Message to Nation Tonight

Nixon to Summarize Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, responding to what associates say is a public demand for a summation of the Vietnam situation, goes before the nation tonight to give what is expected to be a cautiously optimistic assessment of peace prospects.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the speech, to be broadcast live at 10 p.m. EDT (9 p.m. EST) on national television and radio, will contain some new material, but cautioned against expecting announcement of a peace breakthrough.

★ ★ ★

Nixon associates also said the President's speech will outline how matters now stand in light of the Vietcong's 10-point peace proposal.

A high government official said Nixon will stress mutual withdrawal of troops and reduction of the fighting as moves the United States believes must have priority.

NO WITHDRAWAL PLEDGE

This official said there would be no pledge for unilateral U.S. troop reductions.

The President's speech is expected to reflect the administration's feeling that the Hanoi-backed Vietcong proposals, generally unacceptable, offer some negotiable points. One of these contains the first tacit public admission by Hanoi that it has troops in the South.

★ ★ ★

No associate expects the President to hint acceptance of the Vietcong proposal for a provisional coalition government to replace the elected Saigon regime immediately. But Saigon has expressed an interest in a proposal for an exchange of prisoners.

An indication the President is preparing an early formal answer to the Vietcong came when Ziegler said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge will arrive during the afternoon for new instructions before flying back to Paris tomorrow. The next Paris meeting is Friday.

QUICK RESPONSE

Mindful that the North Vietnamese and Vietcong took more than two months to answer initial U.S. proposals, the administration wants to respond quickly to emphasize its efforts to push the talks ahead.

Lodge will attend a joint meeting of the Cabinet and the National Security Council tomorrow morning at which the administration's position presumably will be reviewed.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said his optimism about the Paris talks was fortified when Nixon previewed his speech for GOP congressional leaders yesterday.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said merely it would be a significant speech.

ADMINISTRATION'S VIEWS

Ford said Nixon is making the speech because he feels it desirable "that he lay out the administration's views on Paris and elsewhere."

An administration source said soundings taken around the country unearthed a feeling that Nixon had been explicit and voluminous on domestic issues but is remaining too silent about Vietnam.

The President is reported sensitive to charges he has made little change in the approach adopted by the Johnson administration to end the Vietnam conflict.

House Unit Member Seeks Fortas Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading House Republican called today for an investigation of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas by the House Judiciary Committee to determine whether impeachment proceedings are warranted.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., a member of the committee, said he acted after conferring this morning with Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

"He indicated he would cooperate in such an investigation," MacGregor said.

★ ★ ★

The course suggested by MacGregor is one of several that could lead to impeachment proceedings in Congress. It calls for a preliminary investigation by a Judiciary Committee panel to see whether facts warrant going ahead with impeachment.

FORTAS IN CHAMBERS

Fortas was reported in his court chambers this morning working on pending cases.

★ ★ ★

Under mounting pressure to resign, he is believed to be holding a series of top secret strategy meetings with old friends as he nears a decision on his future.

Fortas could be expected to confer with old friends before sealing a decision on whether to yield to the furor over a fee offer from the family of Louis E. Wolfson or to resist and try to ride out the storm.

★ ★ ★

The justice has made no public statement since he acknowledged the offer May 4 coincident with its revelation in Life magazine.

$20,000 HELD 11 MONTHS

(Life said that Fortas had deposited a $20,000 check from the Wolfson family foundation into his personal account before returning the money 11 months later.

★ ★ ★

Wolfson at the time was under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission and was later convicted of stock manipulation and perjury and is now in federal prison.)

TALUS Boosts Metro Transit, Freeway Setup

By JEAN SAILE

A Pontiac suburbanite rises, eats breakfast, and is picked up at his door by a comfortable, on-time bus.

He's taken into Pontiac and boards a rapid transit system which whisks him to downtown Detroit at speeds as high as 75 to 80 miles an hour.

Another bus picks him up at the Detroit station and deposits him at the office.

★ ★ ★

Elapsed time? Maybe less than an hour.

A dream of the carbon-monoxided traffic-frustrated commuter?

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL

Maybe. But the dreamer had his hopes strengthened yesterday with release of proposals by the Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS). The proposals were approved unanimously by the TALUS administrative committee, representing local governments throughout southeastern Michigan.

They will be the subject of public hearings throughout the area next fall.

TALUS has proposed maximum and minimum plans for both rapid transit and freeway construction, due for completion by 1990.

The maximum rapid transit plan would build 118 miles of high-speed train and subway lines to carry passengers in and out of downtown Detroit from Pontiac, Utica, Plymouth, Rockwood and Metropolitan Airport. Minimum plans call only for the expansion and improvement of the existing bus system through the seven-county southeastern Michigan area.

TULIP FESTIVAL OPENS — Residents of Holland, Mich., in native Dutch costumes scrubbed the streets today to initiate the annual Tulip Festival. Parochiaid Defeated in House

From Our News Wires

LANSING — Parochiaid — the issue that loomed over the Legislature for more than a year — went down to defeat yesterday in the House.

Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, surveying the 50-58 rejection of the $100,000 parochiaid rider, predicted action on the $845.4 million public school appropriation, passed earlier by the Senate, would be "noncontroversial."

The House, Ryan indicated, likely would accept a comparable amount "give or take one or two million."

How They Voted, Page A-12

He predicted parochiaid would reemerge as "the biggest item" if the Legislature remains in session this fall to deal with anticipated education recommendations by Gov. William Milliken's special study committee.

The long-awaited roll call vote came after three hours of bristling debate. Fifteen Democrats joined 43 Republicans in opposition.

Parochiaid forces were surprised by the outcome. Last-minute head counts had shown, they said, that the issue would pass the House with a few votes to spare.

Key votes were cast by a handful of Democrats who refused to commit themselves despite mounting pressure.

Looking exhausted and haggard from days of toil, Ryan argued in vain that pumping tax funds into parochial schools would save the taxpayers money — "up to $240 million annually" — in the long run by preventing an enrollment crush in the public schools.

★ ★ ★

Without parochiaid, he warned, two of every three parochial students would be forced to transfer to public schools in 1971.

Opposition forces maintained Michigan taxpayers could not afford rising education costs in both public and nonpublic schools; that the parochiaid plan violated the separation of church and state; and that the Legislature's first obligation was to public schools.

Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica, called the parochiaid allocation "peanuts." We should be talking about taxation, about billions of dollars and all the children of the state," he said.

"We talk about two school systems when we're not financing one," Spencer said. "How phony can you be?"

Clear Overnight; Showers in Sight

Skies will continue clear through tonight with temperatures reaching into the 70s today. Tonight's low will be a mild 47 to 52.

Partly cloudy with a chance of showers and a high near 70 is tomorrow's forecast. Showers and cooler is Friday's outlook.

★ ★ ★

The probabilities of precipitation in per cent are 10 today, 10 tonight and 30 tomorrow.

Forty-four was the low temperature before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. By 2 p.m. the thermometer registered 69.

School Site Decision June 5

The decision on where to build a new $19-million west side high school, or whether alternative plans will be undertaken, will be made by the Pontiac Board of Education on June 5, school officials said today.

This date falls somewhat short of the 90 days set aside by the board of education on March 20 to reevaluate the high school site decision and study alternative plans.

The board's original decision on Nov. 18, 1968, to build the school near Pontiac State Hospital caused some dissension in the community.

The board plans to release the results of its studies concerning the high school before making a decision, "in order that the people of the community are exposed to all of the essential facts of the studies," Schools Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer said.

Pontiac Army Defector Returns to Sweden

RAY JONES

By JIM LONG

Ray Jones of Pontiac, America's first Army defector to Sweden and the first to return, is back in Stockholm, apparently a victim of his political views and nearly a year of frustration.

Jones, a 22-year-old Negro, along with his German-born wife, Gabrielle, and their two children, are asking Swedish authorities for asylum for "humanitarian reasons."

★ ★ ★

It was not immediately known when Jones arrived in Sweden. Reports that he had returned, however, were published yesterday in a Stockholm newspaper.

His mother, Mrs. Leslie Tademy of Pontiac, was unable to shed any light on her son's leaving the country.

LOST CONTACT

She said today she lost contact with him about two months after he returned to Pontiac after serving about three months of a four-month prison sentence for being absent without leave.

Faced with being charged as a deserter when he gave himself up to military authorities last March, Jones, was court-martialed only for being AWOL.

★ ★ ★

On his release from prison last June, he was given a bad conduct discharge.

This, coupled with the notoriety surrounding his case, resulted in Jones taking nearly three months after getting back to Pontiac to find a job.

He first worked as an attendant nurse at Pontiac State Hospital, leaving a short time later, when, according to Jones, he just couldn't get along with other employes who knew about his past.

Later he took a job with Consumers Power Co. in Pontiac, first as a janitor and then as a gas line installer.

★ ★ ★

Still, he was discontent and according to a co-worker, he quit, complaining that he was being discriminated against.

Jones, quoted in the Stockholm paper, said that while in Pontiac he was snubbed by neighbors and fellow workers.

'HURT BY POLITICAL STAND'

He said the fact that his wife is white may have added to his difficulties, but added that the bulk of his troubles stemmed from his political stand.

Jones was quoted as saying that while he was in the U.S. he had been offered $10,000 "to keep my mouth shut and write a book saying how much I hated communism and why I thought the Vietnam war was justified."

★ ★ ★

In an interview with The Pontiac Press last June he said he was opposed to the philosophy of communism.

He said he had met a number of Communists when he first arrived in

Nixon Draft Reform Draws Senate Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has responded favorably to President Nixon's lottery-based draft reform plan, but the two top Democratic leaders are split on the issue.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield says the Nixon plan is "A step in a direction that will satisfy some members," but he will vote against it because it doesn't cure enough inequities in the draft.

Democratic Whip Edward M. Kennedy, however, praised the President's proposals, saying they "embody the reforms we most urgently need."

And a Republican critic of the Vietnam war, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, saw the Nixon message, issued yesterday, as a sign the GOP administration is not nearing a solution to the war.

HAS FEW ALLIES

"It discourages me about what we can expect from their war policy," Hatfield said in an interview, but he acknowledged he would probably find few allies in opposing the Nixon draft program.

While there was ample evidence of support for the reform proposals in the Senate, the plan could face a stiffer test in the House where a ban on lottery selection was written into the draft law extension two years ago.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Service Committee, said Tuesday: "I have no strong feelings either for or against the lottery concept.

"Therefore, if the administration can show the committee on armed services how such a change will provide more equity in the selection process without offsetting disabilities, I certainly would have no objection to his proposed legislative change in the draft law."

'TRIAL BASIS'

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he would consider adoption of the lottery plan on a trial basis, with no commitment to make it permanent.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said he cleared the Nixon draft proposal in advance with Stennis and another key Democrat, Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, former armed services committee chairman who now heads the appropriations committee.

★ ★ ★

Laird said the administration hopes to see the Nixon proposal tested first in the Senate, then in the more troublesome House.

Mansfield, in announcing his opposition, said the draft system has too many inequities, too many deferments.

What Nixon asked was that Congress return to him authority to modify call-up procedures. He said if he gets it he will:

- Have the youngest eligible men called first, and reduce the period of prime draft vulnerability to one year, normally beginning when a man is 19.
- Switch to a lottery, based on the scrambling of birth dates. Rivers said this change is the only one not now within Nixon's power.

★ ★ ★

- Continue student deferments for undergraduates, with the year of maximum liability to come when the deferment expires.

Senate Gives Nixon Nod in Job-Corps Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, for the second time, has turned back congressional challenges to his domestic policies. Defections of southern Democrats to the GOP side was again a key factor.

The latest victory came as the Senate turned back, 52-40, a Democratic-backed resolution calling on the President to delay his decision to shut down 59 Job Corps Centers by July 1.

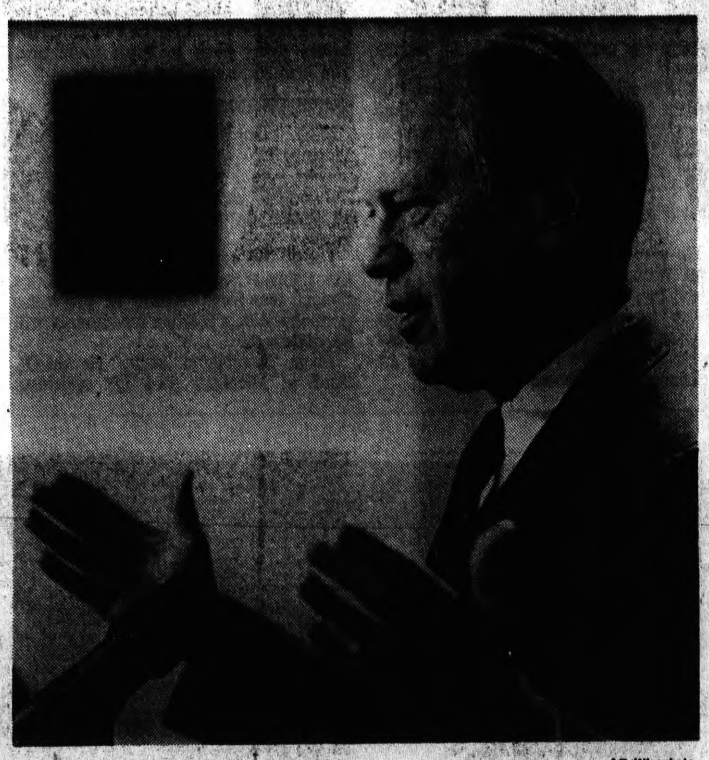

★ ★ ★

All 40 Republicans present yesterday opposed the resolution. They were joined by 12 Democrats, nine of them southerners.

This gave the administration a perfect record in two major tests so far in Congress—both thanks to the help of Dixie Democrats.

Three weeks ago a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats in the House upheld the administration position on a school aid bill, rejecting efforts supported by Democratic leaders to amend the measure in a manner opposed by President Nixon.

Solid Republican ranks in the Senate yesterday demonstrated effort by the administration to avoid a defeat on the Job Corps issue.

DRAFT PROPOSAL—Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, House Republican leader, outlined at the White House yesterday the random lottery system for the military draft as proposed by President Richard Nixon. Ford spoke following a meeting between Nixon and GOP congressional leaders.

Enemy Onslaught in 3rd Day

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy fighting raged for the third straight day across Vietnam today, and allied military sources estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese and Vietcong had been killed.

Military sources reported more than 100 U.S. troops had been killed and several hundred wounded since the sudden upsurge of enemy attacks that began with heavy rockets and mortar barrages Sunday night.

★ ★ ★

The South Vietnamese reported about 300 government troops killed, 782 wounded and 29 missing.

The enemy losses were heavier because of the superior firepower of U.S. bombers, helicopter gun-ships and artillery.

N. VIETS RETREAT

The biggest fight of the last 24 hours raged 30 miles northwest of Saigon as American infantrymen from the 25th Division and U.S. bombers and artillery battered North Vietnamese troops entrenched in fortified positions.

After four hours, the North Vietnamese force retreated, leaving 50 of their dead on the battlefield. Three Americans were reported killed.

★ ★ ★

The area northwest of Saigon and the jungled foothills south of Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, have seen the stiffest fighting during the past three days.

★ ★ ★

In a two-day fight six miles southwest of Da Nang, 81 enemy soldiers were reported killed by U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese militiamen. Eleven Marines were killed and 22 wounded; there was no report of the casualties among the militiamen.

Military analysts consider the step-up in enemy attacks part of the effort to force a coalition government on South Vietnam and to increase demands in the United States for a withdrawal of American troops by inflicting higher U.S. casualties.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers arrived in Saigon today for discussions with Vietnamese officials on the peace talks.

★ ★ ★

In an arrival statement, he emphasized that President Nixon's administration agrees with President Nguyen Van Thieu "about the purpose of the peace we seek."

"We shall not compromise on our basic objective," he added. The objective is "the establishment of conditions which assure that the people of South Vietnam can determine their own future unconditionally."

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Command also reported the loss of three American helicopters Tuesday to enemy ground fire, with three U.S. troops killed and three others wounded. This raised to 15 the number of U.S. helicopters reported shot down and destroyed in the past four days and to 2,624 the number reported lost in the war.

Negro Leader Elected Mayor in Mississippi

By the Associated Press

Charles Evers, a Negro civil rights leader, has been elected mayor of Fayette, Miss.

Except in all-Negro Mound Bayou, Evers was the only outright winner among 13 members of his race running for mayor in Mississippi communities in municipal elections yesterday. However, 11 Negroes won places on town boards and another 11 captured enough votes to force runoff elections with white opponents.

Evers, state field director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, becomes the first Negro mayor in southwest Mississippi since 1875. He received 386 votes to 225 for the incumbent, Mayor R. G. Allen, in the town of 1,600.

"The main objective of my administration will be to show that black and white can work together," Evers said. "That includes the black extremists and the white bigots. I want to show that we can have a safe town. I will not tolerate lawlessness."

Negro candidates for mayor in Mississippi lost at Gloster, Jackson, Marks, Moorhead, Sunflower, Woodville, Lexington, Kosciusko and Beaumont.

At Tchula, Sault Sutton Jr., a Negro, was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for mayor but faces Lester Lyon, a white independent, in the June 3 general election.

At Laurel, Robert Stenson, a Negro candidate for mayor, filed as an independent and will face Democratic and Republican nominees in the general elections.

54 in House Fight Surtax Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty-four House members today opposed extending the income surtax for a year without first seeing how much revenue can be raised by closing loopholes in the tax code.

The members, all Democrats, wrote Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"Continuation of the surtax on a temporary basis for a few weeks after June 30 would be preferable to action which would lock the surtax in for another year before we can assess the effects of tax reform and appropriations legislative action."

Mills was not immediately available for comment.

Signers included Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., chairman of the Democratic Study Group, and Rep. James O'Hara, D-Mich., chairman of its executive committee.

TALUS Boosts Transit Setup

imum needs calls for the addition of 180 miles by 1990. It would provide a total of 730 miles of freeway in the seven-county area. The minimum plan calls for 51.6 new miles.

★ ★ ★

Under the maximum plan the Pontiac area would benefit with freeway construction on west M-59, I-275 (a north-south freeway in the westerly part of the county) and on Middle Belt Road. Completion of Van Dyke as a north-south freeway is also contemplated.

★ ★ ★

Minimum plans provide for I-275 and Van Dyke alone.

Computer processing is expected to generate a third pair of plans — a preliminary highway system and a preliminary transit system.

BASIC STANDARD

TALUS set a basic standard of the system as an ability to maintain an average speed of 40 to 45 miles per hour on either roads or transit systems, including stops.

★ ★ ★

It said public transportation fares should be comparative with out-of-pocket automobile operating expenses.

★ ★ ★

A TALUS study has predicted that 66 per cent of all medium-income residents in the region would use rapid transit instead of their own cars if the time involved were no greater. The percentages climbed to 75 and 76 per cent in the high- and low-income groups.

★ ★ ★

The implementation of the maximum plans, expected to cost billions of dollars, might be eligibile for as much as two-thirds federal help under legislation currently being considered the report says. Such legislation would substantially increase the TALUS plan chance of development, TALUS officials noted.

★ ★ ★

The TALUS study has cost about $4 million, and officials were informed yesterday that an additional grant of $180,000 needed to complete the study has been turned down by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

For U.S. Attorney

Nixon Names Area Lawyer

A Bloomfield Township attorney and former U.S. attorney for Michigan's eastern district, George E. Woods Jr., 45, was nominated by President Nixon to serve in his old capacity as U.S. district attorney.

WOODS

Woods of 1184 Dorchester served as U.S. attorney from 1953-60. His nomination this time was due largely to the urging of Michigan's Republican senator, Robert Griffin.

Senate confirmation is expected soon.

Woods would replace U.S. Attorney Robert J. Grace who has been acting attorney since last September.

★ ★ ★

GOP party regulars had recommended others for the job, including Willis Ward, chairman of the Michigan Public Services Commission; James H. Brickley, chief assistant Wayne County prosecutor; Grosse Pointe attorney Peter O'Rourke; and Recorder's Court Judge Robert J. Colombo. Woods, a Republican, has not been active in the party in recent years.

★ ★ ★

Woods was educated in the Pontiac public schools and is a graduate of Ohio Northern University and the Detroit College of Law. Woods has also served as an assistant Oakland County prosecutor.

Army Defector Returns to Sweden

Sweden in early 1967, but "that they only wanted to use me as a political tool against America."

"I realized this right from the beginning and I'm against that," Jones said at the time. "It helped me make up my mind even more that this wasn't the thing for me."

★ ★ ★

In the Stockholm paper yesterday, Jones claimed that he was tortured and treated with injections and electric shocks while serving his sentence for being AWOL.

He told The Pontiac Press that he had defected because of racial prejudice in civilian life as well as in the Army and said that he was against the war in Vietnam.

During the 14 months that Jones spent in Sweden the first time, he was employed as a jazz ballet teacher.

On his return, he was quoted in The Press last June, "I'm very proud and other Negroes are proud that a Negro was the first to go to Sweden to show that he was against the war and do it constructively."

It was just as important that a Negro be the first to return, Jones said.

He said Sweden was no place for us (blacks) except maybe for a vacation.

Jones said a year ago that he had no intention of staying in Sweden, and if he had "I would be running away from all the problems here."

Police-Scandal Talks to Be Secret

By LOIS FRIEDLAND

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Officials will meet behind closed doors to discuss further ramifications of the Earl Teeples case. Teeples is the police officer cleared of charges he violated department policy.

Resolutions requesting the discharge or demotion of Township Police Chief Irving Yakes and a reprimand for Township Supervisor Curtis Hall were offered by a township trustee at the Township Board meeting earlier this week.

★ ★ ★ ★

Trustee Charles Williams of 22001 Treadwell offered the resolutions, which died for lack of seconds at this week's meeting.

In another development today, Chief Irving Yakes reported that another complaint has been lodged against Detective Sgt. Earl Teeples and is being investigated. He refused to give further details on the complaint.

Plans were made, however, to discuss at a closed meeting what actions needed to be taken in the police department. Williams objected to the closed-door session to be held at a later date and requested an open meeting.

In remarks prior to making the resolutions, Williams said, "In the Teeples hearing, police chief Irving Yakes proved to the satisfaction of most everyone that either he condones the actions taken by officers in using excessive force on prisoners, that he fails to heed and investigate citizen or officer complaints regarding brutality, or that he has lost control over the department and his effectiveness has been impaired."

Hall, who is also police commissioner, recently demoted and penalized Teeples on the basis of recommendations from Yakes.

Yakes claimed that Detective Sgt. Teeples had violated 12 counts of a department police code by telling an assistant prosecutor about an alleged beating of a prisoner by two other officers.

In testimony at last week's appeal, Yakes admitted that at least 10 of the charges could be eliminated. All charges against Teeples were subsequently dismissed and full reinstatement ordered by the police board hearing the appeals.

PAST SERVICE NOTED

Williams claimed that Yakes' failure to follow up the complaints on Teeples — brought to Yakes by Lt. Russell Conway, his failure to conduct an adequate investigation as requested by the assistant prosecutor involved, "and his general lack of knowledge on questions put to him by the defense counsel has caused myself — and, I'm sure, other residents — concern as to his fitness to continue as chief."

Williams verbally recognized the chief's past service to the community but suggested that it was now time to have a professionally trained police chief.

Yakes was once the only patrolman in Farmington, and apparently his seniority made him chief of the force as it grew over the years to the present 34-man size.

Williams also said Hall should be reprimanded for his handling of the matter and for his "failure not to recognize or act on the shortcomings of his police chief."

Hall offered staunch support of the chief even over objections of the township attorney, Williams said.

Charges Filed in Boys' Deaths

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — The Macomb County prosecutor's office has filed charges of negligent homicide against Mrs. Martha E. Miller, 46, of 47995 Shelby as the result of the school bus accident on Robinwood Monday that took the lives of two 7-year-old boys.

Mrs. Miller, the driver of the bus owned by the Utica Community Schools District, was scheduled to be arraigned before Judge Richard McClain in 42nd District Court Romeo at 1 p.m. today.

The bus, a 1963 Ford with 69,000 miles on it, has been impounded. Engineers from Ford checked over the bus yesterday for possible mechanical failures. Their report is still incomplete police said.

Mrs. Miller's statement to the MaComb County prosecutor's office concerning her version of the accident was not available this morning.

Shelby police said the dead boys, Malcolm McGregor of 8559 Robinwood and James Thomas of 8453 Robinwood, were playing on the grass strip between the curb and sidewalk when they were struck by the bus.

Neighbors, who said they witnessed the accident, maintained the bus struck the youths as they were walking up a driveway.

Brandon Schools Ask 14.8-Mill Package

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — The board of education has decided to go for broke and ask for a millage package of 14.8 mills that includes a 6.8-mill increase at the June 9 school election.

Voters will also be asked to approve a $3,675,000 bond issue, the bulk of which will go for a new high school.

Noting that the climate for millage successes has been unfavorable in recent months throughout the state, Supt. of Schools Clyde Fisher said the district simply cannot operate next year unless the full 14.8 mills is appropriated.

"The millage we are asking for is basic and minimum. Our present millage of 28.7 is the lowest millage operational rate among school districts in Oakland County. We have not asked for an increase in three years and simply cannot get along without the additional 6.8 mills.

'CARDS ON TABLE'

"The board saw no point in splitting up the propositions into renewal and additional or to ask for the additional later. The cards have to be put on the table — and the voters have to know exactly what we need now," the superintendent said.

Fisher said that even with the 6.8 millage rate increase the district would still be one of the lowest in the county in terms of total millage.

Fisher said the board has reduced the current millage ceiling on bonded indebtedness from 12 to 8.34 mills. The total package increase represents a cost of $3.14 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

For a property owner in Groveland Township with assessed property valuation of $5,000, the package would mean an increase of $17.70 in taxes the first year. In Brandon, the increase would be $19.62 for a property valuation of $5,000.

CURRENT RATE

The current millage rate for the district including county allocated funds is 28.7. The increase will push it to 31.84 the first year and to 34 the following year.

The $3,675,000 in bonded indebtedness is broken down as follows: $2,178,000, new high school; $502,000 for utilties, driveways and grounds for the high school; $313,500 for a six-room addition to the Belle Ann Elementary School in Ortonville; $80,000 for rennovation to the Howard T. Bert Elementary School, Ortonville; $294,100 for new equipment for the Bell Ann, Bert and high school projects.

Also: $43,000 for new Board of Education building; $5,000 in property acquisition funds in connection with the Bell Ann addition; $21,000 for a bus maintenance facility and $188,300 in fees for the architect firm, Odell, Hewitt and Lukenback of Birmingham.

MEETING PLACE DESTROYED — A $38,000 fire, which destroyed the inside of the three-story Middle Straits Community Association center, 3950 Green Lake, West Bloomfield Township, is still under investigation. The fire, which possibly had been smoldering for several hours, started on the floor in the bar area on the north side of the building, according to a fire department spokesman. The fire was first noticed when neighbors heard explosions Sunday afternoon. The blaze was under control in an hour.

County Eyes Budget Hearings

Oakland County residents will have an opportunity to state their views on the county's proposed 1970 budget at two public hearings June 19, if a finance committee recommendation is approved.

Two sessions, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, are proposed. The board of supervisors will be asked to approve the hearings at its meeting tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

The budget, for a record $31 million, was presented for County Allocation Board review yesterday morning. It would require an allocation of 5.79 mills to finance, according to County Auditor Robert E. Lilly. The county allocation during the current year is 5.28 mills.

Lilly sought to refute charges brought Monday by school officials that the county illegally finances its building program.

★ ★ ★

He answered a statement from E. Burrows Smith, vice president of the Royal Oak School District, who claimed that nontax revenues should not be used for building projects.

Lilly quoted state law which he said gives counties the right to set aside 1 mill from nontax money plus 1 mill from its property tax revenue for building projects.

In his appearance before the allocation group, Lilly said he intended to do away once and for all with "the myth" that the county has millions of surplus dollars floating around at the end of each year.

The auditor quoted the sums of $245,000 left over at the end of 1967 and $510,000 at the end of 1968. This sum is comparable to amounts maintained by school districts, Lilly claimed.

'NOT CACHING CASH'

"The county is not stuffing surplus money in a tin can," Lilly said.

Lilly also attacked the subject of "ivory towers' constructed for county use.

★ ★ ★

"In our minds," the auditor said, "any program demands three things: cash, people and quarters. Without buildings a program cannot operate."

He further affirmed the county's intention during 1970 to contain all building payments within the 15-mill limit, but he noted, "The county also has other needs."

FORCED TO EXCEED LIMIT

"If the allocation board does not give us enough money to contain building authority payments within the 15 mills, we might be forced to go above.

"I dare say," the auditor continued, "that you couldn't get the present board (of supervisors) to go above the 15-mill limit, even if they had to cut every program in the county."

Paragon Employe Walkout Unauthorized, Union Says

NOVI — A walkout by more than 70 production employes at Paragon Division of Portec Inc. was called unauthorized today by Shopmans Local 508 of the International Association of Bridge Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers.

The employes, who handed the company a list of demands Friday, walked out after learning that the demands would have to be processed through union grievance channels, according to a joint union-company statement.

★ ★ ★

They were fired from their jobs and notifed by telegram Saturday. The union upheld the dismissal.

The dismissed workers had been bused daily from Detroit by the company and were being trained as welders. Members of a government subsidized project for low-income persons, the employes were being paid $3.68 per hour.

BLACKS IN MANAGEMENT

Their demands to the company included free bus fare—they were paying $6 a week for transportation—and the hiring of more blacks in management positions.

★ ★ ★

Pickets representing the dismissed men have been at the plant every morning this week, but other employes have been allowed to go into work.

Police said that this morning some 50 men were picketing the plant. They passed out leaflets with increased demands ranging from rehiring without any penalty to requests for better working conditions and fairer union representation.

$53-Million Project on Mosquito Junked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal government spent $53 million over the past five years to stamp out a yellow fever-carrying mosquito only to decide the insect wasn't all that dangerous and probably could not be eradicated anyway.

Although there had not been a case of yellow fever reported in 40 years in the United States, the program was begun in 1964 to prevent the possibility of any future outbreak and to end migration of the Aedes Aegypti mosquito to Latin America.

★ ★ ★

From a modest $3-million start in 1964, the U.S. antimosquito program grew to $16.5 million in 1968. It jumped more than $8 million in fiscal 1966, alone.

In last year's governmental economic squeeze this figure was cut back to $6.9 million.

JUNK PROGRAM

Former President Johnson asked for $905,000 for fiscal 1970, but the new Republican administration decided to junk the program altogether, effective June 27.

At its peak, the program had more than 300 federal employes, most in the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga.

★ ★ ★

There were thousands of others employed in Texas, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands under federal contracts to state or territorial health departments.

But in spite of the $53 million expense and the thousands of man-hours that went into a program aimed at preventing a disease unknown in this country for four decades, there were those who defended the project.

Former director Dr. James V. Smith, said the program's value is "probably in relation to our commitments to South and Central America."

Presbyterians Open Assembly

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. opens a weeklong general assembly today that will decide issues ranging from draft resistance to using folk songs in worship.

The synods and presbyteries of the 3.2 million-member denomination, fifth largest within American Protestantism, forwarded scores of proposals intended to thrust the church into greater involvement with changing society.

★ ★ ★

Some 840 participants, or 42 per cent of the 2,000 attending, are commissioners with voting rights. They will elect a successor tonight to the Rev. Dr. John Coventry Smith of Larchmont, N.Y., for a one-year term as moderator, or titular head and presiding officer.

Four candidates have been put up to succeed Dr. Smith—the Rev. George MacPherson Docherty, 58, Glasgow-born pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church in Washington, D.C.; the Rev. David A. MacLennan, 66, senior pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Pompano Beach, Fla.; the Rev. George E. Sweazey, 63, pastor at Webster Groves, Mo.; and John Lee Park, 66, a ruling elder from North Haledon, N. J.

Black Legislators Prod Milliken

LANSING (UPI) — Eleven Negroe legislators from Detroit yesterday "demanded" that Gov. William G. Milliken order Michigan colleges to provide black studies programs for all students.

The request was in a letter read aloud on the Senate floor by Sen. Basil W. Brown of Highland Park while the galleries were lined with some 70 members of the Michigan State University Black Students Alliance.

★ ★ ★

The students loudly applauded Brown, who resigned recently from the Senate Democratic Caucus because of displeasure with its involvement in black problems.

"We demand that you issue immediate directives to all administrators and institutions of higher learning to provide new and revised programs that will guarantee relevant black studies and history to all students as well as equal economic, social and educational opportunities so as to make our colleges and universities more responsive to the needs of today's urban society," the letter said.

DISCRIMINATION

The black legislators told Milliken that despite legitimate demonstrations and protests, discrimination continues in Michigan's institutions of higher learning.

The lawmakers proposed that Milliken establish a policy committee for receiving and dealing with black student grievances on all state campuses — public and private.

★ ★ ★

In addition to Brown, the letter was signed by Democratic Sens. Arthur Cartwright and Coleman A. Young and Reps. James Bradley, Daisy Elliott, Rosetta Ferguson, David Holmes, Raymond W. Hood, Matthew McNeely, Nelis Saunders and Jackie Vaughn.

Paint-In Rates Praise

"Never underestimate the power of a woman" is a truism that has found visible expression in a fine community project that saw a dilapidated section of Pontiac State Hospital transformed into a freshly-decorated cheerful area that has done much for the morale of the patients.

Because of the shortage of State funds for proper maintenance of the local facility, an enterprising Waterford Township housewife, Mrs. JAMES BOYLAN, two months ago organized a paint-in to refurbish one of the hospital's more unsightly areas.

Through appeal in The Press' Voice of the People section, she enlisted a force of 24 regular painters, plus a half hundred part-timers, ranging in age from 14 to 60, on a day-a-week basis.

When the need for surgery obliged Mrs. BOYLAN to relinquish the project, Mrs. RONALD BUNKER took over and saw the job through.

It is estimated that the "Bunker Paint Slingers" saved the institution $6,000 by their volunteer efforts. Moreover, they have not abandoned their interest in improving the building, since they plan on returning next fall for another brush with dingy walls.

★ ★ ★

The Press warmly commends the men and women painters who displayed such a praiseworthy community interest in attacking a maintenance problem at Pontiac State Hospital, with its heart-warming effect on the patients.

We Salute the Hospitals

This is National Hospital Week, aptly keyed to the theme "Your Hospital—Pathway to Progress in Community Health."

Across the land, 5,800 hospitals join hands in various forms of observance dedicated to the memory of FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE, the revered crusader in the field of nursing, whose birthday is May 12.

★ ★ ★

Originally established as Hospital Day in 1921 to coincide with that date, it was extended to a Week in 1953 to provide participating institutions a longer period for inclusion of the growing number of events that suggested themselves.

At the three local hospitals, the 1969 observance takes the form mainly of employe recognition by dinners and teas, displays of hospital equipment and depiction of services, and creation of patient interest in the significance of the week.

Pontiac General Hospital invited interested groups to tour the institution by prearrangement from yesterday through tomorrow, and will hold a punch party Friday honoring its fine volunteer corps of Candy Stripe girls.

★ ★ ★

We salute the Nation's hospitals on their annual commemoration, with a special bow to the dedicated personnel who labor so faithfully in the cause of preservation of life and health.

The NICB Looks Ahead

Population growth and changes in consumer habits and attitude will change social values and aspirations in the next 10 years. Real per-capita consumption will increase by more than a third in the next decade, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

The NICB is sponsoring a one-day meeting on "The Consumer in the '70s" to be held tomorrow in New York City. The meeting is one of frequent periodic conferences the nonprofit, fact-finding institution conducts.

The population of young adults will grow twice as fast as the Nation's total population in the '70s, according to NICB data. The suburbs will expand five times as fast as the central cities. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the United States will begin the next decade with a population of 207 million.

Unless there is a dramatic change in birth rates, the population of the United States in 1980 will total about 235 million. This growth rate is less than satisfying to businessmen who like automatic big increases in the number of potential customers each year.

★ ★ ★

But marketing men are concentrating on inducing greater demand from a total population that will be smaller than had been expected. The continued slowdown in the baby boom means that the American economy in the '70s will have to get its forward thrust from something other than sheer population growth.

Anti-ROTC

Benton Harbor News-Palladium

Whatever else their wide ranging demands, campus radicals consistently vent their greatest violence on police and the Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC).

The sheer folly of their stand can best be described by an old English proverb:

"He that has the worst cause makes the most noise."

★ ★ ★

An anti-ROTC editorial which recently appeared in 29 college newspapers around the country contended that "training soldiers whose ultimate aim is to kill is hostile to the principles of academia."

The ultimate aim of soldiers, like that of policemen, is not to kill but to protect the nation and its citizens. Certainly, if our police and military organizations need humanizing, they are not going to get it by cutting them off from the best educated young minds in the country.

Campus anti-militarists seemingly want to isolate our police and armed forces from civilian America. That could only succeed in creating in this country a Prussian-type military clique inimical to the ideals of democracy.

There's another side to the question of military service, too. It's an old American custom, solidified in the graduated tax system, that those who get the most out of the country ought to do the most to support it.

★ ★ ★

College students today are financially subsidized and socially coddled far beyond any other segment of society. Though it may sound corny in these times, they have a duty to prepare themselves for military service.

The Russians aren't going to defend our academic freedom.

Passover

Israel Digest

Israel celebrated the festival of Passover, commemorating the liberation of the Jews from Egyptian bondage 32 centuries ago, and marking the advent of spring.

The story of Israel's sojourn in Egypt and the Exodus was related at sedarim held in homes, army camps, communal settlements, hotels and hospitals from the slopes of Mount Hermon on the Golan Heights to the southernmost tip of the Sinai peninsula.

★ ★ ★

The influx of pilgrims was perceptibly larger than in recent years as Lod (Lydda) airport officials reported a 20-25 per cent increase in incoming Passover traffic over 1968. The Western Wall attracted thousands of worshippers, throughout Passover Week. Traffic jammed the roads leading to Jerusalem's Old City. Markets were filled with crowds, which included Easter pilgrims from all over the world.

★ ★ ★

The central military seder was held in Sharm e-Sheikh, with the participation of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, Transport Minister Carmel and Chief of Staff Haim Bar-Lev. The Chief Chaplain, Maj.-General Goren, officiated.

Target Of These Times

David Lawrence Says:

Nixon Draft Plan Improvement

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's proposals for important changes in some of the provisions of the draft system are likely to be approved by Congress.

LAWRENCE

Unquestionably there is a good deal of dissatisfaction over the existing method, and the President's plan for revision of the draft would reduce the period of uncertainty for a young man from seven years to one year.

This means that, instead of waiting for the draft to be applied upon the basis of the oldest to the youngest, the young man would be subject to the draft only while he is in the "prime-age" group of 19-year-olds.

It has long been argued that the present arrangement makes a young man uncertain about his status unless he is called prior to the time he reaches 26.

Many have chosen to remove the uncertainty by going into the military service immediately after graduation from college — just at a time when they were ready to engage in some occupation or profession.

MAKE IT POSSIBLE

The effect of the changes proposed by President Nixon would be to make it possible for young men to know in their 19th year whether they are going to be selected.

Once they reach the age of 20, they will either have been eliminated by the random-selection system or will have obtained a deferment for the remainder of their college course.

Mr. Nixon's plan of making a "youngest-first" order of call would mean that each individual would get a decisive answer as to whether he would be drafted and could make plans accordingly, because he would be subject to the draft only for the one year in which he is in the prime-age group — namely, 19 years old.

Student deferments would be continued, but Mr. Nixon proposes that the induction of men who are engaged in graduate studies should be postponed until the end of the full academic year during which they are first called to service. The purpose of this is to provide a less-damaging interruption to their education, since financial arrangements often have been made for a full year of schooling.

NO OTHER MODIFICATION

There is to be no other modification of the present policy against graduate-school deferments, with exceptions only for students in the medical and allied fields who are subject to a later special draft.

All of the changes, if adopted by Congress, would not be put into operation at once due to a desire to take care of current anticipated draft calls, and also to give time to establish the random system, which really selects by lot.

★ ★ ★

The President is of the opinion that ultimately Congress should end the draft law and rely upon an all-volunteer army.

This is undoubtedly preferred by Congress, but some of the military men are not sure such a system will supply the manpower needed. For, as international problems continue to require the stationing of American forces in various countries throughout the world, it remains to be seen whether enough men will volunteer to meet the requirements of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

★ ★ ★

The draft system has never been popular, and there is no assurance that parents will prefer to have their sons go into the military service at 19, rather than at some other age. But the new plan presented by Mr. Nixon alleviates to some extent the present unsatisfactory system.

The only real cure for the draft, however, is to improve world conditions so that large standing armies will no longer be necessary.

Honor Student Defends Role of Young 'Radicals'

NEW YORK — "You have a gross misunderstanding of a certain group of my generation," writes 18-year-old Carol Duncan of San Antonio, Tex., a member of the National Honor Society and the Spanish National Honor Society.

CONSIDINE

"Most of the members of this so-called radical group are the potential geniuses of our time. Most of us have the will and courage to begin to rebuild this exhausted and outdated society. I know of many young people who, like myself, plan to dedicate their lives to social service.

★ ★ ★

"While the average young person is content to become an office worker in a respectable firm, the majority of the dissenting group ask themselves questions of a more intellectual nature.

"They ask themselves what their debt to society is. They have seen the ghettos and the miserable condition of mankind.

RECOGNIZED FAILURE

"They have recognized the failure of 'The Establishment' to satisfy those impassioned with hatred and indifferent to beauty. They have rejected a society whose values are measured in dollars, but whose soul, as well as stomach, is ulcerous.

"Their morals consist not of rigid prejudices and rules, but of a democratic spirit which acknowledges the true value of the individual and which advocates true expression of peace and love among men.

★ ★ ★

"Certainly this group does not possess all the answers to the problems of the world. They recognize that the changes, which are long overdue, must be brought about through individuals.

"They recognize that the problems of the world — hunger, overpopulation, unemployment, etc. — cannot be relieved by the clumsy hands of an indifferent society.

'MUST HELP EACH OTHER'

"They realize that until each man truly accepts and strives to help every other man, regardless of his creed or color, these problems will exist.

"I do not defend the militant, who has not only rejected society's norms, but the protection afforded by its laws. Neither do I speak for the drug abuser, except to say that his need to escape from reality is certainly indicative of the sickness of our society.

★ ★ ★

"Although I am far from being an advocate of drug abuse, I cannot see much difference between a 'pot party' and the so popular cocktail party as a means to escape from reality.

"I can only speak for myself, because I am an individual, and in my society, individuality is what matters. Sincerely . . ."

'Demand Colleges Close Until Unrest Is Settled'

Let's send the SDS students to Russia, the black militants to Africa, and the young college punks who like to battle to Vietnam. This will give taxpayers time to work and rebuild these "institutions of higher learning" before the next bunch comes along and bombs them out again. We taxpoyers should demand the closing of colleges until students decide to sit down and learn again. Hooray for Judge Stelt.

Demand does not maintain prestige but honest work does. The word demand goes with robberies and holdups. Those groups who use the word demand have gone to seed on it. Let them get work and prove to us that they want to learn something in our colleges.

'Agree With Idea of Taxing College Grads'

Regarding the recent letter concerning the proposed bill requiring college graduates to pay taxes, that seems to be a good means of acquiring much-needed tax dollars. Consider the working family man who must mortgage his property or take a large loan to build a garage, paint his house, put up awnings or new siding to improve his property. When he gets his next tax statement his property has been reevaluated and his taxes have jumped higher. Or should he let his property become run-down and shabby until the city decides to look for loopholes to condemn the place until it is improved?

So, allow the college graduate, who usually does not own property, to help pay some of the tax load. Why make the low income or pension people who were not fortunate enough to have a college education pay more taxes than they can afford?

Everyone should write to our President and Representatives regarding this terrible war in Vietnam that is killing the "cream of the crop." Why must it go on? Comments on School Millage Vote Outcome

The people of Wixom should be delighted to have the new Walled Lake Western High School located in our own back yard. However, it seems strange that the "yes" votes for the operating millage passed by a mere four votes by the citizens of Wixom. Could it be that some of the people who were so eager to see the new high school built in Wixom would be foolish enough to vote against the proposed millage increase? It's also interesting to note that the Union Lake precinct voted in favor of the added millage by more votes than any other precinct, yet these families will send their children to Walled Lake Central.

★ ★ ★

It is indicative that these people support their school system and are willing to pay for the best type of education for their children. The Citizens Committee and the Walled Lake School board are to be commended for the long hours and hard work spent in developing the plans for this functional, beautiful high school.

Question and Answer

A friend of mine paid $35 for insurance when she got her license plates. She was in a car accident and was advised to to take out a bond to show good faith. After a certain length of time no charges were brought against her. She can't get back this bond money. Why? What is it used for?

F. M.

REPLY

Drivers under the Uninsured Motorists Fund who are involved in accidents must make a cash deposit for the amount of the accident or post a bond for that amount. The money or bond is to be sure damages are paid should charges be brought against that driver. If, after a year, no charges are preferred, the bond or cash is refunded. If a year has elapsed and no charges brought, your friend can request return of the money by writing or calling Michigan Department of State, Drivers Service Division, Financial Responsibility Section, Lansing, 48918. Lake Michigan Pesticide Study Is Begun

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Tuesday it has started a four-state cooperative study of pesticide pollution in the Lake Michigan area and that another investigation is in the works for the East Coast.

Dr. Harry W. Hays, director of pesticides regulation, said the first phase of the Lake Michigan study is expected to take about 30 days.

After all the information is studied, he said, a similar investigation will be planned to determine sources of pesticide pollution in the Northeast, probably in the main water areas around New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Hays said no definite timetable for the Northeast study has ben set.

BEGAN MONDAY

The Lake Michigan investigation, which began Monday, is being conducted by the department's Agricultural Research Service in cooperation with Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

"No one really knows how much of this pollution was caused by agricultural uses of pesticides, mosquito control programs in parks and forests, industrial wastes, urban Dutch elm disease control, household and garden uses or other sources," said B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

★ ★ ★

The study now is being conducted in Michigan and Wisconsin and later will be extended to parts of Indiana and Illinois, officials said.

GI Underwear Stirs Flap on Extra Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's $1.5 billion supplemental budget request has run afoul of congressmen who contend it wrongfully contains money for GI winter underwear.

The flap over underwear—and over insignia for uniforms—occurred in closed-door hearings before a House appropriations subcommittee last month. A censored transcript was released today.

★ ★ ★

Reps. Glenn R. Davis, R-Wis., and Glenard P. Lipscomb, R-Calif., said the request for an addition to the Army's $24.9-billion budget for fiscal 1969 is billed as money for Vietnam war costs and pay hikes.

Only these two items are exempt from the spending ceiling imposed by Congress for the current fiscal year, they said.

SPIES INCREASE

Rep. George W. Andrews, D-Ala., however, spied a $1.5 million increase for winter underwear and a $3.3 million increase for insignia, both applicable to servicemen outside Vietnam as well as those in the combat zone.

Davis charged the Army was coming in through a budgetary back door to make up the original cut under the spending ceiling.

★ ★ ★

The transcript did not show that the committee discussed the need for winter underwear for soldiers fighting in Vietnam's jungles.

Millage Votes Usually Pass

DETROIT (UPI) — A Michigan Education Association survey of school millage elections revealed yesterday that 432 school districts placed operating millage requests on the ballot in 1968.

Voters in 367, or 85 per cent, of the 432 districts ultimately approved millage requests for school operating purposes. In 280 districts, voter approval was granted at the first millage election held.

★ ★ ★

Eighty-seven of the districts in which millage was ultimately approved were forced to return for subsequent votes. Of these 87 districts, 65 received voter approval on the second ballot, 21 on the third ballot, and one on the fourth ballot.

The millage rate finally approved by the voters in these districts was higher than that originally submitted in 11 instances, the same as originally submitted in 47 instances, and lower in 29 instances.

65 UNSUCCESSFUL

Sixty-five of the 432 districts (15 per cent) failed to obtain voter approval of requested operating millage increases during 1968.

Of the 25 that resubmitted the question but still failed to gain approval, 19 returned once, four returned twice, one returned three times, and one four times.

Experts See U.S. Brakes Gradually Halting Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economists in and out of the government say the administration's attack on inflation will cut down the booming wage-price spiral, but they don't look for a quick victory.

"I wouldn't want to make a prediction tied to a few months," said Herbert N. Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers in an interview, "but by the end of this year we should see inflation running at a significantly lower rate."

★ ★ ★

Even then, Stein said, "I think it will be going on through 1970."

Interviews with other economists turned up general agreement that bleeding inflation out of the economy will have to be done gradually. Cold-turkey cures got no support at all.

William A. Chartener, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, stressed the need for persistence and patience.

"We're in a period of very rapid growth," Chartener said. "There is power, there is momentum, there is confidence from this kind of growth that makes it very difficult to reverse or even slow down the economy."

★ ★ ★

Also interviewed by the Associated Press in a sampling of what government and nongovernment economists think about the nation's No. 1 economic problem were Carl Madden, chief economist of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Nat Goldfinger, research director of the AFL-CIO.

SOME EXCERPTS

Here are excerpts from the question-and-answer sessions:

Q. Will some lessening of inflation be visible this year?

MADDEN: There are some early signs that the monetary and fiscal policy mix has slowed down the real growth of the economy already. However, we know from past experience that prices can continue to rise after the economy has slowed down. I would expect the price rises to slacken off a little just a few months from now.

★ ★ ★

Q. You expect improvement that quickly?

A. In a matter of a few months—but only in those goods in which there is traditionally a considerable amount of price flexibility. Durable goods, retail hardgoods, but not in the prices of services such as hospital daily charges, domestic service, local transit fares, postal charges, physician's fees, men's haircuts and the like.

★ ★ ★

Q. But will these service prices be reached eventually?

A. I think that's an arguable question, without a recession. I doubt whether the current policy mix will get to the prices of services that are heavily influenced by labor costs in the near future.

★ ★ ★

If one had a recession with real unemployment increases—which I would not advocate—then expectations of workers in the services would be sharply curtailed and price rises would be modified by that change in expectations.

★ ★ ★

Q. But does it do any good to try to change these expectations.

A. I believe the responsibility of the American worker—and businessmen—can be underestimated. And that the administration could do a great deal more in educating the American worker and businessman to their common interest in price stability and restraint in price and wage decisions.

★ ★ ★

Q. That sounds almost like guideposts.

A. Well, the Chamber of Commerce is opposed to the use of guideposts as a means of government intervention in wage and price decisions. But the Chamber has never been opposed to informing the American public generally about the desirability of price stability and informing the public of the interdependence of its various elements.

★ ★ ★

Q Then you would try to communicate directly with these individuals instead of working on the unseen forces that underly inflation?

A. Not instead of working on the forces, but in addition to working on the forces.

★ ★ ★

Q.—To Stein — This administration doesn't seem to have much use for guideposts to hold wage and price increases within certain limits. What can you say to members of a union, for instance, that will induce them to settle for a little less?

STEIN: I don't think we can persuade a lower rate of price increase or wage demand by anything we can say to people. I don't think it's any longer possible to ask people to act as if inflation wasn't going on.

We have to demonstrate that the inflation is slowing down and that there is good reason to expect it will continue to slow down. I think people will respond to these facts rather than to things we say to them.

★ ★ ★

Q. Then guideposts don't work?

A. We don't think they work. We don't think they worked in the past and we particularly don't think they will work in this kind of circumstance where we have a rapid inflation still going on.

Furthermore, many of us, including me—perhaps most particularly me—don't like it even if it works because it's just an unseemly way to run a country. It degenerates into arm-twisting, blackmail and threats.

Q.—To Chartener—What do you think the new wage pattern is likely to be if strong price increases continue?

CHARTENER: It is very difficult to tell a union or union members that when they see living costs going up 5 per cent, or their taxes going up, that they ought to be content with a wage increase that doesn't at least enable them to hold even with the cost of living.

Last year, wage increases averaged something over 6 per cent. I hope we'll be able to do better than that before the year is over. But it will be difficult while workers see living costs going up so fast.

Q.—To Goldfinger—You say you feel the policies now in use probably will do the job expected of them but that better ones might have been chosen. Can you elaborate?

GOLDFINGER: I think the mix of restraints has been at least partly wrong. The most important issue is the cost that the nation may have to pay in rising unemployment.

Q. Do the remedies being employed add up to an unacceptably high rate of unemployment in the near future?

A. That remains to be seen. You just can't say at this point.

Q. But about the flaws that you feel exist in the general blend of restraints.

A. We think that what's called for is more of an analysis of the causes of inflation, much more of pinpoint approach to doing something about it instead of these broad, across-the-board measures. In other words, a rifle shot as against a shotgun blast.

These measures that are being taken across the board are hitting the wrong people, hitting them first and hitting them hardest. They're hitting small businessmen, home buyers and consumers.

And at the same time the big corporations, which should be the target, can avoid the impact. Tight money policy, for instance. They can avoid it because of their large internal cash flows and the cooperation of the banks.

★ ★ ★

Q. But some analysts say there is too much purchasing power in the hands of the consumer.

A. Is there? I think anybody who says there is should prove it. The statistics certainly don't show it.

★ ★ ★

Q.—To Chartener—Do you have any indication that people are beginning to succumb to the feeling that inflation is going to go on indefinitely?

CHARTENER: The encouraging thing is that, amongst the people themselves, we have not seen any great amount of inflation psychology. In other words, people don't seem to have stepped up their own spending with the idea that they're going to buy before prices go up.

Purchases of autos, appliances and furniture seem in line with the rise in the income of the population. People on the whole do not seem to be behaving as if they're afraid of perpetual inflation.

★ ★ ★

(The big exception, Chartener noted, is housing, where buyers seem in a rush to buy now because they fear higher prices and mortgage rates tomorrow.)

Club Presents Gift to Hospital

The Bloomfield Welcome Wagon Club presented a check for $1550 to Mrs. Eleanor McCurry, head of Pontiac State Hospital's occupational therapy department, at its annual luncheon today. This group has raised money for PSH every year since it was organized.

A film on "Michigan — the Vacation Land" was shown by Michigan Bell Telephone Company to members in Pagoda Inn.

Highlighting the luncheon meeting was an installation of new officers.

Those taking part included: Mrs. Cornelius Vander Weele, president; Mrs. Leon Alger and Mrs. John LeVasseur, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Fred Harbin and Mrs. Kenneth Jost, secretaries; Mrs. David Renwick, treasurer.

To Avoid Epidemic

Plan Mass Immunization

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government health authorities are organizing a crash program to immunize eight million people against a predicted epidemic of German measles this winter.

Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the National Communicable Disease Center, says the disease reaches epidemic proportions every six or seven years. He has asked Congress for a rush appropriation of $9.6 million for the program.

★ ★ ★

The vaccinating program will begin this summer, according to testimony released today by the House Appropriations Committee. It heard Sencer in a closed session two months ago.

German measles, known also as rubella, is a relatively mild childhood disease. But there may be serious consequences for unborn children whose mothers get the disease during the first three months of pregnancy. Because of a 1964 epidemic, Sencer said, some 20,000 children were born with birth defects.

★ ★ ★

The new vaccine was developed by the government's Division of Biologics Standards and has been field tested for three years. It will be ready for distribution June 30. Immunity is estimated at 20 years.

A more severe childhood disease, red measles, or, rubeola, was all but eliminated by a similar mass program in 1965, Sencer said.

Unhappy Housewives Air Gripes Concerning Grocery Purchases

American housewives, as grocers and manufacturers may have long suspected, harbor gripes about many household products.

They dislike aerosol cans that don't spray, milk cartons that leak and drippy meat packages.

These gripes and hundreds of others were uncovered in a nationwide survey of American homemakers undertaken recently by Warwick & Legler, Inc., a New York advertising agency. The fullscale study was designed to learn what "pet peeves" housewives have about products sold in grocery stores and the relative extent to which these "peeves" are irritating to them.

★ ★ ★

The results were announced earlier this week by the agency's President, John P. Warwick, at the annual meeting of the Sales & Marketing Executives International in Cleveland.

TOP 12

The dozen most irritating peeves to the American homemakers in the current survey turned out to be (not in rank order):

- Spray cans that don't spray
- Prewrapped meat, vegetables and fruit that hides the bad side or soft spots
- Packages that say "tear here" and then don't tear
- Cookie boxes containing crushed cookies
- Toilet tissue that can't unroll without ripping several feet of tissue
- Cellophane or plastic wrap that won't tear straight and gets wrinkled
- Drippy meat packages
- Inability to tell freshness of products such as bread, cakes because of coding
- Packages that say "push here" and which won't push and often break fingernails
- Easy twist-off tops that don't twist off
- Cans with "tear off tabs" that cut fingers
- Cartons that leak

Among the gripes homemakers also rated very annoying were cents-off labeling on packages where you really don't know the regular price or real saving, refrozen fruits and vegetables that are apparent because one side has a cake of ice, low calorie foods without calorie content on package.

Among the gripes also frequently volunteered by homemakers were tiny candy bars in big wrappers, bags of sugar that leak, spill and tear, rolls and buns in non-crushproof packing, cheese and cold meat slices that cannot be separated, egg cartons that don't protect eggs.

OLDER SHOPPER FUSSY

"We learned that the most critical consumer is to be found among the older population, those with lower income and lower educational attainment," said Mr. Warwick. "Maybe the younger element doesn't care as much, and maybe the more affluent simply shrug and throw the faulty package away — but I wouldn't bank on that.

"We also learned that while the popular phrase is always 'new and improved' — our housewives say the two don't necessarily go together. And, finally, we learned that a considerable number of consumers — your customers — are not exactly happy with many of the products they buy in the market.

Cast Announced for 'Saint Joan' at Meadow Brook

The cast for the Meadow Brook Theatre's final production of the season, George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" (which will open a five-week run on May 22), has been announced.

★ ★ ★

Three popular Meadow Brook actors, Lorna Lewis, Curt Dawson and Herbert Foster have returned to appear in "Saint Joan." Miss Lewis has been cast in the title role while Dawson will play the Earl of Warwick and Foster will be seen as Chaplain John de Stogumber.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When Tom and I got married two years ago, he made me tear up all the pictures I had taken with my ex-boyfriends. He also tore up all the pictures of himself and his ex-girlfriends — or so I thought.

We went to visit his mother the other day and as we got ready to leave, Tom drew my attention to a framed picture on the wall. He laughed and said, "Well, look at that!" I didn't seen anything funny about it. It was a picture of him and the girl he went with while he was stationed in the army in Germany. He had his arm around her.

★ ★ ★

I was so shocked and hurt, but I didn't say a word. I've been to the house several times before, and that picture wasn't hanging there. Why all of a sudden now?

My mother-in-law is not a stupid woman, and she surely must have known that this would hurt me. I really can't imagine why she did this. I love her dearly and I always thought she loved me, too.

I haven't said a word, but I've been crying my eyes out. Should I tell my husband how I feel? Or should I tell my mother-in-law?

HURT

★ ★ ★

DEAR HURT: Since your husband drew your attention to it, thinking it was "funny," skip him. But do tell your mother-in-law.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Are gentlemen becoming an extinct breed in our civilization? I ride the bus to work every day and back, and I have seen men sitting with their noses buried in the newspapers while women stand, I mean some pregnant, and elderly women. Once in a while a gentleman will stand and offer a lady his seat, but then you should see the dirty looks he gets from the men who are sitting. I'd like your opinion.

MIDDLE-AGED LADY

DEAR LADY: No pregnant or elderly woman should stand while men sit. Neither should feeble or handicapped men stand while healthy, able-bodied women sit.

Being female no longer entitles a woman to special treatment in a world where women compete with men for the same job.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: That battle-ax in Prescott, Ariz., really got my temper riled.

"Housewives have all day to do their marketing, so why do we 'working folks' have to battle them at the check-out counter at the supermarket after work," she complained.

What does she mean "we working folks"? Wonder what she thinks caring for a husband, seven kids, and a 10-room house is. Fun and games, maybe?

You bet I shop in the evening after my husband gets home from work. It's just the break I need. Otherwise I have to take my pre-school kids with me, and then I get dirty looks from the daytime battle-axes.

And that woman also resented having to "stand in line behind some dirty men just off work." Sometimes I ask my husband to stop at the store and bring home the groceries if I don't feel well or have had an extra-heavy day. That's where all "the dirty men just off work" come from. We housewives can't win for losing.

MORE FURIOUS IN DENVER

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you that each man must decide for himself how much church is "enough." I personally feel that a woman is lucky if her biggest complaint is a husband who wears his knees out in church.

Here's a little verse I've know for years, which says it very well:

"Whenever we pass by a church
Let's stop and pay a visit.
Then when at last we're carried in
Our Lord won't say, 'Who is it?' "

A FRIEND IN K.C.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to add my feelings to those who have something to say about poronography:

My husband and I have two grown children, 21 and 23. Also two younger ones, six and nine. My husband owns and operates a small book store, and in it he has all kinds of books and magazines. Some of the books and magazines could be called pornographic," as they contain pictures of nudes, and many people regard this as "dirty."

★ ★ ★

Our own children have been around books and magazines such as these all their lives, and they wouldn't even take a second look at a "dirty" picture another child might sneak to see.

If any of our children have ever wanted to know anything about sex, they have come to us.

★ ★ ★

Parents who hide pictures and sex books and make such a big mystery about sex are the ones who will have something to worry about when their children reach adolescence.

We've never had one bit of trouble with our older children, and we anticipate none from the younger ones.

Sincerely, MR. AND MRS. E.O.

Their Dinner Is Consumed by Other Folks

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I were invited over to his cousin's for dinner on a Sunday. When we arrived, my sister-in-law and her husband and children had come unexpectedly, which meant another five for dinner.

When we walked in, my husband's cousin asked us "Have you eaten?" I figured he had forgotten that he asked us and said "yes." Seeing that they didn't have enough and the table was already set, I didn't want to put anyone on a spot. I was a little angry, however, as I thought my sister-in-law should have been told we were invited for dinner. What should I have done? — Mrs. D.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. D.: I don't see how you could have handled the situation better. You acted in the best possible way to avoid embarrassing anyone. The cousin was at fault. Unless they had honestly forgotten their invitation to you, they had no business offering your meal to the uninvited guests.

Panel Gives Consumer New Picture on Buying

Market testing has become an important part of the food industry in the United States and on May 21, 22 and 23 Detroit area homemakers will have an opportunity to examine and evaluate a number of new products.

The occasion is a series of duplicate meetings of Michigan State University's Consumer Preference Panel. Sessions will be held at The Pontiac Mall Community Room at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on May 21.

★ ★ ★

Local panelists, many of whom are members and guests of the Informed Food Shoppers Group, an organization developed by the Consumer Marketing Program in Detroit, together with residents chosen from a random telephone sample from the greater Detroit area, will become part of the University's state-wide panel.

VOICES HEARD

As a continuing and important part of the Consumer Marketing Program, this Preference Panel offers consumers a way of registering their opinions and preferences concerning new food products, as well as evaluating proposed changes in the form of packaging of familiar foods and other agriculture products.

★ ★ ★

Opinions of panelists, after tabulation on the University's computer, are analyzed by Marketing Specialists and reported to Michigan's food industry. By keeping producers, processors, and food distributors informed on consumers opinions, production of future products can be geared to better meet consumer needs and preferences.

★ ★ ★

The panel is sponsored by Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

★ ★ ★

Consumers who would like to determine which food products reach the supermarket and in what form will have this opportunity soon. Any homemaker who would like to take part in this event is cordially invited to attend. Simply contact Hildegard Hesse at the Consumer Marketing office at 2832 East Grand Boulevard, Room 302, Detroit 48211, phone 873-0794.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

Please advise me on sleeves for cocktail or informal evening dresses for summer. The pattern books are filled with the huge, billowing, puffed or gathered into cuffs sleeves. These sleeves are not only too hot to wear but don't seem appropriate for embroidered linens or cotton brocades that are worn in very hot climates.

Mrs. R. E. T.

Dear Mrs. R. E. T.:

The huge sleeves you are referring to are not suitable for heavy fabrics no matter what the climate is. I would suggest either a short sleeve or a full length sleeve, the three-quarter sleeve that was so popular many years ago is not currently in fashion. More and more women are returning to the idea of sleeves even in hot climates because when the heat is excessive, we usually have air conditioning, especially in restaurants and theaters.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Virginia Chandler, Pontiac, Mich. is this week's winner of the Tailor Trix pressing board for her following suggestion.

"The first time I honestly had perfectly matched plaids at the seam line was by matching the plaids at the SEAM LINE instead of the notches. This works especially well when there is a curve or a seam that is cut on an angle instead of perfectly straight."

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I would like to make a pair of slacks out of bonded material but I would like to make them with elastic at the waist instead of a waistband and zipper. How do I change the pattern to achieve this?

Mrs. G. C.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. G. C.:

Since knits are not usually bonded, I am assuming you are referring to a firm fabric. In this case, I wouldn't recommend the elastic casing at the waist. Because your fabric would have no "give," you would have to make it very large at the waist and when gathered up it would appear too bulky.

The elastic at the waist is usually found on knitted fabrics because the fabric will give as you put it on over your hips and then spring back to fit the waist with very little extra fabric allowance. If your pattern has the customary darts, you may eliminate the darts for the ease you need. In other words, it is not necessary to have the usual darts for fitting.

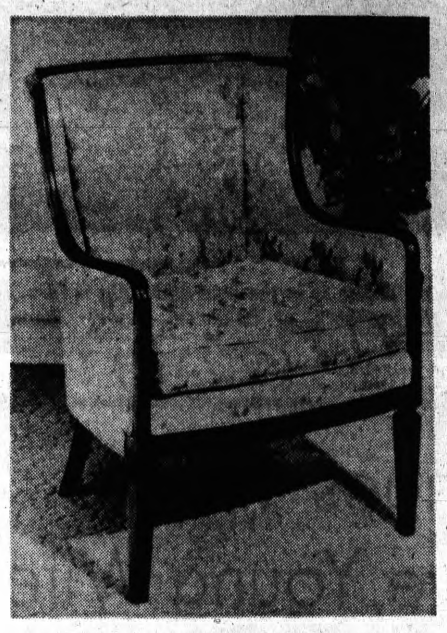

★ ★ ★

When she wants her sewing to look tailor-made, the home sewer will check every detail. Mrs. Farmer advises you in adding those extra touches in her booklet, "Your Pattern and You." For this booklet, send 25 cents and a long envelope, self-addressed, and stamped, to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

OU Summer Courses Emphasize Arts, Crafts

"Early Summer Adventures in the Arts," Oakland University's Continuing Education program of 18 summer courses will emphasize the arts and crafts. Slated to begin the week of June 2, most courses will end before the Fourth of July to accommodate family vacation plans.

★ ★ ★

Miles Barrie, noted area photographer, will teach "Creative Photography," a new course in both camera and darkroom techniques. The course will emphasize composition, lighting and exposure in creating both color and black and white prints. It will be conducted at Cranbrook Institute of Science where extensive darkroom facilities are available.

Another area of the summer program is the foreign language group. Both adults and high schoolers with foreign travel in mind will enjoy their trip more, having taken a quick course in Spanish, French or Italian.

BASIC PAINTING

Michael Brakke, OU art instructor, plans to offer basic painting for the budding artist. Students will learn the basic fundamental structure of painting, using a variety of media such as oils and acrylics.

More in the area of mentally stimulating activity, OU's Early Summer Adventures in the Arts includes Music Appreciation for the layman. John Dovaras, OU's instructor of music will discuss the craft of composition in analyzing major choral and orchestral works. The classical, romantic and modern periods will be presented on record.

★ ★ ★

Dovaras will also lead a class "Music of Meadow Brook IV" which will investigate major works to be presented at this summer's Meadow Brook Music Festival.

Works by Beethoven, Brahms, Mozart, Debussey, Britten and Prokoffief will be discussed and illustrated by recordings. Prior knowledge of music theory will not be necessary.

★ ★ ★

More light activity courses include Modern Literature where works by Bellow, Salinger, Heller and MacLeisch will be examined.

Creative Writing I, a regular favorite, will be taught by the Detroit News' Sunday News Editor, Donald S. Easter and Efficient Reading will be offered by Jerome Breen, Oakland Schools' Reading Clinician.

Jack Haynes will lead a new course offering some self-understanding "Psychology and Everyday Life."

★ ★ ★

Registration and brochures describing all eighteen courses are available by contacting OU's Division of Continuing Education.

Flower Talk

THE FALSE MERMAID

The lovely false mermaid is one of the most rarest species of flowers in the United States today. They are so named because they resemble a mermaid and are found in swampy land and on river banks in the northern section of America and in Southern Canada.

The small weak-stemmed little plant produces tiny flowers, which have three petals on long and singly stems. The entire plant will only grow to six to 15-inches high.

Our flowers are not very rare; however, we do keep the freshest and most beautiful flowers available. Call FE 2-0127 for any floral need.

Cold Complicates

Otitis media is a complication of a cold that often occurs in children. It is an inflammation of the middle ear chamber, started by congestion clogging small canals located behind the nose and extending to ears.

The site of Yosemite National Park in California was discovered in 1850.

Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Miller work in the dietary department and Miss Johnston in the obstetrics nursery.

Clarkston Co-Op Nursery Being Formed

A group of Clarkston mothers have announced plans for a parent-teacher co-operative nursery school for three and four-year olds.

The mothers, who recently met at the Princess Lane home of Mrs. Max Inman were joined by members of the Greater Detroit Co-operative Nursery Council for a slide program and discussion.

Anyone interested in seeking a teaching position with the nursery may contact Mrs. Roland Vecsei. Mothers of eligible children may also call Mrs. Vecsei.

Try Cotton Fabrics for Dressing Table

Next time the ladies come to lunch, give your luncheon table a fresh spring-like look with a covering made of a pretty cotton print.

Start a new trend — use colorful cotton dress fabrics in fresh spring prints to make a tablecloth and coordinated napkins.

The National Cotton Council suggests that you let the luncheon theme determine the type of fabric you use.

For instance, you might wish to have a Polynesian luncheon, with fruit, fish, and some kind of coconut dessert on the menu. Then use a splashy island print for the tablecloth, like a cotton fabric featuring big exotic flowers.

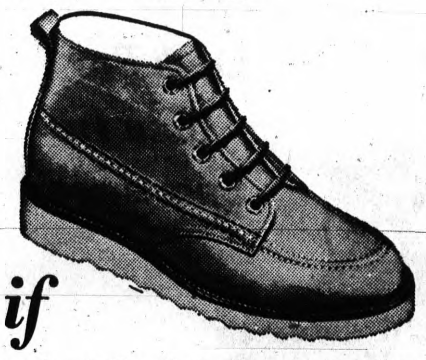

Bind the edges of the flowered cloth with green bias tape.

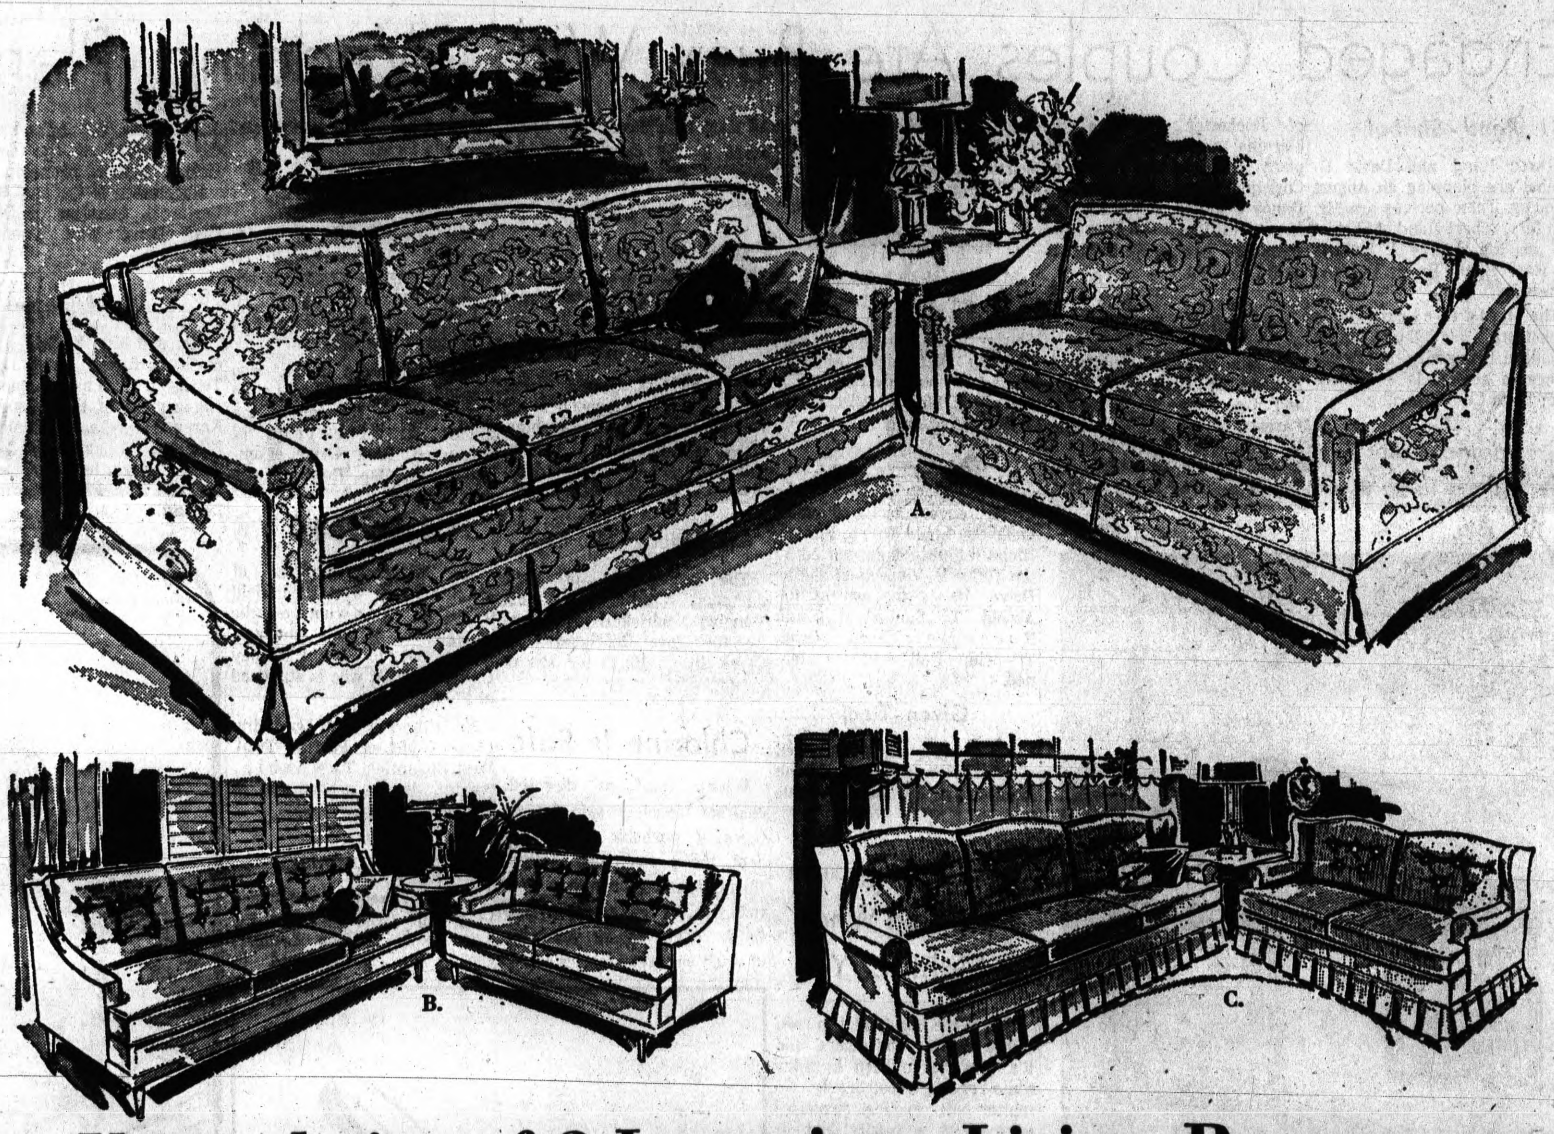

For napkins, choose a cotton printed with smaller flowers, featuring the same colors that are in the tablecloth fabric.

Way to Stall Tax Rise Seen

LANSING (AP)—The chairman of the Senate Taxation Committee said Tuesday that the Legislature may be able to stave off higher taxes by tightening already existing provisions for property tax exemptions.

"I think we could eliminate the possibility of higher taxes," said Sen. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek.

★ ★ ★

Demaso said his committee asked the Nonprofit Citizens Research Council to look into the exemption question with an eye to cutting current exemptions.

"The easy way to raise money is to raise taxes — old and new," DeMaso said. "This is what we've done for years."

'TAXES HAVE HAD IT'

But, the senator added, "I think taxes have had it." He cited the so-called "taxpayers revolt" and said, "The taxpayers are letting us know very politely now... by defeating millage levies."

Statistics compiled by the Michigan Education Association indicate that some 46 per cent of the millage elections conducted in the first four months of 1969 have failed.

★ ★ ★

"It's time to reverse the process," DeMaso said, adding that he hoped to have concrete suggestions by September, when the Legislature is expected to consider sweeping education reform proposals that could require increased funds.

DeMaso pointed to a list of 46 items which currently are exempted from the Michigan property tax.

They included trees and shrubs on agricultural lands, certain types of registered water craft, houses of public worships and parsonages and public properties owned by federal, state or local government.

Lost taxes on those 46 items total some $100-500 million, he said.

★ ★ ★

"I know that's a broad range," he added, "but we can't pin it down. We probably have less information on the dollar-and-cent value (of the tax exemptions) than anything else."

A complete list of property tax exemptions, he said, could total as many as 75 items.

Because of the planned study, DeMaso said his committee any proposed legislation adding probably would not report out any proposed legislatinn adding to or subtracting from the list of exemptions.

★ ★ ★

"Doing it helter-skelter is not the right way," he said. "It's like shooting fish in a barrel. We don't know what we're doing."

San Francisco Thief Frees 200 Mice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police and health officers rounded up some 200 mice Tuesday running loose in an apartment.

The white mice had been freed from their cages by a burglar who broke into Clarence J. Gonyou's apartment.

★ ★ ★

Gonyou said he bought "just two mice" four months ago but "they sort of got away from me."

Dem Hits U.S Care for S. Viet 'Murderer'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, says it is disgraceful that South Vietnam's national police chief, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, will be treated for a leg wound at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital.

Loan, called a murderer by Young in a Senate speech, became known around the world when he was photographed as he executed a bound Vietcong officer who had been taken prisoner during last year's enemy Tet offensive.

The dramatic picture, which won a Pulitizer prize, showed Loan firing his pistol within inches of the prisoner's head.

Young said Loan was brought to the United States with his entourage at U.S. taxpayer expense to undergo treatment.

"This seems to me to be a disgraceful end to a disgraceful, murderous episode," said Young, a long-time foe of American involvement in the Vietnam war.

Government officials passed the buck Tuesday when asked about Loan's arrival, length of stay and payment of his bill. A reporter was referred by the hospital to the State Department, then to the Defense Department, the South Vietnamese Embassy and back to the hospital without getting any answers.

Young made his attack Monday in the Senate, saying: "Americans should know that this murderer, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, who was seriously wounded in street fighting in Saigon has been brought to the United States on a commercial jetliner at the expense of our taxpayers who are footing the bill for this murderer.

"This brutal murderer, accompanied by his wife, four children, chauffeur, cook and military aide, is in the United States and en route to Washington, D.C., where arrangements have been made for him to be given a suite at Walter Reed Hospital and have the services of U.S. surgeons and doctors attending him under the pretext that he has diplomatic status and is connected with the South Vietnam Embassy in Washington."

Couple Sought in Kidnaping

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Federal warrants have been issued for a man and a woman accused of kidnaping a 22-year-old social worker and holding her in an apartment for three days.

Anne K. Jenkins was released Tuesday after her father flew to Baltimore from Waterloo, Iowa, and paid $10,000 ransom in a street-corner rendezvous.

★ ★ ★

Charged in the warrants signed by a federal commissioner were Edward L. Dull, also known as John E. Calvert, 39, and Marie Calvert, about 29, both of Baltimore.

The FBI said Miss Jenkins said that she saw a woman struggling with a load of groceries Saturday and helped her carry them to the apartment.

★ ★ ★

The FBI quoted Miss Jenkins as saying she was confronted by a man who stabbed her and forced her to stay.

The FBI said Miss Jenkins was "physically molested."

Man Is Sixth to Die From Flint Accident

FLINT (AP)— Donald Plamanden, 22, of Flint, yesterday became the sixth person to die as a result of a flaming crash between a huge gasoline tanker and two cars.

He had been in critical condition since the accident Monday at a busy Flint intersection in which the truck driver and four other persons in the two cars were burned to death.

Three-fourths of his body was burned in the crash. Witnesses said he emerged from one car and ran through sheets of flame, which burned off all his clothing except his shoes.

A federal safety official from Washington investigated the crash Tuesday.

Eye-Transfer Patient Goes Home--'Blind'

HOUSTON (UPI) — John Madden spent three weeks with his eyelids stitched shut, waiting to learn whether an operation would restore his sight.

His wife said yesterday it had not.

★ ★ ★

Madden, 55, a Monroe, Tex., photo shop owner, received a new right eye three weeks ago in what was announced as the first total eye transplant. He quietly checked out of Methodist Hospital Monday and returned home.

"There is no sight but the eye has perfect movement and he has feeling in it," Mrs. Madden said from the couple's home about 40 miles north of Houston.

HAS MOVEMENT

"I don't know what they expected," she said. "They tell us that being able to transplant an eye and have movement in it is really something."

Neither Dr. Conrad D. Moore, who performed the surgery, nor Methodist Hospital officials would comment on the success of the operation. Madden left the hospital secretly yesterday morning.

The Houston Opthalmological Society issued a statement three days after the surgery, accusing Moore of giving thousands of blind persons a false sense of hope with claims of a total eye transplant.

We can't afford a bigger one.

We've been having some pretty good years.

We've grown from little to almost-big.

And we've reached the danger point.

The danger point for a retailer is when he starts thinking he got successful all by himself.

The head begins to swell.

It happens all the time to men's clothing stores, hardware stores, department stores, and egg ladies who suddenly believe they're more important than their customers.

It's very dangerous.

Very costly.

It can drive customers away faster than you can say "No sale."

It could happen to Osmun's.

But we tried to build in a safeguard against it.

We told ourselves, 30-some years ago when we started, that there's more to being a men's store than hanging up a rack of 40-regulars.

We told ourselves that a store needs customers more than customers need that particular store.

There are lots of places to buy 40-regulars.

What's going to bring you to Osmun's is Osmun's thinking that you're the most important person we know.

And, actually, that's easy. Because you are.

we know there are other men's stores in town

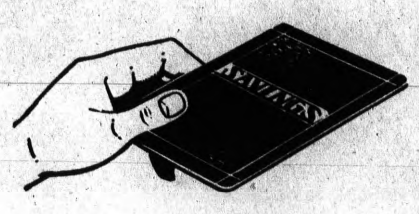

Three of our stores are open evenings 'til 9: Tel-Twelve Mall (Telegraph and 12 Mile in Southfield), Tech-Plaza Center (12 Mile and Van Dyke in Warren), and Tel Huron Center (Telegraph and Huron in Pontiac). Our downtown Pontiac store is open Friday evenings 'til 9. Look around. Bring your Osmun's or Security Chargecard, Michigan or Midwest Bankard, or money, if you like.

Mexico Seeks Guests' Aid

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rather than spend herself into bankruptcy, this prospering U.S. neighbor is trying to get her wealthier guests to help share the expense of being a debutante among developing nations.

This is an impression created by the Mexican government's quiet but firm prodding of private foreign enterprise, especially American, to take a wider, more effective role in national development.

★ ★ ★

These proddings are understood to stem largely from a serious balance of payments problem compounded by increasing restiveness among the lower classes caused by the lopsided distribution of national income.

The government's concern over its foreign trade problems was set forth informally and privately by Mexican businessmen to prominent American delegates at a recent U.S.-Mexico business symposium here. They were told a staggering trade deficit, $782 million last year, was the key element in the over-all national problem.

JOINT VENTURES

Partly as a solution, the government wants foreign companies to enter joint venture schemes with Mexican private capital. It also has moved into commercial activities directly competitive with private enterprise.

Through joint ventures, the government hopes to keep more of the profits at home by curbing remittances abroad which last year totaled some $216 million.

★ ★ ★

Much of the foreign business community has reacted negatively to the proddings. They are generally viewed as signs of increasing statism by a government swinging to the left out of political expediency in an election year.

All this and Mexico's economic performance the last two years make some ledger-watchers nervous.

In terms of the gross national product's growth—6.4 per cent in 1967 and 7.1 per cent last year—the economy is expanding at a faster clip than those of most other Latin-American countries, well ahead of the 3.5 per cent birth rate.

But the expansion has been nourished by heavy borrowing to cover two whopping balance of payments deficits, $534 million in 1967 and $596 million last year.

★ ★ ★

The foreign debt, mostly at long range, stands at roughly $2.6 billion, and to finance it Mexico needs 35 cents out of every dollar earned abroad.

One financial source estimated Mexico's gross borrowing in 1968 at $900 million.

"Any other Latin-America country, except possibly Venezuela, would be in serious trouble with the debt load," the source said. "But the Mexicans are excellent money managers, they have the best of credit references and they've managed to curb inflation so that the peso remains a hard currency."

MOST OF NEEDS

This country produces most of what it needs, but the requirements of agriculture, manufacturing, commerce and tourism—the nation's No. 1 industry—for materials and equipment not produced locally cost Mexico $1.96 billion in imports last year, against exports of $1.18 billion.

The soaring population also demanded more hospitals, roads, schools and other public services.

Because of political and economic stability, Mexico has been a catch-basin for the rising flood of foreign investments—mostly American—in Latin America.

Mexico welcomes foreign capital, but the growing imbalance in commercial payments lately has caused her to try to steer investors toward Mexicanization, a product of the law requiring Mexican majority stock ownership, at least 51 per cent, in all foreign enterprise.

SELECTIVE

Application of the law has been selective. In cases where the availability of new technology or location of a plant in a desired part of the country is considered advantageous, the government has allowed foreign control.

In cases where the public interest calls for lower prices or improved quality, the government also has permitted foreign-controlled companies to move directly into competition with all-Mexican firms.

Businessmen say the government also has moved through its own specialized agencies into direct competition with private enterprise in various fields. Samples cited: insecticides, sulphur, livestock and poultry feed, rural industrialization and into the sale and distribution of bread, some other basic food items, fertilizers, clothing, machinery and farming implements.

All private stock in a sugar-industry financing firm was purchased by the government in what may bring a total takeover of that industry. A new tax on advertising revenues looks like a step toward more extensive government control over radio and television stations.

RESPONSE TO UNREST

The government also is reported eager to see more foreign firms "go public" voluntarily, offering stock to the Mexican buyer, and to have them extend their technical training programs throughout the country.

★ ★ ★

Much of what the government is now doing is understood to be a response to increasing social unrest. By exercising greater controls and pressures over the private sector, the government is striving to keep prices down while insuring a steady flow of supplies to the markets.

★ ★ ★

This is believed intended at cooling the simmering discontent which is regarded by the government as a threat to the nation's general health.

There's some concern but no sign of deep unrest in the foreign business community over the government's newly emerging policy toward private enterprise. A reason seems to be a firm belief the administration will not go to extremes that will frighten off foreign capital.

Settlement of Vietnam War Could End Laos Conflict

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A settlement of the war in Vietnam will also end another — the war in Laos. That is the belief of American and other observers in this tiny Asian kingdom long overshadowed by events in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

The Vietnam war has overflowed across the mountainous border Laos shares with the two Vietnams.

The major powers in 1962 bestowed a neutral status on the kingdom but this has not averted a festering war that is pitting 12- and 13-year-old boys against North Vietnamese regulars, and allowing Hanoi's troops to bathe in the Mekong River, sometimes called the "final" line against the spread of communism in Southeast Asia.

Yet while events within Laos appear to be coming more disastrous by the month there is more a sense of pathos than panic in this capital.

"The North Vietnamese do not want to tip the scales in the Mekong River Valley," one American diplomat declared.

"Their military performance is a far cry from any maximum effort," another diplomat said.

This eagerness to explain Vietnamese intentions in Laos is a reversal of the view held in Western embassies 10 years ago that the Communist bloc was intent in sucking Laos into its orbit.

It illustrates the transformation of Laos from an international cockpit to a neutral backwater. The great powers, including the Soviet Union and the United States, seem intent on keeping it that way.

The need to keep the neutral government alive makes sense to Western diplomats, but there are some reservations about eventual North Vietnamese aims in the jungled country.

The Laotian army has suffered in the past 16 months, particularly in the battle for the Nam Bac Valley in January 1968, when five infantry battalions were chewed to pieces, and 2,500 men lost.

The United States provides both overt and covert military help to Laos, mainly in materials but partly in trained guerrilla specialists who work with Meo tribesmen in the mountains.

This military aid, its extent secret, is regarded as the absolute minimum needed to sustain the fighting stance of the Vientiane government above complete deterioration.

The Pathet Lao, a Communist-led insurgent force, has complained bitterly about American bombing, but the general feeling in Vientiane is that the big Communist powers realize American military aid is necessary for the bare survival of rightist and neutralist forces.

The raw edge of the war is blunted in Vientiane where all the major powers have diplomatic representation. The U.S. Embassy will not hesitate to remind the Russians that they have responsibilities in determining that the balance of power in Laos is not tipped.

The Vietnamese are expected to quit at least the Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos when the Vietnam war is settled, and that would be enough to convince neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma of their good intentions, highly placed sources say.

The Red Chinese also are interested in Laos because they have a common border. Currently, 5,009 Chinese combat troops and engineers are building roads in a northern Lao province.

The current Communist push also is seen as "the last dry-season offensive" before a settlement of the Vietnam war. The more territory occupied by the North Vietnamese and the Pathet Lao, the more leverage they might have.

★ ★ ★

There is an awareness here that the North Vietnamese meanwhile will give away nothing in Laos that will detrimentally affect the Vietnam war effort. And the North Vietnamese also are probably aware that the more they eventually give up in Laos, the weaker their Pathet Lao brethren will become.

The Pathet Lao is for the first time launching terrorist and guerrilla attacks in the heavily populated Mekong Valley.

But the Americans in Laos are trying not to become too concerned.

"Diplomacy was pretty easy in the latter part of the 1950s," one American diplomat reflected.

★ ★ ★

"You would just sit back and threaten people with American power. But that doesn't work now. We played our ace — ground troops — in Vietnam, and they trumped it. We have to find other ways, and there are other ways. Like in Laos."

Moses Found Water Well

Dowsing Doubted, but It's Still on Tap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Need a water well? Why not call in a water witch or dowser or diviner to tell you where to dig?

There is an awe-inspiring lot of water on this planet. A Martian might wonder how life could exist in so wet an environment.

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless, water is not always where one would like it to be, and so the problem perennially arises of where and how to go after it.

Water witching or dowsing or divining is an ancient art. According to the U.S. Geological Survey, Moses may have been the original dowser.

IN THE BIBLE

You may remember from your Bible reading that Moses struck a rock with a rod and water gushed forth. The ancient Scythians, Medes, and Persians also used divining rods.

The classic tool of the dowser is a forked twig. Hold one fork in each hand, palm upwards. Point the "Y" part of the twig toward the sky at an angle of about 45 degrees. Walk around.

★ ★ ★

When the diviner passes over a subsurface water pool, the butt end of the twig is attracted downward, sometimes with such great force that the bark peels and the dowser's hands are blistered.

The Geological Survey's hydrologists (water scientists) think they have more reliable ways of finding good water. But there are those, particularly in rural America, who disagree. According to the Survey, "There are approximately 25,000 diviners active in the United States."

'COULD HARDLY MISS'

Scientists and engineers have given a lot of study to water witching. One reason it seems to work is that in areas of plentiful rainfall a dowser could hardly miss. Wherever the twig dipped, there would bound to be water somewhat down there.

But would that be the best place to dig for a good supply of good water?

★ ★ ★

Bengals Turn Long Delay Into 3-1 Victory Over White Sox

Batters Open New Front Against Cornered Hurlers

By The Associated Press

The pitchers, backed into a corner by baseball's rulesmakers, are making their last stand in Chicago's Wrigley Field, where the hitters have opened their latest front.

And Manager Leo Durocher is enjoying every minute of the battle.

Durocher's Cubs ran wild for 19 runs Tuesday and Dick Selma kept things respectable for the pitchers with a three-hit, 10-strikeout performance that gave Chicago its third straight shutout.

The 19-0 Cubs' romp over San Diego was obviously on Larry Shepard's mind as the Pittsburgh manager watched his club score eight runs and come out on the short end as San Francisco scored 11.

SMALLER ZONE

"Well, they're getting what they wanted," said Shepard of the rulesmakers, who lowered the mound and narrowed the strike zone to put more punch back in the game. "Look at the Chicago game today."

Shepard was better off looking at that one and not the one the Pirates played.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Houston rattled Montreal 10-3, Cincinnati dropped Philadelphia 6-4 and Atlanta edged New York 4-3. Los Angeles at St. Louis was rained out.

Ernie Banks played only six innings for the Cubs against the Padres but did enough damage for a full nine. The 38-year-old slugger walloped a pair of three-run homers and drove in a seventh run with a double.

"It was Senior Citizen's day," kidded Banks, "and I had to give my people something to cheer about."

TWO TRIPLES

Nate Oliver and Don Young also homered and Billy Williams contributed a pair of triples to the 15-hit Cub attack. Selma's shutout followed blankings by Ken Holtzman and Ferguson Jenkins and the combination of heavy hitting and airtight pitching has opened a four-game lead for Chicago in the East Division.

Shepard's second-place Pirates got early homers by Richie Hebner and Bob Oliver but saw the Giants explode for an eight-run fourth inning.

★ ★ ★

Bobby Bonds and Dick Dietz each contributed two-run singles in San Francisco's big inning. Ken Henderson's leadoff homer and run-scoring singles by Willie Mays and Willie McCovey also did their share of the damage as Shepard suffered in the Pittsburgh dugout and dreamed of the good, old 1-0 and 2-1 ball games of last year.

Jack Billingham, shuffled off to Houston in the aftermath of the controversial Donn Clendenon-Rusty Staub trade, came back to haunt Montreal with five innings of two-hit relief as the Astros rapped the Expos.

It was the kind of pitching job the Expos could have used as six Montreal pitchers issued nine walks to make things easy for Houston.

Lee May's two-run homer in the eighth inning wiped out a Philadelphia lead and moved Cincinnati to its victory over the Phillies. Tony Perez drove in three runs for the Reds, two of them on a homer.

Johnny Callison had a two-run homer for Philadelphia as the Phils took the lead with a three-run seventh inning rally.

Atlanta got all its runs on homers by Hank Aaron, Orlando Cepeda and Bob Tillman and hung on to whip the Mets. Tillman's two-run shot proved to be the winning blow.

Tommie Agee homered for New York—his fourth in the last three games.

ARRIVES SAFELY—Chicago's Ken Berry slides into third safely after moving from first on teammate Joe Horlen's single in the fourth inning of a game against the Detroit Tigers in Detroit last night. Horlen's single to left died in the wet outfield grass and left-fielder Willie Horton raced in and flipped the ball to third baseman Don Wert but too late to catch Berry. Tigers won, 3-1.

Jim Northrup's Two-Run Homer Decides Contest

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers won a ball game Tuesday night while sitting in their dressing room.

It was a 63-minute rain delay in the seventh inning that gave the Tigers the break they needed as they went on to beat Chicago 3-1. The break?—Joe Horlen's arm tightened up during the delay and Mickey Lolich's didn't.

★ ★ ★

Technically it was Jim Northrup's two-run homer following the delay that keyed a three-run rally to give Detroit the win. But that was off reliever Bob Locker and before that Tiger bats managed just three hits off Horlen.

"He (Horlen) is just too valuable to bring back after a wait like that," said White Sox Manager Don Gutteridge. "He had a history of arm trouble last year and I didn't want to risk using him. If we had a four or five run lead maybe we would have let him warm up again and see how he was."

"His arm was a little bit stiff," Gutteridge said.

INFIELD SINGLE

Norm Cash led off the seventh for Detroit with an infield single off Horlen. Up to that point the rains had been punctuating the game, but mostly in spray form. The start was delayed 35 minutes.

After Cash's hit and with a 2-0 count on Willie Horton the rains poured down and plate umpire Nestor Chylak called for the ground crew to cover the infield.

★ ★ ★

When play resumed, in came Locker, who got Horton on a third strike. Then Northrup unloaded his fourth home run of the year with his two-run blast off the facing of the second deck in right. The Tigers proceeded to load the bases as Bill Freehan singled, Don Wert was safe on an error and Mickey Stanley walked.

Knuckleballer Wilbur Wood came on to pitch but Dick McAuliffe walked, sending home the Tigers' third run.

"Locker throws a sinker ball and I figured he could get them (Tigers) to hit in the ground," Gutteridge explained. "But Northrup hit one of them out of here, and there's nothing you can do about that."

BASES LOADED

Lolich walked Luis Aparicio in the eighth and gave up a single to Duane Josephson but got out of the inning without a run. But after loading the bases with one out in the ninth, Pat Dobson came in in relief and registered his fourth save as Aparicio hit into a double play.

"He kept his stuff," said Tiger Manager Mayo Smith of Lolich after the delay. "But it was a long day for him. He pitched a lot of baseball out there."

Lolich won his fourth game in five decisions and struck out 10.

The paunchy southpaw said his arm didn't stiffen up during the 63-minute layoff and that all he did during the extra time was "read a book, talked to (pitching coach) Johnny Sain and minded my own business."

But he said before he pitched again he warmed up a little with his jacket on to sweat out any stiffness that might have been in his arm.

DAMAGING BLOOPER

Chicago took a 1-0 lead up to the delay when they scored in the third on a single to Ken Berry, a bunt sacrifice by Horlen and a bloop single to right by Sandy Alomar.

The win put Detroit within 5½ games of first place Baltimore in the East Dvision of the American League as the Orioles lost to Minnesota 4-2.

John Hiller (1-0) was scheduled to make his first start this season for Detroit tonight, while Gary Peters (2-4) was the White Sox probable.

Pompano Ready to Give Nats Old Heave Ho

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — City officials have threatened to kick the Washington Senators out of the spring training camp they've used here since 1961 in retaliation for criticism attributed to owner Bob Short.

Passing up a motion ordering the Senators "to vacate" Pompano Park immediately, the City Commission Tuesday voted to send Short a registered letter asking him to confirm or deny reports published during the weekend in which he was quoted as calling facilities here the poorest in Florida, California or Arizona.

★ ★ ★

"If he confirms these statements, it will be a new ball game," said Mayor William Pelski.

Short, contacted by the Sun Sentinel newspaper, said by telephone from Anaheim, Calif., that he had indeed been critical of the Pompano Beach training camp.

"I'm hopeful of having better training facilities next spring, be it in Pompano Beach or somewhere else," Short said.

STANDS INADEQUATE

The Senators' owner said the field at Pompano Beach is "excellent, but the stands are totally inadequate and the locker room is just a high school facility."

Reaction on the City Commission ranged from disbelief to outright anger.

★ ★ ★

"We've spent many thousands of dollars," said Commissioner William Allsdorf. "It is one of the finest baseball fields anywhere."

Commissioner George Fivek, without support from his colleagues, said Short should be sent a letter calling for the Senators to get out.

★ ★ ★

"Short has been insulting the city since he came here," Fivek said. "The only advantage of having a club here is to sell Pompano to the North ... He is doing more harm than we can tolerate."

The Senators' current contract with the city runs through 1972.

Mayo Experiments With Bat Lineup

Manager Mayo Smith switched Dick McAuliffe, starting his first game since coming down with a strep throat, and Mickey Stanley in the Detroit Tigers' batting order last night. Is this permanent?

"I was just experimenting," Smith said. "You might not see the same lineup tomorrow."

★ ★ ★

How do McAuliffe and Stanley feel about the change?

"I don't care," said McAuliffe, batting second instead of his normal first. "It really doesn't make any difference to me."

"I'd rather bat second," said leadoff hitter Stanley. "But I think this way may be better.

"If I get on first, then we have two better chances. First, Mac has the hole to aim for because the first baseman has to hold me on and he's a lefthanded hitter. Then, McAuliffe doesn't hit into as many double plays as I do."

Third baseman Don Wert committed three errors and of his four trips to the plate the best he could manage was in the seventh when he kept a rally going by bouncing a ball by first base which went for an error. Wasn't Tom Matchick going to play third against right-handers?

"Wert had been swinging the bat good lately," said Manager Smith. "I wanted him in there for defense, too. (pause) But I admit he was hitting better recently against lefties."

Speedy Andretti Sets Fast Pace in Indy Practice

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Mario Andretti continued his drive Tuesday toward the 175 miles per hour speed he predicts is needed to win the pole position for this year's Indianapolis 500.

His practice lap of 171.494 m.p.h. was the fastest by a piston engine car in the history of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Only turbine cars have gone faster.

Andretti already owned the fastest lap of the year at 170.197 m.p.h. on Monday. A. J. Foyt is next with a speed of 169.237 m.p.h., and Foyt was over 169 in two practice runs Tuesday.

Andretti repeated Tuesday his prediction that 175 m.p.h. will be the top speed on the opening day of qualifying Saturday.

Andretti, who has been on the pole in two of his previous four 500-mile races, hoped to take his Lotus-Ford and STP Special out one more time Tuesday, but the track was closed by light showers the last two hours.

TURBOCHARGED ENGINE

Foyt's teammate, Roger McCluskey, driving a car identical to Foyt's with a turbocharged Ford engine, had the third fastest speed of the day, 168.287.

Wally Dallenbach had a speed of 167.691, which made his car the sixth fastest in practice session through Tuesday. Arnie Knepper was clocked in 167.598.

Graham Hill, 1966 winner and on Andy Granatelli's STP team this year, lost control of his car and spun one and a quarter times entering the fourth turn, but made no contact with the wall. The car was not damaged.

Player Red-Hot in Texas Tuneup

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Defending champion Billy Casper and red-hot little Gary Player ruled the favorites today for the top prize in the prestigious $125,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

Player proved his right to the top spot in the star-studded field Tuesday when he whipped over the reconstructed Colonial County Club course with a seven-under-par 63 in a practice round. The competitive course record is 65.

★ ★ ★

The muscular little South African, winner of all the world's major titles, reeled off seven birdies and parred the others as he readied for his first competitive round since winning the rich Tournament of Champions at Rancho la Costa, Calif., last month.

The field of 100—possibly 101—includes all the top names in the game, a sharp contrast to the last couple of weeks when most of the major players took some time off.

Twins Down Baltimore, 4-2

By the Associated Press

Rod Carew would just as soon hit one out of the park.

The fleet-footed second baseman of the Minnesota Twins slammed a pitch to dead right-center Tuesday night and beat the throw for an inside-the-park homer in the eighth inning to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 4-2 comeback victory over Baltimore Tuesday night at Minnesota.

★ ★ ★

"This way I have to run harder," said Carew.

It was a rhubarb filled meeting of the American League division leaders.

Elsewhere, Oakland nipped Boston 5-4 in a duel between the AL's hottest clubs; Detroit blasted Chicago 3-1; Seattle downed the skidding New York Yankees 5-3; Washington edged California 2-1 in 10 innings and Cleveland outscored Kansas City 8-6.

FADEAWAY SLIDE

Carew, the AL's top hitter, erased a 2-1 Baltimore lead by drilling a liner to the right center field fence and following teammate Cesar Tovar across the plate with a fadeaway slide that barely eluded catcher Elrod Hendricks, who insisted he had made the tag.

Moments earlier, Orioles Manager Earl Weaver was ejected in a heated dispute over a balk called against losing pitcher Mike Cuellar following Tovar's leadoff single.

★ ★ ★

The Twins added another run before the inning was over and held on for their 11th victory in the last 13 games and a narrow edge over second place Oakland in the West. Winner Dave Boswell struck out 13, but needed ninth inning help from Ron Perranoski.

★ ★ ★

Baltimore, which remained one game up on Boston in the East, had taken a 2-1 lead in the top of the eighth when Frank Robinson knocked the ball out of Boswell's glove in a play at the plate that brought Twins Manager Billy Martin out of the dugout in a rage.

TIE-BREAKER

Oakland slipped past the Red Sox on Rick Monday's tie-breaking bloop single in the eighth, extending its winning streak to five games and snapping Boston's victory string at eight.

Carl Yastrzemski's two-run homer gave the Red Sox a 4-3 lead in the top of the eighth, but doubles by Reggie Jackson and Danny Cater tied it in the bottom half before Monday delivered the winning hit.

★ ★ ★

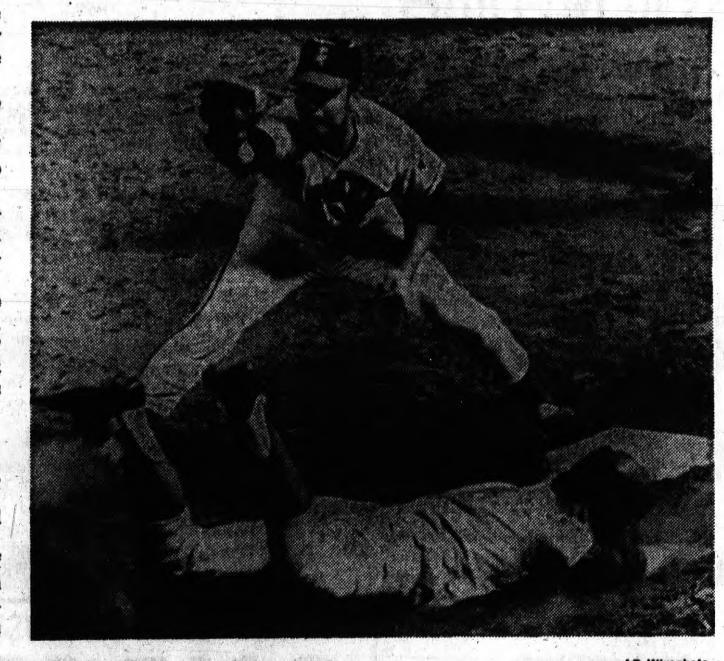

Gerry McNertney poled a three-run homer off Mel Stottlemyre in the fourth inning, erasing a 2-0 New York lead built on Bobby Murcer's 10th homer, and the Pilots went on to nail their fifth straight victory.

The Yankees have lost six in a row and 13 of their last 14 games.

Paul Casanova's run-scoring single in the 10th broke a 1-1 tie at Anaheim and snapped the Senators' losing streak at six games. Mike Epstein homered for Washington in the first inning and Bubba Morton's first homer in two years pulled the Angels even in the seventh.

★ ★ ★

Tony Horton clubbed two homers and drove in four runs, keying a 16-hit Cleveland attack that gave the Indians their fifth victory in 26 games. Jack Hernandez hit a three-run homer for the Royals.

SLIDING EFFORT—Washington Senators' Mike Epstein slides head-first into the bag at first in a bid to beat the throw from California catcher Tom Egan who let a third strike slip past him in the ninth inning of their game in Anaheim, Calif., last night. Egan retrieved the ball and rifled it to Roger Repoz in time for the putout. Senators won, 2-1.

Big Ten May Ease Anti-Pro Stand in Use of Facilities

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Mushrooming big league baseball and football play could put a chink in the Big Ten's armor against use of conference facilities by professional teams.

Conference faculty men and athletic directors, starting spring business meetings Thursday, act finally on a proposal to vest athletic directors with sole authority to make exceptions to the anti-pro rule.

It could be that the athletic directors thus may act favorably in what one league spokesman said might be "unusual circumstances."

The stern Big Ten stand against use of campus facilities by regular pro teams could be relaxed, if only slightly especially with big conference athletic budgets getting more difficult to balance.

ANOTHER TEST

At any rate, the issue of shifting voting power on possible waivers of the rule from the joint faculty-athletic director group to the ADs alone gets another test this weekend. In March, the change was approved by a 6-4 vote, requiring another ballot under the so-called White resolution.

Other items to be discussed in the session which may extend through Saturday:

Financial aid to athletes in the fifth year.

★ ★ ★

Conducting such sports as golf and tennis in the fall as well as spring, and Intercollegiate athletics for women, club sports programs, and cultural exchange activities under the state department program.

The directors will act on the basketball coaches' recommendation for continuance of three-man officiating teams, an experimental project last season.

Chippewas Whip MSU in Opener; Spartans Reign in Nightcap, 7-5

EAST LANSING (AP) — The two-hit pitching of Dick Lange backed up by a 12-hit attack gave Central Michigan an 11-0 baseball win over Michigan State, but the Spartans came back with a 7-5 victory in the second game of their doubleheader Tuesday.

In the first game the big blows for the Chippewas were a three-run home run by Gary Szalka in the third and a two-run blast by Jim Connell in the fifth. The win upped Lange's record to 6-1 while Rick Krueger, (1-2, cousin of CMU catcher Steve Krueger) took the loss.

A four-run outburst by Michigan State in the fourth knocked Central Michigan starter Ralph Darin from the box. Trailing 7-5 in the seventh the Chips loaded the bases but reliever Dan Bielski put out the fire.

The split gave CMU a 21-8 record and MSU a 20-12 mark.

WMU's Broncos Snap Wolverine Streak, 10-9

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Western Michigan University avenged a 9-6 baseball loss to the University of Michigan Tuesday, snapping a six-game winning streak with a 10-9 victory.

A last ditch Michigan rally in the bottom of the ninth was clipped when Bronco pitcher Dick McKeon retired the last two men after four runs had crossed the plate and the tying run was on second base.

PNH Continues Inter-Lakes Surge

Pontiac Press Photos by Ron Unternahrer

HAS BEST VIEW — When t here was a close play Tuesday afternoon in the Waterford-Lathrup baseball game, the Skippers' Mike Sheldon had the best look at the action. In the top photo the WTHS shortstop (left) moves in as teammate Larry Hemmerly (center) awaits the throw from the catcher as Southfield Lathrup's Ted Harper slides just in time to steal second base in the second inning. Sheldon was the batter in the fourth inning and has a close-up view (bottom photo) of Steve Goit's fadeaway slide that eludes the tag of Chargers' pitcher Andy Barak (right) after he uncorked a wild pitch to let in the tying run.

Waterford Can Tie Huskies Tomorrow

Pontiac Northern's streaking Huskies have to slow down and watch Waterford try to catch them now after both posted Inter-Lakes League baseball victories Tuesday afternoon.

Rob Clancy allowed only a second-inning single by Phil Milman and three walks in blanking Farmington, 3-0, for the front-running Huskies who posted their sixth straight league victory.

Waterford, though, stayed a half game back by repelling scrappy Southfield Lathrup, 6-4, and the Skippers can tie PNH at 6-1 with a victory over Walled Lake Central tomorrow afternoon in a makeup game.

★ ★ ★

Fading WLC, the preseason favorite, will be busy this week. After letting a 3-0 lead get away at Livonia Steven (5-2) yesterday, they'll tangle with unbeaten Milford this afternoon then meet WTHS and Northern in I-L play Thursday and Friday.

Warren Laturneau and Andre McPhail each had run-producing singles as PNH tallied all three runs yesterday in the fifth inning. Clancy, now 5-1, struck out 15 as the Huskies climbed to 9-3 over-all. They are the county's second-ranked prep nine.

KEY INFIELD HITS

Mike Sheldon's infield single enabled Waterford to move ahead of Lathrup, 2-1, in the fourth; and he capped a decisive four-run fifth with another scratch RBI-safety.

★ ★ ★

Steve Goit also singled in a run and winning pitcher Tom Ashbaugh scored on a delayed steal of home. Dave Singer's two-run double in the sixth kept the winless Chargers close.

★ ★ ★

WL Central (5-7 over-all and 2-4 in the league) capitalized on Stevenson's wild mound work and two singles for a 3-0 lead, then went ahead 4-3 in the fifth on Pat Piilo's two-bagger.

But the Spartans tied it again on a squeeze bunt, and Jim Crom's single in the sixth brought in the winning marker.

Hitters Find Range in Opening Contests

Some lusty hitting highlighted play last night as action opened in the City Class B Slowpitch League.

Grubb's Kennels lashed out 20 hits in a come-from-behind 17-16 victory over First Christian Church and Reliable Transmission sprayed 22 safeties around the park in a 23-8 verdict over the Eagles.

In another Class B American game, Radio WPON forfeited to Pontiac Press.

POLICE WIN

In a National Class B outing, Pontiac Police raced past Richardson Dairy, 10-5, and in a Class A National outing, Johnson & Anderson and Huron Gulf were involved in a double forfeit.

★ ★ ★

Trailing 16-13 after five innings, Grubb's scored once in the sixth and three times in the seventh to down First Christian. Al Hess had four hits for Grubb's and scored the winning run on a one-out single by Dave Grubb. Jim Ricketts and Don Roberts aided the Grubb's attack with three hits apiece.

BELTS GRANDSLAM

Bob Marks belted a grand-slam home run in First Christian's nine-run fifth inning, and teammate Larry Bobitt collected a two-run homer in the first.

★ ★ ★

Shortstop Bill White slammed a home run, two doubles and a pair of singles and scored four times in pacing Reliable Transmission. Teammate Marshall Taylor belted a three-run homer. Ray Jones rapped a home run and a pair of singles for the Eagles.

Walt Patton's three-run homer in the top of the seventh highlighted a five-run inning and enabled the Pontiac Police to stop Richardson's. Bob Nellis collected a pair of hits for Richardson.

OCC Raiders Beaten After Ten Straight

Oakland Community College Orchard Ridge saw its 10-game winning streak die Tuesday afternoon when it couldn't dent the plate in the nightcap of a twin bill against Washtenaw CC at Ann Arbor.

★ ★ ★

Chuck O'Brien's steady mound work carried the Raiders to a 2-0 opening game decision; but Washtenaw bunched its only two hits, a double and single, in the third inning for a 1-0 conquest.

O'Brien tripled home Lance Pesci who had walked with one out in the eighth inning of the opener, and the Walled Lake righthander came in on a error as he raised his record to 6-2 with a four-hit, nine-strikeout performance.

★ ★ ★

Rick Schachern posted a 39 to lead the winners, who also received a 40 from Herb Larson. The win is PCHS' ninth in a row.

Oxford (2-5) just missed posting its biggest victory of the spring, dropping a 239-241 verdict to once-beaten Chippewa Valley (12-1) on the Paint Creek course. Rick Iceberg had a 38 for the winners, while John Sefton's 43 paced Oxford.

★ ★ ★

Walled Lake Central and Waterford Township of the Inter-Lakes League each registered a nonleague triumph at Pontiac CC. WLC dumped Kettering, 159-169; and Waterford's Skippers topped Waterford Mott, 200-216.

A brilliant mound performance by senior right-hander Al Thomas last night gave Rochester a big boost toward the Oakland A Legue diamond title as the Falcons blanked tough Clawson, 5-0.

Thomas held the Trojans without a hit and permitted only one baserunner, walking Mike Heist in the fifth inning. The rugged hurler then struck out six of the final eight Clawson hitters.

Les Littlejohn's three-bagger in the third and single in the fifth plated three runs for the Falcons, who now have seven wins in a row and are 6-1 in the league.

Catcher Jim Davis added the last Rochester (8-1) run with a seventh-inning safety. Thomas whiffed 16 in posting his fifth win without a defeat. Clawson now is 3-3 and shares third place.

★ ★ ★

Second-place Madison, who will entertain Rochester next Tuesday, romped past Avondale, 21-2, to remain one game off the lead.

Utica (3-5) surprised Romeo (4-4) in a wild one, 9-7; and Lake Orion ended its four-game skid by overcoming Troy, 6-4, and tying the Colts for fifth place.

BIG BREAKS

Troy (3-4) led Orion on Claude Lydick's opening inning triple; but the Dragons shot past their visitors on Chuck Snarey's two-bagger that was lost in the lights and brought home two runs, and winner Ed Cowger's two-run single.

Bill Baker plated what proved to be the winning runs with a safety in the fourth. Jim Kyle and Kerry Brown each singled in Troy runs, but the Colts failed to capitalize on a chance to tie the game in the sixth when a baserunner was called out for lifting his helmet.

★ ★ ★

Utica ran up a quick 4-0 and 6-1 leads but saw Romeo knot the score as Corky Semp singled home the tying run in the fifth. Sophemore Frank Bach's bases-loaded single snapped the tie for the Chieftains in the next inning.

Romeo left the bases filled in the seventh. Winner Carlo Arini had a single, double and triple.

Groves Also Posts Win

Andover '9' Rallying

Bloomfield Hills Andover pushed itself into the Wayne-Oakland League baseball race with a 3-0 one-hit conquest of winless Livonia Clarenceville Tuesday in a makeup encounter.

Birmingham Groves, too, registered an important makeup victory, topping North Farmington, 12-5, in a Northwest Suburban game that keeps the Falcons in the title picture.

Madison Lamphere and its ace Dan Maluzhinsky were shocked by Warren Woods' six-run eruption in the eighth inning for a 7-2 decision that drops the Rams (9-1) from the unbeaten ranks.

Almont stayed in the Southern Thumb League's runner-up spot by upsetting Memphis in 12 innings, 6-5. South Lyon stayed unbeaten atop the Southeastern Conference, 13-1; while BH Lahser avenged an earlier defeat by downing Waterford Mott, 5-3.

REPEATS FEAT

Andover's John Schmidt stopped on C'ville one hit Saturday, and repeated the effort yesterday. Mike Duman's solid single with one out in the seventh spoiled the bid. The Trojans were victims of a no-hitter Monday and had gone 19 innings without a safety.

Kirt Butler, Bob Huessner and Dick Souther all singled with two out in the fourth to produce the first Andover run. Bob Foreman's RBI-double highlighted a two-run fifth.

It is Andover's sixth straight league win and puts the Barons one game out of second place and two behind pacesetting Milford who they'll meet in back-to-back games.

Mike McLean's two-run single in a four-run third inning and Clint Meyer's two-run triple in a three-run fourth sparked Groves (6-2) to its fourth NWS victory in five starts.

Meyer finished with four RBI's and Jack Lamb had a triple and single while scoring four times. Dave Stacy settled down to allow only a solo homer by Pat Hickey in the final four innings.

Dan Kubik's home run staked Maluzhinsky to a 1-0 lead but Bob Richardson's single tied the game with two out in the seventh, and his teammates pounded the no-hit specialist for six singles in their big eighth inning. One of Maluzhinsky's three no-hitters this spring was against Warren Woods earlier.

BREAKS TIE

Frank Bacholzky doubled and scored on two passed balls with two out in the 12th inning to give Almont its fifth Thumb league win.

Tim Reaume (3-1) earned the win with 12 strikeouts. He stranded two Memphis runners in the eighth, ninth and eleventh innings. Art Currey cracked four hits and now is hitting .500 for Almont.

All of South Lyon's starters had at least one hit and six of them delivered two or more in its romp past Saline. The Lions bunched six hits in a row in the first inning.

Back-to-back doubles by Steve Schwartz and winner Larry Roper ignited the spree, and Dave Brandon capped it with a three-bagger. Schwartz and Roper both had three hits and figured in four runs apiece.

Ken Rump's home run got Lahser (3-7) started on the right foot. The Knights added three more runs in the inning and Mott (5-4) never could recover.

A successful squeeze bunt by Gary Boyer and a two-run single by Dennis Diem highlighted a five-run seventh inning as Novi came from behind for a 5-1 victory over Ypsilanti Roosevelt yesterday.

Pitcher Bernie Bach singled home Jeff Taylor with two out in the bottom of the seventh to bring Northville (5-4) a 2-1 victory over Brighton.

Farmington Our Lady of Sorrows extended its unbeaten mark in the Northwest Catholic section diamond race by whipping Ferndale St. James, 16-3, in a makeup game Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Birmingham Brother Rice slipped into a first-place tie in the Central Division chase by upending Detroit Austin, 7-2, while Catholic Central surprised Harper Woods Notre Dame.

Royal Oak Shrine's perfect mark in the AA Division came to an end in 17 innings when Redford St. Mary pulled out a 3-1 decision.

SKEIN SNAPPED

Sorrows' 16-hit assault built up a 16-0 lead in six innings but St. James snapped Greg Main's scoreless string at 31 frames with a three-run outburst.

Main struck out 14 and now has 81 in 39 innings this season. His career total for the Lancers is 291. Ross Patton clubbed two singles and a homer to drive in three runs. FOLS is 6-0 and the defeat is only the second for the Ferndale squad.

★ ★ ★

Dave Fournier drove in three runs with two singles for Brother Rice, and Mike Prudhomme figured in three runs though not getting a hit.

WINS IN RELIEF

Dennis O'Rourke relieved the injured Warriors' starter in the second to post his second victory and the fifth for Brother Rice is six outings.

★ ★ ★

Shrine's five-game winning streak collapsed with Bill Hool's two-bagger plated two runs for Redford St. Mary in the 17th. Winner Jim Paul singled home the game's first run in the 14th, but Tom Szostkowski's two-out double for Shrine tied it, 1-1.

Paul whiffed 20 and held Shrine to five hits, two by Szostkowski. Loser Burt Garavaglia was touched for 10 safeties and struck out 17.

Pike Open 33rd Fish Contest

The opening of the pike season tomorrow also signals the start of The Pontiac Press' 33rd annual Fish Contest.

Joining northerns on the legal list will be walleyes and muskies. All Michigan waters will be open for these fish except Lake St. Clair, the St. Clair and Detroit rivers where muskies won't be legal until June 7.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the pike division, The Press contest also has a class for black bass. However, no entries in this division will be accepted until the season opens Memorial Day.

Northern pike, walleyes and muskies caught in Oakland County are eligible for pike division honors. Weight is the only determining factor. The contest is restricted to residents of Oakland County.

SAVINGS BOND

A $50 savings bond will be awarded to the angler having the heaviest entry in the pike class. The contest will close at noon Sept. 2.

Entries must be brought to The Press sports department for weighing between 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The building is closed Sundays.

Last year's winner was an eight-pounder. The record pike was a 20¼-pounder taken in 1963 from Oxbow Lake. One walleye has won the pike division. Although a few county lakes contain muskies, none has been entered in the contest.

There is one change in the regulations this year. Walleyes and saugers are now included in aggregate daily limit of five along with bass or pike.

This has caused some grumbling from Lake St. Clair anglers where the limit used to be 10 walleyes or saugers daily. The sauger closely resembles a walleye.

In Oakland County

Pheasant Count Is Up

Pheasant hunting has been so poor the last couple of years that any glimmer of recovery is like a bright ray of sunshine after a long siege of stormy skies.

Trying to brighten an otherwise cloudy fall hunting outlook is the Department of Natural Resources' spring census of crowing cock pheasants. The count in Oakland and Macomb counties shows a significant increase over last year.

The census is being conducted across Southern Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Game habitat biologist Dick Elden counted 224 crowing ringnecks over a 20-mile route in northern Oakland County. A total of 89 were heard in 1968.

The Macomb census by district game biologist Howard Greene came up with 320 roosters, a substantial jump. The counters start at the crack of dawn and stop every mile for two minutes before moving on.

GIVEN DAY

"This doesn't mean that there are eight pheasants in one field or four in another," said Greene. "It's what we counted on a given day. On another day the count might be lower or higher.

"However, the increases are significant enough to indicate that there might be more pheasants around this fall." The outlook for the state could go up or down, he said.

A truer picture of the increase or decrease in pheasant numbers will come after the late summer census of young birds by rural mail carriers.

★ ★ ★

A key to any recovery by pheasants is the weather, according to Greene.

"If wet, cold weather like we had late last week hits just after the young birds hatch, it could be a disastrous blow."

Hens are just setting up housekeeping, he said, and the three-day damp spell probably had little effect on nests. High water, predation and hay-cutting are the big hazards.

The above would hold true for any ground nesting bird, including ducks.

The DNR biologists will also take quail and dove counts this spring.

Waterfowl Nesting Habitat Improves

"Waterfowl habitat conditions are excellent all across the prairies and . . . at the present time the situation is indeed promising."

★ ★ ★

W. G. Leitch, chief biologist for Ducks Unlimited (Canada), sent this good news to duck hunters yesterday on waterfowl breeding conditions in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta.

★ ★ ★

However, he tempered the duck production outlook by saying, "The possibility of late spring snowstorms, adverse weather during hatching and severe summer drought still has to be faced.

★ ★ ★

"But as of now, the mood is one of optimism."

Because of poor water conditions in 1967 and 1968, duck hunting — particularly in the Mississippi Flyway — has been severely curtailed. The midwinter consensus of experts called for even more cutbacks this fall.

Mallards hold the key to hunting regulations in the Mississippi Flyway. Michigan, which is a part of the flyway, will be affected. A good mallard hatch could mean fewer additional restraints for state nimrods.

"Spring was late, but quick," Leitch pointed out. "Abnormally high temperatures without heavy night freezing produced the maximum runoff over the frozen soil.

Dodge No. 4 Heads for Top

Although it is running last on the list of attendance for the seven parts and recreation areas in Oakland County, Dodge No. 4 state park is starting its annual run to the top.

Rochester-Utica is the leader through April with 64,315 followed by Proud Lake's 55,799. Dodge brings up the rear with 25,850. This is because the park is seldom used between Labor Day and May 1.

★ ★ ★

The real charge to No. 1 rating will start Memorial Day weekend. Before summer ends over 400,000 probably will use the park.

Other figures for the first four months are Bald Mountain 49,939; Highland, 43,347; Pontiac Lake, 31,359; and Holly, 29,976 for a total of 300,585. Proud Lake is the camping leader with 959 of the 1,312 permits sold.

Surface Debris Poses Problem on Great Lakes

LANSING (AP) — Floating trees and other debris pose a hazard this year to boaters in upper Great Lakes waters, the State Water Resources Commission reports.

Ralph Purdy, commission executive secretary, said an aerial survey showed intensive erosion along the Michigan coastlines of Lakes Michigan, Superior and Huron.

★ ★ ★

Rising lake waters have washed thousands of trees and hundreds of decks, docks and stairways into the lakes.

Purdy said the green trees represent a particular threat since they are heavy and float very low in the water.

"In recent years, complaints have been received concerning dwindling lake levels," Purdy said. "Now the tide has turned and we are experiencing the high levels of the 1950's."

★ ★ ★

Purdy said Lake Superior is within inches of the highest water since 1860. Lakes Michigan and Huron are 17 inches over the 10-year average and nearly 10 inches above a year ago.

Close Games Highlight Play

Seaman, Dragons Win in Slowpitch

A pair of close tilts and a breather highlighted play in openers of the American League Industrial Slowpitch yesterday morning.

Seaman Manufacturing squeezed past the D-K's, 5-2, Perry Drugs held off the Green Dragons 10-6, and C-S romped to an 11-1 decision over the Hornets.

★ ★ ★

Jim Stover clouted a homerun and a pair of singles to spark Seaman and he and his teammates limited the D-K's to only three hits.

After building a 10-1 lead, Perry Drugs held on after the Dragons had pushed across five in the sixth to slice the deficit to 10-6. Johnny Zuk slammed a two-run homer for Perry, while Jim Sears, Louis Manley, Jack Crampton and Lee Grace checked in with two hits apiece. Elmer Leese and Bill Green picked up two hits each for the Dragons.

★ ★ ★

Raymond Donaldson cracked a two-run homer and a run-scoring double while teammate Ed Harris picked up three hits to pace the C-S attack. Lou Webb led the Hornets with three safeties.

Solunar Theory Discussed

Tables Indicate Wildlife Activity

By MRS. RICHARD ALDEN KNIGHT

So-lu'-nar — a proper name coined by the late John Alden Knight from a combination of "sol" (sun) and "lunar" (moon) to designate his annual schedule of the daily feeding times of game and fish.

Solunar Periods, major and minor designate the three or four periods of each day of the year during which wildlife activity is the greatest. The major periods sometimes last as long as three and a half hours, the minor periods about an hour.

★ ★ ★

Back in the late 20s and early 30s, John Alden Knight, an avid fly fisherman from Pennsylvania, found his curious mind piqued by a new-to-him approach on when to go fishing and hunting.

Like all anglers, he was well aware that dawn and dusk were good times to be out in the field. However, he heard that back in the early days the then legal market hunters didn't limit their activities to those times; nor did they spend ALL day out going for the quarry.

'ODD HOURS'

They had other things to do than waste time when nothing was moving. But, they seemed to know when they should be out working. These times, which many of them referred to as "odd hours" (they could well be in the middle of the day at high noon, mid-morning, whenever) were somehow linked with the position of the moon.

Fortunately, my father-in-law had the talent of making deep, long-lasting friendships. One of these friendships, formed over years of fishing companionship, was with the grandson of one of the most successful market hunters of his day.

★ ★ ★

Now it should not be surprising that any factors that make a man more of a success than others is apt to be a fairly closely held asset. Yes, allusions were made to these "odd hours," but like all allusions they were not really helpful; they were much too vague to be of any assistance to the uninitiated.

Here that friendship formed the bridge, and the "odd hour" approach was explained, frequently in the same words used by the reminiscing old hunter to an admiring grandson. Now the keystone was in hand, the thing to do was to see just how well it worked — and where.

TIME-TESTED

Over a period of years, voluminous and meticulous notes were kept not only by the Knight family, but by all the sporting friends that could be dragooned into service. This was an approach that had been widely followed in the swamps and bogs of the Southeast.

Observations in the Northeast, Midwest, Southwest made it clear that the basic theory was equally applicable anywhere and, furthermore, were applicable to all forms of wildlife.

Thirty-five years ago the first annual edition of the Solunar Tables, a slim paperback booklet that slipped easily into a sportsman's pocket, was made available to the public.

For about 20 years now, these Solunar Tables have been printed in newspapers, including The Pontiac Press and many around the continent (including Canada).

If you are not able to purchase the Solunar Tables booklet locally, it can be ordered for $1 plus 10 cents for handling by mail from Box 207, Montoursville, Pa., 17754.

Solunar Tables

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

Law, Order, Justice; Nonpartisan Judiciary

New ABA Head Has 2 Aims

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bernard G. Segal, praised as a lawyer's lawyer, becomes head of the 137,000-member American Bar Association at its 92nd annual convention in Dallas this August. He'll bring with him his two major themes: The national urgency for attorneys to press for law and order with justice, and the prime need for a nonpolitical, independent judiciary.

Segal argues also that America must invoke "a sense of community, for people to talk with each other, to understand each other, black and white, rich and poor." He blames this lack of dialogue partly for the student unrest sweeping America's colleges.

"The way to reduce crime, the way to handle violence, the way to permit dissent without disorder is a burden the men and women in the law must assume," Segal says.

Segal will be the first Jew to hold the ABA post—just as he was the first to be chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar nearly two decades ago. He also was the youngest man, at 24, to become a Pennsylvania deputy attorney general—even before he passed his bar exams.

NO POLITICIAN

A 61-year-old balding, greying 6-footer who wears the conservative, vested dark suits that give him a banker's look, he is a Republican—but not a politician.

"My public service is nonpartisan," he insists, and he has pledged as a life's dream to make the judiciary as nonpolitical as possible.

★ ★ ★

"Judges have got to come to the bench with independence and not be subservient to political leaders," says Segal, three times recommended—by friends in both parties—to Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson for appointment to the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"I just wanted to stay with my law firm," he explained in an interview. It has 68 attorneys and is one of the largest in the United States.

MAY GET COURT POST

There are reports that the next vacancy on the Supreme Court, or one soon after that, might go to Segal.

Even if such a rumor had substance, it is the kind of "if, and or maybe" that Segal declines to discuss.

★ ★ ★

He prefers instead to talk about his deep concern over the violence plaguing so many college campuses.

"Our adult world is puzzled, often troubled, over the attitude of our youth," he says. "As we see the abundance of protests and demonstrations, as we watch so many of our young people follow futile fads and strange ideologies, we feel that we must make sure that our American traditions are understood by our young people."

FORCE AT PENN

Segal likes to think, now and then, like an undergraduate. He's still a major force at his alma mater, the University of Pennsylvania. Next to his family, and his law practice, it's his greatest love.

It was at Penn that he met his wife and taught political science, finance, and law. A moot courtroom in the law school bears his name, and he serves as a life trustee of the university.

★ ★ ★

Segal was a negotiating combatant when students conducted a six-day sit-in in a Penn building early this year—and helped resolve the dispute without violence, without damage, without arrests, without police.

"You can't curb dissent," Segal insists. "We must cherish the right of dissent. If it hadn't been for the privilege of dissent there wouldn't be any America. It was how this country began.

MUST BE TAUGHT

"But those youngsters who engage in violence must be taught they are violating the law, and they must pay the penalty. But the penalty must fit the offense, and then they must be permitted to continue with their educations. We simply cannot meet excess with excess."

Segal believes there is a kind of dedication, perhaps misguided, that drives today's youngsters "and we can't discourage dedication, involvement, high motivation."

★ ★ ★

"The generation today is more dedicated to the cause of humanity and the plight of their fellow man than any generation of youth since my days," he says. "They have a sense of community, they really want to build. But you can't do it by tearing down, burning up, breaking apart."

As president-elect of the world's biggest lawyer organization, Segal is busy speech-making here and everywhere. Already his private practice is down 50 per cent, and he'll be devoting full time to the ABA for the year he's No. 1, estimating his speech output at more than 120.

In most of them, he admits, he expects to allude to his determined drive to take judges out of politics.

"What could be more incongruous than for a judge, who can have no political platform, to be required periodically to conduct a political campaign?" he asks. "His place is in the courtroom, not at a street corner rally."

★ ★ ★

Segal has always held that a lawyer's place is by his client's side. It's a virtue he doesn't neglect; it's the theme of his firm.

When Justice William Brennan of the U.S. Supreme Court, a close friend, spoke at the dedication of the Segal Courtroom at Penn last year, he described him as "one of the great lawyers, one of the complete lawyers, of our time."

And for more than four decades Segal's achievements have been extraordinary.

At age 25, while serving under the late State Atty. Gen. William Schnader — later to form the law firm Segal now heads — Segal wrote Pennsylvania's Banking Code. It became a model for other states. He also helped devise the Building and Loan Code and the first milk control pricing law in America.

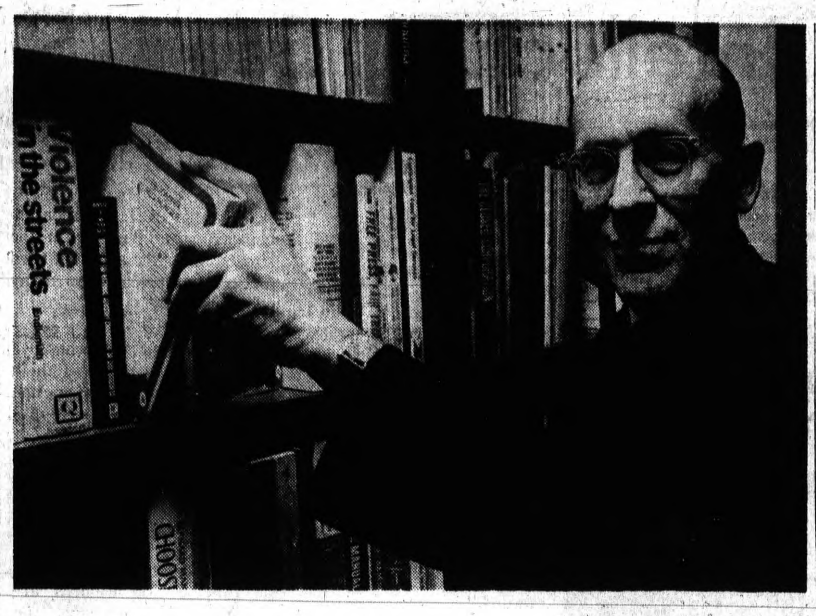

★ ★ ★

He has been president of the American College of Trial Lawyers, chairman of the ABA's Committee on Judicial Selection which passed on qualifications of hundreds of federal judge candidates between 1956-62, vice president of the American Law Institute, board chairman of the American Judicature Society, and chairman of the Committee on International Communications of the World Peace Through Law Center in Switzerland.

He has been chairman or a member of some kind of presidential commission or committee since 1952.

Despite Segal's total involvement in the law, and the affluence he has achieved, neither his son nor daughter followed his footsteps.

His daughter, Loretta, a housewife, has given him two grandchildren. His son, Richard, went to Princeton, and is now pursuing a graduate studies in social psychology at Harvard.

NO ORDER TOO SMALL OR TOO LARGE!

Foreign Intellectuals See U.S. as a Society Full of Conflicts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some visiting foreigners find the United States is a society loaded with conflicts: rich, powerful and exciting with a free press and free choice, but with fear walking city streets.

★ ★ ★

Visitors take student protests largely for granted because they follow a worldwide pattern and are similar to those stirring in their own countries.

★ ★ ★

These were the initial expressions of a group of foreign intellectuals, each a leader in government or business from 40 nations, who came to study America and Americans as Eisenhower Exchange Fellows.

Some said in an interview they think U.S. bathtubs are too small, that roadside signs are too garish, that the Sirhan murder trial took too long.

PAPER MATCHES

"I like your frankness of speech, and the way you can change money and find paper matches everywhere," said Luigi Ferrari-Bravo, 35, professor of international law at Italy's Bari University.

★ ★ ★

"You sure can't miss those short skirts," said James M. Crawford, 43, manager of a farmers' cooperative in New Zealand. "But I do miss our space. Here is you go anywhere you'll find 10,000 other people going to the same place, and it's crowded."

★ ★ ★

"It is not only free-thinking but free choice that you have here," said Almir Fernandes, 34-year-old architect from Curitiba, Brazil.

★ ★ ★

"I should like to see all the important places, and important things, such as the Tennessee Valley Authority, Niagara Falls, and also some of your big factories, especially the automobile assembly lines," said J. W. Mills, 47, chief education officer of Ghana.

WANTS TO LEARN

"Ireland's great problem is to create more jobs," said Christopher Kelly, a 47-year-old 6-footer from Cork who wants to learn "how small businesses get started in the United States and how they flourish."

Seven of the fellows gave their views shortly after their arrival. All were participating in an orientation seminar at nearby Princeton University and in Philadelphia.

★ ★ ★

"Genuine Americans are ready to discuss their social and human problems with a foreigner," said Dr. Paul D'Arbela, a physician and medical researchist from Kampala, Uganda. "They realize that many of us have come with impressions of our own, and that they might be genuinely hard impressions to eradicate from our heart."

★ ★ ★

Mills, a black like D'Arbela, said, "One thing which worries some of us is whether we could freely move into all places, and I've asked the program organizer to keep me off the danger points."

Kelly said his first major annoyance was "the fear in the streets" and "the apparent need for so many padlocks, so many police around."

★ ★ ★

D'Arbela said, "Perhaps I will discover more, but I think security is what makes me uneasy."

★ ★ ★

The fellowships, headquartered in Philadelphia, were established in 1953 by friends of President Dwight D. Eisenhower to further his interests in world understanding. Among the previous 323 winners are Turkey's prime minister, the vice president of Bolivia, four Argentinian Cabinet ministers, and a host of judges, ambassadors, governors and industrialists.

★ ★ ★

"Almost all of the fellows have risen to positions of greater responsibility in their home countries following their experiences," said J. Hampton Barnes, fellowship president. "They are in the position to contribute to their countries' advancement and at the same time interpret the United States to their countrymen."

★ ★ ★

The fellows stay six to eight months, under grants averaging $10,000 each, and are free to travel anywhere, talk to anyone, see anything.

NO FEAR

Sudhaker Ranade, 45, joint Secretary of the government of India, said he liked the way "newspapers and people and the TV say all sorts of things about all sorts of people without any fear." And he also found that one couldn't be sure whom he met on the street, whether he was a foreigner or an American citizen.

★ ★ ★

"You just can't tell from looks," said Ranade, the only one of the fellows wearing native clothes, the familiar Nehru-type jacket.

★ ★ ★

"We are conscious you have a race problem," said New Zealand's Crawford, "but on the whole, though, we don't think we're so much different."

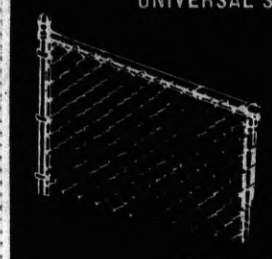

Ghana's Mills said, "The United States is a very rich country where one sees old buildings pulled down and new buildings put in their places, something which few governments could do."

"We always regard America as the next parish," said Ireland's Kelly, "and I must say the people in this parish seem to be doing all right. The feeling I get is that they work far harder and they move a bit faster but I'm inclined to wonder whether they enjoy themselves quite as much as we do."

Uganda's D'Arbela said he was "a little disillusioned because, apart from the propaganda which we receive from people who speak of America, we read newspapers of events in America. And it does raise some creditability as to the reality about the facts that are given to us."

"We have great faith in the future of the United States because, maybe, many, many, answers we will find in the future from the American way of life," said Brazil's Fernandes.

Film Censor Tries to Project Common Sense

(EDITOR'S NOTE — A few scenes from "Ulysses," some frames of "Candy," a bit of "Rosemary's Baby" — it's all part of a day's snipping work for Britain's movie censor. Though film censorship is more liberal than ever in Britain, there still are many scenes that end up on tthe cutting room floor.)

By RONALD THOMSON

LONDON (AP) — Half a century ago the British film censor amputated scenes from a movie that dared to show "antagonistic relations between management and labor."

Nowadays that wouldn't cause the censor's scissors to twitch for even a second. The relations that worry him in 1969 are intimate ones—the steamy sexual frankness that leaves little to the imagination and would have been unthinkable on the screen only a few years ago.

★ ★ ★

A chunk of "Candy," a bit of "Rosemary's Baby" and whole pieces of "Ulysses" have ended up on the cutting room floor, thus denied to most audiences in this country. Moments of explicit lovemaking were chopped from these and other recent movies, particularly Scandinavian sex shockers.

★ ★ ★

Yet film censorship is more liberal now than at any period on British record. It's taken a long time to break down old taboos.

1919 CUTTING

Back in 1919 scenes were cut from movies for showing such offenses against current taste as "unauthorized usage of royal names . . . clutching hands . . . animals gnawing men and children."

In 1925 the censor's scissors trimmed off "provocative and sensuous exposure of female legs."

★ ★ ★

A year later the boom was lowered on one movie featuring "lecherous old men" and another hinting at "a white man's degradation among African surroundings."

"We don't claim to be the moral guardians of the public," says John Trevelyan, secretary of the British Board of Film Censors.

COMMON SENSE

"We work on an assessment of what most reasonable people think, and we have no rules at all. If you have rules you have either to apply them rigidly, in which case some serious films may not get a showing, or you have to interpret them, which can lead to all kinds of inconsistencies."

He says his aim in 11 years of office has been to create an atmosphere that encourages experiment in the cinema without too much offense—a gentle revision of the traditional notions about what a public audience can be allowed to see and hear.

★ ★ ★

In the process Trevelyan has been tolerant toward the openly titillating sex sagas and nudie movies that have found an appreciative audience in Britain.

More than half of the 45 movies currently showing in downtown London carry an adults-only tag with such titles as "I, a Virgin," "The Swedish Fanny Hill" and "Sin, Sun and Sex."

CENSORS BOSS

Trevelyan's boss as president of the board is Lord Harlech, who as David Ormsby-Gore was Britain's ambassador to Washington during the Kennedy era.

The job, shorn of its overtones, is to fit movies into one of three categories—U, A, or X.

★ ★ ★

"U" films can be shown to everyone. "A" films may be viewed by children only if accompanied by adults. "X" films are barred to youngsters under the age of 16—the adults-only category.

Few censors can expect to be popular all the time, and one of Trevelyan's most active current critics is Polish-born Roman Polanski, who made "Rosemary's Baby," a study of supposed witchcraft in New York.

15 SECONDS TRIMMED

The British censor excised 15 seconds of a nude Mia Farrow having her legs tied to a bedpost before being raped by the devil.

Trevelyan didn't object to the nudity of Miss Farrow, but he ruled out the leg-tying episode as "kinky sex." Polanski was livid with rage.

★ ★ ★

"This cut was barbarous," said the 35-year-old director.

"I spent two years of my life preparing and making this picture. I know every frame of it. And I know that every frame I left in it is necessary and vital to the story."

CRITICISM IN STRIDE

Trevelyan took Polanski's anger in his stride. He has made a policy of explaining to movie critics the detailed thinking that goes into his decisions.

Not long ago Trevelyan showed up personally at the press show of a Swedish movie called "Hugs and Kisses," from which he deleted 15 seconds of a scene featuring the stunning Agneta Ekmanner disrobing to the total raw in front of a mirror.

★ ★ ★

"Personally I regard the scene as inoffensive," Trevelyan told the critics after showing them the bit he cut out.

"But if I allowed it to remain, some film makers might say 'frontal nudity is in' and that would only make things more difficult."

LAWS IN CONFUSION

Trevelyan points out that Britain's obscenity laws are in a state of such confusion that a successful prosecution for obscenity might easily be launched against a film he had certified for public performance.

In such a case the movie distributors could go back to the censor with the complaint: "You could have protected us by ruling that the film was unfit for showing publicly."

★ ★ ★

The common obscenity laws tend to confuse the whole process of movie censorship, which grew in Britain out of the Cinematograph Act of 1909.

This act gave local authorities responsibility for the upkeep of movie theaters and also the content of films shown within them. It was an unworkable law, opening up the prospect of hundreds of councilmen censoring movies in their own locality.

NATIONAL BOARD

Recognizing this, the movie trade set up the national censor board and local authorities agreed to license theaters showing films with the board's certificate. Their one proviso was that councilmen could override the board's ruling.

It rarely happens, but several local councils recently ignored the national censor and allowed uncut showings of "Ulysses" in their own communities. Similarly, the councilmen have the right to stop local showings of movies that the board has approved.

★ ★ ★

Trevelyan says movie brutality and sadism are often a bigger problem than sex for a censor. In all the decisions he takes, caution has to be a watchword.

"If we made one bad mistake and let something objectionable through to the public there could be an outcry that could set back the liberalization of censorship 10 years," Trevelyan says.

★ ★ ★

"It's like a game of chess. You have to think ahead all the time. You have to try to gauge the effect that a decision will have on other films in the future."

Two-Session Seminar on Computers Set

"Learn How to Talk to a Computer" is the title of a two-session seminar scheduled for Saturday and May 24 at Oakland University.

The seminar is designed for both the novice and professional interest in learning PL/1, a new computer language with very broad applications.

★ ★ ★

Edward Van Slambrouck, OU's computer subject specialist, has planned the series to give computer orientation and application techniques to people whose jobs may in some way be connected with computers, but not necessarily totally involved.

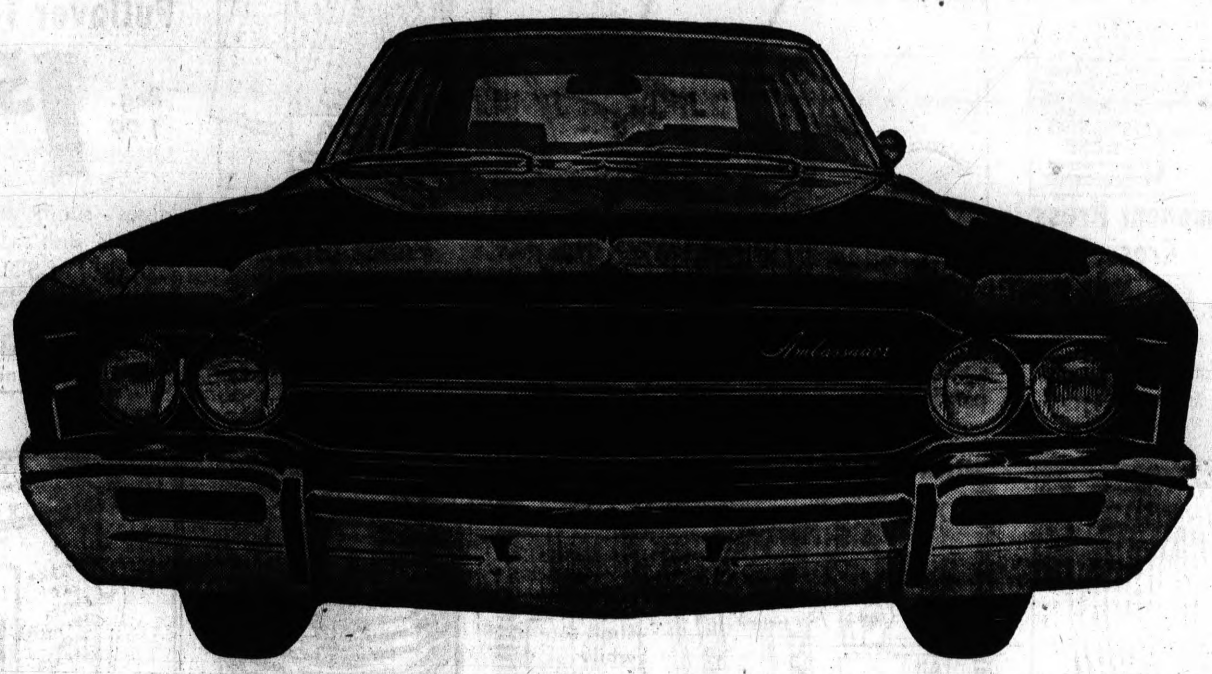

★ ★ ★

PL/1 will be introduced, explained and demonstrated as a language adaptable to many data processing operations.

Those interested in attending the seminar series may contact Oakland University's Division of Continuing Education.

You can't help feeling smug in the summer driving an air-conditioned Ambassador. Knowing that all this luxury and comfort is priced under $3,000.* You can't help feeling cooler either. With an air-conditioner powerful enough to cool a good-sized room. No other car line has it standard for less than $10,000.*

The Ambassador also has other standard features besides air-conditioning that qualify it as a luxury car. Like a hundred per cent nylon cut pile carpeting. Like a molded acoustical ceiling to cushion away outside noise. And firm coil spring seats.

A wheelbase four inches longer than ever before for a more comfortable ride. Longer than any Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth sedan.

And the Ambassador has its body and frame welded together into a single unit. No body bolts to rattle loose.

All in all, it's something to look forward to this summer.

For if the Ambassador prices start at $2,914,* air-conditioning included, just think what cool things you can do with the remaining seven thousand. You could rent a summer home, buy a boat, even install your own swimming pool. It's something to think about, isn't it?

Ghostly Congo City: Folly of Forced Values

KISANGANI, The Congo (AP) — This town that used to be called Stanleyville is now a partly overgrown jungle community whose shattered ghost buildings and bullet scars stand as the Congo's starkest monument to its first chilling years of independence.

It shows, perhaps more than anything in Africa, the fragility of values imported by force.

★ ★ ★

Stanleyville, once pastel-painted and gardened, was hacked from thick African forest at the continent's dead center. It was river-road-rail axis for the Belgian Congo's agricultural wealth. Colonials built it near the beginning of the Congo River where journalist-explorer H. M. Stanley envisioned it in 1877.

Orchestras and oysters came from Belgium as the city thrived. By independence, June 1960, there were nearly 7,000 Europeans and 200,000 Congolese.

JUNGLE MOVES IN

Now the jungle has moved in on scores of abandoned villas. Buildings that stand appear to suffer some mysterious pox, with evenly spaced bullet holes and strange discolorings on their walls. Unbroken glass is rare.

Holes mark the little yellow house at Ketele and Lothaire streets where an American missionary doctor, Paul Carlson, and 26 others were massacred in 1964 when Simba rebels fired on 250 hostages as Belgian paratroopers dropped from American aircraft.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. consulate, where Michael Hoyt and his staff saved their lives in a vault, is a shattered ruin with delicate white-flowered vines masking much of it.

Under President Joseph D. Mobutu's past 16 months of calm, the city has slowly started to pick up the pieces. Africans have taken charge of their legacy, a city they might never have felt necessity to build.

Mobutu set the tone even before the latest crisis, removing Stanley's memory in 1966 for the name "Kisangani." This is Swahili for Island in the River, the name fishermen had given a tiny island in the Congo.

Only 300 to 400 Europeans remain, mostly Greeks and Belgians who have found themselves too attached to leave dispite it all. Many have seen the July 1960 mutiny, the Antoine Gizanga secession, the 111 days of Simba rebellion in 1964, the Katangan gendarme mutiny of 1966 and the white mercenaries' revolt of 1967. Scores of Europeans and thousands of Congolese were killed in the city and surrounding province in those years.

★ ★ ★

In the evenings Europeans gather at a last stronghold, the Olympia Hotel, but the rock 'n' roll band in its huge second garden plays mainly to an African audience. Smaller African nightclubs and small businesses have opened in the shadow of empty shells of larger foreign-owned enterprises.

Congolese families live in abandoned villas which have been stripped of windows and sometimes roofs.

MOVE BACK

By estimate, 150,000 Congolese have moved back to the Kisangani area. Government officials say 90 per cent are without work. There is an astonishing number of at least part-time prostitutes.

Government sources say many persons are still edgy, either afraid to stay the night in town or reluctant to improve any property.

★ ★ ★

They remember, above all, the 1964 rebel purges when Simbas put to death thousands of Congolese they considered too intellectual.

The city's backbone is a 480-student university and two breweries. Some Congo-wide companies have reopened their Kisangani offices with European managers. Europeans optimists say the city will revive — by their standards — maybe in 10 years. Others disagree.

Two unfinished university buildings and an orphanage are the only new buildings since 1960, residents say. Time seems to have just stopped. The airport still has preindependence signs advertising Lucky Strike and Player's cigarettes, their neon tubing unbroken.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Years of chaos let the jungle in, choking off roads and bringing staggering social problems. Especially in outlying areas, epidemics went unchecked and children unschooled.

One rarely sees more than a dozen cars on Kisangani's streets at the same time.

Anoclet Kaniki, provincial governor and the 29th chief executive to sit at Kisangani since independence, has a program of three priorities: transport, public health and education.

Young and energetic, he knows what's wrong and talks about it freely. But he says the money to put it right just is not there.

Mobutu has chosen to fete the second anniversary of his political party in Kisangani May 20 to show his government's confidence in the area. Officials expect 1,000 guests for the three-day ceremonies.

★ ★ ★

One of the preparations was to paint over buildings near the airport. As one officials explained it, the first things guests see won't be bullet holes.

Row Over Miniskirts Is Felt in S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—One Sunday recently the Rev. Arthur Sexby refused to begin services until six members of the congregation garbed in miniskirts left his Anglican church.

Such short skirts are a "flagrant and provocative display of the flesh" which serves the devil's purpose of temptation, he said.

★ ★ ★

The congregation split on the issue. Older members tended to agree with the rector. Most of the teen-age choir quit.

"I don't even own a dress of Mr. Sexby's required length." said a woman who threatened to join the Methodist Church. Another appealed to the Anglican bishop of Johannesburg, the Rt. Rev. Leslie Stradling, who said; "Each rector is free to conduct his services as he sees fit."

MIXED REACTION

The letter columns of newspaper have been filled with praise and criticism of the Rev. Mr. Sexby's stand. One writer insisted "that the mind will not concentrate on God if the eyes nibble fondly at what scantiness of dress reveals."

★ ★ ★

Startled by the publicity, the Rev. Mr. Sexby told his congregation he would "temporarily suspend action against miniskirts," but planned to hit the warpath again when things quieted down.

He observed that many hemlines before him were still above the knee and, when the time came, women so dressed would have only themselves to blame if they were ordered out of church and humiliated.

★ ★ ★

In Klerksdorp, three ministers of the Dutch Reformed Church urged that the miniskirt competition be eliminated from the local agricultural show. The contest went on only after the clergymen were assured that entrants would be judged mainly on the style of the dress and the grace with which it was worn, not on the brevity alone. One test was to pick up an envelope from the floor "without giving offense."

CALLED FOR BAN

An official in Johannesburg called for a ban on miniskirts in all schools. He said short dresses disturb boys and contribute to juvenile delinquency.

A Pretoria teacher and lay preacher named Gert Yssel wants to launch a National Council for Public Morals to combat "dangerous modern dress."

★ ★ ★

He said:

"I boldly state, with all the responsibility as a child of God, that the drought is due to misbehavior in South Africa. The outstanding sin in this country is the tendency of women to expose themselves."

Teacher Jobs Scarcer in State

Some Districts Are Forced to Cut Staffs

By the Associated Press

For the first time in years, fresh college graduates with teaching certificates are having difficulty finding jobs with Michigan school systems.

Placement directors at colleges throughout the state predict that the pickings will be lean for more than 5,000 new teachers if they look for work only in Michigan.

Experts give several reasor for the tight job market. Perhaps most important, man school districts have be forced to cut back staffs in the face of tightened budgets.

Nearly 350 teachers in five Wayne County districts have received letters informing them that they will not be rehired this fall.

ONE EXAMPLE

In the Westwood District in Dearborn Heights, where a millage proposal was defeated by a 2-1 margin in March, about 100 of the system's 270 teachers have been sent layoff notices.

Obviously, when experienced teachers are being laid off, new graduates have a tough time in the labor market.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Albert Schiff, personnel director for the Detroit Public Schools, says the system still has some openings in high-demand positions such as elementary education and mathematics.

But, he said, uncertain funding and the threat of a teachers' strike this fall has hampered recruiting.

'HAVE TO WAIT'

"We probably won't come near adding the 1,500 new teachers we feel we need," Schiff said. "We'll just have to wait until September to find out."

Another problem is that while there are openings in some fields, others, such as English and social studies, have a glut of applicants.

"It's obvious we're grinding out more social studies teachers than we need while short-changing subjects like math and science where there is a crying need," one placement officer said.

'Hogan's Heroes' Star Is Eying Higher Goals

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Bob Crane's the name; acting's his game. The hero of television's "Hogan's Heroes" series is trying to get away from that single association by doing other things: substitute host on a TV talk show, a television play. And he's always looking for that movie role.)

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — It used to be that television's main status symbol was a carefully circulated report that a performer made $250,000 or better a year.

Inflation has hit status symbols, along with everything else Now the rumored mean financial rewards have shot beyond $300,000 and some new symbols have been added. Among them are invitations to do a series of "Laugh-In" gags — and substitute guest-hosting, particularly on the "Tonight Show," although it is a considerable glory to take over for Joey Bishop or Merv Griffin.

By these contemporary yardsticks, Bob Crane is among the stellar elite. Crane plays, of course, the title role in "Hogan's Heroes," the CBS comedy series that goes into its fifth season next September. As a former disc jockey — the man with whom a large segment of Los Angeles shaved, drank coffee and sat in a bumper-to-bumper freeway traffic each morning — Crane finds handling a TV talk-and-comedy show with its complicated stationbreaks and frantic timetable of guests as easy as juggling two tennis balls.

FREQUENT HOST

"I like to do an occasional guest spot," said Crane one day recently as he awaited a call from the Carson office, "but it seems that everybody wants me to go the host route. ABC, NBC, CBS and most of the independents have talked to me about it — Carson himself once asked me if I was interested and added he wouldn't be there forever. But I wouldn't do it for all the money in the world. I want to be an actor.

Crane, whose jaunty, self-confident manner is no facade, took a big gamble on his acting abilities. He quit the radio show for the lead in "Hogan's Heroes" at a time when his salary ran into the high five figures. He won — partly — and now his eye is on what he considers higher goals.

★ ★ ★

It was 10 years ago when Crane moved on to local radio and a disc jockey's chair. He was heard by a CBS executive and moved on to the network's Los Angeles station. He was quick, witty and an over-morning success on his wake-up show.

But Crane had the acting bug and bothered Carl Reiner so persistently he finally was given a chance on one "Dick Van Dyke Show" episode. That led to a continuing part as a neighbor on "The Donna Reed Show." Crane handled the part by moonlighting.

HANDLED COMEDY

"I left after two years," he said. "I want to get away from one character, and I thought I'd proved in the show that I could handle comedy."

After that, he had some offers for series — "they asked me to test for 'Please Don't Eat the Daisies,' but I didn't want any part of that scene. After all, I get enough of that family thing at home."

Crane and wife, Anne, have three children, aged 17, 9 and 8. Then along came "Hogan's Heroes."

For the first couple of seasons, Crane and his fellow funmakers were kept busy during their off-camera moments earnestly explaining that they weren't really treating World War II as a joke or even trying to make it appear that the entire German army had been composed of a bunch of vain boobs.

WAY STATION

But for Crane, "Hogan's Heroes" is a way station en route to greater things. A couple of seasons back he realized that he was never seen by the public except when he was wearing a leather jacket and had his Air Force colonel's hat pushed jauntily on the back of his head.

"Probably no one noticed," he said, "but I started appearing without them."

★ ★ ★

The telephone rang and Crane, who was booked as a Carson guest that night, sprang for the phone. It was Rudy Tellez, director of the "Tonight" show. Carson, it seems, had some cold symptoms and would Bob take over the show for the night? Bob would, indeed, and his manner immediately became serious as he discussed some presentation ideas.

Crane's contract with "Hogan's" winds up with next season's shows, but already, he said, CBS has been talking to him about the future.

★ ★ ★

"I'd like seven years for the series," he said, "and there are these long periods between seasons. I'd go crazy doing nothing, so I'll do a play or a special. I made 'Arsenic and Old Lace' a year ago — a chance to work with Helen Hayes and Lillian Gish and a new kind of part for me. Then I played eight weeks in a production of 'Send Me No Flower' and recently wound up six weeks in Ohio with "Cactus Flower."

"Of course, I'm always hoping a movie will come along — that's a long time off, from February until July."

A Junior Editors Quiz About LIZARDS

QUESTION: There are many lizards here in Louisiana. Are there any poisonous ones?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: To those interested in natural history, Louisiana is a fascinating state. There are rare and beautiful birds, and many attractive and lively little lizards, whisking in and out of crevices, climbing trees or walls.

We show some of the most common of the lizards. Number (2) is one of the large group called swifts. You can recognize them by their rough scales.

The American chameleon or anole (3) is the attractive lizard so often seen in captivity. It can change its color completely, sometimes being all green, sometimes brown.

Skinks (4) form a large and important group, with glossy shining scales. They are difficult to catch and spend a good deal of time in hiding. We show the five-lined skink, the young of which has a brilliant blue tail.

Whiptail lizards (5) have very long tails. The strange little glass snake (6), whose tail breaks off easily, looks much more like a snake than a lizard.

All these are quite harmless. Actually, the Gila monster (1), the only poisonous lizard, lives far to the west of Louisiana.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

OCC Facilities Available

The Learning Resources Center (LRC) at the Oakland Community College Highland Lakes campus, Waterford Township, has opened its audio tape recording facilities and library collection to area schoolteachers and school district staffs.

According to Thomas Lewandowski, associate dean of the LRC, the purpose of making the facilities available is to acquaint the community with the campus and facilities and at the same time to serve the community.

★ ★ ★

Teachers may receive technical assistance in preparing tapes from Arthur E. Lindner, chief audio technician, and James Boussom, assistant technician.

The teachers can use the air-conditioned facilities from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily during the entire year.

Teachers also may make use of more than 600 sound effects and 1,000 musical backgrounds.

The equipment in the recording facility is of a professional nature requiring only that teachers bring a seven-inch reel of recording tape and a script, Lewandowski said.

For further information, contact Lindner at the Highland Lakes Campus.

Hopes for Peace Progress

Active Mart Continues Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to advance in active trading early this afternoon with investors reported hopeful of peace progress.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 5.68 at 968.65.

Gains led losses by better than 400 issues.

Brokers said investors apparently were looking forward to President Nixon's scheduled address tonight on the Vietnam situation.

They said there was hope the President might say something that would stimulate the market.

"There seems to be a lot of speculative money that is willing to gamble the President will suggest or hint at progress," an analyst said, adding that if the President's remarks "prove dampening there could be a sharp sell-off."

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2.0 at 343.5, with industrials up 3.0, rails up 1.1, and utilities up .7.

Conglomerates, steels, and electronics mostly were higher. Motors also advanced, with Chrysler up 1⅝. Utilities had a higher tone.

★ ★ ★

Fifteen of the 20 most-active issues on the American Stock Exchange advanced, and 5 declined.

Drive Kickoff Slated for City Vote Change

A kickoff dinner for a petition drive to change the city's election system will be held tomorrow starting at 5:30 p.m. at Washington Junior High, 710 Menominee.

The petition drive is chaired by Patrick Oliver, an attorney and former assistant county prosecutor. It will be aimed at calling an election on charter amendments which would result in city commissioners being elected by district rather than at-large.

★ ★ ★

Several leading political and business figures are expected to attend the meeting to answer questions and offer support.

REDISTRICTING

Oliver said he believes that if the election called for in the petition drive is successful, the city will have to be redistricted under state laws passed in 1966 regarding one-man one-vote. To call for the election, the petition drive will need about 3,200 signatures (one-tenth of the registered voters).

The city has been operating under an election system that called for a citywide vote on district representation following a primary election in which the top two vote getters in each district were on the ballot.

★ ★ ★

It was possible for a candidate to get the most votes in his district but lose in the citywide balloting.

The city's seven districts, established in 1921, show a great deal of disparity in voters registered as of April 1, 1969, with some districts having twice the population of others.

Totals were: district 1, 4,332; district 2, 4,190; district 3, 2,801; district 4, 5,838; district 5, 7,782; district 6, 2,943; district 7, 4,326.

School Board Will Act on Job Matters

More school district appointments, reappointments and resignations will be presented in the form of superintendent's recommendations at tomorrow's meeting of the Waterford Township Board of Education.

Each recommendation is positive to the 1969-70 school year when austerity programs necessitated recent millage election setbacks go into effect.

Reappointments will deal with the district administrative staff, while appointments and resignations presented will be relative to the teaching staff.

Other superintendent's recommendations include the appointment of election officials for the June 9 school district election, the proposed rental of the old administrative office building to a church and sabbatical leave appointments.

Discussion items slated include a request to close the Wilder Street entrance to Kettering High School, the status of education finance reform legislation and the sale of Webster School.

Reports are scheduled on the New York-Waterford student exchange program and the 1966 bond issues.

Pact Awarded on Facilities in Avondale

A contract for two special education classrooms in the Avondale School District was awarded last night by the Oakland Schools Board of Education.

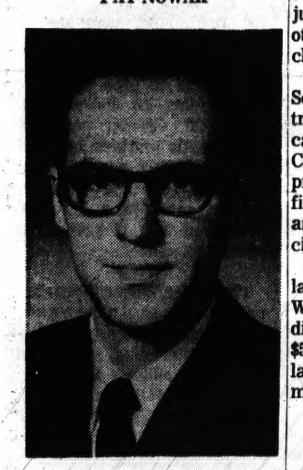

The contract for $29,953 is for two existing classrooms in R. Grant Graham Elementary School, one to be used for adjusted study classes and the other for mentally retarded children.

The agreement with Avondale Schools specifies that the district operate these special education program for 15 years. Cost of the special education program and the teacher is financed through state subsidies and the Oakland County Special Education tax.

In other action by the Oakland Schools Board, Supt. Dr. William J. Emerson was directed to secure bids for $500,000 in bonds for the Oakland Schools computer equipment.

PAT NOWAK

GARY A. MILLER

Two Jaycees in Area Win State Honors

Two area Jaycees took high honors recently at the Michigan Jaycee annual convention in Lansing.

Farmington insurance executive Pat Nowak of 22966 Mayfield, Farmington Township, was elected president of the Michigan Jaycees.

★ ★ ★

Nowak, 30, joined the Farmington Jaycees in 1962 and is a past Jaycee of the Year. He was United States Jaycee director for the Americanism and governmental affairs portfolio.

He is a member of the Farmington Board of Review and past membership chairman of the Washtenaw Life Underwriters Association.

'SPARKPLUG' AWARD

Gary A. Miller, 27, of 603 Provincetown, Pontiac Township, received the Michigan Jaycee's "Sparkplug of the Year" award in statewide competition. He will represent the Michigan Jaycees at the national convention in Louisville, Ky., the week of June 15.

Miller is the newly elected internal vice president of the Pontiac Area Jaycees and Jaycee director of the Pontiac "youthpower program."

County Given Ideas for ADC

The finance committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday heard a new approach to how government might help the recipients of Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) funds.

Mrs. Carole Sweeney, a Pontiac School Board Candidate and a civil rights activist, told supervisors it wouldn't cost the county much money, either.

She requested:

- A resolution supporting ADC mothers in demands on state and federal funds which would bring the "allotment up to the poverty level."
- That supervisors purchase an outfit from the county-operated emergency clothing store and have it laundered to prove the kind of quality offered there.
- That supervisors force the county welfare office to deal with recipients honestly. Welfare recipients don't know their rights and, in many cases, social workers do not tell them or fail to pass on requests for help, Mrs. Sweeney charged.

The committee took her comments under advisement.

His Insulting Ways Keep Don and Mon in Goodies

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Don Rickles' mother said to him, "I wish you'd quit insulting people, and quit using three-letter words."

"Sure, Mom," said Don. "And you'll quit some things, too. You'll quit Miami Beach. You'll go back to the lower East Side and you'll clean chickens. You'll take the jewelry back, too."

WILSON

"Keep on insultin' 'em," Mom said, making a fast retreat.

The money is one of the reasons but not the main one for Don getting so earthy that some people are upset. "You got to be aggressive today," he says. "Sure I could be Mr. Nice Guy and say a lot of pretty words and I'd have two old ladies watching and I'd be working in a saloon in Hempstead."

★ ★ ★

Don said this in the polite Palm Court of the Plaza while waiting to go to the Westbury Music Fair where he's doing about a $200,000 business in two weeks.

He might call a customer a "Hockey puck" or address him as "Dummy" and he might go into his three-and-four letter vocabulary because it's expected of him now.

"People exaggerate what I say and so many of the things I'm supposed to say I never say," Don said. "Oh, not everybody loves me but you know Danny Kaye said 'I thought you'd be a rude b------' and Gregory Peck thought I was going to be a monster.

"Gregory Peck said he wanted me to go to the beach at Santa Monica with them. I said 'I can't go to the beach with you.' Peck said 'Why not?'

" 'They'll recognize me!' I said."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

The Merv Griffin show'll have to blip out several overenthusiastic remarks by guest Nicol Williamson . . . The newlywed Dustin Hoffmans showed up at a screening of his "Midnight Cowboy" film . . . There'll be an integrated Broadway revival of "Pajama Game" . . . Sophia Loren and Carlo Ponti sent producer Joe Levine a photo of their baby, inscribed, "Our new co-production."

Actress Inge Jaklin, a former Miss Austria, will marry Milt Altman of NBC . . . Singer Dionne Warwick, natty in turtleneck-and-tuxedo outfit, had an exciting Copa premiere. (She closes at the club the morning of May 22 . . . will be at the Cannes Film Festival late that night with her film, "Slaves."

★ ★ ★

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Art Paul reports his wife decided their divorce settlement would divide everything equally: "The house, for instance — she got the inside, I got the outside."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: Architect Frank Lloyd Wright's description of Washington's many marble buildings: "It looks like a stone quarry that's gone out of business."

EARL'S PEARLS: Bobby Goldsboro hears that Dean Martin's building his muscles by lifting weights: "Already he's up to 6-ounce glasses."

Comic Lee Tully repeats at the Copa this husband-and-wife dialogue: "Give me one good reason why you don't like my parents" . . . "Well, for one thing, they didn't object to our marriage." . . . That's earl, brother.

More S. Viets Are in Secure Areas---U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — The relatively secure population of South Vietnam increased to 83.3 per cent during April, the U.S. statistical evaluation system said.

The percentage of South Vietnam's 17,251,500 residents in this security category was 82.1 at the end of March. The February figure was 80.3.

★ ★ ★

The goal of the South Vietnamese government is to bring all its citizens under secure control by the end of 1969.

The evaluation system is based on a complex study of security factors made by American advisers throughout much of the country.

★ ★ ★

The system has drawn criticism on the grounds it does not reflect the true situation. American officials do not claim the system is infallible, but contend it correctly pinpoints trends of the government's pacification efforts.

Phone Parley Set

TRAVERSE CITY (AP) — The Michigan Independent Telephone Association will hold its 34th annual convention May 20-22 at Traverse City. The association represents 61 independent telephone companies in Michigan with more than 513,000 telephones in 335 exchanges.

A Look at TV

'60 Minutes' Rocks Boat

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — CBS's "60 Minutes" probably struck some public nerve-ends and perhaps will cause some Pentagon waves with its report Tuesday night on the use of 10 Navy ships, including the carrier Yorktown, by a Hollywood film company making a movie.

The film is currently being made in Pearl Harbor and is a story about the fighting in the Pacific in World War II. It uses not only ships but also enlisted men. The primary question raised was whether, at a time of Vietnam conflict and of high taxation, the Navy should lend equipment and men.

★ ★ ★

Reporter Mike Wallace quoted an anonymous Pentagon source as calling the film "a $25-million commercial for a carrier Navy." He tried hard to find out who granted permission for the loan, he said. One Navy spokesman said that there was no expense and only some minor delays in schedules involved. Daryl Zanuck, head of the company shooting "Tora Tora Tora," said the film could not have been made without Navy cooperation.

The cooperation cost was never made clear, but Zanuck did concede that a number of obsolete planes to be used in the film were transported from San Diego to Hawaii on the deck of the carrier Yorktown.

KEY QUESTION

Most interesting part of the sequence was the effort to find out who in the pre-Nixon Defense Department overruled the initial disapproval by Phil Goulding, then assistant secretary in charge of public affairs. Recollections of high defense officials varied.

But the larger question raised was, as Wallace put it, "Should taxpayers and servicemen help to subsidize such an undertaking?"

★ ★ ★

Another interesting portion of the hour was devoted to some television commercials which on Monday night had won the advertising industry's equivalent of the Oscar.

Three samples shown were familiar to most TV viewers—the 1920s chorus line singing about a head cold capsule; the story of dreadful punishment given women smokers before they got a cigarette of their own; the punishment taken by cars in the hands of student drivers. Most amusing was a Japanese soap commercial featuring a line of small, naked boys taking baths.

Harry Reasoner, in introducing the samples noted that TV commercials receive "more attention and money per second than any film on earth."

The excellent hour wound up with a report on the life and thoughts of some of the young draft dodgers and deserters who have established themselves in Canada.

★ ★ ★

One young man who fled to Canada several months ago has changed his mind about the method of protest and now plans to return to the United States in time to go into service on schedule. Others—all very serious and vocal—said they were content with their decisions.

Wallace, sympathetic to a degree with their evident idealism, called them "the saddest, most subdued young Americans I have ever seen."

It was a good program.

Film Director Gets Fine for Hitting Critic

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Swedish movie director Ignmar Bergman was fined the Swedish crown equivalent of $1,000 Tuesday by the Stockholm City Court for hitting theater critic Bengt Jahnsson of the newspaper Dagens Nyheter Feb. 27 on the stage of the Royal Stockholm Dramatic Theater.

Bergman handled his own defense.

★ ★ ★

"On principle I am against every form of violence but I saw my attack on Jahnsson as the artist's last resource to guard himself as well as the whole theatrical corps against a persecution which has long been a danger to Swedish theater," he said in his final pleading.

Jahnsson was not present during the trial.

★ ★ ★

As for the fine, Bergman made only one comment: "It was worth it."

Florida Finally OKs 19th Amendment

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida approved Tuesday the 19th Amendment, which gave women the right to vote nearly 50 years ago.

The Florida Senate approved a resolution officially endorsing the 19th Amendment to the Constitution 42 to 0 and soon afterward, the House shouted its approval without opposition.

★ ★ ★

The amendment went into effect when it was adopted by two-thirds of the states. Florida never got around to expressing approval of the question.

TV Antenna on Stop Sign

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP) — Someone called police to report a television antenna had been mounted on a stop sign at an east-side intersection.

Sgt. Charles Long investigated and, sure enough, he found an antenna installed there in expert fashion with the lead-in wire to a nearby apartment building.

Before being ordered to remove it from public property, a tenant explained he had moved into the apartment the night before and had set up the antenna there because it "seemed like a good place for it."

Vehicle Check

TECUMSEH (AP) — Tecumseh plans a five-day vehicle safety check program May 19-23 as part of the Michigan Week celebration. State Police and Lenawee County sheriff's officers will help local police man the inspection lanes. Tecumseh is a three-time national award winner for safety check programs.

Man Trapped Underwater in Car Lives

UMATILLA, Ore. (AP) — For an hour and 45 minutes after a car he was in left the road and submerged in a deep irrigation canal, Jack Wallace remained wedged under the dash, breathing from a bubble of air trapped there with him.

Ken Shoop, 21, of Hermiston, Ore., also in the car, escaped and freed another passenger, Faye Lenper, 18, of Edgement, S.D. The murky water kept him from finding Wallace, 21, also of Edgement.

"I tried everything," Wallace said of his experience Sunday. "I struggled. I twisted every way I could. But I couldn't get out. Then I just began getting weaker and weaker. I must have blacked out for a while."

After his companions obtained a wrecker to pull the car out, they found Wallace wet, cold and incoherent, but otherwise well.

It's Animated at the Zoo, and So Much Fun

By ED BLUNDEN

It's "Daddy, take me to the zoo" time again. And the animals, fowl and reptiles are ready as ever in the shelters at the Detroit Zoo, Woodward and 10 Mile, which opened last week.

All the beasts had a good winter and many have additions to their families to proudly display. The birds are in bright plumage and the reptiles are slithery, with the crocodiles wearing their most sinister grins.

★ ★ ★

The chimpanzee and pony show again returns with all its old tricks and some new ones. The chimps put on a full circus with acts of derring-do. See them shot from a cannon, on the high wire, ride like cossacks and drive cars with greater skill than many human motorists along Woodward Avenue.

Those who can get to the zoo early in the season have a special treat in store, with freshly blooming trees and flowers all over the grounds.

★ ★ ★

Less hardy souls can take the miniature railroad to visit all the sights. But, though it may be exhausting, the walking route offers more chance to stop, look and study the splendid beasts placed in an environment as close to nature as possible.

Zoo authorities hasten to point out many of the animals and birds on display are fast becoming extinct in their natural habitats.

Opening lead—♠6

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Here is another part-score hand from the continent wide charity game. The expert analysis was that North should open one heart in spite of being a trifle shy of an opening bid. We don't go along with that idea. There's a tendency to open very light in third seat but we feel that a hand is either an opening bid or it isn't, and that third seat is nothing special.

This North felt that way about his hand and passed. East opened in the fourth seat with two spades. Another modern invention. The weak two bid!

South and West passed and North could not stand that two-spade contract. He reopened the bidding with a take-out double.

We don't like light third hand bids but we can stand them. We can't stand reopening the bidding with a balanced hand merely because it is your turn to bid and you have paid your entry fee.

If North had passed East would have made his two-spade contract right on the nose for an average score. North's bid gave East and West a nice top.

★ ★ ★

East redoubled to show that he had a good hand for his weak two bid. The normal range for this bid is 6-12 high-card points. East had the full 12 and a good suit.

South could find no better place to go than to three clubs. West doubled and opened the six of spades. South played the hand as well as he could but there was no way for him to gather in more than six tricks.

In fact, when he had finished play, he had to listen to East and West argue about beating him one more trick. They couldn't have but they didn't need to. Plus 500 is a lot better than a part score.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
			1♥
Pass	1♠	Pass	3♥
Pass	3♠	Pass	4♠
Pass	5♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold: ♠A85 ♥KQJ1087 ♦K4 ♣A6

What do you do now?

A—Pass. You have a minimum for your previous bidding. Remember your partner's one-spade response promised very little.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three spades your partner has raised you from three hearts to four hearts. What do you do now?

Peru Burglars Barely Escape

LIMA (AP) — Burgling in the nude is the latest underworld tactic around Trujillo in northern Peru, the newspaper La Prensa reported.

It said thieves doff their clothes before breaking into houses and pick them up on the way out. The caper succeeds, the paper said, because watchdogs are so perplexed they don't attack.

Romney Names Federal Insurer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The appointment of George K. Bernstein, first deputy insurance superintendent of New York State, as federal insurance administrator was announced Monday by George W. Romney, secretary of housing and urban development.

Bernstein will administer the riot and flood insurance program enacted last year to provide insurance in places where riots or floods might happen.

Grooms Bridle at Cost of Wife

JOS, Nigeria (AP) — Inflation was so rampant in the wife market here that fair-trading was established. A bride's parents now received $420 if she's a secondary school graduate, $224 if she has a primary education and $140 if she has none at all.

Under the old system, brides cost as much as $2,240, and suitors complained they couldn't afford to marry.

More than 225 species of nesting birds have been observed in the Okefenokee Swamp of southeast Georgia.

TURKEY BENEDICT

TURKEY A LA KING CASSEROLE

Turkey Is on Plentiful Foods List

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

It's not holiday time, but turkey is on the plentiful foods list for May. This is good news if you're planning on entertaining a large group. You might even anticipate summer entertaining and buy one or more birds to put in your freezer.

With warmer weather here, you'll use leftover turkey for conventional sandwiches and salads. But you might like other ideas about second or third day turkey dishes. Here's a trio.

Instead of the usual turkey sandwich with lettuce or mayonnaise, or a turkey club sandwich, why not have a hot sandwich? This makes good eating for luncheon, Sunday night supper or even late evening snack time. Use toasted English muffins for the bread.

TURKEY BENEDICT

1 can (10½ ounces) giblet gravy
1 teaspoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon tarragon, crushed
4 servings sliced hot turkey
2 English muffins, split and toasted
4 poached eggs
Parsley sprigs
Orange sections

In saucepan, combine gravy, lemon juice and tarragon; heat. Arrange turkey slices on muffin halves; top with eggs. Pour gravy over sandwiches. Garnish with parsley and orange sections. Makes 4 servings.

★ ★ ★

A heartier turkey dish is an a la king casserole. This one uses powdered creamer for the sauce.

TURKEY A LA KING BUFFET CASSEROLE

4 tablespoons butter
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup sliced mushrooms
4 tablespoons flour
½ cup non-dairy powdered creamer
2 cups boiling chicken broth
¼ cup chopped pimiento
4 cups cooked turkey, cut in pieces
2 tablespoons sherry (optional)
½ teaspoon pepper
6 cups cooked rice
⅓ cup melted butter
3 egg yolks, well beaten
1½ cups grated Swiss cheese

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. In a heavy-bottomed saucepan, melt butter over low heat until frothy. Add chopped onion, green pepper and mushrooms; saute until vegetables are tender. Blend in flour and cook, stirring constantly, for 1 minute.

Then add powdered creamer and boiling chicken broth all at once, beating with wire whip to blend. Increase heat to moderately high; cook and stir until sauce comes to the boil and thickens. Blend in chopped pimiento, turkey, sherry (if used) and pepper; remove from heat.

RICE SHELL

Combine the cooked rice, melted butter, beaten egg yolks and 1 cup of the grated cheese; mix well. Press 4 cups of this mixture against the sides and bottom of a 3-quart casserole; leaving a well in the center. Place creamed turkey in rice; top with remaining 2 cups rice and sprinkle with the remaining ½ cup of cheese.

Bakd 1 hour or until golden brown and crusty on top. Makes 8 servings.

Turkey Iceberg Mousses will be a real conversation piece. Try this one if you're having some of the "girls" in for luncheon and bridge. Or use it for a glamorous shower main course.

TURKEY ICEBERG MOUSSE

1 head western iceberg lettuce
1 cup turkey or chicken broth or consomme
1½ to 2 cups diced cooked turkey
1 small onion, cut into chunks
1 cup mayonnaise
2 tabelspoons lemon juice
¾ teaspoon salt
3 envelopes gelatin
½ cup water
1 cup whipping cream
Whole cranberry sauce

Core, rinse and drain lettuce. Remove 3 outer leaves; shred enough remaining lettuce to make 2 cups, tightly packed. Refrigerate remainder with outer leaves in plastic bag or saran.

★ ★ ★

Place shredded lettuce in blender container with broth; whirl until smooth. Add turkey, onion, mayonnaise, lemon juice and salt; whirl until smooth*.

Mix gelatin and water; heat, stirring, until dissolved. Blend with turkey mixture. Chill until mixture mounds softly on spoon. Meanwhile, whip cream until stiff. Fold into turkey mixture.

Turn into 5½- or 6-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on serving platter. Tear reserved outer lettuce leaves; use as garnish for mold along with cranberry sauce. Pass additional sauce if you wish.

*Or chop shredded lettuce very finely with Frenc knife. Chop or grind turkey and onion very finely. Mix lettuce, turkey, onion, broth, mayonnaise, lemon juice and salt; then proceed as directed above.

Makes 8 servings.

FUDGE-NUT BROWNIE RING — Slice one roll refrigerated fudge brownies into ½-inch slices. Place half the slices in bottom of generously greased 6-cup ring mold. Press together to form layer. Sprinkle ¼ cup chopped nuts over dough. Top with remaining slices; press together to form layer. Bake at 325 degrees for 45-55 minutes. Cool 20 to 30 minutes. Carefully loosen side and remove from mold while still warm. Cool completely. Fill center with ice cream and top with your favorite fudge topping.

Shred Spuds for New Dish

Take the hint from a country that knows and appreciates good food. Serve potatoes in the Swiss style! Then listen to your family and guests yodel for more.

"Country-Baked Potatoes" a savory blend of potatoes, dried fruit, and bacon is delicious with sausage or pork. However, for "non-Swiss" tastes, the fruit may be ommitted.

Country-Baked Potatoes

2 pounds potatoes, peeled
⅓ cup butter
⅓ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
½ pound dried pears or apples, soaked (optional)
4 slices bacon, diced

Shred potatoes. Rinse in cold water. Squeeze out to remove excess liquid. Melt butter. Stir in flour and seasonings. Slowly beat in egg and milk. Add potatoes, dried fruit and bacon. Stir until well combined. Spread in greased 9 x 13-inch baking pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 1¼ hours or until browned and tender. Makes 6 servings.

Pressure Test Tells Avocado Ripeness

Avocados must be used when fully ripe. To test for ripeness, merely hold the avocado in the palm of your hand; if it "gives", or feels soft to gentle pressure, — like a peach — it is ready to eat.

Firm avocados will ripen at room temperature in several days. To hasten the ripening process, merely put the avocados in a brown paper bag — or wrap them in plastic or foil. This accelerates the ripening process by confining and concentrating the gases that the fruit exhales.

Keep several avocados in a fruit bowl on the table and you'll always have a ripe one. Once ripened for eating, store avocados in the refrigerator. They'll keep perfectly ready for use for several days.

Progress Erasing Scars of '65 Dominican Republic Revolt

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The battle scars of the revolution that brought U.S. Marines and Army troops to the Dominican Republic four years ago are being erased by progress and development.

The area around the Duarte Bridge, where one of the biggest clashes took place between rebels and military loyalists in April 1965, has a modern housing project. The four-lane highway that leads to the bridge from the outskirts now is well-paved and clean.

Broad new boulevards skirt the area west of the city where U.S. forces set up artillery in 1965. New banks, supermarkets and private housing sweep away toward the north where the city is expanding.

Even in downtown Santo Domingo, which was fought over by rival factions, a major rebuilding of the city's historic zone is taking place along lines of the development of Old San Juan in nearby Puerto Rico.

A good share of the construction was financed by $100 million in U.S. loans in the past three years. But the Dominicans have done most of the work.

Agricultural production is up. There are new investments. The government is embarking on construction of the Taveras Dam, a major hydroelectric and irrigation project in the interior.

★ ★ ★

"These people like to work," says a Puerto Rican businessman who has invested in a paint factory in Santo Domingo. "This is the country's greatest hope."

The Dominican government plans to apply soon for membership in the Caribbean Free Trade Association—Carifta—a year-old trade grouping of former English colonies. The Dominican Republic would be the first Spanish-speaking member.

★ ★ ★

The government hopes to make this city attractive again to tourists, and a few are trickling back in. The Jaragua Hotel has reopened and is making a bid to compete with the plush Hotel Embajador for the tourist trade.

Rebuilding of the Old City has another purpose, however.

★ ★ ★

"Many people forget that Santo Domingo is the oldest city in the hemisphere," explains an editor. "There is a lot of history here, and the government wants to improve the city to give Dominicans pride in their past."

Santo Domingo was founded by the Spanish in 1496, four years after the island was discovered by Columbus. The city's cathedral claims to house the remains of Columbus, although this is disputed by Spain.

For most Dominicans, however, the history of their country is the history of the dictatorship of Rafael Leonidas Trujillo, who ruled for 31 years until his death by assassination in 1961.

★ ★ ★

The revolution broke out on April 24, 1965, when young army officers sought to restore ousted President Juan Bosch to power. Before it was over, 24,000 U.S. troops and later an Inter-American peace force were on the island. The number of dead in the revolt was put at as many as 3,000, including 24 Americans.

Foreign troops were withdrawn in 1966 following the surprisingly peaceful election of Joaquin Balaguer as president. He will complete his term of office next year, and new elections are planned.

Despite the progress, big problems remain for Balaguer or whoever will succeed him.

Unemployment is put at about one-third of the labor force, roughly where it was at the end of the revolution. Business leaders explain that the country is hard-pressed just to find enough jobs for the new entries into the labor force each year.

Making a significant reduction in the unemployed, they say, will be exceedingly difficult in years to come. The birth rate increases the population by 3.6 per cent a year.

Terrorism is another major cause for worry. One count in mid-March put the number of killings so far in 1969 in Santo Domingo at 18, including 15 civilians and 3 policemen. Another 13 civilians and 4 policemen were injured.

Large Multiracial Family Adopts Special Design of Love

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) The pink A-frame house is set far back from the road, surrounded by cedars and shaded by giant ash trees.

The house of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Croll, 855 Deerfield, is not a common design for the Mount Pleasant area. The family living inside the house is not an ordinary one for any area.

★ ★ ★

Nine of Ken and Rahma Croll's eleven children live at home with them. While a family of this size is not too unusual in the Mount Pleasant area, the fact that five of the children are adopted is. That three of the five are of different races might well be unique.

The home gives the impression of a little United Nations or a meeting of Brotherhood Week.

DAUGHTER MARRIED

One adopted daughter, Theresa, 24, is married, has three children and lives in Flint.

Tony, 19, also adopted, is a student at Central Michigan University.

Tim, 16; Chris, 14, a student at Divine Heart Seminary, Donaldson, Ind.; Ted, 12; and David, 10, are referred to, by the Crolls, as "home-grown," since they are all natural children of the couple.

★ ★ ★

Mary Ann and Rosemarie are both 9 and adopted. Mary Ann is a Chippewa Indian and Rosemarie is part Mexican.

Mary Donna, 5, is another home-grown, while Dana, 5, is in process of adoption.

THE YOUNGEST

Last in age, although he came into the family before Dana, is Dominic, 4 and Negro.

★ ★ ★

The Crolls adopted their first child, Tony, because they had no children of their own. As so often happens, they then had the four boys. During this time they also took Theresa "because she needed a home."

Although Mrs. Croll is licensed to operate a foster home, the family found they preferred permanent placement.

With five boys and Theresa nearing graduation, Mrs. Croll began to feel outnumbered. When she learned about Rosemarie she felt this was a chance to bring in feminine reinforcements.

Then it was only logical to take Mary Ann as company for Rosemarie.

About this time Mary Donna made her appearance.

Then the Crolls read about Dom, who was beautiful but couldn't find a home because he was black.

And there was Dana, who couldn't find a home because he was visually handicapped.

LIKE 'EM ALL

The Crolls say they wish it were possible to take all the children who find it hard to find a permanent home for reasons of color, or because they require extra love and care.

More than anything, they say they wish they could interest other people in adopting hard-to-place children. As they point out, it is not necessary to become as involved as they have. But they admit adopting children is like eating peanuts—it's terribly hard to stop with just one.

★ ★ ★

A family as large as the Crolls' takes a tremendous amount of time, effort, patience and wise use of money.

Both tiny, dark-haired Jo (as she is known to her friends) and big, jovial Ken have the kind of talent needed tohouse, clothe and feed nine youngsters.

GOOD SEAMSTRESS

An accomplished seamstress, Jo makes most of her clothes, the little girls' dresses and the boys' shorts, as well as curtains, drapes and slipcovers.

She also does much of her own baking, including homemade bread and rolls. Her own hooked rugs decorate the wide-plank floors of the living room and the bedrooms.

EVERS AT THE POLLS — Negro leader Charles Evers leaves his car to vote yesterday in the municipal elections at Fayette, Miss. Evers became the first Negro mayor in southwest Mississippi since 1875, polling 386 votes to 225 for the incumbent, Mayor R. G. Allen, in the community of 1,600.

Message to Nation Tonight

Nixon to Summarize Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, responding to what associates say is a public demand for a summation of the Vietnam situation, goes before the nation tonight to give what is expected to be a cautiously optimistic assessment of peace prospects.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the speech, to be broadcast live at 10 p.m. EDT (9 p.m. EST) on national television and radio, will contain some new material, but cautioned against expecting announcement of a peace breakthrough.

★ ★ ★

Nixon associates also said the President's speech will outline how matters now stand in light of the Vietcong's 10-point peace proposal.

A high government official said Nixon will stress mutual withdrawal of troops and reduction of the fighting as moves the United States believes must have priority.

NO WITHDRAWAL PLEDGE

This official said there would be no pledge for unilateral U.S. troop reductions.

The President's speech is expected to reflect the administration's feeling that the Hanoi-backed Vietcong proposals, generally unacceptable, offer some negotiable points. One of these contains the first tacit public admission by Hanoi that it has troops in the South.

★ ★ ★

No associate expects the President to hint acceptance of the Vietcong proposal for a provisional coalition government to replace the elected Saigon regime immediately. But Saigon has expressed an interest in a proposal for an exchange of prisoners.

An indication the President is preparing an early formal answer to the Vietcong came when Ziegler said Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge will arrive during the afternoon for new instructions before flying back to Paris tomorrow. The next Paris meeting is Friday.

QUICK RESPONSE

Mindful that the North Vietnamese and Vietcong took more than two months to answer initial U.S. proposals, the administration wants to respond quickly to emphasize its efforts to push the talks ahead.

Lodge will attend a joint meeting of the Cabinet and the National Security Council tomorrow morning at which the administration's position presumably will be reviewed.

House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said his optimism about the Paris talks was fortified when Nixon previewed his speech for GOP congressional leaders yesterday.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said merely it would be a significant speech.

ADMINISTRATION'S VIEWS

Ford said Nixon is making the speech because he feels it desirable "that he lay out the administration's views on Paris and elsewhere."

An administration source said soundings taken around the country unearthed a feeling that Nixon had been explicit and voluminous on domestic issues but is remaining too silent about Vietnam.

The President is reported sensitive to charges he has made little change in the approach adopted by the Johnson administration to end the Vietnam conflict.

TALUS Boosts Metro Transit, Freeway Setup

By JEAN SAILE

A Pontiac suburbanite rises, eats breakfast, and is picked up at his door by a comfortable, on-time bus.

He's taken into Pontiac and boards a rapid transit system which whisks him to downtown Detroit at speeds as high as 75 to 80 miles an hour.

Another bus picks him up at the Detroit station and deposits him at the office.

★ ★ ★

Elapsed time? Maybe less than an hour.

A dream of the carbon-monoxided traffic-frustrated commuter?

UNONIMOUS APPROVAL

Maybe. But the dreamer had his hopes strengthened yesterday with release of proposals by the Detroit Regional Transportation and Land Use Study (TALUS). The proposals were approved unanimously by the TALUS administrative committee, representing local governments throughout southeastern Michigan.

They will be the subject of public hearings throughout the area next fall.

★ ★ ★

TALUS has proposed maximum and minimum plans for both rapid transit and freeway construction, due for completion by 1990.

The maximum rapid transit plan would build 118 miles of high-speed train and subway lines to carry passengers in and out of downtown Detroit from Pontiac, Utica, Plymouth, Rockwood and Metropolitan Airport. Minimum plans call only for the expansion and improvement of the existing bus system through the seven-county southeastern Michigan area.

TULIP FESTIVAL OPENS — Residents of Holland, Mich., in native Dutch costumes scrubbed the streets today to initiate the annual Tulip Festival. The revelry will last through Saturday with events planned from early morning to late evening. Acres of colorful spring bulbs, including tulips, hyacinths and daffodils are on display.

Black Rights Leader Mississippi Mayor

By the Associated Press

Charles Evers, a Negro civil rights leader, has been elected mayor of Fayette, Miss.

Except in all-Negro Mound Bayou, Evers was the only outright winner among 13 members of his race running for mayor in Mississippi communities in municipal elections yesterday. However, 11 Negroes won places on town boards and another 11 captured enough votes to force runoff elections with white opponents.

★ ★ ★

In Jersey City, N.J., Mayor Thomas Whelan finished first in a field of five in the mayoral race but failed to obtain a majority and will take part in a runoff with former Mayor Thomas Gangemi June 17.

★ ★ ★

Evers, state field director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, becomes the first Negro mayor in southwest Mississippi since 1875. He received 386 votes to 225 for the incumbent, Mayor R. G. Allen, in the town of 1,600.

'MAIN OBJECTIVE'

"The main objective of my administration will be to show that black and white can work together," Evers said. "That includes the black extremists and the white bigots. I want to show that we can have a safe town. I will not tolerate lawlessness."

★ ★ ★

Negro candidates for mayor in Mississippi lost at Gloster, Jackson, Marks, Moorhead, Sunflower, Woodville, Lexington, Kosciusko and Beaumont.

★ ★ ★

At Tchula, Sault Sutton Jr., a Negro, was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for mayor but faces Lester Lyon, a white independent, in the June 3 general election.

★ ★ ★

At Laurel, Robert Stenson, a Negro candidate for mayor, filed as an independent and will face Democratic and Republican nominees in the general elections.

A federal court order obtained by civil rights leaders postponed the voting at Canton, where there are Negro candidates for mayor and aldermen.

Parochiaid Defeated in House

LANSING (AP) — Parochiaid — the issue that loomed over the Legislature for more than a year — went down to defeat yesterday in the House.

Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, surveying the 50-58 rejection of the $100,000 parochiad rider, predicted action on the $845.4 million public school appropriation, passed earlier by the Senate, would be "noncontroversial."

The House, Ryan indicated, likely would accept a comparable amount "give or take one or two million."

He predicted parochiaid would reemerge as "the biggest item" if the Legislature remains in session this fall to deal with anticipated education recommendations by Gov. William Milliken's special study committee.

★ ★ ★

The long-awaited roll call vote came after three hours of bristling debate. Fifteen Democrats joined 43 Republicans in opposition.

Parochiaid forces were surprised by the outcome. Last-minute head counts had shown, they said, that the issue would pass the House with a few votes to spare.

Key votes were cast by a handful of Democrats who refused to commit themselves despite mounting pressure.

Looking exhausted and haggard from days of toil, Ryan argued in vain that pumping tax funds into parochial schools would save the taxpayers money — "up to $240 million annually" — in the long run by preventing an enrollment crush in the public schools.

★ ★ ★

Without parochiaid, he warned, two of every three parochial students would be forced to transfer to public schools in 1971.

Opposition forces maintained Michigan taxpayers could not afford rising education costs in both public and nonpublic schools; that the parochiaid plan violated the separation of church and state; and that the Legislature's first obligation was to public schools.

Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica, called the parochiaid allocation "peanuts." We should be talking about taxation, about billions of dollars and all the children of the state," he said.

"We talk about two school systems when we're not financing one," Spencer said. "How phony can you be?"

Clear Overnight; Showers in Sight

Skies will continue clear through tonight with temperatures reaching into the 70s today. Tonight's low will be a mild 47 to 52.

Partly cloudy with a chance of showers and a high near 70 is tomorrow's forecast. Showers and cooler is Friday's outlook.

The probabilities of precipitation in per cent are 10 today, 10 tonight and 30 tomorrow.

Forty-four was the low temperature before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. By 12:30 p.m. the thermometer registered 65.

They're Coupled to Trouble

An Old Wife's Tale

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After one scream by Ida Butcher, 93, the two men who invaded her home demanding money fled empty-handed yesterday.

★ ★ ★

"It's a good thing for them my husband wasn't home," Mrs. Butcher said. The husband, William, is 100.

Votes Husbanded, but:

RIVERSIDE, Wyo. (AP)—Town Councilman Richard Martin was reelected to a four-year term in this tiny community's municipal election today.

But he may regret it.

Martin received eight votes. The losing candidate, Mrs. Richard Martin, had seven.

RAY JONES

By JIM LONG

Ray Jones of Pontiac, America's first Army defector to Sweden and the first to return, is back in Stockholm, apparently a victim of his political views and nearly a year of frustration.

Jones, a 22-year-old Negro, along with his German-born wife, Gabrielle, and their two children, are asking Swedish authorities for asylum for "humanitarian reasons."

★ ★ ★

It was not immediately known when Jones arrived in Sweden. Reports that he had returned, however, were published yesterday in a Stockholm newspaper.

His mother, Mrs. Leslie Tademy of Pontiac, was unable to shed any light on her son's leaving the country.

LOST CONTACT

She said today she lost contact with him about two months after he returned to Pontiac after serving about three months of a four month prison sentence for being absent without leave.

Faced with being charged with a deserter when he gave himself up to military authorities last March, Jones, was court-martialed only for being AWOL.

★ ★ ★

On his release from prison last June, he was given a bad conduct discharge.

This, coupled with the notoriety surrounding his case, resulted in Jones taking nearly three months after getting back to Pontiac to find a job.

He first worked as an attendant nurse at Pontiac State Hospital, leaving a short time later, when, according to Jones, he just couldn't get along with other employes who knew about his past.

Later he took a job with Consumer Power Co. in Pontiac, first as a janitor and then as a gas line installer.

☆ ☆ ☆

Still, he was discontent and according to a co-worker, he quit, complaining that he was being discriminated against.

Jones, quoted in the Stockholm paper, said that while in Pontiac he was snubbed by neighbors and fellow workers.

'HURT BY POLITICAL STAND'

He said the fact that his wife is white may have added to his difficulties, but added that the bulk of his troubles stemmed from his political stand.

Jones was quoted as saying that while he was in the U.S. he had been offered $10,000 "to keep my mouth shut and write a book saying how much I hated communism and why I thought the Vietnam war was justified."

☆ ☆ ☆

In an interview with The Pontiac Press last June he said he was opposed to the philosophy of communism.

He said he had met a number of Communists when he first arrived in

Experts See Federal Brakes Gradual Halt to Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economists in and out of the government say the administration's attack on inflation will cut down the booming wage-price spiral, but they don't look for a quick victory.

"I wouldn't want to make a prediction tied to a few months," said Herbert N. Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers in an interview, "but by the end of this year we should see inflation running at a significantly lower rate."

★ ★ ★

Even then, Stein said, "I think it will be going on through 1970."

Interviews with other economists turned up general agreement that bleeding inflation out of the economy will have to be done gradually. Cold-turkey cures got no support at all.

William A. Chartener, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, stressed the need for persistence and patience.

"We're in a period of very rapid growth," Chartener said. "There is power, there is momentum, there is confidence from this kind of growth that makes it very difficult to reverse or even slow down the economy."

★ ★ ★

Also interviewed by the Associated Press in a sampling of what government and nongovernment economists think about the nation's No. 1 economic problem were Carl Madden, chief economist of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Nat Goldfinger, research director of the AFL-CIO.

SOME EXCERPTS

Here are excerpts from the question-and-answer sessions:

Q. Will some lessening of inflation be visible this year?

MADDEN: There are some early signs that the monetary and fiscal policy mix has slowed down the real growth of the economy already. However, we know from past experience that prices can continue to rise after the economy has slowed down. I would expect the price rises to slacken off a little just a few months from now.

★ ★ ★

Q. You expect improvement that quickly?

A. In a matter of a few months—but only in those goods in which there is traditionally a considerable amount of price flexibility. Durable goods, retail hardgoods, but not in the prices of services such as hospital daily charges, domestic service, local transit fares, postal charges, physician's fees, men's haircuts and the like.

★ ★ ★

Q. But will these service prices be reached eventually?

A. I think that's an arguable question, without a recession. I doubt whether the current policy mix will get to the prices of services that are heavily influenced by labor costs in the near future.

★ ★ ★

If one had a recession with real unemployment increases—which I would not advocate—then expectations of workers in the services would be sharply curtailed and price rises would be modified by that change in expectations.

★ ★ ★

Q. But does it do any good to try to change these expectations.

A. I believe the responsibility of the American worker—and businessmen—can be underestimated. And that the administration could do a great deal more in educating the American worker and businessman to their common interest in price stability and restraint in price and wage decisions.

★ ★ ★

Q. That sounds almost like guideposts.

A. Well, the Chamber of Commerce is opposed to the use of guideposts as a means of government intervention in wage and price decisions. But the Chamber has never been opposed to informing the American public generally about the desirability of price stability and informing the public of the interdependence of its various elements.

★ ★ ★

Q Then you would try to communicate directly with these individuals instead of working on the unseen forces that underly inflation?

A. Not instead of working on the forces, but in addition to working on the forces.

★ ★ ★

Q.—To Stein — This administration doesn't seem to have much use for guideposts to hold wage and price increases within certain limits. What can you say to members of a union, for instance, that will induce them to settle for a little less?

STEIN: I don't think we can persuade a lower rate of price increase or wage demand by anything we can say to people. I don't think it's any longer possible to ask people to act as if inflation wasn't going on.

We have to demonstrate that the inflation is slowing down and that there is good reason to expect it will continue to slow down. I think people will respond to these facts rather than to things we say to them.

★ ★ ★

Q. Then guideposts don't work?

A. We don't think they work. We don't think they worked in the past and we particularly don't think they will work in this kind of circumstance where we have a rapid inflation still going on.

Furthermore, many of us, including me—perhaps most particularly me—don't like it even if it works because it's just an unseemly way to run a country. It degenerates into arm-twisting, blackmail and threats.

Q.—To Chartener—What do you think the new wage pattern is likely to be if strong price increases continue?

CHARTENER: It is very difficult to tell a union or union members that when they see living costs going up 5 per cent, or their taxes going up, that they ought to be content with a wage increase that doesn't at least enable them to hold even with the cost of living.

Last year, wage increases averaged something over 6 per cent. I hope we'll be able to do better than that before the year is over. But it will be difficult while workers see living costs going up so fast.

Q.—To Goldfinger—You say you feel the policies now in use probably will do the job expected of them but that better ones might have been chosen. Can you elaborate?

GOLDFINGER: I think the mix of restraints has been at least partly wrong. The most important issue is the cost that the nation may have to pay in rising unemployment.

Q. Do the remedies being employed add up to an unacceptably high rate of unemployment in the near future?

A. That remains to be seen. You just can't say at this point.

Q. But about the flaws that you feel exist in the general blend of restraints.

A. We think that what's called for is more of an analysis of the causes of inflation, much more of pinpoint approach to doing something about it instead of these broad, across-the-board measures. In other words, a rifle shot as against a shotgun blast.

These measures that are being taken across the board are hitting the wrong people, hitting them first and hitting them hardest. They're hitting small businessmen, home buyers and consumers.

And at the same time the big corporations, which should be the target, can avoid the impact. Tight money policy, for instance. They can avoid it because of their large internal cash flows and the cooperation of the banks.

★ ★ ★

Q. But some analysts say there is too much purchasing power in the hands of the consumer.

A. Is there? I think anybody who says there is should prove it. The statistics certainly don't show it.

★ ★ ★

Q.—To Chartener—Do you have any indication that people are beginning to succumb to the feeling that inflation is going to go on indefinitely?

CHARTENER: The encouraging thing is that, amongst the people themselves, we have not seen any great amount of inflation psychology. In other words, people don't seem to have stepped up their own spending with the idea that they're going to buy before prices go up.

Purchases of autos, appliances and furniture seem in line with the rise in the income of the population. People on the whole do not seem to be behaving as if they're afraid of perpetual inflation.

★ ★ ★

(The big exception, Chartener noted, is housing, where buyers seem in a rush to buy now because they fear higher prices and mortgage rates tomorrow.)

Panel Gives Consumer New Picture on Buying

Market testing has become an important part of the food industry in the United States and on May 21, 22 and 23 Detroit area homemakers will have an opportunity to examine and evaluate a number of new products.

The occasion is a series of duplicate meetings of Michigan State University's Consumer Preference Panel. Sessions will be held at The Pontiac Mall Community Room at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on May 21.

★ ★ ★

Local panelists, many of whom are members and guests of the Informed Food Shoppers Group, an organization developed by the Consumer Marketing Program in Detroit, together with residents chosen from a random telephone sample from the greater Detroit area, will become part of the University's state-wide panel.

VOICES HEARD

As a continuing and important part of the Consumer Marketing Program, this Preference Panel offers consumers a way of registering their opinions and preferences concerning new food products, as well as evaluating proposed changes in the form of packaging of familiar foods and other agriculture products.

★ ★ ★

Opinions of panelists, after tabulation on the University's computer, are analyzed by Marketing Specialists and reported to Michigan's food industry. By keeping producers, processors, and food distributors informed on consumers opinions, production of future products can be geared to better meet consumer needs and preferences.

★ ★ ★

The panel is sponsored by Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

★ ★ ★

Consumers who would like to determine which food products reach the supermarket and in what form will have this opportunity soon. Any homemaker who would like to take part in this event is cordially invited to attend. Simply contact Hildegard Hesse at the Consumer Marketing office at 2832 East Grand Boulevard, Room 302, Detroit 48211, phone 873-0794.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

Please advise me on sleeves for cocktail or informal evening dresses for summer. The pattern books are filled with the huge, billowing, puffed or gathered into cuffs sleeves. These sleeves are not only too hot to wear but don't seem appropriate for embroidered linens or cotton brocades that are worn in very hot climates.

Mrs. R. E. T.

Dear Mrs. R. E. T.:

The huge sleeves you are referring to are not suitable for heavy fabrics no matter what the climate is. I would suggest either a short sleeve or a full length sleeve, the three-quarter sleeve that was so popular many years ago is not currently in fashion. More and more women are returning to the idea of sleeves even in hot climates because when the heat is excessive, we usually have air conditioning, especially in restaurants and theaters.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. Virginia Chandler, Pontiac, Mich. is this week's winner of the Tailor Trix pressing board for her following suggestion.

"The first time I honestly had perfectly matched plaids at the seam line was by matching the plaids at the SEAM LINE instead of the notches. This works especially well when there is a curve or a seam that is cut on an angle instead of perfectly straight."

Dear Eunice Farmer,

I would like to make a pair of slacks out of bonded material but I would like to make them with elastic at the waist instead of a waistband and zipper. How do I change the pattern to achieve this?

Mrs. G. C.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. G. C.:

Since knits are not usually bonded, I am assuming you are referring to a firm fabric. In this case, I wouldn't recommend the elastic casing at the waist. Because your fabric would have no "give," you would have to make it very large at the waist, and when gathered up it would appear too bulky.

The elastic at the waist is usually found on knitted fabrics because the fabric will give as you put it on over your hips and then spring back to fit the waist with very little extra fabric allowance. If your pattern has the customary darts, you may eliminate the darts for the ease you need. In other words, it is not necessary to have the usual darts for fitting.

★ ★ ★

When she wants her sewing to look tailor-made, the home sewer will check every detail. Mrs. Farmer advises you in adding those extra touches in her booklet, "Your Pattern and You." For this booklet, send 25 cents and a long envelope, self-addressed, and stamped, to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

Foreign Intellectuals See U.S. as a Society Full of Conflicts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some visiting foreigners find the United States is a society loaded with conflicts: rich, powerful and exciting with a free press and free choice, but with fear walking city streets.

★ ★ ★

Visitors take student protests largely for granted because they follow a worldwide pattern and are similar to those stirring in their own countries.

★ ★ ★

These were the initial expressions of a group of foreign intellectuals, each a leader in government or business from 40 nations, who came to study America and Americans as Eisenhower Exchange Fellows.

Some said in an interview they think U.S. bathtubs are too small, that roadside signs are too garish, that the Sirhan murder trial took too long.

PAPER MATCHES

"I like your frankness of speech, and the way you can change money and find paper matches everywhere," said Luigi Ferrari-Bravo, 35, professor of international law at Italy's Bari University.

★ ★ ★

"You sure can't miss those short skirts," said James M. Crawford, 43, manager of a farmers' cooperative in New Zealand. "But I do miss our space. Here is you go anywhere you'll find 10,000 other people going to the same place, and it's crowded."

★ ★ ★

"It is not only free-thinking but free choice that you have here," said Almir Fernandes, 34-year-old architect from Curitiba, Brazil.

★ ★ ★

"I should like to see all the important places, and important things, such as the Tennessee Valley Authority, Niagara Falls, and also some of your big factories, especially the automobile assembly lines," said J. W. Mills, 47, chief education officer of Ghana.

WANTS TO LEARN

"Ireland's great problem is to create more jobs," said Christopher Kelly, a 47-year-old 6-footer from Cork who wants to learn "how small businesses get started in the United States and how they flourish."

Seven of the fellows gave their views shortly after their arrival. All were participating in an orientation seminar at nearby Princeton University and in Philadelphia.

★ ★ ★

"Genuine Americans are ready to discuss their social and human problems with a foreigner," said Dr. Paul D'Arbela, a physician and medical researchist from Kampala, Uganda. "They realize that many of us have come with impressions of our own, and that they might be genuinely hard impressions to eradicate from our heart."

★ ★ ★

Mills, a black like D'Arbela, said, "One thing which worries some of us is whether we could freely move into all places, and I've asked the program organizer to keep me off the danger points."

Kelly said his first major annoyance was "the fear in the streets" and "the apparent need for so many padlocks, so many police around."

★ ★ ★

D'Arbela said, "Perhaps I will discover more, but I think security is what makes me uneasy."

★ ★ ★

The fellowships, headquartered in Philadelphia, were established in 1953 by friends of President Dwight D. Eisenhower to further his interests in world understanding. Among the previous 323 winners are Turkey's prime minister, the vice president of Bolivia, four Argentinian Cabinet ministers, and a host of judges, ambassadors, governors and industrialists.

★ ★ ★

"Almost all of the fellows have risen to positions of greater responsibility in their home countries following their experiences," said J. Hampton Barnes, fellowship president. "They are in the position to contribute to their countries' advancement and at the same time interpret the United States to their countrymen."

★ ★ ★

The fellows stay six to eight months, under grants averaging $10,000 each, and are free to travel anywhere, talk to anyone, see anything.

NO FEAR

Sudhaker Ranade, 45, joint Secretary of the government of India, said he liked the way "newspapers and people and the TV say all sorts of things about all sorts of people without any fear." And he also found that one couldn't be sure whom he met on the street, whether he was a foreigner or an American citizen.

★ ★ ★

"You just can't tell from looks," said Ranade, the only one of the fellows wearing native clothes, the familiar Nehru-type jacket.

★ ★ ★

"We are conscious you have a race problem," said New Zealand's Crawford, "but on the whole, though, we don't think we're so much different."

Ghana's Mills said, "The United States is a very rich country where one sees old buildings pulled down and new buildings put in their places, something which few governments could do."

"We always regard America as the next parish," said Ireland's Kelly, "and I must say the people in this parish seem to be doing all right. The feeling I get is that they work far harder and they move a bit faster but I'm inclined to wonder whether they enjoy themselves quite as much as we do."

Uganda's D'Arbela said he was "a little disillusioned because, apart from the propaganda which we receive from people who speak of America, we read newspapers of events in America. And it does raise some creditability as to the reality about the facts that are given to us."

"We have great faith in the future of the United States because, maybe, many, many, answers we will find in the future from the American way of life," said Brazil's Fernandes.
