DC7 Crashes in Sea

Lose Hope for 101 on Airliner

Report Finding of Bodies Off Canada Coast

Disaster Hits Craft Strangely, Swiftly Over Water

Where Debris Sighted

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — All hope was abandoned today for 101 men, women and children aboard a military-chartered DC7 which crashed in the sea. Search vessels reported recovering bits of bodies.

Swift, strange disaster overtook the Northwest Orient Airlines four-engined propeller plane yesterday 60 miles off the northern tip of the Queen Charlotte Islands in British Columbia.

The 17th Coast Guard District here said ships at the scene radioed that "evidence indicated an impact of great force."

At least eight persons from Michigan, including the wife and four daughters of an air force career man, are listed among those aboard the plane.

The wife of Airman 1-C. Robert Scott and his four daughters were among 29 civilians aboard the missing plane. The other three Michiganders are young servicemen.

The disaster was the third worst in history involving predominantly military personnel.

Aboard were 58 military personnel, 22 military dependents, 15 defense department civilian employes and their dependents, and a Northwest Airlines crew of six. They were bound for Anchorage, Alaska, from McChord Air Force Base near Tacoma, Wash.

FIND PARTS OF BODIES

The Coast Guard said the cutter Sorrel and the Alaska Steamship Co. freighter Chena had both picked mutilated parts of bodies and all kinds of debris from the ill-fated plane.

The debris included books, personal belongings, seats with the belts buckled, an NWA

Prospects Fall for Passage of Districting Bill

From Our News Wires

LANSING — Prospects for passage of Gov. George Romney's congressional reapportionment bill weakened today when it was learned a Republican Senator committed to the measure may miss the legislature's windup session because of illness.

Dr. Herman J. Ballard reported Sen. Harold B. Hughes, R-Clare, has been a patient in Clare General Hospital since May 29 and may not be released before Friday, the last day of the final adjournment meeting.

"I doubt if he will be able to come to Lansing at all unless he shows much better improvement," Dr. Ballard said.

"He is certainly not going to be there tonight, when the meeting begins, under any circumstances."

Hughes had promised Senate GOP caucus chairman Stanley Thayer of Ann Arbor he would support this week the measure which was kept from final passage in April because of a technical flaw.

If Hughes is absent, the Republicans can be sure of only 18 votes, the bare minimum required for passage, in the Senate. Sen. Thayer, upon learning of Hughes' illness, announced he would hold a news conference later in the day to "assess the legislative situation of the moment."

Sen. John Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, one of Thayer's chief deputies, said "We're going to have to find another extra vote. We may need it."

House Speaker Allison Green, R-Kingston, indicated yesterday the GOP would have the necessary 56 votes in the House. Green said he gave instructions for all

PRAY FOR POPE — Women and children in Pope John's home village of Sotto il Monte in northern Italy pray for eternal rest of the pontiff during solemn requiem Mass last night. The Holy Father was born in the village in 1881.

Pope John's Body Carried to Basilica

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII was carried in death tonight through the deepening twilight of St. Peter's Square into the awesome splendor of St. Peter's Basilica, which will become his final resting place.

Bells tolled in mourning. A crowd of almost 80,000 watched in hushed silence. Many wept.

Romans by tens of thousands and tourists by thousands will file past a huge catafalque before the confessional altar in the Basilica tomorrow and Thursday in last tribute to the man they had called the "Pope of Peace," and the "Pope of Unity."

Then John XXIII will be buried in the crypt beneath the greatest church in Christiandom, near where early Roman Christians secretly buried the crucified body of Peter, the first Pope, nearly 2,000 years ago.

BODY TRANSFERRED

The body of the 81-year-old pontiff was transferred to the Basilica from the Vatican apartment where he died last night after four days of agonizing suffering from a stomach tumor and peritonitis.

The body was carried through the great square over the same route as the triumphant procession last fall which opened the Vatican Ecumenical Council, perhaps the greatest event of Pope John's reign.

IN TRIBUTE

Prelates, diplomats and citizens of Vatican City, including the street sweepers and gardeners with whom Pope John liked to chat, called at the papal apartment in tribute while cardinals began preparations to choose a new supreme ruler for the world's half-billion Roman Catholics.

More Stories, Pictures, Pages 8, 16, 17

The cardinals, now administering church affairs, scheduled their first business meeting for Wednesday.

The meetings, called general congregations, will be held every day for handling routine affairs and arrangements for the conclave that will elect the new pope.

Vatican press officials said the formal nine-day mourning period will start Wednesday.

The Vatican's master of ceremonial set the date, they said,

Grand Jury Indicts Hoffa and 7 Others

CHICAGO (AP) — James R. Hoffa, Teamsters' Union president, and seven associates were indicted today by a federal grand jury that charged them with fraudulently obtaining more than $20 million in loans from the Central States Pension Fund.

★ ★ ★

The indictment contained 28 counts and followed two years of investigation by the grand jury and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

★ ★ ★

It charged the eight men diverted more than a million dollars from the loans for their personal benefit. The total allegedly diverted included at least $100,000 which the government charged was used to help extricate Hoffa from personal financial involvement.

This included his operations in Sun Valley, Inc., a Florida homes development in Brevard County.

★ ★ ★

The indictment accused Hoffa of violating his duty as a trustee of the $200-million pension fund which has its headquarters in Chicago.

Russians Revise Plan

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union announced yesterday it has revised its national seven-year economic development plan to emphasize the production of synthetic fibers and consumer goods.

3rd Escapee From Camp Is Captured

The last of three young escapees from a prison camp in White Lake Township was captured early today by Detroit police who found him hiding in a bathtub.

When police surrounded Charles Byas, 22, in a Detroit home he broke away and ran to a second-story porch and threatened to jump but was seized before he could leap.

Byas, John W. Breathour, 20, of Port Huron, and Norman Royer, 21, of Avon Township, walked away from Camp Pontiac last Thursday. The camp is a minimum-security prison.

Royer turned himself in to state police in Romeo Sunday. That evening Breathour was seized by police in Port Huron.

The pair waived examination this morning in Waterford Township Justice Court on a charge of unarmed robbery of a Waterford man five hours after their escape.

Judge John McGrath bound them over to Circuit Court for arraignment June 10.

Will Ask City for Its Support

Union Leader Seeks Building for Retirees

Cecil C. Mullinix, president of Pontiac Motor Division Local 653, will go before the City Commission tonight to seek endorsement of plans for a drop-in center for Oakland County's 40,000 retirees at the site of the old county courthouse.

★ ★ ★

"This is step number one," Mullinix said.

"We are asking that the City Commission recommend to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors that the property be leased to an association of retirees for a drop-in center," he explained.

★ ★ ★

"Once we get the land downtown, we'll get the money for a building," he declared.

He noted he has already received tremendous support for his plan, announced less than a week ago, including feelers from Pontiac Motor Division.

Retirees will be able to conduct their social activities and do their shopping right in the same area, he noted.

In addition, because retirees generally lack transportation, the location right near municipal and suburban bus lines is also ideal, he said.

★ ★ ★

The property is currently being leased from the county by Sam L. Stolorow, head of the Outdoor Parking Co. of Pontiac, for a pay parking lot.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac man won a six-month lease in bidding last month.

Step number two for Mullinix is a court injunction stopping operation of the parking lot.

The local UAW leader declared that the property is not being used in accordance with the wishes of its donor, who indicated that it should be used for public purposes.

A pay parking lot does not meet these restrictions, he said.

In Federal Government

Kennedy Strikes at Race Bias

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy took steps today to combat racial discrimination in the federal government in apprenticeship and construction programs.

★ ★ ★

He said it is doubly unfair to throw the burden most heavily on someone because of race or color.

★ ★ ★

Accordingly, the President said he is:

● Directing the secretary of labor, under the Federal Apprenticeship Act, to require that admission to apprenticeship programs of the government "be on a completely nondiscriminatory basis."

Related Stories, Pages 9, 10

● Asking for a review of all federal construction programs to prevent any racial discrimination in hiring practices, either directly by rejecting available, qualified Negroes or indirectly by excluding Negroes from apprenticeship training.

● Issuing an executive order shortly to broaden the authority of the committee on equal employment opportunity to include construction of buildings and other facilities wholly or partly undertaken as a result of federal financial grants.

"Unemployment among American Negroes — and the resulting economic distress and unrest — pose serious problems in every part of the country," Kennedy said.

"These problems can be met in part by the measures I have recommended to advance the growth of the economy to provide more jobs for all.— and in part by the above and other measures to end job discrimination in this country."

Kennedy's statement was issued prior to a late afternoon meeting with 100 businessmen who have outlets in the South. At that White House gathering, he was expected to push for voluntary desegregation of hotels, restaurants, stores and theaters.

RIGHTS PACKAGE

Whether or not his persuasive approach works, the President is likely to go ahead with plans to ask Congress to approve a heavy package of civil rights bills.

Thus, Kennedy is bent on using both the carrot and the stick in hopes of soothing the discontent of Negroes and heading off renewed racial violence in the South.

Agreement in principle on a civil rights package was reached

Bloomfield Twp. Seeks Water Construction Bids

Oakland County Public Works Director R. J. Alexander yesterday was authorized to seek construction bids to bring Detroit water into Bloomfield Township.

County engineers have estimated it will cost $2.12 million to install 23 miles of transmission mains.

Authorization to proceed was given by the County Board of Public Works.

Alexander said he will advertise for bids July 22 and 25.

The project will be split approximately in half for bidding purposes, he said, because the job is too big to be handled by any one contractor.

★ ★ ★

Construction is scheduled to begin in October, and is expected to take seven months to complete.

COMMUNITY WELLS

Bloomfield Township presently provides water for 3,000 customers from community wells. The supply is unable to meet growing demands.

★ ★ ★

Customers are now paying the township 20 cents per thousand gallons of water.

Detroit water will cost them 30 cents per thousand gallons, according to James Scott, director of the township water and sewer department.

Customers will be charged an additional $5 quarterly for 25 years to pay off a county loan for construction, said Scott.

★ ★ ★

New customers will be charged $100 plus costs for laterals or $600 to connect into the system, he added.

May Appeal on Tax Rate

County School Board Raps Allocation

The Oakland County School Board might file an appeal to the State Tax Commission on the tenth-of-a-mill tax rate set by the County Tax Allocation Board yesterday.

County School Superintendent William J. Emerson told fellow members of the tax allocation board that an appeal would be in order.

School Board Chairman Frederick Beckman said an appeal will be considered when his board meets June 13 to discuss a general education budget for fiscal year 1964-65.

An allocation of .10 mills would provide approximately $238,676.

According to Emerson the County School Board was within its rights to expect any allocation required up to 4 mills "because it is a school district."

This or any lesser figure required to finance a school district's budget is the minimum allocation according to state law.

The allocation board splits 15 mills among county and township governments, school districts and the County School Board.

In setting the final rates, the allocation board awarded 5.19 mills to county government, and 9.71 mills to local school districts, less whatever amount is allocated to the various townships for local government.

The County Board of Supervisors had requested 5.94 mills to maintain and operate the county next year.

The 5.19-mill rate will provide the county $11.4-million in taxes, which means the budget will have to be pared $1.6 million.

Violence Flares in Florida When Integration Denied

From Our News Wires

Racial violence flared again last night in Gainesville, Fla. and Negroes in Savannah, Ga., where two theaters backed out on an integration agreement, threatened new civil rights protests today.

Groups of Negroes showered cars with stones and bricks in Gainsville, injuring several white persons. It was the second consecutive night of racial disorders in the city, home of the University of Florida.

Gainsville Mayor-Commissioner Byron Winn named a bi-racial committee to try to ease the tension in the city, where attempts to integrate two downtown theaters first touched off the violence Sunday night.

★ ★ ★

Four theaters in Savannah had announced they would drop racial barriers. But a few hours later, two rescinded the decision.

Albert Weis, owner of the two theaters, said he went back to a segregated policy under "public pressure."

Negro leaders announced they would resume picketing of the two theaters until Weis agrees to integrate them.

Elsewhere in the South, a federal judge said he would issue a formal order today prohibiting interference with the admission tomorrow of a second Negro to the University of Mississippi.

Negro leaders in Baton Rouge, La., called a 30-day halt to integration demonstrations in the Louisiana capital, but new protests were promised for Danville, Va., where more than 250 persons picketed city hall.

All city police cars were ordered into the downtown area following an announcement by Negro leaders that 11 picketing walk-in demonstrations would be staged every 10 minutes at nine downtown business firms, the City Hall and two city parks.

By noon (Pontiac time), at least 28 Negroes had been arrested.

In Los Angeles, Negroes prepared plans for achieving "total integration" in the area. A school to train young people and young adults in nonviolent demonstrations such as picketing and sitins was formed.

Another federal jurist said he would decide tomorrow whether to hand down a similar order restraining Alabama Gov. George Wallace from blocking the enrollment of three Negroes in the University of Alabama Monday.

Judge Sidney Mize of Biloxi, Miss., said yesterday he would order Cleve McDowell admitted to the "Ole Miss" law school tomorrow despite a warning by Gov. Ross Barnett that such an act would touch off "increased unrest and disturbances."

At Birmingham, Ala., after an hour and a half hearing yesterday, Judge Seybourn Lynne promised to rule tomorrow morning on whether an injunction should be issued against Wallace, who has vowed to stand in the door to keep Negroes out of Alabama's segregated public schools and colleges.

The other Negro student is David M. McGlathery, 27, of Huntsville. He plans to enroll at the Huntsville branch of the university.

On another front, Negro attorneys are taking to a federal appeals court their request for an immediate injunction to strike down the segregated school system in racially troubled Birmingham.

Attorney W. L. Williams Jr. said the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans would be asked for a preliminary injunction pending an appeal of a lower court ruling. Notice of appeal was filed Monday.

JFK Blasts Race Bias in Government

Humphrey, the acting Democratic leader, said the bills would include legislation to ban racial segregation both in private business and in public facilities. One objective, he said, would be to give the attorney general power to start a federal court suit on behalf of any individual denied his civil rights.

Although Humphrey said yesterday the administration's proposals would go to Congress this week, White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters today that "the President plans to send a civil rights message to Congress early next week."

This was taken as an indication that the President has decided, at least in general terms if not on detailed wording, what he plans to ask from Congress in the way of new legislation.

It was understood that the administration now wants time for consultations and contacts, including some between Republican and Democratic leaders in Congress, to strengthen the chances of passage of a bill.

CATAFALQUE FOR POPE — A 10-foot-high structure, draped in black and surrounded with lighted candles, dominates the center-aisle area near the altar of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City. The catafalque, symbolic of the death of Pope John, will remain on display until the Holy Father is buried.

'UF Should Budget Its Agencies'

DETROIT (AP) — A proposal that the United Foundation be allowed to establish the budgets of its 195 health and welfare agencies was made yesterday by Walter C. Laidlaw, executive vice president of the UF.

★ ★ ★

Local agencies now submit their proposed budgets to United community services, administrative organization for the agencies.

★ ★ ★

Budget requests from state and national agencies are submitted to the Michigan United Fund, which is both the fund-raising and administrative agency for these groups in the state.

REQUESTED

The United Foundation is requested to raise the funds after UCS and MUF decide how much money should be allocated to their agencies.

The UF would deal with the budgets directly and they would bypass the state unit, under Laidlaw's proposal.

"I recommend that the budgeting of all Torch Drive agency funds become the function of the UF," Laidlaw said.

Carl Bradley, director of the Pontiac Area United Fund, said this morning that the local UF follows the suggested procedure. "We budget directly," he said.

Body of Pope Is Transferred

and the cardinals are expected to ratify it in their opening business meeting.

★ ★ ★

This would carry the period through the feast day of Corpus Christi June 13, though it might be interrupted for that occasion.

IN RED ROBES

The Pope's body lay in state in an antechamber. The body was dressed in red pontifical robes, with a golden bishop's miter on the head and red slippers on the feet. The catafalque was low, resting only two feet from the floor.

Pope John's face was white. His lips had a pleasant expression—almost a faint smile. His hands, in red gloves, were folded over his pectoral cross.

Two guards stood at the head of the catafalque and 10 Swiss guards and 10 palatine guards of honor stood along the walls.

At three small portable altars priests said Requiem Masses continually in hushed tones.

L'Osservatore Roman, the Vatican newspaper, said it would publish over the next several days a series of unpublished writings and thoughts of Pope John.

MOURNING PURPLE

Cardinals and diplomats walked in a steady stream up the royal staircase from the bronze door to the papal apartment. The cardinals were in mourning purple, the diplomats in formal dress.

They knelt at the foot of the catafalque to kiss the Pope's slipper. The prelates sprinkled holy water on the body as they knelt.

The 1,000 citizens of Vatican City began to pass by the Pope's body toward noon. Some aged and stooped, they wore their best dark suits.

Prof. Antonio Gasbarrini, official papal physician who had struggled for days to aid the dying pontiff, sat in one corner of the room. His face showed grief.

★ ★ ★

Embedded in the floor was a mosaic reproduction of the coat of arms of Pope Pius XII, the predecessor of Pope John. Pope John's own seal was in the flooring of the room outside.

FLAG OF VENICE

The mourners came and went without interruption. Among the first was Benedetto Aloisi Masella, cardinal chamberlain who handles routine affairs of the Vatican as administrator until the conclave, to be called later this month, elects the next pope.

The first meeting was attended only by cardinals who were in Rome when the Pope died.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals, sent formal notice of the Pope's death to the other 81 members of the sacred college and summoned them to Rome.

He must decide whether to continue the Ecumenical Council which Pope John convened last fall and which was suspended automatically at his death.

AIM OF UNITY

The council's aim was greater Christian unity, and it is considered almost certain that the new Pope will summon the church's 2,400 bishops back to Rome to resume its work.

The new Pope also must decide whether to move along the path of better relations with Communist governments which Pope John had opened in hopes of erasing the plight of Catholics behind the Iron Curtain.

The cardinals will vote twice daily in the Sistine Chapel until two thirds of the princes of the church agree on a choice. Although neither a lesser prelate nor a non-Italian is barred, the new Pope probably will be an Italian and a cardinal.

The favorite among the "papabile"—those considered likely papal candidates—is Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, 65, archbishop of Milan and the first cardinal created by Pope John.

Although he was not a cardinal at the time, he was mentioned often as a papal prospect before the 1958 conclave that chose Pope John to succeed Pope Pius XII.

Vote to Block Reductions on Tax Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted 19 to 6 today to block a scheduled July 1 reduction of about $4 billion a year in federal taxes on corporations, liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, telephone calls and airline tickets.

★ ★ ★

The committee bill would extend without change for one year the 52 per cent tax on corporation profits and the temporary excise taxes.

Except for the tax on telephone calls and airline tickets, the existing temporary rates were levied in 1951 to help finance the Korean War.

The new bill seemed certain to clear Congress before the deadline. To clear the way for quick enactment, the committee temporarily put aside work on Kennedy's program of permanent tax revisions and rate reductions.

★ ★ ★

The administration tax program would provide individuals and corporations with $10.4 billion in tax relief spread over a three-year period and the committee tomorrow will resume work on a compromise version.

Probable That JFK to Delay Italian Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy probably will put off a scheduled visit to Italy until after the College of Cardinals elects a successor to Pope John XXIII.

★ ★ ★

Taking note of the pontiff's death, Kennedy—first Roman Catholic to hold the U.S. presidency—said Pope John's "wisdom, compassion and timely strength have bequeathed humanity a new legacy of purpose and courage for the future."

★ ★ ★

Kennedy originally was scheduled to fly to Italy on June 20. But the conclave to choose a new Pope must begin no earlier than June 18 and no later than June 21.

Since it is likely to last five or six days—the average length of previous 20th century conclaves—Kennedy would be unable to visit Italy until after he goes ahead with already firm plans to tour West Germany and Ireland.

NATIONAL WEATHER — Scattered showers and thunderstorms are expected over portions of the northern and central Plains tonight while rain is predicted for the north Atlantic Coast states. It will be warmer in the eastern half of the nation as well as west of the Rockies; cooler in the Plateau states.

Storm Covers Most of East

By The Associated Press

Rainy, cloudy and foggy weather covered most areas from the Ohio Valley to the Atlantic seaboard today as a coastal storm moved inland.

Stormy weather hit much of the coastal region again Monday. Rain measured nearly eight inches in Norfolk, Va. The storm weakened considerably during the night and heavy winds diminished and winds subsided on the coast. Small craft warnings remained displayed from Block Island, R.I., to Eastport, Maine.

Districting Hopes Fall

GOP House members to be on hand and had not received a single absentee notice.

The legislature was prepared to reconvene under threat of a referendum to be sought by Democrats if it enacts a Republican-sponsored plan for congressional reapportionment.

As lawmakers gathered in the capital for a scheduled three-day session and final adjournment, Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency made an 11th-hour plea for a "bi-partisan meeting" on the issue.

But Romney quickly reaffirmed his intention to stand by the redistricting plan in its present form, and shrugged off the suggestion that a statewide referendum vote might result if it is passed.

"A referendum is provided for in the constitution. It's their right to have one if they want to," he said.

DISCUSS CHANGES

Ferency asked the governor to meet with Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski and legislative leaders from both parties to discuss making changes in the reapportionment bill's Wayne County portion.

The redistricting plan, to set up the 19th district to which Michigan is entitled under the 1960 U.S. census, has been hanging fire since April 27, when a drafting error stalled its passage before the legislature recessed.

Democrats, counting on the possibility that the bare voting edge held by Republicans then may have diminished because of pressure from congressmen unhappy with the bill, have tried several times to compromise.

Any plan, to pass the legislature, will need 18 votes in the Senate and 56 in the House. Romney says he expects the votes to be on hand.

★ ★ ★

Ferency said the present plan —which was written by Wayne County Republican officials—has four major defects, chief among them the isolation of Negroes into a single congressional district.

'DILUTION'

He said its reshaping of the six Wayne County districts also would result in "dilution of the voting strength" of the area's Polish community by putting Hamtramck into a district heavily Negro.

Birmingham Area News

Alternate Parking Plans Presented Commission

BIRMINGHAM — Alternate plans for parking in the southwest section were presented to the City Commission last night by the Central Birmingham Residents Association (CBRA).

★ ★ ★

Three alternative parking plans were presented by Veryzer and Rolland Wilkening, consultant to CBRA.

Of the three plans, the one which the CBRA favors concerns redeveloping the block bounded by Maple, Southfield, Merrill and Chester.

★ ★ ★

As outlined by Veryzer, the plan calls for acquiring the old Hill School property, the playground and northwest corner of Maple and Southfield for parking.

The Hill School administration building would be shifted to the corner of Maple and Southfield west of Baldwin School, according to the plan.

Other suggestions were decking this lot for added Baldwin playground space now and eventually using it for parking.

Wilkening, who is associated with a Detroit contracting firm, estimated the CBRA-proposed lot would accommodate 475 to 500 cars, eventually 1,000. He said costs for a minimum structure range around $850,000.

Other plans introduced by the CBRA were to deck the municipal lot off Pierce Street or purchase the north half of the Community House block.

This would include the Merrill right-of-way plus some library property and Community House auditorium expansion over the proposed lot.

The city will assist this year's Birmingham Arts Festival with anywhere from $1,000 to $1,500, according to L. R. Gare, city manager.

The request was made at last night's meeting. R. F. McLean, chairman of the arts festival, said the committee would appreciate any material assistance it could get, namely a truck and driver to transport scenery, stand and chairs.

The Arts Festival, June 16-23, will be held at two locations.

According to McLean's letter to the commission, "the main events will occur at the Birmingham Art Center on South Cranbrook Road and in the downtown area."

The city spent $1,499 when the 1962 festival was staged at the Art Center; $354 in 1961 when the festival was held in Shain Park; and $1,297 for the 1960 festival, also at Shain Park.

The DC7, under charter to the Military Air Transport Service, took off from McChord AFB at 8:30 a.m. (PDT) yesterday for Elmendorf AFB at Anchorage.

The last message from the pilot, Capt. Albert Olson of Sumner, Wash., came two hours, 36 minutes later. He radioed the air station at Sandspit, B.C. for permission to climb from 14,000 to 18,000 feet.

Another airliner was northbound at 18,000 one minute behind but air control tried to message Olson to go to 16,000. There was no response.

After that neither the ground station nor the other plane could contact the DC7.

The missing plane carried six inflatable life rafts with capacities of 20 passengers each. It also carried 100 life jackets.

The Coast Guard said a person could not live in the 40-degree water more than 10 to 15 minutes.

Scott, a native of Caro, Mich., lived most of his life in Bay City before he joined the Air Force at the age of 17. He preceded his family from a Florida assignment to Alaska.

The fifth Scott child, a son, was hospitalized in Bay City and unable to make the trip, the Air Force said.

The three Michigan men reported missing all had joined the armed forces less than a year ago.

One of them, Pvt. Robert A. Delonjay, 19, of Onekama, joined the army only four months ago. He was graduated from Onekama High last year.

The other two men listed, both 18, held the rank of airman third class in the Air Force. They are Raul Reyes of Muskegon and Charles Couch of Cassopolis.

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

Ration: The amount of food required daily by man or animal.

Iron Ration: The amount of iodin (older spelling iodine) required daily to maintain good metabolis, good nutrition, good health in child or adult.

In the early hours or first day or two of any such infection — the period when it is most communicable — before anyone can tell whether it is measles, infantile paralysis, epidemic meningitis, scarlet fever, diphtheia, flu or whatnot, call it cri.

* * *

A few years ago I would not have associated an iodin ration with the cri. I knew no reason to believe the everyday intake of iodin was more important in that respect than the everyday intake of calcium or iron or protein is.

I can't say I know better now Actually I know little or nothing about it. But I must say I have been impressed by the steadily increasing number of reports from readers who say, as does this Wisconsin lady:

"Read your column every day and find it helpful in many ways.

"Have had no colds since we have been on an iodin ration."

* * *

If it were at all likely that the iodin ration could do any harm in any circumstance I'd hesitate to mention these reports here. Happily I am sure, cocksure if you like, the iodin ration can't do any harm, and so I bring it to your attention and ask whether you have noticed any such apparent increase in your immunity to cri, and if so, how do you account for it?

Please don't construe my recommendation of a suitable daily ration of iodin for everybody as approval of the use of medicinal iodin or iodides as a remedy for the cri. That's a medical question best left to the judgment of your physician.

* * *

For a clearer understanding of iodin deficiency, from which a great many adolescents and adults suffer, particularly in the Great Lakes basin, send a stamped, self - addressed envelope and ask for the pamphlet, "The Iodin Ration."

AAA Inquiry a Real Smash

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Maria H. Casaurane, 70, of Palo Alto, went downtown Monday to get some information from the American Automobile Association.

Police said as Mrs. Casaurane turned to drive into an adjacent parking lot she stepped on the gas instead of the brake and her car went right through a plate glass window in the AAA office.

Two AAA employes, Florence West, 48, and Wade King, 52, were treated for bruises and released, police said.

On 4 Sewer Plans

Lake Orion Delays Verdict

By ROGER SRIGLEY

LAKE ORION — Village officials here are going to wait two weeks before committing Lake Orion to one of the four sewage plans offered by their consulting engineers.

During that period, the heads of Oxford Village and Oxford and Orion townships will have to decide whether they want to join in the project.

Answering to demands of the Michigan State Water Commission, Lake Orion has come up with alternate solutions to its sewage problem.

Now the pressure is on the three other communities.

★ ★ ★

Meeting in a joint session at the Orion Township Hall last night, heads of the two villages and townships discussed present sewage problems in their respective municipalities.

AREA NEWS

Also in on the talk were representatives of Hubbell, Roth & Clark Associates, Inc., of Birmingham, Lake Orion's consultant engineers, and Johnson and Anderson of Waterford Township, Oxford's engineering advisors.

"Lake Orion knows what it has to do but doesn't know what the other governmental units want," Village President Irvine J. Unger told the group.

★ ★ ★

The Michigan Water Resources Commission has ordered Lake Orion to discontinue its pollution of Paint Creek.

In addition to citing the specific violation, the commission has stipulated that completed construction plans and specifications for treatment facilities should be available by next December.

"If the other three communities are really interested and have any intention of building a sewer they should come in here with a firm commitment on June 17," Unger said.

★ ★ ★

He asked Donald Ringler, deputy director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works, if there was any chance of the county contributing to this project financially.

The answer was "no."

FEDERAL FUNDS

However, Ringler said there was certainly reason to make application for federal funds.

He explained it was feasible that almost 50 per cent of the project could be paid for under the Accelerated Public Works program.

The second possibility would be to obtain funds, 30 per cent or a maximum of $600,000, through the State Water Resources Commission and public Law 660.

Ringler said that although the county could not contribute funds to the project, it would be "ready and willing" to assist in the actual construction.

Oxford Township Supervisor Harold T. Campbell asked Unger what he (Campbell) could take back to the people to sell the project.

"A sewer system," Unger replied.

Ringler said the county might be able to assist in a sewage study of the township before the forthcoming meeting.

The county representative also explained that in 15 years, a trunk sewer would be coming up Paint Creek from Rochester and thus eliminate the need for a treatment plant.

But Lake Orion can't wait that long.

Under terms of a 1960 plan involving these communities, a trunk sewer was to run from Lake Orion to Oxford with a treatment plant adequate for both villages and some adjacent areas.

However, that plan was never put into effect, mainly for financial reasons.

The village's attorney, Robert Parenti, pointed out that Lake Orion doesn't have to have another community joining in the plans. However, he said the village did want to "extend the invitation" to the other governmental units.

"We can't wait any longer," Unger added.

Heads of the four communities will meet again on June 17. They are scheduled to decide then which municipalities will participate in the project.

STUDY PROJECT — The elected heads of Oxford, Lake Orion and the two surrounding townships attended a meeting in the Orion Township Hall last night to discuss the possibility of a joint sewage system. Novi Landowners to Consider Proposed Sewage System

NOVI — Property owners here will consider the proposed Novi-Walled Lake sewage system at a public hearing Monday night.

★ ★ ★

The hearing will be held on the necessity of establishing a special assessment district for financing the project.

While Walled Lake can pay for its share through an ad valorem tax levy, Novi would need a special assessment district because the whole village will not benefit from a sewage program.

The portion of the village to be affected is roughly the area between 12½-Mile Road and 14-Mile Road extending from the Wixom city line to a half mile west of Haggerty.

TOTAL COST

Total cost to residents of the proposed special assessment district has been estiamted at $1,188,700.

This would include $457,400 for an intercepter and pumping station and $250,400 for the trunk sewer, all to be constructed by the Oakland County Department of Public Works

Harold N. Ackley, administrative assistant, noted that the estimates don't include any government participation in the program.

"We could cut the cost in half with a federal grant," he said.

★ ★ ★

Walled Lake councilmen are proceeding with preliminary planning in the hope that federal funds will be available when the plans are.

Novi's public hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Community Building.

Farmington Council Sets Two Hearings on Rezoning

FARMINGTON—The City Council last night scheduled two public hearings on rezoning requests.

Both will be held June 17 at the City Hall.

★ ★ ★

The planning commission has recommended that a three-and-a-half-acre parcel of land on Grand River Avenue be rezoned to permit construction of an efficiency apartment complex.

Thomas Duke is the potential developer of the property between the Rouge River and American Legion property.

Duke has planned 113 single-bedroom units similar to the River Glen apartments which he constructed. Facilities would include space for 170 cars to be parked.

★ ★ ★

Plans necessitate changing the property to a general commercial zone. It now falls into industrial, residential and parking zones.

The other change recommended by the planning commission is for a house on the west side of Liberty south of Grand River Avenue to be office rather than residential.

The request came from John Allen, who proposes converting the house into professional offices.

However, the planning commission has recommended that the entire block, across the street from the new municipal building, be rezoned to comply with the city's master plan.

Hearing on the apartment plans will be at 7:30 p.m. and on the proposed office building at 8 p.m.

The council last night added a provision to the zoning code which would require trailers to be parked behind front building lines.

★ ★ ★

The code previously provided that trailers could not be occupied in the city or parked on public rights-of-way.

★ ★ ★

Last night's decision was a revision of the original suggestion that accessory buildings be required for the storage of trailers.

Workers to File NLRB Protest

DETROIT (UPI) — Officials of Iron Workers Local 25 said yesterday they will file a formal protest to the National Labor Relations Board concerning the actions of the board's regional director during the local's recent strike.

Henry E. Cooper, business manager for the local, said the complaint will be filed against Thomas Roumell, regional director, for publicity stating that the strike was illegal.

Roumell last week had warned the union that he would file a formal complaint against it if the workers did not return to work yesterday. He said a required notice of intent to end their contract was not given and the strike was illegal.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, some 1,600 members of the local returned to their jobs yesterday following a vote Sunday affirming a new contract with the Detroit and Michigan chapters of the Associated General Contractors of America.

Troy Hears Builders' Proposals

TROY—Representatives of the Builders Association of Metropolitan Detroit finally got their chance to present zoning recommendations to the City Commission last night.

Substantially the builders reiterated their former recommendation for smaller minimum lot sizes throughout the city, stressing the R-1A one - family residential lots.

The developers maintained that minimum limits of 30,000 sq. ft. with sewer and 21,780 without sewer were too large.

However, the commission presented its position, which included the point that reducing lot size in the R-1A section would lead to a greater number of residents there.

This in turn, the commissioners agreed, would lead to overloading of the Evergreen sewer system which handles the district, and the necessity for construction of a new sewer connecting with Detroit.

Also part of the developer's recommendation was a request for the commission to consider the unit or "cluster" type of city planning.

This type of land division provides a park site to be set aside for use by surrounding area residents.

Dies of Heart Attack Before Car Hits Tree

LAPEER—A 60-year-old Oregon Township woman died of a heart attack yesterday before her car crashed into a tree on Bronson Lake Road.

Police said an autopsy on Mrs. Edwin Moody, 60, of 3878 Bronson Lake. It showed that she died before the accident happened about 5 p.m., a half-mile west of Gray Road.

Couple Killed in Area Crash

Two-Car Collision Occurs Near Romeo

ROMEO — An elderly couple was killed yesterday in a two-car collision at Ebeling and Van Dyke, four miles north of here.

William B. Clunas, 81, of Goodells, was dead on arrival at the Community Hospital near Almont. His wife, Lida, 79, died about an hour after admittance.

According to Romeo State Police, Clunas failed to heed a stop sign on Ebeling, and was making a wide left turn into Van Dyke when his car was hit broadside by another vehicle traveling north.

Driver of the other car was Mrs. Carol Jane Standberg, 25, of Detroit. She, her husband Thomas 27, and their son, Kevin, 3, were taken to Community Hospital where they are listed in satisfactory condition today.

Another son, John, 2, escaped injury.

Hubble-Mann Rites

Pair Weds in Oxford

OXFORD—William Jay Hubble claimed Paula Darlene Mann as his bride at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Oxford Methodist Church. Rev. Fred Clark performed the nuptials.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Darrell J. Stalnaker, 56 N. Washington, and Orton G. Mann, 3916 Dearborn, Avon Township.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charles Hubble, 161 Frederick, and the late Mr. Hubble.

Philinda Ashley was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Delmer Schons of Clarkston and Mrs. Gary Laidler of Oxford, sisters of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Robert Mann of Oxford, sister-in-law of the bride.

The duties of best man were performed by Gerald Bates of Fort Worth, Tex. Ushers were Gary Laidler, Delmer Schons, Robert Mann, brother of the bride, and David Strong of Lapeer.

Flower girl was Alane Marie Mann, niece of the bride. Eric and Erin Stalnaker, brothers of the bride, were ring bearers.

★ ★ ★

The Thomas Community Hall was the setting for the reception that followed the rites. The newlyweds are on a honeymoon trip motoring through the West.

Airlines Lose Argument

When Does a Stewardess Become Too Old to Fly?

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON—Can a 32-year-old airline stewardess find happiness with an airline that says 32 is too old?

SERLING

No, lovers of air travel, this is not a line from a soap opera. It is, or was, the crux of a labor dispute that attracted attention coast to coast—mainly because the skies above hath no fury like a flygirl scorned because of age.

The burning issue began burning when American Airlines, negotiating a new contract with its 1,500 stewardesses refused to eliminate a provision in the existing contract: Namely, when a girl reaches 32, she had to quit flying and accept another job with the airline.

The stewardess negotiators said this was grossly unfair—unchivalrous and unrealistic—that neither American nor any other airline has a right to terminate a stewardess' flying career on the basis of chronological age.

The stewardesses either had an acute sense of good public relations or received some astute advice from their parent union, the Transport Workers Union (TWU).

They promptly called news conferences and a number of stewardesses circa 32 got their pictures plastered all over scores of newspapers—the gist of them being: "Does this girl look too old to fly?"

Obviously, they didn't and American — with legitimate reasons for its retirement policy and only 10 girls out of 1,600 who are over 32—came out second best in the battle for public and press sympathy.

The airline finally extended the age limit to 33.

OTHERS INVOLVED

But the alleged problem of the "aging stewardess" is not peculiar to American. Braniff and Northwest have a retirement rule with an age cut-off of 32.

All three airlines put the regulation into effect six or seven years ago but applied it only to girls hired henceforth.

All have a number of stewardesses either over 32 or those who will reach that age in the near future without having to take ground jobs.

* * *

These carriers cited one chief reason for the stop-flying-at-32 rule—it is an age at which a girl is young enough to start a new airline career.

For public consumption, the airlines say they do not want to lose the services of attractive, intelligent and personable young women; they merely want them to go into other channels of airline work before they're too old to make the change.

Behind that public argument is a private fact of life which all airline people admit: When a stewardess flies a certain length of time, she may never want to quit at all.

* * *

Five years seems to be the magic number for this phenomena, although it may vary by individual.

There is something about flight crew comradeship, esprit de corps and the very romance of travel which to the majority of older stewardesses far outweighs any ground job — including matrimony.

Added to the intangible attractions is a more practical one. The stewardess profession pays well, considering all the side benefits such as almost unlimited free or cut-fare travel.

The profession still has a huge turnover, but there is evidence that the turnover affects mainly the younger girls; a stewardess who has flown for four or five years may well stay on another four or five or even longer.

* * *

This is why some airlines feel there must be some mandatory grounding age, no matter how arbitrary it may seem.

"Let's face it," says one airline executive whose company does not have a retirement rule, "the problem is universal—there are too many girls flying who have lost the enthusiasm and even the attractiveness the public expects.

And they'd keep flying forever if someone didn't make them quit. We don't have enough of the latter to make an issue out of it but we could have someday."

Involving Wayne County

High Court Grants New Damage Trial

LANSING (UPI) — A new trial has been ordered by the State Supreme Court in the case of a child injured in a traffic accident involving a sweeper operated by the Wayne County Road Commission because pictures taken more than two years later were introduced as evidence.

* * *

The court held that the exhibits did not meet the admisability test of reasonable representation. The pictures purported to show that the sweeper was not raising dust to create a hazard but were taken more than two years after the accident.

Negligence was claimed and damages were sought on behalf of Darlene Kaminski, then 10 years old, injured in a collision between the sweeper and a car in Wayne Township in 1959. The claim was not allowed by the lower court.

The high court upheld the local Circuit Court in a denial of a suit brought by a group of Flint Public Works Department employes who were laid off in 1960 because there was no money to carry on a construction program.

Richard Bickell and a group of other city workers sought to be reinstated in their jobs with seniority rights and back pay. The lower court held there was no cause for action.

Also upheld was a lower court decision awarding compensation for two years loss of salary to William Sharon, former superintendent of schools for Spalding Township, Menominee County.

Sharon was voted a new five-year contract in 1953 with a raise to $5,600 a year although his former contract still had one year to go.

* * *

Two school board members who voted for the new contract were defeated in a try for re-election and the new board voted to terminate his services at the end of the old 1951-54 contract.

Sharon was out of work for two years before he took a position as superintendent of schools at another district.

The Supreme Court ruled that Flint Circuit Judge Donald Parks had a right to dismiss a case because the plaintiff did not show up in court on the trial date.

The suit by Harry Banta of Detroit against Steve Serban of Flint, involving an accident in Flint in 1957, was dismissed by the judge when neither Banta nor his attorney appeared in court.

Pope's Death Sorrows World

In the death of Pope JOHN XXIII all mankind has lost a dominant figure that was striving to provide the stimulus for world peace.

POPE JOHN XXIII

Unlike other renowned leaders, it was Pope JOHN, the man, who was loved and revered, rather than his position as head of the Roman Catholic Church

★ ★ ★

It would almost seem that greatness was something with which His Holiness was born. It is an established fact that from a humble beginning Pope John's rise to prominence from within the Church was far from spectacular.

Early reports indicate that he had always carried out his various duties in a faithful and conscientious manner with little or no fanfare.

But in the fall of 1958 when Pope JOHN was almost 77 years old he was unexpectedly elected Pope and from that day forward until his death his surprising spiritual personality electrified millions.

There was something about the inner man of Pope John that mysteriously reached out and enveloped others with his warm-hearted love and zeal for friendship and peace.

★ ★ ★

Almost immediately after his elevation he made it known that he was a totally different personality than his predecessor, PIUS XII.

The world was astounded that Pope JOHN XXIII with his simplicity could win the world's sympathy in such short order following the dignified tenure of PIUS XII.

But this is the record of Pope John XXIII. His unbelievable capacity for work and spontaneity made him the people's Pope. Pope John XXIII was not regarded as a symbol, but rather a man with great love for all people and a desire for world unity.

His work was essentially preparation for the Ecumenical Council. Pope JOHN's contribution to life was recommending cooperation and attempting to lay the foundation for world brotherhood.

★ ★ ★

Unfortunately he did not live to complete his mission. We can only hope that his role as a peacemaker will be continued.

Van Wagoner Deserves State's Congratulations

Recently our friendly compatriot, The Lansing State Journal, commented favorably upon the fine number of picnic tables that Michigan offers our always increasing influx of summer visitors.

To quote the venerable State Journal:

"No other state can boast as many picnic tables as Michigan has along its roadsides."

★ ★ ★

The Lansing editorial calls attention to the fact that "Michigan pioneered in placing attractive rustic tables along public highways," and that we have "maintained dominance by increasing the number each year and adding fireplaces, roadside parks and other facilities."

★ ★ ★

With the tourist trade playing so important a part in Michigan's financial status, we can well be happy and proud over this achievement. Oakland County can take an especial pride in the affair as it was our own Murray D. Van Wagoner who launched the movement. There are now 4,000 such oases along Michigan's 9,400 miles of state highways. Outsiders are always pleasantly impressed by our interest in their welfare, and you can see these favored spots in use for many months during the summer.

★ ★ ★

We offer congratulations again to M. D. VAN WAGONER, one of Michigan's greatest governors and a man who served with honor and distinction and who always advanced the cause of the State and our national reputation and honor.

State Income Tax Remains Tossup

By JIM DYGERT

Although it's a good bet the State Legislature will make some kind of change in Michigan's crazy-quilt tax structure this fall, no one's giving odds either way on a state income tax.

The Republican-controlled body is certain to give Republican Gov. George Romney at least some measure of success in keeping his campaign promise of fiscal reform, especially now that so much national attention is focused on the state and its new governor.

Best bet is elimination of the business activities tax paid on gross receipts regardless of profit or loss.

★ ★ ★

Often cited as one of the chief discouragers of new business ventures (and new jobs) in Michigan, this tax brings in $80 million a year that probably would be replaced through a new corporate profits tax.

Fiscal reform of greater magnitude probably would require inclusion of an income tax in the package, which many Republicans may be unwilling to do even if Romney recommends it.

For one thing, high tax collections due to an unexpectedly booming automobile year have improved the state's financial situation, causing the urgency of fiscal reform to fade.

ANOTHER CRISIS?

Romney and other Republicans, however, keep saying the state will face another financial crisis in two years if the tax structure is not repaired now—no matter how good things are.

Some Republicans, including State Sen. Farrell E. Roberts of Oakland County, are willing to include an income tax even if Romney fails to recommend one.

★ ★ ★

He is one of the leaders of GOP "moderates" who control the Senate Republican majority this year and pushed through large chunks of Romney's program. They will undoubtedly bring about passage of whatever Romney recommends.

DIFFERENT STORY

But the House will be different. Any income tax recommendation, like Romney's program this spring, will run into choppier waters when it tries to sail through the House, which has taken over the Senate's old reputation for conservatism and reluctance.

In addition, most GOP House members from outstate rural areas are dead set against an income tax. They're likely to remain so unless some of the income tax revenue would revert to local areas and reduce property taxes.

★ ★ ★

There's also a possibility of a coalition of moderate Republicans and Democrats to pass a package including exemption of food and drugs from the sales tax as well as an income tax.

Conservative Republicans may vote for an income tax just to avoid the prospect of such a thing.

Much will depend on Romney's recommendation. His staff has so far prepared eight proposals, most of which, but not all, include an income tax.

And what the governor recommends may depend to a large extent on realistic appraisals of what he can get as well as further studies on what the state must have.

David Lawrence Says:

World Revered Pope John XXIII

WASHINGTON — A strange phenomenon in world history emerges in the almost universal tributes being paid today to the passing of a Pope at Rome.

LAWRENCE

Prayers in churches of all religions in Europe and elsewhere signify not merely the reverence of Roman Catholics, but the eminence which a spiritual leader can attain in a world where political controversy so often ignores the ethical teachings of religion.

Popes have come and gone during the centuries, but few in recent decades have managed to win the respect and esteem which Pope John XXIII achieved by reason of his penetrating judgment and keen understanding of the currents of public opinion and the conflicting philosophies of an age in which nuclear war stands as a constant threat of self-destruction.

In the face of all the arguments of the past about the place of the Roman Catholic Church in the political, economic or spiritual life of America, the utterances of Pope John XXIII have received wide acclaim from all sections of the press in this country and even from many church leaders irrespective of denomination.

Prayers for Pope John were offered Sunday by many congregations in Protestant and Jewish as well as Catholic churches around the world.

Long after the reign of Pope John has passed into history, it will be wondered just what was the secret of this Pope's popularity.

Was it because he made significant moves toward bringing about greater unity among the sects of Christianity?

Was it because he showed a tolerance toward believers in Communism though rejecting their destructive aims?

★ ★ ★

Was it because he revealed no hostility toward worshipers in all other religions — indeed, held out the open hand of friendship — so that the world came to recognize him as a holy man who truly practiced the doctrine of brotherly love, which so many leaders preach but do not always apply in the perplexing controversies of the hour?

COMMUNIST TOLERANCE

It may be argued for a long time whether the example of tolerance that Pope John XXIII endeavored to impress upon the Communists caused some Italians in Italy to vote for the Communist Party in the recent election there because they mistook tolerance of Communism for a supposed acquiescence in its pernicious demands.

But the Pope's move will some day be regarded as a step in the direction of better contact and closer communication between those who live inside the Communist countries and those who are trying from the outside to keep alive the spirit of human courage among the oppressed peoples.

Pope John eased the way for a better understanding of rules and discipline among Catholic worshipers and received praise for revisions he proclaimed as in line with changing times.

But what truly impressed hundreds of millions of people everywhere was the tremendous impetus the Pope gave to moral force in lieu of military force.

He influenced, by his utterances, not only the Roman Catholics of the world — particularly in the Latin countries where the population is predominantly of that faith — but also those of us in this and other lands who are not members of the Roman Catholic Church yet who admire its steadfast pressure for a society of better morals and for a world of reason.

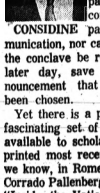
Bob Considine Says:

Pontiff Election Rules Are Firm, Fascinating

VATICAN CITY — No religion crams more tradition and mysticism into the election of its leader than the Roman Catholic Church. The conclave of cardinals which will elect a successor of Pope John XXIII from among their membership will labor in an atmosphere as remote from the teeming world as if they were assembled on the moon.



CONSIDINE

No word is passed out of the conclave under pain of excommunication, nor can the events of the conclave be revealed at any later day, save the bare announcement that a pope has been chosen.

Yet there is a pretty firm and fascinating set of conclave rules available to scholars. They were printed most recently, as far as we know, in Rome correspondent Corrado Pallenberg's enlightening "Inside the Vatican," published in 1960 by Hawthorn.

The 15-point plan emerged after the incredible conclave which chose Pope Gregory X in the year 1274.

That conclave, held at Viterbo, north of Rome, lasted two years, nine months and two days. To prod the cardinals into making up their minds the wrathful faithful of Viterbo first tore the roof off the conclave palace and in the end restricted food shipments into the conclave to bread and water.

RULES

Here are some of the rules, many of them still observed nearly 700 years later:

— "In the very building in which the pontiff lived they (the cardinals) will form a conclave in which all will live in common, without dividing walls, curtains or fabric between them, with only one private room. No one can get either in or out.

—"No one will have access to the cardinals locked in conclave. No one may send deputations or letters to them, under pain of excommunication.

— "A few windows will, however, be left open in the conclave so that food may be passed in to the cardinals, but no one whatsoever may pass through these windows.

— "Three days after the cardinals have entered the conclave, if no new pontiff has been elected, the priests and others responsible for the supervision of the conclave must prevent more than one dish being prepared for the cardinals' meals, either at lunch or dinner, for the next five days.

"When these five days have elapsed they will allow nothing but bread and water until the election has been concluded."

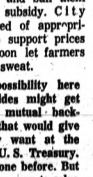
Surpluses Keep Capitol Hill Agog

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The conflict between city and country is responsible for much of the controversy over some of the important legislative proposals before Congress this year.



EDSON

A dozen of the largest metropolitan areas bogged down by their own phenomenal growth like dinosaurs in quicksand, are clamoring for help from the federal government to solve their mass transportation problems. Rural area congressmen couldn't care less.

Conversely, American farmers who have just rejected strict government controls over wheat production now look to Congress to save them from greatly reduced prices next year and bail them out with a new subsidy. City congressmen, tired of appropriating millions to support prices would just as soon let farmers stew in their own sweat.

There is a possibility here that the two sides might get together in a mutual back-scratching hug that would give both what they want at the expense of the U. S. Treasury. That has been done before. But it is admittedly no way to solve problems.

★ ★ ★

The great shift of U.S. population from country to city that is responsible for this conflict has been going on for more than a century.

In 1860 the United States was 20 per cent urban, 80 per cent rural. In 1960 is was 70 per cent rural, 70 per cent urban, almost a complete reversal. This trend continues.

A forthcoming Twentieth Century Fund study, "Farms and Farmers in an Urban Age," goes into this problem in depth. The author is Edward Higbee, former Department of Agriculture conservationist, now professor of land utilization, University of Rhode Island. He points out that the number of American farms has dropped from 6.8 million in 1935 to fewer than 3.7 million now and is probably headed for under a million by 1980.

"Since agriculture has developed a highly effective production machine and its unneeded human resources have been shifted to the city," Higbee writes that, "America has been confronted by two kinds of surpluses. In the country is a surplus of food. In the city is a surplus of labor. . . .

"Thus far the federal budget to relieve the problem of farm surpluses has been more generous than the federal budget to relieve the urban problems of surplus people."

This development has been responsible for a political realignment in America. Prosperous farmers have been traditionally businessmen and Republican. But their numbers are decreasing. In contrast, the city dweller has since the great depression shifted more and more to the Democratic side, particularly in the lower income brackets. Their number is increasing.

One of the major problems of the Republican Party today is how to capture a larger share of the urban vote, as distinguished from the higher income suburban vote which is largely GOP.

This brings up still another problem — reapportionment. Making a first public report on research done by Nan Markel of University of Chicago, Dr. Philip M. Hauser, former assistant director of the Census Bureau, has found that the population density of a congressional district influences the congressman's voting record.

On 12 key issues before the last Congress, three - fourths of over 100 congressmen from districts with a population density of 1,000 to 50,000 to the square mile voted "liberal" consistently. The remainder, who represented the more prosperous districts, voted conservative more than half the time. But the denser the population, the more liberal the voting record.

In contrast, among 200 congressmen from districts with fewer than 100 persons to the square mile, conservative votes outnumbered liberal votes 3-to-2. And nearly half of the conservatives voted that way all the time.

Carrying this study into the state government field, Dr. Hauser declared in a Stanford University lecture that under-representation of urban areas and over - representation of rural areas had undoubtedly kept the governments of each of the 50 states as well as that of the nation more conservative than the people. And he predicted that the Supreme Court's decision on state reapportionment cases "may produce a most dramatic economic and social change" in the United States.

Zolton Ferency is calling for a thorough overhaul of the state's election procedures. What has the Democratic Party been doing about such a faulty election procedure for the last 14 years that it was in power?

Pope's Death May Alter Russ-West Relations

COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE
PONTIAC MALL OPTICAL CENTER
Open Evenings 'til 8:30 682-1113

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON — The death of Pope John XXIII seems destined to have a profound impact on the future development of relations between the Soviet Union and the Western powers.

HIGHTOWER

The pontiff in recent months had been engaged in a delicate and subtle effort to open up a speaking acquaintance between the Kremlin and the Vatican.

Whether and how this effort will be continued must now depend on his successor. As a Washington authorities understood the operation, the effort was largely due to Pope John's deep personal interest in doing what he could to save the world from war in the nuclear age and his immediate aim of improving the conditions of the Roman Catholic church in Eastern Europe.

Washington officials have had nothing to say publicly about the Pope's quiet campaign to promote his objectives in relation to the Soviet bloc. Privately they have watched the developments with extreme interest, aware that lessening of tensions between Rome and Moscow would have a far-reaching effect in Catholic countries and Catholic communities throughout the world.

The most dramatic of events in this movement came last March 7 when Pope John received Alexei Adzhubei, Soviet Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law and chief editor of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia. It was the first meeting between a pontiff and an important Soviet Communist figure.

There was speculation at the time that their conversation might result in a visit by Khrushchev to the Pope later this year.

Adzhubei said simply that the Pope and he had "talked about advancing peace."

The Pope had taken at the very outset of his rule in the Vatican a strong and practical anti-Communist stand, decreeing that Catholics could not vote for Communists or fellow travelers in elections. There was no doubt of his firm anti-Communist attitude. But in the development of relations between the Vatican and the Kremlin, ideology evidently was not the immediate issue.

The Pope seems to have been concerned rather with the possibility of change in the Communist system and with the prospect of taking advantage of changing conditions to advance his own aims for the promotion of what he called in his recent message peace based on "truth, justice and brotherly love."

His problem was different from that of his predecessor, Pope Pius XII, whose leadership of the church paralleled the Stalin era in the Soviet bloc. Pope Pius had to deal with an implacable hostility from the Kremlin and widespread oppression against church leaders in the countries of Eastern Europe.

Khrushchev opened the possibility of East-West talks on a great variety of issues, including some involving the church.

CARDINAL MONTINI

Montini Top Papal Pick for 2nd Time

VATICAN CITY (AP)—For the second time in less than five years, Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, archbishop of Milan, is favored for election as the new Pope.

★ ★ ★

Only the new pontiff can decide the future of controversial policies initiated by the late Pope John XXIII. Those policies will figure strongly when the sacred College of Cardinals convenes to elect a new spiritual ruler of the world's half billion Roman Catholics.

Among them is the continuation of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, considered the high point of Pope John's efforts to modernize his church and lead it toward Christian unity. Others include Pope John's efforts to negotiate the release of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty from Red Hungary, and his drive to improve relations with the Communist world.

Cardinal Montini, 65, was one of the Pope's closest advisers during the first phase of the Ecumenical Council last fall and was the first cardinal created by Pope John.

Although not a cardinal at the time, Archbishop Montini was mentioned often during the 1958 conclave that elected Pope John. The cardinals do not have to name a Pope from among their number, but no prelate of lower rank has been elected in 600 years.

In Vatican circles, it is taken for granted that Cardinal Montini will lead on the first ballots. The big question is whether he can win the two-thirds majority needed for election.

Within the sacred college, lines are drawn between Italians and non-Italians, progressives and conservatives.

There are 82 cardinals, more than ever elected a Pope in the past. Italy still has the most, 29. The other 53 come from 30 nations.

A non-Italian has not been elected Pope since the Dutch-born Adrian VI in 1522. Along with Cardinal Montini, the most prominent "papabile" — likely candidates—are all Italians.

Cardinal Will Start Canonization Move

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, says he will begin immediately a campaign for canonization of Pope John XXIII.

"I am going to solicit prayers and all information concerning favors granted through his intercession toward the end that the process for canonization begin immediately" the Cardinal said Monday.

"It is the wish of all people that his Christlike character be subjected to the detailed process for sainthood. This will take many, many years and all the evidence required by the Church must in due course be assembled."

World Sorrow Symbolizes Pope's Striving for Peace

From Our News Wires

A worldwide outpouring of sorrow at the death of Pope John XXIII symbolized today the pontiff's striving for unity and peace in the world.

The Pope's death seemed to bring much of the divided world together—at least temporarily—as no other event in recent history had.

Men split by different beliefs in politics, religion, social justice and economics joined to pay tribute to the "Pope of unity and peace."

★ ★ ★

Presidents and dictators, kings and queens, democracies and Communist states—all sent their condolences to the Vatican.

Protestants, Jews, Moslems, Buddhists and nonbelievers joined the world's half-billion Catholics in expressions of grief for the humble pontiff.

The only ones not reported to have sent messages of sorrow were the militant Communists in the Chinese camp.

★ ★ ★

Premier Khrushchev an avowed believed in no God, told the Vatican, "We retain good memories of John XXIII."

HUMAN SPIRIT

President Kennedy, joining his fellow Americans in expressing sorrow at the death of Pope John XXIII, said the pontiff's concern for human spirit "transcended all boundaries of belief or geography."

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic, said the Pope's "wisdom, compassion and timely strength bequeathed humanity a new legacy of purpose and courage for the future."

Tributes to the Pope were expressed by clergymen and laymen of Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and other religions.

★ ★ ★

The five American members of the Roman Catholic Church's College of Cardinals said the world will miss the Pope, whose great contribution was unity and understanding among the various faiths.

STATE MOURNS

Michigan residents of all faiths have joined together in mourning the death of Pope John.

Catholics began an official nine-day mourning period yesterday, and special requiem high masses have been planned throughout the state.

Solemn day mourning will occur during the final three days of the period.

In the Detroit diocese, Archbishop John F. Dearden announced requiem high masses will be said in all Detroit Catholic churches next Monday.

A Pontifical Mass was also scheduled to be sung in Detroit's Blessed Sacrament Cathedral on Monday.

Following the announcement of the Pope's death, Archbishop Dearden said, "The warmth of his personality, his sincere and candid interest in people, the wholesome openness of his nature, made friends on every side. Few, if any, who came close to him, could resist his heart-warming charm."

★ ★ ★

Government, business and labor leaders joined in praising the Pope's work and expressed deep regret at his passing.

Gov. George Romney said the death was "untimely and unfortunate loss for our troubled world."

Romney, who is a Mormon, said the Pope's death is felt "particularly because of his exceptional ability and dedication to human betterment, peace among nations, and religious tolerance and understanding."

Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford Motor Co., said the Pope has "left a deep and permanent imprint on our times and our world.

★ ★ ★

"His contributions to peace, to understanding and to good will among men will stand forever as a lasting memorial to a great and inspiring leader," Ford said.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, said "the cause of world peace and human freedom lost a gallant champion."

High Court Step Could Speed Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, impatient for some time with the pace of racial desegregation, has taken a new step that could help speed the process.

In an important case from Illinois, it ruled Monday that a group of Negroes complaining of alleged segregation need not exhaust their remedies under state law before turning to the federal courts.

Lawyers were studying the decision today to figure its impact on the future. Some felt that if broadly applied and broadly interpreted in future decisions, it might do much to circumvent the elaborate system of laws, administrative procedures and the like that some Southern states have set up since the high court outlawed school segregation in 1954.

ONE AIM

Negro leaders assert these laws have one aim: to delay thorough desegregation as long as possible, or to defeat it altogether.

There was no certainty yet what effect the Illinois case might have, for example, on an Alabama case now in the courts.

On May 28, federal Judge Seybourn H. Lynne ruled that Negroes seeking a sweeping injunction against separate schools in Birmingham had not exhausted remedies under a 1956 state statute. This law gives school boards almost unlimited powers to assign pupils to schools.

Lynne denied the injunction but warned Brimingham school officials he would order them to draw up a desegregation plan unless they apply the pupil placement plan without discrimination this fall.

The Illinois case was brought under the federal Civil Rights Act, which dates back to 1871 and authorizes suits in federal courts against persons who deprive others of constitutional rights.

COMPLAINT

The complaint from the Illinois Negroes said: In Chenot School, St. Clair County, segregation is carried on within the building, with most of the Negroes attending classes apart from the whites and compelled to use separate entrances and exits.

When Negroes complained that this was unconstitutional, lower federal courts dismissed their suit on the ground they had failed to use administrative procedures provided by state law.

★ ★ ★

But Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, writing the high tribunal's 8-1 decision, said it had indicated in an earlier ruling "that relief under the Civil Rights Act may not be defeated because relief was not sought first under state law."

★ ★ ★

No clear-cut rule of thumb can be laid down as to when a complainant must first exhaust state remedies before turning to the federal courts. Douglas noted that in cases "where strands of local law are woven into the case that is before the federal court, we have directed a district court to refrain temporarily from exercising its jurisdiction until a suit could be brought in the state court."

★ ★ ★

He added: "We have however, in the present case no underlying issue of state law controlling this litigation." He said the constitutional right alleged by the Negroes is "plainly federal in origin and nature."

State Recount in Final Stages

Slight Vote Change Dims Dem Hopes

LANSING (AP) — The recount of the April 1 vote approving a new state constitution was more than three fourths completed today with little significant change in the tally.

With 1,537 precincts recounted, there was a loss of 204 "yes" votes and a gain of 169 "no" votes. This cut 373 votes from the original margin of 7,829 for the constitution.

There are 1,969 precincts to be recounted.

Representatives of the state elections division said they still hope to complete the recount by the end of the week.

James Inglis, petitioner for the Democrats in the recount, meanwhile announced he has reached an agreement with Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and the counter-petitioner for those favoring the constitution for the release of voting machines to be used in school elections next week.

"All paper materials in connection with the machines, including absent voter ballots, envelopes, exhibits and poll books will continue to be safeguarded," Inglis said. "Only those rare examples of machines which are actual exhibits are excluded."

There are still some machine precincts to be recounted, Inglis said, but no requests for voting machines for use in school elections have been received from those areas.

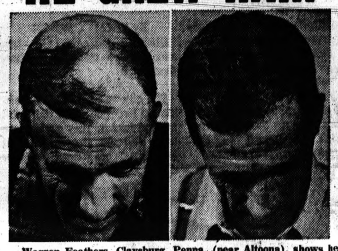
"HE GREW HAIR"



Warren Feathers, Claysburg, Penna. (near Altoona), shows he regrew hair by the Lesley Home Treatment Method. He did not have male pattern baldness.

MEN AND WOMEN
Learn if Your Hair Loss Can Be Stopped and Baldness Prevented

Mr. F. I. Brodie, representing the Lesley Hair and Scalp Consultants, will give hair and scalp consultation to hair worried men and women in the Waldron Hotel in Pontiac, Michigan, Wednesday only, June 5, 1963, from 1:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Decide today to give proper care to that prized personal appearance asset—a good head of hair. Come in and talk with the Lesley Consultant regarding your hair and scalp problems. Learn how you can treat yourself right in the privacy of your own home. Regular checkups in your city by a Lesley Consultant assure success in the minimum period of time.

If you have dandruff, excessive hair fall, thinning hair, excessive oiliness or dryness, itchy scalp, or if your scalp is still creating hair you should take positive action at once. A little time spent now may save a great deal of regret later.

You incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for the consultation. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not we believe you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost.

If you are accepted for treatment, you will be given a written guarantee for the length of time treatment is required, on a prorated basis. Nearly half of our clients are women. Lesley Hair and Scalp Consultants have established a very high reputation in the field for refusing any case that does not fall under the scope of its work.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which neither the Lesley treatment nor any other treatment is effective. Lesley offers you a free examination to determine whether you are one of those who can be helped.

Forces of Racial Strife Still Swirl Around Birmingham

(Editor's Note — Associated Press writer Relman Morin, Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter who covered racial turbulence in Birmingham last month, returns to assess the Deep South city in the wake of a biracial truce which stopped street marches by Negroes.)

By RELMAN MORIN

★ ★ ★

The city is quiet. But the elemental forces of racial strife still swirl around it. They could move back into the streets, bringing the threat of greater disorder than there was last month during the Negro demonstrations.

So it is an eerie quiet, breathless and uneasy, here in the eye of the storm.

AGREEMENT

A biracial agreement, worked out between white businessmen and Negro leaders, ended the demonstrations in May. It provided, among other things, for the desegregation of downtown store facilities within 90 days.

Today, the lunch counters in some stores are closed. One is covered with baskets of artificial flowers, and there is a basket in each of the seats.

"There has been much talk against downtown merchants who agreed to integrate their facilities," it says.

WHO REFUSED

"But little has been said about the merchants who refused to go along with this policy. Lest they be harmed, I would like to mention them by name."

Three stores are listed.

On the one hand—

The Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, chief strategist for the nonviolent campaign of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said the issue of dismissing charges against Negroes arrested last month, must be settled.

"If not," he said, "we'll start demonstrating again. We've got 5,000 who would go to jail."

JAILED

About 2,400 Negroes were jailed between April 3 and May 7.

And on the other—

Attempts are under way to organize the white populace of Birmingham. An estimated 800 persons attended a meeting last Friday night and there was another Saturday, even bigger said a witness.

★ ★ ★

A newly formed organization claims to have obtained 20,000 signatures on a petition calling for an election to restore the commission form of government in the city.

★ ★ ★

The former administration was voted out of office last November. One of its top officials was T. Eugene (Bull) Connor, hard-bitten segregationist. The election was contested and the new administration was seated only recently after a ruling by the State Supreme Court.

MET 4 TIMES

The new mayor, Albert Boutwell, and his nine-member council have met four times. Two members said the racial problem has not yet been discussed but that they were sure it would be taken up.

★ ★ ★

The issue of desegregating the schools has complicated the problem.

★ ★ ★

Last week, U.S. Dist. Judge Seybourn H. Lynne refused to order immediate desegregation. But he said he would order a plan for desegregating to be drawn up unless state pupil placement laws are administered without discrimination. Negro attorneys said they will appeal to higher courts for an immediate injunction against school segregation.

Desegregating the schools would be, potentially, a much more explosive action than desegregating the public facilities in some stores.

"The quiet here," said a police officer, "may be because everybody's got his eyes on the university right now." Three Negro students are scheduled to be enrolled in the University of Alabama system next Monday.

★ ★ ★

The officer added, "After that, who knows?"

Fidel Secretly Returns Home

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro slipped back into Cuba unnoticed Monday as public attention focused on the death of Pope John XXIII.

Castro's secrecy-shrouded arrival at Havana airport from the Soviet Union reportedly took President Osvaldo Dorticos by surprise. No one met Castro, not not even his bodyguards.

All Moscow papers carried front-page accounts today of Castro's departure. Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky saw him off.

Execs View Health Problems

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Eighty top executives of industry, education and government discussed the nation's health problems yesterday at the opening of the two-day National Congress of Environmental Health at the University of Michigan.

Speakers included George Skinta, vice president of Owens-Illinois Glass Co., Toledo, Ohio; Dr. O. L. Kline of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, Washington; and Dr. John D. Porterfield of the University of California.

Dr. Porterfield said, "The public wants a pushbutton situation in environmental health to obtain the use of all the bright new products and processes, but to avoid any risk in the consumption of them."

★ ★ ★

Skinta suggested a return to "the old town hall" type of meeting where scientists, businessmen and law enforcement agencies could meet to develop constructive programs.

The staggering speed and quantity of new scientific developments were stressed by Dr. Kline.

He said, "There is a pressing need for better communications between regulating agencies and the regulated industries, and the public which both seek to serve."

★ ★ ★

The Congress is being held under the auspices of the National Sanitation Foundation based at the U. of M. School of Public Health.

Sale of Train Line Approved by ICC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marquette - Huron Mountain Railroad received authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday to purchase 23.7 miles of line operated between Marquette and Big Bay, Mich., by Lake Superior - Ishpeming Railroad.

The transaction involves $90,000 — the estimated salvage value of the line. Ishpeming intends to abandon the line if the transaction is not consumated, the commission was told.

Marquette said it plans to rehabilitate the line for freight service and the operation of a seasonal tourist passenger service to Thunder Bay.

'Edwards Still a Top Candidate for Appointment'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington officials said yesterday the appointment of a Tennessee man on the federal 6th Circuit Court of Appeals will not hurt the chances of Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards for a similar appointment.

★ ★ ★

Daughters' Control Awarded to Actress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Dorothy Malone has won temporary custody of her two daughters.

★ ★ ★

The girls' father, actor Jacques Bergerac, has lost temporary custody of his passport—to make certain he doesn't try to leave the United States with the daughters.

★ ★ ★

Superior Court gave Miss Malone custody of Mimi, 2, and Diane, 1, Monday pending trial of her contested divorce suit. The French actor was ordered to pay $250 monthly temporary support payments.

DeMillean in Scope

Eastern Western a Fine Flick

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD—With "55 Days at Peking," it becomes apparent that stayaway producer Samuel Bronston must be an admirer of the late Cecil B. DeMille.

Bronston already has shown DeMille's fondness for American history "John Paul Jones," Biblical epics "The King of Kings", and costume classics "El Cid."

New Bronston is presenting "55 Days at Peking," which is DeMillean in its attention to lavish, authentic backgrounds, its use of a high-powered cast and epic-scale action and its sprawling plot.

THOMAS

★ ★ ★

Since DeMille was the screen's most successful showman, the comparison is not bad.

"Peking" is indeed a fine movie, in the strict sense of the word. It moves. It has characters you care about. It has heroics and perfidy. It is big.

The story is such good film material that it is surprising it hasn't been used before. It concerns the Boxer Rebellion of 1900, when foreigners in Peking were beleaguered in a forced United Nations for 55 days, under attack from the anti-intruder Chinese.

Leaders of the holdout are David Niven, the British ambassador who hopes to avoid an all-out war, and Charlton Heston, a gruff major of the U.S. Marines. Ava Gardner is the mysterious Russian baroness, and there are various other English, Americans, Russians, Germans, Japanese, French and Austrians.

★ ★ ★

Also limitless Chinese, mostly imported to the Spanish location from England. They include Flora Robson as the empress, Leo Genn and Robert Helpmann as her battling advisers, and other more authentic types from Limehouse.

Director Nick Ray, who doubles as the American ambassador, keeps the characters interweaving with a minimum of confusion, and action expert Andrew Marton (the chariot race in "Ben-Hur") provides some marvelous battles.

★ ★ ★

What they have created, of course, is an Eastern Western. Replace the Chinese with redskins and the multinationals with pioneers, and you have the siege at Ft. Apache and the charge at Feather River all over again.

★ ★ ★

At a time when Hollywood doesn't seem able to afford spectacles any more, it's nice to know that we will be getting them from Bronston on the plains of Spain.

Junior Editors Quiz on LOBSTERS

QUESTION: Does the lobster swim or crawl?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: A lobster is a queer-looking animal, but each part of his body has a meaning in the life he lives on the ocean floor. Lobsters eat crabs or any small sea animals they can catch.

Their enormous front claws allow them to seize these small animals. Notice that one claw (A) is heavier than the other (B). The big claw has rounded blunt teeth and is used to seize and crush the prey.

The small claw, used to tear up the prey, has sharper teeth. You may notice that the big claw is on the left hand (A) in the small picture and is on the right in the larger two lobsters. This is not a mistake, for lobsters vary in this respect.

At night the lobster tiptoes around on his five pairs of legs looking for food; the long feelers help him find it. If discovered by an enemy such as an octopus, the lobster would swim hurriedly backward as at the top.

He flips his tail underneath him to do this. During the day, the lobster usually hides in some crevice or in a burrow. Now you can see why the feelers are so long.

The lobster holds these outside the burrow and waves them around. If they touch something that seems edible, the lobster jumps out and grabs it.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Check on a lobster's anatomy the next time you see one in a fish market window. If you live in the country, look carefully in a creek bottom and see if you can spot a crayfish. They are much like lobsters in miniature.

Claims North Racially Lax

LANSING (AP)—Striking verbally at Northern white liberals who he claimed pay only lip service to the concept of racial equality, the labor secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said mass demonstrations may spread through the North.

Unless the federal government uses its full power to insure Negro equality in the North, said Labor Secretary Herbert Hill, demonstrations would be staged.

"In the South, we are witnessing an end of an entire social order because the Negro has cast off the brainwashing of the whites," said Hill.

★ ★ ★ ★

"The whole rotten system of white supremacy in the South is finished because a whole generation of young Negroes have had it."

Hill accused the Kennedy Administration of refusing to act decisively in the nation's civil rights crisis.

★ ★ ★

"The full power and authority of the federal government and the White House itself must be invoked on behalf of America's Negro citizens and on behalf of this country's future," he said.

Might Wear Burlap

Boxed in by 'Jackie Look'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Could you please tell me what is the matter with the fashion world today?

I am planning to be married this summer. I have been all over town trying to find a dressy fitted suit in which to be married and there is not one to be had. Everything I have seen has a short boxy jacket, which is too sporty.

Now I am not criticizing Mrs. Jackie Kennedy, because she looks good in short boxy jackets, but why does every woman in the country have to dress like Mrs. Kennedy? ABBY

I am sure I am not the only woman who feels this way. I admire her, but I don't want to dress like her. I will get married in a burlap dress before I buy one of those boxy suits.

Please, Dear Abby, come to our rescue and get the fashion world on the ball so we can have a variety of styles to choose from.

OUT OF VOGUE

DEAR OUT: If a store doesn't have what you want, ask the buyer to order it for you. If he can't order it, find yourself a pattern and make it. If you can't sew — find someone who can.

If you give up and wear a "burlap bag," you'll STILL look like Jackie Kennedy. I understand that's what she's going to be wearing this summer.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am the treasurer of the 11th grade at my school and I sort of lost $42.69, and I don't know what to do. Could you please give me some advice? Thank you.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: As treasurer of the class, the responsibility of the money is yours. Sort of "borrow" it from your father and pay him back if you have to work all summer.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and have been going with this guy for four years. We planned to be married in June but he got his papers to take a physical and, after 21 days, they can draft him any time.

I want to get married, stay home and work until he's out of boot camp, save the allotment checks and then join him when he gets stationed.

He wants to wait two years and then get married. I say if he loves me as much as I love him, he'll marry me now.

It's not a money problem. He has a big sum in the bank.

What do you advise me to do? Please print this. Many of my friends are having the same trouble.

NOT SURE

DEAR NOT: A girl who has to CONVINCE her boy friend that he should marry her is usually sorry if she wins.

★ ★ ★

For a personal, unpublished answer to your letter, write to ABBY, in care of The Pontiac Press.

★ ★ ★

Buy Friend Presents for Setting Hair

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I work as a cashier in a beauty salon. As an employe, I have the privilege of having my hair set free of charge when we are not busy.

I am particularly friendly with one of the operators and she usually does my hair as she knows just how I like it set. Will you please tell me if it would be proper to give her a tip?

I have not been doing so as I thought she might be offended if I offered her one. What do you advise in this situation?

★ ★ ★

A: Rather than give her a tip, it will be best to return these favors by buying her a little something from time to time to show your appreciation.

Q: My wife died three years ago. A little over a year ago I met a very charming widow and we plan to be married in the near future.

I have my first wife's engagement ring (a two-carat diamond) and I would like to know if it would be proper to give this to my future wife for an engagement ring.

A: Most women would feel very strongly against wearing the engagement ring of another woman and my advice is to discuss this with your fiancee and see how she feels about it.

If she has no objection, you should at least have the ring reset for her.

Details concerning the announcing and christening of a baby are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "The New Baby." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Of Churchwomen

Group Elects President

Mrs. Joseph C. Cook Jr. was elected president of the Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church Cranbrook today.

★ ★ ★

Honeymoon in North

Wed at St. Michael

MRS. R. C. CAMPBELL

Parents of the couple are Adam Steinbach, East Rundell, Mrs. Kenneth Cooley, Lake Orion, and the Collin L. Campbells, Bellevue Street.

Sandra Rochon, her cousin's honor maid, and bridesmaids Mrs. Carl Heichel, Mrs. William Donahue and Margaret Steinbach, her sister's junior attendant, wore pastel yellow sheer over taffeta.

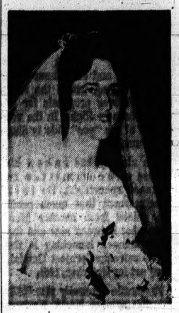
Couple Is Married Before Father Hayes



MRS. JAMES J. WHITLOW

Vows were exchanged between Jacqueline Lee Vess and James J. Whitlow of Stout, before Rev. James Hayes in St. Michael's Church.

★ ★ ★

Parents of the bride are the Jimmy Cloutiers, Blaine. The groom is the son of the Arthur Whitlows, North Perry.

★ ★ ★

BRIDAL PARTY

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

After a reception in the Fraternal Order of Elks club rooms, the couple left for northern Michigan, and later will live in Pontiac.

Train to Stop in City on Way to Convention

Pontiac will be one of the stops on a Detroit-to-St. Paul square dance train to this year's National Square Dance Convention June 20-22 in St. Paul, Minn.

Beginning at the Detroit Grand Trunk Western Railroad station June 19, the train will stop in Royal Oak, Birmingham, Pontiac and other stations en route to Chicago and St. Paul. There will be continuous dancing all the way.

For the return trip the Square Dance Special will leave St. Paul at 1 a.m. (Pontiac time) Sunday with arrival scheduled in Detroit at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Reservations for couples or individuals are available. Further information may be obtained by contacting William Gracey of Gardenia in Royal Oak.

Newlyweds Return From Honeymoon

The bride's attendants included Virginia Hayward, Sharon Holsworth, Pauline McIntyre and Rosanne Hayward.

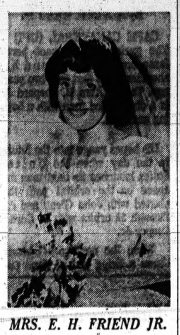
Schedules Meeting

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Covert Methodist Church will meet Wednesday at the church at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Robert Sickles will present a review on one of the works of Katherine Marshall.

At Silvercrest Baptist

Say Marriage Vows



MRS. E. H. FRIEND JR.

The Silvercrest Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Pamela Louise Kesselring to Edward Herbert Friend Jr., followed by a church reception. Rev. Wayne Smith performed the candlelight ceremony.

A pearl-tipped petal caplet secured the bride's veil of nylon net worn with a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta. Her semi-cascade bouquet included white rosebuds, Stephanotis and ivy.

PALE ORCHID

Sandra Kay Kesselring, her sister's honor maid, appeared in a colonial gown of pale orchid chiffon. Their cousin, Patricia Ann Roudabush, was flower girl. Ernest Gehrke carried the rings.

★ ★ ★

Dennis Friend was best man and Gary Friend ushered for their brother. They are sons of the Edward H. Friends, Palmoor, White Lake Township. Also seating guests was the bride's brother James Kesselring.

The newlyweds will live in Pontiac.

Drayton Plains PTA-sponsored school fair will be held Friday from 5 to 8 p.m. Fair chairman is Gale Scafe.

Highlighting the fair will be rides and refreshments including home-made candies and cookies by Girl Scout troops 518 and 28.

Handy Catch-All

A plastic shoe bag hung from the back of the car seat is a good place to keep toys and snacks.

Nancy Ruth Rose Wed to Wilfred Stewart

Dr. Milton Bank officiated at the nuptials of Nancy Ruth Rose to Wilfred Stewart of Harper Woods in Central Methodist Church.

★ ★ ★

MRS. WILFRED STEWART

Re-embroidered imported French lace accented the bride's gown of white silk organza, styled with semi-dome skirt and chapel train. Her bouffant silk-illusion veil was secured by a pearl and crystal tiara. She carried cascading white roses, lilies of the valley and ivy.

AQUAMARINE

Wearing aquamarine mist peau satin with overskirts were Mrs. Charles Hoffman, her sister's honor matron, and bridesmaids Beverly Brooks, Gail Mitchell, and Nancy Ruddock. They carried yellow roses and violets.

On the esquire side were George Cutting Jr., best man, and David Rickett, who ushered with the bride's brothers James and Jerry Rose.

Bringing Up Baby.
HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5
Baby-style "daily dozens" are part and parcel of your little one's physical development. For exercise, like sweet sleep and balanced meals, helps a baby grow and glow. "Setting-ups" your little gymnast will love:
Pre-bath workouts. Let baby kick to his feet's content, minus clothes to hamper his enthusiasm.
Pull-ups. If baby is old enough to hold up his head, take his hands and gently pull him up and down for a minute or two.
Two-way games. As baby gets older, Peek-a-Boo and Pat-a-Cake combine mild exercise with co-ordination.
Self-styled gymnasts also need the helping hand of protein for strength, growth and muscle development. Gerber Strained Meats are high in protein, low in fat and succulent as can be. Only carefully trimmed, Armour cuts are used in these quality meats. Special processing results in utmost protection of valuable nutrients and true-meat flavors, 9 varieties—all pure meat with just enough of their own broth for a wonderfully smooth, moist texture.
"Doing what comes naturally" is the theme song of the creeper. Here's exercise at its best, because practically every muscle in baby's body comes into play. If your daring one has turned creeper, you can provide creeping incentive by giving him a big, bright ball to push and follow. A call from you, from the other side of the room, will set him off on a cheerful scamper to you.
The best-dressed creepers and lap-sitters wear Gerber Baby Pants for protection par excellence. (They make baby ever so socially acceptable on rugs and laps.) Made of silken-soft polyvinyl film that's waterproof, leakproof, acid-proof, they'll stay soft through many washings. For baby's comfort, Gerber Pants are amply cut for free 'n' easy movement. (Creepers appreciate that.) Machine-washable. Gerber Products Co., Box 72, Fremont, Michigan.

Man and Space

Ambition Burning in Shephard

By ALVIN B. WEBB Jr.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The garland of a space hero's fame once hung around his shoulders, but that was two years ago. Today, Alan B. Shepard Jr. is a dissatisfied man with a burning ambition.

★ ★ ★

His hopes range into the future, to the day when the United States launches its next man into space on the orbital path that started with John Glenn and ran through 22 orbits with L. Gordon Cooper Jr.

When the next rocket blasts from a firing pad at Cape Canaveral, it is a cinch that Al Shepard will be aboard. He already has been promised the role as America's next orbiting astronaut.

But in the meantime, the slender Navy commander simply never been one of Al Shepard's must wait. And waiting has strong points. Even now, those who know him realize he is mentally pacing the floor in almost grim, certainly impatient expectation.

PARADOX

Some say the wait already has been too long — so long, in fact, that Shepard's case is something of a paradox:

— He made this nation's first, and perhaps most dangerous because it was the first, when he soared more than 100 miles aboard a Redstone rocket on an "up-and-down" sub-orbital ride.

But the name of America's first space hero has steadily been overshadowed in the subsequent glamour of the orbital voyages.

— Many within the ranks of the Federal Space Agency itself rate Shepard "the best" of the original seven Mercury astronauts. And yet he had to stand on the sidelines four times while other astronauts made all the orbital trips for the United States.

Now the Washington administrative head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is ready to bury project Mercury — and no official yet has stepped forward to explain why Shepard, the man who made the first "textbook" flight, was never given a chance at the program's main goal, the launching of men on orbital flights.

There are a lot of things Shepard is not. He isn't the "all American boy" type of John Glenn, nor the warm and human breed personified by Walter M. Schirra Jr., not the fun-loving kind such as Gordon Cooper.

He is, however, coldly efficient and confident where there are grounds for confidence . . . A man who seems at times almost devoid of emotions, who never seems to become frightened or jittery."

'ICE CUBE'

To some, this adds up to a description of Al Shepard as an "ice cube" or a "human computing machine."

These also could be the qualities of what might be called the "perfect astronaut" — or, as one put it, the "superastronaut."

It has been a long time between shots for Shepard, and the wait has cracked that ice-cold exterior.

★ ★ ★

A strong and sometimes bitter fight is raging within the ranks of NASA over proposals for another Mercury flight. In the vanguard of the "pro" side is Shepard himself.

He already has taken his House subcommittee on manned spaceflight. He told congressmen that much could be gained from another Mercury shot between now and the first manned launching in the two - astronaut project Gemini, now set for Octorber, 1964.

The battle generally pits NASA Houston against NASA Washington, and Shepard's action in getting his case straight to Congress isn't destined to win him many friends in the administrative "upstairs."

POPULARITY

Shepard never has particularly concerned himself with winning popularity contests. His job is first and foremost that of an astronaut in the key role of proving that man can indeed survive and perform usefully in the space frontier.

Right now, Shepard is simply anxious to get on with the job that he can do as well as, if not better than, those who have gone before.

Find Rare Fish in Small Pond in Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP) —A species of fish never before reported each of Montreal in Canada has been found in a small pond on Newfoundland's west coast.

The find was reported by the biology department of Memorial University here which says attempts are being made to find more of the rare fish.

One specimen of the umbra lima — a species of mud minnow — was found in Noels Pond on the Earnest Harmon United States Air Base by U.S. divers working voluntarily with the university in its marine studies.

Who doesn't thrill to the performance of well-trained athletes—and who doesn't admire their physical condition?

But there's serious concern today about the vast majority of our young people who are not athletically gifted and whose physical capabilities are steadily declining.

There's only one solution to this problem. We must provide our children with balanced educational programs to foster full development—intellectual and physical. All it takes are parents and teachers who care.

Find out about the physical education program in your child's school. Don't judge it by varsity activities alone. Rather, find out what it offers average youngsters.

For information about an activity program that could benefit your child, write to The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D.C.

Soft Whiskey, explained.

Or, rather, partially explained. (To protect all our hard work, there are certain things about the distilling and blending of Soft Whiskey that we can't reveal.)

To begin with, Soft Whiskey is as whiskey a whiskey as any whiskey you can buy. But it's the first hard liquor that isn't "hard."

That means no "hard" edge to sting-bite-burn you on the way down. (One of the revealable ways we take off that "hard" edge is by doing some of our distilling in small batches, instead of the usual large batch method.)

It's a pleasure to drink this 86 proof whiskey straight—there's no heat in it to detract from your enjoyment. Just warmth. The flavor is rich and full, yet it swallows easy. In mixed drinks, it doesn't fight the mixer. It blends smoothly, yet doesn't lose itself.

Distillers have been working on the Soft Whiskey Idea for years. But until recently it was only a pipe-dream. Nobody was able to produce it. At our distillery alone, there were more than 22,000 experiments before we hit it. That's a lot of trial and error. (Anybody who wants to reproduce Soft Whiskey is welcome to try. Lots of luck.)

Before you sample Calvert Extra, the Soft Whiskey, there's something else you ought to know: you may never touch a drop of "hard" liquor again. $4.36 Fifth

School Unit to Consider Tax Rate

Establishment of a tax rate for 1963-64 for the Pontiac School District will be considered at 8 p.m. Thursday by the board of education.

School Supt. Dana P. Whitmer will propose a tax rate that takes into account the potential effect of the appeal by General Motors Corp. of its assessed valuation.

The auto firm has appealed to the Michigan Tax Commission on its assessed valuation. General Motors claims its valuation was assessed $32 million higher than it should be.

Whitmer's proposed tax rate will consider the effect of a loss of $32 million in assessed valuation. This, in essence, means the tax base would be lower than anticipated and could raise the school tax rate.

The school board will also receive bids on the purchase of bakery and dairy products for the 1963-64 school year.

In addition, the school board will receive two reports on current school programs. Firstly, a report on the purpose and objectives of the guidance and counselling program will be presented board members.

Secondly, the administration of inter-scholastic athletics will be outlined to the seven-member school board.

Election inspectors and their rate of pay for the annual school election June 10 will be determined by the school board.

Workers must be selected for all 20 school precincts. Usually, three or four workers are needed for each precinct.

Three Seeking Two Posts in Waterford School Election

Three candidates are vying for the two four-year term vacancies on the Waterford Township School Board in next Monday's election.

Mrs. Barningham, 55, is a graduate of Albion College and a former speech teacher in the Pontiac and Royal Oak school systems.

The mother of two, she is a past president of the Donelson School PTA. Mrs. Barningham also has served on the Parent-Teachers Board and the Parent-Student-Teacher Association Board.

Mrs. Barningham polled the highest number of votes in 1960 when nine candidates contested for two three-year terms on the board.

Luehmann, 46, is personnel director of Pontiac State Hospital. He is a graduate of Elmhurst College, Elmhurst, Ill.

A resident of the township for six years, Luehmann is married and has three children. This is his first candidacy for public office.

A five-year Army veteran, Luehmann served as an officer in North Africa, Italy and France.

Porter, 45, is sales manager for Michigan Bell Telephone Co. He is married, has four children and has lived in the township five years.

Also seeking public office for the first time, Porter is past president of the Pontiac Exchange Club and president of the Lake Oakland Heights Subdivision Association.

Sees Effect of Experiments, Trends

Pontiac School Chief Views the Future

By GARY THORNE

"A lot of our problems today are rooted in ignorance. If people are really going to live as free men, they must have greater perception, insight, and understanding."

★ ★ ★

This is the view of veteran educator Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac superintendent of schools.

Dr. Whitmer, who has nine years at the helm of Pontiac's educational mill, took a practical look at what lays ahead for public school systems. He indicated trends and outlined current experiments that may change what goes on in tomorrow's classrooms.

The school chief pointed to several areas where Pontiac education is in the midst of new ideas, radical changes, and pilot programs touching nearly every aspect of learning.

The concept of 30 students and one teacher is already on the way out, according to Dr. Whitmer. He pointed to two experiments, one at Pontiac Northern High School and the other at Madison Junior High School that forecast a change in the 30-to-1 classroom situation.

★ ★ ★

He said experiments have shown that some subjects can be taught in larger groups, while others need smaller numbers than even the 30 found in the average classroom.

'BEST PROCEDURE'

One experiment at Pontiac Northern features 90 seniors who operate as a unit. These students, who constitute a three-year pilot project, may attend a lecture as a group of 90, then gather in small discussion groups of a dozen or so, and then go on to independent research in the library.

A related trial program at Madison Junior High has an English and social studies teacher combining instruction for two hours daily.

Under this arrangement, Whitmer said, a written paper is graded by the English teacher for grammar, punctuation, and spelling, while the same paper is graded by the social studies instructor for its content.

Whitmer said other experiments in team teaching are going on throughout the Pontiac system. He expects the experiments to continue.

He cited the use of television instruction, teaching machines, and foreign language instruction for elementary students as new programs that will be developed further in the immediate future.

★ ★ ★

The content of what is taught is constantly changing. Dr. Whitmer expects teaching procedures will become more scientific. This will change the content of textbooks and may mean the retraining of teachers.

★ ★ ★

"The trend," he explained, "is to pinpoint learning difficulties and arrange instruction to help the child overcome the problem."

MORE SCIENTIFIC

Teaching, according to Dr. Whitmer, is tending to become more and more scientific. Team teaching, he said, will spread teacher talents and in effect give the student an expert in the subject he is taking.

★ ★ ★

The former Ohio school principal said methods of teaching are always changing with new approaches being tried. He expects this trend to grow and prosper as teaching becomes more scientific.

Dr. Whitmer said schools will exert even more effort in the future on the most gifted student and the poorer pupil.

He said the role of vocational education has drastically changed and will continue to as jobs in industry change. Teaching will constantly change to give students the skills to handle the jobs available.

★ ★ ★

On school administration, Dr. Whitmer expressed four forecasts. Firstly, he said the school year as it now stands is almost certain to be eliminated.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac superintendent predicted summer vacations might be shortened to two weeks every few months rather than the long vacation under the present arrangement.

The biggest obstacle to year-round school operation, according to Whitmer, is money. He said expenses would rise in line with the greater use of school buildings and personnel.

SUPPLEMENTARY TAXES

Secondly, Whitmer qestioned just how long the property tax could carry the load of the school system. He guessed that supplementary taxes might be needed in the future.

A third trend, according to the Pontiac educator, is the consolidation of smaller school districts. Small schools, he added, are on the way out.

"There will always be some,"

DANA P. WHITMER

A fourth change in school administration related by Whitmer foresees the changing relationship between school boards and teachers.

Whitmer said this was kicked off by the New York teacher strike. He said change is inevitable.

★ ★ ★

Although the matter is not a local problem, the school chief predicted that the relationship between school boards and teachers would change to guarantee teachers the right to be heard and their proposals considered.

This "right of hearing" will vary between school districts, but is a definite trend.

TWO GROUPS

In most school districts, including Pontiac, teachers belong to one of two groups, the National Education Association or the American Federation of Teachers.

★ ★ ★

These two groups differ on their approaches to wages, hours, and working conditions. The NEA calls its bargaining with school boards "professional negotiations," while the AFT is more apt to take the industrial union approach.

Pontiac has both groups and Whitmer said the two organizations have "right of hearing." Whitmer expects the new relationships to extend to every school district.

Dr. Whitmer, after almost a decade as head of Pontiac schools and with more than a quarter century in education, reflects an "exciting" outlook for public education.

He appears to be thrilled and more than a little impressed with some of the changes that lay around the corner.

Pope's Name to Live Forever in North Italian Homeland

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Bennet M. Bolton, an AP Vatican has followed closely the reign correspondent for two years, of Pope John XXIII.

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In the Bergamo region of northern Italy, they will never forget Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli.

He was the boy who walked 12 miles a day to and from school. He was the tenant farmer's son who went out into the world.

He became Pope John XIII.

★ ★ ★

Between Bergamo and the Alps in the village of Sotto il Monte (Under the Mountain)—his name will live forever.

★ ★ ★

It will live in a seminary built on farmland that once belonged to his family. It will live in the house where he grew up, which will be transformed into a museum as a memorial to him.

His name will live in the hearts of the thousands of Bergamaschi who met Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli on his pilgrimages home before he became Pope, and on their own pilgrimages to Rome after he became Pope.

NEVER FORGOT

They never forgot him—and he never forgot them.

★ ★ ★

It seasoned his personality and marked him before all the world a man of humility and simplicity. The northern farms and green fields were vivid and constant in his thoughts.

★ ★ ★

Pope Pius XII used to stand still before acclaiming crowds, his arms extended low and motionless in aristocratic pose. Pope John's typical gesture was the gentle motion of upraised palms—the warm greeting of the Bergamo peasant.

★ ★ ★

The molding of the "Pope of unity and peace" began in rustic surroundings among deeply religious people 30 miles northeast of Milan where the lower Alps begin their clim into skyscrapers of icy rock.

★ ★ ★

Upon Angelo Roncalli's birth on Nov. 25, 1881, his uncle Zaverio carried him from the baptismal font to the Madonna's statue in the Sotil Monte parish church.

WILL BECOME PRIEST

The story in the Roncalli family is that the old man held out the newly christened infant in his arms and said: "This child will become a priest."

★ ★ ★

Years later, upon the proclamation that Cardinal Roncalli had been chosen supreme pontiff, his brother Alfredo exclaimed: With all the priests they get from this area it had to hpapen soemtime."

In the 1500s Marino Roncalli had brought his family down from the high mountains to the edge of Sotto il Monte — present population 1,800. He drained a bog below the hill, built a small home and tilled the reclaimed fields as a tenant of a wealthy landowner.

★ ★ ★

His descendants did the same. Angelo Roncalli was the third of 13 children born to peasant farmer Giovanni Battista Roncalli. Ten of them lived to maturity. Angelo was the quiet one in the big family. His outlook was happy, despite his seriousness, never was one to lose his temper. His manner was open and coridal. He was robust, and before his final illness his brothers recalled that they had never known him to be sick.

INFLUENCED BY UNCLE

Uncle Zaverio was a well-read man with a collection of good books. He influenced young Angelo greatly.

Angelo at 6 was serving Mass as an altar boy. He spent three years in the Sotto il Monte elementary school, then began to study under Don Bolls, pastor at the village of Carvico close by.

Father Bolls sent the Roncalli boy to the diocesan school at Celana, near Bergamo.

Angelo Roncalli walked 6 miles twice a day, to and from the school. An enthusiastic student, he narrated his day's adventures to his mother, Maria Anna, each evening.

He began a habit he was to continue for years. He would read aloud to parents or relatives the day's events from newspapers and periodicals, whenever he was home on vacation.

HUNGRY FOR NEWS

He was always hungry for news of home when his three living brothers would make their annual visit to the Vatican. He would question them: How were things going at the farm? How were the crops and the soil? How was this aged widow or that woman's nephew who had just entered a seminary?

This trait revealed not only strong familial ties but fondness for the journalist's life. Newsmen at one of the Pope's early audiences heard him say: "If I had not become a priest I would have been a journalist like you."

His brother Zaverio, 18 months younger, has said that Pope John's memory for the names and faces of home was remarkable. The Pope once began a litany of surnames and family relationships, many of them from 40 years in the past, at an audience for a group of his townspeople.

When he was 80, he could recall for his brother the exact shelf positions of favorite books he had placed in his library during his young priesthood in the north.

IN SEMINARY AT 11

When he was 11, he entered the diocesan seminary at Bergamo. He was a model seminarian. But nothing pleased him more on his visits home than to play cards with his brothers or go with them for a day's picnic in the cool shade of the woods.

★ ★ ★

In 1900, after eight years at the Bergamo Seminary, Angelo Roncalli was sent on a scholarship to Rome to the Cerasoli College, the pontifical Roman seminary.

To avoid losing three years to military conscription in his preparation for the priesthood, the seminarian from Bergamo volunteered in 1901 for a year in the Italian army. He was an infantry sergeant—with a flowing dark mustache — when he left the service.

★ ★ ★

Father Roncalli went back to Bergamo. He left forever his seminary room, overlooking an ancient little square, in the Eternal City that would one day know him as its bishop and as supreme pontiff of the world's half billion Roman Catholics.

Commission Slates Hearing on Tax Rate

An amendment which would establish the city's 1963 tax rate is slated for public hearing and adoption at tonight's City Commission meeting at 8.

Preparation of the amendment to Pontiac's annual budget appropriation ordinance was ordered by a resolution passed at last week's meeting.

The resolution authorized City Assessor Edward Bloe to establish a tax rate on the city's total assessed valuation as equalized —which would produce a 1363 tax levy of $4,483,852.

Tonight's amendment is expected to set the tax rate at about $14.65 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. That would be about 79 cents per $1,000 higher than last year's tax rate.

The proposed total tax levy is $169,612 higher than the levy originally called for in the appropriation ordinance adopted in January.

However, due to an increase in the city's tax base, a $14.65 tax rate would be about 33 cents lower than the $14.98 per $1,000 rate established in the original ordinance last January.

In other business tonight, action is slated on a resolution approving an agreement with the Oakland County Department of Public Works for sewage service to the new city water plant.

Under the agreement, the city would tap into county sewer mains running near the site at South Boulevard and Opdyke.

Public hearings are scheduled on special assessment rolls for proposed resurfacing and curb repair projects on Menominee and Owego.

A petition asking that the city vacate an alley north of West Huron between Lincoln and Thorpe will also be presented to commissioners for consideration.

ROBERT C. TRICKER

Insurance Man Dies at Age 48

Robert C. Tricker, owner and operator of Tricker Insurance Agency, died late yesterday of a heart condition. He was 48.

A memorial Communion service will be observed at 10 a.m. Thursday in All Saints Episcopal Church. Funeral service will follow at 11 a.m. with burial in Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Arrangements are by the Huntoon Funeral Home.

Mr. Tricker, a past president of Pontiac Civitan Club, had served the organization as lieutenant governor of the Civitan's Great Lakes District.

Mr. Tricker of 204 Dick, Waterford Township, was a member of All Saints Church and had been a member of the city's civic improvement commission.

Elect President of Catholic Group

The election of Donald MacKinnon, of 25686 Ridgewood, Farmington Township, as president of the Catholic Social services of Oakland County, was announced last night at the agency's annual dinner meeting at Stouffer's Northland Inn.

Also elected to first terms were Royal Oak residents Adolph F. Klein, 1st vice president; and Ivan E. Garske, 2nd vice president.

Re-elected were Michael Capo of Royal Oak, treasurer; and Rev. John A. Trese, secretary.

★ ★ ★

Rev. Trese is also director of Catholic Social Services of Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

Retiring board members Dr. Z. F. Endress, of 1790 Tiverton, Bloomfield Hills, and John R. Slavsky, of 4730 Dow Ridge, Orchard Lake, received meritorious service awards. Each served 10 years on the board of directors.

20-Year-Old Girl Dies in a Canoe Accident

BERRIEN SPRINGS (AP) — Carletta Denton, 20, of Berrien Springs, drowned yesterday in a canoe accident on Lake Chapin which is formed by a dam on the St. Joseph River.

★ ★ ★

Berrien County sheriff's officers said the girl was in a canoe with three teen-age companions when the canoe capsized. The others made their way to safety.

Of Waterford Board

Lake Residents Ask Support

Residents of Williams Lake last night appealed to the Waterford Township Board to support their efforts to raise the present low water level on the lake.

The request for assistance came after the board meeting had been adjourned. The lake level matter will be on the agenda of next Monday's meeting.

Lee Kaines, spokesman for a delegation of Williams Lake homeowners, suggested that a formal resolution by the board might be helpful in promoting county action on what he termed an "emergency situation."

Kaines said the lake level is two feet below that of adjoining Maceday Lake and one foot below the absolute minimum standard.

On May 24, some 75 Williams Lake residents dug a 50-foot trench, about 4 feet deep, between Williams and Maceday Lakes and were about to drill through a cement plug when police stopped the attempt to let water seek its level.

Since then, a Circuit Court petition to prevent Oakland County officials from closing the drain between the lakes was filed by John E. McGrath, attorney for the Williams Lake group.

Kaines, who showed a movie on the layout of the lakes following the board meeting, said his group has been trying for ten years to have the county remove a connecting plug between the lakes.

Kaines suggested that the county could begin controlling lake levels by negotiating for a privately owned dam at Andersonville Road and Dixie Highway.

★ ★ ★

In other business, the board opened bids from three firms on new police cars and referred the bids to the supervisor and clerk for study. A report is due at next Monday's meeting.

Bids on three new cars with a trade-in of two old cars ranged from $4,904.50 to $6,535.69.

Bids on four new cars with a trade-in of two old cars varied from $7,026 to $9,030.92.

★ ★ ★

Action on a proposed amendment to the township food handlers ordinance dealing with outside displays was deferred until next week.

Justice Douglas Flares on Water Rights Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

SHARP DISSENT: Whatever may go on behind closed doors, Supreme Court justices rarely let their feelings slip into public view during the oral announcement of decisions.

Monday was one such occasion as Justice William O. Douglas ripped into the reasoning and writing of Justice Hugo L. Black, a fellow New Deal veteran who, with Douglas, forms the nucleus of the court's liberal wing.

As the senior judge in point of service, Black was presiding in the absence of Chief Justice Earl Warren, who is in Spain. With evident pride, Black read the court's opinion—written by him—that upheld most of Arizona's claims in a 40-year-old fight with California over the waters of the Colorado River.

Douglas then read his dissent. His voice rising occasionally in near anger, he called Black's opinion "a committee report rather than an opinion worthy of this court."

Noting that the decision was 52 pages long, Douglas said: "The advantage of a long opinion is that it's very difficult to see how they fail to reach the right result. You get lost in the words."

FALLOUT: A Weather Bureau fallout expert says measurements through May point to a doubling of worldwide levels of strontium 90 this year.

The amount of the bone-destroying radioactive material that reaches earth, Dr. Lester Machta told the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee Monday, depends greatly on rainfall. Because the east has more rain than the western part of the country it has larger amounts of strontium 90, he said.

Another witness, Dr. Paul C. Tompkins, executive director of the Federal Radiation Council, said there is no indication that fallout from nuclear weapons tests has reached a level harmful to human life.

JOHNSON: The Communists can't compete with the West because they put the value of human life below that of their system of government, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said today.

Johnson said in a speech prepared for the presidential safety awards ceremony that Maj. L. Gordon Cooper Jr.'s 22-orbit flight gave the world a "34-hour short course" in how much the United States values the life of a single individual.

"On that flight, the world's strongest nation admittedly had its prestige on the line," he said. "Billions of dollars and millions of man-hours had been invested to make the flight possible. Yet among every man, woman and child of our 180 million Americans, the first concern — the one concern — was for the life and safety of the man.

"Is it any wonder that other political systems must build walls to prevent their people from seeking sanctuary in a free world led by a nation which values so highly the priceless life of a lone individual? These other political systems place the value of human life below the systems themselves—and they cannot afford to expose their people to the contrast with the free world."

Safety awards went to the Navy, General Services Administration, Atomic Energy Commission, Air Force, Department of Commerce and Railroad Retirement Board.

Moslem Sect Clash Kills 120, Injures 26

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Police reported that 120 persons were killed and 26 injured today in a clash between Shiite and Sunni Moslems in a village 250 miles north of Karachi.

The Shiite Moslems reject the first three caliphs — the first three rulers of the church after the Prophet Mohammed died —and recognize the prophet's son-in-law as his true successor. The Sunnis are Orthodox Moslems.

A police report said "miscreants" interfered with a Shiite religious procession. An enraged mob of Shiites then set fire to the village of Thari, and followers of both sects rioted.

The police fired tear gas shells to restore order.

EARLIER CLASH

Two people were killed and several injured in a similar clash yesterday in Lahore. Later 180 persons were arrested and a 12-hour curfew was imposed.

★ ★ ★

In neighboring Iran, Shiite religious processions turned into anti-government demonstrations with between 15,000 and 20,000 marching on the university in Tehran. Troops kept them off the campus and also away from the royal palace and the government radio.

There have been Shiite observances for the past three days commemorating the opening of the sect's month of mourning for their founder.

The last head of the Shiites died in 1960 and the public observances were also intended to proclaim Ayatullah Mhomaini as new head of the religious group.

★ ★ ★

Iranian government sources said conservative Shiite clergy who oppose the shah's land reform and rights for women programs were turning the religious observances into political demonstrations.

Fire Fighters Plan Institute

Emergency rescue equipment will be demonstrated by Pontiac fire fighters Thursday at the fourth annual Oakland County Fire Prevention Institute at Pontiac State Hospital.

The 7 p.m. program is open to the public.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the outdoor program, Capt. Theodore E. Peters, fire prevention chief for Delco-Remy Division of the General Motors Corp., will give a talk entitled The Chemistry of Fire and Techniques of Fire Prevention."

★ ★ ★

The institute is conducted to promote fire prevention among those responsible for the fire safety of villages, townships, home and industry. It is sponsored by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce Fire Committee.

★ ★ ★

An acetylene cutting torch, a portable electric saw and a hydraulic jack will be used by a team of four firemen, directed by Capt. Al Rayner, to show the emergency methods sometimes required to rescue persons trapped in an automobile.

Navy N-Ship Model on Display in City

A 38-foot model of the Navy's first nuclear-powered surface ship, the USS Long Beach, will be on display downtown through Wednesday.

The replica of the 720-foot, 14,000-ton cruiser will be on view on Huron between Wayne and Saginaw during the daylight hours, according to Pontiac Navy recruiter, Chief Boatswain's Mate Robert L. Scott Jr.

The Long Beach is powered by two reactors, allowing her to travel at better than 30 knots an hour. The almost unlimited-range cruiser is armed with two types of missiles, the Terrier and the Talos.

To Issue Bike Licenses in Waterford Schools

Sgt. Dave Putnam of the Waterford Township police department will begin issuing bicycle licenses tomorrow at the township's elementary schools.

Barely Wins Race

Treasury Keeps to Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury barely won the race to keep within the old $305-billion national debt ceiling.

Today's Treasury statement disclosed that at the close of business last Wednesday, the debt had risen to $305,046,825,924.55.

This was just a few hours after President Kennedy had signed legislation increasing the debt ceiling to $307 billion for the remainder of the fiscal year which ends June 30.

The ceiling then will go up to $309 billion for July and August.

In testimony before the Senate Finance Committee May 23, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon predicted that the Treasury would be unable to stay within the $305-billion ceiling through last Wednesday.

Officially, the old ceiling was not pierced until about 4:30 p.m. last Wednesday, the close of the bookkeeping day.

As one Treasury official expressed it, "we just made it by the scruff of our neck."

Burglars Get Away With Golf Club Loot

Burglars surprised by police at the Bob O'Link Golf Club in Novi early this morning absconded with about $1,200 worth of new golfing equipment.

Novi patrolmen Roy Hallock and Ralph Arbour interrupted the culprits in the pro shop of the club house at Grand River Avenue and 12-Mile Road about 3:45 this morning.

As the police went in the back door, the burglars escaped through the front of the building, leaving much of their loot on the back oprch, police said.

Solons Okay Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today unanimously approved a compromise bill carrying a two-year, $20-million authorization for the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

The committee, at the request of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., reconsidered last week's approval of a $15-million authorization for the two-year period.

Humphrey said that he and other supporters of the agency had thought last week that they were voting for a $30-million authorization for two years — $15 million a year.

He went along with the new figure of $20 million for two years, subject to appropriations by Congress.

Humphrey said $15 million, spread over two years, "would not be adequate for the agency to do its job."

Remarriage Up to 'Personal Opinion'

Rockefeller Still Eyes GOP Ballot Spot

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller said today he still considered himself among the ranks of potential candidates for the Republican nomination for president next year.

He said he did not accept the view that his recent marriage had diminished his prospects of winning it.

The question of whether his marriage would prove a political liability was a matter for "the personal opinion" of individual voters, Rockefeller said at his first general news conference since his remarriage.

But he also said that, in reaching a decision on whether he would wage an active campaign for the nomination, he would consider "all the factors" and reach a decision he considered to be in the best interests of the country.

The governor's marriage to the former Margaretta (Happy) Murphy—after the first marriages of each ended in divorce—brought on widespread controversy and some criticism.

In an unusually candid 40-minute news conference, Rockefeller said that custody arrangements for his wife's four children by her previous marriage, ranging in age from 3 to 12, were being worked out by Mrs. Rockefeller and her first husband, and "things are going extremely well."

BEST INTEREST

He said the discussions were being conducted in the best interests of the children and with the thought they should be kept out of public eye.

At one point, Rockefeller said that his wife would not be with him on all his official trips because she would want to "stay home with the children part of the time," indicating that Mrs. Rockefeller will have at least partial custody.

The governor and his new wife returned to public life Monday. Her official appearance at a formal dinner Monday night won her such tributes as lovely, charming and friendly.

The governor and his wife each received standing ovations as they were introduced to an audience of 400 at the dinner, sponsored by a local committee working to rehabilitate the capital city.

Dems OK Road Payments Over Romney's Objections

LANSING (AP) — The Democratic State Administrative Board today approved three State Highway Department requests for payments to contractors for overruns or extra charges, over the objections of Gov. George Romney.

★ ★ ★

The three items amounting to some $150,000 all involved work on the I-94 expressway in Berrien County.

The governor, in a dispute with Highway Commissioner John Mackie, had held up the payments since shortly after he took office, asking for a more complete report on the extra charges.

The governor did not vote in the matter. The members of the all-Democratic State Administrative Board swung the approval.

"Payments of such over-runs as these can place in jeopardy our entire process of open competitive bidding on state contracts," the governor said.

"In these cases, it appears that more than $150,000 of tax money is being paid to contractors where the state appears to have no obligations to pay and gets nothing in return."

Involved were the payment of $69,979 to a pair of joint contractors — the Canonie Construction Co. of South Haven and the H. F. Stukey Co. of Coldwater — and separate payments of $59,865 and $21,064 to the Garavalia Construction Co. of Warren.

The first payment, to Canonie and Stukey, was for upgrading aggregate stockpiled over the winter and rejected by state inspectors as below standard.

Romney said this kind of payment was unheard of in Michigan until another firm, the Hallow Construction Co. of Livonia, was awarded a similar payment of more than $100,000 last fall.

The largest payment to Garavaglia was for hauling in more aggregate to replace rejected material in the same kind of a situation.

The other payment to Garvaglia was for premium time to expedite construction. Romney said he could not approve this, especially since the job was not finished until 14 months after the completion date specified in the contract.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads has refused to approve such payments, the governor said, and he cannot approve them either.

Set Arraignment for Bridegroom

William R. Blevin, a 46-year-old bridegroom charged with armed robbery in connection with a supermarket holdup in Birmingham Saturday, will be arraigned in circuit court Monday.

Blevin waived preliminary examination before Justice of the Peace Edward B. Emery yesterday and was bound over to Circuit Court.

The Detroit man was apprehended by an off-duty policeman 15 minutes after the holdup at the Wrigley Super Market, 1855 S. Woodward—two hours after his wedding.

'Should Avoid Long-Term Mortgages'

Goehler E. Ohmart, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Indianapolis, speaking before the Pontiac Board of Realtors last night, said that the time was approaching when lending companies should avoid long-term mortgages.

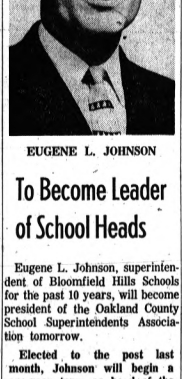
Ohmart said that the trend toward lower down payments and longer maturities was favorable during the housing shortage immediately following World War II, but was questionable on today's balanced market.

He pointed out that of the 108 institutional lenders that made mortgages in Oakland County last year, 25 savings and loan associations accounted for 40 per cent, or about $60 million, of the total mortgage volume.



EUGENE L. JOHNSON

To Become Leader of School Heads

Eugene L. Johnson, superintendent of Bloomfield Hills Schools for the past 10 years, will become president of the Oakland County School Superintendents Association tomorrow.

Elected to the post last month, Johnson will begin a one-year term as head of the 40-member organization at a luncheon meeting at the Birmingham Community House.

Payroll Listed for Aides of State Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles R. Perrin, administrative assistant to Sen. Pat McNamara, D-Mich., received $4,699 in salary for the first three months of this year, Senate payroll records show.

★ ★ ★

William B. Welsh, administrative assistant to Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., drew $4,298 for the same period.

The report lists 18 employes on McNamara's staff and 22 for Hart.

Other McNamara staffers, with their salaries for the 3-month period, include Edwin N. Winge, assistant clerk, $4,128; Harold D. Beaton, clerk; $3,818; and Lucille R. Wendt, $2,236.

Other Hart employes, with their salaries for the same period, include Fred B. Burke, executive, $3,987; Muriel Ferris, research assistant, $3,987; and Gerald J. Kabel, press secretary, $3,621.

Landry's Kin Struck by Car

A brother of Mayor Robert A. Landry was severely injured yesterday when he ran in front of a car on a city street.

★ ★ ★

In serious condition at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital with fractures and abrasions is Leo J. Landry, 58, of 86 Parkhurst.

Landry was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Lloyd Seelye, 72, of Boyne City, when he attempted to cross Auburn near Center shortly before 5 p.m.

Mrs. Seelye told police that she saw him walking across the street but when he got to the center line he ran into the path of the car.

Landry said he thought he could make it across the street.

The car was traveling about 20 mile an hour when it struck Landry, according to police.

Detroit Man Hurt in Auto Accident

A Detroit man was seriously injured yesterday when his car hit a bridge abutment in Lyon Township.

Floyd A. Tietz, 45, suffered a crushed chest and internal injuries and head and leg lacerations, according to a spokesman at University Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Brighton State police said Tietz was traveling north on Milford Road at 4 a. m. when his car left the highway and hit the concrete railing on the I-96 overpass.

Pontiac Man Fined for Reckless Driving

A Pontiac man whose car overturned while leading police on a high-speed chase Saturday night was fined $100 in Municipal Court yesterday for reckless driving.

Garl L. Hart, 22, of 656 E. Madison, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Maurice Finnegan. Hart also was ordered off the road for 30 days.

Chicago Race Problem Getting Hotter

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Racial segregation is not confined to the "deep south." In the north, cities across the nation have reported evidence of anger and frustration over the issue.)

By DAVID SMOTHERS

CHICAGO (UPI)—Racial tensions are nothing new to the nation's second-largest city, but this spring, civil rights leaders sense a mounting tide of impatience in the air which could lead to serious trouble in the weeks ahead.

* * *

If racial conflicts do explode here, they are likely to do so during the summer, which Chicago Urban League Director Edwin C. Berry calls "the riot season."

"Chicagoans are sitting on a tinder box and they very narrowly missed an explosion in the last few weeks," said Berry in a warning to the Urban League's board of directors.

"The mood is more critical than at any time I've ever seen it. This mood will be very serious this summer as long as we don't do anything about it.

IMMEDIATE ACTION

"We need to take immediate action in a crash type of program related to equality of opportunity in jobs, housing and education.

"We currently live in an unjust society, racially speaking, and the ingredients of this racial unrest are always present.

"When anything happens—like the Birmingham situation or like the gathering of the mob on the southwest side when there was supposed to be a Negro moving in—any little thing like that can touch it off."

Berry was frankly uneasy as he looked forward to the summer months.

"Unemployment among Negroes is high," he said. "School will be letting out soon. To have any serious interracial problems, two things are necessary — segregation and good weather. Anyone would be a fool to fight in the rain."

Berry and other experts in the field agree Chicago's race problem is longstanding and it is growing. The ground roots of the problem can be told in statistics:

—Of the 3.5 million inhabitants of metropolitan Chicago listed in the 1960 U.S. census, 813,000 were Negro.

—The 1950 U.S. census listed 3.6 million persons in Chicago, 492,000 of them Negro. This meant Chicago's Negro population had climbed 65 per cent in 10 years while the overall population had dropped.

—Of the city's 813,000 Negroes, 520,000 live in the south side area nine miles long and three miles wide known as "the black belt." Of the rest, the overwhelming majority also live in all-Negro pockets. This is the situation which has led some to describe Chicago as the nation's most segregated city.

—Seventy-five per cent of the persons on county relief rolls are Negro.

These figures add up to trouble in the vital areas of housing, education and jobs.

The housing issue is touchiest. Chicago Negroes and whites may often work side-by-side, but they rarely live side by side except in the tense neighborhoods where the "black belt" is growing.

And it is growing constantly as a steady tide of job-seeking Negroes from the South pours into the slums at the core of the "black belt."

In case after case, Negroes with the money to afford good housing must move into white neighborhoods to find it. Over and over again, the whites leave and the neighborhood becomes all-Negro. Bitterness remains behind.

If the trend continues and Negroes cannot break out into the suburbs surrounding the city, sociologists warn that Chicago could become a predominately Negro city by 1975.

Jobs are hard to find for the unskilled newcomers. In many cases, Negro parents say they can't find the schools they want.

The issue of "de facto segregation"—schools which are all-white or all-Negro because the school districts follow neighborhood lines—has flared into lawsuits, sit-in demonstrations, and a mounting controversy on the Chicago school board.

Katy Jurado Divorces Ernest Borgnine in LA

The wife, sobbing, told the judge:

"I love him but he was always complaining . . . he complained that I loved my children and my career more than him . . . and nothing I did was right."

JFK Will Use 'Old Ironsides' as Flagship

BOSTON (AP) — The frigate "Old Ironsides" reportedly will be President Kennedy's flagship when he reviews an international array of sailing ships at the New York World's Fair in 1964.

The Boston Globe said yesterday that the USS Constitution, built in 1797 and the oldest commissioned vessel in the world, will be taken from Boston to New York next year by authorization of either the Navy department or the President himself.

Oldtime sailing ships will comprise "Operation Sail, 1964," and will be reviewed by the Chief Executive as they ply past the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor.

* * *

Twenty - one nations have been invited to send sailing vessels to the World's Fair.

The Constitution, which won its nickname during the War of 1812 because of its ruggedness, has been the center of a month-long controvery over whether it should be taken to New York in a floating dry dock as part of the Massachusetts World's Fair exhibit.

Somebody Has to Do Dishes

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Somebody has got to wash the dishes There's no getting around that.

WEST

Let us keep this in mind as we proceed now to look further into the question of whether American women are victims of a conspiracy to keep them "trapped in endless and empty housewifery."

In a recent debate before the Women's National Press Club here, a strong case for the affirmative was presented by Mrs. Betty Friedan, author of a new book entitled "The Feminine Mystique."

What I regard as an equally strong case for the negative was made by Robert Stein, editor of Redbook Magazine and one of the targets of Mrs. Friedan's attack.

* * *

It was the balanced weight of the two arguments that I found disturbing. If this thing ends in a tie, the sink is going to get awfully full.

As I understand Mrs. Friedan, she passionately believes that women should not have a choice between homemaking and a career. They should have both.

Mrs. Friedan charged that women's magazines, such as the one edited by Stein, are trying to sell the ladies a bill of goods on staying at home to empty the ashtrays rather than working a 9-to-5 shift at the poolhall.

* * *

Or, as she put it, "taking a full and equal place in society."

'NOT SO'

Stein said that wasn't so. He agreed "It's wrong to try to convince every woman that she will find fulfillment in having babies and baking bread."

But he said, "It's equally wrong to try to convince every woman that she will find fulfillment in practicing a profession or pursuing a career."

All of this started me to wondering why it is that such discussions always involve the woman's place in home versus career.

* * *

In all my life I have never heard of a man giving up a job to get married. Oftentimes, the opposite is true.

The magazines seem to take it for granted that men are capable of holding down a job without interference with their roles as husbands and fathers.

FOSTER ILLUSION

We men may foster this illusion to keep from having to do the dishes, but down deep in our hearts we know it isn't true.

I myself probably would be president of General Motors today were it not for the fact that I chose to devote myself to my family instead.

I am not sorry I did it. I'm not complaining one bit. I just think the magazines should be more understanding, that's all.

'Big Three' Out of Buick

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Big names from Hollywood will be in the field Wednesday afternoon at Warwick Hills, but when the Buick Open officially opens Thursday, the biggest names in golf will be missing.

Unhappy tournament officials have accepted the fact that the "Big Three" of pro golf, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player did not have their entries in by the six o'clock deadline yesterday.

Also missing are Billy Casper and Doug Sanders. Casper was the winner of the first Buick Open in 1958.

The tournament now resembles a Hollywood celebrities event. Much of the glamor will take place in Wednesday's pro-am which will have a purse of $3,500.

Arnett, halfback of the LA Rams, carries a seven handicap; Kelly of the Maverick show has a 10 and Bolger gets 12 strokes. Crosby, is one of Bing's twin sons. He and Bob Rosburg teamed to win the pro-am in the Seattle Open, while Sterling and Wilkie, of movie villain fame, have won the Entertainment Field tournament.

★ ★ ★

A total of 141 amateurs, including the celebrities, are expected to compete with the pros for the pro-am Wednesday.

LEMA FAVORED

With the biggest names missing, the role of favorite rests with the current number two money winner, Tony Lema, enjoying his best year on the pro tour.

Lema, in his 8th year as a pro, won the $9,000 first prize in the Memphis Open two weeks ago and was runnerup over the weekend in the 500 Festival. This pushed his earnings to $47,696, second only to Nicklaus.

Dow Finsterwald, winner of the Indianapolis tourney; Mike Souchak and Julius Boros, who is having a hot streak on the circuit and defending champ Billy Collins are among the other favorites.

The tournament has been decorated with additional features this year, including a $50,000 for a hole in one plus the $33,250-plus hole in one contest on Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The hole-in-one sweepstakes will be televised between 4:00-5:00 p.m. Saturday on Channel 4 and the finals of the tournament will be carried live from 3:30 to 5:00 p. m. Sunday.

Tickets at the gate are $2.00 with free parking.

BIG THREE ABSENT — They may be called the "Big Three" of golf, but there's no telling what Buick Open officials are calling them today. When last night's deadline for entries was reached, Gary Player (left), Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer (right) were missing from the field. Much to the displeasure of tournament officials, the trio was reported getting ready for the National Open at Brookline, Mass., in two weeks.

Eastern Loop Pulls Trigger on Feud

Latest Move Threatens USSR Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—The war for control of track and field in this country exploded anew today, with the United States team that will oppose the Russians in Moscow in July caught squarely in the fall-out.

In the latest move in the alphabet soup battle, the Nation's largest college conference, the Eastern College Athletic Conference, in effect ruled that its athletes should not compete in the National Amateur Athletic Union track championships, where the U. S. team for Russia will be picked.

In California, there were indications the powerful Big Six Conference would follow suit, and Payton Jordan, who will coach the U. S. team against Russia, said the move might cancel the trip to Moscow.

Jordan, Stanford coach, said he had not seen the ECAC announcement "but I consider it a possibility that our meet with Russia in July could be cancelled if we would have to take a sub-standard team. I know the Russians would not want a hollow victory. They want to meet our best. If we can't send our best, I doubt the Russians would want us to come."

AAU VALLEY

The AAU levelled a charge that the colleges, who are battling the old amateur organization for track control, are out to wreck the American team and will be glad to do so.

Asa Bushnell, ECAC commissioner, denied the charges and said his group wanted its athletes to compete in the AAU Nationals "but we want them to do so under procedures established" at a peace negotiations session with Gen. Douglas MacArthur March 12.

★ ★ ★

The AAU also said that only one college athlete so far has entered the national championships, C. K. Yang of Formosa, the decathlon world record holder who is not eligible for the U. S. team.

The AAU also called for a new ruling on the dispute from Gen. MacArthur, who patched up the shaky peace that exists between the AAU and the U. S. Track and Field Federation, the rival group sponsored by the NCAA.

1st Upset in British Amateur

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Bob Gardner, of Essex Falls, N. J. was beaten in the first round of the British Amateur Golf Championship today by Dick Smith of Scotland, 2 and 1, in the first major upset of the tourney.

The match ended on the 17th with a halved hole.

PUTTED BADLY

Afterwards Gardner said: "I putted very badly. I had about four or five three-putt greens and you don't win matches that way."

Smith was 1 up at the end of nine holes and went 2 up at the 12th where Gardner three-putted.

★ ★ ★

Smith had a fine chance to close the match out on the 15th where he had a putt of only three feet. He missed it and the hole was halved.

Veteran Jack Penrose of Philadelphia and Miami, advanced to the second round with a 1-up victory over J. K. MacKay of England, but three other Americans went out in rapid succession.

Arthur Nutting of Louisville, Ky., lost to J. G. Blackwell of Scotland, 1 up. John H. Andersen of River Forest, Ill., was beaten 3 and 1 by Patrick Cros of France and John G. Hendrickson of Philadelphia lost to D. J. Palmer of England, 4 and 2.

Alex Kyle, who won the British Amateur in 1939, turned back 17-year-old Finlay Morris, who is only one third Kyle's age, 1 up. Morris, Scottish junior champion, is touted as a big swinger with a tremendous future.

★ ★ ★

Jaycees' Golf Tourney Set

Junior golfers competing in the district Jaycee tournaments this month will have the advantage of playing for the state championship in their own back yard.

The Pontiac Jaycee-sponsored tourney will be held at Pontiac Municipal, Monday June 17th.

Winners from each district will qualify for the state tourney to be held at Morey's, July 22nd. From here the winners advance to the sectionals and then to the National Jaycee tournament in August.

Boys living within the area of a district tournament must compete in that district. However, where there are no district-sponsored tourneys, boys can enter into another district.

Any boy who will not be 18 prior to August 15th will be eligible to compete.

The tournament is conducted on an 18 hole medal basis with classes for open and novice entries. There is an entry fee of $2.00 for the local tourney.

Pontiac and Waterford district golfers can enter up to 9:00 a. m. on the day of the respective tourneys.

Hurls Softball No-Hitter

Jerry Banton started National League city softball off right at Beaudette Park last night by pitching a six-inning no-hitter to pace Bob & Larry's Bar to a 10-0 win over G & M Construction.

Local 653 outslugged First Church of the Brethren 9-5 in the first game.

In a pair of practice softball games Berry Door whipped Po Poncas Market 10-3 and Buettner's Cleaners ran to a 20-14 decision over Jet Bar.

Banton fanned eight and walked two. Only one G & M runner reached second — losing hurler Gene Land on a walk and error in the third. B & L scored in all but the fifth inning.

Bill LaRose got Banton enough to win in the first inning by drilling a two-run homer. He had three of the winner's 10 hits. The game was terminated in the last of the sixth when B & L took a 10-run lead.

The Local 653-Brethren game was called at the end of four innings because of the time limit for first games.

Three singles, a triple by Noble Lee and two errors produced four runs in the first inning for the winners. They scored five more in the fourth on three walks and four singles.

Floyd Frazier, John Stoddard, Ed Marlow and Joe Wilson each had two hits for the union team. Gary DeVault had two for the losers.

In Buettner's win over Jet Bar, both teams committed eight errors.

Hazel Park Harness in Final Big Week

Hazel Park Harness Raceway wraps up its 1963 season this week saving the best for the last.

The final week of the campaign marks the arrival of the Grand Circuit — with six events scheduled for almost $40,000 in purses.

The older horses get their licks beginning Wednesday, June 5. The Vic Fleming Trot, named for one of the nation's most memorable drivers, goes for $7,500 on Wednesday, June 5.

★ ★ ★

The Ville de Troit Three Old Pace goes on Thursday, June 6. Nominees include Kuke Gamaun, Timely Beauty, Andy Adios, Meadow R., Keith Abbe and E. J. Direct.

The older horses take over on Friday with The Cadillac Trpt boasting a $4,000 purse. The field of older trotters includes Cedar Crest Liner, Sophia Hanover, Highland Glen A., Where's George, Ralph Abbe, Nite Shirt, Natchez, Canadian Intrusion, Demon Filly and Saul.

On Saturday, the Beaubien will be raced for the older pacers. The event will go for $4,000 added money and concludes the Grand Circuit compaign. Eleven are expected to go including Chocolate Soda, Esa Hal, Chief Armbro, Trotwood Bob and Pride Woollen among others.

Flint Golf Duo Wins Pro-Am; Bone Fires 70

Don Jarrard and Jim Tubbs of Willow Wood Country Club near Flint won the weekly Pro - Am golf tournament held at Tam O'Shanter yesterday combining for a 31-32—63.

Three other pairs were one stroke behind: Jim Picard and Al Posen of Tam O'Shanter 31-33—64; Al Redmond and Ed Guiseppe of Red Run, 33-31—64; and Gerry Prieskorn and F. DeSellier of Pine Lake, 30-34—64.

At 66 were five pairs, Tom Tarkington-John Salverino, Washtenaw; Jim Champman-N. Fishman, Tam O'Shanter; Jim Picard, N. Surath, Tam; Preston Msesell and T. Hughes, Farmington; Joe Factor - B. Adams, Red Run.

There were 160 players in the field. The pro - pro combination had Chapman and McHecktento with 66, aided by Chapman's run of five birdies.

The low pro field had Gene Bone, Joe Factor and Tom Watrous all tied with 70's. Bone fired four birdies for a front nine of 31 and added 39 on the back.

Kimball Posts Upset to Win EML Golf

Royal Oak Kimball spoiled host Port Huron's bid for a sixth straight Eastern Michigan League golf championship yesterday.

The Knights took 412 strokes, Port Huron 420, Mt. Clemens 429, Seaholm 430, Ferndale 434 and Roseville 442. Ferndale's Don Brooks was medalist with a 75.

Clippers Post 2nd Win

An 8-0 victory over Local 594 Monday night boosted the Clippers atop the city's Class A recreation baseball league.

The victors thus pushed their record to 2-0 while handing the union nine its first loss of the young season.

The three-hit pitching of lanky Bob Readler and 10 errors by the losers were instrumental in the Clippers' victory. Four of the runs were unearned in the contest.

Felix Brooks went hitless but had three runs batted in for the winners. Warren Stephans had a triple and single, and Larry Douglas singled twice and both scored twice for the Clippers.

Readler fanned five and walked none. He retired 11 straight batters in one stretch. Loser Charles Johnson struck out six and also walked no one.

Colavito Back in Cleveland; Still a Tiger

Indians' GM Paul Holds Trade Confab; Bengals Top Cards

CLEVENALD (AP) — Rocky Colavito is back in Cleveland, where the Indian fans and general manager Gabe Paul love him dearly, but he's still a Tiger.

And the Tigers are going to live or die with the Rock in left field for the rest of this season at least, said Jim Campbell, Detroit's general manager.

Campbell has been with the Tigers throughout their current road trip, talking trade at each stop. No doubt he'll huddle with Paul while the Tigers are in Cleveland for games tonight and tomorrow night.

Paul admitted publicly last week he's made 50 recent bids to get Colavito back on the Indians. Campbell has turned down all 50.

"We're not thinking about trading Colavito," said Campbell yesterday as the Tigers stopped in St. Louis and defeated the Cardinals 8-4 in an exhibition.

"He'll play in Detroit this year and maybe next year."

Campbell said the only thing that'd change his thinking is a fantastic offer for Colavito before the June 15 trading deadline. He didn't say how fantastic the offer would have to be to pry the .230 hitter away from Detroit.

GB Rejects Turkey Game

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Green Bay Packers will terminate the traditional Thanksgiving Day game with the Detroit Lions after the 1963 contest, Packer Coach Vince Lombardi said Monday.

After 1963 the game against the Lions will have to be rotated among other National Football League teams but will continue to be played in Detroit, he added.

"It's not worth it to us," Lombardi said. He explained that for the past two years the Packers got no more out of the nationally televised game than any other NFL team. Prior to that, they received an extra $10,000.

Teeing Off

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Don't be surprised if the Buick Open puts a 'finis' on the tournament after the 6th annual event is concluded this weekend.

Buick officials are fuming, just like the officials of the 500 Festival, the St. Petersburg and Azalea Opens, because the biggest drawing names of pro circuit failed to show up.

There was a time when the PGA would jump at the chance of grabbing a "big" purse of $25,000 for a tournament.

Today, with tournaments scheduled every weekend, the pros are shunning the "miniature" $25,000 events and even the "small" purse tournaments of $50,000.

One can hardly expect the pro golfers to keep up the pace week after week, but this is the fault of the PGA which has stuffed the tournament circuit so much that the players are suffering from fatigue and the sponsors are taking bigger risks and losses.

CHANGE DATES

When the Buick Open kept its dates in July, names like Arnold Palmer and Jick Nichlaus, plus others were missing. The British Open complained and received support from the PGA and USGA that Americans should be better represented in the tournament.

When the cream of the crop decided to make the trip to Great Britain, the U. S. sponsors started yelling, especially the Buick Open.

So, the Buick changed its dates to June and received the PGA blessing.

Still, the big names are missing and even in greater numbers for the tournament this week.

The players contend they are too ill to compete or they want to practice for the Open which is slated in two weeks.

General chairman of the Buick Open Jerry Rideout shook his head in disgust last night when the 6:00 p.m. deadline for entries was reached and names like Palmer, Player, Nicklaus, Casper, Sanders were missing.

The tournament and governing body of the PGA should shoulder most of the blame for unhappy sponsors. It should have been and should be more discreet before filling every weekend with a tournament.

And then as the official of the 500 Festival pointed out, "Why should Palmer or Player come here to go after $9,000 first prize when they can get $15,000 for doing a movie short with less work."

SHORT PUTTS

Carl's golf driving range on Telegraph road is celebrating its first anniversary with numerous activities this week.

Pontiac's Gene Bone, former host pro at Warwick Hills where the Buick Open is being held this week, will direct a clinic and exhibition tonight at 8:00 p.m. at the range.

Farrell Yields First Hit in 8th Inning

Hurlers Continue to Dominate

By The Associated Press

Hey—isn't it about time the hitters started catching up with the pitchers?

MISSES NO HITTER

Fireballing Dick Farrell of the Houston Colts became the latest to threaten the no-hit barrier, holding the Los Angeles Dodgers hitless for 7 1-3 innings in a 2-1 triumph over the slumping National League contenders. The 20-game loser of last season, backed by rookie Rusty Staub's first big league homer, finished with a two-hit job and the Dodgers finished with their fifth straight loss.

Eddie Fisher turned in a four-hit shutout as the Chicago White Sox climbed to within five percentage points of the American League lead with a 4-0 decision over the Los Angeles Angels.

And Dave Wickersham also threw a four-hitter, pitching the Kansas City Athletics over the Minnesota Twins 4-1. The Twins' only run was unearned as they fell to the A's for the sixth time in seven games this year.

Farrell, picked off the Dodger roster by Houston for $125,000 in the 1961 expansion draft, allowed his former club just three walks before the no-hit spell was broken with one out in the eighth inning.

★ ★ ★

Dick Tracewski was the culprit, with a clean single to center. Then in the ninth, Jim Gilliam led off with a triple and eventually scored on Tommy Davis sacrifice fly, ruining Farrell's shutout effort. The burly fast-baller, now 5-6, struck out five—getting Frank Howard four straight times.

Staub connected for a 400-foot shot following a walk to Carl Warwick in the fourth for the decisive blow off Don Drysdale, who struck out 13 and gave up seven hits in seven innings as his record fell to 6-6.

The loss dropped the Dodgers into a third-place tie with the Chicago Cubs, four games back of San Francisco and two behind St. Louis.

Despite Fisher's fine pitching and their rise in the AL standings, the White Sox' victory at Los Angeles proved costly. Joe Cunningham, their slick-hitting first baseman, broke his right collarbone when he tripped over first running out a grounder and is expected to be out at least two months.

Fisher's shutout came in his first complete game in nine starts this year and boosted the White Sox into a second-place tie with Baltimore. They are five points behind New York in the decisive percentage column although they have a one-half game edge on the Yankees on a won-lost basis.

TURLEY NICKED

The White Sox nicked Bob Turley for eight of their nine hits and all four of their runs in five innings-plus. Sherm Lollar belted two doubles and batted across two runs, while Pete Ward and Floyd Robinson each had a run-scoring single.

Fisher, loser of his first four decisions, now is 5-6. Turley is 1-5.

A fifth inning homer by Doc Edwards gave Wickersham and Kansas City a 1-0 margin over Camilo Pascual and the Twins through seven innings, then the A's pushed across three more against reliever Ray Moore—with the help of a costly error by right fielder Bob Allison.

Wickersham's single with two out, a walk and Allison's bad throw after fielding John Wojcicks single produced two runs, and Ed Charles singled in another. An error by Norm Siebern led to the Twins' unearned run in the ninth.

Ironically, the AL's two losing pitchers — Pascual and Turley—each was gunning for his 100th major league victory.

Dow Heads for Buick Open

Wins Speedway Tourney

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A golf course with as little rough as a well-kept cemetery, a crisp putter and a dedicated caddy made Dow Finsterwald $10,000 richer today as he moved from the Speedway Festival Open Golf Tournament to the Buick Open in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Most of the big money winners shunned the $55,000 event this year, but the 33-year-old Finsterwald boosted himself into sixth place among this year's players on the circuit with $26,543. He had been ninth.

The Ohioan picked up his first tourney victory since the 1960 New Orleans Open by putting together rounds of 68, 68, 64 and 68 for a 268 total—16 under par.

Carr's Tired, Knees Hurt, but He Keeps on Running

But it will be a couple more weeks before the 20-year-old Detroit, Mich., sophomore takes the rest he believes he needs.

He first will compete with A-State's world record shattering mile relay team in the Compton, Calif., Relays Friday night, the U.S. Federation meet Saturday in Houston and the NCAA championships June 13-15 in Albuquerque, N.M.

★ ★ ★

Henry doesn't think A-State's astounding mile relay team, which also includes seniors Ron Freeman and Mike Barrick and sophomore Ulis Williams, can better its mark of 3 minutes, 4.5 seconds. The old world mark was 3:05.6 by the 1960 U.S. Olympic team.

"We just don't have the competition," the 6-foot-3 Henry said. "When we set that, we were primed to show those California people just how good we were." The mark came in the Mt. San Antonio, Calif., Relays.

It's in the NCAA show that Henry could again better the world standard of :20.5 for the 200-yard dash. He's already broken or equalled the mark four times this year. His best is :20.3 around a curve.

★ ★ ★

"Then I'm going home and get ready," Henry said recently after completing 17½ hours of semester examinations at A-State. "I just want to rest. My knees are strained from all this running and need rest."

By ready, Carr means for the National AAU meet June 20-21 at St. Louis and the U.S.-Russian meet July 20-21 at Moscow if the AAU and U.S. Track Federation settle their differences and he's allowed to compete.

Church Softball Teams Win With Late Heroics

Avondale church league softball action Monday saw Social Brethren and Memorial Baptist post one-run victories on last inning home runs.

Darrell Duncan homered to give the Brethren team a 5-4 win over First Church of God, and Clinton Harroun hit for the circuit to give Memorial a 15-14 edge over Stone Baptist.

Avondale Baptist topped Pontiac R.L.D.S., 10-4, in the other contest.

Miss Marple Suffers Accident on Trip to the Development

(STORY SO FAR: Miss Jane Marple, quaint elderly lady, finds St. Mary Mead her home for so long, is not the same. It has lost its old charm because of the development and its moderation. Sending her nurse attendant, Miss Knight off on enough errands to keep her away some time, Miss Marple puts on her walking shoes and goes to the development to observe the brand new world that is springing up, a world foreign to all she has known, with its trousered young women and sinister-looking young men and boys.)

By AGATHA CHRISTIE

Installment II

Nobody noticed Miss Marple as she trudged along. She turned out of Aubrey Close and was presently in Darlington Close.

She went slowly and as she went she listened avidly to the snippets of conversation between mothers wheeling prams, to the girls addressing young men, to the sinister-looking Teds (she supposed they were Teds) exchanging dark remarks to each other.

Mothers came out on doorsteps calling to their children, who, as usual, were busy doing all the things they had been told not to do.

Children, Miss Marple reflected gratefully, never changed. And presently she began to smile, and noted down in her mind her usual series of recognitions.

That woman is just like Carry Edwards — and the dark one is just like that Hooper girl—she'll make a mess of her marriage just as Mary Hooper did.

Those boys, the dark one is just like Edward Leeke, a lot of wild talk but no harm in him, a nice boy really.

The fair one is Mrs. Bedwell's Josh all over again. Nice boys, both of them.

SPIRITS RISE

The new world was the same as the old. The houses were different, the streets were called Closes, the clothes were different, the voices were different, but the human beings were the same as they always had been.

And, though in slightly different phraseology, the subjects of conversation were the same.

By dint of turning corners in her exploration, Miss Marple had rather lost her sense of direction and had arrived at the edge of the housing estate again.

She was now in Carrisbrook Close, half of which was still "under construction."

At the first-floor window of a nearly finished house a young couple were standing. Their voices floated down as they discussed the amenities.

* * *

"You must admit it's a nice position, Bob."

"Other one was just as good."

"This one's got two more rooms."

"And you've got to pay for 'em."

"Well, I like this one."

"You would!"

"Ow, don't be such a spoilsport. You know what Mum said."

"Your Mum never stops saying."

"Don't you say nothing against Mum. Where'd I have been without her? And she might have cut up much nastier than she did, I can tell you that. She could have taken you to court."

"Oh, come off it, Lily."

"It's a good view of the hills. You can almost see—" She leaned far out, twisting her body to the left. "You can almost see the reservoir—"

* * *

She leaned further still, not realizing that she was resting her weight on loose boards that had been laid across the sill. They slipped under the pressure of her body, sliding outward, carrying her with them. She screamed, trying to regain her balance.

STANDS MOTIONLESS

"Bob!"

The young man stood motionless — a foot or two behind her. He took one step backward.

"Oo!" She let out a frightened breath. "I near as nothing fell out. Why didn't you get hold of me?"

"It was all so quick. Anyway you're all right."

"That's all you know about it. I nearly went, I tell you. And look at the front of my jumper, It's all mussed."

* * *

"If I were you, my dear, I shouldn't marry that young man. You want someone whom you can rely upon if you're in danger. You must excuse me for saying this to you, but I feel you ought to be warned."

She turned away and Lily stared after her.

"Well, of all the—"

Her young man approached.

"What was she saying to you, Lil?"

* * *

Lily opened her mouth, then shut it again.

"Giving me the gypsy's warning, if you want to know."

STUMBLES

"Oh, dear, what a nasty spill! I hope you haven't hurt yourself?"

With almost excessive good will she put her arms round Miss Marple and tugged her to her feet.

"No bones broken, I hope? There we are. I expect you feel rather shaken."

Her voice was loud and friendly. She was a plump, squarely built woman of about 40, brown hair just turning gray, blue eyes, and a big generous mouth that seemed to Miss Marple's rather shaken gaze to be far too full of white shining teeth.

"You'd better come inside and sit down and rest a bit. I'll make you a cup of tea."

* * *

Miss Marple thanked her. She allowed herself to be led through the blue-painted door and into a small room full of bright cretonne covered chairs and sofas.

"There you are," said her rescuer, establishing her on a cushioned armchair. "You sit quiet and I'll put the kettle on."

She hurried out of the room, which seemed rather restfully quiet after her departure. Miss Marple took a deep breath.

She was not really hurt, but the fall had shaken her.

Falls at her age were not to be encouraged. With luck, however, she thought guiltily, Miss Knight need never know.

TEA ARRIVES

The cup of tea arrived almost as the thought came to her. Brought on a tray with four sweet biscuits on a little plate.

"There you are." It was placed on a small table in front of her. "Shall I pour it out for you? Better have plenty of sugar."

"No sugar, thank you."

"You must have sugar. Shock, you know. I was abroad with ambulances during the war. Sugar's wonderful for shock."

She put four lumps in the cup and stirred vigorously. "Now you get that down, and you'll feel as right as rain."

Miss Marple accepted the dictum.

"A kind woman," she thought. "She reminds me of someone; now who is it?"

* * *

"You've been very kind to me," she said, smiling.

"Oh, that's nothing. The little ministering angel, that's me. I love helping people."

She looked out of the window as the latch of the outer gate clicked. "Here's my husband home. Arthur, we've got a visitor."

HUSBAND BEWILDERED

She went out into the hall and returned with Arthur who looked rather bewildered. He was a thin pale man, rather slow in speech.

"This lady fell down, right outside our gate, so of course I brought her in."

* * *

"Your wife was very kind, Mr.—?"

"Badcock's the name."

"Oh, no trouble to Heather. Heather enjoys doing things for people." He looked at her curiously. "Were you on your way anywhere in particular?"

* * *

"No, I was just taking a walk. I live in St. Mary Mead, the house beyond the vicarage. My name is Marple."

"Well, I never!" exclaimed Heather. "So you're Miss Marple. I've heard about you. You're the one who does all the murders."

Cavanagh Asks ADC-U Action

DETROIT (AP) — A plea to amend Michigan's Aid to Dependent Children of the Unemployed act ADC-U was issued yesterday by Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

In a telegram to Gov. George Romney and key state legislators, Cavanagh said, "efforts on your part to correct this important legislation will be greatly appreciated by all citizens of this city and the entire state."

He pointed out that Detroit's 1963-64 budget contains a credit item of $2.23 million, predicated on the belief that Michigan will be eligible for federal ADC-U benefits.

* * *

Michigan ADC-U act was pronounced illegal by Anthony Celebrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare, because it allows benefits only to children of persons who have received, and exhausted, unemployment benefits.

Celebreeze's decision was seconded by State Attorney General Frank J. Kelley. Gov. George Romney contends the law is all right as it is.

American Giving Hits New Record at $9.3 Billion

NEW YORK (UPI) — American philanthropy reached an all-time high of $9.3 billion in 1962, the American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel reported yesterday.

The association said the figure represented a $600 million increase over private giving for public causes in 1961.

Individuals gave the largest share — $7.43 billion. Foundations gave $700 million, business $470 million, and $700 million came from charitable bequests.

* * *

The association said 51 per cent of the money goes to religious institutions and purposes, 16 per cent to education, 15 per cent to welfare, 12 per cent to health, 4 per cent to charitable foundations and 2 per cent to other purposes.

40 Held by Mexico in Sacrifice Deaths

VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — Forty persons are being held for questioning in connection with a bloody sacrifice by a sect of fanatics resulting in five deaths.

Two persons were burned at the stake and three others perished in a subsequent gun battle Friday at a cooperative farm 85 miles north of here. Fifteen members of the sect and three policemen were injured.

GAS YARD LIGHT

Special Offer

SAVE $20.00

ON INSTALLATION FOR LIMITED TIME

An added "golden glow" is given to family fun when you prolong the enjoyment of a pool, garden or patio with a gas yard light. Outdoor lighting has so many advantages. It makes it possible to entertain outdoors after dark. Gives just the right light for patio cooking and dining. With a soft, mellow glow; gaslighting serves as a safety feature too. It illuminates steps and walking hazards while it dresses up a flower garden, accents a well-shaped tree, a path or a rock garden. The gas yard light is gaining widespread popularity among homeowners because it lends a pleasant note of grace and charm to even the most informal occasions.

Average Loss Slight

Stock Market Settles Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Although the stock market settled irregularly lower early this afternoon, aluminums and selected issues posted good gains against the trend. Trading was active.

Gains and losses of fractions to around a point prevailed among most key issues. The loss on average was slight.

EQUANIMITY

The newest installment of proposals from the Securities & Exchange Commission was received with equanimity by Wall Street spokesmen. Reports of tightening interest rates and the first drop in steel output in four weeks tended to dampen sentiment.

Motors were very active and a shade lower on the balance. Steels, sugars, aerospace issues, drugs, chemicals and nonferrous metals were among the losers.

Chrysler gyrated, erasing a 1-point loss, and trading a shade to the plus side in the afternoon. General Motors dropped a fraction.

ON AMERICAN

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed in moderately active trading. Electronic Specialty was up about a point and Technical Operations more than that. Ohio Brass also gained more than a point. Losses exceeding a point were taken by Gulton Industries and Rayette. San Carlos Milling dropped a point. Fractional gainers included Canadian Javelin, Mead Johnson, Great Basins Petroleum, International Oil & Gas and Technical Materiel. Webb & Knapp was active but unchanged. Fractional losers included Creole Petroleum, Michigan Sugar, Barnes Engineering and Utah-Idaho Sugar.

Relief From Reality

Linger a While in Memory's Rosy Glow

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — They say anticipation is better than realization—but sometimes recollection is better than either.

* * *

BOYLE

Softened by memory's rosy glow, the images of the past offer the mind a pleasant relief from the dull realities of today and the harsh prospects of tomorrow.

One of the greatest pleasures in looking back, of course, is that you don't have to live again the bittersweet years as they actually happened. You can pick and choose among your memories.

But you're a real veteran of living—and entitled to wear your combat stars—if you can remember when:

* * *

The biggest sport in town was the fellow who had two striped silk shirts—and a charge account at the local livery stable.

Almost everybody got paid on Saturday, and Saturday night was heaven on earth — the rainbow time of the week when life reached its peak.

One mark of a man's success was to be able, when he passed on, to leave a big gold pocket watch to his favorite grandson.

RACCOONS AND SQUARES

There were more raccoon coats on college boys than there were on raccoons.

Anybody was considered well-to-do who made $4,000 a year and had more than a $5,000 mortgage on his home.

* * *

Nobody contributed clothing to the Salvation Army. You either wore it out yourself or gave it to poor relatives — and that's the only kind of relatives that seemed to be around in those days.

Many old people would rather quietly starve—and did—than accept public charity.

Every village had a harmless character known as the village idiot, but nobody wanted to send him away to a mental institution. Sometimes he was the best-liked fellow in town—and, in his own way, the wittiest.

You could be arrested in a lot of places for mowing your lawn in a pair of shorts.

The biggest traffic problem was runaway horses.

An intellectual was anybody who had read three poems by Robert Browning all the way through—and claimed to understand what they meant.

It was widely believed that the Russians could never build airplanes that would fly, because they would surely forget to put in the engines.

A husband was regarded as henpecked if he did more to help his wife around the home than rake up the leaves once a year.

* * *

A schoolteacher's job was in jeopardy if anyone saw her smoking a cigarette.

A man was getting up in the world if he could afford three-for-a-quarter cigars, and wore a panama hat in summer.

You knew there was somebody sick in the house if a light showed after midnight.

Sets Employes Week

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has proclaimed June 2-8 as Public Employes Week in Michigan, terming such workers "an indispensable part in the smooth and important functioning of government today."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

JACOBY

When I was a small boy, I can remember my grandfather telling my father that he should never lead away from a king and that the lead of an unsupported king was even worse.

Since I am now a grandfather I realize that was quite some time back and conditions have changed. There is a time and place for anything at the bridge table and there are plenty of occasions for violating grandfather's rule.

If West pays attention to the bidding instead of thinking how bad his hand is he will note both North and South have shied away from no trump. In that case it will be most unlikely to find one with the ace and the other with the queen of hearts and therefore a heart lead should not get West into any trouble.

Once he has come to this conclusion, West will lead the king of hearts. East will signal with the eight, but it won't really matter since once the king holds West is going to continue the suit.

East took his ace and led another heart for West to ruff. Now it didn't matter what West did. The defense had three tricks in and there was no way to keep East from making his king of diamonds.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Wednesday

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Keep eye on public relations. Rumors apt to fly about. Get facts on record. Make sure they are read . . . and correctly interpreted. Be specific, concise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): No time for horseplay today. Points must be put across. This may require extra work, time. Otherwise, cost could be dear. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Better for finishing projects than for embarking on new adventures. Much temptation in your path. But wise course is one which finds you OBEYING RULES. Otherwise, you have REGRETS.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Key today is CONSIDERATION. Be aware of efforts of family, friends, associates. You are not an island unto yourself. Give, praise, love if you want them in return. Follow GOLDEN RULE.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 21): Be dynamic, direct. Show strength. No time to be bashful. Say what you mean, mean what you say, but earn respect by laying facts on line. Leave "bluffing" to others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Tendency to scatter forces prevails. You have imagination. But that is NOT ENOUGH: It must be channeled. Outline your program. Utilize keen sense of perceptiveness. Trust INTUITION.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): If you try to "cash" points, it costs you more in the long run. You won't find substitutes for quality. This also applies to human relationships. Be true to loved ones.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Lunar cycle high. Only opposition comes from persons who are basically weak. Create air of CONFIDENCE. Don't "give in" or panic. Show of strength wins long-range gains.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Humor, versatility gain much. Don't be afraid to puncture "stuffed shirts." Say NO to participating in "big lie." You thus gain respect, admiration and eventual PROMOTION.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): What appears settled may NOT be. Know this and remain alert for new opportunity. Associates not as well informed as they might be. Need your own counsel and CONSCIENCE.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Today transform dreams to realities. Take solid steps toward future accomplishment. Means forget the hesitancy, the procrastination, the self-doubt. Act on BELIEFS!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Impress authorities by remaining calm under fire. Includes family members. Don't scold, panic or "preach." Lend a helping hand, a sympathetic ear. This kind of approach wins favor.

IF WEDNESDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are intellectually honest. You never say one thing and mean another. You are frank regardless of consequences.

WISH ME LUCK! — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller reaches down from the podium to clasp his bride's hand before making his first speech since their marriage last month. Their appearance at a dinner of the Albany Civic Planning Committee capped a day in which the governor introduced the state's new first lady to members of his administration, newsmen and civic leaders.

2 Stand Mute in Theft Case

A Royal Oak man who told police he was behind in his alimony payments and his brother-in-law stood mute on armed robbery charges at their Circuit Court arraignment yesterday.

★ ★ ★

R. J. Brook, 26, 3343 Garden, Royal Oak, and Curtis McTurner, 32, 1605 E. Pearl, Hazel Park, are charged with the May 13 hold-up of a market at 2280 Telegraph, Southfield.

Southfield police quoted Brooks as saying he was behind in payments for support of his former wife and two children.

Police said he had obtained about $2,500 by holding up retail stores in a three-county area during a period of several weeks.

★ ★ ★

McTurner, Brook's brother-in-law, said he helped Brooks catch up with his alimony and never shared in the loot, according to police.

Both men were held in Oakland County jail to await trial when they were unable to furnish bond, set at $10,000 for Brooks and $5,000 for McTurner.

Bakery Drivers Warn of Strike

DETROIT (AP) — The Teamsters Union threatened yesterday to strike at four Detroit bakeries by June 10.

Bakery Drivers Local 51 filed the notice of intent to strike against American Baking Co., Continental Baking Co., General Baking Co. and Ward Baking Co.

Federal and state mediators said attempts will be made to arrange new talks in a contract dispute.

President Elected for Holiday Group

Robert C. Adsit, 410 First, has been elected president of the Pontiac Memorial Day Association, effective July 1. He will succeed William Tunningley.

Other officers of the organization are David McGillis, vice president; Eva M. Welch, secretary; Florence McCrae, treasurer; and Floyd Losee, trustee.

★ ★ ★

Half of Garage Roof Ripped Off by Storm

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — One-half of the roof of the Isabella County garage on M20, 1½ miles west of here, was ripped off last night in a sudden windstorm.

Ernie Bruce, county road supervisor, estimated damage at approximately $1,000.

U. of M. Gets NASA Grant for Research

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A grant of $1.75 million from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) for construction of a space research laboratory at the University of Michigan "is the largest federal grant ever received by the university for construction," sayd Dr. Ralph A. Sawyer, U. of M. vice president for research.

★ ★ ★

The facility will house most of the university's space research facilities. It is expected to be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1964. Approximately 200 persons will be employed in the new building, Sawyer said yesterday.

The two - story, 56,000 - square foot building will be constructed on the north campus near the university cyclotron and Phoenix Memorial Laboratory with its nuclear reactor.

★ ★ ★

NASA officials said the university is engage in about $5.5 million in research projects with them.

Detroit Youth Mute on Murder Charge

DETROIT (AP) — Ralph Danielak, 17, of Detroit, accused of second-degree murder in the stabbing of a friend over a $2 shortage in a poker pot — stood mute at his arraignment yesterday.

A plea of innocent was entered for him and he was returned to jail without bond, pending examination June 12.

Two Sentenced for Burglaries

Third Awaits Action in Theft Conviction

William D. Haslett, 20, 280 E. Maple, Troy, was placed on five years' probation yesterday for his part in the Feb. 14 burglary of an Orchard Lake beverage store.

John Hodges, 32, 1064 Naughton, Troy, was ordered to serve one to five years in prison for his March 8 daytime burglary of a power saw from a Troy residence.

Both sentences were handed out by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer.

A second 20-year-old Troy youth, Wendell Johnson, of 62 Spoerton, who was implicated in both burglaries, is awaiting sentence for the Orchard Lake break-in at Wilkin's Beverage Store, 4135 Orchard Lake.

Police said Haslett and Johnson were caught when their car smashed into a stone wall as they tried to flee the scene of the burglary. The two were convicted by jury May 16.

Johnson also had been charged with daytime burglary of a residence at 1780 Westwood, Troy, along with Hodges. But this charge was dropped when he was convicted in the Orchard Lake case.

★ ★ ★

Hodges was found guilty by a jury May 21. He was on parole from a one- to 15-year prison term for a 1962 burglary.

Six Teamsters Found Guilty

Named in Conspiracy to Defraud Treasury

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Raymond Cohen, secretary - treasurer of Teamsters Local 107 and a close associate of Teamsters International President James R. Hoffa, and five other men were convicted today of charges of conspiracy to cheat and defraud the local treasury.

★ ★ ★

A jury of nine women and three men deliberated about four hours and returned the verdict shortly after midnight.

Cohen and the others were indicted in September 1959 on charges of looting the treasury of more than $100,000. Hoffa had stood by Cohen, who is secretary-treasurer of Local 107.

In addition to Cohen of Brigantine, N.J., the others on trial were; Ben Lapensohn, former public relations representative for the local; Edward F. Walker, recording secretary; Joseph E. Hartsough, bookkeeper; Braham D. Berman, business agent; and John J. Elco, a union member.

'State Image Has Improved in the Nation'

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — The national image of Michigan "is now favorable and one of praise, not critical and one of hopeless doom and condemnation," Harry Hall, executive vice president of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, said last night.

Hall was speaking at St. Joseph before the annual meeting of the Michigan Canners and Freezers Association.

A new confidence in the state, he said, has caused existing firms to schedule unprecedented expansions totaling close to $1.5 billion.

This confidence, backed by this investment money, is the one single most important factor in the present economic growth," Hall said.

"It illustrates a renewed and revitalized confidence in Michigan by investors and employers."

No JFK News Confab

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will not hold a news conference this week, the White House said today. Kennedy's most recent news conference was on May 24.

Author Calls for Rein on Air Spraying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Author - biologist Rachel Carson called today for strict control of aerial pesticide spraying as a first step toward dealing with "contamination of the environment."

She said it was "one of the major problems of modern life."

Miss Carson, author of the best-seller "Silent Spring," also urged a "strong and unremitting effort" to reduce and ultimately eliminate "pesticides that leave long - lasting residues."

She told a Senate government operations subcommittee studying pesticides that she could "see no other way to control the rapidly spreading contamination" of air, water and soil which she said threatened all human and other animal life.

★ ★ ★

Miss Carson gave the subcommittee, headed by Sen Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), a rundown on evidence that poisonous pesticides could travel great distances in the atmosphere.

★ ★ ★

She said they had been found in "the oil of fish that live far at sea," and that some detergents found in drinking water might affect the human digestive tract "so that it more readily absorbs cancer - causing chemicals."

In prepared testimony Miss Carson declared that the problem "is one that must be solved in our time" and "a beginning must be made on it now — in this session of Congress."

Commandment Debate Stirs Study of Bible

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Broadway's been reading the Bible.

The people are still interested in religion.

They must be—otherwise, I wouldn't be getting all this mail about the Seventh Commandment.

WILSON

Groping for something that would be amusing, I asked Hildegarde for some of her fractured French.

Usually frothy and frivolous, Hildegarde now was impatient with those questions. She wanted to talk about her book, "Over 50, So What?"

The last chapter, she said, was religious. In it she interpreted the Ten Commandments according to her own study, experience and contemplation.

That was it! I pounced in.

"What's your modern day interpretation of the Seventh Commandment—'Thou shalt not commit adultery'?" I asked her.

"That's not the Seventh — it's the Sixth," Hildegarde exclaimed.

"I beg your pardon, dear," I said. "It's the Seventh!"

"You're wrong, Earl!" she fired back. "It's the Sixth."

But suddenly Hildegarde was so adamant that I dropped the argument . . . for the moment.

At my desk at 3 a.m., I looked into my books . . . "Adultery: Any lewdness or unchastity of act or thought, as in violation of the Seventh Commandment. Matt. v, 27, 28," said Funk & Wagnalls.

Pleased with myself, I went home. My mother-in-law, a Catholic, was up.

"It's the Sixth," she said to me. "Here it is in the Catholic cathecism."

Hildegarde, a Catholic, was right, and so was I!

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A nurse told a nervously expectant father: "No, the fact that you've been kept waiting a long time doesn't necessarily mean it'll be a girl."

Kalamazoo's Culture Boom Dates Back Over 30 Years

By PHIL THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — When it comes to culture, this prosperous little city's got it—and has had for a long time.

BACKGROUND
SPECIAL REPORT OF THE NEWS

For the culture boom sweeping the nation got under way here more than 30 years ago, and it shows no signs of slowing down.

★ ★ ★

The city of Kalamazoo has a population of less than 85,000 and its metropolitan area numbers 140,000. But its people have, and support, a fine theater whose plays draw consistently full houses; a symphony orchestra which entertains in a 2,500 seat auditorium; a handsome new building which houses a public library, planetarium and museum; an art center which serves both as museum and school; a university, and two colleges.

★ ★ ★

Bronson Park might be considered the core of this cultural oasis. The park is located in the center of downtown Kalamazoo. It's ringed by five imposing churches, a city hall, a county building, a YWCA building and the Civic Auditorium.

Not directly on the park, but just a step away, are the Art Center, Carver Center, the Central High School auditorium, the Ladies Library club and the Kalamazoo Public Library and Museum. Kalamazoo College, Nazareth College and Western Michigan University lie a short way out on the outskirts of the city. Kalamazoo College has 900 students, Nazareth 600 and Western Michigan 11,000.

PROMINENT ROLE

Culture has played a prominent role in Kalamazoo since the city was named the county seat in 1831. But its first major impetus came in 1931 with completion of the Civic Auditorium, which houses a 537-seat theater.

The $330,000 building was paid for by Dr. W. E. Upjohn, founder of the Upjohn Co., a pharmaceutical manufacturer and one of the city's biggest industries, employing 3,500.

★ ★ ★

Norman Carver has been business manager of the Civic Players since 1929, and has managed the auditorium since it was built. Carver Center, which houses the Kalamazoo Symphony, the Junior Civic Players, the Chamber Music Society, and the scenery construction operations of the Civic Players, was named in Carver's honor. The $200,000 center was built with funds from the W. E. Upjohn estate, the Upjohn Co., the Kalamazoo Foundation, and private contributors.

8 SHOWS A MONTH

The Civic Auditorium produces a different show of eight performances a month by the players. Tickets cost from $1.50 to $2 for dramatic works and $2 to $3.50 for musicals.

The auditorium is a financial success, due in part to the use of unpaid volunteer actors and helpers and the money derived from renting its elegant lounge for receptions, teas and meetings.

The Kalamazoo Foundation was organized in 1955 to "administer gifts and bequests for philanthropic purposes in Kalamazoo County." In 1932 it was given $335,000 worth of Upjohn Co. stock. By 1958 that stock was valued at $19 million, and at the end of 1962 the foundation had assets of $22,302,403.

Harold B. Allen, foundation secretary, who administers the foundation from an office in the Upjohn Co. executive office building, feels Kalamazoo's cultural growth stems in good part from a feeling of responsibility by the wealthy of the community.

★ ★ ★

"The attractiveness of the community," he said, "has resulted in the families who accumulated money staying in the community and participating in the building of the industries."

Millar, who served as an assistant conductor for the New York Philharmonic, said "the people playing in our orchestra (the number varies between 85 and 90) are a living part of the community, and this orchestra has grown out of the community. It was not brought in."

The land for the center was purchased with funds provided by the W. E. Upjohn estate and the Kalamazoo Foundation, which also set aside the income from a portion of its funds to provide an endowment. The $1.5-million building was constructed with funds donated by the Donald S. Gilmores. Gilmore is honorary chairman of the board of Upjohn Co. and a member of a family which owns a large department store in the city.

Questions Rule of Civil Service

Bars Political Activity by Employes of State

LANSING (AP)—A 1961 rule forbidding State Civil Service employes from taking active political roles has been challenged by the Michigan State Employes Union.

★ ★ ★

Robert Grosvenor, director of the union, cited an attorney general's opinion as he asked for the rule to be revoked.

The opinion rendered by Republican Herbert Rushton said "the Civil Service Commission is without authority to make any rules and regulations regarding political activity of those in State Civil Service outside of their hours of employment any more than it has the right to regulate a man working in his garden or on the farm after hours."

Grosvenor said the opinion, which was made four months before the Civil Service Department adopted the political activity rule, has not been superseded by court rulings or new attorney general opinions.

★ ★ ★

"The rule has never been challanged before," said State Civil Service Director Franklin Dewald, who said he would refuse to revoke it.

★ ★ ★

State workers are barred from being candidates for offices other than school boards and charter commissions, and may not serve on either political committees or convention delegations, under the rule.

★ ★ ★

Civil Service Commission Chairman John Seaman said he didn't know what position the commission would take on the union request. The next commission meeting is set for June 27.

Troops and Students Clash in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Government troops used bayonets and tear gas yesterday to break up a Buddhist demonstration and more than 60 student demonstrators were injured, it was reported today.

★ ★ ★

Reports from Hue, ancient imperial capital of Viet Nam, said an estimated 1,200 Buddhist students demonstrated to protest what they consider government discrimination against their religion.

Vacations go smoother in a Chevrolet Corvair

Bring on those mountains! They're not so high and mighty when you've got Corvair's gutty six and rear-engine traction working on them.

You scurry right up the meanest grades. You move with sure-footed agility on wet pavement, muddy lanes, loose gravel and other would-be miseries.

And with most of Corvair's weight bearing down on the rear wheels, you have an easy time steering, too. Fact is, the handling's so light and responsive we don't even offer power steering for the car.

And there's more to feel good about. No problems with your radiator boiling over or going dry, because there's no radiator. Corvair's engine is air cooled. No concern about brake adjustments, either, because the brakes adjust themselves. Nothing much to think about at all except the good time you're having (and maybe the next mountain you're going to flatten).

Like to do that in a sporty bucket-seated Monza Club Coupe or Convertible? Like to spring into summer with a 4-speed stick shift* and Spyder package* with its 150-hp Turbocharged engine, special instrumentation and insignia? Missing Plane Debris Sighted

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The Coast Guard reported today that debris sighted off Graham Island, B.C. in the Gulf of Alaska definitely was from a missing plane with 101 persons aboard. The Coast Guard said no survivors nor bodies had been sighted.

At least eight persons from Michigan, including the wife and four daughters of an air force career man, are listed among those aboard the plane.

The wife of Airman 1-C. Robert Scott and his four daughters were among 29 civilians aboard the missing plane. The other three Michiganders are young servicemen.

A Coast Guard cutter on the scene, about 60 miles west of the island, said life jackets, luggage and clothing had been positively ientified as being from a charter Northwest Airlines DC7 missing since Monday on a flight from McChord Air Force Base, Wash., to Elmendorf AFB, Alaska.

NO SIGNS

The cutter reported it saw no signs of any survivors or bodies, and the Coast Guard said earlier a person could not live for more than 10 or 15 minutes in the 40-degree waters. An albatross aircraft and the Japanese freighter Hosei Maru were also on the scene.

They said that because no bodies had been found and there was no sign of the wreckage of the plane itself, the debris might have been cargo-jettisoned to lighten the plane's load.

A Canadian air force pilot reported sighting uninflated liferafts, torn pillows and suitcases bobbing in the water Monday night, but because of darkness the search could not be continued until dawn today. The pilot said he thought the debris might have come from the ill-fated plane.

In each case the plane involved was a four-engine DC7 of Northwest Airlines, chartered to the Military Air Transport Service.

Each carried 95 passengers. A crew of six was aboard yesterday's flight, while the plane last October had a crew of seven.

Airline sources said even the flight number, 293, was the same. Both planes disappeared in the same area.

PRAY FOR POPE — Women and children in Pope John's home village of Sotto il Monte in northern Italy pray for eternal rest of the pontiff during solemn requiem Mass last night. The Holy Father was born in the village in 1881.

High and Lowly File Past Bier

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The high and the lowly paid homage to Pope John XXIII in a procession past his bier at the Vatican today, symbolizing the mourning of millions around the world.

The body of the pontiff, 81, who died Monday night after four days of agonizing suffering from a stomach tumor and peritonitis, was to be transferred this evening across St. Peter's Square to St. Peter's Basilica for wider public viewing.

Prelates, diplomats and citizens of Vatican City, including the street sweepers and gardeners with whom Pope John liked to chat, called at the papal apartment in tribute while cardinals began preparations to choose a new supreme ruler for the world's half-billion Roman Catholics.

The meetings, called general congregations, will be held every day for handling routine affairs and arrangements for the conclave that wil elect the new pope.

The Vatican's master of ceremonial set the date, they said, and the cardinals are expected to ratify it in their opening business meeting.

This would carry the period through the feast day of Corpus Christi June 13, though it might be interrupted for that occasion.

IN RED ROBES

The Pope's body lay in state in an antechamber. The body was dressed in red pontifical robes, with a golden bishop's miter on the head and red slippers on the feet. The catafalque was low, resting only two feet from the floor.

Two guards stood at the head of the catafalque and 10 Swiss guards and 10 palatine guards of honor stood along the walls.

Will Ask City for Its Support

Union Leader Seeks Building for Retirees

Cecil C. Mullinix, president of Pontiac Motor Division Local 653, will go before the City Commission tonight to seek endorsement of plans for a drop-in center for Oakland County's 40,000 retirees at the site of the old county courthouse.

★ ★ ★

"This is step number one," Mullinix said.

"We are asking that the City Commission recommend to the Oakland County Board of Supervisors that the property be leased to an association of retirees for a drop-in center," he explained.

"Once we get the land downtown, we'll get the money for a building," he declared.

He noted he has already received tremendous support for his plan, announced less than a week ago, including feelers from Pontiac Motor Division.

Retirees will be able to conduct their social activities and do their shopping right in the same area, he noted.

In addition, because retirees generally lack transportation, the location right near municipal and suburban bus lines is also ideal, he said.

★ ★ ★

The property is currently being leased from the county by Sam L. Stolorow, head of the Outdoor Parking Co. of Pontiac, for a pay parking lot.

★ ★ ★

Solons Reconvene Under Dem Threat

LANSING (AP) — The legislature prepared to reconvene today under threat of a referendum to be sought by Democrats if it enacts a Republican-sponsored plan for congressional reapportionment.

★ ★ ★

As lawmakers gathered in the capital for a scheduled three-day session and final adjournment, Democratic State Chairman Zolton Ferency made an 11th-hour plea for a "bi-partisan meeting" on the issue.

But Gov. George Romney quickly reaffirmed his intention to stand by the redistricting plan in its present form, and shrugged off the suggestion that a statewide referendum vote might result if it is passed.

"A referendum is provided for in the constitution. It's their right to have one if they want to," he said.

DISCUSS CHANGES

Ferency asked the governor to meet with Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski and legislative leaders from both parties to discuss making changes in the reapportionment bill's Wayne County portion.

The redistricting plan, to set up the 19th district to which Michigan is entitled under the 1960 U.S. census, has been hanging fire since April 27, when a drafting error stalled its passage before the legislature recessed.

Democrats, counting on the possibility that the bare voting edge held by Republicans then may have diminished because of pressure from congressmen unhappy with the bill, have tried several times to compromise.

Any plan, to pass the legislature, will need 18 votes in the Senate and 56 in the House. Romney says he expects the votes to be on hand.

Ferency said the present plan —which was written by Wayne County Republican officials—has four major defects, chief among them the isolation of Negroes into a single congressional district.

'DILUTION'

He said its reshaping of the six Wayne County districts also would result in "dilution of the voting strength" of the area's Polish community by putting Hamtramck into a district heavily Negro.

Ferency also complained that the bill would "arbitrarily

Bloomfield Twp. Seeks Water Construction Bids

Oakland County Public Works Director R. J. Alexander yesterday was authorized to seek construction bids to bring Detroit water into Bloomfield Township.

County engineers have estimated it will cost $2.12 million to install 23 miles of transmission mains.

Authorization to proceed was given by the County Board of Public Works.

Alexander said he will advertise for bids July 22 and 25.

The project will be spit approximately in half for bidding purposes, he said, because the job is too big to be handled by any one contractor.

★ ★ ★

Construction is scheduled to begin in October, and is expected to take seven months to complete.

COMMUNITY WELLS

★ ★ ★

Customers are now paying the township 20 cents per thousand gallons of water.

Detroit water will cost them 30 cents per thousand gallons, according to James Scott, director of the township water and sewer department.

Customers will be charged an additional $5 quarterly for 25 years to pay off a county loan for construction, said Scott.

★ ★ ★

New customers will be charged $100 plus costs for laterals or $600 to connect into the system, he added.

Fair and Still Warm Forecast Tomorrow

Generally fair and continued warm is the weatherman's prediction for tonight and tomorrow. Temperatures are expected to drop to a mild 63 tonight and rise to 87 tomorrow.

Sixty-four was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The thermometer reading at 1 p.m. was 86.

Where Debris Sighted

120 Killed as Moslem Sects Fight

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Police reported that 120 persons were killed nad 26 injured today in a clash between Shiite and Sunni Moslems in a village 250 miles north of Karachi.

The Shiite Moslems reject the first three caliphs — the first three rulers of the church after the Prophet Mohammed died —and recognize the prophet's son-in-law as his true successor. The Sunnis are Orthodox Moslems.

A police report said "miscreants" interfered with a Shiite religious procession. An enraged mob of Shiites then set fire to the village of Thari, and followers of both sects rioted.

★ ★ ★

The police fired tear gas shells to restore order.

EARLIER CLASH

Two people were killed and several injured in a similar clash Monday in Lahore. Later 180 persons were arrested and a 12-hour curfew was imposed.

★ ★ ★

In neighboring Iran, Shiite religious processions turned into anti-government demonstrations with between 15,000 and 20,000 marching on the university in Tehran. Troops kept them off the campus and also away from the royal palace and the government radio.

There have been Shiite observances for the past three days commemorating the opening of the sect's month of mourning for their founder.

The last head of the Shiites died in 1960 and the public observances were also intended to proclaim Ayatullah Mhomaini as new head of the religious group.

★ ★ ★

Iranian government sources said conservative Shiite clergy who oppose the shah's land reform and rights for women programs were turning the religious observances into political demonstrations.

May Appeal on Tax Rate

County School Board Raps Allocation

The Oakland County School Board might file an appeal to the State Tax Commission on the tenth-of-a-mill tax rate set by the County Tax Allocation Board yesterday.

County School Superintendent William J. Emersoa told fellow members of the tax allocation board that an appeal would be in order.

School Board Chairman Frederick Beckman said an appeal will be considered when his board meets June 13 to discuss a general education budget for fiscal year 1964-65.

★ ★ ★

An allocation of .10 mills would provide approximately $238,676.

According to Emerson the County School Board was within its rights to expect any allocation required up to 4 mills.

★ ★ ★

This or any lesser figure required to finance a school district's budget is the minimum allocation according to state law.

The allocation board splits 15 mills among county and township governments, school districts and the County School Board.

In setting the final rates, the allocation board awarded 5.19 mills to county government, and 9.71 mills to local school districts, less whatever amount is allocated to the various townships for local government.

The County Board of Supervisors had requested 5.94 mills to maintain and operate the county next year.

The 5.19-mill rate will provide the county $11.4 million in taxes, which means the budget will have to be pared $1.6 million.

Fraud Charge Made Against Hoffa, Others

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal grand jury today indicted Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa and seven other men on charges of fraudulently obtaining $20 million in loans from a Teamsters' pension fund and using more than $1 million of it for their own benefit.

The indictment, the latest move in the Justice Department's continuing battle with the Teamsters boss, was announced simultaneously by the Justice Department in Washington and U.S. Atty. James P. O'Brien in Chicago.

A 28-count indictment accused Hoffa and the others of obtaining 14 loans from the giant Central State Teamsters Pension Fund headquartered in Chicago.

The Justice Department said the indictments capped a two-year investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Businessmen See JFK

To Push Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is expected to push for voluntary desegregation of hotels, restaurants, stores and theaters when he meets at the White House today with 100 businessmen who have outlets in the South.

Whether or not his persuasive approach works, the President is likely to go ahead with plans to ask Congress to approve a heavy package of civil rights bills.

Thus, Kennedy is bent on using both the carrot and the stick in hopes of soothing the discontent of Negroes and heading off renewed racial violence in the South.

Related Stories, Pages 9, 10

Agreement in principle on a civil rights package was reached at a conference Monday between the President and Democratic congressional leaders, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., reported.

Humphrey, the acting Democratic leader, said the bills would include legislation to ban racial segregation both in private business and in public facilities. One objective, he said, would be to give the attorney general power to start a federal court suit on behalf of any individual denied his civil rights.

Glance at the Racial Scene

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Negro attorneys to ask federal appeals court for immediate injunction to strike down city's segregated school system.

Justice Department attorneys press for order barring Gov. George C. Wallace from interfering with scheduled enrollment of Negroes at University of Alabama next week.

SAVANNAH, Ga — Three of city's four downtown theaters integrate but two bow to public pressure and announce they will revert to former status.

Crowd gathers and two shots fired into air as two Negroes enter one theater, but no injuries reported and police control crowd.

PHILADELPHIA — Congress of racial Equality and National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced they will cooperate in opposing alleged racial discrimination.

Each had been conducting separate and sometimes conflicting campaigns on city construction projects.

Violence Flares in Florida When Integration Denied

From Our News Wires

Racial violence flared again last night in Gainesville, Fla. and Negroes in Savannah, Ga., where two theaters backed out on an integration agreement, threatened new civil rights protests today.

Groups of Negroes showered cars with stones and bricks in Gainsville, injuring several white persons. It was the second consecutive night of racial disorders in the city, home of the University of Florida.

Gainsville Mayor-Commissioner Byron Winn named a bi-racial committee to try to ease the tension in the city, where attempts to integrate two downtown theaters first touched off the violence Sunday night.

Four theaters in Savannah had announced they would drop racial barriers. But a few hours later, two rescinded the decision.

Albert Weis, owner of the two theaters, said he went back to a segregated policy under "public pressure."

Negro leaders announced they would resume picketing of the two theaters until Weis agrees to integrate them.

Elsewhere in the South, a federal judge said he would issue a formal order today prohibiting interference with the admission tomorrow of a second Negro to the University of Mississippi.

Negro leaders in Baton Rouge, La., called a 30-day halt to integration demonstrations in the Louisiana capital, but new protests were promised for Danville, Va., where more than 250 persons picketed city hall.

Mayor Allen Thompson of Jackson, Miss., said the Negro drive to crack rigid racial barriers in that city has run out of steam, but a Negro leader said "A full day of activity is scheduled."

Thompson went a step further on two concessions he made for hiring Negro policemen and school crossing guards, announcing the city would begin receiving Negro applications for the posts.

In Los Angeles, Negroes prepared plans for achieving "total integration" in the area. A school to train young people and young adults in nonviolent demonstrations such as picketing and sitins was formed.

Another federal jurist said he would decide tomorrow whether to hand down a similar order restraining Alabama Gov. George Wallace from blocking the enrollment of three Negroes in the University of Alabama Monday.

Judge Sidney Mize of Biloxi, Miss., said yesterday he would order Cleve McDowell admitted to the "Ole Miss" law school tomorrow despite a warning by Gov. Ross Barnett that such an act would touch off "increased unrest and disturbances."

At Birmingham, Ala., after an hour and a half hearing yesterday, Judge Seybourn Lynne promised to rule tomorrow morning on whether an injunction should be issued against Wallace who has vowed to stand in the door to keep Negroes out of Alabama's segregated public schools and colleges.

The other Negro student is David M. McGlathery, 27, of Huntsville. He plans to enroll at the Huntsville branch of the university.

On another front, Negro attorneys are taking to a federal appeals court their request for an immediate injunction to strike down the segregated school system in racially troubled Birmingham.

Attorney W. L. Williams Jr. said the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans would be asked for a preliminary injunction pending an appeal of a lower court ruling. Notice of appeal was filed Monday.

U.S. Dist. Judge Seybourn H. Lynne refused last Tuesday to order school desegregation but warned he would order submission of an integration plan unless school officials administer a state pupil placement law without discrimination this fall.

morning by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., to discuss strategy on civil rights measures was postponed. No new date was given.

Russell had said in advance that the absence of a number of senators might make a postponement necessary.

The delay until next week in the submission of the administration's program also appeared to be a factor.

All southern states except Alabama and Arkansas will be represented at the businessmen's meeting with Kennedy in late afternoon.

Kennedy asked them to come to "discuss some aspects of the difficulties experienced by minority groups in many of our cities in securing employment and equal access to facilities and services generally available to the public.

Kennedy's special message on civil rights will be his second to Congress this year. The first was on Feb. 28.

A great deal has happened since then: Negro picketing, rioting, and arrests in Birmingham, Jackson, Tallahassee, Philadelphia and other cities.

These events have convinced Kennedy that more is needed than the mild proposals he sent to Congress in February.

'UF Should Budget Its Agencies'

DETROIT — A proposal that the United Foundation be allowed to establish the budgets of its 196 health and welfare agencies was made yesterday by Walter C. Laidlaw, executive vice president of the UF.

★ ★ ★

Local agencies now submit their proposed budgets to United community services, administrative organization for the agencies.

★ ★ ★

Budget requests from state and national agencies are submitted to the Michigan United Fund, which is both the fund-raising and administrative agency for these groups in the state.

REQUESTED

The United Foundation is requested to raise the funds after UCS and MUF decide how much money should be allocated to their agencies.

★ ★ ★

The UF would deal with the budgets directly and they would bypass the state unit, under Laidlaw's proposal.

"I recommend that the budgeting of all Torch Drive agency funds become the function of the UF," Laidlaw said.

★ ★ ★

Carl Bradley, director of the Pontiac Area United Fund, said this morning that the local UF follows the suggested procedure. "We budget directly," he said.

priests said Requiem Masses continually in hushed tones.

L'Osservatore Roman, the Vatican newspaper, said it would publish over the next several days a series of unpublished writings and thoughts of Pope John.

MOURNING PURPLE

Cardinals and diplomats walked in a steady stream up the royal staircase from the bronze door to the papal apartment. The cardinals were in mourning purple, the diplomats in formal dress.

They knelt at the foot of the catafalque to kiss the Pope's slipper. The prelates sprinkled holy water on the body as they knelt.

The 1,000 citizens of Vatican City began to pass by the Pope's body toward noon. Some aged and stooped, they wore their best dark suits.

Prof. Antonio Gasbarrini, official papal physician who had struggled for days to aid the dying ponti ,ffsat in one corner of the room. His face showed grief.

★ ★ ★

Embedded in the floor was a mosaic reproduction of the coat of arms of Pope Pius XII, the predecessor of Pope John. Pope John's own seal was in the flooring of the room outside.

FLAG OF VENICE

The mourners came and went without interruption. Among the first was Benedetto Aloisi Masella, cardinal chamberlain who handles routine affairs of the Vatican as administrator until the conclave, to be called later this month, elects the next pope.

The first meeting was attended only by cardinals who were in Rome when the Pope died.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals, sent formal notice of the Pope's death to the other 81 members of the sacred college and summoned them to Rome.

★ ★ ★

He must decide whether to continue the Ecumenical Council which Pope John convened last fall and which was suspended automatically at his death. The

AIM OF UNITY

The council's aim was greater Christian unity, and it is considered almost certain that the new Pope will summon the church's 2,400 bishops back to Rome to resume its work.

The new Pope also must decide whether to move along the path of better relations with Communist governments which Pope John had opened in hopes of erasing the plight of Catholics behind the Iron Curtain.

The cardinals will vote twice daily in the Sistine Chapel until two thirds of the princes of the church agree on a choice. Although neither a lesser prelate nor a non-Italian is barred, the new Pope probably will be an Italian and a cardinal.

The favorite among the "papabile"—those considered likely papal candidates—is Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, 65, archbishop of Milan and the first cardinal created by Pope John.

Although he was not a cardinal at the time, he was mentioned often as a papal prospect before the 1958 conclave that chose Pope John to succeed Pope Pius XII.

Probable That JFK to Delay Italian Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy probably will put off a scheduled visit to Italy until after the College of Cardinals elects a successor to Pope John XXIII.

★ ★ ★

Taking note of the pontiff's death, Kennedy—first Roman Catholic to hold the U.S. presidency—said Pope John's "wisdom, compassion and timely strength have bequeathed humanity a new legacy of purpose and courage for the future."

Kennedy originally was scheduled to fly to Italy on June 29. But the conclave to choose a new Pope must begin no earlier than June 18 and no later than June 21.

★ ★ ★

Since it is likely to last five or six days—the average length of previous 20th century conclaves—Kennedy would be unable to visit Italy until after he goes ahead with already firm plans to tour West Germany and Ireland.

His tentative itinerary calls for him to leave Ireland on June 29. If a new pontiff is chosen by that date, it's possible Kennedy will fly from Ireland to Italy instead of to Washington.

OK Expected on Extension of Tax Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways & Means Committee was expected today to approve a one-year extension of federal tax rates on liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, telephone calls, airline tickets and corporation profits.

The House group took time out from its work on President Kennedy's proposed income tax cut to meet in closed session on his request to continue the higher excise levies and corporate rate enacted during the Korean War.

Unless Congress approves the extension, these taxes will drop on July 1. Although they originally were levied as "temporary" taxes, they have been extended repeatedly by Congress and apparently will be again.

The temporary taxes now yield more than $4 billion a year in revenue. That includes almost $2.4 billion from corporations and almost $1.8 billion from the excise taxes.

Dismiss Charge Against Henry

A contempt of court citation against Pontiac City Commissioner Milton R. Henry, issued last March, was dismissed in Genesee County Circuit Court today.

Circuit Court Judge Louis D. McGregor discontinued the contempt of court case, saying that he felt Henry had "purged" himself.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac city commissioner told the judge he was sorry about the whole affair and promised it wouldn't happen again.

He was cited for appearing 105 minutes late for the March 14 trial of Harold Liston of Flint, whom he was representing in an appeal from Flint Municipal Court on an assault and battery conviction.

In April Henry was cleared of a contempt charge before a Flint municipal judge. The charge was dismissed.

Alternate Parking Plans Presented Commission

BIRMINGHAM — Alternate plans for parking in the southwest section were presented to the City Commission last night by the Central Birmingham Residents Association (CBRA).

★ ★ ★

Three alternative parking plans were presented by Veryzer and Rolland Wilkening, consultant to CBRA.

Of the three plans, the one which the CBRA favors concerns redeveloping the block bounded by Maple, Southfield, Merrill and Chester.

★ ★ ★

As outlined by Veryzer, the plan calls for acquiring the old Hill School property, the playground and northwest corner of Maple and Southfield for parking.

The Hill School administration building would be shifted to the corner of Maple and Southfield west of Baldwin School, according to the plan.

Other suggestions were decking this lot for added Baldwin playground space now and eventually using it for parking.

Wilkening, who is associated with a Detroit contracting firm, estimated the CBRA-proposed lot would accommodate 475 to 500 cars, eventually 1,000. He said costs for a minimum structure range around $850,000.

Other plans introduced by the CBRA were to deck the municipal lot off Pierce Street or purchase the north half of the Community House block.

This would include the Merrill right-of-way plus some library property and Community House auditorium expansion over the proposed lot.

The city will assist this year's Birmingham Arts Festival with anywhere from $1,000 to $1,500, according to L. R. Gare, city manager.

The request was made at last night's meeting. R. F. McLean, chairman of the arts festival, said the committee would appreciate any material assistance it could get, namely a truck and driver to transport scenery, stand and chairs.

The Arts Festival, June 16-23, will be held at two locations.

According to McLean's letter to the commission, "the main events will occur at the Birmingham Art Center on South Cranbrook Road and in the downtown area."

The city spent $1,499 when the 1962 festival was staged at the Art Center; $354 in 1961 when the festival was held in Shain Park; and $1,297 for the 1960 festival, also at Shain Park.

T. Ralph Alexander, 1975 Shipman, has been elected president of the Birmingham Lions Club.

Pledges U. S. to Fight Hunger

President Addresses World Food Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said today no nation or citizen can feel satisfied or secure as long as "half of humanity is still undernourished or hungry."

In an address at the opening of the World Food Congress, Kennedy said the United States pledges full support to a multination campaign to achieve freedom from hunger.

"We have it within our power to win this battle," he told 1,200 delegates from more than 100 nations. "It is a more important, more glorious battle than any other in the history of man—for it involves the power to build, rather than destroy."

★ ★ ★

Kennedy said the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, sponsor of the congress, "has embarked on a vigorous and imaginative program which is now at the half-way mark."

During the past decade, Kennedy said, the United States, through its food-for-peace program, has contributed more than $12 billion of food and fiber to less fortunate peoples. He said the program now brings food to 100 million persons in 100 countries.

The program, he said, can take care of emergency needs stemming from famine, floods and other catastrophies, "but it is not a permanent solution."

The real goal, Kennedy said, "must be to produce more food in the nations which need it most.

"Know-how is not the problem," he said. "For the first time in the history of the world, we do know how to produce enough food—enough to eliminate all hunger completely."

What is needed now, he said, is "a greater, more systematic effort to share this knowledge, to help transmit and adapt new farm technology across the barriers of ignorance and suspicion."

split" political subdivisions — such as the city of Dearborn — and "destroy the concept of population as a basis for redistricting."

If none of these "deficiencies" were corrected, Ferency said, "the Democratic party may be compelled to take this question to the people in the form of a referendum in order that they may determine what is best for them."

★ ★ ★

By law, a referendum could not be held until the 1964 general election. To get the issue on the ballot, sponsors would need petitions signed by five per cent of the total vote for governor in the last previous (1962) election, or about 139,000 names.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman for the financially-distressed Democrats said he had "no idea" how much a petition drive would cost but expected it would be primarily volunteer work.

REBUFFED

Romney, who has rebuffed Lesinski and other Democrats in earlier attempts for a compromise on congressional reapportionment, met Ferency's charges head-on.

He said the Democrats' plan, which Lesinski drew up, would create ghettos" to an even greater extent" than the GOP plan.

"There is no all-Negro district in our plan" asserted the governor. "The Democrats' plan, however, would do exactly what they claim ours would do.

Romney defended the GOP-authored plan by saying it would "work both ways" and not simply to the benefit of Republicans, as the Democrats have charge.

School Unit to Consider Tax Rate

Establishment of a tax rate for 1963-64 for the Pontiac School District will be considered at 8 p.m. Thursday by the board of education.

School Supt. Dana P. Whitmer will propose a tax rate that takes into account the potential effect of the appeal by General Motors Corp. of its assessed valuation.

The auto firm has appealed to the Michigan Tax Commission on its assessed valuation. General Motors claims its valuation was assessed $32 million higher than it should be.

Whitmer's proposed tax rate will consider the effect of a loss of $32 million in assessed valuation. This, in essence, means the tax base would be lower than anticipated and could raise the school tax rate.

The school board will also receive bids on the purchase of bakery and dairy products for the 1963-64 school year.

In addition, the school board will receive two reports on current school programs. Firstly, a report on the purpose and objectives of the guidance and counselling program will be presented board members.

Secondly, the administration of inter-scholastic athletics will be outlined to the seven-member school board.

Election inspectors and their rate of pay for the annual school election June 10 will be determined by the school board.

Workers must be selected for all 20 school precincts. Usually, three or four workers are needed for each precinct.

Sees Effect of Experiments, Trends

Pontiac School Chief Views the Future

By GARY THORNE

"A lot of our problems today are rooted in ignorance. If people are really going to live as free men, they must have greater perception, insight, and understanding."

★ ★ ★

This is the view of veteran educator Dr. Dana P. Whitmer, Pontiac superintendent of schools.

Dr. Whitmer, who has nine year at the helm of Pontiac's educational mill, took a practical look at what lays ahead for public school systems. He indicated trends and outlined current experiments that may change what goes on in tomorrow's classrooms.

The school chief pointed to several areas where Pontiac education is in the midst of new ideas, radical changes, and pilot programs touching nearly every aspect of learning.

★ ★ ★

The concept of 30 students and one teacher is already on the way out, according to Dr. Whitmer. He pointed to two experiments, one at Pontiac Northern High School and the other at Madison Junior High School that forecast a change in the 30-to-1 classroom situation.

★ ★ ★

He said experiments have shown that some subjects can be taught in larger groups, while others need smaller numbers than even the 30 found in the average classroom.

'BEST PROCEDURE'

★ ★ ★

One experiment at Pontiac Northern features 90 seniors who operate as a unit. These students, who constitute a three-year pilot project, may attend a lecture as a group of 90, then gather in small discussion groups of a dozen or so, and then go on to independent research in the library.

A related trial program at Madison Junior High has an English and social studies teacher combining instruction for two hours daily.

Under this arrangement, Whitmer said, a written paper is graded by the English teacher for grammar, punctuation, and spelling, while the same paper is graded by the social studies instructor for its content.

Whitoer said other experiments in team teaching are going on throughout the Pontiac system. He expects the experiments to continue.

He cited the use of television instruction, teaching machines, and foreign language instruction for elementary students as new programs that will be developed further in the immediate future.

★ ★ ★

The content of what is taught is constantly changing. Dr. Whitmer expects teaching procedures will become more scientific. This will change the content of textbooks and may mean the retraining of teachers.

★ ★ ★

"The trend," he explained, "is to pinpoint learning difficulties and arrange instruction to help the child overcome the problem."

MORE SCIENTIFIC

Teaching, according to Dr. Whitmer, is tending to become more and more scientific. Team teaching, he said, will spread teacher talents and in effect give the student an expert in the subject he is taking.

★ ★ ★

The former Ohio school principal said methods of teaching are always changing with new approaches being tried. He expects this trend to grow and prosper as teaching becomes more scientific.

Dr. Whitmer said schools will exert even more effort in the future of the most gifted student and the poorer pupil.

He said the role of vocational education has drastically changed and will continue to as jobs in industry change. Teaching will constantly change to give students the skills to handle the jobs available.

★ ★ ★

On school administration, Dr. Whitmer expressed four forecasts. Firstly, he said the school year as it now stands is almost certain to be eliminated.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac superintendent predicted summer vacations might be shortened to two weeks every few months rather than the long vacation under the present arrangement.

The biggest obstacle to year-round school operation, according to Whitmer, is money. He said expenses would rise in line with the greater use of school buildings and personnel.

SUPPLEMENTARY TAXES

Secondly, Whitmer qestioned just how long the property tax could carry the load of the school system. He guessed the supplementary taxes might be needed in the future.

A third trend, according to the Pontiac educator, is the consolidation of smaller school districts. Small schools, he added, are on the way out.

"There will always be some,"

DANA P. WHITMER

A fourth change in school administration related by Whitmer foresees the changing relationship between school boards and teachers.

Whitmer said this was kicked off by the New York teacher strike. He said change is inevitable.

★ ★ ★

Although the matter is not a local problem, the school chief predicted that the relationship between school boards and teachers would change to guarantee teachers the right to be heard and their proposals considered.

This "right of hearing" will vary between school districts, but is a definite trend.

TWO GROUPS

In most school districts, including Pontiac, teachers belong to one of two groups, the National Education Association or the American Federation of Teachers.

These two groups differ on their approaches to wages, hours, and working conditions. The NEA calls its bargaining with school boards "professional negotiations," while the AFT is more apt to take the industrial union approach.

Pontiac has both groups and Whitmer said the two organizations have right of hearing." Whitmer expects the new relationships to extend to every school district.

Dr. Whitmer, after almost a decade as head of Pontiac schools and with more than a quarter century in education, reflects an "exciting" outlook for public education.

He appears to be thrilled and more than a little impressed with some of the changes that lay around the corner.

POPE JOHN XXIII

As medical service sergeant, chaplain in Italian Army in 1915, during World War I.

On December 10, 1934, the man who was to become Pope John XXIII, was a Bishop.

October 29, 1953, at Castel Gondolfo, Italy, when he was elevated to rank of Cardinal.

Pope John XXIII, 251st Supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church, proved to be a man of action whose dynamism seemed to stem from his robust peasant background. During his tenure as Pope he shattered tradition many times in his efforts to modernize the Church.

It was predicted that he would be an interim Pope until a younger and more energetic man came along. But this proved not to be the case. A precedent-breaker, the 251st Supreme Pontiff left his imprint on every phase of Papal activity.

Perhaps his foremost accomplishment was the calling of the 1962 Ecumenical Council, the first since 1870 and 21st in nearly 2,000 years of Christian history.

There were many departures from the traditions established by his predecessors.

Less than a day after being elected he made a radio address to the world—a plea for peace.

In less than three weeks he broke a 372-year tradition by increasing the size of the College of Cardinals to more than 70. He later raised that number even higher.

Among the newly appointed Cardinals were the first Negro (from Africa), the first Filipino and the first Japanese, his way of underscoring the universality of the Church.

In a break with the idea that the Papacy is a self imposed imprisonment, he went by train to pray at Shrines in Italy. Italians soon became used to seeing him out in the city visiting a jail, hospital or reform school.

His long tenure in the Vatican Foreign Service gave him knowledge of seven languages. In addition to Italian and Latin, he was fluent in Turkish, Greek, Bulgarian and French and had a knowledge of Russian. In order to communicate directly with visitors who could speak none of these, he took up English.

Pope John XXIII was anything but an interim Pope. His achievements will be felt in the Christian world for years to come.

Moderately Active Trading

Stock Market Drops Irregularly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved irregularly lower in moderately active trading early today.

* * *

Once again, some sizable blocks were traded at the opening in various stocks, including:

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed. Changes were narrow. Corporate bonds were uneven.

Grand Rapids Company Gets Navy Contract

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A U.S. Navy follow-on contract in excess of $2.2 million for aircraft in-flight attitude reference systems has been awarded to Lear Siegler, Inc., Instrument Division here.

Division President Joseph M. Walsh says the device first was placed in production in 1958.

BOND PROPOSITION

Shall Waterford Township School District, County of Oakland, State of Michigan, borrow the sum of not to exceed Six Million Two Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($6,250,000) and issue its bonds therefor, for the purpose of defraying the cost of erecting, furnishing and equipping a new Junior High School building, new elementary school buildings, a new bus garage, and additions to the Waterford Township High School building, to the Isaac E. Crary Junior High School building, and to existing elementary school buildings, remodeling the "A" building on the Waterford Township High School Site, and acquiring school sites and additions to school sites, all in said school district?

BOND PROJECT OPERATING TAX LIMITATION PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be assessed each year against property in Waterford Township School District, County of Oakland, State of Michigan, for all purposes except taxes for the payment of interest and principal on obligations incurred prior to December 8, 1932, be increased as provided in Section 21 of Article X of the Constitution of Michigan, for a period of five (5) years from 1964 to 1968, both inclusive, by 2½ mills on each dollar ($2.50 per $1,000) of the assessed valuation as state equalized, for the purpose of operating the facilities for which $6,250,000 of bonds are to be issued, in the event that issuance of such bonds is approved by the electors?

SALARY IMPROVEMENT TAX LIMITATION PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be assessed each year against property in Waterford Township School District County of Oakland, State of Michigan, for all purposes except taxes for the payment of interest and principal on obligations incurred prior to December 8, 1932, be increased as provided in Section 21 of Article X of the Constitution of Michigan, for a period of six (6) years from 1963 to 1968, both inclusive, by 2½ mills on each dollar ($2.50 per $1,000) of the assessed valuation as state equalized, for the purpose of providing salary increases for school district employees?

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE OF ELECTION

The purposes of the Community College Proposition and the Tax Rate Limitation Increase Proposition and the Election of Trustees are to authorize the establishment and operation of a Community College to provide instruction in Collegiate and non-collegiate courses of study embracing not more than two years of collegiate work, and the acquisition, construction, ownership, development and maintenance of facilities of the Community College, and to provide funds therefor, and to elect a first Board of Trustees of the Community College District, all as provided by Act #188 of Public Acts of 1955, as amended.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE QUESTION

Shall Act #188 of the Public Acts of 1955, as amended, being Sections 390.871 to 390.882 of the Compiled Laws of 1948, be adopted and be effective in a Community College District to be known as the Community College District of Parts of the Counties of Oakland, Washtenaw, Livingston and Lapeer.

TAX RATE LIMITATION INCREASE QUESTION

Shall the limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be assessed each year against property in the Community College District of Parts of the Counties of Oakland, Washtenaw, Livingston and Lapeer, State of Michigan, for all purposes except taxes for the payment of interest and principal on obligations incurred prior to December 8, 1932, be increased as provided by Section 21, Article X of the State Constitution of Michigan by one-tenth of one per cent ($1.00 per $1,000.00) of the assessed valuation, as equalized, for a period of twenty (20) years from 1963 to 1982, both inclusive.

Notice is further given, that the polls for said election will be open from 7:00 o'clock A.M. to 8:00 o'clock P.M., Eastern Standard Time, and that the voting places will be as follows:
