Open Housing Verdict Due by Oct. 9—Taylor

City commissioners will determine by Oct. 9 whether they will enact an open housing ordinance for Pontiac, Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said last night.

The mayor said the commisson has had preliminary discussion on the nature of such an ordinance and will delve further into the issue in the next two weeks.

Taylor said that the decision to be first made by the commission is whether the city will proceed with drafting an ordinance.

After that, he said, the commissioners would need more time to determine what the makeup of any ordinance would be.

The commission was asked to enact an open housing ordinance six weeks ago by Richard Northcross, president of an organization known as Pontiac Organization of Black Youth (POOBY).

MODELS STUDIED

Since that time the commissioners have received copies of ordinances which have been passed in other Michigan cities and legal opinions concerning the constitutionality of open housing ordinances.

Cities which have open housing laws in Michigan include Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, East Lansing, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Port Huron and Ypsilanti.

Northcross and other members of POOBY last week charged that the commission was stalling in reaching a decision on whether an ordinance will be passed.

Officers of the organization did not offer any comment at last night's meeting in marked contrast to meetings of the past few weeks.

ORDINANCE URGED

An open housing ordinance for Pontiac has been urged by the Oakland County Chapter of the NAACP, the Pontiac Area Urban League and Clergymen from many area churches.

Open housing ordinances in Michigan are city laws passed to prohibit discrimination in the sale or rental of housing on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin.

Income Tax Approved by City Commissioners

BY BOB WISLER

City commissioners last night approved adoption of a city income tax ordinance by a 6-0 vote.

★ ★ ★

The ordinance becomes official with second reading approval of the commission, which will likely take place next week.

The tax would not be effective, however, until Jan. 1, if then.

Related Stories, Page A-11

Complicating the time schedule is the possibility of a referendum vote on the ordinance.

★ ★ ★

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. last night also indicated that petitions forcing a referendum vote may cause the commission to carry through with a special election asking approval of a raise in the property tax levy for operating funds.

SPEAK OF CITY NEED

All six commissioners voting on the measure — District 4 Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson was absent — spoke of the city's need for additional tax income and of the results of the advisory election Sept. 19.

"The election was a clear indication that the people in this city have decided they would rather have an income tax than a property tax increase," District 5 Commissioner John A. Dugan said.

"I don't think this commission has any other course to take," he added in encouraging adoption of the income tax ordinance.

★ ★ ★

Dugan said if the income tax doesn't carry "this city will suffer" and stated that one of the most important needs was to bring police salaries up to the levels paid in surrounding communities.

ADVISORY ELECTION

In the advisory election, 4,683 Pontiac voters indicated they preferred an income tax while 2,806 voted in favor of a four-mill property tax increase.

Under terms of the ballot, the income tax — 1 per cent for residents, one-half of a per cent for nonresidents—would be accompanied by a three-mill property tax decrease.

Varner Quitting Bank Post in Wake of Ruling

LANSING (AP) — Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, resigned yesterday as a director of the Ann Arbor Bank, and Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, resigned as a director of two banks.

The resignations quickly followed a ruling by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley that an officer or governing board member of a state institution of higher learning may not serve as an officer or director of a private corporation doing business with the institution.

Durward B. Varner, chancellor of Oakland University, said today he too will comply with the ruling.

Varner, a director of the Community National Bank in Pontiac for about six months, said he would contact bank president A. C. Girard this morning and submit his resignation.

★ ★ ★

He said, however, that he would keep his post of director with the Consumers Power Co.

TO RESERVE COMMENT

The president of Oakland Community College, Dr. John E. Tirrell, a director of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank, said he would reserve comment until after he read Kelley's opinion.

Tirrell said that since he heads a county college he is not sure how the ruling will affect his bank position.

Hannah announced his resignation as a member of the board of directors of the Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit and of the American Bank and Trust Co. of Lansing in "immediate response" to Kelley's ruling.

★ ★ ★

"I do not want to be in the position of knowingly violating any law regardless of its merits or objectives," Hannah had said earlier.

CONTINUES TO SERVE

Hannah said he would continue to serve as a director of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., relying on the opinion of the attorney general relating to state-regulated public utilities.

Hatcher retained his post as a director of the Detroit Edison Co. and Tecumseh Products Co.

Kelley ruled that a college or university officer or board member serving as a director of a company with which his institution does business would be in a conflict of interest.

Housing Upturn Won't Cut Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The slow recovery of the housing industry from last year's recession is expected to continue through 1968, but there's no relief in sight for high interest rates on mortgages.

★ ★ ★

That's the assessment of the industry and key government officials if Congress approves higher taxes to help reduce a heavy budget deficit and stem inflationary pressures.

Without higher taxes, they said, housing could go into another tailspin.

No substantial easing of mortgage interest rates is anticipated through next year and the home building industry indicated a further slight increase this year would come as no surprise.

★ ★ ★

High interest rates will undoubtedly hold down the housing recovery this year and postpone the catching up process until 1968, the industry said.

HOUSING FORECAST

In a new housing forecast, the National Association of Home Builders said housing starts this year are certain to exceed the depressed 1966 level but the improvements will be slight over-all.

For 1968, the association foresees a 10 per cent increase in housing starts if the administration's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes becomes effective on Jan. 1.

But the group expects no significant loosening in credit during the first quarter of next year and very likely throughout the year.

WILLIAM H. TAYLOR JR.

Taubman Plan Deadline Near

The city's agreement with developer A. Alfred Taubman for development of a downtown shopping center of urban renewal land "will go right down to the deadline," Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said last night.

★ ★ ★

The agreement calls for Taubman to obtain lease commitments from two major department stores for construction in the downtown urban renewal project.

Put into effect Sept. 27, 1966, its provisions hold through today.

Taylor, other than saying Taubman would be given the last day to come up with the commitments, declined comment on the matter.

"We are still waiting," Taylor said last night at the City Commission meeting. "I have been promised a report by tomorrow which is the deadline."

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin requested a report within the next two weeks from the city planning department recommending alternative approaches to downtown redevelopment "if there isn't an announcement of development by the allotted time."

Taubman is understood to be still negotiating with representatives of one or more department stores.

Kelley: No Need for an Antiriot Law

LANSING (AP) — An antiriot law is neither necessary in Michigan nor would it be helpful, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley today told a special Senate Crime Investigation Committee.

Kelley told the committee, investigating crime in general including riot-connected criminal acts, that there already are some 50 laws on the books relating to riots.

"Generally, I believe them to be sufficient and I do not feel that the riots in Detroit could have been prevented in any measure by an antiriot law," he added.

Kelley's testimony, accompanied by that of other top state and local law enforcement officers, highlighted the second of several hearings planned by the committee, created last April and expanded following the July riots in Detroit and several outstate cities.

CAIRO (AP) — Israeli forces opened heavy artillery fire on the Egyptian port of Ismailia on the southern end of the Suez Canal today, the government said.

Poisoning Deaths Mounting in Mexico

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — The death toll of Tijuana's mass poisoning mounted today as scientists said a pesticide found in bread may be the killer.

The pesticide, parathion, was blamed tentatively by seven U.S. chemists working at Sacramento, Calif. A spokesman said enough poison was found to kill children but not adults.

The dead — whose numbers as given by officials varied from 14 to 34 — were almost all children.

The report of 34 dead came late yesterday from Pedro Mireles Malpica, district federal attorney general. In Mexico City, the attorney general's office said it had learned officially of 18 dead.

★ ★ ★

In addition, about 250 others were being treated at hospitals and clinics.

19 RELEASED

In the grieving border city, stricken since Sunday, crying parents carried their young dead to clinics in their arms.

The disclosure that parathion had been discovered in bread brought release of 19 dairy officials and street milk vendors held for questioning since Monday.

A ban on milk was lifted, and residents of Tijuana stopped boiling their drinking water.

Fred Roth, chief of the residual pesticide laboratory of California's Department of Agriculture, said he and six other chemists found parathion in the stomachs of two of the stricken children.

USED IN AGRICULTURE

An amount of parathion smaller than an aspirin tablet would kill an average sized man, Roth said. It is widely used in agriculture, particularly on vegetable crops.

Robert Rollins, chief of chemistry for the California Department of Agriculture, speculated that the pesticide may have been spilled on sacks of flour in a warehouse, or in transit to bakeries.

Roth said the chemical can be in liquid, dust or water-soluble form.

GOP Plan to Cut Spending Beaten

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee defeated today a Republican proposal seeking to force President Johnson to cut federal spending by $5 billion or more this year.

The proposal would have limited spending during the current fiscal year to $131.5 billion, exclusive of any additional military expenses.

The GOP leadership tried to tie the proposal to a routine temporary money measure financing government agencies for the month of October. It was rejected by a vote of 28 to 21.

OU Honors Its First Lady

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Oakland University paid its tribute to Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson yesterday afternoon, a week after her death at 83 in Brussels, Belgium.

MRS. ALFRED G. WILSON

In the Howard C. Baldwin Pavilion on the Meadow Brook Festival grounds, students, faculty and staff of the university, plus hundreds of outsiders gathered—close to 1,000 persons.

It was a different kind of ceremony for this pavilion. In it, Mrs. Wilson had sat many times to hear musical programs ranging from Bach to The Supremes.

On its stage she had been a member of the welcoming group for OU freshmen.

★ ★ ★

She was the individual who had indicated the very spot on which the pavilion was to be built three years ago.

Yesterday, there was a sheaf of red roses in front of the podium and palms banking it.

The Oakland Singers in their choir robes occupied one side of the stage and sang the "Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel.

Twenty-four members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Sixten Ehrling, conductor, were there to play two selections.

Tip-Off to Auto Firms on UAW's Demand for Skilled Is Seen

DETROIT (AP) — A tip-off to what the United Auto Workers Union wants in the way of a wage increase for its skilled members in plants of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler may have been given Tuesday.

The UAW laid before the Detroit Tooling Association a demand for a $1.20 hourly increase in a one-year contract for 6,000 UAW members working in independent Detroit job shops.

A deadlock on economic issues resulted 21 days ago in a strike by the UAW against Ford, idling 160,000 in Ford plants across the country and knocking Ford out of production just as 1968 model cars were beginning to roll in volume off assembly lines.

UAW members are continuing to man GM and Chrysler assembly lines without contract protection while the union seeks a pattern - setting agreement at Ford to replace three-year pacts which expired Sept. 7 with the Big Three.

COMPLAINTS

All three companies have complained that the union has placed no specific cents-per-hour demand on the bargaining table. UAW President Walter P. Reuther insists that in 30 years of bargaining with GM, Ford and Chrysler his union never has done so.

So far the union has told the Big Three only that it wants a "substantial" general wage increase for all, plus an additional "substantial" amount for skilled tradesmen.

* * *

The UAW conceded its $1.20 hourly job shop demand is the largest such it ever had made, and it was the first time in recent years that the union has proposed a one-year contract.

* * *

The $1.20 would be on top of a current average of $4.46 now paid journeymen die makers in the 76 shops represented by the tooling association, whose three-year contract with the UAW ends Nov. 1.

LITTLE PAY DIFFERENCE

The majority of skilled workers in General Motors plants earn $4.20 hourly. There is little, if any, difference at Chrysler and Ford.

A union source said $5.40 now is the minimum paid an electrician in the building trades in the Detroit area, where outside tradesmen often are employed by subcontractors and work in auto plants alongside UAW tradesmen.

* * *

No specific wage demands were made on the tooling association for unskilled workers employed in shops of its members. These will come later, the union said.

Chrysler and the UAW returned to national bargaining Tuesday for the first time since the Ford walkout erupted, but the meeting lasted for only 37 minutes.

Oxford Officer, Bronson Sued

Acquitted last April on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, an Oxford man has sued Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson and an Oxford policeman for $50,000 for false arrest.

The complainant, Billy Joe Mann, contends in the damage suit filed in Federal District Court, Detroit, that he was illegally arrested, charged and tried on the alleged offense.

The suit was filed in behalf of Mann by his attorney Anthony Renne of Pontiac. The case has been assigned to Judge Thaddeus Machrowicz.

Renne also has another case pending in federal court against the prosecutor's office involving what he claims was an illegal commitment of a Pontiac woman to a mental hospital for 48 hours. The woman is asking $25,000 damages.

* * *

In the Mann case, Renne is also asking for an injunction to restrain the prosecutor's office from pursuing a reckless driving charge pending against his client.

Renne said his client would be exposed to double jeopardy since the facts in the case are the same as those presented when Mann was found innocent of carrying a concealed weapon.

Mann, 24, of 56½ Park was charged with both violations after smashing his car into a tree following a high-speed police chase.

A loaded 12-gauge pump shotgun was found on the back seat of Mann's car by patrolman Leo Misenar, named as codefendant in the suit. Mann contended the gun was for hunting purposes.

Three assistant prosecutors who took part in the proceedings against Mann also were named in the suit. They are Raymond J. Hand, Charles Cooper and Michael Hechtman. Hechtman is no longer on the prosecutor's staff.

An Oakland County jury found Mann innocent on the basis that the prosecution had failed to prove during the two-day trial that there was any intent to use the gun for an assault.

WOMEN'S STORE OPENING — Sportswear is one of many departments in the new Lane Bryant store opening at the Pontiac Mall tomorrow. The new 8,600-square-foot store is the 75th in the Lane Bryant chain.

Fashion Store to Open at Mall

Lane Bryant Caters to Fuller-Figured Woman

A new Lane Bryant store will open tomorrow in the Pontiac Mall.

In keeping with Lane Bryany's policy of catering to the fuller-figured woman, the Pontiac Mall branch will offer a wide variety of apparel designed with her figure problems in mind, according to Raphael Malsin, President of Lane Bryant, Inc.

Manager of the Mall store is Mrs. Dorothy Metevier, a Detroit native, who was formerly manager of Lane Bryant's Westland store. Prior to that, she served as assistant manager at Lane Bryant's branch in Eastland for eight years.

The company was founded in the early 1900s by Mrs. Lane Bryant who made the first ready-to-wear maternity garment, according to Malsin.

* * *

The 75 stores now in existence generate current sales of more than $150 million.

WIDE RANGE

Today Lane Bryant has a wide range of sizes including half sizes, junior plenty, and minims for women under 5 feet 2 who also are on the well-rounded side, explained the company president.

He added, there are also tall sizes for women over 5 feet 7 and chubby, for girls going through the young and plump stage.

Viet Monks Again Turning on Regime

HUE, Vietnam (AP)—A year ago a gaunt, frail Buddhist monk said President Johnson had blood on his hands and conscience because he supported a Saigon government ripe with corruption.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky slapped down the Buddhists and their student allies with a show of force. But today, in less colorful language and with considerably less following, militant Buddhist monks are saying the same thing.

* * *

The followers of Thich (venerable) Tri Quang are threatening another power struggle—with anti-American overtones.

Demonstrations have been held in three cities in the last three days. The Buddhists say more will be held soon.

RALLYING POINT

The majority of Vietnam's 17 million people are Buddhist, making the church a convenient rally point for discontent. Of the several thousand actively supporting the militant Buddhist insurgence, about 2,000 are university students. A few are military men, and some are intellectuals.

There are varying explanations of the Buddhists' motives.

* * *

"The Buddhists are power mad," said a senior American official. "They had a taste of it when they upset Diem in 1963. Now they want more."

The Buddhists accused Ngo Dinh Diem of suppressing them and their demonstrations were followed by a military revolt. Diem was a Roman Catholic, as is Thieu.

Flood Miseries Rise Along Texas Border

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Flood miseries piled up on both sides of the Texas-Mexico border today as the raging Rio Grande put more thousands of people to flight and threatened even worse depredations.

Torrents gushing downstream sent water creeping higher in Harlingen, already hard-hit, and the swollen river spread across ever-widening areas in northern Mexico.

Reports of 10 more deaths in Mexico meanwhile boosted the toll from Hurricane Beulah, which battered through this area more than a week ago, to 54 fatalities. That figure included 11 deaths in Texas.

Flooding drove 8,000 to 10,000 Harlingen residents from their homes.

The Red Cross already was operating two shelters and it said a fresh influx of evacuees forced the opening of two additional shelters. Many of the occupants had returned only the past day or two after taking refuge from Beulah's 160-mile winds in other cities.

Unofficial reports reaching Mexico City placed the number of homeless at one million across the Rio Grande, now five miles wide in places, in an area stretching from Reynosa downstream to Matamoros near the river's mouth.

In Harlingen the floodwaters gushed down the Arroyo Colorado parallel to the river after a dam to prevent such a disaster broke two days ago.

Officials said the Harlingen water supply had been polluted. Warnings were broadcast for users to boil the water before drinking it.

Red Cross shelters drew on 150,000 gallons of bottled water sent by a San Antonio brewery. Stores sold out of distilled water. [illegible] did a booming business.

Javits Denies Shelving as Favorite Son

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York discounts as speculation reports he has been shelved as a potential "favorite son" candidate at the 1968 GOP convention.

New York Republican leaders were said Monday to have tentatively agreed to back Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as the state delegation's favorite son. The purported switch was described as an attempt to make sure the 92-member state delegation backs a moderate for the GOP presidential nomination.

Javits said Rockefeller has said nothing to him of such a change in plans and: "If we were going to change it would be we—the governor and myself—who would change."

The senator said in an interview Tuesday he believes Rockefeller, who recent polls have indicated would currently be the strongest Republican opponent against President Johnson, will stick by his numerous pledges not to seek the nomination.

POSITION CLEAR

"He's been so clear on the proposition he wants to keep out of it. I have absolutely no reason to believe he'll change that position," Javits said.

Javits has indicated interest in being considered for the Republican nomination for vice president. A designation as New York's favorite son with its bargaining power could help him in that regard if a moderate won the presidential nomination.

* * *

As long ago as November 1966, Rockefeller said he would back Javits as a favorite son candidate. Javits managed Rockefeller's successful bid last year for a third term as governor.

Berkman said Tuesday night in Cleveland that the meeting was set up by Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond Shafer.

County's Affluent Posture Eliminates Budget Woes

The age of affluence has finally caught up with the Oakland County government.

County officials are able to fulfill most departments' requests, pass out raises and have money for construction.

Several factors have contributed to place the county in a strong position financially for 1968.

This is unusual in county history, it was pointed out by county officials yesterday at a special meeting on the $21,134,162 proposed budget. A hearing and approval of the budget will be considered at a board of supervisors' meeting at 9:30 a.m. Monday.

David Levinson, chairman of the ways and means committee, said the county's prosperous posture in the coming year "will enable us to do a better job."

NEW EMPLOYES

All county employes will receive a raise in the proposed budget in amounts that range from 10 to 22 per cent. Also, 106 employes will be added to bring departments up to strength.

The biggest hike in revenue came about when the county's valuation rose more than 12 per cent enabling tax collections to exceed $16 million with the 5.4-mill levy.

Levinson reported on other smaller but significant factors which increased county revenues on one hand and reduced needed appropriations on the other. These include:

- Less money needed for care of the indigent elderly due to various federal acts such as medicare.
- Money saved by a lower incidence of tuberculosis.

* * *

- Revenue of $100,000 to be realized from a state land transfer tax being kept in the county.
- The expected receipt of $1.2 million from the state's income tax to begin in October.

This last item, still a matter of contention in the courts, will enable county to put money toward a new jail on its traditional "pay-as-you'go" basis.

START IN APRIL

The money is expected to start coming in April. This income is not figured in any other aspect of the proposed budget.

Levinson's committee and the board of auditors has recommended that after 1968 a $30-million building program be started to fill present and future needs, including the jail.

Salary increases for county workers will range from $3,000 over a two-year period at the top levels down to $300 at lower levels.

* * *

One position, prosecuting attorney, will receive a $4,000 raise from $17,500 to $21,500. Getting $3,000 hikes will be such positions as personnel director, purchasing director, budget director, equalization director and public works director.

At the other end of the scale, a clerk in the health department will go from a top salary of $4,100 per year to $4,400 and meter reader in the DPW from $6,100 to $6,500.

Police said Milkey was traveling southwest on Yarney and attempted a right turn at Rowley when his car slid sideways into a ditch and rolled over on its top.

The driver apparently was unaware that Yarney dead-ends at Rowley.

SHAKESPEAREAN READING

Eric Berry of the John Fernald Company at Oakland University gave a reading from Shakespeare's "Cymbeline."

Barbara Anson spoke for the students and Anthony Cornellier for the alumni.

Chancellor D. B. Varner summed up his years of association with Matilda R. Wilson, years that saw Oakland University become the thriving institution it is.

* * *

"When I first met her, she was interested in giving — in giving the most significant gift in the history of higher education in this state . . . .

CHARM, ENTHUSIASM

"When last I saw her, she was continuing her giving — this time her charm, her enthusiasm, her warm welcoming wave and smile to the new students and their parents.

"She literally adopted the university — all of it — but particularly the students. They were her first love — her adopted children. And the relationship was mutual . . . it was a classic love affair.

"She has glowed with us in the excitement of our successes . . . .

"She has agonized with us in our moments of frustration . . . .

* * *

"There can be no finer monument, no more lasting memorial, no more pleasing epitaph than the joint dedication of all of us to the fulfillment of that dream of creating a great university — an institution equal to the magnitude and the generosity of Oakland University's first lady."

Commission Approves Pontiac Income Tax

If the income tax ordinance is not met with opposition it will take effect Jan. 1 and employers would begin deducting from paychecks after that date.

* * *

The prospect of a referendum vote was revealed to city commissioners last night by Cecil C. Mullinix of 570 Lowell.

'DOESN'T MEAN ONE THING'

"Your vote tonight for a city income tax doesn't mean one thing because we will have a referendum," he told commissioners.

Petitions requesting a referendum vote on the income tax can be filed with the city clerk's office up to the sixth Monday after enactment of an ordinance.

If the petitions contain enough valid signatures a referendum will have to be scheduled sometime in January or February.

If this happens, the beginning of the income tax collections would be delayed until at least July 1. The income tax would then have to be approved by the voters in a referendum election for the ordinance to remain in effect.

1965 REFERENDUM

A referendum vote in 1965 squelched a city adopted income tax ordinance passed by the commission. In that vote the tax was defeated, 6,647 to 2,637.

An income tax as a measure to help eliminate Pontiac fiscal ills was backed by a Citizens Finance Study Committee which also affirmed the need for an additional $1.6 million in 1968.

Mayor Taylor said the commission had not definitely canceled the scheduled Oct. 17 special election to consider raising the charter limited property tax levy to 14 mills from 10 mills as planned because of the possibility of a referendum vote.

Three persons attending last night's meeting protested the fact that voters in the advisory election could not vote against either proposed tax.

Maynard Peters of 931 Baldwin said, "It was like asking a man who can't swim whether he wants to jump in a fire or the lake."

Peters also asked for a citizens committee to investigate city spending to find out if there is waste.

Taylor said the city has been taking steps to cut spending including:

* * *

- Transfer of the Pontiac-Oakland Airport, the Alcoholism Information Center and nursing services from the city to Oakland County.
- A policy of not hiring additional personnel to replace employes who leave the city payroll.

He said 14 firemen who have left have not been replaced. This saves $109,000 in a year, he said. He pegged the total savings from these moves at $200,000.

Pontiac could be the first municipality in Oakland County to levy an income tax. Eight Michigan cities—Detroit, Hamtramck, Highland Park, Flint, Lapeer, Saginaw, Battle Creek and Grand Rapids — have enacted income tax ordinances and others are considering it.

The tax would bring in about $1.57 million in 1968, officials estimate, and provide for wage raises which expectedly will total $500,000, an increase in the police force by 24 men, and some additional money for street repair and lighting, recreation programs and housing inspection.

About $500,000 more is needed next year over this year because of a "deficit" budget this year. The city has balanced the budget by using $500,000 of a surplus that had been built up over previous years.

The surplus will be gone this year, officials said.

Transfer to Brussels Harries NATO Staff

PARIS (UPI) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), in the midst of moving its headquarters from Paris to Brussels, is having more trouble than a nervous housewife on her husband's first job transfer.

Not everything is going wrong in the complicated job of moving the 3,000 members of the NATO staff and the 15 national delegations, but Allied sources say few things are going right.

The problems range from a major construction catastrophe to nit-picking diplomatic status questions that some Allied officials feels are symptomatic of a loss of pride and prestige by the alliance.

Allied sources said the Belgian government is raising small but diplomatically vexing questions about the status the 1,500 members of the NATO Secretariat staff will have in Belgium.

On the other end of the scale, construction workers only last week succeeded in removing a huge Turkish mosaic from the top floor of the six-story NATO headquarters at the Porte Dauphine in Paris. The project took five weeks, cost nearly $20,000 and got the NATO moving process off to an ominous start.

COLLAPSED TONE

A huge 150-ton steel crane being used to lift the mosaic from the top of the building collapsed under its own weight Aug. 16, damaging the facade of the building. No one was hurt, but the accident seemed to set the tone of the move.

Delegation diplomats are openly complaining now that the move to Brussels, under pressure of an Oct. 15 deadline, was badly organized and may turn into a diplomatic nightmare.

Belgium, for example, appears to be balking at giving full diplomatic status to NATO Secretariat staffers would would allow them such prerequisites as special auto license plates, exemption from paying duty on imports of household appliances and other privileges.

Most of the Secretariat staffers are lent to NATO by member nation foreign services and they are used to enjoying diplomatic immunities and privileges wherever they work. They are angry at the Belgians for balking over the question, according to Paris sources.

DELEGATION UNAFFECTED

The NATO delegations themselves are not affected by this problem, but many have equally important hassles to overcome.

At present most NATO delegation staff members come, administratively, under the aegis of their embassies in Paris —and they will be the responsibility of the Brussels embassies after Oct. 15.

The Brussels embassies of most, if not all, of the member countries are far smaller and are not equipped to handle hundreds more personnel. Some embassies are plainly snowed under by new housing, commissary and communications tasks.

Fire In The 78-Year-Old Barn At Oakland Orchards Supposedly Began In These Bushel Baskets

Firemen Able to Save Milford Twp. Barn

MILFORD TOWNSHIP — Seven trucks and 25 men from four fire departments yesterday afternoon saved the 78-year-old barn at Oakland Orchards, 2205 E. Commerce.

William L. Mainland, orchards owner and township supervisor, said, "It is rare when firemen respond to a barn fire and are able to save the barn."

The Township Fire Department received the alarm at 2:55 p.m. and had the fire under control at about 3:30 p.m., said Milford Fire Chief John Murphy. The fire was out by 4 p.m., he added.

The fire caused an estimated $10,000 worth of damage, mainly to the building, said Mainland.

* * *

Destroyed were portions of the roof and the northwest corner of the structure. Damaged was one of the four refrigerated storage compartments containing a "limited quantity of apples, pears, plums and nectarines," Mainland said.

POTENTIALLY SERIOUS

The fire could have become serious, because it occurred when the wind was at its peak yesterday, said Chief Murphy.

Two storage buildings are attached to the barn, and the nearby farm manager's house was kept under water during the fire, said Mainland. He reported that flames spread into the orchards at one time, but no trees were damaged.

"The fire was started by a careless smoker," said Chief Murphy. A cigarette or match tossed near the some 100 baskets outside the northwest corner of the barn probably ignited the paper in the baskets, with the help of the wind, Murphy added.

* * *

The damaged barn also contains the sales room.

BARN ENLARGED

Since its construction 78 years ago, the barn has been added to and remodeled, Mainland added. Mr. and Mrs Mainland have been operating the orchards for about the last 25 of the 55 years of its existence.

* * *

Orchard personnel are "in the midst of the apple harvesting season," the supervisor said. The some 100-acre orchards also grow peaches, plums, pears, nectarines and cherries.

2 Parks Are Cited as Showcases for Fall's Variegated Wardrobe

The fall season when nature brings about its annual color spectacle begins Sunday and continues through Oct. 18, according to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan authority.

* * *

The authority suggested two area parks, Stony Creek and Kensington, as excellent spots for residents to take a leisurely drive and view the changing foliage.

Stony Creek Park, near Washington and six miles north of Utica, covers 3,500 acres of rolling countryside with an entrance on 26 Mile Road west of M53.

Winding park roads provide excellent views of blazing orange clumps of sassafras trees, red hues of oaks and sumacs, and yellows of hickory and aspen. The park's picnic area and its fishing and boat launching facilites will remain open in October.

* * *

One of the most colorful spots in the park is the Nature Study Area, which has a separate entrance along Inwood Road. Seasonal exhibits are on display from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. on weekends and from 1-5 p.m. on weekdays. The area abounds with nature trails.

KENSINGTON PARK

Kensington park, located off I96 in the southwestern portion of the county near Milford, is an excellent spot for fall color. The 4,300-acre park is spliced with several miles of roadway and contains two large lakes.

* * *

In the park, sumac, maple and sassafras provide early color followed by the aspens, oaks, tamaracks and beech trees. Here, too, is a nature center with winding trails and exhibits from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on weekends and 1-4 p.m. on weekdays. Canadian geese often gather near the center.

Bank Branch Opens Temporary Office in W. Bloomfield Twp.

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The 76th Detroit metropolitan office of Detroit Bank and Trust is open as of this week in temporary quarters at Maple and Orchard Lake roads.

Complete banking and trust services will be offered from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m, Friday.

Daniel Craw is managing the branch. He was previously assistant manager of the branch in the Ford Building, Detroit.

'Shows She Doesn't Care'

Curlers in Public: Abominable

By JEAN SAILE

The suburban wife—manager of home and family—and victim of cliches.

Alone all day with the children—busy at volunteer work—doing innumerable errands—playing bridge—having coffee with the neighbors—holding the world together.

But not with hair curlers!

Ask any man. He'll refuse to be identified, but he'll tell you curlers in public are an abomination, an insult to aesthetics, a pet gripe.

Why? What is there about curlers in public that raise the ire of most men?

SLOPPY, UNFEMININE

"They're sloppy. They're unfeminine. They're a badge that she doesn't care."

What's so terrible about a gal—rushed all day—who does her hair up in late afternoon so that she'll be presentable when her husband comes home—and finds that she's got to go to the store?

"She could use a scarf."

"She could buy a hair dryer."

How about the teen-agers who make a habit of drying their hair in public?

GOT A DATE

"They think it's a status symbol," said one young man. "It shows they've got a date that night."

"It's a sloppy habit."

Why this item—not baggy hose or ratted hair or half-painted eyes—that makes men mad?

Said one, "It's as if you met a man with his shirt off in the supermarket. It shows he doesn't care what you or anybody else thinks of him. It's very nearly a personal insult."

School Desegregation Is Aired in Farmington

FARMINGTON — The erroneous and confused assumption that Farmington Schools may partake in an interdistrict student transfer to help eliminate de facto segregation brought out about 80 residents to the Farmington Board of Education at a recent meeting.

The debate between the board and the unusually large audience lasted about 45 minutes, reported Schools Supt. Roderick Smith.

The board's stated position is that a now-defeated proposal to decrease de facto segregation didn't imply transfer of students in or out of Farmington, Smith said.

Also, the proposal didn't call for state or federal pressure bringing Farmington schools into a program to solve de facto segregation in other districts.

* * *

Smith pointed out that the entire issue is dead, with the recent defeat of the proposal by the Michigan Association of School Boards.

The resolution the association had proposed several weeks ago called for legislation to provide reimbursement for transportation of students within districts where a de facto segregation problem is apparent, Smith said.

The association had distributed copies of the resolution to all school boards. The Farmington school board had given basic support to the resolution at its Sept. 11 meeting, said Smith.

An allegedly incomplete report on the resolution had confused the public, Smith explained.

Also at the meeting, the board approved the sale of six school buses for $1,800. The district has purchased nine new buses for about $60,000, said the superintendent.

The board also heard that the district's special education program this summer was "profitable for the staff as well as the students," said Smith.

* * *

Douglas Smith, director of Farmington Schools special education department, presented the report.

The special education program in Farmington began last year and is continuing, said Smith.

Milford Mulls Hospital Bid for Home for Aged

MILFORD — The board of appeals will consider tomorrow night the operation of a family care home for the elderly by the Pontiac State Hospital in a residence east of the Village Hall.

The special board meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Village Hall.

The hospital is requesting a nonconforming-use permit for operation of the home at 206 E. Commerce. The building is now owned by Dr. and Mrs. Wellington Gibson.

Plans include selling the house to a private party which will remain in the home in a supervisory capacity, said a village official.

* * *

The home will be operated by the hospital for 15 to 20 patients 65 or older, said Dr. Myroslaw Hrushka, director of the geriatrics service of the hospital.

FIRST STEP OUT

"The patients will be under our supervision and be receiving treatment," said Dr. Hrushka. "These patients are about to leave the hospital and will be making their first step out.

"They won't show any annoying or obvious abnormalities," asserted Hrushka. "They will not be a danger to the community."

The doctor stressed the importance of the patients living in and becoming a part of the community. "This would be a tremendous help to the emotionally disturbed and mentally ill geriatric patients," Hrushka said.

Making frequent visits to the home would be a social worker, occupational and recreational therapists and medical doctors, the director reported.

The hospital has already received approval from the State Department of Mental Health, Dr. Hrushka said. If the hospital also receives approval from the appeals board, it will begin operations in about eight weeks, he said.

Property in Dispute '95 Pct. Cleaned Up'

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — The Everett Russ property on Lake George Road, subject of a delayed Justice Court case, is reportedly "95 per cent cleaned up."

Russ was cited for the operation of a junk yard in violation of township ordinances. He has, by attorney agreement, been given until Oct. 9 to finish the cleanup. Otherwise trial is to be resumed in Justice Helmar Stanaback's court, Orion Township.

For Addison Twp.

Industrial Zoning OK'd

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — Approval allowing the township its first major industrial zoning has been given by the Oakland County Coordinating Zoning and Planning Committee.

The proposal must now be approved by the Township Board. It had previously cleared the township zoning board.

The land involved — 154 acres at the northwest corner of Lakeville and Curtis roads, excluding the Addison Township Community Church and Rowland Hall property — is owned by the township supervisor, Billy Van Arsdel.

Van Arsdel said he purchased the property about a year and a half ago with the intention of getting industrial zoning for the good of the township. He was elected supervisor last November.

* * *

"We now have only about 40 industrially zoned acres in the entire township," he reported. "Two years ago there was some indication that a major auto company would have settled here had more such land been available. Instead they went to Romeo."

The property, Van Arsdel feels, is ideally suited to industry. "It lies in the mile-and-a-half wide strip from Lake George Road west to the township boundary. It has access to the New York Central Railroad tracks and to M24 from the west."

* * *

He said he had been informed by zoning board members that the intention is to get the whole strip zoned industrial. There are several business operations now carried out in the area including the Koenig Sand and Gravel operation.

'ONE MAN GROUP'

"I've been a one-man Chamber of Commerce trying to get industry interested in the area," Van Arsdel said. "The township needs it."

Recruiting Changes Aimed at Enlisting Negro Troopers

LANSING (UPI) — The State Civil Service Commission yesterday announced new recruiting policies for the State Police in an attempt to enlist more Negro troopers.

* * *

The commission's action follows years of criticism by Negro leaders that Negroes were discriminated against in seeking employment on the State Police force.

Forrest Green, commission chairman, said the State Police has agreed to changes in recruiting and test procedures to possibly provide a greater number of Negro applicants.

There is only one Negro among the 1,400 uniformed state troopers.

* * *

State Police Director Col. Fredrick Davids has contended that the few Negroes who have applied for a job with the State Police could not meet the tough police standards.

DENIES BIAS

He said there has never been discrimination against Negroes.

"The basic problem here is to convince the nonwhites they should apply. The nonwhite community is suspicious of our examination and recruitment procedure and many feel it discriminates against them," Green said.

The major recruiting plan calls for contacting veterans of the Vietnam war, many of them who are Negroes. Negro clergymen and other Negro leaders also will be encouraged to help in the recruiting program.

* * *

More emphasis also will be placed on advertising for Negro applicants in minority newspapers, Green said.

TEST CENTERS

The changes in recruiting and test procedures will allow all persons to take the State Police Civil Service examination at Civil Service centers around the state rather than at State Police posts.

The Civil Service Department will screen potential Negro State Police candidates prior to their submitting an application to a trooper recruiter.

The screening of field investigation reports, formerly conducted jointly by the State Police and a Civil Service examiner prior to oral interviews, will be conducted solely by the Civil Service Department under the change.

* * *

HIGH STANDARDS

"We hope these changes will improve the outlook and still maintain the high State Police recruiting standards," Green said.

"The changes are a step in the right direction," said State Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, who has waged a campaign the last several months to recruit Negroes for the State Police.

Green said part of the problem in recruiting Negroes has been the tough screening process and recruit training.

* * *

A Civil Service study showed of 1,364 trooper applicants over a one-year period, only 150 qualified as state troopers, including the force's only Negro.

Hearing on School Transfer Bid Set

A hearing on a petition by four home owners to be transferred from Southfield to the Birmingham School District will be held before the Oakland Schools Board of Education tomorrow.

The Southfield parents at the end of Cherry Hills Lane in a Cranbrook Village subdivision want their children to attend Birmingham schools because they are closer than those in Southfield.

The hearing will be at 4 p.m. in the Oakland Schools building in the Oakland County Service Center on Telegraph Road.

GOP Hopes to Regain Philly Mayoralty

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Republicans stand a good chance this November of regaining the mayor's office in Philadelphia on a platform charging Democratic boss rule and government-by-crony.

Carrying the Republican banner is a 35-year-old ex-Democrat, Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter, who first won public attention as counsel for the Warren Commission in its investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

* * *

A handsome campaigner, Specter ousted a Democratic incumbent in the 1965 district attorney's race. Now he seeks to topple Mayor James H. J. Tate, a tough, gravel-voiced, political veteran of 57, and become this city's first Jewish mayor.

Tate was tagged as "A sure loser" by the Democratic city organization and denied its endorsement in the primary last May, but he ran anyhow and easily won nomination to a second four-year term.

OUTCOME A TOSSUP

It's a tossup as to who's ahead in the race. Democrats have a lead of 610,000 to 390,000 in registered voters, but both major parties claim private polls give them an edge. Three minority party candidates are a complicating factor. Two Negroes — Cecil B. Moore of the Political Freedom Rights party and the Rev. Leonard L. Smalls of the Consumers party — likely will cut into the Democrats' vote. Joseph J. Frieri of the Constitutional party is expected to siphon some conservative Republican votes from Specter.

* * *

The Specter team — a fusion of former Democrats, independents and younger men from the GOP's liberal wing — claims Tate has led his administration away from reform. Specter pledges new leadership and fresh ideas.

Before the May primary, Tate's chances for relection appeared dim. The Democratic organization supported City Controller Alexander Hemphill in the primary, but Tate swamped his opponent and has kept picking up steam.

He also has continued fighting with party boss Francis R. Smith, once a close friend but the man who pinned the "loser" label on the mayor.

It is estimated that we will be spending $130 billion a year by the mid-1970s on new housing, schools, streets, sewers, water systems and other urban facilities.

Suggestion Boxes Prove Good Idea

Next to mothers-in-law, probably nothing has provided as much steady inspiration to cartoonists over the years as the company suggestion box.

But while the value of the first may be a legitimate subject of humor or debate, the contribution of the latter to the growth of American industry is a matter of record.

Last year, 586,408 workers submitted a total of 2,515,573 suggestions to their companies, reports the National Association of Suggestion Systems. These half-million employes represented 20 out of every 100 employes eligible for awards in the 9,140 plants and local units which are members of NASS. They shared an incentive award pie of nearly $28.5 million.

Of local interest is the extent to which General Motors — the world's largest corporation — makes use of the employe suggestion plan. In its three Pontiac operations, GM last year awarded a total of $707,684 to 6,776 workers who submitted acceptable ideas.

The suggestion box goes back for decades in some companies, but it wasn't until the early part of World War II that suggestion administrators decided an organization was needed to unite people and firms experienced in handling suggestions in order to exchange ideas and develop better ways of encouraging employe initiative.

In December 1942, the first conference of the National Association of Suggestion Systems was held, attended by 165 delegates. By 1952, NASS activities had expanded into Canada and spread to England and Italy. The association issued statistical reports, distributed bulletins and manuals and provided guidance to its growing list of members.

Now observing its 25th year, NASS recently released a new movie, "What's the Big Idea?", for sale to members and interested companies. Filmed on location in industries and government installations across the country, it graphically portrays the operations and benefits of suggestion systems.

★ ★ ★

Without a doubt, the suggestion box has become a big part of business, as more and more businesses — big and little — are beginning to realize.

Proliferating Expense a By-Product of War

The cost of war does not end with the cessation of hostilities. For decades thereafter, veterans payments and services remain a fixed government expense. The Veterans Administration now spends around $6.6 billion a year for medical care, pensions, various types of compensation, and related services for former members of the armed forces. In addition, the Defense Department will spend about $2 billion in fiscal 1968 for retirement pay. Thus, more than six cents of every dollar spent by the Federal government goes for veterans.

Veterans will claim an even larger portion of Federal expenditures starting Oct. 1. That is the effective date of the Veterans Pension and Readjustment Act of 1967, approved by the Congress without a dissenting vote. The law is expected to increase veterans benefits by about $260 million in its first year.

Pensions for Vietnam veterans are expected to cost only $1 million in the first year, since the average age of returning servicemen is only 24 years. But as these men grow older and develop disabilities, the cost will rise steeply. Some Washington officials estimate that Federal payments to Vietnam veterans will total $2 billion a year by the end of the century.

While no one begrudges the dollar value of the benefits bestowed in recognition of those who gave or risked their lives in defense of their country, it underscores the staggering and unending financial burden imposed by mankind's ageless penchant for settling disagreements on the battlefield.

'Distribution of Wealth' Seen in Track Betting

People who keep track of such things report that a total of $28,647,000 was bet on horse races at 27 tracks around the country over the recent Labor Day weekend.

Humanists may reflect on how many hungry people this amount of money could have fed, how many barefoot waifs it could have shod, how many potential geniuses it could have educated.

★ ★ ★

The catch is, it would have done none of those things for the simple reason that the ladies and gentlemen who made those bets weren't about to spend that money on anything else.

Many of them, it is true, contribute to funds for the hungry, the unshod and the uneducated. But they also contribute to the pari-mutuel take — and eagerly.

★ ★ ★

This is because your horse bettor craves action on his money NOW and simply cannot satisfy that craving by betting a budding genius to win, place or show in a race run by mere humans over a 20-year course.

Now, let's see . . . what looks good in the fifth?

Gov. Romney's Visit With Hippies

By L. GARY THORNE
Asst. City Editor—Suburban

If the game were golf, George Romney just went one up on the opposition.

Ike had his visit to Korea, Nixon his tete-a-tete in a Russian kitchen. Governor George, however, has visited San Francisco's hippies.

THORNE

Foreign trips by those who aspire to be president are not unexpected. In fact, such travel is a powerful political tactic, which potential presidents and their advisers know full well.

Therefore, our George is on a "nonpolitical" tour of a dozen U.S. cities. Late last week the tour encountered San Francisco.

There are numerous attractions in San Francisco for tourists, but there are three spots I would be sure to visit. Romney hit two of them.

★ ★ ★

One, of course, is the Golden Gate Bridge. Romney made it to Golden Gate Park, which, I assume, must be adjacent somewhere to the famed bridge.

Second, any visitor these days must drop in to view the turned-on dropouts of the coast city's Haight-Ashbury district, heralded as the home of the hippies.

Romney also made this scene.

★ ★ ★

(The third tourist attraction, if you're really interested, is the topless taverns. George didn't make this scene, but then Lenore was along.)

Seriously, Romney, a dedicated Mormon, must have thought himself on foreign soil in his visit with the hippies.

According to press reports, Romney, lectured the Great Society dropouts about peace and temperance.

The effort has to rank as one of the more heroic public speaking engagements of the 1968 presidential campaign. It certainly was "nonpolitical" because few hippies bother to vote.

A press picture from the scene showed the governor with his tongue tucked in his cheek, which no doubt goes a long way in expressing the governor's opinion of hippies.

Romney giving a temperance lecture to hippies—it has to be a big campaign plus.

Pilot And Copilot

David Lawrence Says:

Let's Put N. Viet to Truce Test

WASHINGTON — There is a way to end the prolonged controversy over the question of whether North Vietnam really wants to terminate hostilities and make peace.

LAWRENCE

The premier of the Hanoi government says it does not want to agree in advance to any conditions of peace. But a cessation of the fighting can be accomplished without prior conditions or agreements by means of a proposal along these lines:

First, the United States government would announce that on a certain date — perhaps two weeks later — it would without any previous agreement initiate an armistice.

Second, the United States would declare publicly that the truce would last indefinitely but that if, after its start, any military movement were carried on by the North Vietnamese, American forces would instantly resume the fighting.

If the other side, however, respected the truce, the United States would endeavor through diplomatic channels to negotiate peace terms. This might take many months.

The objection of the American government to the idea of a truce has been that the North Vietnamese could use the period — especially if protracted — to move additional supplies and troops into South Vietnam, to accumulate more arms and munitions in northern ports without fear of having them bombed, to repair highways and bridges, and to install new antiaircraft defenses.

Spokesmen for the United States government have in the last few days made it clear that they do not favor a cessation unless there is an understanding in advance that there will be no influx of troops or supplies to the enemy while the bombing is stopped.

But since the United States would have stated clearly that the suggested armistice plan could not be used to permit the movement of men and supplies into South Vietnam or into the demilitarized zone on its northern border, no prior agreement or pledge by the North Vietnamese would be necessary.

If the Hanoi government decided to disregard the warning and the bombing was renewed, this would certainly remove one of the principal criticisms that have been made in recent months, both inside and outside of Washington — namely, that the American government has not made the proper effort to initiate peace negotiations.

The problem of peace in Vietnam needs clarification. If the North Vietnamese really want peace but do not wish to make any pledges in advance as to terms, they could honor the voluntary action of the United States in initiating an armistice.

If, of course, they should choose to continue the fighting, the American government would then be free to resume military operations and carry on a long war of attrition or use maximum power to force the enemy to seek peace.

Bob Considine Says:

It's Difficult to Believe —No World Series in NY

NEW YORK—It's still hard to believe that we don't have the World Series in New York any more. Over the years we hurt a lot of feelings around the big league cities by our bored assumption that this was the natural habitat of the October playoff for the championship of the dear old business that successfully masquerades as a sport.

CONSIDINE

Truth of the matter, of course, was that we did have the series in this town about 98 per cent of all the years that stretched from 1921 to a couple of years ago when the Yankees ran out of their assorted skills.

During most of that period of monopoly we had three times as many chances to win as did most other cities.

If the Yankees didn't win in the American League — which was generally considered unthinkable — the Giants would cop it in the other league.

★ ★ ★

More often than not it was the Yanks vs. the Dodgers.

"Rooting for the Yankees is like rooting for U.S. Steel," an anti-Yank guerrilla wrote. We couldn't understand what he had against trusts.

Then the cartel collapsed. Walter O'Malley took his Dodgers to Los Angeles and Horace Stoneham transplanted the Giants in San Francisco.

The Yanks waned and a collection of clowns known as the Mets came to town disguised as major leaguers, struck an antic chord and outdrew the Yanks. It was too much.

★ ★ ★

They turned mediocrity into a mint. Their popularity escalated each time they stumbled deeper into last place. But when the Yanks became just as bad a ball club as the Mets, nobody felt sorry for them.

The attitude toward the mighty who had fallen was "Serves 'em right. They had it coming to them, see?" Hard to figger.

Might be a long, long time before we see another series in New York, except on television. We never dreamed it could happen to us but now we, too, are drought-prone. Look at Washington. Hasn't won a pennant since 1933.

Could happen here.

So shed a tear. It's tough to learn, this late in life, that we are only human.

Voice of the People:

'U.N. Accomplishments Seldom Make Headlines'

In the disturbingly negative article "United Nations' Dilapidated Condition," James Marlow refers to the high hopes for the U.N. at its inception: "the whole non-Facist world tingled a bit at the thought that here at last man had a chance to change his ways." No organization in history has done more to do just that than the U.N.

★ ★ ★

In spite of a budget scarcely large enough to run the University of Michigan for one year, or the Pentagon for two days, the U.N., through its agencies, has:

- Virtually eliminated malaria and smallpox from dozens of nations
- Assumed a major responsibility for the care of Palestinian refugees
- Enabled 70 areas to achieve statehood with speed and remarkable peace
- Settled over 70 brush-fire wars
- Done a good job, to date, in policing Cyprus
- Set up health, vocational training, welfare, etc. programs in 119 countries
- Acted as the organizing agency for the Italian art restoration program.

★ ★ ★

It is unfortunate that such accomplishments as these seldom make headlines, while the U.N.'s attempts at solving problems no one else can cope with are reported.

'These Suggestions May Be of Some Help'

This is written for anyone that is going to have to go into a convalescent home, or if they have to put any of their loved ones in such a place. Check on what the home claims is included in the care of the patient and be sure you are not billed for it later to be paid by you or the patient.

★ ★ ★

If you are receiving Social Security be prepared to give all of it except $20 out of your Social Security check to the home. Don't plan on being able to keep this $20 for personal needs, for you may find that you are billed for additional medicine or care that you will then be told is not included in the amount that is for your care.

★ ★ ★

Make sure you ask for a receipt for anything and everything that was left for the patient. All of these homes are not shady, so good luck to those who are looking for one of these rooms. Honesty still prevails, it is just hard to find. Some of these people, mostly the aged, are being "milked."

Supports Ability to Pay College Tuition Plan

I commend the Democratic members of the board of trustees of Michigan State University for the firm stand they are taking in support of the ability-to-pay tuition plan. It is a good step in the right direction as financial resources should not be equated with scholastic success.

★ ★ ★

Many of us are cheering from the sidelines and hope they keep to the fairness of the plan as it is a sure thing the Republicans will change it if the opportunity is afforded them.

Salaries for the top classification (P-4) of interpreters at the UN are from $13,900 to $18,630. A lower classification (P-3) runs from $11,270 to $13,590. Interpreter trainees receive $9,000 to $12,000.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Hamburgers . . .

Grand Rapids Press

We have the hardest time in this country nailing down the simplest facts—as, for example, the birthplace of the Republican party. Jackson, Mich., and Ripon, Wis., both have claimed that distinction for years.

Politics aside, a similar problem has arisen with respect to the birthplace of the hamburger.

Some time ago the American Meat Institute went on record as saying that the hamburger made its debut at the St. Louis Expostion in 1904.

But New Haven, Conn. has just erected a plaque on Louie's Lunch crediting that eatery with having introduced the hamburger in 1900.

Frankly we don't think that anyone is going to suffer very much not knowing for sure which was the hamburger's birthplace. But for the sake of future historians, it would be a good idea for every inventor and innovator to file a record of anything new he produces.

If this happens there will be a lot fewer plaques we shall have to stop to examine on our travels, and there will be a lot less danger that the Soviets will claim the credit.

They have already announced that they invented ice cream; tomorrow the hamburger, no doubt.

Frightening . . .

Newsday

Secretary of Defense McNamara has announced that the U.S. is to build a "thin" antiballistic missile system aimed at deterring an attack by China rather than an attack by the USSR.

This country up to now has shied away from the installation of such missiles. The prime reason was cited by McNamara in a frank but frightening speech to newspaper editors at San Francisco: If we go in for a large-scale antimissile system the Russians are likely to respond with an even larger system.

The end result could be escalation on both sides, increased pressure toward war, and a self-canceling result as each side out-does the other.

The administration never wanted to get into this sort of race, but it is being pushed toward antimissiles because of political pressure and because no responsible government can afford to take risks with the security of the nation.

The Russians, after all, have embarked on their own antimissile system. We do not know whether it is intended as a defense against us or against their Chinese neighbors.

The experts, speaking through McNamara, have concluded that a fairly modest antimissile system, at an estimated cost of $5 billion, will insure the current safety of the country — against a Chinese threat and the accidental unleashing of missiles by other nuclear nations.

Britain-Rhodesia Settlement Less Likely

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — A negotiated settlement between Britain and this breakaway territory seems less likely now than at any time since Rhodesia's unilateral declaration of independence.

Observers in Salisbury would not be surprised if Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia a republic Nov. 11, second anniversary of the declaration.

* * *

The ruling Rhodesian Front party meets in convention Thursday. Militant members appear certain to urge an end to sporadic efforts to reach agreement with Britain.

LEAN TO SETTLEMENT

Smith and his cabinet would like a settlement. They want to end economic sanctions and desire diplomatic recognition. But they make it clear that any agreement would have to be on their terms.

"We talk to one another and if anything acceptable to us comes out of it—fine, we'll accept it," Smith told the Associated Press.

* * *

But, he added, talks will not delay the constitutional commission which is drafting a new national charter for Rhodesia. The commission is not likely to complete its task until early 1968.

LATE REPORT SEEN

Smith acknowledged that it might report too late to reach "an accommodation" with Britain. By the time the report comes out, he said, "Maybe the question of a republic will almost resolve itself."

Current negotiations with Britain consist of exchanging notes and harsh words. Likelihood of a compromise settlement diminished recently when Smith accused Britain of hypocrisy for not condemning terrorists infiltrating Rhodesia from Zambia.

* * *

The predominent view among Rhodesian Front members is that their country has nothing substantial to yield in talks, and that the main concessions must come from Britain.

COMPROMISE UNLIKELY

Compromise appears unlikely even if Britain backs down on the so-called "no independence before majority rule" issue.

The Rhodesian Front contains many conflicting white political elements. Afrikaans-speaking and English-speaking Rhodesians belong, as do farmers and businessmen. Its national congress may call for legislation banning sex between whites and blacks. Relations between white men and black women have never been prohibited by law in Rhodesia, and relations between white women and African men have not been prohibited since 1961.

* * *

Other resolutions are expected to call for a ban on multiracial athletic contests and for closer ties with South Africa. Afrikaners want increased emphasis on the Afrikaans language in Rhodesian schools.

WHITE'S MOOD TOUGHER

White public opinion appears far tougher and more uncompromising than at any time since the break with Britain. The backslapping cockiness of "drink up and trust old Smithy" is gone. Replacing it is a belief that somehow things will work out and "after all, South Africa can't afford to let us down."

Bumper stickers lettered in Afrikaans "Dankie Suid Afrika"— Thank You South Africa — are seen.

LEGISLATION DISCUSSED — Rep. Donald W. Riegle Jr. (left), R-Mich., and Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn., held a Capitol Hill news conference yesterday in Washington to discuss legislation they have introduced in the House of Representatives. The bill would amend the United States Code to make it unlawful to assault or kill any member of the armed services during antiriot duty.

'$1 Billion Needed to Develop Great Lakes Area'

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Gov. Warren Knowles said yesterday there is a need for more than $1 billion to be pumped into Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin in the next two to 10 years for economic development.

Knowles said this is the estimated price tag of programs proposed by the Upper Great Lakes Regional Development Commission. Knowles, Minnesota Gov. Harold Levander and Michigan Gov. George Romney are members of the commission.

Knowles said parts of this program have aspects that might lead to new activities, resulting in a need for federal funds "substantially above" the $1 billion level.

He made the report to the U.S. Senate Public Works Committee. All three governors said they had previous commitments that made it impossible to appear before the group in person.

★ ★ ★

"The need for programs to help the economy of the Upper Great Lakes region is obvious," Knowles said. "Declining population, unemployment, underemployment and low family income all point to the need for action to correct the imbalance between the prosperity of this region and that of the country as a whole."

Knowles said the commission has agreed to take proposals submitted by the three states and to push for immediate action on those high-priority items that can be started without delay.

Romney Is Still 'Alive'--Brooke

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., an early supporter of Michigan Gov. George Romney, thinks Romney is still a leading contender for the Republican presidential nomination despite his charge of being "brainwashed" in Vietnam.

"I think he very obviously and clearly suffered some injury, some harm, but it is not irreparable," Brooke told a news conference.

"Romney cannot be counted out," he insisted. "I still think he's a leading candidate."

But asked if he thought Romney could defeat President Johnson in 1968, Brooke was equivocal:

"We will field a candidate who can and will beat President Johnson," he predicted. "Not necessarily Romney."

Brooke said he and Massachusetts Gov. John Volpe "are committed to the election of a moderate Republican."

He agreed that description could fit New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

NY Confab Finishes Draft of Revised Constitution

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — With just 69 minutes to spare, New York State's constitutional convention adjourned Tuesday night after completing its nearly six-month task of revamping the state's basic charter.

The revised constitution, which meets head-on a controversial question over separation of church and state, will be presented to the voters for their approval or disapproval in the Nov. 7 general election.

★ ★ ★

To comply with the present law, the convention had to finish by midnight Tuesday to provide a six-week interval before election day.

Two of the nation's most prominent politicians—Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and New York's Democratic U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—played behind-the-scenes roles in drafting the proposal. Neither was a delegate.

Kennedy argued for a simplified constitution while Rockefeller sought to get the Democratic-controlled convention to submit its more controversial proposals to the voters as separate questions.

The 186 delegates turned out a 23,000 word, 15-article document. It still is much longer and more detailed than the U.S. Constitution.

★ ★ ★

And, in the final political struggle of the near half-year session, the convention opposed Rockefeller and voted Tuesday night to submit the revised document as a single question on the ballot in November.

The convention, eighth in the state's 190-year history, cost about $10 million. Its primary task was to remodel a charter based largely on one drawn in 1894 and revised in the last convention, held in 1938.

★ ★ ★

The most controversial proposal is one that would repeal a long standing constitutional prohibition against giving state financial aid, directly or indirectly, to private or parochial schools.

School Finance Panel to Report

The recommendations of a citizens' school finance study committee tonight are expected to go a long way toward determining whether there will be a millage election in the Waterford Township School District this fall.

Subcommittees on finance, campaign and public information will submit reports and recommendations to the committee of the whole starting at 7:30 at Pierce Junior High School, 5145 Hatchery.

The committee's recommendations will be considered at the board of education's meeting tomorrow night.

The finance subcommittee will recommend whether there should be an election this fall and, if so, how much additional millage should be sought.

★ ★

Supt. of Schools Dr. Don O. Tatroe told school board members in July that the district faces a serious financial condition and that a fall millage election should be strongly considered.

Increase in Borrowing Is Authorized

City commissioners last night thorized an increase in the nount of money to be gained m tax anticipation notes this ar.

The new figure will allow the y to issue $3 million in notes. mmissioners two weeks ago thorized issuing $2,725,000 rth.

Edward Gallagher, finance rector, said that because the interest rates charged the notes the more the y can borrow the better.

State statutes limit the nount a municipality can borrow. Previously Gallagher said he thought the limit was $3,725,000 but a reevaluation revised this figure upward.

* * *

Issuing the notes is actually borrowing and is done to meet city costs at the beginning of each fiscal year. This arrangement is necessary because the bulk of the city's income is taken in after July when tax bills are mailed.

FISCAL YEAR

But the Pontiac fiscal year, set by charter, begins Jan. 1.

Gallagher said that the city issued $2.25 million in notes for 1967. This entailed paying $36,612 in interest, but, because of investments in certificates of deposit of money not needed immediately, the city gained about $32,000, he said.

Actual cost to the city was $4,625 for use of the money in 1967, he said.

* * *

Issuance of the notes will have to be approved by the Municipal Finance Commission and the money accrued would be used after Jan. 1, Gallagher said. The amount would have to be repaid by Sept. 1.

CURB, PAVEMENT

In other action, the commission approved taking bids for construction of curb and pavement on Bradford from South Boulevard to Ferry.

The project — to cost an estimated $47,500 — is necessary for over-all development of the Pontiac Industrial Park, Joseph E. Neipling, director of public works and service, said.

Commissioners also authorized purchasing a parcel of land on Arlene, north of Northfield, for $4,000 for in order to complete construction of the Galloway Creek Sanitary Trunk sewer.

* * *

The city will receive 200 feet of frontage and a total area of slightly more than two acres.

Fowler Sees No Need for Brutality Quiz

District 1 City Commissioner T. Warren Fowler Sr. who three weeks ago asked for an investigation of lleged police brutality in the arrest of a 17-year-old, last night indicated he felt the charge needs no further investigation.

"I feel at this time there's no cause for action," Fowler said, mentioning he had received a report on the arrest from the police department.

The charges stemmed from the arrest of Willie E. Ivory of 273 Judson on Aug. 31.

He was arrested by city police after being abusive and swearing in front of a crowd, officers said.

After being put in a scout car, he attempted to kick the officers, they reported.

The patrolmen said they used enough force to restrain Ivory but no more.

New Charge Leveled of N. Viet War Lies

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headarters today again accused North Vietnamese of lying about the war, saying military actions reported by Hanoi "have been flagrantly out of line with the truth." In the fourth of a series of statements over the past four weeks, Westmoreland's headquarters cited three instances in which it said Radio Hanoi exaggerated claims regarding military operations.

* * *

The statements are part of a U.S. propaganda campaign aimed at discrediting Hanoi's reports, a departure from the previous American command policy of not commenting on enemy claims.

The U.S. command said Radio Hanoi claimed Vietcong forces stormed the U.S. base at Dong Ha Sept. 2 and 3, killing or wounding more than 80 Americans. The command said there were no ground attacks against Dong Ha those days but that enemy artillery and rocket fire killed one U.S. soldier and wounded 56.

* * *

The Communists announced that Vietcong killed or wounded 50 Marines in attacks in the Ho Khe area of Quang Tri Province, the command said. Actually, it said, the Marines suffered 34 killed and 185 wounded, while killing 140 enemy.

A new aerosol spray has been developed which minimizes the spread of bacteria from telephone mouth and ear pieces.

Ousted Greek Leader Warns Junta to Quit

ATHENS (AP) — Deposed mier Panyiotis Kanellopou- demanded publicly today t the military junta ruling eece give up its power. Otherse, he said the country would e disaster.

2 Vacancies Are Filled by Commission

City commissioners last night appointed two Pontiac men to two vacancies on the zoning board of appeals and on the Human Relations Commission.

* * *

Named to the board of appeals was Louis G. Smith Jr. of 365 W. Iroquois. Lee A. Kremer of 140 Dwight was appointed to the board of appeals to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Maurice E. Fitzgerald.

Smith, 46, is an engineer with the Detro Chemical Corp. of Detroit. Married and the father of two children, he is a graduate of Pontiac Central High School and George Washington University where he received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering.

Kremer, 72, is a retiree. He will serve the unexpired term of Fitzgerald, which ends in June, then begin a new three-year term.

* * *

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. described Kremer as an exceedingly "spry and active person."

* * *

A resident of Michigan since 1916, he was formerly employed by Walker & Co., specializing in outdoor advertising.

Guard Extension Eyed for Mrs. JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children still are "sought out and subjected to annoyance by the curious," the the government wants to extend their Secret Service protection another 15 months.

* * *

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said yesterday that temporary authority for the Secret Service to protect the late president's family expires Nov. 22, the fourth anniversary of his assassination. He suggested that Congress extend it to March 1, 1969, for possible further review at that time.

Seaway to Close for Winter Dec. 6

OTTAWA (AP) — The official closing date for the Montreal-Lake Ontario section of the St. Lawrence Seaway will be Dec. 6, the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority announced Tuesday.

*

Navigation will be extended beyond that date on a day-to-day basis until Dec. 15, weather permitting, the authority said.

* * *

No extension could be permitted beyond Dec. 15, however, on the Wiley-Dondero Canal along the Montreal-Lake Ontario section.

THE PENNEY STORY

Two months away from the first girl

By ROBERTA NASH

Our neighbors have five boys and, as I write this, are just two months away from their first GIRL!, according to the doctor's well-hedged prediction.

"I go to Penney's for nearly all the boys' things," my neighbor said. "Penney's prices are always good and their clothes seem rugged enough even to take the rough wear my monkeys give them. But won't it be fun to buy frilly things for a GIRL?" My neighbor crossed her fingers.

(Two months later: Penney's, get out your frills. It was a GIRL!)

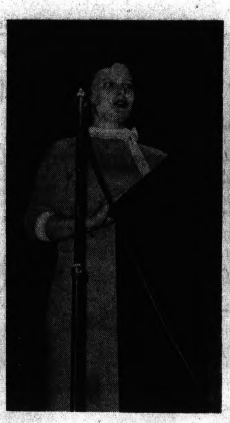
Neighborhood volunteers (from left) Mrs. Charles Cupp of Exmoor Street, Mrs. Fredwin Carr of East Walton Boulevard, and Mrs. Leo Erickson of Clarkston, will be knocking at doors in Waterford Township, Pontiac Township and Independence Township respectively, in pursuit of the residential campaign goal of $38,542.



Pontiac Area United Fund residential campaign chairman for 1967, Mrs. Robert C. Irwin of W. Iroquois Road, tendered a brief welcoming address to the approximately 300 workers who attended Tuesday's solicitor rally at the Elk's Temple.

All eyes are "to the right" and all heads swiveled to follow the progress of the professional model who is displaying one of the latest of fashion's modes for casual afternoon wear from Alvin's of Pontiac.

300 Women Meet

United Fund Drive Has Big Send Off

By JUNE ELERT

Some 300 women, area volunteer solicitors, gathered at the Elk's temple Tuesday morning for a kick-off rally for the Pontiac Area United Fund residential campaign.

* * *

Coffee and rolls greeted the arrivals. Mrs. Robert C. Irwin, this year's residential campaign chairman, opened the program with a welcoming address and introduced general campaign chairman Frederick J. Poole.

* * *

FASHION SHOW

A fashion show followed, sponsored by Alvin's of Pontiac. The stage of the Elk's meeting room was decorated with floral trees from Jacobsen's.

* * *

Though termed a "capsule" by owner Alvin Steinman in his commentary, the show encompassed clothes for all occasions.

They ranged through pant suits, sweater and skirt combinations, coat and dress ensembles, rainwear and elegant furs.

* * *

A small hitch developed when the organist who was supposed to provide background music failed to arrive. A quick call to the United Fund office resulted in an excellent substitute performance by Mrs. Garland Chancey, United Fund bookkeeper.

* * *

A skit entitled "Little Angels," written and performed by Mrs. Robert C. Anderson, provided an amusing and painless form of training and indoctrination in the positive approach to soliciting.

* * *

Others in the cast were Mrs. Carl H. Birkelo, PAUF representative from Independence Township, Mrs. John F. Reineck, Pontiac; Mrs. Richard Chapman, Oxford; Mrs. Thomas W. Follis, Lake Angelus; Mrs. Gene P. Burgess, Lake Orion and Mrs. Cecil Stricklin, Waterford Township.

* * *

All the "actresses" were costumed in daytime wear from Alvin's.

* * *

The luncheon will close two days of meetings by the group whose husbands are convening in Detroit for the annual meeting of the State Bar of Michigan.

* * *

Preceding the luncheon, the members will hold their annual meeting. Delegates from 29 state auxiliaries will report on their activities and new officers will be introduced.

* * *

The group began its convention today with a meeting of the council and concurrent showing in the hospitality room of a movie entitled "Children Without."

* * *

A luncheon and fashion show by Jacobson's was held at the Statler Hilton Hotel at noon.

Tomboy Will Shape Up

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow of 52 and have nine children, eight boys and one girl. My daughter is the youngest. She is now 14 and should be a young lady, but she has been around boys so much she is just like her brothers.

ABBY

She doesn't know how to act like a girl and doesn't want to learn. She doesn't have any girl friends and has never played girls' games. She prefers baseball and football, and plays with the boys.

The girls at school make fun of her and call her "Sam" but it doesn't seem to bother her. She just tackles them and beats them up. I am constantly being called by girls' mothers about such matters. I've tried to talk to her, but it hasn't helped. Is there anything I can do to make my only daughter a girl instead of another boy? Or am I too late? SAD MOTHER

* * *

DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter is a healthy, normal girl, even though her environment has done much to make her boyish, she will instinctively "shape up."

Don't pressure her. And don't scold or shame her. Keep an eye on her, and if she continues to prefer being one of the boys, consult a school psychologist, if one is available. Otherwise, get some counseling on your own.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Doctors and psychiatrists tell us that more women than men complain about being tired all the time. This may be due in part to the fact that men are less apt to talk about their fatigue because it makes them seem less virile.

* * *

However, that seems to be only one factor. Actually, it appears that more women do suffer from chronic fatigue.

In order to discover the reasons for this it might be helpful to compare the work of women in the home with that of their husband's. There are many differences which stand out immediately. Here are some of them.

TWO WORLDS

Men literally live in two worlds. Each one is rewarding and each one acts as a refuge from the other. When the going is tough at the office, there is always the end of the day when a man can head home.

When things are hectic at home as they are certain to be at times, with the wife irritable or the kids impossible, when everything seems awry, with a perfectly clear conscience, the man can leave for the office.

In fact he has to. At this point the office may seem as peaceful as an isolated mountain cabin, and things are usually straightened out at home by the time he returns in the evening.

Men are surrounded by people. New and different situations constantly are arising. They are in touch with the outside world all day long.

Often their wives have no companionship all day long except that of small children and their daily work provides a wearying sameness. Even though a housewive has very little leisure time her situation is more conducive to introspection and boredome than her husband's.

* * *

As mentioned before men talk less about fatigue than women. Psychological suggestion is so potent and has such an influence on the body that talking about being tired or even thinking of yourself as tired makes you twice as much so.

When you talk to other tired persons, the result can be truly disastrous. Haven't you had the oppposite experience of feeling very tired and then being with someone who is very vital and gay and feeling the fatigue lift?

SCHEDULED WORK

Men work on a schedule from the time they leave home in the morning until they return at night. They have appointments and telephone calls to make and work which must be done more or less on time, within a fixed framework. Most men have someone above them to whom they are responsible and to whom they report.

Women are their own bosses and seldom work out a regular plan for the day or week. They may seem luxurious, but it has its penalties.

Men can change jobs without damaging their personal happiness. A woman does not want to change her job of wife or mother, but she may feel trapped in a daily routine, the sameness of which tires her because it bores her.

Area Man Takes Vows Outstate

Stephen Ervin Schilke, son of the Ervin E. Schilkes of Rochester, was married recently to Sharon Marie Krupa in St. Agnes Catholic Church, Pinconning.

The bride chose an A-line gown of peau de soie and French lace style with a detachable Watteau chapel length train.

A lily of the valley spray illusion veil.

Lily of the valley and blue and white Fuji chrysanthemums made up the bridal bouquet.

BRIDAL TRADITION

Her ensemble was highlighted by an heirloom bracelet worn by brides of her family for five generations.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Krupa of Pinconning.

* * *

Beverly Wackerle of Linwood was maid of honor with attendants Michelle Krupa, the bride's sister, and Carol and Martha Schilke, sisters of the bridegroom.

Best man was Jay Eastman of Rochester. David Call, Daniel Krupa and Steven Conner were groomsmen. Ushers were Randy Myers of Royal Oak and Thomas Gilstad of Midland.

* * *

A honeymoon in Canada followed the reception in the Pinconning VFW Hall.

Dust With Cocoa

Reader Questions Column on Purchase

An early December wedding is being planned by Beverly Edna Walters, daughter of the George W. Walters of Doleman Street, and Mark A. Dimmer. He is the son of Mrs. George Ingraham of Orchard Lake, and the late George Dimmer. Miss Walters is a graduate of the David Pressley School of Cosmetology and her fiance is a student at the University of Michigan.

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

Can you tell me how much of a mortgage loan I can afford? I will make a down payment of about $10,000. My yearly income ranges from at least $10,000 to about $15,000 — closer to the latter. I am 29 and my wife is 22.

MARY FEELEY

I do not owe any money to creditors. I definitely want a nice home for my family. We have one child now but plan more. My income is fixed as far as salary is concerned, but there is always the overtime.

Can I afford to borrow $25,000 so that I can buy a $35,000 home? And for how long should I take a mortgage?

S. H., New York City

Dear S. H.:

A quick answer to whether you can handle a $25,000 mortgage, say at six and one half per cent for 20 years, is Yes you probably can. The monthly payments would be less than one week's gross salary — $182.74 without the "extras".

But figure in property tax, heat, and insurance, and you'd be paying $296 a month for housing. Of course, when a young family buys a home, economics in other areas of living come fairly easy.

But when you're estimating your mortgage capacity, you have to think in terms of more than your gross income. You only have your net income, after deductions, to live on. Also, before taking on such a sizable financial obligation, savings and insurance must be considered.

Have you an amount equal to from three to six months salary in the bank for emergencies — after that down payment? Is your life insurance protection for your family at a reasonable level?

Another thing — and not a small one — could you furnish a $35,000 home right now?

Another way to look at a mortgage contract is: how will the payments seem to you when your family increases? You're planning more children, and those children will grow and absorb more of your income. So how will the picture look eight or 10 years from now? Presumably your income will increase, too. But so will the cost of living — if it keeps up its rise of about two per cent per year, and most economists think it will.

The old rule of thumb of two-and-a-half times gross income as a measuring stick for the cost of a home works out for some people. But these days it's not an estimate on the side of caution.

Anyway, in your case it would be nearer to $33,000 than $35,000. So, if I were you, I'd put my assets and obligations down on paper and look twice at the figures before I'd take on quite this weighty a burden.

Dear Mary Feeley:

I have a lot of fun saving money, and thought you might like to know how. I don't have much, but what I save amounts to quite a lot each month.

I never give anyone coins. I always give a bill — dollar, fiver, or what's necessary. Even for a newspaper I get change. And I get 80 cents back from bus fare. These coins I put in a coin purse, and at theend of the week I stick them all in a little old salt box. I salt it away, as my friends say!

At the end of the month, on Sunday, I count it up and put it in another receptacle. When I have enough of these silver and nickel coins, I take them to the bank — about every six months — and deposit them. The bank always wants coins.

New York City Reader

Dear Reader:

I'm happy to pass along your get-rich-quick scheme. But if you deposited those coins more often, wouldn't you end up the year with more interest earned?

Junior Editors Quiz on BAYOUS

QUESTION: What is the difference between a bayou and a river?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Most of us are familiar with brooks whose water ripples quickly along over small waterfalls and rapids (1). This movement occurs because the brook is flowing from a higher level to a lower one.

But the part of Louisiana where the Mississippi River flows out through a delta into the sea was once a bay filled with water. The great river brought so much silt that it filled the bay with soil. As a result, much of lower Louisiana is flat, almost level with the water.

Consequently, in this area creeks and small rivers connecting with larger bodies of water move very slowly. Sometimes larger rivers, swollen with floods, will back up into the smaller streams, making them actually run both ways.

These smaller, sluggish waterways are called bayous by the inhabitants of the lower part of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi.

Frequently, such bayous drain into oxbow lakes, which have been formed by loops of a river changing its course (2). In other places, similar waterways would probably be called creeks. Rivers are larger than creeks or bayous.

Rail Passenger Service May Survive for Elite

By PHILIP LEE

CLEVELAND (NEA) — The funeral for mass transportation by railroad isn't far away, according to all indications, trends, statistics and experts in the field. And there probably will be as many tears shed at the services as at those for the mean old man.

The railroads won't care. Interstate Commerce Commission figures show them losing about $400 million a year on passenger service.

A passenger shouldn't care, after trying a trip fraught with delays, poor connections and service even between major cities, old and inadequate equipment and dust, dirt and grime instead of coffee, tea or milk.

There's the possibility of a luxury or elite passenger service for those who aren't in a particular hurry. Some of the affluent today pay a premium for it (most notable: Jackie Gleason's party expresses), and there are those who more enjoy the leisure of the cruise through the Caribbean than a speedy jet arrival at Bermuda.

Despite what the ever-dwindling number of daily passengers see of run-of-the-mill rail service, the railroads seem to have the tools at hand to provide luxury accommodations and are a long way from abandoning the possibility.

RAIL RESEARCH

For a good example of what's being done, and in no small way, take the 10-year-old Cleveland Technical Center of the New York Central.

The center, a laboratory building grouped in a 400-acre area with a locomotive shop, storehouse and switching facility just off Lake Erie, was opened when railroading hit its low ebb.

Revolutionary might be stretching it, but the center can point to a dozen money-saving patents and profit-making technological innovations and some fallout to other fields.

Probably more important is the deveopment that could lead to the luxury service. About a year ago, center engineers took a modern Budd passenger car, installed a front engine shield and placed jet power on the roof.

The converted car rocketed down the tracks at a U.S. record rail speed of 183.7 miles per hour. More significant than the speed, the engineers say, is the run was made on standard track and roadbed — without fortification or alteration. The implication, of course, that it shouldn't cost much to put a jet-car into operation.

Tiny Leaks May Delay Lunar Module Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A plumbing problem that refuses to go away has erased all hope of a launching this year of the first model of the craft built to carry American astronauts to the moon's surface.

The vehicle, called a lunar module, periodically develops tiny leaks in plumbing connections associated with the craft's two main engines—the descent engine, which is to slow the speed of the craft so it can land astronauts on the moon, and the ascent engine, which will propel astronauts back off the lunar surface.

Portions of the plumbing system have been sent back to the plant of the main contractor, Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., at Bethpage, N.Y. Some engineers believe the leaks are so tiny that the lunar module could successfully fly even with their presence.

The space agency, which has been extra cautious since the Apollo 1 fire killed three astronauts last January, is not so sure, however. Efforts to improve the situation are certain to delay the lunar module's first launching until 1968, sources said. Officially, it still is scheduled to blast off this December.

FIRST TEST FLIGHT

The first test flight involves rocketing the unmanned lunar module into earth orbit aboard a Saturn 1 booster to evaluate the lunar module's propulsion systems.

Meanwhile, NASA announced a one-day postponement in the start of a three-day launch demonstration test for the giant Saturn 5 rocket.

★ ★ ★

The test, now set to begin tonight, will determine when the maiden test flight of the rocket can be scheduled. The launching of the rocket, the world's most powerful, tentatively is set for late October.

The world record for motorcycles was set at 245.667 miles per hour on Aug. 26, 1966, by Alex Tremulis in his Gyronaut X-1.

SELLING PEACE TICKET — Harry Roth, Beverly Hills clothing manufacturer, takes one of a series of phone calls at his office yesterday after the appearance of his full-page newspaper advertisement urging President Johnson not to seek reelection. Roth, who spent $7,800 for the ad, wants a "peace ticket" candidate and pledges $100,000 for the campaign.

Poverty Bill Faces Senate Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration's $2.3-billion antipoverty bill is due for its first major test in the Senate, but in the House, discouraged Democratic supporters already are talking of putting off congressional action until next year.

Hard times for the bill were foreshadowed in the House as the result of a Tuesday night vote that slapped at the Office of Economic Opportunity, the antipoverty agency.

The House voted 241 to 132 to provide that no funds in a new juvenile delinquency program approved by the House can go to any agency connected with the OEO.

There had been no provision in the juvenile delinquency bill calling for the OEO to be involved in the program. But Rep. Joe D. Waggonner, D-La., backing the amendment, said he wanted to make sure the agency wouldn't get any of the money.

IN DEEP TROUBLE

The antipoverty bill itself is in deep trouble in the House Education and Labor Committee. This bill covers continuation of such programs as the Job Corps, Head Start, Community Action and the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Committee Republicans are pushing an alternative program to abolish the OEO, turning its programs over to existing agencies.

★ ★ ★

The Senate was to vote today on this question. Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., said he would call up an amendment to separate the Head Start program from the OEO and transfer it and its funds to the U.S. Office of Education effective next July 1.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., floor manager for the administration bill, told a reporter that, if Dominick's move is successful, he would look for similar amendments to split other programs from the OEO.

The Tuesday night House vote could force a change in the Democrats' strategy.

Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, senior Republican on the education and labor committee, plans to urge the committee to shelve further consideration of the bill on the ground it can't be passed now.

Ayres wants the committee to hold hearings on the poverty program in several cities where there have been complaints about it, with the House acting on the bill after this tour.

Democrats began to talk about finding some way to put the entire matter over until next year. The authorization for OEO funds expired last June 30 and the agency now is operating under a special resolution that continues programs until the new authorization is acted upon.

★ ★ ★

In the Senate, administration forces easily defeated the first GOP attempt to revise the bill. They rejected, 57 to 28, an amendment by Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., to transfer $200 million of OEO money to a program of subsidies for private companies to help pay their expenses in training low-income workers.

'Electric Car Ignored'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The average U.S. motorist would save from $200 to $300 a year and get a quiet, smooth ride in the bargain if he operated an electric car, an Indiana University economist said yesterday.

But, said Prof. Lloyd D. Orr, despite the benefits of battery-powered vehicles, the nation's major auto manufacturers have expressed a generally negative attitude toward them.

Orr's complaint, contained in testimony prepared for delivery before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, was echoed by engineer Yura Arkus Duntov, who said the major car markers have shunned the revolutionary Wankel engine, a rotating combustion chamber engine he said would cut air pollution and would be lighter, smaller and less complex.

NSU, a small German company, has announced commercial introduction of a medium-sized car powered by the Wankel engine, Duntov said in prepared testimony.

AN ENEMY IN THE HAND—A U.S. Marine holds a North Vietnamese prisoner by the shirt collar before marching him off to an interrogation center. The prisoner was captured in a battle near Cham Son in the northern part of South Vietnam.

Dug-In Enemy Limits Big Guns' Effect

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran U.S. officers say the battle of Con Thien is driving home again lessons learned in World War II and Korea: Massive airpower and big gun power have only limited effect in silencing a dug-in enemy.

These officers, many of whom saw action in both earlier wars, said the only way to do the job is to send in infantry to root out enemy batteries burrowed into holes and caves.

* * *

Current U.S. policy forbids any U.S. infantry attacks across the border into North Vietnam, from which most of the Communist artillery fire is aimed at Con Thien.

U.S. sources said the North Vietnamese have arrayed between 75 and 125 artillery pieces north of the Ben Hai River boundary.

POUNDING OUTPOSTS

These Soviet-designed guns, ranging from 85 to 152 millimeters, have been pounding the U.S. Marine outpost, some 2½ miles south of the demilitarized zone, for nearly a month.

U.S. batteries have fired as many as 10,000 shells at the North Vietnamese guns in a single day.

This was 10 times as many as the North Vietnamese guns were throwing at Con Thien.

In addition, waves of U.S. bombers and fighter bombers dumped 600,000 pounds of high explosive on enemy positions.

MAY HIDE GUNS

The American officers said it appears the Communists wheel their artillery out of caves and tunnels to fire, and then probably roll them back in under cover.

In addition, Communist mortars ranging from 60 millimeter to 120 millimeter weapons, fire into the outpost from positions inside South Vietnam, west and south of Con Thien. These mortars are believed dug into deep holes. Experts said American shells and bombs would have to score direct hits or near-bursts to collapse the caves, tunnels and holes from which the Communists are pumping rounds into the Marine outpost.

The Communist artillery and mortars are believed highly mobile, so that they probably are shifted from position to position after bursts of fire. This makes them hard to hit, too.

So far as is known here, the Communist positions for the most part are not reinforced with concrete, but may be shored up with timber.

The Marines have available to them a new Army-produced mobile radar designed to detect the positions of mortars and other high angle weapons such as howitzers.

* * *

The specifications say these mortars can locate a position with an accuracy of about 160 feet at a range up to about six miles.

* * *

But officers acknowledge that the radar has limitations, in that it emits a relatively narrow beam and must be pointed in the direction from which the enemy's fire comes in order to spot the trajectory and plot it back to the mortar or howitzer position.

* * *

There is a difference in opinion among U.S. military men here as to how severely the American air and artillery barrage may be punishing the North Vietnamese gunners and mortar men.

N. VIET LOSSES

One U.S. Army artillery authority said the North Vietnamese "have to be suffering tremendously."

He said he considers "remarkable that they are willing to take heavy losses in people and guns and keep on with their shelling."

But other Americans who remember World War II and Korea dispute the belief that the enemy is being badly bloodied.

"I ran into this kind of thing on Iwo Jima and Okinawa," said one Marine officer.

"If they get enough cover, it's hard to knock them out even with a direct hit."

Military's Bid for a Bombing Onslaught Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) sought a 16-day bombing onslaught against 90 key targets in North Vietnam early in 1966, congressional testimony shows. But they didn't get their way.

★ ★ ★

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the chiefs, revealed in Aug. 16 Senate testimony released Tuesday that the military urged this "much sharper type of attack."

★ ★ ★

The administration instead adopted a gradual escalation approach which allowed commanders in Vietnam to attack only 22 JCS-recommended fixed targets all last year.

Wheeler's comments indicated anew deep-seated differences between the military men and civilian leaders over the conduct of the war. President Johnson told a recent news conference there was no serious conflict between the Joint Chiefs and civilians.

BAD WEATHER

Wheeler told the Senate Preparedness investigating subcommittee that, in retrospect, the 90-target campaign probably would have taken 26 days to complete due to bad weather.

★ ★ ★

According to previous testimony by Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, Pacific commander-in-chief, this attack campaign would have hit all major targets in six areas: power, transportation, air defense, war-related industry, military complexes and petroleum, oil and lubricants.

★ ★ ★

Wheeler also testified under oath that during his trip with McNamara to Vietnam in July, commanders were sounded out on the idea of limiting attacks to North Vietnam's southern panhandle.

★ ★ ★

In a White House news conference July 12, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said that during his trip "only incidentally did we discuss the air war in the North . . . Although the commander of the Pacific was there with his component commanders of the Air and Navy, we didn't get into it in great detail."

ADDITIONAL TRAGETS

Sharp testified Aug. 9 he recommended to McNamara in Saigon that an additional 105 North Vietnamese targets be bombed. Sharp got approval to hit 16 then, and another 16 were authorized on Aug. 8—the night before the Senate group began air war hearings.

★ ★ ★

Wheeler said the possibility of limiting the bombing to North Vietnam's regions south of the 20th parallel—well below Hanoi—had been raised in April.

★ ★ ★

During briefings in Vietnam, operational commanders made plain to McNamara their opposition to the notion. The Joint Chiefs, as well, rejected the concept as "militarily unsound," since it would have had the effect of creating a vast sanctuary of upper North Vietnam, Wheeler said.

"In my judgment, this proposal is dead," he declared.

TALKS ON CRIME — U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark testifies before a Senate Labor subcommittee yesterday during hearings on a juvenile delinquency prevention bill. DON'T YOU MOVE! — A rifle-armed South Vietnamese soldier warns two Vietcong to keep their heads down and arms outstretched. Auto Sales Battles Pit Intermediates

DETROIT (UPI) — Safety improvements and air pollution control are two of the main factors in the 1968 American automobiles going on sale this month.

But they do not tell the full story.

Emergence of the intermediate cars (those placed between the compact and the full-size car) emerged as the full-scale battlegrounds in the war for market shares.

And a third, just whispered now but certain to develop, is a trend toward downgrading hot-rod performance in favor of quieter, smoother performance at turnpike cruising speeds, combined with economy of operation and durability.

So far, Cadillacs and Oldsmobile, divisions of General Motors, are the only two brands to adopt this campaign, but it is expected to spread.

* * *

SAFETY STANDARDS

All of them are conforming to the new safety standards set by the government in providing three sets of seat belts for both front and rear seats, redesigned instrument panels with more padding to absorb body impact in an accident, flatter handles for doors and windows, padded roof pillars, heavier padding for the backs of front seats to protect rear-seat passengers, and side lights front and rear on all fenders.

These are in addition to safety items added in 1967, including dual control hydraulic brakes and collapsible, energy-absorbing steering columns.

Lincoln and Mercury went one better in safety by providing shoulder harnesses for front seat passengers which snap to the roof when not in use. But because it was removed from government safety requirements, other companies did not install them, though anchorages are built in and the harnesses are available as an option.

The auto industry's big money layout, aside from safety, went into development of new cars in the intermediate field. This has been the fastest growing market in the industry during the past couple of years, exceeding even the sporty - car lines, and was spotted a year ago by Chrysler and Plymouth as the coming battleground in sales.

ALL MAKES IN FIELD

Every '68 brand offers something new in that field, while being content to make face-lift changes such as restyled front and rear grilles in the regular sized market, the compacts, and the sporty-car field.

* * *

The only exception, if it is one, was Dodge's Charger, a sporty car which could also be classed in the intermediate field. It was completely restyled.

Antiriot Request

DETROIT (AP)—The Police Department asked the City Council Tuesday for $1.8 million to purchase antiriot equipment. Robert P. Roselle, executive secretary to Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, said the purchase price could be included in a special $12 million bond issue the city plans to use to pay for overtime accumulated by police during the July riot. The equipment would include 700 shotguns, 100 machine guns and 1,000 M1 carbines.

2 GOP Candidates Discuss 'Whether'

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because there is so much talk these days about the "credibility gap," we tend to overlook the "credulity gap" which lies at the opposite end of the valley.

WEST

Geologists tell us a credibility gap is formed by a stream of false or misleading statements that the public accepts as fact.

Its size may be determined mathematically by measuring the distance between the official version and what actually happened.

A credulity gap, on the other hand, is formed by a stream of factual statements that the public finds hard to believe.

* * *

A good example of credulity gap-making came last Sunday after the meeting in Los Angeles between Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

'NO POLITICAL TALK'

The two governors, often mentioned as possible rivals for the Republican presidential nomination, said they had a pleasant lunch and conversation, but refrained from discussing politics.

There was instant erosion in the credulity gap. All over America, seismographs registered a great wave of winks and knowing smiles, followed by requests to "tell us another."

We all know what the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina. But Romney doesn't drink, either. So it may be presumed that the governor of California and the governor of Michigan talked about the weather.

Since my wiretappers don't work on Sunday, I can't reconstruct their conversation. But I imagine it went something like this:

RR: "Good morning, governor."

GR: "Good morning, governor."

* * *

There is an awkward pause while each weighs the significance of the other's remark.

RR: "What brings you to California, governor?"

GR: "Oh, just looking around. Nice climate you have here."

RR: "Yes, California has a favorite sun."

* * *

GR: "Please, governor, I'd rather not discuss politics."

RR: "How's the climate in Mchigan; I've heard it's rain-washed."

GR: "I said no politics."

RR: "Well, how do you like our terrain."

GR: "Frankly, it looks rocky."

RR: "I thought we agreed not to discuss politics."

Youth Faces Assault Trial

Policeman Wounded in July's Disturbance

A Pontiac youth accused of wounding a city policeman with a shotgun blast during the July outbreak of civil violence was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday on a charge of felonious assault.

Arraignment of Larry Adams, 19, of 519 Montana was scheduled for Oct. 10 at his preliminary examination before Municipal Judge Maurice P. Finnegan.

The charge was reduced from assault with intent to murder at yesterday's proceedings.

Adams is in custody in Oakland County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

He was arrested during the height of the disturbance July 25, shortly after Patrolman Santiago Serna, 24, was shot in the neck while riding in a patrol car at Diston and Howard McNeil.

Serna underwent several days of treatment in Pontiac General Hospital.

SCENE OF ARSON — For the third time in eight days, fire blamed on an arsonist broke out at the Johnson-Howard Lumber Co. in Kalamazoo. Loss was held to a minimum when an employe returned to the shed just after closing and discovered the blaze. Earlier fires caused losses of $11,000 and $4,000.

Pontiac Twp. Ski Lodge Is Hit by Blaze

About $750 damage was caused by a blaze last evening at the Silverbell Ski Lodge on Dutton Road, Pontiac Township.

Township Fire Chief Carl Schingeck said flames, which could have been caused by spontaneous combustion, destroyed a small shed used to store garbage at the south end of the chalet.

He reported the south wall of the chalet was also charred to some extent.

The call was received by the department at 7:45 p.m. from a boy who lives on the property about a quarter mile away from the fire.

State MDs Accept Osteopath in Group

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)— The Michigan State Medical Society has paved the way for eventual introduction of state osteopaths into the society.

The House of Delegates Tuesday night approved an associate membership for Richard Remsberg, an osteopath from Alma. He becomes the first osteopath to gain associate membership status in the 102 year history of the MSMS.

★ ★ ★

The delegates also approved a resoluton encouraging the county medical societies to offer associate memberships to local osteopaths on an individual basis.

Dr. Remsberg has been an associate member of the Gratiot-Isabella-Clare Medical Society the past year and was recommended for state affiliation by the county group.

1,800 OSTEOPATHS

Michigan has about 1,800 registered osteopaths, more than any other state in the union, and 9,000 medical doctors.

The House of Delegates met in advance of the scientific meetings which opened today. Some 2,500 doctors, nurses and others in the health profession are expected to attend the sessions.

B. M. Harris of Ypsilanti was installed today as president of the MSMS for 1967-68 and Tuesday night James J. Lightbody of Detroit was named president-elect.

British Eager to Withdraw From Aden

LONDON (UPI) — Among British troops in the Arabian protectorate of Aden the joke is that whoever remains behind to haul down the Union Jack had better be a fast runner.

Caught in the cross fire of rival nationalist factions, the British can hardly wait for the flag to come down next Jan. 9, leaving the colony and surrounding sheikhdoms and sultanates to fight out their own destiny as an independent Arab nation.

Unless a truce comes, a bloody power struggle will form the backdrop to the sun that sets on the last British colony in the Middle East and one of the last remnants of the British Empire itself.

The British, despite their efforts to pull it into the 20th century, will leave a largely barren feudal land, impoverished and torn by the very rivalry that has riven the Middle East since Lawrence of Arabia fanned the flames of Arab nationalism more than half a century ago.

* * *

Shoved down at the toe of the Arabian Peninsula and far removed from the exploits of Lawrence and the desert wars, Aden and its hinterland has never had the "Arabian Nights" mystique (or the oil wealth) that drew the British to other Middle East lands. It doesn't even have a desert to call its own.

Nevertheless, the British were as eager to acquire the territory as they are to leave it.

Recognizing its strategic value at the entrance to the Red Sea, the British seized Aden in 1893 from the local sultan.

Over the years Aden grew from a village of 500 into a city of 250,000 and the greatest bunkering port in the world, supplying fuel to ships plying between Europe and the Far East and duty free luxury goods to their passengers.

* * *

To establish a "buffer" to protect the colony, the British concluded treaties with 23 sultans and sheiks whose tribes controlled a stretch of territory around Aden and along the southern Arabian coast about the size of Britain.

In return for British protection and economic aid, the rulers agreed not to cede any of their territory to foreign powers. Today the 23 states form the Protectorate of South Arabia.

* * *

In 1963 Britain persuaded 16 of the states to form the Federation of South Arabia to promote their collective economic development and security in preparation for independence. Aden joined a year later.

DIG THAT SNOW — And that is exactly what Bob Moore of Conway, N.H., and Bob Arsenault of Gorham, N.H., are doing as they shovel away at the white stuff that has blocked the eight-mile road to the summit of the 6,288-foot mountain for the past three days. Five-foot drifts were encountered. Moore and Arsenault, both employes of the Auto Road Co., made their way to the 6½-mile mark.

now look/new look

You can't say they're back, because today's double-breasteds are completely new: pared down, lean lined, and cut very much to contemporary tastes. And the variations are fresh and new: like the two button db... the split raglan db... the shaped db. In fact, you'll find double-breasteds buttoning up virtually every style, from classic natural-shoulder to swinging Californian to Edwardian European. And the fabrics that carry through these imaginative interpretations are exciting: luxurious winter silk blends, virile twills, pure cashmeres, softly shaded tweeds, handsome hopsacks and flannels. Here's a glimpse of what you'll see—from a collection that's well worth seeing. In the photograph below: Petrocelli's four-button db suit in a handsome Glen plaid at $135. Next to it: Stanley Blacker's four-button db blazer in navy hopsack at $55. Sketched at the left: Eagle's double-breasted suit in beige twill at $120. Below it: an all worsted db sport coat in a black-and-white Glen plaid at $75. Next down: the db overcoat in pure cashmere at $150. Above our sig: the high style db hopsack blazer in a two-button (one-to-button) version at $50. The rest of the db story—and it's making fashion headlines this fall—is at HHS right now.

Abundantly.

Bra Exec No Bust at Uplifting Soviets

LONDON (AP) — A British bra tycoon, who took a suitcase full of samples to Moscow, has returned to London empty-handed.

"They bought my entire range of 72 sample bras," said Dennis Wallen of the Perfect Bra Co. "This is very encouraging."

★ ★ ★

For years Russian ladies have been using an article known as a "bust-halter" or "liftchek," which does it basic job competently but far from esthetically.

Wallen said the samples he left behind included a wide variety of designs and colors.

NOT PROPER

"Our original plan was to show the bras at a fashion parade," he explained, "But at the last moment we were told it would not be proper to show such garments on live models in public.

"We just had to show them around by hand."

Wallen is expecting customer orders from Moscow but the Russians are adept at borrowing from Western innovations.

Years ago a Soviet minister of trade visited the United States and returned singing the praises of chocolate-coated ice cream bars, and corn flakes. Shortly thereafter there appeared on the Russian market an ice cream delicacy on a stick with chocolate covering called an "Eskimo."

★ ★ ★

So did a breakfast cereal known as "Korn Fleks."

So far, no "Brassiereovich."

Nashville Is a Good Bet to Stay Dry

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — This city of 350,000 will vote Thursday on whether to legalize the public sale of liquor by the drink.

★ ★ ★

The gamblers reportedly are laying 5 to 1 that the Baptist Church and the Church of Christ, which are leading the opposition, will prevail over the wets. Church forces beat back a similar proposal Aug. 17 in Memphis.

★ ★ ★

The referendum is being conducted under legislation passed by the 1967 General Assembly. The act provided that the four metropolitan areas of the state—Memphis, Chattanooga, Knoxville and Nashville — could decide for themselves whether to authorize modified saloons. As matters stand in the four cities, liquor is peddled only by the bottle in package stores. If the wets muster enough votes, liquor by the drink licenses would be available to restaurants seating 75 or more patrons.

'MIXING BARS'

Proponents of liquor by the drink point out that "mixing bars" flourish in the cities. Patrons bring their own bottles and pay up to $1.50 for setups. The wets also claim that open sales of liquor by the drink would yield up to a million dollars a year in tax revenue.

About 160,000 persons are registered to vote in the Nashville referendum, and residents of the state capital are being subjected to propaganda for and against via television and radio commercials, in newspapers, in billboards and in churches.

★

Episcopalians and Roman Catholics, both in the minority here, are quietly for liquor by the drink.

★ ★ ★

"Drys" have hired the public relations firm which handled the successful antidrink campaign in Memphis. Television commercials and pamphlets claim that "open bars" would lead to corruption.

Marine Recruits Unaware of Con Thien Destination

By THOMAS CHEATHAM

DONG HA, Vietnam (UPI) — They were young men, fresh out of school and boot camp. Now they were on their way to battle as Marine replacements.

Their first taste of combat would come near the embattled outpost at Con Thien. The battalion to which they had been assigned was operating near that hill of death and fear. But no one had told them yet.

You could tell they were new. Their utilities were clean and starched. They were clean shaven and had close haircuts, and they each had the yellow manila envelope with their orders inside.

They arrived in Da Nang from Okinawa last Friday, about 30 of them, all privates first class.

★ ★ ★

The Marines told them what battalion they would go to, but the replacements said they still didn't know where it was. Just report to Dong Ha Saturday were their orders.

THEY KNEW

They boarded the C130 transport plane and were bunched together three abreast, on the floor. They had read the papers and knew what was happening at Con Thien, Gio Linh and Dong Ha.

Some of them sat and stared. Others tried to joke with each other. Some tried to sleep. Their faces were glistening with sweat. It was hot inside the plane.

The airplane's crew warned that if mortar or artillery rounds were hitting the Dong Ha base when the plane landed, that it would stop fast, let the passengers out on the run, and be on its way.

"It isn't really that bad up there, is it?" one of the replacements asked another, who shrugged.

It was quiet when they arrived at Dong Ha.

Without helmets or flak vests — "They'll give them to us there, I guess," one of them said — they jumped off the plane.

Marines being rotated out, caked with dirt, unshaven, needing haircuts — the veterans — met the new men silently. Then the oldtimers boarded the plane and headed south to safety.

One of the young Marines went inside the small plywood-walled terminal and phoned the number they were supposed to call.

Some trucks arrived, the men put their sea bags inside and hopped aboard.

It was a drizzly day at Dong Ha, and still no one had told the replacements that their battalion was a mile from Con Thien. They would find out soon enough.

U.S. Businessmen Finding It Difficult Selling the Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — "I'm never coming here again," the American businessman said. "I'm fed up."

He was expressing the frustration of his company and a number of others that tried and failed to crack the Soviet market this summer.

* * *

In a major U.S. effort to get Russians to buy American, four groups of company representatives came over to give sales pitches.

Communist officials listened politely and in most cases said "nyet."

SOME SUCCESSES

Some of the businessmen were successful, ringing up total sales exceeding $600,000 in items ranging from inventory — control computers to textile machinery.

These few sales helped raise this year's total U.S. exports to Russia, which are at an annual rate of about $63 billion, up from $41.7 million last year.

But most of he U.S. businessmen went home empty-handed.

* *

"The main result," a U.S. diplomat observed, "was to expose them to what doing business in the Soviet Union is like. It's certainly very different from what they're used to."

Eighteen U.S. firms displayed food-processing and packaging equipment at last May's international "Improdmash" trade fair. Sales were reported by four — Fairbanks Morse, Cherry-Burrell, Anderson Bros., and Scientific Data Systems.

SINGER SCORES

Early this month 17 U.S. companies displayed wares at Moscow's international "Odezhda" clothing industry trade fair. One — Singer — made a sale, probably because it was selling one of the things the Soviets want most from America — machinery, in this case about $100,000 a year worth of textile machinery.

* * *

Trade missions also came here in May from Minneapolis-St. Paul and California. Their aims were more in the line of ice-breaking, exploratory trips than those of the other groups, who actually brought goods to sell at the two trade fairs. One of the two missions achieved limited success when Honeywell of Minneapolis sold some automated control systems.

The two Moscow trade fairs were the first in Communist East Europe to include U.S. national pavilions, partly financed by the U.S. government as part of an attempt to "build bridges" of trade and other ties.

U.S. firms' competitors from Western Europe and the Soviet bloc racked up sales in the millions of dollars.

'POLITICAL PROBLEM'

"The problem is political," a U.S. Embassy official said. "Because of the Vietnam war and their position as the leader of Communist nations. The Russians feel embarrassed to embrace us too closely."

Even without Vietnam, Moscow shies from buying American because it means spending hard-to-get dollars. Rubles are not accepted outside the Soviet bloc.

* * *

A technological gap between the two countries also impedes sales.

PRESIDENTIAL LIFT—A Philippines Air Force helicopter, on orders from President Ferdinand E. Marcos, Monday lifted Quirino Berja, 48, from the 60-foot coconut tree where he had spent 58 days. Berja went into the tree in July fearing that men who killed his son were after him, too. Marcos ordered the helicopter to the village 100 miles north of Manila in response to pleas from Berja's family. A rescuer shares the helicopter sling with Berja.

WILD ABOUT HARRY—Margaret Truman Daniel, daughter of former President Harry S. Truman, looks on as Noble Sissle, 78, plays "I'm Just Wild About Harry," in New York yesterday as a manuscript of the song was presented to the Truman Memorial Library. Sissle wrote the song in 1921 with Eubie Banks (right), 84. It was adopted as Truman's campaign song in his successful bid for election in 1948. Morton Calls for De-Escalation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thruston B. Morton, breaking with other Republican leaders, today called for a sharp deescalation of the Vietnam war, including a halt in U.S. bombing of the north and an end to "search and destroy" missions.

The Kentucky senator, a former national party chairman, charged that President Johnson had been "brainwashed" on Vietnam as far back as 1961 by the U.S. "military - industrial complex" President Eisenhower warned against in his farewell address.

"I believe he (Johnson) has been mistakenly committed to a military solution in Vietnam for the past five years — with only a brief pause during the election campaign of 1964 to brain-wash the American people," Morton said in a speech prepared for delivery before the National Committee of Business Executives' Move for Peace in Vietnam.

The newly organized group, headed by Baltimore insurance executive Henry E. Niles and Los Angeles industrialist Harold Willens, was holding a day-long conference to mobilize opposition to the war among the nation's businessmen.

Morton, who said he had been wrong to support escalation of the war in early 1965, contended that a "crisis of confidence and credibility threatens to undermine the nation's hopes for economic and social progress here at home."

STANDS IN WAY

He said, "Vietnam stands in the way" of the No. 1 priority of U.S. foreign policy—"to reach an accord with the Soviet Union"—and makes American principles and programs suspect in the eyes of the world.

Morton's speech came less than 24 hours after Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., sharply criticized another GOP senator, Clifford P. Case, N.J., for attacking the President's conduct of the war.

Referring to Case's speech, Dirksen told newsmen it is "not a very happy thing to say, but when you're engaged in mortal, bloody conflict, you don't give the enemy any comfort—not a bit."

He and House GOP leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan have taken a hawk stance on the war.

Morton, who was an assistant secretary of state when President Eisenhower first decided to send a small group of U.S. military "advisers" to Vietnam in 1956, said that unless the United States "gradually and, if necessary, unilaterally" reduces its military involvement, it may destroy the society it sought to save.

2 Die in Blaze

WYANDOTTE (AP) — Brian Manning, 24, and his son, Teri, died Tuesday in a fire which swept his downriver home. Firemen managed to revive Manning's year-old daughter Lori. The fire apparently started when a smoldering cigaret ignited a living room couch.

State City Helps Namesake in Texas

THREE RIVERS (UPI) — Namesake city, and local schools are being used as a collection depot.

Three Rivers, Mich., residents went to bat today for Three Rivers, Tex., residents who suffered flood damage in the wake of Hurricane Beulah.

The Lions Club, headed by William Cutler, chairman of the club's relief committee, is coordinating the collections and the shipments. The first clothing shipments will be shipped out Friday to Mayor J. W. Brice of Three Rivers, Tex.

Close Haiphong Port, Says Head of Joint Chiefs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff believes closing the port of Haiphong is vital to U.S. strategy for ending the Vietnam war in a relatively short time.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, in testimony before the Senate Armed Services subcommittee Aug. 16, urged military action to close Haiphong, and termed it one of the most important moves of the war.

A censored transcript of his testimony was released yesterday.

Wheeler did not indicate whether he favored mining the North Vietnamese port's harbor or bombing its docks, two alternatives that have been suggested for closing it.

★ ★ ★

But he made it clear that cutting off war supplies reaching the Vietnamese Communists from Russia and Red China was essential to ending the war, in his view.

"There is no question but that lacking support in the Soviet Union — that is, getting the means of the war — that any sizable conflict would be impossible for the North Vietnamese and the Vietcong."

In a later appearance before the same panel, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara argued that closing Haiphong would only present the allies with a new set of problems.

The next question would be how to stop Soviet ships from landing supplies at smaller ports or beaches. McNamara envisioned a confrontation with Russia on its use of international waters, and said any gain from neutralizing Haiphong was not worth the risk of widening the war.

★ ★ ★

On the basis of testimony from Wheeler and other service chiefs, the subcommittee last month issued a report accusing the administration of shackling America's air power. It called for the mining of Haiphong harbor.

Nevada Scientist Hopes to 'Drain' Smog From Air

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A University of Nevada scientist believes smog can be drained from a city just like water is drained from a bathtub.

Lester McKay, a research associate with the department of environmental patho-physiology, has worked on his plan 12 years and wants to put it to a test here.

No fly-by-night basement scientist, McKay has several patents, including one for a smog-control device for automobiles. His idea for ridding cities of smog was presented to the Seventh International Conference on Medical and Biological Engineering in Sweden where it was termed the "most exciting paper."

The basic idea came to him in a Los Angeles hotel room.

"I was lying in bed thinking about the problem of air pollution when I chanced to look into the bathroom and saw the tub," he said. "I wondered why you couldn't get rid of air pollution the same way you rid a bathtub of dirty water — by pulling the plug at the base and letting it flow out."

USE OF GRAVITY

McKay's plan would take advantage of gravity, especially during nighttime or inversion periods, when the polluted air is pulled close to the ground. The air would be pulled into underground drain systems by suction caused by fans or the friction of running water. The waste matter in the polluted air would be accumulated in receptacles and resold.

McKay and Dr. Donald Soll built scale models of two cities, one at sea level and the other at 5,000 feet elevation.

They added features enabling them to simulate atmospheric inversion conditions, a means to add air pollutants, and a system comparable to cities' storm drain systems. Then they devised a system of drawing air through the underground tubes.

"It was felt we could use the downward pressure of the atmosphere during nighttime periods to an advantage if we provided an avenue of escape for the trapped polluted air," McKay said. "This pressure, which presently prevents upward evacuation of contaminants, might enhance the effectiveness of suction below ground if it could be economically arranged."

In their model, they first pushed the air through the "drain system" with a volume control fan and then by the use of friction of running water.

TESTS EFFECTIVE

"In each case, the contaminated air was effectively evacuated much like 'pulling the plug' from a bathtub," McKay said.

In comparing the model to a city, he said, it appears feasible that each curbside drain and each inlet in the drainage system, after activating the air flow, would suck the cool heavy surface air into the drainage system to be cleansed.

McKay thinks Reno would be an ideal place for a test of his plans, since the city is at about 5,000 feet elevation and the daily temperature range frequently is more than 50 degrees.

Bartlett Pears Take Well to Cooking

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Now is the time to get the most enjoyment from Bartlett pears; the season will soon be over. The crop is small, but the quality is high.

They are one fruit that must not ripen on the tree. This changes the taste completely and not for the better.

Buy Bartletts green and let them ripen at room temperature — not on a sunny window sill — until they are a mellow golden color.

★ ★ ★

Whole pears simmered in a spicy syrup are served chilled with cream or custard sauce for a simple, but elegant dessert.

GLAZED FRESH PEARS

8 fresh Barlett pears
Whole cloves
½ cup sugar
¾ cup red currant or apple jelly
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 cups water
2 (2 inch) sticks cinnamon
Cream or soft custard sauce

Peel pears but leave stems attached. Stud each pear with 3 cloves. Mix sugar, jelly, lemon juice and water in deep saucepan. Add cinnamon sticks and bring to a boil. Add 4 pears. Simmer about 20 minutes or until tender, turning and basting occasionally. Repeat with next 4 pears. Chill well.

Place in serving dishes and serve with cream or soft custard sauce. Makes 8 servings.

Another version of cooked pears turns them into a perfect garnish for meat or chicken.

APRICOT MUSTARD PEARS

4 fresh Barlett pears
½ cup apricot jam
2 tablespoons or more prepared mustard
¼ cup water
2 or 3 tabelspoons lemon juice
Thin lemon slices

Cut pears in half and remove cores with a melon baller. Mix jam, mustard, water and lemon juice in a skillet and poach pears, covered, until tender. Add lemon slices. Serve hot or cold as a garnish for meat or poultry. Makes 8 servings.

Pear Cobbler combines Bartlett pear wedges, a wine flavored syrup and a quick batter. This is a dessert to serve warm.

EPICUREAN PEAR COBBLER

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking pwoder
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
⅓ cup sherry wine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 cups fresh Bartlett pears, sliced in wedges

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs with ¾ cup sugar. Add butter, milk and grated lemon peel. Add flour mixture, mixing well. Pour batter into greased 9-inch square pan.

Simmer sherry wine and remaining ¼ cup sugar together for 3 to 4 minutes. Add lemon juice. Arrange pear slices over batter, cut side down. Pour over sherry mixture.

Bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm with sour cream or vanilla ice cream. Makes 8 servings.

EPICUREAN PEAR COBBLER

Chop Lamb, Roll in Dough

A fine way to use leftover lamb.

Lamb Pinwheels

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
1 small clove garlic, minced
Generous dash of rosemary, crushed
1 cup fine knife-chopped cooked lamb, not packed down
1 can (10½ ounces) mushroom gravy
⅔ cup prepared biscuit mix
3 tablespoons milk

In a saucepan heat the butter; add onion, garlic and rosemary; cook slowly until onion is tender. Add lamb and ¼ cup of the gravy.

Turn biscuit mix into a small bowl; stir in the milk, with a fork, to make a soft dough; roll out on prepared pastry cloth to form a 7 by 5 inch rectangle. Spread with meat mixture.

Starting at long end, roll as for jelly roll. Cut into 4 slices; place on a small cookie sheet, pastry side up. Bake in a very hot (450 degrees) oven until brown — about 12 minutes.

Heat as much of the remaining gravy as you like and serve over pinwheels. Makes 2 servings.

Raspberry Sauce

For a delightful sauce to serve over sponge or angelfood cake, mix sieved defrosted frozen raspberries with softened vanilla ice cream.

MARKET BASKET

GLAZED FRESH PEARS

Pears Are Star of Salad, Mixed With Duo of Greens

A bright and colorful "California Harvest Salad" is a guest-pleasing dish, a pure "plus" addition to any warm weather luncheon or dinner menu.

It's a healthful bounty of western-grown fruits and vegetables, fresh Bartlett pears leading the list.

California Harvest Salad

2 fresh Bartlett pears
3 tablespoons lemon juice
3 cups torn iceberg lettuce
3 cups torn spinach
2 cups sliced fresh nectarines
1 cup thinly sliced cucumber
½ cup broken walnuts
½ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon honey
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Halve, core and cube pears; mix with lemon juice. Combine lettuce, spinach, nectarines, cucumber and nuts in large salad bowl.

Drain lemon juice from pears into jar; add oil, vinegar, honey, salt and pepper. Shake. When ready to serve, add dressing and pears to salad bowl and toss very well. Makes 8 servings.

Club Sandwich Has New Taste

Add a little ZIP to your day! Combine savory chicken spread (4¾-oz. can) and 3 tsp. horseradish to make 4 club sandwiches. Toast 12 slices of bread.

Layer bottom with lettuce and zippy mixture, then top with jellied cranberry slice. Cut each sandwich into 4 triangles to serve.

Filling Rice Salad Put Into Avocado Halves

Avocado and Rice Salad is a combination that can't miss! It boasts four foods that everybody likes: avocado, chicken, ham and rice — in a handsome-as-can-be salad, satisfying enough to appease the most ravenous appetite.

The salad presents no problems at all in the making. A little slicing, a little measuring, a little peeling and presto! a plateful of lusciousness.

Note that the slicing and peeling do not apply to the rice: this food is made to order for salads as well as other dishes of all kinds. Nature's own convenience food, it's ready for cooking without pre-preparation, short on cooking time and ready to use as soon as it comes off the range.

Avocado and Rice Salad is a grand way to use up leftovers. Chicken, ham and rice might all be extras from an earlier meal of the week or, frozen, from meals served weeks or even months previously.

Refrigerated leftover and frozen rice may both be refreshened by heating over low heat with a small amount of water to restore pleasing natural moistness.

Avocado and Rice Salad

2 cups cooked rice
1 cup cooked diced chicken
½ cup cooked diced ham
¾ cup sliced ripe olives
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 cup sliced celery
Mayonnaise to moisten
4 avocados

Combine all ingredients except avocados and toss lightly. Chill. Cut avocados in half, seed and peel. Spoon salad into avocado halves. Top with additional mayonnaise if desired. Makes 8 servings.

AVOCADO AND RICE SALAD — No one will complain about leftovers if you serve them attractively. Shown are avocado halves filled with rice, chicken and ham combined in a salad.

Indian Recipe Is Fruity One

In Bombay's fascinating Crawford market, beautiful fresh pink shrimp from the Indian ocean are among the seafoods offered to shoppers.

Chances are that the shrimp end up in a curry or in a sweet and pungent dish that may taste something like Bombay Shrimp, developed by the International Shrimp Council, a world-wide trade association of shrimp producers, importers and others interested in the marketing of shrimp.

India not only supplies shrimp for Indian markets, but exports shrimp to as many as 40 foreign countries, including the United States.

Bombay Shrimp

2 pounds shrimp, fresh or frozen, or 2 (8-oz. or 10-oz.) packages peeled and deveined shrimp
2 cups pineapple juice
¼ cup plum or currant jelly
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons soy sauce
⅛ teaspoon ginger
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
8 slices canned pineapple, cut in half

Clean shrimp, if necessary. Cook shrimp in boiling salted water 2 minutes. In saucepan, combine pineapple juice, jelly, mustard, monosodium glutamate, salt, soy sauce, ginger, vinegar and lemon juice. Cook over low heat until jelly melts. Combine cornstarch and water and add to hot mixture. Cook, stirring frequently until thickened. Add shrimp and pineapple and continue to cook until shrimp are hot. Serve over hot rice. Makes 6 servings.

Rice, Pasta in One Pot

The Armenian cuisine adds vermicelli to rice!

Armenian Rice

3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup vermicelli, broken into ½-inch pieces
¾ cup converted-type rice
1¾ cups seasoned fat-free chicken stock, boiling hot

In a 10-inch skillet over low heat, melt the butter. Add vermicelli and over moderate heat, stirring almost constantly, cook vermicelli until golden-brown.

Stir in rice and hot stock. Cover tightly and simmer until stock is entirely absorbed and rice tender — 20 to 25 minutes.

If necessary, add a little more stock; this should be done cautiously because at end of cooking period, rice should steam tender. Makes 4 servings.

COUPE EXPO — This colorful miniature sundae honors Canadian-American relations. For each dessert, stand two diagonal slices of banana on end in a tart shell. Add a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Top with strawberry topping. Add a dollop of whipped cream. Garnish with chopped nuts and a maraschino cherry. Place tiny American and Canadian flags in the sundae. Vary ice cream and sauces if you like.

Stuff a Shoulder for Good Eating

When roasting a lamb shoulder, season with salt and pepper and place on a rack in an open roasting pan, fat side up. Insert a meat thermometer and place in a slow oven (325 degrees) until thermometer registers an internal temperature of 180 degrees. No basting is needed.

A stuffed lamb shoulder roast is a real treat.

Stuff a boned lamb shoulder roast with a bread stuffing which has been seasoned with salt, pepper, finely chopped onions and parsley and moistened with a few tablespoons of melted butter or margarine and a little water.

Sew the open sides or fasten edges together with metal skewers.

Their Mexican holiday spoiled by rains, Lynda Bird Johnson and her dark-haired fiance were believed visiting at LBJ Ranch near San Antonio, Tex.

LYNDA

She and Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, who reportedly had been guests at the Acapulco home of American Airlines Vice President Warren Woodward of Dallas, made no comment on their plans as they left San Antonio toward Johnson City.

Miss Johnson and Robb left Saturday on what was intended as a six-day stay in the resort city, but almost continuous rains kept them indoors there.

Composer Gets Firsthand Report on Premier

Soviet violinist David Oistrakh was on the phone to the composer last night soon after he premiered Dmitri Shostakovich's Second Concerto for violin and Orchestra in Moscow.

Shostakovich

"The audience was happy with it," he reported to the hospitalized Shostakovich who is recovering from a broken leg. "It went over well, and I enjoyed playing it."

The Second Concerto had the modern tones of early Shostakovich works, somewhat mellowed, but still far from the Stalinist traditional music that the 60-year-old dean of Soviet composers once was ordered to write.

Roz Russell to Portray Coco Chanel

Rosalind Russell will play the title role of Coco in a Boradway musical based on the life of the famous French courturiere Gabrelle (Coco) Chanel.

The New York announcement yesterday said the Alan J. Lerner-Andre Previn musical is scheduled to open in the fall of 1968. Lerner said he wrote the libretto and lyrics with Miss Russell in mind for the lead.

In this case, the steaks are scored, rolled and cut into fillets, or individual servings.

* * *

There is only one flank steak available from each side of beef, says meat expert Reba Staggs. It comes from the section right below the sirloin called the flank.

Flank steaks are oval, boneless steaks weighing from three-fourths to one and one-half pounds each.

Flank steaks have muscles running lengthwise. They're usually scored to cut these long muscle fibers.

Chuckwagon Supper

2 flank steaks
2 teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1 cup water

Score one side of steaks. Sprinkle scored side with 1 teaspoon salt. Roll, width-wise, as a jelly roll and fasten securely with wooden picks. Cut into individual servings about 1½ inches wide.

Combine flour, remaining 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings.

Combine onion, celery, Worcestershire sauce, tomato paste and water. Pour over steaks. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2 hours or until meat is tender. 6 to 8 servings.

Heat Is Cause of White Coating

Don't throw out chocolate just because it's turned white.

Food specialists in the U.S. Department of Agriculture say this is simply a sign that some of the cocoa butter has separated out.

* * *

This happens at temperatures of about 85 degrees F. The cocoa butter in the chocolate melts and comes to the surface. When the cocoa butter hardens again, the chocolate turns white.

Only the appearance of the chocolate is affected by this separation. Usually, there is no loss of flavor. If the chocolate is melted for cooking purposes, it will turn brown again.

To prevent chocolate from turning white, store it in a reasonably cool place (under 75 degrees).

Spiral Bread

Twist tasty snacks with clothespins! Use refrigerated biscuit mix. Roll each flat. Wrap around greased clothespins. Bake at 450 degrees until brown. Cool, remove pin, slit open. Fill with tangy deviled ham (4½-oz.) and chopped olive mixture. Makes 10 twists.

Sweet Sour Dressing Gives Cauliflower a Tangy Taste

The cauliflower must still long for its Mediterranean home, for it prefers to grow near large bodies of water where naturally cool conditions prevail, such as the Pacific Coast and Long Island. This exacting member of the cabbage family is less tolerant of adverse soil and climatic conditions than any of its near relatives.

Lovers of Cauliflower consider all this pampering quite worthwhile, for it produces one of nature's prettiest, most delicious edible bouquets.

"Cabbage flower," its literal translation from the Latin, (CAULIS meaning cabbage and FLORIS meaning flower) consists of snow-white clusters of tiny flowerets.

The separated flowerets are a favorite on the hors d'oeuvres tray. Dunk them in cheese or onion dip, or serve them marinated as an antipasto.

Cauliflower lends itself to many flavor combinations. Try it with a white sauce delicately seasoned with dill. A cheese sauce poured over the whole head just before serving is delicious. Or sprinkle sliced flowerets with fine bread crumbs and saute in butter.

WHITENESS

A cauliflower's fineness of quality is indicated by the white or cream-white of its center, or curd, and by its firm compactness. Because cauliflower is so quick and easy to cook, there is danger of overcooking.

COOKING

The delicate texture, flavor and color of this vegetable may be best retained if the following cooking method is used: Run an inch of water into a saucepan. Add a teaspoon of salt, and possibly a teaspoon of fresh lemon juice to keep the "curd" white, then bring to boil.

Add flowerets and cook five minutes without a lid, then cover and cook another 7 to 10 minutes, or until just "crisp-tender" when tried with a fork.

A whole head should cook for an additional 5 minutes covered, but in any case, try UNDERCOOKING cauliflower if your previous cooking method hasn't been too successful.

Another success hint: don't start cauliflower too far in advance of the meal, for it can overcook while it's being kept warm.

Like its cabbage cousins it's low in calories . . . only a dainty 30 calories per cup of cauliflower.

Fresh Cauliflower Antipasto

1 small head fresh cauliflower
1 fresh green pepper, cut into strips ½-inch wide
½ cup fresh carrots, cut into ½-inch pieces
½ cup sliced fresh mushrooms
½ cup sliced fresh celery
½ cup sliced stuffed green olives
½ cup wine vinegar
½ cup olive oil
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon basil leaves, crumbled

Break cauliflower into flowerets and slice. Add with remaining ingredients to large skillet and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Cool and refrigerate overnight. Drain before serving. Yield: 6 antipasto servings.

Slice Avocados and Mushrooms for Salad

Interesting combination for a first course.

Avocado Mushroom Platter

½ cup olive oil
Juice of 1 lemon (about)
1 tablespoon each wine vinegar and minced parsley
1 teaspoon salt and pepper to taste
1 clove garlic, peeled and halved
2 firm but ripe avocados
½ pound mushrooms, thinly sliced

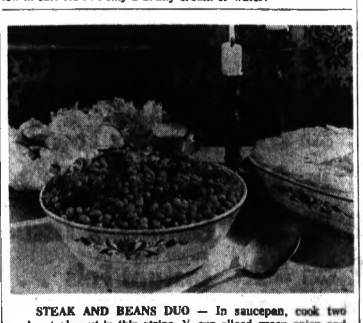
In small jar shake together the olive oil, lemon juice, wine vinegar, parsley, salt, pepper and garlic; cover and refrigerate to allow flavors to blend, and to chill.

At serving time, halve avocados lengthwise; seed and peel; place cavity-side down and slice crosswise very thin; arrange on platter with mushrooms.

Shake dressing well again and pour over avocados and mushrooms, removing garlic. Makes 6 servings.

Give Them Room

Use a 10-inch skillet when you are preparing scrambled eggs made with six whole eggs and six tablespoons of milk, light cream or water.



STEAK AND BEANS DUO — In saucepan, cook two cube steaks cut in thin strips, ¾ cup sliced green onion and one small clove garlic, minced, in one tablespoon shortening until tender. Add one can (one pound) pork and beans with tomato sauce. Heat; stir now and then. Makes two to three servings.

LBJ Says He's 'Fit as a Daisy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the cares of office are not getting him down, but the paper work seems to be piling up.

For the first time in four years, Johnson said, he doesn't manage to get the work cleared off his desk at the end of the day.

With a grin, the chief executive told reporters he couldn't quite decide whether he was slowing down or the paper work was building up.

"I feel fit as a daisy," the President said, aiming his remarks at comments that he has been looking tired lately. Johnson declared he was in as good health as a man his age, 59, could be.

GRAY HAIR

To those who think his hair looks grayer, the President explained he doesn't use stuff to slick it down any more, so it seems "grayer and fluffier."

Johnson gave some personal glimpses of his daily life and schedule to several reporters as he entertained at a black-tie dinner Tuesday night for visiting President Diori Hamani of Niger.

While he starts his day at 5 or 6 a.m., reading reports and newspapers, the President said he's probably the only man who can get up from his desk in the afternoon and take a nap for a few hours. "I don't need much sleep," the chief executive said, adding he never has trouble sleeping.

In college, he said, a friend once kidded that Lyndon Johnson could never commit suicide because "He'd fall asleep thinking about it."

Johnson admitted he sometimes sleeps through late-afternoon appointments.

The President maintains he hasn't put on weight recently. He says he never varies more than three pounds. Lately, he confided, he doesn't like to drink and has developed a craving for sweet desserts.

British Envoy, LBJ Slate Chat

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson invited British Foreign Secretary George Brown to Washington today for a private chat likely to concern Vietnam, the Middle East and Tuesday night's Big Four dinner at the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

Brown, who has been attending the U.N. General Assembly opening, planned to fly here for his White House date and return to New York in the afternoon.

Blue Shield Unveils New Plan

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Michigan Blue Shield, the hospital insurance plan, proposed a new plan yesterday that would eliminate income as a factor in fee determination of medical coverage.

John C. McCabe, the group's president, unveiled the proposal at the annual corporate meetig. He said it is now before the State Insurance Commission and probably could not be offered before Jan. 1.

The plan, to be offered first to large employe groups and gradually extended to all subscribers, would boost insurance costs 2 to 15 per cent for existing groups and about 10 to 15 per cent for new groups.

The major change in the new plan would eliminate extra fees doctors now charge to persons earning more than $7,500 annually. Fees would remain standard, regardless of income.

Other changes would include removing limits on general medical care, extending psychiatric coverage to hospital patients from the present outpatient care-only plan, and including dental surgery as regular service.

OPTIONAL COVERAGE

The new proposal would also include optional coverage for drugs and home and office calls at a cost ranging from $1.75 to $4.50 per month, and removal of the nine-month time period for qualification under maternity coverage.

how many ribs in a pork loin rib portion?

We think there should be seven.
Not five or six.
With A&P's seven-rib portion, you get more of the select meat.

How can you tell how many ribs you're getting?
It's easy.
With your fingers, you can feel and count the rib bones in the package.

Next time you're buying a Pork Loin Rib Portion, check it.
If you can't count one, two, three, four, five, six, seven ribs, you're missing select meat.
You're not getting the best value for your meat dollar.

Seven-Rib Pork Loin Portions are just one example of the full value A&P meats offer.

We think that caring like this about fair portions has helped make A&P America's largest meat retailer.

At Party for Queen Mary

Tears and Champagne Flow

ABOARD THE QUEEN MARY (AP) — The Queen Mary's master captain rushed from a champagne-splashed goodby party for his ship today and wept as she steamed toward home and retirement.

Said Capt. J. Treasure Jones, 62: "I truly love this ship. There will never be another ship like this one. Her career ends here, so does mine."

It was the luxury liner's last night on the North Atlantic and the 33rd anniversary of her launching. Passengers seemed reluctant to let the night end and danced, drank and sang till dawn.

The partying carried on even as Cherbourg, France, came clearly into view.

In the midships bar, steward Robert Searles, 62, served the last drinks of his seagoing career.

"I made the maiden voyage with her and I'm making the last one and I'm telling you she's every bit the ship she was then," he said.

The Queen Mary was launched in Clydebank, Scotland, Sept. 26, 1934, and made her maiden voyage in 1936.

"I left her for a few years after the first trip," Searles said, "but I came back to her and I've been here 21 straight years now."

The Queen is to be retired at Long Beach, Calif., where she will serve as a floating museum and hotel. She had been losing money in recent years, largely because of competition from transatlantic passenger jet planes.

Medical Society Elects President

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—The Michigan State Medical Society last night elected Dr. James J. Lightbody of Detroit as president-elect of the Society at its 102nd convention.

★ ★ ★

Lightbody, who has served as speaker of the House of Delegates for the past six years, will serve as president in 1968-69. The current president is Dr Bradley M. Harris of Ypsilanti.

Some 40 million Americans have pleasure boats.

'Great Lake State' to Be on Auto Plates

LANSING (UPI) — The man who makes decisions about such things has decreed Michigan will be known as the "Great Lake State" for at least a year. When the proper time comes, he'll think about changing his mind.

★ ★ ★

Secretary of State James M. Hare, whose widespread responsibilities include deciding what slogan goes on Michigan's license plates, last year decided it was time for a change.

So he ordered trucks to wear 1967 plates proclaiming the "Great Lake State" while passenger cars kept the cumbersome "Water-Winter Wonderland."

This made Michgan the only two-slogan state in the union. Or actually, a three-slogan state, as schoolchildren and strangers think of Michigan as the "Wolverine State."

When the gold-on-green 1968 plates go on sale Nov. 1, though they will all bear the "Great Lake State" tag as a three-way promotion of Michigan's tourist industry. Insurance and traffic safety officials aren't that happy with the change, preferring to see something like "Courteous Driver State."

DRIVER'S TASK

Hare says he'll leave it up to the drivers.

Tart Sauce Is Good on Fish

Fish fillets are for gourmets when they're gently simmered in a ruby red sauce with an exotic flavor.

But the ingredients for the sauce are every-day foods from your kitchen cupboard or refrigerator in this new recipe developed especially for the annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference by the White Cap Company, Division of Continental Can Company, Inc.

Important to the flavor are sliced onion and celery sauteed in butter or margarine. But more important are the catsup and dill pickle, which give the sauce its bright color and vivid taste.

The fish fillets — either fresh or frozen and thawed — are salted, rolled, skewered, and cooked in the sauce for 15 to 20 minutes until the fish are tender and flaky.

While we may no longer believe that fish is brain food, your family will think you're pretty bright to come up with such a flavorful fish dish.

Fish Fillets in Ruby Sauce

2 cups sliced onion
1 cup sliced celery
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup catsup
1 cup water
1 cup chopped dill pickle
2 pounds fish fillets, fresh or defrosted frozen
1 teaspoon salt

Saute onion and celery in butter or margarine until onion is limp. Add catsup, water, and dill pickle; heat. Sprinkle fish fillets with salt and roll up, starting at wide end. Secure with wooden pick or metal skewer.

Arrange rolls in sauce. Cover; cook slowly until fish flakes, 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

FISH FILLETS IN RUBY SAUCE — Fish fillets in ruby red sauce are shown with the ingredients that are responsible for their bright flavor: catsup, dill pickles (chopped), onion, and fresh or frozen fish.

Gadget Will Inject Flavor

There's a new and most unusual kitchen gadget available which will add great flavor to gourmet meals. It's called the Flavor Jector and it literally injects flavor of many kinds into eany meat you car to name, plus such other foods as experimentation and your imagination suggest.

★ ★ ★

The Flavor Jector consists of a red plastic flavor container and a stainless steel injector needle with a red plastic end and a yellow plastic plunger which fits into it.

Here's how it works: You fill the flavor container with any powdered to solid flavoring you wish — powdered meat tenderizer, a spice appropriate to the meat you're about to cook, a clove of garlic, pieces of ginger (preserved or fresh), pieces of fresh horseradish — what you will.

You then push the injector needle containing its plunger through a hole at the bottom of the flavor container, pressing down the lid of the container at the same time. Next, you pull out the injector and insert it into the meat as deeply as you wish it to go.

As you pull the injector from the meat, you press on the plunger, thus pushing the flavoring into the meat so that it stays where you want it. The insertions of flavor are made at two inch intervals through the meat.

Mix Fine Noodles and Bacon for an Italian Dish

You could cook yourself around the world with macaroni . . . for almost every country has a form of macaroni and special ways of serving it. China, Germany, France, Greece, Japan, these are some of the places.

But somehow, you always come back to thinking that macaroni is Italian.

Pasta is the word for all products of macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles.

And al dente is the term for cooking them to just the right degree of tenderness. And there's no question that Italy has made macaroni products famous.

So it's to Italian cookery we turn for some new recipes right now . . . but we're using American macaroni products — the best in the world.

Noodles Zingara is a classic dish you'd come across in Rome. Call it Gypsy Noodles if you like, for that's what the name means.

But somehow the word "Zingara" has a lovely romantic sound and is appropriate to the mixture of fine egg noodles, bacon, mushrooms and green peas.

It could be a main dish for luncheon or supper, or it could be the accompaniment to the meat course.

Noodles Zingara

1½ tablespoons salt
4 quarts boiling wafer
12 ounces fine egg noodles (about 9 cups)
½ pound bacon, diced*
½ cup butter
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas, thawed, or 2 cups fresh peas
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Grated Parmesan cheese

Add 1½ tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Meanwhile, fry bacon crisp in skillet. Drain, reserving ¼ cup drippings. Keep bacon warm.

Melt butter in same pan. Add reserved drippings, mushrooms, peas, ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Simmer covered 10 minutes or until vegtables are tender. Toss with the noodles and bacon. Serve with Parmesan cheese. Makes 6-8 servings.

*Use a whole pound of bacon, if you wish!

Two Meats Make a Roll to Simmer

Looking for two meats which can be served easily?

Veal round steak or cutlets, as they're called sometimes, can be rolled with "broiled" ham slices to make a novel combination for a luncheon you might be planning now that fall has arrived.

Beef round steak can easily be cut into five or six servings, but veal, being smaller by one-third to one-half, cuts more readily into three pieces.

Veal and Ham Rolls

2 pounds veal cutlets, cut ¼ inch thick
6 slices "boiled" ham
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon marjoram

Cut meat into 6 pieces. Place a slice of ham on each piece of veal and roll like a jelly roll. Fasten with a wooden pick or tie with string.

Brown rolls in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season.

Mix the soup, milk and marjoram together. Pour over rolls. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes or until tender.

Thicken sauce, if necessary, and serve with veal rolls. 6 servings.

It's Sorta Sneaky but It's Effective

Happy household hint: When you get home late after a busy afternoon of bridge, PTA, or hunting for just the right shoes to go with that new dress — and you haven't had a chance to start a thing for dinner — and you know HE'll walk in any minute with that what-have-you-be-doing-all-day-look"— just melt a little butter in a frying pan, cut up some Idaho sweet Spanish onion, leave it on a medium burner while you change your street chothes.

He'll walk in with a happy, "Sure smells good, what's cooking?", certain that you've been at home cooking up a storm all day.

½ THE CALORIES

What have you got to lose?

Mao Grip on China Slips, Claims Nationalist Report

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A report prepared by Nationalist Chinese intelligence sources says Chairman Mao Tse-tung controls party and government power in only two of Communist China's major cities and five of its 26 provinces.

The report, distributed today at a conference of the World Anti-Communist League, acknowledged that Mao's grip on the central government remained intact.

* * *

But it said opposition forces were imparing stability in the Maoist-controlled cities of Peking and Shanghai and the provinces of Heilungkiang, Shantung, Shansi, Kweichow and Tsinghai.

Mao's 14-month "cultural revolution" against his enemies in China has resulted in liquidation of 52 generals, the purging of nine of 15 vice premiers, and the dismissal of 26 of 49 ministers, the report asserted.

It said President Liu Shao-chi was under house arrest in the Chung Nan Hai district of Peking.

A Hong Kong newspaper reported that Liu made a nationwide broadcast last month in which he vowed to overthrow Mao.

The anti-Communist newspaper Sing Tao said a tape of the speech was smuggled to Hong Kong and sold to an unidentified foreigner for $50,000. Eight tapes were made from the original, the newspaper said, and sent to rural areas on the mainland. Another was reported dispatched to Mao.

Episcopal Leaders on Fence Over Viet

SEATTLE (AP) — Episcopal representatives today were on the fence about the Vietnam war.

"Neither dove nor hawk," one delegate put it.

They argued about it half the night, on the eve of the close of their 11-day governing convention, and wound up with a down-the-middle resolution saying they could "not agree among ourselves."

* * *

"Dedicated persons, including Christians, differ about the war in Vietnam, about the wisdom and morality of our nation's involvement," they said.

There also were differences put forward in reaching that conclusion in the House of Deputies, the lay-clergy branch of the two-house legislature for 3.5 million Episcopalians.

NEUTRAL RESULT

The result, as John W. Church of Hinsdale, Ill., described it, was neither "yea" nor "nay."

The House of Bishops still had to decide whether to go along with the deputies in the matter, before the convention closes today.

* * *

In their three-hour night session, the deputies overwhelmingly turned down a statement that would have called for a halt to the American bombing of North Vietnam and de-escalation.

They just as firmly rejected proposals giving blanket support to U.S. policy and voicing full confidence in the President and his advisors.

'EMPTY VAPOR'

In the midst of the seesaw proceedings, gradually converging on several more neutral proposals, the Rev. John Clinton Fowler, a bearded Tucson, Ariz., cleric, rose to declare:

"Only empty vapor comes from this house. The world is tired of vapor. And that's all there is here—vaporous, empty, gaseous."

OH...THE OLD HAND INSIDE THE COAT TRICK, HUH?

It's an old trick. You keep that hand on your wallet inside your coat pocket—never letting go of your money—and you wind up with money in the bank and a dour look on your face.

That's not bad, but it isn't much fun. It's more fun to enjoy spending money while you keep your bank account intact.

And that's not too tough a trick. All you have to do is get that hand out from inside your coat and put it to work. Use it to make a list of the many useful items you've accumulated in past years and aren't using now. Then use it to dial 332-8181 or 334-4981 to place your Pontiac Press Want Ad. And when your phone starts ringing, use it to answer the phone. First thing you know, that hand is holding the cash you've received from the ready buyers who respond to your ad.

Get smart! Use the trick that works every day for thousands of smiling users of Want Ads.

Call The Pontiac Press today and you will receive friendly, courteous assistance in placing your low-cost Want Ad.

East's double of two hearts was one of those doubtful doubles. He was sure that his partner would hold some cards. Otherwise North and South would have gone on to game instead of stopping at two hearts.

JACOBY

If his partner's cards represented defense against hearts, East was delighted to try to beat two hearts doubled; if they were somewhere else West was ready to let his partner play at two spades or three in a minor suit.

The doubtful double gave West no problem. He had a nice five card spade suit and bid it.

The two spade bid also gave North a chance to talk. He had almost bid three hearts over two. Now he went to three hearts over the two spade bid.

★ ★ ★

East was one of those hungry players. His doubtful double had succeeded in pushing South from two hearts to three hearts. He should have been willing to let well enough alone and try to beat the three heart contract but East doubled again!

★ ★ ★

West thought about going to three spades but decided to trust his partner. West had a good lead against hearts and a probable spade trick. That ought to prove enough if East had his double.

There wasn't much to the play. South ducked the spade opening and played low when West shifted to a heart. East took his king and led the suit back.

When both opponents followed South breathed easier since he was able to ruff his third spade. He would up losing one trick in each suit.

Strangely enough, East was bitter about the whole thing. He felt that West should have gone to three spades. As for West, he is looking for a new partner!

ON LOCATION — Mexican television offers a lot of location shots, such as this one from a 90-episode soap opera, "The Constitution," based on the story of Juarez, who freed Mexico from Maximilian's rule. The 30-minute episodes run five afternoons a week, with a resume of the past week telecast on Saturday.

TV Actors Bandaged for Sound

Soap Operas Rule in Mexico

By JOAN CROSBY
NEA Entertainment Editor

MEXICO CITY — Your first thought as you walk into the television studio where a popular Mexican "habon" opera is about to tape several episodes is that an invasion of vampires has been successfully repelled.

Everybody in the studio is wearing a tiny flesh - colored bandage.

Then you notice the thin flesh - colored wires running into the bandage and finally the tiny earplug everyone is wearing. You are seeing an "apuntador," a Mexican invention.

It's a closed circuit walkie-talkie, and the actors who are wearing them are getting their lines and stage directions from a prompter sitting above the studio in a tiny room.

* * *

"I think everything is against the actor here in Mexico," said Raphael Banquels, a respected stage star appearing in the series Adriana. "We have bad production. We don't have time to learn our lines. The pay is very bad and so we also have to work on the stage and in films to make a living."

LURID TITLES

Soap operas are the most popular form of viewing in Mexico. They run for something like 60 episodes when the cliff-hanging story concludes. The titles could be misleading. They sound like headlines from lurid magazines, "Forbidden Love," "Anguish for the Past," "Sublime Love," "Love in the Desert."

Despite the titles, the rule of Mexican television is not to air anything that could offend a child of 15.

The stations have their own watchdogs, in addition to the government censor. The station watchdog gets a soap opera script, and blue pencils everything he might think is objectionable. Then the script goes back to the producer who rewrites it. Back to the censor and then to the set where chances are the script will be rewritten again.

* * *

Violence is not allowed, and the scissors are used liberally on some American products. Over 20 pages of script were once cut from a Wild Wild West episode. Hardly ever does fist collide with face in Mexico. You'll see someone draw back to clobber an opponent. Then there is a cut and the opponent is stretched out on the floor.

For this reason, hour - long shows don't run for an hour. Sometimes programs come on five minutes early. Sometimes 20 minutes late. Sometimes, even, they are on time.

You can watch Fanatics A Go-Go if you're so inclined, and you may even get to see a popular singing group like Los Crazy Birds or Los Yaquis. (One of the Yaquis, due for a television appearance, was not allowed before the cameras by the Mexican censor until he had his long hair cut.)

But it's behind the scenes where things get confusing. There are three private enterprise channels (there is also a government - owned channel), which, everyone insists, are rivals for the viewing public. Only they somehow all seem to be owned by various members of the same family. The public relations director is 20 years old and someone's grandson.

New Breed Seabee Is Tough as Ever

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any other serviceman finishing a tour of duty in Vietnam knows the odds are heavily against his ever having to come back again. But not the Seabee.

He knows that after his first eight-month tour he'll be back in half a year for eight months more.

* * *

This 16-month dose of the war is the longest exposure for any of the services. Virtually every other serviceman can put in 12 months there and then kiss it goodbye.

Still tearing away jungles, punching roads through the hills and making airfields sprout overnight, the Seabees are 25 years old this year. There are only 20,000 of these sailor-builder hybrids now, one-twentieth of their World War II strength. Seven out of 10 are in Southeast Asia, where the action is.

'McNAMARA'S FENCE'

One of the more ticklish projects they're moving into now is a role in the building of "McNamara's Fence," the anti-infiltration barrier that will stretch across the slender waist of the two Vietnams just below the demilitarized zone.

It will be a typical Seabee job, tough and dirty. But the new Seabee, in case anybody was afraid he'd gone soft, is still a worker. He puts in 6½ days a week in Vietnam.

* * *

He's also just as proud and ornery as ever.

By comparison with the World War II Seabee, whose average age was over 35, today's crop, average age 23, are youngsters. But nobody's complaining.

BETTER SOLDIERS

"These kids are doing the things we old workhorses did in World War II," said Rear Adm. Walter M. Enger, vice commander of the Naval Facilities Engineering Command, "and despite their relatively younger age I think they're doing every bit as well."

When it comes to soldiering, he said, the new breed is better than the old. "We put up with military pressure for short periods of time in World War II, but in Vietnam it's almost constant."

* * *

Men of Battalion 11, serving near the demilitarized zone, would know what Enger means.

They took artillery, mortar or rocket fire on July 3 and the next day and the next. The 6th was quiet but there were more incoming rounds on the 7th, 8th and 10th. An ambush on the 17th. Intermittent artillery fire from before dawn till after dusk on the 26th and road crews shaken up by two mine explosions.

BLOODY MONTHS

Tally for July: seven men of the 11th injured, none killed. August was bloodier: four killed, nine wounded.

But there's another, quieter, side to the record the Seabees are writing in Southeast Asia. The battalions are increasingly cutting loose 13-man teams to go out in the hamlets and assist the villagers.

* * *

Eight teams in Vietnam and three in Thailand are drilling wells to replace disease-spreading streams as sources of drinking water, erecting schools and stitching the countryside together with improved roads.

* * *

Seabee medics also provide rudimentary medical care for all comers.

It's up to the villagers to pitch in and supply a large part of the labor. By working alongside the Seabees, they learn bricklaying, rough carpentry, how to build concrete forms and how to run a road grader.

The teams have enjoyed almost complete immunity from attack. Many Seabees think this is because the Vietcong, taking the long view, expect to share in the use of all those new wells, roads and schools whether they win or lose the war.

Big Interceptor Sewer Project Keeping Date With the Future

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Clinton Oakland Interceptor Sewer has been in the planning stages for the last three years. However, the construction stage is nearing. The huge project has been labeled the key to the future development of the north Oakland County area and will rival in its impact the construction of I-75. This is a progress report.)

By ED BLUNDEN

Three major actions are under way in the proposed $16.0 million Clinton Interceptor Sewer.

The project is vital to the future gorwth of the six townships involved as well as the surrounding area.

R. J. Alexander, director of the Department of Public Works, said "Everything is going along smoothly, just about on scheduled, and no major obstacles are expected.

R. J. ALEXANDER

Current developments are:

- A request for approval to sell $16.9 million in bonds has been forwarded to the State Municipal Finance Commission.
- A contract to be made with Detroit Water Board is being drawn up by the Oakland County Department of Public Works.
- Acquisition of easements is continuing.

Approval of the 30-year bonds can be expected to take about another two or three months. Cost of interest on the issuance will put the total figure at about $33 million.

The contract with Detroit will determine a part of the quarterly service charge to users. After drawing up the contract it will be presented to the Board of Supervisors for approval. This step is expected in two or three weeks.

All easements are expected to be acquired prior to start of construction — tentatively set for late spring with construction completion planned by August 1969.

The proposed project would provide Detroit sewage disposal service for the townships of Avon, Pontiac, Waterford, Independence, West Bloomfield and Orion.

★ ★ ★

The $16.9 million would provide the county DPW with funds to construct main lines. This would be paid back in 30 years by a charge of $350 connection charge per unit and a $14 per year debt-retirement service charge.

PAYMENT FOR LATERALS

Cost of lateral lines would be borne by residents in individual townships.

Plans call for main lines of the interceptor to enter the county in the southern part of Avon Township, loop north of the City of Pontiac, then split north and south in Waterford Township. Arms will reach downward to West Bloomfield and north into Independence.

In most of the areas to be serviced, sewage is handled by home septic tanks. However, due to increased concentration of population the pollution problem to lakes, streams and ground water has greatly increased with lawsuits and health department citations resulting.

★ ★ ★

Completion of the lines would provide a great stimulus to development in many areas, local officials anticipate.

AREAS LAKE SEWERS

Much subdivision development has been limited or delayed because of lack of sewers.

With them, homes and multiples can be constructed on small-sized lots and areas where soil conditions were unfavorable to septic tanks will be opened for building.

However, the facility will prove expensive. Many residents feel they will not directly benefit because they deem their property's septic system adequate.

★ ★ ★

Each township will be responsible for assigning costs within its community and methods may vary.

PROPERTY OWNERS PAY

Most of the cost will be borne by individual property owners. In a study made in 1964, the county DPW estimated an average unit in Waterford Township would pay about $1,100. This includes the $350 fee for the county's work and the cost of lateral lines and connections within the township.

These estimated costs can be expected to be slightly higher now, according to DPW officials.

A great deal of variance may result in some areas. For instance a lot with 200 feet of frontage can expected to be assessed higher than those with smaller frontage.

In areas such as Bloomfield Township where lots are quite large, installation costs of $1,500 and over are not unusual.

There are three basic ways sewer construction proceeds according to DPW officials:

- Subdivision or neighborhood residents can petition the township with 51 per cent of property owners necessary as signers.
- Townships can initiate construction with 20 per cent of property owners necessary to block construction.
- Health authorities can order construction to proceed as an antipollution measure.

In any case, where lines are built along the street, all residents must hook on.

AN AVERAGE BILL

After connection an average home owner would be billed for $12.25 per quarter, according to an estimate made in 1965. This charge would include $3.50 per quarter for debt retirement and the rest for disposal service.

The project was originally conceived to include the cities of Pontiac and Orchard Lake but they dropped out. Also in original plans was tying up with the Dequindre Interceptor. Communities using the line objected on the basis capacity was needed by them, however.

Present plans are now tied to a proposed line to be built by Detroit in Macomb County.

A Macomb drain official said they have already reached agreement with Detroit.

The project is part of the master planning for the metropolitan Detroit area. Further links in the northeastern part of Oakland County are under consideration.

Little Difference Seen in Hanoi, Cong Aims

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A number of Western visitors to Hanoi have stressed the idea that big differences exist between the North Vietnamese Communists and the so-called National Liberation Front, the political facade for the Vietcong in the South.

How real are the "differences?" The inspiration for "people's war" such as that raging in South Vietnam comes, most experts agree, from Red China and Mao Tse-tung. If so, the differences are apparent rather than real, a matter of tactics based on Mao's revolutionary philosophy.

★ ★ ★

The recently published "political program" of the Liberation Front in many cases almost duplicates Mao's political program enunciated before his own revolution succeeded. Once he took over in China, the promises and pronouncements were forgotten.

Hanoi's leaders, understanding and appreciating the Maoist tactics, could have little quarrel with the front's program reflecting classic Maoism. In fact, Hanoi hails the program enthusiastically.

LIFTED FROM MAO

Much of the "political program" of the Vietcong's Liberation Front reads as if it lifted with only minor revision from Mao's work "On Coalition Government," produced in 1945. That was 4½ years before the Chinese Communists took over the China mainland.

Mao's program promised that the "bourgeois-democratic" — meaning capitalist-revolution would develop, according to Leninist theory for a backward nation, before proletarian dictatorship could take over.

Once in power, Communists nowhere have shown any inclination to let the intermediate revolution flower.

The Vietcong's front, too, promises something like an intermediate capitalist revolution. It says the front "is prepared to invite and welcome all patriotic forces and individuals who oppose the U.S. aggressors to join its ranks and shoulder together common duties." It "stands for uniting all social strata and classes, all nationalities, all political parties and all patriotic, progressive forces, irrespective of political tendencies." Mao Tse-Tung in 1945: "Throughout the course of the bourgeois-democratic revolution which may last for several decades, our general program of New Democracy will remain unchanged. The New Democracy will be based on the alliance of all democratic classes. There should not be in China a system of one-class dictatorship and one-party government."

DEMOCRATIC REGIME

The front program: "To achieve a broad and progressive democratic regime."

Mao in 1945: "The Chinese people urgently need to unite themselves and carry out democratic reforms in order to achieve national unity."

FOLLOWING IN LINE — Tim Jones (15) rookie quarterback and 6th draft choice of the Detroit Lions will be playing with the Pontiac Firebirds of the Midwest Football League. Jones, a current taxi squad member of the Lions, follows such quarterbacks as Karl Sweetan (14) and Tom Myers (18) who played in Pontiac in 1965 and 1955 respectively. Myers is now playing in Canada and Sweetan is still with the Lions.

Pontiac's Offense Gets Boost

Lions Send 'Taxi' QB Jones to Firebirds

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The Pontiac Firebirds' feeble offense received a big shot in the arm with the announcement today that the Detroit Lions were sending their talented taxi squad quarterback Tim Jones to play with the Firebirds of Midwest Football League.

★ ★ ★

Jones, who stands 6-2 and weighs 205 pounds, was the Lions' 6th draft choice this year after a spectacular career at Weber State College in Utah in 1966.

"I welcome the opportunity to play rather than sit around," said Jones, "and from what Sweetan and Myers have told me, the fans in Pontiac are pretty good to you."

Jones follows the line of quarterbacks who played in Pontiac and have been with the Lions, Karl Sweetan and Tom Myers.

Sweetan starred in the Midwest Football League in 1965 and was the Lions' bright spot in the second half of the 1966 season after Milt Plum was injured.

★ ★ ★

Myers played with Pontiac for the first seven games of 1966 and when Plum was hurt he was recalled by the Lions as backup quarterback for Sweetan.

★ ★ ★

Coach Joe Schmidt of the Lions, in making the decision on Jones, said he wanted Jones to get game action under his belt rather than being idle.

STARTS WORKOUT

The quarterback would start working out with the Firebirds tonight under the lights at Drayton Field where the Pontiac team is now holding drills because of the availability of lights.

Jones, who attended Oregon City High School near Portland, went to Grays Harbor Junior College in Aberdeen, Washington. From there he received a scholarship to Weber State where he majored in English and political science.

At Weber State, which had one of the top small college football teams in the country, Jones was the fourth ranking passer in the NCAA college division in 1966 with 130 completions in 226 passes for 1,737 yards and 11 touchdowns.

★ ★ ★

He set 17 school records at Weber State and was picked in the Big Sky Conference as the all-league quarterback.

★ ★ ★

Also an outstanding basketball player in high school and college, Jones said he'd be ready to play Saturday night for the Firebirds when they travel to Dayton to meet the Dayton Colts.

If Jones does play he will be facing another quarterback who was with him in the Lions' training camp, Pistol Pete Mikolajewski.

★ ★ ★

Pete missed the first game with Dayton because of his army reserve duties, but since his return the Colts have walloped three straight opponents and are in a three-way tie for the Midwest Football League lead.

★ ★ ★

The following Saturday, Oct. 7, the Dayton Colts make their return visit to Wisner Stadium in a crucial MFL contest.

Advance tickets for that game are now on sale at Griff's Grill, Osmun's, Bob-Ken's, VFW Post 1370 and the Firebirds office, downtown 12 N. Saginaw.

Mickey Tosses 4-Hit Shutout at Yankees, 1-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Lolich's second straight shutout has breathed a little life into the desperate Detroit Tigers, who are 1½ games back with only four to go.

Lolich had to overcome some fielding lapses by his jittery mates and himself Tuesday night before he got away with a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees in another "must" game for the Tigers.

★ ★ ★

The victory leaves the Tigers in fourth, while Minnesota leads the league after defeating California, 7-3. Detroit trails both Boston and Chicago by a half-game.

Rookie catcher Jim Price let a high foul drop within catching range in the sixth after Bill Freehan had been thrown out of a ball game for the first time in his life.

Dick McAuliffe fumbled a perfect double play ball in the ninth. Although McAuliffe got the batter, Mickey Mantle, the failure to get the double play put Jerry Kenney on second with the potential tying run and only one out.

Lolich also was guilty of mistakes. He threw the ball past first base for a two-base error on Roy White in the seventh and wild-pitched men to second and third in the sixth.

Eddie Mathews' bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the sixth inning scored the run.

"I can say one thing," said Manager Mayo Smith in the clubhouse. "We sure scored a lot of runs in this place." The Tigers managed to split the series by scoring only one run.

"We've still got to win four-for-four," said Smith.

SPARMA NAMED

"We'll be glad to get home because we play better there. It will be Joe Sparma Thursday, Earl Wilson Friday and Lolich again Saturday in the series with California. That's as far as I can go."

The Tigers, idle today, were able to manage a few grins after the victory but Freehan still was bitter about being tossed out. Horace Clarke had just stolen second on a pitch to Kenney when Freehan started agruing with plate umpire Hank Soar and was given the heave-ho after he threw his mask.

"It was a foul tip," said Freehan. I knew it was foul but I threw the ball and he was safe. I said I should have dropped it and then he would have to go back to first. Then I looked at the scoreboard and the count was two balls and no strikes.

"I said to Hank, 'that was a foul ball'. He said 'no it wasn't.' I threw the mask all right. And he didn't wait a second.

"It was the first time I've ever been thrown out in amateur ball, professional or anywhere. You'd think they would take the situation—pennant race and all—into consideration before they throw you out for the first time and put a big burden on a young guy (Price) on a play you knew the guy blew.

"There never will be any question in my mind about it being a foul ball."

It was right after this incident that Price let the foul ball drop and Lolich uncorked his wild pitch. But the Yanks left men on second and third when Mantle struck out but had to be thrown out when Price dropped the third strike.

Waterford Mott 11 Posts 7-0 Victory

A young Waterford Mott football team produced its biggest victory last night, a 7-0 verdict over the reserves of Waterford Township.

The victory raised the Mott record to 3-0. The school is in its first season.

A 20-yard sweep by halfback Terry Ruffato produced the only touchdown of the game, and quarterback Jerry McNair sneaked across for the extra point.

Defensive halfback Frank Bisogni intercepted a couple of passes and blocked a punt while teammate Joe Guzak turned in a sharp job at his middle guard spot on defense.

Wings' Record Even After Loss to Bruins

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings lost 3-1 to the Boston Bruins in their third National Hockey League exhibition game Tuesday in London.

The loss gives the Red Wings a 1-1-1 record in the preseason exhibition game series. Detroit's only goal was scored by Doug Roberts. John McKenzie, Eddie Shack and Ross Lonsberry scored for Boston.

The Red Wings meet the New York Rangers tonight in an exhibition game in Kitchener, Ont.

Stanky's 'Zombies' Ready to Challenge for Top Spot

From Our News Wires

Eddie Stanky's "walking zombies" just could be the "livest" team in the American League by nightfall.

The Chicago White Sox, who gained ground Tuesday night by not playing because of rain, could be in a position to take over sole possession of first place when they face the Kansas City Athletics today in a twi-night double

Two victories over the Athletics would give the White Sox a 91-68 record—and a half-game lead should the Minnesota Twins lose their afternoon game to the California Angels. The Boston Red Sox will have a 91-69 mark if they win their afternoon game with the Cleveland Indians.

The Indians knocked the Red Sox into third place with a 6-3 win. The Washington Senators beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-1 in a "so what" game that rounded out Tuesday's AL schedule.

Sixth-inning homers by Chuck Hinton and Chico Salmon offset a record-tying homer by Carl Yastrzemski and helped the Indians' Luis Tiant win his 12th game.

Yastrzemski tagged Tiant for his 43rd homer of the season, tying Ted Williams' club record for a left-handed batter, in the seventh inning but it was too late.

FANNED EIGHT

Tiant struck out eight and allowed eight hits to best Gary Bell, who suffered his 13th loss for the Red Sox.

"Get 'em tomorrow, that one's gone—but we're running out of tomorrows," Boston Manager Dick Williams said.

"We just played poorly," Williams repeated in the quiet Red Sox dressing room.

Twins Fire Up Pennant Push

California Looks for Rebound Against Invading Wolverines

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Undismayed by a 41-8 loss to Notre Dame, California's Golden Bears prepared hopefully this week for an invasion by Michigan, which nosed out Duke 10-7 last Saturday.

"We went against the best," Cal Coach Ray Willsey observed philosophically. "That's what we want to do. We can gain a lot playing a team like Notre Dame if we don't let it get us upset or discouraged."

★ ★ ★

His reference was to the fact that more than 50 per cent of California's squad is sophomores, who, he feels, will improve with experience.

Sparked by a rugged defense, the Bears pulled out a 21-13 victory over Oregon in their gridiron opener. Notre Dame turned the tables on them at South Bend by intercepting four passes, and the young Bears failed to contain Terry Hanratty in the air.

Willsey this week stressed his running game, but intimated that the Wolverines could expect to see considerable of Randy Humphries, sophomore quarterback.

Starter Barry Bronk, who drove Cal to its only touchdown in the 17-7 loss to Michigan last year, was able to complete only two of 20 passes for 24 yards against the Irish.

Humphries, in his first game, played the second half. He connected on only three of eight tosses, but his running—45 yards in 14 carries—was a big factor in Cal's lone touchdown.

California's top pass receiver is junior Wayne Stewart, who in two games has caught eight for 60 yards. With 200 pounds distributed on a 6-foot, 7-inch frame, Stewart is the tallest man on the squad. He goes both ways, as end and defensive back.

★ ★ ★

Halfback Paul Williams, who packed 15 times for 49 yards against the Irish, ran his two game total to 34 carries for 130 yards.

Michigan can expect to see quite a bit of Williams come Saturday, and also of fullback John McGaffie, who scored two touchdowns against Oregon.

Husband's Death Ends Career of Successful Tennis Coaching Duo

DETROIT (AP) — Service for Jerry Hoxie, 65, who formed with his wife, Jean, what came to be one of the finest tennis coaching programs in the nation, will be held Friday in Detroit.

Hoxie died Monday night in a Detroit hospital. He had been in a coma for more than a month.

The Hoxie husband-and-wife coaching combination, based at the suburban Hamtramck Recreation Department, developed more than 200 champion players and guided Hamtramck High School to 16 Class A State tennis championships.

Hoxie was born in Ann Arbor in 1902 and attended high school in Royal Oak. He was a graduate of Princeton University and a good doubles and mixed doubles player in his youth. He met his wife on a tennis court and they were married in 1925.

Killebrew's 2 Homers, Lively Attitude Spark Rally Against Angels

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Billy Martin, that old New York Yankee firebrand, thinks the Minnesota Twins may finnaly have gotten their dander up now that the American League pennant race has reached the do-or-die stage.

★ ★ ★

"Our spirit was at its highest point today," Martin said Tuesday after the Twins had cracked California 7-3 to mount a one-game lead in the madcap pennant acramble that ends next Sunday.

★ ★ ★

"Our players did something a little different on he bench today," Martin continued. "They were all yelling like crazy, and getting on the other guys.

"It was a lot different than Monday (when the Twins lost 9-2 to the Angels). We didn't do anything, and they beat the heck out of us. Maybe that actually helped us."

Harmon Killebrew hit his 42nd and 43rd home runs, with his first blow a two-run shot in the sixth inning which wiped out a 3-2 Angels lead.

Killebrew now is tied with Boston's Carl Yastrzemski for the AL homer lead in his bid to lead the league five times.

★ ★ ★

Jim Kaat survived a rough third inning, when the Angels scored all three of their runs on three singles, an error, a walk, a hit batsman and two fielder's choices. He pitched a strong five-hit, 13-strikeout game for his 16th victory against 13 losses.

McVea Named Top Back

By the Associated Press

Duffy Daugherty thought he was the quickest runner he'd seen in a long time. The trouble was Duffy's players had trouble seeing him at all.

He's Warren "Mack the Knife" McVea of Houston, this week's Associated Press Back of the Week.

* * *

The 5-foot-10, 180-pound senior from San Antonio, Tex., was named today as a result of his performance—155 yards and one touchdown on 14 carries—in Houston's 37-7 upset of Michigan State last Saturday.

"You had to be close to him to appreciate some of his faking," Daugherty said.

Some Michigan State defenders may have been close to McVea, but it is doubtful they appreciated him very much as he raced 50 yards for a second period touchdown to put Houston ahead to stay, 10-7.

McVea, who runs the 100 in 9.5, also reeled off jaunts of 48, 33 and 17 yards.

McVea barely edged Florida State quarterback Kim Hammond for Back of the Week.

The 6-1 senior from Melbourne, Fla., completed 23 of 40 passes for 280 yards and three touchdowns in Florida State's stunning 37-37 tie with Alabama. He also ran 11 times for 45 yards.

And he did all of this in the role of a substitute. Hammond started in place of Gary Pajcic, who was troubled by a sore arm.

Hammond's three TD passes matched the number Alabama yielded all last season. The 37 points also matched the total given up by the Crimson Tide in 1966.

Highlanders Post Easy Harrier Win

Taking four of the first five places, Highland Lakes campus of Oakland Community College raced past Jackson and Kellogg in a cross-country meet yesterday in Jackson.

Kellogg's Bob Campball grabbed the top spot with a time of 17:17.

Pacing the Highlanders were John Stevens (2), Harold Boone (3), Craig Owen (4), Dave Mann (5) and Randy Wilkins (7).

Stevenson's Titans May Suffer

No Day of Rest for Skippers

Waterford Township's Skippers didn't earn a day of recuperation last week and Utica Stevenson's Titans may be the ones who'll suffer.

Coach John Moffat of WTHS had the Skippers (1-1) on the practice field Saturday morning following Friday night's 7-0 blanking by Southfield.

The Skippers' poor execution of their blocking assignments was the principle reason for the quick return to practice.

Also, there is one less day to prepare for the game this week since it will be played 8 p.m. Thursday at Utica rather than Friday. This was arranged in order not to conflict with the city's sesquicentennial celebration Friday at the stadium.

The Titans (0-2) are a sophmore-junior squad that has managed only one touchdown after holding Rochester to a 13-13 tie in the first half of the opening game.

Rochester went on to a 39-13 conquest, and lasf Friday Stevenson fell, 34-6, at Center Line. Tomorrow's contest will be the bome debut of the Titans, who next fall will become the sixth member of the Eastern Michigan League grid race.

SIDLINED

Waterford will enter the tilt minus end-lineback Bill Foley who is sidelined for probably three weeks. Juniors Terry Crawford and Dan Groh will replace him on offense and defense, respectively.

* * *

A change in the offensive backfield has junior Neil Blackmer and Groh slated for added duty at right halfback. They will team with fullback Larry Hemmerly and left half Steve Goit. Brad Potter will be the signal caller.

Stevenson's pass defense has been the only major shortcoming in the first two games, according to coach Jerry Thomas.

The school competed last fall at the junior varsity level and compiled a 2-4 mark. Juniors are playing most of the time although the sophomores are gaining experience, too, in an effort to develop some depth.

* * *

Thomas has an all-junior backfield in Jerry Williams, a 5-10 quarterback: John Masi, a 6-1, 195-pound fullback; Bryan Clippard (5-11, 190) and Keith Netzel (6-1, 165), who rotate at wingback and tailback.

Junior end Rich White and Netzel are Williams' chief targets in passing situations.

Lonnie Holton and the Northern Michigan Wildcats continued to dominate the Michigan college football statistics.

Northern rumbled past Bemidji, Minn., 33-3 Saturday for its third straight football victory. Holton contributed three touchdowns in the rout and ran his total for the fall to five for a total of 30 points.

Hugh Davidson of Northwood has three touchdowns and tackled a man for a safety and a total of 20 points.

Bill Bull moved to the fore among Pontiac area men's league bowlers Friday night with a 707 series in the Huron Bowl Classic.

A 257-252 duo helped him to the best score reported to date this season. He bowls for Moose Lodge-182.

Dick Beamer posted 214-222—648 for the first-place janitors, too, who — along with Lake Orion Furniture & Appliance—posted an eight-point sweep. Ed Gibbs hit 648 for Hartford Roofing, and Roger Foldy 656 for Cooley Lanes.

Howe's Lanes Senior Classic that night saw Dick Fuller register a new season high series for the league with 256-215—681.

George Ryneerson had a 244 game but all three men fell shy of Ed Szot's season high 269.

I Bet You Didn't Know

By John Carter

Could you imagine the manager of a pennant - winning baseball team saying he didn't want his team to play in the World Series! . . . Did you know such a thing once happened? . . . It was in 1904 . . . The Giants won the National League pennant but their manager, John McGraw, refused to let them meet the American League winner, the Red Sox . . . And so, no World Series was played in 1904.

Did you know that in the early days of golf, the balls were made of feathers stuffed in a leather covering . . . Imagine trying to drive a ball like that very far . . . The present type of golf ball was invented in the U.S. around 1900.

Here's an amazing football fact about Notre Dame . . . Everybody knows they have had some great teams over the years, but to show how great, look at this . . . From 1889 through 1955 — hat's a period of 66 years — Notre Dame had only ONE losing season! . . . Their only losing year in all that time was in 1953.

Auto Devotees Break Ground for Speedway

DETROIT (AP) — Ground-breaking was scheduled today for what the promoters say will become a major auto race track for all types of competition vehicles.

In time, said Michigan International Speedway President Larry LoPatin, Indy type, Formula 1, stock cars, sports cars and all types of racers will shatter the calm of the Irish Hills, southeast of Jackson.

LoPatin, of Detroit, said there will be at least one stock car race late in 1968, with a full season of races in 1969.

UNDER WAY

He said clearing and drainage work already has started on the 795 acres in Cambridge Township.

The courses are being designed by Charles Moneypenny, who designed the Daytona track. Stirling Moss, former English champion, has served as an adviser and will be director of road racing at the new track.

Coach Invites 24 Cagers

Tomahawks to Start Tryouts

The Pontiac Tomahawks have issued invitations to 24 prospects to commence tryouts Saturday morning for the newest member of the North American Basketball League.

Coach Bob Duffy, former All-America guard at Colgate University and ex-National Basketball Association player, is expecting at least 20 of the invitees on hand at 9 a.m. Saturday for the initial workout at Madison Junior High School.

The two-hour session will be followed by a lunch break and then two more hours' conditioning beginning 2 p.m. at Northern High School, the team's official home court.

The NABL season will begin Nov. 11 in Holland for the Tomahawks, whose first of 12 home games will be Nov. 18 against Grand Rapids, perennially a strong entry in the eight-team league.

* * *

The loop's rules don't permit tryouts to begin prior to six weeks before the opening game. Thus, Duffy — who was varsity coach at Colgate the last three years — has scheduled several doubled workouts in order to build a respectable quintet by the season opener.

BOB DUFFY

CUT PLANNED

The tryouts are open to all players who aren't under contract to any other pro basketball team. The 6-4 coach has indicated a squad cut is likely after Saturday's workouts, depending upon the quantity at the sessions.

The Tomahawks have a contract with only one player at present, 6-5, 228-pound Joe Maddrey who was purchased from Muskegon's champion Panthers.

Several others — including Saginaw's Ernie Thompson, Bill Backensto of Toledo University, Marty Letzmann of Wayne State, Tom Gerow of Albion, Matthew Aitch of Michigan State, Johnny Egan and Les Hunter of the defunct Benton Harbor team — are reserved to the Tomahawks by draft rights.

Only Hunter and Aitch definitely won't be at the workouts. They are currently practicing with teams in the American Basketball Association.

The invitation list included seven men who played recreation basketball in Pontiac last year. The team is sponsored by the Pontiac Football Company, backer of the Firebirds in the Midwest Football League.

Others in the basketball circuit are Lansing, Battle Creek, Chicago and Columbus, Ohio.

49ers Pace NFL Pros on Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — A net gain of 180 yards rushing in their 38-7 victory over Atlanta has helped the San Francisco 49ers take first place in total offense in the National Football League, the weekly statistics disclosed Tuesday.

The 49ers have averaged 210 yards rushing and 228.5 yards passing for an over-all average of 438.5 yards. They have played two games.

* * *

Baltimore, the leader a week ago, dropped to second place with a 426.5 average followed by Dallas with 392.0 and Washington, 378.5.

The Pittsburgh Steelers maintained their lead in total defense with an average yield of 189 yards. The Green Bay Packers are next with 196.

The 49ers placed sixth in the league in rushing last season. However, this year fullbacks Ken Willard and Gary Lewis have gained a combined 193 yards while halfbacks John David Crow and Doug Cunningham, a rookie, have gained 205 yards between them.

"We have confidence in all our backs," said Jack Christiansen, the 49ers' coach, "and the depth enables us to send in fresh, competent men in key situations."

Third Hole-in-One

Holly Greens Golf Course's third hole-in-one for 1967 was a three-iron drive 180 yards into the cup at the eighth green Saturday by Warren's Millan Radich.

The ace was Radich's initial one and he posted a 46 for the round.

Grouse Hunting Opens Sunday; Coho Action Slows

Dognaping Soars This Time of Year

One of the cruelest blows to a hunter is having a favorite dog stolen. It can be a near-tragedy to the man, his family, and probably the hunting dog itself.

But it happens often, particularly this time of year. Good hunting dogs are always in demand, and there will always be sharp-eyed thieves to suply the demand.

Dognapers avoid large kennels where dogs are registered with the American Kennel Club or the American Field, and are often tattooed for permanent identification. The most vulnerable victim is the sportsman owning an excellent young hunting dog that has begun to win local fame.

Hunting dog thefts rarely make the front page, and there are many more than we know. A lot of these are noted in a newspaper's "Lost and Found" columns from September to March.

In the town of Estherville, Iowa, in the heart of some of the best mallard and pheasant country in mid-America, six good hunting dogs have vanished without a trace in the past three years:

Two Labs, two Brittany spaniels, a German shorthair, and a springer spaniel. One dog was stolen in early fall; the others vanished in late winter.

How can such thefts be prevented?

ROOFED RUN

A good start is to keep dogs in a strong, roofed run made of chain link fencing or similar material, and padlocked when no one is around. This won't prevent theft, but it will help discourage it.

And never let a dog run free without supervision.

It is a good idea to tattoo the dog with a number or mark on the inside of an ear, or high on the inside of a hind leg above the stifle. A vet can probably do it.

You may also ask him to record this number on the dog's rabies certificate. If the dog isn't registered, his history, breed and tattoo number may be recorded with a notary public.

Only one of the six stolen Estherville dogs had a tattoo — a black Labrador with the number 257 inside an ear. The owner, a very large and unhappy policeman, can always identify his dog and is eager to interview the dognaper.

Double Treat for Sportsmen

Archery Deer Hunting Slated to Start

There is expected to be a large number of rod toting hunters in northwestern Lower Michigan this weekend.

In any event, the opening of grouse season should be added incentive for sportsmen to head into the coho salmon country prepared to partake of both hunting and fishing.

* * *

Small game season — except pheasant — opens in the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Michigan Sunday.

The state-wide archery deer season starts the same day.

Goose hunting will become legal for gunners Sunday in northern Michigan.

Early estimates by the Conservation Department are that some 175,000 hunters will take to the field.

Grouse and woodcock, the most popular targets, are reported in about the same numbers as a year ago below the Straits and increased in the UP.

Meanwhile, a major forest fire threat is predicted unless there are general soaking rains before the start of the hunting seasons.

At present the department said, woods and grasslands are tinder dry and could be set off by careless smoking and fires as well as the natural hazard of lightning.

HARD WAY

About 50,000 are expected to be out trying for deer the hard way again this year. The kill, however, is expected to be only about 2,000 deer, about the same as last fall.

Deer numbers are reported to be somewhat down in the northern Lower Peninsula, where the hard winter took a heavy toll.

The deer herd is estimated at about the same as last year in the southern Lower Peninsula with an increase reported in some areas.

Bow hunters are told prospects should be especially good in southern Lower Michigan. Deer in this area are considered a nuisance by many farmers because they invade fields and graze on crops. The slaughter of deer on southern Michigan highways also has risen year by year.

STATE CHAMPION — Clifford Hicks Jr., 3111 Eastwood, shows off his Michigan State Field Champion fox hound, Sam, also the 1966 titleholder. Sam was judged best of the all-age trial hounds at the recent Michigan State Fox Hunters Association Field Trial and Bench Show near Lapeer. Diamond Jim, owner by Sam Morrison of Holton, won best-in-show.

Coho Anglers Warned to Temper Enthusiasm

LANSING (AP) — Conservation director Ralph A. MacMullan urged Coho salmon fishermen to temper enthusiasm with prudence and caution to avoid a repeat of the weekend storm tragedy in which seven died.

"Frankly, we were afraid something like this would happen," he said, "despite the efforts of the Coast Guard, the Conservation Department, local law enforcement agencies, marina operators and others to enforce safety standards in the Coho fishing areas."

"Our boat and water safety section has issued repeated warnings that any boat under 18 feet in length is generally unsafe for any but very limited use in the Great Lakes," he added.

Besides being at least 18 feet long, he said, boats should have high freeboard, maximum stability, and all Coast Guard-prescribed safety equipment.

The fishermen who died were among several hundred whose small boats were caught in a sudden squall Saturday in Lake Michigan off Frankfort.

"Considering the severity of Saturday's storm and the large number of boats caught out in it, the death toll apparently will be miraculously low," MacMullan said.

"I urge Coho fishermen to equip themselves with adequate boats before venturing offshore, or to hire the services of those who have them," he said.

Fish in River Ignore Lures; Small in U.P.

The fish are there and so are the anglers, but the two aren't getting together.

This has been the story from the Manistee River and its chief coho salmon tributary, Bear Creek, during the last week.

* * *

Spawning cohos are in the river, but fishermen haven't hit upon the right method of taking them in numbers. The silver spoons and plugs that were successful for trolling in Lake Michigan have been generally ignored by the salmon in the river.

One method that appears to be doing better than all others is to fish on the bottom with a nightcrawler or fish eggs.

Action in Lake Michigan has tapered off with only a few Cohos being caught off the mouth of the Platt River. Mpst of the salmon being caught in the river are beginning to take on a reddish hue.

The redder they get, the lower the eating quality becomes.

NO BONANZA

Salmon are being taken in Lake Superior off the mouth of the Big Huron Hiver. No Manistee-type bonanza in the offing, however.

Big Huron plantings in the spring of 1966 numbered about 225,000 young cohos. The Platte River and Bear Creek plantings at that time totaled about 600,000.

Walleye Size Hearing Topic

The Conservation Department will hold a public hearing in Monroe Oct. 4 to discuss its proposal to raise the commercial size limit on walleyes from 13 to 15½ inches in Michigan waters of Lake Erie.

* * *

The higher limit, to be discussed starting at 8 p.m. at the Monroe Rod and Gun Club, is considered by department fisheries men as a "minimum" measure to give walleyes of pre-spawning size greater protection. It was tentatively approved by the Conservation Commission in August.

Two Lake Huron Streams May Get Coho Spawners

Two rivers emptying into Lake Huron will receive plantings of adult coho salmon this fall if enough surplus spawners turn up during the current runs on the Manistee, Platte and Big Huron rivers.

The Ocqueoc River in Presque Isle County and the Au Gres in Arenac County are among 11 waters selected for stocking spawners.

The Conservation Department will strip eggs from spawners on the Manistee and Bear, Platte and Big Huron to supply hatcheries for restocking these streams to keep the three-year cycles going.

Some spawners will be permitted to pass upstream from the collection weirs to see if natural reproduction can be established. The surplus of the salmon not needed for supplying the hatcheries and natural reproduction will be trapped and moved to other waters.

Following is the list of streams scheduled for stocking spawners:

Silver River (Huron Bay) upstream from Silver Falls, Baraga County; Falls River (Daults Creek), Baraga County; and Yellow Dog River upstream from Independence Lake and Yellow Dog Falls, Marquette County.

Boardman River between Beitner Road and the mouth of East Creek and East Creek itself, Grand Traverse County; Boyne River and its tributaries upstream from powerhouse, Charlevoix County; Bear River above barriers in Petoskey, Emmet County; Mitchell Creek and its tributaries, Grand Traverse County; Ocqueoc River, Presque Isle County; Au Gres River, Arenac County; and Pine River, Manistee County.

Flintlock Replicas Off License List

LANSING (AP) — Reproductions of ancient flintlock and percussion cap pistols which are not made for modern ammunition may be purchased without a firearms license, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled yesterday.

The state law requiring registration and licensing of pistols does not apply to "relics, curios, or antiques not made for modern ammunition or permanently deactivated." Kelley noted.

He said a newly made replica of an antique pistol is a curio within the meaning of the law and need not be licensed if it is incapable of firing modern bullets.

Kalamazoo County Prosecutor Donald A. Burge requested the opinion, saying a number of the pistols are being offered for sale in bis county.

Sight-In Days Set by M-LCA

Multi-Lakes Conservation Association is opening its rifle range to the public Oct. 7-8 and 14-15 so deer hunters can sight in their weapons.

* * *

Certified instructors will be on the range, which will be open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., to assist hunters. M-LCA's range is located at 3860 Newton, four miles north of Walled Lake.

Trading Is Active

Mart Slips Into Mixed Pattern

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market fell into a mixed pattern in active trading early this afternoon.

★ ★ ★

Advances and declines among individual stocks were almost even but the averages showed small losses.

The stock market has been showing weakness since it climbed to a new 1967 high.

Brokers said profit-taking was whittling away at prices and that investors had reacted to rumors on Wall Street that the Federal Reserve Board might raise the margin rate — the amount of cash an investor must put up to buy stocks. The rate currently is 70 per cent.

CHANGES FRACTIONAL

Rails, oils, airlines and building materials were lower. Most other groups were mixed.

Changes of key issues were mostly fractional but a few ranged to 2 points.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 3.41 at 933.77.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had dipped .2 to 340.0 with industrials off .4, rails up .1 and utilities off .2.

Opening of trading in Comsat and Cenco Instruments was delayed on the New York Stock Exchange because of an influx of orders. Comsat opened at 56, off 2½. Cenco Instruments opened at 50, off 2.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange. Gains of about a point were made by National Video, Gale Industries, Louis Sherry, United Foods and Atlas Continental Mining. Elco fell more than 2 points and Mortgage Guarantee Insurance was off about 1.

It is still illegal for women to sita t bars in Worcester, Mass.

Woman Wins Mayoralty Bid

Desegregation Foe Leads Boston Vote

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Louise Day Hicks, an avowed foe of school desegregation programs, topped a 10-candidate field Tuesday in winning one of the two places for mayor on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The three-term school committeewoman led by a margin of more than 4-3 over Secretary of State Kevin H. White, who will oppose her in the nonpartisan final election.

★ ★ ★

U. S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., immediately promised to wage "a strong campaign" for White.

Kennedy did not mention Mrs. Hicks by name, but said only one candidate of the two selected could carry out the mandate from a "large majority" of the voters for "progress and understanding in meeting the problems of our city."

PEACE, PROGRESS

"The battle for peace and progress in all our cities is going to be joined in the city of Boston over the next six weeks," he said.

Mrs. Hicks received an unofficial total of 43,572 votes in the city's 275 precincts compared to 30,820 for White. More than 156,000 of the city's 278,562 voters went to the polls.

★ ★ ★

The matronly 48-year-old grandmother showed well in the city's white working class sections, but—as predicted—ran behind the other candidates in the heavily Negro and upper class areas.

★ ★ ★

A practicing lawyer, she is completing her third term on the Boston School Committee, and has been the center of racial controversy for her opposition to efforts to achieve racial balance in the city's schools.

BUSING FOE

She opposed any change in the city's policy of having students attend their neighborhood schools, which, civil rights leaders claim, keeps Negro children in dilapidated schools that offer inferior instruction.

She avoided discussing the racial issue openly during her campaign. A simple "You know where I stand," brought cheers from her audiences.

Expert Claims Blue Chips Hot

BABSON PARK, Mass. — "Nonspeculative, dividend-paying stocks have strong appeal in the current market even as inflation is gathering steam in the wake of major price increases in nickel, polyethylene, automobiles and other industrial products," says Roger E. Spear, president of Spear & Staff, Inc., investment advisers.

★ ★ ★

Spear attributes this seeming paradox to the likelihood that wide publicity given the current inflationary trend will force the government to take strong counterinflation measures, including higher taxes.

"Under conditions of creeping inflation and high interest rates, the no-yield rapid-earnings growth situations may dominate the tape," Spear says. "But when inflation is topical, as it is today, and money rates begin to top out, income issues tend to move up.

"The prospect of antiinflation efforts of a fiscal nature is at the root of much of the current interest in blue chips."

Spear adds: "Obviously, over the long run, stocks have proven to be very effective as hedges against niflation: since the end of World War II consumer prices have advanced 85 per cent while the Dow has moved up some 380 per cent. Over the short run, however, the market and living costs can, and often do, diverge.

"Each market is subject to a variety of forces of which inflation is but one, and sometimes a not very influential one at that. In the context of the immediate market, the strong stocks have generally been nonspeculative dividend-payers."

3 Heads Worth $6,000 at Pontiac Div.

If two heads are better than one, what would three be worth?

For three diemakers at Pontiac Motor Division it amounts to $6,000 as winners of the maximum award under the General Motors Suggestion Award Program.

Frank W. Minton, Peter Shuller and George M. Williams all received equal shares of the top award for their combined suggestion on a die change in connection with their jobs in Pontiac's pressed metal plant.

As the men received their money from General Manager John Z. DeLorean, it marked the first time in Pontiac's history that three employes have combined on a suggestion and won the maximum award.

★ ★ ★

Minton, who has been a Pontiac employe since 1929, said he will use his money to help plan his retirement. He lives with his wife at 5070 Waterford Road, Independence Township. They have two sons and a daughter. Minton has had a total of 16 suggestions adopted and has won over $8,000 for them.

NEW HOME

Shuller, who intends to use his award as an investment in a new home, joined the division in 1940. He and his wife live at 3084 Judah, Orion Township, with their son and a daughter. They also have two married daughters. Shuller has received over $6,000 from the 16 suggestions he has had accepted.

For Williams this was his first suggestion and he will apply it toward his son's education. He came to Pontiac in 1950. He and his wife and three children live at 3936 Baybrook, Waterford Township.

★ ★ ★

This is the fourth maximum award at Pontiac this year and brings to 22 the total number of top awards paid since the $6,000 maximum went into effect.

Reader's Digest Association Joins

Mutual Funds Widen

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — Regulatory officials who have tried for years to keep pace with the swiftly growing mutual fund industry may now observe that the shape as well as the size of the subject is changing.

CUNNIFF

This most recent of the multi-billion institutions, which has grown 80 times since 1940, now is showing signs of developing new characteristics and to some extent new purposes. This may bring a new set of problems to study.

★ ★ ★

Most of the changes deal with new marketing procedures being tested by the $40 billion industry. In recent weeks funds have entered into selling arrangements with insurance companies and to the surprise of many, the Reader's Digest Association.

A concurrent trend also could be developing in the sales of shares in American industry to foreigners.

EXPERIMENTAL SALES

The Reader's Digest Association, which has had a phenomenal growth from a basement enterprise 45 years ago to a $300 million business now, has announced plans to experiment with mutual fund sales in Germany.

This move appears to have no precedent in either the fund or the magazine industry. And on first glance it seems like an attempt to mate two different species. After some meditation it makes more sense.

★ ★ ★

There are obvious advantages for both the Digest and the fund in this alignment. For the fund, a stranger to Germans, it means an opportunity to capitalize on the Digest's good name. For the Digest it means more income.

Under the arrangement, the Digest will sell shares of Loomis-Sayles Mutual Fund, a relatively small Boston organization, on an experimental basis in the state of Hesse, where one-tenth of the German edition's 1.28 million circulation is sold.

HUGE POTENTIAL

This seems like a very tentative arrangement, but its potential is huge. The Digest claims a worldwide readership of 90 million in more than 100 nations on every continent. It has a primary circulation of 28 million copies in 29 separate editions and 13 languages.

Since the Digest has built up good will in so many areas, this little experiment can grow.

★ ★ ★

"We're open to all possibilities and the United States is not excluded as a possibility," a Digest man said. This could mean that the Digest, which also sells books and records, might also become a worldwide seller of mutual fund shares.

The Digest is not, however, the first to realize the potential of selling shares in American industry to foreigners, whose incomes have grown strongly in recent years.

SWISS FUND

The Fund of Funds, operated from Switzerland, sells shares abroad in funds which reinvest the money in American industry. This fund has grown into a $420 million operation.

The United States Investment Fund, based in the Bahamas and operated largely by former aides of President Kennedy, is also growing into a worldwide seller of shares in American industry and real estate.

★ ★ ★

Domestically, the marketing of funds also is developing new twists.

The Eastern Life Insurance Co. of New York has announced plans to join with Oppenheimer Fund, Inc., to offer individuals a program that would include both insurance and funds.

Under this plan the customer would pay a single premium for the protection of life insurance (which suffers in time of inflation) and investments in American industry commonly regarded as an inflation hedge.

★ ★ ★

Changes such as these are imaginative and could turn out to be of great advantage to consumers. But for the moment, they mean more study and headaches for the Securities and Exchange Commission.

New Film Helps Kim Novak Lift Veil of Bad Luck

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — From her superbly coiffed, ash-blonde wig to her gilded toes — not just the nails, the entire toes—she appeared every inch the movie star.

THOMAS

The inches still read 37-23-37, as they did when Kim Novak was a brand new love goddess to replace the recalcitrant Rita Hayworth at Columbia Pictures. That was a decade ago, but at 34 Kim is making her first film since the disastrous "Kiss Me, Stupid," 2½ years ago.

★ ★ ★

She appeared on MGM's Stage 18 as a movie star should— glamorously encased in a tent-like outfit of East India print, sheer enough to reveal the outlines of her famous frame. The new vehicle is "The Legend of Lylah Clare," in which for the second time she plays a film queen; in 1957 she appeared to little acclaim as "Jeanne Eagels."

STAR PLAYS STAR

This time she enacts Lylah Clare, a legendary blonde of Hollywood's 1930s who died mysteriously, plus Lylah's look-alike who becomes a star herself by portraying the tragic star in a modern film biography.

"I have been on both sides," says Kim reflectively, "So I can identify with both characters."

★ ★ ★

Kim returns with the trappings of the star, notably the wooden baffle that shields the entrance to her dressing room from view of the casual workers on the movie set. The baffle, quite naturally, is painted lavender, the trademark color that became part of the Novak mystique.

BREATHLESS BEAUTY

In conversation she remains unchanged from the breathless beauty who confided to gossip columnists her romances with Aly Khan, Rafael Trujillo Jr., Frank Sinatra, director Richard Quine, and others. Her latest flame, she admitted, was Joel Thomas, operator of a restaurant and bar in California's Big Sur country where she maintains her home.

She talked openly about the misfortunes that have befallen her in the past three years. They were enough to dismay the most cheerful of performers: marriage and divorce from English actor Richard Johnson; a horse fall that removed her from the cast of "13"; two major automobile accidents that further aggravated her back injury; loss of her Bel-Air home through mud slides.

★ ★ ★

"Yes, it might have looked as though I were hexed for a time there," she observed. "But I believe every person goes through periods of good luck and bad luck. I had my bad luck—plenty of it. But that was more than offset by the amount of good luck that I have had in my life."

Her last few films have been notably unlucky. She was miscast opposite Lawrence Harvey in the role Bette Davis immortalized in "Of Human Bondage." Next came "Kiss Me, Stupid," which broke Billy Wilder's string of hits. Its tasteless sex drew hoots from critics and a condemnation from the Legion of Decency.

KIM RESOLUTE

"I still like 'Kiss Me, Stupid,'" Kim said resolutely. "I think it could have been a success if Peter Sellers hadn't gotten a heart attack and dropped out of the picture. He had the light touch that could have carried it off. "Ray Walston, who replaced him, is a clever performer, but he doesn't have Peter's light touch. So the whole thing ended up as a dirty joke."

The film was followed by "Moll Flanders," which she had made earlier in England with husband-to-be Richard Johnson. It also bombed.

★ ★ ★

"I liked 'Moll,' too," said Kim. "But the censors tore it apart. It was intended to be a lusty, sensual treatment of a period in English history. But after they took the sexy parts out, there wasn't much left."

REBOUNDS AS 'LYLAH'

Such failures followed by a lengthy absence from the screen because of ill health might be enough to end a starring career. But Kim rebounded into "Lylah Clare" because, as producer-director Robert Aldrich explained, "There is only a handful of actresses who can immediately establish the image of a movie star. Kim is one."

She evidences no concern about her absence.

"I'm not really wild about working, anyway, never have been," she says. "Oh, I know some performers worry if they are not working all the time, and they'll take anything that comes along.

★ ★ ★

"I can't do that. It would be like being a prostitute. Since I live by myself most of the time, I have to like who I am. And I wouldn't have much respect for myself if I took any job that came along, just to remain in front of the public."

LIFE IS SOLITARY

Kim leads the solitary life at her cliff-hanging house at Big Sur, where she paints highly creditable canvases, writes poetry, and hobnobs with the hippie and prehippie Bohemians of that artistic community.

"It's the life that suits me," she remarked. "I've never really been a city girl. Yes, I grew up in Chicago, but I lived outside the city. I never really was comfortable in Los Angeles, though I can appareciate it more as a city, now that it has more of a theater and cultural life. But I wouldn't want to live there again."

★ ★ ★

The Novak acting has been scorned by such directors as Alfred Hitchcock and Henry Hathaway, but some critics argue that she has performed admirably in several films—her favorites are "Picnic," "Vertigo" and "Middle of the Night." Whatever her thespian abilities, there is no question that she has been and is a star.

Banquet Facility Will Seat 5,000

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Coliseum has opened a $3 million kitchen and banquet room which will be able to accommodate 5,000 diners in one room.

The new kitchen is a block-and-a-half long and can turn out 5,000 steaks in 20 minutes in a giant oven. Twelve-foot racks in the oven work on a Ferris-wheel arrangement. Built to attract more convention business here, the expansion gives the city its largest single banquet facility.

An appraisal is an estimate. It is an OPINION. Its worth is influenced by the availability of pertinent data. Its purpose is to estimate value. Being an opinion it can vary. The basis to the appraisal are the location, age, square footage, the siding and the extras. A few of which are a fireplace, extra baths, built-ins, a garage, and storms and screens. The condition of your home will make an appraisers OPINION a better one for you. When your home is to be appraised spruce it up, be ready for the appraiser's inspection. Try to be present to answer questions if needed.

He Sees His Film Trapping Brains of London Mail Theft

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Stanley Baker, the brilliant Welsh actor and director, is so persuasive that he almost convinced me I could catch the leader of the gang that got $14,000,000 in the famous London mail-robbery if I go to see his movie about it titled "Robbery."

WILSON

"We believe it's quite possible that the leader" — Bruce Reynolds, 31, a former antique dealer—"is in New York," Baker told me. "We have 'information,'" he said.

"We show him getting off a freighter in New York—with the money.

"We're sure he'll want to see the movie about the robbery—and I'm sure he'll be happy with it and the way I play him!"

So, figures Baker, the man in the seat next to me, or you, at the theater may be the wanted bank robber and all we have to do is clap the bracelets on him.

Baker said other amazing and irreverent things—that his picture shows that in England, "Crime does pay."

And that he expects to have an offstage romance—"rapport"—with all his leading ladies. And that his wife, mother of four, "understands it's just business. She's an actress. She knows I'm in a business where you have to get to know people quickly."

★ ★ ★

Stanley's part of the Welsh acting set that talks largely to entertain. Richard Burton belongs.

In Rome recently," Baker said, "I heard Burton telling a story about his father. Finally I said, 'Wait a minute—that wasn't your bloody father! That was my bloody father!' He had stolen one of my stories about my father. But the Welsh understand that. I've stolen stories from him about his father and said it was my father."

Heroic Dog Dies After Surviving Coronary Seizure

COVINA, Calif. (AP) — Teddie, the 10-year-old heroic dog revived by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation after suffering a heart attack Monday, is dead.

★ ★ ★

His master, Cliff McAdams, said Tuesday a pet hospital told him Teddie succumbed to uremic poisoning, the pain of which had caused the heart seizure.

★ ★ ★

McAdams, Sunday magazine and travel editor of the San Gabriel Valley Tribune, applied heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation when Teddie showed signs of death. The dog regained consciousness.

★ ★ ★

Georgia Postscript: Bring the General

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Phil Campbell has sent a telegram to Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington thanking him for agreeing to speak Sunday at a national convention of agriculture officials in Atlanta.

But Campbell added this note to his telegram: "As long as you're coming, why don't you just stop by Chattanooga, crank up the General and drive it down here so we can enshrine it in its proper place."

The General, famed Civil War locomotive, was seized by Chattanooga officials while being moved to Kennesaw, Ga., for enshrinement in a railroad museum. Its future is tied up in the courts.

Disputed Board's Funds OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Subversive Activities Control Board, termed by one senator a costly sinecure "for political cronies," apparently is going to remain in business for at least another year.

What that business will be is another question.

★ ★ ★

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the board does not have any.

It has not held a hearing in some two years.

But the Senate Appropriations Committee announced Tuesday it has approved a $295,000 budget for the five-member board during the year that ends next June 30.

The House already has voted that sum, and the full Senate is expected to go along. The board sought $330,000. Proxmire recommended it get no money.

Proxmire and other critics of the board were not expected to press that demand when the appropriations bill reaches the floor. They were said to feel such a move, challenging the potent appropriations committee, would be defeated, and that this could supply ammunition to senators who want to revive the board with new exposure powers.

★ ★ ★

SACB funds were approved by the committee as part of a $2.2 billion appropriation for the State, Commerce and Justice departments, the federal judiciary and other agencies.

The board has been under congressional fire for three months, since President Johnson named Simon F. McHugh Jr., who married a former White House secretary, to a $26,000-a-year membership.

ATTENTION FOCUSED

That appointment focused attention on the panel and its inactivity. Its authority to force registration of people and organizations cited as Communist has been overruled by the courts.

"The shameful fact is that each of these five board members has been collecting $500 a week for the past two years for doing absolutely nothing, and that they continue to draw down that fat salary is a frightening waste of the taxpayers money," Proxmire said.

★ ★ ★

"This board is a costly anachronism," he said. "Its only service is in providing sinecures for political cronies."

The appropriations committee said the withholding of funds would not solve "the workload problem" or determine whether the board should be abolished.

The average American consumes 23 pounds of sausage meat products annually.

South Carolina Couple Marry at Purple Onion

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The Purple Onion night spot was the setting for a marriage Tuesday.

Bernice Turkett and Raymond Hill, both of Columbia, exchanged their vows. Afterwards, customers at the bar toasted the couple with beer, and as a substitute for rice threw grits.

"It's a sentimental thing," said Hill when asked the choice of setting. "This was the place we went on our first date."

The marriage was performed by a notary public. Under South Carolina law, persons qualified to administer an oath can perform such a ceremony.

3 Rap Plan to End Municipal Courts

SAGINAW (AP)—Officials of three cities today attacked a legislative plan to abolish municipal courts in reorganizing Michigan's lower court system.

"I strongly feel we should retain municipal courts," Charles A. Forrest Jr., Flint city attorney, told a State Senate Judiciary Committee hearing.

★ ★ ★

Forrest said the Flint Municipal Court makes a profit of about $900,000 a year, which defrays the cost of law enforcement in the city.

"This is an important part of our law enforcement," he said.

Mayor Robert Anthony of Alma and W. Vincent Nash, Saginaw city attorney, also spoke out against the reorganization plan.

The court reorganization is a prime topic slated to come before the special fall session of the Legislature next month. Revamping of the courts was called for by the 1963 Michigan Constitution.

One legislative bill calls for a system of district courts to replace municipal courts, justices of the peace and circuit court commissioners.

★ ★ ★

"It would be a mistake to abolish municipal courts in communities where they have served for many years," Nash said.

Anthony said it would mean less effective administration of justice in Alma. He said a district court in Gratiot County would cause construction of a new courthouse and "we can't afford the luxury of paying for two courts.

Detroit Hearings

LANSING (AP)—The Senate State Affairs Committee plans three days of hearings beginning Monday in Detroit to take testimony on a package of bills dealing with low-cost housing, urban affairs and tenants' rights. On Tuesday the group plans a tour of the city conducted by the State Civil Rights Commission.

Exports by Finland's metal using and engineering industries reached a new high of $274 million during 1966.

Open Housing Verdict Due by Oct. 9—Taylor

MAKE OVER PAGES

City commissioners will determine by Oct. 9 whether they will enact an open housing ordinance for Pontiac, Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said last night.

The mayor said the commisson has had preliminary discussion on the nature of such an ordinance and will delve further into the issue in the next two weeks.

Taylor said that the decision to be first made by the commission s whether the city will proceed with drafting an ordinance.

After that, he said, the commissioners would need more time to determine what the makeup of any ordinance would be.

The commission was asked to enact an open housing ordinance six weeks ago by Richard Northcross, president of an organization known as Pontiac Organization of Black Youth (POOBY).

MODELS STUDIED

Since that time the commissioners have received copies of ordinances which have been passed in other Michigan cities and legal opinions concerning the constitutionality of open housing ordinances.

Cities which have open housing laws in Michigan include Ann Arbor, Battle Creek, East Lansing, Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Muskegon, Port Huron and Ypsilanti.

Northcross and other members of POOBY last week charged that the commission was stalling in reaching a decision on whether an ordinance will be passed.

Oficers of the organization did not offer any comment at last night's meeting in marked contrast to meetings of the past few weeks.

ORDINANCE URGED

An open housing ordinance for Pontiac has been urged by the Oakland County Chapter of the NAACP, the Pontiac Area Urban League and Clergymen from many area churches.

Open housing ordinances in Michigan are city laws passed to prohibit discrimination in the sale or rental of housing on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin

Death Toll Mounting in Mexico Poisonings

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — The death toll of Tijuana's mass poisoning mounted today as scientists said a pesticide found in bread may be the killer.

The pesticide, parathion, was blamed tentatively by seven U.S. chemists working at Sacramento, Calif. A spokesman said enough poison was found to kill children but not adults.

The dead — whose numbers as given by officials varied from 14 to 34 — were almost all children.

The report of 34 dead came late yesterday from Pedro Mireles Malpica, district federal attorney general. In Mexico City, the attorney general's office said it had learned officially of 18 dead.

★ ★ ★

In addition, about 250 others were being treated at hospitals and clinics.

19 RELEASED

In the grieving border city, stricken since Sunday, crying parents carried their young dead to clinics in their arms.

The disclosure that parathion had been discovered in bread brought release of 19 dairy officials and street milk vendors held for questioning since Monday.

A ban on milk was lifted, and residents of Tijuana stopped boiling their drinking water.

★ ★ ★

Fred Roth, chief of the residual pesticide laboratory of California's Department of Agriculture, said he and six other chemists found parathion in the stomachs of two of the stricken children.

USED IN AGRICULTURE

An amount of parathion smaller than an aspirin tablet would kill an average sized man, Roth said. It is widely used in agriculture, particularly on vegetable crops.

Robert Rollins, chief of chemistry for the California Department of Agriculture, speculated that the pesticide may have been spilled on sacks of flour in a warehouse, or in transit to bakeries.

Roth said the chemical can be in liquid, dust or water-soluble form.

AP Wirephoto

VICTIM OF POISONING — Ambulance attendants help Maria Carmen de Jimmenez, 13, to a Tijuana, Mexico, hospital for treatment. She was among 250 persons who became ill, after eating bread believed to contain a pesticide. The death toll was believed to be between 14 and 34 today. All the dead are reported to be children.

Varner Quitting Bank Post in Wake of Ruling

LANSING (AP) — Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, resigned yesterday as a director of the Ann Arbor Bank, and Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, resigned as a director of two banks.

The resignations quickly followed a ruling by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley that an officer or governing board member of a state institution of higher learning may not serve as an officer or director of a private corporation doing business with the institution.

Durward B. Varner, chancellor of Oakland University in Avon Township, said today he too will comply with the ruling.

Varner, a director of the Community National Bank in Pontiac for about six months, said he would contact bank president A. C. Girard this morning and submit his resignation.

★ ★ ★

He said, however, that he would keep his post of director with the Consumer Power Co.

TO RESERVE COMMENT

The president of Oakland Community College, Dr. John E. Tirrell, a director of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank, said he would reserve comment until after he read Kelley's opinion.

Tirrell said that since he heads a county college he is not sure how the ruling will affect his bank position.

Hannah announced his resignation as a member of the board of directors of the Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit and of the American Bank and Trust Co. of Lansing in "immediate response" to Kelley's ruling.

★ ★ ★

"I do not want to be in the position of knowingly violating any law regardless of its merits or objectives," Hannah had said earlier.

CONTINUES TO SERVE

Hannah said he would continue to serve as a director of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., relying on the opinion of the attorney general relating to state-regulated public utilities.

★ ★ ★

Hatcher retained his post as a director of the Detroit Edison Co. and Tecumseh Products Co.

★ ★ ★

Kelley ruled that a college or university officer or board member serving as a director of a company with which his institution does business would be in a conflict of interest.

Officials Pass Ordinance by a Vote of 6-0

BY BOB WISLER

City commissioners last night approved adoption of a city income tax ordinance by a 6-0 vote.

★ ★ ★

The ordinance becomes effective with second reading approval of the commission, which will likely take place next week.

The tax would not be effective, however, until Jan. 1, if then.

Complicating the time schedule is the possibility of a referendum vote on the ordinance.

★ ★ ★

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. last night also indicated that petitions forcing a referendum vote may cause the commission to carry through with a special election asking approval of a raise in the property tax levy for operating funds.

SPEAK OF CITY NEED

All six commissioners voting on the measure — District 4 Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson was absent — spoke of the city's need for additional tax income and of the results of the advisory election Sept. 19.

"The election was a clear indication that the people in this city have decided they would rather have an income tax than a property tax increase," District 5 Commissioner John A. Dugan said.

"I don't think this commission has any other course to take," he added in encouraging adoption of the income tax ordinance.

★ ★ ★

Dugan said if the income tax doesn't carry "this city will suffer" and stated that one of the most important needs was to bring police salaries up to the levels paid in surrounding communities.

ADVISORY ELECTION

In the advisory election, 4,583 Pontiac voters indicated they preferred an income tax while 2,606 voted in favor of a four-mill property tax increase.

Under terms of the ballot, the income tax — 1 per cent for residents, one-half of a per cent for nonresidents—would be accompanied by a three-mill property tax increase.

Taubman Plan Deadline Near

The city's agreement with developer A. Alfred Taubman for development of a downtown shopping center of urban renewal land "will go right down to the deadline," Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said last night.

The agreement calls for Taubman to obtain lease commitments from two major department stores for construction in the downtown urban renewal project.

Put into effect Sept. 27, 1966, its provisions hold through today.

Taylor, other than saying Taubman would be given the last day to come up with the commitments, declined comment on the matter.

★ ★

"We are still waiting," Taylor said last night at the City Commission meeting. "I have been promised a report by tomorrow which is the deadline."

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin requested a report within the next two weeks from the city planning department recommending alternative approaches to downtown redevelopment "if there isn't an announcement of development by the alloted time."

Taubman is understood to be still negotiating with representatives of one or more department stores.

Trip Rumors Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department has denied anonymous reports attributed to sources close to Michigan Gov. George Romney to the effect that U. S. embassies abroad were not being helpful in arranging a trip Romney hopes to make to Europe.

Housing Upturn Won't Cut Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The slow recovery of the housing industry from last year's recession is expected to continue through 1968, but there's no relief in sight for high interest rates on mortgages.

That's the assessment of the industry and key government officials if Congress approves higher taxes to help reduce a heavy budget deficit and stem inflationary pressures.

Without higher taxes, they said, housing could go into another tailspin.

No substantial easing of mortgage interest rates is anticipated through next year and the home building industry indicated a further slight increase this year would come as no surprise.

★ ★ ★

High interest rates will undoubtedly hold down the housing recovery this year and postpone the catching up process until 1968, the industry said.

HOUSING FORECAST

In a new housing forecast, the National Association of Home Builders said housing starts this year are certain to exceed the depressed 1966 level but the improvements will be slight over-all.

For 1968, the association foresees a 10 per cent increase in housing starts if the administration's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes becomes effective on Jan. 1.

But the group expects no significant loosening in credit during the first quarter of next year and very likely throughout the year.

"As a result, housing starts in 1968 will fail to increase as rapidly as in previous times of recovery after a tight money period," the report said.

Some government officials also foresee no substantial lowering of mortgage interest rates next year.

After reaching their peak last December, interest rates on home loans declined until late spring but have since increased.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which supervises the savings and loan industry, the largest single source of mortgage funds, said the average interest rate on conventional loans on new houses was 6.34 per cent during August, the same as July.

The home builders said mortgage funds should remain available for the foreseeable future, but at a price.

OU Honors Its First Lady

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Oakland University paid its tribute to Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson yesterday afternoon, a week after her death at 83 in Brussels, Belgium.

MRS. ALFRED G. WILSON

In the Howard C. Baldwin Pavilion on the Meadow Brook Festival grounds, students, faculty and staff of the university, plus hundreds of outsiders gathered—close to 1,000 persons.

It was a different kind of ceremony for this pavilion. In it, Mrs. Wilson had sat many times to hear musical programs ranging from Bach to The Supremes.

On its stage she had been a member of the welcoming group for OU freshmen.

★ ★ ★

She was the individual who had indicated the very spot on which the pavilion was to be built three years ago.

Yesterday, there was a sheaf of red roses in front of the podium and palms banking it.

The Oakland Singers in their choir robes occupied one side of the stage and sang the "Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel.

Twenty-four members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Sixten Ehrling, conductor, were there to play two selections.

Transfer to Brussels Harries NATO Staff

PARIS (UPI) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), in the midst of moving its headquarters from Paris to Brussels, is having more trouble than a nervous housewife on her husband's first job transfer.

Not everything is going wrong in the complicated job of moving the 3,000 members of the NATO staff and the 15 national delegations, but Allied sources say few things are going right.

The problems range from a major construction catastrophe to nit-picking diplomatic status questions that some Allied officials feels are symptomatic of a loss of pride and prestige by the alliance.

Allied sources said the Belgian government is raising small but diplomatically vexing questions about the status the 1,500 members of the NATO Secretariat staff will have in Belgium.

On the other end of the scale, construction workers only last week succeeded in removing a huge Turkish mosaic from the top floor of the six-story NATO headquarters at the Porte Dauphine in Paris. The project took five weeks, cost nearly $20,000 and got the NATO moving process off to an ominous start.

COLLAPSED TONE

A huge 150-ton steel crane being used to lift the mosaic from the top of the building collapsed under its own weight Aug. 16, damaging the facade of the building. No one was hurt, but the accident seemed to set the tone of the move.

Delegation diplomats are openly complaining now that the move to Brussels, under pressure of an Oct. 15 deadline, was badly organized and may turn into a diplomatic nightmare.

Belgium, for example, appears to be balking at giving full diplomatic status to NATO Secretariat staffers would would allow them such prerequisites as special auto license plates, exemption from paying duty on imports of household appliances and other privileges.

Most of the Secretariat staffers are lent to NATO by member nation foreign services and they are used to enjoying diplomatic immunities and privileges wherever they work. They are angry at the Belgians for balking over the question, according to Paris sources.

DELEGATION UNAFFECTED

The NATO delegations themselves are not affected by this problem, but many have equally important hassles to overcome.

At present most NATO delegation staff members come, administratively, under the aegis of their embassies in Paris —and they will be the responsibility of the Brussels embassies after Oct. 15.

The Brussels embassies of most, if not all, of the member countries are far smaller and are not equipped to handle hundreds more personnel. Some embassies are plainly snowed under by new housing, commissary and communications tasks.

Fire In The 78-Year-Old Barn At Oakland Orchards Supposedly Began In These Bushel Baskets

School Desegregation Is Aired in Farmington

FARMINGTON — The erroneous and confused assumption that Farmington Schools may partake in an interdistrict student transfer to help eliminate de facto segregation brought out about 80 residents to the Farmington Board of Education at a recent meeting.

The debate between the board and the unusually large audience lasted about 45 minutes, reported Schools Supt. Roderick Smith.

The board's stated position is that a now-defeated proposal to decrease de facto segregation didn't imply transfer of students in or out of Farmington, Smith said.

Also, the proposal didn't call for state or federal pressure bringing Farmington schools into a program to solve de facto segregation in other districts.

* * *

Smith pointed out that the entire issue is dead, with the recent defeat of the proposal by the Michigan Association of School Boards.

The resolution the association had proposed several weeks ago called for legislation to provide reimbursement for transportation of students within districts where a de facto segregation problem is apparent, Smith said.

The association had distributed copies of the resolution to all school boards. The Farmington school board had given basic support to the resolution at its Sept. 11 meeting, said Smith.

An allegedly incomplete report on the resolution had confused the public, Smith explained.

Also at the meeting, the board approved the sale of six school buses for $1,800. The district has purchased nine new buses for about $60,000, said the superintendent.

The board also heard that the district's special education program this summer was "profitable for the staff as well as the students," said Smith.

* * *

Douglas Smith, director of Farmington Schools special education department, presented the report.

The special education program in Farmington began last year and is continuing, said Smith.

Milford Mulls Hospital Bid for Home for Aged

MILFORD — The board of appeals will consider tomorrow night the operation of a family care home for the elderly by the Pontiac State Hospital in a residence east of the Village Hall.

The special board meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Village Hall.

The hospital is requesting a nonconforming-use permit for operation of the home at 206 E. Commerce. The building is now owned by Dr. and Mrs. Wellington Gibson.

Plans include selling the house to a private party which will remain in the home in a supervisory capacity, said a village official.

* * *

The home will be operated by the hospital for 15 to 20 patients 65 or older, said Dr. Myroslaw Hrushka, director of the geriatrics service of the hospital.

FIRST STEP OUT

"The patients will be under our supervision and be receiving treatment," said Dr. Hrushka. "These patients are about to leave the hospital and will be making their first step out.

"They won't show any annoying or obvious abnormalities," asserted Hrushka. "They will not be a danger to the community."

The doctor stressed the importance of the patients living in and becoming a part of the community. "This would be a tremendous help to the emotionally disturbed and mentally ill geriatric patients," Hrushka said.

Making frequent visits to the home would be a social worker, occupational and recreational therapists and medical doctors, the director reported.

The hospital has already received approval from the State Department of Mental Health, Dr. Hrushka said. If the hospital also receives approval from the appeals board, it will begin operations in about eight weeks, he said.

For Addison Twp.

Industrial Zoning OK'd

ADDISON TOWNSHIP — Approval allowing the township its first major industrial zoning has been given by the Oakland County Coordinating Zoning and Planning Committee.

The proposal must now be approved by the Township Board. It had previously cleared the township zoning board.

The land involved — 154 acres at the northwest corner of Lakeville and Curtis roads, excluding the Addison Township Community Church and Rowland Hall property — is owned by the township supervisor, Billy Van Arsdel.

Van Arsdel said he purchased the property about a year and a half ago with the intention of getting industrial zoning for the good of the township. He was elected supervisor last November.

* * *

"We now have only about 40 industrially zoned acres in the entire township," he reported. "Two years ago there was some indication that a major auto company would have settled here had more such land been available. Instead they went to Romeo."

The property, Van Arsdel feels, is ideally suited to industry. "It lies in the mile-and-a-half wide strip from Lake George Road west to the township boundary. It has access to the New York Central Railroad tracks and to M24 from the west."

* * *

He said he had been informed by zoning board members that the intention is to get the whole strip zoned industrial. There are several business operations now carried out in the area including the Koenig Sand and Gravel operation.

'ONE MAN GROUP'

"I've been a one-man Chamber of Commerce trying to get industry interested in the area," Van Arsdel said. "The township needs it."

Firemen Able to Save Milford Twp. Barn

MILFORD TOWNSHIP — Seven trucks and 25 men from four fire departments yesterday afternoon saved the 78-year-old barn at Oakland Orchards, 2205 E. Commerce.

William L. Mainland, orchards owner and township supervisor, said, "It is rare when firemen respond to a barn fire and are able to save the barn."

The Township Fire Department received the alarm at 2:55 p.m. and had the fire under control at about 3:30 p.m., said Milford Fire Chief John Murphy. The fire was out by 4 p.m., he added.

The fire caused an estimated $10,000 worth of damage, mainly to the building, said Mainland.

* * *

Destroyed were portions of the roof and the northwest corner of the structure. Damaged was one of the four refrigerated storage compartments containing a "limited quantity of apples, pears, plums and nectarines," Mainland said.

POTENTIALLY SERIOUS

The fire could have become serious, because it occurred when the wind was at its peak yesterday, said Chief Murphy.

Two storage buildings are attached to the barn, and the nearby farm manager's house was kept under water during the fire, said Mainland. He reported that flames spread into the orchards at one time, but no trees were damaged.

"The fire was started by a careless smoker," said Chief Murphy. A cigarette or match tossed near the some 100 baskets outside the northwest corner of the barn probably ignited the paper in the baskets, with the help of the wind, Murphy added.

* * *

The damaged barn also contains the sales room.

BARN ENLARGED

Since its construction 78 years ago, the barn has been added to and remodeled, Mainland added. Mr. and Mrs Mainland have been operating the orchards for about the last 25 of the 55 years of its existence.

* * *

Orchard personnel are "in the midst of the apple harvesting season," the supervisor said. The some 100-acre orchards also grow peaches, plums, pears, nectarines and cherries.

Recruiting Changes Aimed at Enlisting Negro Troopers

LANSING (UPI) — The State Civil Service Commission yesterday announced new recruiting policies for the State Police in an attempt to enlist more Negro troopers.

* * *

The commission's action follows years of criticism by Negro leaders that Negroes were discriminated against in seeking employment on the State Police force.

Forrest Green, commission chairman, said the State Police has agreed to changes in recruiting and test procedures to possibly provide a greater number of Negro applicants.

There is only one Negro among the 1,400 uniformed state troopers.

* * *

State Police Director Col. Fredrick Davids has contended that the few Negroes who have applied for a job with the State Police could not meet the tough police standards.

DENIES BIAS

He said there has never been discrimination against Negroes.

"The basic problem here is to convince the nonwhites they should apply. The nonwhite community is suspicious of our examination and recruitment procedure and many feel it discriminates against them," Green said.

The major recruiting plan calls for contacting veterans of the Vietnam war, many of them who are Negroes. Negro clergymen and other Negro leaders also will be encouraged to help in the recruiting program.

* * *

More emphasis also will be placed on advertising for Negro applicants in minority newspapers, Green said.

TEST CENTERS

The changes in recruiting and test procedures will allow all persons to take the State Police Civil Service examination at Civil Service centers around the state rather than at State Police posts.

The Civil Service Department will screen potential Negro State Police candidates prior to their submitting an application to a trooper recruiter.

The screening of field investigation reports, formerly conducted jointly by the State Police and a Civil Service examiner prior to oral interviews, will be conducted solely by the Civil Service Department under the change.

* * *

HIGH STANDARDS

"We hope these changes will improve the outlook and still maintain the high State Police recruiting standards," Green said.

"The changes are a step in the right direction," said State Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, who has waged a campaign the last several months to recruit Negroes for the State Police.

Green said part of the problem in recruiting Negroes has been the tough screening process and recruit training.

* * *

A Civil Service study showed of 1,364 trooper applicants over a one-year period, only 150 qualified as state troopers, including the force's only Negro.

2 Parks Are Cited as Showcases for Fall's Variegated Wardrobe

The fall season when nature brings about its annual color spectacle begins Sunday and continues through Oct. 18, according to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan authority.

* * *

The authority suggested two area parks, Stony Creek and Kensington, as excellent spots for residents to take a leisurely drive and view the changing foliage.

Stony Creek Park, near Washington and six miles north of Utica, covers 3,500 acres of rolling countryside with an entrance on 28 Mile Road west of M53.

Winding park roads provide excellent views of blazing orange clumps of sassafras trees, red hues of oaks and sumacs, and yellows of hickory and aspen. The park's picnic area and its fishing and boat launching facilites will remain open in October.

* * *

One of the most colorful spots in the park is the Nature Study Area, which has a separate entrance along Inwood Road. Seasonal exhibits are on display from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. on weekends and from 1-5 p.m. on weekdays. The area abounds with nature trails.

KENSINGTON PARK

Kensington park, located off I96 in the southwestern portion of the county near Milford, is an excellent spot for fall color. The 4,300-acre park is spliced with several miles of roadway and contains two large lakes.

* * *

In the park, sumac, maple and sassafras provide early color followed by the aspens, oaks, tamaracks and beech trees. Here, too, is a nature center with winding trails and exhibits from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on weekends and 1-4 p.m. on weekdays. Canadian geese often gather near the center.

Property in Dispute '95 Pct. Cleaned Up'

Curlers in Public: Abominable

By JEAN SAILE

The suburban wife—manager of home and family—and victim of cliches.

Alone all day with the children—busy at volunteer work—doing innumerable errands—playing bridge—having coffee with the neighbors—holding the world together.

But not with hair curlers!

Ask any man. He'll refuse to be identified, but he'll tell you curlers in public are an abomination, an insult to aesthetics, a pet gripe.

painted eyes—that makes men mad?

Why? What is there about curlers in public that raise the ire of most men?

SLOPPY, UNFEMININE

"They're sloppy. They're unfeminine. They're a badge that she doesn't care."

What's so terrible about a gal—rushed all day—who does her hair up in late afternoon so that she'll be presentable when her husband comes home—and finds that she's got to go to the store?

"She could use a scarf."

"She could buy a hair dryer."

How about the teen-agers who make a habit of drying their hair in public?

GOT A DATE

"They think it's a status symbol," said one young man. "It shows they've got a date that night."

"It's a sloppy habit."

Why this item—not baggy hose or rattled hair or half-Said one, "It's as if you met a man with his shirt off in the supermarket. It shows he doesn't care what you or anybody else thinks of him. It's very nearly a personal insult."

Hearing on School Transfer Bid Set

A hearing on a petition by four home owners to be transferred from Southfield to the Birmingham School District will be held before the Oakland Schools Board of Education tomorrow.

The Southfield parents at the end of Cherry Hills Lane in a Cranbrook Village subdivision want their children to attend Birmingham schools because they are closer than those in Southfield.

The hearing will be at 4 p.m. in the Oakland Schools building in the Oakland County Service Center on Telegraph Road.

Suggestion Boxes Proves Good Idea

Next to mothers-in-law, probably nothing has provided as much steady inspiration to cartoonists over the years as the company suggestion box.

But while the value of the first may be a legitimate subject of humor or debate, the contribution of the latter to the growth of American industry is a matter of record.

Last year, 586,408 workers submitted a total of 2,515,573 suggestions to their companies, reports the National Association of Suggestion Systems. These half-million employes represented 20 out of every 100 employes eligible for awards in the 9,140 plants and local units which are members of NASS. They shared an incentive award pie of nearly $28.5 million.

Of local interest is the extent to which General Motors — the world's largest corporation — makes use of the employe suggestion plan. In its three Pontiac operations, GM last year awarded a total of $707,684 to 6,776 workers who submitted acceptable ideas.

The suggestion box goes back for decades in some companies, but it wasn't until the early part of World War II that suggestion administrators decided an organization was needed to unite people and firms experienced in handling suggestions in order to exchange ideas and develop better ways of encouraging employe initiative.

★ ★ ★

In December 1942, the first conference of the National Association of Suggestion Systems was held, attended by 165 delegates. By 1952, NASS activities had expanded into Canada and spread to England and Italy. The association issued statistical reports, distributed bulletins and manuals and provided guidance to its growing list of members.

Now observing its 25th year, NASS recently released a new movie, "What's the Big Idea?", for sale to members and interested companies. Filmed on location in industries and government installations across the country, it graphically portrays the operations and benefits of suggestion systems.

★ ★ ★

Without a doubt, the suggestion box has become a big part of business, as more and more businesses — big and little — are beginning to realize.

Pilot And Copilot

Proliferating Expense a By-Product of War

The cost of war does not end with the cessation of hostilities. For decades thereafter, veterans payments and services remain a fixed government expense. The Veterans Administration now spends around $6.6 billion a year for medical care, pensions, various types of compensation, and related services for former members of the armed forces. In addition, the Defense Department will spend about $2 billion in fiscal 1968 for retirement pay. Thus, more than six cents of every dollar spent by the Federal government goes for veterans.

Veterans will claim an even larger portion of Federal expenditures starting Oct. 1. That is the effective date of the Veterans Pension and Readjustment Act of 1967, approved by the Congress without a dissenting vote. The law is expected to increase veterans benefits by about $260 million in its first year.

Pensions for Vietnam veterans are expected to cost only $1 million in the first year, since the average age of returning servicemen is only 24 years. But as these men grow older and develop disabilities, the cost will rise steeply. Some Washington officials estimate that Federal payments to Vietnam veterans will total $2 billion a year by the end of the century.

While no one begrudges the dollar value of the benefits bestowed in recognition of those who gave or risked their lives in defense of their country, it underscores the staggering and unending financial burden imposed by mankind's ageless penchant for settling disagreements on the battlefield.

'Distribution of Wealth' Seen in Track Betting

People who keep track of such things report that a total of $28,647,000 was bet on horse races at 27 tracks around the country over the recent Labor Day weekend.

Humanists may reflect on how many hungry people this amount of money could have fed, how many barefoot waifs it could have shod, how many potential geniuses it could have educated.

★ ★ ★

The catch is, it would have done none of those things for the simple reason that the ladies and gentlemen who made those bets weren't about to spend that money on anything else.

Many of them, it is true, contribute to funds for the hungry, the unshod and the uneducated. But they also contribute to the pari-mutuel take — and eagerly.

★ ★ ★

This is because your horse bettor craves action on his money NOW and simply cannot satisfy that craving by betting a budding genius to win, place or show in a race run by mere humans over a 20-year course.

Now, let's see . . . what looks good in the fifth?

Gov. Romney's Visit With Hippies

By L. GARY THORNE
Asst. City Editor—Suburban

If the game were golf, George Romney just went one up on the opposition.

THORNE

Ike had his visit to Korea, Nixon his tete-a-tete in a Russian kitchen. Governor George, however, has visited San Francisco's hippies.

Foreign trips by those who aspire to be president are not unexpected. In fact, such travel is a powerful political tactic, which potential presidents and their advisers know full well.

Therefore, our George is on a "nonpolitical" tour of a dozen U.S. cities. Late last week the tour encountered San Francisco.

There are numerous attractions in San Francisco for tourists, but there are three spots I would be sure to visit. Romney hit two of them.

★ ★ ★

One, of course, is the Golden Gate Bridge. Romney made it to Golden Gate Park, which, I assume, must be adjacent somewhere to the famed bridge.

Second, any visitor these days must drop in to view the turned-on dropouts of the coast city's Haight-Ashbury district, heralded as the home of the hippies.

Romney also made this scene.

★ ★ ★

(The third tourist attraction, if you're really interested, is the topless taverns. George didn't make this scene, but then Lenore was along.)

Seriously, Romney, a dedicated Mormon, must have thought himself on foreign soil in his visit with the hippies.

According to press reports, Romney, lectured the Great Society dropouts about peace and temperance.

The effort has to rank as one of the more heroic public speaking engagements of the 1968 presidential campaign. It certainly was "nonpolitical" because few hippies bother to vote.

A press picture from the scene showed the governor with his tongue tucked in his cheek, which no doubt goes a long way in expressing the governor's opinion of hippies.

Romney giving a temperance lecture to hippies—it has to be a big campaign plus.

David Lawrence Says:

Let's Put N. Viet to Truce Test

WASHINGTON — There is a way to end the prolonged controversy over the question of whether North Vietnam really wants to terminate hostilities and make peace.

LAWRENCE

The premier of the Hanoi government says it does not want to agree in advance to any conditions of peace. But a cessation of the fighting can be accomplished without prior conditions or agreements by means of a proposal along these lines:

First, the United States government would announce that on a certain date — perhaps two weeks later — it would without any previous agreement initiate an armistice.

Second, the United States would declare publicly that the truce would last indefinitely but that if, after its start, any military movement were carried on by the North Vietnamese, American forces would instantly resume the fighting.

If the other side, however, respected the truce, the United States would endeavor through diplomatic channels to negotiate peace terms. This might take many months.

The objection of the American government to the idea of a truce has been that the North Vietnamese could use the period — especially if protracted — to move additional supplies and troops into South Vietnam, to accumulate more arms and munitions in northern ports without fear of having them bombed, to repair highways and bridges, and to install new antiaircraft defenses.

Spokesmen for the United States government have in the last few days made it clear that they do not favor a cessation unless there is an understanding in advance that there will be no influx of troops or supplies to the enemy while the bombing is stopped.

But since the United States would have stated clearly that the suggested armistice plan could not be used to permit the movement of men and supplies into South Vietnam or into the demilitarized zone on its northern border, no prior agreement or pledge by the North Vietnamese would be necessary.

If the Hanoi government decided to disregard the warning and the bombing was renewed, this would certainly remove one of the principal criticisms that have been made in recent months, both inside and outside of Washington — namely, that the American government has not made the proper effort to initiate peace negotiations.

The problem of peace in Vietnam needs clarification. If the North Vietnamese really want peace but do not wish to make any pledges in advance as to terms, they could honor the voluntary action of the United States in initiating an armistice.

If, of course, they should choose to continue the fighting, the American government would then be free to resume military operations and carry on a long war of attrition or use maximum power to force the enemy to seek peace.

Bob Considine Says:

It's Difficult to Believe —No World Series in NY

NEW YORK—It's still hard to believe that we don't have the World Series in New York any more.

CONSIDINE

Over the years we hurt a lot of feelings around the big league cities by our bored assumption that this was the natural habitat of the October play-off for the championship of the dear old business that successfully masquerades as a sport.

Truth of the matter, of course, was that we did have the series in this town about 98 per cent of all the years that stretched from 1921 to a couple of years ago when the Yankees ran out of their assorted skills.

During most of that period of monopoly we had three times as many chances to win as did most other cities.

If the Yankees didn't win in the American League — which was generally considered unthinkable — the Giants would cop it in the other league.

★ ★ ★

More often than not it was the Yanks vs. the Dodgers.

"Rooting for the Yankees is like rooting for U.S. Steel," an anti-Yank guerrilla wrote. We couldn't understand what he had against trusts.

Then the cartel collapsed. Walter O'Malley took his Dodgers to Los Angeles and Horace Stoneham transplanted the Giants in San Francisco.

The Yanks waned and a collection of clowns known as the Mets came to town disguised as major leaguers, struck an antic chord and outdrew the Yanks. It was too much.

★ ★ ★

They turned mediocrity into a mint. Their popularity escalated each time they stumbled deeper into last place. But when the Yanks became just as bad a ball club as the Mets, nobody felt sorry for them.

The attitude toward the mighty who had fallen was "Serves 'em right. They had it coming to them, see?" Hard to figger.

Might be a long, long time before we see another series in New York, except on television. We never dreamed it could happen to us but now we, too, are drought - prone. Look at Washington. Hasn't won a pennant since 1933.

Could happen here.

So shed a tear. It's tough to learn, this late in life, that we are only human.

Voice of the People:

'U.N. Accomplishments Seldom Make Headlines'

In the disturbingly negative article "United Nations' Dilapidated Condition," James Marlow refers to the high hopes for the U.N. at its inception: "the whole non-Facist world tingled a bit at the thought that here at last man had a chance to change his ways." No organization in history has done more to do just that than the U.N.

★ ★ ★

In spite of a budget scarcely large enough to run the University of Michigan for one year, or the Pentagon for two days, the U.N., through its agencies, has:

- Virtually eliminated malaria and smallpox from dozens of nations
- Assumed a major responsibility for the care of Palestinian refugees
- Enabled 70 areas to achieve statehood with speed and remarkable peace
- Settled over 70 brush-fire wars
- Done a good job, to date, in policing Cyprus
- Set up health, vocational training, welfare, etc. programs in 119 countries
- Acted as the organizing agency for the Italian art restoration program.

★ ★ ★

It is unfortunate that such accomplishments as these seldom make headlines, while the U.N.'s attempts at solving problems no one else can cope with are reported.

'These Suggestions May Be of Some Help'

This is written for anyone that is going to have to go into a convalescent home, or if they have to put any of their loved ones in such a place. Check on what the home claims is included in the care of the patient and be sure you are not billed for it later to be paid by you or the patient.

★ ★ ★

If you are receiving Social Security be prepared to give all of it except $20 out of your Social Security check to the home. Don't plan on being able to keep this $20 for personal needs, for you may find that you are billed for additional medicine or care that you will then be told is not included in the amount that is for your care.

★ ★ ★

Make sure you ask for a receipt for anything and everything that was left for the patient. All of these homes are not shady, so good luck to those who are looking for one of these rooms. Honesty still prevails, it is just hard to find. Some of these people, mostly the aged, are being "milked."

Supports Ability to Pay College Tuition Plan

I commend the Democratic members of the board of trustees of Michigan State University for the firm stand they are taking in support of the ability-to-pay tuition plan. It is a good step in the right direction as financial resources should not be equated with scholastic success.

★ ★ ★

Many of us are cheering from the sidelines and hope they keep to the fairness of the plan as it is a sure thing the Republicans will change it if the opportunity is afforded them.

How much are United Nations interpreters paid?

FUTURE LINQUIST

REPLY

Salaries for the top classification (P-4) of interpreters at the UN are from $13,900 to $18,630. A lower classification (P-3) runs from $11,270 to $13,590. Interpreter trainees receive $9,000 to $12,000.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

Hamburgers . . .

Grand Rapids Press

We have the hardest time in this country nailing down the simplest facts—as, for example, the birthplace of the Republican party. Jackson, Mich., and Ripon, Wis., both have claimed that distinction for years.

Politics aside, a similar problem has arisen with respect to the birthplace of the hamburger.

Some time ago the American Meat Institute went on record as saying that the hamburger made its debut at the St. Louis Expostion in 1904.

But New Haven, Conn. has just erected a plaque on Louie's Lunch crediting that eatery with having introduced the hamburger in 1900.

Frankly we don't think that anyone is going to suffer very much not knowing for sure which was the hamburger's birthplace. But for the sake of future historians, it would be a good idea for every inventor and innovator to file a record of anything new he produces.

If this happens there will be a lot fewer plaques we shall have to stop to examine on our travels, and there will be a lot less danger that the Soviets will claim the credit.

They have already announced that they invented ice cream; tomorrow the hamburger, no doubt.

Frightening . . .

Newsday

Secretary of Defense McNamara has announced that the U.S. is to build a "thin" antiballistic missile system aimed at deterring an attack by China rather than an attack by the USSR.

This country up to now has shied away from the installation of such missiles. The prime reason was cited by McNamara in a frank but frightening speech to newspaper editors at San Francisco: If we go in for a large-scale antimissile system the Russians are likely to respond with an even larger system.

The end result could be escalation on both sides, increased pressure toward war, and a self-canceling result as each side out-does the other.

The administration never wanted to get into this sort of race, but it is being pushed toward antimissiles because of political pressure and because no responsible government can afford to take risks with the security of the nation.

The Russians, after all, have embarked on their own antimissile system. We do not know whether it is intended as a defense against us or against their Chinese neighbors.

The experts, speaking through McNamara, have concluded that a fairly modest antimissile system, at an estimated cost of $5 billion, will insure the current safety of the country — against a Chinese threat and the accidental unleashing of missiles by other nuclear nations.

MARY FEELEY

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

Can you tell me how much of a mortgage loan I can afford? I will make a down payment of about $10,000. My yearly income ranges from at least $10,000 to about $15,000 — closer to the latter. I am 29 and my wife is 22.

I do not owe any money to creditors. I definitely want a nice home for my family. We have one child now, but plan more. My income is fixed as far as salary is concerned, but there is always the overtime.

Can I afford to borrow $25,000 so that I can buy a $35,000 home? And for how long should I take a mortgage?

S. H., New York City

Dear S. H.:

A quick answer to whether you can handle a $25,000 mortgage, say at six and one half per cent for 20 years, is Yes you probably can. The monthly payments would be less than one week's gross salary — $182.74 without the "extras".

But figure in property tax, heat, and insurance, and you'd be paying $298 a month for housing. Of course, when a young family buys a home, economics in other areas of living come fairly easy.

But when you're estimating your mortgage capacity, you have to think in terms of more than your gross income. You only have your net income, after deductions, to live on. Also, before taking on such a sizable financial obligation, savings and insurance must be considered.

Have you an amount equal to from three to six months salary in the bank for emergencies — after that down payment? Is your life insurance protection for your family at a reasonable level?

Another thing — and not a small one — could you furnish a $35,000 home right now?

Another way to look at a mortgage contract is: how will the payments seem to you when your family increases? You're planning more children, and those children will grow and absorb more of your income. So how will the picture look eight or 10 years from now? Presumably your income will increase, too. But so will the cost of living — if it keeps up its rise of about two per cent per year, and most economists think it will.

The old rule of thumb of two-and-a-half times gross income as a measuring stick for the cost of a home works out for some people. But these days it's not an estimate on the side of caution.

Anyway, in your case it would be nearer to $33,000 than $35,000. So, if I were you, I'd put my assets and obligations down on paper and look twice at the figures before I'd take on quite this weighty a burden.

Dear Mary Feeley:

I have a lot of fun saving money, and thought you might like to know how. I don't have much, but what I save amounts to quite a lot each month.

I never give anyone coins. I always give a bill — dollar, fiver, or what's necessary. Even for a newspaper I get change. And I get 80 cents back from bus fare. These coins I put in a coin purse, and at theend of the week I stick them all in a little old salt box. I salt it away, as my friends say!

At the end of the month, on Sunday, I count it up and put it in another receptacle. When I have enough of these silver and nickel coins, I take them to the bank — about every six months — and deposit them. The bank always wants coins.

New York City Reader

Dear Reader:

I'm happy to pass along your get-rich-quick scheme. But if you deposited those coins more often, wouldn't you end up the year with more interest earned?

Youth Faces Assault Trial

Policeman Wounded in July's Disturbance

A Pontiac youth accused of wounding a city policeman with a shotgun blast during the July outbreak of civil violence was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday on a charge of felonious assault.

Arraignment of Larry Adams, 19, of 519 Montana was scheduled for Oct. 10 at his preliminary examination before Municipal Judge Maurice P. Finnegan.

The charge was reduced from assault with intent to murder at yesterday's proceedings.

Adams is in custody in Oakland County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

He was arrested during the height of the disturbance July 25, shortly after Patrolman Santiago Serna, 24, was shot in the neck while riding in a patrol car at Diston and Howard McNeil.

Serna underwent several days of treatment in Pontiac General Hospital.

SCENE OF ARSON — For the third time in eight days, fire blamed on an arsonist broke out at the Johnson-Howard Lumber Co. in Kalamazoo. Loss was held to a minimum when an employe returned to the shed just after closing and discovered the blaze. Earlier fires caused losses of $11,000 and $4,000.

Pontiac Twp. Ski Lodge Is Hit by Blaze

About $750 damage was caused by a blaze last evening at the Silverbell Ski Lodge on Dutton Road, Pontiac Township.

Township Fire Chief Carl Schingeck said flames, which could have been caused by spontaneous combustion, destroyed a small shed used to store garbage at the south end of the chalet.

He reported the south wall of the chalet was also charred to some extent.

The call was received by the department at 7:45 p.m. from a boy who lives on the property about a quarter mile away from the fire.

State MDs Accept Osteopath in Group

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)— The Michigan State Medical Society has paved the way for eventual introduction of state osteopaths into the society.

The House of Delegates Tuesday night approved an associate membership for Richard Remsberg, an osteopath from Alma. He becomes the first osteopath to gain associate membership status in the 102 year history of the MSMS.

* * *

The delegates also approved a resoluton encouraging the county medical societies to offer associate memberships to local osteopaths on an individual basis.

Dr. Remsberg has been an associate member of the Gratiot-Isabella-Clare Medical Society the past year and was recommended for state affiliation by the county group.

1,800 OSTEOPATHS

Michigan has about 1,800 registered osteopaths, more than any other state in the union, and 9,000 medical doctors.

The House of Delegates met in advance of the scientific meetings which opened today. Some 2,500 doctors, nurses and others in the health profession are expected to attend the sessions.

B. M. Harris of Ypsilanti was installed today as president of the MSMS for 1967-68 and Tuesday night James J. Lightbody of Detroit was named president-elect.

DETROIT (AP)—The Mayor's Committee for Human Resources Development received a $2,021,425 grant from the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity Tuesday. The funds will be used for a variety of social service and health purposes.

About three million pilgrims will visit the Lourdes Roman Catholic shrine during 1967.

W. Bloomfield Man Arrested

Suspect in Waterford Armed Robbery Case

Tart Sauce Is Good on Fish

Fish fillets are for gourmets when they're gently simmered in a ruby red sauce with an exotic flavor.

But the ingredients for the sauce are every-day foods from your kitchen cupboard or refrigerator in this new recipe developed especially for the annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference by the White Cap Company, Division of Continental Can Company, Inc.

Important to the flavor are sliced onion and celery sauteed in butter or margarine. But more important are the catsup and dill pickle, which give the sauce its bright color and vivid taste.

The fish fillets — either fresh or frozen and thawed — are salted, rolled, skewered, and cooked in the sauce for 15 to 20 minutes until the fish are tender and flaky.

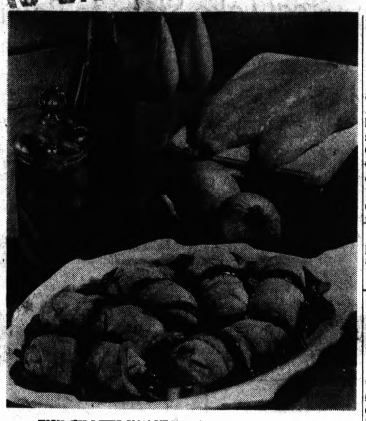
While we may no longer believe that fish is brain food, your family will think you're pretty bright to come up with such a flavorful fish dish.

Fish Fillets in Ruby Sauce

2 cups sliced onion
1 cup sliced celery
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup catsup
1 cup water
1 cup chopped dill pickle
2 pounds fish fillets, fresh or defrosted frozen
1 teaspoon salt

Saute onion and celery in butter or margarine until onion is limp. Add catsup, water, and dill pickle; heat. Sprinkle fish fillets with salt and roll up, starting at wide end. Secure with wooden pick or metal skewer.

Arrange rolls in sauce. Cover; cook slowly until fish flakes, 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.



FISH FILLETS IN RUBY SAUCE — Fish fillets in ruby red sauce are shown with the ingredients that are responsible for their bright flavor: catsup, dill pickles (chopped), onion, and fresh or frozen fish.

Gadget Will Inject Flavor

There's a new and most unusual kitchen gadget available which will add great flavor to gourmet meals. It's called the Flavor Jector and it literally injects flavor of many kinds into eany meat you car to name, plus such other foods as experimentation and your imagination suggest.

* * *

The Flavor Jector consists of a red plastic flavor container and a stainless steel injector needle with a red plastic end and a yellow plastic plunger which fits into it.

* * *

Here's how it works: You fill the flavor container with any powdered to solid flavoring you wish — powdered meat tenderizer, a spice appropriate to the meat you're about to cook, a clove of garlic, pieces of ginger (preserved or fresh), pieces of fresh horseradish — what you will.

You then push the injector needle containing its plunger through a hole at the bottom of the flavor container, pressing down the lid of the container at the same time. Next, you pull out the injector and insert it into the meat as deeply as you wish it to go.

As you pull the injector from the meat, you press on the plunger, thus pushing the flavoring into the meat so that it stays where you want it. The insertions of flavor are made at two inch intervals through the meat.

Mix Fine Noodles and Bacon for an Italian Dish

You could cook yourself around the world with macaroni . . . for almost every country has a form of macaroni and special ways of serving it. China, Germany, France, Greece, Japan, these are some of the places.

But somehow, you always come back to thinking that macaroni is Italian.

Pasta is the word for all products of macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles.

And al dente is the term for cooking them to just the right degree of tenderness. And there's no question that Italy has made macaroni products famous.

So it's to Italian cookery we turn for some new recipes right now . . . but we're using American macaroni products — the best in the world.

Noodles Zingara is a classic dish you'd come across in Rome. Call it Gypsy Noodles if you like, for that's what the name means.

But somehow the word "Zingara" has a lovely romantic sound and is appropriate to the mixture of fine egg noodles, bacon, mushrooms and green peas.

It could be a main dish for luncheon or supper, or it could be the accompaniment to the meat course.

Noodles Zingara

1½ tablespoons salt
4 quarts boiling water
12 ounces fine egg noodles (about 9 cups)
½ pound bacon, diced*
½ cup butter
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas, thawed, or 2 cups fresh peas
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Grated Parmesan cheese

Add 1½ tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Meanwhile, fry bacon crisp in skillet. Drain, reserving ¼ cup drippings. Keep bacon warm.

Melt butter in same pan. Add reserved drippings, mushrooms, peas, ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Simmer covered 10 minutes or until vegtables are tender. Toss with the noodles and bacon. Serve with Parmesan cheese. Makes 6-8 servings. *Use a whole pound of bacon, if you wish!

Two Meats Make a Roll to Simmer

Looking for two meats which can be served easily?

Veal round steak or cutlets, as they're called sometimes, can be rolled with "broiled" ham slices to make a novel combination for a luncheon you might be planning now that fall has arrived.

Beef round steak can easily be cut into five or six servings, but veal, being smaller by one-third to one-half, cuts more readily into three pieces.

Veal and Ham Rolls

2 pounds veal cutlets, cut ¼ inch thick
6 slices "boiled" ham
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon marjoram

Cut meat into 6 pieces. Place a slice of ham on each piece of veal and roll like a jelly roll. Fasten with a wooden pick or tie with string.

Brown rolls in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season.

Mix the soup, milk and marjoram together. Pour over rolls. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes or until tender.

Thicken sauce, if necessary, and serve with veal rolls. 6 servings.

Stevenson's Titans May Suffer

Pontiac Press Photo by Ralf Winter

EXTRA ACTION FOR SKIPPER — Junior Dan Groh of Waterford practices protecting the football against the fumble inducing tactics of his teammates while readying himself for added duty in the Skipper's backfield. Groh is slated to replace the injured Terry Crawford at a linebacker berth, in addition to running at right halfback more.

Waterford Township's Skippers didn't earn a day of recuperation last week and Utica Stevenson's Titans may be the ones who'll suffer.

Coach John Moffat of WTHS had the Skippers (1-1) on the practice field Saturday morning following Friday night's 7-0 blanking by Southfield.

The Skippers' poor execution of their blocking assignments was the principle reason for the quick return to practice.

Also, there is one less day to prepare for the game this week since it will be played 8 p.m. Thursday at Utica rather than Friday. This was arranged in order not to conflict with the city's sesquicentennial celebration Friday at the stadium.

The Titans (0-2) are a sophmore-junior squad that has managed only one touchdown after holding Rochester to a 13-13 tie in the first half of the opening game.

Rochester went on to a 39-13 conquest, and last Friday Stevenson fell, 34-6, at Center Line.

Tomorrow's contest will be the home debut of the Titans, who next fall will become the sixth member of the Eastern Michigan League grid race.

SIDLINED

Waterford will enter the tilt minus end-lineback Bill Foley who is sidelined for probably three weeks. Juniors Terry Crawford and Dan Groh will replace him on offense and defense, respectively.

★ ★ ★

A change in the offensive backfield has junior Neil Blackmer and Groh slated for added duty at right halfback. They will team with fullback Larry Hemmerly and left half Steve Golt. Brad Potter will be the signal caller.

Stevenson's pass defense has been the only major shortcoming in the first two games, according to coach Jerry Thomas.

The school competed last fall at the junior varsity level and compiled a 2-4 mark. Juniors are playing most of the time although the sophomores are gaining experience, too, in an effort to develop some depth.

★ ★ ★

Thomas has an all-junior backfield in Jerry Williams, a 5-10 quarterback; John Masi, a 6-1, 195-pound fullback; Bryan Clippard (5-11, 190) and Keith Netzel (6-1, 165), who rotate at wingback and tailback.

Junior end Rich White and Netzel are Williams' chief targets in passing situations.

Assails Military Authorities

Father Quits Son's Bolivia Case

CAMIRI, Bolivia (AP)—The father of Regis Debray, French theorist of guerrilla insurrection, has quit as his defense counsel, charging that military authorities kept him from his son before young Debray went on trial Tuesday for aiding rebels in Bolivia's jungles.

"With no contacts with him, all defense is a deceitful illusion," said Paris attorney Georges Debray, handing his son's case over to a Bolivian lawyer appointed by the military tribunal. The prosecution asked that Debray be sentenced to 30 years in prison.

Debray, 27, a protege of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, is accused with Argentine painter Ciro Roberto Bustos of rebellion, murder and theft. Both "entered Bolivia clandestinely and took up arms," the government charged.

Debray's father has been prevented from seeing his son since Sept. 21, a defense statement claimed Tuesday night.

DEBRAY'S DEFENSE

Debray's defense, sketched out during the trial's first day, will acknowledge that he is in sympathy with Bolivia's guerrillas, but deny that he aided them, took part in ambushes or carried arms except for hunting.

Debray said in testimony he came to a guerrilla stronghold at Nancahuazu to interview Ernesto "Che" Guevara March 29. Guevara, once a top Castro aide, vanished about 2½ years ago and Bolivian officials say he is leading guerrillas in their country.

Military police, armed with hand grenades and bayoneted rifles, stood guard next to Debray in the makeshift courtroom, a converted union library. Flies buzzed in the 98-degree heat and a wind blew dust across the floor.

The prosecutor, Col. Remberto Iriarte, presented as evidence Debray's book "Revolution in the Revolution?" calling it "a handbook that is causing terror and death in our country."

Woman Wins Mayoralty Bid

Desegregation Foe Leads Boston Vote

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Louise Day Hicks, an avowed foe of school desegregation programs, topped a 10-candidate field Tuesday in winning one of the two places for mayor on the Nov. 7 ballot.

The three-term school committeewoman led by a margin of more than 4-3 over Secretary of State Kevin H. White, who will oppose her in the nonpartisan final election.

* * *

U. S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., immediately promised to wage "a strong campaign" for White.

Kennedy did not mention Mrs. Hicks by name, but said only one candidate of the two selected could carry out the mandate from a "large majority" of the voters for "progress and understanding in meeting the problems of our city."

PEACE, PROGRESS

"The battle for peace and progress in all our cities is going to be joined in the city of Boston over the next six weeks," he said.

Mrs. Hicks received an unofficial total of 43,572 votes in the city's 275 precincts compared to 30,820 for White. More than 156,000 of the city's 278,562 voters went to the polls.

* * *

The matronly 48-year-old grandmother showed well in the city's white working class sections, but—as predicted—ran behind the other candidates in the heavily Negro and upper class areas.

* * *

A practicing lawyer, she is completing her third term on the Boston School Committee, and has been the center of racial controversy for her opposition to efforts to achieve racial balance in the city's schools.

BUSING FOE

She opposed any change in the city's policy of having students attend their neighborhood schools, which, civil rights leaders claim, keeps Negro children in dilapidated schools that offer inferior instruction.

She avoided discussing the racial issue openly during her campaign. A simple "You know where I stand," brought cheers from her audiences.

Expert Claims Blue Chips Hot

BABSON PARK, Mass. — "Nonspeculative, dividend-paying stocks have strong appeal in the current market even as inflation is gathering steam in the wake of major price increases in nickel, polyethylene, automobiles and other industrial products," says Roger E. Spear, president of Spear & Staff, Inc., investment advisers.

* * *

Spear attributes this seeming paradox to the likelihood that wide publicity given the current inflationary trend will force the government to take strong counterinflation measures, including higher taxes.

"Under conditions of creeping inflation and high interest rates, the no-yield rapid-earnings growth situations may dominate the tape," Spear says. "But when inflation is topical, as it is today, and money rates begin to top out, income issues tend to move up.

"The prospect of antiinflation efforts of a fiscal nature is at the root of much of the current interest in blue chips."

* * *

Spear adds: "Obviously, over the long run, stocks have proven to be very effective as hedges against niflation: since the end of World War II consumer prices have advanced 85 per cent while the Dow has moved up some 380 per cent. Over the short run, however, the market and living costs can, and often do, diverge.

"Each market is subject to a variety of forces of which inflation is but one, and sometimes a not very influential one at that. In the context of the immediate market, the strong stocks have generally been nonspeculative dividend-payers."

3 Heads Worth $6,000 at Pontiac Div.

If two heads are better than one, what would three be worth?

For three diemakers at Pontiac Motor Division it amounts to $6,000 as winners of the maximum award under the General Motors Suggestion Award Program.

Frank W. Minton, Peter Shuller and George M. Williams all received equal shares of the top award for their combined suggestion on a die change in connection with their jobs in Pontiac's pressed metal plant.

As the men received their money from General Manager John Z. DeLorean, it marked the first time in Pontiac's history that three employes have combined on a suggestion and won the maximum award.

* * *

Minton, who has been a Pontiac employe since 1929, said he will use his money to help plan his retirement. He lives with his wife at 5070 Waterford Road, Independence Township. They have two sons and a daughter. Minton has had a total of 16 suggestions adopted and has won over $8,000 for them.

NEW HOME

Shuller, who intends to use his award as an investment in a new home, joined the division in 1940. He and his wife live at 3084 Judah, Orion Township, with their son and a daughter. They also have two married daughters. Shuller has received over $6,000 from the 16 suggestions he has had accepted.

For Williams this was his first suggestion and he will apply it toward his son's education. He came to Pontiac in 1950. He and his wife and three children live at 3936 Baybrook, Waterford Township.

* * *

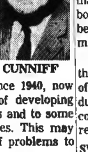
This is the fourth maximum award at Pontiac this year and brings to 22 the total number of top awards paid since the $6,000 maximum went into effect.

Reader's Digest Association Joins

Mutual Funds Widen

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — Regulatory officials who have tried for years to keep pace with the swiftly growing mutual fund industry may now observe that the shape as well as the size of the subject is changing.



CUNNIFF

This most recent of the multi-billion institutions, which has grown 80 times since 1940, now is showing signs of developing new characteristics and to some extent new purposes. This may bring a new set of problems to study.

* * *

Most of the changes deal with new marketing procedures being tested by the $40 billion industry. In recent weeks funds have entered into selling arrangements with insurance companies and to the surprise of many, the Reader's Digest Association.

A concurrent trend also could be developing in the sales of shares in American industry to foreigners.

EXPERIMENTAL SALES

The Reader's Digest Association, which has had a phenomenal growth from a basement enterprise 45 years ago to a $300 million business now, has announced plans to experiment with mutual fund sales in Germany.

This move appears to have no precedent in either the fund or the magazine industry. And on first glance it seems like an attempt to mate two different species. After some meditation it makes more sense.

* * *

There are obvious advantages for both the Digest and the fund in this alignment. For the fund, a stranger to Germans, it means an opportunity to capitalize on the Digest's good name. For the Digest it means more income.

Under the arrangement, the Digest will sell shares of Loomis-Sayles Mutual Fund, a relatively small Boston organization, on an experimental basis in the state of Hesse, where one-tenth of the German edition's 1.28 million circulation is sold.

HUGE POTENTIAL

This seems like a very tentative arrangement, but its potential is huge. The Digest claims a worldwide readership of 90 million in more than 100 nations on every continent. It has a primary circulation of 28 million copies in 29 separate editions and 13 languages.

Since the Digest has built up good will in so many areas, this little experiment can grow.

* * *

"We're open to all possibilities and the United States is not excluded as a possibility," a Digest man said. This could mean that the Digest, which also sells books and records, might also become a worldwide seller of mutual fund shares.

The Digest is not, however, the first to realize the potential of selling shares in American industry to foreigners, whose incomes have grown strongly in recent years.

SWISS FUND

The Fund of Funds, operated from Switzerland, sells shares abroad in funds which reinvest the money in American industry. This fund has grown into a $420 million operation.

The United States Investment Fund, based in the Bahamas and operated largely by former aides of President Kennedy, is also growing into a worldwide seller of shares in American industry and real estate.

* * *

Domestically, the marketing of funds also is developing new twists.

The Eastern Life Insurance Co. of New York has announced plans to join with Oppenheimer Fund, Inc., to offer individuals a program that would include both insurance and funds.

Under this plan the customer would pay a single premium for the protection of life insurance (which suffers in time of inflation) and investments in American industry commonly regarded as an inflation hedge.

Changes such as these are imaginative and could turn out to be of great advantage to consumers. But for the moment, they mean more study and headaches for the Securities and Exchange Commission.
