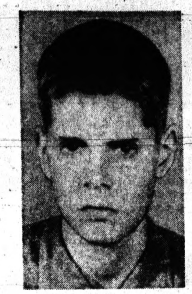
Hunt Many Exposed to Smallpox Victim



JAMES WILLIAM ORR

From Our News Wires

NEW YORK — Health officials of two nations worked against an awesome deadline today to find and vaccinate all persons who may have come in contact with a young Canadian smallpox victim.

The stricken boy, James William Orr, 14, flew here from Sao Paolo, Brazil, Aug. 11 on a plane with more than 80 other persons, including his parents and a brother and sister.

He passed through Idlewild Airport, traveled by cab to Grand Central Terminal and sat in the huge station's waiting room for 8 hours before boarding a train for Toronto.

It was in Toronto that the boy, described by his missionary father as feeling "under the weather," was taken to a doctor and eventually to a Canadian hospital.

Canadian authorities said the boy's illness was virtually certain to be smallpox, although confirming tests were still to be made. U.S. Public Health Service officials said there was no doubt.

BEGIN SEARCH

Authorities here, mindful of the contagious nature of the disease, embarked on a hunt for everyone who may have contacted him here.

★ ★ ★

This included passengers on the plane and the train, customs and airline personnel at the airport, a taxicab driver, a luggage porter, and all those who may have been in the terminal's main waiting room while James was there.

The U.S. Public Health Service announced in Washington that all persons on the plane that brought the Orrs to this country had been located and inoculated.

The highly contagious disease, which may bring death to as many as 35 of each 100 victims, was last reported in this country in 1947.

James entered Riverdale Isolation Hospital in Toronto Saturday and is in no danger, according to doctors. "Clinically the boy has the disease . . . but there is no need for panic or alarm. We do not anticipate an epidemic," said Dr. Matthew B. Dymond, Ontario's minister of health.

The boy's missionary father, James Robert Orr, said his son probably contracted the disease in the interior of Brazil, where the family of five had been on a mission until they flew to New York via Argentine Airlines Aug. 11.

To cope with the challenge, the New York Health Department set up 12 vaccination centers in Manhattan and the Bronx, while issuing a call for all those who may have come in contact with the boy to step forward without delay.

★ ★ ★

While the city vaccinated more than 300 persons at its centers yesterday, the U.S. Public Health Service gave vaccinations to more than 400 others at Idlewild Airport.

Centers in the city and at the airport were put on a round-the-clock schedule, while officials tried to hunt down the cab driver who transported the Orr family.

The father, who first described the driver as a Negro, later said he was white with a dark complexion and a foreign accent. He remembered the taxi only as being light-colored.

There are about 12,400 cabs in New York City with some 40,000 drivers.

N-Merchant Ship on Maiden Voyage

ABOARD NUCLEAR SHIP SAVANNAH (AP) — This 22,000-ton vessel — the world's first known atomic-powered merchant ship—shoved off at 12:05 p.m. (Pontiac time) today on a maiden voyage of a new era in commercial passenger and cargo hauling on the high seas.

The 2½-day voyage from historic Yorktown, Va., to Savannah, Ga., also will mark an American advance in the technological race with the Soviet Union.

The Soviets have built a nuclear-powered ice-breaker, but their plans to enter the nuclear-powered merchant ship field are believed to be still in the blueprint stage.

The Savannah is not expected to enter regular commercial service for about a year and a half. Meantime it will make demonstration trips and possibly take on some paying passengers for trips between American ports.

Atomic Energy Commission officials said the vessel is not expected to operate at a profit because it is the first ship of its kind "and costs of such a prototype are necessarily high."

Among passengers aboard the great white ship for the run to Savannah, Ga., were Georgia Gov. and Mrs. Ernest Vandiver; Rep. and Mrs. G. Elliot Hagan of Georgia, and Mayor and Mrs. Malcom MacLean of Savannah.

The ship was named in honor of the 320-ton sailing vessel with auxiliary steam power that first crossed the Atlantic in 1819 using steam power part of the way.

Although the Savannah has undergone previous sea trials, the present trip marks her first excursion to a regular commercial port.

Ford Veep Predicts Big Sales for 1963 Models

DEARBORN — Lee Iacocca, Ford Motor Co. vice president predicted today that the auto industry would sell 6.2 to 6.4 million units in the 1963 model year.

★ ★ ★

Iacocca told newsmen attending a press preview of the firm's new line for 1963 that a six million performance in the coming year would mark only the second time in industry history that this has been accomplished in back to back years. The goal was achieved in 1959-60.

Included in his prediction are approximately 340,000 imports.

Ford will offer 46 more models in four lines, 13 more than last year, company officials revealed.

13 MORE MODELS

Reds Reject Partial Ban

GENEVA (AP) — A Soviet spokesman today rejected proposals for a partial nuclear test ban treaty even as Swedish scientists reported the Russians set off a new atmospheric blast in their current testing series.

A treaty that would ban all but underground tests "will not settle the problem," the spokesman told reporters before the opening of the 72nd session of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

The idea of a half-way treaty has been advanced by Brazil, Sweden and Italy because the nuclear powers are deadlocked on methods of enforcing a ban on underground testing.

Furious Mob Hurls Rocks, Insults at Reds

Violence Is Continued Despite Brandt Order for Crackdown

BERLIN (AP) — Furious young West Berliners hurled stones at a bus full of Soviet soldiers again today as it sped through the city carrying a change of guard to a war memorial. Some bus windows were broken.

A crowd of about 400 shook fists and shouted "swine" and "murderers" as the bus passed.

West Berliners have been stirred to hot anger by the shooting of a refugee at the wall Friday and the fact that he lay dying in plain sight just out of reach of the West.

After bus stonings on previous days, West Berlin police gave the bus today a heavy escort—two sedans, a radio truck and two trucks of alert police.

But youngsters with their pockets full of rocks were able to get within 30 yards of the bus.

JFK Goes for a Swim; Crowd 'Swamps' Him

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Kennedy, weekending here, decided to take a swim in the Pacific—and was almost swamped by a throng of 1,000 admirers.

The scene was reminiscent of Coney Island on a muggy Fourth of July. The Secret Service, to a man, was in a mild state of shock.

Bystanders walked into the sea fully clothed as the President strode into the ocean in front of the Santa Monica beach home of his brother-in-law, Peter Lawford.

It happened Sunday during the President's 35-hour visit to southern California, a flying trip which ended shortly before midnight when the presidential jet took off to return to Washington, D.C.

The President arrived in Washington at 7 a.m. (Pontiac time).

It had been billed as a non-political trip, although the President obviously helped the cause of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown when they dedicated the $501-million San Luis Dam in central California on Saturday.

The President spent much of his time in southern California with Lawford — whose wife, like the President's, is vacationing in Europe.

The President and his film star in-law spent much of Sunday lounging by the pool of the actor's home, tossing around a football, and enjoying second helpings from the Lawfords' well-stocked larder.

Strike at Space Center Is Apparently Resumed

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A strike at the Marshall Space Flight Center apparently resumed today when workers, after returning to their jobs briefly walked off again.

A spokesman for the flight center, heart of much of the nation's missile and space development work, said:

"Although the federal district court has enjoyed the strike, virtually all the Local 558 International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers members expected to resume work failed to appear at construction sites.

"The few members who did report had not begun work at 10 a. m.

"A majority of other skills involved in the strike did report to work sites. Although some of those reporting started to work, most of them have by now left construction sites."

NEXT STOP UNCERTAIN

The Marshall spokesman was asked if operations at the space center were again at a standstill. He replied: "It would appear so."

The spokesman said he did not know what would be the next step in the space agency's efforts to end the strike that started last Tuesday in a dispute over nonunion electricians.

BULLETIN

DETROIT (AP) — The Weather Bureau said this afternoon that severe thunderstorms might develop across southern lower Michigan between 2 p.m. and 9 p.m.

The storms will be accompanied by hail and damaging surface winds, forecasters said.

Thunderstorms This Evening; Clear Tomorrow

There's a chance of thundershowers this evening, but skies will be clear tomorrow, the weatherman says. Tonight's low will be 64, Tuesday's high is expected to reach 82.

For the next five days temperatures will average 2- to 4-degrees below the normal high of 77 to 82 and normal low of 52 to 60.

Wednesday will be somewhat warmer with cooler weather returning Thursday and Friday. Precipitation will total one half to three quarters inches as showers or thundershowers mostly on Thursday.

★ ★ ★

The lowest temperature preceding 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac was 69. At 2 p.m. the mercury stood at 71.

Viet Cong Pulls Retreat Action

Army Offensive Fails as Guerrillas Hide in Mangrove Swamps

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Hard-core Viet Cong guerrillas, following military tactics which won China and North Viet Nam for communism, have survived a massive government offensive in the southern swamplands.

★ ★ ★

For four days crack government troops, supported by U.S. Marine Corps helicopters, fighter planes and armored river craft, rolled across Ca Mau Peninsula seeking 2,000 Communist guerrillas who have turned it virtually into a little Communist state.

The government high command is arguing with American advisers over the tally of Viet Cong dead: The government claims 124, the Americans 60. The Viet Cong main body got away again.

The four-day operation was the brainchild of Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam and Thailand. Harkins and his high command worked on and were highly optimistic when it got under way.

★ ★ ★

JUST DISAPPEAR

Communist guerrillas in Ca Mau, faced with an overwhelming government force, just disappeared into the mangrove swamps with their women and children.

As exhausted government troops pulled out, the Reds applied another guerilla law, "Attack when the enemy is tired."

Government columns moving out of the swamps met frequent ambushes but the Communist firepower came from inaccurate old muzzle loaders and shotguns. Government dead at operation's end totaled four.

Spotter aircraft hovering over the region early Sunday saw black-clad guerrilla patrols moving back into the blackened and devastated training camps and hamlets.

CHIN UP — Three-year-old Debbie Hall of 4100 Van Stone Drive, gets a lesson from Mrs. William Murray on the correct way to relax while floating. The instructor has just concluded a six-week swimming course for youngsters under 5. Many of her 22 pupils now "dog-paddle" along the edge of Green Lake.

'Blowww Bubbles, Children'

She Teaches Water Babies

How do you get and hold the attention of a 3-year-old long enough to teach him how to swim?

Ask former Olympic diving aspirant Mrs. William Murray of 3579 Warner Drive, Green Lake. For the last six weeks she has held swimming classes for tiny tots in the 3-to-5 age bracket.

Tuesday mornings the Warners' lake-front yard has been filled with 22 youngsters lying flat on their tummies doing the flutter kick, back float and dog paddle. At first everything is done out the water during the land exercises.

Seated in a big circle on the grass and with arms on their knees, the tender-aged group has learned correct breathing habits while swimming.

"Take a breath and blow bubbles," chants Mrs. Murray. Everything is done in rhythm.

★ ★ ★

In the dog paddle practice, it's "Remember children, a dog swim right in close. Now pull, pull, pull, pull." The whole class "Pulls" and joins in the chorus.

Then comes the "floating" on land. Lying flat, hands over the head, small chins are raised and feet flutter.

"This exercise is for when you get tired," says the petite Mrs. Murray.

'NOW, BARK'

Finally, it's "Everybody on their hands and knees, bark like poodles and crawl down into the water."

By the time the youngsters are ready for their water-learning, any previous fear or shyness has been literally washed away.

"Whether the children actually know how to swim at the end of the course, is immaterial," Mrs. Murray said, and added that at least they know what it's all about and their bodies have gone through a small physical fitness program.

★ ★ ★

Crofoot School Seeks OK on a Hot Lunch Program

The Crofoot Elementary School PTA has won a recommendation in favor of a hot lunch program from the Pontiac school administration.

A final decision on providing the initial $4,000 capital outlay for equipment is up to the Pontiac Board of Education.

The request is on the agenda for the 7:30 p.m. Thursday Pontiac Board of Education meeting at 40 Patterson St. Asst. Supt. Richard C. Fell will present the report.

Crofoot would be the 18th elementary school in the Pontiac school system to get a hot lunch program.

SHOWS INCREASE

Past surveys at Crofoot had indicated such a program wouldn't be supported but the present survey shows a marked increase in community interest. All hot lunch programs are run on a self-supporting basis, financially.

The survey covered 215 families, or more than 350 children.

Results showed that 168 children would buy lunch every day and 150 others, several times each week. Only 27 families voted against the proposed program.

★ ★ ★

In listing their reasons for wanting a hot school lunch provided most parents said there seldom was an adult at home at lunch time.

★ ★ ★

The food is to be prepared at Central High School, which has a cafeteria next door to Crofoot.

Much of the cost will be for equipment to transport food from Central to Crofoot and for equipment to wash, sanitize and store compartment serving trays and flatware at Crofoot.

The transporting equipment, the method of transfer and the entire food service plan have already won the approval of the Pontiac Board of Health.

★ ★ ★

A study of the plan was made by Crofoot Principal J. Albert Henning, Food Services Coordinator Margaret Johnston and representatives of the Crofoot PTA. Fell reported.

Fire Threatens Several Blocks in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Flames engulfed the old eight-story Carson-Union-May-Stern Building at 12th and Olive Sts. in downtown St. Louis today, starting a series of fires that threatened several blocks of the central business district.

Nine firemen were treated at city hospital, most of them for smoke inhalation. Fire Chief James Mullin, who suffered from smoke inhalation, and one other fireman were admitted to the hospital as patients.

The flames quickly spread to the old Post-Dispatch Building across the street, and a stiff wind scattered burning embers over an area of several blocks, starting several other fires.

Ford Veep Predicts Great Sales Year

dollars will be saved for consumers by the extension of service-saving features throughout all models.

"We will be offering our customers Thunderbird-inspired styling in cars from $1,800 to $5,000," said M. S. McLaughlin, Ford Division assistant general manager.

Ford will have 15 sedans, 10 hardtops, 6 convertibles and 15 station wagons. Fifteen of the models will have bucket seats.

New highs of reduced maintenance for all lines were outlined.

MAINTENANCE REDUCED

The 1,000 mile inspection has been eliminated except for three van-type vehicles and the Falcon line.

First maintenance after delivery will be at 6,000 miles or approximately six months for the average driver.

The Thunderbird will have 100,000-mile, or 3-year chassis lubrication.

In all other Ford lines the chassis lube interval has been boosted to 36,000 miles.

New in the Falcon Futura series are two convertibles, a Fastback hardtop, a Fastback sport coupe and a 4-door sedan.

The Fairlane line gains five models for '63 with addition of a 2-door hardtop, sport coupe and three station wagons.

The restyled Galaxie will offer a new 4-door hardtop in the 500XL series.

Three of Ford's lines will offer 4-speed, floor transmissions.

Other new features are synchronization of the first gear in the manual shift and swing-away steering wheels.

No longer will shifting into first while moving provide a clash of gears, Ford experts indicated.

This will be offered on all Galaxies and Fairlanes with V-8 engines.

Thirty-one per cent of Ford transmissions are three-speed manuals.

Swing-away steering wheels will be offered on the Galaxie line this year in addition to the Thunderbird which had it previously.

It can only be actuated when the gear shift lever is in the "park" position.

Recount Action Seen Unlikely

Berry's Manager Says Petition Probably Will Not Be Filed

Plans for a recount in the Democratic primary election for drain commissioner probably will be abandoned by Daniel T. Berry, his campaign manager said today.

★ ★ ★

Final results of an election canvass completed late last week showed Berry the loser to Roy J. Russell by 83 votes, 7,398 to 7,315.

First unofficial tabulations pegged the margin at only 62 votes.

Berry's campaign manager Carl O'Brien said it appears unlikely his candidate can pick up the necessary votes in a recount.

PRIMARY CONCERN

He pointed out, however, that a final decision has not yet been made.

O'Brien said Berry is primarily concerned with results from Springfield Township, where he said more than 100 Democratic voters traditionally turn out.

In the Aug. 7 primary, O'Brien noted that Berry and Russell received a combined total of less than 50 votes while Berry's challenger at the polls reported more than 100 Democratic voters.

O'Brien said Berry is also investigating the results in Royal Oak Township.

2 Funeral Services Set for 3 in Family

Two funeral services, one in Detroit and the other in Ionia, will be held tomorrow for State Police Trooper Gerald J. Tafel, his wife and son who were killed in an auto accident last Wednesday.

The 32-year-old policeman was transferred to Paw Paw in June 1961, after spending 10 years at the Pontiac State Police Post.

One service will be held at 1 a.m. tomorrow at the Fred Wood Funeral Home, Detroit, followed by another at 4 p.m. at 86, John Lutheran Church, Ionia. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery, Ionia.

Killed with the trooper in the two-car collision near Emporia, Kan., were his wife Mary Lou, 31, and their 9-year-old son Gerald J. Jr.

The only surviving member of the family, William Tafel, 7, was critically injured in the accident. He is in Newman Hospital near Emporia, Kan.

The Day in Birmingham

Enrollment of Students Set by Public Schools

BIRMINGHAM — Students enrolling in Birmingham Public Schools are urged to do so as soon as possible before the Sept. 6 opening of schools for the 1962-63 year, the Board of Education announced today.

★ ★ ★

They are urged to register at their respective schools, which will be open for registration from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday beginning today.

All schools will start with half-day sessions Sept. 6.

Counselors are now on duty to test and schedule new students at Seaholm Senior High School and Groves Junior-Senior High School, according to the announcement.

Testing of new students at Derby and Barnum junior high schools is scheduled for 9 a.m. next Monday.

A pilot program of advance registration for both new and returning students is slated to begin next Monday at the Groves School. All students will be able to pick up their schedules and pay their fees next Monday through Friday Aug. 31, although students who are out of town will be able to register Sept. 4 and 5.

If the advance registration system proves successful, it may be adopted throughout the school district in 1963-64.

Parents whose children will be attending a Birmingham elementary school for the first time are requested to contact the elementary school nearest their home.

Kindergarten children must be five years old and first graders six years old by Dec. 1. Further information is available at the board of education office.

Birmingham elementary school teachers, student teachers and substitute teachers will participate in a three-day elementary school workshop Aug. 27-30 at Adams School.

Purpose of the workshop is to acquaint teachers with materials to be used during the 1962-63 school year.

Major emphasis will be placed on revised programs in arithmetic and social studies and on the areas of language arts and science.

Sessions will include consideration of objectives, content, utilization of instructional materials and methods of instruction.

A spokesman for the three Western powers deplored the Soviet refusal and declared:

"The irresponsible actions of the East German regime in the Soviet sector and their murderous use of fire on defenseless individuals have produced a grave situation.

"The acting Soviet commandant cannot, by refusing to discuss the situation, divest himself of his direct responsibility."

JFK Gives Crowd Damp Handshakes

President's swimming jaunt, but weren't in the presidential party and stayed clear of the mob scene which ensued.

It started when the President, apparently without prior warning to his security guards, emerged from Lawford's beach-front home and set out for the surf 100 yards across the sand.

The house fronts on a public beach at nearby Santa Monica. Some 100 bathers, who had been waiting for hours for just such an appearance, let out a wild cheer.

The cheers brought other bathers from out of the sand, from under blankets, from everywhere. They closed in on the smiling Chief Executive, many trying to shake his hand. Affably, he obliged for many.

He dived under a big breaker. Most of the throng followed him in — including one fully dressed woman and one fully dressed news photographer.

SWIMMING 'PAILS'

For 15 minutes he swam vigorously. The crowd swam with him. The Secret Service, late in catching up, watched helplessly on the beach.

The guards didn't breathe easily until a hastily summoned life guard patrol boat cruised up near the swimming President.

Dem Lt. Gov. Lesinski Hits Welcome to Durant

'Romney Hasn't Guts to Lead His Party'

By The Associated Press

Democratic Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski yesterday termed George Romney a man "who doesn't have the guts or stamina to lead his own party."

He referred to Romney's acceptance of controversial Richard Durant as a Republican district leader after Durant resigned from the John Birch Society.

Romney, however, indicated Saturday that as Republican nominee for governor he would renew efforts to have Durant ousted from his 14th District vice chairmanship if he is not satisfied that Durant resigned as a Bircher "in spirit as well as in letter."

"If his disavowal of Birch principles is not genuine and complete," Romney said in a statement, "and if he does not prove capable of real leadership, then I will go to the people of his district on a direct personal basis and seek his removal from party leadership responsibility."

★ ★ ★

Lesinski, addressing a Kalamazoo County Democratic organization barbecue, declared that "Romney couldn't beat Durant so he took him to his bosom."

"Is this what you call guts?" he asked. "Is this a man who is willing to pay the price to be governor?"

Lesinski later predicted to newsmen that a tax revision bill including an income tax will be passed next year, "particularly since the obstruction is removed."

REFERRING TO MORRIS

He apparently was referring to the primary election losses of Sens. Carlton Morris, R-Kalamazoo, and Charles Feenstra, R-Grand Rapids.

Lesinski said, however, tax revision would not be achieved if Romney wins in November. There still are conservatives in the State Senate, he said, who would "cut a man like Romney to ribbons."

Gov. Swainson, at a meeting of Democratic leaders in Hartland Saturday, also spoke of what he called the "Durant sellout." He declared that the GOP would make any appeasements in an attempt to gain votes.

★ ★ ★

Swainson said he welcomed the opportunity to debate with Romney on television in October over progress in Michigan under 14 years of Democratic leadership.

He complimented Detroit television stations for donating air time for the scheduled debates.

'DEAR DICK' LETTER

Romney, who concluded an Upper Peninsula campaign swing Saturday, sent Durant a "Dear Dick" letter saying "The news of your resignation from the John Birch Society is very welcome" and a decision "which enhances your capacity for leadership."

A Detroit newspaper (The Free Press) published the letter Sunday. But Durant said he had not received it.

In a news release following publication of the letter, Romney told Republicans: "I urge the people of his district to watch closely — as I will — to determine his real intention. That determination should not take long to make."

Durant reacted heatedly when portions of the letter were read to him. He said he might have some comment "after I've seen" the letter.

Romney attracted large crowds to rallies at Ironwood, Crystal Falls and Sault Ste. Marie in last week's tour. He appeared Saturday at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba.

The former American Motors Corp. president hit hard at Michigan's job problems on his U. P. trip, where unemployment runs as high as 18 per cent in some places.

'KNOWS WHAT IT TAKES'

"I've spent a good deal of my life saving jobs and creating jobs," Romney declared. "I know what it takes, not in theory but from actual experience."

He leaves today for a three-day tour of southwestern Michigan counties, starting with Kalamazoo County. He also will visit Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties.

Alvin Bentley, Republican candidate for congressman-at-large, followed Romney to the Upper Peninsula Saturday.

He told newsmen at Iron River that he would advocate a federal subsidy for iron ore and other natural resources if that were necessary to avoid reliance on foreign suppliers for defense purposes.

Asks U.S. Plan Education Role

Educator Wants Body Set Up to Map Future Course of Government

DETROIT (AP) — An educator proposed today that a federal commission be created to plan this government's future role in education in order to cope with immense world changes.

Dr. Herold C. Hunt, Harvard University's Eliot professor of education, questioned the adequacy of present national policy in an address prepared for the American Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) convention

"For too long we have charted a federal course in education without a compass," Dr. Hunt said. "Where we are going and how and by what means the government intends to get there should be the concern of every American."

Dr. Hunt said the government appropriates $2 billion a year for 300 education programs but that a cohesive plan or policy is lacking.

TO MAP FUTURE

He asked the teachers union to propose to President Kennedy the naming of a commission of laymen and professional educators to map a future program.

He said such a program could help meet needs of the year 2,000, when America's population will have doubled, according to predictions, and her school and college enrollment will total 85 million.

"I can think of no action this convention could initiate that would be as far reaching in significance," he said.

Dr. Hunt, former school superintendent in Chicago and Kansas City and former U.S. undersecretary of education, was principal speaker at the federation's first convention session.

The AFT, which claims 70,000 teachers as members, has a convention program that includes planning for expanded organization. Collective bargaining techniques for teacher union contracts also are on the agenda. Approximately 750 delegates are attending.

VA to Consider Dividend to GIs to Aid Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Veterans Administration will take a close look at its funds to see whether a special GI insurance dividend can be declared to boost the nation's economy.

A spokesman for the VA said Sunday night that Administrator James S. Gleason Jr. had ordered the study, to be completed by mid-September.

THE OPERATOR HEARD, AND THEN...

It was 2 o'clock in the morning and Mrs. Marian Manwell of Mayville, Michigan, was asleep on the first floor of her two-story home. Her husband worked nights, so she was alone with her children—the seven-year-old twins downstairs and five youngsters upstairs.

Suddenly, she awoke with a choking cough to find the house engulfed in smoke.

She stumbled through the smothering darkness to the stairs, roused her older sons, and told them to help the others.

Mrs. Manwell then groped her way along the wall to the telephone in the dining room. Despite blinding smoke she was able to dial "O". When the operator answered, Mrs. Manwell could only gasp, "Fire!"

Instantly the operator rang Mayville's fire department—and repeatedly asked Mrs. Manwell for her address—until the desperate mother was able to answer.

Volunteer firemen quickly arrived at the scene. The rest is happy history . . . Mrs. Manwell and all the children were saved.

In a letter of gratitude addressed to "A very special operator at the Michigan Bell Telephone Company," Mrs. Manwell later wrote: "All eight of us passed safely—without even a scratch or burn—only three feet from the flames, to the outside. Your quick reaction to my urgent need saved my home. We have so much to thank you for and we don't even know your name."

This story is true. But not unusual. Telephone operators seem to have a way of being near when people are in trouble. . . . A comforting thought, isn't it?

Man Killed in Gulf; Shark Is Suspected

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A man was fatally mauled by what he said was a shark, while fishing in waist deep water in the Gulf of Mexico Sunday.

Hans Fix, about 40, of McAllen, Tex., died shortly after the fish almost severed his right leg, but was conscious when rescuers pulled him from the water.

★ ★ ★

Bob Lauer of Harlingen, Tex., was swimming a short distance from Fix and heard him scream. "The water was boiling around him," he said.

"As I pulled him from the water he said a shark hit him once on the leg and then again," Lauer said.

Queenie Holds No Truck With Petty Thieves

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Queenie Jones looked on in astonishment while an unarmed customer rifled the cash register in her restaurant.

She walked up to the man and demanded her money back. He refused to hand it over.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Jones got her pistol and conked him on the head.

★ ★ ★

Police arrived to find George Franklin Spears, 45, sitting in a booth in the restaurant—holding his aching head. He was charged with petty larceny and held under $5,000 bond.

Russia, Syria Agree to New Cultural Pact

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Soviet Union and Syria signed a new cultural agreement Sunday to foster cultural ties between the two countries on the basis of "mutual respect of national sovereignty and noninterference in domestic affairs" of each other, a joint communique announced.

The accord provides for artistic, scientific and educational exchanges.

May Delay Space Flights

Find New Belt of Radiation

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—A new and perhaps menacing radiation belt is in the atmosphere around the earth — put there, scientists say, by a United States high-altitude nuclear test blast July 9.

Little is known of the new belt except:

1. It could imperil astronauts in future space flights, and hence might cause the United States to delay its Project Mercury program.

★ ★ ★

2. It emits radio frequency signals and therefore may interfere with some radio astronomy.

★ ★ ★

The presence of the radiation belt, 600 miles and higher above the earth, was disclosed by Dr. James Warwick of the University of Colorado's high-altitude observatory, in a copyright article by science writer Victor Cohn of the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune.

Dr. Warwick's comments were substantiated by Dr. James A. Van Allen, who in 1958 discovered the principal radiation belt encircling the earth.

INTENSIFIES RING

The Colorado scientist said the effect of the Pacific high-altitude test blast last month was to greatly intensify the so-called Van Allen radiation ring.

The new ring, he said, consists of high-energy H-bomb electrons, invisible atomic particles, which follow the path of the earth's magnetic equator. The Minneapolis Tribune described the new radiation ring as probably a temporary layer under the inner part of the Van Allen belt.

"By temporary," said Dr. Warwick, "I mean possibly months or it may mean five years. We are maintaining constant observation, and I hope that by Sept. 1 we may have more information."

★ ★ ★

At Southampton, N.Y., where he is vacationing, Dr. Van Allen said the new belt has "increased the potential danger for manned space flights," but detailed exploration and scientific examination is needed before the effects on Project Mercury flights can be determined.

"I don't want to prejudge the data," Dr. Van Allen said, "but the radiation is a matter of concern and it is conceivable that Mercury flights might have to be delayed."

Van Allen said the situation conceivably could lead also to delay in similar flights by Russians.

Variations of the Van Allen belt's radiation have been studied for a year with the help of a satellite called Injun, launched for scientific purposes on June 29, 1961.

Dr. Van Allen said previous Soviet nuclear blasts had not affected the radiation belt.

Epidemic Hits Colombia Town

Bronchitis Outbreak in Florencia Following Flood Killing 41

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — An epidemic of bronchitis broke out today after floodwaters swamped the jungle town of Florencia, killing 41 persons and leaving 136 missing.

The avalanche, set loose by a burst dam on the River Hacha, swept tree trunks and huge boulders into the sleeping town early Saturday. About 3,000 of the 20,000 inhabitants are homeless.

No injuries were reported among members of an American military mission stationed in Florencia, 250 miles south of Bogota.

Capt. K. W. Vansandt, member of the U.S. team, making a geodetic survey, said: "It was a nightmare. Streaks of light from flashlights were all that illuminated the darkness as groups of people ran widely crying and screaming."

More than 1,000 cattle perished and 30,000 tons of rice were destroyed, dealing another blow to the town, which experienced the most severe winter in years.

Milk cows in farm herds in the United States total 17,400,000, down 200,000 from a year ago.

It Seems to Me . . .

Our Own Scientists Assert We Will Reach Moon First

Perhaps it's a clear-cut case of whistling in the dark, or searching for the silver lining, but there is a modicum of comfort in the current assertions of our own scientists.

They predict that we'll reach the moon ahead of the Reds.

★ ★ ★

Personally, The Press will continue to serve you daily, whoever lands with the first live cargo. There are many things more important. But this would be a comforting palliative and a definite sop to our injured pride and international ego. Furthermore, it would enhance our global standing, and that's important in the everlasting cold war which we are compelled to wage with the bloodthirsty Communists.

★ ★ ★

A couple of weeks ago I sketched future communication with some very, very distant planets, and our interstellar musing will conclude with a final observation. I just read that we may eventually send an exploratory ship to a planet so distant that these incredible circumstances must prevail.

★ ★ ★

The ship would start with two or three hundred on a journey that lasts a century because of the distance involved. The oldsters would be in charge at the outset and as they died off and were "buried at sea" the next generation would take over and by the time the expedition landed, this generation might be wholly or partly in the land of departed souls. The younger girls would be bearing children and so the landing party would consist of a high percentage of people who were actually born en route.

★ ★ ★

The return trip?

My talented prognosticator leaves that for your own imagination.

The party might remain.

In the meantime, we'll take comfort in the word of our own scientists who quietly predict that we'll reach the moon first in spite of the current Russian triumphs, and we grant that these are noteworthy, spectacular and outstanding.

The Reds are "on the ball."

★ ★ ★

Their accomplishments tend to attract quick attention and are showy, while our own are aimed toward permanent achievements and things for the progress of all mankind.

Foreign Aid Abused . . . .

Each year, we've been giving the African Republic of Liberia $50 million. Insider's Newsletter disclosed that her President TUBMAN just paid $28,000 for a Rolls Royce.

★ ★ ★

Whose money was that?

Of course, it might have been an inheritance from a maiden aunt. At the same time, Tubman spent $25,000 for new furniture and clothing. Then he threw a "thank you dinner" for the Queen of England and picked up a $5,000 tab. Whose folding money paid for that? Ours? Mebbe he's moonlighting and picking up heavy sugar on the side.

Mebbe.

★ ★ ★

When Editor JOHN W. FITZGERALD returned a couple of years ago from a European survey with other editors, he asserted that some of our "foreign aid" was keeping curvaceous cuties in Paris apartments and that the head of one country had just bought himself a nice airplane.

It's time foreign aid was cut from countries that abuse the privilege. And that doesn't mean "next year."

It means NOW!

Too Secretive . . . .

One of our most outspoken Americans is ex-President HARRY S. TRUMAN.

★ ★ ★

Hence, when he was interviewed on the current Soviet achievement, it was no surprise to hear him say:

"I congratulate the two Russian astronauts—if this is true. They'll have to prove to me that it is. The Russians never told me the truth all the time I was dealing with them."

★ ★ ★

And the New York Mirror adds:

"No one from the West has ever witnessed a launching or a recovery. Why? What have the Reds to hide in their "peaceful exploration of space for the good of all mankind"?

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

The Associated Press reports that newspaper coverage of MARILYN MONROE's death was simply staggering in volume . . . . . Trainer FITZSIMMONS celebrated his 88th birthday with a big champagne lunch. Asked whether he intended to retire he replied in some astonishment: "No one ever retires as he reaches the prime of life." . . . . . Germany is drafting a law to prevent those on paid vacation from taking other employment on the grounds that it's unfair to those without jobs and the workers need the rest anyway.

★ ★ ★

I can't prove it, but I'll bet a sugar cookie you'd wince if someone pronounced "schedule" as though it were "shed-ule," but you'd be wincing in a lost cause. . . . . Trusted scouts advise me Joanne Beverly Hill is one of the real attractive young ladies in the area. Nomination supported . . . . . Governor Rockefeller's home state popularity is spurting unaccountably . . . . . European shopkeepers are wailing. Cutting the U.S. tax import allowance from $500 to $100 hit 'em hard . . . . . Local experts tell me the current apple crop will be simply enormous—and of a high quality. Good.

It's a great institution — especially since the faculty moved to Washington." . . . . . WILT CHAMBERLAIN, country club bellhop seven years ago, just drove up to the same place in his $27,000 British Bentley. It could only happen here . . . . . Trouble on the Launching Pad

David Lawrence Says:

JFK Tune Just an Old Refrain

WASHINGTON — Is there anything really new under the sun—for instance, in the fundamentals of national politics?

LAWRENCE

The query came to mind as this writer stood during the weekend in front of the governor's summer mansion at Sea Girt, N.J., where 50 years ago—on Aug. 7, 1912—it was his assignment, as an Associated Press reporter, to cover Gov. Woodrow Wilson's speech accepting the Democratic party's presidential nomination.

Mr. Wilson had won it a month before after an unprecedented struggle of 46 ballots at the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore. A relatively unknown figure in politics, he had defeated the popular speaker of the House of Representatives, Champ Clark of Missouri.

The address by Gov. Wilson resembles to no small extent, as one rereads it today, the statements by spokesmen of the Democratic party of the 1960s.

It is always insisted when comparisons like this are made that "circumstances are different now." But are they really? Here are some extracts chosen at random from that 1912 appeal to the Nation to support the Democratic presidential nominee:

"Plainly, it is a new age. The tonic of such a time is very exhilarating. It requires self-restraint not to attempt too much, and yet it would be cowardly to attempt too little . . .

★ ★ ★

"Our difficulty is not that wicked and designing men have plotted against us, but that our common affairs have been determined upon too narrow a view, and by too private an initiative.

"Our task now is to effect a great readjustment and get the forces of the whole people once more into play."

There was in the political vocabulary of those days no such phrase as "New Frontier," but an emphasis on the "New Freedom" and on the high cost of living. Mr. Wilson said:

'NOT AS EASY'

"It is not as easy for us to live as it used to be. Our money will not buy as much. High wages even when we can get them, yield us no great comfort. We used to be better off with less because a dollar could buy so much more."

There was, of course, no controversy at that time about the AT&T and a worldwide communications system by Telstar, but the words of Mr. Wilson seem strangely familiar as he said:

"I am not one of those who think that competition can be established by law against the drift of a worldwide economic tendency; neither am I one of those who believe that business done upon a great scale by a single organization—call it corporation, or what you will—is necessarily dangerous to the liberties, even the economic liberties, of a great people like our own, full of intelligence and indomitable energy . . .

★ ★ ★

"I am happy to say that a new spirit has begun to show itself in the last year or two among influential men of business . . . Only a very little while ago our men of business were united in resisting every proposal of change and reform as an attack on business, an embarrassment of all large enterprise, an intimation that settled ideas of property were to be set aside and a new and strange order of things created out of hand . . .

"The so-called labor question is a question only because we have not yet found the rule of right in adjusting the interests of labor and capital . . ."

History does not record whether a majority of the American people approved all these sentiments. For, while Mr. Wilson was elected in November that year, he received only 41.8 per cent of the popular vote. Yet, due to a split in the Republican party, he obtained 81.9 per cent of the electoral vote.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

Blood Pressure Changes Under Varied Conditions

Q — Last week, I was examined for life insurance and was told I had high blood pressure. I went immediately to my family doctor who took my blood pressure and found it to be normal. How is this possible?

A — Blood pressure is a variable, not a constant. It fluctuates as widely as weather conditions in a single day. These fluctuations are determined by numerous conditions. Such as:

The identity of the examiner (higher with a stranger), the reason for the examination (higher at induction physical than at routine checkup), the nervous state of the subject at the time of the recording (higher during emotional stress), the position of the subject at the time of the recording (higher when lying flat), the distress caused by the examination (higher if arm band is too tight or kept on too long).

★ ★ ★

Thus, each of the readings made by the insurance examiner and your own doctor may have been correct.

But, since the conditions at the time of the recordings differed, different levels were noted.

To prevent your being rated up by the insurance company, I'd suggest you have your doctor request a re-examination on the basis of his findings.

And he may, if he desires, prescribe a sedative or a tranquilizer for you so that the insurance examiner gets a more accurate picture of your circulatory status.

Q — Have you heard of a new cancer cure called "Panga"?

A — I have heard of no cancer cure.

You may refer to Pangametin, also known as Vitamin B15H8.

According to a report just issued by the American Cancer Society, there is "no evidence that treatment with Chymotrypsin, Laetrile and Vitamin B15H8 or Pangametin results in any objective benefit in the treatment of cancer, or that diagnosis by the Anthrone Color Test is a reliable method of detecting cancer in human beings."

Both the test named and the products to which reference is made in this report were introduced by a Texas whose doctorate is in philosophy, not medicine.

And the Cancer Society's estimate is in agreement with one made in 1953 by the California Medical Association.

Its cancer commission "has collected information concerning 44 patients treated with Laetrile, all of whom either have active disease, or are dead of their disease, with one exception.

Of those alive with disease, no patient has been found with evidence of control of cancer under treatment with Laetrile alone."

'U.S. Congress Should Be Guiding Light for States'

The thing most responsible for Con-Con is tied up in the courts but settlement is simple. Have a legislature patterned after the U. S. Congress. Each "state" of the union is represented in Congress by two Senators and our House of Representatives is chosen by population. The House represents the people and the Senators the states. Our Congress should be a guiding light.

'Chicago Handles Conventions Well'

As a former Chicago resident, I read with interest of Detroit's battle with unions over working on the fringe of the convention business at Cobo Hall.

★ ★ ★

In Chicago, they secretly laugh at Detroit's bungling convention work. Exhibitors tell the Chicago people they'll never return to Detroit again and that they were gouged as they had never been before.

★ ★ ★

Chicago's convention program is booked almost solidly for 18 months. The big auditorium's management and labor give all visitors a fair shake with no feather bedding and no silly unfair rules.

They want the business, the visitors and the employment and they get it.

Here's How to Make Americans Happy

President Kennedy's persistent wooing of the minority groups could be eliminated and everyone made happy by the following plan:

★ ★ ★

The American people could be divided into two groups — those who have stocks and those who do not. For those who do, the government could insure investors against losses by guaranteeing to purchase securities at parity. Parity would be the 1962 highs before Kennedy's Black Monday. The certificates are to be stored in Billie Sol Estes cotton warehouses. The scheme will be called Stockcare and be a part of our social security program costing only $15 a year.

★ ★ ★

The government could pay those who do not own stocks a certain percentage of the 1962 parity depending on the type of stocks they do not own. The more stocks a person does not own the more he will receive from the government.

Cabs Continue to Spark Interest

Has Milton Henry been responsible for the cab company permit for Louis Linteau? How did Linteau acquire his "limousine service"? The Commission has become a source of amazement to many folks.

Did Henry tell the cab company it had to hire some Negro drivers? Most colored folks are kind and considerate but Mr. Henry is not helping his race.

'If I'm Elected'

Atlantic Monthly

During the 1960 presidential campaign the central theme of candidate Kennedy was to "get America moving again." This was to include the military machine and the economy, as well as the national sense of self-confidence. That America has improved its military posture is evident. That a sense of self-confidence has returned also is clear. But of all the Kennedy campaign promises, the one on which he has fallen down hardest is the pledge to do something about the sluggish economy and its exasperating low rate of growth.

It is true that production, profits, and employment have reached all-time highs. But everybody knows that the upturn from the 1960 recession began shortly after Kennedy took office and not as a result of anything he did. The Administration did spur it mildly last summer and fall. But, in fact, the President took such a conservative economic tack that the upswing has been only moderate and less than his own advisers had predicted. Furthermore, it was just sufficient to rob him of the power to gain from Congress other measures he sought.

To the liberals who supported him, the President turned out to be a prisoner of such conventional wisdoms as the balanced budget. In short, he talked like a liberal, but he acted like a conservative. He rejected the idea that a little inflation is good for a nation and made a fetish of his anti-inflation policy.

If the steel masters were blind in their anticipation of what the President might do, so was the President blind as to the effect of what he did on the business community. Some in the Capital feel that, basically, the trouble is a problem in communications. Certainly the President's "S.O.B." crack, served as a catalyst to bring forth a wide reaction of business venom.

★ ★ ★

The President's initial reaction, aside from anger, to the attacks from business was a sort of "What do they want?" The President announced that he will propose for enactment by the next Congress an across-the-board tax cut for corporations and individuals, retroactive to January 1.

But a big tax cut, one which will pump more money into the economic bloodstream, very probably will create a new upward price movement. It is argued that commodity prices should not rise because so much of the nation's economic capacity is idle, that there is no chance of too much money chasing too few goods. A lot of observers in the Capital think that the psychological pressures will all be for another inflationary spurt.

★ ★ ★

Just how much effect on the nation's economic growth rate will be produced by measures to be passed this summer by Congress or by the tax cut next year is a matter of conjecture. The probability is that there will be an effect on the plus side, though whether it will cut into unemployment to any considerable degree is more debatable. And whether a higher growth rate can be achieved without further inflation is doubtful, at best.

State's Rights

New York Daily News

Opening the American Bar Association convention in San Francisco, President John C. Satterfield took a wide swing at all three branches of the U. S. Government for trying to grab too much power away from the states.

The Supreme Court came in for most of the Satterfield denunciations. Earl Warren's tribunal was charged with exalting the "liberties of individuals at the expense of equally valid individible liberties of all citizens." Especially, Satterfield complained, is the Supreme Court moving in on the states' enforcement of their own criminal laws, so that all crimes before long may become federal crimes and all police federal police.

The present President and Congress, the speaker added, are aiding and abetting the Supreme Court.

It happens that ex-President Eisenhower voices similar misgivings in the Saturday Evening Post, about President John F. Kennedy's constant reaching for more power for himself.

We think Gen. Ike and Satterfield are right.

U.S. Economy

New York Times

While the economy is at a high level and may even continue to advance, it is falling far short of the ambitious goals set by the Kennedy Administration. Even if a downturn is avoided, Washington cannot be satisfied with the present signs of stagnation that will not absorb the nation's resources of men and machinery.

Flying Fighters for France Meet in State

Pay Homage to World War I Comrade

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—American flying heroes who fought for France in World War I bowed graying heads in a solemn tribute Sunday to a departed comrade.

Tears glistened in the eyes of some of the old-timers as an American Legion rifle squad fired three volleys and a bugler played "Taps" in memory of Col. Fredrick W. Zinn, who fought with them in the French Foreign Legion and the Lafayette Flying Corps.

Taking part in the ceremony were a handful of the few survivors who volunteered for service with the French forces before the United States entered World War I.

Zinn, the first American aerial combat photographer, was buried—at his request two years ago—in Memorial Park Cemetery off the end of the runway at Battle Creek's Kellogg Field.

PLAQUE UNVEILED

A plaque dedicated to Zinn's memory was unveiled Sunday at the first reunion air show by his daughter, Mrs. Howard Wirson of Chicago, and a former comrade who saved his life when Zinn was wounded in 1915, Col. David W. King of Chester, Conn.

Further tribute was paid at a quiet graveside ceremony where Baron Hans Georg von der Osten, 66, Cologne, Germany, laid a wreath on Zinns tombstone.

The baron, who flew with Baron von Richthofen's legendary squadron of the German imperial air force, said in German as he stepped back: "With the highest respect for an honored opponent."

Another wreath was placed on the grave by the present day commander of the Lafayette Escadrille, Capt. Berhard Zeigler, a wounded veteran of the recent Algerian war. Zeigler, 29, flew from France to join in the reunion of the men who fought in his country's behalf before he was born.

As the air heroes paid their respects to Zinn, they were well aware of their thinning numbers.

About 55 survivors are believed scattered around the world. Of the 20-odd who came to the reunion, the youngest was 66, the oldest, 87.

A nostalgic highlight of the air show was a mock aerial dog fight pitting a French Nieuport 28 against a German Fokker D7, flown by stunt pilots Frank Tallman of Santa Ana, Calif., and Cole Palen of Rhinebeck, N.Y.

Baron von der Osten, watching the battle, was not distressed when the Fokker apparently lost the fight, trailing a plume of black smoke. He said he understood that was the outcome to be expected with thousands of American spectators watching.

Nathaniel Duffy of Buffalo, N.Y. said he remembered that most of the dog fights usually didn't last as long as the 15-minute demonstration.

Usually, he said, "one plane either went down or ran away before there was much of a fight."

Foe of De Gaulle Reported on 'Run'

ROME (AP) Jacques Soustelle, a rightist foe of French President Charles de Gaulle, apparently is on the run again.

There were persistent and unconfirmed reports today he may have gone to Spain despite Milan police reports yesterday he had been taken to the Austrian border.

Soustelle, a former governor-general of Algeria and former information minister before he broke with De Gaulle on policy over the North African territory, was picked up by Italian police Friday.

They said he was on their list of undesirable visitors and was traveling on a false passport.

Senator Warns of Job Fighting Communism

VICKSBURG, Miss. (UPI) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., called yesterday for the American people to gain a better understanding of communism and said the job cannot "safely be left to Washington officialdom."

"We can achieve victory over the Communists without a nuclear war," the South Carolina senator said, "but only if we are willing to inform ourselves on, and face realistically, the true nature of the Communist movement."

Thurmond, addressing a Civil War Centennial program at the National Military Park here, said the free world for years has been "deceived by the merest pretense."

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Mrs. James Clark, mother of eight, scored a hole in one three weeks after taking up golf.

She made her ace on the 135-yard No. 8 hole at the West Par course here. The ball dropped on the green, rolled about six inches and fell in.

"But please don't tell what I shot on the other holes," she told her golfing companions.

Ike Burns Up Golf Course in Scotland

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower burned up the tough Turnberry championship golf course today.

"He was not only good," said professional Robert Jamieson, "he was marvelous."

The former president of the United States, who will be 72 in October, scored an 86 over the 6,770-yard, villainously trapped course, which will be the scene of next year's Walker Cup Tournament. It was Ike's best score on this course.

"I think my best score before was an 87," said the vacationing general.

Par for the course is 73. If his handicap of 16 strokes is counted, Ike would have had a 70, or three under par.

State Man Hurt, 3 Die in Car Crash in East

HAMPSTEAD, N.H. (AP) — Walter C. Shultz, 51, of Chesaning, Mich., was reported in fair condition today from injuries suffered Sunday in a two-car crash which left three persons dead.

The victims were not identified immediately. The accident occurred at an intersection only a few miles from the northeastern Massachusetts line.

Steel Executive Dies

LATROBE, Pa. (AP)—Lloyd D. Bowman, 66, chairman of the board of Vanadium-Alloys Steel Co., since 1961, died Sunday of a heart attack. Bowman, who joined the company in 1917, was born in Ebensburg, Pa.

Moscow Charges Spying Planned

London Papers Hit Arrival of U2s

LONDON (UPI) — The basing of three American U2 planes on British soil drew more newspaper criticism today and a suggestion the matter should be discussed in Parliament.

★ ★ ★

The planes arrived yesterday from Laughlin Air Force Base, Tex., via Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y.

Moscow radio quickly charged they would be used for "spying" purposes.

The United States said they would make high altitude meteorological flights over the North Atlantic.

The plane gained notoriety when Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) pilot Francis Gary Powers was downed over Russia in 1960 while on a flight over the Soviet Union.

QUESTIONS MOVE

The Daily Sketch, which generally supports government policy, asked editorially, "Can (Prime Minister Harold) Macmillan say no if the Americans decided to fly one of the . . . U2's over Russia?"

Lt. Col. Arthur Leatherwood, 41, commander of the U2 detachment, said the planes "will be engaged in a high-altitude sampling program for the Defense Atomic Security Agency and the Strategic Air Command (SAC)."

The Sketch commented on this statement by saying of the American plan: "Nobody really believes them."

★ ★ ★

The planes are stationed at Upper Heyford, SAC headquarters in Britain.

★ ★ ★

Member of Parliament Frederick Lee said he saw "no physical necessity of their (U2's) presence" in Britain. "I believe that the time for this step is inopportune," he said.

★ ★ ★

The Express suggested parliamentary discussion.

"Too many shady-looking decisions come to light while MPS are on holiday," the newspaper said.

GOP '62 Win Called a Must

Chairman Says Party Won't Have Chance in '64 Without Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican party will have to "look under a rock" for a 1964 presidential candidate if it doesn't win key elections this fall, according to GOP National Chairman William E. Miller.

Miller said yesterday that since the Republicans controlled neither the White House, either House of Congress, less than a third of the governors and the state legislatures, "we'd better win in '62 and not worry about winning in 1964."

He said in a television interview that the GOP had every reason to be optimistic about the November elections.

He said that in 19 months of control of the White House and Congress the Democrats "have not delivered on their promises."

WOULD BE DEAD

Miller, who is also a New York congressman, said that if former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and George Romney lose the California and Michigan gubernatorial races, respectively, both would be finished as potential presidential candidates.

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's presidential stature in would depend on how well he wins in New York this fall, Miller said.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., "would have his chances enhanced by any of the things which might befall the other candidates of an unfavorable nature," the GOP chairman added.

Miller said that if Rep. William Scranton is elected governor of Pennsylvania he could become an important figure in the Republican party.

Defense Lack Hit by Senator

Nevada Dem Claims U.S. Open to Attack by Red Space Craft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Howard W Cannon, D-Nev., said today the United States stands defenseless against attacks that could come from orbiting Soviet space vehicles.

By placing the major emphasis of its space efforts on scientific exploration and civilian applications, it may be offering the Soviet Union the opportunity of "an enormous and possibly insurmountable military advantage," Cannon said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery.

★ ★ ★

"I see no evidence that there is a national, authoritative intent to accelerate the earliest practicable development of urgently needed military (space) capabilities," he said.

"Where, for example, is the necessary project to develop a means of intercepting, inspecting and destroying, if necessary, hostile satellites that could bear super megaton bombs down on us?"

HITS DELAY

Cannon, a brigadier general and jet pilot in the Air Force Reserve, said that such a development program, though advocated by the military services, has been specifically delayed by civilian officials.

"To the best of my knowledge," Cannon said, "no defense whatever exists at this time against any military attack that might be made from the space region even though such attacks are within the present capability of the Soviet Union."

★ ★ ★

Cannon is a member of both the Senate Space and Armed Services committees.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., said in a statement Saturday that Congress should conduct hearings before adjournment into the military potential of the Soviet Union's orbiting twin cosmonauts.

The dual space flight, said Wiley, raises "new questions about the military dangers to free world security."

From 10 to 15 percent of all deaths in the world are caused by cancer, medical authorities believe.

Foreign News Notes

Moves Seen Easing Britain Into Market

By MURRAY J. BROWN
United Press International

Notes from the foreign news cables:

MARKET MANEUVERS

Look for top-level behind-the-scene moves in Western European capitals and Washington to pave the way for Britain's entry into the European Common Market.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is expected to appeal informally to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to persuade French President Charles de Gaulle to stop rocking the boat. Similar appeals also are expected to be made to the other Common Market members.

In addition, London is hopeful that the United States will intervene discreetly with the European leaders in favor of Britain's admission.

SECOND THOUGHTS

President Charles de Gaulle is reliably reported to have dropped for the time being his pet project to amend the constitution to provide for the office of a vice president as in the United States and direct elections of the chief executive. Parliamentary opposition to the changes has proved unexpectedly strong.

COMMUNIST CRACKDOWN

The big three Western allies are considering measures to curtail Communist police activities on the Communist-run elevated railway in West Berlin at the request of the city government. West Berlin officials say the elevated installations pose the greatest internal security threat in the event of trouble.

PINCH ON PEEPING

Reports reaching Hong Kong say Communist China is feeling the pinch of being deprived of Soviet aid. Peiping's leaders are said to be making a point of telling the people about the lack of Russian aid to goad them into greater domestic production efforts.

COSMONAUT CLOSEUP

A news conference that will provide the first opportunity of Western correspondents to speak to and see cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich close up is expected in Moscow early next week, possibly Tuesday. The conference probably will not be held sooner because the cosmonauts want a couple of quiet days with their families in the wake of the big Red Square celebration.

WSU to Offer Courses Here in Education

Wayne State University will offer college of education courses this fall at six off-campus centers — including Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

In Pontiac, the registration date is Sept. 11 at Pontiac Northern High School, 1051 Arlene St., where courses will be taught.

Classes are scheduled to begin at the end of September. Other centers are St. Clair Shores, Redford, Port Huron and Southgate.

Before a student may receive credit in an off-campus course he must have officially been admitted to Wayne State University. Students must present either a copy of the most recent cumulative record or admission's credentials at the time of registration.

★ ★ ★

Graduate students in education may apply not more than 24 quarter hours of off-campus work toward a master's degree. Fully employed teachers are permitted to take not more than six quarter-hours of work while undergraduates can elect no more than eight quarter-hours.

Cash for fees will not be accepted. A check or money order made payable to Wayne State University is required.

NY Student Driver Launches Accidents

NEW YORK (AP)—A car with a student driver at the wheel went out of control in the Times Square area Sunday and set off a chain of accidents. Seven persons were injured. Four vehicles and a store front were damaged.

Police said the car, driven by Morris Loewi, 37, first struck a taxi on 47th Street near Broadway injuring the cab's two women passengers.

★ ★ ★

The auto then mounted the sidewalk, smashed into a store front window, sli d along the pavement for 25 feet, bowled over five pedestrians, rammed into two parked cars and finally ground to a halt against a parked truck.

Name New President of Nazareth College

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Nazareth College, a liberal arts school with an enrollment of 300 girls has a new president.

Sister Mary Verona was named Saturday to succeed Sister Marie Kathleen, whose failing health forced her retirement. Sister Verona has been supervisor of Detroit high schools operated by the Sisters of St. Joseph.

'Miss America' Wants Vanderbilt University

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The reigning Miss America, Maria Fletcher of Asheville, N.C., has applied for admission to Vanderbilt University.

Registrar William O. Batts confirmed Sunday that her application is being considered. Only about one out of seven women applicants enter Vanderbilt under the private school's limited enrollment.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results — here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids — without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

Charges 'Clique' in Avondale

School Board States Case

A charge of attempting to be a "behind the scenes" governing clique has been leveled at the Avondale School District Improvement Association by the four board of education members the association seeks to oust.

A statement issued by the four also referred to a "deal" between the group and LeRoy R. Watt, who resigned two weeks ago as school superintendent to accept a similar position in Wooster, Ohio.

The four — Floyd L. Cobb Jr., school board president; David W. Hackett, vice president; Raymond N. Baker, secretary; and Mrs. Genevieve Porter, treasurer — added that the Avondale Board of Education is concerned with the education and welfare of the district's school children.

The Improvement Association was formed after Watt's resignation and began action to bring a recall vote on the four board members. Members of the group plan to begin circulation of petitions later this week, with an Oct. 10 target date for filing them with the board.

The members of the group, many of whom live in Bloomfield Township's Chapel Hills subdivision that once sought to leave the Avondale School District, have charged Watt was forced to resign by the board.

WARNED BY RESIGNATION

In a public statement today, Watt said he had told the board when he was appointed three years ago that he would resign if a conflict arose between him and board members because "the job of education was too big and important for the superintendent and the board to 'fight' with one another."

Watt said the board did not request his resignation.

"In my opinion," Watt continued my philosophy and methods of obtaining a quality educational program were in conflict with those of the majority of the board.

"These methods did, however, coincide with the community which was evidenced by the overwhelming support of the recent bond and millage issues.

"In anticipation of such an impasse and with the offer of a position of greater responsibility and opportunity, I asked to be permitted to resign."

THREE DAYS LATER

The school board appointed George E. Shackelford, former principal of Elmwood Elementary School, to the superintendent's post three days after Watt resigned.

Complete text of the statement by the four board members under attack is as follows:

★ ★ ★

"The basic question is whether the Avondale School District is governed by the legal authority, the elected Board of Education, or whether a self-appointed school board, the Avondale School District Improvement Association, be the actual "behind the scenes" governing clique.

" Apparently this group had a 'deal' with the former superintendent. A legally constituted board of education makes no private deals.

"Avondale citizens have always supported good schools. This board of education is concerned with the education and welfare of all the children in the Avondale School District.

"We shall continue to serve the citizens of this community in the best interests of the boys and girls attending our schools."

The Improvement Association has charged that the presence of the four members on the school board is not conducive to administration of quality education, that they have been influenced more by teachers and administrators than by the wishes of voters, and that they have refused to give a reason why Watt's contract was not renewed.

A board of education meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. today at Avondale High School.

BLUE AND GREY SHOOT — Members of the North-South Skirmish Association fire their muzzle-loading rifles in individual matches at the Blue and Grey Shoot held Saturday and Sunday in Davisburg. The second annual event drew over 150 civil war enthusiasts to participate in the two-day shoot sponsored by The Davisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Old, New Will Be Featured at 90th Annual Armada Fair

ARMADA — A dash of the old and a twist of the new will be among the attractions of the 90th annual Armada Fair that opens here at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

★ ★ ★

The old is a display of antiques and the new is really a twist — a contest of the nation's latest dancing craze by the same name, scheduled for Saturday night.

Both will be new features at the fair, along with participation of boy scout and girl scout groups, according to the fair's secretary-manager, Ervin Klusendorf.

Sponsored by the Armada Agricultural Society, the annual event will last through Sunday at the 19-acre fairgrounds at the village limits.

Entries in hundreds of categories will compete for more than $10,000 in premiums and prizes.

Fair visitors will be treated to a number of free attractions in addition to several hundred displays, exhibits and demonstrations.

Among the attractions will be professional wrestling, variety shows, baseball games, band concerts, drill teams and circus acts. Livestock judging, horse and tractor pulling contests and dancing also are expected to be among the most popular activities.

★ ★ ★

A large variety of home economics displays is anticipated, including canning, dressmaking, child care and family living themes.

Farm implement displays will be some of the largest in the state, according to Klusendorf, who says the Armada Fair is "one of the few such events that continue to promote agriculture."

Bernard Kalahar, chairman of the Macomb County Board of Supervisors, will crown the fair's king and queen following opening ceremonies Wednesday.

ALSO 4-H RULERS

Also the county's 4-H king and queen, they are Mary Babel of Richmond and Tom Jackman, of Ray Township, both 15.

A 4-H horse show and a variety show are also slated for Wednesday evening.

Judging of all exhibits will take place Thursday, which also will feature 4-H dairy and beef cattle, open class horse entries, a tractor pulling contest and a horse pulling contest.

Open class cattle judging of state-wide entries is scheduled for Friday.

Another tractor pulling contest, a Little Laegue baseball game and professional wrestling also will be among Friday's activities.

Saturday will feature the Macomb County Holstein Black and White Show judging among Holstein breeders, a tractor haul, Little League baseball, an Armada High School band concert, the twist contest and dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The Livestock Grand Parade is set for Sunday, which also will feature two performances by the Port Clinton, Ohio, drum majorettes and their 90-girl drill team, a tractor haul, a band concert and small circus acts.

Find Missing Pilot's Log Floating on Saginaw Bay

SAGINAW (AP) — The log of a Michigan airplane missing since Thursday was found in a briefcase floating on Saginaw Bay yesterday but officials had to call off an air search because of muddy waters.

★ ★ ★

No trace has been found of Albert Copeland, 44, of Capac and Lawrence Bade, 50, of St. Clair who were last seen in Lapeer Thursday when they stopped to refuel on a flight to South Branch.

Civil Air Patrol officials said search planes were unable to see below the surface of the bay yesterday. State police and Coast Guard boats were expected to resume the search today.

A fisherman found the briefcase floating near the mouth of the Saginaw River.

★ ★ ★

Officials said there was a thick haze over the bay about the time the plane would have been in the area. It had no navigational instruments.

Copeland was en route to pick up his wife Margaret who had been visiting her parents at South Branch.

The CAP said he had not filed a flight plan and the plane's failure to arrive was not reported until late Friday.

Examination Asked on Liquor Charges

NOVI TOWNSHIP — Richard Wagner, owner of Wagner's Auction Barn, demanded examination Saturday on charges of selling liquor without a license, on arraignment before Township Justice of the Peace Robert K. Anderson.

Wagner, of 42400 Grand River Ave., was released on $500 bond with examination set for Sept. 6.

State police from the Redford and Brighton posts along with Novi police obtained a warrant for Wagner's arrest Friday. The officers said they had a witness who bought moonshine liquor from Wagner.

On display at the Michigan State Fair this year will be a wild boar, captured in the Everglades of Florida.

Honeymoon in North

Newlyweds Return

MAYFIELD TOWNSHIP — Back from their honeymoon trip to Northern Michigan are newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ray Lee who exchanged their vows in the First Presbyterian Church, Lapeer, Rev. Clifford Haskins read the candlelight service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh C. Newton, 1287 Bowers Road, and the Robert E. Lees, 750 Glaspie Road, Oxford Township.

MRS. ROBERT R. LEE

For her wedding the former Sue Ellen Newton chose a princess-style gown of silk organza and embroidered Alencon lace featuring a bouffant skirt that ended in a chapel train.

A pearl-encrusted crown held her fingertip veil, and she carried a cascade of Stephanotis, ivy and white rosettes.

★ ★ ★

Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. James Walker of Durand. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Mauk, Jacqueline Lee, sister of the bridegroom, and Kathleen Burgess of Detroit.

Dwight Spiker of Oxford assisted as best man. Seating the guests were Robert Woolcox, Duane Wildey, Dale Spiker of Oxford and Ward Newton, cousin of the bride.

The reception was held in the American Legion Memorial Building, Lapeer, after the nuptials. The newlyweds now are residing on Monroe Street in Lapeer.

School District Votes 4th Time

Lyon Twp. Deciding on Operating Revenue, Athletic Program

SOUTH LYON — For the fourth time in as many months, Lyon Township School District voters go to the polls today to decide on renewal of a special operating tax.

★ ★ ★

The proposal asks for five mills for one year.

Stakes on whether voters repeat three previous "no" decisions, or change their minds this time, are $105,000 in revenue, the district's athletic program and the use of its newest school.

School board members voted to close the Sayre School and abandon the athletic program after the last defeat.

★ ★ ★

They will be faced with trimming another $35,000 from the 1962-63 budget if the millage proposal fails again, and if another election next week on authority to transfer $105,000 in building funds to the operating account also is defeated.

★ ★ ★

The board of education ordered the fourth vote on the millage issue after receiving a petition signed by more than 400 residents requesting the vote. It had said it would not place the issue on the ballot again unless it received such a petition.

THREE TIMES

Voters turned down a 6.5-mill renewal request in May and again in June.

They followed that with a July 16 defeat of two proposals, one of five mills and one for four.

Without the renewal of the expiring special operating millage, the board would be forced to operate on only the 8.37 mills allocated by the county.

★ ★ ★

No increase over last year's tax would result from approval of the millage renewal, according to school officials.

Announcement is made of the marriage Saturday of Paula Mae Lucero, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Romy D. Lucero, 3397 Donley St., Avon Township, and Albert Padar Jr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Padar Sr. of Orlando, Fla.

Youth Drowns in Gravel Pit

Armada Township Boy Fails in Attempt to Swim Across Point

ARMADA TOWNSHIP — A 16-year-old Armada Township youth drowned in an attempt to swim across the point of a privately owned gravel pit here Saturday afternoon.

The victim was Kenneth R. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, 17020 E. 32 Mile Road.

According to Romeo State Police, Smith was swimming in Steiner's Gravel Pit with three friends, James Adams, 15, and Bill Durnoia, 17, both of Armada, and Kenneth J. Machus, 16, of Southgate.

Adams and Durnoia had swum across a 200-foot point with Machus and then Smith behind them. About midway across Smith screamed for help.

FORCED TO LET GO

Machus got ahold of him but was forced to let go when he was pulled under. He broke free and was unable to reach Smith again, police said.

The body was recovered about 100 feet from shore in about 20 feet of water by Romeo and Armada firemen.

Service will be 2 p.m. tomorrow at Roth's Home for Funerals with burial to follow in Bruce-Armada Cemetery.

Surviving besides his parents are a sister, Darlene, at home; three brothers, Rector T. Harless and Nathan and William Smith, both at home; and his grandmother, Mrs. Sally Dyer of Knoxville, Tenn.

Cavanagh Refuses to Debate Over Tax

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh wants no part of debating Berkley Mayor George Kuhn, chairman of the Mayors Vigilance Tax Committee, because, as Cavanagh put it, Kuhn is "misinformed about Detroit's 1 per cent income tax."

Kuhn tried to force Cavanagh's hand when he claimed Detroit's deficit was only $6.3 million in June but Cavanagh retaliated, saying that despite the fact that the city's actual cash shortage as of June 30 was also $6.3 million, Detroit's obligations for pensions, welfare and other responsibilities pushed the total over $30 million.

Cavanagh turned down Kuhn's invitation to debate Detroit's fiscal posture. He said, "I am not participating in Mayor Kuhn's promotion of misunderstanding and misinformation about the Detroit income tax."

Kuhn siad he was not "surprised" at Cavanagh's rejection. "I'm still fighting for equal time on Detroit television stations to answer Cavanagh," Kuhn said. Cavanagh addressed a local television audience last week and put the city's deficit at $30 million.

Kuhn accused the young Detroit chief executive of "confusing the public" with his figures and causing unrest and concern about his program.

The Berkley official lost his first round with Cavanagh last month when the Wayne County Circuit Court declared the Motor City's 1 per-cent tax was valid on paychecks of residents and nonresidents alike who work in Detroit.

Area Motorcyclist Rams Into Car, Dies

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — A 24-year-old Washington motorcyclist was killed last night when he rammed into the side of a car making a left turn from 24-mile Road onto Van Dyke Road shortly before 9 p.m.

Dead is Larry C. Kleinow, 58881 Van Dyke Road.

Driver of the car was Harry A. Antonuk, 67, of Detroit who told Shelby Township police that he had stopped before moving out onto Van Dyke Road. He said he started his turn after one car went by and he saw nothing else on the road.

Police Chief Robert Smith said today that Antonuk was issued a ticket for failure to yield right of way. The Detroit man was to make a formal statement today, Smith added.

Sharon Wolfe and Marshall Rice Exchange Vows in Evening Rite

Sharon Yvonne Wolfe and Marshall D. Rice spoke wedding vows before Dr. Emil Kontz, Saturday evening in the Bethany Baptist Church.

★ ★ ★

Wilbur S. Snyder of West Jefferson, Ohio, gave his niece in marriage. She is the daughter of Mrs. Martin C. Wolfe of Linden Road and the late Mr. Wolfe.

Her bouffant gown of white Chantilly lace was floor-length and worn with a silk illusion veil and princess crown. She carried sweetheart roses, white carnations and popcorn chrysanthemums.

ATTENDED BRIDE

Marvel Wolfe, her sister's maid of honor, and their cousin Mrs. Vonda L. Thompson, Madison Heights; Doris J. Bohland, Lansing, and Frances J. Reese, bridesmaids, wore emerald crystalette and carried variegated green carnations.

★ ★ ★

Attending their brother were best man Philip A. Rice and Warren Rice Jr. of Jackson and Charles W. Rice, Elyria, Ohio, who ushered. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. F. Warren Rice of Florence Avenue. James O. Shaw of Ann Arbor completed the usher list.

Wed Saturday in Bethany Baptist Church were Sharon Yvonne Wolfe, daughter of Mrs. Martin C. Wolfe of Linden Road and the late Mr. Wolfe, to Marshall D. Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Warren Rice of Florence Avenue

MRS. MARSHALL D. RICE

Coleen Nichols, Madison Heights, and Debra Rice, Jackson, were flower girls. Charles D. Rice of Elyria carried the rings.

TO RESIDE HERE

Receiving some 300 guests in the church parlors, Mrs. Wolfe wore mint green silk organza and Mrs. Rice appeared in champagne beige silk organza. Both wore pink carnations.

The couple will live in Pontiac after a honeymoon in the Catskills. The bride graduated from Ferris Institute and Mr. Rice attended the Society of Arts and Crafts, Detroit and Highland Park Junior College.

Jay Hilborn of Flushing, N.Y., a member of the Metropolitan Opera Chorus, sang at his niece's wedding and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Sherman Hilborn of Marlette was a guest.

Ask First to Change Any Gift

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: I was married recently and received a lamp for a wedding present from a friend of mine. It was entirely out of keeping with the rest of my furnishings, so I took it back to the store and exchanged it for another one.

When this friend came to see me the other evening she asked about the lamp and I told her what I had done and said I hoped she didn't mind. She said she didn't but I could tell she was hurt.

I always thought it was the bride's privilege to exchange some of her wedding presents. Will you please tell me if I was wrong to have exchanged this friend's present and should I have asked her permission before doing so?

A: A bride may exchange a present that is the duplicate of another she receives but if she exchanges any other she will always risk hurting the feelings of the person who picked it out, unless told by that person that she may do so.

Q: My husband's brother, who is a pastor, soon will be observing the 25th anniversary of his ordination into the ministry.

A large dinner is being given by his parishioners in his honor and my husband and I have been invited to it. Is it necessary for us to take a gift, and if so what would you suggest?

A: Bringing a gift will not be necessary, but if your husband knows of something his brother would like, he will surely appreciate your giving it to him earlier in the day as a family remembrance.

Or you might, if you wish to do so, give him a check for the poor in his parish.

Winter vows are planned by Susan O. Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Lawrence of South Tilden Avenue to Ronald B. Hainer, son of the Stanley Hainers of Orchard Lake.

Repeat Vows

A garden reception at The New Hampshire House, Convent, N.J., followed the nuptials of Gail Woolis Newton to Frederick L. Roeser in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Morris Plains, N.J. Rev. Roy J. Hendricks performed the afternoon ceremony.

The Grant W. Newtons of Morris Plains are parents of the bride, who chose white silk organza for her wedding. Chantilly lace accented the neckline and full skirt, styled with chapel train. A pearl crown held her silk illusion veil. She carried white roses, Stephanotis and ivy.

Wearing green linen sheath dresses with overskirts were maid of honor Marcia Mack of New York City who carried yellow daisies, and bridesmaids Mrs. Frank Geissler, Morristown, N.J., and Mrs. Paul Terreri, Mendham, N.J., whose bouquets included white daisies. Nancy Tyler of Barre, Vt., was her cousin's flower girl.

Douglas Roeser was his brother's best man. They are the sons of Dr. and Mrs. Waldomar O. Roeser of Neome Drive. Seating guests were William K. Niemann of Des Moines, Iowa; James Spolyar, Detroit and William T. Herndon, Darien, Conn.

Leaving for their Cape Cod honeymoon the bride was wearing a gold Italian silk suit and black patent accessories. Both are graduates of the University of Michigan where Mr. Roeser is presently attending dental school.

White orchids complemented a shell pink organza sheath for Mrs. Newton. The mother of the bridegroom appeared in beige lace over rose. Her orchids were pink.

Don't Let Hairs Mar Beauty!

Few grooming omissions defeat a high fashion appearance more easily than allowing hairs to mar your facial beauty.

However, according to a noted beauty authority be sure you know how to remove them so only beauty results.

Fuzz from your upper lip should be removed with a depilatory made for this purpose, by electrolysis, or by merely bleaching them to non-apparency.

Tweeze out the stray hairs from around your eyebrows and from your chin, being sure to apply astringent before and after to cleanse and normalize the pores.

Never remove hairs from a mole without first consulting your doctor. Hairs inside the nose should be clipped short enough so they won't be seen. Don't ever try to remove them with tweezers.

As a beauty reminder, removal of facial hairs should be done before you retire so the skin will have time to recover from the process.

Eyes Tired — Looking? Take Make-Up Tips

How many times have you been hesitant about keeping an evening date because your eyes looked too tired after a busy day? No need to worry, since you can easily regain a fresh, wide-eyed look by following these make-up tips.

Before applying your make-up, place cotton pads, dampened with cool water and a few drops of skin freshener, on your closed eyelids and relax for a few minutes. Next, cover-up any dark circles under your eyes with erase stick. To conceal the red-rimmed look and to make your eyes appear wide awake, line your upper eyelids with black or brown fluid eyeliner and define the bottom lids with pencil. Make the whites of your eyes seem clearer by using blue or green eyeshadow. To offset the sad look that tired eyes so often have, arch your eyebrows slightly higher than you normally would with artistic, hairlike strokes from a fineline eyebrow pencil. Complete your eye make-up by applying mascara generously to your eyelashes.

Bright Colors

(UPI) — Bright colors spark fall outerwear for the young set. Sample: brilliant orange duck all-weather coat. The double breasted coat, buttoned in wood, is tailored at the bodice with welt seaming which falls into inverted pleats.

Virginia Kathryn Dowling, daughter of the Franklin J. Dowlings, Bloomfield Hills, and James W. Schultz, son of the Lester R. Schultzes of Bay City, were wed Saturday at Kirk-in-the-Hills.

MRS. JAMES W. SCHULTZ

Birmingham Girl Is Wed in East; Couple Will Live in Pennsylvania

Virginia Hills Penrose married Thomas D. Wright, son of the Russell O. Wrights of Fombell, Pa., Saturday afternoon in Siasconset, Mass. The ceremony in St. Paul's Catholic Church was performed by Rev. Bradford Johnson, assisted by Rev. J. Moulton Thomas of Hartford, Conn.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement A. Penrose Jr., of Birmingham and Siasconset, the bride's gown of crystal white peau de soie with baroque braid buttons had a bell-contoured skirt and court train.

She wore an heirloom Brussels lace cap, with veil, and carried white miniature carnations, Stephanotis and ivy.

★ ★ ★

Barbara Ellen Latham of Birmingham was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Diana Muldaur, New York City; Ellen Munson, Cambridge, Mass.; and the bridegroom's sister Nancy of Fombell, Pa., and Julia Hodges of Detroit.

★ ★

Bouquets of variegated pink Elegance carnations complemented their pink silk shantung dresses, with tulip overskirts.

The bride's mother wore ice-blue linen with Chantilly lace inserts. Mrs Wright's pink linen sheath dress was embroidered with chiffon and white petal applique.

★ ★ ★

John Martin of Washington, D. C., was best man. Ushers were F. L. Patton Gilmour, Philadelphia; Lee E. Hall, Rockville, Md.; Peter Monroe, Grosse Pointe; the bride's brother Clement A. Penrose III of Birmingham; Ernest J. Stefanon of Herminie, Pa.; John F. Ter Linden, Zelelnople, Pa., and the bridegroom's cousin, Warren G. Wright of Fombell, Pa.

★ ★ ★

The bride, a graduate of St. Margaret's School, Waterbury Conn., and Bennett College, Millbrook, N.Y., is a member of the Junior League of Birmingham.

Mr. Wright graduated cum laude from both Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa. and Harvard law school.

After a honeymoon in Europe the couple will live in Pittsburgh.

Virginia Hills Penrose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement A. Penrose Jr. of Birmingham and Siasconset, Mass., was wed to Thomas D. Wright, son of the Russell O. Wrights of Fombell, Pa. Saturday in St. Paul's Church, Siasconset, Mass.

MRS. THOMAS D. WRIGHT

Schultz-Dowling Rite

Wed in Kirk-in-Hills

A mantilla of Belgian lace and gown of white silk peau de soie were chosen by Virginia Kathryn Dowling for her vows to James W. Schultz of Bay City, Saturday, at Kirk-in-the Hills.

Her princess-line gown featured a scoop neckline and a wide Obi bow extending over the draped bell shaped skirt, styled with cathedral train. White roses comprised the bridal cascade.

The Franklin J. Dowlings of Bloomfield Hills were hosts at their daughter's reception in the Village Woman's Club, Bloomfield Hills, following the candlelight evening ceremony performed by Dr. Harold C. DeWindt.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Paul M. Bando of Bloomfield Hills was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Nita Louise Jurras of Dunkirk, N.Y.; also the bridegroom's sisters Janet and Susan Schultz of Bay City. They wore white pique dresses and daisy wreaths.

★ ★ ★

Duane R. Schultz of Ann Arbor stood as best man for his brother. They are the sons of the Lester R. Schultzes of Bay City. Ushers were Edward H. Ross Jr., Bellwood, Ill.; Donald H. Kendeigh, Bloomfield Hills and Richard Sligh of East Jordan.

★ ★ ★

Leaving for the eastern states and Washington, D. C., where the couple will live, the bride was wearing a Dior pink silk suit.

Mrs. Dowling appeared in avocado chiffon with accents of re-embroidered Alencon lace and the mother of the bridegroom wore peacock blue satin.

Build His Ego, Abby Says

He Must Feel Unloved

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband does not drink, but every time we go out in public no one will believe he is sober from the way he acts.

Last Saturday night we went to a night club with friends. My husband weighs 220 and is only 5 ft. 7. He spotted the daughter of a friend of ours at another table, so he went over and asked her to teach him how to Twist.

ABBY

The manager came out on the floor and told them to please sit down as they were creating a disturbance. (You should have seen them!)

Then he went up to the girl who sings with the band, handed her a ballpoint pen and asked her to autograph his chest! He unbuttoned his shirt and she did. Everyone laughed but I didn't see anything funny about it.

He's always doing things like that. When I complain, he says I have no sense of humor. Is he right or am I?

WORSE HALF

DEAR WORSE: Your husband must feel unloved and unappreciated at home or he wouldn't try so hard for laughs and applause from the general public. Build his ego a little and lessen his need to show off for strangers.

DEAR ABBY: How old do you have to be before you can go to the movies with a boy if your mother says yes but your father won't let you?

ALMOST 12

DEAR ALMOST: You have to be whatever age you reach when your mother and father say yes.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My family is very "profession - conscious." They don't care what a man is like as long as he's a doctor. I started dating an intern who turned out to be a Jekyll and Hyde type. In the company of others he is perfection itself, but when we are alone he is aggressive and brutish.

My parents refuse to believe anything bad about him. My brother interns with this fellow and says I am childish and old-maidish about his friend's advances to me. (This is a loving brother?) I am 23 and don't want to be shopworn before I marry.

When I told my family why I wasn't going out with this animal again, my father laughed and said, 'He is only a man," and my mother said it is time I was married. Am I wrong?

SAVING MYSELF

DEAR SAVING: Keep saving yourself. You will find dishonorable men in honorable professions. Select a man for what he IS, not what he does.

Epilepsy — Scleroderma

Q. This question is being submitted after I read your column on epilepsy. A relative of mine has spells in which he has to stop and be very still for a few minutes. He breathes fast and gets pale but does not froth at the mouth or jerk. After a few minutes he gets over it. If this is epilepsy, what drugs should he take?

A. This is more or less typical of petit mal epilepsy. Don't encourage your relative to try do-it-yourself diagnosis and treatment but urge him to see a physician. The doctor should be given a complete and accurate description of just what occurs during the attacks. There are several very effective drugs for this type of epilepsy, but let the doctor decide which to use.

Scleroderma

Q. I have an incurable skin disease called scleroderma. My right arm is affected. How long will it be before my arm becomes useless?

A. It would be impossible to say, because scleroderma goes through periods of activity and let-up. In some cases the affected area will tend to clear up, while at the same time a new area may become involved. Scleroderma can appear suddenly and progress rapidly. More often, however, the onset is slow, the process requiring years for full development. (For the benefit of other readers, scleroderma is "hardening" of the skin and underlying tissue, including muscle.)

Girl Scout Reports From Encampment

(Editor's Note — Lynne Springer is The Pontiac Press' special correspondent at the Girl Scout encampment at Camp White Deer in Wisconsin. This is the first of her series.)

By LYNNE SPRINGER

Camp White Deer (320 acres) is located about 22 miles directly east of the Eagle River in Wisconsin.

It is bordered on the west by 12,000 - acre Butternut Lake and on the east by 60-acre White Deer Lake, a spring-fed lake with white sandy shores and uniform water temperature.

"LYNNE"

Part of the encampment offers wonderful opportunities for short hikes and over-night pack trips. The site has a large variety of trees in all stages of growth and a variety of wildlife.

FIRST WEEK

The first week of camp life centered around activities in patrol living. A special feature of the encampment program is that patrols have the opportunities to "exchange" friends at meals. A guest speaker from Egypt may possibly speak to our patrol.

Last Monday we had the opening of the camp flag ceremony. On Thursday and Friday we had the first encampment campfire and introductions of the staff.

These two days were also reserved for demonstrations which were very interesting and educational.

Last Saturday we had a progressive troop dinner. Each patrol prepared a different part of the meal. It turned out very well because we all enjoyed the food and had our share of it.

Many of the girls had different varities of swaps (articles representative of their home regions). Some of the girls are very clever and full of good ideas.

Bermuda Coat

(UPI) — The knee kamper, also called the Bermuda coat, falls straight line from shoulder to knee and is tailored with large carry-all pockets and welt seaming. The coat, teamed with Bermudas or shirt dresses in calico prints, will debut on college campuses this fall. It comes in suede cloth and wide-wale corduroy. The colors: loden, vicuna and royal blue.

The average American foot size has increased by one and a half sizes since the beginning of the century.

Family 'Vote' Example

'Employer Papa Symbol'

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-401: Dr. Max and his wife has seven children in grammar and high school.

"But we have a problem about the TV curfew hour," he said, with a rueful grin.

"Our youngsters want to sit up far beyond the time we think is proper, especially on school nights.

DR. CRANE

"So my wife and I had a showdown last night. But our children said in a democracy the rule of the majority should prevail so they demanded we all vote on the issue.

"Well, our oldest girl voted with us, but the final tally was 6 to 3 in favor of later TV curfew hours.

"Dr. Crane, what do you say to this matter of using a majority vote to determine justice?"

REPUBLIC vs. DEMOCRACY

In a democracy, whether of the true or representative sort, the mere majority vote determines justice.

But that is wrong!

Christ was thus crucified in a perfect democracy because the crowd voted 100 per cent to send Him to the cross and release the murderer, Barabbas.

So our Founding Fathers made this a Republic — not a democracy?

For in our Republic we don't let even a 100 per cent vote of Congress determine justice. No, indeed! We have a previous written document called the Constitution that defines or rights.

★ ★ ★

And the nine faithful watchdogs, called Supreme Court justices, can nullify any bill passed by both houses of Congress!

In a democracy, the majority rules — but the minority then can be pillaged, looted or slain, for it has no further rights.

So a democracy is based on the jungle rule that "might makes right."

In our Republic, however, we operate according to the Golden Rule, so we grant equal rights to minorities, whether they be Irish or Jew, Catholic or Protestant.

Alas, however, employers still function much like "Papa" before the millions of workers.

Even though employes are adults in age and are voting citizens, most of them still react like overgrown children, so they often oppose the better judgment of "Papa," who is the boss or employer or "management."

By mere mass voting majority, they think they can produce justice in labor disputes, just as Dr. Max's children claimed their 6 to 3 vote proved it right and just for them to sit up and watch TV an hour longer.

'GROW UP'

Our big problem in America is how to persuade the adult "children" to study the real facts and then side with "Papa," like that one older daughter of Dr. Max.

The average citizen is so naive about business and finance that he seems to think Uncle Sam can just print money in unlimited amounts to furnish more welfare and ever increasing fringe benefits.

Unless we can educate our youth — and 8 million new potential voters will be of age in 1964 who were too young to vote in 1960 — we are soon going to see a fascist dictator in America!

Then the adult "children" will be disfranchised and ordered to work as Hitler ruled Germany just 20 years ago.

To prevent that tragedy, send for my booklet "How to Save Our Republic," enclosing a stamped, return envelope plus 20 cents and pass it around quickly!

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Secret Agent'

(UPI) — "We're all going to look like secret agents this fall," said New York milliner Sally Victor as she opened her fall collection. Many hats in her collection had the "secret agent" look to go with the same Mata Hari influence in other fall ready to wear. There were bowlers, visored caps, and small forward-setting hats with heavy veiling to wrap the face completely.

Pork Steak Casserole Goes Together Quickly

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Sometimes our favorite recipes don't have a name. We used to have a rich pudding when we were young that was called simply "Our" pudding. Today's recipe had no title when Mrs. Robert Wright gave it to us. She says it is good for those occasions when you have to furnish a hot dish.

Mrs. Wright is interested in design and decorating. She likes to sew. The Waterford Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary counts her among its members.

PORK 'N' NOODLES
By Mrs. Robert Wright

1½ pounds pork steak
8 oz. wide noodles
1 can condensed chicken rice soup
1 can cream style corn

Cook noodles in salted boiling water. Drain. Cut meat into small cubes and brown thoroughly. In a casserole put alternate layers of meat, noodles and corn. Season to taste. Pour soup over top and sprinkle with cracker crumbs. Bake one hour at 375 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Electronic Brain 'Unkind' in Psychoanalysis of Scribe

By BOB CONSIDINE

ROCHESTER, Minn. — Sell your stock in the company that makes couches for psychologists, psychoanalysts and psychiatrists. The Age of the Computer has caught up with those dodges. The President may soon have to consider a retraining program for the disciples of Freud and fellow tinkerers with the human mind.

Watched IBM take care of the whole matter here at the Mayo Clinic the other day. One of IBM's workhorse electronic brains, Model 1620, has been harnessed to a 25-year-old psychologic test devised at the University of Minnesota by Dr. Starke Hathaway, Ph.D., and the late great psychiatrist J. Charnley McKinley.

In one minute the machine, having digested certain punched cards, can render a verdict on a person who has answered the "Minnesota test" and whose "case" might have puzzled trained psychologists for hours or even days before automation took hold.

Embarrassingly enough, Model 1620 ruled that I am "probably somewhat eccentric." I have retained Edward Bennett Williams as counsel but his operatives have not been able to find a way to serve the papers. Model 1620 has no hands or pockets.

At Mayo's, all those patients and visitors who care to answer the 550 questions posed by the test may do so. The machine's verdicts, of course, are not regarded as infallible by the nearly 1,000 doctors and "fellows" in residence at this remarkable Mecca of medicine.

But the reports, on the other hand, may shed interesting light on the nature, spirit, temperament, hopes and misgivings of those concerned — and no bit of information, nor clue nor hint, is overlooked in the treatment of a patient.

The "true" or "false" test strikes one as highly irrelevant in places, though it has weathered a quarter of a century of constant testing. Here are some "true" or "false" items:

"I like to read newspaper articles on crime . . . there seems to be a lump in my throat much of the time . . . once in a while I think of things too bad to talk about . . . I am sure I get a raw deal from life . . . at times I have very much wanted to leave home . . .

"During one period when I was a youngster I engaged in petty thievery . . . my soul sometimes leaves my body . . . everything is turning out just like the prophets of the Bible said it would . . . I do not read every editorial in the newspaper every day . . .

"I used to like drop-the-handkerchief . . . I sometimes tease animals . . . I think most people would lie to get ahead . . . my table manners are not quite as good at home as when I am out in company . . . often I can't understand why I have been so cross and grouchy . . . if I could get into a movie without paying and be sure I was not seen, I would probably do it . . ."

THE BITTER 'TRUTH'

"True" or "false" is indicated by a pencil marking. The cards are then fed into a machine which discerns the location of pencil marks and punches a hole at that spot.

A second machine duplicates these holes on other cards and, apparently, at the same time jogs all the memory pools within the ultimate machine, dastardly old 1620.

Then the astonishing payoff. One's 550 answers are gulped by 1620. It makes a sound not unlike a Park Avenue psychoanalyst clearing his throat and speculating on what he can charge the dowager on the couch for telling her she'd be better off taking in washing.

Then a sheet of paper spills from the top of 1620. It is laden with abbreviations for such disturbances as hypochondriasis (worry over physical condition), psychasthenia (how orderly, disorderly), and hypomania (social or antisocial).

My cards passed the reviewing stand like drooping flags even though I answered "true" to such virile propositions as "in walking I am very careful to step over sidewalk cracks."

I think it was my marking of "true" to "I used to like drop-the-handkerchief" that brought about 1620's decision. Will fight it to the Supreme Court.

Gang's Victims Identify Man Held in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Yonder, brought from an Ann Arbor jail Saturday, was held by Chicago police today after victims of a robbery-torture gang identified him as a member of the gang.

Nick Guido, arrested with the 23-year-old Yonder at Ann Arbor on a traffic violation charge, remained in Ann Arbor. He has demanded a lawyer and is fighting extradition.

Guido, accused of being the gang leader, is scheduled to appear before Judge James R. Breakey Wednesday.

At a line-up in the Cook County state's attorney office Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Botthof of Suburban Winnetka identified Yonder as their torturer and one of the men who robbed them of more than $8,000 in their home May 28.

PEP TALK — Junior tennis players, members of the Pontiac Tennis Club, get a last minute pep talk from Harry Wenzel, director of the tennis program of the city recreation department, prior to their two weekend matches against Sturgis and Kalamazoo netters. The 17-member squad played in the two cities, Friday and Saturday.

Maxwell Clubs Ex-Teammates

CHICAGO (AP) — The Detroit Tigers could have used Charlie (Paw Paw) Maxwell, the man they traded for Bob Farley, in yesterday's doubleheader at Chicago.

★ ★ ★

The White Sox used Maxwell, who usually rode Detroit's bench, and his grand slam home run and two-run double beat Detroit in the opener. The score was 11-5.

Not Farley, but Billy Bruton evened the doubleheader and the four-game series by leading the Tigers to an 8-3 nightcap victory with another grand slammer.

The victory left the Tigers still one game behind a .500 won-lost percentage and still 2½ games behind the fourth-place White Sox.

Charlie's Sunday slam — his 10th home run of the season — came in the sixth inning off loser Sam Jones. Jones already had walked in a run that broke a 4-4 tie. Another walk and singles by Sherm Lollar and Joe Cunningham loaded the bases with two outs.

BIG DOUBLE

Maxwell came up with the bases loaded again in the eighth and doubled off Paul Foytack, driving in two more runs and making the score 11-4.

Detroit's final run was scored by Farley, who finally made an appearance pinchhitting for Foytack and singled to right. Singles by Bruton and Al Kaline brought him around.

The Sox chased starter Phil Regan with three runs in the third inning, but homers by Rocky Colavito, Steve Boros and Dick McAuliffe put the Tigers back in the game briefly.

★ ★ ★

Camilo Carreon's single and Luis Aparicio's triple gave the Sox a 1-0 second-game lead in the third inning. But Kaline opened the Tigers' fourth with a line double toward center which nicked starter Juan Pizarro's pitching hand and knocked him out of the game.

★ ★ ★

Don Zanni replaced Pizarro and Colavito smashed his first pitch for his 28th homer and second of the day. Zanni gave up two walks. Verle Tiefenthaler came in with a 2-0 count on McAuliffe walked him and then got two out before giving up another walk, forcing in a run.

That's when Bruton made it a seven-run inning by belting his 11th homer into the right field seats. Kaline came up again and singled but was stranded when Colavito grounded out.

Chicago knocked second-game starter Howie Koplitz out in the fifth with a double and a single. Hank Aguirre came in and both baserunners scored — on a single and a sacrifice fly — but the runs were charged to Koplitz.

Aguirre gave up only one more hit in his five-inning stint, lowered his league-leading earned run average to 2.25 and picked up his 11th victory against five defeats. Zanni was given the loss and now is 6-5.

Billy Bruton, Hank Aguirre and Al Kaline will be honored by the Detroit round table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews on baseball brotherhood night Tuesday at Tiger Stadium. Ceremonies will precede the Tigers' game with Cleveland.

★ ★ ★

Bill Johnson struck out 16 and allowed only one hit as Des Moines, Iowa, blanked Kalamazoo 6-0 Saturday in consolation play of the north regional Little League championships.

HAPPY WINNER — Carmen Salvino, 28-year-old Chicago bowling professional, took first place in the $23,000 Pontiac PBA Open which ended yesterday at the 300 Bowl. Besides his $3,000 first place check he received this mammoth trophy presented by Joe Puertas (left) and PBA tournament director Harry Golden (center).

Chicago Star Earns $3,000 at 300 Bowl

Loses Only 2 of 16 in Match Play Action; Detroiters 2nd and 3rd

Carmen Salvino of Chicago, who came here with little fanfare as a Professional Bowlers Association contestant, burned up the 300 Bowl lanes Saturday and Sunday to come on strong from a slow start and win the $3,000 1st prize in the $23,000 Pontiac Open.

He won 14 of 16 championship matches in yesterday's rugged afternoon-night battle involving the 16 top qualifiers.

★ ★ ★

Third place finisher Mike Totsky of Detroit and No. 5 man Ray Bluth, St. Louis, were the only others to lead the pack on the last day of the 1st Michigan PGA event. Former Birmingham resident John Nickell of Dayton, Ohio walloped the titlist 269-184 and Johnny King, Chicago, took him by seven pins but otherwise Salvino was head man. His big games were 248 and 247.

ONE OTHER WIN

The steady 28-year-old was not even on the top 25 money-winners going into the tourney. His only previous triumph was in 1961 at Albany.

★ ★ ★

Salvino, who zoomed from 46th place to 3rd Saturday in qualifying, was on the ABC champions in 1954 after gaining the name "The Boy Wonder of Chicago" by teaming with Joe Willman to take the national doubles honors the year before at the age of 19.

Popular Detroiter Billy Golembiewski thrilled the crowd with a strong stretch run to finish 2nd and win $1,500. He put together 247-215-247 in the big move.

Totsky took home $1,200 for his 3rd good showing in four appearances. Bill Pace of Kansas City was 4th for $1,100 and Bluth took $1,050 of the purse.

Joe Joseph of Lansing ranked 6th for $970. Nickell got $625 for 13th, tiny Detroit star George Howard was next for $610 and qualifying cinderellaman Dick Preston, Detroit, 15th for $600.

Preston made history Saturday when he finished 107 pins ahead of Pace to become the 1st amateur ever to top the list. That feat earned him a large trophy. The Farmington Classic ace totaled 5,185 pins and led three of the four rounds. Only five amateurs had ever even made the finals before.

MOORE GETS $285

Two other Michigan men shared in the money awards. Jim Pantazides, another Detroit amateur, ranked 27th for $282.50 after being 3rd going into his final six-game block. Host pro Monroe Moore was next for $285. Monroe had been 9th and 10th early.

Among the other area contestants, Bill Bull, Pontiac, had 4,606, city man Paul George 4,372, Union Lake's Bob Lowry Jr. 4,584, Al Pietz, Pontiac, 4,313, Mike Samardzija, Pontiac star hindered by a thumb blister all weekend, 4,623, Syl Thiel of Royal Oak 4,589, Southfield alternates Bill Spargo and Jim Rutkowski 4,852 and 4,812, respectively and Bob Walter, Lapeer, 4,750.

Also, Bill Hazlett of Grand Rapids, 4,586, Mt. Clemens' Bob Briarton 4,690, Dick Carmichael of Pontiac 4,563, local men Chico Chicovsky and Joe Bonfiglio 4,840 and 4,430 in that order, Joe Morys of Union Lake 4,690, Arley Sheffer, Pontiac, 4,626 and Paul Miller of Pontiac 4,442. A score of 4,958 was needed to make the finals.

Over 1,000 fans atended the finals and some outstanding performances to cheer.

300 proprietor Joe Puertas made the presentation of awards following the heated action.

Lions Give Watkins 'Pat'

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Step out and hear this you doubters. Detroit Lions' coach George Wilson wants it known that Tommy Watkins, criticized strongly after his opening performance against the Browns, has proven himself.

Watkins took all the assignments the Lions could give him Saturday night against the Dallas Cowboys and he received an A on his report card for helping the Lions to a 35-24 victory.

The game was part of the first pro doubleheader ever played before 77,683 fans who came out to boo Milt Plum and to cheer the hometown Browns to a 33-10 triumph over the Layne-less Steelers.

The record breaking pre-season crowd had a few pro-Plum cheers when the ex-Brown was introduced as the starting quarterback but it was predominantly a hostile crowd that was aching to cheer at every Plum mistake.

Plum played the first half and Earl Morrall directed the signals through the last two quarters and although it was Morrall who pulled the game out for the Lions, they managed to play on pretty even terms statistically. Each threw 15 passes and completed seven. Plum had one intercepted, had 95 yards and one TD. Morrall had one stolen, had 141 yards for three touchdowns.

MORRALL BIG FACTOR

Surprisingly, Morrall was as big a factor with his running. He toted the ball three times and picked up 57 yards, one a 25 yard sweep that put the Lions in scoring zone for the TD which put them ahead 28-24.

When the fracas was over, full of exciting play, sloppy play, and rough play it was Watkins who drew the praises of Wilson.

Wilson referred to stories out of Cleveland quoting Paul Brown for scoffing at stories about Watkins' potential stardom with the Lions. "Someone should send Paul a copy of the statistics. He never really gave Watkins a chance so how can he criticize him."

★ ★ ★

Watkins carried the ball 12 times in the first half pick up 74 yards, was used on punt and kick-off returns and established himself for regular duties with the Lions.

CUT EXPECTED

This may be bad news for Dick Compton, Texas rookie who was outstanding in training camp drills. A cut of players is due Tuesday with 9 rookies still on the squad, and this may be down to five.

Plum directed the Lions to their first touchdown after the Cowboys had a 7-0 lead after only seven seconds had gone in the game. Bruce Maher fumbled the opening kickoff on the 24 yard line and Dallas scored quickly with Don Meredith passing to Amos Marsh on the first play for a 24 yard TD.

★ ★ ★

On the ensuing kickoff, Maher brought the ball to the 20, Plum passed to Cogdill for the first down on the 44 and then Watkins broke over right guard for 26 yards. He was hit and the ball squirted out of his arms and Dallas again had possession on its own 37. Three plays and the Lions had two fumbles.

After gaining large chunks of ground and being set back with penalties, the Lions finally started to move. Two big Dallas penalties, one for defensive holding and an interference penalty put the ball on the one. Plum carried himself and it was 7-7.

The game see-sawed. Sam Baker shot Dallas ahead with 25 seconds in the first period with a 48 yard field goal, that just went over the bar.

Wayne Walker missed a 32 yard field goal attempt, but a few minutes later Detroit regained the lead 14-10 when Plum flipped to Ken Webb for a 5-yard TD. Chuck Howley intercepted a Plum pass, lateraled to John Chaisson and Dallas had the ball on the 10, from where Meredith passed to Pettis Norman to go ahead 17-14 at half time.

The prettiest picture play of the day came midway in the third quarter when Morrall passed from midfield to Pat Studstill who took the ball on the 9-yard line over his shoulder and pulled away from defender Cornell Green, the All-America basketball played from Utah State for the TD to make it 21-17.

Cleveland made the Jim Ninowski trade look good again as the ex Lion threw three touchdown passes in the first half, calling his own signals against Pittsburgh.

In two exhibition games he has thrown five touchdown passes as compared with only nine in two years with Detroit.

Railsplitter Takes Honors

Weather Helps Dogs in PKC Outdoor Show

"It didn't rain."

This was one of the most frequent comments heard after the 34th Pontiac Kennel Club bench and obedience show yesterday at Waterford High School.

★ ★ ★

In fact, the weather stayed on the cool side until mid-afternoon. This benefited dogs and handlers alike during the long day of activities on the football field.

Least bothered by the occasional strong gusts of wind was Ch. Cappoguin Railsplinter. The miniature poodle owned by Tilo Stables of Bayshore, Long Island, N.Y., and handled by Robert Forsyth, Chappaqua, N.Y., won The Pontiac Press best in show trophy.

In winning its second best in show award, Railsplitter moved up from a third place in Saturday's non-sporting group in the Flint show.

"This is the best weather we've had for our outdoor show in several years," said PKC president Volney R. Cotton. "The attendance was good, we had to close the main parking lot once because it was filled.

"We had 571 entries, an excellent turnout, and the show stayed right on schedule."

Railsplitter got the nod from Judge Louis J. Murr of Spring Valley, N.Y., over five other group winners.

A springer owned by Mrs. F. F. Gasow of Troy made the best county showing. Ch. Sallilyn's Crown Royal placed second in the sporting group.

A golden retriever, Ch. Mitzie's Son Vickie, owned by Charles Barnes of Pontiac, was fourth in the sporting group.

Medal Honors to Robertson

Dick Robertson, one of the big long ball hitters among area amateurs, fired a 71 over the Municipal course Saturday to take qualifying honors in the men's city medal play golf championship.

Robertson and J. T. Howard finished in a first place tie, but when time came for a playoff, Howard did not appear and thus Robertson took medal honors via default.

A total of 94 players, tying the all-time filed of entries set in 1960, took part in the qualifying, and 34 players will go into the 36-hole finals next Saturday and Sunday.

These qualifiers will be joined by past champions and the low scores of last year's final filed.

The pairings for the finals will be announced later this week.

80-Foot Pitch Shot Wins Golf Meet for Leonard

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Stan Leonard of Vancouver won his fifth British Columbia Open Golf Championship in a sudden death playoff Sunday by sinking an 80-foot pitch shot, on the first extra hole.

★ ★ ★

Leonard's opponent in the playoff, Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash., almost matched the feat on the 417-yard first hole when his 40-foot chip hit the cup and bounced out.

★ ★ ★

Leonard and Funseth were tied at 290 over the regulation 72 holes.

Junior Netters Lose Matches at Kazoo, Sturgis

The youthful junior membership of the Pontiac Tennis Club can chalk up their first big venture to the strong tennis cities of Sturgis and Kalamazoo to experience.

In the weekend matches in these two cities, the local netters were defeated 17-3 in a 20-match affair and 20-5 to Kazoo in 25 schedule matches.

Winners at Sturgis were Tom Hunt, Tim Shireman and Roger Bergo and Shireman in doubles. At Kazoo, Bill Mair, Bruce Bigler, Bergo, took singles and Hunt-Mair and Beggo and Shireman scored in doubles.

A total of 17 junior players made the trip in cars, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wenzel.

Giants Continue Slump

Dodgers Explode in 9th for Victory

By The Associated Press

Speed, power and pitching have kept the Los Angeles Dodgers on top of the National League standings.

★ ★ ★

These three important factors stood out like the Empire State Building Sunday as the Dodgers came from behind with a five-run explosion in the ninth inning to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 5-1 and stretch their first place lead over San Francisco to 3½ games.

The Giants, only a game and a half behind last Thursday, were beaten 13-8 by Milwaukee for their fourth loss in the last five games. St. Louis inflicted the 10th straight loss upon the New York Mets, 10-5 and Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 3-2. The Chicago Cubs shaded Houson 4-3.

JAY ROUTED

Held to five hits through eight innings by Joey Jay, the Dodgers chased the Reds' right-hander in the ninth and continued their assault on southpaw Bill Henry to score five runs on two home runs, two bunt singles, a walk and a sacrifice.

Here is how they did it:

Frank Howard opened with a game-tying home run, his 21st of the season. John Roseboro walked. Don Drysdale sacrificed. Maury Wills beat out a bunt single. Exit Jay, enter Henry. Jim Gilliam beat out a bunt single, scoring Roseboro to put the Dodgers in front 2-1. Willie Davis hit a three-run homer, his 17th of the year, to make it 5-1.

★ ★ ★

Drysdale made short work of the Reds in the ninth to finish with a three-hitter for his 22nd victory and his first complete game in his last 11 starts in Cincinnati. Jay, an 18-game winner, dropped his 10th.

The Dodgers stole three bases giving them 136 for the season, twice as many as the total of their closest pursuer. Wills #c counted for one, his 65th of the season and the most in the National League since Bob Bescher stole 67 for the Reds in 1912. He needs 16 more in the Dodgers remaining 37 games to top Bescher's modern National League record of 80.

19 STRAIGHT

Henry Aaron smashed his 32nd and 33rd home runs in the Braves' triumph over the Giants. The slugging outfielder, in boosting his average to .342, third highest in the league, ran his hitting streak through 19 consecutive games, longest in the majors this season. Willie McCovey had two homers for the Giants, one off Claude Raymond, whose strong relief pitching through the final three innings sealed Tony Cloninger's fifth triumph in seven decisions.

★ ★ ★

Rookie shortstop Dal Maxvill drove in three runs with his first major league home run and Ken Boyer had a double, two singles and two walks in the Cards' third straight victory over the Mets. Relief artist Lindy McDaniel, in his first start, went eight innings for his third triumph in 10 decisions.

Reuben Amaro's run - scoring single in the ninth snapped a 2-2 tie between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, giving the Phils' Chris Short his seventh victory against as many defeats. Elroy Face, in relief, was tagged with the loss, his fourth in 12 decisions.

The Cubs regain eighth place by beating the Colts, behind Bob Anderson's tight relief pitching and hefty hitting by George Altman. Anderson replaced Bob Buhl in the eighth with two runs in, Colts on first and third and one out and slammed the door. Altman collected four of the Cubs' ten hits and batted in two runs.

Curtis Cup Victory Easy

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Wait 'til next time" was the sustance of comment of Britain's Curtis Cup players after suffering the worst beating in the history of the international contest this past weekend. U.S. women defeated the young British team 8-1 in the 2-day competition.

★ ★ ★

Only Mrs. Diane Frearson produced a point for the invaders, who played for the first time west of the Mississippi. She downed Judy Bell of Wichita, Kan., 8 and 7, as she shot a 3-over-par on the 38-37—73 Broadmoor course Saturday.

Mrs. Frearson, at 18 the youngest member of the British team, downed 25-year-old Miss Bell, who was supposed to know every blade of grass in the course here where she is co-owner of a sports shop.

FUTURE PLANS

Mrs. Frances Smith, non-playing captain of the British team, said "we are definitely building for the future with this young team. I know the experience of playing these excellent American golfers will help them tremendously."

The non-playing captain of the American team, Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., said of the visitors that she couldn't "imagine a finer team, either as golfers or girls."

★ ★ ★

Jean Roberts, 19, the English champion, staged a terrifice comeback before losing to Phyllis Pruess of Pompano Beach, Fla., 1 up. At the end of 18 holes Miss Roberts was 1 five down, then evened the match on the 32nd hole before final defeat.

In other matches JoAnne Gunderson, 23, of Kirkland, Wash., defeated Mrs. Angela Bonallack, 25, 2 and 1; Mrs. Ann Quast Decker, 24, Seattle, downed Mrs. Marley Spearman, 35, 5 and 4; Clifford Ann Creed, Alexandria, La. won over Sally Bonallack, 6 and 5, and Barbara Ann McIntire, Colorado Springs, beat Sheila Vaughan, 5 and 4.

Bobby Soxers Pace Swim Event

CHICAGO (AP)—Seldom has the resurgence of athletic youth been so underlined than by the complete stranglehold camp on the National Senior Women's AAU Swimming Championships by a brigade of bobby-soxers.

A pair of 16-year-olds from Los Angeles, Caroyn House and Sharon Finnerna, and 15-year-old Donna DeVarona of Santa Clara, Calif., led the record-busting parade in the 4-day meet which ended Sunday in the Portage Park 50-meter Olympic pool.

This trio, plus a group just as young that either won events or were pressing for first all the time, can make Uncle Sam rub his hands in glee at the women's prospects in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

TWO REMAIN

Five world, five American and two additional meet records were undercut in the splash party. Only two events—the 100 meter backstroke and 100 meter freestyle—did not produce record efforts out of the 14 women races.

Miss House won the freestyle titles at distances of 1500, 400 and 200 meters, repeating as individual high point performer with 26. She bettered the world mark of 19:02.8 in the 1500 with 18:44.; erased the American record of 2:15.5 with 2:14.6 in the 200, and smashed the meet mark of 4:46.9 in the 400 with 4:45.3.

★ ★ ★

Miss Finneran bypassed the listed world standard of 2:32.8 by churning the 200-meter butterfly in 2:31.2, and did the same in upsetting defending champion Miss DeVarona in the 400-meter individual medley. Her time of 5:25.4 dented Donna's world listing of 5:34.5.

★ ★ ★

Miss DeVarona won two titles, repeating in the 300-meter individual medley by blasting her own American mark of 2:35.0 with 2:33.3, and beating defending champion Nina Harmer of Philadelphia in the 100-meter backstroke in 1:10.4. Cracking the American monopoly was an "oldster"—Germany's 20-year-old Wiltrud Urselmann. She won the 100-meter breaststroke in 1:20.6 to better the listed American mark of 1:22.3, and matched the meet record of 2:33.3 in the 200-meter breaststroke.

FOREIGN WINNER

The only other foreign winner was Vancouver's 16-year-old Mary Stewart. She sandbagged the world mark of 1:08.2 in winning the 100-meter butterfly in 1:07.6.

Joining the U.S. "sweet, sixteen" club were Ginnie Duenkel of Summit, N.J., and Robyn Johnson of Arlington, Va. Ginnie surpassed the world mark of 2:33.2 in winning the 200-meter backstroke in 2:32.1, Robyn took her second straight crown in the 100-meter freestyle in 1:02.2.

Australia's Murray Rose dominated the concurrent international men's competition. He bettered the listed world mark of 4:15.9 in the 400-meter freestyle in 4:14.4. He also surpassed the American record of 17:21.8 with a 17:15.7 job in the 1500 freestyle.

★ ★ ★

Another world-better chore was by Gerhard Hetz of Hof, Bavaria. He was timed through the 400-meter individual medley in 4:54.9. The listed world standard is 4:55.6.

Matching world records were 16-year-old Don Schollander of Santa Clara in the 200-meter freestyle with 2:00.4, and Indianapolis' Tom Stock with 2:11.5 in the 200 backstroke.

MICHIGAN OPEN CHAMP — Pete Brown of Detroit holds the large silver tray presented him after he won the Michigan Open golf championship yesterday at Farmington Country Club.

Talkington Blows Lead Third Time

Burkemo, Bone Rallies Fall Short; Barnum Fails to Defend

Pete Brown, throttled in the past by his putter, used it effectively yesterday to edge hard-luck Tom Talkington for the Michigan Open golf crown in a three-hole playoff.

★ ★ ★

Brown, the 1961 National Negro champion, banged a 7-foot uphill putt eight inches from the pin on the par-3 third at Farmington Country Club to win the coveted prize. He took home $750.

For the frustrated Talkington it was just another bitter final round in Michigan Open play. The 35-year-old Washtenaw golfer blew a lead for the third straight year in the final round. He was forced to settle for a bogey four on the final playoff hole.

Poor first and third rounds pushed Pontiac's Gene Bone out of contention.

NOT CONSISTENT

The Warwick Hills pro opened with a 76, then shot a 69, only to stumble back to a 76 on the third round. He closed with a 73 which gave him a 72-hole of 293, five strokes behind the leaders.

Franklin Hills' Wally Burkemo almost overcame a disastrous first round 79. He finished with a pair of 70s and a 71, but trailed Brown and Talkington by two strokes.

Talkington squandered a two-stroke lead in the final 18 holes and ended up with Detroiter Brown at 288 to set the stage for the playoff.

John Barnum, the chunky pro from Grand Rapids Blythefield, held the lead going into yesterday morning's third round. Defending champion Barnum held a one-stroke lead after two rounds but the veteran pro soared to 77 in the morning and 78 in the afternoon to finish tied for 14th with a 296.

★ ★ ★

Talkington was bidding to succeed Barnum, who was gunning for an unprecedented third straight title, when he missed a chance to wrap it up before the third extra hole.

On the second hole, a par five, Talkington rolled the putt from the fringe three inches from the pin before it lost its momentum.

John Molenda, the low amateur from Lakepointe, was tied for fourth with Chuck Matlack of Cadillac and Reggie Myles of Lansing.

Bone turned in a rare double-eagle two on the 535-yard, par-5 second hole in his final round. Bone drove 270 yards and slammed a 3-wood shot of the green. His ball skipped up, rolled up hill and fell into the hole.

Bone placed seventh.

Honors in Softball All to Rochester

It should be plain enough by now where the best softball is played around this area.

Two more Rochester teams won district titles Saturday night to give that village all four champions.

Shelby Oil took Huron Bowl 6-3 in Class D here and Girrbon nipped Spencer Floors of Waterford 3-2, in 10 innings in "C" at Ferndale.

McElroy Collision had won Class A and McNeil Insurance "B" earlier. They start regional play at Port Huron tomorrow night. The four other open Friday at Owosso.

EARLY LEAD

Shelby took a two-run lead in the 2nd and led all the way adding the others in the 6th while ahead by one. Lee Sherby won allowing four of seven hits in the 7th. Terry Plutter and Ben Tavler each had two hits as did Joe Bigler of the losers.

Huron had made the finals by downing Bob & Larry's Bar of Waterford Saturday, 6-4. The Bar guys came from behind to tie twice but Jim Bendig doubled in what proved to be the clincher in the 5th. An insurance tally was added in the 6th. Verle Sheldon won aided by two-hit efforts by Dick MacIntosh, Bill LaRose and Dale Badder. Bob Smith and Dick Nicholes had the same for Waterford.

Waterford hopes to get back to its league playoffs tonight despite the inclement weather. Spences is matched against Strohs in Class B at 7 and Bob & Larry's vs. Haskin Chevrolet at 8:30 in "C".

Mexicans Split Pair to Whip Yugoslavs

MEXICO CITY, (AP)—Mexico's American Zone Davis Cup champions next take on Sweden in the interzone semifinal here in October—and things won't be as easy as they were against Yugoslavia.

"We know they'll be tough," said Mexico's Captain Pancho Contreras today. "But our boys are up."

★ ★ ★

The Mexicans wound up operations against Yugoslavia Sunday by splitting the final two singles for a 4-1 victory. But it was all decided Saturday when the Mexicans won the doubles with Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox after two singles victories on Friday.

Contreras inserted himself as a substitute and dropped a 6-2, 6-2, 9-7 decision to Nikola Pilic. Mario LLamas whipped Vladimir Preseki, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1, in the other singles.

Ulf Schmidt and Jan-Erik Lundquist form the Swedish team that upset the favored Italians in the European Zone. Earlier this summer, Lundquist defeated Osuna in a tournament.

Vet Sports Scribe Dies

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — John S. Webster, 60, veteran sports writer and columnist with the Philadelphia Inquirer, died at his home in Cherry Hill, N. J., Sunday after a long illness.

Fries Duo Top Sailors

Glen and Jo Fries took the snipe class honors in the Watkins Lake Yacht Club races Sunday afternoon with Dave and Jo Green as runnersup. In third place was Bruce and Fred Brede.

In the thistle class, Harm Gillen was first, followed by Don Zanneth and Carl Krietz.

Next Sunday the WLYC hosts an invitational regatta.

Ward Outduels Foyt in Milwaukee Race

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rodger Ward and A. J. Foyt raced 100 miles at 100 miles per hour with only exhaust fumes separating them Sunday, with Ward clinging to a narrow lead to win a 200-mile big car race.

A crowd of 29,755, brought to its feet by the sizzling duel, saw Ward, of Indianapolis, and Foyt, of Houston, Tex., turn the Tony Bettenhausen Memorial Classic at the Wisconsin State Fair into a two-man race, lapping the field as they fought for the advantage.

The pair also beat 93-degree heat which raised track temperatures to 135 degrees and resulted in heat exhaustion for three of the top 10. finishers.

Four crashes, one of them involving five cars, marred the race, but there were no injuries. Ward, winner of the 1962 Indianapolis 500, and Foyt the 1961 winner, started their personal scrap with Ward seven seconds in front. Foyt trailed by one second and less than a car length a they crossed the finish line.

Mexicans Closer to Title

KINGSTON (AP)—The Central American and Caribbean Games go into the second and final week Monday with Mexico almost the certain winner of the team championship.

The powerful Mexicans captured 31 of the 34 gold medals in swimming and have been making strong showings in other sports as well. The Mexicans are the defending champions in soccer and so far are undefeated.

Class A Playoff Title Goes on Line Tonight

The chips go on the line tonight, at Jaycee Park as league champion Huron-Airway faces the R. T. Clippers for the Class A baseball playoff championship and the right to advance to state competition.

Each team won once over the weekend. The Clippers started things Saturday with a 7-2 triumph but the bowling boys got even 4-2 last night.

In the opener, Huron-Airway got a quick 2-0 lead but R. T. came back with seven in two frames and coasted to victory as John York pitched shutout ball the rest of the way despite allowing seven hits for a total of 10.

DROPPS STARS

Dan Dropps led a nine-hit winning attack with three singles. Gene Cox, who made the catch of the game to save a run, added a pair. Jim Wagner and John Fleser had three each and Al Barkeley two in defeat.

Clutch relief pitching by Don Picmann was a big reason H-A got even. Huron scored two each in the 4th and 5th frames to give starter Jim Ray a 4-0 advantage. The Clippers tallied twice in the 7th and had the tying runs on base when Picmann took over and fanned the last batter.

Stu Dell homered, John Shanks batted in one with a double and John Lucadam stole home for three of the winners' tallies. The Clippers slammed out four straight singles in the 7th after two outs, one Boyd Thomason's 2nd of the night to chase in the 1st run. Chuck Honchell batted in the other.

Athletics Whipped, 21-7

Yanks Humiliate A's

By The Associated Press

Most every kid learns, at one time or another, that when you're playing with the big boys, you don't want to make 'em mad.

The old lesson was impressed on the Kansas City Athletics Sunday. The A's had the audacity to take two of three from the New York Yankees, the biggest kid on the block, and the Yankee retribution was swift, painful and a little humiliating.

★ ★ ★

They punished the reeling A's with a 20-hit attack, including four doubles, two triples and four home runs, which adds to 40 total bases, in a 21-7 rout. It was the Yanks biggest offensive display of the season.

Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard were the chief tormentors of the A's, accounting for a whopping 15 runs batted in. The pair had three home runs, a triple, double and two singles and Mantle stole two bases.

SAME LEAD

Even with that awesome showing, however, the Yanks had to content themselves with the same 4½ game lead over the stubborn Los Angeles Angels. The Angels kept pace with a 5-2 verdict over Washington. Third - place Minnesota closed to within six games by sweeping two from Boston, 4-2 and 7-4.

★ ★ ★

Records aren't kept on two-man RBI total for a single game, but the Mantle - Howard exhibition must rank among the best. Mantle drove in seven with a single, double and grand slam homer. Howard drove in eight with a pair of three-run homers, a triple and a single.

Mantle's two stolen bases came in the third inning before the Yanks had put it out of reach. The homer was his 24th, first grand slam of the season and seventh of his career. He played only the first six innings. Howard's homers were his 13th and 14th.

THREE HOMERS

Ralph Terry won his 18th against 10 losses. He gave up 11 hits, including successive home runs to Gino Cimili, Wayne Causey and Bill Bryan in the seventh. By that time, however, the Yanks had a 14-3 lead.

The Angels used a four-run burst after two were out in the sixth inning to beat Washington. A double by Albie Pearson and singles by Leon Wagner and Bob Rodgers got one. Felix Torres doubled in two more and scored the other on Jim Fregosi's single. Rookie Dean Chance (11-7) threw a five-hitter in getting the victory.

★ ★ ★

Jim Kaat's five-hit pitching and Harmon Killebrew's hefty hitting were the keys to Minnesota's sweep over the Red Sox. Kaat's pitching kept Boston in check in the first game while Killebrew drove in four runs on a homer and double in the second. The homer was his 32nd, tying him with Detroit's Norm Cash for the league lead, and he took over the runs batted in lead with 91.

Two-run homers by Jim Gentile and Whitey Herzog and a bases-loaded error by Cleveland shortstop Woody Held featured Baltimore's triumph over the Indians. The homers had pulled the Orioles into a 4-4 tie in the sixth. Baltimore loaded the bases with two out when Held let Jackie Brandt's ground ball scoot between his legs, scoring two runs.

Giants' Heralded Defense Routed by 49ers 42-10

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers ripped New York's heralded defense to shreds for 251 yards in the first half Sunday, picked up two defensive unit touchdowns and routed the Giants 42-10.

The one-sided defeat ruined the return to San Francisco of Giants' quarterback Y. A. Tittle for 10 years a 49er and a favorite of the crowd of 38,392.

It was the 49ers' second straight National Football League exhibition victory and the Giants' first loss after an opening tie.

Abe Woodson's 47-yard punt return to the Giant 37 set up the first score, with C. R. Roberts slithering 13 yards around end for the touchdown.

Two interference calls on Woodson, worth 52 yards, helped the Giants score a 20-yard field goal. But the Giants' secondary returned the favor with two illegal shoves that gave the 49ers 40 yards on their next drive. Roberts again scored, this time from the 1.

BRODIE HITS

John Brodie's 10-yard pass to Clyde Conner on the goal line climaxed an 86-yard drive midway in the second period.

Matt Hazeltine widened the gap to 28-3 when he grabbed a Tittle pass off the fingertips of end Del Shofner and raced 47 yards to the goal.

Late in the third quarter Leo Nomellini blocked Don Chandler's punt and Len Rohde romped six yards to another 49er score. The Giants could not cash a touchdown until the end of the third quarter when Ralph Guglielmi sparked a 60-yard drive and tallied from the 1.

Bob Waters scored in the fourth for the 49ers on a five-yard run climaxing a 53-yard drive.

In other NFL action Saturday night Green Bay won its third straight, routing St. Louis 41-14 at Jacksonville, Fla.; Philadelphia beat the Chicago Bears 28-14 at Cedar Rapids, Iowa; and Los Angeles won its second, 33-24 over Minnesota at Portland, Ore.

In American League action, Houston beat Boston 20-10 in New Orleans; San Diego beat Denver 31-24 at home and the Dallas Texans won over Oakland 23-6 at Midland, Tex.

Jim Taylor scored three times, but Green Bay's usual potent ground offense gained only 72 yards against the Cards. But its defense got four interceptions, one for 35 yards and a touchdown by Jesse Whittenton. Cards' quarterback Charley Johnson tossed a pair of TD passes to Sonny Randle.

JURGENSEN SHARP

Sonny Jurgensen proved he's recovered from the shoulder separation he suffered in the Runnerup Bowl last January, throwing touchdown passes of 5 and 10 yards to Tommy McDonald. Don Jonas' 65-yard punt return set up the tie-breaking touchdown in the final period, as the Bears had one score called back and missed four field goals during the first half.

Zeke Bratkowski threw scoring passes to Carroll Dale, Red Phillips and Pervis Atkings for the Rams, who went ahead to stay in the second period on Art Perkins' one-yard plunge. Rookie Bob Reed scored a Viking TD on a 75-yard punt return.

Jaipur Winner Over Ridan in Travers Stakes

By The Associated Press

Jaipur won it, but the Travers Stakes served as the vindication of the "sprinter" Ridan.

"If anybody ever says that Ridan can't go a mile and a quarter again, they'll get some argument from me," said Ridan's trainer, Leroy Jolley, after Jaipur's paper-thin victory at Saratoga Saturday.

That's the stigma under which Mrs. Moody Jolley's colt has run all year. "Nothing but a sprinter," scoffed his critics.

But Ridan stayed with Jaipur the mile and, a quarter of the Travers with only inches separating them at the end. They broke from the gate together and no more than a head ever separated the two in the 93rd running of

Exhibition Draws 31,000 There

New Orleans in AFL Bid

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "The Saints are ready to come marching in," says jubilant Dave Dixon —who's spearheading the drive to gain an American Football League franchise for New Orleans.

"I'm confident it will be in 1963," said Dixon today. He was bubbling with enthusiasm after 31,000 people overflowed City Park Stadium to see the Houston Oilers defeat the Boston Patriots 20-10 Saturday night.

The game had the largest gate receipts of any exhibition in the 3-year history of the American Football League.

"That crowd proves this is a hot town for professional football—both the AFL and NFL," Dixon continued. "If the AFL wants to get here they'd better do it fast."

ON DEPOSIT

Dixon; an insurance executive, heads a group which has a $25,000 deposit with the AFL for a franchise. He says he feels certain the league will take some action on expansion during the first two weeks in September.

Dixon's group was not associated with the backers of the exhibition game, but the supporters of the Saints—the name picked for the pro football entry—passed out pledge cards between halves to the crowd.

★ ★ ★

"We got pledges for 7,000 season tickets, and I think 95 per cent of them were authentic," said Dixon. "A bank president signed a card of 100 tickets."

Dixon says he thinks New Orleans is the only two under serious consideration for a new AFL team in the immediate future. That would expand the junior pro circuit to nine teams. Atlanta also has a $25,000 deposit with the AFL but the Georgia city's chances were hurt when it recently had to cancel out two exhibitions because of poor attendance.

Lamar Hunt, the wealthy oilman who owns the AFL's Dallas Texans and heads the loop's expansion committee, said in Dallas he didn't know a whole lot about the crowd in New Orleans "but it sounds very encouraging. We are looking over the expansion situation again after the exhibition season is over."

CANNON HELPED

The owner of the Texans attributed the New Orleans turnout to Billy Cannon, the former Louisiana State Heisman Trophy winner who plays with Houston and added that he didn't think New Orleans could draw as well with some other team playing.

★ ★ ★

"It's a shame we don't have two exhibitions at New Orleans so as could get a better indication," said Hunt.

Dixon was not fully in accord with Hunt's comment on Cannon's drawing power. "Sure, he's a miracle man, but he's part of the AFL."

"I think we could have had nearly as many without Cannon."

One problem facing pro football in New Orleans may have been partially solved at the Saturday night contest. White fans clamored for tickets in the Negro section and there were Negroes intermingled throughout the entire stadium.

There were no incidents and it appeared to be taken matter of factly by the entire turnout.

'Space Twins' Taking It Easy

Red Cosmonauts Rest With Families Prior to Facing West Newsmen

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's history-making "space twins" rested with their families today prior to facing Western newsmen for the first time since their marathon tandem flight in the cosmos.

There was no official word on the whereabouts of Maj. Andrian Nikolayev and Lt. Pavel Popovich, but they were said to be on a hero's holiday following Saturday's mammoth Red Square celebration of their feat.

Tomorrow the cosmonauts were expected to hold a news conference at which Western correspondents will get their first opportunity to question them about their million mile-plus flights.

★ ★ ★

Their appearance Saturday in Red Square was their first in Moscow since they landed last Wednesday from parallel flights that exceeded all previous records for distance and endurance.

Nikolayev was in space about four days, completing 64 orbits of the earth. Popovich orbited 48 times in about three days. Both traveled at 17,500 miles an hour.

HEADS TRIBUTE

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev led the nation in paying tribute to the space twins in Red Square Saturday. He also used the occasion to reiterate his demands that Western allied troops must get out of Berlin. He said no troops from any NATO country should be in the divided city.

While Khruschev and the cosmonauts were billed as the star performers of the celebration, Popovich's 6-year-old daughter Natasha stole the show.

In a country where families of public figures keep in the background, Natasha orbited into fame.

The little girl who has become the Kremlin's answer to Caroline Kennedy was in the forefront of all the Red Square activities. Moscow's television cameras followed almost her every move.

U. N. Issues 15-Nation 'Honor Roll'

Growth of Women's Voting Rights Cited

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United Nations has issued a sort of honor roll of 15 countries that have taken steps during the last two years to expand women's voting rights.

★ ★ ★

It discloses that nine countries still bar women from voting or holding office. Two, Saudi Arabia and Yemen, also bar men from voting.

In Afghanistan, Iraq, Jordan, Libya and Liechtenstein women have no voting rights and are not eligible for election.

Women in the Eastern and Western regions of Nigeria may vote and are eligible for election, but they are barred in the northern region.

SOME CAN VOTE

Swiss women cannot vote or be elected in federal elections. They cannot vote and are not eligible to hold offices in cantonal (state) elections except in the cantons of Geneva, Neuchatel and Vaud. Women may vote and are eligible for elections in some Swiss federation cities.

Seven other countries impose some kind of voting bar that does not apply to men.

In Guatemala and Syria women are subject to a literacy test not required of men.

In Iran and Monaco women may vote and are eligible for local government office.

In Portugal, women may vote in all elections and are eligible for election subject to educational requirements not imposed on men. Women fulfilling the same tax qualifications as those prescribed for men must be heads of families.

In San Marino, women may vote but can't be elected to office. In Sudan, women can't vote but can be elected to office.

The report lists 96 countries where women may vote in all elections and are eligible for election on an equal basis with men.

The countries cited for advances in the last two years are Cameroon, El Salvador, Mongolia, Pakistan, Sierra Leone, Syria, Tanganyika, Canada, Congo Brazzaville, Czechoslovakia, Honduras, Iran, Laos, Lebanon and Niger.

Although Syria is listed as limiting women on educational requirements not demanded of male voters, it is on the honor roll for granting women eligibility for election to parliament.

There are about 1,200 species and sub-species of birds in the U.S.

Committee Trying to Kill Golden Goose?

Eying Second Site for U.S. Cultural Center

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Things, as we say in Wonderland, are getting curiouser and curiouser.

It is a well-know fact that a nationwide drive will be launched on closed-circuit television in a hundred cities this November to raise thirty million dollars for a national cultural center.

The odd part of it is this: Although Congress has already passed a law authorizing the center, and has donated a beautiful park site on the Potomac River near the Lincoln Memorial, the cultural committee is quietly negotiating with railroad executives about the possibility of buying Union Station instead.

To do so would require another act of Congress, since the one creating the center specifies the free park site. More importantly, it would also remove from the taxrolls the biggest district taxpayer in every year but one since the cavernous granite structure was erected 55 years ago.

Union Station is jointly owned by the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio railroads. In the year just ended it paid $1,882,354.36 taxes, with nearly a million and a half of it going to the federal government.

★ ★ ★

The remainder went to the hard-pressed District of Columbia which is losing taxable property at an alarming pace each time the government razes a block of houses to rect a new office building, or another foreign government comes into being and buys an embassy here.

CAN'T BLAME RAILS

No one can blame the railroads for trying to unload their heavily taxed properties. Because of stiff competition from planes, trucks and autos, the financially embarrassed Pennsylvania Railroad had already made a deal with the Madison Square Garden Corp. to scrap Pennsylvania Station in New York City. Unlike the cultural negotiations, however, that land would remain in New York tax rolls.

An official spokesman for the proposed cultural center, queried about the reported negotiations for Union Station, conceded that they have been going on. He said the group would prefer the parklike setting that Congress has provided, but that many "pressures" were being brought on the committee to locate elsewhere.

He did not identify the pressures, but said the committee took pains to investigate such suggested sites. He admitted that one possible drawback to the Union Station location would be the "possible noise and vibration" from trains arriving and departing just below, since a new station would be built adjoining the present structure, to straddle existing tracks now used by five railroads.

★ ★ ★

The plans for the center, to be unveiled in Newport, R.I., Sept. 11 envision three basic auditoriums where opera, symphony and theater can perform simultaneously.

First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy and former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower are honorary chairmen of the project, with Roger Stevens of the Stevens Development Corp., New York City, as chairman.

Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, Jackie's mother, is chairman for the Washington metropolitan area, and will oversee a big $100-a-plate dinner and several theater parties here the evening of Nov. 29, when the fund-raising drive begins.

Other $100-a-plate dinners will be held simultaneously in New York and throughout the nation.

The cultural center is a marvelous, long-overdue project that should have the enthusiastic support of every American. Foreigners visiting here from abroad are shocked to discover that no stage in the capital city of America is large enough to accommodate, for instance, the full cast of Russia's world-travelling Bolshoi Ballet.

This is a completely bipartisan undertaking that Congress rushed through in record time. The nation needs and wants it. Why risk killing the goose that laid the golden egg, by going back to Congress to change the site?

Dixie Churches Bar Negroes, Whites

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI) — Negroes and whites attempted to integrate seven churches here yesterday with "kneel-in" demonstrations but were turned away. Three Negroes were arrested on the steps of a Baptist church.

It was the second consecutive Sunday the integrationists had tried to enter the churches. A woman who was admitted to St. Paul's Episcopal Church last week was told to leave yesterday.

Asst. Police Chief James Lairsey said three Negroes were stopped at the top of the steps at the First Baptist Church by a deacon who asked them to leave. When they refused they were arrested and charged with trespassing.

Most of the demonstrators were Negro. A biracial group was turned away from the First Presbyterian Church.

Skin Divers Find Ship 15 Miles Off Florida

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)— Two skin divers have found a sunken vessel in the Atlantic Ocean 15 miles east of St. Augustine.

A sheriff's deputy, J. V. Hugas, said a compass found on the steel-hulled craft apparently was the one used on a shrimp boat, the Francis, which was reported missing April 2 with three men on board.

Warns of Drugs Causing Harm

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — There still are drugs on the American market which may have the same effect on unborn children as thalidomide, a doctor from Emory Univesity said Saturday.

Dr Richard W. Blumberg, chairman of the pediatrics department at Emory in Atlanta, did not name the drugs to which he referred.

He spoke at the closing session of the 12th annual obstetric-pediatric seminar here.

But, he said, "doctors are aware of these effects, and we have fair control over these drugs."

Progress Seen in Theft Probe

Chief Postal Inspector Reports New Lead in $1.5-Million Robbery

BOSTON (AP)—Authorities report they are making progress in the investigation of the $1.5-million mail truck robbery last week in Plymouth.

★ ★ ★

William F. White, chief New England postal inspector, told newsmen Sunday that investigators have "encouraging information having to do with the identification of suspects."

U.S. EMPLOYE

He said the information was received just after midnight Saturday, "and it has solidified during the day."

The Boston Globe reported it has learned that one suspect is a post office employe.

★ ★ ★

Investigators scheduled another helicopter flight along the route of the mail truck after it was hijacked Tuesday and driven to Route 128 in Randolph. Over the weekend, detectives made the aerial survey about 10 times.

AWAITING REPORTS

White said he is waiting for lab reports on the mail truck, the rope used to tie up the holdup victims, Patrick R. Schena, 36, and William F. Barrett, 51, and on several sets of fingerprints taken from abandoned and burned automobiles investigators say definitely were used in the robbery.

★ ★ ★

White discounted a published report that investigators are seeking six men from Greater Boston who have long criminal records.

Investigators say that from four to eight men and a pimply-faced girl took part in the robbery.

White feels the presence of a girl in the gang might lead to its downfall. He said: "It is a matter of history that when a female has been involved, trouble has developed within a gang."

IRS Has Booklet About New Laws on Depreciation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has published some dull reading which, nevertheless, is destined to become a best-seller.

The Internal Revenue Service issued on Friday a 20-page booklet of tables and formulae instructing taxpayers on how to apply the tax depreciation reforms announced last month. The publication is sure to be purchased in quantity by businessmen and tax accountants.

Under the depreciation reform, most businesses will be able to write off against taxes capital investments in new equipment over a shorter period of time than formerly. The Treasury estimates the liberalization move will give businessmen a tax saving of $1.5 billion in the coming year.

The booklet is publication No. 457 and can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, for 15 cents. The title: "Tables for Applying Revenue Procedure 62-21."

Two Michigan Men Die in I-96 Accident

MARNE (AP) — Two West Michigan men were killed early today when spilled from a car which overturned and rolled about 700 feet out of control off I-96 near Marne, state police said.

Troopers identified the victims as Harold L. Bishop, 23, of Grand Rapids, and Richard Laughlin, 25, who, officers said, lived parttime at Rockford and Fruitport. One body was discovered 128 feet from the eastbound auto and the other about 15 feet.

Boy, 9, Swept Along Sewer, 'Wasn't Scared'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I wasn't scared at all" 9-year-old Dwight Palmatier said after being swept along a flowing sewer for a mile before being rescued Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The youngster well while walking on a ledge in the eight-foot-high sewer. The sewer is exposed during freeway construction, and Dwight and Steve Hinsley, 10, had entered the huge pipe on an exploring venture.

★ ★ ★

When Dwight fell in, he told police, he called to Steve to summon help. Steve did, and soon scores of firemen and policemen were searching the sewer, which had about 18 inches of water flowing through it.

★ ★ ★

Dwight said he finally managed to grab a piece of metal, stop himself and climb onto a ledge where he waited for help. Firemen Joe Kocher and Jerry Green found him after a 90-minute search.

★ ★ ★

Dwight was treated for exposure and sent home.

Rabbi Repudiates 'Israel for Jews'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The executive vice president of the American Council for Judaism, said yesterday the American government should "repudiate" Israel's claim to speak for "the Jewish people."

In a speech at the National Presbyterian Church, Rabbi Elmer Berger of New York said that "many United States citizens of Jewish faith vigorously dispute" the Zionist contention that Israel is the national homeland of all Jews.

These American Jews look upon Judaism as "a religion of universal values rather than a nationality," he said, and resent any suggestion that they have any obligation of political or financial support to a Middle Eastern state.

The council is a Jewish organization opposed to Zionism.

Coin Collection Worth $50,000 Stolen in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Police are looking for some heavy-handed thieves who made off with a $50,000 rare coin collection weighing an estimated 200 pounds.

The loot was stuffed in a suitcase and wheeled out of the Sheraton-Cadillac hotel Saturday night, police said. The collection belonged to Mrs. Alva Christensen of Temple City, Calif., who was attending a hobbyist convention.

Ohio U Dean, Son Burned on Cruiser

PETOSKEY (AP) — Dr. Wendell Postal, dean of the Ohio State University dental school, and his son, Dr. Jack Postal of Petoskey, suffered extensive burns yesterday in a fire on their 24-foot cruiser.

★ ★ ★

During an outing with their wives and three children in Little Traverse Bay, the craft's gasoline filter ignited. The two men suffered burns fighting the blaze. The boat suffered little damage.

The total area burned over each year by forest fires in the U.S. is equal to the area of New York state.

'Tremendous Task Produces Remarkable Film'

Director Wrapping Up 'Cleopatra' Extravaganza

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "I feel like the man who wrote 'Our American Cousin,'" complained Joseph Mankiewicz. "Nobody ever talked about the play—all because some idiot with a pistol took a shot at President Lincoln."

THOMAS

Mankiewicz is the man who directed "Cleopatra," and everybody seemed to want to talk about something else besides the movie itself. Here to put the film in final shape, he seemed pleased and delighted when I asked about his own work on it.

★ ★ ★

"Well, it is coming along," he said. "Right now we are in the process of trying to put together the second half, and it is a monumental job. But I think it is going to be a remarkable film—not merely in its spectacle, but in the human relationships, too.

"It was a tremendous task to put together two complete love stories. Mr. Shaw wrote a play about one of them—Caesar and Cleopatra,' and Mr. Shakespeare wrote a play about the other one —'Antony and Cleopatra.' I had to combine both in one film.

"I would be the megalomaniac of all megalomaniacs if I said that I thought I had accomplished what I wanted to do. But I think it will be a good movie, and the cost will be seen on the screen."

WEREN'T READY

Oh, yes—the cost. It has been the subject of some discussions, such as how on earth can any movie cost a reported $30 million.

"It's easy," explained the director. "The major reason for its costing so much is starting it before we were ready.

"It is hard to argue with men schooled on generations of movie-making cliches. They had Liz Taylor on salary, so they said: 'Let's get something on film.'

"They don't realize that it is cheaper in the long run to keep Miss Taylor on salary while the script is being written and sets prepared. Instead, I have to work under the gun, and the company has to pay four times what a costume would ordinarily cost."

★ ★ ★

Is "Cleopatra" finally finished?

"The company thinks so," he smiled. "I don't. Perhaps I am being over-anxious in wanting to do everything just right. I would like to go back and do some more, but they have a good reason why I shouldn't: they ran out of money."

The film will run four hours, he said, and will be shown in one sitting, despite his notion that it could be split into two $15 million movies. The company wouldn't go for it.

Everyone was hoping for a December release to qualify for Oscars. But that appears a physical impossibility. The release date is now expected to be February.

Mankiewicz scoffed at suggestions that "Cleopatra" could have been made faster and more cheaply in Hollywood.

★ ★ ★

"It couldn't have been done here," he said. "How would you get 7,000 troops? How could you stage the Battle of Actium with real ships? I have as much regard for Hollywood's technical proficiency as anyone, but there are some things that are impossible to do here."

The director, who was famed for such films as "All About Eve" and "Letter to Three Wives," said he has had it with epics. "My next film will be shot against two walls—maybe one," he said.

In parting, he expressed his gratitude that I had asked no questions about THEM. Next time, I promised.

Oust Hungarian VIPs in Purge of Purgers

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Matyas Rakosi, Hungary's former dictator, and 24 of his Stalinist followers have been booted from the Communist party in a purge of the purgers. Karoly Kiss, regarded as the leading Stalinist still in an important position in Hungary, also was demoted from the ruling Politburo.

★ ★ ★

The new purge was announced in a communique Sunday following a four-day meeting of the party's central committee. James Kadar, the party chief and premier who was jailed in one of Rakosi's purges, presided.

★ ★ ★

The expulsions from the party were ordered six years after the 1956 Hungarian revolt threatened to topple the Communist regime which Rakosi established with his boasted salami-slicing tactics.

Expelled from the party along with Rakosi, 70, was Ernoe Geroe, 63, who succeeded him as the country's boss. During the 1956 revolt, Geroe followed his former chief into exile in the Soviet Union. He was allowed to return to Hungary last year but was barred from political activity.

STILL IN SOVIET UNION?

Rakosi is believed still to be in the Soviet Union. He is reported in poor health.

★ ★ ★

His expulsion from the party was a bitter finish to a lifetime career spent in the service of communism. Returning to Hungary with the Soviet army in 1945 he took over the interior ministry and police and began a campaign of undermining his Socialist and Smallholders party colleagues in the postwar government.

His method, he said, was to "demand a little more each day, like cutting up salami, thin slice after thin slice."

The other parties eventually were ousted.

Rakosi and Geroe were expelled from the party because of their "absolute political responsibility for the miscarriages of justice based on forged evidence," the communique said. Twenty-three others dropped from the party were not named.

Kiss, former deputy premier, foreign minister and vice president, was fired from the Politburo for failing to admit responsibility for harmful party decisions before 1956. He lost his job as party secretary last year.

Officials Working to Put Man on Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Over a year ago President Kennedy told Congress it would cost America much toil and treasure to sail in the great ocean of space.

But, he said, "I believe we should go."

He said the United States ought to try to land men on the moon, and bring them safely back, before 1970.

At about the same time a high space official was asked by congressmen if this country could meet the assumed Soviet goal of men on the moon by the 40th anniversary of the Red revolution in 1967. He replied:

MAY BE POSSIBLE

"I think it may be possible."

This official probably would not say that today. It may take a year or two longer.

But all responsible officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) still believe it is possible to put Americans on the moon in the time period suggested by Kennedy.

So, with the blessings and appropriations of Congress, this country is bunching its muscles to send a three-man astronaut team to the moon.

NASA Administrator James E. Webb thinks there is a good chance we can get there before the Russians.

In the meantime, the United States is stepping up its unmanned exploration of space, not merely between earth and moon but beyond to Mars and Venus.

It appears highly probable that in the next five years man will have the answer to some questions which long have puzzled him:

PUZZLING QUESTIONS

— Can human beings survive and work in the strange environment of space, far from the planet in which their species evolved?

— Do any of the other planets in the sun's family harbor life? Is it similar to or wildly different from the life of earth?

— What does the moon look like close up? What is it made of?

The U. S. lunar exploration program alone is expected to cost nearly $20 billion by 1970.

It may well cost $40 billion. The bill for unmanned space exploration to and beyond the moon will not be small.

★ ★ ★

Why orbit all that money and effort into an airless, waterless, foodless, ray-filled environment which is so obviously hostile?

There are the obvious and often-stated reasons of national pride, prestige and security. The moon is what the old-time artilleryists call high ground.

It would, they say, make a fine military base. Scientists think it would be far more valuable as a space laboratory and observatory.

Also, a multitude of gadgets, electronic and mechanical, brought into being by the space projects are finding uses on Mother Earth.

In addition to all this are the practical rewards of the exploitation of space for communications, navigation, and weather forecasting.

It has been said that weather and communication satellites will more than repay all the billions invested in space.

★ ★ ★

What other motives impel man to fire his instruments and his fellows against the radiation reefs of the planets and subject them to the bombardment of atomic projectiles and meteoritic bullets in solar space?

★ ★ ★

Help Others in Distress

Learning Doesn't Need to Be Hard Work

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Many educators insist that children must always work hard. They even set up special classes to provide enough work to keep the youngsters working hard.

I disagree with these educators. Learning need not be hard work.

DR. NASON

If the student has the proper background in the subject, he can grasp a concept without arduous work and great expenditure of energy.

I recall a student named Joe who breezed through engineering in college with little effort.

At the start of his freshman year he was living in a rooming house near the campus with 11 other freshmen, most of them engineering students.

Joe's background in mathematics was good. He was able to complete his assignments in half to three-quarters of an hour each evening. Then he helped the others understand their assignments.

As Joe continued to help his fellow students, his own assignments came easier until, by the spring of his sophomore year, he was spending only 15 minutes a day on calculus assignments and was making near perfect scores on his exams.

Ed, another freshman, lived in the same rooming house. At times Ed did not complete all of his assignments. Regularly before exams, he turned to Joe for a final briefing. The briefings pulled Ed's grade from a D to a C in math.

★ ★ ★

By the spring of his sophomore year, Ed was spending at least two hours a day on math homework. And even with this expenditure of time, he was not completing his assignments. With struggle and hard work, managed to get a C in the course.

★ ★ ★

It was not the learning that was hard work! Joe actually learned more than Ed with less effort.

It is not how hard you study, it is the way you study that brings results.

PRINCIPLES OF LEARNING

Whether you are in junior or senior high school or college the same principles of learning apply:

Start listening on the first day. Keep ahead of the teacher with your reading.

Start right out doing high-quality homework. Make a careful note of each assignment and its due date.

Try to understand the course by studying for understanding, rather than just to complete the assignments.

Think through the course from the beginning every few days. It will help you assimilate new material into the overall pattern.

★ ★ ★

Be ready to help your fellow students in distress. This will give you an opportunity to discuss ideas using your own words. This is the very best practice for complete understanding.

Resolve to bring the course to a high level of understanding, then carry it at that high level. A few hours at the beginning will save you many more hours later.

Follow these ideas and you will find that learning will be easy and pleasant — and not hard work.

Michigan Spud Growers to Launch Ad Campaign

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Potato Industry Council reports it is starting an intensive campaign to boost the sale of Michigan potatoes.

The campaign will be financed by an assessment of $1.50 an acre on potato growers. Michigan potatoes will be promoted through some 3,000 advertising kits to be distributed to retail stores.

Nix Auto Tool Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Commerce Department has refused a request by the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia to buy $43-million worth of auto-making machine tools from U.S. manufacturers.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

Hand eight in the World Championship series represented the first big swing for America. They picked up 13 International Match Points to go in front by seven.

JACOBY

At both tables the opening bid was one spade by West. The North players looked at their 10-card heart suits and each one decided on the unusual call of five hearts. Each East with a defenseless hand (queen and one trump aren't going to be worth anything against a man who bids five right off the bat) went to five spades and each South doubled.

Each North player took his partner's double out. He knew that he couldn't be hurt at six hearts and that his hand wasn't going to take many tricks against spades.

After the six heart bid the Italian East-West team felt that it had done enough. America was allowed to play that contract and because East could not open a diamond a grand slam was made.

Bobby Nail, sitting East on the U. S. East-West team, did not take this, "I have done my duty" attitude. He reasoned that North had gone to six hearts without the queen and undoubtedly had hearts coming out of his ears. Bobby knew that six spades wouldn't be hurt much and refused to gamble against the heart slam.

★ ★ ★

Playing at six spades Mervin Key, sitting West was able to hold his loss to down two.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner goes to five clubs. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Tuesday

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Time to appreciate and enjoy what you possess. Tonight could be excellent for entertaining and being entertained. Avoid scattering forces. Enjoy one thing at a time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): You could achieve almost anything today. But greatest success indicated in connection with entertainment, illusion, presenting good self-image. The sky could be the limit. Use your imagination!

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): No time to permit yourself to tire or go to excesses. Take time to rest, gain strength. Wasting energies could be serious mistake. Tonight excellent for reading, learning. Basic changes due shortly.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Friendship in your life today. Accept it! Good time for travel, change, breaking out of rut. Utilize intuition to perceive feelings of those close to you. Be sensitive to WISHES of others. You'll be amply repaid.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Best to heed own counsel. Older individual could be "out of step" with the times. Achieve much by saying YES to neighbor. Attend to civic duties for sake of FUTURE harmony.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Key is your ability to PROJECT. See program as a whole. Refuse to be discouraged by red tape. Answer is YES, go ahead. Expand, involve your human abilities. Take LONG-RANGE view.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Aid from martial or business partner proves valuable. Much is your favor today, if you refuse to be discouraged by one who "shifts." You hold winning hand, if only you will back it up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Tendency is to see situation through rose-colored glasses. Better to seek data. The longer you hold out today the better for ultimate success. No time to make snap decisions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Strive for understanding. Diplomacy is key. You gain more by taking sympathetic view, than by insisting on your own way. Tonight good for collecting facts for future use.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Be attentive to friends. Maintain relaxed attitude. Day is better for listening, enjoying things surrounding you than working with details. You accomplish much more if you are receptive rather than forceful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Personal service, home life is highlight of day and evening. This is true if you open your eyes and look about you. Refuse to be discouraged by bills, details. Take calm view. Positive ideas to work instead of worrying.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Member of opposite sex could brighten day's activities. You gain also through knowledge that improvement in personal, business life can be attained. Your potential is great. Today you begin "catching up."

★ ★ ★

IF TUESDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY this month has been one in which you made contacts which mean much to your future. You are analytical and courageous.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Delays, complaints could be the order of the day. As an individual, control tendency to "give in." Style remains up for TAROS.

Mart Picks Up Action

Electronic, Air Issues Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Aircraft and electronic issues led the stock market higher early this afternoon. The market was a little more active than on Friday.

Gains in the aerospace section reached 1 point in many cases but the remainder of the list showed mostly fractional advances.

★ ★ ★

The market leadership was the same as last week when the popular averages rose to their high-point since the week of the May slump. The Russian success with twin orbital shots has convinced many investors more money will be spent on the U. S. space program.

★ ★ ★

Also displaying a generally higher tone were steels, motors, airlines, utilities and oils.

Among the aircrafts, Boeing was up around 2 and gains of about 1 were made by McDonnell, Republic and Lockheed. Douglas General Dynamics and Martin-Marietta were ahead by ½ or more.

RAILS MIXED

Wall Street market letters recently have been full of items about the aerospace issues and projects such as the Gemini, Apollo and Saturn.

Rails were mixed while tobacco and drugs tended to slip in slow dealings.

Ford led the motor group with a gain of almost 1 as it previewed the 1963 line for the press. GM, Chrysler, Studebaker and American Motors, trading ex dividend, were up small fractions.

★ ★ ★

Prices on the American Stock Exchange also were higher in moderate trading. Kirby Petroleum was up around 4. Atlantic Research gained about 1, as did Martin - Marietta warrants. Fractionally higher were Paul Harderman, Star Industries, Technical Materiel, Apollo Industries and Syntex.

Bond Mart Trading Light

NEW YORK (AP) — Light trading and only minor price changes marked the opening of bond markets here today.

Top grade corporate bonds showed little movement on the New York Stock Exchange, although a few issues climbed major fractions and Pacific Gas and Electric 2⅞s of 1976 rose 1⅞ to 85.

An over the counter dealer in government securities quoted most treasury issues unchanged to 1-32 or 2-32 higher. Short maturities showed no change at all.

Early price changes among corporates included a ⅛ advance to 102⅞ by General Motors Finance.

Church Builder Tries New Vane

Low-Priced Structure 'Essay in Protestant Simplicity'

NEW YORK (UPI) — An architectural essay in Protestant simplicity and liberalism has been "written" on a six-acre slope in Norwalk, Conn.

The structure is called the United Church of Norwalk. It was built at a relatively modest price of $115,000 and yet was designed to last as long as the most massive European Cathedral.

A congregation of 100 members raised funds for the church and then gave the architect, Victor Christ-Janer, only one set of instructions.

They were to express trends ad liturgical aspirations of the modern church movement, and to merge the individualism of Protestantism with the group approach to religious experience.

Christ-Janer concluded that a nonsymmetrical enclosure embodying the traditional function of the New England meeting house would be the answer.

To achieve this, he used modern materials, which are cheap, light and durable and a construction system that enabled workers to assemble the structure as they would a jig-saw puzzle.

"Disciplined disorder," is the way the church members describe what resulted.

The church exterior consists of a mass of triangular panels abandoning the traditional straight lines of churches but preserving a sense of space.

★ ★ ★

Each triangle consists of a "sandwich" made up of fir plywood and insulating materials reinforced and coated with a protective finish.

More than 5,000 square feet of floor space have been enclosed in a single vapor-sealed shell prefabricated so that it took workmen only seven days to put the church walls together.

Inside, the building is divided into reception and worship areas. Pew seating has been provided for 250 persons in a variety of bench sizes to fit adults and children.

The "traffic pattern" has been arranged so that backs are never turned to the chancel and departing worshippers must leave in clusters through a side exit.

At a time when new churches are being built at a constantly accelerating rate and consfruction costs are rising, the United Church of Norwalk's leaders hope they may have made a contribution as economical as it is ecclesiastical to the liberal Protestant movement.

2 Hurt in Area Over Weekend

No Fatal Car Mishaps Reported; One Victim Listed as Serious

No fatal auto accidents were reported over the weekend in Oakland County, but two persons were injured, one seriously, in area traffic mishaps.

★ ★ ★

Most seriously injured was Harold E. Dillon, 41, of 6050 Long Point Road, Davisburg, who was reported in fair condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said Dillon's car apparently skidded about 360 feet off a Holly Township road and rolled over four times in a field.

★ ★ ★

The accident occurred at 1:13 a.m. on Grange Hall Road, about a half mile east of Eddy Lake Road.

Dillon was admitted to the intensive care section of the hospital with possible head, chest and internal injuries. He was alone in the car.

Deputies were unable to obtain a statement from him because of his condition.

2-CAR COLLISION

In satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital is Mrs. Olivia Kesl, 40, of 611 Nevada Ave. who was involved in a two-car collision yesterday morning at Bloomfield and Nebraska avenues.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Kesl told Pontiac police she was traveling east on Nebraska when struck by an auto driven by Joseph Poe, 57, of 30 Deland Court.

Police said Poe, who was driving south on Bloomfield Avenue, had defective brakes and failed to yield the right of way. Poe was not hospitalized.

Woman Wouldn't Get In —Couldn't Fool Her

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Key West recently started using compact 15-passenger buses on some of its less heavily patronized city routes.

The driver pulled up to a stop the first week the little buses were in operation and got an icy glare from a woman who thought she was the object of a pick-up attempt.

"That's not a bus, young man," she snapped at the driver. "Don't try to fool me!"

'Great Swamp' Near New York

8,000-Acre Area Has Deer, Mink, Muskrat, Plus Tourist Trails

WASHINGTON — The lights of Manhattan's skyscrapers are seen at night by hundreds of small, shining eyes — the eyes of deer, mink and muskrat who thrive across the river in New Jersey's "Great Swamp."

The 8,000-acre Great Swamp, a wilderness virtually unchanged since the days of the Indian, is one of the largest, unspoiled natural wetlands between Maine and Virginia.

A 25-acre section of the swamp is now open as a nature center. Trails run through this and adjacent areas. Plants and trees will be marked, and blinds will enable visitors to observe birds and animals.

The Great Swamp, five miles south of Morristown, N. J., and less than 30 miles from New York City, has been called the greatest living museum in the New York metropolitan area.

★ ★ ★

Ornithologists have identified 154 species of birds. More than 5 species are known to nest and rear young there including the black duck, mallard, and wood duck. Pintail ducks gather in the swamp during the spring migration.

★ ★ ★

As one of the major resting and feeding grounds for waterfowl and small birds on the Atlantic Flyway, the swamp is a vital link in the chain of wetlands from the breeding grounds of Canada to the wintering areas far to the south.

Area Sisters Twirl Way to Top in Baton Contest

Waterford Township's baton-twirling Burns sisters, Debbie, 16, and Mickey, 12, both took first-place honors in National Baton Twirling Association sponsored competition Saturday at Miracle Mile Shopping Center.

Competing against girls from Ohio, Indiana and Canada as well as from Michigan, Mickey took first place in both intermediate twirling and in the style show. Debbie won a first in military strutting and placed third in twirling.

The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Van H. Burns, 939 Lakeside Dr., Waterford Township.

No Fish Tales Here at $21 for Each Foot

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Fishermen don't exaggerate when they tell Theo Carter about their prize catches.

Theo operates a fish mounting firm and at $21 a foot she says her customers speak only the truth when they bring in specimens for taxidermy work.

A Mere 32,913 Pipes in Atlantic City Hall

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—(UPI) The pipe organ in Convention Hall here is reputed to be the largest in the world.

It contains 32,913 pipes, with seven manuals in the main console and five in a movable console.

Few Dry Spots Found in U. S.

Mississippi Only State but Many Counties and Towns Forbid Liquor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Liquor laws across the United States vary greatly concerning who can sell it — certain individuals, or just the state — how it can be sold — by drink, or just by package — where it can be consumed — in public, or just in private.

Since Oklahoma's repeal of statewide prohibition, Mississippi is the only state which remains dry. But many counties and towns are dry in other states, under local option.

A county-by-county survey taken by the Distilled Spirits Institute showed more than half the counties dry in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

And a lesser percentage of counties were dry in Florida, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, New Mexico, Virginia and West Virginia.

A study shows crime increased 28 per cent in Oklahoma in 1960 over the previous year, while the increase nationally was only 14 per cent.

"This can only be attributed to repeal," a dry leader said.

On the other hand, a liquor director doesn't believe repeal was a factor in the crime increase. He said improvement in the reporting of violations to the FBI coupled with the shift in population to the urban areas could be factors.

He said hundreds of former bootleggers are now gainfully employed — but not in the legal liquor business. This year only 19 Oklahomans have federal liquor stamps who are not licensed dealers.

The drys now are concentrating on an educational program and trying to get the state to strictly enforce its liquor law.

The group hopes to outlaw booze again, but this attempt won't come soon.

Oklahoma has finally admitted publicly what the people always knew — it likes a toddy now and again.

Tourists Speed Across the Country

WASHINGTON — Turnpikes are speeding thousands of vacationers across the United States.

The toll roads retain their popularity in spite of a growing network of free superhighways. In 1961, motorists traveled almost 14 billion vehicle miles on turnpikes, an increase of 568 million miles over 1960.

Though the 3,000 miles of turnpikes are uniform in their high engineering standards, the routes are as diverse as the United States itself.

RUSTIC TURNPIKE

Florida's Sunshine State Parkway cuts through almost primitive glades, swamps, cypress groves and piney woods. Travelers may see a flock of wood ibis, herds of Brahman cattle, and the thatched huts of Seminole Indians.

In contrast, the New Jersey Turnpike is a corridor through the heart of the industrial east.

Veteran Jersey turnpike travelers don't need maps and mileposts. They can tell where they are by sniffing the distinctive aromas from chemical and manufacturing plants along the way.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike, opened in October 1940, is the oldest of the modern toll roads. Skeptics said its daily traffic never would reach the planned 30,000 vehicles a day. Some 80,000 cars and trucks now use the road daily, and about 240 million vehicles have sped over the smooth concrete ribbons since 1940.

The West Virginia Turnpike threads its way over, under, and through mountains, giving drivers spectacular views as well as speedy travel.

The road climbs 2,600 feet without exceeding a five per cent grade. To accomplish this, the builders erected 73 bridges along the 88-mile expressway, but had to bore only one tunnel.

Cuts through rock are as deep as 256 feet. In all, workmen excavated three times the amount of earth moved in digging the Panama Canal, says the National Geographic Society.

★ ★ ★

Glaciers that pushed down from the north thousands of years ago created the major engineering problems for the Ohio Turnpike. The glacial drift formed an unstable foundation for bridges, and in one case an additional $500,000 was needed to create a secure base for just one crossing.

DIVIDED FARMYARD

In the Midwest, turnpikes sometimes slice farms in two. A possibly apocryphal story tells of a toll road that cut through one farmyard. When the farmer wants to feed his hogs now, he has to get into his car, drive 20 miles, and pay 50 cents toll.

The Kansas Turnpike has the highest speed limit of any toll road — 80 miles an hour — but in a recent month 165 motorists managed to exceed it.

Kansas Turnpike officials reported that in the last five years 42 cars have been abandoned on the road.

★ ★ ★

Lost and abandoned items on other turnpikes include a 10-cubic-foot refrigerator, a house door, and, inevitably, a kitchen sink, which turned up on the Sunshine State Parkway in Florida.

★ ★ ★

Toll collecting also presents problems. Small children chew up toll tickets. Dogs bite the hand that collects the money. Drivers swallow coins held between their teeth.

But there are compensations. For three Christmases a jolly motorist drove along the Connecticut Turnpike singing carols to toll collectors.

Salk Launches Biology Center

Doctor Says Why Not Bionauts as Well as Astronauts

By United Press International

In the intellectual haven of Princeton, N.J., Einstein pursued his momentous theories of the universe.

★ ★ ★

In the scientific complex of Cape Canaveral, another generation of scientists works to probe the universe in reality.

Princeton's Institute for Advanced Studies and Canaveral's sandy launching pads have one thing in common: They are greenhouses for ideas.

To put it another way, they are custom-designed repositories for great minds.

What Princeton and Canaveral do for the physical sciences, Dr. Jonas Salk wants to do for the sciences of life.

Salk, developer of the anti-polio vaccine which bears his name, has launched a new Institute for Biological Studies where great minds can be gathered for a new, intense investigation on the remaining mysteries of life.

A LAUNCHING SITE

Or, as Salk himself describes the projected Salk Institute at La Jolla, Calif.—a "launching site" for "bionauts."

"If we speak of astronauts," he asks, "why can't we think of bionauts" — scientists who are capable of doing in biology what has already been done in the fields of space and of atomic physics?"

The National Foundation-March of Dimes is sponsoring a campaign across the nation to build up and equip the Salk Institute.

In 1956, a year after his polio vaccine was declared safe and effective, Salk began to think about a "center for biological research where outstanding scientists in the fundamental disciplines would carry on their work in an atmosphere of intellectual imagination, heightened by the presence of the fellow workers."

DEVELOPED THE IDEA

He developed the idea of assembling "men of great excellence in the fields of biology, genetics, biochemistry, physics and mathematics" along with "philosophers, historians of science and others concerned with humanitarian objectives."

"We prefer to think of life and health rather than disease and cure.

"The attitude and the approach at the Institute will be positive. The aim will be to contribute to helping man make the best of his gift of life."

★ ★ ★

The site for the Institute's three buildings, which will provide all the facilities needed by the "bionauts," consists of 27 acres overlooking the Pacific just north of San Diego. Gift of the land, valued at $1 million, was authorized by the electorate last year.

Old Town of Odense Right Out of Storybook

ODENSE, Denmark (UPI)—Entering the land of Hans Christian Andersen, the traveler steps into the fairytale world he expects — medieval streets with gingerbread homes, thatched-roofed cottages, swan-dotted lakes and castles complete with legends.

Odense, Denmark's third largest city, calls the famed storyteller its own, but all of Funen Island makes up the fairytale land of which Odense is the center.

Castles and manor houses dot the countryside, the hedgerows along the roadsides are repeatedly interrupted by white timbered and stuccoed cottages crowned with thick matted straw roofs.

Country inns specialize in the fish dishes expected of a north European island.

Although a major manufacturing center with 125,000 residents, Odense maintains its heritage as one of Scandinavia's oldest cities. It was in Odense that St. Canute was slain by Jutlanders in 1086. The old Cathedral here still holds his remains in its crypt.

ANDERSEN'S HOME

Andersen's home, adjoined by a museum, stands in a quaint area of little, steep-roofed buildings lining narrow cobbled streets.

The museum boasts an impressive collection of his handwritten manuscripts and mementos of his life, down to the little leather sack in which he carried the farewell letter written him by the woman he wanted so to marry, Riborg Voigt.

★ ★ ★

It is a place where the Danes go and ask, "Could we have a table in the yard?" — the open air inside patio of the old building — and read from menus chalked onto slate.

★ ★ ★

While many vacationists who include more than Copenhagen on their Danish itinerary head for Odense — it's a delightful 85-mile rail and train-ferry trip, 2½ hours from the capital — the area still is to be overrun by American tourists.

★ ★ ★

Egeskov Castle, less than 20 miles from Odense, is one of the showplaces of Denmark. The 15th Century castle, stands in its weathered red brick majesty on a moat-made island.

★ ★ ★

For those wondering where else to go besides Copenhagen, there is something new in Denmark — very old Odense.

Spas Booming in Europe, U. S.

American Indians and Ancient Romans First to Take the Waters'

WASHINGTON — The centuries-old custom of "taking the waters" is being revived.

European spas are booming, and American watering places are beginning to regain their popularity. Therapeutic waters remain a prime attraction, but modern spas also offer the diversions of holiday resorts.

American Indians and ancient Romans were among the earliest peoples to prize the bubbling waters, the National Geographic Society says.

Warring tribes buried their tomahawks at what is now Hot Springs, Ark., so all the braves could benefit from the salubrious flow.

ROMAN BATHS

The Romans built baths at mineral springs throughout Europe. An outstanding one was the present-day Belgian town of Spa, which became a popular health resort in the 16th century. Spa was known as Le Cafe de l'Europe, but its proper name became generic for watering places and a boon to crossword-puzzle makers.

Bath, England, was the site of elaborate Roman baths. The resort gained its greatest fame in the 18th century under the guidance of Beau Nash.

Nash's rigid code of conduct for his famed Pump Room transformed the noveaux-rich into gentlemen — at least while they were in Bath.

George Washington bathed at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., while on a surveying trip in 1748. He returned to Bath, as it was then called, many times, but in 1796 deplored the "growing dissipation" at the gay resort.

In their 19th-century heyday, European spas were frequented by crusty old gentlemen with gout, liverish colonels on leave from the tropics, matchmaking mothers and fortune hunters.

Many German marriage contracts of the period specified the wife's right to visit a spa at least once a year. Entire families, with voluminous baggage and a retinue of servants, settled in health resorts for the summer in both Europe and the United States.

Leonard Man, 72, Dies Driving Car

A 72-year-old Leonard man, Matthew J. McCarrick, died of a heart attack yesterday while he and his wife were driving on Drahner Road in Addison Township.

McCarrick's wife Neva, 70, said they were traveling only about 10 miles an hour when her husband was stricken. The car went off the road on a curve but did not hit anything.

McCarrick was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

Playing Cards Long on Deck

13th Century Traders From East Had Them for Sale

NEW YORK (UPI) — The next time your partner trumps your ace in a bridge game, count to 10 and then let off steam by reflecting on the colorful history of the playing card.

Consider, for example, that playing cards have been enlivening or depressing, but always entertaining mankind for more than 600 years.

How many aces have been trumped, or similar booboos perpetrated in that time may make your own plight seem less bleak.

As far back as the 13th or 14th century, traders from the East brought with them spices, fine cloth, gold, ivory — and playing cards. And the cards had much of the elements of today's.

CALLED TAROCCHI

The expensive, rare and richly worked ancient decks were called "Tarocchi" and found mainly in Medieval Italy.

They consisted of a trump suit of twenty-two "atouts" in addition to four 14-card suits.

The atouts represented the most important forces affecting mankind, such as religion, lighting, disease, war and death.

The common suits were basically by the four suits of the decks we have now. They represented nobility, clergy, tradesmen and peasants — today's spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs, respectively.

CALLED CAVALIERS

Face cards were essentially the same except that Knaves were called Cavaliers.

Cards originally were made by hand of costly materials, including ivory, metal, silk and wood. Many were gold-encrusted.

Gutenberg, father of printing, brought his discovery to cards and fine quality low cost cards began to receive wide popularity.

Among the 120 million Americans who play cards today, Contract Bridge and Canasta are played the most.

Pinochle, poker, solitaire, rummy, 500, Auction bridge, Hearts and Gin rummy also are favorites.

Battle Creek Man Dies in Canadian Accident

ENTERPRISE, Ont. (UPI) — Frank Graham, 56, of Battle Creek, was killed and Frank Icles, 62, also of Battle Creek, was injured Saturday night when their car crashed into a tree stump near Enterprise, about 30 miles northwest of Kingston.

Icles was reported in satisfactory condition in Kingston General Hospital.

Last GOP Legislator Succumbs in Alabama

HALEYVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—The last Republican to serve in the Alabama legislature died yesterday after a short illness.

Rev. Benjamin G. Dodd, 69-year-old Baptist minister, represented Winston County during the Gordon Person administration in 1950. He was the only GOP house member at that time.

Detroit Man Leaps to Death From Bus

ST. GEORGE, Utah (UPI) — L. C. Scott, 35, of Detroit, was killed Saturday when, police said, he dived through the front window of a bus and was run over.

The driver of the bus was quoted as saying Scott had been "acting strangely" just before the accident on U. S. 91 near the Utah-Nevada state line.

Find Old Polish Road

IS THIS PICKETING? — This was the scene in Los Angeles when Teamsters Local 420 ordered the five drivers at the W. E. Cooper Lumber Company to go on strike. Drivers Hyman Spiegel (left) and Bud Ellis relax in comfort — using equipment furnished by the firm they are picketing. Lois Ogborn (right), a company office worker, carries a sign against the union. Old Testament Translation to Eliminate All 'Nonsense'

LONDON (AP)—A panel of biblical scholars is weeding out "nonsense" passages and such words as virgin and Jehovah from the Old Testament in a revolutionary English language translation which aims at more accuracy and readability.

★ ★ ★

Prof. Godfrey R. Driver, director of the 10-man panel, said the changes are expected to stir as much controversy as did those in a New Testament version by a companion group of scholars. It was published last year.

NAME NEW 'ENGLISH'

The two-new translations will be combined as the New English Bible which is sponsored by a joint committee of Britain's major Protestant churches. Prof. Driver said the revised Old Testament, which has been in the works for 15 years, may be ready for printing in four years, a year ahead of schedule.

The panel is using the standard 9th Century Hebrew text for its part in the first major British revision of the Bible since the King James version appeared 351 years ago.

Driver, 70, professor of philology at Oxford University, said the Dead Sea scrolls proved "very disappointing indeed from our point of view. I do not think there are more than two dozen places where they gave us substantial help with a difficult passage, though they do provide a complete Isaiah, probably or possibly of the first century B.C."

A NEW RHYTHM

Prof. Driver said the new wording will give the Old Testament a wholly new idiom and rhythm. Passages of poetry will be redone in verse, affecting nearly all the books of the prophets and particularly Isaiah.

The word virgin will be replaced in Isaiah's "behold a virgin shall conceive" and other passages because the original Hebrew word "means only a marriageable young woman, whether virgin or not," he said.

"Jehovah" disappears because it was a deviation produced in 1520, and "leprosy" goes since in biblical times it meant a skin disease now called psoriasis.

Rebel Leaders Seeking Office

Most Algerian Chiefs Included in Lists of Election Candidates

ALGIERS (UPI) — Most of the men who led Algeria's nationalist forces through the seven and one-half year war of independence today were named candidates for the nation's first national assembly.

★ ★ ★

The list of the 196 candidates submitted by the National Liberation Front (FLN) for the Sept. 2 elections was published today.

Among those named were strongman Ahmed Ben Bella, Provisional Government (GPRA) Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda and former provisional Premier Ferhat Abbas.

The publication of the candidate list followed weeks of wrangling between Ben Bella's ruling political bureau and the leaders of the powerful willaya (military district) councils.

ALL REPRESENTED

Supporters of all three contending factions — the political bureau, the willayas and the deposed Provisional Government — were included.

The election of those named on the candidate lists was virtually certain. No opposition party lists had been filed by last night's midnight deadline.

Among the prominent leaders left off the candidate lists was Col. Houari Boumedienne, head of the wartime exterior army general staff.

★ ★ ★

It was believed Boumediénne's name was omitted because the political bureau has stipulated army personnel elected to the assembly must become inactive.

★ ★ ★

Four of the seven members of Ben Bella's political bureau were included. They were Ben Bella, Hadj Ben Alla, Mohammedi Said and Mohamed Boudiaf.

First Auto Accident Happened in Ohio City

By EARL WILSON

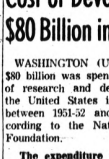
VAN WERT, Ohio—Who's this Henry Ford they talk about and where's this town called Detroit?

I've just interviewed a great old boy named Jim Swoveland, 91, whose face should be put on a stamp. He was in America's first horseless carriage accident—and he didn't sue anybody.

Not only that, he even claimed he felt perfectly fine for the next 70 years.

"Yessireeeee," he says, "the year was 1891 . . ."

The gas buggy (a three wheeler with fringe-on-top) was smoking and roaring down Main St. in a town down the road a piece called Ohio City, Ohio. The driver suddenly saw a tree stump in the street.



WILSON

He swore a little, — "Carn-sarn!" probably — swearved, but glanced off the stump—and crashed rattlety-bang into a hitching post.

He was doing a torrid 10 miles an hour, he scared the horses tied up nearby, and they started kicking. So did the village constable, who came panting after him.

The driver was John William Lambert, who also built the car. And Lambert's 1891 car was a year ahead of the Duryea Brothers' 1892 car generally credited with being first—so the Lambert car was really No. 1, says our hero.

★ ★ ★

Here in Van Wert they are happy to let Ohio City have the first car and the first accident . . . they just want to claim to be the peony capital and the only place where leiderkranz cheese is made. They laugh when folks boast about "imported" leiderkranz and find it's from Van Wert.

Space Work Will Repay Billions Being Invested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There's gold in space.

Space agency officials say direct dividends such as those from weather and communication satellites, and incidental harvests from improved electronic gadgetry and materials, will repay the billions being invested in the exploration and exploitation of space.

Take the incidental payoffs first. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) says they will be tremendous. For example:

★ ★ ★

—Miniature sensors used to monitor astronauts' reactions are being converted into "electronic nurses" which keep watch at a distance on hospital patients.

—Space-proof materials are being made into nearly indestructible toasters, refrigerators, pots and pans.

These, however, may turn out to be petty pickings compared to the dividends already being realized from weather satellites and anticipated from communication stations in space.

WEATHER SATELLITES

The United States launched the first of seven planned TIROS weather satellites on April 1 1960.

★ ★ ★

Already TIROS weather eyes are credited with saving many lives and preventing a billion dollars in property loss by providing advance warning of hurricanes and other severe storms.

★ ★ ★

The big benefit from meteorological stations in space is that they keep a global watch on the weather. Only one-fifth of the earth is covered by conventional weather observation methods.

The thousands of cloud cover pictures taken by TIROS satellites have been fed into the world's forecasting networks.

The latest TIROS weather stations are so designed as to cover 22 million square miles more of the earth's surface than was photographed by the earlier ones.

TIROS DATA

Although the weather bureau has been using TIROS data in its regular forecasts for sometime, it does not expect to have a weather satellite system operating routinely on a world-wide basis until NIMBUS comes along.

NIMBUS, considerably more advanced than TIROS, will be launched into north-south polar orbits, which means it will observe practically every spot on earth once every 12 hours.

The performance of TIROS is limited by the fact that it is launched into east-west orbits.

Unlike TIROS, NIMBUS will be oriented so that its cameras are aimed constantly at the earth. The television eyes aboard TIROS are pointed at empty space much of the time.

In addition to these research and development satellites paid for by NASA, there will be four NIMBUS satellites — two each in 1964 and 1965 — bought by the Weather Bureau for use in a full-fledged, completely operational space weather system.

But not even NIMBUS will satisfy the weather man. He wants more than one view of the local weather every 12 hours. He wants something that can keep a steady eye on a storm, of whatever nature, from beginning to end.

To accomplish this, NASA is planning AEROS, tentatively scheduled for launching in 1966.

AEROS satellites will be fired into equatorial orbits 22,300 miles high where they will seem to hold a fixed position in respect to a point on earth under them.

They will be able to scan the earth constantly over both hemispheres.

Even if weather satellites merely brought about a 10 per cent improvement in forecasting accuracy, it would result in savings to farmers and others "totaling hundreds of millions of dollars annually."

TWO DIE IN TRAIN MISHAP — A newsman examines hole pierced in Pullman sleeper after a Chicago and Eastern Illinois passenger train derailed yesterday near Watseka, Ill. Two persons were killed and several injured. Authorities said the car was pierced by a length of track, apparently causing the fatalities.

Michelangelo's Pieta Placed in Vatican Just 462 Years Ago

WASHINGTON — The Pieta, Michelangelo's marble statue of the dead Christ in His mother's arms, was smuggled into the Vatican.

There probably was no reason for stealth. But the sculptor was only 24, and the cardinal who had commissioned the Pieta for St. Peter's Church in Rome died before it was completed in A.D. 1499.

Unwilling to quibble about the disposition of the product of two years' work, the impetuous genius mustered a group of friends who swathed the intricate statue in old blankets, hefted it onto a cart filled with straw, and took it to the Vatican at night.

Tussling the 3,000-pound carving into St. Peter's, the invaders installed it in the proper niche—and waited for repercussions.

NO OUTCRY

There were none. At first, few Romans were aware of Pieta's existence.

But it has remained in St. Peter's for 462 years and is so integral a part of the great basilica that Italian art critics oppose the plan to bring it to New York for a Vatican pavilion at the 1964 exposition.

Curiously, though the Pieta is one of the most beloved religious masterpieces in the world, it has no historical basis. The Scriptures do not indicate that the Virgin Mary had a single moment alone with Christ after he was taken down from the Cross.

A MOTHER'S GRIEF

Michelangelo's purpose, however, was to portray in gleaming marble the grief of a mother for her martyred son.

Michelangelo overcame many technical difficulties in carving the Pieta. He wished to depict Mary as a youthful woman, her purity unmarred by age. To the Son he allotted His full 33 years. His genius made the anomaly work.

There also was the problem of portraying, without awkwardness, a full-grown man lying in his mother's arms. This he accomplished by giving Mary delicately folded robes to form a pyramidal composition.

The artist enlisted the aid of many Roman Jews, in their early thirties, to pose for him as the slain Christ on a wooden framework simulating the seated Madonna.

His Mary was the composite of many youthful Italian women—the daughters or wives of friends. He gave her Florentine features.

To make the white marble glow when he had finished the carving, Michelangelo polished it painstakingly with pumice.

RECEIVED 450 DUCATS

For his two years of dedicated work, Michelangelo received 450 gold ducats in installments. He and his young apprentice often went without proper food and clothes.

It is assumed that the Pieta will be insured for at least a million dollars before it is brought to New York, says the National Geographic Society.

Oddly, the Pieta is the only art work that Michelangelo ever signed. While in St. Peter's one day, he was annoyed to hear uninformed visitors speculating about the possible identity of the sculptor.

Again, under cover of night, Michelangelo returned to the Vatican with his hammer and chisel. On a band that is part of Mary's garments he wrote an inscription: "Michelangelo Buonarroti of Florence made this."

Plastic Bomb Explodes Near Franco's Villa

The blast damaged only the windows of a nearby villa. Officials said police found an unexploded bomb in the same area.

New Honor for California Publisher

Anti-Birch Fighter, 85, Wins Journalism Award

WATERVILLE, Maine (AP)—New honor came today to an 85-year-old fighting California newspaperman — already twice honored for distinguished journalism since he challenged, last year, the activities of the John Birch Society, a militantly conservative group.

A committee, including noted newspapermen, now has named Santa Barbara publisher Thomas More Storke to be the 1962 recipient of an award given yearly by Colby College in memory of an alumnus, martyred editor Elijah Parish Lovejoy.

When shot to death in Alton, Ill., Nov. 7, 1837, Lovejoy was defending — against a mob — his newspaper plant and his right to publish truth as he saw it. He has been hailed as "America's first martyr to the freedom of the press."

★ ★ ★

The award, to be presented Nov. 8 at Colby's observance of the 125th anniversary of Lovejoy's slaying, will recognize Storke as a newspaperman of "integrity, craftsmanship and character," who has continued the Lovejoy heritage of fearlessness and freedom.

Owner-editor of the Santa Barbara News-Press, Storke is dean of California publishers, having given 61 of his 85 years to running his newspaper.

★ ★ ★

Today's Colby College announcement noted that Storke last November received the Lauterbach Award given each year to an American newsman for outstanding work in the field of civil liberties. He was cited for "pointing out the dangers to American freedom created by extremists of the radical right."

In May this year, the Colby announcement also noted, he received the Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing — for calling attention to what his newspaper said was a "campaign of hate and vilification" by the John Birch Society.

The committee that chose him for the Lovejoy Award consists of Herbert Brucker, editor of the editorial page of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant; Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor; Dwight E. Sargent, editor of the editorial page of the New York Herald Tribune; Robert E. L. Strider, president of Colby College; and Reginald Sturtevant, chairman of the Colby College board of trustees.

The ruddy-faced Tom Storke includes in his ancestry Spanish lieutenant Jose Francisco do Ortega, who discovered San Francisco Bay and the Golden Gate in 1769. Storke went to work as a $6-a-week cub reported in 1898 in his native seaside city. Three years later, with $2,000 he borrowed from a druggist, he bought the Santa Barbara Daily Independent.

Storke's News-Press, a daily of more than 31,000 circulation, is the lineal descendant of the little "Independent" and other newspapers Storke acquired.

Brandt Talks Tough in W. Berlin Riots

Race Time to Avert Smallpox Spread

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

NEW YORK—Health officials of two nations worked against an awesome deadline today to find and vaccinate all persons who may have come in contact with a young Canadian smallpox victim.

The stricken boy, James William Orr, 14, flew here from Sao Paolo, Brazil, Aug. 11 on a plane with more than 80 other persons, including his parents and a brother and sister.

He passed through Idlewild Airport, traveled by cab to Grand Central Terminal and sat in the huge station's waiting room for 8 hours before boarding a train for Toronto.

It was in Toronto that the boy, described by his missionary father as feeling "under the weather," was taken to a doctor and eventually to a Canadian hospital.

Canadian authorities said the boy's illness was virtually certain to be smallpox, although confirming tests were still to be made. U.S. Public Health Service officials said there was no doubt.

BEGIN SEARCH

Authorities here, mindful of the contagious nature of the disease, embarked on a hunt for everyone who may have contacted him here.

★ ★ ★

This included passengers on the plane and the train, customs and airline personnel at the airport, a taxicab driver, a luggage porter, and all those who may have been in the terminal's main waiting room while James was there.

From Washington, telegrams were sent out to 71 of the 74 passengers on the boy's flight, Argentine Airlines Flight 322. New York Police reported today they had located all but six of 30 New York-bound passengers.

The highly contagious disease, which may bring death to as many as 35 of each 100 victims, was last reported in this country in 1947.

'IN NO DANGER'

James entered Riverdale Isolation Hospital in Toronto Saturday and is in no danger, according to doctors. "Clinically the boy has the disease . . . but there is no need for panic or alarm. We do not anticipate an epidemic," said Dr. Matthew B. Dymond, Ontario's minister of health.

The boy's missionary father, James Robert Orr, said his son probably contracted the disease in the interior of Brazil, where the family of five had been on a mission until they flew to New York via Argentine Airlines Aug. 11.

To cope with the challenge, the New York Health Department set up 12 vaccination centers in Manhattan and the Bronx, while issuing a call for all those who may have come in contact with the boy to step forward without delay.

While the city vaccinated more than 300 persons at its centers yesterday, the U.S. Public Health

46 Ford Models Offered for '63

Newsmen at Showing; Four Series Extending Their Lines

By HARRY REED
Managing Editor,
The Pontiac Press

DEARBORN — Ford will offer 46 models in four lines, 13 more than last year, company officials revealed today to newsmen attending a press preview of the firm's new line for 1963.

Included in the Falcon, Fairlane, Galaxie and Thunderbird series will be 13 more models than last year, with a convertible in the popular Falcon line.

Ford officials said millions of dollars will be saved for consumers by the extension of service-saving features throughout all models.

"We will be offering our customers Thunderbird-inspired styling in cars from $1,800 to $5,000," said M. S. McLaughlin, Ford Division assistant general manager.

Ford will have 15 sedans, 10 hardtops, 6 convertibles and 15 station wagons. Fifteen of the models will have bucket seats.

New highs of reduced maintenance for all lines were outlined.

The Thunderbird will have 100,000-mile, or 3-year chassis lubrication.

In all other Ford lines the chassis lube interval has been boosted to 36,000 miles.

New in the Falcon Futura series are two convertibles, a Fastback hardtop, a Fastback sport coupe and a 4-door sedan.

The Fairlane line gains five models for '63 with addition of a 2-door hardtop, sport coupe and three station wagons.

The restyled Galaxie will offer a new 4-door hardtop in the 500XL series.

Three of Ford's lines will offer 4-speed, floor transmissions.

BERLIN DEMONSTRATORS — Youthful West Berlin demonstrators rush past police near Checkpoint Charlie at the Berlin wall yesterday to reach a Russian bus carrying Soviet guards. Police cleared the crowd from the wall after the bus was pelted with bottles.

Orders Police to Crack Down on Wild Protest

Demonstrators at Wall Hit GIs, Reds After Escaping Youth Killed

BERLIN (AP)—Mayor Willy Brandt today ordered West Berlin police to crack down on rioters "with the necessary vigor" after wild weekend demonstrations at the Red wall brought attacks on Americans as well as Soviets.

East and West Berlin police also were involved in the melees. Brandt appealed for calm in a radio speech.

Thousands of angry West Berliners marched, shouted and threw stones at Soviets, Americans, the wall, East German border guards and their own police Sunday.

RED SLINGSHOTS

Huge slingshots were used to hurl tear gas grenades from the Communist side.

The rioting was to protest shooting by East Berlin border guards of a young refugee trying to escape. He was left to die slowly on the East side of the wall while American troops and West police watched from the other side.

Maj. Gen. Albert Watson, the U.S. commandant, disclosed the Soviet command had refused an invitation to discuss the increased tension with American, British and French commandants at U.S. headquarters. Watson had offered to lift a ban on the Soviet commandant visiting the U.S. sector.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for the three Western powers deplored the Soviet refusal and declared:

"The irresponsible actions of the East German regime in the Soviet sector and their murderous use of fire on defenseless individuals have produced a grave situation.

"The acting Soviet commandant cannot, by refusing to discuss the situation, divest himself of his direct responsibility."

RIOT INTO MORNING

Young West Berliners — best available estimates put their number at about 5,000—rioted into the early morning hours.

A red-haired young West Berliner called for another demonstration this afternoon.

The Western spokesman said Gen. Watson sent his letter to the acting Soviet commandant at the height of last night's rioting.

Watson warned a situation was developing rapidly that "could

JFK Goes for a Swim; Crowd 'Swamps' Him

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Kennedy, weekending here, decided to take a swim in the Pacific—and was almost swamped by a throng of 1,000 admirers.

The scene was reminiscent of Coney Island on a muggy Fourth of July. The Secret Service, to a man, was in a mild state of shock.

Bystanders walked into the sea fully clothed as the President strode into the ocean in front of the Santa Monica beach home of his brother-in-law, Peter Lawford.

It happened Sunday during the President's 33-hour visit to southern California, a flying trip which ended shortly before midnight when the presidential jet took off to return to Washington, D.C.

The President arrived in Washington at 7 a.m. (Pontiac time).

★ ★ ★

It had been billed as a non-political trip, although the President obviously helped the cause of Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown when they dedicated the $511-million San Luis Dam in central California on Saturday.

The President spent much of his time in southern California with Lawford — whose wife, like the President's, is vacationing in Europe.

Delegates at Geneva

Reds Reject Partial Ban

GENEVA (AP)— A Soviet spokesman today rejected proposals for a partial nuclear test ban treaty even as Swedish scientists reported the Russians set off a new atmospheric blast in their current testing series.

A treaty that would ban all but underground tests "will not settle the problem," the spokesman told reporters before the opening of the 72nd session of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

The idea of a half-way treaty has been advanced by Brazil, Sweden and Italy because the nuclear powers are deadlocked on methods of enforcing a ban on underground testing.

Their idea is to stop atmospheric tests without delay to east fallout dangers.

★ ★ ★

Swedish scientists reported the new test in the Soviet Arctic proving grounds was in the range of 12 megatons, the equivalent of 12 million tons of TNT. It is the third recorded by Sweden in the current series.

DELEGATES ASSEMBLE

There was no mention of the Swedish reports as the delegates assembled and heard chief Soviet Delegate Vasily Kuznetsov assert his government "will do everything possible to come to speedy agreement to end all nuclear weapons tests."

Conference sources said he made no reference to the possibility of the partial treaty rejected by his spokesman. But he laid stress on the words "all tests."

Kuznetsov said every effort must be made to achieve some results on the issue before the U.N. General Assembly meets next month and added: "It is now up to the United States."

Sir Michael Wright of Britain replied that the persistent Soviet opposition to the idea of spot checks in the Soviet Union to guard against cheating raised doubt that Moscow ever would agree to effective controls.

★ ★ ★

Wright said the United States and Britain had agreed to cut their request for 20 annual on-site inspections to 12 and now were ready to agree to an even smaller number.

★ ★ ★

India urged that U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean and Kuznetsov, the conference cochairmen, begin discussing questions to govern on-site inspections.

Russia's Third N-Test Blasts Out Over Arctic

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

UPPSALA, Sweden — Russia today continued its new series of nuclear tests in the Soviet arctic with an atmospheric explosion of 12-megaton force, capable of wiping out a large city, Swedish scientists said.

The blast was recorded at the seismological institution of Uppsala University and an official announcement said the explosion was set off at 5:02 a.m. EDT.

The nuclear test was the third in the current series in the Novaya Zemlya area.

The first was a huge 40-megaton bomb, the second largest ever exploded by the Russians. It was set off on Aug. 5.

The second bomb was exploded on Aug. 10 and had a blast power of 3 megatons.

An institution spokesman said no other tests have been recorded recently.

The most powerful bomb ever recorded, 57 megatons, was set off by the Soviet last fall. That test and today's were made over the Arctic Novaya Zemlya Peninsula.

Uppsala scientists estimated the latest blast to be about 12 megatons, equivalent to explosion of 12 million tons of TNT.

2 Are 'Well' After Rare Transplant

LONDON (UPI) — Two British doctors surgeons took a medical gamble by transplanting a kidney from Dr. David Spencer, 32 to Dr. Ian Clark, 34.

If successful, it is believed it would be the first time such a transplant has "taken" in a kidney switch between people not related by blood.

"Everyone calls my husband a hero," said Mrs. Spencer last night. "To me he is just a kind, ordinary man."

MET IN FEBRUARY

The two doctors first met last February and had had little contact with each other when Dr. Spencer learned that Dr. Clark, who had only one kidney, was sinking lower and lower because his one remaining organ was not doing its job properly.

Mrs. Clark said that Dr. Spencer came to visit her and her ailing husband one day and said:

"What are you worrying about. I have a kidney to spare."

"We were very moved by this incredible offer," Mrs. Clark said. "He said it flippantly but I knew he meant it."

Dr. Spencer meant it all right — because, according to his wife, he felt that "the world could not afford to lose a doctor as good as Ian."

He is expected to remain at the hospital for two or three days.

AEC Chief Believes U.S. Weapons Tops

WASHINGTON (AP)— The magazine U.S. News & World Report quotes Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg of the Atomic Energy Commission as saying he believes the United States still leads Russia in atomic weaponry regardless of the Soviet tests of 1961 and 1962.

In a copyrighted interview with the weekly news magazine, Seaborg also said he does not believe Nikita Khrushchev's claim that Russia has an antimissile missile so accurate it can hit "a fly in the sky."

Signals New Era on Seas

N-Merchant Ship to Shove Off

ABOARD NUCLEAR SHIP SAVANNAH (AP) — This 22,000-ton vessel — the world's first known atomic-powered merchant ship — shoves off today on a maiden voyage which signals the opening of a new era in commercial passenger and cargo hauling on the high seas.

★ ★ ★

The 21½-day voyage from historic Yorktown, Va., to Savannah, Ga., also will mark an American advance in the technological race with the Soviet Union.

The Soviets have built a nuclear-powered ice-breaker, but their plans to enter the nuclear-powered merchant ship field are believed to be still in the blueprint stage.

The Savannah is not expected to enter regular commercial service for about a year and a half. Meantime it will make demonstration trips and possibly take on some paying passengers for trips between American ports.

NO PROFIT SEEN

Atomic Energy Commission officials said the vessel is not expected to operate at a profit because it is the first ship of its kind "and costs of such a prototype are necessarily high."

Among passengers aboard the great white ship for the run to Savannah, Ga., were Georgia Gov. and Mrs. Ernest Vandiver; Rep. and Mrs. G. Elliot Hagan of Georgia, and Mayor and Mrs. Malcom MacLean of Savannah.

The ship was named in honor of the 320-ton sailing vessel with auxiliary steam power that first crossed the Atlantic in 1819 using steam power part of the way.

Although the Savannah has undergone previous sea trials, the present trip marks her first excursion to a regular commercial port.

Solon Charged in Philippines

American Arrested as Senator Accused of Violating Graft Law

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine government filed criminal charges today against Sen. Fernando Lopez of the opposition Nacionalista party and arrested an American radio-television executive on deportation charges.

★ ★ ★

The actions were part of a wave of arrests and charges against prominent officials and businessmen directed by President Diosdado Macapagal since his deportation of American industrialist Harry S. Stonehill.

Criticism of Macapagal's handling of the Stonehill case mounted. A leading opposition critic accused the President himself of having had connections with the American and claimed that Macapagal "acted as an instrument to serve the interest of Harry Stonehill."

★ ★ ★

Lopez, a former vice president of the Philippines, was charged with having had a financial interest in the sale of land by a government corporation, violation of the Antigraft Law, violation of the Tax Census Law and falsification of public documents.

BROTHER CHARGED

His brother, Eugenio Lopez, who heads the family's large business interests, was also charged with violation of the Tax Census Law and falsification of public documents.

★ ★ ★

American Robert La Rue Stewart, operator of a radio-television network here and himself a well-known radio-television personality, was arrested on deportation charges filed by the government Friday.

He was taken to the immigration bureau's detention center at the Manila waterfront pending action on a petition for bail.

★ ★ ★

Stewart, formerly of Denver, Colo., was charged with interfering in elections, a crime for aliens, corrupting public officials and violating radio control laws.

★ ★ ★

The so-called "Lopez bloc" has been under bitter attack from Macapagal since early this year. He charged that the group was seeking to control congress in order to further their business interests.

CHIN UP — Three-year-old Debbie Hall of 4100 Van Stone Drive, gets a lesson from Mrs. William Murray on the correct way to relax while floating. The instructor has just concluded a six-week swimming course for youngsters under 5. Many of her 22 pupils now "dog-paddle" along the edge of Green Lake.

Pontiac Press Photo

'Blowww Bubbles, Children'

She Teaches Water Babies

How do you get and hold the attention of a 3-year-old long enough to teach him how to swim?

Ask former Olympic diving aspirant Mrs. William Murray of 3579 Warner Drive, Green Lake. For the last six weeks she has held swimming classes for tiny tots in the 3-to-5 age bracket.

Tuesday mornings the Warners' lake-front yard has been filled with 22 youngsters lying flat on their tummies doing the flutter-kick, back float and dog paddle. At first everything is done out the water during the land exercises.

Seated in a big circle on the grass and with arms on their knees, the tender-aged group has learned correct breathing habits while swimming.

"Take a breath and blow bubbles," chants Mrs. Murray. Everything is done in rhythm.

★ ★ ★

In the dog paddle practice, it's "Remember children, a dog swim right in close. Now pull, pull, pull, pull." The whole class "Pulls" and joins in the chorus.

Then comes the "floating" on land. Lying flat, hands over the head, small chins are raised and feet flutter.

"This exercise is for when you get tired," ays the petite Mrs. Murray.

'NOW, BARK'

Finally, it's "Everybody on their hands and knees, bark lige poodles and crawl down into the water."

By the time the youngsters are ready for their water-learning, any previous fear or shyness has been literally washed away.

"Whether the children actually know how to swim at the end of the course, is immaterial," Mrs. Murray said, and added that at least they know what it's all about and their bodies have gone through a small physical fitness program.

★ ★ ★

Crofoot School Seeks OK on a Hot Lunch Program

The Crofoot Elementary School PTA has won a recommendation in favor of a hot lunch program from the Pontiac school administration.

★ ★ ★

A final decision on providing the initial $4,000 capital outlay for equipment is up to the Pontiac Board of Education.

The request is on the agenda for the 7:30 p.m. Thursday Pontiac Board of Education meeting at 40 Patterson St. Asst. Supt. Richard C. Fell will present the report.

Crofoot would be the 18th elementary school in the Pontiac school system to get a hot lunch program.

SHOWS INCREASE

Past surveys at Crofoot had indicated such a program wouldn't be supported but the present survey shows a marked increase in community interest. All hot lunch programs are run on a self-supporting basis, financially.

The survey covered 215 families, or more than 350 children.

Results showed that 168 children would buy lunch every day and 150 others, several times each week. Only 27 families voted against the proposed program.

In listing their reasons for wanting a hot school lunch provided most parents said there seldom was an adult at home at lunch time.

The food is to be prepared at Central High School, which has a cafeteria next door to Crofoot.

Much of the cost will be for equipment to transport food from Central to Crofoot and for equipment to wash, sanitize and store compartment serving trays and flatware at Crofoot.

The transporting equipment, the method of transfer and the entire food service plan have already won the approval of the Pontiac Board of Health.

A study of the plan was made by Crofoot Principal J. Albert Henning, Food Services Coordinator Margaret Johnston and representatives of the Crofoot PTA, Fell reported.

Rain Dampens Sections in East of Nation

By The Associated Press

Showers dampened scattered sections in the eastern half of the nation today but generally fair and warm weather prevailed in most areas.

The shower belt covered areas in the central plains, the middle Mississippi Valley, the eastern Ohio Valley and in the northern Atlantic coastal states. Only other wet spots were along coastal areas of Washington.

Unseasonable hot weather extended throughout the south central region Sunday. The mercury reached 105 in St. Louis, the highest mark in eight years. It was 102 in Kansas City and 101 in Springfield, Mo. The 105 reading in Little Rock, Ark., was a record for Aug. 19.

1959 Balloons Found Bobbying Miles Away

SANDOVAL, Ill. (AP) —Officials of this Southern Illinois town's centennial committee were surprised to learn some of the helium-filled balloons released during the centennial celebration in 1959 were found bobbing in a Florida surf 1,200 miles away in May 1962.

The mystery was solved when a fisherman explained he was using the discarded balloons to test a fishing technique during a Florida vacation.

Beat a Calm Retreat to Avoid Getting Stung

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)— If you're threatened by a bee, make a calm disengagement instead of panicky retreat to avoid getting stung.

★ ★ ★

That's the word from the Florida Board of Health, which also counsels you to leave off flowery-smelling perfumes and wear light-colored clothes because perfumes attract and dark clothes provoke bees. When appeasement tactics fail, douse the stung spot with calamine lotion.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Scattered thundershowers are expected tonight in southern Florida and from the Ohio Valley eastward to mid-Atlantic states. Warm weather is due for most of the nation except for somewhat cooler temperatures in upper Mississippi Valley and into western Great Lakes region.

Dem Lt. Gov. Lesinski Hits Welcome to Durant

'Romney Hasn't Guts to Lead His Party'

By The Associated Press

Democratic Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski yesterday termed George Romney a man "who doesn't have the guts or stamina to lead his own party."

He referred to Romney's acceptance of controversial Richard Durant as a Republican district leader after Durant resigned from the John Birch Society.

Romney, however, indicated Saturday that as Republican nominee for governor he would renew efforts to have Durant ousted from his 14th District vice chairmanship if he is not satisfied that Durant resigned as a Bircher "in spirit as well as in letter."

"If his disavowal of Birch principles is not genuine and complete," Romney said in a statement, "and if he does not prove capable of real leadership, then I will go to the people of his district on a direct personal basis and seek his removal from party leadership responsibility."

★ ★ ★

Lesinski, addressing a Kalamazoo County Democratic organization barbecue, declared that "Romney couldn't beat Durant so he took him to his bosom."

"Is this what you call guts?" he asked. "Is this a man who is willing to pay the price to be governor?"

Lesinski later predicted to newsmen that a tax revision bill including an income tax will be passed next year, "particularly since the obstruction is removed."

REFERRING TO MORRIS

He apparently was referring to the primary election losses of Sens. Carlton Morris, R-Kalamazoo, and Charles Feenstra, R-Grand Rapids.

Lesinski said, however, tax revision would not be achieved if Romney wins in November. There still are conservatives in the State Senate, he said, who would "cut a man like Romney to ribbons."

Gov. Swainson, at a meeting of Democratic leaders in Hartland Saturday, also spoke of what he called the "Durant sellout." He declared that the GOP would make any appeasements in an attempt to gain votes.

★ ★ ★

Swainson said he welcomed the opportunity to debate with Romney on television in October over progress in Michigan under 14 years of Democratic leadership.

He complimented Detroit television stations for donating air time for the scheduled debates.

'DEAR DICK' LETTER

Romney, who concluded an Upper Peninsula campaign swing Saturday, sent Durant a "Dear Dick" letter saying "The news of your resignation from the John Birch Society is very welcome" and a decision "which enhances your capacity for leadership."

A Detroit newspaper (The Free Press) published the letter Sunday. But Durant said he had not received it.

In a news release following publication of the letter, Romney told Republicans: "I urge the people of his district to watch closely — as I will — to determine his real intention. That determination should not take long to make."

Durant reacted heatedly when portions of the letter were read to him. He said he might have some comment "after I've seen" the letter.

Romney attracted large crowds to rallies at Ironwood, Crystal Falls and Sault Ste. Marie in last week's tour. He appeared Saturday at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba.

The former American Motors Corp. president hit hard at Michigan's job problems on his U. P. trip, where unemployment runs as high as 18 per cent in some places.

'KNOWS WHAT IT TAKES'

"I've spent a good deal of my life saving jobs and creating jobs," Romney declared. "I know what it takes, not in theory but from actual experience."

He leaves today for a three-day tour of southwestern Michigan counties, starting with Kalamazoo County. He also will visit Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties.

Alvin Bentley, Republican candidate for congressman-at-large, followed Romney to the Upper Peninsula Saturday.

He told newsmen at Iron River that he would advocate a federal subsidy for iron ore and other natural resources if that were necessary to avoid reliance on foreign suppliers for defense purposes.

Winnie to Head Home Tuesday From Hospital

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill will leave the hospital for home tomorrow morning, his wife said today.

The 87-year-old former prime minister has been in Middlesex Hospital since June 29 recovering from a broken thigh sustained in a fall in Monte Carlo.

His doctor, Lord Moran, saw Churchill and told newsmen: "You can make an intelligent guess about Sir Winston leaving."

Later Lady Churchill emerged from the hospital and said he would be leaving before lunch tomorrow.

Viet Cong Pulls Retreat Action

Army Offensive Fails as Guerrillas Hide in Mangrove Swamps

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —Hard-core Viet Cong guerrillas, following military tactics which won China and North Viet Nam for communism, have survived a massive government offensive in the southern swamplands.

★ ★ ★

For four days crack government troops, supported by U.S. Marine Corps helicopters, fighter planes and armored river craft, rolled across Ca Mau Peninsula seeking 2,000 Communist guerrillas who have turned it virtually into a little Communist state.

The government high command is arguing with American advisers over the tally of Viet Cong dead: The government claims 124, the Americans 60. The Viet Cong main body got away again.

The four-day operation was the brainchild of Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam and Thailand. Harkins and his high command worked on and were highly optimistic when it got under way.

★ ★ ★

JUST DISAPPEAR

Communist guerrillas in Ca Mau, faced with an overwhelming government force, just disappeared into the mangrove swamps with their women and children.

As exhausted government troops pulled out, the Reds applied another guerilla law, "Attack when the enemy is tired."

Government columns moving out of the swamps met frequent ambushes but the Communist firepower came from inaccurate old muzzle loaders and shotguns. Government dead at operation's end totaled four.

★ ★ ★

'Family Farms an Inspiration to Freedom'—JFK

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — President Kennedy said today America's privately owned family farms are an inspiration to freedom—loving people arbound the globe.

Kennedy made the comment in a message of greetings to the opening of the three-day annual summer meeting of the American Farm Economic Association.

Some 1,500 farm experts from the United States and abroad are at the University of Connecticut's College of Agriculture for the meeting.

Recount Action Seen Unlikely

Berry's Manager Says Petition Probably Will Not Be Filed

Plans for a recount in the Democratic primary election for drain commissioner probably will be abandoned by Daniel T. Berry, his campaign manager said today.

★ ★ ★

Final results of an election canvas completed late last week showed Berry the loser to Roy J. Russell by 83 votes, 7,398 to 7,315.

First unofficial tabulations pegged the margin at only 62 votes.

Berry's campaign manager Carl O'Brien said it appears unlikely his candidate can pick up the necessary votes in a recount.

PRIMARY CONCERN

He pointed out, however, that a final decision has not yet been made.

O'Brien said Berry is primarily concerned with results from Springfield Township, where he said more than 100 Democratic voters traditionally turn out.

In the Aug. 7 primary, O'Brien noted that Berry and Russell received a combined total of less than 50 votes while Berry's challenger at the polls reported more than 100 Democratic voters.

O'Brien said Berry is also investigating the results in Royal Oak Township.

In order to request a recount, a candidate must file a petition with the county clerk's office by Wednesday. A recount costs a candidate $5 per precinct, the money to be refunded if mistakes are found which change the results.

Hunt Those Exposed to Smallpox Victim

Service gave vaccinations to more than 400 others at Idlewild Airport.

Centers in the city and at the airport were put on a round-the-clock schedule, while officials tried to hunt down the cab driver who transported the Orr family.

The father, who first described the driver as a Negro, later said he was white with a dark complexion and a foreign accent. He remembered the taxi only as being light-colored.

There are about 12,400 cabs in New York City with some 40,000 drivers.

The Day in Birmingham

Enrollment of Students Set by Public Schools

BIRMINGHAM — Students enrolling in Birmingham Public Schools are urged to do so as soon as possible before the Sept. 6 opening of schools for the 1962-63 year, the Board of Education announced today.

They are urged to register at their respective schools, which will be open for registration from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday beginning today.

All schools will start with half-day sessions Sept. 6.

Counselors are now on duty to test and schedule new students at Seaholm Senior High School and Groves Junior-Senior High School, according to the announcement.

Testing of new students at Derby and Barnum junior high schools is scheduled for 9 a.m. next Monday.

★ ★ ★

A pilot program of advance registration for both new and returning students is slated to begin next Monday at the Groves School. All students will be able to pick up their schedules and pay their fees next Monday through Friday Aug. 31, although students who are out of town will be able to register Sept. 4 and 5.

★ ★ ★

If the advance registration system proves successful, it may be adopted throughout the school district in 1963-64.

Parents whose children will be attending a Birmingham elementary school for the first time are requested to contact the elementary school nearest their home.

Kindergarten children must be five years old and first graders six years old by Dec. 1. Further information is available at the board of education office.

Birmingham elementary school teachers, student teachers and substitute teachers will participate in a three-day elementary school workshop Aug. 27-30 at Adams School.

Purpose of the workshop is to acquaint teachers with materials to be used during the 1962-63 school year.

Major emphasis will be placed on revised programs in arithmetic and social studies and on the areas of language arts and science.

Sessions will include consideration of objectives, content, utilization of instructional materials and methods of instruction.

Joseph Leiber

Joseph Leiber, 79, of 998 Popview Drive, died unexpectedly yesterday at his residence. His body is at Manley-Bailey Funeral Home.

Service and burial will be in Chicago, Ill.

Surviving are his wife Elizabeth; a daughter, Mrs. Robert Eckholm of Birmingham; a on, Richard, of LAKELAND, Fla.; and four grandchildren.

Brandt Talks Tough in W. Berlin Rioting have grave consequences extending far beyond the city itself." Recent incidents on the wall, he said, have produced tension that increasingly jeopardizes peace and order.

The spokesman said Watson's letter suggesting a conference was returned to U.S. headquarters "with the statement that the acting Soviet commandant did not wish to discuss the contents of the letter."

The Western commandants are nevertheless still ready to discuss the situation, the U.S. spokesman said.

Mayor Brandt, in his radio appeal for restraint, did not refer to the U.S. note to the Russians. Brandt's efforts were directed to patching things up between the Western allies and the police on one side, and West Berliners on the other.

The West Berlin mayor said everyone was stirred by events at the wall, but declaed:

"Last night's incidents, in which individual groups of demonstrators took action against our allied friends and West Berlin police, compel me to make an urgent appeal. When we permit such actions, we are advancing the cause of the other side."

In Bonn, the Committee for an Undivided Germany, representing all major West German political parties, said it would go before the United Nations Human Rights Commission to accuse the East German Communists of waging "inhuman terror" daily along the wall.

STARS WATCH

Film stars Doris Day, Janet Leigh and a bikini-clad Sue Lyon (the films' "Lolita") watched the President's swimming jaunt, but weren't in the presidential party and stayed clear of the mob scene which ensued.

It started when the President, apparently without prior warning to his security guards, emerged from Lawford's beach-front home and set out for the surf 100 yards across the sand.

The house fronts on a public beach at nearby Santa Monica. Some 100 bathers, who had been waiting for hours for just such an appearance, let out a wild cheer.

★ ★ ★

The cheers brought other bathers from out of the sand, from under blankets, from everywhere. They closed in on the smiling Chief Executive, many trying to shake his hand. Affably, he obliged for many.

★ ★ ★

He dived under a big breaker. Most of the throng followed him in — including one fully dressed woman and one fully dressed news photographer.

SWIMMING 'PALS'

For 15 minutes he swam vigorously. The crowd swam with him. The Secret Service, late in catching up, watched helplessly on the beach.

The guards didn't breathe easily until a hastily summoned life guard patrol boat cruised up near the swimming President.

May Delay Space Flights

Find New Belt of Radiation

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—A new and perhaps menacing radiation belt is in the atmosphere around the earth — put there, scientists say, by a United States high-altitude nuclear test blast July 9.

Little is known of the new belt except:

1. It could imperil astronauts in future space flights, and hence might cause the United States to delay its Project Mercury program.

★ ★ ★

2. It emits radio frequency signals and therefore may interfere with some radio astronomy.

★ ★ ★

The presence of the radiation belt, 600 miles and higher above the earth, was disclosed by Dr. James Warwick of the University of Colorado's high-altitude observatory, in a copyright article by science writer Victor Cohn of the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune.

Dr. Warwick's comments were substantiated by Dr. James A. Van Allen, who in 1958 discovered the principal radiation belt encircling the earth.

INTENSIFIES RING

The Colorado scientist said the effect of the Pacific high-altitude test blast last month was to greatly intensify the so-called Van Allen radiation ring.

The new ring, he said, consists of high-energy H-bomb electrons, invisible atomic particles, which follow the path of the earth's magnetic equator. The Minneapolis Tribune described the new radiation ring as probably a temporary layer under the inner part of the Van Allen belt.

"By temporary," said Dr. Warwick, "I mean possibly months or it may mean five years. We are maintaining constant observation, and I hope that by Sept. 1 we may have more information."

★ ★ ★

At Southampton, N.Y., where he is vacationing, Dr. Van Allen said the new belt has "increased the potential danger for manned space flights," but detailed exploration and scientific examination is needed before the effects on Project Mercury flights can be determined.

"I don't want to prejudge the data," Dr. Van Allen said, "but the radiation is a matter of concern and it is conceivable that Mercury flights might have to be delayed."

Van Allen said the situation conceivably could lead also to delay in similar flights by Russians.

Variations of the Van Allen belt's radiation have been studied for a year with the help of a satellite called Injun, launched for scientific purposes on June 29, 1961.

Dr. Van Allen said previous Soviet nuclear blasts had not affected the radiation belt.

Epidemic Hits Colombia Town

Bronchitis Outbreak in Florencia Following Flood Killing 41

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — An epidemic of bronchitis broke out today after floodwaters swamped the jungle town of Florencia, killing 41 persons and leaving 136 missing.

The avalanche, set loose by a burst dam on the River Hacha, swept tree trunks and huge boulders into the sleeping town early Saturday. About 3,000 of the 20,000 inhabitants are homeless.

No injuries were reported among members of an American military mission stationed in Florencia, 250 miles south of Bogota.

Capt. K. W. Vansandt, member of the U.S. team, making a geodetic survey, said: "It was a nightmare. Streaks of light from flashlights were all that illuminated the darkness as groups of people ran widely crying and screaming."

More than 1,000 cattle perished and 30,000 tons of rice were destroyed, dealing another blow to the town, which experienced the most severe winter in years.

Milk cows in farm herds in the United States total 17,400,000, down 200,000 from a year ago.

Shoe Bag

(UPI) — The shoe tote bag is becoming a favorite with the consumer, who wants a neat package for carting an extra pair of shoes to office or on a trip. One tote is an elongated number printed in unborn "fur" calf, with an outside pocket for cosmetics, stockings, and change. A gold chain adds dash.

Epilepsy – Scleroderma

Q. This question is being submitted after I read your column on epilepsy. A relative of mine has spells in which he has to stop and be very still for a few minutes. He breathes fast and gets pale but does not froth at the mouth or jerk. After a few minutes he gets over it. If this is epilepsy, what drugs should he take?

A. This is more or less typical of petit mal epilepsy. Don't encourage your relative to try do-it-yourself diagnosis and treatment but urge him to see a physician. The doctor should be given a complete and accurate description of just what occurs during the attacks. There are several very effective drugs for this type of epilepsy, but let the doctor decide which to use.

Scleroderma

Q. I have an incurable skin disease called scleroderma. My right arm is affected. How long will it be before my arm becomes useless?

A. It would be impossible to say, because scleroderma goes through periods of activity and let-up. In some cases the affected area will tend to clear up, while at the same time a new area may become involved. Scleroderma can appear suddenly and progress rapidly. More often, however, the onset is slow, the process requiring years for full development. (For the benefit of other readers, scleroderma is "hardening" of the skin and underlying tissue, including muscle.)

Girl Scout Reports From Encampment

(Editor's Note — Lynne Springer is The Pontiac Press' special correspondent at the Girl Scout encampment at Camp White Deer in Wisconsin. This is the first of her series.)

By LYNNE SPRINGER

Camp White Deer (320 acres) is located about 22 miles directly east of the Eagle River in Wisconsin.

It is bordered on the west and on the east by 60-acre White Deer Lake, a spring-fed lake with white sandy shores and uniform water temperature.

"LYNE"

Part of the encampment offers wonderful opportunities for short hikes and over-night pack trips. The site has a large variety of trees in all stages of growth and a variety of wildlife.

FIRST WEEK

The first week of camp life centeree around activities in patrol living. A special feature of the encampment program is that patrols have the opportunities to "exchange" friends at meals. A guest speaker from Egypt may possibly speak to our patrol.

Last Monday we had the opening of the camp flag ceremony. On Thursday and Friday we had the first encampment campfire and introductions of the staff.

★ ★ ★

These two days were also reserved for demonstrations which were very interesting and educational.

Last Saturday we had a progressive troop dinner. Each patrol prepared a different part of the meal. It turned out very well because we all enjoyed the food and had our share of it.

Many of the girls had different varities of swaps (articles representative of their home regions). Some of the girls are very clever and full of good ideas.

Bermuda Coat

(UPI) — The knee kamper, also called the Bermuda coat, falls straight line from shoulder to knee and is tailored with large carry-all pockets and welt seaming. The coat, teamed with Bermudas or shirt dresses in calico prints, will debut on college campuses this fall. It comes in suede cloth and wide-wale corduroy. The colors: loden, vicuna and royal blue.

The average American foot size has increased by one and a half sizes since the beginning of the century.

Family 'Vote' Example

'Employer Papa Symbol'

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-401: Dr. Max and his wife has seven children in grammar and high school.

"But we have a problem about the TV curfew hour," he said, with a rueful grin.

DR. CRANE

"Our youngsters want to sit up far beyond the time we think is proper, especially on school nights.

"So my wife and I had a showdown last night. But our children said in a democracy the rule of the majority should prevail so they demanded we all vote on the issue.

"Well, our oldest girl voted with us, but the final tally was 6 to 3 in favor of later TV curfew hours.

"Dr. Crane, what do you say to this matter of using a majority vote to determine justice?"

REPUBLIC vs. DEMOCRACY

In a democracy, whether of the true or representative sort, the mere majority vote determines justice.

But that is wrong!

Christ was thus crucified in a perfect democracy because the crowd voted 100 per cent to send Him to the cross and release the murderer, Barabbas.

So our Founding Fathers made this a Republic — not a democracy?

For in our Republic we don't let even a 100 per cent vote of Congress determine justice. No, indeed! We have a previous written document called the Constitution that defines or rights.

★ ★ ★

And the nine faithful watchdogs, called Supreme Court justices, can nullify any bill passed by both houses of Congress!

In a democracy, the majority rules — but the minority then can be pillaged, looted or slain, for it has no further rights.

So a democracy is based on the jungle rule that "might makes right."

In our Republic, however, we operate according to the Golden Rule, so we grant equal rights to minorities, whether they be Irish or Jew, Catholic or Protestant.

Alas, however, employers still function much like "Papa" before the millions of workers.

Even though employes are adults in age and are voting citizens, most of them still react like overgrown children, so they often oppose the better judgment of "Papa," who is the boss or employer or "management."

By mere mass voting majority, they think they can produce justice in labor disputes, just as Dr. Max's children claimed their 6 to 3 vote proved it right and just for them to sit up and watch TV an hour longer.

'GROW UP'

Our big problem in America is how to persuade the adult "children" to study the real facts and then side with "Papa," like that one older daughter of Dr. Max.

The average citizen is so naive about business and finance that he seems to think Uncle Sam can just print money in unlimited amounts to furnish more welfare and ever increasing fringe benefits.

Unless we can educate our youth — and 8 million new potential voters will be of age in 1964 who were too young to vote in 1960 — we are soon going to see a fascist dictator in America!

Then the adult "children" will be disfranchised and ordered to work as Hitler ruled Germany just 20 years ago.

To prevent that tragedy, send for my booklet "How to Save Our Republic," enclosing a stamped, return envelope plus 20 cents and pass it around quickly!

★ ★ ★

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

'Secret Agent'

(UPI) — "We're all going to look like secret agents this fall," said New York milliner Sally Victor as she opened her fall collection. Many hats in her collection had the "secret agent" look to go with the same Mata Hari influence in other fall ready to wear. There were bowlers, visored caps, and small forward-setting hats with heavy veiling to wrap the face completely.

An average of 5,100 doctors of medicine are graduated each year by the nation's 77 medical schools.

Notes of Interest

The Wallace G. Browns of South Tilden Avenue were hosts at buffet dinner Sunday when the engagement of their daughter Patricia Ann to Bennie R. Pawley, was announced.

Among some 30 guests from the Pontiac area were Mr. Pawley's parents, the Keith R. Pawleys of West Walton Boulevard, his grandmother, Mrs. Myrtle Pawley, and Susan, Marie and Dennis Pawley.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Cornell came from Glen Dale, W. Va. for her sister's announcement. Other guests were the Burl Morrises and daughter, Judith, Drayton Plains, Vicki Edwards and Shirley Beacom of Waterford Township, the Joseph Murphys and family of Flint.

Pork Steak Casserole Goes Together Quickly

Pontiac Press Food Editor

Sometimes our favorite recipes don't have a name. We used to have a rich pudding when we were young that was called simply "Our" pudding. Today's recipe had no title when Mrs. Robert Wright gave it to us. She says it is good for those occasions when you have to furnish a hot dish.

Mrs. Wright is interested in design and decorating. She likes to sew. The Waterford Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary counts her among its members.

PORK 'N' NOODLES
By Mrs. Robert Wright

1½ pounds pork steak
8 oz. wide noodles
1 can condensed chicken rice soup
1 can cream style corn

Cook noodles in salted boiling water. Drain. Cut meat into small cubes and brown thoroughly. In a casserole put alternate layers of meat, noodles and corn. Season to taste. Pour soup over top and sprinkle with cracker crumbs. Bake one hour at 375 degrees. Makes 6 servings.

Electronic Brain 'Unkind' in Psychoanalysis of Scribe

By BOB CONSIDINE

ROCHESTER, Minn. — Sell your stock in the company that makes couches for psychologists, psychoanalysts and psychiatrists. The Age of the Computer has caught up with those dodges. The President may soon have to consider a retraining program for the disciples of Freud and fellow tinkerers with the human mind.

Watched IBM take care of the whole matter here at the Mayo Clinic the other day. One of IBM's workhorse electronic brains, Model 1620, has been harnessed to a 25-year-old psychologic test devised at the University of Minnesota by Dr. Starke Hathaway, Ph.D., and the late great psychiatrist J. Charnley McKinley.

In one minute the machine, having digested certain punched cards, can render a verdict on a person who has answered the "Minnesota test" and whose "case" might have puzzled trained psychologists for hours or even days before automation took hold.

Embarrassingly enough, Model 1620 ruled that I am "probably somewhat eccentric." I have retained Edward Bennett Williams as counsel but his operatives have not been able to find a way to serve the papers. Model 1620 has no hands or pockets.

At Mayo's, all those patients and visitors who care to answer the 550 questions posed by the test may do so. The machine's verdicts, of course, are not regarded as infallible by the nearly 1,000 doctors and "fellows" in residence at this remarkable Mecca of medicine.

But the reports, on the other hand, may shed interesting light on the nature, spirit, temperament, hopes and misgivings of those concerned — and no bit of information, nor clue nor hint, is overlooked in the treatment of a patient.

The "true" or "false" test strikes one as highly irrelevant in places, though it has weathered a quarter of a century of constant testing. Here are some "true" or "false" items:

"I like to read newspaper articles on crime . . . there seems to be a lump in my throat much of the time . . . once in a while I think of things too bad to talk about . . . I am sure I get a raw deal from life . . . at times I have very much wanted to leave home . . .

"During one period when I was a youngster I engaged in petty thievery . . . my soul sometimes leaves my body . . . everything is turning out just like the prophets of the Bible said it would . . . I do not read every editorial in the newspaper every day . . .

"I used to like drop-the-handkerchief . . . I sometimes tease animals . . . I think most people would lie to get ahead . . . my table manners are not quite as good at home as when I am out in company . . . often I can't understand why I have been so cross and grouchy . . . if I could get into a movie without paying and be sure I was not seen, I would probably do it . . ."

THE BITTER 'TRUTH'

"True" or "false" is indicated by a pencil marking. The cards are then fed into a machine which discerns the location of pencil marks and punches a hole at that spot.

A second machine duplicates these holes on other cards and, apparently, at the same time jogs all the memory pools within the ultimate machine, dastardly old 1620.

Then the astonishing payoff. One's 550 answers are gulped by 1620. It makes a sound not unlike a Park Avenue psychoanalyst clearing his throat and speculating on what he can charge the dowager on the couch for telling her she'd be better off taking in washing.

Then a sheet of paper spills from the top of 1620. It is laden with abbreviations for such disturbances as hypochondriasis (worry over physical condition), psychasthenia (how orderly, disorderly), and hypomania (social or antisocial).

My cards passed the reviewing stand like drooping flags even though I answered "true" to such virile propositions as "in walking I am very careful to step over sidewalk cracks."

I think it was my marking of "true" to "I used to like drop-the-handkerchief" that brought about 1620's decision. Will fight it to the Supreme Court.

Gang's Victims Identify Man Held in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Yonder, brought from an Ann Arbor jail Saturday, was held by Chicago police today after victims of a robbery-torture gang identified him as a member of the gang.

Nick Guido, arrested with the 23-year-old Yonder at Ann Arbor on a traffic violation charge, remained in Ann Arbor. He has demanded a lawyer and is fighting extradition.

Guido, accused of being the gang leader, is scheduled to appear before Judge James R. Breakey Wednesday.

At a line-up in the Cook County state's attorney office Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Botthof of Suburban Winnetka identified Yonder as their torturer and one of the men who robbed them of more than $8,000 in their home May 28.

Committee Trying to Kill Golden Goose?

Eying Second Site for U.S. Cultural Center

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — Things, as we say in Wonderland, are getting curiouser and curiouser.

It is a well-know fact that a nationwide drive will be launched on closed-circuit television in a hundred cities this November to raise thirty million dollars for a national cultural center.

The odd part of it is this: Although Congress has already passed a law authorizing the center, and has donated a beautiful park site on the Potomac River near the Lincoln Memorial, the cultural committee is quietly negotiating with railroad executives about the possibility of buying Union Station instead.

To do so would require another act of Congress, since the one creating the center specifies the free park site. More importantly, it would also remove from the taxrolls the biggest district taxpayer in every year but one since the cavernous granite structure was erected 55 years ago.

Union Station is jointly owned by the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio railroads. In the year just ended it paid $1,882,354.36 taxes, with nearly a million and a half of it going to the federal government.

* * *

The remainder went to the hard-pressed District of Columbia which is losing taxable property at an alarming pace each time the government razes a block of houses to rect a new office building, or another foreign government comes into being and buys an embassy here.

CAN'T BLAME RAILS

No one can blame the railroads for trying to unload their heavily taxed properties. Because of stiff competition from planes, trucks and autos, the financially embarrassed Pennsylvania Railroad had already made a deal with the Madison Square Garden Corp. to scrap Pennsylvania Station in New York City. Unlike the cultural negotiations, however, that land would remain in New York tax rolls.

An official spokesman for the proposed cultural center, queried about the reported negotiations for Union Station, conceded that they have been going on. He said the group would prefer the parklike setting that Congress has provided, but that many "pressures" were being brought on the committee to locate elsewhere.

He did not identify the pressures, but said the committee took pains to investigate such suggested sites. He admitted that one possible drawback to the Union Station location would be the "possible noise and vibration" from trains arriving and departing just below, since a new station would be built adjoining the present structure, to straddle existing tracks now used by five railroads.

* * *

The plans for the center, to be unveiled in Newport, R.I., Sept. 11 envision three basic auditoriums where opera, symphony and theater can perform simultaneously.

First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy and former First Lady Mamie Eisenhower are honorary chairmen of the project, with Roger Stevens of the Stevens Development Corp., New York City, as chairman.

Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, Jackie's mother, is chairman for the Washington metropolitan area, and will oversee a big $100-a-plate dinner and several theater parties here the evening of Nov. 29, when the fund-raising drive begins.

Other $100-a-plate dinners will be held simultaneoulsy in New York and throughout the nation.

The cultural center is a marvelous, long-overdue project that should have the enthusiastic support of every American. Foreigners visiting here from abroad are shocked to discover that no stage in the capital city of America is large enough to accommodate, for instance, the full cast of Russia's world-travelling Bolshoi Ballet.

This is a completely bipartisan undertaking that Congress rushed through in record time. The nation needs and wants it. Why risk killing the goose that laid the golden egg, by going back to Congress to change the site?

Dixie Churches Bar Negroes, Whites

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI) — Negroes and whites attempted to integrate seven churches here yesterday with "kneel-in" demonstrations but were turned away. Three Negroes were arrested on the steps of a Baptist church.

It was the second consecutive Sunday the integrationists had tried to enter the churches. A woman who was admitted to St. Paul's Episcopal Church last week was told to leave yesterday.

Asst. Police Chief James Lairsey said three Negroes were stopped at the top of the steps at the First Baptist Church by a deacon who asked them to leave. When they refused they were arrested and charged with trespassing.

Most of the demonstrators were Negro. A biracial group was turned away from the First Presbyterian Church.

Skin Divers Find Ship 15 Miles Off Florida

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Two skin divers have found a sunken vessel in the Atlantic Ocean 15 miles east of St. Augustine.

A sheriff's deputy, J. V. Hugas, said a compass found on the steel-hulled craft apparently was the one used on a shrimp boat, the Francis, which was reported missing April 2 with three men on board.

Warns of Drugs Causing Harm

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — There still are drugs on the American market which may have the same effect on unborn children as thalidomide, a doctor from Emory University said Saturday.

Dr Richard W. Blumberg, chairman of the pediatrics department at Emory in Atlanta, did not name the drugs to which he referred.

He spoke at the closing session of the 12th annual obstetric-pediatric seminar here.

But, he said, "doctors are aware of these effects, and we have fair control over these drugs."

'Tremendous Task Produces Remarkable Film'

Director Wrapping Up 'Cleopatra' Extravaganza

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "I feel like the man who wrote 'Our American Cousin,'" complained Joseph Mankiewicz. "Nobody ever talked about the play—all because some idiot with a pistol took a shot at President Lincoln."

THOMAS

Mankiewicz is the man who directed "Cleopatra," and everybody seemed to want to talk about something else besides the movie itself. Here to put the film in final shape, he seemed pleased and delighted when I asked about his own work on it.

★ ★ ★

"Well, it is coming along," he said. "Right now we are in the process of trying to put together the second half, and it is a monumental job. But I think it is going to be a remarkable film—not merely in its spectacle, but in the human relationships, too.

"It was a tremendous task to put together two complete love stories. Mr. Shaw wrote a play about one of them—'Caesar and Cleopatra,' and Mr. Shakespeare wrote a play about the other one—'Antony and Cleopatra.' I had to combine both in one film.

"I would be the megalomaniac of all megalomaniacs if I said that I thought I had accomplished what I wanted to do. But I think it will be a good movie, and the cost will be seen on the screen."

WEREN'T READY

Oh, yes—the cost. It has been the subject of some discussions, such as how on earth can any movie cost a reported $30 million.

"It's easy," explained the director. "The major reason for its costing so much is starting it before we were ready.

"It is hard to argue with men schooled on generations of movie-making cliches. They had Liz Taylor on salary, so they said: 'Let's get something on film.'

"They don't realize that it is cheaper in the long run to keep Miss Taylor on salary while the script is being written and sets prepared. Instead, I have to work under the gun, and the company has to pay four times what a costume would ordinarily cost."

★ ★ ★

Is "Cleopatra" finally finished?

"The company thinks so," he smiled. "I don't. Perhaps I am being over-anxious in wanting to do everything just right. I would like to go back and do some more, but they have a good reason why I shouldn't: they ran out of money."

The film will run four hours, he said, and will be shown in one sitting, despite his notion that it could be split into two $15 million movies. The company wouldn't go for it.

Everyone was hoping for a December release to qualify for Oscars. But that appears a physical impossibility. The release date is now expected to be February.

Mankiewicz scoffed at suggestions that "Cleopatra" could have been made faster and more cheaply in Hollywood.

★ ★ ★

"It couldn't have been done here," he said. "How would you get 7,000 troops? How could you stage the Battle of Actium with real ships? I have as much regard for Hollywood's technical proficiency as anyone, but there are some things that are impossible to do here."

The director, who was famed for such films as "All About Eve" and "Letter to Three Wives," said he has had it with epics. "My next film will be shot against two walls—maybe one," he said.

In parting, he expressed his gratitude that I had asked no questions about THEM. Next time, I promised.

Oust Hungarian VIPs in Purge of Purgers

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Matyas Rakosi, Hungary's former dictator, and 24 of his Stalinist followers have been booted from the Communist party in a purge of the purgers. Karoly Kiss, regarded as the leading Stalinist still in an important position in Hungary, also was demoted from the ruling Politburo.

★ ★ ★

The new purge was announced in a communique Sunday following a four-day meeting of the party's central committee. James Kadar, the party chief and premier who was jailed in one of Rakosi's purges, presided.

★ ★ ★

The expulsions from the party were ordered six years after the 1956 Hungarian revolt threatened to topple the Communist regime which Rakosi established with his boasted salami-slicing tactics.

Expelled from the party along with Rakosi, 70, was Ernoe Geroe, 63, who succeeded him as the country's boss. During the 1956 revolt, Geroe followed his former chief into exile in the Soviet Union. He was allowed to return to Hungary last year but was barred from political activity.

STILL IN SOVIET UNION?

Rakosi is believed still to be in the Soviet Union. He is reported in poor health.

★ ★ ★

His expulsion from the party was a bitter finish to a lifetime career spent in the service of communism. Returning to Hungary with the Soviet army in 1945 he took over the interior ministry and police and began a campaign of undermining his Socialist and Smallholders party colleagues in the postwar government.

His method, he said, was to "demand a little more each day, like cutting up salami, thin slice after thin slice."

The other parties eventually were ousted.

Rakosi and Geroe were expelled from the party because of their "absolute political responsibility for the miscarriages of justice based on forged evidence," the communique said. Twenty-three others dropped from the party were not named.

Kiss, former deputy premier, foreign minister and vice president, was fired from the Politburo for failing to admit responsibility for harmful party decisions before 1956. He lost his job as party secretary last year.

Officials Working to Put Man on Moon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Over a year ago President Kennedy told Congress it would cost America much toil and treasure to sail in the great ocean of space.

But, he said, "I believe we should go."

He said the United States ought to try to land men on the moon, and bring them safely back, before 1970.

At about the same time a high space official was asked by congressmen if this country could meet the assumed Soviet goal of men on the moon by the 40th anniversary of the Red revolution in 1967. He replied:

MAY BE POSSIBLE

"I think it may be possible."

This official probably would not say that today. It may take a year or two longer.

But all responsible officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) still believe it is possible to put Americans on the moon in the time period suggested by Kennedy.

So, with the blessings and appropriations of Congress, this country is bunching its muscles to send a three-man astronaut team to the moon.

NASA Administrator James E. Webb thinks there is a good chance we can get there before the Russians.

In the meantime, the United States is stepping up its unmanned exploration of space, not merely between earth and moon but beyond to Mars and Venus.

It appears highly probable that in the next five years man will have the answer to some questions which long have puzzled him:

PUZZLING QUESTIONS

— Can human beings survive and work in the strange environment of space, far from the planet in which their species evolved?

— Do any of the other planets in the sun's family harbor life? Is it similar to or wildly different from the life of earth?

— What does the moon look like close up? What is it made of?

The U. S. lunar exploration program alone is expected to cost nearly $20 billion by 1970.

It may well cost $40 billion. The bill for unmanned space exploration to and beyond the moon will not be small.

★ ★ ★

Why orbit all that money and effort into an airless, waterless, foodless, ray-filled environment which is so obviously hostile?

There are the obvious and often-stated reasons of national pride, prestige and security. The moon is what the old-time artilleryists call high ground.

It would, they say, make a fine military base. Scientists think it would be far more valuable as a space laboratory and observatory.

Also, a multitude of gadgets, electronic and mechanical, brought into being by the space projects are finding uses on Mother Earth.

In addition to all this are the practical rewards of the exploitation of space for communications, navigation, and weather forecasting.

It has been said that weather and communication satellites will more than repay all the billions invested in space.

★ ★ ★

What other motives impel man to fire his instruments and his fellows against the radiation reefs of the planets and subject them to the bombardment of atomic projectiles and meteoritic bullets in solar space?

★ ★ ★

Here is an answer given recently by Edgar M. Cortright, deputy director of NASA's Office of Space Sciences:

★ ★ ★

"We want to unlock the secrets of nature: to search for extra-terrestrial life, to determine the nature and origin of the solar system, to understand our sun, and to probe the mysteries of the universe . . .

★ ★ ★

"We want to excell in science and technology as a nation. We do this by tackling the toughest problems of our day . . ."

Most Gains in Fractions

Stocks Up, Trade Moderate

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged higher in moderate early trading today.

★

Most of the gains were by fractions and there was a sprinkling of losers.

Motors, aircrafts, utilities and electronics provided most of the early plus signs. AT&T was fairly active and higher by a major fraction.

The steel group held practically unchanged. Jones & Laughlin showed a loss of about ½.

GROWTH ISSUE UP

Some of the growth issues were up 1 to 2 points. These included IBM, ahead more than 2, Xerox almost 2 and Litton around 1¼.

Rails, oils, chemicals and metals were irregular.

There was little business news over the weekend to affect the stock market.

Bond Mart Trading Light

NEW YORK (AP) — Light trading and only minor price changes marked the opening of bond markets here today.

Top grade corporate corporate bonds showed little movement on the New York Stock Exchange, although a few issues climbed major fractions and Pacific Gas and Electric 2⅞s of 1976 rose 1⅞ to 85.

An over the counter dealer in government securities quoted most treasury issues unchanged to 1-32 or 2-32 higher. Short maturities showed no change at all.

Early price changes among corporates included a ¾ advance to 102⅞ by General Motors Finance.

The Veterans Administration disclosed it would study whether a special dividend could be declared on GI insurance as a means of helping boost the economy.

★ ★ ★

The Commerce Department disclosed that personal income in 1961 climbed to a record high of $414 billion.

Among the motors, Ford was ahead almost ½ as the company previewed the 1963 line for the press.

Also up about the same was Chrysler, one of last week's more active issues and one of the best gainers.

GM, Studebaker and American Motors, ex-dividend, were up smaller fractions.

New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad were unchanged. The Interstate Commerce Commission opened hearings today on their proposed merger.

Kirby Petroleum fell about 1 and off fractions were Draper Corp., Paddington Corp. and Imperial Oil.

Church Builder Tries New Vane

Low-Priced Structure 'Essay in Protestant Simplicity'

NEW YORK (UPI) — An architectural essay in Protestant simplicity and liberalism has been "written" on a six-acre slope in Norwalk, Conn.

The structure is called the United Church of Norwalk. It was built at a relatively modest price of $115,000 and yet was designed to last as long as the most massive European Cathedral.

A congregation of 100 members raised funds for the church and then gave the architect, Victor Christ-Janer, only one set of instructions.

They were to express trends and liturgical aspirations of the modern church movement, and to merge the individualism of Protestantism with the group approach to religious experience.

Christ-Janer concluded that a nonsymmetrical enclosure embodying the traditional function of the New England meeting house would be the answer.

To achieve this, he used modern materials, which are cheap, light and durable and a construction system that enabled workers to assemble the structure as they would a jig-saw puzzle.

"Disciplined disorder," is the way the church members describe what resulted.

The church exterior consists of a mass of triangular panels abandoning the traditional straight lines of churches but preserving a sense of space.

★ ★ ★

Each triangle consists of a "sandwich" made up of fir plywood and insulating materials reinforced and coated with a protective finish.

More than 5,000 square feet of floor space have been enclosed in a single vapor-sealed shell prefabricated so that it took workmen only seven days to put the church walls together.

Inside, the building is divided into reception and worship areas. Pew seating has been provided for 350 persons in a variety of bench sizes to fit adults and children.

The "traffic pattern" has been arranged so that backs are never turned to the chancel and departing worshippers must leave in clusters through a side exit.

At a time when new churches are being built at a constantly accelerating rate and construction costs are rising, the United Church of Norwalk's leaders hope they may have made a contribution as economical as it is ecclesiastical to the liberal Protestant movement.

2 Hurt in Area Over Weekend

No Fatal Car Mishaps Reported; One Victim Listed as Serious

No fatal auto accidents were reported over the weekend in Oakland County, but two persons were injured, one seriously, in area traffic mishaps.

★ ★ ★

Most seriously injured was Harold E. Dillon, 41, of 6050 Long Point Road, Davisburg, who was reported in fair condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said Dillon's car apparently skidded about 360 feet off a Holly Township road and rolled over four times in a field.

★ ★ ★

The accident occurred at 1:13 a.m. on Grange Hall Road, about a half-mile east of Eddy Lake Road.

Dillon was admitted to the intensive care section of the hospital with possible head, chest and internal injuries. He was alone in the car.

Deputies were unable to obtain a statement from him because of his condition.

2-CAR COLLISION

In satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital is Mrs. Olivia Keel, 49, of 611 Nevada Ave. who was involved in a two-car collision yesterday morning at Bloomfield and Nebraska avenues.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Keel told Pontiac police she was traveling east on Nebraska when struck by an auto driven by Joseph Poe, 57, of 30 Deland Court.

Police said Poe, who was driving south on Bloomfield Avenue, had defective brakes and failed to yield the right of way. Poe was not hospitalized.

Woman Wouldn't Get In —Couldn't Fool Her

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Key West recently started using compact 15-passenger buses on some of its less heavily patronized city routes.

A driver pulled up to a stop the first week the little buses were in operation and got an icy glare from a woman who thought she was the object of a pick-up attempt.

"That's not a bus, young man," she snapped at the driver. "Don't try to fool me!"

'Great Swamp' Near New York

8,000-Acre Area Has Deer, Mink, Muskrat, Plus Tourist Trails

WASHINGTON — The lights of Manhattan's skyscrapers are seen at night by hundreds of small, shining eyes — the eyes of deer, mink and muskrat who thrive across the river in New Jersey's "Great Swamp."

The 8,000-acre Great Swamp, a wilderness virtually unchanged since the days of the Indian, is one of the largest, unspoiled natural wetlands between Maine and Virginia.

A 25-acre section of the swamp is now open as a nature center. Trails run through this and adjacent areas. Plants and trees will be marked, and blinds will enable visitors to observe birds and animals.

The Great Swamp, five miles south of Morristown, N. J., and less than 30 miles from New York City, has been called the greatest living museum in the New York metropolitan area.

★ ★ ★

Ornithologists have identified 154 species of birds. More than 5 species are known to nest and rear young there including the black duck, mallard, and wood duck. Pintail ducks gather in the swamp during the spring migration.

★ ★ ★

As one of the major resting and feeding grounds for waterfowl and small birds on the Atlantic Flyway, the swamp is a vital link in the chain of wetlands from the breeding grounds of Canada to the wintering areas far to the south.

Area Sisters Twirl Way to Top in Baton Contest

Waterford Township's baton-twirling Burns sisters, Debbie, 16, and Mickey, 12, both took first-place honors in National Baton Twirling Association - sponsored competition Saturday at Miracle Mile Shopping Center.

Competing against girls from Ohio, Indiana and Canada as well as from Michigan, Mickey took first place in both intermediate twirling and in the style show. Debbie won a first in military strutting and placed third in twirling.

The girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Van H. Burns, 939 Lakeside Dr., Waterford Township.

No Fish Tales Here at $21 for Each Foot

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Fishermen don't exaggerate when they tell Theo Carter about their prize catches.

Theo operates a fish mounting firm and at $21 a foot she says her customers speak only the truth when they bring in specimens for taxidermy work.

Few Dry Spots Found in U. S.

Mississippi Only State but Many Counties and Towns Forbid Liquor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Liquor laws across the United States vary greatly concerning who can sell it — certain individuals, or just the state — how it can be sold — by drink, or just by package — where it can be consumed — in public, or just in private.

Since Oklahoma's repeal of statewide prohibition, Mississippi is the only state which remains dry. But many counties and towns are dry in other states, under local option.

A county-by-county survey taken by the Distilled Spirits Institute showed more than half the counties dry in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

And a lesser percentage of counties were dry in Florida, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, New Mexico, Virginia and West Virginia.

A study shows crime increased 28 per cent in Oklahoma in 1960 over the previous year, while the increase nationally was only 14 per cent.

"This can only be attributed to repeal," a dry leader said.

On the other hand, a liquor director doesn't believe repeal was a factor in the crime increase. He said improvement in the reporting of violations to the FBI coupled with the shift in population to the urban areas could be factors.

He said hundreds of former bootleggers are now gainfully employed — but not in the legal liquor business. This year only 19 Oklahomans have federal liquor stamps who are not licensed dealers.

The drys now are concentrating on an educational program and trying to get the state to strictly enforce its liquor law.

The group hopes to outlaw booze again, but this attempt won't come soon.

Oklahoma has finally admitted publicly what the people always knew — it likes a toddy now and again.

A Mere 32,913 Pipes in Atlantic City Hall

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—(UPI) The pipe organ in Convention Hall here is reputed to be the largest in the world.

It contains 32,913 pipes, with seven manuals in the main console and five in a movable console.

Old Town of Odense Right Out of Storybook

ODENSE, Denmark (UPI)—Entering the land of Hans Christian Andersen, the traveler steps into the fairytale world he expects — medieval streets with gingerbread homes, thatched-roofed cottages, swan-dotted lakes and castles complete with legends.

Odense, Denmark's third largest city, calls the famed storyteller its own, but all of Funen Island makes up the fairytale land of which Odense is the center.

Castles and manor houses dot the countryside, the hedgerows along the roadsides are repeatedly interrupted by white timbered and stuccoed cottages crowned with thick matted straw roofs.

Country inns specialize in the fish dishes expected of a north European island.

Although a major manufacturing center with 125,000 residents, Odense maintains its heritage as one of Scandinavia's oldest cities. It was in Odense that St. Canute was slain by Jutlanders in 1086. The old Cathedral here still holds his remains in its crypt.

ANDERSEN'S HOME

Andersen's home, adjoined by a museum, stands in a quaint area of little, steep-roofed buildings lining narrow cobbled streets.

The museum boasts an impressive collection of his handwritten manuscripts and mementos of his life, down to the little leather sack in which he carried the farewell letter written him by the woman he wanted so to marry, Riborg Voigt.

Odense boasts an old country inn right in the center of town. Timbered and stuccoed, with bright copper and antique clocks decorating the brick walls, Den Gamle Kro (The Old Inn), dates back to 1683 is one of the most unusual restaurants to be found anywhere.

★ ★ ★

It is a place where the Danes go and ask, "Could we have a table in the yard?" — the open air inside patio of the old building — and read from menus chalked onto slate.

★ ★ ★

While many vacationists who include more than Copenhagen on their Danish itinerary head for Odense — it's a delightful 85-mile rail and train-ferry trip, 2½ hours from the capital — the area still is to be overrun by American tourists.

★ ★ ★

Egeskov Castle, less than 20 miles from Odense, is one of the showplaces of Denmark. The 15th Century castle, stands in its weathered red brick majesty on a moat-made island.

★ ★ ★

For those wondering where else to go besides Copenhagen, there is something new in Denmark — very old Odense.

Salk Launches Biology Center

Doctor Says Why Not Bionauts as Well as Astronauts

By United Press International

In the intellectual haven of Princeton, N.J., Einstein pursued his momentous theories of the universe.

★ ★ ★

In the scientific complex of Cape Canaveral, another generation of scientists works to probe the universe in reality.

Princeton's Institute for Advanced Studies and Canaveral's sandy launching pads have one thing in common: They are greenhouses for ideas.

To put it another way, they are custom-designed repositories for great minds.

What Princeton and Canaveral do for the physical sciences, Dr. Jonas Salk wants to do for the sciences of life.

Salk, developer of the anti-polio vaccine which bears his name, has launched a new Institute for Biological Studies where great minds can be gathered for a new, intense investigation on the remaining mysteries of life.

A LAUNCHING SITE

Or, as Salk himself describes the projected Salk Institute at La Jolla, Calif.—a "launching site" for "bionauts."

"If we speak of astronauts," he asks, "why can't we think of bionauts' — scientists who are capable of doing in biology what has already been done in the fields of space and of atomic physics?"

The National Foundation-March of Dimes is sponsoring a campaign across the nation to build up and equip the Salk Institute.

In 1956, a year after his polio vaccine was declared safe and effective, Salk began to think about a "center for biological research where outstanding scientists in the fundamental disciplines would carry on their work in an atmosphere of intellectual imagination, heightened by the presence of the fellow workers."

DEVELOPED THE IDEA

He developed the idea of assembling "men of great excellence in the fields of biology, genetics, biochemistry, physics and mathematics" along with "philosophers, historians of science and others concerned with humanitarian objectives."

"We prefer to think of life and health rather than disease and cure.

"The attitude and the approach at the Institute will be positive. The aim will be to contribute to helping man make the best of his gift of life."

★ ★ ★

The site for the Institute's three buildings, which will provide all the facilities needed by the "bionauts," consists of 27 acres overlooking the Pacific just north of San Diego. Gift of the land, valued at $1 million, was authorized by the electorate last year.

Tourists Speed Across the Country

WASHINGTON — Turnpikes are speeding thousands of vacationers across the United States.

The toll roads retain their popularity in spite of a growing network of free superhighways. In 1961, motorists traveled almost 14 billion vehicle miles on turnpikes, an increase of 568 million miles over 1960.

Though the 3,000 miles of turnpikes are uniform in their high engineering standards, the routes are as diverse as the United States itself.

RUSTIC TURNPIKE

Florida's Sunshine State Parkway cuts through almost primitive glades, swamps, cypress groves and piney woods. Travelers may see a flock of wood ibis, herds of Brahman cattle, and the thatched huts of Seminole Indians.

In contrast, the New Jersey Turnpike is a corridor through the heart of the industrial east.

Veteran Jersey turnpike travelers don't need maps and mileposts. They can tell where they are by sniffing the distinctive aromas from chemical and manufacturing plants along the way.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike, opened in October 1940, is the oldest of the modern toll roads. Skeptics said its daily traffic never would reach the planned 30,000 vehicles a day. Some 80,000 cars and trucks now use the road daily, and about 240 million vehicles have sped over the smooth concrete ribbons since 1940.

The West Virginia Turnpike threads its way over, under, and through mountains, giving drivers spectacular views as well as speedy travel.

The road climbs 2,600 feet without exceeding a five per cent grade. To accomplish this, the builders erected 73 bridges along the 88-mile expressway, but had to bore only one tunnel.

Cuts through rock are as deep as 256 feet. In all, workmen excavated three times the amount of earth moved in digging the Panama Canal, says the National Geographic Society.

★ ★ ★

Glaciers that pushed down from the north thousands of years ago created the major engineering problems for the Ohio Turnpike. The glacial drift formed an unstable foundation for bridges, and in one case an additional $500,000 was needed to create a secure base for just one crossing.

DIVIDED FARMYARD

In the Midwest, turnpikes sometimes slice farms in two. A possibly apocryphal story tells of a toll road that cut through one farmyard. While the farmer wants to feed his hogs now, he has to get into his car, drive 20 miles, and pay 50 cents toll.

The Kansas Turnpike has the highest speed limit of any toll road — 80 miles an hour — but in a recent month 165 motorists managed to exceed it.

Kansas Turnpike officials reported that in the last five years 42 cars have been abandoned on the road.

★ ★ ★

Lost and abandoned items on other turnpikes include a 10-cubic-foot refrigerator, a house door, and, inevitably, a kitchen sink, which turned up on the Sunshine State Parkway in Florida.

★ ★ ★

Toll collecting also presents problems. Small children chew up toll tickets. Dogs bite the hand that collects the money. Drivers swallow coins held between their teeth.

But there are compensations. For three Christmases a jolly motorist drove along the Connecticut Turnpike singing carols to toll collectors.

Spas Booming in Europe, U. S.

American Indians and Ancient Romans First to 'Take the Waters'

WASHINGTON — The centuries-old custom of "taking the waters" is being revived.

European spas are booming, and American watering places are beginning to regain their popularity. Therapeutic waters remain a prime attraction, but modern spas also offer the diversions of holiday resorts.

American Indians and ancient Romans were among the earliest peoples to prize the bubbling waters, the National Geographic Society says.

ROMAN BATHS

The Romans built baths at mineral springs throughout Europe. An outstanding one was the present-day Belgian town of Spa, which became a popular health resort in the 16th century. Spa was known as Le Cafe de l'Europe, but its proper name became generic for watering places and a boon to crossword-puzzle makers.

Bath, England, was the site of elaborate Roman baths. The resort gained its greatest fame in the 18th century under the guidance of Beau Nash.

Nash's rigid code of conduct for his famed Pump Room transformed the noveaux-rich into gentlemen — at least while they were in Bath.

George Washington bathed at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., while on a surveying trip in 1748. He returned to Bath, as it was then called, many times, but in 1796 deplored the "growing dissipation" at the gay resort.

In their 19th-century heyday, European spas were frequented by crusty old gentlemen with gout, liverish colonels on leave from the tropics, matchmaking mothers and fortune hunters.

Many German marriage contracts of the period specified the wife's right to visit a spa at least once a year. Entire families, with voluminous baggage and a retinue of servants, settled in health resorts for the summer in both Europe and the United States.

Leonard Man, 72, Dies Driving Car

A 72-year-old Leonard man, Matthew J. McCarrick, died of a heart attack yesterday while he and his wife were driving on Drahner Road in Addison Township.

McCarrick's wife Neva, 70, said they were traveling only about 10 miles an hour when her husband was stricken. The car went off the road on a curve but did not hit anything.

McCarrick was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital.

Playing Cards Long on Deck

13th Century Traders From East Had Them for Sale

NEW YORK (UPI) — The next time your partner trumps your ace in a bridge game, count to 10 and then let off steam by reflecting on the colorful history of the playing card.

Consider, for example, that playing cards have been enlivening or depressing, but always entertaining mankind for more than 600 years.

How many aces have been trumped, or similar booboos perpetrated in that time may make your own plight seem less bleak.

As far back as the 13th or 14th century, traders from the East brought with them spices, fine cloth, gold, ivory — and playing cards. And the cards had much of the elements of today's.

CALLED TAROCCHI

The expensive, rare and richly worked ancient decks were called "Tarocchi" and found mainly in Medieval Italy.

They consisted of a trump suit of twenty-two "atouts" in addition to four 14-card suits.

The atouts represented the most important forces affecting mankind, such as religion, lighting, disease, war and death.

The common suits were basically the four suits of the decks we have now. They represented nobility, clergy, tradesmen and peasants — today's spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs, respectively.

CALLED CAVALIERS

Face cards were essentially the same except that Knaves were called Cavaliers.

Cards originally were made by hand of costly materials, including ivory, metal, silk and wood. Many were gold-encrusted.

Gutenberg, father of printing, brought his discovery to cards and fine quality low cost cards began to receive wide popularity.

Among the 120 million Americans who play cards today, Contract Bridge and Canasta are played the most.

Pinochle, poker, solitaire, rummy, 500, Auction bridge, Hearts and Gin rummy also are favorites.
