

Violence Erupts as Farmers Withhold Milk

Farmers battled with rocks and clubs outside the Inlay City milk depot today as violence erupted in the opening hours of a withholding strike by milk producers in the Detroit metropolitan area.

More than 100 rioting dairy pickets and non-striking farmers fought in the 20-minute clash shortly before 11 a.m. Observers said a score of men suffered bloody faces and head injuries.

The melee was touched off, State Police said, as about 30 farmers were trying to escort three truckloads of milk to the picket-ringed depot.

There was no picketing at Pontiac's two major creameries this morning. Spokesmen for the Borden Co. and the Detroit Creamery said fresh milk deliveries were normal.

Milk continued to flow smoothly in Pontiac this morning.

Initial strike action in Oakland County was limited to a small handful of picketers who stayed at the Michigan Milk Producers Association (MMPA) depot in Ortonville 1½ hours this morning, without attempting to block tankers bringing in fresh milk.

DUMPS REPORTED

Elsewhere, two milk dumpings were reported early today during the first few hours of the strike by members of the Dairy Farmers Co-operative Association (DFC) against dairies supplying Pontiac and the rest of the Detroit area.

Violence accompanied the first dumping at Eise, where DFCA members had set up a picket line around the MMPA receiving station there.

An MMPA trucker who was attempting to deliver fresh milk about 5 a.m. was halted and beaten, but not seriously hurt, sheriff's deputies said. Eight men were jailed on charges of assault and battery.

Another dumping occurred near Richmond. State police said an MMPA truck was halted on U.S. 25 about 1:30 a.m. About 5,000 gallons of milk was dumped into a ditch, police said.

The striking DFC group had set up pickets around pickup stations in five Michigan cities early today, it was reported.

Pickets were at Alma, Greenville, Saranac, Eise and Ovid, to back up the association's demands for higher milk prices and bargaining rights.

The DFC wants a boost in the price of class one drinking milk from $5 to $6 and recognition at the bargaining table.

The group says that most of its members belong to the MMPA, but claim that the larger organization does not do a good job representing them.

Major Detroit area dairies for many years have contracted only with the MMPA. The DFC wants to sign its own contracts.

Homer Martin, DFC strike leader, said yesterday that his organization represents a majority of the farmers currently supplying milk to the Detroit area. This claim was disputed by MMPA president Glen Lake, who said the strike will be observed only by an "irresponsible minority of rabble-rousers."

Lake added that armed guards may be put aboard tank trucks if necessary to insure delivery of milk.

A spokesman at the MMPA depot in Ortonville said a carload of pickets arrived at 8:45 a.m. and left at 10:15 a.m. None of the pickets left the car, the spokesman said.

From his New Hudson headquarters, Martin was issuing strike orders that may result in further picketing, however, at Ortonville and in Pontiac.

Milk arrived this morning without delay at Pontiac's two major creameries, the Detroit Creamery, 408 Auburn Ave., and the Borden company, 256 Norton Ave.

Company spokesmen said there were no pickets.

The DFC's Oakland County president, Carl Dobat, said the strike strategy would be to keep fresh milk from being delivered to the dairies.

"We hope non-DFC dairy farmers will cooperate with us in withholding their milk from the market," he said.

If milk is shipped to the dairies, Dobat said, the DFC's strategy will be to prevent its being delivered by use of pickets.

Dobat, an Oakland Township dairy farmer, lives at 2460 Dutton Rd. north of Rochester.

BROWNELL SEATS SUCCESSOR — Herbert Brownell Jr. (standing) has his designated successor, Deputy Att. Gen. William P. Rogers, try the attorney general's chair at the justice department after Brownell resigned late Wednesday. The White House announced President Eisenhower's intention to appoint Rogers to the top government legal post.

Brownell Resigns; Rogers Gets Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The choice of William P. Rogers to replace Herbert Brownell Jr. as attorney general apparently will bring no change in the Eisenhower administration's civil rights policies.

Brownell resigned yesterday after more than 4½ years as the government's top legal officer. President Eisenhower accepted the resignation with "very deep regrets," and praised Brownell for "a highly significant contribution that you have made in the nation's service."

Saying he plans to return to private law practice, Brownell disclaimed any ambitions for political office and asserted his intention to "stay in private life."

The White House announced that Rogers, deputy attorney general throughout Brownell's tenure, will be named to head the Justice Department.

He is expected to take over in about two weeks, but his nomination is subject to Senate confirmation next year.

When a newsman asked whether "the Brownell policy will be the Rogers policy," Rogers replied: "We have worked together for 4½ years, and have gotten along exceptionally well. Any differences we may have had have been very minor. In all major matters, we have seen eye to eye."

Brownell has drawn the fire of many Southerners, who blame him for having played a major role in Eisenhower's decision to use federal troops to enforce racial integration at Central High School in Little Rock, Ark.

However, Brownell said Southern criticism "did not enter into my calculations at all." His letter of resignation, made public earlier, recalled that in late August

Say Rocket Developed by Air Force Climbs Cleanly Into Air

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Pentagon announced shortly after noon today that the Air Force's 1,500-mile missile, the "Thor," had just been test fired at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

A spokesman said the giant missile was "successfully launched, and is in the air now."

Today's firing seemed to indicate the missile climbed cleanly into the air.

Two of the Thor missiles fired so far have been virtual failures, with the others rated from satisfactory to excellent.

Additional details were promised when available. The test was the third successful launching of the Thor.

The Army's similar, 1,800-mile "Jupiter" has made three successful flights, including one that "hit the target" earlier this week.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy is trying to decide which of these two missiles should be put into production.

DESTROYS DRONE

The Air Force also reported today that its Bomarc long-range interceptor missile destroyed a drone bomber 100 miles at sea and at an altitude of more than 60,000 feet in a spectacular test Wednesday.

A Pentagon statement added: "The Air Force scheduled tests of the Boeing-built Bomarc for near-misses recorded by cameras (Continued on Page 26, Col. 2)

Store Where Bandit Admits Killing Grocer

EDWARD DREW

Tried to Sell Rifle, Minutes After Shooting

A 26-year-old ex-convict calmly declared "it still shoots straight" as he attempted to sell the murder weapon minutes after he killed a Commerce Township store owner last night.

Jack Davy, 32, of 3080 Terry St., just a few blocks away from the murder scene, said he refused to buy a 30-30 deer rifle because it had a damaged barrel.

The gun was offered to Davy for $25 by Edward Drew, of 2993 Welch Rd., Commerce Township, approximately 15 minutes after store owner Karl Kolm, 63, was shot in his little country market at 1010 Oakley Rd.

"This guy knocked at my door," Davy told sheriff deputies, "and asked if I wasn't the guy in the market for a 30-30 deer rifle."

"I looked at the gun a minute and noticed that the barrel had been dented and told him this and at the same time told him I wasn't in the market any more."

"So this guy says 'well it still shoots straight, but I guess I can't fool you' and walked away from the door."

Slayer Details Fatal Shooting in Commerce

Karl Kolm Killed by Single Bullet, Wife Beaten With Gun

"I'm awfully sorry it happened," were the words of confessed slayer Edward Drew this morning as he poured out the story of the fatal shooting of a Commerce Township grocer last night.

In a new formal statement to Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem and Sheriff Frank W. Irons, Drew, 26, repudiated a statement made last night in which he denied knowledge of the crime and admitted the slaying.

"I got the rifle from my girl friend and went out to do some shooting in a gravel pit off Oakley Park road," Drew said. He said he drove past the small grocery owned by Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kolm and "it just popped into my head" to go inside.

Drew told the officials he did not speak to anyone inside the store nor did Mr. and Mrs. Kolm talk to each other.

"I saw him (Kolm) coming around the counter fast and the gun went off," Drew said. He recalled seeing Mrs. Kolm but said he could not remember striking her.

Kolm, 63, of 1010 Oakley Park Rd., died instantly. The bandit fired only once, sending a bullet through his heart.

Kolm's wife, Amanda, 64, was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital where she is reported in satisfactory condition with head injuries.

Ziem said he will charge Drew with first degree murder tomorrow, after talking to more witnesses.

1915 Law Would Ring Curfew at 8; Anyone Hear It?

By SYLVIA DE STEIGER

The chief of the Pontiac fire department isn't carrying out one of his prescribed duties.

That's a pretty harsh statement to make but it's true. The trouble is, this particular duty, required in a city ordinance, just can't be applied to the 1915 way of life. Things just aren't done that way anymore.

Section No. 6 of the 1915 ordinance reads: "The Chief of the Fire Department of the City of Pontiac shall ring or cause to be rung the bell at the fire station as a curfew signal for at least 30 seconds duration at 10 minutes before the evening hour (8 p.m.) . . . as a warning to all persons in the city of Pontiac."

Yes, believe it or not Pontiac's youngsters, under 16 years old, must be off the "streets, alleys, parks or public places" by 8 p.m. from Oct. 1 to March 31 and by 9 p.m. from April 1 to Sept. 30.

LAW NOT ENFORCED

This is the law . . . but apparently, it hasn't been enforced for several decades. Officials at municipal court claim there are no records to show anyone has been prosecuted for violating the curfew law.

Legally, unless the teenager under 16 is accompanied by a parent or guardian, is on an errand for such person or is employed under the laws permitted by the state, he can be arrested by police if he is found on the streets after this unreasonable curfew hour of 8 p.m.

The ordinance states that the minors and/or parents and guardians may be fined $50 plus costs and/or jailed for 30 days if they violate the curfew.

Law enforcement agencies as well as citizens will probably agree that the ordinance is quite harsh for today's teenager but the law still stands.

STUDY NEED FOR LAW

Two Pontiac educators have realized the need for a workable curfew law. They have drawn up a letter to be sent to the presidents of the Parent-Teacher associations in Pontiac which meet next Tuesday night.

The letter appeals for an internal curfew to be set up by the parents themselves. The men promoting the need for a reasonable curfew are John F. Perdue, principal of Bagley elementary school and youth chairman of the Pontiac Council of P.T.A. and Donnie Smith Jr., junior and senior high school counselor.

They also intend to request the city commission to revamp the old ordinance to meet today's needs.

The letter from the two men addressed to "parents" states: "In view of the fact that there is no enforced city ordinance imposing a curfew on our children it is requested that restrictions be imposed from within the home."

"The increase in juvenile crime and the obvious number of our children 'roaming or hanging around' during late hours at night makes it necessary for a curfew.

Officer Reveals Scott's Story

Says Murder Suspect Characterized Wife as Secret Drunkard

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jurors trying L. Ewing Scott on a murder charge have heard for the first time his explanation to police of the disappearance of his wife.

Mrs. Scott, a vivacious, 63-year-old socialite, vanished May 16, 1955, leaving a wide circle of bewildered friends and a $800,000 estate.

Testifying at the trial yesterday as a prosecution witness was Police Lt. Herman Zander, who questioned Scott after Mrs. Scott's disappearance first became known to police nearly a year later.

Zander said Scott told him his wife was a secret drinker who nibbled at bottles hidden throughout the house and that she was loaded on May 16, 1955, when she sent him off on a shopping errand.

When he returned a half-hour later she was missing and her car was gone from the garage, Zander quoted Scott as saying: "He said he didn't think this was strange," Zander testified. "He said she had left on previous occasions and usually came back in a day or two."

"I asked him if he had ever learned from his wife where she went and what she did on these occasions and he said: 'No, whenever I asked her she'd always tell me to mind my own business, so I never brought it up.'"

Zander said Scott described his wife as a drunkard and a lesbian and said she was mentally deranged.

Among the 23 prosecution witnesses who preceded Zander to the stand were a half-dozen smartly dressed socialite friends of Mrs. Scott, all of whom testified she never drank to excess, was extremely intelligent and was a perfect lady.

The prosecution has about a dozen more witnesses to call before Scott will have a chance to testify in his own defense.

Know the Weather
Can the weather (other than rain or snow, of course) have an important bearing on the performance of a football team on a certain day?

Yes, football players (and everyone else) feel more energetic and frisky during the presence of a high pressure system. But the system affects both teams. Some believe that a team which flies from a low pressure area into a high pressure system on the day of a game may get a sensation of exhilaration.

Players will feel better, less irritable, and probably perform better in good, clear, cold, high-pressure weather—so often prevalent in the autumn. A team with tremendous desire might be affected less by low-pressure weather than one which is expected to win, and which feels it has nothing to gain in a particular game.

To Pool Scientific, Arms Research
Eisenhower, Macmillan Reach Basic Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan today reached basic agreement on pooling scientific and weapons development work.

They named two groups of experts to work out specific recommendations, in the atomic and missiles fields.

A joint statement issued at the White House disclosed: Lewis L. Strauss, U.S. Atomic Energy Commission chairman, and Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of the British Atomic Energy Authority, were designated to make "recommendations in the field of nuclear relationship and cooperation."

Sir Richard Powell, British permanent defense secretary, and Donald Quarles, U.S. deputy defense secretary, were instructed "to make recommendations in the field of military defense, particularly those problems dealing with missiles and rocketry."

"Under the directive of the President and the Prime Minister," said the joint statement, "it was emphasized that the work of these two groups should be guided by the underlying principle of the meeting: Namely how our two countries can be of greater service to the free world."

This section of the statement was paralleled by another paragraph, saying that Eisenhower, Macmillan, Secretary of State Dulles and Foreign Secretary Lloyd had reported this morning.

The Day in Birmingham Baldwin Library Opens Display of Picture Books

BIRMINGHAM—Baldwin Public Library this week opened a display which marks the 300th anniversary of the first picture book for children.

Continuing over a period of weeks, with changes every three weeks, the display will show, in chronological order, the history of the great illustrators of children's books.

Dorothy O'Neil, children's librarian, said the first book was one written in 1657 by Jacob Comenius, entitled "Orbis Pictus" (The World in Pictures).

To show the contrast time, changing ideas and advancement in printing methods has created, a 1957 book, "The March Wind" is shown with the old volume.

The latter was written by Inez Rice and illustrated by Vladimir Bobri. Miss O'Neil said current plans are for the display to continue for four or five months. Library patrons and residents of the area are urged to visit the display.

Baldwin elementary school is being taken over by the "Indians" as 14 tribes gather there today in full regalia. The tribes will have displays of tents, totem poles, shields and Indian lore. More than 200 boys and their dads are active in the program which is sponsored by the Birmingham YMCA Indian Guide group. Parents and relatives are to be guests at the display.

Ed Kibbert, 'Y' secretary, also announced the Young Adults group would see documentary on the essence of a dinner discussion they had last night. This summary said they were in full agreement on finding ways to harness their nations' resources to meet the challenge of growing Soviet power.

The dinner session followed a two-hour meeting between Macmillan and Dulles and their advisers at the British embassy.

Search for F89 Jet Off Atlantic Coast

FALMOUTH, Mass. (INS) — Coast Guard and Air Force planes and surface ships today fanned out over a wide area of the Atlantic off Cape Cod in a search for an F89 jet which vanished during the night with two men on board.

The plane, from Otis Air Force Base, was piloted by Lt. Cletus L. Corn, 25, of Buzzards Bay and High Point, N.C. His radar observer was Lt. Michael W. Clemens, 22, of Kansas City, Kansas. The Coast Guard sent three planes and three surface craft into the search while the Air Force put up nine planes.

An Air Force spokesman said the plane was on a routine radar defense mission and was being tracked on the radar screen at Otis when it suddenly disappeared somewhere north of Provincetown and east of Plymouth.

The city of Colon on the Atlantic coast of Panama was built in 1849 as a construction camp for the Panama Railroad.

Light Radio Relay Set
Developed for Marines

WALTHAM, Mass. — A new lightweight radio-relay set that can be carried on a man's back to battlefield locations has been developed for the Marine Corps by a Waltham concern.

It says the radios have an effective point-to-point range of up to 10 miles, can be linked in chain fashion to transmit messages up to 40 miles, or can operate remote via field wire from up to five miles away, removing their operators from exposed positions.

Electric Bulb Ignites
Cobweb; Barn Burns

ROTHSCHILD, Wis. (AP)—A Marathon County farmer blames cobwebs for the fire which destroyed his barn, 100 tons of hay and valuable equipment.

Joseph Golenblewski said the fire was caused by an electric light bulb igniting dust-covered cobwebs.

Geologists in western Kansas are studying fossil bones which they claim existed 60 million years ago when, they claim, the Niobrara Sea occupied a vast area of that state.

Four Dots — RIK — Four DotsDutch Professor Creates Language for Outer Space

AMSTERDAM (AP)—A Dutch educator says he has developed a cosmic language to communicate with creatures of outer space.

Hans Freudenthal, 52-year-old mathematics professor at the University of Utrecht, lectured on his "Lincos" language before the Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences. An Amsterdam weekly told about it today.

Freudenthal said he thought it very improbable that our earth was the only spot in the universe populated by intelligent beings.

He set out to create a radio language to communicate with intelligent beings, "somewhat resembling us in mentality and education" but who needed not be humans and need not have bodies resembling ours.

For building up a cosmic vocabulary of only 150 words, Freudenthal has written a book of 300 pages that will appear shortly.

It is only natural, he said, that mathematics be used first to communicate with beings from other worlds because mathematics is the most abstract science.

The simplest type of text possible would be sent first. For instance:

Four dots, RIK, four dots, RIK stands for a combination of radio signals of unknown meaning.

This is repeated and alternated by any other number of dots under 10, followed by RIK and the same number of dots.

The receiver is expected to grasp that RIK has the meaning of "IS"—the equality sign.

Next lesson: Four dots, POF, two dots, RIK, six dots.

POF stands for a different combination of radio signals.

Freudenthal expects our counterparts to understand that "plus" has the meaning of "plus."

Other arithmetic operations—minus, greater than, smaller than, multiplication and division—follow.

The second chapter of the book deals with duration of time and notions like "before" and "after." Chapters on "human behavior" and "mechanics" follow. In a second book, Freudenthal plans to continue with geography and human and animal bodies.

The professor said he hoped his lecture made clear that his project was no "funny whim" but is in line with linguistic studies.

The professor was born in Luckenwalde, Germany, and came to the Netherlands in 1930. He has been teaching pure and applied mathematics at Utrecht since 1947.

Indonesian Government Force in North Sumatra

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Indonesian government has moved a contingent of loyal Javanese troops into rebellious North Sumatra.

Sumatra has been in sporadic revolt against the central government for some months. The Sumatrans complain that earnings from their exports are mostly spent in Java.

Is He Still Around?

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—A market owner reported to police a phony $23 check signed "John Dillinger."

Oakland County Needs State Road Aid Now

Oakland County's road situation is a bit of a mess. Some people rightly call it a major mess.

Competent bond men assert that the chances of selling toll road bonds are almost nil.

With this true and toll road a nebulous proposition at best, The Pontiac Press is convinced that the whole thing is a dead duck. We might as well lay the whole idea away in the sweet peas and call it a day.

That means that we must look to Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie for the current developments. At the recent meeting between the State Official and the Oakland County representatives, he painted a gloomy and uncompromising picture. We are scheduled for aid on extending Northwestern Highway, but this will do Pontiac about as much good as running U.S. No. 1 farther into the Keys off Florida.

Oakland County is the second biggest county in Michigan. Next to Wayne, we top the other 82. In fact, we're as big as many of them added together. Furthermore, we are one of the biggest counties in Michigan geographically.

These facts add up to importance. They spell out a distrust that deserves study and consideration ahead of the lesser important areas. We have no wish to see others ignored, but on the other hand, the 600,000 residents of Oakland County have no desire to step aside while others command the money, time and attention. This county is full of voters. They're active, assertive people and they're connected with the most important industries and unions in America.

We ask nothing unfair. We ask no favoritism. But 600,000 are going to arise in violent and fearful protest if we're sidetracked, ignored or told to play second fiddle.

We have the populations. We have the people and we have the traffic. Our highways are crowded beyond anything in the State with the possible exception of Wayne. In addition to our own traffic, we are used freely and continuously by our neighbors. We're a natural gateway to the north, and the beaten path to Detroit from most of outstate lies through Oakland County.

We need roads BADLY. WE NEED THEM NOW. 1959 and 1960 ARE TOO FAR AWAY.

U.S. Supplies to Korea Sold on Black Market

Korean officials angrily protest every time there is a shooting incident involving a civilian Korean and an American soldier.

What is overlooked is the fact that these Koreans usually are killed or injured while stealing supplies and trespassing in military areas. American troops have every right, in fact a duty to protect U.S. property.

A Milwaukee Journal editor who visited Korea some months ago had this to say:

"When we visited Korea . . . the army was being harassed by organized bands of robbers who looted supply trains, broke into commissaries, stole everything they could lay their hands on. It was American tax dollars they were stealing and in stealing they were weakening the American troops and their own troops being supplied by the United States."

The extent of this thievery is indicated by the fact that already this year 1.5 million gallons of gasoline transported all the way from the United States have been sold on the black market.

The United Nations commander admitted that there may have been instances where American troops were too zealous in protecting U.S. installations and supplies. But that does not excuse Korean officials' lack of action in curbing these organized bands of looters and black marketers. The impression is left that Koreans see nothing wrong in this and that it is an accepted way of life in that country.

This attitude adds to the individual U. S. soldier's fear of touching off another international incident. No doubt much equipment is stolen which otherwise would not be if the U. S. had the co-operation of Korean officials in this respect.

The Man About Town

Real Smart Birds They Take No Chances; Seem to Know What to Do

Tact: What a person has who can change the subject without the other party discovering why.

A cock pheasant who for several months has been escorting his harem to eat with the chickens of

Blair Rothfuss near Orchard Lake, stays back in the woods since the bird season opened. Pheasants near the home of

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Parkinson at Lake Orion have been fighting with the roosters in their poultry yard, but now are quite content to be peaceable if allowed to remain with the flock.

Crashing through the kitchen window of Mrs. Geraldine Farnham near Clarkston, a cock pheasant landed squarely in her open oven. However he wasn't quite ready to be roasted, and after raising havoc around the entire house, flew out the same window, as a hunter's dog howled outside — and escaped two gunshots.

The family dog of

Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Oldham of Rochester brought home a dead cock pheasant that some hunter had shot — and didn't have a good retriever.

A stop Tuesday in the Drahn Woods wild life sanctuary by Burnaby Smith of Drayton Plains, shows a big increase in the pheasant population over that which he saw there before the season opened. Shooting there is not allowed.

It surely is quite appropriate and fitting that Oakland County's own

Charles E. Wilson is to be honor guest at a home coming testimonial in Detroit, in recognition of his wonderful services as Defense Secretary. Nov. 11 is the date, and Henry Ford II is to be master of ceremonies. In my humble opinion, Mr. Wilson is our world's greatest business man — and I don't know who I'd put in second place.

The rains have spoiled the color display in the autumn foliage throughout Michigan. And no other county in the Southern Peninsula beat our Oakland.

Asters nine inches across are reported by

Mrs. John Arsenault, growing in her garden in Auburn Heights.

Verbal Orchids to—

Mrs. Martha Tewilliger of Drayton Plains; eighty-fifth birthday.

Mrs. Virginia Phillips of Clarkston; eighty-second birthday.

Mrs. Lola Burrows of Holly; eightieth birthday.

It's Been a Long Recess

David Lawrence Says:

Appointment of Rogers Expected

WASHINGTON — The expected has happened — William P. Rogers, 44 years old, now deputy attorney general, has been selected by President Eisenhower to succeed Attorney General Brownell. The President is desirous of elevating younger men to cabinet posts, and there will be other changes in the next few months with the idea that the younger Republicans will occupy places in the cabinet before the 1960 campaign begins.

Why did Mr. Brownell leave? His decision to withdraw from public office was made last spring. Whether or not the President's failure to give the attorney general a Supreme Court post — as has been the case with other attorney generals in the past — had anything to do with it will probably never be known.

Certainly Mr. Brownell saw no future for himself in government here. He is an accomplished lawyer, and the financial success which Thomas E. Dewey — Mr. Brownell's close friend — has recently made in the private practice of law may have had a real bearing on the decision to leave the Department of Justice.

As for rumors that the "segregation-integration" dispute was related in some way to Mr. Brownell's resignation and that he now will avoid being questioned by Congress at its next session concerning the alleged illegality in the use of Federal troops, it is asserted that the role of the Department of Justice in advising the President in the Arkansas situation has not been one of making decisions, but primarily to set forth the scope of the President's powers.

So far as this correspondent has been able to piece together the story of what happened on the fateful Monday, Sept. 23, when Mr. Eisenhower decided to send Federal troops into Arkansas, it was strictly a Presidential decision.

The Department of Justice lawyers had prepared for several weeks in advance memoranda on what the President could do in the event of a crisis in the enforcement of court orders on "desegregation."

Rumors are current that Warren Olney, chief of the criminal division of the department who recently resigned, favored more extreme measures than were taken, including the arrest of many of the persons at the scene of the disorder at Little Rock, involving possibly hundreds of citizens.

But what actually did happen is that the President was told by telephone from Little Rock on Monday, Sept. 23, that the nine Negro children had been having trouble inside the school.

The mayor of Little Rock sent word to the President that he feared the children might have to be withdrawn from classes.

This aroused the President's ire, and he determined then and there to use Federal troops. He did not follow the customary method of deputizing several thousand assistants to the U. S. Marshal as provided in laws that are normally used to enforce court orders.

The new attorney general has many friends among Southern members of Congress and has co-operated with Sen. Eastland, Democrat, of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and head of the subcommittee on internal security. Mr. Rogers has been an inveterate foe of communism and has been energetic in helping to root security risks out of government.

Naturally, the Senate will use the occasion afforded in considering the nomination of Mr. Rogers to hold hearings on the operations of the Department of Justice with special reference to the use of Federal troops in Arkansas.

But when the facts have been developed and laid on the table, it is likely that confirmation of Mr. Rogers will be voted. The Senate, even when in control of the political party opposite to a President, has always recognized the right of a President to choose his own cabinet advisers. (Copyright 1957)

Dr. William Brady Says:

New York Businessman Speaks Piece for Sherry

The New York businessman, who told me the other day that he is a teetotaler because of his personal inability to "handle" liquor, explained that he is not preaching teetotalism although he does not drink himself.

Instead, he advocates Spanish sherry in place of martinis, cocktails, highballs and vodka when a businessman takes a client, customer or prospect out to lunch. Sherry contains about 18 per cent of alcohol, whereas hard liquor contains up to 50 per cent.

Some who attend cocktail parties and dinners, my New York friend tells me, feel that it would be rude to refuse to drink when the hostess serves liquor. And almost invariably guests must have a "hard" drink for the simple reason that nothing milder is available.

Here again, the New York man thinks, the problem could be solved for those who would like to avoid the stronger stuff, if the hostess would make available sherry or something else milder.

As a matter of fact, it seems to me that it would be simple courtesy for the thoughtful hostess to have on hand something for those guests who would like to drink but want to avoid the highball or martini.

Maybe my friend's compromise could be viewed as a possible solution of the problems of business and social intercourse. No doubt he is more intimately acquainted with both aspects of the narcotic problem (alcohol is a narcotic from first to last) than I am.

I'm so rabid a teetotaler that I stay away if I think there is likely to be any drinking. I do so because the very sight of it makes me sick. If it were really a free country, I'd tell you why it makes me sick.

The Spaniards, who have been making sherry for more than 2,000 years, have found that it increases or at least does not dull zest for food. Thus the hostess who has prepared a fine dinner finds her guests eager to eat it if she governs the pre-dinner drinking in this way.

"Contrast this," my friend suggests, "with the practice of pouring martinis and highballs into the guests before dinner. Often when they finally arrive at the table, not only are their taste buds dead but, it has been my observation, the appetite for the fine food milady has prepared has flown the coop and she might just as well have served sawdust."

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady. If a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Describes Marriage Bureau Plan

Lloyd's case shows the great good that can be rendered our unmarried citizens by the scientific marriage foundation. We directors of this non-profit corporation donate our services to help produce more marriages of the stable sort which will not terminate in divorce. It deserves to rank beside the Red Cross in its vast social service values.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case W-328: Lloyd Q., aged 31, is the advertising man mentioned yesterday who wants to meet a suitable girl.

"Dr. Crane, can't you put me in touch with a girl that you can sincerely recommend as a wonderful marriage prospect?" he asked. And now that we have created a non-profit educational foundation to meet this very need, I can at long last do that very thing.

Yesterday I explained how this scientific marriage foundation is operating in the "Pilot Plant" that we have launched in Indiana.

Suppose on our checked and certified list of women registrants, we decide that Marjorie seems quite suited to Lloyd.

Marjorie has been interviewed by the local clergyman who serves as field counselor for the marriage foundation.

And Lloyd has also been checked by another clergyman in his city who likewise serves as a field counselor for the foundation.

So we offer Marjorie's name to Lloyd. But we don't give her name or her address, for we pro-

Paul Kern Jr. Discusses City Hospital Bond Issue

Mr. Flath mentioned a hospital authority, "through which areas served could share proportionately and fairly in capital and other hospital costs." Pontiac taxpayers use only 49 per cent of the present hospital but are being asked to vote a $350,000 bond issue without even a peek at a readable City or hospital balance sheet. Current hospital losses have been blamed on an occupancy of only 80 per cent of present facilities. What happens when we double the hospital?

The City audit of December 31, 1956, which shows cash and accounts receivable of $7,292,323.73 and unappropriated surpluses of $4,065,183.97, has been kept a secret. Why?

We must vote no bonds October 28th and see to it that an area-wide hospital authority is created to finish, pay for and operate the hospital. Have a hospital board elected and responsible to the taxpayers. Mr. Flath should get the $341,667.92 unpaid hospital bills collected and get the hospital on a pay-as-we-go basis like other hospitals.

Not only should there be a two-way street between the area and the hospital, but also a two-way street between City Hall and the taxpayers' pocketbooks.

Paul A. Kern Jr., Pres.
Pontiac Taxpayers Assoc.

American Denies Britisher's Charge

I respect Britisher's respect for his Queen. Perhaps our Presidents are subject of ill-tempered criticism, but I've never known our President to make long and expensive tours to other lands every so many years, campaigning for several million dollars, nor to owe a war debt to another nation for over 30 years. However, for the pride you have in the head of your country, more power to you.

Explains Shelving of 18-Year Vote

Last year during my senior year, the State Legislature came to various schools throughout the state asking that we have panels to discuss the 18-year-old vote. We did this and did a lot of studying about it. The conclusion was vastly different than you would expect. After thinking it over, listening and discussing, they decided they didn't want the responsibility because they weren't mature enough. This was from about 900 students. We, along with other schools, sent our findings back to the State Legislature, so you can see why it never went further.

Woman Replies to Soapy's Poem

After reading Governor Williams' poem, I'd like to say now Little Soapy, don't you cry, our guilts know the where, if and why. Uncle Sam isn't slow or asleep, he just isn't jumping off into the deep. If our governor spent less time poem setting, he'd know our country is progressing and would get behind our President to help. Then he'd find no time to yelp.

Nylons Give Women Run for Their Money

By PHYLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK (INS) — Eighteen years ago today the first nylon stockings went on sale at a store in Wilmington, Del.

Women of America have been running and screaming ever since.

NOTHING WRONG

Nothing wrong with the stockings, mind. It's the girls themselves.

"They're sort of like the old men who say winters aren't what they used to be," explains William Williamson, president of the Hosiery Manufacturers Association. "Women remember back to those old days before the war—the second world war, that is—and their memory of synthetics is most synthetic."

What women complain about today is that their nylons aren't so sturdy as they were before the war. "You just look at 'em and they run on you," is a typical feminine snarl.

But the fact is that when those first synthetic-fiber sheaths for milady's limbs came to the market, they were exactly one-half as sheer as today's sheers.

"If we could get women to buy that 1938 weight—the old 30-deniers again—we'd be happy, and they'd be happy. They won't, though."

They have eyes only for the stocking-stuffs so filmy as to make cobwebs look hardy.

The 15-denier stocking, exactly half as sturdy as the 30-denier, is what women want now, and that means that unless a lady is as cautious as a schoolmarm in the French Quarter, she's going to hit a snag sooner than she thinks.

WANT FILMY HOSE

If women are going to be vain and demand filmy hose, they would be wise to be realistic, and remember that filmy does as filmy is. In other words, go back to the pre-war nylon denier, and you'll have pre-war wearability.

In honor of the 18th birthday of nylons, Williamson has news: A stocking maker has come out with a new model, with an "almost invisible seam."

This means, of course, that a lady can have a well-fitted stocking, as in the usual seamed full-fashioned variety, and still not have to sneak peeks at herself in window panes to see if her calves are coordinated in a vertical line.

Also, Williamson reveals, one out of six women is now wearing hose to match her costume, be it purple or orange, or worse. Mamie Eisenhower has been a large factor in this trend toward veiling your legs to match your dress.

Mamie is a non-conformist, nylonously speaking. "She always has liked colors, and is perfectly capable of wearing red hose when a vivid dress calls for it. She's done it for years, when no one else would think of it."

There's long been a feeling that colored stockings were more than a mile daring—perhaps even conspicuously coquettish. But as Williamson implies, anyone who would cast the first stone at the first lady deserves a snag at the knee.

So color nylons are in for fall. Never was a trend more likely to have at least a run for the money.

Hudson Man Crushed

DETROIT (AP) — Harold La Follette Jr., 18, of Hudson, was crushed to death Tuesday when a car under which he was working slipped off a jack in a garage near Addison in Lenawee County.

Light Colors Safer

NEW YORK—Light-colored automobiles are involved in fewer accidents than dark ones, statistics compiled by the Better Vision Institute indicate. The light cars show up better at night and look larger.

Develop Easy Test for Liver Disease

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. — A pharmaceutical laboratory in Morris Plains reports that it has developed a simple, rapid screening test that can be performed in a doctor's office and will aid in diagnosing a number of diseases, including some forms of cancer, jaundice and gallstones.

The test measures blood levels of an enzyme, alkaline phosphatase, which rise when liver tissue is damaged.

The new test can be completed in half an hour or less compared with several hours needed for previous test methods. The new technique is said to be so sensitive it is able to indicate jaundice several weeks before symptoms appear.

Before he was named to the U.S. Supreme Court in 1939, Justice William O. Douglas was chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

BOME IS HIS RANGE — Calves are usually at home on the range, but not so for this critter whose favorite range is in the kitchen. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bunte, of Baldwin, Ill., adopted "Torro," now three months old, when its mother died shortly after giving birth. Mrs. Bunte bottle fed Torro for a few days and kept him alive. Now the friendly calf is one of the family and has the run of the house.

Labels on Woolen Goods Tell What You're Buying

Wool fabrics used in yard goods and clothing are labeled to help you know what you're buying, says Bernetta Kahabka, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State University.

The term "virgin wool" on the label tells you that the fibers came directly from the fleece. Fibers with this label have never been used before in any way.

If you see "reused wool" on the label you'll know these fibers have been reclaimed from some wool product which has been worn or used. A label saying "reprocessed wool" is used for fibers that have been made from woven or felted wool products which were never worn or used.

Reprocessed and reused fibers are shorter than new wool fibers. Good quality virgin wools are usually stronger and more resilient than reclaimed fibers. When the fabric is a combination of different types of wool the percentage of each type contained is given on the label.

You'll also find wool fabrics in worsted or woollens, depending on the quality of fiber and process used in making them into yarn.

COMBING PROCESS

To make worsted fabrics, the fibers are put through a combing process to remove short fibers. The remaining long fibers lie parallel to each other.

Yarns made from these fibers are smooth, hard, even and compact. Good quality worsted fabrics have a distinct, clear weave and are usually lightweight.

Worsted fabrics tailor and drape well. They're resistant to wrinkling and take a sharp, lasting crease. Worsteds tend to wear well, though fabrics like serge and gabardine may become shiny.

Shorter fibers are used in woollens than in worsteds. Fibers are not combed to lie parallel and so go in all directions in the yarn. The short fibers are twisted loose into soft, rather uneven yarn.

The weave in woollens is not as clear cut as in worsteds. Some woollens have a soft, slightly matted appearance, others have a napped surface. Although woollens are soft, such fabrics as tweeds and homespuns sometimes feel scratchy against the skin.

Soft woollen fabrics do not hold as sharp a crease as worsteds. But their softness keeps them from holding hard wrinkles and from getting shiny.

Old, New, Exotic Mingled

India Woos the Tourists With Fine Modern Hotels

NEW DELHI—India, today, is becoming as comfortable for tourists as it is exotic. Western-style comforts have cropped up overnight in this land of marble palaces, jeweled elephants, saris and sacred cows.

Accommodations in the capital, for example, are no longer a problem. Two brand new hostels, The Ashoka with 333 rooms and The Janpath with 205 rooms, now offer the last word in modern living. Another de luxe establishment, The Oberoi International, will open for business in the fall of 1958. Rates at New Delhi hotels range from $3.50 to $8.50 including three meals a day.

All of these new hotels and four others, now operating, are equipped with air-conditioning, a necessity during the sultry monsoon season. The weather in New Delhi, however, is cool from November through March. The air is spring-like, and the thermometer frequently dips down to a bracing 40 degrees.

Air-cooled rail service has been stepped up to all parts of this vast sub-continent. The government inspects hotels, and trains student guides. The state is also behind an extensive program to build guest houses, priced as low as $2.50 a night with meals, from the Vale of Kashmir to the temples of Mysore.

At first glance, New Delhi is little different from a western city. As the capital of India since 1931, the city has its share of spacious government buildings, formal gardens, shady boulevards, fashionable night clubs and luxury hotels.

OLD CAPITAL. Adjoining the new city, however, is the old, former capital of the Moslem Slave Dynasty. Inside Old Delhi are such architectural gems as the Red Fort, the Great Mosque and the Imperial Palace of Shah Jahan, builder of the Taj Mahal.

Life moves at a slower pace in Old Delhi, but the narrow, crooked streets have a carnival atmosphere. Vendors with tea urns, strapped to their backs, clank their metal cups, and merchants shout out their prices for fruit, flowers and vegetables. The famous Chandni Shah, once

Big Increase in Homeowners

Cross-Section Survey Lists 50 Pct. Families Buying Houses

ANN ARBOR (INS) — More than half the families in the United States probably own their own homes.

That's the finding of a survey on consumer finances recently completed for the Federal Reserve Board by the University of Michigan's Research Center.

The study reveals the number of home owners have increased about 40 per cent from 1949 until early 1957, and the total of mortgage-owned houses increased from 5,000,000 to almost 14,000,000.

Homes cost purchasers a median price of $12,000 last year, up $2,000 from 1955. Eighty per cent of the purchasers incurred mortgage debts which have increased from an average of $3,700 to $6,100, reflecting higher prices and more liberal purchase terms.

Most home purchasers had a median income of $5,640 while the median mortgage debt of persons using credit was $8,500.

The survey covered a cross section of 3,000 families. It found about five per cent of all non-farm spending units bought homes for their own occupancy last year. One-third of these were new homes.

(The survey defined a spending unit as related persons living together who "pool" their money.)

New Refueling Method for Fire-Fighting Planes

OTTAWA — Canadian foresters are experimenting with a method of refilling in flight the water tanks of aerial "tankers" used in fighting forest fires.

The method being tested utilizes pontoon tanks that fill as the plane skims across the surface of a lake, scooping up water through a refilling pipe.

Magnolia Tree Named for French Botanist

ATLANTA—The magnolia was named in honor of a famous 17th Century French botanist, Pierre Magnol. It is a very old tree; fossil remains have been identified in formations 60,000,000 years old.

The wood, once used in making baskets and crates, is not plentiful now, but is occasionally seen in fine paneling or in other ornamental wood pieces. "Black magnolia" paneling, because of its near-black and olive green, is a much-prized and unusual item.

Summations Set in Abel's Trial

Spying Case Scheduled to Go Before the Jury
Tomorrow

NEW YORK (AP)—Summations take place today in the trial of Russian Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, accused of spying for the Soviet Union.

Both sides rested yesterday after seven days of testimony in Brooklyn Federal District Court. Judge Mortimer W. Byers is hearing the case with a jury of nine men and three women.

The defense rested without putting a single witness on the stand. Counsel for the 55-year-old Abel presented a series of motions for acquittal on each of three counts in an indictment handed up by a federal grand jury last Aug. 7. Byers denied all of them.

The case is scheduled to go to the jury tomorrow.

Abel was arrested last June as an illegal alien and indicted on charges of stealing American atomic and defense secrets during a nine-year period while he posed as a Brooklyn photographer.

Final prosecution witnesses were FBI men who searched Abel's studio and his Manhattan hotel room. Among items found, they said, were microfilmed data contained in two hollowed-out screws, a hollowed-out flashlight, a hollowed-out pencil and a hollowed-out wooden block.

Star government witness was Reino Hayhanen, admitted Russian spy who defected to the West last May. Hayhanen testified that Abel was his boss in the espionage conspiracy.

If convicted, Abel would face the possible maximum penalty of death.

Upholds Man Erasing Chalk Mark on His Tire

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Traffic officer R.E. Helsel arrested Frank Livingston after, he said, the plumber had erased a chalk mark from the tire of his parked truck.

Helsel said Livingston had obstructed an officer's duties because the chalk marks are used to identify overtime parkers. This, contended Helsel, constituted destroying evidence.

Municipal Judge Donald Wright dismissed the case. He ruled that evidence is not evidence unless a crime is committed—and the city has no ordinance forbidding erasing chalk marks.

States Should Inspect All Cars

By RUDOLPH F. KING
Registrar of Motor Vehicles
Chairman, Massachusetts
Highway Safety Committee

Every state should have a periodic motor vehicle inspection law. Experts constantly tell us and our records show that the states using this safety regulation have the lowest number of accidents caused by defective equipment.

We must recognize the importance of maintaining motor vehicles in safe mechanical condition when operated upon the public ways.

No airline would knowingly allow a plane to take off if it were defective; no railroad would knowingly run a passenger train in any way defective; and yet there are those who are not too concerned that thousands of motor vehicles upon our highways have defective equipment and are being driven day after day on congested highways, a menace to life and limb.

If we are to reduce traffic accidents and deaths on the highways of the United States, every state must have periodic motor vehicle inspection.

We encourage people to visit in our respective states, and thousands do so, traveling by automobile. They should be allowed to travel only in cars that are mechanically safe.

The equipment section in a motor vehicle department is one of its most important units. Among the many and varied functions of the equipment section should be motor vehicle inspection.

The inspection program should be divided into two important parts: First, the school bus inspection which guarantees to a great extent the safety of our children; that is, those children who use motor vehicle transportation to and from school; and, second, the semi-annual general inspection of all motor vehicles that protects the public as a whole.

INSPECT CARS

All school buses should be inspected at least every other month during the school year by properly trained and authorized motor vehicle equipment inspectors. The safety of our children is the most important single subject we can talk about, and there should be no disregard of proper regulations for their protection.

A vehicle found with defective equipment should be taken off the road at once, or the owner given a limited time in which to put it in safe condition, depending on just what defects have been uncovered and how serious they may be.

There should also be a requirement that secondhand motor vehicles purchased between inspection periods be inspected within a given number of days after registration.

Inspection of equipment of motor vehicles is made by two different systems, state-owned inspection and privately owned, state-controlled inspection stations.

The value of these systems could be argued for days and possibly we would never come to a solution satisfactory to everyone. Regardless of the system used, every state should adopt one of them.

OFTEN OVERLOOKED

The importance of vehicle inspection has too often been overlooked. However, those states which have made effective use of vehicle inspection as a safety tool offer testimony to the fact that under appropriate administrative guidance such a program can be a major contribution to the economic well being of its citizens.

Approximately one out of every three cars checked in a recent nationwide sampling of vehicle condition was found to be in need of maintenance attention.

CHECK ON BRAKES—Lives depend upon the brake mechanism in cars. They should be checked often. Safety officials urge periodic motor vehicle inspections by states to cut down on traffic accidents.

to one or more parts affecting safe operation. Of the 10 items "safety checked," brakes, tires and lights stand out as parts most frequently in need of service attention.

The findings of inspection vary in details checked; however, in 1934 Colorado reported defects in 19.8 per cent of vehicles inspected. New Hampshire reported 44.8 per cent and Pennsylvania reported 53.1 per cent.

In New Jersey, after 19 years of motor vehicle inspections, approximately 40 per cent of vehicles are rejected on their first appearance for the first inspection. In 30 per cent of these rejections, the defect could have been discovered by the driver in advance.

In Massachusetts where periodic motor vehicle inspections are held in April and October, it is significant that with more than one and one-half million motor vehicles registered, there was slightly less than 1,500 violators who were cited for non-compliance with the law after the April inspection and but 537 violators following the October inspection.

This is concrete proof that the motoring public will respond and cooperate when the law is properly administered.

It is worthy of note that on a national average, about 6 per cent of all vehicles involved in accidents had defective equipment, while in Massachusetts where we have compulsory inspection, less

Navy Jet Crashes, Burns; Pilot Killed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A Navy jet crashed and burned just short of a runway at Miramar Naval Air Station late yesterday, killing its pilot and catapulting one of its 20mm cannons into a car on U.S. 395.

The Navy identified the pilot as Lt. (jg.) Wallace S. Nelovett, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin J. Nelovett, Norristown, Pa. He also leaves a widow.

The cannon flew 50 feet up an embankment and hit a car driven by Dr. Carl Eckart of La Jolla, Calif. Dr. Eckart was not hurt.

Judge Must Decide if Books Obscene

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A tall, 66-year-old circuit judge has become Kansas City's conscience on lurid reading matter.

Judge Ben Terte has before him 260 copies of publications some citizens say are obscene. He must decide whether they are.

Two weeks ago police searched five newsstands and a magazine distributing house. They seized between 13,000 and 20,000 magazines, books and pamphlets.

"We want to know which ones are obscene under the law," said Police Chief Bernard Brannon. "The court will tell us. Then we can take further steps to keep them off newsstands."

The raids were made under a Missouri law providing property may be seized and brought before a judge for a ruling on whether it is obscene.

The judge becomes "the conscience of the community" according to State Supreme Court ruling a year ago. If he finds the publications objectionable, he may order them destroyed.

The state placed the 260 copies in evidence at the start of a hearing before Judge Terte yesterday. The hearing was recessed indefinitely to allow defense attorneys time to determine whether they wish to present evidence.

The Proxy Murder

By ERLE STANLEY GARDNER

Copyright 1957

THE STORY FAR: Jerry Conway is alarmed by an advertising campaign for a new product, a "Sputnik Cocktail," which is a combination of rum, vodka and grape juice. He is convinced that the cocktail is a dangerous concoction and is determined to expose it. He goes to the home of a woman named Rosalind, who is the daughter of a wealthy man, and tries to get her to help him. She is initially reluctant but eventually agrees to help him. They go to a party where the cocktail is being served and Conway tries to get Rosalind to drink it. She refuses, but Conway is determined to get her to drink it. He eventually succeeds in getting her to drink it, and she becomes ill. Conway then goes to the police and reports the matter. The police investigate and eventually find out that Conway is the one who put the cocktail in Rosalind's glass. Conway is arrested and charged with the murder of Rosalind.

Chapter 10

Conway thought for a moment, then said, "Hang it, Mason! Farrell is mixed up in this thing. He had to be the one who killed that girl. He..."

"Now wait a minute," Mason said. "Don't start trying to think out antidotes until we're sure what the poison is and how much of a dose you've had."

Conway was excited now. "I tell you I'm certain. This girl Rosalind was sincere. She was terrified. She told me herself that she was afraid she'd be killed if anyone knew... Farrell found out what she was doing and..."

"And you think Farrell killed her?"

FARRELL IN PANIC

"No," Conway said, "but I think this Gashouse Baker, or some of his thugs did, and then Farrell got in a panic and tried to blame it onto me."

"That checks," Mason said. "I'm willing to ride along with you on that, but so far it's just an idea."

"Farrell tried to trap me," Conway said. "I..."

Abruptly he broke off.

"Well?" Mason asked.

"Let me think," Conway told him.

"All right, do your thinking," Mason said, "but don't start moving until you know where you are. In the meantime, ring up your secretary and tell her that I'm coming up to talk with her."

TELL HER NOTHING

"Shall I tell her anything about what happened?"

"Don't tell her what happened. Don't tell her where you are," Mason said. "Simply tell her that I'm coming up to talk with her, that I'm your attorney, that you want her to co-operate with me to the limit. Tell her nothing else."

"Okay," Conway said. "I'd better get busy. I've got a lot of things to do."

Mason looked at him suspiciously. "Such as what?"

"Such as getting that phone call through, getting to an all-night drugstore and making my purchases."

Mason regarded him thoughtfully. "You're getting filled with energy all at once."

"When there's something to be done, I want to get started."

"All right," Mason said, "start in by calling your secretary. Tell her I'll be there in fifteen minutes."

"And I'll see you at eight o'clock in the morning?"

"A little after eight," Mason said. "Be sure you have breakfast. You won't want to tackle what we're going up against on an empty stomach."

Mason left the motel, stopped at a phone booth, called Paul Drake's office.

"Any one found out who the corpse is, Paul?"

"Not yet."

"I've got a job for you."

"What?"

"I want that gun traced."

"What's the number?"

"Smith & Wesson C 48909."

"It won't be easy to get the dope on it tonight."

"I didn't ask you if it would be easy. I said I wanted it traced."

"Have a heart, Perry!"

"I'm having a heart. I told you to get your men lined up. Now put 'em to work."

"Will I be seeing you?"

"In an hour or two."

Mason hung up the phone, drove to the Cloudcroft Apartments, and rapped gently on the door of Eva Kane's apartment.

The door was almost instantly opened.

"Miss Kane?"

"Yes, Mr. Mason?"

"That's right."

"Come in please. Mr. Conway telephoned about you."

Mason entered a typical one-room furnished apartment, wide mirrored doors concealing the rollaway bed. Here and there, were bits of individual touches, but, for the most part, the apartment adhered to the standard pattern.

WHAT HAPPENED?

"Do sit down, Mr. Mason. That chair is fairly comfortable. Can you tell me what happened?"

"What do you mean what happened?" Mason asked.

"You see, the last I knew Mr. Conway was going out to keep that appointment. I begged him not to. I had a premonition that something terrible was going to happen."

"It's all right," Mason said. "We're in the middle of a three-ring circus, and I'd like to start getting things unscrambled before too many people catch up with me."

"But what happened? Is Mr. Conway...?" He told me he was not in his apartment, and he couldn't tell me where he was.

"He's temporarily out of circulation," Mason said. "We're going to be at the District Attorney's office at nine o'clock in the morning."

"The District Attorney's office?" Mason nodded.

"Why?"

"Someone got killed."

"Killed?"

Mason nodded. "Murdered."

"Who was it?"

"We don't know. Some young woman. Blonde hair. Blue eyes. Rather slender waist, but lots above the waist and quite a bit below. About — oh, somewhere along twenty-seven. Blue eyes. Blue sweater. Does that ring any bell?"

"That much of it rings too many bells, Mr. Mason. I know lots of girls that description would fit except for the — well..." She laughed nervously and said, "The distinctive part of the description is the extent of the curves above and below the waist."

"She was generously built," Mason said. "Not too much out of the ordinary, but she had plenty and she wore a tight-fitting light blue sweater."

"How did it happen? Was she the woman Mr. Conway was to meet, the one who called herself Rosalind?"

"We don't know," Mason said. "I haven't time to give you a lot of information. I have too many things to do between now and nine o'clock tomorrow morning. You're going to have to give me information. Now about that voice. I understand there was something vaguely familiar about that voice, about the tempo of it?"

"She nodded."

"All right, let's think," Mason told her.

"I've been trying to think. I'm so worried about Mr. Conway, I'm afraid... Oh, I just had a feeling it was a trap."

"You like him a lot?" Mason asked.

"She suddenly shifted her eyes. Her face colored. 'He's very nice,' she said. 'However, he doesn't encourage personal relationships at the office. He's always very courteous and very considerate, but... Well, not like Mr. Farrell.'"

"What about Farrell?" Mason asked.

"Farrell!" she spat suddenly with dislike in her voice.

"What about him?" Mason asked. "I take it he's different from Conway?"

"Very different."

"Well," Mason said, "you're going to have to quit thinking about Conway, and start thinking about that voice if you want to help him. You're going to have to try and place what it was about the voice that was familiar."

Sputnik Cocktail — 1 Jigger Rum, 1 of Vodka, 1 Sour Grape

Considine Corrects Error on Royal Marys

EDITOR'S NOTE: Our short copy reader at the Pontiac Press noted and corrected Considine's error on the Queen's husband. We thought you would enjoy this anyway.

NEW YORK (INS)—A day off...

Fellow postcards:

"Have you heard the definition of the Sputnik cocktail — one jigger of rum, one jigger of vodka, and one sour grape?"

Yes.

I got my Royal Marys fouled up for a paragraph or two in a recent series on Elizabeth II, and apologize to those who wrote in and those who didn't. Also, my apologies to Mary Queen of Scots and "Bloody Mary," Queen of England. Won't happen again, girls.

Samuel Raymond Dobbs, of the city of Camden, N.J.'s board of commissioners of assessment, is among others who straightened me out. I quote:

"As you doubtless know Queen Elizabeth II is descendant from Mary Queen of Scots who was the daughter of King James V of Scotland and Princess Margaret Mary Queen o' Scots 'Bloody Mary'."

"Twas waur when we said Lady Jane Gray was daughter of Henry VIII. She was his greatniece. An' we are nae disposed to blame the printer for making James VI, fourth o' the name."

"Weel, the pit's deep but your company's guid so we dinna feel so bad."

"Past, Bobbie! Hue ye no more o' the Dew!"

Former Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Gordon Dean, now a N.Y. banker, writes:

"It is at a time like this — with Sputnik transmitting beeps to all the world — that people look for hasty solutions to tough problems. Most of the solutions do not come in a hasty fashion but as a result of years of planning and only because of the dedication of well trained people."

"The men of science have, over the past few years, been taking a lot of ribbing and in some cases have been the objects of rather heavy attack. In fact there were some people who asserted that the only reason the Russians had made any progress in the scientific field was because of the secrets stolen from our scientists or given to them by our scientists. It should be apparent that the Sputnik incident doesn't support such a thesis."

A pal, noting an item here recently about the odd feeling one gets in Canada seeing the cashier return only $9.60 Canadian for $10. American, writes:

"Since the end of the war, the U.S. has invested some $12 billions in Canada. We now own some 60 per cent of all the key industries — steel, mines, etc. This has had the effect of forcing up the Canadian dollar in ratio to the American dollar."

In the true sense, the Canadian dollar is not 'more sound' than the American. It's not very complex. Just the old old law of supply and demand."

"Just read your piece on Terry Brennan in the American Weekly, and the point you make that he'll be fired if he fails to have a good season. I have a word for you. It is simply this: Skunk. — Notre Dame Fan."

Well, back to that little old shower bath.

CHICAGO — The average floor area of today's new house is more than 1,230 square feet compared with 1,170 in 1935 and 1,140 in 1954. At the same time, roughly 70 per cent of the new dwellings have three bedrooms compared with 58 per cent in 1954.

WEATHER AHEAD — The weather maps below give the U. S. Weather Bureau's long-range forecasts from now until mid-November. It is not a specific forecast in the usual sense, but an ESTIMATE of the average temperatures and precipitation for the period.

Temperatures from now until mid-November are expected to average below seasonal normals over the southwestern quarter of the nation and also along the Gulf Coast. Above normal temperatures are predicted for the Atlantic Coast States, the Ohio Valley, and the Great Lakes Region. In unspecified areas about normal temperatures are in prospect.

Precipitation from now until mid-November is expected to exceed normal over most of the country except for subnormal amounts in the Pacific Northwest and near normal over the Northeast and Western Plateau.

Heads National Foundation

Scientist Respected by Ike

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Dr. Alan T. Waterman has had many honors and titles heaped upon him in the course of his distinguished scientific career but there are two he particularly remembers.

He has a state of Maine guide license, recognition of his knowledge and love of the Maine woods through years of summer camping.

And more recently, someone else spoke highly of Dr. Waterman's ability as a "guide." Said President Eisenhower at a White House news conference:

"When I want to know about science, I call for Dr. Waterman."

Handsome, white-haired and vigorous, the 65-year-old Waterman is director of the fledgling National Science Foundation—a post which makes him the government's top science adviser.

APPOINTED BY TRUMAN

Waterman was appointed by then President Harry S. Truman when the NSF was set up six years ago with congressional instructions to "establish national science policy" among other responsibilities.

The foundation and Waterman have been both praised and blamed in the six short years. Applause has greeted the foundation's intelligent support of no-strings-attached pure research. But there has been criticism of the foundation for not setting the course of the nation's science policy.

Commented a Waterman associate on this point: "Alan is not the table-pounding type but how long would a table-pounder last? Waterman has won the President's ear on scientific matters because Ike, like others, can spot a level-headed man of integrity."

Level-headedness and integrity have been the Waterman hallmarks since his university days as a Princeton graduate student in physics. In the years spanning his signal corps experience in World War I and the beginning of World War II Waterman taught physics at Yale.

During World War II he served in the justly-famous Office of Scientific Research and Development, helping to speed radar, proximity fuses and other research achievements from the laboratory to the field.

After World War II Waterman served as chief scientist of the office of naval research, raising it to its acknowledged position of preeminence over its counterparts in the Air Force and Army.

The father of five, Waterman combines the love of the outdoors and fine music. He is a good pianist and violinist and finished third in the foundation's recent bowling tournament.

Mackie Names Road Advisers

New Group to Counsel State Highway Chief on Building Standards

LANSING (AP) — Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie has set up a Michigan State Highway Industries Committee to advise on highway construction problems. Mackie said the group will be asked for counsel on construction standards, pre-qualification of contractors and capabilities of road builders as measured against the demands of the new 1½ billion dollar construction program.

Its activities will be coordinated with those of the five-man Highway Advisory Board, a statutory agency which advises on broad policy questions.

Named to head the new group was James P. Dunnigan, West Branch oil man.

Serving as members are J. Gardner Martin of Lansing, district engineer for the Portland Cement Co.; L. Miner Doolen of East Lansing, construction equipment firm executive; F. Roland Sargent, Saginaw contractor; John R. Snell of Haslett, engineering consultant; Wilbur C. Wright of Williamston, industrialist and builder; Varnum B. Steinbaugh of Detroit, engineering consultant, and Leet M. Denton of Grosse Pointe, road and bridge builder.

Hal Boyle Says:

Calorie Counters Envy All Happy Fat Men

NEW YORK (AP)—Every happy fat man has a major problem in life—how to put up with the envy of his dieting friends.

They begrudge him each mouth-watering calorie he consumes; each pound by which he outweighs them they take as a personal insult.

If a fat man were to take seriously all the fables thrown at him, he would quickly worry himself to a skeleton. At this point, of course, his friends would start exclaiming solicitously, "Gee, pal, you don't look good—you took off too many chins."

The fat man has been the target of medical concern since Hippocrates, the father of medicine, observed 400 years before Christ: "Fat men are more likely to die suddenly than the slender."

But throughout all history the fat man also has been the butt of slanderous attacks that are based, not so much on concern for his welfare, as upon envy of his well-being.

It is true that Shakespeare did point out some of the virtues of the portly when he quoted Julius Caesar as saying, "Let me have men about me that are fat, sleek-headed men, and such as sleep o' nights."

But Shakespeare dealt from the bottom of the deck, too.

He had Hamlet say, "Oh, that this too solid flesh would melt, thaw and resolve itself into a dew!" And in "Love's Labor Lost," he wrote: "Fat paunches have lean pates, and dainty bits make rich the ribs, but bankrupt quite the wits."

Here are a few other famous and unfair attacks on the fat man: The fatter the sow, the more she desires the mire—John Bunyan.

A fat man has a thin soul—Welsh proverb.

Nobody loves a fat man—American proverb.

A fat man is no good in war; he can neither fight nor run away—another American proverb.

Has the fat man no answer to the barrage of insults he meets except a cheerful smile? Yes, happily, he has literary friends.

Washington Irving, who threw a wide shadow himself, pointed out that the fat man is of an essentially peaceful nature.

"Who ever hears," he asked, "of fat men heading a riot, or herding together in turbulent mobs?"

The tolerance of the fat man is proverbial. He takes his philosophy from Ecclesiastes: "A man hath no better thing under the sun than to eat, and to drink, and to be merry."

The fat man can console himself also with the fact that, unlike the skinny man, he is no hypocrite. As Bernard Shaw pointed out, "There is no love sincerer than the love of food."

Heaven itself is held out as a hope to the fat. In 1609 William Lithgow wrote: "He that eateth well drinketh well, he that drinketh well sleepeth well, he that sleepeth well sinneth not, and he that sinneth not goeth straight through purgatory to paradise."

And where does that leave for skinny people to go? There is an old Italian proverb that aptly describes the fate of dieters who make a religion out of counting their calories. This is it: "Who fasts but does no other good saves his bread but goes to hell."

Please pass the potatoes.

Junior Editors Quiz on SPORTS

QUESTION: How did football originate?

ANSWER: The great American game of football is an outgrowth of the English game of rugby, which British colonists introduced to this country in the 19th century.

At the time, rugby was fundamentally a kicking game with 40 players on a side. But American college students changed it by allowing a player to run with the ball and trimming the number of players to 25.

The first intercollegiate game was played between Rutgers and Princeton in New Brunswick, N.J., in 1869. Rutgers won by 6 goals to 4. The game was not timed, but was decided when one team scored six goals. Eventually the number of players on a team was cut to eleven as at present. The forward pass came into general use in 1913.

FOR YOU TO DO: Learn the rules of football and the next time you go to a game you'll get a lot more pleasure out of watching it.

British Physician Using Whisky to Treat Patients

LONDON (INS) — There's one doctor in this socialized medicine state who may have to beat off long lines of prospective patients in the future.

Professor Charles Rob, professor of surgery at London University, has not discovered a sure-fire cure for the common cold or a fool-proof remedy for any given affliction.

All he has done has been to discuss the surgical treatment of arterial embolism at a scientific meeting of the British Medical Association at Newcastle Upon Tyne.

Few Britons outside the medical profession know what arterial embolism is but they certainly sat up and took notice of press reports of the noted surgeon's speech to his colleagues.

For in this era when new "miracle" drugs appear on the market like measles spots on an adolescent's face Professor Rob categorically declared that the best drug for the relief of pain is alcohol.

And there's no druggists' catch about it either.

"I mean whisky," the professor explained, "not anything pharmaceutical."

"Whisky is an extremely good drug for reducing pain and helping the patient to sleep. We," he revealed, "put our patients on big and repeated doses of whisky right up to the maximum tolerance in individual cases. The best treatment for arterial embolism is rest. The best rest is sleep. The best way to get sleep is to relieve pain and the best way to relieve pain is to give whisky."

Any Briton can understand and appreciate this logic.

The slim, middle-aged surgeon went on to say that whisky "is the best dilatory drug; better than any pharmaceutical preparation. It is," he added smilingly, "also more pleasant to take."

The professor must have more or less anticipated public reaction to his remarks.

He pointed out that this business of giving whisky to kill pain is only "a short-term measure. It is not," he warned, "to be used for chronic patients."

Couple Enjoys Making Jewelry

Rock Collecting Is Fascinating Hobby

By LEE WINBORN
Romeo Correspondent

ROME — "Rock collecting is a hobby that always provides a subject for conversation in any group," Mrs. H. Dale Palmer, 8488 West St. Clair St., says enthusiastically.

Her opinion is shared by her husband, a Detroit steel company executive, who is equally fascinated by their mutual avocation.

When this prominent local couple began planning their new ranch-type home about four years ago, they decided to include a workshop in their specifications. Now they spend many of their leisure hours in this room polishing unusual stones and mounting them in attractive settings.

"Our first interest in rock collecting dates back about 12 years when our younger son Don was studying geology at the University of Michigan," Mrs. Palmer said. During the summer vacation that followed Don would walk along the shoreline of Green Lake at Interlochen — where his parents have a cottage — collecting odd-shaped stones and breaking them open.

He would show his mother the intricate markings and shell formations inside each one. As a result she became as interested in them as he was.

Another person credited with stimulating the Palmers' interest in this intriguing hobby is Mrs. Maude Lamoreaux of Pontiac. She polished a Potosi stone for her Romeo friends — at the same time urging them to try it themselves.

They first learned the fine points of the craft from Howard Hawn of Pontiac, prominent lapidary and member of the Michigan Mineralogical Society. In one evening he taught the pair to make a cabochon — a rounded, cut and polished stone without facets.

Soon the Romeo couple was investing in equipment of their own. Their workshop is now complete.

COLLECTS STONES — Mrs. H. Dale Palmer, Romeo, is an enthusiastic hobbyist who picks up unusual rock specimens, polishes and mounts them in attractive, handmade settings. Her interest in stones is shared by her husband and many of her friends.

with grinding wheels, trimsaws, templates and other necessary tools needed to practice their newfound skill.

Mrs. Palmer emphasizes that the fun of rock collecting does not depend upon the art of polishing. Many hobbyists, she says, select a particular type of rock and enjoy picking up specimens all over the United States. Many choice samples have been found here in Michigan, she asserts.

Both the Palmers make jewelry. Mrs. Palmer has progressed to the

Your PTA Is Planning

Parents to Visit Classes, Learn of Teachers' Goals

WALLED LAKE — It will be "Back to School" for parents of Senior High students instead of a regular PTA meeting tonight.

Parents should report to their children's homerooms at 8 p.m. to obtain copies of the daily schedules which pupils have filled out.

During the balance of the evening they will attend classes in the order in which the students do. Each class will last ten minutes. Teachers will explain the work of the class and what the pupils are expected to accomplish during the school year in each section.

Lake Orion
The Lake Orion Community High School offers a tour of the building Monday from 7-8 p.m., for all community residents who have not seen the interior.

The PTA meeting Monday night will offer answers to the question "Can PTA's be effective in the legislative process," by Clifford Smart, legislative chairman of the Michigan Congress of PTA's for the past five years.

Smart has been superintendent of Walled Lake schools for 13 years, is past president of the MEA, and Michigan Assn. of School Administrators.

Refreshments will be served during the business meeting at which progress towards organizing a PTSA will be reported.

School Faculty Rates Facilities

Clarkston Makes Study Needed for Sanction by North Central Assn.

CLARKSTON — The 44 members of the Clarkston High School Faculty are engaged in an evaluation of the high school curriculum and facilities. This evaluation is being carried out as one of the requirements necessary to become accredited by the North Central Assn. of Secondary Schools and Colleges.

There are 26 different committees covering every phase of the high school program. Each member of the faculty is serving on at least one committee and some are serving on two or more. The basis of evaluation is the use of the Evaluative Criteria prepared by the American Council of Education based on a Co-operative Study of Secondary School Standards. This evaluation started last year and will be completed by Nov. 1, of this year.

Purpose of this evaluation is to determine if any area of the high school program is in need of improvement and if so what steps should be taken to improve these areas. In addition the results of this evaluation will be co-ordinated with the findings of the citizens committee which has been studying the needs of the high school for the past six months. These findings will then be put into a recommendation to be given to the board of education for study and use in planning for the future high school needs of the school district.

In addition to the combined effort of the entire high school faculty, 17 members are taking a course from Michigan State in Educational Planning for High School Needs. Dr. Floyd Parker is acting as co-ordinator for the course. He is also the co-ordinator and advisor for the Citizens Committee formed by the Board of Education last year. According to present plans, the findings of the faculty and citizens committee will be presented to the public at a meeting to be held in November.

The citizens committee was organized by the Board of Education because of increasing enrollments at the high school. This year there are 1025 students enrolled grades 7 through 12. According to current enrollments there will be about 2000 students in grades 7 through 12 by the 1964-65 school year. The present high school building has a capacity not to exceed 1150 students. This number of students will be enrolling for the 1958-59 school year.

Wants to Be Oldest in State

Still Making Gayety

By REBA HEINZELMAN

When she was two years old, Mrs. Adell Richardson was pronounced dead, due to a strange malady, by her family physician.

Exactly 100 years later, "Granny" is still very much alive and looking forward to a gala party tomorrow celebrating her 102nd birthday.

All the senility that usually lacking in this remarkable woman, companies old age seems to be whose keen interest in current events belies her century-old existence.

"I aim to be the oldest living person in Michigan before I die," she said.

"Granny" lives in a big rambling convalescent home in Novi and keeps her cronies in perpetual laughter with her quips, "razzing" and terrific sense of humor.

Born and raised in Oakland County, Adell Richardson has the distinction of having the best voting record in the state. She has never missed an election.

Originally she was an avid Democrat, but later became "converted." More than 200 Republicans honored her at a banquet in September for her political record.

Granny was one of the first organists in the Walled Lake Methodist church about 75 years ago but resigned when they installed a new-fangled instrument — the piano.

Every one of the twenty patients living at the home on Novi Rd., agree that Granny is the absolute "life of the party" from the time she gets up in the morning until she goes to bed — which is always after watching the late, late movie on television.

No vitamins for Granny. Her energy and good health are attributed to lots of mashed potatoes and good bread. For her, every meal is a banquet, "and no soup or sandwiches, please."

Occasionally Adell likes to go for an automobile ride with one of her three children, Mrs. Allen Harnden, of 4235 Grand River Ave. However, Granny says that it is much safer to stay in the house these days — "If I want to stay alive."

This sturdy farmer's daughter loves all kinds of parties, and when she was younger never missed a dance. "If I could find a good waiter, I might try a few steps right now," she added.

Granny's taste in music leans towards "rock'n'roll or anything else with plenty of bounce. "Those kids on television sure look like they're having a lot of fun," she said.

When asked if she had ever been ill, Granny said, "You're darned right I have! I've had a little bit of every disease a human being could have, but that hasn't kept me from going right on living."

One of the women at the home, Mrs. Eva Wagner said, in a hushed voice, "Oh my, we'll surely miss Granny when she is gone," — and from across the big room, Granny's retort was — "Well for your information, I'm not about to be gone."

GRANNY IS 102 — Tomorrow Mrs. Adell Richardson will be 102 years old, and Michigan's oldest active voter. The patients at the Novi Convalescent home where Granny lives, are giving a party for their beloved friend, who keeps things "pepped up" from morning until night. Every meal is a banquet, and above, Mrs. Richardson enjoys one.

Gown of Her Own Creation

Beverley Hugill Weds

LAKE ORION — When Beverley Hugill stepped down the aisle of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints Oct. 18, to wed Robert H. Ruch it was in a bridal gown of her own creation.

The couple were united by the bride's uncle, Elder Lloyd Forbes, before an altar flanked by palms and adorned with vases of mixed white flowers. Two hundred guests witnessed the candlelight, double-bridal service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Hugill of 675 Indian Lake Rd., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ruch of 615 Pleasant Ridge.

The bride who is a home economics teacher at Van Dyke, fashioned her gown of satin, with a lace bodice, scooped neckline, and long pointed sleeves. The skirt billowed to the floor. Her shoulder-length illusion veil was secured to a pearl and rhinestone crown. She carried a white orchid atop a white Bible.

Phyllis McGuire of Lake Orion was her attendant.

Jack Griffin of Pontiac was best man. Dean B. Hugill and Michael Ruch, brothers of the couple were the ushers.

The reception was held at the Methodist Church House following the wedding.

Slight Increase Seen for '58 Milk Prices

WASHINGTON (INS) — Agriculture Department spokesmen today forecast a further "slight increase" in consumer milk prices for 1958, but said they could not predict what the farmers' take will be.

Dairy experts explained that prices paid farmers for milk and other dairy products depend on the federal price support level for the 1958-59 marketing year. Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson must establish this support level prior to April 1, 1958.

The department said, however, it expects increased milk production to boost cash receipts to dairy farmers to an all-time high of four billion 600 million dollars in 1958.

Wood Chips Serve as Soil Conditioner

ITHACA, N. Y.—Experiments at Cornell University and by the United States Department of Agriculture have found that wood chips can be used as a valuable soil conditioner. In the tests, chip-treated soil was found to have three to 10 times as much organic matter as untreated soil. The chips are plowed into the soil in the spring along with extra plant food.

Reds Declare War on Western Influence Over Intellectual Leaders

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
BERLIN (U)—East Germany's Stalinist regime clamped down today on its rebellious intellectuals with a giant new purge of the art and entertainment worlds.

The Communist party opened an East Berlin parley of more than 1,000 cultural leaders and ordered them to wipe out Western "enemy" influences in everything ranging from TV to sculpture.

It was an outright declaration of ideological war on the intellectuals—including many so-called liberal Communists—who have led the underground agitation against the Stalinist policies of party chief Walter Ulbricht.

Alfred Kurella, chairman of the newly created Communist Cultural Commission, sounded the keynote for the two-day conference with a demand for a complete "cultural revolution" in the satellite nation.

Kurella, whose statement was published in the Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland, admitted serious internal dissension on art questions.

The line laid down for the conference clearly parroted positions taken by Russian party chief Nikita Khrushchev in three articles on culture published recently in the party magazine Kommunist.

Reliable East Berlin sources said the conference intended to whip top intellectuals into line by compelling them to make public declarations of support for the regime's program.

To avoid this, the sources said, some intellectuals avoided attending the meeting pleading illness.

Architect Leaves Field to Design Prize Home

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—A fine Scandinavian and Oriental design, an entrance hall provides access to the kitchen, living and master bedroom areas and opens onto the glass-walled stairway to the lower level.

A six-foot bookcase-closet storage unit blocks direct view into the living room. Skylights form a right angle pattern over the entry, dining area.

Livingston got married and a bedroom and bath added on a lower level are now occupied by two little Livingstons.

The harmony of the house with its quarter-acre wooded setting, the deck built around two sky-reaching Monterey pines, and a spectacular view of the San Francisco Bay impressed the judges.

Glass walls open the living and dining areas onto the 12-foot wide deck on two sides of the house. Windows in other rooms have a forest vista.

The exterior is natural cedar shakes. Finished vertical grain Douglas fir was chosen for the interior walls, built-in storage units and ceiling. Flooring is cork.

Warm earth tones in the decor balance nature's brilliance. The owner's wife, Joanne, a professional decorator, deliberately excluded color from the house because of the bright blue of the water and the woody greens.

Browns, dull oranges and tans in fabrics and furnishings complement the exterior.

Police Find Paintings Stolen From Dealer

TORONTO (U)—Two detectives last night found $45,000 worth of paintings and drawings stolen from a Toronto dealer. Saturday. They located the 17 pictures undamaged in a shed.

The find turned up one art work, a small charcoal drawing, the owner had not known was stolen. Police believed the thieves abandoned their loot because they realized the difficulty in disposing of it.

and Torsion-Air ride are standard equipment. Power plant is a 290-horsepower Spitfire engine.

CHRYSLER NEW YORKER

The Chrysler New Yorker sedan (right above) is powered by a 345-horsepower V-8 engine with new 10 to 1 compression ratio. The New Yorkers are available with the new Auto-Pilot, a device which enables the driver to set car speed at a predetermined level, and remove his foot from the accelerator while cruising.

The new Chrysler cars will be shown in this area by the R. & R. Motors, Inc., 724 Oakland Ave.

'Moon' Problem: Not Takeoff but Comeback

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (U)—A scientist says research has been under way for more than a year in an effort to learn how a satellite carrying a man can be brought back to earth through the atmosphere.

Frederick G. Durant III, executive assistant to the director of research at Avco Research Laboratory, said in a television interview over WGBH-TV last night: "The problem of man's re-entry (into the atmosphere) has been under study at Avco here in Boston for more than a year. We believe the job can be done quickly."

Asked what he meant by "quickly," Durant said: "That's a purely relative term. I prefer not to say more."

He told newsmen security considerations forbade him saying more.

BERLIN (U)—Communist authorities today disclosed the arrest of two Protestant church officials in East Germany on money smuggling charges. They are members of the Evangelical Church Council.

Strike in Argentina Viewed as Failure

BUENOS AIRES (U)—A 48-hour general strike called by 62 unions ended at midnight. The government and the press both called it a failure.

Newspapers termed the outcome a victory for the government. Provisional President Pedro E. Aramburu stood fast against the strikers' demands that the government lift its wage freeze to meet soaring living costs.

Business spokesmen promised yesterday that they would cut prices to help the government's drive to increase production.

The walkout kept about 70 per cent of the workers out of industrial plants in the capital area. Just downtown business was about normal and in the provinces the strike was only 10 to 15 per cent effective.

The government charged that followers of ousted dictator Juan Peron inspired the strike.

Eight persons were injured in Buenos Aires demonstrations.

China Won't Attend Red Cross Parley

NEW DELHI (U)—Nationalist China is going to boycott the 82-nation International Red Cross conference opening here Monday because Red China will attend.

Princess Amrit Kaur, Indian Red Cross leader who will preside at the meeting, told a news conference both Chinas had protested strongly against seating of the other regime. "Finally, Formosa decided not to come," she said.

Both Chinas attended the 1952 Red Cross conference in Toronto. The conference's main theme will be protection of the civilian population in time of war.

Permit Burning Leaves

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The City Commission has reversed a 1955 directive of City Manager Donald M. Oakes and now allows residents to burn fallen leaves at curbside. Mayor Paul Goebel said city equipment is unable to cope with the heavy fall of leaves. An all-out effort in 1955 cost taxpayers more than $40,000, with unsatisfactory results, spokesmen said.

Mary Baker Eddy created the name of Christian Science in 1866.

Kerosene Flash Signal

REGO PARK, N. Y.—An emergency flashing-signal lamp that burns kerosene is being manufactured by a Rego Park concern. It says its product will burn 50 hours on one 8-ounce filling. The lamp, designed primarily for motorists and homeowners, weighs just under 3 pounds and is 16 inches high.

But Complain They Feel Lonely Workers Like Automation

EAST LANSING — Most workers prefer automated to non-automated jobs. But their main complaint about automation is that they are lonely on the job.

STUDY MADE

These were the principal findings in a study on automation made by William A. Faunce of the Michigan State University department of sociology and anthropology and the labor and industrial relations center.

The study included interviews with 125 workers from four large machining departments of one of the most highly automated automobile plants in Detroit.

"The preference for automation was due largely to the decreased need for materials handling and the less physical effort required in the automated plant," Faunce said.

"Automated jobs also were generally regarded as involving more responsibility and some workers felt they were more challenging and interesting," he said.

But a number of the workers felt that automation is isolating the worker on the job, he added.

"Machine noise, increasing distance between work stations and the need for closer attention to work is decreasing the social exchanges between workers," Faunce explained.

Other complaints from the workers included:

Closer and more constant supervision from foremen and superintendents.

Decreased lack of identification with a particular work group.

Little talk about non-job related topics.

Increased feelings of tension or anxiety resulting from increased speed of production, constant attention required, cost of mistakes and frequency of breakdowns of automated machinery.

Feelings of alienation from the work, due to decreased control over the work pace and the fact that previously acquired machining skills were no longer needed.

Refugees Mark Date of Revolt

Freedom Fighters in Europe Demonstrate, Hold Solemn Services

VIENNA (INS)—Hungarian refugees throughout Europe marked the first anniversary of their heroic revolt against communism with solemn services and angry demonstrations yesterday.

Their compatriots at home were forced to let the memorial day pass without public notice because of the threats and guns of the Soviet-supported Janos Kadar regime.

In Vienna police had to break up a torch light parade by hundreds of Hungarians who marched on the Hungarian legation.

In London, a blue-ribbon committee of Britons joined a Hungarian group in commemorating the anniversary of the uprising at a ceremony before Whitehall's Cenotaph.

In Bonn, 15 Hungarian students who participated in the October rebellion held blazing torches and watched over a bonfire symbolizing "the continuation of the revolution."

In Rome, refugee students placed a wreath with the Hungarian national colors on the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier.

Valencia Radio commented that severe measures had been taken in Budapest to keep the people from making "even the most pacific gesture" of remembrance, adding:

"Although their bodies may be imprisoned, the Hungarian people will remember all the more vividly their dead and their ideals in the depths of their hearts."

British railways have "demistified" heat units in their new passenger coaches so that the view of passing scenery will not be obscured by steaming of windows.

Minimum Sentence? Day Under 5 Years

DETROIT (P) Recorder's Judge W. McKay Skillman has made sure the Harry Gasaway serves a long term for heading a $300,000-a-year narcotics ring.

Maximum penalty allowed by law is five years. The judge has to fix a minimum time to be served. So Judge Skillman yesterday fixed Gasaway's minimum term at four years, 11 months and 29 days.

Gasaway, 52, and two companions were found guilty of narcotics charges Oct. 9. His companions, also, sentenced yesterday, are Floyd Stephenson, 27, two-five years, and Charles Taylor, 21, one-five. All are from Detroit.

U.S. Pressing On for Probe of Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (P)—Faced with Syria's refusal to accept mediation of the Syrian-Turkish crisis, the United States today pressed anew for a U.N. investigation to pinpoint the real cause of the tension.

With Assembly debate on the crisis resuming tomorrow, U.S. delegates held intensive consultations with other diplomats on what action to take.

The United States has made known it approves Syria's suggestion for a U.N. inquiry commission but wants its scope broadened to determine who is behind the crisis.

Russia, accused by the United States of fomenting the current tension, wants the commission confined to investigating the situation along the Syrian-Turkish border. The Russians charge the United States is spurring the Turks to attack Syria.

Western diplomats have shown open concern over the belligerent approach the Soviets have taken in the Middle East debate.

58 Ford Shown 2 Weeks Early— on Used Car Lot

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (P)—Bill Bull has had a 1956 Ford on display at his used car lot for four days and there are repercussions from Oklahoma City to Dearborn, Mich.

Nov. 7—two weeks from today—is the date Ford Motor Co. set for initial display of new models. Ford sent two men by plane from its headquarters at Dearborn to determine how a used car dealer was able to get the jump on it.

The state tax commissioner in Oklahoma City sent Bill Minstrill to check up, and Minstrill filed a complaint with the county attorney, charging Bull has failed to display the required registration on the car.

Bull said he has the proper registration, all right, but it's locked in the trunk of the car along with the license tags so the investigators can't trace how he got the new model.

He reported 70 to 80 prospects an hour are dropping by to see his

Dock Workers Return Under Police Protection

COLOMBO, Ceylon (P)—Striking dock workers returned to work today in Colombo Harbor under heavy police protection.

Progovernment dockers struck yesterday after a clash with members of a Trotskyite dock union who have been staging a slow-down in the harbor since last week. Hand grenades injured four persons, and the progovernment workers said they would stay out until police halted violence and intimidation.

McElroy Reports New A-Weapon

Atomic Depth Charge
'One Important Answer' to Russian Sub Threat

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Defense McElroy announced yesterday the Navy has perfected atomic depth charges and has already equipped some of its Atlantic defense forces with the new weapons.

McElroy, in making the statement, lifted the lid on a long-secret project. He said the new anti-submarine devices are launched from airplanes.

McElroy called the development "one important answer to the Russian submarine threat," and said the nuclear depth charge is a defense item that "anyone would be proud to have in our arsenal."

McElroy was met by reporters on his return from New London, Conn., where he went to sea in the atomic powered submarine Scavoll.

Secretary of the Navy Gates, who accompanied McElroy on his first submarine trip, said the atomic depth charge was called "Betty."

Gates said it had been tested in the Pacific nearly two years ago.

At that time the Navy and Defense Department declined all comment on what had been tested and until now had refused all requests for information about progress in the development of such a weapon.

Conventional depth charges are launched either from surface vessels such as destroyers, or from aircraft.

Gates and McElroy, in referring to "Betty" today, mentioned only the airborne version of the weapon. But it has been reported the Navy is working on a nuclear depth charge designed for launching from ships. This version has been referred to unofficially as "Lulu."

Skilled Britons Leave England

Commonwealth Nations
Get Young Technicians
With Their Families

LONDON (INS) — Despite Premier Harold Macmillan's assertion that Britons "have never had it so good" and despite full employment thousands of persons are leaving this "tight little island" for good, every week.

The flow of skilled workers and their families from Britain to the Commonwealth is increasing. More than 2,000 a week are moving to the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, Australia, New Zealand and Canada under assisted or free passage plans, and hundreds upon hundreds more travel independently.

These are the Commonwealth countries most eagerly seeking new citizens from Britain, and there is no doubt that they want more and more skilled workers.

It is frequently stressed too that Britain is overpopulated and emigration, at an even larger rate than that existing today, is desirable. It is further emphasized that British emigrants as much as British capital are investments advantageous to the Commonwealth as a whole.

What British officialdom seemingly fails to recognize, however, is that it is the young and skilled Britons who are leaving home.

Naturally the new African federation, Canada, New Zealand and Australia would not contribute huge sums to facilitate this flow of human beings if they were unskilled workers or people of pensionable or near-pensionable age. They need the skilled workers. They make it quite clear that there is no scope whatever for unskilled or semi-skilled people.

There is no sign that this exodus is slowing in any way. Britain, in the throes of a new technological revolution, cannot afford to continually lose so many young and skilled citizens.

Britain is faced with a new problem — proving to her young people that the "old country" also provides opportunities and rewards for skill and initiative.

Crescent-Shaped Rolls Tribute to Turks

VIENNA — The crescent-shaped rolls for which Vienna and Paris are noted were first made in Vienna in 1696. They symbolize the crescent moon of the Turkish flag.

The Turks were besieging Vienna in 1696 and, wishing to win over the inhabitants, sent flour to the women and children. The Viennese bakers invented the moon-shaped roll in appreciation of the Turks' gesture.

Wilmington, Del., was named Wilmington in 1731; later the name was changed to honor the Earl of Wilmington.

Bandit Confesses Slaying Grocer

store and jumped into his car and drove off to Long Cabin drive, half mile from the grocery, where he abandoned it.

Through the rapid work of deputies and state troopers both Drew and his car, which he had abandoned, were found within 90 minutes of the shooting.

Drew's statement continued that he walked across a field and met two hunters. He told them he was searching for a lost dog.

He then went to the home of William Swartz, 49, of 3010 Woodlawn St., and begged a ride home to 2893 Welch Rd., Commerce Township.

It was while riding in a pickup truck which Swartz drove that Drew was arrested.

He said today he threw the rifle, a .30-30 Winchester, into the Huron Creek which is about a quarter mile from where the car was found abandoned.

An intensive search of a mile and a half of the creek bed and banks failed to find the gun this morning. The search, which Drew joined from 8:15 a.m. until 11:15, is being continued by Sheriff's Deputies, State Police and volunteer firemen from the neighborhood.

RECONSTRUCT CRIME

Police have reconstructed the slaying this way:

At approximately 4:45 p.m. Kolm was sitting down to dinner in the kitchen of his dwelling, located at the rear of his grocery store, the Oakley Park Market.

Mrs. Kolm was tending the store when a young man entered carrying a rifle and told her that he wanted all the money in the store.

She said that local youths had been bothering them lately and she thought this was some kind of a trick.

She retreated to the kitchen, calling her husband.

As he came into the store, she said, the gunman, standing behind the counter, fired.

The bullet tore through Kolm's body, through a 3 1/2 inch metal frame refrigerator door behind him, and shattered the tops of a row of bottles.

As he fell to the floor, Mrs. Kolm began screaming. The man hit her twice over the head with the barrel of the gun and fled without taking a cent, she related. She ran to the back door, bleeding and screaming for help.

YOUTH SPOT CAR

Two teenagers in a passing car told deputies they saw a man leave the store and hop into a red and white coupe. Raymond Downing, 16, of 884 Gengary Rd., gave deputies a description of the car that agreed with that given by Mrs. Kolm.

The youths did not notice him carrying a gun. Deputy Roland Pless, in checking the neighborhood, found a resident who stated that a man had just tried to sell him a .30-30 deer rifle.

Jack Davy, 32, of 3080 Terry St., only a few blocks south of the store, described a man fitting Mrs. Kolm's description as having come up to his home only a few moments before. Davy said he didn't buy the gun because it wasn't the type he wanted and the barrel was dented and slightly bent.

Drew said today he could not recall trying to sell the gun to Davy.

Pless was then confronted by a neighborhood boy, Raymond Swartz, of 3010 Woodlawn Rd., who had been sent over by his mother. He told Pless that the man had come to his house on foot requesting a lift into Walled Lake.

STOP TRUCK

The boy's father, William, 49, had taken the man in his pickup truck, the boy said. A description of the truck was radioed to all cars and at 6:03 p.m. it was stopped at Oakley Park and S. Commerce roads by deputies Perry Eap and Donald Kratt.

They ordered Drew from the truck at gunpoint. They said he had evidently been drinking heavily. His car was found off of Gengary road just west of S. Commerce road by two state policemen from Detroit.

The two boys who had seen him leaving the store were unable to positively identify Drew but they could identify the car.

Drew was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital by detectives and deputies where Mrs. Kolm picked him out of a four-man lineup as the man who shot her husband and hit her.

Mrs. Kolm described the man as of medium build, dark hair, with a thin mustache, and wearing a white shirt and white painter's cap. When she pointed him out in the lineup he was dressed in green cotton twill trousers, a green and red plaid cotton shirt, with no tie, coat, or hat.

Kolm was pronounced dead by deputy coroner Dr. William R. Roch at the store.

Kolm's wife was operated on late last night to close several head lacerations. She was described in satisfactory condition after surgery but a fracture or concussion is still remotely possible, hospital officials said.

Detectives said that Drew lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Drew at the Welch Rd. address.

His past record shows arrests and convictions for breaking and entering among other charges. He had escaped from a trustee camp, police said.

Drew told Ziem and Irons that he had consumed three-quarters of a gallon wine and "33 or 34 worth of beer" during the day.

Mrs. Mary S. Douglas, 25, of 1283 Appleford St., Walled Lake, told authorities last night that Drew, borrowed a .30-30 rifle from her about the time of the shooting yesterday afternoon.

In a statement to Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem late last night, Drew, a landscape worker, claimed he was testing a newly purchased bird dog in the Oakley Park area at the time of the attempted robbery-shooting.

Mrs. Douglas said she had been with Drew from 11 yesterday morning until about 5 p.m., when he borrowed the rifle from her home and left.

"He wanted to try it out hunting," she said.

Drew has a police record of 14 arrests and 13 convictions since 1948, ranging from disorderly conduct to breaking and entering.

He was sentenced in March 1932 to 1 1/2 years in Jackson Prison for a Pontiac breaking, paroled in March 1935, but returned to prison eight months later as a parole violator.

In July 1932 he was transferred from Jackson to the Cassiday Lake Prison Camp. Two months later he walked away from the camp and enjoyed a week of freedom.

Picked up once more, Drew was sent back to prison until his 1935 parole.

Five days after he was released from prison this July, Drew was arrested for driving while his operator's license was revoked. He was fined $25 and spent two days in jail.

as the drone to preserve expensive drone aircraft.

"In this test, however, the missile, although it carried no warhead, followed its target so closely that the drone was destroyed by the collision."

The missiles used in the tests are prepared for firing and launched automatically.

Meanwhile, the Air Force waited anxiously today for scientific verification of its apparent success in rocketing research instruments to an all-time record altitude somewhere between 1,000 and 4,000 miles above the earth.

A rocket designed to reach the 4,000-mile level, it was disclosed last night, was fired with every appearance of success from a platform atop a balloon floating 100,000 feet above Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific.

The Air Force expects to make an announcement concerning the altitude sometime today. Spokesmen said they were confident the height reached was far greater than the maximum attributed to the Soviet Sputnik. The speed of the rocket probably was close to 17,000 miles per hour.

Ask Rehearing on Phone Rates

Ruling Due in 2 Weeks on Reopening Bell Bid for $12,500,000 Hike

LANSING — A request by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. for higher rates was under advisement today by the State Public Service Commission.

A decision was expected in two weeks or so on whether to reopen the case in which Bell sought a $12,500,000 a year rate increase, or close the book for good—subject to possible court appeal.

Opposing parties were given 10 days to file written briefs.

In August, the commission voted to give the utility an annual rate boost of $3,835,000, or less than one-fourth of what was asked.

In arguments yesterday on Bell's request for a rehearing, opposing counsel argued that the utility was shortchanged and that it got what it deserved.

Jack Shuler, company general counsel, said that prospective wage increases and other rising costs of doing business would pare earnings below the level determined by the commission as fair—6.6 per cent.

Moreover, Shuler said, the commission erred in excluding certain capital items from its rate base, and in denying the company the right to recover contributions made to charity from rate payers.

Under the existing order, contributions will have to come out of earnings, Shuler expressed surprise and dismay that the company's position in the matter had been criticized as "socialistic."

Robert A. Derengowski, assistant attorney general assigned to the commission, said that in the main Shuler was quarrelling with conclusions reached by the commission from the evidence, and that a rehearing was unwarranted.

AFL-CIO to Act on Suspension

Council Meets Today to Decide What to Do With Teamsters Union

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Teamsters face suspension from the AFL-CIO today for flouting the federation's demand for a clean-up of alleged corruption in top union offices.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council was to meet this afternoon to decide what to do with the Teamsters in view of their action in electing James A. Hoffa president in defiance of an ultimatum issued by the council in New York Sept. 25.

The one possibility the union may escape suspension, reportedly lies in the fact that the Teamsters are contesting in federal court a case that could result in annulment of all action of the union's Miami Beach convention that elected Hoffa.

Union attorneys go before the Circuit Court of Appeals today and ask for a reversal of a preliminary injunction, issued Wednesday by Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts, barring Hoffa and officers elected with him from taking charge until this case is decided.

However, Letts rejected a request by Godfrey P. Schmidt, attorney for 13 rank-and-file Teamsters who charge the Miami Beach Convention was rigged to elect Hoffa, that the Teamsters be placed in receivership until the legality of the election is determined.

The council gave the Teamsters until today to show progress in a house-cleaning program, including ouster of officers charged with corruption. Hoffa and retiring Teamster President Dave Beck were singled out for special mention as responsible for such conditions.

Governor Says Information on Mennen Co.-Dio Relations Mostly Second-Hand

Williams Doubts Rackets Probers Would Want Him

LANSING — Gov. G. Mennen Williams says he would be "glad" to appear before the U.S. Senate Rackets Committee, if the committee wants him to, and tell anything he knows about dealings between the Mennen Co. and racketeer Johnny Dio.

But the governor said yesterday nearly all his information came second-hand from relatives who actually run the New Jersey toiletries firm, in which he owns stock, and he doubts the committee would want him.

Williams was questioned by newsmen yesterday for the first time since he related in a letter Monday to Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) committee chairman, how the company had been "victimized" by Dio.

He had told McClellan that the company signed its first union contract with Dio, then knowing him only as an official of Local 162 in the former United Auto Workers (AFL).

The governor further wrote of strikes and labor difficulties that beset the firm and of its tie with Nathan Shefferman of Chicago through a New York labor relations counseling firm.

UNAWARE OF ASSOCIATION

He said the Mennen Co. at the time was unaware of the association it later learned of between the New York lawyer and Shefferman, whose name has figured prominently in testimony before the rackets committee.

In response to questions, Williams said he had discussed the case with Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.), a rackets committee member, when they lunched together before the Michigan state University of Michigan football game Oct. 12.

He said about all he told McNamara was that "I don't want you to be in any way embarrassed about this." McClellan was aware at the time, he said, that the Mennen Co.-Dio dealings were under committee scrutiny.

Williams, a director of the Mennen Co., said he believed he never attended any board meetings at which they were discussed—or, if it was it was very casually.

For the last "few" years, he said, he has attended two or three of the four regular board meetings annually, but before that he attended less frequently.

Williams said he had talked by telephone to George Mennen, a company vice president and treasurer, before making his disclosure Monday.

TALKED WITH STABLER

However, in relating the story as he did, the governor said, he spoke for himself—and had "some reason" to believe for the company as well.

Aside from McNamara, he had talked about the case to no other highly placed Democrats, with the exception of Neil Stabler, Democratic state chairman, who was advised beforehand the disclosure was to be made.

Williams emphasized that what information he had was nearly all second-hand.

He said most of it came in 1931, after a Milwaukee official of the UAW-AFL, put pressure on for a strike settlement at the Mennen 2½-Million Flu Cases Co., and in the fall of 1936 after the Mennen Co. was injected into the gubernatorial campaign.

Williams' Republican opponent, the late Mayor Albert E. Cobo of Detroit, said that while Williams proclaimed himself a friend of labor, the company of which he was a director lacked a union contract and had dealt with Dio.

At that time, the governor disclaimed responsibility for how the company was run.

Italian Scientist Selected to Receive Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The 1937 Nobel Prize for medicine was awarded today to Dr. Daniel Bovet, Swiss-born Italian scientist who pioneered in the development of antihistamines and turned the poisoned arrow into a tool for the surgeon.

The award, approximately $42,000 from the foundation established by dynamite inventor Alfred Nobel, is the first Nobel Prize to Italian medicine in half a century. The selection was made by Sweden's Royal Caroline Institute of Medicine.

Newsmen who brought word of the award to the 56-year-old scientist's home in Rome were told he was in bed recovering from Asian flu. His wife said he "has been working very hard" on studies of the effects of tranquilizers on humans.

Bovet for years sought a check against histamine, the irritant whose release in the body by pollen or other disturbing factors causes hay fever, rash, eczema, asthma and other allergies.

In 1937, with a Swiss colleague, he produced the first antihistamine, 929F or thymoxy-ethyl-diethylamine. This pioneer work, the Nobel Foundation said, together with similar experiments in other parts of the world, led to the development of the all-embracing field of antihistamines.

After his work on allergies, Bovet took up the search for an anesthetic which would subject the patient to less strain and at the same time permit complete muscular relaxation for periods of extensive surgery.

His experiments and research led him to curare, use by South American Indians to poison their darts and first brought to Europe by Sir Walter Raleigh in the 16th century.

He discovered that curare, by controlled injection into the blood stream, produced a paralysis which was ideal for some kinds of surgery. Subsequently Bovet developed a series of synthetic curare drugs which are now considered landmarks in the history of anesthetics.

Bovet did part of his work at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, then went to the staff of the Italian Health Institute in Rome, where he now heads the pharmacology department. He became an Italian citizen in 1947.

Community Action on Seaway Sought

HOLLAND (AP)—Community action will be needed to bring an increase in freight tonnage to Michigan's port cities once the St. Lawrence Seaway is opened, a state expert said last night.

This was the advice of Dr. Paul A. Herbert, chief of the research division of the State Economic Development Commission.

"Local industry must supply cargo in sufficiently large amounts to make it economically advisable for the larger ships to stop at even the finest new marine terminals," Herbert said.

"A community cannot expect an increase in employment and business if it has harbors and docks," he said. "There must be sufficient tonnage, either in or out and preferably both, to get the ships to stop."

"The best terminal facilities in the world," Herbert said, "will stand idle without tonnage, and there are examples where this has happened."

Winds Delay Landing of Overseas Planes

NEW YORK (AP)—Westerly winds as strong as 90 miles an hour delayed the arrivals of overseas airlines today at Idlewild Airport from 2 to 3 1/2 hours.

At least 21 inbound flights were affected by the winds encountered at between 18,000 and 20,000 feet.

Russians Claim Navigation First

Nuclear-Powered Ship Serving as Icebreaker May Change Arctic

By THOMAS F. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Russians are claiming another scientific "first"—not so dramatic as Sputnik but more practical.

It is the first nuclear-powered surface ship, an icebreaker which may revolutionize arctic navigation.

This biggest icebreaker in the world will pack a punch calculated to put it into areas ships never have reached.

It has been under construction in a Leningrad shipyard for two years, and the Soviet news agency Tass says the engines are being installed now.

Its displacement of 16,000 tons makes it 4,000 tons larger than any icebreaker of record. Atomic reactors will give it 44,000 horsepower, more than twice the power of any other icebreaker.

Modern icebreakers clear paths for ships through thick arctic icefields by raising their prows above the ice and then crushing it beneath them. Their engines not only propel the ship but also pump water back and forth in ballast tanks to shift weight. The additional weight of the new nuclear icebreaker as compared with conventional types and its high ratio of horsepower to weight promise enormously increased icebreaking capabilities.

The use of nuclear power is reckoned to enable the ship to operate for a year without refueling and make it completely independent of conventional fuels.

The new icebreaker will be put into service on the northern sea route to the north of Siberia. This route is used on occasion to transfer warships from the Soviet northern fleet to the Far Eastern fleet. It has been open for only a short part of the year.

Agree to Work Out New Road Blockade

EAST LANSING (AP)—The state's law enforcement officials have agreed to work out a more efficient road blockade system, state police reported today.

Closer coordination and improved communications will be stressed as a result of the recent escape of two gunmen across the Michigan border into Indiana after they killed one state police officer and wounded another.

A nine-man committee from State Police, the Michigan Sheriffs Association and the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police will work out the details.

State police said because of the number of cars involved in a statewide blockade, police radios often are jammed with traffic. It is hoped to correct this by a system of predetermined assignments to blockade points which will leave the radio networks open for better communications.

Acoustics Discussed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The 54th annual convention of the Acoustical Society of America is under way at the University of Michigan. Subjects for discussion include the noise of jet engines and the problem of making one's self heard above the clinking glasses at a cocktail party.

The oldest Anglican church in Canada, St. Paul's, was erected at Halifax in 1750.

Says UAW Hired Him to Steal MESA Records

DETROIT (AP)—Ex-convict Francis Drury, 54, testified yesterday that the United Auto Workers Union promised him $5,000 to steal another union's membership roster.

Drury is being tried on charges of breaking into the national headquarters of the Mechanics Education Society of America (AFM-CIO).

A UAW spokesman here called Drury's allegations "nonsense."

Defense Atty. Robert MacLean described his client as "an ex-convict well known in the underworld" but said he had been hired to steal the MESA's membership records by Joe McCluskey whom he identified as a UAW official from New York.

Impartial Operation of the Law Necessary

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Patrolman Ernest Greenleaf takes the Charleston statute against litterbugs literally. He chased one all the way to the city incinerator.

The litterbug turned out to be a city employee. Greenleaf booked him on charges of operating a trash truck without a cover and told the court: "It makes no difference to me who he works for. I told him he can't let trash blow off his truck onto city streets."

Four California Youths Identified; Fifth Body Found After 2 Hours

OAKLAND, Calif. (U) — An automobile moving at an estimated 90 miles an hour crashed into a concrete abutment today killing five young men.

Four of the victims were tentatively identified as Kenneth Wayne Mosher, 18, and James Paul Mosher, 20, both of Cupertino, Calif.; and James A. Spaulding, 19, and Ray Gill, 21, both of Castro valley.

The fifth victim, not immediately identified, wasn't found until two hours after the accident.

California Highway Patrol officers said the 1957 car virtually disintegrated when it smashed into the abutment just east of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge.

Parts of the vehicle showered over a wide area and the main part of the body skidded 116 feet down a boulevard.

The body of the victim found two hours after the accident lay on the ground below the ramps.

Officers estimated the 90-mile-an-hour speed on the basis of reports by witnesses.

Laws Protected Greeks, Romans Against Evil Eye

ROME — The Greeks and Romans had laws protecting citizens against persons who had the "evil eye." A man accused and convicted of having it might be executed.

The Latin word for envy, "invidia," meant a hostile or covetous stare at someone or some thing.

The caduceus, symbol of physicians, was originally a protective shield against the evil eye. It was the walking staff carried by messengers of ancient times.

George Sand, the French woman writer who flaunted a short haircut, was versatile. Before she died in 1876 she wrote memorable romantic, socialist and pastoral novels.

Security for You

Many Occurrences Can Stop Payments

By RAY HENRY

After your Social Security payments start, there is a number of occurrences which could stop your payments.

For example: You could get married or divorced.

In most instances, the Social Security Administration has no way of knowing about such events when they happen. So, it's your responsibility to tell your Social Security office that they have happened.

If you don't, you may wind up owing the government money. And, you could be fined or even endanger your right to future Social Security payments.

Here's a rundown of the most common events which stop your payments and about which your Social Security office should be notified:

—If you're collecting monthly payments as a survivor or as a dependent and you get married. But, if, as a remarried widow, your second husband dies within a year after the marriage, you may again claim retirement payments based on the Social Security account of your first husband.

—If you're collecting payments as a wife or dependent husband and a divorce is granted.

—If you're a child receiving payments and you marry or reach 18.

OTHER REASONS

These events also stop payments, but they're rather rare:

—If a person is convicted of treason, espionage, sabotage, sedition, or other subversive activities and the court orders that your payments be stopped.

In this case, payments to dependents and survivors are not affected.

—If a person is deported from the United States. Payments to dependents and survivors are not affected in such cases if they're citizens of the United States or if they're inside the United States.

Although the Social Security people may not have any way of knowing immediately about events which should stop your payments unless you tell them, it does have ways of finding out eventually.

For example: It may get the information from the Veterans Administration or some other government agency.

And, to make sure that the death of a person receiving payments is promptly reported, the Social Security offices have asked to be notified of deaths by funeral directors.

Many Social Security offices also check the public notices of marriage. This is to make sure that a widow who's receiving payments doesn't continue to get them after she's remarried.

MANY READY TO TELL

And, in many cases, the Social Security Administration gets tips about the wrongful payments of checks from other sources, such as neighbors and relatives.

Since the Social Security people automatically investigate information indicating you shouldn't be getting payments, you'll be asked for an explanation.

If you have no reasonable explanation, chances are the overpayments will be deducted from any future payments you may have coming. You'll probably also be "fined" the amount of one additional payment.

(Questions on Social Security problems may be addressed to "Social Security," in care of The Pontiac Press. Questions will be answered by mail from the Pontiac office of the Social Security Administration. There is no charge for this service.)

Aluminum Gangplank

MIAMI BEACH — An anodized-aluminum boarding ramp for pleasure boats is being made by a Miami concern. It supports up to 500 pounds, yet can be carried easily because of its lightness.

The gangplank is said to remain horizontal at all times because it automatically adjusts to tidal changes.

Five gallons of gasoline in Canada, imperial measure, equal six gallons in the United States.

PRAIRIE DU CHEIN, Wis. — On one stretch along the Mississippi River near Prairie du Chien, several trains regularly hit 84.4 mph, the fastest regularly scheduled railway speed in the United States.

Learns to Make Fog in London

Produces It in Order to Run Across Secret of Dispersing Mist

LONDON (U. S. P. M.) — London of all places has an official fog maker. Dr. George Elton whips up real pea-soupers. But there's a scientific purpose behind what might appear to be one of the world's most superfluous jobs.

In December 1932 a fog-smog killed hundreds of Londoners. "Can't something be done about them?" Dr. Elton wondered. To learn the secret of dispersing fogs, he first had to manufacture them to order. So for five years he's made them—in a concrete tank.

Today he is able to say: "The work has been encouraging. I hope we are close to a solution."

A lecturer in physical chemistry at Battersea Polytechnic Institute, Dr. Elton began by making fogs in test tubes. Then he started churning them up in an enormous concrete tank.

When he felt he had a formula that would chase a fog, he equipped an airplane with a 30-gallon tank. He pumped the chemical through small outlets on the wings. The plane attacked a half-mile-long patch of cumulus cloud near the Isle of Wight.

"It was very exciting," he said. "Within 15 minutes there was nothing left but a few wisps."

He believes his fog disperser will first be used at airfields and will cost a fraction of a method used in wartime at a cost of $1,000 or more a minute.

In 1803, the U. S. Congress gave Lafayette 11,520 acres of Louisiana land as a gesture of thanks for his services in the American Revolution.

Treat the Goblins to Cookies

HALLOWEEN COOKIES — Mrs. William Davis of Hatchery road tries out a new scheme of cookie decoration before she makes the treats for Halloween. Mrs. Davis is painting cat and pumpkin faces on frosted cookies; for the painting she uses a tiny new paint brush dipped in food coloring. Watching with great interest are the Davis sons, fourteen-year-old Bill and five-year-old Mike.

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Halloween is in the offing. Great plans fly here and there for witch brew and goblin handouts. Mothers try feverishly to plan the number of "beggars" who may appear at their door on the 31st. Will they run out of goodies?

As always, we suggest that you wrap any food you give the youngsters. All mothers will appreciate your doing this.

Why not pass out cookies this year? We'll give you the recipe for some luscious mince meat treats as well as a recipe from our picture cook, Mrs. William Davis of Hatchery road.

HOBGOBLIN COOKIES

3 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 package condensed mince meat

Sift together flour, salt and soda. Cream shortening; add sugar gradually; cream together until fluffy. Add eggs; beat until smooth. Add mince meat broken into small pieces. Add flour and mix well.

Drop by teaspoonfuls, 2 inches apart, on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) about 15 minutes. Makes about 48 cookies, 2-inches in diameter.

If desired, you may frost these cookies with a simple powdered sugar frosting. Using a tiny new paintbrush, paint cat, pumpkin and witch faces on the frosted cookies. The children will love them. Remember this idea for decorating Christmas cookies too, when the time comes.

Mrs. Davis is currently involved in a church bazaar. Her friends say she has artistic abilities. She enjoys knitting and sewing.

MOLASSES SUGAR COOKIES

By Mrs. William Davis

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup light molasses
1 egg
2 teaspoons soda
3 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt

Melt shortening in a three-quart saucepan. Remove from stove and cool. Add sugar, molasses and egg. Beat well.

Sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Mix well and chill at least an hour. Shape into one-inch balls and roll in granulated sugar. Place on a greased baking sheet.

Bake 10 minutes at 350 degrees. These cookies will come out as perfect circles. Frost if desired.

For those who want the fun of feeling good!

You've known families who have it...

boundless energy, the zip and enthusiasm that makes them "lots of fun." Heredity undoubtedly is important—so is the ability not to "worry."

But what you eat and drink is important, too!

Science tells us that most of us would feel better, live longer, have more sparkle and pep if we had far less fat, far more protein in our daily diets. Fat puffs out waistlines—slows us down. Protein rebuilds and revitalizes tired nerves and tissues—supplies energy with "staying power."

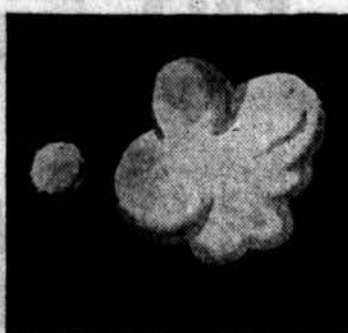

Pet Milk Company Announces America's New Protein-Rich Sparkle and Vitality Drink

Milk protein—the high-quality kind needed for this rebuilding, revitalizing, energy-boosting job—in a drink that's completely delicious and refreshing, free of fat and unbelievably easy to mix... NEW PET Instant!

36.5% PROTEIN—and guaranteed less than 1% fat. New PET Instant is rich in the things that help give you and your family sparkle and vitality... energy with "staying power."

NEW, EXCLUSIVE INSTANTIZING carries instant mixing a big step forward. The milk crystals are "popped" so they dissolve at the touch of water—mix almost faster than you can stir!

FLAVOR MORE REFRESHING than fresh whole milk! No clinging "fatty" aftertaste—none of the "powdery" taste of earlier dry milks—but a rich, fresh flavor your family will enjoy!

Look for it in its brand-new, bright-blue FLAVOR-SAVER PACKAGE. Full protected—Handy pouring spout! Two sizes 4-qt., 12-qt. Cop. 1957 Pet Milk Co.

Sundae on Doughnut Appeals to Teen Crowd

Teenagers should get a bang out of a new gooey sundae that they can make themselves—either for a pajama party or a pre-football party. This super-duper is made from plain doughnuts along with lots of other goodies.

Here's all it takes to make it. First of all, use a plain doughnut for the base of your sundae. Now put a scoop of coffee ice cream right in the center. Pour some pipin hot Coffee Caramel Sauce over the whole concoction and sprinkle it generously with peanuts. Sound good? Well, actually, it's the "living end"! A variation on the doughnut theme might be vanilla ice cream, hot fudge sauce and walnuts.

For a perfect go-with beverage, fill up your cups with Cafe au Lait, a fine half-n-half combination of steaming, fresh coffee and steaming milk, sweetened to taste. For style, add a cinnamon stick to each cup. This makes a terrific stirrer and, at the same time, lends a subtle spicy flavor to the Cafe au Lait. You can be sure that, whenever doughnut sundaes and Cafe au Lait are in the making, kids will have oodles of fun and good eating.

Coffee Caramel Sauce

1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup butter or margarine
Few grains salt
1/2 cup cream
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup strong coffee

Combine first 5 ingredients in saucepan. Cook, stirring, until sugar dissolves. Cook without stirring to 235 degrees (soft ball stage). Cool slightly; stir in cream, vanilla and coffee; mix well. Makes about 2 cups.

Country Style Spareribs Are Meatier Than Others

If your family likes spareribs, pause at the meat counter suggests the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Look at spareribs, then look at "country" or "old fashioned" spareribs. This second cut is the rib-end roast, split lengthwise through the bone.

These "country" style spareribs have more meat per pound. You can plan one pound of spareribs per serving; one-half pound "country" spareribs per serving.

Mushroom Pie a Lunch Treat

This oh so delicately flavored custard pie chock full of broiled sliced mushrooms and coarsely shredded fresh carrot is truly a flavor treat. It's an unusual way to present vegetables... special enough for a company luncheon... easy enough for a family favorite.

Mushroom Carrot Pie

Pasty for 8-inch pie shell
2 1/2 cups sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup coarsely chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 egg
1 cup light cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1-1/2 cups shredded carrot
2 sprigs parsley, chopped

Make pie shell using your own recipe or a packaged mix. Meanwhile drain mushrooms reserving broth for future use. Sauté onion in butter until just tender, about 5 minutes. In large mixing bowl beat eggs lightly; stir in light cream and seasonings which have been blended together. Add mushrooms, cooked onion, carrot and parsley and mix well.

Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake in preheated 350 degrees oven until custard sets and a knife inserted comes out clean, about 45 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cheese a Gourmet Touch

Give a gourmet touch to ham salad and chicken salad by adding grated Gouda cheese—alters just before you are ready to serve. This round red packaged cheese—Gouda—imparts its rich golden color, and mild nutty flavor to add the perfect accent to an otherwise unsophisticated treat.

When using natural cheddar cheese in a sauce, grate it before adding so it will melt quickly; prolonged heating is likely to make the cheese stringy.

WHOLE WHEAT DOUGHNUTS — Freeze these delightful homemade whole wheat doughnuts a week or two before the party. They'll take just 20 minutes to reheat. The whole wheat is furnished by whole wheat cereal, the kind with extra wheat germ added.

Whole Wheat Doughnuts Are Frozen Before Party

Fragrant whole wheat doughnuts, hot and sugary, crunchy cold juicy apples, and hot spiced cider complete the picture of a wonderful after-the-game or Halloween party.

Take too long to prepare on the day of the party? Don't you believe it. Make the doughnuts a week or two early using whole wheat cereal, the kind with wheat germ added. After they are thoroughly cooled but not sugared, freeze the doughnuts and forget all about them until the day of the party. When the party day arrives, remove the doughnuts early from the freezer but don't unwrap them.

Place the doughnuts, still wrapped in aluminum foil, in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes. While you heat the cider, put the fruit on the table and greet your guests, they will be heating to the very peak of their spicy best. After 20 minutes, roll them in sugar and imagine your guests' surprise when you present hot homemade whole wheat doughnuts.

Whole Wheat Doughnuts
 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon butter
 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 cup unsifted instant whole wheat cereal
 2 eggs, well beaten
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup buttermilk
 Sift dry ingredients. Add whole wheat cereal. Mix well. Slowly add

Chinese Style Oven Chicken Is Terrific

Broilers and fryers can be feature attractions at many meals by using different recipes and cooking methods. Their versatility is limited only by the cook's imagination.

Here's a recipe for barbecued chicken, Chinese style which, we predict, will find this response from the family—'Terrific'.

Mix 1/2 cup of soy sauce with 3 tablespoons salad oil, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger, 1/2 teaspoon pepper and 1 clove of garlic, minced.

Quarter one 2 1/2-pound frying chicken and brush all sides. Let stand for 30 minutes, brushing several times with the sauce. Then put chicken on rack in a shallow pan, and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 50 minutes, until tender.

Brush with sauce and pan drippings every 15 minutes as long as any sauce remains. When done, chicken should be very brown and crisp. This recipe will provide four servings.

Meat should be roasted fat-side up to prevent drying.

Potatoes Browned in Oil Come First

It may come as a surprise to Americans to learn that the most typical Spanish omelet is made with potatoes and eggs — and no tomato sauce. In Spain, when they make an omelet, potatoes are first cooked in a generous quantity of good olive oil.

Some slice the potatoes across the grain in very thin slices; others dice the potatoes very fine. The potatoes are always cooked in oil until golden, then onions, finely chopped, are added to the pan and cooked until soft, and finally, several eggs, beaten until light and seasoned with salt and pepper, are poured over the potatoes and eggs.

The omelet is lifted around the edges with a spatula in the usual manner as it cooks, with the heat kept very low. When a golden crust has formed on the bottom, the egg is turned out on a plate, then slipped back in the pan with the golden crust on top. As soon as a second crust has formed on the bottom, it is ready to eat.

Cooking tongs are handy for removing bacon from the frying pan and taking baked potatoes from the oven.

New Chip Dip Calls for Eggs, Condiments

Chips and a delicious dip make a winning combination when the after-the-football-game crowd bursts in with hearty appetites.

This dip has a tangy flavor that will bring cheers from your family and friends. It's ideal for potato chips, and goes well with almost any kind of snack. You'll find yourself serving it on many occasions, cocktail parties, to television refreshment breaks.

Chip Dip
 12 hard-cooked eggs, sliced or sliced
 2 tablespoons soft butter or margarine
 1 tablespoon vinegar
 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
 2 drops tabasco sauce
 1 tablespoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon white pepper
 1/2 cup salad dressing
 Paprika, chives, parsley or egg slice for garnish

Combine all ingredients, except garnish. Beat until smooth. Add more seasonings if desired. Have consistency soft enough to permit potato chips to be dipped into it easily. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

About 20 minutes before serving time, remove from refrigerator and beat or whip until consistency is soft and fluffy. Garnish and serve in chilled bowl.

Peanuts Rate High as Food Oiled Hamburgers Will Be Moist, Juicy

Peanuts are good eating any day of the week and have been for a long time. They have a history that extends into many parts of the world. Traces of peanuts have been found in Aztec urns in Peru and drawings of them appear in ancient Egyptian tombs.

Actually the peanut is a little nugget of nutrition. It's packed with protein, is a good source of energy-giving fat and on the valuable "B" vitamins.

You'll do well to remember that with peanuts and peanut butter so plentiful. The U. S. Department of Agriculture says that stocks of peanuts are at a record high level, and the output of peanut butter well above that of a year ago.

Peanuts can be used in many interesting ways. They can appear at any course in a meal, beginning with the soup and ending with... well, the nuts.

A blend of peanut butter and tomatoes put through a sieve makes a delicious and unusual soup. For the main course, you might try a tasty loaf made from chopped roasted peanuts, combined with carrots or some other chopped vegetable. Bind the mixture together, pack it into a loaf pan and bake it. You can add distinctive flavor to rice, macaroni or potatoes with a hot milk sauce thickened with peanut butter.

Then there are numerous ways of using peanuts or peanut butter in salads and desserts. And when it comes to sandwiches, peanut butter is an old standby which cooperates beautifully with other popular fillings... jellies, jams, honey, catsup, chili sauce and chopped pickle... hard cooked eggs, chopped raw vegetables and so forth. The list is long.

Oysters Come to Lunch in Ham Blankets

This tempting delicacy is an easy main dish especially nice to serve when company comes for luncheon. Sprinkle drained canned oysters with minced parsley and onion and pepper. Wrap a thin slice of cooked ham around each oyster and secure with a toothpick. Broil five to eight minutes, until lightly browned. Remove toothpicks and arrange on toast. Top each serving with Hollandaise or mock Hollandaise sauce.

Since everybody likes hamburgers, including hard-to-please youngsters, it's a good idea to keep a supply on hand at all times in the freezer. This is the easiest and most economical way to freeze hamburgers.

Buy "hamburger meat," or whatever is the least expensive chopped meat on the supermarket counter, transfer the meat just as it is to a large sheet of aluminum foil and press it out into one large flat piece about 1/4-inch thick. Pour a film of Spanish olive oil over the meat; let it marinate in the oil for half an hour at room temperature. Then cover with more aluminum foil, crimp edges to seal and freeze at once.

When ready to cook, cut off the frozen meat in squares—only as much as you need, and place the square patties in a hot skillet with the olive-oil-side down. (Replace remainder of meat in freezer.) Cook patties over high heat until browned on one side, turn over, cover pan and cook over very low heat 5 to 8 minutes. Sprinkle meat with salt after placing on hamburger bun.

The Spanish always use their famous olive oil to tenderize meat. The oil film also helps to keep the chopped meat tender during the freezing process and, in cooking, the olive oil brings out the full meat flavor while keeping the hamburgers juicy and moist.

If Frozen Meat Thaws Use It Immediately

Have you ever wondered how long you can keep frozen meat that has thawed? Thawed meats will keep about the same length of time as fresh meats and require the same careful handling, says the MSU Marketing Information

Agcn. Mrs. Josephine Lawler. Once meat is thawed, refreezing is not recommended. Refreezing tends to break the tissues causing meat to lose more of its natural juice. The texture of the meat changes and the meat becomes drier when cooking. For the best flavor, a good rule is to use frozen meat soon after it is thawed.

Silence His Lunch

If your husband objects to taking his lunch to the office because of noisy paper wraps on sandwiches... why not give his lunches the "silent treatment?" Wrap everything in a transparent plastic household wrap like saran. It's quiet, self-adhering and keeps moisture and flavor locked in.

Oatmeal Keeps Juice in Hamburger Patties

Hamburgers made with oatmeal retain their shape and juiciness during cooking. They also freeze well so a supply can be prepared ahead of time. To freeze: Top each hamburger with a round of saran, foil, or pepper, and onion juice.

heavy waxed paper. Place patty on round of same. Freeze separately. When frozen, store in freezer bags (6 or 8 to a bag).

Delicious spread for crackers: mashed hard-cooked eggs mixed with minced pimiento-stuffed olives and mayonnaise. Season with salt, and onion juice.

Everyone knows it is more economical to buy a large cut of meat than to go tripping to the store for a different cut of meat every day. Yet many families don't like leftovers—or more properly, "cooked-overs."

With this three meal plan for one cut of chuck, you cook three fresh meals, entirely different, yet get the benefit of buying the one big cut of meat, and the time-saving of shopping only once for three nourishing meat meals. The meat can be cut to plan at the store, or you can cut it yourself at home, planning slices for Swiss Steak, a center chunk for a no-leftovers-pot-roast, and cubes for a fine beef stew.

Beef chuck is one of the thriftiest cuts of meat. Yet it has the same high quality complete protein, B vitamins and essential minerals as the fancier cuts. This is your cue to including the complete protein of meat every day in your menus.

Buy a round-bone or arm cut roast and have it cut thick, approximately 4 to 6 pounds. From the round end of the roast, cut off a boneless piece to cube for beef stew. Cut a piece from the center for a small one-meal pot roast. With a sharp knife, split the remaining piece in half to make 2 Swiss steaks.

Pot Roast and Swiss Steak
Sprinkle meat with salt and pepper. (Sprinkle with flour for a richer brown.) Brown meat slowly on all sides in a little hot fat (fat may be cut from meat). Add small amount liquid. As liquid cooks away, a little more may be added. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat at simmering temperature on top of range or in a slow oven (325 degrees) until meat is tender; 2 to 3 hours for pot roast; 1 to 2 hours for Swiss steak.

How to Make a Stew
Cut meat in uniform pieces. Season with salt and pepper. (Sprinkle with flour for a richer brown.) Brown on all sides in hot fat. Barely cover meat with hot water, stock or other liquid. Cover kettle closely; cook slowly until meat is tender. Simmer, do not boil. Add extra liquid, if necessary. Add vegetables just long enough before meat is tender to be done, but not overdone. Thicken gravy with small amount of flour and water paste.

Tomato Powder Ready
Department of Agriculture scientists have perfected method of making tomato powder, which can be mixed with water and used for sauce, soup, etc. Ready for commercial production, it is expected to be of use to armed forces.

Cereal Crunch Is Just Tops

Serve Praline Cereal Crunch on top of ice cream for an unusual dessert that is quick and easy to prepare. Rolled oats, brown sugar, butter and nuts are combined in making this crunchy, full-flavored topping.

Praline Cereal Crunch can be served plain on top of vanilla ice cream or combined with chocolate, hot fudge, caramel, or butterscotch sauce. This crunch mixed with sweetened whipped cream is delicious served on cake squares.

The hostess with a supply of Praline Cereal Crunch and vanilla ice cream is prepared for unexpected company and can serve an attractive dessert on short notice. Praline Cereal Crunch keeps well in an air-tight container.

Praline Cereal Crunch
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup water
1 cup rolled oats, regular or quick
1/2 cup chopped peanuts
Combine butter or margarine, sugars, salt and water in frying pan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture reaches the soft ball stage (238-240 degrees F.).

Remove from heat and add rolled oats and nuts. Stir until mixture thickens and loses its gloss. Spread onto lightly buttered baking sheet. When "set" crush into tiny bits. Serve atop vanilla ice cream, or chocolate or butterscotch sundaes.

Vary Fudge Sauce With Peanut Butter

Peanut Butter Fudge Sauce is excellent served over a variety of ice cream flavors, such as vanilla, chocolate, chocolate chip, buttered almond, or pecan.

Peanut Butter Fudge Sauce
1 cup peanut butter
2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cups corn syrup

Combine chocolate and water in saucepan. Place over low heat two minutes or until chocolate is melted and the mixture is thick. Remove from heat; add syrup and salt. Simmer 10 minutes; stir occasionally. Add vanilla. Put peanut butter into mixing bowl and stir to cream. Add chocolate mixture slowly to the peanut butter and blend well. Serve warm or cold over ice cream. Makes 3 cups.

It's a Good Combination

If you're under 30, we dare you to try this. If you're over 30 and you don't have to admit anything to anyone, we merely offer a suggestion: make some homemade Tomato-Apple Butter. Why? For one thing, it's something you won't find in the stores. For another, it will be just wonderful, wonderful with pork or poultry. Try it on hot rolls, too.

The department of agriculture says the tomato season is still in full swing, so both of these wonderful foods are about as low priced as they're going to be at any time.

If you don't want to make it a big project, then use about a dozen average size tomatoes and a half dozen average size apples, a variety such as Greening or Wealthy. You'll end up with about three pints of appetizing Tomato-Apple Butter.

Slice the tomatoes and cook them for about 20 to 30 minutes, press through a sieve and measure out 4 cups. Cook the apples until they are very tender, and give them the sieve treatment and measure out 2 cups. Combine the sieved tomatoes and apples; add 1/4 cup water, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 4 cups sugar and a quarter teaspoon each of ground cloves and allspice and a half teaspoon ground cinnamon.

Cook this mixture rapidly about 25 minutes until it has thickened. Stir frequently to prevent sticking. Then pour into hot, sterile jars, seal and store immediately in cool, dry place, well hidden from greedy members of the family.

Warning: if you permit even one member of the family to sample this goodie, your whole batch will be gone in no time and you'll have to do it again.

New 'Bits' Add Flavor to Simple Goodies

A bit of flavor is what families like, and there are two new bits on the market — butterscotch bits and lemon custard bits. These little bits are first cousins to the favorite chocolate bits. The butterscotch and lemon bits come in 8 ounce packages, cost about 30 cents each.

You need not worry about how to use them, says the MSU Marketing Information Agent, Mrs. Josephine Lawyer. Look for recipes and suggestions on the package. If you don't use the recipe on the package, you can add the bits to a favorite cookie mix. You may want to experiment by adding the bits to cake or puddings, or freeze them in ice cream.

However you use them, a different flavor does make a difference to most families, and yours will surely like the little bits of butterscotch and lemon custard.

An air mail letter was dropped to President Taft from a monoplane in Augusta, Ga., in 1913.

garet street and Mrs. L. R. Naugle of Churchill road are directors of the Auburn Heights group, which was organized by Mrs. H. H. Thatcher (right) of Cherokee road and the late Mrs. Harry Y. Fitzgerald.

Arnkoff of Illinois avenue. They attended the morning coffee for section presidents and directors of Needlework Guild held at the home of Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald on Ottawa drive.

Leaders Attend Coffee Hour at Fitzgerald Home

Pontiac Needlework Guild Makes Plans for Annual Ingathering on November 14

When section presidents and directors of Needlework Guild met with Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald of Ottawa drive for morning coffee Tuesday, plans were announced for the annual Ingathering on Nov. 14 in the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. John W. Fitzgerald, president, asked directors to bring their garments to the church between 9 and 10 a.m.

NEW DIRECTORS

New directors introduced at the coffee were Mrs. Donald M. Jacobs, Mrs. Earl Kaul, Mrs. Joe T. Marshall, Mrs. James Aldrich and Mrs. C. L. Ralph.

Others were Mrs. Leland Clemence, Mrs. Wade Harris, Mrs. Harry Arnkoff, Mrs. Lloyd D. Fay, Mrs. Robert J. Umscheid and Mrs. Jack W. Goodchild.

British tea and coffee will be served by the Queen Mary Section from 10 to 11:30 a.m. to members and anyone wishing to see the display.

The annual meeting is scheduled for 11:30 a.m.

The Needlework Guild is the only organization of its kind to supply completely new garments and household linens to other charitable groups.

REASON FOR TWO

"One to wash and one to wear" is the answer to the question of "why two new garments?"

Because it serves every kind of agency from the Oakland County Children's Home to those dealing with older people, garments for all ages are welcomed. Also needed are household articles such as sheets, pillowcases, towels, washcloths and dish towels.

With over 1,250,000 members throughout the United States, the Needlework Guild of America maintains only three paid workers; all others are volunteers.

All money received is used locally except a small amount which helps finance the national headquarters' work.

It is the only charitable organization directly affiliated with the American Red Cross to help in time of emergency.

Often during the year, schools refer private cases to Needlework Guild. Usually these families need only temporary help as a result of sickness, fire or other disaster. In such cases, the guild renders assistance efficiently and confidentially.

Anyone who annually gives two new articles of clothing, household linen or money with which to buy garments becomes a member of the guild.

Clothing may be made at home or purchased. Underwear, socks, sweaters, shirts, skirts, mittens, dresses, caps, outing flannel pajamas and boys' trousers are especially needed for school boys and girls and teenagers.

Outing flannel sheets and warm bed socks are welcomed by the elderly men and women.

AUBURN INGATHERING

The Auburn Heights Section will hold its annual Ingathering on Nov. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Auburn Heights Community Club, according to Mrs. Lester A. Snell, president. Mrs. Ernest Howell is vice president.

Officers working with Mrs. Fitzgerald are Mrs. Arthur H. Harrington, first vice president; Mrs. Chauncy G. Burke, second vice president; Mrs. Harold A. Furlong, third vice president; and Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald, fourth vice president.

Mrs. A. J. Michal is executive secretary, Mrs. Donald Nichol, recording secretary, and Mrs. W. Ross Thompson, treasurer.

GARMENT BUYERS

Purchasing garments for special cases are Mrs. Claire R. Gaulker, chairman, and her assistants, Mrs. Henry P. Gaulker Jr. and Mrs. Robert F. Pack.

Would you like to become a member of Needlework Guild and give two new warm garments for a child or someone's grandmother or grandfather? If so, call Mrs. Edward P. Barrett of Ottawa drive, membership chairman, or one of the officers.

New Look Creator Succumbs to Heart Attack

Death Comes to Christian Dior, Ruler of Postwar Fashion World

MONTECATINI, Italy (AP) — Christian Dior, 52-year-old king of the postwar fashion world, died early today of a heart attack while on holiday in this north Italian resort 25 miles west of Florence.

The quiet, balding and slightly paunchy creator of the revolutionary "New Look" had come to Montecatini a week ago with four friends.

CALLED FOR DOCTOR

He dined last night at his hotel with an unidentified Frenchwoman and after dinner retired to his third-floor room. At 11 p.m. he called for a doctor. Subsequently the local priest, the Rev. Giulio Celli, was summoned.

Also at the bedside of the famed designer when he died were a local doctor, a French physician and his dinner companion.

Dior was the second of French fashion's major postwar designers to die after a brief but meteoric career. Jacques Fath succumbed three years ago, at the age of 42, to leukemia.

Dior was virtually unknown until 1947, when he burst to the forefront of the bitterly competitive fashion trade with the revolutionary longer, full skirts of his New Look. In that one season he became the dictator of high style, and never since had anyone come topping him from his pinnacle.

STARTED GALLERY

As a young man, Dior left his political science studies to start a small art gallery in Paris.

Illness forced him out of that, and after his recovery he had to sell his last valuable painting to live. A friend who was designing dresses and hats persuaded him to try his hand and helped him get a start. He did not have great success.

After the World War II service, he started thinking about setting up his own shop. In 1946 he got the backing of Marcel Boussac, wealthy textile manufacturer. From his first collection, he was a fabulous success.

He let skirts down in 1947, hiked them up in 1953 and de-emphasized the bosom in 1954. For each change buyers, customers and fashion writers flocked to his salon on the Avenue Montaigne.

Designers from Hong Kong to 7th Avenue adapted the lines he decreed, and Dior at his death himself headed a multimillion-dollar combine of eight companies and 16 associates in 10 countries.

Dior denied any intention of trying to create sensations in fashion. "Changes just come about," he said, "and many things contribute when everybody is ready for them."

Dior never married and was not known to have had a romantic attachment. He traveled widely and lived in a small house at the edge of Paris, surrounded by dogs, cats and a magnificent collection of antiques and art objects.

Gold Star Unit Has Luncheon

The group sewed cancer pads for the American Cancer Society and prepared Halloween favors for the Oakland County Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

GOP Plans Open House on Nov. 5-6

Oakland County Republicans Headquarters announces an open house Nov. 5 and 6 at the new headquarters building, 351 N. Woodward Avenue, Birmingham.

Irene Giacobbi, chairman of the open house celebration, announces that the doors will be open both nights from 8 until 10:30.

Assisting Miss Giacobbi will be Mrs. W. E. C. Huthwaite, Mrs. William Beardmore and Mrs. Harry Henderson.

On hand for the observance will be Larry Lindemore, chairman of the State Central Committee, and many county officers.

Events Planned by Soroptimists

Tainee Surola opened her West Huron street home Wednesday evening for members of Soroptimist Club. Plans were discussed for the group's annual Card Capers and the 48th Conference of Soroptimist International to be held in Chicago Oct. 25 through 27.

William Anderson showed slides and answered questions concerning the current United Fund drive. He was assisted by Dale Quinn.

Mrs. Wade Harris (left), a new director of the Pontiac Branch of Needlework Guild of America, Inc., reads over the list of clothing and household linen suggested for giving to the annual Ingathering to be held Nov. 14 in First Presbyterian Church.

Standing beside her are other new directors, Mrs. C. L. Ralph of Emily court and Mrs. Joe T. Marshall of Opdyke road. Mrs. Earl F. Kaul of Opdyke road is seated.

Presenting a check to C. K. Patterson (left) of Pontiac Foundation is Jean Warnock, representative of Beta

British Antique Salesrooms Attract Huge Stream of American Tourists

By JOHN GALE
LONDON (U.S.)—Britain is a land where you can pay $1,400 for a soup tureen, if it happens to be silver and made by an 18th Century character called Paul Storr.

It is also a land where one genuine American dollar will purchase one genuine Georgian teaspoon—the moral being you don't have to be a millionaire to take home an authentic silver antique.

The soup tureen in question is at present owned by a Liverpool woman, who as a sideline sells second-hand underwear to Lascar seamen.

SUCH VARIED STUFF

Of such varied stuff are some British antique shops made.

Nevertheless, they attract annually a huge stream of American tourists, generally spearheaded by a task force of American dealers.

One such is Rudy Starita, who runs an antique shop at Palm Beach, Fla., and says: "I come here every year to stock up my shop. London is not only the cultural center of the world, but it has cheaper markets than back home and it has the goods that count."

Starita does not always buy the costly silver treasures from Italy, France, Germany and Holland that can be found behind British counters.

Experience has shown that most of his Palm Beach customers will settle for an English cutlery set, just so long it is stamped "made in Sheffield."

UNIQUE WARES

For the connoisseur, however, there is a good deal here that is unique.

The period from 1714 to 1820, covered by the reigns of the first three Georgian kings is considered to have produced the best work by British silversmiths. Today, it also produces the best prices.

That one dollar Georgian teaspoon can cost up to 20 dollars if it happens to carry the name of a famous maker, such as Ann or Hester Bateman, or Paul Storr.

Silver plate also runs high. One magnificent platter, circa 1746 but only large enough to carry half a dozen coffee cups, was priced at $700 recently in a London salesroom. Curiously value got in here. It carried the arms of a noble family.

Step up a reign to George IV and prices fall back slightly. An embossed teapot, coffee pot and cream jug, circa 1824, sold recently for $280.

Victorian period silver is also somewhat cheaper, but some of it is less than 100 years old and therefore not antique in the purest sense.

Nancy C. Chiappelli Wed to Ralph W. Koppleburger

Nancy Carroll Chiappelli and Ralph William Koppleburger were married Saturday evening in Pilgrim Holiness Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. James Chiappelli of Florence avenue, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Koppleburger of Kingston.

For her wedding the bride wore a white satin gown with lace bodice and a fingertip veil of illusion held in place by a lace Juliet cap trimmed in seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a cascade arrangement of white feathered carnations centered with red roses.

A niece of the bride, Antonia Shover of Port Huron, was the maid of honor. She was gowned in light blue nylon lace and net over taffeta with a light blue feather headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Flower maid Bonnie Mariane Shover, a niece of the bride, wore a gown of light blue nylon over taffeta and a matching headband.

Serving as his brother's best man was Richard Koppleburger. Guests were seated by Jim and Jack Chiappelli, brothers of the bride.

For a reception held in the bride's home, Mrs. Chiappelli wore a pink tweed suit with navy accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a navy crepe dress with winter white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Before leaving on a trip to northern Michigan the new Mrs. Koppleburger changed to a champagne silhouette dress with beige accessories and a corsage of red roses. The couple will live in Mariette.

Zest for Life Makes Youth Last

By ANNE HEYWOOD
The art of staying young is a subject that fascinates me. Fortunately, my work puts me in a position to do a good deal of research on it.

Wherever I go, I find elderly people in their 30's and 40's and young people in their 60's and 70's.

GENERAL HUNCH

I've almost reached the point where I can tell you, when you are in your 20's, whether you'll be perpetually young or prematurely old. Not in so many words, of course, but I do get a general "hunch."

Part of staying young, of course, is in sensible living — eating decently, being generally moderate in most things, getting enough fresh air, exercise and sleep.

Part of it is in using cosmetics and vitamins and other modern medical miracles. But most of all, I think, it's in the point of view.

There's a fascination with life, a curiosity about the world, a can't-wait-for-the-next-minute approach which children have, and that is the common denominator of the eternally young.

Two people who have this approach are Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hoff of Sitka, Alaska.

I met the Hoff's last summer at Chautauqua, where I was visiting friends.

While taking a walk with my friend one day, I spotted a young-looking couple who were babbling excitedly to each other.

When I asked my companion — who knows everybody — who they were, she told me and when we caught up to them introduced us.

The Hoff's do a radio show — and quite a show — over KSEW, the voice of Sheldon Jackson Junior College in Sitka, Alaska.

They had brought their tape-recorder with them on their visit to the States, and were planning interviews and speeches for later use.

ENORMOUS KICK

You could see that they were living life to the hilt and getting an enormous kick out of everything.

When I asked what prompted their visit to the States, they said, blithely, "Our son graduated from Harvard and, of course, we had to be there."

I was just getting used to the idea of a grown son, when Mrs. Hoff piped up with "and, of course, we wanted to see our other son and our three grandchildren!"

Weary Grandma Advised to Insist on Consideration

She Spends Her Evenings Babysitting After Using Days to Earn Living

By RUTH MILLETT
If Grandma spends her days earning her living, should her married children expect her to spend her evenings babysitting?

A working grandmother writes: "I am writing you regarding your recent column about grandmothers who enjoy babysitting with their grandchildren."

"There is no reason why a healthy grandmother, who does not work outside her home, cannot babysit with her grandchildren sometimes. Yes, and enjoy it, too."

"But let me put in a word for the grandmothers who work a full 40-hour week outside their homes and are still expected to babysit."

"I love my grandchildren very much, but I am a widow and must earn my own living."

"Often exhausted after a day's work, I have not felt like coping with the problem of feeding, bathing and getting small grandchildren to bed, then waiting up for their parents to get home before I could fall into bed myself."

I have even felt that my daughter should love me enough not to ask me to babysit at night after working hard all day. But I've done it because I was asked in a manner that took it for granted that I would.

NO CONSIDERATION
"I love my daughter and I know she needs some time away from her children. But if she didn't have me to fall back on, I am sure she could find someone else to babysit."

"Perhaps I am wrong, but it seems to me that these young parents have no consideration for their parents. All they think of is what they, their companions and their children need or want."

Then why not open your own daughter's eyes to her lack of consideration? Explain to her that you want to be self-supporting so that you will never be a financial burden to her. Say that it takes all of your strength to earn a living and look after your own home.

Suggest that she manage her household budget so that she can afford to hire a babysitter occasionally. It's better to teach young people consideration than to deplore their lack of it.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD O. SMITH

Lucille Schwarzer Weds in Missouri Church Rite

Lucille Verónica Schwarzer became the bride of Richard Otto Smith in a ceremony performed at St. Luke Catholic Church, Maplewood, Mo. The Rev. John Freiberger solemnized the Oct. 12 ceremony in the presence of 100 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwarzer of Clarence street, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Smith of Vandalia, Ill.

For her wedding the bride chose a waltz-length gown of nylon tulle over satin with a fitted lace bodice, a Sabrina neckline and long, tapered lace sleeves. The bouffant skirt was outlined in lace, and the rhinestone-sprinkled lace veil was secured to a Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls.

Lucille's bouquet consisted of lilies-of-the-valley centered with a white orchid, and she carried a prayerbook.

Matron of honor Mrs. Howard Schrader of Maplewood, sister of the bride, wore a pale blue taffeta gown in a ballerina length, featuring a fitted torso and bouffant skirt. Her headpiece was a blue feathered tiara, and she carried red roses on a blue prayerbook.

FLOWER GIRL

Karen Schrader, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl. Her gown was of Nile green taffeta.

Lucille V. Schwarzer and Richard O. Smith were married Oct. 12 in Maplewood, Mo. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwarzer, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Smith.

Divorcee Is Missed in Capital

Ex-Wife of Envoy Plans Career in New York City

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — The witty and talented Claude Alphand, whose divorce last summer from her husband, Herve, the French ambassador, shocked their friends, is missed on the social scene this season.

The couple, who came to Washington in the fall of 1956, injected a new note of gaiety and sophistication into Embassy Row partying.

As hosts at the big Normandy-style embassy, they joined in giving generously of their diverse talents—he as a mimic and witty raconteur, the beautiful blonde Claude as an accomplished singer and guitarist.

NEW YORK REUNION

Washington has not seen Mrs. Alphand since her departure for France last spring, so it was with some surprise I found myself facing her in the elevator of a small East Side hotel in New York recently. I told her she was missed in the capital.

"I in turn will miss the friends I made there," she said softly. "The divorce is sad, for we were married for 27 years. But for us both, it is best. I cannot live the official life."

"I had no time for my own interests, not even time to study English. I was not happy."

"I expect to live in New York," she said. "First I will take an eight-week course in English at Columbia University."

GREATER FLUENCY

I noted that she already spoke with greater fluency than when I interviewed her last April in Washington. Then we had conversed through an interpreter.

"When I am settled I hope to go into commercial decorating, restaurants, nightclubs, little shops, and I will probably sing again," she said.

During World War II, while her husband was serving with the French underground, she sang at a chic New York Supper club. She also has made recordings.

Washington is familiar with Mrs. Alphand's gift as a decorator. She had begun to transform the formerly rather gloomy embassy into a residence with a light, young look.

Her flair for color, line and texture combinations was notable in several of the downstairs rooms she had done over.

Missionary Feted

Ruth Young of China Inland Mission was honored at a cooperative dinner given Tuesday evening by members of Third Philathea Class of First Baptist Church, Miss Young, now serving in Canada, spoke of her work as a missionary in Japan.

'Lightning Bright' Hairdos Now Seen Across Nation

Teens Sport Silver Threads Among Gold

By EUGENE GILBERT
President of the Gilbert
Youth Research Co.

Silver threads among the gold is developing into a national fad among teenaged girls.

From Baton Rouge, La., to Walla Walla, Wash., bobby soxers are daubing their locks with peroxide and other bleaches to achieve a slick streak of silver among blonde, brunette or raven tresses.

Called "lightning bright," the two-toned hairdo is replacing many of the boyish Italian haircuts and ponytail styles of a year or so ago in the nation's high schools.

The "silvered coiffure" is only one of a number of teenaged fads we encountered in a nationwide survey of youthful antics.

We learned, for instance, that raccoon coats are coming back faster than you think, that blue jeans and sloppy Joe sweaters are on the way out, that teenagers have a dozen different ways of indicating "going steady" and that, despite these capers, this year's high schooler will be neater, dressier and more conservative than last year's model.

REMEMBER GOLDFISH?

Some adults, no doubt, will be upset by these youthful methods of gaining attention, but they ought to think back to their own college and high school days when swallowing goldfish, wearing lumberjack shirts and doing the "Big Apple" were the rage.

Caught in the nether world between childhood and manhood, teenagers date on being different from both age groups.

In a way, they hate to grow up and they hate to be treated like kids, so they compromise by originating fashions, hobbies and even a language that are all their own.

Perhaps "originating" is too strong a word, since most of these antics are borrowed and adapted from other generations and other walks of life.

The "lightning bright" hairdo may be new on most high school and college campuses this year, saw a brief flair for this style day when a gray streak appeared but it is certainly nothing new in several years ago. It didn't last, in their coiffures.

the world of fashion. probably because most women. What else is considered de rig-
Cafe society and later Hollywood weren't too anxious to hasten the hour with this year's teenaged set?

Judy Roberts of Tulsa, a freshman at Oklahoma State University, sports her raccoon coat. More and more of these ancient moth-eaten relics are seen at college football games and pep rallies but, generally speaking, sans sports car!

In the east, another two-tone
hairdo, achieved by an off-color chignon, is gaining popularity, particularly along the Atlantic seaboard.

Shocking contrast seems to be its main aim. A girl with blonde hair will attach a chignon of flaming orange, a brunette will add a chignon wig of blonde and a redhead might resort to platinum or even lavender.

"It looks ghastly," admitted a Flushing, N.Y., senior. "But at least it draws the looks. People think you got splashed going under a painter's scaffold."

NEWEST FASHIONS

With levis and dungarees gone from the fashion scene among "hip" (i.e. culturally integrated) teenagers, girls will lean heavily towards Bermuda shorts, straight skirts, pale pink lipsticks, silver and neutral nail polishes, shetland sweaters, wool socks (worn high east of the Mississippi, rolled in a cuff in the West), raccoon coats, crew-neck jerseys, and khaki slacks and carcoats in polished cotton.

A new jewelry fad is pearl studs inserted in perforated ear lobes.

Boys, also deserting the sloppy look, will be resplendent in charcoal gray slacks, bola (string) ties, V-neck sweaters worn over white tee-shirts, brightly flowered vests, loud argyle socks, loud and large cuff links (providing a dress shirt is worn, which is seldom), raccoon coats, and either paratroop boots or "Libs," meaning patent leather shoes like Liberace wears.

Only the duck-tailed haircut prevails in their return to sartorial splendor.

Waste water from your auto-mat, washer can be discharged into the septic tank providing it has a large enough capacity.

Three Designers Share Fashion Award Honors

Voted tops in American fashion this year are three designers who shared honors in the full-dress presentation of the Coty American Fashion
Critics' Award at the Metropolitan Museum in New York.

Sydney Wragge, designer of ready-to-wear sports clothes and separates, and Miss Leslie Morris, custom designer for a New York specialty shop, each received "Winnie" trophies, while a special award of a silver plaque was made to Em-eric Imre Partos, Hungarianborn fur designer.

FASHIONS SHOWN

As winners were announced by Eugenia Sheppard, women's editor of the New York Herald Tribune, the awards were presented by Grover A. Whalen, representing Coty, climaxing a fashion show of selected garments from previous award winners of the last 15 years before an audience of 700 invited guests.

Wragge, big, bluff and ruddy, looks more like a sportsman than a designer, and spends most of his spare time either sailing or golfing.

A former men's shirt-maker, he started designing first shirts, then skirts for women, and continued to his present eminence.

PHILLY SOCIALITE

Miss Morris is a Philadelphia socialite, wife of Ira Jewell Williams Jr., and a designer of made-to-order clothes for one of New York's top-bracket shops.

Special award winner Partos was born in Hungary, fought with the French army during the war and afterward worked with the French underground, working in the salon of Christian Dior after the liberation, before coming to New York.

Ideal for a dress winter evening is the satin shirtwaist dress in two colors: Top in pale blue and wide skirt in soft green.

Women Buy Their Furs for Luxury

NEW YORK (NEA)—When a woman buys fur she isn't, with rare exception, buying something to keep her warm. She could keep warm wrapped in a blanket.

She is buying luxury. In return for her money, she wants a luxurious feeling and pure flattery. Be it jacket or full-length coat, daytime or evening fur fashion, a woman puts her money into fur because it will make her look prettier, because the silky softness of fur does things for her.

In the past seasons and increasingly so this winter, light furs as well as colored furs and white furs have gained in popularity. The reason for this is that it is possible, in light fur, to bring out the full drama of the design.

Black furs and dark furs generally are stunning. But they tend to be all of a piece unless they're lightened and brightened by contrasting collars, cuffs or linings.
They also tend to be more severe.
Fur colors this year include a navy that's actually royal blue.

Glandular Imbalance Causes Tensions

Change of Life May Affect Temper

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The following is an excerpt from a recent letter and presents a prevalent problem:

"I would like for you to explain why men and women going through the climacteric become irritable and forgetful and have a change in personality."

"I know one woman who became hostile to her family, and I have noticed that both men and women may become antisocial at this time."

Not all women or men have this experience by any means! However, there is often a tendency toward irritability and there may be chronic fatigue for a while, or some depression.

This is due to glandular imbalance. As the sex glands become less active, other glands take over. During this transition and readjustment period such symptoms may occur.

KNOW THE REASON

Usually those persons who have had a well-adjusted attitude toward life and others sail through the climacteric with little trouble. They recognize the reason for any little tensions. Symptoms which are at all severe can be treated with hormone therapy.

A husband and children should understand why the wife and mother is different. If she is, for her part she should see her physician for help and should bring self-control and a sense of humor to her problem.

I think it is true that some marriages go on the rocks or are terribly strained at this time because of lack of understanding and information.

The woman herself may not realize just what is happening to her at first. She may be tense and quicker to tears and temper than usual, long before she herself recognizes how great the change is in her.

Her bewildered husband and children react somewhat violently

SERIOUS STATE

A situation like this can snowball into a serious state unless it is straightened out. I think every middle-aged man should be given a medical lesson by his doctor and that every young husband should learn about premenstrual tension. This would avoid a lot of marital unhappiness.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Menopause" send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 32 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Educators Speak to Eastern PTSA

"Know Your Schools" is to be the topic for Eastern Junior High School PTSA this year.

Kenneth Nagley, principal, spoke at the Tuesday meeting on functions of the school, and use of student money was explained by E. L. Sturdy, assistant principal.

Inez Owen talked on guidance and Florence Gullstrand on the awards system and activities. Shop instructor Ray Lowry spoke on fundamentals of various shops.

This pretty frock, designed for the young party-goer, is not only dainty but also durable! It's crocheted from sparkling white cotton and trimmed with frills of red and white stripe and gaily colored cross-stitch motifs.

Pattern No. 5700 contains crocheted directions—sizes 2, 4, 6 incl.; material requirements; finishing directions.

Send 25c in coins, your name, address and the pattern number to Anne Cabot, The Pontiac Press, 372 W. Quincy St., Chicago 6, Ill. Have you a copy of our 1937 Needlework Album? It contains 56 colorful pages showing many pretty designs; plus directions for making three crochet items and a quilt. Only 25c a copy!

Sapphire for Winter

City AAUW Discusses the Balkans

Members of the Pontiac Branch of the American Association of University Women met at the Voorheis road home of Faye Donelson Monday evening.

The travel group presented a panel discussion concerning the Balkan states. In the absence of Viola Krueger, chairman, her sister, Amy, acted as moderator.

The following topics were discussed: Geography, Lillian Davidson; politics, Mabel Double; religion, Beth Horsvold; culture, Inez Owen; historical background, Cora Krueger; nationalism, Miss Donelson, and future trends, Amy Krueger.

It was voted to hold meetings for the remainder of the year at the library of Isaac E. Cray Junior High School. Members will meet again on Nov. 18.

The cut-away that curves away from the hips, the four-gore skirt, gives a newer and younger silhouette to the wide-hipped matron.

Leg-Hugging Tights Move to the Campus

Those leg-hugging tights are moving from the ballet stage to the campus. Made of an elastic nylon yarn that stretches to fit all types of figures, tights are the coed's choice for loungewear, sports, or under kilts and Bermuda shorts.

trim young figure, these "smuggles" will never have that "baggy" look if they are quickly swished through soap or detergent suds after every wearing.

Lace Used Lavishly

Lace, imported or domestic, is lavished on gowns and peignoirs this season. Frequently an all-lace peignoir is shown with matching gown that has lace trim.

Texas Doctors Produce Plastic Bones 'Liven' Skeleton Market

GATESVILLE, Tex. (INS) — skulls from the enterprising doctors in 1952.

Alas, poor Yorick, his remains may never be the same again.

A small boom followed. Now in their Gatesville plant, the only one of its kind in the country, femurs, humeri, tibiae and fibulae roll off production lines like hubcaps and windshield wipers.

The pieces are assembled in Gatesville at the rate of one per day. Considering the tedious work, the time is considered fast.

The plastic models are rife with advantage, the discreet manufacturers point out. They are easier to clean since they do not become greasy. They bear no nicks or chips that their once mortal counterparts may have acquired.

Above all, the manufacturers note, plastic bones were not once part of a living being, "therefore people do not seem to mind handling them."

But at five feet they all look alike. Playgoers and Shakespearean scholars will never know the difference.

Fairchild receives mail addressed with every conceivable variation of his first name, such as: Hallstone, Hardstone, Curbstone, Firestone, Headstone and Hardrock.

Recently, he received an advertising brochure addressed to Bullstone Hurlstone. Annoyed, Fairchild replied with a letter declining the brochure's offer, signing it:

U. of M. Expert Says Flu May Be Russian Product

ANN ARBOR (U) — A University of Michigan medical expert says Asian flu very possibly is as Russian as the earth satellite.

Dr. Gordon Brown, the university's epidemic specialist, told a gathering of pharmacists yesterday that the disease may have originated in Siberia before sweeping down into northern China where it was first reported early this year.

Dr. Brown attributed this country's low death rate from the flu and other virus infections to large stocks of antibiotics.

Although citing reports of some persons becoming afflicted with the disease after inoculations, Dr. Brown stated he was enthusiastic about the flu vaccine currently being distributed by pharmaceutical firms.

"There is a good chance the vaccine will help and a person certainly has a better chance of avoiding it if he has a shot," Brown pointed out.

Todd Ads Announce Gift-Giving System

NEW YORK (U) — Showman Mike Todd has full-page advertisements in today's New York Times and New York Daily Mirror announcing the final system for distributing gifts to each of 18,000 guests at his "intimate" Madison Square Garden party.

The notice also will appear in today's New York Journal-American and in newspapers in all cities where Todd's film "Around the World in 80 Days" is on exhibit.

The gift distribution is based solely on serial numbers on the backs of ticket stubs which all of the guests at the party last Thursday were instructed to keep.

In addition a cross check is being made against the original list to make sure "outsiders" do not get in on the gift distribution. The ad calls for all stub-holders to mail them in, along with name and address, by Nov. 28 to Todd headquarters at 1700 Broadway.

Prizes include a Cessna airplane, a 40-foot cabin cruiser, motor scooters, gas ranges, sewing ma-

Several Oakland County area gridders are listed on Central Michigan College's freshman football roster this fall. Included are: quarterback Arnold Eckhouse, Oak Park; fullbacks Dick Turner, Port Huron, and Tom Spencer, North Branch; halfback Dave Roberts, North Branch; tackles Jim Samec, Ferndale, and Al Brieger, Capac, and center Larry Price, Brighton.

Many popular Detroit sports figures were present at Wednesday night's debut of the Pistons in Olympia Stadium. Among them were Al Kalline of the Tigers, Gordie Howe of the Red Wings and Bobby Layne and Lou Creekmur of the Lions. Also on hand was Vic Wertz, ex-Tiger star now playing for the Cleveland Indians.

Pontiac's Terry Zellhart and Mel Aldredge of Southfield are among the freshman basketball candidates this year at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo. Also on the squad is Saginaw's Deb Blondin, well remembered by Pontiac cage fans.

Pontiac sports car club will hold a rally Saturday at 8:00 p.m. starting at Foster's garage on Auburn Ave. Any sports car enthusiast can participate. There will be trophy awards. The club will have a meeting November 8th.

The sickness and injury troubles at Bloomfield Hills have been so bad that Monday was the 1st time in three weeks the Barons were able to hold a scrimmage. "And that was because I used four jayvee players," said coach Don Hoff.

The newest gag going around about the Russian satellite, Sputnik, is that it is probably just one of Mickey Mantle's home runs circling the globe.

A big drawback on many prep football teams is the lack of a placekicker to boot those valuable extra points. Imlay City should be well set for a few years with freshman Roger Lomerson currently carrying a 5-for-6 record.

Title Bout in January

DETROIT (U) — Detroit, which hasn't had a championship boxing match since Ezzard Charles defeated Jersey Joe Walcott in 15 rounds on March 7, 1951, has officially been awarded a January light heavyweight title bout.

It will match champion Archie Moore of Toledo, San Diego, St. Louis, New York and a dozen other places, against Chuck Spieser.

Rangers Win 3-0 Whitewash

Victory Over Leafs 2nd Straight After Threats by Coach

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Whether the threats to bring up farm hands to replace some regulars on the New York Rangers was for real or just a psychological move on the part of Rangers' coach Phil Watson will probably never be known. But it did the trick.

Since then the Rangers have won two in a row, the latest being a 3-0 whitewash of the Toronto Maple Leafs last night, in the NHL's only victory.

Prime target for Watson's murmurs was goalie Lorne "Gump" Worsley. He, probably more than the others, has "stood tall" in the past two games. He allowed only one goal Sunday night when the Broadway Blues thumped the Chicago Black Hawks 6-1, and he completely cooled off Toronto's new "razzmatazz" offense last night.

The Rangers also won undisputed possession of third place, moving ahead of idle Chicago. Dean Prentice scored two of the Rangers' goals and Guy Gendron on the other. Gendron was also called on a charging penalty in the third period, which ignited a short and lively free-for-all that sent two Leafs and another Ranger to the penalty box.

Sparrow Scores Six Points

'Bird' Moves Fast

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Things are moving fast for Guy Sparrow. Last night the former Pontiac High and University of Detroit cager made his pro debut in the NBA with the New York Knickerbockers, and this morning he exchanged wedding vows with Miss Marilyn McNamara of Iowa City, Iowa, in a quiet ceremony at Gesu Church in Detroit.

"The Bird" contributed six points as the Knicks opened their season by defeating the St. Louis Hawks 112-95 in the preliminary game to the Detroit-Boston game at the Olympia before 10,961 fans.

The Knicks took an early lead and never fell behind. They held a 51-43 halftime advantage.

Sparrow went into the game to start the second half and played for 16 of the 24 minutes of the last two quarters.

He made two of six shots at attempts and two of three free throws for his six points.

"I was a bit nervous," Sparrow said. "I guess I have a few things on my mind," he laughed as he referred to his marriage today.

Coach Vince Boryla said he was satisfied with Sparrow's performance. "Remember he's just a rookie playing against such veterans as Bob Pettit, Ed Macauley and the others," Boryla commented.

"He can make this league, and I wouldn't have used him that early in the game if I had thought he couldn't do the job," the Knicks coach added.

Sparrow blew a couple of shots on breakaways and he was charged with five personal fouls during his stay.

"He still needs some time for conditioning," said Boryla, "and he is just recovering from a bad case of blisters on the soles of his feet."

PHS coach Art Van Ryzin, who saw the game, said, "Sparrow made a lot of mistakes, but he's a strong man and his outside shot should help the Knicks."

Big Ray Felix led the New York scoring with 22 points, including six field goals and 10 for 10 from the charity line. Rookie center Charley Tyra from Louisville played an outstanding game as he scored 13 points and rebounded well.

Sparrow and his bride are scheduled to leave for New York this evening.

For some years Dr. M. C. Warster, 99 Wrennath road, has planned this journey. He left here Sept. 15, expects to return Nov. 13. He is now in Kenya colony, British East Africa on a safari from which he hopes to emerge with an elephant and a great kudu. His safari moved from Arusha, Tanganyika.

The Indian stopover of a day will be at Calcutta, Malaya, China and Hawaii are on the return cycle of the trip.

Dr. Warster is an avid hunter. He is a member of the Oakland Gun Club, has taken some nice antelope trophies the last two years in the western U.S. game country.

Spieser's backers, for the most part a group of people almost totally unfamiliar with boxing except via TV screens, have less than three months to figure out a way to keep from losing $100,000. That's the amount they guaranteed Archie to defend the title that was so long in coming to him.

The contracts were officially drawn up and signed yesterday. Moore and his co-managers, Charlie Johnston and Doc Kearns, have a choice of $100,000 or 40 per cent of the net receipts, including TV money.

The 28-year-old challenger last fought in April and was knocked out by Tony Anthony in three rounds at Olympia Stadium. Anthony in turn was knocked out by Moore in seven rounds in September in Los Angeles.

Should Spieser defeat Moore, the contracts call for a return bout within 90 days, again in Detroit. The Detroit fighter gets 20 per cent of the net receipts.

With PHS idle this week we go out on the limb in the top game in the state — Bay City Central versus Midland, and it seems all the pickers are sticking with the Saginaw Valley school.

Here are the choices for this week.

Big Games in 'B' Leagues Friday

By CHUCK ABRAH

It's that time of the year again when they start separating the championship contenders from the also-rans and a pair of Friday games in Oakland County's two Class B prep leagues are excellent examples where the axe may fall on someone.

Feature game of the night in the Wayne-Oakland loop will be at Northville where the defending champion and currently 2nd place Mustangs host Milford, the 3rd-place occupant.

Matching that one will be the Oakland B clash between Clawson and Troy at Clawson. Both Milford and Clawson face elimnation from the title races if they lose, since each already has one loss.

Northville, unbeaten in league play but having one victory less than Holly, is favored to keep rolling behind a speedy backfield and big line.

But Milford is in top condition and could make things interesting if breakaway runners John Zeeman and Jerry Hackett get going.

Northville will have a big edge in weight and depth which could make the difference.

Although Troy is unbeaten, the Bulldogs will be underdogs against Clawson. Clawson was pre-season favorite and had been living up to the billing until Lake Orion lowered the boom last week.

Both teams have good scoring power and the fact that Troy will be at full strength for the 1st time in three weeks could result in another upset. Fullback Dave Stokes rejoined the Colts Monday following an injury.

Elsewhere around the Wayne-Oakland, Bloomfield Hills and Clarkston meet in a battle of area rivals, Holly seeks its 4th triumph at Brighton and West Bloomfield celebrates Homecoming playing Clarenceville.

Lake Orion is expected to add another notch on the winning side of the ledger in its drive for the school's 1st Oakland B crown at Arundale, while Fitzgerald hosts Madison in the other loop game.

The Tri-County League has a full slate for the 1st time with Rochester making its debut at home against Lapeer and Romeo favored to get back on the winning side against L'Anse Creuse.

Two contests are set in the tight South Central Conference. North Branch goes to Orionville and Oxford is at Millington in the pair.

East Detroit, hoping to start a new victory streak, is at home against Birmingham. Port Huron plays at Ferndale and 1st-place Hazel Park defends its lead at Mt. Clemens in Eastern Michigan.

South Lyon will host Boyaville in the League of the Lakes in the only other area tilt. Non-loop play will have Armada at Imlay City and Oak Park at Gross Pointe University School.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (U) — "The Navy Hospital ought to have a good snack this week."

That was Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz' comment on his football team's condition yesterday as it continued practice for the Penn game in Philadelphia Saturday.

At least six Middies will miss the game because of injuries, including former first string fullback Dick Dagampat and regular right tackle Jim Martinez, who suffered knee injuries in the 27-14 victory over Georgia last Saturday.

Penn also is ailing. Coach Steve Sebo told Navy reporters in a telephone interview that quarterback Frank Riepl, who has been sidelined since the Penn State game, will not even suit up. Halfback Rick McGinley also won't be back to full strength and several other players are injured.

Conviction of Aragon Reversed by Court

LOS ANGELES (U) — Conviction of welterweight boxer Art (Golden Boy) Aragon on a fight fixing charge was reversed today by the District Court of Appeals.

The court set aside the conviction on the ground that instructions to the jury by Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker were prejudicial to Aragon. The appellate court ordered a new trial.

Aragon was convicted last February on charges of offering Dick Goldstein $500 to fake a fourth-round knockout in a bout scheduled for last Dec. 18 in San Antonio, Tex. The fight never took place because Aragon became ill.

Al Benton in Court on Auto Theft Count

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Al Benton, once termed the "pitching marvel of modern baseball," it came into federal court in San Francisco today as an accused automobile thief.

The former Detroit Tiger "iron man" moundsman, whose active baseball career ended in 1953, admitted he purchased a car in Sacramento, Calif., in 1954 with a spurious check and took it to Oklahoma City where he was indicted by a federal grand jury last May for auto theft.

DETROIT (U) — The crowd showed plenty of enthusiasm as it welcomed pro basketball back to Detroit after 11 years.

Owner Fred Zollner who brought the Pistons to Detroit after 16 years in Fort Wayne, Ind., said, "We will be in Detroit for a long time. We are very happy with the turnout, even with the bad weather."

For Detroit, Yardley had 20 and Dukes 19 before leaving the game on fouls.

Gophers Aim to Keep 'Little Brown Jug'

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Title-hungry Minnesota, on the doorstep of its best season since 1941, will carry an additional burden into its annual "Little Brown Jug" battle with Michigan Saturday.

The Gophers have been installed three-point favorites and the role of underdog is exactly what Michigan wanted.

"I've been through this many times before," said Michigan coach Bennie Oosterbaan.

"Being made the favorite in a big game like this doesn't mean a thing. But I'm just as glad we're not favored."

To illustrate his feelings, Oosterbaan could refer to last year's game when his Wolverines were a heavy two-touchdown choice. It didn't work out that way. Minnesota walked off with a 20-7 victory and carried the "Little Brown Jug" back to Minneapolis.

Minnesota is favored-why. Only last week, the Gophers, rolling along unbeaten and rated fourth best team in the nation, crashed into Illinois. They were almost a unanimous pre-game choice. Again it didn't work out that way. Illinois won 34-13.

The Gophers, along with Indiana and Purdue, are the only

Big Ten teams which have never visited the Rose Bowl. Minnesota wants badly to make the trip this year. Its supporters haven't had a championship conference eleven in 18 seasons.

Thus the importance of Saturday's game is magnified in Minneapolis. It has been a sellout of more than 63,000 for months.

Both teams go into their 48th meeting in sub par condition.

Dick Larson, second-string Gopher quarterback behind Bobby Cox, is on crutches and said to be definitely out of Saturday's action. Frank Youso, a huddling tackle, was bedded this week with the Asian flu.

Michigan is crippled at three positions. Fullback John Horrostein has been declared out of the Minnesota game and now there's doubt if he'll be able to play again this season. His ankle injury has shown little improvement.

Right halfback Mike Shatusky and center Gene Snider have been sidelined by bad backs. Their status for Saturday's game is in doubt.

"They always talk about being hurt at Michigan, but they seem to get out of a wheelchair to play against Minnesota," said Gopher coach Murray Warmath.

TOPS IN PASSING — In the top prep game in the state this weekend, Bay City Central will have one of the state's best passers, quarterback Jerry Gross, when the Wolves meet Midland Saturday night at Bay City. The two teams are tied for Class "A" honors as the number one teams in Michigan.

This Could Be Tittle's Best Pro Year, as Passer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ten years, been compared with a great baseball pitcher who can mix up his stuff.

Getting down under them the most this year have been Clyde Conner, the second-year end who came to the 49ers from College of The Pacific with letters in basketball and football, and R. C. "Overdrive" Owens, the flanker back from College of Idaho.

Those two plus the veteran Billy Wilson and halfback Hugh McElhenry provide a pass receiving team hard to cope with.

Tittle this season has attempted 91 passes, completed 50 for 715 yards and seven touchdowns, which equals his complete touchdown output of last season.

Bobby Boyd Gains Unanimous Verdict

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — One-time top middleweight contender Bobby Boyd of Chicago outpointed Franz Szuzina of Germany for a unanimous decision last night in a 10-round bout that saw only the referee hit the deck.

Szuzina, 159, sent referee Joe Palmer to the canvas before only 969 patrons after the seventh round bell as the official was trying to break the fighters, as the crowd roared. There was no count. Boyd was a pound over the middleweight limit at 161.

Boyd, on the comeback trail after suffering a broken jaw in September, 1956, scored early and withstood the desperation punches from the Bremen Native. The Chicagoan celebrated his birthday a day early. He is 24 today.

STRIKES AND SPARES

By Joe Wilman

Here's one of the toughest spare shots you'll have to shoot at regularly—the 10-pin spare. Most right-handers have plenty of trouble with this pin because they don't shoot for it properly.

First, take your stance on the left side of the approach. This is a right-side spare and should be shot from the left of center.

Next, move directly toward your target and release the ball in the same straight line. The ball is delivered from the LEFT side of the alley and angled ACROSS the alley TOWARD the 10-pin. Your angle must be correct. If not, you'll miss the pin on one side or the other.

If your ball hooks a great deal, you'll want to give it plenty of room to move out and come back into the 10-pin. If you roll a straight ball, draw an imaginary line from where you release the ball to the 10-pin and have your ball follow that imaginary line.

Because this shot is difficult for a right-handed bowler, plenty of practice is recommended. In open play, try shooting at such difficult leaves, instead of bowling games, and you'll be paid off in higher scores.

HONOR IN BRONZE — The prep football "Athlete-of-the-Year" will again this year be chosen by The Pontiac Press and will be the recipient of this beautiful award which is his own bronze plated football shoe. Last year's winner was John Walker of Walled Lake.

Press Again to Select Grid 'Athlete-of-the-Year'

High school football players of Oakland County are being scouted again by the PONTIAC PRESS to find the second annual winner of the Thom McAn Football Trophy and candidate for the $1,000 scholarship awarded to one of these trophy winners each season.

The griddler will gain the honor as the County's prep football "Athlete-of-the-Year."

The unique trophy is his own football shoe, bronze-plated and mounted on a handsome wood base with an engraved plaque, and is given for outstanding leadership, sportsmanship, competitive spirit and team play.

Seniors in good scholastic standing are eligible to compete for the scholarship.

Players on more than 800 high school teams across the country will be screened to pick this year's trophy winners, the eighth year of the awards.

The 1936 Oakland County winner here was John Walker of Walled Lake High School.

Tom Biddison of Baltimore, Md., was the 1936 winner of the scholarship for his exceptional academic and sports records and his prize-winning paper on higher education.

The awards were originated by Ward Melville, chairman of the board of Melville Shoe Corporation.

Walker was an all-state full-back last year at Walled Lake and was also an all-B student.

He is now a freshman at the University of Michigan and a member of the frosh grid team.

The griddler selected by the Press will have until February 15th to submit his essay on a subject to be selected by the McAn company.

Town Prays for Prep's Recovery

PAWNEE, Okla. (INS) — Young Abe Abbington is through playing football, but the misfortune that shortened his gridiron days left him with the knowledge he has lots of friends.

Abe, a 19-year-old Negro, was home today convalescing from a serious intestinal operation necessary because of a football injury suffered more than a month ago.

He was the only Negro starter for Pawnee High School, for which he played in the three seasons since the school was integrated.

Last year he was the second highest scorer in Oklahoma prep ranks, and until laid low had averaged better than two touchdowns a game for his then undefeated team.

Hurt in a game Sept. 17, he underwent hospital observation three days but was released and played in another contest. He became ill Oct. 6 and was returned to the hospital to undergo four-hour surgery for removal of part of a ruptured colon.

As he lay for 12 hours near death, the 6-foot-2, 225-pound junior fullback's popularity with classmates and townspeople showed in their concern.

"At one time," Coach Max McKenzie reported, "at least 250 persons, adults and children, white, Negro and Indian, were lined up to assist him in any manner they could."

A physician related that as the operation started, 60 or 70 high school students went to the hospital. A girl and three of Abbington's football teammates donated blood.

McKenzie kept a promise to the stricken youth and stayed at his bedside during the hours of crisis. So did assistant coach Glenn Seacrest and team captains Bob Perry and Fred Staff.

Prayers for Abe's recovery were offered by the school's pep squad and church groups. Two rival teams which had felt his football charges sent flowers.

Schools Superintendent Homer Shaw described Abbington as a "fine school citizen" who had to take special studies to keep up with his classmates. He had missed much schooling because of outside work.

Football for him is out, but Abe said he hopes he will be able to play basketball this winter.

Hope to End Ohio State Reign

Big One for Badgers

CHICAGO (INS) — This could be the year that Wisconsin trips up Ohio State, one of its bitterest football rivals.

That is the opinion today of both Wisconsin coach Milt Bruhn and Ohio State mentor Woody Hayes in telephone interviews.

Reminded that the Wisconsin Badgers have not beaten the Ohio State Buckeyes since 1946, Hayes said:

"Every year is different. I don't look at it as a case of Ohio having a jinx over Wisconsin. It's just a game for this year and there is nothing as ridiculous as saying that one team has a hoodoo over another."

Bruhn, now in his second year at Wisconsin, refused to discuss his team's poor luck against the Buckeyes. He added:

"We've got a much sounder team this year than a year ago but we know Ohio State does, too. They have better passing and a little more depth."

"From our experience, we know that Ohio likes to run a lot and their power plays can run a team down. All we can do is try to stop their offense and hope their pass defense is vulnerable. That is the one thing that may enable us to win."

Hayes, far more wary of Wisconsin than Bruhn was of his Buckeyes, said:

"They've got a vastly improved team at Madison this year and those sophomores have sparked them in every game."

"The Badgers have a great running halfback in Danny Lewis and have big ends who are very elusive."

Bruhn compared Ohio State to a team "that is slow in getting started but by mid-season picks up steam." He added:

"As far as I'm concerned, Ohio State hasn't really played a good game against anybody this year. Wisconsin never seems to produce any problem for them but I've got a great bunch of kids who don't believe in a jinx but only believe in winning."

Asked how he felt about Ohio State's possibly winning the Big Ten championship and eventually going to the Rose Bowl, Hayes answered:

"That's the farthest thing from our minds. We at Ohio are like anybody else—we take one game at a time. But why worry about championships and Rose Bowls when we'll have a bad enough time against Wisconsin. Then we've got Purdue, Iowa and Michigan—what could be worse than that?"

RUGGED LAKER — A big reason why West Bloomfield has come along fast in recent weeks has been the play of big Red Gord-hammer as an offensive end and defensive tackle.

Les Dye is in his ninth season as freshman football coach at Syracuse University.

Cincinnati Reds pitcher Raul Sanchez had a 1-1 record with the Washington Senators in 1932.

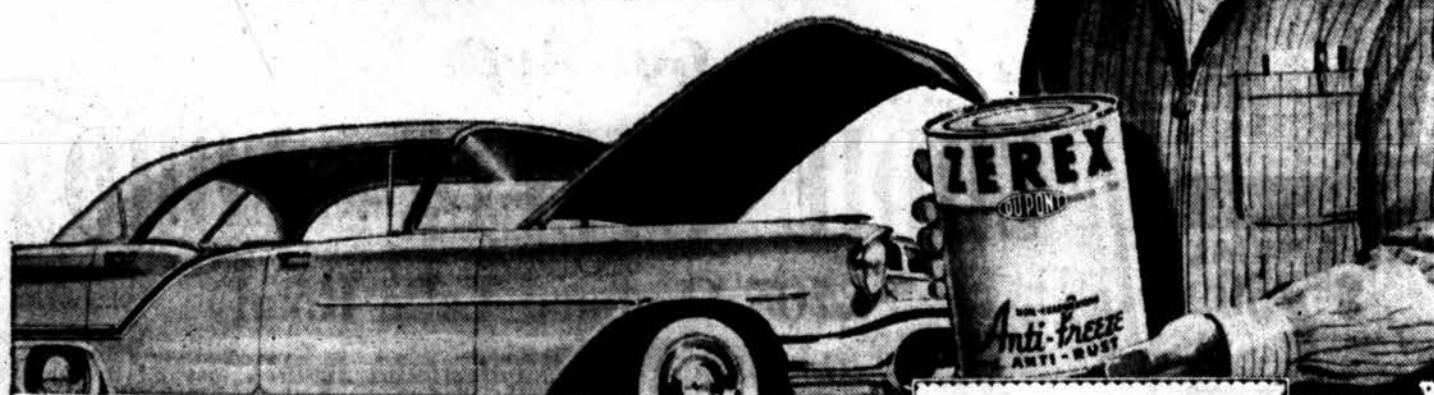

DU PONT ZEREX® ANTI-FREEZE

PERMANENT TYPE.

WITH MR-8 KEEPS YOU

GUARANTEED* SAFE

...AND IT WON'T ROT HOSE

HOW MR-8 PROTECTS YOUR CAR

Here's the complete all-around cooling system protection you get with "Zerex," the only permanent type anti-freeze containing MR-8, Du Pont's special chemical rust inhibitor.

1. Works in all waters

Du Pont "Zerex" anti-freeze with MR-8 is compatible with all types of water. Even in hard water the inhibitor stays in perfect solution. Hard water makes the inhibitors used in many anti-freezes precipitate out, materially reducing their protective qualities.

2. Will not rot rubber hose

"Zerex" with MR-8 will not rot or soften rubber hose because it contains no oil. Oil is extremely harmful to some radiator hose, softening or rotting it sometimes in one season. Then the hose may collapse or burst, causing overheating and engine damage.

So don't take chances this winter. See your dealer now and get the complete winter-long protection only "Zerex" with MR-8 gives. It's the premium, permanent type anti-freeze made and guaranteed by Du Pont... your best assurance of quality and satisfaction.

3. Neutralizes all acids

The seven different metals used in modern cooling systems can become corroded when a permanent anti-freeze solution turns acid. However, "Zerex" with MR-8 has extra "reserve alkalinity" that gives winter-long protection from the corrosive action of cooling system acids.

4. Keeps rust in suspension

"Zerex" with MR-8 keeps the cooling systems of today's complex engines clean and free-flowing. Because "Zerex" contains no oil, it does not cause rust to stick to cooling system surfaces and clog radiator passages, which can cause overheating and engine damage.

*DU PONT GUARANTEE

"Zerex"® anti-freeze will protect the cooling system of your car from freezing, rust or corrosion for one full winter—and will not leak out—if used in a properly operating, watertight cooling system and if used according to Du Pont directions printed on the "Zerex" container.

Du Pont guarantees too, that "Zerex" will not boil away and can be used with either high- or low-opening thermostats, at high or low altitudes in extreme driving or weather conditions. "Zerex" will not harm rubber hoses, gaskets, pump packing, metal parts of the cooling system or car finish. "Zerex" mixes perfectly with water, flows freely and transfers heat efficiently.

Michigan State Guards Against Junior Passer

Illini Fear MSU Irate for 1936 Defeat and Last Week's Loss

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Illinois emerged from its stunning 34-13 upset of Minnesota virtually injury-free and with a new "Mr. Inside" and "Mr. Outside" combination to throw at Michigan State this week. But Ray Eliot is far from a happy coach.

"We couldn't catch Michigan State at a worse time," he wails. "Just take a look at the facts: we upset them last year in our homecoming 20-13. Now it's their homecoming. They're out for revenge—and they're also bristling because of what Purdue did to them Saturday."

The aggressive defensive work of the Illini in the Minnesota game drew praise from Eliot. But he was quick to add: "It may sound silly, but I wasn't too pleased with our offense—we blew a lot of signals. We've just got to be more efficient."

The Illini gained 270 yards rushing against the Gophers and 159 in the air.

Junior quarterback Tom Haller completed 7 of 13 tosses for 123 yards. Counting Ohio State, to which Illinois lost 21-7, Haller has hit on 17 out of 26 passes for 306 yards in his last two games.

Haller's serial work and fine signal calling greatly supplements the inside snafus of full-back Jack Delveaux and the running Bobby Mitchell.

Delveaux crashed for 78 yards in 12 trips against Minnesota and scored twice. Mitchell slithered for 74 yards in 14 attempts. Haller's main target is sophomore end Rich Kreitling of Chicago. He caught 3 passes for 43 yards against the Gophers and now has a total of 9 receptions for 157.

Probably many of the missed signals Eliot refers to come on the offensive line. The Illini have "automatic" plays that are called by the quarterback before taking the snap-back after he surveys the defense. In some games, these "automatics," which require split-second readjustment in linemen assignments, are used as much as 60 per cent.

Many States Increase Benefits for Jobless

CHICAGO—A state-by-state survey of current unemployment legislation by Commerce Clearing House, national reporting authority on tax and business law, reveals that 23 states increased the maximum benefits available to the jobless by an average of $5 a week this year and one other state provided a larger total by increasing the duration of payments.

The pay increases ranged from Wyoming's boost of $11 to Michigan's increase of $1 for dependents.

Couple Honeymooning in Michigan Hospital

HILLSDALE (U) — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reel of Vincennes, Ind., are spending their honeymoon in bandages and hospital gowns instead of in the wilds of northern Michigan.

The couple headed north after being married in their hometown Tuesday but when their car reached Jonesville 1. skidded on wet pavement and rolled over.

Reel, 30, and his bride will spend the next several days in a local hospital for treatment of head cuts.

Hollywood HeadlinesBeautiful Inger Stevens Only Wants to Be Herself

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U) — Being a Swede, Inger Stevens has naturally been compared with Ingrid Bergman. Being fresh-faced and blonde, she has been compared with Grace Kelly.

"Though they are complimentary, I hate comparisons," says Inger. "I suppose they are the result of a laziness of description; people can't think up new adjectives, so they make comparisons. But I'd rather be known as Inger Stevens."

My bet is that she will get her way. Already she has made a fine impression as Bing Crosby's leading lady in "Man on Fire." She went on to "Cry Terror" with James Mason, and is now playing opposite Yul Brynner in "The Buccaneer."

What does she have? She is strikingly beautiful, as Bergman and Kelly were. She is also a convincing dramatic actress. And Inger is warm and friendly, which the two noted ex-patriates were not.

Inger is full of interesting notions. At lunch she took her fruit juice with a chaser — "The body can't absorb juice in such concentrated form." She is a great one for bran muffins and yogurt, and her lunch consisted of juice, green beans and rice. But you can't knock such a diet when you see the results on her.

Inger is an authentic Swede, but she's also an American beauty. She came to this country at 10, lived in both Mannhattans — New York and Kansas. She grew up in the latter, where her father was a teacher at Kansas State Agriculture College.

"I've been supporting myself since I was 13," she related. "I've done everything, including taking inventory at Montgomery Ward in Kansas. What fun it was — counting wool socks with the temperature 115°."

She went back to New York and tried her hand at modeling, posing for toothpaste commercials and acting in television. The latter gave her seasoning and brought her to the attention of movie makers.

She was signed by Paramount. Meanwhile she played a Swedish maid in the Playhouse 90 show, "Eloise." This caught Producer Sol Siegel's eye, and he tested her for "Man on Fire."

Ex-Band Leader Dead of Cancer

Abe Lyman, Composer of 170 Hits, Passes Away in California

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (U)—Abe Lyman, former bandleader and composer, is dead of cancer at 59.

The Chicago-born Lyman, who died yesterday at his home here, began his professional career as a drummer in 1916. Two years later he came to Los Angeles.

Among his song hits were "Mary Lou," "I Cried for You," and "After I Say I'm Sorry."

In 1921 Lyman's orchestra, with the late Gus Arnheim at the piano, opened at the Cocoanut Grove in the Ambassador Hotel. Later Lyman and his band appeared in films and on the radio.

He retired in 1949 and devoted himself to the family restaurant business. Survivors include the

Some Heart Surgery Beats Tonsillectomy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some heart operations are "safer than a tonsillectomy," a Philadelphia surgeon said today.

Recent surgical advances have made it possible to correct holes in the inner heart wall which cause "blue babies," Dr. Houck E. Bolton, instructor in chest surgery at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, said at a cardiac children's institute. He said other new heart techniques make possible the removal of the patent ductus — a blood vessel that should disappear before birth — and cure aortic stenosis — the narrowing of the great blood vessel of the heart.

Eight ships are used by the U.S. naval task force to carry supplies through the icy regions north of Hudson Bay to bring supplies to the U.S. Air Force radar sites on the Distant Early Warning line.

Won't Be Home for Christmas

Navy Men at South Pole to Stay for 2nd Winter; Replacements Delayed

of last winter here got the sad news today that they probably won't be home for Christmas.

Navy Capt. W. M. Dickey, the area commander, told the 317 "old explorers" that bad flying weather has delayed arrival of their replacements. Most personnel changes will now have to await opening of the ice as the antarctic summer progresses and ships can reach Little America.

The personnel exchange was not made last summer until late in January and early February. But hopes had been raised by a Navy newsletter from Washington to the men's families indicating they might be home for the holidays.

Dickey said only hardship and special cases now are likely to get out in time. Morale is still high despite the delay, he added.

Hungarian Reds Mark U.N. Birthday by Jeers

VIENNA (AP) — Hungary's Communists today observed the 12th birthday of the U. N. by accusing it of countenancing "lies and insults against the Hungarian government."

Radio Budapest broadcast a statement by the Hungarian United Nations League denouncing the 12th U. N. General Assembly, which adopted a resolution condemning the Soviet repression of last October's Hungarian revolution and the Communist reprisals against the rebels.

Red Consulate Stoned

LONDON (AP) — A crowd stoned the Hungarian consulate and legation building in fashionable Eaton Place early today, breaking five windows. The crowd gathered to mark the first anniversary yesterday of the Hungarian freedom fighters' unsuccessful attempt to break Soviet domination.

View Atomic Ships

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A cooperative organization of Norwegian shipowners may be formed to develop atomic-powered ships, the newspaper Morgenbladet said today.
