British Accept Soviet Proposal for Peace Talks

U.S. Naval Forces on the Move in Asiatic Seas; Showdown Due?

From Our News Wires

The West edged cautiously today toward a Soviet peace plan for Laos.

Britain, in a note delivered to Moscow partly on the initiative of the United States, accepted the Soviet proposal for an international conference on Laos — provided the Soviet Union first helps secure an effective truce in the torn Southeast Asia kingdom.

But the U.S. aircraft carrier Midway and two destroyers steamed out of Hong Kong on a few hours notice, raising belief they had been alerted for action in case of an East-West showdown.

Unconfirmed reports said other U.S. 7th Fleet units were heading south toward the Indochina coast.

U.S. military officials said in Washington the anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—whose military strategists are now meeting in Bangkok, Thailand —could throw about 4,000 battle-ready troops into Laos on short notice if Premier Boun Oum's pro-Western government needs urgent help in his battle against pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels.

Thailand's defense minister said he has received reports that pro-Communist rebels have captured the strategic town of Muong Kassy in central Laos.

Gen. Thanom Kittikachorn told reporters the reports also said rebel Pathet Lao were attacking in the direction of the royal capital of Luang Prabang in the latest two-pronged offensive threatening the vital north-south road linking Luang Prabang with the administrative capital of Vientiane.

The Thai defense chief, without identifying his sources, said the reports claimed as many as 14 Vietminh (Communist Vietnamese)

Military on Move; JFK Will Explain

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy apparently began speeding U.S. military units toward crisis-racked Southeast Asia today in the crucial hours of a diplomatic showdown with Russia over the embattled kingdom of Laos.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy is expected to issue a major U.S. policy statement on the Laotian crisis at a news conference tonight (6 p.m. Pontiac time).

The conference will be carried live on television and radio.

The New York Post today quoted authoritative sources as saying Kennedy met secretly with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko last weekend "in an effort to underline his determination not to permit Laos to fall under Communist control."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders pledged today to stand behind President Kennedy in whatever decision he makes in the grave situation in Laos.

In Washington, the White House denied the report.

The Post gave this report of the purported Kennedy-Gromyko meeting:

"The encounter took place while Gromyko was in Washington for talks with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, U.N. diplomats said today. It did not go very well, they added."

Meanwhile the President awaited some reaction from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to an urgent appeal from Britain for agreement to a cease-fire in the civil war in Laos.

Given a cease-fire, the Western powers would accept a Communist backed proposal for an international conference on Laos.

This last-minute move on the diplomatic front was made by Britain after consultation with the United States. It kept open the road for a negotiated settlement and put the next step up to Khrushchev.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile the reported military moves underscored Kennedy's determination to deal with the Communist challenge threat by force if diplomacy fails.

One of the tightest secrecy clampdowns since the Korean War shut off Pentegon information on military moves.

'NO COMMENT'

Not only would sources at defense headquarters supply no original information, but there was only a crisp "no comment" on dispatches from Southeast Asia which indicated stiffening of the U.S. military stand.

★ ★ ★

Authorities here said privately, however, that while some of those moves were clearly precautionary steps, othere were designed to begin a substantial increase in U.S. military assistance to the Royal Laotian Government.

There were reports here that various units of the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC) were alerted for movement on a precautionary basis, though STRAC itself denied there was any special alert.

That denial was accompanied by the routine statement that STRAC is alway on the alert.

Child Clinic's Case for $27,000 on Line

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

The Oakland Child Guidance Clinic presented its case for $27,000 in emergency funds today amid a denial that the county is a "penny pincher" when it comes to caring for its emotionally disturbed children.

The ways and means committee of the board of supervisors said on April 11 it would recommend to the board whether to grant the extra appropriation to keep the clinic's Birmingham branch open this year, and designate what the clinic's 1962 allocation from the county should be.

At the same time, plans might be made on a suggestion from Royal Oak Supervisor Harry W. Horton, a member of the committee, that the county take over the clinic if it is to continue allocating yearly funds, a practice since 1944.

Horton told clinic officials and some ladies interested in its future that he resented allegations in hundreds of letters supervisors have received that the county "is penny-pinching when it comes to kids."

He cited figures showing the county plans to spend a total of $1,465,338 this year on child care facilities. These facilities represent the second largest expenditure in the county each year, he said.

"This is a pretty good slice of our tax bill," he said.

FLOOD ARRIVES

Clinic officials urged a tidal wave of letters to supervisors to plead for the deficiency appropriation of $26,857. The flood came with some supervisors receiving more than 100 letters and calls.

Today's hearing started off with Dr. William J. Westmas, president of the clinic's board of directors, suggesting appointment of an impartial citizens committee to

Price Tag Due for Courthouse

County Is Apparently Willing to Part With Aged Building

A price tag will soon be put on the aging downtown courthouse, it was decided yesterday.

★ ★ ★

But all won't know how much the green-tinged home of the county's higher courts since 1904 will be priced—because the board of supervisors' ways and means committee has urged that the result of an appraisal be kept confidential.

★ ★ ★

The committee recommended that three appraisers be hired, one being possibly William B. Grabendike, director of the county's equalization department, one a private appraiser from Oakland County and the third from outside the county.

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the board of supervisors, suggested the appraisal as the county gets within three months of moving into the new $3.3-million courthouse in the County Service Center.

Apparently, the county has decided to sell its old home, but how fast the supervisors didn't indicate.

No prediction of the future use of the site on Saginaw and Huron streets was made, with the exception that county officials felt the city might want to use it for a park in connection with its urban renewal program.

★

The committee said it has "received and filed" the one and only offer to date for the courthouse and property. A group of downtown merchants, headed by former director George Richman, offered $200,000 nearly two years ago.

Chairman for Each Day of Centennial Selected

The outline of Pontiac's centennial celebration was beginning to take shape today with the announcement that chairmen have been selected for each of the seven days of the June 17-24 celebration.

Besides the pageant and opening parade, there now are plans for an opening night band-and-choral concert, dedication of public ladies and ethnic groups, unusual displays from Pontiac's industrial past and an emphasis on youngsters.

It is expected that many more features will be lined up as centennial time approaches.

Heading the special days committee is Eldon C. Rosegart, chairman of the Michigan State Fair Commission and president of the Waterford Township Board of Education.

These subchairmen were announced at Centennial Headquarters:

Sherwin M. Birnkrant, assistant city attorney, chairman of the opening day, Pontiac on Parade, Saturday, June 17.

Homer D. Hoskins, manager of Pontiac Municipal Airport, chairman of Air Progress Day, June 18.

Mayor Philip E. Rowston, chairman of Pride in Pontiac Day, June 19.

Bernard Crandell, public relations director of GMC Truck & Coach Division, chairman of Industrial Day, June 20.

Mrs. Noel Buckner, chairman of Ladies Day, June 21.

Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools, chairman of Youth Day, June 22.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. David Saks and Mrs. Richard Wolfe, cochairmen of International Day, June 23.

And Robert C. Miller, former Pontiac acting postmaster, chairman of Roundup Day, the final one of the celebration, June 24.

Some of the highlights planned:

Appearance of the Fifth Army Band of Chicago at a 7:30 p.m. opening-night concert in Wisner Stadium. At 8:30 p.m., a concert by an estimated 500 voices of men's choral groups throughout the state.

On the six remaining nights, the pageant is scheduled at Wisner Stadium.

White, Koren Say OK to Itchy Chins

The heat's off Fire Chief James R. White.

He announced yesterday afternoon that firemen would be allowed to grow beards for Pontiac's centennial celebration.

That put the heat on Police Chief Joseph Koren.

This morning Koren followed the fire chief's lead.

His officers can become brothers of the brush, he said.

"I'm not encouraging them," Koren added quickly. "Their consciences must be their guides."

Both chiefs had previously ordered the banning of beards in their departments.

SIGN PETITION

The first crack in the anti-whiskers policy was in the fire department as firemen petitioned the chief for a reversal of his stand.

Fire Lt. Robert Sartell on behalf of the Pontiac Fire Fighters Association presented to the chief a long list of signatures of firemen wishing to grow beards.

"I didn't count the names," said White, "but they made up a majority of the firemen.

"I have bowed to the will of the majority."

The fire chief added: "I'm resenting—but relenting.

Unveil Scandals in State Election

Laxity, Carelessness in Many Areas; Possibly Fraud, Says Hare

LANSING (AP) — Evidence of "shocking carelessness, laxity and possible fraud" in many election areas was disclosed today by Secretary of State James M. Hare.

He promised an immediate drive to clean up the irregularities.

Hare said he was offering complete reregistrations in some communities "where there is a grave possibility that the purity of elections has been compromised."

"It is not impossible," he added, "that township, village, city and county elections have been rigged in the past and that the outcome of some contests for state and national offices could have been determined by dexterous mishandling of absentee ballots, by voting persons long dead, or by illegal actions of uniparty election boards.

"The procedural administration of elections is so bad in some of the areas investigated that we cannot be sure that it is merely carelessness and that it is not fraud."

★ ★ ★

Violations included failure to clear "deadwood" out of registration files and failure to provide privacy in the voting booth, but no evidence of "gravestone" voting, he said.

Hare said another common violation uncovered by his investigators was the failure to observe the bipartisan nature of election boards, which he described as "the bedrock of the election law."

Dinner Will Inaugurate $650,000 'Y' Campaign

A dinner attended by area citizens from all walks of life will launch the $650,000 fund-raising drive of the Pontiac YMCA for improvement and expansion of facilities.

★ ★ ★

Announcement of the kickoff dinner was made today by Robert M. Critchfield, general chairman of the expansion campaign. The dinner will be held at 6:45 p.m., Monday, April 3, at the Elks Temple.

Attending will be approximately 300 persons who are currently being formed into an organization to be known as the Citizens "Y" committee, Critchfield said.

Highlighting the program will be a talk by Dr. Kenneth McFarland, an educational consultant for General Motors Corp., who will explain details of the expansion and the need for the campaign.

Critchfield said the expansion program executive committee plans to acquaint the community with all the facts surrounding the forthcoming campaign.

The drive will run through May 15.

Critchfield said the campaign organization now is nearing completion. Response of those invited to join the Citizens "Y" committee and attend the dinner meeting April 3 has been "gratifying," he said.

He urged those invited to the dinner to return reservation cards as soon as possible to the expansion program office.

The campaign for new facilities at the "Y" building, 131 Mt. Clemens St., has been necessitated by the increasing membership.

Critchfield pointed out that more than 4,000 boys, girls, men and women hold "Y" membership cards, an increase of 300 per cent since 1938 when the building opened.

On the competent heads of these worthy committeemen will rest the final decision.

And, oh yes, P.S.: This is an adroit and delicate hint that many other business places might do likewise.

Evidence Points to Scoutmaster

But Why Was Boy, 11, Tied to Tree and Left to Die in Snow?

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (AP)—All evidence indicates only a Scoutmaster who later killed himself was involved in the kidnaping and death of 10-year-old Tommy McNevin, a police official said today.

The statement by Inspector Louis Needham of the Provincial Police Criminal Investigation Branch cast no light, however, on why the boy was tied to a tree by the neck and left to die in the snow. A coroner's report said the boy had not been sexually molested.

The biggest question mark hung over Tommy's scoutmaster, Warren Williamson, 41, a church elder and father of a son and daughter, who committed suicide Tuesday night after claiming the kidnaper had designated him to deliver the $25,000 ransom demanded.

Police refused to divulge the contents of Williamson's suicide note. But Crown Attorney (prosecutor) John Pringle said he had not believed Williamson's story of the ransom notes when he told it to him Tuesday and doesn't believe it now.

Tommy, son of a former alderman and creamery owner, left home Monday afternoon to play hockey and was not seen again alive. His body was found Wednesday. Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott said the boy died from exposure sometime Monday night. Bark on the tree was worn where Tommy had struggled to free himself.

Two sets of footprints—a man's and a boy's—led to the tree and the body, and police said they indicated the child walked trustingly to his death. There was a cut on Tommy's head and a deep cut on his thumb, which Scott took as an indication he had tried to ward off a blow, perhaps from his own hockey stick.

Satterthwaite Chosen Ambassador to Africa

Satterthwaite, 61, served as assistant secretary of state for African affairs in the Eisenhower administration. He will succeed Philip Crowe as ambassador.

See Another Cliff Hanger in Minimum Wage Battle

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — The House plunged today into a minimum wage battle that promised to provide another cliff-hanging test of President Kennedy's legislative program.

* * *

As debate began, a conservative coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats held the upper hand. But the President's supporters said they would not admit defeat until the votes were counted.

Today's maneuvering follows congressional approval Wednesday of a bill extending jobless pay.

Kennedy is expected to sign the jobless pay bill into law quickly so unemployed workers can start drawing the extra benefits in about two weeks.

The bill, first of the administration's antirecession measures, provides for a $1-billion extension of unemployment compensation payments to idle workers who have exhausted their regular benefits.

$93 MILLION FOR STATE

The bill will mean about $93 million extra for Michigan's jobless, says the chairman of the State Employment Security Commission.

The commission held a special meeting at Lansing Wednesday to authorize formally the jobless pay extension passed by Congress.

J. T. Hammond, commission chairman, estimated that between 70,000 and 75,000 unemployed will make immediate application for the extended benefit period.

Max M. Horton, Michigan Employment Security Commission director, planned to leave for Washington today to sign a contract with the U.S. Labor Department for the new benefits.

Help to Be Of, By, For Africans

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States today called on the United Nations to work out an African development program that "is by, of and for the Africans."

At the same time it urged exclusion of the Cold War from the African continent.

* * *

The U. S. views were outlined by chief delegate Adlai E. Stevenson before the main political committee of the U.N. General Assembly. He was the first speaker on the problem of aiding in the development of the newly independent African nations.

"Only Africans can develop Africa in the last analysis," Stevenson told the 99-nation committee.

He called attention to President Kennedy's foreign aid program announced in Washington Wednesday and said that the U.S. feels special attention should be given to assisting countries able and willing to mobilize their own resources.

* * *

Stevenson did not present a formal proposal but was reported consulting with other delegations on a detailed plan.

He outlined two basic principles for an African aid program:

1. Contributors should be prepared to assist the new African countries in their efforts to assess their own resources as they plan programs by themselves and in contact with each other.

2. The United Nations should also recognize the need for diversification of agriculture and the expansion of industry.

3,000 Parade in Seoul Streets, Demand Work

SEOUL (UPI) — About 3,000 persons demanding that the government find work for them paraded through the streets here today in the second consecutive day of mass demonstrations in downtown Seoul.

Although today's crowd was about twice the size of the howling, stone-throwing mob that battled police in the streets Wednesday night, no disorders were reported during the "we want work" parade.

Police had to use tear gas to disperse the rioters who surged through the streets Wednesday night demanding the resignation of Premier John M. Chang.

ELIZABETH WILLIAMS

'Kiss Goodby' — Then Murder

High School Boy Says Slain Texas Girl Asked to Be Killed

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) A high school boy kissed his former girl friend goodby, police quoted him as saying, and then blasted her to death with a shotgun she held to her temple.

Officers tried today to get more information from Mack Herring, 17, about the death of Elizabeth Jean Williams, also 17.

But Sheriff L. B. Eddins said at Kermit, Tex., that Herring only answered, "She asked me to do it." Eddins quoted the youth as saying the girl had asked others to kill her previously.

* * *

The boy was charged with murder with malice after he led officers to a farm pond where the pajama-clad body of his classmate lay in four feet of water, weighted down with lead.

NEAR SCENE

The pond was near the scene of the shooting, about 30 miles northwest of here in Winkler County. Young Herring was held in lieu of bond.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of Odessa, reported her missing at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday.

Officer B. R. McAlpine arrested the youth in a classroom at Odessa High School a little later.

Herring told officers he came for her early Wednesday.

* * *

After they parked near the pond, the youth related, Elizabeth Jean asked him to kill her, but to kiss her goodby first.

She persisted when he refused, the youth told officers, so finally "I kissed her goodby." Then, he said, he pulled the trigger of the gun as she held the barrel to her temple.

The sudden departure of 2,000 U.S. Marines from Tokyo led to speculation they were being returned to their Okinawa base in preparation for any emergency.

Names Negro to State Civil Service Body

LANSING (AP)—Forrest F. Green, president of the Michigan Barber College in Detroit, was appointed by Gov. Swainson to the State Civil Service Commission today.

He is the first Negro ever to serve on the powerful four-member commission that sets salaries and job requirements for the state's 31,000 civil service employes.

Dr. Westmaas also asked for $67,000 from the county for 1962. The tentative budget released yesterday shows $32,500.

Westmaas' suggestion that the United Community Services of Detroit appoint and direct the study committee was matched with a suggestion from David Levinson, committee chairman, that the chairman of the board of supervisors appoint the committee.

* * *

"But our committee suggestion would be impartial, not in favor of our side or yours," said Herbert W. McEachern, supervisor of the Birmingham branch.

"We feel we are impartial, too," replied Levinson. "We represent all the taxpayers in the county, not just the 200 or more that sent us those letters."

No decision was reached on how the committee will be created. There was no opposition, however, to its necessity.

"We want a committee that is close to us," Levinson said after the meeting. "They may well employ the other committee to do a lot of their leg work."

Here's Low-Down on Your Legislators

Lists Bills Sponsored by County Politicos

Want to know what your Oakland County legislators are doing in Lansing?

Following is a partial list of some of the bills they have introduced or cosigned in the legislature, as compiled by the governmental affairs division of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Rep. Raymond L. Baker, R-Berkley, has introduced a bill to amend the state's fishing license laws to require a separate license for your wife. It also would require a license for fishing on the Great Lakes, St. Clair River and Detroit River.

A measure to convert the Howell Sanatorium for use by mentally handicapped children has been cosponsored by Rep. William Hayward, R-Royal Oak.

Local governments would have to approve all applications for package liquor, beer and wine licenses under a measure Rep. John C. Hitchcock, D-Hazel Park, signed as a cosponsor.

Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, is the chief sponsor, and Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Bloomfield Township, a cosponsor, on the county's major legislative proposal—streamlining laws to establish levels on all inland lakes. Oakland has more than 400 lakes.

County boards of supervisors would be granted the authority to regulate by ordinance size and speed of boats using inland waters under House Bill 139 signed by Anderson.

Hogan and Hitchcock would like to see local governments given authority to permit public parking on unused highways under another bill.

Pontiac State Rep. Arthur J. Law and Hitchcock are signers of a bill to amend the personal property tax law to permit local governments to require surety bonds for payment from new businesses with a one year limit.

Anderson has his name on a bill which would give township boards the right to abolish annual township meetings.

Another item on the county's legislative program — to allow township to contract with village for fire protection—has been introduced by Hogan.

He is also the sponsor of a law to determine when property owners would be required to hook up to sewers. This bill, too, is one of the county's highest rated in priority.

Anderson has joined with 10 other representatives on a bill to alter the election method of electoral college candidates.

A measure to "stiffen" regulations for new or minor parties to get on state election ballots has been favored by Anderson and Hogan.

Over in the Senate, Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, has his name on measures to:

—Limit relief to a defendant not personally served in an original lawsuit to quiet title to actual damages based on a fair cash market value at time of original decree;

* * *

—Permit creation of absentee vote counting board by any governmental unit other than the state or county;

—Increase the state salary share for circuit judges from $12,500 to $18,500.

Qualifies JFK as Best-Dressed Chief of State

LONDON (UP)—A leading British expert on male dress says President John F. Kennedy is the world's best dressed chief of state.

John Taylor, editor of "The Tailor and Cutter," disagreed with the Fashion Foundation of America for putting Kennedy among the 10 best dressed American men. He explained:

"He is not elegant, because he would lose his chances as a politician to dress in that way. People distrust elegance. They like the folksy image in politicians. Kennedy provides it.

"His suits are well - tailored and always well-pressed. I place him as the best dressed head of state in the word because he is dressed as a head of state should be."

Pontiac City Hall Folk Studying Longevity Pay

Discussion has begun at City Hall lending to a possible longevity pay plan next year.

* * *

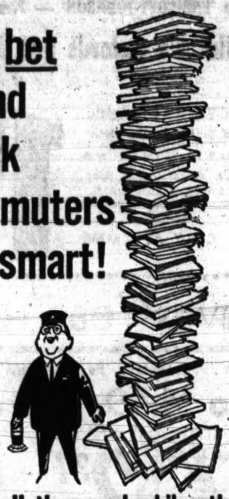

Administrative and employe representatives are to meet again on the subject within two weeks, said City Manager Walter K. Willman.

The City Commission earlier this year indicated it would be willing to consider longevity pay. A comparative study of other municipalities is now under way.

* * *

It was estimated in January that the cost of a longevity plan would be relatively small, involving only a few thousand dollars a year.

Iraq Offers Example of K's 'Peaceful' Coexistence

BY PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Perhaps no better examples of Nikita Khrushchev's theory of co-existence at work can be seen than in his treatment of Iraq.

For at the core of his theory is his belief, for which he draws support from Lenin, that middle-class leaders only play an important role in the early stages of nationalist movements and must inevitably be replaced later by Communist leadership emerging from the dissatisfied masses below.

★ ★ ★

So, the apparent conflict in Communist strategy in Iraq which still is in the comparatively early stages of revolution.

Thus, the Communist newspaper Literary Gazette in Moscow, may, as it did, bitterly attack Iraqi Premier Abdul Kassem for death sentences handed a group of Communists by an Iraqi military court.

At the same time, Khrushchev may, as he has, approve huge Soviet loans to Iraq and send in Polish and Czechoslovak advisers to assist the Kassem government in an expensive five-year program to double the amount of land under irrigation.

Soviet and Czech aid will account for $190 million of the cost.

As Kassem has walked the tight rope of Iraqi and Middle East politics, his relations with the Soviet Union and the Communist party inside Iraq have been of special interest.

From the date of the Iraqi revolution on July 14, 1958, until May 23, 1959, the Communist party operated with such freedom and influence both in and out of the government that predictions freely were made that Iraq soon would be wholly within the Soviet orbit.

In March 1955 occurred the Mosul revolt which the Kassem government blamed on President Abdul Gamal Nasser of the U.A.R. and which was followed by a massive Communist-led purge in which as many as 15,000 persons were arrested.

In April, the Communists demanded a place in a popular front government and arms for their "popular resistance" forces.

Then, in May, Kassem for the first time rebuked the Communists and warned them against obstructing the course of the revolution.

From then on, Communist fortunes inside Iraq followed a downward course.

Kassem placed several Communist army officers under house arrest, ordered the Communist-dominated People's Resistance Movement under army control and fired his pro-Communist minister of agrarian reform.

Finally, reportedly on orders from Khrushchev himself, the Iraqi Communist party abjectly condemned itself for "criminal acts, emotionalism and miscalculations."

The ostentatious love affair between Kassem and the Communists was over, but as Kassem treads a dangerous path toward "positive neutrality" Khrushchev's long-range aims remain the same.

Pres. Kennedy Calls for New Hemispheric Plan

On the surface President KENNEDY's call for a vast 10-year plan for the Americas, resembles the 1947 Marshall Plan. But the problems of Europe sprang from the devastations of war while Latin America's are rooted in the crisis of an old social order which stubbornly refuses to meet the needs of the people. There is a similarity however. The Marshall Plan was an answer to JOSEPH STALIN and the Kennedy plan is our answer to FIDEL CASTRO.

★ ★ ★

The situation in Latin America has been aggravated by vast population increases, land hunger, single commodity exports and little domestic investment. In Brazil two per cent of the people own 50 per cent of the land. Wealthy Latin Americans are largely untaxed and invest their capital abroad.

★ ★ ★

President KENNEDY made it clear that the Latin Americans themselves must help to "modify their social patterns so that all, not just a privileged few, share in the fruits of growth." Long range social, tax and land reforms there must be the basis for industrialization and eventual prosperity.

U.S. help and co-operation are promised along many lines including economic integration, sharing of research projects, expansion of technical training, a food-for-peace program and in higher education.

★ ★ ★

In return the President called on Latin America "to contribute to the enrichment of life and culture in the United States" by providing teachers, opportunities for young Latins to study in our universities and access to Latin music, art and philosophy.

The next move is up to Latin America. Help will be available for self-help. This hemisphere will lose the cold war unless some such policies are followed.

Is Our Gasoline Tax Money Being Wasted?

Sen. HARRY F. BYRD, the Virginia Democrat recently pointed out that gasoline taxes now total 50 per cent of the retail price of fuel.

★ ★ ★

He added: "Highway users are paying these tremendous sums to build a network of modern, high speed State and Federal highways. I am not altogether convinced that they are getting their money's worth. I am, in fact gravely suspicious that some of their money is being wasted in gingerbread design and extravagances and, what is worse, some of it's disappearing in loose administrative practices, irregularities and profiteering. And the costs, far from going down or even remaining the same, keep going up."

★ ★ ★

Sen. BYRD long has been a watchdog of the taxpayers' money. If his views on Federal highways are correct then it is high time the entire program was reviewed.

Frank Costello Loses Another Court Round

By a 6-2 decision the Supreme Court has upheld the order stripping mobster FRANK COSTELLO of his American citizenship. Now the way is open for deportation proceedings.

★ ★ ★

Ten years ago COSTELLO appeared before the Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee and when asked what good he had ever done this country, he said "I paid my taxes." However, a jury later found him guilty of tax evasion to the tune of $28,000 and he is now serving the final months of a five year sentence.

★ ★ ★

Basis for deportation arises from the fact that COSTELLO, brought here from Sicily when a year old, misrepresented his occupation when applying for citizenship in 1925. He said he was a real estate operator when the Government claims he was a bootlegger.

But don't think we'll soon see the last of Frank Costello. Final deportation may be stalled for years by a succession of court appeals and he is now 70 years old.

★ ★ ★

He may live out his life and be buried in this country to which he has been most disloyal.

The deer are coming from the northwoods, according to

More proof that the porcupine also likes us and is returning south is supplied by

The fox may be an animal that is decreasing in Oakland County, but can still be found in at least two areas within our borders. They are frequently seen by who lives near the big woods at the Enders Hill in Groveland Township, and by

who is located near the Drahner Woods wild life sanctuary, east of Oxford.

The Real, Real Needy

Voice of the People:

Readers Voice Concern About Poisonous Sprays

As to the effects of insecticides used as sprays from planes and otherwise, we'll just have to take the word of those who have studied the problem. Evidence that birds, fish, animals and insects of all kinds, good and bad, have been killed by spraying was presented in the June, 1959 issue of Readers Digest.

In the January-February issue of the Audubon Magazine, Dr. George J. Wallace, Michigan State University geologist, told what happened on the campus when DDT was used for elm disease and mosquito control; in 1954 there was one pair of robins per acre on the 186 acre campus. This should have resulted in 400 young. In the spring of 1955 dead and dying birds were found on the campus. In 1957 three complete surveys showed only 15 adults.

It would appear that we are destroying the balance of nature. Birds who eat vast amounts of insects are being destroyed. That, in turn, accounts for the enormous increase in the insect world much of which is becoming immune to sprays.

Few have much love for insects, least of all mosquitoes. But we don't want to commit slow suicide by destroying our birds and letting the insects take over. Spray residues on and in fruits and vegetables and in milk also are serious matters.

AMB

I agree that we should ask our legislators to do something about spray killing the birds, before we all are poisoned by the numerous pesticides now in use.

Irate Citizen

I am worried about the birds. There are fewer birds, and now I'm worried about myself if the sprays go into the wells as was said in a recent letter.

Bernice Granzow

A few years ago people at Lake Whipple had the area sprayed to control mosquitoes. I'm not sure about the mosquitoes but we found many dead fish on the shore and I also noticed the bird population was down.

Since we stopped spraying I've noticed no more dead fish and even this morning there are birds at my feeders.

There should be enforced law to control the spraying of poisons.

Earl R. Steele

Clarkston

If spray kills so many song birds, why doesn't it kill some of the starlings and English sparrows?

If people wouldn't feed starlings and sparrows in the wintertime they might not multiply as fast, as no song bird will nest or live in areas where these birds are.

'Whisker Growers Being Scorned'

It is very annoying for we Brothers of the Brush to be ridiculed and scorned to the extent of being told that we look like bums. We realize that in all probability we look more presentable clean shaven. However, we are showing our community spirit and know that at this time we are not to be judged on beauty but on whiskers.

The clean shaven faces of our community leaders certainly indicate a lack of interest and poor centennial spirit.

Our centennial is not just for the laboring class of people. However, if our leaders do not accept their responsibility by participating, perhaps we Brothers of the Brush, being in the minority, should shave and forget the whole thing.

Come on, upper class citizen, let's get with the fun we all could have and make our centennial a success.

David Lawrence Says:

JFK Foreign-Aid Plan Is Utopian

WASHINGTON—The administration's program of foreign aid, as submitted to Congress, has given to many members the impression that President Kennedy is hopefully undertaking the task of remaking, if not running, the world.

LAWRENCE

He has asked for a $4-billion appropriation this year, to be used wherever the administration sees fit to use it. In addition, he requests authorization to spend several billion dollars over the next four years.

Congress is not to be asked to pass specifically on which "depressed areas" in the world are to be given American taxpayers' money. All this is to be taken care of by a bureaucracy in Washington.

No information is available as to how an agency of the United States is to sit in judgment on the "national growth" of each country and decide whether that country's efforts to help itself are adequate or whether aid tendered by this country is being used to maximum advantage.

The whole program is portrayed as a gesture of good will based on altruism. Even "military assistance" is to be separated from other aid, so that American efforts will appear not to be contaminated by any selfish interest, such as protecting the security of the United States might be thought to be, though there are vague references in the President's message to the importance of that protection.

HERE'S AN EXCERPT

Here's one excerpt from the President's message which describes the far-reaching scope of the foreign aid program:

"There exists, in the 1960s, an historic opportunity for a major economic assistance effort by the free industrialized nations to move more than half the people of the less-developed nations into self-sustained economic growth, while the rest move substantially closer to the day when they, too, will no longer have to depend on outside assistance."

One wonders what agency of the American government and what staff of economic experts are wise enough to determine, first of all, what a "free industrialized nation" really is and also when it moves into a cycle of "self-sustained economic growth."

The President gives abstractly the reasons why America must step in. He says:

"The answer is that there is no escaping our obligations: Our moral obligations as a wise leader and good neighbor in the interdependent community of free nations—our economic obligations as the wealthiest people in a world of largely poor people, as a nation no longer dependent upon the loans from abroad that once helped us develop our own economy—and our political obligations as the single largest counter to the adversaries of freedom."

History does not, however, record a single instance in which any foreign government ever loaned money to finance the United States government. Funds did come from private investors abroad, and lots of them lost their investments in American railroad bankruptcies and in other enterprises. American and European investors had to learn the hard way.

The President does not clear up just how the United States is going to supervise the economic affairs of countries to which aid is given.

He says:

"We must say to the less-developed nations, if they are willing to undertake necessary internal reform and self-help—and to the other industrialized nations, if they are willing to undertake a much greater effort on a much broader scale—that we then intend during this coming decade of development to achieve a decisive turn-around in the fate of the less-developed world, looking toward the ultimate day when all nations can be self-reliant and when foreign aid will no longer be needed."

Dr. William Brady Asks:

You Need Lime Water? Good for Heartburn

A Wisconsin reader would like to know about lime water. She says she has my directions for making it, but she says the lime company slakes lime and calls it dehydrated lime. This tastes and acts like lime water. Is it the same as lime water or may it be used with lime water? Slaked lime (burnt lime mixed with water) is hydrated lime (not dehydrated).

DR. BRADY

Burnt lime is also known as live lime or quick lime or calx or calcium oxide. When moistened or mixed with water, it becomes heated and is converted into a white powder called calcium hydroxide, calcium hydrate, hydrated calcium, hydrated lime, or slaked lime.

To prepare lime water add a piece of unslaked (live) lime the size of a walnut to 2 quarts of boiled water in an earthen crock or jar, stir thoroughly and allow to settle. When the white powder has settled, pour off the upper clear fluid into a bottle.

That is lime water. If more is needed simply add water again to the lime in the bottom of jar, stir well and let is settle. The upper clear fluid is lime water.

Only a little lime dissolves in water.

Usual dose of lime water for relief of stomach acidity is a scant tablespoonful.

One or two tablespoonfuls may be added to a glass of milk or to the baby's bottle when milk forms large curds. For adults such addition of lime water to milk tends to prevent discomfort from excessive acidity of the stomach — heartburn, for instance.

★ ★ ★

Whole milk, skim milk, buttermilk, sour milk (clabber), condensed milk, evaporated milk, powdered dry milk, Acidophilus milk, Bulgarian milk (yogurt) and other varieties of cultured or fermented milk are the richest food sources of calcium.

For any child who takes less than a quart of milk (four glasses) a day or any adult who takes less than 1½ pints (three glasses) a day (the minimum daily ration required for good nutrition) these other high calcium foods are most essential for good nutrition:

Cheese, any and every kind, eggs (particularly the yolk), cauliflower, cabbage (particularly coleslaw), dried beans, string beans, dried peas, parsnips, beet greens, beets, turnips, broccoli, lettuce (particularly green leaves), leeks, lentils, spinach, watercress, nuts and peanuts, oatmeal, plain wheat and brown (unmilled, unpolished) rice.

Three of the high calcium foods should be well represented in everybody's everyday diet:

(1) Cheese of one kind or another

(2) Peanuts or one or another kind of nuts

(3) Plain wheat. If you don't quite understand what plain wheat means send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the pamphlet Wheat to Eat.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Tax Tips . . .

QUESTION:

How can I be sure that I am taking advantage of all the tax deductions and credits that I am entitled to under the tax laws?

ANSWER:

The first thing that is suggested is to read carefully the instructions which accompany your income tax forms. These instructions contain valuable information concerning your tax liability.

There is also available an easy to understand booklet entitled "Your Federal Income Tax" which has many money-saving tips. If you have a specific problem you can call your local Internal Revenue Service Office or make a visit to the office on the Special Assistance Day.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Give Children 'Coming In' Party

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE H—440: Jackie B., aged 11, is the shy school boy whose grades dropped when he moved into a strange neighborhood.

Jackie's extrovertive parents had forgotten that Jackie was a timid youngster, friendless and not very athletic.

DR. CRANE

Back in the old home town, Jackie had grown up with his classmates and knew his teachers long before he reached their school room.

Even though Jackie was developing neurotic ailments as an excuse to avoid going to the school (which he now hated), it still wasn't too late to apply some of the prescription outlined yesterday.

★ ★ ★

His parents therefore launched the following plan:

(1) They had a party for the neighborhood children of Jackie's age.

Jackie named the ones he wanted invited, and his mother telephoned the other mothers.

Jackie immediately gained status by being the host to a gala party. So the other kids paid more attention to him thereafter, thus reducing his previous feeling that he was a "lone wolf."

(2) His dad got 5 tickets for a ball game, which meant Jackie could invite two special kids to go along with himself and his parents.

Because of his dad's business connections, he had arranged to get autographed balls from one of the famous players.

That meant Jackie and his two classmates each took home a prized souvenir of the game.

Because it was Jackie's family that made the event possible Jackie thus inherited more goodwill from those two pals.

It is not wise as a permanent strategy for papa to keep "buying" friends for his children, but when a youngster has suddenly been uprooted from a small town and thrust into a strange neighborhood, it is smart for his parents to help launch him socially.

"COMING IN" PARTY

Instead of focussing so much attention on frilly debutante "coming out" parties, it would help stabilize shy children far more if their parents held "coming in" parties several years earlier.

Even if you just shift neighborhoods in the same big city, your child may feel woefully alone and friendless, so do something special to bring neighborhood youngsters into your home.

"Psychic trauma" in childhood is often the cause of later sanitarium treatment for neurotic or insane adults.

★ ★ ★

Instanity is simply an inward flight from a forbidding social environment that seems cold, cruel or friendless.

So Jackie's parents, even though 6 months belatedly, helped get Jackie into a friendlier relationship with some neighboring youngsters of his own age.

(3) They helped organize a Boy Scout Troop in the church nearby, and Jackie's dad, served as assistant scout master.

Jackie's mother then got active in the PTA and became better acquainted with Jackie's room teacher.

They even had her over for dinner one night, which helped make the teacher seem more like an old family friend.

What were the results? Jackie soon lost his terror of school. His morning stomach-aches and headaches vanished. Eager zest returned.

And his school marks zoomed back to the straight "A" average he formerly had rated in the old home town from which he had come.

Parents, you can also make or break your child's future school career by a little timely home aid, so send for the booklet "How to Tutor Your Child at Home," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Says JFK Tries to Quiet Press

GOP Committee Cites Action on Space and Research Story

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National Committee has accused the Kennedy administration of trying to slap down newsmen "in their efforts to keep the public fully informed about government activities."

"First it was the missile gap fiasco," the GOP publication "Battleline" said. "Now the 'whiz kid' management at the Pentagon has been caught red-handed in a clumsy attempt to hide the truth about the current fight over allocation of military space and research development functions."

The Republican statement cited a House investigation of the Pentagon decision, reached without consultation with the joint chiefs of staff, to give the Air Force top control of military space programs.

It said that Arthur Sylvester, an assistant secretary of defense, had tried to blast as "a distortion" news stories which reported that Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, JCS chairman, had protested bypassing the military chiefs.

But later, the GOP statement said, Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric conceded that the JCS had not been consulted as a body.

Hodges Asks Help to Attract Tourists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said Wednesday this country must attract more tourists and do "a much better job of making them welcome."

Hodges asked the co-operation of the Association of State Planning and Development Agencies, meeting here for its annual Washington conference.

The U.S. deficit in international payments is swollen by $1 billion a year, Hodges said, because American tourists are spending twice as much overseas as foreigners are spending here. The gap is widening instead of improving, Hodges said.

He recited numerous steps being taken by federal agencies to make tourism in America more attractive, but told the state development officials their full co-operation is needed.

3rd Jury Seeks Verdict on Finch

Have Received Case After More Than Two Months of Testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jury of 10 men and 2 women starts work today on an assignment two previous juries failed to complete—Reaching a verdict in the Finch-Tregoff murder case.

* * *

Jurors in the third trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff received the case late Wednesday after more than two months of testimony. But deliberations were delayed and the jury was locked up in a hotel for a night of rest.

* * *

Dr. Finch, 43, and Miss Tregoff, 24, the doctor's secretary-mistress, are accused of murder and conspiracy in the July 18, 1959, gunshot death of Finch's socialite wife, Barbara Jean, 36.

* * *

The defendants showed no emotion as the jury got final instructions from Superior Court Judge David Coleman. The first two trials ended in deadlocked juries.

* * *

Judge Coleman told the jurors to decide on murder and conspiracy counts, then offered advice against a defense plea that the couple was in double jeopardy.

* * *

The defense contended that the second trial jury had reached a partial verdict, and that the third trial thus put the defendants in double jeopardy.

* * *

Angola Mob Pushes U.S. Car Into Bay

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Several hundred anti-American demonstrators shoved U.S. Consul William Gibson's car into Luanda Bay Wednesday night during a shouting, horn-blowing march before the U.S. consulate.

The crowd smashed the auto and dumped it into the water after word spread that Gibson had told the vanguard of the demonstrators to get away from the consulate.

* * *

Portuguese censors in Luanda passed this brief dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Mario Pirelli. Portuguese accounts of the demonstration arrived in Lisbon hours before.

MANY STUDENTS

The Portuguese news agency Lusitania said most of the demonstrators were students, both white and Negro, who shouted "Viva Portugal" and "down with communism and partners of the Soviets."

The agency said they were protesting the U.S. vote, along with the Soviet Union, in the U.N. Security Council last week for an inquiry into charges that Portugal is violating human rights of the black majority. The proposal failed to get a majority vote in the council and is now headed for consideration in the U.N. General Assembly.

Miami Ranks 2nd in Spiritual Need, Says Graham

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami ranks second only to New York in its need for Christ, evangelist Billy Graham said last night.

"There was a greater hunger here . . . a desperation to find Christ . . . than any city since New York," Graham said. "A city like this attracts the spiritually homeless, the misfits."

"The ministers here felt this hunger in the people," said Graham. "They sensed it and wanted me to come. Their co-operation has been the best of any we ever had."

Graham's Dade County crusade concludes Sunday at Miami Beach Convention Hall. Total attendance for the 21-day meeting is expected to top 200,000.

Blast, Fire Wreck Terminal; Two Hurt

Education Is Winner With Court Hiring OK

Education for wards of Juvenile Court got a shot in the arm yesterday as the hiring of six additional employes, including an educational co-ordinator, was approved by the ways and means committee of the board of supervisors.

Probate Court Judges Arthur E. Moore and Donald E. Adams pleaded for the hiring of the six in order "to speed up" and better co-ordinate the 3,000 children handled annually through the Juvenile Court facilities.

The committee also approved the allocation of $35,300 to convert a portion of the unused contagious hospital on Telegraph Road into classrooms. Classes could be then transferred from the overcrowded Children's Home.

Supervisors approved taking $4,000 for the renovation from the county's building maintenance fund and the balance from the courthouse building fund.

Approved as Juvenile Court staff additions for the balance of 1961 were an educational co-ordinator at $11,000 a year, a director of custodial and treatment facilities at $12,000, a special room teacher, an educational psychologist, a child intake worker to interview children committed at night, and a stenographer to work for the new employes.

'KEY' TO CLASSES

The co-ordinator and director, Judge Moore said, were the "key" to whether the conduct of 11 classes for the wards of the court would function smoothly.

The committee decided to take from the county's salaries reserve fund the $17,300 the county must pay the six new employes for the balance of the year. The state pays the rest.

Approval was granted on the stipulation that the judges would report back at the end of the year. This report was urged because some supervisors questioned whether the education of the children shouldn't be placed under William J. Emerson's special education prgram instead of the Juvenile Court.

* * *

Springfield Township Supervisor John L. Carey called for a meeting of top county educational and medical officials to analyze who's responsibility the program should be.

Judge Moore said hiring of the six employes would be done almost immediately.

According to latest estimates, the 3½ million families a year who buy new or used homes also spend an additional 6 billion dollars for home furnishings and equipment.

U.S. Well for Foreign Aid Running Dry, Others Must Help

(Editor's Note — Suppose some one came up to you and asked you and every member of your family to give $421 each to somebody you never met? Well, that's just what you and yours have chipped in over the last 15 years for our foreign aid program. Here's where all your money went.)

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since the end of World War II, the United States has spent the fantastic sum of $85.8 billion to aid allies, friends and former foes.

Of the total, $60.4 billion has gone for economic aid, $25.4 billion for military assistance.

This money has gone to build dams, feed the hungry, purchase plows and seed, rebuild factories, construct roads, water deserts, shore up bankrupt governments, and arm Allies.

But no well is inexhaustible. There are indications that the United States can no longer bear the burden of assistance to the free nations of the world alone — and doesn't intend to.

In his State of the Union address, President Kennedy said, "I intend to ask Congress for authority to establish a new and more effective program for assisting the economic, education and social development of other nations and continents. That program must stimulate and take more effectively into account the contributions of our Allies."

Kennedy proposed in general the creation of a central fund agency to which "each nation will contribute in proportion to its ability to pay."

Then the President added, "While we are prepared to assume our full share of these huge burdens, we can not and must not be expected to bear them alone."

The winds of change were sweeping across the world even before Kennedy assumed office. Former President Eisenhower warned last Oct. 17 that the United States should not be expected to share the burden of aid indefinitely.

"Every nation of the free world," said Eisenhower, "must cooperate in a program of mutual aid if the Communist tide is to be stemmed . . . Our resources are not unlimited . . . it becomes urgent that every nation of the free world does all it can to advance itself and bear its own appropriate responsibility to all the other (free world) nations. No nation is so rich or strong that it can stand alone. No nation is so poor that it cannot make a vital contribution."

$2.5 BILLION EACH YEAR

At the moment the United States is losing money at the rate of $3.8 billion a year; that is, the United States is spending that much more abroad than it earns from foreign sources.

The net result has been a loss of gold used to support the value of the dollar. If the gold drain continues unchecked the loss could undermine the U.S. economy and its position in the world.

Since most of the loss is attributable to the U.S. foreign aid program and maintenance of military commitments overseas, some readjustment is obviously in order.

Whatever the future holds the fact remains that for the past 14 years the United States has given of its treasure to more than 70 nations for the single-minded purpose of keeping free men free.

Whether this huge sum, equal to a tax load of about $421 for every living citizen, has been spent wisely is a matter of debate.

Critics of the "give-away program" (as they call it) have interpreted it as a futile effort to buy the friendship and allegiance of men and nations.

Through every congressional debate on the wisdom of foreign aid since the beginning, however, there has been one prevailing thread, although at times the thread has been obscured in a morass of words about meeting the Communist challenge. It is this:

No man, no nation willingly surrender that spiritual freedom which distinguishes at least some of the nations of the Western world from those dictator-dominated nations which practice thought control.

The United States has recognized that hungry nations are sick nations, prone to heed Communist promises, however false, of full dinner pails and an orderly life.

The basic assumption on the part of the United States has been that free, prosperous and healthy nations are natural allies.

From this assumption has stemmed the parallel belief that the United States and these natural allies together can ultimately fashion a world that is peaceful, prosperous and free.

No nation ever set itself to such a task before. Whatever the end result it will have to be recorded that the United States at least thought of it as a moral obligation to mankind and tried to do something about it.

Much has been made of the fact that the foreign aid program is a way of meeting the Communist challenge, and the Communist promises.

It could be the other way around. It could be that the United States has forced the Communists to contribute part of their resources to the general improvement of mankind; to make good on at least some of their promises.

Class Named After Mrs. Mildred Bennett

22 Girls Will Work Free for Hospital

Twenty-two Pontiac area girls, aged 16 through 18, Saturday will become a part of Pontiac General Hospital's corps of volunteer workers.

* * *

Organized into the Oakland County Red Cross, the girls will go through a one-day indoctrination program in preparation for volunteer work in such positions as messengers, patient escorts and receptionists.

The class, first of its kind in Oakland County, has been named in honor of the late Mrs. Mildred Bennett, executive director of the Oakland County Red Cross.

The girls are members of a future nurses club who decided to make a tangible contribution to the hospital while still in their teens.

It is expected that most of them will be donating time to the hospital on weekends until the end of school and then full time during the summer months.

* * *

"Pontiac General is indeed grateful to this group of volunteers donating their time to bring happiness to others," said Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator.

Soviet Censorship Abolished for Foreign Correspondents

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today abolished censorship for foreign correspondents.

The foreign office press director made the announcement at a news conference.

(In Washington the United States challenged the Kremlin to follow through on its relaxation on foreign correspondent by lifting censorship on what goes to the Soviet people.

(The U.S. view was set forth in a State Department statement saying the United States is gratified that Moscow has lifted direct controls over dispatches that foreign correspondents send from the Soviet Union.)

★ ★ ★

The press director, Mikhail Kharlamov, said he expected the removal of censorship would create new troubles for correspondents circulating unfounded rumors about the Soviet Union.

This appeared to be a direct warning that newsmen would be expelled if their reports were not satisfactory to the Soviet authorities.

Kharlamov warned that all correspondents must keep a copy of all their dispatches sent abroad so long as they remain in the Soviet Union. He explained that some correspondents had insisted that some copy published abroad under their names was not of their writing. By keeping a copy of what is sent out, the correspondent can always answer this question, he said.

150 IN MOSCOW

Censorship is being lifted, Kharlamov said, to expedite the movement of copy of the foreign correspondents who he said had increased from 15 a few years ago to 150 now in Moscow on a permanent basis. About two-thirds of these write for Communist and Socialist publications.

Previously all non-Communist correspondents have been required to submit their copy to censorship before it could be telephoned or telegraphed abroad.

★ ★ ★

Censorship has been in force in the Soviet Union since the revolution in 1917, except for two brief periods. It was suspended briefly during the summer of 1939 but imposed again when the Soviet-Finnish war started. Another brief suspension came after the war in 1946. It lasted only a few weeks.

Lemnitzer Says Chiefs Not Told of Space Move

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer told House investigators today that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were not consulted as a group on Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's order turning over most military space responsibility to the Air Force.

However, Lemnitzer, who is chairman of the joint chiefs, said he was asked for his individual views and "took issue" with the order on some points during its formulation at the Pentagon.

Sees Car Production Rising 23.4 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP)—Passenger-car production will rise 23.4 per cent this week from last but still remains well below normal, Automotive News said today.

The trade paper estimated output at 87,891 units compared with 71,209 last week and 137,519 in the comparable week of 1960.

Most of this week's increase will come in the medium-price field with Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Buick returning to production after a week's shutdown.

Expect Their World to Start Growing Green Soon

Detroit Auto Men Chirp Merry Spring Sales Tune

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT — The auto industry is convincing itself that not only is prosperity just around the corner but that the corner is just ahead.

Top brass from the manufacturers have been flitting around the country persuading car dealers spring is here, the birds are singing and things look great—well, at least a lot better than they have been looking.

It wouldn't really take much to be better.

Chrysler President L. L. Colbert, in a Chicago speech this week, said: "The plain fact is that automobile retail sales since the first of the year have been at the lowest level for any similar period since 1958—and as you know, that was something less than a satisfactory year for our business."

Colbert, though, is one of many who foresees a rather immediate change for the better.

ON THE WAY UP

He says that while the long-awaited upturn in business generally still hasn't made its appearance he feels the auto market has quit moving downward and that a rapid improvement could come early in the second quarter.

★ ★ ★

Lee Iacocca, general manager of Ford Division, says three factors convince him that if the upturn doesn't come by mid-April it will have to come by mid-May.

He lists these as a definite improvement in light truck sales ("These are fellows who could wait if they thought things were going to stay bad."); improved used car prices ("They've been going up every 10-day period since they hit bottom Dec. 10."); and a bright credit picture ("Outstanding auto loans have declined substantially the past two months.").

Iacocca predicts sales of at least 500,000 new passenger cars in March, "nothing spectacular but still real good." This would be some 96,000 below last year, but slightly better than 1950 and 100,000 better than 1958.

STAYS OPTIMISTIC

At Chevrolet General Manager Ed Cole continues to hold to his original prediction of 6.7 million sales for 1961, at least half a million above what anybody else is guessing currently.

Cole's standard-size car has been trailing year-ago figures, but his rear-engined Corvair is one of a handful of makes doing better this year than last.

The spring quarter, starting April 1, is vital to the auto industry since it normally accounts for more than 28 per cent of the year's sales.

Colbert says the auto business is far less seasonal than it was 20 or 30 years ago but spring normally "produces a definite improvement in our sales. This year, with the winter weather having been so bad throughout the East, spring should have an even more important effect than usual."

★ ★ ★

Last year 1,800,000 cars were sold in the April-June quarter while in recession 1958 the total was only 1,220,000. Iacocca predicts a minimum of 1.5 million for the upcoming three months.

Indications are that about 1.1 million domestic cars will be sold in the three months ending March 31, or just about the same number built in that period.

STOCKPILE DOWN

This will mean the industry will move into the second quarter with roughly one million cars in stock. Last April 1 inventory topped one million for the first time in history. Thus, drastic cutbacks in production finally have reduced the stockpile to year-ago levels.

Production will be moving up slightly next month as the manufacturers prepare to back their outward optimism with higher schedules.

Ford already has announced plans to increase output 25 per cent in the second quarter. General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors all expect to follow suit.

★ ★ ★

This in turn will mean fewer shutdowns, less idleness for auto workers and, the companies hope, more incentive for these workers to buy the products they make.

Exile Chief Predicts Fall by Then

Says Fidel Has 18 Months

NEW YORK (AP)—The leader of two major Cuban exile groups pledges that the overthrow of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro will end firing squads and bring free elections within 18 months.

Jose Miro Cardona, 59, a lawyer who served six weeks as premier at the start of the Castro regime, Wednesday announced formation of a new "revolutionary council," with himself as co-ordinator-general.

★ ★ ★

The council consists of representatives of the Democratic Revolutionary Front, regarded as middle-of-the-road and favoring free enterprise, and the Revolutionary Movement of the People, considered left-wing but anti-Communist.

Cardona told a news conference the aim of the council is to "overthrow the Communist tyranny which enslaves the people of Cuba and to reestablish moral peace and harmony among all Cubans."

NO INVASION DATE

He gave no date for any invasion of the island but said: "The arms which we have, and the arms which we will have, will become known when Castro feels their impact." Cardona also called for aid from all exiled Cubans, including other revolutionary groups, "from Canada to Patagonia."

In Havana, Castro termed Cardona's movement "a government of puppets," and said "Cuba must remain alert" against "a group of mercenaries."

The Revolutionary Movement of the People is led by Manuel Ray, former Cuban minister of public works, while the Democratic Revolutionary Front is headed by Manuel Antonio de Varona. Both were present at Wednesday's session with newsmen.

De Varona said Cuba is being "infiltrated daily" by men and supplies, adding: "We have the forces necessary to overthrow Castro."

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Forty-nine international beauties dancing in the Folies Bergere show here have picked the movie "The Apartment" to win in this year's Academy awards presentations April 17.

More than 50 per cent of the girls chose "The Apartment" in their straw vote. The dancers come from England, Denmark, France, Germany, Australia, Scotland and the United States.

Their selection for best actor was Burt Lancaster (Elmer Gentry) and for best actress, Shirley MacLaine (The Apartment).

AFL-CIO Is Pushing Proposal 2 on April 3

DETROIT (UPI) — The Michigan AFL-CIO is sending letters to member unions urging support of Proposal 2 in the April 3 election.

The proposal would enable the state to promote economic development by using its credit to finance industrial, manufacturing and municipal projects.

"Although this is only one small step toward achieving action for Michigan's much-needed economic growth," the letter said, "it is a constructive step which would place our state in a comparable, competitive position among other states seeking new industry and may be of help in expanding employment while municipalities undertake otherwise needed projects."

Area Man in Hospital After Fall From Car

Raymond L. Caudell suffered cuts on his face and hands when he landed in the center of the Williams Lake and Cooley Lake roads intersection.

Centrifugal force threw Caudell from a car driven by Allan Westrick, 23, of St. Clair when the vehicle's right front door flew open, as he turned from Williams Lake Road onto Cooley Lake Road.

Westrick told sheriff's deputies he was traveling about 20 miles an hour approaching the corner. He stopped immediately when Caudell fell out.

Distrust Spells Defeat for Needed School Bond Issues in St. Louis

(EDITOR'S NOTE: "Somehow we have to get our message across," says the superintendent of schools in St. Louis. The message: more money needed. But the city's voters turned thumbs down all last year. This is the last of three articles on school financing problems.)

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — St. Louis has found an enormous rathole and is busy shoveling dollars into it.

In March, in May, and again in November last year, the voters turned down a $24.3-million bond issue to build new schools and modernize some of the old ones. They also rejected, three times, a $5.2-million bond issue for school fire protection.

★ ★ ★

Because the bonds weren't passed, and the schools can't be built, the school system this year is chartering 70 buses to transport 3,600 pupils from their home neighborhoods to schools up to nine miles away.

The buses are costing the city $195,000 this school year, plus $40,000 in overtime pay for teachers who supervise the bus rides. This is $233,000 for the 1960-61 school year.

No one seriously argues here that the new schools aren't needed: six elementary schools are at double their normal capacity; 2,000 elementary school pupils are attending classes in high school buildings; 525 elementary pupils are being taught in rented church quarters; some classrooms have as many as 60 pupils.

Then why did the bond issues fail?

Apathy, ignorance, and resistance to taxes were major factors. But in St. Louis it was something more.

It was distrust of the St. Louis School Board, rocked by scandal and hint of scandal. A racial problem apparently was involved also.

Perhaps most of all, it was a state law requiring that school bond issues must be approved by a two-thirds majority. "We can get 60 per cent," one leading citizen declared, "but that last 6 per cent comes mighty hard."

A school building commissioner, appointed by the school board, was removed from office by a circuit court on charges of gross misconduct in office. Several board members have resigned amidst charges they used school board labor and materials on their own homes.

VOTERS 'JUSTIFIED'

The voters are well aware of this state of affairs. One board member himself said that, under the circumstances, the people of St. Louis would be justified in turning down the bond issues.

Said one home owner: "Of course I voted against the school bonds. Why should I vote money into the hands of those people?"

St. Louis has a population of about 750,000, a drop of more than 100,000 since the 1950 census.

Much of the loss can be attributed to the flight to the suburbs, which many American cities are experiencing.

But in that same 1950-1960 decade, the average daily attendance in the St. Louis public schools rose from 80,626 to 90,581. Much of this increase has been in Negro pupils, who now make up about 45 per cent of the school population.

Many of St. Louis' problems can be traced directly to the slum clearance project in Mill Creek, a section in the near-downtown area. Negroes from Mill Creek moved en masse to North St. Louis, which had been a predominately white neighborhood. There weren't enough schools to handle the influx of pupils, and it is these children who now are being taken by buses to other parts of the city.

3 STRAIGHT DEFEATS

"It's up north where they need the schools," said a housewife in conservative South St. Louis. "We don't need them down here. And if those colored folks think we're going to carry them on our backs, they've got another think coming."

In all three St. Louis elections the school bond issues carried by what, in suburban Parma, Ohio, would have been a comfortable majority. In February the vote was 62,236 for and 35,772 against (63.5 per cent approval). In May it was 35,826 for and 21,453 against (62.5 per cent approval). In November, it was 95,565 for and 64,755 against (59.6 per cent approval).

★ ★ ★

But in St. Louis, where it takes 66.6 per cent approval, these are recorded as just three consecutive defeats for the school bonds.

But apathy played a big part, too.

In March, the "no" votes of 11.1 per cent of the registered voters were enough to defeat the bonds.

In May, it took only 6.7 per cent of the registered voters to block their passage.

In November, the "no" votes of 18.6 of the registered voters were decisive.

As in Parma, there was no organized opposition to the school bonds. Both metropolitan newspapers urged their passage, although both papers had serious reservations about the school board. Catholic and Lutheran church officials supported the bond issues wholeheartedly. PTA groups worked hard for them.

STRESS COST

It was stressed that the bond issues would not be expensive. The average cost to home-owners: about $3 to $6 a year in increased property taxes.

"I voted against them," a white collar worker said. "I'll vote against them every time they come up. It means an increase in our taxes, and I can't afford it.

"Look, here are my tax bills. In 1949 my property tax was $43.52 now it's $106.12. That's more than a 100 per cent increase. How much do they want, anyway?"

★ ★ ★

A housewife said, "our property tax is high enough right now. Those people at city hall are just trying to stuff something down our throats. I don't trust them."

On April 4, St. Louis will hold a school board election. Shortly after that, the school bonds will almost certainly be put up to the voters again.

"We have to keep trying," said Philip J. Hickey, superintendent of instruction for the St. Louis schools. "We just have to. Things are going to get worse as we go along.

2,000 NEW PUPILS

"Our transportation costs will be much higher next year. We expect at least 2,000 new pupils, perhaps more, next fall. We can't keep those elementary pupils in high school buildings, the high schools themselves need the room.

"Nearly half our schools are more than 50 years old. Some of them go back almost to Civil War days. Some of them are fire traps.

"We'll just have to try again. Somehow, someway, we've got to get our message across."

Plan to Send Up Lab Instruments

'Probe' to Go 100,000 Miles Through Space in Next Few Days

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States in a few days will rocket a miniature laboratory on a far-ranging search for knowledge needed to chart flight paths for men "through the least hostile regions" of space.

★ ★ ★

The 78-pound probe will be launched at 24,300 miles an hour on a four-day flight which will carry it more than 100,000 miles into space and back to probable destruction by air friction in the earth's atmosphere.

★ ★ ★

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said instruments aboard the probe are designed "to gather the most definitive information yet obtained" about radiation zones, charged atoms streaming from the sun, and magnetic fields of the earth and interplanetary space.

★ ★ ★

These fields and the charged particles reacting with them "will constitute man's environment," NASA said, "as he ventures into deep space."

★ ★ ★

Radiation zones surrounding the earth, and torrents of particles ejected by explosions on the sun, are serious hazards to manned space flight.

★ ★ ★

But new information like that the new probe is designed to get "will make it possible to chart flight paths through the least hostile regions of interplanetary space," NASA said.

Autres Langues Regnen a Crary Cette Semaine

Today students attending Waterford Township's Crary Junior High School have been listening to short talks in Italian and Russian. Yesterday they heard Norwegian and Swedish.

This is all part of the observance of Foreign Language Week, now drawing to a close.

Throughout the Crary school can be seen display posters made by the art students, and in the library there is a foreign doll exhibit.

Every day this week, the food service department has prepared a different foreign food, and at lunch time, members of the French classes all together and talk only French.

The idea of stimulating an interest in languages and cultures of other lands was sparked by French teacher Clarence Fleury.

The music department is featuring folk songs; the social studies classes have been concentrating on United Nations activities, and students in the French classes broadcast common phrases to certain rooms.

Each morning, one of the 40 faculty members presents a short talk in some foreign language.

The teen-agers have heard Spanish, German, French and Dutch.

"The new idea of teaching foreign languages to seventh, eighth and ninth graders has proven one of the greatest advances in modern educational instruction," Fleury said.

Ontario Votes 3 Ct. Sales Tax

To Take Effect Sept. 1; Food, Some Industrial Items Exempt

TORONTO (AP) — The high cost of growth and expansion has caught up with Ontario, most populous of Canada's 10 provinces.

★ ★ ★

A 3 per cent retail sales tax goes into effect Sept. 1.

There are broad exemptions in the industrial and agricultural field as well as in food and children's clothing, but it will hit about every other item going over the merchant's counter.

The tax is expected to raise $150 million a year, the amount the Ontario government claims it needs in extra revenue.

The take is not earmarked for any specific program and will go into general revenues.

The 1961-62 budget says soaring costs of education, welfare and hospital insurance will eat up most of the increase.

A factor in the financial picture is population growth and demands for more government services that go with it. Ontario has grown 50 per cent in 15 years to six million, about a third of all Canada's population. Similar growth is expected in the next 15 years.

Night Trips Much Safer, Says Haulaway Driver

Most of the city slept as Joe Ropos fastened the tie-down chains on the new automobiles on the upper deck of his haulaway rig. One of a hundred drivers for the F. J. Boutell Driveaway Co., 625 E. Walton Blvd., that's the way his working day begins.

Snowflakes fall as Joe, who lives at 625 Desota Place, takes on 150 gallons of gasoline, picks up delivery receipts for the five Pontiacs in his cargo, and rolls out of the loading yard just before midnight.

He's headed for Cleveland, 189 miles from Pontiac, and is due to arrive at 8 a.m.

That's an easy trip for drivers such as Ropos, a veteran of eight years with the Boutell Co. In that time, he's racked up 600,000 miles and won six safe-driving awards from the National Safety Council. The snow quickly blankets the new cargo as Joe wheels his heavy rig out of Pontiac on U.S. 24 south toward Detroit and Toledo.

But the weather's not his major worry. "It's the next man on the road," he said.

"Motorists who dart suddenly on the highway from a side road are my pet peeve," he continued. "You can only maneuver so fast with 20 tons of steel behind you — especially when the weather is bad."

WATCHES NEXT DRIVER

The secret of traffic safety, says Joe, is "defensive" driving. "I always watch the next man although I have the right of way."

Well-rested from an afternoon nap, Joe doesn't stop until about 3 a.m. when he pulls into a roadside restaurant near Fremont, Ohio.

He eats a full meal and brings his log book up to date.

Maybe it's an odd time for his major meal but Joe doesn't mind.

★ ★ ★

"I prefer night driving," he said. "You make better time and it's safer.

"I miss the 'shift traffic,' the school buses, the salesmen and the tourists," he added.

Resuming his journey, Joe pushes across the Ohio Turnpike. Near Cleveland he stops at a service plaza for a brief rest and coffee.

★ ★ ★

Right on schedule, he delivers his cars to Grabski Pontiac in Cleveland.

After the cars are inspected by the dealer, Joe starts back with his empty rig, checks in at a turnpike motel for eight hours of sleep.

That's a requirement of the Interstate Commerce Commission after a driver's been on the road 10 hours.

Once back in Pontiac, he'll be off 24 hours.

Then it'll be time to hit the road, maintaining the pipeline between the city which produces Pontiacs and the dealers who sell them.

TRUCK STOP — Over a second cup of coffee at a roadside restaurant near Fremont, Ohio, Ropos fills out his log book. The Interstate Commerce Commission requires truckers to keep an account of their time. Time: 3:45 a. m.

SPRUCING UP — Before reporting to the agency, Ropos takes time out to plug in his electric razor and shave in his cab. Time: 7:50 a. m.

JOB'S DONE — Dealer Walter Grabski inspects the delivery receipts as Ropos backs a new Bonneville convertible, one of his cargo of five cars, down the unloading ramps. Time: 8:30 a. m.

GOODBYE KISS — Truck driver Joe Ropos, 625 Desota Place, gets a goodbye kiss from his wife, Willie, at the F. J. Boutell Driveaway Co. terminal, 245 E. Walton Blvd., where he reports to start another trip delivering new automobiles. Time: 10:10 p. m.

Deputies Receive Object Lesson From City Police

Sheriff's deputies learned a lesson in traffic law yesterday afternoon—the hard way.

Some 40 off-duty deputies listened intently for two hours while state police Cpl. Francis Simocan lectured on traffic laws and procedure.

But the hard part of the lesson came after class broke up. The deputies left the county jail building to discover that city police had ticketed many of their cars out front for being illegally parked.

Asks Special Group to Probe Waterways

LANSING (AP) — The chairman of the House Marine Affairs Committee has called for appointment of a special committee to investigate problems of marine safety and water pollution.

★ ★

Rep. Charles A. Boyer, R-Manistee, said the group would consider legislation for a marine safety code, aimed at making lakes and rivers safer for operation of the state's estimated 500,000 watercraft.

His resolution asked appointment of a five-member committee to make its study after the legislature adjourns and report to the 1962 legislature.

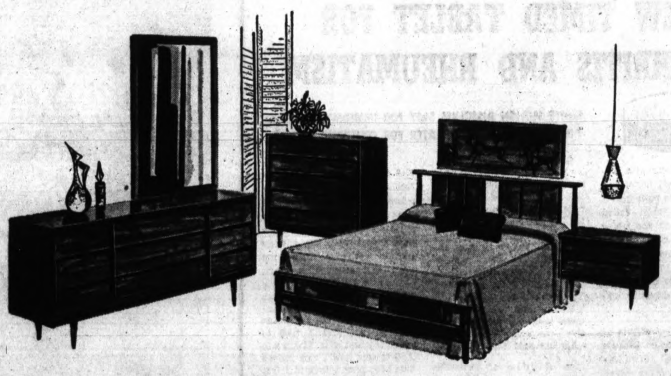

Railroads Top Truckers in Shipping Automobiles

NEW YORK (UPI) — The railroads finally are stealing a march on truckers. In 1958 approximately 87 per cent of all new motor vehicles were shipped by road and only 9.9 per cent by rail.

Now railroad officials look for their share of this market to increase by at least 25 per cent over the next year or two as a result of more efficient auto-carrying flatcars.

Pair May Have Saved 3 Students

Laud Fast-Acting Patrol Boys

Two quick-thinking safety patrol boys at Union Lake Elementary school were credited today with possibly saving the lives of three fellow students Tuesday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Houston Hill, 11, of 3497 Edgewood Park Blvd., and Gregory L. Cline, 11, of 3234 Artis St., both of Commerce Township, were commended by Wayne Francisco, sixth grade teacher and safety patrol sponsor at the school.

Pontiac State Police joined in their praise of the alertness and teamwork exhibited by the lads in literally "running children off the road" from the path of an oncoming car.

The boys were stationed at a school crossing on Union Lake Road at Bywater Street, a few blocks from the school. Hill had lowered the red stop flag on the end of a long pole and Cline was escorting three children across the road.

SEES CAR COMING

Hill said he saw a car "coming fast" about a block away. He screamed to Cline, "Look out."

Cline, seeing the car almost on top of him, had time for only one word. "Move!" he shouted at the others and chased them across in front of him.

★ ★ ★

Both boys said the car sped through the crossing without attempting to stop. Hill quickly got the license number, make and year of the car.

"I didn't have anything to write on so I wrote it in the dirt with my finger," he explained.

The boys explained that at first they thought the car would stop because it had just stopped for a school bus unloading passengers a block away.

State Police traced the license but cannot be prosecuted since it fit with Hill's description of the there was no adult witness to sign car. The owner was "warned" a complaint.

Want to Postpone '62 State Legislature

LANSING (AP) — A Democratic lawmaker thinks the legislature should postpone its 1962 session if voters decide next month to call a constitutional convention.

That way, said Rep. Joseph A. Gillis, D-Detroit, the convention could use legislative chambers for their deliberations, saving money and bad tempers.

★ ★ ★

Simultaneous meeting of the legislature and a constitutional convention would be "intolerable," he said, "comparable to placing a dozen cats and dogs in the same room."

To Relocate Part of Road

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department says it will start making surveys next week on the relocation of 16 miles of U.S. 2 between Watersmeet and Gogebic Station in Gogebic County. The $3-million project is the largest planned for the Upper Peninsula under the department's five-year program.

Easter Seal Sale Is Slow

Deadline Draws Near With Only $9,000 of $60,000 Goal In

The current Easter Seal campaign in Oakland County is still a long way from its goal with time running out, according to figures released today by the Oakland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc.

Easter Seal donations to date total about $9,000. The 1961 goal is $60,000. The active campaign for donations ends Easter Sunday, April 2.

Last year's campaign brought in approximately $40,000. The county society spent some $45,000 in 1960 for direct services to crippled and handicapped children and adults in the area. This does not include operational and salary costs.

★ ★ ★

During the first week of March, when the campaign opened, the society mailed 177,712 envelopes containing the traditional seals.

★ ★ ★

Of those, 4,013 have been returned, 3,573 with donations. Some 440 county residents returned the seals without a donation.

A further breakdown shows that 639 persons donated $5 or more and 2,942 gave less than $5.

"We're averaging under $3 per envelope," said Mrs. Elizabeth A. Kirkby, executive secretary.

★ ★ ★

Public contributions account for about 81 per cent of the society's support. About 90 per cent of your contribution is used in Oakland County with 10 per cent going to the National Easter Seal Research Foundation.

Named to State Post

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson has announced the appointment of John F. (Jack) Hueni, deputy comsioner since 1959, as acting commissioner of the State Corporation and Securities Commission.

Pushing Scholle for Post

LANSING (AP) — In a move to strengthen labor's voice in conservation matters, the Michigan AFL-CIO is promoting its president, August Scholle, for membership on the State Conservation Commission.

★ ★ ★

Scholle confirmed today that he is interested in an appointment when terms of three commissioners expire April 1.

All three — George A. Griffith of Grayling, Lawrence J. Gotschall of Baldwin and Peter J. Calcaterra of Norway — have asked for reappointment to the seven-member commission.

The Union's executive board endorsed Scholle for the commission at a meeting this month. Asked why he was singled out for endorsement, rather than another Union member with fewer administrative responsibilities, Scholle declared.

★ ★ ★

"It's possible the board feels I am the most competent and qualified."

Scholle said he told the board that it would have to cut his work load if he is named to the commission.

The AFL-CIO action put the pressure on Gov. Swainson, who is heavily indebted to the Union for his upset victory in the Democratic primary election last August and subsequent election in November.

Test Crew of Six Die in Plane Crash

COLUSA, Calif. (UPI) — A six-man test crew was killed Wednesday when a four-engine Super Constellation crashed and burned in a rice field on a shakedown flight from McClellan Air Force Base near Sacramento.

An Air Force spokesman said there were no classified weapons about the plane and the cause of the crash was not known.

"There was no word from the plane at all — it just disappeared," he said. "It must have been sudden."

Wayne State U., U. of M. Form Joint Plan Unit

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—The presidents of the University of Michigan and Wayne State University today announced creation of a joint commission on unified planning for the two schools.

The commission will study all phases of education programs at Michigan and Wayne State in an effort to bring about closer coordination in every possible way.

Each school is represented by five members on the commission, including Presidents Harlan Hatcher of Michigan and Clarence Hilberry of Wayne State.

NEW TIMED TABLET FOR ARTHRITIS AND RHEUMATISM

WHITE SECTION DISSOLVES FAST FOR IMMEDIATE RELIEF
PINK SECTION DISSOLVES LATER FOR CONTINUED RELIEF

Arthritic and rheumatic sufferers can now get faster and longer relief from pain with a wonderful new tablet called X-8. These tablets are newer than aspirin. They act faster. They are more powerful, and they are timed to give relief for 8 hours. They don't upset the stomach or digestive system.

The pain relieving effects of X-8 last for 8 hours because each tablet is built in two layers — a white layer which goes to work immediately and a pink layer which starts to work when the effects of the white layer begin to wear off. Here is what some users of X-8 tablets have written to us recently:*

Mrs. J. H. B. of Jackson, Mich., writes, "We have had wonderful results with X-8 tablets. My husband could not reach down and tie his shoes before; now he can tie them and even touch the floor with his hands. He does not have the pain in his back. His hip and leg have bothered him for years and now he is comfortable, thanks to X-8. He is even sleeping better."

Two sisters from Detroit signed a joint letter which said: "X-8 helped greatly in relieving pains due to arthritis. My sister has never found any other product to be of such aid. At one time or another she has tried most of the liquids and pills on the market, but with no success. The liquid preparations cause blistering and the pills cause upset stomach, but this is not the case with X-8. It gives complete and total relief."

Mrs. Riddle of Belleville, Mich., wrote as follows: "I have used X-8 tablets. I found them not only to ease the pain but also to relax me. I would take one at bed time and rested much better at night. I also felt better the next day. I think they are the best I have ever used."

Mrs. M. P. of Sheenan St., Detroit 13, writes: "I find that X-8 tablets are far more effective than aspirins for headaches and other pains and they do not upset my stomach as aspirins did. I have a knee injury that with the change in the weather is causing me pain and much discomfort. Until now I had been taking aspirins to relieve the pain, but somehow I was never successful because the pain was still present and I had to make the best of it. Thanks to X-8 tablets now I can relieve this thumping ache and I feel more comfortable for a longer period of time."

If you have arthritis, rheumatism or other chronic pain, try X-8 now by filling in the coupon below. Fast and satisfactory results are guaranteed or your money will be refunded.

Freeman Explains Farm Plan

Says Feed-Grain Cutback May Be Key to Success

OHAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said today the fate of the administration's broad new farm policy may hinge on the success of its emergency program for cutting 1961 feed grain acreage.

Freeman launched a whirlwind administration campaign to win farmer cooperation in the acreage-reduction program with an appearance here before a meeting of state-level Agricultural Stabilization Committee officials and extension service officials from 12 corn belt states.

Freeman said that the city public, whose legislators helped write the new feed grain plan into law, is watching to see how farmers use "this first real opportunity to bring production into line with demand."

Government feed grain surpluses, mounting steadily in recent years, now total about $4 billion.

Congressional action on the feed plan was completed Wednesday and President Kennedy signed it into law a few hours later.

The plan offers increased feed-grain price supports plus direct acreage-reduction payments to farmers who reduce corn and grain sorghum acreage a minimum of 20 per cent.

The agriculture secretary made two important announcements about the operation of the new program in Omaha.

First, he said, no corn or grain sorghum grower can get 1961 price supports on any feed grains unless he reduces acreage of corn or sorghum.

Acreage reduction is the heart of the program.

* * *

The new bill provides that growers can't get corn or sorghum support unless they cut acreage of those crops by 20 per cent. The bill left it up to Freeman to decide whether noncooperating growers should also lose supports on other grains.

* * *

The bill also provides payments to growers who reduce their acreage of 50 per cent of normal yield on the first 20 per cent reduction and 60 per cent of normal yield on further reductions up to another 20 per cent.

* * *

This leads to Freeman's second major announcement.

He said all acreage-reduction payments will be made in the form of negotiable certificates which will be redeemable in government grain.

Half the payment to each farm will be made shortly after the farmer signs up for the program.

* * *

Growers who want cash for their certificates will be able to get cash from county ASC offices. But whether any individual grower takes cash or grain, eventually all the certificates will be redeemed for grain.

The grain will move at market prices, a threat to farmers who depend on the open market because they're not eligible for price support.

For corn and sorghum growers, supports this year will be limited in volume to the amount the farmer could raise at normal yields. Any excess will not be support.

* * *

Here are the 1961 support rates compared with the 1960 supports;

CORN—$1.20 a bushel this year compared with $1.06.

SOYBEANS — $2.30 a bushel, compared with $1.85.

GRAIN SORGHUMS — $1.93 a hundredweight, compared with $1.52.

BARLEY — 93 cents a bushel, compared with 77 cents.

OATS — 62 cents a bushel, compared with 50 cents.

RYE — $1.02 a bushel, compared with 90 cents.

FLAXSEED — $2.80 a bushel, compared with $2.38.

COTTONSEED — $49 a ton on farm-stored seed compared with $38.

Protest Rezoning for Plant

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—After approving a request of Robert Wethington to rezone his property on Clintonville and Waldron roads from suburban farms to manufacturing, the Township Board had to "back up" and set a hearing date for April 11, due to objections from area residents.

* * *

Wethington told the board that he has received a government contract for his tool and die shop, and that he must expand in order to fulfill the obligation.

The Township Board also agreed to cooperate with the Waterford Township Board and the Oakland County Road Commission in a $10,000 black-topping project on Mann Road.

The road is on the township line, and Waterford has agreed to pay one-fourth. Independence, one-fourth and the road commission will assume the balance for paving 1,700 feet of road.

Three bids for a cemetery truck were rejected and new bids will be asked, with more detailed specifications included.

Funerals to End Tragic Incident

Schedule Final Rites for 2 Playmates Who Drowned in Sterling

STERLING TOWNSHIP — One funeral today and another Saturday culminate tragedies in the lives of four parents whose little daughters drowned together in the Clinton River Monday afternoon.

Final rites for Terry Cate, 4, whose body was recovered from the rain-swollen river at noon yesterday, will be held at 2:15 p.m. Saturday at the Diener Funeral Home, Shelby Township.

Service for her 2½-year-old playmate, Catherine Lapp, was slated for 2 p.m. today at the same funeral home. She will be buried in Cadillac Memorial Gardens Cemetery East, Mount Clemens.

* * *

Catherine's body was recovered by Macomb County Sheriff's deputies and volunteer skin divers Monday, a few hours after the children were reported missing.

* * *

Catherine is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Lapp of 8830 Suncrest Drive. The Lapps have four other children at home, three girls and a boy.

PARENTS CONFUSED

Terry's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cate Jr. of 11721 Waitley Road. Mrs. Cate told police Monday she thought the children were playing at the Lapp home.

But Mrs. Lapp believed they were visiting Terry's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cate of 8808 Suncrest Drive.

Instead, police theorized that the little playmates wandered to the foot of Suncrest Drive, tumbled over the banks of the Clinton River and drowned.

* * *

Catherine's body was found about one-quarter of a mile downriver from the foot of Suncrest Drive. Terry's was recovered near the same part of the river yesterday.

Terry was the oldest of three girls. She is survived by Deborah, 2, and Cathy, 8 months.

Fight to Fence Rails From Private Land

LANSING (AP) — A dispute over a State Public Service Commission order requiring railroad right of way to be fenced off from private property in Detroit is being heard as a test case in Ingham County Circuit Court.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad is fighting the order involving an area between Telegraph Road and West Parkway Avenue, in Detroit. Members of a Detroit Citizens group said they wanted the area fenced off for safety of children.

Railroad attorneys indicated they are fighting the order because it might create a precedent which could require such fencing throughout the state at prohibitive cost.

Judge Louis E. Coash said testimony would be referred back to the commission and that he would make no decision at this time.

Fugitive Family to Return

Back to Africa for Missionary

Dr. John Slater, 28-year-old missionary from Pontiac who, along with his older brother, was rescued in January from the civil war-torn Congo by United Nations troops announced today that he will return to Africa in July, taking his wife and two children back with him.

★ ★ ★

The older brother, who is also a Baptist missionary, Dr. Dwight Slater, 34, already is en route by ship around Cape Horn with his family to new duties in West Africa.

Dr. John Slater and his family plan to join the Dwight Slaters in July at a remote mission hospital in the Republic of the Ivory Coast, 200 miles inland.

The brothers intend to carry on their missionary work there among natives. The Slaters only connection with the rest of the world for the next two to three years will be a railroad winding through jungles, except for letters and a wireless radio.

Dr. John Slater, his 29-year-old wife Marion and their two youngsters, year-old Karen Beth and Kenneth, 3, have been visiting the doctor's mother, Mrs. Hazel Slater at her home at 187 E. Huron St. since they managed to escape the Congo in May, along with Dr. Dwight Slater and his family, after the Belgians withdrew from their former African colony, leaving it to a bloody civil war.

The younger of the two missionary brothers has been busy in the Pontiac area since then trying to raise money to replace medical equipment confiscated by Congolese rebels when they took over the mission hospital in ravaged Kivu Province, deep in the heart of Africa.

Dr. John Slater will address the Pontiac Exchange Club when it meets at noon tomorrow in the Waldron Hotel.

He hopes to have the necessary funds to put the Ivory Coast mission hospital at Ferkessedougou back into operation. It has been closed for the past two years for lack of a doctor.

The Republic of the Ivory Coast, formerly part of French West Africa, is a free and independent state governed by natives. Dr. John Slater said he sees little chance of having to face the same risks there that were experienced in the Congo when whites were harassed, tortured and slain by the suddenly-freed natives.

LEADERS EDUCATED

Highly-educated native leaders in the Ivory Coast makes the difference, explained Dr. John Slater. While the literacy average was higher among natives in the Congo, their leaders are ill-equipped educationwise, being no better than the average, he said.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Slater surmised that the natives of the Ivory Coast would be harder to convert to Christianity, since many are Moslems also seeking converts from paganism.

"But, at least we'll know our converts are real—not like in the Congo, where many assumed the title because it was fashionable and not always because they were believers," said the doctor.

"We'll have to learn new languages again," he added. The West Africans speak Djula and Senari.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Dwight Slater, with his wife, Barbara, 35, and their four children, Linnea, 8, Dwight E., 6, Bruce, 4, and Brent, 2, expects to arrive at the Ivory Coast by mid-April.

Judge Picard Asks for His Retirement

BAY CITY (AP)—U.S. District Court Judge Frank A. Picard today sent a letter to President Kennedy asking to be relieved of his judicial duties at 11 a.m. March 31.

It was exactly 22 years ago at that hour that Picard was named to the Eastern District of the Michigan federal bench by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Democratic sources said they were sure Rep. Thaddeus Machrowicz, D-Mich., would be named to succeed Picard.

Would Consider Parents Paying Parochial Costs

LANSING (AP)—Tax consideration for parents who pay parochial school tuition will be asked of the federal government today by Rep. William Romano, D-Warren.

★ ★ ★

In a concurrent resolution ready for introduction in the House, Romano urged Congress to allow parents who send their children to parochial school to deduct the tuition from their income tax. He said:

★ ★ ★

"Since millions of parochial students are thus paid for in our local public school systems, but cost these systems nothing, I feel their parents deserve to be able to deduct the tuition from their taxable income."

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Narcissa Nicholson Rickman has made a lifelong habit of reading six verses of Psalms after breakfast every day.

Coffee Break Grinds Victim of Safe Robber

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The coffee break, which has spread to most legitimate businesses, apparently has penetrated the other kind, too.

The clerk of a cleaning shop reported that a young man walked into the store, helped himself to a cup of coffee from a pot, then sat on a stool next to an unlocked safe and chatted amiably.

After he left, the clerk discovered that $72 was missing from the safe.

Decorators Rediscover Federalism

By JOYCE SCHULLER
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — Americana fanciers with a taste for formal, but not too formal, furniture, are rediscovering Federal furniture, which falls midway between rustic Colonial and starched Williamsburg.

Historically, the Federal period spanned the years immediately following the American Revolution to the early 19th century. Classicism still dominated design and architecture, and furniture of the period was graceful with flowing lines, bow-front chests and turned or tapered legs.

★ ★ ★

The favorite decorative motif of the period was and still is the American eagle.

Current reproductions of Federal furniture feature the eagle perched atop mirrors, clocks and highboys, on couch feet and finials and with wings spread wide as a table base.

New decorative accessories with the look of the Federal period also carry out the eagle theme. These include a pair of candlesticks in the shape of the eagle, available in either a warm nutmeg or metalgold finish.

★ ★ ★

Matching the candlesticks is a mantel clock on an eagle-footed base, with a traditional broken arch top, but modernized with battery power and a seven-jewel movement that operates noiselessly for 12 to 15 months without a battery change. The clock is available only in a nutmeg finish.

Among the newer lamps decorated with the Federal eagle motif are ceramic ones and more traditional brass ones with fluted column bases and toile shades.

Can't Take Your Cake, Eat It Too

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: After our bridge club meeting the other night, the hostess served very delicious looking homemade cheese cake. As I had a rather sick stomach that day I thought it best not to eat any of it.

I explained this to the hostess and asked her if I might have my piece to take home and eat the next day. I was criticized later for having done this. Will you please tell me if I committed a breach of etiquette?

A: I'm sorry but it cannot be considered proper to leave a friend's house carrying a package of food to eat the next day.

Q: Is it correct for the host, when serving guests, to have the dinner plates stacked up in front of him surrounded by the meat, potatoes and vegetable which he serves on the individual plates and passes around? This irks me no end.

It is embarrassing if you have a small appetite and have to leave half or more on your plate, which could be an insult to the hostess. I feel this custom went out years ago but I have relatives who still practice it. I would like your opinion on this.

A: If the host is carving a roast, or let us say a turkey, at the table, he properly asks the guest of honor if she prefers a rare or well done piece of the roast, or the white or dark meat of the turkey, puts her preference on a plate and passes it to her.

He then does the same for each of the other guests. The potatoes and vegetables should, however, be passed around for guests to help themselves. If the meat is carved in the kitchen, it too should be passed around.

Q: Will you please tell me if it is in good taste to use writing paper that is slightly scented?

A: There is no reason why a woman shouldn't use light scented paper for her personal correspondence. This is best done by putting her favorite sacket bag in the drawer or box with the writing paper.

The Emily Post Institute is sorry it cannot answer personal mail.

Try Refined Food, Exercise

Cures to Body Problem

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Constipation is a problem which many people have.

Various factors lead to this condition. Some are highly concentrated and refined foods, the sedentary life, or lack of exercise, the rush and tension of existence, lax abdominal muscles and poor posture.

Meat and potatoes, fruit juice and milk, eggs and cheese, are all essential foods, but they do not provide much roughage. You also need fruits and vegetables and whole grain products for roughage as well as for health.

* *

Physical inactivity leads to a general slowdown of the body's processes, and lax abdominal muscles and poor posture do not give us the inner support we need.

* *

Sometimes just a change in diet and special exercises can solve this difficulty. An addition of more bulk to the diet, abdominal exercises and posture improvement are all valuable.

MORNING ROUTINE

If you have the problem of constipation, give yourself a few minutes each morning for the following routine.

Lie on your back on the floor. Bend both knees and place both feet on the floor. Push toward the ceiling with your abdominal muscles (as far as comfortable).

*

Slowly, pull your abdominal muscles down toward your backbone. Continue this slowly, up and down.

Now bend your left knee up close to your abdomen. Grasp it with both hands and pull back gently. Straighten the leg and return leg and arms to the floor.

This time bend the right knee and pull the right knee back to the abdomen. Return arm and leg to the floor. Continue, alternating left and right.

Relax while you sip (very slowly) a glass of ice water, or fruit juice or a soft drink. The temperature is the important factor! The liquid MUST be ice cold, with lots of ice in the glass.

* * *

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Constipation" which gives more detailed and comprehensive help, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 23. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Abby Says: Maybe Dad Is Right

Do the Bills Ever Peel Off?

DEAR ABBY: I am 37 and my new boy friend is 57. He is a very nice man and I expect he is going to propose any time as he sort of talks that way.

ABBY

He is not the extravagant type but he has a peculiarity I want to ask you about. He carries his money in a roll of bills with a rubber band around it. My Daddy says this is a sure sign of a stingy man. I would like some advice.

CORA

DEAR CORA: If he just "carries it" and the rubber band never comes off and neither do any of the bills, your Daddy is right.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very good natured, but he has one fault that drives me crazy. He is very untidy.

I am not a fussy person about housekeeping, but it unnerves me to clean house and then have him come home and throw his coat on the couch, hang his tie on the doorknob, drop his shirt on the floor, drape his trousers on another doorknob, and throws his socks and underwear under the bed.

He walks around the house barefoot, leaves newspapers all over the floor and anything he takes out of the refrigerator (milk or butter) just stands around. He throws himself (all 210 pounds of him) on my good bedspread and "relaxes."

I've tried talking nicely to him (he calls this "nagging") and letting things pile up, but nothing works. Have you any suggestions?

GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Accept him for what he is. A big, good-natured slob.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am a ninth-grader taking biology. I love biology, but I can't stand the smell of the room. I know the remains of frogs, earthworms and crayfish have to be preserved, but does it have to smell like that?

NAUSEATED

DEAR NAUSEATED: All biology labs smell like that. Ask your teacher if you may spray it with scented air purifier. (Aren't we lucky Darwin could stand it?)

DEAR ABBY: My husband's cousin is being married. He asked my husband to be best man. He also asked our 6-year-old daughter to be the flower girl. My husband said only those in the wedding party were invited to the dinner. That leaves me and the other five children out.

When I asked him where we were supposed to eat, he said we should stay home. He is 36 and I am 33 and I think I have done my share of staying home since my marriage. My children are 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. What is the solution?

LEFT OUT

DEAR LEFT: Your children aged 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 do not belong at a wedding dinner, so get a sitter and go with your husband. As the wife of the best man, and mother of the flower girl, I am sure you will be welcome.

Says Vows Before Altar Banked With Carnations

Joanne Evelyn Murray exchanged wedding vows with Branton E. Dennis Jr. Saturday afternoon in Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Theodore Allebach performed the single-ring ceremony before an altar banked with white carnations in the presence of some 150 guests.

Daughter of the Maurice H. Murrays of Silver Sands Drive, Drayton Plains, the bride appeared in candlelight raw silk mist, styled with chapel train. The scoop-neck fitted bodice which featured brief shirred sleeves was appliqued with seed pearls and sequins.

* * *

An elbow-length veil of silk illusion was held by a pearl tiara, and crushed opera-length gloves were worn. The necklace and earrings of cultured pearls were the gift of the bridegroom.

A gardenia corsage centered the cascade bouquet of hyacinths and white cymbidium orchids.

* * *

Mrs. Donald Deeter of Dayton, Ohio, matron of honor, wore bouffant waltz-length light-blue silk organza over taffeta with matching shoes and hat. Her flowers were azalea pink hyacinths.

David S. Dennis of Anderson, Ind., stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Branton E. Dennis of East Kennett Road. Robert Reid of Detroit and Raymond Solwold seated the guests.

After the church reception, the new Mrs. Dennis donned a white wool jersey sheath dress and brown accessories for the motor honeymoon to Miami, Fla.

The bridegroom, who is a graduate of Michigan State University, will return with his bride to Salmer Drive.

* * *

A corsage of Talisman roses and a lime flower hat complemented Mrs. Murray's sheath dress of beige silk organza with bodice of carmel-shade Chantilly lace.

The mother of the bridegroom, wearing purple Chantilly lace over a lilac taffeta sheath, chose lilac accessories. Her flowers were Charlotte Armstrong roses.

Kennedy's Old House Status Hunter's Deal

By RUTH MILLETT

If the home has become America's No. 1 status symbol — as the experts say it has — a rare bargain in "homes for sale" was offered recently in Washington, D.C.

According to a news item the Georgetown house of President and Mrs. Kennedy was placed on the market. When America's first couple bought the house in 1957 they paid $78,000 to call it home.

It was said to be for sale for a mere $105,000—and cheap at the price for anyone looking for the ultimate in status symbols.

How much more in status could you get for a $27,000 mark-up than the former address of the man who just moved into the White House?

I haven't seen the house, but even if the roof leaks and the doors stick I say it's still a steal at the price.

And just think — the new occupants won't have to do any redecorating.

If sancy little Caroline left any fingermarks on the walls they'll be a conversation piece.

If a guest doesn't approve of the decor the new mistress of the house can say nonchalantly, "Well, it isn't what I would have chosen. But we didn't think it would be tactful to change everything. Don't you agree?"

Boy, oh boy. Talk about status symbols. Where else could any status-seeking couple get so much for their money?

2 Play Host for 23

Mrs. Harry J. McGrath, Mrs. Phillip Meacham and Mrs. J. R. Peterson were cohostesses to 23 January-March Group members of First Presbyterian Church Tuesday. Six guests attended the meeting.

A review of the book "The Silver Plated Spoon," by John Duke of Bedford was presented by Adah Shelly.

Reuther Prepares to Fight Over Contracts

UAW Won't Scrap Escalator Wage Clause

By ROBERT IRVIN
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT — One thing appears certain as the United Auto Workers prepares to bargain with carmakers over new contracts for 600,000 men.

The UAW plans to oppose any suggestion that it eliminate from contracts an escalator clause which ties wages to prices.

According to government figures, the number of workers covered by such cost of living clauses has declined by about 500,000 in the past year.

In addition, about 500,000 steelworkers accepted a watered-down cost of living clause in their settlement last year. Under a complicated formula, it limits payments to no more than three cents an hour each year of a two-year contract.

REUTHER TO FIGHT

UAW President Walter P. Reuther has served notice he will fight any attempt by the auto industry to shave the cost of living benefits or eliminate annual pay increases geared to a productivity factor.

"It will be dangerous and unrealistic and nonsense for the industry to fool with the cost of living and improvement factors in our contracts," Reuther said at a recent union meeting.

These clauses are "essential provisions of all UAW contracts," Reuther said, "and at the end of the negotiations, they will still be there."

According to the Union, UAW members have received $1.12 an hour under the two clauses since 1948. This includes 51 cents because of the higher cost of living, and 61 cents in annual improvement raises.

★ ★ ★

The improvement factor provides an annual pay raise of 2½ per cent or six cents an hour, whichever is greater.

Reuther claims that because of the "accelerating pace of technological advance" the improvement factor is not yet adequate and should be increased "to a more realistic level."

★ ★ ★

One large section of the Union, the skilled trades department, has gone on record favoring an extension of the cost of living principle to the Union pension program—so that when prices rise, pensions for retired workers would also increase.

The annual pay raise clause is noninflationary according to Reuther, because the increases "come out of the increased productivity . . . and not out of the pickets of American consumers through higher prices."

Some of the auto companies are said to be unhappy about the cost of living clause. And Chrysler Corp. was reported to have tried unsuccessfully to scrap the improvement factor in the 1958 auto talks.

Urges Tripling Tippling Tax

Republican Says Hike on Beer Would Give State $38 Million

LANSING (UPI)—The state tax on beer will be tripled if the legislature approves a bill introduced by a Republican leader in the House.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Carroll C. Newton, assistant GOP floor leader, proposed boosting the tax from two-thirds of a cent to 2½ cents on a 12-ounce bottle of beer brewed in Michigan. Out-of-state beer would be taxed at 3 cents.

Newton said the measure would increase the state's annual tax income from beer sales from $14 to $38 million.

The measure would bring the beer levy closer in line with liquor taxes, which average 11-cents an ounce, he said.

The legislature doubled the beer tax in 1959.

★ ★ ★

Ready for house debate was a bill that would subtract the allowance on trade-in items in figuring the tax on the new product. Rep. Rollo G. Conlin, R-Tipton, chairman of the House Taxation Committee endorsed it as a move to promote sale of major hard goods, such as automobiles.

Robeson Lauds Soviets at Patrice Lumumba U.

Alma Oil Firm Given Contract for Jet Fuel

DETROIT (UPI) — The Small Business Administration has announced the awarding of a $1,217,000 contract to Leonard Refineries, Inc., of Alma for jet fuel.

The SBA also announced that Lake Shore, Inc., of Iron Mountain received a contract totaling more than $248,000 for winches.

State Vets and Families Get $223 Million in '60

DETROIT (UPI) — Robert M. Fitzgerald, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office here, said today veterans and their families in Michigan received cash benefits and services totaling $223,816,689 during fiscal 1960.

The amount was $32,656,974 more than state veterans and their families received the previous fiscal year.

Look for Veal Specials; Spring Produce Buys

A slight decrease in wholesale pork prices may be your gain this week, especially if the family likes pork chops or loin roasts. Since pork supplies will be lighter and prices will be higher this summer, this may be the time to freeze a few extra cuts for the freezer.

* * *

Although wholesale prices of veal, fryers and roasters continue about the same, some retail stores are emphasizing these meats this week reports the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

A helpful guide when selecting meat is the amount of lean the meat contains. We eat meat mainly for protein, and the protein is in the lean. Based on meat from a 225 pound hog the average per cent of lean in some pork cuts is as follows; Boston butt (shoulder roast) 84 per cent; sausage 75 per cent; loin roasts or chops 67 per cent; ham (with bone in) 63 per cent; picnic 61 per cent; spareribs 59 per cent; bacon (side) 45 per cent.

Did you know? The law states that certified government inspectors must approve the sanitation of the plant and the wholesomeness of the product for all poultry merchandised or moved across any state line. When you find the U.S. Department of Agriculture shield with the grade, this is a guide to quality.

Poultry classed as U.S. Grade A is well fleshed, has a broad full breast, and short meaty legs. It has a layer of fat well distributed beneath the skin while the skin itself has to tears, bruises or pinfeathers.

VEAL

Your quality guide when buying veal depends upon color and texture of the meat. The best veal is light grayish pink in color. The meat is very fine in grain, fairly firm, and velvety in texture. Veal has very little fat and this is clear, firm, and white. Veal has no marbling. The bones are porous and red and the ends of some of them are still pliable.

Eggs for breakfast, lunch, or dinner is an easy way to "up" the protein in thtwih tay'sdiede the protein in the day's diet with no strain on the food allowance. The large size egg is the best egg-buy at this season.

The egg shell has no effect on egg quality. White or brown shell eggs of the same grade have the same nutritive value.

Bananas and grapefruit are fresh fruits in heavy supply. About 13 per cent of the annual total crop of grapefruit is marketed in March, the month of peak supply.

Signs of spring at the produce counter — fresh asparagus from California, hothouse rhubarb and fresh cultivated mushrooms from Michigan, new red potatoes from Florida, fresh pineapple from Puerto Rico and Mexico.

If pineapple is not quite ripe, let it ripen at room temperature. Its fragrance becomes more pronounced and it is ripe enough to eat when a green leaf from the crown can be easily plucked. Remember, the Mexican pineapple will be ripe when it's still green in color on the outside.

Price comparisons show that Michigan potatoes cost less per pound than those from other states. Whether you buy new or old potatoes, it's a good rule to use them within a week.

You may wish to check canned foods in the spotlight at this time. Tomatoes and tomato juice, peas, corn; fruit cocktail, pears and pineapple are a few of the canned items priced in multiple units this week.

Banana Rolls Are Main Course

Ham Banana Rolls make a popular change from the usual main dish—so try them during the week and give your family a really delightful treat. Fortunately, they are easy to prepare and serve and we foresee many encores after they have made their first appearance:

Ham Banana Rolls

4 thin slices boiled ham (approx. ⅛ inch thick)
Prepared mustard
4 firm bananas
2 to 4 teaspoons melted butter or margarine
Cheese Sauce*

Spread each ham slice with mustard. Peel bananas. Wrap each one in a slice of ham and brush banana tips with melted butter. Place in greased, shallow baking dish; cover with Cheese Sauce. Bake 30 minutes in 350-degree oven, or until bananas are easily pierced with a fork. Serve hot with Cheese Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Cheese Sauce

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
¾ cup milk
1½ cups grated sharp Cheddar cheese

Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, making a smooth paste. Slowly add milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat. Add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Makes 1 cup.

Date Nut Sauce Is Versatile Spread

One of the best places to put dates is into a Hot Date-Nut Sauce which will reign supreme at breakfast or brunch, or as a dessert.

* * *

To prepare, combine 1 package of chopped dates (a generous cup) with ¼ cup of chopped walnuts, ¾ cup apple sauce and ¼ cup of orange juice. Heat slowly until bubbly, then add 1 teaspoon of grated lemon rind, and mace and cinnamon to taste. Reduce heat and simmer slowly until thickened, about 15 minutes. Stir occasionally to keep from sticking.

* * *

Serve hot for breakfast and brunch atop waffles, or for dessert as a pound cake topping. And you can also serve this sauce cold as an excellent filling for sweet rolls or a spread for oven-hot biscuits and muffins.

Today's Guidepost: Priest Is Born in His Captor's Conscience

FRED C. NACHTIGAL
Waco, Tex.

The B17 on which I was waist-gunner had been set on fire by flak two days earlier on the morning of April 20, 1945. Five of the crew were killed; five of us managed to bail out.

I landed on a small island. On the lake shore, close by, was a crowd of angry civilians; one man shot at me as my chute neared the ground. There was no chance of escape, so I surrendered when a man came for me in a boat.

Fr. Nachtigal

German soldiers arrived and searched me. They found my rosary and miraculous medal.

One soldier asked in English: "You are Catholic?"

"Yes," I said.

"You can keep these," he said, returning the rosary and medal. I was grateful for them.

A GUARD

Then I was transferred to an airbase where a camp officer told me: "We have no facilities here for prisoners of war. You will be put in our camp jail and a guard will be assigned to you, until the general decides what he wants to do with you."

The guard was a young German airman of my own age. Although we weren't supposed to converse and our language differences made attempts difficult, he managed to convey to me that his name was Fritz Beckman, that he had a wife and son and that he was worried about them.

Often I sensed he was praying with me as I said my rosary.

One day Fritz Beckman took me into Berlin and turned me over to the jailers. But the next afternoon he was back and I gathered that I was to be taken to another prison.

I followed him into the streets and we were making our way to the railroad station when British bombers filled the sky. Beckman led me to an air raid shelter.

SISTER IN U.S.

Just before darkness, he wrote on a piece of paper and handed it to me. He had written the name of Mrs. Lou Strolin, with an address in Wallingford, Conn.

"My sister," he said several times until I understood, "You write her. Say I am all right."

We left the basement and went to the railroad station and rode far out into the country. Others who got off with us walked down a road, but Beckman turned into the woods.

He took me to the road where a small group of civilians had gathered. "You are to come with us," one man said, "We are refugees and we're going to try to reach safety."

AFTER THE WAR

During the war I had seen the many hardships that people suffered, and I decided that now, after the war, I must do something that would be helpful to others, so I planned to go into social work and began my studies at the university.

But the more I thought about it, the more I realized that God was a distinct factor in saving my life. Others told me the same.

As a result, I became increasingly aware that to help people spiritually, rather than socially, was more important because it would bring them closer to God.

I discussed my feelings with my spiritual director, and he agreed I should begin my studies for the priesthood.

In 1957, Beckman's sister wrote me. He was applying for entrance into the United States. Would I cosponsor him? Immediately I wrote a report of all I knew about Fritz Beckman.

* * *

I did not see Beckman again until a morning in June 1958 when he arrived in Cleveland. I invited him to attend the first Solemn High Mass of my priesthood. The newspaper learned how we had met, and reporters came to interview us. Fritz now knew English, and I was stunned as I heard him tell his side of our friendship.

HIS CONSCIENCE

He said;

"In the last days of the war, there was much panic in Germany. Men did not always think what they were doing. My commanding general told me he did not want to be burdened with a prisoner, so he ordered me to kill you."

My heart stopped as our eyes met. Fritz went on:

"But I could not do it. My conscience would not permit it. You were a prisoner. To kill you would have been senseless murder. So I disobeyed orders.

"That was how I came to take you to the Berlin jail, and returned when I learned that the prisoners there also were to be shot. All I cared about was that somehow I had to save you."

I was overwhelmed. "But, Fritz," I said, "if you had been caught--"

"I didn't care," he said. "I knew I had a duty to my country, but I had a greater duty to my God. It was a matter of conscience. I could not bring myself to act against my conscience, no matter what the risk."

* * *

Every day at Mass now I ask God to bless the man who, as an exemplary Lutheran all his life, had listened to his Christian conscience and thereby acted in a way which has enabled me to spend the rest of my life as a Catholic priest.

Coffee Break Lures Customers Off Street

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Bureau of Advertising, commenting on new retailing gimmicks, reported that one appliance dealer is inviting shoppers to "share our coffee break any morning from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m." Customers are served free coffee.

The store reported steadily increasing morning traffic since the program was kicked off.

Solons Offer Bills on Drains

Proposals by Roberts, Anderson Would Affect Assessments

Two legislative proposals affecting drain assessments have been introduced in the legislature in Lansing by Oakland County legislators.

Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, has proposed an amendment to the state drain code by adding a new section providing that whenever a new city or village is incorporated, or annexed to a city or village, the township from which the area was taken may petition the county drain commissioner for a reapportionment of the percentage of the original cost to the township between the township and the city or village.

The bill, No. 1137, was referred to the Senate Committee on Agriculture.

Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, has introduced House Bill No. 241 which also amends the drain code by adding a new section to provide that any municipal corporation may contract to pay all or any part of a special drain assessment for drain improvements benefiting the property of the municipal corporation, not to exceed its proportionate share of the expenses of the improvement.

Roberts, chairman of the Senate Committee on Elections, has proposed, too, in a joint resolution, an amendment permitting voting for presidential electors by those persons who do not qualify to vote in any other state but who have not resided in the city or township long enough to qualify as electors.

Howard Street in San Francisco was named for William D. M. Howard, one of the city's most prosperous businessmen prior to the gold rush.

Population to Influence Housing Progress in '61

CHICAGO (UPI)—Housing may enjoy a slightly better year in 1961, but any major advance will depend on the effect of population pressures which are expected to reach their full force in the mid-1960s, according to the U.S. Savings & Loan League.

★ ★ ★

The league predicted that savings and loan associations would lend $15 billion in 1961, as compared to $14.4 billion in 1960.

More Expensive Home Possible for 11 Million

NEW YORK (UPI) — About 11 million U.S. families could presently afford to "trade up" to a house worth $17,500, according to housing experts at Allied Chemical Corporation's Barrett Division.

★ ★ ★

They estimate that there are only half enough houses in the $17,500 price range to accommodate all those who could afford a home of that value.

Gadget Gives Wider Range to Typewriter

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI)—A little gadget that will enable you to use mathematical or musical symbols and foreign accent marks on any typewriter cheaply is being made by a manufacturer.

It consists of a special holder to go in the ribbon guides with hand inserted plastic type bars for the desired symbols. You hit any key to make the plastic bars print through the ribbon.

Fair Cutting Prices Initiated by Barber

TEANECK, N.J. (AP)—Dominick Nicola is a barber who believes in charging according to the individual customer's head of hair.

His prices start at $1.75 for a full crop and are scaled down to $1 for those balding or bald.

Nicola, a master barber for 40 years, says he isn't cutting prices, but is merely charging according to the amount of work required.

Sweetest Story We Ever Told

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Everyone knows that rabbits multiply fast — even chocolate rabbits do, around Easter. We saw dozens and dozens of them early this week. Large, small, milk chocolate, dark chocolate, white chocolate, marbleized riding bicycles, sitting, standing, running, carrying baskets; almost any kind of a chocolate rabbit you can name is to be found in Crocker's new candy store.

There's an "Open" sign on the window of the red brick building at Woodward Avenue and Square Lake Road. Workmen were busily putting in the landscaping and smoothing the parking lot. The official opening is set for this Friday and there's still so much to do.

Bill Crocker's store out on West Huron Street is still in business and will be until after Easter. Moving hasn't been a one-day project. Part of the equipment had to be left in the town store to keep it going. New equipment and some of the old is in place in the new store.

And candy maker, general manager, owner and busiest workman of them all is Bill Crocker, pleasant owner of the concern.

CANDY MAKER — Bill Crocker, Pontiac's own candy manufacturer, breaks up 10-pound bars of milk chocolate in the melter. Hot water around the outside melts the bars. Before starting the day's dipping, there must be 300 pounds of melted chocolate ready. Crocker is his own planner, supervisor, manufacturer and general manager. He has from 4 to 10 employes working with him.

EARLY DAYS

A North Carolinian by birth, Crocker has lived in Michigan since the Twenties. During the depression he went broke in a wholesale candy business. After the war and a variety of other jobs, he bought a little store on Auburn Avenue and started his own candy manufacturing business.

In 1947 he moved to a new store out near Tel-Huron. Last year he made more than 25,000 pounds of candy in that store. He hopes to double that figure this year.

Quality is his guiding principle. Since he made his first batch of candy in 1924, he has been experimenting and inventing. In 1944 the only thing he knew about chocolate-dipped candy was how to coat peanuts. He's a lot wiser man now who says he threw many a pot of candy away because it wasn't up to standard.

Have you ever wondered about white chocolate? The very name "chocolate" denotes a dark brown color. We asked Crocker to explain this. It's not complicated, we discovered.

Cacao beans are roasted much like coffee. Then the beans are ground, so fine that the result is a liquid. A separation process divides the cocoa butter from the cocoa powder; it's the powder that has the color. Both parts have the flavor.

Flavoring, cocoa butter, cocoa powder and sugar make dark chocolate. Add more sugar and milk and you have sweet milk chocolate. Use everything but the cocoa powder and you have white chocolate.

Crocker has added crushed almonds to his white chocolate to make a more interesting confection.

As anyone who has ever made candy at home knows, the temperature is all important. That's the real secret of good chocolates, says Crocker, outside of using only the best ingredients.

In his new plant he has a machine that can coat 1,000 pieces of candy a day. He has a number of melters, one that will take 350 pounds of chocolate. It takes 75 pounds just to get the melter started.

EXACTNESS

The melter is surrounded by a water jacket. The chocolate is melted down to a temperature of 100 degrees. Then it is allowed to cool to 84 degrees before using as a coating. With only a few exceptions, all the candy is coated by machine.

Workroom and packing room are kept at 73 degrees. The chocolate is stored at a lower temperature. Summer supplies are bought early and held in the store room.

What about those markings we see on top of chocolates? We asked Bill Crocker if there was any universal system of marks to tell what's inside. He said that perhaps one or two would be used by most candy manufacturers, but that the majority of people in the business have individual systems.

Candy to be packed goes around on a machine that looks like a ferris wheel. The women take pieces out of each box as it passes and arrange them in the box to be sold.

Bill Crocker is in love with his business. He still enjoys eating candy, but says it has to get better all the time, or it isn't any good.

"If I won't eat it, I won't sell it."

Whenever he invents a new variety, he discards the one he likes least. He believes that everyone likes good candy, and that it is only hurting the business for some manufacturers to foist inferior products on the consumer.

We asked about seasonal variations in the candy business.

"Easter is the hardest; Christmas is the most profitable; Valentine's Day the fastest; and Mother's Day the sweetest."

★ ★ ★

Bill Crocker just wants to go on supplying quality candy for all these holidays and the days in between.

Some cooks like to use scissors, some a very sharp small pointed knife when removing the fat and sinews from kidneys.

PACKING CANDY — Marie Ostrander of North Boulevard (left) and Mrs. Evelyn Ziemba of West Huron Street (right) pack candy as the ferris wheel machine carries the chocolates around on trays. It takes at least 90 days for an employe to learn all the duties in a candy place like Crockers. The women work in a 73 degree temperature the year round.

¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 egg (slightly beaten)

Mix corn meal with remaining 1 cup cold milk; stirring constantly, add to scalded milk. Cook over low heat, stirring often, until thickened — 10 to 15 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients, in order given, so mixture will be blended.

★ ★ ★

Thousand Youths to Be in 4-H Day at Northern High

The 1961 Oakland County 4-H Spring Achievement Day, with more than a thousand boys and girls participating, will be held Saturday at Pontiac Northern High School.

One boy and one girl will be selected to represent the county in over-all achievement at the State 4-H Show in East Lansing in September.

★ ★ ★

Projects will be judged from 9 to 5 p.m. The evening program will start at 8 p.m. with the Dress Revue, presentation of winners and awards and 4-H Alumni recognition.

The entire program is open to the public free of charge.

★ ★ ★

A new approach will be used in judging five of 18 different projects to be exhibited, according to Jack Worthington, county 4-H agent.

"This year in senior clothing, creative cooking, woodworking, photography and knitting we will have an interview evaluation session with each of the 4-H exhibitors," Worthington added.

"The judge will interview the boy or girl and evaluate the project. In this way, the judge will be able to ask the member things which would not be evident by just looking at the article."

★ ★ ★

The member in turn will be able to question the judges as to why the A, B or C placing was made, Worthington said, and the judge may point out weak and strong points of the article, possibly enabling the individual to improve next time.

★ ★ ★

Worthington said in the past an article was judged A, B or C but if its owner wasn't present only a short comment was written on the article as to its placing. In many cases no comments were made at all.

The projects will be on display in the school cafeteria and the Dress Revue and presentations will take place in the auditorium.

★ ★ ★

"We plan that this meeting will be in effect a get-together meeting and that our April meeting will be for the purpose of reorganizing," said Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole, secretary and treasurer of the association.

Short Run for 'Red Stocking'

$1,500 Is Netted by Revue

ROCHESTER — The successful weekend presentation of the "Red Stocking Revue" netted approximately $1,500 for the Woodward Memorial Library fund, it was announced today.

Mrs. Donald J. Mooers, the show's publicity cochairman, said the money will be turned over to the Friends of the Library for the purchase of new books.

Mrs. Mooers reported that the $1,500 is the sum left over after expenses for the show were paid. However, she said the Rochester Junior Woman's Club still is uncertain how much, if any, of the total take must be paid for taxes.

The show, which starred prominent local residents in major roles, was sponsored by the woman's club. It was directed and produced by William Cain of the Jerome Cargill Agency, New York.

A standing-room-only crowd of about 550 turned out to see the "Revue" Saturday night at the Rochester Junior High School auditorium, Mrs. Mooers said. The show was presented before about 500 persons Friday.

Cites Loss of Receipts

Swainson Asks Specialist to Develop Farm Markets

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan needs a full-time specialist to develop new markets for its agricultural products, Gov. Swainson told the Future Farmers of America here.

Swainson, speaking at the state convention of the agriculture youth group Wednesday night, said the marketing specialist, recommended in his budget message to the legislature, could help the state recoup some of the loss of its share of national farm cash receipts.

Since 1940, he said, Michigan has lost one half of 1 per cent of the national receipts—amounting to $150 million.

He mentioned to the group, meeting at Michigan State University, a seal of quality bill now before the legislature, which would allow state farmers to put Michigan labels on some of their best products.

★ ★ ★

The governor took the opportunity to encourage support of an amendment to the state constitution paving the way for a greater Michigan authority which would have the power to extend up to $5 million of the state's credit to industrial and municipal development projects.

The workers employed by a healthy Michigan industry "will be your customers," he told the young farmers.

"Sometimes our own people do not fully realize our pre-eminence in agriculture," Swainson said. He pointed out that in 1958 the sale of products from Michigan farms netted nearly $750 million, in addition, he said, the volume of business directly connected with processing, storing, distributing and transporting farm products amounted to $1.8 billion.

"We are self-sufficient in respect to produce for table use," he said. "Only a handful of states, if any, can show such a varied and successful agriculture."

State Man Sees Fewer but Bigger Dairy Farms

CHICAGO (UPI) — The natiop's milk supply will come from fewer but bigger dairy farmers within the next 15 years, the head of the National Milk Producers Federation said yesterday.

★ ★ ★

Glenn Lake, a dairy farmer from North Branch, Mich., predicted that the average dairy farm in 1975 would comprise 225 acres compared with the present average of 160 acres.

It will have 40 cows as against the average of 24 on the present dairy farm, and the total investment will be more than triple—from 1960's $50,000 per farm to an estimated $160,000 for 1975, Lake predicted.

At the same time, he said, the average milk production per cow will jump from 8,000 pounds per year in 1960 to 9,500 pounds in 1975.

Lake said his predictions did not mean the end of the family-owned farm.

★ ★ ★

"The family-owned and operated dairy farm can hold its own and will continue to be the mainstay of milk production," Lake told 500 delegates attending the annual meeting of the American Dairy Association.

Immanuel Church OKs Congregational Merger

OXFORD — Immanuel Congregational Church has voted to become a part of the United Church of Christ.

The new church will result from a merger of the Congregational Christian Churches of the United States and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Congregational churches across the country are voting about 95 per cent in favor of the union, local church officials said. They will continue as Congregational churches in the United Church, which will have over 2 million members.

Religious Week Set by Church

Activities, Talks and Ceremonies Planned by Clarkston 1st Methodist

CLARKSTON — A week filled with religious activities, guest speakers and ceremonies has been planned for members and friends of the First Methodist Church here beginning Sunday, according to the Rev. William J. Richards, pastor.

"The Royalty of Jesus," is the sermon topic that the Rev. Richards has chosen for the 8:45, 10 and 11:30 a.m. services on Palm Sunday.

At the 6 p.m. Vesper Service, he will talk on the seventh episode in the life of Jesus, and a movie, "Return to Nazareth" will be shown.

Holy Communion, celebrating the Last Supper, will be held at 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. Maundy Thursday. Minute meditations will be given by Rev. Richards accompanied by the choirs. Communicants may come and leave throughout the hour.

Sponsored by the Independence Pastor's Association, a union service is set for 1 p.m. Good Friday in the Clarkston High School auditorium. Five pastors from Independence Township churches will take part.

Five Easter Sunday worship services will be held beginning with the annual Easter sunrise service at 6:30 a.m. conducted by the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship group. Other services will be held at 8, 9:15, 10:30 and 11:45 a.m.

Director of music William Mansfield has announced that all six choirs will sing at the various services with special Easter music celebrating the resurrection of Christ. Mrs. Adele Thomas has also prepared special selections for the church organ.

"Something to Live For" is Rev. Richard's subject for the 8 and 9:15 a.m. services, and speaking at the two later services will be the Rev. Jesse R. DeWitt, executive director of the Board of Missions of the Detroit Conference. His talk is entitled "Risen."

RELAXES DURING COOL DIP—Norby Traxler, a telephone company radio technician at Mankato, Minn., eats an apple and reads a book while resting after a swim in frozen Lake Ballentyne near Nakato. Despite its being spring, a hole had to be cut in the ice for the dip. Traxler says the frigid water doesn't make much difference because of the insulated suit.

Can't Talk Britons Out of Showing Film

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward R. Murrow, U.S. information chief, tried to prevent a British showing of a television film dealing with problems of migratory farm laborers in this country.

Murrow, former Columbia Broadcasting System newsman, was narrator in the documentary film "Harvest of Shame" telecast by CBS last Nov. 25.

It was rebroadcast by the British Broadcasting Co. Tuesday night, the same day Murrow was sworn in as head of the U.S. Information Agency.

★ ★ ★

Murrow's efforts to prevent the showing were described by Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., Wednesday in a Senate speech.

Holland charged the showing overseas damaged the nation. "That the CBS officials responsible could, for a few pieces of silver, permit this malicious and false slander against our nation to be presented abroad is incomprehensible," the Florida senator said.

WOULDN'T CANCEL

A USIA spokesman confirmed that Murrow had telephoned a BBC official and unsuccessfully asked him to cancel the show.

★ ★ ★

He said: "Mr. Murrow did have the conversations and they are roughly right as reported."

The film was widely praised as an important contribution to improving the lot of migratory workers, but Holland cited what he called seven misrepresentations of fact in it. He said it was unfair to Forida migratory workers and their employers.

★ ★ ★

And Holland said Murrow told him he deplores and resents CBS' sale of the documentary for showing abroad and that he regards the action as "wholly irresponsible."

★ ★ ★

Richard S. Salant, CBS news president, said in a statement the film was a news report available "for worldwide circulation just as is any American newspaper or magazine. To deny overseas subscribers the use of the news report would be inconsistent with basic principles of freedom of information and full circulation of news."

★ ★ ★

Holland quoted Edmund Bunker, a CBS vice president, as saying the film would not be sold elsewhere. He said Bunker told him the film was sold to the BBC some time ago and it was too late to cancel the rebroadcast.

Catholic Central Gets By Lincoln Park With Late Drive

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just how good is Michigan's top brand of high school basketball, class A where the glamorous juggernauts play?

Perhaps not as good as class B.

Muskegon Heights, Jackson, Detroit Catholic Central and Highland Park comprise the class A teams in Friday's state tournament semifinals.

In class B there's a team — River Rouge — that has beaten half the class A semifinalists this season. River Rouge split a pair of games with Highland Park, losing 66-57 and reversing the loss 59-56, The Rouge also beat Jackson, a team with two losses, 65-48.

That's a 17-point victory over a potential class A state champion. Just for good measure River Rouge knocked off another class A quarterfinalists, Lincoln Park.

It figures then, if Michigan had a classless state tournament like many of its neighbors, River Rouge would figure to have a better chance than some of the bigger schools.

* * *

But none the less, it's the class A schools that attract most of the interest and supply much of the thrills in the state tournament.

Of Wednesday's four quarterfinals, only one wasn't close. In that Highland Park (18-2) trounced Harper Woods Notre Dame (20-3) 60-41.

Muskegon Heights (18-5) turned back the conqueror of previously unbeaten Saginaw, Flint Central (13-6), 57-55 in a wild, controversial finish. There almost was a riot when officials first disallowed Central's apparent tying basket because the buzzer sounded and then called a one-and-one foul.

When Central's Jim Toles touched the rim as Cloyce Dickerson's first free throw plopped through, the point was nullified and the game ended. Dickerson led Central with 22 points. John Calloway topped the Heights, seeking its third title since 1954, with 18.

Jackson (18-2) trimmed East Lansing (18-3) with a second half comeback 53-49. The Vikings, behind 28-22, scored 11 straight points at the outset of the second half to move away.

Detroit Catholic Central (19-1), ahead 61-47 entering the fourth quarter, just managed to stave off Lincoln Park's late drive and save a 69-64 victory.

Friday in a doubleheader at Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse, Highland Park will play Catholic Central and Muskegon Heights will meet Jackson in the semifinals.

Lakeland plays its regional opponent next Wednesday night at Garden City with the winner earning a spot in the state MRA tourney finals April 7-8 at Battle Creek.

Vern Cork pumped 23 points through the hoop to pace the Lakeland cagers. Roosevelt Wells tallied 28 for Van Dikes.

Oakland Hills Ready for Open

Jones Presents 'Masterpiece'

Is Robert Trent Jones the man to beat in the U.S. Open again? In a sense, the answer is yes, because the famed golf course architect considers Oakland Hills Country Club, where the 1961 Open is scheduled, June 15-17, his masterpiece.

His modernization of the course for the 1951 Open brought cries of anguish from the competitors. Golfers got the "shock" treatment in that memorable event due to the new approach of golf architecture to championship golf.

"Prior to Oakland Hills the game had out-run architecture," says Robert Trent Jones, "The golf courses had been developed for a different era of golf—the era of Jones, Hagen and Sarazen. Its values were related to the equipment and to the game of that period. The challenge of golf had been diminished. The architecture had to be brought into focus.

"The development of two target areas made Oakland Hills unique," says Jones. "There was one on the fairway for the tee shot and one at the green, demanding double accuracy on the play of each par four and par five hole. This made for continued pressure on the player that bore down on him from the first tee to the 18th green. No mistake could be made without a just penalty.

"After Hogan's 76 start in the first round, his spectacular 67 over the grueling course in the last round may have been the greatest round of championship golf ever shot on any course anywhere."

"At the time of the 1951 Open, Hogan did not like the course, nor the treatment of the course. Since then he has come to realize and has often expressed the opinion that when a course developed in the manner of Oakland Hills is completed, the player with the best shots, the best equipment, the soundest swing and comparable nerve control has the best chance to win a tournament over it.

"In my opinion," says Jones, "I think that after ten years, Oakland Hills still is the greatest test of championship golf in the world."

There have been few changes since 1951. Seven traps have been taken out, five of them in the driving area. This leaves a total of 113 traps. Five greens have been modified, providing for additional pin placements."

Club Changes Hands, Brown Still Boss

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have changed hands again. But the old master who has been the field general since the professional football club was organized in 1946 — coach Paul Brown — still is running the team.

Arthur B. Modell of New York, 36-year-old television and advertising executive who is the top executive in the new organization, and R. J. (Rudy) Schafer, 60, New York brewery company president, have agreed whole-heartedly to give Brown a free reign. They also give him an eight-year contract.

"I retain control over those things I consider essential to the operation of the team," Brown said at a news conference yesterday.

Modell, who became chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said reports that about $4 million was involved in the transaction were sustantially correct.

Brown remains as general manager and vice president of the National Football League club. Modell said Brown will decide any questions about player personnel and field operation.

"I am assuming the responsibility for such things as finances, admissions to the league, promotion and that type of thing," Modell said.

Brown, who retains a small amount of stock, has an option to buy more.

The new Browns organization also will have these officers:

Dave R. Jones continues as president and Robert H. Gries continues as vice president and treasurer — each having a substantial minority interest in the club; Schaefer will be a vice president; William C. MacMillan, an investment banker, and John A. Wells, Modell's attorney, also have been named directors.

"Are the plays still going to be run in from the bench?" asked a reporter.

Modell replied, "as far as I'm concerned Paul Brown can send them in by carrier pigeon."

Brown described Modell as "a man with ideas who should be good for our organization as well as the entire league."

The transaction is the largest in professional football history.

Double Overtime Death for Wings

Armstrong Hits Winning Goal for Leafs, 3-2

Canadiens Meet Hawks Tonight in 2nd Game of Their Series

AP Photofax

WINNING GOAL — George Armstrong (dark uniform, right) scored the winning goal as Toronto edged Detroit, 3-2, in last night's first game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series. The goal came at 4:51 in the second overtime period. Behind Armstrong is Red Wing Gerry Melnyk. Goalie Terry Sawchuk tried in vain to stop the shot.

TORONTO (AP)—"I got the glory but (Dick) Duff did the work."

That was captain George Armstrong of the Toronto Maple Leafs speaking last night. A few minutes earlier his goal from about 10 feet out had given the Leafs a 3-to-2 double overtime victory over the Detroit Red Wings and a 1-0 lead in their best-of-7 Stanley Hockey Cup semifinal playoff series. The winning goal came at 4:51 of the second sudden-death overtime.

The Leafs and Red Wings don't play their second game here until Saturday, but there will be no lack of action in the playoffs tonight. The Montreal Canadiens, who beat out Toronto for the league title on the last day of the regular season, entertain the Chicago Black Hawks in the second game of their best-of-7 set. Montreal won the first game Tuesday 6-2 with a four goal splurge in the last period.

"The big chief," as Armstrong is known, was the big attraction in the Toronto dressing room, but he kept insisting "Dick did all the work. He got past two guys and made a perfect play to set me up."

The goal climaxed an uphill battle by the Leafs. Twice Detroit took the lead, but the Leafs tied it. The goal that tied it at 2-2 and forced the overtime was made by Ron Stewart at 14:26 of the third period.

More relieved than excited was Toronto's goalie, Cesaare Maniago, after his first Stanley Cup game. Although he came up with some good saves, he was shaky on many others.

"I don't care how many boo-boos I make as long as we win the Stanley Cup," he said.

The only goof during the game that really counted was on a shot by Detroit defenseman Howie Young that turned a routine shot from an almost impossible angle into a goal.

"It hit my skate and I kicked it in," Maniago admitted. The goal game Detroit a 2-1 lead early in the third period. On Detroit's first goal, by Alex Delvecchio, the 22-year-old Maniago had no chance.

"It was in before I had a chance to move," he said.

Another newcomer to the playoffs, Bob Nevin of Toronto, was noncommittal about his first Stanley Cup goal, but he conceded "it felt great." The goal tied the score at 1-1 early in the second period.

Toronto manager-coach Punch Imlach made no bones about the fact that he was worried for a while.

"I'm happy we got by. I don't care how many men we've got out as long as we keep winning," he added in reference to the Leafs' long injury list.

"It's only one game and this series is far from over," said Sid Abel, the Detroit coach.

"We played well enough to win and we had our chances. But when you get into overtime it's a toss-up. We've won and lost games like this one."

Abel figured Toronto got a big break on Stewart's goal that sent the game into overtime.

"Stewart's shot took a bounce before it got to Sawchuk and Terry didn't have a chance on it. It just went in off his pad."

Sawchuk called the goal lucky, but didn't criticize the game-winner by Armstrong.

"Army put it up good and it went in over my arm," Terry said.

Gordie Howe, who played a tremendous game for Detroit, said with a grin: "But we're not going to start worrying until we're three down."

Osborne Plays at Third as Tigers Lose to Phils

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — A friend walked past the Detroit dugout where Steve Boros was sitting and asked "how are you doing Steve?"

"Not very well—in fact, I'm doing pretty badly. But I can do a lot better and I will," was Boros' reply.

Until the last few days, everyone around the Detroit Tiger camp has operated under the assumption that the 24-year-old Flint athlete would be the third baseman because he has been designated the No. 1 third baseman.

When Eddie Yost departed in the draft, Boros became No. 1. No one suggested that the Tigers would win the pennant with Boros at third. The Tigers want to build with youth and they believe he will be the third basemen for many years to come.

* * *

Now the doubts are in the open because it has become apparent that Boros is the key to a better ball club in Detroit. Manager Bob Scheffing played Boros for 10 straight games. But Steve was on the bench yesterday and he was there again today.

Scheffing is experimenting — he says — "in case Steve doesn't make it."

And if he doesn't?

"Then you'll see the doggondest scrambling around third base you ever saw," was Scheffing's candid reply.

* * *

Larry Osborne, a first baseman by trade, was at third yesterday when the Tigers dropped a 7-1 decision to the Philadelphia Phillies. Osborne fielded his only chance cleanly but heaved the ball into right field.

Scheffing said he would use either Osborne or Bubba Morton there today, depending on the St. Louis pitcher.

The secret was let out during the winter months that the Tigers will sink or swim with a young infield. Right now the Tigers are not so worried about second base because 23-year-old Jake Wood is hitting .405 and is fielding adequately, if not spectacularly. Boros is batting .167.

The immediate concern is whether Boros is going to hit well this year.

* * *

Boros, who batted .317 at Denver last season, is downright mad at himself over his slow start. It does not seem that he is losing confidence in himself.

"I know I've been just terrible," he confessed. "I realize the club is depending on me."

While Scheffing is waiting and experimenting, Boros is taking a lot of extra work in the batting cage. The rest of the Tigers might just as well have been here too. They got only six hits off Robin Roberts, Frank Sullivan and Art Mahaffy.

Jim Bunning went seven innings, longest performance for a Tiger moundsman this spring. He yielded seven hits, including home runs by Pancho Herrara and John Callison.

The Tigers got another chance today when they faced the Cardinals at Henley Field. Frank Lary was to work the first five or six innings.

Lawrence Tech's Bradley Only 'Honorable Mention'

NEW YORK (AP)—Two 6-7 stringbeans, George Fisher of Wittenberg's NCAA small college champions and Charles Hardnett of Grambling's NAIA champions, top the 1961 college basketball little All-America announced today by the Associated Press.

Also named to the first team, selected on the basis of votes from nearly 100 sportswriters and radio-TV broadcasters, were Don Jacobsen of South Dakota State, Tom (Skip) Chappelle of Maine and Bob Mahland of Williams.

* * *

Ron Galbreath of Westminster (Pa.), Stan Kernan of McNeese, Zelmo Beaty of Prairie View, Carl Ritter of Southeast Missouri and John O'Reilly of Mt. St. Mary's were picked as a second team.

Rounding out a 15-man squad, Wayne Monson of Northern Michigan, Dick Vories of Georgetown (Ky.), Porter Meriwether of Tennessee State, Marvin Bachmeier of North Dakota State and Carl Short of Newberry were named as a third team.

* * *

These 15 each will receive a certificate from the Associated Press.

John Bradley of Lawrence Tech, Bob Armstead and Jerry Wright, both of Northern Michigan, help to fill out the honorable mention list.

Fisher, a bespectacled senior from Newcastle, Ind., was the key man in Wittenberg's sweep to the NCAA small college title.

* * *

Hardnett, a junior from Atlanta, was named the most valuable player in the NAIA tourney as the Grambling Tigers from Louisiana won their national honor.

ADMIRE CATCH — Palm Beach fishing was successful for F. J. Smrcina (left) of Pontiac and his nephew Leroy Smrcina. The "big one" of the catch is the 8-pound trigger fish hooked during the Atlantic Ocean fishing trip. They went fishing for "sails" but as usual they got away.

Orioles, Pirates Hot; Leek at .441

By The Associated Press

Gene Leek, remembered as the collegian who precipitated a war of words when the Cleveland Indians signed him off the campus, is hitting .441 for the new Los Angeles Angels. And he's still provoking problems with his talent.

The 23-year-old San Diego native continued his torrid spring swinging with a three-run homer that beat the San Francisco Giants 5-3 Wednesday and gave the Angels' their first pre-season triumph over a team of major league veterans. They previously had won three games against B squads.

* * *

Manager Bill Rigney's problem is where to play the versatile Leek, who was holding down third base for the University of Arizona when the Indians grabbed him. That started the verbal battle between college coaches and major league officials that culminated in a rule prohibiting such signings.

Meanwhile, Baltimore's streaking Orioles won their fifth in succession after six opening losses by beating Cincinnati 9-4, and the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates brought their record to 10-3 with a 10-1 win over the Chicago White Sox.

* * *

In other games, Philadelphia whipped Detroit 7-1, the Chicago Cubs nipped Cleveland 2-1, New York outslugged Milwaukee 14-11, St. Louis defeated Kansas City 5-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged Minnesota 3-2 and the Twins' B squad walloped Washington 11-3.

Leek's 415-foot circuit shot was the key blow as the Angels scored all their runs off Giants' starter Juan Marichal in the fifth inning. Ken McBride went six innings for Los Angeles, allowing only four hits, and Tex Clevenger finished up with a three-hit performance.

* * *

A 13-hit attack, including solo home runs by Chuck Essegian and Jim Gentile, carried the Orioles to their victory over the Reds, who scored their only runs on Frank Robinson's fourth spring homer. Jay Hook bore the brunt of the Baltimore attack, allowing six runs and nine hits.

The Pirates, first team to win 10 games, jumped on White Sox starter Early Wynn for seven runs in the first and coasted behind pitching ace Bob Friend. Friend scattered five hits in a seven-inning outing, walking only one and striking out four.

Mickey Mantle knocked in six runs with two homers, a double and single and Bill Skowron added three RBI with a homer and two singles as the Yanks beat the Braves. The Cards rapped 14 hits to whip the A's with Ken Boyer slamming an inside-the-park homer, and Bill White and Don Landrum dividing six hits.

Junior Gilliam's ninth inning pinch single with the bases loaded won it for the Dodgers, who got three innings of no-hit relief from Larry Sherry against the Twins. Lennie Green and Elmer Valo rapped three hits each and Jose Valdivielso contributed a homer in the Minnesota B squad victory over the Senators.

Tigers Didn't Keep Promise, Says Holdout

WOODBRIDGE, N.J. (AP)—Rookie outfielder George Alusik, the Detroit Tigers' only holdout, says the management hasn't lived up to its original pay proposal.

* *

The 25-year-old righthand hitter said at his home last night that he and Rick Ferrell, Tiger general manager, discussed salary terms while Alusik was playing in the Puerto Rican League last winter and were close to agreement though no final understanding was reached.

* * *

After Alusik returned to his home here, he said, he received a written contract from Detroit but the salary was far below what Ferrell had proposed. Two more contracts arrived, Alusik said, but the same situation applied.

Alusik said Ferrell since has claimed he was misunderstood in their winter meeting.

"I'm ready to play ball," Alusik stated last night. "But I feel I deserve a raise for my play last year."

* * *

Alusik starred for Detroit's farm club, Denver, in the Triple A American Association last season. He was the league's third best hitter with a .329 average. He batted in 106 runs and hit 26 homers.

Aussie Will Try to Regain Title

SEATTLE (AP)—Murray Rose, Australian Olympic star who swims for Southern California, will try to recapture his National Collegiate Athletic Association title today in the metric mile.

* * *

Rose heads a talented cast of Trojan swimmers who are the heavy favorites to retain the team championship they won in 1960. More than 260 swimmers and divers have been entered in the three-day meet by 56 colleges and universities.

Other teams expected to threaten Trojan dominance of the meet are Yale, Harard, Princeton, Michigan, Ohio State, Michigan State, Minnesota, Stanford and the Air Force and Naval Academies.

Ron's, J & A Cagers Reach 'B' Finals

Ron's Service, the regular season winner, and Johnson & Anderson posted victories last night at Crary Junior High to move into the upper bracket finals of the Waterford Recreation Basketball League's Class B playoffs. They'll face each other for the title next Tuesday on the Crary court.

Clarence Beers scored 25 points to spark Ron's to an 83-68 triumph over Kuhn's Auto Wash. Jim Poteet tallied 27 in a losing cause. Tom Wurl made 14 points in J&A's 68-59 conquest of Steve's Market. Mike Hanes, Fred Harburger and John Collins each had 12 in defeat.

In the lower division Class B playoffs, R&R Motor eliminated George's Service, 60-58. Phil Felice paced R&R with 15 points while Willie Morris hit 17 for George's.

Lakeland Pharmacy and Spencer Floor Covering clash for the Class A tournament title tonight on the Crary floor at 8:30. Drayton Drug meets R&R in a Class B lower bracket tourney game at 7:15 p.m.

Area 1960 ABC Champions Falter

DETROIT — Team champions rarely repeat in an American Bowling Congress Tournament, only twice in the 57-year history of the event, and after last night, there will be a new regular division titleholder in this year's tourney.

Four members of the 1960 championship team, A. and A. Asphalt of Birmingham, Mich., appeared bowling under the Pfeiffer Beer banner and the team rolled a weak 2807.

Jack Born, Hank Gniewek and John Nickell rolled in the A. and A. championship lineup in Toledo last spring, but were off their games as Born totaled 588, Gniewek 535 and Nickell 541. Monte Onesa, on the bench at Toledo, had a 589 series.

The other two A. and A. team members, Bob Brayman and Al Parigian, will bowl with other teams this year.

The Barry-Ketteler team of Chicago won the 1915 ABC crown and with four members in the lineup as the Commodore Barry's in 1916 repeated. The E&B Beers of Detroit won the 1952 ABC title and in 1953 using four members of the previous team in the lineup, repeated under the Pfeiffer Beer banner.

The Old Fitzgeralds of Chicago went into fifth place in classic team standings last night with a six-game 5706 total. The team bowled 2841 after an opening 2865.

The Munsingwears of Chicago finished with a 5572, hitting 2851 last night after an opening block of 2721.

Two classic division teams opened play as the Richland Bowl of Fort Worth, Tex., started with 2771 and the Dorsty Motors of Cleveland had a 2842.

Morrie Oppenheim, an ABC teen-age star and now at 24 a seven-year veteran, moved into third place in classic singles with a 669 to highlight the afternoon activity.

Strohs, featuring a 597 by Capt. Bill O'Brien, paced seven Pontiac teams Wednesday night with 2718. Gene Podgorke followed at 552. Woolfever's Studio was next with 2523 taking 10th place on its squad. Glen Diederich had 559 including a 232 game and G. Mack White 538.

Bald Eagle Bar rolled 2443 spafked by Wendell Wilkinson at 576 and Jim Anderson's 527. Drewry's hit 2360 led by Homer Barton at 515 and Frank Crandall 508. Pontiac Motor Parts totaled 2356. Joel England was high with 499 and Ken Srpung 496.

R & C Rambler rang up 2324 pins with Ed Baker and Charles Wheeler even at 497. Oliver Lemeaux was the outstanding individual with 603, topped by games of 213-237 but his Fox Cleaner team could score only 2280. Bill Fox was far behind him at 455.

* * *

Walled Lake had two more teams in action. Art's Five hit 2709 paced by Holland Groff's 601 and Meryl Taulbee at 547. Bill Sonnenberg scored 583 and John Lorang Jr. 553 in a 2681 for Old Milwaukee Beer. Sonnenberg had a 230 single.

Lloyd Hoover and Vin Spencer of Walled Lake had 1145 and the combination of Randy Brooks and Bill Titus 1065 in doubles. Hoover's 592 was the best individual effort. Spencer topped the foursome in singles and all events with 570 and 1701.

Some of the members of the Pontiac teams were scheduled to bowl in singles and doubles today at Cobo Hall.

No Fight for Nieder

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A fight which was to be the professional boxing debut of husky Bill Nieder of Santa Monica, Olympic shot put champion, was called off by promoters Wednesday.

They did it, they said, because the state athletic commission ruled that Nieder could not fight 10 rounds. He was limited to six.

* * *

Nieder had planned a 10-round main event April 7 with Rayork Becerra.

Ear Plugs May Be Needed Tonight in NIT Tourney

NEW YORK (UPI)—Providence and Holy Cross carry their "family" feud into Madison Square Garden tonight to the accompaniment of blaring bands and boisterous fans, with the winning team assured of a berth in the final round of the National Invitation Tournament.

In the other semi-final match tonight, Dayton will attempt to overcome the smart defensive tactics of St. Louis with its own combination of height and shooting ability.

If they were to be offered, ear plugs would probably be the biggest concession at the Garden when Providence and Holy Cross meet. Both schools travel fully equipped with bands and an organized horde of screaming fans who stop at nothing to give their team proper vocal support.

The two New England teams met a couple of weeks ago at Worcester, Mass., with Holy Cross coming out on top, 77-72.

Dayton, which must get the gold medal for effort, is making its ninth appearance in the NIT, and although they have reached the final round five times, the Flyers have yet to win the championship.

* * *

The starting unit for Dayton averages about 6-5, with Bill Westerkamp the big man at 6-10. St. Louis also possesses good overall height, but its biggest starter is 6-7 sophomore Bill Nordmann.

Dayton was lucky in its last outing, edging Temple, 62-60, on a 25-foot jump shot by Tom Hatton with two seconds remaining. Top man for the Flyers was Garry Roggenburk with 20 points.

Jack Gardner, a hard and persistent campaigner for basketball championships, has hopes this is the year his University of Utah Redskins will win the National Collegiate (NCAA) crown.

Utah, ranked 11th nationally on a 23-6 record, will oppose the No. 2 Cincinnati Bearcats (25-3) in the semifinals of the NCAA tournament tomorrow night at Kansas City.

* * *

The top-ranked, undefeated Ohio State Buckeyes (26-0) and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia (24-4) tangle in the semifinal opener. The championship will be decided Saturday night.

"We've had what appeared to be stronger clubs at the start of the season," Gardner said, "but these kids have worked harder and better as a unit and have shown more desire and improvement than any team I've coached."

Ohio State, which features the marvelous All America Jerry Lucas, is a clear cut favorite to win its second straight title. The Buckeyes are favored by 14 points over St. Joseph's Hawks.

LA's Krebs, Fan Tangle

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"They treat us like animals in a zoo," said the Lakers' Jim Krebs Wednesday night after he and a fan exchanged words, a towel, a cup of beer and some water. "I'm ashamed to say I come from here."

Krebs, who comes from suburban Webster Groves, and the fan, who identified himself as Paul Elbrecht of suburban Affton, tangled in the third quarter of the Lakers-Hawks game after Krebs went out on fouls.

* * *

Elbrecht waved a handkerchief at Krebs and Jim, witnesses said, flung a towel in his direction. Some beer sailed Krebs' way and then some water splashed back toward the fan.

Krebs took a wild punch, but missed and then teammates Howard Jolliff and Ray Felix restrained him.

"St. Louis fans are the worst in the league," said Krebs, the transplanted St. Louisan.

U.S. Netter Advances

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — American Davis Cup hopeful Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., defeated Dick Thompson, Jamaica's junior champion, 6-0, 6-3 in the Montego Bay Caribbean Tennis Championships Wednesday and advanced to the quarter-finals.

Former U.S. Davis Cup star Vic Seixas of Philadelphia eliminated Peter Scholl, Germany No. 1 player, 3-6, 6-1, 8-6.

GETS THE AX — Peter Swainson, 11, son of the governor of Michigan is shown Wednesday getting some tips on the duties of a page boy in the State House of Representatives from Sergeant-at-Arms John Klingenberh. Unfortunately, young Swainson didn't get to keep his new job for very long. Complaints that he was upsetting the routine of the regular page boys led to his 'firing.' Sympathetic solons, however, passed a motion to allow Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski to add a messenger boy to his staff. So Peter is once more employed.

'Pete' Loses One Job but Gains Two More

LANSING (AP) — Little Peter Swainson lost one job and gained two others in the Michigan Legislature Wednesday.

Peter, who is 11 years old, was "fired" as an assistant page boy without pay in the House of Representatives, although the job didn't really exist in the first place.

"He was just playing a game of pretending," said Peter's dad, governor of the State of Michigan.

But there were rumblings that the boy, on a three-week vacation from a New York school, was not exactly welcome in the lower chamber.

His father, a Democrat, confirmed this when he went to talk it over with House Speaker Don R. Pears, a Republican.

Pears complained that Peter was upsetting the routine of the six full-time page boys. The governor apologized, although observing that the whole thing appeared to be a tempest in a teapot, and agreed to consider the boy "fired."

Republican leaders in the Senate, somewhat unhappy over the whole affair, hit upon a solution.

GOP Majority Leader Frank D. Beadle of St. Clair made a motion — which carried unanimously — that Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, a Democrat, be authorized to add a messenger boy to his staff, provided there was no cost to the state.

Swainson, pleased with the arrangement, said:

"If Peter wants to come down — and I'm sure he enjoys the excitement — I'll be happy to have him do so, although I can't say how long his services will last.

"When the first sunny day comes along, he may find other interests."

If Peter's duties as a messenger do not interfere, he'll be holding down a second job.

The Capitol press corps decided it could use a copy boy.

Astronauts May Order Spaceships 'Medium Rare'

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Outer space may turn out to be pretty distasteful for astronauts with a gourmet's concern about conditions in inner space.

Picture a young astronaut millions of miles and months or years away from the markets and restaurants of earth.

It is mealtime again. So, perhaps with the air of a man who has tasted the same dish too often, he knocks another chunk off an empty fuel tank and chokes it down.

This may be oversimplification. The astronaut probably would soak the piece of tank or maybe even boil it in water. And it is conceivable that the people who manufacture fuel tanks for space engines will learn in time how to make them real tasty.

* * *

In any event, the space experts are talking seriously of making food for astronauts do double and even triple or quadruple duty. If man is to explore space in person, he must learn to make do with light materials.

VARIETY OF USES

This goes for food as well as anything else. It has been estimated that to put one pound of food on the moon, you need 1,000 pounds of rocket engine and fuel.

In view of this, space scientists are thinking of using dehydrated food for a variety of purposes, besides the ultimate one. According to Dr. Douglas L. Worf of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), food could be used as radiation and heat shields, as containers for such things as fuel and propellants, and as structural material in the spacecraft.

"On an equal weight basis," Worf has said, "food is a better shield against ionizing radiation than lead."

He went on to say that "the use of dehydrated food for a heat shield is promising."

Once through the radiation belts, presumably, the astronaut would begin to gnaw away at the food around him as hunger dictated.

If the spaceship's food stores are packaged, the packages too must be edible, Worf says. Considering the tons of empty fuel tanks and rocket engines which may accompany a payload into space, Worf suggests the possibility of fabricating them out of food.

Research already has indicated problems of water and oxygen supply will be solved without too much difficulty. So there should be ample water with which to convert the dehydrated food into something resembling a meal.

Worf recognized the problem of "food acceptance."

"Many of us," he notes, "quickly tire of a single restaurant."

Under the emotional and physical stresses of space travel the problem might become acute.

So, although he believes food could be fashioned into "a wide variety of edible structural materials," he does not overlook the possibility that such eatables might not go down well.

"Most of us," says Worf, "have been served so-called edible foods that might better have been used for building materials."

Six-Year Mystery at $2 Puzzles CARE

BALTIMORE (UPI)—A six-year, $2 mystery is still going strong at the Baltimore office of CARE (Cooperative for American Relief Everywhere).

* * *

Every week since the fall of 1954, as regularly as clockwork, an envelope without return address has arrived containing two $1 bills but no identification.

* * *

It's unusual for a small donor but CARE officials aren't kicking. So far, the anonymous donor has paid for 624 packages of food — 13,728 pounds of it — for distribution to the needy overseas.

Spy Pants Now Historic

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI)—A pair of pants worn by Gen. Mark Clark during a spy mission in North Africa during World War II now occupy a prominent spot in the new museum at The Citadel here.

Gen. Clark, now president of the college, had been put ashore to confer with French officials near Algiers. In trying to launch a rubber boat for the return to an offshore submarine, Clark lost his trousers.

Robert D. Murphy, a State Department official, recovered the pants and later returned them to Clark. With Clark on the spy mission was Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, now chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

In 1900, infant mortality in the United States dropped below 26.0 per 1,000 live births for the first time in the nation's history. Insurance statisticians say the previous low was 26.1 per 1,000 live births in 1956.

Quiz City Shoppers on Buying Habits

Downtown Pontiac shoppers today were being asked about their shopping habits by a team of interviewers collecting information for the urban renewal projects.

* * *

The two women interviewers were to continue the questions in the downtown area tomorrow, then turn to the east and west sides of town afterwards.

Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager and urban renewal coordinator, said the team, working for Real Estate Research Corp. of Chicago, hoped to obtain about 700 interviews downtown and about 100 elsewhere.

Data collected is to be used in appraising the downtown properties slated for acquisition in the two urban renewal projects. The appraisals are not connected with the purchase of the properties, but with their eventual resale by the city.

Stierer said many of the questions asked would concern the Pontiac market area, transportation downtown, and downtown parking.

Under contract with the city, Real Estate Research Corp. is to use the information in connection with another study on land utilization and marketability, which the City Commission will be asked to approve Tuesday, Stierer said.

* * *

William J. Dooley, 53, 44 Maple St., was fined $100 and ordered to spend 30 days in the Oakland County Jail by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

* * *

The charges stemmed from a Pontiac police vice-squad raid on Dooley's home in June, 1960.

Dooley immediately appealed the case to Circuit Court. A hearing was scheduled for April 4.

The March of Dimes officials will welcome their newly appointed county administrator Richard E. Speese.

Speese, formerly of Kalamazoo, was named to the post March 1.

Chief topic of the luncheon will be a final report on the 1961 Mothers' March, a review of the past year and plans for next year's campaign.

AF Questioned About Six Jets

Sign $12-Million Order for Transporting U.S. Government Officials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional testimony disclosed today that the Air Force, without prior approval from Congress, signed a $12 million contract for six passenger jets to ttransport government leaders.

* * *

The C140s, short-hop jets, are being manufactured at the Lockheed plant in Marietta, Ga.

They will replace propeller-driven C131s at the special air mission in Washington used for government flights.

The testimony was made public by a House appropriations subcommittee which questioned Air Force officials intensively about the contract at recent hearings behind closed doors.

* * *

A subcommittee aide said the Lockheed contract was discussed at three sessions, but he added: "No action has been taken, and that is usually tantamount to approval."

* * *

Maj. Gen. Robert J. Friedman, Air Force budget director, said at the end of February Lockheed had received about $600,000 in progress payments and that cancellation costs would amount to something less depending on whether the company could find another customer.

* * *

He said the contract was signed last Dec. 30, during the last days of the Eisenhower administration.

Murdered Man's Policy

Will Pay $1.12 Million

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — An insurance company announced it will pay a $1.12 million life insurance policy on a man who was shot dead in a Brisbane hotel last year.

★ ★ ★

The policy was taken out by Raymond J. Carter, 46, a wealthy contractor. After his body was discovered in his hotel room last October his younger brother, and partner, Max was charged with murder.

But a court ruled that Max, 46, was not guilty because he was of "unsound mind" at the time.

After a thorough investigation of the case the Assurance Society, Ltd., said it will honor the policy, the biggest one ever taken out in Queensland state.

★ ★ ★

Raymond left an estate whose gross value was $145,744. In his will he left a substantial amount to Max as well as to his own family.

WILLIAM H. McGAUGHEY

Negro College Drive Leader

AMC Vice President William H. McGaughey to Head State Effort

William H. McGaughey of Bloomfield Hills, vice president of American Motors Corp., has been appointed general chairman of the United Negro College Fund's 18th annual appeal in Michigan. The campaign opens April 4.

★ ★ ★

Announcement of McGaughey's acceptance was made by Bruce Barton, national chairman of the fund-raising drive. He was joined in the announcement by John D. Rockefeller III, chairman of the UNCF national council, and William T. Gossett of 420 Goodhue, Bloomfield Hills, Ford Motor vice president who is chairman of the UNCF's permanent steering committee in Michigan.

McGaughey will head a committee of volunteer workers seeking financial support for UNCF's 33 private, accredited member colleges and universities. All but one are located in the South.

He succeeds Louis G. Seaton of 8128 Hendrie, Huntington Woods, General Motors vice president, who directed the Michigan campaign last year. Under Seaton's direction, the appeal raised an all-time record of more than $200,000 in Michigan, second only to New York State.

McGaughey, whose professional career covers 25 years in the communications field, joined American Motors' predecessor company, Nash-Kelvinator, in 1952 as assistant to George W. Romney of 1830 E. Valley, Bloomfield Hills. He was named director of communications and management development in 1954 and was elected vice president in 1954.

★ ★ ★

A graduate of DePaul University, McGaughey was a newspaperman in New York and Indianapolis after graduation.

McGaughey is the author of two books on the automobile industry. With his wife Joan and two sons and a daughter, he resides at 131 Guilford Road.

A paper that stretches in all directions is proposed for use as disposable bed sheets, diapers, draperies, slip covers, medical gowns and uniforms.

Swainson Signs Bills; County Boards Involved

LANSING (UPI)—Gov. Swainson today signed two bills dealing with county boards of auditors established under local acts, giving both immediate effect.

One repeals a law that created the board of auditors for St. Clair County. The other provides that boards created under local acts continue under provisions of state laws if the local act is repealed.

DROPS IN FOR LOAN — A sport parachutist floats down from an altitude of 3,500 feet for a landing on historic Boston Common. The jumper was one of three sports parachutists from Orange, Mass., who landed in front of the State House. Jump was to publicize the need of an appropriation for a international parachuting championship to be held in Orange in 1962. Smoke was to give the jumpers wind direction.

Push Inquiry Into Aid Plan

House Probers Ignore Rusk Order Denying Scandal Information

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House investigators pushed their inquiry into the foreign-aid program today despite an order by Secretary of State Dean Rusk denying Congress any information on past, present or future scandals.

★ ★ ★

The order forbids State Department and International Co-operation Administration (ICA) officials from testifying on any government investigations into charges of misconduct against foreign-aid personnel.

The directive was contained in letters to 12 officials called as witnesses before a house government operations subcommittee. The congressional unit launched a new investigation into the foreign aid program Wednesday.

Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., subcommittee chairman, angrily denounced the order as "the most arrogant instruction" ever given to government witnesses before a congressional committee.

★ ★ ★

The ranking Republican member, Rep. George Meader of Michigan, fully agreed and charged that "a curtain has been rung down" between the executive branch and Congress.

Meader demanded that Rusk be summoned before the House group to explain the order because it could become a major "roadblock" to the power of Congress to investigate.

Six Precautionary Rules

Find Ditch to Hide From Tornado

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Red Cross and the Weather Bureau have issued six safety tips to prevent death, injury and property damage during tornadoes.

Robert C. Edson, Red Cross disaster director, points out that tornadoes killed 42 persons last year and injured 397. A total of 6,750 homes and 3,100 other buildings were destroyed or damaged.

Edson listed these safety precautions:

—If possible, get into a storm cellar, cave or underground excavation with an air outlet.

—In open country, move at right angles to the tornado's path. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch.

—In cities and towns, get off the streets, preferably into a steel or other reinforced building. Stay away from windows.

—At home, the southwest corner of the basement usually offers the greatest safety, particularly in farm houses. Open north and east windows to equalize pressure. If time permits, turn off electric equipment and fuel lines. If there is no basement, lie down in the nearest ditch or depression.

—In schools or other buildings, go to the basement or stand against a wall on the lower floor.

—In factories or plants, post a lookout to warn of the tornado's approach. Shut off electric and fuel lines.

Ike to Meet Ex-Labor Chief James Mitchell

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Former President Eisenhower planned to meet today with former Labor Secretary James Mitchell to discuss matters of common interest.

A spokesman for the former chief executive said the meeting with Mitchell had been planned some time ago. He said Mitchell was flying in from the East.

Eisenhower played golf Wednesday with his son John, who planned to visit with his parents for two or three days. Eisenhower and his wife Mamie arrived Feb. 8 for an extended vacation.

Sees Early Pickup in Nation's Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation should experience an early pickup in the economy but the return to full employment will be slow, according to President Kennedy's chief economic adviser.

★ ★ ★

Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said this means "the odds are not very strongly" in favor of a temporary tax cut now that the business slump is showing signs of ending.

★ ★ ★

He said "signs of an upturn are predominating."

Tells Arabs to Fight Despite Peace Talks

TUNIS (UPI) — Refugee "Premier" Ferhat Abbas appealed to Arab guerrillas in Algeria today to go on fighting despite the prospect of early peace talks with France.

★ ★ ★

"Our battle continues," Abbas said in a broadcast from his headquarters here. "More than ever, we remain in the struggle."

He said the prospective talks might fail because of "certain uncompromising attitudes and certain French colonial desires"—an apparent hint that he thinks the coming talks might share the fate of the negotiations which broke down at Melun last year.

Storm Brewing Over Spy Ring

Evidence Seems to Indicate More Agents Still Prowl Britain

LONDON (AP)—A major political storm with international repercussions was building up in Britain today over how a Soviet spy ring could operate five years in this tight little island without being detected.

Conviction Wednesday of a Soviet master spy, an American couple and two British lovers for stealing royal navy secrets still left missing links in the case. England's lord chief justice called "a thriller."

★ ★ ★

Strange Radio Moscow transmissions on a secret wavelength 10 days after the five were caught led security officials to believe that other Soviet spies at large in Britain were being alerted to change their call signs and codes.

Lord Carrington, first lord of the admiralty, ordered a worldwide overhaul of the British navy's security system and announced a board of inquiry would be set up to investigate gaps already disclosed.

British newspapers lashed the security services for "unbelievable slackness." Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express raised the question of "how much vital information had reached the Russians through the flagrant folly and incompetence of naval intelligence" before the spy ring was cracked.

There were fears here of the impact on joint British-American military and diplomatic planning.

AFL-CIO Show to Host Meany and Goldberg

DETROIT (AP)—Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg and AFL-CIO President George Meany are scheduled to attend the opening of a five-day AFL-CIO union-industries show April 7 at Cobo Hall, show planners said today.

President Kennedy has indicated he will try to attend some time during the week, they said.

The show will include 350 exhibits worth an estimated $22 million.

The exhibits are designed to demonstrate skills and show evidence of "harmonious relationships between labor and management."

Last year's show, the 15th held since 1938, drew 250,000 persons in Washington.

GOP Asks Kennedy About Angola Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI)—GOP congressional leaders asked President Kennedy today to explain why the United States voted with Russia and against its allies in support of the United Nations resolution on Portuguese Angola.

★ ★ ★

They said the "affront" to America's allies is particularly undersored by the need for Western unity in the current crisis over Laos.

The resolution, defeated in the United Nations, called for internal reforms in the Portuguese territory.

The Republican view was given following the weekly House-Senate GOP leadership conference.

Tension Aids Market Retreat

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market beat a grudging retreat early this afternoon under the combined weight of the tense foreign situation and the expected technical reaction to the long march upward.

★ ★ ★

Brokers, who had more or less expected some sort of brief reaction, attributed it to several factors. For one thing it was said, Dow Jones' closely watched average of 30 industrials in recent days has climbed close to its record high of 685.47. At this level, many traders have marked their stock with a "for sale" sign.

★ ★ ★

The tense Laotian situation, plus the fact that President Kennedy delayed his press conference statement until 6 p.m., strengthened Wall Street's inclination to stand aside from trading. Brokers noted that the market has a history of selling off in time of uncertainty.

Declines ran from fractions to a dollar for the most part, although a few widé movers exceeded that range. Prices held around midday and scattered issues regained an ⅛ or ¼.

"The tape ran late much of the time, catching up for a few minutes just before noon.

Chemicals were prominent on the downside with DuPont off more than 2 and losses of about a point for Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide. Air Reduction fell fractionally.

Grain Contracts Firm to Strong

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures prices resumed their higher trend today with all contracts firm to strong in initial dealings on the board of trade.

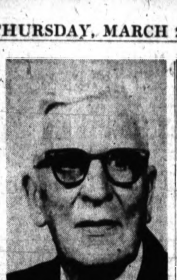

★ ★ ★

Most grains were up major fractions in spots during the first several minutes with new crop months leading the advances generally. In soybeans, however, old crop deliveries were strongest and moved up about 4 cent before meeting strong resistance.

Easy Go (Never Knew He Had It)

Easy Come . . . That $1,000

Everything was back to normal today for Lawrence Tyler, 41, of 1624 Del Monte St., Walled Lake.

The unemployed foundry molder, father of six girls and one son, was back to the old grind of searching for a job.

Things were a bit hectic earlier this week for Tyler. The normal course of events was upset when he was handed $1,000 by the Michigan Employment Security Commission—and he didn't notice it.

Tyler picked up his usual $52 unemployment compensation check at the branch office Monday.

As he does every week, Tyler cashed it at Bazley Cash Meat Market, 78 N. Saginaw St., where he is well known.

★ ★ ★

Later Monday, when Mrs. Charles Carroll, cashier, was posting the day's checks, she was "astounded" to see that the usual $52 check was made payable in the amount of $1,052.

★ ★ ★

"I called the commission office and asked if they issued the check. A clerk told me they had," she explained.

"Then I told them they better look at the stub. There was a pause and suddenly I heard someone say, 'Oh, my gosh'."

Tyler, when notified, reacted in a similar manner. "We had a good laugh over it," he said. "I went back and got a new check Tuesday."

"One nice thing," he chuckled, "I didn't have to stand in that long line on the second trip."

GM Insisting 'Bus Is a Bus'

Argues for Quality in Antitrust Suit but Judge Must Decide

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is arguing in a federal antitrust suit that if it has what approximates a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of city and intercity buses this is because it produces the top quality vehicles in those fields.

★ ★ ★

But GM also is arguing that buses are buses and that its 3,700 share of the 20,000-a-year field does not constitute a monopoly.

The government insists that GM has 85 per cent or more of the city and intercity bus business, has squeezed out competition and squeezed some operators into buying only its buses.

A decision on whether all buses can be intermingled in figuring whether a monopoly exists likely will fall sometime late next week to U.S. District Judge Theodore Levin.

A half-dozen lawyers on the government's and GM's side have been arguing the question and asking other people, "What's a bus?" for 13 days now. GM, presenting its side, has 14 witnesses to go.

Following Judge Levin's decision, the five-year-old antitrust suit against GM will be ready for trial on its merits.

The judge's job, specifically, is to fix "the relevant market" for buses.

★ ★ ★

The action against GM is purely civil. There is no criminal charge, as in recent antitrust cases in which several executives of electric firms went to jail.

Elephants Have Trunks, Will Travel for Film

By EARL WILSON

EILAT, Israel—I'm so happy that Hollywood's David Niven, Stanley Kramer and Michael Wilding got into elephant trouble down here in the Negev Desert a few miles from Saudi-Arabia.

WILSON

Otherwise I'd never have seen this city of young people where the Mayor, only 32, is referred to as "the Old Man." The citizens, mostly in their 20s, think he should retire—already he's nearly as old as Bobby Kennedy.

"You take a nap — you miss the rainy season here," they say.

The rainfall is one-half inch a year.

So it's such a hot spot that even the files have left. The temperature is 90 or 100—early in the morning.

"It doesn't get hot here—it just gets warmer—and warmer—and WARMER!" they explain. Dogs, to cool off, lie in the Red Sea, which is not really red, but very, very blue, and only called "Red" to fool the enemy Arabs.

And it is in this town of 6,000 people, two taxis and one rabbi that Stanley Kramer is bringing 50 elephants for "My Glorious Brothers."

Kramer rented 50 elephants. (Who buys nowadays? Everybody rents. Go ahead and buy 50 elephants, so what're you going to do with them later? So you rent.)

Trouble was, this elephant rental service was in Ceylon.

By ship they're coming in, but—how do you unload 50 elephants?

"By a crane, maybe?" they said. "But that's very dangerous."

(Especially to the crane.)

An extraordinarily reinforced gangplank will have to do for the 50 behemoths who will then have to walk 250 miles to Jerusalem, the setting for the picture. Then, of course, they will have to walk back 250 miles to the ship.

(Rented . . . remember?).

Celebration Planned for Isle Royale

HOUGHTON (AP) — Isle Royale National Park's 21st anniversary will be celebrated April 2 aboard the park's swank motorship Ranger III — 70 miles from the ice-bound Lake Superior park itself.

An open house for visitors will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. aboard the Ranger III at National Park Service Pier here.

So-called "Establishment Day" is being celebrated a day early because Supt. George W. Fry anticipated Sunday would be a more convenient day for visits than Monday.

The park, maintained in its natural wilderness state, was established April 3, 1940.

★ ★ ★

The park will open officially May 2, but only camping facilities will be available until its lodges open June 22. The park attracted 6,400 visitors in 1960.

In addition to open house aboard the Ranger III, the Park Service is scheduling the showing of park scenes.

Accused Swindlers Are Free on Bond

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Two men accused of swindling an Ingham County Bank of $371,681 remained free on bonds of $5,000 each today after standing mute Wednesday at arraignment proceedings in U.S. District Court.

Attorneys for James R. Dart, 49, and Paul P. Chien, 35, said neither man had any statement or plea to make concerning the check kiting charges of which they were accused.

The two allegedly bilked the Dart National Bank at Mason by manipulating the account of a dummy corporation through the bank, which was established by Dart's family.

Judge W. Wallace Kent adjourned the case without setting a date for a next appearance, but the case presumably will be resumed on or after April 17, the date when the judge will next sit here.

Timing Important and Difficult

TV Networks Prefer to Edit JFK Tape

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — When President John F. Kennedy's news conferences are not televised live, network enthusiasm for broadcasting the complete session apparently vanishes. It is hard to see much difference between a live telecast and a taped program put on the air as soon as the meeting is over. But obviously it makes a big difference to the men who make decisions about news and control programming on network TV.

★ ★ ★

Last week, for instance, all three networks were back to Eisenhower-era practices of excerpting brief snippets from the tape, mostly close-ups of the chief of state, and having a network newscaster explain what he was talking about.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile the routine handling of the presidential news conference has caused some confusion on the part of affiliated TV stations, many of which are eager and willing to broadcast the entire conference, and disappointment of the public which enjoyed watching those which were fully televised.

"Our position is—and has been—that we would decide on an individual basis of each conference what we would carry," explained NBC news head William R. McAndrew. "It is a matter of exercising our own news judgment."

★ ★ ★

James Hagerty, head of ABC news, echoed the principle, but added that "any time the White House requests live coverage of a press conference, they're going to get it on ABC."

One big problem, however, is alerting the various TV stations far enough in advance of plans to broadcast a taped news conference in its entirety.

"If a press conference is held in the morning, we can notify the stations several hours ahead that we plan to broadcast the conference in the late afternoon," at 4 p.m., is over at 4:30 and we Hagerty said. "But we all get in decide to broadcast the tape at trouble if the conference is held 5 p.m."

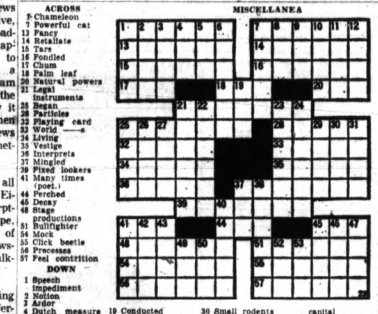

Rep. Lesinski to Talk to Area Truckers

The Volunteer Truckers Assn., a group of Pontiac area truck drivers and their wives, is scheduled to hear Rep. John J. Lesinski at a 2:30 p.m. rally Sunday in the Community Activities, Inc. building in Waterford Township.

Lesinski is scheduled to report on current activity in Congress pertaining to the trucking industry's battle with railroads over "piggy back" hauling of new automobiles.

Pro and Con Arguments to Be Used in Con-Con Discussions

By TOM SHAWVER
(Second in Series)

LANSING (AP)—Last fall, former Gov. G. Mennen Williams declared that Michigan's 1908 Constitution is as out of date as the bustle."

* * *

That in brief, sums up one of the chief arguments of those who are promoting a new state constitution. They say a document written 53 years ago in the horse-and-buggy era and since patched up with 69 amendments is often a millstone around the neck of modern government.

* * *

Opponents of the April 3 ballot proposition to call a constitutional convention next October point out that the United States has operated with reasonable efficiency under a Constitution written 174 years ago. The amendment process, they say, is enough to keep it up to date.

Backers counter that Michigan's Constitution is 2½ times as long as the U.S. Constitution. They say the constitutional $250,000,000 ceiling on state debts and rigid earmarking of state revenues for such things as schools and road funds, contribute importantly to the state's current financial trouble.

They say the court system is overburdened, parts of the election system unrealistic, the legislative system outmoded in some respects.

With the growing multitude of state agencies and commissions, they say the constitutional directive requiring the governor to see that all laws are faithfully executed is impossible to carry out.

* * *

They cite the statement of an exasperated researcher who declared:

"An organizational chart of Michigan state government exhibits all the weird confusion of a 20-mule team harnessed in the dark by a one-armed idiot."

Wholesale constitutional reform is the only practical solution, they say.

Opponents of a constitutional convention point out that only eight states have constitutions younger than Michigan's and that a good many others are longer and carry more amendments.

They say a constitutional convention might cost $3 million money that could be better spent elsewhere. Hard-won amendments such as those setting up a Civil Service system in state government and assuring a continued program of road construction could be wiped out in a new constitution, they argue.

They also warn that delegates from populous urban areas might dominate a convention, leaving rural interests in the background.

And so the battle goes on.

To help get the issues in focus, Gov Williams and his successor, Gov. Swainson, asked a committee of political science experts, mostly from state universities, to take a close look at the Constitution.

The results of their study, begun last year, is a list of arguments for and against the issues that are most likely to arise at a convention.

SOME ARGUMENTS

Here are some of them:

Shall elections be held less frequently?—

PRO—Election costs would be reduced, elected officials could pay more attention to their work and less to politics, issues would stand out more clearly.

CON—Frequent elections keep voters interested in public affairs, make office holders more responsible to the will of voters, allow quicker removal of incompetent or corrupt officials.

* * *

Shall the minimum voting age be lowered from 21?

PRO—If people must serve in the armed forces, before they are 21, they should be allowed to vote at an earlier age; widespread education and mass communications make young people as informed as older adults.

CON—A lower voting age would bring politics into the schools; most young people have no great desire to lower the voting age.

* * *

PRO—Long ballots, covering everyone from governor to county officials, confuse voters and cause them to lose interest in elections. By appointing more administrative officers, the governor and other executive officials can be held more responsible for their performance, have less worry about policy-making officials working at cross-purposes.

CON—The popular franchise is an effective control over all office holders, makes elective officers more responsible, preserves the principle of checks and balances.

* * *

Should judges be appointed rather than elected?

PRO—Appointment would eliminate or reduce political partisanship as a consideration in selecting judges, improve chances for judicial independence and selection of judges on basis of qualifications alone.

CON—People should have the right to determine who judges them; appointment might involve undue influence by special interest groups.

* * *

Should justice of the peace courts be revised and integrated into a unified court system?

PRO—Because of insufficient qualifications, justices now may be ignorant of the law; value of fee system is questionable; the great number of justices makes supervision difficult.

* * *

CON—Justice Court costs are low; informal justice is often valuable; Justice Courts are close to the people they serve.

Shall the number of elective officials be reduced?

PRO—The governor needs more executive authority to operate effectively; he may be handicapped by having to work with officials of the opposite political party; some posts such as secretary of state are administrative rather than policy-making in character.

CON—Popular election makes officials more responsive to voters; voters generally have elected good officials; more appointing power might concentrate too much power in the hands of the governor.

Should the Civil Service system be changed?

PRO—Constitutional status isolates the system from control by the voters through their elected representatives; it fosters bureaucratic independence and inefficiencies.

CON—A change might return state employes to the "spoils system," wreck the career system, enable the governor or legislature to use it as a political football.

Personal income in Arkansas in 1959 was up more than 7 per cent higher than in 1958.

Gerber Firm to Build Warehouse at Fremont

FREMONT (UPI) — The Gerber Products Co. announced today it will construct a 125,000-square-foot warehouse adjacent to the company's Fremont plant.

Bids for the new building will be opened April 12 and contracts are expected to be let about April 19, according to E. M. Weisner, plant manager.

Tentative completion date will be in September.

Mull Over Reds' Laos Plan

Pick Chairmen for Special Days of Centennial

The outline of Pontiac's centennial celebration was beginning to take shape today with the announcement that chairmen have been selected for each of the seven days of the June 17-24 celebration.

Besides the pageant and opening parade, there now are plans for an opening night band-and-choral concert, dedication of public buildings, features for the ladies and ethnic groups, unusual displays from Pontiac's industrial past and an emphasis on youngsters. It is expected that many more features will be lined up as centennial time approaches.

Heading the special days committee is Eldon C. Rosegard, chairman of the Michigan State Fair Commission and president of the Waterford Township Board of Education.

These subchairmen were announced at Centennial Headquarters:

Sherwin M. Birnkrant, assistant city attorney, chairman of the opening day, Pontiac on Parade, Saturday, June 17.

Homer D. Hoskins, manager of Pontiac Municipal Airport, chairman of Air Progress Day, June 18.

Mayor Philip E. Rowston, chairman of "Pride in Pontiac Day," June 19.

★ ★ ★

Bernard Crandell, public relations director of GMC Truck & Coach Division, chairman of Industrial Day, June 20.

Mrs. Noel Buckner, chairman of Ladies Day, June 21.

Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools, chairman of Youth Day, June 22.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. David Saks and Mrs. Richard Wolfe, cochairmen of International Day, June 23.

And Robert C. Miller, former Pontiac acting postmaster, chairman of Roundup Day, the final one of the celebration, June 24.

Some of the highlights planned:

Appearance of the Fifth Army Band of Chicago at a 7:30 p.m. opening-night concert in Wisner Stadium. At 8:30 p.m., a concert by an estimated 500 voices of men's choral groups throughout the state.

On the six remaining nights, the pageant is scheduled at Wisner Stadium.

DEDICATIONS, TOO

On Air Progress Day, dedication of the Pontiac Municipal Airport terminal building. Centennial planners have in mind a number of other programs at the airport that day to attract a large crowd.

Dedication of the new Civic Center library, cornerstone laying of the Civic Center fire hall and open house at the new Oakland County Courthouse are features of Pride in Pontiac Day. A joint service club luncheon is planned at the Elks Temple.

Industrial Day planners are lining up automobiles from yesteryear, as well as examples of Pontiac World War II production, for display. All Pontiac industry has been invited to participate.

For the women on their day, a beauty and flower show are planned at the Elks Temple at noon and a fashion show in the evening. The women will be invited

Firemen Crack No Beard Order

City Chief 'Resents but Relents'; Police Head Follows Suit

The heat's off Fire Chief James R. White.

He announced yesterday afternoon that firemen would be allowed to grow beards for Pontiac's centennial celebration.

That put the heat on Police Chief Joseph Koren.

This morning Koren followed the fire chief's lead.

His officers can become brothers of the brush, he said.

"I'm not encouraging them," Koren added quickly. "Their consciences must be their guides."

Both chiefs had previously ordered the banning of beards in their departments.

SIGN PETITION

The first crack in the anti-whiskers policy was in the fire department as firemen petitioned the chief for a reversal of his stand.

Fire Lt. Robert Sartell on behalf of the Pontiac Fire Fighters Association presented to the chief a long list of signatures of firemen wishing to grow beards.

"I didn't count the names," said White, "but they made up a majority of the firemen.

"I have bowed to the will of the majority."

The fire chief added: "I'm resenting—but relenting."

★ ★ ★

"I'll clue you, though. Half the men who signed the petition won't grow beards."

The news of the fire chief's change-of-heart reached the police chief in his office in the Public Safety Building a few doors down the hall.

"My policy stands," he said. "I don't like beards."

"But," he added, "each to his own. No one will be punished for sprouting a beard. It's a matter of the officers' consciences.

"I hope theirs feel like mine."

JFK Speeding Units Toward Area of Crisis

Expected to Give Key Policy Statement During News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy apparently began speeding U.S. military units toward crisis - racked Southeast Asia today in the crucial hours of a diplomatic showdown with Russia over the embattled kingdom of Laos.

Kennedy is expected to issue a major U.S. policy statement on the Laotian crisis at a news conference tonight (6 p.m. Pontiac time).

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders pledged today to stand behind President Kennedy in whatever decision he makes in the grave situation in Laos.

Meanwhile the President awaited some reaction from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to an urgent appeal from Britain for agreement to a cease-fire in the civil war in Laos.

Given a cease-fire, the Western powers would accept a Communist backed proposal for an international conference on Laos.

This last-minute move on the diplomatic front was made by Britain after consultation with the United States. It kept open the road for a negotiated settlement and put the next step up to Khrushchev.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile the reported military moves underscored Kennedy's determination to deal with the Communist challenge threat by force if diplomacy fails.

One of the tightest secrecy clampdowns since the Korean War shut off Pentagon information on military moves.

'NO COMMENT'

Not only would sources at defense headquarters supply no original information, but there was only a crisp "no comment" on dispatches from Southeast Asia which indicated stiffening of the U.S. military stand.

Authorities here said privately, however, that while some of those moves were clearly precautionary steps, others were designed to begin a substantial increase in U.S. military assistance to the Royal Laotian Government.

There were reports here that

Soviet Censorship Abolished for Foreign Correspondents

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today abolished censorship for foreign correspondents.

The foreign office press director made the announcement at a news conference.

★ ★ ★

The press director, Mikhail Kharlamov, said he expected the removal of censorship would create new troubles for correspondents circulating unfounded rumors about the Soviet Union.

This appeared to be a direct warning that newsmen would be expelled if their reports were not satisfactory to the Soviet authorities.

Kharlamov warned that all correspondents must keep a copy of all their dispatches sent abroad so long as they remain in the Soviet Union. He explained that some correspondents had insisted that some copy published abroad under their names was not of their writing. By keeping a copy of what is sent out, the correspondent can always answer this question, he said.

150 IN MOSCOW

Censorship is being lifted, Kharlamov said, to expedite the movement of copy of the foreign correspondents, who he said had increased from 15 a few years ago to 150 now in Moscow on a permanent basis. About two-thirds of these write for Communist and Socialist publications.

★ ★ ★

Previously all non-Communist correspondents have been required to submit their copy to censorship before it could be telephoned or telegraphed abroad.

★ ★ ★

Censorship has been in force in the Soviet Union since the revolution in 1917, except for two brief periods. It was suspended briefly during the summer of 1939 but imposed again when the Soviet-Finnish war started. Another brief suspension came after the war in 1946. It lasted only a few weeks.

FILM CENSORED

Kharlamov said that censorship has not yet been lifted on movement of photographs and television film.

★ ★ ★

"This is a new question and we will have to work it out," he said. "Our immediate aim was to facilitate the movement of ordinary news copy."

He said radio broadcasters wishing to record their voices on tape could send out the tape by any carrier they chose provided they kept a typewritten copy on all such matter.

$650,000 'Y' Campaign to Be Launched at Dinner

A dinner attended by area citizens from all walks of life will launch the $650,000 fund-raising drive of the Pontiac YMCA for improvement and expansion of facilities.

Announcement of the kickoff dinner was made today by Robert M. Critchfield, general chairman of the expansion campaign. The dinner will be held at 6:45 p.m., Monday, April 3, at the Elks Temple.

Attending will be approximately 300 persons who are currently being formed into an organization to be known as the Citizens "Y" committee, Critchfield said.

Highlighting the program will be a talk by Dr. Kenneth McFarland, an educational consultant for General Motors Corp., who will explain details of the expansion and the need for the campaign.

Critchfield said the expansion program executive committee plans to acquaint the community with all the facts surrounding the forthcoming campaign.

The drive will run through May 15.

Critchfield said the campaign organization now is nearing completion. Response of those invited to join the Citizens "Y" committee and attend the dinner meeting April 3 has been "gratifying," he said.

He urged those invited to the dinner to return reservation cards as soon as possible to the expansion program office.

The campaign for new facilities at the "Y" building, 131 Mt. Clemens St., has been necessitated by the increasing membership.

Critchfield pointed out that more than 4,000 boys, girls, men and women hold "Y" membership cards, an increase of 300 per cent since 1938 when the building opened.

Old County Courthouse to Get Price

A price tag will soon be put on the aging downtown courthouse, it was decided yesterday.

But all won't know how much the green-tinged home of the county's higher courts since 1904 will be priced—because the board of supervisors' ways and means committee has urged that the result of an appraisal be kept confidential.

★ ★ ★

The committee recommended that three appraisers be hired, one being possibly William B. Grabendike, director of the county's equalization department, one a private appraiser from Oakland County and the third from outside the county.

Delos Hamlin, chairman of the board of supervisors, suggested the appraisal as the county gets within three months of moving into the new $3.2-million courthouse in the County Service Center.

Apparently, the county has decided to sell its old home, but how fast the supervisors didn't indicate.

★ ★ ★

No prediction of the future use of the site on Saginaw and Huron streets was made, with the exception that county officials felt the city might want to use it for a park in connection with its urban renewal program.

"What you can sell it for will have a big bearing on whether you want to or not," said David Levinson, Birmingham supervisor and chairman of the ways and means committee.

The committee said it has "received and filed" the one and only offer to date for the courthouse and property. A group of downtown merchants, headed by former director George Richman, offered $200,000 nearly two years ago.

No Decision on Clinic Money

Verdict on Allocation Still Forthcoming as Officials Meet

No definite decision was reached today on the matter of a $27,000 county allocation to the Oakland Child Guidance Clinic as clinic officials met with the Ways and Means Committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

The announcement was made by David Levinson, committee chairman, shortly after the meeting began this morning that "we do not expect to make any definite decisions today."

Dr. William J. Westmaas, president of the clinic's board of directors, suggested that the clinic be placed under the jurisdiction of the county board's health committee.

He also suggested that clinic officials ask the United Community Services of Detroit to appoint an impartial citizens' committee to study the clinic's problems.

★ ★ ★

The clinic has requested $27,000 to enable it to maintain its current level of operations for the remainder of 1961, and has asked $67,000 from the county budget for 1962 operations.

LIMITED BUDGET

The tentative county operating budget announced yesterday allows only $32,500 for the clinic next year.

Harry W. Horton, Royal Oak supervisor and member of the ways and means committee, objected to the content of many letters received by supervisors from clinic supporters.

"These letters accuse the county of being derelict in the care of its children," he said.

Britain Accepts Russian Bid for Conference

U.S. Ships Steam Out of Hong Kong Toward Trouble Country

From Our News Wires

The West edged cautiously today toward a Soviet peace plan for Laos.

Britain, in a note delivered to Moscow partly on the initiative of the United States, accepted the Soviet proposal for an international conference on Laos — provided the Soviet Union first helps secure an effective truce in the torn Southeast Asia kingdom.

But the U.S. aircraft carrier Midway and two destroyers steamed out of Hong Kong on a few hours notice, raising belief they had been alerted for action in case of an East-West showdown.

Unconfirmed reports said other U.S. 7th Fleet units were heading south toward the Indochina coast.

U.S. military officials said in Washington the anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—whose military strategists are now meeting in Bangkok, Thailand —could throw about 4,000 battle-ready troops into Laos on short notice if Premier Boun Oum's pro-Western government needs urgent help in his battle against pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels.

MARINES LEAVE TOKYO

The sudden departure of 2,000 U.S. Marines from Tokyo led to speculation they were being returned to their Okinawa base in preparation for any emergency.

The Marines had been taking part in the filming of a movie when they were pulled out. An official statement insisted their departure was a "routine operational readiness test to see how fast they could get from one location to another on short notice."

A responsible source in Bangkok said a Marine maintenance unit is being stationed at Udorn, Thailand, to service helicopters supplying the Laotian army. Udorn is about 50 miles south of Vientiane, the Laotian capital.

★ ★ ★

At Vientiane, the Laotian Army celebrated its 11th birthday today with parades and fanfares.

While Communist-supported troops maneuvered in the hills and forests to the north, Laotian King Savang Vathana, his queen, Premier Prince Boun Oum, Deputy Premier Phoumi Nosavan and the entire diplomatic corps attended a day-long festival of celebration.

The most warlike gesture came during a fiery speech by Gen. Phoumi.

Assuring the king of the army's support, Phoumi declared:

Police Clam Up Over Kidnaping

Boy Dies of Exposure, Scoutmaster Kills Self; Answers Unknown

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (AP) — All evidence indicates only a scoutmaster who later killed himself was involved in the kidnaping and death of 10-year-old Tommy McNevin, a police official said today.

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (AP)—Police maintained a tight silence today on the progress of their hunt for the kidnaper who roped 10-year-old Tommy McNevin to a tree by the neck and left him to die in the snow.

The biggest question mark hung over Tommy's scoutmaster, Warren Williamson, 41, a church elder and father of a son and daughter, who committed suicide Tuesday night after claiming the kidnaper had designated him to deliver the $25,000 ransom demanded.

Police refused to divulge the contents of Williamson's suicide note. But Crown Attorney (prosecutor) John Pringle said he had not believed Williamson's story of the ransom notes when he told it to him Tuesday and doesn't believe it now.

Tommy, son of a former alderman and creamery owner, left home Monday afternoon to play hockey and was not seen again alive. His body was found Wednesday. Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott said the boy died from exposure sometime Monday night. Bark on the tree was worn where Tommy had struggled to free himself.

Scott said the child had not been assaulted sexually. He ordered a post mortem and said inquest into the deaths of both Tommy and Williamson would be held as soon as possible.

Two sets of footprints—a man's and a boy's—led to the tree and the body, and police said they indicated the child walked trustingly to his death. There was a cut on Tommy's head and a deep cut on his thumb, which Scott took as an indication he had tried to ward off a blow, perhaps from his own hockey stick.

See Another Cliff Hanger in Minimum Wage Battle

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — The House plunged today into a minimum wage battle that promised to provide another cliff-hanging test of President Kennedy's legislative program.

★ ★ ★

As debate began, a conservative coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats held the upper hand. But the President's supporters said they would not admit defeat until the votes were counted.

Today's maneuvering follows congressional approval Wednesday of a bill extending jobless pay.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy is expected to sign the jobless pay bill into law quickly so unemployed workers can start drawing the extra benefits in about two weeks.

The bill, first of the administration's antirecession measures, provides for a $1-billion extension of unemployment compensation payments to idle workers who have exhausted their regular benefits.

$93 MILLION FOR STATE

The bill will mean about $93 million extra for Michigan's jobless, says the chairman of the State Employment Security Commission.

The commission held a special meeting at Lansing Wednesday to authorize formally the jobless pay extension passed by Congress.

J. T. Hammond, commission chairman, estimated that between 70,000 and 75,000 unemployed will make immediate application for the extended benefit period.

★ ★ ★

Max M. Horton, Michigan Employment Security Commission director, planned to leave for Washington today to sign a contract with the U.S. Labor Department for the new benefits.

U.S. to Bare African-Aid Plan to U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Kennedy administration unveils new proposals today for a U.N. program to boost the economy and education level of Africa.

The proposals were to be put before the General Assembly's main political committee at the start of debate on the help-to-Africa proposal made last fall by President Eisenhower.

★ ★ ★

Sources close to the U.S. delegation said the new administration plans considerable changes in the Eisenhower program, which never reached the resolution stage. The delegation has been circulating a tentative resolution among the African nations for the past week, trying to formulate a plan that will give the Africans what they need and want rather than what other nations think they ought to have.

A source close to the Soviet delegation said the Soviets would study the plan as presented by U.S. chief delegate Adlai E. Stevenson before taking a stand.

5-POINT PLAN

The original Eisenhower plan hinged on five main points:

1. Noninterference in the internal affairs of the African countries.

2. Help in assuring their security without wasteful and dangerous competition in armaments.

3. Emergency aid to the Congo.

4. International assistance in shaping long-term African development programs.

5. U.N. aid for education.

Stevenson conferred again Wednesday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on arrangements for resumption of disarmament negotiations and told newsmen that the U.S. and Soviet governments seem agreed the new negotiations should take place in Geneva, where the last 10-nation talks ended in a Soviet walkout last June 27.

Police had to use tear gas to disperse the rioters who surged through the streets Wednesday night demanding the resignation of Premier John M. Chang.

'Kiss Goodby' Then Murder

High School Boy Says Slain Texas Girl Asked to Be Killed

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) A high school boy kissed his former girl friend goodby, police quoted him as saying, and then blasted her to death with a shotgun she held to her temple.

Officers tried today to get more information from Mack Herring, 17, about the death of Elizabeth Jean Williams, also 17.

But Sheriff L. B. Eddins said at Kermit, Tex., that Herring only answered, "She asked me to do it." Eddins quoted the youth as saying the girl had asked others to kill her previously.

★ ★ ★

The boy was charged with murder with malice after he led officers to a farm pond where the pajama-clad body of his classmate lay in four feet of water, weighted down with lead.

NEAR SCENE

The pond was near the scene of the shooting, about 30 miles northwest of here in Winkler County. Young Herring was held in lieu of bond.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Williams of Odessa, reported her missing at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday.

Officer B. R. McAlpine arrested the youth in a classroom at Odessa High School a little later.

Herring told officers he came for her early Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

After they parked near the pond, the youth related, Elizabeth Jean asked him to kill her, but to kiss her goodby first.

She persisted when he refused, the youth told officers, so finally "I kissed her goodby." Then, he said, he pulled the trigger of the gun as she held the barrel to her temple.

He also suggested the committee seek appropriate and stable means of financing the clinic and develop a fee structure for services.

"Such an effort could eliminate many obstacles that have interfered with smooth co-operation between the clinics and the board of supervisors," he explained.

Names Negro to State Civil Service Body

LANSING (AP)—Forrest F. Green, president of the Michigan Barber College in Detroit, was appointed by Gov. Swainson to the State Civil Service Commission today.

He is the first Negro ever to serve on the powerful four-member commission that sets salaries and job requirements for the state's 31,000 civil service employes.

Green, 46, succeeds James M. Moses, editor and publisher of the Marshall Chronicle, who died this month.

The appointment, effective immediately, runs to Dec. 31, 1968. Senate confirmation is not required.

First Lady's Easter Hat Classified 'Top Secret'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy returns to Washington today with suitcases that might as well be marked: "Do not open until Easter."

The President's wife concluded a shopping tour of New York Wednesday. But she, her press secretary in Washington and even the people she bought from classified her purchases top secret.

Chooses Coach as Fitness Chief

JFK Names Wilkinson of Oklahoma to Head Youth Program

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy today named University of Oklahoma football coach Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson to head up a national youth fitness program.

The appointment was announced after Kennedy met with Wilkinson at the White House.

Wilkinson, who is athletic director as well as football coach at Oklahoma, will be Kennedy's special consultant on youth fitness.

The White House said Wilkinson will start immediately to confer with both government agencies and private organizations and groups to formulate a program.

TO SERVE WITHOUT PAY

The 44-year-old coach will serve without pay for an indefinite period, the White House said.

The announcement added that Wilkinson "will fulfill his coaching duties at Oklahoma during spring training and the fall football season."

Wilkinson, a native of Minneapolis, is a 1937 graduate of the University of Minnesota. He received his master of arts degree from the University of Syracuse in 1941.

Marilyn and DiMaggio Agree: 'We're Friends'

REDINGTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—"We're friends," said Joe DiMaggio. "We're friends," echoed Marilyn Monroe in her soft sigh.

But the understanding glances between the shapely movie actress and the former New York Yankee baseball star revived speculation today that the two may be close to another marriage.

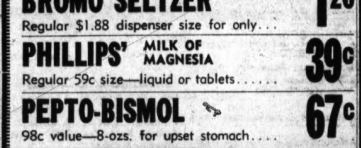

The "friends," who are sharing a beach cabana and have nearby hotel rooms at this Gulf Coast resort, declined to elaborate.

Lists Bills Sponsored by County Politicos

Here's Low-Down on Your Legislators

Want to know what your Oakland County legislators are doing in Lansing?

Following is a partial list of some of the bills they have introduced or cosigned in the legislature, as compiled by the governmental affairs division of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Rep. Raymond L. Baker, R-Berkley, has introduced a bill to amend the state's fishing license laws to require a separate license for your wife. It also would require a license for fishing on the Great Lakes, St. Clair River and Detroit River.

A measure to convert the Howell Sanatorium for use by mentally handicapped children has been cosponsored by Rep. William Hayward, R-Royal Oak.

Local governments would have to approve all applications for package liquor, beer and wine licenses under a measure Rep. John C. Hitchcock, D-Hazel Park, signed as a cosponsor.

Rep. Lloyd L. Anderson, R-Waterford Township, is the chief sponsor, and Rep. Henry M. Hogan Jr., R-Bloomfield Township, a cosponsor, on the county's major legislative proposal—streamlining laws to establish levels on all inland lakes. Oakland has more than 400 lakes.

County boards of supervisors would be granted the authority to regulate by ordinance size and speed of boats using inland waters under House Bill 139 signed by Anderson.

Hogan and Hitchcock would like to see local governments given authority to permit public parking on unused highways under another bill.

Pontiac State Rep. Arthur J. Law and Hitchcock are signers of a bill to amend the personal property tax law to permit local governments to require surety bonds for payment from new businesses with a one year limit.

Anderson has his name on a bill which would give township boards the right to abolish annual township meetings.

Another item on the county's legislative program — to allow township to contract with village for fire protection—has been introduced by Hogan.

He is also the sponsor of a law to determine when property owners would be required to hook up to sewers. This bill, too, is one of the county's highest rated in priority.

Anderson has joined with 10 other representatives on a bill to alter the election method of electoral college candidates.

A measure to "stiffen" regulations for new or minor parties to get on state election ballots has been favored by Anderson and Hogan.

Over in the Senate, Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Oakland County, has his name on measures to:

—Limit relief to a defendant not personally served in an original lawsuit to quiet title to actual damages based on a fair cash market value at time of original decree;

★ ★ ★

—Permit creation of absentee vote counting board by any governmental unit other than the state or county;

—Increase the state salary share for circuit judges from $12,500 to $18,500.

Qualifies JFK as Best-Dressed Chief of State

LONDON (UP)—A leading British expert on male dress says President John F. Kennedy is the world's best dressed chief of state.

John Taylor, editor of "The Tailor and Cutter," disagreed with the Fashion Foundation of America for putting Kennedy among the 10 best dressed American men. He explained:

"He is not elegant, because he would lose his chances as a politician to dress in that way. People distrust elegance. They like the folksy image in politicians. Kennedy provides it.

"His suits are well - tailored and always well-pressed. I place him as the best dressed head of state in the word because he is dressed as a head of state should be."

Pontiac City Hall Folk Studying Longevity Pay

Discussion has begun at City Hall leading to a possible longevity pay plan next year.

★ ★ ★

Administrative and employe representatives are to meet again on the subject within two weeks, said City Manager Walter K. Willman.

The City Commission earlier this year indicated it would be willing to consider longevity pay. A comparative study of other municipalities is now under way.

★ ★ ★

It was estimated in January that the cost of a longevity plan would be relatively small, involving only a few thousand dollars a year.

Investors Entice Charging Bull Market With Blanket of Green

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — Here we go again. That is; we will if you believe all the talk about another bull market being born, or confirmed, or definitey gathering strength in Wall Street.

★ ★

Stock prices in general have been rising since early fall. They've had periods of stagnation, sometimes of decline after bad news, but the general trend has been upward.

★ ★ ★

Much of the public has been confused by the wide variety of explanations and expert counseling. Enough traders have been optimistic, however, to keep rising—if only on hopes of better times, or fears of more inflation.

IT'S FASCINATING

And much of the public has been fascinated. Heavy trading shows that the public has been in the market. Usually it has been giving special favorites a ride in turn. And always there's been talk, talk, talk about market prospects, about chances for a quick killing.

★ ★ ★

Now the long, slow rising trend of prices has been confirmed to the satisfaction of the followers of the Dow theory. This is because the Dow Jones index of railroad share prices has broken through a level where previously it had been turned back. The industrial index already had pierced its former resistance level. According to the theorists, from now on the course should be upward — but definitely. They officially dub it a bull market.

CHARTISTS INFLUENCE

The chartists and their followers may be fewer in recent years than in their heydey before the 1929 stock market crash. But by acting in concert they often influence the market, if only temporarily.

★ ★ ★

And some observers in Wall Street think this is what has been happening this week. According to this view, followers of the Dow theory climbed aboard the bandwagon Tuesday as the rail index suddenly spurted toward the resistance point after lagging most of March.

★ ★ ★

Many who don't follow the Dow theory still respect its influence and climbed aboard too for the ride. All this helped send the rails higher on a day when the industrials were faltering.

★ ★ ★

Critics of the charts, and of the various indexes themselves, point out that they are only general at best. Individual stocks don't necessarily go the same way. Often stocks of whole industries buck the trend.

YOU MAY WIN OR LOSE

You may own the lucky leaders. But you may find that the stocks you own just don't seem to have heard about the rising indexes, or about a bull market either, for that matter.

This could account for much of the large volume of selling in recent weeks among the odd lot holders—those buying or selling fewer stocks than the 100 shares that constitute a round lot. These odd lot sellers could be getting out of old holdings that disappoint them by holding aloof from the bull market. They could be lured by the currently more glamorous stocks, or they may be still shopping around.

★ ★ ★

Certainly they have been subjected to plenty of talk—tips, if you will—about the chances for this or that stock taking off on a space light of its own.

Public enthusiasm can feed the newly acclaimed bull market. Any marked shift in public confidence in the future of the economy or in the ability of stocks in general to keep on rising indefinitely could change the scene quickly.

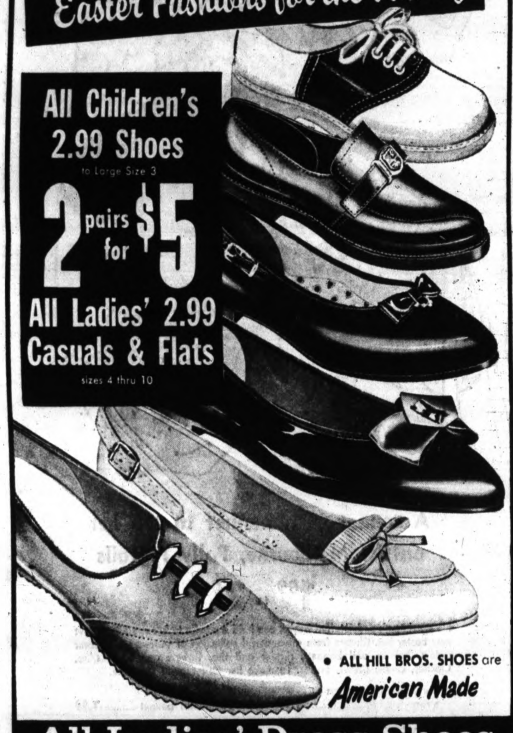

★ ★ ★

That old cliche attributed to J. P. Morgan that the only sure thing is that stock prices will fluctuate is still popular. It's a cliche because it is often repeated. But that could be because it's true.

The per capita consumption of electricity in Ontario exceeds 5,900 kilowatt-hours a year, higher than the Canadian average and the average of the United States and Britain.

Freeman Explains Farm Plan

Says Feed-Grain Cutback May Be Key to Success

OHAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said today the fate of the administration's broad new farm policy may hinge on the success of its emergency program for cutting 1961 feed grain acreage.

Freeman launched a whirlwind administration campaign to win farmer cooperation in the acreage-reduction program with an appearance here before a meeting of state-level Agricultural Stabilization Committee officials and extension service officials from 12 corn belt states.

Freeman said that the city public, whose legislators helped write the new feed grain plan into law, is watching to see how farmers use "this first real opportunity to bring production into line with demand."

Government feed grain surpluses, mounting steadily in recent years, now total about $4 billion.

Congressional action on the feed plan was completed Wednesday and President Kennedy signed it into law a few hours later.

The plan offers increased feed-grain price supports plus direct acreage-reduction payments to farmers who reduce corn and grain sorghum acreage a minimum of 20 per cent.

The agriculture secretary made two important announcements about the operation of the new program in Omaha.

First, he said, no corn or grain sorghum grower can get 1961 price supports on any feed grains unless he reduces acreage of corn or sorghum.

Acreage reduction is the heart of the program.

★ ★ ★

The new bill provides that growers can't get corn or sorghum support unless they cut acreage of those crops by 20 per cent. The bill left it up to Freeman to decide whether noncooperating growers should also lose supports on other grains.

★ ★ ★

The bill also provides payments to growers who reduce their acreage of 50 per cent of normal yield on the first 20 per cent reduction and 60 per cent of normal yield on further reductions up to another 20 per cent.

★ ★ ★

This leads to Freeman's second major announcement.

He said all acreage-reduction payments will be made in the form of negotiable certificates which will be redeemable in government grain.

Half the payment to each farm will be made shortly after the farmer signs up for the program.

★ ★ ★

Growers who want cash for their certificates will be able to get cash from county ASC offices. But whether any individual grower takes cash or grain, eventually all the certificates will be redeemed for grain.

The grain will move at market prices, a threat to farmers who depend on the open market because they're not eligible for price support.

For corn and sorghum growers, supports this year will be limited in volume to the amount the farmer could raise at normal yields. Any excess will not be support.

★ ★ ★

Here are the 1961 support rates compared with the 1960 supports:

CORN—$1.20 a bushel this year compared with $1.06.

SOYBEANS — $2.30 a bushel, compared with $1.85.

GRAIN SORGHUMS — $1.93 a hundredweight, compared with $1.52.

BARLEY — 93 cents a bushel, compared with 77 cents.

OATS — 62 cents a bushel, compared with 50 cents.

RYE — $1.02 a bushel, compared with 90 cents.

FLAXSEED — $2.80 a bushel, compared with $2.38.

COTTONSEED — $49 a ton on farm-stored seed compared with $38.

Funerals to End Tragic Incident

Schedule Final Rites for 2 Playmates Who Drowned in Sterling

STERLING TOWNSHIP — One funeral today and another Saturday culminate tragedies in the lives of four parents whose little daughters drowned together in the Clinton River Monday afternoon.

Final rites for Terry Cate, 4, whose body was recovered from the rain-swollen river at noon yesterday, will be held at 2:15 p.m. Saturday at the Diener Funeral Home, Shelby Township.

Service for her 2½-year-old playmate, Catherine Lapp, was slated for 2 p.m. today at the same funeral home. She will be buried in Cadillac Memorial Gardens Cemetery East, Mount Clemens.

★ ★ ★

Catherine's body was recovered by Macomb County Sheriff's deputies and volunteer skin divers Monday, a few hours after the children were reported missing.

★ ★ ★

Catherine is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles J. Lapp of 8830 Suncrest Drive. The Lapps have four other children at home, three girls and a boy.

PARENTS CONFUSED

Terry's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cate Jr. of 11721 Waitley Road. Mrs. Cate told police Monday she thought the children were playing at the Lapp home.

But Mrs. Lapp believed they were visiting Terry's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cate of 8808 Suncrest Drive.

Instead, police theorized that the little playmates wandered to the foot of Suncrest Drive, tumbled over the banks of the Clinton River and drowned.

★ ★ ★

Catherine's body was found about one-quarter of a mile downriver from the foot of Suncrest Drive. Terry's was recovered near the same part of the river yesterday.

Terry was the oldest of three girls. She is survived by Deborah, 2, and Cathy, 8 months.

Fight to Fence Rails From Private Land

LANSING (AP) — A dispute over a State Public Service Commission order requiring railroad right of way to be fenced off from private property in Detroit is being heard as a test case in Ingham County Circuit Court.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad is fighting the order involving an area between Telegraph Road and West Parkway Avenue, in Detroit. Members of a Detroit Citizens group said they wanted the area fence off for safety of children.

Railroad attorneys indicated they are fighting the order because it might create a precedent which could require such fencing throughout the state at prohibitive cost.

Judge Louis E. Coash said testimony would be referred back to the commission and that he would make no decision at this time.

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—The ringing telephone awakened Irah P. Dollarhide. When he went to answer it, he smelled smoke, and discovered the roof of his home was ablaze.

★ ★ ★

Protest Rezoning for Plant

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—After approving a request of Robert Wethington to rezone his property on Clintonville and Waldron roads from suburban farms to manufacturing, the Township Board had to "back up" and set a hearing date for April 11, due to objections from area residents.

★ ★ ★

Wethington told the board that he has received a government contract for his tool and die shop, and that he must expand in order to fulfill the obligation.

The Township Board also agreed to cooperate with the Waterford Township Board and the Oakland County Road Commission in a $10,000 black-topping project on Mann Road.

The road is on the township line, and Waterford has agreed to pay one-fourth, Independence, one-fourth and the road commission will assume the balance for paving 1,700 feet of road.

Three bids for a cemetery truck were rejected and new bids will be asked, with more detailed specifications included.

Need Kissin' Kin and Financial Stability

Is Everybody Happy? Most of Us Say We Are

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — A recent survey of American men and women revealed that most of us, if approached on a reasonably cheerful day, consider ourselves "happy." Anywhere from moderately to quite.

The word "happy," of course, is an ambiguous one. Some think of it merely as the antonym of "sad," while other, milder-natured people make it a synonym for "contented."

To many career people, being "happy" is the same as being "successful," and to a very few gold diggers and confidence men, happiness is just a thing called dough.

But most Americans — the great majority of the nice, normal middle-class bulk of us — relate being "happy" to being satisfactorily married, with healthy children and no real worry about where our next meal or television special is coming from.

At least, this is what the survey indicated:

That a man's feeling of happiness can be measured in direct ratio to his relationships with his spouse, offspring and freedom from financial worry.

Still another study, made recently at a Midwest college, indicates that a man and wife need not "understand each other" thoroughly in order to be happy. In fact, the test of dozens of couples showed, a husband and wife are often considerably happier if they do not know the devious in-and-outs of one another's minds.

As Bertrand Russell said recently (He was talking about atomic war, not husbands, but the sentiment applies):

"We have found that the men who know most are the most gloomy."

OTHER IDEAS

And here are some other thoughts on happiness, and its contributory factors, on and off the record:

ARLENE FRANCIS — "People are happy when they're amused. I decided, when I was a kid, that if I made people laugh they'd want me around. And I was lucky enough to discover that if you put your hand out, palm up, it is grasped 20 times in friendship for every time it gets slapped."

CONNIE BOSWELL — "I've been happily married 25 years, and people want to know the secret of how to do it. It's not a case of, after you're married, how did you keep together. It's a question of, before you're married, you should think a little more . . . "

VICTOR BORGE — "When I first came to America, I couldn't speak much English and that made people mad, instead of happy. But when they'd get mad, I would think to myself, 'Could this have once been a fat little baby who made somebody glad?' — and the thought would force me to smile. You know? Mostly when you smile, people turn immediately from mad to happy?"

A PROMINENT BACHELOR—"Of course I'm not happy often. The bachelor life is no circus; it's a phony, unfulfilling game between me and a lot of young ladies who really want pampering, not marriage."

★ ★ ★

SAM LEVENSON — "Everybody's out these days to 'find your own happiness'. Our parents were different. They didn't worry about being happy—who ever told them they should expect happiness? So they just went through life, getting along fine."

Her Reading Habit Has Been Lifelong One

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Narcissa Nicholson Rickman has made a lifelong habit of reading six verses of Psalms after breakfast every day.

"I've read the New Testament 29 times," she says.

Mrs. Rickman recently celebrated her 105th birthday.

Coffee Break Grinds Victim of Safe Robber

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The coffee break, which has spread to most legitimate businesses, apparently has penetrated the other kind, too.

The clerk of a cleaning shop reported that a young man walked into the store, helped himself to a cup of coffee from a pot, then sat on a stool next to an unlocked safe and chatted amiably.

After he left, the clerk discovered that $72 was missing from the safe.

Decorators Rediscover Federalism

By JOYCE SCHULLER
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — Americana fanciers with a taste for formal, but not too formal, furniture, are rediscovering Federal furniture, which falls midway between rustic Colonial and starched Williamsburg.

Historically, the Federal period spanned the years immediately following the American Revolution to the early 19th century. Classicism still dominated design and architecture, and furniture of the period was graceful with flowing lines, bow-front chests and turned or tapered legs.

★ ★ ★

The favorite decorative motif of the period was and still is the American eagle.

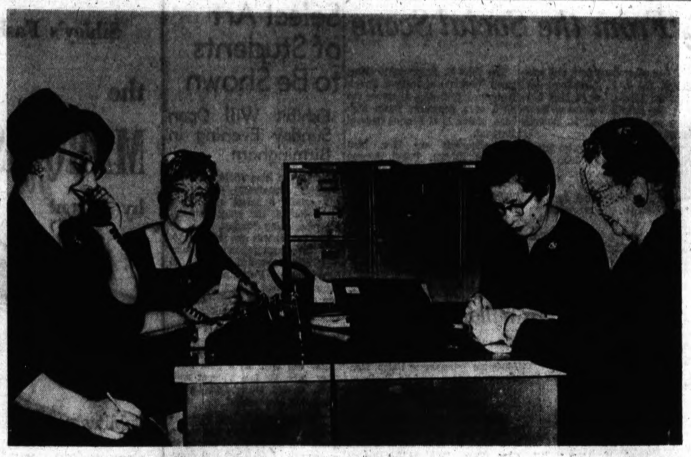

Current reproductions of Federal furniture feature the eagle perched atop mirrors, clocks and highboys, on couch feet and finials and with wings spread wide as a table base.

New decorative accessories with the look of the Federal period also carry out the eagle theme. These include a pair of candlesticks in the shape of the eagle, available in either a warm nutmeg or metalgold finish.

★ ★ ★

Matching the candlesticks is a mantel clock on an eagle-footed base, with a traditional broken arch top, but modernized with battery power and a seven-jewel movement that operates noiselessly for 12 to 15 months without a battery change. The clock is available only in a nutmeg finish.

Among the newer lamps decorated with the Federal eagle motif are ceramic ones and more traditional brass ones with fluted column bases and toile shades.

Can't Take Your Cake, Eat It Too

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: After our bridge club meeting the other night, the hostess served very delicious looking homemade cheese cake. As I had a rather sick stomach that day I thought it best not to eat any of it.

I explained this to the hostess and asked her if I might have my piece to take home and eat the next day. I was criticized later for having done this. Will you please tell me if I committed a breach of etiquette?

A: I'm sorry but it cannot be considered proper to leave a friend's house carrying a package of food to eat the next day.

Q: Is it correct for the host, when serving guests, to have the dinner plates stacked up in front of him surrounded by the meat, potatoes and vegetable which he serves on the individual plates and passes around? This irks me no end.

It is embarrassing if you have a small appetite and have to leave half or more on your plate, which could be an insult to the hostess. I feel this custom went out years ago but I have relatives who still practice it. I would like your opinion on this.

A: If the host is carving a roast, or let us say a turkey, at the table, he properly asks the guest of honor if she prefers a rare or well done piece of the roast, or the white or dark meat of the turkey, puts her preference on a plate and passes it to her.

He then does the same for each of the other guests. The potatoes and vegetables should, however, be passed around for guests to help themselves. If the meat is carved in the kitchen, it too should be passed around.

★ ★ ★

Q: Will you please tell me if it is in good taste to use writing paper that is slightly scented?

A: There is no reason why a woman shouldn't use light scented paper for her personal correspondence. This is best done by putting her favorite sacket bag in the drawer or box with the writing paper.

The Emily Post Institute is sorry it cannot answer personal mail.

Look for Veal Specials; Spring Produce Buys

A slight decrease in wholesale pork prices may be your gain this week, especially if the family likes pork chops or loin roasts. Since pork supplies will be lighter and prices will be higher this summer, this may be the time to freeze a few extra cuts for the freezer.

* * *

Although wholesale prices of veal, fryers and roasters continue about the same, some retail stores are emphasizing these meats this week reports the Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer.

A helpful guide when selecting meat is the amount of lean the meat contains. We eat meat mainly for protein, and the protein is in the lean. Based on meat from a 225 pound hog the average per cent of lean in some pork cuts is as follows: Boston butt (shoulder roast) 84 per cent; sausage 75 per cent; loin roasts or chops 67 per cent; Ham (with bone in) 63 per cent; picnic 61 per cent; spareribs 50 per cent; bacon (side) 45 per cent.

Did you know? The law states that certified government inspectors must approve the sanitation of the plant and the wholesomeness of the product for all poultry merchandised or moved across any state line. When you find the U.S. Department of Agriculture shield with the grade, this is a guide to quality.

Poultry classed as U.S. Grade A is well fleshed, has a broad full breast, and short meaty legs. It has a layer of fat well distributed beneath the skin while the skin itself has to tears, bruises or pinfeathers.

VEAL

Your quality guide when buying veal depends upon color and texture of the meat. The best veal is light grayish pink in color. The meat is very fine in grain, fairly firm, and velvety in texture. Veal has very little fat and this is clear, firm, and white. Veal has no marbling. The bones are porous and red and the ends of some of them are still pliable.

Eggs for breakfast, lunch, or dinner is an easy way to "up" the protein in thtwih tay'sdiede the protein in the day's diet with no strain on the food allowance. The large size egg is the best egg-buy at this season.

The egg shell has no effect on egg quality. White or brown shell eggs of the same grade have the same nutritive value.

Bananas and grapefruit are fresh fruits in heavy supply. About 13 per cent of the annual total crop of grapefruit is marketed in March, the month of peak supply.

Signs of spring at the produce counter — fresh asparagus from California, hothouse rhubarb and fresh cultivated mushrooms from Michigan, new red potatoes from Florida, fresh pineapple from Puerto Rico, and Mexico.

If pineapple is not quite ripe, let it ripen at room temperature. Its fragrance becomes more pronounced and it is ripe enough to eat when a green leaf from the crown can be easily plucked. Remember, the Mexican pineapple will be ripe when it's still green in color on the outside.

Price comparisons show that Michigan potatoes cost less per pound than those from other states. Whether you buy new or old potatoes, it's a good rule to use them within a week.

You may wish to check canned foods in the spotlight at this time. Tomatoes and tomato juice, peas, corn; fruit cocktail, pears and pineapple are a few of the canned items priced in multiple units this week.

Banana Rolls Are Main Course

Ham Banana Rolls make a popular change from the usual main dish—so try them during the week and give your family a really delightful treat. Fortunately, they are easy to prepare and serve and we foresee many encores after they have made their first appearance:

Ham Banana Rolls

4 thin slices boiled ham (approx. ¼ inch thick)
Prepared mustard
4 firm bananas
2 to 4 teaspoons melted butter or margarine
Cheese Sauce*

Spread each ham slice with mustard. Peel bananas. Wrap each one in a slice of ham and brush banana tips with melted butter. Place in greased shallow baking dish; cover with Cheese Sauce. Bake 30 minutes in 350-degree oven, or until bananas are easily pierced with a fork. Serve hot with Cheese Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Cheese Sauce

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
¾ cup milk
1½ cups grated sharp Cheddar cheese

Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, making a smooth paste. Slowly add milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat. Add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Makes 1 cup.

Date Nut Sauce Is Versatile Spread

One of the best places to put dates is into a Hot Date-Nut Sauce which will reign supreme at breakfast or brunch, or as a dessert.

* * *

To prepare, combine 1 package of chopped dates (a generous cup) with ¼ cup of chopped walnuts, ⅔ cup apple sauce and ¼ cup of orange juice. Heat slowly until bubbly, then add 1 teaspoon of grated lemon rind, and mace and cinnamon to taste. Reduce heat and simmer slowly until thickened, about 15 minutes. Stir occasionally to keep from sticking.

* * *

Serve hot for breakfast and brunch atop waffles, or for dessert as a pound cake topping. And you can also serve this sauce cold as an excellent filling for sweet rolls or a spread for oven-hot biscuits and muffins.

Sweetest Story We Ever Told

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Everyone knows that rabbits multiply fast — even chocolate rabbits do, around Easter. We saw dozens and dozens of them early this week. Large, small, milk chocolate, dark chocolate, white chocolate, marbleized riding bicycles, sitting, standing, running, carrying baskets; almost any kind of a chocolate rabbit you can name is to be found in Crocker's new candy store.

There's an "Open" sign on the window of the red brick building at Woodward Avenue and Square Lake Road. Workmen were busily putting in the landscaping and smoothing the parking lot. The official opening is set for this Friday and there's still so much to do.

Bill Crocker's store out on West Huron Street is still in business and will be until after Easter. Moving hasn't been a one-day project. Part of the equipment had to be left in the town store to keep it going. New equipment and some of the old is in place in the new store.

And candy maker, general manager, owner and busiest workman of them all is Bill Crocker, pleasant owner of the concern.

CANDY MAKER — Bill Crocker, Pontiac's own candy manufacturer, breaks up 10-pound bars of milk chocolate in the melter. Hot water around the outside melts the bars. Before starting the day's dipping, there must be 300 pounds of melted chocolate ready. Crocker is his own planner, supervisor, manufacturer and general manager. He has from 4 to 10 employes working with him.

EARLY DAYS

A North Carolinian by birth, Crocker has lived in Michigan since the Twenties. During the depression he went broke in a wholesale candy business. After the war and a variety of other jobs, he bought a little store on Auburn Avenue and started his own candy manufacturing business.

In 1947 he moved to a new store out near Tel-Huron. Last year he made more than 25,000 pounds of candy in that store. He hopes to double that figure this year.

Quality is his guiding principle. Since he made his first batch of candy in 1924, he has been experimenting and inventing. In 1944 the only thing he knew about chocolate-dipped candy was how to coat peanuts. He's a lot wiser man now who says he threw many a pot of candy away because it wasn't up to standard.

Have you ever wondered about white chocolate? The very name "chocolate" denotes a dark brown color. We asked Crocker to explain this. It's not complicated, we discovered.

Cacao beans are roasted much like coffee. Then the beans are ground, so fine that the result is a liquid. A separation process divides the cocoa butter from the cocoa powder; it's the powder that has the color. Both parts have the flavor.

Flavoring, cocoa butter, cocoa powder and sugar make dark chocolate. Add more sugar and milk and you have sweet milk chocolate. Use everything but the cocoa powder and you have white chocolate.

Crocker has added crushed almonds to his white chocolate to make a more interesting confection.

As anyone who has ever made candy at home knows, the temperature is all important. That's the real secret of good chocolates, says Crocker, outside of using only the best ingredients.

In his new plant he has a machine that can coat 1,000 pieces of candy a day. He has a number of melters, one that will take 350 pounds of chocolate. It takes 75 pounds just to get the melter started.

EXACTNESS

The melter is surrounded by a water jacket. The chocolate is melted down to a temperature of 100 degrees. Then it is allowed to cool to 84 degrees before using as a coating. With only a few exceptions, all the candy is coated by machine.

Workroom and packing room are kept at 73 degrees. The chocolate is stored at a lower temperature. Summer supplies are bought early and held in the store room.

What about those markings we see on top of chocolates? We asked Bill Crocker if there was any universal system of marks to tell what's inside. He said that perhaps one or two would be used by most candy manufacturers, but that the majority of people in the business have individual systems.

Candy to be packed goes around on a machine that looks like a ferris wheel. The women take pieces out of each box as it passes and arrange them in the box to be sold.

Bill Crocker is in love with his business. He still enjoys eating candy, but says it has to get better all the time, or it isn't any good.

"If I won't eat it, I won't sell it."

Whenever he invents a new variety, he discards the one he likes least. He believes that everyone likes good candy, and that it is only hurting the business for some manufacturers to foist inferior products on the consumer.

We asked about seasonal variations in the candy business.

"Easter is the hardest; Christmas is the most profitable; Valentine's Day the fastest; and Mother's Day the sweetest."

★ ★ ★

Bill Crocker just wants to go on supplying quality candy for all these holidays and the days in between.

Some cooks like to use scissors, some a very sharp small pointed knife when removing the fat and sinews from kidneys.

It takes at least 90 days for an employe to learn all the duties in a candy place like Crockers. The women work in a 73 degree temperature the year round.

River Rouge, Fenton, Freesoil Get Easy Wins

By The Associated Press

Freesoil has its adding machine offense back in gear for the frantic finish of the state high school basketball tournament.

★ ★ ★

The undefeated class D hopeful with 26 students romped past powerful Flint St. Matthew (20-2) 92-79 with one of its pre-tournament scorching scoring binges Wednesday night. Freesoil (24-0), which had topped 64 points just once in five previous tournament games, led the field of 16 survivors into Friday's semifinals.

It easily was the most impressive victory of the quarterfinal round.

Freesoil, uncanny from the foul line, exploded into a 17-point lead by halftime and St. Matthew never had a chance, Jim Hackoviak, still bothered by his cast - covered broken foot, scored 31 points and Norm Clausen aided the runaway with 26 more.

★ ★ ★

Class B Alpena Catholic Central and Class C Houghton also advanced to the semifinals only after wild finishes.

Alpena Catholic (18-5) nipped Ironwood (15-6) 66-64 on John Nerkowski's basket with seven seconds left and then watched the Upper Peninsula team's bid for a tie roll round the rim and out with three seconds to play.

Houghton (16-5) upset Houghton Lake (19-3) by erasing a 12-point deficit and winning 56-55 after Curtis Lahtis hit two free throws with 30 seconds left.

Holland Christian, Fenton and River Rouge became class B semifinalists along with Alpena Catholic. Christian (18-5) broke out of a tie in the second quarter and tripped up Mason (18-4) 57-42. Fenton (18-4) never had trouble in sidetracking Flint Bendle (17-7) 62-48. River Rouge (21-2), after its fourth class B crown in eight years, played sloppily yet had plenty in reserve to knock off Detroit Visitation (17-3) 64-51. Bob Marchese scored 26 points for Visitation, but he couldn't match manpower-deep Rouge alone.

Parma Western, Jonesville and Grosse Pointe St. Paul accompanied Houghton into the class C semifinals. Western (21-1) fought from behind in the final quarter and ousted Whittemore - Prescott (13-8) 60-53. Jonesville (19-4) came from behind the second half and defeated 1959 champion Kalamazoo Christian (14-11) 53-49. Joel Stanton led Jonesville with 25 points, 19 in the comeback second half. Grosse Pointe St. Paul (20-2) ended a 20-game winning streak for Fowlerville (20-2), 55-45 at Pontiac Northern gym.

Marquette Pierce, Fowler and Cement City joined Freesoil in the class D semifinals. Pierce (24-4) won its battle of unbeatens with Bellaire (20-1) with 69-48 ease. Larry Laurich contributed 20 points for Pierce. Fowler (14-6) rolled over Kingsley St. Mary (17-7) 66-42. Cement City (22-1) had five players in double figures as it breezed by Detroit St. Bernard (14-9) 72-59.

River Rouge plays Alpena Catholic and Holland Christian matches shots with Fenton in the class B semifinals.

Parma Western goes against Houghton and Grosse Pointe St. Paul competes with Jonesville in class C.

Marquette Pierce and Cement City meet in one class D semifinal with Freesoil playing Fowler in the other.

The finals will be Saturday in three sessions at Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse.

Highland Park Also Advances to Semifinals

Catholic Central Gets By Lincoln Park With Late Drive

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just how good is Michigan's top brand of high school basketball, class A where the glamorous juggernauts play?

Perhaps not as good as class B.

Muskegon Heights Jackson, Detroit Catholic Central and Highland Park comprise the class A teams in Friday's state tournament semifinals.

In class B there's a team — River Rouge — that has beaten half the class A semifinalists this season. River Rouge split a pair of games with Highland Park, losing 66-57 and reversing the loss 59-56. The Rouge also beat Jackson, a team with two losses, 65-48.

That's a 17-point victory over a potential class A state champion. Just for good measure River Rouge knocked off another class A quarterfinalists, Lincoln Park.

It figures then, if Michigan had a classless state tournament like many of its neighbors, River Rouge would figure to have a better chance than some of the bigger schools.

★ ★ ★

But none the less, it's the class A schools that attract most of the interest and supply much of the thrills in the state tournament.

Of Wednesday's four quarterfinals, only one wasn't close. In that Highland Park (18-2) trounced Harper Woods Notre Dame (20-3) 60-41.

Muskegon Heights (15-5) turned back the conqueror of previously unbeaten Saginaw, Flint Central (13-6), 57-55 in a wild, controversial finish. There almost was a riot when officials first disallowed Central's apparent tying basket because the buzzer sounded and then called a one-and-one foul.

When Central's Jim Toles touched the rim as Cloyce Dickerson's first free throw plopped through, the point was nullified and the game ended. Dickerson led Central with 22 points. John Calloway topped the Heights, seeking its third title since 1954, with 18.

Jackson (18-2) trimmed East Lansing (18-3) with a second half comeback 53-49. The Vikings, behind 28-22, scored 11 straight points at the outset of the second half to move away.

Detroit Catholic Central (19-1), ahead 61-47 entering the fourth quarter, just managed to stave off Lincoln Park's late drive and save a 69-64 victory.

Friday in a doubleheader at Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse, Highland Park will play Catholic Central and Muskegon Heights will meet Jackson in the semifinals.

Oakland Hills Ready for Open

Jones Presents 'Masterpiece'

Is Robert Trent Jones the man to beat in the U.S. Open again? In a sense, the answer is yes, because the famed golf course architect considers Oakland Hills Country Club, where the 1961 Open is scheduled, June 15-17, his masterpiece.

His modernization of the course for the 1951 Open brought cries of anguish from the competitors. Golfers got the "shock" treatment in that memorable event due to the new approach of golf architecture to championship golf.

"Prior to Oakland Hills the game had out-run architecture," says Robert Trent Jones, "The golf courses had been developed for a different era of golf—the era of Jones, Hagen and Sarazen. Its values were related to the equipment and to the game of that period. The challenge of golf had been diminished. The architecture had to be brought into focus.

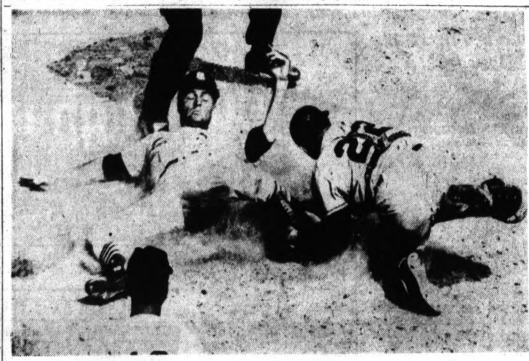

"The development of two target areas made Oakland Hills unique," says Jones. "There was one on the fairway for the tee shot and one at the green, demanding double accuracy on the play of each par four and par five hole. This made for continued pressure on the player that bore down on him from the first tee to the 18th green. No mistake could be made without a just penalty.

"After Hogan's 76 start in the first round, his spectacular 67 over the grueling course in the last round may have been the greatest round of championship golf ever shot on any course anywhere."

"At the time of the 1951 Open, Hogan did not like the course, nor the treatment of the course. Since then he has come to realize and has often expressed the opinion that when a course developed in the manner of Oakland Hills is completed, the player with the best shots, the best equipment, the soundest swing and comparable nerve control has the best chance to win a tournament over it.

"In my opinion," says Jones, "I think that after ten years, Oakland Hills still is the greatest test of championship golf in the world."

There have been few changes since 1951. Seven traps have been taken out, five of them in the driving area. This leaves a total of 113 traps. Five greens have been modified, providing for additional pin placements."

Club Changes Hands, Brown Still Boss

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have changed hands again. But the old master who has been the field general since the professional football club was organized in 1946 — coach Paul Brown — still is running the team.

Arthur B. Modell of New York, 36-year-old television and advertising executive who is the top executive in the new organization, and R. J. (Rudy) Schafer, 60, New York brewery company president, have agreed whole-heartedly to give Brown a free reign. They also give him an eight-year contract.

"I retain control over those things I consider essential to the operation of the team," Brown said at a news conference yesterday.

Modell, who became chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said reports that about $4 million was involved in the transaction were substantially correct.

Brown remains as general manager and vice president of the National Football League club. Modell said Brown will decide any questions about player personnel and field operation.

"I am assuming the responsibility for such things as finances, admissions to the league, promotion and that type of thing," Modell said.

Brown, who retains a small amount of stock, has an option to buy more.

The new Browns organization also will have these officers:

Dave R. Jones continues as president and Robert H. Gries continues as vice president and treasurer — each having a substantial minority interest in the club; Schaefer will be a vice president; William C. MacMillan, an investment banker, and John A. Wells, Modell's attorney, also have been named directors.

"Are the plays still going to be run in from the bench?" asked a reporter.

Modell replied, "as far as I'm concerned Paul Brown can send them in by carrier pigeon."

Brown described Modell as "a man with ideas who should be good for our organization as well as the entire league."

The transaction is the largest in professional football history.

Osborne Plays at Third as Tigers Lose to Phils

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — A friend walked past the Detroit dugout where Steve Boros was sitting and asked "how are you doing Steve?"

"Not very well—in fact, I'm doing pretty badly. But I can do a lot better and I will," was Boros' reply.

Until the last few days, everyone around the Detroit Tiger camp has operated under the assumption that the 24-year-old Flint athlete would be the third baseman because he has been designated the No. 1 third baseman.

When Eddie Yost departed in the draft, Boros became No. 1. No one suggested that the Tigers would win the pennant with Boros at third. The Tigers want to build with youth and they believe he will be the third baseman for many years to come.

* * *

Now the doubts are in the open because it has become apparent that Boros is the key to a better ball club in Detroit. Manager Bob Scheffing played Boros for 10 straight games. But Steve was on the bench yesterday and he was there again today.

Scheffing is experimenting — he says — "in case Steve doesn't make it."

And if he doesn't?

"Then you'll see the doggondest scrambling around third base you ever saw," was Scheffing's candid reply.

* * *

Larry Osborne, a first baseman by trade, was at third yesterday when the Tigers dropped a 7-1 decision to the Philadelphia Phillies. Osborne fielded his only chance cleanly but heaved the ball into right field.

Scheffing said he would use either Osborne or Bubba Morton there today, depending on the St. Louis pitcher.

The secret was let out during the winter months that the Tigers will sink or swim with a young infield. Right now the Tigers are not so worried about second base because 23-year-old Jake Wood is hitting .405 and is fielding adequately, if not spectacularly. Boros is batting .167.

The immediate concern is whether Boros is going to hit well this year.

* * *

Boros, who batted .317 at Denver last season, is downright mad at himself over his slow start. It does not seem that he is losing confidence in himself.

"I know I've been just terrible," he confessed. "I realize the club is depending on me."

While Scheffing is waiting and experimenting, Boros is taking a lot of extra work in the batting cage. The rest of the Tigers might just as well have been here too. They got only six hits off Robin Roberts, Frank Sullivan and Art Mahaffy.

Jim Bunning went seven innings, longest performance for a Tiger moundsman this spring. He yielded seven hits, including home runs by Pancho Herrera and John Callison.

The Tigers got another chance to [illegible] when they faced the Cardinals [illegible] Bailey Held, Frank Lary [illegible] the first five or six innings.

Lawrence Tech's Bradley Only 'Honorable Mention'

NEW YORK (AP)—Two 6-7 stringbeans, George Fisher of Wittenberg's NCAA small college champions and Charles Hardnett of Grambling's NAIA champions, top the 1961 college basketball little All-America announced today by the Associated Press.

Also named to the first team, selected on the basis of votes from nearly 100 sportswriters and radio-TV broadcasters, were Don Jacobsen of South Dakota State, Tom (Skip) Chappelle of Maine and Bob Mahland of Williams.

* * *

Ron Galbreath of Westminster (Pa.), Stan Kernan of McNeese, Zelmo Beaty of Prairie View, Carl Ritter of Southeast Missouri and John O'Reilly of Mt. St. Mary's were picked as a second team.

Rounding out a 15-man squad, Wayne Morrison of Northern Michigan, Dick Vories of Georgetown (Ky.), Porter Meriwether of Tennessee State, Marvin Bachmeier of North Dakota State and Carl Short of Newberry were named as a third team.

* * *

These 15 each will receive a certificate from the Associated Press.

John Bradley of Lawrence Tech, Bob Armstead and Jerry Wright, both of Northern Michigan, help to fill out the honorable mention list.

Fisher, a bespectacled senior from Newcastle, Ind., was the key man in Wittenberg's sweep to the NCAA small college title.

* * *

Hardnett, a junior from Atlanta, was named the most valuable player in the NAIA tourney as the Grambling Tigers from Louisiana won their national honor.

ADMIRE CATCH — Palm Beach fishing was successful for F. J. Smrcina (left) of Pontiac and his nephew Leroy Smrcina. The "big one" of the catch is the 8-pound trigger fish hooked during the Atlantic Ocean fishing trip. They went fishing for "sails" but as usual they got away.

Orioles, Pirates Hot; Leek at .441

By The Associated Press

Gene Leek, remembered as the collegian who precipitated a war of words when the Cleveland Indians signed him off the campus, is hitting .441 for the new Los Angeles Angels. And he's still provoking problems with his talent.

The 23-year-old San Diego native continued his torrid spring swinging with a three-run homer that beat the San Francisco Giants 5-3 Wednesday and gave the Angels' their first pre-season triumph over a team of major league veterans. They previously had won three games against B squads.

* * *

Manager Bill Rigney's problem is where to play the versatile Leek, who was holding down third base for the University of Arizona when the Indians grabbed him. That started the verbal battle between college coaches and major league officials that culminated in a rule prohibiting such signings.

Meanwhile, Baltimore's streaking Orioles won their fifth in succession after six opening losses by beating Cincinnati 9-4, and the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates brought their record to 10-3 with a 10-1 win over the Chicago White Sox.

* * *

In other games, Philadelphia whipped Detroit 7-1, the Chicago Cubs nipped Cleveland 2-1, New York outslugged Milwaukee 14-11, St. Louis defeated Kansas City 5-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged Minnesota 3-2 and the Twins' B squad walloped Washington 11-3.

Leek's 415-foot circuit shot was the key blow as the Angels scored all their runs off Giants' starter Juan Marichal in the fifth inning. Ken McBride went six innings for Los Angeles, allowing only four hits, and Tex Clevenger finished up with a three-hit performance.

* * *

A 13-hit attack, including solo home runs by Chuck Essegian and Jim Gentile, carried the Orioles to their victory over the Reds, who scored their only runs on Frank Robinson's fourth spring homer. Jay Hook bore the brunt of the Baltimore attack, allowing six runs and nine hits.

The Pirates, first team to win 10 games, jumped on White Sox starter Early Wynn for seven runs in the first and coasted behind pitching ace Bob Friend. Friend scattered five hits in a seven-inning outing, walking only one and striking out four.

Mickey Mantle knocked in six runs with two homers, a double and single and Bill Skowron added three RBI with a homer and two singles as the Yanks beat the Braves. The Cards rapped 14 hits to whip the A's with Ken Boyer slamming an inside-the-park homer, and Bill White and Don Landrum dividing six hits.

Junior Gilliam's ninth inning pinch single with the bases loaded won it for the Dodgers, who got three innings of no-hit relief from Larry Sherry against the Twins. Lennie Green and Elmer Valo rapped three hits each and Jose Valdivielso contributed a homer in the Minnesota B squad victory over the Senators.

Tigers Didn't Keep Promise, Says Holdout

WOODBRIDGE, N.J. (AP)—Rookie outfielder George Alusik, the Detroit Tigers' only holdout, says the management hasn't lived up to its original pay proposal.

* * *

The 25-year-old righthand hitter said at his home last night that he and Rick Ferrell, Tiger general manager, discussed salary terms while Alusik was playing in the Puerto Rican League last winter and were close to agreement though no final understanding was reached.

* * *

After Alusik returned to his home here, he said, he received a written contract from Detroit but the salary was far below what Ferrell had proposed. Two more contracts arrived, Alusik said, but the same situation applied.

Alusik said Ferrell since has claimed he was misunderstood in their winter meeting.

"I'm ready to play ball," Alusik stated last night. "But I feel I deserve a raise for my play last year."

* * *

Alusik starred for Detroit's farm club, Denver, in the Triple A American Association last season. He was the league's third best hitter with a .329 average. He batted in 106 runs and hit 26 homers.

Aussie Will Try to Regain Title

SEATTLE (AP)—Murray Rose, Australian Olympic star who swims for Southern California, will try to recapture his National Collegiate Athletic Association title today in the metric mile.

Rose heads a talented cast of Trojan swimmers who are the heavy favorites to retain the team championship they won in 1960. More than 260 swimmers and divers have been entered in the three-day meet by 56 colleges and universities.

Other teams expected to threaten Trojan dominance of the meet are Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Michigan, Ohio State, Michigan State, Minnesota, Stanford and the Air Force and Naval Academies.

Area 1960 ABC Champions Falter

DETROIT — Team champions rarely repeat in an American Bowling Congress Tournament, only twice in the 57-year history of the event, and after last night, there will be a new regular division titleholder in this year's tourney.

Four members of the 1960 championship team, A. and A. Asphalt of Birmingham, Mich., appeared bowling under the Pfeiffer Beer banner and the team rolled a weak 2807.

Jack Born, Hank Gnlewek and John Nickell rolled in the A. and A. championship lineup in Toledo last spring, but were off their games as Born totaled 588, Gnlewek 535 and Nickell 541. Monte Onesa, on the bench at Toledo, had a 609 series.

The other two A. and A. team members, Bob Brayman and Al Parigian, will bowl with other teams this year.

The Barry-Ketteler team of Chicago won the 1915 ABC crown and with four members in the lineup as the Commodore Barry's in 1916 repeated. The E&B Beers of Detroit won the 1952 ABC title and in 1953 using four members of the previous team in the lineup, repeated under the Pfeiffer Beer banner.

The Old Fitzgeralds of Chicago went into fifth place in classic team standings last night with a six-game 5796 total. The team bowled 2841 after an opening 2955.

The Munsingwears of Chicago finished with a 5572, hitting 2851 last night after an opening block of 2721.

Two classic division teams opened play as the Richland Bowl of Fort Worth, Tex., started with 2771 and the Doraty Motors of Cleveland had a 2842.

Morrie Oppenheim, an ABC teen-age star and now at 24 a seven-year veteran, moved into third place in classic singles with a 669 to highlight the afternoon activity.

Strohs, featuring a 597 by Capt. Bill O'Brien, paced seven Pontiac teams Wednesday night with 2718. Gene Podgoske followed at 552. Woolever's Studio was next with 2523 taking 10th place on its squad. Glen Diederich had 559 including a 232 game and G. Mack White 538.

Bald Eagle Bar rolled 2443 sparked by Wendell Wilkinson at 576 and Jim Anderson's 527. Drewry's hit 2360 led by Homer Burton at 515 and Frank Crandall 508. Pontiac Motor Parts totaled 2356. Joel England was high with 499 and Ken Srpung 496.

R & C Rambler rung up 2324 plus with Ed Baker and Charles Wheeler even at 497. Oliver Lemeaux was the outstanding individual with 605 topped by games of 213-207 but his Fox Cleaner team could score only 2280. Bill Fox was far behind him at 455.

* * *

Walled Lake had two more teams in action. Art's Five hit 2709 paced by Holland Groff's 601 and Meryl Taulbee at 547. Bill Sonnenberg scored 583 and John Lorang Jr. 553 in a 2681 for Old Milwaukee Beer. Sonnenberg had a 230 single.

Lloyd Hoover and Vin Spencer of Walled Lake had 1145 and the combination of Randy Brooks and Bill Titus 1065 in doubles. Hoover's 592 was the best individual effort. Spencer topped the foursome in singles and all events with 570 and 1701.

Some of the members of the Pontiac teams were scheduled to bowl in singles and doubles today at Cobo Hall.

Ear Plugs May Be Needed Tonight in NIT Tourney

NEW YORK (UPI)—Providence and Holy Cross carry their "family" feud into Madison Square Garden tonight to the accompaniment of blaring bands and boisterous fans, with the winning team assured of a berth in the final round of the National Invitation Tournament.

In the other semi-final match tonight, Dayton will attempt to overcome the smart defensive tactics of St. Louis with its own combination of height and shooting ability.

If they were to be offered, ear plugs would probably be the biggest concession at the Garden when Providence and Holy Cross meet. Both schools travel fully equipped with bands and an organized horde of screaming fans who stop at nothing to give their team proper vocal support.

The two New England teams met a couple of weeks ago at Worcester, Mass., with Holy Cross coming out on top, 77-72.

Dayton, which must get the gold medal for effort, is making its ninth appearance in the NIT, and although they have reached the final round five times, the Flyers have yet to win the championship.

* * *

The starting unit for Dayton averages about 6-5, with Bill Westerkamp the big man at 6-10. St. Louis also possesses good overall height, but its biggest starter is 6-7 sophomore Bill Nordmann.

Dayton was lucky in its last outing, edging Temple, 62-60, on a 25-foot jump shot by Tom Hatton with two seconds remaining. Top man for the Flyers was Garry Roggenburk with 20 points.

Jack Gardner, a hard and persistent campaigner for basketball championships, has hopes this is the year his University of Utah Redskins will win the National Collegiate (NCAA) crown.

Utah, ranked 11th nationally on a 23-6 record, will oppose the No. 2 Cincinnati Bearcats (25-3) in the semifinals of the NCAA tournament tomorrow night at Kansas City.

* * *

The top-ranked, undefeated Ohio State Buckeyes (26-0) and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia (24-4) tangle in the semifinal opener. The championship will be decided Saturday night.

"We've had what appeared to be stronger clubs at the start of the season," Gardner said, "but these kids have worked harder and better as a unit and have shown more desire and improvement than any team I've coached."

Ohio State, which features the marvelous All America Jerry Lucas, is a clear cut favorite to win its second straight title. The Buckeyes are favored by 14 points over St. Joseph's Hawks.

LA's Krebs, Fan Tangle

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"They treat us like animals in a zoo," said the Lakers' Jim Krebs Wednesday night after he and a fan exchanged words, a towel, a cup of beer and some water. "I'm ashamed to say I come from here."

Krebs, who comes from suburban Webster Groves, and the fan, who identified himself as Paul Elbrecht of suburban Affton, tangled in the third quarter of the Lakers-Hawks game after Krebs went out on fouls.

* * *

Elbrecht waved a handkerchief at Krebs and Jim, witnesses said, flung a towel in his direction. Some beer sailed Krebs' way and then some water splashed back toward the fan.

Krebs took a wild punch, but missed and then teammates Howard Jolliff and Ray Felix restrained him.

"St. Louis fans are the worst in the league," said Krebs, the transplanted St. Louisan.

U.S. Netter Advances

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — American Davis Cup hopeful Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., defeated Dick Thompson, Jamaica's junior champion, 6-0, 6-3 in the Montego Bay Caribbean Tennis Championships Wednesday and advanced to the quarter-finals.

Former U.S. Davis Cup star Vic Seixas of Philadelphia eliminated Peter Scholl, Germany No. 1 player, 3-6, 6-1, 8-6.

No Fight for Nieder

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A fight which was to be the professional boxing debut of husky Bill Nieder of Santa Monica, Olympic shot put champion, was called off by promoters Wednesday.

They did it, they said, because the state athletic commission ruled that Nieder could not fight 10 rounds. He was limited to six.

* * *

Nieder had planned a 10-round main event April 7 with Rayork Becerra.

Tomorrow Only, Scalp Specialists in Pontiac, Michigan Will Show How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

On Friday, March 24, at the Waldron Hotel, 36 E. Pike in Pontiac, Mich, Staff Director, Mr. T. R. Stonier, will give free hair and scalp examinations between 12:00 noon and 8:00 p.m. to hair-worried men and women. Phone FE 5-6168.

Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists, the oldest and largest organization of its kind makes regular visits to Pontiac throughout the year to assure you of success in a minimum period of time. Erickson is now in its seventh year. Last year alone, over one-quarter million Erickson home scalp treatments were used.

Before After

Mr. K. Freyer

Baldness is slow and gradual, even in the most common forms.

If you now have, or have in the past noticed dandruff, itchy scalp, excessive oiliness or dryness, excessive hair fall or thinning at the temples or crown, you should see Mr. Stonier tomorrow. He will determine the type of individual treatment required, explain to you what results you can expect, how long you will have to use Erickson treatment, and how much the cost will be, which is usually less than imitators.

Free Examination

There is absolutely no charge or obligation for your free hair and scalp examination. You can easily follow this new modern method in the privacy of your home. Actually, there are thousands with hair and scalp problems who can be helped by the new Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists home treatment methods.

Before After

Mrs. Virginia Barnes

Written Guarantee

Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists accept only those whose hair will respond. Individuals accepted are given a written guarantee that they must be satisfied with results or money will be refunded on a pro-rated basis. So, why put off your hair problem any longer?

Hopeless Cases Refused

Erickson Specialists will accept only clients whose hair will respond to treatment. They cannot help individuals who are slick-bald after years of hair loss or in that great majority of cases of baldness, called male pattern baldness, where no treatment including the Erickson method is of any value Therefore, Erickson will continue their policy of refusing all hopeless cases. Mr. Freyer and Mrs. Barnes did not have male pattern baldness.

This man was refused for treatment by Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists because he has male pattern baldness.

Free Hair Clinic Tomorrow Only

For your free hair and scalp examination, go to the Waldron Hotel between 12:00 noon and 8:00 p.m. on Friday, March 24, and ask the room clerk for Mr. Stonier's room number. You may phone for an appointment or just come in at your convenience. Examinations are given in private. You will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

In 1960, infant mortality in the United States dropped below 26.0 per 1,000 live births for the first time in the nation's history. Insurance statisticians say the previous low was 26.1 per 1,000 live births in 1956.

Want Stronger Kennedy Plea for NATO Arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A high level advisory group plans to recommend that President Kennedy make a new and stronger plea for strengthening conventional forces of European allies to lessen the chance of nuclear war.

Informed sources said this was one of several proposals emerging from a State Department study, headed by former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, on ways of strengthening the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

The group's recommendations will not be made public but will be used by the White House, State Department and Defense Department in making policy decisions. The report is expected to be compiled soon.

BACK IN BUSINESS — Bud Abbott (left) of the old Abbott and Costello comedy team talks with his son Bud Jr, as he checked in at Universal Studios in Hollywood to begin a new phase in his career. He is playing a dramatic role for the first time. He'll play a cynical actor's agent in a television play. Lou Costello died several years ago. Bud Jr. works in the studio's accounting department.

Abbott Trying Out Drama

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — When Bud Abbott stepped before the camera this week, he marked several milestones.

It was the first time he had done a single. It was the first time he played a dramatic role.

THOMAS

It also was the first time he returned to Universal Studios since the days he and the late Lou Costello lorded it as the comedy kings of movies.

But was back at Universal (now Revue) to play a hard-bitten agent of a night club comic (Lee Marvin) in "The Joke's On Me," which will appear on G.E. Theater April 16. I watched as director Ida Lupino put the actors through their paces.

★ ★ ★

"I'm not nervous," Abbott said later. "It does seem a little strange not working with the little guy. But what the heck—acting is acting, whether you're doing 'Who's on First?' or a dramatic scene. I think I can handle it."

★ ★ ★

Bud's confidence may also stem from the conquest of another hurdle. This month he made his return to the comedy business, working with a new partner, Candy Candido. They opened to excellent returns at the Holiday House in Pittsburgh.

JUST AS FUNNY

"That was the biggest challenge of all — to see, after 24 years of working with Lou, if I could make another man funny," said Bud.

"I found out I could. I put Candy through a lot of our old routines — yes, even 'Who's on First?' You know something? It was just as funny as before. Candy did some of his own routines, too; he wasn't just imitating Lou.

★ ★ ★

"Believe me, it was a real thrill to read those headlines: 'New comedy team is born.'"

★ ★ ★

Bud's manager is now talking about dates for the team in Philadelphia and Boston, and there's mention of a TV series. For the first time since his tax troubles laid him low, Bud is excited about the future. But as he gazed around his old home lot, he thought about the past, too.

"Those were wild times," he reflected. "Remember those poker games Lou and I used to have between scenes?"

I remembered. It seemed like one long poker game, interrupted for an occasional bit of acting.

"Yeah, we had two or three thousand dollars riding on every pot," Bud said. "We were crazy."

City School Board to Go to Confab

Pontiac School Board members will leave Pontiac Friday to attend the 1961 regional convention of the American Association of School Administrators in Philadelphia, Saturday through Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

All of the local board members, with the exception of James R. Jenkins, will be at the conference representing the Pontiac School District.

Jenkins, appointed to the board last month, is unable to attend due to business commitments.

★ ★ ★

Leading the local delegation will be Monroe M. Osmun, board president; William H. Anderson, vice president; and Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, superintendent of schools.

Among those attending will be Dr. Walter L. Godsell, secretary; Dr. Otto F. Hufziger, assistant superintendent; and board members Glenn R. Griffin, Mrs. William Mihalek and Rev. J. Allen Parker.

They plan to return Tuesday and Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

The Eastern parley will be attended by more than 9,000 representatives from 16 states, the District of Columbia, the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

Ford Fund Will Bring Top Students to U.S.

DETROIT (UPI) — Outstanding scholars from all parts of the world will be invited to the United States to study under a program set up by the Ford Motor Co. Fund.

Fund President Henry Ford II announced establishment of the fellowship fund Wednesday night. He said about 50 scholars will come to the United States each year to study for a year at an institution of their choice.

The fund was established as a $250,000 grant to the Institute of International Education. It will be known as the "Ford International Fellowships."

The U.S. Articles of Confederation were adopted on March 1, 1781.

Small Minuses Dominate Mart

NEW YORK (AP) — Small minus signs prevailed in heavy early stock market trading today.

A few issues extended their opening losses, but declines of a point or more were few and far between. These included Du Pont, MGM and Vendo. AMF fell more than 2.

A number of small gainers battled the trend, however, although these, too, were widely scattered.

★ ★ ★

Most group were lower, including steels, motors, mail order and retail issues, chemicals, oils, airlines and metals. Rails failed to carry through their recent strength, easing fractionally all along the line and utilities were spotty.

★ ★ ★

Trading again was at a fast and furious pace with the tape falling behind floor transactions.

Smith-Douglass, a Midwest fertilizer firm, opened up ⅝ at 30½ on a block of 10,000 shares, and later expanded the gain to more than a point.

Republic, off aroud a point, was hardest hit of the steels. U.S. Steel declined despite reports of increased orders.

The Laotian crisis plus the list's natural tendency to pause for breath after its extended, heavily traded advance, were background factors behind the market's slightly lower tone.

Ford held a narrow advance in bucking the lower trend among motors. American and International Telephone were higher, but Western Union fell almost a point in their group.

Guilty of Operating an Illegal House

A Pontiac man was found guilty yesterday on charges of maintaining and operating an illegal liquor establishment and a house of prostitution.

William J. Dooley, 53, 44 Maple St., was fined $100 and ordered to spend 30 days in the Oakland County Jail by Municipal Judge Cecil McCallum.

The charges stemmed from a Pontiac police vice-squad raid on Dooley's home in June, 1960.

Dooley immediately appealed the case to Circuit Court. A hearing was scheduled for April 4.

Easy Go (Never Knew He Had It)

Easy Come . . . That $1,000

Everything was back to normal today for Lawrence Tyler, 41, of 1624 Del Monte St., Walled Lake.

The unemployed foundry molder, father of six girls and one son, was back to the old grind of searching for a job.

Things were a bit hectic earlier this week for Tyler. The normal course of events was upset when he was handed $1,000 by the Michigan Employment Security Commission—and he didn't notice it.

Tyler picked up his usual $53 unemployment compensation check at the branch office Monday.

As he does every week, Tyler cashed it at Bazley Cash Meat Market, 78 N. Saginaw St., where he is well known.

★ ★ ★

Later Monday, when Mrs. Charles Carroll, cashier, was posting the day's checks, she was "astounded" to see that the usual $52 check was made payable in the amount of $1,052.

★ ★ ★

"I called the commission office and asked if they issued the check. A clerk told me they had," she explained.

"Then I told them they better look at the stub. There was a pause and suddenly I heard someone say, 'Oh, my gosh'."

Tyler, when notified, reacted in a similar manner. "We had a good laugh over it," he said. "I went back and got a new check Tuesday."

"One nice thing," he chuckled, "I didn't have to stand in that long line on the second trip."

GM Insisting 'Bus Is a Bus'

Argues for Quality in Antitrust Suit but Judge Must Decide

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is arguing in a federal antitrust suit that if it has what approximates a monopoly in the manufacture and sale of city and intercity buses this is because it produces the top quality vehicles in those fields.

But GM also is arguing that buses are buses and that its 3,700 share of the 20,000-a-year field does not constitute a monopoly.

The government insists that GM has 85 per cent or more of the city and intercity bus business, has squeezed out competition and squeezed some operators into buying only its buses.

A decision on whether all buses can be intermingled in figuring whether a monopoly exists likely will fall sometime late next week to U.S. District Judge Theodore Levin.

A half-dozen lawyers on the government's and GM's side have been arguing the question and asking other people, "What's a bus?" for 13 days now. GM, presenting its side, has 14 witnesses to go.

Following Judge Levin's decision, the five-year-old antitrust suit against GM will be ready for trial on its merits.

The judge's job, specifically, is to fix "the relevant market" for buses.

★ ★ ★

The action against GM is purely civil. There is no criminal charge, as in recent antitrust cases in which several executives of electric firms went to jail.
