Fallout Doubled Child Leukemia, Expert Contends

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Radioactive fallout dumped on the Albany-Troy, N. Y., area during a 1953 rainstorm caused a doubling of childhood leukemia over an 8-year-period, a radiation health expert's study contended yesterday.

Those affected included children in their mother's womb and children born as long as 10 years after the incident, said Prof. E. J. Sternglass of the Department of Radiology at the University of Pittsburgh.

★ ★ ★

He said the radioactive debris came from a 43-kiloton nuclear weapons test in Nevada in April 1953.

Sternglass presented his findings in a paper at the 13th annual meeting of the Health Physics Society attended by more than 3,000 health physicists from this country and other nations who study the effects of radiation on man.

In making his report, Sternglass stressed the peak of incidence and the danger in the Albany-Troy area had long since passed. But he insisted his findings were relevant in the light of current U.S. debate on a nuclear nonproliferation treaty and Senate debate on an anti-ballistic missile system.

Tables presented as part of the study to indicate a causal relationship between the double rate and fallout showed:

★ ★ ★

A characteristic 5-year delay in the onset of the disease from the time of irradiation or conception.

● A shift in age distribution of the disease that varied from the normal pattern both in Albany - Troy and in other large population samples.

● Sensitivities at the developmental stages of the disease similar to those observed in children who got leukemia after diagnostic X rays.

Based on his findings, Sternglass feels Civil Defense estimates of what would be tolerable radiation in the event of a nuclear attack are no longer realistic.

The New York State Health Department says there is no evidence, to support Sternglass' report that radioactive fallout over the Albany-Troy, N. Y., area in 1953 had increased the incidence of childhood leukemia.

Dr. Granville Larimore, first deputy commissioner, said Thursday there was fallout in the area at that time but said it was "not enough to produce serious effects."

Senate OK Sends Surcharge to LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to President Johnson today the long-debated bill adding a 10 per cent surcharge to individual and corporation income taxes and ordering a $6-billion federal spending cut.

The Senate vote completed congressional action on the first federal income tax increase since 1951, at the time of the Korean war.

Johnson is expected to sign the bill into law promptly although he has said repeatedly he does not favor the spending restrictions in the legislation. The Senate was told in the final debate on the compromise measure that it was stern fiscal medicine necessary to prevent inflation leading to financial chaos.

Opponents contended that it would mean drastic reductions in spending on social programs and that the result would be a cutback in already inadequate efforts to help the nation's poor.

The House passed the measure last night 268-150.

Its key provisions originally were adopted in the Senate 53-35 April 2 as an amendment to a House bill.

The surcharge is retroactive for individuals to April 1 and for corporations to Jan. 1. It is scheduled to expire June 30 next year unless the new administration and Congress decide to extend it.

The increase, to go into effect 15 days after presidential approval, will apply to all individuals except those at the bottom of the scale — single persons with $1,000 or less of taxable income and couples with $2,000 or less.

★ ★ ★

The surcharge, along with other tax provisions in the bill, will bring in an estimated $15.5 billion in extra revenue to help improve the government's dismal fiscal picture in the next year.

The measure also includes a variety of other provisions retained by Senate-House conferees out of a wide-ranging series of riders tacked onto the legislation in the Senate.

Warren to Leave U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earl Warren has resigned as chief justice of the United States, authoritative sources reported today.

The big Californian was named to the top post on the Supreme Court in 1953 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. At 77, he is known to have long felt it was time to step aside.

★ ★ ★

President Johnson, who expects to leave office himself when his term ends in January, will be able to name Warren's successor before he leaves. The appointment is of critical significance on a court where appointees commonly serve for decades and the relative strength of the liberal and conservative factions can be reversed by the departure of a single justice — depending on the politics of the president who chooses the man to fill the vacancy.

YEARS OF CONTROVERSY

The Warren years on the court have been marked by unrelenting controversy. From the historic 1954 decision on school segregation up to the equally sweeping housing discrimination handed down just this past Monday, the court's actions have been headline-makers.

★ ★ ★

Ultraconservatives, while generally outraged at the court in general, have had special dislike for Warren.

★ ★ ★

Through it all, the man in the eye of the storm has, to all appearances, been unflappable, retaining the outgoing and unpretentious manner that stood him well in his three scandal-free terms as governor of California before he was named to the bench.

He was the vice presidential candidate on the 1948 Republican ticket headed by Thomas E. Dewey.

Waterford Airs Intent to Hire Black Teachers

Black teachers for white suburbia is the intent of a resolution approved last night by the Waterford Township Board of Education.

The board adopted unanimously a resolution affirming its commitment to provide Waterford schools "with the best qualified staff from as varied racial, religious and cultural backgrounds as possible."

★ ★ ★

The resolution was put before the board by the Waterford Education Association, represented last night by Robert Crumpton, the association's executive director.

★ ★ ★

Crumpton, in proposing the resolution, acknowledged that it was not intended to be merely a statement in support of equal opportunity in hiring.

CONTRIBUTIONS

It is time, he said, for the board to go out of its way to seek those who can contribute not only by their abilities but also by their ethnic and cultural backgrounds. Such persons, he said, would add breadth and depth to the program the school system can offer the community.

★ ★ ★

Crumpton said there are presently only two black teachers in Waterford Schools. This is due largely, he said, to the fact that Waterford is not viewed as a community that welcomes nonwhites.

Associate Supt. M. Barrett Vorce said that a number of Negroes he has interviewed for jobs in the school system have expressed reluctance to come into the community because of the hostile environment they fear they will find in Waterford.

The board adopted the resolution with the understanding that further consideration will have to be given to finding ways to implement it.

HHH Has 47 State Delegates

LANSING (AP)—Vice President Hubert Humphrey can expect 47 of Michigan's 96 votes at the Democratic National Convention. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has five votes and 41 remain uncommitted, according to an Associated Press poll.

Here are the poll's findings:

Hubert H. Humphrey	47
Uncommitted	41
Eugene J. McCarthy	5
Edward M. Kennedy	1
John Glenn	1

★ ★ ★

The Humphrey total included a number of delegates who said they would not publicly link their names with the vice president but who admitted, on condition that their names not be revealed, that they planned to vote for Humphrey on the first ballot.

★ ★ ★

Michigan's 102-member delegation will receive 96 votes at the August convention in Chicago, with the national committeeman and committeewoman getting one each and each other member receiving 94-100 of a vote The Associated Press rounded off vote totals for the individual candidates.

ONE PREDICTION

Supporters of the vice president had claimed he could expect as many as 67 of the 102 delegates to back him at the convention.

The poll indicated no great movement by supporters of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., to Humphrey. Most of them said they are still uncommitted. But more Kennedy backers switched to Humphrey than to McCarthy.

Meanwhile, a temporary restraining order preventing certification of Michigan delegates to the Democratic National Convention was issued yesterday by Ingham Circuit Court Judge Sam Street Hughes.

★ ★ ★

The order was issued on a complaint filed by Mrs. Elizabeth Jo Holmes of Lansing and Gilbert Hill and James Harrison of East Lansing.

RULING CHALLENGED

They seek to overturn a Democratic State Convention ruling that named Nathan Gillison and James Ramey, both of Lansing; Webb Magnor, Jackson, and Mabel Stoltz, Owosso, as 6th District delegates to the national convention.

★ ★ ★

Harrison said that ruling at the convention was illegal because he was not chairman as provided, and that Mr. Holmes was not notified of a second caucus held on June 2 to select the delegates.

A hearing on the complaint will be conducted June 28.

★ ★ ★

The plaintiffs seek to have the court declare Harrison and Hill as 6th District delegates to the national convention at Chicago in August.

Fair Housing—2

Property Rights Versus Moral Rights

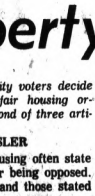

(EDITOR'S NOTE—City voters decide Monday on Pontiac's fair housing ordinance. This is the second of three articles.)

By BOB WISLER

Opponents of open housing often state a variety of reasons for being opposed. The most predominant and those stated most often concern a supposed loss of property rights, a supposed adverse effect on property values, and the idea that there is no need for such legislation.

The reasons that often go unstated have to do with a dislike some whites have of Negroes.

★ ★ ★

WISLER

Proponents have a variety of reasons to favor open housing. Most often they stress the moral right of such legislation and, especially, the need for the legislation.

In Pontiac the discussion of the open housing ordinance has touched on many points.

'NOT NEEDED'

Two city commissioners who voted against the open housing law said there is no need for such legislation, that Negroes can live in any section of Pontiac they want to.

James L. Rhodes, president of the Pontiac Area Board of Realtors, said this week that Negroes have "free movement" within the city.

The National Advisory Commission on civil disorders has stated that there are two major reasons for Negroes living in slums — poverty and racial discrimination in the housing market.

The commission's report states:

"Discrimination prevents access to many nonslum areas, particularly the suburbs, and has a detrimental effect on ghetto housing itself."

'SEGREGATON CORNERSTONE'

The commission concluded that "residential segregation prevents equal access to employment opportunities and obstructs efforts to achieve integrated education. A single society cannot be achieved as long as this cornerstone of segregation stands."

An extensive study of housing in the city — prepared by the nationally-known Larry Smith and Co., a Washington, D.C. economics firm, has shown that (according to the 1960 census):

● The nonwhite population of the city, 17 per cent, occupies only 13.5 per cent of the housing.

● Nonwhites pay more for housing than do white families, but receive poorer housing for the money paid.

● The condition of nonwhite housing is generally worse than that of the city overall.

● About 67 per cent of all dwelling units were occupied by owners, but less than 13 per cent of those homes were owned by nonwhite families.

DISCRIMINATION CITED

Poor People Violence Is Cooled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor People's Campaign leaders, pleading for nonviolence, managed early this morning to cool off demonstrators angered by the campaign's first serious clashes with police.

Wielding clubs and firing tear gas, police last night arrested 77 demonstrators during tense and angry confrontations.

Several top Southern Christian Leadership Conference officials, including its president, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, pleaded at a Resurrection City rally that lasted past midnight for adherence to their nonviolent philosophy.

But none had been on hand during the two most serious incidents, a shouting, shoving contest between police and demonstrators near the Department of Agriculture, and the tear gasing of a crowd after some youngsters threw bottles and sticks at police.

"I am pleading with you to say violence is not the way," Abernathy, president of SCLC, told an after-midnight mass meeting in a Resurrection City almost under siege by helmeted, rifle-carrying police.

"This is exactly what they want, they're trying to get us out of here," said The Rev. Andrew Young, SCLC executive vice president. "All they need is a little incident like this to get a court order and slap us with a $50,000 or $100,000 fine."

The violence came just 24 hours after a 50,000-person Solidarity Day crowd prompted Abernathy to promise that civil disobedience would begin in earnest later this week.

The first hints of trouble came when some of an estimated 500 demonstrators at the often-attacked Department of Agriculture blocked main doorways in midafternoon.

SHOVING MATCH

Then, about 100 demonstrators started to march around the block-long building and got into a shouting, shoving match with police, some of whom used their nightsticks freely.

Airliner Hijacked to Cuba Finally Lands in Venezuela

CARACAS (AP) — A Venezuelan airliner with 79 persons aboard landed in Caracas today 22 hours later. It had been hijacked by a grenade-wielding Dominican and forced to fly to Cuba.

The pilot, Capt. Harry Gibson, said the 74 other passengers and five crew members were well treated during their unexpected stay yesterday in Santiago, eastern Cuba's chief city. The hijacker, identified only as a young Dominican, presumably was given asylum in Cuba.

★ ★ ★

'GRENADE IN HAND'

Gibson said the hijacker entered the cockpit 29 minutes after Viasa Airlines flight 797 took off from Santo Domingo for Curacao and Caracas.

"He had a grenade in his hand," said the 51-year-old pilot. "He told us to fly to Havana, but I explained we did not have enough fuel for this and had to land in Santiago."

He said the hijacker did not object.

A spokesman said it was the first time Viasa, Venezuela's international airline, had one of its planes hijacked. But it was the second time in six months that a Venezuelan plane was forced to land in Cuba.

On March 21 a plane of the internal Avensa airline was diverted to Cuba on a flight between Caracas and Maracaibo.

JAMES R. STELT

First Candidate for New Court

James R. Stelt, probate register for the Oakland County Probate Court, today became the first announced candidate for the judgeship in the recently created Pontiac District Court.

Through state law Pontiac's Municipal Court will become a District Court with three judges instead of two. The two present judges will retain office while their terms last and a third will be elected in November.

★ ★ ★

Stelt, 42, a graduate of the University of Michigan and the Detroit College of Law, said, "I sincerely feel that my education and experience, both legal and business, plus my knowledge of the people in the city of Pontiac, qualify me for this important post.

★ ★ ★

"My experience as a court administrator and assistant prosecuting attorney will be invaluable in helping organize the Pontiac District Court system."

RESIDES IN CITY

Stelt, who resides at 261 Ottawa with his wife, twin boys and twin girls, was personnel director and assistant to the city manager for Pontiac from 1951 to 1954, city manager of Otsego from 1954 to 1956, executive director of the Pontiac Lumber Fuel & Builders Supply Exchange from 1956 to 1964.

★ ★ ★

He joined the Oakland County prosecuting attorney's office in 1965 as chief of court operations and joined the Probate Court in 1966.

★ ★ ★

A member of a number of bar associations and committees and of the Pontiac Schools' Finance Study Council, he said, "The courts are made for the people," and pledged "temperate, impartial administration of justice."

Hatfield Joins Nixon Backers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican vice presidential hopefuls are moving into the camp of front-running GOP presidential contender Richard M. Nixon with antiwar Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon the latest recruit.

Earlier, fellow freshman Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee had abandoned his "favorite son" status and lined up his state's 28-vote delegation behind Nixon.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Charles H. Percy, while not supporting Nixon directly, recently dropped his Illinois favorite son status opening the way for much of the state's big 58-vote delegation to back the former vice president.

Hatfield, Baker and Percy are all considered possible running mates if Nixon holds his present lead over New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and captures the GOP nomination at Miami Beach in August.

ALSO CONSIDERED

Similarly, Govs. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland and John A. Volpe of Massachusetts have received indications from the Nixon forces they are prime vice presidential material and are leaning more and more toward Nixon.

And Texas Sen. John G. Tower, also considered in the running, has been praising Nixon.

In New York, Women's Wear Daily said today there is a rumor in Washington that Michigan Gov. George Romney is also about to endorse former Vice President Richard Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination.

The paper said that Romney has not ruled out the possibility of a vice presidential bid.

Harriman Flies for Peace Talks Report to LBJ

PARIS (AP)—Ambassador W. Averell Harriman flies to Washington today to report to President Johnson on the deadlocked Paris peace talks.

Harriman is known to believe that long-range prospects for a peace agreement are hopeful; an estimate based on North Vietnam's evident interest in keeping the talks alive.

★ ★ ★

The present stalemate over reducing the fighting and ending U.S. bombing and shelling of the North, however, is expected to continue for a while.

In the expectation that the talks will be prolonged, Harriman has leased a house here and will occupy it when he returns from his 10-day trip to the United States on July 1.

OCCUPY VILLA

Ambassador Zuan Thuy and members of his negotiating team moved out of their hotel several weeks ago to occupy a villa on the outskirts of Paris.

Evidence that Johnson is prepared to persist in the slow negotiations while there is hope of eventual success came yesterday from Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford in Washington.

Canada-Union Dispute

Strike Snarls Seaway Ships

MONTREAL (UPI) — Twelve hundred St. Lawrence Seaway workers went on strike today, stranding 60 ships in the vital passageway from the Atlantic Ocean to the industrial heartland of North America.

Members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers Union staged the walkout in a wage dispute with the government.

The union originally asked for a 21 per cent pay hike and the government countered with an offer of a six per cent raise this year and another six per cent in 1969. The union since has lowered its demand to 18 per cent. Canadian seaway employes now average $3.10 an hour.

★ ★ ★

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, in the closing stages of a heated national election campaign, said the government offer was "fair and reasonable." He said it would not be raised.

A union spokesman said the government "waited too long before they decided to speak."

Boy, 10, Drowns in Swimming Pool

A 10-year-old Detroit boy drowned in a swimming pool in Bloomfield Township yesterday.

Township police said Derrick Richey was swimming with a companion, Robert Breiner, 10, of 7410 Franklin at the Breiner home when the drowning occurred at 10:18 a.m.

The Bloomfield Township and Franklin Village fire departments recovered the body.

Richey was taken to William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Parking on Huron Unaltered for Now

Parking meters will stay and traffic lanes will remain the same on Huron between the Wide Track legs for an indefinite period.

That is the result of a hearing held yesterday in Lansing by state highway department officials. The hearing was attended by two city officials, the director of public works and the director of law.

★ ★ ★

They said a legal transcript was taken and no decision was reached by state officials on what once were plans to facilitate traffic by banning parking and making Huron a five-lane route with one lane for left turns only.

Because of petitions protesting the meter removal — by businesses chiefly on the southside of West Huron — the City Commission had ordered city officials to see what could be done to retain parking for the benefit of merchants.

Their arguments apparently worked — at least for now.

Blast Hits Office Again

NEW YORK (AP) — An early morning bomb blast shattered the plate glass window of the Spanish National Tourist Office in midtown Manhattan early today — the second such incident at the office in a month.

The blast was heard up to six blocks away when it went off about 4 a.m. The concussion also shattered two upstairs windows in the building at Fifth Avenue and 48th Street.

Watch for Children

Police Give Traffic Alert

Pontiac police today issued their annual summer warning to motorists to watch out for children.

Lt. Clayton Randolph, traffic bureau commander, pointed out that drivers are used to seeing children on the street during the hours that coincide with the start and end of the school day.

★ ★ ★

"However," he said, "kids will be on the streets at all hours every day, now that school is closed."

Randolph suggested that drivers use extreme caution around playgrounds and on residential streets.

ON WAY TO PLAY

"Children will be on their way to play in parks and school yards throughout the day and will also have a lot of free time around their neighborhoods," he said.

He added that bicyclists will be on the streets in greater number and urged motorists to anticipate what the riders might do, rather than to expect children to automatically obey safety rules.

★ ★ ★

"The adults, the drivers, must think for both themselves and the kids," Randolph said.

Housing Law Pros, Cons Given

have indicated that Negroes generally inherit homes that whites have fled, and that the houses are badly deteriorated when they move in.

★ ★ ★

Opponents of the local ordinance contend that open housing laws are unconstitutional and an abridgement of property rights guaranteed by the U.S. and state constitutions.

However, court tests of the constitutionality of a fair housing law have upheld the principle behind them. The U.S. Supreme Court this week broadened the power of the national government to govern housing and to enforce nondiscrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

The courts have concluded that fair housing laws do not deprive anyone of property. The Pontiac ordinance states that a person does not have to sell his property, but if he does, he must not discriminate in the sale.

Few property rights are inviolable, proponents say. They contend that there are many governmental restrictions on property including zoning laws and building, health and safety codes, all passed for the good of the majority.

MAJOR REASON

In a public hearing on Pontiac's then-proposed fair housing ordinance those opposed gave major reasons for opposing such an ordinance — a decline in property values and the belief that the majority should rule and decide on what terms the minority will live.

★ ★ ★

But in argument to the credo that the majority rules, students of government point out that a strong principle of the American government is that law should be applied equally and the minority should not be deprived of its constitutionally-guaranteed rights by the minority.

A number of organizations interested in passage of fair housing laws have contented that major studies show that an integrated neighborhood does not mean a decline in property values.

According to a major study by George and Eunice Grier (Discrimination in Housing, New York, 1960), values decline after a neighborhood is integrated, mostly when whites rush out.

STABLE PRICES

But, the study said, if whites do not rush out chances are infinitely greater that prices will remain stable.

A jewelry firm headed by a local man has begun a training program designed to provide jobs for "hard-core" unemployed in the Detroit area.

So far, three persons have completed the program and been hired as jewelers by Burr, Patterson & Auld Co.

★ ★ ★

"We wanted more than three," said Donald F. Voelker, 283 Tilbury, Bloomfield Township, president of the company, "but figuring percentage-wise, the size of our plant and the duration of our final training stage, three is good."

The new employes, averaging 15 weeks of past unemployment and nine years of school, are the result of a program started last September when the firm became the first in Detroit to enter into a contract with Northern Systems Co., a federally-financed job skill training center.

★ ★ ★

Training is divided into four stages, including personal counseling and remedial work. The entire program covers 24 weeks.

Two Bloomfield Township residents have been promoted to new posts with Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Miles G. Welter, 2425 Bradway, former plant extension engineer, has been named assistant vice president-engineering.

★ ★ ★

Welter, a graduate of the University of Michigan, joined Michigan Bell in 1930 as a student engineer. In 1952, he was assigned to the operating and engineering department of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. in New York.

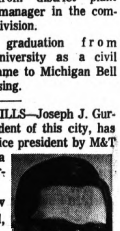

In 1954, he returned to Michigan Bell and was appointed division traffic superintendent.

PLANT MANAGER

Stanley G. Badelt, 331 Roanoke, has been promoted from district plant manager to plant manager in the company's Woodward division.

Following his graduation from Michigan State University as a civil engineer, Badelt came to Michigan Bell as a trainee in Lansing.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Joseph J. Gurney, a former resident of this city, has been appointed a vice president by M&T Chemicals Inc., a subsidiary of American Can Co.

GURNEY

Gurney, who now lives in Ridgefield, Conn., is a graduate of Rutgers University and a member of the Society of Plastics Engineers, the Society of the Plastics Industry, the American Electroplaters Society and the New York Rubber Group of the American Chemical Society.

★ ★ ★

Before his promotion, he served as general manager of the plating division. Gurney joined M&T in 1946.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP— The book borrowing period at the Bloomfield Township Public Library will be extended to three weeks beginning July 1.

The borrowing period has been two weeks since the opening of the library in 1964.

★ ★ ★

Books may be renewed for an additional week after the first three. The extended initial period has been made possible by the growth of the library's book collection.

Opening of New Facility Faces Delay

The new Crescent Lake Elementary School probably will not be completed in time for the opening of school in September, Waterford Township Schools Supt. Dr. Don O. Tatroe told the board of education last night.

The school had originally been slated for completion by the end of the summer but, he said, recent strikes in the construction industry have halted work on the project. Practically no work has been done on the school since early last month when the walkout began.

* * *

The new facility is located on a 16-acre site off Crescent Boulevard.

* * *

REMODELING OFF

Work was scheduled to begin on remodeling the Waterford Center building into a new school administrative office building. Tatroe said he would have to halt the $222,870 project in order to insure that Crescent Lake School students would have a building to use in the fall.

In other action last night, the board voted to enter into an agreement with Waterford Township to construct a sanitary sewer to Mott High School. The cost of the project has been estimated at $106,227, of which the school district would pay half.

* * *

The board also received and approved a report on secondary school organization for the coming school year.

The schedule provides that junior high school students will spend a total of 300 minutes in class each day during the next school year, a reduction of one class period from the 360-minute daily class schedule for the past school year.

COURSES CUT

Seventh grade students will have their math-science block cut from two hours to one hour. The eighth grade language-arts-social studies block will be one hour instead of two, and the ninth grade program will be reduced one hour by the elimination of one elective course.

Tatroe said the cuts are being made to balance next year's budget. School district voters had turned down a 7½-mill property tax increase last fall.

* * *

Dr. Tatroe also announced last night that he has been appointed legislative chairman for the Michigan Association of School Administrators. The board consented to his acceptance of the appointment.

Nowland, 43, holds a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University, a master's degree from the University of Michigan, and a specialist certificate in the supervision and administration of special education from Eastern Michigan University.

He presently is director of special education for Washtenaw County Schools, a post he has held since 1965.

HANDICAPPED

He has worked as director of the Lincoln School for mentally handicapped children in Grand Rapids for two years and was a counselor for physically handicapped children in Royal Oak for three years.

He was a counselor for physically handicapped children with Oakland County Intermediate Schools for three years and was a consultant for the physically handicapped and coordinator of the teacher counselor program for the physically handicapped for Oakland Intermediate District for three years.

He is married and the father of two children.

College to Get Federal Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Montcalm Community College has been awarded a $323,053 supplemental U. S. Office of Education grant for construction of classroom buildings, a learning center and a central heating plant, it was announced Thursday.

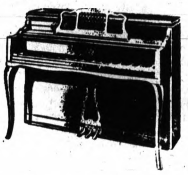

The funds, along with a previously granted $378,410, will help finance the $1,753,659 project.

Reopening Near

LANSING (AP) — The northbound lanes of the U.S. 131 freeway bridge over the Grand River in downtown Grand Rapids will be reopened to traffic Thursday says the State Highway Commission. The lanes had been closed since mid-March for repair of the deck and several supports damaged last year when a gasoline tanker caught fire and burned.

Electrical construction work should reach a record $9.9 billion in 1968.

Extended Days to Be Discontinued at Avondale; Suggested Cuts Listed

Extended school days for the students at Avondale Senior High School are a thing of the past, according to Board of Education President Ray Isanhart.

In describing board plans to put the senior high school back on its old grades 10-12 schedule, Isanhart said the junior high would pick up the ninth grade which attended the senior high school last year, and that sixth grade students would once again be absorbed by the elementary schools.

★ ★ ★

The real threat of half-day sessions for grades 1 to 8, providing a third millage try later this summer fails, was attributed to the need to cut the teaching staff in order to meet budget allowances.

Isanhart said plans were to continue full-day sessions in the high school for as long as possible in order to keep accredition for the school.

ACCREDITATION

Accreditation is provided by the North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

"If we once get off their list it might be hard getting back on," Isanhart said.

Suggested economies made by the teaching staff—and due for board consideration July 1—included besides half-day sessions the following:

- Suspend all varsity sports except football, basketball and wrestling.
- Suspend intramural sports of the junior high school.
- Eliminate the co-op program in vocational, commercial, trade and industrial departments.
- Suspend the community school program.
- Close all elementary lunchrooms.
- Keep R. Grant Graham Elementary School closed.
- Suspend supportive elementary art, vocal and instrumental music and physical education.
- Suspend elementary remedial reading program.
- Suspend driver education program.
- Place on the ballot at next election the question of secondary students purchasing their own text books.
- Move the board of education offices to an existing school facility.
- Vacate the position of administrative assistant.

★ ★ ★

OTHER CUTS

Several other cuts in school positions and programs were also recommended.

The board is currently studying the suggested economies, but no action has been taken.

Rochester Plans Summer Classes

ROCHESTER — An enrichment course in leadership training for students who have completed the fifth or sixth grade will begin Monday as a part of the Rochester Community Schools summer program.

Classes will meet at Rochester Senior High School. In addition to special courses in history, government and current affairs, the classes will discuss local government and make visits to local agencies and meet local officials.

★ ★ ★

Also planned for the summer is a first grade preparatory program, several academic improvement programs, music and art classes, courses in communications and remedial classes for both elementary and secondary students.

Preliminary Plans OK'd for 56-House Development

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has okayed preliminary plans for Pine Knob North, a 56-house development proposed for the corner of Pine Knob and Clarkston roads.

★ ★ ★

Applicants are Robert C. Dieball, township planning consultant, and his partner, Donald Arsen.

Plans had previously been approved by the county road commission, the health department and the drain commission.

★ ★ ★

The township board voted to raise rezoning application fees from $75 to $150 and noted that the new price still does not cover the expenses involved.

HUNTING LIMITS

Supervisor Duane Hursfall announced that a public hearing would probably take place this winter on closing portions of the township to hunting. He said it is now too late to limit hunting this fall in any case.

★ ★ ★

A bid in the amount of $14,430 for new fire equipment was awarded to Tom Rademacher Chevrolet of Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

Trustees promised an on-site inspection of the old Stickney Road gravel pit near Sashabaw before deciding whether to allow limited mining for one year by the Greenfield Construction Co. of Livonia. Work in the area is now stopped under a Circuit Court consent judgment.

The board approved formation of an absentee counting board for the separate tally of absentee voter ballots under provisions of new state election laws.

More Farmland Set for Homes

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Another parcel of farmland in the township will grow homes soon.

Rezoned recently by the Township Board for single family residences was land for 15 lots of the White Lake Meadows subdivision.

The subdivision, being developed by Kieft Engineering, Clarkston, is east of Ormond Road and north of White Lake Road.

Also approved was the final plat for the 50-lot Twin Lakes No. 6 subdivision on M59.

PUBLIC HEARING

The board set July 16 at 8 p.m. for a public hearing on the final budget.

Appointed to the Planning Commission were James A. Cunningham, 8162 Rene, for two years; and Lee Howes, 11122 Beryl, for one and a half years.

Blood Drive Again Set for Sally

Five-year-old Sally Harrington, afflicted with a rare and often fatal blood disease, will again benefit from a bloodmobile drive in the Clarkston - Groveland - Brandon townships area.

Next Thursday the Red Cross bloodmobile will be at Clarkston Junior High School, 6300 Church, from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Anyone wishing to donate blood is asked to contact Mrs. Russell Rhyndress of 5611 Delmas, Clarkston, or Mrs. Harold Jarvis of 2851 Williams Lake, Waterford Township.

People also can donate for banks other than Sally's.

CONFINED TO BED

The little girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Harrington, 3991 Perkins, Waterford Township, has been confined to a padded bed, with only occasional moments out of it, at St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital in Pontiac.

Sally is given 50 pints of blood per week. Although there is no debt now, she will continue to accumulate a debt of 50 pints per week, said her doctor.

★ ★ ★

Her doctor reports that Sally looks better now than she has since she contracted aplastic anemia in March, 1967.

The disease destroys the part of the bone marrow which produces platelets, the clotting power of the blood.

NOSEBLEEDS FEWER

Nosebleeds—which came regularly at least once every two weeks—have decreased, the doctor added.

Sally's general condition, however, is the same—her bone marrow is still not able to make platelets, he said.

GI's 2nd Viet Tour Ended

By ED BLUNDEN

HOLLY — Sgt. Mike Phelps of 1124 Lambert is back from his second experience in Vietnam. This time he was unscathed.

Phelps, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Phelps, is one of the 10,500 troops sent over in February as an emergency force during the Communist assault on the cities.

★ ★ ★

He was in the 3rd Brigade of the 82nd Airborne, a contingent of about 3,500 men. Phelps, and about half of the force, had already served tours of duty in Vietnam combat.

★ ★ ★

Just nine months before Phelps had returned from the fighting after a solid year of combat. A paratrooper, Phelps had taken part in over 100 air assaults, dropping into the fighting by helicopter. He holds the Purple Heart, Bronze Star and the Air Assault Medal.

LETTER CAMPAIGN

He had been stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C., before the shipment ordered by President Johnson.

Phelps' mother and others conducted a letter-writing campaign, hoping to bring the men back who had already served in combat as soon as possible.

★ ★ ★

About four months went by before Phelps was shipped out. Yesterday he said most of the "Second-time" troops were back. He said 57 of the returnees were killed and many more seriously wounded.

After a 30-day furlough, Phelps will finish his three-year enlistment at Ft. Bragg, getting out in October.

Orchard Lake Gives Officials Power in Crises

ORCHARD LAKE — The City Council has passed an ordinance establishing powers in times of public emergencies.

The powers are given initially to the mayor, then the mayor pro tem, then the council.

★ ★ ★

Officials may exercise certain designated powers during a public crisis, emergency or riot or when there is a reasonable hazard to the public safety or health, according to the ordinance.

The powers include being able to give orders to protect the life and property of the public and bring the emergency under control.

Farmington OKs Remodeled Offices

FARMINGTON — This city's public safety offices will be remodeled within the next three weeks.

The project will give more space to the detective bureau, rearrange the communications complex and provide a juvenile detention and interrogation room.

★ ★ ★

The City Council has awarded the construction contract to A. J. Dompierre and Co. which bid $1,424.

The department has the added space with the elimination of the licensing office.

In other action at a recent meeting, Council agreed to a $2,000 expenditure to subsidize the state's $18,000-a-year salary for the new district judge to serve the city and Farmington Township.

Meeting Tonight on Sewer Bids

R. J. Alexander, director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works, has called a meeting of township boards to discuss the $28.2-million bids received for the construction of the Clinton-Oakland Sewer Interceptor.

To meet at 8 tonight at the County Board of Supervisors auditorium will be the governing bodies of Avon, Independence, Orion, Pontiac, Waterford and West Bloomfield townships.

★ ★ ★

Chief item of business is what to do about the bids totaling $28.2 million which almost doubled the project's estimated cost of $16.9 million. They have not been accepted.

Alexander has said he is assured of $8,564,822 in grants which leaves a deficit for the project of $2,750,000. Bonds totaling $16.9 million have already been sold and their costs guaranteed by the participating townships.

★ ★ ★

The sewer, due to be constructed this year, was to empty sewage from the Clinton Valley area of the county into an interceptor being constructed by Macomb County and thence to Detroit for treatment.

Building Plans for Huron Valley District OK'd

The Huron Valley Board of Education has approved preliminary plans for two major building projects:

- The additions and renovation for the Highland Junior High School.
- Construction of the district's fourth elementary school on Livingston next to the Highland Junior High in Highland Township.

The renovation plans are the second set. The board requested them because construction bids for the first set of plans came in about $100,000 more than the anticipated expenditure of $800,000.

The chief difference in the second set of plans is a reduction in the size of the gym. Construction bids will be received again in August, reported Schools Supt. Truman Owens.

Plans for the fourth elementary school are identical to those for the Oxbow Community Elementary School except for the addition of four special education rooms to be built by Oakland Schools.

All board meetings from now to fall will be in the Muir Junior High School library, 425 George, Milford. The next meeting is June 24 at 8:30 p.m.

Ox Roast Tomorrow

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP — Austin Lodge No. 48, F & AM, will serve its annual Ox Roast from 5:30 to 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Masonic Temple, Andersonville Road near Davisburg.

Apathy Replaces Strong Feelings in Clarkston

Report on Annexing Stirs Little Interest

By JEAN SAILE

CLARKSTON—Strong feelings aroused last January by the village's proposed annexation attempt appear to have died.

Even a new study report prepared by a special committee outlining the pros and cons of annexation has failed to stir much interest.

★ ★ ★

"I haven't really thought too much about it or studied it," was the typical comment received in an opinion survey.

Several people who had chosen the area because of its rural qualities did not like to see change, but noted that the area is growing whether they like it or not.

★ ★ ★

The committee, which met weekly since Feb. 19, did not concentrate on any specific area to be annexed, but instead concentrated on the pros and cons of annexation effects.

VILLAGE VS. TOWNSHIP

While noting that voting power would be greater in the relatively less-populated village as opposed to the growing township, the committee pointed out that protection of the area and its residents by the establishment and maintenance of proper zoning, building codes, sanitation, effective judicial system and regulation of lakes and streams could be done effectively by either the township or village.

The report noted that items such as police protection, fire protection, water, sewer, roads and streets, and street lighting could be furnished more adequately and more efficiently by the village if through annexation the tax base were increased to the point where full-time municipal employes could be hired. The village currently operates with only part-time employes.

★ ★ ★

Robert J. Stiles, owner of the Clarkston Shoe Store, said he'd be interested in any increased police protection the village could get.

STILES

BAYNES

Herbert Baynes, a township resident living north of I 75, said he wouldn't mind if the village annexed some of the township but he didn't think all the property previously proposed should be included.

FORD FARM

He thought the old Ford farm north of town should be excluded.

The previous proposal had been to include land bounded by I-75 on the north, Dixie Highway on the southwest, and a line extended south from Perry Lake Road on the east.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Floyd Tower, a village resident, says she hasn't made up her mind.

"You hear someone voice an opinion and you say 'that makes sense' and then someone else voices an opposite opinion and you say 'that makes sense too'," she reported.

QUESTION VALUES

Residents of the township who were included in the annexation proposal have voiced the opinion that it was more the method than the actual annexation that aroused their ire last winter, however some question about values to be received for additional taxes remains.

Because Clarkston is a general law village, no vote for annexation is required—only approval by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

★ ★ ★

A Clarkston employe, Mrs. Edward Rembach of 5181 E. Holly, lives in an area annexed by the same means to Holly some years ago.

MRS. REMBACH

"I don't see that we've gained anything except garbage collection," she said.

Ralph Kenyon, a teacher at the Clarkston high school, said he believes the village needs more police protection and annexation might be a means of getting it.

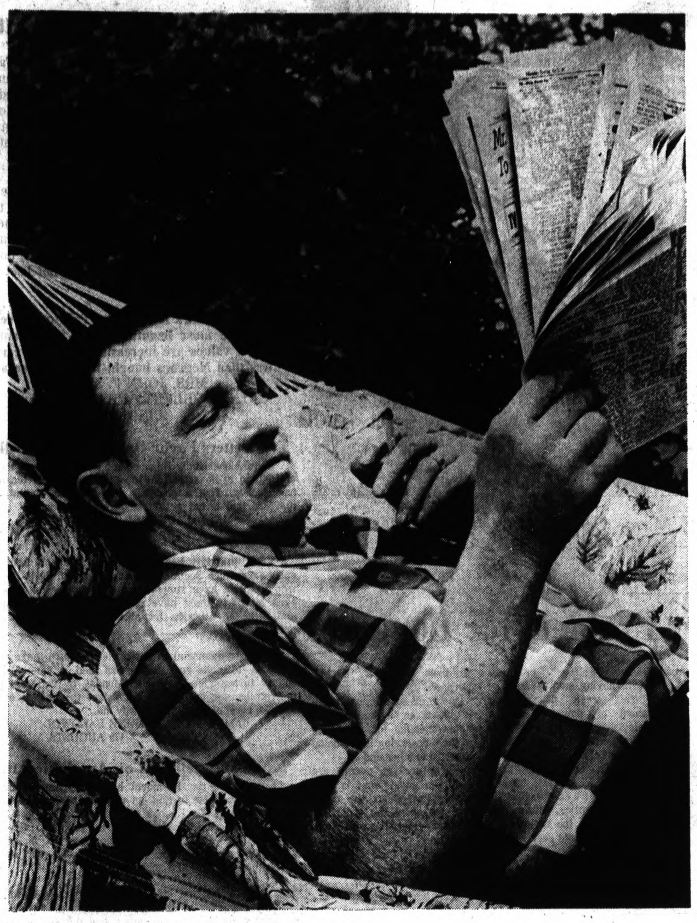

KENYON

POWELL

But William Powell, an Independence Township resident, would like to see the two areas become one. "I think the township should annex the village," he said.

Let's Begin with . . .

some plain talk about our city.

The U.S. Congress has passed a Federal Fair Housing Law. The Michigan Legislature has passed a State Fair Housing Law, and many people are now asking . . . "WHY DO WE NEED A LOCAL FAIR HOUSING ORDINANCE?"

HERE'S WHY

FIRST Pontiac needs a Local Fair Housing Law so that fair housing can be administered by local people. If we do not pass an open housing ordinance in Pontiac we will come under the Federal Law. This means Federal control and Federal enforcement through Federal Courts and Agencies. We want local control . . . through local courts . . . administered by people who we have elected and who are responsible to us.

SECOND We the people of Pontiac have a moral responsibility to pass a local ordinance. The time has come for PEOPLE to take a stand. The white community of Pontiac must show the Negro citizen that we care about him as a fellow resident. We must show him that we want to help him realize a better life in our city. For far too long a time, men of good will have avoided saying this in Pontiac. The Negroes of Pontiac deserve to know where they stand with you.

THIRD We, all, together, need to demonstrate among ourselves that this city of Pontiac is going somewhere. We need to use this opportunity to demonstrate to other Michigan cities, to investors and developers, and to all our children, that we have faced our problems and we can and will work them out.

VOTE YES june 24

One Good Term Deserves Another

The PRESS supports DONALD E. BISHOP, R-Avon Township, in his bid for a second term as State representative from the 63rd Legislative District.

BISHOP

Active in party counsels for eight years with a solid business background in insurance and banking and now a practicing attorney after graduation from the Detroit College of Law, the 35-year-old candidate is ideally qualified for the office he holds.

★ ★ ★

During his first term in Lansing, Bishop served on the House Appropriations Committee where his attitude toward expenditure of State funds was sound and realistic.

He is a consistent friend of education, considering it of primary importance, and has exerted himself to restore the $480,000 cut made in the Oakland University budget by the senate.

We are, however, disappointed by his opposition to the development of the Oakland-Orion Airport, which this newspaper considers essential to the progress of the area in the accelerating air age in which we live.

★ ★ ★

But on the whole, it is our opinion that the legislator has served his District well and merits the endorsement we give him.

'Mirror, Mirror On The Wall—Get Lost!'

Mystery of England's 'Stonehenge' Remains Unsolved

The summer solstice which occurs today should draw the year's largest crowd of tourists to Stonehenge, the mysterious stone-slab monument in southwest England. The attraction is a Druid ceremony, enacted each year, celebrating the arrival of the Northern Hemisphere's longest day of the year. The ritual is anachronistic: Stonehenge was erected between 1800 and 1400 B.C., while the Druids did not arrive in England until around 250 B.C.

Stonehenge is enclosed within a circular ditch 300 feet in diameter, with a bank on either side, and is approached from the northeast by a broad roadway called the Avenue. Within the circular trench the stone slabs are arranged in four series. The two outermost series are circular, the third is horseshoe-shaped, and the innermost (few traces of which remain) is ovoid.

The purpose of Stonehenge has never been established beyond doubt. It has been described as a monument to those slain in battle against Germanic invaders, as the tomb of Boadicea, and a Druid or Roman temple.

At the turn of the present century, Sir J. NORMAN LOCKYER advanced the theory that when Stonehenge was erected the axis through the Altar Stone and Friar's Heel pointed directly to the rising of the sun on midsummer day, as it approximately does now. This theory implied that Stonehenge was designed for sun worship. Two years ago, Dr. G. S. HAWKINS suggested that Stonehenge served as an astronomical obesrvatory.

All of this expert conjecture adds to the mystery and presumably to the allure of Stonehenge. More than 400,000 tourists a year visit it. Only the Tower of London, among Britain's countless monuments, draws more visitors.

Africa's Wildlife Threatened by Lack of Funds

JOHN S. OWEN, director of Tanzania National Parks, came to this country recently on a money-raising tour for the African Wildlife fund. One of his concerns is the famous reserve of the Serengeti Plains, where some 1.5 million animals, representing most of Africa's species, flourish.

Tanzania already spends 3 per cent of its tiny budget on the acquisition of land—three times the percentage the United States spends on its national parks.

★ ★ ★

Yet more areas are needed where wildlife can be protected. Migrations are endangered and hunters and poachers threaten the extinction of many species. The cost is something like $300 a square mile, says Owen, and once acquired and developed, the preserves maintain themselves.

"The money concerned is peanuts," he says. "But peanuts are hard to get in Africa."

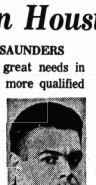

Once Africa's wildlife, or part of it, is gone, it will be gone forever, and the loss will be the entire world's. Someone ought to try passing the hat around the United Nations, which supposedly represents the globe.

For a ridiculously small contribution per country, conservationists like Owen could have all the money they need and could concentrate on their proper job of administering the last remnants of unspoiled nature for posterity.

Open Housing Will Benefit Schools

By DICK SAUNDERS

One of the great needs in Pontiac is for more qualified Negro teachers.

SAUNDERS

This fact is well documented in a recently completed study on equality of educational opportunity in the Pontiac School District.

Passage of an open housing ordinance Monday would give school officials a much needed assist in recruiting these teachers.

★ ★ ★

So, if you're looking for a logical, practical reason for open housing, you need look no further than your schools and kids.

"Passage of the ordinance won't be an immediate answer to all our problems, but it will definitely be an assist and any assist will be beneficial to the school system and our children," said Lewis A. Crew, director of instructional personnel services for the school district.

Crew is in charge of teacher recruiting, a gigantic job. This year he has to recruit from 250 to 270 teachers to fill new teaching posts and replace teachers who are leaving. About 20.5 per cent of the recruits are Negroes, according to Crew.

★ ★ ★

This year we are losing 15 good Negro teachers to the Detroit and Highland Park systems who live in Detroit because they can't find suitable housing here.

The problem is twofold. First, there is a general lack of suitable housing. Second, there's discrimination.

In a city where housing is more plentiful, discrimination is easier to cope with. But in Pontiac, where it isn't plentiful, discrimination becomes a major problem.

★ ★ ★

"It isn't a matter of not having enough money to pay for apartments," Crew commented. "It's that they (Negroes) aren't welcome in most apartments.

"They can apply and get on the 'list' but they have no assurance their application will be considered on an equal basis."

An open housing ordinance would give them such assurance. It would also give teacher candidates some assurance that they would be teaching in a community where, as the fair housing buttons say, there are "open minds; open hearts."

★ ★ ★

This is particularly important in trying to attract really high quality Negro teachers. It is the top quality candidate who always wants to know about housing and equal opportunity in the community before deciding where he or she will teach, according to Crew.

These are the kind of people we should, as a community, be vitally interested in attracting.

"I think they recognize Pontiac as a good school system in which to work," Crew said, "but do they see Pontiac as a good city in which to live?"

Open minds, open hearts and open housing are key ingredients in making any city a good place to live.

If we want to attract high quality people, we must be prepared to offer them high quality human values within our community.

Voters will get their chance to adopt some values of the highest quality Monday at the polls.

David Lawrence Says:

Disorder Problem for Congress

WASHINGTON — Congress has a real problem on its hands in the closing months of the session, as disorder in the country has become extraordinary. The people are demanding that something be done.

LAWRENCE

The most affluent and greatest nation in the world is in the midst of a moral crisis. Crime continues to rise month after month. Violence is rampant, robberies are frequent, and people are afraid to go out on the streets.

Police often are scared or not allowed to make arrests, and the courts tend to release criminals on technicalities.

Members of Congress from all over the country are becoming more and more concerned with the expressions of discontent and dissatisfaction which they are receiving from their constituents.

BASIC ISSUE

At the Senate prayer breakfast a few days ago, Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas — who is retiring at the end of the current session after 18 years in Congress — summarized the basic issue in these words:

"Modern Americans have accepted and are tolerating conditions never before permitted by any generation of our ancestors . . . .

★ ★ ★

"Never has wild pleasure or physical abandonment been considered fitting human behavior as it is today.

"Never have public officials been so brazen and open in seeking the vote of the people through promises of things that are morally and spiritually wrong.

"Never have ministers of the gospel turned their pulpits and their pastoral duties toward direction of the social order to the near exclusion of the salvation of order as abounds in our time."

COURT DECISION

Only this week the American people read of a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States which relied on technicalities of law in disregard of principles or morality.

The court declared invalid regulations by the state of Alabama denying aid to dependent children when mothers "cohabit" with men other than their husbands.

There has long been criticism that some government "welfare" programs were having such a result.

This week people read about or saw on their television screens the culmination of the "Poor People's March" on Washington. These "demonstrators," in fact, ignored the governing bodies in states, counties, cities and towns across the nation from which they could seek redress and relief.

Americans have been contributing billions of dollars annually to private institutions for charitable purposes.

Their dissatisfaction today is based on a feeling that funds intended for assistance to those deserving it are being diverted to other ends.

The American people are disturbed about what is happening throughout the country, and about the failure of Congress and the executive departments to deal effectively with these problems. This will be a big issue in the forthcoming campaign.

Bob Considine Says:

Bridge to Understanding —Share Your Birthday

As Confucius and, somewhat later, Fr. James Keller of the Christophers remarked, it's better to light one candle than to curse the limitless darkness.

CONSIDINE

Good woman named Elizabeth D. Heller, of Philadelphia, started the Share Your Birthday movement back in 1949. It has been moving quietly but surely ever since.

★ ★ ★

It is designed to encourage children around the world to give up one of their birthday gifts to their counterparts in other lands. Simple as that.

War toys are specifically excluded.

'PEN PAL' RELATIONSHIP

The way the thing works is that the foundation chooses a nation (Venezuela . . . Pakistan) and arranges for a member of the consular corps of the chosen country to find a typical school in the consul's country, a comparable grade to the selected American grade, names of the children, their birthdates, addresses, etc.

★ ★ ★

The "pen pal" relationship that follows produces the exchange of birthday gifts. The foreign consuls involved give lectures and show movies of their lands and customs.

On completion of each year's program a child from the American school, plus crates of toys, is flown to the recipient country and distributes the toys under the supervision of the ministry of education.

RETURNS WITH STUDENT

The American child stays in the recipient country three weeks, then returns with a worthy graduate student from that country — who is granted a one-year scholarship in a university or college located in the city or state of the child ambassador.

". . . So that today's children may tomorrow exchange greetings and gifts, not bullets and bombs," explains Mrs. Heller.

Miss America may be stacked like Aphrodite and play "Kitten on the Keys" with one hand tied behind her back, but how about Wray Mundy of Aurora, Colo.?

He's in Washington this week to be presented the trucking industry's highest honor. He's the American Trucking Association's 1968 Driver of the Year.

Mundy (whose measurements I don't have handy) has logged 2 million miles without scaring a Volkswagen up a tree. He's a good representative of a gang of pros too often maligned by less competent passenger car jockeys.

What's Miss America got besides prettier legs? Our man Mundy is, in addition to Driver of the Year, Colorado Truck Rodeo Five Axle Tank Division Champion.

'Open Occupancy Project Has Proved Successful'

The board of directors of the Butler-Tarkington Neighborhood Association, Inc. in Indianapolis read with interest the article on open housing by Allan R. Wilhelm reprinted from the Flint Journal. BTNA was organized in 1956 when it became apparent that the increase of Negro residents was causing tension among white residents.

★ ★ ★

A former BTNA president said, "We have importance to the city and, beyond that, to our whole society. We represent an experiment in living . . . we propose to show that open occupancy is possible; does not lead to racial ghetto; does not destroy property values; and does not lead to deterioration of an area."

★ ★ ★

Twelve years later Butler-Tarkington remains one of the most beautiful areas in Indianapolis. Property values are increasing and last year more whites than Negroes bought homes in the area.

Two Letters Favor Open Housing Ordinance

We wholeheartedly favor open housing and urge the people of Pontiac to do something about the rights of tenants in a free society. This is probably an even more urgent problem and one that is not getting enough attention.

Very little has been said about trying to continue the causes for which Senator Kennedy lived and died. Even many who may not have supported his candidacy for president or even his party must have recognized his concern for justice and a better America for all, especially the poor and oppressed.

★ ★ ★

The best memorial to a slain leader is to make his cause our own—to make sure he has not died in vain. We have a chance to begin in Pontiac on Monday by voting in favor of the fair housing ordinance. Let's show the citizens of Pontiac that we care, as Senator Kennedy did.

'Lawlessness Breeds on Apathetic Attitudes'

I don't feel the President has to appoint another high-sounding committee to find out why another prominent American was murdered. He has only to look at his own promises to the people and the legislation he supports. His appointments to the Supreme Court increased the already-liberal "anything goes" attitude prevalent among our leaders of government, church and schools.

★ ★ ★

If people feel that only the laws they agree with have to be obeyed and that their right to express grievance—whether by looting and burning or rioting and demonstrations—is acceptable to these same leaders, why not a little more lawlessness?

★ ★ ★

Let's punish the criminal and the lawless among us and stop coddling and pleading. The likes of Earl Warren and Douglas on the Supreme Court bench are proof of the liberal mess we are in in 1968.

PROUD TO BE AN AMERICAN

In hearing the recent appeals for prayer by President Johnson, governors, senators and others for Robert Kennedy, we are reminded that prayer in the public schools is prohibited under the Supreme Court in response to the request of a liberal atheist. Liberals of the same ilk now say America is sick but refuse to acknowledge their own contribution to moral breakdown. Apathy, ignorance, liberalism and permissiveness created today's problems. Prayer and Bible study are needed for the spiritual and moral welfare of this republic, supported by God-fearing men in public office.

Question and Answer

Recent letters have asked why the City Manager doesn't answer the question of paving Menominee, but I seem to remember some time ago that he did answer and said there were no plans for paving it at that time. However, I'd like to know if there has been any change in those plans since the City acquired more money.

REPLY

City Manager Warren says the Commission will consider, within the next week, calling a public hearing of Menominee property owners, from Genesee to Chippewa, and if they agree to repaving assessments, the work would be scheduled this summer.

Good Reason

Asks Citizens to Take a Look at Themselves

Michiganders, take a long look at yourselves and your children. You have accused the mentally ill—the foreigner and the supposedly nonbeliever of God for the fate of Senator Kennedy, Martin Luther King Jr., M. Evers and President Kennedy. Take a look, especially you mothers that work all day, go out half the night, buy the children anything to shut them up, let them sass back and never once smack their bottoms for being disrespectful. Now we have a college full of rioters. Basic training begins at home and if not taught this from the beginning they will not learn it at all. Teach them their country is the greatest, that no matter who lives next door no one is worse or better than they are—we are equal.

'Those Seeking Respect Be Respectful'

We've been over-exposed to the Negro's image of police departments. We've heard repetitious cries of "police brutality." Civil rights activists demand more respect from our country's policemen. These same parties have stated that most Negroes have no respect for police authority. How can a clear-thinking individual demand respect and in the same breath state he offers none?

Soldier Tells What It's Like in Vietnam

What is it really like in Vietnam? It's bad enough just being here, especially in the infantry. You spend most of your time in the field getting shot at and breaking your back moving a couple of miles every day. When your company gets a chance to go to the rear for a rest, everyone looks forward to taking it easy for awhile. But when you get there you find everyone jumps all over you for not shaving, for not having a haircut and because your clothes are dirty. You wonder if it's really worth it to live like an animal, sleeping on the ground, getting wet when it rains and sweating when it's hot. You can live through it but it's hard, and it's harder when you think about the finance clerk who'll give you a hard time when you get paid.

Comments on Recent Convention at College

Recent television coverage of the convention of Students for a Democratic Society at MSU left me appalled and in an absolute rage. Is Dr. Hanna's tower so high that he confuses letting what I believe to be an anarchy-oriented, Communist-financed front convene and organize at MSU with "academic freedom?" My 12-year-old son wants to attend MSU, but I told him today he'll never set foot in that school if the present image isn't reversed. He understood why.

★

I intend to contact the Governor and my elected representatives, and use every other means at my disposal to bring this error in Hanna's judgment to the attention of all. Failing a satisfactory explanation, I shall do all in my power to see that he is removed from his present post. Liberal educators quite suddenly look extremely dangerous to me, as they must to many who have watched Berkeley, Columbia and now MSU.

Letter From Vietnam Tells Boys' Feelings

The third grade Sunday school class at Sylvan Lake Lutheran Church wrote a serviceman in Vietnam. The answer gives us an idea of how our boys feel. "Dear Class: I'm pleased to hear from people back home so I thank you for writing. I am an American and it is my duty to fight for freedom in any part of the world and no thanks are really needed. We over here are more anxious than anyone to see the war ended, but not at the cost of a people's freedom. Many horrible things happen here but don't let anyone tell you that the American soldier is brutal and mean, as many opposing the war claim. Besides fighting, we march through the jungles almost every day, search villages for weapons and Vietcong suspects, dig foxholes, string barbed wire and build bunkers.

British Man Denies Link to Haiti Overthrow Try

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — An aged British millionaire joined his son in custody Thursday night, and both were charged with financing an unsuccessful attempt to invade Haiti and overthrow President Francois Duvalier.

Oswald Brandt, 76, told a military tribunal he had nothing to do with the attempted revolt.

★ ★ ★

"I did not give anyone $10," Brandt declared in the small, packed courtroom, sweat gleaming on his forehead. "I did not approve of the raid. I know nothing about it."

Brandt's denial brought laughter in the courtroom jammed with more than 100 Haitians.

JAMAICIAN CONSUL

Born in Jamaica of British parents, the elder Brandt is Jamaican consul in Haiti. He is said to have made a fortune of $20 million in textiles, sugar and vegetable oils. He and his son have holdings throughout the Caribbean and in Bermuda and the Bahamas.

Brandt's son Clifford, 44, was arrested earlier Thursday and accused of financing the exiles who landed May 20.

The government claimed he gave $150,000 to Haitian exiles in New York and Montreal.

The younger Brandt, who is Jamaica's vice consul here, also denied the charge. He was confined in a military prison adjoining Duvalier's palace.

Ten men are on trial for participating in the anti-Magloire invasion. The government claims its forces killed most of the rest of the invaders, variously reported to number between 10 and 40.

The prosecutor, Lt. Col. Franck Romain, told the court a surplus B25 bomber was flown from Melbourne, Fla., to the Bahaman island of Inagua where it picked up the raiding party. Romain said the plane flew on to Haiti, bombed Duvalier's palace and dropped the raiders off at Cap Haitien, on the northern coast.

The prosecutor said two unidentified Americans took part in the raid but escaped.

The 10 accused plotters had told the court Clifford Brandt gave them money, arms and a plane. They pleaded guilty to various charges including murder and appealed for leniency.

OTHERS NOTIFIED

In Kingston, the Jamaican foreign ministry said it had instructed its ambassadors to the United States and the United Nations to contact Haitian representatives in Washington and New York about the Brandts. The ministry also called in the Haitian consul in Jamaica.

★ ★ ★

Clifford Brandt said he was in Montreal at the time of the invasion visiting his wife and five children, who live there. In Montreal, Mrs. Brandt told a newsman her husband "had nothing to do with any invasion."

She said he left Montreal about three weeks ago for a vacation in Haiti with their three eldest sons.

"I'm very worried about the safety of my husband and children," she said.

Candidate List Errs

In Wednesday's edition of The Pontiac Press listing candidates for state representative, those from the 66th District were incorrectly stated as running in the 65th District.

The 66th District candidates are Democrats Bill S. Huffman, the incumbent; Monte Geralds, Jon E. Daniels Lee Walker, Lanson J. Carrothers, all of Madison Heights, and Sam Panzica of Hazel Park. The Republicans are Martin R. Clements, William C. Kern, both of Madison Heights, and Richard H. Sanderson of Clawson.

The 65th District Republican candidates are William P. Hampton, the incumbent; and Tomothy P. Pickard of Franklin. The lone Democratic candidate is Harry J. McGowan of Birmingham.

Architect Due as Consultant

Price will reside at Cranbrook's Edison House through Sept. 7, during which time he will serve as consultant and seminar leader in sessions with college personnel and area educators, planners and architects.

Life Can Be Boring--Just Try

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody ever died of high blood pressure while yawning.

Everybody praises the excitement of life too much and underappreciates the importance of boredom as an escort and companion of longevity.

BOYLE

Danger is a great and stimulating drug, but, as the old saying goes, "It's a drug on the market."

For the last two generations almost every graduating class of every high school and college in the land has been sternly admonished by every commencement speaker to "live dangerously."

Among those who are capable of intelligence this has spread a pandemic unease.

INHERITED

It is as meaningless today to advise people to "live dangerously" as it would be to give them a merit badge for jaywalking. Every human being now is born into danger and his big sweaty-palmed hope is how to get his being away from that disturbing condition.

There are several rescues available. Probably the most dependable, however, is to avoid excitement—which is the forerunner of peril—by creating a self-built, constructive tedium.

* * *

How can you make your existence more wholesomely boring? Well, for example, you might:

● Make an interesting collection of nonusable items such as packaged soap from torn down hotels and the timetables of passenger trains that no longer run.

● School yourself to play croquet not adventuresomely but defensively.

* * *

Get into the habit of not being the first guy in your neighborhood to see the first robin of spring but the one who can see the second firefly of summer without making a public brag.

● When other guys at a cocktail party are going into the kitchen to sneak a kiss from their neighbors' wives, stay in the living room and wonder aloud what the world is coming to.

* * *

● Always ventilate your prejudices. Give them plenty of your own fresh air.

● Avoid taking any action. Instead, offer advice to those who are considering taking actions.

● If you feel like starting a legal action, be sure it will come up in a small claims court.

* * *

● Several people have read the Encyclopedia Britannica from A to Z. Surprise everybody in your merry crowd by being the one who can offhandedly announce, "I'm trying to read it from Z to A and right now I'm in the middle of the Y's, and may I tell you something amazing I've learned about Yucatan?"

● Make it a policy never to be the first to enter into a bar when it opens or the last to leave before it closes. The middle hour is usually safest of all times.

* * *

● Be wary of inciting yourself by your own emotions. If anything thrills you for any reason, take two aspirin tablets. Lie down, take a nap. Wait for the thrill to go away.

● Stand steady. Don't take a step toward anything new.

MAKE BOREDOM

Got the idea? Okay, remember if you want to enjoy the feeling that life is endless, it is up to you to be sure that you manufacture your own boredom.

No tedium can be as eternal as the one you make for yourself. In this respect you can't trust strangers. You must be your own best buddy in boredom.

Gangs' Link With OEO Is Probed

CHICAGO (UPI) — They are called "teen gangs," but their leaders are now in their 20s, and appear to be acquiring the "professionalism" of the Chicago mobsters of 40 years ago.

Few people dispute the power the Blackstone Rangers and East Side Disciples have on the potentially explosive Southside Negro ghettos. And in Washington today, the Senate opened hearings to determine if the federal government made a nearly $1 million "deal" with them to keep peace.

* * *

Ranger leaders now say they have as many as 1,000 Negro youths in their ranks prowling the Woodlawn area. The Disciples claim about half that number.

Between them, according to police, the gangs have accounted for more than 28 killings so far this year. The slayings usually involve defectors and youths who refuse to join the gangs, police say.

GANGLAND-STYLE

Gangland-style assassinations are not uncommon, according to authorities. Police said they were invited to watch an attempted assassination in May on Disciple leader David Barksdale.

Barksdale told police to follow his car and, as he turned a corner, a dozen youths ran into the street and began firing into the Disciple leader's car.

* * *

Barksdale was unharmed and three youths reputed to be Rangers were arrested. Police said one of them had check stubs showing he worked for the Woodlawn Organization, which operated the Office of Economic Opportunity-funded program under Senate investigation.

The $927,000 program used gang members, at salaries of up to $6,500 a year, as "instructors" for other gang members and high school dropouts. Since the program began last September, 37 "instructors" or trainees have been indicted for crimes ranging from rape to murder. Only one has been found guilty.

'TRUCE' REACHED

The two gangs met during the April riots after Dr. Martin Luther King's death and agreed on a "truce" to keep the South side cool. While the West side went up in flames, the Ranger and Disciple "turf" sufered only minor damage.

But, according to authorities, the gangs didn't keep the South side businesses unharmed out of a sense of civic duty. They say the merchants paid heavily and continue to pay in a lucrative protection racket run by the gangs—"protection" of the sort Al Capone used to dispense.

Project Friendship Interracial Program July 22-Aug. 16

Project Friendship, part of a continuing, interracial program designed to provide an opportunity for Negro and white children to work and play together, will run this year from July 22 to Aug. 16.

Originated in 1966 as a small, integrated, summer art class at McConnell Elementary school, the project expanded the following year with assistance from McConnell Community School, Newman A.M.E. Church and the Birmingham Unitarian Church.

* * *

Family involvement was encouraged and the focus was on the racial interaction, rather than just the art or recreational skills being taught.

This year, the project will work with two integrated groups of 35 third and fourth grade students.

TWO SESSIONS

They will attend the day camp four days a week, in one of the 2 two-week-long sessions being offered. Arts and crafts as well as group outings have been planned — and will be directed by volunteer workers, and Mrs. Henry Chandler, a certified elementary schoolteacher.

* * *

Junior counselors, some of whom first participated in Project Friendship as pupils, will also assist at the camp based at Whittier School.

Continuing to stress the value of exploring and promoting interracial involvement, the project has acquired the services of Dr. Simon Wittes of the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research.

Dr. Wittes will advise and direct the Project Friendship counseling, teaching and steering committees.

Meetings with project workers and parents of children attending the classes have been planned by institute personnel in an effort to help parents learn how to help their children in this unfamiliar situation, as well as to promote better understanding among Negro and white adults.

Mrs. Ruth Ransom, 592 Montana, active in the program since 1967, said of the project, "We don't want the kids to go home and say, 'I played with some Negro children today,' or 'I played with some white children today,' we want more than that.

* * *

"We don't want just to have the children together, but we would like to have the whole family share in the interracial experience."

Although Project Friendship is a relatively small and new organization, Mrs. Ransom felt that it had been making progress.

"It is a lot of little groups doing a lot of little things that is important. Things have to get better," she said.

Rescue Backfires

RONKONKOMA, N.Y. Two volunteers were dumped in the water Wednesday as they struggled to pull their "victim" into their small boat.

Transportation Chief Sticks Up for the GIs

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press News Features

WASHINGTON — The general was in civilian clothes aboard a commercial airliner when he began to bristle.

BAULCH

He had noticed the stewardess serving breakfast, handing out trays in trip after trip down the aisle, but skipping eight sailors. When it seemed obvious the sailors weren't going to get any food, the general —without identifying himself— asked them if they had eaten before boarding the plane.

"No, sir," one of them replied, "but don't worry. We're not really hungry."

Maj. Gen. John J. Lane asked the stewardess why the sailors were skipped. She explained that not enough had been put aboard "and besides, they were on standby half fare."

BURNED HIM UP

As the general related the story to me a few days later, he said, "It burned me up. I found out the sailors weren't on half fare, they were full paying customers, traveling on orders. Besides, servicemen should be treated with consideration whether they pay full fare or half fare."

Lane, commander of The Military Traffic Management and Terminal Service which oversees the movement of people and material for all the services, moved into action after he reached his office.

* * *

He and the admiral on his staff who deals with airlines met soon afterward with airline officials, who promised to get things straightened out.

Lane is in a position to put on the pressure and does so personally when he figures servicemen are not being treated properly by airlines or household movers, though he says most of them do a good job.

BIG BUSINESS

Normally, his office deals with the movement of military passengers in groups of 10 or more and approves military charter flights. This is a multi-million dollar business. Movement of household goods, also is a gigantic business for the nomadic servicemen and their families.

It used to be that each post transportation officer handled the movement of personnel on his own post. When an inefficient moving firm got on the blacklist of the transportation officer at one post he moved on to another post and still did all right.

Lane's headquarters now gathers complaints from transportation officers of all services at posts around the nation. When there's a legitimate complaint against a mover, he gets a black mark. Too many black marks, he gets no military business.

Salary Talks off Till August for Teachers

Salary negotiations with Pontiac's teachers have broken off until August, James McCoy, executive secretary of the Pontiac Education Association, said yesterday.

Pontiac is not alone in settlement difficulties. Only Birmingham, Troy, Novi, Brandon and Lamphere out of 28 Oakland County school districts have ratified contracts for the coming school year. A few other districts previously had set 1968-69 salaries.

* * *

Salary proposals are far apart in Pontiac, according to McCoy.

Pontiac and Southfield are two of the units in the county which have been involved in mediation with school board negotiating teams. Mediation sessions are conducted by representatives assigned by the State Labor Mediation Board.

CONTRACT NEGOTIATIONS

Twenty-two of the 27 Michigan Education Association units in the county are currently negotiating teacher contracts for 1968-69.

"We are encouraging all local MEA units to proceed with negotiations throughout the summer months," William Parker, MEA regional director, said.

* * *

"Resolution of the contract will enable schools to open on time in the fall.

"Where we have experienced a lack of progress at the negotiating table, local units have been urged to request mediation and fact finding immediately.

* * *

"This will insure completion of the negotiating process established under the law."

New York Lottery—a Success or a Failure?

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York's controversial lottery is a year old and it's paid the state $31.8 million. But detractors label it a colossal failure, citing projections by some sponsors that it would bring $360 million in revenue annually.

The revenue from the $1 tickets that first went on sale last June is pumped into the Education Department's coffers.

* * *

Tax Department officials who oversee the lottery always have disowned the $360-million estimate, attributing it to faulty arithmetic of overly zealous proponents.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller originally estimated that the yield would be about $60 million a year. For the 1968-69 budget year, he is counting on $46 million.

OTHER LOTTERY

New Hampshire's sweepstakes lottery, the first in the nation, hasn't measured up to expectations either. Sponsors had predicted it would bring up to $7 million a year. Last year, it took in $1.05 million. The New Hampshire income also goes to education.

* * *

Even though gross sales for the 11 months ended April 30 totaled only $57,884,736, the New York lottery produced more revenue than the estimated yields of other new tax measures approved during the 1968 legislative session.

* * *

These included raising the gasoline tax another cent a gallon, boosting the cigarette tax two cents a pack, raising the parimutuel betting pool one half of one per cent, and increasing some business taxes.

In addition to raising money for education, the lottery paid $17.5 million in prizes, ranging from $100,000 to $150, to 12,977 persons. The $100,000 winner in May was a woman, living alone, who had been forced to give up her job as a cleaning woman because of varicose veins.

There were other peripheral benefits. Commissions paid to banks for distribution of tickets exceeded $2.8 million. Western Union grossed more than $22,000 for telegrams which the state—prohibited by law from using the mails—used to notify winners.

Administration of the lottery cost the state $5.4 million for the first 10 months, far below the 15 per cent ceiling set by the legislature. This included transportation expenses and retaining an advertising agency to mount an aggressive selling campaign.

* * *

The campaign also has helped keep alive resentment of the lottery. Opponents denounce it as an immoral and demeaning way to raise funds.

Proponents laud it as a permissive tax," one that you don't have to pay if you don't want to.

BANKS BANNED

Congress put some brakes on the lottery when it banned federally chartered banks from state 2,300 outlets in April and sales dropped to $4.2 million, the second lowest since last July.

To counteract this, the legislature expanded outlets to include supermarkets and other public places. Tax Department district offices cut personnel loose from auditing returns to seek out potential vendors. Twenty sales representatives were hired at $9,200 annually.

The legislature also authorized the state to hold drawings weekly—if desired—and on special occasions. In the first year, drawings have been once a month.

But the bloom has worn off. Only twice have monthly sales topped $6 million and the crowds attracted to drawings have dwindled sharply. In some instances, only newsmen have been present.

LITTLE DOUBT

Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy says he has little doubt that the lottery will continue as a means of raising revenue. But, he adds, "Our experience with the new outlets has been too brief and so far inconclusive to prove anything meaningful. We are hopeful that lottery sales will improve."

Ernest T. Bird, director of the lottery division, says the lottery is still in a "transitional period," and we're "trying to get the public oriented to the new outlets . . ."

Stars of 'Hello, Dolly!' Film Stage a Standard Rhubarb

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Gene Kelly has just spoken out in defense of Barbra Streisand who seems to be victim of a campaign alleging that when acting, she's a monster.

True, she and Walter Matthau had a blow-up in Garrison, N.Y., in the filming of "Hello, Dolly!"

WILSON

"It was the classic dispute between actors of who stepped on whose lines," said Kelly, the director of the picture.

"They really got angry." Walter roared, Barbra cried for a long time. "They quarreled in front of everybody. I said 'Cut the lights,' stopped everything. We went into a little store and straightened it out. Then we did the scene. This happens to everybody in every picture and isn't serious."

"The rumors were that Barbra bawled you out," we said.

"Absurd," said Kelly. "I wish every actor would be like her. I came onto this picture with my dukes up because I'd heard she might be uncooperative. But she's the most cooperative girl I ever worked with. She'll try anything to be good. There has never been any friction between us and I predict there never will be."

Eddie Foy laughed in Sardi's about the Broadway Actors' strike and remembered when there was rough stuff. "Once George M. Cohan said there'd be a show during a strike," Eddie said. "My old man, Ed Wynn and W. C. Fields hit him on the head. There wasn't any show."

Midwest Muslim Leaders Urge Black Nationalist Investments

CHICAGO (AP) — "God Helps Those Who Help Themselves!"

That headline, complete with exclamation point, appeared over an article by Elijah Muhammad in a recent issue of the Black Muslim weekly tabloid newspaper, "Muhammad Speaks."

* * *

The newspaper reached newsstands as the Poor People's Campaign moved on Washington to demand aid, but the head of the Black Muslims made no mention of the marchers, most of them Negroes.

"Imagine people with B.A., B.S., M.A., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees begging the white man to give them a job and care for them as their fathers did in slavery times," Muhammad wrote

GOOD BUSINESS

Muhammad suggested: "Get business minded."

He also wrote: "My followers and I, by the help of God, and with the respect of the nations of the earth, are trying to do something for ourselves."

Muhammad and many Black Muslims seem to be practicing what they preach.

* * *

Muhammad sent a letter to his followers March 20 in an effort to raise money to buy a Greek Orthodox Church building on Chicago's South Side. (A spokesman for the church said the building was not for sale, however).

"I am asking you to agree with me that we now take our savings and turn it over to the Mosque No. 2 Bank here for one year or six months if you cannot do without your money to purchase this place," the letter said. "We will give the same rate of interest that the devil (Muslim synonym for the white man) is paying you on your money."

'PLEASE SACRIFICE'

"We are sure we can pay every penny back according to our increase in the business of our restaurant, our supermarket, and our farms in the South and in Michigan," the letter continued.

"Will you please sacrifice to help raise this $3 million since we have spent over $2 million in cash, buying farms and expanding our businesses in Chicago?" the leader asked.

* * *

John Ali, Muslim contact for reporters, when asked about the income of Muhammad or the Muslims, declined to give figures.

"No religious group does," he commented.

Just how much the Muslim organization earns is a secret, although its monthly income has been estimated as up to $120,000 a month, from sales of the newspapers (15 cents in Illinois, 20 cents out of state), advertising in its pages; dues from members; donations. income from restaurants and other concerns owned by the organization. and income from the sale of Elijah Muhammad's records.

GROWING MEMBERSHIP

Ali also declined to give out figures for the Muslims' national membership which has been placed at 50,000 or 70,000 or more. But he and others indicated the total was growing.

"People are coming around to our way of thinking every day —organizations and individuals," John Ali said in an interview.

* * *

But he didn't name any groups that may be bidding for an association of some kind.

"In recent months they (Muslims) began to communicate more with other militant groups," said Sgt. Richard Brandt of the Intelligence Division of the Chicago Police Department.

"Other groups are trying to associate themselves with the Muslims," Brandt said.

He didn't name them, but theorized the lure was the Black Muslims' money and policies.

* * *

The Muslims, long set in their nationalistic and separatist ways, have been working for years for black economic power. Now many other Negroes are beginning to see it as a means of self-improvement.

* * *

"I believe that since Cassius Clay came out for them (Muslims) membership has grown somewhat," Sgt. Brandt said.

Brandt estimated the Muslims number 3,000 in Chicago. Edmund Brooks of the Chicago Commission on Human Relations, a city government agency, said he believes the membership is larger, but offered no figures.

NO TROUBLEMAKERS

The two men agreed that the Muslims are not causing any problems at this time in Chicago.

"They're going into small business enterprises," Brooks said.

Elijah Muhammad, 70 now and the leader for 35 years, is the key figure in the Muslim business-religion establishment. He lives in a 19-room mansion in a racially mixed neighborhood on the South Side. John Ali, asked about Muhammad's health, replied he is very well.

* * *

The sect has the University of Islam, a mosque and the newspaper "Muhammad Speaks."

A check through the publication and the Chicago telephone book shows businesses with names using such Muslim terms as Mosque. Shabazz, Temple or Salaam. They include two cleaners, a supermarket, a barbershop, a catering service, a television shop and two clothing stores.

John Ali declined to say if all are Muslim-owned. Others, he said, may run some of them.

"People can choose the names they want," he commented.

In the May 17 edition of "Muhammad Speaks" were large help-wanted ads by Shabazz Restaurant and the Temple No. 2 Clothing Factory.

* * *

A half-page was filled with a listing of Muhammad's mosques. They added up to 50 in 46 cities spread across the country. No. 1 is in Detroit, where the cult was founded in the early 1930s by W.D. Fard, who vanished in 1933. No. 2 is in Chicago.

Muslims are trying to acquire more property. Michigan State Police sent a letter to Chicago police in February saying they were watching the sale of farm land in Cass County in the southwestern section of the state.

BUYING LAND

They had heard rumors that Negro groups were buying land in that area. The name of Cassius Clay had been mentioned. One parcel, the letter said, had been bought by the Progressive Land Development Corp. of Chicago. Chicago police replied that files indicated the president of the corporation was Raymond Sharrieff, son-in-law of Elijah Muhammad.

A land of their own is at the top of the list of Muslim wants—a list unchanged in recent years.

The Muslims contend the white men, in compensation for 400 years of slavery, should give them a separate territory and maintain it for 20 to 25 years.

* * *

Until such segregation is achieved, they want equal job opportunities and exemption from taxes.

LIA BORGHI

Lia's Own Scene Is Food, Charlie Brown and Men

By JEANNE NELSON

So, you think high fashion models starve themselves to death. Hah!

During yesterday's brunch hour interview with Italian model, Lia Borghi of Milan, this svelt, dark-eyed, dark-haired beauty managed to wolf down a plate of bacon and eggs that would make a lumberjack blush.

And in case you're toying with the notion that living in her world of ultra sophistication, she lacks the "common touch", you've made another mistake.

She even hangs Charlie Brown cartoons in the bathroom (the only room her mother allows for such frivolity).

NEVER STILL

One thing about these Italians; they don't just talk, they sort of "experience" during a discourse. Sometimes it's a little hard to keep up with the action and what's being said, all at the same time. This became painfully apparent when I caught myself staring at the six rings on one of her hands and trying to understand some pretty loose English phrases between bites.

* * *

It seemed at times, the four languages she speaks came together in odd moments.

However, we did strike a high note in communication when the subject of American men came about.

"Where are they all? So far, it seems, the only ones in view are too old, too young, or too married," complains the 25-year-old import.

Once the subject of fashion was reached, I learned that she had come to modeling without real benefit of any formal training.

Her mother's background as a couture disigner however, did pave the way in learning the fundamentals of style. Added to this, was her own consuming interest in handsome clothes and an innate good sense of lines, detail and color.

One of the highlights for Lia, who is touring the United States representing Galerie knits, was a day spent at the "Indianapolis 500" races. She's mad about auto racing.

From Birmingham where she modeled informally at Chudiks yesterday and today, she's off to Chicago and then New York.

Future plans include a prolonged visit to do some modeling American style.

August Vows Planned by U. of M. Graduates

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sampson of Grosse Ile announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Gay, to Charles Drake Hubbard. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip M. Hubbard of Bloomfield Hills.

The betrothed couple, graduates of the University of Michigan, are planning to wed Aug. 18.

Father Demands Haircut

Family 'Tangles' With Teen Fad

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: As I write this I am practically blinded by tears. My husband told our 17-year-old son that if he didn't come home with a haircut tonight, he didn't have to come home at all. It is midnight, and Jon is not home yet.

ABBY

Why should something like the length of a boy's hair make such a big difference to a father? Jon is not a "bad" boy. All the boys he goes with have long hair.

Jon and his father have fought about this for over a year and now it has come to a showdown, because he finally pushed the boy too far and gave him an ultimatum.

* * *

If something happens to Jon I will never forgive my husband for his stubbornness.

I don't like long hair on boys, either, but at least I didn't drive my own son out of the house because of it.

Please, please put something in your column about fathers who always have to have the last word. I have given up.

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER

* * *

DEAR MOTHER: There is much more involved here than hair. In a good father-son relationship, the father never gives his 17-year-old son an "ultimatum" merely because he "outranks" him. Patience and understanding should be forthcoming from the older and wiser man.

Although I also prefer short hair on men, I realize that long hair is "in," and kids have as much right to their fads as adults.

Tell Father to emphasize the more permanent and lasting aspects of his son's character, and forget the hair for now. It will grow shorter (or disappear entirely) soon enough.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I cannot for the life of me understand what is the matter with our 24-year-old daughter. She started going with a 44-year-old man, and now she says she is going to marry him! Abby, this man is nearly old enough to be her father! He isn't rich and he isn't especially good looking, but she says she "loves" him. We are just sick about it.

* * *

Our daughter has worked and supported herself since she was 18, and she dated nice young fellows her own age, but when she met this man she lost all her good sense.

How can we get some sense through her head before it's too late?

HER MOTHER

* * *

DEAR MOTHER: Don't expect to get anything "through her head." A girl "in love" has a filter-tipped brain. If marrying this man is a mistake, she may have to learn the hard way.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Re: the married man who had a heart attack in the apartment of another woman at 2 a.m., listen to this:

Several years ago, a friend of ours (I'll call him Larry) was involved in an automobile accident with a lady companion in the wee hours of the morning. (He was supposed to have been "out with the boys.")

The lady, who was an attractive widow and a friend of his wife, was only slightly shaken up, but Larry had to be hospitalized for several weeks. During that time Larry's wife found out that there had been some hanky-panky between this widow and Larry, although they both insisted they were only "good friends."

The day Larry was to be brought home from the hospital, his wife arranged that he be taken to the widow's home!

It was midafternoon and the widow was entertaining her garden club.

* * *

Can you imagine the scene when the ambulance pulled up in front of the widow's house, and Larry was carried in on a stretcher over his vigorous protests?

The widow, of course, told them they had made a mistake, whereupon they put Larry back into the ambulance and delivered him to his own home.

The club members went home holding their sides, the widow was mortified, Larry's wife took him back, and at this writing they are living happily ever after.

Skirt Length Is Up to Individual

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York fashion designers seem to feel that the way to settle the great debate of the hemline is to ignore it. Maybe it'll go 'way.

* * *

Or, as in the case of Jacques Tiffeau, just dismiss it with the comment, "Skirt length doesn't mean a damn."

* * *

But nobody on Seventh Avenue, the heart of New York's ready to wear industry, is chattering about one skirt length.

* * *

The message is, the choice is up to you, from above the knee — the predominant day time length still — to anywhere in between, with the midis and the maxis showing throughout collections, particularly in coats and capes.

Stitch Tufts in Bare Spots

If your hobnail bedspread has some tufts missing but otherwise is in good condition, replace them by threading a small darning needle, double strand, with matching thread, pulling the needle through from the wrong side of the spread. Place a lead pencil at the point where the thread came through the cloth to the right side.

* * *

Then stitch over the pencil and back through the cloth, the required number of times, to make a tuft the same size as the others. Finish by fastening the thread on the wrong side. Remove the lead pencil and clip the loops that remain to form a tuft.

You won't have trouble with colors in cotton running if you add three tablespoons of turpentine to the water in which they are washed. Rinse thoroughly and dry immediately.

Adoption Reevaluation

One Parent's Love—Plus

The walls of resistance to the single person as an adoptive mother or father are beginning to fall.

Some people don't like it. The tradition of the two-parent family dies hard.

Many experts still eye the single adoptive parent with suspicion and trepidation. Yet it is happening.

It is happening because of the need to find homes for children with emotional, physical or racial randicaps, or the kids too big to be cute. For them, one parent is better than none.

* * *

Most of the single parents are women and probably will continue to be.

But a piano teacher, Tony Piazza, Portland, Ore., 41, has adopted two young sons, one of Italian-Spanish extraction and the other of Spanish-Mexican-Indian descent. A man in New York and one in Los Angeles are known to be adoptive fathers.

All in all there are less than 200 single parent adoptions, a miniscle few compared to the more than a million children awaiting adoption.

But adoption officials hope that as more unmarrieds learn they are now eligible to adopt children the number of unclaimed kids will dwindle.

Adoptions are not controlled by laws but are regulated by the agency policies in each community.

CHANGES

A pioneer in changing these regulations is Walter A. Heath, director of the nation's largest adoption agency, the Los Angeles County Bureau of Adoption.

Concerned by a rising illegitimacy rate and the rising number of hard-to-place youngsters, he re-examined the prospect of the unmarried as a parent.

As a result, the California adoption rules were revised in January, 1965, to allow a single person to adopt a child "when a two-parent family has not been found because of a child's special needs."

* * *

The supply of normal white infants still cannot fill the demand from childless white couples. But, ironically, those youngsters most in need of double doses of tender loving care, those with special problems, have few takers.

EXCEPTIONAL CHILD

The way blonde, 3-year-old Patti Elaine, bounces around it is not easy to notice that she is blind.

Fortunately, that fierce desire to exercise her independence is understood by her mother of just a few months, Norma Claypool, for she herself is blind. A spinster teacher of visually limited children in Pittsburgh, Pa., Miss Claypool's path crossed Patti Elaine's only because she had been asked for professional advice by some who thought the little girl must be retarded. Adopting the child, or any child, had never entered her mind.

Intrigued by Patti's response to blocks witr bells in them, Miss Claypool took her home for a few weeks to teach her some skills, experienced the joy of an intellectually awakening child, and reluctantly returned her to the institution.

Some time later she returned to visit, Patti.

"I laid my hand on her gently and said 'Hi' and she broke away from her nurse and fell into my arms," Miss Claypool recalled recently. "I said to myself, 'This is my Patti: She has chosen me for her mother. She is mine." The adoption came soon afterwards.

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN

Not surprisingly, several, of the single women approved as adoptive mothers have had special training in the social services or in dealing with children.

Louise Guenthner, 59, who adopted a 9-year-old Greek girl and her 11-year-old brother, is a director of the Washington State Adoption Resources Exchange.

Interlochen's 41st Season Opens

INTERLOCHEN—The National Music Camp, pioneer and still largest among what has mushroomed to a total of more than 300 summer camps nationally, will open its 41st season on Sunday.

Actually, hundreds of the students from third grade through university will be on the grounds practicing the day before to recall once more the old description that at Interlochen the music literally comes out of the wood(s).

The camp will be as big as ever, with more than 1,500 enrolled for the eight-week term. All-State (Michigan) students will add 900 — four groups of 225, each here for two weeks.

The Red Cross midwest aquatic school, in progress now, and post-camp activities, such as high school band pre-season practice and adult work-shops, will run the total for the summer to around 3,900. In addition, faculty and staff will number around 900.

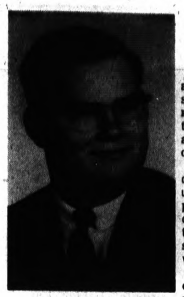

Teachers from across the country who have been here for years will be joined by others new to Interlochen, all under the direction of Dr. George C. Wilson, who has taught for 23 years.

Frank Tichy, here from Cleveland for his 24th year, will teach percussion and will have as a teammate Paula Culp of the Indianapolis Symphony, coming as the camp's first woman drum teacher.

Maynard Klein, director of choir for nearly a quarter of a century, will be absent this year, but that show will go on with Prof. Allen Lannam of Boston University on the podium.

★ ★ ★

His first big production will be Haydn's "Creation," on July 12. That program will be one of a series of major events at the end of the camp's third week. On July 11, the camp is to present an evening with Boris Goldovsky, famed opera authority and interviewer between acts of the Metropolitan Opera's performances. On July 13, pianist Van Cliburn is to play the Grieg Concerto with the World Youth Symphony.

During recent commencement exercises at Michigan Technological University, Kenneth P. Hoffman was awarded a BS degree in electrical engineering. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Hoffman of Grove Point Drive, White Lake Township.

Girls End Up More Uneven

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Two Denver girls, both 18, were angered when their landlord refused to return a $15 deposit on an apartment and decided to get even with him. The girls scribbled with white shoe polish and smeared sausage on the walls of the apartment, put wet spaghetti in the drains to clog them and soaped the apartment windows. But the landlord had the last word.

★ ★ ★

County Judge George Materbino ordered the girls to pay $278 in damages after they pleaded guilty to destruction of private property. And they did not get their $15 deposit returned.

The Satisfaction of Labeling Girl 'Bad'

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I was disgusted by your answer to the mother of that girl who married on the sly. I guess you never had a child who deceived you. Though I'm not a parent myself, my sister is and, as her daughter recently eloped, too, I know what suffering this treachery has caused her. Did this girl obey the scriptural command: "Honor thy father and thy mother"?

No, she thought only of herself, of what she wanted . . . call her a "very bad girl," don't you. O.K., I say it. She's a very bad girl. And now that we're all agreed that she merits damnation, where is her mother to go from there, eh?

Into the coldness of old age? The shawled huddle over the kitchen stove? Into senility's trembling hands and broken shoulder muscles?

You say you are not a parent yourself. But I am one and have been one for some time now. And I know much about the hurts children inflict on us. (Incidentally, you were mistaken to challenge me to the little game of scriptural quotation. I was raised on the Bible. So here's my devil's ball straight back across the net: "A man's foes shall be they of his own household.")

What do you want your sister to do — cut her throat? Kill herself because this kid has made a decision on her own instead of allowing her parents to make it for her?

Well, she's not going to do it. We parents do the best we can by our children. If our best isn't good enough for them, we are not going to kill ourselves. We are going right on living, thanks very much, despite anybody's down-pushing sympathy.

This fellow-parent of mine is too hurt to hear what you're telling her when you bemoan her child's badness. But I hear you loud and clear. You are telling her: "Every effort, every struggle you ever made in behalf of this girl was bad. Had she been mine, I'd have done much better."

You love your sister. O.K. Then I challenge you. Show her

Multivoice Talent Earns Anonymous Fame

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Disguises are routine in the world of movies and television. But voice disguises? That's Allen Swift's expertise. The name may not be familiar, but television viewers probably would recognize the voice.)

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — A few years ago a struggling young actor named Allen Swift went down to one of the networks to audition for a job as staff announcer.

He was handed four of five pieces of copy to read, and afterwards the producer came out of the control booth in hysterics. Swift, it turned out, had read each announcement in a different voice.

★ ★ ★

"That's great. Simply great," the producer told him. "But sorry, we want all our announcers to sound alike."

That may have been a temporary disappointment for Swift, but it didn't hold him back. You can't turn on a television set or radio today without hearing his voice — and likely as not it's different each time.

ALLEN SWIFT

MOST COMMERCIALS

Swift, a man who is seldom seen, does more commercials than anyone else. He has more than 400 playing at this time, and in all he's done more than 20,000.

Because of his great facility for voices and dialects, Swift is said to be the only one in the business allowed to make commercials for competing products.

★ ★ ★

Swift, 44, who with a blond moustache and a spade beard looks remarkably like Peter Ustinov, is the voice of the Jello Zodiacs, the duck for Drake's Cakes, the peanut for M&M's, the Herring Maven, and all of the voices for "Tom and Jerry," "Underdog" and other cartoons.

"From such a thing you make a living," he admits with a smile.

CAMPAIGN PLUGS

He is the announcer for the presidential campaign spots for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn. — the same function he served with Adlai Stevenson.

He was the voice of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in the motion picture "The Longest Day." And when a sports figure can't put enough sell into his endorsement, Swift steps in. He has even substituted for other announcers — using their voice.

★ ★ ★

"I can't say that I've made a special study of dialects, but I listen constantly. "He says, "I don't keep any kind of book, but it gets stored away and I can call on it when I need it."

Lighting up a cigar, Swift said he takes no special precautions to preserve his voice. "I think use strengthens it, just like exercise.

"I was doing dialects and funny voices even as a kid and my mother was always telling me to stop talking like that or I'd ruin my voice," he said. "You know, I've heard my wife telling my son the same thing. He just finished an engagement with the road show of 'Fiddler on the Roof.'"

Swift got into commercials in 1954 when he was the voice of all the puppets on the "Howdy Doody Show."

"One day an advertising agency called up NBC and asked who was the voice of a certain puppet," he said. "The network told them it was Allen Swift and they hired me for a commercial.

"Later they called again and asked who was the voice of another puppet and again the network told them it was Allen Swift. So I did another commercial and one just lead to another after that."

LIKES ANONYMITY

Swift said the anonymity is something that would have bothered him as a young man, "but today I'm grateful for it. I have two little girls and I can take them into the park and nobody knows me.

"After a Mike Douglas show I was recognized everywhere I went, it seems, and I didn't care for it at all. What happens to well-known people? They can't go out on the streets."

★ ★ ★

Swift's voices have their uses outside television. When his secretary's away, he answers in her voice. And once when an artist friend didn't get paid for a piece of work, Swift used a British accent in a bit of subterfuge to collect the commission.

The big thing in the future is a television interview show he has created called "A Date with Genius." He has taped several pilot shows in a studio he converted from an apartment.

MACHIAVELLI

"We interview great men on contemporary problems and they answer in their own words," he said. "For instance, Mark Twain speaks out on the problems of youth, and Nicolo Machiavelli talks about Vietnam and the political situation."

William Redfield is the interviewer and Swift does all the other parts with the aid of makeup and costume. "I like to play roles where nobody recognizes me," he said.

Rain Dance May Be Difference; This Year's Dry

OGALLALA, Neb. (AP) — Residents are looking a little less skeptically at Indian rain dances.

Last year youngsters from the Rose Bud Indian Reservation in South Dakota performed the dance at the Sioux tourist post here, and more than four inches of rain fell during June.

★ ★ ★

This year the dances were discontinued—and less than one-half inch has been recorded thus far this month.

Welcome Shot

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP) — The Mainstreet Cowboys, official greeting group in this Western city, voted Thursday to discontinue carrying revolvers. It has been traditional for the greeters to let go with a few blank rounds when visitors to the city have been welcomed.

It's Summer; Hottest Day Weeks Away

ANN ARBOR — On this first day of summer, more sunlight will stream toward us than on any other day of the year. But because of "seasonal lag," it may not even be a warm day.

University of Michigan astronomy Prof. Hazel Losh explains that Michigan's summer will begin officially at 4:13 Friday morning, the time of the summer solstice.

At this time the sun will reach its most northerly point and its most direct position over the northern hemisphere, 23½ degrees above the equator.

"On that day the north will receive the most heat in any 24-hour period of the year, 15 hours of daylight, but the peak of the warm season usually comes from four to six weeks later because the earth keeps receiving more heat than is lost each day," Prof. Losh explains.

LIKE A BLANKET

"The earth will be storing up more than it is losing because the atmosphere acts like a blanket, holding back some of the heat falling on the surface. Consequently, temperatures are likely to keep climbing until around the first of August, when the earth will begin to lose more heat than it is taking in.

"Fortunately, we are farthest from the sun during our summer, about three million miles farther than during the winter, so that our seasons in the north tend to be a little milder than those of the southern hemisphere.

"Also, since the earth is moving a little slower in its orbit around the sun during our summer, this season is slightly longer than our winter. This 'inequality of the seasons' is said to have been detected by Thales as early as the 6th century B.C."

Dr. Losh adds, "since we have a longer day we have a shorter night, which of course is not so good for the astronomer."

Junior Editors Quiz on STAINED GLASS

QUESTION: How were the stained glass windows in cathedrals made?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Very ancient glass objects usually have colors which came from chemical impurities in the sand and other materials used. Early glassmakers learned which chemicals resulted in which colors. For example, a tract of cobalt oxide makes a brilliant blue.

In the Christian era, men got the idea of using pieces of glass of different colors in church windows, arranged in a picture both to tell some religious story and to give a heavenly feeling of beauty when the light streamed through.

A sketch was laid out on a large board and the color areas marked. Then pieces of glass of different colors were cut and laid down.

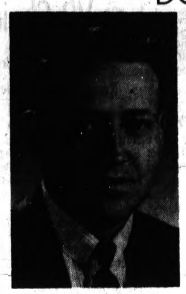

Glass was scarce and valuable, so they had to piece together what they had, which is why you see lines going across in odd places.

With the pieces all assembled, fine details such as drapery lines were painted in enamel, and these were baked on the glass. Finally, the pieces were set into lead strips. The black strips overlapped the glass on both sides and held it firmly in place.

'Truth Serum Dose Lethal'

Toxicologist Testifies at Area Doctor's Trial

Dr. Frederick Reiders, chief toxicologist for the city of Philadelphia, testified yesterday that the part-time nurse of a Farmington Township physician on trial in Ingham County for manslaughter died of a "lethal" dose of sodium pentathol or "truth serum."

Reiders was called as a prosecution witness in the trial of Dr. Ronald E. Clark, 56, of 30735 Grand River, charged in the death of Mrs. Grace Neil, 43, of Livonia, last November.

★ ★ ★

The trial is being held in Mason rather than in Oakland County on the request of Clark's attorney. He claimed the doctor would not have received an impartial trial because of local news coverage.

Police in Wayne and Oakland County are investigating the death of another woman who worked for Clark as well as the deaths of several other patients.

'LETHAL' DOSAGE

Reiders testified that there were one to two grams administered to Mrs. Neil. He described the dosage as "lethal."

He said death could have resulted because the drug was administered too rapidly.

★ ★ ★

The drug, he said, is often used as an anesthesia, but it is still classified as "dangerous" since it can have adverse effects on the vital organs.

Dr. Alexander, an anesthetist at a Detroit hospital, testified about what checks should be made before sodium pentathol is administered.

MISUSE CHARGED

He said it should not be used on persons with heart trouble, the condition for which Clark was treating Mrs. Neil.

Clark's attorney, Philip Rowston, mentioned several times during the course of the testimony that Mrs. Neil was nervous and under stress in 1967 because her son was serving in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

The prosecution said it hoped to conclude its case today.

Auto Mishaps Injure 3 Pontiac Children

Three small children were hospitalized yesterday as a result of automobile accidents, including one in which a girl was injured when her parents' car rolled over her in the driveway of her home.

Her injuries were not as serious as those sustained by two boys who were struck by cars.

★ ★ ★ ★

The boys, both admitted to Pontiac General Hospital suffered head injuries. Thomas D. Spry, 4, of 166 Chippewa is listed in fair condition, while Jonathan Howard, 3, of 60 Oakhill is reported satisfactory.

Laura Little, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Little of 204 Strathmore, is being treated for abrasions and bruises at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, where her condition is listed as satisfactory.

OUT OF GEAR

Her father told Pontiac police that she accidentally knocked the car out of gear as she was getting a sweater. When the car starged backwards, she fell out and under the car, he said.

Spry was injured when he walked into the path of a car driven by Isabell Rhimes, 45, of 207 Osmun.

★ ★ ★

The driver of the other car, John R. Krause, 21, of 410 Second, told police that he had just slowed down because of children playing in the street on Second when the Howard boy ran from behind a parked car.

Ford Endorsed as VP Choice

Supported by Unit of Reagan Republicans

The state executive committee of Republicans for Ronald Reagan, meeting last night in White Lake Township, endorsed Congressman Gerald Ford, House minority leader, for the vice presidency.

"We felt that any Republican president with Gerald Ford as vice president would be a good choice," said Raymond Yokey, vice chairman of the state group boosting Gov. Reagan of California for president.

★ ★ ★

The Michigan group claims a membership of about 600 working to get Reagan the presidential nomination. They also claim 12 of the state's 48-member delegation to the national convention back Reagan.

Yokey said that Ford of Grand Rapids, "has a tremendous amount of influence within the party."

★ ★ ★

"We feel we can work best for Ford as vice president," he said.

According to Hokey, nine of the 12-member executive committee attending the meeting at his home yesterday, approved the resolution supporting Ford.

Hand surgery has been successful recently in the treatment of some victims of arthritis.

State Gives Choices for MSU's May

LANSING (UPI) — Vice President Philip J. May of Michigan State University can either resign from his position or divest himself of interests that created a conflict of interest, a spokesman for Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley said Thursday.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon Cohan said that is the upshot of Kelley's opinion issued Tuesday that stated May's private business holdings create a conflict of interest with his public responsibility as MSU treasurer.

★ ★ ★

Cohan said May can "either divest himself of the interests which are causing the conflict or he can resign from the university."

"We do not assume he's going to defy the law," Cohan said. May has said he would not resign.

Meanwhile, Rep. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit, who asked Kelley to review May's financial affairs, said May should "do what is in the best interest of the university and remove himself from any situations which may involve a conflict."

Chief target of Kelley's opinion is a $1.1-million office building owned by May's wife and brother. International Business Machines, which does considerable business with MSU, leases 44 per cent of the space in the building just west of the campus.

★ ★ ★

Kelley suggests that May's wife should sell her interest in the building, IBM should find new quarters or May should resign as treasurer and vice president of MSU.

IBM's lease runs until 1977.

Profitable Trees

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Geochemical scientists have found that the needles and leaves of some pine and aspen trees in Clear Creek County, Colo., actually have some gold in them. Apparently tap roots of some of the trees have taken the precious metal in minute quantities from the gold-bearing rocks in the soil.

Card-Cheating Trial Hears Peephole Man

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A section with the alleged crooked man who says he operated a ceiling peephole in the exclusive Friars Club for 10 months told a federal court jury that Hollywood personalities and others lost some $400,000 through rigged card games during that time.

George Emerson Seach took the stand Thursday in the U.S. District Court trial of five men on conspiracy charges in connection with the alleged crooked games.

Between June 1962 and April 1963, Seach said Ted Briskin, a former Chicago camera manufacturer and once the husband of Betty Hutton, lost $220,000. Other big losers were comedian Phil Silvers, Zeppo Marx, shoe manufacturer Harry Karl, who is the husband of actress Debbie Reynolds, singer Tony Martin and banker Richard Corenson.

Search told a 10-man, two-woman jury Karl lost $80,000 during the period while Corenson dropped $53,000 in one night.

★ ★ ★

Search, an ex-convict and professional gambler, described himself as an electronics expert. He was named as a co-conspirator but not indicted in the case being tried before U.S. Dist. Judge William P. Gray.

Search is scheduled to return to the stand when the trial reconvenes Tuesday.

Invented Elevator Uses Boat Winch

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — When doctors told Gene Chapman to avoid climbing stairs because of a heart condition, it posed quite a problem, since Mr. and Mrs. Chapman live in an apartment above the shop of their par three golf course near here.

But Mrs. Chapman came up with the solution. She reasoned that if a boat winch could pull up a heavy boat, it could also be used for a stairway elevator.

She bought the materials and built the device herself. Chapman, riding the gadget called "Tag-a-Long," pulls a rope to start the pulley run by the winch. A battery charger in the motor keeps the battery charged.

"It was 10 to 0," exclaimed Craig.

END OF THE LINE—Two runaway diesel engine units were derailed yesterday afternoon east of Kinsley, Kan. The Santa Fe engines left Hutchinson, Kan., unmanned at 4:05 p.m. and reached speeds up to 90 m.p.h. The 98-mile journey ended when train officials ordered switches closed where the branch line joins the main track.

Maverick Engine Runs Wild in Kansas

KINSLEY, Kan. (AP) — A maverick locomotive started by a mysterious malfunction took off without its engineer and careened 98 miles through the Kansas countryside Thursday, leading a Keystone Kops chase by deputies, police and spectators.

The two-unit diesel Santa Fe locomotive, which averaged a better than mile-a-minute clip during its 84-minute ride, was purposely derailed near Kinsley to end its unscheduled excursion.

★ ★ ★

During its run highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and police raced against time as they tried to block crossings ahead of the wild runaway that sped through nine towns at speeds up to 90 miles an hour.

No one was hurt, but there were several narrow escapes. Along the route officers had to contend with crowds of sightseers who flocked to the tracks for a glimpse of the speeding maverick.

MISSES PEDESTRIAN

The engine nearly hit a pedestrian and several automobiles at street crossings.

J. R. Fitzgerald, division superintendent, promised a thorough investigation.

It all began about 4 p.m. when the locomotive, freshly serviced and with its engine idling, quietly rolled off a roundhouse spur at Hutchinson onto the branch line that sweeps along the Arkansas River.

★ ★ ★

Apparently something went wrong with the "dead man's throttle"—designed to prevent the unit from moving unless a man's hand is applying pressure on the lever. Suddenly the train started moving.

Picking up speed on its way out of Hutchinson, the engine nearly hit the pedestrian and several automobiles.

'WAVES GOODBYE'

On the western edge of town, Harold Crain, a track supervisor from division headquarters at Newton, was operating a motorized handcar as he inspected the track.

Suddenly he looked up to see the locomotive charging at him.

"I lifted one end of my car off the tracks, but I could see there wasn't time to finish it, so I just stepped back and waved it goodby," Crain said.

He said smoke was boiling off the brakes "then the brakes burned out and the engine really took off." Sparks from the scorching brakes ignited grass fires for several miles outside Hutchinson.

★ ★ ★

Station agents were alerted over the railroad's voice network and Stanley Stout, the Sterling agent, started logging the times.

CHASE ENGINE

The runaway passed Nickerson at 4:15 p.m., made the eight miles to Sterling in eight minutes, reached Great Bend at 4:47, covering 27 miles in 24 minutes. It really got rolling as it roared through Larned at 5:05.

★ ★ ★

Santa Fe workers sent a chase engine in pursuit out of Larned, but the wild one had a five-minute head start on the 26-mile run to the connection with the main line at Kinsley. They knew there wasn't time.

★ ★ ★

So the Newton dispatcher sent the order:

"Derail it at the Y east of Kinsley."

Don Cargill, Kinsley agent, relayed the order to George Stone, section foreman, who threw the switch three-fourths of a mile from town.

★ ★ ★

"The switch headed it into the siding," Cargill said. "It was going so fast it couldn't make the curve. It rolled over on its side and tore up some track and knocked down some telephone poles."

Back at Sterling, the network line went dead at 5:24 p.m., and Stout logged that as the end of the wild run.

Some Escape While Naked

NY Police Raid Nude Party

NEW YORK (UPI)—The first thing the police who came to the party noticed was that all the girls were naked. So were the men.

Police who raided the four-story brownstone on Manhattan's fashionable upper East Side said they found at least nine girls and several visiting businessmen and conventioners—all in the nude—partying in the house equipped with a swimming pool, a sauna bath, room-sized circular beds and a game room with ping pong and billiards.

★ ★ ★

Bowls of grapes and other fruits were set about, carryout the place's Roman motiff.

Four girls were arrested and charged with prostitution. A fifth woman was charged with promoting prostitution and selling liquor without a license. Three men were charged with patronizing prostitutes.

OTHERS FLEE

Police said at least five women and several men escaped the raid by diving naked through windows and racing away in the darkness.

Police said they heard about such a brothel opening in the neighborhood but could not find it. A man led them to it yesterday.

★ ★ ★

He said he had been invited to a party and when he got to the place, he was horrified by the goings-on so he left and went to the police.

The man, whose name police did not reveal, took plainclothesmen back to the house. Police said they went in the basement where naked men and women romped in and around the swimming pool.

As the raid worked its way upstairs, police said, naked men and women ran ahead. Some were arrested, others got away.

Police said the house offered for $100 all the food and drink guests could hold, the swimming and sauna facilities, a massage and the company of up to three girls for eight hours.

Yank Jailed by S. Viets After Burning Draft Card

SAIGON (AP) — Mark W. Rankin, a young American from Annapolis, Md., publicly burned his draft card in downtown Saigon today to protest "the American involvement in Vietnam."

Shortly afterward two truckloads of South Vietnamese police, wielding truncheons and loaded grease guns, broke up a small crowd of newsmen and photographers around Rankin and arrested him.

The youth accompanied them without protest. Asked why Rankin was being arrested, the police officer in charge of the squad said: "I have no need to give any explanation." A short way down the street, the police put Rankin in a jeep and drove off.

Police sources said they had received an anonymous tip that American students were planning an anti-war demonstration in front of the national assembly building.

Strike Is Ended; Broadway's Busy

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway bounced back brightly Thursday night after a three-day actors' strike with chorus lines kicking, box offices booming and intermission sales of orange drink as busy as ever.

Medics Probe Blood Cells

DUARTE, Calif. (AP) — A long-sought clue to how the body recognizes and fights invaders —with potential value in the field of cancer and organ transplants—has been found in research at the City of Hope Medical Center.

Dr. Riojun Kinosita, director emeritus of experimental pathology at the center, found the clue in working with macrophages, a type of white cell in the blood stream.

★ ★ ★

"We have learned that macrophages trap and analyze disease-causing material invading the body, then send instructions to another type of white cells, the lymphocytes, to multiply and make antibodies specifically designed to destroy the invader," Kinosita says.

"We now think it may be possible to precondition macrophages to help us in at least two ways. First, we might train them to recognize at least some types of cancer as foreign material, so that lymphocytes would make antibodies to destroy cancer cells. Second, we might also train macrophages not to react to transplanted organs such as hearts and kidneys, in other words, to inhibit the production of antibodies naturally, without the use of radiation or drugs."

TECHNICAL PAPERS

Kinosita, credited with being among the first to show that some industrial materials cause cancer in animals, reported his macrophage work in technical papers recently and then elaborated in an interview.

"Science has wondered for a long time just how our bodies can produce disease-fighting antibodies against such a wide range of foreign materials, or antigens," he said.

"Various researchers have shown that antibodies, which neutralize invading germs, are produced by lymphocytes, but we did not know how lymphocytes were instructed to turn out specific antibodies against specific antigens.

"In tests with human blood cell cultures, using sheep red cells as the antigens, we have found the antigens first were recognized by macrophages, which trapped them and apparently analyzed their chemical composition.

PROTEIN PRODUCER

"Using this information, the nucleus of the macrophage printed off copies of RNA (a molecule of ribonucleic acid), which were carried to a lymphocyte. The lymphocyte, following the RNA blueprint, could make antibodies specifically designed to neutralize the invading sheep red cells. We assume this macrophage-lymphocyte system reacts in a similar way to fight other antigens such as bacteria."

RNA is part of the living cell's process for producing proteins. It normally is the messenger which DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) makes and sends to protein factories in the body of the cell, telling them what kind of protein to make.

★ ★ ★

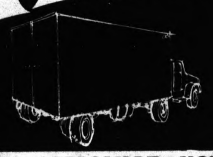

In the macrophage, RNA has a slightly different function. It directs production by lymphocytes of antibodies against those antigens which the macrophage has analyzed.

★ ★ ★

Kinosita believes that by testing macrophages against various elements in cancer cells he may be able to find some antigenic material which the macrophages will identify as foreign and thus set up antibody production to destroy the cancer cells.

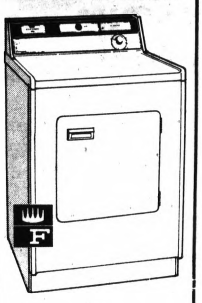

He believes it also may be possible to trick the macrophages into ignoring transplant tissues, without lowering the body's immunity to other antigens at the same time.

Camel Hums ---Baby Must Be on Way

BOSTON (AP) — The camel at the Franklin Park Zoo is pregnant again. She's standing around humming and swaying.

"That's a sure sign," says Mrs. Suzanne Pressman, director of animal health at the zoo. "As soon as she starts humming, we know."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Pressman said Thursday the first sign of pregnancy came recently when she drove past the camel's pen and heard funny noises.

"I jammed on the brakes and went back to listen again. And there she was, humming and swaying."

MISCALCULATED

She predicts that the camel will give birth in late July. The gestation period for camels is 13 months.

But Mrs. Pressman admitted she is still haunted by her miscalculations of last year, during the camel's previous pregnancy.

★ ★ ★

In early January, she said the camel was very pregnant and would have a baby any day. The baby arrived in May—five months overdue.

So this time Mrs. Pressman says birth will be somewhere in late July. "And you know what that will bring—birth somewhere around mid-January."

DULL COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Camel, both dromedaries (one-hump camels), have had three children in their eight-year marriage and are described as a pretty dull couple.

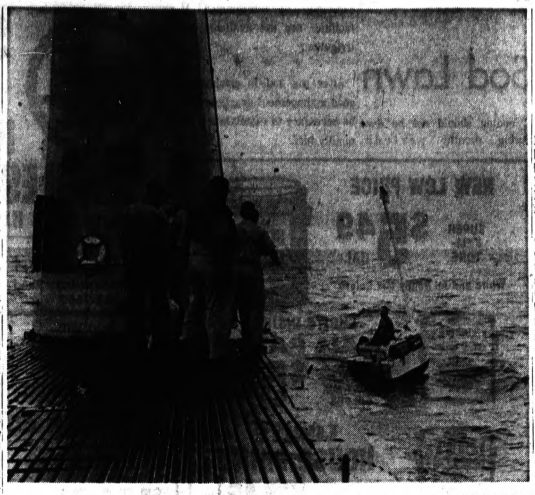

"She is blah," said Mrs. Pressman. "The only interesting thing she ever did was to eat three trees last year when she was pregnant."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Pressman said the camel's husband was noncommittal about the pregnancy.

"He's walking around with a pout," she said, "but that's really a permanent thing. He's got a droopy lower lip."

BOBBING ALONG—Ocean-crossing Hugo Vihlen, in his 5-foot-11-by-5-foot vessel April Fool, greets crew members of the somewhat larger U.S. submarine Grenadier. The sub surfaced near him Sunday, when he was 210 miles off Miami in the Atlantic. This picture, taken by a crewman, was released when the sub made port Tuesday night.

Ocean-Crosser Goes off Course

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The lonely ocean voyage of Hugo Vihlen, so close to triumphant conclusion, apparently fell prey to the swift current in the Gulf Stream Thursday night and his six-foot sailboat went bobbing north of his destination.

Vihlen planned to end his 4,700-mile solo trip across the Atlantic today in Biscayne Bay near Miami. But the Gulf Stream carried him miles north, past Fort Lauderdale.

★ ★ ★

As his family and an armada of well-wishers waited, Vihlen and his six-foot boat were reported seven miles off the Florida coast and five miles north of Fort Lauderdale—about 30 miles north of his target. Nobody was quite certain where to set up the welcome party.

"We can only make guesses as to where and when he'll land," a Coast Guard officer said. "If he's having trouble getting out of the Gulf Stream, he could go as far north as Palm Beach before making land." Palm Beach is 75 miles north of Miami.

SEA ANCHORS

The officer said he may have thrown out sea anchors and sat out the night rather than attempt a landing on an unfamiliar point on the coast.

The last sighting came as dark fell Thursday when a civilian airplane radioed that the tiny boat was sailing smoothly and that her bearded captain made no signal for assistance.

Harlen Hassert, a crewman on a yacht which located Vihlen Thursday afternoon about 30 miles southeast of Miami, said: "He told us he didn't need anything and he looked like he was in fine shape."

Youth Drowns

THREE RIVERS (AP) — Richard Hoffmeister, 15, son of Nelson Hoffmeister, vice president of the First National Bank of Three Rivers, drowned Thursday in the St. Joseph River, four miles southwest of here. The body was recovered by skin divers.

May Indicate New Policy

Rap Brown Successor Chosen by SNCC

NEWARK (AP) — Philip Hutchings, a soft spoken, young black organizer in Newark, has been chosen to succeed Rap Brown as leader of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

An informant in the Negro community here said of the change, "SNCC seems to want to get away from the cult of personality that Brown and Stokely Carmichael developed and go back to the unglamorous but necessary job of organizing grass-roots people around specific programs."

★ ★ ★

Hutchings, 26, is reliably reported to have been elected at a meeting last weekend in Atlanta, the group's headquarters.

SNCC has refused to confirm the story for "the white press," but those who have worked closely here with Hutchings for the past three years have confirmed it. Hutching himself has been unavailable for comment.

POST CHANGED

The post itself has been changed to signal the new direction of the financially hard-pressed Black Power organization.

Hutchings will be "program coordinator," not "chairman," a post which has been abolished.

Brown, who served as chairman since May 1967, reportedly did not seek reelection. He was recently sentenced to five years in prison on a federal firearms charge. The sentence is under appeal.

That Hutchings' name is unfamiliar is not surprising.

He has worked quietly in Newark on the sort of grass-roots organizing that was SNCC's primary activity before Carmichael took over two years ago.

Hutchings came to Newark three years ago following a brief stint as a NSCC field worker in Georgia and Tennessee. He had previously dropped out of Howard University where he was a classmate of Carmichael.

His initial work in Newark was with SNCC's white counterpart on the New Left, Students for a Democratic Society and its founder, Tom Hayden. Then he became the head SNCC field worker in Newark.

★ ★ ★

He has never done the fiery stumping that made Brown and Carmichael national figures.

Characteristic of Hutchings is his work this past year in Newark fighting a plan to locate the state medical college on 150 acres in the heart of the Negro section.

Hutching was instrumental in organizing the drive that got the site cut back to 58 acres, with guarantees that no Negroes would be displaced until housing was available to relocate them.

The final settlement also included significant new powers for Negroes to help determine the college's community health program and future housing policy in the city.

★ ★ ★

Hutchings appears to depart from Brown and Carmichael on the question of working with whites. Since Brown and Carmichael took over, no whites have held staff organizing positions with SNCC.

Steps to Follow

If You're Going to Sod Lawn

The use of sod in establishment of turf has become a common practice. There are many situations where sodding is to be preferred, such as on sloping areas, and places where seedlings cannot become well established because of traffic conditions, or when an immediate turf is desired.

Certain precautions are suggested in order to insure good establishment. These precautions are nearly the same as those required for establishing turf from seed.

Weedy perennial grasses in quality turf, such as quackgrass, tall fescue, or bentgrass, should be controlled previous to sodding. Amitrol-T can be used at 4 pounds per acre of 16 teaspoons per 1000 square feet. Sod can be laid in 4 to 5 weeks if the soil is thoroughly tilled.

* * *

If soil retains a great deal of water on the surface, additional drainage may be necessary.

LET SETTLE

If tile drains are to be used, the soil should be allowed to settle over the trench areas. Special care will probably be needed to pack the soil in the trenches in order to prevent subsequent settling and repairing of the settled areas.

For small turf areas, a slope (½-1 percent) away from the building should provide adequate drainage in most cases.

Preparation of the soil is a must. For a fine quality turf, poor soils should probably be altered. If adequate loam or a sandy loam topsoil is not available, sandy soils may be improved with the addition of loam or peat followed by working the soil to a depth of 5 to 6 inches.

If the soil is very high in clay, sand and peat can be mixed with the clay soil.

* * *

Soil which is to be sodded should be tilled in much the same way as in preparing for a garden or lawn seeding. Large clods should be broken up, sticks, stones and other debris should be removed, and the soil surface smoothed.

SOIL TEST FIRST

Fertilizer and lime should be applied according to soil test. A testing service is available through your county extension service office. If the ph is below 5.5 to 6.0, lime should be applied previous to establishment.

If soil tests are not available, a complete fertilizer can be applied at the rate of 15-25 pounds per thousand square feet. This fertilizer should probably be a 1-1-1- type such as 12-12-12.

* * *

On soils which have had no past fertilization record and particularly on subsoils, use of these complete fertilizers should probably be continued for one to two years, then follow with regular lawn fertilizer which is higher in nitrogen.

Fertilizer and lime should be worked into the soil to a depth of 2 to 3 inches or more. The soil should then be rolled and smoothed to the final contour.

* * *

Purchase good quality sod. The sod should be free from weeds and weedy grasses (bentgrass, quackgrass, nutgrass) and should contain those species of turf grasses recommended for the location to be sodded. Merion bluegrass sod should not be used in shady areas. Red fescue-bluegrass mixtures are more desirable under shady conditions or on droughty, sandy soils.

Blends of Kentucky bluegrass including two or three of the following, (Common, Merion, Delta, Park, Prato, Windsor, Fylking, Kenblu, Cougar and Newport) have been found to be more desirable than when single species are used alone because of a broader base for disease resitance.

Do not allow the sod to heat while piled previous to laying.

Sod should not be laid on dry soil. A soil that is moist but not saturated to a depth of 6 inches or more allows the new roots to become established rapidly. Staggering the ends of the pieces of sod will prevent lines across the turf caused by slow establishment at the edges of the sod pieces.

Make sure that the edges of the sod are in good contact with each other but not overlapping. Once the sod is laid, roll to insure sod contact with the soil.

Roots will dry out rapidly if air pockets are left between the sod and the soil. If sod is laid on a slope it may be necessary to peg the sod strips to prevent slippage.

A thorough job of watering immediately after the sod has been rolled is an essential step. As a general rule, watering will be necessary every day at noon to keep the sod moist until the roots have grown into the soil.

Once the sod is established, watering can be reduced to once a week or less, depending on when the grass wilts.

Sod can be laid during nearly any time of the year if the soil is not frozen or covered with snow. Problems may exist with late fall sodding since the grass may dry out and die due to desiccation, during the winter especially, if the roots do not have an opportunity to establish before the ground freezes.

During other parts of the season sod can be laid any time the soil is dry enough to allow soil preparation.

Sodding should not be done during drouthy periods, especially in midsummer, if facilities are not available for irrigation.

* * *

After the sod is established good management practices will be necessary to maintain a high quality turf.

Carefree Geraniums for Summer Bloom

There's something excitingly new for 1968 gardens — Carefree geraniums!

All of the magic virtues of seed-grown hybrids will be found in this delightful new strain of one of Amirica's most popular flowers. It took years of intensive plant breeding by experts of the Pan-American Seed Company to develop them, but it was worth the effort.

Carefree geraniums, available in eight scintillating colors, seem certain to win favor among home gardeners because they have so much more to offer, whether used in beds, borders, or planters. Three of the varieties have won All-America Selection awards for 1968.

How are the seed-grown Carefree hybrids better? To begin with, they have extra vigor—vigor that continues to promote sturdy growth unimpaired by diseases that frequently trouble plants that are propagated from cuttings. The Carefrees actually gain stature and more bloom when other geraniums begin to lag.

Of course, being F1 Hybrids also means that all come true to color, have an abundance of showy blooms, and fill out neatly as they reach their ultimate height of about 18 inches.

Moreover, the unusual genetic background of the Carefrees has induced in them a strong, base-branching habit which keeps them compact and shapely without the necessity of having to pinch them back.

Seed-started plants are more economically grown, too, than those from cuttings so they should be somewhat less expensive to the gardener—a windfall for those who use geraniums generously on their premises.

The Carefree varieties include Scarlet, Deep Salmon, and Bright Pink, the 1968 All-America Selections, plus White, Picotee, Light Pink, Red, and Light Salmon. You'll like them all.

Plants will be available from garden centers and bedding plant growers.

Edge Chemically With Arsenicals

A reader asked for more information about the organic arsenicals used to edge landscaping chemically.

Simply, Dr. Robert W. Schery of the Lawn Institute explained, an organic arsenical is the salt of an arsenic acid and an alcohol. (But this does not cover all possibilities.)

* * *

Familiar organic arsenicals are the crab grass killers given such code names as DSMS and AMA. The original of these was disodium methyl arsonate (DSMA). These are selective, killing crabgrass and other annual grasses when sprayed on the foliage, while not injuring Kentucky bluegrass and other fine grasses.

They contrast with such inorganic arsenicals as lead arsenate and calcium arsenate, sometimes used as crabgrass preventers through their action in the soil, and with sodium arsenate.

Give Your Phlox a Haircut Now

Best time to trim shaggy creeping phlox is just after they bloom.

If you plant the clippings in good soil, covering them halfway up the stem and keep watered, they should root for you.

Rescuers Risk Death to Save Yank Pilots

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A doomed Marine pilot, crumpled below his parachute deep in enemy territory, became unwitting bait for a huge Vietcong ambush against helicopters.

Enemy troops pointedly ignored the flier, who lay with a broken leg and arm, trying to call in Air Force rescue helicopters. The Vietcong were digging in all around the pilot, just out of sight and earshot, waiting.

* * *

When the camouflaged choppers arrived with their fighter-bombers escorts, they suspected a trap at once. They had seen many before. But traps are part of the business and pilots of the Jolly Green Giant rescue ships never questioned their next move — try and get their man out.

In the past year, the 37th Aerospace Recovery and Rescue Squadron has rescued more than 250 men from North and South Vietnam. The cost, three helicopters and eight killed of the 21 crews assigned to the squadron. Many of the saves were called miracles by the men who were picked up and those who did the job.

NO MIRACLE

This time there was no miracle along the ridge line overlooking the A Shau Valley hard on the Laotian frontier. Unless it could be said, as some did later, that it was a wonder things weren't worse.

After fighter-bombers hit the area, the first camouflaged helicopter dipped its nose and sliced in for a rescue attempt. Withering groundfire greeted the chopper as it neared the Leatherneck pilot, and the craft shuddered under the impact of the bullets.

* * *

The pilot pulled up and fighter-bombers went back to work.

A second chopper slowed above the downed man but heavy fire raked the twin-engine craft. One of the spotter plane pilots called in, "Your left side is on fire, Jolly Green. Get outta there."

CHOPPER FALLS

The pilot tried, pulling his stricken craft up and away from the trap and limping to the east. The fire diminished, but the bird's rotors began turning more and more slowly and the chopper fell. When it hit the ground, a huge fireball consumed the fragile craft. The four men aboard presumably were killed instantly.

Back at the Da Nang base the radioed news of the disaster first brought shock and then a mass of volunteers and the mass of volunteers to go after their friends and the Marine jet pilot.

* * *

Capt. Jerry Griggs, Kannapolis, N.C., and his crew were next at the scene. He said: "After the Skyraiders worked over the area, we went in. When we started to hover almost a glorious day. Other Jolly Greens from Da Nang had rescued five pilots. The sixth would have made a record for one day.

* * *

Next day aerial spotters found the Marine pilot and his chute gone. He is listed as missing and presumed dead.

LT. Col. Kenneth D. Caughton, the Jolly Green squadron commander, said: "It's been apparent for some time that the enemy is not capturing downed pilots immediately. He knows we will launch a rescue operation that will give him a chance to shoot down more of our planes and get more of our people. It's a thing we're up against — everyone of us knows it. But we'll try everytime. That's our job."

Griggs' ship also caught fire but the copilot, Capt. Harry Hagen Jr., of Seattle, wash., reported later: "Somehow we got away."

NOT HOME FREE

Away from the ridgeline trap, but far from home free.

The severely damaged helicopter tried to land some distance away "and the whole place blew up in our face. There were so many streams of tracers that it looked like 1,000 red pencils drawing lines in front of us," Hagen said.

* * *

With luck, a great deal of luck, this crew limped into the Marine base at Khe Sanh.

By now the Marine on the ground had stopped his radio transmission. With the odds against them, the rescue men might have assumed he was dead.

ANOTHER TRY

Maj. Harvie L. Stringer, Cookeville, Tenn., who escorted Griggs to Khe Sanh, returned and "figured most of the big guns were silenced and that it was worth another try."

Two skyraiders preceded Stringer's craft, two were on each side and two followed him into the pickup zone. Despite all the bombing and strafing runs, no one was too surprised when Sgt. Robert Baldwin, 26, Burkburnett, Tex., the flight engineer, shouted: "Pull up! pull up! They're shooting."

* * *

Baldwin and Sgt. Steve Northern, 21, Riverside, Calif., began pouring machine-gun fire into the Vietcong positions, killing some of the enemy and forcing the rest to keep their heads down.

Northern, the pararescue medic, was at the helicopter's door waiting to go down via a cable hoist to pick up the downed pilot. The "the whole hill opened up on us," he recalls.

'CHARLIE ALL OVER'

One of the covering fighter bombers radioed, "Get away from the ridge, Jolly. Get away from the ridge. Charlie is all over the place."

Ominously the center of the fire was only 20 yards from the downed pilot.

* * *

Maj. Stringer reported that the downed Marine was crumpled up and not moving, but it was decided to try one last time.

The results were about the same. Heavy fire, the rescue chopper hit several times before being forced to abandon the effort.

HEAVY TOLL

The total cost of the operation was four Jolly Green men presumed killed, one chopper destroyed, one heavily damaged and two moderately damaged.

It was a bad day — but it was

A VITAL ROLE — In addition to rescue missions, helicopters are used extensively to ferry troops and supplies in South Vietnam. Here a Marine chopper lifts off a landing zone near Khe Sanh with a load of ammunition for a combat unit.

Things never really came easy for Bruce McLenna in his bid for football stardom.

Bruce had a tremendous high school career at Fenton and our first association with McLenna's name came during the AP All-State voting. Despite all of the raves and statistics, he missed the first team by a single vote.

As a 6-3 and 228 pound junior at Hillsdale College, McLenna took Little All-America honors in 1964 and he finished his career with the Dales with reams of records and statistics and was a 9th choice of the Detroit Lions in the draft.

When rookie camp opened at Cranbrook early in July of 1966, McLenna made an early impressive showing before the veterans arrived and his presence subsequently helped coach Harry Gilmer to make his decision on getting rid of Nick Pietrosante by the stunning outright release.

McLenna was fighting for a job and when Nick left he became the backup man for Tom Nowatzke at fullback. At least that is what he was hoping for.

It was easy to strike up a conversation with McLenna. When we met for the first time at Cranbrook, Bruce was as talkative as a parrot.

He talked about all the top prep teams and the state colleges, and about pro football, but little about himself and his chances.

HAPPY FOR CHANCE

"I'm just happy to be in camp and I hope I'm still around when the season ends," he commented at our first meeting.

★ ★ ★

His roommate, also a rookie, and no stranger to area football fans, was Karl Sweetan.

The first big break for Sweetan came in the San Francisco game on the coast that year and in one of his rare appearances, McLenna helped his roommate with a key touchdown by throwing a vicious block on a passing play.

Lions' fans all remember that loss on the last play to the 49ers in Sweetan's spectacular debut, and McLenna especially felt bad for his roomie.

"Did you see Bruce rattle that guy's teeth with that block," Sweetan said afterward, "he really helped me on that pass play."

During the season, usually on Monday when the team was off, McLenna, an avid hunter, along with several other teammates often stopped at this writer's home for some hot coffee after treking through nearby fields for pheasant.

On one rainy hunting day, McLenna left a half dozen of the Lions in the field and came to the house, drenched from head to toe.

TALKS OF FUTURE

For hours he sat talking about the hopes for his career in pro football. It seemed then that he was aware of things always going wrong for him just at the time he might start a move upward.

"I'd probably start my first game and break my leg on the first play with my luck," he said.

He was close to right, because a little later in the season he started coming off the bench more frequently and had a great game going for himself against the Bears when he suffered a leg injury and had to undergo surgery.

Bruce came back for a visit with the cast on his leg and drowned his blues by munching away a quart of home-made dill pickles.

"I hope I'm picked in the expansion draft," he said. "I might get a better chance to play."

★ ★ ★

As it turned out he was traded to the New Orleans Saints, but again had an injury. When he recovered he was released and found himself on the Baltimore taxi squad still hoping for a break.

"I'll probably end up playing for Pontiac like Sweetan did," he said dejectedly one day, "but I hear they feed good in Pontiac and besides I'll be closer to those home made pickles at your place," he laughed.

Recently it appeared that Bruce might be back and on his way up when he was picked up by the Kansas City Chiefs of the AFL.

A KC trade enabled him to move into the No. 2 position at fullback on the pre-camp roster.

LAST SETBACK

But, with training camp just a few weeks away, the sturdy built gridder from Fenton will never get his chance to bid for that regular running job he wanted so badly in pro football.

The news of his fatal accident on a Missouri road while driving a military vehicle this week was shocking to say the least. He was an All-American all the way despite the many setbacks he had to take.

Mickey Stanley Clouts 3 Hits, Bats in 4 Runs

DETROIT (AP) — When Denny McLain's nose twitches, it's better than money in the bank but a three-run homer, by Mickey Stanley didn't hurt the condition.

The Detroit right-hander fired a three-hitter at the Boston Red Sox Thursday night for a 5-1 Tigers' victory.

The triumph was McLain's 12th against two losses this year.

The victory increased Detroit's American League lead to 8½ games.

"If I'm in the middle of the game when my nose itches, I know I've won," said McLain.

Manager Mayo Smith, who is more practical, put it this way.

"He said in Florida that he had a lot of things to prove to people this year."

McLain added: "I had a few things outside of baseball. I wasn't devoting 100 per cent to the game."

NO-HIT SPOILER

McLain proved it for 6⅔ innings of no-hit baseball. George Scott spoiled the no-hitter with a single over shortstop Ray Oyler's head in the seventh.

"That ball to Oyler slid out on him," said McLain. "If a ball's catchable, he'll get it. He gets the greatest jump on a ball I've ever seen."

Nevertheless, Oyler, one of the best fielding shortstops in the majors, blamed himself for missing Scott's liner.

★ ★ ★

"It tipped my glove," he said. "I'm glad they got another hit right afterwards."

McLain had two out in the seventh when he walked Rico Petrocelli. Scott's hit followed, sending the Boston shortstop to third, and Elston Howard came through with a clean single to center, scoring the only Boston run.

Manager Mayo Smith walked to the mound to settle down McLain.

PITCHING WELL

"I told him the no-hit thing was over," said Smith. "I said he was pitching a good game and there was no point in messing it up."

Detroit's victory, combined with a Cleveland loss, moved the Tigers to 8½ games ahead of the second place Indians. The Tigers move into Cleveland for a four-game series tonight. Mickey Lolich will pitch for Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Stanley drove in four of the five Detroit runs with a homer and a double. Stanley slammed his three-run homer, his fifth, off Gary Waslewski in the fifth and doubled home another run in the seventh.

Detroit scored its first run off loser Dick Ellsworth, 5-5, in the third on a walk, McLain's sacrifice and a single by Dick McAuliffe.

Wagner Causes Quick Regrets for Ex-Mates

CHICAGO (AP) — Leon Wagner, traded away by Cleveland only last week, turned on his former teammates with a two-run homer that triggered a six-run uprising in the eighth in pulling the Chicago White Sox to an 8-4 victory over the Indians Thursday night.

The outburst, lifting the White Sox from a 3-2 deficit, gave unbeaten Tommy John his sixth victory.

★ ★ ★

John gave up four hits and three runs in the first inning, but didn't allow another safety until the ninth, when Jose Cardenal singled, then came in on Tony Horton's double with none out. Reliever Wilbur Wood finished the game.

Wagner's homer, his first of the season, was followed by a run-scoring single by Tommy Davis, an RBI double by Ken Berry and a two-run double by John.

In Pine Lake Tourney

Past Title Pairs Advance

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Only once in the 19-year history of the Pine Lake Invitational has the same team repeated for the title, but there are two ex-championship teams in strong contention as the 1968 edition goes into today's second round.

Defending champions, Jim Gibbons and Dick LeBeau, Detroit Lions' grid stars, started strong but had to rally yesterday before defeating Art Emery and Art Tidrow, 1-up, on the 19th hole.

Another ex-championship pair, Wally Park and George Prieskorn, winners in 1964, scored a 1-up triumph over Howard Young and Buddy Badger.

This set up the match today in the lower bracket of the championship flight between the former two winning teams.

Gibbons and LeBeau were four up after four holes, but Emery and Tidrow then settled down and pecked away at the lead until they took the lead after 16 holes. On the 17th, Gibbons-LeBeau birdied to even the match, and on the first extra hole, Gibbons dropped a 20 footer for the winning birdie putt.

★ ★ ★

In the upper bracket, Chuck Byrne, recent invitational champion at Red Run, teamed with Dave Felt of Pine Lake to score a close 1-up triumph over B. A. Wright and Bob Steffen with a birdie on the 18th.

There was never more than a one hole margin for either side in the match.

Last year's runnersup, Wally Wheeler and Jeff Welsh also easy 4-3 winners in the upper bracket, while the brother combination of Jim and Jerry Krause were 1-up losers.

The second flight had four long matches, three going to the 19th hole and another going 21 holes before L. Raden-T. Mitchell defeated Dr. S. Scott and Dr. T. Russell by one-putting their last seven holes.

★ ★ ★

The only duo ever to win the crown twice was the twosome of Tom Draper and Perry Byard, champs in 1955 and 1962.

Gibbons and LeBeau could be the first pair to win the title in succession, should they get by Park and Prieskorn, the team they defeated in the first round last year.

The semifinals and finals will be played over 36 holes Saturday in all flights.

Torrid 100-Meter Dash Led by Greene, Hines

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Charlie Greene says he and Jim Hines figure they are about the best around when it comes to running 100 meters.

There are perhaps half a dozen sprinters at the Amateur Athletic Union's Track and Field Championships who are pretty good themselves, but hardly have a case to argue with Greene.

All during the finals of the dash Thursday, the times were phenomenal—Hines won his heat in a wind-aided 9.8, two-tenths under the listed world mark—so much so that when they measure the track to reconfirm the distance, some skeptics expect it to come up a couple of meters short.

In their respective semifinal heats, both Greene and Hines turned in world record clockings of 9.9 and then Greene went out and nipped Hines in the final, a race that had the first six finishers timed in 10.0.

"We're running, baby," said Greene, "I can tell you. Hines is good and I got him today. Next Saturday (at the Olympic trials in Los Angeles) I might not get him."

WEARING GLASSES

Greene, who held a piece of the old 100-meter mark, wore his customary sunglasses, though the sun had long since left Sacramento's Hughes Stadium, where 12,000 persons watched the meet which winds up today.

"We feel we are the best in our event," said Greene. "Other guys might be close, but not as close as it might look to people watching. We feel, in a race it's him and me."

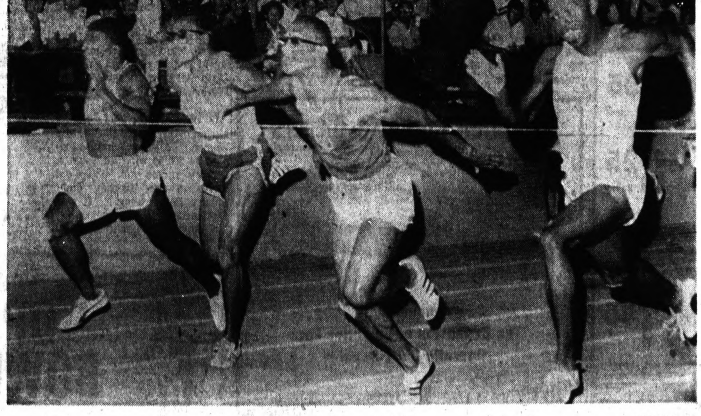

Ronnie Ray Smith, a sophomore at San Jose State, also ran a legitimate 9.9 in taking second to Hines in the semifinal heat.

A meet spokesman said later that Smith also would get credit for a world record but his performance was dulled when he finished fifth in the finals.

Behind Greene and Hines in the finals were Lennox Miller of the University of Southern California, Roger Bambruck of France, Smith and Mel Pender of the U.S. Army. All ran 10.0.

Meet records were set Thursday by Randy Matson, who defended his shot put title with a heave of 67-5; Bob Beamon, who came within three-quarters of an inch of the world long jump mark at 27-4, and Bob Day, who won the 5,000 meters in 13:50.4.

Other championships went to Dick Railsback with a 17¼ pole vault, Earl McCullouch with a 13.5 in 110-meter high hurdles and Ed Burke with a 217-0 hammer throw.

Others in the close race are Mel Pender (left) of the U.S. Army and Ronnie Ray Smith. During the semifinal trials, Hines, Smith and Greene all bettered the existing world record of 10 seconds by going 9.9. There was no record in the final heat because of wind conditions.

Firebirds Gather

Chalk Talk Slated

Chalk talk in football is scheduled Sunday afternoon for the coaching staff of the Pontiac Firebirds and some 60 candidates for the 1968 squad.

The Firebirds, under head coach Tom Tracy, will begin workouts on the Wisner Stadium practice field, Sunday June 30.

★ ★ ★

Former All-America and All-Pro star Doak Walker, currently living in the area as a business representative, will be one of Tracy's assistants this year and is expected to attend the "chalk" meeting Sunday at the VFW Post No. 1370 on S. Saginaw street.

Walter Kowalczyk and Tom Kennedy are the returning assistants.

Since the franchise of the Mt. Clemens Arrows has been sold, many of the players who were in Pontiac with the Arrows several years ago, will be among the candidates for the Firebirds this year.

The F-Birds finished second in the Midwest Football League behind Mt. Clemens last year, finishing with a 10-2 mark after losing two of their first three.

First exhibition game is scheduled July 20 at Wisner against the Flint Wildcats.

★ ★ ★

The following Saturday night, Pontiac will meet the new Hamtramck Chargers in the Crittenton Hospital charity game sponsored by the Rotary Club of Rochester.

The regular season opens Saturday night, Aug. 3, in Hamtramck and the Firebirds have seven home games listed at Wisner under a season ticket plan.

★ ★ ★

The feature of the early part of the season will be Wednesday, Aug. 7, when the Firebirds compete in the MFL All-Star game scheduled as an experiment on the new astro-turf stadium in Flint.

Service Set Saturday for Bruce McLenna

Service for former Detroit Lion football player Bruce McLenna will be 1 p.m. Saturday in the Fenton Methodist church.

Burial will be in Crestwood Memorial cemetery. The body is at Graham Funeral Home in Fenton.

McLenna, 26, a former Fenton High and Hillsdale College football star, was killed Tuesday in a highway accident while on duty with the National Guard in Missouri.

He was a member of the Kansas City team in the American Football League. An autopsy listed the cause of death as a fractured neck.

Keen Field for City Best-Ball Event

The classiest field in the history of the event will be on hand tomorrow to try and take the Pontiac Best-Ball Championship from Gary Beckman and Larry Backlund.

Play will open at 9 a.m. at the Pontiac Municipal Course in the 18-hole tournament which has attracted more than 100 teams.

Backlund and Beckman had a little luck in taking the crown last year with a five-under-par 64 over the 5,689-yard, par-69 layout.

Also checking with a 64 was the twosome of Ed Wasik Sr. and Jr., but they weren't around for a playoff so the title went to Beckman and Backlund without a playoff.

* * *

Course manager L. C. Barner has stressed that a playoff will result immediately if there is a tie for the championship.

Backlund and Beckman are in a foursome slated to tee off at 12:30.

First off the tee tomorrow at 9 will be the teams of Harold Wood-Jim Stephens and Joe Burgdorf-Al James.

LIKELY CHALLENGERS

There are a number of talented teams in the field ready to challenge Backlund and Beckman.

* * *

One of the pre-tournament favorites would be former city champion Paul Bada and Bob Runyon. And they'll be playing with another twosome that should figure in the title picture — Neil Mansfield and Lloyd Syron.

Still another is defending city medal champion Tom Ballier and his son, Gary.

'Playpen' Has Bengals Ahead

DETROIT (AP) — Manager Mayo Smith's moppet bullpen has carried the Detroit Tigers to the top of the American League heap to the delight of pennant starved fans who haven't seen the Bengals in a World Series in 23 years.

The likes of Pat Dobson, John Hiller, Fred Lasher and Jon Warden have turned in 16 victories and 10 saves to account for 26 of Detroit's 43 triumphs this year.

Their average age—23 years—has set pundits to calling the Detroit bullpen "the playpen." But the crying comes from opposing batters and managers.

Smith, in his second season with Detroit, made a clean sweep of his pitching staff this year, salvaging only starters Earl Wilson, Denny McLain, Joe Sparma and Mickey Lolich from the staff which started the 1967 campaign.

Mixed with the acumen of pitching coach John Sain, who plays positive thinking records to his fledgling pitching corps, the Tigers have surged to an 8½ game lead.

THREE COUNTIES

"The biggest reason is the bullpen," says Smith, whose native Missouri twang can make a five-word sentence stretch into three counties. "Those kids don't scare out there.

The ability to stay close in the late innings, primarily because of a bullpen inspired 2.60 team earned run average, has allowed the Tigers to be in almost every game this year.

* * *

Despite an anemic .229 team batting average, the offense more often than not leaps on opposition miscues to pull out victories.

Detroit has won 20 games in which it has been tied or behind in the seventh inning, and 18 one-run games, including 14 in its last turn at bat.

"When you're in every game, there's a tendency to try harder to win," says second baseman Dick McAuliffe, who leads the league in runs scored with 36 and is second in triples with seven. "You know there is always a chance to pull it out."

KEY INJURIES

Detroit, submerged in injuries to key men like Al Kaline and Willie Horton when it wound up second by one game on the last day of the season last year, has been playing over them this year.

Kaline and Ed Mathews are on the disabled list, and 22-game winner Earl Wilson was lost for 20 days with a severe heel bruise.

Horton, who missed 43 games last year and fell to 67 runs batted in and 19 homers, underwent surgery last October for an Achilles tendon injury. He continues to play, although painfully slow afield.

* * *

But his bat has been going at a .289 clip with 18 homers and 39 RBI, including a 14-game hitting streak in May.

Detroit ripped off nine straight wins in the first two weeks of the season and three times has won five in a row.

Detroit has led by as many as nine games over challengers Baltimore, Cleveland and Minnesota.

"My big concern is not what kind of lead we've got, but to play each day as if we had no lead at all," says Smith. "When you start thinking about leads, you're in trouble."

Ladies' Champ From Lansing

SPRING LAKE (AP) — Mrs. Robert Mahoney, mother of three teenage sons from Lansing, Thursday won her first Spring Lake Women's Open Golf championship by defeating Mrs. Lynne Wilson of Kalamazoo, two and one.

The end came on the 17th hole at the Spring Lake golf course, which Mrs. Wilson needed to stay in the running. Mrs. Mahoney sank a 12-foot putt to halve the hole with each player finishing in three strokes.

* * *

Mrs. Mahoney was one up at the turn, following a series of bad putts by Mrs. Wilson, a 22-year-old physical education major who graduated from Western Michigan University this spring.

U.S. Curtis Girls Await Next Event

PARIS (AP) — America's golfing girls, victorious in the Curtis Cup matches but vanquished in Continental Cup play, now are ready to go after individual glory—the British Amateur.

The U.S. team, who came back to beat Britain for the Curtis Cup last week, failed to duplicate the feat Thursday and lost the Continental Cup to a European team 10½-7½.

* * *

The team split the morning foursomes with one victory each and one tie on the second and final day, then the Europeans won the first three singles in the afternoon for the victory.

Catherine Lacose was the European star, winning both her singles matches and one of the two foursomes in which she played. The French girl is to leave Monday for the United States where she will defend her U.S. Women's Open title.

The U.S. girls will return to England Friday to prepare for the British Amateur.

The U.S. squad was comprised of Shelley Hamlin of Fresno, Calif.; Mrs. Ann Welts, Mount Vernon, Wash.; Roberta Albers, Temple Tece, Fla.; Phyllis Preuss, Pompano Beach, Fla.; Peggy Conley, Spokane, Wash.; Jean Ashley, Chanute, Kan., and Mary Lou Dill, Deer Park, Tex.

Emerson Dumped

Amateurs Defeat 4 Net Pros

LONDON (AP) — Two professional scalps in a week makes nice going for any amateur in these days of open tennis.

Two amateurs—Clark Graebner of New York City and Tom Okker of The Netherlands—have that score to date in the London Grass Courts Championship at Queen's Club, the last event before next week's Wimbledon.

* * *

Graebner knocked out Roy Emerson of Australia 11-9 6-3 Thursday to reach the semifinals. Earlier in the week he had vanquished another Australian pro, Fred Stolle.

Okker's two professional victims were Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia and the 1959 Wimbledom champion, Peruvian-born Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles.

One more prized scalp is left for hunting. That's Australian pro Rod Laver, top seed for this tournament and for Wimbledon.

He faced Okker in the semifinals today while Graebner had to play Alexander Metreveli of Russia. The final is scheduled for Saturday.

After his victory over Emerson, Graebner, the U.S. Davis Cup star, said, "My service was going quite well."

* * *

That was an understatement. Apart from one game in the second set when Graebner's service went awry, Emerson never once looked like breaking him.

The matches were played indoor on wooden courts because of rain. Officials hoped to return to grass courts today if the weather improved.

The day's most gallant loser was Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico, who dueled with Laver in a marathon set that went 40 games and lasted two hours. Laver finally won 21-19, 6-2.

12 STARTED

The pros still looked cheerful, even though 12 of them started out in the men's singles and Laver is the only one left.

The officials of Queen's club said open tennis had sent attendances up by an average of 300 per day compared with last year. Traditionally it is a tournament of upsets, in which players think more of getting grass courts practice for Wimbledon than of winning titles.

Today's semifinals in the women's singles paired Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., against Winnie Shaw of Britain, and Mrs. Margaret Court of Australia against the sole surviving professional, Britain's Mrs. Ann Jones.

Five Classes of Competition

Dinghy Lead to San Diego

BRANFORD, Conn. (AP) — San Diego, Calif. State College sailed into the lead by 15 points Thursday in the second day of dinghy competition for the Henry A. Morss Trophy.

At the end of six races, the San Diego crews had 156 points to Yale University's 141. Yale led the Californians Wednesday 93-85.

Tulane University ended the day in third place with 119 points, followed by the university of Michigan 114 and Southern California 115.

Memphis State Runner 'Saint'

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The New Orleans Saints have signed running back Herbert Covington of Memphis State to a contract, General Manager Vic Schwenk said Wednesday.

Covington, who played cornerback on defense, was the Saints' 14th round draft choice.

Tourney Ending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Olsee of Grand Rapids was in 15th place going into today's final round in the National Lefthanded Golfers Championships.

Olsee had a 21-over-par 237 for 54 holes on the par-72 Washingtonian Country Club course. Bill Whitaker, of Bangor, Maine, led the field with a 221.

NCAA Lead at Midpoint to Oklahoman

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — "The only good lead is the lead after 72 holes," said Oklahoma State's Grier Jones, as if giving himself an incentive in the NCAA Golf Championships that he is dominating.

He referred to his two-stroke lead after 36 holes entering today's third round on the 71st NCAA tournament and the one-stroke margin Arizona State held over his own Cowboys in the team race.

* * *

Arizona State Coach Bill Mann put a little of his own encouragement to work Thursday.

Sun Devil golfer Mike Morley was having trouble getting started on his first nine holes with a three-over-par 39.

"I looked through my field glasses and saw how he was playing," said Mann, "and I went out on the course and gave him a little encouragement."

* * *

Morley then spun off five birdies in the next nine holes and finished with a 69, with his nine-hole score of 30 breaking a New Mexico State University course record.

TEEING OFF

By FLETCHER SPEARS

A couple of golfing dads had to take a back seat to their offspring earlier this week in a national qualifying event.

The two dads haven't slipped. It's just that the youngsters are maturing.

Roy Iceberg Sr. of Southfield and Tom Balliet of Pontiac, both of whom have qualified for the U.S.G.A. Public Links in years past, missed it this time in the round at Burroughs Farms near Brighton on Monday, but both will have a family representative in the national tournament.

While Iceberg Sr., 46, was shooting a 159, young Roy, 19, was fashioning a 143. The elder Balliet, 43, defending Pontiac City Champion, checked in at 156, while Gary, 18, earned his trip to Texas in July with a 145.

★ ★ ★

The younger Iceberg, a member of the Ferris College team this past season, will be heading for Detroit Business College this fall. Balliet, who graduated this spring from Avondale High, is hopeful of pursuing his golfing career at college and he has an eye on Houston, the mecca of college golf.

SIMILAR SITUATION

Those two dads taking a back seat is similar to some of the big names on the pro circuit who nowadays are watching the younger swingers get ahead of them in the pay line.

★ ★ ★

Fellows like Lee Trevino, Bert Yancey, Tom Weiskopf, George Archer and a host of others will likely make the persent generation of golf fans forget about Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, who has a lot of tournament miles behind him although he's only 28 years old.

This year's Pontiac Best-Ball tournament will be the biggest ever. More than 80 teams have signed to play and they'll tee off in the 18-hole event Saturday.

Archer, the 6-6 ex-cowboy from California, hit a ball in the recent Houston Champions tourney, and after holing out, he gave the ball to the fan it struck — Martin Malin of Houston.

The next day, Malin holed out, too. Using Archer's ball, he scored a hole-in-one on a 157-yard hole at a Houston course.

Southern Cal Risking Hope for Net Title

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Southern California, with the two top seeded players in today's singles semifinals and the No. 1 duo in the doubles quarter-finals, sought to strengthen its bid for the NCAA Tennis Championship.

Bob Lutz, defending champion in singles but seeded second behind teammate Stan Smith, faced Pat Cramer of Miami, Fla., while another Miami player, Jaime Fillol, opposed Smith.

★ ★ ★

It could turn into a long day for the Southern Cal. pair. They meet Chuck Darley and Corky Meinhardt of California in the doubles quarter-finals. If they win, they will have a semifinal match two hours later.

The Trojans have 25 team points, three more than Rice which had two doubles teams in the quarter-finals. Miami was third with 20 points and UCLA had 19.

Lippy Leo as Silent as Chicago Cubs' Bats

By The Associated Press

Lippy Leo Durocher is almost as silent these days as the bats his Chicago Cubs are using. Bullet Bob Gibson is letting his strong right arm do the talking.

It was just like old times for Durocher as Gibson and the St. Louis Cardinals blanked Chicago 1-0 Thursday—but they are times the cub manager would rather forget.

★ ★ ★

For the Cubs, it was their fourth straight shutout defeat, tying a major league record. And their string of 46 consecutive scoreless innings broke the National League mark of 45 set by Cincinnati in 1931 and is two short of the major league record of 48 by the 1906 Philadelphia Athletics.

For Gibson, it was his fourth shutout in a row and ran his scoreless streak to 38 innings. Don Drysdale of Los Angeles recently set all-time records of six straight shutouts and 58 2-3 scoreless innings.

OTHER GAMES

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta tripped Cincinnati 3-1, Philadelphia edged San Francisco 2-1, Pittsburgh trounced Los Angeles 7-3 in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader but lost the nightcap 3-2 in 10 innings, and the New York Mets turned back Houston 5-3.

When the 1931 Cincinnati Reds went 45 innings without a run they had a good-field, no-hit shortstop named—you guessed it—Leo Durocher, who batted all of .227 that season. The Lip returned to the scene of the crime Thursday night as the Cubs flew to Cincinnati for a weekend series.

★ ★ ★

Reached at his hotel by a newsman who began to say something about scoreless innings, Durocher muttered, "I have no comment," and hung up the phone.

Lou Brock gave Gibson the only run he needed when he tripled with two out in the fourth off Ferguson Jenkins, 6-8, and scored on a single by Curt Flood for the Cards' 19th win in 23 games.

Milt Pappas, traded from the Reds to the Braves two weeks ago, pitched 5 2-3 innings in picking up his first victory for Atlanta, and his former Cincinnati teammates were the victims. Pappas allowed seven hits before leaving the game with a pulled side muscle.

The right-hander also contributed a key bunt single and scored the final run as the Braves broke a tie with two runs in the fifth.

WILD PITCH

A wild pitch by San Francisco's Ray Sadecki helped Philadelphia to a pair of first-inning runs and Rick Wise made them stand up by pitching a six-hitter as the Phillies nipped the Giants.

Cookie Rojas, who doubled, was on third and Richie Allen on first with an intentional pass when Sadecki uncorked his wild pitch. Rojas scored and Allen came home a few minutes later on Tony Taylor's single.

★ ★ ★

Steve Blass hurled no-hit ball for 6 2-3 innings as the Pirates won their opener from the Dodgers behind a 13-hit attack. Blass retired the first 15 batters before walking Paul Popovich. The first hit was Tom Haller's two-out double in the seventh.

But Pittsburgh's nine-game winning streak came to an end in the nightcap when pinch hitter Jim Fairey belted his first major league homer with two out in the 10th inning.

Tom Seaver struck out 12 and touched off two rallies with an infield single and a lost-in-the-sun double as the Mets beat Houston. Cleon Jones drove in four runs with a third-inning sacrifice fly and a three-run homer in the fifth off Larry Dierker. Art Shamsky also homered for the Mets.

"Do I Have To Have Two Strikes Against Me Just For Being Born?"

Pontiac's Negro citizens have their eyes on how the people of our city respond to the crucial issue in next Monday's election.

The issue: taking the clamps off housing so people can have as decent a place to live as they can afford, so kids who come into the world don't have two strikes against them right from the word "go."

Your answer holds the key to the future of our city.

Is it more blight for Pontiac, more slums as Negroes are confined to only the left-over, run-down housing? Is this what you would want for YOUR kids?

Is it a city without hope, a city with more businesses moving out of our once-thriving downtown area, more stores standing empty, more jobs disappearing? Is this what you want for YOUR kids?

Or is it a strong, positive vote that says "yes" on housing—and by doing so, also says "yes" to Pontiac progress, "yes" to Pontiac properity, "yes" to more opportunities and more jobs? Isn't THIS what you want for YOUR kids?

Progress in Pontiac means more opportunity, fair play and less of a tax burden for all citizens, young and old. Continued decay means a growing downtown wasteland, fewer jobs and a bigger tax burden for all of us.

Progress or decay in Pontiac? The key to that is housing.

The answer is up to you.

2 Deadlock in Canadian Open Meet

TORONTO (AP) — Billy Casper has the gallery at the $125,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship wondering what will happen when he stops driving for show and starts putting for dough.

Casper, one of the deadliest men around the greens on the U.S. professional golf circuit, took 34 putts in the opening round Thursday and still wound up just two strokes behind the first-round leaders—Bruce Devlin of Australia and Ken Still of Tacoma, Wash.

Still and Devlin, who admitted they "played with a great deal of luck," carded three-under-par 67s over the 6,702-yard St. George's Golf Club layout.

TIE FOR LEAD

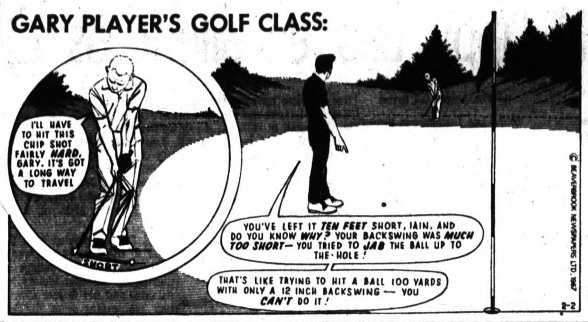

Casper shot a 69 to tie with five other Americans and Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., for third place in the 72-hole tournament that carries a $25,000 first-place prize. The tourney ends Sunday.

Joe Frazier Big Favorite

Heavyweight Meets Mexican Contender

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — There's overwhelming confidence in the camp of Joe Frazier that the partial world heavyweight champion will make short work of Mexico's Manuel Ramos at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

It's not just Ramos. Manager-trainer Yancey Durham firmly believes that his undefeated fighter can beat any other heavyweight around. Frazier has the same conviction about himself.

* * *

The stocky, thick-thighed Philadelphian resembles retired undefeated heavyweight king Rocky Marciano in physique, aggressiveness and confidence.

Rocky always felt he could beat anybody. He went storming after opponents as if his own hide was made of steel. He took punishment and kept coming.

* * *

Frazier is a taller and heavier version. Marciano scored 19 knockouts in his first 21 fights. Frazier can equal that pace by stopping Ramos.

Ramos never has been floored or stopped. But then Canadian champion George Chuvalo and Buster Mathis never had been stopped either until they bumped into the hard-hitting Frazier.

Chavez's Hit Decides Game

Key Single Saves Ron's Roost

Ron's Roost avoided an upset last night in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's fastpitch men's softball league on Del Chavez's two-out clutch single in the last inning.

The safety plated Gerry Strebe with an unearned run and gave Ron's a 6-5 decision over Timberlanes Lounge, protecting its hold on third place.

Pacesetting Town & Country Lounge coasted past the once-victorious Union Lake Merchants, 12-1, as Roger Reynolds and Craig Moorhead tossed a one-hitter and whiffed 14 batters.

* * *

CIO-594, the runner-up squad, trimmed Milbur Industry, 7-3, with Cy Green cracking a single, double and triple — good for five runs; and Ray's Sunoco surprised J. A. Fredman, 4-3.

LATE SURGE

Timberlanes scored a pair of runs in the sixth and seventh innings each, finally tying the score on Ted Wharry's single. Chavez then settled the issue for Ron's with his third rbi. Mouse Beers homered earlier for the winners.

Ron LaCharite led T&C's 13-hit attack with two singles and a triple, good for four runs. Town & Country scored in every inning but the first.

* * *

Morey LaPratt's three-run homer was the only damaging blow off Jim Fisk, but it forced CIO to rally for three runs in the last of the fifth. Green's triple featured the outburst.

Ray's trailed, 2-0 and 3-1, then pulled out its win on two gift runs in the sixth. John Fowler's homer shot Fredman's in front in the first.

Sackett Shifts Teamsters Into High Baseball Gear

Teamsters—614 is building up momentum in the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department's Class A baseball title race.

The former city champions won their third in a row last night, downing Local—594, 4-2, behind the pitching and hitting of Don Sackett.

The win left the two teams tied for third place with 3-2 marks after three weeks of play.

* * *

Sackett retired the first nine CIO batters and had a no-hitter until the sixth when successive singles by Bud Williams and Gene Luppino stopped the no-hitter and the shutout. Ray Heaton belted a solo home run in the final game.

Sackett, meanwhile, singled home a run in the second, and after the losers cut the lead to 2-1, he drove in the deciding markers in the last of the sixth with a bases-loaded safety.

Four games are on top for Sunday at Jaycee Park.

German Champion Dies After Fight

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — German middleweight champion Jupp Elze is dead and Carlo Duran, Elze's final opponent, is due here to pay him final tribute.

Elze died Thursday, eight days after he collapsed unconscious in the 15th round of his fight for Duran's European middleweight title. Duran was awarded a technical knockout.

A spokesman for Cologne's University Clinic, where Elze was rushed after collapsing, said the cause of the 28-year-old boxer's death was a collapse of the blood circulation.

Wixom Pounds On Lumbermen, 34-0

Wixom's softball team put the hammer to Haggerty Lumber in the Walled Lake Industrial League last night by walloping the lumbermen, 34-0.

John Fawcett, who came to the plate 10 times, had a double, triple, two homers and five rbi's among the 32 hits.

In the other game, called after four innings by the umpire because of a field argument, Ultimate Precision won 12-1 over Kimberly North as Paul Stack hit a grand slam homer.

TROPHY TIME — Peter Green of Orchard Lake Country Club admires the champion's trophy presented to him by Bill Albright (right) after his victory yesterday in the Horton Smith Memorial Golf Tournament at Detroit Golf Club. Albright, who finished third, was chairman of the tournament.

Green's Golf Game Ripens

By FLETCHER SPEARS

DETROIT — Young Pete Green of Orchard Lake Country Club has a winning smile, a winning way, and as of late, a winning game on the golf course.

"I've won a couple of tournaments lately and I like it," the smiling 28-year-old Green said last night as he accepted the champion's trophy after winning the Fifth Annual Horton Smith Memorial tournament at Detroit Golf Club.

GAME RIPENS

Green's game ripened late last season when he won the Golf Association of Michigan (GAM). It was that victory, plus a few high finishes in several other events, that sent him to the top of the GAM Honor Roll this spring.

★ ★ ★

And this season has been quite productive for Green. He made it past the local qualifying for the U.S.G.A. Open late in May and the same week won the Michigan Medal Play championship on his home course.

WORKING WELL

Everything seemed to be working for him yesterday as he fashioned a tournament record 35-34—69 over the par-71, 6,588-yard layout.

Green used only 29 putts for the round and checked in with eight, one-putt greens. He three-putted just once.

★ ★ ★

The 69 wiped out the old record of 70 set by Bud Reniger of Country Club of Lansing in the 1966 event. Reniger shared the fourth spot yesterday with a 73 in the field of 62.

Sitting in the No. 2 spot was Mike Johnson of Red Run. He came through with a hot 32 on the front side but slipped a bit on the back with a 38 for a 70.

★ ★ ★

Tournament chairman Bill Albright played his home club in par 71 and finished third. Sharing fourth with Reniger was Steve Stubbs of Orchard Lake.

★ ★ ★

Defending champion Jim St. Germain started with a bogey and finished with a 38-36—74.

Six of Green's putts produced birdies. After offsetting a pair of bogeys with a couple of birdies on the front side, he knocked in birds on 10, 11, 13 and 16, mixing that with bogeys at 12 and 14.

Jackson managed three birdies and missed a chance to tie Green by taking a double-bogey at 13.

Tony Conigliaro Gets New Hope for Future

BOSTON (AP)—Tony Conigliaro, given new hopes by his latest eye examination, is confident he can make it back to the big leagues whether in his old outfield spot or as a pitcher.

★ ★ ★

"The doctors say there's a possibility that I will see well enough to be a good hitter again," the sidelined young Boston Red Sox slugger said Thursday, adding that if this turns out to be true he thinks there's "a good chance" he could be back in right field next season.

★ ★ ★

"If I find out in the meanwhile that I can't see the ball well enough to hit consistently, I'm determined to try to make a comeback as a pitcher," he said.

★ ★ ★

"I'm confident I can make it as a pitcher in the majors. I pitched well in high school. I had a 16-2 record. I'm much bigger now and my arm is much stronger than it was then."

Conigliaro was sidelined for the rest of last season when he suffered blurred vision after being hit by a pitch by Jack Hamilton of the California Angels Aug. 18.

★ ★ ★

He attempted a comeback unsuccessfully in spring training, and his career appeared ended when doctors told him they feared his sight was deteriorating and advised him against any athletic activity until the eye was tested again.

★ ★ ★

That was done on Thursday, and doctors told Tony after the two-hour examination at the Retina Associates Clinic that the condition of the eye had stabilized and that he could start working out again.

★ ★ ★

Conigliaro said he plans to do so at Fenway Park in a day or two, playing pepper games for a while and working up to taking swings at the plate, possibly by the time the team returns from its current road trip next Thursday.

German Golfer in LPGA Tie

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Germany's Gerda Whalen and Canada's Sandra Post held a one-stroke lead entering the second round of the $20,000 Ladies PGA Championship today as most of America's foremost golf pros attempted to bounce back in mail-man fashion.

Despite winds gusting to more than 40 miles an hour, Mrs. Whalen, 30, a widowed mother of a young daughter, and pretty Sandra, a resident of Oakville, Ont., fired one-under-par 72s Thursday in the start of the 72-hole tournament at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

The start of the tournament was plagued by medical and legal overtures. Carol Mann, suffering from muscle spasms in the neck and upper back, had to withdraw after 11 holes, while Peggy Wilson and Sandra Mc-Clinton required hospital treatment for minor ailents.

Ward's 9 Wins in Waterford

Beats Clarkston, 10-3; Midget Bar Triumphs

In last night's third place battle in the Waterford Men's Softball League, Ward's Bodies defeated Clarkston Appliance, 10-3.

Ward's led all the way as Jim McDonald hit a two-run triple and scored a run himself in the winners' three-run first inning.

* * *

Gary Achenbach pitched a five-hitter and struck out six while Phil Robinson collected three of Wards' 10 hits.

In the second game, Midget Bar annexed its first win of the season with a 7-1 victory over Huron Bowl.

* * *

Bill Goulet pitched a four-hitter for Midget. He had a shutout until two were out in the last inning and an error produced Huron's only run.

* * *

Brian Rudd and Kim Conroy each had two hits for the winners, whose record is now 1-10. Huron has a 3-9 record.

State Tax Foes Have High Hopes

LANSING (UPI) — While a drive to slap a constitutional ban on any state income tax was sputtering this week, new hope was surging in a parallel push to have the current tax thrown out on constitutional grounds.

If either side wins, Gov. George Romney has warned that the state would suddenly find itself $500 million in the hole — money that could only be made up by a big bundle of higher taxes on something else.

★ ★ ★

"I'm not so sure," said one anti-income tax general. "We got along all right without an income tax before, didn't we?"

That was Montgomery Shepard of St. Joseph, head of the Sound Taxation Association of Michigan, an organization that is trying to get 246,191 valid voter signatures to get a constitutional amendment on the Nov. 5 ballot banning any state income tax.

FACING DEADLINE

Shepard's group and three others that are working with it have only until July 9 to complete the job. And as of Thursday, they had only about 130,000 signatures on hand.

★ ★ ★

He said petitions were already in from 71 of Michigan's 83 counties, but were lagging in Wayne County due to the 7-month-old newspaper strike. In the Lansing area, he said, even one federal Internal Revenue Service man was gathering signatures.

While Shepard was scrambling to get 40,000 outstanding petitions turned in by their circulators, attorney Richard D. Kuhn in Pontiac was hoping the State Court of Appeals would rule the present tax is unconstitutional.

★ ★ ★

Kuhn, a former delegate to the Constitutional Convention and brother of State Sen. George W. Kuhn, R-West Bloomfield Township, has been struggling in federal and state courts since last August to have the tax thrown out.

KUHN CONFIDENT

This time, he thinks he may win. Last Monday, the Court of Appeals heard arguments on his case and promised a prompt decision. "There is no doubt in my mind that this is unconstitutional," Kuhn said Thursday.

He also said that there is some legal sentiment building on both sides of the issue that if the income tax is thrown out, the state may have to pay back all it has collected — with interest.

County Supervisors Probe Land Status

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors will rear a report on the status of county property at their meeting Monday at 9:30 a.m. at the courthouse auditorium, Telegraph and Pontiac Lake.

The buildings and grounds committee has been making their annual inspection and will submit their findings.

★ ★ ★

Among other business to be considered is granting a parcel of land to the Army Reserve for construction of a new Reserve center. It would be located on county center near Williams Lake and Pontiac Lake Roads.

Housing Aide Wins Post

R. Clayton Jones, Pontiac Housing Commission's assistant director, was recently elected an officer of the North Central Regional Council of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials.

★ ★ ★

The council, comprising 10 Midwest states, meets each year to review and exchange ideas of methods for redevelopment, conservation, code enforcement and low-rent housing.

Jones was elected by fellow members to the executive committee.

Lackluster French Election Campaign Ending Today

PARIS (AP) — Campaigning for the first round of France's national assembly election went into its final hours today after three weeks of lackluster electioneering in which all parties preached reform and the forces of President Charles de Gaulle tried to whip up a Red scare.

Campaigning officially ends tonight for the voting Sunday for a new 487-member National Assembly. A second round of voting follows June 30 in districts where no candidate gets a first-round majority.

★ ★ ★

The election, called in late May by De Gaulle after rioting students and striking workers brought the Fifth Republic to a standstill, has aroused little public excitement. French political commentators called the campaign one of the most torpid in memory.

The Gaullists, centrists, non-Communist leftists and Communists have all urged reforms. But there have been no proposals that have captured the public's imagination and answered the problems posed by the May crisis.

There probably will be no sweeping change in the composition of the next assembly. The Gaullists will probably enlarge their majority, and the Communists should add a few seats at the expense of the non-Communist left.

Two newspaper opinion polls published this week showed voter intentions much the same as they were before the last general election in March 1967, when the Gaullists and their allies won a one-seat majority in the assembly.

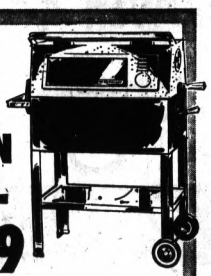

De Gaulle's campaign has been based largely on one theme—the Red peril. The president, Premier Georges Pompidou and their supporters claimed at every opportunity that only the Gaullists could prevent "totalitarian communism" taking over.

Collegian Tells of Beating Gas Station Game

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A college senior who beat a gasoline company's premium contest says the sponsor of the game paid him not to play.

* * *

Barry Tumpson, 26, a Duquesne University law student, told a house small business subcommittee that Humble Oil Co. paid him an unspecified sum not to play its "heads and tails" game after he picked winners by putting the cards under a slide projector light.

Tumpson said he ran a computer check on the odds of winning the service station game and it turned up one out of 2,789 chances. This compared with one out of 998 chances of winning in illegal numbers games, he said.

He said he discovered last August that he could pick a winner every time in the game. At first, Humble officials treated him "rather cavalierly" until he proved he could pick the winners, he said.

* * *

He said Humble officials then made a settlement with him not to play the game and not to reveal the secret.

Tumpson said he felt he could divulge the secret now because he had been called before a Congressional committee.

The game involved a card, the size of a regular playing card, which had a number of circles covered by a silver metallic substance. If the participant rubbed off the winning circles — ones which showed either three tiger heads or 15 tiger tails — he would collect amounts varying from $1 to $50.

Tumpson said he put the card into a slide projector and by its strong light could see behind the silver-like covering. He then rubbed the silver off the winning circles.

Crowing Contest

ROGUE RIVER, Ore. (AP) — The rooster who crows the loudest gets the prize when the 16th annual national rooster crow is held here June 29. More than 100 birds will attempt to break a record set in 1963. A bantam rooster named Bettlebaum crowed 109 times in 30 minutes.

Nuremberg, in Germany, was founded around 1040.

HE'S DEDICATED — Dan Bertram, an ROTC cadet at the University of Cincinnati, didn't believe it when told he flunked an army physical. So he spent $200 and 2½ days for tests at a hospital to prove he was "perfectly healthy." The 23-year-old Cincinnatian is now at Indiantown Gap (Pa.) Military Reservation for six weeks of training. His father has been an army reservist for 25 years and "I guess I was kind of indoctrinated," he says.

Yachtsman Plucked From Stormy Ocean

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — Lone French yachtsman Jean de Kat, plucked from the stormy Atlantic in a dramatic sea rescue Thursday night, was safe today aboard a Norwegian freighter bound for Latvia.

His rescue came three days after his trimaran Yaksha, with which he was trying to win the single-handed transatlantic sailboat race, broke up in rough seas.

* * *

The break in the vast sea-and-air search for De Kat, afloat in a tiny 4-foot hooded yellow dinghy, came when a Royal Air Force RAF search plane spotted him about 500 miles west of Ireland.

Flight Lt. Gerry Turley, one of the copilots of the plane, said that the yachtsman had lighted a flare with a trail of smoke "and I am sure we would not have seen him without this signal."

IN GOOD CONDITION

The 10,000-ton Norwegian bulk carrier Jagona plucked the 27-year-old De Kat from the sea shortly before midnight. "The ship's captain has told us that the man is in good condition . . . he is fine," an RAF spokesman said.

Until Thursday night De Kat had not been seen or heard from since early Tuesday when he issued a distress call saying "lost mast . . . no rudder . . . one float only . . . this is my last message."

* * *

De Kat's was one of 35 sailboats which began the 3,500-mile race from Plymouth to Newport, R.I., June 1. Seven boats are now out of the race.

Summer Camp Set for Disabled

Fa-Ho-Lo Park, Grass Lake, will be the site of the 14th annual summer camp for the deaf and hard of hearing to be held August 4-11.

Area adults and children are invited to attend. However, children under 9 years of age must be accompanied by an adult.

* * *

Campers are welcome for the full week or any part of the week. Swimming, volleyball, handicrafts and a banquet are among the activities planned. Small children and babies will be taken care of by workers during the classes.

Sponsored by the Michigan District Council of the Assemblies of God, people of all faiths are encouraged to participate. Additional information may be obtained by contacting: Ray L. Jones, 36970 S. Huron, New Boston, Michigan.

Paralytic Flees in Motor Chair

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Authorities say Richard G. Mendoza, 26, has escaped from the Ventura County Hospital prison ward in his motorized wheelchair.

* * *

They said he "just slipped out of the detention ward and hasn't been seen since." Mendoza, who is paralyzed from the waist down, is believed to have fled Wednesday night. He was awaiting trial on a narcotics charge.

Opening lead—♦K

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

A little learning is a dangerous thing. South knew all about the Bath Coup. He tried one at the wrong time and wound up taking a bath.

JACOBY

He played his five of diamonds at trick one. West held the trick with his king and was tempted to continue the suit. After all, his partner had played the seven.

Then West looked over dummy and noticed that the seven was the lowest missing diamond. He shifted to the three of hearts.

★ ★ ★

South took East's king with his ace. There was no Bath Coup possible in hearts since, if South ducked, East would be holding the trick. Then South proceeded to run off four club tricks before going after spades.

Once South led a spade the contest ended quickly. East took his ace and led a heart. Since West had hung on to all his hearts, he collected three heart tricks and game had disappeared into limbo.

★ ★ ★

South's play of the five of diamonds was a genuine Bath Coup. This was first developed in the English resort town of Bath in the days of whist. It is quite effective in that it forces the player whose king holds the first trick either to give declarer two tricks in the suit or lead something else.

★ ★ ★

The trouble with this particular Bath Coup was that the diamond suit represented a futile threat to South contract.

If South grabbed that first diamond trick and knocked out the ace of spades, the worst that could happen to him would be for East to give his partner three diamond tricks. If West had started with five diamonds, East would not have a diamond to lead.

Once the diamond parade ended, South would proceed to make the nine tricks necessary for his contract.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Saturday

"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Financial aspects are clarified tonight. Earlier, there is confusion. What appears a certainty turns out to be speculative. Know this — don't put all eggs in one place. Diversify.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Finish, complete — some tell you all is well. Key is to be self-reliant. Mate or partner may be deceived by outside claims. Cycle continues high. You're a winner if confident. Go to it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Tonight circumstances turn in your favor. You may be called upon to speak. Know this, check apparel. Be original in approach — lead rather than follow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Talk with child, loved one. Someone close to you is going to extremes. Provide gentle reminder of responsibilities. Follow hunch. Share knowledge. Check home appliances, safety measures.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You meet people tonight who could make life brighter. Be open to ideas, experience. Mingle, socialize. Some of your desires are fulfilled. You are very attractive to opposite sex.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Tonight you receive verification of assignment, duty. Prestige is present. Details have to be completed. Earlier, you awaited message. Now there is a different kind of waiting.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Money connected with education journey comes up for discussion. Be flexible. One you care for has ideas not exactly in harmony with your own. Keep open mind.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Some situations exist which leave you befuddled. Get family co-operation. Don't make financial plunge. Realize there could be scheme to part you and your money.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Find out the why of events. Obtain hint from SCORPIO message. See persons, situations in realistic manner. Permit others to make first move. Be a shrewd observer.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some of your hopes, wishes, should be viewed in light of practicality. Key today is to settle direction, purpose. Children and their needs could add up to extra expense.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Pleasure tonight through exciting contacts. Your appeal is great. People are attracted to you. State views in clear, frank manner. Tie up loose ends early — relax later.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Something solid results today because of past efforts. You could conclude important transaction related to property. Take initiative. Stress added independence.

★

IF SATURDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are not part of the crowd. Instead, you are unique. You should always be willing to tear down in order to rebuild. Personal relationship is undergoing change. Be patient.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for TAURUS, GEMINI, CANCER. Special word to SAGITTARIUS: study aspects of any legal agreement.

Trading Is Active

Stock Market Widens Gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market widened initial gains in active trading early this afternoon.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.19 at 901.47, its highest level for the session up to that hour.

Gains had a margin of nearly 2 to 1 over losses.

★ ★ ★

It was a broad advance, with gains of key stocks ranging mostly from fractions to around a point.

House passage of the surtax-spending cut bill was cited as one reason for exuberance, along with expectations that the Senate would do likewise, thus removing a longstanding obstacle to financial confidence.

BONDS CONTINUE HIGHER

Utilities and U.S. Treasury bonds continued higher because the effects of the tax bill were expected to be beneficial to those yield securities.

★ ★ ★

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 340.9 with industials up 1.0, rails up .6, and utilities up 1.2.

Prices advanced in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Technical Tape Inc. was the volume pacemaker, rising a fraction. Also very active, Emenee rose about 3, Reliance Insurance 2, Western Orbis "A", Canoga Electronics, California Computer, Royal Business Funds, Plant Industries, Leasco Data Processing and Oxford Electric Corp. a point or better. Commonwealth United and Associated Oil & Gas eased.

Enemy Copters Error in Radar?

Misread Signals Eyed in Mistaken Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. sources indicated today that misreading of radar signals may have caused erroneous reports of enemy helicopter sightings around the demilitarized zone and triggered mistaken American attacks on allied warships in the area.

The sources said it was "highly probable" that American planes and artillery fired last weekend on allied ships, which on radar scopes appeared to be low-flying helicopters. A U.S. patrol boat was sunk and an Australian destroyer got 200 holes from American missiles.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Command had no further comment today. A spokesman said only that an investigation is still going on and no official comment will be made until it is completed.

The reported sightings of moving aerial lights and radar traces interpreted as enemy helicopters began last Saturday and continued all week. South Vietnamese sources claimed that 12 Russian-made copters were shot down below the demilitarized zone by American planes or artillery. But despite intense air reconnaissance, there have been no reports of any wreckage.

UNCONFIRMABLE

All the reported activity has been at night and unconfirmable by visual observation.

The U.S. Command, apparently dubious of the helicopter reports, has ordered its fighter-bombers and artillery to hold fire in the area to avoid hitting any more allied surface vessels.

One source said that surface craft showing up on radar scopes could appear to be low-flying helicopters, especially at night.

The moving lights that were sighted were observed through telescopes which electronically increase the available light so they can be used at night. The lights appeared to be six or eight miles away, but it is difficult to determine distances through these night scopes, and helicopters reported over or south of the demilitarized zone actually could have been flying north of the zone.

The sightings were described in one U.S. communique as "unidentified aircraft suspected of being enemy helicopters."

The Vietnamese reports said three Russian-made copters were shot down by artillery or U.S. Navy F4 jets Saturday night and another nine Sunday night.

Vacation Problem: Execs Won't Go

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK—"I want you to take a couple of weeks off, Fastalk, and I want you to get out of the city to some nice spot and I don't want you to even think about the office," Mr. Big, the president, told his sales manager.

CUNNIFF

Fastalk protested; he had too much work to do, he wasn't tired, he loved his job. "That's an order," Big barked, and so Fastalk slunk away to his summer vacation.

★ ★ ★

The scene might not be common, but it does occur in many large companies, for one of the most persistent problems in scheduling vacations, which generally are being liberalized, is to get the executive to take the time due him.

Rest, relaxation, recreation—just time away from the office—are being regarded increasingly as the route to greater efficiency and productivity. But ironically, some of those very executives who first spotted this route are the least able to follow it.

OBSERVATION

A report to member companies by the American Management Association, a nonprofit research and educational organization that does a continuing study on vacation policies, contains this observation:

"... the predominant problem appears to be the difficulty in persuading executives to take the vacations to which they are entitled and to take enough consecutive time to take maximum advantage of the rest which is intended to be the purpose of vacations."

★ ★ ★

The study shows also that some companies now insist that executives not only take longer vacations but follow them with shorter periods away from the office, and that time off "be taken away from home and uninterrupted by business."

One company's policy contains the clause: "Executives will take such additional time off from work for recreational purposes as is necessary or desirable to maintain a high peak of physical and mental well being."

OTHER REASONS

The management association reports that "these companies have reported improved efficiency and productivity as a result of such policies." But there are other reasons also behind the insistence on vacations.

In some companies, for example, the executive's understudy is expected to develop his abilities during the boss' vacation. It's supposed to be his tryout period, which is reason enough for men like Fastalk to stick around.

★ ★ ★

At least one company requires that every executive take a two-week vacation every six months, partly "to prepare for the coming season," which presumably he will attack with bullish energy.

While executives are resisting long vacations — and in some instances are said to be choosing multiple small vacations or long weekends — most companies seem to be liberalizing their policies for salaried workers.

POLICIES REVIEWED

"Policies are undergoing widespread review and modification," the management association states. The big change appears to be in reducing the length of service requirements for extended time off.

In almost all corporations, the management association says, length of service is the determinant of vacations. The general pattern for salaried workers is one week after six months and two weeks after a year.

★ ★ ★

The liberalization appears most noticeably in the shorter time needed for three-week vacations. Some companies which once required 15 years of service, the management association says, have now lowered the requirement to 10 years.

Other companies have lowered the ratio to three weeks for five years, and a tendency is now appearing to grant a month after 15 years or even 10, instead of after 25 years of continuous service.

DIFFERENT POLICY

For top executives, however, a different policy usually applies, with three or four weeks generally granted regardless of service length. And whereas most employes forfeit vacation time not used in one calendar year, executives often can carry over their time from one year to the next.

Trouble is the executives don't always want it. They'd rather putter around the office, it seems, than putter around a golf course; rather dive into their work than into a cool pool.

S. Africa to Resume Its Gold Shipments

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Finance Minister Nicolaas Diederichs announced today that South Africa will resume gold shipments abroad.

He said in a press statement the government has agreed to make available 19 million in gold to the International Monetary Fund for France, and $23 million to the fund for Britain, resulting in a fall in South African gold reserves held outside the country. The reserves will have to be replenished through resumed gold shipments, the minister said.

Leaders Asked to Aid Counseling Service

Various community leaders were urged at a presentation yesterday to help subsidize a local branch of Credit Counseling Centers Inc. CCC provides professional counseling to families needing guidance in money management, in family budgeting, and in the wise use of credit.

Community support of $20,000 for this nonprofit organization is being sought to meet the operating costs arising from initial interviews of clients and the counseling service extended to cases in which a debt-liquidation program administered by the agency is not indicated or does not result.

★ ★ ★

Counseling is free to debtors. For clients needing a program of debt liquidation, involving negotiations with creditors and distribution of funds on a planned basis, a minimal charge sufficient to cover the cost of administering such a program is made. That fee shall not exceed $3 a week.

Money for a North Oakland County office is being sought from banks, consumer finance companies, retailers, credit unions, utilities, industrial corporations, labor unions and private foundations.

$3,000 IN HAND

Already in hand is $3.000, Pontiac's share of the General Motors Corp. contribution to CCC, according to G. J. Cesarz, community relations representative.

"Credit Counseling Centers is not a collection agency. It is not a lending institution. It has nothing to sell," according to Cesarz.

★ ★ ★

"Its sole purpose is to strengthen wise practices in the family handling of money and credit. With counseling, many families can become better credit-risks, better customers, better employes and better citizens than they now are," he added.

CCC has branch offices throughout lower Michigan.

Campus Radicals Demand Revolt, but Have No Substitute Plan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Despite its relatively small membership, Students for a Democratic Society disrupted dozens of college campuses in recent months. Here is a report on this radical group, its leaders, aims, strategy and tactics.)

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO — Carl Davidson brushed apple pie crumbs from his droopy mustache and talked of the revolution he seeks in America.

"Capitalism must go," said the chief strategist of the Students for a Democratic Society, a relatively small band of young radicals that sparked rebellions at colleges across the country in recent months.

★ ★ ★

Davidson, sitting in a westside Chicago restaurant, spoke of SDS spreading off campus and creating "a class-conscious revolutionary socialist movement."

Pressed for a more precise definition, he paused and looked out a greasy window.

NO ANSWER

"That's one of our problems," he said finally. "We don't have a coherent idea of what we would like to see after the revolution."

One floor above the restaurant, other officers in the SDS national headquarters—three cluttered rooms complete with calico curtains and color pictures of Mao Tse-Tung—were just as vague about the form of the "free society" they advocate.

★ ★ ★

SDS officers claim 6,000 dues-paying national members and another 35,000 members in 200 local chapters. But they refuse to provide a chapter-by-chapter breakdown on membership—not even a list of campuses where there are chapters.

But the SDS' strength does not lie in numbers—its 35,000 claimed members are but a minute fraction of the nation's 5 million college students.

POUNCING ON ISSUES

Rather, it has been in its ability to pounce on the issues troubling students, ranging from residence rules at Princeton to the presence of the Confederate flag at the University of Texas. But of 71 student disorders in the past 18 months, one survey showed all but three were linked to the Vietnam war or racism.

After selecting its issues, the usual SDS tactic is to seek a confrontation with the university administration. At Columbia, Stanford, San Francisco State, Northwestern, the University of Chicago and elsewhere, this has taken the form of occupying campus buildings.

★ ★ ★

When university officials seek to re-establish their authority, as Columbia did by calling in the police, the demonstrators try to bring sympathetic but previously uncommitted students into their ranks.

A survey conducted by Columbia's Bureau of Applied Social Research found that the number of Columbia students and faculty members approving of SDS tactics nearly doubled after police were called onto the campus.

BRIGHT STUDENTS

Most SDS officers are well-read, bright students near the top of their college classes. Davidson, for example, is a philosophy graduate of Penn State who taught at the University of Nebraska before shunning the academic robes for a faded work shirt, blue jeans and heavy boots—garb seen often in SDS circles.

Most memers also are from affluent, middle or upper-class families.

★ ★ ★

What is it that makes these children of affluence revolt against the system that all but guarantees them a life of comfort?

Dr. Alex B. Platt, associate dean at Columbia who dealt extensively with student demonstrators there, advances the theory that campus protest "represents in part a religious phenomenon."

THEY'RE SEARCHING

"These students," Platt says, "are searching for a purified community, one to which they can commit themselves and in which they can find meaning."

". . . I have talked to students who felt through protest, and sometimes violence, they have been purged and purified. Most do not know why they need to purge themselves, but a few say it is because they participate in the affluence which leads to much of what they abhor in American society."

At the height of this spring's campus disorders, the SDS national office sent a telegram to Columbia strike leaders calling for "two, three, many Columbias"—mimicking Che Guevara's call for "two, three, many Vietnams."

Most SDS members view the slain Cuban guerrilla leader as a symbolic hero, but some have difficulty placing themselves in any ideological category.

SOME ARE WEAK

While the SDS chapter at Columbia spearheaded the demonstrations that paralyzed the Morningside Heights campus, other SDS chapters are sometimes weak, ineffective groups.

At Berkeley, site of the now famous 1964 Free Speech Movement, SDS is simply swallowed up in the welter of other campus groups.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told Congress last year that SDS was working "constantly in furtherance of the aims and objectives of the Communist Party throughout the nation."

This year, Hoover seemed to modify his view slightly. "To simply identify them as Moscow or Peking communists would be missing the point," he said in congressional testimony. "To put it bluntly, they are a new type of subversive and their danger is great."

REDS 'MINIMAL'

Davidson agreed some Communists belong to SDS, but termed their involvement "minimal."

"I could probably count the Communist Party members in SDS on my fingers," he said. "Anyway, the Communist Party of the U.S., the one J. Edgar worries about, is considerably to our right. We probably pose more of a threat to them than they do us, because we recruit their ranks."

World War I Tank, Other Gear for Sale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Collectors who feel they simply must have a tank now can bid for one.

The tank—two-ton, two-man, French, with one gaping shell hole, vintage World War I—will be auctioned Sunday in Los Angeles by the M.H. de Young Memorial Museum of San Francisco.

★ ★ ★

Those who don't get the tank may be happy with a shred of canvas from a World War I plane, two epaulets worn by a Civil War captain, or more than 200 other bits of crusty military gear.

"I just don't know how high the sale will go, but I'll take a stab and say between $25,000 and $40,000," said Auctioneer Marvin H. Newman.

Four Shows Daily

Marionettes Wow Mall Shoppers

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

Old Granny wowed the Johnsons according to Marc and Chris Chandler, speaking of a White House performance of the Marchris Marionettes last year.

Pontiac Mall audiences also have been delighted by Granny as well as numerous other marionettes who perform in the four daily shows in the Mall's main corridor.

The song and dance numbers are geared alternately to children and to their parents during the shows at noon, 2, 4 and 7:30 p.m. through tomorrow.

The dance of Camille, a rather bony creature who often stretches herself, leaving legs at one end of the large stage while her torso and head dance at the other before snapping together again, delights the children.

SALOON SCENE

A tastefully done saloon scene where a well-endowed female croons friendship to a rather neglected looking man has the adults in the crowd laughing heartily.

★ ★ ★

Brothers Marc and Chris Chandler formed a team 15 years ago although each had been in the business for many years before that.

They curently travel all over the world with their collection of 230 marionettes. They have already been on four world tours for the U.S. State Department and are scheduled to entertain the troops in Vietnam this year.

★ ★ ★

"It's a dying art. It's one of the oldest forms of entertainment man knows." said Chris.

OVERLOOKED

"Many museums in the states don't even consider it an art," explained Marc adding that as a result they donated their "retired" characters to a museum in Munich, Germany.

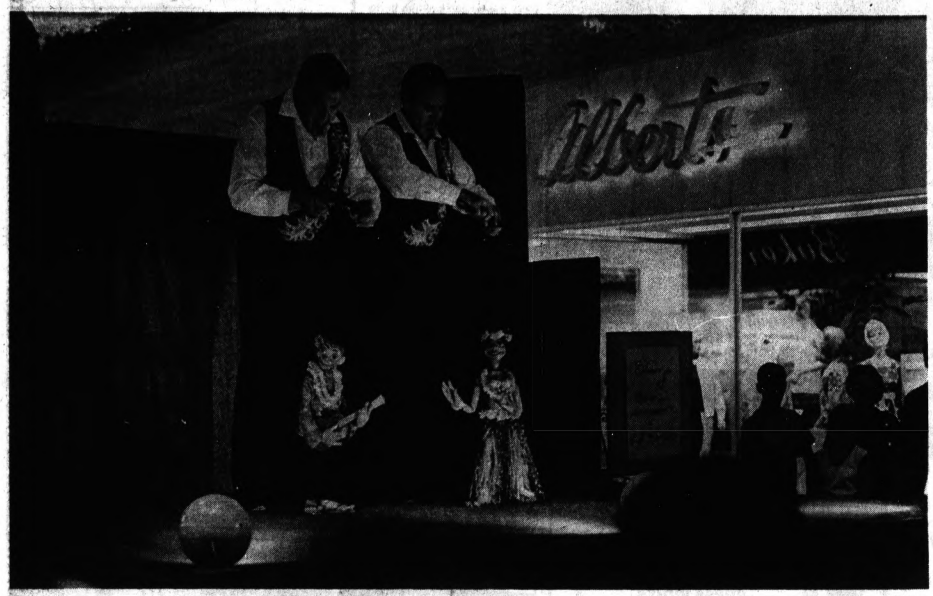

The Chandlers make their own characters, often based on real people.

"We leave a pen and pencil by our bedsides to jot down ideas that come up in the night" explained Chris. Both men are bachelors.

★ ★ ★

It takes about six weeks to create a string marionette — from the idea through making a mold from which to cast the face out of a special rubber, to building the torso, and painting the face and putting in movable eyes and mouths.

They are currently working creating some 30 monkey marionettes for a new show.

Television's Saint Is Hoping to Lose His Halo

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Roger Moore—The Saint to television viewers—has had enough of the hero-with-halo role. After six years, he's leaving the series, looking to change his "glamor boy" image.)

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — The Saint winced and said: "I bleed every time I hit someone."

British actor Roger Moore has to do quite a bit of hitting in his television series role as The Saint — the hero figure created by writer Leslie Charteris.

* * *

"But you'll notice that he never kicks anyone when he is down. And in six years of the TV series the Saint hasn't killed a single person."

Moore, handsime, 6-feet-2, took time off from filming to talk about his future.

"The Saint has been fun, but six years is a long time," he said.

Moore, 39, is quitting the series to star in three movies for United Artists.

* * *

The first is a suspense comedy called "Cross Plot."

"I don't think the film people want to change my image as a nice guy," he said.

"But it would be pleasant to play a real nasty thug for a change. The trouble with The Saint is that he is so damn unbelievable that I can't get involved in him as a person. He never loses a fight. I'd love to lose — or even win badly — for once.

"Spending the last six years as a glamor boy has obviously had its rewards and its nice things. But it has also been a terrible drag, in that only a few people really know that I've got a mind and that I don't always look like a tailor's dummy."

* * *

Moore is a thinking man. He feels very strong, for instance, about racial intolerance. "I think the race situation in Britain is undoubtedly going to get worse. Colored actors here, for instance, get a lousy deal. I think we are creating a whole generation of resentment," he said.

Moore confessed to having some "old-fashioned" views on such topics as drugs.

* * *

"The drug problem is tragic, but fortunately only a small percentage of kids take drugs. I think parents should take more responsibility and be more severe. We'd have less addicts if they were."

AUTHOR AS THE SAINT?

The Saint was first portrayed in the movies by George Sanders, but Moore says he thinks author Charteris could have played the part better than anyone.

"He was angry once when I told him this. But I pointed out there was so much of him in the writing of the books. He saw what I meant."

* * *

Then Moore strolled off to film another episode of the series which is seen in 80 countries.

Off-Off-Broadway Theater Rich in Originality

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Bursting through the bonds of conventional theater traditions, the avant-garde of Off-Off-Broadway is flowering from just about any place big enough to hold a stage. Though its setting may be poor, its experimental product is rich in originality and vitality. And it is providing a welcome proving ground for promising playwrights.)

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — The spawning ground for much of America's theatrical avantgarde is in building lofts, stores, apartments, church basements and coffee houses.

This Off-Off-Broadway movement is an amorphous conglomeration of dramatic experimentation that is now beginning to move from its underground home and into the theatrical mainstream.

* * *

Off-Off-Broadway-OOB to its growing number of friends — consists of some 30 or more experimental theater groups, 99 per cent of them in New York, with as varied a repertory and style as theater itself. The number is only guesswork, since so many are here one day only to vanish the next.

Still others — a growing number — fare so well that they move up to Off-Broadway, or even Broadway, or carry their theatrical gospel afar on tours of Europe and various parts of the United States.

UNIFYING QUALITY

If there is any unifying quality about them, it is Experiment.

To many theatrical observers, Off-Off-Broadway is a bright indication that the American theater is on the creative move; that it has more to offer than musical comedies and sex farces.

"Our goals," Joseph Chaikin, founder of the Off-Off-Broadway Open Theater, once said, "are to redefine the limits of the stage experience, or unfix them. To find ways of reaching each other and the audience."

The results are available free to theatergoers hungry for something different and original, in an atmosphere that is informal, casual — and sometimes chaotic.

There is no elaborate theater-going, fancy seating or expensive showcasing. The theater may be a store beneath a supermarket, that the Roundabout Repertory Theater calls home, or a place above a dry cleaners, that for a time housed the ever-wandering Cafe La Mama Troupe, most prominent of the OOB groups.

BEGAN AS REACTION

These theaters began in the early 1960s as a reaction to the ever-increasing financial demands of Broadway and the not-so-far-Off-Broadway, popping up first in coffee houses in Greenwich Village, historic home of the avant-garde and bohemian.

A good deal of it was anti-Establishment, anticonvention. Just anti. Nihilistic. Much of it was theatrical shock, shouting "No!" if only because no one else was. Raw language and uninhibited sex gave parts of OOB the reputation of live Underground movies. But just as many were meaningful dramatic works, some an inexpensive opportunity to see repertory company rivals of Ionesco, Shakespeare, Chekhov and Moliere.

* * *

Out of OOB came such original successes as "American Hurrah," which started out as an Open Theater production in an East 9th St. loft. Since then, it has had a London production at the Royal Court Theater and recently closed out a successful run of 634 performances at the Off-Broadway Pocket Theater.

The fiercely anti-Establishment work has brought the name of playwright Jean-Claude van Itallie into prominence. The Brussels-born Van Itallie had his play "War" performed in Copenhagen and Paris by the La Mama Touring Troupe, as well as in theaters in New York.

The Open Theater, founded by Chaikin about four years ago, was guest at Cincinnati's Playhouse in the Park for one performance in March and is touring Europe this summer with Van Itallie's "The Serpent" and "Masks," short pieces in a political vein, improvisations and songs.

The Cafe La Mama Experimental Troupe, founded and directed by Ellen Stewart, has been the guiding light in the OOB movement. It represented the United States at the Zagreb, Yugoslavia, Drama Festival in 1966, the only American theater group invited to the festival. It performed at the Edinburgh Festival last year and has been the winner of Vernon Rice and Obie awards.

* * *

It has taken the best of its work to Europe the past three years, while it has been forced to move its New York home four times since it began in 1961. It was technically a theater club, with "dues" of $1 from attending "members," so Equity personnel could perform for free under the union's "showcase and workshop production" ruling.

Most of the OOB groups operate purely on a contribution basis. The actors perform for free and there is no admission charge. Some get federal, as experimental theater groups, from the National Endowment for the Arts.

'DUES' OR NONEXISTENCE

But, for most, it's either "dues," or contributions — or nonexistence. Caffe Cino, which opened in Greenwich Village in 1958 as one of the very first Off-Off-Broadway theaters, was closed down this year for operating a coffee house without a license.

Others are organizing into unified groups of one kind or another, pooling resources to tour with their original works.

* * *

Earlier this year, 10 "radical" American theater groups formed the Radical Booking Agency as a nationwide nonprofit cooperative organized to arrange tours, one-night stands, radical theater festivals, lectures, conferences and films throughout the country and abroad.

Five of these groups, most committed to political, anti-Vietnam theater, held their first festival at the Washington Square Methodist Church the last weekend in March and celebrated President Johnson's announcement that he would not run for reelection with dancing in the aisles.

Christopher St. John, 28-year-old director and founder of the Troupe Theater, called a number of the groups together in March to form the Off Off Broadway Association, particularly to provide unified support if problems arise with the License Department.

He said the idea of the Troupe Theater was to act as kind of "relay station" for young actors, until "that break comes along," and to give new playwrights a chance.

'Y' Gals' Bad Driving Is No 'X'ception

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In some research projects the results can be predicted, so that they only confirm what we already know.

WEST

I place in that category a study being undertaken in Michigan to determine if bad driving traits are hereditary. The answer, of course, is yes.

Bad driving traits are handed down from mother to daughter. Everybody knows that.

* * *

The Michigan study may shed more light on the matter by showing whether bad driving traits also are hereditary in men. But I doubt it. The researchers seem to be operating from a faulty premise.

They plan to examine the chromosome structure of 100 male prison inmates who have poor driving records. The object is to see how many, if any, have the so-called "double-Y" chromosome.

X AND Y CHROMOSOMES

Women, as you know, have only "X" chromosomes. Most men have both "X" and "Y" but in rare cases they may have an "XYY" combination.

The "XYY" setup appears in a relatively high percentage of male criminals. The researchers will try to find out whether "double-Y" types also tend to become traffic menaces.

I submit that they are suspecting the wrong chromosome.

* * *

Since females have only the "X" chromosome, and since many females are bad drivers, it is more logical to assume that the "X" rather than the "double-Y" is the culprit.

Also supporting this theory is the fact that females inherit specific bad driving traits. Take, for example, the inability to perform a parallel parking maneuver.

MOTHER-IN-LAW AT FAULT

I have traced that trait through three generations and I can say with certainty that it is hereditary. For illustration purposes, let us call it the "XP" chromosome.

My mother-in-law never learned to drive a car but she was obviously an "XP" carrier. She passed the trait along to my wife who handed it on to my daughter.

There is a simple test to determine whether any given driver has the "X P" chromosome.

* * *

Find a block in which two cars are parked, one at each end. Then instruct the driver of your car to park somewhere between them, using the conventional parallel parking maneuver.

If she scrapes the rear fender of the front car, bangs the front bumper of the rear car and winds up with one wheel over the curb, she definitely is an "X P" type.

Piccadilly Circus to Get New Look

LONDON (AP) — Piccadilly Circus, London's tourist and night life center with a naked statue of the god of love in the middle, will be streamlined with underground traffic, new buildings and hotels, the Greater London Council announced Thursday.

The plan to give the downtown traffic circle a new look will keep the present bright lights and the famed statue of Eros—a winged figure with a bow and arrow.

* * *

The work will begin, the council said, in about three years. The bright lights attract countless visitors, and the base of the statue in the past few years had become a hangout for London's hippies.

Tooty Fruity Jam

CITY OF COMMERCE, Calif. (AP) — A metal band broke on a truck-trailer, dumping 250 gallons of strawberries onto the Santa Ana Freeway Thursday. It took an hour to clean up the strawberry jam.

The Gourmet Adventures of Jayson's

You and your family may not be sauce lovers, but all homemakers should know how to make a good sauce . . . Cream Sauce, White Sauce, Mornay Sauce or White-Wine Sauce. To perfect the art of sauce making, the cook must know not only the method but the purpose—which, in the case of white sauce, is primarily to glaze food. The chicken, fish, or meat should be placed on the serving platter, and the sauce then lightly spooned over it. When the platter is put in a hot oven or under the broiler, a thin, lustrous, and appetizing film is achieved. Try garnishing your next dinner meal with a delicious sauce.

The chef at JAYSON'S, 4195 Dixie Hwy., at Hatchery Rd., has perfected the art of cooking all kinds of gourmet foods. Perfect for banquets, parties and meetings. Rudolph Bing, 66-year-old general manager of the Metropolitan Opera since 1950, will continue to head it through the 1971-72 season.

The board of directors of the Met voted yesterday to extend the Viennese-born administrator's contract two years beyond the present expiration date, June 30, 1970.

Bing, now vacationing in Europe, had said last May that he had turned down an offer to become general manager of the Vienna State Opera, although interested in the post. He also had indicated he would accept an extension of his Metropolitan contract if it were offered.

His salary has been estimated variously at between $75,000 and $100,000.

Frank Sinatra jetted into Munich yesterday to join his daughter Tina, celebrating her 20th birthday as she filmed a television series in Bavaria.

Sinatra, who came from London after meeting with his actress wife, Mia Farrow, had his birthday surprise call on Tina arranged by show director Michael Pfleghar.

Locksmith Frees 'Harmless Brown' Snake'

Alvin Anderson is a locksmith at Tufts University, Medford, Mass., who thought brown snakes were harmless and green snakes were dangerous.

So when he was called to open a locked closet in one of the school's dormitories yesterday and found a four-foot brown snake inside, he picked it up and threw it into the grass outside.

It was a boa constrictor.

School officials said the boa, which could grow to more than 10 feet, was left behind by a student when the college closed for the summer.

Campus police are looking for the snake.

Traffic Chokes Europe's Cities

PARIS (NEA) — Americans are not the only ones with traffic problems. Almost every major European city is suffering from thrombosis and most have taken drastic steps to ease the congestion.

★ ★ ★

Building new, costly subway systems is the most popular solution.

Rotterdam has just opened a $66 million underground line while in Munich and Milan new subways are under construction.

Paris is working on a new subway express line, while in London the $156 million Victoria Line, which will link railway stations at opposite ends of the city, is nearing completion.

Subway construction is not only enormously expensive, but it disrupts existing sewers, gas, electric and water mains, as most of these cities have discovered.

★ ★ ★

In Milan the digging has been slowed up by discovery of uncharted historic ruins beneath the surface.

CHURCH, ARCH

While digging Milan's first subway line, which was completed in November 1964, workmen discovered, among other things, the foundations of an early Christian church and a Roman triumphal arch.

Additional millions are being spent in Europe on freeways whose advantage is soon dissipated by the increase of cars on the road.

Once arrived at their destination, these cars have taken to climbing the sidewalks in their search for parking space.

★ ★ ★

In order to cope with its traffic headaches, Paris is planning a radical face-lift. After 900 years in the same spot Les Halles, the central food markets of Paris, are to be moved to the suburb of Rungis, near Orly, by the end of the year.

★ ★ ★

The transfer should ease congestion in central Paris caused by trucks delivering their provisions.

CLOG TRAFFIC

Paris traffic problems are enormously complicated by the frequent "quickie" strikes of public transport workers, which bring railways, buses and subway trains to a standstill.

Munich, too, plans a drastic facial revamp. As host to the 1972 Olympics, Munich has already started rebuilding with an eye to the influx of tourists and its schemes include a series of circular roads that will keep vehicular traffic out of the city center.

Paradoxically, cities like Rotterdam and Cologne, destroyed by bombs during the war, are better off as far as traffic planning is concerned.

★ ★ ★

Both have traffic-free shopping centers from which all vehicles are banned.

In Rome, where 100,000 new cars are registered every year, a similar scheme to keep vehicles out of the civic center during peak hours met with failure, due to the scarcity of police to enforce it.

FRENCH HOPES

As for the future, France is pinning its hopes on the aerotrain, which glides on a cushion of air at speeds up to 250 miles per hour, as the ideal form of public transport.

The first aerotrain line, running above rooftop level on a single concrete track, will link Paris to Orleans and be in operation by the early 1970s.

Other European cities are imitating the mole and burrowing deep underground to build their subway systems.

★ ★ ★

But whether they soar above or bore below the surface, city-dwellers must daily face the noise, exhaust fumes and general frustration caused by the cars in their midst.

The problem will be with them for many decades to come.

World Council OKs Catholics

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Roman Catholics for the first time may become members of a commission of the Protestant-dominated World Council of Churches, the Vatican announced today.

Msgr. John Willebrands, Dutch-born secretary of the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity, said the permission was given to Catholic theologians to join the council's faith and constitution commission.

★ ★ ★

The Catholic church and the council have cooperated increasingly in the years following the Vatican Ecumenical Council. They have sent observers to each other's meetings, but Willebrands said this was the first time Catholics could join a World Council body.

★ ★ ★

Anglican Bishop Oliver Tomkins of Bristol, England, heads the faith and constitution commission which decided at a meeting at Bristol last August to open membership to churches that do not belong to the world council.

COMMISSION CHOICE

Willebrands said the commission will make its own choices of Catholic theologians it wants as members and will then consult the Vatican secretariat before actually making the appointments.

★ ★ ★

Willebrands said the Vatican will send 15 observers to the fourth assembly of the World Council at Uppsala, Sweden, July 4-19. Also attending will be six Catholics who have been invited as guests. Two Catholics will be the first of their religion to speak at a WCC assembly.

Tow Truck Chain Protests Tax by Snarling Traffic

NEW YORK (AP) — Tow truck operators will have to pay for their protest—a traffic-snarling demonstration near City Hall Thursday.

★ ★ ★

The truckers double-parked 32 tow trucks, linked by tow chains, for four hours on the Broadway side of City Hall. Each driver was issued a summons for double parking and, in some cases, an additional citation was made for blocking pedestrian crossings.

★ ★ ★

The truckers demonstrated in support of legislation to raise towing rates, but in protest of making towing service subject to sales tax.

2 Couples Killed in Australian Fire

SYDNEY (UPI)—Two young married couples were killed and 10 persons injured today when fire destroyed a holiday apartment building at suburban Bondi Beach.

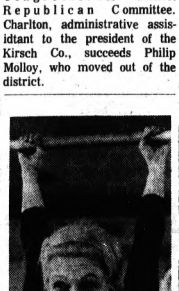

★ ★ ★

Forty persons staying in the building were trapped as the fire engulfed the stairs — the only exit from the building. Families made ropes of curtains and sheets to escape.

★ ★ ★

Thirty firemen on extension ladders axed down doors and cut their way through the winding staircase to others trapped by fire.

The fire was said to have started in the elevator shaft.

REAL SWINGER—Actress Betsy Palmer enjoys a few hours' workout in a gym whenever she can fit it into a busy schedule.

New GOP Exec

LANSING (AP) — Fred Charlton of Sturgis has been elected chairman of the 4th Congressional District Republican Committee. Charlton, administrative assistant to the president of the Kirsch Co., succeeds Philip Molloy, who moved out of the district.

Yeggs Accost Mia's Mother

WEYBRIDGE, England (UPI) — Two thieves bound and gagged actress Maureen O'Sullivan last night after breaking into the home of daughter, Mia Farrow.

Miss Farrow, estanged wife of Frank Sinatra, was not at home.

Miss O'Sullivan said the thieves accosted her after she was awakened by the barking of the family dog. She said one of the men wore a stocking mask.

Police said the burglars took jewelry and passports.

Traffic Snarled as Lights Fail

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Traffic lights in the center of Madrid failed Thursday, and for hours there was a tangle of bewildered drivers.

The usual midmorning jam in this city with more than half a million vehicles was multiplied. Traffic policemen battled desperately to keep the traffic moving. No reason for the light system's failure was available.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

A Look at TV

Success Explained

By RICK du BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — ABC-TV has issued the most detailed press release of the year, and it explains better than any previous analysis the reasons for the success of the "Peyton Place" series. What it does is describe the characters who have passed through, and continue to do so, without mercy.

Are you ready? Whoopee!

★ ★ ★

Well, for example, there is the character called Betty Harrington. Description: "Recently remarried Rodney Harrington. Her original marriage to him was annulled. In the interim she was married and divorced from Rodney's half-brother."

Then there is "Rita Jacks Harrington." Description: "Recently underwent corrective heart surgery but miscarried during the post-operative period."

'DIVORCED BY BETTY'

And "Steven Cord." Description: "Lawyer. The illegitimate son of the late Catherine Peyton Harrington. Raised by Martin Peyton's housekeeper, Hannah Cord, as her own son. Divorced by Betty because of an affair with another woman."

And have you heard about "Marsha Russell?" Description: "Mother of Carolyn, and recently divorced from her husband, Fred. Is trying to keep the reasons behind the divorce (adultery) a secret."

★ ★ ★

And what's this they're saying about "Susan Winter?" Description: "Wife of the town's minister who resents her husband's devotion to his calling and wants him to quit and go to work for her wealthy father. She drinks heavily to avoid facing her problems."

And no wonder. Who wouldn't under these circumstances, and with such neighbors? But proceed.

ASSUMED NAME

There is "Jill Smith." Description: "A young girl using an assumed name who gave birth out of wedlock to a baby girl, Kelly, following a romance with Joe Rossi in New York City. She is secretary to the Rev. Tom Winter."

And what about Winter? Description: "The town's minister and husband of Susan. He tries to act as the counselor to those with problems but is unable to cope with the problem of his wife."

★ ★ ★

And how about that Joe Rossi from New York City? Description: "Young brother of Dr. Michael Rossi and father of Jill Smith's baby. He fled to Peyton Place to avoid the revenge of a hoodlum friend in New York City." Friend, indeed. Well, New York is a pretty sophisticated place, and there is a lot of revenge by friends there.

Did you hear, by the way, about "Julie Anderson?" Description: "Mother of Betty Harrington, whose husband is in a sanitarium following a mental breakdown."

And of course you remember good old "Allison MacKenzie." Description: "The missing daughter of Constance and Elliot who disappeared after learning she was illegitimate, being born while her father was in prison."

Well, Allison, you can't win them all.

"Dean Martin presents the Golddiggers," an NBC-TV summer series which doesn't star Dean Martin but replaces his show for a while, arrived last Thursday night, with a 1930s theme to its music and comedy.

It is notable chiefly for the very pleasant surprise of Frank Sinatra Jr., who has quickly developed into an enjoyable singer and an ingratiating host with a natural flair for comedy and show business.

★ ★ ★

He is, of course, reminiscent of his father, but has achieved a singing style of his own, and is endowed with plenty of the family poise and presence.

The other pleasure of the premiere was a charming monologist named Stanley Myron Handleman. And the "Golddigger" chorus girls who sang and danced were all right too. The remainder of the show, however—with far too much of Paul Lynde — was sub-par, routine variety, often coming up tasteless and vulgar.

And speaking of the 1930s, did you know that Mickey Mouse turns 40 this year?

U.S. Aids College

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washtenaw Community College Thursday was awarded a $279,106 supplemental grant by the U. S. Office of Education. The grant brings to $750,000 the federal funding for a $5,461,748 science building presently under construction.

FACTS ABOUT COLOR TV ANTENNAS
Experience has proven that the following facts apply to most locations in this area regarding Color TV Antenna installation.
• Modern, broad-band antennas are definitely superior for color reception.
• Lead-in wire should be high quality, low-loss type
• One continuous lead-in to set is best without couplers or series outlets.
• Good antennas are more directional — they tend to reject stations from other directions.
• Effects of weather on antennas and lead-in wire can cause severe loss of performance.

Fallout Doubled Child Leukemia, Expert Contends

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Radioactive fallout dumped on the Albany-Troy, N. Y., area during a 1953 rainstorm caused a doubling of childhood leukemia over an 8-year-period, a radiation health expert's study contended yesterday.

Those affected included children in their mother's womb and children born as long as 10 years after the incident, said Prof. E. J. Sternglass of the Department of Radiology at the University of Pittsburgh.

★ ★ ★

He said the radioactive debris came from a 43-kiloton nuclear weapons test in Nevada in April 1953.

Sternglass presented his findings in a paper at the 13th annual meeting of the Health Physics Society attended by more than 3,000 health physicists from this country and other nations who study the effects of radiation on man.

In making his report, Sternglass stressed the peak of incidence and the danger in the Albany-Troy area had long since passed. But he insisted his findings were relevant in the light of current U.S. debate on a nuclear nonproliferation treaty and Senate debate on an anti-ballistic missile system.

Tables presented as part of the study to indicate a casual relationship between the double rate and fallout showed:

★ ★ ★

A characteristic 5-year delay in the onset of the disease from the time of irradiation or conception.

● A shift in age distribution of the disease that varied from the normal pattern both in Albany - Troy and in other large population samples.

● Sensitivities at the developmental stages of the disease similar to those observed in children who got leukemia after diagnostic X rays.

Based on his findings, Sternglass feels Civil Defense estimates of what would be tolerable radiation in the event of a nuclear attack are no longer realistic.

The New York State Health Department says there is no evidence, to support Sternglass' report that radioactive fallout over the Albany-Troy, N. Y., area in 1953 had increased the incidence of childhood leukemia.

Dr. Granville Larimore, first deputy commissioner, said Thursday there was fallout in the area at that time but said it was "not enough to produce serious effects."

Fun Is The Key Activity At The Oakland County Fair, Which Opened Last Night

Speedy Senate OK of Surtax Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to give swift approval to a House-passed bill giving President Johnson his long-sought 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Johnson has said he will sign the bill, which was in the Senate for action today, although he opposes its provision for a mandatory $6-billion cut in federal spending.

The House passed the measure last night 268-150.

Its key provisions originally were adopted in the Senate 53-35 April 2 as an amendment to a House bill.

Johnson has said spending restrictions may force cutbacks in federal programs he considers already at rock-bottom levels.

RETROACTIVE

The surcharge is retroactive for individuals to April 1 and for corporations to Jan. 1. It is scheduled to expire June 30 next year unless the new administration and Congress decide to extend it.

The increase, to go into effect 15 days after presidential approval, will apply to all individuals except those at the bottom of the scale — single persons with $1,000 or less of taxable income and couples with $2,000 or less.

The surcharge, along with other tax provisions in the bill, will bring in an estimated $15.5 billion in extra revenue to help improve the governemnt's dismal fiscal picture in the next year.

★ ★ ★

The measure also includes a variety of other provisions retained by Senate-House conferees out of a wide-ranging series of riders tacked onto the legislation in the Senate.

One of the most important of these will put off for a year, to July 1, 1969, the freeze provision on federal matching for aid to families with dependent children included in the 1967 Social Security Act.

Poll Shows Veep Has 47 of State's Dem Delegates

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey can expect 47 of Michigan's 96 votes at the Democratic National Convention. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has five votes and 41 remain uncommitted, according to an Associated Press poll.

Here are the poll findings:

Hubert H. Humphrey	47
Uncommitted	41
Eugene J. McCarthy	5
Edward M. Kennedy	1
John Glenn	1

The Humphrey total included a number of delegates who said they would not publicly link their names with the vice president but who admitted, on condition that their names not be revealed, that they planned to vote for Humphrey on the first ballot.

Michigan's 102-member delegation will receive 96 votes at the August convention in Chicago, with the national committeeman and committeewoman getting one each and each other member receiving 94-100 of a vote. The Associated Press rounded off vote totals for the individual candidates.

ONE PREDICTION

Supporters of the vice president had claimed he could expect as many as 67 of the 102 delegates to back him at the convention.

The poll indicated no great movement by supporters of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., to Humphrey. Most of them said they are still uncommitted. But more Kennedy backers switched to Humphrey than to McCarthy.

Meanwhile, a temporary restraining order preventing certification of Michigan delegates to the Democratic National Convention was issued yesterday by Ingham Circuit Court Judge Sam Street Hughes.

The order was issued on a complaint filed by Mrs. Elizabeth Jo Holmes, Lansing and Gilbert Hill and James Harrison of East Lansing.

RULING CHALLENGED

They seek to overturn a Democratic State Convention ruling that named Nathan Gillison and James Ramey, both of Lansing; Webb Magnor, Jackson, and Mabel Stoltz, Owosso, as 6th District delegates to the national convention.

Harrison said that ruling at the convention was illegal because he was not chairman as provided, and that Mr. Holmes was not notified of a second caucus held on June 2 to select the delegates.

★ ★ ★

A hearing on the complaint will be conducted June 28.

The plaintiffs seek to have the court declare Harrison and Hill as 6th District delegates to the national convention at Chicago in August.

News May Publish in Face of Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — Supervisory and editorial employes of the Detroit News may put the strikebound paper back on the city streets in the coming weeks if the long dispute, now 219 days old, is not settled.

The management of the News emphasized the purpose of a meeting with the editorial and supervisory personnel was "to set up a voluntary training program; a program to be held in readiness and one we hope won't be needed.

★ ★ ★

"This newspaper has no intention of letting the situation drift unresolved for additional weeks and months," a statement released by the News said.

Warren to Leave U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earl Warren has resigned as chief justice of the United States, authoritative sources reported today.

The big Californian was named to the top post on the Supreme Court in 1953 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. At 77, he is known to have long felt it was time to step aside.

★ ★ ★

President Johnson, who expects to leave office himself when his term ends in January, will be able to name Warren's successor before he leaves. The appointment is of critical significance on a court where appointees commonly serve for decades and the relative strength of the liberal and conservative factions can be reversed by the departure of a single justice — depending on the politics of the president who chooses the man to fill the vacancy.

YEARS OF CONTROVERSY

The Warren years on the court have been marked by unrelenting controversy. From the historic 1954 decision on school segregation up to the equally sweeping housing discrimination handed down just this past Monday, the court's actions have been headline-makers.

★ ★ ★

Ultraconservatives, while generally outraged at the court in general, have had special dislike for Warren.

★ ★ ★

Through it all, the man in the eye of the storm has, to all appearances, been unflappable, retaining the outgoing and unpretentious manner that stood him well in his three scandal-free terms as governor of California before he was named to the bench.

GOP CHOICE

Waterford Airs Intent to Hire Black Teachers

Black teachers for white suburbia is the intent of a resolution approved last night by the Waterford Township Board of Education.

The board adopted unanimously a resolution affirming its commitment to provide Waterford schools "with the best qualified staff from as varied racial, religious and cultural backgrounds as possible."

★ ★ ★

The resolution was put before the board by the Waterford Education Association, represented last night by Robert Crumpton, the association's executive director.

Crumpton, in proposing the resolution, acknowledged that it was not intended to be merely a statement in support of equal opportunity in hiring.

CONTRIBUTIONS

"It is time, he said, for the board to go out of its way to seek those who can contribute not only by their abilities but also by their ethnic and cultural backgrounds. Such persons, he said, would add breadth and depth to the program the school system can offer the communtiy.

★ ★ ★

Crumpton said there are presently only two black teachers in Waterford Schools. This is due largely, he said, to the fact that Waterford is not viewed as a community that welcomes nonwhites.

★ ★ ★

Associate Supt. M. Barrett Vorce said that a number of Negroes he has interviewed for jobs in the school system have expressed reluctance to come into the community because of the hostile environment they fear they will find in Waterford.

The board adopted the resolution with the understanding that further consideration will have to be given to finding ways to implement it.

Fair Housing—2

Property Rights Versus Moral Rights

EDITOR'S NOTE — City voters decide Monday on Pontiac's fair housing ordinance. This is the second of three articles.)

By BOB WISLER

Opponents of open housing often state a variety of reasons for being opposed. The most predominant and those stated most often concern a supposed loss of property rights, a supposed adverse effect on property values, and the idea that there is no need for such legislation.

The reasons that often go unstated have to do with a dislike some whites have of Negroes.

WISLER

Proponents have a variety of reasons to favor open housing. Most often they stress the moral right of such legislation and, especially, the need for the legislation.

In Pontiac the discussion of the open housing ordinance has touched on many points.

'NOT NEEDED'

Two city commissioners who voted against the open housing law said there is no need for such legislation, that Negroes can live in any section of Pontiac they want to.

James L. Rhodes, president of the Pontiac Area Board of Realtors, said this week that Negroes have "free movement" within the city.

The National Advisory Commission on civil disorders has stated that there are two major reasons for Negroes living in slums — poverty and racial discrimination in the housing market.

The commission's report states:

"Discrimination prevents access to many nonslum areas, particularly the suburbs, and has a detrimental effect on ghetto housing itself."

'SEGREGATON CORNERSTONE'

The commission concluded that "residential segregation prevents equal access to employment opportunities and obstructs efforts to achieve integrated education. A single society cannot be achieved as long as this cornerstone of segregation stands."

An extensive study of housing in the city — prepared by the nationally-known Larry Smith and Co., a Washington, D.C. economics firm, has shown that (according to the 1960 census):

● The nonwhite population of the city, 17 per cent, occupies only 13.5 per cent of the housing.

● Nonwhites pay more for housing than do white families, but receive poorer housing for the money paid.

● The condition of nonwhite housing is generally worse than that of the city overall.

● About 67 per cent of all dwelling units were occupied by owners, but less than 13 per cent of those homes were owned by nonwhite families.

DISCRIMINATION CITED

Recent testimony at Civil Rights Commission hearings indicate that discrimination is being practiced in sales and rentals.

Poor People Violence Is Cooled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Poor People's Campaign leaders, pleading for non-violence, managed early this morning to cool off demonstrators angered by the campaign's first serious clashes with police.

Wielding clubs and firing tear gas, police last night arrested 77 demonstrators during tense and angry confrontations.

Several top Southern Christian Leadership Conference officials, including its president, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, pleaded at a Resurrection City rally that lasted past midnight for adherence to their nonviolent philosophy.

But none had been on hand during the two most serious incidents, a shouting, shoving contest between police and demonstrators near the Department of Agriculture, and the tear gassing of a crowd after some youngsters threw bottles and sticks at police.

"I am pleading with you to say violence is not the way," Abernathy, president of SCLC, told an after-midnight mass meeting in a Resurrection City almost under siege by helmeted, rifle-carrying police.

"This is exactly what they want, they're trying to get us out of here," said The Rev. Andrew Young, SCLC executive vice president. "All they need is a little incident like this to get a court order and slap us with a $50,000 or $100,000 fine."

★ ★ ★

The violence came just 24 hours after a 50,000-person Solidarity Day crowd prompted Abernathy to promise that civil disobedience would begin in earnest later this week.

The first hints of trouble came when some of an estimated 500 demonstrators at the often-attacked Department of Agriculture blocked main doorways in midafternoon.

SHOVING MATCH

Then, about 100 demonstrators started to march around the block-long building and got into a shouting, shoving match with police, some of whom used their nightsticks freely.

Blocked from surging into the street at the busy intersection of 14th Street and Independence Avenue, they began a series of hit-and-run tactics that kept police hopping and commuters frightened.

For almost half an hour the line of demonstrators zig-zagged rapidly back and forth, until suddenly someone did not move quickly enough to avoid slamming into a patrolman. There was the sharp crack of a nightstick, and the man went spinning to the ground.

Immediately the crowd's mood turned ugly. At least 20 persons were arrested there before order was restored.

BOTTLE THROWING

But as the cooled-off marchers reached the back gates of Resurrection City, some youngsters began to throw sticks and bottles aimed at police, who finally fired at least 15 cannisters of tear gas to restore order.

But SCLC officials managed before midnight to bring quiet and calm within the camp.

Airliner Hijacked to Cuba Finally Lands in Venezuela

CARACAS (AP) — A Venezuelan airliner with 79 persons aboard landed in Caracas today 22 hours later. It had been hijacked by a grenade-wielding Dominican and forced to fly to Cuba.

The pilot, Capt. Harry Gibson, said the 74 other passengers and five crew members were well treated during their unexpected stay yesterday in Santiago, eastern Cuba's chief city. The hijacker, identified only as a young Dominican, presumably was given asylum in Cuba.

★ ★ ★

'GRENADE IN HAND'

Gibson said the hijacker entered the cockpit 29 minutes after Viasa Airlines flight 797 took off from Santo Domingo for Curacao and Caracas.

"He had a grenade in his hand," said the 51-year-old pilot. "He told us to fly to Havana, but I explained we did not have enough fuel for this and had to land in Santiago."

He said the hijacker did not object.

A spokesman said it was the first time Viasa, Venezuela's international airline, had one of its planes hijacked. But it was the second time in six months that a Venezuelan plane was forced to land in Cuba.

On March 21 a plane of the internal Avensa airline was diverted to Cuba on a flight between Caracas and Maracaibo.

JAMES R. STELT

First Candidate for New Court

James R. Stelt, probate register for the Oakland County Probate Court, today became the first announced candidate for the judgeship in the recently created Pontiac District Court.

Through state law Pontiac's Municipal Court will become a District Court with three judges instead of two. The two present judges will retain office while their terms last and a third will be elected in November.

★ ★ ★

Stelt, 42, a graduate of the University of Michigan and the Detroit College of Law, said, "I sincerely feel that my education and experience, both legal and business, plus my knowledge of the people in the city of Pontiac, qualify me for this important post.

★ ★ ★

"My experience as a court administrator and assistant prosecuting attorney will be invaluable in helping organize the Pontiac District Court system."

RESIDES IN CITY

Stelt, who resides at 261 Ottawa with his wife, twin boys and twin girls, was personnel director and assistant to the city manager for Pontiac from 1951 to 1954, city manager of Otsego from 1954 to 1956, executive director of the Pontiac Lumber Fuel & Builders Supply Exchange from 1956 to 1964.

★ ★ ★

He joined the Oakland County prosecuting attorney's office in 1965 as chief of court operations and joined the Probate Court in 1966.

A member of a number of bar associations and committees and of the Pontiac Schools' Finance Study Council, he said, "The courts are made for the people," and pledged "temperate, impartial administration of justice."

Harriman Flies for Peace Talks Report to LBJ

PARIS (AP)—Ambassador W. Averell Harriman flies to Washington today to report to President Johnson on the deadlocked Paris peace talks.

Harriman is known to believe that long-range prospects for a peace agreement are hopeful; an estimate based on North Vietnam's evident interest in keeping the talks alive.

★ ★ ★

The present stalemate over reducing the fighting and ending U.S. bombing and shelling of the North, however, is expected to continue for a while.

In the expectation that the talks will be prolonged, Harriman has leased a house here and will occupy it when he returns from his 10-day trip to the United States on July 1.

OCCUPY VILLA

Ambassador Zuan Thuy and members of his negotiating team moved out of their hotel several weeks ago to occupy a villa on the outskirts of Paris.

Evidence that Johnson is prepared to persist in the slow negotiations while there is hope of eventual success came yesterday from Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford in Washington.

Canada-Union Dispute

Strike Snarls Seaway Ships

MONTREAL (UPI) — Twelve hundred St. Lawrence Seaway workers went on strike today, stranding 60 ships in the vital passageway from the Atlantic Ocean to the industrial heartland of North America.

Members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers Union staged the walkout in a wage dispute with the government.

The union originally asked for a 21 per cent pay hike and the government countered with an offer of a six per cent raise this year and another six per cent in 1969. The union since has lowered its demand to 18 per cent. Canadian seaway employes now average $3.10 an hour.

★ ★ ★

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, in the closing stages of a heated national election campaign, said the government offer was "fair and reasonable." He said it would not be raised.

A union spokesman said the government "waited too long before they decided to speak."

The government is represented in the dispute by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority which runs the waterway.

Boy, 10, Drowns in Swimming Pool

A 10-year-old Detroit boy drowned in a swimming pool in Bloomfield Township yesterday.

Township police said Derrick Richey was swimming with a companion, Robert Breiner, 10, of 7410 Franklin at the Breiner home when the drowning occurred at 10:18 a.m.

The Bloomfield Township and Franklin Village fire departments recovered the body.

Richey was taken to William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Parking on Huron Unaltered for Now

Parking meters will stay and traffic lanes will remain the same on Huron between the Wide Track legs for an indefinite period.

That is the result of a hearing held yesterday in Lansing by state highway department officials. The hearing was attended by two city officials, the director of public works and the director of law.

They said the legal transcript was taken and no decision was reached by state officials on what once were state plans to facilitate traffic by banning parking and making Huron a five-lane route with one lane for left turns only.

Because of petitions protesting the meter removal — by businesses chiefly on the southside of West Huron — the City Commission had ordered city officials to see what could be done to retain parking for the benefit of merchants.

Their arguments apparently worked — at least for now.

Ulbricht Tells Demand

East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht proclaimed the price as fears of a new Berlin crisis grew because of his regime's new restrictions on travel to West Berlin.

Hatfield Joins Nixon Backers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican vice presidential hopefuls are moving into the camp of front-running GOP presidential contender Richard M. Nixon with antiwar Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon the latest recruit.

Earlier, fellow freshman Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee had abandoned his "favorite son" status and lined up his state's 28-vote delegation behind Nixon.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Charles H. Percy, while not supporting Nixon directly, recently dropped his Illinois favorite son status opening the way for much of the state's big 58-vote delegation to back the former vice president.

Hatfield, Baker and Percy are all considered possible running mates if Nixon holds his present lead over New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and captures the GOP nomination at Miami Beach in August.

ALSO CONSIDERED

Similarly, Govs. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland and John A. Volpe of Massachusetts have received indications from the Nixon forces they are prime vice presidential material and are leaning more and more toward Nixon.

And Texas Sen. John G. Tower, also considered in the running, has been praising Nixon.

★ ★ ★

Reporters kept asking Hatfield about the vice president.

Although "I am not knocking on any doors," he said "I'm not locking any doors either."

Watch for Children

Police Give Traffic Alert

FRIDAY PAGE 2—all 29 Bernice benday hed 36SR 2-1K—POLICE GIVE

Pontiac police today issued their annual summer warning to motorists to watch out for children.

Lt. Clayton Randolph, traffic bureau commander, pointed out that drivers are used to seeing children on the street during the hours that coincide with the start and end of the school day.

★ ★ ★

"However," he said, "kids will be on the streets at all hours every day, now that school is closed."

Randolph suggested that drivers use extreme caution around playgrounds and on residential streets.

ON WAY TO PLAY

"Children will be on their way to play in parks and school yards throughout the day and will also have a lot of free time around their neighborhoods," he said.

He added that bicyclists will be on the streets in greater number and urged motorists to anticipate what the riders might do, rather than to expect children to automatically obey safety rules.

★ ★ ★

"The adults, the drivers, must think for both themselves and the kids," Randolph said.

have indicated that Negroes generally inherit homes that whites have fled, and that the houses are badly deteriorated when they move in.

★ ★ ★

Opponents of the local ordinance contend that open housing laws are unconstitutional and an abridgement of property rights guaranteed by the U.S. and state constitutions.

However, court tests of the constitutionality of a fair housing law have upheld the principle behind them. The U.S. Supreme Court this week broadened the power of the national government to govern housing and to enforce nondiscrimination in the sale and rental of housing.

MAJOR REASON

In a public hearing on Pontiac's then-proposed fair housing ordinance those opposed gave major reasons for opposing such an ordinance — a decline in property values and the belief that the majority should rule and decide on what terms the minority will live.

★ ★ ★

But in argument to the credo that the majority rules, students of government point out that a strong principle of the American government is that law should be applied equally and the minority should not be deprived of its constitutionally-guaranteed rights by the minority.

A number of organizations interested in passage of fair housing laws have contented that major studies show that an integrated neighborhood does not mean a decline in property values.

According to a major study by George and Eunice Grier (Discrimination in Housing, New York, 1960), values decline after a neighborhood is integrated, mostly when whites rush out.

STABLE PRICES

But, the study said, if whites do not rush out chances are infinitely greater that prices will remain stable.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Three area high school students have received college scholarships from the Chrysler Corp. Fund.

The winners are Robert A. Jeffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Jeffe, 1130 Northover, Bloomfield Township; Elizabeth A. Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent P. Burns, 271 Millington, Bloomfield Township; and Linda J. McVetty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. McVetty, 7080 Holiday, Bloomfield Township.

★ ★ ★

Jeffe and Miss McVetty were students at Bloomfield Hills Andover High School, while Miss Burns attended Marian High School.

A jewelry firm headed by a local man has begun a training program designed to provide jobs for "hard-core" unemployed in the Detroit area.

So far, three persons have completed the program and been hired as jewelers by Burr, Patterson & Auld Co.

★ ★ ★

"We wanted more than three," said Donald F. Voelker, 283 Tilbury, Bloomfield Township, president of the company, "but figuring percentage-wise, the size of our plant and the duration of our final training stage, three is good."

The new employes, averaging 15 weeks of past unemployment and nine years of school, are the result of a program started last September when the firm became the first in Detroit to enter into a contract with Northern Systems Co., a federally-financed job skill training center.

★ ★ ★

Training is divided into four stages, including personal counseling and remedial work. The entire program covers 24 weeks.

Two Bloomfield Township residents have been promoted to new posts with Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

Miles G. Welter, 2425 Bradway, former plant extension engineer, has been named assistant vice president-engineering.

★ ★ ★

Welter, a graduate of the University of Michigan, joined Michigan Bell in 1930 as a student engineer. In 1952, he was assigned to the operating and engineering department of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. in New York.

In 1954, he returned to Michigan Bell and was appointed division traffic superintendent.

PLANT MANAGER

Stanley G. Badelt, 331 Roanoke, has been promoted from district plant manager to plant manager in the company's Woodward division.

Following his graduation from Michigan State University as a civil engineer, Badelt came to Michigan Bell as a trainee in Lansing.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Joseph J. Gurney, a former resident of this city, has been appointed a vice president by M&T Chemicals Inc., a subsidiary of American Can Co.

GURNEY

Gurney, who now lives in Ridgefield, Conn., is a graduate of Rutgers University and a member of the Society of Plastics Engineers, the Society of the Plastics Industry, the American Electroplaters Society and the New York Rubber Group of the American Chemical Society.

★ ★ ★

Before his promotion, he served as general manager of the plating division. Gurney joined M&T in 1946.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—The book borrowing period at the Bloomfield Township Public Library will be extended to three weeks beginning July 1.

The borrowing period has been two weeks since the opening of the library in 1964.

★ ★ ★

Books may be renewed for an additional week after the first three. The extended initial period has been made possible by the growth of the library's book collection.

Opening of New Facility Faces Delay

The new Crescent Lake Elementary School probably will not be completed in time for the opening of school in September, Waterford Township Schools Supt. Dr. Don O. Tatroe told the board of education last night.

The school had originally been slated for completion by the end of the summer but, he said, recent strikes in the construction industry have halted work on the project. Practically no work has been done on the school since early last month when the walkout began.

* * *

The new facility is located on a 16-acre site off Crescent Boulevard.

* * *

REMODELING OFF

Work was scheduled to begin on remodeling the Waterford Center building into a new school administrative office building. Tatroe said he would have to halt the $222,870 project in order to insure that Crescent Lake School students would have a building to use in the fall.

In other action last night, the board voted to enter into an agreement with Waterford Township to construct a sanitary sewer to Mott High School. The cost of the project has been estimated at $106,227, of which the school district would pay half.

* * *

The board also received and approved a report on secondary school organization for the coming school year.

The schedule provides that junior high school students will spend a total of 300 minutes in class each day during the next school year, a reduction of one class period from the 360-minute daily class schedule for the past school year.

COURSES CUT

Seventh grade students will have their math-science block cut from two hours to one hour. The eighth grade language-arts-social studies block will be one hour instead of two, and the ninth grade program will be reduced one hour by the elimination of one elective course.

Tatroe said the cuts are being made to balance next year's budget. School district voters had turned down a 7½-mill property tax increase last fall.

* * *

Dr. Tatroe also announced last night that he has been appointed legislative chairman for the Michigan Association of School Administrators. The board consented to his acceptance of the appointment.

Waterford School Affairs

For Children's Village

New Principal Is Named

Fred L. Nowland is the new principal of Children's Village School, 1075 N. Telegraph.

His appointment was approved by the Waterford Township Board of Education at its regular meeting last night.

* * *

Nowland, 43, holds a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University, a master's degree from the University of Michigan, and a specialist certificate in the supervision and administration of special education from Eastern Michigan University.

He presently is director of special education for Washtenaw County Schools, a post he has held since 1965.

HANDICAPPED

He has worked as director of the Lincoln School for mentally handicapped children in Grand Rapids for two years and was a counselor for physically handicapped children in Royal Oak for three years.

He was a counselor for physically handicapped children with Oakland County Intermediate Schools for three years and was a consultant for the physically handicapped and coordinator of the teacher counselor program for the physically handicapped for Oakland Intermediate District for three years.

* * *

He is married and the father of two children.

College to Get Federal Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Montcalm Community College has been awarded a $323,053 supplemental U. S. Office of Education grant for construction of classroom buildings, a learning center and a central heating plant, it was announced Thursday.

The funds, along with a previously granted $378,410, will help finance the $1,753,659 project.

Reopening Near

LANSING (AP) — The northbound lanes of the U.S. 131 freeway bridge over the Grand River in downtown Grand Rapids will be reopened to traffic Thursday says the State Highway Commission. The lanes had been closed since mid-March for repair of the deck and several supports damaged last year when a gasoline tanker caught fire and burned.

Electrical construction work should reach a record $9.9 billion in 1968.

Visited by Jordanian Consul

Sirhans' Injuries Are Healing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, the accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, is healing satisfactorily from injuries he suffered following the shooting, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess says.

Pitchess said the prisoner was granted permission to receive a visit Thursday from the Jordanian consul. A request that the interview be in Arabic was rejected, and the discussion was conducted in English with Sirhan's lawyer present, Pitchess said.

He said Arabic was banned "for security reasons."

Meanwhile Pitchess said Sirhan is being treated for a fractured left index finger and a sprained left ankle by the jail's medical staff and is permitted to exercise daily.

SEPARATE KITCHEN

His food is prepared in a kitchen separate from the one where other prisoners' meals are cooked.

Jordanian officials sought the interview after expressing dissatisfaction with an earlier talk in English between Sirhan and George Zraikat, a local representative of Jordan.

★ ★ ★

Zraikat and Deputy Public Defender Wilbur Littlefield visited Sirhan last Tuesday, and at that time, Pitchess said, Zraikat expressed satisfaction with the physical arrangements of Sirhan's imprisonment.

Sirhan is charged with one count of murder and five counts of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

Enemy Copters Error in Radar?

Misread Signals Eyed in Mistaken Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. sources indicated today that misreading of radar signals may have caused erroneous reports of enemy helicopter sightings around the demilitarized zone and triggered mistaken American attacks on allied warships in the area.

The sources said it was "highly probable" that American planes and artillery fired last weekend on allied ships, which on radar scopes appeared to be low-flying helicopters. A U.S. patrol boat was sunk and an Australian destroyer got 200 holes from American missiles.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Command had no further comment today. A spokesman said only that an investigation is still going on and no official comment will be made until it is completed.

The reported sightings of moving aerial lights and radar traces interpreted as enemy helicopters began last Saturday and continued all week. South Vietnamese sources claimed that 12 Russian-made copters were shot down below the demilitarized zone by American planes or artillery. But despite intense air reconnaissance, there have been no reports of any wreckage.

UNCONFIRMABLE

All the reported activity has been at night and unconfirmable by visual observation.

The U.S. Command, apparently dubious of the helicopter reports, has ordered its fighter-bombers and artillery to hold fire in the area to avoid hitting any more allied surface vessels.

One source said that surface craft showing up on radar scopes could appear to be low-flying helicopters, especially at night.

★ ★ ★

The moving lights that were sighted were observed through telescopes which electronically increase the available light so they can be used at night. The lights appeared to be six or eight miles away, but it is difficult to determine distances through these night scopes, and helicopters reported over or south of the demilitarized zone actually could have been flying north of the zone.

The sightings were described in one U.S. communique as "unidentified aircraft suspected of being enemy helicopters."

The Vietnamese reports said three Russian-made copters were shot down by artillery or U.S. Navy F4 jets Saturday night and another nine Sunday night.

S. Africa to Resume Its Gold Shipments

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Finance Minister Nicolaas Diederichs announced today that South Africa will resume gold shipments abroad.

He said in a press statement the government has agreed to make available 19 million in gold to the International Monetary Fund for France, and $23 million to the fund for Britain, resulting in a fall in South African gold reserves held outside the country. The reserves will have to be replenished through resumed gold shipments, the minister said.

Diederichs gave no indication how or when his government would resume overseas selling of its newly mined gold, about 75 per cent of the non-Communist world's output.

Traffic Jam Aids Elderly Woman

LOUISVILLE (AP) — A massive traffic jam in downtown Louisville helped get back $400 for an elderly woman who stepped out of a cab driven by Mrs. Flora Simpson and headed into a nearby building.

Mrs. Simpson started to drive away but noticed the woman's wallet lying in the street. She left the cab in the middle of the street, retrieved the wallet and returned it to the owner.

Vacation Problem: Execs Won't Go

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK—"I want you to take a couple of weeks off, Fastalk, and I want you to get out of the city to some nice spot and I don't want you to even think about the office," Mr. Big, the president, told his sales manager.

CUNNIFF

Fastalk protested; he had too much work to do, he wasn't tired, he loved his job. "That's an order," Big barked, and so Fastalk slunk away to his summer vacation.

★ ★ ★

The scene might not be common, but it does occur in many large companies, for one of the most persistent problems in scheduling vacations, which generally are being liberalized, is to get the executive to take the time due him.

Rest, relaxation, recreation—just time away from the office—are being regarded increasingly as the route to greater efficiency and productivity. But ironically, some of those very executives who first spotted this route are the least able to follow it.

OBSERVATION

A report to member companies by the American Management Association, a nonprofit research and educational organization that does a continuing study on vacation policies, contains this observation:

"... the predominant problem appears to be the difficulty in persuading executives to take the vacations to which they are entitled and to take enough consecutive time to take maximum advantage of the rest which is intended to be the purpose of vacations."

★ ★ ★

The study shows also that some companies now insist that executives not only take longer vacations but follow them with shorter periods away from the office, and that time off "be taken away from home and uninterrupted by business."

One company's policy contains the clause: "Executives will take such additional time off from work for recreational purposes as is necessary or desirable to maintain a high peak of physical and mental well being."

OTHER REASONS

The management association reports that "these companies have reported improved efficiency and productivity as a result of such policies." But there are other reasons also behind the insistence on vacations.

In some companies, for example, the executive's understudy is expected to develop his abilities during the boss' vacation. It's supposed to be his tryout period, which is reason enough for men like Fastalk to stick around.

★ ★ ★

At least one company requires that every executive take a two-week vacation every six months, partly "to prepare for the coming season," which presumably he will attack with bullish energy.

While executives are resisting long vacations — and in some instances are said to be choosing multiple small vacations or long weekends — most companies seem to be liberalizing their policies for salaried workers.

POLICIES REVIEWED

"Policies are undergoing widespread review and modification," the management association states. The big change appears to be in reducing the length of service requirements for extended time off.

In almost all corporations, the management association says, length of service is the determinant of vacations. The general pattern for salaried workers is one week after six months and two weeks after a year.

★ ★ ★

The liberalization appears most noticeably in the shorter time needed for three-week vacations. Some companies which once required 15 years of service, the management association says, have now lowered the requirement to 10 years.

Other companies have lowered the ratio to three weeks for five years, and a tendency is now appearing to grant a month after 15 years or even 10, instead of after 25 years of continuous service.

DIFFERENT POLICY

For top executives, however, a different policy usually applies, with three or four weeks generally granted regardless of service length. And whereas most employes forfeit vacation time not used in one calendar year, executives often can carry over their time from one year to the next.

Trouble is the executives don't always want it. They'd rather putter around the office, it seems, than putter around a golf course; rather dive into their work than into a cool pool.

Leaders Asked to Aid Counseling Service

Various community leaders were urged at a presentation yesterday to help subsidize a local branch of Credit Counseling Centers Inc. CCC provides professional counseling to families needing guidance in money management, in family budgeting, and in the wise use of credit.

Community support of $20,000 for this nonprofit organization is being southt to meet the operating costs arising from initial interviews of clients and the counseling service extended to cass in which a debt-liquidation program administered by the agency is not indicated or does not result.

★ ★ ★

Counseling is free to debtors. For clients needing a program of dept liquidation, invovling negotiations with crediors and distribution of funds on a planned basis, a minimal charge sufficient to cover the cost of administering such a program is made. That fee shall not exceed $3 a week.

Money for a North Oakland County office is being sought from banks, consumer finance companies, retailers, credit unions, utilities, industrial corporations, labor unions and private foundations.

$3,000 IN HAND

Already in hand is $3.000, Pontiac's share of the General Motors Corp. contribution to CCC, according to G. J. Cesarz, community relations representative.

"Credit Counseling Centers is not a collection agency. It is not a le Ding institution. It has nothing to sell," according to Cesarz.

★ ★ ★

"Its sole purpose is to strengthen wise practices in the family handling of money and credit. With counseling, many families can become better credit-risks, better customes, better employes and better citizens than they now are." he added.

CCC has branch offices throughout lower Michigan.

ONE COLOR
Campus Radicals Demand Revolt, but Have No Substitute Plan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Despite its relatively small membership, Students for a Democratic Society disrupted dozens of college campuses in recent months. Here is a report on this radical group, its leaders, aims, strategy and tactics.)

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO — Carl Davidson brushed apple pie crumbs from his droopy mustache and talked of the revolution he seeks in America.

"Capitalism must go," said the chief strategist of the Students for a Democratic Society, a relatively small band of young radicals that sparked rebellions at colleges across the country in recent months.

★ ★ ★

Davidson, sitting in a westside Chicago restaurant, spoke of SDS spreading off campus and creating "a class-conscious revolutionary —socialist movement."

Pressed for a more precise definition, he paused and looked out a greasy window.

NO ANSWER

"That's one of our problems," he said finally. "We don't have a coherent idea of what we would like to see after the revolution."

One floor above the restaurant, other officers in the SDS national headquarters—three cluttered rooms complete with calico curtains and color pictures of Mao Tse-Tung—were just as vague about the form of the "free society" they advocate.

★ ★ ★

SDS officers claim 6,000 dues-paying national members and another 35,000 members in 200 local chapters. But they refuse to provide a chapter-by-chapter breakdown on membership—not even a list of campuses where there are chapters.

But the SDS' strength does not lie in numbers—its 35,000 claimed members are but a minute fraction of the nation's 5 million college students.

POUNCING ON ISSUES

Rather, it has been in its ability to pounce on the issues troubling students, ranging from residence rules at Princeton to the presence of the Confederate flag at the University of Texas. But of 71 student disorders in the past 18 months, one survey showed all but three were linked to the Vietnam war or racism.

After selecting its issues, the usual SDS tactic is to seek a confrontation with the university administration. At Columbia, Stanford, San Francisco State, Northwestern, the University of Chicago and elsewhere, this has taken the form of occupying campus buildings.

★ ★ ★

When university officials seek to re-establish their authority, as Columbia did by calling in the police, the demonstrators try to bring sympathetic but previously uncommitted students into their ranks.

A survey conducted by Columbia's Bureau of Applied Social Research found that the number of Columbia students and faculty members approving of SDS tactics nearly doubled after police were called onto the campus.

BRIGHT STUDENTS

Most SDS officers are well-read, bright students near the top of their college classes. Davidson, for example, is a philosophy graduate of Penn State who taught at the University of Nebraska before shunning the academic robes for a faded work shirt, blue jeans and heavy boots—garb seen often in SDS circles.

Most memers also are from affluent, middle or upper-class families.

★ ★ ★

What is it that makes these children of affluence revolt against the system that all but guarantees them a life of comfort?

Dr. Alex B. Platt, associate dean at Columbia who dealt extensively with student demonstrators there, advances the theory that campus protest "represents in part a religious phenomenon."

THEY'RE SEARCHING

"These students," Platt says, "are searching for a purified community, one to which they can commit themselves and in which they can find meaning."

". . . I have talked to students who felt through protest, and sometimes violence, they have been purged and purified. Most do not know why they need to purge themselves, but a few say it is because they participate in the affluence which leads to much of what they abhor in American society."

At the height of this spring's campus disorders, the SDS national office sent a telegram to Columbia strike leaders calling for "two, three, many Columbias"—mimicking Che Guevara's call for "two, three, many Vietnams."

Most SDS members view the slain Cuban guerrilla leader as a symbolic hero, but some have difficulty placing themselves in any ideological category.

SOME ARE WEAK

While the SDS chapter at Columbia spearheaded the demonstrations that paralyzed the Morningside Heights campus, congressional testimony. other SDS chapters are sometimes weak, ineffective groups.

At Berkeley, site of the now famous 1964 Free Speech Movement, SDS is simply swallowed up in the welter of other campus groups.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told Congress last year that SDS was working "constantly in furtherance of the aims and objectives of the Communist Party throughout the nation."

This year, Hoover seemed to modify his view slightly. "To simply identify them as Moscow or Peking communists would be missing the point," he said in put it bluntly, they are a new type of subversive and their danger is great."

REDS 'MINIMAL'

Davidson agreed some Communists belong to SDS, but termed their involvement "minimal."

"I could probably count the Communist Party members in SDS on my fingers," he said. "Anyway, the Communist Party of the U.S., the one J. Edgar to worries about, is considerably more of a threat to them than they do us, because we recruit to out of their ranks."

World War I Tank, Other Gear for Sale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Collectors who feel they simply must have a tank now can bid for one.

The tank—two-ton, two-man, French, with one gaping shell hole, vintage World War I—will be auctioned Sunday in Los Angeles by the M.H. de Young Memorial Museum of San Francisco.

★ ★ ★

Those who don't get the tank may be happy with a shred of canvas from a World War I plane, two epaulets worn by a Civil War captain, or more than 200 other bits of crusty military gear.

"I just don't know how high the sale will go, but I'll take a stab and say between $25,000 and $40,000," said Auctioneer Marvin H. Newman.

Traffic Chokes Europe's Cities

PARIS (NEA) — Americans are not the only ones with traffic problems. Almost every major European city is suffering from thrombosis and most have taken drastic steps to ease the congestion.

Building new, costly subway systems is the most popular solution.

Rotterdam has just opened a $86 million underground line while in Munich and Milan new subways are under construction.

Paris is working on a new subway express line, while in London the $156 million Victoria Line, which will link railway stations at opposite ends of the city, is nearing completion.

Subway construction is not only enormously expensive, but it disrupts existing sewers, gas, electric and water mains, as most of these cities have discovered.

* * *

In Milan the digging has been slowed up by discovery of uncharted historic ruins beneath the surface.

CHURCH, ARCH

While digging Milan's first subway line, which was completed in November 1964, workmen discovered, among other things, the foundations of an early Christian church and a Roman triumphal arch.

Additional millions are being spent in Europe on freeways whose advantage is soon dissipated by the increase of cars on the road.

Once arrived at their destination, these cars have taken to climbing the sidewalks in their search for parking space.

* * *

In order to cope with its traffic headaches, Paris is planning a radical face-lift. After 900 years in the same spot Les Halles, the central food markets of Paris, are to be moved to the suburb of Rungis, near Orly, by the end of the year.

* * *

The transfer should ease congestion in central Paris caused by trucks delivering their provisions.

CLOG TRAFFIC

Paris traffic problems are enormously complicated by the frequent "quickie" strikes of public transport workers, which bring railways, buses and subway trains to a standstill.

Munich, too, plans a drastic facial revamp. As host to the 1972 Olympics, Munich has already started rebuilding with an eye to the influx of tourists and its schemes include a series of circular roads that will keep vehicular traffic out of the city center.

Paradoxically, cities like Rotterdam and Cologne, destroyed by bombs during the war, are better off as far as traffic planning is concerned.

* * *

Both have traffic-free shopping centers from which all vehicles are banned.

In Rome, where 100,000 new cars are registered every year, a similar scheme to keep vehicles out of the civic center during peak hours met with failure, due to the scarcity of police to enforce it.

FRENCH HOPES

As for the future, France is pinning its hopes on the aerotrain, which glides on a cushion of air at speeds up to 250 miles per hour, as the ideal form of public transport.

The first aerotrain line, running above rooftop level on a single concrete track, will link Paris to Orleans and be in operation by the early 1970s.

Other European cities are imitating the mole and burrowing deep underground to build their subway systems.

* * *

But whether they soar above or bore below the surface, city-dwellers must daily face the noise, exhaust fumes and general frustration caused by the cars in their midst.

The problem will be with them for many decades to come.

2 Couples Killed in Australian Fire

SYDNEY (UPI)—Two young married couples were killed and 10 persons injured today when fire destroyed a holiday apartment building at suburban Bondi Beach.

* * *

Forty persons staying in the building were trapped as the fire engulfed the stairs — the only exit from the building. Families made ropes of curtains and sheets to escape.

* * *

Thirty firemen on extension ladders axed down doors and cut their way through the winding staircase to others trapped by fire.

The fire was said to have started in the elevator shaft.

Tow Truck Chain Protests Tax by Snarling Traffic

NEW YORK (AP) — Tow truck operators will have to pay for their protest—a traffic-snarling demonstration near City Hall Thursday.

* * *

The truckers double-parked 32 tow trucks, linked by tow chains, for four hours on the Broadway side of City Hall. Each driver was issued a summons for double parking and, in some cases, an additional citation was made for blocking pedestrian crossings.

*

The truckers demonstrated in support of legislation to raise towing rates, but in protest of making towing service subject to sales tax.
