

Ask Him? Never —A Girl'd Rather Outfox Her Man

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

Men, fear not that 1960 is a bachelor's nightmare—full of 366 "Sadie Hawkins" days.

Trickery? Yes.

Trap? Yes.

The girls are agreed they will use all their wiles to catch a man, but popping the question is where they draw the line... Leap Year, or not.

A poll of Pontiac's single females, picked at random, downtown, gave testimony that there are some ethics involved in snaring a mate.

Each was asked:

"In accordance with the age-old custom of Leap Year, would you propose marriage to a man?"

Judy Johnson, 18, of 361 Lakeside Dr., said she thought the whole idea is silly.

"I wouldn't propose to a guy," said Judy. "I think that's crazy. 'Men will lose their masculine appeal if they let women take the initiative.'"

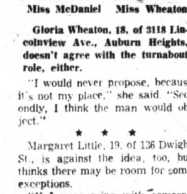

Miss Johnson Miss Rognaldson

Said Estelle Rognaldson, 21, of 137 W. Ann Arbor St.:

"Every year is Leap Year, but the woman should wait to be proposed to."

Roberta McDaniel, 17, of 421 N. Perry St., said she wouldn't do it.

"I would want to be asked," she said. "I wouldn't do it. I don't think it's right. My fiancé proposed to me," she added indignantly.

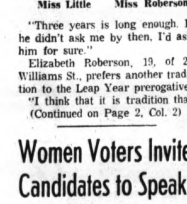

Miss McDaniel Miss Wheaton

Gloria Wheaton, 18, of 3118 Lincolnview Ave., Auburn Heights, doesn't agree with the turnabout rule, either.

"I would never propose, because it's not my place," she said. "Secondly, I think the man would object."

Margaret Little, 19, of 126 Dwight St., is against the idea, too, but thinks there may be room for some exceptions.

"If I were going with someone for a long time, maybe I'd get tired of waiting and ask him. But it wouldn't have to be on a Leap Year," she added with a laugh.

Miss Little Miss Roberson

"Three years is long enough. If he didn't ask me by then, I'd ask him for sure."

Elizabeth Roberson, 19, of 23 Williams St., prefers another tradition to the Leap Year prerogative.

Women Voters Invite Candidates to Speak

Candidates for the City Commission are being invited to appear at a public meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters Wednesday, beginning at 7:45 p.m. in the City Commission Chambers at City Hall.

"Voters are invited to hear the various candidates speaking to represent them the next two years," said Miss Lillian Davidson, chairman of the league's voters service committee.

Each candidate, she said, will be given time for a 5 to 10 minute speech. Then each will be asked to state his qualifications for office, she said, and will be sound-bitten on the various issues presently before the city, including the proposed charter amendments concerning the Police Department.

Hood on Stand Testifying in Own Defense

Accused of Crippling Shooting of Service Station Attendant

A two-time loser, Victor L. Hood this afternoon took the stand in his own defense to tell his story of the November gas station robbery where he is accused of shooting an attendant in the back, gangland style.

The victim of Hood's alleged cold-blooded shooting, Frankie Dale Newton, 20, is paralyzed from the waist down.

The Nov. 30 robbery netted only $32.

The decision whether Hood should testify came minutes before noon today when his court-appointed attorney, Jack Hanna, said "the burden should be left up to him."

Hood, 25, of 116 Prall St., asked until 1:30 to make up his mind. He mulled over the momentous decision while eating lunch in his jail cell.

Hanna's decision leaving it up to convict Hood, who has three times refused to plead guilty to the robbery, climaxes 2½ days of testimony.

Earlier, the mother of another defendant, Carroll L. Lay, 17, of 3100 Indianwood Rd., Orion Township, declined to take the stand in her son's defense. Lay's attorney, John T. Rogers, expected to close his defense when he turned around to the audience and called Mrs. Lay to the stand.

Desperate Maneuver

CONVICT PENS TELEGRAM — Caryl Chessman sits on the edge of a desk in San Quentin Prison Wednesday to work out this telegram, a plea to California Gov. Brown. Earlier, the U. S. Supreme Court had rejected an appeal that it stay his execution. About 40 newsmen were present.

Chessman Dies Tomorrow— Unless He Swings One Vote

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Convicted Caryl Chessman's last threat of hope, stretched perilously thin after nearly 12 years of unrelenting legal battling, suspends today from an effort to switch one vote.

That is the vote of at least one member of the California Supreme Court majority. Wednesday the court—after a series of rapid-fire developments—decided 4-3 against recommending clemency for the death row convict-author.

Chessman is slated to die in the gas chamber at San Quentin at 10 a.m. Friday. He was convicted in 1948 of kidnaping with bodily harm, robbery and sexual abuse in Los Angeles.

Opposition grew "throughout the world" to the scheduled execution.

In London, where six of the nine morning newspapers deleted more space to the Chessman case than to the impending royal birth, one newspaper said Americans will rue the day if Chessman is executed.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, at sundown Wednesday, said he would grant clemency unless the Supreme Court recommends. The law puts this restriction on granting mercy to men convicted previously of felony.

Brown said any further action on his part depended on what happened in Chessman's move today for reconsideration of the 4-3 vote.

The convict's attorney, George T. Davis, said his petition for reconsideration would be accompanied by a request for a hearing on a complete brief supporting the action.

Davis said Wednesday night after the U.S. Supreme Court, the California Supreme Court and the governor acted or commented on the case, that he didn't have a chance to be heard on the 11th hour clemency appeal.

President Eisenhower has no authority to intervene in the execution, Justice Department officials said today. The President's powers of clemency or commutation of sentence can be used only in federal cases, they noted.

In Sacramento, Governor Brown issued a statement saying he was constitutionally bound to abide by the court's recommendation regarding clemency. As to a reprieve—or postponement—of Friday's execution, Brown said he would not anticipate the court's decision on the motion for reconsideration.

Thus, 24 hours before the crucial time, Chessman's fate still was in doubt.

At a San Quentin news conference Wednesday the 28-year-old,

Is Our System Exempt From 15-Mill Limitation?

Pontiac has been chosen as the "testing ground" by the State Committee on School Finance in an attempt to clear the muddled financial waters of Michigan school systems.

City school officials said they are going to make a Supreme Court test case of their application for approval of a $500,000 general obligation bond issue on an unlimited tax levy, rejected yesterday by the Municipal Finance Commission.

The Commission denied the application on the grounds the tax levy would be in excess of the 15-mill constitutional limitation.

The school system wants to know if it is exempt of the provision as a municipal corporation.

Louis C. Schimmel, a member of the State Committee and a member and financial adviser to the Pontiac Board of Education, said there are "no sides" in the test case.

He said this city was deliberately chosen to contest the matter as a joint effort of the state superintendent of public instruction, the attorney general (who has said the case is an attempt to crack the 15-mill limitation) and the State Legislature.

Schimmel explained the situation this way:

"The Supreme Court has said that the school code is the charter of every school district. A municipal corporation is one that operates under its own charter."

"The Supreme Court has ruled, on two previous occasions, using this interpretation, that the school district, therefore, qualifies as a municipal corporation."

"Under the 15-mill amendment of 1932, municipalities operating under a charter are exempt from the 15-mill amendment."

"If the Supreme Court rules that schools are municipalities, in accordance with two previous decisions, all school districts in the state will be released from control of the county tax allocation board."

"Also, the Legislature will act to uniform charter tax rate limitations."

Schools Ask If Tax Base Will Climb

A Pontiac school official today was to confer with members of the Oakland County Equalization Committee concerning possible advantage to schools of an extra hike in state equalized values, predicted for this year.

Otto C. Hufziger, assistant superintendent of schools, said he hoped to learn whether the state equalized valuation of the Pontiac School District would get an extra boost.

A state equalization official earlier this month said he expected a five to six per cent increase in the county's state equalized valuation as a result of a movement by the State Tax Commission to boost property values in Michigan for taxing purposes.

William B. Grabendike, county equalization chairman, indicated the extra boost might be as much as $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 on the tax base of the whole county.

He added, though, that there was no breakdown yet of possible tax base increases in the county's various taxing units including Pontiac.

A state official said the boost would offset the inflationary swing of prices due to inflation.

Orion Twp. Boy Revives Sister Felled by Fumes

By LEE WINBORN

A 14-year-old Orion Township boy today is credited with using his Boy Scout Training to save the life of his sister who was overcome by gas fumes early today.

Three other members of the Jack R. Hodges family of 1210 Beach Dr. also were overcome by the fumes.

Nancy, 12, was unconscious and had stopped breathing at about 1 a.m. when her brother began to apply artificial respiration, according to Lake Orion Fire Chief Jack Taylor.

She had rallied somewhat when the fire department arrived with the resuscitator which was used to further restore her breathing.

Firemen said if it hadn't been for her older brother Jack's immediate action, the girl probably would have died.

The children's mother, Marjorie, 37, and two younger brothers, David, 9, and Jeff, 7, also were overcome slightly by the escaping fumes. They required no treatment.

The father was home at the time, but had arrived shortly before the fumes overcame the other members of his family.

Caylor said Mrs. Hodges heard Jeff fall in the hall upstairs. At the same time she felt ringing in her ears and a dizzy sensation. It was then that the family realized what was happening.

The outlet from the water heater goes out a north window, and the wind was blowing the fumes back into the house instead of letting them escape, the fire chief explained.

Dr. Arthur Calkins was summoned and pronounced all members of the Hodges family who had inhaled the fumes not in need of additional treatment.

Jack, an eighth grader at Lake Orion Junior High School, is a husky 150-pounder who stands at most six feet.

Pontiac Will Help Boost Auto Output

Auto production should be up four per cent this week with the help of the Pontiac Motor Division, Automotive News said today.

Sizeable production hikes by Pontiac, Chevrolet, Oldsmobile and Rambler will offset reductions by other makes, the trade paper said.

The industry was scheduled to turn out 159,688 cars this week, according to Automotive News. In comparison, there were 155,378 cars produced last week and 150,956 a year ago.

Truck output was also on the upswing, the trade paper said.

The week's output was estimated at 30,534 units, a 2.5 per cent boost from last week's total of 29,812 and 20.3 per cent higher than the 25,408 a year ago.

West Germany Finds No Planned Nazism

BONN, Germany (UPI)—The West German government said today that although 65 anti-Semitic incidents were reported here between Christmas and the end of January, no organized Nazi conspiracy could be detected.

The investigation, a government white paper issued on the eve of a parliamentary debate on the subject declared, provided no evidence that significant sections of the people of the federal republic entertain anti-Semitic feelings.

The reaction of all sections of the people, the report continued, showed rather that the overwhelming majority of the German people reject anti-Semitism and are ready to take steps to oppose it.

Flint Doctor Named to State Advisory Council

LANSING (AP)—Appointment of Dr. L. V. Burkett of Flint to the Michigan Advisory Hospital Council was announced by Gov. Williams Wednesday.

The appointment for a term ending Sept. 7, 1963, requires Senate confirmation.

Oppose State Jaycees

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—The Mount Clemens Junior Chamber of Commerce voted not to support the State Junior Chamber of Commerce in its drive for a constitutional convention. The state Jaycees and the Michigan League of Women Voters are backing a petition drive to secure such a convention.

Correct Civic Problem by Voting on April 18

Pontiac voters will be given a chance to clean up the red tape which has hamstrung our civic government and caused us so much statewide embarrassment.

The two important issues will be on the ballot in April and they can be summarized as follows:

Shall we abandon the post of Director of Public Safety?

Shall we give the City Manager the right to hire and fire the chief of police? (Practically all other cities do.)

Voters will be given a chance to correct our current dilemma and allow Pontiac to go forward in an orderly and sensible fashion.

A "Yes" vote on each proposition will bring about the desired results. If you are not registered, make sure you take care of this deficiency before the deadline, March 21st. We should have a goodly turnout of citizens and a rousing endorsement of the forward step that this vote makes possible.

Newsweek Endorses Gerald R. Ford

The current issue of Newsweek carries an interesting appraisal of Michigan's GERALD R. FORD, one of the most promising of the younger men in Congress. Written by RAYMOND MOLEY, the summary says in part:

"GERALD R. FORD, Jr., represents the Fifth Michigan district in the U.S. House of Representatives. Watch this Ford. 'Members of the House ordinarily are so buried in useful committee work that they are likely to be obscured by the less useful forces of the Senate. These humble servants are the ones who have guarded the pockets of taxpayers. In the past few years the House has saved us billions of dollars and has killed many a cracked-brain bill passed in the more radical Senate. The House works while the Senate sleeps. The House is closer to the people, and the majority of Americans are conservative; they work, save, pay their debts, and keep things going.

"At the core of the business of the House are a number of seasoned Democratic committee chairmen. They are the patient conservators of our public affairs. Alongside them there has grown up a fine, vigorous group of young Republican minority members. They work together, among these representatives of a genuine Republicanism is GERALD FORD of Michigan.

"Forty-seven years ago, he was legally adopted by his stepfather, who taught the boy the meaning of civic responsibility and in 1948 he and his fellow townsman, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, encouraged the young lawyer to run for Congress. He won in that Democratic year with a margin of 27,000. His majesties since have ranged from the majority to more than 30,000.

"GERALD FORD has attained considerable seniority over the years. He is a member of the House Republican Policy Committee. He is also ranking member of the Appropriations subcommittee on defense. This suggests a handy man to have in this campaign on the defense issue.

"In the ADA record of voting by members of Congress, Ford agreed with them twice and disagreed seven times. He voted generally conservative in the first session of the 86th Congress—against 'backdoor' spending, against the housing bill vetoed by the President, for the Smith bill to protect the right of states to legislate on Communism, for the Laidrum-Griffin labor bill, for legislation to permit higher interest on long-term bonds, and against the public-works pork barrel. In almost all cases he has sustained the President. His diligence is shown by the fact that in twelve years he missed only 47 out of 1,872 roll calls.

"He served 47 war months in the Navy. He was a member of champion football teams at the University of Michigan, an all-American member on the 25-year team selected in 1959, played with the college All Stars against the Chicago Bears in 1935, and while at the Yale Law School was assistant football coach and boxing coach for freshmen.

"Ford and Vice President Nixon have been warm friends since they served in the House together. Nixon is not inclined to place much emphasis upon traditional rules in selecting Vice Presidential candidates—geographical, religious, or ideological balance."

"In conjectures about the Republican ticket, it will be well to keep Ford in mind."

The Man About Town

Three Full Troops Are to Represent Us at Scout Jamboree in July

Scouting: Building good manhood.

Clinton Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America comprises most of the area of Oakland and Macomb counties, including the cities of Pontiac and Mount Clemens. It has around 11,000 scouts.

The Fifth National Jamboree of the scouts will be held at Colorado Springs, Colo., on July 22 to 28, and the quota of the local council has been increased to three full troops, so over 100 boys from this area will be in attendance.

The tentative cost for each boy has been set at $215, and our quota has already been filled. It is desired that each boy earn all or the major part of this amount himself.

There may be some lapses, so any scout wishing to attend should see his scoutmaster at once, and get in line for any possible vacancy. He might be included as a replacement in some cancellation. This jamboree marks the 50th jubilee year in scouting, and without doubt will be the biggest event of its kind in history. It is to be held on the 2,000-acre Reverse J Diamond Ranch.

That go-getting ex-president of Clinton Valley Council.

John W. Hunt is general chairman of the local jamboree committee, with Executive Secretary Edward H. Leland as advisor.

The jamboree committee chairman, in actual charge, is William Genette with his staff advisor in the person of Van R. Braidwood.

Others in top positions in the handling of our local boys are Erk Schilke, Everett Sherrick, Austin Jepson, Harold Wright and Ernie Lawrence.

It comes to me directly from Clinton Valley Council President.

Ted Pierson that this area will have one of the finest delegations in the nation at Colorado Springs. Will your boy be there?

When you get your 1960 license tabs, put them on your auto plates at once. In the opinion of Willis M. Brewer Pontiac distributor of the tabs, this will be an incentive for others to get them, instead of waiting for that extra day which they get in leap year.

The current prediction of the Old Farmer's Almanac is:

"First a big storm; then turn warm."

From that other City of Pontiac, located in Illinois, comes a letter from Randall Blakeley, stating that he was reared in Pontiac, Michigan, and is happy to see so many reminders of it on the Illinois highways.

K's Generous at People's Expense

WASHINGTON—While Soviet Premier Khrushchev tours Asia and boasts about how many billions of dollars of "aid" the Soviet Union is giving to "underdeveloped" nations, the world, if the censorship within Russia didn't prevent the people there from knowing how the product of their labor is being wasted abroad, they would surely revolt.

The greater part of the Soviet Union, for instance, is a country of darkness. It does not have electric lights in most of its territory. The total generating capacity of the Soviet Union—both electric and power—at present is about equal to the normal increase the United States will have made from 1958 to 1961.

In other words, it is estimated that the Russians by 1965 will have less than half of the electric light and power of the United States.

As for coal, crude petroleum, natural gas, canned foods, cotton fabrics, railroad mileage, freight cars and many other articles, the Soviet Union is anywhere from 30 to 50 years behind the United States.

Wages are much lower in the Soviet Union. The approximate buying power of the worker there is about $1,000 a year. The farm situation is even worse on the Soviet side. In the United States the average farmer produces enough for himself and 20 other persons, plus more to spare, whereas in the Soviet Union the average farmer produces enough for himself and four other persons—with nothing left to spare.

Toss Cash Around

The latest figures, however, show that the Soviet Union is throwing more than $3.5 billion around the world to aid "underdeveloped" countries, which sums could be much better spent on the Soviet people directly.

Credits granted by the Soviet Union to the United Arab Republic alone total $1,382,000,000, of which 304 million dollars went to Syria and the rest to Egypt, a large part of this for the Aswan Dam.

India gets steel mills from Russia, and the total aid is about 75 million dollars this far. Some 232 million dollars has gone to Afghanistan, and 257 million dollars to Iraq. Ethiopia has gotten 112 million dollars.

Even in points as far away as Latin America, the Soviets have put 104 million dollars in Argentina, and have promised 100 million dollars to Cuba.

The Soviet government grants credits, of course, to "satellite" countries inside the Soviet bloc, and these advances now amount to about $7.5 billion according to the principal of a high school report that the principal of a high school on smoking by girls—parents demanded that high school girls be permitted to smoke in areas where high school boys smoke.

FREE COUNTRY

In both the university and the high school neither self-discipline nor a decent sense of responsibility is required of young people. This is a free country, isn't it? If our pampered children want to live licentiously they have a right to do so.

And I always like to listen to him, for he talks to God as if he were just conversing with the Almighty. And his prayers dovetail with the theme of my talk on that Sunday's lesson.

Many people retain their faculties into ripe old age. Others grow foggy and often are so disoriented they can't recognize their close relatives and may not even know the date.

Mr. Stuntz keeps his wits whet-

Moscow's own claims. Western experts, however, say this is an exaggeration and that the total runs to about $2.25 billion since 1956.

Much of the money loaned will never come back. The Soviet people will have to continue their intensive labor, as they live in austerity. Families often are crowded into a single room. Millions of homes are without sanitary facilities on the premises.

Then why does the Moscow regime keep on exporting capital which could be better devoted to providing the necessities of life, not only to the people of the Soviet Union but to the Red Chinese? Plainly, the Communists believe that they can infiltrate and ultimately conquer many underdeveloped countries. They succeed only if their own people are kept ignorant of what the leaders are doing.

It might be asked, incidentally, if the various propaganda organizations in the free world, including America's own, are stressing in broadcasts across the Iron Curtain this waste of the Soviet people's funds.

Dr. William Brady Says:

She Exemplifies the Evils of Smoke-Filled Rooms

In a piece about carbon monoxide anoxia ("poisoning") the other day we emphasized the fact—determined by precise chemical analyses—that every puff of cigarette smoke contains some carbon monoxide.

A person who breathes air polluted with two parts of carbon monoxide in a thousand becomes powerless and unconscious in an hour or two, and if the air contains 2 or 4 parts of carbon monoxide (odorless, colorless, tasteless gas) in a thousand, death will occur unless rescue is prompt.

From a West Coast university a student writes that everybody smokes in class, even the professors. By the end of her first week the student was very sick.

Her head ached constantly, she became house, her ears stopped up somewhat, she couldn't eat her meals (in the smoke-filled dining room) and she felt absolutely exhausted.

One of the school doctor's prescribed (a high-priced doctor's nostrum) tobacco antigen injections. The student thought the nostrum helped some, for she was able to eat again, but she could see no definite improvement after two months of the antigen injections.

Even in buildings where because of fire hazards there is "No Smoking" signs they smoke and drop matches, ashes and cigarette butts, everywhere.

That's characteristic of cigaret smokers, isn't it?

The other day someone sent me a clipping from a Maryland paper of a press bureau report that the principal of a high school on smoking by girls—parents demanded that high school girls be permitted to smoke in areas where high school boys smoke.

League of Women Voters Gives Views on Con-Con

League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization to inform citizens on candidates and issues. We've long worked for a State constitution revision, as we feel we can have a much improved and more efficient state government if the constitution fits present day needs.

Although the vote for a convention in 1958 was 621,263 for and 608,385 against it, it is still a possibility because the vote required to carry. Current division over the Jaycee-League sponsored proposed amendment stems from one proposal.

At present, the method of selecting delegates calls for three from each senatorial district. The proposed "compromise" calls for one delegate from each senate district and one from each representative district. This would give the usually Republican districts 73 and Democrats 62 delegates if chosen by parties.

The Senate Judicial Committee is conducting hearings to find out what a convention and what a new constitution would mean to the people. Figures show constituents voted "yes" overwhelmingly in 1958. At 16 months ago, Oakland County voted nearly 3 to 1 for it. Can Senate Lodge of the committee have forgotten the figures or has he forgotten he represents people of Oakland County?

Appreciate Kindness at Accident Scene

We were in an auto accident recently and appreciate the help we received. Three police cars and an ambulance were there in minutes and someone else took care of the children and applied first aid. It was wonderful.

Why Can We Turn in This Case?

The other day I found my dog lying on the middle of the street badly injured. As I got out of my car to help her, someone ran completely over her in front of my very eyes, making it impossible for me to help her.

I was informed by the Waterford police, animal welfare, State police and county road commission that the owner must remove such a pet, from the street. Through the kindness of a service I got someone to remove her. I write in the hope someone can tell people where to turn in a case like this.

Appreciates Support of 50th Anniversary

The Pontiac Press has always been cooperative in wanting to publicize the "good" side of youth activity, instead of merely sensational side when youth turns to crime or delinquency.

All Councils in the nation are trying to get across the real story of Scouting—which is not the cartoon approach of two-mach fires, the planting of seedlings and helping little old ladies across the street. These old symbols of outdoor craftsmanship, conservation and courtesy are being supplanted by citizenship training, democratic ideals, unit operation, character building through responsibility and the exploration of careers through personal contact.

Thanks for Pontiac Press support for our 50th anniversary.

U.S. Maintains Big Watt Lead

Report on Electricity Says Russia to Fall Even Further Behind

NEW YORK UP — The Edison Electric Institute says in a special report that the United States holds a commanding lead over Russia in electric power production and will increase the gap by 1965.

The special report announced Tuesday was based on the findings of two delegations of American electrical industry officials who toured the Soviet Union in 1958 and again last year.

Walker L. Cisler, president of Detroit Edison Co., headed both delegations.

At the end of 1959, the report said, the U. S. electric power supply stood at 353 million kilowatts, 124 million more than Russia's 229 million.

By 1965, the U. S. total should jump to 245 million and the U.S.S.R.'s to 111 million for a 134 million gap, the report stated.

Figures for both nations include power produced by electric utilities as well as industrial railroad and industrial plants.

Donald S. Kennedy, chairman of Oklahoma Gas & Electric Co. and a delegation member, noted during a discussion of the report that a "good indicator of a nation's total productive capacity and the well-being of its people is the amount of electricity being used per capita."

U. S. per capita use came to 4,481 kilowatt hours in 1959, he said, against 1,161 for the Soviet Union. Kennedy predicted the U. S. average would climb to about 6,000 in 1965. The Soviet goal for that year is 2,100, the report added.

Nation Is Enjoying Record Production

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's factories, mills and mines poured out goods and materials at a record rate in January as manufacturing bounced back from the steel strike.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that over-all industrial output advanced nearly 3 per cent, with durable goods chalking up almost the entire gain.

The board's index of factory, mine and mill activity jumped four points to a new high of 169. This meant industrial output was 69 per cent higher last month than in a 1947-49 base period.

It was the first new high since the prestrike buildup of last May and June lifted the index to 166. The index fell to 155 during the strike months of July, August, September and October.

Americans Fat, Lazy Spectators, a Famous Cardiologist Says

BOSTON (UPI)—Prosperity is killing Americans by making them fat, lazy and a nation of spectators, a noted cardiologist warns. Dr. Howard B. Sprague, a former president of the American and Massachusetts Heart Associations, said most people prefer to blame their work and their stresses for the predicament in which they place their hearts.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "hardly anybody works any more as we used to think of work. Hardly anybody plays any more, either. We watch TV, or ride in cars, or go to the movies... we just aren't burning up our fat."

Sprague said most of his patients have to be physically more active after a heart attack than they have been in years. "I tell them, 'You just are not going to sit there and be fat and happy, because you won't be happy long,'" he said.

Freudian Psychology Invades Toyland

'Crawltrak' Fulfills Kids' Secret Desire

By WARD CANNEL
NEW YORK (INEA) — Jackson Daniel says: "Of all the creatures in nature, only civilized man and ants go out in armies to destroy each other. But man has better mechanisms than ants to settle disputes."
Consequently, Daniel is:
1. City attorney of Webster Groves, Mo.
2. President of the state councils of the American Association for the United Nations.
3. Secretary-treasurer of a new company that makes a scale model General Sherman tank which any child can drive or readily convert into a fortress.

It's called the Crawltrak and is actually a long, wide belt of floppy cardboard that moves like a tank track when you get in it and crawl forward. Turned on its rim it stands resolutely against attack from anything that will not penetrate cardboard.

But, as psychiatry has so lucratively discovered, things are not what they seem. And while Daniel's civil and U.N. activities are very real, his military toy is really very Freudian.

"Little children," Daniel said, "have a strong desire to climb into things—curtains, big paper bags, closets and so forth. It's what the psychiatrists call the return to the womb."

"That's what this toy is," Daniel said. "Psychiatry must have said a good deal more on this subject as Daniel manufactures two sizes of Crawltraks—child and adult—for the same price of $1.98."

And if it does not reach the sales of the hula hoop, it will certainly make a nice piece of change for the company. St. Louis bought 11,000 in the first few weeks the tank was on sale. In six weeks other test areas bought 120,000.

"The market is there, of course," Daniel said. "The big problem is to convince parents to go out and spend $1.98 on something they don't really like deep down."

"And all the more distasteful to them when it's really only 40 cents worth of paper."
The answer to the problem—like the answers to most problems in America today—is to appeal to youth and thereby make life intolerable for the grownups.

MADE MOVIE

To this end, the company hired a movie maker who turned out an exciting one-minute film which opens with a General Sherman tank moving into battle and dissolves into a child-driven Crawltrak rolling down the lawn. Then, with seconds to go, the child folds up the tank and puts it neatly away in the closet while mother beams.

St. Louis saw this movie 43 times per week for four weeks. The rest of us folks will see it presently.

around his house since 1950, unaware of its deeper psychological meanings and sales potential.

Jacobson, an interior decorator specializing in kitchen design, just put it together one afternoon and then gave it to his children.

He is now at work on a child-sized house: the kind you can crawl into and pull the door closed and sit there—dark and safe and warm.

Senate Group OKs Cabaret Tax Cut

WASHINGTON — The Senate Finance Committee Wednesday approved a House-passed bill cutting to 10 per cent the 20 per cent federal cabaret tax.

The measure, opposed by the Eisenhower administration, would cost about 20 million dollars in annual revenue.

The committee acted without a record vote but a strong majority reportedly favored sending the bill to the Senate floor.

The levy applies in establishments with music and other entertainment.

The U.S. baby industry predicts that an average of $1,000 will be spent on each new child in 1960 by parents, grandparents, relatives and friends.

Voting Machine Blamed by Prof

Says It Cut Balloting for Con-Con in Election of 1958

ANN ARBOR (U) — A University of Michigan political scientist has blamed use of voting machines for the failure of a proposal calling for a Michigan constitutional convention in 1958.

Prof. John P. White, writing in a new pamphlet published by the U. of M. Institute of Public Administration, claimed voting machines caused large numbers of persons to abstain from voting on the constitutional convention.

In effect, he said, this failure to express an opinion on this issue was a "no" vote, since a majority vote of all those participating in the election was required for a constitutional convention to pass.

"The voice of urban areas was weakened in deciding the question of constitutional revision because the increased use of voting machines was not uniform but was heavily concentrated in urban areas," White said.

He contended a similar situation would happen again on a future referendum because the installation of voting machines has continued to increase.

"There can be no doubt that adoption of voting machines in general has been a forward step in election administration," White stressed. "The problem is not how to retard the adoption of voting machines, but how to reduce vote loss in referenda."

He urged better selection and training of election officials to correct the situation and more use of model voting machines to educate the electorate on their operation.

Firm to Produce 'Sausage Boats' for Economy

LONDON (UPI) — A company has been formed to produce ocean-going cargo-carrying "sausage skins." It has been announced.

The company said it will launch "the dracome," a flexible, towable container or carrying capsule by water, throughout the world.

The dracome, first evolved by Cambridge University scientists four years ago, looks like a giant sausage or a flexible cigar. It is towed by anything from launches to small coastal tankers.

Its makers claim that because of its low resistance to the water, it can carry more cargo with less propulsive power than anything else afloat. At the end of its trip, it is rolled up like a rug for economical transport to its next loading spot.

Some dracomes, with capacities from 15 to 320 tons, already are in commercial use, carrying solvents, liquid chemicals, oil, grain, rice, gasoline and a variety of other commodities.

Bill Seeks Restoration of State Highway Maps

LANSING (UPI) — For two years, there have been no free highway maps printed by the state but if Rep. Albert Horrigan (D-Flint) has his way, there will be soon.

Horrigan today tossed in a bill to require the Highway Department to print highway maps for free distribution.

"Any state that's worth its salt should make maps of its highways to help its tourist business," said Horrigan.

He said the approximately $35,000 it would cost to make the maps would be offset by value gained from them.

Auto Club Gets Office

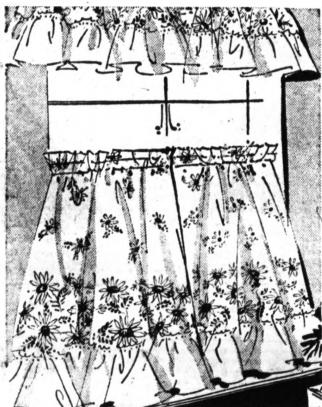

LANSING (U) — The Automobile Club of Michigan will dedicate the newest of its 45 division offices here Thursday.

President Howard C. Baldwin said the $130,000 office will serve more than 13,000 members of the Lansing area.

Income Tax Primer ... Chapter 10

By RICHARD A. MULLENS
NEA Service
(Teeth of 12 Chapters)

The old saying, "two can live as cheaply as one," has received cynical treatment from many a husband harassed by mounting household bills.

The income tax field, however, is one place where it can sometimes be said that "two can live cheaper than one."

Take Mr. X's situation. He's a $30,000 a year bachelor who pops the marriage question to his fiancée in December and hints for a Jan. 1 wedding date.

Although she has no income, the girl (like most girls) is smart. She knows that if they get married on Dec. 31, they can file a joint income tax return for the year, whereas if they wait until Jan. 1, he will have to report $30,000 on a separate return.

A little figuring shows that a joint return will save them more than $6,000 in taxes for the year. Needless to say, they were happily married on Dec. 31.

You might think from the above, story that couples with year-end wedding plans should always get married before Jan. 1 so they can file a joint return and save taxes. Unfortunately, like so many areas of tax law, you can't take much for granted. If you do, you may end up like Mr. Y.

Mr. Y. is a $10,000 a year bachelor and a friend of Mr. X. Knowing how well Mr. X made out, he decides to impress his gal with the idea of getting married on Dec. 31 and taking a honeymoon on the tax he thinks will be saved by filing a joint return.

His girl (like most girls) is smart. She knows that since she is also making $10,000 a year and since they don't have enough deductions to itemize, that they not only would not save any money by filing a joint return but that it would cost them about $300 in additional taxes to get married before Jan. 1.

HOW COME? How come? The standard deduction for married couples cannot exceed $1,000 on a joint return or $500 on separate returns. Unmarried persons, however, can claim up to a $1,000 standard deduction. By postponing the marriage until Jan. 1, each could use the full $1,000 standard deduction for the previous year.

For taxpayers who are already married, it will almost always be advisable to file a joint return. This is particularly true if one spouse has little or no income.

However, if both are working and earning approximately the same salaries, the tax should be computed both ways to make sure the cheaper method is used.

For example, suppose John Q. Public earns $2,495 and the last wife earns $2,470. If they compute their tax by using the Tax Table (which they must use unless they itemize deductions) and have no other exemptions, separate returns would save them $5 in tax.

The reason is that the Tax Table figures the tax at the mid-point of the bracket. Any income above that point but below the next bracket escapes tax.

Remember that a joint return can be filed if the spouses were liquid and wife on the last day of the tax year, or on the date one spouse died, provided the survivor doesn't remarry during the year. Spouses who were divorced or legally separated under a final court decree by the last day of the taxable year cannot file a joint return.

Some unmarried persons can qualify as the "head of household" and are entitled to use a special tax table which gives about half the tax break given to those who file a joint return when one spouse has no income.

To determine whether you qualify as the head of a household, answer the questions in the box printed with this article and then compare your answers with the answer chart.

U.S. May Drop Cuba Sugar Act

Sec. Herter Asserts Cancellation of Pact Under Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Wednesday consideration is being given to cancellation of the U.S. sugar buying system under which Cuban sugar has been bought at prices above the world market.

Herter also said inquiry would be made as to whether the Fidel Castro regime wants the United States to keep on giving technical aid to Cuba.

He said no arms shipments to Cuba are planned under President Eisenhower's four-billion-dollar foreign aid program for the coming year.

Herter's statements were in response to questions while he was testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of the foreign aid program.

President Eisenhower, at a news conference earlier in the day, had said he hoped Cuban-American differences could be resolved without harm to the Cuban people.

Eisenhower also said his Cabinet advisers were still studying the question of what should be asked in a new sugar act.

The President said there should not be any action detrimental to the Cuban people.

During Herter's testimony at the Capitol, Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) criticized what he called the "Cuban Brannan Plan" under which the United States—by paying above world prices for sugar—has piled an extra 150 million dollars a year into the pockets of Cuban growers.

U.S. Balks at Switch on E. German Passes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is firmly opposed to a Soviet effort to force Allied nations to carry special new passes while traveling in East Germany.

The State Department is discussing the issue with Britain and France in a move to forge a united front toward the Soviet demand.

The new passes would give the American-British-French military mission in Berlin authority to travel into "the German Democratic Republic," instead of "the Soviet occupied zone of Germany," the previous wording.

A modern husband expects his wife to jump when he bolders, and she does—right down his throat. If seeing is believing, how come the tax investigators don't believe what they see on the returns? —Earl Wilson.

DJ Ashamed, so He Quit Job

Testifies Taking Payola

WASHINGTON (AP) — A disc jockey, who accepted $9,935 from record companies over a three-year period says he quit because "I was ashamed of myself. I was ashamed of the industry."

The story told by Norman Prescott of Boston was released by the House subcommittee on Legislative Oversight which continues behind closed doors today its hearings on payola.

The subcommittee arranged to hear from Don Messersmith, disc jockey and record librarian at Boston station WHIL, There was no explanation of why he would be heard in secret.

Two other witnesses were heard behind closed doors Wednesday because of health reasons. They were Harry Carter, president and treasurer of Music Suppliers, Inc., a Boston record distributing firm, and Samuel H. Clark, former owner of music suppliers and a subsidiary of American Broadcasting Co.-Paramount Theatres, Inc., of New York.

Both Music Suppliers and Am-Par have been cited in payola complaints filed by the Federal Trade Commission.

The subcommittee released Wednesday testimony given Feb. 8 by Prescott, who said he walked out last July from his job as disc jockey on Boston station WBEZ. That was before congressional hearings focused public attention on payola practices.

"I was ashamed of myself," Prescott said, "I was ashamed of the industry and I walked away from it for that reason."

Among other things, Prescott said four Boston record distributors, including Carter's Music Suppliers, sent him payments over a three-year period beginning in 1957.

Although Prescott openly conceded to accepting payola for playing records he inserted a qualification that he never took money to play a particular platter.

Prescott accused two former Boston stations where he formerly worked of soliciting what he termed a form of payola.

He testified that time salesmen on both WBEZ and WHDH would promise, for example, to have songs from a motion picture played on the air if the picture promoter would purchase spot commercial advertising the movie.

And he said that sales executives of both stations would order disc jockeys to play songs from the movie following those commercial advertisements.

N-Test Meeting in Old Deadlock

U.S. Delegate Claims Senate Will Not Agree to Ban Unless . . .

GENEVA (AP) — U.S. delegate James J. Wadsworth said Wednesday the U.S. Senate will never ratify a treaty to ban all nuclear tests unless hundreds of inspection teams are allowed to check earthquake sites in the Soviet Union every year.

Senyom K. Tsarapkin, Soviet delegate to the three-power treaty talks, refused even to discuss the number of inspections Russia might permit unless the West first agreed in principle to outlaw all tests simultaneously.

This left the nuclear test ban conference in much the same deadlock as before. The session broke up after little more than half an hour's discussion of Russia's new proposals.

Tsarapkin offered Tuesday to permit a limited number of Western inspection teams to examine nearly any earth tremor on Soviet territory provided the West accepted a comprehensive test ban.

Boy, 12, Ordered to Support His Illegitimate Child

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A 12-year-old Indiana boy is under court order to support his illegitimate baby from his pay as a boot-black.

The case was included in a report made public Wednesday by the Indiana Governor's Youth Council. It warned that the mounting number of teen-age marriages and pregnancies, plus increased rates of venereal disease and tuberculosis are chief problems among young people.

The two-volume survey was ordered by Gov. Harold Handley for presentation to the White House conference on children and youth, March 7 - April 2 in Washington.

Soviet Union Indicates Impatience With China

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
News Analyst

Behind clouds of words about undying friendship and solidarity, indication can be detected of a split debate between the leaders of the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties.

The Kremlin chose no less a personage than Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to sign a long article in Pravda, The Soviet Communist newspaper, presenting Moscow's case. Despite the usual wordage about great friendship, the article at times appeared to have a petulant tone.

One gets the impression the Chinese Communists have been finding up Nikita Khrushchev's plans for finding a way of living with the Western Democracies while communists wage confidently, though a bit impatiently, for capitalism to collapse under the pressure of Moscow's sustained political and economic offensives.

The Red Chinese leaders, much more in need of external tensions now than their Soviet brethren, appear far less than enthusiastic about Khrushchev's new ventures into India and Southeast Asia.

The article sounded like a long, not-too-patient lecture to a wayward child. The implication seemed to be: patience, you Chinese, father knows best. You'll see the great advantage of Soviet policy in the long run.

Personal Income Hits a New Peak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The manufacturing upsurge which lifted industrial production to a record high in January also boosted personal incomes to a new peak.

The Commerce Department reported yesterday that a large increase in wage and salary payments raised total individual incomes by $1,200,000,000 to an annual rate of $283,300,000,000.

Wages and salaries rose by an annual rate of $2,200,000,000. This resulted from greater production and longer working hours in major steel-using industries, especially autos, fabricated metals and machinery.

Gorillas Roar, but Seldom Bite

Usually Scared Instead of Fierce, Are Edgy and Nervous

WASHINGTON — Gorillas are fearsome beasts, but their reputation for wickedness has been exaggerated.

Though an adult male gorilla can twist the head off a man without much effort, he is generally non-aggressive and at times even demure. The male may roar and charge toward a human, but despite his fierce men will seldom follow through unless cornered or cut off from his family.

Holding one's ground can dissuade an annoyed gorilla from completing his charge. Dr. Paul A. Zahi writes in the National Geographic Magazine. He had a chance to test this theory while seeking out the African mountain gorilla, one of the world's rarest animals.

Dr. Zahi, a naturalist, came face to face with a 400-pound mountain gorilla in the highlands of Uganda.

"On all fours it came toward us," he said, "cracking through the bamboo, swinging moss festoons aside. Shoulders three feet across supported a thick squat neck and a head whose black, prognathous face and hair-covered brow were all the word 'gorilla' ever implied."

"With nostrils flared and lips curled back to expose fearsome white teeth, the creature stopped short some 20 feet away. Sunken eyes, the essence of savage malevolence, fastened on us . . ."

Dr. Zahi held his ground. The great animal turned abruptly and leaped off.

Mountain gorillas are found in only a few wild regions of central Africa. Larger cousins, the lowland gorillas, inhabit the vast forest of equatorial Africa from the west coast into the Congo Basin.

Dr. Zahi studied gorillas in their natural habitat—unfenced jungle enclosed by a large stockade at the Belgian Government's Central African research center.

The apes were edgy and nervous, jerking or trembling at any foreign sound or movement. However, this reaction, suggesting simple fright, was sometimes replaced by one of calculated belligerence.

Gorillas, like people, display distinctive appearances and personalities. They may be tall or short, heavy or spare, clever or slow, volatile or placid. Some grow six feet tall and weigh 600 pounds.

Three French newspapers actively supported the American colonies in their war for liberty from Great Britain in 1776. Aid for these French journalists came from the editorial columns of the "Courrier de l'Europe" which was secretly published in London, then smuggled to France.

LARGER QUARTERS — This is the entrance room of the new Alicia Bridal Salon. A mirror at the rear between a fitting room and a storeroom reflects the front show window. The tiled floor has not been changed, but walls have been painted a soft mauve. Owner, Patricia McRath, has operated this business specializing in wedding and after-five dresses for the past five years.

Will Occupy Larger Quarters

Local Bridal Salon Moving

Expanding into a larger store, Alicia Bridal Salon moved Monday from its former location at 55 West Huron St. to 37 West Huron St. This store in the Riker Building was recently occupied by the Margaret Ann Shop. At one time it held Fritz Stoddard's Dress Shop.

There is about twice as much floor space at the new location, according to Mrs. Patricia McRath, the owner. With her decorator husband, William, she planned the interior of the enlarged shop. When interviewed, she was "thrilled to death and exhausted."

Royal purple carpeting covers the floor of the inner display room. On each side of a beige cotton-brocaded love seat there are antique white tables with brass and crystal lamps. Two walls are painted mauve. The other two are papered in white with a design of gold roses.

Fitting rooms have pink carpeting. Draperies are pink with a mauve and gold design. There is a circular display on which to display bridal gowns. Row after row of these hang in an inner storeroom.

Entrance room decor is less intimate. Two smaller fitting rooms are enclosed in plywood that has a faint pink cast to it.

This same pink-washed plywood is used at the rear of one of the lobby display windows. Semisheer beige draperies with a gold thread hang on one side of each show window.

Not only is there more room for display and selling in the store, but the alteration room is larger and it.

The owner has an office on the balcony.

Mrs. McRath has been in business in Pontiac for five years. Moving to larger quarters is her way of expressing faith in the future of the downtown area. It's been her town for many years and she believes in it, she says with conviction.

Survey of Decade Indicates:

Education Changes Are Few

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—

Public criticism of "progressive education" has had little effect on the actual practices of many U. S. public schools, a survey reveals.

The survey was conducted by Indiana University and the findings were reported to the American Association of School Administrators Wednesday by Dr. Harold C. Shane, dean of the University's school of education.

Shane said he polled 183 school superintendents, including 39 "nationally recognized leaders," to find out what changes in elementary school practices have been made during the past 10 years.

He pointed out that modern educational theories have been under heavy public attack since 1950, with widespread assertions that public schools have become "ineffective instruments," and that "more formal and demanding education programs must be introduced."

The results of the survey indicate that a substantial majority of school administrators have simply shrugged off this criticism.

TRADITION IS SHED

If anything, Shane said, "it appears that the design of elementary curriculum courses of study are less widely used than 10 years ago and flexible teaching guides have become more common."

A large majority of the superintendents polled said they hoped to continue to develop programs which even more fully emphasized

the development of the learner rather than merely stressing subject matter," Shane said.

Shane said he found "no widespread trend toward more formal report cards based on highly competitive and comparative rating systems. . . . Two out of three superintendents held to the "progressive" principle that children should "compete with themselves." That is, each child should be graded according to his own abilities rather than compete with one another or meet a absolute standards of achievement.

The survey did turn up some trends that may reflect school responses to criticism, he said.

Shane found a "sharp" increase in special provisions for academically talented children and an "appreciable" increase in the practice of "ability grouping."

MORE ESSAY TESTS

The oft-repeated charge that children did not express themselves well in writing had apparently influenced elementary school practice, since there had been a definite increase in the use of essay-type examinations," he said.

On the other hand, Shane said,

"despite the criticisms directed at liberal promotion policies, over two-thirds of all of the superintendents surveyed rejected the idea that promotion should be based on the completion of prescribed minimum academic standards and that children who lagged behind should be required to repeat a grade.

In view of the survey," Shane concluded, it seems reasonable to state that superintendents have not been persuaded of the need to re-introduced formal prescribed academic programs at the elementary school level," he said.

Exposes Castro's Moscow Line

Russia Outfoxes Self on Cuban Sugar

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON—Communist Russia has at long last outsmarted itself and performed a real favor for the United States and Latin America.

This is the considered judgment of officials in the best position to know after studying hemispheric reactions to the newly negotiated $100 million trade agreement between Cuba and the Soviet Union.

"The Communists are not as smart as they're cracked up to be," a highly placed source told this writer. "They have done us a good turn by putting the Moscow tag on the operations of Premier Fidel Castro's regime."

The fancy bargain that Soviet Vice Premier Anastas Mikoyan drove in Havana last week has alerted not only fence-sitting nations of Latin America, but also the thinking people of Cuba to the menacing Red peril at their doorstep.

The next move is expected to be Cuban recognition of the Soviet Union and an exchange of ambassadors. Secret diplomatic reports indicate that Russia intends, as soon as this is accomplished, to set up a vast mission in Havana from which all espionage for the Caribbean area will be directed.

Gen. C. P. Cabell, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, discloses that tiny Cuba already boasts 17,000 card-carrying Communists. He estimates the number of Latin American Communists at about 240,000, with sympathizers running close to 700,000.

Cabell warns that the Red Russian drive is even more intense in Latin America than in Africa and the Middle East, and that it is mainly directed against us.

The bright side of the picture is that many nations and peoples who formerly believed Castro was merely an inexperienced, do-good reformer are now alerted to his close ties with the Kremlin.

Intelligence chiefs well remember that the action which touched off Guatemala's revolution that deposed its Communist ruler was his deal to purchase arms from Red Czechoslovakia.

This was the kind of danger that even the lowest Guatemalan require hospitalization.

could understand, just as Castro's deal with Russia plainly warns Cubans of the direction in which their government has now veered.

If Castro purchases Russian MIGs with his $100 million credit, the world will view him as aggression-minded, inasmuch as the last jets are defensively useful only to fight off attacking bombers, and who plans to bomb Havana?

Three out of every ten persons involved in motor vehicle accidents in the lowest Guatemalan require hospitalization.

National Safety Record Marked by Evanston

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Evanston has completed 781 consecutive days without a traffic death—and thereby set a national record.

The goal was reached at midnight Tuesday on the basis of a scoring system devised by the National Safety Council.

It worked this way: Evanston's population, 76,200, multiplied by the number of death-free days, 781, gave it a total of 59,512,200 man days without a fatality.

The record had been held by Detroit, which put together 34 successive death-free days in 1944 to compile a score of 38,500,000. Detroit has a population of nearly two million.

George Docking is the first Democrat ever to be twice elected governor of Kansas.

But Wall Street Turns Timid

Profits, Dividends High

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Three out of four of the nation's corporations are reporting increased profits, even while the stock market falters. And cash dividends continue to rise.
Many of the companies are reporting record net income after taxes for 1959. Many others are showing marked increases over 1958.
The first 669 nonfinancial corporations to publish 1959 operations show the average gain over 1958 is 19.3 per cent. Only in 1955 did profits take a bigger jump during the 50s. In that year they soared 32 per cent over 1954.
By contrast, 1958 earnings fell 14.3 per cent behind 1957.

Most banks and other financial institutions also have reported increased earnings in 1959, with many records set.
AIRCRAFTS LOWER
Only two major nonfinancial divisions show declines from 1958. The aircraft industry and its suppliers dropped by 30.5 per cent, reflecting the vagaries of defense cutbacks and order-switching and the costs of retooling from prop to jets for commercial aircraft.
The railroads show a decline of 4.8 per cent. Most of the drop was among lines serving steel communities and plants with steel shortages during the 116-day strike.
For the 669 corporations combined, the total net profit was $12,062,511,000, against $10,106,411,000 for the same companies in 1958. Only 148 show declines this time. But of the 669 there were 32 operating at losses in 1958, compared with 27 in 1957.

Despite the stock market gloom, the prospects for most of the corporations are bright for the current quarter, and many expect gains during the entire first half of 1960.
Federal figures show industrial output rising to a record high in January. Only in recent years have there been scattered reports of faltering.
Corporate directors continue generous in passing along the increased profits to shareholders, Jersey Turnpike.

They passed out about a billion dollars in cash dividends in January, 10 per cent more than the previous year.
Well, Maybe It Is
MIDDLETOWN, N. J. — Pirate crews often came here during the 17th Century for rest and refuge, and many residents still believe that Capt. Kidd's fabled treasure is buried somewhere near here.
Revenuers Raise Cane
CANA, Va. — Officers who raided and destroyed a 750-gallon still and 300 gallons of moonshine captured a crutch and a walking cane. The owner apparently decided he didn't need them when the revenuers approached.
One million vehicles a week are driven on the 132-mile-long New Jersey Turnpike.

LANSING (U) — For the first time in three years, no school districts applied this week for borrowings against anticipated state aid.

Charges Despicable in News Conference

WASHINGTON (U) — President Eisenhower, cold with anger, Wednesday denounced as "despicable" any critic who charges that the administration is misleading the American people on the state of the nation's defenses.

"If anybody—anybody—believes that I have deliberately misled the American people," Eisenhower said at his new conference, "I'd like to tell him to his face what I think about him."

"This is a charge that I think is despicable, and I have never made it against anyone in the world, and I wouldn't as long—unless he were in a bar of justice somewhere to be tried for something that was intolerable."

A reporter present, Charles E. Shutt of Telenews, had mentioned charges by critics that the administration has been complacent in advising the people "of the danger we face," and that it was putting economy ahead of weapons development.

"Sir," Shutt asked, "do you believe that the administration has misled the American people in any way?"

In repudiating any such idea, Eisenhower said: "Our defense is not only strong; it is awesome, and it is respected elsewhere."

He disclosed he will go on nationwide television and radio Sunday evening to discuss defense, and his forthcoming trip to South America.

A-Group Chairman
Reports on N-Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Sen. Tom Connally (D-Conn.), one-time chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said it would be "most unwise" to repeal the restriction that permits the United States to determine which cases involving this country the world court may try.

Connally made the statements in a letter to Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), current chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Connally made the statement in reporting to the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee on the commission's 10-year program for the development of nuclear power.

His remarks were considerably more optimistic than a carefully-worded formal statement presented by the full commission. It said there is "a relatively high probability" that certain types of nuclear plants can compete with conventional power plants in areas of high fuel cost by 1967-68.

Goldwater Will Remove State Slur From Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) has agreed to remove from a Senate Rackets Committee report derogatory references to Michigan. Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) told the Senate yesterday.

Hart took exception Monday to statements by Republican members of the committee that Michigan has become a "privileged sanctuary" for criminals and a "hailiway of the United Auto Workers' Union."

He told the Associated Press that Goldwater has agreed that "undated accusations against the state should not appear in the final version of the report."

The disputed statements were contained in a separate report prepared by Republican members of the committee—Sens. Goldwater, Karl Mundt (SD) and Carl T. Curtis (Neb.).

Goldwater said a fourth Republican member, Sen. Homer E. Capelhart (Ind.), had agreed to submit the same.

The Heat's On, Yet Craig Keeps a Cool Head

Seven-year-old Craig Hill now knows what it's like to get burned playing with fire—but he was ready for the emergency.

Young Craig was playing with two companions near his home at 555 E. Beverly St., his mother, Mrs. Leora Hill, told Pontiac Police yesterday, when his hair caught fire from a match.

Craig used his head, police had to admit.

The boy ran to a nearby water hole and dunked his head.

Williams May Lose Power to Reorganize

LANSING (UPI)—A move to repeal a law granting the governor power to reorganize the government was started Wednesday by Rep. Russell Strange Jr. (R-Clare).

Strange sponsored a bill to repeal the reorganization plan which the Legislature approved in 1958.

Under the system, the governor could recommend changes in government structure and the changes would become official unless the Legislature vetoed the changes within a specified time.

Strange, who voted for the plan in 1958, said he was now against it because the system granted lawmaking power to the administrative branch and left the Legislature with a veto power, usually the prerogative of the administrative branch.

"It's a reversal of the legislative procedure," said Strange.

He told reporters he decided to plead guilty "because of the way things were going at the trial."

Color slides of the victim's beaten body were shown at the trial and Jones said, "I got sick myself when I saw them."

Jones said Lassiter was not slated for death at the time he was beaten and shot.

Waterford Seeks Bids for Police Car, Truck

Waterford Township Clerk James Seeterlin has been authorized by the Township Board to advertise for bids for a new police car and a one-half ton pick-up truck. Sealed bids will also be received for the sale of a 1955 Pontiac and a 1957 Chevrolet police car.

Specifications for the new township vehicles can be obtained at the township hall from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Williams Castigates Housing Color Line

DETROIT (AP)—Gov. Williams today said he was in the Michigan Legislature to "crack the color line in housing."

"Housing is to the North what voting and education are to the South," he said in a talk prepared for the United Northwestern Realty Assn.

The governor appealed for the help of realtors in ending what he said was the "sheer hypocrisy" of northerners who cluck in all-white neighborhoods about discrimination in the South.

"Realtors, more than any other profession north of the Mason-Dixon Line, are in a special position to help America fulfill its promise of equal opportunity for all," he said.

Williams quoted from the scripture and an 1886 federal law purporting to specifically guarantee all citizens equal rights in buying, selling and leasing property.

"The ideal of this old law is still far from fact. But the challenge of this ideal is more pressing than ever," he said.

One element in the legislative package submitted by Negro lawmakers in the Senate and House would provide for lifting of state licenses of real estate brokers and residential builders caught in discrimination on race, religion or color grounds.

Lassiter Killing Defendant Cracks, Implicates Other 2

DETROIT (AP)—One of three men on trial for murder in the slaying of a Royal Oak car dealer walked up to the judge yesterday and, in a soft voice, changed his plea to guilty of second degree murder.

Richard Jones, 28, previously pleaded innocent to a charge of first degree murder in the death of Parvin (Bill) Lassiter. Jones' statement in Circuit Court also implicated the other two defendants, Charles W. Nash, 43, and Roy Hicks, 37, both of whom still maintained their innocence.

All three are from Chattanooga, Tenn., and worked for Lassiter, who lived at 1960 Beverly, Beverly Hills.

A first degree murder, under Michigan law, is one planned in advance. The penalty, upon conviction, is life imprisonment with parole seldom given.

Second degree murder is committed on the spur of the moment and the penalty can be life or a lesser number of years at the discretion of the judge. Parole is often granted.

Judge Joseph G. Rashid said he would sentence Jones later.

Rashid asked Jones, with the jury out, "Do you present when he was killed?"

Jones said yes. He said Hicks and Nash also were there.

Jones will be called to the stand next week to testify as a prosecution witness.

SHAKEN BY TRIAL
He told reporters he decided to plead guilty "because of the way things were going at the trial."

Color slides of the victim's beaten body were shown at the trial and Jones said, "I got sick myself when I saw them."

Jones said Lassiter was not slated for death at the time he was beaten and shot.

Set Arraignment for Ex-Convict in Pontiac Robbery

A 34-year-old ex-convict accused of robbing a Pontiac supermarket of $9,000 in December, will be arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court next Tuesday.

Eugene J. Thoun is bound over to the higher court yesterday following examination before Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

He had been remanded to Municipal Court for examination, after having previously waived a hearing.

Thoun was arrested by Pontiac police Dec. 18 less than two hours after Claire Kramp, 50, manager of the M & P market at 185 N. Perry St., and a woman cashier were held up.

He was returned to the Oakland County Jail, unable to post bond of $5,000.

The need for increased cooperation between courts, lawyers and social workers was emphasized by an Ohio attorney who led a panel discussion at the recent annual meeting of the Oakland County Family Service.

The attorney, Sol M. Isaac of Columbus, Ohio, said the close relationship between the law and social work fields is necessary because of the rising number of "family breakdowns."

"If lawyers and social workers would sit down together and try to work out some of these problems, many of them would disappear," he declared.

Members of the panel were Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer; Carl F. Ingraham, Pontiac attorney; and Harold Silver, executive director of the Jewish Family and Children's Services of Metropolitan Detroit.

The panel members agreed that individuals in divorce cases should know their legal rights and obligations, and that courts should make increased use of family counseling to settle domestic difficulties.

In other business, reports were presented by John W. Hittinger, president of the Board of Directors, and Robert J. Jones, executive director of the agency.

Walter C. Laidlaw of Birmingham, executive vice president of the United Foundation of Detroit, was presented a plaque honoring him as "Oakland County's Outstanding Citizen" because of his contributions to the U.F. movement.

Elected board members were Keith J. Leenhouts, the Rev. Amos G. Johnson, the Rev. Edward A. Grant, the Rev. J. B. Backus, Mrs. Raymond Cole, Mrs. James Van Vleet, Samuel Fishman, Mrs. John McVay, Mrs. Roderick Taylor and Mrs. Raymond Storm.

Sec. Benson Outlines His Farm Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson asked Congress today to cut price supports on wheat, eliminate acreage controls, and expand the soil bank's conservation reserve to 50,000,000 acres.

He spelled out for the House Agriculture Committee details of the program outlined by President Eisenhower in his special farm message to Congress on Feb. 9.

He outlined the sort of farm program the Administration would prefer. But, as did the President, Benson held the door open for any Viet, Samuel Fishman, Mrs. John McVay, Mrs. Roderick Taylor and Mrs. Raymond Storm.

U.S. to Build Super Radar

Based in Britain, It Will Be Able to See Deep Into Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—A super-power radar station able to spot Soviet missiles thousands of miles away will be set up in England by U. S.-British defense, the State Department announced today.

The huge metal screen—bigger than a football field set on its side—will be built for 120 million dollars at Fylingdales Moor, Yorkshire. This is midway up the east coast of Britain, between London and Edinburgh.

Defense experts said this giant installation, plus two others now under construction in North America, will be able to provide speedy detection over a large area of the Northern Hemisphere of any missile headed that way.

The reported range of the high-power radar is about 3,500 miles. The electric eye thus can peer across the arctic to spot missiles launched from the Soviet Union.

The two other stations in the chain are being built at Thule, Greenland, and Clear, Alaska, for completion expected late this year or in 1961.

STILL FLYING — Maj. Erich Hartmann, left, who downed 352 Russian planes in World War II, inspects jets of the new West German Luftwaffe with two other officers.

Teaches West German Pilots

Nazi Air Ace on Our Side

By H. VON BRUCHTESCH

Hartmann was born the son of a doctor in a small town near Stuttgart, and spent some of his early life in China where his father was attached to a hospital.

WAS GLIDER PILOT

His mother, an active sports fan before the war, interested him in airplanes and by the time he joined the Luftwaffe in 1940 at the age of 18, he was an experienced glider pilot.

In three years he reached the rank of major while becoming Hitler's top air ace. Soviet anti-aircraft fire forced him, to land nine times — once behind Russian lines, but he always managed to return to his base unharm.

When Germany surrendered, Hartmann was in command of a unit in Czechoslovakia. He blew up his planes and surrendered to a United States tank unit.

After two weeks in American hands he was turned over to the Russians with 200 other Germans under an Allied agreement. Sent to the Soviet Union, he was moved from prison camp to prison camp, and twice was sentenced to 25-year prison terms. The first, Hartmann says, was after he refused to join the air force of Communist East Germany. The formal charge was mass murder of Russian civilians.

Detroit — It requires about 11 pounds of air to provide enough oxygen to burn one pound of gasoline in an auto engine.

He hopes to get even faster planes in the near future. United States starfighters, which he believes are the best available today for the fledgling West German Air Force.

One Hour a Day Seen for Housework by 70

NEW YORK (UPI)—Let's hope this prediction for the new decade is right: A builder says houses will be constructed and equipped to require a maximum of one hour's housework per day. If by 1970, your chores are long, argue with Arthur A. Desser, president of the nation's largest community developers.

France Mothers Smallest Colony

Islands Off American Continent Have Long Codfishing Record

WASHINGTON — St. Pierre and Miquelon, the foggy island relics of France's vast North American empire, are as nautical as a horn-pipe and as French as a fleur-de-lis.

The 53-square-mile archipelago, 1,000 miles northeast of New York, has 5,000 French-speaking inhabitants. Four centuries of codfishing have left an indelible mark on their lingo.

After a day's work, an islander drives "nor'ast" and "anchore" at home. He "goes ashore" from his car, "moors" his hat on a hook inside, and finally "boards" his bed for sleep.

Residents grudgingly admit the islands, part of the Appalachian Mountain system which extends to Alabama, are just a few miles off Southeast Newfoundland. They much prefer to think that merely 2,300 miles separate them from Brest, the French port across the Atlantic.

MOTHERS ISLANDS

France has long taken a motherly interest in the islands, her oldest and smallest colony. She helps out in times of need, creating jobs for unemployed men by building new schools, hospitals, and roads that improve the community, the National Geographic Society says. She has regularly extended help in the 20th century, because modernization of fishing fleets made the town of St. Pierre less important as a port of call and thus caused an economic decline.

The one really bright spot in its recent history came during Prohibition when le rum-running brought a mysterious prosperity.

States outside stores record the day's events. The town's "news-paper" went out of business some years ago when the town crier found his voice wearing out. St. Pierre now has a radio station, but much news still travels by mouth. Townsfolk love to gossip in clusters on the quay where ships are tied up.

The weather is a favorite topic. The islands get so much fog—85 to 120 days a year—that the inhabitants have names for the different varieties. One type of fog is so damp it condenses on roofs and drips like rain.

150 Bills Deluge Legislature

Let Schools Levy Tax, Detroit Dem Proposes

LANSING — A personal income tax is proposed by a Detroit Democrat to solve financial problems in county school districts.

Rep. George Montgomery, a school teacher, introduced a bill yesterday to allow county boards of education to tax residents as much as one per cent of their net income. Specific or excise taxes also could be levied against any item now taxed by the state.

"This is a possible answer to school needs in some counties in excess of what can be raised by property taxes," said Montgomery.

A torrent of 110 bills deluged the House yesterday and another 40 poured into the Senate on the busiest day yet for bill introductions. The voice of Clerk Norman E. Philleo droned through the afternoon in the House chamber as bill after bill was tossed into the hopper and read to lawmakers.

Yesterday was the deadline for introduction of all but tax and appropriation measures, but the last minute rush prompted legislators to extend the deadline till Monday. Lawmakers still were counting on April 15 adjournment.

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski (D-Detroit), House Democratic floor leader, sponsored bills to carry out Gov. Williams' recommendations for better pay raises for his successor and other elected state officials.

The bills would boost the pay for governors from $22,500 to $35,000 and give $20,000 salaries to the secretary of state, treasurer, auditor general, attorney general, superintendent of public instruction, and highway commissioner. The latter two earn $17,500, the others $12,500.

A bill to allow delegates to county political conventions to elect their county chairmen was introduced for the third straight year by Rep. Russell H. Strange Jr. (R-Clare). Wayne County would not be covered.

Under the proposal, candidates for county and legislative posts, who currently elect county chairmen, would automatically become county convention delegates, along with precinct delegates. Republicans and Democratic state conventions both have endorsed the idea.

Another bill would require time and a half pay for policemen who work more than 40 hours a week in cities of more than 10,000 population.

Selfridge to Boost Area Population

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI)—The population of the Mount Clemens area will increase by more than 6,000 in May with activation of the 494th Strategic Air Command wing at Selfridge Air Force base.

About 1,600 officers and men will move to the base. Most of them will bring their wives and families.

Lt. Col. Wilbur H. Britten, chief of the control division at Selfridge, said housing must be found for the officers, their families, and their families.

PRESIDENT'S ITINERARY — The solid line traces the approximate route and points to be visited on President Eisenhower's South American tour, starting Monday from Washington. The broken line indicates his return route to Washington where he is due March 6 after visits to Puerto Rico, Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay.

Pontiac City Affairs

Okay Rezoning of Parcel

By a split vote, city commissioners have approved rezoning to manufacturing of a commercial parcel on S. Paddock street where a fuel company plans to erect two oil storage tanks.

The firm, Webb Fuel Co., 351 S. Paddock St., intends to put up a pair of 25,000 gallon tanks, each about 25 feet high, on the rezoned parcel. This is south of the company's grounds but north of Elm street.

The company promised to allow a 20-foot buffer strip on the south end of the property for the convenience of Elm street residents.

TWO PETITIONS

Two petitions — one for rezoning and one against it — were signed by property owners immediately next to the rezoned parcel. Twelve signatures were on the favorable petition and eight on the unfavorable, but six property owners signed both petitions, according to Henry Smith, city planner.

Commissioner Robert A. Landry, in whose district the company is located, refused to support the rezoning "in view of the public opposition." Commissioner Milton R. Henry also voted against it, arguing that manufacturing areas shouldn't be extended into residential neighborhoods.

The company said it doesn't plan manufacturing, only storage, but pointed out that a manufacturing classification is needed for this. Up to now, the company has dealt mainly with coal.

Other commissioners sided with Commissioner Floyd P. Miles, who three lots on the northwest corner of Oakland avenue and Kinney road from residential to commercial was sent back to its circulation for more signatures. It was signed by only 48 per cent of the affected property owners.

Earliest libraries in colonial America were privately owned. Notable were those of Elder William Brewster of Plymouth, Rev. Winthrop of Connecticut, Dr. Cotton Mather of Boston and Col. Ralph Wormeley of Virginia.

THE BOOK IN THE WINDOW — H. L. Hunt, reported as one of the 10 richest men in the world, holds up a picture of his home. This picture is one of the pages in his book, "Alpaca." The demonstration was at an autograph party at a Dallas, Tex., bookstore. Among other things, the book advocates granting additional votes to large taxpayers. With Hunt are his wife and daughters Sewanee, 10, left, and Helen, 11. The girls aided in the sale of the books by singing "How Much Is That Book in the Window." Hunt is 71 today and said the book was partly ghost-written.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gen. U. S. Grant of Civil War fame probably turned in his grave when he learned a Mighty Mile football team here adopted the name U.S. Grant Rebels.

Rare Open-Heart Surgery Saves Combat Vet's Life

By ELDON BARRETT
SEATTLE (UPI) — Lt. Cmdr. Ralph V. Kane, 43, knows the smell of death. He served as assault beachmaster at four major Pacific amphibious invasions during World War II.

But it was a peacetime injury that brought him closest to the spectre's door. And a rare open-heart operation by a 14-man team of University of Washington Medical School doctors that kept that door closed.

Kane, whose home town is Mt. Carmel, Pa., is a big man — 300 pounds and 6 feet-4½ inches tall. Last September he was serving as executive officer of the Navy's fleet oiler Chemung, which had been keeping vessels on the Formosa Strait patrol supplied with fuel oil for more than a year during the Quemoy bombardment.

One day Kane stepped ashore from a small boat at Singapore and a high wave crushed him flat against a bulkhead. A doctor from a Navy destroyer in port said a blood clot, released from internal injuries, had lodged in his arm. An Air-Sea Rescue plane flew Kane to the Navy hospital at Taipei, Formosa, where the clot was removed. But he still was in pain, and was flown to Kōkusōka, Japan, for additional treatment. Doctors there removed a clot from his leg.

By this time it was known that Kane's heart was involved and he was evacuated by air to the San Diego, Calif., Naval Hospital last October. He remained there until May when it was determined he still needed extensive treatment and hospitalization.

Kane was given a temporary disability discharge and the Veterans Administration took over the job of treating him. He asked to be sent to the Seattle VA Hospital because he had heard of its reputation for treating heart and chest patients and because he wanted to live in Seattle "when my time came" to retire.

Doctors here found Kane's time was almost up. His condition was deteriorating rapidly. Bacterial infection had attacked the aortic valve which controls the entire flow of blood from the heart to the rest of the body. A form of open-heart surgery was the only chance of saving his life. Only once previously at Vanderbilt University Medical School in Nashville, Tenn., — had this particular type of operation been performed successfully.

Kane was transferred to the University of Washington hospital where there was available a pump-oxygenator large enough to handle the big man. Putting him in as a civilian involved an administrative problem but the red tape was quickly cut.

Then the 14 university surgeons moved in. More than 10 quarts of blood were supplied to Kane's system each minute while the heart was "tied off" for the operation. The doctors exposed the patient's aorta, cleared away the damaged valve tissues, and repaired the tri-cuspid valve which opens and closes with the heart beat.

They worked over Kane for many more hours than normally is required during open-heart surgery.

So delicate was the operation and so uncertain the outcome that Kane was kept in the operating room for four hours after the surgery was actually completed. And all 14 doctors stood by in surgical caps and gowns ready for an emergency.

Kane recovered quickly and was back in the VA hospital seven days later. Doctors say he now has a chance for full recovery. The University team congratulated the VA doctors for diagnosing completely and accurately Kane's "fantastic" blood circulation patterns which had been set up by his faulty aortic valve. And the VA congratulated the university surgeons for their "rare skill."

And Kane, a 25-year Navy veteran who was on the beach at Leyte, Tacloban, Lingayen Gulf and Okinawa — says he wouldn't be alive today if it wasn't for everyone who helped from that day he stepped ashore in Singapore.

"I can't say enough for the care I've received," he said. He hopes to go home soon to his wife and daughter who live just outside Seattle where Ralph Kane wanted to retire.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee approved an annual federal distribution of 95 million dollars for distribution of milk to schools.

At the same time Wednesday it raised from $1 million to $5 million dollars the milk fund contribution for the current fiscal year that ends June 30. The House previously had passed this bill in different form.

Yankus Boosts Australia

ADELAIDE, Australia (U)—Stanley Yankus still thinks Australia is "freer" than the United States — so much so that he has established an unofficial immigration bureau in Adelaide.

This expatriate Dowagiac, Mich. chicken farmer writes more than a dozen letters weekly giving interested Americans information about Australia.

He said he has a request from almost every state wanting to know about the Australian way of life.

Pointing to heaps of letters on the desk at his new suburban home in Howley Beach, Yankus

“People want to know my reactions to Australian tax systems, freedom of religion, schooling, finance and how wages compare with the same things back home.”

“I can help them because I know how to make a fairly good comparison.”

For instance, my wage of 10 Australian pounds weekly (about $36) may sound little in America.

But when I tell them butter costs only 50 cents a pound, or that you can have a tooth filled for a quarter of the cost in America, it gives them the correct proportional values," he said.

him so much he sometimes writes to newspapers to reach more Americans than he could by individual letters.

President's Goals Unit to Avoid Political Ties

NEW YORK (UPI)—The President's commission on national goals voted at its first meeting yesterday to avoid political ties and to issue no statements until after the presidential election.

The group, appointed by President Eisenhower to study and recommend long-range national goals, also approved a budget, discussed methods of its operation, set a time schedule for its work, and confirmed the appointment of William P. Bunday as staff director.

Uphohn Reports Earnings Up, Sales at Record High

DETROIT (U)—Uphohn Co. Wednesday reported a 15.9 per cent gain in earnings on a 7.4 per cent rise in sales during 1959.

Net income rose to $23,224,000, equal to $1.65 a common share, from $20,043,000 or $1.43 a share in 1958. Sales climbed to $136,914,000, a record, from $146,136,000 a year earlier.

British Protest Radar Station

Labor Party Worries U.S. May Get More Minutes of Warning

LONDON (U)—Members of the opposition Labor Party today protested plans for the United States and Britain to set up a new 120-million dollar super-power radar station in a British national park that will peer deep into Russia. The protest was made after air minister George Ward announced the plans in the House of Commons. They were disclosed simultaneously in Washington.

Ward said he regrets Flying-dunes Moor Park was chosen but the government is "satisfied that there is no other suitable site in the whole country."

George Brown, Labor's defense expert, asked if it is true that the system would give a maximum warning of 15 minutes to the United States and only four minutes to Britain.

"That would be just about long enough for the British to say, 'Cheerio, chaps!'" Brown said. Ward did not accept Brown's figures.

"We expect to get a good deal more than that," the air minister said. "And in any case we hope to get enough to get a substantial part of the bomber force in the air."

Ward stressed that any warning also would be flashed to the British headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Britain would also receive warnings from other stations in the network. These will be in Greenland and Alaska.

"In providing additional protection for Western strategic deterrent forces," he said, "the station will contribute substantially to the security of the entire area."

Gets Prison, Big Fine

Guterman Denied Bond, Judge Can't Trust Him

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alexander hanced by "three indictments now pending against him."

Guterman, who once headed a $5 million dollar paper empire of interlocking corporations, was sentenced to four years and 11 months in prison Wednesday and fined $100,000 for violating federal securities regulations.

Federal Judge Lloyd F. MacMahon ordered the 44-year-old Russian-born financier to be jailed immediately to prevent his yielding to "strong temptation" . . . to flee from the prison term which the court has imposed in order to enjoy the fruits of his crime."

MacMahon said such temptation could be considered to be en-

Eveleigh was sentenced to two years and 11 months in prison and fined $10,000.

HAS MONEY HIDDEN
MacMahon said evidence indicated it is possible that some of Guterman's gains are deposited to his credit "somewhere in the financial labyrinth of Switzerland or Tangiers."

MacMahon took "judicial notice" that Guterman has interest in and use of a private airplane, has sold his Greenwich, Conn. home and moved his family to Miami Shores, Fla., which the court said was "a likely first step toward flight to some Latin American extradition - proof refuge, where, with his Manila background, he would be quite at home."

The judge said the facts of the case show that from 1956 through 1958 "Guterman looted the investing public of hundreds of thousands of dollars by manipulating the market in the common stock of F. L. Jacobs Co. and by siphoning off hundreds of thousands of dollars of Jacobs' assets into his own pocket through a maze of juggling, concealed and complex financial transactions with money lenders, foreign banks and dummy corporations."

Arrest 27 Youths in Race Flareup

Portsmouth, Va., Has 2nd-Straight Day of Lunch-Counter Feuding

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—Police arrested 27 high school youths here Wednesday in the second straight day of racial friction over Negro demonstrations against white-only lunch counters.

At Raleigh, N.C., a 25-year-old white man, William B. Faulk, was scheduled for trial today on hitting a Negro student with a iron dog chain. The Negro, Otis Clark, 20, was among Negro college youths carrying placards Wednesday in a protest against segregated lunch counter service.

At Portsmouth's midcity shopping center, police broke up a crowd of 500 persons. Some 200 persons then assembled on the athletic field of nearby Noricum High School for Negroes. Several bricks were tossed at a police car.

The flareup ended with 25 boys charged with disorderly conduct and two with carrying concealed weapons. Police said the racial makeup of the arrested youths was about evenly divided between whites and Negroes.

At the shopping center, Negroes made no effort to enter any of the stores.

Southerners Let House Take Up Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bowing to the inevitable, diehard Southerners reluctantly agreed today to let the House consider civil rights legislation.

Chairman Howard W. Smith (D-Va), leading foe of northern-backed civil rights proposals, called a meeting of the House Committee to take formal action clearing the legislation for House action in mid-March. An informal agreement to act was reached Wednesday.

A civil rights bill approved by the House Judiciary Committee has been pigeonholed in Smith's committee since last August because a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats wouldn't turn it loose. Hearings were started last week, but took a leisure pace.

The coalition broke apart Wednesday, under apparent political pressure. At least three of the four GOP rules committee members were ready to join four Northern Democrats to break the deadlock and send the bill to the House.

Although the Senate already is debating civil rights and the House may not act for another month, Senate Democratic leaders let it be known they hope the Senate eventually will accept without change the bill the House passes.

The decision of House Rules Committee Republicans to act followed a meeting of the GOP Policy Committee.

Indict Twelve Electrical Firms

GE and Westinghouse, 10 Others Charged by Jury in Price Fix

PHILADELPHIA — Twelve electrical equipment manufacturers including the nation's two largest, General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric Corp., were indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on antitrust charges of price fixing.

Tuesday the grand jury indicted five firms—General Electric and Westinghouse among them—for conspiring to fix prices and rig bids in the sale of heavy electrical equipment.

Four indictments were returned Wednesday by the 23 member grand jury. They involved the sale and distribution of busbars, distribution of lighting arresters, station lighting arresters, arrester-cutoffs combination units, insulators and open fuse cutouts.

These products, amounting to over $5-million dollars in annual sales in the nation, are used in the generation, transmission and distribution of electricity throughout the United States.

Indicted Wednesday were: General Electric of New York; Westinghouse of Pittsburgh; Lapp Insulator Co. Inc., Leroy, N. Y.; Ohio Brass Co., Mansfield, Ohio; McGraw-Edison Co., Elgin, Ill.; K. Porter Co. Inc., Pittsburgh; Hubbard & Co., Chicago; Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply Co., Chicago; The Porcelain Insulator Corp., Lima, N. Y.; I-T-E Circuit Breaker Co., Philadelphia; A. B. Eagle Ruffles British Feathers

Saarinen's Bird to Roost

United Press International LONDON (UPI)—The American eagle is coming to roost atop the U.S. Embassy here whether British like it or not. Many of them don't. They find it in bad taste—even a bit vulgar.

The architect of the building, Eero Saarinen of Birmingham, Mich., is untroubled by the criticism. "The critics," he said, "they're stupid."

A U. S. Embassy statement spiced rumors that the controversial bird, a gold-tinted giant cast in aluminum, would be politely melted away in deference to British artistic sensitivities. A spokesman said the eagle would take its place atop the new American Embassy building this summer as scheduled.

This matter has been directed from Washington as part of the world wide embassy building program," the spokesman declared. He added somewhat wistfully that "our feelings have nothing to do with it."

The eagle in question is now being hatched by sculptor Theodore Rozzack back in the United States. It stretches 35 feet from wing tip to wing tip. When completed, it will perch atop the new nine-story embassy building in Grosvenor Square, looking down its golden beak disdainfully at the Georgian architecture which preceded it by a century or two.

British critics of the bird—and they are many and varied—believe that the least it will do is give an undignified appearance to the American Embassy. At the most, they say, it will make passersby frightened or self-conscious.

Nixon to Return for Big Drive, Lindemer Says

DETROIT (AP)—Vice President Nixon, whose one-day visit to Detroit Monday stirred Michigan Republicans, will return to the state for "extensive campaigning," state GOP Chairman Lawrence B. Lindemer said Wednesday.

presidential choice, agreed at the conclusion of his Detroit appearance to make other visits, Lindemer said.

"We would like to get him once before the Republican National Convention July 25 and twice during the campaign," he said.

Lindemer said the Vice President might be asked to make a flying tour of the state, stopping at key points to make talks and stir up support for Republican candidates.

Finches' Maid Testifies Today

Girl Being Recalled by Prosecution as Murder Trial Nears an End

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The slim, teen-age girl whose head he once smashed against a garage wall returns to the witness stand today to testify again against Dr. R. Bernard Finch.

Marie Anne Lidholm, Swedish maid to the doctor's home, was the state's first major witness against him. She is being recalled by the prosecution for rebuttal testimony as the 11-week-old trial nears an end.

The 42-year-old society surgeon and his shapely mistress, Carole Tregoff, 23, are accused of murdering his wife, Barbara Jean, 38, late last July 18.

The only person who saw Dr. Finch at the home that night—except for Carole and Mrs. Finch—was Miss Lidholm.

The 19-year-old blonde said she heard her mistress scream and run to the garage. The doctor smashed her head into the wall so hard he made a hole in the plasterboard, she said.

Dr. Finch testified he feared Marie Anne might be armed—that he knocked her almost unconscious to protect himself.

Soon afterward, he said, Mrs. Finch ran from the garage with a gun she had pulled from her car when he and Carole met her. He said Mrs. Finch was accidentally shot when he caught her, wrenched the gun from her hand, and it discharged as he sought to throw it away.

Agriculture Researcher Raps Proposed Ban on Feed Chemicals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The head of the Agriculture Department's research activities said today "I don't think we can live with a law that says you can't add chemicals (to feeds and foods) which are essential to growth."

Dr. B. T. Shaw made the statement in an interview on agricultural problems raised by what is known as the Delaney amendment in the Food Additives law.

This amendment bans the use in foods or feeds of any chemical additive that has been shown to induce cancer in a test animal when ingested, regardless of the amount required to produce tumors.

President Eisenhower announced last week that he had requested reports from scientists in the Agriculture Department, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and his science the use of chemicals as food additives.

Shaw said the Delaney amendment "as now interpreted says a substance that is a carcinogen (cancer-causing agent) in any use, can't be used in any other way. "We don't think things are quite that black and white."

He advocated instead that the decision be left to professional scientific judgment of what is best in each case.

Full School Aid Bill Nears Legislative OK

LANSING (AP)—A bill to clear the decks for full payment of 1959-60 state school aid claims was nearing the end of the legislative route today.

The House-approved measure rested on the Senate calendar with appropriations committee endorsement.

Under the bill, between 20 and 25 million dollars will be shifted from the state treasury's general fund to the school aid kitty to make up whatever shortage materializes as of next June 30.

THE LADY AND THE GIANT

By Clarence Budington Kelland

XXXXV
I was standing six feet to the left of Lottie, and near me was a solid wooden antique chair. In the instant of his shock I snatched it up and, leaping between him and Lottie, I presented it as a shield. Oscar hurled another knife, but it buried its point in the thick bottom of the chair. I rushed upon him.

A heavy chair with a broad bottom is not only a defensive, but an offensive weapon. At close quarters it is frustrating to an antagonist—especially an antagonist with knives to throw.

My unexpected rush threw Oscar back and pinned him against the wall. The four legs of the chair hampered and imprisoned him; the clumsy weapon could not be fended and skill was helpless against it. Suddenly I drew it back and jabbed with it.

Oscar grunted with pain as a leg punched him in the stomach, while another made contact with his shoulder.

Over my shoulder I called to Lottie. "Get out of here! Get out!" But I could not see if she obeyed. Oscar's arm must have been momentarily pumbeled, for his remaining knife dropped to the carpet. But his recovery was quick, and his big hands clutched the chair and tried to wrestle it away from me.

He braced his back against the wall and, shifting his hold to two of the chair legs, twisted until the sturdy wood cracked and splintered and I found myself with only part of the seat and back—no longer an effective weapon.

I thanked heaven for my friendship with the canavases, whose delight it was to wrestle on the sword, along the canal of evening. They had taught me the tricks of catch-as-catch-can, and the dither twiddling and gouging and knowings intended to maim or even kill an adversary in serious and bloody battle.

Once, as we whirled and side-stepped, I caught a glimpse of Lottie crouched against the wall, and of Madam, her fist pressed against her lips. "I told you to get out!" I shouted. "And let her stab you in the back!" Lottie cried.

I lunged toward Oscar clumsily, pretended to trip and dropped to my knees. The maneuver requires split-second precision. By Oscar's reaction to my trick, I knew he was not familiar with it, for he aimed a kick at my face—and that was what I wanted. I struck upward with all my strength. My hard fist went home on his head. And then Madam showed herself as she truly was. "That man," she said, "murdered my husband for the money. They plotted together to rob the banks. That man killed my husband so he could keep it all."

"That," said Lottie sturdily, "is wicked lie." Apparently none of them heard of Madam or Lottie. Banker Watts dominated them. He waved a yellow telegraph blank and shouted. "What have you to say to this, you sharper, you thief? From Dan's Drew! I wired him! This is his reply! The woman a fanaway is an impostor. I never heard of her. I will sue for slander any man who charges the contrary!" Watts was trembling with rage.

Bill Would Guarantee Kelly Retirement Funds

LANSING (UPI) — Former Republican Gov. Harry F. Kelly, 66, would be assured of state retirement benefits for his Supreme Court service under a bill introduced by Sen. Paul H. Younger (R-Lansing).

"True," Younger said today, "he would be the first to benefit but the bill was not designed just for him."

Younger's bill would amend the retirement act to allow "any member of the Supreme Court who has eight or more years of continuous service credited to him upon attaining age 65 or over" to be eligible.

Kelly was elected to the court in 1953 for a term ending Dec. 31, 1961.

In Boxford, Mass., on Boston's North Shore, there are still 15 beautiful old homes built prior to 1800 which look much as they did when new.

"He was your man," said Lottie. "I loved you." "But," I said harshly, "you would have stood by and let Oscar murder her. You lured her here to torture her and make me tell where the money was hidden."

"But," Madam said softly, "I broke my heart."

There was a clatter at the door, and it burst open and half a dozen men entered. In the lead was Banker Watts, whom I had seen last in a prison on his office floor; there was one chief of police and men in uniform. They stopped suddenly in the archway at the sight of Oscar and the pool of blood in which he lay.

"What's this? What's going on here?" our police chief demanded.

OPEN THE TRUNK...
PROVE HOW MUCH EASIER

CHEVY IS TO LOAD!

That vacation-sized, easy-to-load luggage compartment is just one example of the more usable room you get throughout the new Chevrolet. The loading height of the conveniently cutaway trunk sill is not only lower than Chevy's nearest competitor's, but the deck lid opening is more than a foot and a half wider. And when it comes to what you can actually pack away, specifications reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association show Chevy's trunk holds up to 22.5% more luggage. Wherever you look—from the lower and narrower front floor tunnel to the wider rear deck—here's the car that gives you more room where you want more room!

① Single key locking for convenience Who wants to play guess-which-key-opens-the-trunk? One key opens Chevy's trunk, doors, glove compartment and starts the car.

② No loose wiring Chevy keeps snagging wires away from your cargo for extra safety and easy stowing.

④ As much as a foot-and-a-half wider trunk lid opening Chevy's wide deck lid lets you pack in the parcels from either side or the back.

⑥ Deeper trunk for bulky loads You can stand most packages up in this deep well—no crushed groceries!

⑧ And the gas tank filler tube doesn't take a big bite out of luggage room It's tucked away virtually out of sight and cargo area. Any way you look at it, Chevy takes mighty good care of your loads. You can open the door to all of Chevy's wonders at your Chevrolet dealer's. What's keeping you?

Officers Elected by CAI at Annual Member Meeting

A slate of officers was elected to serve three terms beginning with 1960 at the annual membership meeting last night of Community Activities, Inc.

Elected president was Donald Hickman; Mrs. George Dean, re-elected vice president; Robert J. Beattie, re-elected treasurer; and Mrs. Helen Hall, re-elected secretary.

Five executive board members elected were Mrs. Dean, Mrs. William Cronmatt, Charles Richardson, Beattie and Wallace Bell.

Purpose of the self-supporting CAI, located on Williams Lake Road, is to provide an attractive center for residents of the Waterford Township area.

Need State Tax Reform, Says Chrysler Official

DETROIT (AP)—A Chrysler Corp. executive today urged tax reform in Michigan in the interest of a "better business climate" which he said is necessary to keep industry from leaving the state.

William C. Newberg, Chrysler executive vice president, coupled tax reform with "efficient government spending" as necessary for the state.

"The alternative to bringing about tax reform—and efficient government spending—is to watch industry leave Michigan for those states which are successful in creating a good business climate," Newberg said.

The Chrysler official, speaking on "Chrysler's future in the Detroit area," made his remarks in a prepared speech to Rotarians of the area.

He spoke in suburban Farmington, a seat of Chrysler manufacturing operations, to Rotary clubs of that city and of suburban Highland Park, Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe.

Most of Chrysler's operation is in the Detroit area although it has plants in other states. Newberg said the company's payroll and purchases totaled 700 million dollars in the Detroit area last year.

Declaring that Michigan's taxes are in "serious need of legislative correction," Newberg said business has been carrying a "disproportionate share" of the tax load.

"What is needed," he said, "is a fair distribution of the property tax assessments among all properties—business and individual. Such assessments will improve the business climate and encourage industry to expand in this state."

Newberg cited present taxes of 90 per cent on new machinery, 80 per cent on inventory and 60 to 70 per cent on business land and buildings.

"Tax reform is essential to the growth and well being of this state," he said. "Michigan must have an equitable and uniform system of taxation that will encourage old industry to expand and new industry to come in."

Mentioning Ohio and Indiana as example, Newberg said neighboring states have achieved "uniform taxation" and have created a climate that attracts industry.

He said "every recent independent study" indicates that a "large part" of Michigan's economic future depends on an equitable tax adjustment.

KE'S IN-LAW TO RUN—The father of Mrs. Barbara Eisenhower, retired Army Col. Percy W. Thompson, 61, has qualified as a Republican to oppose five Democrats in a race for Florida secretary of state. His daughter is married to Maj. Gen. John Eisenhower, son of the President.

Mrs. Porumbeau Reunited With Father

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Helma Porumbeau, a prominent figure in the case involving the elopement of heiress Gamble Benedict, had a tearful reunion in court today with her father.

The father, Fritz-Schneidart of Stuttgart, Germany, had been unable to get in touch with his daughter since his arrival here recently. He applied to State Supreme Court to have her produced through a habeas corpus proceeding.

Mrs. Porumbeau is the wife of Andre Porumbeau, 35-year-old son of Gamble, 19. The pair's January trip to Paris was broken up by Gamble's grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Benedict.

Attorney Robert Hoffman, who represents both Mrs. Porumbeau and Mrs. Benedict, had been accused of keeping Mrs. Porumbeau and her 18-year-old daughter in hiding as a means of making it difficult for Porumbeau to get a divorce.

Officer Says Van Rie Was Eavesdropping

BOSTON (UPI)—A police witness testified today that accused murderer Willem Van Rie was eavesdropping when police boarded the freighter Utrecht to investigate the slaying of a pretty woman passenger.

Lt. Arthur C. Cadigan Jr. of the Boston Harbor Police said he went aboard the vessel in New York Sept. 21 and discussed the ship's log books with the first officer.

He said Van Rie was outside the chart room listening to the conversation.

Van Rie, 31-year-old radio operator aboard the Dutch vessel, is accused of beating Chicago divorcee Lynn Kaufman Sept. 18 and dumping her body over the side after a shipboard romance.

Cadigan, today's first witness, said he did not know who the person outside the chart room window was at the time.

Assistant Dist. Atty. John F. Mc-

Auliffe asked "Can you identify the person?"

"Yes sir," the defendant," Cadigan replied.

He said he and the first officer left the chart room for about 30 minutes and returned to find a number of radio tubes "scattered on the table."

The witness said the first officer turned to Van Rie and said "Sparks, what are those tubes doing here? Get them out of here."

"Van Rie immediately did as he was ordered," Cadigan said.

The 23-year-old Miss Kaufman was slain as the Utrecht sailed out N.Y., on the final leg of a 44-day voyage from Singapore.

Van Rie allegedly admitted to police he had a fight with Miss Kaufman a few hours before she disappeared from the Utrecht. However, he said he gave police the statement under "pounding, pounding, pounding," he later repudiated the statement.

M. J. Croteau Heads Catholic Social Unit

Maurice J. Croteau, 112 Marquette St., is the new president of the Catholic Social Services of Oakland County, it was announced today.

Other officers elected for 1960 are John R. Slavsky, first vice president; Mrs. Paul Hymans, railroad is 11 miles distant.

second vice president; J. Clifford Metty, treasurer; and the Rev. John A. Trese, secretary.

The agency is dedicated to better family living in the area and is supported by the Pontiac United Fund, the United Foundation of Detroit and the Archdiocesan Development Fund of Detroit.

Collegian's Final Jet Exam Is Mile-Up in the Blue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U) — It was Sunday and his Ohio State University classmates were enjoying the day away from classes. But 24-year-old Don Oberbeck boned up for a final examination—the last step in his becoming a combat ready jet fighter pilot.

Like hundreds of other young men across the nation, Oberbeck devotes many of his weekends and evenings, and at least two weeks each summer, to the Air National Guard. The pay he receives goes toward his college education.

On this Sunday, Oberbeck left the Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity house at Ohio State and drove to nearby Lockbourne Air Force Base where the 84th Thunder-streak Jets of the Ohio Air National Guard's 160th Tactical Fighter Squadron are kept.

There, he pulled gray flying overalls (with a stenciled "Tiger for Hire" across the back) over his stocky, near 6-foot frame.

A similarly clad officer in gray overalls (without the advertising) walked into the pilots' lounge and called his name. He is Maj. Freeling H. Clower, an Air Force Regular assigned to the Air Force unit as an advisor.

The major got his pilot's wings during World War II when Oberbeck was in grade school. Now a second lieutenant in the Air Guard, Oberbeck got his wings as an Air Guard cadet in July, 1958, and has been training since to be classified as a combat ready pilot in the F4F fighter-bomber.

NEXT OTHER STANDARDS

He had met all the other standards for proficiency in flying and understanding the plane and its mission, and this was the last hurdle. To satisfy Clower and other officials, Oberbeck had to reach the bomb range at Aftersburg, Ind., by flying at 5,000 feet and sighting certain landmarks. No radio navigational aids allowed.

Clower had him give a rundown on takeoff times, radio channels and the like, quizzed him briefly about what to do in certain emergency situations, and tripped him around 500 feet — and Oberbeck released a bomb with a small charge. The smoke could be seen from the air and by range officials for scoring purposes.

The two jets then roared up to 23,000 feet and flew toward Columbus in tight formation.

But nearing Lockbourne with Oberbeck using only instruments for "blind flying" training, they were warned of heavy rain over the base. With fuel running low, they raced the on-rushing storm to Port Columbus Airport, bumped down through turbulent air masses and rolled in just ahead of the rain.

Driven back to Lockbourne by a squadron mate, Clower and Oberbeck soon were changing clothes and preparing to go to supper. Clower suddenly looked up at the younger man and grinned.

"Oh, by the way," he said, "You passed."

Concurs in Lifting Costello Citizenship

NEW YORK (U) — A district court order stripping underworld kingpin Frank Costello of his U.S. citizenship was unanimously upheld Wednesday by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The 69-year-old Costello, target of numerous federal drives against criminal elements, is serving a five-year sentence for evading $28,000 in federal income taxes.

The government has claimed he obtained U.S. citizenship 30 years ago through fraud in wrongfully giving his occupation as real estate instead of bootlegging. Costello was born in Sicily.

Fleming Suggests Funds for Social Investigation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming said yesterday Congress should appropriate funds for studying the ill of society as well as medical illnesses.

Fleming told the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies funds are needed to explore such problems as juvenile delinquency and to learn why some persons continually need public assistance.

Rare U.S. Bird Coming Back

Whooping Crane Now Number: 39, Highest Count in 20 Years

WASHINGTON — The whooping crane is winging slowly back from the brink of extinction.

The last complete count showed the whooper population has reached 39—the largest number since scientists and bird lovers began keeping track 20 years ago. Scientists are now eagerly awaiting the final results of this fall's census, hoping for more good news.

The whooper once ranged from the Arctic to Central Mexico, and from New Jersey to the Rocky Mountains, writes Robert Porter Allen, research director of the National Audubon Society, in the November National Geographic Magazine.

As settlers drove the huge white birds from their nesting grounds, they seemed fated to follow the great auk and passenger pigeon into extinction.

Fortunately for the cranes, the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge was created in 1937 to protect them in their wintering grounds on the Texas Gulf Coast. Ornithologists did not know where the birds nested during the summer, however, and could not safeguard them during that crucial period.

The first clue came in 1952 when two cranes were sighted north of Great Slave Lake in the Canadian Northwest Territories. After three more years of searching, Mr. Allen and two companions—then the United States Fish and Wildlife Service finally reached the nesting grounds in an isolated region of Canada's enormous Wood Buffalo National Park.

Commuting between winter and summer homes, the birds travel over Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Montana, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. Cruising at 45 miles per hour, they cover about 200 miles a day despite many food stops, Mr. Allen writes.

The young return over the same route with their families, arriving in Texas in late October or early November.

CLARKSTON — Classical music by an accomplished soprano and piano-violin duo will be presented at the Clarkston Conservatory of Music next Tuesday through March 22.

Geraline Snapp of Waterford will be featured soprano, singing music by Schubert and Richard Strauss.

GERALINE SNAPP

Miss Snapp recently appeared in a song program at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

MEDLEY OF SONATAS

A medley of sonatas of Vivaldi, Stravinsky and Villa-Lobos will be presented by pianist Dolores Mittler and violinist John Fredrickson.

Mrs. Mittler was born in Poland and came to this country to study at Juilliard School of Music.

At Juilliard she was awarded a scholarship for study under pianist and teacher Sascha Gordinzki.

Later she studied under French pianist Robert Casadesu.

Fredrickson, professor of violin at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago, has previously appeared here while on tour with the St. Louis Symphony and in solo recital.

He is a member of the Chicago Lyric Opera Orchestra's first violin section and holds a master of music degree from the American Conservatory and the University of Wisconsin.

STARTS AT 2 P.M.

The opening recital will be presented at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Clarkston Conservatory.

Tickets are available at the Conservatory office, 49 S. Main St.

Area Students Showing Art

A first showing of art work by students in area schools will be presented by the Oakland Art Association, next month.

Some 600 students in elementary, junior and senior high school art classes will enter their work.

Students have until Monday to submit their entries for the show through their school art directors, exhibition chairman Peter Mangiaracina of Kimball High School, Royal Oak, announced today.

The Art Education Assn. is comprised of art teachers representing 33 Oakland County school districts. Theme of the 10-day exhibit is "Art Builds Creativity." It will open March 3 in the geodesic dome at Northland Shopping Center.

Keego Schedules Sewer Project

KEEGO HARBOR—Construction of the internal sewer system here will begin within two months, it was announced today by Deputy Director of the Department of Public Works Donald Ringer.

The announcement follows approval yesterday by the Michigan Finance Commission to sell $330,000 in general obligation bonds for the long-sought sewer system.

Ringer said a meeting with the DPW board will be held Feb. 23 and his office will recommend that the construction contract be awarded to the low bidder.

Completion of the project, as stated in advertised bids, is set at eight months following the start of construction, which should be sometime in December, Ringer said.

When the internal system is completed it will be connected to the Farmington Interceptor Sewer now under construction at a cost of nearly $5 million.

The Farmington Interceptor is expected to be completed in July. It will serve Farmington and West Bloomfield townships and Keego Harbor.

It will end at Orchard Lake and Ringer roads where the internal system will be hooked on.

From Keego Harbor, the sewage will travel more than 30 miles to be treated by a plant in Detroit.

DPW engineers have estimated that 30,000 feet of main and 22,000 feet of leads to houses will be needed to handle the 1,100 homes that will be connected to the system.

Residents will be assessed $36 a year for a 30-year period for use of the system. Or they can pay $600 in one lump sum.

This would mean a savings of

Waterford Firm Is Low Bidder

Awarded 2 Kent County Road Contracts for Total of $2,832,996

A Waterford Township firm was one of the successful low bidders yesterday in the second largest bid-letting in State Highway Department history.

The concern, S. D. Solomon & Sons, 3760 Elizabeth Lake Rd., was awarded contracts for two miles of extension of the Detroit-Muskegon Expressway in Kent County from near Cascade to Thornapple River Drive for $1,319,460; and an additional two miles from Thornapple Drive to near 28th Street, Grand Rapids for $1,313,536.

Cost of the highway jobs approved yesterday, which included 32 miles of expressways, was $19,536,000. The total was second only to $20,000,000 in May 1959.

Largest project was 6.7 miles of expressway on interstate Route 84, south of Stevensville, Berrien County. The Canam Construction Co., South Haven, submitted the low bid of $3,091,100.

TUNIS (UPI)—Tunisia charged today that a French warplane bombed a Tunisian village. The incident threatened a new rift in Franco-Tunisian relations and renewed pressure for total evacuation of the French naval base at Bizerte.

Smash Vehicle Windows, Two Picketers Hit by Car

TROY—Violence flared up at the strike-bound Dynamic Manufacturer Inc. plant here yesterday and again this morning when drivers attempted to cross the picket line.

One striker, George Popovich, 25, of 2401 Harwood St., Royal Oak, was arrested when sheriff's deputy Bob Canon reportedly saw him smash the headlight of a semi-truck.

The truck, belonging to Norwalk Lines, was leaving the plant after delivering a load of steel at about 7 p.m. yesterday when the headlight was broken with a stick.

Popovich is being held in the county jail on a disorderly conduct charge.

Early today, a Huntington Woods youth arrived at the plant for an employment interview. When he attempted to drive through the picket line, strikers allegedly smashed his car window on the driver's side.

Troy police said the youth, Gerald Kinsella, 19, of 10814 Talbot St., then "bumped two unidentified picketers with his car, supposedly in retaliation. Slightly injured the men were treated by a local physician and released.

Kinsella is being held by Troy police today for further questioning.

No early settlement is foreseen in the metal stampings plant strike, a union representative said today.

Robert Klingensmith, of the International Union of Electrical Radio and Machine Workers, AFL-CIO, said that no meetings with the management have been scheduled.

Nearly 300 of the plant's employees walked out Monday afternoon following a contract negotiation dispute.

Their contract, which expires in February 1961, gives them the right to strike if no wage agreement is reached one month following the start of negotiations. Negotiations began Jan. 8.

The employees are seeking a 34 cents an hour wage increase, the addition of a cost of living clause to the contract, and a minimum of 30 days for a new employee to be classified.

average $2.16 an hour, Klingensmith said.

Employees were receiving an average rate is anywhere between 25 and 30 cents lower than is being paid employees working in similar plants, according to Klingensmith.

Company officials refused to make any comment on the strike. The plant, which makes metal stampings for the automotive industry, is at 4755 Rochester Rd.

Rochester Clubs to Hear Foreign Student Speak

ROCHESTER — A varied program has been prepared for the annual dessert luncheon and joint meeting of the Junior and Senior Women's Clubs of Rochester at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Avon Park Pavilion.

Patricia DeMoree, Rochester's exchange student from The Netherlands, will be a special guest, highlighting the afternoon program with her impressions of an American high school student's life.

Also, "Streamlined '60," a satire on the State Constitution, will be presented by the Previsional League of Women Voters of Rochester.

Program cochairmen are Mrs. Ben Linquist of the junior club and Mrs. Harley Banwell of the senior club.

Men and women, all members of Southeastern Michigan Fruit Growers Assn., attended the annual meeting to learn of improved methods of spraying fruit, the danger of improper spraying relative to consumer use, and how the government detects poisonous insecticides.

Several top-ranking experts from various Michigan State Agricultural departments were guests speakers. After their presentations, a question and answer period was held.

Beginning at 10 a.m., T. C. Maraviglia, chief inspector of the Detroit District of the Food and Drug Administration, talked on "Residue Problems and the Role of the Fruit Grower in Avoiding Troubles."

He told the group that all pesticide labels are registered with the federal government, and this is indicated on the labels of germ-killing products.

"Fruit growers who follow the use of the insecticide implicitly will have the type of products OK'd by government inspectors," he said.

Maraviglia explained how and why an inspector investigates spraying operations of Michigan fruit growers. Many times poisonous spray accidentally drifts into nearby crops, and it is one of the duties of a government inspector to check this area for consumer protection, he said.

Edward Klos, of the department of botany and plant pathology at MSU spoke on "Consider These Fungicides for 1960." Oakland County Horticultural Agent Wayne Siefert told about the leaf analysis program for Michigan Fruit Crops.

Highlight of the day, was a panel discussion titled "Practical Use to Reduce Operational Expenses." Lane Rushmore, Macomb County horticultural agent, was the moderator for a spirited exchange of ideas.

William Kniffin, Washtenaw County, is president of the organization; Joe Verellen, vice president; Stanley Peabody, secretary; and Leonard Ritzler is treasurer.

Yesterday's meeting in Waterford Township was the first of four spring meeting programs scheduled this year. Others will be held March 2 at Hart, March 3 at South Haven, and March 9 at Traverse City.

TRIPLE TAKE—An exciting combination of the salad, meat and vegetable courses is the "Tomato Shrimpscoop." Scoop out the tomato, scoop in the shrimp stuffing—add a hard roll

Bake Salmon in Egg Sauce

Salmon steaks are pink, pretty and popular. They're nearly perfect, nutritionally speaking, too. Among the finest of protein foods, salmon also contains important minerals and generous quantities of Vitamins A and D, also the B vitamins, thiamine and riboflavin, all necessary to health and well-being.

To make use of this excellent food from cold Pacific and Atlantic waters—and to hurry summer, along—copy a New Englander's Fourth of July menu, and bake salmon steaks with a creamy egg sauce. Salmon steaks may be bought fresh or frozen. If they are frozen, it's best to let them thaw on refrigerator shelf before baking.

Salmon in Egg Sauce
1 pound salmon steaks (about 1/2-inch thick)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup grated mellow American cheese
1/2 cup water chestnuts (Chinese)
Arrange salmon steaks in buttered baking dish, 10 by 6 inches. Melt butter or margarine in a saucepan. Add flour and stir to blend. Stir in salt, pepper and mustard. Gradually add milk stirring until smooth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened.

Four sauce over salmon steaks and bake at 375 degrees (moderate oven) about 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Garnish with sliced eggs and parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Hearty Soup Meals Good for February

Do February days leave you cold? Try a warm-up with hot bean or pea soup. From a can, a serving of bean or pea soup will cost 4 to 6 cents. Do-it-yourself soup makers can serve bean or pea soup for 2 to 3 cents a serving. Adding a little something to the canned soup? Maybe the family will like soup with bits of cooked ham or luncheon meat.

When you buy dry beans or peas... remember they are good keepers. You may want to buy a large bag, use what you need, close the bag and store it in a cool, dry place until you are ready for beans or peas again.

Take the "Brrr!" out of an extra bracing, blowy morning with a hearty—not heavy—breakfast. These Corned Beef Hash Cups accompanied by hot toast, sliced oranges and a beverage will be the warm-up needed to start the day. The cups, slices of corned beef encased with bacon strips, may be made in advance. Then, add the eggs and bake while breakfast is ready.

Corned Beef Hash 'n' Bacon Cups
1 (1-pound) can corned beef hash
1 slice ham
4 medium eggs, beaten
Remove corned beef from can and cut it into 4 (1-inch) slices. Place in a shallow baking pan. Wrap 2 slices of bacon around hash; fasten with toothpicks. Hollow out the center of slice. With the scooped-out hash form a 1/2-inch rim. Fill hollow with beaten eggs. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 25 minutes. Yield: 4 Corned Beef Hash 'n' Bacon Cups.

Hot Filling Is Surprise in Fresh Tomato Dish

Pity the poor Andes Indians. They thought tomatoes were poison and used them only for ornament. For ages tomatoes were cultivated for the decorative qualities of the bright red fruit and the vivid green vine.

Now we know tomatoes are not only good to look at but also good to eat and good for you.

Nature stuffed them with vitamins and minerals. An imaginative housewife can stuff them with other goodies to enhance their taste and nutritive value.

In Florida, where annually more than seven million bushels of tomatoes are grown to supplement the nation's winter salad bowl, a great deal of variety in the use of this plentiful and versatile vegetable can be found. It may turn up on the dining table in the form of a tempting juice appetizer, tangy catsup or chili sauce reliable pan. Blend flour and seasonings. Combine egg yolk and one cup of stock and add to flour mix. Cook on low heat, stirring constantly until it thickens and comes to a boil. Carefully stir in lemon juice, sherry, shrimp, water chestnuts, mushrooms and cheese, completely combining each ingredient before another is added.

Sit well and simmer five minutes. The flavor will be improved by cooking a day ahead, leaving in refrigerator overnight and reheating when ready to use. Tomatoes should be prepared only a short while in advance. When drained, place on lettuce leaf and fill with piping hot shrimp stuffing. Garnish with paprika and sprig of parsley.

Serve immediately.

Pork Must Be Done
Best way to tell whether pork chops are cooked: make a small slit in the meat near the bone. The meat should look gray-white; if it looks pink, the chops need to cook some more.

Now It's Lamb in Spicy Sauce

Lamb riblets baked in a piquant sweet-sour sauce will make a delicious main course for your next family or company dinner. The sweet-sour sauce spiced with ginger permeates the lamb and provides a delightful flavor that will have your friends asking for the recipe.

There's no trick to this dish.

HOT FRUIT COMPOTE—Four favorite fruits combine to make a tempting compote: pineapple slices, apricots, oranges and dark sweet cherries. It's a delicious and different dessert.

Hot Compote Is Truly Different

As a homemaker, did you make a resolution to plan more interesting menus in 1960? It makes eating more fun for your family. Why not try a new way of using familiar foods or a new food a couple of times a week?

You've always used canned fruit. But how often do you combine two or more of these fruits into a compote for dessert? Serve it hot for a truly different dish.

Hot Fruit Compote
1 (No. 2) can pineapple slices
1 (No. 302) can whole apricots
2 oranges
1 cup mixed syrup from pineapple and apricots
1 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon butter or margarine
1/2 cup drained or frozen dark sweet cherries
2 tablespoons of fruit liqueur, if desired

Drain pineapple and apricots; have syrup. Put fruits in shallow oven-to-table baking dish. Grate or coarsely shred peel of one orange over fruit. Squeeze its juice and mix with the mixed fruit syrup, honey and cornstarch.

Peel and section 2 oranges, add to fruits. Cover all with honey mixture. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) about 20 minutes. Baste frequently. Add cherries and a little of their syrup. (If you want the sauce golden and clear, save the cherry syrup for a delicious molded salad.)

Heat about 10 minutes longer. Dash with the liqueur, if desired. Serve warm with whipped or sour cream flavored with shredded orange rind and cinnamon.

Swedish Style Meat Cakes Use Mashed Spuds

Swedish Meat Cakes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup finely diced onion
1/2 cup finely diced beef
1 cup mashed potatoes
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 egg
1 cup cold water

Heat 1 tablespoon of the butter in 10-inch iron skillet; add onion and cook lightly. Mix onion, beef, mashed potatoes, bread crumbs salt and pepper; mix in egg, then water.

Shape mixture in 26 small round cakes. Heat remaining 2 tablespoons butter in skillet and brown meat cakes in it in two lots so as not to crowd. (Add more butter for browning if necessary or desired.)

By the time cakes are browned they will probably be cooked through. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Use instant mashed potato in this recipe, making up an entire envelope according to package directions but adding 1 tablespoon water. The potatoes remaining after the 1 cup is measured may be refrigerated and used another way.

Frozen Corn Gives Body to Winter Soups

The genuine sweetness of frozen corn gives a special goodness to the two soups whose recipes we give here. Both soups are designed for chilly winter days and for meatless menus. They are easy to make, but have the kind of flavor blends that give an impression of longtime pot-stirring and frequent-tasting in the home kitchen.

The Cream of Corn and Cheese Soup is a delicious starter for a ladies' luncheon planned around a colorful fruit salad. The Corn and Oyster Chowder is a meal in itself, especially mysterious and intriguing in flavor because of the unique joining in the soup pot of frozen condensed oyster stew, as well as frozen French fried potatoes with frozen corn.

Recipe of Corn and Cheese Soup
1 package frozen cut corn
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup grated sharp cheese
1/2 cup frozen cut corn just until tender in 1/4 cup water to which 1/2 teaspoon salt has been added. Melt butter or margarine in it lightly. Add instant minced onion, salt and evaporated milk and stir over low heat until thickened.

Blend in grated cheese. Add frozen cooked corn (do not drain) and pepper to taste. Serve hot. Makes 1 1/2 quarts soup.

Frozen Corn and Oyster Chowder
1 10-oz. package frozen cut corn
1 can frozen condensed oyster stew
1 8-oz. package French fried potatoes—cup diced celery
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup grated sharp cheese
1/2 cup frozen cut corn just until tender in 1/4 cup water to which 1/2 teaspoon salt has been added. Melt butter or margarine in it lightly. Add instant minced onion, salt and evaporated milk and stir over low heat until thickened.

Remove frozen cut corn, frozen condensed oyster stew and frozen French fried potatoes from zero storage. Prepare diced celery and minced onion. Combine cut corn, celery, onion, water and salt in saucepan and cook together approximately 10 minutes or until just tender.

Melt butter or margarine in large saucepan and stir in flour. Add the frozen soup and the milk and stir while heating until slightly thickened. Dice the frozen French fried potatoes (after they have defrosted enough to be easily cut) and add them with the hot cooked vegetables to the hot soup mixture.

Heat thoroughly and add salt and pepper to taste. Makes four generous servings or eight cup-size servings.

To serve with this soup, prepare cheese-centered frozen biscuits. Just defrost frozen biscuits at room temperature for a few minutes until they are soft enough to cut through the center. Place preferred kind of cheese in the middle and bake biscuits as directed on package.

Cold Meat Is Better With Sweet Slaw

Sweet Slaw
1 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1 cup cider vinegar
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup mustard
1/2 cup prepared mustard
1/2 cup salt
1/2 cup cracked black pepper
1/2 cup paprika
1/2 cup fine knife-shredded green cabbage (about 1/2 head)

Stir undiluted evaporated milk, vinegar, sugar, mustard, salt, pepper and paprika together until blended. Toss with cabbage. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Breakfast Cake Orange Flavored

Hate to bake? Don't believe in treating your family to oven-fresh cake? Then read no further.

Those of you who are looking for an easy to make, aromatic cake suitable for breakfast will be delighted with this recipe. It calls for fresh orange juice, so plentiful now in those big, thick-skinned and virtually seedless Florida Valencia, so it has a true, fresh fruit flavor.

Orange Breakfast Cake
2 to 3 large Florida oranges
1/2 cup butter or margarine

Finely chopped dates give it a pleasing chewiness, and best of all, it is a quick bread—no waiting for dough to rise, no careful rolling. Ingredients are quickly and easily combined and turned into a baking pan and baked in a moderate oven forty minutes.

A picnic shoulder may be baked as you would a regular ham; allow 2 1/2 hours at 325 degrees for a picnic weighing 5 pounds. If you use an oven thermometer it should read 162 degrees. Score the surface, spread with a cup of brown sugar mixed with 3 teaspoons of dry mustard and then glaze in a hot (400 degrees) oven.

Baking Picnic Hams

Sift together flour, soda and salt. Add alternately to creamed mixture with orange juice. Turn into a greased 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 40 minutes. Cool; cut into squares. Yield: 12 servings.

Classes Educate Local Diabetics

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Suppose you were 12 years old and discovered you had diabetes. You might think your life ruined. But it needn't be.

Carol Ann Johnson, daughter of the Vernon Johnsons of East Walton boulevard, is a young diabetic. But because she is receiving competent medical attention and is learning how to care for herself, she will live as long as any 12-year-old — and be healthier perhaps.

Contradictory? Not at all. Diabetics live such wholesome lives and eat so well that they can look forward to a healthy old age.

Because the county health department felt that diabetics needed help with their problems a series of classes was organized in 1958. Now five series are offered each year. The one in Pontiac has just ended. These classes are taught jointly by a public health nurse and a public health nutritionist. Participants must have their doctor's permission to join.

Carol, the young girl in the picture, is only one of Oakland county residents benefiting by these classes. We attended part of a session last week. It was conducted by a friend with whom we have worked on food problems for some time, Annabel Rickard. Miss Rickard is the county nutritionist.

EATING TO LIVE — Carol Ann Johnson, 335 East Walton Blvd. (left) samples a bite of Cherry Upside Down Cake, while Mrs. Arthur Jepson of 3506 Richmond Dr., Watkins Lake, picks out a strawberry from a pack of unsweetened frozen berries. Both were members of the latest class for diabetics at the Oakland County Health Department.

Her field is, of course, food. At each meeting she had charge of part of the discussion and brought in samples of acceptable foods for all to taste.

Up until a few years ago diabetics had to weigh their food on special scales. Some still do. But most diabetics nowadays use the Exchange Lists. A pamphlet put out by the American Diabetic Association explains these lists as "lists of food that can be substituted one for another on a diabetic's diet." In this way the diabetic can vary his menu almost endlessly.

Some foods may be eaten freely without counting them in the day's diet. Among these are clear tea and coffee, clear broth, fat-free bouillon, unsweetened gelatin, cranberries and pickles.

A good many recipe booklets are now being published to help this large number of Americans whose diets are restricted. Not only are diabetics using them, but also some individuals on reducing diets.

RECOMMENDED

One of the best of these, according to Miss Rickard, is "A Cookbook for Diabetics," published by the ADA. For those who find this Exchange idea difficult to follow the ADA puts out a leaflet called "Meal Planning with Exchange Lists." There are lots of diagrams in this latter book.

Many readers will be interested to know that one producer of frozen strawberries is now packing them without sugar. They are left whole and packed in plastic bags. This is the second unsweetened frozen fruit; we have been able to get blueberries for some time.

Orange Pecan Cookies

1/4 cup shortening
1 egg
2 teaspoons Sucaryl solution
2 tablespoons unsweetened frozen orange juice concentrate 2 tablespoons water
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder

Sucaryl solution, then frozen orange concentrate diluted with water. Beat well. Mix and sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add dry ingredients to first mixture; add vanilla and chopped pecans.

Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake 15-18 minutes at 375 degrees. Makes 30 cookies.

Each cookie has 4 Carb. Gm.; 1 Prot. Gm.; 3 Fat Gm.; and 41 Calories. Three cookies may be exchanged for: 1 milk exchange.

Bacon and Egg Salad

Ever concoct a bacon and egg salad? Add crisply-cooked, crumbled bacon to salad greens, sieved hard-cooked egg to the salad dressing. Season with freshly-ground pepper.

Cheese Hides in Pie Crust

Delicious enough to please any gourmet you know is apple pie with a brand-new twist — the "built-in" flavor of rich cheese. A truly quick and easy dessert, it's "Spicy Cheese-Apple Pie." Secret of its special good flavor is in the crust, made of inch-square cheese crackers, finely crushed and spiced with cinnamon. Here's how to make both crust and filling:

Spicy Cheese Crust
1 1/2 cups finely crushed cheese crackers
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
Pour crumbs into bowl and blend in sugar, cinnamon and melted butter. Press mixture to the bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) for 8 minutes. Chill crust.

Apple Filling
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup apple juice
2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2-lb. 4-oz. can sliced apples for pie
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Combine brown sugar, egg, juice, tapioca, nutmeg and salt in saucepan over direct heat. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Add sliced apples; reheat to boiling, stirring occasionally. Cool to room temperature. Then fold in half of whipped cream and pour into cheese cracker crumb shell. Flute a border of whipped cream around edge of pie, using remaining whipped cream. Sprinkle top with additional nutmeg, if desired. Chill several hours before cutting. Makes 1-9 inch pie.

Broil Sardines for Sandwich

When the school bell sounds the call to lunch, it's time to answer with Maine Sardines. Kids love nothing better than to come home to a hearty, appetizing lunch. And the delicious, meaty little fish from the cool waters of Maine are excellent on school canteen menus. Particularly on these frosty days, our Maine Sardine bake on a bun, served with mugs of piping hot soup, supply your children with all the energy building protein they need. And they will especially love the way this dish is served, grown-up fashion, with salad and fruit on the side.

So, be wise and economical. Serve Maine Sardines on your next lunch time menu.

Sardine Bake On A Bun
2 cans Maine sardines, drained (4 oz. each)
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Salt and pepper to taste
Roll and Creamy cheddar-cheese spread

Roll Maine Sardines in mixed melted butter, lemon juice and seasonings. Place in single layer on shallow pan; broil quickly about 3 minutes. No need to turn the little fish, just be sure they are heated through and piping hot. Have buns ready spread with a thin layer of soft pimiento cheese.

Place hot sardines on buns and serve at once. If you plan to hold these sandwiches for any length of time, prepare as above and fold into a square of heavy foil; keep hot in slow oven. Makes 4-5 buns.

A wonderful flavor combination with tomato soup, vegetable soup and cream of celery soup. Buns may be toasted, if desired. When Sardine Bake on a Bun is planned for service to adults, try spreading the toasted or plain bun with a mixture of butter, grated Parmesan cheese and a little hot mustard — it's hot and flavorful.

99 Per Cent Were Never Drugged

In answer to many of your questions, approximately 99 per cent of the Nation's chickens have never received the drug DIETHYLSTILBESTROL and none will be receiving it now that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has banned its use for poultry. DIETHYLSTILBESTROL has been used only on young chickens that were raised to be sold as CAPONETTES. CAPONS should not be confused with CAPONETTES.

CAPONS are birds which have not been treated with DIETHYLSTILBESTROL, but the CAPONETTES were treated to give them similar characteristics to the CAPONS. Consumer's can continue to buy regular Broilers, Fowls, Roasting chickens and Capons with the knowledge that they have not been treated with DIETHYLSTILBESTROL.

Hold Your Head High, Says Abby

They'll Find Rumor to Be Foolish Gossip

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am so heart-sick over what has happened to me I don't know what to do. All my friends at school (I am a sophomore in high) are telling me there is a terrible rumor going around about me. But no one will tell me what it is or who said it. How can I get to the bottom of it? Everyone says they are sworn to secrecy. What does a girl do when she has done nothing wrong but gets a bad reputation anyway?

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of a wedding shower for a MAN? Well, I have just been invited to one. (I am a woman.) This fellow in our office is getting married and someone in the office dreamed up the idea of giving him a shower. They told us not to spend too much money, but to bring something sort of cute and suggestive. What should I take?

DEAR GIRL: Keep it clean and bring a bar of soap.

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything I can do about the way my daughter-in-law keeps house? She washes a cup and saucer only when they are all dirty and she needs one. I have seen her go to the kitchen sink and rinse out my son's shirt and then she spreads it out (wet) on the kitchen table over egg shells, bread crumbs and dirty dishes and presses it a bit. It makes me ill to see the way they are living.

My son wasn't raised like this, Abby. He never complains and you never hear a cross word between them. Can a man forget his early training in two years of marriage? I could go on and on, but what's the use? How can I help her?

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of a wedding shower for a MAN? Well, I have just been invited to one. (I am a woman.) This fellow in our office is getting married and someone in the office dreamed up the idea of giving him a shower. They told us not to spend too much money, but to bring something sort of cute and suggestive. What should I take?

DEAR GIRL: Keep it clean and bring a bar of soap.

DEAR CONCERNED: You can help her, by teaching her—if she ASKS you. Don't volunteer. If your son is happy, close your eyes and let your mouth follow suit.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ENVIOUS": "Don't envy her. You'd look "electrifying" too, if everything you had on was charged.

Suggest Hours to Guests

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: We have a very dear friend who is to be married soon. She has lots of friends, old and young, whom we would like to invite. We have a nice house but not large enough to accommodate all the guests at the same time. Will you please tell me how to word the invitations so that the guests will know that the party is to be a come-and-go one and not remain throughout the afternoon.

Answer: If you invite guests to come in between certain specified hours—say four to six o'clock, it should be taken to mean that guests are expected to come in any time between these hours, stay a short while and leave. Some guests may come early and stay late but a majority of them will "come and go."

Dear Mrs. Post: My name is Mary Jones and I am soon to be married to a man named McDougall. In having my linens marked, do I use the initials M.J.M. or is it necessary to have them marked M.J.McD. I have had various opinions on this and would like to know what is correct.

Answer: Most correctly your initials will be M.J.McD., but as this makes five initials which is really too many to use in marking your linens, I suggest leaving out the J. and using M.McD.

Dear Mrs. Post: I notice that so often on a bus a man will wait a moment for the woman sitting with him to start to the door ahead of him. I'm sure this is not best manners. Isn't it more polite for him to go first so he can help her off the bus?

Answer: Yes, this is one of the occasions when a gentleman precedes a lady in order to make way for her through the crowded aisle. He then gets off the bus and turning, offers her his hand.

Quick Coffee Cake Has Sugary Baked-on Top

Pontiac Press Home Editor

How about a piece of warm coffee cake as dessert or a treat with coffee any time during the day? This is the sort of batter you can make at night and store in the refrigerator to bake for breakfast.

Today's cook is Mrs. Emile Sauve. The Sauves have one boy. Mrs. Sauve likes to experiment with recipes and to sew.

2 eggs, unbeaten
1 cup milk

Blend until all ingredients are well mixed. It will be a stiff batter. Spread in greased 8x12 pan. Cover with the following topping. Bake 35-45 minutes at 350 degrees. This is an old family recipe.

Topping:

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Blend well.

Bright Outfit
Perks Up Spirits
on Rainy Day

(NEA) — The foggy, rainy days of winter can wreak havoc with your appearance unless you're prepared for them. In your closet, you should have a neat raincoat and matching hat, a pair of rubber boots or rubbers, a pretty umbrella in a color that matches or harmonizes with your raincoat.

Don't save your old clothes for a rainy day. This is depressing to your spirits and those of other people. Try to have your rainy day costume in a bright color; the weather is dark enough. Use a spray net to hold the coat in your hair and keep it neat. Have a small package of cleansing tissues in your handbag to wipe off splashes and spots.

And don't complain about the weather to everyone within earshot. A rainy day can be cozy if you approach it in the right spirit.

Tumble Clothes

(UPI) — After taking garments out of moth-ball storage, tumble them in an automatic dryer with no heat for a few minutes. That will help remove the odor of the moth balls.

BRENDA J. DANIELS

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Daniels of Midland street, Drayton Plains, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Brenda Joyce to Gerald Lance Tyler, whose parents the Glenn Ellis Tylers are of Tubbs road, Drayton Plains.

JOANNE LEE TODD

Plans for an October wedding are being arranged by Joanne Lee Todd, whose engagement to Paul Franklin is announced by her parents, the Horace Melvin Todds of East Yale avenue. Her fiancé is the son of Mrs. Elsie R. Franklin of Chamberlain street.

LUCY MAY LOWERY

The engagement of their daughter Lucy May to Robert James Asch is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bruce Lowery of Mann road, Waterford Township. Her fiancé's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Max Asch of West Maple street, Milford.

SHIRLEY J. HAYWARD

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd M. Hayward of Grandie avenue have announced the betrothal of their daughter Shirley Jean to Robert Fain Jimerson, son of the George Jimersons of Flint. Her fiancé is a pharmacy senior at Ferris Institute, Big Rapids.

ELIZABETH M. WARRILOW

July nuptials are planned by Elizabeth M. Warrilow and Allen R. Housekeeper, son of James Housekeeper of Harrison street, and the late Mrs. Housekeeper. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur H. Warrilow of Going street and the late Mr. Warrilow.

KAREN LEE HALL

A May 7 altar date has been named by Karen Lee Hall, daughter of Mrs. William E. Hall of Ann street, Birmingham, and the late Mr. Hall. Her fiancé, Keith D. Curtis, is the son of Mrs. Leonard Curtis of Little Farms, White Lake Township, and the late Mr. Curtis.

Sales Boom for Spray-On Perfumes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Aerosol perfumes, almost unknown seven years ago, have boomed into a multi-million-dollar business.

The first spray-on perfume was marketed in 1946, but was not successful because the container was not as attractive as fancy glass bottles. And the cost was high. Then in 1954, two aerosol colognes were marketed and caught on.

In 1959, spray-on scents accounted for $85 million in sales, reported Chemical Week. That was 77 per cent of the $110 million yearly fragrance market.

When you are baking a loaf of bread, be sure to seal the ends of the loaf shape together well by pinching the creases in the dough together with your fingers.

Bride, Groom
Are Protected

(UPI)—For the bride the sun does not shine on, there's a white umbrella large enough to cover both bride and bridegroom.

Clear plastic provides an enclosure to the ground, and a plastic bag is included for the bride's slippers, enabling her to slip on rain shoes. The um-hrella was developed by wedding planner Mrs. Winifred Brady of San Francisco.

Bubbly Beauty

(NEA)—A little girl learns to be clean with ease if you teach her to lather her face so well that when she brushes across her lips and exhales, she can blow beautiful soap bubbles. You may never get her out of the bathroom.

High Waist Ideal as Camouflage
for Spare Tire

The high waist is made for the figure with a spare tire, says designer Mollie Parnis. Choose a dress with a drawing or soft gathers at the raised waist and with fullness at the front of the skirt.

If the bustline is large, the high line should be placed a little above the base of the bust and should be gathered. Another way to disguise the ample figure is to buy a size larger dress and take in the back and shoulders. Miss Parnis said. Especially flattering are Grecian drapery styles, she added.

Heart Disease Top Killer

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

While the figures concerning deaths from heart or circulatory diseases are grim, the picture has its bright side.

For instance, here are five facts which the American Heart Association thinks you should know about heart disease.

1. Some forms of heart disease can be prevented — a few can be cured.
2. All heart cases can be cared for best if diagnosed early.
3. Almost every heart condition can be helped by proper treatment.
4. Most heart patients can keep on working — very often on the same job.
5. Your "symptoms" may or may not mean heart disease.

Don't guess — don't worry. See your doctor!

So much has been learned about the management and prevention of heart disease and a tremendous amount of research is being carried on constantly. The heart association spends at least half of all the money it receives from its annual Heart Fund campaign in a search for new facts concerning the vascular diseases.

Men and women today who have heart trouble should not despair for there is a great deal of help for them. The heart association maintains rehabilitation services to help you get back into the swing and clinics for discovering how much and what kind of work you can do. It will advise you about the care of rheumatic children and help in many other ways.

Fear of heart trouble or another attack is one of the greatest hazards, so live with confidence but do give yourself sensible care and regular checkups.

Railroads Brag of Record Low Fatality Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Assn. of American Railroads had a record low number of passenger fatalities last year.

There was one train accident death, the AAR said. Domestic airlines reported 252 deaths, the AAR noted.

The association said U.S. railroads carried 225,000,000 passengers a total of 22,000,000,000 passenger miles in 1959.

A passenger died as result of a train accident and nine other passengers died in "train service" mishaps, such as cases in which persons were killed attempting to board or leave moving trains.

"This indicates a traveler could have covered 2,200,000 miles—equal to 100,000 trips around the world — without fatal accident," the AAR said.

Suddenly Patriotism Is Bad Word With Teens

Editor's Note: This being the great patriot's day, Eugene Gilbert has conducted a survey of America's young people to try and find out how patriotic they are. Unless you feel their responses were lined up with the usual teenager bravado, the results may shock you.

By EUGENE GILBERT

Something has happened to patriotism among teen-agers.

Either the love of country of America's young people has withered in the atmosphere of disillusionment following two wars to end war, or it lies dormant, awaiting some crisis to awaken it.

It seems strange, however, that it could sleep through the recurring jangle of cold war crises. Yet this fact is irrefutable:

More than two-thirds of 687 American teen-agers answered "no" when we asked, "Is patriotism an important part of your life?"

Ninety-six per cent put family

before patriotism, 88 per cent religion.

These reactions may be understandable. But 82 per cent said patriotism is less important than sports, 88 per cent said dating outranks it, and 90 per cent said clothing is more important.

This attitude is perhaps partially explained by a 13-year-old St. Louis girl, who said: "I just never think about it."

Rose Michael, a 17-year-old Chicago girl who took a stab at explaining it, said:

"Patriotism is less important in the average person's life because the United States is so well established."

SELF BEFORE COUNTRY

But to John Angus Campbell, 17, of Portland, Ore., one of the minority to whom patriotism is important, "democracy is worth preserving."

Unfortunately, few seemed to agree.

We asked this admittedly tough question: "If you could do a great benefit to your country by sacrificing the well-being of a loved one, would you do it?"

Only 9 per cent said "yes."

"Something as artificial as one's nation is never worth that much," said a 13-year-old St. Louis boy.

"I'm selfish," was the candid reply of a 17-year-old Salt Lake City girl. And a 16-year-old Philadelphia girl matched her when she answered, "I'm a coward."

Another Philadelphia girl, age 17, explained: "I would have to live with the loved one, and the country would soon forget me, anyway."

But a 15-year-old Omaha girl, a lonely voice in the wilderness of complacency, said: "I think the well-being of anyone is worth being sacrificed for the good of several millions."

While they admit they are short on love for their country, the teen-agers acknowledge that they are fond of the good life they have here.

FLAG STIRS RESPECT

Fifty-five per cent of the youngsters — more girls than boys — said flag ceremonies and the national anthem stir feelings of respect in them.

"They make you feel you are a part of something," said 17-year-old Sandra Vinyard of Mount Pleasant, Tex.

"Another war connotation," is what a 13-year-old Philadelphia boy called them.

Sixty-nine per cent of the young people — again more girls than boys — said they are embarrassed if someone with them ridicules patriotic ceremonies.

My Jobs Volunteer?
Not by a Long Shot!

By RUTH MILLETT

Every time I find myself ringing doorbells asking for money for a fund-raising campaign, serving coffee and orange juice at the local blood bank, or starting in to address postcards for a local candidate I've promised to help elect, I get to wondering:

"Why do they call this kind of thing 'volunteer' work?"

So far as I can remember there have been mighty few times when I have ever volunteered for any kind of job. And yet, through the years, I've done just about every kind of "volunteer" work there is to do.

It usually happens like this: A charming voice on the telephone asks me if I won't give "just a little" of my time to a worthy cause.

Vainly I fumble around for an excuse that will get me off the hook, but nothing I can come up with impresses my caller.

HAS AIL THE ANSWERS

She has a ready-made answer for every dodge and every conceivable excuse, probably because she has heard them all before many, many times.

So the call ends with my agreeing reluctantly to "do my share," and I'm hooked again. And the mail starts coming, giving me last-minute instructions, packets of work material, and so on, each letter beginning: "Dear Volunteer Worker."

I'll bet the country is full of women just like me who are running themselves ragged doing "volunteer work" they wouldn't have volunteered to do in a million years.

We are probably marked as women who can't say "No" to a good cause or to the persuasive voice of a do-gooder. Workers we are, but "volunteer workers" we definitely are NOT.

Red Wing goalie Terry Sawchuk is expected to be released from University Hospital in Ann Arbor Friday or Saturday and it is doubtful he would see action over the weekend in the nets for the Wings.

Weldon Olson, forward from Marquette, Mich., on the U.S. hockey team, was given the okay to play in the first game tomorrow after being ill for several days.

Thus far 19 cars have been entered in the 50th race at the Indianapolis Speedway. Latest entries are Jim Rathmann and Tony Bettenhausen, a pair of veterans.

The Troy Little Football League has elected Don Esenberg president for the 1960 season with other officers including Louis Tolkie, vice president; Charles Carpenter, treasurer, and Oliver Schroeder, secretary.

Tickets for the National Open Golf Championship to be held in Denver June 16-18 has already reached $140,000. Ticket orders can be obtained by writing to USGA Championship, 800 Washington St., Denver 3, Colo.

March 4-5 are the dates for area prep league swimming meets. The Saginaw Valley will meet at Arthur Hill. The North Suburban teams will be at Fitzgerald and the Eastern Michigan League at Kimball.

Rams Move Up to 2nd Round in JV Tourney

St. Frederick High's undefeated junior varsity cagers last night moved into 2nd round action in the Detroit Catholic tourney. Junior Rams crushed Detroit St. Thomas, 52-42, now have two more wins to success, leading to a title. Win was their 14th.

Pete Vasquez, 18, and Jim Schachern, 16, led scorers. A 23-37 free throw effort, again 6-20 was the deciding factor. Game was close up to the finale when Rams exploded with a 20-11 count.

Rams' varsity plays at Detroit Nativity gymnasium on way of Woodward to Warren, turn left on Warren to McChesney, then left to 5000 (several blocks).

Southfield Beats PNH Tankers; League in Tie

NORTH SUBURBAN STANDINGS

Thurston	4	1	Northern	3
Fitzgerald	3	1	Union	2
Southfield	5	3	Edison	0

The North Suburban 5-11 League moved into a first place tie last night as Fitzgerald handed Thurston its first loss in 15 meets, 55-41, with four pool and 9 varsity records being set.

At Pontiac Northern's pool, the Huskies gave Southfield a good meet before losing, 54-42.

Larry took four firsts with Bill Ratliff winning the breaststroke in 1:16.4 and the diving event with 186.5 points.

Fred Klein scored a victory in the 50 yard freestyle in 2:36.6 and the Huskie freestyle relay team made up of Lee Barrie, Paul Mak, Jim Tuttle and Lou Cascardi won in 1:51.7.

Jim McIntosh, listed as the state's top backslider, had a time of 1:14.4.

Hayes Takes 3 Firsts in Dual Meet at Ypsi

YPSILANTI (P)—Hayes Jones won three events and anchored the winning mile relay team as Eastern Michigan beat the University of Detroit 65½ to 60½ in indoor track.

Eastern Michigan won eight of 12 events in the dual meet.

Jones captured the 65-yard low hurdles, the 65-yard dash, the mile relay, Jones was 30 yards behind the pack in the 400 yard and topped the Detroit runner at the wire.

OVER THE TOP — Sixto Rodriguez of Puerto Rico takes a spill over the ropes in the 5th round of his bout with Henry Hank of Detroit at Chicago Stadium last night. Referee Bernard Weissman halted the bout in the 6th round with Hank getting the victory. Later it was learned Hank suffered a fractured right hand.

Yost Wants Sizeable Increase From Tigers

NEW YORK (U) — Eddie Yost is anxious to go to spring training with the Detroit Tigers, but he's not moving an inch until he receives a sizeable salary increase. "After the year I had I figure I'm entitled to a good raise."

He said today, "They've offered me only a little one. I talked to Rick Ferrell (Tigers' general manager) last week and we were very close to an agreement. Then they sent me another contract, but it still was not high enough. I'm not going anywhere until I get what I want."

Yost, who received about $25,000 last season, is one of several Tigers still unsigned. The list also includes Harvey Kuen, the American league batting champion, and Al Kaline, the runner-up.

"If this were Washington I could understand it," Yost said, but the attendance in Detroit was very good. "We moved from fifth on Warren to McChesney, then left to 5000 (several blocks)."

Tucson Open Starts Today

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The winner of the $22,500 Tucson Open golf tournament that starts today is going to knock at least 16 strokes off par, the host pro believes.

That would give him a 72-hole total of 264 or better, the lowest of the winter tour to date and probably one of the lowest scores for a PGA event in 1960.

There are at least a dozen in the field of 144 pros rated capable of averaging 68 for four consecutive rounds.

Junior Wings Play 2nd Game of Playoffs

DETROIT (U) — The Detroit Junior Wings will meet the Windsor Jr. Hawks tonight at Olympia Stadium in the Wings' second game of the Junior "B" playoffs of the Border Cities Hockey League.

The Detroit club won the regular season title in the border cities league, and with Windsor and Chatham — the other two junior "B" clubs in the six-league — are playing a double round robin tournament.

The Junior Wings lost the opening playoff game 5-3 to Chatham, in Detroit.

Wavering offside in stride is a prevalent fault. It's the distinguishing mark between average bowlers and experts. The top-flight bowler varies a particle just to finish. What's his because of what he does at the very end. It's how he sets himself unchangingly for the first step. He picks a finishing spot at the foul line; then moves straight on into his stride for it.

Many years ago, I extended my left foot, as sketch shows, and I've found this line indicator method so successful in teaching since that I pass it along for trial.

That's Central Target Friday on PCH Court

PNH Owns I-L Crown, Now Chiefs Eye More Valley Honors

By BILL CORNWELL

Pontiac Northern won a basketball championship a week ago, now it's Pontiac Central's turn to do the same thing.

The northside Huskies moved out Walled Lake last Friday to win the Inter-Lakes title in their 1st year of league competition and 2nd on the hardwoods.

Completing the lock schedule will be merely routine for Northern, which goes to Farmington tomorrow evening and ends the regular season at home the following Friday against Waterford.

Central gets a golden opportunity to bring the city of Pontiac two cage titles in the same year tomorrow night in a Saginaw Valley Conference showdown with Flint Northern at the PCH gymnasium.

If you don't get your tickets early, you may find yourself standing in line or even possibly being turned away at the door Friday when PCH and the Vikings collide in one of the state's top weekend high school games.

The Chiefs, determined to win the elusive Saginaw Valley crown, currently lead the race with a 7-1 record. The Vikings from Flint hold down 2nd place with a 6-2 mark as the title chase enters the final two weeks.

Northern is the only Valley school remaining which still can snatch the crown away from the Chiefs, but the Vikings' hopes for a co-championship are much better than their chances for an outright title.

Coach Art Van Ryzin's PCH cagers can clinch their 2nd straight title by conquering Northern, regardless of the outcome of next week's season-ending SVC battle with Saginaw High on the Pontiac campus.

A Northern victory here, however, would force the Chiefs to fight for a co-championship on the last Friday of the 1959-60 campaign.

If Northern upsets PCH, the two teams will be tied for the Valley lead and the Vikings would be heavily favored to defeat weak Bay City Central on their own floor in the finale while the Chiefs are struggling with tough Saginaw.

No, needless to say, this is the pivotal contest for PCH. This is the game that Van Ryzin and his warriors must win. Obviously, the same holds true for the Flint quintet.

The Chiefs scored an impressive 56-41 triumph over Northern on Jan. 15 at Flint. The Vikings have not lost a decision since that time and they invade this city with a five-game winning streak.

PCH, Michigan's 5th ranked Class A cage power in this year's Associated Press poll, boasts an overall 11-2 record. Northern, rated 13th in the same AP prep voting, is 9-3 altogether.

The Vikings have two of the Valley's leading scorers in Gene Summers and Gary Locke. Summers has bagged 117 points in eight league games for a 14.6 average while Locke is averaging 12 per contest on the court of 96.

Booker Hunter is Pontiac's top representative among the top 50 players in the Valley scoring race with 132 points for a 16.2 average, but the Chiefs reveal fine balance by occupying the 11th, 12th and 13th positions. Phil Tabaja is averaging 10.7, Bill Pritchett 10.6 and George Ford 9.8.

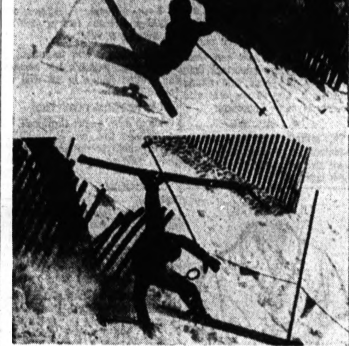

Winning two Valley crowns in 1959-60 is a rare accomplishment, but that's what the Chiefs will go all-out to do Friday night at the PCH gym at 8 o'clock.

Several important league battles headed another big prep basketball schedule around this area tomorrow night.

Non-league affairs will feature St. Michael, St. Frederick and Emmanuel of Pontiac and high-ranking Ortonville.

Ferndale could virtually clinch the Eastern Michigan crown by beating visiting Birmingham School, a Dale defeat and an expected Port Huron victory over Hazel Park would bring about the second 3-way tie for the lead this season. Ferndale has won its last eight starts.

There is only second place left to fight for in the Inter-Lakes with Walled Lake, Farmington and Southfield currently all even for that slot. The Vikings and Blue-jays will be meeting at Southfield as the Falcons try to hand champion Northern its initial setback. Waterford concludes its home state against Berkley in a cellular duel.

West Virginia, Villanova and Dayton have collected plenty of press clippings this season—but nobody's yet found a way to win basketball games with newspaper attention.

National ranking and tournament recognition failed to impress the Villanova team as they lost to Georgetown Wednesday night as George Washington surprised Villanova 72-70, and De Paul defeated NIT-bound Dayton 70-66.

Jon Feldman, a 5-9 sophomore, scored 21 points to pace the Colonials in a stretch drive that won the team's fourth straight victory over their fourth straight loss.

The little giant hit with 17 of 25 attempts from the field and forced West Virginia players into a rash of fouls.

West Virginia, which led 48-44 at halftime, came closest in the late stages when the Mountaineers trailed 52-51, but time ran out. Jerry West scored 40 points for the Mountaineers, but his efforts fell short in the face of one 11-point second-half outburst by the Colonials.

St. Bonaventure, winning its 11th straight, staged what could be an NIT preview by defeating Villanova on a layup shot by reserve forward Bill Randolph 75-63. St. Bonaventure stopped ninth-ranked Villanova 72-70, and De Paul defeated NIT-bound Dayton 70-66.

Traditional Pageantry Begins Winter Olympic Games

8th Event Open

in Annual Affair

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—The eighth Winter Olympics, marked by the usual squabbles, open today with traditional pageantry in this recently developed, 20-million dollar resort in the Sierra Nevada.

Despite the kinks that have shown through in this massive building operation, all facilities are expected to be in good shape for the start of the 10 days of competition on Friday.

The opening events include championships in the 36-kilometer cross country ski race, the women's downhill, the pairs in figure skating, and the first round of the hockey tournament. A total of 740 athletes from 37 nations is entered in the 21 events with Russia expected to dominate.

There was a possibility of a snowfall up to six inches before the spectacular ceremonies got under way at 4:30 p.m. (EST). The weather has been clear and sunny for the past week, giving most of the athletes an opportunity to sharpen up for the pursuit of the prized medals.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, following Olympic protocol, will set the games in motion with the following words: "I now declare open the Olympic Games of Squaw Valley celebrating the eighth Winter Olympics." The pageantry was under the direction of Hollywood's Walt Disney, and a colorful one he arranged to stage in this 6,200-foot high valley nestled in the snow-capped Sierras.

There was to be brilliant fireworks, a show of 3,445 volleys, the raising of the flags, the parade of the Olympians, the thrilling moment when the Olympic torch bursts into flame, and the recitation of the Olympic oath by lovely Carol Heiss, the American queen of the figure skaters.

Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence, winner of two skiing gold medals in 1952, was designated to ski down Little Papoose Peak with the burning torch and then turn it over to Ken Henry, former Olympic speed skating king. The Chicago veteran's chore was to skate several laps in the main arena, and then ignite the big Olympic torch that will burn throughout the games.

The Russians, talent rich in men and women's speed skating and the Nordic ski events, are expected to dominate the competition even more than they did in their first shot at the Winter Games in 1956. The Soviets are rated a strong chance to capture 13 of the 27 gold medals.

U. S. hopes rest with the figure skaters — world champions Carol Heiss of Ozone Park, N.Y., and David Jenkins of Colorado Springs — and the formidable female Alpine ski squad headed by Penny Pitso of Gifford, N.H., and Betty Snie of Norwich, Vt.

The U.S. hockey team, rated a good bet for third behind Canada and Russia in the tournament starting Friday, had some anxious moments Wednesday over the condition of injured Larry Palmer.

Four-Year Unbeaten Record on Line Against Indiana

Big Test for 'M' Tankers Saturday

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan will put its four-year unbeaten record on the line here Saturday against powerful Indiana in a battle which may decide collegiate swimming supremacy.

Coach Gus Stager's Wolverines are expected to carry a string of 33 consecutive dual meet victories into the Hoosier fray following tomorrow's encounter with Wisconsin. The Badger tankers don't figure to end Michigan's amazing winning streak.

The meeting with Indiana should give the Wolverines their toughest test in more than three seasons. It also will serve as a preview of the Big Ten championships which will be held here

March 2-5 since these two rivals are favorites.

Michigan has sailed away three NCAA and two conference swimming titles since its last defeat. That one came at the hands of Ohio State on Feb. 25, 1956.

During those years Indiana has steadily been building a team which many now rate as the best in the land.

Replete with AAU, Pan American and collegiate swimming titles, the Hoosier squad has been rewriting the record book this season in preparation for Michigan—the No. 1 target on the Indiana schedule.

A rundown of the Indiana roster and the times turned in by Hoosier mermen this season indicate Michigan will have to deliver a top effort to keep its streak alive.

Indiana's 400-yard medley team of Frank McKinley, Gerry Miki, Mike Troy and Pete Sintz of Birmingham slashed nearly four seconds off the American record when it posted a time of 3:41.9 in a dual meet with Michigan State.

Two nights later against Purdue, Hoosier sophomore Troy, world record holder for the 200-meter butterfly, swam the 200-yard butterfly in 2:08.5, more than a second below the American and NCAA mark set by Michigan's Tony Tashnick.

McKinley, holder of the American, AAU and NCAA records in the 200-yard backstroke, has not been pressed this season, but he may go all-out against the Wolverines.

Fred Rounds and Tom Verth, a pair of free-stylers, have covered the 220-yard and 440-yard events faster than any other Big Ten performer this season.

In addition, the Hoosiers are loaded with a flock of swimmers who are expected to nab their share of the key runner-up points which could decide the contest.

Stager, who has used most of his top swimmers sparingly this year in breezing through the first six meets, will shoot the works against the Hoosiers.

Competing in one meet together for the first time this year will be star swimmers Fred Wolf, Ron Clark, Frank Legacki, Dave Gilders of Royal Oak, Andy Morrow and Carl Woolley, along with new divers Bob Webster and Joe Gerlach.

Cancels Return Game

The return basketball game between St. Michael and St. Shrine, has been cancelled. Unforeseen circumstances have arisen to make the cancellation necessary. Shamrock's coach, Jim Niebauer reports.

No replacement is anticipated, Niebauer says. Shamrocks defeated Knights here, last Friday, by a 10-point margin.

Idle Wings Drop to 5th

Hurt Worsley Is Finished

NEW YORK (AP)—For seven years, Joe Schaefer, the stand-by goalie for the New York Rangers, has longed to get into a National Hockey League game.

The dream came true for the 35-year-old Schaefer last night at Madison Square Garden after his close friend, Gump Worsley, the Rangers' regular goalie, was forced to leave the game against the Chicago Black Hawks when his right hand was cut by a skate.

Schaefer was hurriedly summoned to replace Worsley, who suffered two cut tendons on his right hand in the opening minute of the second period.

It would have made a Cinderella story for Schaefer, who plays amateur hockey in New Jersey every Sunday in addition to practicing with the Rangers, if New York had won.

But the Hawks scored two goals against him in the second period and added three more in the first half for a 5-1 victory. Toronto beat Boston 3-1 in another NHL game. Schaefer made 17 saves and drew the plaudits of the crowd as well as the Ranger players and Coach Alf Pike for a creditable performance.

"The players kidded me and I was loose," he grinned. "I tried to keep the score down and the Rangers played a heckuva defensive game in front of me," he added.

Worsley will be lost to the Rangers for the season. The injury occurred when Bobby Hull's skate cut right through Worsley's right glove after the net-minder had fallen to the ice while making a save on Hull.

Pike said he would confer with manager Muzz Patrick today at to whom will replace Worsley. Patrick is on a scouting trip in Saskatchewan.

Snooper, Eager Beaver, Funnyman, Pack Rat?

Find Yourself in This Office Zoo List?

By MAI BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Have you ever looked around a business office at quitting time?

The white-collar characters in the office zoo start acting the moment they step into the place in the morning.

And they are still acting at the end of the day, after eight long, hard hours of shuffling papers from one pile to another.

Here are a dozen types you probably will find in your own office.

1. The philosopher—at 5:31 he always gives the company one extra minute of work a day! he rises from his desk and makes the same remark he has made every weekday evening for 34 years: "Well, another day, another dollar."

2. First-out-of-the-door Freda — This beat-the-clock stenographer starts getting ready to leave at 4:30. She is in the washroom from 5:00 to 5:26. At 5:27 she sprouts for the elevator, and anyone standing in her path is in for a broken leg.

3. The nocturnal snooper — He hangs around after all others have left so he can read any mail they leave on their desks. He even checks the wastebasket if the janitor doesn't beat him to them.

4. The pack rat—His last act of the day is to stuff his pocket with items he figures his kids can use in school—pencils, eraser, library paste, memo pads, carbon paper. If you searched his house, you'd find more office supplies than the firm has in its warehouse.

LAUGHED IN 1962

5. The company humorist—As he steps into the crowded elevator he says loudly: "I suppose you all have been wondering why I called you together for this conference." Everybody laughed when he first made this wisecrack in 1942, and he can't understand why it still isn't funny in 1960.

6. The homing pigeon — Twice before quitting time he phones his bills, and lets them dry in his desk drawer.

7. The after-hours squatter—he hangs around the office until 8 p. m., just so he won't have to go home and listen to his wife. He'd rather go to a bar, but she doesn't give him enough money for that.

THIS ONE'S THRIFTY

8. The thrifty Bono Brummel—This two-bit Bono has a heavy date. But before leaving he shaves in the office washroom so he won't have to go home and use his own soap. He sometimes washes his socks there, too, to save laundry

9. The happy hypocrites—They pretend they have to stay late to wind up an important job, but as soon as the office empties they get out a deck of cards and play ginny at a tenth of a cent a point.

10. The pseudo eager beaver—He strides out lugging a bulging brief case and, if you didn't know it held only wadded newspapers, you'd be sure he was a guy planning to burn the midnight oil while trying to solve company problems.

11. The passionate housekeeper—Neatness is his god. His biggest fear in life is he will die with a runny nose and be buried without a handkerchief. He does nothing from 1:30 until 5:30 p. m., but tidy up his desk so that everything will be in order when he comes to work the following morning.

12. The boss—At quitting time he browns out with more pep and energy than anyone in the place. Only his secretary knows his secret—he just woke up from his afternoon nap. And where do you fit into this end-of-the-office-day parade? Recognize yourself?

Lipstick Makers Tell Story Today

Claim They're Having Trouble Getting Data on Dye Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industry attorneys get a chance to cross-examine Food and Drug Administration experts on lipstick dyes today.

The FDA opened a public hearing Wednesday to defend a ban on the use of 14 coal tar colors in lipsticks. The ban comes after the agency found evidence of cancer-causing chemicals in the dyes.

Lawyers for the lipstick makers have complained about having a hard time getting to see FDA's data from tests conducted on hundreds of albino rats of a special strain.

FDA says those tests, conducted over periods from two to five months since 1957, showed the 14 colors are harmful to the test animals and should be banned from further use under patent law.

The law now bans use of colors found harmful to test animals. Witnesses Wednesday did not say whether the dyes they tested could harm human beings.

The lipstick and color dye makers have protested violently. They contend FDA's methods of testing aren't complete enough to justify the harmful tag on the colors.

Rev. King Charged With Dodging Taxes

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., frequent storm center in Negro attempts to knock down Southern racial barriers, today is under an Alabama charge of lying about his state income tax returns.

He characterized the Montgomery County perjury indictment as part of a pattern "to misrepresent and seek to frustrate the move of persons working to achieve the ideal of freedom and brotherhood." The Negro minister denied the charge as he posted $2,000 bond Wednesday.

Ike Is Fighting for Foreign Aid

Claims Program Used as Whipping Boy by Local Interests

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower came out fighting for his foreign aid program Wednesday by declaring that it is used as a "whipping boy" by everybody who wants another federal dam built back home.

He told his news conference foreign aid has about as much political appeal "as an ordinary clod out in the field—none." But he said no program was of more importance than the $4,175,000,000 aid request he sent to Congress yesterday.

His statement came as: —Secretary of State Christian A. Herter opened the fight before Congress for the aid program.

—Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex) protested the don't-touch label pinned on the program by the President.

Herter told a skeptical House Foreign Affairs Committee that "the best and most considered judgment" within the administration holds that the full program sought by the President is needed "for the maintenance and promotion of our national interests."

Herter said there was no evidence that Russia had turned from her goal of world domination. He also was skeptical of any wide split between the Soviet Union and Red China, although there are "real differences" between them. The statements by Eisenhower and Herter were aimed at heading off threatened cuts in the program. Democrats predicted reductions ranging up to one billion dollars or more.

State Negro Solon Proposes Rights Acts

LANSING (UP) — A series of anti-discrimination proposals, including a bill for a Michigan Human Relations Act, was brought before the State Senate Wednesday by its only Negro member, Sen. Basil W.

ducer. Under the Human Relations Act a six member commission appointed by the governor would be empowered to issue cease and desist orders against persons or firms found to be engaging in enumerated 'unfair practices.'

Generally, unfair practices were defined as discrimination for reasons of race, color or religion in today.

AMANA FACT No. 1

Amana reserve power and efficiency brings temperature down to 0 degree (F) faster and safer than all others tested. Because Amana is engineered and designed and built to be a fine food freezer — not just a "holding cabinet" that "feels" cold.

AMANA FACT No. 2

Amana maintains an even 0 degree temperature because Amana has 6 "fast" freezing surfaces of solid aluminum with the cold coils brazed to each shelf. All foods are either directly in contact with, or directly below these "FAST FREEZING" Shelves. Amana reaches and maintains 0 degree (F) temperature — thus protecting your frozen foods from TEMPERATURE DAMAGE.

AMANA FACT No. 3

Amana has uniform food storage temperature — many other freezers have long running cycles which indicate lack of freezing capacity. Amana insures "lock-in" nutritional values because of the even zero degree temperature throughout.

GUARANTEED TO OUTPERFORM ALL OTHERS!

Ask Him? Never —A Girl'd Rather Outfox Her Man

By HARVEY ZUCKERBERG

Men, fear not that 1960 is a bachelor's nightmare—full of 366 "Sadie Hawkins" days.

Tickery? Yes.

Trap? Yes.

The girls are agreed they will use all their wiles to catch a man, but popping the question is where they draw the line... Leap Year, or not.

A poll of Pontiac's single females, picked at random, downtown, gave testimony that there are some ethics involved in snaring a mate.

Each was asked:

"In accordance with the age-old custom of Leap Year, would you propose marriage to a man?"

Judy Johnson, 18, of 364 Lakeside Dr., said she thought the whole idea is silly.

"I wouldn't propose to a guy," said Judy. "I think that's crazy."

"Men will lose their masculine appeal if they let women take the initiative."

Miss Johnson

Said Estelle Rogalsdon, 21, of 137 W. Ann Arbor St.:

"Every year is Leap Year, but the woman should wait to be proposed to."

Roberta McDonald, 17, of 421 N. Perry St., said she wouldn't do it.

"I would want to be asked," she said. "I wouldn't do it. I don't think it's right. My fiancé proposed to me," she added indignantly.

Miss McDonald

Gloria Whelan, 18, of 2115 Lakeside Ave., Auburn Heights, doesn't agree with the turnabout rule, either.

"I would never propose, because it's not my place," she said. "Secondly, I think the man would object."

Margaret Little, 19, of 136 Dwight St., is against the idea, too, but she didn't ask him by then, I ask him for me.

"If I were going with someone for a long time, maybe I'd get tired of waiting and ask him. But it wouldn't have to be on a Leap Year," she added with a laugh.

Miss Little

"Three years is long enough. If he didn't ask me by then, I ask him for me."

Elizabeth Robertson, 19, of 23 Williams St., prefers another tradition to the Leap Year prerogative.

"I think that it is tradition that the man should do the asking," she said.

Sob, Sob—Has Sub Vanished Forever?

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The mystery submarine which has been reported lurking in the Argentine navy's Nuevo Gulf maneuver area appears to have escaped to the open sea, it was reported today.

The navy refused to confirm reports from the Gulf saying that the sub was detected and attacked Tuesday night by Argentine warships making contact with it for the first time in more than 36 hours.

It was uncertain whether a second submarine which had been reported maneuvering in the Craker Gulf was still in the area.

CONVICT PENS TELEGRAM—Caryl Chessman sits on the edge of a desk in San Quentin Prison Wednesday to work out this telegram, a plea to California Gov. Brown. Earlier, the U.S. Supreme Court had rejected an appeal that it stay his execution. About 40 newsmen were present.

Chessman Dies Tomorrow-- Unless He Swings One Vote

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Condemned Caryl Chessman's last thread of hope, stretched perilously thin after nearly 12 years of unrelenting legal battling, suspended today from an effort to switch one vote.

That is the vote of at least one member of the California State Supreme Court majority, who today after a series of rapid-fire developments—decided 4-3 against recommending clemency for the death row convict—authorities are slated to die in the green-painted gas chamber at San Quentin at 10 a.m. Friday. He was convicted in 1948 of kidnapping with bodily harm, robbery and sexual abuse in Los Angeles.

Opposition grew throughout the world to the scheduled execution.

In London, where six of the nine morning newspapers devoted more space to the Chessman case than to the impending royal birth, one newspaper said Americans will rue the day if Chessman is executed.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, at sundown Wednesday, would not grant clemency unless the Supreme Court recommends. The law puts this restriction on granting mercy to men convicted previously of felony.

Brown said any further action on his part depended on what happened in Chessman's move today for reconsideration of the 4-3 vote.

The convict's attorney, George T. Davis, said his petition for reconsideration would be accompanied by a request for a hearing on a complete brief supporting the action.

Davis said Wednesday night, after the U.S. Supreme Court, the California Supreme Court, the Governor acted or commented on the case, that he didn't have a chance to be heard on the 11th hour clemency appeal.

President Eisenhower has no authority to intervene in the execution, Justice Department officials said today. The President's powers of clemency or commutation of sentence can be used only in federal cases, they noted.

In Sacramento, Governor Brown issued a statement saying he was constitutionally bound to abide by the court's recommendation regarding clemency. As to a reprieve—or postponement—of Friday's execution, Brown said he would not anticipate the court's decision on the motion for reconsideration.

Sec. Benson Outlines His Farm Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Talt Benson asked Congress today to cut price supports on wheat, eliminate wheat acreage controls, and expand the soil bank's conservation reserve to 60,000,000 acres.

He spelled out for the House Agriculture Committee details of the program outlined by President Eisenhower in his special farm message to Congress on Feb. 9.

He outlined the sort of farm program the Administration would prefer. But, as did the President, Benson held the door open for any other program, Congress might adopt if it is a "constructive solution."

Youth Claims Innocence in Holdup Trial

Carroll Lay Says He Didn't Want Part in Near-Fatal Robbery

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL, JR.

A worried baby-faced teen-ager, fearful of every question he answered, testified Wednesday that he went down the road to a near-fatal holdup unaware of the predicament he was getting into.

Prosecutor George F. Taylor today was expected to continue to tear away at Carroll L. Lay's dramatic denial that he took part in the Nov. 30 armed robbery which, Taylor says, rendered a 20-year-old Highland Township gas station attendant a partial cripple for life.

Taylor yesterday read his day-and-a-half case against Lay, 17, of Lake Orion, and his alleged "tutor in crime," Victor L. Hood, 26-year-old Pontiac foundry worker a year out of prison. Hood is on parole for a "toy gun robbery."

Crippled from the waist down with the .33 caliber slug still imbedded near his spine—Dale Newton. He said he was about to finish his 13th day at a service station at 108 Highland Rd., when he was surprised by Hood and Theodore A. Mendoza, 21, also of Lake Orion.

Mendoza, who police said had no police record, suddenly pleaded guilty to his part in the robbery Tuesday. Newton, that day, from his wheelchair singled out Mendoza as the one who stole $40 from the cash register.

He also said Hood without warning pumped a bullet into his back as he leaned against the washroom wall.

"I heard a muffled sound. It was a shot," Lay testified in an attempt to prove his contention that he remained in the car while Hood and Mendoza staged the night robbery.

Orion Twp. Boy Applies His Boy Scout Training

By LEE WINBORN

A 14-year-old Orion Township boy today is credited with using his Boy Scout Training to save the life of his sister who was overcome by gas fumes early today.

Three other members of the Jack R. Hodges family of 1210 Beach Dr. also were overcome by the fumes. Nancy, 12, was unconscious and had stopped breathing at about 1 a.m. when her brother began to apply artificial respiration, according to Lake Orion Fire Chief Jack Taylor.

She had rallied somewhat when the fire department arrived with the resuscitator which was used to further restore her breathing.

Firemen said if it hadn't been for her older brother Jack's immediate action, the girl probably would have died.

The children's mother, Marjorie, 37, and two younger brothers, David, 9, and Jeff, 7, also were overcome slightly by the escaping fumes. They required no treatment.

The father was home at the time, but had arrived shortly before the fumes overcame the other members of his family.

Caylor said Mrs. Hodges heard Jeff fall in the hall upstairs. At the same time she felt ringing in her ears and a dizzy sensation. It was then that the family realized what was happening.

The outlet from the water heater goes out a north window, and the wind was blowing the fumes back into the house instead of letting them escape, the fire chief explained.

Dr. E. Arthur Calkins was summoned and pronounced all members of the Hodges family who had inhaled the fumes not in need of additional treatment.

Jack, an eighth grader at Lake Orion Junior High School, is a husky 180-pounder who stands almost six feet.

Each candidate, she said, will be given time for a 5 to 10 minute speech. Then each will be asked to state his qualifications for office, she said, and will be soundbitten on the various issues presently before the city, including the proposed charter amendments concerning the Police Department.

Women Voters Invite Candidates to Speak

Candidates for the City Commission are being invited to appear at a public meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters Wednesday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the City Commission Chambers at City Hall.

"Voters are invited to hear the various candidates seeking to represent them the next two years," said Miss Lillian Davidson, chairman of the league's voters service committee.

Each candidate, she said, will be given time for a 5 to 10 minute speech. Then each will be asked to state his qualifications for office, she said, and will be soundbitten on the various issues presently before the city, including the proposed charter amendments concerning the Police Department.

Thus, 24 hours before the crucial time, Chessman's fate still was in doubt.

At a San Quentin news conference Wednesday the 38-year-old, hawk-faced Chessman expressed belief his 12-year court struggle "is all over."

Chessman took the series of setbacks calmly—commenting only that he felt he has made a great contribution to humanity. He said his death would be "significant."

The condemned man said one of the main purposes in the last two years was to use his case—as it became increasingly controversial—"to focus attention upon the existence of the death row and the practice of capital punishment."

Governor Brown is an outspoken opponent of capital punishment.

Papa Prince in High Spirits

Queen Awaits Her Baby

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II's doctors were called to Buckingham Palace today and stayed at her side, indicating that her baby may be on its way.

An announcement that the Queen was in labor was believed likely, shortly.

A crowd of several hundred milled 'round the palace gates waiting for news. They cheered as the Queen's husband, Prince Philip, drove off smiling to a luncheon given by the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Edmund Stockdale.

The prince was assured by the Queen's obstetrician, John H. Peel, he could safely leave the palace.

QUEEN ENGAGED

"I'm sorry that the Queen cannot be present," he told the Lord Mayor, "but as you realize she is otherwise engaged."

Earlier the obstetrician, the anesthetist, Dr. Vernon Hall, and two other doctors, Lord Evans and Sir John Weir, called on the Queen about 9 a.m.

Three hours later Hall and Lord Evans were back in their offices attending to other patients. Weir stayed at the palace.

Youth Claims Innocence in Near-Fatal Shooting

examination of Lay this morning trying to show a clear-cut court jury of 13 women and one man that Lay had plotted the robbery with Hood and Mendoza, and was not an inactive participant, as his attorney John J. Rogers contends.

Judge H. Russell Holland, saying the jury must decide "this lad's complicity" in the robbery, denied Rogers' motion for a directed verdict of innocent after Taylor closed his case.

The prosecutor hopes Newton's testimony will result in convictions of both Hood and Lay. Although Mendoza had already pleaded guilty, Newton, whose 17-year-old wife is expecting their first child this summer, implicated all three.

As the trial moved into the third day today, there still was the question of what Hood's defense would be. It was learned, however, that he has refused three times to admit his guilt in the robbery. Eye may take the stand.

calling Taylor a case "calous, cold and sadistic." He immediately placed the 5-foot-5, 110-pound Lay on the stand in his own defense.

Character witnesses were expected to follow Taylor's cross-examination of the younger to-day.

Obviously nervous, Lay moved cautiously to the witness stand. He wore a grey flannel suit, a tie and polished sharp-toed black shoes.

Lay, suspended from Lake Oregon High School for two days for fighting, told step-by-step how he got into the mess which carries a maximum of life imprisonment on conviction.

The 11th grade "believe average" student said he met Hood through his sister, Roberta, 23, Mendoza, too, said this is how he met up with the two-term convict.

"I SAID 'F D Q'"

"I VAD caked me if I wanted to go look over a place," Lay said nervously clenching his hands to-

Beating Baby

Later, he said, when the children had resumed playing, one of them slipped a bathrobe belt around Alice's neck. "His sister ran home to tell her mother 'Alice has stopped breathing.'"

Mrs. Toombs called police who summoned a rescue squad to the home. They were able to revive the child by giving her oxygen from a resuscitator, and then rushed her to the hospital.

Dr. Paul T. Lahti, who attended the child, said "this was one of the worst cases of his kind I've ever seen."

Police were unable to shake the boy's story about the bathrobe belt and how it became wrapped around the girl's neck.

The boy is an escapee from the Boy's Vocational School at Lansing, and has a record of 10 breakings and 100 interesting offenses in the Detroit area, police said.

He and his mother moved from Detroit two months ago. His record was not broken by the Tysons.

Tyson was a work delivering auto parts when the baby was beaten. Mrs. Tyson returned home at about 1 p. m.

The confessed child beater was being detained at Oakland County Juvenile Home today, pending news chair, "I didn't know what he meant but I said I'd go along."

Later, when he learned from Hood that a robbery had been planned, Lay testified he told him "I don't want no part of it because I know that man (Newton) there and I didn't want him hurt."

In an attempt to show he knew the boys were being planned, Taylor pointed out that Lay and Hood "cashed" the station two days earlier while Mendoza was in the girl's bedroom in Lake Orion.

He also showed that Lay turned up the car radio in the holdup car so he couldn't hear the shock absorbers on the $33 job, prepared to hide in the backseat afterwards so patrolling police would see only Hood and Mendoza in the car. He also showed that he took two to disassemble the gun and the toss the parts out on the highway.

Believing Hood was making him home, Lay said he stayed in the car. "I was too scared to get out of the car," he answered in cross-examination. "It was afraid of the gun."

Wishing he could avoid answering his sworn question about whether Mendoza said he was willing to help Hood, Lay hesitated, dodged the question, and then, prompted by Rogers, replied: "Told 'ed say yes."

"Are you now telling the jury that you took no part in it?" Rogers inquired.

"That's right," Lay responded pleading for funds at jury panel.

"Yes sir, I am not guilty to armed robbery," Lay repeated

He Admits

A 14-year-old Madison Heights boy who fled a juvenile detention home at Lansing confessed last night to the brutal beating of a two-year-old neighbor girl while babysitting Tuesday.

Madison Heights police said Robert Russell, 14, broke down after hours of questioning and admitted the child "because she was annoying me."

The injured girl, Allie Tyson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tyson, 1448 E. Guttridge St. in William Roseville, was taken to a private hospital suffering from multiple abrasions and a possible fractured shoulder.

One doctor said it is the worst case of child beating he has ever seen.

BOY NEXT DOOR

Mrs. Tyson told police she asked the son of Mrs. Lucille Tyson, next door to babysit with her four-year-old children Tuesday evening. She wanted to check on a job she had heard about.

The boy came over, accompanied by his seven-year-old sister and sat down to watch television, as she was leaving at 10 a.m., said Mrs. Tyson.

According to the youth, all began by crying shrilly after Mrs. Tyson told police that when a boy would not stop crying he got from his chair and "began to answer as to whether school districts are municipalities."

CITES EXPERTS

Whitmer said several interested legal experts advised the school system to put the matter to a test on the basis of a number of Supreme Court decisions in the past which made it appear that school districts are municipalities.

The superintendent said counsel has accepted the case of the school system without charge. Whitmer said, "It won't cost us one cent."

He added, "We are not personally going to make the test case come out one way or the other. We aim to clarify the question as to what laws should govern without charge. Financial operations of the school are by the laws that apply to municipal corporations."

"We don't know that municipal

Exposes Castro's Moscow Line

Russia Outfoxes Self on Cuban Sugar

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—Communist Russia has at long last outsmarted itself and performed a real favor for the United States and Latin America.

This is the considered judgment of officials in the best position to know after studying hemispheric reactions to the newly negotiated $100 million trade agreement between Cuba and the Soviet Union.

"The Communists are not as smart as they're cracked up to be," a highly placed source told this writer. "They have done as a good turn by putting the Moscow tag on the operations of Premier Fidel Castro's regime."

The fancy bargain that Soviet Vice Premier Anastas Mikoyan drove in Havana last week has alerted not only fence-sitting nations of Latin America, but also the thinking people of Cuba to the menacing Red peril at their doorstep.

The next move is expected to be Cuban recognition of the Soviet Union and an exchange of ambassadors.

Secret diplomatic reports indicate that Russia intends, as soon as this is accomplished, to set up a vast mission in Havana from which all espionage for the Caribbean area will be directed.

Gen. C. P. Cabell, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, discloses that tiny Cuba already boasts 17,000 card-carrying Communists. He estimates the number of Latin American Communists at about 240,000, with sympathizers running close to 700,000.

Cabell warns that the Red Russia drive is even more intense in Latin America than in Africa and the Middle East, and that it is mainly directed against us.

The bright side of the picture is that many nations and peoples who formerly believed Castro was merely an inexperienced, do-good reformer are now alerted to his close ties with the Kremlin.

Intelligence chiefs well remember that the action which touched off Guatemala's revolution that deposed its Communist ruler was his deal to purchase arms from Red Czechoslovakia.

This was the kind of danger that even the lowliest Guatemalan could understand, just as Castro's deal with Russia plainly warns Cubans of the direction in which their government has now veered.

If Castro purchases Russian MIGs with his $100 million credit, the world will view him as aggression-minded, inasmuch as the fast jets are defensively useful only to fight off attacking bombers, and who plans to bomb Havana?

Three out of every ten persons involved in motor vehicle accidents require hospitalization.

National Safety Record Marked by Evanston

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Evanston has completed 781 consecutive days without a traffic death—and thereby set a national record.

The goal was reached at midnight Tuesday on the basis of a scoring system devised by the National Safety Council.

It worked this way: Evanston's population, 76,200, multiplied by the number of deathless days, 781, gave it a total of 59,512,200 man days without a fatality.

The record had been held by Detroit, which put together 34 successive death-free days in 1941 to compile a score of 59,500,000. Detroit has a population of nearly two million.

George Docking is the first Democrat ever to be twice elected governor of Kansas.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Neutralist Indonesia today greeted Nikita Khrushchev the most enthusiastic welcome of his current Asian tour, and he beamed with appreciation.

An estimated 200,000 Indonesians greeted Khrushchev in the airport area and 300,000 more lined the motorcade route into the city as the Soviet Premier began his 12-day visit looking brighter than at any time since he left Moscow.

Khrushchev, who got only two warm receptions from the public in New Delhi, Calcutta and Rangoon, was in high spirits and cheering the Indonesians:

"Indonesia is a country with a hot climate, and we are receiving a most warm welcome from masses."

Khrushchev looked healthy and robust, in contrast to the substantial appearance he exhibited during most of his stay in India and Burma.

Gold statuette were presented at a dinner to Belafonte and winners in categories ranging from best chorus line (The Rockettes of the City Center School of the Arts) to best male singer (James Best), best female singer (Joanne Whalley-Kilmer), best male dancer (John Kennedy), and best female dancer (Frank Sinatra, best male singer; Ella Fitzgerald, best female singer; Jimmy Durante, best male comic; Carol Burnett, best female comic; Carol O'Connell, International award; Carol Hanes, best female dancer; Angie and Margo, best dance team; Louis Prima and Keely Smith, best variety group; Jerry Vale, best male singer; Trudy Adams, most promising female singer; Shelly Berman, best promising male comic, and Sue Carson, most promising female singer).

"I've come today," she said in precise tones, "to tell you about my son, Jack, and his qualifications for the presidency."

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy thus began a two-day tour of New Hampshire Wednesday with the aim of bringing out the vote for her son, Sen. Joseph P. Kennedy (D-Mass.) in the March 8 "fire in the nation" presidential primary.

She told about Jack as a boy and how he traveled in Russia at age 17 while "other senators have not been there until a few years ago."

LANSING (AP)—Sen. John P. Smeekens, the Legislature's No. 1 absentee spender last year, was at the hub today of a fuss over use of state police cars by legislators for taxi service.

The Coldwater Republican said last night he traveled by state police car most time to time, including to Owosso for a Rotary Club speech yesterday, but there was nothing improper about it.

"In each instance it has been directly associated with a responsibility upon me as a state senator," Smeekens said.

The taxi service issue was raised by a newspaper who reported 61 instances involving lawmakers in the last 12 months, seven of them involving Smeekens.

Teaches West German Pilots

Nazi Air Ace on Our Side

By H. VON MEALCHTCH

AHLHORN, Germany—During World War II, Hitler's Third Reich created a young, blond-haired Luftwaffe pilot with downing 352 Russian planes on the Eastern Front.

Today, the same pilot is commander of the first fighter wing of the new West German Luftwaffe. He is poised ready to fight the Russians again if the need arises, but this time on the side of the West.

Maj. Erich Hartmann, World War II's top air ace, is high in his praise of the United States, the planes she has supplied to the West German Air Force, and his American friends.

Only four years ago he was released from Soviet prison camps after spending 10 years in 12 different ones.

Hartmann has little to say about his own past or future careers. At 37, he is concentrating on training young fighter pilots, and refers interviewers to "the fine young men in my wing you really should meet and write about."

His new command is stationed at Ahlhorn in northwest Germany. Its 42 F-86 Sabrejets fly at twice the speed of the piston-engine Messerschmitt 108s he fought the Russians with for three years.

He hopes to get even faster planes in the near future—lightning fighters, which he believes are the best available today for the fledgling West German Air Force.

Hartmann was born the son of a doctor in a small town near Stuttgart, and spent some of his early life in China where his father was attached to a hospital.

WAS GLIDER PILOT

His mother, an active sports fan before the war, interested him in airplanes and by the time he joined the Luftwaffe in 1940 at the age of 18, he was an experienced glider pilot.

In three years he reached the rank of major while becoming Hitler's top air ace. Soviet anti-aircraft fire forced him to land nine times—once behind Russian lines, but he always managed to return to his base unharmed.

When Germany surrendered, Hartmann was in command of a unit in Czechoslovakia. He blew up his planes and surrendered to a United States tank unit.

After two weeks in American hands he was turned over to the Russians with 200 other Germans under an Allied agreement.

Sent to the Soviet Union, he was moved from prison camp to prison camp, and twice was sentenced to 25-year prison terms. The first, Hartmann says, was after he refused to join the air force of Communist East Germany. The formal charge was mass murder of Russian civilians.

Let Schools Levy Tax, Detroit Dem Proposes

LANSING — A personal income tax is proposed by a Detroit Democrat to solve financial problems in county school districts.

Rep. George Montgomery, a school teacher, introduced a bill yesterday to allow county boards of education to tax residents as much as one per cent of their net income. Specific or excise taxes also could be levied against any item now taxed by the state.

"This is a possible answer to school needs in some counties in excess of what can be raised by property taxes," said Montgomery.

A torrent of 110 bills deluged the House yesterday and another 40 poured into the Senate on the busiest day yet for bill introductions. The voice of Clerk Norman E. Phillo drowned through the afternoon in the House chamber as bill after bill was tossed into the hopper and read to lawmakers.

Yesterday was the deadline for introduction of all but tax and appropriation measures, but the last minute rush prompted legislators to extend the deadline till Monday. Lawmakers still were counting on April 15 adjournment.

Rep. Joseph J. Kowalski (D-Detroit), House Democratic floor leader, sponsored bills to carry out Gov. Williams' recommendations for hefty pay raises for his successor and other elected state officials.

The bills would boost the pay for governors from $22,500 to $35,000 and give $20,000 salaries to the secretary of state, treasurer, auditor general, attorney general, superintendent of public instruction and highway commissioner. The latter two earn $17,500, the others $12,500.

A bill to allow delegates to county political conventions to elect their county chairman was introduced for the third straight year by Rep. Russell H. Strange Jr. (R-Clare). Wayne County would not be covered.

Under the proposal, candidates for county and legislative posts, who currently elect county chairmen, would automatically become county convention delegates, along with precinct delegates. Republicans and Democratic state conventions both have endorsed the idea.

Another bill would require time and a half pay for policemen who work more than 40 hours a week in cities of more than 10,000 population.

Okay Rezoning of Parcel

By a split vote, city commissioners have approved rezoning to manufacturing of a commercial parcel on S. Paddock street where a fuel company plans to erect two oil storage tanks.

The firm, Webb Fuel Co., 331 S. Paddock St., intends to put up a pair of 15,000 gallon tanks, each about 25 feet high, on the rezoned parcel. This is south of the company's grounds but north of Elm street.

The company promised to allow a 20-foot buffer strip on the south end of the property for the convenience of Elm street residents.

TWO PETITIONS — Two petitions — one for rezoning and one against it — were signed by property owners immediately next to the rezoned parcel. Twelve signatures were on the favorable petition and eight on the unfavorable, but six property owners signed both petitions, according to Henry Smith, city planner.

Commissioner Robert A. Landry, in whose district the company is located, refused to support the rezoning "in view of the public opposition." Commissioner Milton R. Henry also voted against it, arguing that manufacturing areas shouldn't be extended into residential neighborhoods.

The company said it doesn't plan manufacturing, only storage, but pointed out that a manufacturing classification is needed for this. Up to now, the company has dealt mainly with coal.

three lots on the northwest corner of Oakland avenue and Kinney road from residential to commercial was sent back to its circulators for more signatures. It was signed by only 48 per cent of the affected property owners.

Earliest libraries in colonial America were privately owned. Notable were those of Elder William Brewster of Plymouth, Rev. Winthrop of Connecticut, Dr. Cotton Mather of Boston and Col. Ralph Wormeley of Virginia.

Arrest 27 Youths in Race Flareup

Portsmouth, Va., Has 2nd-Straight Day of Lunch-Counter Feuding

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—Police arrested 27 high school youths here Wednesday in the second straight day of racial friction over Negro demonstrations against white-only lunch counters.

At Raleigh, N.C., a 25-year-old white man, William B. Faulk, was scheduled for trial today on hitting a Negro student with an iron dog chain. The Negro, Otis Clark, 20, was among Negro college youths carrying placards Wednesday in a protest against segregated lunch counter service.

At Portsmouth's midcity shopping center, police broke up a crowd of 500 persons. Some 200 persons then assembled on the athletic field of nearby Norcum High School for Negroes. Several bricks were tossed at a police car.

The flareup ended with 25 boys charged with disorderly conduct and two with carrying concealed weapons. Police said the racial makeup of the arrested youths was about evenly divided between whites and Negroes.

At the shopping center, Negroes made no effort to enter any of the stores.

Gets Prison, Big Fine

Guterman Denied Bond, Judge Can't Trust Him

NEW YORK (UPI)—Alexander hanged by "three indictments now pending against him."

Guterman, who once headed a $25 million dollar paper empire of interlocking corporations, was sentenced to four years and 11 months in prison Wednesday and fined $100,000 for violating federal securities regulations.

Federal Judge Lloyd F. MacMahon ordered the 44-year-old Russian-born financier to be jailed immediately to prevent his yielding to "strong temptation... to flee from the prison term which the court has imposed in order to enjoy the fruits of his crime."

MacMahon said such temptation could be considered to be an appeal of their conviction.

Eveleigh was sentenced to two years and 11 months in prison and fined $10,000.

HAS MONEY HIDDEN

MacMahon said evidence indicated it is possible that some of Guterman's gains are deposited to his credit "somewhere in the financial labyrinth of Switzerland or Tangiers."

MacMahon took "judicial notice" that Guterman has interest in and use of a private airplane, has sold his Greenwich, Conn. home and moved his family to Miami Shores, Fla., which the court said was "a likely first step toward flight to some Latin American extradition - proof refuge, where, with his Manila background, he would be quite at home."

The judge said the facts of the case show that from 1956 through 1958 "Guterman looted the investing public of hundreds of thousands of dollars by manipulating the market in the common stock of F. L. Jacobs Co. and by siphoning off hundreds of thousands of dollars of Jacobs' assets into his own pocket through a maze of jangled, concealed and complex financial transactions with money lenders, foreign banks and dummy corporations."

THE LADY AND THE GIANT

XXXXIV
I was standing six feet to the left of Lottie, and near me was a solid wooden antique chair. In the instant of my shock I watched it up and, leaping between him and Lottie, I presented it as a shield. Oscar hurled another knife, but it buried its point in the thick bottom of the chair. I rushed upon him.

A heavy chair with a broad bottom is not only a defensive, but an offensive weapon. At close quarters it is frustrating to an antagonist—especially an antagonist with knives to throw.

My unexpected pounce threw Oscar back and pinned him against the wall. The four legs of the chair humped and imprisoned him, the clumsy weapon could not be fended and still I was helpless against it. Suddenly I drew it back and jabbed with it.

Oscar grunted with pain as a leg punched him in the stomach, while another made contact with his shoulder.

Over my shoulder I called to Lottie, "Get out here! Get out!" But I could not see if she obeyed.

Oscar's arm must have been momentarily benumbed, for his remaining knife dropped to the carpet. But his recovery was quick, and his big hands clutched the chair and tried to wrestle it away from me.

CHAIR BREAKS
He braced his back against the wall and, shifting his hold to two of the chair legs, twisted until the sturdy wood cracked and splintered and I found myself with only part of the seat and back—no longer an effective weapon.

I thanked heaven for my friendship with the canvas, whose delight it was to wrestle on the sword along the canal of evenings. They had taught me the tricks of catch-as-catch-can, and the drier twistings and gouging and knockings intended to maim or even kill an adversary in serious and bloody battle.

Once, as we whirled and side-stepped, I caught a glimpse of Lottie crouched against the wall, and of Madam, her fist pressed against her lips.

"I told you to get out!" I shouted. "And let her stab you in the back!" Lottie cried.

I lunged toward Oscar clumsily, pretending to trip and dropped to my knees. The maneuver requires split-second precision. By Oscar's reaction to my trick, I knew he was not familiar with it, for he aimed a kick at my face—and that was what I wanted. I struck upward with all my strength. My hard fist went home on his groin and as he doubled in agony I surged up beneath him and lifted him from the floor.

With every ounce of my strength I hoisted him above my head, and then, as I had been taught, I spun upon my heels, once around, twice around, three times, and hurled Oscar headlong against the brickwork of the fireplace. The sound was a sound which I hope never to hear again—the cracking of a human skull. Oscar kicked once and lay still.

KISS ME, YOU OAF
Lottie ran toward me, gripped my elbows and looked up into my face.

"You're the dandiest fighter alive!" she said, "Why don't you kiss me, you great oaf!"

I never had kissed her. It never had occurred to me to do so; and the present moment seemed no time for it.

"Go along with you," I said. "I've no time for your monkey shines now."

Madam Janeway had dropped her hands from her face and was staring across the room at Oscar. "Is he dead?" she whispered. "I hope so," said I, and was not surprised at my harshness.

"Oh, I hope so too. I hope so," Madam said wretchedly. "I shall be free from him."

Madam was a shifty, clever woman. Even in this tragic moment she might be preparing the way for her defense.

"He was your man," I said accusingly.

"He was my husband." There was hysteria in her voice. It was not a cultured voice now, but something common. "The shame of it!" she cried. "Chained to a thief and murderer."

It was artificial, it was acting, but even though I recognized it for what it was, it affected me. I looked at Lottie and saw that she was crying.

"Little Lottie," Madam said, "I loved you."

"But," I said harshly, "you would have stood by and let Oscar murder her. You lured her here to torture her, and make me tell where the money was hidden."

"But," Madam said softly, "it broke my heart."

There was a clatter at the door, and it burst open and half a dozen men entered. In the lead was Barker Watts, whom I had seen last in a swoon on his office floor; there was one chief of police and men in uniform. They stepped suddenly in the doorway at the sight of Oscar and the pool of blood in which he lay.

"What's this? What's going on here?" our police chief demanded.

And then, Madam showed herself as she truly was.

"That man," she said, "murdered my husband for the money. They plotted together to rob the banks. That man killed my husband so he could keep it all."

"That," said Lottie sturdily, "is a wicked lie." Apparently none of them heeded Madam or Lottie. Barker Watts dominated them. He waved a yellow telegraph blank and shouted, "What have you to say to this, you sharper, you thief? From Dan! Drew! I wired him! This is his reply! The woman Janeway is an impostor. I never heard of her. I will sue for slander any man who charges the contrary." Watts was trembling with rage.

Bill Would Guarantee Kelly Retirement Funds

LANING (UPI) — Former Republican Gov. Harry F. Kelly, 66, would be assured of state retirement benefits for the Supreme Court service under a bill introduced by Sen. Paul H. Younger (R-Laning).

"True," Younger said today, "he would be the first to benefit but the bill was not designed just for him."

Younger's bill would amend the retirement act to allow "any member of the Supreme Court who has eight or more years of continuous service credited to him upon attaining age 65 or over" to be eligible.

Kelly was elected to the court in 1953 for a term ending Dec. 31, 1961.

OPEN THE TRUNK...
PROVE HOW MUCH EASIER

CHEVY IS TO LOAD!

That vacation-sized, easy-to-load luggage compartment is just one example of the more usable room you get throughout the new Chevrolet. The loading height of the conveniently cutaway trunk sill is not only lower than Chevy's nearest competitor's, but the deck lid opening is more than a foot and a half wider. And when it comes to what you can actually pack away, specifications reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association show Chevy's trunk holds up to 22.5% more luggage. Wherever you look—from the lower and narrower front floor tunnel to the wider rear deck—here's the car that gives you more room where you want more room!

1 Single key locking for convenience Who wants to play guess-which-key-opens-the-trunk? One key opens Chevy's trunk, doors, glove compartment and starts the car.

2 No loose wiring Chevy keeps snagging wires away from your cargo for extra safety and easy stowing.

3 Wider storage space And you don't have to reach underneath anything to take advantage of Chevy's wide open spaces, either.

4 As much as a foot-and-a-half wider trunk lid opening Chevy's wide deck lid lets you pack in the parcels from either side or the back.

5 Up to 22.5% more usable luggage space in a Chevy You've got 30 cubic feet of solid air in Chevy's big trunk, and every cubic inch of it is right at your fingertips.

6 Deeper trunk for bulky loads You can stand most packages up in this deep well—no crushed groceries!

7 Lower sill for easier loading Why should you hoist heavy bundles any higher than you have to? Chevy's sill is lowered for faster, easier loading.

8 And the gas tank filler tube doesn't take a big bite out of luggage room It's tucked away virtually out of sight and cargo area. Any way you look at it, Chevy takes mighty good care of your loads. You can open the door to all of Chevy's wonders at your Chevrolet dealer's. What's keeping you?

Rocket Expert Wants N-Route, Not Chemical

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rocket expert Kraft A. Ehrliche says that nuclear propulsion offers the United States a "real good chance to leapfrog" the Russians in space. The German-born space scientist said that a nuclear space vehicle could be developed by 1968-69 if a well-financed start were made in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1961.

He said he would rather see the United States take "the nuclear route" than to go ahead with its present long-range plans to build the super chemical booster known as Nova.

Ehrliche, assistant to the technical director of the Convair Astronautics Division, General Dynamics Corp., plumped heavily for the nuclear rocket in a talk and news conference at a missile space conference sponsored by the National Rocket Club.

Nikita Blunders His Way Across India

By ROY ESSOYAN

JAKARTA, Indonesia (U-P) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev committed a remarkable number of blunders during his five-day good will visit to India.

He started out by insulting India's parliamentary system and ended up by ridiculing the underdeveloped nation for accepting a "dole" of American food aid.

In between he embarrassed his Indian hosts whose friendship for the West is on the upswing by using India as platform for repeated attacks against colonialism's "imperialist exploitation."

Khrushchev also irritated Indian officials with his thoughtless remarks. And his brash and burlly security men angered the Indian press by their progressively rough efforts to shield their boss.

Williams May Lose Power to Reorganize

LANSING (UPI) — A move to repeal a law granting the governor power to reorganize state government was started Wednesday by Rep. Russell Strange Jr. (R-Clare).

Strange sponsored a bill to repeal the reorganization plan which the Legislature approved in 1958.

Under the system, the governor could recommend changes in government structure and the changes would become official unless the Legislature vetoed the changes within a specified time.

Strange, who voted for the plan in 1958, said he was now against it because the system granted lawmaking power to the administrative branch and left the Legislature only with a veto power, usually the prerogative of the administrative branch.

"It's a reversal of the legislative procedure," said Strange, "and a needless delegation of authority to the administrative branch."

Detroit Pair Is Among 39 Persons Who Went Abroad to Study Trade

HONOLULU (U-P) — Two Detroit businessmen returned from a world tour Tuesday, convinced the United States should abolish tariff barriers against foreign imports.

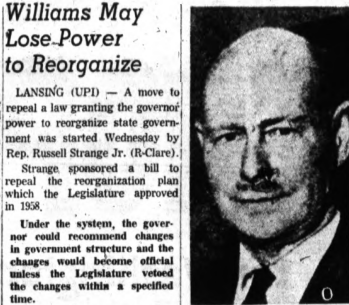

"Trade is a two-way street," said Nathan Silverman, financier and real estate executive. "We must buy from foreigners if we expect to sell to them."

Silverman and Nathan Goldman are among 39 Detroit businessmen who completed the tour under the auspices of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce. The tour is undertaken annually to explore trade possibilities and cultivate business contacts around the world.

Goldman said the most vivid impression of their trip was the extreme poverty in India and Pakistan.

He said India's economic development has been unable to keep pace with her population growth. "The solution to India's poverty must include education, economic development and birth control," he said.

"American businessmen have a stake in the economic health of Asia," he added, "and to insure that stake they should use their influence to bring about the abolishment of all U.S. tariff barriers against foreign imports."

License Hearing Blocked by Judge

FLINT (UPI) — Circuit Judge Louis D. McGregor has signed an order blocking the Michigan Board of Examiners of Barbers from conducting a hearing to revoke the license of a local barber shop.

The nonunion shop has charged lower prices for haircuts than union shops.

A hearing to revoke the license of Uptown Barber and Beauty shop had been scheduled Wednesday in Detroit.

Shop owner Charles Norman charged the hearing was an outgrowth of a drive to force himself and four barbers in his employ into the union.

He said a state barber inspector told him "... Charlie, we are in this time to get you."

Suddenly Patriotism Is Bad Word With Teens

Editor's Note: This being the month of Washington, the Gilbert has conducted a survey of American teens to find out just how patriotic they are. The results are as follows: By EUGENE GILBERT

Something has happened to patriotism among teen-agers. Either the love of country of America's young people has withered in the atmosphere of disillusionment following two wars to end war, or it lies dormant, awaiting some crisis to awaken it.

It seems strange, however, that it could sleep through the recurring jangle of cold war crises. Yet this fact is irrefutable:

More than two-thirds of 687 American teen-agers answered "no" when we asked, "Is patriotism an important part of your life?"

Ninety-six per cent put family

before patriotism. 88 per cent religion.

These reactions may be understandable. But 82 per cent said patriotism is less important than sports, 88 per cent said dating outranks it, and 90 per cent said clothing is more important.

This attitude is perhaps partially explained by a 13-year-old St. Louis girl, who said: "I just never think about it."

Rose Michael, a 17-year-old Chicago girl who took a stab at explaining it, said:

"Patriotism is less important in the average person's life because the United States is so well established."

SELF-BEFORE COUNTRY

But to John Angus Campbell, 17, of Portland, Ore., one of the minority to whom patriotism is important, "democracy is worth preserving."

Unfortunately, few seemed to agree.

We asked this admittedly tough question: "If you could do a great benefit to your country by sacrificing the well-being of a loved one, would you do it?"

Only 9 per cent said "yes."

"Something as artificial as one's nation is never worth that much," said a 19-year-old St. Louis boy.

"I'm selfish," was the candid reply of a 17-year-old Salt Lake City girl. And a 16-year-old Philadelphia girl matched her when she answered, "I'm a coward."

Another Philadelphia girl, age 17, explained: "I would have to live with the loved one, and the country would soon forget me, anyway."

But a 15-year-old Omaha girl, a lonely voice in the wilderness of complacency, said: "I think the well-being of anyone is worth being sacrificed for the good of several millions."

While they admit they are short on love for their country, the teen-agers acknowledge that they are fond of the good life they have here.

FLAG STIRS RESPECT

Fifty-five per cent of the youngsters — more girls than boys — said flag ceremonies and the national anthem stir feelings of respect in them.

"They make you feel you are a part of something," said 17-year-old Sandra Vinard of Mount Pleasant, Tex.

"Another war connotation," is what a 13-year-old Philadelphia boy called them.

Sixty-nine per cent of the young people — again more girls than boys — said they are embarrassed if someone with them ridicules patriotic ceremonies.

My Jobs Volunteer? Not by a Long Shot!

By RUTH MILLETT

Every time I find myself ringing doorbells asking for money for a fund-raising campaign, serving coffee and orange juice at the local food bank, or starting in to address postcards for a local candidate I've promised to help elect, I get to wondering:

"Why do they call this kind of thing 'volunteer' work?"

So far as I can remember there have been mighty few times when I have ever volunteered for any kind of job. And yet, through the years, I've done just about every kind of "volunteer" work there is to do.

It usually happens like this: A charming voice on the telephone asks me if I won't give "just a little" of my time to a worthy cause.

Vainly I fumble around for an excuse that will get me off the hook, but nothing I can come up with impresses my caller.

HAS ALL THE ANSWERS

She has a ready-made answer for every dodge and every conceivable excuse, probably because she has heard them all before many, many times.

So the call ends with my agreeing reluctantly to "do my share," and I'm hooked again. And the mail starts coming, giving me last-minute instructions, packets of work material, and so on, each letter beginning: "Dear Volunteer Worker."

I'll bet the country is full of women just like me who are running themselves ragged doing "volunteer work" they wouldn't have volunteered to do in a million years.

We are probably marked as women who can't say "No" to a good cause or to the persuasive voice of a do-gooder. Workers we are, but "volunteer workers" we definitely are NOT.
