

Troubled Gemini Flight Ends Triumphantly

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (U)—The Gemini 9 astronauts, in a near-perfect climax to their sensational and often-troublesome orbital flight, splashed triumphantly to a safe landing in the Atlantic Ocean today and received the grateful congratulations of President Johnson. Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan — the world's new champion space walker — made the most accurate landing in the U.S. man-in-space program.

They parked Gemini 9 just half a mile short of the aiming point and only 3 1/4 miles off the bow of the main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Wasp.

Shortly afterwards, President Johnson phoned the new space heroes from the LBJ Ranch in Texas and said "We're proud of both of you... you have made us all aware of what performance under pressure is all about and that includes courage."

on his 2-hour 5-minute space walk, saying "That little stroll, Gene, was one of the finest chapters in our whole space story."

PROMOTION EYED

The President said he would nominate Cernan today for promotion to the grade of Navy commander. Stafford has been promoted to Air Force lieutenant colonel after his Gemini 6 flight in December.

The "on the money" splash-down came at 9 a.m. EST after a flight of three days and 21 minutes during which Gemini 9 circled the globe 45 times and traveled nearly 1.2 million miles.

With thousands of sailors cheering, the Wasp maneuvered alongside and retrieved the pilots and spacecraft from the sea 50 minutes later.

Stafford and Cernan acknowledged the cheers with waves and "thumbs up" signals. Both appeared relaxed and in excellent physical condition.

PLAY IT CLOSE

Commander-pilot Stafford, whose cool, on-the-spot decisions played a key role in the mission, steered the spaceship to a touchdown within sight of the carrier.

"Pretty close for government work," commented a flight dynamics officer.

On the deck, the hatches were opened and the smiling space twins stood up, waved at the sailors and the television cameras, and shook hands with Navy and space agency officials.

They then shook hands with one another and Stafford rubbed his three-day old beard and laughed.

BAND STRIKES UP

The 17-piece ship's band struck up "Anchors Aweigh" as the astronauts headed for a two-hour examination.

A large banner on the deck

read: "Welcome Stafford (again) and Cernan."

The Wasp also retrieved Stafford and Walter M. Schirra Jr. after the Gemini 6 flight in December.

Capt. Gordon E. Hartley, the Wasp commander, said: "We've had our share of good ones, but this was the best of all, just the way we planned it."

SHORT OF TARGET

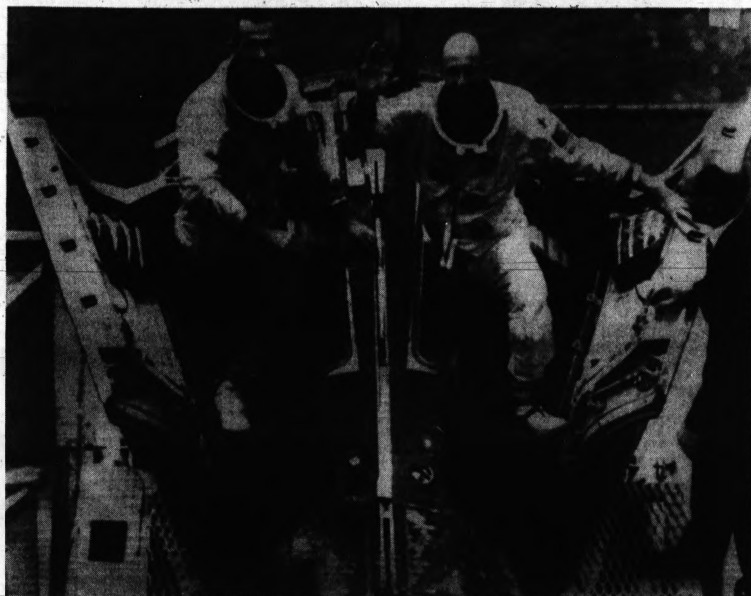

He said he put the ship a little short of target just in case Stafford carried out his threat to fly "right down the smokestack."

Stafford, making his second flight into space in six months, was aided in the textbook landing by Cernan, who used the spacecraft computer to help calculate the maneuvers as Gemini 9 sped back through the atmosphere.

He had an assist from an easterly wind that helped blow the craft toward the carrier.

A helicopter was overhead within seconds and Navy frogmen leaped into the water to attach a flotation collar.

The divers reported Stafford and Cernan gave the "thumbs up" signal through their spacecraft window as it bobbed in the four-to-five-foot waves.

10 Civilians Named to South Viet Junta

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (U)—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime nominated a slate of 10 civilians today to join the 10-man ruling junta but excluded Buddhist extremists opposing the government.

The list included some moderate Buddhists, Roman Catholics and representatives of the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao sects.

But the absence of any militant Buddhists pointed to the imminent danger of a collapse of the political truce between the regime and the unified Buddhist Church.

Even before the government published the list, the Buddhist Institute said: "This cannot solve anything but only increase the opposition from the people."

A spokesman said the Buddhists wouldn't join the government if asked.

BEAT DEADLINE

The ruling generals drafted the list of civilians several hours before a deadline agreed on last week in negotiations between moderate Buddhist elements and the Ky regime to end the political crisis.

The list submitted by the junta was received this afternoon by the 34-man Armed Forces Council, part of the governing military apparatus, then sent back to the junta for approval.

The Buddhist Institute, in a communiqué, repeated demands for the resignation of Ky and the chief of state, Nguyen Van Thieu.

"If the two generals still remain in power with only superficial changes in the junta, it cannot solve anything but only increase the opposition from the people," the communiqué said.

While the Ky regime attempted to live up to its political pact with the Buddhists, it appeared in for a surprise from the Electoral Commission it named to prepare the ground for the Sept. 11 elections for a Constitutional Assembly.

The premier said last month that he probably wouldn't be able to step down until the middle of next year. However, the junta could reject the commission's recommendations.

Pair Die in Separate Weekend Mishaps

Two Pontiac area youths drowned in separate accidents and a 75-year-old woman died in a head-on automobile collision in White Lake Township this weekend.

Dead are Mark Greenwood, 9, of Beverly Hills; Arthur F. Leland III, 16, of 21141 Rensselaer, Farmington Township; and Mrs. Nellie B. Wiedman of 418 Washington, South Lyon.

Beverly Hills police said the Greenwood boy was found dead last night at the bottom of a swimming pool behind his home. A sister discovered the body.

Young Leland perished late Saturday when he attempted to swim across a small lake in the vicinity of Halstead and 11 Mile, according to Farmington Township police.

Mrs. Wiedman, alone in her car, was killed Saturday afternoon when she collided with a vehicle driven by Mrs. William Applebee, 21, of 965 Duck Lake, Milford Township.

White Lake Township police said Mrs. Wiedman's car crossed the center line on M59 moments before hitting the Applebee car. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

2 Kidnap Victims Tell of Terror

LANSING (AP) — Two mothers and a baby spent several terrifying hours at the mercy of a gunman who kidnapped them in front of a Lansing church yesterday and locked one woman in the car trunk. The abductor abandoned the car on a country road when one of the mothers escaped and spread the alarm.

Four hours after the kidnapping and 40 miles west of Lansing, State Police Trooper Royal Gaddy spotted a man in a wooded area.

Gaddy was lowered from a National Guard helicopter, crept up behind him, and captured him without a struggle.

Gaddy identified the man he arrested as Gary Lee Hoskins, 27, of Benton Harbor. Hoskins was turned over to Lansing police for investigation. No charges were filed.

Mrs. Joan VanAuken and Mrs. Carol Emerson, both 31 and both Sunday school teachers, had just stopped their car near St. Paul's Episcopal Church, across from the State Capitol in Lansing, and let out four children when a man climbed into the car and said "start driving."

In the car was Mrs. VanAuken's 6-month-old baby, Mark.

The kidnaper got angry and started cursing when they pleaded with him to let them go, the women said.

About 20 miles from Lansing, he ordered Mrs. VanAuken to stop the car and forced Mrs. Emerson into the trunk.

"You're too much for me if you decide to make trouble," Mrs. VanAuken said the man explained.

Farther west, Mrs. VanAuken tried to attract two men in a backyard by screaming for help.

"The two men just stood there watching, flabbergasted. I guess they thought it was a family fight," she said.

As the car slowed, Mrs. VanAuken slipped out the door and ran away from her captor. He drove off with Mrs. Emerson still in the trunk and the baby on the floor.

A few minutes later, the kidnaper stopped the car, unlocked the trunk and let her look with him from a bluff for possible pursuers.

He then locked Mrs. Emerson in the trunk again, drove a short while longer and then abandoned the car.

The trapped woman kicked out the back seat to free herself and found the baby, unhurt, on the car floor.

An hour later, the suspect was captured.

Yesterday's kidnapping followed by less than 24 hours the abduction of 17-year-old Mary Estlund in Davison, near Flint.

Miss Estlund was abducted less than a block from her home by a gun-wielding man who forced her into his car and drove off.

State Police Trooper Harvey Kuiper found the car on a lonely country road several miles east of Flint and forced it off the highway.

Miss Estlund broke away from her captor and ran to Kuiper, screaming. The man ran into a wooded area.

An hour later, police searching the area heard a shot and a scream. On a wooded trail, the found Glenn Duane Wilson Jr., 25, of Flint bleeding from a wound in his chest.

'Prison Bars' Chocolate

A 7-year-old Pontiac boy had an almost infinite menu selection at supper-time last night. But he chose candy and gum.

Locked in Saven Foods store at Pontiac Mall for about three hours was Patrick Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Baldwin, 179 Augusta.

Young Patrick made himself right at home, disposing of two packs of gum, two candy bars and some breadsticks.

Patrick's heyday came to a halt at about 9:45 p.m. when Pontiac and Waterford Township police arrived.

SPOTS BOY

They had been summoned by Thomas McQueen of 607 Burgess, White Lake Township, who had spotted the youngster in the store.

A store employee, Steve Blumerick of 195 Loc Haven, Waterford Township, was contacted. He unlocked the door, "freeing" Patrick from his new-found paradise.

The youth had been reported missing at 2 yesterday afternoon. The store closed at 6 p.m.

Rabbi Ties Firing to Race Stand

A Pontiac rabbi claimed today that one reason he was being dismissed was because of his speaking out on local racial issues.

Rabbi Ernst J. Conrad, spiritual leader of Temple Beth Jacob, said he had heard no complaints until after he had given two sermons: one on race relations and one on certain ritualistic practices.

A spokesman for the Reform synagogue, which has 116 members, denied Rabbi Conrad's charges, citing the synagogue's pioneering effort on inter-group relations.

"We are not interested in a direct answer or rebuttal (to the rabbi's charges)," the spokesman said. "We do not want to ventilate internal affairs in the press."

The decision not to renew Rabbi Conrad's one-year contract was made by the temple's 18-member board of directors. The spokesman claimed the rabbi was notified a year ago that his contract would not be renewed.

Rabbi Conrad said he was told his contract was being renewed as of June 1, but that he had until August to find another pulpit.

The 45-year-old rabbi said his successor, a graduate of the Cincinnati Hebrew Union College, had already been appointed.

Rabbi Conrad, of 59 S. Genesee, came to Pontiac Sept. 1, 1962. Following his ordination in 1947, he held pulpits in Maryland and North Carolina.

He worked as a counselor for Jewish students at Oakland University and taught a course in Rabbinical archeology for the OU Department of Continuing Education.

A testimonial dinner was held last week honoring the rabbi.

SURVIVE COLLISION — Three of the 10 persons aboard a 26-foot cabin cruiser when it collided with a Bob-Lo boat last night in the Detroit River are shown aboard a rescue craft. None was identified. Police said Mrs. Peggy Durdin, 32, of Detroit, one of those aboard the cruiser, was missing and presumed drowned.

High Court Rules Dr. Sam Trial Unfair

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard did not receive a fair trial in the bludgeoning slaying of his first wife, Marilyn.

Justice Tom C. Clark announced the court's decision. Justice Hugo L. Black noted a dissent.

Clark said the court had concluded "that Sheppard did not receive a fair trial consistent with the due process clause of the 14th Amendment." The court, therefore, Clark said, reversed a 2-1 decision by the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, which found no evidence that Sheppard had been deprived of federal rights.

BACK TO COURT

Clark concluded his opinion by saying the Sheppard case must go back to the U.S. District Court in Ohio and that court must order Sheppard released from custody "unless the states puts him to its charges again within a reasonable time."

Black, in dissenting, did not state his views. The vote was 8-1.

The former Cleveland osteopath, convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment in the 1954 slaying, claimed in his appeal that prejudicial news media publicity tainted the trial judge and jury.

In reply, Ohio Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Sheppard was convicted in a fair trial. And the prosecuting attorney, John T. Corrigan of Cuyahoga County, said all of Sheppard's rights were afforded by an unbiased judge and a jury seated by competent counsel.

RIGHTS AT ISSUE

The case was of special significance because two constitutional rights were at issue, freedom of the press and fair trial.

Sheppard, who all along maintained he was innocent, served more than nine years in prison before U.S. Dist. Judge Carl Weinman ordered his release in July 1964 on the grounds he had not received a fair trial.

Last May, the U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati set aside Weinman's ruling.

The Circuit Court ordered his return to prison, but in July granted a stay to permit Sheppard to appeal to the Supreme Court.

They were assisted by police from Farmington Township and Franklin and Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Police said the line was broken when a power shovel operator for the Vito Construction Co. accidentally drove the heavy steel bucket into the eight-inch main.

"Dirt blew 40 feet into the air," the operator of the shovel was quoted as saying. Noise from the escaping gas could be heard from as far as a quarter mile away.

A spokesman for Consumers Power at the scene said a 200-foot section of the main was to be blocked off to permit repairs to be welded together the ruptured pipe.

There was no damage to homes in the area, according to police.

Bob-Lo Boat, Craft Collide

DETROIT (AP) — Four persons were thrown aboard and one was missing and presumed drowned last night when an excursion boat collided with a 26-foot cabin cruiser on the Detroit River.

Detroit police said Mrs. Peggy Durdin, 32, of Detroit, one of those aboard the cruiser, was missing and presumed drowned.

The collision occurred about 100 yards off shore from Cobo Hall in the heart of Detroit's downtown area.

The excursion boat, which cruises to Bob-Lo Island downtown, was crossing from Windsor, Ont., where it had just disembarked passengers.

A passenger on the boat, Ray Morry, 28, of Detroit, said the cruiser "ran right into the bow of the boat. We could feel the boat rise over the top of the cruiser."

Police said none of the other passengers were injured.

21-Day Drive Comes to End

S. Koreans, S. Viets Joined Yank Troops

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airborne, Division, together with South Korean and Vietnamese troops, killed 516 Communists in 21 days of often savage fighting in the central highlands, a U.S. spokesman said today.

The 1st Cavalry's Operation Crazy Horse ended Sunday night in the jungled mountain terrain where it began May 16 with a strike by helicopter-borne troops. They had learned from captured Communist documents the guerrillas planned to attack a Special Forces camp.

The cavalrymen ran into a hail of Viet Cong fire that inflicted heavy losses on them. But the division's commander, Maj. Gen. John Norton, threw three battalions against the Communists, and the fight continued on and off for 20 days west of Pleiku. The Communist force — originally 1,000 men — was identified as part of the hard core Viet Cong Yellow Star Division.

In addition to the Reds killed — the equivalent of nearly two battalions — 31 were captured, 119 suspects detained and 15 crew-served and 99 individual weapons taken, the U. S. spokesman said. Allied losses were described as "not over-all," but the early fighting took a heavy toll.

PATROL ACTION

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam Sunday, the war was limited largely to small patrol actions. The Strategic Air Command's B-52s pounded a suspected Communist base 65 miles northeast of Saigon. No results were immediately available.

The air war against North Viet Nam continued at a considerably reduced pace with 47 multiple missions. They concentrated on bridges, barges and storage areas in the panhandle. Navy pilots sighted a Soviet-built surface-to-air missile 20 miles northwest of Vinh but it exploded harmlessly.

The number of missions Sunday was nine, more than Saturday's total, but off from the 80 or so missions the U. S. air force flew almost daily over the Communist north last week.

Ohio Unit to Back Osteopath College

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Osteopathic association delegates voted unanimously yesterday to start a campaign to raise $35,000 this year in support of the new Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery. The college is to be located on a 16-acre tract at Auburn and Opdyke.

In making the motion for adoption, newly elected President Dr. Robert Kromer of Sandusky, Ohio, said "We in Ohio must show that we recognize the professional need, not just in Ohio, for a united, organized profession serving the nation's health needs."

Stopping for the Safe

Not Considered Safe

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—Toll collector Allen Davis at the San Francisco Bay Bridge thought it was odd that a truck driver should whiz up to the bridge, pay his quarter, then speed off without stopping to get the safe which fell from the back of his truck.

Later, he learned the reason. The safe, which was still locked, had been stolen, as was the truck.

Human Relations Unit Names New Officers

BIRMINGHAM — William J. King of 962 Puritan, has been named president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Council on Human Relations.

He was chosen at the group's annual meeting held recently in Ann Arbor.

King has been a board member for two years and is the industrial relations manager of Ford Motor Co.'s Automotive Assembly Division.

He succeeds Alan W. Joslyn, president for two years and a founding member of the organization, who will continue as a director.

The organization was formed in 1962 in an effort to provide an educational forum for discussion of human relations questions.

One of its recent activities was to sponsor the "Good Neighbor Pledge" campaign, in which 3,511 signatures were taken in support of fair housing.

OTHER OFFICERS

Other new officers are Bruce B. Vandusen, vice president; David J. Sparrow, secretary; and Henry J. Dahlquist, treasurer.

Eight new directors were elected for two-year terms. They are Henry J. Dahlquist, David J. Sparrow, Maj. Gen. Stanley W. Connelly, Nancy Hagle, Mrs. Helmut C. Heuser, Payton Hutchison, Mrs. James F. Pingel, and Fraser E. Pomeroy.

Other board members re-named for one-year terms are David F. Breck, Richard Craig, Thomas W. Fowler Jr., Alan W. Joslyn, William J. King, Shelby Newhouse, John C. Palms, Mrs. Charles H. Pryde, Horace E. Sheldon, and Bruce B. Vandusen.

George M. Watson, 550 W. Brown, has been elected to the committee and chairman of a special committee to study the educational needs of handicapped children.

Bloomfield Hills Country Club Is Hit by Blaze

A fire at the Bloomfield Hills Country Club yesterday morning burned a hole in the roof of the clubhouse and caused water and smoke damage to the interior of the building.

Bloomfield Hills firemen said the blaze apparently was caused by grease in exhaust ducts leading from the kitchen.

The fire was brought under control in half an hour by firemen from the Bloomfield Hills, Cranbrook, Bloomfield Village and Bloomfield Township departments.

While he would venture no estimate of damage, Club President Hanley J. Dawson Jr. said the clubhouse would be opened Wednesday.

It normally is closed on Mondays and Tuesdays, he said.

'Monty' Pays Tribute at D-Day Memorial Site

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery today laid the foundation stone for Britain's first memorial to D-Day. He urged those who survived World War II not to break faith with those who died.

Montgomery, 73, in full uniform and holding his crimson baton of rank, addressed an assembly of military, church and civic leaders in the 750-year-old church which since 1827 has been Portsmouth's cathedral.

Today is the 22nd anniversary of the allied landings in France.

"Many gathered here today are of high rank," he said to the fully uniformed, bearded admirals, generals and air marshals confronting him.

"But let us not forget those who in the end win battles — the soldiers, sailors and airmen."

DEAD'S MESSAGE

If the dead of D-Day could send back a message, Montgomery said it would be "The torch is yours to hold now; if you break faith we shall not sleep."

The D-Day memorial will take the form of an extension to Portsmouth Cathedral, a building never completed with a brick-and-wood end.

Stones from foreign and commonwealth countries which will later be built into the walls of the cathedral extension lay along side the nave.

Prominent among them was one from Portsmouth, N.H., marked "to old Portsmouth in England."

The extension will cost $1,120,000. It has been a subject of controversy.

Some local clergy have argued that cathedrals, like battlefields, have become obsolete, and the money would be better spent on smaller churches for the new housing estates around the city.

Block Off Area as Gas Escapes

Line Break Brings Emergency Units

A one-mile square area between Franklin and Farmington Township was blocked off by police about noon today after a power shovel ruptured a natural gas pipeline.

The accident, which took place on Inkster Road between 14 Mile and Scottsdale, sent a jet of gas roaring through an eight-inch gas line pipe.

No one was injured.

Consumers Power Co. emergency units including four trucks and several field crews, were rushed to the scene.

They were assisted by police from Farmington Township and Franklin and Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Police said the line was broken when a power shovel operator for the Vito Construction Co. accidentally drove the heavy steel bucket into the eight-inch main.

"Dirt blew 40 feet into the air," the operator of the shovel was quoted as saying. Noise from the escaping gas could be heard from as far as a quarter mile away.

A spokesman for Consumers Power at the scene said a 200-foot section of the main was to be blocked off to permit repairs to be welded together the ruptured pipe.

There was no damage to homes in the area, according to police.

Griffin Asks Study to End Tolls

A.P. Regional Service
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., Sunday recommended a United States-Canada study to determine how to eliminate tolls and assessments on the St. Lawrence Seaway and Welland Canal.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Corporation will hold public hearings in Chicago for three days beginning June 8 on the proposal to increase the seaway tolls 10 per cent and lockage fees on the Welland Canal by 12.5 per cent.

Griffin urged the corporation to invoke an immediate moratorium on increases and to spend the next year working with Canada to reduce seaway charges.

VITAL LINK

"The seaway provides a vital link between Michigan and other world ports," the senator said.

"At a time when our national policy is aimed at increasing exports, it would be very unfortunate to reduce Michigan's seaway access to world markets by hiking tolls."

The most tangible assistance the federal government could give to Michigan producers in their efforts to penetrate foreign markets, he said, is a reduction of seaway tolls and their ultimate elimination.

Italian Police Probe Bottled 'Help' Plea

ROME (UP) — Police launched a probe yesterday after a fisherman hooked a floating bottle containing a note that read: "Help us. We are prisoners of dangerous drug racketeers in a house on the river. We don't know at what point on the river we are. There are two of us."

Police suspected a hoax, but said, "We've got to check as best we can."

Ford, Dirksen Told to Visit 'Home Front'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan were urged Sunday by citing figures from the home states of the two top GOP Congressional leaders.

In reply to news conference assertions last week by Sen. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Ford of Michigan that the anti-poverty war is being lost, Dirksen issued a statement which said in part:

"Dirksen and Ford should have asked the people in their own states and districts. They would have discovered that the war on-poverty is not being lost. It is being won on many fronts, but especially in Michigan and Illinois."

"If Congressman Ford visited his own state, he would have found 15,000 young men and women working in the neighborhood youth corps. 5,200 employed heads of families in the work experience program; 7,500 adult illiterates learning how to read and write; 2,500 enrollees in the job corps and well over 100 Headstart programs giving tens of thousands of poor children a helping hand out of poverty. Ninety-six per cent of the counties in Michigan have active community action programs.

"Grand Rapids, the leading city in Ford's own district, is operating a successful new multi-service center which is providing jobs and job development for the poor; homemaking advice; counseling for dropouts; physical education; family planning and other vital weapons in the war against poverty."

Shriver asserted that both Gov. George Romney of Michigan, a Republican and Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, a Democrat, "welcomed the war against poverty into their states and have joined actively in making it run well."

In Farmington Twp., Lake Orion

2 Cityhood Votes Today

Voters in two Oakland County communities are going to the polls today in special incorporation referendum elections.

The question of cityhood will be decided by voters in Farmington Township, including the villages of Quakertown and Wood Creek Farms, and in Lake Orion.

Nine-member charter commissions are also to be elected in both communities. In Farmington Township, 27 candidates are seeking election to the commission. Only nine are seeking a spot on the Lake Orion commission.

The incorporation vote in Farmington Township is the result of an attempt by the City of Farmington last November to annex 560 acres of the township.

The attempt failed, but township officials are trying to prevent such elections in the future. They want to avoid losing, through annexation, the portion of the township which includes its industrial development.

'SERIOUS PROBLEM'

They say that loss of the industrial area around 10 Mile and Haggerty would pose a serious problem for the community.

Those who favor incorporation say that nothing indicates that a change to city status would increase taxes "to any amount above that which would result from normal demand for increased services."

The opposition, however, claims that the proposed city would have to assume costly services to sparsely settled and uninhabited areas.

They also say that the move is premature and that it will "spoil the dignity, serenity, beauty and culture" of the township.

2 COMMISSIONS

If incorporation is approved in Lake Orion, it will mean that two charter commissions would be in operation. A five-member commission is now working on a new home rule village charter.

If a village charter is adopted, a new city charter could still be drafted and put to a vote. If the city charter were finally adopted, it would supersede the village charter.

Novi Council to Eye New Cityhood Bid

NOVI — New city incorporation petitions will be considered during the Village Council meeting at 8 tonight at the Village Hall.

Petitions will be heard calling for the incorporation of Novi as a fourth-class city. Under this proposal the city charter would be determined by state law, eliminating home rule.

The city would be divided into wards and under the control of a mayor with no provision for a city manager.

Incorporation petitions submitted last November called for a fifth-class city which would have home rule and a city manager.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore determined that the village did not meet the state statute requirement that the area must contain at least 500 persons per square mile.

PIONEER SPIRIT—Nancy Morrison (left), 18, of Melvin and Carol Walker, 19, of Livonia take a breather before setting out yesterday on horseback on a 900-mile trip from Michigan to Nebraska. Carol always wanted to make a long trip on horseback and asked to go along on the 45-day journey.

New Plowing Idea

EAST LANSING (AP)—Agricultural scientists have come up with a new way to deal with soil which gives the farmer problems — bury it.

They do this by deep plowing as deep as 23 to 30 inches compared to the usual 10 or 12.

The process brings fresh soil to the surface and buries the disease — or weed-infested soil, and in many cases substantially boosts the crop yield.

The method also breaks up soil which otherwise would be too compact for good root growth.

DEEP SOIL

It has been especially effective, the scientists report, on Kalamazoo sandy loam, in which a compact layer of soil extends about 12 to 18 inches below the soil surface—too deep for a normal plow.

"Deep plowing methods have to be considered as still in the experimental stage, but I'm convinced they have tremendous possibilities for improving soil structure and increasing crop yields on some soils," said L.S. Robertson, an MSU soil scientist.

On some fields, Robertson has found deep plowing resulted in an average yield increase of 15 bushels of corn per acre — from 70 to 85 bushels — for five years.

Even greater yield increases have been recorded for beans, wheat and other crops in Huron County, where a giant disjunct was used to destroy a sand lens at a depth of 15 to 20 inches.

THIN LAYER

The sand lens, Robertson explained, is a thin, irregular layer of soil material that can inhibit root development.

Breaking up compact soil, he said, allows air to penetrate and also increases the water holding capacity of the soil. In turn, this helps speed up the decomposition of organic matter in the soil and provides more nitrogen, phosphorus and sulphur to nourish the plants.

The problem of avoiding compact soil has made spring plowing late for many farmers this year, the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service has noted.

The state had heavy rains at normal planting time, and heavy machinery running over damp ground will make most soils compact.

ONE HANDICAP

Deep plowing has one handicap to overcome — it's expensive. Extra power is needed to pull the giant disc plow.

But, said Robertson, on certain soils the expense can be offset by the higher crop yields.

And, he noted, reshaping the soil with deep plowing may not be a task required every year. "On one field," he said, "we used deep plowing just the first year and have been receiving higher yields since. That was seven years ago."

Troy Groups Agree on Talks

Teachers, Board May Bargain All Summer

TROY — Teachers here have agreed to negotiate with the board of education all summer if necessary in order to come to a contract agreement before school starts in the fall.

Assistant schools Supt. Boyd Larson said the decision was made at special meetings Thursday and Friday between the board of education and the Troy Education Association, bargaining agent for the district's teachers.

"It looks like we should be able to come to an agreement and avoid a walkout in the fall," he said.

Larson said another meeting between the two groups is scheduled for tomorrow night.

Teachers last week indicated they might not return to classes in September unless a master contract is signed. They have refused to sign individual contracts until a master contract on wages, hours and working conditions has been settled.

WILL NOT START

A spokesman for the teachers' bargaining team has said that the new school year will not start "until a contract has been negotiated and ratified by the association."

Larson said the board of education negotiating team and the teachers' representatives "seem to be coming closer together" although they have not yet reached discussions on salaries.

Community Course for Utica Teachers

UTICA — Teachers in the Utica Community Schools will spend the summer learning about the educational potential of local concerns in order to broaden the scope of their classroom activities.

They will participate in a new Community Resources Workshop, the basic aim of which is to give the teachers knowledge about local business and industries.

try so they will be able to give the children a greater awareness of the community in which they live.

More than 50 teachers have enrolled in the one-month summer workshop to be held at Shelby Junior High School starting June 20. Instructors will be furnished by Michigan State University.

The teachers, who will represent all grade levels and subject areas including administration and special services, will spend a good part of the time on field trips to local businesses and industries.

They will also hear speakers from the area who will tell them about resources available for educational groups.

SPONSORED

The project is cosponsored by the Utica schools and the Great-er Utica Chamber of Commerce. School officials are hoping that local businesses and industries will make tours of their facilities available and provide volunteer speakers.

They are also hoping for financial assistance to help defray the cost of paper, printing and field trips.

Luncheon to Honor Agriculture Group

County and community committees from the Oakland County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will be honored at a luncheon tomorrow.

The program will be held in the Oakland ASC County Office, 4515 Highland, Pontiac. Awards, based on length of service, will be presented to Charles Cogger, Alfred Haack and Robert Long, all for 25 years of service; Donald Hickmott for 25 years; William Porrie for 10 years; and Ralph Shuster for 15 years.

SAFETY WINNER — Mary Gross, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gross of 3301 Erie, Orchard Lake, holds her winning safety poster with Robert Lewis, Automobile Club of Michigan's driver education supervisor. Mary, who attends Our Lady of Mercy High School in Detroit, was awarded a third-place prize of $15 in the 22nd annual National AAA Traffic Safety Poster Contest.

Flint Crash Claims 3

State Weekend Traffic Toll Reaches 16

By the Associated Press

A head-on car-truck collision Sunday claimed three lives, boosting the state's weekend traffic death toll to 16.

The Associated Press tabulation began at 6:00 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

State Police said Russell Mathie Jr., 30, Terrance J. Comins, 23, and Paul Krusell, 24, all of Flint, were in Mathie's car when it slammed into the truck on M54 in Flint.

Comins and Krusell were dead at the scene, officers said, and Mathie died shortly after.

AT STREET INTERSECTION

Others killed: Christopher Hendrickson, 45, and Ira Lee Williams, 28, both of Muskegon when their cars collided Sunday at a street intersection near Muskegon. Joyce Gret, 21, Detroit, in a flaming two-car collision in Mount Pleasant Sunday.

Kenneth Louis Sulkowski, 29, Perry, when his motorcycle collided with a car on M30 in Gladwin County Sunday.

Lillian Odile Petersen, 52, Grand Rapids, early Sunday when her car struck a truck head-on on M46 in Gratiot County near Alma.

NEAR PONTIAC

Mrs. Nellie Weidman, 75, of South Lyon, in a two-car crash on M59 Saturday, 12 miles west of Pontiac.

Vern Delvert Nutt, 26, Inlay City, when his car ran off M53 his wife, Alease, 57, when their car collided with another auto in Tuscola County Friday night.

Patrick McIntosh, 13, Midland, when struck by a car while walking on a road near Midland Saturday.

Alonso Swanson, 40, Lansing, in a two-car collision at an intersection in Lansing Saturday.

STRUCK BY CAR

Joseph Dillion Sr., 60, Detroit, when struck by a car while walking across a street in Grand Rapids, when the motorcycle he was riding hit the rear of a car in Sparta Township of Kent County Friday.

Arthur Boling, 64, Flint, and his wife, Alease, 57, when their car collided with another auto in Tuscola County Friday night.

Plant Addition Work Is Begun

Meets Milford Need on Sewage Disposal

MILFORD — Ground was broken this morning for a $528,911 addition to the village's sewage disposal plant.

Participating in the ceremony were Rep. Billie S. Farnum, D-19th District; Village President Wilbur Johnson; and Village Manager J. Stuart Brophy.

Long in the planning stages, the addition is to be built by John F. Sadler of Milford Township, who has agreed to have it completed in 15 months.

Need for the improvement had been cited by the State Health Department, which expressed concern over the amount of discharge from the plant into the Huron River.

The existing plant, serving an estimated population of 4,500, discharges into the river daily an average of 240 pounds of waste solids while removing some 552.

EFFICIENCY RATING

The addition will provide for a population of 8,500 and be 85 to 95 per cent efficient.

The village has received a $204,864 federal grant to pay for a portion of the work.

Bonds backed by the county have been sold to finance the rest.

They will be retired through two methods of financing. Half of the money will be raised through a 1.5-mill property tax and the other through a $3 quarterly charge to users of the system.

The Monument, the Man—1

Crowds Still DeGaulle's Love

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first of a five-part series on Charles de Gaulle.)

By TOM A. CULLEN

PARIS (NEA) — French farmers who did not know their own blood type will tell you that President Charles de Gaulle's blood group is O-rhesus positive. They remember this from the days of the OAS (Algerian Secret Army) terrorism, when de Gaulle was constantly in danger of being assassinated.

When de Gaulle visits Moscow this month, no bottles of precious blood plasma will travel with him, as happened on his tours of the French provinces in the early 1960s. He breathes easier these days now that his mortal enemies are either scattered or in prison.

The fact remains that in the early '60s de Gaulle was the target for no fewer than five assassination plots, two of which came within an ace of succeeding.

SAVED BY WIRE

A faulty wire is all that saved de Gaulle and his wife Yvonne from being blown up in September 1961 as they were being driven from Paris to their home in Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises. Thanks to the defective wire, an 8-pound plastic bomb planted on the side of the road failed to go off.

A year later de Gaulle's car was ambushed, sprayed with machine gun fire on the road to Villacoublay airport near Paris. The bullets came within inches of de Gaulle's head.

The most fantastic plot of all involved the use of police dogs booby-trapped with explosives. The plot was nipped just in time by security police.

It speaks well of the president's physical courage that he allowed none of these outrages to stop him from mingling with his people.

'CROWD BATHS'

The provincial tours continued as before, with de Gaulle grasping all hands that were proffered to him, to the despair of his bodyguards. de Gaulle seems to draw strength from these "crowd baths," as he calls them.

In Paris he is a different person. Here he shrinks from the crowds, preferring the solitude of the Elysee Palace, his residence.

At the age of 75, de Gaulle has managed to conserve his energy remarkably. His eyesight however is failing. He has been operated on for cataract but avoids wearing glasses in public, presumably from vanity.

De Gaulle dislikes all unnecessary noise. He will not tolerate a clock or a radio in his bedroom, for example.

FAVORITE MAXIM

The three telephones on his office desk are only for outgoing calls. "Nothing great was ever done in the midst of chatter," is one of his favorite maxims.

The president and his quiet, gray-eyed wife, Yvonne, occupy only a small apartment on the first floor of the buff-colored Elysee Palace, which King Louis XV built for his mistress, Madame de Pompadour.

Occasionally they entertain a few trusted friends, but never large groups. In such an intimate circle de Gaulle can be quite charming, and even witty, telling jokes at his own expense.

MEETS POMPIDOU

Touring the provinces last year, he confided to his entourage, "I'm looking forward to Mass tomorrow—it's the only public place where I'm not expected to make a speech."

DE GAULLE RULES FRANCE

De Gaulle rules France from a gilt desk topped with red leather in a first floor office overlooking the palace gardens. Opposite him is a tapestry depicting "Don Quixote cured of his madness by Wisdom." Near at hand is a globe of the world.

The president sees Georges Pompidou, his prime minister, privately about three or four times a week.

Long ago de Gaulle decided that diplomacy was much too serious to be entrusted to diplomats, so he keeps foreign policy firmly in his own hands, although Maurice Couve de Murville is nominally French foreign minister.

De Gaulle stops measuring his height and his distance from other mortals only when he and

BUSY WITH CHARITIES

Here Madame de Gaulle, who is affectionately known as "Aunt Yvonne," busies herself with her favorite charities, including a hospital for mentally retarded children.

De Gaulle's daughter, Anne, who died in 1948 at the age of 20, was one of these unfortunate, which only made her dearer to her parents.

During the war de Gaulle could not bear to be parted from Anne, but took her with him even to Algiers. She is buried in the cemetery of Colombey.

Sundays President Charles de Gaulle likes to attend Mass in the ancient Colombey church. He especially likes to sit in a corner pew where the sun streams down upon him through a stained glass window of St. Joan of Arc.

It Seems to Me . . .

American Criticism Grows Over Our Viet Nam Policy

What about Viet Nam?

As time passes, our current course of vacillating indecision becomes more unpopular. Even strong Johnson adherents are shaking their heads dubiously and raising eye brows in open question.

Newsmen in the District of Columbia suggest the White House itself is becoming alarmed. Its dip in various popularity polls is accelerating.

What should we do?

We can't continue "as is."

Competent military men declared eighteen months ago that the activities then indicated a 15-year "war." The same group says today we've made no progress at all towards a conclusion and asserts its gloomy predictions in the waning days of 1964 still stand.

That means we're nowhere. We merely "hold our own."

Of course, the current inner turmoil and conflicts along the very seams of battle as to which "government" over there is "supreme" adds tremendous confusion. It leaves the United States fighting for a nebulous shadow that mocks identification and defies analysis. Whichever faction is "in power" as these words are written may be shunted into the limbo of nationalistic discards on the morrow.

This adds to the tremendous exasperation already existing. It proves to our whole nation that we're accomplishing little and doing it with a neatness and dispatch that has never been witnessed before in any conflict in world history. Right now — tonight — we don't know for sure whose cause we "champion." What a farcical situation!

It points grimly to one conclusion:

WE MUST MAKE A CHANGE. But what shall it be?

This crucial decision does not rest with the State Department, but lies directly in the lap of the President of the United States. He must base his conclusions on his strong sense of obligation to the American people, and the fact he has the most complete information of anyone.

Shall we pick up our marbles and go home, or shall we buckle on the heavy armor and blast the daylight out of that "sacred" northern territory? In the opinion of the armchair experts and a whole host of those wearing the garb of military authority, this latter should cause negotiations for peace in a fairly short time. Further, we can close that Haiphong harbor with very little difficulty and terminate those damaging shipments that keep the pot boiling.

Going after the strategic North "all-out" has the greatest appeal to the greatest number. It should save the lives of an untold host of fine American boys in the long run. Can we afford to feed the hungry maws of that insatiable monster, Mars, over the next dozen years for the sake of — well, for the sake of what? The answer is "no."

Why Trust Soviet Statements

Soviet Foreign Minister ANDREI GROMYKO suggests the UN ban all weapons from the moon.

Sensational!

Of course President Johnson advocated precisely this same step a month ago. There's no mention of that, but the honeyed missive does modestly recall two "firsts" that the Russians claim on moon matters, and innocent ly omits any mention of U. S. achievements.

Ladies and Gentlemen: remember just one thing: the Reds are the all time international liars and think nothing at all of a "treaty" when it serves Soviet purposes to go the other way.

On guard!

Earth's Future Population

Unless you're "middle age" or less, a few problems may not hit you directly, but consider what's ahead.

It took a million years—more or less—for this earth to attain a billion population. It did the second billion in 100 years. Now—only 30 years later—we stand at 3.3 billion.

What's ahead?

Hold your breath.

By 2000 (only 34 years from now) the experts estimate we'll stand at seven billion.

And, this will double every 35 years thereafter. Millions — yes millions — are starving today with a trifle over three billion. What will the situation be then? Some agriculturalists insist we can feed seven billion on our globe — but we aren't feeding three billion today.

We'll need some Help and Guidance from Above.

And in Conclusion

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

Diplomatic Steps Raise Hopes

WASHINGTON — Rays of sunshine have begun to appear in a clouded world of war or near-war. Diplomacy has raised hopes that the process of reason may yet prevail in resolving the conflicts of mankind. Here are some of the encouraging LAWRENCE ing developments:

1. The United States government has intimated its willingness to enter into an agreement with Communist China pledging that neither country will initiate the use of nuclear weapons and that the Peking government will join other nations in banning nuclear tests everywhere except underground.

2. The State Department here has publicly reiterated a readiness to consider stopping the bombing of North Viet Nam if the government at Hanoi is willing to take some "reciprocal action."

3. Premier Ky of South Viet Nam has declared that, after 10 new members are named to the ruling directorate, he is prepared to resign and submit to an election.

4. The holding of free elections in the Dominican Republic, accomplished just 13 months after American intervention, has given new hope to Latin America that domestic disturbances can be adjusted successfully by international effort — in this instance, through "the Organization of American States."

5. A major East-West conference on European security, in which both the United States and Russia would participate, has been proposed by Denmark as a means of achieving the main purpose of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — to establish a strong foundation for peace in Europe.

Inasmuch as the NATO Ministerial Council is meeting in Brussels this week, an opportunity will arise for discussion of a new East-West formula.

These various developments in the world are salutary, even though there is naturally much uncertainty as to just how the negotiations will turn out.

The important fact is that little by little reason is beginning to prevail.

Bob Considine Says:

Surveyor Shot Wonders Prelude Coming Events

JET PROPULSION LABORATORY, PASADENA, Calif. — If you had been riding toward the moon on Surveyor the other night, and were 5,875 miles above its surface and traveling 5,375 miles an hour, and you looked back over your shoulder the earth would have looked like a crescent moon.

A crescent moon four times as big as the real moon looks to us as we gaze at it from our dear old planet.

If you'd looked straight ahead at the moon itself it would have been 60 times as large as the rest of us saw it that night.

These and other wonders associated with America's first soft landing on the moon gave all of us on hand here a fresh appreciation of the tremendous emotions that will sweep the world on the night human beings are moon-bound.

The Lunar Excursion Module which will carry two of our lunarmen down from moon orbit to the surface will streak into the temuous and porous atmosphere of that heavenly body at about the same terrifying speed at which Surveyor approached.

Their vehicle, much heavier than Surveyor, which started in weighing 3,194 pounds and settled down and shed all but 620 pounds of it by burning its retro-rockets, will have to undergo the same violent deceleration that saved Surveyor from smashing itself to smithereens.

OR elseINCREDIBLE WONDERS But what incredible wonders they will behold.

Over the next 10 days or so Surveyor will offer them and the whole world an arresting preview of the hostile surface on which they will spend about 14 hours. The success of Surveyor was almost too good to be true.

It would not have surprised even the fondest champions of this moon probing project if the first three or four of the series — each costing about $100 million — had suffered the fate of the four Russian Luniks which dashed their brains and cameras against the scabrous skin of the moon.

Incredibly, the first operational Atlas-Centaur missile, built by Convair, worked absolutely perfectly.

Makes Caustic Comment on Nation's TV Addiction

It was nice that NASA scheduled Surveyor 1 to land at 1 a. m. so that TV coverage did not preempt any prime-time programs. To protect the right of the Nation's TV addicts, Congress should pass a law making it illegal for any newsworthy event to happen outside the hours of midnight to 6 a. m.

We should also convince the UN to pass a resolution that World War III could only be started during this time period. This would allow TV to resume its normal schedule right after the war.

Comments on Unrest in Education Field

If all of us had been more aware of the radical leanings of some of the teachers we entrust with the education of our children, we would not be witnessing student riots or teachers on strike. I am not against unions, but when these scholars see the tactics used by almost every segment of society, do you wonder they have not lost respect for parents and authority in general?

Perhaps we would do well to keep our children home with a private tutor. It would not cost any more than hiring special counselors, teachers for driving education, physical instructors, etc.

Most of our teachers are conscientious, upright citizens. To them I apologize. But, one bad apple can spoil a whole barrel. If we condone this behavior now, what happens next?

Makes Suggestion for Highway Protection

This hullabaloo about unsafe automobiles and slaughter on our highways has quite a number of people thinking. Some stayed off the highways this past Memorial Day weekend.

If one is serious-minded and wants to be protected against all hazards on our highways, he should get into a Bible-believing church and become born again. Then, if someone runs into him at 120 m.p.h., he will be OK. He will just be bumped into heaven — hardly a tragedy.

Free Speech?

The Chicago Sun-Times
The fundamental right of Americans to criticize public officials without fear of retaliation has been upheld once again by the Supreme Court. The court has held unconstitutional an Alabama law under which an editor was arrested for publishing an editorial on election day, 1962.

The law is similar to statutes in Oregon, North Dakota and Montana. It provides punishment up to six months at hard labor for electioneering or soliciting votes on election day. Thirty-seven states prohibit electioneering but only near polling places.

Never before in Alabama, it appears, had such a law been construed to forbid a newspaper from expressing its opinion on election day. Nor, we assume, had it been construed to forbid the exercise of free speech on election day, for freedom of the press is a form of free speech. Forbidding electioneering near a polling place (within 100 feet under Illinois law) is mainly for the purpose of preserving order nearby. It does not silence criticism on election day altogether.

This is the way it had been in Alabama for 50 years until James E. Mills, editor of the Birmingham Post-Herald on election day published an editorial criticizing Birmingham's segregationist mayor and arguing for a change in the city's form of government. The voters took the editor's advice and he was promptly arrested.

Alabama lawyers argued that the law was intended to prevent last-minute charges from being made that could not be answered. The Alabama Supreme Court held that while this limited freedom of speech and of the press it was not an unreasonable limitation.

Justice Hugo L. Black disposed of this by pointing out that politicians could make charges the day before election and the law, if it stood, would prevent anyone from answering them on election day. Besides, he said, "suppression of the right of the press to praise or criticize governmental agents and to clamor for or against change, which is all this editorial did, diminishes one of the very elements the framers of our Constitution . . . deliberately selected to improve our society and keep it free."

Since the arrest of Mills in 1962 no Alabama paper has dared make any editorial comment on an election day. Thus the court has restored constitutional rights to the people of that state and has reassured all Americans concerning the rights to the free exchange of opinions anytime.

Evangelist and Atheist in Debate

LONDON (AP) — Billy Graham debated the existence of God with a British atheist Sunday night.

The American evangelist said his faith was "not only grounded in tremendous evidence" but proved by the "laboratory of personal experience."

The panel discussion took place on the British Broadcasting Corp. before an audience estimated at four million.

The atheist, Ian Tipton, a university instructor, asked Graham, "How do you know you are not wrong about the existence of God?"

PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

"Because I have had a personal experience with God," Graham replied.

Another panelist, satirist David Frost, son of a Methodist parson, asked Graham what proof he could offer for others.

Graham answered: "When Jesus touched the blind man, and he was healed, the blind man couldn't explain what happened. When a person comes to Jesus Christ, he can't explain what happens. But enough people have experienced it for me to know it happens."

If there existed a personal, benevolent God, Graham was asked, how could he explain war, disease and natural calamities.

'LUST FROM HEART'

"The Bible has the complete answer for all that," Graham replied. "Man is struggling against God. He is spiritually diseased. War is just the lust from his heart. Jesus said that out of the heart flows all these evil things."

"When man sinned and rebelled, all nature was affected. It is part of God's judgment."

"But what happens when a deformed baby is born?" Frost asked. "How can you say which events God is responsible for and which ones He is not?"

"There are many mysteries I can't pretend to answer," Graham said. "The Bible uses the word mysteries."

Other participants in the discussion were John Lewis, a London businessman converted during Graham's 1954 British crusade, and the Rev. David MacLagan, a Church of Scotland parson. Graham is conducting his second crusade in Britain.

Gals Follow Huck's Trail

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — Sixteen girls from Hollins College at Roanoke, Va., will follow in the footsteps, more or less, of Huckleberry Finn.

They plan to leave Thursday on a voyage of more than 900 miles by raft down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans.

Their guide will be a retired river boat pilot, Gordon Cooper, 70, of Paducah.

The girls, some of them recent graduates, and Cooper will make the journey on a 40-by-16-foot wooden raft built on 52 oil drums at a cost of $1,800. It will be driven by two 40-horsepower motors.

The raft will be covered by a canopy and the crew plans to sleep on it, tying up at night.

10 TO 12 DAYS

Cooper says the voyage should take 10 to 12 days. The girls say they all have read Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn" and think Huck had the right idea for travel.

Since their raft and equipment will be somewhat better than Huck's, they hope to get part of their investment back by selling the rig at New Orleans.

Latin Nation May Retain Peace Force

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—President-elect Joaquin Balaguer said Sunday he may keep the Inter-American Peace Force in the Dominican Republic after he is inaugurated July 1.

The 5,500-man force, most of it from the United States, will have to remain "until the problems of civilian disarmament, and reintegration of the (former rebel) constitutionalist troops are resolved," Balaguer said in an interview.

The Inter-American Peace Force grew out of the U. S. forces sent here during the April 1965 revolt to reinstate ex-President Juan Bosch. Balaguer defeated him in the election last week.

Civilian disarmament and the return of the rebel troops to the regular armed forces are two sticky problems that the outgoing provisional government failed to solve. Observers doubt they will be solved before Balaguer takes over.

INDISPENSABLE

In another interview broadcast in the United States Sunday, Balaguer said cooperation between his government and Bosch's party is "indispensable for the pacification of our country." The interview was made shortly after the election.

"I would invite him personally to cooperate with the government," Balaguer said. "If he does not wish to do so personally, then perhaps his party will cooperate."

American aircraft companies last year captured 82.8 per cent of jet airplane sales outside the Communist bloc.

Dixie Priests End Church Fast

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "It was a very easy fast to endure," said the Rev. Albert Dreisbach. "We got tremendous support from all faiths, and we didn't get a chance to feel sorry for ourselves."

Dreisbach, 32, and the Rev. Robert Hunter, 30, two Protestant Episcopal priests whose 99-hour fast in a church sanctuary ended Sunday night, counted their visitors as perhaps the most important part of their fast.

The priests had entered the cathedral of St. Philip Wednesday night in protest of baccalaureate services for Lovett School, a private school which broke ties with the Episcopal Church several years ago by refusing to desegregiate its classes. Hunter, a Negro, is priest at St. Paul's Church.

The black-robed priests maintained their hunger protest until was a very easy fast to endure, said the Rev. Albert Dreisbach. "We got tremendous support from all faiths, and we didn't get a chance to feel sorry for ourselves."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

State Dems to Seek Mortgage to Pay Bills

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan Democrats approved a $30,000 mortgage plan yesterday to help pay old campaign debts before the 1966 election bills pile too high.

The party will mortgage its $75,000 state headquarters building in Lansing—a large old house which the party bought last year and renovated.

The building will be paid off as soon as $4,000 more in unredeemed pledges is collected, said party treasurer Stuart Hertzberg. Then the party will turn around and mortgage the building.

Hertzberg acknowledged that about $12,000 of the $82,000 already ostensibly collected in a special fund drive for the headquarters had been diverted to pay other bills.

He told a sparsely attended meeting of the state central committee that the party still owes $84,000—most of it for printing and other former campaign costs.

DINNER PLANS

He outlined plans for a major fund-raising dinner in Detroit in October but could not yet say who the main speaker would be. Some of the funds are expected to go toward gubernatorial and U. S. Senate campaigns.

But Hertzberg indicated there will be no direct cash help from the state party this year for congressional and legislative candidates.

The committee took no action on the pending resignation of State Chairman Zolton Ferency.

Ferency, favored to win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, announced some weeks ago he planned to quit Aug. 3, the day after the primary election.

MISSED MEETING

He missed yesterday's meeting because of campaigning.

Indications were that a chairman would be picked Aug. 19-20 at the party's state convention in Grand Rapids.

Without naming names, Democrats rebuked some of their own number.

They adopted a resolution deploring an incident earlier this year in which the State Senate passed a resolution opposing the appearance of Communist speaker Herbert Aptheker at Wayne State University.

The Senate resolution was sponsored by Senate Democratic leader Raymond Dzendzel of Detroit and passed narrowly on a nonparty line vote.

Family Doctor Speaks Out

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: As a physician who also sits on the board of a very prominent home for unwed mothers, I would like to give you the benefit of my experience with "the pill."

Of the 11 girls most recently admitted to our home for unwed mothers, seven had been taking the pill, but probably through improper use became pregnant anyway.

Six of the seven girls had contracted a venereal disease. Two of the girls said they had bought the pills from classmates at a very high price. Two reputable doctors are presently facing lawsuits for having prescribed the pills to minors without parental consent.

Mark 52 Years for A. G. Nicholies

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Nicholies of East Iroquois Road observed their 52nd wedding anniversary on Saturday. The occasion also marked Mrs. Nicholies' birthday.

Honoring their parents were Ruth Nicholies, Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers with David and Debbie, the Robert Castells, the Donald Nicholies with Carl, Nancy and Art, also the Robert Altons with Barbara and Robert.

Also present were Mrs. Sibbe Cable, Michael Cronin and Mrs. Robert Alton of Pewamo.

MRS. BYRON E. MORRISON

All the girls were between 16 and 18 years of age, and from good, middle-class families.

What I cannot understand is why the boys involved are not made to accept financial liability or punishment of any kind.

In our local community, one boy, by his own admission was responsible for three separate pregnancies in one year. Why do the parents of the girls allow the guilty boys to go unpunished?

DEAR M.D.: Because the parents of a girl who finds herself in such an unfortunate situation want only to protect their daughter from further hurt. And to bring legal action against the boy, in all likelihood would mean publicity.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the wedding gift sent to Italy for which the couple had to pay $10 import duty, please inform your readers that: According to Article 14, p. 6, of Italian customs regulations, wedding gifts may be imported to Italy free of customs if the bride is marrying an Italian citizen, who, after the marriage, will reside permanently in Italy.

The wedding gift must be sent to Italy not later than six months after the wedding date. The marriage, and certificate of residence must be shown for the exemption. Sincerely,

CONSOLATO D'ITALIA

DEAR CONSULATE: The Italian consulates in the United States and Canada are really "on the ball." Yours was only one of many who wrote to convey the same message. Mille grazie!

Colorado Trip Follows Vows for the Byron E. Morrisons

Off on a honeymoon in Colorado are the Byron E. Morrisons (Jeanette Kay Wright) after their vows and reception, Saturday, in the Central Methodist Church.

SILK ORGANZA

For the evening rite performed by Dr. Milton H. Bank, the bride chose white silk organza over taffeta with Alencon lace bodice and skirt detail. She wore a tiered veil of illusion and carried a crescent of white orchids and Stephanotis. Judith Whitmer was maid of honor with bridesmaids Mary Philo, Dearborn; Diane Koenig, Detroit, and Mrs. Edward Bohussek, Rochester. Carol Deteler of Mount Clemens was flower girl.

Leonard Boellard of Port Edwards, Wis. performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Sydney Fawcett, Arthur Roberts, Benjamin Cannon, all of Kalamazoo, and Edward Bohussek.

The couple, who will live on Silverbirch Drive, are graduates of Western Michigan University and the South Dakota Technical College, respectively.

Gals, Learn to Get Best Deal on Wheels

By JEANNE NELSON

Look who's invaded the new car showroom in great numbers. It's the single woman who has put aside the old notion that only a man has the judgment to buy a new car.

To be sure, there are pitfalls. But with a simple outline of the most important factors involved, it becomes easy.

It may surprise you to know that the automobile dealers we talked to are as anxious to have women know the score as the gals themselves.

"Makes dealing lots easier for both parties," they say.

Clyde Preston, manager of the newly-opened Downey Oldsmobile, Inc. puts it this way. "When a woman knows and understands the pricing procedures on new cars and their options, then the prices quoted to them determine the sale."

He goes on to say that the simplest way to acquire this knowledge is first, to go around and pick up all the folders on different makes.

From them, determine the model you want and be sure to note the standard equipment listed for that model.

Then go to the first dealer and tell him exactly what you want, including all options and get his price.

"It is only at this point, can you intelligently compare prices with other dealers. A word of caution here: because there are so many models of the same make now available, be sure you state clearly exactly the one you have in mind. Many models are so similar that the only recognizable difference is the price."

Preston also reminds us that a savings in price can cost in service.

Remember now, you're not just shopping for the product. From time to time you will need service and if that means traveling 25 or 30 miles each time perhaps with long delays, what have you saved?

Another dealership's manager, Henry Kline of the Pontiac Retail store adds that word-of-mouth recommendations from friends are helpful.

"If they have been satisfied with the service and the quality of the deal itself it would be wise to 'shop' this dealership.

When we asked about trade-ins, Kline mentioned that it is actually the public who sets the price today.

No matter what you think the value of your old car may be worth, unless someone is willing to pay that price it isn't worth it. And the prices on used cars seem to change daily.

On financing, Kline had this to say:

"No matter what percentage you are told you are paying, check the monthly amount and multiply it by the number of months involved and that is the true picture. Even bank loans differ in this respect along with finance companies, credit unions and the like."

When we talked to Jack Loop of Birmingham's Harold Turner, Inc., he mentioned the use of a loaner while servicing your car. He says that "many dealerships have no provisions for this accommodation, while some do have a rental service available." In his case, he tells customers that when service is needed to call him in advance. Then he can make arrangements for the customer to use his demonstrator.

Loop also says that it is important to take the time to read the instruction book given with each new automobile.

If the general advice is followed regarding check-ups and maintenance, the over-all performance should be superior.

Needless to say, by following the manufacturer's advice, major repairs are limited and the service charges minimized.

ON YOUR WAY

Now girls, whether it's two plus two, four on the floor or eight under the hood you want, you should be able to bargain with the best of them.

Tells of Plantation

Mrs. Max DeGroot read a paper on Berkeley Hundred, the oldest working plantation in Virginia at the June meeting of the Heritage Society.

Mrs. Emory Butler opened her Richmond Avenue home for the gathering.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. DeGroot and Mrs. Daniel Hosier.

WMU Staffer Is Honored by DKG

XI chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society met Sunday afternoon at Kingsley Inn to initiate Lydia Siedschlag of Western Michigan University into state honorary membership.

Mrs. Helen Ross Fullerton, state president, presided at the initiation.

Local chapter members assisting were Mrs. John De Cou, Mrs. Charles Smith, Vera Mae Adams, Mrs. Kent Webb and Mrs. William Chel.

Miss Siedschlag, art consultant to WMU, was honored for her notable service to education and to women in Michigan.

She has decorated more than 30 buildings on the campus, all with students' art work, antiques or imports from another culture.

She supervised art students in designing stained glass windows for the campus chapel.

Siedschlag Hall, residence hall for women, was dedicated in her honor in 1950.

Mrs. Mabel Jacobs, Wilma Adams and Ruth Barber, other state officials, were present at Sunday's event.

A former member of XI chapter, Mrs. Jack Rodal of Chamblee, Ga. was a guest.

BREAKFAST

On Saturday, XI chapter met for breakfast at the Westlakes home of president, Mrs. De Cou. Officers for the new biennium were installed: Doris Haynes, president; Mildred Gingell, first vice president; Mrs. Peter Spring, second vice president; Mrs. Ralph Grubb and Mrs. Joseph Kuras, secretaries; Mary Gibbs, treasurer; and Marion Lehner, parliamentarian.

Adeline Hook, Ima Hook, Mrs. R. H. Kempf, Marietta Spring, Mrs. J. L. Van Wagener and Mrs. Charles Wait were on the hostess committee.

Mrs. John De Cou, president of Xi chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society (left), assisted Mrs. Helen Ross Fullerton, state president (right) in initiating Lydia Siedschlag (center) into state honorary membership on Sunday. The initiation and dinner at Kingsley Inn honored the art consultant to Western Michigan University and member of the Michigan Academy of Arts, Letters and Science.

Polly's Pointers

Fill Out Stub First

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer drawers at a used furniture sale. She certainly saved us a lot of headaches. When writing personal checks we fill in the stub first and then write the check. When writing the check first, particularly when distracted or in a hurry, it is very easy to forget to fill in the stub.

Then later comes that all-time question: "What was that check for and for how much?" — J.A.

DEAR GIRLS and our GENTLEMEN FRIENDS, too — I really liked this as I have often written the check to pay a bill, put it in an envelope and sealed it and then became so occupied with addressing the envelope that the stub was forgotten. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — We always keep a putty knife near the freezer and find it handy to use when removing frozen foods from the freezer. — GEORGE.

DEAR POLLY — My parents have a clothes chute from their upstairs hall down to the basement laundry. Mom tried so many different bins to catch the laundry at the foot of the chute but they were not large enough for the whole week's wash and turned over if heavy items caught on the sides.

She solved this problem by purchasing a large old chest of drawers at a used furniture sale. She knocked the bottoms out of all the drawers except one. They were stacked and nailed together.

After a little sanding and a painting she had a large heavy bin which holds everything and does not tip over even when sheets fall into it. — MRS. L.W.

DEAR POLLY — Our medicine cabinet mirror door would not slide easily so I took a baby's cotton-tipped stick and a bit of petroleum jelly on the tip, rubbed it in the grooves and now they slide smoothly.

This does not make a mess and does not have to be repeated very often. It is such a relief to be saved that jerking and noise. — MARJORIE.

DEAR POLLY — While scrubbing my carpet I thought of a grand use for my famous nylon net. This is fabulous. The nylon net does not hold water so it can be dipped in the water, it catches the suds you want and the carpet does not get soaked. — EVELYN.

Anyone submitting a Polly's Problem, a solution to a problem or a favorite homemaking idea will receive a dollar if Polly uses the item in Polly's Pointers.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Ruggers of Estola Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Vincent Robert Cytacki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Cytacki of Luneta Court. He attends Oakland University where his fiancée received her degree.

Sorority Names Officers

Officers for Psi chapter, Sigma Beta National Sorority, Inc. were elected at the June meeting in the Herbell Drive home of Mrs. Eddie O'Brien. Mrs. Thomas Thornberry was cohostess.

Mrs. Jerry McKay is president; Mrs. George Baril, vice president; Mrs. Frank Phelps, treasurer; Mrs. Jack Kudray, charity finance chairman; Mrs. Raymond Meggitt, correspondence secretary, and Mrs. Marilyn Russell, recording secretary.

Serving as editor will be Mrs. Clement Berden, with Mrs. Joe Benson, parliamentarian.

The chapter is assisting the League of the Blind in collecting funds for the leasing of a building for meetings and social hours. Contributions have been made to the Oakland County Sanatorium to provide occupational therapy materials for indigent patients.

Tell Engagement of Harold Golding

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Stomp of Kansas City, Mo. announce the engagement of their daughter, Lenore Margaret, to Harold Ralph Golding, son of the Ralph V. Goldings of Oscoda, former Pontiac residents.

The bride-elect is an alumna of Avila College, Kansas City, Mo. and her fiancée was graduated from Central Michigan University.

A Sept. 10 wedding in Kansas City is planned.

MRS. THOMAS H. MCARTHUR

Take Vows in Lansing Ceremonies

Reception in the Walnut Hills Country Club followed the marriage of Joy Van Valkenburg to Thomas Howard McArthur, Saturday, in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Lansing.

Their parents are the Earl B. Van Valkenburg of Okemos and the Howard E. McArthurs of Cleary Drive.

SILK ORGANDY
The bride chose ivory silk organdy over peau de soie, styled with Empire bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace. Her French bouquet included white roses, Stephanotis and gypsophylla.

With Gay Van Valkenburg, her sister's honor attendant, were Jill Van Valkenburg, junior maid, also their cousins Gayle and Lynne Van Gorkom, Lake Forest, Ill., Mary Martin, Traverse City and Toni Peterson as bridesmaids.

Thomas Goddard was best man, Robert Newman, Norman Eberly, Kenneth Stice, Thomas Boland and David Katt of Kalamazoo, were ushers.

The couple who was wed by Rev. Edward Roth will reside in Waterford after a Florida honeymoon. Both are graduates of Western Michigan University.

Sea of Matrimony Sailed With Wise Wife at Helm

"Where the ship of matrimony is concerned, your husband may be the motor, but you're the rudder — and it's the rudder that determines where the ship will go."

The words belong to the wife of one of America's best known ministers, Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale. Writing in the June Reader's Digest, Ruth Stafford Peale shows that she's a pretty good counselor in her own right as she offers concrete advice on how wives can help make marriage "the most marvelous adventure a woman can experience."

Among her suggestions are these:

• Respect his work. "Doing his work well means as much to a man as motherhood does to a woman — and for much the same reasons," writes Mrs. Peale. Even the most successful men continue to need the unquestioning support and loyalty of a loving woman.

• Practice "creative listening." "Most men need a sounding board against which to test ideas, ambitions, problems. Feminine response to these thoughts is important to a man."

• Use your talents. Says the author: "Marriage need not limit your horizons. If you have a gift for design, or photography, or decorating, or writing poetry — any talent at all — don't let it gather dust; use it to expand your marriage."

"Perhaps the simplest and most inclusive of all rules for successful wives is this: try to please your husband," advises Mrs. Peale. "Does he like neatness? You can be neat. Does he like friends around him? Learn to entertain. Is his job a stressful one? Make his home an oasis of quietness in a noisy world."

Let Husband Make This Job Decision

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: Would you answer a financial question for me? My husband is a sales representative for a large company. He has been asked to move to

New York and work there as a junior executive.

The job would pay $4,000 more than the $3,000 to $4,000 he is now receiving. But his expense account would be cut off, as well as his company car. We have three children.

Aside from the prestige of this move, I cannot see that we would benefit from it financially. Can you—considering the higher cost of living in New York City? Mrs. B., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dear Mrs. B.: Of course you're not going to get much out of this move, financially. But aren't you making a mistake in trying to base your decision entirely on money?

When a man has a chance for advancement in his company, prestige often means a lot more than salary. Don't clip your husband's wings by making him match dollar for dollar in the budget book. If he's on his way up and longing to try the climb, your job is to cheer him on and boost him over the hurdles.

It always pays off, Mrs. B. A man's work is always more rewarding than his paycheck. Just explain to the children what the situation is.

I think this move is a decision your husband should make. You'll always be glad you let him make it.

Dear Miss Feeley: After reading your article about "Keeping Sanity While Budgeting," which I found to be very helpful, I now ask if you have available to your readers a detailed outline of the necessary steps to prepare a budget—including such items as per cent appropriations. F. N., College Point, N.Y.

Dear F. N.: I can give you some percentages. But you'll have to adjust them to your own circumstances. These estimates came from the American Bankers Association, and represent average family spending patterns.

You didn't let me whether you're a young married or the father of a growing family. This would make a difference in the per cent you allot to specific items.

Linda Sue King, formerly of Westacres, and James Alfred Weil of Jacques Street spoke vowing before Rev. E. D. Au-chard, Saturday in the Orchard Lake Community Presbyterian Church. Their parents are the Stockton A. Kings and the Theodore Weils of St. Clair. The bride wore white silk organza. Attendants were Florence Burlow, Mrs. Billy Willis, Bobbie Stevens, Mrs. William Brown Jr., and Mary Weil. Jacob Weil, John King, Clayton Shogena, Thomas Edelmann and James Brech-eisen.

Wed Saturday in the Calvary Lutheran Church, Flint, were the William Victor Thomases (Bernice M. Peters) who will honeymoon at Mackinac Island. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Peters of Flint and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Thom-as of Roland Street. White satin with lace applique fash-ioned the bride's gown and cathedral train. Attendants were Mrs. Ardis Bonine, Les-lie Mohr, the Charles Eckerts, the Bud Polks, Bruce Rogers and Dennis Koshinski.

Play Opens With Boom at Stratford

The crack of a cannon at 7:30 this evening will announce the opening night of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival at Stratford, Ont. "Henry V," directed by Michael Langham will be the first presentation.

On Tuesday "Henry VI" will be directed by John Hirsch.

Wednesday's production is the romantic comedy, "Twelfth Night" directed by David William.

All three plays will run in repertory until the end of the season on Oct. 8.

On July 8 Mozart's "Don Giovanni" will be staged. Michael Bawtree's "The Last of the Czars" and Strindberg's "The Dance of Death" will take place on July 12.

The Royal Winnipeg Ballet will make its first Stratford appearance with the world premiere of "Rose Latulippe" on August 16.

Fashion Comeback of Laces, Braids

A man whose firm specializes in trimmings—laces, braids, embroideries and beadings—says that lace trimmings are making a comeback as the youthful, Mod fashions go in for Victorian looks.

In turn, reports Richard L. Cash, president of Frankes Trimming Co., Inc., seamstresses in their 20's and 30's buy a lot of braid, because they like the Chanel look.

"We should have a monument to Chanel," said Cash. "She has been a fairy god-mother to braid."

People in the News

By The Associated Press

Daniel Perry, just prior to his death Saturday night in New York's Bellevue Hospital, got his wish before he lapsed into a coma—his father came to visit him.

The 15-year-old boy never knew his father was brought up from Rikers Island prison, where he is serving a six-month sentence for possession of burglar tools.

Daniel suffered from lupus nephritis, an incurable kidney disease.

When his condition worsened Friday night, he asked if he could see his father. Red tape was cut and Howard Perry, 39, was brought to his son's bedside.

Father and son talked for about 40 minutes, and apparently the boy didn't see the handcuffs on his father's hands.

Daniel told his father, "I'm so happy you could make it, dad."

Prince Rainier Trying to Deal Onassis Out

Prince Rainier of Monaco, in his feud with Greek shipowner Aristotle Onassis, has introduced a bill in the National Council which would eliminate Onassis as majority stockholder of the society which controls Monte Carlo's famous casino and other resort facilities.

Rainier and Onassis began feuding two years ago over how to modernize the principality to draw more visitors.

Onassis now controls 520,000 of the society's one million shares.

Don't Worry Girls! You Won't Be Drafted

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, said yes that if ever there is a universal training program, girls would not be drafted.

"It's hard to sell the armed forces on the use of women," Hershey said in a Philadelphia interview.

He denied that the present draft system was unfair.

"Few people know what equity is, and too few people have any idea of the severe limitations under which the Selective Service System works. The secretary of defense sets the standards, and we just carry them out," Hershey said.

Pakistan Delays Arthur Godfrey in Attempt to Fly Around World

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Arthur Godfrey's round-the-world flight arrived in Colombo today two hours behind schedule. The television star blamed Pakistani authorities who he said forced him to land in Karachi.

"Our plans for overflying Pakistan had been approved but we were asked to land at Karachi," he said. "No reason was given us. We were held up two hours and a half."

"Maybe we can make it up on the Colombo-Singapore leg."

Godfrey's twin-jet Commander, a plane designed primarily for business executives, arrived in Colombo nearly 36 hours after leaving New York and left for Singapore an hour and 25 minutes later.

Godfrey and four friends are trying to break 15 international speed and distance records.

SHOULD RETURN TUESDAY

The group left New York at 9:11 a.m. Saturday. Their flight plan calls for them to return there at 5:52 p.m. Tuesday after 53 hours of flying time.

Godfrey has been a pilot for 32 years. With him is Dick Merrill, who won the Harmon Trophy in 1937 for the first round-trip crossing of the Atlantic.

Also aboard are Fred Austin of Los Angeles, a pilot for 34 years who made the first flight around the world from pole to pole last November; Karl Keller of Oklahoma City, an aeronautical engineer and pilot, and Jerry Germyn of Oklahoma City, Godfrey's former flight instructor.

Infection Hospitalizes Archbishop of Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Richard Carse said Sunday that the cardinal, Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, was admitted to St. Elizabeth's Hospital Saturday night with a "persistent infection which the demands of his schedule in the past weeks has aggravated." The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the radio priest of the 1930s, at a spokesman for the archdiocese said Sunday that the cardinal was forced to cancel a number of engagements, including a speech Thursday at the 50th anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the radio priest of the 1930s, at Royal Oak, Mich.

these obscene or harassing calls persist.

We're concerned about these calls and want to help stop them. Should you receive any, remember, you control your phone. You can end any conversation simply by hanging up.

If the calls continue, don't hesitate to phone your Michigan Bell Service Representative. She can call in people we have specially trained to help investigate, identify, and work with police in the apprehension of these callers. With the help of improved procedures many callers have been caught.

We also remind everyone that Michigan law provides up to 90 days in jail and $100 in fines for making obscene, harassing calls. Tornadoes Injure 3

ENID, Okla. (AP) — Two tornadoes spun out of a dusk-time sky Sunday, damaging some 500 homes but injuring only three of Enid's 40,000 residents.

The three persons were hospitalized for observation.

The late-spring funnels hopped an area 6 blocks wide and 30 or 40 blocks long, said Chief of Police Dale Moxley.

Moxley said "people were alerted by radio warnings and were standing in their yards and saw the storm approaching. This probably saved a lot of lives because they had time to get into protected areas."

HOMES DAMAGED

Moxley, who lost the front part of his home in the sudden storm, said about 500 homes were damaged to some extent and about 100 persons had to be relocated during the night.

Witnesses said more than a dozen homes were demolished.

The storm-wrecked area was cordoned off by police while clean-up crews and telephone linemen carried out their chores.

A half-dozen freight cars were blown over and numerous house trailers were overturned. Large trees were felled.

The Union Equity Cooperative

Exchange's maintenance building was demolished. Bob Gaudin, an engineer with radio station KCRC, peered out a window and saw the funnel approaching.

"This tornado came straight toward KCRC — in the town of North Enid — and suddenly it veered to the east," he said. "I saw several large pieces of debris flying by, including one piece that looked like a garage door."

A dozen other funnels were reported in northern and central Oklahoma. There was some damage to farm homes.

Cairo Subway Urged

Mother of Seven Given Church Post in Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — Mrs. Jane Wolford, a mother of seven, today was appointed executive director of a new Detroit Archdiocesan program aimed at "giving religious, cultural and vocational" education to adults. The new program, known as the Institute for Continuing Education, will carry out two directives from the Vatican Council to expand and upgrade adult education within the church and to give women a greater role in church life.

Mrs. Wolford now will occupy the highest position of any woman in the eight-county archdiocese not a member of a religious order.

4 Hunted in Robbery

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Police were searching today for bandits who escaped with an estimated $10,000 to $14,000 Saturday from a supermarket after forcing six persons to remain in a walk-in freezer. Four men were believed involved.

Viet Nam Horrors Rough on 'Softies'

By TOM TIEDE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. — LAI KHE, Viet Nam — This war is no place for softies. One who sees much of the horror and the heroics should perhaps develop emotional armor against the miseries of these gallant, lonely soldiers.

Most observers, however, can not.

Not with kids like Steve Laier.

He was an 18-year-old infantryman from Fort Wayne, Ind. A handsome lad with a puppy dog crewcut, eyes that lit up like lamps, and the confidence and enthusiasm that only youth generates.

HOSPITAL BED

A lot of guys met him here on a hospital bed.

He always smiled at them and apologized for not getting up.

He could not, of course. His legs had been blown off.

The boy and a couple dozen companions from the First Infantry Division were on an ambush patrol when it happened.

GROUND MINES

The Viet Cong sprang their favorite surprise — ground mine detonations.

If a man is lucky, he may escape in one piece.

But Steve Laier wasn't lucky. He was carrying the patrol's radio set when the explosion turned his world to hell.

He must have been right on top of the blast for one of his legs was severed completely and the other reduced to ribbons.

FELT NO PAIN

Blood shot in all directions but there was no pain save that of witnessing his own mutilation.

Around him scores of wounded groaned and screamed. Two of them died instantly. The rest pleaded for help and water.

The boy himself was near death, yet he refused to die. In fact, he refused even to pass out and instead began to work his telephone for help.

USES PHONE

"We're hit, we're hit," he blurted into the radio. "Choppers, we need choppers. Help us, please help."

Shortly, the nauseous realization of what had happened overpowered the boy and he dropped the phone to the ground and raised his legs to the air. He held them up to slow the flow of fluid from his weakening body.

Then he prayed and he cursed.

The patrol around him was in human ruin. Virtually everyone was bleeding and a single medic moved from man to man as rapidly as possible.

When he finally reached the young trooper, he winced, turned away and muttered: "HE'S GONE"

"He's gone, I can't help at all."

Laier heard.

"Get over here," he called, "I'm still alive!"

The medic obeyed quickly.

"Don't give up, GI," somebody stammered.

"I ain't giving up, sir," the youngster replied.

"You can make it."

"Yesir," Laier said, "I hope so anyway."

Moments later, he was evacuated. He was placed in the hospital with the entire lower half of his body brutally ripped, large holes in his abdomen, dime-sized punctures in his arms and face, and over a hundred smaller wounds covering the whole of his front side.

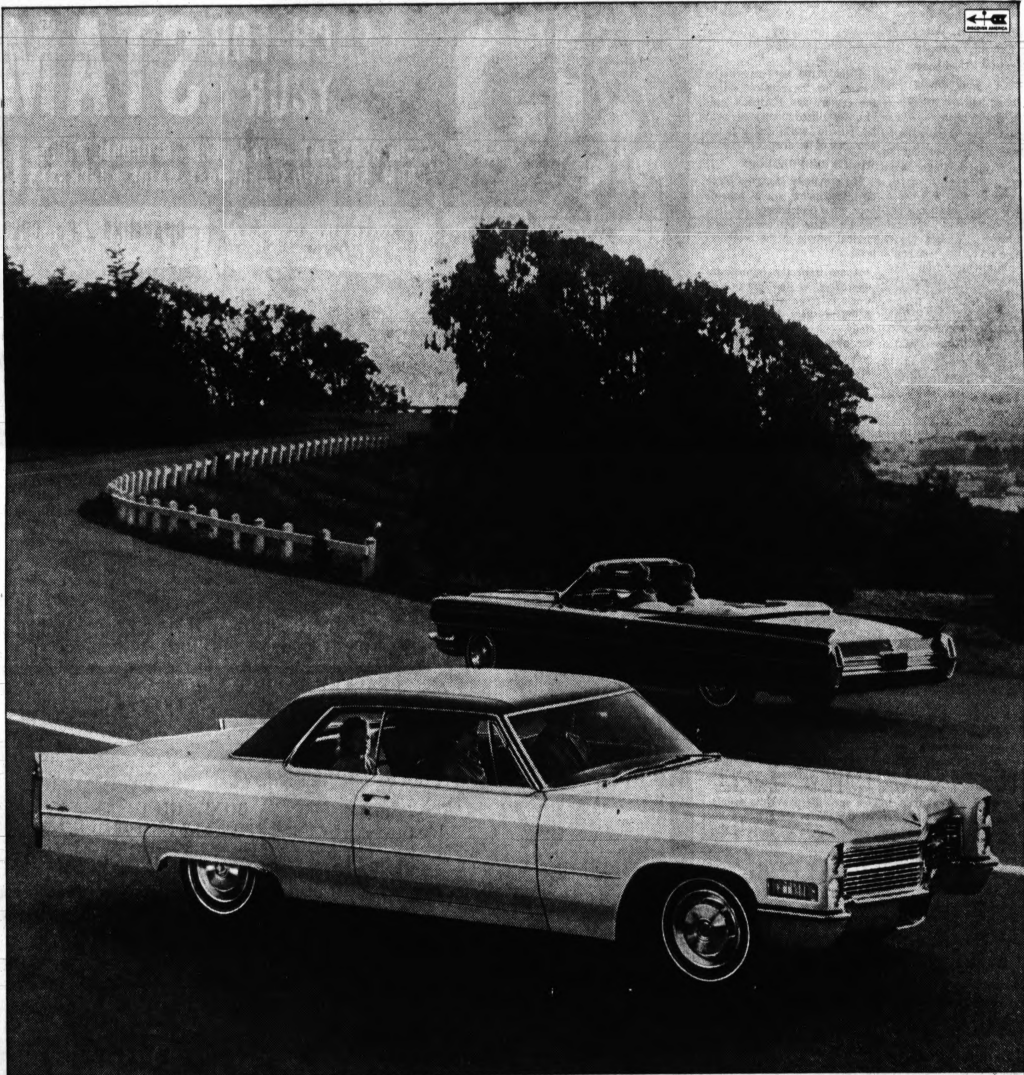

He struggled for life for two weeks.

And he clung to optimism.

"I've been praying a lot and thinking of home," he told visitors. "I know I look in bad shape, but I'll be O. K. I'll get by. I'll be out and around in no time."

A few days later, Steve Laier died.

And a lot of the softies here wept unashamed.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Bland Diet Prescribed for Mucous Colitis

Q—There is a lot of phlegm in my stools and I have a slight but constant cramping in my abdomen. X rays of my intestines failed to show anything wrong. Does this indicate that further tests should be made or do I have something that laxatives will control?

A—Without further tests I BRANDSTADT would say you have described the typical findings of mucous colitis.

Laxatives would make it worse. There are many remedies for this condition but none of them will help you unless you adhere to a bland (no roughage) diet and arrange to eliminate emotional stresses.

Q—I have colitis and am taking an enema of one quart of water with two teaspoonsful of starch twice a day. Will this cure me?

A—No—it will probably make your colitis worse. An enema should be taken only if you have gone 48 hours without a bowel movement (72 hours following a loose stool) and then you should use only eight ounces of warm water with nothing in the water.

Such an enema should be held for five minutes before letting it pass out.

Q—I have had colitis for three years. My doctor prescribed Azulfidine, Lomotil, cortizone and a milk-free diet. Must I take these drugs indefinitely? How long does it take to cure this condition?

A—Anyone who is taking Azulfidine should have a periodic blood examination.

Lomotil should not be taken by anyone who has cirrhosis of the liver or who is taking barbiturates.

Cortisone should not be taken for more than 10 days at a time with an interval of three or four weeks between courses.

Colitis is aggravated by milk and milk products in some, but not all, victims.

Like all chronic conditions, cure may take a long time but it can be achieved. The duration of the treatment would depend on the severity of the disease and the skill of your physician.

Q—When I was in high school a doctor prescribed amphetamine to help me lose weight.

Now I am addicted to this drug. What should I do?

A—This drug, marketed as Benzedrine, Dexedrine and Methedrine can be obtained legally only on a doctor's prescription.

It is potentially dangerous and is definitely habit-forming when taken over a long period.

Cities' Ghettos Are Neglected in Push for Large-Scale Projects

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR., Executive Director

National Urban League

America's deteriorating cities are a major national concern. Aging slums in the hearts of our cities have become racial ghettos—decaying prisons for victims of discrimination and poverty.

Yet this tragic situation is neglected as cities plan large-scale developments—office blocks, cultural centers, convention halls—to attempt to lure back the millions who have migrated to the suburbs.

But it is these depressed ghettos which are most in need of massive transfusions of concrete and steel—the symbols of urban vitality and strength. Unless these sections are to deteriorate further, unless their residents are to continue to be victims of civic neglect, immediate action must be taken.

The trickle of antipoverty funds into the ghetto cannot change anything without more visible, tangible signs of willingness to upgrade the ghetto and make it truly a part of the city.

What better way than to locate these huge new developments in ghetto areas which are usually situated in the very centers of the cities?

I recently convened a meeting of businessmen and legislators from Harlem and we set in motion a plan for New York, which can be an example to other cities. The proposal was simple—that the planned World Trade Center, scheduled for construction in a congested part of lower Manhattan, be placed in Harlem.

CONTRVERSIAL UNIT

The World Trade Center is a controversial office complex including two buildings designed to be the tallest in the world.

There are several places in Harlem where the center could be built without relocation hardships and the transportation to and from all parts of the metropolitan area is excellent.

Moving the project to Harlem would be a significant first step in the rehabilitation of the community, eventually attracting other business additions.

About 10,000 workers will be needed for the construction of the center, and Harlem's pool of underutilized manpower could be put to work, helping the economy of the area.

WOULD PROVIDE HOPE

The proximity of such a large office complex would provide hope for schoolchildren and jobs for the many professional and clerical people in the neighborhood.

Apart from the immediate upgrading of the ghetto, it would bring an influx of about 80,000 workers into Harlem daily—people who never see the ghetto now unless they happen to look out of the windows of their commuter trains.

It is imperative that there be an interchange of people between the ghetto and the rest of the city. Only in this way can the false stereotypes which exist in people's minds be broken down, to be replaced by common understanding and a diversity of experience which can only enrich those who take part.

In addition to this integration of the work force, we could expect integrated housing developments to come into the neighborhood, since Harlem's central location would be an added inducement to those who prefer to live near where they work.

LARGE INFUX

This large influx of workers would also serve to improve public services, now so sadly neglected in the ghetto.

Police, sanitation, and other public agencies would be forced to improve their service once the powerless people of the ghetto were joined by workers from all parts of the city.

Perhaps as important as the economic effects of such a project is the tangible evidence it would give to the ghetto that past neglect is at an end; that the tragic isolation of the community will be remedied; and that the future of the ghetto is not the downward spiral into despair, but the exciting prospect of uplift and rehabilitation which will tie it to the rest of the city.

It could be concrete evidence of the concern for Harlem's problems, and a morale-building source of pride for the people in the ghetto.

Talk Out Language Problems

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.

The summer is a good time to learn to speak the language you are studying in school.

If you want to speak another language, you must actually talk to yourself in that language. This can be a better exercise than trying to converse in the DR. NASON language with another person.

Talking to yourself is valuable in learning to speak a foreign language because you can control the conversation.

If, for instance you are studying French, try standing on your front porch and describe to yourself in French, the trees, flowers, buildings and the people passing by.

Ask yourself questions and then answer yourself. All this should be done aloud to accustom your ears to HEARING the words.

At the same time, you should have mental pictures of what you are talking about.

READ ALOUD

To avoid developing a wrong accent, obtain some French language records. These are frequently obtainable on loan from your public library or they can be bought. Practice matching your pronunciation with that produced on the records.

Get some simple French books and read them just to enjoy the stories. These, too may be obtained from your library.

If you have to look up a few words in the dictionary in order to understand a passage, re-read it, discarding the English you have used in translating and think only in French. Then read it aloud several times to accustom your ears to the sound of the new words.

These methods work for any foreign language study. Working all on your own for a short time each day, you can learn to hear a language, speak a language and think in the language.

TONGUE-TIED

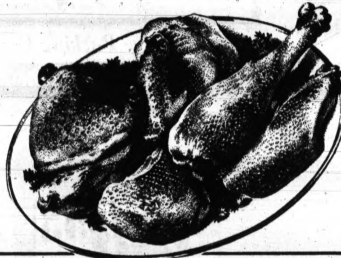

No amount of translating or study of grammar will do this for you. Four years of translating French can leave a student tongue-tied on a visit to France.

The American male spends about 2½ per cent of his income for clothes for himself.

Jackie and Family Settle Down for Month-Long Stay in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her family settled into a beachfront home just beyond Waikiki today to begin a month's vacation in Hawaii.

With the former First Lady and her two children — John, 5, and Caroline, 9 — were the children of the late Kennedy's sister Pat — Sydney Lawford, 9, and Christopher II.

Their father, movie actor Peter Lawford, arrived with Mrs. Kennedy by air Sunday.

Lawford drove with Mrs. Ken-nedly to the home she has rented for $3,000 a month, then left immediately for the nearby Kahala Hilton Hotel where is registered as a guest.

FIRST VISIT

It is Mrs. Kennedy's first visit to Hawaii, and she was greeted by a crowd estimated by police in excess of 5,000.

Thousands lined a main thoroughfare but the car went a different way and only a few people close to the holiday home, in the shadow of Diamond Head, spotted her.

At the airport, Mrs. Kennedy smiled as she was presented with several leis, one by Brig. Gen. Francis Boyles, Hawaii's protocol officer. Another greeter was Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii.

Young John stole what little show there was to see. He made eyes at a pin-sized hula girl of about his own age, and had to be tugged by his mother several times when he tried to lag behind to see the dancers.

Kiss in Car Puts Driver in a Pinch

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A kiss led to the brief jailing of Richard S. Wright, but an apology squared most of his troubles.

Police said Wright was driving down a street yesterday with his arm around his girlfriend. She leaned over and kissed him. A patrolman gave him a ticket for reckless driving.

Police said Wright protested the ticket. Result: he was charged with disorderly conduct.

Then, according to police, Wright ripped the ticket in two and threw it on the street. Result: He was charged with violating the city's street littering ordinance.

Police said Wright, 23, a schoolteacher from Orange City, Iowa, later apologized and said but the reckless driving charge was withdrawn. He was released on $50 bond.

Mrs. Glenn Miller Dies in California

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Glenn Miller, widow of the band leader, died in Huntington Hospital Thursday after a brief illness. She was 64 and lived at San Marino, near Pasadena.

Mrs. Miller is being buried today in a private ceremony.

Miller was a major and director of the Army Air Corps Band during World War II. He was lost on a plane flight from London to France in 1944. Mrs. Miller moved to Southern California after she lost her husband.

Publisher's Wife Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Blanche Wolf Knopf, 71, wife of publisher Alfred A. Knopf, died Saturday. Mrs. Knopf played an active part in her husband's publishing firm for many years, serving as vice president before she succeeded him as president in 1957.

IN 2-WHEEL DRIVE — Moving south on New York's Park Avenue, two scooter-loads of fashionably dressed commuters are in the vanguard of the rush to the office. The new breed of commuter — the scooter commuter — is flourishing in the environment of overcrowded streets and highways. The speedy two-wheelers frustrate the driver of the family car and even baffle New York's razzle-dazzle cabbies.

New Breed Beats Tie-Ups

Scooter Commuters Bid Cars Goodbye

NEW YORK (AP)—The family car may never become obsolete, but for one new breed of American—the scooter commuter—automobiles are passe.

Each morning the scooter commuter pegs his pant legs, lashes his brief case tightly to the back of a motorcycle, and blithely speeds through traffic jams where no mere car can move.

There is a female of the species, too, who cares not in the least that her combination of high-heeled shoes and a motorcycle crash helmet is not in the best fashion tradition.

FLOURISHING BREED

The breed, a rarity just a few years ago, has flourished in the environment of overcrowded superhighways. In 1965 the scooter commuter population doubled, and it is expected to double again in 1966.

Motorcycles, motorcycles and motorbikes are everywhere. In New York, even the police have "putt-putt patrols."

"These things are convenient and a heck of a lot of fun," said one commuter as he waited for a light to change on Park Avenue.

Another concurred, adding that riding the cycles is also safer than the subways. "I bought this cycle on the first warm day we had in March," said Jeffrey Thompson.

"About 18 people elbowed me in the kidneys on a subway trip, and I decided then and there never to take a subway again."

HELMETED BEAUTY

Thompson was carrying a passenger—Tina Johnson—who looked very much like a fashion model, except for a crash helmet.

"It isn't mine," Miss Johnson said. "Jeffrey made me wear it."

EASIER TO SWITCH

It was then that many a commuter found it easier to switch than fight. Among them were Bob and Peggy Krieger.

"It was a heaven-sent blessing," Krieger said after he and his wife had spurted through Manhattan's morning rush-hour traffic. "No matter how bad the traffic jams got, we never had any trouble."

Another cyclist, John Schweitzer, admitted "It was a little cold riding this thing during the January strike, but it was plenty handy."

Cycles also are handy for meeting people. Armand Romano has been commuting by motorscooter for a year. Two months ago he offered a ride to a girl from his apartment building and has been taking her to work every day since.

When a reporter stopped them and asked their names, she identified her as Joan Oettinger.

Romano turned to her. "No kidding," he said. "I never knew your name before. It's nice to meet you."

Alaska is the only state that does not have a New York Stock Exchange member office.

Faces of Past Prove Haunting to Hit-Run Driver

A HIT-AND-RUN KILLER

As Told To Pete Simer
Southern Michigan Prison Inmate

The first face is mine. It was one of the happiest faces in town on the morning of June 3, 1963 — especially in that moment when it kissed . . .

The second face, Nancy's. We had been married 18 months and Nancy had just told me that our hopes for a child were only seven months from fulfillment.

"Joe," Nancy said, walking me out to our jalopy that morning, "our baby rates better than this rattletrap. Anyway, we can afford a newer car now."

Nancy knew I was hankering for a hardtop. I bought a nice one and was almost home with it when I was stopped by . . .

The third face, Robin's. Thrilling to the feel of all that new horsepower in my hands, I whurr-ed around our corner and saw a neighbor's sedan backing down the driveway.

AT THE WHEEL
Imagine my shock when I realized that five-year-old Robin was at the wheel! Robin was the reigning darling of our block, a curlytop who delighted neighbors as readily as her namesake's song.

I jammed one foot at the brake. It landed on the accelerator. The crash sprang a door on the sedan and sent Robin flying, curls foremost, to the pavement.

Her doll landed nearby. Unseen, but forcefully felt, was . . .

FACE OF FEAR

The fourth face — the overwhelming face of fear. It screamed these unforgettable words: "You've killed her! Turn this car around and get out of here, fast!"

Prodded by panic, I obeyed and this invited . . .

The fifth face, which belonged to a cop. Later, in a courtroom, I faced . . .

The sixth face, that of a mother who mourned her only child. She testified: "We were going shopping. Robin was impatient, so I told her to take Mimì, her doll, and go wait in the car."

LAST WORDS

"A moment later, I heard Robin's last words. 'Since you're such an old slowpoke, Mommie,' she called from the car. 'I guess I'll just have to take Mimì and drive to the shopping center without you!'"

Many eyes shimmered in flash-flood tears. I wept, too. "It really wasn't Joe's fault," Robin's mother continued, dabbing at her eyes.

"Robin enjoyed playing in the car so much that I refused to recognize any great danger in this. Somehow, she must have shifted the car into neutral, allowing it to coast into Joe's path."

BOLSTERED

Her defense of me was bolstered by . . .

The seventh face, Robin's father's. "Joe is a fine man, said. 'He adored our Robin and no doubt would have died himself rather than harm her.'"

More support came from . . .

The eighth face, my employer's. "Joe's a real com, in our company," he said.

'ALWAYS EAGER'

"Always eager to do a little bit extra, and do it well, he has won two promotions in three years."

I glanced at Nancy. She smiled reassuringly. But what little hope I had then was dispensed by the grim voice of . . .

The ninth face, the judge's. "If I had my way," he began, "no driver, regardless of his standing in the community, would ever get a second chance to run down a child and leave her dying in the street.

LIMITS OF LAW

"Unfortunately, the law limits the car for hit-and-run slaughter." The sentence eventually brought me up against . . .

The 10th face, that of the prison guard who stopped at my cell this morning and commented on the weather. I ignored him.

Finally, turning to walk on, he remarked, "You sure got a hate hangover, ain't ya?"

Yes, I suffer a hangover of hate . . . for drivers who leave their cars unlocked. Here is why. Remorsefully, I remember Robin — and that her last words came from an unlocked sedan.

Then, five months after my trial, the 10th face brought this heartbreaking news. A teenager in a stolen car was being chased by police when he side-swiped an oncoming vehicle, lost control, jumped a curb and downed three shoppers; killing one.

In her dying move, Nancy had reached to clutch the layette she had just bought for our unborn baby.

The car that killed Nancy had been left unlocked, its keys in the ignition switch.

"YOUR HEALTH" "NERVES"

It's just my nerves. I've always been this way. So many points offer this complaint to their doctors, and receive sedation and tranquilizers. Many resort to alcohol just to "relax." Take time right now to reach up and feel the muscles of your neck and shoulders. Chances are they are tight and painful to the touch. Remember, nerves go to every organ, muscle and gland in the body. Pressure on these nerves can cause a malfunction or short circuit to these parts. Chiropractic treatments can, in many cases, remove this pressure, relax the muscles, and place you back on the road to good health. Find out now if you are a Chiropractic case.

OUSTED—Adhemar de Barros, governor of Sao Paulo, the richest and most populous state in Brazil, was removed from office yesterday by the federal government. He also was stripped of his political rights for 10 years. No official reason was given for his dismissal, but he apparently threatened the chances of a government-picked candidate to succeed him in office.

Controversial Governor Ousted by Brazil's Regime

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Brazil's military dictatorship has removed Adhemar de Barros, controversial governor of Sao Paulo, the nation's richest state, apparently because he threatened the chances of the government candidate to succeed him.

President Humberto Castello Branco also stripped De Barros of his political rights for 10 years and named Lt. Gov. Laudo Natel to govern the province until elections scheduled for Sept. 3.

De Barros had helped put Castello Branco in power two years ago but had strongly opposed his policies in recent months.

There was no official explanation for the removal of De Barros, the most important political figure to be purged since the wholesale cleanout following the overthrow of President Joao Goulart in 1964.

'$1-MILLION FUND'

But there were reports that the 65-year-old governor had accumulated a campaign fund of more than $1 million to use against Castello Branco's choice to succeed him, Abreu Sodre.

Castello Branco was also reported dissatisfied by a wave of political appointments De Barros made as he neared the end of his second term as governor.

A doctor by profession, De Barros has had a checkered political career. He served as mayor of the city of Sao Paulo and has been a perennial presidential candidate.

He ran unsuccessfully for president in 1955 and 1960 and had announced his availability for this year's elections.

De Barros broke with Castello

Branco after the military president abolished political parties and decreed that Congress would elect the president and state legislatures the governors.

SITUATION CALM

De Barros stepped down quietly with only a perfunctory thrust at Castello Branco and an expression of hope for a better future for Brazil. Reports from throughout the state indicated the situation was calm. Some army patrols were in the streets of Sao Paulo City but there was no evidence of unusual movement by the state militia.

There were rumors that military leaders wanted De Barros brought in for questioning in connection with investigations of corruption during his administration.

Congress Is Preparing for a Heavy Schedule This Week

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress faces a heavy schedule this week, with the promise of a long Fourth of July vacation in the offing.

If everything comes off according to plan, House Democratic Leader Carl Albert told the House last week, "it is 99 per cent certain" there will be a 10-day vacation over the Independence Day period.

House leaders plan votes this week on an assortment of legislation including an increase in the national debt ceiling, a $17.8-billion military procurement measure, the administration's Food for Freedom proposal, the annual legislative appropriation bill and a bill to change bail bond practices.

Although the administration wants the debt ceiling boosted to $332 billion, the House bill would raise the limit to only $330 billion from the present $328 billion.

The military procurement bill is $301 million more than sought by President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. The legislative appropriations bill calls for $187 million to pay congressional costs in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The less-crowded Senate docket is highlighted by voting scheduled for Wednesday on a bill to require more specific labeling and packaging of consumer commodities.

Senate debate starts today on a bill extending government controls over bank holding companies by eliminating several existing exemptions. The bill would force the breakup of several companies.

Committees in both branches will continue hammering into shape major bills dealing with the foreign aid program, civil rights, appropriations and cruise ship safety regulations.

The long Memorial Day week and slowed action last week in both chambers.

Build Beehive for Humans

13-Story Structure for Fair at Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) — A giant beehive is rising on a finger of land that juts out into the St. Lawrence River on the site of Expo 67, Montreal's World Fair that will open next April.

Named Habitat 67, it will be a complete 13-story village of 160 homes made up of 350 blocks labyrinthically stacked in place by a giant crane so that every home has its own garden on the roof of the house below it.

Every house catches the prevailing breeze and five hours of sunlight a day.

Each home has its own private entrance off a canopied walkway and every one is less than 15 minutes away at baby carriage pace from any other part of the village.

In the hollow of the hive will be shops, libraries, schools, playgrounds—all separated from cars and roadways—skylighted to catch the light filtering through the hive.

REVOLUTIONARY DREAM
Habitat 67 is the revolutionary dream of Israeli-born Moshe Safdie, a 32-year-old student of McGill University, and Louis Kahn of Philadelphia, who has wrestled with the problem of providing city living with the amenities and without the headaches of suburbia.

In this pyramid — less than a thousand feet long and 300 feet wide — Safdie has artfully stacked precast concrete units — all of which are finished on the ground in an assembly line procedure.

Habitat 67 will be occupied during Expo 67 by officials of the fair — although some units will be open to the public.

Financed by the city of Montreal, this unique experiment in housing required the technical work of more than 70 architects, engineers and technicians.

Predicts Safdie, "once the plant, factory and crane are paid for, we should be able to build homes for $15,000 to $25,000 — matching the market for middle-income housing."

Sea Sediment Said Moved by Currents

By Science Service
MOSCOW — For millions of years, sediments have been deposited around the continents by deep undercurrents flowing parallel to the coastline, a U.S. oceanographer reported at the Second International Oceanographic Congress.

These thick accumulations of marine sediments could prove valuable as deposits of petroleum, said Dr. Bruce Heezen of the Lamont Geological Observatory, Palisades, N.Y.

Deep-sea bottom currents off the coast of the United States do not flow in a northerly direction, as the Gulf Stream does, but in a southerly direction, the scientist reported.

This undercurrent has been building up the continental rise, which is the broad area between the continental shelf and the abyssal plain of the ocean floor.

Fine mud with rose and rose-gray colors, found in the outer ridge about 400 miles from the coast of Georgia and Florida, may have been transported as much as 1,800 miles by the undercurrent from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Over 1,200 scientists from some 30 countries attended the Congress, jointly sponsored by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) and the Soviet government.

None reaches a more distinguished audience.

"Mr. McCann with his humble duty," he begins.

Then he sets forth an account of what has happened that day in the mother of Parliaments.

"I try to capture the spirit of the proceedings in the chamber," McCann says.

"If the House erupts in anger, I tell the queen why. If members double up with laughter, I describe what started it all. And my aim throughout is to stay objective."

McCann is Laborite member of Parliament for the Lancashire seat of Rochdale.

He was appointed in April by Prime Minister Harold Wilson as vice chamberlain of the royal household.

The post carries with it a traditional duty started in 1783 by King George III.

The report is supposed to describe incidents and atmosphere in the House "during the early part of the day."

William Gladstone considered the job a chore and bore.

Benjamin Disraeli used it to extend his influence.

With the 20th century, British premiers discreetly delegated the duty to the vice chamberlain of the royal household.

When the Duke of Windsor ascended to the throne in 1936 as Edward VIII, he abolished the job but soon after the abdication, his brother King George VI restored it.

McCann, who worked his way through night school, writes the report in his own hand Monday to Thursday when Parliament is sitting.

"It's left entirely to my own discretion as to what I present to the queen to read," McCann said. "Naturally, I try to make it chatty and readable and not merely a straight account of the proceedings."

McCann's reports average about 700 words but, on dull days, they are considerably less.

His communication arrangements are as picturesque as the job.

He completes his dispatch three or four hours after the House meets.

Then he hands it in at the Commons post office.

It is delivered as a telegram to Buckingham Palace by a messenger.

The queen gets it just before dinner when she is in London. If she's out of the country, the reports are turned into a weekly account and then radioed or delivered to her by courier.

NOTICE SYLVAN and OTTER LAKE PROPERTY OWNERS

Weeds in Sylvan and Otter Lakes will be treated with a chemical solution beginning Monday, June 6, 1966. The chemical is not considered harmful and a permit is not needed to apply this chemical. Application will be by boat and should require about 5 days, weather permitting.

As a precautionary measure it is recommended that swimming be avoided for at least 5 days following application.

Water from the lake should not be used for irrigation for 10 days after to avoid the possibility of plant or lawn damage.

WONDERFUL
MATERIALS

QUESTION: Why are elephant's teeth made of ivory?

ANSWER: This question sounds as if an elephant should be very happy to have such a precious and valuable material in his mouth.

While ivory is a wonderful substance, nature has created it, not as a thing in itself, but because it is so valuable to the elephant, the walrus, the narwhal, and the hippopotamus.

These animals have ivory teeth or tusks because they are flexible as well as strong, making them efficient tools for living and food gathering.

The elephant grubs up food and fights with his tusks. He also uses them for picking up heavy objects, as in our picture.

The tusks would break off unless they were made of flexible material such as ivory. Elephant ivory is the finest and most valuable of all and has been used since Egyptian days for carving.

It is a beautiful, hard, creamy white material with an almost invisible grain. The most delicate carvings can be made in it, as shown by the little Japanese figures at lower right.

A good-sized tusk may be six feet long (lower left). As though chemically-made substitutes are often used, fine elephant ivory is still in demand, for many articles can be made from it.

FOR YOU TO DO: Here is an interesting way to find out if a piece of ivory is really made of the valuable elephant tusk. Examine it and see if you can find a place on it where it has been sawed directly across. If this is elephant ivory, you will see a delicate cross-hatching of the grain.

Revamping Committees Likely Aim of Legislative Reform Unit

DICK BARNES

LANSING (AP) — When you as a businessman or shop foreman or professional man set out to improve procedures, your aim usually is efficiency, time-saving or a better product. It's the same with the Legislature.

A 12-member committee will with 41 committees and the Senate with 20. Committees are also procedures this summer, although, observes chairman Rep. J. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, "We're not bad off — it's more a question of refining the process than major overhaul."

Revamping of committees appears to carry the greatest promise for promoting efficiency. The House now operates with 41 committees and the Senate with 20. Committees are supposed to study proposed bills and whip into shape those which they think are worth consideration by a full house of the Legislature.

LITTLE TO DO Some committees, such as the Senate Tourism Industry Relations Committee with three bills, have little to do. Others, such as each chamber's judiciary committee, are deluged with hundreds of bills.

The large number of committees forces legislators to be on four and five committees, which sometimes meet at the same time.

Traxler envisions chopping the list of committees to only major subject areas such as labor, agriculture and the like. Membership on some unwieldy committees such as the 18-member House Ways and Means would be trimmed. One suggestion has been simply to eliminate deadlines — let bills be introduced, committees act and the full Legislature act whenever it was ready to act. Congress operates essentially this way. Another congressional procedure which may be considered is naming a committee to plan the daily calendar of action by calling specific bills up for debate rather than letting them fall onto the calendar haphazardly. Expansion of staff and facilities also could free legislators from some of their busy-work chores, leaving more time for decision making.

Storm Brews in Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A well-defined tropical depression in the northwest Caribbean Sea some 600 miles south southwest of Miami was expected to become the season's first tropical storm today.

If sustained winds in the squally area reach 39 miles an hour, the storm will be named Alma.

The depression was centered near Swan Island, a tiny U.S. possession 300 miles due south of the western tip of Cuba, and was moving toward the north at about seven miles per hour.

This was about 800 miles south southwest of Cape Kennedy and would not affect weather in the Atlantic where Gemini 9 was scheduled to splash down.

Gordon Dunn, chief storm forecaster, said a trough of low pressure east of Miami could draw the bad weather toward south Florida. Under the right conditions, it could reach this area in three days, he said.

Surveyor 1's Long Look at Star Helps Scientists Fix Craft's Location

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's lunar Peeping Tom, Surveyor 1, its delicate footpads resting firmly on the moon's lumpy surface, has taken a long look at a star.

The spacecraft's accurate television eye sought and found

Sirius, the brightest star in the sky, providing scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory with a good fix on Surveyor's exact location.

The scientists said pictures of the bright star were received Sunday among 651 new photos of the lunar surface, some showing a range of hills in the distance.

The hills, or small mountains, had been noticed in earlier pictures, but only as small lumps in the distance. Far more detail was obtained, the scientists said, by switching to a narrow-angle, long-range lens.

Scientists planned to keep a close eye on Surveyor's reaction today to the sun's heat.

As the moon goes into its period of high noon, the surface temperature where Surveyor is, is expected to go as high as 260 degrees Fahrenheit. The camera would not be turned on in this period because, according to one scientist, it might "blow up or melt."

After the period of high noon, the experiments will resume through the morning of June 14, when the lunar day — two weeks in earth time — ends. After that, the scientists said, Surveyor's usefulness will end. The craft's delicate instruments would be destroyed in the lunar night's extreme cold.

Smaller NATO Countries Fear 'Collision'

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Foreign ministers of the Atlantic Alliance meet today and the smaller nations were reported refusing to get tough with French President Charles de Gaulle. It appeared that they would succeed in postponing any head-on collision with the French leader.

Informed sources said Canada was leading the lesser powers in opposing withdrawal of NATO's political headquarters from Paris along with its military headquarters. De Gaulle has ordered NATO's military forces out of France by next April 1.

The United States wants NATO's military and political headquarters kept together and would like to move both to Brussels.

The American and British governments feel that France should not be accorded all the privileges of NATO membership without paying a fair price.

FEAR PRESSURE

Canada, Denmark, Norway, Italy, Greece, Turkey and Portugal feel that to pressure

Gaulle now would risk a complete rupture with France. De Gaulle has said that France will remain a member of the alliance in a political sense, although withdrawing from its military framework.

The ministers are also divided on whether to insist that command of the 72,000 French troops in West Germany be linked politically as well as militarily with those of other NATO nations.

The French have expressed readiness to talk with the Germans about the status of the forces in Germany. They have also offered to have the functions of these troops worked out by French military men and U.S. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, NATO's supreme commander in Europe.

The 14 other NATO members have been insisting on negotiations between France and a group of five countries representing NATO. This would avoid the French getting the Germans into direct negotiations that could affect vital interests of other allies.

Although divided on these two key questions, the 14 ministers are united on several others relating to the future of the 17-year-old alliance.

Israeli-LBJ Talks Likely

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—President Zalman Shazar probably will see President Johnson during a private visit to the United States in August while homeward-bound from a tour of South America, reliable sources said last night.

STARTS WALK—James H. Meredith, the first Negro to graduate from the University of Mississippi, waves to spectators in Memphis, Tenn., yesterday as he began a 225-mile walk from Memphis to Jackson, Miss., to encourage Negroes in Mississippi to go to the polls and register. Walking with Meredith is Rev. Robert Weeks of Monroe, N.Y., with duffel bag under his arm.

225-Mile Walk Is Aimed at Mississippi Negroes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — "First, we want to tear down the fear that grips Negroes in Mississippi, and we want to encourage the 450,000 Negroes remaining unregistered in Mississippi."

Meredith started on his 225-mile trek to the Mississippi state capital at Jackson Sunday afternoon, but as he came within sight of the state line, he motored back to Memphis to spend the night in the home of a Memphis NAACP leader. He is depending entirely on local hospitality.

"There are a million Negroes in Mississippi," Meredith said as he started off. "I think that I'll take care of me."

At the start, the only official fellow hikers were the Rev. Robert Weeks, 40, a white Protestant Episcopal priest from Monroe, N.Y., and Sherwood Ross, 33, of Washington, D.C., a white public relations man.

The group may grow as the march progresses, but Meredith says "anyone who comes will be strictly on his own, and I will allow no women or children."

Meredith estimates the trip to Jackson will take about two weeks. He doesn't anticipate trouble, although northern Mississippi was seething in 1962 when he became the first known Negro to enter the University of Mississippi.

"There are two purposes for this trip," Meredith said.

Fly to Rescue in Antarctic

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (AP) — A U.S. Navy Hercules plane flew into the antartic darkness today to bring an ailing Navy petty officer to a hospital.

With Rear Adm. F. E. Bakutis, commander of the U.S. Navy Support Force in the antarctic aboard, the ski-equipped transport from Quonset Point, R.I., made a perfect landing by the light of burning fuel drums on a specially prepared runway at McMurdo Sound, the chief U.S. base in the antarctic.

The plane collected Albert Mayfield of Forest City, Ark., and took off for Christchurch after more than an hour in McMurdo's 40-below zero winter.

Job Protest Set at U. S. Steel

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negroes push for increased job opportunities in American industry today with demonstrations against the U. S. Steel Corp.

The demonstrations are scheduled for the company headquarters in Pittsburgh, and at facilities in Birmingham, Bessemer, Ala., and Los Angeles, Calif.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People prepared for the demonstrations Sunday with a rally in Pittsburgh. NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins told the rally "if we can make an impression on U. S. Steel to expand its opportunities for Negroes, then this will raise the rate of acceptance and promotion for Negroes in smaller companies."

U. S. Steel said earlier the demonstrations would harm progress already achieved with in the firm.

Actor Says Career on Disaster Course

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
Robert Morse was soliloquizing about his movie career, which he believes has journeyed from one disaster to another.
"Even my friends say I deserve a good picture," he continued. "They say to me, 'Bob, you're a good enough kid — a little crazy now and then, but you never hurt anybody. You really ought to have a good picture.'" seemed for months that the role might fall to a movie "name."

"That never worried me," said Morse. "I kept reading about how Tony Curtis was all set for the part, or Dick Van Dyke, or Jerry Lewis.
The Mirisch brothers selected David Swift to direct and all hands agreed that the lead should be played by Robert Morse. Also cast was the other original, Rudy Vallee.
"Gee, I hope it's a good picture," said Morse earnestly. "Don't you?"

Morse was making these comments in his dressing room on the set of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." He is playing the role he created to immense success on Broadway, that of window-washer who ascends to presidency of a huge wickets corporation.
I hazarded the possibility that this could be the good picture he so earnestly seeks.
WHO KNOWS?
"You'd think so, but who knows?" he commented dubiously.
Stubby, straw-haired Morse began his film career — except for a featured role in the 1958 "Matchmaker" — with "Honey-moon Hotel." The film was supposed to be a triumphant debut for him and another Broadway star, Robert Goulet. It was such a bomb that it was sold to television almost before the film print was dry.
Next came "The Gypsy One," which he commented: "They made that one like they were playing the piano with their fists."
The results are not yet in on "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Bad," Morse's third starring film. It had not yet been released.
SEEMED A 'MIST'
The filming of "How to Succeed" without Bobby Morse in the lead would have seemed maniacal, since his eccentric style contributed in large measure to the show's success. Yet it

Air Strike Panel Reports to LBJ

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has received findings of a three-man panel that might help ease the threat of a July 5 strike by 34,000 workers against five major airlines.
Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said the report of a fact-finding board headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., was flown to the LBJ Ranch from Washington Sunday.
The board looked into issues underlying a dispute between the AFL-CIO Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers and five carriers: Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United.
If the dispute is not settled by July 5, the union will be free to strike. One aim of the Morse panel, however, was to try to come up with findings that might contribute to a settlement.

"10,000 HOURS OF STUDY PER MAN" — TO HELP HOLD PLUMBING AND HYDRONIC HEATING COSTS DOWN IN THE DETROIT AREA

500 of them are being schooled right now.
They will have to have 1,000 hours of classroom study and 9,000 hours of on-the-job training before taking a journeyman's examination, because they help safeguard your family's health and safety.
When and if they pass, their services will represent a real bargain to you because they will apply specialized education and skills that will enable them to work more swiftly.
All things considered, the rates for their services are low indeed.

The red herring in the strike against Edison

The Safety Issue Raised by the Union, Does Not Exist

In its strike against Detroit Edison, Local 17, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers AFL-CIO, has brought up the question of safety.
A majority of the 747 employees, represented by Local 17 are overhead linemen. The union claims Edison is trying to force them to work on high-voltage lines with insulated gloves instead of fiberglass poles with tools mounted on them.
Untrue.
Edison introduced the subject of insulated gloves at the beginning of contract talks because some 40 electric companies use them and report them to be safer and more efficient than the older method. In several of these companies the linemen are represented by the IBEW — the same International Union that represents Edison linemen.
Local 17 refused to consider the subject and the company dropped the matter... long before the strike was called.

Nonetheless union leaders still talk as though Edison had no concern for the safety of its employees. The facts do not support this. The most modern safety methods are used throughout the company. National Safety Council records show that Edison's safety record is among the best of all electric companies, and much better than industry as a whole.
The union leaders have seen fit to raise the safety issue. But this is only a red herring. The real issue is money... an unreasonable demand for a 20 percent payroll increase.
Edison is proud of its overhead linemen. Theirs is a difficult duty. They work late hours, amid storms and disasters. But this company has an obligation to serve its customers at reasonable cost, and it is regulated (insofar as rates and earnings are concerned) by the public.

Expansion of Fish Flour Use Is Urged

By Science Service

WASHINGTON — Fish flour could be produced and marketed at only a few cents a pound, thus helping to prevent starvation in the underprivileged parts of the world, a New York biologist said at hearings of the Senate committee investigating the use of fish protein concentrate.

Dr. I. A. Parientjev, who is doing private research at the Institute of Applied Biology, said his method of extracting fish protein and mineral products had been patented in June 1959 (2,512,375).

Up to the present, fish meal has been used as an additive to chicken feed in amounts of 5 per cent, but the method could easily be adapted to the preparation of fish flour for human consumption, the biologist believes.

As a source of raw material, Dr. Parientjev advised the use of refrigerated carcasses left after filleting of fish. This waste material makes up two-thirds of the total catch.

By adding moderate acidification, rancidity could be prevented as could the growth of many bacteria, he explained. The addition of thyme and other spices by individual cooks improves the taste of fish flour.

Peruvian Jungle Town Just Right for Adventurers

PUCALLPA, Peru (NEA) — Genuine boom towns are hard to find nowadays.

Unless, of course, business or pleasure happens to take you deep into the Peruvian jungle to Pucallpa, the kind of river town a movie-maker dreams about but never seems able to recreate on the screen.

Were it not for the Spanish cerveza (beer) signs slapped on the more than 50 open-air saloons which line the dirt streets, and the grinding ancient Jeeps and Land Rovers, Pucallpa could easily be a cowboy of the old American west.

Cows, however, are not bringing the speculators and adventurers to Pucallpa.

The lure here is oil, lumber, rubber and allied manufacturing. And the recently completed jungle highway to Lima has linked the ramshackle community to the world.

LUMBERMAN

Take Harry Wrisson, for example. A sandy-haired, 45-year-old lumberman from Texas, he discovered Pucallpa two years ago, dragged cutting machinery 300 miles across the Andes and is now something of a lumber baron.

"You can't beat it," he says. "There's a lot of wood here, prices are high and labor is cheap. I've done all right."

Most new Pucallpans agree that the potential is practically unlimited.

"Anybody," says Wrisson, "who doesn't mind skipping steaks and can put up with mosquitoes and snakes, can make a lot of money here."

Twenty-five years ago, Pucallpa wasn't on a map. Although it enjoyed a good spot on the Ucayali River, the main tributary of the Amazon, only a few hundred tons of rubber moved downriver each year.

Today, a number of Germans, Hungarians, Chinese and, of course, Peruvians have moved in to give this shantytown an international flavor. The town has some 40,000 people.

The Berlin Restaurant, run by an expatriate German intellectual, shares a blockfront with El Chino (Chinese) restaurant. A few blocks away is a Hungarian tavern.

Tourism is still not a big factor in the town's economy, although the Peruvian government is constructing a lavish tourist hotel and hopes to attract travelers interested in alligator hunts, river cruises, safaris and a taste of untamed jungle.

MUDDY STREETS

takes a toughened adventurer to endure Pucallpa for any length of time. During the rainy season, the unit streets turn into mud rivers.

Mosquitoes as big as quters are attracted to white skins. And a boa constrictor or anaconda dropping from a tree can be troublesome, to say the least.

The town's best hotel, the Mercedes, offers straw mattresses and a shower in every room — you have to move the bed to use it. It's not the Pucallpa Hilton, but it's $3 a night as long as a week.

When the town isn't wet, it's hot and air conditioners are stilling into Pucallpa seeking fast of another world. There are no fortunes. And, from the looks of things, it's not too difficult.

with real civilization is by radio. A local airline connects Pucallpa with Lima daily, except when there are clouds over the Andes. And then the plane does not fly.

Passengers have been known to wait patiently at the airport, for right in the center of town, for as long as a week.

Despite these irritations, it's more and more people are pushing into Pucallpa seeking fast of another world. There are no fortunes. And, from the looks of things, it's not too difficult.

HELPING HAND—Racing driver A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., has his hands and arms covered with bandages after suffering second and third degree burns Saturday when his car hit a wall during a warmup lap for Sunday's 100-Mile race in Milwaukee. Helping him with a drink of water is his wife, Lucy. Doctors say Foyt may be released from the hospital Tuesday.

MILWAUKEE Wis. (AP) — Mario Andretti, diminutive Italian-born racing driver with a taste for speed, dangerous living, easily drove his way to victory in the Rex Mays 100-mile race Sunday while the defending champion watched from the sidelines.

Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., who set a one-mile lap record here last year of 111.9 seconds, turned down a $100,000 prize for the $117,570 purse won by Andretti to let rookie teammate Dick Atkins drive his Aganlian Rey 500 Off.

A tip-off that Andretti, of Nazareth, Pa., would practically have the track to himself came when he pushed his special race engine Ford to a record qualifying mark of 111.9 m.p.h.

Andretti took the green flag from his pole position and breezed through without trouble.

It was a short ride. Atkins crashed into the wall on the 14th lap when he was running fourth. Life escaped him unhurt.

Gary Peters is putting less kick into his work this season and getting more kicks out of it. Peters, who isn't lifting his leg as high this year, brought his foot down on Washington Sunday, pitching a two-hitter as the Chicago White Sox completed a sweep of a doubleheader with a 12-0 victory. They won the open-

The start for Peters was his first in two weeks, since he strained the bicep in his left arm in the first inning of a game against Cleveland.

"It was the best game I've thrown in two years," said Peters, who didn't allow the Senators a hit until the seventh inning. The performance brought his record to 3-2 and his earned run average to 2.18.

It also gave him two complete games, one more than he had all of last year, and one shut-out, also one more than he had last year when he dipped from a 20-game season in 1964 to a 10-12 record and a 3.63 ERA.

BAD TIMING

The 29-year-old left-hander believes a combination of bad timing and incorrect kicking affected his pitching last year.

The shutout was the sixth in the last 10 games for Chicago, a period which has seen the pitching staff post an amazing ERA of 0.80. In that time, too, the White Sox have won eight games and moved from seventh place, 10½ games back, to fourth place, 5½ out.

Elsewhere in the American League Minnesota whipped Cleveland 9-4, Baltimore edged Kansas City 6-5 in the 12th inning of a suspended game before losing the regular game 9-4, New York downed Boston 5-3 and Detroit swept California 8-4 and 4-1.

Harmon Killebrew's fifth homer in six games snapped a 4-4 deadlock in the sixth inning and sparked Minnesota past Cleveland. The Twins added three runs in the seventh, two on Rich Rollins' single. Max Alvis and Leon Wagner homered for the Indians.

ITY CURFEW

A double by Sam Bowers and Russ Snyder's single in the 12th inning gave Baltimore a victory in the game suspended Saturday night because of a city curfew.

But the Athletics stormed back in the regular game as Phil Roof drove in three runs and Ken Harrelson and Bert Campaneris two each.

Jim Bouton got relief help from Steve Hamilton and Pedro Ramos for his first victory since last June 30. Bouton, who tired in the seventh inning, singled across two runs in the Yankees' three-run sixth. Roger Maris hit a two-run homer for New York in the first.

HOUSTON (AP) — Rumors of $750,000 popped up beside the name of quarterback John Elway of the National Football League's San Francisco 49ers Sunday, and there were indications the rival league's Houston Oilers have offered this much to sign him after his option is played out.

K. S. (Bud) Adams, owner of the American Football League Oilers, said of reports from the West Coast that his team had offered Brodie three-quarters of a million dollars: "We did discuss it in terms of a million, and I'd say a million is in the right ball park."

quickly or we're going to retail it," he said.

"Now it's up to the NFL to decide whether it's going to happen — whether it's going to be a peace or all-out war. If it's war, we're ready to put on any size gloves they're ready to fight with. If it's peace, we'll be really willing to sit down and talk with them on a reasonable basis."

Adams' comments echoed those Klutznick made last week, when he said after announcing the talks with Brodie: "We're not going to fight (the NFL) with any ounce of force they want... they struck the first blow."

“He was ready to sign a contract,” Adams said. But now, he added, Brodie is “standing by waiting to see what is going to happen.” Adams referred to the feud between the two leagues.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—A mixture of American veterans and newcomers set out today to recover the British Amateur Golf Championships, which has eluded the United States since 1962. But the Yankee contingent faced an uphill struggle.

The odds favored a Briton winning the crown, defended by England's Michael Bonallack. He was one of the top favorites along with the hottest young star on the British horizon, 19-

Forty-one Americans were in the field of 191. The U.S. hopes tested with former U.S. amateur champion Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., Bill Lyndman of Philadelphia, and a transplanted Scot, young Hunter MacDonald of Detroit.

Miss Whitworth shot rounds of 72, 68, and 68 for a one-under par 206 and a victory worth $1,075. She is now leading on the circuit with total earnings of $10,344 this season.

Tiger Manager Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Detroit Tigers manager Charlie Dressen, who was hospitalized with a heart attack last month, will be released today from Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, team spokesmen said.

Club officials said they had no indication when Dressen would rejoin the team. He still is in the hands of his doctors, they said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — America's fastest miler, Jim Ryun of the University of Kansas, feels he can run faster yet — and if he does, he'll be the world champion miler.

Ryun smashed the American record and missed the world mark of France's Michel Jazy by one-tenth of a second as he turned in a remarkable 2:52.7 performance at the Compton Invitational Saturday night at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

"I was not disappointed," Ryun said of his near miss, "but I feel I could have run a little faster."

The 19-year-old freshman said he would like to run against Jazy himself, but added, "un-understand it's a little hard to do," he referred to the Frenchman's seeming reluctance to compete with serious threats away from his homeland.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Ryum does have another chance this weekend, however, when he competes in the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet at Terre Haute, Ind.

Ryum's time bettered the American record of 3:54.9 posted

First, Jim Grelle, the Portland, Ore., fish who broke four other records while still in time in his last year's season, was finishing second to Rynn Saturday, said Rynn "easily could have broken the record if the race had been run an hour or so earlier."

"The track wouldn't have been chewed up so much," Grelle explained, and the weather would have been warmer."

The 10,000 fans also speculated that the one-tenth of a second deficit — less than a hair on a fish's back — might have been minimized if Rynn had not looked behind him once in the stretch, as where Grelle was hit the ball into rightfield but Jim Northrup fielded the ball quickly and fired to shortstop Dick McAuliffe in time for the putout at second base. Detroit took both games, 8-4 and 4-1.

Wednesday at Warwick Hills

Buick Open Pro-Am Nearly Complete

GRAND BLANC — Amateurs already paired in handicapped threesomes will huddle here tomorrow night to see which pro will make their threesome a foursome for Wednesday's pro-am at Warwick Hills.

The $2,500 pro-am is a kick-off event for the Ninth Annual $100,000 Buick Open which gets underway Thursday over the 7,280-yard Warwick layout.

Several well-known sports personalities will be on hand for the pro-am.

Among them are Hugh "Duffy" Daugherty, head football coach at Michigan State University; Forest Evashevski, athletic director at Iowa; brothers Chalmers "Bump" (University of Michigan) and Pete (University of Illinois) Elliott; and Pat Studstill and Sonny Grandelius.

A couple of ex-football greats — Tom Harmon and Frank Gifford — will also be on hand. Both are now national sports commentators.

TEE TIME

The pro-am will start at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday with the PGA field staff supervising play.

Among the show business golfers on hand will be Andy Williams, Ricky Nelson, Gordon MacRae, Forrest Tucker, Buddy Rogers, Dennis Morgan, Bud Wyler, Bob Sterling, Jim Davis, Richard Arlen and possibly Chuck Connors.

Net Upsets Mark State Tournament

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Two upsets marked the state high school tennis championships Saturday, with 15-time Class A winner Hamtramck and defending Class C-D champion Galesburg going down to defeat.

Steve Campbell of Kalamazoo U. high chalked up his third consecutive Class B singles title with a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Portage Central's Pat Hamilton.

In Class B doubles, defending champion Scott Kerchner and Bill Richards of Sturgis beat Mike Schwader and Jeff Dearth of Cranbrook, 97-62.

Defending titlist John Brommet of Ann Arbor University High retained his Class C-D title with a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Bruce Barit of Grosse Pointe University High.

In a match that determined the Class C-D team championship, Charles Wright and John Mely of Grosse Pointe defeated Galesburg's Fred Mills and Greg Wilson, 4-6, 6-3, 9-7.

In the other quarter-final, Fernalde defeated Flint 17-7.

Midland, Flint '9' in Baseball Finals

MIDLAND (AP) — Midland and Flint Northwestern clash today for the championship of the third annual Midland High School Class A Invitational Baseball Tournament.

Midland gained its finalist berth with a 10-0 blanking of a 5-3 victory over Muskegon Mona Shores in Saturday's competition.

Class A Flint Northwestern moved to the finals by defeating Mount Pleasant 8-0 and Fernalde 5-1.

Dave Black of Muskegon Mona Shores pitched a no-hit 5-0 game against Flint Northwestern in the quarter-final round, striking out eight batters.

Mills and Greg Wilson, 4-6, 6-3, 9-7.

In the other quarter-final, Fernalde defeated Flint 17-7.

New IHL Entry Takes 6 Players via Loop Draft

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Columbus Checkers, brand new entry in the International Hockey League, received their first six players via the league draft here Sunday.

The players, drafted at a cost of $1,000 each, were forward Burt Fizzell from Port Huron, Mike Rouleau and Roger Omet, both from Dayton, Pat Ginnell and Gary Mark from Des Moines, and Ray Winterstein from Toledo.

The Des Moines Oak Leafs drafted Alton White from Ft. Wayne and Lorne Weighill from Muskegon; Toledo drafted Lou Kazowski from Port Huron and Jerry Wakshinski from Dayton and Dayton obtained Gil St. Laurent from Muskegon in other draft action.

The player draft wound up the annual three-day league meeting.

In the girls division of the journey, Jayno Adams downed Sandburg, 8-6, and Stringham trimmed Schoolcraft, 25-16. The winners meet in the first of a two-of-three series at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Drayton park.

California Ace Drives to Victory in Germany

ADENAU, Germany (AP) — Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., and Joakim Bonnier of Sweden piloted a Chaparral from Texas to victory Sunday in the Nuerburgring 1,000-kilometer classic.

The Chaparral, powered by a Chevrolet engine, was the first non-European car to win a major post-war race on the Continent. It covered the 621.37-mile course in 6 hours, 58 minutes, 47.6 seconds, averaging 89.35 miles per hour.

Neither jockey Don Brumfield or owner Mike Ford were able to explain why Kaul King did so poorly in his bid for the last of the Triple Crown.

"He was worse than in the Derby," said Brumfield. "It was trying to lug him in the first

Race Reopened by Kauai's Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — The race half-mile and I had a tough time for the 3-year-old championship keeping him from taking the has come full cycle now. With Kaul King's defeat in the Belmont Stakes, it's once again a wide-open affair with at least four horses in strong contention.

The 1 1/4 miles of the Travers Stakes could be decisive race.

Aug. 20 could be decisive race.

The championship first figured to be a struggle between Graustark and Buckpasser. Then Kaul King took command and appeared to have it all but wrapped up.

The situation changed Saturday when Regional Webster's Amberood posted a 2 1/4 length victory in the Belmont Stakes and Kentucky Derby-Freakness winner Kaul King fourth. Buckpasser returned to competition on the same Aqueduct card an authoritative decision over older horses in an allowance race.

Hall of Fame for Ex-Celtic

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Joe Lapchick, former star with the old New York Celtics and later coach of St. John's University and the New York Knicks, and former Indiana and Stanford Coach Everett S. Dean have been elected to the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame at Springfield College.

Youths Hospitalized in Addison Crash

Two Hazel Park youths are in Pontiac General Hospital with injuries received yesterday when the car in which they were riding ran into a tree in Addison Township.

Ronald McKee and Dennis O'Connor, both 15, are reported in satisfactory condition.

Oakland County Sheriff's deputies said the two were hurt when a car driven by O'Connor's brother, Paul, ran off Indian Lake Road about half a mile east of Ridgemoor.

Paul O'Connor and three other youths in the car escaped serious injury.

New Home Hit by Blaze

Fire erupted yesterday afternoon at a new home at 2015 Golf Hill, Waterford Township, being built by E. J. Dunlap Custom Builder, 1941 Lakewood, Bloomfield Township.

Damage to the $20,000 hi-level brick home was estimated at $200 by Township Fire Marshal Russell See.

The fire originated in a bath tub which contained some paper. Fire fighters believe the fire may have been caused by children playing with matches.

Says Cold Weather Puts Freeze on Crime

MIAMI (AP)—Miami Police Sgt. Robert Montana believes cold weather puts a freeze on crime.

During one chilly weekend, he said, the city had only 13 major crimes during a 14-hour period. Usually Miami has 45 or 50 such crimes on a Saturday or Sunday.

Williams Aide Raps Mayor

Cavanagh Blasted on Political 'Vacation'

DETROIT (UP)—Former Governor G. Mennen Williams' campaign manager said today Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh was cheating the people of Detroit by planning to campaign full-time in July.

"The mayor's decision to drop his pretense of a weekend candidate may advance his political ambition, but it doesn't help the people of Detroit who, under the charter, are entitled to the services of a nonpartisan mayor," Eddie McGloin said.

Cavanagh disclosed during the weekend he will take a vacation from his mayor's job to work full-time during July on his campaign to beat Williams in the Democratic primary election for United States senator.

"The mayor has discarded another promise to the people of Detroit to satisfy his partisan political ambition," McGloin said.

Williams took a day off from his campaign today to the Republican candidate for the same Senate seat, Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., campaigned in Detroit, Lansing and Grand Haven.

TO SEE ROMNEY

Griffin was to meet here with Gov. George Romney and Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., for a finance luncheon today. Tonight, he was to introduce Oregon Governor Mark O. Hatfield at an Ottawa County GOP fund-raising dinner.

Griffin planned to return to Washington tonight.

Dixie Election to Be Different

Poll Tax Gone; GOP on Mississippi Ballot

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Several earmarks of a traditional Mississippi election will be missing Tuesday when voters choose party nominees for Congress.

For the first time poll taxes will not be required. And for the first time, Republicans are staging a primary for a congressional post.

The election also will mark the first major voter test of newly registered Negro voters. Negroes have boosted their strength from 6.4 per cent three years ago to slightly over 20 per cent of the electorate. Negro voters now number 130,000 compared to 30,000 three years ago.

Three dozen Justice Department attorneys, including the federal government's chief civil rights troubleshooter, John Doar, will keep an eye on voting procedures.

POLL WATCHER

This unit will be supported by 200 federal Civil Service workers who will serve as poll watchers in 24 Mississippi counties.

The increased Negro vote was not expected to be a decisive factor in this election.

Rep. Premise Wadsworth, a chicken farmer from Mize, who backed the Republicans first congressional victory of this century when he upset Rep. Arthur Winslow two years ago, seeks the Senate seat held by James Eastland, a Democrat.

State Rep. L.L. McAllister of Meridian, the state's first Republican legislator in modern times, and Travis Buckley of Louisville, another Republican, are bidding for Walker's post.

NEGRO CANDIDATES

The predominantly Negro Mississippi Freedom Democratic party is running candidates in each of the five House Democratic primary races and against Eastland.

Four Democratic House members, Thomas G. Abernethy, 1st District; John Bell Williams, 2nd District; Jamie Whitten, 2nd District; and William Colmer, 5th District — seek renomination.

Secretary of State Heber Lader predicted the total vote would not exceed 600,000 of the estimated 650,000 registered.

Training Course for Tool and Die Trade Offered

Pontiac applicants are being sought for a course in pre-apprenticeship training for the tool and die trade.

The course, slated to begin in August, is cosponsored by the United Automobile Workers and the Detroit Board of Education. Applicants should be between the ages of 17 and 25, and have a high school education or its equivalent.

Applications are being accepted during the month of July and can be made at the Apprenticeship Information Center, 8600 Woodward, Detroit.

At stake was the job of leading the Republican party — a minority in the nation's most populous state — back to the control of the state Capitol. Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and a Democratic legislature have run the state since 1959.

Brown, facing primary opposition from Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty in his try for a third term, called it "one of the most important elections this state has ever held."

Besides picking nominees for statewide office, the 7,855,102 registered voters will be confronted Tuesday with candidates for legislative offices.

Of the 501 candidates, many will be seeking new State Senate seats in populous Southern California. A court-ordered reapportionment will transfer control of that House from the rural areas of the north.

Reagan chose the office seeker's standby, the airplane tour, for his final effort in the primary race.

Christopher, former San Francisco mayor, also campaigned by plane, stopping at some of the places on Reagan's schedule. The polls showed him behind, but he said, "There are a lot of 'don't know' people," referring to the undecided voters.

Defeated in his past bids for lieutenant governor and U. S. senator, Christopher says he is the only Republican who can defeat Brown in November.

Troop Carrier Drifts as Generators Fail

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — A military transport to tow the drifting ship to Midway carrying servicemen back from the Far East drifted without power Sunday, on the Pacific, some 1,150 miles northeast of Honolulu.

Generators failed Saturday on the Wesleyan Victory. The Navy said the ship was not in peril and that standing by were transports Exton and Ocean Evelyn, one of which is to tow the drifting ship to Midway.

Boy Dies of Injuries

SAGINAW (AP) — John Kranz, 18 months, died yesterday of injuries suffered when he was run over by a farm tractor at his parents' home.
