Bus Strike Cuts Off Service in Pontiac Tonight

Monkey Survives 55-Mile Space Shot

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sam the space monkey, alive and kicking after a violent rocket ride 55 miles up, arrives today at Norfolk, Va.

There he'll set his feet on terra firma again for the first time since 11:15 a.m. Friday, when a "Little Joe" rocket shot him aloft from Wallops Island, Va.

This was Sam's dizzying odyssey from that point:

His space capsule, the kind future space men will ride in their first attempts to orbit the earth, roared to a height of 19 miles.

There an escape rocket ignited, blasted loose from the main booster rocket and carried the capsule on up to a height of 55 miles. Testing this escape mechanism, a key safety device for future astronauts, was the main purpose of Sam's journey. It worked perfectly.

For a few seconds the seven-pound monkey, in his form cushioned cradle, was traveling 3,600 miles an hour. The pressure and strain was enormous compared to sea level conditions.

Then Sam tumbled earthward in the capsule. At 20,000 feet a small parachute blossomed and steadied the vehicle. At 10,000 feet the main parachute mushroomed and lowered the capsule into the Atlantic 200 miles east of Wallops Island. It had taken just 13 minutes from takeoff.

A radio beacon and a dye marker guided a Navy destroyer, the Borie, to the spot where the capsule bobbed and tossed in eight foot waves. The capsule was hauled aboard in about two hours.

But Sam still was imprisoned, and the destroyer crew was reluctant to let him out for fear of damaging delicate instruments. Sam had a 40-hour supply of oxygen.

SEA TROUBLE

For a time the destroyer tried to transfer the one-ton capsule to a nearby Navy Landing Ship Dock, the Ft. Mandan, which had a veterinarian aboard. But the seas were running too high.

★ ★ ★

Finally, with the vet giving advice by radio and with further instructions from Wallops Island, the destroyer officers removed the monkey from the capsule. This was six hours after the launching.

"Alive and kicking," came the word from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which conducted the experiment.

Sam spent the night in the destroyer's sick bay, as it steamed toward Norfolk. For supper he got half an apple, half an orange and a cup of water. He ate and drank eagerly.

From Norfolk, Sam will be flown to the School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base, Tex. His name comes from the school's initials. The monkey was born there 30 months ago.

★ ★ ★

There scientists will study Sam for any effects his initiation into space flight may have caused.

Promise Ideas for Steel Peace

Government Mediators to Act at Face-to-Face Session Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government mediators promised to offer some steel settlement proposals today at the first face-to-face meeting of industry and union negotiators held since Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Director Joseph F. Finnegan of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said in advance "We'll have some suggestions." He did not spell them out, but said his team of mediators has been broaching peace plans to both sides right along anyway.

Finnegan explained that separate talks he has presided over daily since last Tuesday with the industry and then the Steelworkers Union have been exploratory and "routine mediation."

He said he has been trying to reconcile conflicting cost estimates with "the slide rule boys" —or the technicians on such matters as insurance and pensions.

LITTLE OPTIMISM

There seemed to be little ground to be optimistic for a prompt settlement as called for Thursday night by President Eisenhower. The President said the public simply won't stand much longer warfare in the steel industry.

Goodfellows Sell Papers to Brighten Yule

Needy Families and Children Will Benefit From Area Effort

Goodfellows were on the streets throughout the city and in several surrounding communities selling The Pontiac Press in their annual Christmas season drive to raise money for needy families and their children.

Besides Pontiac, sales were under way in Waterford, Highland and Addison townships and Avondale.

★ ★ ★

More than 50 members of the Metropolitan Club of Pontiac, made up of city employes and mailmen, will be covering their "routes" on Pontiac street corners.

Sale headquarters has been set up at the club's hall on Yale avenue near Baldwin.

★ ★ ★

The newsboys expect to sell over 5,000 Goodfellow editions of the paper in Pontiac.

Another 2,500 editions are expected to be sold in Waterford Township today.

Some 100 businessmen, civic service club members and volunteers will distribute the papers until dark.

MORE NEEDY FAMILIES

Last year's sale netted $2,000. With more needy families listed this year, Waterford Goodfellows will try to top that mark.

★ ★ ★

Township headquarters has been set up at Wheeler's Grocery, 4260 Dixie Hwy.

Avondale Goodfellows will hold forth at four major Avon Township intersections today as they did last night.

They will be found along Auburn road at Rochester, Crooks and Adams roads, as well as the South boulevard-Adams road intersection.

William Richards is sale chairman in the Avondale area.

★ ★ ★

Highland Goodfellows will take up their posts on M59 at Duck Lake road, Milford road, Green Ridge road, at the stoplight in Highland and in Clyde.

Chairman of sales in Highland Township is George Volkert.

★ ★ ★

The sale started in Addison Township last night and continues through today, according to sale chairman Elmer Powell.

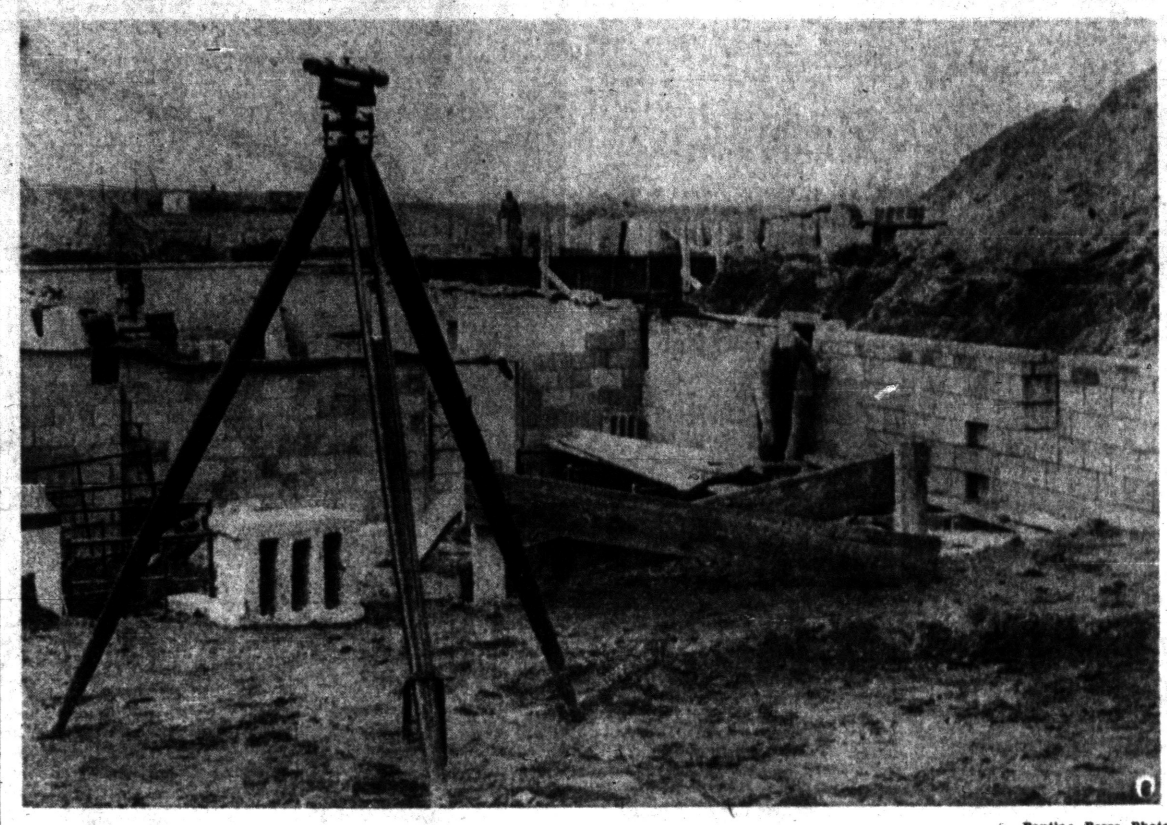

LEONARD, LAKEVILLE

Goodfellows will be stationed at the main intersections in Leonard and Lakeville, and at Campbell's Corners.

★ ★ ★

Aside from aiding underprivileged families, sale proceeds will be used for toys for needy children and childrens' Christmas parties in the different communities.

Located north of Highland road (M59) and centered along the main east-west runway, the building is scheduled to open early next fall.

Await Warrants in Numbers Raid

Police Say 11 Nabbed at GMC Plant Were in Two Rings

Warrants against 11 men arrested in a numbers ring raid at General Motors Truck and Coach Division Plant No. 2 were expected to be issued sometime today.

Police claim the 11 arrested yesterday were members of two numbers rings operating in the plant.

They were arrested for investigation of conspiracy to violate state gambling laws.

According to Lt. William Nesbitt, head of the vice squad, the rings were doing an estimated $50,000 business yearly.

CALLED RINGLEADERS

Ringleaders of the two groups, according to Nesbitt, were Claude Day, 32, of 180 Quick St., and Robert L. McNeary, 36, of 431 Raeburn St.

Police said McNeary's group operated in the sheet metal division of the plant, Day's in the truck division.

Other alleged members of McNeary's ring arrested were: Charles Milliman, 55, 736 Riverside Dr.; George Ford, 65, 491 Luther St.; Harold Mozingo, 39, 90 Draper Ave.; Claude H. McMillan, 50, 361 Ferry St.; John A. Freeman, 49, 827 Alberta St.;

Eyes Better Life for Grandchildren

Ike Talks Summit in Italy

ROME (AP) — President Eisenhower discussed Western summit prospects today with Italy's Premier after pledging to strive for "a better life" for his grandchildren than he had himself.

Eisenhower, in a jovial mood despite Rome's continuing rain, met with Prime Minister Antonio Segni to review decisions expected at the Paris Western summit talks Dec. 19.

The conference with Segni, Eisenhower's second since arriving in Rome Friday, lasted nearly two hours at the Premier's office ending just before lunch time.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen that Segni and Italian Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella outlined their views on the forthcoming Paris meeting. He also reported that the Italians gave their views of European problems generally.

Answering questions, Hagerty said the Italian government did not request a role as an observer at the Paris meeting which is to bring together Eisenhower and the leaders of Britain, France and West Germany.

Earlier, the President had made his pledge to seek a better life for his grandchildren in a short talk at the U.S. Embassy.

Several hundred persons, mostly Italian government workers, cheered Eisenhower as he emerged and drove directly back to the Quirinal Palace, where he is staying during the 48-hour Rome visit.

The President reportedly assured the Italian leaders the United States intends to press ahead determinedly with a policy of building Europe's defenses against communism.

Standing before about 900 Italian and American employes of the U.S. Embassy here, Eisenhower made a solemn pledge to "try to interpret America to other people a little more emphatically, a little bit more accurately than has been done."

LAYS WREATH

The President went to the embassy directly from laying a wreath at the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier.

This was the first round of activities on his second rain-whipped day in this Eternal City.

Eisenhower seemed to exude confidence that he would achieve the goal he has set for himself on this 22,000-mile tour to three continents.

The persistent downpour which attended his arrival Friday continued but it appeared to have no effect on the President's high spirit.

He waved smilingly from the rolled-down window of his closed car to admiring Romans as he rode to and from the wreath-laying ceremony and beamed at shouts of "Viva Ike." The rain kept the

Cold Will Arrive After Departure of Rain Tonight

The rain was expected to end tonight with temperatures turning colder, the Weather Bureau reported.

A few snow flurries, continued cold and partly cloudy is the forecast for Sunday. The mercury will dip to near 30 tonight and rise to 36 tomorrow.

Monday will be mostly cloudy with scattered snow flurries and little change in temperature, the high 35, the low Monday night 22.

Southwesterly winds at 5 m.p.h. will shift to northwest at 10-15 miles late today, continuing northerly tonight and tomorrow.

Thirty-eight was the lowest reading in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The thermometer read 41 at 1 p.m.

Plan Courtesy Rides During Bus Strike

A courtesy ride service was being contemplated today by Pontiac City Lines drivers whose scheduled strike would leave about 4,000 regular passengers busless Monday morning.

★ ★ ★

Drivers are thinking of using their own cars to pick up regular passengers along regularly-scheduled routes, said John Sytsma, president of bus drivers' Local 1097.

The courtesy cars would be marked by signs and the service would be free. "But we would be willing to accept donations," Sytsma added.

★ ★ ★

Sytsma said the union would check with the city's Legal Department before a final decision on the courtesy service.

Riders Won't Feel the Pinch Until Monday

City Lines Drivers and Mechanics to Walk Out After Final Run Today

The first bus strike in six years was scheduled to hit Pontiac today.

Drivers and mechanics for Pontiac City Lines, Inc. were ordered to strike early this evening, after the last regularly scheduled run is completed at 6:45 p.m.

If the strike continues over the weekend—and there are no signs that it won't—approximately 4,000 daily riders will first feel the pinch Monday morning, when bus runs normally would begin again.

Similar strikes were ordered yesterday in Saginaw and Kalamazoo, where there are bus lines operated by affiliates of National City Lines, Inc., parent of the Pontiac bus company.

The order came from Walter P. Wall, international representative of the Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators of America (AFL-CIO), and affects approximately 110 of its members, including 35 drivers and eight mechanics in Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

John Sytsma, president of Pontiac Local 1097, said he would notify Pontiac City Lines today of the Union's intent to strike.

Details of the strike will be outlined to local members at a 7:30 meeting tonight in the Roosevelt Hotel, Sytsma said.

The strike order came after collapse of an 11th-hour negotiating session in Saginaw yesterday to prevent a strike there.

SAGINAW TARGET

Although contracts are signed separately in each city, the Union had made Saginaw its prime target in a general drive for higher wages.

The Saginaw fight had begun a month ago with the Union asking a 48-cent-an-hour package increase.

Sytsma, a member of the Union's negotiating team, said various lower offers were suggested yesterday by the Union — package offers ranging from 26 to 30 cents an hour in increased wages and benefits.

The top wage now is reportedly

500 Fete Sen. Philip Hart at Dinner

Top Michigan Democrats, attending a birthday testimonial dinner for U.S. Senator Philip A. Hart, (D-Mich), heard a prediction that birth control would be an issue in picking the 1960 presidential candidate.

★ ★ ★

The prediction came from Minnesota's freshman Democratic senator, Eugene J. McCarthy, featured speaker at the dinner last night in Detroit's Sheraton-Cadillac Hotel.

McCarthy told the Democratic crowd of 500 who paid $35 a plate to honor Hart that the junior Michigan senator had quickly won a reputation for integrity and good judgement.

★ ★ ★

"If he votes against you, you are disturbed and begin to wonder if you have done the right thing," McCarthy said.

NOT CAMPAIGN ISSUE

McCarthy said the birth control controversy would come up in the conventions but would not become a campaign issue.

Proceeds of more than $10,000 from the dinner will go to a personal fund to cover part of Hart's expenses.

Civil Defense Observance to Stress Shelters Here

The importance of fallout shelters will be stressed during Pontiac's observance of National Civil Defense Day Monday.

Robert A. Stierer, assistant city manager, will urge shelters in Pontiac homes during a 2½-hour presentation at the southeast corner of Saginaw and Huron streets.

On display from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. will be a GMC Truck & Coach Division panel truck, used as a civil defense rescue vehicle, and the city's new airport crash truck.

This is the city's latest government surplus acquisition. Priced at $40,000 when new seven years ago, Pontiac purchased it for $100 from the Air Force.

★ ★ ★

Handy on a year-round basis at the airport, the truck's life-saving and fire-fighting equipment allows it to double as a mobile, civil defense weapon.

The vehicles will be displayed at Tel-Huron Shopping Center from 2 to 4 p.m.

At 11 a.m. radiological devices to detect radioactive fallout will be demonstrated by two public health workers, Roland Bourke and Ralph Florio. They are member's of the city's radiological monitor team.

★ ★ ★

During the program, literature will be distributed describing fallout shelters recommended by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization (OCDM).

FOCAL POINT

The OCDM has selected Pontiac as a focal point in its drive to persuade householders across the nation to have shelters constructed in their basements.

The OCDM has offered to build a $500 shelter for some Pontiac family if the family, in turn, will allow the general public in to inspect it.

Stierer said the response to the offer, made two weeks ago, has been impressive. A dozen families have expressed interest so far, he said.

★ ★ ★

In connection with National Civil Defense Day — which has as its theme "Peace through Preparedness" — the function of fallout shelters was stressed by Lea Hoegh, OCDM director.

"In an atomic war, blast heat and initial radiation could kill millions close to ground zero of the nuclear explosion.

"Many more millions — everybody else, in fact—could be threatened by radioactive fallout. But most of these could be saved if they had adequate protection from fallout."

Bus Strike to Sever City Service Tonight

$1.72 an hour for drivers in Pontiac and Kalamazoo; $1.71 for Saginaw drivers; and $1.86 for mechanics in all three cities.

Maurice R. Biddle, operations manager for National City Lines, said the bus lines are losing money and cannot meet the Union demands.

Union negotiators said the company offered only to renew provisions of existing contracts which expired March 31 in Pontiac and Kalamazoo and Oct. 31 in Saginaw.

Earl Dreasher, manager of Pontiac City Lines, complained that the union had not negotiated faithfully here in an attempt to avert the strike locally.

The last bargaining session was almost two months ago, he said.

At that time, the union was asking a 58-cent package increase, which Dreasher termed "fantastic" in light of the company's slim margin of profit.

Faced with this demand, Dreasher said, management had to begin its bargaining by offering no wage increase at all.

"There was no other position we could take at that point."

Dreasher said the company was willing to reopen negotiations locally "at any time the union requests."

The company hiked adult fares to a quarter Nov. 1. At that time it reported that operating costs were eating up more than 99 per cent of revenues.

The company had carried 129,000 passengers in October, but the automotive shutdown (caused by the steel strike) helped push the passenger load down to 97,000 last month, Dreasher said.

The union's last pay raise was seven-cents an hour, Sytsma said, obtained when a two-year contract was signed in 1957.

"Our wages are low—much too low and it's time that we bore down a bit to raise them."

The State Labor Mediation Board conducted a strike vote in the three cities this spring. In March, the Pontiac local had voted on its own to strike.

Jurors Leave Gifts Behind at Courthouse

Jurors on the 1956 fall panel left behind them not only records when they completed their service Friday.

For the popular Mrs. Ada Dodson, the blind lady who runs the concessions stand in the Courthouse, they chipped in and left her $10 in a red coin purse.

For Larry A. Girard, court clerk for presiding Circuit Judge William J. Beer, a present of an engraved silver identification bracelet was the juror's token of their appreciation.

Not long ago, jurors presented Judge Beer with a thermos decanter set for his bench.

Mrs. Dodson was so thrilled with her present that she went right out and purchased a set of earrings and her birthstone of topaz for a ring.

"Jurors respect your courage, your ambition, and cheerful outlook on life. You have supplied our snacks and kept us sweet these months," jurors said in their card to Ada.

Scholle Asks: Michigan Sick?

Predicts 30 Per Cent Profit for GM; Alleges Anti-Williams Plot

ROYAL OAK (AP)—August Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO, contends that General Motors Corp. will show a 30 per cent profit for 1959, based on the experience of its first 10 months, if it suffers no sharp setback for steel-short November and December.

Scholle, a Royal Oak precinct delegate, was a substitute speaker in that city in one of six county-wide meetings of Democratic precinct and party workers.

They were meeting to lay plans for next year's statewide survey of political strength.

Citing what he said may be a GM profit of 30 per cent, Scholle said: "And they say there is a climate unfavorable to industry in Michigan."

'CONCOCTED' CAMPAIGN

The labor leader said a campaign to picture Michigan as a state with a government unfriendly to business "was concocted over at Birmingham Country Club" several years ago.

He said GM executives attended the meeting and the campaign was designed expressly "to get (Gov. G. Mennen) Williams" and to make citizens "get so tired of all this we would say 'vote in a 4 per cent sales tax and protect GM.'"

"Then," Scholle claimed, "they (GM) could make 45 per cent profit."

★ ★ ★

Scholle declined to say who attended the Birmingham meeting he reported, saying that if he named those attending it would permit people to figure out who was his source of information.

Bradley Claims Figure Settled

U. S. Steel Will Pay Survivors $1,250,000 in Lake Tragedy

CLEVELAND (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. has agreed to pay $1,250,000 in settlement of damage claims from the freighter Carl D. Bradley disaster of last year.

★ ★ ★

Attorneys for U.S. Steel and plaintiffs agreed on the amount in U.S. District Court last night.

The agreement, one of the fastest in maritime history for a case of its scope, was probably the last major chapter in the grim Bradley story.

The Bradley, a 600-foot freighter, sank with all but two of her 35 crewmen in a furious Lake Michigan storm on Nov. 18, 1958. It was one of the worst tragedies in Great Lakes shipping history.

★ ★ ★

Despite extensive investigations, including a prolonged U.S. Coast Guard hearing, no final conclusions were reached on the cause of the Bradleys sinking.

Probably no further attempts will be made to clear up the mystery. Attorneys have indicated as much.

The big ship, a limestone carrier for the Bradley Transportation Co. of Rogers City, an affiliate of U.S. Steel, went down in many fathoms of water after apparently breaking in two in gale winds in the vicinity of Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Efforts to refloat the hulk last summer were in vain. When she sank, the Bradley was upbound empty of cargo, heading for her home port.

The $1,250,000 settlement compares to the original total claims of 6 million or more dollars made by survivors of the 33 lost seamen. Thirty-five damage suits were filed.

Survivors included 23 widows and more than 50 children.

The agreement was finalized at 6:30 p.m.—a year and 16 days to almost the exact minute of the first radio report of the Bradleys peril. She was lost overnight on Nov. 18 of last year and was never again seen.

★ ★ ★

Judge Charles J. McNamee now is to name a commissioner, probably next week, who will hold hearings on individual claims and apportion damages.

The Day in Birmingham

Commission to Receive Twelve-Town Proposal

BIRMINGHAM — After a three-year wait—"delayed by litigation initiated in 1956" — the Drainage Board of the Twelve-Town Drain will seek right-of-way approval from the City Commission at Monday night's meeting.

The resolution, already drafted by the Board, will be submitted for Commission adoption at 8 p. m. The right-of-way is on Coolidge Highway from Maple road to Windemere road.

City Manager L. R. Gare will recommend also at the meeting that the contract for the fencing of a new baseball diamond at Eton Park be awarded to the Arrow Fence Co. with a low bid of $1,370.

The Forestry and Parks Department's cost estimate of the project was $1,850. Upon completion of the diamond, the Little League will reimburse the city for its portion of the fence work, which amounts to $555, according to Charles W. Gale, department superintendent.

★ ★ ★

T. C. Brien, superintendent of the Department of Public Works, will recommend that six new vehicles for the city's equipment pool be purchased from low bidder North Chevrolet Co. at a price of $7,640 after trade-in.

To be replaced are three police cars, one suburban truck for the engineering field crew, one pickup truck in the Sewer Department and a pickup truck for the Forestry Department.

The city issued 26 building permits for construction valued at $608,880 during the month of November.

They include 14 for alterations to single family residences, three new single family homes, alteration of two churches, a business establishment, two new private garages and the razing of one single family residence.

The total number of permits issued in November 1958 was 19. They were evaluated at $167,975.

'Ford for VP' Drive Launched

800 Republicans Hear Broomfield Speak of 'Brilliant Leader'

A boom to boost Michigan Congressman Gerald R. Ford as a vice presidential candidate was launched by state Republicans last night, among them U.S. Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County).

More than 800 GOP members turned out at the Latin Quarter in Detroit to honor Ford and officially kick off the "Ford for VP" campaign.

Broomfield, in introducing Ford, described his colleague as "a brilliant leader."

He said the 46-year-old legislator from Grand Rapids is a man "that many people, not only in Michigan, but in Washington, would like to see as a Republican vice presidential candidate."

Broomfield's introduction touched off a four-minute demonstration with participants parading about the room with signs and banners. Balloons and confetti filled the air.

Michigan Republicans hope to obtain a Nixon-Ford ticket for the 1960 campaign.

Ford indicated he was willing to become a favorite-son candidate for the second slot on the national party ticket.

"If the Republicans of Michigan accord me the high honor as a candidate for this office in 1960, I can assure you I will give you my best," he said.

Red Cross Issues Urgent Appeal for Blood Donors

The Oakland County Chapter of the American Red Cross today issued an appeal for blood donors to visit the Red Cross Bloodmobile unit from 2 to 5 and 6 to 8 p.m. Dec. 14 at the Elks' Temple.

"Due to the recent production shutdowns in local factories, several Red Cross Bloodmobile visits were cancelled," said Mrs. William H. Gorsline, blood donor recruitment chairman.

"But the needs and demands for whole blood continue. Our hospitals must have an adequate supply."

Acceptable are donors between 21 and 60 who have not given blood the past two months.

"A pint of blood may mean the difference between life and death," said Mrs. Gorsline. Appointments may be made by calling the chapter.

Handle 795 Cases; Paid $29,000

Circuit Jurors Set Records

Circuit Court jurors went home yesterday, unaware they had established several records in the annals of the county's highest court.

At the close of the fall term Friday, jurors had disposed of a record 795 cases. This included approximately 436 civil cases and 359 criminal cases.

They were paid a record $29,000 in fees at $8 a day and mileage costs at 6 cents mile for their duties as citizens.

They put in one of the longest terms in the history of the court, according to presiding Circuit Judge William J. Beer, who dismissed them amidst plenty of fanfare yesterday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

"We never strive in this court to put justice on automation," the judge said in his farewell remarks.

"We're not as interested in quantity as much as we are in quality," he said. "And as far as I've seen you work, your quality has been 100 per cent."

"I thank you for your services on behalf of Judge Doty, Judge Holland, Judge Adams, Judge Hughes and myself. You are excused from further duty."

'MERRY CHRISTMAS'

Jurors applauded. One male juror wished Judge Beer a Merry Christmas and jurors departed from his courtroom.

During the parting remarks, Prosecutor George F. Taylor praised the jurors for their work during the "longest term we have had in my 16 years experience in this court."

"I'm happy to say you've helped us dispose of every case that was ready for trial," Taylor said.

★ ★ ★

Some jurors watched Taylor's induction as prosecutor Tuesday.

Some 90 jurors were called to their first day of duty Sept. 22.

This was the highest number called as the circuit was for the first time embraced with five judges.

Courthouse observers said this was one of the major reasons it was possible to settle so many cases.

42-DAY SESSION

Actually, about 75 jurors ended up serving the entire term, taking into account those excused from duty.

Counting the jury week of Tuesday through Friday (Mondays are motion days in Circuit Court), the jurors served 42 days in all.

Louis E. Fairbrother, acting assignment clerk for the court, said jurors cleared the 436 civil jury cases from some 1,500 jury and nonjury cases on the docket when the term began.

The next jury won't be impaneled until February.

In Day's group, police said, were: Otis J. Harris, 57, 489 Harvey St.; Cary R. Childs, 37, 281 Rockwell Ave.; and Booker T. Spells, 39, 462 Orchard Lake Ave.

Working as undercover men in the investigation were Patrolman Karl Kilmer of the vice squad and Frank Durso, 39, former police reservist.

Durso was sworn into the department as a special police officer for the investigation.

ALL ARE RELEASED

Oakland County Prosecutor George F. Taylor released all 11 men after they made formal statements. All but Harris admitted being involved, Nesbitt said.

They were ordered to appear at the prosecutor's office at 9 a.m. Monday.

The raid was conducted with the cooperation of plant police. All the men had bet slips in their possession when taken into custody, Nesbitt said.

Dope Addicts Better Watch Out

Santa Swings 'Mean' Bell

NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus has his eye on bad boys and girls, and he isn't waiting for Christmas Eve to leave sticks and stones in their stockings.

★ ★ ★

Already Santa has helped arrest 24 narcotics suspects.

A rather tired and frowsy Santa stood on Harlem street corners the past two weeks clanging his bell and singing "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer."

In his pockets, he carried lollipops. In his hand, he rattled a container for coins. In his head, he carried a photo and data file on drug traffickers.

Always near Santa were his helpers — two down-and-out loafers. When Santa spotted a familiar face in the crowd, he would shift his bell from one hand to the other. The loafers would saunter over, discreetly separate the face from the crowd, and search him.

★ ★ ★

Sometimes they found that the suspect's holiday cheer stemmed from the dope in his pocket — in which case the suspect was told the facts of life: this was not the real Santa Claus at all but just a play-like Santa, namely narcotics squad detective Edward Egan. The helpers were detectives Richard Pardo and Salvatore Grosso.

Friday, as Pardo and Grosso closed in on Kathleen Johnson, 27, the woman dropped 10 envelopes, each containing enough heroin for one injection. Pardo and Grosso pretended to overlook the envelopes, but Santa Claus Egan shuffled over and absent-mindedly picked them up.

At a police station, the woman demanded: "What are you pulling me in for? You haven't got any evidence!"

"Wait 'til Santy comes," replied Pardo.

Man Missing in Oxford Found Shot to Death

An Oxford Township man missing since late Sunday was found dead of a shotgun wound today near his home.

Oakland County sheriff's deputies said they believed John Burket Jr., 34, of 1909 Drahner Rd., was the victim of a hunting accident.

He was reportedly found by his father and another relative in a swampy area along Drahner road about a mile from his home.

Burket was last seen by his brother-in-law while hunting last Sunday afternoon.

★ ★ ★

A preliminary search of the area failed to turn him up and deputies issued a missing person report on him Tuesday.

Detectives said Burket's shotgun was found near his body.

They said underbrush was found wedged against the trigger.

TOUR ROME

Maj. John Eisenhower and his wife, Barbara, behaved today like tourists in Rome.

They wanted to go sightseeing. Rain kept them from such outdoor monuments as the Colosseum and the Roman Forum, but they went to the Vatican Museum and the Basilica of St. Peter.

★ ★ ★

Italy's Communist party today complained that the City of Rome had not given President Eisenhower a big enough welcome.

★ ★ ★

Italian newspapers of all political shades today were unanimous in hailing President Eisenhower's goodwill mission.

Headlines reflected the new attitude adopted by Italian Communists, who once rioted when Eisenhower visited Rome as commander of NATO.

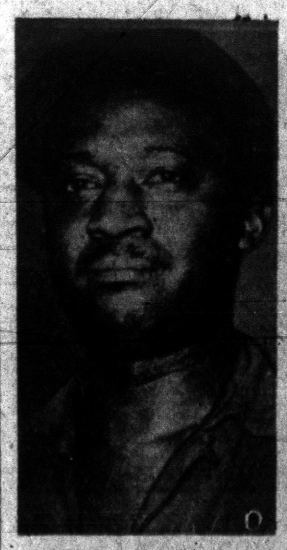

President Eisenhower had a truly wonderful time.

That's the way the President himself put it in expressing thanks to his hosts, Italy's President and Mrs. Giovanni Gronchi, after dinner and a reception in his honor Friday night at the 400-year-old Quirinal Palace.

It was a swanky affair which brought out the high society of the political world, as well as bishops and other members of the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic Church.

Why Did Crosbys Feud? 'We Need a Long Rest'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I think we all need a good, long rest. We've just about had it."

That's how Gary Crosby summed it up after Bing's boys flew home Friday, their six-month song and dance tour abruptly broken off in Montreal.

★ ★ ★

Gary, 26, arrived first, followed on a later plane by Lindsay, 21, and twins Phillip and Dennis, 25.

The latter three denied reports published in Montreal that the quartet had a fiery argument that led to blows in their dressing room there Thursday night.

"We'd often discuss the act after the show and like red-blooded Irish boys we'd start to argue," Phillip told a reporter. "Someone must have heard us yell and thought we were throwing punches."

★ ★ ★

Gary, glum when he first stepped off the earlier plane, said: "I just don't want to talk about it. I want to go home and lie down that's all."

He denied one report that he had been punched in the nose in the argument.

"I'll leave all the talking to the other boys," he said. As far as I'm concerned, nothing happened. They can talk about it if they want."

Will the act continue?

"Everything is up to the other three."

Gary was gravel-voiced and sniffly from a cold. He said his "bad throat" was one reason they cut short their 10-day Montreal appearance after three days.

Cancer-Smoking Row Refueled

New Evidence Links Number of Cigarettes, Tissue Changes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—There was fresh fuel today for a dispute between medical and tobacco industry researchers over what constitutes a link between lung cancer and cigarette smoking.

New anatomical evidence shows a direct relation between abnormal tissue changes which precede cancer, as well as lung cancer itself, and the number of cigarettes smoked, a scientist told the American Medical Assn. Friday.

★ ★ ★

His report drew immediate fire from the Tobacco Research Committee. Its spokesman declared that numerous other experts do not agree with the finding.

Dr. Oscar Auerbach, chief of laboratory service at the Veterans Administration Hospital in East Orange, N.J., made these points in a report to an AMA clinical gathering:

Studies of 17,597 lung tissue samples from 402 men who died in VA hospital "seem to us to indicate that cigarette smoking is today a major factor in the causation of lung cancer."

Sixty-three of the deaths resulted from lung cancer. All 63 men smoked tobacco, and 60 used cigarettes.

★ ★ ★

Of he 339 patients dying from other causes, 238 had smoked half a pack or more cigarettes a day. Lung tissue from this group showed cell changes which "probably represent a change toward cancer."

Few changes appeared in lung cells of 55 who smoked little or none.

Auerbach, who also is an associate professor at New York Medical College, drew a conclusion that lung cancer and conditions leading to it "depend almost completely on the number of cigarettes smoked."

Car Sale Tax Take Jumps $1,000,000

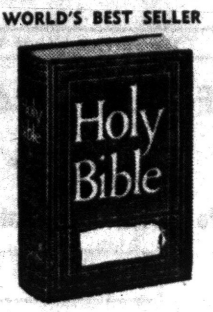

LANSING (AP)—Use tax collections on motor vehicle transactions are running slightly more than one million dollars ahead of the $3,353,000 collected at this time last year, Sec. of State James M. Hare reported.

Hare said the increase is partially due to the fact that a 4 per cent use tax is still being collected on vehicles sold between two nondealers and on cars brought in from another state.

He noted that the extra cent use tax on such transactions was not ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Hare said many persons are unaware of this and have been balking at paying the 4 per cent levy.

Collections have also been boosted by an increase in the number of transactions from 270,000 last year to 303,800 in 1959.

How Can State Stop Slaughter?

High Traffic Toll During December Will Receive News Dramatization

A prayer for safe driving.

Doubling of penalties for moving traffic violations.

★ ★ ★

These were some of the suggestions offered for a campaign to cut the slaughter on Michigan highways over the holiday season.

F. Granger Weil, executive vice president of the Port Huron Times Herald and chairman of the Traffic Safety Committee of the Michigan Press Assn., called the meeting with Gov. Williams and state law enforcement chiefs.

Newsmen and broadcasters agreed to dramatize the tragedy of highway deaths in hopes of saving lives.

★ ★ ★

"It makes me shudder to talk of cold statistics and to think we have to call this meeting to try to save perhaps a half a hundred lives," Weil said.

"The situation calls for drastic action," Williams said. "Traditionally, December claims around 170 lives on our highways. It is a season of joy and happiness but for many it can be turned into a time of sorrow by a single driving error."

James Moses, publisher of the Marshall Chronicle, suggested the prominent newspaper showing of gory accident pictures.

★ ★ ★

"I hate to see them myself," Moses said. "But perhaps the shock of it will do some good."

Sunday Sales War Rages On

Sabbath Selling Gains in Detroit, Flint Despite Religious Pressure

DETROIT (UPI) — Battles over Sunday sales continued today here and in Flint regarding food and furniture respectively.

★ ★ ★

It was reported that some Detroit-area supermarkets broke a "gentlemen's agreement" and opened for business last Sunday.

This triggered off a reaction and more and more chain markets and independent markets opened for Sunday business.

National and Food Fair said they would remain closed on Sunday while Kroger and Wrigley's said they will keep some stores open. A&P stores never have done business on Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Catholic and Protestant leaders have been asking for public support to close businesses on Sundays.

In Flint, the City Commission ignored a Chamber of Commerce request and voted 7-2 Thursday night to repeal a 1955 ordinance banning furniture and appliance sales on Sundays.

Michigan's Supreme Court ruled last month that the ordinance was constitutional. Circuit Judge Phillip Elliott has tossed out the ordinance as illegal.

★ ★ ★

Kassem Cheered Leaving Hospital

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI) —Premier Abdul Karim Kassem left the hospital Thursday after nearly two months of recovery from an attempt on his life and drove through cheering crowds in a bullet-proof car.

★ ★ ★

Kassem took the same route through Baghdad streets that he traveled Oct. 7 when a group of assailants riddled his American-built station wagon with machine-gun bullets and struck him three times with slugs in the right hand and upper shoulder.

★ ★ ★

The streets were soaked with blood in front of the defense ministry where Kassem lives, but was the blood of sacrificed sheep. Tens of thousands of shouting Iraqis greeted the Premier along his route.

Plea for Yule Gifts to Mental Patients

The Psychiatric Aide Assn. of Pontiac State Hospital again issued a plea today for Christmas gifts to mentally ill patients.

In addition to its own Patient Fund efforts, the association receives gifts from the community and wraps and distributes the presents to "those who otherwise would not be remembered."

More than 1,500 gifts were provided in 1958 through the Patients' Benefit Fund, according to Mrs. Ethel Pettibone, association president. The hospital at present cares for 3,100 patients.

IS THE COAST CLEAR? — Naturally, cats aren't allowed in a school building — not even actor cats — so principal members of the cast of "The Diary of Anne Frank" (from left) Xavier Garza, Judi Johnson and Gary Relyear were on the lookout during rehearsals at Pontiac Central High School to avoid detection. One of the parts in the play calls for a thespian feline and as luck would have it this green eyed creature showed up for an audition. He went through his part for eight weeks, hiding out in a small prop room unbeknownst to school officials. He is called Mouchi, as in the play.

Quits Top Dem Job to Boost Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Earle C. Clements of Kentucky is quitting as Democratic senatorial campaign director to boost the presidential chances of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex).

★ ★ ★

Clements' decision to resign his $25,000-a-year post is generally interpreted here as signalling the start of an intensive campaign to line up convention support for Johnson, the Senate Democratic leader.

Johnson has been touted by House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) as a Texas favorite son who would have strong following in other states. Johnson himself has said he would take a look at the situation if the convention indicates it wants him as a nominee.

However, Clements' public return to active participation in Kentucky is likely to be interpreted by other presidential aspirants as a sign that Johnson will be more than just a passive candidate whose support would be largely limited to the South.

If he follows present plans, Clements will accept appointment from incoming Gov. Bert Combs to a $12,000-a-year job as Kentucky highway commissioner. He quarterbacked Combs' primary defeat of Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler's candidate and saw his man elected in November.

In the highway post Clements would be in a position to help line up the border state's 31-vote delegation behind Johnson in the Los Angeles presidential nominating convention next July.

Clements, 63, who has won recognition as an expert organizer, has a wide acquaintance with politicians in all sections of the country. He has strong links with labor and civil rights groups which are not particularly favorable to Johnson.

To keep himself free to act as a sort of unofficial campaign manager for Johnson, Clements has told friends he does not now expect to seek the Democratic senatorial nomination to oppose GOP Sen. John Sherman Cooper next year.

Waterford Center School to Give Yule Program

The annual Christmas program of the Waterford Center Elementary School will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Waterford Township High School.

"Christmas in Other Lands" will be the theme of the program, according to director Priscillla Mason. Caroll Liberty will be accompanist.

Over 500 children will depict English, French, German and Mexican customs of the Christmas season.

One of the most outstanding units will be the sixth grade pupils' Mexican ritual of breaking the Panotta.

A huge ball extending from the ceiling and stuffed with toys is broken open, and the children scramble for the presents.

A pantomime of the French shepherds' Midnight Mass will also be portrayed on the high school stage.

The public has been invited.

New Mexican Indians built an apartment house with some 80 three-room apartments about a thousand years ago.

It is estimated that about 60 million buffalo roamed the North American continent in the 18th Century.

'Anne Frank' Cast on Stage Tonight

Play Pivots on Alley Cat's Paw

"The Diary of Anne Frank," to be produced at Pontiac Central High School at 8 tonight and at 5 p.m. Sunday, should be the cat's meow . . . if the cat doesn't fall asleep.

★ ★ ★

But that wouldn't be so bad, according to director Garth Errington, who would rather have Mouchi miss his cues than meander into the audience.

Mouchi is the name of the cat in the drama. As luck would have it, some members of the cast (their names shall not be mentioned for obvious reasons) came upon a stray feline of the alley variety wandering through school halls.

That was shortly after rehearsals began eight weeks ago.

Since then, Mouchi was hidden and sustained by his benefactors in a secret place in the school building, much like the story of Anne.

Undoubtedly many rumors have reached the ears of Principal Francis Staley. But even under his close scrutiny, stage hands and actors were able to smuggle extra milk and cheese sandwiches from the cafeteria.

"I was told," says Errington, "that the cat gained weight. "That's good," he muses, "It will fall asleep on the stage."

Errington guarantees no one in the audience will catnap through the performance.

He and the cast went to see the movie version starring Milly Perkins. Judi Johnson plays Anne in the high school production.

★ ★ ★

"Judi does a fantastic job of Anne," says Errington. "She is even better than Milly Perkins in the movie. The whole cast agreed.

MIDWEST PREMIER

According to the director, Central High School's production of "The Diary of Anne Frank" is the Midwest premier for high schools and colleges, and may even be the first time for any high school in the country.

An exact duplicate of the Broadway set has been constructed at a record cost to Central of over $1,000.

★ ★ ★

"It is the most unique, most intricate and most expensive set construction we've ever had," says Errington. "It is a four-level set with one level coming right out over the stage itself above the audience. The show demands over 400 props, which is considered unusual, also.

★ ★ ★

In the leading roles are Xavier Garza (Mr. Frank), Bruce Bishop (Mr. Van Daan), Marilyn Vernon (Mrs. Frank), Jim Baker (Peter) and Peggy Warren (Meipe).

All seats are reserved for both performances at 75 cents per ticket.

Motherhood Any Woman's Right, Claims ACLU

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union contends a judge's decree forbidding two young unwed mothers from again becoming pregnant until after they marry violates their constitutional rights.

The ACLU challenged in the Court of Appeal Thursday the probation order of Judge Michael J. Gatto of Pittsburg, Calif.

The ACLU petition declared Lucy Martinez, 24, and Lucy Turriet, 24, were jailed Nov. 10 because they had "committed motherhood without leave of the Justice Court."

The Court of Appeal ordered the young women freed from jail on habeas corpus writs. The ACLU posted $1,000 bond for each pending hearing of the appeal.

Miss Martinez, mother of six and expecting twins in a few weeks, was convicted last year of fraud in accepting aid payments for her children. Miss Turrieta, whose fourth child was born last month, was convicted on a similar charge.

Says Rickover Donated $20,000 to Charities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Post said Friday that Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, developer of the atomic submarine, has donated about $20,000 to children's charities over the past 10 years.

The newspaper said the money represents fees for speeches, magazine articles, cash awards and royalties from his book, "Education and Freedom."

The Post said Rickover broke his long silence over his charitable activities to correct an impression he is reaping personal gains from his outspoken criticism of American education.

Brazil Snuffs Out Officers' Revolution

RIO DE JANIERO, Brazil (AP) —President Juscelino Kubitschek has snuffed out the second revolt against his regime.

★ ★ ★

About 25 rebel Brazilian air force and army officers have been scattered since seizing five planes early Thursday. At least two officers fled to Argentina in a hijacked airliner and were given asylum. Several others were captured and the rest headed deep into the jungles of northwest Brazil.

"I consider the incident closed," Kubitschek said Friday, declaring that "events like these never will be repeated in our country."

The midget revolt aroused no popular support and even anti-government politicians and newspapers rallied around Kubitschek.

★ ★ ★

Several of the ringleaders were involved in a similar abortive revolt in 1956 which was crushed in 18 days. Kubitschek showed leniency and granted pardons to the officers then.

In the latest propaganda protest the officers charged the Kubitschek government with being corrupt and Communist-tainted. They flew the stolen planes to the small jungle town of Aragaracas, 1,100 miles northwest of here, and sought to rally support.

Government paratroopers took over the town and its airstrip early Friday, shortly after the rebels pulled out.

★ ★ ★

One of the rebel leaders, air force Maj. Heber Teixera, Pinto, fled to Buenos Aires in the Panair do Brasil Constellation commandeered Wednesday while on a regular passenger run from Rio to Belem, Brazil.

With him was an accomplice, Charles Herba, a civilian mechanic; and a Brazilian senator, Remy Archer, whom they had seized as a hostage.

Kubitschek said his government will try to extradite the "air pirates" from Argentina.

★ ★ ★

Archer said Teixera Pinto took over command of the airliner shortly after it left Rio and forced the four-man crew at gunpoint to alter course to Aragaracas. He said the 36 other passengers were permitted to leave the plane when it landed but that he was held incommunicado.

Grand Jury Subpoena Looms for Cohen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The county grand jury, armed with subpoenas for ex-gambling boss Mickey Cohen and a score of other witnesses, probes a gangland slaying next week.

★ ★ ★

Cohen was freed from jail Friday night, along with his 18-year-old girl friend and a crony. They had been held on suspicion of murder.

They were sitting a few feet away Wednesday night when Jack (The Enforcer) Whalen, a hoodlum notorious for his viciousness, got a bullet in his forehead.

The shooting took place at a crowded restaurant in suburban Sherman Oaks.

★ ★ ★

Still held—on traffic warrants—was cafe singer Anthony Amereno, also known as Tony Reno, 24. Police continued their search for Sam Frank Locigno, described as Cohen's "constant companion," and Joseph de Carlo, a theatrical agent who formerly managed stripper Candy Barr.

School Districts Decrease

LANSING (AP) — The number of school districts in Michigan is steadily decreasing through annexation and reorganization, the State Department of Public Instruction has reported. In the past year, 157 districts disappeared, dropping the total to 2,237.

It Seems to Me . . . .

We Face Aviation Challenge to Keep Area Up With Times

This entire area should take a new and lively interest in the local airport. In fact, calling it the "Pontiac Airport" is almost a misnomer today.

The use is County wide.

It serves a huge area.

★ ★ ★

Aviation is experiencing a tremendous upward sweep. This means Michigan, the United States and the world in general. When I was in Russia last August, we flew from Moscow to Leningrad in a jet that whirled through the ether at high speed and it carried a heap of people. They pack 'em in.

★ ★ ★

An aviation veteran said to me: "Name the three most used airports in Michigan."

"Willow Run, Metropolitan — and probably Flint," I guessed.

"Willow Run, Metropolitan and Pontiac," he replied. "Yours isn't very big, but in number of flights per month, you're a busy, busy place."

Pontiac claimed the first A-1-A airport in the United States, but we rested on our laurels. Now it's time to re-appraise or the parade will pass us by.

Some of it has.

★ ★ ★

HOMER HOSKINS tells me that work is progressing well on the control tower. We are extending the runway. But immediately we will need more ground beyond this extension for greater expansion in the future. Also, we need a north-south runway. This is self evident. The demand for commercial flights is becoming an insistent clamor and the Chamber of Commerce and the City are bringing this to the attention of the proper authorities. Our big plants want connections in all directions.

★ ★ ★

Already we are planning to rent a hangar to the Aerodynamics, Inc. company for $18,000 a year, in lieu of the $1,800 we receive today. The City will construct another hangar to accommodate the tenants who are forced out.

★ ★ ★

Willow Run flying is slowly transferring to Metropolitan, and Metropolitan is experiencing a steady demand for more jet flights. This means some of the smaller flights will ultimately be pushed out or serviced in an unsatisfactory manner because of jet priority. Some people think additional air fields will handle the huge number of other flights, leaving the commercial jets to themselves. Could Pontiac fit in here?

And what about five years away?

And how about ten?

★ ★ ★

Aviation is one of the big developments of tomorrow and progressive areas will meet the demands. Otherwise, the business will go elsewhere. I'm confident that Oakland County people in general are solidly behind expansion and modernization of the Pontiac Airport. The County must be equally interested, for we all have the same big stake.

★ ★ ★

Perhaps we've been too leisurely in our airport thinking. Willow Run and Metropolitan are very badly located for Oakland County and her expanding population. We're headed for a million people. What then? Aviation is going to be a big part of world activities and we must keep abreast. The investment of a million dollars today in aviation by this area would only be a starter.

★ ★ ★

New York, Chicago, Detroit and other cities are abandoning big airports completely for new locations in order to "keep up." The spots they leave simply fail to meet today's requirements. Fortunately, this area doesn't need to construct an entirely new airport. But we must keep pace with the world by improving what we have and improving it drastically.

★ ★ ★

I've flown more than 40,000 miles since January 1st. Everywhere I go, I see amazing and startling airport expansion and extension. Hundreds of millions of dollars are going into new runways, terminal facilities, repair depots and parking lots. The volume of air travel is simply incredible. Consider your own family — and your friends.

This area must meet the challenge.

The facts are already established.

And in Conclusion . . . .

Jottings from the well thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

How in the world did they ever get that glamorous BETSY PALMER to mouth commercials? . . . . . Hurray! In a trifle over two weeks the days start getting longer . . . . . Purely personal nomination for an especially capable and likable young man: DAVID MILLS . . . . . Some squawk about IKE's absence from the White House. The record is 137.8 days for every year he was President and it belongs to FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT . . . . . Friends told me in New York that HANK BAUER will be the first Yank cast adrift . . . . . I hear Russia readied a spectacular outer space affair for launching just before EISENHOWER left. But it must have failed. No mention was ever made. That's the difference between U.S.S.R. and U.S.A.

★ ★ ★

CASTRO just fired two more henchmen. Told them to turn in their beards . . . . . Come January, ERLE STANLEY GARDNER'S 100th book will be published. Yes, indeedy, it's about Perry Mason . . . . . FRIDAY tells me JUDY LEVINE rates nomination as an especially attractive young woman. Nomination is hereby made . . . . . Overheard in our own lobby: "The Soviets have photographed the wrong side of the moon. So what? Who wants to see a picture of the wrong side of JAYNE MANSFIELD?" . . . . . Plans are afoot to keep a large number of strategic attack missiles on freight cars on unscheduled runs so no nation can knock us out by hitting a stock pile.

★ ★ ★

Last summer at the all-star baseball game, Vice President NIXON went into the dressing room to shake hands. One player asked: "Who was that?" Told it was the Vice President, the noble athlete burst out with: "Which club?" . . . . . A penurious skinflint complained at being asked for extra money for his church. Replied the preacher: "I had a little boy once and he cost me money. He needed more things all the time. But one day he died—and now he doesn't cost me anything." The Scrooge disgorged . . . . . CASTRO is sleeping in a different spot almost every night. He's afraid of a well aimed knife or bullet.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

Faith is woven into the tradition of the Christmas tree.

Some authorities believe that the tree originated in medieval German plays when a Tree of Paradise was used to symbolize the Garden of Eden. Many believe that St. Boniface, the English missionary to Germany in the Eighth Century, offered the pagans a young fir, adorned in tribute to the Christ child, after he felled the sacred oak to the thunder god, Thor. He converted many pagans. There have been accounts that Martin Luther introduced the candlelighted tree, to symbolize the starry heavens. It is thought that German settlers in Pennsylvania brought the tree to America. Prince Albert made it fashionable in England, when he and Queen Victoria celebrated their first Christmas tree in Windsor Castle in 1841.

Today large trees add warmth to community spirit, church trees nestle gifts to the underprivileged beneath their branches, and home trees, surrounded with gifts, reflect the beauty of nature, the glory of light and the joy of giving.

Saint Was Once Reluctant Bishop

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

In the Middle Ages when a man was elected or appointed a bishop, convention demanded that he say "Nolo episcopare," which meant "I am not willing to be a bishop."

It was a modest protest showing his humility and convincing everyone all the more that he was exactly the right man for the job. Then they coaxed him and finally he broke down and allowed himself to be persuaded. This was the expected thing, a pleasant ritual to be gone through, with each side playing the game.

But Monday's saint, Ambrose, lived in the fourth century, well ahead of such empty displays of etiquette. And when he said he did not want to be bishop he meant it. It would have been a tremendous loss to Christianity if he had been able to make his refusal stick.

★ ★ ★

Ambrose was elected Bishop of Milan by accident, or by direct operation of the Holy Ghost—sometimes one looks much like the other and it is hard to tell which is which. At the time of the election Ambrose was not even a baptized Christian, although he was a believer and was being prepared for formal membership in the Church. But only as a layman.

He was a young (34) government official, governor of Liguria with his office in Milan. The election got into some pretty rough going. Ambrose thought he had better go around and try to keep peace among the voters, who were so rabidly partisan that everyone was afraid of violence among them.

As the young governor spoke his words of good calm counsel, some child in the crowd shouted "Let Ambrose be bishop!" Before Ambrose knew what had happened he had been unanimously elected. He begged to be let off, but everyone, even the Emperor, said no. He fled and hid in the home of a friend, but the friend revealed his presence.

★ ★ ★

He was baptized and a week later, on Dec. 7, 374, was consecrated bishop. It had all been against his will, but once in his new position he went all the way. He gave a small part of his property to his brother and the rest to the poor and the Church, and settled into the job at hand.

HERESY FIGHTER

The great problem then facing the Church was a heresy called Arianism, named for Arius, a priest of Alexandria. What Arius taught was that God the Father and God the Son were two separate and distinct beings; the Son was divine but not equal with the Father, and the Son had not existed from eternity.

Teeth Grinding in Sleep May Be Sign of Tetany

Daughter, six years old, grinds her teeth terribly when asleep. (Mrs. R.B.L.)

Ans.—Grinding or gnashing the teeth in sleep suggests tetany in young children and in elderly persons. In young adults it sometimes suggests impacted (unerupted) wisdom tooth.

DR. BRADY

Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for my FREE pamphlet ADULT TETANY AND GROWING PAINS. The child probably needs high calcium diet and more exposure.

Under the slightest nervous tension my palms become sweaty and it is not only embarrassing but a handicap in my work. (D.K.)

Ans.—Rub into palms and palmar surface of fingers once a day a pea-size bit of salve made of two grains of menthol, one dram formaldehyde solution, six drams lanolin and enough petrolatum to make one ounce.

SOAP, WATER

Is it safe to use secondhand baby furniture such as crib and carriage? Would washing with soap and water effectively sterilize such things? (L.McH.)

Ans.—Washing with soap and water will make furniture safe for anyone to use.

Kindly list the chief symptoms of Bright's disease. (A.O.W.)

Ans.—You had better tell the doctor your symptoms—and don't give him any help. Let him determine for himself what, if anything, ails you.

★ ★ ★

About a year ago I received your Little Lesson XVI and I am happy to say that the routine laid down in it has made a new woman of me. You should elaborate or extend some of the 32 chapters in it and publish it in regular book form. I'm sure it would be a best seller. (Mrs. T.B.E.)

Ans.—Thank you, Ma'am. I had one experience with a publisher and don't want any more. I might publish it myself, but can't spare the time from the bowling green. After all, it served you well enough as it is.

Please tell me how to remove poison spray residues from vegetables and fruits. (E.G.)

Ans.—Dissolve or mix a pint of U. S. P. Dilute Hydrochloric Acid in or with nine pints of water. This makes 1½ gallons. Rinse the fruit or vegetables in a little of this after ordinary washing. Let stand a few minutes before rinsing the acid away with running water. This removes traces of arsenic that ordinary soap and water may not remove. U. S. P. Dilute Hydrochloric Acid is 10 per cent strength.

Signed letters not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Love Isn't Only Thing That Counts

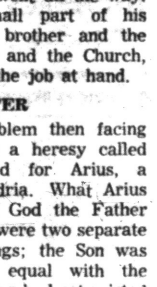

Opal is apparently a cynical writer who thinks all of our modern young people react like Esau instead of Jacob. But that is definitely not true. Smart folks think of those "proxy" votes they cast for their future unborn children. Then, like medical students, they defer marriage until they are 22 to 25. Send for the Rating Scales below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE

Case D-418 Opal D., aged 39, is a magazine writer who took me to task recently.

★ ★ ★

"Dr. Crane seems to think you can influence the course of love," she began.

CRANE

"For he urges teen-agers to rule their hearts with their heads! Since when have lovers listened to reason?

"When you are involved in a serious romance, you don't listen to your brain."

ESAU OR JACOB

In the Bible you may recall that smart Jacob was looking ahead. So he prepared a pot of delicious beans while his brother Esau was out hunting deer.

★ ★ ★

On Esau's return, Jacob stirred the fire and took the lid off the pot so the aroma would affect his impulsive brother.

Esau begged for the beans. But shrewd Jacob made him pay a big price. For Jacob insisted that Esau trade him his birthright as the firstborn, for those beans.

And Esau sold out for a mess of pottage!

A lot of teen-agers likewise don't look beyond the next date.

But Opal is very wrong if she thinks ALL young people are blind to the future.

Millions of young men and women, although ardently in love, still heed the sage advice of adult Counselors as well as their parents.

In fact, I have evidenced in their letters that thousands have stopped short of an elopement just from reading this column and using the Rating Scales mentioned below.

THOSE PROXY VOTES

"Dr. Crane, isn't love all that matters?" many infatuated lovers have pleaded.

★ ★ ★

And I have reminded them that love is definitely NOT all that matters as regards a permanently happy home.

You young folks cast the "proxy" votes of your future unborn children when you pick their other parent.

That means you must not react impulsively, like Esau, but be as shrewd as Jacob.

For those "proxy" voters will want a parent who is respected in the community and able to perform in a PTA or church group with credit to those children.

They want a Dad who can earn a creditable pay check so they can live in good homes and circulate with cultured people.

★ ★ ★

And they want a mother with poise and social graces, education and public speaking ability.

You 17-year-olds who grow infatuated can be shaken out of your hypnotic spell by the Rating Scales below. For they help give you the objective or neutral bystander's viewpoint.

REMEMBER DOCTORS

Physicians usually marry later than other classmates in high school. Why?

And why do dentists, lawyers, engineers and other professional men defer marriage till 25 or even 30, when many of their classmates eloped at 17 or 18?

Just because the doctors and others of that type use their brains. They imitate Jacob, not Esau.

And we can stimulate far more youth to do likewise by such educational columns as this one.

★ ★ ★

Girls must realize that 22 is plenty young to become a wife. So finish high school; take a year of Business College, and then work at least one year before marriage.

Send for my 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (nonprofit). Rate your date thereon.

★ ★ ★

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Inequality Under the Law Topic for Reader's Letter

Albert Mills said the Lansing Court of Appeals says if you're not guilty, you should fight to prove your innocence. According to the New York City bar association and the National Legal Aid, justice isn't equal and accessible for all in many parts of the U. S.

★ ★ ★

Since 60 per cent of defendents are unable to retain paid counsel, they must depend for their defense on court appointed attorneys and they have no funds to retain investigators. It's interesting to note that in every case in which an innocent person, wrongly convicted, has been finally exonerated, investigators have dug up the proof of their innocence.

One attorney who's a dedicated fighter for the wrongfully convicted estimates as many as 30 per cent of persons in prison didn't commit the crimes for which they're convicted. If we believe in democratic process, we won't long tolerate a situation in which a criminal case is exclusively an upper bracket privilege.

Judge Samuel Leibowitz in one of his summations to a jury said, "I hear many people calling out 'Punish the guilty!' but very few are concerned with clearing the guilty."

'Your Newspaper Has Been Unfair'

Your newspaper has run rough shod over the old newspaper axiom of reporting the news without slant or editorial comment. When a newspaper loses its independence by becoming partial to one political party or the other, or by permitting reporters to editorialize in straight news stories, or permit headline writers to draw conclusions from the story that isn't there, it ceases to be a news reporting service.

★ ★ ★

Headlines preceeding your story about the shooting of the young gas station attendant in Thursday's edition were reprehensible. The immediate tragedy is only minor and the real tragedy comes if this boy must propel himself by wheelchair the rest of his life.

★ ★ ★

But where in this story has Hood admitted this shooting and thereby be burdened with opporbrium before being given his "day in court?" You scream and rant at the lynching of a poor colored lad in the South, but you figuratively lynch and hold up to public ridicule an accused before he's tried, or verdict rendered or sentenced.

'Which Generation Had Better System?'

These do-gooders that need hired guards and costly playgrounds to keep their little brats from being juvenile delinquents give me a pain in the neck. We made up our own games when we were kids and we didn't have "attendants" or liveried footmen to look after us and we didn't have a single juvenile delinquent in the whole town.

★ ★ ★

We skated on the local creek and didn't have an artificial rink with heated dressing rooms and we laid out our baseball diamonds and used stones for bases.

These panty waists that want little Willie led to a civic playground by a psychologist with a PHD ought to read the lives of great Americans and see how our finest men and women spent their childhood.

Our girls didn't have dolls that could close their eyes, stretch full length and wet the bed on demand, but they got just as big a kick out of the dolls they had. Which generation had the delinquents? The old one or this one?

Rockefeller Talks Inspire Letters

New accounts sound as though Rockefeller got a royal reception in California, but he didn't quite get that for I was out there and saw first hand. Everyone was polite but there were no real loud cheers that I could hear or hear about, except the professional politicians who jumped up and down, but the average citizens were quite different.

Returned Home

Let old Rocky stump around the country and wear himself and the voters out before election. By the time November rolls around everyone will be so sick of him they won't even want to see his name on the ballot. It's good to know our boy, Nixon, has sense enough to tend to business until a little nearer election.

By the way, I hope New York has a good lieutenant governor, or do things run by themselves in that state?

Turks Joyfully Anticipate Ike's Arrival

ANKARA, Turkey (UP) — Turkey anticipates the visit of President Eisenhower with an excitement unusual for this silent and often aloof land.

★ ★ ★

Signs are popping up in strange places—"Turks like Ike too."

In peasant villages almost lost on the desolate plateau of Asia Minor, in sophisticated, cynical Istanbul, evidence of interest runs high.

"Our people seem to have a tremendous personal feeling about your President," a high ranking Turkish official said. "We have had applications from all parts of Turkey to come here to see him. Thousands of them. It's Amazing.

TO VISIT SUNDAY

During his 17-hour visit Sunday and Monday President Eisenhower will see only the capital of this NATO ally of 25 million people, larger in area than Texas and as contrasting as Montana and Florida.

He will not see the teeming crossroads of Istanbul, the Riviera of Turkey's south coast, the bleak mountains where Turkish soldiers stand guard along the Soviet border.

But in Ankara he will see a capital that reflects Turkey itself — ambitious, unfinished, hardy and poor, born in the East and striving toward the West.

Little more than a third of a century ago Ankara was a barren small town of great antiquity built on a picturesque hill. Beneath its earth lay the neglected evidence of history, the ruins of the Roman citadel Ancyra. Like most of Turkey it was turned inward, living in the past.

★ ★ ★

The great Kemal Ataturk awakened the defeated nation after World War I, turned it into a republic and made Ankara its capital. Now it is a hastily built, raw city of half-a-million people, with trees, boulevards, multi-storied buildings and smog.

★ ★ ★

It has hotels with somewhat modern plumbing and nightclubs where wealthy patrons do the cha cha cha.

But up near the old citadel the huts remain, muezzins call to prayer, and women meander along mud streets wearing raiment of times past.

★ ★ ★

Turkey is too large and rural a country to be defined by a city, but Ankara does it better than any other.

SUPPORT WEST

Here Eisenhower will be greeted by leaders he already has met, President Celal Bayar, Premier Adnan Menderes and Foreign Minister Fatin Rushtu Zorlu. Like virtually all Turks in public life, these men have thrown their support behind western and American policy. There are no stronger advocates than they of the Atlantic Pact and such regional defense groups as the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO). They have an abiding distrust of what they call Soviet Imperialism.

★ ★ ★

Despite the modernizing efforts of Ataturk, his successor Ismet Inonu and Bayar and Menderes, Turkey still is an underdeveloped, poor country. It is deeply in debt and in continuing want of American and Allied aid.

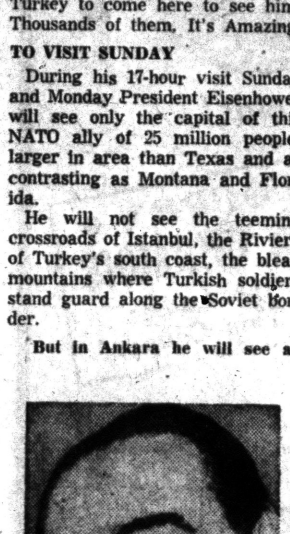

Since coming to power in 1950 Menderes has rushed ahead with projects for dams, roads, factories and city improvements. Critics say he has tried to do too much too fast. He faces strong opposition which appears to thrive on attempts to silence it.

★ ★ ★

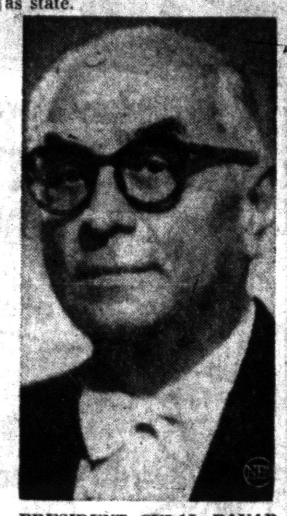

President Eisenhower, already well aware of these problems, will have little time to discuss them here. His visit may have importance however, for less tangible aspects of Turkish-American relations.

★ ★ ★

It will be a visit of heart, as well as state.

He'll Still Wed 'Kitten Burglar' Christmas Eve

MIAMI (UPI) — A young Army private plans to go ahead with his Christmas Eve wedding despite the fact that his pretty high school fiancee was caught burglarizing homes to buy her trousseau.

★ ★ ★

"I still love her and think she is the finest girl in the world," said Pvt. Robert Dickerson, 18, a basic trainee at Fort Jackson, S.C. "The wedding will go on as planned."

Dickerson's girl friend, 17-year-old Donna Jean Dresskell, was captured by two retired policemen Monday night as she broke into a home.

She later confessed that she was the "kitten burglar" who ransacked more than a dozen homes to finance her wedding.

Her father has promised to make restitution.

Gets Life Sentence in Baby Sitter Rape

WISCASSET, Maine (AP) — Woodcutter Rodney A. Austin, 44, Newcastle, was sentenced to life imprisonment Friday night for the kidnap-rape of a 14-year-old baby sitter, Sharon Simmons.

A jury of seven men and five women convicted Austin on eight counts of abduction, rape, illegal transportation of a minor, defiling and carnal knowledge and of being a second offender. The jury found him innocent on one count

Ann Arbor Slayer, 17, Committed to Ionia

ANN ARBOR (UP)—James D. Vogel, 17, accused of the shotgun slaying of his 14-year-old sister Gwendolyn, was admitted to Ionia State Hospital today.

★ ★ ★

The youth was found insane by Judge James R. Breakey after he heard testimony from three psychiatrists who examined Vogel.

Vogel was ordered to remain at the hospital until he is restored to sanity and can return to stand trial on a charge of the first-degree murder of his sister Oct. 24.

★ ★ ★

Police said the Ann Arbor High School Senior killed Gwendolyn in their home following an argument over use of an easy chair in front of the family television set.

The cotton textile industry of Alabama furnishes jobs for more than 40,000 people. Its annual payroll is more than 160 million dollars.

Muskegon Judge Eyes Voelker's Court Seat

LANSING (UP)—Circuit Judge Noel P. Fox of Muskegon confirmed today that he might try for a Supreme Court appointment when Justice John D. Voelker resigns next year.

★ ★ ★

Fox, former chairman of the State Labor Mediation Board, said family and personal considerations stood in the way of a decision on whether he would actively seek the post.

★ ★ ★

Fox and a fellow Democrat, Att. Gen. Paul L. Adams, are considered top possibilities to replace Voelker, who disclosed last week that he will resign to devote full time to writing.

He is the author of the best-selling novel "Anatomy of a Murder."

★ ★ ★

Gov. Williams will name a successor, presumably a Democrat, to the technically nonpartisan court to serve until the November 1960 election.

Look! Santa's Coming

J. L. VOORHEES

Santa arrives on time; will your gift? It's nice to receive a package anytime but a Christmas gift, that's late, is an anticlimax. To avoid that possibility mail your gifts early enough to be certain the Postal Service can deliver them on time. There will be mountains of mail going into the Post Office, mountains of it enroute, more mountains of it to be delivered. In spite of all the available electronic devices each parcel post package is handled by hand — stored, routed, again handled by hand in our own Post Office, and each of them is personally delivered. Obviously with the mountains of mail to be handled the intelligent person mails his gifts ahead of the rush.

M. E. SIPLE

The personnel in our Post Office does a Herculean job. We fully appreciate their efforts and they will appreciate a little thoughtfulness on our parts — IF WE MAIL OUR XMAS PACKAGES NOW.

To Install Keego C. of C. Head

Dr. Jamnik Will Take Over Post at Annual Christmas Party

KEEGO HARBOR—Plans have been completed for installation of the new president of the Keego Harbor Chamber of Commerce at a dinner Monday.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Rudolph L. Jamnik, a dentist in Keego Harbor for six years, will take over his new post, heading the 50 businesses in the organization, at the annual Christmas dinner at Rotunda Inn.

He will replace retiring president John Sellman for the coming year.

Dr. Jamnik, 39, whose office is at 2835 Orchard Lake Rd., lives at 929 Canterbury Dr., Pontiac, with his wife Esther and five children.

★ ★ ★

Also to be installed the same evening are Myrl Windsor, first vice president; Justice James Southart, second vice president; Mildred Loan, secretary; Jack Loveland, treasurer; and Harmon Lawyer and James Campbell, directors.

John Hirlinger of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce will be master of ceremonies.

Charlie Washburn to Close Shop at MSU Campus

EAST LANSING (UP)—A Michigan State University landmark and institution for more than 40 years soon will fade into memory.

★ ★ ★

Charlie Washburn is retiring after the first of the year and closing his smoke shop, located on East Grand River avenue across from the campus.

Washburn came from New Hampshire in 1912 to what was then Michigan Agricultural College and started the business in his junior year.

He reopened the shop in 1919 after duty in World War I and has operated it since.

★ ★ ★

The smoke shop was long a student hangout — especially in the days before most undergraduates had cars.

In addition to magazines, newspapers, smoking and classroom supplies, a snack bar and billiard tables attracted students.

Rooms were rented upstairs and many a now prominent graduate worked his way through college at Washburn's shop.

★ ★ ★

Loudspeakers broadcast the away football games and crowds of several thousand students often gathered to cheer on the Spartans.

The white sturgeon is the largest fresh water fish in the U.S. It is found in the Columbia and Snake Rivers. Some specimens weigh as much as half a ton.

Among officials attending will be Florence Green of Kalamazoo, national auxiliary commander; Dale Adams of Detroit, national service officer; Virginia Hays of Paris, Mich., state auxiliary commander; and State Commander Douglas H. McGarrity of Allen Park.

Headlining the meeting will be a speech by William H. Fribley, national DAV commander. Fribley of Crestline, Kan., has been a member of the Kansas State Legislature for 11 years.

★ ★ ★

Heading the hosting groups will be Mrs. Cleta J. Parker, commander of chapter 16, and Ralph Ellsworth, commander of chapter 101.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 at the Amvets Bemis-Olsen Hall, 570 Oakland Ave.

DOOMED BUT HAPPY — David Bailey, 4, of Howell, is a lot happier now that he's getting so many Christmas cards and letters. Doctors say he won't live to enjoy Christmas. He has cancer of the stomach. David and his father, Carl Bailey, are shown before 6,000 pieces of mail delivered Thursday—more than the entire city usually gets in a day. David's address is 612 W. Clinton, Howell, Mich.

Canada has protected its buffalo so well that there are now more than 16,000 of them, compared with about 250 at the turn of the century, according to the National Geographic Society.

'Big Brother' Has His Eyes on Jaywalkers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The jaywalker's life gets harder every day. Traffic authorities now have a gadget to shout orders at him if he ignores traffic lights.

★ ★ ★

The device, unveiled Thursday at the busy corner of Fifth avenue and 42nd street, broadcasts a tape-recorded message geared to the "walk" and "don't walk" signs.

"Be careful!" the voice barks when the "don't walk" sign begins blinking. "The flashing 'don't walk' signal indicates it is now too late to leave the curb. If you are in the roadway — cross quickly to the other side of the street."

★ ★ ★

Its message seems a little less friendly when the light for pedestrians turns red. "Don't walk," it orders. "Remember, jaywalking is against the law. You not only risk getting killed, but getting a summons as well."

Officials said if the "voice" keeps pedestrians in line, similar devices will be installed at other key intersections throughout the city.

Rap Ike's Stand on Birth Control

3 Groups Assail Idea as Concession to Roman Catholic Church

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower's stand against use of public funds for promotion of birth control abroad is under fire on the ground that it was a concession to the Roman Catholic Church.

Officials of two planned parenthood groups and a predominantly Protestant organization assailed the President in statements.

The criticism was voiced here by Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher, chairman of the Medical Committee of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, and Mrs. Robert M. Ferguson, U.S. vice president of the International Planned Parenthood Federation.

Another attack was made in Washington, D.C., by Glenn L. Archer, executive director of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

The President stepped into a debate over possible use of U.S. foreign aid funds on birth control programs in other countries when he asserted at his news conference Wednesday:

"I cannot imagine anything more emphatically a subject that is not a proper political or government activity or function or responsibility."

Debate on the subject was touched off earlier when an organization of Roman Catholic Bishops publicly voiced opposition to such use of foreign aid funds.

Photographers

It has come to our attention that itinerant photographers are operating in Pontiac. The following suggestions are offered for your protection.

1. It is very difficult, with changing lighting conditions in each home to do the same quality work that is possible in a studio.
2. Look for the guarantee. In most cases you will not find one.
3. Do not accept rash promises from the salesman, in most cases you will find that the receipt states that verbal agreements or agreements other than printed on the form will not be honored by the company.
4. REMEMBER, you NEVER get something for nothing.
5. Your local photographers are your neighbors, they live here, you know where to find them. Trade locally and be sure.

Protect Window Sills From Condensation

The condensation that clouds your windows frequently is annoying when you want to look outside. The same condensation also can be downright destructive in its invisible form. Over the years drops of condensed water vapor trickle down the panes and onto the sill.

Eventual result is eroded sills unless these vulnerable spots are surfaced with ceramic tile. This material not only waterproofs the sill but adds color and texture to the window.

Administrators Urge Longer School Terms

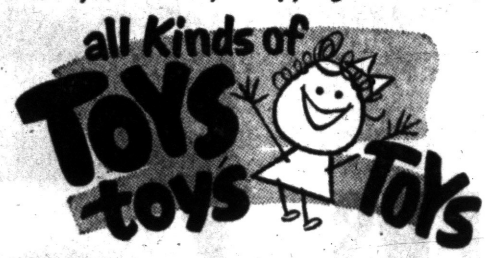

EAST LANSING (AP) — Longer school terms and shorter vacations have been recommended to the Michigan school administrators at their annual conference here.

Long summer vacations are designed for an agricultural society, said Dr. E. Leslie Bowsher, veteran Toledo educator and former Ohio school head.

Bowsher pointed out that schools are overcrowded nine months of the year and then are empty in the summer.

At Lansing, Michigan's school chief agreed that year-'round education would ease overcrowding but noted the experiment has not proved very successful where tried out.

Town Hall Sponsors One-Night Stand

"About one-fourth of the seating for Shakespeare's 'The Taming of the Shrew' will be reserved for student sale," Garth Errington, director of dramatics at Pontiac Central High School, points out to Philip J. Proud, assistant superintendent of Pontiac schools. The performance will be Feb. 26 at the Oakland Theater for one night only under the auspices of Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall, Inc.

The Canadian Players of Stratford, Ontario will appear at the Oakland Theater for a single performance of "The Taming of the Shrew" on Feb. 26.

This precedent-breaking appearance is being brought to the people of the Pontiac area by Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall, Inc.

★ ★ ★

The event is not a part of the regular Town Hall Series, but an "extra" treat for which tickets will be available to the public on a first-come-first-served basis.

Kate Reid, one of Canada's most brilliant actresses, will appear as Katharina. Viewers considered Miss Reid's performances among the high spots of the summer season of Shakespeare at Stratford.

Co-starring with her as Petruccio will be Max Helpman who performs the role with vigor and enthusiasm according to critics.

BIG UNDERTAKING

Town Hall in less than a year of existence has brought exciting personalities to the stage of the Oakland for Pontiac audiences. Committee members report they would not have dared think of so ambitious an undertaking as the staging of Shakespeare by a world-famous repertory company just one year ago.

★ ★ ★

However, the response of the community to the subscription Town Hall Series, which still has three sessions scheduled between January and March, has been so conspicuous and whole-hearted that the group decided to bring this evening of live professional theater to Pontiac.

The spirit of their decision is embodied in their proposed scheduling of seat sales.

STUDENT RATES

Fully one-fourth of the capacity of the theater will be ear-marked for sales to public and parochial high school students at a special rate. Tickets will available in quota blocs to the various area schools and any qualified high school student may take advantage of this opportunity at his school.

Assistant superintendent of Pontiac schools, Philip J. Proud, says school authorities are enthusiastic about the opportunity Town Hall has provided for students. The study of Shakespeare's comedies is a part of the senior high school curriculum he says, and the opportunity to see a live performance of one of the best known comedies is timely and appropriate.

★ ★ ★

"Because of its tiered arrangements, the Oakland Theater is well-suited to this type of performance," says Mrs. Maxwell Shadley, program chairman for Pontiac-Oakland Town Hall.

FINE ACOUSTICS

She adds that the committee in charge of arrangements has had an expert check the theater's acoustics. "He told us the Oakland was one of the best theaters acoustically in the state," concludes Mrs. Shadley.

All seats are reserved. Mrs. Jack Rammes of Rosedale street is in charge of reservations.

To Explore Decorations

"Christmas Decorations" will be the topic presented by Mrs. Blaine Ford to the Tuesday evening meeting of Alpha Chi Omega of South Oakland County.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. John Garner will open her Birmingham home to the group.

Assisting her will be Mrs. Herman Netter, Mrs. James Rowland, Mrs. Devlin Cadillac and Mrs. James Crabbe.

Abby Advises:

Don't Just Sit There Puzzled ---Time's A'Wasting All Along

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't print my name because everyone in this town knows me. Now for my problem: I have been widowed many years. I've had numerous chances to remarry but I will not go out with just anybody who rings me up.

ABBY

There is one very desirable professional man (retired) who has been inviting me out consistently. I am interested in him and he seems to enjoy my company. But he has one annoying habit that puzzles me: He keeps looking at his watch all evening!

Do you think this means he is eager to get the evening over with? Should I remark on this annoying habit of his? I wish I could figure him out.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Don't try to figure out what makes him tick, or you'll have lots of time on your hands.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My mother and father have been married happily for 15 years, or at least I thought they were. My mother met a man recently. Every time I come home from school his car is in our driveway. She calls him on the telephone and he calls her when my father isn't home. Maybe it is only my imagination and maybe it isn't even any of my business, but do you think I should ask my mother what it is all about?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: It is certainly your business. Ask your mother.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very sensitive because he can't read very fast or very well. He was taught to read by sight, but when it comes to a new word, he can't sound it out. I've tried to help him, but I'm no teacher.

He won't go to church because he's afraid he might be called upon to read aloud.

His boss told him that if he took some schooling at work (they have courses to teach the employes more about their work) his chances for promotion would be excellent. But he is ashamed to let anyone know how poorly he reads. Any suggestions would be very much appreciated.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: There is no "shame" in not knowing. Only in refusing to learn. Find out if your Public School system offers adult education courses. Almost all communities have evening classes for adults who wish to learn elementary reading, writing and 'rithmetic.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE PROFESSOR": I disagree. Civilization IS making progress. In every war, they kill you a new way.

Forgive Grandma Please!

By EMILY POST

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am the mother of two young children. Last week my mother-in-law walked in with her brother and his wife at five-thirty, just as I was feeding the children their supper. She had given me no warning that they were coming and as a result I'm afraid we looked rather shabby. I had met my mother-in-law's brother and his wife only once before. This was their first visit to our house.

★ ★ ★

"While I was finishing feeding the children, my mother-in-law took them on a tour of our house, a privilege I thought was surely reserved for me. Later, when I told my mother-in-law she should have given me some warning so that I could have been prepared for guests, her reply was: "Since when do I have to call my children before visiting them."

★ ★ ★

"I don't expect any such formality from my mother-in-law but as she had others with her I thought she should have called to see if it was all right to bring them over. Am I wrong in expecting good manners from relatives?"

Answer: I agree with you that before bringing anyone, even her brother and sister-in-law to see the children and your house, she should have telephoned. On the other hand, she is the grandmother of your children, so don't be too hard on her and make her feel that she is not welcome.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My mother is giving a party to announce my engagement. Naturally my fiance's family will be invited. However, his married sister and I had a disagreement awhile ago and she has not spoken to me since. Under the circumstances, should she be excluded from the guest list? I am very undecided as to the proper procedure and wish you would help me."

Answer: You couldn't make a greater mistake than doing anything to widen the breech between you and your sister-in-law to be. Ask her by all means. If she comes, be very cordial. If she doesn't, try not to resent it.

Holes Swallow Sound

Ever wonder why perforated ceiling and wall tiles are so effective in cutting down noise volume? Home improvement specialists explain that sound rebounds off hard, flat surfaces, but the perforations in fiber-textured tiles "swallow" sound and reduce noise volume by as much as 30 to 40 per cent.

Keep Limber

Get Graceful With Exercise

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You can have the prettiest figure in the world but unless you are limber and have good coordination you will not appear graceful and your figure may be out of line.

Today I would like to give you a few general exercises which will develop grace, coordination and balance. Exercise also is absolutely essential if you wish to remain firm and keep your muscles elastic.

1. Stand erect. Raise your arms sideward-upward to overhead position as you lift your heels from the floor and rise high on your toes. Inhale as you do this. Return the arms sideward-downward to sides as you lower heels to the floor and exhale. Continue slowly, reaching high and breathing deeply.

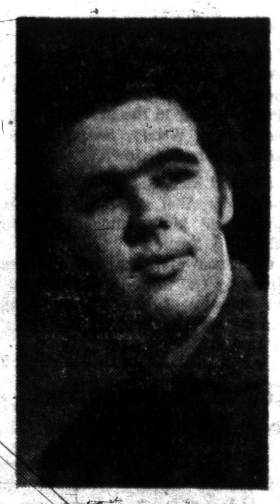

2. Stand tall. Raise the arms to sideward, shoulder height position. Lower the arms and swing them in front of the body, crossing them. As you do this raise the right leg sideward as high as you can. Lower leg to floor as you swing your arms back to shoulder height position. Continue. After a while do the same thing but raise and lower the left leg.

3. Stand with the feet pointing straight ahead. Bend both knees all the way down and touch the floor with the fingertips, between the knees. Straighten the legs and raise the arms upward over the head, reaching for the ceiling. Again bend the knees and touch the floor between the knees with the fingertips. Continue.

These exercises may be a bit difficult for you at first since they require coordination and balance, but they will develop poise and grace if you will practice them regularly. Soon you will be surprised by how well you can do them.

"COMMON RELIGIOUS ERRORS NOT ENDORSED BY THE BIBLE"
When one writes today generally he can be assured of at least three things, provided what he writes is read, he can be sure that someone somewhere will agree, someone somewhere will disagree, someone somewhere will misunderstand. However when one is writing in an effort to persuade men to allow the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, to shine unto them, he can only trust that good may be accomplished and that any objections may be smoothed out in the light of the Bible and that every objector will be an honest one and will eventually be won to the Master.

In this article I want to discuss with you the subject of HEALING. In discussing a subject such as this I am aware of the fact that I am opening the flood gates of criticism and will be exposed to the tidal waves of opposition, however until thoroughly convinced otherwise, I am willing to believe that there are still those who are desirous of knowing that truth which will make men free. In discussing this subject let it be clearly understood that the writer is not indifferent, antiscriptural, and irreligious for such is not true, he is simply interested in being led by the Bible in such matters. Let us therefore clearly understand what the writer's objection to MODERN DAY HEALINGS AND HEALERS. The writer believes in HEALING, IN PRAYER AND IN THE POWER OF GOD. He believes that GOD HEALS TODAY AND THAT GOD ANSWERS PRAYER AND THAT MEN OUGHT ALWAYS TO PRAY. What he does not believe is stated in the following words: THAT GOD HAS GRANTED INDIVIDUALS TODAY THE POWER TO PERFORM MIRACULOUS, INSTANTANEOUS HEALINGS SUCH AS HE GRANTED TO THE APOSTLES AND CERTAIN OTHERS IN THE BIBLE. A few questions are in order to those who believe in MIRACULOUS, INSTANTANEOUS HEALINGS SUCH AS THOSE PERFORMED BY THE APOSTLES.

1. IS IT NOT STRANGE that some of those who claim to heal today as did the Apostles heal largely, if not wholly, only internally?
2. IS IT NOT STRANGE that many who claim to heal today as did the Apostles often allow their subjects to die while in the process of such healing?
3. IS IT NOT STRANGE that many who claim to heal today as did the Apostles must work on or over them for hours, days, and even weeks?
4. IS IT NOT STRANGE that many who claim to heal today as did the Apostles often fail?
5. IS IT NOT STRANGE that many who are supposedly healed by these healers often return to the same condition?
6. IS IT NOT STRANGE that many of those who are supposedly healed must continue to take the medicine they were taking before they were healed?

Friends, healings take place today but through God-given mediums and not through some FAKE RELIGIONIST WHO IS SET ON DECEIVING THE HEARTS OF THE PEOPLE. BELIEVETH THOU THIS?

Confident Living:

Then There's the Man, 87, Defiant Until His Death

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Keep up your hopes and you can fight your way through almost anything. Let me tell you of a circumstance which substantiates that statement.

PEALE

An investigation was made by scientists into the experiences of some 2,000 men captured during World War II and confined in a prisoner-of-war camp where they were systematically starved, beaten, brainwashed and mistreated in every possible way. Some of these soldiers became ill and died. Others lost their minds. Still others became living skeletons who never thereafter recovered their health.

But another group of these men came out of the ordeal hard and tough as nails, healthy and strong physically and mentally. These were men who used to get off by themselves to refill their minds with hope and optimism.

Under those terrible circumstances, never knowing whether they would survive from one day to the next, these men decided not to spend their time talking about their sufferings, or the injustice of it all, or the hopelessness of their plight.

TALKED OF WIVES

Instead, each talked to the others about his wife, or the girl he was going to marry when he got back home and of his plans for children and a home. These men organized informal classes to study how to conduct the business enterprises they planned to develop when the war was over.

In their minds they kept alive the thought, the conviction, the certainty that their present suffering was not the end, that there would be another and a better day. They never let down their hopes and so their hopes did not let them down.

Studies being made now about the difference between American soldiers who became turncoats and collaborators in the Korean prisoner-of-war camps and those who remained sturdy and loyal confirm these World War II findings.

A reader sent me a newspaper clipping about an 87-year-old man who was killed in an auto accident. An autopsy was performed and the doctor told the widow: "Your husband must have been a remarkable man. I've examined his body and there are several reasons why he should have died of natural causes at least 20 years ago. I don't understand how he managed to live past 80."

"Well, doctor," she answered, "my husband never went to bed at night that he didn't say, 'I'm going to be better tomorrow.' And when the going got really tough, he'd always say, 'I have hopes'."

There you have the case of a man who, for years and years, was kept going because of his hopeful attitude. It has been scientifically demonstrated that you can actually kill yourself by lack of hope, and that you can use hope to save yourself and keep yourself a strong, effective person.

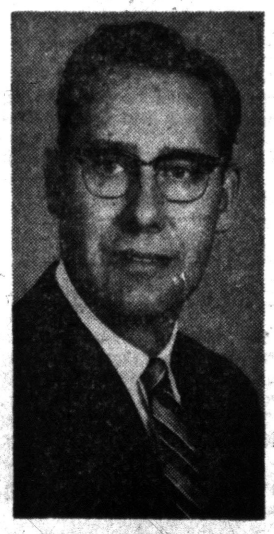

★ ★ ★

Hope is a dynamic force. It leads to expectancy, to faith, to mental control, to spiritual power, to growth in knowledge and strength. Hope is a bright beacon in a world where there is pain, suffering, hardship and trouble.

We know that the world is full of trouble, but it also is full of the overcoming of trouble. And those who overcome their troubles are those who are able to lay hold upon the tough, creative power of hope.

Christmas Carol Hymn of Advent

(Editor's note—This is the first of a series of article to be written during the holiday season concerning the words and music of favorite Christmas carols. Recorded in Luke 11, the first Christmas carol was sung by the heavenly chorus of angels over the plains of Bethlehem. Some of the most beautiful ever written were inspired by this old, sweet story.)

"Joy to the World," one of the most majestic Christmas carols, is a great hymn of the Advent and of the Nativity. Isaac Watts (1674-1748) called the father of English hymnody was the writer.

The oldest of nine children, and the son of a deacon in Southampton, England, Isaac complained to his father about the listless congregational singing. His father challenged him to provide better hymns. At the age of 15, he composed his first.

When he was 21, he preached his first sermon but because of ill health devoted most of his energies to hymn writing.

★ ★ ★

"Joy to the World" is a free rendering of Psalm 98, written 800 years before the birth of Christ. While it is a song of rejoicing for Israel's salvation from Babylon, the song is concerned with the redemption of the whole world from sin and sorrow.

It is a forceful expression of missionary zeal and prophetic triumph.

According to historian John Richard Green, the hymn was written at a time when modern missions had not been begun and "religion was never at a lower ebb in England."

A few years after Watts wrote the hymn, George F. Handel wrote his great oratorio, "The Messiah." Then about 100 years later, an American composer, Lowell Mason, took parts of The Messiah and welded the music to fit the words Isaac Watts had written.

The stanzas may be sung by everyone or antiphonally, the congregation singing the first and second lines of each stanza. The choir would sing the third and fourth lines with both joining in the refrain.

'Lighting of Creche' Sponsored by Mariners

The Mariners of Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian, are sponsoring the "Lighting of the Creche" on the church lawn following the cooperative supper at 6:15 p.m. Saturday.

★ ★ ★

Families including small children will sing carols and listen to the reading of the Christmas story. The evening will close with prayer as the creche is lighted.

★ ★ ★

Advent Communion will be celebrated at both the 9 and 11 a.m. services Sunday. The Rev. Edward D. Auchard, pastor, will preach on "The Word Became Flesh."

The Chancel Choir and Choralers will present "Sing Gloria" by Davis at both worship hours.

James Hunt of the juvenile office of Oakland County Probate Court, will be guest speaker at the Senior High Fellowship at 6 p.m.

★ ★ ★

The pastor's wife was recently elected president of Kenjockety, the organization of United Presbyterian ministers' wives in the greater Detroit area.

The annual Christmas party of the group will be held at the Winchester Village United Presbyterian Church of Detroit Dec. 11.

Free Methodists Lead in Church Generosity

NEW YORK (AP)—Members of the Free Methodist Church of North America are the freest Protestants in America when it comes to giving money to their church.

A survey of 49 Protestant and Orthodox churches in the United States by the National Council of Churches' Department of Stewardship and Benevolences shows Free Methodists lead in average giving with $243.95 per member in 1958.

Hospital costs in the United States have risen more than 50 per cent in the past 10 years.

Bell Ringers to Play at Joslyn

First Free Methodist Group to Give Program at United Presbyterian

The Gospel Bell Ringers will provide the special music for the 7:30 evening service Sunday at the Joslyn Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

The melody makers consist of Larry Scherman of 666 Squirrel Rd., his sister, Mrs. John Pearson of 754 Squirrel Rd., his mother, Mrs. Russell Scherman with whom he lives; and Mrs. Pearson's daughters, Debra and De Ann.

Larry and his sister play the Pakistan Saucer Bells, trombone, euphonium, accordion, piano and organ. Mrs. Scherman and the Pearson girls sing.

The Rev. E. I. Watkins, pastor, will preach.

Adults and young pepole have been invited to the Men's Club meeting Tuesday evening to hear Dr. Arthur Weaver, and see the documentary film on lung cancer.

At the ecclesiastical meeting following the cooperative dinner at 6 p.m. Wednesday, members will elect deacons, trustees and church officers.

The business session will be held in the sanctuary.

Response Is Plentiful

The response to the West Coast clothing appeal to aid Japanese typhoon victims was so effective in Seattle, Wash. that local warehouse facilities were swamped. Goodwill Industries stepped in, helping sort and bale four tons of good clothing which were forwarded to the Church World Service center in Modesto, Cal.

Donna to the Rescue

Kelly Handles Gunmen, but Needs Wife at Home

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jack Kelly can handle television's toughest gunslingers, card sharks and plain ornery cuses with consummate ease.

★ ★ ★

But offscreen Kelly—fortunately—has a beautiful and devoted wife to watch over him. Else there might be only one Maverick brother in the Warner Bros. series.

JACK KELLY

FOR INSTANCE . . .

Reeently the show's sponsor invited Kelly and his wife to his Lake Tahoe home. Kelly wanted to try water skiing.

Donna Kelly, known professionally as actress May Wynn, demurred but finally consented as long as she could go along in the speedboat.

Kelly fell off his skis, an everyday occurrence in that sport. But watchful Donna noticed that her husband didn't come up—a rare occurrence. Quick thinking, she guessed rightly that the synthetic cord had wrapped around his ankle.

★ ★ ★

"I was dragged underwater for a good 200 feet," Kelly recalls. "I kept thinking that this was the end of me. I was surprisingly calm and kept hoping that the boat would not swerve. The way the cord was entwined on my ankle, a sudden pitch could possibly cut it off.

"Donna, God bless her, told the driver to ease to a stop."

★ ★ ★

The rope had cut an inch into Kelly's ankle. Then when the cut finally healed, glass particles in the synthetic rope fibers caused a festering. The wound had to be cut open again and the particles removed piece by piece.

Donna's handy in other ways, too.

★ ★ ★

Recently, I was a participating eyewitness in a real poker game with the Maverick brothers. Jim Garner played only a few hands. He later explained:

"You gotta be crazy to play poker with Donna Kelly. She clobbers everybody."

★ ★ ★

He was right. When the smoke cleared off the green felt, Kelly was a heavy loser and his wife was the evening's big winner. Me, I can always say I sat in with the poker-playing Maverick brothers and won a few bucks.

Wants More Quality in Church Members

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—An Australian clergyman says he detects concern among Southern Baptists over the emphasis their church is placing on quantity rather than quality of members.

"Many Southern Baptists are telling me they feel it's getting too easy for a person to become a member of their church," says the Rev. Wilfred L. Jarvis, pastor emeritus of the Central Baptist Church in Sydney.

"That's one of the reasons we have so many seemingly sincere Christian people who never share Christ with anyone else.

★ ★ ★

"What we Baptists need most is a trained church membership. We need to teach prospective members that being a Baptist is something more than just belonging to a Baptist church."

Protestants in World Move

Mount 6-Month Drive to Recapture the Word 'Peace' From Reds

DETROIT (AP) — American Protestants will conduct a January to June program of "education and action for peace" and is promoting a worldwide campaign to recapture the word "peace" from communism.

"Too many people think of us as 'Uncle Shylock' or 'The Ugly American,'" Dr. Kenneth L. Maxwell, director of international affairs for the National Council of Churches reported to the organization's general board meeting here today.

"We want to make the world see again the true image of America as a peace-loving nation," he said.

The council has prepared study materials for its 33 denominations, with some 39 million members, for the "education and action for peace" program.

Dr. Maxwell, a Baptist minister in Princeton, N.J., said that already the council is getting "a tremendous response from laymen who never realized the church was interested in world problems." He added:

"These are issues of life and death. They should be of vital concern to Christmas everywhere."

Sultan's New Palace Under Construction

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (UPI) — a new multimillion-dollar palace made of materials from Italy, Belgium, Britain, Thailand, Japan and elsewhere is under construction 30 miles from here for the Sultan of Selangor.

It is being built at Klang on a 13-acre site. The structure will have a throne room capable of accommodating 300 persons.

There are now around 16,000 movie houses in the United States, approximately 3,000 fewer than a year ago.

Nehru Favors Christians Only to an Extent

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of the Andhra Evengelical Lutheran Church in India says "nothing will happen to the Christians of India" as long as Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru remains in power.

★ ★ ★

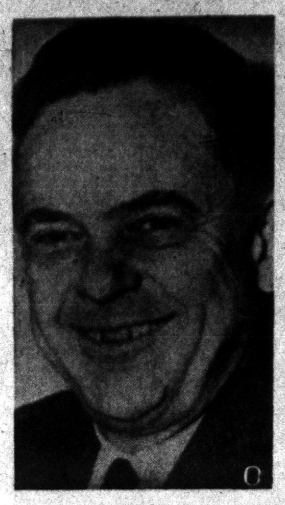

"Nehru has a soft corner for Christians in India," says the Rev. Dr. A. N. Gopal, because "Nehru has imbibed of Christian ideals while in school in England."

★ ★ ★

But, he added, Nehru's sympathy toward Christians does not extend into other echelons of the Indian government.

"The government still gives extra privileges to Hindus and government positions and scholarships almost never are given to Christians."

There may be as many as 300 or 400 different compounds in tobacco smoke, according to chemists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

LABOR ENFORCER—John L. Hollcombe has been chosen to head the bureau that will police anticorruption provisions of the new labor law. He took a $1,000 pay cut to take the post, leaving a Defense Department director's job because he felt he was needed in the Labor Department position.

Home Value Increase

Is owning a home really a hedge against inflation? Yes, say researchers at Allied Chemical's Barrett Building Materials Division. They report that a home built for $10,000 ten years ago would require an outlay of $13,000 today.

In addition, if long-lasting materials like asbestos cement siding or extraweight roof shingles were used, chances are the house has retained that "new" look so important at resale time.

Now that wintry blasts are begining to keep the furnace busy, it's a good time to look into room that are particularly difficult to keep warm. Rock wool insulation in floors may be the answer in hard-to-heat rooms built over unheated garages.

Straits Bridge Traffic, Tolls Fall in November

ST. IGNACE (AP) — Both traffic tolls were down at the Mackinac Bridge in November, compared with the corresponding 1958 month.

★ ★ ★

Last month 84,487 vehicles crossed and paid $339,170 compared with 89,860 cars and $357,587 in November 1958.

In only one 1959 month has the number of vehicles shown an increase, and in only three months have revenues been up.

The lone double gainer, compared with similar 1958, was September, when crossings were up 6.4 per cent and revenues up 8.1 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Revenues for the year's first 11 months were $4,624,189, compared with $4,999,729 in the same 1958 months.

No One Seems Hurt by Leonard's Insults

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Jack E. Leonard can shut up a woman.

★ ★ ★

The world's heavyweight insult champion sometimes runs into a drunken female ringsider—not on the Dick Clark TV show, but while out clowning on the saloon circuit.

WILSON

"You don't rush in and murder her with fast lines," Fat Jack was saying the other afternoon. "You lay back. You let her keep trying to be witty, till the whole audience begins to hate her. Then you say, 'Next Halloween I'm gonna get you a new set of brooms.' The audience hates her so much, they like it, and might even applaud. She shuts up."

Jacks finds that very few people resent his insults—in fact, Arthur Murray has had him on his show several times to insult him.

★ ★ ★

"You know my husband, don't you?" Katherine Murray asked Jack once. He shot back: "Dracula? Everybody knows him. Where's his cape?" Jack E. added, "You've heard the famous remark Fred Astaire made to Arthur Murray: 'You kidding?' Arthur Murray has 467 dance schools. Too bad he never took a lesson in any of them."

LEONARD

Zsa Zsa Gabor asked Jack E. when they were on the Dick Clark panel, "Vy do you keep looking at me like that? Vot are you thinking about?"

"If I could say what I'm thinking about," snapped Jack, "there wouldn't be any more network."

"But I've been a married voman," Zsa Zsa retorted.

"You'd better have the papers to prove it," said Jack.

When the Friars give their famous roasts, Jack's at his meanest. Sophie Tucker was once a roastee. "Sophie's the only woman Friar, and believe me, it gets a little embarrassing sometimes when we go into the steam room," Jack claimed.

Jack, a Chicagoan by birth and girth, told Steve Allen "I could be funny for hours on your show, but I wouldn't want to change the format." Once when Frank Sinatra was very hoarse, Jack told him on stage, "I got regards for you from your vocal coach—Andy Devine."

★ ★ ★

When Sinatra was missing shows due to throat trouble, Leonard said: "Sinatra's the only performer who lays off while he's working."

The Great Insulter started insulting while appearing with name bands in theaters about 15 years ago.

He would salute the bobby-soxers, "Good morning, little public offenders. We had a high class audience in here last night. Somebody stole an aisle. Must be pretty hard for you to applaud with handcuffs . . . So long kids, see you in 30 days . . . "

I once asked Jack E. on a radio show: "What do you think of Henny Youngman?"

"Not very often," he snapped.

Once, at least, Jack E. made somebody so mad that he was never forgiven.

On stage at a Miami Beach hotel, Jack said, "Well, I see my boss here tonight, sitting out there with his wife and his girl."

★ ★ ★

"It was one of my regular lines," Jack explained, "but, this time, it was also true."

EARL'S PEARLS: Oscar Wilde said it: "Never trust a woman who tells one her real age. A woman who would tell that would tell anything."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Nearly a third of all accidents happen in the kitchen, and eventually most of them find their way to the table. . . . That's earl, brother.

Rome Scholars Publish Book on Il Peccato (Sin)

ROME (AP) — Thirty-seven ecclesiastic and lay scholars have published a 928-page encyclopedia of sin called "Il Peccato" (Sin).

The preface of the book explains that its purpose is to remind men of the traditional concept of sin "because one cannot otherwise explain history nor give an orientation to life."

★ ★ ★

Pope Pius XII is quoted in the preface as saying: "The greatest sin of the world today is that men have started to lose the sense of sin."

The book was compiled by Msgr. Pietro Palazzini, secretary of the Sacred Congregation of the Council, a division of the Roman Curia. Contributors include famed French author Henry Daniel Rops.

World production of cigarettes in 1958 came to 1,970,000,000,000, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Two Vessels to Be Launched This Month

U.S. Nuclear Sub Fleet Growing Fast

GROTON, Conn. (UPI)—The nation's shipyards reach an all-time record this month in launching two atomic submarines and turning another three over to the Navy for duty with the fleet.

The first Polaris - missile - firing submarine, George Washington, will be commissioned here Dec. 30 at the yards of Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., the same day that the first Regulus missile-firing sub, Halibut, is commissioned at Mare Island, Calif., Naval Shipyard.

Seadragon, the last of four of the Skate-class production line subs to be built, was commissioned today at Portsmouth, N.H. Naval shipyard.

The Washington-class Polaris - firing Robert E. Lee will be launched at Newport News, Va., Shipbuilding Yards Dec. 18 and on the following day the second of six high-speed Skipjack-class boats USS Scorpion, will slide off the Electric Boat ways.

10 BY END OF YEAR

Thus, as the year ends, the Navy will have a formidable battle fleet of 10 nuclear submarines in action, five of them rushed to completion this year. The world's largest, the radar-picket twin-reactor USS Triton, joined the fleet here Nov. 10 and the phenomenal acquabatic Skipjack on April 10.

Their predecessors are Nautilus, Seawolf, Skate and the Skate-class Swordfish and Sargo.

One keel-laying is slated this month. Work will start on the Thresher-type USS Plunger Dec. 31 at Mare Island Naval Shipyard. Nine of these advanced Skipjack-class subs are under contract.

Three other Polaris-firing subs of the Washington class are under construction and two of them, the Patrick Henry and Theodore Roosevelt, were launched this fall. The last of five under contract, the Abraham Lincoln, is due off the ways early next year.

These subs can fire missiles with a range of 1,500 miles while surfaced or submerged and can exploit the North Pole region as a strategic offensive position.

★ ★ ★

Work already is well under way on a new and advanced type of Polaris sub, the Ethan Allen. The keel was laid here Sept. 14 and it is being rushed for commissioning late next year. Four of the Ethan Allen class are on order.

The world's first nuclear submarine designed to track down and kill off other submarines, USS Tullibee, is slated for launching here by next spring.

If production schedules are met, the Navy expects to have 29 atomic subs operational by the end of 1960. It has 33 in the works and reportedly will ask authorization for another three next year.

NEKOOSA, Wis. (AP)—Faces of city officials were fire engine red.

Ask Ike to Visit Head of Orthodox Church

DETROIT (AP) — Representatives of an estimated 39 million American Protestants have asked President Eisenhower to add a visit to Patriarch Athenagoras, world leader of the Orthodox Church, to the itinerary of his current 11-nation trip.

★ ★ ★

The general board of the National Council of Churches noted that the President intends to visit Pope John XXIII, head of the Roman Catholic Church, and said:

"Your visit is construed as a visit to the head of a church rather than the head of a state and we trust that it will in no way be interpreted as promoting official United States diplomatic representation at the Vatican."

The board's message came as the Protestant leaders ended a three-day meeting here.

'2 MAIN BRANCHES'

In urging a visit to Patriarch Athenagoras at Istanbul, Council President Dr. Edwin T. Dahlbert said:

"There are two main branches of the church in that area and we feel any possible misunderstanding would be avoided if Mr. Eisenhower called on both of them."

The National Council is made up of 33 Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

Senate to Study Proposed Post for Foreign Affairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Proposals to create a new post of U.S. foreign affairs minister will be studied in Senate hearings early next year.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) announced the hearings, which will be held by his Senate subcommittee on national policy machinery.

He said the group would study the problem of bringing "government organization for the cold war" up to date.

Jackson made public a 32-page staff report summarizing "hundreds of ideas" gathered in four months of "frank and hardheaded" consultation with top level government policy makers and non-government experts.

★ ★ ★

As an example, the report said the secretary of state has new responsibilities and, "the problem of finding time to discharge them is formidable."

One suggestion was creation of a minister of foreign affairs of cabinet rank, responsible to the secretary of state, "who could represent the United States at foreign ministers' meetings."

This would free the secretary for the task of advising the president and directing his department.

LONG VIEW — Through the Voltmanns' front window they have a peaceful view of pastures, white fences and grazing horses. The sofa in front of this window is sandalwood color. Stripes in the cushions are gray, gold, brown and burnt orange. Draperies are white with tan stripes.

HOMEWORK — Bob Voltmann looks on as his wife, Doreen, plays through music she might use with her high school students. The grand piano has a place of honor in the rear window area. Notice the handsome block floor which the Voltmanns put down themselves. The white sofa next to the fireplace shows at the right. Behind it a tall leafy plant adds a note of color.

Your Neighbor's House

Robert Voltmann House Sings With Color

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Never have we been more convinced of the rightness of color in the modern home than we were when we saw and photographed the Robert Voltmann home on North Adams road.

This white Cape Cod home on top of a hill fairly sings with color. Making music of another sort is Mrs. Voltmann, a music teacher. She and her husband carefully planned their house, using Pontiac Press plans, before they were married. While their fathers did the plumbing and wiring, Bob and Doreen did a great deal of the work themselves and subcontracted the rest.

Their lot which is a little over two acres in size was an old apple orchard. Across the road to the west is a horse farm with white fences and graceful animals.

The Voltmanns started their house a year before their marriage and moved in on their wedding day. But it took another year to finish the job. In addition they planted a thousand blue spruce trees around the perimeter of their property.

FOR COMPANY

This five-room house has an attached garage and a full basement. Both Voltmanns are active in youth work in their church and often entertain large groups of young people. In the summer they may have a hundred or more at a backyard party. The basement recreation room takes over in the winter.

★ ★ ★

There are windows, both back and front, in the living room. The one in the front is large with a smaller one on each side. The window in the rear is made up of small panes. Both are draped with tan and white striped, semi-sheer material.

The floor is made of oak blocks. This is one of the jobs the Voltmanns tackled. In the center of the room is a large round deep green rug with a sculptured border.

★ ★ ★

Walls in this room are painted burnt orange. The cove ceiling is white. A white mantel tops the orange brick fireplace. The hearth is ceramic tile.

Under the front picture window is a sandalwood sofa with striped cushions on it. Next to the back window is a baby grand piano. Between the piano and the fireplace is a white leather sofa. This is the middle part of a sectional sofa.

★ ★ ★

The other two parts are used as chairs. Between them is what looks like a small storage chest. In reality, it is a table that extends to seat 13 guests.

GAY KITCHEN

The kitchen floor has spatter linoleum on it — brown with green, yellow and red splashes of color. Tile around the working area is green. Counters are yellow. The cupboards are framed in white. Curtains are gre bove the breakfast bar on one wall is yellow wallpaper with a salad bowl design. The Voltmanns use a pair of fiberglas chairs when eating.

★ ★ ★

The first of the three bedrooms is a den with walls of knotty pine. Handsome custom made (by Bob Voltmann) bookcases decorate one wall. The draperies are green with yellow, orange and darker green design.

On the floor is a hand-loomed rug of brown, yellow and gray. The desk has a yellow Formica top and a gray chair. The bed sofa is orange, brown and gold.

In the bathroom there is a pink furry rug. Walls are black tile below and white above. Fixtures are white. A bit of wallpaper above the tub is identical with the curtains which are gray, pink and white.

★ ★ ★

In the guest room walls are lavender. The semi-sheer curtains are striped, white on white. Four white cherub plaques with gold trim are used as wall decorations. The round white rug is furry.

PURPLE FELT

Twin beds are placed along two adjoining walls, meeting in one corner. These have white underskirts and purple felt spreads with scalloped edges. Chests are mahogany.

★ ★ ★

The Voltmanns have a red bedroom. It sounds too brilliant, but in actuality it is a warm, attractive room. Mrs. Voltmann said that when she was ill last winter, the color of the walls cheered her up immensely.

The bed is placed between matching light wood chests. The back panel of the chests becomes a headboard, forming a niche for the bed. The bedspread is gold and white.

★ ★ ★

Except for a white rug squared off with black lines, the floor is bare polished wood. At the foot of the bed is a black slatted bench holding a pair of white pillows.

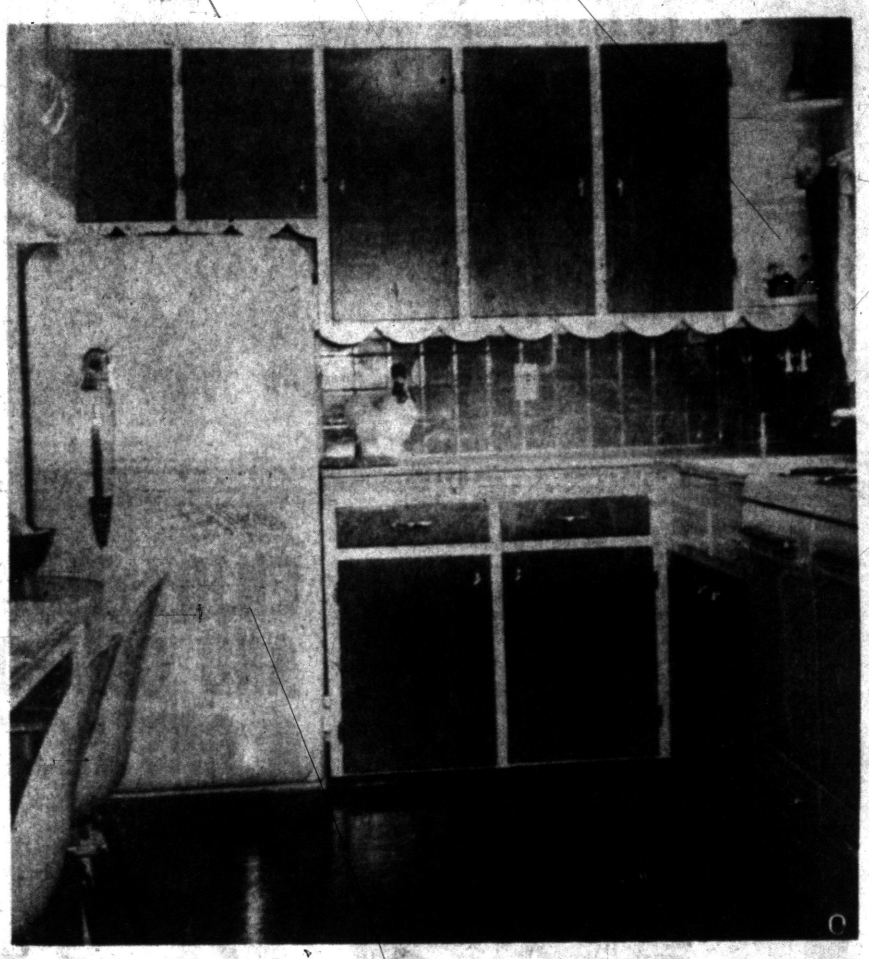

★ ★ ★

On the wall opposite the bed is an enormous mirror. This reflects the entire room. More light comes from the many paned bowed window in front.

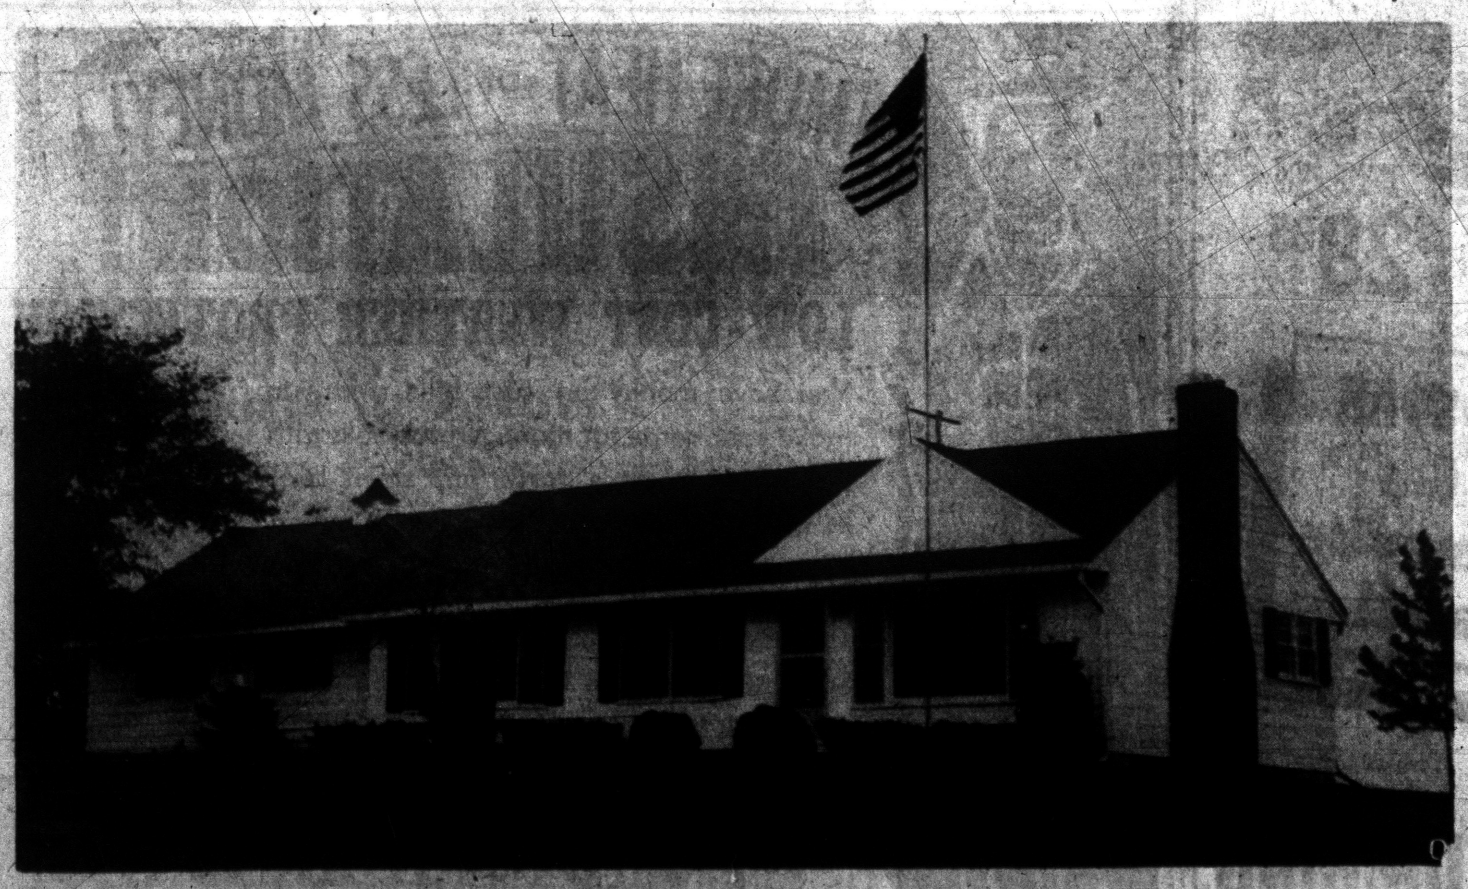

★ ★ ★

The exterior of this Cape Cod home is white aluminum siding. Green shutters and a green front door provide good color contrast. The planting in front of the house has been kept low. And daily on the front lawn a flag flies at the top of a tall pole.

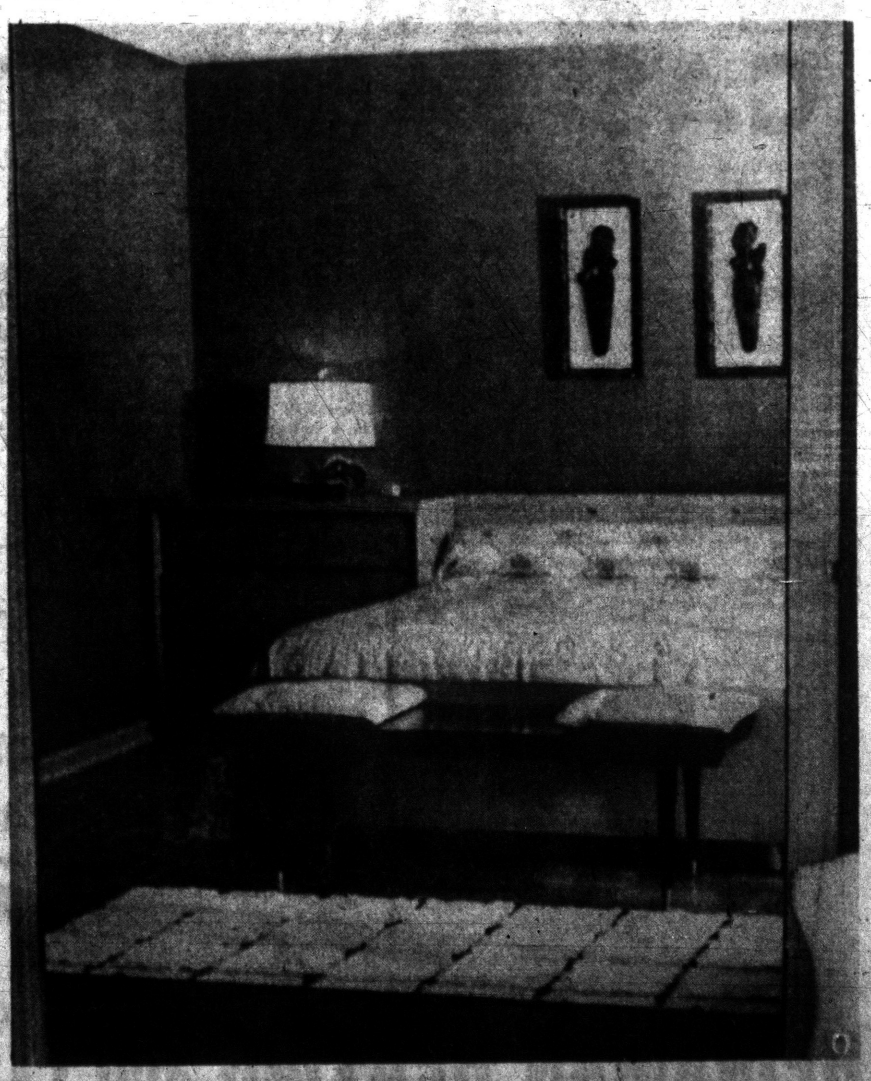

Pontiac Press Photos by Vanderworp

SMALL KITCHEN — Deep brown spatter print tile is used on the kitchen floor. At the left just a bit of the breakfast bar and its fibreglas chairs can be seen. Cupboard doors are birch, outlined in white. Tile on the splash boards is green, while the counter tops are yellow.

HOUSE ON A HILL — The Robert Voltmanns live in this Cape Cod home on top of a hill on North Adams road. Once an apple orchard, their property includes about two acres. The green trim on the white house and attached garage almost matches the shrubs in front. Not everyone keeps a flag flying daily, but the Voltmanns do — on a tall pole. With the help of relatives and some sub-contracted professionals, the Voltmanns built their house in a two-year period of time.

MIRRORED IMAGE — This enormous mirror mounted on the wall opposite the bed makes the room seem even larger than it is. Walls are red; the coved ceiling white. The scatter rug in the foreground is white with black lines. White pillows show up starkly on the black slatted bench. The bedspread is gold and white. Furniture is light in color, has brass hardware.

Wallpaper Personalizes Rooms Inexpensively

NEW HANGING — A droll tableau of old Venice modernly interpreted with a gay splash of color by famed Italian artist, Bruno Capacci. The scroll's design, borrowed from the original painting through special arrangements with Mr. Capacci, is meticulously reproduced by Tom Tru Studios. Screen printed on textured Belgian linen suspended between walnut bars, the scroll's dimensions are a substantial 53"x30". Either of two color combinations (blue tones or orange and yellow, each with many color accents) can set a pace for other accessories in the room. Available locally.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: Would like to install cork tile over a concrete floor above grade. The concrete was painted with a rubber base paint a few years ago. Must this paint be removed? And can the tile be placed right on the concrete?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The cork tile can be installed directly on the concrete if certain precautions are observed. There is no need to remove the rubber base paint. If there are any cracks or holes in the concrete, they must be filled. All rough spots must be smoothed.

★ ★ ★

And be sure to remove all wax, grease and dirt, using warm soapy water or a special cleansing compound. Do not use gasoline or any cleaners containing mineral spirit solvents.

Question: Should screens be painted with a regular paint brush?

★ ★ ★

Answer: Either a brush or a small roller can be used. The best way to avoid clogging the mesh with paint is to use a ready-made screen painter, which is available in any hardware store and is nothing more than a piece of felt or similar material attached to a block of wood.

Attach Fabric to Door for Distinctive Note

A good way to add color and a modern touch to a door, cabinet, valance or storage compartment is to attach a piece of brightly-colored or patterned fabric. Its texture and "feel" lend a distinctive note to the overall decor.

Fabric can be wrapped around and attached to a backing of smooth-surfaced hardboard ¼" thick with the same glue that is used on wood or by ordinary paper staples. Smooth out all creases or bubbles as soon as the fabric is applied.

This handyman project is designed for a husband and wife team because Mom can choose and cut the fabric while Dad builds the sliding doors or valance.

A free plan showing construction details for sliding cabinet doors can be obtained by writing a postal to the Home Service Bureau, Suite Chicago 2, Ill., requesting plan No. AD-239.

Pennies operate a night light for a year. Placed in hallways and bath they can save you dollars in fall-caused medical bills.

Cleaning Job Is Easier With Handy Supplies

That sage advice about having a place for everything, and keeping everything in its place, is a good rule to apply to cleaning equipment. Too often it is inefficiently stored in nooks and crannies all over the house—or in the front closet, Fibber McGee style.

If you are building a house, you can select a convenient location to build in a closet for cleaning supplies. Lacking such opportunity to plan ahead, you very often can find storage space by converting a corner, or an area under the stairs to this use.

One corner of a family room can become a cleaning closet by squaring it off with Formica sliding doors and surfacing the walls with melamine pegboard. Here, one compartment serves as a cleaning catch-all, the other as storage for coats, boots, miscellaneous boxes and toys. Alternate idea is to use one compartment for cleaning gear, one for other household supplies and repair equipment.

Either when constructing a closet or merely allotting space that already exists, it's a good idea to assemble all the cleaning gear you'd like to store away, then plan its placement so the equipment you use most often is easiest to reach. You should be able to get at your vacuum cleaner and its attachments, for example, without having to pull out half a dozen other items first.

Here are some hints for closet organization:

Hang vacuum hose with wands attached if closet height permits, to save time when you are ready to clean. Keep attachments in their carrying kits, so you can pick them all up at once.

Then use tools in logical order: the soft dusting brush first, then the upholstery tool, the long crevice tool for hard-to-reach areas, and finally the "vibra-beat" nozzle to remove deep-down dirt from carpets and rugs.

Keep the most frequently used waxes and polishes in a small, easy-to-store basket with a sturdy handle. Hang brooms, mops and brushes on pegs rather than leaning them against a wall with the working end on the floor.

Have a place in the closet for pad and pencil, so you can make note of supplies to re-order.

Wallpapers Simulate Any Texture

NEW YORK (UPI)—Want a brick wall in the living room? Fake it, with wallpaper. Like the look of wood paneling? Ape it, with wallpaper.

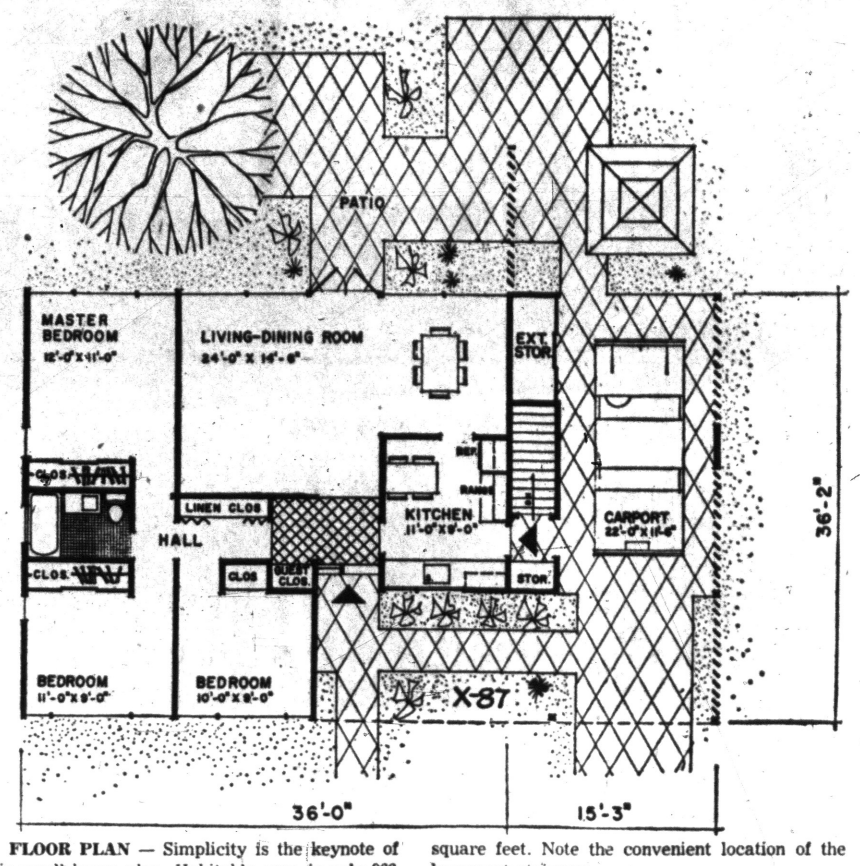

The new papers offer a variety of designs to look and — in many cases — feel like the surface of wood, stone, brick, tile or marble.

One "tile" pattern called the "Zuider Zee" reproduces the tiles which have been a product of the Dutch for centuries. Other textures include simulated wicker work, basket weave, old stone "rubbings," cloudy metallic effects, silver and gold leaf, Shoji screening, wood molding, shutters, columns, and iron or grillework.

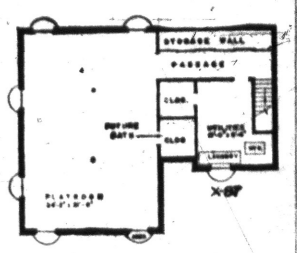

Or, you can buy paper with the texture of linen, burlap, moire, grass cloth, tweed, silk, and even quilted fabric.

The new textures can be used for one or two walls for contrast; or as "accent" — to cover screens, room dividers, create dadoes, or trim windows and doors.

An ammonia solution is useful in removing paint splashes from windows. Hot vinegar works, too.

FLOOR PLAN — Simplicity is the keynote of this small house plan. Habitable area is only 966 square feet. Note the convenient location of the basement stairway.

BASEMENT — Plans call for large recreation room and a laundry in the basement.

Choose Your Exterior for This Budget House

By DAVID L. BOWEN

Here's an economy - sized plan with a high glamor-per-dollar ratio.

★ ★ ★

Low building cost was one of the major considerations influencing the design, but it was not allowed to stifle inspiration. Even though the habitable area is only 966 square feet, the home has a surprising number of luxury features: an entrance foyer and a service vestibule, good isolation for its three bedrooms, an excellent circulation pattern, and an interesting facade.

★ ★ ★

In fact, Architect Samuel Paul has developed two alternate exteriors for X-87 in the House of the Week series. One is smartly modern, the other closer to American residential tradition. Although the floor plan remains identical behind either exterior, the roof and ceilings are drastically different.

For the modern exterior, the roof is pitched from the centerline down toward each side. The underside of the pitched roof forms the ceilings in all rooms. This makes possible a spectacular window wall, with the glass rising to the roof beams, in the living-dining room. At the front of the house, exposed rafters on one side dramatize an entrance court.

★ ★ ★

For the traditional exterior, the roof is a conventional gable-type with a wide, modern overhang. Inside, ceilings are flat.

Architect Paul maintains that the modern version, which eliminates some of the carpentry involved in a conventional ceiling would be cheaper to build than the traditional house.

The secret of X-87's room arrangement is its simplicity. Placing the long 24-foot living-dining room at the back isolates this area from ordinary traffic. The kitchen profits from its front location because it's handy to both main and service entrances.

★ ★ ★

Over-all dimensions are 51'3" width by 36' 2" depth.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

The front foyer is a convenient go-between for all areas. The bedrooms are all handy to the bath and open on the short hallway with a minimum of waste space.

★ ★ ★

One of the plan's most unusual features is the location of the basement stairway. The narrowest part of the house was lengthened a few feet to make room for these stairs. The benefits stemming from this move are well worth the trouble.

The extension creates a service vestibule off the kitchen. Leading down from this vestibule, the basement stairs have a maximum proximity to the outside door plus perfect accessibility from the kitchen. A storage room opening to the outside occupies the space behind the stairs.

The architect suggests a developed basement with this house, and has partitioned it off to create a 34 x 21-foot playroom, a utilities room for laundry and furnace, storage areas, and a room for a possible future bath.

Plans call for a carport, but in areas with severe winter weather this space could be enclosed to make a garage.

The suggested exterior is redwood siding with white trim and light roof with either traditional or modern exterior alternates.

Try to Anticipate Future When Wiring New Home

"There is a tide in the building of a house which, taken at the flood, leads on to the saving of money."

Shakespeare didn't say it exactly that way. But if he had been a builder, he might have. Today the builders say it this way: "Do it when the walls are open."

"When the walls are open" is that period in the construction of a new home that comes after the framing of the structure and before the plaster, wallboard or other interior wall material is in place. It is possibly the most important time of all for the prospective home owner, because it is then that much of his new home's convenience and good looks must be built carefully into the open walls.

For instance, if wiring for lighting, appliances and telephones is not adequately placed at this point, it must be done later at much inconvenience and additional expense. It seems that a family having a house built would know what it wants in a new home. But the records shows that what a family wants at the time of construction is different from what it wants one, two or a few years later.

When the walls are open is the time to be sure there is sufficient electrical power and enough circuits to take care of future as well as present needs. Think ahead about the possible needs for air conditioning, power tools and appliances.

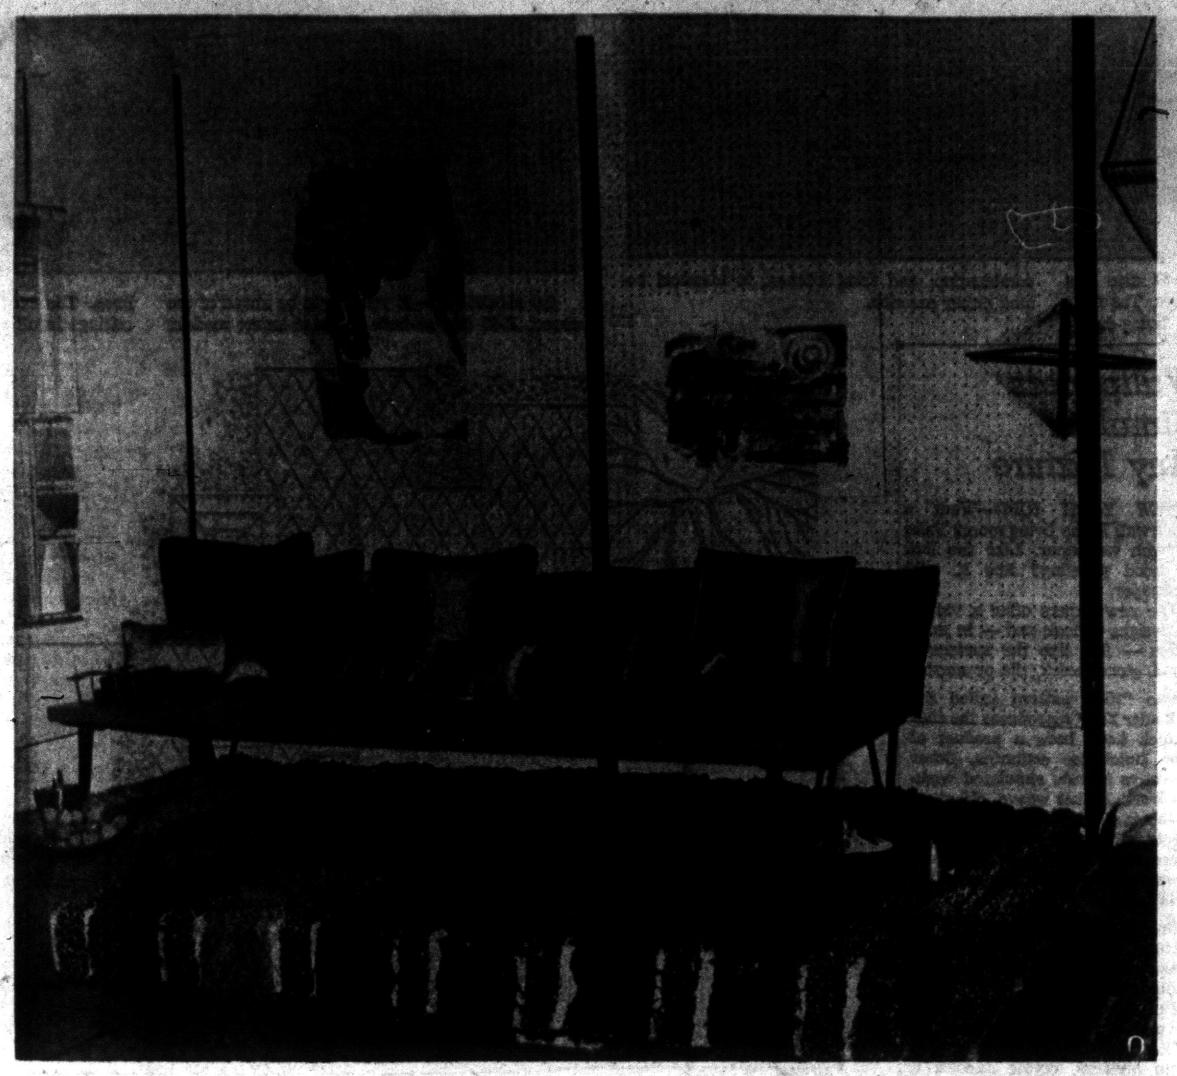

Make sure the circuits are balanced properly to meet your needs. And see that plenty of outlets are installed. It is surprising how often a family that has a house built to order will find the need for extra outlets after living in the home a few months.

All lighting needs should be considered—and advantage can be taken of recessed or indirect lighting. Since the ceiling is open when the walls are open, this is the time to take care of overhead lighting in places like bedrooms and recreation rooms. By wiring up for ceiling fixtures, you can perhaps avoid the cost of an extra lamp or two.

FUTURE PHONES

Plan ahead with your local telephone company to see that concealed wiring is installed, not only where you plan to have a telephone now but where you might have one in the future. Just as with electrical wiring, make sure that enough outlets are provided, as so often there is a need for expansion of phone service to meet changing family requirements.

Wiring for hi-fi or stereo systems does not have to be exposed, either, if advance planning is done, Junior or Jane may not be interested in hi-fi or stereo right now, but they may be a few years from now. Of course, if money is no object, then you can forget everything we've said.

Decorative Items, Advice Offered by Interiors Shop

To help people use what they have more effectively and to suggest new ideas in home decorating is the philosophy behind the new interior shop, Country Galleries. Located at 1941 South Telegraph, the 1700 foot store contains an assortment of home furnishing objects dating from the 17th century shaving mirror to the most modern metal mobile.

★ ★ ★

Jan DiMarco, Lillian Hagerman, Naomi Hobrock and Kay Shannon are seeing their brain child become a full-fledged reality. First they tore out partitions in the building and painted all the walls white. They remodeled the exterior and created a Japanese garden in front. The grill in the front door was part of the fireplace in the old United States Hotel in Saratoga Springs, New York.

Back in one corner is a country kitchen, complete with little pot-bellied stove. In a separate room only contemporary art objects are displayed. The front show room has a mixture of things and centuries.

Among the services offered by these four talented Bloomfield Hills women is an advisory service on home decorating and the use of whatever decorative accessories the customer may own. They are offering for sale lamps, paintings, fabrics, ceramics, rugs, sculpture, metal work, furniture and hand made jewelry.

★ ★ ★

Herb Winges of Rochester who is locally known for his fine workmanship in wood will be associated with the shop. He will make new furniture to order or revamp old pieces.

Mrs. Hagerman is a specialist in dried flower arrangements and will create original ones to order.

One-of-a-kind items, both domestic and imported, make up most of the stock of the new store. It is to become a hanging gallery for pictures of local artists.

Store house are 9:30 to 5:30, Monday through Saturday.

Research House Put Up at MSU

EAST LANSING — It has been announced by B. M. Radcliffe, Associate Professor of the Forest Products Department at Michigan State University that a research house has been erected recently. The building site is about three miles southeast of the campus at Dobie and Hatch Roads.

The research house was built of recently developed materials that allowed the complete eight-room structure to be erected in two days. Only the cabinet work, wiring, glazing, trim and finish have to be installed.

Such unusual structural components as plastic panel floors, and foamed plastic studless walls are used. Finish floors are resin impregnated hardwood. No footings, only eight inch wide by 24 inch deep concrete foundation under bearing walls are present. Wiring is all external under a moulding. In place of conventional heating ducts, foil lined areas in the ceiling lead warm air to both first and second floors.

The research house differs from the typical premanufactured house in that it uses unit panels for floors, walls and ceiling that allow it to be built faster. The house was built under the auspices of the National Association of Home Builders represented by Robert Garrow, and the Department of Forest Products, M.S.U.

Landscaping plans were drawn by students in the Department of Urban Planning and Landscape Architecture, Professor John Frasier, head. The winning designs were drawn by Richard K. Deed and Charles W. Oakes.

Black and White

A homeowner has given his new bungalow an inviting appearance by painting the frame sides white and using black for shutters and roof. The front door is coated with a deep red paint to complete an atmosphere of warmth and charm.

Architects Are Urged to Try for Award

A fellowship offering a stipend of $3,000 for travel abroad was announced today by the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

★ ★ ★

In urging architects of this area to compete, Lester D. Tichy, Chairman of the Chapter's LeBrun Committee, said that the 1960 award calls for the design of a heliport for a city of approximately 300,000 population. Program for the award will be available Jan. 15th and the rendering itself must be postmarked not later than March 7th.

★ ★ ★

Architects who are between the ages of 23 and 30 and who have at least a year and a half of office experience are eligible for the award. They must be both American citizens and residents, and must not be the recipient of other traveling scholarships.

The LeBrun traveling scholarship was established by the will of Napoleon Eugene LeBrun, best known as architect of the Metropolitan Life Building, once the tallest structure in New York. It has been awarded biennially since 1912 and was first won by Otto Eggers, now senior partner of the firm of Eggers and Higgins, New York.

The program of the competition and further information on it can be obtained from Lester D. Tichy, Chairman of the LeBrun Committee, New York Chapter, American Institute of Architects, 115 East 40th Street, N. Y. 16.

Homework's Easier When Well Lighted

To the eternal dismay of solicitous mothers and conscientious fathers, kids have the DARNDEST way of studying in the most uncomfortable spot there is and as far away from a good light source as possible.

Siding with the kids in this case, Gerald Thurston, designer for Lightolier, Inc., the country's largest manufacturer of lamps and lighting fixtures, says: "Don't fight the sprawl — save their eyes by making good light available wherever the young student likes to perch."

If Junior has a penchant for doing his geography lesson lying flat on the floor, for instance, a pulley fixture on a track will put the right light on the subject. As mobile as a ten-year-old, the track-pulley combination means that the light can be moved to the proper position and then lowered or raised for book-level illumination.

If at all possible, Mr. Thurston says, get Junior a desk of his own. Make it attractive to him by painting it a gay color and let him know its all his for his private possessions as well as his books.

Since light which is too highly concentrated is as bad as not enough, be sure the desk light is well diffused. "The lamp has two jobs to perform," he commented. "Not only should it illuminate the work on the desk, but it should also give enough GENERAL light —a halo of light, so to speak — so that the contrast between light and dark is mitigated. It's this constant adjustment the eye has to make between bright and dark which causes eye fatigue."

Particularly when there's another child in the family, a secondary study area may have to be set up. The space limitations of the average home being what they are, it's usually a good idea for this second area to be a double-purpose one. Try lighting a dining table with an attractive wall lamp.

Controlled by a three - way switch, it can give a quiet light for dining, be increased in intensity for studying. This technique works well wherever a built-in-or wall-anchored table is placed . . . dining room, dinette, family room or den.

High school and college students particularly seem to land on their spines in the nearest lounge chair for more comfortable cogitation. Designer Thurston has a solution for this type, too. Try a tree lamp for effective lighting. The tree lamp, being portable, can be moved in close to the chair and, since it has three lights, can light the book and the surrounding area as well.

"If a student complains of fatigue," Mr. Thurston said, "it's probably because his eyes are tired. Plentiful, well-diffused light can make it possible for him to study longer stretches at a time and without discomfort."

Painting Children's Toys Takes Special Procedure

If you are planning to paint toys or furniture for children, you will need some important information on the proper types of paint and how to use them. The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association has a booklet on this subject, which presents paint information; a list of the proper tools you will need, how to begin preparing surfaces for painting, and other ideas on how to make children's furniture attractive and decorative.

Send your name, address and request to the Association at 1500 Rhode Island Avenue, N.W., Washington 5, D.C., for your free copy of Painting Toys and Children's Furniture.

Varnish Shows Grain

Proper preparation of the surface is the most important step when you are planning to refinish old furniture with varnish. Being transparent, varnish will show up every flaw in the piece but since it is transparent it will also show off the beauty of the wood grain. So have the surface satin smooth.

Southern Pine lumber holds four important firsts in its field. It is 1) strongest of construction woods, 2) hardest of softwoods, 3) easiest wood to treat, 4) wood with the greatest nail-holding power.

Good Wood Building Lasts

Professor Dean Boyd Richards of Auburn University points to the existence of homes over 200 years old as outstanding examples of what good construction can do with wood. In addition to being framed with lumber, most of these old homes are sided and paneled with wood. Some were never painted at all.

Lumber is used for exterior siding and interior paneling principally because of its natural warmth and physical charm. Today, however, even greater interest centers on methods which render it a permanent material that requires little or no maintenance.

For example, the U.S. Forest Products Laboratory says that when a few simple precautions are used, "the beauty of wood siding can endure for centuries."

The first thing is to remember that the quality of the structure, also made of wood, has a lot to do with the performance of the siding itself. Therefore, the structural lumber, as well as the exterior wood, should be good quality and properly seasoned or dry.

The Federal Laboratory and Professor Richards both say that a state of dryness is the key to permanence in wood. It should be initially dry and methods of construction should be employed that keep it dry after it is in service. In the case of wood siding, this calls for tight joints that prevent moisture accumulation behind the boards and a deep roof overhang that protects paint from rain and sun.

Paint lasts much longer when it is applied to "dry" wood.

The Southern Pine Association says that much the same principles apply to wood paneling. All grades of Southern Pine paneling carry mandatory 12 per cent moisture content limits, and this assurance is present when the lumber is grade-marked.

Paneling should be protected from moisture absorption by stacking indoors before it is ready for use. Good construction does the rest. Modern finishes for wood paneling are so durable that two decades or more will elapse before a refinishing job is required.

Nearly half of the existing homes in the U. S. are more than 40 years old, and presumably in need of home improvement, say housing specialists.

Refugee Family Builds Home of Tamped Clay

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — In this era of modern split-levels and ranch style homes, the John Schmidt family is content with their nine-room home built almost entirely of Ohio dirt.

Schmidt and his wife and 10 children live on the outskirts of Columbus in a home he built of tamped clay in his spare time. When the Schmidts came to this country seven years ago they had only enough money to buy a home site.

They came to the United States under the sponsorship of the National Catholic Welfare Organization.

Schmidt, a cabinet maker, went to work for a contractor. He planned and worked on his home during his off hours.

The walls were built of moistened, tamped clay taken from the basement excavation. Faced with limestone and paneled or painted within, the walls appear perfectly normal save for the thickness. They stand eight feet high and 14 inches thick.

The house has six bedrooms, two baths, a living room, kitchen and family room. Schmidt waterproofed the exterior. He used chicken wire to reinforce the walls and put more into the construction than usually is done in Europe where earthen homes have existed for years.

Schmidt put up a 20-foot greenhouse, heated by the furnace, against one exterior wall. A patio covers a 12 by 20 foot cistern which provides part of the water supply. The garage is completely underground.

The Schmidts insist their home is warm in the winter and cool in the summer.

Mrs. Schmidt said, "We're very happy in our house. We've had no troubles. None at all."

Have Ventilation

When working with paint remover, especially the benzol type, avoid breathing the fumes and be sure to have plenty of ventilation.

Don't smoke because these products are inflammable.

CAGE TALK—Pontiac Central basketball coach Art Van Ryzin (right) and Pontiac Northern coach Dick Hall talk shop following Central's 61-35 rout of the Huskies last night in the PCH gym. It was the opening game of the season for Hall and Van Ryzin's second win in as many starts.

Capacity Crowd Sees Chiefs Scalp Huskies

By BILL CORNWELL

Dick Hall, Pontiac Northern's head basketball coach, knew it was an awfully tough way to begin the season, but he didn't know just how tough until the time actually arrived.

The time arrived last night at the Pontiac Central gymnasium where Hall's cage forces opened their 1959-60 campaign in a wigwam tenented by hostile Indians who call themselves Chiefs.

Hall really knows the "score" today. The Chiefs, a most unfriendly tribe of redskins, scalped his Huskies by a 61-35 margin before a turnaway crowd in the PCH gym.

It was Central's second runaway triumph over the Huskies. The two crosstown rivals met on the hardwoods for the first time last February at PNH and coach Art Van Ryzin's cagers raced to a 78-40 victory.

The easy win was in marked contrast to Tuesday night's game at PCH when the Chiefs started their schedule with a hard-earned 52-44 decision over Dearborn Edsel Ford.

Central and Northern will meet once more this season — Feb. 9 at PNH — and some kind of a miracle must occur between now and then if the outcome of the second contest is to be any different than the first.

★ ★ ★

The Huskies tried hard yesterday. They gave it all they had from beginning to end, but they were outmanned and outgunned in every respect.

Central had too much of everything for Northern to handle — too much scoring power, too much rebounding strength, too much all-around ability.

Bill Pritchett, 6-foot-4 center, and George Fed, 6-foot-2 forward, dominated the backboards for PCH with Pritchett grabbing 14 rebounds and Fed 12.

Balanced scoring featured the PCH attack with three players posting double figures in the scorebook. Pritchett led the way with 19 points, followed by Booker Hurner's 16 and Fed's 10.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs attempted 61 shots and made 28 of them for a 45 per cent shooting average. Northern, which had great difficulty mounting an offense, hit only 14 of 43 shots for 32 per cent.

Guard Jim Capistrant, only 5-foot-7, was Northern's leading scorer with 10 points on five baskets from long range. Mike Fedynik, Northern's top point-maker last season, was held to a single foul shot in the 3rd quarter.

Northern did have the thrill of holding the lead three times very early in the game by scores of 1-0, 3-2 and 5-3. Then the Chiefs started rolling and the rest of the contest was merely entertainment.

Central enjoyed quarterly leads of 16-9, 31-17 and 46-29. Everyone got into the act for PCH before the evening was over as Van Ryzin emptied his bench in the 4th period.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs' victory enabled them to win the first leg in the battle for The Pontiac Press all-sports trophy, a perpetual award to be retained annually by the school compiling the most points in athletic events between the two city foes.

Pressure athletes are hard to come by in high school sports but Waterford coach Jerry Wallace came up with a gem last night in Gene Riabucha — a fellow who had never played in a varsity game before.

The cool junior sank seven successive "clutch" foul shots in the closing stages of play including the actual clincher to enable the Skippers to open the basketball season with a well-earned 50-49 victory over Wayne before a sell-out home crowd.

Riabucha's final charity swisher decided the wild affair with 12 seconds to play after a technical foul was called on the Wayne bench. Wayne got off one shot which fell short before the final whistle of the rough-and-tumble affair.

It looked like football was still on several times during the contest. A total of 47 personals were called resulting in 63 free throws.

★ ★ ★

Waterford took 38 of the foul shots and converted 24 which proved to be the overall difference as Wayne tallied six more field goals.

Riabucha got into the game when Wallace was running out of players. Three starters had fouled out and another was ejected. His points all came in the last 1½ minutes.

Three straight times he matched Wayne baskets with two from the line on 1-and-1 situations as the score was tied at 45 with 1:19 left, 47 with 44 seconds and 49 with 22 seconds to go.

Although he turned out to be the hero of the Skippers' 1st opening night hoop victory in eight years, Gene was not alone in the starring role. All 10 performers had a hand in it.

Ray Robinson paced the scoring with 12 followed by speed-merchant Ed Stigers with 10. The latter gave the bigger Wayne lads fits constantly stealing the ball although he missed four key layups in the last half.

Bill Bryce worked well on the boards and added nine digits hitting well on free throws himself. Bob Newman excelled as a feeder, came up with a big basket with 2½ left and got several important rebounds in the late stages. Jerry Lewis and Dave Goff turned in good showings.

Waterford played its best ball in the first six minutes racing to a 12-2 lead but then went scoreless for about the same span while the visitors were piling up 16 points in a row to go in front. It was a battle from then on with Waterford in the van 24-23 at halftime and 37-32 starting the 4th quarter.

Wallace said he was "satisfied" with the teams performance for the 1st time out.

Inter-Lakes Teams Lose

A pair of Inter-Lakes Conference teams had their troubles with outside foes last night.

Farmington, considered an I-L favorite, was trounced by Livonia Bentley, 48-37 as Southfield was being drubbed 62-40 by Ferndale of the Eastern Michigan League.

Farmington led 19-15 at halftime, but Bentley went ahead 31-30 after three periods and 42-32 early in the final stanza.

Darryl Allen's 14 led Farmington with Jim Carmichael getting 20 for Bentley.

Ferndale's 24 points in the second quarter gave the Dales a 34-24 halftime lead, and the Jays never came close after that.

Mike Brown's 13 and Larry Tregoning's 17 topped Ferndale, as Southfield failed to get a player in double figures. Best effort was Jim McGaffin's 9 points.

Inter-Lakes League action starts next Friday night with Southfield hosting Pontiac Northern, Walled Lake at Waterford, and Berkley at Farmington.

MSU Assistant Agase Accepts Toronto Position

EAST LANSING (AP)—Duffy Daugherty began his annual hunt today for a new Michigan State football coaching assistant.

★ ★ ★

Line coach Lou Agase became the latest Spartan aide to move up to his own head coaching job yesterday. Agase, a Michigan State assistant for five years, signed a two-year contract as coach of the Toronto Argonauts of Canada's Big Four.

★ ★ ★

Agase, 35, an old Illinois lineman, saw his first game of Canadian football only a week ago.

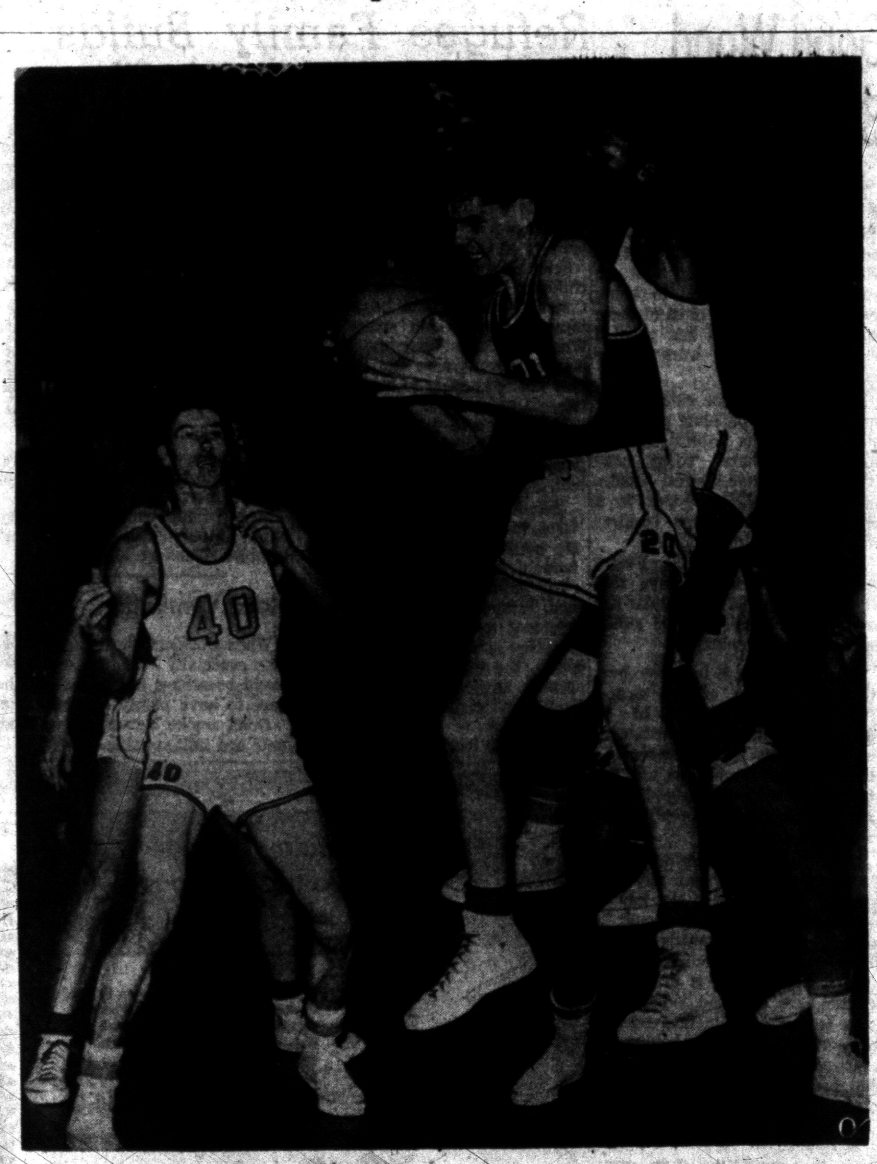

Lew Hayman, director of the Argos, declined to disclose Agase's salary.

Agase said he wasn't disturbed because he's stepping into what's considered the toughest job in Canadian football.

★ ★ ★

The Argos haven't climbed above third place in six seasons and have missed out on the playoffs five times.

Northern's Steve Thompson hugs the ball for dear life as Central's Bill Hayward (40) arrives too late. The Chiefs hauled down 30 rebounds compared to only 15 for Northern as the Huskies absorbed a 61-35 lacing in the PCH gymnasium.

Romeo fell behind in the first quarter and never closed the gap except for a five point spread, 51-45 early in the fourth quarter.

Jim Black's 24 points was not enough for Romeo as Laverne Willis got 22 for Roseville and Doug Seine added 13.

In other area games, Cranbrook took a 66-54 beating at the hands of Hazel Park, while Royal Oak Shrine smothered Lourdes of River Rouge, 70-54.

Cranbrook was behind 33-25 at halftime and never threatened seriously. Bill Blanchard led the Cranes with 15 points.

Bill Boldt with 22, Bob Fulcher with 18 and Jim Zelder with 13 were the Hazel Park top pointmakers.

Shrine led 33-25 at halftime in drubbing Lourdes, led by Stan Gracki with 21, Pete Sapute with 16 and Mike Glynn with 10.

Tom Bondy was the high man for the night. He had 24 for Lourdes.

Jackets Drub Fitzgerald by 53-45 Verdict

Troy Again Shows Its Power in Oakland-B in 65-29 Win

After losing its opener last Tuesday to Rochester, Avondale got into Oakland-B league play and scored a 53-45 victory over Fitzgerald last night.

★ ★ ★

The Yellow Jackets, figured to be the top contender for league honors, led 31-18 at halftime and never were pressed as they had a margin of 16 points early in the third quarter.

Defending league champion Troy, however, showed it again must be reckoned with as the Colts whipped Madison 65-29.

The game was never in doubt as Troy moved to a 35-9 halftime advantage and Madison failed to get a player with more than five points.

The other league game saw Clawson defeating Oak Park 46-41 in a game which saw the losers score only one point in the third quarter after holding a 26-20 halftime lead.

★ ★ ★

Ron Hewlett had 11 for Clawson and Errol Sweet had 15 for Oak Park.

Bud Acton was Troy's big scorer with 19 points as 11 Colts broke into the scoring column.

In a high fouling game, three Avondale players went out via personals, Herb Harris, Darryl Thorpe and Jim McDonald.

Thorpe led the Avondale scoring with 20 points while Duane Pisarek had 16 for Fitzgerald.

★ ★ ★

The showdown with Troy won't have to wait too long. Next week the Jackets travel to Troy in what should be the battle of contenders.

Broncos Rally to Beat Hills, 63-43; Milford, Northville Lose

If opening night is any indication of things to come, the Wayne-Oakland League basketball race should be a real dizzy affair this season.

The W-O circuit launched its 1959-60 campaign with a full four-game card last night and Clarkston and Northville, both habitual title contenders, took it on the chin from unexpected sources.

Clarkston, pre-season title favorite, is quite obviously hurting without the services of John Parks who may be through for the year with a head injury. The Wolves lost their 2nd straight decision last night, a 49-41 setback at the hands of West Bloomfield at Keego Harbor.

Northville received a 55-4 thumping from Clarenceville while defending champion Brighton defeated Milford, 52-41, and Holly handed Bloomfield Hills a 63-4 trouncing to complete the conference program.

After ending the 1st quarter in a 9-9 tie, West Bloomfield shot into a 21-13 halftime lead and held command the rest of the way. Clarkston pulled within three points in the 1st minute of the 4th period, but the Lakers pulled away again.

Jack Newton and Denis Alix paced the Laker offense with 14 and 13 points, respectively. Clarkston's Bill Powell took individual scoring honors with 17.

Holly, trailing by a 19-10 count at the end of the 1st period, came loose with an 18-point 2nd stanza while the Hills could net only three and the Broncos were never in danger after that. A 19-point 3rd quarter really wrapped it up for Holly.

★ ★ ★

Ron Morlan, the lone holdover from last season's strong club poured 27 points through the hoop to spark the Holly attack. Bruce Billings bagged 17 for the Hills as did Holly's Don Mackenzie.

A dismal six-point 3rd period spelled disaster for Milford after the Redskins left the court at halftime with a 24-21 edge over Brighton. The winners moved into a 41-36 advantage entering the 4th session and Milford never came closer than three during the final eight minutes.

Don Appleton spearheaded the Brighton scoring punch with 3 points, 10 in the 4th quarter. John Sheffler bagged 17 for the loser.

★ ★ ★

Northville never held the lead in a surprising loss to Clarenceville. The Mustangs managed to rally for a 37-37 deadlock at the end of the 3rd period, but Clarenceville pulled away in the finale.

Merton Roberts of Clarenceville was the game's top point-maker with 18. Gary Morgan scored 13 for Northville.

Press Award Goes to Pontiac Central Guard

Brown Top County Gridder

Although it must have seemed a foregone conclusion ever since the season ended, it's now official—Charley Brown of Pontiac Central is Oakland County's outstanding football player for 1959.

The modest, soft-spoken Brown who speaks with loud authority on the gridiron, was a landslide choice to receive The Pontiac Press award in recognition of his accomplishments through three years of grid warfare at PCH.

The Press award, which is accompanied by a chance at a $1,000 college scholarship offered by the Thom McAn shoe company of New York, is the 4th to be made to a county gridder.

Fullback John Walker of Walled Lake (1956), tackle Lou Pavloff of Hazel Park (1957), and quarterback John Lucadam of West Bloomfield (1958) were previous winners of the annual award.

★ ★ ★

Brown's versatile football talents have been enumerated often. His high school career reached a fitting climax yesterday when he was named to a guard position on The Associated Press' official Class A All-State team.

Now Charley's talents will be symbolized in bronze as a permanent tribute to his skill and ability. Brown's football shoe will be enshrined in bronze and presented to Pontiac Central to display in its trophy case on his behalf.

Brown was a three-year standout in the line for Central coach Jesse MacLeay, who paid a tribute to his versatility by declaring, "Charley could play any position on our team with the possible exception of quarterback and he probably could do that with a little work."

★ ★ ★

Charley never had the opportunity to play all 11 positions, but he did switch to fullback in an emergency and came through with flying colors. On occasions he punted, kicked off and booted extra points.

Standing 5 feet 10 and weighing a solid 200 pounds, Brown's speed was deadly effective at offensive guard and his quickness and agility were equally effective for defensive linebacking.

When injuries caused a backfield emergency this season, the 18-year-old senior moved to fullback and ran with reckless abandon. He scored five times this season.

★ ★ ★

He scored three touchdowns against Ferndale when the Chiefs scored a surprising 27-7 victory and then tallied one TD the following week as PCH stunned Bay City Central, 12-7. He also hit pay dirt once against Waterford from his defensive linebacking spot.

MacLeay believes guard will be Brown's best position for college football and it should be noted that several schools are dickering for his services, including Michigan State, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Brown is on a college curriculum at PCH and he has high hopes of going on to some college or university and furthering his education.

★ ★ ★

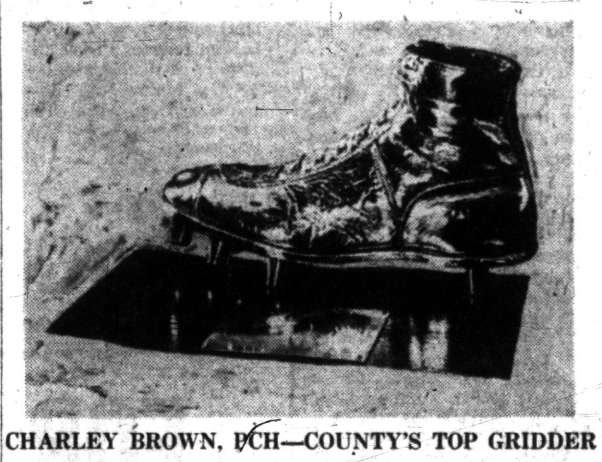

Prior to his selection by The Associated Press All-State board of experts, he also was given a first team berth on virtually every other All-State team picked this year.

As a junior, he just missed landing a first team berth on the 1958 AP honor team by one vote. For the last two years Brown has been a runaway choice at guard on The Pontiac Press All-County team.

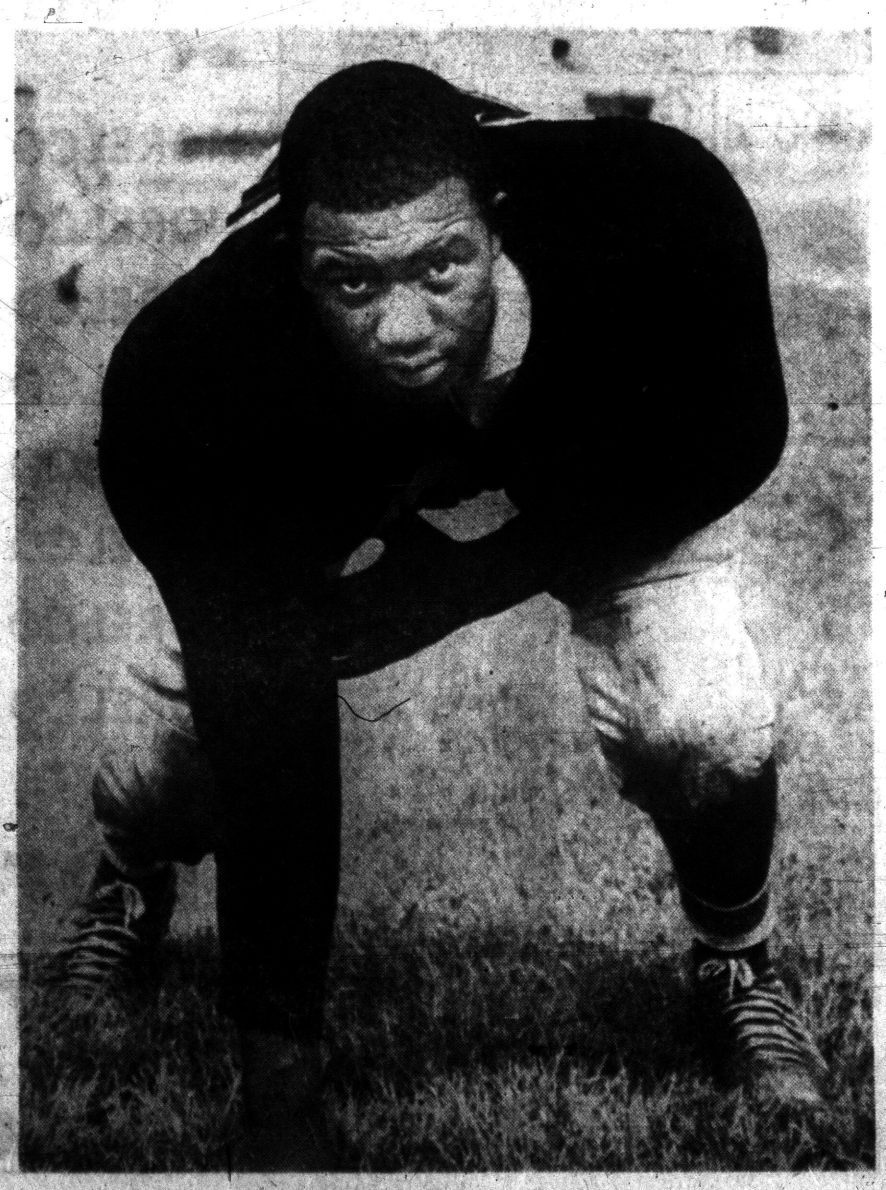

Brown was the key figure in Central's 6-3 season, the best for the Chiefs since 1949 when they had the same record, and he becomes Central's first All-State performer since 1941 when Alger Conner made the grade at tackle for the Chiefs.

★ ★ ★

That's Charley Brown — Oakland County's top gridder in 1959.

3 Major State Quints Have Home Encounters

Michigan's three major college basketball teams all have home engagements scheduled for tonight.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State, with one win under its belt, is host to Notre Dame, while the University of Detroit, also an opening day winner, entertains Brandeis University.

★ ★ ★

The University of Michigan, beaten in its first start at Pittsburgh, faces a tall Drake University quintet at Yost fieldhouse.

The Irish have seven lettermen back headed by 6-7 John Tully. Notre Dame opened Thursday night by breezing past Western Illinois, 77-59.

★ ★ ★

Michigan State again will be giving away height. Notre Dame has a 6-4 average starting lineup. The Spartans average out at 6-1½.

Coach Forddy Anderson has conceded that lack of height will prevent the Spartans from repeating as Big Ten champions.

★ ★ ★

But State gave notice Thursday night that this small team will be a buzzing irritant to the title hopefuls.

Michigan State beat Bowling Green 96-67 after the Falcons had bowled over Hillsdale 99-31 earlier in the week. Bowling Green was a co-champ of the Mid-American conference last season and also had taller men for the jump and the backboards.

★ ★ ★

U. of D. ripped Assumption 106-50 earlier this week with heralded Titan sophomores Dave DeBusschere and Charley North pacing the attack along with veteran guard Ray Albee.

The Titans are looking forward to one of their best seasons in history. Tonight's game should be another "warmup" before getting into the thick of a rough schedule which includes Indiana, Purdue and Notre Dame in quick order.

★ ★ ★

Scott Maentz, who traded his football cleats for a pair of gym shoes only two weeks ago, may break into the starting lineup tonight for Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Coach Bill Perigo, who is seeking to find a winning combination, probably will move lithe John Tidwell back to his familiar guard post and put the rugged, taller Maentz at forward.

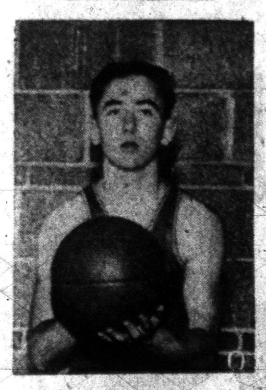

★ ★ ★

Michigan, still smarting from 73-57 spanking at the hands of the University of Pittsburgh Wednesday, can use all the height it can find against the rangy visitors.

The Bulldogs not only are experienced, but have a 6-10 center in Dave Terre, two forwards who average 6-5 and a pair of 6-1 guards.

★ ★ ★

"We'll need as much height as we can muster under the boards," Perigo said. "Maybe Maentz (6-4), Rich Donley (6-5) and Lovell Farris (6-3) will provide it."

Bluth, Detroiter Lead Pin Event

CHICAGO (AP) — Two-hundred-average bowlers were far back as the high-scoring World's Invitational Bowling Tournament moved into its third day in the Chicago Coliseum.

After 12 games in the men's division, no less than 76 of 128 bowlers were averaging 200 or better, while on the distaff side, 22 of the 64 women were shooting a 190 or better mark.

Top marksmen at the end of the halfway point in the qualifying trials were Ray Bluth, a husky 31-year-old former high school fullback from St. Louis, who totaled 2,639, a new 12-game record, for a neat 219 plus average; and Marge Merrick, an attractive 35 - year - old bowling instructor from Detroit, who had 1,751 pins for eight games, an average of 217 plus per game.

In all, 76 of the 128 men bettered the 200-average mark as the bulky field struggled for 47 places in the semifinals along with defending champion Eddie Lubanski of Detroit who is seeded into the finals.

Rematch Proposed for Brown, Briton

LONDON (AP) — Boxing promoter Jack Solomons said Friday he would like to match world lightweight champion Joe Brown against Dave Charnley of England in a return bout in London.

★ ★ ★

Brown defeated Charnley on a sixth round technical knockout at Houston, Tex., Wednesday night.

Like most British promoters, Solomons rarely seems to know when a British fighter is licked.

There seems to be some controversy about the way the fight ended," Solomons told newsmen. "But the balance of opinion is that Charnley was cut by a clash of heads. He would have had a big chance.

★ ★ ★

"At the same time, Brown insists that Charnley gave him no trouble. So the idea of meeting him again should not cause him any concern."

Few British writers would indorse the idea of a return bout. Most of them said Charnley stepped way out of class when he took on the world champion.

Michigan Pucksters Explode for 8-2 Win

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan exploded for five second-period goals last night and swamped Colorado College 8-2 for its fourth hockey victory in five starts.

The game marked Michigan's return to the Western Collegiate Hockey League, which was disbanded for a year.

The Wolverines play Colorado again tonight.

Forward Steve Bochen and defenseman Ed Mateka scored twice for the Wolverines, who have 32 goals in their five games against only nine for their opponents.

Bob White, Bob Watt, Pat Cushing and Jerry Kolb were the other Michigan marksmen.

Jim Coyle, Michigan's goalie, was injured slightly in the final minute after kicking out 28 shots.

North Dakota edged Michigan Tech, 3-2.

That's About All a Detroit Win Would Do

Even That, and Licking Bears Next Week, Might Not Save Wilson's Job

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Lions will be out to show people they can still play football when the Chicago Cardinals come to Briggs Stadium tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

With a 2-7-1 record and rumors of front-office shakeups and coaching changes in the wind, they can't do much else.

It seems certain there will be some personnel changes among the Lions before next season. Even a win over the Cardinals tomorrow and another against the Chicago Bears a week later might not save coach George Wilson's job.

About the only thing a pair of wins would do is equal last year's record of four wins, seven losses and a tie.

But it would give the Lions a lot of satisfaction to finish the season with a double win. For a few players, it might mean the difference between retirement and a job in the National Football League next year.

★ ★ ★

Center Charley Ane has already talked about going home to Hawaii after the 1959 season.

Tobin Rote, now only a substitute quarterback after starting the season as the number one signal caller, has been mentioned as a possibility for the Dallas club of the new professional league—if there's a Dallas club in a new league.

Probably nobody on the roster is sure of a job with the Detroit team next year.

★ ★ ★

The Cardinals being a fine young team to town and it might be mighty hard for the Lions to save what little face they have left. John Crow, Bobby Conrad and King Hill spearhead an attack that is dangerous in spite of a 2-8 record of the season.

The Lions were expected to counter with Hopalong Cassady and Terry Barr at halfbacks and Earl Morrall at quarterback.

Nick Pietrosante, who proved himself a powerful fullback against the Green Bay Packers Thanksgiving Day, will be at fullback. In the turkey day meeting, Detroit outgained the Packers although losing, and the same thing happened the previous Sunday against the Bears.

★ ★ ★

Pietrosante turned in the finest single game performance by a Lion back since 1950 against the Packers as he rushed for 134 yards on 17 carries.

Western Division Title at Stake

Colts Face Jinx on Coast

By United Press International

Can the "new" Baltimore Colts shatter one of the longest jinxes in sports history?

A capacity crowd of nearly 60,000 at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium and thousands of TV quarterbacks will get the answer Saturday when the Colts tackle the Forty-Niners.

The two clubs are tied for the National Football League's Western Division lead. The winner will jump a game ahead with only one to play and clinch at least a tie for the division crown.

But can the Colts, defending division and league champions, smash a 12-year hoodoo? They haven't won a game at San Francisco since they began playing pro football in the old All-America Conference in 1947.

★ ★ ★

The Colts have played at San Francisco 11 times (three regular season games and an exhibition in the A.A.C. and seven regular season games in the N.F.L.) and still haven't left the town with a victory or even a tie.

But the thousands of Baltimore backers who will zero their TV sets on Saturday's game, claim most of those losses were suffered by the "old" Colts.

The new Colts have more kick. They have football's top passer in John Unitas, three of its best receivers in Raymond Berry, Lenny Moore and Jim Mutscheller, one of its best fullbacks in Alan Ameche and a strong defense led by Gino Marchetti, Art Donovan and big Daddy Lipscomb.

★ ★ ★

The oddsmakers, who operate with about as much sentiment as a starved Tiger, agree with Baltimore's fans. They tab the Colts 5½ point favorites to snap that jinx.

Baltimore's players disregard the jinx or indicate it will be broken at San Francisco, but they have high respect for the Forty-Niners although they clobbered them in Maryland several weeks ago, 45-14.

"We figure on nothing (in the way of breaks) from San Francisco," said Milt Davis, one of Baltimore's defensive backs. "We figured earlier we had to beat the Forty-Niners twice and win the last five. That still goes."

Carroll Rosenbloom, president and major stockholder of the Colts, seemed most impressed by San Francisco's 21-20 triumph over the Browns last Sunday at Cleveland.

"The Forty-Niners got whipped badly in Baltimore and then bounced back to beat the best team in the country," Rosenbloom said.

Just what this makes the New York Giants, who lead the Browns by two games in the eastern race, is any pro football addict's guess. But an answer may pop up Sunday when the Giants entertain the Brownies. New York needs a victory or tie to clinch its second straight eastern title and is a four-point favorite.

★ ★ ★

This game has been a sellout for weeks and nearly 70,000 persons are expected to jam Yankee Stadium to see if the Giants can boost their victory string against Cleveland to five games. These two clubs have won all the Eastern titles since 1950 with Cleveland taking seven and New York two.

The Philadelphia Eagles, tied with Cleveland for second place, are 2½ point favorites over the Redskins at Washington. But both the Eagles and Browns will be finished unless Cleveland wins.

In Sunday's other games, the Chicago Bears are favored over the visiting Pittsburgh Steelers by seven points, the Rams are favored over the Green Bay Packers by 5½ at Los Angeles and the Lions are four-point choices to defeat the Chicago Cardinals at Detroit. The Bears are one game behind Baltimore and San Francisco in the Western Division.

WHO WON?—Gene Fullmer, left, looks more like the loser than Spider Webb does in this picture of the pair after last night's middleweight title battle at Logan, Utah. Fullmer won a unanimous decision despite a three-stitch gash over his left eye and nicks under his left eye and lower lip. Challenger Webb went unmarked.

Fullmer Beats Webb, May Move Up

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Power-punching Gene Fullmer, reigning solidly as king of the NBA middleweight class, contemplates stepping up a rung to challenge venerable light heavy champ Archie Moore.

★ ★ ★

Or possibly he might clear the 160-pound picture by fighting Ray Robinson again if Robinson has any desire for such a bout.

Fullmer took solid possession of the NBA diadem and won the right to do some bargaining for future fights by scoring a unanimous decision over Spider Webb in 15 gruelling rounds at the Utah State University Fieldhouse last night.

The fight was the first pro title battle ever held on a college campus.

This time non-collegian Fullmer—from West Jordan, Utah, and weighing 159¾ pounds — proved the master of Webb, who fought on the Idaho State College team before turning pro in 1953. The Chicagoan weighed 157¾ for his unsuccessful challenge. Both are 28 years old.

★ ★ ★

Fullmer switched strategies frequently during the nationally televised fight as his manager, Marv Jenson, called code numbers from the corner. Fullmer fought out of an arms-crossed defense, led with a smashing right to the body or tried the more orthodox left-hand lead.

Webb made him look awkward frequently.

The cards of Referee Ken Shulsen and Judges Boyd Mattison and Del Markham all had the champion well ahead. Shulsen scored it 147-141, Mattison 150-132 and Markham 148-136. The Associated Press card showed 146-142.

Fullmer, receiving 40 per cent of the approximate $86,000 gate from a capacity crowd of 7,100, and of $100,000 TV money, will collect about $70,000. Webb will get $35,000, along with his blasted dreams.

"I wouldn't exactly say I won every round," Fullmer declared in the dressing room. But he added he felt he was the clear winner.

Manager Jenson talked of two possible big-money shots for his bomber—Moore or Robinson with ex-champ Bobo Olson perhaps in a non-title affair.

Fullmer crashed body blows and punched hard shots to the head. Webb opened a small cut over Fullmer's left eye in the second round and another over his right in the 15th. Webb appeared unmarked as he wept in disappointment in his dressing room.

"I thought I won that fight, that's for sure," the defeated fighter declared. The challenger thought he had knocked Fullmer down in the fourth round but Referee Shulsen ruled it a slip. All the officials hail from Utah. Shulsen is from Fullmer's home town.

Manager Hec Knowles and trainer Carl Nelson both claimed Webb had won but a poll of ringside newspapermen showed only one had Webb ahead.

Cranbrook's hockey team took a victory, yesterday, the easy way. When Detroit St. Alphonsus failed to arrive in time for the International Prep League tilt, the contest was declared a 1-0 forfeit.

Hillsdale in Bowl Playoff Tilt Tonight

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Texas A&I goes after a berth in the NAIA Holiday Bowl game tonight in a battle with a veteran of post-season play, Hillsdale College of Michigan.

Hillsdale, which was in the finals of this playoff in 1957 and lost to Pittsburg State of Kansas 27-26, offers a most serious challenge to the co-champions of the Lone Star Conference.

The visitors, champions of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association, are big and experienced. The four tackles average around 250 pounds. Leading the Hillsdale offense are Howard Rodgers, a runner and pass receiver extraordinary, and Chuck Redding, a top passer.

Hillsdale brings an 8-1 record here. A&I has a 10-1 record and features the running of Butch Pressley and the passing of Jarrell Hayes.

The Hillsdale team, coached by Frank Waters, arrived Thursday and worked out that afternoon and yesterday.

A crowd of 7,500, capacity for the A&I field, is expected for the 8 p.m. (CST) kickoff.

The winner here will go to St. Petersburg, Fla., for the Holiday Bowl game Dec. 19, meeting the winner of a game between Lenoir Rhyne of North Carolina and South Connecticut State.

Northrup, Beach High in Final NAIA Records

ALMA (UPI)—Jim Northrup, Alma College quarterback, ended up third in total offense in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, it was announced in Kansas City, Mo., today.

Northrup, star of the Alma offense, ended up with a net yards gained mark of 1,658 yards on 296 plays. His game average was 184.2 yards which put him in 20th in the individual passing for the N.A.I.A. with 167 attempted, 77 completed for a percentage of .461.

He tossed for eight touchdowns and covered 1,047 yards in his passing for a game average of 116.3 yards.

Walt Beach of Central Michigan was tied for eleventh in scoring with 13 touchdowns and a total of 82 points in the N.A.I.A. standings.

Northern Michigan Eyes IIAC Berth

The Northern Michigan representatives were told to submit a formal application which the IIAC could investigate. So far, Northern has made no formal application, but has shown interest in becoming a member.

Noble, Shue Shine Before 13,121 Fans

Pistons Win Game, at Gate

DETROIT (AP) — It was a smashing success for the Detroit Pistons —both artistically and at the box office last night.

★ ★ ★

Pro basketball came of age in Detroit after a two-year struggle. The largest crowd ever to see a pro grame in Michigan—13,121—flooded Olympia Stadium and watched the Pistons smother the Minneapolis Lakers 120-101.

The Pistons had drawn a few large crowds before since moving here from Fort Wayne in 1957. But it seemed whenever more than 5,000 attended their games, the Pistons would freeze up and lose.

This time it was different. Thrilled by watching Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain outduel St. Louis' Bob Pettit 124-112 in the opener, the crowd screamed its delight at the Pistons' impressive showing in the second game of a doubleheader.

★ ★ ★

Detroit was in command all the way after Minneapolis took a temporary early lead. Chuck Noble scored 13 of his 25 points in the first quarter and sent Detroit into a never-yielded lead.

The victory sent Detroit within a half game of St. Louis' lead in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn.

Balanced scoring again was Detroit's outstanding feature. Gene Shue assisted Noble with 24 points. Archie Dees and Walter Dukes chipped in with 13 each and Bailey Howell added 12.

★ ★ ★

The Pistons, rebounding after a welcome six-day rest, move to New York for a game tonight with the Knickerbockers.

Detroit overcame a jinx of nearly two years in whipping the Lakers. Minneapolis hadn't lost to the Pistons on a Detroit court in nine games since Jan. 11, 1958.

The large crowd was treated to an explosive show by three of the NBA's superstars. Chamberlain netted 39 points in the Warriors' victory, and Pettit had 27. The 12-point difference represented the spread between Philadelphia and the Hawks. Elgin Baylor scored 28 points in a losing cause for Minneapolis.

In last night's other NBAV game, the Boston Celtics whipped the Knicks 122-107.

As New Yorker Speaker

Daugherty Ribs Ivy League on Sebo Firing

NEW YORK (AP) — Coach Duffy Daugherty, spoofing the bejabbers out of the Ivy League, says he's glad he didn't "embarrass Michigan State by winning a championship" like Steve Sebo did at Penn.

★ ★ ★

Ribbing the Ivy League with almost every phrase, Daugherty let the disciples of pure amateurism have it but good last night as the feature speaker on a program honoring Look magazine's All - Star collegiate football team for 1959.

A one-time MSU co-assistant to Biggie Munn with Sebo, who was fired by Penn after he led the Quakers to their first Ivy League football title this season, Daugherty termed the Ivy a place where a coach "can't make the mistake of winning."

The jovial Daugherty, however, didn't fail to spoof the Big Ten Conference.

In reference to "unearned" grants in aid, Duffy pointed out that they are awarded for "academic achievement — they must know how to read and write — or a basis of need — a basis of how badly you need the players."

Disqualifying himself as an A-1 authority because "I haven't been hung in effigy in more than a year," Daugherty spoke as a coach in mentioning some institutions ("and I don't mean to use that term 'institution' lightly) placing too much emphasis, on de-emphasizing athletics, particularly football.

"And to those who say our students can't play in bowl games, can't be given athletic scholarships and all of that, I can only say that I'd match these young men on the platform with me against any group in the world.

★ ★ ★

"And that's all Steve Sebo is guilty of."

Norvell, Gaensbauer Pace 49-47 Win Over Ypsi Central

Following right along the line of last year's tight finishes, Pontiac Central High's swimmers won another close one, yesterday, opening the current splash season.

Two records fell in the fine team victory. Ted Gaensbauer's 1:02.6 in the butterfly, and Bruce Norvell's 1:08.4 for the breast stroke. Gaensbauer and Dick Pepper of Ypsi were double winners.

Checker, Willys Cruise Profit Trail

Auto Industry's 'Ignored 2' Happy

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT — The auto industry's "ignored two" aren't competitive with the giants of the industry and they're happy about it because, in their little niches, they're making money.

Generally, everyone thinks of the American auto industry as the "Big Three" and the "Little Two," ignoring completely the fact that Willys and Checker Motors have carved out unique little corners of the industry all for themselves.

But the lack of recognition does not bother either of the companies.

★ ★ ★

Checker even fosters it.

When asked for the production figures for his company, Richard Hudson, sales manager for Checker, answered:

"We don't like to give out those figures. When they are put alongside the figures for the other companies, it looks like peanuts. "The average layman can't understand that you don't have to have whopping production figures to make money."

And in the obscurity of small production figures and a plant location far enough away from the auto industry's central headquarters, Detroit, but close enough to benefit from the skilled labor in the area, Checker is making money.

SOLID FOUNDATION

On the basis of the solid foundation it has built with the sale of taxicabs, Checker is even venturing into the passenger car field, but again into a limited area where it won't compete head-on with the bigger companies.

It is planning limited production of a four-door sedan built on the same chassis as the taxicab.

It will feature greater interior room, durability and greater safety to attract a small group of customers who can't find enough of these features in the offerings of the big companies.

Kaiser-Willys has found its niche in production of the jeep and overseas sales.

"We tried competing on a model-for-model basis with the bigger companies until 1955," a spokesman for the company said. "We've made money since we stopped making passenger cars. We didn't before."

★ ★ ★

Many of the cars that tried to compete with the giant auto companies in the past are no longer on the scene.

But Willys jumped its production from 74,100 in the first 10 months of 1958 to 95,383 in the first 10 months of this year, with about 65 per cent of the output going to foreign markets in both years.

This hike boosted the company's earnings in the first three-quarters of this year to $7,979,000, compared with $2,073,000 in the same period last year.

At first glance some dark clouds might appear on the horizon for both of the "ignored two."

Ford Motor Co. has a government contract to develop the Mutt, a military vehicle designed to supplant the jeep.

DIESEL CABS

Foreign car makers are invading the American taxicab market with Diesel-powered cabs.

But neither company is worried.

"We haven't produced a jeep for military purposes in the United States for some time now," the Willys spokesman said.

"We don't expect any loss of business because of this new development."

Hudson said he didn't want to get into an argument over the relative merits of Diesel and gasoline engine but his company was confident it could continue making money with its small volume in the taxi producing business.

★ ★ ★

And he pointed out limited sales of the Superba, the company's new passenger car, would greatly aid the profit position of a company operating on the small basis that Checker does.

Fishing License Hike Is Sought

Protection Fund in Red; Wife No Longer Can Use Husband's Permit

LANSING (UPI) — The State Legislature was asked by the State Conservation Commission Friday to increase resident fishing license fees from $2 to $3.

Fees were increased last year from $1.50 to $2.

It was explained that the fish and game protection fund, financed by license fees and federal appropriations, was dropped to one million dollars in the red.

The license hike is expected to bring $741,000 a year.

The commission also voted to charge wives for a license for the first time. Wives who previously fished free on their husband's license now will be charged $1.50 for a license of their own.

★ ★ ★

Non-resident fees were unchanged except for the addition of a new $2 five-day license it was hoped would bring money from vacationing weekenders.

The commission also voted to ban dogs from state parks and recreation areas May 1 through Sept. 30 unless they are under direct control and on a leash.

Park visitors also could be evicted if their dogs are causing a nuisance.

Drops Suit of 2 JPs Against Traffic Bureau

FLINT (UPI) — Circuit Judge Stephen J. Roth Friday dismissed a suit by two justices of the peace who want the City of Clio's Traffic Bureau put out of business on grounds that it is illegal and infringes on their powers and duties.

★ ★ ★

Clio Justices Hyle B. Miller and Dewey F. Murphy estimated that the city bureau had cost them $1,732 since it was inaugurated March 3, 1958.

It has accepted fines in 403 cases. A justice of the peace gets $4.30 fee out of a traffic case.

The city bureau, operated by the municipal clerk, accepts fines fixed in an ordinance covering 30 different traffic violations.

★ ★ ★

Roth held the city's system actually operated to the benefit of citizens, since they were saved a $4.30 cost charge.

But he did not rule directly on the point of whether the bureau was a valid police power of the city.

Ike to Greet Pope With Handshake

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. President Eisenhower and Pope John XXIII will greet each other with a simple handshake to begin a "man-to-man" meeting.

★ ★ ★

Most visitors, especially those from Roman Catholic countries, kiss the Pope's ring, but Eisenhower was expected only to shake hands.

Details of the visit, second by an American president to a pope, were set forth in an official "protocol," printed in Italian and English and worked out by the Sacred Ceremonial Congregation.

It is not as solemn as a superformal "state visit" to the Pontiff but is far more elaborate than normal for a "private visit." The President's visit is private.

★ ★ ★

Before visiting the Vatican he will attend a brief service in St. Paul's Episcopal Church at 8 a.m. and then return to Quirinal Palace for his farewells to Italian President Viovärni Gronchi.

I$ Baltimore $anta Clau$ in the $outh?

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "Who the heck was ever able to catch Santa Claus?"

That was the reaction of one frustrated policeman after a well-dressed white man and a Negro handed out thousands of dollars worth of $50 bills Friday in Atlanta and Birmingham, Ala.

★ ★ ★

Officers were unable to find the pair but the persons who received the bills didn't care. There was whooping and hollering in the streets and joy in many a home.

Atlanta police estimated $10,000 was handed out in two Negro neighborhoods. Birmingham officers reported at least 20 of the $50 bills were distributed to Negroes in that city.

Nobody knew who the men were or why they were giving the money away. Lt. H. J. Copeland of the Atlanta police said he learned they were driving a 1955 model car with a Maryland license plate.

The license tag brought to mind the rich young Baltimore man who handed out $50 bills to the poor of that city three weeks ago.

Arthur D. Foster III, 27, went from door to door giving away the money. All he asked was "Are you poor?" and "Will you use the money for a good purpose?"

Friends of Foster, who declined to be identified by name, said in Baltimore they felt he was the man giving away money in Atlanta and Birmingham.

They pointed out he owned a 1955 model car and left Baltimore about a week ago saying he probably would head south.

The United Auto Workers president told the Sixth World Congress of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions that "free labor unions must be in the vanguard of the struggle."

Louisiana Dems in Primary Today

Eleven Hopefuls Vie for Earl Long's Job

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — About 800,000 Louisianans are expected to vote today on a successor to the state's fiery Gov. Earl K. Long.

★ ★ ★

Eleven candidates—an all-time record—seek the governorship in the first Democratic primary, which also will nominate other top state officials, a new legislature and hundreds of local officeholders. In Louisiana the Democratic nomination amounts to election.

Five of the candidates for governor are seasoned campaigners.

★ ★ ★

Politicians and public samplings show two are most likely to enter a runoff Jan. 9 unless one candidate sweeps to victory. They are New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, 47, and former Gov. Jimmie Davis, 53, both promising cleaner, more responsible leadership in the state.

Much campaign pressure has built up for a fresh political outlook, after the shock wave of the 64-year-old governor's confinement in two mental hospitals last summer.

★ ★ ★

Besides Morrison and Davis, three expected to show big strength are former Gov. James A. Noe, pledging to carry on the Long dynasty; State Sen. William Rainach, Louisiana's strong segregation voice; and State Comptroller William J. Dodd, one-time Long crown prince who broke with the governor years ago.

★ ★ ★

The tempestuous Long, robust once again, is fighting political oblivion by backing the 68-year-old Noe, aging wheel of the late Huey P. Long. Long, with five rivals himself, is clinging to power by running on the Noe ticket for lieutenant governor.

Despite the apparent strength of Davis and Morrison, in every gubernatorial primary since the days of Huey Long, the Long candidate has won in the first primary or reached the runoff.

The Democratic nominee for governor faces a Republican contender April 19. GOP leaders have nominated former state police Supt. Francis Grevemberg, who recently changed his party affiliation from Democrat to Republican.

Age Limit Set on Airline Pilots

Requirement to End Careers at Age 60 in Effect March 15

WASHINGTON (AP) — Starting March 15, airline pilots must quit flying at the age of 60, by order of the Federal Aviation Agency. At present there is no age limit.

★ ★ ★

The Airline Pilots Assn. attacked the FAA order Friday as "whimsical and capricious." It said there was no shred of evidence to justify such a rule and added it would fight the order in federal courts.

However, the Air Transport Assn., an industry group, said the age limit is "reasonable and judicious."

FAA Administrator E. R. Quesada also set stricter new standards for copilots. He said both actions are needed to ensure public safety in an age where jet airliners carry up to 165 passengers at 550 miles an hour.

Quesada said there never has been any proof that pilot age was a factor in airline accidents. But he added that "the regulation is based on medical facts that clearly establish that sudden incapacitation due primarily to heart attack and strokes . . . becomes significantly more frequent in any group reaching age 60, and such attacks cannot be predicted on an individual basis by prior medical examinations."

★ ★ ★

A pilot must take a physical examination at least every six months and is tested for proficiency at least twice a year.

TOOLS and TRAINING
How often have you seen a complicated Tool and wondered what its use was?
A television tube tester is such a tool. Your neighborhood TV service man is trained to evaluate the readings he obtains from his instruments.
On the other hand . . . so-called do-it-yourself tube checkers use only the most cheaply obtained instruments in their cabinets and glorify this instrument with flashy lights and decorations. These cheaply made testers are designed to sell tubes and cannot analyze the true condition of your tubes. Besides, no soda clerk or super-market sales person can give you the expert-advice extended to you by the Independent TV Service Dealer. He is a professional. Ask him for advice.

EX-LEGISLATOR DIES — Former Congressman Albert J. Engel (R-Mich), 73, famed for his World War II investigations of military waste, died Thursday at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids. He had been injured Sept. 30 in a truck accident.

First Thoughts Are Right Ones

Try to Remember an Incident as Clue for Proper Gift

Gaining the reputation of always giving spectacular gifts is simply a matter of forethought.

When you run across a name that makes you think, "He's got everything," ask three questions.

First, what are his hobbies? Second, what is his occupation? Third, what does he like to talk about? You should get a clue from the answers.

Remembering incidents and situations that occurred with people on your list often provides leads.

One homemaker solved two gift problems when she recalled a marital spat at her newlywed daughter's house. Seems hubby was up in arms because his bride had borrowed his razor.

Mama poured oil on the troubled waters by giving him a roll-a-matic electric shaver and a companion shaver to her daughter.

Older people sometimes present gift problems. One great-grandmother was delighted with a charm bracelet. There were 14 silver discs on the bracelet, each inscribed with the name and birth date of one of her grandchildren or great-grandchildren.

A crusty old bachelor flushed with pleasure when he received a cookbook with exotic recipes. He lives alone and loves to cook for himself.

A pair of binoculars hit the spot with a spry guy in his eighties who loves birds.

Finally, here's a quick list of offbeat gifts; spice chest, monogrammed matches and cocktail napkins, magnifying mirror, colored glass vase, sachets, humorous highball glasses, electric manicure sets, straw fishing hat, clock-radio, photography accessories, two tickets to a play or concert.

Oldest Paper in N.Y. to Mark 125th Birthday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The German language Staats-Zeitung und Herold, New York's oldest daily newspaper, goes to press for its 42,212th time tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

Tomorrow's edition, a 176-page anniversary issue, will celebrate the newspaper's 125th year of continuous publication.

First issued as a weekly on Christmas Eve 1834, the "Staats" was converted into a daily newspaper in 1845. It has appeared each day since then.

Biggest story the staff of the Staats-Zeitung und Herold ever handled, according to its present editor, 48-year-old Erwin A. Single, was the General Slocum disaster which cost 1,031 lives when the excursion steamer caught fire in the East River on June 14, 1904. Most of the victims were German immigrants and their families who had gone on a day's outing.

★ ★ ★

"As a result of that tragedy," Single said, "the paper suffered the greatest loss of readers in one day of any time in our history."

Man Badly Burned Igniting Paint Thinner

★ ★ ★

Allen Linkhorn, 21, of 501 Leon Rd., Walled Lake, was treated for burns on the left side of his face and ears at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

Linkhorn is employed by Shuman Ford Sales, 209 E. Walled Lake Dr.

Walled Lake Police Chief James A. Decker said Linkhorn was burned when the paint thinner exploded while he was trying to light it with his cigaret lighter.

Decker said there may have been something else in the thinner to make it explode.

★ ★ ★

He said disposing of the thinner by fire is allowed in the city because the sales agency had provided a cement vat in the rear of the building for that purpose.

Defense Warning Setup Contract to Burroughs

DETROIT (UPI) — Burroughs Corp. announced Friday it has been awarded a 35-million-dollar Air Force contract to lead development of an improved air defense warning system.

The new system will be called Airborne Long Range Input (ALRI) and Burroughs will lead a team of companies in its development and manufacture.

The plan calls for placing radar and data processing equipment aboard reconnaisance planes which will transmit information to land-based centers on the defense warning system.

Planes presently are flying over the oceans to warn of air attack.

★ ★ ★

But they require a manual operation, with men watching radar scopes and sending the information back to land.

There are more than 1,500 species of the firefly.
