PROF. BRAUNSTEIN CHAIRS SYMPOSIUM; SCHILLACE TO TALK

Daniel Braunstein, assoc. prof. of economics and management, will chair a symposium for the annual meeting of the American Psychological Assoc. to be held Sept. 1-8 in Honolulu.

The symposium is entitled "Toward Improved Models of College Teaching Evaluation: Instructor, Student, and Organizational Influences."

Ralph Schillace, asst. prof. of psychology, will give the first paper of the symposium. He will advocate the uses of various types of adult instructional theory as distinguished from learning theory in college teaching evaluation.

A second paper, given by John Feldhusen and Ernest McDaniel of Purdue University, concerns the development of evaluation procedures tailored to fit different instructional styles.

Frederic Widlak and M.Y. Quereshi of Marquette University will give the third paper which views the impact of student characteristics on instructor ratings.

The final paper discusses the university environmental impact on teaching motivation and performance measurement and will be given by George Benston of the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y.

Comments by Alexander Astin of the American Council on Education, Washington D.C., and Donald R. Brown of the University of Michigan will complete the symposium.

PENNSYLVANIA BALLET DANCES AT MEADOW BROOK

Pennsylvania Ballet, a young and exciting company that has attracted national acclaim, holds the stage at the Meadow Brook Music Festival July 5-9. Accompanied by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Pennsylvania Ballet is dancing four performances on Wednesday, Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings.

On Friday night, a double bill presenting Mel Torme with Woody Herman and his Young Thundering Herd will continue the jazz series.

The Pennsylvania Ballet, founded by Barbara Weisberger with the encouragement of choreographer George Balanchine, gave its first performances in 1963. It triumphed in its New York debut in 1968, and continues to grow in stature with each successive engagement. It is now termed by critics "one of America's outstanding ballet companies."

The program for Wednesday, July 5, will consist of "Raymonda Variations," Balanchine's tutu ballet in classical style, and John Butler's exciting "Carmina Burana," a theater piece based on a collection of 13th century songs and poems.

Thursday's program will consist of "Raymonda Variations;" "Pas de Quatre," one of the oldest romantic ballets; "Icarus" by Lucas Hoving, based on the famous Daedalus myth; and "Scotch Symphony," Balanchine's classical ballet to the music of Felix Mendelssohn.

Saturday's program will feature "Scotch Symphony" and "Carmina Burana." The final performance on Sunday evening at 6:30 will be "Raymonda Variations," "Mignon Pas de Deux," "Icarus," and "Scotch Symphony."

FESTIVAL OPENS NINTH SEASON

ITZHAK PERLMAN

SIXTEN EHRLING

Meadow Brook Music Festival opened its ninth season Thursday, June 29, with violin virtuoso Itzhak Perlman. Backed by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, with Sixten Ehrling conducting, Perlman performed Nielsen's Overture to "Maskarade," Dvorak's "Violin Concerto," Casella's "Paganiniana" and Respighi's "Pines of Rome."

The 1972 Festival, the most extensive in its history, will have 43 concerts in all, and will include classical, symphonic pops, jazz and folk stars, opera, ballet and contemporary dance. Doc Severinsen opened the jazz series Friday, June 30, with his Now Generation and the Today's Children.

All concerts of the Meadow Brook Music Festival are held at the Baldwin Pavilion. The Sunday ballet performance begins at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets are available at Hudson's, Grinnell's, Wayne State University, Macomb County Community College, and at the Festival box office. For ticket information, call 377-2010.

The Pennsylvania Ballet performs Balanchine's "Scotch Symphony." Principal dancers are Barbara Sandomato and Alewei Yudenich.

CONFERENCE EMPHASIZES LANGUAGE ARTS FOR YOUTH

Individualizing Reading Instruction is the topic of a summer reading conference being held from June 26-July 20.

Led by Bill Martin Jr., author of the Sounds of Language series, the conference will provide graduate credit for those participants holding a bachelor's degree. The School of Education has coordinated the program through Professor Harry T. Hahn's office.

The conference will focus on a wide range of individual and small-group instructional practices which provide young people with a chance for language production and language usage.

The program consists of two graduate courses each of which offers four semester hours of credit. ED 534 is Teaching Language Arts in the Elementary School and ED 634, an advanced credit course, is Advanced Study of Classroom Strategies in an Integrated Language Arts Curriculum.

The daily sessions meet Mon. - Thurs. from 12:30-4:30 p.m.

Areas of emphasis will include open-ended reading instruction, oral interpretation by way of choral reading and storytelling, pantomime, creative dramatics, rhythm and music in reading instruction, art media for communication, individual and small group word study of phonics and structure, and the analysis and innovative teaching of literature.

Bill Martin, Jr. leads a choral reading during a reading instruction conference.

INTERNSHIP PROGRAM GIVES STUDENTS INSIGHT, TRAINING

OU students are given pre-professional training and a head start in the job market through a unique program providing for student interns.

Students who are juniors and seniors can apply for an internship through the Student Affairs Office. The program aims at a para-professional status for the students who are employed by various University offices.

In addition to specific assignments, the interns are invited to attend staff meetings and other appropriate faculty and administrative meetings.

The purpose of the internship program is to provide undergraduate students with an opportunity to gain some insight into the operation of the Student Affairs Office as well as a deeper appreciation of administration in higher education.

This is the second year for the intern program, which usually hires students for two to four semesters. The students generally average 15 to 20 hours per week although many put in longer hours than expected.

Interns in the Commuter Affairs Office are: Anne Clinton, Oak Park; Gloria Dominguez, Pontiac; and Joyce Hightower, Detroit.

Ted Cwiek of Garden City, works in the Student Life Office. Student Organizations employs Greg Janks, E. Detroit; Gail Page, Detroit; and Elaine Petz, Detroit.

Braunstein is also editing a column on relationships between behavioral and management science for Interfaces, the bulletin of the Institute of Management Sciences.

His May column discusses the need for better understanding by behavioral and management scientists of the research contributions in each other's fields. The August column deals with possible use by executives and operations researchers of laboratory research by D.E. Broadbent on information processing.

The camp was held at OU from June 25-July 1 for 190 students of ages 10 through 18.

DONATIONS DETERMINE CONTINUANCE OF FREE GOODIES

The Office for Student Organizations has been sponsoring the free extravaganzas on the grille patio. It is the opinion of that office that indulgences such as ice cream, strawberries and whipped cream have provided for more interaction among students, faculty and staff.

In the past, these events have been sponsored by the University Congress. They are only able to give $250 for this summer, however. As a result, Student Organizations is asking for a $10 donation from each OU department.

The planned events include free candy bars, a horror night, a scavenger hunt, more free shortcake, a pool tournament, a Miss Devil Indian Dance and free ice cream sundaes. Free transportation will be provided to Cedar Point, Aug. 5-6, and to a Tiger baseball game on Aug. 11.

JONES DRIVE REPORTS FIGURES

The Isaac Jones Memorial Scholarship Committee has released the figures for the 1971-72 fund drive.

Income:

Bake Sales	$ 191.45
Oakland University Drive	2,015.50
Alumni Council	380.00
Soul Food Dinner	386.17
George Benson Concert	456.00
	3,429.12
Expenses:	430.43
Total Income:	2,998.69

The Pontiac Potpourri Club of Pontiac YWCA sponsored a Soul Food Dinner and African Dancing benefit on April 23 and donated the profits to the Scholarship Fund. Cynthia Mallory organized the event, which served over 200 meals.

A concert by guitarist George Benson was sponsored by the Isaac Jones Memorial Scholarship Committee. Held at Baker's Keyboard Lounge, June 2, the event was organized by Sherman Barton, counselor at OU.

Two bake sales were held by CTA volunteers who donated all goods and services for the sales. The profits went to benefit the Scholarship Fund. Esther Eisley, IMC office assistant, coordinated the two sales.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER

Ronald Zick, senior, receives a $500 scholarship from Stanley Brown and his wife, of Brown's Industrial Sales, Birmingham. Zick, an English major, won the "Name the Bar" contest held last April. His name, "The Library," was chosen from among 184 entries. The scholarship will be continued each year.

Scholarship Committee members this year were: Sherman Barton, Counselor; Chuck Bethea, director of commuter affairs; William Connellan, asst. to the president; Katie Cooper, food services; Mike Crump, student; Joe Davis, asst. director of admissions; Esther Eisley; Patricia Graham, student; Patricia Houtz, asst. vice-president for student affairs; Cleveland Hurst, counselor; George Jackson, director special programs for Student Services; Dameris Merle, student; Katie Thoresen, director of alumni relations; Sylvia Simon, 1969 Isaac Jones recipient; and Carol Washington, 1971 Isaac Jones recipient.

Isaac Jones, OU's first black graduate, was tragically killed in 1968 and has been memorialized with a yearly scholarship drive.

The Scholarship Fund benefits promising black students in the Pontiac area who wish to attend OU.

FAIRBANKS TALKS ON SCHOOLS

Douglas Fairbanks, asst. prof. of Education, addressed the Michigan Association of Supervisors and Curriculum Development at its annual conference in Port Huron. His topic was "The One-Room School - 1972 Style: Reintroducing Humaneness in Education."

STURNER URGES PLANNING

William F. Sturner, asst. president for planning, has published an article in the Feb. 1972 Journal of Higher Education entitled, "Environmental Code: Creating a Sense of Place on the College Campus."

Sturner's article talks about the university as a total environment. "The design and construction of the physical aspects of the university should complement and strengthen the mission of the university to stimulate students in the effective use of learning opportunities."

He emphasizes the need for a long-range plan which outlines the general direction and style for campus development, but adds that the plans should remain flexible enough to adapt to changing needs.

FRESHMAN CAGER CANDIDATES ANNOUNCED BY BOLDON

Freshmen basketball candidates for the 1972-3 season have been announced by Gene Boldon, asst. director of athletics.

The shortest of the group is scrappy 5 foot, 7 inch guard from Detroit MacKenzie, Charles Shannon.

Steve Sarra, a guard from Union Lake, is one of the major reasons for the Inter-Lakes Championship won by Walled Lake Central.

Joel Conrad, a 6 foot, 3 inch forward also from Union Lake, is one of Steve's running mates.

Michael Stirling, a 6 foot guard, will probably become involved in both basketball and baseball. A graduate of Centerline High School, Michael is from Warren.

Ralph Rinehart, Jr., a 6 foot, 2 inch guard, is a graduate of Madison Heights Lamphere and holds two consecutive All-Conference titles.

Carl Sass, Jr. is a 6 foot, 4 inch East Detroit High forward. He was leading scorer and second top rebounder helping his team to the State Regional finals.

James McCoy, a 6 foot, 7 inch forward and center, helped Grand Rapids Union to the quarter finals in State Tournament Play.

Kevin Williams, a 6 foot, 5 inch Inkster High School forward and center, gave up swimming and left the bench early in the season to become a starter.

Marvin Cook is a 6 foot, 5 inch forward and center from Mt. Clemens Chippewa Valley High School. He was second in rebounding and is also a good baseball player.

Gary White, a 6 foot, 6 inch center from Clarkston High School, is a high scorer with a 55 per cent field goal average.

He completes the new freshmen recruits for OU's coming basketball season.
