effects the individual employe as the loss of his pay when he is called on strike.

"In such an important decision he should have an opportunity to express his free choice by secret ballot held under government auspices."

* * *

In his discussion of welfare funds, the President noted that the law now bars an employer from making payments to a union to help finance such funds unless the fund meets certain standards.

But Eisenhower said "these standards are not adequate to protect and conserve these funds that

President Details Changes in T-H Law to Congress

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today made these recommendations to Congress for 14 changes in the Taft-Hartley Labor Law:

1. Require that union strike votes be held secretly under government auspices before a strike may be called.

2. Require the Federal Mediation Service to conduct special negotiations in a labor dispute where an injunction has been issued, and make "discretionary" applications to the National Labor Relations Board for injunctions in secondary boycott cases.

3. Remove from secondary boycott status union action

8. Make non-Communist affidavits applicable to employers as well as union leaders until Congress writes new legislation dealing with communism infiltration, then possibly eliminate the affidavit requirement entirely.

9. Specifically state that a union cannot be held responsible for an act of a member solely because of his membership.

10. Insure that the right of free speech applies equally to labor and management.

11. Initiate a Congressional study with a view to legislation to protect welfare and pension funds for workers covered by them.

12. Simplify the requirements for union financial reports.

13. Provide that an employe's union dues check-off authorization continue until the end of the contract unless he withdraws it earlier.

14. Clarify the act to remove present conflicts with state laws so that it is clear the states are not deprived of the right to deal with strikes endangering the health and safety of the states' citizens.

U. S. officials are talking in terms of talks between the United States and Russia, or those two plus Britain. A three-power conference looks like the best bet at the moment. It would focus on two issues:

1. President Eisenhower's proposal, made to the United Nations Dec. 8, for an international pool of atomic materials and know-how made up of contributions from the United States, Russia and other atomic powers and devoted to such peaceful uses as production of power and the medical benefits of atomic materials.

2. A counterproposal put forward by Moscow for a pledge against the use of atomic weapons. The Russians have presented this as a first step toward eliminating all such weapons from the arsenals of the world.

Williams' Budget Goes to Legislature

The governor's budget message recommended the expenditure of $180,200,000 for education, an increase of $17,700,000 over this year. Included is $8,200,000 for construction at state colleges, double the amount appropriated this year.

The governor did not disclose the details of his construction requests, promising to do so later.

For state operations, the governor asked $183,600,000, an increase of $10,700,000 over this year. This included a total capital outlay request of $14,500,000, compared to the total $9,200,000 allowed by the Legislature for this year.

The executive budget requested $45,800,000 for mental hygiene, up 12.6 per cent. This included $1,400,000 for construction, slightly less than granted this year, but proposing funds for three child guidance clinics.

In addition, the governor asked for $14,200,000 from the hospital bond issue money, including another $1,000,000 to complete a children's psychiatric unit at the University of Michigan and $1,800,000 for a new children's mental hospital at Northville.

For the corrections system, Williams asked for $14,900,000, up 16.4 per cent. Included was $2,400,000 for construction—$1,500,000 to start a new medium security prison, $450,000 to complete a cell block at Marquette branch prison, $47,500 for a prison industries warehouse at Jackson and $50,000 for another prison camp or a probation recovery camp.

The public health request totaled $16,500,000, up nine per cent. The governor included $460,000 for a concentrated campaign against tuberculosis.

He recommended the closing of the Pinecrest State Sanatorium.

The public welfare request totaled $47,100,000, a slight decrease in administrative costs from this year. The amount for payment to needy persons is unchanged.

The governor planned to appear before the combined House and Senate at 11 a.m. Thursday to present his message of general recommendations for legislative action.

In his message the President expressed his hope that the changes he suggested "will be enacted by Congress promptly, for they will more firmly establish the basic principles of the law."

Eisenhower said:

"Government should continue to search diligently for sound measures to improve the lot of the working men and women, mindful that conditions and standards of employment change as the products, habits and needs of men amd women change.

"It will be continualy a challenge to government to sense the aspirations of the working people of our country, that all may have the opportunity to fairly share in the results of the productive genius of our time, from which comes the material blessings of the present and a greater promise for the future."

$40,000 Blaze Destroys Home

Battle 4 Hours to Douse Fire at Hood Residence on Charing Cross Road

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Damage was estimated at $40,000 today in a fire Sunday which destroyed the Stanley R. Hood home at 4805 Charing Cross Rd.

According to Bloomfield Township Chief Ralph Hennerly, who made the estimate, firemen from Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Village and Troy Township battled the fire for four hours. An overheated fireplace chimney was believed to have started the blaze.

Mrs. Hood, her daughter, Kitty 19, and her son, Roger, 18, escaped unharmed when a passerby told them the roof of their seven-bedroom home was ablaze.

The firemen with seven pieces of equipment were hampered by lack of water and freezing temperatures.

According to firemen, neighbors succeeded in carrying out most of the furniture on the first floor.

Mrs. Hood, whose husband, a metallurgist, is in the East on business, and her children are living with another daughter, Mrs. Thomas H. Sheehan of 240 N. Glenhurst, Birmingham.

51 Persons Killed in 4 Plane Crashes

but a top airline official in Rome said: "I believe there are no survivors."

Fishermen here said even if anyone survived the crash, they could not have lived long in the frigid waters.

Though BOAC officials in Rome and London were skeptical, a preliminary investigation today indicated the aircraft exploded in the air, killing those aboard in the blast.

The crash in which the head of Braniff Airlines was killed occurred near the edge of Lake Wallace, La., some 10 miles south of Shreveport.

Killed in the twin-engine amphibious plane were millionaire Thomas E. Braniff, 70, of Dallas, Tex., and 11 other weathy businessmen. The men were returning to Shreveport from a duck hunting trip near Grand Chenier, La.

T. J. Rucker of Shreveport, the first on the scene, said, "I was driving to the lake when I heard the crash. I got there and saw assistance was impossible. I drove to the Forbing community and called the CAA office at the Shreveport Municipal Airport."

Harold and Julian Martinez and E. C. Crain, all of the Shreveport area, said they saw the plane flying low. They said it wavered, hit the trees and then crashed and burned.

The plane ripped through the trees for 100 yards before it hit a house.

At Alameda, Calif., a Navy pilot was killed when his F9F jet fighter crashed into San Francisco Bay a few minutes after taking off from the Alameda Naval Air Station.

Unions Launch Drive for Jobs

Demand Federal Action; GOP Says Drop Is Only Transition Period

WASHINGTON (UP)—Union officials said today that labor is launching an all-out drive to get the administration and Congress to halt rising unemployment.

Government experts estimate that the number of jobless may pass the 2,000,000 mark by several hundred thousand this month.

This would be higher than January in 1953 and 1952, about the same as 1951, and about half the 1949-50 peak.

But the CIO and, in a more moderate tone, the AFL, last week contended that the job situation actually is worse than the government figures show.

Census bureau experts who draw up the figures conceded that there may be a "little" hidden unemployment in them. But they said the CIO's argument, at least, were "exaggerations."

Union officials said that they are worried not only about the "rapid" rise in unemployment this winter from record low levels last fall but also about the drop in overtime work and the rash of temporary lay-offs in the auto and transportation industries.

All these factors affect buying power, they pointed out, and the demand for goods.

A ranking House Republican, Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa), conceded Sunday that the nation is in a business "recession" but called it only a "transition period."

House Democratic whip John W. McCormack (Mass) charged, however, that the recession was "deliberately" caused by Eisenhower administration policies.

January and February are normally the months of highest unemployment because of seasonal halts in the construction and other industries due to bad weather, the post-Christmas lull, inventory adjustments, and the annual lull in hiring.

But the Labor Department last Friday noted that unemployment insurance claims have been rising faster than usual this fall and winter. Their figures indicated that unemployment may have passed the 2,000,000 mark at the turn of the year.

Police Forces Join to Find Stolen Car

Several Oakland County police departments and Michigan State Police converged on central Oakland County Saturday to help Farmington police run down a stolen car.

Two juveniles, escapees from Boys' Republic Juvenile home in Wayne County, managed to escape on foot.

The car, stolen earlier from Detroit, was first spotted by Farmington Police who gave chase but lost sight of the auto.

Other department cars swarmed into the area and one hour later Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies Ted Gunn and William Smith located the car at 11-Mile and Orchard Lake Rds. The two occupants seen in the car earlier had fled on foot.

Songstress Peggy Lee was the "Junior Prom Date" in 1952. The 1953 date was skipped.

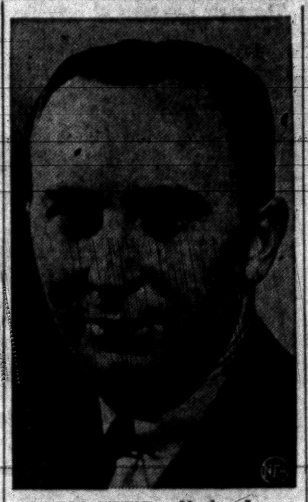

It is the custom for WYBC to sponsor the collective date "any year a satisfactory candidate is available."

Lake Orion Woman Hurt in Auto Crash

Report Denies 'Book Burning'

McCarthy Body Replies to Critics of Probes in Overseas Libraries

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) says it wasn't "book burning" to remove "Communist books" from U. S. overseas libraries.

The committee wrote into a report made public yesterday some caustic words for its critics and the comment that some of the officials of the overseas information program under the last Democratic administration showed "curious color blindness to anything Red or pink."

The group, which investigated the libraries for four controversy-packed months last year, said "blatantly pro-Communist, pro-Soviet and anti-American material was used in them. Books by "communists and those who have aided the Communists" totaled more than 30,000 copies, it said.

The subcommittee said the head of the new U. S. Information Agency (USIA), Theodore C. Streibert, should be invited next month to tell the subcommittee about "his accomplishments and improved procedures during the past six months."

* * *

The report made public yesterday said "many of those who now complain of alleged 'book burning' apparently made no public protests when the United States government itself in 1946 destroyed literally hundreds of thousands if not millions of books in occupied Germany."

It said destruction of books deemed to be Nazi, militaristic or anti-democratic was conducted by military government authorities on such a scale in conquered Germany that it was almost impossible to re-establish German schools until textbooks could be rewritten.

"Book burning sauce for the Nazi goose was not sauce for the Communist gander. In our opinion, neither the propaganda of the Nazis or the Communists should be encouraged or promoted by the United States government."

Fork-Like Rock Imprisons Boy Several Hours

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A fork-like rock formation held a 13-year-old climber captive for several hours, 40 feet above the ground, and a sheriff's posse had to scale the cliff to rescue him.

Sheriff's Capt. James B. Miller said the boy, Richard Powell of Apple Valley, felt himself falling yesterday while crawling up the escarpment. He threw his weight to one side, against the cliff, and slid feet-first into the crevice.

There he stuck. Deputy Freeman Lewis lassoed a rock above Richard and climbed up to him. Several airmen from a nearby base also climbed up. Then Lewis went on above Richard and dropped a second line, which was secured beneath the boy's arms. Richard was hoisted out and lowered to the ground, little the worse for his experience.

Corporation Tax Terms Sought

Rep. Kean's Proposal Would Keep 52 Pct. Rate Until Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Kean (R-NJ) today proposed a compromise of sharp differences over corporation income tax rates which now divide key House tax writers and the Eisenhower administration.

Significant as one of the first public moves in this direction, Kean's proposal would (1) continue the present 52 per cent corporate income tax rate through 1954 and (2) lower it to 50 per cent effective next Jan. 1.

President Eisenhower has asked Congress to keep corporate taxes where they are for another year. But a number of GOP tax writers on Capitol Hill, and some Democrats, favor letting it drop to 47 per cent as scheduled April 1.

* * *

There have been suggestions that an April 1 compromise of 50 per cent might be reached. Kean, a member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, adopted that figure but said he would urge that it not be put into effect until the start of 1955.

Eisenhower, in his State of the Union message Thursday, asked Congress to cancel not only the corporation tax cut due April 1 but also scheduled reductions in excise taxes.

"Because of the present need for revenue," the President said, "the corporation income tax should be kept at the current rate of 52 per cent for another year, and the excise taxes scheduled to be reduced on April 1, including those on liquor, tobacco, gasoline and automobiles, should be continued at present rates."

* * *

Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and a champion of tax reductions, is expected to oppose strenuously any such course in federal tax policy. Opposition has been voiced by other senior committee Republicans.

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Miss Universe is now California's own and she has a new title: Mrs. Ronnie Marengo.

The 17-year-old French beauty, Christiane Martel, was married yesterday to the 21-year-old son of a department store owner and left happily in a shower of rice for a Palm Springs honeymoon.

They'll be back here in two weeks and move into a new, ranch-style home with a swimming pool and he will continue managing a suburban branch of his father's store.

Picture Almost Nullifies Newspaper's Boasting

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Tucson Daily Citizen spread over eight columns at the top of page 1 a story that the Citizen had been adjudged the best daily newspaper in the state for 1953 by the Arizona Newspapers Assn.

However, a four-column picture just below the Citizen's pride-filled award story was upside down.

An alert mechanical department caught the mistake and none of the papers hit the street.

Advertising Aptitude Exams to Be Given

The American Association of Advertising Agencies again will sponsor aptitude tests this year for those desiring to enter the advertising field.

Locally, the Michigan Council of AAAA will give tests at locations to be later specified. Ernest A. Jones, vice president, MacManus, John & Adams, Inc., has been named chairman of the council and will accept all correspondence from aspiring young men and women in Michigan.

The tests, instituted in 1947, have proven satisfactory, with nearly 6,000 persons having written examinations in 30 cities across the country.

Jones points out that no previous preparation is required for exams and the tests are the best and only available method of determining aptitude for self evaluation.

In some cases the $20 cost of tests is defrayed by sponsoring companies or schools, a form of scholarship. About 75 per cent of those scoring highest have successfully entered advertising work in previous years.

Heard in a Pontiac Church Sunday

Our Vision Dim and Dark; Let Humility Shine Forth

Scripture lesson, 1st Cor. chapter 13. Bible text for the following message is the verse, "Now we see thru a glass darkly." The title of this sermon is "A Lantern In Your Hand."

Bethany Baptist Church is located on West Huron St. at Mark avenue. Rev. Fred Robert Tiffany came to the pastorate in 1946. The following is a digest of his sermon for yesterday morning:

* * *

Out of the East comes a statement which is deep in wisdom. "Religion," says this contemporary

REV. FRED R. TIFFANY

Indian leader, "is a candle, burning a multi-colored lantern. No matter which glass you look through, the candle is always the same."

This echoes St. Paul, who said, "We see through a glass darkly." Or as the R. S. V. has it, "Now we see in a mirror, dimly."

This awareness brings to each of us a deep sense of humility. My view of the lighted truth is colored — I see it darkly!

Your view of the truth is also colored, and you see it dimly! Therefore, let us not become mediocre persons engaged in endless discussions on secondary matters, the colored glasses through we individually view the light.

Only the Light is primary, timeless, and absolutely necessary for moral and spiritual values.

All churches are merely instruments, used as aids to view the truth. By their symbols, traditions, rituals and forms they constitute valuable lanterns through which to see the candle of truth, which is always the same.

These aids are all reproductions —no single one of them is the original! If you see the Light of Truth best in yours — blessings on you! Grant the same equal right to all others!

Frequently notoriety seekers denounce some particular translation of the sacred Scriptures, in order to promote the translation through which they see best the ancient truth.

Let us remember that all Bibles are translations by men, and as men are imperfect, all have some imperfections. At best we see through the glass of translations, darkly.

When I was in London, I visited the British Museum. There I viewed the original manuscript of the New Testament. In spite of the fact that I have studied Hebrew and Greek for years, I still must depend upon the skill and expertness of language scholars, who have placed on the altar of devotion their great talents in language translating.

Every Bible you have is a reproduction! Therefore, with humble gratitude to men of science, use the one which enables you the best to see the Lighted Truth, and graciously grant the same equal right to others.

Some see more clearly through the windows of the King James Version — blessings on you, use it daily!

Others view the timeless truth more vividly through the pages of the Reims - Duay translations — bless you, use it, but remember even then, you see in a mirror, dimly.

Others see the blessed truth more adequately through the Revised Standard Version. By all means use it!

Read the sacred scriptures in the translation which makes the truth clear for you — and graciously grant the same joy to others!

The important matter in a home is light. It is of secondary consequence what kinds of lamps you use to reflect that light. Don't deny someone the light of life because he won't use the same kind of lamp that you like!

The all important thing is to get the Light — and humbly remember, that having gotten it, even then you view it dimly.

Scholar, philosopher, missionary and statesman was St. Paul — but he did not become arrogant to claim that he, and he only had the light!

How humble he was — "we see," said he, "through a glass darkly."

Canada's New Oil Field

Reports from far northwestern Saskatchewan indicate that a year of intensive search for black gold has produced Canada's newest oil field.

This field officially described as containing 15,400 acres, underlies wheatlands surrounding the settlement of Smiley, 300 miles northwest of Regina.

When the first oil well in the field was brought in last September, Smiley had a population of 105. Now the town claims 350 residents and there are 30 producing wells and others are being brought in at the rate of two a week.

The oil from these wells comes from Viking sand 2,300 feet down. Experts say it is of excellent light quality like the oil from the Leduc fields of Alberta.

In 1953 Saskatchewan experienced its most intensive search for oil. This was financed by 75 Canadian and American oil companies. At year's end the province had 14 proved oil fields with 450 producing wells.

Unlike the Smiley field, oil from most other Saskatchewan wells is heavy black crude. Yet Imperial Oil Company experts who brought in the first Smiley well, believe the find there will eventually match the Leduc discovery in both quality and quantity.

More Using City Library

City Librarian Adah Shelly's annual report emphasizes again the increasingly important place this cultural institution holds in the life of the community.

During the last year public library card holders increased by 1,600 to 25,051. In 12 months they borrowed 200,617 books or 5,000 more than the previous year. This is the largest number since the depression year of 1932 when many persons had more time for reading.

At the main library, however, the number of volumes loaned declined slightly because of parking difficulties and the work of the bookmobile which serves outlying areas.

Besides indicating the growth in public use of the library, the report shows an increasing demand for non-fiction and technical subjects. Another noteworthy fact is that about half the library's business is in children's books and that a major part of bookmobile loanings were to children.

★ ★ ★

Miss Shelly's report makes it easy to understand how the projected northside branch will ease pressure on the long overcrowded main library at Williams and Lawrence Streets.

Pontiac can be proud that so large a percentage of its people make use of the library and its 49,292 books which can be such heartwarming and helpful friends.

Recovery in Greece

One of the most satisfying examples of what can be done with American economic and technical aid plus a strong local government is to be found in Greece.

From October, 1944, to last July, American economic aid to Greece totaled $1,639,000,000. In the same period, says U. S. News & World Report, the value of all U. S. military aid reached $700,000,000.

★ ★ ★

A large percentage of this money went for direct relief and emergency repairs after the Nazi occupation. Additional money was spent in the five year war against Communist guerillas.

Thanks to these funds and the forward looking policies of the Papagos government the national resurgence of Greece is one of the most heartening stories of the postwar era.

As a result Greece's unfavorable trade balance which used to run as high as $300,000,000 a year, has been reduced to $20,000,000. Its merchant fleet now totals 1,500,000 tons, not far below prewar figures.

One big trouble is that even more ship tonnage owned by Greeks is being sailed under foreign flags to escape heavy taxes. The government is negotiating with the owners in the hope of remedying this situation.

There have been noteworthy expansion of the country's electric power producing capacity and good road system, and upturns in mining and other industries. But most important of all is the startling gain in agriculture, Greece's basic industry.

Last year's wheat crop was 52 per cent above pre 1940-levels. Rice production is up 127 per cent. In cotton, citrus fruits and alfalfa the story is much the same.

All this is the fruit of technical assistance by American experts. Greek agricultural methods have been revolutionized and the country's impoverished soil is becoming fertile again.

The bigger a person's mouth, the more often he puts his foot in it, and the oftener he puts his foot in it, the bigger it becomes. This constitutes an especially vicious circle.

Dislikes County Dog Vaccinations Program

I read in the Press the letter written by "Disgusted Taxpayer" on dog vaccinations and I agree with him. This program is cruel and senseless and if Pontiac dogs are excused it is high time the township supervisors protected our dogs too.

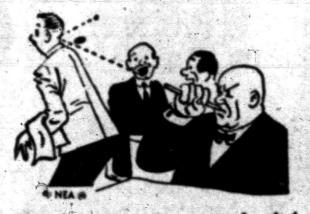

My dog is eight years old and was vaccinated a week ago and he is still suffering . . . I know. I took the treatment years ago when a cat bit me.

Home owners' dogs are mostly well cared for and any signs of sickness or drooling at the mouth would, for the safety of the owner's family, be cared for. So why make these dogs suffer? The stray dogs should be caught.

I will never have another dog if this has to be done . . . it's too cruel.

Pros and Cons of 18-Year-Old Vote Idea Bring Up Discussion on Mental Ages

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — In President Eisenhower's "something-for-everybody" message to Congress, there's one proposal which certainly on second thought will not look so good to some people as it did at first.

That's the recommendation for a constitutional amendment which will permit 18-year-olds to vote.

Few people who read it probably realized that it meant the vote for 18-year-old girls as well as boys.

Also if the controlling argument is that a boy 18 years old is not too young to fight for his country he ought to be considered old enough to vote, the reverse is also true—an 18-year-old girl would likewise be eligible for military service.

Women have never been drafted for war but many of them have volunteered in the last two wars. It is obvious that many millions of young men could be used in the front lines and in the heavier duties of supply units if girls could be used for the clerical and desk jobs and even for the domestic service in the kitchens for which able-bodied men now are utilized.

But the whole subject of voting age has not been thought through by those who for political or sentimental reasons want to lower the voting age to 18.

What exactly should be the criterion for voting in a democracy? Is calendar age the only real basis for measurement? Or is it mental age?

Thus if girls are to vote it may well be argued that the voting age should be reduced to 16 because many experts say the girl of 16 is as matured if not more so than the boy of 18.

Judging from the letters on public affairs received by this correspondent there are many girls and boys aged 16 and even lower who seem to know more about what's happening to their country and the problems of the day than those who are far above the present voting age.

Former President Truman gave a hint on the latter point when he said that instead of reducing the voting age to 18, it might better be considered whether the voting age should be advanced to 24.

Many politicians will disagree with him but anybody who has studied the interest in campaigns taken by persons below 30 will discover that it doesn't begin to compare with the interest manifested by those above 30.

Not that there aren't many in the lower age groups who don't take an interest in public affairs and reading about the issues. But the proportion is much smaller as the age bracket moves down.

While on the subject of amending the Constitution to fix the proper voting age it might be worth while to consider adding a section on compulsory voting. Other countries such as Australia have adopted that practice.

It might be stipulated that anyone who other than because of illness or disability didn't vote, might lose his vote for three successive elections.

Provisions have been made nowadays for absentee voting so that this is no longer an excuse when business or other urgent reasons [illegible] takes the citizen from his home on election day.

But notwithstanding all this the proportion of citizens who vote as related to the total number of citizens over 21 now eligible to vote has been steadily going down in the last 50 years.

One reason advanced is that women do not vote in as big numbers as men and that this brings the total percentage down.

Whatever the reason the fact is that a little more than half of those eligible to vote do so in presidential elections and as for congressional and local elections the percentages are even smaller.

Reasons for not voting have never been accurately measured though some research has been done along that line. It would seem logical that many persons who do not vote frankly do not know what the shouting is all about and have never related public questions directly to their own lives.

Others are well aware of the meaning of the issues but see little choice between present day parties or candidates and hence do not bother to vote — they don't think it makes much difference anyhow.

By adding several more million eligible voters in the teenage brackets the percentage of those who go to the polls probably would go down still further.

But in answer to this it might be argued that a substantial amount of intelligence would nevertheless be added to the total judgment of the electorate — and that is always worth while.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Asks How to Help Dad Break Alcoholic Habit

Who is to blame for Beth's tragic home life? Don't say it is just her Dad! A lot of you parents would be shocked if you took a secret poll of your own children concerning your parental habits. Here in Chicago we have twice as many taverns as churches. Which one caused Beth's unhappiness?

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case J-391: Beth G., aged 14, is a very bright high schooler.

"Dr. Crane, I have a serious problem," she began, miserably, "and I hope you can help me.

"It's my Daddy. He is a wonderful man, most of the time. But he likes to drink. And then he gets so drunk he doesn't know what he is doing.

"Last week he beat my mother till she was black and blue. Then he turned on me and struck me in the eye.

"He also called me vile names that were not true, and said I was immoral with boys and other bad things like that.

"But when he is sober, he is a wonderful Daddy. So how can I help him leave alcohol alone?"

Men start drinking for various reasons. Often in the teens they do it because our youth have been led to think it is a sign of a he-man to swill down liquor.

Others begin in college where fraternities nowadays are notorious for encouraging drinking to prove that the members are "real men."

Modern high-pressure advertising has also stampeded many supposedly intelligent women into serving alcoholic drinks to "keep up with the Joneses" and appear socially sophisticated.

Some European national groups have been accustomed to beer or wine as a table beverage, and hence still use it after they migrate to modern America.

Regardless of how one starts the liquor habit, it is a very dangerous thing, for each drink reduces one's judgment and reaction time.

Coffee and tea, orange juice and milk, soda pop and similar American beverages do not reduce one's mental alertness.

John Barleycorn is thus a very evil influence, not only on our high speed automobile highways, but in American homes, as Beth's case so tragically illustrates.

For an unhappy person will drink to fog his intelligence until he can forget. As his intelligence is anesthetized, he becomes temporarily feebleminded and soon is a moron.

That's when Beth's father attacked her mother and struck Beth in the eye. That's when he accused his innocent daughter of immorality.

Moreover, a drunkard's accusations often mirror his own mind. Besides, when your I. Q. is reduced to the moron level, you forget the products of your education, including mathematics, chemical formulae and ethics.

So a drunkard will commit crimes and act as stupidly as a child in kindergarten.

Many sober folks laugh at the silly antics of the drunkards, but the situation is no laughing matter.

For every inebriate represents a human personality that has been temporarily reduced to the level of a hog or wolf or other selfish brute.

The cure is varied. Prophylaxis is best, which means never take the first drink. That's being stressed by the Alcoholics Anonymous organization.

The A. A. (Alcoholics Anonymous) are doing a great job of restoring chronic drunkards to happy home life once more.

Tomorrow I'll give you specific methods for correcting drunkenness, but you teen-agers should remember that it is never smart to use liquor, even though your elders may have been stampeded by modern liquor ads to think otherwise.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3 cent stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his psychological charts.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
International News Service

Us oldtime sports writers like to stack a peternalistic eye on the baseball layout. We notice the Yanks and Braves have been built up like an actor's heels.

Both teams were already stronger than cigarstore air.

So it looks like they will breeze in with the wind in back of their ears. In firing Dressen we figure the front office counted their chickens before they laid the eggs.

There was considerable hasseling this winter on the players' pension fund. The front-officers wanted to back up without unloading.

We'll buzz the owners some facts of outdoors life. The game is big business. So why not paint the foul lines from home plate to the First National Bank?

They seem to forget that it's Ted Williams, Matthews, Rosen, Furillo and the others who make the turnstile buzz. Don't they realize the players are the diamond's best friend?

We've had those arguments before and the players win with the regularity of army cadence. Last year's supreme court decision didn't alter the fact that there may be a lot of loose pebbles around the infield this season.

In 1952 there was a pitcher named Bobby Shantz who was hotter than a short stove-pipe.

Then Shantz had his shrdluet by another pitcher. Now the difference in the A's attendance the next year? It dropped 300,000 people.

If we figure $1.50 a ticket it stockpiles $450,000. They don't keep that stuff in barns.

Do you think the front-office ever paid Shantz what he was worth? Did they trust Bobby with the combination of the safe?

Milk, Milk, More Milk (Calcium) Aids Children to Be Calm and Happy

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

The first note in the first notebook I compiled beginning when I was an intern — concerns the tranquilizing influence of calcium.

Lack of lime in central nervous system," the note reads, "possible cause eclampsia."

I didn't dream the idea up myself. I plucked it from an abstract of a contribution by one Silvestri, which was published, in the then respectable Journal of the American Medical Association.

Eclampsia means convulsions, in infants, children, adults or pregnant or parturient women.

Silvestri's observation, so many years ago, somehow impressed me strongly.

* * *

It was not until Sherman (Chemistry of Food and Nutrition) began harping on the calcium deficiency of the diet of most Americans, in the early editions of his famous book, 1911, 1918, 1926, that reports of the sedative, antispasmodic, an ticonvulsive effect of calcium began to appear in medical literature.

In 1932 I began harping — and when I harp on anything I really harp on it — on the value of high calcium diet and supplemental calcium feeding for children and or adults subject to hay fever, asthma, recurring hives.

Giant hives (angio-neurotic edema), eczema, neuralgic or nervous headache, periodic sick headache (migrane), tetany (in mature adults nocturnal leg cramps), [illegible], 10 years, chronic rheumatiz.

Notice I do not imply that one with any of these common complaints should "try" taking calcium for a while.

* * *

What I recommend is high calciu diet and, for several months anyway, supplementary calcium feeding, from now on.

Injection of a solution of calcium lactate or chloride directly into a vein gives dramatic relief in lead, biliary or renal colic or the extremely painful cramps of black widow bite.

Calcium is a physiological sedative. The child or adult who gets an adequate daily ration of calcium is noticeably steady, calm, tranquil in behavior and temperament, as contrasted with the nervous, restless, twitching, fussy one whose calcium intake is inadequate.

* * *

The richest food source of calcium for infant, growing child, [illegible] fresh sweet milk, skim milk, separator milk, evaporated milk, sour milk, buttermilk, cottage cheese or almost any kind of cheese one may prefer.

* * *

Not less than three glasses of milk a day assures an adequate intake of calcium for child or grown-up.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene — not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Plane Crash Injures Three

2 Homes, Garages Are Wrecked as Aircraft Falls in Burbank

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Two residences and two garages were wrecked when a converted two-engine bomber crashed and burned in a residential district yesterday, but only three persons were injured.

The pilot and co-pilot suffered cuts, burns and possible fractures, and a third man, sleeping in an apartment largely destroyed by flames, suffered critical burns over most of his body.

* * *

The plane developed engine trouble over the city. Witnesses said a wing tip snapped a power line, knocking out lights, traffic signals and 150 private telephones. Then the other wingtip struck a house, the plane bounched into a garage, smashing it and a car inside, and wrecked a second garage before plunging into a duplex.

* * *

Critically burned was Gale Alexander, 53, an aircraft mechanic, asleep in the house largely destroyed by flaming gasoline. A neighbor, Fire Chief John O'Connor of Lockheed air terminal, smashed a window and dragged Alexander from amid the searing flames. All his clothes but one sleeve were burned from his body.

The pilot, David Thayer, 35, Arcadia, who is chief pilot for Fullerton Oil Co., which owned the plane, escaped with cuts, bruises and shock. Co-pilot Lawrence Bassett, 34, Burbank, suffered from many cuts and possible internal fractures.

Congressman Judd Would Fight Mao

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Judd (R-Minn) contended today that, far from supporting the seating of Mao Tse-tung's Communist Chinese government in the United Nations, the UNITED States should concentrate on making him fail in China.

away from the Kremlin, if through following its guidance he began to fail — and the first aim of our foreign policy in Asia should be directed toward that end," Judd declared in a copyrighted article written for the magazine U. S. News & World Report.

Judd struck out against what he called "the myth" that "if we will just be nice enough to the Chinese Communists, we can detach from them the Russian Communists . . . or we can make a Tito out of Mao Tse-tung." The congressman, a former medical missionary in China, argued:

"There is no evidence that Mao Tse-tung would be a Tito if he could. He is as loyal a satellite as the Kremlin has ever had."

Enigma of Scotty's Wealth Heightened by His Epitaph

By LEE FERRERO

Editor's Note: Fabulous Death Valley Scotty died the other day and carried the secret of his once seemingly endless wealth to his grave with him. This is the last of a series of articles detailing the "Saga of Death Valley Scotty."

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (INS)—Out on the windswept desert wastelands of Death Valley where nature favors no man, a castle and a legend remain as the monuments today to one of the West's most fabulous gold prospectors.

He is Death Valley Scotty.

Scotty died Tuesday at the age of 81 and left up in the air the true source of his eye-popping wealth. The taciturnity of the grizzled, old desert rat left unanswered the question of whence came the wellspring of the loot which dazzled the nation for almost half a century.

Was it a never-ending vein of gold in the almost-inaccessible reaches of the Funeral Mountains hard by the California-Nevada wastelands? Or was it the bulging purse of the late Chicago millionaire A. H. Johnson?

Whatever it was, the secret died with Scotty the other day.

Up to the last, Scotty never peeped about the wealth which enabled him to set a Chicago-to-Los Angeles record railroad run in a chartered train, hob-nob with the social elite of America and Europe, and pop for the drinks of untold topers in a hundred watering holes all over the West. His brand was the $100 tip to anyone who would take the greenbacks and largesse freely dispensed on bacchanalian parties which causes old-timers still alive to yowl in reminiscence.

They'll remember Scotty for those high jinks which carved a legend, but they'll remember much longer the gigantic Moorish-Spanish castle the prospector and his Chicago millionaire friend built.

It cost $3,000,000 and it is within a few miles of the highest and lowest points in the United States. Mt. Whitney rises to 14,496 feet in majestic splendor and frowns down on the lowest point in Death Valley which plunges to 276 feet below sea level.

The desert was Scotty's first love, but some of the glitter of the better living rubbed off on him during his jaunts into city civilization. So, 30 years ago Scotty wagon-trained building materials, art works, luxuries, and European artisans into Grapevine Canyon. With them came laborers and trail-loose Indians.

The wood was hewn by hand and there were Majorca rugs, Italian tile, German hand-wrought iron work, hand-tooled leather drapes, a $50,000 organ. There is a pelton wheel utilizing water from the mountains for power.

When Johnson died six years ago, he and Scotty decided to turn the castle into a tourist attraction operated by the Gospel Foundation, which operates it at a dollar-a-visit for charity.

Scotty stayed on, in his own luxurious quarters at the rear of the castle.

His wife, Josephine, 77, moved to Long Beach, Calif., years ago. He has a son, Navy Lt. Walter P. Scott, 39.

They buried Scotty Thursday on a knoll overlooking his desert castle and in the imposing structure there is an inscription in Spanish, which translated, reads:

"In the desert, there is peace and tranquility. One feels the force of the sun and the mysterious silence of the night. Much treasure will be found hidden beneath these mountains, and great will be the recompense for those who look for this treasure by their hard labor."

Is Scotty hinting that a persistent hunter can find the fortune?

There is a tale that 20 men died in the desert trying to follow Death Valley Scotty to his gold caches over the years.

Anybody for prospecting?

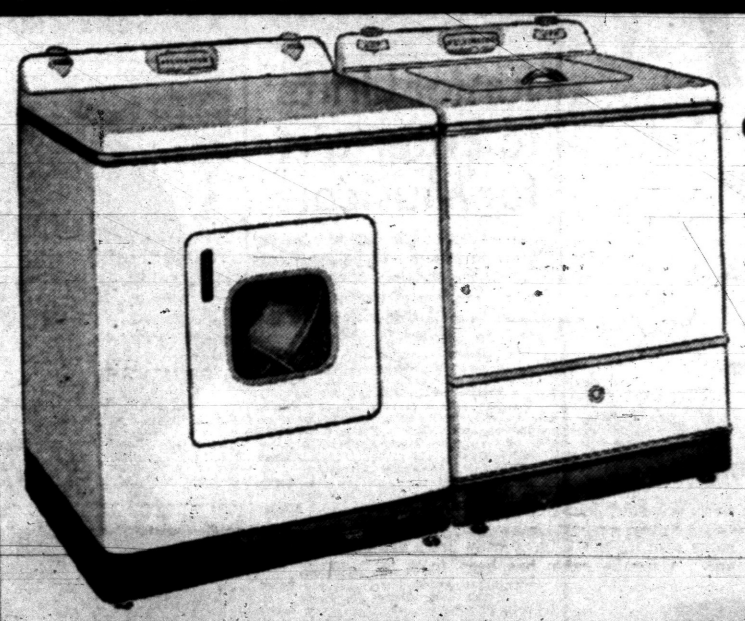

Tools chipped by men of the Stone Age have, in more recent times, often been thought to have medicinal value.

UM Singers Show Skill in Concert

Perform Intricate Selections Sunday at Cranbrook

By DONNA ANDERSON

Some of the world's most splendid and most intricate music was heard at its best when the Cranbrook Music Guild presented Maynard Klein and the University of Michigan Singers Sunday afternoon in the Cranbrook School auditorium.

Opening a series of guild concerts that will last through spring, these expert musicians set a standard that will be difficult to surpass.

By its very composition, the program for the afternoon reflected the purpose of this talented group. Modestly, a member of the chorus explained, "We want to promote the more difficult works of the truly great composers, works that are not often heard, yet should be known and appreciated by everyone."

Consequently, as the performance proved, only the best of those engaged in musical study at the university are chosen for membership in the group.

Josquin De Pris' "Ave Verum Corpus" opened the program, followed by the Kyrie Eleison from Palestrina's "Missa Papae Marcelli." "Glory to God in the Highest" and "Now Let Us Thank Thee, God" from "Christmas Story" by Henrich Schutz concluded the opening offering.

Then the elaborate counterpoint of the 16th Century stepped into the spotlight as the Madrigal Singers, a group of the six best blending voices from the chorus, reflected the very birth of music with secular selections.

The delightful charm of Thomas Morley's "Sing We and Chant It" and "My Bonnie Lass", "I Know a Young Maiden Wondrous Fair" by Orlandus Lassus and the "Silver Swan" by Orlando Gibbons were their contributions.

The entire chorus returned to present Gretchaninoff's "O Praise the Name of the Lord." Rachmaninoff's "Glory Be to God on High," Willan's "Hodie Christus Natus Est" and the startling magnificence of Alberto Ginastera's "Lamentations of Jeremiah."

The Benedictus and Angus Dei from Anton Bruckner's "Mass in E Minor" preceded the high point of the afternoon, Bach's "Magnificat."

Solo parts for "Magnificat" were taken by Joan Marie Dudd, soprano; Charles Wingert, tenor and Mary Mattfeld and Mary Ellen Roosa, contraltos. William Doppman and Mary Catharine Hutchins were accompanists.

As for the degree of merit of the Michigan Singers' performance, the choice of composers and their works speaks for itself.

It was announced that the Jan. 28 meeting will be held in the YWCA with the high point of the meeting being a talk on good grooming by Mrs. Lois Wetherington.

During the meeting, a letter of gratitude for Christmas gifts was read from a sorority member who was a victim of the Flint tornado.

The next gathering will be a dinner meeting for the formal installation of Miss Flynn.

Susan S. Hubbard Speaks Her Vows in Christ Church Ceremony Saturday

BIRMINGHAM — Susan Speed Hubbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Norville Hubbard, was united in marriage on Saturday with Loren C. Spademan Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Loren C. Spademan.

The Rev. Harold E. Towne and the Rev. Perry R. Williams both officiated at the ceremony which took place at 4:30 p.m. in Christ Church Cranbrook.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father gowned in traditional ivory satin with a deep illusion yoke accented by Duchess and Rose Pointe lace ending in points over the shoulders. Atop her blonde curls was a Rose Pointe lace cap with a tiny brim from which showered her fingertip veil.

The bouffant skirt of her gown flowed into a full train. She carried a bouquet of shattered hyacinths centered by white orchids together with an heirloom lace handkerchief belonging to the bridegroom's grandmother. This has been carried by all the family brides.

The bride's cousin, Mrs. Robert L. Saffell, was her matron of honor. She was also attended by Mrs. Thomas N. Hubbard Jr., her sister-in-law; Mrs. James McCall, Mrs. Nelson B. Noland, Ann Spademan, the bridegroom's sister; Laura Lou Raymond and Elizabeth Lind.

All the gowns matched the honor matron's. They were of soft French blue with waltz-length skirts of net, which was repeated again at the neckline of the fitted satin jackets. Matching bands of blue satin wound with pearls were worn in their hair and they carried large cascade bouquets of pink carnations.

Charles Frederick Spademan was his brother's best man. Seating the guests were Thomas N. Hubbard Jr., Richard Spademan, brother of the bridegroom; Carl Luckenbach, the bridegroom's cousin; Glenn E. Reitsel Jr., also a cousin; Robert M. Lauer of Ann Arbor and Joseph Gitre.

Receiving the guests at the Birmingham Country Club after the ceremony, Mrs. Hubbard was gowned in a street-length dress of sapphire satin with matching hat. She pinned camellias to her bag.

Brown satin with a matching hat was chosen by Mrs. Spademan and her flowers were cymbidium orchids.

When the couple left on a three-week trip to Aspen, Colo., the bride was dressed in a gray sheer wool dress, matching cashmere coat and accessories, accented by a yellow hat. She had pinned one of her bridal orchids to her shoulder. Upon their return they will reside in St. Clair Shores.

Planning a honeymoon in Aspen, Colo., are Mr. and Mrs. Loren C. Spademan Jr., who were married Saturday afternoon at Christ Church Cranbrook. The bride is the former Susan Speed Hubbard, daughter of the Thomas N. Hubbards of Birmingham, and the bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Loren C. Spademan, also of Birmingham.

Wever PTSA Hears Illustrated Weather Talk

"Animals having heavy fur coats does not necessarily forecast a hard winter," said Ruth Hedeman, research assistant of McMath Hulbert Observatory of the University of Michigan at Lake Angelus.

Speaking on weather fallacies, she said some of the weather proverbs are true, citing as an example, "red sun in the morning, sailors take warning; red sun at night, sailor's delight."

Miss Hedeman used slides to show various types of cloud formations and their effect in producing the weather, Thursday evening when Wever PTSA met in the school gym.

Proper Vent Will Prevent Fumes Leak

Many People Are Overcome by Gas From Heaters

By HUBBARD COBB

Seems that just about every week or so you hear of some family that was overcome by fumes from faulty heating equipment.

In many of these cases there was nothing in the world wrong with the heater itself. The cause of the trouble was that no effective means was provided to remove from the house the dangerous fumes which are created when any sort of fuel is burned.

What makes matters worse, of course, is that at the very time when a heater is going full blast, the house is closed up as tight as possible to prevent cold drafts getting inside.

The combination of an improperly vented heater and a tightly sealed house can be pretty darn lethal.

No matter what sort of heating equipment you use, if it burns a fuel it must have some sort of vent to provide maximum safety.

If you have a central system, inspect the stove pipe and the chimney at frequent intervals to be sure that there are no leaks which will allow fumes to escape.

If you use individual room heaters, be sure that these are vented in some manner and that there is some fresh air reaching the room.

And never, never, go to sleep or let anyone else go to sleep in a room unless the heater is adequately vented.

Encourage Friendships for Widow

Mourning Woman Imposes on Couple With Nightly Visits

By EMILY POST

A very distressing problem is described in this letter: "A young woman I know lost her husband about six months ago. His death was very sudden and she was quite broken up over it. Since she had no family to turn to, I told her that whenever she felt like getting out of the house, she could come over to my house so as not to be alone.

"I was only too glad to help her over this very trying period, but now after six months she still continues to come in almost every night of the week. My husband, who was very sympathetic in the beginning, is getting tired of this intrusion on our privacy and takes it out on me.

"She is a very nice person and is always buying presents for our little boy, and I can't bear to hurt her, but if I don't do something I'm afraid I will drive my husband out of the house. Can you help me?"

Answer: This is a very difficult problem. The only solution I can think of lies in the hope that you have a number of friends who, like herself, are alone and would be very glad to be friends with her. If you ask them over one at a time with her, you could perhaps encourage their friendship.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I have received an invitation to a semi-public dinner which stipulates "tuxedo preferred." My husband has one but I have no evening dress. My only special-occasion dresses are of the formal afternoon type. Will this be proper, or must I buy an evening dress?

Anwer. With a tuxedo, your afternoon dress is entirely suitable. If your husband were wearing tails, then an evening dress would be required.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it necessary for the bride's family to provide transportation for those wedding guests who have no cars, from the church to the place of the reception?

Answer: They are obliged only to provide transportation for those in the wedding party. If they can arrange transportation for any of the wedding guests, so much the better, but it is not a requirement.

Girl Shouldn't Insist On Steady Beau Spending His School Hours With Her

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've been going steady for nearly three months now with a boy who goes to my school, but he doesn't pay any attention to me around school. I've tried to talk to him and find out why, but he just laughs and won't get serious about it.

"I like him an awful lot and would hate to break up with him, but what else can I do?"

String along with him, that's all, and be content to be his steady girl friend out of school. Lots of boys take their schoolwork seriously. Your boy friend apparently wants to keep his mind on his work, and stay free to wander around as he wishes, spending what time he wants with the boys.

If he buckled down to spending every free minute at school with you, walking with you in the halls, eating lunch with you, etc., he might feel swallowed up. He has you cubbyholed in his mind for dates and free time. If he doesn't want to mix you with his work, he won't.

But why break up with him over that? You know you're his girl. You know you're the only one he dates. Isn't that enough to keep you feeling wanted and necessary?

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've recently met a boy from a neighboring school and he has asked me for several dates. I've accepted most of them, but I have never mentioned anything about my going out with other boys since I didn't think it necessary.

"I am very friendly and think this has led him to think I like him very much. On several occasions he has said 'If I ever caught you with another boy I don't know what I would do!' I have heard that he has told his friends we are going steady.

"As far as I'm concerned we're not. But I can't get myself to say anything to him, so I'm trying to discourage him by turning down his dates. Is there anything else I can do?"

Being elusive may make your point clear without saying anything definite. But should the opportunity come up, don't miss your chance to get the thing clear.

You might comment gaily some time that you have heard rumors to the effect that you're supposed to be going steady with him. You wonder how such a story could ever have been started (implying that it's not true.)

If he protests that it is true, remind him that he never asked you, you never agreed to any such arrangement, and you can't be held by promises you don't make. If he asks you outright then and there, you can admit that you do get out with other boys, and see no reason not to.

There's no point in having a steady deal wished on you without any agreement or cooperation on your part. Take the sting out of the news that he's not the only boy in your life by being particularly friendly and enthusiastic about the fun you have with him.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

There he sat in his car watching a woman tug and pull and work to get her car out of a parking space. To make it easy for her all he had to do was back his car a few feet—but he didn't bother.

It's in such little ways as these that a man shows whether or not he is a gentleman.

Store Lemons in Jar

Store lemons in a tightly-sealed glass jar in the refrigerator to keep them from drying.

Add Tote Bag to Wardrobe

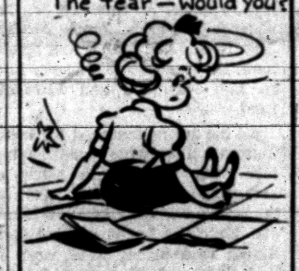

Another important accessory to pep up your wardrobe this time of the year is a new bag. Here, too, you'll find every conceivable type of texture and color in leather!

Today's woman doesn't carry her bag anymore . . . she "totes" it — and the Tote bag continues in popularity, and will do through many more seasons to come. The tote bag you buy now can be used to accent your winter wardrobe and will be good this spring and summer too.

They come in luscious pastel leathers and are stunning in the bronze and gun metal patent leathers too. Pale pinks and blues in buckets and boxes, elongated as well as horizontal, and the little clutch are the types of bags you'll be buying. Lovely soft shades of avocado as well as wedgewood blue are popular shades now.

Don't forget too that in sprucing up your clothes the addition of a few new leather belts and collars and cuffs will be a great aid.

Son-in-Law Right to Veto Allowance

His Wife's Wealthy Parents Probably Are Jealous

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A Mrs. E. who tells me that she and her husband are wealthy people is very angry at her new son-in-law. He has asked his bride to discontinue accepting a financial allowance from her parents.

"Betsy is a beautiful girl and used to the best," writes Mrs. E. "It was because we knew that this boy could give her nothing but a small apartment that we built and furnished her home for her.

"What right has he now to object to our giving her money that he can't give her? What's ahead for the child in marriage to such a man?"

I'd say happiness was ahead of Betsy if she sticks to such a man. He sounds fine to me. He sounds like someone who not only respects his own energy, but demands respect for it from others.

He might even begin to make sense to his mother-in-law if she could stop thinking of money as dollars for a minute. For if we reduce money back into its original meaning, we see that it is not dollars, but energy. It is the use of our capacities.

So when we insist on Betsy taking our money, we are forcing her to accept our energy. We may be really saying to her, "Your husband's stregth is insufficient. It cannot give you the support that our energy can give."

That is not a kind suggestion to make to a young wife. No delusion of interest in her welfare can make it kind. No satisfaction in seeing her expensively clothed can make it truly loving.

For our own growth, we need honsty here. We need to examine this desire to continue financial assistance to a child who doesn't need it, for it is less likely to represent genuine consideration for her than indulgence of our jealousy of her.

Betsy's marriage is not Mrs. E's structure. It is the structure of her daughter and the man she has married.

Has Mrs. E. ever visited a nursery school? They are fascinating places. For the people who attend them are young—so young that they have not learned how to make their jealous impulses appear morally appealing to observers.

In a nursery school, for example, a small boy who becomes jealous of the red clay structure his neighbor is building will try to smash it. He is quite honest about it, and you know where you are with him and his jealous impulse.

But in the adult world we don't always know where we are with jealous impulses. Since honesty is harder to come by, jealous impulses to destroy what we haven't had a hand in are often disguised as "love" and "consideration."

Use Basket to Tote Cleaning Essentials

To save steps and energy, select a strong, light, flat-bottomed, handled basket and equip it with the small cleaning essentials which need to be carried from room to room. It is advisable to line the basket with oilcloth or a plastic material so that it can easily be washed with a sudsy cloth.

The items to be assembled in the basket depend on your particular needs and routine. The following are basic: Dustcloths, cellulose sponges, polishing cloths, a paper bag for waste, soap, scouring powder and polishing preparations.

Milk Won't Scorch

Before scalding milk, wipe the bottom of the pan with a bit of butter or margarine. This will keep the milk from scorching.

Light Gleams Like Stars in Sky Rocket Fixtures

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

Light sparks in every direction—like sky rockets in the sky—from dramatic new light fixtures that are Italian-inspired.

After years of almost no ceiling fixtures at all, this is high drama to change the look of a room. Slender shafts of bright brass radiate from a center to be tipped with candelabra bulbs that are very like twinkling stars.

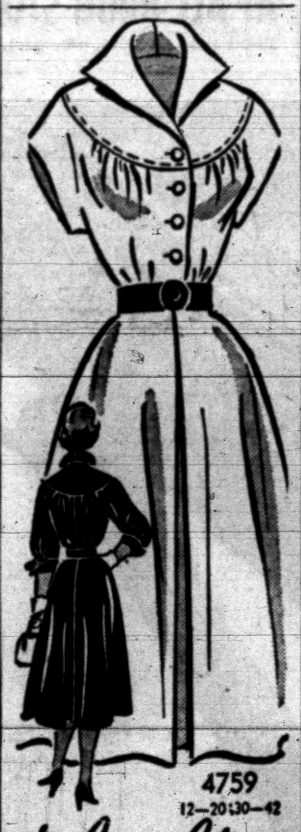

The largest and most festive of the designs sketched, called Astral Sky Rocket, is 3 feet wide and has 24 shafts. It is suggested for dining rooms, entrance halls and stair wells.

Other fireworks fixtures are smaller, some closer to the ceiling for low-ceilinged rooms. One new design called a tri-mobile drops three separate clusters, and the cords for these can be lengthened or shortened to adjust the fixture to its best height in the room.

The sky rockets are among the more imaginative of new fixtures which inspire decorating with light in new ways, and will be seen in the stores as new home furnishings fashions arrive for spring.

More Fabric Colors

Homemakers will have a wider selection of colors in home fabrics than they have had in many years. One called Glosheen, for example, is available for draperies, bedspreads and slipcovers in 69 different colors, from the palest pastels to the darkest hues, and all with permanent satiny finish that will withstand countless washings.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Don't Hang Onto Things for Someone Else to Use

One of my gifts this Christmas was a dressing gown made of real silk in my favorite shade of powder blue lined with delicate pink. It was just what I wanted and I snatched it from its box and put it right on.

I was wearing it happily around my apartment the next week when a friend dropped in. She admired the robe but remarked disapprovingly, "You should put it away, though, and save it for good."

MISS McBRIDE

I didn't want to get into an argument so I murmured politely, but a bit later as she drank her tea she scolded me again for using my heavy Danish silver every day. That was really too much.

"I like to use my nice things every day because then I'm sure of getting some good of them while I'm alive. I don't fancy the idea of saving them for somebody else to enjoy when I'm gone." I announced in a tone I tried vainly to keep from sounding belligerent.

I doubt if I convinced my guest, though I piled sad tale on sad tale of pleasures postponed too long. However, she did admit, after a half hour or so of my harangue, to a certain feeling of disappointment when a bottle of French perfume she had been hoarding for a great occasion turned out to have evaporated when the occasion arrived.

Nothing could better have illustrated my point unless it would be the story of another woman who, after years of yearning, bought herself a handsome, tight-curled Persian lamb coat. Of course it was far too nice to wear just any old time, so through the years it has been kept in a moth-proof bag in the attic.

I almost wept for that woman the other day—she went to the attic and found the skins dried out and splitting. The garment is finished and it never was fully used.

It's even more of a waste, of course, to keep ourselves in storage waiting for just the right series of circumstances to begin to live and have fun. The saddest journey I ever heard of was a round-the-world cruise a widow made after her husband's death. For years the two had planned that trip but always found some trivial reason for putting it off.

Not long ago a woman who has long outlived the death sentence pronounced by a doctor seven or eight years ago told me that after she got over the first shock of, as she thought, knowing almost the exact day of her death, she found each moment left to her full of new and rich excitement.

"I no longer had to worry about a rainy day because the doctor said I had less than six months to live," she explained. "So I just resolved to get all I could out of everything. I brought out all the things I'd put away as too good for common use and began to enjoy them.

"I found to my surprise that I could no longer work up a feeling of jealousy, envy or anger. There seemed no reason since there wasn't time to compete or try to get anything special for myself.

"Since I didn't die at the time that was set, though, I have tended to fall back somewhat into my old ways, more's the pity. But I never can forget entirely that feeling of being free from my ordinary squirreling instincts."

I'm still glad I wore the blue robe for ordinary. Of course, it is sad that I spilled a whole bottle of ink on the front and tore the sash when it caught in the refrigerator door. But at least I got some good out of a nice gift.

Cookie Treat Instant Hit With Men

Mrs. Graybiel Says PHS Coach Goes for Peanut Variety

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

The pretty brunette wife of Pontiac High School's new coach, Mrs. Edward Graybiel, is today's contributor.

She offers a recipe for Peanut Cookies that are an instant hit with the men. Coach Graybiel takes them on hunting trips.

As a newcomer with three young children, Mrs. Graybiel has not had too much opportunity to participate in social affairs. She enjoys square dancing and bridge and likes to sew and knit.

Griffith and Ince Remembered

King Vidor Predicting Stars Will Develop for Latest Medium

By RICHARD KLEINER and ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondents

Television alley is talking about Movie Director King Vidor's prediction about the bright boys being developed by television: "I believe that TV will develop personalities who will make the art of television drama stand out as D. W. Griffith, Thomas Ince, Mary Pickford and other giants made motion pictures stand out in the beginning.

"They made people go to the movies because they left their artistic imprint on their pictures."

A TV rating company's Tuesday night telephone call to the home of Groucho Marx, who told them he was listening to Groucho Marx.

"But you're not on Tuesday," a pal said when Groucho told him about it.

"I know," said Groucho, "I just want to see if I can get a Tuesday night rating, too."

David Hopkins, son of the late Harry Hopkins, joins CBS as director of sales for the TV set manufacturing division. Ruth Roman's turned down several telefilm offers. She says she'll stick to theater films.

Anne Jeffreys, so sedate in flickers, taking the Lucille Ball baggy-pants comedienne route in an upcoming "Topper" film. She does imitation sof Napoleon, Tallulah Bankhead and Abe Lincoln.

Comedy-variety shows led the popularity parade during 1953. Drama and mystery scored second best, with comedy situation shows in third place. Runners-up: Boxing, football and basketball.

Vivian Vance, who plays Lucille Ball's pal on "Lucy," tells about going to a Beverly Hills department store to buy an evening gown for her TV character. She selected an inexpensive one and explained it was for television.

Handing Vivian the package, the store clerk, obviously not a TV fan, said: "I hope you get the job."

Hans Conried, the fugitive from Shakespeare, is one person who longs for the good old days of radio. He's pretty busy these good new days—in "Can-Can" on Broadway and the TV daytime show, "I'll Buy That"—and, presumably, he's doing OK financially.

But there's still, inside Conried, a gnawing feeling that life was better before TV.

Besides, there's an artistic consideration. Conried thinks radio drama had something that TV doesn't—a dimension of imagination, you could call it.

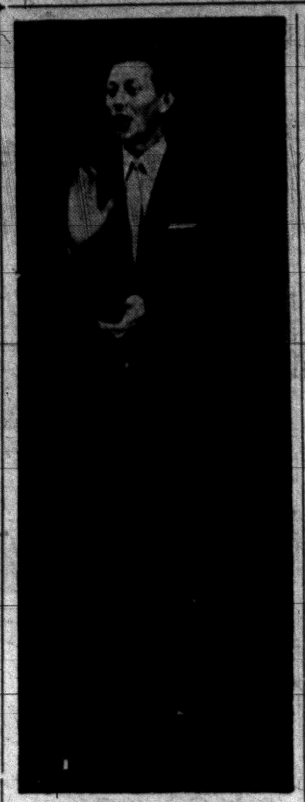

"'You Are There' was wonderful on radio," he says, "but you can't capture that same spirit on TV."

He reflected a moment.

"Radio was great theater," he said. "It's lamentable that radio died, but it's just like the medieval armorers. Their magnificent craftsmanship was a fine art.

"Then along came a man and invented guns and the armorers vanished. Radio is in the same fix.

"It's regrettable. It's a pity. But that's progress."

DANCIN' DON—Named one of the most versatile personalities of television recently was Donald O'Connor, who is well known to video viewers for his many appearances on the "Comedy Hour." His specialty, which is to satirize popular songs and singers, has become a most popular comedy vignette and is a feature of every Donald O'Connor show on TV.

SPARTANBURG, S. C. (UP)—Supt. James L. Rogers made a public statement about Spartanburg General hospital: it was "crowded and overflowing."

Roger O. McMahon, Kent Prosecutor Dies

GRAND RAPIDS (UP) — Roger W. McMahon, Kent County prosecutor who rose to prominence with his efforts to clean out gambling, died yesterday in Blodgett Memorial Hospital at the age of 42.

Briefly ill, McMahon had only recently asked State Attorney General Frank Millard to petition the State Supreme Court to challenge the election last April of incumbent Circuit Judge Leonard Verdier.

McMahon, who was defeated in the election, claimed that a recount showed several "null and void" votes credited to Verdier. His death cancels the petition.

McMahon, prosecutor since 1947, was assistant prosecutor ten yers before he attained the top county post. His prosecutions resulted in the issuance of injunctions which prohibit telegraph wire service to locations housing gambling or other illegal operations.

Address Is Confusing

AKRON, O. (UP) — Sheriff's deputies and demolition experts answered a hurry call to nearby Ghent recently where a box labeled "Nitro" had been found on the seat of an apparently abandoned automobile. Tests of the bottled liquid in the box showed it to be a weed killer. A re-check of the box's wrapper showed "Nitro" to be the address: Nitro, W. Va.

Robber Stays Overnight, Leaves With Rifles, Gun

Oakland County sheriff's deputies are investigating a report by a Royal Oak doctor that someone entered his summer cabin last week, made himself at home overnight and left with two rifles, a shotgun and some household appliances.

Dr. Willis B. Eggleston of 720 Laurel St., told deputies that his summer home at 745 E. Gunn Rd., Oakland Township, had been broken into through a basement window. A bed had been used and the oil burner had been turned up.

Ferguson Pans Baseless Fear

Says Depression Bogy Actually Normal Move to Peacetime Economy

DETROIT (UP) — Fears of a depression are "groundless," Sen. Homer Ferguson said today, although he warned everyone will have to work a little harder to make ends meet.

"Whenever we move from one economic level to another—such as from a war to peacetime economy—some adjustments are inevitable. And that is the nature of our problem today," the Republican senator said in a scheduled address before the Detroit Economic Club.

"It means that labor and management will have to pay more attention to costs, produce more efficiently, and at lower prices.

"It means that the farmer will have to stop producing for government subsidies and pay more attention to the consumers' market. In the two great sectors of our economy, farmers, workers and management are in danger of pricing themselves out of the market," Ferguson said.

"If we do not readjust sensibly now, we will find the process a lot more painful later on. There are some laws in nature and economics which we cannot forever disregard; and they are catching up to us now.

"But if there is fear of a depression—a drastic drop in economic activity—I think such fears are groundless. There is nothing in the business barometers to indicate a real depression," he declared.

Injured Pedestrian Says Bus Hit Her

Mrs. D. E. Pepper, 46, of 2701 Woodlawn Ave., Walled Lake, who told Pontiac Police she was hit by a suburban bus at Mt. Clemens and N. Perry Sts., was admitted to Pontiac General Hospital Sunday night for observation. Her condition is reported good.

Patrolman Richard Evans of the traffic bureau quoted the woman as saying she was crossing the street with a green light when the bus struck her. The bus didn't stop, she said.

She was taken to the hospital by a taxicab driver, James Davis of 763 Portland St. and an unidentified passenger. Neither person saw the bus strike the woman, according to police.

SITUATION WELL IN HAND—Jimmy Resch, 2, of Burbank, Calif., at a drive-in theater with his mother, Mrs. Marjorie Resch and two brothers, showed his mother an empty bottle of nitroglycerine pills. He said, "Look, Mommie, all gone." The frantic mother told theater manager Stanley Livingstone that Jimmy had taken the heart stimulant pills from her purse. An ambulance rushed them to the hospital, where the boy had an emergency stomach pumping.

Opens Inter-Church Meetings

The Rev. John Burt Talks to Big Fellowship Crowd

By LULA OGDEN

A capacity audience filled the auditorium of Lutheran Church of the Ascension Sunday evening for the opening of the seventh annual Inter-Church Fellowship.

Churches cooperating in the fellowship, besides the host church, are All Saints Episcopal, First Congregational, First Presbyterian and Central Methodist.

Dr. William P. Lemon, retired Presbyterian minister from Ann Arbor, gave the Bible exposition with a comprehensive outline of the Old Testament at the 6 p. m. service. His subject was "The Old Testament at a Glance."

"Most of the rank and file of folks today feel there is very little they can do about the world crisis," the Rev. John Burt said at the opening of his sermon following the fellowship hour.

He is the son of the late Rev. Bates G. Burt who was pastor at All Saints Episcopal Church for 25 years. He is now rector of St. John Episcopal Church in Youngstown, Ohio.

The truths of our religion will not save society, he said, but it can save men in society. It can save men and women by giving them a faith that stands above the struggle.

"Jesus was not concerned about church attendance, but he was concerned about what was in the heart," he added.

He quoted Peter at Pentacost when he said to the crowd, "Save yourself from this crooked generation."

"We are living in a crooked generation for the direction of our time is toward death and not life," he continued. "Our political systems have not kept us from two world wars and we have not been able to win the peace.

"We have more colleges and more college grants than ever before, but more people than ever before are unable to live integrated lives. Something is out of joint."

He spoke of four ways in which the Christian should express himself personally and through his church.

"He should put his concentrated effort on worship and the understanding of his faith. In other words, he should be a specialist in his faith.

"The church should be a training center for moral discipline, with men and women who were unpurchasable and willing to stand up and be counted.

"He should be willing to stand for racial Christianity. For instance in race relations, the church is far behind labor unions and the school systems.

"Our churches should be resurrection centers where the power of God is released," he said.

The next service will be held in All Saints Episcopal Church and Dr. Chester A. McPheeters of Metropolitan Methodist Church in Detroit will be the speaker.

Good Ice Skating Promised Today at 5 Local Rinks

Fair skating is expected at Bagley-Brush Field and Wilson School, Keller added.

3 Parked Cars Hit; Driver Is Charged

A warrant charging Marshall C. Robeson, 45, of 323 Branch St., with failure to identify himself at the scene of an accident was issued today after Pontiac Police said Robeson's car sideswiped three parked autos on Howard McNeill and Branch streets late Saturday night.

Patrolman Charles F. Thomson said he found Robeson's car marked with paint from the three autos after he searched the area for an hour Sunday morning.

Persons who reported their autos had been hit are Harvey H. Bupous, 29, of 501 Branch St., Calvin Waugh, 28, of 457 Howard McNeill St., and Oliver Burrell, 30, of 461 Howard McNeill St.

Robeson also was given a traffic violation ticket charging him with having an improper address on his operator's license.

A 15-year-old Avon Township youth was injured in front of his home when the car in which he was riding was struck from behind as it slowed to let him out, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Albert J. Bonan Jr. of 230 E. Avon Rd. was treated at Pontiac General Hospital for lip cuts and elbow injuries.

Alvin G. Droste, 45, of 11270 Hall Rd., Utica, driver of the car in which Bonan was riding, was treated at the hospital for forehead and knee bruises.

Harry J. Stephens, 48, of 1160 John R Rd., Rochester, driver of the car which struck the Droste auto, told Oakland County sheriff's deputies that Droste checked his speed quickly and that he (Stephens) was unable to avoid the crash.

Royal Oak Motorists Injured in Accident

Two Royal Oak motorists were injured in an accident at Fourteen Mile and Stevenson Rds. Saturday, according to Royal Oak Township police.

Stanton's car struck the rear of an auto driven by Mrs. Gladys Coleman, 21, of 626 Millard Rd., as she waited for a traffic light, Police said. Mrs. Coleman was treated for head and leg injuries.

Thule Air Base Risk Paying Off

Site in Greenland May Prove Successful for Guided Missiles

This is the first of three dispatches by Douglas Larsen on the United States' new Air Force base at Thule, Greenland.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

THULE AIR FORCE BASE, Greenland — (NEA)—Bright rays of optimism for the assured success of America's new northernmost air base, developed under a joint Danish-American agreemnt, show through the bitterly cold polar darkness.

The Air Force's quarter-billion dollar gamble that it could lick the staggering difficulties of year-around operations above the Arctic Circle, on one of the most strategic spots on the globe, has begun to pay off.

Military experts believe the success of the bold move in planting the Thule AFB here constitutes a major monkey wrench in any Russian plans for the launching of World War III. It's also a perfect site for the day when guided missile warfare might arrive.

This winter, the first in which full operations are being attempted, is the acid test for Thule. Here are some of the first results:

* * *

Recent secret maneuvers have proved that the giant bombers of the Strategic Air Command can get here easily, land on the long, wide runways, be serviced in the huge hangars and go aloft again in amazingly short times.

Supporting instant retaliation bombers is the No. 1 mission of the base. Moscow is 2752 miles away, about the same distance as it is to Washington, D. C.

The fighter-interceptor planes based here are proving that they can draw a nearly impenetrable line about 1500 miles long across one of the most likely air invasion routes to Canada and the U. S. from Russia, the base's No. 2 mission.

The air supply of numerous segments of the big continental radar fence and of global communications bases and weather stations from here is working well.

In constant tests the Army's anti-aircraft units are proving that they can put up their part of an excellent defense against even the fastest enemy jets.

* * *

Just as important, the men are proving earlier fears groundless by not cracking up under the constant darkness and cold and taking the rugged arctic life in full, casual stride. In other words, the Air Force is here to stay with the continued permission of the Danes.

Next: Arctic Supply by Air.

Cheesy Awards Given for Mistakes of 1953

By BILLY ROSE

As the old year hobbles off to join its ancestors—that is, if a stumblebum year like 1953 has any ancestors—I would like to pass out a few medals, scrolls and citations for some antics of the past twelvemonth.

BILLY ROSE

I hereby award:

The Hand-Carved Gorgonzola Medal to Mrs. T. J. White, member of the Indiana Textbook Committee, who demanded that "Robin Hood" be banned from the public schools because it was a subversive story.

The Camembert Citation to Zachary Scott who has been appearing on Times Square with a gold earring in one pierced ear, explaining that for a man to wear two earrings would be ostentatious.

The Roquefort Rosette to certain cigarette manufacturers—not because I'm so sure their product causes lung cancer, but because they're so all-fired sure it doesn't.

The Lace-Trimmed Watch Charm to the Fifth Amendment for showing up almost every day during 1953 at the drop of a subpoena.

The Mouldy Pastrami Parchment to Professor Kinsey for introducing an allegedly scientific book with the restraint of a Coney Island pitchman.

The Dill Pickle Diploma to the Piltdown Man who turned out to be as phony as half a dozen of my "dearest friends."

The Swiss Cheese Statuette to the gent who has been escorting Christine Jorgenson around, thus demonstrating that hope springs eternal in the human breast.

The order o fthe Halibut to those New York landlords who refused to junk their antiquated gas refrigerators, even after several tenants had been asphyxiated by them.

The Parmesan Placque to the dames with mink coats who bought matching mink coats for their poodles.

The Mashed Turnip Boutonniere to the economists who recently predicted a "mild recession" for 1954 and started with unalloyed cheerfulness that "only three and a half million people would be unemployed."

The Stewed Rhubarb Ribbon to Jenkins A. Hill, the Grove Hill, Ala., sheriff who, when charged with being a moonshiner, killed the unarmed Negro who had testified against him, claiming he was "resisting arrest."

The Cheddar Cheese Oscar to George Dupre, "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk"—except to Quentin Reynolds, Readers' Digest and the whole darn world.

The Pig's Knuckle Lavaliere to the innocent and not-so-innocent, here and abroad, who maintained that anti-Semitism was responsible for the conviction and execution of the miserable Rosenbergs.

The Wormwood Bouquet to the writer of this column who forgot, in his recent matrimonial mix-up, that charges and countercharges never settled anything except one's own hash—and who hereby apologizes to all, sundry and one in particular.

Church to Fight Order to Accept Ousted Member

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Lockland Baptist Church, charging state meddling with religious affairs, will battle a court edict to take back an ousted member.

About 2,000 members unanimously agreed last night to appeal the decision of common pleas court Judge John M. Renner. He ordered the church last Tuesday to extend the "hand of fellowship" to Mrs. Mary Randolph, 51.

The Cincinnati housewife was expelled from the church on grounds she gossiped about it, criticized the leaders and failed to attend Sunday School services.

Renner said these accusations, even if true, were not sufficient reasons for ousting her, according to the church's own constitution.

Say Malenkov Tours Check on Conditions

BERLIN (AP)— Reports reaching foreign diplomats here say Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov isn't taking the same Kremlin-eye view of the vast Soviet domain that they think limited Joseph Stalin's horizon.

Information reaching these sources from Moscow says Stalin's 52-year-old successor is traveling widely through the Soviet Union, seeing conditions for himself.

The reports said Malenkov's tours are highly secret, with none of the publicity usually attendant on propaganda-inspired travels. Diplomats view Malenkov's personal attention to local problems as part of the "velvet glove" technique of government manifested in the current drive for more consumer goods on the home front.

Municipal Court Registers Profit

Clerk's Report Reveals $24,015 Made From Fines and Fees

A yearly report by Pontiac Municipal Court Clerk Leo F. McDonald shows that a profit of $24,015.95 was made as a result of court fees and fines during 1953.

Operating on an annual budget of $54,754, the court took in $78,769.95 last year compared with $75,075.29 in 1952.

McDonald's report, which will be submitted to City Manager Walter K. Willman, said a total of 14,777 cases, including civil, traffic, city ordinances and state law hearings, were admitted to the Municipal Court, while 14,721 were disposed of in 1953.

Civil action cases filed last year totaled 11,118, compared with 10,793 in 1952. Completed city ordinance cases numbered 1,296 and 604 were state law trials. Contested traffic ticket hearings totaled 1,759.

All totals show a slight increase over the 1952 figures except city ordinance cases which dropped slightly. But city ordinance cases returned the biggest amount of fines, $39,939.

Civil fees brought in $33,490 and state law fines were set at $3,537.40. Personal receivership fees were lowest with $1,803.55.

McDonald added that the court opened the 1954 with a backlog of 325 civil cases to be heard.

GOP Centennial Celebrations Slated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans, in office during their party's centennial year, meet today to plan a series of celebrations.

Vice President Nixon is chairman of a committee to arrange rallies, in conjunction with local groups. President Eisenhower and former President Herbert Hoover are honorary chairmen.

Principal events include a Lincoln Day box supper in Washington Feb. 5; a re-enactment in Ripon, Wis., March 20, of a meeting which some historians say marked the birth of the Republican party in 1854; and a celebration July 6 in Jackson, Mich., of the centennial of a gathering called the first Republican state convention.

Pontiac to See Eclipse of Moon Night of Jan. 18

January will stage a total eclipse of the moon next week as its contribution to 1954's astronomical bill of fare.

According to Dr. Hazel M. Losh, University of Michigan associate professor of astronomy, the full moon will enter the earth's shadow on the night of Jan. 18.

Eclipse will start at 7:30 p. m. when the moon is located above the east point of the horizon at an altitude of about 30 degrees, Dr. Losh said.

Totality will set in at 9:17 p. m. and will last until 9:47 p. m., she explained. Then it will take the moon about an hour and a half to leave the shadow.

The moon will be illuminated with a dull, reddish glow during the three and a half hour phenomena by sunlight filtered through the earth's atmosphere, Dr. Losh said.

Dr. Losh said that an eclipse occurs only when the moon is in full phase and in a direct line with the sun and the earth.

Other eclipses visible from the Pontiac area during the year will be one of the sun on June 30 and another partial eclipse of the moon on July 15.

Projects Include 2 New Bridges

Oakland Plans to Spend Another Million for '54 Resurfacing Program

Oakland County Road Commission's 1953 road construction package carried a price tag of $1,075,669.25.

In it were two new bridges, new blacktop for 28 miles of old pavement, a mile of new concrete for Greenfield Road, and a number of smaller projects.

And Robert O. Felt, chairman, says the road commission is now mapping out this year's road-building program, since only two of the 1953 projects lack finishing touches.

Greenfield Road's mile of new divided concrete pavement, 22 feet wide, still needs sod and grass along the "divider."

But during the year, road commission contractors laid 28 miles of smooth-riding blacktop over old concrete pavements at a cost of $660,811.52.

The road commission blacktopped 2.75 miles of gravel road at a cost of $34,986.20 and widened six miles of concrete pavement and laid down Greenfield's new concrete at a total cost of $274,863.28.

The U.S. Government helped local officials pay for new bridges carrying Beach road over River Rouge and Lequindre road over Red River. The county road commission paid just half the Beach road bridge's $66,836.67. Oakland's share in Dequindre bridge costs, which Macomb county also shared, was just $6,597.50.

The road commission also did two special assessment jobs totalling $24,568. Walnut Lake road property owners are paying for having their gravel road blacktopped and Pontiac Township is paying for grading, graveling and ditching done on Pontiac Lake road. The commission also built a $7,026 addition to the county garage.

The county's all-out drive to get its pavements back in shape started in 1952.

When the year opened, the county's jagged, pot-holed concrete roads were in such bad shape that in spots motorists drove on the shoulders to save their tires.

The road commission, tackling the biggest resurfacing program in its history, laid some 55 miles of new blacktop over old pavements in 1952 to the tune of almost a million dollars. This year's program boosted the total of resurfaced main roads to about 83 miles.

Felt says the 1954 program probably will run about the same as last year's.

Sons of Runaway Father Are Not Lured by Farm

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — John Bolin, 64, dropped in at a family reunion at his brother's home yesterday and explained, "I was young and just took a notion to wander," when they asked him where he'd been since 1911.

Bolin, a minister and farmer at Altro, Ky., said he had come back for the two small sons he left here with his first wife. He wanted them to join him on his 115-acre farm in Breathitt County, Ky. But he couldn't sell the idea to his two sons — now in their 40s.

* * *

As 45-year-old Roscoe Boli put it, "I've got a good job in St. Louis, and I'm too old to start farming now." His brother Oral, 47, who lives in Evansville, seemed to agree.

* * *

The farm might be a little crowded, anyway. Bolin said his third wife and 10 of their 16 children are living there. The six eldest live in Covington, Ky.

Bolin said he wandered awhile, served in the Army in World War I, settled in Kentucky and remarried. His second wife died soon afterward, and he married again. He said he has been a Christian Church minister for 29 years but he does not have a regular pastorate.

He learned that his first wife, hearing he had been shot to death in a card game, remarried and moved to St. Louis many years ago. She died in 1940. There was no record of a divorce.

The card game rumor made him mildly indigant. "I never played a card game in my life," he said.

Posse Corners Killer of Three

Marksman Surrounded After Shooting Spree in Mississippi

LEXINGTON, Miss. (AP)—A 150-man posse closed in today on a 28-year-old man who killed three men and wounded two others in a shooting spree that began Saturday night.

The posse surrounded a five-square-mile area of woods, waited all night for the gunman to make a move and began closing in as daylight neared.

"He has to come out," a highway patrolman said, "and when he does we'll get him."

Sheriff Richard F. Byrd of Holmes County said the man was Ed Noel, an expert marksman who practiced by shooting matches from his wife's mouth.

He said Noel, who had never before been in trouble, apparently went berserk Saturday night in an argument with a storekeeper at the Coxburg community nearby.

Byrd sand Noel killed the storekeeper, Willie Raymond Dickard, about 28. He said Dickard ordered Noel out of the store after an argument and quoted Noel as saying, "Well, I'll just kill the —."

Byrd said he and Deputy John Pat Malone, 65, went to the store to arrest Noel and the Negro jumped behind a bank and opened fire. Malone was hit in the head and died about two hours later.

Joe Stewart, a 33-year-old telephone company employe and member of the posse, was killed late yesterday when he and two others cornered Noel at his house. The other two, Andrew Smith and F. E. Hocutt were wounded.

They were shot when Noel broke from his house firing his automatic .22 rifle and fled into the woods.

Plan Super Machine to Trap Atom's Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission, searching for still more power out of the heart of the atom, plans a "smashing machine" 10 times more powerful than any now in operation.

AEC said Saturday the structure, about half a mile around, will be built at Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, Long Island.

Its principal component will be a huge circular magnet. The 20-million-dollar installation will take about six years to build. It is designed to speed up sub-atomic "bullets" nearly to the velocity of light and beam them at atomic nuclei.

The resulting knowledge, scientists hope, will help trap more of the nuclear energy released when an atom is smashed. Most of it now is lost.

Tries On Cuffs, Finds No Keys to Shed Them

BOSTON (AP)—A pair of handcuffs Robert Perry, 25, found in the street yesterday caused him to spend an unpleasant Sunday afternoon in a police station.

He tried them on and couldn't get them off. None of the keys at the South End police station would fit. Neither would about 100 keys sent over from Suffolk County Jail and from the armed services patrol.

Farming Becoming Major Part-Time Activity in U.S.

WASHINGTON (INS)— Farming is becoming a major part-time activity of men and women throughout the United States.

According to Agriculture Department figures, about one farmer in every four works at some kind of off-farm job for 100 or more days during a year.

In the period immediately after World War I, only one out of every 10 farmers had an occupation in addition to his farming chores.

This spurt in part-time farming during the past 30 years is due to a number of factors — but growing industrialization probably is the most important.

Improvements in transportation and in rural home facilities also played a vital role in making part-time farming appealing to a greater number of Americans.

The Agriculture Department believes also that as the number of older folks in the population increases, and as modern conveniences become more available, rural areas will become increasingly attractive for retirement, and as a place for persons to live even though they are engaged in non-farm occupations.

A part-time farmer is one who derives a large share of his income from sources other than agriculture.

In other words, he lives on a farm, grows a few crops, and probably raises some livestock, but is dependent on other sources of income for survival.

The part-time farmer can be an industrial worker, a professional man, a pensionee, or even possibly an employe on another nearby farm.

Part-time farms are situated all over the nation, but the heaviest concentration is near large cities and in industrial areas.

Plane Smashes Through Ice but Wings Hold

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—The ice on Byram Lake near here both perilled and then possibly saved the lives of two adventurous fishermen yesterday.

Norman Ritter, 34, and Vincent Hanks, 38, landed their private plane on the ice. They intended to fish through the ice.

At the plane's landing the ice gave way. However, the plane's wing tips caught, preventing the craft from plunging into 30 feet of water.

Ritter, the pilot, and Hanks struggled out of the cockpit into the water and swam to safety.

Norway Seizes Soviet Trawler

Claims It Was Fishing in Its Territorial Waters and Tried to Flee

OSLO (INS) — Oslo radio reported today that a Russian trawler, allegedly fishing in Norwegian territorial waters, was fired on by a Norwegian warship and seized by a boarding party after a chase.

The report said the trawler, registered in Murmansk, was taken to the northern port of Vardo, where a court will be convened today to consider the case.

The corvette Soeroey, the Norwegian radio said, first "fired a warning shot at the trawler, which pulled up its fishing gear and tried to flee.

The Corvette sent three more warning shots whistling past the trawler and then opened fire with a machine gun, but the Soviet vessel still kept to its course.

Paratrooper's Luck Runs Out on Skiing Trail

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Former Cpl. J. Dell Kingston was a paratrooper in World War II, and he also hit the silk over Korea.

Several years ago he fell into a bread-kneading machine and manufacturers of the device said he was the only man ever to escape being crushed to death in the device.

During airborne maneuvers near Otta, Kyushu, Japan, on Feb. 26, 1953, he dived into a river and rescued a paratrooper who had become entangled in his 'chute.

But Army officers who Saturday presented him a citation for the rescue found him in a hospital his leg in a huge cast.

"Skiing," he commented, "that's dangerous."

Seems the 27-year-old ex-corporal was carried from a mountain at Brighton, Utah, a week ago with a double fracture of the ankle and a broken leg bone.

American Legion to Hear of Benefits

A service and rehabilitation school of instruction will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at the Old Mill Tavern, Waterford, to inform American Legion Members of law changes which benefit veterans and their dependents.

Carleton L. Seaman, Michigan service officer for the American Legion, will conduct the meeting, assisted by Russell Cameron. American Legion Post 431 will sponsor the meeting, which is open to members of posts and auxiliaries in the 18th American Legion district.

According to Fred S. Galloway, service officer for the 18th district, many veterans or their families are not receiving benefits due them because they are not familiar with benefits to which they are entitled, or the procedure for filing for those benefits.

Says Turncoats Gripped by Fear

Cpl. Batchelor Reports 21 Pro-Red PWs Afraid of Punishment by U.S.

TOKYO — The 21 American soldiers refusing to return home from communism are torn with mistrust and fear of punishment, their self-styled former leader said today.

Cpl. Claude Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., who left the pro-Red band New Year's Day, said the atmosphere in the strange camp began to break down about a month ago.

"I prefer not to go into the situation," he said, "but the general atmosphere appeared to be that the people did not trust one another."

* * *

The 22-year-old corporal was interviewed in the Tokyo Army Hospital room that has been his home since he was repatriated.

He said that although all the men appeared sincere in their political liking for the Communists, a majority would not come back because they feared punishment from the United States.

If that fear could be erased, he said, quite a few of the remaining 21 would return. Batchelor was the second to flee the group that originally numbered 23 Americans.

He said he himself feared some form of punishment when he returned. The fear had been "deeply imbedded" in him by the Chinese Reds, he said.

* * *

He told of "one man who was so thoroughly afraid to go home he broke down and cried, and everything else, so they let him stay."

"He's still up there," Batchelor added.

Batchelor, who has termed himself a onetime "Progressive," denied that he ever received special, easier treatment in the POW camps. He also denied ever saying he believed the United States was carrying out germ warfare.

Grandmother Wins Badge Killing Wolves

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (AP)—Northern Ontario's champion wolf killer is a grandmother who is eagerly awaiting the day she can hack another notch in her rifle.

Mrs. Roy Beharriel now is looking for wolf No. 5.

* * *

Known throughout this northern Ontario countryside for her prowess in killing wolves, she doesn't go hunting for them. They seem to come to her, with fatal results.

* * *

The Canadian Tourist Assn. presented her with a wolf killer's badge after her third wolf kill last October. She is one of the few women so honored.

She shot her fourth wolf as it attempted to prey on the Beharriel sheep flock.

"I never shot anything bigger than groundhogs and squirrels before the wolves," she says.

She first learned to shoot as a girl of 10 and bagged her first wolf in 1951.

Her second wolf, shot in 1953, gave her a "real scare." Her young adopted son Wayne called out he could not shoo the big gray "dog" off the road. She looked out and saw a wolf with the child. Grabbing her 30-30 rifle, she felled it with one shot, then dragged it into the house. The wolf, revived by the warm kitchen, began growling and snapping. In sheer panic, Mrs. Beharriel grabbed a hockey stick and clubbed it to death.

* * *

The Beharriels live on a 160-acre farm near here. They have about 70 sheep and with a purebred ewe costing $75, three wolves must be shot at the present bounty of $25 to pay for the loss of one ewe.

* * *

"The few I have killed do not cover our losses," Mrs. Beharriel said.

What does Mr. Beharriel think about his wife's hunting? "All this publicity is bunk," he exclaims. But his proud grin and a twinkle in his eye show what he really thinks of his wife.

Save Child Who Ate Nitroglycerine Pills

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Jimmy Resch, 2, gleefully held up an empty bottle of nitroglycerine pills.

"Look, Mommie," he said. "All gone!"

The frantic mother, Mrs. Marjorie Resch, at once told the manager of the theater they were attending that her son had taken the medicine bottle from her purse. An ambulance was summoned and Jimmie was whisked away to a hospital, where a stomach pump was applied. Jimmie's reaction: "Mommie, I'm still hungry."

Checks New Story of Kidnap Ransom

ST. LOUIS (AP)—FBI agents are checking a story about the missing $303,720 Greenlease ransom told by a 40-year-old barber held in Las Vegas, Nev., on a worthless check charge.

He was identified as Frank Beninato, charged with issuing an $800 worthless check in San Francisco.

Beninato told officers he saw a man take a suitcase from the parked car of resigned Lt. Louis Shoulders a few minutes after Shoulders and suspended Patrolman Elmer Dolan arrested kidnap-slayer Carl Austin Hall the night of Oct. 6.

Shoulders and Dolan have been indicted by a Kansas City federal grand jury for perjury in connection with their testimony about their handling of the two suitcases in which Hall carried the ransom. Less than $300,000 of the $600,000 ransom was recovered in the suitcases.

Seeks Aid to Revise Immigration Law

WASHINGTON (INS)—Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D) N. Y., appealed to President Eisenhower today to support efforts to revise the controversial McCarran-Walter Immigration Act.

The senator had an appointment with the chief executive at the White House and an aide reported the measure would be the topic of discussion.

Lehman was to be accompanied by Julius Edelstein, his administrative assistant.

A spokesman for the senator said he would offer to help the administration in any attempt it might make to "liberalize" the immigration law that Congress passed in 1952.

At the same time, the senator's representative said, he would seek the President's endorsement of a bill he and others have introduced to modify the act.

Retired Research Man Dies After Car Crash

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. Newell S. Ferry, 77, retired research director for Parke, Davis & Co., died in the south Saturday of automobile accident injuries.

A car driven by Dr. Ferry's wife, Anna, left a road near Marion, S. C., and hit a bridge railing. Mrs. Ferry and three others in the car were hurt. The Ferrys have been living in the south in recent years.

Rebels Subdued, Claim French

But Hide, Seek Game Goes On and On in Laos Jungle Area

SENO, Indochina (AP)—French parachutists and North African troops kept up a "deadly game of hide and seek" today with Communist-led Vietminh guerrillas in the jungle northeast of this French-held Laotian fortress.

The French forces claimed more than 1,000 casualties among their rebel enemy and asserted they had wiped out any serious Vietminh menace in central Laos, one of the three associated Indochinese states.

* * *

They are fighting one of the most important battles of the seven-year war against Ho Chi Minh's rebels. It is a battle without regular front, on no fixed position, in a quadrangle 25 miles square here in central Laos.

* * *

The French commander, Gen. Andre Franchi, declared the Vietminh no longer are capable of mounting an attack on Seno unless they receive substantial reinforcements from other fronts.

The parachutists and North Africans pressed their attack today on rebel units trying to reach the shelter of a plateau to the north which might prove inaccessible to the French. Franchi's artillery and the air force pounded their columns day and night.

The Vietminh battalions and the pursuing French ground units wheel and turn through the dense jungle without pause, each laying ambushes for the other. Engagements are of extraordinary violence.

* * *

"It's a deadly game of hide and seek," said one parachutist. "After hours of marching through the jungle at a kilometer (.315 of a mile) an hour, we suddenly come upon the Vietminh—or they surprise us. Then everything explodes on all sides."

* * *

The big Vietminh loss was claimed after the French said they smashed an assault yesterday on Seno and launched their powerful counterattack. Gen. Franchi claimed at least half of the 1,000 Vietminh losses were killed. He gave no figures on French casualties but said they were considerably below those of the enemy.

Seno is about 50 miles south of Thakhet and a few miles east of Savannakhet, in Laos. The Vietminh invaded the area Dec. 22, virtually cutting Indochina in two.

The French estimated the Vietminh forces taking part in the Seno operation at seven battalions of between 600 and 900 men each.

'Old' Actress of 23 Warns: Keep Glamor

By BOB THOMAS

Despite her tender years, Anne is an acting veteran. Born in Ossining, N. Y., she started as a fashion model before she was 5. She was in radio at 7, TV at 12 and was signed by MGM when she was 15. After appearing in only one picture, "Summer Holiday," she returned to New York. Then came appearances in summer stock and all the top TV dramatic shows, plus a movie, "So Young, So Bad."

* * *

Hollywood again called her, this time for a 20th Century-Fox contract. Great things were planned for her. She got the title role in "Lydia Bailey," a big costume drama. Then she got lost in the shuffle on the big lot. Now she is winding up her contract with a loanout to RKO for "Susan Slept Here."

In her three years at 20th-Fox, she made only three pictures, and those in the first year, I asked her what happened.

"I think the thing that did it was a role I did in 'Dream Boat,'" she remarked. "I played Clifton Webb's daughter, and the character was a female Webb. Throughout most of the picture, she was a dull girl who wore glasses and lacked glamor.

* * *

"The picture was fun to do, but I don't thing it was good for me. I think all the producers and directors on the lot considered me as sort of a character type of actress after that. I wasn't given any roles.

"If I had to do it over again, I probably would turn down the picture. It's different for someone who is established—like Elizabeth Taylor—to do such a role. The public is familiar with what she is like ordinarily. But I was a new personality, and people figured that was the kind of girl I was."

That was her last picture on the lot. She was loaned out to appear with James Cagney in "A Lion Is in the Streets" and recently did "The Kid From Outer Space" for Panoramic, the subsidiary that makes flat-screen pictures for 20th-Fox. After her present loanout, she becomes a free-lancer.

* * *

Most players leave studios with the statement that the separation was by mutual consent. Anne is frank enough to admit that she is being dropped.

Because whales have been known to follow a ship for several days, some students believe they do not sleep.

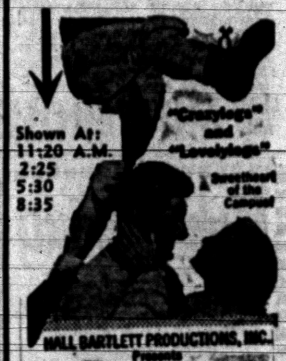

Carnivorous animals usually are considered to be flesh eating, but some types, like many of the bears, which are in the carnivorous class live mostly on vegetables.

Kaiser Explains His Health Plan

Tells House Committees of FHA-Backed Policy for Medical Services

WASHINGTON (INS)— Industrialist Henry J. Kaiser today proposed a free enterprise health plan that he said would make "socialized medicine absolutely unnecessary."

The West Coast builder told the House Commerce Committee in prepared testimony that the self-supporting plan, backed with FHA-type insured mortgage loans, could be put in operation on a nation-wide basis.

Kaiser testified in support of legislation offered by Chairman Charles A. Wolverton (R-NJ) to provide FHA-type loan insurance for construction of self-supporting facilities which supply group medical services.

He said an investment of one billion dollars would enable 30,000 doctors throughout the nation to provide voluntary, low-cost prepaid medical and hospital care to 30 million Americans.

For approximately one million dollars, he said, a partnership of 30 doctors could build a medical center providing comprehensive care for 30,000 health plan members.

He cited as an example the Kaiser Foundation health plan which he said, has more than 400,000 members and operates 35 medical centers, hospitals, clinics and rehabilitation centers.

Kaiser declared that average middle-income groups need not be "plunged either gradually or rapidly into government socialized medicine."

Evacuate Slipping Hillside in Oregon

Thirty-four families have had to leave their homes on the water-soaked hill since it began slipping last Tuesday. City officials said they feared the slide area was spreading.

The Red Cross has designated the hillside a disaster area and Gov. Paul Patterson has ordered an investigation to determine if federal aid should be requested.

Only Appetite Is Good as Death Comes at 101

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—Ten years ago Jacques Claude Celestin left the hills where he had herded sheep for more than 50 years and said he was retiring. "Getting too old," he said.

With no surviving relatives, he settled down quietly in his one-room cabin near here. He was found there Saturday, dead apparently of natural causes.

Death came one week and one day after his 101st birthday, when he remarked the "only good thing on me is my appetite."

CATCHING A LOBSTER DINNER—Lieut. James F. Cahill Jr., 27, Navy frogman, splashes ashore at Salem, Mass., after snatching a couple of three-pound lobster dinners from the depths. Cahill, assigned to a Boston harbor defense unit, keeps his family supplied when needed, in course of his underwater duties. It's against the law to mutilate lobsters so frogmen cannot use spears.

Crisler Okehs 1-Platoon Game

By MERCER BAILEY

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, often called the father of modern two-platoon football, said today the game is just as good under one-platoon, with the exception of kicking.

"Mechanics of the game last season with limited substitution were just as good, except for kicking," said Crisler, chairman of the NCAA football rules committee which opened sessions here today.

"Coaches will see that kicking comes back up, given a little time. Trouble was that so many schools depended on their kicking from a fellow who usually couldn't—or didn't—do anything else."

Amid signs that one-platoon football is here to stay, although there may be some liberalization of the limited substitution rule, Crisler said he believes college football is a better game with double-duty players in action.

Statistics show that pass defense improved considerably last year," the Michigan athletic director and former coach declared. "I think that is because coaches are keeping their 'blue chip' players in defense as well as offense.

"Under the two-platoon system, in many instances, coaches would let their top-notch boys—especially backfield men—play offense and their second stringers play defense. Now we get the best boys both ways."

He noted that coaches last year voted 4-1 in favor of two-platoons. But this year they are 3-1 on the side of limited substitution.

Many coaches, however, are clamoring for some modification of the rule, which divides the game into six segments and prohibits a player from returning to action if he already has played in that segment.

Lou Little of Columbia, chairman of the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Assn., is here to work with Crisler's group in an advisory capacity.

Little said the coaches would like to see the rule changed so a player could see action twice in each period, with no time limits.

"They let a player in the game six different times now," he said. "We're just asking that they make it eight times. I believe small colleges, or those with small squads, would benefit greatly by such action."

Crisler added that his group would be in session three days and that no official announcements would be made until after Wednesday's meeting.

CANADIENS' TEAMWORK—Practically all of the Montreal Canadiens on the ice moved into the goal mouth in this 3rd period action last night to prevent a Detroit Red Wings' score. Goalie Gerry McNeil is sprawled on his back with Ken Mosdell (18) about to fall on him. Dollard St. Laurent (19) is shown retrieving the puck with Maurice Richard at the extreme right. Number 12 is center Glen Skov of the Red Wings. Detroit won, 2-1.

Skippers Seek 1st Victory in Tilt at Avondale

Orion, Troy in Rematch, Keego Meets Madison for 2nd Time

By JACK SAYLOR

A number of non-league games feature the mid-week basketball schedule for Oakland County preps Tuesday night, but there is conference action in the surrounding area.

Three games highlight the non-league play. Madison of Royal Oak appears at Keego Harbor, Waterford goes to Avondale and Lake Orion plays at Troy.

Two of the three games are re-matches. Keego holds a 62-50 decision over Madison and a 3-1 record for the season. Troy belted Orion in their 1st meeting, 68-47. Colts have a 4-2 mark and are bounding along at a 55-point per-game clip.

Waterford still seeks its 1st victory in its meeting with the Auburn Heights' five. Skippers' lone triumph in 17 games last season was a 57-52 verdict over the Yellow Jackets. Curiously, the win came on Avondale's floor, while Avon defeated the Skippers by 24 points at Waterford.

* * *

Waterford's record is 0-6, while Avondale won its 1st game in three starts Friday over Clawson, 44-41.

Two other Inter-Lakes Conference fives are having better luck. Farmington has won five straight after an opening setback and plays Tuesday at Dearborn Lowrey. Southfield, which has a 4-2 record and three wins in a row, meets Plymouth.

In league play, unbeaten Ferndale and East Detroit meet in the Eastern Michigan League's top game, while Lakeview and Lake Shore tangle in the Bi-County feature. There's a full slate in the Southern Thumb and Pontiac's parochials meet Suburban Catholic League rivals.

St. Michael is at RO St. Mary and St. Frederick hosts OL St. Mary. Eaglets have a 3-0 mark. Milford, the county's only other undefeated team, is idle.

The schedule:

* * *

Wings Bottle Up 'Rocket,' Regain NHL's Top Spot

Richard Blanked and Detroit Takes a 2-1 Decision in Olympia

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings grabbed back 1st place in the National Hockey League last night from the rocket-driven Montreal Canadiens with a 2-1 victory before the season's largest crowd.

Red Wings' answer to the Canadiens was to bottle up Maurice (the Rocket) Richard. Even then it took two fine shots by forwards John Wilson and Ted Lindsay to give Red Wings a victory.

Biggest obstacle was Montreal goalie Gerry McNeil whose netminding was all that stopped a run-away Wing victory.

Montreal scored 1st in a fast, tough 1st period with a goal by center Ken Mosdell who took a high pass over the head of Red Wings defenseman Bob Goldham.

* * *

With Detroit's production line of Lindsay, Gordie Howe and Dutch Reibel in for the faceoff, Detroit evened the count 16 seconds later. Lindsay pushed the goal through on passes from Howe and Reibel.

Second period seemed slower to the 15,038 fans, but Wings kept up the pressure.

Nearly seven minutes were gone when Wilson broke through, catching Montreal forward Bernie Geoffrion flat-bladed to take a pass from Delveccio and scored from close in.

The fiery Richard played the forward line all the game, but he might as well not have been there.

Still in the bad graces of league president Clarence Campbell for his recent blast at the league administration, Richard was definitely not controversial last night.

In other games, Boston Bruins downed Chicago Black Hawks 5-3 and the Rangers defeated Toronto 4-1.

Slammin' Sam Wins Another

Snead Adds Pro-Am's Title at Miami Beach to Victory String

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., professional, has added the MacNaughton Pro-Amateur golf tournament to his long list of victories.

He walked away from the tournament yesterday with $1,100 in cash for 18 holes of play.

Snead posted a 34-34—68 for the Bayshore course, where par is 36-36 — 72, to beat Jock Hutchinson Jr., Fort Lauderdale, Fla., by one stroke.

The vetean slammer needed a birdie on the par five 18th and he got it after his 2nd shot hit a spectator on the far side of the green and stopped just off the smooth turf. He chipped to within five feet and sank the putt for a four and $300 1st prize for low professional.

In the two-ball, best-ball pro-amateur play, Snead teamed with Dave Yeomans of Miami to take 1st prize of $500 and with Francis Hogan of Miami Shores for 2nd prize of $300.

With the handicaps figured, Snead and Yeomans had a 31-30 — 61 and Snead and Hogan a 30-32 — 62.

McKenzie and Ewing Offer Surprise for Indoor Track

NEW YORK (AP) — The old guard of indoor track looked today to two new names with something less than enthusiasm.

The names are Gordon McKenzie and Paul Ewing and they could cause trouble on the indoor circuit which opens Saturday in Boston.

McKenzie won the mile run in the Metropolitan AAU championships last Saturday, beating out a couple of runners who, on form, should have taken his measure with ease.

The ex-New York University runner, now 26, has been around several years and the top notchers have a nodding acquaintance with him. They bid him a fast "hello" in a race then go on their merry way leaving Gordon in their wake.

It didn't look that way, though, in the Met affair. McKenzie took over the lead from the start and hung on all the way to win in respectable 4:16.9. Bill Ashenfelter was 2nd and Charley Capozzoli 3rd.

Capozzoli was the boy who followed Wes Santee across the line in the Sugar Bowl mile two weeks ago and was clocked in 4:08.

McKenzie's effort was the fastest he ever has raced the mile.

Ewing, a former Notre Dame captain and Central Collegiate Conference 220-yard champion in 1952, won the 60-yard dash in 6.5 seconds.

North Squad Scores Upset in Bowl Tilt

Gene Filipski's Running Sparks Underdogs to 20-14 Triumph

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—An underdog North team, fired by the passing of Northwestern's Dick Thomas and the running of Villanova's Gene Filipski and Maryland's Ralph Felton, upset a pass-minded South team, 20-14, Saturday in the Senior Bowl football game.

Thomas tossed a 63-yard touchdown pass to Illinois' John Ryan, scored once on a 3-yard quarterback sneak and started another TD drive with a 19-yard screen pass to Felton.

Victory gave the North a 3-2 lead in the series. Forty-eight of 1953's brightest college senior stars turned pro in the game. Members of the winning North team received $500 each and the members of the losing South team were given $400 each.

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers have wedged their foot in another television door. For the 1st time in the club's history, Tigers will televise seven road games next season in a move that is expected to eventually eliminate telecasts of all home games.

By eventually limiting all telecasts to road games only, the club hopes to create considerably more interest in the team when it plays in Detroit. In all, 35 games will telecast next season and all will be broadcast on radio throughout Michigan.

One move in the starting time of home games will also take effect this season. Night games will begin at 8:15 p. m. (EST) instead of 8:30.

12 of 16 Lose Money

With Exception of New Milwaukee Club, Baseball Attendance Fell Off Badly in '53

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The more one studies major league attendance figures for last season the more incredible it seems that the players should have chosen 1953 of all years to hire themselves a lawyer and start belting their employers in the financial solar plexus.

* * *

Considering the kind of beating most of them took at the box office, there is no great wonder that the magnates reacted like wounded grizzlies at the demand for increased pensions and threatened to throw the entire plan out the nearest window.

* * *

Make no mistake — big league baseball is a sick boy, and something must be done soon to get the fans started back through the turnstiles if the present player salary scale is to be maintained.

Though baseball books are not made public, it has been announced semi-officially that 12 of the 16 clubs lost money last season. Milwaukee and Brooklyn in the National League and the Yankees in the American are known to have finished in the black. The fourth member of the fortunate group would have to be a guess, but it could have been Cleveland.

Total attendance in the American League fell off 1,329,820. Philadelphia showed a decline of 261,163, St. Louis 221,558, Detroit 142,188, Washington 103,863, New York 91,854, Boston 89,617, Chicago 40,322. One club, St. Louis, went under. Another, Philadelphia, has cut its payroll drastically by disposing of two high-salaried players and an expensive manager.

The National League showed an over-all attendance increase of 1,080,573, but the figure is very deceiving. It was made possible only because Milwaukee went hog wild over its new club and set a new league record of 1,826,397 paid.

Kentucky Looks Best

5 Major College Teams Keep Undefeated Status

By RIP WATSON

NEW YORK (AP)—College basketball nears the season's halfway point this week with the undefeated big five of Kentucky, Duquesne, Western Kentucky, Holy Cross and George Washington towering over the rest of the pack.

* * *

Kentucky, better than ever after a year's enforced absence from the college cage scene, looks like the best bet to go through without a loss. The Wildcats, rated No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll, flattened Georgia Tech 105-53 Saturday night for their first Southeastern Conference victory since the conference's one-year ban was lifted.

Western Kentucky racked up victory No. 14 Saturday by turning back Murray (Ky.) Teachers 75-43 in one of the lowest scoring games of the season.

* * *

Duquesne won No. 13 over St. Francis (Pa.) 94-64. The Dukes lived up to their No. 2 rating with a routine victory. Sub Fletcher Johnson led the scoring with 20 points.

* * *

Holy Cross, ranked seventh, and George Washington, like Kentucky, won their ninth game with an impressive display of power. Holy Cross rolled over little St. Anselm's 102-60, while George Washington solidified its role as Southern Conference kingpin by clouting Virginia Tech 73-40.

Close behind the unbeaten titans come a pair of conference powers who've lost only one—Indiana and Oklahoma A&M. Indiana, defending Big Ten and NCAA champions, whipped Minnesota 71-63 in what had been billed as a "crucial" test for the champs since Minnesota is ranked sixth nationally.

* * *

Oklahoma A&M, Missouri Valley champion seven times in the past decade, took the first step toward another title by whaling Houston 76-61.

NBA Suspends Piston Player for Wagering

Molinas Is Expected to Be Expelled at End of Season

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Jack Molinas, who had a good chance of being named the National Basketball Assn. Rookie of the Year, instead appeared likely to be the first player expelled from the league for betting on NBA games.

* * *

The Fort Wayne Piston forward and former Columbia University star, was in the position of trading his career and a salary of $9,600 a season for about $400 in gambling profits.

* * *

The NBA, which escaped being involved directly in the college basketball bribery scandals of the last three seasons, yesterday suspended him indefinitely.

President Maurice Podoloff left little doubt that the 6-foot-6 Molinas is finished in pro basketball. The 21-year-old player is entitled to a hearing before being expelled automatically at the end of the season. But Podoloff said he doubted that Molinas will ask for one.

The tall youth told The Associated Press he had bet only on his team to win.

"I've never done anything dishonest in my life," he exclaimed, almost in tears.

Several hours after Molinas' suspension, Deputy Chief Inspector Edward W. Byrnes in New York said that a Bronx candy store operator had been questioned in connection with the incident.

* * *

New York newspapers last night reported that bookmakers had stopped taking bets on Fort Wayne games after the Pistons' game with Boston Dec. 15. Odds favoring Boston jumped sharply just before the game, it was reported. Boston won 82-75, with Molinas scoring 20 points, 18 of them in the first half.

* * *

Podoloff also said Molinas reported he gained about $400, including refunds of telephone calls.

'Y' Swimmer Ties Record

Dennis Simonson Equals Breast Stroke Mark in Meet Here

Pontiac's Dennis Simonson tied a pool record here Saturday as the City YMCA swimming teams split two meets with Detroit Northern "Y".

Pontiac juniors won their test, 44-24, while the preps bowed to Detroit, 49-8.

Simonson won the junior division 40-yard breast stroke in 26.8 seconds to tie the pool mark set by Wayne Adam in 1951. He also won the 60-yard individual medley and anchored the free style relay team to victory.

Other junior division 1st places were taken by Rennie Saigeon, in the 40 and 100-yard free style events, and Cecil Dumbrigue in diving.

Pontiac failed to take a single victory in the prep division, but 2nds were taken by Bruce Norvell in the 20-yard breast stroke, the 60-yard medley relay team and the 80-yard free style relay team.

LA Open Test Is Being Paced by Dark Horse

Former Intercollegiate Champ Holds 5-Stroke Lead Over Field

By JACK STEVENSON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former intercollegiate champion Fred Wampler, a dark horse pacing the $20,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament dominated by other little known pros, led the way into the final round today with a comfortable 5-stroke lead at 206.

* * *

Wampler, from Indianapolis, won the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. title in 1950 at Purdue, where he graduated in business administration. But the 30-year-old former B24 flight engineer immediately turned to pro golf and yesterday gave an excellent accounting of himself with a 5-under-par 66.

* * *

Observers felt that if he could tour the 7,000-yard Fox Hills Country Club course in an even par 71 for the final 18 he would be a shoo-in for the $4,000 top prize. Behind him at 211 came Jimmy Clark, Laguna Beach, Calif.; Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.; and Bill Nary, Tucson, Ariz. Nary led through the first and second rounds but slipped to a 74 yesterday. Hawkins had a 73 and Clark a 67.

* * *

At 212 came Jerry Barber, La Canada, Calif., who had a 69 yesterday; Bud Holscher, Santa Monica, Calif., also 69; and the only two well-known pros in the eight who still are ahead of par, Bud Ward of Great Falls, Mont., and Ed Oliver of Palm Springs, Calif., both carding third round 70s.

* * *

Falling well off the pace were such stars as Lloyd Mangrum, the defending champion, with a 71 and 218, just two strokes inside the qualifying score for the finals. Also down were Cary Middlecoff with 216; Lew Worsham, among the leaders for two rounds but now at 216 after a 76; and Peter Thomson, the Australian who was runner-up to Hogan in the British Open, with 217.

* * *

Golf World Nearing New Era With Hogan, Snead Approaching Twilight of Their Brilliant Links Games

By GRANTLAND RICE

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Golf is now engaged in following its usual course of weeding out and picking up new material. Scotch and English pros dominated the golf scene until 1910. Then Jack McDermott ended the foreign invasion. Jack won in 1911 and 1912.

* * *

Mac Smith, one of golf's greatest players, failed to win a major championship. Hagen, Sarazen and Armour all won the Triple Crown of golf, meaning the U. S. Open, the British Open and the PGA.

* * *

The old group began to fade and fall back around 1930, all except Gene Sarazen who played for 20 years more. As the veterans disappeared we had a new crop of winners, namely: Byron Nelson, Hogan, Sam Snead, Craig Wood, Lloyd Mangrum, and Ralph Guldahl.

Hogan, Nelson and Snead were still able to challenge Jones, Hagen and Sarazen. From the combination of all groups Jones and Hogan were the standouts.

* * *

When the 1950 period arrived, Hogan was on top, with Snead and Lloyd Mangrum in pursuit. But Ben is not going to remain in steady competition forever. Snead is about reaching the end of the winning highway, not yet, but soon.

* * *

Mangrum is still dangerous for a while yet. But the 1940-1950 group is on the way out. Dutch Harrison and one or two others have been fine golfers through two periods. Others are Johnny Bulla, Henry Picard, Porky Oliver and just a few more.

Now we have come to another era—the 1954-1964 spot on the calendar. From the younger group, Dave Douglas seemed to be one of the best when the Los Angeles Open got under way. He was the fellow who caught Sam Snead in Miami recently with a terrific rush at the finish.

Iowa's Hawks Still Fly High in Big 10 Race

By TOM BRANAGAN

CHICAGO (AP)—While Indiana was busy proving it hasn't lost last season's championship basketball touch, Iowa's youthful Hawkeyes were giving indication they'll demand plenty of respect in Big Ten competition.

Indiana's Hoosiers regained any prestige lost in a somewhat shaky start this season by whipping Minnesota's top contenders 71-63 on the Gophers' court Saturday.

Iowa, meanwhile, kept in step with a 71-54 verdict over Wisconsin's seasoned Badgers — a team Indiana's defending champions were able to beat by only three points on the Hoosiers' floor.

Both teams play tonight, Indiana opposing Purdue at home and Iowa entertaining Michigan. In other conference games, Ohio State is at Illinois and Northwestern at Wisconsin.

Before beating Wisconsin, Iowa scored a convincing 73-63 victory over Michigan State. Previously, in non-conference competition, the Hawks won five and lost two.

Coach Bucky O'Connor of Iowa started the season with a tremendous rebuilding job confronting him. Only two regulars—Deacon Davis and Chuck Jarnagin — returned and seven of his 1st 10 men were sophomores.

Then, in Iowa's 2nd game, against Nebraska, Davis—one of the Big Ten's leading scorers last season—suffered a head injury and was out for two games. Meanwhile O'Connor used virtually every man in every game—strategy that continues even now.

O'Connor doesn't make any claims for his young squad and says Indiana is still the team to beat.

Scoring star Don Schlundt was held to 12 points but guard Bob Leonard took up the slack with 20 and sub forward Dick White added 17. Prior to the game, Gophers figured as the conference's best bet to stop Indiana's bid for a 2nd consecutive conference title.

In other games Saturday, Michigan State upset Illinois 60-59 with the winning point coming on Julius MCoy's last-second free throw; Northwestern beat Michigan 72-60, and Ohio State walloped Purdue 91-74 with sophomore Robin Freeman scoring 32 points and Paul Ebert 29.

Independent Midwest activity tonight sends DePaul to Kentucky, Marquette to Loyola of Chicago and Drake to Bradley. Results Saturday included: Notre Dame 99, New York U. 64; Marquette 81, Drake 69, and Bradley 92, Iowa State 76.

Crawford Mims (60), South guard from Mississippi, comes in along with Mack Franklin (51) of Tennessee and Dreher Gaskin (86) of Clemson, South ends. North won, 20-14.

* * *

Carmen Basilio may never win the world welter title but he must be the champion of the Saturday night fights (ABC-TV). The Canastota, N. Y., welter will be making his seventh appearance on Ray Arcel's series Saturday at Miami against Italo Scortichini of Italy.

Interest Shown in Club's Plan

Large Turnout Listens to Details of Forest Lake Proposal

Leading figures in the proposal to return Forest Lake into a private golf club said Sunday night that an unexpected large group of area residents have shown interest in the plan.

"At our Sunday explanatory session" said Blaine Eynon," we figure at least 500 persons came in to hear about the plan, and we had several inquiries about membership application."

The plan calls for expansion and improvement of the course and buildings, with an estimated cost of about half a million dollars, Eynon says. Further meetings this week will determine definitely the project's future, he added.

The directing group has decided to take some junior members at reduced rates, and have already lined up a prospective pro in Bob Gajda of Oakland Hills, assistant to Al Watrous.

Ontario Rink Wins World Curling Title

Nash's curlers won the Michigan Cup yesterday, defeating the B. C. Phippen Rink of Sarnia, Ont., 10-6 in the finals of the 68th International Bonspiel Curling classic, the world series for the sport.

The Detroit cup went to the J. C. Preston Rink of Bradford, Ont., after its 12-11 2nd-event victory over Detroit's Joseph McGlynn Rink.

Forty teams, 20 American and 20 Canadian, completed competition which began last Thursday.

Steve Kraly, Gus Triandos Given Best Chance of Crashing Yankees This Year

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — You'd think a club like the New York Yankees, winners of five consecutive world championships, would be content to stand pat. But those Yankees are never satisfied.

They've brought up 15 rookies for inspection at their St. Petersburg, Fla., spring training camp next month. Two, catcher Gus Triandos and pitcher Steve Kraly, came up for a look late last season. Both appear to have a good chance to make the varsity.

Others may find the going a bit tougher. List of newcomers include a couple of pitchers who had outstanding seasons in the minors last year. One is Wally Burnette, righthand knuckleballer, who won won 21 and lost 10 at Binghamton in the Eastern League. A workhorse, who compiled a 13-2 record at Kansas City. He appeared in 47 games, mostly in relief.

Another pitcher who will receive special attention in the Yankee camp is Bob Wiesler, fastballing southpaw who struck out 92 batters in 140 innings at Kansas City. His record was a medicore 8-7 but he is regarded very highly.

Veteran observers believe Kraly is a cinch to win a starting assignment with the world champions. He came up last August and was charged with defeats in two starts. One of his losses, however, was a 1-0 decision to Bob Lemon and the Cleveland Indians. With Binghamton, he racked up 19 victories against only two defeats. His earned run percentage of 2.08 topped the circuit.

Florida fans will get a good look at Bonus baby Frank Leja, the 17-year-old high school boy from Holyoke, Mass., who got a sizeable chunk of money to sign up with the Yankees. He played several games in the Cuban Winter League but fared badly and returned home.

Charles Rated Top Challenger for Marciano

But Nobody Is Cited as Logical Contender for Rocky's Title

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. rates four challengers as outstanding heavyweights, but it couldn't find one logical contender for Rocky Marciano's title.

* * *

The NBA's winter ratings advanced former champion Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati to the No. 1 challenger position on the strength of his knockout of Coley Wallace last month. Trailing Charles, in order, were Nino Valdez of Cuba, Dan Bucceroni of Philadelphia and Roland LaStarza of New York.

Danny Nardico, the fellow who at one time was reported to be Marciano's next opponent, was rated fifth among the light-heavyweights.

There were no major changes in the NBA ratings announced yesterday. The biggest gain was recorded by Rocky Castellani, the Pennsylvanian now fighting out of Ohio, who moved up from sixth to second among the world's middleweights.

* * *

Randy Turpin, who lost to Olson in the windup of a round-robin series to select a successor to the retired Sugar Ray Robinon, was rated just behind Castellani. Both were listed as logical contenders.

Kid Gavilan, the welterweight champ, has said he, too, wants to get a shot at Olson's championship.

* * *

NBA President Andrew G. Putka said that if Gavilan were to fight Olson and beat him, he would surrender his welterweight championship, but that if Gavilan were to lose, he would continue as the titlist of the lower weight division.

"In the meantime," Putka added, "we feel Gavilan should first meet Carmen Basilio in a title bout."

* * *

Basilio, who lost a disputed bout to Gavilan last year, was all alone as the logical contender in the welterweight division.

CASE — Medium Alley Lift.

Ball Hooks Sooner — Former match king Ned Day masters all alley conditions by varying his follow-through. So can you. On a slow (run) alley that breaks quickly from right to left, he stiff-arms the delivery. Follows through straight on out, much like pushing action. Breaking the elbow in a "lift" enables him to apply spin with the fingers.

On a medium surfaced alley he breaks the elbow inward, to the left, as sketched shows, imparting greater spin. Stiff-arming causes the hook spin to take effect far down the alley.

The elbow break illustrated produces quicker hook action — about half way down the alley — with the No. 3 pin the target always. Important: Don't rush the lift. Concentrate instead on a smooth swing, all the way.

Birmingham Dog Wins Honors at Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — An American-Canadian champion English Setter, Ludar of Blue Bar, owned by William C. Sears of Birmingham, Sunday won the best-of-show honors in the annual winter dog show of the Grand Rapids Kennel Club.

The show attracted 15 entries representing 53 different breeds of dogs.

Boys' Clubbers Win

Pontiac Boys' Club basketball teams defeated two Dearborn BC quintets last week in the opening games of the Michigan-Ohio League. Mighty Mites won their contest, 41-12, while the Wonders dumped Dearborn, 57-34.

Spartans Upset Illini

By The Associated Press

Michigan's college basketball season gives promise of being a thriller-diller all the way.

The weekend, in which Michigan State starred with its upset over Illinois, was a fair indication of what might come in post-holidays campaigning.

A surprise loser to Northwestern, the University of Michigan (1-2) tries to stay in the Big 10 race the hard way by tangling with 2nd-place Iowa (2-0) tonight at Iowa City.

MSC (1-1) is idle tonight.

A free throw in the last second of play was the margin of victory for Michigan State as the Spartans upset visiting Illinois 60-59 in the closest game of 12 involving Michigan teams.

Sophomore forward Julius McCoy, top Spartan scorer with 27 pcints, was fouled on a layup attempt as just seconds remained to play. McCoy missed the 1st of two tosses but sank the 2nd to gain the vistory.

It was State's first win over Illinois in basketball.

Another Big 10 battle at Evanston, Ill., proved a surprise as Northwestern collected a 72-60 win over Michigan. The unpredictable Wolverines had worked to a 49-all tie late in the 3rd period but starting center Harvey Williams fouled out at that point and Northwestern forged ahead.

In Detroit, St. Louis university shook off 1st period lethargy and went on to score a 70-64 triumph over the University of Detroit in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

It was the first MVC game of the season for St. Louis and sent the Titans to their 4th defeat without a league victory. Detroit was inept at the foul line, making only 26 of 40 free throws.

Wayne University used its road trip to good advantage with a 63-46 victory over Washington University of St. Louis.

At Central Michigan, the host Central team scored a 69-63 Interstate Conference victory over Northern Illinois. Central now shows a 1-2 record in league play.

Michigan Tech had an easy time scoring its 5th straight win 74-46 over the touring University of Mexico squad.

Hope took over 1st place in MIAA standings as it dumped Albion 73-67, Hillsdale went through two overtimes to score a 73-71 MIAA victory over Kalamazoo.

Soo Tech, paced by Tom Kallio's 27 points, defeated Ferris Institute 95-80. Assumption mauled Adrian 80-56 in Windsor, Ont., Toronto scored a 59-41 victory over Detroit Tech and Benton Harbor JC scored an easy 77-49 win over Joliet (Ill.) JC.

Rookie Senator Kennedy Hard-Fighting Crusader

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

WASHINGTON (INS) — Young, handsome rich, and anything but a playboy—that's freshman Senator John F. Kennedy (D.) Mass. And it was good to have a talk with him.

Instead of jaded platitudes, his words are fresh and vigorous, and though it gets some people sore when any "top dog" type goes all out for underdogs, I'm not one of the sore ones.

You may remember pictures of his recent wedding to Jacqueline Lee Bouvier, and think his good looks and charm beguiled me.

You'd be right, but what's really impressive is what this son of wealth stands for. His pet crusades include his fight to strengthen the economy of New England, and his constant interests are labor and foreign affairs.

However you feel about those, I think you'll applaud Senator Kennedy when he says "the way things are, American boys just do not have an equal chance to get into West Point or Annapolis."

"Our congressmen and senators," he explained, "can pick candidates any way they please. Political favoritism gets into it, 'the proper connections,' and other such things. That oldtime system ought to be changed, and soon."

It was after the West Point scandal that John F. Kennedy first published the results of a long, hard survey he'd begun in 1947, with his war service as a commander on PT boats not too far behind him.

"Apart from the unfairness of it," he told me, "the old system is a terrible waste of the taxpayer's money. It costs us about $6,000 per year per boy at West Point or Annapolis—and less than 50 per cent of the men who entered the naval academy between 1940 and 1943 still have their commissions. How do you like that?"

I didn't like it. Nor the fact that 30 per cent of the graduates for the next four years resigned their commissions, and that 306 undergraduates have quit Annapolis and 380 have left West Point since the war.

This wholesale falling by the wayside springs from haphazard selection, the senator says, of boys not qualified by temperament or brains for the task ahead, boys who pay for expensive "cram schools" to get by the entrance exams, and then fail in the high voltage study of the regular courses.

His crusade would end such goings on. By radio and newspaper, he tries to inform all boys in his state that "open examinations" are to be held for the appointments he's entitled to make each year—and invites one and all to apply.

The processing of the young hopeful is stiff. After physical exams and special aptitude tests, each boy goes before a special screening board — a clergyman who was an Army combat chaplain, a Harvard psychologist, and an Army doctor.

A new type of "objective reference questionnaire" is sent out—not to loving relatives, but to former teachers and supervisors, who can rate the candidate realistically.

It's a careful, tight-meshed screening job, but once the misfits are sifted out, the boy who's really got what it takes wins the available appointment. Regardless of papa's connections or bank account.

In a democracy, that sounds good. Let's hope about 95 other senators and 435 congressmen soon will join up in young John Kennedy's crusade. Our future generals and admirals may be the better for it.

Accidents Decline With Vapor Lights

CHICAGO (UP)—Traffic accidents have declined an average of 35 per cent in those areas of seven American cities illuminated by mercury vapor lights, a survey shows.

The survey, conducted by the Jefferson Electric Co., Bellwood, Ill., a large independent manufacturer of transformers, listed the cities and their percentages of traffic accident decrease as:

Des Moines, Ia., 90 per cent; Richmond, Va., 47 per cent; Dallas, Tex., 36 per cent; Cheyenne, Wyo., 34 per cent; Denver, Colo., 18 per cent; Reno, Nev., 15 per cent, and Atlanta, Ga., 4 per cent.

Jefferson checked 65 U.S. cities in 18 states and the District of Columbia and found that mercury vapor mileage today is nearly 16 times what it was in 1948 and 163 times what it was in 1943.

None of the 65 cities had an increase in either accidents or crime in areas illuminated by mercury vapor lighting.

Grain Market in Doldrums

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains sagged very slightly in quiet dealings on the board of trade today.

Trading seemed to be blocked by the knowledge President Eisenhower was scheduled to give the details on his farm program to Congress today. Even the sale of 933,000 bushels of red wheat to Spain and much colder weather in parts of the corn belt didn't arouse the market from its apathy.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ⅝ to ¾ cent lower, March $2.08¾, corn ⅜ to ¾ lower, March $1.54⅝, oats unchanged to ¼ lower, March 79⅛, rye unchanged to ½ lower, March $1.19¼, soybeans ¾ to 1 lower, January $3.03¾, and lard unchanged to 20 cents a hundred pounds higher, January $17.25.

Market Tilting Lower at Noon

Moderate trading produced generally minor price fluctuations but the minus signs reigned over the gainers.

Chrysler opened off ⅛ at 60 on a block of 1,300 shares and held that price. Other motors off fractions were Packard and General Motors.

Selected railroads improved, but oils, airlines, steels and utilities favored the downside. Losers included Sinclair Oil, Standard Oil (NJ), American Telephone, Consolidated Edison and International Telephone.

Business Notes:

Highway Safety Work Is Lauded

GM Vice President Has Good Word for Efforts of Car Dealers

The nation's automobile dealers were praised today for their public service work in support of traffic safety and highway improvement and were urged to redouble their efforts in 1954 by W. F. Hufstader, vice president of General Motors and chairman of the Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee.

Hufstader spoke at a special highway safety luncheon sponsored by the committee for industry and state dealer association representatives at the annual meeting of the National Automobile Dealers Assn. in Miami Beach, Fla.

"The current contributions of dealers to highway traffic improvement represent a significant part of the overall effort of public officials and civic groups to reduce needless accidents and congestion", he said.

"They are heartening evidence of the fact that dealers, together with manufacturers, recognize that our real product is not automobiles — it's 'automobility'.

"We share a clear responsibility to enhance further the great social and economic benefits of the motor vehicle by working for increased safety and efficiency on streets and highways."

Reviewing the committee's program, Hufstader indicated that plans for 1954 contemplated a continuation and expansion of the basic program carried on in 1953. This program, he explained, is built around the theme of "Better Drivers—Better Highways."

Says Crimes Killed Two-thirds of PWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report by Sen. Potter (R-Mich) says that "approximately two thirds of all American prisoners of war (in Korea) died due to war crimes."

Potter asked that the United Nations set up "an impartial investigation commission" to inquire into all war crimes in the Korean fighting "and the means of subjecting the criminals responsible to just and lawful punishment."

The report, filed Saturday, was a preliminary one on a one-man investigation Potter conducted, calling former prisoners and survivors as witesses.

He said that, in all, more than 50,000 persons died in Korea as a result of Communist atrocities.
