Report Cuba Seaman Admits Murder Rampage on Ship

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban seaman picked off a skiff in the Gulf Stream admitted today that he went on a murder rampage on the bahana boat Seven Seas, a Coast Guard spokesman said today.

"As I understand it, he admitted doing them all in except the cook," Cmdr. W. C. Wahl of the Key West Coast Guard base told the Associated Press.

"The last thing he said was that he sent the cook, Gerald Davidson down to the engine room for something. We don't know where the cook is.

"There is five feet of water in that engine room and we don't know what we'll find there."

★ ★ ★

Wahl said Ramirez told interrogators that he left the Seven Seas alone in the skiff.

TAKEN ABOARD

Ramirez was taken aboard a merchant vessel which located the 14-foot skiff in the Gulf Stream 60 miles south of Miami.

He was transferred to a Coast Guard patrol boat which took him to Miami Beach, then was hustled away by U.S. Immigration Service agents.

A tight lid of secrecy was clamped here on the interrogation of Ramirez.

Another Coast Guard spokesman said Ramirez told the investigators that he shot and killed five of the crewmen aboard the 108-foot vessel, then fled the death ship when her engines went dead as she churned toward his Cuban homeland.

ONLY SURVIVOR

The only known survivor of the murder spree was Elvin Burywaise, 17, who hid in terror for 18 hours in a dark, smelly chain locker so small he could not stand erect.

"There is no word on the motive" for the killings, Wahl said.

★

When silence fell over the ship after the bursts of gunfire, Burywaise said, he could tell from his place of refuge that her course was changed southward toward Cuba, but the fuel in her main tanks apparently ran out two hours later.

★ ★ ★

The Coast Guard speculated that whoever was operating the ship did not know how to switch to auxiliary tanks.

THREE BODIES

When the Seven Seas was towed into Key West, Fla., Monday by a Coast Guard cutter, the bodies of three crewmen were found, one on deck and two in their blood-stained bunks below.

The Coast Guard refused to identify the dead, but Mrs. Raul Carcia, wife of the ship's owner, said they were Aldrich Hinds, the first mate; chief engineer Jose Abad; and Antonio Fornier, a seaman.

Burywaise said he also saw Capt. Rogelio Diaz lying dead in a pool of blood on the bridge, but the Coast Guard said a trail of blood leading to the port rail indicated that Diaz was thrown overboard.

The other crew member besides the missing cook, was

219 Cong Die in South Viet Clash

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A large government force attempting to relieve the beseiged special forces camp at Duc Co has killed 219 Viet Cong in a "battle of sizable proportions" that is continuing a U.S. spokesman reported today.

Government casualties — including American dead and wounded — are "moderate," the spokesman said, but added, "I describe them as moderate only because of the large number of troops involved."

A U.S. Air Force F100 was shot down yesterday near Duc Co. The pilot parachuted into territory held by the Viet Cong and efforts by planes and helicopters to rescue him were unavailing.

Another plane, a U.S. Air Force F105, was lost today in the continuing air strikes over North Viet Nam, but the pilot was recovered, the spokesman said. He reported the Thunderchief was shot from a seven-plane formation that knocked out one span of the Vin Tuy bridge, 90 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The Duc Co battle seened to be shaping up as the most sizable engagement since American and Vietnamese forces beat back an attempt by a reinforced Viet Cong regiment in early June to drive them from the hills to the South China Sea in the area of Quang Ngai, 330 miles northeast of Saigon.

★

He said the Viet Cong casualties had been confirmed by body count.

2 TANKS HIT

He reported two government tanks had been knocked out but said the government force had captured 74 Viet Cong weapons.

The government force was battling its way westward along Route 19, the east-west highway through the central highlands, in an attempt to reach the camp five miles from the Cambodian border. Its garrison, now numbering

Johnson Signs Housing Bill

Urges Push to Wipe Out Slums, Squalor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a $7.5-billion housing bill with a new rent subsidy provision and said the nation must press on in this decade to wipe out "the shame of slums and squalor and the blight of deterioration and decay."

"We must make sure," the President said, "that every family in America lives in a home of dignity, in a neighborhood of pride, a community of opportunity and a city of promise and hope."

It was at a ceremony in the White House rose garden that Johnson spoke and then penned his name on what he called landmark legislation that "represents the single most important breakthrough in the last 40 years" in the housing field.

He said it is a landmark bill because of its new ideas.

"Foremost of these is the program of assistance for the construction and the rehabilitation of housing for the elderly and for families of low income—the people who live in the most wretched conditions in our slums and blighted neighborhoods," he said.

Around Johnson were members of Congress of both parties who had a hand in driving the new law to enactment. There were representatives of the building trades and labor unions and the housing industry, seated in folding chairs stretching out across the grass between the long beds of summer blooms on either side.

Motorist Is Charged in Area Auto Death

A Commerce Township man who stopped to help a woman motorist last night was struck and killed by another vehicle.

Dead is Ward S. Byrne, 54-year-old General Motors Corp. executive, who lives at 8438 Golfside.

Earl L. Gruber, 47, of 7429 Sweetbriar, West Bloomfield Township, has been charged with manslaughter in connection with the 9 p.m. accident in West Bloomfield Township.

In two other accidents, a man was electrocuted while working in Independence Township, and a young Oakland County bride lost her life in a car accident in Huron County.

★ ★ ★

Dead are Charles W. Martin, 44, of 2840 Marlington, Waterford Township, and Mrs. Vincent Ruggers, 22, of 10580 Estola, White Lake Township.

Gruber demanded examination today before West Bloomfield Justice of the Peace Christian Powell.

He was released on a $1,000 bond to await preliminary hearing Aug. 17.

Five boys standing with Byrne at the scene of a minor accident also were struck by the car.

Three — Dennis L. McNamara, 17, of 5099 Westcomb, Mark Loveland, 15, of 7165 Henry and Phillip Pascouau, 16, of 2676 Lari, all of West Bloomfield Township — were admitted to Pontiac General Hospital and were in satisfactory condition this morning.

Nixon Tells LBJ to Aim Ire at Dems

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Former Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today that President Johnson should discipline his own Democratic party members on the Viet Nam issue before criticizing the Republicans.

"I think it was quite unfortunate last week that Johnson in a burst of temper hit the wrong target," Nixon said.

The President accused a prominent congressional Republican of violating his confidence and publicizing "untrue and perhaps malicious" untruths about Viet Nam discussions.

Johnson did not name the Republican but some sources said it was House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan. Ford denied he did it.

Nixon, at an airport news conference, said that before Johnson "tries further to discipline the Republicans he should have discipline in his own party on the Viet Nam issue."

Johnson should have criticized those in his own party who oppose his stand on Viet Nam, Nixon said.

Nixon was in Iowa to address ceremonies marking the 91st birthday anniversary of the late President Herbert Hoover at nearby West Branch.

Shortly after Nixon, accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, arrived here, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower came in on another plane.

Eisenhower acknowledged the applause of several hundred persons at the airport.

CASE OF BURSITIS

However, instead of his customary all-embracing gesture with both arms, he raised only his left arm toward the crowd.

Frank Hidinger, airport manager, told newsmen that the former president has a severe case of bursitis.

Fire Follows Explosion at Arkansas Site

Cause of Disaster Is Not Yet Determined; AF Titan 2 Unarmed

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—The death count from an explosion and fire in a Titan 2 missile launching site rose to 53 today with the discovery of six more bodies on lower levels of the underground silo.

"It is very possible this is the final count," said Capt. Douglas Wood, Air Force public information officer at the site.

Searchers planned to pump several feet of water out of the bottom of the concrete tube holding the missile before giving up the search.

The exact number of civilian workmen in the missile complex at the time of the blast and fire yesterday was uncertain.

★ ★ ★

Two workmen scrambled out when the fire erupted and escaped without serious injury.

ORIGINAL COUNT

The Air Force originally said it believed the explosion and fire trapped 48 men in the silo. Later, another Air Force spokesman said the figure should be less definite — "about 50."

Rescue teams wearing asbestos suits and gas masks, and using special gear to breathe in the smoke-clogged silo, worked through the night bringing the bodies to the surface.

The Air Force said the 108-foot Titan II in the tube, an intercontinental ballistics missile capable of delivering a nuclear warhead 6,000 miles, did not burn.

It was not armed, a spokes-

Approve Early Start on Courthouse Wing

An early start on a new courthouse wing won unanimous support of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors this morning.

The board authorized the County Board of Auditors to complete the necessary space and program studies for the proposed east wing and also named an architectural firm for the project.

Tentative plans call for construction of the $1.6 million addition to begin next spring, with completion scheduled in early 1967.

Existing crowded conditions in the courthouse and the need to provide space for the county's 7th and 8th circuit court judges were cited as reasons the new facility was needed immediately.

Its construction was recommended to the full board by the supervisors' ways and means buildings and grounds committees.

★ ★ ★

The Birmingham architectural firm of O'Dell, Hewlett and Luchenbach was retained to prepare preliminary plans and specifications for the new wing.

PREVIOUS WORK

This firm designed the present courthouse facilities.

Harry W. Horton, supervisor from Royal Oak, suggested that the architectural award be held up until the firm corrects what he termed inadequate heating and air conditioning facilities in the existing building.

He voted affirmatively, however, when county officials said that corrections were in process.

In other business this morning, the board authorized a special election in Farmington Nov. 2 on the question of the City of Farmington annexing 560 acres from the township.

A petition for the election signed by over 500 residents of the city and township was submitted last month to the supervisors' boundaries committee.

Greek Spurns King's Offer

Asked to Try to Form a New Government

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Stephanos Stephanopoulos today turned down King Constantine's invitation to try to form a new government to bring this Atlantic alliance nation out of its political crisis.

The former deputy premier went to the royal palace and told the youthful monarch that the King's mandate to him "would have meant an attempt to split the Center Union party."

The party Monday voted its solid support to ousted Premier George Papandreou. By unanimous vote, it told Stephanopoulos to stick by the party and to turn down the king's request to form a new government.

"The king does not want this split at any cost," Stephanopoulos told newsmen after he left the palace.

PAPANDREOU FIRED

King Constantine fired Papandreou July 15 and named George Athanasiadis Novas premier in a dispute over politics in the army. After parliament rejected Athanasiadis Novas last Thursday, Papandreou told the 25-year-old king he would have to recall him to the premiership or call new elections. But the king asked Stephanopoulos to try to form a government.

Youth rallies in Greece's two biggest cities Monday night supported Papandreou's demands and reflected antimonarchy feelings.

Some 10,000 at an Athens theater cried "Papandreou or elections," then marched toward parliament. Some held placards saying "King beware" and "Out with the German Woman" — referring to German-born Queen Mother Frederika.

When police formed a tight circle around the Parliament building the marchers went to another square.

SURVIVOR OF SHIP KILLINGS — Elvin Burywaise, 17, a native of Honduras, is flanked by federal official as he walks past the cargo vessel Seven Seas yesterday in Key West, Fla. Burywaise said a crew member killed the ship's captain and three other crew members. The ship was towed into port by a Coast Guard cutter.

Franco Salomon, the second engineer.

NO WEAPONS

A search revealed no weapons on the ship but spent 38-caliber shells were on the bridge and below.

What happened to the cook, the Coast Guard spokesman said, "is the big question."

Burywaise, who emerged from his hiding place when the vessel was boarded by a Coast Guard party Sunday, said he saw Ramirez shoot the first mate to death in his bunk.

* * *

"I'm lucky to be alive," said Burywaise, a short, slight Honduran.

SEARCH FOR CLUE

A team of federal agents and Coast Guard officials searched the weatherbeaten freighter for a clue as to whether the killings were the act of a crewman gone berserk or a plot to seize command and sail to Cuba.

The Seven Seas had left Miami and was en route to a Tampa dry dock but suddenly changed course for Cuba, Burywaise said.

He said there had been no hint of mutiny—no arguments, no drinking, no complaints about the captain.

* * *

He said he had never even seen the death weapon — believed to be a 38-caliber revolver — until he was leaving the bunkroom about 10:15 p.m. Saturday to go on deck because it was too hot to sleep.

WALKING FAST

"When I was walking out of the room this fellow Roberto Ramirez was coming out of the kitchen," said Burywaise. "He was walking very fast." Without a word, Ramirez leaned over the bunk of the sleeping first mate, Aldrich Hines, and fired three shots into his body, Burywaise continued.

* * *

"I ran up the stairs to let the captain know," he said. He found the captain dead on the bridge.

CLIMBED INSIDE

Burywaise said he bolted aft and ripped open the hatch to the cramped chain locker, climbed inside, snapped the hatch shut and sat on the anchor chain.

* * *

"It was hot and dark," he said. "The sweat ran out of my ears."

* * *

He said he did not hear the shots that killed two more crewmen — one found in his bunk and the other on the deck where he had been sleeping.

Chamber Will Review Proposals on Sign Law

BIRMINGHAM — Revisions proposed in the city's sign ordinance will be reviewed by all divisions of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce before any action is taken by the City Commission.

The chamber was given at least 30 days to consider the merits of the changes after a number of merchants informed the commission last night that they only learned of the proposals earlier in the day.

The amendments would, among other things, prohibit the use of trade names on signs, eliminate the use of temporary signs, and require businesses to turn off their store lights a half-hour after closing.

Commissioner David Breck, who coauthored the proposals with Commissioner Charles Clippert, conceded that the language used in the amendments may be too broad.

* * *

"I'm just concerned over the appearance of the city," said Breck. "I hope we can work with the chamber in straightening out some of these problems."

William Wizner, chairman of the chamber's retail division, told the commission that he believed there was a "level of taste involved" and that possibly something can be worked out between the city and merchants.

"It seems to me that since the prohibition provision is directed at garish temporary signs, it may be possible to eliminate them through policing within the present ordinance," Wizner said.

Several automobile dealers, who felt that the revisions were aimed directly at them, were told by Mayor Robert Page, that the sign ordinance "touches every facet of business and not just automobile firms."

* * *

Knowles Smith, manager of the chamber, said he saw nothing in the proposals that was "irresolvable."

'DISCUSSIONS FUTILE'

Commissioner William Burgum took exception to statements that problems could be worked out through discussions.

"The very people whom this ordinance is directed at are not members of the Chamber of Commerce and couldn't care less," he added.

* * *

"All they are interested in is getting as much as they can out of the city and not in improving its appearance."

Steren Trial Given to Jury in Manistee

MANISTEE (AP)—The Steren Assembly Club gambling conspiracy case was given to a jury for deliberation in Manistee County Circuit Court here today.

There are 20 defendants, all arrested in a raid on the Madison Heights club in October of 1963.

The trial started here July 22 having been shifted on a change of venue from Oakland County. Defendants argued publicity prevented a fair trial at Pontiac.

* * *

The defense lost two attempts Monday to have the case dismissed.

Defense counsel Carlton Roeser asked first for dismissal on grounds the state failed to present a prima facie case. It was denied.

After Assistant Prosecutor Patrick Oliver presented the state's final arguments, Roeser unsuccessfully moved for a mistrial on grounds Oliver had committed "prejudicial error" by "impliedly pointing out that none of the defendants took the stand."

He added, however, "we feel we'll have a better case this time, we've had more time to prepare."

In the Wilkins' trial, one of the jurors said the state came within two votes of conviction, but for manslaughter.

City Will Act on Rezoning

Requested by Planner of Housing Complex

The City Commission is scheduled to act tonight on a recommendation by the planning commission to deny a zoning change for a projected $4 million multiple-housing complex.

The action will come at the regular commission meeting, scheduled to begin at 8 at City Hall.

The zoning change, from Manufacturing 1 to Residential 3, had been requested by Charles L. Langs of Waterford Township.

The developer plans to build a 263-unit complex on a 30-acre tract of land south of East Boulevard, across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

* * *

The Planning Commission has denied the zoning change because of lack of available school facilities.

COMMISSION'S CHOICE

The commission can accept the recommendation from the planners, or approve the zone change themselves.

Langs does not need the zoning change to build the apartments, since the land is already zoned for a less restrictive use.

However, he said he sought the rezoning only to clarify the paperwork involved in the project.

Other action slated for tonight's meeting will include the tabulation of bids received for urban renewal R-20 and R-44 site improvements.

TO RECEIVE PETITION

The commission will also be presented a petition signed by 16 residents urging the city to build public housing for senior citizens in the urban renewal project.

This will be the second consecutive week that this subject has been brought before the council.

man said, and there was no danger of a nuclear explosion.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Cause of the blast and fire has not been determined.

Two men escaped with minor burns from the fiery launching tube, bringing out sketchy details of a sudden blast, fire and smoke.

The men in the tube were civilians working to update the missile complex, one of 18 Titan II launching sites ringing central Arkansas.

* * *

Four Air Force crewmen in the control center of the complex — the most distant point from the launch area — got out unharmed.

NOT HARMED

At least eight other Air Force men and a number of civilians working above ground were not harmed by the blast.

Rescue teams climbed down into the 155-foot deep silo and carried bodies out of the upper levels — about 45 feet below ground level.

Some 100 relatives, clustered in small groups and talking quietly, waited under a full moon in the warm night air for word of the rescue operation.

* * *

Air Force police kept everyone a half mile from the tube.

BROUGHT OUT

The first bodies were brought out at 7:20 p.m., about four hours after the blast.

The site is about 12 miles outside Searcy, a town of 8,000 about 50 miles northeast of Little Rock.

The fire broke out while carpenters, painters, millwrights, electricians and pipefitters were working in the complex.

* * *

The men were employes of Peter Kiewit and Son Co. of Aurora, Colo. The firm said it would withhold identities of the victims until all the men were accounted for.

DIESEL ENGINE

One of the survivors, Hubert A. Saunders, 59, of Conway, a paint foreman, said the fire might have resulted from the explosion of a diesel engine.

"The fire poured into the gun barrel launch tube," he said. "I was in there and so was the bird (missile) so I got out of there."

He said power failed in the silo after the fire flash and he groped his way out an emergency ladder. He was hospitalized for smoke inhalation.

* * *

Another survivor, 18-year-old Gary Wayne Lay of Clinton, a laborer, said:

"It was horrible, I could hear men screaming and crying.

U.S. Rejects Soviet Claim

Reds: Foreign Bases Hamper Arms Talks

GENEVA (AP) — The United States rejected today a Soviet claim that no disarmament progress can be made until all foreign bases are evacuated. It charged that Soviet policy is motivated by the desire to leave weak nations at the mercy of Communist aggression.

* *

The chief U.S. negotiator at the 17-nation disarmament conference, William C. Foster, said the United States seeks no bases in Viet Nam or anywhere else. But it has no intention of abandoning smaller and weaker nations to "the form of aggression which Communists now call wars of national liberation."

* * *

Foster appealed to the Soviet Union to consider urgently the threat of worldwide nuclear proliferation.

* * *

"It is not the kind of threat that can be averted by the actions of any one country, nor can it be averted by focusing our attention on any single country," he said, referring to the Soviet preoccupations with Viet Nam at the talks. "This must be as clear to the Soviet Union as it is to my government."

IGNORING CHARTER

He accused the Russians of ignoring the United Nations charter in demanding the withdrawal of all foreign troops as a condition for disarmament agreement.

* * *

"The Soviet proposal fails completely to acknowledge the right of states to provide for their own defense by entering into agreements for the stationing of troops and bases of friendly countries on their territories," Foster said.

* * *

He accused the Russians of deliberately ignoring this so as to favor their own interests, which seek to forbid smaller or weaker countries from protecting themselves through arrangements with other nations.

Rochester Manager Resigns

Rochester Village Manager Richard N. Don, who said last week he had no intentions of quitting, sent his letter of resignation to the Village Council last night.

Don, who was not at the meeting, said in his brief letter, that he was resigning effective Sept. 1, had enjoyed serving as manager, and regretted not attending the meeting to submit his resignation in person.

The council unanimously accepted his resignation and appointed Assistant Village Manager William S. Sinclair as acting village manager.

Rumors that Don had been asked by the Village Council to resign started a couple of weeks ago when a "for sale" sign was put up in front of his home.

SINCLAIR

It was also rumored that he had been given 60 days in which to leave and that he planned to submit his resignation at last night's meeting.

HEARD RUMORS

Council members contacted for confirmation last week said they had heard the rumors but knew of nothing official.

Friday, Don said he was "very happy here" and had no intentions of banding in his resignation at the council meeting.

At that time he said, "we've got a lot of good programs going here and I don't have plans to leave."

Asked last night if Don had been asked to resign or if he had done so on his own, Council President John Lowes would only say, "you heard the letter."

REPLACED YORK

Don came to Rochester last September to replace Paul York, who went to Troy as city manager. Prior to that, he spent a year as manager in Mount Desert, Maine.

A native of Oregon, he worked for the Oregon Highway Department and in 1961 was made assistant engineer of Albany, Ore.

Sinclair, 31, was hired as village engineer last November to fill a newly created post. Prior to that he spent five years with Birmingham's engineering department.

* * *

A graduate of Lawrence Institute of Technology, Sinclair has a bachelor's degree in civil engineering.

WORKED WITH DON

When he was hired, his job was to work with Don on all improvement programs in town.

He was promoted to assistant village manager in June.

Police Probing Death of Man Following Tip

Pontiac Police are investigating the death of a local man, William Scott, 55, of 581 Clara, last night.

Scott was dead on arrival at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital at 11:36. The cause of death is not known at this time.

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed this morning at Pontiac General Hospital.

Lt. Charles Gale, head of the detective bureau, said that at this time the police have no reason to believe the death was due to anything other than natural causes.

The investigation was prompted when police learned that one of Scott's friends had told hospital officials that he believed the man was intentionally poisoned.

AWAIT RESULTS

Police said it would probably be several days before the results of the tests were known.

One of Sinatra Crew Missing

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. (AP) — A crew member of Frank Sinatra's chartered yacht was presumed drowned today when a dinghy overturned about a half-mile off Marth's Vineyard Island.

A second crewman and two girls swam around for more than an hour until they were picked up by rescurers and brought aboard the Sinatra yacht.

The missing man was identified as Robert Goldfarb, 23, of New Rochelle, N.Y., a third mate aboard the 168-foot luxury yacht Southern Breeze, chartered by Frank Sinatra for a month's vacation on New England waters.

The two girls were Miss Cheryl Navin, 21, of Lincoln, Neb., a senior at the University of Nebraska, and Miss Margaret Whittemore, also 21, of Vineyard Haven and Ft. Launderdale, Fla.

* * *

The name of the second crewman was not immediately available.

Members of the Sinatra party aboard the yacht include television actress Mia Farrow, 19. It has been rumored without substantiation that Sinatra and Miss Farrow might wed despite a 30-year age difference.

U.S. Registrars Sign Up Negroes in 9 Counties

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal registrars begin placing Negroes on the voting rolls of nine Southern counties today — with no questions asked about their intelligence.

And the Justice Department goes to work in the federal courts of Texas, Virginia and Alabama to seek an end to poll taxes as a requirement for voting in state and local elections.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 got up a full head of steam Monday night when Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach — after a day of study and telephone consultations — designated those counties where past experience led him to believe examiners, all regular Civil Service Commission employes, would be needed.

★ ★ ★

The counties are in Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

The first one on the Justice Department's list was Dallas County, Ala. That's where Selma is, and Selma is where racial violence flared last spring just before President Johnson called for legislation to guarantee the right to vote to Southern Negroes.

Immediately upon Katzenbach's announcement of the nine counties in which federal registration will be launched, Chairman John W. Macy of the Civil Service Commission sent two examiners to each.

★ ★ ★

They were to open offices in six post offices, one federal building and two other locations in the nine counties this morning.

Negroes who have been turned away before now may fill out a simple application form — or have it filled out for them if they're illiterate — and be placed on the voting rolls simply by meeting such requirements as age, residence and a record clear of felony convictions.

FINISHING TOUCHES

Meanwhile, Justice Department lawyers put the finishing touches on suits to be filed in Austin, Richmond and Montgomery attacking the state poll tax requirements. These suits are required of the attorney general by the new law. The first was filed Saturday challenging Mississippi's poll tax.

The federal registrars were assigned to Leflore and Madison counties in Mississippi; Dallas, Lowndes, Hale and Marengo in Alabama, and East Caroll, East Felician and Plaquemines Parishes (counties) in Louisiana.

★ ★ ★

Dispatching of federal registrars brought generally critical reaction from officials in the counties affected.

★ ★ ★

Carl Golson, a member of the Lowndes County Board of Registrars in Hayneville, Ala., said the board had been promised that no federal registrars would be sent as long as literacy tests weren't used.

'BROKE AGREEMENT'

Declared Golson: "We lived up to our agreement, but they broke theirs. We bowed, we gave in, but their agreement was not worth a damn."

★ ★ ★

In Demopolis, Ala., in Marengo County, Registrar Taylor Speidle said he had never discriminated against would-be Negro voters.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Prentiss Walker, R-Miss., said in Jackson he thought enforcement of the law was unfair.

The Justice Department refused to discuss what other counties may have been tentatively on the list before it was whittled down to its final form. Katzenbach said he remains "prepared to designate other counties, but withheld doing so immediately in view of indications of compliance, particularly in Georgia."

★ ★ ★

The act suspended literacy tests and applies in its other areas in Alabama, Alaska, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia, 26 counties in North Carolina and one each in Arizona, Idaho and Maine.

Son Sees Cash in Bill Misprint

Hopes It Will Provide Nest Egg for Father

EAST LANSING (AP) — George Mariage, 65, a grocery store operator in Rapid City, collects all sorts of things—coins, antiques and other odds and ends.

So it wasn't surprising that he set aside a dollar bill that came into his store several years ago.

★ ★ ★

In counting cash, he found a 1935 series E $1 bill with the serial numbers, treasury seal and signatures of the treasurer and secretary of the treasury printed upside down.

It was something to show his family and friends.

READ OF RICHES

But Mariage's son, Joseph, 33, East Lansing schoolteacher, found something he thought was surprising. He had read an Associated Press story this year from Tuscaloosa, Ala., about a misprinted $5 bill.

Its owner, Edward E. Vernor, had been saving the bill 12 years and intended to keep it. He said it was similar to a $5 bill owned by a Franklin, Ohio, man, who had been estimated as worth $50,000.

★ ★ ★

" 'Egad,' I thought," said the younger Mariage.

"In the back of my mind was the thought that my father has been operating his store 35 years and never made anything more than just a living. This would be a good surprise for him."

OFFERED $20

Mariage, junior high school social studies teacher, asked his father if he could take the bill and investigate further.

He intends to have an expert appraiser look at it some day, but hasn't so far. One coin collector he talked to declined even to try to guess a value.

★ ★ ★

Mariage also is a bit skeptical whether the bill is worth anything like $50,000. He noted that in the Tuscaloosa case local collectors offered Vernor $20 for his find.

"Still, on the New York market. . ." he mused.

SHOWING OFF

Currently, Mariage is just watching and waiting, and proudly showing off the odd dollar with a happy smile on his face.

He is enthusiastic about it—whether it is worth big money or not.

★ ★ ★

"We'll hang onto it—at least for a while," he said.

3 Brewery Worker Unions OK Contract

DETROIT (AP) — Members of three unions Monday approved a new contract to end a strike at three Detroit breweries which began June 25.

The workers approved the three-year pact after one brewery agreed to rehire seven non-striking millwrights who had refused to cross picket lines and who had been fired.

Park Records Topple in July

Attendance Tops in Huron-Clinton History

Combined attendance at the four largest parks in the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority exceeded 1,359,000 persons in July, it was announced today by Kenneth L. Hallenbeck, director of the authority.

★ ★ ★

This made July the busiest month in the five-county park agency's 17-year history, Hallenbeck said.

The 1965 figure exceeded last year's record of 1,309,000.

Except for Metropolitan Beach, which set a record with over 445,000 visitors in 1964, Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford, Lower Huron Metropolitan Park near Belleville and Stony Creek Metropolitan Park north of Utica equalled or surpassed the July attendance figures of 1964.

★ ★ ★

Hallenbeck noted that the record is a surprising one considering that the Michigan weather in July this year had many record cool days while in 1964 there were 15 days of 90-degree-plus temperatures.

PROMOTE PICNICKING

This year's cooler temperatures seemed to help promote picnicking while the hot days encouraged beach and swimming use, the director said. In 1964 Huron-Clinton swimming and beach facilities received unusually heavy use while picnicking declined.

Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford had 443,000 visitors in July this year compared to 370,000 in 1964, but less than the record of over 483,000 persons set in July of 1958. Kensington Park opened in 1948 for its first public use.

Metropolitan Beach along Lake St. Clair near Mount Clemens recorded attendance of 407,000 this July compared to last year's July record of 445,000. The 1965 figure for July is the second highest on record since Metropolitan Beach opened in 1951.

★ ★ ★

Lower Huron Metropolitan Park near Belleville estimated July attendance at 282,000 this year compared to over 257,000 in 1964. Lower Huron's July record of 348,000 persons was set in 1961.

★ ★ ★

Stony Creek Metropolitan Park north of Utica was visited by 237,900 persons this July compared to 237,400 persons in July of 1964. However the park opened for its first season on July 6 last year and usage was limited to a 26-day period in 1964, compared to 31 days of operation in 1965.

Utica Board Names Junior High Official

UTICA — The board of education last night appointed Alfred McClellan assistant principal of Eppler Junior High School.

He replaces Norbert Lerch, who was recently made principal of Eppler.

McClellan, 38, of 47548 Winthrop was vice principal at Avondale High School last year.

From 1960 to 1964 he taught math at Sterling Junior High and before that at Utica High School.

McClellan received his bachelor's degree in 1950 from Eastern Michigan University. He received his master's degree in 1959 from Bowling Green University, Bowling Green, Ohio.

TOP 4-H FLOAT—Members of the Paint Creek Valley Club pooled their resources to come up with the first-place float in yesterday's Oakland County 4-H Fair parade. A warm but windy day greeted the young paraders, and afternoon showers waited until they had completed their parade up Saginaw Street in Pontiac.

Ideals on Display

Parading Youngsters Show 4-H Zest

Kids, animals, crepe paper and ideas — all were wrapped up in the parade which announced the start of the Oakland County 4-H Fair yesterday.

Some 400 youngsters marched up Pontiac's Saginaw Street bringing with them visual symbols of 4-H ideals.

Theme of the parade was "To Greater Loyalty." Members of 4-H clubs from all over the county had spent many hours on the floats and walking units which depicted that aim.

Judged the best float was the Paint Creek Valley Club's entry which featured a revolving aluminum foil pyramid topped by a globe.

★ ★ ★

The pyramid's four sides were dominated by a cross, a 4-H clover, an outline map of Michigan and one of the United States.

AROUND BASE

Around the base of the float were silhouettes of a head, heart, hands and a cross.

Creators of the second-place float were members of the Bloomfield Hills Club, using a large candle to demonstrate that "4-H Ideals Light the Way to Greater Loyalty."

The Lakeville-Leonard Fontiersmen, appropriately pulling a covered wagon, won third-place float honors.

The Paint Creek Valley Club was awarded a $15 cash prize, while the clubs in second and third places received $11.25 and $10 respectively.

★ ★ ★

Ribbons were given to the floats of the Ro-Hi Club, Rip and Tear Club and Galloway Lake Club.

Behind a large cloverleaf announcing "My Heart Belongs To. . ." marched the best walking unit, that of the Ortonville Club.

Members followed with hearts bearing the names of 4-H projects.

Second-place unit was that composed of the Oak Hill Hillbillies and third-place honors went to the Pontiac Camp Fire Girls.

Prizes were awarded on the basis of workmanship, theme, attractiveness and originality.

Judges were Mrs. Sanford McLean, Pontiac art exhibit coordinator; Stan Rogell, Michigan State Fair representative; and Mrs. E. A. Reitmeyer of The Pontiac Press.

The floats will be seen again tonight during the evening program at the fair.

Landowners Are Polled on Sidewalk Financing

TROY — Property owners in eight areas throughout the school district are being polled by the city to determine if they favor a special assessment for sidewalk construction near their homes.

The board of education has offered to pay half the cost of construction in order to improve walking conditions for schoolchildren.

The board would share the cost on a 50-50 basis up to $1 per lineal foot, the total cost amounting to $16,665.

City Manager Paul York said the engineering department is preparing a cost estimate of the proposed installations.

He said questionnaires are also being sent out to residents asking them if they are willing to pay for the installations.

WERE OPPOSED

In July, he said, the city made a survey along Rochester Road to determine the interest of property owners in the construction of sidewalks.

★ ★ ★

He said the results showed that most of the property owners affected were opposed to paying a special assessment.

"However," he said, "we hope that with the school board's recent decision to participate in the cost that the benefiting property owners will be in favor of the improvement."

Interviews to Inform Fair Visitors on Judging

A roving interviewer will help keep visitors informed during judging in the Coliseum at the Michigan State Fair, which opens Friday evening, Aug. 27, and runs through Labor Day, Sept. 6.

★ ★ ★

Robert McLachlan, director of agricultural exhibits, said the interviews over the loudspeaker system will be with judges, officials of breed organizations, exhibitors of the various animals, and anyone who might be expected to help explain the various aspects of showing and judging the farm animals.

Intramural Program in Clarkston

Junior High Football Okayed

CLARKSTON — The board of education last night approved a contact football program for seventh and eighth graders and authorized purchase of $1,400 in equipment.

It is expected that 65 boys will participate in the new program this fall. Parental consent is mandatory, it was pointed out.

Varsity football coach Ralph Kenyon and Melvin Vaara, junior high school athletic director, will supervise the program, which is designed to teach football fundamentals to seventh and eighth grade boys on an intramural level.

The junior high school, in addition, will continue its after-school touch football program which has proved successful over the past few years.

GROUND BROKEN

Also at last night's school board meeting it was announced that ground has been broken for the nine-classroom addition to Bailey Lake Elementary School, earmarked for completion next March.

In other business, a report was given on the summer driver education program by Dominic Mauti, assistant high school principal.

He indicated that 225 students participated in the 4½-week program and that 217 were issued certificates showing they had successfully completed the course. Eleven cars were used for the instruction.

It was recommended that the minimum age for taking the course be changed. If the recommendation is accepted, a student couldn't enroll in the program unless he reached the age of 16 by Sept. 1 the same year.

Presently, a student may participate in the course if his 16th birthday falls before May 1 of the following year.

Ruling Stalls Try to Regain Office

LAKE ORION — Robert J. Swem's attempt to regain the office of assessor was at least temporarily stymied yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court.

★ ★ ★

A complaint for writ of mandamus filed by Swem June 10 was dismissed by Judge James S. Thorburn because it named the board of trustees (village council) as defendants.

Judge Thorburn termed the defendants "inadequate," explaining that defendants in such a suit must be either corporate bodies or individuals.

The law does not permit bringing suit against a group such as the Congress of the United States a city or village council or a board of trustees, he said.

In this particular case, the defendant would have to be the municipal corporation (the Village of Lake Orion) or individual members of the village council, Judge Thorburn said.

NOT CONSIDERED

The merits of the case were not considered, the judge pointed out, and Swem is free to resubmit the complaint in the manner prescribed by law.

AREA NEWS

Swem said he expects his attorney, David C. Hertler of Pontiac, to file another complaint today.

"I intend to stay in court until the merits of this case are determined," Swem said. "I may lose some battles, but I intend to win the war."

Swem was elected to the office of assessor by a narrow margin in the spring election. He submitted a letter of resignation to the council on April 26, however, because he was unable to obtain the books and records of the outgoing assessor.

LETTER RETURNED

The letter was later returned to him at his request by Village President Clarence Rossman. But at a later meeting the council accepted the resignation despite his objections.

At the same meeting, Rossman announced that he was terminating the contract of Robert V. Parenti, village attorney.

Since that time, Rossman has been at odds with the council over whether or not Parenti could represent or advise the council on any matters.

The council has taken formal action, however, to retain Parenti in all matters pending, and he represented the council yesterday in Judge Thorburn's court.

PARENTI'S MOTION

The judge dismissed the case on Parenti's motion.

A motion to continue the case for a week was entered by Swem's attorney, but it was denied.

Wallace D. McLay, a Waterford Township attorney retained by Rossman, appeared at the morning session of the hearing but did not reappear in the afternoon.

Zone Hearing Reset Sept. 13 in Rochester

ROCHESTER — A public hearing set for last night on rezoning a portion of Parkdale to multiple dwelling was rescheduled for Sept. 13 because a majority of residents had not been contacted.

The developers who requested the rezoning in order to build apartments obtained only seven signatures of the 40 residents to be affected.

Six residents refused to sign but the other 27 apparently were not available.

Village Council President John Lowes said there wasn't a strong indication either way from the residents and instructed the developers to canvass the rest of the property owners.

★ ★ ★

A 24-unit apartment building is planned for the area if the rezoning is approved. The apartments would rent for $150 to $170 for a one bedroom and $180 to $225 for two-bedrooms.

ONE OBJECTOR

Only one resident made his objections to the apartments known at last night's meeting.

★ ★ ★

The council voted to send notices of the next public hearing to all the residents affected.

One of the routes will run from Detroit via the Chrysler Freeway and I-75 to the junction of I-75 and M54 west of Clarkston.

A second will start at the junction of M54 and I-75 west of Clarkston and run along I-75 to west of Bay City.

The third route will be from the junction of I-94 and business I-94 southwest of Kalamazoo and will follow I-94 to M140 near Watervliet.

It was not immediately announced when the new services would begin.

Pick Acting Postmaster

IMLAY CITY — Mrs. Grace A. Matthews of 280 Bancroft has been appointed acting postmaster here, it was announced today by Rep. John C. Mackie, D-Flint.

★ ★ ★

Mackie said Mrs. Matthews had been picked by the Post Office Department to succeed Earl E. Secor who retired June 30. Secor was postmaster for 24 years.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Matthews will serve as acting postmaster until results of a Civil Service Commission open competitive examination for the position are announced.

She will assume her new duties Saturday.

De Gaulle Receives Sharp Financial Jolt

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI) — French President Charles de Gaulle has received a sharp jolt and a warning from an unexpected source — the 21-member Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD).

The international body, which has its headquarters in Paris and whose members are the United States, Canada, Japan and 18 Western European nations, has warned him that the French economy is nowhere near as sound as he would have the world believe.

In a survey published Aug. 5, OECD's anonymous economists said bluntly Gaullist France is suffering from economic stagnation. They warned that unless a strong shot-in-the-arm is given by fall, France would be in for a real economic recession.

The warning could almost be interpreted as a political blow if OECD were not known to be beyond reproach in this respect.

★ ★ ★

Much of de Gaulle's influence and prestige is based on the recent strength of the French economy compared with Fourth Republic days when France was known as the "economic sick man of Europe."

★ ★ ★

De Gaulle has been able in recent years to flex his muscles, hand out millions in foreign aid and build up a fledgling French National nuclear force because of a healthy national economy.

The aging general, though he is not considered much of an economic expert, has said publicly that economic stability, as contrasted with the chronic crisis situation of Fourth Republic Days, is one of the cornerstones of his power policy.

For instance, he has been able to defy the United States and Great Britain in the world's money markets with an odd-man-out decision to go back to a straight gold standard simply because France in recent years has enjoyed a healthy favorable payments balance and has been piling up vast gold and foreign currency reserves.

Two years ago came the first warning bells in the form of new inflation threat. De Gaulle's government slammed on the economics brakes and, in a matter of months, managed to fasten down the lid on sharply mounting wages and prices.

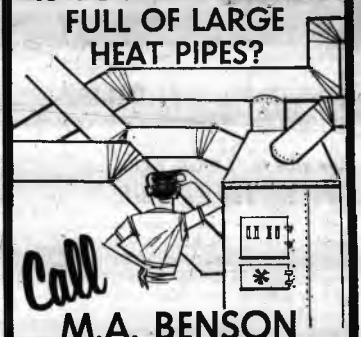

GONE TOO FAR

But French business and the labor unions have been complaining that this now has gone too far.

OECD noted in its survey that economic growth has slumped from 5.7 per cent in 1964 to an estimated 2.5 per cent this year. It estimated real unemployment at 300,000 in a country which had enjoyed full employment for 20 years.

Whether or not to relax the economic squeeze has become a political issue now. Premier Georges Pompidou indicated in a recent radio-television broadcast to the nation that he favored applying stimulants to the economy.

Fruits of Youth Zeal Vie for Judges' Taste

This is Head, Heart, Hand and Health week in Oakland County with Pontiac playing host to the cream of its 10- to 21-year-old youth as they display 4,000 exhibits of their handiwork at the annual 4-H Fair and compete for a wide range of meritorious awards.

Marking the 51st anniversary of the 4-H movement in America, the local observance got under way yesterday with a curtain-raiser parade and will wind up Saturday evening with the contest events of the week's horse showing.

★ ★ ★

The fair climaxes the year-long efforts and achievement of 2,000 4-H members enrolled in 75 clubs that embrace 65 different project divisions in domestic science, animal husbandry, agriculture and self improvement. Some of the contestants have applied themselves to as many as 12 different projects.

A significant national sidelight of the 4-H program is that while the number of U.S. farms is diminishing, the number of 4-H youths engaged in agriculture endeavors is increasing.

One reason for the upswing in this project area among the over-all 2¼ million American boys and girls engaged in 4-H pursuits is the recent emphasis on science in 4-H programming and a quickening interest in working close to nature. The intention of 9 out of 10 farm youths to seek employment elsewhere is another factor.

★ ★ ★

The Press proudly salutes this annual display of enterprise and creativity on the part of the community's young producers.

U. S. Pooches Given No Bone of Contention

The next time some disgruntled character tells you he's living a dog's life, congratulate him warmly.

For there is reason to believe that our dogs may be achieving the Great Society faster than their masters.

The American Pet Products Manufacturers Association reports that Americans are spending $530 million a year to feed their dogs and another $250 million for canine products and services.

This means that while all the 26 million dogs in this country aren't living in luxury, a lot of them are.

Canine clothing comes in sizes for that perfect fit. The well-dressed dog has not only overcoats, earbrows and classy collars, but a raincoat with hood.

★ ★ ★

And there are some dogs, reared in the lap of luxury, that sport chinchilla coats and are bedecked with rhinestones, imitation pearls or other jewels.

Facts like these are bound to provoke sneers and snorts from some humans. But owners who spend this kind of doggy dough get their money's worth in satisfaction. A dog's love and loyalty is heartwarming and genuine, whether the pet is wearing chinchilla and jewels or just common old slacks and jacket.

And don't forget: When this much money is going to the dogs, it helps make sure the nation's economy isn't.

Government Fouls Out in Pollution Record

While stressing the urgency of the water pollution problem that besets America, the Federal Government in combatting it appears to be following the old dictum, "Do as I say, not as I do."

During the last 10 years, Washington has spent $640 million in aid to states fighting water pollution.

But at the same time it has ignored the daily effluence of 19 million gallons of sewage and 2.4 million gallons of industrial waste into lakes and streams from 68 Federal installations.

★ ★ ★

Such is the gist of a Congressional survey that puts the blame on short-sighted government economy and bureaucratic foot-dragging.

To meet the first deficiency, the House Government Operations Committee wants Congress to appropriate $5 million annually for sewage treatment plants on Federal facilities.

To overcome the second deterrent —lethargy—the committee recommends that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — headquarters for Government anti-pollution efforts — make annual surveys of each Federal base to see what is being done about the water it is dirtying up, and to make suggestions for improvement.

Apropos the Government's own record vis-a-vis private industry's in the water pollution area, isn't there something about the pot calling the kettle black?

South Will Feel Vote Act Impact

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

MARLOW

WASHINGTON — The South will never be the same again.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965, throwing the door open for additional thousands of Southern Negroes to vote, should create a political revolution if followed up by Negroes themselves.

Immediately after President Johnson signed the act last Friday, his administration got busy to make it work.

The estimated number of whites of voting age in 11 Southern states outnumber Negroes four to one — roughly 20 million to 5 million — but in some sections Negroes outnumber whites.

No doubt the picture of the South in the years ahead will undergo many changes.

INDIFFERENCE UNTIL NOW

For one thing, many whites eligible to vote but indifferent about doing so until now will surely start going to the polls to offset the increase in Negro voters.

A few figures on the 1964 election — taken from a compilation by the U.S. Civil Rights Commission which gathered them from official and unofficial sources—give an insight into what lies ahead:

In 11 Southern states, only 38 per cent of the estimated number of Negroes of voting age — or 1,907,279 out of 5,000,376 — were registered to vote.

★ ★ ★

In the same states, 67 per cent of the estimated number of whites of voting age were registered, or 13,688,899 out of 20,032,661.

TREMENDOUS DIFFERENCES

There were some tremendous differences in the number of Negroes registered in the Southern states. In Mississippi, which had the lowest percentage of registered Negroes, the figure for Negroes was 6.7 per cent while for whites it was 70.2 per cent.

In Tennessee, with the highest percentage of registered Negroes in the South, the figures were: Negroes, 69.5 per cent; whites, 72.9 per cent.

If Negro leaders can boost Negro registration to 70 per cent for the South as a whole, the effect on elections, certainly in some areas within the states, will be indisputable.

★ ★ ★

Step by staggering step in this century, the government, through one branch or another has moved to assure equal treatment for Negroes in schools, transportation, public accommodations, jobs .

New Version Of Speaking Softly

David Lawrence Says:

Is New 'Constitution' in Effect?

LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The United States of America apparently has a new "constitution," thought it has never been submitted by Congress to the states of the union for ratification or rejection.

The structure came into being nevertheless with the assumption by Congress of new powers enumerated in the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and now further enlarged by the voting-rights law signed on Aug. 6, 1965, by President Johnson.

The new "constitution" declares, in effect, that, with or without the approval of the president, Congress may at any time make laws based on the following "findings" or conclusions:

● Congress possesses the power to pass a law requiring a prescribed "racial balance" in public schools and directing that pupils shall be transported from one school to another irrespective of residence in a particular school district.

● Congress possesses the power require that each school shall have a specified percentage of Negroes, Protestants, Catholics and Jews, based on census statistics in a given area.

★ ★ ★

● Congress possesses the power to order the removal of any school superintendent or members of any school board who do not conform to the orders of the U.S. Department of Justice in taking the steps deemed necessary by the federal government to eliminate what it considers a form of discrimination.

Federal school superintendent or special "examiners" could be sent out to various districts to correct "racial imbalance" in any school.

● Congress possesses the power to order federal funds withheld from a state as a whole or from any county or city therein whenever the statistics are interpreted by Congress as indicating a suspicion that discrimination by reason of race or color or religion may have occurred in the employment practices of a contractor, subcontractor or supplier of products or services having any connection with government contracts which cover public works or any other federal project.

★ ★ ★

● Congress possesses the power to order the suspension of all tests or other methods used in qualifying would-be voters whenever the statistics can be construed to mean that there appears to have been a "racial imbalance" in the number of persons voting — as for instance when less than 50 per cent of residents of voting age registered or voted in 1964.

Congress has the power to alter at will the required proportions.

● Congress possesses the power to make a "finding" and then require every residential-building project -- or single-family home -- financed or insured directly or indirectly by the federal government or its mortgaging agencies to be inhabited by a certain racial or religious ratio in a given area.

The theorists who have evolved the new "constitution" have argued ever since the New Deal that the method of changing the original Constitution as prescribed in that document is "too difficult" and "time-consuming" and that, if an objective is meritorious, it doesn't matter what means are used.

This concept, in effect, assumes that it is right to alter any signed contract without the consent of the other parties to the agreement. This is but another way of saying that "the end justifies the means."

A Supreme Court majority in the last few years has always concurred in some of the basic principles of the new "constitution" and in various decisions has rationalized these fundamental concepts as in keeping with "the spirit of the times."

This trend now can be reversed only by electing someday a president and a new majority in Congress dedicated to the original Constitution and to the amending process it has specifically prescribed for the making of changes in the law of the land whenever desired by the people.

Weeding Out Memorabilia Proves a Bittersweet Job

By BOB CONSIDINE

CONSIDINE

ALLENHURST, N.J. — Bittersweet is the only term that comes to mind as I help my wife browse through the memorabilia of years lived in a dear old house near the shore.

"We've got to be ruthless," my wife says while attempting to throw away a fat package of poems her mother composed for each of our children before they could read. Somehow the package sticks to her hand, as if penned in magnetic ink. "Well, we'll save these," Millie decides, "but let's not be chicken about this job.

"We've got to discard a ton of these things . . . What are you reading? And whatever it is, let's get rid of it."

"Piece I wrote about Bill Corum for Collier's umpteen years ago."

★ ★ ★

"Well . . . that's different. But no more, we've simply got to . . ." her voice trailed off. She was reading Barry's report card from the first grade and obviously deriving satisfaction from the fact that he had received a sparkling B-plus in mudpies.

MUST KEEP IT

"Throw it out, we've got to be ruthless," I ordered.

★ ★ ★

"How could you say a thing like that? It's things like this—only things like this, we must keep. What's that crazy thing you're holding? Get rid of it."

The callous command drew all the blood out of my face, and momentarily I wondered what it would be like living the life of a bachelor after 34 years of ball and chain.

★ ★ ★

I was looking at a carved water buffalo with a busted clock in its belly, presented to me as a souvenir of the inaugural flight of Uganda Airlines. I treasure it among my dearest possessions.

That's the way it has been going ever since the big retrenchment.

There's only one solution to a let's-get-rid-of-everything crises. Get a bigger house.

States' Power May Slip Further

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The 50 states are at a critical point. Their already shrunken power may slip entirely from their grasp if they go on trying to run their affairs on a kind of bargain - basement part-time footing.

For 30 years, defenders of state legislatures have been moaning about usurpations of power by Congress and the federal executive branch. But the defenders have not had the courage of their convictions. They have done little to fit the states to the changing times.

Today the combined 50-state outlay for legislative administration, including the important item of legislators' salaries, comes to $70,557,000 a year—an average of just $1,411,400 per state.

In contrast, expenditures for operations in Congress come to $166,000,000, or more than double the annual state figure.

★ ★ ★

To maintain the nearly 7,800 state legislators from Maine to Hawaii costs an average of $9,066 for each legislative seat. The nation lays out $382,000 to keep each congressman in business.

Until this situation is sharply altered, along with other now depressing conditions in the state legislatures, it sounds terribly hollow and even hypocritical to talk of "turning power back to the states."

★ ★ ★

This would mean handing crucial authority over to thousands of men and women who are painfully ill-paid, who operate out of cubbyhole offices or none at all, who make laws almost on the fly and spend most of their time earning a living as lawyers, insurance men, real estate brokers, chiropodists and the like.

As one shrewd aide to a governor has pointed out, the country's growth compels that these matters be dealt with more than ever in the field rather than in Washington. The mounting danger is that those states which persist in their ineffectuality for obstinate resistance to a changing order will be bypassed. Action will flow increasingly through direct federal-urban channels.

★ ★ ★

Already well publicized is the fact that several lavishly sponsored nonpartisan groups are undertaking studies aimed at modernizing state government in all its aspects. Admirably, the big foundations are chipping in heavily.

None of these studies is potentially more useful than that of the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures, whose formation was formally announced in Detroit in mid-July.

The whole bent of this group is toward laying groundwork for upgrading the legislatures, on the theory that they are the real key to overall improvement in state government. Implied is the notion that even a greatly modernized governor's office cannot function well if hamstrung by a rickety legislature.

★ ★ ★

The Citzens Conference, which is setting up national offices in Kansas City, Mo., under former Gov. John Anderson of Kansas, wants to see legislators gain better pay, more professional staffing, fuller research opportunities, adequate office and other physical facilities, sounder organization and procedure.

If and when these improvements can be managed, the states may become fit to handle more of the major matters which they keep insisting are theirs by right. And state legislators may become men of stature whose names on the ballot will be recognized by persons other than their party sponsors.

But if the modernizing drive fails, then to talk of restoring power to the states will mean to suggest giving them power to do nothing or very little — and much of that poorly.

'Public Is Still Concerned About Boy Killed by Boat'

After reading the feature stories in the newspapers about the death of Alan Akerley, I was touched at knowing his death is still of great concern to the public as well as his loved ones.

★ ★ ★

We miss Alan terribly and it seems like a nightmare to think that someone driving a speeding boat hit and killed my brother and then left the scene of the accident.

★ ★ ★

As each day goes by with no news, we can only hope that some of the occupants of the boat that killed Alan will come forward or that some of the tips referred to the police department will be fruitful. Perhaps then everyone can sleep.

Reader Says Viet Nam War Will Continue

I think the war in Viet Nam is going to go on a couple years longer to decrease population and make times good while the present administration is in office, by Truman's example. The war makes plenty of work in factories to produce war materials.

A CONCERNED PONTIAC RESIDENT

'Highways Choked by Growth in Population'

So our governors emerge from a parley with widening concern and wisps of despair over the bigness of everything. The gigantic Federal Interstate Highway System will not cope with the choking traffic when our population reaches 225 million by 1975, and the schools' burdens are preposterous by today's standards. Yet, the immigration policy is to go through major reforms like lifting the quota system whereby 340 thousand Europeans will be permitted to immigrate to the U.S. each year.

'Right War, Right Place, Wrong Soldiers'

We consider Viet Nam the right war in the right place and at the right time—but with the wrong soldiers. This war must not be an exclusive American commitment for it is the confrontation of the West with international communism, i.e., with Red Russia and Red China.

Surgeon General Quits

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson is looking for the "most adventurous and most imaginative doctor in this country" to succeed Luther L. Terry as U.S. Surgeon General.

Johnson yesterday unexpectedly announced Terry's resignation to become vice president of the University of Pennsylvania. The President said an immediate search would be launched for a replacement.

The 53-year-old Terry was a preinauguration appointee of the late President John F. Kennedy. He got headlines across the nation last year when a panel he appointed reported a connection between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

The report caused Terry and thousands of other Americans to switch from cigarettes to a pipe. It also put him under heavy fire from tobacco interests.

★ ★ ★

In a recent interview, Terry acknowledged he had been under considerable pressure but that he was more convinced than ever of the report's findings and had no intention of backing down.

He said the tobacco industry had tried to cloud the issue with a "smoke screen" of fallacious statements.

Eyes Meaning of Word 'God'

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The word "God" means different things to different people today and many exceptions may be found to any judgment about its use, a prominent theologian told the Second International Ecumenical Conference here.

Prof. Paul Van Buren of Temple University made the observation in prepared remarks at the four-day conference sponsored by Western Michigan University's Medieval Institute.

★ ★ ★

"Perhaps no word in modern English has so many various and contradictory uses as the word 'God'," Van Buren declared.

A new note is being struck from both Catholic and Protestant sides, Van Buren said. The issue of theism versus atheism is being felt more and more to be not the only way of posing the issue of Christian faith, he explained.

QUESTION OF MAN

"It would seem that the question of man is being increasingly recognized as essential to what Christian faith is about, and that the question of God is at least potentially misleading," he said.

Van Buren was the featured speaker as the conference opened its second day's session. The program includes a panel forum in which Van Buren was joined by Dean Samuel Miller of the Harvard Divinity School, Prof. William Lynch of St. Peter's College, and Prof. Avery Dulles of Woodstock College. Dulles is the son of the late Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles.

Hearings Air N.Y. Role in Lake Erie Pollution

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The question of whether pollution of the eastern end of Lake Erie is an intrastate or interstate problem loomed as the major issue before U.S. Public Health Service hearings that begin today.

* * *

Hinging on the answer is whether New York will join Michigan, Ohio and Indiana in supporting efforts by the PHS to abate public and private pollution of the lake and its tributaries.

* * *

New York's position was expected to be given by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The PHS outlined specific recommendations for pollution abatement programs in a 122-page report on Lake Erie. The report named municipalities and industries which the agency said have contributed to the pollution.

TOTAL PROBLEM

A conference in Cleveland, Ohio, last week considered the total problem of Lake Erie pollution and details of pollution at the western end of the lake. The sessions in Buffalo this week will consider pollution at the eastern end. The hearings were called at the request of Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio.

The issue over jurisdiction of pollution problems at the eastern end of the lake was raised last month by Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, New York State health commissioner, who termed it a problem for the state only.

About $9 million is being spent annually on traffic safety, according to the National Safety Council.

Circus Plans 2 Shows Here

Lions Club to Benefit From Ticket Receipts

The Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus is coming to town!

There will be performances tomorrow at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. in a lot on Elizabeth Lake Road near Telegraph behind the Pontiac Mall.

There are 600 people with the big show, representing about every state in the union and 18 foreign countries.

There are 200 animals in the circus, including the famous Clyde Beatty cats.

The Pontiac Lions Club is sponsoring the appearance of this circus, and will share in the receipts.

Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children. "Doors" open an hour before showtime. There are no reserved seats.

RARE INSTANCE—Top performers with the fast-moving Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus seldom have time for chitchat, and chances are they don't speak the same language, for 18 foreign countries are represented. Here Rosemary Dennis, aerialist, chats with three clowns. The circus will give two performances here tomorrow, sponsored by the Pontiac Lions Club.

Marriage Adviser Law Is Predicted

DETROIT (AP) — The legislature will pass next year a measure licensing and setting training standards for marriage counselors, Senate Majority Leader Raymond Dzendzel predicted Monday.

Dzendzel said a Senate committee would begin hearings on the question soon.

Regulations such as those in a bill now before the Senate Education Committee "should enable us to get rid of the quacks and others who aren't really qualified to practice in this important field," Dzendzel said.

Soviets Use Picture to Verify New Missile

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet military newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) published a picture of a globe radar tower and a rocket mount today to support a claim that a new antimissile missile had been put into operation.

The equipment shown appeared to be like equipment displayed previously.

A message of importance for men and women who are concerned about their health

If you're over 40, Kidney and Bladder ailments strike far more often

Now is the time to do something about it!

After 40, you're reaching the age when you're more susceptible to illnesses which are common to middle age. Among the most distressing are kidney-bladder disorders. If you've ever suffered them, you well know the pain and embarrassment involved. To help relieve kidney-bladder conditions, many doctors suggest drinking 6-8 glasses daily of spring-pure Mountain Valley Water. That's because its diuretic (kidney-flushing) effect steps up kidney action, helps you eliminate body wastes faster. Mildly alkaline, it gently soothes bladder irritation.

What's more, Mountain Valley Water is "light," non-filling, non-laxative . . . and tastes wonderful! Regular daily use can make a positive contribution to continued good health. Costs only pennies a glass . . . less than a soft drink.

TARGET OF PAINT — A demonstrator against the war in Viet Nam speaks up yesterday in Washington, D.C. after red paint was tossed on him near the Capitol. As more than 500 marchers approached the Capitol grounds, two young men darted from a crowd of onlookers and threw paint in the faces of demonstrators in the front rank.

Senator Says Farm Bill Has About 50-50 Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Milton R. Young rates chances for passage of a general farm bill this year as little better than 50-50.

Young, North Dakota Republican who is the second-ranking GOP member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, discussed the bill in an interview in which the questions and answers went like this:

★ ★ ★

Q. Do you feel that enactment of a farm bill is necessary this year? Why?

A. Enactment of new, farm-price-support legislation is absolutely necessary, particularly for wheat, feed grains, wool, cotton and sugar. The present legislation expires with this year's crop and if Congress does nothing at all there will be only very low price supports left for some of these crops and none at all for others.

WHEAT LAW

The present wheat certificate law set aside the compulsory wheat certificate act for a two-year period. Unless new legislation is enacted, farmers again would have to vote in a referendum on the compulsory, wheat certificate law and, no doubt, it would again be disapproved. Should this be the case, price supports would only be at 50 per cent of parity and then only to those who comply with acreage allotments.

★ ★ ★

Q. Are you satisfied with terms of the farm bill approved by the House Agriculture Committee?

A. The farm bill approved by the House Agriculture Committee deals with many farm commodities. It would extend the present wheat and feed grain programs for a four-year period with some modifications. It would mean some slight improvement over the present program, but I believe there still is much to be desired. It is still too complicated and does not provide as high a level of price support as is necessary to meet the sharply increasing costs of farm operations.

Q. What form would you like to see the measure take? What crops should be included?

A. This is a very broad question that would take several pages to even commence to explain what it is all about and how it should be corrected. The bill does include price support programs for all the farm commodities that would have to be renewed with the exception of sugar. Sugar should also be included. The most important changes would be that of increasing the level of price support and of making the program simpler.

★ ★ ★

Q. As a ranking member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, what chances do you see for approval of an omnibus-type bill?

A. Opposition to farm-price-support legislation has been increasing in Congress year by year. I would think that there is little better than a 50-50 chance of an omnibus farm bill being approved by Congress before adjournment.

260 Arrested

Viet Demonstrators March on Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police whistles blew, red paint splattered and a march on Capitol Hill to protest U.S. policies in Viet Nam ended in noisy confusion with the arrest of 260 persons who defied police orders and staged a sit-down.

Most of those arrested — about half of the estimated total of 500 demonstrators — were charged with two counts of disorderly conduct.

★ ★ ★

Their cases were handled in Washington's first night session of police court in 10 years.

Those who pleaded guilty before the three judges received varying sentences: $50 or 30 days in jail, $25 or 5 days and $25 or 3 days.

TRIALS LATER

Those who pleaded innocent were scheduled for trial later in the week.

The demonstration ended four days of meetings and picketing by the newly formed Assembly of Unrepresented People. Most of its members also belong to civil rights organizations and then sang "We Shall Overcome" and "Freedom" as they marched Monday.

★ ★ ★

In the early planning stages, leaders had said the group would try to invade the House of Representatives to pass its declaration of peace.

This proposal was dropped, however, and a statement calling for peace for all the people of Viet Nam was adopted as the group sat on a hot sidewalk in 90-degree weather.

PAINT TOSSED

Shortly before the mass arrests, two men later identified as followers of the American Nazi party jumped from a crowd of onlookers to hurl red paint at the marchers.

"They're Commies, all of them!" the two shouted. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

Among those hit by the paint were newsmen and march leaders Staughton Lynd, an assistant professor of history at Yale University, and Robert Moses Parris, a leader in the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and Mississippi's Freedom Democratic party.

Parris, Lynd and two others at the front of the line were arrested when they ignored police orders and headed for the Capitol steps.

SOME RETREAT

At this, many of their followers sat down to pass their peace resolution. Others retreated.

Police warned the sitters to move within 10 minutes or face arrest.

The meeting continued with individual statements.

★ ★ ★

An hour and five minutes later, James M. Powell, chief of the Capitol police, repeated:

"You've made your point, I think, and now I ask you to please leave the Capitol grounds."

When there was no response, four-man teams of officers moved in to carry the demonstrators to waiting buses and paddy wagons.

★ ★ ★

Each arrested demonstrator was photographed. Deputy Chief of Police Howard V. Covell said this was routine in mass arrests.

Senator Rips Trade Pact for Auto Parts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said today the free trade agreement on automobile parts between the United States and Canada can lead only to disaster.

The agreement was negotiated by the two governments and is awaiting congressional approval. The House already has approved it.

★ ★ ★

Nelson said in a speech for the Senate that the agreement would be damaging to businesses in Wisconsin and other parts of the nation.

"This is no free trade," Nelson said. "It simply amounts to guaranteeing Canadian firms a certain portion of our present market.

SEES SACRIFICE

"It would sacrifice established American businesses, jobs and production, which would simply be handed over to Canada. This is outright subsidization of Canadian auto production."

A Wisconsin firm, Modine Manufacturing Co. of Racine, complained recently it was losing its market for automobile radiators through what it considered unfair Canadian competition.

★ ★ ★

Nelson said U.S. auto manufacturers were buying Canadian radiators even though they were no cheaper than those made by Modine. Canada was encouraging this by a complicated "duty remission" scheme, he said.

Romney Orders Surveys for Reorganization Plans

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney put the final set of wheels in motion Monday as the state moved toward complete overhaul of the executive branch of government.

He named task forces to survey and develop internal reorganization plans for five of the 19 new state departments authorized by a recently signed bill.

★ ★ ★

The departments include: licensing and regulation, commerce, labor, treasury, and administration.

Romney ordered the heads of 14 other departments which will continue as major agencies to conduct surveys and develop plans for their departments immediately after he signed the bill into law July 23.

Romney directed each of the task forces to "conduct a comprehensive survey of the department to which it is assigned, and to develop and submit an internal reorganization plan not later than Dec. 1."

Based on the task force recommendations, Romney will issue executive orders implementing the legislative act which established the 19 major departments.

Reorganization of the 130-plus state departments, commissions, boards, and agencies into not more than 20 principal departments was ordered by the 1963 state constitution.

The chairmen of the task forces "were selected for that purpose alone and have not been named tentatively or otherwise as department heads," Romney said.

CHAIRMEN NAMED

They include:

Licensing and regulation — Lenton Sculthorp, corporations and securities commissioner.

Commerce — Peter Spivak, chairman of the Public Service Commission.

★ ★ ★

Labor — Malcolm Lovell, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Treasury—Allison Green, acting auditor general.

Administration — Glenn Allen Jr., state controller.

Bomb Plant at Draft Board Being Probed

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Mystery today surrounded an attempt to blow up the draft board in suburban St. Ann with a powerful homemade bomb.

Police said today they could find no motive for the sabotage attempt which was stymied Sunday night.

Demolition experts from the Army depot at nearby Granite City, Ill., took the bomb yesterday, placed in beneath six 35-pound sandbags and detonated it.

Authorities said the bomb "tore up the bags."

★ ★ ★

A draft board official who declined to be named said there had been no threats against the board.

"Of course, we've had more action concerning Viet Nam and more tightening on classifications," he said. "We've had more activity but we've had nothing unusual for this type of situation."

Must British Muffle Prince's Opinions?

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) — As Queen Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip has been acting as a national gadfly to sting a torpid Britain into action.

PHILIP

When not urging industry to modernize Philip is busy warning his wife's subjects that they are destroying the countryside and polluting its rivers with their pesticides and careless habits.

In between, he exhorts everyone to greater efforts in the export drive.

The Duke of Edinburgh is closely identified with schemes to build more sports arenas and to develop greater initiative and athletic prowess on the part of Britain's youth.

★ ★ ★

He even finds time to say a few words about increasing trade with Latin America.

CONTROVERSY

Recently, however, the prince blundered when he spoke off the cuff on the problem of Rhodesia, and as a result efforts are being made here to muzzle him from discussing any controversial topic.

African leaders are in a hurry to see majority rule installed in Rhodesia, as they made plain at the recent Commonwealth prime ministers' conference. But Philip took an opposite view.

Speaking at Edinburgh University, the prince urged patience and caution. It was better to spin out negotiations for African majority rule than "to risk a blood bath," he said. A few years would not matter one way or another, he concluded.

★ ★ ★

Twenty-three Labor members of Parliament immediately signed a motion of censure.

POLITICAL OPINIONS

While the motion did not mention Philip by name, it stated as "a condition of constitutional monarchy that royalty shall not give public expression to contentious political opinions."

Most Britons feel that it would be a pity if the royal gadfly were deprived of its sting. Prince Philip has merely been talking common sense, in the majority opinion. He has been saying things that needed to be said.

In this connection, the tragic precedent of Prince Albert, the husband of Queen Victoria, is being recalled.

★ ★ ★

Almost from the moment of his marriage until his death, Albert was a target for continual public abuse, much of it of a petty nature.

CONSORT TITLE

The British nation even begrudged him the title of Prince Consort, which was withheld from him until 17 years after his marriage.

The position of being consort to the Queen of England is, as Albert once put it, "most peculiar and delicate."

King Leopold of the Belgians thought that the consort should be a "walking dictionary" for the Queen's handy reference.

★ ★ ★

Queen Victoria, herself, at first visualized her consort as a human blotter. "Albert helped me with blotting paper" is an entry which occurs frequently in her early diaries.

NOT CONTENT

But Albert was too spirited to be content with this role. He studied the British Constitution, gradually was given access to state papers and allowed to attend audiences of cabinet ministers with the Queen.

By 1845, Charles Greville noted in his diary that Albert "is really discharging the functions of the Sovereign. He is King to all intents and purposes."

Albert's unpopularity was partly due to the fact that he was a German princeling, partly to his own tactlessness. Every time he opened his mouth, he alienated people.

His remark that "no tailor in England can make a coat," was resented, as was his frank statement to a clergyman that in England "there is nothing to do but to turn rogue or marry."

LAST STRAW

When he declared that "the Poles are as little deserving of sympathy as the Irish," he succeeded in making two sets of enemies.

The height of his unpopularity came in 1853 when crowds flocked to the Tower of London expecting the prince to be imprisoned for his alleged proRussian sympathies during the Crimean War.

Aside from a lively mind and an interest in science and technology, Prince Philip has little in common with his Victorian forebearer. Philip is outgoing and relaxed; Albert was stiff-necked and secretive.

Albert lacked a sense of humor; Philip has this in abundance, as those who have heard his off-record remarks at various luncheons and dinners can testify.

Junior Editors Quiz on BICYCLES

QUESTION: Were the first bikes fast like the ones we ride today?

* * *

ANSWER: The first bikes were much slower than modern ones. Our picture shows an ancester of the modern bicycle, the "walk-along." You could kick it along a bit faster than a normal walk.

This may have been slow, but it probably seemed like flying to the people of the time.

And think of the big thrill when you lifted your feet off the ground and went coasting downhill, dodging ruts and cobblestones!

The "wooden horse" of the 1830's and the "boneshaker" of the '60's were a step ahead, because the riders' feet were off the ground, working the pedals.

Although these machines were faster, the rough roads and hard wheels probably kept the speed down. The "high wheeler," introduced in the 1820's, was quite fast, but it was difficult to balance on top of that enormous wheel, and one probably had to pay more attention to balance than to speed.

Accidents led to the invention, in 1880, of the two-wheeled "safety bicycle," much like our modern variety. In 10 years, rubber tires had appeared.

With better roads, people began to pedal furiously along at 15 or more miles an hour. The "bicycle age" had arrived — in 1896, four million people were using them!

FOR YOU TO DO: Have fun with your bike — but don't forget to use a few precautions. Give a hand signal before you turn, watch the movements of cars as they park or leave the curb, always give the right of way to pedestrians and obey traffic lights.

To keep your wall in time — and to provide display room for treasures — here's a handsome grandmother shelf clock by the Hanson Clock Mfg. Co., in solid cherry, finished in fruitwood. The clock has battery movement. Style No. 729 retails for about $139.

For a Decorator Touch

Timepieces Set Pace

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Shadows were man's first clocks. By noting their position and length, he could tell approximately what time of day it was.

* * *

We've come a long way from that kind of time keeping. Today's atomic clocks — which few of us have or have even seen — are so accurate that they will gain or lose only a few seconds in 100,000 years.

Most of us are satisfied to have clocks that are reasonably accurate.

* * *

In the 1300's a clock was invented that contained wheels, dial and an hour hand. By 1700, a pendulum, a minute hand and a second hand had been added.

The principles of clocks haven't changed much since then.

But their looks have.

FIT THE ROOM

Today's clocks have become important accessory pieces in a room.

* * *

One doesn't pick a kitchen clock to mount on the wall in the living room. Nor would one buy a fancy French timepiece to use in an informal family room.

* * *

With the great array of modern clocks from which to choose, all you have to do is decide the style you want, then look around until you find it.

* * *

Clocks stand on the floor, hang on the wall or sit on furniture. They're wound by keys, run by batteries or plugged into an electric outlet.

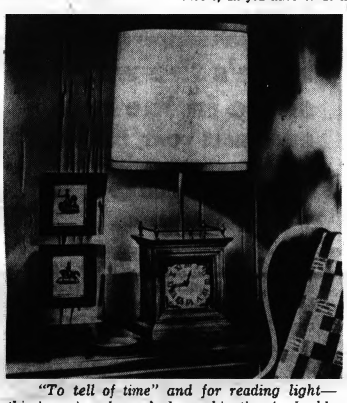

* * *

You can still get tall grandfather clocks, or shorter grandmother clocks; they're not cheap, but they are the perfect clock for certain homes.

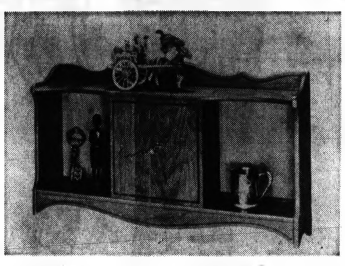

* * *

You can get clocks that are combined with what-not shelves, planters and decorative wall plaques.

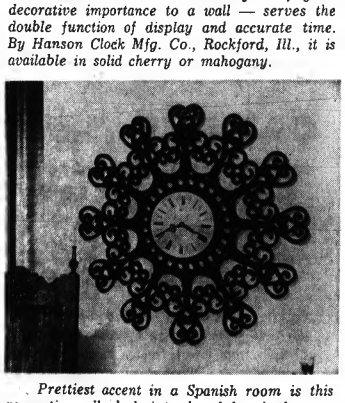

Clocks are a timely subject.

"To tell of time" and for reading light— this ingenious lamp-clock combination is doubly functional. By Tell City Chair Co., Tell City, Ind., it is in Americana design with brass gallery around the top. The face is painted on glass for three-dimensional effect. Shade is plain fabric, a documentary Americana print, or in burlap in gold, red, or green color. Both clock and lamp operate on one electric cord. Retails for about $69.95.

For rooms without fireplace mantels, this clock combined with an accessory shelf gives decorative importance to a wall — serves the double function of display and accurate time. By Hanson Clock Mfg. Co., Rockford, Ill., it is available in solid cherry or mahogany.

Prettiest accent in a Spanish room is this romantic wall clock introduced by Arabesque. The intricate filigree work complements today's Mediterranean styles. Arabesque offers a choice of 8-day key wind movement or battery mechanism and a choice of antique black or verdigris jade finishes.

Ashtrays Close By for Guest

By the Emily Post Institute

To the many hostesses who ask how they can protect their possessions from careless guests, the answer is that hospitality need never be helpless.

It is true that after a guest had burned a hole in the upholstery or a groove on a table edge, nothing can be done about it, although the guest should insist on paying for whatever repairs are necessary.

But when a hostess sees a smoker pick up an ornament of value to use in place of an ash tray, she can certainly take it away and put an ash tray in its place.

Perhaps she says nothing or perhaps she smiles and says, "Let me give you this," as though she were thinking of the smoker's convenience.

* * *

A wise hostess also sees to it that there is an ash tray within easy reach of every seat in her house that may be occupied by a smoking guest.

RECEPTION

Q: My daughter was married last year while she was studying abroad. We never met her husband.

They are coming home for a visit the end of the month, and while they are here I would like to give a reception so that our friends and relatives can meet him.

Will you please tell me if there should be a receiving line, and if so, who stands in it, and by whom is my son-in-law introduced?

* * *

A: There should be a receiving line. You, as hostess, stand first at the door of entrance, your daughter stands next and her husband next to her.

Your daughter introduces each arriving guest to her husband.

CHAPERONED

Q: I am engaged to a widower who has two daughters. One is 10 and the other 12.

My fiance and his daughters are taking a motor trip to the West Coast and he has asked me to go along. Would it be proper for me to go with them?

* * *

A: I'm sorry, but your fiance's daughters would not be considered adequate chaperones and you will risk criticism if you go with him on this trip.

"MR."

Q: My given name is one that can easily well be that of a woman as well as a man. When I sign my letters without title (which I believe is correct), I am invariably addressed Miss . . . in return.

Under the circumstances, would it be permissible to sign my full name with Mr. preceding it?

* * *

A: You cannot sign a letter with "Mr." as an unseparated part of your signature, but you can quite properly write Mr. in parentheses before your name.

* * *

Details concerning the announcement of an engagement are described in the Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Announcing the Engagement."

Drip Talked Too Much but What About Yourself?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and I have a boyfriend I'll call "Bruce." He's my age, but he's a year ahead of me in school.

ABBY

His folks left town, but didn't take their car, so Bruce called and asked me if I wanted to go for a ride with him.

It was night time and my parents were out for the evening. I don't have permission to go in cars with boys, and Bruce doesn't have a driver's permit, but I said, "Okay, for just a short drive."

He picked me up and we drove around where no one would see us.

Well, my mother found out about it and she told my Dad and now I am grounded for two weeks!

Mother said she heard it from the mother of one of Bruce's friends, who said that Bruce was bragging all over the place about how he took me for a ride.

Should I be mad at the woman who told my mother? Or should I be mad at Bruce for letting this leak out?

GROUNDED

DEAR GROUNDED: If you must be "mad" at someone, try yourself. Bruce may have been responsible for the "leak," but that's what you get for going with a drip. You had it coming.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am new in this neighborhood and want to be on friendly terms with my neighbors, but here is my problem:

Whenever I see this certain neighbor, she says "Why don't you drop in for coffee sometime?"

I never have because I am not sure when it is convenient for her to have me.

I saw her this morning at the grocery store and she said, "I'm hurt!

"You never did accept my invitation to drop in for coffee." I wonder if I should take her up on it and just drop in sometime?

I just hate popping in on people. I don't want this woman for an enemy. How should I handle this?

TO GO OR NOT TO GO

DEAR TO GO: Not all "drop-in-sometime" invitations are sincere. The next time your neighbor extends such an invitation, ask her when it would be convenient for you to come.

And further to show your willingness to be friendly, invite her to your home for coffee. But name the time.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to a newspaper for advice before, but I have discussed this with my minister, and he gave me no satisfaction whatsoever, so I am writing to you.

I lost my son through a terrible accident. He had been married only a year and a half at the time of his death.

He and his wife had no children. My son was well insured, so his wife was left a large amount of money.

She recently married again and is spending my son's money on this new husband of hers. I should think her conscience would hurt her.

And I should think this new husband would feel awfully cheap living on a dead man's money.

Do you believe that people get paid back for their wrongdoings? My son meant the world to me, and it is very hard for me to have to sit back and watch this go on. What can be done?

SAD MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The money your son left belongs to his wife because obviously he wanted it that way.

I see no "wrongdoing" here. If you are looking for someone who will find fault with your former daughter-in-law for remarrying and spending what which is rightfully hers, you will have to look further.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me what to do with this kind of husband? We have been married for ten years and we have three beautiful children.

I am not able to support myself and have nowhere to go or I would have left him long ago.

This is my problem. He has a big mouth. He tells everything we say and do in our private life. Nothing (and I mean NOTHING) is sacred.

Our private life is discussed on his job, in conversations with neighbors, relatives, and in every beer joint he visits.

He will tell anything to get a laugh at my expense. I've tried talking calmly to him and I have even shouted at him, but it hasn't helped. I didn't know he was so filthy-minded when I married him.

Must I spend the rest of my life with a man who acts like this because I made a terrible mistake when I was young? I am fed up.

MRS. X.

DEAR MRS. X: You need more help than I can give you in a letter. If your husband is not "sick in the head" (and don't dismiss this possibility until you have investigated it thoroughly) he needs to be talked to by someone whose judgment he respects.

Have you a clergyman, family doctor, or even a wise friend who can straighten him out? A marriage with three beautiful children under ten is worth saving.

And no man in his right mind would risk losing his family because he can't keep his mouth shut.

Chewing Gum for Students

Tranquilizing Effect

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE W-449: Last term I received an interesting letter from some students at New Castle, Indiana.

"Dear Dr. Crane," they began, "we are writing in behalf of all teen-agers who are bothered by the 'No Gum' rule in their schools.

"Why can't we chew gum or eat breath mints to avoid bad breath?

"Some of our teachers have complained about bad breath in their classrooms.

"How can this be avoided if kids who eat lunch or forget to brush their teeth are not allowed to chew gum or flavored mints?

"What angers us doubly is the fact we saw a high school student being paddled just for chewing gum.

"And the teacher doing the paddling was almost choking that very moment on a big wad of bubble gum!

"So how are we kids going to respect a rule if we see it broken by our own teachers? Please give us your answer in our Courier Times."

GUM FEUDING

Chewing gum should NOT be forbidden to school pupils!

It should actually be furnished to them by the teachers!

For gum is an inoffensive type of tranquilizer which permits tense, jittery youngsters to drain off surplus energy via the muscles of their jaws.

On numerous occasions I have addressed state teachers' conventions as in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, South Dakota, Kentucky, etc., and have urged that teachers change their viewpoint regarding gum.

Children generate an excessive amount of energy which isn't drained off adequately during school hours.

For the usual seat work requires action by the hands and arms instead of the legs and thus doesn't consume much energy.

Recess is thus given to pupils in the lower grades so they can run and romp on the playground, thereby draining off larger amounts of energy via the leg muscles.

For in running and romping, children's legs carry their entire body weight and thus expend far more energy per minute than is done by seat work.

So children begin to fidget when confined to study halls or even recitation rooms.

They have an inner craving for action. And chewing gum offers an outlet that is not harmful to others, except for the mild noise of masticating the gum.

But the wholesome effect on the pupils should far outweigh that slight noise.

PASS OUT GUM

Indeed, good teachers of the future should furnish gum to all youngsters both in midmorning and also midafternoon.

For chewing gum acts much like the modern coffee breaks so popular with adult workers.

And it soothes the frazzled nerves of youngsters, thereby serving as an inexpensive tranquilizer.

By the same token, it should benefit the teachers, too, for when the pupils are less rowdy and jittery, the teacher's nerves benefit.

And teachers, as well as parents and especially clergymen, should NOT smoke or violate other taboos for children!

Youngsters follow what they see far more than what they hear!

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

While some advertisements may tend to overdramatize the situation, there can be no doubt that halitosis, or bad breath, can be seriously damaging to success in the business, social, or even the family life of a woman.

No matter how well you are loved, a kiss isn't quite the same if this is a problem, and you cannot expect a dance partner or dinner table companion or those with whom you work to take this casually.

It is not a glamorous subject, but it is a serious one to many people.

The sneaky thing about this problem is that the offender is often unaware of the offense. She may know that something is wrong, but not know what it is.

If you have any suspicion that you may be a victim of this problem, ask your family about it. This seems a ridiculous suggestion but some families just do not communicate on such subjects.

They take the negative approach of "hating to tell you" rather than the positive one of helping you do something about it.

THE CAUSES

There are many reasons for halitosis, among them indigestion, diseased tonsils or gums, or sinus infection. However, probably the most usual one is teeth which are either decayed or are poorly cared for.

Even if your brush your teeth regularly, food particles may be left in between the teeth. These ferment and make a fresh breath impossible.

Therefore, use dental floss regularly. Take about eight or 10 inches of dental floss and use the thumbs to guide the floss between the upper teeth and the forefingers to guide it between the lower teeth.

Some mouth washes help, but it seems to me that this is like using a deodorant when you do not take a bath. In both instances you must attack the real problem with meticulous cleanliness.

Periodic visits to your dentist will help assure you of a pleasant breath and may also save your teeth.

Your teeth will be cleaned professionally, with the tartar removed and any suspect teeth will be X-rayed.

* * *

Many folks feel that it is a waste of money to visit a dentist until they need one. Just the opposite is true.

Regular periodic appointments with him may save you much pain and expense later on; it is important if you wish to keep your teeth and have a happy breath.

Graduation Gift Is Real Surprise

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — When high school graduate Betty Black, opened one of her gift packages she had quite a surprise. The gift, a lovely nightgown, was mailed from a fashionable Dallas store.

She Must Relax Hold on Son's Life

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I have a 21-year-old son in the service who won't write home. I cannot tell you what his silence puts me through.

I told him all I want are post cards telling me how he is but his answer was that mothers' love is different from sons' love and he would let us know if he needed us.

He was also a terrible trial during his teens. What can I do? Keep on writing letters he never answers? Maybe I should forget him.

ANSWER: You can't forget him. So why bring it up?

People of your son's age interpret our demands for reports on their welfare as efforts to manage their lives.

They read our suspicion of their ability to manage their lives into these demands. As their big problem is their own suspicion of this ability, the demands enrage them.

They punish us for our suspicion by clamming up.

* * *

I don't think you understand how frightened are the young of their ability to manage their own lives. If you did, you'd appreciate your son's promise to call on you if he needs you.

To make it to you, he had to look at his possible failure to manage his own life — that failure which is the constant terror of young people. So it was a very hard promise to make.

I suggest you express gratitude for it, writing him something to this effect:

"We appreciate your promise to call on us if you need us. Indeed, it has comforted me so that I can stop pestering you with letters you don't want and will only write when I have interesting and important news for you. Love, Mother."

You're afraid that he's going to continue to be the "terrible trial" to you that he was in his teens, aren't you? Well, for some time yet, he just might be.

So what? Getting children launched into self-sustaining life is not duck soup. All children are trials to us as they strike out for the deep water. All parents experience suspense as they flounder about in it.

That's how it is, has been and always will be until they keep their heads above water. Why should it be different for you?

Nothing entitles you to special immunity from the normally natural anxiety all other parents have to live through until a child's swimming becomes sure and steady.

Try Women's Club Kit to Enliven Meetings

For women's club presidents or program directors who are at their wits end to provide an interesting and entertaining program for their members, a unique Women's Club Kit is being offered free of charge!

INCLUDES FILM

The kit includes a 13-minute 16mm film documenting the emancipation of women over the past century and a commentary on fall and winter fashions devoted exclusively to the fuller-figured woman who wears larger sizes.

* * *

Special sized fashion notes are also included for tall women, expectant mothers, and young chubby girls.

A number of booklets are sent with the kit, designed to delight the hearts of women's organization members throughout the country. The booklets stress correct dress for tall and fuller-figured women.

A size chart which helps women to find their true size category is another feature of the kit, as well as posters on fashion specialties of yesterday and today.

FLASHBACK

The black and white film, of interest to women of all sizes, commences at the turn of the century when the mores of the time greatly limited the activities of women and reflected the Victorian attitudes of previous years.

As women gradually broke the barriers of traditional thinking and became active and productive members of society, they became pioneers in business, social, political and philanthropic fields.

MOTHER-TO-BE

An interesting aspect of the film deals with pregnancy, revealing the sociological change from the expectant mother who spent her waiting period in confinement to the healthy, active expectant mother of today.

The Women's Club Kit may be obtained free of charge by writing Department WK, 465 Fifth Avenue, New York 10017, upon request by a president or program director of a women's organization.

Pledge 'I Do' and It's 'Out'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Imagine being evicted from your apartment for getting married!

That's exactly the situation at a new apartment house complex here designed exclusively for single men and women as a combination fraternity-sorority houses for careerists.

Developers of the apartment house, The Essex, built the one and two bedroom units around a garden, added a two-story clubhouse for communal party-giving, installed a swimming pool and a poolside barbecue and banned all married individuals.

Never Too Late

McPHERSON, Kan. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Dana Voshell took their first airplane ride recently at the ages of 83 and 80 respectively. Their son, Tony Voshell, was the pilot of the plane.

From Kimberly Knitwear's surprise Midsummer 1965 collection —a bare little dress in white wool knit—with a slightly shirred dropped waistline and seaming around the neckline and armholes. An elegant costume look. A slim dress has trouser pockets and gentle waistline gathers. A smartly lapeled jacket completes the look. Shown in cherry rose. Also in toast, blue and turquoise. Sizes 10-18. About $25 from R&K. On order locally.

Read This Before You Buy Carpet

BRIDGEPORT, Pa. — A new folder just published by a carpet firm is an A-to-Z primer on carpet buying. Titled "How to save money and make the right choice when you're buying carpet," the folder contains useful hints on color, texture, styling and fiber content.

- Anyone currently in the market for carpet could do worse than read what this company has to say about the pitfalls of buying "bargain" carpet, or how to evaluate claims made for different synthetic fibers.
- With all the hue and cry on fibers that we hear today, it's refreshing to read:
- "A fiber is just a bunch of fluff until somebody makes it into a carpet."
- The folder is full of good, down-to-earth advice written in language that's easy to understand. Some beautiful full color room scenes — with lots of decorating ideas — are included.

Most Lees dealers have the folder, or the company will send you a copy directly. Write to James Lees and Sons, Bridgeport, Pa.

A Perfect Wedding Gift

If money is no object in your quest for the perfect wedding gift, why not give the bride and groom a painting?

PAINTING REGISTRY

On the theory that hanging something on the wall is as vital to the new bride as having china and silver on the table, a Chicago art gallery has set up a bridal registry for paintings.

According to Business Week, the gallery offers works dating from the mid-19th Century to the present, at prices from $150 to $375,000. The engaged couple looks over the gallery's selection and registers their preference.

* * *

All YOU have to do is present the gallery a big fat check and your gift worries are over.

Especially helpful is the gallery's traditional policy of allowing an exchange after five years. Or, if the marriage is dissolved in that time, the couple may turn in their original choice for two pictures with the same value. Now isn't that thoughtful?

Here's 'Tall' Tale

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP) — The name of Pike's Peak has long been familiar to Americans, but the words were particularly noticed in a wedding announcement here recently when Betty Pike was married to Kenneth Peak, both of Longview.

The Earl LeRoy Wilkinsons (Lois Marie Barnett) who were wed recently before Rev. Larry TerMarsch in the Collier Road Community Church are in northern Michigan for a honeymoon. Their parents are Mrs. Alberta Smith of Clark Street, Claude Barnett, North Shaker Road, and the Donald Wilkinsons of Cypress Street. With her gown of lace-applied white nylon over taffeta, the bride wore a tiered veil of illusion.

Spec. 4 and Mrs. Stephen Harvey Andrews Jr. (Jacqueline Sue Bishop) left for Fort Ord, Calif. where he is stationed, after recent nuptials in the Gethsemane Lutheran Church, Rochester. Their parents are the Homer C. Bishops of Devondale Street and the senior Mr. and Mrs. Andrews of Rivard Street. Belgian lace accented the bridal gown of white silk organza chosen for the rite performed by Pastor Donald Krueger.

Polly's Pointers

Put Curtains Up

DEAR POLLY — When traveling and sleeping in your station wagon, gain privacy and reduce the early morning sun's glare by cutting dark cloth to fit the windows.

Sew tiny magnets into each hem to hold the cloth firmly to the window frames. To identify the proper curtain for each window, label with a location code such as LF for left front.

When in transit during the day, store these curtains in the glove compartment.—MRS. R. W. M.

GIRLS — This is a good idea and would also be good for converting the station wagon into a dressing room when going to the beach.

Always remember to take all the curtains down so that no window view is blocked when driving.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Thank you for such a helpful column. It is a very refreshing island among news of wrecks, wars and crimes.

I have a quick and easy way to keep from losing that earring most of us so often remove while using the telephone. Just clip it to the top of the other ear instead of laying it down. It will be just uncomfortable enough to remind you it is there.

You will save yourself the price of a new pair because of that one lost one. Since I started doing this I have never lost that ONE earring.—DAPHNE

DEAR POLLY — My two children, ages 3 and 4, both wear glasses. To avoid laying down the glasses the wrong way and scratching the lenses, I made dolls to wear their glasses while they are asleep.

Now they always know where to find their glasses and the glasses don't get scratched.

For each doll, I started with a block of wood about 3 by 6 by 1-inch. I covered the top half (the 6-inch length is the height of the doll) with the top part of an old nylon stocking, leaving a tail about one-foot long over the top.

This was tied just above the top of the block, the remainder looped twice and tied again. Snip the tops of these loops and shred the loose ends, with the scissors, to make curly hair. Pound nails in at an angle on each side for ears and one in front for the nose. The nose is covered with a small eraser. Glasses rest on these three nails.

For the eyes, I used paper reenforcement circles and darkened the insides of the circles for pupils. The mouth is just a piece of red paper. Bottom half of the block is covered with flannel and a strip of ribbon tied around the "waist."

A straight piece of fabric could be gathered and glued to the block. Arms were cut from light cardboard with the ends cut to resemble fingers and the other end bent to hold the arm toward the front of the doll.

This is also covered with the dress fabric, leaving only the fingers exposed. A base of thin board will lessen the danger of the doll tipping over.

I also made one of these to hold my hospitalized father's glasses.—MRS. G. E. M.

Newest Ranges Turn Oven Low as Food's Done

One of the newest features to be offered on ranges is programmed cooking. This means a system that can automatically turn the oven down to a warming temperature after a pre-set cooking time.

A number of systems are available, and each manufacturer uses a name of his own according to Mrs. Carol Kurth, Oakland County Home Economics Extension Agent.

There are three main types of clock control systems: conventional clock control, cook and hold, and delayed cook and hold.

- The conventional clock control turns off at the end of the pre-set cooking time.
- The cook and hold type of control provides for an immediate start and an automatic turndown to a fixed warming temperature at the pre-set time.
- The delayed cook and hold oven control offers the greatest versatility. The oven can be set to start now or later, to turn off or turn down to any keep-warm temperature selected and to perform any two temperature cooking operation.

★ ★ ★

These programmed cooking systems allow the homemaker to be away from the kitchen while dinner is cooking. Of course, all of these systems can also be used manually.

Shorten Sleeve Taking a Tuck

A good way to shorten the sleeve of a coat is to stitch a tuck in the lining.

In fact, it is sometimes wise to buy a growing girl's coat with sleeves too long and to give it this treatment. When longer sleeves are needed, it's simple to pull the stitches out of the tuck in the lining where they do not show.

Moist Lips, Newest Look for This Autumn

Making headlines in makeup this season is the "moist lips" movement. There are two ways to achieve this look.

The first is the use of one of the "wet looking" lipsticks now on the cosmetic shelves.

The second method is to apply a lip gloss over your regular lipstick. Either way the effect is the same, moist and shimmering.

Colors will lean toward the brown hues with pinks traveling into bronze tones. Lips must absolutely look luminous with no trace of dry lipstick anywhere.

The eyes still attract attention and will look sort of almond shaped.

★ ★ ★

The almond type is affected by using brown eye shadow to the brow but slanted toward the hairline.

ROUND EYED

The round-eyed version is achieved with the brown shadow reaching to the brow almost covering the complete arch just below.

Each calls for a different color shadow below the brow and on the eyelids themselves.

On special occasions or perhaps just for experimenting, the liquid eye liner seems to go on more smoothly than the pencil. The new brush-on eyebrow makeup is most natural looking and far easier to apply correctly than any pencil.

Under the heading of sheer fun comes the new nail enamels.

TREND TO END

This year will end the matching nail enamel and lipstick trend.

With this new concept you start with a coat of the makeup shades, Bamboo, Beige, Bone or China, in the ceramic glaze and then top it with a coat of the toner as a smooth finish or go way out with a design.

Can You Spot the Difference in Furnishings?

Do you know the difference between these dual purpose pieces of furniture?

SOFABED: A dual purpose piece of furniture, for sitting and sleeping, in which the back of the sofa is dropped down to a position level with the seat.

The back and the seat thus form a continuous horizontal surface.

SOFA-SLEEPER: Once known as a davenport bed or a bed davenport and still referred to in Canada as a Chesterfield bed, is a dual purpose piece that works far differently.

The seat cushions are lifted off and the mechanical unit is unfolded in two easy motions to provide a bed complete with mattress.

A DAY BED, STUDIO COUCH OR STUDIO LOUNGE is basically a bed which, through the additional use of slipcovers, pillows and bolsters, can be employed as a serviceable daytime sitting piece.

A picnic is in store for members of the Fashion Your Figure Club. Hawthorne Park is the setting for the 6:30 p.m. outing on Thursday.

Clocks Can Set Theme for a Room

Clocks are fast catching up with the art of home decoration!

The reason: homemakers want more than timepieces. They want eye-appealing decorative accents, as well.

Because of homemaker desires, says the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, designers and manufacturers are now creating timepieces that can set the mood of a room, identify rooms as masculine or feminine, and add horniness and character to their environment.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Clocks are not only made to stand, hang, and sit, but to mix and match with elements in a room's decor, as well. And you often have your choice of wind, battery-run, or electric mechanisms.

★ ★ ★

You can still get a tall grandfather clock with moving moon-wheel and Westminster chimes — which, if you recall from childhood lore, ring out in tune with this old-fashioned verse:

"Throughout this life, Lord be thy guide And by thy hand — No foot shall slide."

You can also get the smaller grandmother clocks, if you want a clock that stands and must defer to a lower ceiling. And you can get wall clocks combined with what-not shelves, planters, and decorative wall plaques.

Many wall clocks are available in wood finishes or in a choice of colors to help them blend with accent tones in the room. Frequently, you can get barometers to match wall clocks.

Sew Savings Into Your Christmas List

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

MARY FEELEY

I like to think I'm the early bird who gets the first word in about Christmas shopping. But some of you readers have beaten me to the punch.

I'm already getting letters from home-sewing enthusiasts who want to share their money - saving ideas while there's ample there ample time for others to make use of them.

★ ★ ★

So I say thanks to Mrs. L. E., of Canton, Ohio, for this gay tip: "Remnants of wild print cotton or rayon, about 1½ yards or more, make the most attractive half-slips for the teen-agers on your Christmas list.

"Just cut them straight, use a few cents worth of elastic at the waist — and that's all. Considering the fact that you can pay $3 to $5 and up for these half-slips, the ones you can make are just as pretty at a fraction of the price!"

And why confine them to teenagers, Mrs. E.? We "mature" teens adore wild print lingerie, too.

★ ★ ★

Then there's this thrifty note from Mrs. J. S., of Guttenberg, New Jersey: "I bought a pajama and bathrobe pattern for 65 cents. I'm making seven pairs of pajamas from it at about $1 a pair!"

★ ★ ★

Mrs. S. says she's also making corduroy bathrobes for about $1.50 each — which are comparable to ready-mades for at least $4 per.

So if you're on her Christmas gift list, you can expect a cozy time of it this winter.

SOME OTHER IDEAS

Another reader in New Jersey turns out her Christmas gifts while she watches TV. Mrs. A. B. buys a stack of cotton mesh dishcloths at the dime store, plus some bright colored yarn.

★ ★ ★

While she watches her favorite programs, she threads the yarn through the mesh cloths — in and out of the loops to make colorful stripes which converts the dishcloths into attractive place mats.

This idea reminds me of a set of place mats a friend once sent me for Christmas — my very favorites because I could just put them into the washer and dryer, which is even easier than scrubbing the plastic kind.

They were made of pale yellow terry cloth, with simple hemmed edges. Accompanying napkins were dark brown. If you buy terry cloth by the yard, you can get a lot of place mats for very little money.

And I never knew a woman who didn't welcome a new color scheme for the dinner table. She may not be able to vary the menu very much, but a change of table settings is a grand appetizer.

IMAGINATION SAVES MONEY

If you shopped for men's scarves or mufflers last Christmas, you know that the topflight sellers were the ones with a solid color wool on one side, with print silk on the other.

Mrs. S. H., of Madison, Wisconsin, is adopting the idea and making her men relatives some beauties. She shops for remnants in both types of fabrics, and figures she can make them at a cost of at least two, if not three, for what one would retail for.

★ ★ ★

As she says, her budget for gifts is so limited she has to substitute time, imagination, and some careful stitching in place of the shopping money she doesn't have.

I wish I had the space here to list all the imaginative ideas you home sewers contribute.

But I must tell you about the charming bed-throws a New York City reader is making. She uses the tiniest scraps of material to fashion into appliques—girls in sunbonnets, butterflies, flowers—whatever she happens to think of, with whatever scraps she happens to have.

Then she stitches these little appliques onto a basic cotton background, in squares, and then sews them all together into a throw, or quilt, or whatever you want to call it.

She figures she spends practically no money—but I'd guess that some of these throws will be handed down through families as prized heirlooms.

New Nickname for Lions' Karras

Tackle Trim, Quick at 245 Pounds

Alex Karras Is 'Greek Gazelle' of Lions

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

The bad years are over for Alex Karras and with a little luck from the injury standpoint, the All-America tackle from Iowa "feels a good season coming on."

"I'm in good shape," said Karras who reported to camp at a "shapely" 245 pounds, 10 pounds lighter than at any other time since coming into pro football seven years ago.

"He's so trim and shapely around the waist, he almost looks girlish in the hips," jested coach Harry Gilmer, "but he's got the quickness now in camp that I never imagined him having."

His new shapely figure, his newly found quickness and the way he twinkle-toes when he runs may warrant the change of his nickname from the "Golden Greek" to the "Greek Gazelle."

Besides, the word "Golden" could be a bad memory. It could remind Karras of another player called "The Golden Boy" Paul Hornung — who joined him on the sidelines in 1963, suspended because of the NFL gambling probe.

As an all-pro tackle in 1960, 1961 and 1962, Karras sat out the 1963 season because of the suspension and last year in his "comeback" he was plagued with a pair of groin injuries. This was unknown to the many who pointed out that he was having a bad season.

Dr. Richard Thompson, team physician rallied to Karras' side late last season when critics claimed the big tackle was playing poorly and not doing an up-to-par job.

MUCH TAPE

"For most of the season he had these painful groin injuries on both sides, and he was covered with so much tape it's a wonder he was able to play at all," noted Dr. Thompson.

Today, Karras shows some knotted muscles in his thighs as scars of the injuries. "But they don't bother me and my legs feel great," he noted.

Regarded as one of the finest defensive tackles in pro football, especially as a top pass rusher, a healthy and quicker Karras could be bad news for the Tarkenton's, the Unitas's, the Starr's, the Munson's and the Brodie's.

In the Saturday night intra-squad game, Karras shot through on several occasions to smear the quarterback or ball carrier.

The big shock was when he moved in on big Joe Don Looney and hit the 235 fullback for a seven-yard loss.

Looney, who in timed sprints for the 50 yards, was clocked in 5.6, fastest on the team, and with his speed, bringing him down isn't expected to be easy especially in an open field.

★ ★ ★

"It will take some gang tackling to bring him down," said Karras. "His legs are so big, a tackler who tries to do the job by himself will have to have a sure pair of arms to get around them."

At 245 pounds, this makes Karras one of the smallest defensive tackles in the league.

"That's okay, I'm happy to be moving a little better, and besides I've got big Rog (Brown) next to me to handle some of the bigger boys," he laughed.

★ ★ ★

Sunday, the Lions meet the Eagles in Philadelphia in the opening exhibition game and Eagle quarterbacks Norm Snead and King Hill will have the first unpleasantness of facing the Lions' new "Greek Gazelle."

SPORTS

Robin No Help to Phillies

By The Associated Press

General Manager John Quinn of Philadelphia said Robin Roberts did not fit into the Phillies' plans.

He was wrong.

The Phillies discovered just how wrong Monday night when Roberts, making his first National League appearance since 1961, shut out his old team on four hits in Houston's 8-0 triumph.

★ ★ ★

Quinn made the comment about two weeks ago after learning that Roberts was interested in rejoining the team with which he spent his first 14 major league seasons. Baltimore had just released the determined right-hander at his own request.

Roberts finally made a deal last Thursday with the Astros, who had to pay the Orioles only the $1 waiver price.

WALKED ONE

The 38-year-old Philadelphia area resident was superb in his first effort. He walked only one batter, allowed only one to reach third and threw a relatively low total of 98 pitches.

★ ★ ★

The performance was particularly distressing to the Phillies since Manager Gene Mauch said only the day before, in discussing the team's chances for starting a pennant drive, "it's now or never."

★ ★ ★

It also was an encouraging beginning for Roberts, who left the Orioles because of dissatisfaction at being used as a spot starter and a long reliever.

★ ★ ★

"I thought it best to sever my status now," he said at the time, "So I could get a real opportunity to pitch elsewhere next year. If I continued in my current role, I would assume by the end of the season I would have put in my last year of baseball."

LOSING MARK

Roberts won four consecutive complete games at the start of this season, then dropped seven straight before leaving the Orioles with a 5-7 record. Baltimore is the only other team he has pitched for in the majors besides Philadelphia.

★ ★ ★

While with the Phillies, he was a 20-game winner for six straight seasons, from 1950 through 1955. His victory over the Phillies was his first in the National League since June 5, 1961.

BLEAK PICTURE — Dan Hodgson (left) of Atlanta, attorney for the National League Braves, and Bill Bartholomay, Braves' president, explain to stockholders in a meeting yesterday in Atlanta that the club will lose at least $1.5 million in Milwaukee this year. Stockholders voted unanimously to change the team's name to the Atlanta Braves, Inc.

Milwaukee Braves Exist Now Only in Wisconsin

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves have ceased to exist in any state except Wisconsin.

Stockholders of the National League baseball team met in Atlanta Monday and voted to change the team's name to the Atlanta Braves Inc. This action was taken since the team plans to move to Atlanta for the 1966 season.

★ ★ ★

However, the club cannot play in Wisconsin under the name of Atlanta Braves Inc., because attorney Dominic Frinzi recently filed a corporation under that name with the Wisconsin Secretary of State to block such a move.

But Braves' Board Chairman William Bartholomay said that the team is a Delaware corporation and can use that name in all states except Wisconsin.

LOSING MONEY

Bartholomay also told the stockholders that the team will lose at least $1.5 million in Milwaukee this year because of an unofficial fan boycott.

"In spite of these actions, the Braves' organization is dedicated to winning the National League pennant so that Atlanta will begin its first major league season with a championship team," Bartholomay said.

The Braves are in third place behind San Francisco and Los Angeles.

★ ★ ★

The Braves have signed a 25-year contract with the Atlanta Stadium Authority, beginning Jan. 1, 1966.

Braves' management had originally intended to bring the team to the South in 1965, but was refused permission by other members of the National League because of a threat of court action.

Signs Charger Contract

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Veteran placekicker Jim Martin signed Monday to play with the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League.

Martin, an ex-Notre Dame lineman, played 11 years with the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

NFL Decides Houston Is Good Choice

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle says the fact that Houston already has an American Football League club would not affect the NFL's decision on whether to move here.

★ ★ ★

"They've (the AFL) been in four of our cities," he said. "We'll move into whatever city is in the best interest of our league, and I am sure they feel the same way about placing a franchise in an NFL city.

★ ★ ★

"After all, Dallas, St. Louis and Pittsburgh should be very embarrassed. They are the only cities that haven't been named as possible sites for American League franchises."

VERY REMOTE

Rozelle held a news conference Monday at the Harris County Astrodome at which time he termed the admission of a second expansion team to join Atlanta next year as "very remote."

But he did not rule out completely the possibility of Houston or another city being admitted to the league in 1966.

★ ★ ★

He also said his league has a policy against an individual or group owning controlling interest in more than one major sports venture.

★ ★ ★

This apparently rules out Roy Hofheinz, president of the Houston Sports Association, as a majority stockholder if Houston obtains an NFL franchise.

Taylor, Warfield Sidelined

Pro Grid Stars on Injury List

By the Associated Press

The two most spectacular rookies in the National Football League last year and one of this year's top American Football League prospects share first place on the hospital list today after the pros' first round of pre-season contact.

The Washington Redskins learned Monday that halfback Charley Taylor, NFL rookie of the year in 1964, may be sidelined for a month with an ankle fracture.

Meanwhile, Paul Warfield, pass-catching star of the NFL champion Cleveland Browns, was operated on for a shattered collarbone in Cleveland and Larry Elkins, touted rookie flanker for the AFL Houston Oilers, underwent knee surgery in Houston.

Taylor cracked his right ankle during the Redskins' 37-0 exhibition victory over Philadelphia last Saturday. Warfield was injured in last Friday night's game against the College All-Stars.

Elkins, an All-America end at Baylor last season, ripped the cartilage in his knee the second time he handled the ball in the Oilers' exhibition against the New York Jets Saturday night.

The Redskins hope Taylor mends in time for their Sept. 19 season opener against the Browns. Warfield and Elkins, however, are expected to be out for two months.

★ ★ ★

"It's tough to have any injury, especially to Taylor," Washington Coach Bill McPeak said Monday. "But, looking objectively, if it had to happen, it's better now than later."

Taylor, from Arizona State University, was the NFL's No. 6 ground-gainer and No. 8 pass receiver in his rookie season, netting 755 yards rushing and grabbing 53 passes for 805 yards.

Warfield, a speedster from Ohio State, caught 52 passes for 920 yards and nine touchdowns as the Browns captured the league title for the first time in 10 years.

LATE ARRIVALS

Coaches in other AFL and NFL camps welcomed late-arriving rookies who played in the All-Star game at Chicago, made squad cuts and prepared for this weekend's heavy exhibition schedule.

John Huarte, Notre Dame's Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback and the most valuable player for the College All-Stars against the Browns, drilled for the first time with the AFL Jets.

"He has a lot to make up" said Coach Weeb Ewbank, "but I am not going to rush him."

Dick Butkus, the All-America linebacker from Illinois who anchored the All-Star defense, reported to the Chicago Bears' camp nursing a slight charley horse.

Defensive back Charley Britt of the San Francisco 49ers and linemen Lou Cordileone of the Los Angeles Rams and John Bisby of the Redskins were among several veterans released as NFL clubs began trimming rosters.

The Baltimore Colts signed Ray Berry, the 10-year vet who holds the NFL career record of 506 pass receptions.

Lolich to 'Fly In' for Tigers' Contest

DETROIT (AP)—Dave Wickersham is supposed to be the opening pitcher tonight in the first of four games here against Kansas City, but he may be bounced by Mickey Lolich.

Lolich is on active duty with the Michigan Air National Guard in Alpena, and he says he wants to fly down to Detroit for the game.

★ ★ ★

If he does, Wickersham will pitch on Wednesday.

Judging by past performance, the Tigers should be able to cope successfully with the A's. The record this season is 8-2 in favor of Detroit.

NEED VICTORY

A victory is needed badly if the Tigers want to keep in sight of the torrid Minnesota Twins.

The Tigers fell 11½ games behind the Minneapolis club after the Tigers were squeezed out 6-5 by the Yankees Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The A's have played better, though, under Haywood Sullivan than they did for Mel McGaha, and they have been upsetting some teams with unexpected victories.

Tiger success in the series against the A's might help attendance figures.

The Tigers have a total attendance so far of 795,338, compared to 816,139 last year.

The Tigers were big crowd pleasers with successes early in the season. But recent losses and a downward trend in the standings may keep the crowds out of Tiger Stadium.

Weak starting pitchers and weak substitutes from the bull pen have characterized Tiger performances in recent weeks.

The Tigers scored five runs in each of their three games against the Yankees but won only one game.

★ ★ ★

Manager Charlie Dressen said after the last Yankee debacle, "we'd be tough if we got some pitching," to which he added, somewhat resignedly, "Well, we're just not getting it."

Draper Near Top in Canadian Golf

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) — Tom Draper of Royal Oak posted a three-over-par 75 yesterday in the opening round of qualifying for the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship.

Draper was five shots off the pace set by Juan Estrada, 1964 Mexican Open champion and 1961 Canadian champion Keith Alexander of Calgary.

The 64 low scorers after 36 holes qualify for match play which starts Wednesday.

Gregory Pitzer of Pacific Palisades, Calif., led the United States entries with 37-34—71. Bob Boldt of Oswego, Ore., posted a 73 and George Boutell of Phoenix, Ariz., carded a 74.

Irish 'Sellout' Iowa

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Notre Dame's second sellout of the coming football season was assured Monday when it was announced that all tickets for the Notre Dame-Iowa game on Oct. 30 had been sold.

The Irish previously sold all tickets for the Southern California game on Oct. 23.

Flint Here Saturday

Pontiac Arrows Await Opener

Four area players may wind up with starting berths with the defensive team when the Pontiac Arrows take on the Flint Blue Devils in a non-conference football game Saturday at 8 p.m. at Wisner Stadium.

The four — Jim Gardner and Gene Luppino, both graduates of Pontiac Central, Steve Szabo, a PCH coach, and Don Barrick, a Rochester High School graduate — turned in impressive performances Sunday in an intra-squad scrimmage at the Wisner practice field.

Gardner and Luppino are after defensive backfield posts, Szabo is after a linebacker job and Barrick is bidding for one of the defensive end posts.

"They looked good," admitted head coach Lyle Wells, who is starting his eighth year at the Arrows' helm with a won-lost record of 69-13 behind him.

In the two-hour scrimmage, Luppino, alternating at right and safety, intercepted a Mike Brown pass and rambled 65 yards for a touchdown, and Gardner made several key saves on passes tossed into his territory at left safety.

HAVE SPEED

Luppino is only 5-8 and 165 pounds and Gardner is a shorty at 5-6 and 175 pounds, but both have a lot of speed and hit with authority when the need arises.

★ ★ ★

Szabo, a 205-pounder who played at University of Illinois, dished out some rugged tackles at the center linebacker position, while Barrick, one of the team's biggest linemen at 6-1 and 270 pounds, kept the ball carriers running inside to avoid his big frame.

The Arrows are expected to have the strongest defense in the Midwest Football League, a loop which includes Flint, Lansing, Milan and Dayton (Ohio).

The Arrows will have a lot of beef in the defensive line.

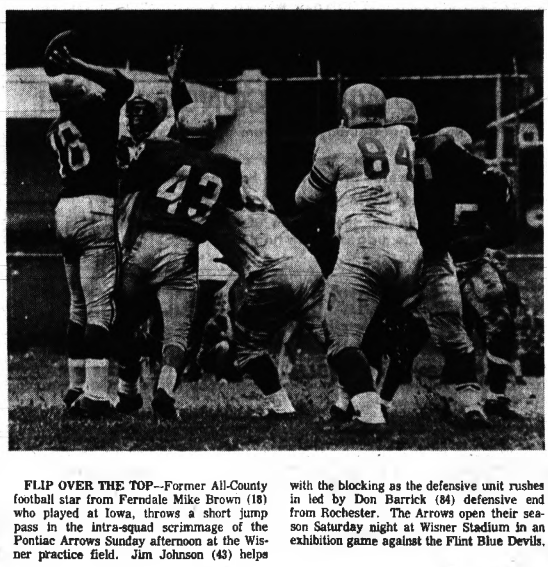

★ ★ ★

The 'Big Four' are expected to be Barrick at left end, Jim Myers (290 pounds) and Chico Johnson (255 pounds) and Ron Berger (270 pounds) or Chuck Storms (228 pounds) at right end.

Barrick, a graduate of Rochester High School, played the 1965 season with the Toledo Tornadoes. Myers is a graduate of Michigan State University and spent a couple of seasons with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

Berger, who stands 6-8, is a product of Denby High School in Detroit. Johnson is a former member of the Port Huron Raiders while Storms picked up a few gridiron pointers at MSU.

Game tickets for the Arrows' opening exhibition are available at Griff's Grill and Osmun's downtown.

FLIP OVER THE TOP—Former All-County football star from Ferndale Mike Brown (18) who played at Iowa, throws a short jump pass in the intra-squad scrimmage of the Pontiac Arrows Sunday afternoon at the Wisner practice field. Jim Johnson (43) helps with the blocking as the defensive unit rushes in led by Don Barrick (84) defensive end from Rochester. The Arrows open their season Saturday night at Wisner Stadium in an exhibition game against the Flint Blue Devils.

Palmer 'Home' for PGA

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, preparing to make a stand on his home grounds in his continuing battle to recapture a commanding position among golfing's elite, is setting his sights on the game's current ruler—Jack Nicklaus.

"Jack is the one we'll have to beat," the muscular Pennsylvanian said Monday after a warm-up round at his home course, the Laurel Valley Club, site of the 47th Professional Golfers' Association Championship starting Thursday.

* * *

"He's on a streak and sometimes it's hard to do anything wrong when you're going the way he is. I know, I've been there once or twice myself."

But Palmer has been slumping instead of streaking, of late, while Nicklaus has been on an amazing tear.

Palmer has won only once this year, in the Tournament of Champions, and hit one of his career low spots last Friday when he pulled out of the Philadelphia Classic after a seven-over-par 43 on the incoming nine gave him a 77 for the second round.

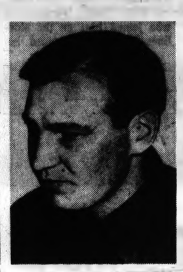

Nicklaus, on the other hand, comes into the PGA as the hottest man in golf.

The burly Ohioan has won the last two pots on the tour — the Thunderbird and the Philadelphia Classic — to go along with his Masters Championship and Memphis Open title won earlier this year.

He's earned $44,300 in the last two weeks, $114,000 for the year, and has been fifth or better in 13 of his 16 tourneys in 1965.

Jack will be particularly dangerous at Laurel Valley mainly because of the rough, Palmer went on. The lack of rain has made the rough pretty easy.

Some of those booming tee shots of Jack's can get off the fairway and he still won't be in trouble. Laurel Valley is a beautiful, 7,090-yards par 36-35—71 layout in the rolling woodlands of western Pennsylvania.

SHOT TO DEATH — Wilbur Moore, 49, former star halfback and backfield coach of the Washington Redskins, was shot to death yesterday outside his home in Prince Georges County, Md. Police charged his wife, Clara, who had filed for divorce, with murder.

Nicklaus Ups PGA Earnings

Big Jack Far Ahead of 2nd Place Lema

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus' victory in the Philadelphia Golf Classic Sunday increased his 1965 earnings to $125,188 on the pro golf tour.

The Professional Golfers Association weekly standings showed Nicklaus has now almost twice the money collected by Tony Lema, the tour's second-ranking player financially whose total is $69,769.

* * *

Nicklaus won $114,000 in PGA sanctioned events and $11,188 in other matches. Lema's PGA earnings are $62,716 and unofficial winnings $7,053.

Gary Player is third, with official earnings of $62,376 and unofficial of $1,096 for a total of $63,472.

OTHER WINNERS

Nicklaus has won four of the 16 tournaments he entered and has placed fifth in 13 of them.

Other top money makers, with official money first, unofficial and total earnings:

Billy Casper $50,908, $25,292, $86,200; Doug Sanders, $50,953, $10,458, $60,512; Bruce Devlin, $57,320, $3,264, $60,584; Gene Littler, $56,541, $4,303, $60,844; Dan Sikes Jr., $48,864, $3,002, $51,866; Bruce Crampton, $48,179, $12,250, $60,429; Johnny Pott, $42,241, $5,615, $47,856.

CUP CLINCHER — Billie Jean Moffitt of the U.S. Wightman Cup team slams a shot back at Great Britain's Elizabeth Starkie yesterday in Cleveland in winning a singles match, 6-3, 6-2, to clinch the cup for America. The win by Miss Moffitt, who makes Long Beach, Calif., her home, gave the U.S. a 4-2 edge in the best-of-seven matches and the American team closed the series (5-2) with a victory in the doubles.

U.S. Girls Wightman Champs

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The United States will keep the Wightman Cup for another year because Carole Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio, scored a key victory in the 5-2 triumph over Britain's finest women tennis players.

But the honor of actually clinching the international trophy for America for the fifth straight year went to Billie Jean Moffitt, the U.S. No. 2 player.

* * *

Miss Moffitt, a 22-year-old from Long Beach, Calif., outlasted Elizabeth Starkie, England's No. 3 player, 6-3, 6-2 in the opening singles Monday.

"She played well and wanted to win it," Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont, American team captain, said of Miss Moffitt's performance. Billie Jean lost a singles match on opening day.

DOUBLES WIN

Miss Moffitt then teamed with Mrs. Karen Susman of San Diego, Calif., to defeat the English team of Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones and Elizabeth Wade 6-3, 8-6.

In an earlier singles match, Mrs. Jones, Britain's southpaw ace, shocked the crowd of 4,822 by trimming Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., America's top player, 8-4, 9-7.

Detroit Nine Legion King

ADRIAN (AP) — Detroit Edison Post successfully defended its championship in the American Legion State Baseball Tournament by defeating St. Joseph 5-2 Monday.

St. Joseph gained in the day defeated St. Clair 6-1 in the remainder of a game halted by rain Sunday.

Detroit's Rick Konik struck out 13 men and singled in a run in the third.

Detroit now will go to East Chicago, Ind., for the regional tourney. The team made the national semifinals last year.

St. Joseph's Vidt brought his season record to 10-0.

Kirchner went the first six innings to pick up the victory and Smith pitched the seventh. Hills' lone hit was a double by Dave Robillard in the first.

The winners rapped out 12 hits. Bill Tucker led the attack with three singles. Gary Broadwell, Smith and Pete Ruhf collected two safeties apiece.

Franklin now moves into action against Auburn Heights Boys Club tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. at Jaycee Park. AHBC is undefeated and can wrap up the title with a victory.

Pitcher's One-Hitter Gives Francis Coal 3-2 Victory

Chuck Schneider tossed a one-hitter last night as Francis Coal & Oil moved a step closer to a berth in the state Class D softball playoffs with a 3-2 decision over L & S Standard.

The victory moved the winners into a meeting tonight at 7 against Orchard Lanes with the winner advancing to the finals against the Pontiac Merchants.

Jerry Langdon's single in the last of the seventh brought in Bill Ligon with the winning run for Francis.

L & S's Sterley DeVault picked up the only hit off Schneider, a sixth-inning single, and the losers scored both their runs in the sixth on a two-out error by Langdon.

Ruling Made in Gold Cup Race Fire Involving Miss Exide

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The contest board for the Gold Cup unlimited hydroplane race on Lake Washington discussed Monday the burning of Miss Exide in Sunday's final heat and decided to do nothing about it.

Miss Exide burst into flames just after coming out of the first turn in the final heat, yet the race wasn't stopped until the other hydros had completed their second lap.

★ ★ ★

There has been some criticism over the delay in stopping the race and putting out the fire.

After the conference, Racing Commissioner Lee Schoenith of Detroit said there had been no rule changes because of the incident. He said it was simply a case of driver's error.

If Bill Brow had leaped out of the boat sooner the race would have been stopped, he said.

NOT SERIOUS

Brown commented earlier that he didn't understand why he couldn't have had aid from the Coast Guard sooner. But, he said damage to his boat may not be as serious as first feared.

Meanwhile, champion Miss Bardahl and the other Gold Cup hydros have started making plans to meet at Ogden, Utah, for a race later this month.

The Miss Bardahl camp was still celebrating its third consecutive Gold Cup win. It roared over the Lake Washington course at an average speed of 110.655 miles per hour Sunday to win the top prize of $10,500.

★ ★ ★

Notre Dame finished about 200 yards behind Miss Bardahl with a speed of 107.612 miles per hour. Tahoe Miss placed third in the heat and third in the over-all standings.

Even though Miss Exide burned, she placed fourth in over-all points to take home a sizable chunk of the winnings. Miss U.S. was fifth and Miss Madison sixth.

Net Star Leaves Canadians Fuming

TORONTO, Ont (AP) — A Montreal-born tennis star has Canadian Lawn Tennis Tournament officials angry at him because he went home to the United States.

Mike Belkin, who lived in Montreal for 11 years before moving to Miami, Fla., pulled out of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Championships just before the opening matches of the week-long event Monday. He was seeded second to Ron Holmberg of Dallas, Tex., the sixth-ranking U.S. player.

It left Tournament Chairman Denis Kirsten of Toronto and other officials fuming and may cost him a chance to play in future tournaments.

Belkin, a student at the University of Miami, is considered a candidate for Canada's Davis Cup team.

Medicare Enrollment Begins Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Enrollment for the voluntary medical insurance portion of the new Medicare program will begin next week, officials said today.

The Social Security Administration will begin the massive enrollment process by mailing information kits and sign-up cards to persons over 65 who are already on the Social Security benefit rolls.

About 14 million such persons will receive the cards between mid-August and early December.

Social security officials originally planned to do all of the mailing in one big batch during September. But the Post Office Department was appalled at the prospect of 14 million extra pieces of mail in one month, and persuaded the Social Security Administration to stretch out the mailing.

* * *

The new plan calls for mailing about 1 million enrollment cards a week, beginning next week. The post office hopes that the job will be substantially completed before the Christmas mail rush begins in December.

TWO PARTS

The Medicare program consists of (1) basic hospital insurance which is provided for all persons over 65 without payment of premiums, and (2) supplemental medical insurance, which covers doctors' bills and certain other medical expenses not included in the basic plan.

Participation in the supplemental program is voluntary, and requires a premium payment of $3 a month. This is half the actual cost. The government will be paying the other half.

Social Security officials estimate that 90 to 95 per cent of the Americans over 65 will take advantage of the bargain.

* * *

The material mailed out by the Social Security Administration will include an information brochure explaining the Medicare program, and a card on which the recipient is asked to signify whether or not he wishes to get in on the voluntary insurance.

The card should be signed and returned even if a person does not wish the supplementary coverage. No postage stamp is required. People who fail to respond one way or the other will get a follow-up mailing in February.

DON'T DELAY

Those who wish to sign up should not delay. Anyone who declines to enroll for medical insurance when it is initially available to him must pay a higher premium if he comes in later. And unless he comes in within three years of his first eligibility, he is barred forever.

* * *

Persons over 65 who are covered by Social Security but have never applied for retirement benefits (there are about 1.25 million of them) should go immediately to the nearest Social Security district office to sign up for Medicare. They're entitled to Medicare coverage even if they do not intend to quit working.

Opening lead—♦ Q.

By JACOBY & SON

In team of four board-a-match duplicate play you are interested only in how your partners score on the hand since you compete directly against only one team on each board.

JACOBY

One South player reached three no-trump on the bidding shown in the box. He was very upset when a diamond was led but managed to make four no-trump by holding off until the third diamond and finding East with the ace of hearts and no fourth diamond to lead.

At first glance the score didn't look good because apparently five spades would be laydown but when it was noted that West would have a likely lead of his singleton heart against four spades whereupon the defense would take three tricks it was East and West who decided they were "fixed."

They would have been fixed badly in a pair game. Practically every North-South pair landed in four spades and made exactly that after West opened his singleton ten of hearts.

Nevertheless at this table the North-South pair was fixed. It seems that the bidding went the same at the other table up to South's three club call, but at that point North decided to bid three no-trump.

East was on lead and opened his fourth best heart whereupon there was no way to keep North from making 11 tricks and winning the board for his side.

Instead of bidding three spades your partner has gone to three diamonds over the three-club bid. What do you do now?

Factions Cool to OAS Plan

Dominican Formula Draws Objections

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Both sides in the Dominican dispute have objected to a new plan by the Organization of American States (OAS) for a provisional government under lawyer-diplomat Hector Garcia Godoy.

The rebels had been expected to endorse the formula, but their leader, Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, said many features had not been discussed between the OAS committee and his group.

* * *

The junta made no official comment, but some members said privately the plan was not acceptable because it amounted to imposition of a solution.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, a member of the OAS committee, termed the plan "equitable, fair and reasonable."

* * *

It calls for military personnel on both sides to return without prejudice to their units. Those who don't want to would be free to leave the country. It proposes a general amnesty for all political prisoners, full respect for human rights, elections within nine months, a political truce until three months before the elections, and retention of the Inter-American military force as long as the provisional government wants it.

Nuns Nearly Sent to Jail for Sit-In CHICAGO (UPI) — Six nuns arrested in a civil rights march were convicted of blocking traffic and almost went to jail yesterday to work off their $25 fines.

They listened as Magistrate Lester Jankowski found them guilty of sitting down in the intersection of State and Madison streets in a civil rights demonstration last June 12, and obstructing traffic.

They were fined $25 each. But they were Roman Catholic nuns, of the Daughters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, and had taken the vow of poverty.

So Sister Mary Andrea looked up at Jankowski and said: "We cannot pay the fines. Any money that comes to us must go to help the poor."

* * *

Jankowski then ordered the six nuns to jail. "You leave me no alternative but to order you into custody to work out the fines . . . a most distasteful duty," he said.

GASP

There was a gasp from the spectators.

As the nuns walked into the jury box to await processing to the Bridewell House of Correction, two Negro attorneys were touched by the sisters' plight.

Maurice Scott Jr. and Howard D. Geter didn't defend the nuns; they said they didn't even know them. But they got $126 to pay the fines plus part of the court costs.

* * *

Said Scott: "I know what they do to prisoners at the house of correction. They strip them and they search them, and I didn't want the sisters subjected to that."

PART OF GROUP

When they were arrested in the street, the nuns were part of a group of 196 demonstrators that included 17 clergymen.

Rain Blankets Parched Areas Through State

By United Press International

Rain eased drought conditions in parched Michigan agricultural areas yesterday.

Stanley Johnston, head of the Michigan State University experimental station at South Haven said the rain Sunday and yesterday was "a million dollar rainfall."

Three-quarters of an inch of rain fell yesterday at Houghton Lake, Alpena and Muskegon.

Nearly a half-inch was reported in Grand Rapids, the Bay City-Saginaw area and Pellston. Lesser amounts fell in other sections of Michigan.

* * *

Johnston said the moisture would help the developing peach crop and the blueberry season, which is nearing its peak. He said drought conditions had hurt both crops.

Fourteen Southern Michigan counties have applied for federal drought disaster relief. At least eight other counties were considering whether to file similar applications.

Viet Costs Cutting Hopes for Tax Cut

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Chances for another income tax cut this year are slim because of the cost of the war in Viet Nam, says Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor.

Connor told the American Bar Association Monday that $7 billion in extra federal revenue generated by economic growth in the last 4½ years must be pumped back into the economy, however.

* * *

"The one thing we must not do with this $7 billion is nothing at all," he said. "If we don't spend it or give it back to our citizens in tax cuts, it will act as a fiscal drag on our economy.

Waterford Airs 5 Rezoning Requests

Waterford Township Board discussed five rezoning requests, approved the final plat of Silver Lake Estates No. 7 and accepted monthly reports of the police, fire and water departments at its meeting last night.

* * *

It is expected that final decision on the rezoning requests —three of which are earmarked for apartment buildings — will be made at next Monday's meeting.

The three apartment buildings, if approved, would be located on M59 near Hospital, Hatchery at Airport and Dixie Highway near Walton.

The other rezoning requests, if granted, would result in single family residential districts in the proposed Woodhull Lake Subdivision on Dixie Highway by Eagle Lake and in Cass Highland Subdivision at Elizabeth Lake Road near Tilden.

* * *

However, the proposed apartment dwellings on M59 near Hospital and at Dixie Highway near Walton (Dixie Trail Subdivision) have been recommended for denial by both the Township Planning Commission and Oakland County Coordinating Zoning Committee.

3 REZONING REQUESTS

The other three rezoning requests have been recommended for approval by the two bodies.

In addition to previous plans, the township board approved construction of a fence and sidewalk at Silver Lake Estates No. 7 last night.

The fire department report revealed that 84 alarms were answered last month and there were 61 fires over the same period.

* * *

This compares with 79 alarms and 53 fires in June and 67 alarms and 39 fires the previous July.

TOTALS LOWER

Nevertheless, total alarms answered and total number of fires are well behind totals for the first seven months of 1964.

In 1964, total alarms for the first seven months were 834 and total number of fires 485, compared with 500 and 335, respectively, to date this year.

However, direct fire loss this year to date totals $161,715 compared with $101,572 for the same period last year.

* * *

The police department report listed 818 complaints for the month of June, 444 of which have been closed.

96 ARRESTED

According to the report, 96 persons—60 adults and 36 juveniles—were arrested in June.

There were 119 larcenies, 88 malicious destruction of property complaints and 31 breaking and enterings. A total of 314 traffic tickets were issued during the month.

The water department report indicated that 78,216,060 gallons of water were pumped last month compared with 75,219,000 the previous July.

* * *

Total new service connections in the township's water system also exceeded the figure for last July, 30 to 9.

Senate Views Cabinet Post

Sponsors Predict OK; Has House Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate opens debate today on President Johnson's bill to create an 11th Cabinet department to deal with the burgeoning problems of the nation's cities.

It would be called the department of housing and urban development. The House approved its establishment by passing a similar bill 217 to 184 June 16.

* * *

Sponsors predicted confidently that the Senate would pass the bill, but they were not claiming an overwhelming margin. They said many Republicans and most Southern Democrats probably would vote against it. Some Republicans are backing a proposal for a community development office of less than cabinet rank.

The bill essentially would upgrade the present Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) into a Cabinet-level department.

GROWTH IN CITIES

When Johnson asked Congress in March to create the department he said projections indicate that between now and the year 2,000, more than 80 per cent of America's population increase will occur in urban areas.

* * *

The HHFA now is headed by Dr. Robert C. Weaver, a New York Negro with experience in government housing programs dating back to the 1930s.

One read: "People who are watching me think I'm writing my license no. and name. Ho-ho!"

* * *

The second, apparently from a witness: "1962 moss green Pontiac 4-door sedan. Upper Canada village sticker on bumper. Man — dark curly hair, glasses, 5'8", 28-30 years old. Woman—blonde, 5'6", 26 years old. License begins with 8."

Boxing Curbs Get Unit OK

Control Bill Clears House Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee approved legislation today to give Uncle Sam broad authority over professional boxing matches broadcast by radio and television.

* * *

The bill was introduced following the Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston bout in Lewiston, Maine, in May, which ended in a controversial one-round knockout.

The measure would establish a three-man federal boxing commission, to be appointed by the president, with authority to license — or refuse licenses — to practically anyone involved in a fight, including promoters, managers, referees and the boxers themselves.

In approving the legislation, endorsed by many boxing figures in recent hearings, the House Interstate Commerce Committee explained the commission's surveillance authority would extend to:

* * *

1. Use of television, radio and other state and foreign communications facilities, and

* * *

2. Those professional boxing contests which are covered by means of such facilities.

STATEMENT

The committee said in a statement:

"It is the purpose of the legislation to establish a federal boxing commission with adequate authority to exercise continuing surveillance over professional boxing matches which are broadcast by television or radio, or which are disseminated by wire in interstate or commerce either to be received on home receivers or in theaters, areas or other places of assembly."

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I have six shares of International Business Machines, and I am tempted to sell these and buy Xerox. What would you advise?"

H. C.

A) What you are asking me is whether you would be wise to exchange one high-priced stock in a specialized field for a relatively higher-priced stock in an even more specialized field.

Some analysts believe that Xerox is at about the stage where IBM was 10 years ago, and that its growth rate will exceed IBM over the coming years. It is quite true that IBM has seen growth slow down — due to intensified competition — to probably a ten per cent earnings gain in 1965 to around $13.50 a share. Xerox may gain as much as 40 per cent to a possible $2.65 a share. Both companies are ably managed and are expert marketers.

Though IBM sells for 35 times earnings and Xerox a high 55 times, I believe that you might well make the switch, provided you can assume market risk and probably greater volatility.

Missing Boys Found Dead

MILLINOCKET, Maine (AP) — The bodies of two young brothers have been found at the base of Mt. Katahdin some two miles from their parents' campsite where they disappeared 11 days ago.

* * *

The boys were Robbie Mott, 17, a mentally retarded diabetic, and Timothy, 3, who had wandered off from a camp at Roaring Brook where they had been staying with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Mott of Rochester, N. Y.

Their bodies were discovered near each other yesterday in a wooded knoll about two miles south of the camp site, a 13-minute walk from Avalanche Field where National Guardsmen and an Air Force helicopter crew had been based for the search.

A medical examiner was sent to the mountain area to determine the cause of death.

"Thank God, they have been found," said their father.

Mercedes-Benz Line

10 New Models to Be Offered

Ten new models of Mercedes-Benz passenger cars will be introduced for 1966.

Other models will be continued with no visible styling changes, but with a number of technical improvements.

New models will have their first public showing at the 1965 International Automobile Exhibition in Frankfurt, Germany.

Some new sedan models in the medium price class will be available for delivery in this county in October.

* * *

Other new models in the higher-price range won't be available on this continent until the spring of 1966.

GREATER POWER

Chief characteristics of the new Mercedes-Benz models are greater power and acceleration, improved interior appointments and quieter, smoother operation with totally new body styles in the higher-priced sedans.

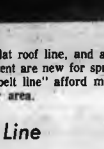

A diesel-powered Mercedes, most popular model of all Mercedes-Benz cars will be changed only slightly, largely in exterior refinements, according to the manufacturers.

The 230 model is expected to find favor in this country, since it provides acceleration and overtaking power favored by North American buyers.

* * *

This model, with twin carburetors and a 9.1 compression ratio, can accelerate from zero to 62.5 miles per hour in 14.2 seconds with a top speed of 106 m.p.h., the manufacturers claim.

Year Crucial for Labor

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — A turbulent year in labor-management relations is nearing its climax.

DAWSON

Labor has piled up so far this year its biggest average wage increase in five years. Idleness from strikes also has been the highest since 1960. And the biggest cliffhanger — the threat of a steel strike—is nearing its final episode.

* * *

Steel users have done about all they can in the way of ordering the metal to be ready if a strike comes Sept. 1. Now the pressure is on the mills to push steel shipment in the weeks remaining to fill the orders that have piled up.

What will happen Sept. 1 may be still uncertain, but what will happen after that is pretty well taken for granted. There'll be a letdown in new orders for steel. Users won't be pressing for early delivery. Whether there's a strike or not they'll be dipping into stocks on hand.

However the steel wage contract negotiations turn out — strike, eleventh-hour agreement, government intervention or pressure, higher wages followed by higher steel prices — the year already is making its mark as one of the most crucial for labor in this decade.

Bargaining has been tougher than a few years back. Both sides, unions and employers, have been harder to move.

* * *

The Labor Department says that in the first six months there were 2,020 work stoppages affecting 852,000 employes with a loss of 11 million man-days of labor. The idleness was the highest since the first half of 1960.

But where settlements were negotiated, general wage increases set a median of 8.3 cents an hour, the highest since the first half of 1960 when the figure was 9.2 cents. The Bureau of National Affairs reports that in manufacturing the median negotiated wage increase in the first six months was 7.5 cents, and in nonmanufacturing 10.2 cents.

FRINGE BENEFITS

Fringe benefits also played a bigger role this year than last. Pension and insurance plans averaged higher than last year. Reduction in workweeks was about the same both this year and last.

But this month sees the labor-management encounter that has most captured public attention —steel.

The public is interested because of the belief that the new steel wage contract may set a pattern for other industries. And if wages are boosted notably, and prices follow suit, there is fear of a renewed wage-price spiral for industry in general. This could lead to a revival of inflation, and a still higher level for the cost of living.

Most steel users are reported to have built up enough of a stockpile to last for 45 to 60 days. After that a steel strike would quickly cripple the general economy. If there's no strike, most steel users are expected to reduce their stockpiles gradually, and this slowdown in steel mill activity will lower the overall industrial production index.

STEEL'S ROLE MAJOR

All this gives steel a major role in setting the course of the economy in the final quarter of the year. And the outcome of the steel - labor-management bargaining may set patterns for a much longer period.

Crisis Around the Corner—2

NY Water Shortage Is a Lesson for All

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three articles on the water crisis in the United States, written by United Press International reporter Harry Ferguson.)

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK (UPI) — Long ago, this glamorous, vertical city was called Baghdad-on-the-Hudson, but now it is Baghdad-on-the-Sahara.

That's a joke, son, caused by a water shortage in the nation's largest city.

Not a desperate shortage in the sense that people are actually thirsty. What New Yorkers are going through is inconvenience rather than tragedy.

You can get water in restaurants only by asking for it. Hydrants are padlocked instead of being opened to cool off street children. Air-conditioning is being used fewer hours in some buildings.

★ ★ ★

Some New Yorkers may be taking fewer baths, although as a patron over many years of the Lexington Avenue subway system, this correspondent can testify there always has been a large antibath bloc among the city's residents.

PERFECT EXAMPLE

New York's plight is instructive because it is a perfect example of how the inertia, procrastination and stupidity of city officials can bring about a shortage of such an essential thing as water.

The warning sign has been flashing red for years. In 1961, the city's reserve water supply stood at 438.6 billion gallons; in 1964, 372.3 billion; on July 22, 1965, 225.3 billion.

In one day, it can, and has, dropped 2 billion gallons.

The city uses about 1.3 billion gallons a day. The irony of it is that two of New York's five boroughs—Manhattan and Richmond—are islands and, as we learned in second grade geography an island is land surrounded by water.

By a simple process of tapping the Hudson River above Poughkeepsie, New York could have had all the water it needed years ago.

Instead, it uses a system of reservoirs which, over the years, have proved inadequate as the population increases.

But there is a quicker solution than tapping the Hudson or building more reservoirs immediately at hand and all it needs is an ounce or two of political courage.

New Yorkers waste 400 million gallons of water a day. The reason for that is that they pay a flat rate for their water—around $17 a year for a home owner.

ALL YOU NEED

Once you pay that, you can use all you choose, and two leaky faucets in your home can dribble away thousands of gallons a year.

The answer is to install water meters everywhere and charge according to what is used.

The answer to why this was not done years ago is that owners of homes and apartment buildings don't want to do it, and the city officials don't want to offend so many voters by doing it.

Universal installation of meters to prevent a water shortage is not a theory. It is a proved fact. Philadelphia now has universal metering.

DAILY USAGE

Daily consumption has dropped from 400 million gallons to 325 million. When you pay for something, you are disinclined to waste it.

You fail to detect a sense of crisis as you walk through the New York streets. The city abounds in watering holes and a citizen brooding about the water shortage realizes that gin and tonic will shake thirst and also adduce a sense of well-being. The bars are crowded and beer flows like, shall we say, water?

Most of the northeastern section of the nation is suffering from drought, and to get to the real core of the crisis you must go north out of New York to, for instance, Waltham, Vt.

There you meet Dwight Burnham in the heart of Vermont's dairyland. He is one of the state's biggest farmers and he sees nothing but ruin ahead. Half a dozen large farmers in his area sold out during July.

"I've never seen anything like it," Burnham said. "After three years of almost no rain, there's nothing that can help us. Two more summers like this and Addison County will be one big, vast desert. The hell of it is all we can do is look up at the sky and hope and pray and beg for rain.

"Nothing else will do us any good. If we have to borrow money to buy hay, how do we pay it back at these high interest rates. Things have never looked worse for Vermont farmers."

The production of hay in Burnham's section is only one-fourth of normal and farmers already are dipping into their winter supply of feed. Some of them are engaging in "selective slaughtering" — the killing off of low producing cows to save feed.

Burnham's is the authentic voice of tragedy and despair. A farmer is entitled to ask why, if we can send a rocket to the moon, we cannot do something about moistening the earth which produces our food.

The United States has had plenty of disastrous bludgeonings from drought. New England suffered one in 1749; the Midwest a severe one in 1860; the entire nation east of the Mississippi in 1881 and, in the 1930s, the Midwest dust bowl.

(TOMORROW: Is there any hope, and if so, what is it?)

It's a Rough Go for Troops Guarding Viet Port Work

CAM RANH BAY, South Viet Nam (AP) — It's a rough go for troops of the U.S. Army 101st Airborne Division guarding Army Engineers building a port on this picturesque bay.

Since arriving July 29, the 3,700 troops from the division's 1st Brigade have had to hack their way through the jungle to dig foxholes, subsist on cold C-rations and pay exorbitant prices for drinks.

★ ★ ★

"We just don't have any luxuries, only the bare minimum," said one officer.

"Eventually, we'll make it pretty tolerable for everyone," said another. "We just have to wait until we get all our equipment."

MORALE EXCELLENT

Despite the difficulties, Col. James S. Timothy, the brigade's commander, says morale is excellent.

The first step to improve conditions will be a switch to B-rations, which come in larger cans and are prepared for cooking. Later the men will get fresh and frozen meats, vegetables and fruits when refrigeration facilities are installed.

★ ★ ★

Steps are being taken to solve a water shortage. Other planned improvements include a rest and recreation program, trips nearby Nha Trang, and construction of a base exchange where soldiers can buy a few luxury items.

Beer, soft drinks and ice are brought in from neighboring villages for the men. But officers say some enterprising villagers bring in buckets of beverages and charge the thirsty troops as much as $1 a drink.

AROUND CLOCK

The brigade is providing security for 2,400 Army Engineers working around the clock to develop a port big enough to handle the men and materials soon to pour into Viet Nam.

The port facilities of Cam Ranh Bay, 180 miles north of Saigon, are expected to be completed within three months.

Paratroopers of the 101st also are standing ready to attack the Viet Cong.

★ ★ ★

"We are in a strategic reserve position," said Lt. Col. Wilfrid K. G. Smith, commander of the 2nd Battalion of the 502nd Infantry. "There is no indication we won't be committed anywhere in Viet Nam."

"I don't think anybody is scared of getting shot," one soldier said. "But in the evening they get a little edgy. Their imagination gets carried away, they hear things moving through the brush. Everyone wants to fire. A couple of times they have."

Several times the Viet Cong have fired on them. Two U.S. Army medics got purple hearts last Wednesday after being wounded by sniper fire.

"Everyone is looking forward to getting the job done as soon as possible and getting back to the United States," said Sgt. Dale Duckworth, a native of Vandergrift, Pa.

Duckworth, 41, has been in the Army 23 years and served in Europe during World War II. He said he is looking forward to seeing his wife, Dorothy, and five children 15 to 3. They live in Clarksville, Tenn.

"I jut want to get back to my wife and continue my honeymoon," said Pfc. Vytautas Vitkauskas, 21, of Baltimore, Md., who married his high school sweetheart, Mary Staiger, on May 22. He spent only two weeks with her before shipping out.

The first elevator for hotel patrons was installed in 1850 in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York City.

S. Carolina Court Rules Wife's Nagging Not Divorce Grounds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The case of the $3 bill in Virginia. The nagging wife in South Carolina. "Homestretch Harry" in Pennsylvania. Three white crosses in Missouri. There make up glimpses from the U.S. scene this week.)

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The South Carolina Supreme Court has ruled that nagging is not physical cruelty and, therefore, not grounds for divorce. The ruling reversed a divorce decree granted in a Greenville County court.

A Greenville County man claimed in his suit that his wife's "unjustified jealousy and nagging grew so unreasonable that he was deprived of rest and sleep, and that such conduct amounted to physical cruelty within the meaning of our divorce statute."

NOTHING MORE

In reversing the divorce decree, the high court said:

The record in the case "shows nothing more than incompatibility between the parties characterized by the nagging of the wife and such conduct does not constitute physical cruelty."

Incompatibility is not grounds for divorce in South Carolina.

Court records showed the couple married in 1924, separated in 1949 and the suit for divorce was filed in 1964.

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP) — The cost of living index is up and the value of the dollar has declined. Just how this affects Mrs. D.O. Taylor's $3 bill is problematical.

The Suffolk housewife actually owns a $3 bill. She found it while cleaning out an old dresser in her home the other day.

It was issued in October 1961 by the Andover Bank of Massachusetts.

Whatever it's worth, Mrs. Taylor says it already has aroused $100 worth of curiosity.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "In memory of Charlie, Jennie and Eddie Squirrel," read the sign which appeared with three small, white crosses on Kenneth Agnew's lawn in suburban Prairie Village, Kan.

The crosses and sign apparently were placed there to protest the shooting of three squirrels which frequented the neighborhood.

Residents of the area had made pets of the squirrels.

Agnew, who recently moved into the neighborhood, complained the squirrels kept dropping walnuts on his car, denting the trunk lid and leaving walnut stains which could not be washed off. He asked the Prairie Village Police Department to do something about it.

Two officers arrived and brought the squirrels down with a .410 shotgun.

The neighbors protested.

"He didn't even ask whether we knew the squirrels," said one woman.

That night the three tiny crosses appeared.

"This reminds me of the Ku Klux Klan—with the white crosses at night and all," Agnew said. He threatened to press charges if he caught anyone putting signs in his yard.

As a result of the controversy, Chief R. J. Hundley announced his department's long-standing policy will be changed and policemen no longer will shoot squirrels when residents ask for help.

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — You might say Louis Dichak came up with a winner of sorts after picking losers all evening at nearby Meadows Race Track.

"I left the track after a bad night of betting. . .opened the front door of my car and there the boy was, wrapped in a blanket," said the 46-year-old trucker from Canonsburg.

Dichak turned the little boy over to the track's security police who promptly dubbed him "Homestretch Harry."

The abandoned baby was taken to a Washington hospital, which reported he was in fine shape.

CREEDE, Colo., (AP) — Creede, onetime gold mine bonanza town high up in southwestern Colorado's rugged San Juan Mountains is about to be sold—at least a big chunk of it is.

The sale, by the Colorado Board of Land Commissioners, is to clear up a land ownership muddle that has existed for at least 30 years—ever since the courthouse went up in flames, and the land records burned with it.

★ ★ ★

Creede isn't what it was 70 years ago when it was a boom town of 15,000; when Bob Ford, slayer of Jesse James, was shot to death there, and confidence man Soapy Smith made it his base of operations.

Then it was a roaring city of tough, hardrock miners, gamblers, girls and gay saloons

Today, the town has about 350 permanent residents. It attracts visitors chiefly interested in fishing or skiing.

Gets $35,000 for Years in Jail

Wrongly Convicted in 1933 Illinois Slaying

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Fifteen years ago Ted Marcin walked out of the Illinois State Penitentiary, cleared of a murder charge after spending 17 years behind walls.

Today he traveled to the state capitol to pick up a check that represented 23 cents for every long hour spent in prison for a crime he didn't commit.

Marcin, now a beer truck driver in Culver City, Calif., and Joe Majczek, now a Chicago insurance salesman, were convicted and sentenced to 99 years in prison in 1933 for the slaying of a Chicago policeman.

Former Gov. Dwight Green called the conviction "one of the most unfortunate miscarriages of justice in Illinois history."

He pardoned Majczek in 1945. Five years later Marcin was released on a court order.

A VINDICATION

Aides of Gov. Otto Kerner said it was probable that Marcin's check for $35,000 — $2,000 for every year wrongfully spent in prison — would be given Marcin by the governor.

"I consider the award a vindication. There are always some people who think they don't convict an innocent man, but the state doesn't give money away to people who are guilty," the balding 56-year-old Marcin said.

Majczek's release came about when a newspaper man spotted a classified ad placed by his mother asking for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the real killer.

★ ★ ★

The reporter, James McQuire, dug up enough information to force his release.

Marcin waited another five years before he too was released on a writ of habeas corpus.

Airline Exec's Son Killed in Viet Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The son of Harold E. Gray, president of Pan American World Airways, was killed two days ago when his Navy attack plane was shot down in North Viet Nam, according to the Pentagon.

Cmdr. Harold E. Gray Jr., 34, was flying an A1 skyraider in a 29-plane attack on the Dong Hoi barracks. He was shot down 40 miles north of the 17th Parallel dividing North and South Viet Nam.

Ethiopia Slowly Fusing Many Cultures, Creeds

WASHINGTON — Ethiopia's 22 million people speak 70 languages and follow many religious creeds.

Such bewildering variety not only hampers the long slow process of fusing the cultures into a nation; it creates problems with neighbors as well.

The Somali Republic has charged that Ethiopians were persecuting nomads along the border, the scene of previous clashes, and signs of unrest were reported smong Moslem tribesmen in the north.

Christianity was introduced into Ethiopuia in the 4th century A.D. and is the state religion, but there are many Moslems and pagans.

* * *

Tension between Christian Ethiopia and militantly Islam neighbors has existed for centuries.

Nathaniel T. Kennedy, of the National Geographic's senior staff, sought out many kinds of Ethiopians during a four-month tour of the remote East African nation which is the size of Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma combined.

Beni Amer Moslems live in the north. These desert fighters — avid for rifles and scornful of police — some times ambush travelers to steal their weapons.

Kenney gave a Beni Amer a lift in his car. When they parted, the tribesman said, "I am happy you did not come here with guns, which we need. Now we do not have to kill you, but can welcome you as friends."

The sensitive and intelligent Amhara people of central Ethiopia have nourished its civilization from Old Testament days to the present.

DOMINATE CAPITAL

Though a numerical minority, the Amharas dominate Addis Ababa, the capital, and the surrounding Shoa Province. Amharic is the official state language.

Monasticism plays a prominent part in Ethiopian Orthodox Church life. National Geographic Photographer James P. Blair climbed a steep cliff to reach the monastery of Debra Damo.

He found the memhir, or chief priest, to be "a wonderful old man with eyes of the true mystic."

In a blazing desert of northern Ethiopia not far from the monastery, Kenney encountered the Danakil tribesmen.

* * *

"They keep goats and camels," he writes, "and fight the Isa Somalis and each other for the few precious water holes. Strangers they murder for their rifles. Every man wears a curved, double-edged knife whetted to blood-chilling sharpness."

The nomadic Abigars, who wear few clothes and cover themseves with ashes to repel insects, live in Ethiopia's southwest Jubabor Province.

Visiting the neighboring Anuak tribe, Kenney talked with a young woman heavily adorned with bracelets and beads, her lower lip pierced by a beaded gewgaw. "I was born," she said, "the year my father killed the black leopard."

By contrast, Kenney saw a young woman in Western sports clothes directing the construction of a modern hotel in the isolated village of Lalibela. She was the granddaughter of Emperor Haile Selassie.

* * *

Kenney's guide and interpreter was a young Addis Ababa disc jockey famous throughout East Africa for his programs of Amharic popular music. He traveled with saxophone, guitar and tape recorder.

In Jimma, the heart of Ethiopia's coffee-growing region, Kenney met Tekka Eganno, one of the most successful of the hard-working Gurag'e people. Tekka began his career selling old bottles and tin cans. He now owns a modern coffee plantation.

Bit of a Bore Is 'Pickwick'

Opens Month's Run at Fisher in Detroit

By PHIL THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT—Samuel Pickwick, the hero of a loosely woven series of sketches by Charles Dickens, was a bit of a bore and a bit of a humbug.

And so is the new musical comedy raised in his name.

* * *

"Pickwick," apparently hoping to cash in on the success garnered by "Oliver," an earlier musical based on Dickens' work, opened a month's run at the Fisher Theatre this week, prior to moving on to Broadway.

The almost all-English cast attempts to tell in dance and song the various misadventures which befall Pickwick and the oddly assorted members of his Pickwick Club, a group of bachelors dedicated to staying single. The effort sometimes is successful more often it is not.

BULK OF ACTION

The bulk of the play's action, for example, hinges on the fact that Pickwick, while attempting to tell his amorous landlady that he is hiring a valet, only succeeds in convincing her that he is proposing marriage. When she discovers the truth, Pickwick is convicted of breach of promise and tossed into debtor's prison when he refuses to pay his judgment.

Surely this is an awfully small molehill out of which to build a ramshackle mountain, and the viewer just isn't convinced. Granted that communication between man and woman has disintegrated, but it hasn't become that incoherent.

* * *

Despite the valorous efforts of an almost unanimously superb cast, "Pickwick" never quite succeeds.

AP Photofax

HELLO, GINGER!—Actress Ginger Rogers, playing the female lead in "Hello, Dolly," reaches around Horace Vandergelder (David Burns) to get to the cash register in the closing act of the Broadway musical. Ginger, who replaced Carol Channing in the role, played the part for the first time last night before a New York audience.

One of Top Lyric Writers

Mercer Reflects on His Career

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD—"I tried to be a singer and failed. I tried to be an actor and failed. So I just naturally fell into lyric writing."

THOMAS

This is the deprecating analysis by Johnny Mercer of his latter-day career. It does not take into account that he may well be the most successful lyric writer practicing today.

Mellow-voiced Mercer is 55, but seems little changed from the days when he and Jack Teagarden intoned the blues as part of the Paul Whiteman organization.

Mercer reflected on his career at his beach home one morning.

"I've been lucky to have been able to collaborate with some of the best songwriters of my generation," he said. "I think I've worked with most of them, except Richard Rodgers."

SOME PARTNERS

Some of his partners and the fruit of their labors: Richard Whiting ("Too Marvelous for Words"); Jerome Kern ("Dearly Beloved"); Gordon Jenkins ("P.S. I love You"); Hoagy Carmichael ("Lazy Bones"); Matty Malneck ("Goody Goody"); Harold Arlen ("That Old Black Magic." "Blues in the Night") Harry Warren ("Jeepers Creepers") and more.

* * *

He has also collaborated with himself on such hits as "Dream," but he seldom writes music any more. "I don't play piano and it's hard to demonstrate songs when you don't," he explained.

In recent years Mercer has been in heavy demand for title songs for movies. This stems from his lyricizing of David Rakson's "Laura."

PICTURE TITLES

"Producers call me all the time with offers to write songs for their picture titles," he said. "I turn most of them down. I think it's silly to write a song that doesn't mean anything, just so you can plug the picture. I don't need the money."

Mercer's steadiest collaboration of late has been with the prolific Henry Mancini. The pair has reaped a golden harvest of money and Oscars. They won the Academy Award two years running for "Moon River" (from "Breakfast at Tiffany's") and the title tune of "Days of Wine and Roses."

* * *

How do they collaborate?

"Actually, we don't collaborate at all," Mercer explained. "Hank writes the score first, and he selects the melodies that can be lyricized. I think it's better to work that way; then I can tune in on the melody. If I write the lyrics first, they're inclined to be more pedestrian, because I'm thinking of rhythms that have been used before."

* * *

Mercer also has written lyrics for movie musicals ("Seven Brides for Seven Brothers"), Broadway shows ("Li'l Abner") — in fact everything but rock 'n' roll. "I'm too old for that," he says.

Legislator Expects Federal Aid for UP

LANSING (AP)—After visiting Washington, Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, said Monday he was hopeful Congress soon would pass a bill boosting federal aid for economic development in the Upper Peninsula.

* * *

He said the bill would authorize federal grants for public facilities needed for economic development, loans for industrial development, aid to regional economic development commissions and assistance for district and county economic development projects.

* * *

The bill, introduced by Sen. Patrick McNamara, D-Mich., already has passed the Senate and is expected to pass the House "in a week or 10 days," Hellman said.

Ruling Monday on Forfeiture of Bond for West

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. District Judge Thaddeus Machrowicz is to rule next Monday on a motion that the $10,000 bond of missing former Rep. Daniel L. West be forfeited.

Chief Asst. U.S. Atty. William Merrill filed the motion. West, a onetime Detroit Democrat, failed last month to appear for a federal trial on 117 counts of income tax fraud.

* * *

West last year was unmasked as an ex-convict who assumed the background of a dead New York attorney. The House of Representatives voted not to seat him again.

State Student Hurt in Germany Fight

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The condition of a Michigan student who was injured outside a beer hall last weekend was reported serious today.

The student is Victor Vanko, 20, of Essexville.

Police said Vanko suffered a probable skull fracture when he fell to the ground after being struck. The scuffle, they said, took place early Sunday morning in front of a well-known Munich beer hall.

Live Animals Perform in Dime Slot Machines

ATLANTIC CITY — The owners of the Steel Pier, George Hamid Sr. and Jr., are using live rabbits, chickens and ducks which are performing inside dime slot machines . . . for a payola . . . it can't be called anything else . . . of a sliver of carrot or half a grain of corn.

WILSON

"The Bunny-Kissing Bunny" sees a light flash when you insert a dime. This pretty little live white rabbit hops about smooching a pasteup rabbit for the bit of carrot waiting around the hutch.

"The Enchanted Hen" and "The Duck That Plays Bass" are doing big business . . . something like 80,000 times so far . . . and are part of the scientific trend.

The "live" performers are rented from the Animal Research and Training Farm at Hot Springs, Ark. The National Humane Review editorially said that the late Keller Breland, formerly of the University of Minnesota and Louisiana State, who pioneered with these live pet performers, deserved praise for operating on a "no punishment" policy. No punishment makes happy performers.

★ ★ ★

Are They Happy? Well, the bunny, duck and chicken never work more than two hours . . . as they'd flounder on all the food . . . they have standbys . . . and concessionaire Paul Steiberg swears if a duck or chicken lay an egg, it gets 10 minutes extra off at the corn break.

All this is a little strange to Papa Hamid, 65 now, who encourages his son, George Jr., to book acts like Herman's Hermits, but personally prefers the Diving Horse and the high wire motorcycle act.

Virginia Graham the Girl Talker says one family got so much aid from LBJ's anti-poverty drive, it can now afford to become Republican . . . "The way I feel now," groaned a tippler at the Pen & Pencil, "a hangover would be an improvement" . . . Introducing Phyllis Diller at the American Royal Box, Soupy Sales said, "Phyllis wants to give special credit to the man who did her hair. He's the one over there with the seeing-eye dog."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN NEW YORK . . .

John Nelson, the Beatles' pre-Ringo drummer, married Kay Poff last Thursday in a midnight ceremony at the Belgian Village of the World's Fair . . . Tennessee Williams took notes while absorbing the atmosphere at Arthur . . . The Rolling Stone Discotheque, which opened last week, features bikini-clad girls on swings, a la San Francisco.

Lonesome George Gobel said he'd much rather kiss a girl in person than in his dreams—"but let's face it, you do bump into a better class of women in your dreams" . . . Joan Collins said at Danny's Hideaway she and Anthony Newley are expecting twins.

EARL'S PEARLS: Of course cigaret smoking makes a woman's voice harsh (notes Quote): "If you don't believe it, just drop some ashes on the living room rug."

Comedian Georgie Kaye saw "The Agony and the Ecstasy," and was sad to see Michelangelo work for 7 years on the Sistine Chapel: "If he'd used a roller he could have done it over the weekend." . . . That's earl, brother.

Rains Drench Parts of East

Dry New York City Gets Almost One Inch

By the Associated Press

Showers splashed across scattered sections of the nation today after heavy rain and thunderstorms in parts of the Northeast and Southeast.

The first measurable rainfall in many weeks was reported in sections of New York State. New York City, with a severe water shortage, got nearly one inch, largest amount since spring. More than two inches fell at Raybrook and Newburgh. The heavy rain upstate aided New York City's parched watersheds.

★ ★ ★

Heavy rain and severe lightning hit the Philadelphia area. Lightning set a fire at the Institute of Pennsylvania Hospital, forcing the evacuation of 100 patients and 60 nurses. A cupola on the hospital burned and fell three stories to the ground. Nearly two and a half inches of rain fell in parts of the city.

Stormy weather zipped across the eastern Gulf Coast and parts of Florida and Georgia. Tornadic winds lashed Albany, Ga., during a severe thunderstorm. Nearly six inches of rain doused the Brunswick and Sea Island areas along the Georgia coast and rain and hail pelted Lake Charles, La.

WEST HOT

Hot weather continued in most of the western third of the nation with temperatures reaching above 100 degrees Monday in Southern California and other areas. The 101 mark at Grand Junction, Colo., was a record high for Aug. 9. The top mark was 111 at Imperial, Calif.

Temperatures were below normal in most of the Midwest and Northeast and near or above normal in most other sections of the nation. Early morning readings ranged from 47 at International Falls, Minn., to 99 at Needles, Calif.

Postmasters Get New Workweek

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson signed into law yesterday a bill putting the nation's 34,000 postmasters on a 40-hour, five-day week.

At the same time, the Chief Executive needled congressmen at the signing ceremonies about a pay raise bill under consideration by the House which would give federal civilian workers a 4.5 per cent boost.

★ ★ ★

This is twice the increase recommended by the administration.

As an "employer," Johnson said pointedly, he hoped he would not become the "chief wrecker of the wage-price nonfinflationary guidelines" of 3.2 per cent.

To Quit DPW Post

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — Burton Peckham, city engineer of Mount Pleasant and director of public works since 1962, resigned Monday to take a similar position at Minot, N.D., Sept. 1.

SOVIET SCENE — Tourists are alike the world over, according to this photo from Soviet sources. In Russia's Onega Islands several travelers are shown snapping pictures of Mihail Myshev, who, with the aid of an assistant, restored the picturesque, all-wood church behind him using only axes and chisels.

Police Seek Drug Charge ort Songstress

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Police said they filed an application yesterday with the city attorney's office for a complaint charging singer Helen O'Connell, 43, with driving while under the influence of drugs.

★

The city attorney's office said it would take several days to process the application.

Miss O'Connell was hospitalized late Sunday night when police said they found her slumped unconscious behind the wheel of her station wagon after they observed her driving on the wrong side of a boulevard.

Police said 12 tuinal capsules (sleeping pills) were found in Miss O'Connell's vehicle. However, she was not booked.

★ ★ ★

After attendants at Hollywood Receiving Hospital pumped her stomach, Miss O'Connell was transferred to Los Angeles County General Hospital, where her condition was listed as serious from "a probable overdose of barbiturates."

★ ★ ★

The singer was released from the hospital at midday yesterday and claimed she merely had fainted while driving, according to a family spokesman.

Scientists Hope New Technique Will Prevent 'RH Baby' Tragedy

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Development of a technique that offers preliminary hope of preventing the potential tragedy of "RH babies" and assuring their normal health was reported today.

A Johns Hopkins University scientist said encouraging, but still tentative, results had been achieved in tests in the United States and England employing injections of gamma globulin, a blood fraction, in women faced with the possibility of delivering such babies.

★ ★ ★

RH babies are those whose blood, while they're still in the womb, is incompatible with that of their mothers. These are babies conceived by an RH-negative mother and an RH-positive father, with the baby inheriting the RH-positive factor from the father.

In the first pregnancy, usually nothing untoward happens to the baby. But in a small but still significant percentage of cases, the mother may become sensitized to RH-positive blood during that pregnancy and a future pregnancy can be dangerous for the next child.

BLOOD ABNORMALITY

The baby may be born with a serious blood abnormality called erythroblastosis, and a complete exchange transfusion of new blood may be required to save the baby's life.

The new technique designed to prevent such emergencies was described by Dr. Julius Krevans at a special summer course on medical genetics conducted by Johns Hopkins and the Jackson Laboratory for Genetics Research at Bar Harbor.

The course is sponsored by the National Foundation-March of Dimes organization.

The new method is aimed at imitating a situation in which mother nature herself sometimes prevents potentially tragic occurrences. That is if the particular blood groups of the mother, father and child otherwise add up to a certain combination, the bad effect of RH incompatibility may be offset.

GAMMA GLOBULIN

In the technique, an injection of gamma globulin is given to potentially susceptible mothers right after they have delivered their first child. The aim is to provide antibodies against RH-positive cells she may have acquired from her baby in the first pregnancy and thus possibly cancel their interference in the next pregnancy.

★ ★ ★

The doctor said preliminary results at his hospital, at Columbia University, and the University of Liverpool, England, indicate that in a very large percentage of cases, the mother's blood can be protected.

★ ★ ★

But he stressed that the "acid test" could only come when a large number of the women under test become pregnant again.

Southfield Man Freed of Polygamy Charges

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI) — Charles V. Porter, 28, Southfield, was freed of polygamy charges yesterday when one of his former wives decided to drop charges that he married again without benefit of a divorce from her.

★ ★ ★

The angry "first wife" pressed charges in Macomb County Justice Court in June. Porter was bound over to Circuit Court where his case was reassigned to Justice Court for reexamination.

Getting a Head Start On Tomorrow...

The Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant on Lake Michigan near Charlevoix, Michigan, was built by Consumers Power Company at a cost of $27,000,000.

Big Rock Point was Michigan's first nuclear electric plant to go into operation. It was preceded by only four other large-scale nuclear electric plants in the United States. It is the largest electric generating station in Michigan north of the Bay City and Muskegon areas.

At maximum gross capacity Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant is capable of supplying enough electricity to meet all the needs—residential, commercial and industrial—of an average city of 100,000 people.

Report Cuba Seaman Admits Murder Ram

MAKE-OVER PLANS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban seaman picked off a skiff in the Gulf Stream admitted today that he went on a murder rampage on the banana boat Seven Seas, a Coast Guard spokesman said today.

"As I understand it, he admitted doing them all in except the cook," Cmdr. W. C. Wahl of the Key West Coast Guard base told the Associated Press.

"The last thing he said was that he sent the cook, Gerald Davidson down to the engine room for something. We don't know where the cook is.

"There is five feet of water in that engine room and we don't know what we'll find there."

* * *

Wahl said Ramirez told interrogators that he left the Seven Seas alone in the skiff.

TAKEN ABOARD

Ramirez was taken aboard a merchant vessel which located the 14-foot skiff in the Gulf Stream 60 miles south of Miami.

He was transferred to a Coast Guard patrol boat which took him to Miami Beach, then was hustled away by U.S. Immigration Service agents.

A tight lid of secrecy was clamped here on the interrogation of Ramirez.

* * *

Another Coast Guard spokesman said Ramirez told the investigators that he shot and killed five of the crewmen aboard the 186-foot vessel, then fled the death ship when her engines went dead as she churned toward his Cuban homeland.

ONLY SURVIVOR

The only known survivor of the murder spree was Elvin Burywaise, 17, who hid in terror for 18 hours in a dark, smelly chain locker so small he could not stand erect.

"There is no word on the motive" for the killings, Wahl said.

When silence fell over the ship after the bursts of gunfire, Burywaise said, he could tell from his place of refuge that her course was changed southward toward Cuba, but the fuel in her main tanks apparently ran out two hours later.

* * *

The Coast Guard speculated that whoever was operating the ship did not know how to switch to auxiliary tanks.

THREE BODIES

When the Seven Seas was towed into Key West, Fla., Monday by a Coast Guard cutter, the bodies of three crewmen were found, one on deck and two in their blood-stained bunks below.

The Coast Guard refused to identify the dead, but Mrs. Raul Carcia, wife of the ship's owner, said they were Aldrich Hinds, the first mate; chief engineer Jose Abad; and Antonio Fornier, a seaman.

Burywaise said he also saw Capt. Rogelio Diaz lying dead in a pool of blood on the bridge, but the Coast Guard said a trail of blood leading to the port rail indicated that Diaz was thrown overboard.

The other crew member besides the missing cook, was

RICHARD N. DON

Resigns Post in Rochester

Council Taps Sinclair as Acting Manager

Rochester Village Manager Richard N. Don, who said last week he had no intentions of quitting, sent his letter of resignation to the Village Council last night.

Don, who was not at the meeting, said in his brief letter, that he was resigning effective Sept. 1, had enjoyed serving as manager, and regretted not attending the meeting to submit his resignation in person.

The council unanimously accepted his resignation and appointed Assistant Village Manager William S. Sinclair as acting village manager.

SINCLAIR

Rumors that Don had been asked by the Village Council to resign started a couple of weeks ago when a "for sale" sign was put up in front of his home.

It was also rumored that he had been given 60 days in which to leave and that he planned to submit his resignation at last night's meeting.

HEARD RUMORS

Council members contacted for confirmation last week said they had heard the rumors but knew of nothing official.

Friday, Don said he was "very happy here" and had no intentions of handing in his resignation at the council meeting.

At that time he said, "we've got a lot of good programs going here and I don't have plans to leave."

* * *

Asked last night if Don had been asked to resign or if he had done so on his own, Council President John Lowes would only say, "you heard the letter."

REPLACED YORK

Don came to Rochester last September to replace Paul York, who went to Troy as city manager. Prior to that, he spent a year as manager in Mount Desert, Maine.

Area Driver Charged in Auto Death

A Commerce Township man who stopped to help a woman motorist last night was struck and killed by another vehicle.

Dead is Ward S. Byrne, 54-year-old General Motors Corp. executive, who lives at 8438 Golfside.

Earl L. Gruber, 47, of 7429 Sweetbriar, West Bloomfield Township, has been charged with manslaughter in connection with the 9 p.m. accident in West Bloomfield Township.

In two other accidents, a man was electrocuted while working in Independence Township, and a young Oakland County bride lost her life in a car accident in Huron County.

Dead are Charles W. Martin, 44, of 2840 Marlington, Waterford Township, and Mrs. Vincent Ruggers, 22, of 10580 Estola, White Lake Township.

TO BE ARRAIGNED

Gruber was to be arraigned today before West Bloomfield Justice of the Peace Christian Powell.

BRING OUT BODY—Rescue operations begin as civilian and Air Force personnel carry out the body of one of 53 civilian construction workers trapped in a Titan II missile silo that was wracked by an explosion and fire yesterday. Rescue teams are using special gear to work in the smoke-clogged silo.

Omnibus Housing Bill Signed by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today the $7.5-billion omnibus housing bill inaugurating a new program of rent subsidies to help build homes for low-income families.

In addition to several new features, the measure contains additional authorizations to continue urban renewal, public housing and other programs for four more years.

Nearly all the controversy over the bill in Congress centered on the rent supplements, described by Johnson in his March housing message as "the most crucial new instrument in our effort to improve the American city."

This provision was saved by a margin of only six votes in the House and seven in the Senate.

This was accomplished after leaders in both branches considerably revised the President's original proposal to make it apply to lower income families than he had intended.

* * *

The bill authorizes an expansion of the low-rent public housing program to cover 249,000 additional units and new methods of obtaining them.

LOCAL FINANCE

Local authorities could finance 100,000 of the units by purchase or lease of existing housing, so that they might be owned homes. Heretofore, this program has been limited almost entirely to new construction.

A new feature in the bill is a program of grants to help impoverished home owners fix up their properties so they can continue to live in them.

Minor Gemini Hitches Solved

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Space engineers solved several minor problems in Gemini 5 over the weekend, then announced the target launch date of Aug. 19 still looked good.

Reports had circulated that the firing of the Titan 2 rocket booster carrying astronauts Air Force Lt. Col. L. Gordon Cooper and Navy Lt. Comdr. Charles Conrad Jr. would be delayed because of the problems.

A spokesman yesterday said there were no new problems and the old ones had been corrected.

One perplexing difficulty was in the oxygen and hydrogen storage tanks used in the fuel cell. Gas was leaking from the super-cold tanks, located in the spacecraft adapter section.

A valve was replaced, and the gases are staying in their slushy liquid state.

The eight-day mission will be the longest manned space flight attempted by the United States or Russia.

Rescuers Work Through Night to Find Victims

Cause of Holocaust in Arkansas Unknown; AF Missile Unarmed

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—The death count from an explosion and fire in a Titan 2 missile launching site rose to 53 today with the discovery of six more bodies on lower levels of the underground silo.

"It is very possible this is the final count," said Capt. Douglas Wood, Air Force public information officer at the site.

Searchers planned to pump several feet of water out of the bottom of the concrete tube holding the missile before giving up the search.

The exact number of civilian workmen in the missile complex at the time of the blast and fire yesterday was uncertain.

* * *

Two workmen scrambled out when the fire erupted and escaped without serious injury.

ORIGINAL COUNT

The Air Force originally said it believed the explosion and fire trapped 48 men in the silo. Later, another Air Force spokesman said the figure should be less definite — "about 50."

Rescue teams wearing asbestos suits and gas masks, and using special gear to breathe in the smoke-clogged silo, worked through the night bringing the bodies to the surface.

The Air Force said the 108-foot Titan II in the tube, an in-

3 Face Trial Sept. 27 in Liuzzo Killing

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Three men charged in the shooting of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, a white civil rights worker from Detroit, will go on trial during the week of Sept. 27.

Lowndes County Prosecutor Arthur Gamble Jr. said last night that the first to go on trial will be Collie LeRoy Wilkins of Fairfield, Ala.

He is one of three Ku Klux Klan members indicted for murder in the slaying of Mrs. Liuzzo, a 39-year-old mother of five who was driving people between Montgomery and Selma the night of March 25 following the 50-mile, Selma-to-Montgomery civil rights march.

The other men accused are Eugene Thomas and William Orville Eaton, both of Bessemer.

Only Wilkins has been tried before. That trial ended May 8 in a hung jury.

State Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, whose office aided in prosecution of the first trial, said that investigations since the first trial have produced no surprises.

219 Cong Reported Killed in Bloody South Viet Clash

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A large government force attempting to relieve the besieged special forces camp at Duc Co has killed 219 Viet Cong in a "battle of sizable proportions" that is continuing, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

Government casualties — including American dead and wounded—are "moderate," the spokesman said, but added, "I describe them as moderate only because of the large number of troops involved."

A U.S. Air Force F100 was shot down yesterday near Duc Co. The pilot parachuted into territory held by the Viet Cong and efforts by planes and helicopters to rescue him were unavailing.

Another plane, a U.S. Air Force F105, was lost today in the continuing air strikes over North Viet Nam, but the pilot was recovered, the spokes-

An early start of a new courthouse wing was given unanimous support by the Oakland County Board of Supervisors this morning as members approved the hiring of an architect to design the addition.

Tentative plans indicate that the estimated $1.6 million structure could begin next spring, with completion scheduled in early 1967.

Greek Turns Down Offer to Try to Form Government

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Stephanos Stephanopoulos today turned down King Constantine's invitation to try to form a new government to bring this Atlantic alliance nation out of its political crisis.

The former deputy premier went to the royal palace and told the youthful monarch that the King's mandate to him "would have meant an attempt to split the Center Union party."

The party Monday voted its solid support to ousted Premier George Papandreou. By unanimous vote, it told Stephanopoulos to stick by the party and to turn down the king's request to form a new government.

"The king does not want this split at any cost," Stephanopoulos told newsmen after he left the palace.

PAPANDREOU FIRED

King Constantine fired Papandreou July 15 and named George Athanasiadis Novas premier in a dispute over politics in the army. After parliament rejected Athanasiadis Novas last Thursday, Papandreou told the 25-year-old king he would have to recall him to the premiership or call new elections. But the king asked Stephanopoulos to try to form a government.

* * *

Youth rallies in Greece's two biggest cities Monday night supported Papandreou's demands and reflected antimonarchy feelings.

* * *

Some 10,000 at an Athens theater cried "Papandreou or elections," then marched toward parliament. Some held placards saying "King beware" and "Out with the German Woman" — referring to German-born Queen Mother Frederika.

When police formed a tight circle around the Parliament building the marchers went to another square.

SHOUT 'PLEBISCITE'

In Salonika, 2,000 demonstrators shouted "plebiscite, plebiscite."

* * *

After the party caucus, the king will probably continue to resist Papandreou's demands. The king planned to "revert to a third, fourth and even fifth solution," he said.

There was no indication whom the king might call next.

The Duc Co battle seened to be shaping up as the most sizable engagement since American and Vietnamese forces beat back an attempt by a reinforced Viet Cong regiment in early June to drive them from the hills to the South China Sea in the area of Quang Ngai, 330 miles northeast of Saigon.

He said the Viet Cong casualties had been confiemed by body count.

2 TANKS HIT

He reported two government tanks had been knocked out but said the government force had captured 74 Viet Cong weapons.

The government force was battling its way westward along Route 19, the east-west highway through the central highlands, in an attempt to reach the camp five miles from the Cambodian border.

Its garrison, now numbering 12 U.S. advisers and about 150 South Vietnamese and mountain tribesmen, has been under siege for 67 days. The Communists attack the camp nightly with mortars and small arms.

* * *

Since early yesterday, Viet Cong forces have been hitting the relief force systematically as it tried to cover the 30 miles between Pleiku, capital of the 2nd Corps area, and Du Co.

EAST OF SITE

The government force was reported fighting about seven miles east of Duc Co.

The U.S. spokesman gave this account of the action:

Viet Cong snipers opened up on the large road force early yesterday. By afternoon, the lead elements were heavily engaged.

Crippled Freighter Heads for Repair

SURVIVOR OF SHIP KILLINGS — Elvin Burywaise, 17, a native of Honduras, is flanked by federal official as he walks past the cargo vessel Seven Seas yesterday in Key West, Fla. Burywaise said a crew member killed the ship's captain and three other crew members. The ship was towed into port by a Coast Guard cutter.

'Cuban Admits Ship Murders'

Franco Salomon, the second engineer.

NO WEAPONS

A search revealed no weapons on the ship but spent 38-caliber shells were on the bridge and below.

What happened to the cook, the Coast Guard spokesman said, "is the big question."

Burywaise, who emerged from his hiding place when the vessel was boarded by a Coast Guard party Sunday, said he saw Ramirez shoot the first mate to death in his bunk.

* * *

"I'm lucky to be alive," said Burywaise, a short, slight Honduran.

SEARCH FOR CLUE

A team of federal agents and Coast Guard officials searched the weatherbeaten freighter for a clue as to whether the killings were the act of a crewman gone berserk or a plot to seize command and sail to Cuba.

The Seven Seas had left Miami and was en route to a Tampa dry dock but suddenly changed course for Cuba, Burywaise said.

He said there had been no hint of mutiny—no argument, no drinking, no complaints about the captain.

* * *

He said he had never even seen the death weapon — believed to be a 38-caliber revolver — until he was leaving the bunkroom about 10:15 p.m. Saturday to go on deck because it was too hot to sleep.

WALKING FAST

"When I was walking out of the room this fellow Roberto Ramirez was coming out of the kitchen," said Burywaise. "He was walking very fast." Without a word, Ramirez leaned over the bunk of the sleeping first mate, Aldrich Hines, and fired three shots into his body, Burywaise continued.

* * *

"I ran up the stairs to let the captain know," he said. He found the captain dead on the bridge.

CLIMBED INSIDE

Burywaise said he bolted aft and ripped open the hatch to the cramped chain locker, climbed inside, snapped the hatch shut and sat on the anchor chain.

* * *

"It was hot and dark," he said. "The sweat ran out of my ears."

* * *

He said he did not hear the shots that killed two more crewmen — one found in his bunk and the other on the deck where he had been sleeping.

Chamber Will Review Proposals on Sign Law

BIRMINGHAM — Revisions proposed in the city's sign ordinance will be reviewed by all divisions of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce before any action is taken by the City Commission.

The chamber was given at least 30 days to consider the merits of the changes after a number of merchants informed the commission last night that they only learned of the proposals earlier in the day.

The amendments would, among other things, prohibit the use of trade names on signs, eliminate the use of temporary signs, and require businesses to turn off their store lights a half-hour after closing.

Commissioner David Breck, who coauthored the proposals with Commissioner Charles Clippert, conceded that the language used in the amendments may be too broad.

* * *

"I'm just concerned over the appearance of the city," said Breck. "I hope we can work with the chamber in straightening out some of these problems."

'TASTE INVOLVED'

William Wizner, chairman of the chamber's retail division, told the commission that he believed there was a "level of taste involved" and that possibly something can be worked out between the city and merchants.

"It seems to me that since the prohibition provision is directed at garish temporary signs, it may be possible to eliminate them through policing within the present ordinance," Wizner said.

Several automobile dealers, who felt that the revisions were aimed directly at them, were told by Mayor Robert Page, that the sign ordinance "touches every facet of business and not just automobile firms."

* * *

Knowles Smith, manager of the chamber, said he saw nothing in the proposals that was "irresolvable."

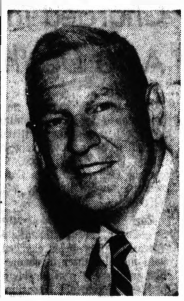

'DISCUSSIONS FUTILE'

Commissioner William Burgum took exception to statements that problems could be worked out through discussions.

"The very people whom this ordinance is directed at are not members of the Chamber of Commerce and couldn't care less," he added.

* * *

"All they are interested in is getting as much as they can out of the city and not in improving its appearance."

Steren Trial Given to Jury in Manistee

MANISTEE (AP)—The Steren Assembly Club gambling conspiracy case was given to a jury for deliberation in Manistee County Circuit Court here today.

There are 20 defendants, all arrested in a raid on the Madison Heights club in October of 1963.

The trial started here July 22 having been shifted on a change of venue from Oakland County. Defendants argued publicity prevented a fair trial at Pontiac.

* * *

The defense lost two attempts Monday to have the case dismissed.

Defense counsel Carlton Roeser asked first for dismissal on grounds the state failed to present a prima facie case. It was denied.

After Assistant Prosecutor Patrick Oliver presented the state's final arguments, Roeser unsuccessfully moved for a mistrial on grounds Oliver had committed "prejudicial error" by "impliedly pointing out that none of the defendants took the stand."

TO ACCIDENT SCENE

Byrne took Mrs. St. Aubin to her home at 3648 Highview, where they picked up her husband and returned to the accident scene, police said.

According to officers at the scene, Byrne and the boys were on the shoulder of the road when Gruber's car swerved into the group of onlookers.

Martin was killed yesterday morning at about 11:30. He was unloading cement slabs off a stake truck at 8551 Perry Lake when the derrick he was working with brushed high voltage power lines.

Deputies said Martin had remote control cable wrapped around his arm and chest when the accident occurred. He was killed instantly, deputies said.

Mrs. Ruggers died when the car in which she was riding collided with a second vehicle on M142 near Harbor Beach.

Her husband, Vincent, 26, the driver, and the driver of the second car, Ronald Wroubel, 23, of 1103¾ LaSalle, Waterford Township, were both reported in critical condition at Harbor Beach Community Hospital.

City Will Act on Rezoning

Requested by Planner of Housing Complex

The City Commission is scheduled to act tonight on a recommendation by the planning commission to deny a zoning change for a projected $4 million multiple-housing complex.

The action will come at the regular commission meeting, scheduled to begin at 8 at City Hall.

The zoning change, from Manufacturing 1 to Residential 3, had been requested by Charles L. Langs of Waterford Township.

The developer plans to build a 263-unit complex on a 30-acre tract of land south of East Boulevard, across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

* *

The Planning Commission has denied the zoning change because of lack of available school facilities.

COMMISSION'S CHOICE

The commission can accept the recommendation from the planners, or approve the zone change themselves.

Langs does not need the zoning change to build the apartments, since the land is already zoned for a less restrictive use.

However, he said he sought the rezoning only to clarify the paperwork involved in the project.

Other action slated for tonight's meeting will include the tabulation of bids received for urban renewal R-20 and R-44 site improvements.

TO RECEIVE PETITION

The commission will also be presented a petition signed by 16 residents urging the city to build public housing for senior citizens in the urban renewal project.

This will be the second consecutive week that this subject has been brought before the council.

53 Die in Titan Silo

tercontinental ballistics missile capable of delivering a nuclear warhead 6,000 miles, did not burn.

* * *

It was not armed, a spokesman said, and there was no danger of a nuclear explosion.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Cause of the blast and fire has not been determined.

Two men escaped with minor burns from the fiery launching tube, bringing out sketchy details of a sudden blast, fire and smoke.

The men in the tube were civilians working to update the missile complex, one of 18 Titan II launching sites ringing central Arkansas.

Four Air Force crewmen in the control center of the complex — the most distant point from the launch area — got out unharmed.

NOT HARMED

At least eight other Air Force men and a number of civilians working above ground were not harmed by the blast.

Rescue teams climbed down into the 155-foot deep silo and carried bodies out of the upper levels — about 45 feet below ground level.

Some 100 relatives, clustered in small groups and talking quietly, waited under a full moon in the warm night air for word of the rescue operation.

* * *

Air Force police kept everyone a half mile from the tube.

BROUGHT OUT

The first bodies were brought out at 7:20 p.m., about four hours after the blast.

The site is about 12 miles outside Searcy, a town of 8,000 about 50 miles northeast of Little Rock.

The fire broke out while carpenters, painters, millwrights, electricians and pipefitters were working in the complex.

* * *

The men were employes of Peter Kiewit and Son Co. of Aurora, Colo. The firm said it would withhold identities of the victims until all the men were accounted for.

DIESEL ENGINE

One of the survivors, Hubert A. Saunders, 59, of Conway, a paint foreman, said the fire might have resulted from the explosion of a diesel engine.

"The fire poured into the gun barrel launch tube," he said. "I was in there and so was the bird (missile) so I got out of there."

He said power failed in the silo after the fire flash and he groped his way out an emergency ladder. He was hospitalized for smoke inhalation.

Another survivor, 18-year-old Gary Wayne Lay of Clinton, a laborer, said:

"It was horrible. I could hear men screaming and crying.

U.S. Rejects Soviet Claim

Reds: Foreign Bases Hamper Arms Talks

GENEVA (AP) — The United States rejected today a Soviet claim that no disarmament progress can be made until all foreign bases are evacuated. It charged that Soviet policy is motivated by the desire to leave weak nations at the mercy of Communist aggression.

The chief U.S. negotiator at the 17-nation disarmament conference, William C. Foster, said the United States seeks no bases in Viet Nam or anywhere else. But it has no intention of abandoning smaller and weaker nations to "the form of aggression which Communists now call wars of national liberation."

* *

Foster appealed to the Soviet Union to consider urgently the threat of worldwide nuclear proliferation.

"It is not the kind of threat that can be averted by the actions of any one country, nor can it be averted by focusing our attention on any single country," he said, referring to the Soviet preoccupations with Viet Nam at the talks. "This must be as clear to the Soviet Union as it is to my government."

IGNORING CHARTER

He accused the Russians of ignoring the United Nations charter in demanding the withdrawal of all foreign troops as a condition for disarmament agreement.

"The Soviet proposal fails completely to acknowledge the right of states to provide for their own defense by entering into agreements for the stationing of troops and bases of friendly countries on their territories," Foster said.

He accused the Russians of deliberately ignoring this so as to favor their own interests, which seek to forbid smaller, or weaker countries from protecting themselves through arrangements with other nations.

Police Probing Death of Man Following Tip

Pontiac Police are investigating the death of a local man, William Scott, 55, of 581 Clara, last night.

Scott was dead on arrival at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital at 11:36. The cause of death is not known at this time.

An autopsy was scheduled to be performed this morning at Pontiac General Hospital.

Lt. Charles Gale, head of the detective bureau, said that at this time the police have no reason to believe the death was due to anything other than natural causes.

The investigation was prompted when police learned that one of Scott's friends had told hospital officials that he believed the man was intentionally poisoned.

AWAIT RESULTS

Police said it would probably be several days before the results of the tests were known.

Malaysia, Singapore

Break Said Friendly

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia and Singapore appeared ready today to work in harmony if they can reconcile Singapore's desire for trade with Indonesia and Malaysia's fears of Indonesian aggression.

Statements issued by leaders of the two governments following Singapore's sudden withdrawal from the federation stressed coexistence and cooperation.

* * *

"We now separate on terms of friendship," said Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman. He underscored points in the separation agreement calling for joint action in economic and defense matters.

Singapore Premier Lee Kuan Yew accused Rahman of forcing the break, but he too stressed the need for working relations between the two governments, particularly in trade.

'ALWAYS OPEN'

Lee's deputy premier, Toh Chin, declared that the causeway linking Singapore with the Malayan mainland will "always be open to Malaysians."

At the same time, Lee said he hoped for diplomatic relations and trade with Indonesia.

* * *

"We can't allow that to happen," said Rahman. "We would take action."

Indonesia was one of Singapore's chief trading partners until Indonesian President Sukarno launched his military campaign to crush Malaysia.

DIFFERENCES

The political - racial as The political-racial differences which led to the break also remained evident.

"Singapore will never rejoin Malaysia in my lifetime," Lee told newsmen.

* * *

Lee, spokesman for Singapore's predominantly Chinese population, claimed the Malay-dominated government in Kuala Lumpur was trying to perpetuate Malay supremacy in Malaysia. Ultranationalist Malays feared he would unite his forces with the large Chinese population on the Malayan mainland and get control of the government.

Lee said Rahman told him separation was the only alternative to racial strife and rejected his plea for a looser federation.

ONE ALTERNATIVE

Government leaders of the Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah, the two remaining partners of Malaya in the federation, said there was no basis to reports that they would also pull out. However, opposition political parties in Sarawak called for a plebiscite to determine if the people want to remain in the federation.

* * *

Indonesians already were claiming a victory over the federation.

In Jakarta, First Deputy Premier Subandrio said Indonesia will recognize Singapore if it "proclaims itself an independent state." He indicated that recognition might be withheld if Britain is permitted to retain its air and naval bases in Singapore.

Joins University

Surgeon General Quits

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson is looking for the "most adventurous and most imaginative doctor in this country" to succeed Luther L. Terry as U.S. Surgeon General.

Johnson yesterday unexpectedly announced Terry's resignation to become vice president of the University of Pennsylvania. The President said an immediate search would be launched for a replacement.

The 53-year-old Terry was a preinauguration appointee of the late President John F. Kennedy. He got headlines across the nation last year when a panel he appointed reported a connection between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

The report caused Terry and thousands of other Americans to switch from cigarettes to a pipe. It also put him under heavy fire from tobacco interests.

* * *

In a recent interview, Terry acknowledged he had been under considerable pressure but that he was more convinced than ever of the report's findings and had no intention of backing down.

He said the tobacco industry had tried to cloud the issue with a "smoke screen" of fallacious statements.

GIRDERS CRASH—A section of a new federal building under construction in Jacksonville, Fla., crashed onto downtown Bay Street during a heavy thunderstorm yesterday afternoon. Some beams fell against the building across the street. Only one minor injury was reported.

Eyes Meaning of Word 'God'

KALAMAZOO (AP) — The word "God" means different things to different people today and many exceptions may be found to any judgment about its use, a prominent theologian told the Second International Ecumenical Conference here.

Prof. Paul Van Buren of Temple University made the observation in prepared remarks at the four-day conference sponsored by Western Michigan University's Medieval Institute.

* *

"Perhaps no word in modern English has so many various and contradictory uses as the word 'God'," Van Buren declared.

A new note is being struck from both Catholic and Protestant sides, Van Buren said. The issue of theism versus atheism is being felt more and more to be not the only way of posing the issue of Christian faith, he explained.

QUESTION OF MAN

"It would seem that the question of man is being increasingly recognized as essential to what Christian faith is about, and that the question of God is at least potentially misleading," he said.

Van Buren was the featured speaker as the conference opened its second day's session. The program includes a panel forum in which Van Buren was joined by Dean Samuel Miller of the Harvard Divinity School, Prof. William Lynch of St. Peter's College, and Prof. Avery Dulles of Woodstock College. Dulles is the son of the late Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles.

Provisional Government in Kashmir?

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—A provisional national government of Kashmir has been formed inside the Indian sector of Kashmir, Radio Pakistan said today.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A man who tried to escape from the Moroccan Embassy by jumping out of a second-story window was identified by police today as Mohammed Selim Ali, a Palestinian employe at the embassy.

Moroccan Ambassador Ahmed Ben Abboud said the incident Sunday resulted from personal differences among embassy employes.

Ali, 30, broke a leg in the jump. He was turned over to police and was taken to a hospital.

Police said Ali registered no complaint against the embassy.

Bit of a Bore Is 'Pickwick'

Opens Month's Run at Fisher in Detroit

By PHIL THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT—Samuel Pickwick, the hero of a loosely woven series of sketches by Charles Dickens, was a bit of a bore and a bit of a humbug.

And so is the new musical comedy raised in his name.

* * *

"Pickwick," apparently hoping to cash in on the success garnered by "Oliver," an earlier musical based on Dickens' work, opened a month's run at the Fisher Theatre this week, prior to moving on to Broadway.

The almost all-English cast attempts to tell in dance and song the various misadventures which befall Pickwick and the oddly assorted members of his Pickwick Club, a group of bachelors dedicated to staying single. The effort sometimes is successful more often it is not.

BULK OF ACTION

The bulk of the play's action, for example, hinges on the fact that Pickwick, while attempting to tell his amorous landlady that he is hiring a valet, only succeeds in convincing her that he is proposing marriage. When she discovers the truth, Pickwick is convicted of breach of promise and tossed into debtor's prison when he refuses to pay his judgment.

Surely this is an awfully small molehill out of which to build a ramshackle mountain, and the viewer just isn't convinced. Granted that communication between man and woman has disintegrated, but it hasn't become that incoherent.

* * *

Despite the valorous efforts of an almost unanimously superb cast, "Pickwick" never quite succeeds.

AP Photofax

HELLO, GINGER!—Actress Ginger Rogers, playing the female lead in "Hello, Dolly," reaches around Horace Vandergelder (David Burns) to get to the cash register in the closing act of the Broadway musical. Ginger, who replaced Carol Channing in the role, played the part for the first time last night before a New York audience.

One of Top Lyric Writers

Mercer Reflects on His Career

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD—"I tried to be a singer and failed. I tried to be an actor and failed. So I just naturally fell into lyric writing."

THOMAS

This is the deprecating analysis by Johnny Mercer of his latter-day career. It does not take into account that he may well be the most successful lyric writer practicing today.

Mellow-voiced Mercer is 55, but seems little changed from the days when he and Jack Teagarden intoned the blues as part of the Paul Whiteman organization.

Mercer reflected on his career at his beach home one morning.

"I've been lucky to have been able to collaborate with some of the best songwriters of my generation," he said. "I think I've worked with most of them, except Richard Rodgers."

SOME PARTNERS

Some of his partners and the fruit of their labors: Richard Whiting ("Too Marvelous for Words"); Jerome Kern ("Dearly Beloved"); Gordon Jenkins ("P.S. I love You"); Hoagy Carmichael ("Lazy Bones"); Matty Malneck ("Goody Goody"); Harold Arlen ("That Old Black Magic." "Blues in the Night") Harry Warren ("Jeepers Creepers") and more.

* * *

He has also collaborated with himself on such hits as "Dream," but he seldom writes music any more. "I don't play piano and it's hard to demonstrate songs when you don't," he explained.

In recent years Mercer has been in heavy demand for title songs for movies. This stems from his lyricizing of David Rakson's "Laura."

"Producers call me all the time with offers to write songs for their picture titles," he said. "I turn most of them down. I think it's silly to write a song that doesn't mean anything, just so you can plug the picture. I don't need the money."

Mercer's steadiest collaboration of late has been with the prolific Henry Mancini. The pair has reaped a golden harvest of money and Oscars. They won the Academy Award two years running for "Moon River" (from "Breakfast at Tiffany's") and the title tune of "Days of Wine and Roses."

How do they collaborate?

"Actually, we don't collaborate at all," Mercer explained. "Hank writes the score first, and he selects the melodies that can be lyricized. I think it's better to work that way; then I can tune in on the melody. If I write the lyrics first, they're inclined to be more pedestrian, because I'm thinking of rhythms that have been used before."

Mercer also has written lyrics for movie musicals ("Seven Brides for Seven Brothers"), Broadway shows ("Li'l Abner") — in fact everything but rock 'n' roll. "I'm too old for that," he says.

Legislator Expects Federal Aid for UP

LANSING (AP)—After visiting Washington, Rep. Russell Hellman, D-Dollar Bay, said Monday he was hopeful Congress soon would pass a bill boosting federal aid for economic development in the Upper Peninsula.

*

He said the bill would authorize federal grants for public facilities needed for economic development, loans for industrial development, aid to regional economic development commissions and assistance for district and county economic development projects.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Patrick McNamara, D-Mich., already has passed the Senate and is expected to pass the House "in a week or 10 days," Hellman said.

Ruling Monday on Forfeiture of Bond for West

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. District Judge Thaddeus Machrowicz is to rule next Monday on a motion that the $10,000 bond of missing former Rep. Daniel L. West be forfeited.

Chief Asst. U.S. Atty. William Merrill filed the motion. West, a onetime Detroit Democrat, failed last month to appear for a federal trial on 117 counts of income tax fraud.

West last year was unmasked as an ex-convict who assumed the background of a dead New York attorney. The House of Representatives voted not to seat him again.

State Student Hurt in Germany Fight

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The condition of a Michigan student who was injured outside a beer hall last weekend was reported serious today.

The student is Victor Vanko, 20, of Essexville.

Police said Vanko suffered a probable skull fracture when he fell to the ground after being struck. The scuffle, they said, took place early Sunday morning in front of a well-known Munich beer hall.

New Zealand was the first nation to grant suffrage to women.
