Missile Fired With Rodent in Nose Cone

Recovery Boats Comb Ascension Island Area Off African Coast

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—Air Force recovery boats scoured the South Atlantic today for an experimental rocket nose cone and a tiny captive mouse hurried into space in a combination military-scientific missile test.

The Air Force was keeping quiet about the success or failure of the mouse-carrying hybrid rocket, designed as a forerunner of the missile expected to shoot for the moon.

After the firing last night, spokesmen said only that the missile "performed successfully."

There was no mention of the lowly mouse's fate, or of the landing place of the nose cone.

However, there were indications the recovery boats, standing by 1,000 miles from Africa near the Ascension Islands, were awaiting daylight before starting the anxious search for the mouse and its equally important carrier.

The mouse and the nose cone were sent into the heavens last night about the second stage of a Vanguard rocket which in turn was mounted on the first stage of a Thor Intercontinental Ballistic Missile. It streaked southward over the Atlantic tracking range, trailing streaks of orange flame.

MOUSE 600 MILES UP

Air Force officials at Cape Canaveral and the test center's headquarters at nearby Patrick Air Force Base declined to discuss details of the mouse's lonely flight 600 miles above the earth.

But it was believed the mouse was brought from a laboratory and put in the rocket's nose cone in an effort to learn the effects of space flight on living creatures as a step toward eventually putting men into space.

Other living creatures have been fired to high altitudes, but none as high as the captive in last night's missile. Russia's second Sputnik contained a dog, but the Soviets are not believed to have recovered the animal's body.

The hybrid missile, named Thor-Able after the title of the re-entry tests, was the second of its type to be fired. The first, which also contained a mouse, went up on (Continued on Page 4, Col. 1)

Sullenberger's Fate Rests With Board

By PETE LOCHBILER

With denials that he suffers a "persecution complex," Dr. Neil H. Sullenberger last night concluded his hearing and left it up to the Board of Trustees whether he will practice again at Pontiac General Hospital.

The Board, which conducted last night's fifth and final session, will render a decision in "five to six weeks," said Willis M. Brewer, chairman.

Dr. Sullenberger himself took the stand for almost two hours, first to make a detailed refutation of charges

Reveal Airman Almost Lynched

Peasants in Armenia Spared Him on Finding Out He Was Yank

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI)—One of nine U. S. airmen shot down over Soviet Armenia by Russian jet fighters disclosed today that Armenian peasants almost lynched him but spared his life when they discovered he was an American.

Maj. Bernie A. Shupe told a packed news conference the peasants had a noose around his neck and the other end of the rope tied to a telephone pole when he finally made them understand he was an American.

The nine airmen were flying suits that bore no national markings. Shupe said he saved his life by shouting out the names of American cities until the peasants understood.

Shupe spoke to newsmen after Col. Dale D. Brannon, the ranking officer among the nine men aboard the C-119 plane that was shot down June 27, read a prepared statement for the group.

Shupe and Brannon were two of the five that parachuted when the Soviet MIGs set it aflame by shooting at it. Brannon said all five were "roughed" up and had their hands tied behind their backs.

Four others rode the burning plane to a crude landing field with the MIGs still firing at it. They escaped minutes before the plane exploded.

Brannon said all five who bailed out were hit with flak by Soviet peasants off and on for three hours.

He said they were abused until they got into the hands of Soviet military police.

After that, Brannon said, the treatment of the airmen improved.

Goldfine Lists 23 Governors Receiving Gifts

Says Each Given Bolt of 100 Per Cent Wool at 1955 Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine today listed 23 governors to whom he gave a bolt of 100 per cent wool cloth at the 1955 governors conference in Chicago.

He said he released the names, which already had been made known, because he wanted to "give a balanced perspective" to House hearings at which he is testifying.

"There was nothing wrong" or evil in the giving or receiving just as there was nothing wrong in the case with Gov. Adams," he said.

Sherman Adams, presidential aide, had some hotel bills paid for by Goldfine. The Boston textile magnate also sent Adams a vicuna coat and a $2,400 rug. They said the rug was loaned.

Goldfine's statement was apparently prepared by his press attaché, Jack Lotto.

When the House subcommittee halted its questioning of Goldfine for lunch, Lotto rushed up with the statement as Goldfine still sat in the witness chair.

Goldfine and his attorneys looked it over. Then Goldfine read it before television cameras.

ACKNOWLEDGE RECEIPT Lotto also handed out letters he said Goldfine received from some of the governors acknowledging receipt of the wool.

The letters were from Govs. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, Leo A. Hoegh of Iowa, J. Bracken Lee of Utah, and Joe Foss of South Dakota.

Big Waves Rock Fishing Craft, Sink at Least 1

Hawaii, Other Pacific Islands Alerted but Escape Damage

From Our News Wire
JUNEAU, Alaska—Three persons were reported dead and two missing today from a major earthquake which struck southeastern Alaska last night.

The earthquake struck near the Alaska-Canadian border and one fishing vessel was reported sunk and another was believed missing.

It touched off a tidal wave alert in Hawaii.

However, the U.S. Coast Guard and Geodetic Survey called off the alert early today after the wave failed to reach the Hawaiian Islands, and others in the Pacific.

The alert caused excitement and some traffic jams as residents of beachfront areas fled to higher ground.

The Coast Guard at Juneau said two unidentified survivors were taken aboard the fishing vessel Lumen when their boat, the Badger sank in Lituya Bay. The vessel reported missing was the Summure.

A Coast Guard spokesman said fishing boats in the bay, about 50 miles northwest of Cape Spence, reported a glacier in the bay broke off during the earthquake causing a wave about 50 feet high. The Coast Guard emphasized, however, that the report had not yet been confirmed.

A 35-foot rescue boat was dispatched from Juneau and the cutter Sorrell was dispatched to the area.

The quake was felt for about three minutes at Yakutat and for about two minutes at Cape Spencer. It rattled Juneau but apparently caused no serious damage, according to the Coast Guard.

The alert also had extended to Guam, Midway, Kwajalein, Wake and Johnston Islands.

The survey said the quake originated about 4,800 miles from Hawaii, near Yakutat, which is located near Sitka and the Kani Mountain range, a short distance from Alaska's border with Canada. The survey said Sitka reported heavy tidal action, rising and falling about six inches. However, Kodiak did not report any unusual action.

Experience Counts

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—University of Tennessee football player Ed Morgan got in some off-season practice at a local store where he's working as a clerk this summer. When a bandit tried to rob the store at gunpoint, Morgan downed him with a flying tackle and disarmed him.

Weather Predictions!!

NEW YORK (UPI)—Peaved at the weatherman's gloomy weekend forecasts this far this summer, George Wolpert, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, complained yesterday to weatherman Ernest J. Christie: "It is unfair to guess. The weathermen ought to know they are licked and give up."

Answer or Else, Witness Told

Senator Hurls Threat of Contempt Prosecution at Ex-Capone Lawyer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Abraham Teitelbaum, onetime lawyer for gangster Al Capone, drew a threat of prosecution for contempt of Congress today by refusing to answer any questions before the Senate Rackets Committee.

The demand for contempt action came from Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) who accused the ponderous, florid-faced lawyer-witness of holding the committee up to public scorn by refusing even to tell whether he is a citizen.

But Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) overruled Mundt's proposal for immediate action, and directed that questioning proceed in the committee investigation of alleged infiltration of unions and legitimate business by gangsters.

Mundt became angered after Teitelbaum refused even to say where he was born, whether he is an attorney or a United States citizen.

To Act on Integration

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals here has indicated it will act promptly in deciding whether Little Rock's Central High School will be racially integrated next year. A hearing on the case may be set for Aug. 4, the date suggested.

Fisherman's Shoelaces Keep Him Alive 5 Days

ALAMOSA, Colo. (UPI)—A fisherman who spent five days and nights without food and water on a crumbling Canyons canyon ledge told his rescuers today he would have plunged to his death had he not used his shoelaces to tie his legs around a tree.

John Sanders, 35, of Albuquerque, N.M., was rescued yesterday by mountain-trained soldiers. They scaled a 1,000-foot escarpment and then lowered themselves to the five-foot-wide ledge where Sanders clung.

Sanders' ordeal began July 4 when he and a companion, William E. Garver, 28, also of Albuquerque, slipped on loose rock while searching for Garver's wallet and tumbled down a mountainside.

Garver fell several hundred feet and was killed. His body was recovered Tuesday.

But a slender pine tree broke Sanders' fall. He continued to slip but grabbed the tree and tied himself to it with the shoelaces.

TOO WEAK TO FOLLOW

Don Bewley, 22, an employee of a mountain lodge 15 miles from the rugged scene, reached Sanders Tuesday. Bewley was able to leave the ledge and climb back, but Sanders was too weak from lack of food and could not follow him.

Mountain climbers from Fort Carson, Colo., trained in Alpine techniques, then were called in. They reached Sanders and lowered him to the Conchos River below in a harness fashioned from nylon rope.

Sanders was reported in good condition except for fatigue and exposure.

The soldiers who made the rescue were SPC 3.C. Bruce Hunter of Seattle, Wash.; 1st Lt. Carl Holzl of Skokie, Ill.; SPC 3.C. Richard (Continued on Page 4, Col. 5)

High on Two Counts

PORTSMOUTH, England (UPI)—Able Seaman Patrick Bryn admitted yesterday he was high on two counts when arrested. A judge dismissed charges against Bryn after the seaman said he had been drinking but had no idea how he got atop the roof of a house.

30 Servicemen, Canadian Still Held by Cuba Rebels

GUANTANAMO, Cuba (AP)—Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, was due here today to inquire into the delay in the release by Cuban rebels of 30 kidnaped American servicemen.

Fidel Castro's men freed the last two captive American civilians yesterday, leaving only the sailors and Marines plus one Canadian civilian in the rebels' jungle camps.

The Navy obviously is growing impatient at the delay in getting its men back.

Nineteen civilians have been released so far but no servicemen.

Rear Adm. R. B. Ellis, the base commander, said U.S. Consul Park Wollam had told him he fully expected five sailors to be released yesterday.

Wollam has been in rebel territory negotiating for release of the captives since shortly after the kidnappings began two weeks ago.

Ellis said the delay in the release of the five "is due purely to transportation troubles."

Earlier he had blamed difficulties in communicating with the widely scattered rebels.

Robert Wlechan, vice consul at Santiago, flew back into the jungle to join Wollam in negotiations. The helicopter that carried him returned with Albert M. Ross, 31, Houston, Tex., and James D. Best, 32, New Orleans and St. Matthews, Ky. Both were in excellent health.

Arrive in City for Three-Day Water Follies Show

BATHING BEAUTIES — Here's the beautiful water ballet corps of the Water Follies, not as they appeared when arriving in Pontiac this morning, but as they will look when the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce-sponsored show opens tomorrow night at Winer Stadium. The girls are part of an all-professional troupe of performers, including some former Olympic stars. There will be performances Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings and a Saturday matinee for children.

Board Holds Sullenberger Fate

to three weeks" for a stenographic transcript of the proceedings to be prepared and "at least another two weeks" for the board to study the case.

He repeatedly offered the Board's "full protection" to employees of the hospital whom Dr. Sullenberger might call to the stand as witnesses against the medical staff.

"I hate to put my friends' jobs in jeopardy, although several of them have expressed willingness to appear," said Dr. Sullenberger, refusing the offer.

"This is between me and the staff, no one else," he observed. The question of emotional stability was raised during cross-examination by Gillespie, a former judge.

Dr. Sullenberger, who is charged in part with threatening fellow workers during outbreaks of temper, admitted he had once used the professional services of a psychoanalyst for a few times on recommendation of friends who were analysts.

"They tell me everyone could use an analyst, even you, judge," he said.

TELLS SYMPTOMS

Gillespie in turn described the symptoms of what he called a "persecution complex."

"Are you calling me psychotic?" Dr. Sullenberger angrily demanded.

He then recalled that Gillespie had once been a patient of his.

"You weren't so bothered by the possibility that I might be a mental case that you wouldn't consult me as a patient yourself, were you?" he asked.

"I'm always the first to say there's a little something wrong with me," continued Dr. Sullenberger, who has freely admitted that he easily loses his temper.

"But there's not a single person in this room who's perfect."

Gillespie then reviewed Dr. Sullenberger's career during the past ten years and observed that the surgeon had "not stayed very long" at any one hospital.

"Did you have personality clashes everywhere you went?" he asked.

"Not to my knowledge," answered Dr. Sullenberger, denying that he ever "did any violence" to anyone at Pontiac General or elsewhere, except in one case where he had to defend himself.

DENIES CHARGE

Dr. Sullenberger also "defied" the medical staff to prove that his "so-called person misconduct" interfered with the efficient operation of the hospital, which is the over-all charge against him.

Gillespie then referred to an undated letter of resignation which the surgeon signed before being readmitted to the staff in 1956. In it, Dr. Sullenberger admitted misconduct in the past and promised to abide by the rules and regulations in the future.

"Did you mean what you said in the letter?" pressed Gillespie, who, as counsel for the staff at the time, had had a hand in preparing it.

But Dr. Sullenberger refused to answer the question directly one way or the other, saying only that he didn't write it himself and was "coerced" into signing it.

"I had to sign to get back on the staff. It was either that or go to court."

When Gillespie continued to demand a direct answer, Dr. Sullenberger interrupted saying, "You're wasting your time and mine, judge. I know your purpose is to twist me up."

He then went on to say, "I had every good intention when I rejoined the hospital. However, I was harassed from the day I got back and it increased as my prosperity grew."

"Don't ever think that there's not an economic angle to all this," Gillespie then accused Dr. Sullenberger of having certain hospital records in his possession and demanded their return.

ADMITS HAVING RECORDS

In an explosive interchange, the surgeon admitted he held "one or two" records but refused to identify them or return them to Gillespie.

"You'll get them back in the proper way when this is all over," he snapped.

The surgeon refused to allow Gillespie to examine the papers he had with him in his briefcase.

When Gillespie persisted, Dr. Sullenberger said "if you don't have any more questions, judge, see me in my office about the records."

After the hearing was over, Dr. Sullenberger rose to his feet once more to tell Brewer:

"I still feel I was booted out of this hospital without reason or a hearing." When Brewer protested, Dr. Sullenberger countered with: "I'm not arguing. I realize you would not give me the courtesy of letting me argue."

SAYS PATIENTS COERCED

During his defense, Dr. Sullenberger stated that his former patients had been "coerced and solicited" after his suspension.

He charged that an attorney who represented the staff had urged one patient to file a malpractice suit against him and a doctor had called up another patient "to offer to operate on her personally."

Mrs. Sullenberger was called to testify about an incident that occurred when she was present in an operating room to watch her husband operate.

She said she had been granted official permission to enter operating rooms previously and knew how to avoid interfering with the sterile conditions necessary during surgery.

Of the nurse who turned in a report on the incident, Mrs. Sullenberger said, "She was growing more bitter by the moment. The operation was taking longer than expected and she seemed quite unhappy that she had to stay late."

When Dr. Sullenberger requested the nurse's help, "she just kept sitting on her stool without moving," Mrs. Sullenberger testified.

The nurse, Mrs. Thelma Ritter, was one of 14 witnesses who testified for the staff against Dr. Sullenberger.

The other defense witness, Rex J. Bailey, of 1900 Woodland Ave., Sylvan Lake, testified about a conversation Dr. Sullenberger had with him "four or five weeks ago."

SAYS THREAT DENIED

He said the younger surgeon denied ever saying that Dr. Sullenberger had ever threatened him.

The intern was identified as Dr. Louis L. Bendezu, who the staff claims Dr. Sullenberger threatened with a scalpel during an operation last October.

In a deposition entered in the hearing, the intern stated he was "fearful for his life."

Dr. Sullenberger denied making the threat, but added that Dr. Bendezu was the "sorriest intern who ever walked into a hospital."

"If I didn't say that he was no damn help, I should have. Because he was no damn help."

He blamed several other of the so-called "incidents of temper" on that fact that he sometimes received "inadequate help" in the operating room.

"When you have a human body lying on the operating room table, you don't quit or slack off," he said.

PROFANITY ACCEPTED

He said that profanity by surgeons "during tough situations" was the "accepted thing."

He admitted that he was wrong once in attempting to interfere with another doctor's patient. "It wasn't my idea in the first place — it was a nurse's — but, anyway, I called the doctor right away and we straightened it out."

Dr. Sullenberger then claimed another Pontiac General doctor had ordered one of his patients out of the hospital on the day he was scheduled for an operation.

"I didn't get mad though," the surgeon said.

During his defense, Dr. Sullenberger brought up incidents involving several of the medical staff members who are accusing him.

Altogether, he called only five witnesses, including his wife, two friends, a fellow-doctor who is also involved in a fight with the staff, and a former patient, who refused to testify. The latter is Cecil J. Harrison, of 269 Seward St., who brought the $100,000 suit.

Cool Canadian Air Mass Pierces Great Lakes Area

By United Press International

A cool wedge of Canadian air pushed down across the Great Lakes early today, piercing a cushion of warm, moist air and scattering thunderstorm stuffings throughout the region.

The only other major weather activity, heavy thunderstorms pelted the southern Atlantic states and the Gulf Coast, depositing almost two inches of rain at Cross City, Fla.

Effects of the cool Canadian invasion were felt as far west as the Central Plains. Thunderstorms and showers ranged from Omaha, Neb., where almost an inch fell, to the shores of Lake Michigan where half-inch deposits were common.

Weather experts blamed a continuing flow of warm humid air from the Gulf of Mexico for the heavy rains in the South.

Midnight temperatures in the lower Colorado River valley were highest in the nation for the second night in a row, dropping just slightly below the 100-degree mark.

The Day in Birmingham

Bloomfield Bridge to Be Cleanest in Our County

BIRMINGHAM — If the paint-swingers among the Birmingham area's younger residents remain active, Bloomfield Hills is going to have just about the cleanest bridge in Oakland County.

About 9:30 last night, Bloomfield Hills Police apprehended four Berkeley girls busily at work painting the Trowbridge road-Grand Trunk bridge.

This morning, under police supervision, they had the less intriguing task of removing the paint.

Only two months ago a pair of youths had their turn at painting and paint-removing at the bridge.

"The bridge is beginning to look kind of spotty," Police Capt. Walter Sluiter said.

"A new rule is going into effect, however. From now on paint daubers will not only remove their handiwork but will clean the entire two-lane, concrete bridge."

Mrs. Kathryn Loomis has been appointed president of the Birmingham Board of Education.

William Spence will serve as vice president; Amos F. Gregory, secretary, and Bennett W. Root, treasurer. Directors are Mrs. Janet Parry, Richard P. Barnard and Malcolm R. Lovell.

Mrs. Clyde C. Bennett Jr. of 989 Safford Rd. has been named to head volunteer workers in Birmingham and Bloomfield Township communities in the United Foundation's 1958 Torch Drive.

She will name committee chairmen for Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Village, Oakland Hills, Foxcroft, Wing Lake, Franklin and Beverly subdivisions in addition to Birmingham.

Say Goldfine Failed to File U.S. Tax

BOSTON (UPI) — Industrialist Bernard Goldfine, who has not filed a 1956 state income tax return, also failed to submit a federal tax return for the same year, according to the district director of the Internal Revenue Service here.

Director Frank J. Cavanagh said yesterday Goldfine's returns were filed faithfully from 1950 through 1955 and the textile tycoon had asked and received a filing extension on his 1957 return. None was filed, Cavanagh said, for 1956.

He said it was against its policy to disclose Goldfine's reason for asking the 1957 extension, which runs out in five days.

The director also disclosed that 1957 income tax returns for the Boston Port Development Corp. and the East Boston Co., two Goldfine firms, had not been filed but added that they may be running on a fiscal year basis.

Earlier this week, State Tax Commissioner Joseph P. Healey said Goldfine had not filed a 1956 state income tax return and payment on the 1955 tax was received only a month ago. He received upon request an extension for filing last year's tax, as with the federal government.

Healey also said that his department was conducting an investigation into all of Goldfine's tax affairs with the state.

Mine to Beckon Tourists

HOUGHTON (AP) — Acadian Mine Tours Inc. of Ripley has purchased the Old Ropes gold mine at Ishpeming and plans to operate it in 1959 as a tourist attraction. The gold mine long has been idle. Acadian now operates a former copper mine at nearby Ripley as a tourist attraction.

Inn Fire Arson, Prosecutor Says

But Officials Confer in Effort to Place Blame for Blaze

"There is no question in my own mind that the Caribou Inn fire was a case of arson," said Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem this morning.

"The big question," Ziem added, "is who was responsible for the March 4 blaze."

Ziem issued this statement following a three-hour meeting Wednesday afternoon with his Chief Assistant George F. Taylor, Det. Willis Myers, of the State Police fire marshal's office, and Milton F. Cooney, Clarkston village attorney.

Examined were numerous photographs taken of the 125-year-old village landmark following the fire. Investigation by State Police arson squad members proved, Ziem said, that the fire was "of an incendiary nature."

Another meeting will be held this afternoon in Ziem's office with Cashan P. Head, attorney for the Finnish Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Calumet.

Head, in an answer to a legal suit filed by Inn owner Ernest A. Felice to collect insurance claims, implicated Felice in the fire. "We want to go over what he knows about the fire and compare this with what we have," the prosecutor said.

Any possible criminal action might be forthcoming soon after this afternoon's meeting, he stated.

Believes in Advertising

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. James E. Folsom displayed a bolt of cloth produced by one of Bernard Goldfine's mills during a news conference yesterday. Folsom said the bolt of cloth was given to him and other state chief executives during a 1955 governor's conference. He said they were presented by the governor of New Hampshire and bore a tag—"With the compliments of Bernard Goldfine."

Some Supersonic Planes too Fast for Radio Signals; Satellites Prescribed

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some planes now can go fast enough to push radio signals out of their allotted frequency channels, says an electronics expert.

This can mean danger for men in supersonic aircraft because it reduces or in some cases can prevent effective communication during fleeting moments when warnings or other information are vital, he said.

The best way out of the problem, the specialist said, is to establish artificial radio relay stations in satellites thousands of miles above the earth.

The expert, R. W. Parkinson, of the Ramo-Woolridge Corp., Los Angeles, described the problem in an address prepared for delivery today at the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences. Ramo-Woolridge is a research organization holding extensive government contracts.

Two planes closing in on each other and each traveling at 2½ times the speed of sound get a speedup in their commonly used voice communication band, Parkinson said. After they pass each other the frequency is slowed down by the same amount.

The effect is basically the same as the rising and falling notes of a train whistle or an automobile horn when a car on highway passes a train going in the opposite direction. Scientifically it is called the Doppler effect.

This variation may crowd the signal clear out of the band to which it is allotted, Parkinson declared. Unless the receiving plane returns its set to compensate for this, it may get only part of the message or may miss it entirely.

One answer to this and other shortcomings of present radio communication, the specialist added, is the establishment of two or three satellites 22,000 miles above the earth with instruments for relaying short-wave signals.

These satellites would have the same speed as the rotation of the earth, so they would seem to be stationary in the sky. At the same time they would reflect signals not just to one part of the earth but over nearly half of its surface, Parkinson said.

A satellite relay system could carry thousands of channels simultaneously and relieve the congestion of the present radio spectrum, he reported. The system also could make long-range or even worldwide television possible, he added.

Existing electronic equipment is capable of producing such a system, he said.

35,000 Visit Soo Locks

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — More than 35,000 visitors climbed the stairs to the gatekeeper's lodge at the MacArthur lock of the Soo locks in the first week of July. The Army Corps of Engineers said 7,781 made the climb on the busiest day. The Army's electric eye computer does not cover all locks visitors, only those going to the top of the MacArthur.

Hunt Missile Mouse Off African Coast

April 23 but the test failed and there was no statement from the Air Force. The nose cone was not recovered.

15,000 MILES PER HOUR

Scientists were hoping for better luck this time. A recovery would mean the first realistic test of a ballistic missile cone at intercontinental range and velocity. The Thor-Able was fired 5,500 (nautical) miles at a speed of about 15,000 miles an hour.

If the test proved successful, it might also prove the "Thor-Able" combination would serve as the first two stages of the three-stage rocket the Air Force will send toward the moon in the near future.

The thundering bird was launched by the same team of Douglas and Air Force technicians which will fire the moon rockets.

There was no doubt that the initial part of the missile's flight was a success. Hundreds of curious beach residents saw the 90-foot rocket hesitate for a second after its liquid fuel was ignited, then begin climbing into an almost cloudless sky.

Two minutes and 40 seconds later, while it was still in full view, the first stage dropped off and the rocket spurted toward the southeast.

HOLDS SIGNAL DEVICE

The missile's knob-shaped nose was rigged with signaling devices to aid ships in locating it when it came down. If it returned through the earth's atmosphere without burning up, the United States would have a nose cone for ICBMs capable of delivering bigger nuclear payloads further and more accurately.

For the mouse, the trip was equally important. If it survived the effects of such space hazards as cosmic rays and the weightlessness caused by the lack of gravity, the knowledge would help greatly in preparing to send larger living things into space.

Still another purpose of the test was to give the Air Force an idea of how well the combination of Thor and Vanguard stages perform as the first two stages of the planned three-stage moon rocket.

Table Only Request for Change in Zoning

Only one petition for Waterford Township zoning change was presented when the zoning board met last night.

A request from Wilson B. Jacob, of 1325 Beechland Blvd., to rezone two lots in the Minnewaters Subdivision from residential to commercial was tabled for further study.

The lots are located in the Cass Lake-Dodge Park area and Jacob said he wanted to charge a fee for parking cars from overflow Dodge Park traffic.

Only Minor Changes in Small Game Rules

HIGGINS LAKE (UPI) — The State Conservation Commission ended its monthly meeting here today by approving the small game regulation recommendations, resulting in only minor hunting changes from last year.

The pheasant season starts Oct. 20 and runs for 22 days in the Lower Peninsula and rabbit season opens Oct. 20 in southern Lower Michigan.

Any Pins Included?

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A "do-it-yourself" voodoo kit is on sale in the French Quarter for "people who have tired of psychiatrists, tranquilizers and physical violence." The kit includes dolls (male and female), candles, brick dust and other ingredients for a spot of old black magic, southern style. An instruction book tells how to make money, promote a wedding or subdue an enemy.

Adlai Still Wonders

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Twice-defeated United States presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson turned to thrice-elected Socialist Premier Tage Erlander at a state banquet and asked: "What is your secret for getting elected so many times? There was no record of Erlander's reply.

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — Army private Hughie A. Smith was sentenced to nine months in prison yesterday for being absent without leave for eight of the 10 years he has been in the service.

Goldfine Lists Gifts to 23 Governors

Dwinell of New Hampshire except those of Williams and Leader, who wrote to Goldfine in care of Lebanon Woolen Mills, Lebanon, N.H.

All but one of the governors whose letters were read wrote of the cloth as a gift from Dwinell. The exception was Leader who acknowledged it as having been presented with Goldfine's compliments.

Lausche wrote he already had had a suit made out of his "gift from the governor of New Hampshire." Leader promised to "put this material to good use." Hoegh said he intended to have a suit made "from this beautiful cloth."

Goldfine said in his statement today that one of the purposes of these particular gifts was "for advertising."

After Goldfine read his statement, he was asked by reporters about his relations with the governors. He said he had talked over conditions in the industry in the states where he had plants.

His attorney, Roger Robb, kept saying to Goldfine "That's enough."

The other governors listed as recipients included Norman Brundage of North Dakota, Robert Kennon of Louisiana, Ford Q. Elledge of Georgia, William C. Marland of West Virginia, Luther Hodges of North Carolina, Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia, Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas, J. B. Johnson of Vermont, Arthur B. Langbein of Washington, Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin, Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, Phil B. Donnelly of Missouri, J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, and Robert E. Smylie of Idaho.

There are about 66 total eclipses of the sun in an average century, astronomers believe, but only a small number are generally visible.

Fisherman's Laces Save Him 5 Days

Strand, also of Seattle, and P. C. Alfred Lane of Littleton, N.H.

Garver and Sanders were on a fishing trip with two others July 4 when they became separated while trying to reach a high mountain lake.

Shortly before dusk, Sanders said, Garver discovered he had lost his billfold and the pair was retracing their steps when they slipped and fell.

The other members of the party—Fred Bowker and Robert Shafer—also of Albuquerque—reported Garver and Sanders missing that night and a search was launched.

They were not spotted, however, until Monday.

Garver, auditor for the University of New Mexico, is survived by his wife Harriet and a brother, Clyde of Peru, Ind. His body was taken to Socorro, N.M., yesterday.

Wallet With $1,500 Returned to Owner

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Joseph C. Johnson was strolling down the street thinking about his recent spinal surgery when he saw a wallet on the sidewalk.

Not wanting to bend over, he waited for someone to come along and pick up the wallet. No one did.

Finally, he stepped into a store and got a clerk to come out and pick it up. Inside, they found $1,500 in traveler's checks.

Police, notified of the wallet, stopped a bus headed out of the city and returned the wallet to William Steel, Warwick, N.J. Officers relayed Steel's thanks to Johnson.

Many Proposals Offered to Curb Shark Menace

JOHANNESBURG — Because fatalities from sharks have been unusually heavy along South African beaches this year, various remedies are being suggested.

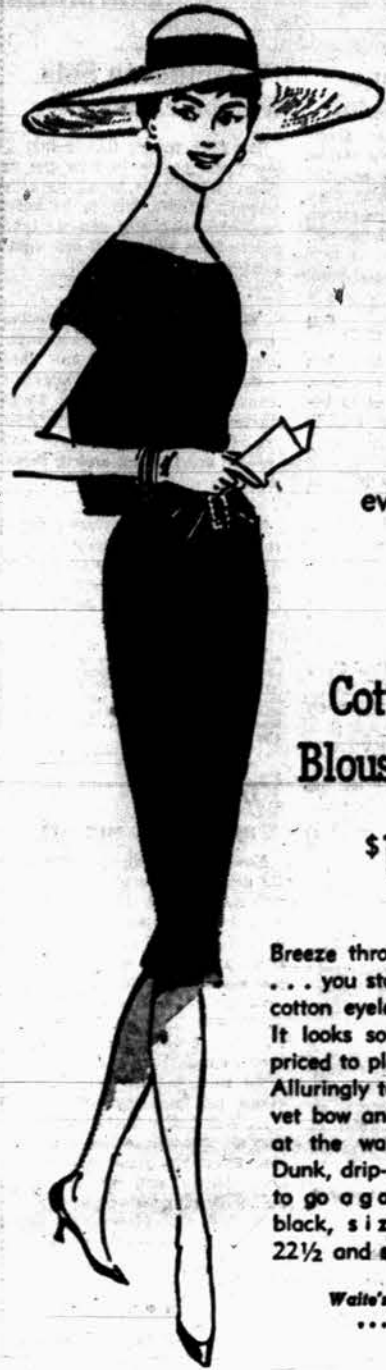

Ox blood is the answer, says J. Brutton-Simmonds of Johannesburg. "If ox blood from abattoirs were pumped into the sea at intervals, it would attract great numbers of sharks," he said. "Hand-grenades then could finish them off, dozens at a time." Major A.S. du Toit has devised a protected bathing enclosure — nets that can be pulled in easily during high seas but otherwise will stretch around bathing enclosures.

Italy's Liberal Premier Urges Social Reforms

As was expected the new Italian Government headed by Premier AMITORE FANFANI shows a strengthening of the more liberal wing of the Christian Democratic Party.

Although this party is the strongest single group in Italy, Premier FANFANI will have to govern with the help of the Democratic Socialists, a strong splinter party. Parties of the Right offered no effective opposition in the election and the Communists and Nenni Socialists had no better program for voters.

Premier FANFANI, a 50 year old economics professor and an outspoken foe of communism, is his own foreign minister. He immediately re-affirmed Italy's support of NATO, Euratom and Western European economic integration. His hand has been greatly strengthened by the revulsion of Italians to the political murders in Hungary.

The new government promises social reforms including better housing, health, education, labor conditions, social security and help for the distressed areas of southern Italy.

Premier FANFANI takes office under favorable conditions and all friends of freedom and progress will wish him success.

The Great Outdoors Is Beckoning to You

The best time of the year to get out and commune with nature now is with us in the Pontiac area.

With all foliage at its maximum, and before it gathers the dust that comes later in the summer, all nature is calling to you.

On most every hand in our rural sections "o'er the fields there comes the scent of new-mown hay."

That unmatched aroma of the wild grape blossoms and other wonderful fragrances come from every hedgerow in a manner that puts any Parisian concoction to shame. The very ground smells good.

The golden billows in our wheat fields are more entrancing than anything the winds ever did on water. Their waving is ultra majestic.

The grey of the oat fields only serve to accent the verdure of the corn—which is our biggest crop, and now is growing at a rate that overcomes its late start.

The bewhiskered barley and stately rye with the wheat in making their fields a nautical symphony when the breezes blow.

The buckwheat already is under the scrutiny of the wise bees.

Even the lowly potato is producing vines that make its fields look like a floral display. They're calory breeders supreme.

The fruit trees are beginning to bend graciously under this year's crop—advance agents of the best in living.

The flower and vegetable gardens are a joyful mockery to the florists and food markets. Even the weeds try to join the parade.

What is more beautiful than a verdant pasture dotted with a dairy herd on forage or in industrious cud-chewing repose?

The raucous crows, the sassy blue jays, the soaring hawks, the big family of melodious birds, the mourning doves, the mooing cows, the grunting hogs, the bleating sheep, the cackling chickens, the barking dogs, all blend into nature's unexcelled sonata.

The back roads have the finest unspoiled display and the best natural accompaniment. And our back roads now usually are good roads.

Get out into the country and let nature erase any cob-webby idea that you may have that this isn't the most wonderful season in a most wonderful area.

FAMILY income after taxes is at an all-time high of $5,300 — is expected to pass $7,000 by 1975. There's a new wave of opportunity coming and smart people are getting ready for it.

"You're not nearly so tired in the spring as you think you are," says a physician. Maybe not, but just to be on the safe side, we're going to rest a lot anyway.

The Man About Town

A Family of Grads.
Ten Members of It Have Completed H. S. Course

Tree: What only God can make but a politician can profane with his sign.

It now appears that The Ethel Kowalsky Family holds the high school graduation championship for Oakland County — and possibly for a much larger area. Ten of her children have graduated from Lake Orion High School, equally divided between the sexes.

The deer in the vicinity of the cabin of Pontiac City Manager

Walter E. Willman in Northern Michigan evidently are quite impressed with his new Pontiac car. The other morning he found a great collection of their tracks around it, made in such a way that they had evidently given it an extensive inspection. They had stood at every angle to give all of it a close scrutiny, front, rear, side and interior.

Just completing 25 years on the Oakland County Board of Auditors is

A Press classified ad. brought the immediate return of a parakeet to Mrs. Pat Cole of 654 Westbrook Ave. It had been AWOL a few days.

Gladioli in bloom a month ahead of the usual time are reported by Mrs. Glydie Doliman of Waterford, who says an intense fertilization supplied the push.

A cold spring is quite conducive to the growth of delphinium plants, according to a letter from

W. Gillespie of Waterford, who has them up to seven feet and over in height.

"You print too much about peach queens," writes

Mrs. Béssie Antwerp of Rochester, who continues, "Why not also have a strawberry queen?" I'm behind the suggestion 100%. There are two home-grown fruits that nothing else can match, not even if it's tropical.

"Give your mailman your vacation forwarding address," says Acting Postmaster Robert C. Miller, who urges that you do this BEFORE you go.

"Don't tempt your parakeets," phones Mrs. Bradley Warriner of Birmingham. She says a neighbor gave her bird a few drops of liquor, and now it stammers and flies over to that home every time it gets a chance—and has induced two other parakeets to do the same thing.

Verbal Orchids—

Mrs. Emily Lee of 70 Fairgrove Ave., ninety-first birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Holthusen of 1150 Parkway Drive; fifty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Fidelia Orcutt of Drayton Plains; eightieth birthday.

Now Dems Rapping Ike's Brother

WASHINGTON — Now the Democrats are picking on Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother.

They're criticizing as a "cavalier misuse of taxpayer's money" the sending of government airplanes to transport him from his vacation spot in Wisconsin back to Washington. He had to come back several days ahead of his planned return so as to prepare for an official mission to Central America.

The date for the start of his tour had been suddenly changed by the State Department.

The criticism is picaresque stuff. For the truth is the government of the United States owes Milton Eisenhower more than a free airplane ride. It owes him for services rendered for which he has never accepted a penny.

The President's brother was formerly president of Kansas State College and Pennsylvania State University, and now is the head of Johns Hopkins University.

He is a member of the President's advisory commission on the reorganization of the government and has performed special duties for the White House ever since 1933.

He has held for the last five years the title of representative of the President and special ambassador to Latin America.

In 1933 he visited 10 countries in Latin America, covering a period of 33 days. He spent 10 days on an official mission to Mexico in 1937.

A few weeks ago Dr. Eisenhower went, as the President's representative, to the meeting of the World Health Assn. in Minneapolis. He has received no fee for any of these services he has rendered. Air transportation has been provided in each case by the government.

If the same amount of traveling had been done in private business, there would have been some compensation for the individual performing the service.

In government work, however, there are a few unselfish citizens who, when called upon, give their time and energies without pay.

Certainly it cannot be persuasively argued that the individual who gives his services free should be required to pay his transportation expenses when interrupting his vacation to meet a government time schedule which has been suddenly revised to an earlier date.

But these are days of mudslinging against the party in power, and of publicity-seeking by political candidates who think it's popular to heckle the administration. These tactics can boomerang.

For certainly there are many citizens in the land who may have been willing to serve their government without fee but who now are being told, in effect, that they must not expect government transportation to and from their homes if they are called on to carry out special missions.

One would suppose that the government of the United States need not be so penny-wise and pound-foolish as to demand that citizens give their services without pay and also themselves foot the expenses of transportation to and from Washington.

The fact that military planes were used has also been the subject of criticism. Actually, the government has no planes of its own for civilian transportation except those attached to the military services.

(Copyright 1938)

Dr. William Brady Says:

Poor Diet Causes One to Eat Too Much Salt

Salt is an inexpensive staple, but that isn't the reason why many persons habitually eat too much salt.

One reason is that the regular diet does not include enough meat, fish, poultry, game, eggs, cheese and milk to supply the 2 grams (about 30 grains or half of a level teaspoonful) the healthy body requires daily.

Carnivorous animals, omnivorous animals and the nurslings of domestic or wild herbivorous animals get all the salt they need from their food. Herbivorous animals generally get insufficient salt from their food and hence are attracted by salt licks.

A wee pinch of salt gives zest to some food which otherwise would be tasteless, but too much salt added to food masks the natural flavor and blunts the sense of taste. People who habitually add salt to their food before they have tasted it, and gobble it down with little or no mastication don't know good cooking from bad or fine food from fodder.

In the Greasy Spoon, Sloppy Joe's Place and some private kitchens, everything is so heavily salted by the cook that the consumer can't tell whether it is good or bad food. Excessive salt, as well as pepper and various condiments help many a potlucker cover up what he or she has done to the food.

Too much salt makes the body dull and flabby because it retains too much water in the body tissues.

This is not to imply that one should attempt to follow a salt-free or even a salt-poor diet, unless under the supervision of a physician. In all ordinary circumstances it is sufficient to go easy with highly salted items, such as potato chips, pretzels, salted nuts; and to discontinue the practice of adding salt to food in cooking.

Profuse sweating enhances the need for salt. Drinking much water after extreme sweating may cause cramps. Large quantities of salt are lost in sweat. Therefore some salt should be taken with each drink of water, when one is exposed to great heat. Not only cramps but also heat exhaustion or sunstroke may be prevented by taking a little salt, say five grains, also a little sugar, such as a piece of candy or chocolate, with each drink of water when one sweats profusely.

It is well to remember that in the very dry desert heat in the southwest, the body may be losing a large quantity of salt and water in sweat which evaporates so rapidly that the inexperienced person may not realize that he or she is sweating excessively and therefore fail to observe these precautions.

In ordinary hot weather activity, at play or work, it is a good rule to take a little extra salt and sugar with each cool drink. This proves more refreshing than just the cool drink without salt and sugar.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 10 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Don't Put Off Being Good Parent

Clark is like millions of American dads! He wants to do right by his son if he should die tomorrow. But he fails to use equal ingenuity in doing right by the boy while he LIVES. Parents, give your kids proper habits for happiness and success. Then you don't need bequeath them money in the far off future! Now is the time for all good dads to come to the aid of their children!

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE Y-358: Clark D., aged 37, is a very successful insurance man.

Dr. Crane, I look ahead," he boasted at our luncheon recently.

"For example, I have a college insurance policy for my son so that his expenses are already guaranteed."

"He is only eight at present, but if I die tomorrow, he will still be guaranteed a college education."

"That is wonderful," I admitted, "but suppose you son refuses to go on to college."

"Your wife tells me he hates school already because he is a poor reader. So what shall I profit you to have his college expenses guaranteed if he flunks out of high school or deliberately quits because of distaste?"

Well, that jolted Clark, for he had vaguely realized that all was not too well as regards his son's school marks.

Voice of the People

Tells of Asiatic People's Requests for Magazines

I read of a man who may be doing more to combat Russian influence in the doubtful countries than any one else in the country. He is sending used magazines to thousands of people abroad who have written him for them. I wrote him for some names and have been sending several magazines several times a month to a number of people in Indonesia.

As evidence of their appreciation I've received several gifts, among them a can of coffee which cost the man half a day's pay just to ship. There's terrific demand for information on the United States in Asiatic countries. Incidentally, Russia is flooding them with magazines attacking us and Christianity.

If anyone is interested, I have more names and letters which I will give you. All of them write in English. It isn't as expensive as you might think, and besides the general magazines, I have requests for many specific subjects.

Howard Blakemore

3440 Lexington Dr.

Readers Continue Apparel Discussion

Why all the controversy about women's clothing? Surely Adam and Eve committed the original sin by eating the forbidden fruit and thus realized they were naked. My suggestion, which I hope will be the best of the series, is that all women in Pontiac should walk around blissfully naked.

It sure looks like the time has come when the last days are here. When we get so maled as to believe we don't know what God is like. The Bible tells us we crucify Christ all over again by denying His Holy Word, the only book of life where man finds salvation, peace, comfort and eternal life.

Please Pat and Nothing but a Woman, read the Bible and find the Lord as your personal Saviour before it's too late. Deuteronomy 22:5 shows what God has to say about women's apparel.

Quite a spirited discussion on the Bible and feminine apparel is currently appearing in the Voice of the People. I'd like to see our ministers give expression on the matter to instruct us, as they are our moral mentors and interpreters of the Bible.

I've attended services in churches of my own denomination quite regularly, have also visited churches of other denominations, but I've found treatment of Scriptures concerning these things is practically all in the present day pulpits.

This matter is important enough for God to have inspired such outstanding Bible characters as Moses, Isaiah, Paul and Peter to write upon it. How are we justified in treating it so lightly?

Nothing but a Woman, you sound like it isn't something you want to be. I'm glad I'm a woman, to have the responsibility of a family, to love and mother children. In answer to you and that Pat who wrote in, God was behind every Scripture in the Bible and He would be very sorry to hear someone say she doesn't know who or what He is.

The Bible makes very clear and as for slacks and shorts, there's nothing better for weeding a garden or relaxing at home, but they don't belong in shopping areas. Men like to see women looking like women.

Just Another Pat

'Washington Sets a Poor Example'

Our faith means this to me: To teach our people to love one another. It isn't to break up other people's homes, but to be better neighbors. But how can we teach people faith when they see what's going on in Washington?

That isn't setting a Christian example. Crime becomes a laughing stock whenever one that comes before an investigation committee is acquitted. These investigations which everyone watches are causing hate and people are fighting among themselves.

Just Mr. X

By JAMES J. METCALFE

However sad, discouraging... Or dark may be your mood... You should greet other people with... A friendly attitude... Yes, even if you must pretend... That nothing has gone wrong... That you are filled with happiness... And life is like a song... Your things will hide your ugly mood... And it will be untrue... But it will comfort friends and be... Good medicine for you... Because as you help others, you... Will find a certain cure... For all the tribulations that... You think you must endure... Look happy and be neighborly... With every word you say... ## THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

And ye said, Behold, the Lord our God hath showed us his glory and his greatness, and we have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire: we have seen this day that God doth talk with man, and he liveth.—Deut. 5:24.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Don't Put Off Being Good Parent

Or do you follow the typical father's pattern and boast about your victories and bravery and high grades and thrift and hard work as a boy?

Do you thus intimidate him by, recalling ONLY your virtues, while you tactfully have forgotten your many faults?

A supposedly strong parent of ten produces a weakling for a child, psychologically. But weak parents often have strong offspring.

Many a ne'er-do-well father thus has a son who becomes a great business genius. Drunkards often have teetotaler sons. Why?

Well, I am not urging drunkenness or profligacy with money, but parents need to lean on their children far more and admit their own errors so those youngsters will take heart and have greater motivation to succeed.

Send for my booklet "How to Tutor Your Child at Home," enclosing a stamped, return envelope plus 20 cents (non-profit). You dads can work miracles with it.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Maybe 'Teen-Ager' Diet Not So Bad After All

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP)—Colleen Kelley and Sally Kiley ran a diet experiment for their science project at a high school here. They gave one white rat a scitifically balanced diet, and another typical teen-ager fare of pickles, hamburgers and candy.

The "teen-ager" rat is thriving. The other one died.

Accordion 'Too Serene'

ROME — Italian Communists have advanced a simple—though untrue—explanation of why accordion exports have slumped. They say capitalist countries are not buying because the accordion is a serene instrument and does not fit in with their fast living. Actually, Americans bought 127,434 accordions in the first 10 months of 1957. And how many went to Iron Curtain countries? None.

Gulf stream eddies are believed to influence waters as far north as Nova Scotia.

Cars Get Transistors

CHICAGO — Radio-set production in 1957 was the biggest since 1948. Radio-set sales were up 22 per cent over 1956. About 14,500,000 radios were made in 1957. Transistorized portables totaled 1,600,000 and transistorized automobile radios 2,900,000. More than half the car radios made last year used transistors.

Charting System Old

BOSTON — Glass bottles were used 2,000 years ago to chart ocean currents and they still are.

1,316 Locomotives New

CHICAGO — Class 1 railroads in the United States put into service last year 1,316 new locomotive units compared with 1,433 in 1956. Diesel-electric locomotives accounted for all except four of the new units, which were electric.

Hospital Trip Yields Baby, Two Fugitives

KAUFMAN, Tex. (AP)—Lt. W. H. Bowman of the federal correctional institution at Seagoville, Tex., was rushing his expectant wife to a hospital early yesterday.

Speeding along the highway, he noticed two men beside the road who looked like a pair who escaped from the minimum security prison early Sunday.

After depositing his wife at the hospital, he called the prison. Lt. Wood Beasley and Clyde Haxem went into action and soon picked up the pair.

The men, James Morrison, San Angelo, Tex., and Jose Acosta Jr., McAllen, Tex., told FBI agents

they had been hiding out without food since they escaped. Bowman's wife had a baby girl and mother and daughter were reported doing fine.

Hotel, Motel Rates Up

Gets Red Cross Post

LANSING (AP)—John S. Owens has been named state relations representative in Michigan by the American Red Cross. He succeeds Douglas Tristram who was loaned to the Federal Civil Defense Administration in Battle Creek for an FCDA assignment. Owens has been a Red Cross field representative in Iowa.

Pony Express Letter Cost $5 a Half Ounce

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — When the Pony Express was established in 1860 the charge for carrying letters was $5 a half ounce. Later this was reduced to $1. The Pony Express became history in October, 1861, after the telegraph had spanned the country with a more rapid means of communication. After that all mail went across the nation by stagecoach and later by railroad.

All Meters Removed

TRENTON (AP)—This Detroit downriver suburb has removed for 30 days all parking meters from its downtown streets in an experiment it hopes will pep up trade in the city's older business section.

4,606 in French Colony

ST. PIERRE The islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon and numerous other small islands in the North Atlantic about 15 miles south of Newfoundland make up one of the smallest French colonies in the world. The colony has a population of 4,606, about 4,000 of whom live on St. Pierre.

Car Door Slides Back

ROME — A car door that pushes out to an external track and then slides back outside the car toward the rear wheel, has been designed by an Italian automobile company. It's for tight parking spaces. First night airmail flight was made in 1921.

Venezuela Toys With Democracy

Foreigners Get Rough Treatment, Especially U.S. Citizens

CARACAS (AP)—The 6,200,000 people of Venezuela are playing with a new toy called democracy.

In that process, they seemingly would be far happier if there weren't any foreigners around.

They show this by a display of rudeness that apparently is far out in front of that visible elsewhere in South America.

Venezuelan men and women who accidentally bump into foreigners in the streets of this bustling capital never bother to murmur a "pardon me" or a "sorry."

At the usually crowded theaters, Venezuelans think nothing of barging out of a line of ticket-buyers and elbowing their way in front of a foreigner.

Taxi drivers and hotel employees seldom thank you for a tip. There are few smiles for a foreigner.

Americans feel the average Venezuelan's display of chilliness and rudeness more than anyone else. There are 40,000 Americans in this country and people from the United States are in the vast majority of the visitors.

Upon arrival at Maiquetia Airport, Americans find their passports treated as if diseased.

Outside the airport, taxi prices seem to be inflated as soon as an American shows up. Often $15 is demanded for the 12-mile ride up the superhighway to Caracas.

Some second-rate hotels charge $14 to $17 per day for a room far below U.S. standards.

An anti-U.S. tone in Venezuela's newspapers is fanned at every opportunity by Communists and sympathizers who have mushroomed since revolution ended the dictatorship of President Marcos Perez Jimenez last Jan. 23.

Venezuelans, in the transition from dictatorship to democracy, are still burning over the fact that the United States looked with favor upon Perez Jimenez — and awarded him the Legion of Merit.

They are also resentful that he lives at Miami, Fla.

Aside from this, many Venezuelans are sore at the United States for restricting oil imports.

Danger Greater in Neurotic Mice

Soviet Scientists Say Breast Cancer Chances Increase in Group

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer
LONDON (AP) — Three Soviet scientists today reported that neurotic female mice are more likely to get breast cancer than those with healthy nervous systems.

Mice who suffer nervous overstrain also are more susceptible, said Doctors R. E. Kavetsky, N. M. Turkevich and E. M. Samondgean of Kiev in a report to the seventh International Cancer Congress.

The Soviet report did not say whether results of the research were being applied to human patients with breast cancer. But generally in the Soviet medical view the central nervous system is credited with playing an important role in health or disease.

Peculiarities of the nervous system and the pituitary gland play a role in breast cancer in mice which naturally are highly susceptible to this cancer, the Soviets declared.

The pituitary, sometimes called the body's master gland, secretes numerous hormones. Among them is one that stimulates the sex glands to release sex hormones. The interbalance of hormones affects the sex glands and the breasts.

Upsets in the balance of hormones is widely thought to play a role in breast cancer development, at least in some strains of mice.

The Soviet team said they found differences in the pituitary activity of different strains of mice. In some, the regular rhythm of hormone release is disturbed.

This reflects an error or difference in the nervous system, they said, because the nervous system regulates the pituitary gland.

Pituitary disturbances were more marked in mice which showed "an imbalance between inhibitory and excitatory processes" of the nervous system, the Soviets said. These mice had a higher rate of breast cancer and it usually was in a more malignant form.

In mice with neuroses, there also were changes in the hormone activity. And overstrain of nervous processes also results in more tumors, which appear at an earlier age than customary.

Police Recruit Found to Be AWOL Marine

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Police Department recently got authorization to hire an additional 100 patrolmen.

In its search for applicants, the department painted bright red signs on its white patrol cars advertising the jobs.

Among others, the sign attracted 26-year-old John Scott

Timmons, a 220-pound ex-insurance salesman.

Yesterday, two policemen and an FBI agent picked up Timmons at his hotel room. The FBI said it had been looking for him since May 11, 1957, on a charge of deserting the Marine Corps at San Diego.

A check of Timmons' fingerprints, taken as a matter of routine when he applied for the policeman's job, gave him away.

Queen Elizabeth Going on Cruise to Escape Pollen

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II, still suffering from a bad case of sinus trouble, is going on a cruise next month to get away from Britain's summer dust and pollen.

She'll also get away from those bouquets loyal subjects are allways presenting for a royal sniff whenever she appears in public.

One theory is that the pollen in the poses has helped bring on the five heavy colds the Queen has come down with since last August. The medical term for the Queen's present illness is acute catarrhal sinusitis, and heavy colds and allergies usually bring it on.

The 32-year-old Queen will cruise around the rugged west coast of Britain 11 days. With her aboard the royal yacht Britannia will be her husband Prince Philip and their two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Evidence Blows Up, Defense Collapses

CHICAGO (AP) — The courtroom defense for Mrs. Lillian Williams blew up with a bang yesterday.

Mrs. Williams, who operates a grocery in suburban Glenview, appeared in Arlington Heights court on a charge of illegally selling fireworks.

"They aren't illegal, judge," explained Mrs. Williams, 47, referring to what she called a harmless bag of 10 torpedoes, otherwise known as "crackerballs."

Justice of the Peace Walter Dahl asked to see the crackerballs.

Dahl tore open the cellophane bag and one of the torpedoes exploded, shaking the magistrate and leaving a slight powder burn on his hand.

"These are safe," he asked. "They could blow a kid's fingers off. This party is guilty and fined $15 and costs."

He Hunts Contestants for TV Quiz Shows

By PHYLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK—I have today a hot tip for people who want to appear on a TV quiz show, so as to win dishwashers and influence impressionable neighbors.

They should hang around theaters at intermission; should look middle aged and jolly and not too pretty; should live as far as possible from New York, and should be able to talk volubly but have the good grace to claim up when spoken to.

"This is what I spend my days and nights looking for," said Ted Walsh, sleepily. "I am an independent quiz-show-contestant-getter and it was not an easy job."

It was an equally difficult job to believe that, with all the free yachts and minks available on dozens of new parlor programs this summer, a man should have to be sent out to hunt down TV contestants. But the fact is that "fun-loving, outgoing people are hard to find," said Ted.

"You have to be very careful not to select anybody with a chip on the shoulder. They're bad losers. And the world as it is today has more shoulder chips than meets the eye..."

BEGINS ROUNDS

Each day, beginning after noon, young Ted begins his rounds. He stops at Broadway theater intermissions, eavesdropping on members of the audience to listen for enthusiastic, bright, affable types.

He hangs around the box office of "Around the World in 80 Days" listening for "typical lovable Americans" voices and sentiments. Sometimes he hovers outside the United Nations, hoping to pick up exciting foreign tourists with understandable accents.

And at night, he often takes New York "night club tours"—because on such gay excursions "you find people who are looking for fun, and fun-seekers are what I seek."

SELECTS PEOPLE

Then, when the eavesdropping elimination job is finished, Walsh selects the potential contestants for the two shows he scouts in behalf of—"Haggis Baggis" and "Dotto." Here's where the real work comes in.

"Most out-of-towners are suspicious when I approach them, and think maybe this is a Brooklyn Bridge pitch. And a lot of them are actually afraid to go on television quizzes. Afraid they'll look like dunces."

Because of his honest outdoor face, however, Ted convinces a good percentage of his prospects to visit his employer, Diana Lawson (of Lawson & Lawson, quiz-show-contest-getters) for further interviewing. His work then is done—until his contestants call back after the show to ask young honestface to help them sell their prizes, so they can afford to pay the taxes on them.

For the sake of those who might not run into Ted in the course of a visit to the Great White Way, he may be contacted c/o Lawson & Lawson, 624 Madison Avenue. But remember the "typical" contestant should live as far as possible from New York, be a good loser, love life, hate nobody and "look as if they've lived a little! at least 35 or 40 years."

Ted explains, in this regard, that he has succeeded in getting only one fairly young man (aged 30) on his shows: "He had a broken nose, which roughed him up a good deal."

Besides his honest face, Walsh has an honest way about him. Asked his opinion of quiz shows, he cringed enthusiastically and said, "I will do anything for a buck."

Finish Said to Make Woolens Wash, Wear

CANBERRA—An Australian research organization claims to have developed a finish for woolens that puts these goods in the wash-and-wear category.

It reports that woolen garments treated with its process can be washed in soap and water or worn in the rain without losing creases, pleats, or their smooth surface. Dry cleaning reportedly does not remove the finish.

Farmington Tax 'No' Could Peril Schools

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Unless voters approve the proposed 5 mill tax increase for operating expenses in the July 14 special election, the Farmington School District may find itself in real trouble, Supt. G. V. Harrison said yesterday.

Without the additional money, there would be fewer teachers, crowded classrooms and many school services would have to be curtailed and educational programs eliminated, he said.

"Curtailed will endanger accreditation by North Central Association and possibly prevent admission of Farmington graduates to the colleges of their choice," Harrison said.

Farmington voters have indicated they want adequate school facilities for their children, he said, pointing out that since 1954, they have voted 7½ million dollars to build new schools.

When schools open next fall there will be 230 classrooms available for an estimated enrollment of 6,833 students with increased operating expenses also rising, Harrison explained.

DROPS YEARLY

Money for operating the schools has decreased each year since 1955, Harrison said, dropping from 10.45 mills to 8.52 mills. The schools operated at a deficit of $15,000 for the 1956-57 fiscal year and were $32,000 in the red as of July 1.

Harrison estimated there will be a deficit of $245,000 unless more money is made available.

The state's 15-mill tax limitation law provides that the combined tax rate assessed by county and township government in school districts may not exceed 15 mills, or $15 per $1,000 of equalized property valuation, without a vote of the people.

From this tax pie, the County Tax Allocation Board decides which portion goes to government and which to school districts. If the board decides to increase allotments to government, the school district takes the loss.

Without millage increase, Harrison said, the schools would have to move music and art classes.

Fiscal Building Costs in Keego $82,624

KEEGO HARBOR — Estimated cost of building in the city of Keego Harbor for the fiscal year ending July 1 totaled $82,624, according to figures released by Frank Derby, city building inspector.

Of the total, $35,514 was for commercial construction, $15,000 for new residential and $32,110 for residential remodeling. Garage construction accounted for $5,800.

Permit fees for building, plumbing, electrical, heating and septic tanks amounted to $364.50. The city collected an additional $33 for electrical registrations and electrical licenses.

Derby's report also disclosed that there are nine buildings under condemnation, five of which will be repaired and four torn down.

Inlay Event Opens 9 Days Later

Fair Deadline Is July 19

IMLAY CITY — The entry deadline for people planning exhibits at the Eastern Michigan Fair is July 19.

Fair Secretary Kenneth Ruby will be in his office at the fair grounds Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19.

The only entry fee is a $1.50 season ticket.

The fair will open July 26 at 6 p.m. with a free gate for that night only. Exhibits must be in place by Tuesday morning, July 28, at 10 a.m. The fair will continue through Saturday, Aug. 2.

Many improvements have been made at the Fair Grounds. The new covered grandstand has been completed and will seat just under 3,000 people.

Board of Education to Review Finance

A review of the Pontiac Board of Education's financial picture will be given the board tonight by Superintendent Dana P. Whitmer.

In light of reduced income due to lower state equalized property values within the school district, the board will consider various ways in which additional funds can be raised to continue the building program and preserve the present quality of instruction.

The board will review next year's building program which calls for additions to Washington and Madison Junior High Schools, erection of a new elementary school on Square Lake road and a four-room addition to Bagley School.

and physical education teachers in the elementary grades into regular classrooms.

PURCHASES CURTAILED

Purchases of new athletic equipment and other audio-visual aids would be curtailed, he said, and the driver training program would be reduced as well as transportation services.

Fees from students in courses requiring instructional materials would be increased, while the maintenance staff would be reduced, Harrison said.

Meeting Slated by Civic Group

Federated Associations in Bloomfield to View Area Problems Aug. 4

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Federated Civic Associations of Bloomfield Township has scheduled its next board meeting for 8 p.m. Aug. 4. Various civic problems will be discussed and committees will submit reports on projects now under study.

Recently elected board officers are George Peter, president; H. V. Beggs, vice president; D. B. Dickerson Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. Margaret Begovich, secretary.

The FCA was organized recently to represent all Bloomfield Township civic associations in township civic matters. There are now 34 township groups registered with the new organization, each represented by two delegates.

The new organization already has submitted a charter to the state for incorporation.

Committee chairmen are George O. Boule, legislative; August Shaak, education; A. J. Picotte, fire and police protection; Burke Bartlett, membership; C. C. Christensen, public works and utilities; Mrs. Begovich, public relations; Dickerson, zoning; Noel S. C. Haberkost, sewer and drain, and Thomas M. Rasmussen, taxation.

Legal address of the new organization is 1750 Ward Rd., Bloomfield Township.

Mrs. Begovich said advantages and disadvantages of township, city and village forms of government are slated for study by the FCA.

17 Bids Received for Work on Field

ORION TOWNSHIP — Seventeen bids for work on the new athletic field of Lake Orion Community High School were presented to the Lake Orion School Board at last night's meeting.

They ranged from a high bid of $37,395 to a low of $6,937. The board is interviewing the three low bidders, Floyd Patten of Pontiac, $6,947; Medlock, $7,800, and Clarence Gordon Co., $8,082.

In other business, the board decided to advertise for bids on gasoline, oil, alcohol and buff insurance next week so the bids can be opened July 23, a month earlier than usual.

The high school gymnasium floor has been sanded and made ready for refinishing, it was announced.

Tractors are the largest single farm consumers of petroleum fuels.

Barbara Gillis, Carolyn Warrick, Judy Ellibee and Cindy Anderson. At the camp the girls attended classes in dance and twirl routines, show routines, flag twirling and marching. Their trip was sponsored by the high school.

4-H Club Slates Second Annual Horse Show

ROCHESTER — The second annual horse show sponsored by the Rochester 4-H Trail Blazers will be held Sunday at 9 a.m. at the Great Oaks Stock Farm, John R. and Hamlin roads.

There are 43 members in the club, made up of boys and girls 10 to 17 years of age. All have their own horses.

Robert Becker, vice president and manager, said there will be 24 events, both pleasure and action classes. Awards will be presented.

Special features will include the Oakwood Mounted All Girls Drill Team and Bob Burns and his trick horse, "Flash." Grandstands will be provided and refreshments available.

Judging the show will be Bud Leetch of Fenton. The show is open to all horse owners.

Tickets may be purchased from club members or at the gate Sunday. Proceeds will be used for club expenses.

DEIMA JUNE SULLIVAN

The engagement of Deima June Sullivan to Larry G. Hollister has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Sullivan of Rycroft street, Keego Harbor. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hollister of Wardell Court, Orchard Lake. He is a student at Ferris Institute in Big Rapids. No date has been set for the wedding.

Orion Board Considers Proposal

Plumbing Check of New Homes Urged

ORION TOWNSHIP — A Lake Orion plumber has recommended that the Orion Township Board provide purchasers of new homes with plumbing inspection services to insure them against installation abuses.

Robert Pageau, appearing before the board at its meeting Tuesday night, said the board should either appoint a township plumbing inspector or have a state inspector check new plumbing.

He said many facilities recently installed allow the escape of sewer gas into homes, which could cause illness or endanger the lives of occupants. A six dollar inspection fee by a state inspector would pay for the necessary protection, he said.

The board plans to arrange a meeting with a state inspector to discuss the matter.

In other business, the board accepted the water system for Judah Lake Subdivision No. 2. However, before approving water system plans for Judah Lake plat

No. 3, it requested the Avon Investment Co. to place $3,000 in escrow to cover possible operational difficulties. This was recommended by Johnson Anderson, township water engineer. The fund would be repaid by water bills, it was pointed out.

The name of Fairview street in Heights subdivision off Clarkston road will be changed to Fairledge, the board said, to avoid conflicting with other streets in the county of the same name.

It was announced at the meeting that the Oakland County Road Commission has approved the reduction of the speed limit on Sunset street to 25 m.p.h.

The board also voted to purchase a fire alarm system for the Township Hall. It will cost $100, plus installation fees.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD J. GREIG

Donna Robinson Marries in Orchard Lake Church

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — Orchard Lake Community Church was the scene Saturday evening of the marriage of Donna Rae Robinson to Richard J. Greig. Performing the rite was the Rev. Edward D. Auchard.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robinson of 9096 Cooley Lake Rd. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. James Greig of 1736 Point St.

For her wedding the bride chose a ballerina-length, white chiffon gown with matching headband and veil. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis and gardenias.

The bride's sister, Patsy, was the maid of honor, and the best man was the bridegroom's brother, Edward. Ushers were Norman Seator of Milford, Paul Schweizer and Bill Crossett, both of Pontiac.

Pastel colored streamers and red roses decorated the Dublin Community Center where the reception was held.

The newlyweds will make their home at Oxbow Lake.

Governor Will Speak in Pontiac Sunday

Gov. Williams will be guest speaker Sunday at a garden party and fashion show to be given by the Venice Spragg Ladies Democratic Club of Pontiac.

John B. Swanson, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, will also attend the 4 p.m. affair. Other Democratic state and county candidates will also attend.

The event will be held at the Lakeside Community Building, 535 Branch St.

Ex-Detroit Policeman Seeks to Change Plea

DETROIT — A former Detroit policeman accused of staging 17 holdups, three of them at bank branches, has filed a motion in Federal Court to withdraw a previous guilty plea.

Marmion S. Pollard Jr., 29, a six-year veteran of the police force, pleaded guilty June 12 to the three bank holdups. He was not represented by an attorney at that time. The 17 holdups yielded $1,214.

He has since secured an attorney, Kermit G. Bailor, who yesterday asked Federal Judge Thomas P. Thornton to withdraw the guilty plea.

Two other former policemen accused of staging a series of holdups which netted them $100,000 are scheduled to go on trial in Federal Court July 28. They are James R. Burke, 33, and David Tapp, 26.

Sales Tax in Many Cities

CHICAGO — Hundreds of cities and towns throughout the United States have sales taxes. Among the larger are New York, 3 per cent; Buffalo, Denver, Los Angeles, New Orleans, and San Francisco, all one per cent, and Chicago half of one per cent.

Two Seek Brandon School Board Post

ORTONVILLE — Incumbent Renee D. Boschma and Harold Webb will vie for one vacancy on the Brandon Township Board of Education in the annual school election Monday.

Also on the ballot will be a proposed 5 mill operating tax increase.

Boschma, 52, has been a member of the board for the past nine years, serving as its president, secretary and treasurer.

He is the owner of the Boschma Construction Co., a firm that has constructed 10 schools during the past eight years, one of which was cited for design at the At-

Zoning Group Member OK'd

Avon Township Board Approves Appointment of Jack Fetterly

AVON TOWNSHIP — Appointment of Jack Fetterly, 2660 Longview St., to the Avon Township Zoning Commission was approved last night by the Township Board. He succeeds Leonard J. Harding who has moved from the township.

Meeting in regular session, the board tabled action on providing the remaining $1,400 to complete the repairs to the Taylor drain on Auburn road, across from Elmwood Elementary School.

The Oakland County Road Commission already has spent $970 toward repairing the drain, and wants the township to finish the project. The County Drain Commission informed the board in a letter that $1,400 is needed to complete the job.

It also was announced that the State Health Department's most recent bacteriological sampling of the swimming pool and stream at Avon Township Park has revealed that the water is safe for swimming.

Robert Jackson, 1911 Crooks Rd., was granted permission to hold a benefit country auction and bazaar on his property on Oct. 4. The board was assured it would not be a carnival type affair.

Navy Recruits 35 Past Month

Two Are From City; Four of Group Sign for Re-Enlistment

A total of 31 men and two women were accepted for enlistment in the U. S. Navy during June through the Navy recruiting substation in Pontiac.

Two of the new enlistees were from Pontiac. They were Ronald A. Barkis, of 53 James St., and Clayton J. Bertrand Jr., of 486 Kuhn St.

Other enlistees from the nearby area were: Raymond R. Burke and Donald R. Hagerman, both of Waterford Township; William A. Sanderson and John L. Yocum, both of Pontiac Township; and Robert O. Davis and Charles L. Redenius, both of Drayton Plains.

Also among the county enlistees were: Jerome S. Kline and Gordon S. Sharpe, both of Milford; Michael J. Harper, of Birmingham; Lawrence F. Gronski of Troy; James A. James of Oxford; Clarence E. Land and Charles E. Langdon, both of Rochester; and George H. Lentz, of Orionville.

Others were: Charles E. Needham of Highland; Gilbert R. Withers of Goodrich; William G. Crowden, Edward R. Munro, and Allen M. Pickard, all of Royal Oak; Robert E. Elliott of Southfield; John S. Fay and Raymond R. Jones, both of Clawson; and Ronald G. Nickel, Lawrence G. Kaminski, and Michael E. Sephar Jr., all of Madison Heights.

Reenlisting were: Peter J. V. Murray of 3351 Grant St., and Jack L. Dennis of 168 E. Huron St.; Lynwood R. Shoults of Drayton Plains; and James N. Jonski of Royal Oak.

Enlisting in the Navy Waves were: Kaye E. Davis of Rochester; and Marilyn J. Douglas of Milford. They are taking their training at Bainbridge, Md.

Pelicans Used Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO Alcatraz Island, site of the federal maximum-security prison in San Francisco Bay, derives its name from the pelicans that roosted there in Spanish days. Alcatraz is Spanish for pelican.

Atlantic City National Conference of School Board Members and Superintendents.

Webb, 37, is employed at the Baldwin Rubber Co. plant and operates a farm on Grange Hall road.

He is a former foreman in the maintenance department of the plant and has been active in the local Little League baseball program.

Polls will be in the former band room of the old high school on Cedar and Hall streets. They will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS TOUR PLANT — More than 30 exchange students from 15 countries, participating in the American Field Service program, were guests of residents in the Avondale School District Tuesday and Wednesday. Yesterday they toured the General Motors Truck and Coach Division in Pontiac. Here they watch one of the new trucks just off the assembly line going through the roll test in which the driver controls the ropes to test various parts of the truck. Last night the group attended a pot-luck supper at the Stiles School. This was followed by a dance sponsored by Avondale's exchange student committee.

He died Tuesday in Pontiac General Hospital.
Surviving besides his parents are his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mackie of Sylvan Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Swartz of Oxbow Lake; a brother Tommy.

Purse Returned After 14 Years

Finder Asks Priest's Assistance to Locate Rightful Owner

DETROIT — Mrs. Teresa Ahedo was walking through a Detroit park with her baby in her arms 14 years ago when she lost her purse. It contained a rosary and $200 in checks, coins and bills.
The 65-year-old widowed cleaning woman got the purse and its contents back yesterday from the Rev. Father Thomas Verardi of Holy Trinity Church.

Father Verardi said that three months ago a stranger called on him and told him that he saw a woman with a baby in her arms drop her purse on Belle Isle in July, 1944. The man said he picked up the purse and intended to return it but instead was overpowered by the desire for a drink.

He spent the $100 in cash but put the purse away in a trunk. It still held the rosary, two endorsed paychecks and 30 cents in coin.

The stranger said that as the years passed he stopped drinking, got a job and gradually replaced the money he had spent. Then he sought out Father Verardi and told him: "You are a priest and you speak Spanish. I trust you to find this woman and return her money."

Father Verardi found Mrs. Ahedo last night.
"I will use some of this money to light candles for this stranger," she told the priest. "In his heart he is a good man."

and two sisters, Debra and Lee Ann, all at home.

MYRTLE WITHUN
OXFORD — Myrtle Withun, 65, of 760 Granger Rd., died unexpectedly yesterday at Bishop Hospital, Almont. The body is at Bossard-Mabley Funeral Home, Oxford.

Lambs Break Record

CHRISTCHURCH — There were 28,050,000 spring lambs born on New Zealand farms last year, 2,500,000 more than the previous year's record. New Zealand now has 29,000,000 breeding ewes, the highest figure ever reached.

Dartmouth Museum Oldest in United States

HANOVER, N.H. — The oldest museum in continuous existence in the United States is believed to be at Dartmouth College. It was founded in 1772.

As far as is known, the oldest natural-history museum in America was that of the American Philosophical Society. It was in operation in April, 1770, but the collections were transferred to the Academy of Natural Science at Philadelphia in 1849. The Charleston, S.C., Museum was founded in 1773.

A match introduced in 1882 was chemically treated to extinguish itself when the flame reached the midway point of the stick, thus preventing danger of burned fingers.

Summons Unserved on Gen. Trujillo Jr.

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — Guards wouldn't let a deputy county marshal aboard the yacht Angelita when he asked to see Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr.

Several pinup girl types giggled up the gangplank and board the palatial four-master yesterday as Lt. George H. Gordon waited and waited. He had a summons. An aide assured Gordon the general, son of the Dominican Republic's strongman, would see him as soon as he awakened. At 6 p.m. Gordon got discouraged and left.

The summons resulted from a suit filed against the general by Hollywood actress Lyn Heyburn. She asked $10,000 damages because, she said, two of Trujillo's pals dunked her in the swimming pool of the general's rented mansion while she was fully clothed.

Woman Boat Driver Convicted, Fined $55

The first conviction for reckless boat driving on Cass Lake occurred before West Bloomfield Township Justice Robert F. Scott.

Penny Houghten, 19, of Detroit, pleaded guilty and was fined $55 and costs.
Miss Houghten ran her boat at high speed between an Oakland County Sheriff's boat and another craft it was trying to assist.

Say Wild Dogs Roam in Manistee Forest

MANISTEE — Conservation men are investigating a report that wild dogs are roaming free in the Manistee National Forest. The report came from Bileley, a forest community. A girl baby sitter said a dog came in a neighbor's yard and her brother shot and killed it.

The girl, Frances Ford, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ford, said she was minding the neighbor's six children when she heard shouts.

Frances said one child was hiding up a tree from a leaping dog. She said she called her brother, Lloyd, 18, and he shot and killed it.

Why Gomulka Is Popular in Poland

By HAYMOND ANDERSON
Richmond Times-Dispatch
WARSAW (AP)—You don't need border guards to tell you when you've crossed the frontier between Communist Czechoslovakia and Communist Poland. You can sense it from your fellow passengers.

For 10 hours from Prague to the Polish border our train was full of subdued, unsmiling Czechs. Thirty minutes after we crossed, everything was laughter and lively conversation.

I had breakfast on the train with an exuberant Pole from Krakow just after we crossed the border. We got acquainted after he shared with me an important discovery—there was water for shaving in the next car.

Our breakfast was two ham sandwiches, two glasses of coffee and two large glasses of vodka. The vodka was first. And it had to be "do dna" (bottoms up). A challenge.

It's with a sense of duty well done that I can report the Pole gave up first. But he stopped just in time to save me from fiery asphyxiation. Each glass was still about a quarter full.

While we ate, we talked politics—an eternal subject in present-day Poland—striking a common language in a mixture of German and Russian.

The conversation went like this: American—"How do you happen to speak such good German and Russian?"

Pole—"I was a 'guest' in both countries. First the Russians captured me in 1939 and then the Germans in 1942."

"How long were you in Czechoslovakia now?"

"Long enough to make it worthwhile."

He grinned and waved his arm at his suitcase.

American—"What do you think of Czechs?"

Pole—"They work better than Poles but they don't die as bravely."

"How is life in Poland now?"
"It's much better since Gomulka kicked the Russians out of Warsaw. It's still not perfect but it was terrible while Stalin was alive."

"Have the Polish people heard of the help the United States has been giving Poland for the last 18 months?"

"Yes. But it really isn't much help. We have to pay it back with interest. I know America has been giving money to the world for years and can't keep it up. But Poles are your friends. You should help us now."

The Pole told with relish how Wladyslaw Gomulka, once nearly shot as a Thiotist, regained leadership of the Polish Communist party in the October 1956 revolt.

"Gomulka is a Polish nationalist," he said. "That's why he is so popular even though he is a Communist. All real Poles are nationalists. They hated the Moscow Poles who came in with the Red army's baggage and took over the country."

A waitress entered our compartment. The Pole ordered another round of vodka. The waitress brought it. Luckily, this time the glasses were smaller.

"Do dna."

Waitress—"Where is the Frechman going?"

Pole—"He is not French. He's an American traveling through the people's democracies."

Waitress (doubtfully)—"He left America to come here?"

Pole—"He might even go to Moscow."

The waitress grimaced, picked up the breakfast dishes and left.

Paintbrush Invented
About Year 250 B.C.

HONG KONG — The paintbrush was invented by a military man, Mung Tien, who helped build the Great Wall of China, about 250 B.C. The Chinese form of picture writing was invented about 2700 B.C. and is still used today.

Used for this writing was a pen made of bamboo with the end finely shredded so it was soft and pliable like a brush. Chinese painting, which developed after the invention of the brush, is an elaboration of this early writing and is based on it.

Hal Boyle Says:

America Scores Culinary Triumph at Fair

NEW YORK (AP) — America has scored an unexpected culinary triumph at the Brussels International Exposition with — of all things — frozen custard.

"The Europeans have gone crazy over it," said David Berge, executive vice president of the Brasserie restaurant chain. "Frozen custard has been our surprise success, and biggest seller."

"Last Sunday they bought 7,800 cones."

As supervisor of dining facilities in the American pavilion at the fair, Berge met nothing but headaches at the start.

"It seemed for a while like we had almost as many critics as customers," he remarked.

Berge found himself in the soup — literally — when he put Manhattan clam chowder on the menu. An indignant chorus from Connecticut to Maine immediately demanded equal billing for New England clam chowder.

TYPICAL COMMENT

Typical was an editorial comment by the famous "Vineyard Gazette" of Martha's Vineyard, Mass.: "It may be sometime demonstrated that Manhattan clam chowder is the main cause of juvenile delinquency. When the relaxation of old standards and principles begins, anything can happen."

Berge, a man who likes to keep everybody happy, bowed this week to regional pride.

"Starting this week we're putting both chowders on the menu," said Berge. "Most of them can't afford the $4 to $15 a meal it costs to eat at the Continental style restaurants at the fair. That's for the luxury trade.

"At the American restaurant they can get a lunch consisting of a hamburger, apple pie and coffee for $1. Dinner costs $2 or less."

SEEMS TO WORK

The formula seems to be working out. The U.S. restaurant is serving approximately 20,000 persons a day.

"That's as many as any other five exposition restaurants put together," said Berge, comfortably. "We're giving them what they want."

CRITICS SNIFF

Some critics sniffed at the quick lunch atmosphere of the American restaurant.

"But that's just what the mass of people at an exposition want," said Berge. "Most of them can't afford the $4 to $15 a meal it costs to eat at the Continental style restaurants at the fair. That's for the luxury trade.

"At the American restaurant they can get a lunch consisting of a hamburger, apple pie and coffee for $1. Dinner costs $2 or less."

SEEMS TO WORK

The formula seems to be working out. The U.S. restaurant is serving approximately 20,000 persons a day.

"That's as many as any other five exposition restaurants put together," said Berge, comfortably. "We're giving them what they want."

"The French and Italians go most for the frozen custard. The size of the double-dip 20-cent cones seems to fascinate them."

"The West Germans like our American coffee and cheesecake.

"The English, Scots and Irish find our barbecued chicken an adventure."

"Every nationality likes to try the hamburgers and hot dogs."

"We also are serving American beer and California wine. That may seem like carrying coals to Newcastle, but they're both going well."

FINAL REBUTTAL

As a final rebuttal to his early critics, Berge rubbed his chubby hands together, and observed cheerfully: "You know, the chefs from the Hungarian pavilion and the guards at the Russian pavilion now eat in our restaurant whenever they can."

The cod is one of the most prolific of fish, a female 38 inches long producing up to three million eggs.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF
THE ESCOBI SAPPHIRE

Fourth of a series

By DONALD J. SOBOL

"The coroner just finished a preliminary examination," said Inspector Winters. "Professor Merton died of a heart attack about 11 p.m. I telephoned you because of a complication over the Escobi Sapphire."

"The ring given him by the Maharani of Isha during his trip to the East last year," recalled Haledjian.

"And worth an emperor's ransom," added the inspector. "Miss Samuels, Professor Merton's long-time secretary, claims he presented it to her last week. She kept it hidden in her room and told no one—afraid of causing family resentment. However, Anita Merton, a teenage niece, as he was merely reading for pleasure."

"From the red book by the chair?"

"Yes."

"And was he wearing the Escobi Sapphire?"

"He was. I sat here at the desk, not eight feet from him. I couldn't have been mistaken. Occasionally, when his right hand turned the page, the jewel, which he wore on his little finger, flashed brilliantly."

Haledjian's face tightened in a rare display of anger. "You are a jealous young lady. I suggest you go directly to Miss Samuels and apologize for maliciously attempting to discredit her."

WHY DID HALEDJIAN BELIEVE THE NIECE HAD CONCEALED THE STORY?

State May Hold Up
Sale of Straits Ferries

LANSING (UPI) — It may be at least a year before the Mackinac Straits Ferry fleet is sold, Deputy Highway Commissioner Sidney H. Woolner stated.

"We're beginning to feel it might be better to wait for a year rather than sell at the ridiculous offers so far," Woolner said.

The five ferries were put in mothballs when the Mackinac Bridge opened Nov. 1, 1957.

Offers on all five totaled only $500,000 when the Highway Department tried to sell through competitive bidding. Their original cost was nine million dollars.

"There's not much of a demand right now," Woolner said. "It would be hard to get them out of the Great Lakes. And there's plenty of shipping available for world needs right now."

"Things might be different a year from now when the St. Lawrence Seaway is in operation."

He said the department is willing to negotiate the sales rather than use competitive bidding.

Sen. Potter to Begin Six-Stop Tour of State

DETROIT (AP) — Senator Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.) will begin a six-stop tour of Michigan Sunday.

The first stop will be at Howell where Potter will deliver the dedicatory address at the new district center of the Church of the Nazarene. The last stop will be at New Haven July 27 for the annual picnic of the Father Kramer Knights of Columbus.

Other stops include: International Florists Assn. convention in Detroit, July 13; Chesaning Show Boat at Chesaning, July 15; Buchanan's 100th birthday celebration, July 19-20; and Dairy Day at Menominee, July 26.

NEW YORK — There is current physical therapists.

MUSHROOM DINNER — This massive structure at Oerebro, Sweden, seems to have been patterned after the mushroom cloud of a nuclear explosion. The 250-foot-high "mushroom" is a new restaurant. It accommodates 150 guests in its top.

East Germans Rap Tito, U.S.

Party Congress Urged to Boost Fight Against 'Revisionism'

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's satellite Communists today opened their Party Congress with a thundering ovation for Soviet Premier Khrushchev and slashing attacks on Tito-style national communism and the United States.

In a special Congress edition, the East German party organ Neues Deutschland declared that "revisionism invites the enemy to provocation and sharpens the danger of war."

The keynote editorial called for a stepped-up fight against revisionism—the Kremlin label for independent communism — "to block the enemy from entering our ranks."

The Party Congress in East Berlin opened with resounding acclaim from 2,350 delegates for Khrushchev and the other star guest, Hungary's party boss Janos Kadar.

A limited number of Western newsmen were allowed to attend the heavily guarded opening session of the weeklong convention. Walter Ulbricht, East Germany's Stalinist party chief, formally launched the Congress with a bitter attack on the United States.

The spade-bearded Ulbricht charged that America is trying to bail out of its economic recession by seeking world domination.

"But the Socialist camp already is stronger than the capitalist world," Ulbricht said. Copying a Khrushchev speech earlier this week, he jeered at what he called America's Spetnik (late-nik) earth satellites.

Giving Away Alaska

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) —

With Alaska on the threshold of statehood, a supermarket here is giving it away — piecemeal. A Park 'n Shop advertisement of

1st Auto Lesson: $2,000

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —

William Chasteen, 17, got his beginner's drivers permit, but his first lesson cost $2,000. Chasteen was driving the family car home, his father supervising the driving. The boy lost control of the car. It hit another vehicle, jumped a curb and plowed into a house. Damage: $2,000.

SAC's Bases in Spain Active

Spokesman Gives Hint
B47 Bombers Carrying Nuclear Weapons

MADRID, Spain (AP)—The U.S. Strategic Air Command has served notice on American taxpayers and the Kremlin that its big new complex of bases in Spain is now in full operation. The taxpayers put up almost half a billion dollars for four air bases and related facilities as part of the worldwide U. S. system to deter the Soviets by being able to deliver nuclear bombs.

A spokesman for SAC's 15th Air Force broadly implied that the B47 jet bombers now flying from Torrejon and Valenzuela air bases carry nuclear weapons. "Draw your own conclusions," he said. "They are capable of carrying atomic weapons."

The planes are part of Operation Reflex designed to keep some bombers always in the air so a surprise attack would not wipe out U. S. retaliatory strength. The spokesman said planes leave bases in the United States as if heading for enemy targets but stop at such advance bases as Torrejon unless ordered on.

The planes that cross the Atlantic on Operation Reflex remain on 24-hour alert, ready to take off on 15-minute notice, while in Spain, SAC planes around the world have been on such an alert since last year when the Soviets reportedly developed a workable ballistic missile.

The spokesman said most flights coming here from the United States will originate in Florida, "but not necessarily so. They may come from any base within the United States."

That Mansfield Soon to Become Mother Jayne

LONDON (AP)—Actress Jayne Mansfield said today that she is going to have a baby. The curvy American film blonde said the birth is due in December. She and muscle man Mickey Hargitay were married last Jan. 13.

Miss Mansfield is making a picture in London. She has an 8-year-old daughter, Jayne Marie, by her first husband, public relations man Paul Mansfield of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Jayne Marie is along on the British visit. Miss Mansfield's new picture is "The Sheriff of Fractured Jaw." Jayne said she would leave London next Thursday for a series of public appearances in the Gaza Strip.

After her six-day visit to the Middle East, she plans to return to London and sail from here July 24 for New York on the Queen Elizabeth.

Miss Mansfield is 24, her husband 23. "Mickey and I are delighted," the film star said in an interview. "We want nothing so much right now as a baby."

Asked if she hoped for a boy or a girl, she replied: "It really doesn't matter in the slightest—to either of us."

Woman Will Attempt 28-Mile Erie Swim

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—A 24-year-old Erie, Pa., water ballet teacher will attempt tomorrow to become the first woman to swim 28 miles of Lake Erie.

Mary Haley, who has been in training since last October, will start at Presque Isle State Park in Erie. She hopes to reach Long Point, Ont., Canada.

Dr. Harry Briggs of Alaska and formerly of Cleveland, swam Lake Erie from Cedar Point, Ohio, to Point Pelee, Ont., last summer, covering some 35 miles.

Directed Kidnapings

Younger Brother Fights With Cuban Rebel Leader

By United Press International

To many persons, the first news that Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro had a younger brother in action with him came with the reports that it was the brother, Raul, who directed the mass kidnappings of U.S. and Canadian citizens.

Actually, Raul has been one of Fidel's most valuable aides since the latter's tiny yacht-borne expedition landed in Cuba from Mexico a year and a half ago to challenge the regime of President Fulgencio Batista.

Raul Castro is 27, four years younger than Fidel. Those who know him say he has a delicate, almost effeminate facial appearance—mild-looking, round and full—with a thick mop of hair, also that he is unusually soft-spoken.

But there apparently is no question of Raul's courage. He saw his first action when he was only 22. That was in Fidel's ill-fated attack on the Moncada army garrison in Santiago.

Raul has commanded one of Fidel's four so-called "columns" during the last few months. He has headed raiding parties in frequent attacks on army outposts.

Fidel stays pretty much at rebel headquarters. Raul is out in the field constantly.

Like Fidel, Raul got his early education at the Catholic Belen College in Havana. The Batista government alleges that Raul spent recent years somewhere behind the Iron Curtain receiving training in guerrilla warfare. The government accuses him, as it does Fidel, of Communist connections. They both deny it.

Sources in Havana say there is no suspicion of any recent falling out between the brothers, despite indications that Fidel disapproved of the kidnappings.

Raul is said to be devoted to his older brother. Rebel sources attribute Fidel's radio order to Raul to release the captives to the fact that Fidel was temporarily out of field contact with him.

Raul is said to have no desire for the limelight, and the relatively little known about him supports this. He seems content to stay in the background and let his brother take the bows. He has a likeable personality, to the extent that one of the captives released this week described him as a "swell guy."

U.S. Geographic Heart to Shift With Alaska

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Alaska comes in as the 49th state, the geographic heart of the United States may no longer be in the United States at all.

It may be in southwestern Canada—or even in the Pacific Ocean, somewhere off the coast of Washington state.

These were preliminary guesses today of officials of the U.S. Geological Survey and the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Present position of the center is somewhere near Lebanon, Kan. The geographic center is defined as "the point at which the United States would balance if it were all the same thickness and were suspended on a pinpoint."

One way of figuring it is simply to take a map of the United States, paste it on a cardboard and then find the center of gravity by placing your map on a pinpoint.

Sounds easy, but Alaska presents complications for such a stunt, because there is no continuous land connection between Alaska and the rest of the United States. A portion of Canada pops up in between.

A government expert told a reporter one conceivable way of finding the geographic center of a United States with Alaska would be to attach the Alaskan area to your U.S. map by means of a light, aluminum wire and then do your balancing.

"You could also figure it out mathematically," he said, "by taking what we call coordinates of points all along various coast lines. But that would take a long time by ordinary mathematical methods, and might even take days and cost thousands of dollars even with modern high-speed computing machines."

In some of Italy's ancient cities, the tile pavements laid down in the 16th century are still in use today.

Sugar Exports Bring Hawaii $140 Million

HONOLULU — Sugar has been produced in Hawaii for more than a century, and for nearly 100 years it has been Hawaii's primary industry.

Sugar exports now amount to more than $140,000,000 a year. The industry pays the 16,300 people employed on the plantations $56,000,000 a year, excluding dock workers and people employed in central offices in Honolulu. Sugar production is achieved on 221,000 acres—5.4 per cent of Hawaii's total area.

Negative Electric Charges Found in Cancer Cells

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

LONDON (AP) — British scientists have found a curious and apparently dangerous electricity in cancers.

The healthy cells stick together and don't go wandering off.

But cancer cells seem to develop strong negative electric charges.

This could make them repel other cells, so they move about freely and spread to start cancers elsewhere in the body.

This electrical action was described in a report today to the seventh International Cancer Congress by E. J. Ambrose and G. Easty of the Chester Beatty Research Institute in London.

They have been studying cells growing in tissue culture. The cells are kept alive and growing in glass tubes or plates.

The cancer cells gained increasingly strong negative charges as a tumor developed and as it became more invasive or able to spread, the scientists said. The negative charge became stronger than that of healthy cells. The cancer cells could be made to stick together by adding certain chemicals which carry a positive electric charge.

The research is helping to explain the chemical nature of changes taking place on the surface of cancer cells. It might even prove useful as a method someday of stopping the spread of cancers.

Among other reports to today's session of the cancer congress: The experimental antibiotic Actinomycin D produced a slight but definite improvement in about a fifth of 54 patients with various forms of cancer. The benefits were temporary, reported Doctors C. T. C. Tan and Joseph H. Burchenal of the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York.

Mitomycin C, an antibiotic discovered in Japan, and several other drugs can cure leukemia in mice which is caused by virus, Sloan-Kettering Doctors Kanematsu Sigura and C. Chester Stock said. The drug is not yet available for human use.

Mice that fight with a defense against leukemia. This happens in a strain of mice susceptible to this blood cancer. Females ordinarily die when they are 270 days old and the males when 305 days old.

The males of this strain fight but if kept from fighting they die as early as the females. Those males allowed to fight live two months longer on an average.

Fighting perhaps stimulates the adrenal gland and the production of adrenalin, according to Dr. Paul Lemonde of the University of Montreal.

Dying Father Longs to See Missing Son

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — John Wersinger Sr. is waiting for his son.

He doesn't have long to wait. The 64-year-old man is dying of cancer, and he knows it.

Four of his sons, a daughter and 10 grandchildren have gathered about Wersinger in his home here.

But one son is missing. John Wersinger Jr., 36, left Jersey City a year ago to work as a civilian guard at a military establishment in El Paso, Tex. He wrote his mother last month that he was giving up the job, and his parents have not heard from him since.

Wersinger's family appealed to newspapers to publish the story in the hope that John will read it and return home. He has only a few days to do it.

Citizens League Hears Candidates for Legislature

Candidates for two of Oakland County's six seats in the Legislature will go before an Oakland Citizens League committee tonight to air their qualifications for office.

It will be the first of three hearings conducted by the 23-member Candidates Committee at which most of the 63 persons seeking county offices this year will be interviewed.

The end result will be a slate drawn up after all the interviews of what the League believes are the best candidates based on education, experience, reputation, character, personality, adaptability and ability to think.

Tonight, 12 of 13 candidates for District 1 and 2 (Pontiac) state representative posts will be questioned in 10-minute interviews each.

Mrs. Hope Gorman, unopposed Republican candidate for the Pontiac post, will not be called until prior to the general November election.

Eleven other candidates for different positions are scheduled to appear at tonight's session. It will be held at the Pontiac Urban League office, 29 Orchard Lake Ave., starting at 7:15.

W. L. Shaffner, co-chairman of the committee, said the meeting is not open to the public.

Canada Talks in Final Hours

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — The Canadian-American summit conference went into its concluding hours today with agreements nailed down to cooperate on the questions of trade with Red China and prevention of surprise attack.

President Eisenhower and Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker hoped in a final session to agree on other issues which have strained on friendly relations.

Tomorrow Eisenhower returns to Washington. He will stop at Massena, N. Y., for a look at the St. Lawrence Seaway project—another symbol of Canadian-American cooperation.

The President and Prime Minister announced that their governments will consult fully from now on in attempts to resolve, as they come up, differences arising over conflicting export policies and laws.

Such conflict exists on commerce with Communist China. The United States bans all trade with the Chinese Reds; Canada embargoes only sales of strategic goods.

Canada apparently won some thing of a concession. The point of dispute has been application of the American embargo to Canadian subsidiaries of American firms, the Ford Motor Co. of Canada in particular. Feelers from Red China for purchase of 1,000 cars were turned down by Ford of Canada after consulting the parent company in the United States.

Eisenhower and Diefenbaker also agreed that experts of both countries will begin working together on a study of safeguards against surprise attack, especially across the Arctic.

Apparently Canada and the United States now plan to be ready with concrete suggestions for any technical consultations with the Soviet Union.

The President was in fine spirits, laughing, relaxed, and chatting at a reception in his honor last night at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Livingston Merchant.

Ask Immediate Halt of N-Tests

Reds Renew Demand for U.S. Agreement at Geneva Science Talks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has demanded again that the United States agree that the Geneva conference of nuclear scientists work for an immediate, universal suspension of nuclear weapon tests.

The East-West conference, which began July 1, is restricted to seeking ways to detect violations of any ban on tests that might be agreed on at later political talks.

A week before the Geneva meeting got under way, the Soviets threatened not to send a delegation unless the United States agreed in advance that a halt to atomic weapon tests was the goal of the conference.

The United States said that would be putting the cart before the horse. It insisted the scientists could only talk about practical means of detecting atomic tests. The Soviets sent a delegation anyway.

In a sharp note last night the Soviet Union accused the United States of trying to justify its refusal to end nuclear tests by claiming that effective control of a test ban was impossible. "Even though it is now clear that such control is quite feasible,"

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed the note to U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Jr. in reply to an American note of June 30. The State Department had no comment, but officials said they were not impressed by the new Soviet blast.

The Soviet note accused the United States of side-stepping "a definite reply whether it agreed that the meeting of experts should be devoted to solving the question of universal and instant suspension of nuclear weapon tests."

Bloomfield Golfer Has 71 in Amateur

CHARLEVOIX (AP)—Al (Buddy) Badger, 17-year-old recent high school graduate, shot a 71 today and tied for the early qualifying lead in the State Amateur golf tournament.

The slender shooter from Bloomfield Hills, who will enter the University of Miami (Fla.) this fall, had a par 36 going out at Belvedere Golf Club and a one-under 35 coming back.

That tied him with Dr. Robert W. Corley, 27-year-old heart specialist from Jackson, Corley had his 71 yesterday.

Badger and five other youngsters were permitted to play two 18-hole rounds today in an effort to qualify for match play. All six competed in the State Jaycee tournament Tuesday and Wednesday at Ann Arbor and made an all-night drive to get to Charlevoix.

Pete Green, also 17, of Orchard Lake, tied for second place with a 73. Green won the Jaycee championship. Badger was five strokes back of Green's 150 in the 36-hole Jaycee tournament.

John Hatherill Elected as Jaycee Director

John W. Hatherill, of 173 Hickory Lane, was elected last night to the nine-member board of directors of the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Hatherill, a television serviceman, won out in a three-nominee race to fill a vacancy on the board.

The election was part of a membership meeting at the Rotunda Inn.

Goldfine Explains Uncashed Checks Where the Money Went

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here is the accounting Bernard Goldfine gave House investigators yesterday of the total $776,879.16 worth of his uncashed bank treasurer's and certified checks as shown on Pilgrim Trust Co., Boston, records as of last May 7:

$89,035.89—Check bought in 1941-2-3: "I just don't recall what was done with them and we have no records going back that far so I haven't been able to find out."

$389,571.86 — deposited since May 7 and therefore not outstanding now.

$209,871.41—The checks "I have in my hand" bought by Goldfine companies, held by them, and never used.

$30,000.00—A 1956 check to Meinhard Co. as security for a loan.

$30,000.00—to the Pilgrim Trust Co., which Goldfine testified about last week.

Sub total $774,278.16

Also these checks to individuals: $2,000—Brickley, Sears and Cole, presumably Goldfine lawyers.

$300—to a person named Hann, not immediately identified.

$250—to a James Bruton, not immediately identified.

$50 — to Eileen Griffin, whom Goldfine identified as a secretary to the late Massachusetts Gov. Paul A. Dever. Dever also was associated as a lawyer with Goldfine after he left office in 1952.

Sub total $2,600

Grand total $776,879.16.

Al Capone's Husky, Tight-Lipped 'Successor' Living in Lavish Style

CHICAGO (AP)—Tony Accardo, swarthy boss of the Chicago underworld, is a husky, ill-tempered gang lord who lives in a lavishly furnished, ornate home in one of Chicago's most exclusive suburbs.

Often termed the successor to the late gang leader Al Capone, for whom he served as bodyguard, the 32-year-old Accardo is under subpoena to appear before the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington during current hearings into underworld activities.

It's not likely that the committee will get much information out of the tight-lipped gang boss. Another Senate committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) tried in 1931 but got nowhere. Accardo gave the committee little more than his name.

Always well tailored, Accardo is a solidly built man of about 5 feet 10 inches and weighs nearly 200 pounds. Dark complexioned, he has dark hair, graying at the temples. His right hand bears the tattoo of a dove.

With his wife and three children, he lives in a big stone mansion in suburban River Forest worth an estimated half-million dollars. Handsomely landscaped, the Accardo home is surrounded by a high wrought-iron fence. The home has 22 rooms, an indoor swimming pool, two bowling alleys, a pipe organ, six master bedrooms.

Three of the six bathrooms have gold-plated fixtures. One has a bathtub that reportedly cost $10,000, cut from a solid block of Mexican onyx.

Accardo frequently holds lavish garden parties for his gangland associates.

At one of these parties—held in 1935—reporters, peering through the fence spotted Accardo in shorts carrying on an animated conversation with his cronies while standing at a silver fountain bubbling champagne.

Arrested many times, Accardo never has spent more than a few hours in jail. He was rejected for military service in 1944 by his draft board, which ruled he was morally unfit.

Several of Accardo's close gangland associates perished in the gang wars but Accardo emerged from the strife with a whole skin.

Lumberyard Strike Threatens to Spread

DETROIT (AP)—A strike at 20 Detroit area lumber yards today threatened to spread to 100 other yards.

L. M. Weir, head of the Detroit Carpenters Union, said picketing at the 120 struck yards would be stepped up and also may spread to 100 yards not now affected.

Union employees at 100 yards left their jobs yesterday and the strike could halt all home building and other construction in the Detroit area if prolonged. The struck yards are operated by 106 firms which belong to the Detroit Lumbermen's Assn.

He doesn't talk much about the source of his income. But the Kefauver crime committee, at a Chicago hearing in 1931, was told that Accardo and the late Jack (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, another former Capone aide, had netted $78,000 in 1929 from policy game operations alone. There was no estimate of their income from other underworld activities.

At the 1931 hearings, Accardo denied he was connected with the narcotics or vice rackets. He declined to say if he had known Capone or was associated with Guzik in the policy racket, a numbers game popular among the city's Negro population.

He professed ignorance when asked if he was a member of the Mafia, international underworld organization, and said he never heard of the group.

Accardo lost a federal court suit Tuesday to enjoin a Chicago television station from televising his forthcoming appearance before the Rackets Committee. He is expected to take the stand today or tomorrow.

His suit had contended that his appearance on television would convey the impression he is a gangster and criminal.

More People Owning Both Types of Pens

JANESVILLE, Wis.—A pen company survey shows that more people own both a ball-point pen and a fountain pen than ever before.

Ball-point ownership among people 15 and over jumped from 22 per cent in 1948 to 72 per cent at present. Fountain pens are now owned by 61 per cent of adults compared with 74 per cent in 1948.

Less Juice Likely

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Because of unusually cold weather, which has cut citrus yields in Florida, production of frozen, concentrated orange juice is expected to total only 50,000,000 gallons this season, a drop of 28 per cent below 1957 output.

City Man Found Guilty on Drunk Driving Count

In yesterday's Pontiac Press, it was stated that James W. Housekeeper, 25, of 320 Harrison St., pleaded guilty to drunk driving. This was an error, Housekeeper was found guilty by a jury.

Orion Township Justice Helmar C. Stanback fined him $100 and three days in jail or 30 days. Housekeeper paid the fine and served the three days.

Sam Benson Says:

—creditors demand CASH!

I've always been pretty lucky when I went to the market to buy, but believe me I bought plenty, in fact too much. Of course I expected to do terrific business, instead, due to conditions I find myself with a tremendous stock. That's why! I'm going to take a loss in order to raise cash. The above is the truth and that's why I am embarrassed.

Enjoy Raspberries Now It's a Short Season

Michigan's small fruit season is well under way. First came strawberries, next sweet cherries and gooseberries. Now we can look forward to raspberries, reports the Marketing Information Agent.

A weekly check of meat features will help you decide meat cuts for your family. Pork supplies gradually decrease in summer. There is a good supply of choice grade beef with sales likely on less tender, less popular cuts. Poultry is a favorite summer meat; prices are expected to continue about as they have been.

IN THE FRUIT BASKET

Raspberries appear and disappear quickly. The season lasts about three weeks. These are the most fragile of Michigan's berries. Because they lose their flavor quickly, choose only those you plan to use within the day.

Ripe raspberries are firm, plump, full colored and free of their hulls. If the berries are dull or soft they have lost much of their flavor.

Spread raspberries in a thin layer on a pan or tray and store them in the refrigerator immediately. The weight of the berries in the basket will cause them to settle and bruise.

Ask for Taylor or Latham varieties if you are freezing red raspberries. Look for Cumberland or Logan if you are freezing black raspberries. You can pack them dry without sugar or cover them with a 40 per cent cooled syrup (made with 3 cups of sugar to 4 cups of water). Or mix 1 cup of sugar with 6 cups of fruit. Keep at zero degrees F.

Though time is limited, you can still enjoy the last of Michigan's strawberries. Harry! Harry! Harry!

Spring freezes damaged Michigan's cherry crop this year, but the sweet varieties fared better than the tart cherries. The Benton Harbor area reports a fairly good crop of sweet varieties.

The Traverse City area will have about three-fourths as many as usual. This means you will find very few in the fresh market, for most of Michigan's cherries are processed.

THE VEGETABLE COUNTER—Green is the "buy" word on the vegetable counter. Deep green color is your cue to plenty of vitamins, especially vitamin A.

When lettuce is sold by the head, pick one that is heavy and compact. The greener the leaves the more vitamin A it contains.

Fresh green peas are a home-grown vegetable to add to the growing list. A pound of peas will shell enough for two one-half cup servings. As the fresh season starts, you may wish to compare the cost of frozen and canned peas, too. The ten-ounce package will serve three people. The No. 303 can will serve four people if you serve the liquid with the peas.

MEETING THE MEAT BILL—The holiday shortened the number of work days for meat processors last week. Most meats will remain at about the same price, or may be a few cents more this week. Supplies will be slightly smaller.

Perhaps this is a good time to think of a new way to use hamburger.

Jellied Hamburger Loaf

1 pound hamburger
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
2-10 1/2 oz. cans vegetable soup
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Add salt to hamburger. Pan-fry with onion and celery until beef has lost the pink color and onions are lightly browned. Soak gelatin in water 10 minutes. Add to heated soup. Stir well. Combine all ingredients.

Pour into an 8 x 4 inch loaf pan. Chill 2 hours or until set. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Bran Flake Bread Good With Salads

Bran Flake Orange Nut Bread and Cream Cheese Sandwiches accompany fresh fruit salad and lemonade for a refreshing summer luncheon. Bran flakes add flavor, texture, protein, B vitamins, and minerals to this quick bread recipe.

To make Bran Flake Orange Nut Bread—sift together 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, and 1/2 cup sugar. Stir in 1 1/2 tablespoons grated orange rind and 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Combine 1 egg, well beaten, with 1 cup orange juice, and 3 tablespoons melted fat. Add to flour mixture, stir until well mixed. Blend in 1 cup bran flakes.

Turn into greased loaf pan 9x5x3 inches. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until done, about 1 hour. Cool on rack 10 minutes. Remove from pan. Yield: 1 loaf.

When a turkey is called a fryer or broiler, it is usually under 16 weeks old.

FOR QUICK AND LASTING ENERGY—Breakfast is important the year around—summer is no exception. Encourage your family to eat a quick and lasting energy breakfast of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter. Serve it on individual trays which can be carried to a cool spot.

Low Calorie Berry Pie Uses Artificial Sweetener

Speaking of strawberries, a low-calorie way. Save nearly 100 calories per serving by making your pie with Sucaryl, the non-caloric sweetener, rather than with sugar.

Plump, ripe strawberries are at the very peak of their goodness right now. These good tidings mean that you'll be enjoying this popular fruit in all the favorite ways — plain with cream and sweetening, in shortcakes, and in luscious pies.

For a special treat, tempt your family to a delectable Strawberry Chiffon Pie, made this good and Try this calorie-streamlined recipe, and your strawberry pie will be sweet, lovely... and so kind to your waistline!

STRAWBERRY CHIFFON PIE (Low-Calorie)
1 envelope gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon Sucaryl solution or 24 sucaryl tablets
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups strawberry pulp and juice

Wheat Pancake Good for Brunch

"Come over for a late breakfast." Here is a fine idea for a neighborly invitation or for someone who is visiting from out-of-town. Chilled melon with grapes, brown, juicy sausages, and tender pancakes make an inviting menu for a summer brunch.

There is news in this menu, too. The pancakes are deliciously different with the addition of one of the original cereals, shredded wheat. The subtle, good taste of this cereal adds special flavor interest to these pancakes. Serve them with fruit preserves or warm maple-flavored syrup.

Shredded Wheat Pancakes
2 shredded wheat biscuits
1 1/2 cups milk
1/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Crush shredded wheat biscuits into coarse crumbs. Add cereal to 1/2 cup milk; let stand for 10 minutes. Sift flour, baking powder, sugar, salt together. Beat egg until bubbly. Add remaining 1 cup milk and melted butter to egg; mix well.

Add the egg mixture and the cereal crumbs to the dry ingredients and mix together well.

Drop by tablespoons onto hot greased griddle. Bake until bubbles appear on the top surface of each pancake and underside is brown. Turn and brown on second side. Makes about 12 4" pancakes.

Cheese Apples for Pie

Cheese apples are delicious with apple pie. Shape softened American cheese into balls about 1 inch in diameter, flatten slightly. Sprinkle one side lightly with paprika for color. Insert a toothpick in each "apple," and stick these picks into a real apple to serve.

EASY TO DIET NATURALLY

Mrs. Jean Lanford says...

Meatless Combinations Good for Lunch

If you want to serve a "conversation piece" at your next club luncheon, try either of these two very different combinations. They make good main dishes, too, to serve on meatless days.

Tuna-Cranberry Rounds
Twenty-seven slices enriched bread
1/2 cup tuna flaked
3 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
8 slices jellied cranberry sauce 1/4-inch thick
1/2 cup sharp cheese spread.
Cut a 3-inch circle from each bread slice, using a large cookie cutter. Combine flaked tuna, olives, almonds and 1/4 cup mayonnaise. Place a slice of jellied cranberry sauce on each of six circles and 2 tablespoons tuna salad mixture on each of six circles. Place the tuna circles over the cranberry circles and top with the plain bread circles.

Combine sharp cheese and 1/4 cup mayonnaise. Spread 2 tablespoons of the cheese mixture over the top and half way down the sides of the sandwiches. Place sandwiches on a cookie sheet.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 10 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes 9 rounds.

Mushroom and Pea Casserole
One-quarter cup butter
1/2 cup finely diced onion
1/2 cup milk
3-ounce can chopped broiled mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/16 teaspoon powdered marjoram
1 cup chopped salad peanuts
2 cups cooked green peas
1 cup cooked julienne carrots
Melt butter in small saucepan over moderate heat. Add onion and sauté 1 minute. Stir in flour. Add milk, contents of can of mushroom salt, pepper and marjoram. Cook, stirring constantly until sauce thickens. Stir in half of the peanuts.

Combine peas and carrots which have been cooked until barely tender and place in a well-oiled 1 1/2-quart baking dish. Pour sauce over entire surface, mixing lightly with fork to evenly distribute sauce. Sprinkle remaining peanuts over the top. Bake in preheated 350 degrees

F. oven until thoroughly hot and the peanuts are golden brown, about 30 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Chop Fruit for Punch

For refreshingly different Honey Fruit Punch, crush 1 large orange to a pulp. Combine with 1/4 to 1 cup of honey, 1 finely chopped banana, 1 cup chopped pineapple, 1 quart of grape juice. Pour over ice. Let stand 20 minutes, then serve.

Good customs: The Danes like to serve celery with cheese, the English offer watercress.

Perk Up Meal With New Salad a la Orient

You can say "sayonara" to the tedium of planning summertime meals when you perk up your menu with an oriental salad topped with cottage cheese sour cream dressing.

This salad, which calls for such exotic vegetables as bean sprouts and water chestnuts, is as modern as tomorrow due to today's trend toward an oriental flare in food and decor.

cream and cottage cheese dressing to make it authentically Asian. Each serving of this easy-to-make tossed salad is sprinkled with colorful paprika.

Oriental Salad
1 cup dairy cultured sour cream
1 12-ounce carton (1 1/2 cups) cottage cheese
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 1-pound can (2 cups) bean sprouts (well drained)
1 5-ounce can water chestnuts sliced and well drained
1/2 cup celery sliced diagonally
1/2 teaspoon salt
Paprika
Mix sour cream with cottage cheese; add soy sauce. Add chilled vegetables, salt and pepper. Toss together until vegetables are well distributed in mixture. Serve as a

Bake Spiced Applesauce on Canadian Bacon

A recipe with seasonal appeal is Canadian-style bacon with spiced applesauce. Combine 1 cup unseasoned applesauce, 1/4 cup brown sugar and 1/4 teaspoon cloves. Mix well.

Place 8 slices Canadian-style bacon, cut 1/4 to 1/2 inch thick in a baking dish. Top each slice with 2 tablespoons applesauce mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 to 30 minutes. Four servings.

PICTURE PRETTY — A melon shell makes an eye-catching container for Honey French Dressing in the center of a platter of fresh fruits. For other mellow dressings and ways to present them, see the attached story.

Serve Salad Dressing in Melon Shell Cup

Make it picture-pretty. When it comes to fruit salads, that's the first instruction.

Be creative. Arrange your fruits in a pleasing pattern of shape, texture and color. Choose your dressing for color as well as for flavor.

On the summer buffet, the fruit salad platter can be the center of attention. To make it especially eye-catching, use a cantaloupe shell as a container for the dressing. Cut the cantaloupe in half across the ribbing. With a melon ball cutter, hollow out both halves. Then take the nicer shaped of the empty half-shells, smooth down the insides and serrate the edge as shown in the photo. Sink a small bowl into the shell and fill it with dressing. To keep the cantaloupe from tilting, you might have to cut a piece off the bottom and allow the bowl to rest on the platter.

With the cantaloupe bowl in the center of a large platter, arrange the cantaloupe balls, perhaps some honeydew balls, orange slices, strawberries and other fresh, frozen or canned fruits in a colorful pattern.

For a bright, clear dressing, you might want to try Honey French.

Luncheon Meat Makes a Quickie

A can of luncheon meat, one of soup and a package of frozen vegetables are easily turned into a hearty casserole, ideal for serving in a hurry on some of the busy days ahead.

Luncheon Meat Casserole
1 can luncheon meat
1 package frozen mixed vegetables
1 can (10 1/2 ounce) cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
Cut luncheon meat into eight slices. Break up block of frozen vegetables and place in a 1 1/2 quart casserole. Top with luncheon meat slices.
Dilute soup with milk and stir in Worcestershire sauce. Pour over meat and vegetables. Toss butter with crumbs and sprinkle over top of meat and vegetables. Bake at 375 degrees 30 minutes. 4 servings.

A pastry shell usually needs 12 to 15 minutes in a 450-degree oven.

Rarebit Crowns Hot Sandwich

CHICAGO, Ill. — A regal crown of golden rarebit brought new distinction to a combination of old-fashioned ham and turkey as 1958's 20 best new sandwiches were announced at the National Restaurant Association Show on Navy Pier.

Appropriately named the "Ham and Turkey Princess," the hearty hot dish was selected among more than 750 entries in the nationwide 1958 Sandwich Idea Contest.

Chef-steward Rene J. Monbrand of the Neil House Hotel in Columbus, Ohio, originated the new sandwich. He reported his creation came as a result of a search for different types and combinations of new food to serve. He started simply with toasted rye bread, ham and turkey, and produced his winner.

Ham and Turkey Sandwich Princess

12 slices rye bread, toasted
Butter or margarine
12 slices breast of turkey (12 ounces)
12 slices baked ham (12 ounces)
1/2 cup enriched flour
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups beef, chicken broth or milk
6 ounces Cheddar cheese, diced
Cooked green asparagus spears
Paprika

Spread toast with butter or margarine. Cut 6 slices diagonally into halves. Place 1 whole toast slice, with 2 halves on opposite sides, on round sliced egg dishes or individual plates. For each sandwich, alternately overlap 2 slices turkey and 2 slices ham.

In saucepan, combine flour, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and beer, broth or milk. Cook over medium heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Reduce heat to low and blend in cheese, stirring until cheese is melted.

Arrange asparagus over turkey and ham, about 3 spears per sandwich. Pour cheese sauce over all. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Bake 750 entries in the nationwide. Makes 6 sandwiches.

Electric Skillet Cooks Breakfast of Rolls, Sausage

What could be easier than a hot breakfast that's prepared without so much as flipping a switch on the kitchen range? Start with fresh crisp blueberries topped with thick commercially soured cream sprinkled with ground nutmeg or brown sugar.

Next come fully cooked, carefully seasoned sausages that need only to be browned to serve. Refrigerator biscuits "baked" in a covered skillet, jelly, and coffee.

Here's how: Heat an electric skillet to 350 degrees (or hot if a regular heavy frying pan is used). Arrange the packaged refrigerator biscuits in the ungreased skillet. Cover tightly for 5 minutes.

Remove the cover and with a spatula turn each biscuit to brown the other side. Replace the cover and bake 5 minutes more. The biscuits will be crispy and golden brown on each side when baked. Push the biscuits to one side and put the brown 'n serve sausage in the skillet, turning to brown evenly. Allow about 3 minutes for browning the sausages; if they came from the freezer, add 2 or 3 minutes more.

Hard-frozen roasts are said to need about one-third to one-half again as much cooking time per pound as do corresponding fresh roasts.

Top for Gingerbread

Beat 2 egg whites until stiff and gradually beat in 4 tablespoons sugar. Place 6 pineapple slices in a layer in a shallow pan and top each with a puff of meringue. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 4 to 5 minutes. Then use a wide spatula to remove pineapple from pan and place each on a square of hot gingerbread. Serve at once.

Fresh Blueberries Hit the Spot

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Yummy! Fresh blueberries are in the market in great quantities and at a price most of us can afford. It always amazes me how far I can stretch one pint of blueberries. There is practically no waste, and the berries are good morning, noon or night.

Some of the cultivated berries are almost too big to be real. If any of you have picked wild huckleberries, you know what a job they are to pick and to pick over. I'll take the cultivated ones anytime.

Just plain blueberries are good. But if you have only a few, too few to serve your family, you can add them to other food and make everyone happy.

Waffles for breakfast? Fold in that last half cup of berries and bake as usual. Or fold them into your plain muffin batter for the same happy result. Top a mixed fruit salad with a sprinkling of dark berries.

The recipe for the dessert in the accompanying picture is a simple one. Fix your raspberry sauce ahead of serving the dessert. Assembling it is an easy task.

Fresh Blueberry Melba

1 pint fresh blueberries
1 small cup vanilla ice cream
1 cup fresh raspberries
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
1/16 teaspoon salt

Wash blueberries and divide equally among 6 sherbet glasses. Top each with a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Wash raspberries, crush and put through a sieve. (Measure. There should be 1/4 cup.) Blend in sugar, lemon juice and salt. Spoon over ice cream and blueberries.

Blueberries themselves are not high in calories. One half cup contains only 45 calories. They contain vitamins A and C, as well as other important nutrients and minerals.

Last Sunday we entertained friends from Minnesota at an outdoor breakfast. For one of the hot breads I always serve at such affairs I made Blueberry Buckle. This delicious coffee cake should be served warm and does equally well as dessert.

Blueberry Buckle

2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup milk
2 cups fresh blueberries, washed and drained

Sift flour, measure and resift three times with salt and baking powder. Cream shortening and sugar until soft and smooth. Add egg and beat until light and fluffy.

Add milk and sifted dry ingredients, alternately, beating well after each addition. Fold in blueberries. Pour into greased 8-inch square pan. Sprinkle top with a cinnamon and sugar mixture, using 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon to each 2 tablespoons sugar.

Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes or until cake tests done. Serve while slightly warm.

***

If you want to freeze fresh blueberries, it's wonderfully easy to do. Select firm, fully ripe blueberries. Wash and drain thoroughly. Pack into containers or jars, leaving 1/2-inch head space at the top to allow for freezing expansion. Seal. Freeze immediately and store at zero degrees or below.

Bake Carrots With Rice in Finnish Fashion

Put 3 cups water, 1/2 cup uncooked white rice and 2 teaspoons salt in a greased 1 1/2 quart oven dish. Place 2 cups coarsely grated carrots over the rice. Bake at 350 degrees for about 45 minutes or until the rice is tender. Do not stir while baking.

Stir in 1 beaten egg, 1/4 cup sliced almonds. Bake 15 minutes or until most of the liquid is absorbed. This makes 6 delicious servings of vegetable.

Cranberry Dip New for Meat

Before-dinner appetizers are just the thing to serve this summer. Today the backporch table turns buffet style for lots of fresh air and pleasant surroundings for family and guests at meal time.

Try this new smooth Cranberry Chafing Dish Sauce. It's full of tang and color and really good eating pleasure. Have tiny cocktail franks on hand and extra small meat balls (or try the new quick frozen variety, ready to fry to golden brown). Place colorful toothpicks on display. Let guests dip the meat of their choice into the ruby red and bubbly sauce.

Here's an intriguing two-way idea. Mix the sauce ahead of time and store in the refrigerator until you're ready to serve. Then just heat in a chafing dish. OR for a delicious hamburger or frankfurter sauce store the same recipe in the refrigerator in the new plastic squeeze bottle...ready to set on the table anytime for everyone to enjoy.

Cranberry Chafing Dish Special

1 (1-lb.) can jellied cranberry sauce
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
Dash red pepper

Beat jellied cranberry sauce until smooth and velvety. Stir in remaining ingredients. Keep chilled until ready to serve. Then serve hot or cold. Makes about 1 pint.

Never-Fail Frosting Calls for Canned Milk

This is a never-fail chocolate frosting that spreads on beautifully and tastes heavenly. Heat 1/4 cup butter, 3 squares of semi-sweet dipping chocolate, and 1/2 cup evaporated milk in the top of a double boiler over hot water until chocolate is melted, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Add in 1 pound confectioners sugar, sifted, a little at a time, beating after each addition until the frosting is smooth and creamy. Dark, rich and luscious it's all ready to be spread on your favorite cake.

In the Out-of-Doors

Summertime Spells Family Fun

It takes a lot of planning to hit the "stake" without interfering with another's croquet ball, and Stephen Jones with chin squared, gets set to strike. Pointing out some of the advantages of the position is Ernest A. Jones III while Christine, Mark, Mrs. Jones and Janet watch the interesting game. The family resides in Bloomfield Hills.

'Friend' May Have Erred

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I've been the victim of malicious gossip started by a woman whom I thought was a friend. What am I supposed to do? Take her actions sitting back quietly, or shall I go to her and have what is commonly called a 'showdown'?"

Answer: Taking it for granted that the gossip is unfounded, it could do no harm, and might do good, to make an appointment to see this person if you can be sure of telling her very calmly, very good temperedly that you have heard that someone has told her something about you that is not true and you would like to straighten it out. Instead of believing her guilty of making up a malicious story or willfully putting a quite wrong construction on something she has heard, it is a much better approach to take it for granted that someone has unwittingly given her false information.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I loaned a friend money many months ago. There was no written agreement to pay. At the present time I need this money very much—in fact I don't know how I'm going to manage without it. How can I go about reminding my friend so as not to hurt her? I believe she is able to repay it now, and it may even be that she has actually forgotten about it."

Answer: Just say, "I hate to ask you, but at the present time I am in great need of the money you borrowed, and I hope you can pay it."

"Dear Mrs. Post: If a man cuts in on a girl when she is dancing with someone she likes very much and with whom she would prefer to keep on dancing, is there any way she can refuse the second man without being rude?"

Answer: No, the only thing she can do is to whisper quickly to the man she is dancing with when she sees that she is going to be cut in on, "Oh, do come back soon."

"Dear Mrs. Post: Are place cards always handwritten, or may they in some instances be typewritten?"

Answer: Place cards are always handwritten although the writing may approach printing as closely as possible in order to be legible.

10 Bridge Winners

Pontiac Duplicate Bridge Club winners Monday evening at Elks Temple were Mrs. Kendall Clark, Mrs. Robert Kircher, Joseph Nouse, Al Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Richards, Dr. Robert Segula, Ernest Guy, James Fenwick and Edwin Clarke.

The perfect solution for a very warm day—a dip in the pool. Mrs. George A. Lyon (left) her daughter, Winn, Mrs. Robert W. Emerick and Bert Lyon look on as Robert (left) and Richard Emerick do some swimming in the Lyon pool. The families are neighbors in Birmingham.

Personal News of Interest in Area

Mrs. James J. Nance is entertaining members of her bridge club for a few days at the Nance summer home on Torch Lake.

Enjoying the bridge sessions, swimming, and golfing are Mrs. George C. Booth, Mrs. Robert Budd, Mrs. Jack Cummings, Mrs. Roger M. Kyes, Mrs. Paul Shine, Mrs. Wright Tisdale, and Mrs. Theodore Yntema. The group will return Friday.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Rothman entertained Mr. Nance, Mr. Booth, Mr. Tisdale, and Mr. Shine at dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCulloch of Silverhill drive have had as guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Still and grandchildren, Donald Russell, Gregory, and Barbara, of St. Louis, Mo.

The family left Wednesday morning for the Mackinac Bridge and Sault Ste. Marie and will return to their home by way of Gull Lake, where they will visit Mrs. Still's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. James Harrison and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Winn of Bloomfield Hills have as their houseguests Mrs. Winn's sister and niece, Mrs. T. F. Hoops of Chicago and Mrs. Arthur S. Bowes Jr. and daughter, Linda of Evanston, Ill.

Former Pontiac Yacht Club commodore and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Connolly of Maitland, Fla., are spending several weeks with friends in the Pontiac area during their first visit here since moving South five years ago.

They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dean Thompson of East Iroquois road Wednesday evening. Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Tarr of West Iroquois road will entertain them.

Among others who have entertained the Connollys are Mr. and Mrs. Myron L. Buck of West Iroquois road and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Booth of East Iroquois road.

Touring through the western states are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Froede of Summit avenue. They are spending some time with Mr. Froede's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Foede of Chula Vista, Calif. They will be home in early August.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Kingda of Northview court have returned to the city following a motor trip West. They spent time at Albuquerque, N.M.; Juarez, Mexico; and Colorado Springs, Colo.

During their visit at Frontier City in Oklahoma City, Okla., Mrs. Kingda appeared as an "extra" in a live remote telecast of a local television show.

Appoint Chairmen for Club

At a board meeting held at her home on West Iroquois road Wednesday morning Mrs. Walter Willman, president of the Pontiac Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, announced the appointment of committee chairmen for the coming club year.

New appointees are Mrs. Gelston Poole, ways and means chairman; Mrs. Robert Glenn, year book; Mrs. Edward Barrett, social; Mrs. Arthur Young, revisions; Mrs. John Patterson, publicity; Mrs. Robert Nelson, program; and Mrs. C. R. Gately, international cooperation.

Serving again next season will be Mrs. Arthur Selden, conservation; Mrs. John Windate, education; Mrs. B. W. Habel, extension; Mrs. W. Ross Thompson, flower show; and Mrs. Standish Sibley, horticultural therapy.

Mrs. W. F. Maybury, marketing; Mrs. Robert Oliver, membership; Mrs. Edmund Rogers, notification; and Mrs. O. H. Lundbeck, philanthropy. Mrs. Harold A. Fitzgerald, photography; Mrs. Russell Galbraith, historian; and Mrs. Willman, civic improvement, complete the list of chairmen.

Secretaries Meet With Mrs. Scott

Members of the National Secretaries Association, Pontiac Chapter, met at the Birmingham home of Mrs. Hope G. Scott.

Swimming, dancing and community singing were among the Tuesday evening activities. A box supper auction was held.

MRS. LEO JOSEPH BRENNAN

Barbara A. Couzens Weds Leo J. Brennan

Barbara Ann Couzens and Leo Joseph Brennan Jr. were married today in a ceremony performed at noon in St. Hugo of the Hills Church.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Gerard R. Slattery of Wabek Farms, Bloomfield Hills and Detroit, and the late Frank Couzens. Leo's parents are the Hon. and Mrs. Leo J. Brennan of L'Anse.

WEARS ALENCON LACE

Barbara wore a gown of Alencon lace which ended in a cathedral train for her wedding. Her veil was the rose-pointe lace veil worn by her mother, and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and cypripedium orchids.

BLUE AND WHITE

Their sheath dresses were of white batiste accented with embroidery, and Carnegie blue velvet ribbons were worn at the waist. Matching velvet formed their headbands, and their bouquets were of delphinium and white geraniums.

John Kent Moore of Birmingham was best man and George Lang Couzens, brother of the bride; William P. Kelly Jr., of Louisville, Ky.; James R. Donnelly of Washington, D.C.; Jon V. Urnes of Long Beach, Ind.; Donald Hicks of Dearborn and Bruce T. Hilton of Detroit seated the guests.

GARDEN RECEPTION

Following a garden reception at Wabek Farms, the new Mrs. Brennan changed to a navy and white cotton tweed suit with white accessories for a two-week honeymoon in Bermuda.

The bride is a graduate of Maryville College, St. Louis, Mo., and Harper Hospital School of Nursing. The bridegroom was graduated from Notre Dame University.

Camp Fire Girls Slate Program at Clarkston

The first in a series of open houses to acquaint parents of Camp Fire Girls with the Pontiac Council's camp near Clarkston will be held from 2-4 p.m. Sunday at Camp Oweid.

Families will spend the afternoon touring the camp site, viewing typical day camp activities, swimming and picnicking. Dr. and Mrs. Daniel McGeen of Lake Angelus road and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jarvis of West Hopkins street are in charge of the day's activities. Invited to attend the first open house are families of girls attending the first day camp session which ended Friday.

What Young People Think

Police Say Good Word for Today's Youth

By EUGENE GILBERT

President of the Gilbert Youth Research Co.

A policeman's lot is not a happy one, especially when it means bringing in a teen-ager who has run afoul of the law.

But more and more in recent years the cop on the beat has had to perform this unpleasant task. Many of the teen-agers he pursues are wanted for more serious matters than breaking a window with a baseball or playing hooky from school.

In 1937, according to the latest FBI figures, persons under 21 accounted for nearly 20 per cent of all serious crimes committed in the country.

They accounted for 34,974 burglaries (twice as many as in 1930), 23,472 auto thefts (three times as many as in 1930) and 63,993 larcenies (four times as many).

The FBI further reports that 16,245 teen-agers were arrested in 1937 for liquor law violations, a shocking jump from 1,330 in 1930, and more than 5,000 were arrested for carrying a weapon, compared with 1,762 in 1930.

Because of this disturbing increase in juvenile crime in recent years, we called on a number of police officials across the country to give their views on the current crop of teen-agers.

Are they different from the boys and girls of say 10 or 15 years ago? Why is crime on the increase within their ranks? Has someone or something failed them somewhere along the line and so early in life?

THEY'RE DIFFERENT

Our police survey, in a way, represented simple justice. Several months ago we asked the teen-agers of the country what they thought of cops. An overwhelming 92 per cent said they respected the policeman, but only 7 per cent said they wanted his job.

Now it seemed only fair to find out what the men in the blue uniforms thought of the boys and girls in blue jeans.

They're different than they used to be, answered 62.5 per cent of the officials we contacted.

"The main difference," said Capt. Clifford G. Bailey of the Crime Prevention Bureau of Minneapolis, "lies in society itself and the different values, mores and morals."

Col. O.D. Garton, Chief of Police of Richmond, Va., saw the difference as the result of "educational opportunities, general social trends, worldwide unrest, more money to spend, more freedom and lack of discipline and guidance."

"While advanced educational and other opportunities today might produce a more intelligent, stable, self-reliant youth, there are negative factors which contribute to delinquency."

Even the 37.5 per cent who thought that today's youth had NOT changed very much recognized changes in society and the world around us.

Said Lt. R. P. Racine, commanding officer of the Norfolk, Va., Youth Bureau, "I don't think the youngsters of today are any different than they were 10, 15, 25 or even 50 years ago. I do think their values have changed, because we adults have given them poorer standards and we have proven poor guides."

Bryson M. Turner, Chief of Police in Roanoke, Va., said he was far more concerned about the "delinquency of parents" than about that of their children and thought that parents should "be arrested for not keeping their children under control."

Richard Sealer, a member of the Hastings, Mich., police force, would carry this a step further. He suggests "a compulsory training school for parents whose youngsters have been delinquent to teach them how to raise their kids."

Finally, Lt. Robert Schaele of the Birmingham, Mich., Police Department had this word of advice on handling modern youth: "Stop regulating the teen-ager's life for him and educate the parents to the fact that they have a responsibility, to themselves and the community, to teach and guide their children in doing the proper things in life."

Want to Solve Decor Problem?

Just Do It With Mirrors

CHICAGO (UPI) — Framed mirrors have made a comeback in 1938 home decor and they can solve many a problem prettily.

A framed mirror, for example, can give the illusion of space and, says the picture and frame institute, a favorite trick is to hang a large framed mirror on one end of the walls, creating an illusion of depth.

But, in using new framed mirrors, choose styles that harmonize with your furnishings. Simple wood-framed mirrors are best for provincial furniture, while a more ornate metal or wood frame is the most appropriate for a formal, traditional room.

Mirrors do not need to be hung on walls to create a decorative effect. Framed easel mirrors are effective on bedroom dressing tables and also on hallway tables.

should be scaled to the furniture and wall space.

If you hang a framed mirror over a large sofa, small pictures on each side of the mirror will draw attention to the grouping and make it the focal point of your room.

A long chest of drawers requires a framed mirror big enough to counterbalance the size of the furniture.

As with paintings, hang mirrors at eye level for the greatest enjoyment and usefulness.

Mothersingers Have Picnic Dinner

Mrs. Charles Chapman of Silverdown street was hostess to the Pontiac Mothersingers at a picnic. Mrs. Chapman was assisted by Mrs. Russell Jacobson and Mrs. Milton Reddeman at the Tuesday gathering. Vice president, Mrs. Arnold Dennison conducted the meeting.

Try Special Exercises

Sacroiliac Pain Can Be Helped

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Sacroiliac trouble can be extremely painful and incapacitating. Women seem to be more subject to it than men, perhaps because child bearing may have weakened some of the ligaments. Sometimes this trouble descends suddenly after lifting some heavy object or undergoing some sort of physical strain.

When you have this difficulty you must be very careful about exercise. Some is most damaging. However, there are special exercises which will greatly improve sacroiliac trouble and sometimes get rid of it altogether. I have had several pupils who used these exercises constantly and were relieved of the pain of the past.

Every once in a while I like to repeat them in this column for those of you who need them and may have missed them. Here they are.

1. Stand tall. Walk in place. Lift the knees high up in front of you. Do not bend the knees UNDER you as you walk in place, but lift them high in front of you.

2. While still standing do this. Bend the left knee up in front of you. Grasp it with your hands and pull it back close to the abdomen. Return leg to the floor. Do the same thing with your right leg and

3. Lie on the floor on your back. Bend both knees and place the feet flat on the floor. Separate the knees as far as comfortable. Bring knees together. Continue.

4. In the same position bend the left knee up close to the abdomen. Keep the knee bent and tip it out, away from the center of the body as far as comfortable. Straighten your leg and slide it back to starting position. Do the same thing with the right leg. Continue.

There is one exercise which might relieve you of pain due to sacroiliac trouble: Walk in place. Lift the knee high up in front of you.

As I have said sacroiliac trouble can be extremely painful. It can pinch the sciatic nerve and cause an aching hip.

DEAR ABBY: Ever heard of a new breed that just sprung up? They're called HUSBAND SITTERS. Now don't get me wrong, Abby. It's my own husband I'm sitting with and it used to be a pleasure, but not since television.

Every night he comes from work, gets into something comfortable, plops himself down in the easy chair and starts watching TV. He won't take me out to dinner or a movie or even for a ride any more.

HE gets out during the working day and sees people but I'm stuck in the house doing the housework and at the end of the day I'd like to see something besides these four walls. But how do I get him out of the chair and away from the TV set? MARY DOE

Mother's the Umpire for Dad and Family

By RUTH MILLETT

There is one choice that mothers have to make over and over again. Who comes first—Papa or the children? Should Mama listen to Sally who claims she simply has to have a new dress for a party? Or to Papa who is worrying about how he is ever going to pay all of last month's bills?

Should she send Papa off alone on a business trip, so that she can stay at home and look after the children? Or should she go along with him, as he wants her to, and entrust the children to someone else for a few days?

Should she try to have the house peaceful and quiet so Papa can get some rest when he gets home from work? Or should she let a teenager feel free to have a noisy crowd around most of the time?

And so it goes day after day—the children with their needs and demands and a husband with his. And it is Mama who has to decide whose needs are most important.

Modern mothers all too often decide in favor of the children. They put up the biggest squawk. It's easy for a mother to keep telling herself, "They're only young once, and at their age everything is so important."

And it is easy, too, for a woman to think that a husband is selfish, or childish, or unreasonable if he gets tired of playing second fiddle to his children.

But it isn't wrong for a husband to expect to come first part of the time. It isn't good for the family for the head of the house to have his needs and preferences catered to only when they don't interfere with what the children have their hearts set on.

Children need to come first occasionally. They have to come first occasionally. But not all the time. It isn't good for them or for their parents' marriage when they do.

DR. JOHN E. PORRITT

A master's degree in orthodontics has been granted Dr. John E. Porritt by the University of Michigan. Dr. Porritt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Porritt of East Walton boulevard, and his wife, Sara, are leaving this weekend for Boulder, Colo., where he will begin practice.

DEAR ABBY: I would appreciate it very much if you could help me with my problem. I am 45 years old and never married. I intend to marry this man in the near future. Now my problem is that he wants me to dress like a bride when we marry. That is, in a gown and veil. I feel at my age and with my gray hair it would look silly. I thought I would wear a cocktail dress with a little flowered hat and a short veil around it. What do you suggest? RUTH

DEAR RUTH: You'd be amazed how beautiful every bride is in a gown and veil. Gray hair and all! Try a few on while shopping and decide for yourself. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: We have a son who looks like me but takes after my wife's side of the family. He's 23 and acts like 10. He was driving when his license was suspended and he had a few drinks. It was just his luck that he sideswiped a squad car going 70 miles an hour (him, not the squad car). He called from jail and I let him sit there all night. My wife cried and carried on like he was waiting to be electrocuted, but I said the lesson wouldn't hurt him. Now she blames me because the kid has a "record." I say it was good for him. Who's right? DAD

DEAR DAD: You're right! Parents who pull their kids' chestnuts out of the fire for them do the kids no favor. At 23, your son is an adult and should either obey the law or take his medicine.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are friendly with another young couple. They act so lovey-dovey but we happen to know that he steps out on her all the time. They have three of the nicest children you'd ever want to meet. The whole town is talking. Why is the poor wife always the last to know? As a good friend, don't you think I ought to tell her? TRUE FRIEND

DEAR TRUE: As a true friend, you ought to forget it. Don't kid yourself. The "poor wife" isn't always the last to know. Sometimes she's the FIRST to know—but the last to admit it.

He Can Make Over $140 Per Week

Town Earnings Attract Witch Doctors

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Voodoo incantations, dark rites and filthy-tasting medicines compounded of unspeakable ingredients flourish in the shadows of skyscrapers in this bustling capital of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Attracted by the vast and gullible audience afforded by the masses of natives who throng the streets in search of work, the witch doctors have left their remote kraals and villages for the more modern — and profitable — surroundings of the "white man's" metropolis.

Working in the city streets, or in the native locations that surround it, they peddle their nostrums, potions, elixirs and talismans at prices ranging from one penny (one cent) for the "full-treatment," a spell that will ensure the purchaser's life-long health and prosperity and irresistible prowess with the opposite sex.

He is a poor witch doctor who makes less than $50 ($140) a week in this way in a country where natives are able to live on a wage of $6 ($17) a month.

But it would be wrong to dismiss the witch-doctors as mere exploiters of their fellows. Some of their vegetable medicines, in use long before the white man came to the country, are still as effective as anything that can be turned out by European research laboratories. And their vegetable poisons are deadly and often untraceable.

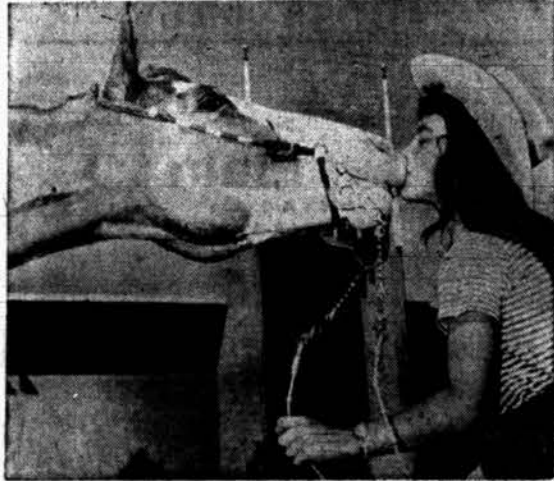

Says Dr. Michael Gelfand, Salisbury physician and author:

"The nganga (as witch doctors are called) fulfills a useful purpose in the life of the African. His real strength lies in the psychosomatic field, for by helping the individual to face the problems that confront all of us, he is able to control many anxiety states. "So until we have more doctors, nurses and clinics throughout the territory, we should interfere as little as possible with the only medical aid which is within reach."

Stoves, Refrigerators Used for 15 Years

WASHINGTON — An analysis of data gathered by the Census Bureau indicates that American families use electric refrigerators and gas or electric ranges, when bought new, for 15 years before replacement. New washing machines are replaced after nine years. Secondhand appliances are kept only half as long as new appliances except stoves longer than urban families.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

(Bruno Kearns is on vacation. In place of his regular Press Box Column a feature column by one of the national wire service writers will be substituted.)

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International

Frank Thomas, a rangy infielder with the Pittsburgh Pirates, seems ready today to make up for four years of frustration.

There were times in those years when Thomas, who chose baseball over the priesthood, thought he had made the wrong decision. Hailed as the man to replace Ralph Kiner, he never was able to live up to the billing.

But he is, at least, a "new" Thomas this season.

With the campaign just half over, the six-foot, three-inch third baseman has battered 24 homers and knocked in 68 runs to lead the National League in both departments.

Thomas, who was born in the shadows of Forbes Field, broke in impressively in 1953. While he batted only .255, he smashed 102 runs across the plate and belted 30 home runs. But never since then has he come within shouting distance of those figures. In the past four years his best marks were 25 homers and 94 runs batted in—dropping to 23 and 89 respectively last season.

There were two faulting principles. Either he left the men on the bases, or the case a great deal of the time, the Pirates were too weak to put them there. This year the Pirates had a tremendous upsurge. Their long-cultivated youth program is beginning to pay off.

It has become fairly obvious that they won't win the pennant. But they're trying with talents which aren't too far away and the men are getting on base.

And Thomas is driving them home.

It's been a long haul," he says. "But you have a lot of learning to do after you reach the major leagues."

STUDIED FOR PRIESTHOOD

Big Frank has studied hard, and, at times, grimly, since the days when he turned his back on the priesthood.

"I was an altar boy at St. Agnes Church," he recalls. "I spent four years preparing for the priesthood. I went to school at Niagara Falls and then took six months of my novitiate at New Baltimore, Pa. But then I decided I couldn't be fair either to myself or the priesthood while baseball still was so much on my mind."

The Cleveland Indians made a bid for his services but Thomas, at the urging of a local priest, notified the Pirates and they raised the ante to $3,200. Frank took the money and paid off the mortgage on his parents' home.

Then came five years in the minors. At Tallahassee in the Georgia-Florida League he led in runs batted in with 132. Then came stretches at Davenport . . . Waco . . . Charleston . . . and to New Orleans of the Southern Association. There, in 1952, he led the league with 35 homers and 131 runs batted in and finally was taken up to Pittsburgh to stay in 1953.

"I went into a slump and George Sisler straightened me out," he says in recalling that promising rookie season.

But then, when they thought he was the man to fill the departed Kiner's shoes, Thomas started sliding downhill. This year, at last, he is going without a letup and even Frank feels that his day has come. Small wonder, either, when you remember that here is a player who always closes with a rush.

NCAA Picks Louisville Again

Cage Tourney Sites Listed

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Recommended sites for the four regional and championship basketball tournaments in 1959 were announced today by the NCAA Executive Committee. Louisville, Ky., was recommended for a second year for the championship tournament to be played March 20-21.

The committee recommended Charlotte, N. C., for a second year

Berkley, Oaks Legion Winners

Royal Oak moved into a tie for 3rd place with Birmingham and Berkley took over 4th with victories in Junior Legion baseball last night.

It was an easy night for Royal Oak which started early towards an 11-0 whipping of Rochester. Gary Bryce flipped five-hit ball while garnering two bingles himself. The Oaks meet Birmingham Saturday night in a makeup contest.

Berkley clinched its 3-2 victory over Milford early but had to hold off a 6th inning threat by the losers. Victor Al Krumm left two runners stranded after giving up a run in that frame. Krumm fanned 11 and matched teammate Sonny St. Onge with two hits. Berkley is 4-4 in loop play.

for the Eastern District. Evanston, Ill., was recommended for the Middle Eastern District; either Lawrence or Manhattan, Kan., for the Middle West and San Francisco for the Far West.

Lexington, Ky., was host for the Middle East District this year and Manhattan had the Middle-west. The Far West tournament was in San Francisco's Cow Palace.

All district tournaments will be played March 13-14.

A. C. "Dutch" Lonborg, chairman of the basketball committee, said it would be unusual if the NCAA Executive Committee did not accept the recommendations of his committee.

The NCAA Executive Committee meets in Denver Aug. 24.

Birmingham Girl, 14, Gets Ace at Edgewood

Edgewood Country Club had its first hole-in-one of the season Tuesday afternoon and it took a 14-year-old Birmingham girl to turn the trick.

Pat Rae Hull, who has been playing golf since she was 10 years old, ace the 168-yard 6th hole at Edgewood as her mother, Mrs. Marian Hull, and four other bystanders witnessed the shot. Pat used her driver to make the hole-in-one.

The Hulls live at 1067 Wakefield Dr.

Vacation Ends, Tigers Return to Duty

Bengals Begin Eastern Swing at Washington

Frank Lary Nominated to Face Nats Tonight in Series Opener

WASHINGTON (U)—Duty is calling the Detroit Tigers again and the chips will be down from now on.

With their All-Star game vacation at an end, the Tigers open an eastern swing tonight against the Washington Senators. This begins the showdown for the Tigers to learn if they're a good team or just another for 1958.

The big idea — of overhauling the New York Yankees now 11½ games ahead — is of course on the stupendous side.

But with a record of 16 victories in 25 games in the exact month since Bill Norman became their manager, the Tigers have at least some precedent to go on for a solid finish.

The Washington series is the resumption of a road trip on which Detroit so far has had an even split. The Tigers divided four games with Cleveland and Chicago before the All-Star game.

Frank Lary, shooting for his ninth win against seven losses, is to pitch for Detroit tonight. His foe will be Camillo Pascual (4-4).

The Tigers are holding to fourth place by a game and a half over Cleveland. They are half a game out of second, which is shared by Boston and Kansas City.

General Manager John McHale is on a tour of the Tigers' farm clubs. Before leaving, however, he gave little hope that he might pick up some strong reinforcements for the rest of the season.

Two youngsters in particular have been burning up the bushes as pitchers. They are Jerry Davis, with a 10-4 record at Charleston, and Joe Granda, 10-1 at Birmingham. But McHale said they are probably too young and inexperienced to be brought up this early.

If for one reason only, this Eastern invasion by Detroit should bring out dramatics.

From Washington the Tigers go on to a series with Baltimore and then they go to the place where they have enjoyed their finest hours of this season, New York.

It was the sensational series sweep over the Yankees last month which gave the Tigers their surprising lead of zip and their fans a new dream.

Valdes Scores TKO of Carter

SPokane (AP)—Nino Valdes responded to a swat on the pants from his manager with a right to the chin of Harold Carter last night and jumped right back into the heavyweight title picture.

Valdes, behind on points, got the spank along with stern orders in Spanish from Manager Bobby Gleason to get going in the ninth round. He quickly got the message and laid out Carter cold in 1:40 of the round after dropping him for an eight count seconds before.

Referee Joe August didn't even bother to count as Carter went down on his face and rolled over on his back. He raised Valdes' hand, then scrawled "TKO" across his score card.

Thus, it became an official technical knockout at that moment regardless of what Carter did. It developed he did nothing but remain unconscious for another 60 seconds, then wobble out of the ring.

"He was paralyzed when he hit on his head at the end and he'd have broken his neck if it hadn't been for the apron on the floor," said Dr. William Anderson, the ring physician.

4-Pounder Puts Up 15-Minute Battle

"Just a few minutes more fishing," last night for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joanne Hartline, 31½ Ferry street, produced the biggest angling thrill of her life for the misses. "We had been fishing at Seymour lake, from a boat, then decided to try a few casts from the dock," reported Mrs. Hartline.

All of a sudden, things happened. A big pasci hit Joanne's jitterbug, put on a real acrobatic show, she says. "It took 15 minutes time to net it," she added. They quit, then.

The prize was a 20-inch long, 4-pounds, one-ounce small-mouth. Mrs. Hartline's all-time biggest fish.

Indians Rout Yankees, 12-2

Tribe, Dodgers Easy Victors

United Press International
Although he admits he is not a pull hitter, it didn't take big Steve Bilko long to find the range at the Los Angeles Coliseum "shooting gallery."

Inserted into the Dodgers' starting lineup last night by manager Walt Alston, the hulking, moon-faced first baseman from Nanticoke, Pa., unfolded a three-run homer over the left field screen in the opening inning to help sink the Milwaukee Braves 10-3.

It was the first time Bilko had graced the Dodgers' starting lineup at Los Angeles, where he was a local hero the last three years while playing in the Pacific Coast League. He hit 56 home runs for the Los Angeles Angels last year, so was overjoyed when the Cincinnati Reds traded him to the Dodgers last month.

Bilko must have spent his mid-season "vacation" taking target practice, for in his first time at bat against the Braves' Carlton Willey last night he lofted a shot over the screen while 32,337 fans went wild. Big Steve then drove in another run in the fourth inning on a sacrifice fly.

Norm Larker, who moved to left field to make room for Bilko in the lineup, and John Roseboro added three hits each as the Dodgers rolled up a 10-2 lead in the first four innings. Rookie Stan Williams limited the Braves to four hits in posting his fourth triumph against three losses to please owner Walter O'Malley who has been threatening a "drastic shake up."

It was the Dodgers' eighth victory in 10 meetings with the Braves, who now lead second-place San Francisco by only a half game.

In Wednesday's only American League game, the Cleveland Indians broke a 1-1 tie with seven runs in the eighth inning and went on to hammer the New York Yankees 12-2 under the lights at Yankee Stadium.

It was a happy homecoming for new Cleveland Manager Joe Gordon. The ex-Yankees second baseman smiled proudly as the Indians routed Whitey Ford during their wild eighth-inning barrage, that included a pair of ground-rule doubles and a home run by Mickey Vernon. The Tribe then added four more runs off reliever Virgil Trucks in the ninth.

Cal McLish, who allowed only five hits before being removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth, received credit for his first victory over the Yankees in three years. It was the Yankees' sixth straight loss at home.

Three doubleheaders are scheduled today as all teams swing back into action after the All-Star break. In the American League, the Indians and Yankees play a day-night twinbill, Kansas City is at Baltimore for a two-night doubleheader, and Detroit is at Washington and Chicago at Boston in night games.

In National League night games, Philadelphia is at St. Louis, Milwaukee at Los Angeles, and Cincinnati at San Francisco. Pittsburgh and Chicago played an afternoon doubleheader on the Cubs' stomping grounds. The Redlegs won an exhibition at Seattle last night, 6-2.

The only team to make a player change yesterday was St. Louis. The Cards optioned young relief pitcher Billy Muffett to Omaha and added hurlers Bob Mabe and Chuck Stobbs. Stobbs was acquired from Washington on waivers.

Cleveland ..... 608 100 676-31
New York ..... 618 800 3-7

SAFE BY A NOSE — Bill Skowron of the Yankees loses his cap and digs a furrow in the basepath as he slides into base after slugging a 2nd-inning triple in game last night against Indians. Vic Power leaves base to take wide throw while Frank Crosetti crouches in coaching box. Cleveland romped 12-2.

MackKay Opens Davis Cup Campaign

TORONTO (AP)—Barry MackKay will try to take another step today along the path the U. S. Davis Cup team hopes will lead to the challenge round again against Australia.

The Dayton, Ohio, youngster, ranked No. 5 in his country, opens play in the opening match of the singles competition against Don Fontana, Canada's No. 2 North America Zone semifinal round.

Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., seeded eighth in the United States, meets Canadian champion Bob Bedard of Sherbrook, Quebec, in the second singles match today.

The doubles are scheduled Friday and the remaining two singles matches Saturday. The opponents will be switched for the final singles unless the series is clinched on the second day of the matches at the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club. The team captains then can substitute any other players if agreeable to each other.

The doubles pairing looms as Bedard and Fontana against MackKay and Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., although neither captain Lorne Main of Canada nor Perry Jones of the United States have committed themselves.

The towering MackKay, 22, is the only member of the youthful U. S. team with previous Davis Cup experience. He and Giammalva, 24, have played together in international tournaments the last two years and were third ranked in 1956-57.

The U. S. team, which defeated the Canadians at Victoria in 1956, rates as a 2-1 favorite to repeat the victory. MackKay, who reached the semifinals at Wimbledon in the doubles and the quarter-finals of the singles, said yesterday he was confident his team would win, but he wouldn't say by what margin.

Lane Now Waging War With Pittsburgh GM

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, said in his daily column today that "General Managers Joe L. Brown and Frank Lane are headed for a feud and all because of a man they both fired, Bobby Bragan."

Lane is the general manager of the Cleveland Indians while Brown holds a similar post with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Abrams said that Lane sent

Brown a letter that "drips with sarcasm."

Abrams said Lane sent him a copy of the letter. Abrams disclosed its contents in his column.

"Dear Joe: I think you certainly should qualify as an expert as you were the first to release Bragan. Please come over and give me the benefit of the superior knowledge you displayed in your publicized statement of July 1 as to what kind of material we have."

"It's nice to know that, but a comparatively short distance away, there is one so well qualified to adjudge our material. Whenever I feel the need for your assistance, I'll call on you."

"However, I think you are much better qualified to pass opinion on the kind of material possessed by Pittsburgh, don't you?"

"Sincerely, Frank C. Lane"

"P.S.—Nice that you have things going so well at Pittsburgh. Joe, that you have time to keep us up with your very valued opinions.—FCL."

Area Fisherman Lands Big Gar, Loses Husky Bass

There's one area fisherman who figures there's no justice in what happened to him this week, while angling at Little Silver Lake.

Lin Lincicum, 2254 Fairport, hooked, battled and landed a 46-inch, 8½-pound garfish with a net much too small to accommodate a whopper specimen. But his peevish wasn't over the size of the net.

After taking the gar, Lin tied into a big bass. The husky bronzeback gave him a real fight, he reported, but never came to creel.

Lincicum had the bass near the boat several times, but couldn't get it in the too-small net. Finally, the fish just snapped the hook off and departed. "He was a beauty," Lin told his wife. "I'm going back after him."

Doctoring Your Golf

By Dr. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Trouble in the Three-quarter Range.

DIAGNOSIS: Sloppy Looseness.

TREATMENT: First, let's define the three-quarter shot. For the great bulk of golfers, it's that shot from 90 to 50 yards out—too close in to hit a full shot with any club except possibly the wedge, and too far for the shots we think of as pitches and chips. The experts sometimes play three-quarter shots from much farther out, but we're not concerned with that here. The technique is the same, anyway.

The thing to remember about these shots is that you must be firm and crisp with them. Cut the swing to three-quarter length. Don't try to ease up to three-quarter power with a full backswing. That's where the looseness and sloppiness enters the picture. True enough, you do ease up some on the power for this shot. But basically you want to cut down on swing length.

Choke down on the grip about two inches. A seven- or eight-iron will usually be your best club choice. Shorten backswing and followthrough by about a foot each. Be firm. Be crisp.

Texans Having Day for Contender Harris

CONROE, Tex. (AP) — They're coming to Conroe by the thousands today to pay tribute to Roy Harris, their favorite boxing son who, to hear these Texans tell it, is going to take care of heavy-weight champion Floyd Patterson Aug. 18, it's Roy Harris Day.

There'll be an excursion to Cut and Shoot, the little community where the Harrises have been fighting it out with each other for years. Harris lives there, teaches school and boxes on the side. He never has been licked in the ring.

Only One State Golfer Left in Publinx

Andonian Bows to 1956 Champ in First Match

Val Blech From Flint Sole Michigan Survivor in National Tourney

Special to The Pontiac Press
CHICAGO — Val Blech of Flint carried Michigan's hopes into today's 3rd round of the 33rd annual U.S.G.A. National Public Links golf tournament at Silver Lake Country Club.

Blech was the only Michigan golfer to survive the first two rounds of match play Wednesday as Mike Andonian of Pontiac bowed out in the first round, Jack Aldred of Ferndale lost in the 2nd and Sam Lima of East Detroit fell in the first.

Andonian, Michigan's three-time Publinx champion and a mathematics instructor at Pontiac Central High, lost to J. H. (June) Buxbaum of Memphis, the 1956 National Public Links champ, by a 5-4 margin.

Mike failed to win a hole from the southern star during the abbreviated match. Buxbaum was even with regulation figures when the match ended on the 14th green while Andonian was five over par.

Blech easily disposed of Emil Esposito of Chicago, 6-4, in the first round, but then had to go the limit to beat Joe Roach of Los Angeles, 1 up in 20 holes, in his afternoon match.

Aldred defeated Dr. Sam Valuck of Denver, 1 up in 19 holes, in his morning round before bowing to Charles Kline of Roswell, N.M., 1 up, in the 2nd head-to-head match.

Bob Faulkenberry of Oklahoma City eliminated Lima in the opening round, 3-1. Blech was slated to meet Faulkenberry this morning.

Sixteen survivors entered today's double round of match play, including 19-year-old Don Essig of Indianapolis, the defending champion and qualifying medalist.

Joining Blech and Essig in today's do-or-die competition are Art Melnikoff of Chicago; Gene Hansen of Minneapolis; Bub Ludlow of Indianapolis; Charles Kline of Seattle; Ron Lucetti of San Francisco; Warren Strout of Speedway, Ind.; Junie Buxbaum of Memphis; Bob Faulkenberry of Oklahoma City; Bob Kietzke of Chicago; Bob Patterson of Portland Ore.

Right now they all have something in common—they want to win the Public Links championship.

Dr. Corley Paces State Amateur Qualifiers

Par Is Tough at Charlevoix

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP) — The amateur golfers around Michigan always have said "You can't beat Belvedere for scenic beauty."

Matter of fact, they can't beat it—period.

Out of the more than 220 competitors who played in yesterday's first of two 18-hole qualifying rounds, only one was able to register a score of par or better.

As the qualifying chase resumed today in the State Amateur tournament with another 18-hole round, a Jackson heart specialist, Dr. Robert W. Corley, held a two-stroke lead in the race for medalist honors.

The 37-year-old physician, making his ninth State Amateur appearance, shot a 36-35-71, one-under-par at the Belvedere Golf Club. The rolling layout is 6,614 yards long and plays to a par of 36-35-72.

So rugged was the going that about two-thirds of the starting field required 80 or more strokes to get around, but Dr. Corley, a finalist in 1956 when Glenn Johnson, of Grosse Ile, captured his third straight amateur title, solved the Belvedere course, at least for one day.

The slender doctor capitalized on a great putting round in which he needed only 28 strokes on the greens—and only four putts on the last four holes.

The field will be trimmed to the low 63 scorers after completion of 36-hole qualifying action. Then defending champion Lloyd Syron, 22-year-old June graduate from Notre Dame, joins the field for three days of head-to-head match play. The husky Pontiac youngster fired a 73 in a practice round yesterday, but was scrambling all the way.

One former champion failed to start. Sam Kocsis dropped out, leaving five former titlists in the field. Johnson, whose string of championships was snapped at three last year, fired a first round 74 as did Lou Wendrow of Lansing and Fred Turner of Flint and eight others.

Giant Tom Draper of Royal Oak, the 1949 champion, had a 75.

Closest to Dr. Corley were Tony Lopucki of Romulus, Ed Kelbel of Folsom, Steve Miller and Mike Hill of Jackson—all at 75. Lopucki is the 40-year-old engineer who never has gotten past the second round in five previous attempts.

Kelbel, 20, is the Northern Michigan Junior champion and a stu-

Texas Loop Prexy Called 'Negative'

DALLAS (AP) — Allen Russell, owner of the Austin club of the Texas League Wednesday criticized Dick Butler, president of the League, for "negative statements." But the league prexy said he didn't intend to "argue in the newspapers" and made no answer.

Russell's ire had come from statements Butler confirmed he made at Baltimore yesterday where he had gone to attend the major league All-Star Game.

There Butler was quoted as saying the Texas League couldn't operate next year under the present setup and that the major leagues would have to take over the minors. He also suggested alignment of three Texas League cities—Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth—with four from the Southern Assn. and one from the Sally League to form a Class AAA league.

Palmer Tunes Up With 7-Under 64

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Arnold Palmer leads a field of 145 today into the three-day Insurance City Open Golf tournament. Palmer, the 1958 Masters champion from Latrobe, Pa., kept his partisans happy yesterday with a seven under par 31-33-64, the lowest practice round score. Par for the course is 35-35-71.

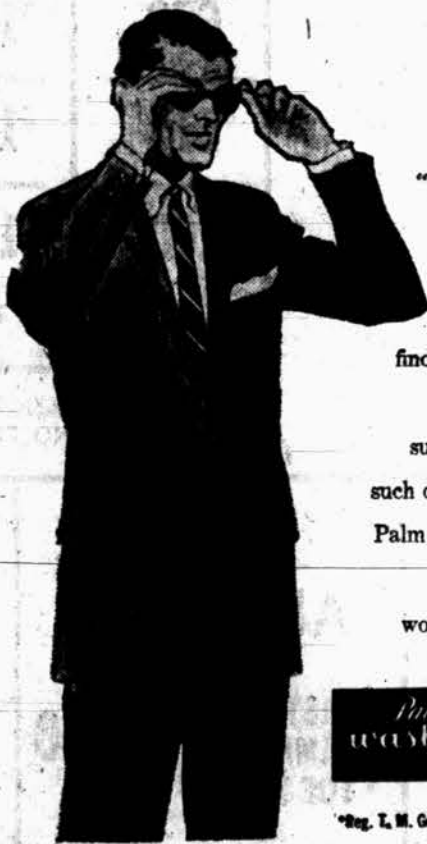

TAKES LEAD — Holing out on the 18th, Dr. Bob Corley of Jackson finished with a 71 to take the lead in the 1st round of qualifying in Michigan State Amateur tourney at Charlevoix yesterday. Charles Kendrick, tourney chairman from Detroit, who played with Corley, looks on. Kendrick had 84.

Sports Bill Faces Problems

WASHINGTON (U) — Questions raised by Senators may sideline sports legislation backed by Casey Stengel, the Yankee manager, and star baseball players.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said today he is against the house-passed measure in its present form. The bill would give pro team sports certain important exemptions from the antitrust laws.

"It is clearly a club owners' bill," O'Mahoney told reporters. "It is not a fans' bill, nor a players' bill, nor a bill for the businessmen in any city who would like to have a Major League team."

O'Mahoney, a member of the Senate Antitrust Subcommittee that opened hearings yesterday, also charged that Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and club owners influenced players to support the bill.

Subcommittee chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said several parts of the measure "worry me considerably."

To seek a "blanket waiver of the Antitrust and Federal Communications laws," Kefauver said, "is a big request."

Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo), another member, said he wanted to learn much more, too, before acting on the measure.

The Subcommittee plans to hear from other baseball witnesses, including Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson, as well as spokesmen for other pro sports.

Extended questioning would push the bill into the background as the Senate approaches adjournment, expected within a month or so.

And if it doesn't pass this year, the legislation would have to start all over again in the newly elected Congress which convenes next January.

As passed by the House, it would exempt from Antitrust law the contract reserve clause, player draft, trades and territorial right contract reserve clause, player draft, trades and territorial rights now exercised by professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey.

While declaring strictly commercial activities subject to regulation, it would give men in charge of those sports authority to regulate television and radio broadcasts of their games.

The Subcommittee and a full house audience yesterday heard Stengel, Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle, Stan Musial, Robin Roberts and Eddie Yost.

In general, the star witnesses testified in support of the house bill. They said it would allow baseball to continue practices which they contended have made the game a success but which might be challenged under Antitrust statutes.

The Supreme Court has held baseball is outside antitrust jurisdiction. But in a separate ruling that pro football is covered by the same laws, the court indicated any sport—including baseball—might also be held subject to regulation in future decisions.

Stengel didn't specifically endorse the exemption bill. Stengel, which he had added to the language of baseball, is curvy.

When Kefauver inquired why baseball owners want any new law, the sage of Yankee Stadium wound up and uncorked this one: "I wouldn't know, but I imagine to keep baseball going as high as baseball is a sport, they have gone into baseball and from the baseball angle."

Water Follies Offers Tryouts

Area Divers Eligible to Compete for Show Berths This Weekend

Sam Snyder, producer of the famed Water Follies of 1958, has announced he will give tryouts to any Pontiac divers interested in becoming a member of his troupe during the local appearance of the show at Wisner Stadium Friday through Sunday.

The Follies will have six internationally famous divers performing in the three-day show here led by South American champion Charles Aitkin, but Snyder says there is a scarcity of top caliber professional divers.

Men and women between the ages of 18 and 25 who can dive into shallow water are eligible to try out. Traveling professionals use the same 10-foot diving board but land in only six feet of water while amateurs use from 12 to 15 feet of water.

The Water Follies, which comes here from the Brussels World Fair, is presented on the largest combined stage and pool in the world. The structure measures 175 feet in overall length. The show will be sponsored by the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

Union Defeats Jewelers, 7-3

CIO Coasts to Victory in Class A Loop; PBI Wins 'B' Game, 9-2

CIO Local 594 chased seven runners across the plate in the first three innings and coasted to a 7-3 victory over front-running Shaw's Jewelers in Class A City League baseball action Wednesday at Wisner Field.

The union club, currently holding down 2nd place in the city loop, jumped on starting pitcher Jerry Taylor for two runs in the 1st inning and drove him to the showers in the 2nd stanza with a four-run barrage.

Dave Gaddis relieved Taylor with one man retired in the 2nd and quelled the uprising, but not in time to stop all the damage. The big blow in the 2nd frame was Bud Hayward's two-run homer.

Jim Addis pitched the distance for the CIO and gave up seven hits. Taylor was charged with the defeat.

Green State JC Champion, Team Title to Birmingham

ANN ARBOR (U) — Two young golfers from Birmingham and two others from Ann Arbor and Jackson will take a plane ride to Arizona next month for the Jaycee International tournament.

State champion Pete Green, 17, winner of the Michigan tournament that closed yesterday, will head the foursome. The International will be at Tucson Aug. 17-25.

Green came out state winner by two strokes, despite the handicap of two out-of-bounds shots on his first also of the closing round at Barton Hills Country Club. He finished with a six-over-par 158. He shot 74-78.

Tied as runnersup were Tom Grace of Birmingham and Chuck Newton of Ann Arbor at 152. Grace had 75-77 and Newton two 76s. Dick Zimmerman of Jackson was fourth with 79-74-153.

Birmingham's entries made history by retaining the four-man team trophy by 10 strokes. With Bud Badger's 155 and a 163 by Gary Mow, its team aggregate was 620. Jackson was second. Birmingham is the first to win twice.

The three alternate positions for the Tucson tournament were taken by Badger, Keith Richardson of Adrian and Len Bridge of Grand Rapids.

Richardson won the first alternate spot with his 154. Bridge won the second in a sudden-death playoff. Bridge tied at 155 with Badger and Bill Yates of Kalamazoo. He won the second alternate position by paring the first hole. Badger won the third by paring the third hole.

Al Lefer of Jackson wound up with 156 and John Todd of Kalamazoo and Tom McMullen of Ann Arbor finished with 157 each. Charles Canterbury of Waterford, another of the first-day leading group, ran up an 86 to finish with 344.

European Ports Prepare for Seaway

(Last of Series)
TOLEDO, Ohio (U) — In varying degrees, American ports on the Great Lakes are planning to beef up their facilities in anticipation of the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway and increased trade with foreign nations.

Basically, the task is preparing for the bigger ocean vessels which the seaway will bring and generating enough cargo to keep them coming.

In a three-week tour of European ports, Toledo Blade writer Alan E. Schoedel learned that our neighbors across the sea also are building for increased business. In addition, the European ports have some special problems of their own.

Consider Amsterdam. This port on the Zuider Zee, connected to the North Sea by an 11-mile canal, is doing an extensive remodeling job and chipping away at some old shipping patterns which it considers detrimental.

The remodeling includes widening of the North Sea entrance to the canal and enlarging the port by adding six square miles of harbor area to the present three square miles.

As for the shipping patterns, what once was a boon is now a headache.

Frans Adriance, economist for Amsterdam's Port Authority, explained that for decades the general practice of Dutch shipping lines has been to use Amsterdam as their port for cargo from India, Africa, the Dutch West Indies and South and Central America.

Rotterdam, 50 miles away and facing the North Sea, became established as the port for Dutch lines serving North America.

This was all right with Amsterdam while the rich Dutch colonial trade was flourishing.

But with Indonesia no longer under Dutch control, the Indonesian government making deliberate efforts to steer trade away from the Netherlands and with trade to North America expanding, Amsterdam is hurting.

Last year, Amsterdam handled 11,113,000 tons of seagoing cargo while Rotterdam handled six times that much.

"I think," said economist Adriance, "that day after day it's becoming more important to get more shipping lines moving between Amsterdam and North America."

Rotterdam, shattered in World War II, has done a tremendous rebuilding job in the years since and now claims to rank second only to New York in shipping. In pre-war years, its tonnage was 31.5 million tons a year. In 1952 the tonnage was 39.5 million tons and now it's almost twice that.

Another war-hammered port, Hamburg, West Germany, has spent 115 million dollars of a 166-million-dollar program to restore and improve its facilities.

A sprawling, industrial city, Hamburg's difficulty is that it has lost the vast eastern portion of its hinterland through the Communist occupation of East Germany.

The city is on the Elbe River, 65 miles from the North Sea. Moving upstream from Hamburg, the Elbe swings southeast and back of the Iron Curtain.

It is in that territory that Hamburg once had its link with the Middle Land Canal, an east-west waterway crossing Germany from the industrial Ruhr. Hamburg now is cut off at the spot where it once received large amounts of cargo from the Ruhr.

The city is trying to break the stranglehold by urging construction of an 180-mile canal, extending south through free German territory to tie in with the Middle Land Canal.

But the West German government opposes the plan because it would seem to suggest that East Germany will always remain split off.

Antwerp, Belgium, is an encouraging sight for advocates of seaway trade. With national help, Antwerp is beginning a 10-year, 114-million-dollar project of expanding its man-made harbor, cut out of solid land.

Already, vessels in the Great Lakes trade are becoming increasingly familiar in the 13,000-acre maze of docks, canals and industry which make up the port. Before the war, only one or two ships a month went from Antwerp to the Lakes. Last year there were 144.

Least pleasure be forgotten in connection with the seaway, activity in a shipyard near Rotterdam should be mentioned.

There, crews are working on the first of two 100-passenger ships the Dutch-Norwegian Fjell-Oran lines are building especially for seaway use.

The vessel will be 400 feet long with a 62-foot beam and will be named for the 18-year-old second daughter of Queen Juliana.

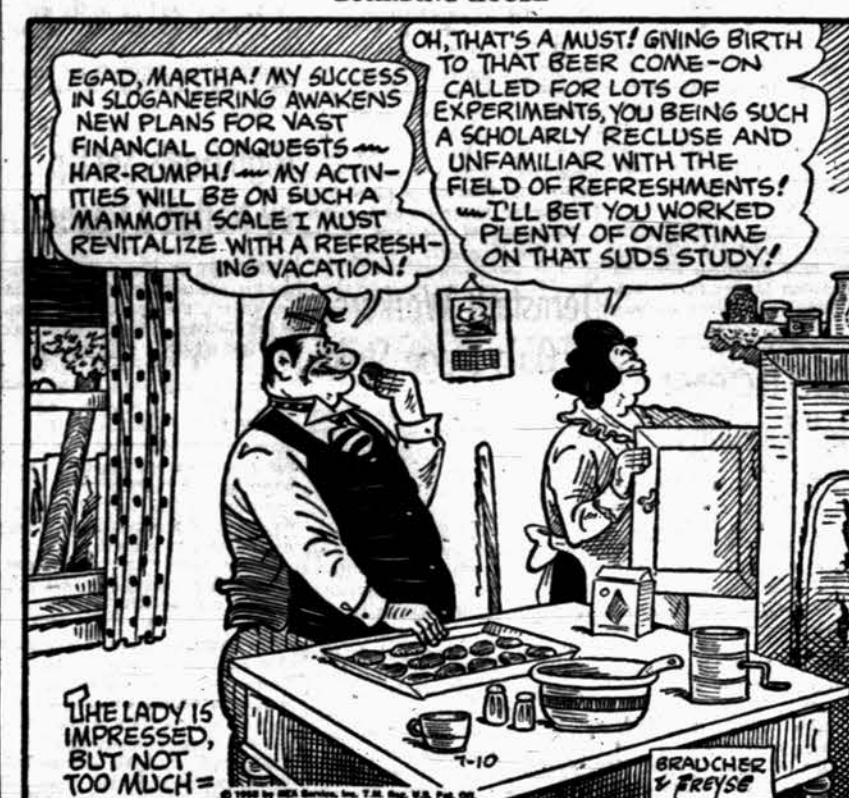

Scheduled for completion next March, it may be the first major passenger ship through the seaway in 1959.

Men to Breathe Water Sought

Scientists Dream of Reversing Evolution for Space Age

By RENNIE TAYLOR

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Space scientists are weighing the idea of trying to breed a special type of man or animal who could breathe water or gas instead of air.

In the place of lungs he might have gills like a fish. Or he might have lungs which could be filled temporarily with water and be converted back to air breathing later.

Even some kind of breathing organ which would enable him to stay alive in an atmosphere of ammonia or methane gas is an item for consideration.

These far-reaching possibilities were brought out today by Dr. Blaine Levendahl, zoologist from the University of California at Los Angeles. He talked to a reporter after addressing the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences.

To produce a creature like this, scientists would have to speed up enormously the process of evolution. Dr. Levendahl made no specific suggestions as to how it should be undertaken. He expressed the belief, however, that researchers already have the means to make a start in that direction.

Evolutionary theory holds that all life started in the water; that the forefathers of all air-breathers had gills. It took many millions of years for them to develop lungs and move to dry land. So the production of a water-breathing man would be equivalent to turning the evolutionary timeclock forward until it completed a full circle.

A man with gills and with the ability to tolerate a full load of water in all his body cavities would be protected against the crushing effects of being shot into space. He could better withstand the shock of hitting the atmosphere at high speed on his return to earth, Dr. Levendahl said.

Even without gills, but with lungs and other spaces that could be filled with water for a while he could go through these critical phases of space travel easily, the zoologist asserted.

Walking Helps Heal Gangrene of the Legs

NEW YORK — Circulation, the scientific journal of the American Heart Association, reports that gangrene of the feet and legs has been successfully treated by letting the patient walk.

It reports that, at one medical center, amputations were avoided and the gangrenous condition healed in 21 out of 22 cases when the patients were encouraged to get out of bed and walk despite their ailment.

'ESP' Debuts Friday Night

Blindfolded Contestants Will Attempt to Identify Unseen Objects

By JACK GAVER

NEW YORK (UPI)—If that new contest show called "ESP," due Friday night on the ABC network, feels the need of a theme song, it might do worse than an old Jimmy Durante ditty.

Remember the one in which Jimmy sang about getting the feeling that you wanted to go, but then you got the feeling you ought to stay? Sounds like extra-sensory perception, doesn't it? And that's what "ESP" is about.

About the so-called sixth sense. Of course, it isn't any such thing because the words, extra-sensory perception, put it out of the realm of the physical senses.

ESP TESTED
Mysterious as it may seem, the ESP quality in individuals is something that can be tested, analyzed and measured, and this makes such a TV show possible, according to Dr. Carroll B. Nash, consultant for the program. Dr. Nash, a professor of biology, conducts a course in parapsychology at the Jesuits' St. Joseph College in Philadelphia.

"I've been working in this field since 1937," Dr. Nash said. "I was permitted to establish an official parapsychology laboratory at the college in 1956, and during the past academic year I was permitted to give a regular college-credit course in the subject. I will continue the course."

"Despite its name, psychologists are most skeptical of parapsychology. On the other hand, physicists, who are engaged in the most exact science of all, are extremely sympathetic."

TESTS CONTESTANTS
Dr. Nash has the task, already well under way although the program has not yet been on the air, of testing and selecting the contestants who will be on the program. He also has to be present at each live Friday night telecast (9:30 p.m.) from New York to prepare the items the isolation-boothed contestants are supposed to be extra-sensory about.

The producer of the new program, George Wolf, is being unaccountably close-mouthed about how this game is played. Unaccountably, because he used to be a publicity man and because the secret will be out anyway as soon as the first show hits the air.

However, it may be assumed that the three contestants who will participate on each show will be asked to guess—pardon—"percept," to coin a verb—something like numbers or letters. Possibly the spots on a roll of dice, or could it be a matter of playing cards?

Whatever the modus operandi, that estimable Hollywood star, Vincent Price, who has proven to be highly perceptive about the modus operandi, is it just possible that Price's poise and speaking voice alone will make the thing worthwhile.

The three participants on the program vie for cash prizes. The survivor of one show can come back and continue on others until bested. In addition there is an ESP gimmick for home viewers each week with $100,000 at stake. But don't hold your breath until someone wins that one.

No U.S. match producing factory has ever been destroyed by fire.

HOSTS NEW SHOW—Vincent Price adds another first in a long and distinguished career as star of stage, screen, television, scholar, lecturer and art collector and critic, when he debuts as host of ABC-TV's new TV series, "ESP." The show bows 9:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Does Durocher Want to Be Manager Again?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — I have seen somebody leave Leo Durocher completely speechless. As this compares with turning off Niagara Falls, or even Zsa Zsa Gabor, I had better explain.

There was a name-calling contest raging between Leo the Lip, the loud-lunged umpire-baiter, the boy orator of the dugouts, and his bibulous buddy, Toots Shor, his fat friend.

"You are not only a slimy, creepy crumb but you're a piece of raisin cake," remarked Toots offhandedly. "You are a baseball imbecile!"

"Imbecile!" Leo bawled like a stuck pig. "Why, you walrus, when we beat Cleveland in the Series in four games, you said I was a genius—thanks to your help."

Toots bared his choppers at Leo and got a pretty piece of strategy.

"You bald-headed Hollywood slob," snarled Toots. "If I were to name the 10 greatest baseball managers..."

"Name them!" challenged The Lip. "I'll probably be No. 11. Who's first, you hippopotamus? Rigney, or Stengel?"

"Why you imbecile," bellowed Toots, "the greatest living baseball manager is Leo Durocher!"

Leo gasped, choked and had no answer. His obvious appreciation of the compliment convinced listeners that he would like to be a baseball manager again.

And a few nights later, when I was in Hollywood for Mike Romanoff's "Mr. Citizen" party—one of the greatest soirees ever held anywhere—I asked Laraine Day about rumors that Leo might again boss the Giants or Dodgers—if he can get a stock deal. "I keep hearing talk about it," she admitted. "But don't you ever want me to sleep nights again?"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Bob Hope wants to put on "Roberta" at the Brussels Fair, but the State Dept. refuses to pay for the troupe's transportation... Sugar Ray Robinson will study acting... Steve Allen leaves for Europe Thursday with his two sons; Jayne Meadows meets them in Paris later... Roxanne Arlen says a fur jacket was stolen from her dressing room, "but I can't get the police interested."

Noel Coward has quietly been dropping in to watch "My Fair Lady." (A possible replacement?)... The new liner Atlantic has a suite reserved for Brigitte Bardot in September... Actress Erin O'Brien says she enjoyed movie-making in Spain—but Charles Coburn, 81, kept her out dancing till 5 a.m.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Any job is easy, if you work hard enough at it—H. C. Diefenbach... That's earl, brother.

Still Wed to Rossellini

ROME (AP) — A prosecutor's notice of appeal today delayed an annulment of the marriage of Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini.

The presiding judge of Rome's First District Court announced today that the court had annulled the eight-year marriage of the Swedish film star and the Italian movie director.

But Judge Mario Elia said the public prosecutor had announced intention to appeal the decision and that it would not become final until the appeal was heard.

Elia made the announcement after an extended conference, with the other two judges who heard the suit, brought by Rossellini.

The Italian movie man in his suit had contended that Miss Bergman's Mexican divorce from Dr. Peter Lindstrom in 1950 was not recognized by Swedish or Italian law and therefore their subsequent Mexican proxy marriage had never existed.

Elia said the court had accepted.

Water of Angel Falls Doesn't Go Over Cliff

CARACAS — The water of Angel Falls, which lies in wild jungle south of the Orinoco River in Venezuela, does not flow over the edge of the cliff, but bursts out of Devil Mountain 200 to 300 feet below the rim.

The water gushes out in tremendous spouts and falls 3,212 feet — twice the height of the Empire State Building. The falls, highest in the world, were named after the late Jimmy Angel, who discovered them in 1932 when his plane crashed-landed nearby.
