Rail Library Book Bares Oddities of Train World

WASHINGTON (UP)—The largest railroad library in the world is maintained by the Association of American Railroads, here in the capital.

In the stacks are 350,000 items, including everything from how to hold a bib in a diner to how hard a porter has to struggle to work the best tips out of traveler.

I went through part of the library and found a very interesting little pamphlet called "Rail Oddities," a thing well documented. Here are some unusual things the booklet contains plus other facts found elsewhere.

Not too long ago, a character, who must have been a railroad worker himself, fussed over the

Cake Rich With Flavor of Bananas

Goody, Goody Icing
Tops Treat Made
by Mrs. Redmond

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Now that the banana strike is over, you can indulge your liking for a big, rich banana cake.

Make it with this recipe from Mrs. Donald Redmond of Drayton Woods, and you'll have the tops in cakes. Mrs. Redmond makes so many of these cakes each week that she knows the recipe by heart.

Mrs. Redmond has always been active in community affairs. At present she is anticipating the Red Feather Drive as she is one of the chairmen.

She serves on committees of several organizations, belongs to a child study club, plays excellent bridge and thoroughly enjoys life with her family. Dancing is also a favorite pastime.

BANANA CAKE

By Mrs. Donald Redmond

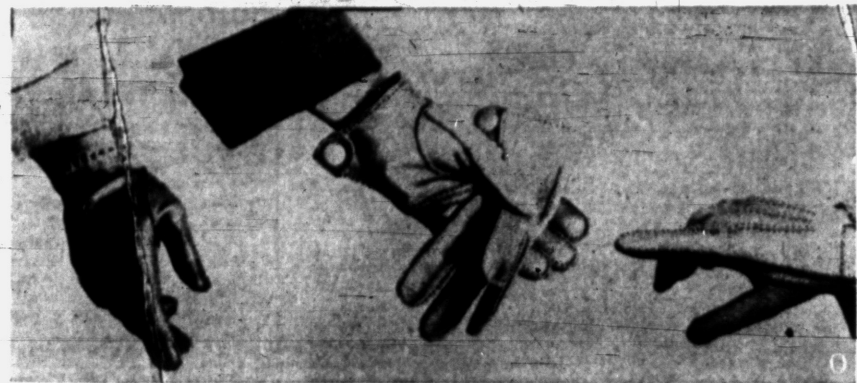

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
2 whole bananas, peeled
3 egg yolks (reserve whites for frosting)
1 whole egg
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup milk with 1 tablespoon vinegar

Put all ingredients together in bowl and beat hard for four to five minutes. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans 25 minutes in a 350-degree oven.

Goody, Goody Frosting

3 egg whites
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar (add to egg whites)

Beat egg whites very stiff. Boil sugar and water until it spins a thread. Pour over beaten whites, beating constantly. Continue beating for about 10 minutes. This frosting keeps very well.

'Passenger' Car Loses Out

Alarming news reaches this mountain fastness of two new super-airplanes—one that goes into the air from a sitting position on its tail, another that is said to have the shape of a beer-bottle.

The reason I am concerned is not that I care what the military does to airplanes, but that I'm sure next month or so I'll be asked to step into an automobile shaped like a beer-bottle or worse, and I've had enough. For a long time I've noted this frightening tendency on the part of car manufacturers to make their products look like the latest flying machines minus only the wings.

I can understand, even while I deplore, the car designers' love affair with airplanes. There's no question but that they are fascinating—in their field. What I say is, leave them there. But no, every new automobile is more like an airplane and harder to get in and out of. If this keeps up, I'll have to go back to the horse-and-buggy.

The most forbidding feature of the late models is the door which gets lower and lower. Once upon a time, when automobiles were still taking after the surry, one could walk up to a door, climb onto an obsolete step called a "running board," and manage to reach a rear seat without (a) crouching in the classic position of a wrestler about to apply a half-nelson or (b) having clothing corkscrewed until one resembled a wrapped-up Maypole.

Also I observe with considerable misgiving the growing popularity of the tiny, bug-like automobile. I am sympathetic with problems of parking and traffic. But if the midjet trend is going to make it like me to go for an ordinary drive without permanent injury to knees, elbows and other probably vestigial remnants of another day, I would like to protest mildly, at least.

Speaking purely as a passenger without knowledge of details like transmissions and combustion chambers, I maintain that

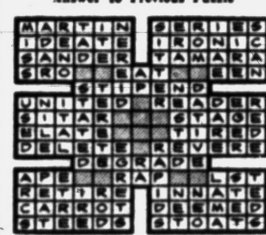

Rich Gloves Are Popular

Colors and textures that complement or contrast with light and dark clothing, give gloves variety for any occasion.

New rich tones of brown, black, dark or light greys and tans in pigskins, and capeskin are important. Many of the new gloves have permanent or removable linings in fancy effect checks or matching tones. Combination leather knits are popular.

Studies of fermentation by Pasteur are regarded by scientists as among the most important on the subject.

Flash Crush Dims When Boy Is Gone

If He's That Good
You Can Be Sure
There Is Another

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: I met 'him' this summer, and though we had only two days together I developed a terrific crush! He told me I've had a girl friend, but I'm not sure. I doubt if I'll see him before next summer, if then.

Meantime there's a boy here at home who wants to date me. I've been advised to forget 'him'—but I can't! Please help me."

That's my advice too. Tuck him away with other very pleasant memories of your vacation. A flash crush like yours will begin to dim once you get caught up in a whirl of fun at home.

Besides, what's the point in clinging to a notion that's so unrewarding? You aren't going to see him or hear from him—he warned you. If he was that attractive, you can bet he has a girl at home!

"Dear Miss Woodward: I went to the mountains with my family this summer and while there I went horseback riding twice. A boy that worked at the stables went riding with me both times. He seemed to be interested in me and we talked quite a bit and I like him very much. Would it be all right to write to him now that I'm home, even though we don't know each other well? How should I go about it?"

Two rides on two horses—that's hardly enough to make a true romance. The boy was nice, polite, agreeable. But being that way was part of his job. He went along to make a customer's ride pleasant and safe. His "interest" was good salesmanship.

Writing to him now would be forcing an issue. There's a little you have to say to him—and so much doubt that he would remember you.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I'd been seeing quite a bit of Jack, when I went to a party and met a lot of other boys. I was very much attracted to them and it seems as if my liking for Jack faded. He found out about this party—and I don't know what to do to get him back. I still like him. Can you help me?"

A girl who has no steady beau with her at a party is supposed to mix and mingle and be gay and friendly with everybody. If the boys there seemed new and different and attractive so much the better. But how come one evening out (with no follow-up dates) could have upset both you and Jack? It was a whirl, that's all. No aftermath. It didn't spoil your affection for Jack. Why not call him up and tell him so? Tell him it was just a party—nothing permanent—and you miss him. It might help to straighten things out. (Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Shine Light on Closet Deficiency

The main trouble with most closets is that they are too small and there isn't too much you can do about this except to enlarge existing closets or build additional ones. There are, however, other closet complaints that are somewhat easier to deal with.

Most closets, for example, are far too dark and this makes it difficult to put things in their proper place or to find them. What we can do here is to paint the walls and ceiling of the closet white. This will make them a good deal lighter. If the closet is equipped with some sort of light fixture either provide it with a pull chain or switch that you can find when you want it or install one of these little fixtures that turns on the light when the closet door is opened and turns it off when the closet door is closed. These items are sold at hardware and electric stores and are not expensive. They are also easily installed.

A good many closets are so packed with garments that there is precious little circulation of air inside, hence the closet soon takes on a musty odor. Removing a few of the garments would help matters here but that's not always practical. What you can do is to cut out a section of the door and install a small louver to allow air to enter the closet. To keep out the dust, cover the louver on the inside with a layer of cheesecloth.

Many closets become damp during the cold weather. This is usually due to a lack of insulation in the walls. Cure for this one is to fasten sheets of insulating board over the closet walls.

Commerce Morale Lifted by Outdoor Lunch Tables

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
WASHINGTON (UP) — What's new in Washington?

Workers in the Department of Commerce never had it so good. In the south court of the building, right off the lunchroom, is a strip of grass that long has been unoccupied.

Recently, on the prompting of Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks, the government bought six tables with white and green parasols for cover. The help is happy. The workers buy lunch.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you just sprinkle a little PASTEETH the alkaline (non-acid) powder on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTEETH at any drug counter.

A late footnote from the recent Legion convention: Harvey V. Higley, administrator of veteran's affairs, thought he would play easy to get while the veterans of World War I, II and Korea were in town. He would leave his gate unlatched.

He did, and there was a clanging of his gate all through the long week. The customers were standing in line, a lot of them from Marietta, Ohio. Higley's home town.

Higley survived, being a man of great physical stature. What's more he had a good time.

Higley's office, by the way, gets some pathetically funny mail. A mother wrote in and enclosed a check for $10.

Here, she said, is $10 for "my son's insurance policy." She didn't give the name of the son or the policy number and that letter has been going back and forth for half a year now.

Curtain Startles Boy

CONCORD, N. H. (UP)—An 11-year-old Concord boy dropped his fishing tackle on the brook bank and raced to the nearest policeman to report he "saw a bear" run across the Concord by-pass. He gave a graphic description of the animal. Police said the "bear" turned out to be a wind-blown old window curtain.

Opinion Is Due in Bleacher Case

Judge Will Decide if Injured Doctor Should Get $45,000

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge H. Russel Holland will submit a written opinion in a few days deciding whether a $45,000 damage grant against the Birmingham School District will stand.

Dr. Maurice Richards of Royal Oak was awarded the sum by a Circuit Court jury June 29 for injuries received when bleachers collapsed at a Birmingham High School football game in 1948.

The doctor instituted a $200,000 suit against the School District and the Atlas Bleacher Co. of Detroit for disabling leg injuries received in the accident.

A motion by the School District was argued yesterday asking a ruling of "no cause for action notwithstanding the general verdict of the jury."

In his charge to the jury June 29 Judge Holland said that if the bleachers on which Dr. Richards was sitting collapsed from failure of adjoining bleachers then the doctor had not sufficiently proved his case.

The jurors said the stand collapsed from shifting of an adjoining bleacher, but granted the doctor a judgment regardless. The School district attorneys yesterday claimed this was improper.

They also claimed a verdict for Dr. Richards had to be based on conjecture asserting that his proofs of negligence were "less tenable, or at least not more tenable" than the school's explanation ruling out negligence.

The School District also claimed that the city as a quasi-municipal corporation was not liable to suit by Dr. Richards.

The doctor's attorneys argued that the school's maintenance was a cause of the collapse and the jury was right in considering it so.

They asserted the School Board could have reasonably foreseen failure of the stands adjoining the bleachers.

Grains Hugging Closing Prices

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains held close to the final prices of the preceding session on the Board of Trade today. There was a little rally early but this soon faded and prices were marked down.

September soybeans advanced a couple of cents on short covering. The grain was viewed as mainly technical following sharp declines in the two previous sessions. Trading in all September contracts ends next Tuesday. Rye also did better than the general market.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to 1/4 lower. September 2.14 1/2, corn 1.63 1/2, oats 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher. September 76 1/2, rye 1.20 to 1.21, soybeans 1.49 1/2, and land 5 cents lower to 12 a hundred pounds higher. September 16.22.
