School Millage Loses in Waterford

ONE COLOR

By MEL NEWMAN

Waterford Township voters turned out in record numbers yesterday to resoundingly defeat a two-year 9-mill proposal for schools. The issue failed in all eight precincts.

Despite foul weather, 12,665 votes were cast — 7,765 against, 4,788 for and 112 void.

The volume easily surpassed the 9,602 ballots which established a record millage vote when the same proposal was defeated Dec. 7.

In fact, yesterday's turnout was an unofficial record for any district millage election in Oakland County history.

AUSTERITY PROGRAM

With the last chance for reprieve thus denied, school district officials will now turn to the task of developing an austerity program.

However, they promised to join other districts in seeking reform of the method of financing schools.

Budget adjustments will begin at the next meeting of the school board, April 3.

"That's when we'll make recommendations on reemployment of staff," announced Dr. Don O. Tatroe, superintendent of schools. "We'll recommend only enough staff for the projected half-day sessions," he said.

'DEFEAT EASY TO UNDERSTAND'

Tatroe described the defeat as "easy to understand in view of what the township faces in terms of a tax burden."

However, he pointed out that understanding the situation doesn't remove the need for funds and he called upon the entire community to become involved in seeking statewide reform in school financing.

"We're starting a tax reform movement in earnest now," he said.

Tatroe asserted that experience in both Waterford Township and elsewhere has proven that the millage system of raising funds isn't sufficient.

SUPPORTS CLAIM

Yesterday's election, in which about 62 per cent of those who voted refused further taxation, lends apparent support to his claim.

Three School Issues Lose in Huron Valley

A record turnout of 3,608 voters rejected all three propositions in the Huron Valley School District's millage and bond issue package yesterday, according to incomplete returns.

The turnout represents 60 per cent of the district's registered voters.

The vote on 21 mills for operations—renewal of 15 mills and a six-mill increase—was 1,665 yes and 1,834 no.

A second proposition calling for two mills for expanded operations lost by a 2-to-1 margin, 1,910 to 943. The third proposition, a $10.5-million bond issue was defeated 1,238 to 888.

The bond issue would have provided funds for a new elementary school, a junior-senior high complex and renovations to older buildings.

Vote totals on the second and third propositions were incomplete this morning with votes from one precinct not tabulated. The votes were sealed for board of canvassers. School officials, however, said both propositions would still lose by substantial margins.

Dr. Theodore Hagadone, superintendent of schools, commented, "The board of education is very concerned residents did not see fit to support a continuation of the present education program."

He would not speculate regarding board action on the triple defeat. The superintendent indicated, however, there undoubtedly will be another millage request on the ballot in June. The board will meet in the near future, he said, to begin discussions on another millage request.

Ike Continues to Grow Weaker

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower "continues to grow weaker," his doctors said today.

In a morning medical bulletin from Walter Reed Army Hospital the doctors reported the five-star general is "sleeping for longer periods" but when awake is lucid enough to converse with members of his immediate family.

★ ★ ★

His physicians said late yesterday his condition was deteriorating and he was not responding to treatment for the severe heart congestion threatening his life.

Their latest report, read to newsmen by Brig. Gen. Frederic J. Hughes Jr., hospital commanding general, said evidences of Eisenhowers' potentially fatal congestive heart failure "continues unchanged."

MRS. EISENHOWER CLOSE

Meanwhile Mamie Eisenhower "remains close" to the general's bedside and is "a constant source of support and encouragement both to the general and others present," it added.

The doctors' reference yesterday to Eisenhower's failure to respond to treatment "is considered an unfavorable prognostic sign," the bulletin said.

Eisenhower, the doctors said, remains in critical condition and there had been a resumption of the deterioration of his heart's ability to function properly.

Tuesday, the doctors had reported success in arresting the deterioration which was hindering the ability of Eisenhower's heart to pump and adequately empty its chambers.

This was the condition that was resulting in the severe congestion.

Osteopathy School Aid Tied to Affiliation With University

LANSING (AP) — The State board of education said yesterday its support of a school of osteopathic medicine rests on the condition that the school affiliate with one of the major existing universities.

The resolution appeared to be a blow to hopes by osteopaths of state financial support for an independent school of osteopathic medicine, under construction at Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

The resolution was offered by Dr. Leroy Augenstein, a professor at Michigan State University. MSU is trying to obtain funds for a four-year medical school to expand upon its present two-year program.

The resolution put the board on record as supporting the necessary public facilities for training doctors of osteopathy.

ANCILLARY FACILITIES

The resolution said, however, that this should be accomplished "through one of our major universities which had ancillary academic and physical facilities to make this practicable and workable."

The resolution said further the board would recommend to the governor and the Legislature that needed funds be provided (for osteopathic education) once the details were worked out for such an affiliation.

Guidelines set up by the board provided that to win approval an osteopathic school should:

- Have sufficient academic strength to support a medical program.
- Have a potential for a broad base of related health science programs to support a medical center.

WILLING TO MEET

When such a school location is not on or adjacent to a main campus, the guidelines said, the university should transmit the reasons for its location.

Meanwhile, the board said it was willing to meet with representatives of the state's medical universities and the osteopaths to try and work out an arrangement that would meet these provisions.

★ ★ ★

Board members James O'Neil flatly objected to the use of public funds to establish any new osteopathic school of medicine.

G'Neil said a recent report by the board indicated Michigan needs to increase its first year medical school enrollments to about 600 by 1975.

"The presently approved three medical schools have indicated they can more than accomplish this goal at a minimum cost to Michigan taxpayers," he said.

"To propose the use of public funds to establish another multi-million-dollar medical school is not only highly questionable, but a disservice to the citizens of Michigan," O'Neil said.

Closed-Door County Meeting Tomorrow

$30-Million Budget Proposed

By JEAN SAILE

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors Finance Committee will discuss a recommended $30.8-million budget for 1970 when it meets behind closed doors at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the courthouse.

The County Board of Auditors has recommended a budget increase of 16 per cent from this year's $25.8 million and calling for the levy of 5.85 mills as compared to the present 5.28-mill tax spread.

The budget which must also be approved by the full board of supervisors, is based on a total state equalized valuation of $4 billion, up from $3.4 billion last year.

Included in the levy are payments to the building authority for construction of the courthouse east wing and the proposed jail and law enforcement complex to be located at the Service Center plus drain assessments. Funds for the east wing and drains previously were levied over the 15-mill limit.

FOR FUTURE NEEDS

As recommended the budget also includes $1.2 million as the start of a capital improvements program which could be used to help fund future building needs.

The total salaries budget recommended for the county amounts to $14 million, including $2 million which has been set aside for new positions, salary adjustments and emergency funds.

No money has been set aside for further land acquisition at either county-owned airport: (Oakland-Pontiac and Oakland-Orion), though $800,000 is included in the 1969 budget for that purpose.

The welfare budget shows a $500,000 increase, including more than $200,000 added to the sum for supplemental clothing allowances, and another $225,000 for food and household supplies. The county's share of the total welfare budget is expected to amount to $2.4 million.

While auditors did not budget any appropriation to the Oakland County Road Commission, the finance committee

Secret Peace Talks Have Brought Progress---Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today secret talks, in "out of the way places," about peace in Vietnam have produced some progress—and added "we're ready" for more.

He talked guardedly about that kind of negotiations, said disclosure of such negotiations strips away the very secrecy which is essential to success.

★ ★ ★

Rogers said the United States has a fair, sound plan for peace, seeking an agreement with North Vietnam "on mutual withdrawal of forces" from South Vietnam as a major step toward scaling down and ending the war.

In his first comprehensive foreign policy statement, defining U.S. aims and purposes over the world to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Rogers also said of the Vietnam conflict:

"We are not seeking a military victory, nor do we want military escalation."

★ ★ ★

He listed first among specific efforts to bring the war to a negotiated end the attempt to reach an accord on removing troops from the South, saying "In support of this policy of peace, we are seeking to achieve agreement with North Vietnam on mutual withdrawal of forces."

"We are prepared," he added, "to begin withdrawal of our forces simultaneously with those of North Vietnam."

★ ★ ★

His statement strongly indicated that President Nixon has decided, for the time being at least, against a one-sided withdrawal of U. S. troops, which Nixon himself had discussed as a possibility only a few weeks ago.

After the Communists started offensive operations early this month Nixon said U. S. troop withdrawal couldn't be considered in such circumstances.

Rogers' emphasis on the troop issue was also taken to mean that it is actively being negotiated now.

Rogers also testified that "the climate for negotiations between the Soviet Union and the United States seems somewhat warmer than in the recent past."

The session was Rogers' first such confrontation with leading senators who have been urging that the United States start disengaging from the war. The group, headed by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the committee, had a running battle with former Secretary of State Dean Rusk over Vietnam.

Latest Sex Slaying Victim a Drug User

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A flirtation with drugs led to a serious problem and then murder, said a Wayne County policewoman recalling Maralynn Skelton, 16, whose multilated body was found this week near the University of Michigan.

Policewoman Beverly Scannell said yesterday Miss Skelton was a known user of drugs.

Her body was found Tuesday in a secluded portion of Ann Arbor not far from sites where bodies of three other young women have been found in the past two years. None of the slayings has been solved.

In each case the young women had been stripped and beaten to some extent. An autopsy showed Miss Skelton died from a skull fracture. Walter Krasny, Ann Arbor chief of police, said Miss Skelton had been beaten near the spot

Reds Assail U.S., S. Viet on Offer

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam and the Vietcong's National Liberation Front today strongly denounced the United States and South Vietnam for seeking private talks on a Vietnam settlement, but failed to slam the door finally on the proposal.

The Vietcong's representative, Tran Buu Kiem, called the offer from Saigon for private talks a maneuver ordered by President Nixon to cover a "policy of intensifying the war."

★ ★ ★

North Vietnam's Ambassador Xuan Thuy, speaking at the 10th full-scale session of the peace talks here, said the offers of private conversations by Nixon and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam were "a deceitful trick to calm public opinion."

★ ★ ★

The formal statements had the appearance of rejection but neither said it would not talk privately. Thus, though the statements were bitter and denunciatory in tone, they had the look of hard bargaining for position, which could go on a long time.

Both made it plain that one of the main obstacles to progress was U.S. refusal to talk directly to the NLF as a separate political entity. Both also indicated that Thieu must drop whatever strings were attached to his offer, such as rejection of the whole idea of a coalition government and rejection of the demand for U. S. troop withdrawal.

★ ★ ★

"Of late," said Thuy, "in the face of the demand of world and American opinion that the new U. S. administration adopt a new policy for a peaceful settlement of the Vietnam problem, President Nixon and some responsible members of the U.S. administration have made vague statements about some progress having been made at the conference, about private meetings and so forth, in an attempt to calm down public opinion."

'FASCIST ADMINISTRATION'

"For the same reason on March 25, 1969, Nguyen Van Thieu, representing the Saigon administration, the warlike and Fascist administration paid by the United States . . . declared his readiness to conduct private talks with the NLF. At the same time he opposed the withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Vietnam, refused the establishment of a coalition government and demanded the dissolution of the front."

This, he said, on "orders of the Nixon administratioon," showed the Americans and South Vietnamese were trying to hinder the talks here.

★ ★ ★

The vigor of this attack, however, did not preclude the possibility of current direct contacts elsewhere between Hanoi and Washington.

Bloomfield Hills Teachers in Pact Talks

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The Bloomfield Hills Teachers Association has listed the maintaining of a competitive salary and a return to a one-year contract as key demands during negotiations with the Bloomfield Hills Board of Education. Negotiations began this week.

The Teachers Association and the board are working for an early settlement in order to avert a situation like the 1967 strike, when teachers were out for nearly two weeks.

★ ★ ★

The present two-year contract expires at the end of the current school term.

Teachers association publicist Richard Makki said the association's major demands cover four areas:

- Requirement of all teachers in the system to pay dues to the Association.
- A pay level that will remain competitive with salaries of other systems in the area.
- Reductions in class sizes.
- Streamlining of contract language.

The Association's initial salary demand is for an $8,000 minimum for a first-year teacher with a bachelor's degree. The current minimum is $6,850. Makki said the salary increase would be across the board for all members of the teaching staff.

2-3 PUPILS

BHEA negotiators are asking for class size reductions of two to three pupils per class. Average class size for the lower levels is now 26 with 30 at the junior and senior high school levels.

Makki said the BHEA also hopes to clear up alleged inequities in the system's insurance coverage, whereby some teachers now not determined to be heads of households may be entitled to increased insurance benefits.

★ ★ ★

Other areas cited for discussion include maternity leave and sabbatical leave pay.

Military War-Hungry —Ex-Marine Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — A war-hungry military shot through with interservice rivalry is pictured by former Marine commandant David M. Shoup as encouraging the Johnson administration to widen the Vietnam war in 1964.

The general, who retired from the Joint Chiefs of Staff just before the events he describes in the current Atlantic Monthly, said "an aggressive military" persuaded the civilian leaders to drop their long-standing opposition to a land war in Asia.

Shoup, a frequent critic of the U.S. role in Vietnam, contends the military brass wanted to test new equipment and young troops and to put hypothetical problems to work in the battlefield.

Adm. David L. McDonald, retired chief of naval operations who served briefly with Shoup, and remained on the Joint Chiefs during the period described, said he thought no purpose would be served by commenting on the former Marine chief's article.

"It wouldn't do any good," McDonald said from his retirement home in Florida. "They're Shoup's views, and I presume he feels he can substantiate them.

"But I'm just a has-been. And, I might say, so is Shoup."

Other members of the Joint Chiefs were unavailable for comment.

$30.8-Million Budget in Works

this morning discussed a $500,000 contribution to a road construction program. The commission had originally asked for $1.3 million.

COSTS ON RISE

The supervisors' operating budget is up $50,000 from last year to $151,300 and while no line item is devoted to supervisor salaries, the sum is expected to exceed $200,000 as compared to last year's $32,302.

The travel and conference fund has been hiked from $15,500 to $27,000 and publishing expenses for supervisors' proceedings have more than doubled to $22,000.

More than $7 million in receipts other than millage, including $2.2 million in state income tax rebates, is anticipated. The net cost to the county of the proposed 1970 budget expected to be $23.3 million.

The finance committee's plans to discuss the budget behind closed doors have been criticized by the Oakland County Homeowners and Taxpayers Association.

A night letter to George Grba, D-Pontiac, chairman of the finance committee, from George Williams, association president, noted that one of the main promises made by most candidates in their campaign for supervisor last year was that the public would be allowed to participate in public affairs.

"What is so secret about more than $25 million of taxpayers' money?" Williams asked.

Osteopathy School Aid Hinges on Affiliation

board previously had recommended that MSU, Wayne State University and the University of Michigan work out a program to enable them to offer degrees both for osteopaths and medical doctors.

Ground was broken last November for the Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM) at Auburn and Opdyke on Pontiac's east side.

The ground-breaking officially was for construction of the first part of the college — a 15,000-square-foot building that will house the facilities for the first class of 16 osteopathic medical students expected to begin studies in the fall.

The college expects to complete the construction of the entire school in 1971 and plans a freshman medical class of 64 students in 1972. The first class of 16 students would graduate with doctorate degrees in osteopathic medicine in 1973.

WILLIAM H. ANDERSON

New President for City Board of Education

William H. Anderson of 2281 Ostrum, Waterford Township, was unanimously elected president of the Pontiac Board of Education at a special meeting last night. Anderson replaces Monroe M. Osmun, who resigned as president Monday for personal reasons. Osmun was absent.

Anderson, 56, who has served on the board for 11 years, has been board president three times, serving consecutive terms beginning in 1962 and ending in 1965.

★ ★ ★

He will serve out the remainder of Osmun's term until June 30. Board presidents are elected yearly.

"For the past five months we (the board) have been harassed and our meetings have been interrupted. Beginning with the next board meeting, let's get on with it and come to some realistic and positive decisions," Anderson said upon his election.

UNDER FIRE

The board members agreed to try to conduct orderly meetings and achieve harmony in the community.

The board has been under some fire recently in the controversy over the location of a proposed $19-million high school, and demands by the Black Student Union.

Dr. Robert Turpin, board vice president, was asked earlier in the meeting if he would take over Osmun's vacated position, but he said he felt he could better serve the community if he were not the presiding officer of the board.

The board passed a resolution expressing appreciation to Osmun, for what he contributed to the board as its president. He served as president six times in his 23 years on the board. He plans to continue to serve as a board member until his term expires in 1971, but will not seek reelection at that time.

Brothers Face Bribe Charge in Probe of Highway Dept.

LANSING (AP) — Two brothers — a former State Highway Department employe and an Ohio businessman — today stand charged with conspiracy in the first indictment handed down in a grand jury investigation into alleged wrongdoing in the highway department.

One-man grand juror Judge Marvin Salmon filed the indictment yesterday, naming John E. Miller, 58, of Lansing, former property management engineer for the department, and his brother William, president of York Realty and Decorating Co., Inc., of Columbus, Ohio.

John Miller, now working with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, was charged with accepting more than $25,000 in bribes for the execution and renewal of a lease for a garage by the highway department in Lansing.

John Miller, a tall, greying man with rimless glasses, surrendered himself March 18, Salmon told a news conference.

At the arraignment Wednesday, he demanded examination, tentatively set for April 4, and was released on $1,000 bond.

★ ★ ★

William Miller, charged with conspiring and giving his brother the bribe money, has not yet been arraigned.

John Miller was employed by the highway department from July 15, 1957, through April 26, 1963.

With the highway department, he supervised the administration of highway-owned facilities such as sign shops and maintenance garages.

But between now and the time reform is achieved, many of the threatened cutbacks in township schools will become realities.

In addition to staff and class-time reductions, austerity will likely affect:

- Recruiting of teaching and administrative personnel.
- Accreditation of the township high schools.
- Maintenance of the school buildings.

Tatroe described cuts in staff and hours as unfortunate, but said that no other move would save as much money.

"There simply is no constructive alternative," he said.

Murdered Girl Was Drug User

where her body was found. He said she was struck while moving, perhaps while attempting to escape from her attacker.

DESERTED FAMILY

The girl had virtually deserted her family in recent months, to join an area hippie colony, according to her mother, Helen Skelton, 52, of Romulus.

"It was back in November that Maralynn started up with these people," Mrs. Skelton said. "We tried to talk her out of it a number of times, but she would just say: 'They're my family now, I don't need you any more.'"

The girl's family said they had no knowledge that Maralynn was a drug user.

Mrs. Skelton said her daughter's boyfriend was a hippie. She said she met one of Maralynn's friends last winter when her daughter was confined.

"I asked who he was," she said, "and he answered: 'I'm the King of the Hippies' and then he put a couple of white pills into his mouth and rolled his eyes."

Fires Hit House, Building in City

Pontiac fire officials report a fire in a school facility resulted in $1,250 worth of damage and a house fire did $5,000 damage yesterday.

Police are investigating a fire which broke out shortly before noon in a high school workshop for dropouts at 87 Franklin Blvd.

A juvenile is suspected of starting the fire in the building — a garage converted into a school workshop. When the building was vacated and locked for lunch, the boy hid in the building, spread gasoline on the floor and lit it, police said.

★ ★ ★

Gasoline was also the cause of the fire in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Curdell, 674 Parkwood, firemen said.

Curdell reportedly was cleaning his motorcycle in a utility room in midafternoon when the cycle's gas line broke and the gasoline somehow ignited.

Both husband and wife suffered minor burns which didn't require hospital treatment. Most of the one-story home was damaged. Firemen said the blaze did $3,500 worth of damage to the house and $1,500 to its contents.

Only State's GOP Congressmen Favor ABMs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Support for President Nixon's modified antiballistic missile (ABM) system in the Michigan congressional delegation is limited to members of his own party, a survey shows.

Among the Michigan Republicans, only Rep. Marvin Esch of Ann Arbor has voiced open opposition to the modified plan which he says still costs too much with a $6-billion price tag.

* * *

Opposition among Democrats in the Michigan delegation is unanimous.

Three Republicans — Reps. Donald Riegel Jr. of Flint, Garry Brown of Schoolcraft and James Harvey of Saginaw — have said they are still making up their mind on the modified system. But each voted for the ABM system last year and is expected to repeat this year.

CHANGED HIS MIND

One Republican, Rep. William Broomfield of Royal Oak, had opposed the system as planned to protect American cities, but switched to the favorable side when the president announced his "modified" plan.

* * *

Other Republican representatives who have said they will support President Nixon's plan include E.A. Cederburg of Bay City, House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Grand Rapids, Charles Chamberlain of East Lansing, Jack MacDonald of Redford Township, Philip Ruppe of Houghton and Edward Hutchinson of Fennville.

In the Senate, Democrat Philip A. Hart has led the opposition to either ABM system while Republican Robert P. Griffin has avoided taking a public stand but will probably vote for the modified system announced earlier this month.

State Heart Recipients Plan Coho Fishing Trip

WAYNE (AP) — Michigan's three heart transplant patients are planning a coho salmon fishing expedition together in September.

"How do you like that?" asks Donald Kaminski, transplant patient No. 2, who got his new heart last December. "Three transplants in one boat!"

* * *

Kaminski, 38, contacted the state's other two transplant patients to invite them on the trip.

ALSO ACCEPTED

"I'm ready to go," Gerald K Rector, 43, told nurses at the University of Michigan Hospital, where he still is recuperating from heart transplant March 17.

Philip T. Barnum, the state's first transplant patient, also has accepted the invitation, hospital spokesmen said.

Kaminski says he plans to take up the invitation of a group of doctors in Iowa to do some bird shooting, but first he wants to:

- Drive to Alpena, 250 miles from the Detroit suburb of Wayne where he is convalescing with his daughter and son-in-law, to do some fishing with his teenage son.
- Go trout fishing with a friend in north central Michigan.
- Go fishing with another friend in Canada.
- Attend a banquet in April, when the Michigan Heart Association wants to make him an honorary lifetime member.

* * *

Kaminski does a lot of driving in the new car he bought three days after being released from the hospital in early February.

He frequently goes to the local YMCA for swimming, makes occasional trips to a variety of billiard emporiums to help him regain his standing as "a pretty good pool player," and heads for the horse tracks to test a system he says he developed while he was in the hospital.

Shelby Session Set in Firemen Salary Dispute

SHELBY TOWNSHIP — Representatives of Firefighters Local 1338, the Township Board and the State Labor Mediation Board will hold another public fact-finding session at the Township Hall Monday in an attempt to reach a settlement in the nearly year-long salary hassle between the fire fighters and the Township Board.

Shelby firemen who now earn $8,000 annually, seek a two-year contract that would start pay at $8,750 retroactive to Jan. 1, move to $9,200 in July and to $9,900 in July 1970.

* * *

Firemen were near a settlement several weeks ago, but negotiations broke down when local police won a contract with the Township Board that contained a starting minimum pay of $9,250 after one-year of probationary service.

Fire fighter negotiators then asked for a settlement equal to that of the police. Firemen and police officers both received an $8,000 minimum annual income before the policemen's first contract with the Township Board was ratified.

'WILL SETTLE FOR $8,750'

Rubin Gomez, chief negotiator for the firemen, said the local is now willing to settle for an $8,750 minimum with 10, 20 and 30 per cent increases for sergeants, lieutenants and captains respectively as a compromise solution. Officers currently receive six, 12 and 18 per cent respective increases over the minimum salary.

The Township Board has been unwilling to go above the $8,500, which Gomez said the fire fighters were near agreement on when the police contract was completed.

The board has maintained that it does not have the funds to meet the fire fighters' current wage demands and will not until new tax monies begin coming in at the start of the fiscal year in July.

Firemen have also alleged they warrant at least a parity wage with the police force since fire fighters work a 56-hour week as opposed to 40 hours for policemen.

Gomez said the Fire fighters hope to reach a settlement next week.

"We are not planning to strike at the present time and will continue to negotiate until all possibilities have been exhausted," Gomez said.

No Action Yet on Petitions for New Avon Charter Unit

AVON TOWNSHIP — The validity of petitions calling for a new charter commission in this township has not been determined as yet, according to Township Clerk Mrs. Thelma Spenier.

Mrs. Spencer said last night that checking to find out whether the petitions contain the signatures of 300 registered voters, as required by law, has not begun because of the current involvement of township officials with board of tax review activities.

* * *

The petitions, purported to contain 401 signatures, were filed with Township Trustee Earl Borden, "de facto mayor" of the "City of Rochester Hills," Sunday morning, within the 10-day deadline prescribed by law after the certification of the vote in the charter election March 10.

Filing the petitions for the new commission was Robert Thor, 3238 Donley, founder of the Avon Township Committee for Fairer Taxes, Inc.

OPPOSED CITYHOOD

Thor opposed cityhood prior to the March 10 election, in which township residents turned down the proposed charter for Rochester Hills by nearly a 2-1 margin. Had the charter been approved, incorporation would have taken effect a month later.

(As a result of the charter election, Borden became, by law, "de facto mayor" of the "city" by topping the list of candidates for city council.)

* * *

Thor said today that the petition drive was conducted throughout the township. He theorized that many residents, besides being dissatisfied with the proposed charter, simply "weren't ready for a city."

After the election, Thor added, "a group of residents got together and decided that a new charter commission might be in order, and acted accordingly."

* * *

Mrs. Spencer said earlier that the new commission election, if one takes place, might extend the deadline for incorporation, with another two years beginning at the election date.

A local legal authority, however, said the original deadline of Jan. 15, 1970 — two years after the township's original vote to incorporate — for charter approval will still be in force. He added, though, that a new commission could submit virtually the same charter, with only a change in wording, for a new vote.

Housing Experts at Confab at OU Air Need for Change

There will have to be some changes if Oakland County is to meet its housing needs of the future — particularly in the low- and medium-cost housing field, according to some 40 area planners, builders and transportation experts who met yesterday at Oakland University.

It was the third in a series of "brainstorming sessions" conducted by Development and Resources Corp. of New York.

Change No. 1 will likely involve zoning — probably a sharing of responsibility between the county and the local community.

The need to get control out of the hands of the "broomstick brigade" — a description of irate housewives who sway the decisions of zoning boards — the need to plan on a broad scale and to use realistic lot sizes for a future population density were cited.

OUTDATED HOUSING

A need to control the removal of outdated and substandard housing was also discussed.

* * *

The second change seen as necessary was the use of newer and cheaper building products, which are not permitted under many building codes.

Suggested was a "new products" board, composed of engineers, which would require testing of new materials and then recommend the use to local areas.

* * *

While the present zoning system was pointed out as enforcing a socioeconomic segregation, it was noted that no one really knows what the proper mix of incomes or of races should be.

PROBLEM AREAS

Oakland County as a whole was reported as currently having above-standard housing — the problem areas occurring mainly in the area north of Eight Mile Road, in Pontiac (which was cited as the only area doing anything about low-income housing), and in the many lake areas of the county.

* * *

The trend toward increased apartment construction, cluster developments (a mixture of various type housing and commercial), the probability of increased government subsidization for low cost units, and the need for a vast education program to change public opinion were all discussed.

2nd Man Held in Break-In Case

ROMEO — State Police here have charged a second man in connection with a series of house break-ins in northern Oakland County and parts of Livingston and Macomb counties since Jan. 1.

Robert Patterson, 24, of Detroit is awaiting examination in 42nd District Court. No date has been set. He is charged in the March 4 breaking and entering of the John N. Clark residence at 64460 Romeo-Plank.

Jerry R. Fisher, 24, also of Detroit, had previously been arrested in connection with the Clark break-in. His examination is slated for April 11.

Both men are in custody at Macomb County jail.

Fisher and Patterson are suspects in more than 50 daylight break-ins of mostly rural residences during the past three months, police officials said. The losses have included small portable appliances, television sets, jewelry, furs and small amounts of cash.

State police detectives said virtually the same pattern was followed in all of the thefts — driving to a residence in a rental truck, checking to see if anyone was home, then breaking in the door and ransacking the residence.

Police Crack Down on Junk Cars in Troy

TROY — It's spring cleanup time and, as far as Troy Police are concerned, this means "out with junk cars." Yesterday, police issued 79 violation notices in two square miles.

The campaign to get the cars either removed from private property or licensed and in running order is to continue today. Those failing to comply with city ordinance requirements face misdemeanor charges in Municipal Court.

Consolidation Is Urged

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the last in a series.)

By TOM GRAY

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Consolidation — admittedly a rarity in Michigan history — offers the most advantages in governmental development for this rapidly urbanizing township, according to a recent Michigan State University survey on area governmental organization.

The study, prepared by the university's Institute for Community Development and Services, examines consolidation as one of a list of possible alternatives for future development.

Others are continuation under the same four governmental units (Farmington Township, Farmington City, Quakertown Village and Woodcreek Farms Village), incorporation of the township with or without the villages, and annexation of the township by the city, again with or without Quakertown and Woodcreek Farms.

PRESENT SETUP UNSATISFACTORY

Continuation of the present setup will not prove satisfactory because of the demands on the township's form of government created by growth, the report predicts.

Some form of intergovernmental cooperation, it adds, will likely prove necessary as the population and demand for services mounts.

* * *

However, the report continues, intergovernmental arrangements are subject to a variety of ills because of heavy dependence on goodwill and the ability of the individual officials involved.

"Cooperative arrangements may not be able to bridge the diverging interests when matters such as locating a dumping site, trailer park or industrial complex are concerned," it explains.

CITYHOOD RULED OUT

Incorporation of the township itself as a city is ruled out, partially on the same basis (need for cooperative relations between two cities) and partially because of its duplication of administration.

"We have not attempted to identify the savings which would result from having a single government in the area as opposed to four or five, but we are confident that such diffusion is costly and that it detracts from effective government," the study comments.

* *

Annexation of the township and villages by the city is also regarded as unsatisfactory, primarily because it does not provide for smooth transition into a unified form of government as does consolidation, according to the report.

Consolidation, therefore, is offered as the best course for governmental development in the Farmington area.

METHOD NOW PROVIDED

Under a new state law passed last year, which established a State Boundary Commission, the study says, a method "of bona fide consolidation of two or more governmental units" is provided for the first time.

The new law's procedure, according to the study, is roughly similar to the incorporation process. Petitions are submitted to the boundary commission and a charter commission is elected when the units vote to consolidate.

* * *

The advantages of consolidation identified by the study are numerous:

- More efficient application of area resources to area problems. The "wearing down" of neighborhoods through age, the report says, is more easily controlled when there is a balance between old and new development. The city contains more older areas, while the township has a great deal of new development.

* * *

- Better development of an economic base. Wasteful competition for industrial and commercial development would be eliminated.
- Better use of governmental skills. Rather than employing professional firms on a part-time consultant basis, some specialists could be hired full time to serve the entire area.

* * *

- Better road maintenance with the return of gas and weight taxes to a city government. Such taxes are not returned to the township.

The report concludes: "In recommending consolidation as the preferred form of reorganization of the area governments, we have considered the fact that it has been little used in Michigan. Nevertheless, we consider this alternative to be workable . . . We think considerable long-term gains to the entire area will result . . ."

Notice Is Served to Township Board

Avon Citizen Group Eyes Zoning Vote

AVON TOWNSHIP — Proposed property rezonings may become questions resolved at the polls, according to notice served the Township Board last night.

R. D. Ruger, president of the Avon Township Citizens for Better Government, said his group would fight proposed rezoning they judge to be unfavorable "in any way we can up to and including referendum petition."

* * *

Ruger's notice was contained in one of two letters he submitted to the board. He asked in the letter for a ruling now on how many signatures would be necessary on a referendum petition.

* * *

In the second letter, Ruger of 483 Rochdale opposed rezoning portions of property southwest of Avon and Rochester Roads from single family residences to multiples.

The president of the citizens group alleged that township may be receiving a gift of land for a projected water and sewer service building as consideration for rezoning.

"Assuming this particular developer is not a philanthropist, we can only assume that this contribution of acreage to the township constitutes a business transaction, in effect, a deal," said Ruger.

* * *

He added, "It appears that the contribution is an inducement to the township board to rezone the remainder of the property to multiples."

Ruger urged that the township purchase property if that was what was wanted, and that the rezoning then be considered on its merits.

CONTENTION DENIED

Clerk Mrs. Thelma Spencer, who chaired last night's meeting, denied Ruger's contention, stating she had not accepted any gift or engaged in any deals for any rezoning.

Township Attorney Rex Bebout, in response to a question, said he had never had the terms of the property transfer mentioned in his presence.

* * *

In the discussion that followed, Trustee George Ennis said there would be no need for a planning commission if unfavorable rezonings were subjected to a vote of the people.

Ruger said his group just wanted the township to adhere to the master plan. If this were done, he indicated, his group would have little complaint.

'MERELY A GUIDE'

Trustee William McCullough, who said the master plan was merely a guide and not legally binding, asked for constructive suggestion from the citizens group.

"If this is going to be a question of who yells the loudest, that's a poor way to run a township," he added.

In actual business, the township board last night approved rezoning of 10.7 acres near the northeast corner of Avon Road and Livernois for a projected Knights of Columbus hall and recreation site. The rezoning was to B-3 business.

In other business last night, the township board:

- Received a letter from Oakland Township, stating the latter could not contribute anything to the township library budget at this time except the state penal fine reimbursement it received.
- Received a letter from the Oakland County Road Commission saying that a Pontiac site for a domed stadium would have only a minor effect on township traffic.
- Approved the expenditure of $12,650 to drill two test water wells. The funds are to be advanced by the township with the township being repaid when revenue bonds are issued for the township's projected water and sewer program.
- Approved sending a letter to Tienken Manor subdivision in response to petitions received from residents there asking their water system not be interconnected with an over-all township water supply system.

NO FURTHER CHANGES

The township letter contends residents were given misinformation and states that homes now with water will not be subject to further charges and current water rates remain in effect.

The letter contends inclusion in the planned program will be an advantage to the subdivision residents, assuring a greater reliability of water supply and a more uniform pressure in the system.

Compensation Fraud Must Be Stopped, Says State Official

DETROIT (AP) — A small group of law firms in the Detroit area is involved in a scheme to bilk large corporations and the city of Detroit out of millions of dollars in workmen's compensation claims, according to a state official.

The compensation racket "must be stopped and stopped now, not two years from now," said Burke L. Dailey, director of the State Workmen's Compensation Bureau.

Dailey said in a news conference that it appeared only about 10 law firms were handling the bulk of fradulent claims, but berated the Michigan Bar for being slow to act despite its knowledge of the situation.

"What they are doing is the lowest form of ambulance chasing," Dailey said of the 10 firms, which he declined to name.

In addition to the guilty firms, Dailey said, the racket involves physicians who supply phony medical reports to confirm heart, lung and back ailments which are said to be work-connected.

The charge also is aimed at personnel workers, local union officers and stewards who allegedly solicit clients for the law firms.

★ ★ ★

The largest victims of the relatively new racket are the major auto companies and their suppliers and the City of Detroit, all of which have state permission to underwrite their own workmen's compensation insurance.

Smaller businesses are required to purchase unemployment coverage through insurance companies.

General Motors wrote the State Bar a year ago after benefits paid to retirees had shot from $120,000 in 1962 to $3 million in 1967.

"The number of retiree claims against GM has increased 11,000 per cent in seven years," said GM Vice President Earl R. Bramblett. "The pace is not slowing down."

"These firms are flooding the big companies that can most afford to pay," said one attorney. "What they shoot for is settlements. They know that litigation is expensive and that ultimately, the company will want to take the settlement route."

Dailey said a form letter was sent to members of United Auto Workers Local 160, consisting of GM technical center employes, informing them:

"It has recently come to our attention that as a UAW retiree, you may be entitled to additional benefits under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Law. As an incidental benefit, we have arranged a meeting for you with the law firm of . . ."

"We are only trying to do our retirees a service and we are not involved in any schemes," says Local 160 Vice President Fred Murray.

'NO PROOF'

"We have no proof that letters like this are solicitations," Dailey says. "The letters may contain misleading information, but we cannot establish criminal conduct unless we can show there were kickbacks. We have many reports of payoffs and kickbacks, however."

Some of the methods of solicitation by the accused firms, Dailey said, include:

- Retiree parties, where paid workers pass out business cards of law firms. "They even provide bus service and arrange car pools" for the parties, according to Dailey.
- Buying lists of pensioners from plant personnel employes or local union stewards. According to Dailey, runners are paid as much as $25 a head for "live ones" recruited from the lists."
- Signing up claimants in hospitals.
- Dressing hustlers in ministerial garb and placing them outside churches on Sundays to pass out business cards.
- Letting local union officials pass the word.

The Michigan Manufacturers Association says unemployment compensation insurance premiums have shot up 43.6 per cent since 1965 and have become a factor in the stalling of industrial expansion in the state.

Flower Show Scores

Although the weather for the opening of The Press-sponsored Lawn, Garden and Flower Show which opened in the Pontiac Mall Shopping Center Monday was anything but springlike, the vista presented by the Mall concourses radiated the warmth and beauty of the season.

The exhibition marked the Pontiac area's first such undertaking, and the numbers of visitors and the enthusiasm displayed left little doubt that it will become an annual event.

In addition to the set displays varying in size and emphasis positioned throughout the public area, daily afternoon and evening programs are held in the mini-auditorium dealing with all aspects of horticulture, lawn care, arboreal techniques and birdlife.

The PRESS congratulates the 45 exhibitors and participants on their interest and participation that made possible the impressive success of the week-long exhibition.

States Views on Plans for Recreation Funds

Romney's recent assertion that he made "no commitment" to split the $100-million recreation bond on a 70-30 basis is misleading. His administration not only lead the voters to believe that such was the case, but through Milliken told Michigan voters what specific state services and facilities they would receive.

Governor Milliken's present recommendations fall far short of his pre-election promise. He promised we would receive 6,000 new campsites and 1,000 miles of trails, but now recommends only 41 camp grounds and 500 miles of trails, etc. Michigan voters approved a bond issue which would have substantially increased state and local revenues by increasing the tourist business. An increase in state tourism would produce an increase in job opportunities in the 70 counties where tourism is the major economic force and would increase the $70 million in direct taxes tourists paid in 1967.

★ ★ ★

Governor Milliken's recommendations would add a substantial financial burden on our urban areas by requiring them to spend millions in matching funds and more millions over the years for urban park maintenance.

Don't Sit on Your Seat Belt

The old saw about "leading a horse to water but you can't make it drink" well applies to motorists who've been provided safety belts but won't use them.

Keying its safety belt campaign to the theme, "It's Lock It to Me EVERYTIME," the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County warns that drivers without safety belts locked receive dangerous or fatal injuries 70 per cent more frequently than those with locked belts.

In Oakland County last year, 161 persons died and an estimated 16,500 were injured in traffic — more than the combined populations of Bloomfield Hills, Farmington, Rochester and Sylvan Lake! Tragically, the figures are not surprising, since a survey indicated that the use of safety belts in the County is the lowest in the Nation.

Bear in mind, counsels the Association, that four out of five accidents occur within 25 miles of the driver's home — half of them at speeds under 40 miles per hour. It's that quick trip to the market or drug store that's most dangerous — the most important time of all to lock your safety belt.

Parents have a double obligation to use their safety belts — first for their own sakes, and second to train their children by example in the unfailing use of them.

★ ★ ★

It is ironic that with highway accident and casualty totals continuously on the rise, drivers have within reach the instrument for checking them, but fail in so shockingly many cases to employ it. The safety belt, that is.

David Lawrence Says:

Impatience Sweeping the Nation

WASHINGTON — The majority of the American people who went to the polls last autumn wanted less war, less government spending, less crime, lower costs of living, and less interference with the quality of education in the public schools.

LAWRENCE

But today there is a mood of impatience sweeping the country because the new administration in Washington hasn't shown signs of an intention to deal firmly with these major problems.

The public is bewildered by the controversy over the antiballistic missile system, just as it is frustrated by talk of peacemaking in Paris while the North Vietnamese step up their assaults on American and South Vietnamese troops.

Hints have been heard here that the administration will try somehow to wiggle out of the Vietnam conflict, but hopes may be raised beyond the point of realism.

For the issues in the Vietnam war, if not decisively settled, can pave the way for further acts of irresponsibility by the Communists that could bring on a bigger war.

MAIN RESPONSIBILITY

So far as crime is concerned, the administration has promised to enforce some federal laws relating to interstate activities of criminals or conspirators.

But the President has pointed out that state and city governments must, after all, bear the main responsibility. This, of course, cannot be accomplished without the expenditure of large sums.

Although the federal government indicates that it will do something about sharing tax revenues with the states, it can be done but not necessarily in the immediate future.

As for a reduction in the cost of living, the latest figures from official sources show the curve is still moving upward. Labor costs haven't diminished, and prices of many manufactured products are showing no sign of coming down.

JUSTIFICATION

The 10 per cent surtax on incomes, it has been announced, will be retained at least another year. There is, to be sure justification for keeping it.

Most people don't realize that if inflation is to be curbed, spending power must be restricted somewhat. It will take time for the higher interest rates and other restraints which have been imposed to cool off the "overheated" economy.

★ ★ ★

No administration could possibly transform this situation overnight and not even in a single year. It may require the rest of Mr. Nixon's term to achieve the desired results.

Meanwhile, Congress has just approved a bill permitting the national debt to be increased by $12 billion.

CONGRESS IGNORED

So much attention is focused on a new president during his first few weeks in office that the responsibilities and obligations of the new Congress, which started its session on Jan. 3, 1969, are being overlooked.

It happens that the Democratic party has a majority in both houses, and there are lots of measures which could be enacted into law limiting expenditures and clarifying the ambiguous phrases of previous laws without waiting for recommendations from the administration.

★ ★ ★

The legislators have given the impression that they want Mr. Nixon to make the first moves, but already some of his programs — such as his effort to assure a better defense system — are under heavy criticism.

President's Headaches Rife

"The jobs facing Mr. NIXON and his administration," observes the Greensburg (Ind.) Times, "include ending the war with the Communists in Southeast Asia and elsewhere; restoring law and order in American cities; relieving poverty of several millions; reducing the Federal payroll by at least one-third; restoring the dollar's value; stopping strikes that imperil the Nation; make our citizens of all races, colors and creeds to lie down like the lion and the lamb; establish a fair price for farm products; stop the long-hair-and-sideburns craze; restore more visibility to girls' faces and less to their knees; and promote the general pursuit of peace and tranquility—with the fewest possible pills."

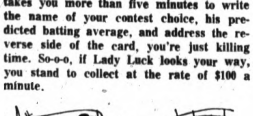
Baseball Contest Figures, Fancies

When you come to think of it, we don't know of anything that pays off at a higher rate than the winner's award of a $500 U.S. Savings Bond that goes to the man, woman or child who qualifies as the Peerless Picker in The Press Annual Baseball Contest.

You don't buy it, eh? "How about Nixon's salary of $200,000-plus per annum," you submit; and add Kaline's $90,000 for a year's work as a clincher.

Okay. Break out paper and pencil. If it takes you more than five minutes to write the name of your contest choice, his predicted batting average, and address the reverse side of the card, you're just killing time. So-o-o, if Lady Luck looks your way, you stand to collect at the rate of $100 a minute.



There are 1,440 minutes in a day, $25,600 in a year. At $100 a minute, you'd be working at the rate of $52,560,000 a year. Right? Which, even with inflation, isn't a bad rate of pay, if you ask us.

What's that? The man in the back row complains that we haven't deducted the cost of the postal card . . . We-l-l, if you're going to split hairs, that does throw a different light on it. (Editor's note: Something told me . . .)

★ ★ ★

Speaking of postal cards, if you don't entrust deliver of your entry to Uncle Sam, you can submit it on any little old card and drop it in the newspaper's Huron Street drop box (see rule 3). Only don't try any fancy form of delivery.

It is rumored that a contestant (he must have been an exhibitionist) once attempted to enter his entry by parachute drop. But he miscalculated, and the entry landed in a tree, was snagged on a twig where the birds pecked away at it. The luckless contestant then and there decided that dispatch by parachute was strictly for the birds.

But regardless of how you submit your entry, read over the rules carefully to be sure everything is copesetic before launching it Pressward.

Cheerio.

CONTEST RULES

1. Anyone, and all members of families (except Press employes and close relatives), are eligible to enter contest. Entrants are limited, however, to one entry each.

2. To enter, submit name and batting average of the AMERICAN League player (and the club with which identified at time of entry) who you think will lead the league as shown by the Associated Press tabulation of batting averages appearing in sports section of the Saturday, April 19, edition of The Press—the closing date of the contest.

3. Entries should be written on postal cards or substitutes and addressed to The Pontiac Press Baseball Contest, P.O. Box 777, Pontiac, Michigan 48056. They may be mailed or deposited in The Press Huron Street drop box.

4. The entrant who correctly picks the leading batter (or comes closest) will receive the winner's award of a $500 U.S. Savings Bond.

5. The deadline for entries is Monday noon, April 7, and they must be received by The Press by that time. Entries received later, even though postmarked prior, will not be considered.

6. Decisions by Pontiac Press judges will be final on all questions related to the contest.

Bob Considine Says:

Successor Happy to Hear of Award for Dean Rusk

New York — People . . . Places . . .

Dean Rusk will receive the Sylvanus Thayer award at West Point. The vote of the 10-man panel of active and retired West Pointers was unanimous.

"Of all the CONSIDINE nominations we received we felt that Rusk best exemplified complete dedication to the terms of the award — Duty, Honor, Country," General Rosy O'Donnell, the panel chairman, told us after the vote.

No one was happier to hear the news than Rusk's successor, William P. Rogers. "He's been a great help to me," Republican Rogers says of Democrat Rusk.

The St. Patrick's Day banquet I'm sorry I missed was held in Scranton last Sunday. Chairman Frank Boyer was assisted by Vincent Dutkevitch, John Brudzinski, Joseph Maciak, Stanley Katinsky, Manuel Adamsky, John Sosinsky, John Seresky, Alfred Pochaski, Stanley Borowski, Joseph Silva, Stanley Ophisky Sr., Thomas Dziadkowicz, John Foyskie, Carl Lucas, Joseph Kluck and John Jackovitz.

The ham and cabbage feast was held at the Polish Citizens' Progressive Club.

Erin go Poznan!

The uses of the helicopter are bevond man's horizons. Macmillan Bloedel Ltd., Canada's largest forest products company, was faced with a sticky problem this winter. Unusually heavy snows—up to 13 feet—made its logging operations more hair-raising than usual.

Lumberjacks could no longer estimate just where and which way the trees would crash, because of the weight of the snow on their branches. The aerodynamics involved in such ventures had been thrown out of kilter.

★ ★ ★

So the company called in a fleet of helicopters, flew them past at tree-top level, knocked off countless tons of snow and —well—"timber!" once more rang out with assurance.

One Hundred Per Cent American

By DICK SAUNDERS

What is a 100 per cent American?

Is it all hot dogs and baseball and cherry pie and the Stars and Stripes forever?

Sometimes, I think, we tend to look at ourselves as something unique; something of a pure strain of mankind unlike anyone else.

SAUNDERS

We tend to look at our nation as a great bastion of freedom. But to proclaim that we have totally achieved freedom would be erroneous. I think, rather, we are working harder at trying to achieve it than any other nation.

Last month I heard an address by Fr. Henry J. Casso, vicar of urban affairs for the Catholic Archdiocese of San Antonio, Texas, at a National Education Assn. conference in Washington, D.C.

Fr. Casso, who spoke on the problems of Spanish speaking students in this country, is a member of the National Advisory Committee on Mexican-American Education and a vice chairman of the Texas Advisory to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Borrowing freely from a book titled "The Study of Man," he gave this magnificent account of the 100 per cent American.

"The 100 per cent American is he who sleeps on a bed originated in the Near East; throws back covers domesticated in India or the Near East.

"He slips on his moccasins invented by Indians of the Eastern footlands; takes off his pajamas, if he should wear them, invented in India; washes with soap invented by the ancient Gauls; shaves — those of us that still do—a rite derived from ancient Egypt; and before going out for breakfast he glances through a window made of glass invented in Egypt and if it is raining or snowing, puts on overshoes made of rubber discovered by the Central American Indians, and takes an umbrella invented in southeastern Asia.

"At breakfast he eats from a plate of pottery invented in China.

"His knife is of steel, an alloy first made in Southern India.

"His fork is a medieval Italian invention and his spoon is a derivative of a Roman original.

"When he has finished eating he settles back to smoke, an American Indian habit — and don't forget it.

"While smoking, he settles back to read the news of the day, imprinted in characters invented by the ancient Semites, upon a material invented in China by a process invented in Germany.

★ ★ ★

"And as he absorbs the accounts of foreign troubles, he will, if he is a good conservative citizen, thank a Hebrew diety, in an Indo-European language, that he is 100 per cent American."

It's something to think about.

'Visiting Navy Ship Was Memorable Event'

We appreciate the U.S. Navy allowing us to be present at the commissioning of the USS Anchorage (LSD-36) in Portsmouth, Virginia, on March 15. Our national anthem has always had a special meaning for us but hearing it played on board a Navy ship with all the officers and men at attention was the most stirring and memorable event in our lives.

MR. AND MRS. ZOLTAN VERNAN
3805 LAKE FRONT

Discusses Inequity in Levying School Taxes

Two families making the same amount of money with the same number of dependents and owning two different priced homes pay unequal school taxes. One may own a $35,000 home and the other a $12,000 home. Millage on the homes is $40 per thousand assessed valuation. This comes to $700 for the higher priced home against $240 for the lower priced home. Over a period of 20 years this comes to a difference of $9,200. The ability of these two families is the same as far as affording the cost of educating their children.

★ ★ ★

I don't like to be penalized by high taxes because I put my money into my home while another spends his foolishly. My solution would be to base school taxes on income rather than on home and property. A flat three per cent paid to your local government would solve this problem and would benefit retired people on fixed incomes. This way they would not be taxed out of their homes.

LARRY J. MORGAN

Question and Answer

You published a letter in your March 8 Question and Answer. It was signed "Mrs. J. S." Would you please state whether or not that letter was written by myself?

MRS. JOHN R. SMITH
427 CLAYBURN

REPLY

No, it was not.

Question and Answer

Why and on what authority can Waterford Township taxes be raised by almost 24 per cent? This would mean about $120 per thousand assessed valuation.

WATERFORD HOMEOWNER

REPLY

The authority is State Statute, which requires that all property in the State be assessed at 50 per cent of retail value. The increase in Waterford reflects the State Equalization Board's judgment that Waterford property has not been assessed for that amount. The tax rate has not been raised; the adjustment on assessments has been.

Air War Outside S. Viet Remains Lethal but Secret

SAIGON (AP) — A year after President Johnson's order limiting the bombing of North Vietnam, the air war outside South Vietnam is as lethal as ever but almost totally hidden by official secrecy.

The target now is the patchwork of camouflaged roads known as the Ho Chi Minh trail, twisting down through the tribal mountain country of supposedly neutral Laos.

★ ★ ★

That has been the steady shift since Johnson began pulling back the bombers to get peace talks moving in Paris—restricting the bombing to below the 20th parallel in his March 31 order and ending it completely over North Vietnam Nov. 1.

★ ★ ★

Neither order mentioned Laos. The effect, however, was to concentrate more and more planes in attacks on the Ho Chi Minh trail, the last remaining area where bombing could get at the major enemy supply line. As the warplanes concentrated, so did the increasingly sophisticated enemy defense network. Mobile, radar-controlled 52mm antiaircraft guns now accompany major supply movements down the trail. Even heavier guns are at so-called chokepoints. Lighter 37mm guns are all over the place.

'NO SOFT SPOTS'

"These aren't just jungle raids any more," one flier reported. "There are no 'soft spots.' It's just as bad as it was up north."

★ ★ ★

Officials refuse to give figures but the lowest responsible estimate of planes lost in the past five months is almost 100 Air Force planes, mostly F105 Thunderchiefs. Navy losses are not known but are very much lower since the Air Force is drawing about 85 per cent of the missions. One knowledgeable officer reported the loss rate has now settled down to about four planes weekly.

★ ★ ★

The number of pilots lost is similarly classified. An analysis of Pentagon statistics indicates about 45 pilots missing in action in Laos since Nov. 1.

Some sources in Vientiane, a capital of rumors and mysterious people loosely labeled Communist, non-Communist and neutralist, say as many as 100 pilots may be in jungled prison camps of the Pathet Lao, the Laotian version of the Vietcong. These include pilots downed over several years.

FIGURES UNVERIFIED

None of these loss figures can be verified from official sources. Neither will officers in Saigon give any firm estimate of enemy losses.

It is worth an officer's job—and perhaps his career—to be quoted about the campaign in Laos. In private, staff officers and pilots make wry jokes about the war in "Country X."

★ ★ ★

In public, spokesmen give a standard reply to all queries: "At the request of the royal Laotian government, we fly some reconnaissance missions over Laotian territory. These are escorted by armed aircraft with instructions to return fire if fired upon."

This is the official explanation of an air campaign on some days involving the warplanes of three aircraft carriers, perhaps 200 Air Force fighter-bombers in Thailand, assorted reconnaissance and electronic flights, plus a half dozen or more raids by B52 Stratofortresses, essentially the same force, without the B52s, used in North Vietnam.

U.S. SILENT

No word of this activity appears in communiques issued from U.S. headquarters in Saigon.

The neutrality of Laos, the little kingdom of royal elephants, was always precarious. It also was frequently violated.

★ ★ ★

In the late 1950s and early 1960s the fiction of armed reconnaissance flights grew with the political troubles of Laos. While attempting to prop up the outwardly neutralist regime in Vientiane, the United States began aiding the Laotian air force and furnishing pilots for bombing missions against the Pathet Lao. With the acquiescence of the Laotian government this has grown into the current bombing campaign.

Keeping the campaign more or less under wraps is possible because the raids mainly hit a 250-mile stretch paralleling Vietnam which is sparsely populated, largely by backward tribal groups.

ROAD NETWORK

Through this jungled area, flowing downward from the Mu Gia Pass of North Vietnam, Hanoi's engineers and labor troops have built a complex and effective road network, often rudimentary but workable. As many as 2,000 trucks shuttle supplies to border entry points such as the A Shau Valley.

Just how much comes down the trail is unknown. The amount, however, is certainly vast. In manpower alone, the enemy is estimated by responsible American officers to have sent about 200,000 men into South Vietnam last year. The rate is now about 10,000 infiltrators monthly, mostly down the Ho Chi Minh trail.

No one can give any sound estimate of how much war material is destroyed; the upper guess is about 20 per cent, the lowest 10 per cent. Nevertheless, the air campaign forces the enemy to pay more and exert more effort to meet his supply requirements. It also disrupts his planning.

Enemy supply requirements are, officers report, higher than ever. With the enemy force in South Vietnam now consisting overwhelmingly of North Vietnamese regulars, it requires the support of modern logistics.

LAST MINUTE DISCUSSION

When President Johnson ordered the bombing halt last November, he first called Gen. Creighton W. Abrams home for a secret, last-minute discussion. At that time, and under the war conditions then prevailing, Abrams was reported to have agreed that a bombing halt need not necessarily result in increased American casualties. The bombing halt, Abrams reportedly said, was something he could live with.

In April the monsoon weather closes in over Laos, making bombing difficult. When the weather is bad over North Vietnam it is good over Laos and vice versa. The Air Force in the past could shift its raids accordingly, keeping the supply lines under a steady pounding. That situation no longer applies.

★ ★ ★

Air Force officers say the North Vietnamese have used the time since the March 31 bombing halt to put back in service almost fully the road and rail networks disrupted by the bombing.

The most important supply line, the northeast rail line leading from Hanoi to Red China, is carrying more freight than ever before, intelligence sources say, with the rebuilding helped by upwards of 50,000 Communist Chinese labor troops.

Episcopalian Unit Revises Endorsement

DETROIT (AP) — A statement, interpreted in some quarters as a repudiation of an Episcopalian church leader, has been moderated by a church board.

In the center of the dispute was the Rt. Rev. Richard Emrich, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Michigan. Bishop Emrich announced a week ago that he opposes use of Episcopal churches as sanctuaries for war protesters.

★ ★ ★

Emrich's statement followed an FBI invasion of St. Joseph's Episcopal Church in which Tom Sincavitch, 27, an Army deserter, sought sanctuary. He was arrested two weeks ago and is now awaiting court-martial at Ft. Riley, Kan.

An Episcopalian executive council Wednesday voted to substitute a portion of a resolution commending St. Joseph's and its rector, the Rev. Robert Morrison.

★ ★ ★

The committee revised the last paragraph of the resolution, which had been interpreted as a repudiation of Bishop Emrich.

World Crises Depress Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — A world of uncertainty—about inflation, business growth, Vietnam and the Middle East—has weighed heavily on the stock market in recent months.

Since early December the market has been going down with only brief interruptions for feeble rallies.

★ ★ ★

After hitting its 1968 high of 985.21 on Dec. 3, the widely watched Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell to a low of 899.80 on Feb. 25—a loss of about 8.6 per cent. Since then this barometer has moved up, closing at 923.30 Wednesday, still far from last year's high.

With economic and political problems all around them, many investors have retired temporarily to the sidelines or have sought other types of investment such as real estate.

GALLOPING INFLATION

"The principal reason for the stock market decline is because we have been unable to curtail our galloping inflation," says Robert Johnson, research director for the brokerage firm of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

Inflation in the U.S. economy ran at the high rate of 4.7 per cent in 1968 and now is estimated at an annual rate of 5 per cent.

★ ★ ★

Efforts to stem inflation have included enactment of the 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes last June, a tightening of money policy by the Federal Reserve Board, and a series of increases in banks' prime lending rate which have brought it to a record 7½ per cent.

These actions were meant to reduce the amount of money available for corporate expansion and consumer buying. But they have been slow in becoming effective.

EFFECT DISCOUNTED

Wall Street wasn't surprised by President Nixon's proposal Wednesday to extend the surcharge for another year. His action had been expected and brokers said its effect had been discounted.

The Dow Jones industrial average's gain of 6.22 points Wednesday was attributed mainly to rising hopes of progress in Vietnam peace talks. In mid-February, when government fiscal officials expressed the opinion that the surcharge would have to be extended, the market fell sharply due to this and other factors. The industrial average's loss in the week beginning Feb. 17 was 35.30 points.

★ ★ ★

"The main underlying factor in depressing the market and one which still very much persists is the concern as to when brakes in the economic system will take hold," says Richard Scruggs, analyst for Goodbody & Co., a major brokerage firm.

At the same time, however, the restraints on money have made investors less optimistic about the outlook for corporate profits and thereby lessened their appetite for stocks.

DROP RATIONAL

"In view of prospective declines in corporate earnings, the drop that has taken place in stock prices seems perfectly rational," comments Walter Mintz, analyst for Shearson, Hammill & Co.

The market has failed in most recent instances to advance in reaction to what usually would be considered good business developments. This, according to economists, is because of apprehension that continued business growth at the recent rate might bring on government controls of prices and wages.

So good business news has become, in a sense, bad news for the market.

Recurrent crises involving international currency also have made American investors more cautious. Gold speculation on the European markets has raised threats of devaluation of the French franc and the British pound and revaluation of the strong West German mark. These developments pose a danger to the U.S. dollar, whose foundation in world commerce is the government-fixed gold price of $35 an ounce.

The stock market has wavered in reaction to the tides of war in South Vietnam and to the reports of progress and failure in the Paris peace talks. The Middle East turmoil, with its repeated explosions and the danger of big power involvement, has been unsettling, too.

Brokers say that institutions—mutual funds, pension funds, bank trusts, insurance companies—have, like individual investors, withdrawn in considerable measure to the sidelines.

★ ★ ★

The securities exchanges have operated on curtailed trading hours since last June to allow brokerage firms more time to handle an overwhelming volume of paper work which accumulated due to heavy trading volume. Brokers said that while the shorter hours imposed a restriction on investors' transactions it was not considered a substantial factor in the market's decline.

★ ★ ★

Daily average trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange in January and February of this year declined to 11.9 million shares from an average of 12.9 million in 1968. Volume Monday of 8.12 million shares was the lowest since March 28, 1968. Other recent light totals were 8.26 million on March 3, 8.92 million on March 10, 8.72 million on March 12 and 8.63 million on March 14.

Call to Emergency Center Gets Action

By DICK ROBINSON

John and his wife, Betty, arrived home one night from a movie and discovered their entire Pontiac home had been ransacked by burglars.

What did they do to get quick police action?

Betty picked up the telephone and dialed the Pontiac Police Department's new emergency 24-hour-a-day phone number, 338-1001, that she had written down near the phone.

She had been told that the phone number was only to be used in emergencies which require immediate dispatch of a police car.

NO SWITCHBOARD

Betty's call went directly to the police dispatcher in the police station's new communications control center. There was no switchboard to go through.

"Pontiac police emergency," the dispatcher answered on one of the four emergency lines.

Just then Betty heard a noise coming from another part of the house and, being frightened, she rattled off her address and hung up.

The dispatcher didn't clearly hear the house number, and wouldn't have known where to send a police car under the old communications setup.

FLIPPED A SWITCH

But now, he flipped a switch which played a tape recording of Betty's call and got her house number.

The dispatcher glanced at a large lighted map of Pontiac to see what police car was available in her area and dispatched a car within seconds of her call.

AVAILABLE FOR CALL

Police cars on the map are indicated with colored circles, explains Capt. Raymond Meggitt. When a circle is lit, the car is available for a call. When it's out, it's not available.

A data processing card is time-stamped each time an emergency call comes in, Meggitt says. Then the dispatcher writes the name, address and type of crime on the card, dispatches a car and inserts the card into a slot to turn off a light circle on the map.

* * *

The cards, which serve as the dispatcher's log, are time-stamped when a car is dispatched and when it is finished with a call.

To further provide records of the incident, all conversation between the dispatcher and officer in the police car is recorded, says Meggitt.

'MORE EFFICIENT'

The tapes will be kept by the police for about a month in the pilot project before being erased, according to the captain.

"This new setup will provide quicker, and more efficient dispatching of police cars in emergencies and finger-tip access and better storage of information," Meggitt said.

* * *

Meggitt emphasizes, that residents should call the regular police number in all cases that don't require a policeman to come to the scene immediately.

Usually one dispatcher mans the $37,000 control room but in big emergencies two officers can dispatch police cars at the same time.

* * *

Other features of the center, which includes a police teletype and machine to scan license plate registrations, are:

- Facilities for monitoring radio transmissions and sending calls to the state police, sheriff's department, and any city radio vehicle or other area police departments.
- A clearly visible arrangement of business burglar alarms in the control conxsole.

'PONTIAC POLICE EMERGENCY' — That's how day dispatcher Jan Fine answers the phone when residents call the new Pontiac police emergency number, 338-1001.

Water 'Pork-Barrel' Fears Hit

LANSING (UPI) — Gov. William G. Milliken's fears that the $335-million water pollution bills will be "pork barreled" in the Legislature are not justified, Senate leaders claim.

At a morning news conference yesterday Milliken said it is "absoutley imperative" the State Water Resources Commission, part of the Department of Natural Resources, be given "primary responsibility" for allocating the money.

* * *

Legislators are not "technically qualified" to determine these priorities, he added. Poor handling of the bills, or stalling on their passage, could mean a loss of federal funds, he said.

"How can you possibly pork barrel?" Majority Leader Emil Lockwood of St. Louis questioned. "The guidelines have been set up on a point system to determine priorities so the federal funds will be avilable."

HEARINGS IMPORTANT

"Of course, the figures could be juggled," he conceded. "This is where public hearings are important — to make sure the priorities are where they should be."

Lockwood said he will insist the Legislature work within the framework of the commission's suggestions, but "if two categories, or priorities, are about equal, the Legislature should have the right to determine between them."

The bills are now in the hands of the appropriations committee, chaired by Republican Sen. Charles O. Zollar of Benton Harbor. Zollar said his committee will consider each recommendation separately in light of the commission's recommendations.

But Zollar and Democratic Sen. Garland Lane of Flint contend Milliken's comments mean he is asking the Legislature to release the bond money so the commission may spend it at will.

PUBLIC SCRUTINY

That method would insure pork barreling, they added. "Public scrutiny is what keeps pork barreling down," Zollar said.

In floor action yesterday, the Senate exchanged the district court bill with the House again.

* * *

Repeated amendments have tossed the measure back and forth. As finally approved and sent to the governor, it provides district judges in second class, or outcounty, areas may sit in the county seat of the district control unit.

Tiny Town Doesn't Fear ABM

WALHALLA, N.D. (AP) — This northeastern North Dakota village of 1,700 people looks at the prospect of getting an anti-ballistic missile installation this way: There are already enough nuclear devices buried in its back yard—and the back yards of other midwestern towns—to blow them halfway to Tokyo.

And if Congress goes along with President Nixon and approves money for a start on the ABM system near towns like Walhalla—well, that will just diminish the likelihood of anybody shooting at them in the first place.

★ ★ ★

Minding its own business, Walhalla sits just five miles south of the Canadian border, where the fabulously rich farm lands of the Flat Red River Valley yield to an abrupt series of highlands. This quiet prairie town's farmers grow potatoes, grain and some sugar beets.

Walhalla, nestled against the winding Pembina River, was a fur-trading post more than a century ago.

'TRULY A VALHALLA'

A farmer, relaxing in a bar on Walhalla's main street, says the town is named after the Indian term for the high-bush cranberries called "walla walla," which grow lush in the nearby hills and draws.

★ ★ ★

But historians say that at least two early fur traders, or members of their parties, looked at the site and called it "truly a Valhalla—a home of the gods." How the "V" became a "W" is debated but the process of Anglicization seems the most logical explanation. The Valhalla of Norse legend was the home of fallen heroes.

★ ★ ★

Most of Walhalla, already encompassed by infinitely more firepower than the old Vikings ever dreamed of, shrugs it off. Intercontinental Ballistic missiles are placed in a 100-mile-long, 30-mile-wide corridor of the state, with Walhalla at the northern end:

"If Minutemen (the ICBMS buried in the North Dakota prairies (are potential targets, why not the ABMs?" asks Leon Dubourt, a banker. "We should be safer with ABM than we are now." "Do we mind being considered expendable because we're small?" asks Dubourt, a Frenchman like many in this Canadian border country. "There's really no such reaction here."

'NOT SO ACCURATE'

A chubby retired farmer, sipping beer as spring broke over the northern prairies, had another analysis: "Them things ain't so accurate, I hear. Might aim at us and hit Winnipeg," the major Canadian city 100 miles northeast of Walhalla.

★ ★ ★

President Nixon said Grand Forks Air Force Base and Malmstrom AFB in Montana would be the first two sites for ABMs.

★ ★ ★

Grand Forks AFB is some 15 miles west of Grand Forks, a city of 40,000. The base has intercontinental bombers and fighters, and 150 Minutemen missiles buried deep in the ground, programmed to take off for enemy targets on the other side of the world at the push of a button.

These missiles are spread over a wide area of northeastern North Dakota. They're easily spotted near many highways, marked by a wire fence surrounding a small plot of land, four periscopelike surveilance devices, and a flat concrete slab — which would be blown off before the missiles were fired.

ECONOMIC BOOST

Walhalla, 90 miles northwest of Grand Forks at the northern edge of this nuclear arsenal, is thinking chiefly about the economic shot in the arm which the ABM would bring — and how its schools and housing would be strained.

★ ★ ★

There are indications the proposed ABM complex would be built in the northeastern corner of North Dakota, not far from Walhalla.

★ ★ ★

This far, the ideological protests in agricultural North Dakota have fallen chiefly to college students in the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, and at North Dakota State University in Fargo, some 80 miles south of Grand Forks.

'Navy Paid 3 Times More for Late Cannon Parts'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy paid three times more to get cannon parts on a rush basis than it already was paying another supplier and—a congressman says—still got them late.

Rep. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., said an investigator for the Government Accounting Office called the rush contract "a classical case of procurement bungling," although a GAO report did not find the award illegal or made in bad faith."

The GAO, in a report demanded by Rooney, said the cost to taxpayers for the rush job was $194,260, of which $120,000 went for speed alone.

* * *

The GAO said it could find no evidence that the Navy contacted the lower-cost supplier to see if the airplane parts could be obtained quickly at the lesser price.

LATER DELIVERY

The ultimate delivery schedule for the emergency contract proved to be later than that of the routine contract at one-third the price, Rooney said.

As a result of findings, Rooney said, the GAO has begun an investigation of $5-billion worth of annual emergency procurements by the Defense Department.

* * *

GAO's investigation will focus particular attention on those rush orders which involve noncompetitive negotiated contracts with so-called sole-source producers, the congressman said.

Noting that GAO did not find the contract illegal, Rooney said GAO had concluded its probe of the emergency contract to York, Pa., Division of American Machine & Foundry Co., for 2,000 breachlock locks, the Navy had accepted delivery and already subjected many of them to have done so "would have to combat service in Southeast Asia.

"It is enough to say the Navy needlessly wasted about $120,000 when it awarded the emergency procurement contract to York AMF last May," Rooney said.

* * *

"This incredible information places this Navy procurement on a par with a Keystone Kops comedy."

The target of Rooney's criticism was an award to York AMF for the 2,000 parts to 20-been a paper victory at best and would have served no useful purpose for the public good nor the national interest."

ACCEPTED DELIVERY

Rooney said that by the time millimeter aircraft cannons at a unit price of $97.13.

NOT IN DISTRICT

The emergency procurement was authorized more than a month after a routine supply contract for the identical part was awarded to Newbould Tool Co., also of York, Pa., at a unit price of $37.75.

York is not in Rooney's congressional district.

* * *

In its report to the congressman, GAO said it found no evidence the Navy contacted Newbould to determine whether the company could deliver the gun parts at its lower prices within the time requirements of the emergency contract with York AMF.

Rooney said the Navy insisted that York AMF was the only capable producer of the needed parts.

* * *

Rooney said GAO determined that Newbould anticipated a profit of 10 per cent on its $37.75 unit price.

"Therefore," he said, "if AMF's production capabilities were equal to those of Newbould, the AMF unit price of $97.13 should have netted AMF a profit of approximately 200 per cent, or 20 times higher than Newbould's profit."

Ray Denied Meeting With New Attorney

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, who wants to disavow his admission of guilt in the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has been denied an immediate meeting with a Memphis attorney at the state prison here.

Harry S. Avery, Tennessee commissioner of corrections, said Richard J. Ryan was turned away by prison officials Wednesday because he had not been officially retained as Ray's lawyer.

* * *

In another development, the Tennessee Supreme Court handed down a decision which could become a major hurdle for Ray in his bid to gain a new trial and overturn his 99-year sentence.

The court, in an opinion by Justice Allison B. Humphreys dealing with a burglary conviction, ruled that a convicted criminal cannot seek to invalidate a prison sentence on grounds he was misadvised by his attorney to plead guilty.

'PRESSURE' CHARGED

Jerry Ray, James' brother, said last week Ray would ask for a new trial on grounds he was "pressured" by his former attorney, Percy Foreman, into entering a guilty plea. Foreman has denied he put pressure on Ray.

Ray's brother also said a Memphis lawyer had been asked to workon the new trial plea. He identified the attorney as "A. J. Ryman."

* * *

Prison sources said Ryan did not present a letter or other proof of contact with Ray when he arrived at the prison.

Avery said prison regulations allow only the prisoner's immediate family to visit during an initial six-week penitentiary processing period. That would mean Ray would not be able to have other visitors until sometime next month.

NOT JUST ANYONE

"As a courtesy we usually allow any attorney who has been officially retained to visit inmates at any time," said Avery. "But we are not going to let in just any Tom, Dick and Harry who would like to represent him."

Man Held for Trial in Drag Race Deaths

HOLLAND (AP) — A 30-year-old Holland man, charged with manslaughter after two men were killed during a drag race, is scheduled to be arraigned in Ottawa County Circuit Court here April 1.

Calvin Mullins waived examination during his district court appearance Tuesday and was released on $2,000 bond.

Hilario Silguero and Louis Barrera, both of Holland, were killed Feb. 5 in a three - car smashup during an impromptu race.

Low Twister Toll Tied to Warnings

LANSING (AP) — Twenty-one tornadoes touched down in Michigan last year, but only one person died of injuries suffered in the violent windstorms, the Governor's Disaster Preparedness Conference was told Tuesday.

The low death toll was attributed to a better warning system developed after the Palm Sunday tornadoes in 1965. The system enabled persons in the paths of the twisters to take cover, said Lawrence Shaffer, an emergency warning specialist with the U.S. Weather Bureau.

★ ★ ★

Shaffer pointed out that tornadoes have killed an average of seven persons in Michigan per year during the past decade.

"Chances are very good that a town or county will get a warning before a tornado hits," Shaffer said.

ONLY 2 UNANNOUNCED

Of the 21 reported tornadoes in Michigan last year, only two were unannounced. They were spotted at Grand Rapids and in Hillsdale County, authorities said.

Civil Defense, police and other agencies at the meeting were encouraged to develop emergency plans as Michigan heads into April, the month in which most tornadoes occur in Michigan.

★ ★ ★

"Every area of the state should have some plan of preparedness," said Robert Babb, chief meteorologist at the weather bureau in Lansing.

In addition to broadcasting weather bureau tornado warnings and watches, Babb said, communities should have spotters alerted to watch for spawning tornadoes.

NO GUARANTEE

"We can't guarantee that a tornado watch will be issued before a tornado occurs," said Babb.

A tornado watch is issued for a large area—generally 25,000 to 30,000 square miles—and means conditions are ripe for a tornado to develop, he said.

★ ★ ★

A tornado warning means a tornado has been sighted and persons should seek cover, Babb said.

"Michigan lies on the northeast edge of the primary tornado belt in the United States," Shaffer pointed out.

'COULD BE DISASTROUS'

"The thing that really scares me about Michigan are the large metropolitan areas—particularly in the southeastern part of the state—and the disaster that could result if a tornado moved through one of these areas," he said.

During the 50-year period from 1918-1967, a total of 49 tornadoes were reported in Michigan during April. June was the second-ranking month with 46 reported twisters, while 45 have been recorded in May.

★ ★ ★

The worst series of twisters to hit the state occurred June 5 and 8, 1953, when twisters hacked out paths of destruction across southwestern Michigan, killing 125 persons and causing an estimated $19 million property damage.

The Palm Sunday tornadoes killed 53 persons and caused $51 million property damage.

State Building Due New Name

LANSING (UPI) — For lack of a better name, state officials are calling a seven-story building in the new Capitol Complex "The Seven-Story Building."

It's not very original, but it's the best they could come up with in a hurry as the state officials began moving in.

★ ★ ★

The other three buildings in the complex are also aptly named—the Treasury Building, the Highway Building and the Mason Building.

★ ★ ★

Already, some suggestions have come in to give the "Seven-Story Building" a real name like maybe the "Attorney General Building" because that's who occupies the top two floors or maybe even the "Kelley Building" for Atty Gen. Frank J. Kelley.

★ ★ ★

Radio station WILS in the capital wants all the suggestions it can get because the newsmen don't think the name, even though it's a perfect description, is very aesthetic.

Ghetto Child Hurt by Speech Pattern?

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A Temple University research team is investigating a clue that speech patterns of disadvantaged children hobble their performance in school aptitude and achievement tests.

Dr. Lorene C. Quay, visiting associate professor of education at Temple, said a project she is directing among preschool Negro children in the Head Start program indicates words such as "different," "roar" and "coal" are foreign or confusing to some of them.

* * *

She said the children, who are examined individually, are shown illustrations of three cats and a dog and asked to point out: "Which one is different?"

"The child often doesn't understand the word different," Dr. Quay said. "If the question is rephrased to 'which one is not the same?' the child understands and makes the proper choice."

OFTEN PUZZLED

She said these children were often puzzled when asked verbally, "What is the difference between a bird and a dog?" They understand, however, when the question is changed to: "How is a dog different from a bird?"

Other words, common to the middle-class child yet confusing to the ghetto child, include "roar" and "coal," Dr. Quay said.

* * *

"Roar is confused with 'raw' and coal is confused with the weather or the respiratory infection," Dr. Quay said.

"These children will understand the word 'puddle' if it is presented to them as 'pool,' their term for puddle."

'NOT APPROPRIATE'

Because of her preliminary observations, Dr. Quay said it appears that previous aptitude and achievement tests have been "geared to middle-class children" and are not "approriate" in measuring the learning ability of culturally deprived children.

"This suggests some adjustments must be made in the instruments that measure learning ability," the psychologist said.

* * *

Dr. Quay, a native of Bogalusa, La., said she undertook the project because "we need to be able to evaluate these children more effectively than in the past. We have to know where we and the children are and where to place them."

"There is a lot of potential among these children, and we want to take advantage of it," Dr. Quay said.

U.S., Conglomerate in Temporary Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department and Ling-Temco-Vought Inc. have reached a temporary agreement in their dispute over acquisition of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. But the government still hopes to block the huge conglomerate's take-over of J&L.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, announcing the agreement Wednesday night, said an anti-trust suit challenging the merger will be filed April 15.

The government will sue to force LTV, the nation's 14th largest corporation, to divest itself completely of stock in J&L, the country's sixth largest steel company. LTV already owns 63 per cent and wants to buy more.

Mitchell said that the two sides had agreed to a temporary injunction setting up conditions under which the two companies could easily be separated if the government wins its antitrust suit.

ONLY 81 PCT.

LTV will be allowed to proceed with its tender offer for the remaining J&L stock but will be permitted to keep only 81 per cent of the oustanding shares. The offer expires April 7.

The injunction will require LTV to maintain J&L as a completely separate entity pending completion of the lawsuit.

Under the agreement, LTV waived any legal alternative except complete divestiture if it loses the antitrust case.

* * *

Other stipulations provide that no LTV employe or official can serve as an official of J&L and that all J&L stock now held by LTV—or which LTV will acquire—will be placed into a voting trust controlled by present J&L management.

TEST OF THE LAW

The suit is viewed as a test of whether the government can use existing legislation to attack mergers involving conglomerates, giant corporations made up of several apparently unrelated businesses.

Although the Johnson administration maintained new laws were needed, Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, head of the Justice Department's anti-trust division, said he believes the corporations can be challenged under the 1949 Celler-Kefauver amendment to the Clayton Antitrust Act.

Zoo Polar Bear May Have Been Injured in Scrap

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A certain chill has developed in relations between Frosty II and Fuzzy, polar bears in the Point Defiance Park zoo, and because of it Fuzzy may have suffered a broken hind leg.

"We strongly suspect that he belted her one," said zoo Director Norman Winnick.

* * *

Fuzzy, miffed as well as hurt, has moved in with her black bear cousins and veterinarians, who tentatively identified her injury as a break, are seeking information on treatment.

"There's very little information about this sort of thing," said Winnick.

Texans Invite Teddy Anyway

AUSTIN Tex. (AP) — House resolution inviting Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to address a joint session of the Texas Legislature was given quick approval by the Senate Wednesday. Kennedy said several weeks ago he would be unable to address the legislature.

President Gets Bill Boosting Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is expected to sign promptly a bill raising the national debt limit to a record $377 billion, averting a tight squeeze the federal Treasury expected in less than three weeks.

The Senate voted 67 to 18 Wednesday to send the bill to the President after Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told his colleagues they had no choice but to pass it. The House approved it March 19, 313 to 92.

* * *

It raises the limit by $12 billion but will expire June 30, 1970, and return the limit to $365 billion, forcing the administration to return for another look at its policies next spring if the debt reaches the $374 billion predicted for March and April 1970.

Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy testified Monday the projected federal debt will be more than $2 billion over the present $365-billion ceiling on April 15, making the immediate increase necessary.

TRIMMED $5 BILLION

Nixon won overwhelming backing from Senate Republican on the measure, although his request was trimmed from $17 billion to $12 billion before it ever came to a floor vote.

Thirty-one Republican senators voted for it, with only four against—quite a swing from GOP voting on similar measures in the eight preceding years when Democrats were in the White House.

Thirty-six Democrats voted for it, while 14 voted against.

Dirksen, speaking with supporters of the increase, said Congress had authorized the spending "and now we must pay the bills."

PUSHING FOR CUTBACKS

Delaware's John J. Williams, senior Republican on the finance committee, also supported the bill.

But he served notice he would strive to put through a proposal designed to cut back sharply on federal spending and make further debt limit increases unnecessary.

Williams' package would include a $5.3-billion spending cut for the next year and a reduction in the income tax surcharge, now 10 per cent. Nixon has asked Congress to extend the surtax a year.

Local Men Try Hand in Designer World

Julius Harper and Leroy Moore are young and ambitious. They're determined to break into a highly competitive field — clothes designing.

While they're working on their first full collection, they're getting their names before the public by sponsoring a style show on Easter Sunday.

At that time, they will show men's fashions by Canebrake from King Briggs Importers and women's fashions from Ahmed's Afro-Imports. Both are Pontiac stores.

* * *

Captivative Styles will be shown from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Metropolitan Club of Pontiac on West Yale Street. Entertainment will be furnished by the R.H.S. Sextet.

At the same place that evening, a "Cloud Nine" dance will be held, open to the public. Hours are 9 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Tickets are on sale at KD TV Sales and Service, Ahmed's and King Briggs.

Woman Seeks Proper Way to Handle Note

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: How do you word a thank you note for a visit, when you know you were not welcome? We visited my husband's brother for the first time. We stayed three days. The two brothers are very close and we have always enjoyed their visits. Our sister-in-law was always prompt in writing us a warm thank-you note. I liked her and thought she liked me.

Their home was considerably more impressive than ours, the poor girl was a nervous wreck having us there. Things were quite pleasant, though strained. Our last evening there, I was setting the dinner table.

I put the forks on the paper napkins, as there was a slight breeze. I didn't have all of the napkins folded towards the plate. I noticed a frown and was asked if I was all wrong. Oh boy, was I wrong! She got out her book of Etiquette and read to me.

She informed me she wanted her table set properly, and she also wanted her guests to use proper table manners. After a few more words about the neighborhood they live in and the people they are accustomed to associating with, she left the room crying. After a few minutes she came back and everything was fine.

* * *

When we left the next morning, we sent a plant to their home with a thank-you note. Upon our arrival home we found a thank-you card from her for the plant. An added note said, "we wish we could have made you people more comfortable."

How do I answer this in order to smooth things for the two brothers? Shall I write and rave about her lovely home and exclusive neighborhood (as I know she wants me to)? I know I cannot write a warm, sincere letter. Yet I am the one that upset her. How do I go about making amends?—Gladys

* * *

Dear Gladys: Although you felt that things were "pleasant, though strained," apparently your sister-in-law didn't. There must have been something more to upset her than just the way you placed the napkins. If you truly don't know what it could be, I would write quite frankly and ask her. Do tell her how much you enjoyed her lovely home and hospitality.

If the trouble was really caused by your table setting, I feel she is at fault. No unimportant detail is worth such an outburst. Whether one is a pleasant, helpful guest, as you apparently were, is far more important than what fork you used or how you placed the napkins!

GUIDELINES

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter will be a debutante in June. I feel that the gown should be white and quite full. Of late I have heard so much talk that the gown should be within keeping of the fashion trend.

Will you provide information concerning the dress and accessories—Mrs. Watson

Dear Mrs. Watson: A debutante's dress should be long, white or off-white and not extreme in any way. It need not be full or bouffant, but the skirt should be wide enough to allow her to curtsy or perform whatever figures are required.

The cotillion committee often sets certain rules but if they do not, the most important features are simplicity, elegance, and a reasonable modesty. Dresses with shoulder straps are preferable to those without, and mini-skirts or extreme styles flout all the valuable traditions of the debutante ball.

Both events are free of charge and open to the public.

Woman's Love for Pastor Is Unrealistic, Unfulfilling

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who had fallen in love with her pastor interested me because I, too, am in love with my pastor and always will be.

You advised that woman to change to a sister church and to keep her "love" to herself. A minister wrote in, disagreeing with your advice, and said he would advise the woman to confess her love for her minister, after which he would recommend that she see a psychiatrist who would help her to work her problems through.

You were both wrong. In my case, neither changing churches nor seeing a psychiatrist could ever change my love.

* * *

Here is my recommendation: In public, be a good actress, and pretend only a platonic, friendly interest in him. At home, keep busy busy, busy. Scrub the floor twice, instead of once, if necessary; pursue interesting and time-consuming hobbies to keep the mind from dwelling on "him."

According to the "rules," I must not be in love with this remarkable man who is the most wonderful person I have ever known. But my heart does not know these "rules," and my love for him will endure as long as I live.

IN LOVE FOREVER

DEAR "IN LOVE": Since you've already convinced yourself that you will be in love with this unattainable man "forever," you surely shall be. A "love" which is neither expressed nor reciprocated brings only frustration and pain.

* * *

If you choose to punish yourself by looking, listening, and longing, with no hope of fulfillment, you are welcome to the pleasure — and pain. I suggest you scrub less and face reality.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Every Christmas my husband gives me a cash gift (usually $25) and tells me to go out and buy myself something I'd really enjoy. How wonderful!

Then a week later he asks if he can "borrow" it back, and I never see it again. What advice have you for me?

NO PRESENT

DEAR NO: The minute you get your hands on your "present," either spend it or bank it.

Cartoonist's Talent Will Add Dimension to Children's Concert

Cartoonist Stu Hample will have a solo role with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at Young People's Concerts on April 5, in Ford Auditorium.

The program will be presented twice, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

* * *

Valter Poole will conduct.

Hample, working with charcoal and chalk at a large easel, will add a few visual lines while the orchestra performs the familiar Overture to "William Tell" by Rossini. Hample often draws with both hands simultaneously, always in time with the music.

His illustrations are done on giant sheets of paper and help bring the music to visual life.

The program also will include orchestral works led by Poole.

* * *

Hample has been featured with several major orchestras and on network television children's programs.

He has written novels and children's books, and is also the co-compiler of the best-selling book "Children's Letters to God."

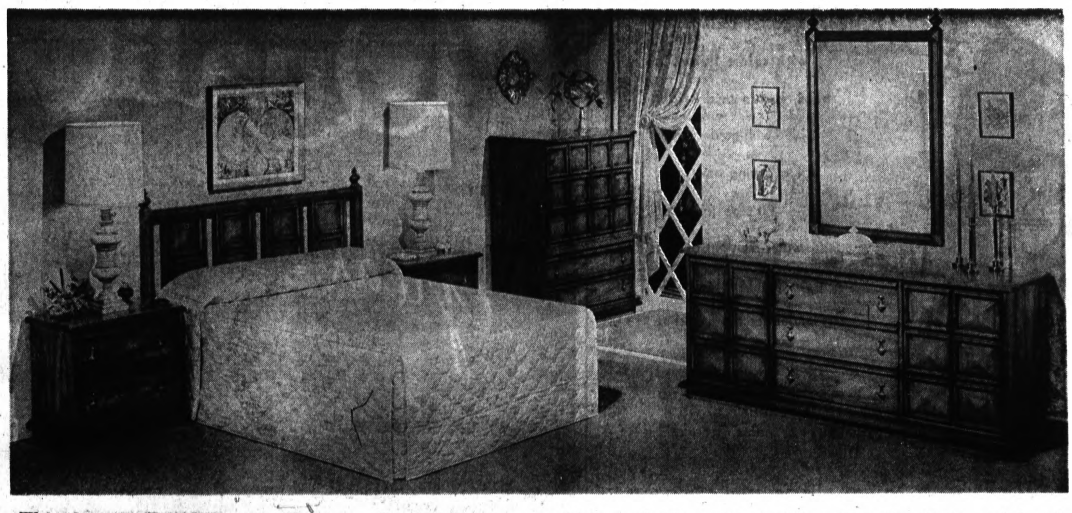
"Okay, gang, look alive!" "Hey, watch that spitball!" "Drat!" "That knuckler got my thumb!" "And save them beanballs for the batter!" Those are the comments of 6-month-old Mickey Lee Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Walker of Birmingham, Ala., suburb of Tarrant, as he posed in a miniature baseball catcher's outfit.

They goofed, so you save $151.



This famous Broyhill set sells everywhere right now for $449 and it's worth it. We sell it for $298, and here's why. Broyhill made a limited number of sets with a slight goof in the moulding. When we show it to you, you'll see it, otherwise you won't know the moulding was put on wrong. Now, Broyhill decided it wasn't up to their impeccable standards. Our standards are just as impeccable, but this is ridiculous. The set is perfect except for this one flaw, so we bought all they had at ⅓ off and we're selling the 34 sets at ⅓ off. We know our reputation won't suffer from this special offer because, honest, this contemporary set should sell for its original $449. It includes the new chairback styled bed, the 5-drawer chest, the 72-inch long 9-drawer triple dresser and the framed mirror. Because we can't duplicate this buy, there can be no layaways or returns. Thirty-four fortunate people are going to enjoy a very deluxe set at a one-time-only saving. Be one of them.

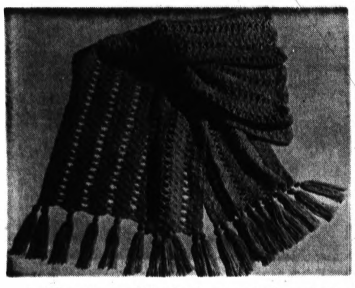
Specific Uses for Laundry Aids

It's big-bright-and-modern in 1969! Laundry aids have kept fast pace with new designs in appliances and new developments in textiles. Today's soaps, detergents, water conditioners, brighteners, blueings, bleaches, fabric softeners, sizing agents, soakers and finishes are scientific formulations designed to do a complete and thorough job in the care and cleaning of all washable fabrics and fashions.



Wrap yourself in the luxury of a lacy stole. Great-grandmother's stole is back in a big way. You can crochet a new one of super fingering yarn with a generous helping of tassels on each end. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056, along with your request for Leaflet B 239.

They're available in powders, liquids and tablets — in boxes, cans and bottles — in squeeze-type, aerosol and pre-measured containers — in mini, maxi and in-between sizes — a really big scene to choose from!

Since part of every household dollar is spent on these laundry products, it's essential to know what they are, how they work and how to use them. A review of these important items and of good laundry practices will help you choose them wisely and use them properly for best results.

Today's modern detergents are such a familiar part of the laundry scene that it is easy to forget they are comparatively new products. At the end of the last century, bar soap was still being used to do all the household laundry and much of it was home-made!

Jot Down Self-Helps Advice to Spenders

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Are you a Compulsive Spender and wish you weren't — like the Complusive Smoker who wishes he wasn't?

Cash and credit cards are as easy to carry as a pack of cigarettes and no trouble at all to use. This makes it just that much tougher to kick the habit of either overspending or chain smoking.

★ ★ ★

About all the help provided for the complusve spender is a tongue lashing at home or a cut-off of his credit at the store. But now the compulsive smoker get some sympathetic understanding, as well as a new how-to-do plan to help him keep his hand out of his pocket.

★ ★ ★

The Commissioner of the New York City Health Department sponsors a plan for the compulsive smoker, and I'm wondering if the same gimmick might not work for the complusive spender. The gist of the plan goes like this:

★ ★ ★

Make a small chart on a piece of paper which can be taped onto or wrapped around a pack of cigarettes. On this chart, check off the following points:

- The number of cigarettes you smoke in a day.
- The time you open the pack.
- The circumstances that prompt the reaching for each cigarette:
  - Just-out-of-bed
  - Right after breakfast
  - Before lunch
  - With a cocktail (etc., etc.)
- The mood you're in when you take a cigarette out of the pack:
  - Up, down, blah
- The need, in order of rank, for each cigarette:
  - Have to have it
  - Would like to have it
  - Nothing else to do, (etc., etc.)

Now why wouldn't this record-keeping have the same psychological effect on the complusive spender?

★ ★ ★

If you're exhausted from fighting the temptation to spend money, make up your own chart in order to check on your buying habits. Better still, make out two charts. Clip one onto the bills in your wallet and tape the other onto your credit card case.

The compulsive smoker's chart could be altered as follows:

- Record the number of expenditures you make in a day
- Never mind the time-check
- Check off the circumstances that prompt the purchase:
  - Somebody's birthday, other special occasion
  - Fight with mate
  - Time to kill between appointments
  - Power of suggestion: the merchandise was there
- Note the mood you're in when you pay or charge:
  - Up, down, blah
- Rank the "need" for each purchase:
  - Really need it
  - Would be nice to have it
  - May find a use for it some day (which accounts for a lot of bargains never used)
  - Ego needs building

Ease Shrillness

If you have a shrill voice, the cause may be tension, and an easy way to reduce the sound of strain is to relax by rolling your head slowly in a circle, first to one side, then the other. Let your head fall freely; don't force it in any direction as it goes around.

Child's Reading Guide in Updated Version

Parents who are wondering where they can find help in guiding their children's reading and in broadening their interests through books, will find the newly revised and updated, "Your Child's Reading Today" a valuable and authoritative book.

★ ★ ★

Teachers and librarians will also find the book an invaluable tool. Written by Josette Frank, Director of Children's Books and Mass Media at the Child Study Association of America, it is published by Doubleday.

★ ★ ★

In the book, Miss Frank, who also serves as staff consultant to the Children's Book Committee of the Child Study Association of America, discusses such topics as how parents can meet the challenge of television, movies, radio and comics; why some children are reluctant readers; when a child should learn to read; and just what is a good book.

In addition, Miss Frank has given thoughtful consideration toward reaching all children and has devoted a new chapter offering helpful suggestions for parents of disadvantaged children and for those who work with these children. The new book also contains a carefully selected list of books for children of various ages and interests.

★ ★ ★

"Your Child's Reading Today" is available through the Child Study Association of America, 9 East 89 Street, New York, N.Y. 10028 or in bookstores at $5.95.

A washable nylon throw rug, a few pieces of felt, some buttons and yarn and a little stitchin' time are all that's needed to give a little girl a bedside playmate, spending the night in hey own trundle bed.

Rug Sleeper Keeps Child Company

A little girl needs all the friends she can get—real friends and pretend friends, friends to play with, friends to stay for lunch and friends to sleep overnight.

How about a pretend friend to sleep overnight—one who is stitched to look just like her small owner, one who sleeps in a pretend trundle bed made from a throw rug?

It's a sew-easy project for mom and sew-fun for an imaginative youngster.

* * *

The rug (of DuPont Nylon) is a fluffy 27 by 48 inches—just the right size for bedside use and big enough to let a 6-year-old stretch out.

Felt or sturdy cotton fabric may be used for the face and sheet, knitting yarn for braids or other hair style, button for eyes, with felt for petal-shaped background, smaller buttons for nose, red fabric for a heart-shaped mouth and cording to outline the sheet.

ROUND FACE

Use a large dinner plate to trace a round face, then trim freehand for a pert little chin. Tack in place with basting stitches.

For braids, cut yarn lengths to 48 inches. Tie loosely at center and baste to head. Braid and finish with ribbons.

Cut eyes from white felt, in petal or star design. Tack on lightly. Add button nose and felt mouth.

A band of felt or fabric across rug represents turnedback fold of sheet. Cording, though not necessary, makes a nice trim.

* * *

If you select washable yarn and fabric, the "friend" may be left in place when the rug is laundered.

If you choose a nonwashable felt, sew yarn, buttons and other felt pieces firmly to the face sections, so there's just the one piece to remove when the rug must be laundered.

This is the sort of item that sells wonderfully at church bazaars—pick a small rug to hold a baby friend, a large one for a teen-ager.

Recover Shades

When a paper or parchment shade becomes soiled or faded, make it into a new lampshade by pasting some gay colored wallpaper over the old covering. When thoroughly dry, finish by giving it a coat of clear varnish.

Area Artists Represented in Religious Art Exhibition

Three Birmingham artists and one from Orion Township are represented in the forthcoming Sixth Biennial National Religious Art Exhibition coming to the Galleries, Cranbrook Academy of Art. The exhibition which is free to the public runs from Tuesday through April 27.

Joseph D. Bulone, Raymond DeFrancesco and Richard Kozlow live in the Birmingham area. DeFrancesco was a first place award winner in 1960.

Renee Radell, a professional artist and teacher from Orion Township, will have an oil painting in the show, one on loan from a New York gallery.

The feeling among fashion leaders is that the above-knee skirt lengths will continue, despite the onslaught from the midi and maxi. "They're young looking, they're becoming to all, they're graceful," is the way the firm of Pattullo-Jo Copeland puts it.

Pamphlet on Cancer Tells of Do-It-Yourself Test Kit

A do-it-yourself test kit and other advances in early detection of uterine cancer — such as identifying high-risk groups — are discussed in a new Public Affairs Pamphlet.

★ ★ ★

The pamphlet — "WE CAN CONQUER UTERINE CANCER," by Elizabeth Ogg is available for 25 cents from the Public Affairs Committee, 381 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10016.

As Dr. Arthur I. Holleb, Chief Medical Officer of the American Cancer Society points out in his introduction to the pamphlet, "Uterine cancer, only 30 years ago the leading cause of cancer death among women, is today virtually 100 per cent curable."

Early detection, by means of the Pap test, has made effective treatment possible before the cancer has spread from its original site.

★ ★ ★

The problem lies in getting more women to be tested, and in encouraging those who fall in the "high-risk" category to take the test more frequently. Miss Ogg describes the practical, inexpensive, reliable Pap test, devised by Dr. George N. Papanicolaou and used since the early 1950's.

★ ★ ★

"All the procedure requires," she writes, "is withdrawal of a sampling of cells collected in fluid from the vagina or scraped from the cervix." After laboratory procedures to make the cell patterns stand out sharply, "magnified . . . these patterns offer telltale clues to the eyes of trained cytotechnologists and pathologists."

★ ★ ★

Physicians should always take a Pap test as a routine part of a woman's regular physical examination. Women of low income are particularly difficult to reach, for faced with so many day-to-day problems many do not visit a doctor for a checkup — only for serious illness.

A new approach to these women is now possible because of the cytopipet — a quick, easy, painless do-it-yourself method of getting a "vaginal washing" of cells shed by the cervix into a pipet (a 6-inch long plastic cylinder) that is then sealed and returned promptly to a laboratory.

This is not, Miss Ogg stresses, a substitute for a regular pelvic examination; but it does offer a chance to reach women "who rarely if ever have a pelvic exam."

TV Star Returns to Normal Life

NEW YORK — Freddie, jumping up and down on a trampoline — up and down, up and down — a searching look in his eyes. He bounces again, up in the air — he's lost — down again, eyes still searching.

"Cut!" yells the director.

The boy's expression changes. It's not Freddie of the painfully searching eyes. This boy is smiling. He jumps down off the trampoline. Freddie is gone. Now it is Billy Schulman, who walks off the set and goes home to suburban Woodbury, N.Y.

★ ★ ★

The Schulman home is located on a quiet suburban street. From the outside, it's much the same as the others on the block — colonial-style homes surrounded by trees and shrubbery. But the inside is different.

In place of the usual memorabilia collected by a family of four boys — bowling trophies, golf trophies, swimming medals — the Schulmans have trophies of a different sort.

The den is dominated by two of these — a plaque dedicated to Billy by the people who worked with him on "Teacher, Teacher," a television show about a mentally retarded boy, and a scrapbook of clippings from newspapers and magazines across the country — all about Billy.

Bill Schulman is a mentally retarded boy.

STAR'S ROOM

Upstairs in Billy's room, a director's chair has his name on it, and a star hangs on his door.

At first, the Schulmans were undecided about letting Billy appear on a television show.

★ ★ ★

"I believe that children should be exposed to as many new and different experiences as possible," said Mrs. Schulman, a petite, vivacious redhead, "and in Billy's case it was doubly important that he should have what I term his 'shining hour.'"

But there were doubts, too.

"My husband and I sat down and discussed it," said Mrs. Schulman. "We were afraid that the pressure might be too much for Billy, but after a trial rehearsal we realized he was up to the role."

Billy's personality accounts for the way he adapted himself to the role of actor.

OUTGOING

"Billy is an outgoing child; he's aware of other people and finds them easy to get along with," said Mrs. Schulman.

Freddie was afraid of life; Billy runs to meet it. He's limited by his retardation, but within those limits he strives to succeed. He was off to the movies with other kids on the block while his mother spoke.

He attends a special school for the mentally retarded, where he has progressed from a "trainable" (limited learning ability) to an "educable."

"When we first told Billy about his retardation," said Mrs. Schulman, "we explained to him that some people have blue eyes, some brown, and just as people have different physical characteristics, their mental capabilities differ."

The Schulmans are fairly optimistic about Billy's future. He's capable of learning a trade and will probably be a self-sufficient adult.

INDEPENDENCE

"There are plans in Nassau County (N.Y.) to build a 'halfway house' for mentally retarded adults," said Mrs. Schulman.

"It's an apartment complex with a 'house mother' and 'house father' acting as supervisors. Hopefully, Billy will be able to live there, where he can come and go as he pleases."

Billy spends a lot of his spare time answering the fan letters he has received since "Teacher, Teacher" was aired on Feb. 5. Most of the people tell Billy how touched they were by his performance, and some have tried to enlist both Billy's and the Schulman's services to promote the cause of mental retardation.

But Mrs. Schulman isn't interested in making Billy a permanent object of public display.

The Schulmans of Woodbury, N.Y., had doubts about letting son Billy play a true-to-life television role. But Billy came through like a trouper as the retarded boy of "Teacher, Teacher" and now, center, happily counts fan mail with parents and brothers.

Newlyweds Travel South

A honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains followed vows spoken Saturday in St. Mathew's Lutheran Church by Brenda Joyce Duke and Charles Williams Bolin.

The bride was attired in a bouffant-skirted lace gown with sabrina neckline and long sleeves. A detachable watteau train and elbow-length illusion veil completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade of carnations.

Baby's Bath Happy Time

Baby's first bath can be a challenge to any mother's ingenuity. You'll probably wish you had a third hand before it's finished. Polly's Pointers

Can Go Into Dryer

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Tell Mrs. L. C., who wanted to know how to soften her baby's plastic pants that she could put them in the dryer with a few diapers, set it on "mild" and let it run for about five minutes. Watch carefully as they may have to be removed before the diapere dry.—JOAN

★ ★ ★

DEAR POLLY — Baby's plastic pants always seem to get stiff with age and lose their softness. I put them between two small towels and press with a hot iron until the desired softness has returned. Be sure the pants are completely covered by the towels. A hot iron could ruin them.

—BARBARA

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I would like to know how to wash ceilings with rough surfaces. When I wash my kitchen ceiling, pieces of the sponge I use are left on it. If I use a cloth, it tears as I wash. I dread the thought of the next cleaning when I will have to spend all morning washing and picking sponge off the ceiling.—MARY

DEAR POOLY — I am confined to a wheel chair and my mother must wash my hair by the sink. The wheels on my chair do not allow me to get very close. We could not use a regular drain board like beauty shops have as it was too short. We took a large rubber dish drainer and cut a half-circle in the large end so it fits around my neck. This reaches to the sink and prevents water from sloshing on the floor. — MARY LOUISE

DEAR POLLY—To oil a door lock without dripping all over the place, oil the key and lock and unlock the door several times. The lock will work easily.—FLORENCE

DEAR POLLY—A card table put under the small end of the ironing board is perfect for keeping clothes off the floor as you iron.—ERNEST

Youth Band Will Play

On Saturday evening at Washington Junior High School, 70 members of the All-City Junior High School Honors Band will present their fourth annual concert.

Norman Dietz, director of bands at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant, will be guest conductor for the 8 p.m. event.

Students respresenting all six junior high schools in the city are selected for this band on an audition basis. The concert is open to the public.

Separate Look

Volunteers Are in Great Demand

A challenging role in human relations is available to men and women volunteers who are sincere about helping those who live under poverty-welfare conditions. The position involves varied assignments as a paraprofessional case worker aide in the field of social welfare.

The Oakland County Volunteer Bureau invites all citizenry seeking a sense of direction into programs of action concerning economic problems in the nation to phone the Bureau in Birmingham for consultation and placement.

Add Versatility

Scarves add a whole new dimension to fashion. They can be used around the neck, at the waist, in the hair or looped through a handbag. Wear them knotted at the throat or cowboy style, tied in the back.

Intelligent Shoppers Get More for Money

CHICAGO (NFS) — Whether you're a bride-to-be buying a mattress for the first time or an experienced homemaker replacing old bedding, it will pay to bone up on some mattress terms and shopping facts.

- Box Spring — The foundation of good sleeping, providing 40 per cent of body support. Whatever mattress you buy should have a matching box spring underneath it, with construction and springing tailored to the mattress.
- Coil Count—The number of coils in a mattress, which has nothing to do with comfort. A poor mattress can have as many as 800 coils, a well-engineered one, 300. What's important is the design, gauge and tempering of the steel springs.
- Firmness — A much misused and misunderstood term referring to mattress comfort. A good mattress should feel comfortable on the surface and become progressively firmer as more weight is applied. A mattress that feels firm is apt to cause you to toss and turn more than normal.
- Foam Rubber—A relatively new development that takes the place of innersprings. If you prefer foam rubber, be sure the mattress you buy is reversible with a different degree of firmness on each side.
- Innerspring—The complete spring unit inside most mattresses, made up of individual coils. The type most recommended by sleep experts is the Karr innerspring. This unit is made up of spiral coils joined by special pivot hinges which eliminate knots and permit a flexible surface action that conforms to body contours.
- Supersize—Refers to queen-size mattresses (60 inches wide x 80 inches long) and king-size (76 inches wide x 80 inches long).
- Ticking — Fabric used to cover mattress. Heavier, closely woven ticking wears the longest.
- Tufting — A method of fastening ticking and upholstery to innerspring to prevent shifting.
- Upholstery — Cushioning material between ticking and innerspring: includes a thick layer or insulator directly next to innerspring.

Dental Care

Your Teeth Intended to Be Permanent

BY DR. HOWARD E. KESSLER

It makes me sad when I hear of people who completely neglect their teeth. Some of them do it because they do not fully realize the great value and importance of their dental structures.

KESSLER

Your teeth are extremely important to your health, your appearance and your speech. However, let's just now consider their role in one of nature's most necessary functions, — eating.

Someone has figured out that if you live an average lifetime, you'll consume about 38 tons of food.

HOT DOG!

If it is difficult for you to picture that much food, visualize that it would be enough to feed everyone attending an important baseball game at Tiger Stadium during a pennant race.

Since most of those 38 tons of food have to be chewed, are not teeth of tremendous worth?

Suppose you could take all your lifetime's eating, and limit it to one period. It was estimated that you would take three years and 160,300,000 bites to consume your food. And your jaws would go up and down a distance of 2,530 miles.

Anything that works so hard, so continuously, and is so important, deserves constant care. Nature gives you just one set of permanent teeth and permanent they are supposed to be.

Imagine for a moment that you were told that your present automobile were to be the last and only one you could ever have. Wouldn't you treasure it and take extremely good care of it? Indeed you would. You would have it checked regularly, and you would see that needed replacements were made immediately. You definitely wouldn't neglect it.

Many people, without realizing it, neglect their lifetime teeth but would certainly take care of that lifetime automobile.

* * *

Your teeth are far more important. Think of it! Take care of them constantly.

L. M. Huebners Honeymoon in South

Newlyweds, the Lawrence M. Huebners (nee Terri Lynne Pietz) are on a honeymoon tour of the southern states.

The daughter of Mrs. Verle Fisher of Berkley Street and Frank Pietz of Riviera Street and the son of the Frank Huebners of Theda Street exchanged vows Saturday in Central United Methodist Church.

Carrying a cascading bouquet of red roses and white carnations, the bride was gowned in an A-line taffeta gown with a lace bodice.

Honor attendants for the couple were Mrs. Joyce Phillips and Larry Biskner with Kathy Fisher and Millie Bayns as bridesmaids and Jack Kinsey and Jack Bailey as ushers.

A reception was given in the church parlors.

Universities Guilty of Bias

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A Pennsylvania State University researcher says a woman seeking a job as a college professor will need better qualifications than her male competitors.

Male employers — be they deans, department heads or professors — prefer to hire their own sex, reports Lawrence A. Simpson.

* * *

When a female plainly demonstrates superiority, however, she'll get the job, Simpson says. Simpson bases his findings on surveys sent to six private and public colleges and universities.

Based on an analysis of the surveys returned, Simpson concluded that persons who rejected female candidates for higher education employment also exhibited negative attitudes toward women in general.

* * *

Simpson, now director of placement and assistant professor of counselor education at the University of Virginia, undertook his study to fulfill requirements for a doctor of education degree at Penn State.

Dr. Christian Barnard, a heart surgeon from South Africa, proposes that persons willing to have organs used for transplants after death should indicate this by having a symbol tattooed on the soles of their feet.

Care for Knives for Good Service

To assure dependable cutting, carving and chopping, it pays to buy the best knives you can afford and take good care of them. Never let a knife soak or go in a dishwasher.

Instead, wipe it off with a sudsy cloth immediately after use, then dry and store. Rub a little oil in wood handles to repel moisture and prevent cracks. Carbon steel blades darkened from use can be scoured with cleanser and steel wool.

Statistics Reveal Longevity Odds

NEW YORK (UPI) — At present, a young husband and wife (say he's 25 and she's 22) have a rather favorable prospect of a long married life.

* * *

The Institute of Life Insurance says two out of three of these couples will live to celebrate the wife's 60th birthday; one out of two will sruvive to the wife's 65th birthday; and two out of five will celebrate the wife's 70th birthday. One out of four will celebrate the wife's 75th birthday.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

We often hear the phrase "I slept like a baby." Mothers of teething or colicky babies may feel that it would be more accurate to say, "I slept like a baby SHOULD." However, a baby's sleep is usually so very sound and peaceful and deep that you can pick the baby up and carry it around without awakening it.

We would all like to be able to sleep like that! So far as I know lack of sleep never killed anyone but it can make us tired and inefficient and irritable. Also, those who regularly enjoy sound sleep certainly look younger and seem to have more energy and better health.

Sleep is the body's time for rest and repair. Everything slows down. The blood pressure drops, the heart beats less rapidly and we breathe more slowly. If you are constantly shortchanging yourself on sleep, why not correct this damaging habit? Sometimes this one change in a life plan will make the difference between pep and chronic fatigue.

WAKEFULNESS

Remember this! If you think you are going to have trouble getting to sleep, you probably will have. The very fear of wakefulness is one of the main causes. A person can be caught in a vicious circle. He has trouble sleeping for a few nights and then becomes so afraid he will not sleep that it keeps him awake.

Most insomniacs sleep more than they think they do. Few people go through the night without a few hours sleep. The husband of one of my friends complained bitterly that he slept so restlessly that he awakened at least 10 to 12 times a night. My friend found this difficult to believe because every time she awoke he was asleep.

She asked him to join her in an experiment. She placed a dozen little paper balls on his bedside table along with a small bowl. He agreed to put one of the balls into the bowl every time he woke up. To his amazement there were only two paper balls in the bowl the next morning. From then on he slept quite well.

KEY TO SLEEP

The key to sound sleep is complete relaxation, physical and mental. After going to bed we cannot woo sleep with worrying or unhappy thoughts. In his interesting book, "Live Young as Long as You Live" (Association Press), Ira. U. Cobleigh emphasizes this when he writes:

* * *

"Almost everyone has either moments or minutes of reflection before falling asleep. What you think about in the transition period can powerfully influence the kind of night's rest you will actually get. So think serenely! The minutes before slumber can be priceless. You must learn at nightfall to stress the happy, successful, pleasing, and hopeful things. Your preslumber thinking will powerfully influence your subconscious during the night."

In the U.S. last year there were 7,294 train accidents, an increase of 7 per cent over the preceding year. Deaths at intersections during the year totaled 1,632, less than the year before.

Hemingway's Son 'New' African Visitor

MWEKA, Tanzania (AP) — In a bungalow below the snows of Kilimanjaro, Patrick Hemingway sipped a beer and spoke softly of the new Africa, of wildlife conservation and of his father, Ernest.

It seemed the most natural thing in the world for him to be sitting there among the hills and places made famous in Hemingway stories.

★ ★ ★

While the settings haven't changed from the time his father wrote about them in the 1930s, the people who lived there have, as have the people who come there to vacation and enjoy the beauty of the land.

Politicial independence has brought a self-respect and personal independence to the Africans who trudged through Hemingway's stories with luggage on their heads.

VISITORS CHANGED

Jets, capitalism and diminishing game have changed the character of the visitor from wealthy hunter with private tented camp, porters and white hunter, to middle-class businessmen and their wives, traveling, more often than not, in gaggles of eight in a Volkswagen bus, armed with cameras instead of guns.

"My father was interested in the sportsman's Africa. I don't think he was terribly interested in development," Patrick Hemingway said.

★ ★ ★

The second of Ernest's three sons, Patrick has spent most of the last 17 years roaming the green hills of Africa, first as a farmer, then as a white hunter and, since 1964, as a teacher here at the college of African Wildlife Management.

★ ★ ★

The college reflects the changing personality of author Hemingway's Africa. Here 63 African students from 10 independent African countries are being taught wildlife conservation by three Americans, three Britons, two Germans and a Swede.

FINANCING

The project is financed by the United Nations, United States, West Germany and Tanzania as well as by private contributions.

Students spend about 40 per cent of the time on safari, where they learn to be game wardens the hard way.

★ ★ ★

"They have to go out and count lion and rhino on foot without a gun. For people who have never done this before, it is quite an adventure," Hemingway says, adding that the school has never lost a student to an animal.

When he speaks of his father, Patrick Hemingway talks quietly, pausing to reflect.

'FATHER LOVED AFRICA'

"My father always wanted to come here and live, but never got the chance. I was 7 or 8 years old, old enough to remember, when he came here the first time. When he got back he talked about nothing but Africa," Pat recalls.

★ ★ ★

Once, when Pat was a white hunter, Ernest visited him in East Africa, arising the first morning in their home to relate a true life tale of terror in the night.

★ ★ ★

As Pat recalled it:

"He (Ernest) went to bed late and was very tired after a long safari. Something dropped on his mosquito net covering his bed. He was petrified and couldn't move, thinking it was a snake. Moments passed and then it began to purr. It was our house cat."

★ ★ ★

The last time Pat saw his father was in 1954, when the author was in a plane crash at Murchison Falls, Uganda.

There were no books by Hemingway on his son's bookshelves, but two biographies of the author.

'HUNTER AT HEART'

Pat said he was always lending his farter's works to friends and acquaintances.

Hemingway has his father's zest for hunting, confessing: "I'm still a professional hunter at heart," and is starting to fish, in the Indian Ocean, as his father did in the Caribbean before writing "The Old Man and the Sea."

Patrick was born 40 years ago in Kansas City, Mo. Pat's mother was Pauline Pfeiffer, second of his father's four wives. Pat came to Africa in 1951, directly upon graduation from Harvard University, and gave up farming to become a professional white hunter as soon as he learned the Swahili language and local geography.

He sold his hunting business in 1961 and returned to the United States with his incurably ill wife, Henrietta, whom he had married while still in college. In the states he studied African wildlife.

'TOO GOOD TO MISS'

His wife died in 1964 and Pat and their daughter, Edwina, now 8, returned to Africa.

"I didn't really intend to come back, but this job was too good to miss," Pat said, his brown eyes twinkling as he looked out the window, past the flower-bedecked garden, to the spaciousness of Africa spreading 1,700 feet blow his home on the slopes of Kilimanjaro.

★ ★ ★

Of his work, Pat says: "Wildlife management is a little bit hard-boiled. It isn't Walt Disney. It isn't sentimental. The truth is, our aim is not to protect the individual animal. When there are too many, we have to kill the excess to let the group survive."

Pat's daughter attends school in Tanzania, and he has acquired a house at the shore in Pangani, about 250 miles from his mountainside bungalow, to escape the rains of Kilimanjaro, which fall about nine months a year.

Asked whether being the son of a world-famous author had affected his life, Pat thought for a few minutes and said: "Strictly speaking it was a handicap when I was a professional white hunter."

★ ★ ★

Does he want to stay on in Africa:

"I'd love to stay in Africa as long as I can," he replied.

BLOOMFIELD MIRACLE MILE

In Report to OCCEO

Transit Woes Cited

By ED BLUNDEN

Transportation is a problem that is blocking efforts to improve the lot of the poor in Oakland County, according to a report received last night by the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

The report was labeled a "position paper" by Mrs. Doris Storer, OCCEO research specialist. It will be up for later adoption by the commission and forwarded to other county agencies.

★ ★ ★

The report points out very little public transportation is available except for Pontiac and the extreme southeast portion of the county.

Only along Woodward do public buses run and not north of Pontiac, leaving vast areas in the 900 square miles of the county isolated, it was reported.

CENTRALIZED SERVICES

"Existing services available to the poor are, for the most part, centralized in a few locations, seldom on main transit arteries. Consequently they are not accessible to most poor and are entirely isolated from the rural dweller," the report states.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Storer quoted statistical material gathered by the $4-million study made of southeastern Michigan by TALUS (Transportation and Land Use Study). The figures show Oakland County to be on one hand quite affluent, but also containing large segments of poverty.

★ ★ ★

"The affluence here results in the poor going unnoticed," Mrs. Storer remarked. Supporting her "hidden poor" observation were TALUS figures that showed many families have more than one car, but large numbers do not have any car. In Pontiac, the percentage of families without cars was 12; Holly, 13; Novi 10; Oxford, 18; and Royal Oak Township, 52.

In addition some 66,000 persons are on Social Security in the county, it was pointed out.

On the urgency of the problem, the report cited the following developments complicated by lack of transportation:

JOHN A. RILEY

Press Executive Heads Board of Local Hospital

John A. Riley, advertising director of The Pontiac Press, was reelected chairman of the board of trustees of the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital last night.

Riley was appointed to the board in 1965 and has been its chairman since Jan. 1966.

Other newly elected officers include Vice President Herbert N. Stoutenburg Jr., dean of student affairs and assistant to the chancellor for administrative affairs at Oakland University; Secretary Ivan M. Forbes, Pontiac attorney; and Treasurer Edward Debabian, a certified public accountant from Southfield.

★ ★ ★

At a meeting of the corporate board last night, T. Warren Fowler Jr. and William K. Hanger were elected to six-year terms on the corporate board.

Trial Ordered in Auto Death

A Waterford Township man was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court yesterday to stand trial on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in a traffic death early this month.

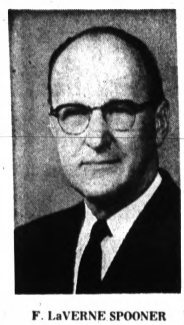
James D. Grindstaff, 22, of 5829 Southward will be arraigned April 8 at 9 a.m. before Circuit Judge Philip Pratt.

★ ★ ★

Grindstaff was ordered to the higher court by Waterford Township District Judge Kenneth H. Hempstead. Bond was continued at $2,500.

Grindstaff is accused of causing the death of Douglas R. Dooley, 17, of 1715 Mercedes, West Bloomfield Township.

Pontiac State Police said that Grindstaff's car crossed the center line of Telegraph and collided head-on with Dooley's auto. The accident occurred March 4 just north of Pontiac Lake Road.



F. LaVERNE SPOONER

Exec at Bell, Orchard Lake Man, Dies

F. LaVerne Spooner, assistant vice president of public affairs for Michigan Bell Telephone Co., died Tuesday. He was 62.

Service will be 11 a.m. Saturday at the First Methodist Church, Clarkston. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery, Clarkston, by Sharpe-Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston.

★ ★ ★

Surviving are his wife, Dorothy; two daughters, Mrs. Gary Glassbrook of Hadley and Mrs. Ardie R. Grubaugh of Orchard Lake; two brothers, David of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Cedric of San Juan, Puerto Rico; a sister; and four grandchildren.

Spooner of 3351 Erie, Orchard Lake, was a member of the Economic Club of Detroit, the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, the National Municipal League and the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

★ ★ ★

He had been treasurer of the Oakland County YMCA and had been a member of the Oakland County Planning Commission and the Clarkston Board of Education.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Memorial Organ Fund of First Methodist Church, Clarkston.

Goods Stolen at Local Home

A woman who returned to her Pontiac home after taking her daughter to school found her house had been ransacked and about $680 worth of its contents taken, she reported to police yesterday morning.

Police followed tracks from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Church, 358 Linda Vista, to a nearby house but were unable to come up with a suspect or stolen goods.

The burglar entered the church house by breaking a door window and then took a gun, typewriter, ring and radio, police were told.

Montana Woman Dies at Age 114

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Elizabeth Williams Berry of Helena, known as Mother Berry, was found dead Wednesday at her home. She was 114.

She was born in Melbourne, Australia, June 21, 1854. She was the widow of James D. Berry, a veterinarian whom she married Dec. 12, 1903, in Washington.

- Recent formation of day care centers has run headlong into the problem of getting poor children to the facilities.
- The increased number of manpower training programs will need to assure transportation for the hard-core unemployed until they become self-sustaining.
- Housing developments for the aged and low income will have limited successs unless transportation is available.
- County health and welfare facilities are increasingly centralized with no provision for transportation.
- Summer recreation programs have no way of bringing urban youth to the rural locations.

The report concludes: The problem of inadequate transportation is countywide rather than localized. The effect on poor people is one of isolation from needed services or extreme inconvenience. The situation perpetuates poverty since the poor are unable to participate in self-help programs."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Storer said last year that more than $100,000 was spent in transporting OCCEO clients, either in direct charges or in mileage driven by aides. In addition the Volunteer Corps of drivers provided thousands of man hours and miles without cost.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the OCCEO, other agencies not directly concerned with the poor such as the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) and the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, have been studying the area transportation problem.

Mrs. Storer said the OCCEO hopes to join with the other agencies to bring some kind of results.

The courses will be dealing with the past not only in terms of geographics but also with culture, political structure, economics, religion and tribal structure, with an attempt to correlate the subjects with the present.

1,406 Americans Killed in Communist Offensive

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. military command said today 1,406 American servicemen have died in the first month of the Communists' nationwide offensive. Guerrilla deaths were put at 19,171.

The disclosures came in the casualty report for last week, which listed 266 Americans dead and 1,462 wounded, the lightest losses in any week of the offensive.

★ ★ ★

It brought to 33,329 the number of Americans killed in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1969 — exactly 300 short of the number who died in the Korean War.

Military spokesmen said the South Vietnamese lost 337 men killed last week and 1,537 wounded. Government deaths for the now 33-day-old offensive were listed at 1,442.

SIX TO ONE

The communique said the Allies were killing more than six Communists during the offensive for each U.S. or South Vietnamese soldier slain.

Communist losses were 3,873 dead last week, their lightest casualties of any week in the offensive. It brought to 19,171 their losses for an offensive showing no signs of faltering.

★ ★ ★

Military spokesmen said at the same time American troop strength in Vietnam rose by 1,500 last week to 541,500 men, not counting 35,700 Navy and Coast Guard personnel on ships in the South China Sea.

Crewmen Trapped in Capsized Hull

PYLOS, Greece (UPI) — Screaming crewmen of the Turkish tanker Aygaz that capsized three days ago are trapped inside the hull, the Pylos harbormaster said today.

★ ★ ★

He said the men could be heard screaming and banging on the overturned hull when it was towed into port by a Danish freighter. The Aygaz carried a crew of 15 and no bodies were found when it capsized in the Ionian Sea Monday.

★ ★ ★

"There is nothing I can do for the moment, but I am waiting for navy experts" who were to arrive today, the harbormaster said. They will decide whether the vessel can be righted or whether to cut a hole in the hull to free the imprisoned men, he said.

BRUCE BRISSETTE

Waterford Top Teen Potential Engineer

A potential electronics engineer with an abiding interest in athletics is this week's Waterford Township teen of the week.

Bruce Brissette, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brissette of 3819 Island Park, has participated in baseball, football and basketball at Mason Junior High School where he is a ninth grader.

Bruce, 15, whose hobbies include boat racing (his own hydroplane), building model boats and coin collecting, is described by his teachers as a good student with a mature outlook toward school.

New Director of Bay Court Camp Named

A teacher and coach with 17 years experience has been named director of Waterford Township's Bay Court Camp, it was announced today.

IRETON

James E. Ireton of Grosse Pointe Farms will head the two-week camp which is a United Fund service and has been operated as an activity for mothers and children for 28 years.

★ ★ ★

Last year, 602 mothers and children attended the camp.

Ireton, a graduate of the University of Illinois with post-graduate degrees from Michigan State and Wayne State universities, served as assistant director last year.

HEADS SCIENCE DEPT.

He is head of the science department and is sports coordinator at Brownell Middle School in Grosse Pointe.

Many of the mothers and children who attend the camp are aided by "camperships" financed through the district nursing society's annual Christmas fund and through the cooperation of civic groups, clubs and individuals.

★ ★ ★

Forty sponsors contributed $9,050 in camperships to aid 345 campers last year.

Two National Trails Are Real Challenge to U.S. Hiking Fans

WASHINGTON — Even in this age of the automobile, Americans have reason to be footsore. Walking for pleasure ranks second only to motoring as a recreation, according to government studies.

By the year 2000 there will be more than 1.5 billion annual "occasions of participation" — instances of setting out for a stroll around the block or a strenuous hike in the countryside.

★ ★ ★

Present-day hikers might consider a real challenge: the 2,000-mile Appalachian Trail or the 2,350-mile Pacific Crest Trail, the two routes recently designated by Congress to inaugurate a national trails system.

Either path offers a view of some of the nation's most spectacular scenery, the National Geographic Society says.

The Appalachian Trail winds along the backbone of the eastern United States, touching 14 states from Maine to Georgia. The entire route has been covered by walkers with determination and time.

In 1948 a Pennsylvanian, Earl V. Shaffer, made the first such trek on record. In 1955, a 67-year-old grandmother made the same trip, wearing out seven pairs of shoes. Two years and several great-grandchildren leter, she repeated the feat.

The idea of a recreation trail accessible to Easterners originated with Benton MacKaye, a New Englander, in 1921.

The suggestion gained favor immediatedly. The first mile of the trail wes cut and marked in the Palisades Interstate Park, N.Y., in 1922. Fifteen years later, the last link was completed by private groups working with government agencies.

The Pacific Crest Trail, first proposed in 1932 by Clinton C. Clarke of Pasadena, Calf., became completely passable only five years later.

★ ★ ★

The trail cuts through Washington, Oregon and California. Its path follows some of the continent's most picturesque landscaping.

The Washington and Oregon portions extend along the high ridges of the Cascade Mountains. The California section follows the Sierra Nevada and crosses Yosemite National Park.

The trail goes under many names. The Washington portion is known locally as the Cascade Crest Trail; the Oregon section as the Oregon Skyline Trail. Segments in California bear colorul names: Lava Crest Trail, Tahoe-Yosemite Trail, John Muir Trail, Sierra Trail and Desert Crest Trail.

Tiny Railroad Keeping Busy

BLANCA, Colo. (AP) — You don't have to be much of a walker to trudge the entire length of the Southern San Luis Valley Railroad and back, nonstop. Some people probably could jog the whole round trip.

The entire railroad measures nine-tenths of a mile from the Blanca station to the end of the line near a vegetable processing plant.

This is all that is left of what was once a hefty rail line of 31.38 miles running from Blanca to Jaroso, Colo., just north of the New Mexico boundary.

Despite its lack of size now, the SSLV does plenty of business during the summer and autumn vegetable and potato havests in the San Luis Valley of south-central Colorado.

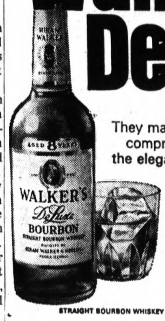
CARS STACKED UP

During peak months as many as 50 freight cars are stacked up along the less than one mile track.

The cars are hauled in the connecting tracks of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad at Blanca for shipment to markets.

The diminutive railroad's president is George M. Origdulph, 59, who says his name is "a Holland Dutch conglomeration. I believe somebody misspelled something when they immigrated."

The Confident Ones choose Walker's DeLuxe



They make decisions rather than compromises. They choose the elegant 8 year old bourbon.

God's Love Followed as Skepticism Fled

By MAJ. GEN. JOHN B. MEDARIS
U. S. Army, Retired

I have a word for all those questing people who are dissatisfied with their faith, or their lack of faith. Who go to church but come out feeling pretty much the way they went in.

MEDARIS

The word is: "Wait!" Wait, because God's love for you may be stronger than all your skepticism, your hesitancy, your doubts.

★ ★ ★

Many of us, through ignorance or arrogance or stupidity, keep running from God's love as fast as we can.

My own flight began when I was a child. As a Methodist, I went to Sunday school. But. I was forced to. There might be a Supreme Being, I conceded, but religion was not for me. I was sure that I was more intelligent, more energetic and more competitive than anyone around. I could paddle my own canoe.

SELF-CENTERED

For the next few decades I did just that. I enlisted in the Marines at the age of 16, left in 1928, went back into military service as an Army officer in 1939.

I was impatient, hard-driving, self-centered. I felt that I constantly had to prove my superiority and I didn't care how I did it. As a career soldier, I was a success. As a human being,well, I don't enjoy thinking about it.

★ ★ ★

All this time I was aware that something — luck or fate or chance — was favoring me. I came through three wars, including 300 days of combat in World War II, without a scratch. The thought sometimes crossed my mind that perhaps there was a Higher Power which was keeping me intact because there was some important job that I was destined to do.

After the war I was handed the most challenging job of my life: setting up a new Army agency at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama to develop the Jupiter missile and field the Redstone, the great rocket that was eventually to carry the free world's first satellite into orbit.

Within weeks after assuming command, I took time out for a routine physical examination — and was told I had cancer. This was a terrific jolt. But prompt surgery seemed to eliminate the trouble. I was able to go on with the job.

Now I was more convinced than ever that this task was the purpose for which my life had been spared so often. As proof of this, I began to be strongly aware that when problems were thrust upon me, problems too complex for any one man to handle, all I had to do was ask for help, and listen for it — and I would get it.

My staff also became aware of this. They would watch me go to the window, stand there for a few moments, then come back and say something like, "We'd better not go down this road right now . . . my warning bells are ringing."

Sometimes this guidance was affirmative. Then we would go down that road, whatever it was. And in a proportion far higher than any mortal man could hope to achieve alone, those decisions proved right. That was one reason why, when Sputnik I went up, we were able to counter so quickly with Explorer I.

CANCER AGAIN

By 1962 I had retired from the Army and I formed my own company in the field of space technology. My wife and I built a house near Orlando, Fla. We were looking forward to the best years of our life together when suddenly in 1964, like lightning out of a black cloud, cancer struck me once again.

This time, I was told, it was bone cancer. The Xrays showed that it was scattered throughout the pelvic area. The doctor said he could help relieve the pain, but that there was nothing that could be done about the cancer itself.

He gave me between a year and a year and a half to live.

In the Army you learn to accept things stoically. I knew that the members of the little church we had joined were praying for me and I appreciated it. But I didn't put too much stock in such prayers. I had seen those Xrays.

'GOD IS ABLE'

Then, in rapid succession, two things happened. First a visitor stopped by our house and left a book called "God Is Able" by Dr. John Large. I never got beyond the first chapter, but I didn't have to.

Reading those words, I was struck by the overwhelming conviction that God not only is, but that He can do anything He chooses to do, that He can and does intervene in human life.

The result of this sudden, almost blinding, flash of insight was that I stopped being doubtful about the power of prayer and began to ask urgently for help.

Next we were invited to a friend's house to meet a housewife who, we were told, had a speical gift of healing. I had always looked askance at anything in the realm of spiritual healing. But somehow I knew that I had to go.

I not only went, I found myself asking for help. And when this housewife, who seemed to the most normal and good-humored of people, put her hands on my head and said a short prayer, I felt as if 2,000 volts of electricity shot through me, leaving me stunned and weak and somehow different.

As Francis Thompson says in "The Hound of Heaven:"

"Yet ever and anon a trumpet sounds
"From the hid battlements of Eternity . . ."

★ ★ ★

That night, such a trumpet sounded for me. After all the years of running and hiding, of doubting and questioning, I let go of the last tattered shreds of ego and surrendered myself, body, mind and soul to Jesus Christ. "My life is Yours," I said to Him. "Take what's left of it and use it in any way You want."

After that, my next medical examination showed no further growth of the cancer. The doctors could not understand this, since the rate of progression in bone cancer of this type has been quite well-established.

ONLY A TRACE

Subsequent Xrays showed that the cancer was regressing. Today — three years after the date when the disease should have killed me — no lesions remain except for a trace of the largest one that was there originally.

What does this mean? To me it means that God's unbelievably patient, tolerant and understanding love will pursue a man — even a man as full of the sin of self as I was — until it catches up with him.

★ ★ ★

My experience gives me the right, I think, to say to any troubled, uncertain, doubting person who may be reading this: "Wait. It happened to me. It can happen to you, too."

Miami 'Clean Teens' May Go Nationwide

MIAMI (UPI)—The mail is piling up at the home of young Mike Levesque, and the "clean teens" are trying to figure out how to make the most of it.

★ ★ ★

"We hope to set up a nationwide organization," said the 17-year-old football player who heads to New York tomorrow for an appearance on NBC's Today show.

★ ★ ★

Levesque, a student at Miami Springs High School, attained overnight fame as originator of the idea for a "decency rally" which drew 35,000 enthusiastic teen-agers to the Orange Bowl Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The Miami teens hit upon the idea to counteract the publicity surrounding a performance by the Doors, which led to the leader of the rock group being charged with indecently exposing himself on stage before about 12,000 youngsters.

NATIONWIDE RESPONSE

"Letters and telegrams are coming in from all over the place," Levesque said. "All across the country. I even got a telegram from a senator in Puerto Rico."

★ ★ ★

A Birmingham, Ala., youth called Mike to ask about how to go about organizing a decency rally in that city.

Most of them are just saying "keep up the good work," Levesque said.

"Radio stations in Boston, New York and Phoenix interviewed me on the telephone, asking how they could get things going in their communities," he added. "I told them how we got started here and how the thing seemed to snowball. I sure hope the movement spreads."

WHAT'S NEXT?

Levesque and his group dubbed the "clean teens" — aren't sure what to do next.

"We've got a meeting Sunday and we're going to discuss what our program is going to be," he said. "We have something going in Miami and we don't want it to die."

Joint Schools Up to Parish Votes

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — The merger of Benton Harbor St. John's and St. Joseph Catholic schools will be decided in a special election Sunday by parishoners in the two cities.

★ ★ ★

The proposed merger would involve more than 1,000 youths.

★ ★ ★

If approved, both schools would still conduct classes for grades 1-4, but grades 5-8 would attend class at St. John's and grades 9-12 would go to St. Joseph's.

★ ★ ★

Merger of the two parochial schools has been recommended by the bureau of school services at the University of Michigan, which called it the most feasible way to preserve Catholic education in the area.

★ ★ ★

The merger was nearly doomed March 6 when the St. Joseph church board voted against it because of the financial risk. However, the records were reviewed again and the board reversed its earlier decision.

ON THE MOVE—An old South Vietnamese laborer, his belongings swinging from the ends of a shoulder pole, makes his way toward a government resettlement center. This man was among the residents of six hamlets on the huge Michelin rubber plantation, 40 miles northwest of Siagon, being evacuated.

Negro Among 13 Yorty Foes

LOS ANGELES — (NEA) — Los Angeles politics is a lot like the city itself — everything seems simple and straightforward, but underneath it is complicated by galloping kookiness.

Take the coming mayoralty primary, on Tuesday.

Technically, this is a nonpartisan affair, and the 14 candidates don't carry party labels. But that is just a false front; the party lines are drawn up clearly.

★ ★ ★

The incumbent is Sam Yorty. He is still classified as a Democrat, although he is about as Democratic as Barry Goldwater. An analysis of his support shows that 85 per cent of those who voted for him the last time were Republicans.

The other 13 candidates are united in one purpose — to beat Sam. And political observers see a good chance of one of them doing just that. But which one?

THREE HAVE CHANCE

There are two, perhaps three, with a good shot at it. One is Rep. Alphonzo Bell, a moderate Republican. One is television newscaster Baxter Ward. The third, and with the best chance is Councilman Thomas Bradley.

Political observers generally write Ward off. They say he has some support from his television fans, but they believe that will erode as the serious campaigning gets underway.

★ ★ ★

Bell, they believe, will cut deeply into Yorty's vote — as a Republican, he appeals to the same voters who have backed the incumbent.

This, most people figure, leaves Bradley galloping in close behind Yorty in the primary, which would force a later run-off. (A candidate has to get better than 50 per cent of the vote—and no Los Angeles incumbent mayor who has had to go into a run-off ever won.

MANY AGAINST HIM

"Yorty has a solid base of support," Bradley says. "But most people are against him. The people know what they're against, not what they're for. The polls tell me that three out of four people are against him."

★ ★ ★

Bradley, a 52-year-old lawyer and retired Los Angeles policeman, is a Negro. On the City Council, he represents the 10th district and he says it is the most cosmopolitan district in the city—one-third black, about 13 per cent Oriental, a sprinkling of Mexican-Americans and the rest Caucasian.

★ ★ ★

He sees this as an indication of the broadness of his support —plus the fact that he is the liberal Democratic champion in the race.

Bradley thinks the election success of Negro candidates in Cleveland and Gary, Ind., has made it possible for him to win here.

REGARDLESS OF COLOR

"Mayors Stokes and Hatcher," he says, "have demonstrated that a city can function well under any mayor, regardless of color. The people are not scared of a black man as mayor any more."

He sees, so far, no evidence that race will be a factor in the campaign — at least not in the primary.

★ ★ ★

Bradley has long been a vigorous opponent of Yorty in the city government. The mayor has often said that the city charter hamstrings his effectiveness.

"Bunk," Bradley says. "That's just an excuse on his part for his ineptness as a leader."

THOMAS BRADLEY

Bradley is encouraged by the early polls. One, measuring the head-to-head battles, shows him ahead of Yorty, 54 per cent to 46 per cent.

And Yorty's poll, Bradley says, shows the incumbent winning, with Bradley second — and that might mean a run-off, which is just what Bradley wants.

2nd Largest Building Will Open Shortly

CHICAGO (AP) — The John Hancock Center, 100 stories of tapered steel, glass and concrete packed into the earth's second largest building, will open soon.

Every facility in the monumental, $95-million, 1,107-foot structure located on

MICHIGAN AVENUE'S

"Magnificent Mile" in downtown Chicago is aimed at filling voids often overlooked for residents and workers, the builders say.

★ ★ ★

Residents are expected to begin moving into "Big John" about April 1.

Chicagoans who have come to accept steel and glass high-rise living with gusto are quickly leasing the 705 available apartments. They often have rented from a blueprint, choosing from efficiencies at $189 a month to four-bedroom luxury apartments at $750 per month.

PICK OWN VIEW

Utilizing 48 floors of the tapered building, tenants can pick their own view of Chicago from the world's tallest all-electric structure.

Here is how the second tallest building in the world — second only to the Empire State Building in New York City — is laid out:

★ ★ ★

Floors 1 through 5 — Department store, bank, lobby. Bonwit Teller, men's and women's fashions firm, has leased parts of the 1st and 2nd floors and all of the 3rd, 4th and 5th floors in a 30-year agreement with a rental fee of $20 million.

Floors 6 through 12 — Garages accommodating more than 1,200 cars.

Floors 13 through 41 — Businesses and firms.

Floors 42-43—Equipment for operating the building.

SKY LOBBY

Floor 44 — Tenants are whisked by elevator to the 44th floor, a two-level sky lobby where security officers protect residents from uninvited guests. The huge, high-ceiling lobby high-in-the-sky has shops, restaurants, a swimming pool, a sauna bath, health club and lounge.

★ ★ ★

Floor 93—Leased by the National Broadcasting Co.

Floor 94—Observatory.

Floors 95-96—Restaurant and lounge.

Floor 97—Leased by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Floors 98 through 100—Equipment for operating the building.

PARKING ON 6 FLOORS

Businessmen already have leased more than one-half the available space allocated for that purpose on 28 floors.

Residents can park their cars on six floors by driving up a spiral driveway.

The Hancock Center is 1,107 feet from the street to the 100th floor. The Empire State Building is 1,250 from the street to its 102nd floor.

The building is expected to be dedicated in mid-October, the month when all residents are expected to be housed.

'Embarrassing' Moans Bengal Skipper

Pitching Shaky; Hitters Silent in 7-2 Setback

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—"It's a little embarrassing when you're the World Champions," reflected Detroit Tigers Manager Mayo Smith Wednesday after shoddy pitching and worse hitting left his team with a 7-2 exhibition loss to the New York Yankees.

"I mean, it kind of hurts your pride."

The Tigers collected just three hits from Yankee pitchers, and only one of them was given up by rookie Bill Burbach, who hurled the first six innings for the Yanks.

Norm Cash hit a short single, Dick McAuliffe grounded a ball through the infield and Don Wert blooped a wind-wafted triple into the right field corner.

HITTERS LAGGING

"It's obvious the hitters aren't ready," commented batting coach Wally Moses. "We're not ready for the fast ball. We only hit one ball hard today, and that one was caught."

"I'm not worried about the hitters," Smith said. "They'll hit. I'm more concerned about the pitching. We haven't looked this bad in my three years."

The only sparkle on the mound this spring has been from World Series hero Mickey Lolich and two left-handed rookies, Mike Kilkenny and Fred Scherman.

John Hiller, who built a 9-6 record last season in starting and relief assignments, has a 13.50 earned run average in action this spring.

SHAKY GROUND

Workhorse Earl Wilson has a 7.11 ERA, last year's 31-game winner Denny McLain has a relatively low 5.40 and veteran reliever Elroy Face is on shaky ground in his bid for a berth with the Bengals, sporting a 7.00 ERA.

Face allowed five hits and four runs against the Yankees Wednesday.

"You just can't turn this bad pitching off and good pitching on as soon as the season starts," Smith said. "But I expect them to be ready when the pressure is on."

Kilkenny and Scherman, both southpaws from the Toledo Mud Hens have kept their ERAs low this spring. Kilkenny, who had a 2.32 average at Toledo, has been 2.00 on the mound this spring. Scherman, who sported a 1.76 with the Mud Hens, has an exhibition average of 3.38.

FIGHTING CHANCE

Dick Radatz, trying for a comeback as a relief pitcher, looked sharp in one inning against the Yankees, although he walked one man.

"He's got a fighting chance to make the club," Smith said. "The choice of the final two or three pitchers will go down to the wire."

* * *

Eventually, Smith said, the roster will be pared down to 11 pitchers, two catchers, six infielders and five outfielders.

With Tuesday's sale of Don Pepper to the Montreal Expos, the Tigers' infield appears set. Dave Campbell, who played at the Toledo farm club last season is the utility infielder with capabilities at second, third, first and catcher.

Dick Tracewski and Tom Matchick will alternate at shortstop. Don Wert will be at third, Dick McAuliffe at second and Norm Cash at first.

ONE FOR THE KIDS—Third baseman Mike Murcer of the New York Yankees hits the fence while trying to snag a foul fly off the bat of Detroit Tigers' Willie Horton in the second inning of their exhibition game in Lakeland, Fla., yesterday. Murcer had a glove on the ball but it popped out and into the stands, much to the delight of Tiger fans. New York won, 7-2.

A MAN TO LOOK UP TO—Bill Foss (left) of Lake Orion is a 6-foot-5 prospect who just completed his freshman basketball season at the University of Detroit. One of his teammates next year on the varsity will be 6-foot-8 All-American Spencer Haywood and the two exchange comments prior to last night's annual U. of D. Titan Club Basketball Banquet.

Young Phenoms Again Blossom in Exhibitions

By United Press International

Count any spring not lost which produces a new Stan Musial or Sandy Koufax — at least until the baseball season opens — and, so, count not the spring of 1969 lost.

Major league camps abound with so many sparkling rookies this spring that one wonders if such old fogeys as Denny McLain, Bob Gibson, Pete Rose and Carl Yastrzemski will get a chance to play when the season starts.

* * *

These rookies include:

• Outfielders Larry Hisle and Ron Stone, who turned in spectacular performances Wednesday to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to an 11-1 rout of the Houston Astros.

* * *

• Bobby Murcer, a 22-year old infielder who stretched his hitting streak to nine games as the New York Yankees defeated the world champion Detroit Tigers 7-2.

STRONG EFFORT

• Rudy May, a 24-year-old left-hander who pitched seven shutout innings in the California Angel's' 9-3 triumph over the Oakland Athletics.

Vada Pinson and Tim McCarver hit run-producing fourth-inning doubles to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Rookie Mike Torrez, a 6-6, 210-pound sidewheeler, yielded just one run in six innings for the Cardinals . . . Ted Uhlaender's third straight single drove in two runs in the ninth inning and gave the Minnesota Twins a 4-3 decision over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

* * *

Catcher Paul Casanova's error on a squeeze bunt enabled the Baltimore Orioles to score the winning run in the eighth inning and beat the Washington Senators 3-2, despite Frank Howard's first homer of the spring . . . Duane Josephson's run-scoring double in the first inning was the big blow of the Chicago White Sox' 2-1 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates behind the seven-hit pitching of Joe Horlen, Bob Priddy and Bob Locker.

TWO HOMERS

Wayne Garrett hit two homers and a single to lead the New York Mets to a 6-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Alex Johnson hit a three-run homer for the Reds . . . Ken Holtzman pitched seven shutout innings as the Chicago Cubs downed the Cleveland Indians 10-0 with the help of triples by Randy Hundley, Don Kessinger and Don Young off Sam McDowell . . . Bobby Bonds hit three singles and scored four runs in the San Francisco Giants' 7-5 victory over the Seattle Pilots.

Avondale Basketball Coach Named Aquinas College AD

Avondale High School basketball coach Phil Kahler today was named athletic director of Aquinas College in Grand Rapids effective July 1.

Kahler also is coordinator of physical education in the Avondale school system. He joined the system last September after coaching and teaching in Toledo.

* * *

"I feel reluctant to leave Avondale," Kahler said. "It's really a wonderful place. The kids are great, the administration has been good to me.

"Being here only a year, however, some look at you as being an opportunist. But you can't turn something like this down."

NO COACHING

Kahler applied for the job in February. He says plans at present do not call for any basketball coaching on his part.

"It's a step up in my profession and it's what I want to do—work in physical education. I'm really obsessed with the challenge of going there and taking over as athletic director. There's a lot of work to do and I'll enjoy it . . . completely."

PHIL KAHLER

Ted Sowle has been handling the Aquinas AD post on an interim basis since Red Dornbos left the school last year.

* * *

Kahler was a three-sport star at North Dakota State College; was twice All-Army basketball player while serving in the Army; and assistant basketball coach at the University of Toledo.

He was head basketball and baseball coach at the Thomas De Vilbiss High School in Toledo from 1962 to 1968 before going to the Rochester area.

GRADUATE WORK

Kahler has degrees from North Dakota State, University of Toledo and is doing advance work at Oakland University.

His high school teams in basketball won 118, lost 59, and won three conference titles, three district titles, two regional titles and a state championship. His basketball teams won 105 and lost 37. His one Avondale team posted a 2-15 record.

Wings Making Final Playoff Bid

By the Associated Press

The Detroit Red Wings find themselves in even worse position than when the Detroit Tigers trailed St. Louis three games to one in baseball's World Series last fall.

And the Tigers pulled one of sport history's all -time comebacks, winning the last three games and the World Series title.

* * *

The question tonight is — can the crippled Red Wings roar back to clinch the fourth and last Stanley Cup playoff spot in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division?

The Wings meet their archrival for the spot, the Toronto Maple Leafs, at Olympia Stadium tonight.

ONE POINT

Detroit must win that game, plus its final two of the season —against Chicago Saturday and Sunday — to stay in contention. And even if Detroit does win all three, Toronto needs only a tie in one of its last three games to clinch the fourth spot.

* * *

Toronto helped its cause Wednesday night by knocking off the powerful Montreal Canadiens, 6-4, on two third period goals.

In other NHL action Wednesday, Chicago whipped New York 6-4, Pittsburgh rapped Los Angeles 8-4, and St. Louis turned back Oakland 5-3.

* * *

In the game in Detroit tonight, the Red Wings may be without the services of three regulars due to a late season injury and illness jinx. As a result, Detroit summoned three players from their farm club in Fort Worth— defenseman Jim Watson, right winger Eddie Hatoum and center Rick McCann—for tonight's game.

At Annual Outing

U-D Honors Calihan

It wasn't a night to brighten the anti-Bob Calihan forces Wednesday at the 1969 University of Detroit basketball banquet.

In an emotionally charged evening at the Raleigh House in Southfield, the U. of D. Titan Club's annual celebration honored the varsity and freshman basketball teams and also served as a "praise the former coach" affair.

* * *

Calihan was relieved of his long-time position as head coach but asked to remain as athletic director last month with "expanded" duties. A search is under way to name a coaching successor.

It was obvious last night wasn't the time to name a new one. More than 300 persons attended the dinner and Calihan received several standing ovations from the crowd.

FOUR AWARDS

Sustained applause also greeted the introduction of sophomore star Spencer Haywood who received four awards: the outstanding sophomore trophy, the leading scorer trophy, and two awards from Look Magazine and Wheaties for being chosen to the basketball writers and coaches' All-America teams.

Pontiac Press sportswriter Jere Craig made the presentation of the ring from Look on behalf of the Basketball Writers' Association, while Calihan gave Haywood a plaque from General Mills on behalf of the coaches.

Junior center Larry Moore was named the most improved player on the team, and seniors Vyto Abramavicius and Bob Calihan (the coach's son) tied for the loyalty award.

* * *

The 1969-70 captain will be Dwight (Sam) Dunlap of Ferndale, a 1966 All-Class A county selection by The Press. The junior guard thus will follow in the footsteps of former teammate Bruce Rodwan who was the Titans' 1967-68 captain after an outstanding prep career at Ferndale.

Also among the U. of D. freshman cagers introduced last night was Bill Foss of Lake Orion, who was on The Press' All-County team last year.

Heart Attack Fells Ex-Major Leaguer

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Jackie Jensen, former major league baseball star now University of Nevada baseball coach, suffered a heart attack Wednesday while conducting practice.

He was reported in critical condition later at Washoe Medical Center.

His wife, Kathy, said he had suffered some pains earlier in the day at their home but decided to practice anyway.

She said doctors told her that the next few days would be crucial and that Jensen would be hospitalized at least six weeks.

Jensen was 42 on March 9 and is in his first year as head coach at Nevada. His team has an 8-5 mark.

Clubs Pull Turnabout

Playoffs Spur Celts, Warriors

By the Associated Press

The Boston Celtics are alive and well in the National Basketball Association after all. And, by the way, so are the San Francisco Warriors.

Both teams, bothered by key injuries most of the regular season, looked dead after disappointing finishes in the standings. But nothing revitalizes a team like the playoffs, and the Celts and Warriors were alive and swinging Wednesday night.

Boston surprised Philadelphia 114-100 behind Bill Russell in the opener of their best-of-seven Eastern Division semifinal, while the Warriors stunned Los Angeles 99-94 in their Western semi opener. And both victories came on the road.

The other semis begin tonight when the New York Knicks travel to Baltimore in the East and San Diego plays at Atlanta in the West.

AGING STARS

Russell and the rest of Boston's aging stars ran off a 16-5 string for a 60-54 halftime lead and the 76ers never got closer than six points again.

Big Bill, looking the way he did when Boston was carrying away NBA titles annually, scored only two points, but blocked 13 shots, grabbed 14 rebounds and assisted on eight baskets.

* * *

John Havlicek led the Celts with 35 points while Billy Cunningham had 27 for the 76ers, who were hurt by a three for 21 from the field shooting performance by Hal Greer.

With Nate Thurmond offsetting Wilt Chamberlain, outscoring him 15-11, Jeff Mullins and Rudy LaRusso combined for more than two-thirds of San Francisco's points with 36 and 32, respectively.

SCORING SPURT

It was LaRusso and Joe Ellis who led a run of 11 straight points that turned a 76-72 deficit into an 83-76 lead, and the Lakers never recovered as LaRusso scored 13 points in the final period.

Jerry West topped the Lakers with 36 points.

The second games of the two series will be in Los Angeles and Boston Friday night.

Grid Broncos Chomping at Bit

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Western Michigan football coach Bill Doolittle says the crop of sophomores expected to report for the start of spring practice Friday "is one of the biggest we've had."

In all, 110 athletes are expected to report and 25 of them will be lettermen.

Meanwhile, Doolittle has made some adjustments on his coaching staff. Offensive backfield coach Ed Ferkany left recently to join the staff at the U.S. Naval Academy and instead of replacing him Doolittle has added five graduate assistants.

Pacers Nearing Crown in ABA

Indiana Five Downs Los Angeles, 134-123

By The Associated Press

With the end of the regular season only a week away, the Indiana Pacers seem virtually certain of winning the Eastern Division championship in the American Basketball Association.

The Pacers put on a second-half rally to beat the Los Angeles Stars 134-123 Wednesday night. That put the Pacers three games ahead of second-place Kentucky with only two games left for them to play.

★ ★ ★

Indiana has a 44-32 won-lost mark. Kentucky is 39-33 with six games to play, a factor which puts added pressure on the Colonels in the stretch drive.

Oakland, already the Western Divisions champs, similarly rallied to beat Houston for a 131-124 victory in the other ABA game scheduled.

WINNING STREAK

Indiana stretched its winning streak to 13 in eliminating Los Angeles, fifth in the Western Division, from a berth in the playoffs. Bob Netolicky's 31 points were high for the Pacers. George Lehmann topped the Stars with 32 points including seven three-point goals.

With the score tied 63-all at halftime, Indiana collected five straight points at the outset of the second half and coasted the rest of the way. The Pacers built a 21-point bulge in the fourth period.

★ ★ ★

Houston led Oakland until Ira Harge's basket tied the score at 119-119 in the last quarter. After that, the Oaks pulled away.

Dough Moe's 32 points paced the Oaks. Bob Verga's 33 topped the Mavericks.

Spartans Rained Out

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — A baseball game between Michigan State and Pittsburgh Wednesday was postponed because of rain.

All-Staters Named

Tall, Small on 'B' Five

DETROIT (AP) — One of the tallest players on this year's Class B All-State high school basketball team averages only 14 points a game, while one of the smallest has a 26-point mark.

But both are exceptional ballplayers who join eight others named to the annual Associated Press team by sports writers throughout Michigan.

The No. 1 vote-getter among the choices was 6-foot-7 River Rouge standout Bill Kilgore who averaged 14 points a game. Another choice was 5-9 guard Dick Heintskill of Bay City All Saints, who pumped in 26 points a game.

Others named were Tom Targosz of Detroit Holy Redeemer, Jeff VanderLende of Grand Radips East Christian, Bryan Karhoff of Durand, Al Hengesbach of Hastings and Dennis Smith of Ecorse. Also chosen were Maynard Crawley of Oscoda, Dan Brower of Holland Christian and Doug Bateson of Blissfield.

All are seniors.

CHAMPION MACHINE

Kilgore was part of Rouge's well-oiled machine that racked up its ninth state championship last week under the coaching of Lofton Greene. He sank 67 per cent of his free throws and grabbed a phenominal 350 rebounds. He is the best player to come out of Rouge's "basketball factory" since Willie Betts and Greene says Kilgore "is a much smoother ballplayer."

Heintskill is a fantastic ballplayer and playmaker who is built like a fireplug but is a deadly outside shooter.

In three years he has scored 1,279 points. All Saints beat Flint Ainsworth for the regional tournament championship 70-67 in three overtimes and Heintskill netted all five points in the last overtime period.

The 20-point scoring and 20-rebound average by Tom Targosz led Holy Redeemer to the Detroit Catholic League championship. Redeemer finished second in the state AP poll with a 16-1 mark to that point. "He is the most aggressive competitive player I ever coached," says Tom McCartney. Targosz scored on 88 per cent of his free throws.

ONE SETBACK

The only loss by state Class A champ Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills this season was to Grand Rapids East Christian.

Jeff VanderLende scored 32 points in the upset and his team finished the year with an 18-4 record. The 6-7 B-average student averaged 23 points a game and University of Michigan Coach John Orr claims he is the best tall cornerman Orr is going after in his recruiting.

Durand was the state's eighth ranked team with a 15-3 record and part of the season is the fine play of six-footer Bryan Karhoff. Karhoff scored 1,101 points in three years, including 442 this season for a 24.6 averge. He was a good rebounder and considered best during tough games.

★ ★ ★

Hasting's Al Hengesbach scored 457 points for a 26.8 average on his otherwise mediocre team. He was a three-year starter and is considered one of the best Class B players in southwestern Michigan.

Dennis Smith is one of five brothers who played basketball at Ecorse. This year he scored 441 points for a 22-point average and has dumped in 902 in three years for a school record. Smith stands only 5-8 but sank 52 per cent of his floor shots and 77 per cent of his free throws.

Oscoda won the Northern B Conference title this year and finished with an over-all 19-3 record.

Maynard Crawley teamed with his younger brother, Ed, to devastate the opposition. The 6-4 Maynard had a 23-point average and Ed, 21. The elder Crawley pumped in 1,100 points in three years.

★ ★ ★

A strong two-way player, Dan Brower was one of the keys to Holland Christian's 18-6 record. He got 11 rebounds a game and netted 16 points. The 6-8 center was a starter on last year's state final runner-up.

The highest scorer on the 1969 All-State Class B team is Doug Bateson. The 5-10 Blissfield guard averaged 27.6 as he scored 552 points in Blissfield's 14-6 record. He sank 138 of 169 of his free throw attempts for 82 per cent and tied the school's career scoring average of 19.4 990 points. This year he had 45 steals and 62 assists to go with his scoring proficiency.

MSU's Hopes High for Wrestling Title

PROVO, Utah (AP) —Michigan State is among the favorites to capture the 1969 NCAA wrestling championship today, Friday and Saturday at Brigham Young University.

Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Iowa State are the other top contenders but MSU Coach Grady Peninger says, "We've got a good chance." The Spartans won a record fourth straight Big Ten title earlier this month.

Meanwhile, Michigan suffered a blow to its NCAA team when next year's captain Lou Hudson, was injured in the conference meet. Hudson, the Big Ten champion in the 130-pound class, suffered a chest injury in the meet.

IS YOUR HOME UNDERINSURED?

A house that cost $20,000 ten years ago would cost at least $30,000 to replace today.

That's what inflation has done in just ten years to the purchasing power of your dollar.

If you used the standard insurance basis of 80% or replacement cost you covered your $20,000 home for $16,000. You should have increased your coverage to at least $24,000 to be fully insured against partial loss today.

If your insurance falls below the 80% coverage figure any replacement will be made with allowance for depreciation, or at actual cash value.

Think that over and drop in to see us or call us to bring the facts to you.

Pearson Using New Engine

Ford Driver Sets Track Mark

ATLANTA (AP) — Now that favorite David Pearson has shown that it can be done, other drivers went after Atlanta International Raceway's speed records today, as time trials continued for Sunday's 500-mile stock car race.

The 34-year-old Pearson, the 1968 NASCAR driving champion, put Ford Motor Company's new 429-cubic inch engine into official use for the first time Wednesday, and shattered the old track mark in a roaring ride around the wind-swept raceway.

* * *

His 156.794 miles per hour lap was almost a mile per hour faster than the old standard of 155.085 set last year by Bobby Allison in a car equipped with a 427 wedge engine with dual carburetors.

Pearson was such a clear-cut favorite before the official time trials started that only five other drivers offered even a token challenge. The best of these was Dodge's Charlie Glotzbach, more than two miles per hour slower at 153.148.

BIG PROBLEM

"Handling is the big problem here," said Pearson. "The new engine is 100 times heavier than the one we've been using, and the added weight makes a lot of difference on this track."

Pearson was Ford's chief test driver before the new power plant was ruled legal last week by the U.S. Auto Competition Committee. He had driven the engine in a 500-mile test here two weeks ago.

"We got some ideas about how to get the car set up during that test," he said. "So we got the jump on the other Ford drivers."

Because most of the strong cars and drivers elected to take only routine practice runs Wednesday, Pearson said he doesn't expect his pole-winning speed to hold up. "Lap speeds could go as high as 160 m.p.h. fore the week is out," he said.

The strong wind that poured gusts up to 35 m.p.h. across the raceway's shallow turns was expected to let up today.

Ten berths in the 40-car starting field for the $109,000 race were to be decided today.

Richard Petty was on Wednesday's qualifying list but lost control in the stiff wind and banged into the third turn guard rail. He escaped with minor damage to the car.

The four other first-day qualifiers were Swede Savage, 151.387 in a Ford; Bobby Allison, 150.837 in a Dodge; Elmo Langley, 141.862 in a Ford, and Frank Warren, 131.835 in a Chevelle.

Gridiron Clinic Slated

Dunk Ban Retained by Rules Committee

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The rules committee of the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada announced Tuesday the controversial ruling which prohibits "dunking" the ball will be retained next season.

Clifford Fagan, secretary of the committee, said support for the three-year-old no-dunk ruling was stronger than ever.

The rule prohibits players from leaping into the air and stuffing the ball through the hoop for a field goal.

RULE EXPANDED

An old rule was expanded slightly as the committee decided a jump ball shall be called when any closely guarded player in the front court area holds the ball for more than five seconds.

Fagan said this eliminates a previous ruling which relieved the post player from the five-second requirement if he was waiting to throw the ball to a cutting teammate or some other player on the court.

A second free throw may now be allowed by the referee "when a technical foul is also an intentional foul."

Referees are to give visual signals from counting time, such as in the five second ruling or in the time allowed to bring the ball across the center line following a field goal.

High-Scoring Fives After AAU Crown

MACON, Ga. (AP) — College kids catch on quickly, so it's no surprise to see Stephen F. Austin and West Virginia State barging into the ranks of the contenders for the National AAU Basketball Tournament title.

★ ★ ★

The two free-wheeling college clubs put on dazzling shows in the first round and won roles as dark-horse challengers for the championship with their efforts.

Stephen F. Austin overcame a slow start and thrashed Burger Chef of Indianapolis 106-82 with sophomore Harvey Huffstetler pumping in 28 points.

West Virginia State rode the 35-point shooting of Dewayne Freeman to a 97-76 conquest of the Turf Club of Merced, Calif.

Those whippings highlighted Wednesday's six-game marathon which cut the field to eight for today's quarter-finals.

TAKING A DIVE — American player Larry Pleau (18) goes headfirst to the ice as Czechoslovakian goalie Miroslav Lacky snatches the puck away to halt a U.S. scoring bid during a world ice hockey game in Stockholm, Sweden, last night. Also in on the play were Yanks Ron Nasland (14) and Jerry Lackey (right). Czech player Frantisek Pospisil backs up his goalie. The Czechs won, 6-2.

Time Against U.S. Hockey Unit

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Time is running out for the U.S. amateur ice hockey team—and the minor injuries are piling up.

The Americans have now played eight of their 10 scheduled matches in the world championships here and have lost all of them.

★ ★ ★

Billy Reichert, forward from the Rochester Mustangs, has a strained leg muscle and is unlikely to play again.

Now John Mayasich, 35-year-old playing coach from the Green Bay, Wis., Bobcats, has a slight muscle strain, too. He only played for a few minutes in the final period of Wednesday night's game against Czechoslovakia, which the Americans lost 6-2.

The United States and Finland are struggling to evade last place in the standings. The bottom team automatically drops into group B in 1970.

The Finns defeated the United States 4-3 in their first meeting last week. So the Americans must win by at least two goals on Sunday to stay in the pool.

Muskegon Romps Past Columbus in Playoffs, 7-1

By the Associated Press

The International Hockey League playoffs have started with a blast for Muskegon.

Muskegon jumped to a 3-0 lead at the end of the first period Wednesday night and went on to wallop the Columbus Checkers 7-1 in the first IHL playoff for both teams.

★ ★ ★

In a game at Toledo, Mike Corson's goal at 14:55 in a sudden death period lifted the Fort Wayne Komets to a 5-4 victory over the Toledo Blades.

In the contest at Muskegon, Bob Tombari scored two goals for the Mohawks and Bob Smith, Kent Byrnes, Bryan McLay, Jim Bannatyne, and Gary Ford added one each. Al White scored the only goal for the Checkers.

The American Power Boat Association had 5,297 racing members in 1968. Largest classes were inboard with 1,350 members and stock outboards with 1,098.

Test One Pro Too Many

Amateur Netters' Hopes Fade Fast

NEW YORK (AP) — The upsetters, Cliff Richey and Mark Cox, had their amateurish hopes at money and glory ended in the second round of the Madison Square Garden Challenge Trophy Tennis Tournament, but there are two others to take their place.

★ ★ ★

Charles Pasarell, an amateur U.S. Davis Cupper from Puerto Rico, and little known Zeljko Franulovic, an amateur from Yugoslavia, are the newest surprises after impressive victories Wednesday night.

★ ★ ★

Pasarell ousted seventh-ranked Tom Okker, a pro from Holland 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, while Franulovic, a 22-year-old law student, bounced sixth-seeded Clark Graebner, another U.S. Davis Cup player from New York, 6-3, 6-2.

Both winners are playing only for expenses and glory rather than risk them for a shot at the $5,000 first prize in the $25,000 tourney.

BID OVER

On the other hand, Richey of San Angelo, Tex., who sprang the big upset of the tournament by beating second-seeded Rod Laver in the opening round, had his bid for a big money payoff ended.

Richey, an amateur who forsook expenses to play for the $5,000 first prize of the $25,000 prize money, was outlasted by Roy Emerson, Australian pro, 7-5, 9-7.

★ ★ ★

Cox, the amateur from Great Britain, was beaten by ageless pro Pancho Gonzales of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-1. It was Cox who eliminated fifth-seeded John Newcombe of Australia the night before.

★ ★ ★

Tony Roche, top-seeded pro from Australia, advanced easily with a 6-3, 6-3 victory over amateur Jim Osborne of Honolulu, while Arthur Ashe, No. 3, the ace of the U.S. Davis Cup team, held off pro Ray Moore of South Africa 6-4, 9-7. Ashe, an amateur from Richmond, Va., chose to play for the prize money.

BOWLING

Two insurance men proved to be "premium" bowlers last week in the North Hill Lanes Men's Classic.

Tom Hutsko of the Martin Agency had the best series with a 226-259—696 performance, while Austin-Norvell's Don Evans posted the top game with a 276 in a 668.

City Glass Service rolled a 1033—3046 combination—sparked by Ed Jostock's 243-212—658, Fran Bertram's 237-213—651 and Bill Bull's 255-209—641—but the runner-up team couldn't gain ground on Hazelton's Lettering who had a 1029-1040 pair.

Karl VanDeMoortell's 213-237—645 and George Ellman's 231-213—633 helped the pacesetters stay six points in front.

HURON LADIES

In women's action, Terry Grant stormed the pins for 231—633 in Thursday's Huron Bowl Ladies Classic. Mary Wood bested her game, though, with a 245 in a 595, and Shirley Pointer had a fine 237.

Marvel Szot had a 575, Mary Foster 214—572 and Marbara Cloutier 208—571. The Huron Bowl team registered a 2673 actual and Oxford Mattress hit 960—2569.

Olympic Fund Nearing Goal

The Wright Olympic Fund seems certain of topping its $1,800 goal this week with a Sportsarama Benefit Night tomorrow at Northern High School's boys gymnasium.

The fund raising campaign, headed by UAW Local 596 of Fisher Body where Ed Wright, Jr., works on the production line, is intended to defray the costs of the talented trackman's participation in this year's "Deaf Olympics."

* * *

The 24-year-old Wright owns three world records (for deaf runners) in the 100-yard, and 100 and 200-meter dashes. He is a leading candidate for gold medals in the International Games for the Deaf next August at Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Aided by a generous response from community groups and individuals, plus organizations and persons around the state the fund reached the $1,769 level in less than three weeks.

EXPAND CAMPAIGN

The campaign organizers have notified the national Games for the Deaf Committee that Wright's $1,800 is assured by April 1 and that the drive will be extended in an effort to raise another $700 to send his wife to the games, also.

A major portion of this amount will likely come from tomorrow's program at PNH and a union-sponsored dance next Saturday.

* * *

The Sportsarama night will feature a basketball game between the faculties of Northern and Central High School beginning at 7:30 p.m.

During the intermission, the Eastern Junior High School drill team and Teniklers from McConnell Elementary School will perform.

* * *

Following the game, there will be exhibitions of gym hockey by two teams in the city Parks and Recreation Department elementary school program, Swedish gymnastics by Madison JHS pupils and championship table tennis by Pontiac association members.

DONATIONS

A donation of $1 will be taken at the door beginning 7 p.m. Student donations of 50 cents are being accepted at the schools participating, and also accepting contributions are the Urban League office and at the recreation department in City Hall.

* * *

Cosponsoring the evening in addition to the recreation department and the school system's department of physical education and athletics are Pontiac City School Employees Local 719 and Griswold's Sporting Goods.

The dance being staged April 5 by Local 596 at the union hall on Baldwin will feature the Sultans of Souls and is being cosponsored by Grinnell Brothers.

* * *

Among the groups contributing to the fund this week are the City-Wide Choir Union, Teamsters Local 616, the Delaware (Ohio) Moose Lodge and Flint Ainsworth High School.

All donations should be made out to the Wright Olympic Fund and sent to Local 596, 821 Baldwin, Pontiac. Union president Donald Johnson is in charge of the fund.

Deadline Slated in Cage Tourney

The deadline for entering the fifth annual Border Cities Men's Basketball Tournament April 11-13 in Hamtramck is Monday April 7.

The tournament will have three classes: open, industrial and Inter-Church. Those interested should contact director Michael Sitkowski at 874-1731 for the pertinent details.

Gene Littler Rejoining Pro Tour for Tuneup

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Gene Littler is back on the golf tour today after a month's idleness but it isn't the $40,000 first prize that has lured him from the home comforts of LaJolla, Calif.

* * *

"I thought I should get a couple of tournaments under my belt before the Masters," the mild-mannered, 38-year-old stylist explained. "Sure, I like to win money but there are other things more important. I don't let it rule my life."

* * *

Littler, who with $52,428 was the year's leading money winner until overtaken by Miller Barber last week, is one of the favorites in the $300,000 National Airlines Open, starting today over the country club of Miami.

* * *

The favorites' list was reduced by the withdrawal of Lee Trevino, the U.S. Open champion who accidentally got his left thumb jammed in a door, but the 155-man field still ranks as one of the toughest in years.

* * *

Also includes Bill Casper, the 1968 leading money winner; Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Julius Boros, Bob Goalby and Sam Snead.

* * *

Of all the affluent pros, who strut around in their expensive slacks and fleecy sweaters, Littler is the most inconspicuous and perhaps the most underrated, although he has won 21 tournaments and is reputed to have the soundest swing in the business. This year he won at Phoenix and finished second at San Diego, collecting $37,500 in two weeks.

Kansas City Boxers Holding Lead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Host Kansas City has maneuvered into a strong position for grabbing the team championship and young, eager Mike Quarry is only two steps away from emulating his more famous brother as the National Golden Gloves Tournament moves into the semifinals tonight.

The only defending champion remaining, Lorenzo Trujillo of Grand Rapids, Mich., at 125 pounds, won by default when his opponent came up with a broken hand in the quarter-finals. Trujillo meets a tough foe in Leroy Gilmore of Detroit in the semifinals.

* * *

Gilmore knocked out Dennis Hawes of Elizabeth, N.J. Wednesday night at 1:45 of the first round, in their 125-pound match.

Kansas City took over the team lead from Cleveland with 15 points after Wednesday night's quarter-final round, and sent five of its fighters into the semifinals.

Cleveland remained in contention with 14 points and three surviving boxers, while Salt Lake City appeared to be the only other team with a good chance of winning the championship with 13 points and three remaining fighters.

No other team had more than two fighters left.

Quarry, 19-year-old brother of professional heavyweight contender Jerry Quarry, scored a unanimous decision over George Trice of Louisville in light heavyweight division to gain the semifinals.

He meets rugged John Santiago of Roswell, N.M., in tonight's semifinals.

The finals also will be fought tonight.

Arizona Downs Wolverines, 8-2, in Series Opener

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The University of Arizona opened a five-game baseball series with Michigan Wednesday, taking an 8-2 victory from the Wolverines.

Rod O'Brien led the Wildcats at bat with a three-for-five effort, including a double to raise his batting average to .444.

The victory raises the Wildcats' season record to 13-1, and winning pitcher Bob Bridgers pitching mark to 3-0.

The two teams meet again Thursday and Friday and wind up the series with a double-header Saturday.

Ex-Champ in Line for Shot at Crown

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sonny Liston has been given a crack at getting the heavyweight championship back in the same arena where he lost it five years ago.

* * *

Chris Dundee, Miami Beach promoter, said if Liston gets past Billy Joiner in St. Louis Friday night, the former champ can have a fight with current holder of the hog's share of the title, Jimmy Ellis.

The proposed date was June 21, said Dundee. Terms were not disclosed.

Liston lost the title to Cassius Clay at Miami Beach Convention Hall in 1964. Ellis is recognized as heavyweight champion in all but five states.

'M' Trackmen Waiting

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan's track team opens the outdoor season April 4-5 in the Kentuckey Relays at Lexington. Meanwhile, the Wolverines' golf team winds up its first competition of the year Saturday as the Miami Invitational Tourney ends in Florida.

Magic, the first American yacht to defend the America's Cup against a British challenger in 1870, was designed by R. F. Loper and built in the T. Byerly & Son shipyard in Philadelphia. Magic, a schooner, defeated Cambria over a 35-mile course by 39 minutes and 17 seconds.

Kennedy Building Platform on Collision Course With Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Without exposing his political plans for 1972, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is slowly but surely building a platform putting him on a collision course with President Nixon.

In the first months of the Nixon administration, the 37-year-old crown prince of the Kennedy legacy has:

● Outlined far-reaching proposals that would end a 20-year "war policy" with regard to mainland China and urged that the Communists replace the Chinese Nationalists on the U.N. Security Council, an almost unprecedented recommendation by a major political figure.

● Become the rallying point for opponents of any anti-ballistics missile system — Sentinal or Safeguard — and has taken the unusual step of privately commissioning a study by noted scientists.

● Urged a total overhaul of the draft.

● Taken on the powerful oil interests by charging that the import quota program is a special sop for the industry and costs the economy between $4 billion and $7 billion a year.

● In the midst of the most unpopular war in the nation's history, called for a sympathetic study to plot the future of thousands who dodged the draft and took refuge in other nations.

★ ★ ★

● Summoned three top Nixon officials before his administrative practices and procedures subcommittee to explain alleged laxity in enforcing equal employment opportunity.

Although some of the positions Kennedy has staked out put him in direct conflict with Nixon, the new Senate Democratic whip so far has not harshly criticized the new administration.

For instance, in his major China speech, which expressed opinions contrary to Nixon's, the administration was not criticized, but really urged to follow.

RFK Pledge to Be Fulfilled by Brother

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is planning a three-day expedition to remote Alaskan villages next month to fulfill a pledge made by his assassinated brother Robert.

Senators, aides and reporters making the educational excursion to the frozen north will fly between villages, but at one point they will have to resort to dog sled to reach their destination.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy's special subcommittee on Indian education will be exploring problems of the Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts, including poverty and medical needs. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who had been chairman of the subcommittee, promised the Alaskan natives last year that he would visit their villages.

TO START APRIL 9

Now, one year after the original excursion was planned, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., plans to carry through on the promise.

The tour is to start April 9 at Anchorage.

Major hops will be made in Alaska Air Command aircraft, but the senators plan to rent bush planes to get into smaller places.

Besides Kennedy, subcommittee members planning to make the trip include Democrats Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Republicans Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, William Saxbe of Ohio and George Murphy of California.

NEW SENATORS

Alaska's two new senators—Republican Ted Stevens and Democrat Mike Gravel—also plan to go along.

Their first stop will be at Bethel, a community of 1,258 in southwestern Alaska. The first night will be spent at Nome.

They cross the Arctic Circle the following day to call on the inland village of Kotzebue, population 1,290, then spend that night at Borrow.

On the final day they will dogsled from an airport into Arctic Village, one of four native towns they plan to explore before final stops at Fort Yukon and Fairbanks. An evening hearing is planned for Fairbanks.

State Election Change Asked

LANSING (AP) — A bill to eliminate one word in state election law, thereby allowing Michigan voters to cast ballots directly for president and vice president has been introduced in the House by Rep. Hal Ziegler, R-Jackson.

Removal of a single "not" in the law would make it read in part: "marking a cross in the circle shall be deemed and taken as a direct vote for the candidates for president and vice president."

★ ★

In addition, presidential electors would be appointed by the Legislature, rather than being picked by political parties in fall conventions of each election year.

"I can't realistically conceive that my bill would go anywhere," Ziegler said. "I just want to get some debate going."

WAIT AND SEE

He said he hoped the idea is taken up in Washington, but meanwhile he wants to see what the state might do.

"I don't want to give the impression I've done a lot of study on this," he said, "but I am an attorney and I've talked this over with several people.

★ ★ ★

"Everyone seems to think that under the constitution, a state can set up its own voting method," Ziegler said.

Article II, section 1 of the U.S. Constitution says "each state shall appoint, in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors" equalling the state's total senators and U.S. representatives.

Nixon Budget-Wariness Puts SST Future in Doubt

By VER NHAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supersonic transport, which has generated almost as much noise within government as critics say it would in flight, faces a doubtful future at the hands of a budget-conscious White House.

A final decision on the controversial program is expected soon after a report goes to President Nixon this week from Secretary of Transportation John Volpe.

Volpe until recently has been an outspoken supporter of developing an American SST and for this reason the report is expected to be favorable if not an outright recommendation for continued work.

Spadework for the report, however, was done by a review board of Cabinet undersecretaries and high-level agency heads known to have included bitter critics of the SST.

BAD TIMING?

Although the report is likely to carry considerable weight, it goes to the White House at a time when President Nixon is combing the budget for soft spots and may be reluctant to restore funds that former President Johnson left out of his budget.

Volpe took note of this in a recent interview with the Associated Press when he said "All of us recognize the inflationary picture."

Program leaders have estimated more than $200 million will be needed to continue SST development in the next fiscal year, if the 1,800-mile-an-hour airliner is to become available for commercial use by 1976 or 1977.

The Boeing Co., Seattle, has a contract to build two prototype or flying test models, using engines provided by General Electric Co., Cincinnati. The Federal Aviation Administration has estimated that the government and contractors will have spent $1.5 billion on the program by the time the prototype phase has been completed.

FOREIGN MODELS

SST backers say the United States must develop its own model to remain competitive with the French-British Concorde and the Russian TU 144. Both the foreign models have flown, but are not expected to be in commercial use until the 1970s.

★ ★ ★

Critics of the program want development of an SST held up until some way can be found to curb the noise it makes on landings and takeoffs and when it crashes through the sound barrier.

Some critics also say that with only a few more years' work a hypersonic transport may be developed that will make the SST obsolete.

★ ★ ★

Volpe said in the interview he would leave any comment on the report to President Nixon and appeared to back off from a previous strong stand on the plane.

ARDENT ADVOCATE

"I wouldn't say that I was an ardent advocate of the SST," he said. I have perhaps been an ardent advocate of the United States maintaining the leadership in the aviation field.

"You know there are a lot of problems involved, whether it be the feasibility from an economic point of view, the feasibility from an engineering point of view, the balance of payments situation, international relations, noise factors, et cetera . . .

"I just feel strongly about aviation. The United States should have—and has had certainly, as one of the greatest nations if not the greatest nation in the world—leadership in aviation.

"I would like to see the United States maintain its leadership in this field but that doesn't mean necessarily I've already decided the SST is the program I'm going to support wholeheartedly."

★ ★ ★

Asked whether the U.S. could maintain a position of leadership if it failed to develop an SST to compete with the foreign versions, Volpe said that there are many unknowns about both designs.

"There are a lot of answers that haven't been come up with yet," he said.

Hay Wagon 'Could Help a Litter Bit'

LANSING (AP) — Junk the trucks and go back to the hay wagon, three highway department employes have suggested as a solution for picking up roadside litter.

They don't suggest using horses, however, saying the wagons can be pulled by medium sized tractors.

★ ★ ★

Arnold Burke, Harley Barnes and Leonard Wartella of Lansing received permission to use a light hay wagon instead of a truck as an experiment in litter cleanup.

They claimed the wagon could cover twice as much ground in a day as the conventional truck.

★ ★ ★

Heavy trucks must be left at the edge of the road, they explained, causing workers to spend much of their time walking back and forth with arm loads of litter. The lighter wagon was able to travel off the highway and right up to the litter to cut down on the physical labor.

The state's bill for highway litter pickup last year was $827,067.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The district Internal Revenue Service said Wednesday that 12,631 southern Californians, who filed early in hopes of getting a speedy refund on their federal income tax, forgot to sign the return. The forms are being returned for the signatures.

FIRST NEGRO IN HOUSE OF LORDS — Sir Learier Constantine, 67, is shown in his robes yesterday as he became the first Negro in history to take a seat in the British House of Lords in London. Mail Boosts Morale of State Amputee, 9

DOWAGIAC (AP) — Bolstered by letters of encouragement from hundreds of servicemen in Vietnam and a former president of the United States, 9-year-old Richie Hall of Dowagiac is anxiously looking forward to his return to school.

Richie, afflicted with a malignant bone tumor (osteogenic sarcoma), had his left leg amputated in October 1967.

After the operation, the boy realized he would never be able to represent America in a military uniform, so he wrote a letter to "a U.S. soldier" in Vietnam.

In the letter, Richie thanked the soldier for what was being done to protect America.

COLONEL ANSWERS

Lt. Col. Warren M. Schaub, commanding officer of the 3rd Battalion, 26th Artillery, in Vietnam, answered Richie's letter, saying:

"I want to thank you for the thoughtful letter we received from you. It is because of the courageous boys and girls like yourself that our duties over here become more important.

"Please do not think that you are unable to do anything for us here. Your letter has been a great help and inspiration to us all."

★ ★ ★

As a result, Richie last year was made an honorary member of Lt. Col. Schaub's artillery unit.

Referendum Carries Risks for De Gaulle

By United Press International

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle is taking a big risk in the April 27 national referendum, ostensibly on the issue of local government reform.

The idea of the referendum was first launched by the president himself last summer, just after the general strike.

Then, he argued that his theory of increased participation by workers in the management of their company offered the best middle way between communism and unbridled capitalism — as well as providing an answer to the disturbances of the spring. It must therefore be endorsed by the people in a referendum, he decided.

★ ★ ★

In fact, there are two aspects to the Gaullist doctrine of participation.

On the one hand, it implies industrial profit-sharing and a close association between workers and management.

SERIES OF LAWS

A series of laws is already on its way to the statute book, laying down the details of this scheme.

And, by the end of the year, France should be the first country in the non-Communist world to give all workers a compulsory stake in the profitability of their firms as well as the right to certain information from the directors.

But De Gaulle decided also that the idea should be extended to include a closer relationship between citizen and government in other fields. Joint student-teacher councils are being set up in universities and certain secondary schools.

Far more dramatic, however, is the plan to break down France's traditional supercentralized system of provincial administration and give the regions of the country a greater degree of autonomy than they have enjoyed since the Middle Ages.

New regional councils are to be set up, with a large degree of financial autonomy and responsibility for many aspects of local development.

CONSULTATIVE BODY

They will be made up partly of directly elected representatives and partly of representatives of local interest groups.

But — and this is the most controversial aspect of the scheme — the new councils will also send delegates to a central consultative body that is to replace the old French Senate.

At the same time as the electorate votes on the new regional councils next month, it will also be asked to abolish the second legislative chamber. And many people suspect that De Gaulle is trying in this way to pay off an old score with the Senate which has consistently opposed him and his policies since he came to power.

The Senate could never be expected to vote itself out of existence, so, rather than send a bill through the normal legislative machinery, he has cunningly chosen to link its death sentence to the regional decentralization plan and put the whole idea to a national referendum.

There is much to be said for regional decentralization, especially in France where the opposite process has been carried to excessive lengths.

SELDOM THRILLED

However, while the mass of any electorate is seldom thrilled by local government reforms, a strong body of opinion remains violently opposed to any reduction in the central government's power which, in French history, has become identified with the unity of the nation.

Furthermore, the reform of the Senate has made many people suspect that the general is trying to pull a political trick on them.

There is plenty of evidence that the government fears it has bitten off more than it can chew in calling this referendum. First planned for last year, it was put off until the spring because victory seemed unlikely.

The direct appeal to the people over the heads of the politicians is, of course, one of the French president's favorite gambits. But this time he is taking a big risk.

For it is far from certain that the outcome will be the massive "Yes" he evidently hopes for.

Crippled World War II Veteran Far From Helpless

By ROBERT LINDSEY

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Carl M. Reel is unable to work. His ability to read, write or speak is seriously impaired. His memory retention capacity is limited. And he wears steel braces on his right arm and right leg.

But Carl M. Reel is far from helpless. He lives alone. He drives his own specially equipped car.

And he paints.

★ ★ ★

Using his good left arm, the 52-year-old St. Louisan turns out beautiful oil portraits, still lifes, landscapes. He sells a few, he gives more away; but mostly it is just a hobby he enjoys that helps pass the time.

Brain damage caused by rheumatic fever in 1944, while Reel was in the U. S. Army Air Corps Intelligence Service, paralyzed his right side and hospitalized him for two years.

100 PCT. DISABLED

The Veterans Administration classified Reel, holder of the Silver Star, 100 per cent disabled. He receives full veteran's compensation.

He suffers from aphasia, which is the loss or impairment of speech resulting from brain damage. He can speak only phrases.

★ ★ ★

He is currently painting a portrait of his two granddaughters from a photograph. "Kimberly and Betsy, so cute," or "my daughter Diane, such a doll." Reel says.

His daughter, Diane Lones, and granddaughters live in Lima, Ohio, where his former wife also lives. Reel was divorced several years ago.

1-ROOM APARTMENT

Reel lives and does his painting in a modern one-room apartment which has a kitchenette and bath.

He visits friends and relatives by driving to their homes in his car, which has the gas and brake pedal on the instrument panel.

One of his frequent visiting places is the Disabled American Veterans Hall in North St. Louis, where he is a member. Two of his paintings are on display there.

One is a 6-by-5-foot detailed oil of the Battle of the Bulge, in somber green, brown and gray. The other is a 2-by-3-foot version of the Marine flag-raising at Iwo Jima.

SHOWS STAN SWINGING

Another of his paintings shows onetime baseball star Stan Musial as he swings a bat before the home-town St. Louis crowd.

The painting hangs in Musial's restaurant in St. Louis. Reel said he gave the oil to Musial because "I'm proud of Stan." The artist attends many Cardinal home games.

★ ★ ★

A large colorful oil of a country home along the Big River, just south of St. Louis in Jefferson County, was commissioned by a neighbor who will pay a moderate fee.

★ ★ ★

Reel also is working on a painting of the crucifixion of Christ and the two thieves at Calvary. He normally paints four hours or more a day. After painting about 10 minutes, he has to stop because his arm gets tired and sometimes shakes, he said.

HE'S THANKFUL

Reel said he doesn't get lonesome often because he has his friends and his art work. "My daughter calls me frequently," he said. "Doctors told me memory would come. It's slow. I'm living. I'm thankful."

Cuban Youth Group Gets Elite Training at Military Schools

By FENTON WHEELER

HAVANA (AP) — An elite group of youths is receiving specialized military and political training to take over key posts someday in the Cuban armed forces.

The boys are called "little Camilos" after the Castro rebel army hero Camilo Cienfuegos who disappeared on a plane flight nearly 10 years ago.

★ ★ ★

The armed forces are operating nine "Camilo Cienfuegos Military Schools" with 2,489 boys. Plans call for increasing enrollment next year to 3,500.

The schools stress physical fitness, technical education and political orientation. Students also put in 45 days annually in agricultural or production work.

OBJECTIVE OF SCHOOL

The official armed forces magazine Verde Olivo (Olive Green) describes the program like this:

"The objective of the school is to give cultural, political and military formation to the students until they reach the pre-university level and then promote them to different cadet schools of the armed forces. There they will continue their studies until they graduate as command cadres of infantry, aviation and rocketry."

To qualify, students must be militantly pro-government, between 10 and 16 years old and have a minimum sixth- and maximum ninth-grade education.

All students are expected to become career militarists. Their course includes mathematics, physics, biology, geography and history. The languages stressed are Spanish, English and Russian.

MILITARY SUBJECTS

Military subjects include infantry warfare, topography, map reading, rifle training, drill and military regulations. Physical training calls for active participation in baseball, volleyball, basketball and javelin throwing.

An obvious political aim is to create what the Communist party calls its "new man," a politically oriented revolutionary who works selflessly with rifle or plow. Cienfuegos and Che Guevara are held up as examples.

★ ★ ★

School discipline is strict. Students goose-step along in formation in their olive green uniforms just like their older counterparts.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro said in 1967 that Cuba needed better educated and trained officers to operate the country's modern weapons. These schools are the result.

★ ★ ★

"Here we are forming the new man," says Juan Laffont, 13, of the Camilo Cienfuegos school near the Bay of Pigs. The new man, he adds, "must have morale, correct discipline and conscience and be prepared culturally to push production and to have sufficient military preparation to defend the country."

For Better Brew of Broth, Add Soupcon of Marbles

By DICK WEST

WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The main thing that distinguishes us columnists from spot news reporters is the amount of investigative work we do to bring the extra dimensions in current events. I'll give you an example:

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) issued a complaint this week asserting that a certain television soup commercial was misleading because there were marbles in the bowl.

The agency said the marbles kept the meat and vegetables from sinking to the bottom, thereby making the soup look heftier than it normally appears.

This information for a news item but a columnist is obliged to peer more deeply into such matters.

CREAM OF MARBLE

What I did was go home and open a can of soup, borrow some marbles from my young son and make myself a bowl of "cream of marble" soup.

Although the FTC views the practice as deceptive advertising on television, I must say that I recommend it for ordinary table service.

★ ★ ★

The marbles do indeed cause the meat and vegetables to stay near the top of the bowl. This saves you the trouble of spooning through a lot of broth in order to reach the goodies.

If enough marbles are used (eight or nine will do for the average size bowl), you can force the meat and vegetables right up to the surface and skip the broth entirely.

It is a good idea to refrigerate the marbles. Pouring soup over cold marbles makes it cool off quickly and saves you a lot of blowing.

You, however, may prefer the marbles served at room temperature. Or, if you like soup really hot, you can heat the marbles in a skillet before serving.

★ ★ ★

My recipe for "cream of marble" soup calls for six marbles. The glass kind you can buy at a dime store will do. I personally prefer genuine agates, but I have always had rather expensive tastes.

★ ★ ★

The color is a matter of individual choice. Green marbles go well with pea soup, red with beet soup and so forth.

WASH THOROUGHLY

A word of caution: If you borrow the marbles from your young son, be sure to wash them thoroughly before serving. In fact, it might be wise to boil them, just to be on the safe side.

★ ★ ★

A further word of caution: If the soup is served with marbles, don't crumble crackers into the bowl. The crumbs make it difficult to see the marbles and they may be mistaken for pearl buttons.

Griffin Supports Debt-Limit Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert P. Griffin R-Mich. voted with the majority Wednesday when the Senate passed and sent to President Nixon a bill to increase the national debt limit.

★ ★ ★

The roll call vote was 67-18. Michigan's Democratic Sen. Philip Hart did not vote on the question.

Mississippi Project for Poor; Get Job, Then Train Worker

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi has begun a job-training program under which it finds the employer first—and then trains the worker. And training is given not only to the breadwinner of the house but also to the other members of the family.

"There is a lot more to ending poverty and filling empty stomachs than handing out piles of welfare money," says Dr. P.T. Bankston, associated director of the center.

About 12,000 field hands—both men and women, many of whom were cotton workers—have been thrown out of work in recent years with the advent of federal minimum wage laws, weed control chemicals and advanced mechanization.

Into this situation stepped the Mississippi Research and Development Center.

The state took over the unused Greenville Air Force Base to start a pilot project with money from state agencies, the federal government and the Ford Foundation. And the Delta Resources Development Center was born. Today, some 300 persons live and work and learn at the center.

A trainee, sent to the project by the state welfare office, begins with a basic education class to learn to read and write. In the afternoon, he starts an evaluation program to determine his skills and special aptitudes. One such experiment requires the trainee to take a lock apart and put it back together, following pictorial instructions.

★ ★ ★

At the end of six weeks, a trainee has taken 100 tests and typically has shown ability in about 30 areas, indicating he could be trained for any one of several hundred jobs.

Then an employer is located before the training begins, so it can be directed toward a specific job.

MAKING A PROFIT

The one facility in actual production at the center is a wire harness plant, turning out material for a washing machine company. Center officials say it is making money.

Another company, Trailco Inc., has broken ground for its first plant in Mississippi and expects to be in operation at Greenville by September. In the meantime, a trailer-truck assembly line identical to the one used by Trailco will be set up at the center to train workers.

★ ★ ★

A manufacturer of knitted clothing plans to locate production operations in one of the large buildings on the base in the near future.

While the husband is undergoing job training, his wife and children also are learning new skills. The wife learns to budget her husband's pay check, for example, and how to most efficiently purchase groceries, clothes and household items. Everybody is indoctrinated in simple sanitation procedures.

GIVE FUTURES

Bankston said, "In order to solve this problem permanently, we've got to give these people a future. A man can't hold his head up and look his family in the eye when he's living off the charity of others. What we are trying to do is give a family a wage earner who can hold that head up and with his family become a part of the modern, productive society that technology has produced for us."

★ ★ ★

"What good is a welder if there are no firms in the Delta needing welders? And what good is a job if the worker has no idea of how to put his money to good use?

★ ★ ★

"We think we've got the answer here—for the nation as well as the state."

Effect on Hormones Possible

Relation of Light to Sex Eyed

ATLANTA (AP) — Sex on a sunny day — and the relative merits thereof — are the subjects of a new study at Emory University.

An Emory neuroanatomist, Dr. Johannes W. Tigges, is examining the possible connection between daily light cycles and sexual and reproductive activity.

Neuroanatomy is the science of the structure and function of various parts of the brain.

It has been noted that light seems to influence the production of a hormone called melatonin in the pineal glands of experimental animals.

★ ★ ★

The pineal gland, about which relatively little is known, is a conical-shape body located toward the center of the brain beneath the cerebral hemispheres.

Some scientists believe melatonin affects the syntheses of sex hormones in both males and females. Therefore, light (such as sunlight) may play a role in the complex interplay of hormones that bear on reproduction.

★ ★ ★

With a grant of $5,000 from the National Institutes of Health, Tigges will study the nerve fibers that carry light-initiated impulses from the retina of the eye to the pineal gland.

KICKS OFF CAMPAIGN — Wet snow doesn't dampen the enthusiasm of Mrs. Donald Spyke of Lansing as she kicks off a bumper sticker campaign by a group called Citizens to Advance Public Education, which is opposed to the so-called parochiald bill before the Michigan Legislature. Mrs. Spyke is publicity chairman for the organization, which is using the slogan "Public funds for public schools."

Dr. Oaks Says:

Legal Abortion Still a Moral Issue

(Editor's Note — This is another in a weekly series of articles issued by the Oakland County Medical Society. Dr. Oaks is the collective voice of the society.)

"Liberalize abortion laws" is the current chant heard from some legislators and political pressure groups. The object is to make abortions easier to obtain and to multiply the legally acceptable reasons for the procedure.

The American Public Health Association, Planned Parenthood-World Population and the Population Council are three groups urging sweeping changes in the abortion laws. Their arguments are essentially the same.

* * *

Various reasons — population planning, planned parenthood, etc. — are offered to support liberalization. Included among the reasons is to end so-called "abortion mills", whereby unsafe, unsanitary and illegal abortions are performed by totally unqualified persons.

This latter aspect is valid only to a limited degree. It is a vital factor, however, when — and if — a portion of society may view the many factors connected with abortion in a different light than the majority.

ONE REQUIREMENT

A spokesman for the Population Council has indicated the long-range solution to the problem of abortion law reform is to replace current law with the one simple requirement.

This, of course, is that abortions be permitted "only with a requirement that a duly licensed physician perform the abortion."

Regardless of the variety of opinion, liberalization — today or tomorrow — requires significant changes in our present cultural values. From abhorrence to acceptance is more than a single generation gap. Cultural traits are inbred.

And the physician is not immune.

FREE FROM CENSURE

Of course, from the medical view, when a physician performs an abortion in good faith for the benefit of his patient, neither he nor his patient should be censured by the law. Properly presented and evaluated, abortion is often medically reasonable. And, there must be room in medicine for personal judgement and for a certain faith in that judgement. Medicine has always attempted to justify that faith.

Medicine does not seek to be the moral arbitrator nor the conscience of the society it serves. The ultimate question is not one to be answered by the physical laws of science.

Nevertheless, physicians do maintain a vital interest in the subject, because, in the end, it is the physician that must perform the act.

PERSONAL MORALITY

Physicians are not unlike the rest of society. They too must answer to their own personal morality. Despite liberalization of the law, it would be silly to think that all physicians immediately would concur.

The question of abortion will always end up as a question for each individual woman to decide for herself, with, of course, appropriate medical advice. And, for several generations at least, it will not be an easy question for many to answer.

(If you have a question for Dr. Oaks, send a card or letter to Oakland County Medical Society, 346 Park, Birmingham 48009)

Judge, 63, Dies of a Heart Attack

JACKSON (AP) — One of Jackson's oldest city employes in point of service, District Judge Theodore F. Smith, suffered a fatal heart attack Wednesday in his home at the age of 63.

Smith had been associated with Jackson's Municipal Court and its successor, since 1925, starting as a clerk. He served as chief clerk, then became an associate judge in 1950 after studying law. He became municipal judge in 1959.

Teachers of Future: Learning Clinicians?

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
University of Southern California

NASON

Harold G. Shane and June Grant Shane, professors of education, School of Education, Indiana University, Bloomington, predict a trend that has been advocated in this column for the past seven years.

They gave their views in Today's Education, the journal of the National Association.

The basic role of the teacher will change noticeably, the professors say. Ten years hence it should be more accurate to term him a "learning clinician."

This title is intended to convey the idea that schools are becoming clinics with the purpose of providing individualized psychosocial "treatment" for the student, thus increasing his value both to himself and to society.

This will be a long step away from what is the too-often present practice of hoping that the student will somehow discover how to learn efficiently, just by accident.

Education beyond high school has become more widespread than education beyond the 8th grade was 70 years ago. The junior college is the fastest growing segment of the educational system.

The first convention of the American Association of Junior Colleges held in 1920 had about 30 persons in attendance. Attendance at this year's 49th Annual Convention in Atlanta, exceeded 2,000 junior and community college administrators, faculty and board members.

Now two-year colleges have been established at the rate of about one per week during the past five years. Enrollments now total nearly two million.

Legal Aid for Indigent Is Provided by Clinic

A legal assistance clinic is being added to Northwestern University's medical and dental clinics. It will be a help to indigent persons by providing "one-stop" medical, dental, social and legal services.

In addition to making help easy to find for those who need it, the new legal assistance clinics will provide law students with firsthand experience.

* * *

Students working under the direction of an experienced attorney will learn the breadth and severity of the problems faced by the urban poor and assist in the preparation of cases and in counseling.

This follows the present trend of introducing direct contact with patients and clients early in the training for all professions.

Flood of Applications to Graduate Schools

The tidal wave of youngsters born just after the end of World War II has finally reached graduate school.

Not only are there more students of this age, but instead of the small percentage of college graduates going on to graduate work, two out of every three college seniors plan to go on to graduate school. By 1970, over a million are expected to apply.

He's Stubborn, Says Former Convict Friend

'Hoffa Is Asking No Favors in Prison'

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A former convict friend of James R. Hoffa says the imprisoned Teamsters president is taking penitentiary life "like a soldier, asking no favors."

Hoffa, behind federal prison bars since March 1967, has never stopped fighting for his release and "has lawyers coming in all the time—about twice a week," the informant said in an interview.

* * *

He expressed the opinion that prison life "is bothering him, but he won't admit it. He's pretty damn stubborn, and he won't ask for anything. And he could get things a lot easier."

Hoffa is serving eight years for jury tampering and five more for defrauding a teamsters pension fund. The U.S. Supreme Court Monday ordered a new hearing in the 1964 jury case to determine whether there was illegal use of federal wiretapping.

IN MATTRESS DEPARTMENT

The 56-year-old Hoffa is still working in the penitentiary's mattress department—"pounding them flat," said the informant, who asked that his name not be used.

"I laughed at him, and once asked him whose brains he was trying to knock in. But as long as he doesn't ask to be moved to other duties, the prison people won't move him. They can be just as tough."

* * *

Hoffa still lives alone, in a cell with an outside window that overlooks the courtyard.

The informant said Hoffa "could have been in the dormitory long, long ago. But he won't open his mouth. They doubled up some cell blocks recently because of crowded conditions, but they didn't double up his.

'FRIENDLY GUY'

"He's friendly with everybody, and he's not hard to approach and to talk to, but he prefers to pick his own pals—mostly guys in the labor business.

* * *

"He looks good. He keeps physically fit, playing a lot of quoits, and some handball and lifting weights, but not more than 100 pounds. He eats everything, and has a good appetite."

* * *

The informant added: "He's pretty well-versed on the court decisions that might affect him. He usually is pretty close-mouthed, but he talks to his own crowd about it, and they exchange opinions—and hopes.

Hoffa's best pal in the penitentiary, the informant said, is Tony (Pro) Provenzano, a New Jersey Teamsters official convicted of extortion.

"They always eat together and other fellows try to crowd in and join them but the brush-off is very polite, and they get the point," said the informant.

Alaska Builds Future Out of Disaster

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Five years ago today, Alaska suffered the most violent earthquake in North America this century. But out of the debris the 49th state has built a promising future.

The earthquake and resulting tidal waves killed 115 persons in the state and inflicted $300 million in damage March 27, 1964. Anchorage, the state's largest city, was torn apart, and significant damage was inflicted over 50,000 square miles along Alaska's southern coast.

* * *

Today, parks and earthquakeproof buildings stand where there was rubble. The rebuilding job took $330 million in public and private funds.

And today, Alaskans look from the rebuilt southern coast to the frozen north coast, where a major oil strike promises new riches for a state still small in population.

Despite the horror the earthquake dealt, many Alaskans feel it was a rebirth for the state.

"The earthquake had the effect of spurring progress," says William A. Egan, who was governor then and is now an Anchorage insurance executive. "Businessmen got together and bent their efforts to the premise that Alaska did have a great future."

* * *

Robert B. Atwood, publisher of the Anchorage Times, whose home was destroyed and who narrowly escaped death, now can look at the good the catastrophe might have wrought.

"It does destroy old buildings," he says. "It does knock the city off dead center, if it is on one; the economy is made dynamic by the injection of great transfusions of new capital to clean up and build."

No one knows how much oil lies under the frozen tundra along the Arctic Ocean. Atlantic Richfield has brought in two wells and British Petroleum, one. The oil rush is on.

There are plans for a $900-million pipeline from the North Coast to the Gulf of Alaska on the south at Valdez, a tiny fishing village where 30 died in the earthquake. The town was so badly damaged it was abandoned and a new one built four miles away.

* * *

A state commission is pressing for a $210-million extension of the Alaska Railroad north from Fairbanks into the oil fields.

But oil is not the only economic spur. Kodiak, a fishing town where 25 died in the quake, now is the nation's No. 2 port in annual gross value of fish products. It ranks first in shrimp and king and dungeness crab. Five years ago its seafood packing facilities and 77 fishing boats were in ruins.

EARTHQUAKE PARK

The most dramatic recovery from the earthquake is in Anchorage, in whose environs 131,000 of Alaska's 284,000 people live. Stores slumped a floor below street level and the streets themselves dropped.

A downtown area which once contained bustling shops is now a sloping municipal parking lot, and new, modern buildings have sprung up. Earthquake Park remains an untouched reminder of the awesome upheaval of clay subsoil.

WHERE THE EARTH SHOOK — Blocks of buildings in Anchorage were demolished in Alaska's great earthquake. Now they are parking lots and parks, and new buildings have grown around them.

Soapy: Won't Intrude on Decision by MSU

MANILA (UPI) — Former Michigan Gov. G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams, often mentioned as a possible candidate for president of Michigan State University, is far from the scene and says he doesn't want to intrude on the decision-making process.

The U.S. ambassador to the Philippines, busy with preparations for returning to the United States, said today he has been busy in Manila and really hasn't made any plans.

* * *

"Michigan State is one of the great universities in the country, and I'm sure in their orderly process they'll get a president who will meet their needs," said Williams in a conversation with radio station WILS of Lansing, Mich.

* * *

"I know they want to do this in their own fashion and I don't want to intrude in any way," said the former six-term Democratic governor.

HIGH ON LIST

Despite his disclaimer, Williams' name remained high on the list of possible successors to Dr. John A. Hannah, who is resigning after 28 years to become director of the U.S. Agency for International Development.

The MSU Board of Trustees, on a strict party-line vote last Friday, selected Dr. Walter Adams, a well-liked economics professor, to serve as acting president. But Adams said he will relinquish the post when a permanet president is named this summer.

* * *

Williams and his wife, Nancy, planned to leave Manila the Monday after Easter, travel through Asia and Europe and return to the United States at the beginning of June.

Income Tax Answers

(Editor's Note — The Internal Revenue Service provides the following answers to questions frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q — Taxes were taken out of my pay on the summer job I had last year. How do I get this money back?

A — You must file a tax return to obtain any refund that may be due. Tax forms and instructions are available at local IRS offices as well as many banks and post offices.

* * *

Q — I've read where a lot of people are making mistakes on their tax returns because of the surcharge. What are they doing wrong?

A — Taxpayers are either forgetting to add the surcharge or they are figuring it wrong. Mistakes like these delay processing as well as any refund that may be due.

To avoid these mistakes check your instructions which explain how the surcharge should be handled.

* * *

Q — Can I deduct the federal tax I pay on my phone bill?

A — No, this is an excise tax, and excise taxes are not deductible.

* * *

Q—My brother has just been sent to Vietnam by the Army. Does he have to file a tax return?

A — Military personnel in Vietnam do not have to file tax returns while stationed there. Your brother may wait to file his 1968 tax return until 180 days after he leaves Vietnam.

* * *

Q — How long should it take between the time I send in my return and my check comes?

A — If the return is accurate and complete, it takes five to six weeks to receive an income tax refund. To avoid delays, read the instructions that accompany the tax forms carefully.

If you are expecting a refund, file your return now for prompt action. Our offices are loaded with returns in April and refund claims filed then take longer to process.

* * *

Q — I can't find my W2. Is there any way I can get another one?

A — Let your employer know what has happened and ask for another copy of your withholding statement.

* * *

Q — I don't provide over half my grandfathers' suport but when you add what I contribute to my brother's contributions, it does amount to over half. Can either of us claim a dependency exemption for this?

A — If each of you contributed over 10 per cent of your grandfather's support and the combined total adds up to over half of this total support then either of you may claim him as a dependent.

A special declaration must be completed by the one not olaiming the exemption and sent in with the return of the one who claims the exemption. Use Form 2120, Multiple Support Declaration.

* * *

Q — Is a tax refund income that has to be reported?

A — Federal tax refunds do not have to be reported.

A state tax refund has to be reported as miscellaneous income if the taxpayer deducted the tax in a prior year.

* * *

Q Under what conditions can a person 65 or over sell a house and not have to pay any tax on the profits.

A — There will be no tax to pay if:

- You were 65 or older before the date of the sale.
- The adjusted sales price was $20,000 or less.
- You owned and occupied the house as your principal residence for at least five of the eight years preceding the sale.

If the adjusted sales price was over $20,000 and the other conditions are met, then only a portion of the profit will be taxable. Details on this and other benefits are contained in the booklet, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans," Publication 554. For a free copy, drop a post card to your IRS district director.

Unachieved Daydreams Boyle Over

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Pity the poor man who has been everywhere, seen everything, done everything and has everything. He has no new worlds left to conquer. He doesn't even have anything to daydream about.

BOYLE

Fortunately, most of us aren't so unlucky. In daydreams lie sanity and escape from boredom, and the more we have to daydream about perhaps the healthier in mind we are.

It is a pleasant diversion now and then to make a list of the unachieved possibilities of our lives, things we might do if our time weren't so occupied with more prosaic tasks.

PARTIAL LIST

For example, here is a partial list of the things one man, well past the half-century mark, is somewhat surprised he has neglected to perform:

Take the temperature of a cucumber during a heat wave to see how cool it is.

Run for the presidency of a Rotary club.

Climb Mt. Everest or the ladder of success.

Pitch a little woo in an igloo.

Catch a falling star.

WAVE RED FLAG

Wave a red flag in front of an unruly bull.

Give away a military secret while submitting to the blandishments of a beautiful lady spy.

Veto an act of Congress.

Sleep in a crow's nest during a storm at sea.

Call another man a cad or a poltroon.

Beat a drum in a parade.

Snap the garter of a lovely actress while whispering, "Oh, you kid!"

Quell a mutiny by ordering the leader to be keelhauled.

Break bread with a cannibal.

Start or end a riot.

VIEW IN TIMBUKTU

Toss a caber in Edinburgh or a champagne party in Buckingham Palace.

Admire the view in Timbuktu.

Wear a cape or a fez.

Tell an irate traffic cop, "Calm down, fuzz."

Open a charge account at the casino in Monte Carlo.

Borrow a cup of gin or caviar.

Munch a plate of manna.

Bulldog a rare white rhinoceros. Anyone, of course, can bulldog an ordinary gray one.

Steal a 44-carat souvenir from a diamond mine.

CRASH STATE DINNER

Crash a state dinner at the White House.

Fight a duel with pool cues at 20 paces.

Meet a man who always practiced what he preached.

Cage an eagle or a sparrow.

Break a brick with a karate blow.

Unearth an unearthly earthworm.

HOISTED BY PATARD

Be hoisted by a petard or impaled on the horns of a dilemma.

Eat spaghetti with chopsticks.

Give a dog a bad name.

Receive a platinum toothpick as a Christmas present.

Invent a surefire cure for hiccups.

Cash a Social Security check.

Yep, when a man starts to thinking about all the things he hasn't done in his life, he rather wonders what he has managed to do except kill time.

Thief Outside Jurisdiction

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Police have an admitted burglar on their hands, but no jurisdiction.

A 7-year-old boy was caught burglarizing a home. He admitted breaking into the same house three times earlier, police said, and into another home once. Officers said radios, walkie talkies and a ring, all valued at $200, was taken.

Juvenile Court said it could not handle the case because the boy was under the court's minimum age for jurisdiction — eight years. Police said they would try to work out something with the youngester's mother.

Pentagon Cites Dangers in Dealing With Hijacker

Use of Military Guards on Airliners Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has rejected the use of military armed guards to ride shotgun on commercial airliners to prevent hijackings because the potential dangers to passengers and crew are too great.

"The potential danger to the lives of all persons aboard the aircraft, due to possible death or injury to the crew or critical damage to the aircraft itself, will greatly limit the effective use of (the guard's) firearm," officials said.

* * *

Also, the Defense Department said, the use of a gun or physical force to deal with a hijacker holding a hostage "is extremely difficult in the cramped quarters of a commercial airliner without placing the life of the hostage in extreme jeopardy."

The suggestion for armed guards was made by Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, a Pentagon spokesman said, in the wake of many hijackings of airliners to Cuba.

CONSIDERED PROPOSAL

The Defense Department considered the proposal of furnishing Marines or other military guards on planes carrying government personnel in possession of military secrets.

In addition to the safety factor, the Pentagon said "The size of the Marine guard force required to ride the aircraft involved would be very large" because of the many military and civilian personnel having highly classified information traveling on commercial planes.

The Defense Department also noted that "Discussions would have to be undertaken with many countries before the United States could authorize the use of armed military guards aboard U.S.-registered aircraft traveling to foreign countries."

It dismissed the idea of transporting classified matter only on government planes, saying this would require possible establishment of a military mail service and an "immense logistic effort.

Aquanaut's Death, Extensive Delays Won't Kill Sealab Tests

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Despite the death of an aquanaut and extension delays, the Navy plans to continue man's biggest undersea adventure, the $10-million Sealab 3 program.

But before aquanauts again dive to the Sealab site 610 feet deep off San Clemente Island, a Navy board of investigation must determine why aquanaut Berry L. Cannon, 33, was asphyxiated by carbon dioxide.

★ ★ ★

Cannon's death Feb. 17—the first fatality in the Navy's man-in-the-sea program—caused an indefinite postponement of the 60-day experiment.

★ ★ ★

"We're going to find out what happened, then we'll go ahead," said Capt. William M. Nicholson, head of the Navy's Deep Submergence Systems Project.

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM

The program, the navy's most ambitious attempt yet to demonstrate how man can live and work for long periods at great depths, is to send five teams of nine men under water for 12 days each.

★ ★ ★

Their tasks include such projects as setting up an underwater trolley line, building a dry and lighted hut on the sea floor, starting a lobster farm and training porpoises and sea lions to fetch and carry.

★ ★ ★

The project was supposed to begin in the spring of 1968 as a follow-up to the 1965 Sealab 2, which was 205 feet down. But delays involving an underwater transport capsule — the aquanaut's elevator — caused postponements until last month.

★ ★ ★

First there was disagreement about specifications for the elevator. Then the unit was damaged when it was accidentally flooded, and early in February it was damaged again when it fell from a hoist.

QUICK HALT

Finally under way, the project came to a quick halt three weeks ago when Cannon died mysteriously while diving.

A board of inquiry has spent two weeks trying to determine which of four diving rigs was worn by Cannon. One rig was found to lack chemicals which remove carbon dioxide.

★ ★ ★

One aquanaut testified that they shouldn't have made the dive in which Cannon died. "We were worked too hard and too long," said Richard M. Blackburn, 30. "We were pushed to a point where mistakes were inevitable."

★ ★ ★

The aquanauts also testified they had difficulty breathing during the dive.

'NOT ENOUGH GAS'

"It was like breathing through a small straw," said CWO Robert Barth. "I wasn't getting enough gas."

Blackburn charged that the breathing apparatus "was not properly evaluated and there was not sufficient training in its use."

Lt. Cmdr. John Harter, project officer for the Navy's Experimental Diving Unit, said the Mark 9 passed every available test. But, he said, the rig could not be tested under Sealab 3 conditions.

"This requires a facility with cold water under pressure," he said. "There is no such facility in the United States."

★ ★ ★

Testimony also has revealed that eight aquanauts undergoing decompression would have been in jeopardy.

Cmdr. J. M. Tomsky, on-scene Sealab 3 commander, testified that he posted a 24-hour guard after oxygen valves to the decompression chambers on the support ship Elk River had been "tampered with."

★ ★ ★

He later told newsmen that he didn't know whether the alleged tampering was deliberate.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, the Sealab habitat has been raised from the sea and will undergo shipyard modifications, the nature of which won't be known for several weeks. It will be ready for use next fall, at the earliest, Nicholson said.

NASA's New Chief Outlines Lofty Program

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Warning that Russia is pursuing a vigorous space program, America's new space administrator is pushing hard for a strong U.S. program "second to none."

★ ★ ★

When President Nixon named him to head the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on March 5, Dr. Thomas O. Paine said, "I think this country should indeed be the preeminent nation in space faring.

★ ★ ★

"With your help, Mr. President," he added, "I am sure that we can go ahead to see that the NASA program in this second decade of space will outperform the accomplishments of the first."

★ ★ ★

He has had his first budget bout with Congress, arguing against additional cuts in a space budget that has declined the last three fiscal years.

CONCERN FOR LOSSES

Paine, 47, who had been acting administrator, expressed concern about the loss of technical competence and declining employment.

★ ★ ★

He noted that the program employment has dropped in three years from 420,000 to 215,000, with another dip to 190,000 expected in fiscal year 1970.

★ ★ ★

"The reduction of our NASA civil service during the same period has placed a difficult burden on our program management," he said.

In contrast, he said, the Russian space effort "continues to be active and is clearly receiving a high level of support.

BIG RED GOAL

"I think it is abundantly clear," Paine said, "that the Soviets are proceeding in manned space flight programs directed both at sending men to the moon and at substantially enlarged and extended operations in earth orbit.

★ ★ ★

"As indications of future Soviet direction and pace become clearer and as this nation approaches the first manned Apollo lunar landing, it is clearly appropriate for the new administration and Congress to take a fresh look at long-term U.S. goals in space."

Outlining his views on the course of the program in the next 10 years, Paine listed these six goals:

- "We should do all we can to understand and put to early use the promise of space for people here on earth. We should increase our scientific knowledge of the vital earth-sun relationship and study the earth itself from space. We should develop and experiment with new and improved practical applications of satellites, particularly in earth resources.
- "We should follow up the first Apollo landing with a sound program of manned lunar exploration.

★ ★ ★

- "We should proceed with the development and experimental operation of a permanent U.S. space station in earth orbit.

★ ★ ★

- "We should move out steadily in the exploration of deeper space, exploring the planets with unmanned probes and the sun, stars and galaxies from orbital observatories outside the atmosphere.

★ ★ ★

- "We should provide the technology for developing the full potential of U.S. civil and military aeronautics.
- "We should maintain a strong momentum of broad technological advance in all aerospace disciplines."

Mrs. Gabe Roth of Union Lake (left) and Mrs. Stephen Basson of Pleasant Ridge won second and third prizes in this year's

Cook-off for Women Who Work, sponsored by the Detroit Edison Company

One-Hour Main Dishes Boon to Busy Women

By JANET ODELL
Food Editor, The Pontiac Press

Local gals make good in big city. Three area working women were finalists Tuesday in Detroit Edison's annual Cook-Off for Women Who Work. Two came home with major prizes.

Wouldn't you know that the mother of two boys would come up with a hamburger recipe? Mrs. Gabe Roth of Union Lake won a broiler-rotisserie for her "Beef and Cornbread Pie." She's school secretary at Pontiac Lake Community School.

* * *

Even busy women can make this kind of main dish. One of the requirements of the contest is that the dish must be completed in one hour. Take off your coat, put on your apron and in 60 minutes, dinner will be on the table.

BEEF AND CORNBREAD PIE
By Mrs. Gabe Roth

1 pound ground beef
1 tablespoon fat or cooking oil
1 medium onion, diced
1 green pepper, diced
1 can (No. 2) tomatoes
1 can (No. 2) whole kernel corn
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon chili powder (optional)
1 package cornbread mix

Brown beef and onion in fat; add green pepper, salt, pepper and chili powder. Add tomatoes and corn. Cover and simmer about 10 minutes.

* * *

Prepare cornbread according to directions on package and pour over meat mixture.

Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Makes 6 servings. This recipe may be doubled for a good picnic or potluck dish.

TEACHER

Mrs. Stephen Basson lives in Pleasant Ridge, but she spends her days at Kingswood School, Cranbrook, where she is head of the English department. Her choice of a quick meal, a filling onion and cheese soup, won for her a new blender.

Try this one the next time you have friends in for Sunday night supper in front of the fireplace.

ONION SOUP SUPPER
By Mrs. Stephen Basson

4 large onions
⅓ cup butter
5 teaspoons instant beef bouillon
4 cups boiling water
¼ cup Parmesan cheese, grated
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
4 slices good white bread
4 slices aged Swiss cheese
Butter
Garlic powder
Grated Parmesan cheese

Peel onions and slice very thin. Saute in butter, adding extra butter, if necessary, to keep onions golden but not hard or brown.

* * *

Dissolve instant bouillon in boiling water and add to cooked onions. Simmer 20 minutes; add monosodium glutamate and cheese. Simmer for another 10 minutes.

* * *

Cover pot while simmering and add extra water, if necessary, to prevent mixture from becoming too thick. However, it will not be as thin as clear soup.

Five minutes before soup is to be finished, lightly toast bread. Butter toast, sprinkling it with garlic powder and grated Parmesan cheese. Top each slice with a slice of Swiss cheese.

Put onion mixture in individual bowls or in a flat ovenproof dish top with toast and cheese slices. Place under broiler for one minute before serving.

* * *

This onion soup supper is easy, inexpensive, filling and delicious. Serve with fresh fruit, applesauce or salad and dessert for a complete meal.

The first place recipe which won a new stove is for chicken. Marianna Fortuna who works at Burroughs Corp. is the cook.

HAWAII CHICKEN EXOTIC

4 cups cooked chicken, diced
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup celery, finely chopped
1 cup water chestnuts, diced
3 hard cooked eggs, diced
1 tablespoon crystallized ginger
2 tablespoons rice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup slivered almonds.

Mix two soups together. Add eggs, celery, chestnuts and ginger then, add chicken. Place layer of rice seasoned with salt in bottom of shallow baking dish. Cover with chicken mixture.

* * *

Saute almonds in butter and sprinkle on top of casserole. Bake 25 minutes in 350-degree oven. Makes 6-8 servings.

No Grades for Pork It's Always Tender

Consumers won't find USDA grades for pork because it is from young animals and is tender. Over 80 percent of pork entering wholesale channels crosses state lines. This must be certified by Federal inspectors as wholesome, coming from healthy animals and prepared under sanitary conditions.

* * *

The signs of quality in fresh pork include: firm, fine-grained, velvety flesh; grayish pink lean marbled with flecks of fat; uniform cover (¼ inch) of firm, white fat on exterior; porous pinkish bones.

To keep that quality at home, put immediately in coldest part of refrigerator. Use within one to two days. For longer storage, freezer wrap immediately, freeze and store at 0 degrees F. Recommended freezer storage for fresh pork is three to six months; for ground fresh pork, not more than 60 days.

Crumbs on Beans

Add a generous sprinkle of toasted buttered bread crumbs over green beans just before serving. It imparts a crunchy texture and a delicious flavor. It's also a good way to use up leftover breakfast toast.

MACARONI CHEESE OMELET — Delicate in color though it is, this dish is a hearty one full of nourishment supplied by elbow macaroni, eggs, cheese and milk. A cheery red tomato sauce is a pleasant, tangy accompaniment.

Turkey Legs a Good Buy

Turkey legs, often frozen in pairs, are avilable in most market areas. They are a thrifty choice for a good, high quality protein food.

Braising is an excellent way to cook turkey legs and drumsticks. It is easier to get deep browning when the legs are defrosted, but they may be cooked from the frozen state. Defrosted turkey legs braise in about 2¼ hours. Allow about 45 minutes more if cooked without defrosting.

* * *

Shake turkey in a bag containing seasoned flour. Brown in hot fat. Add a little water; cover and cook over low heat on top of the range or in the oven at 325 degrees F.

* * *

Turkey legs may be sliced and served hot or cold, cut into chunks and used in salads, casseroles and stews. Low-income families in either the Food Stamp Program or Commodity Distribution Program might enjoy this recipe featuring turkey.

FIRED RICE AND TURKEY

Chop ½ small onion. Heat 2 tablespoons fat in a large fry pan. Add onion and 1 cup finely cup-up, cooked turekey and cook over medium heat until onion is tender. Add 4 cups cold cooked rice and 2 tablespoons soy sauce. Lower heat.

* * *

Beat 1 egg and add to the rice mixture. Cook and stir 5 minutes. Makes 6 servings, about ¾ cup each.

Curry Gives Yams a Different Taste

Try a different way to season yams.

Curried Yams

4 medium yams
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chicken stock
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon lime juice
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

* * *

Scrub yams; cover with boiling water. Boil, covered, until almost tender — 30 to 40 minutes. Cool partly; remove skins; cool entirely. Cut into ¾-inch cubes.

* * *

Cook onion in butter until golden; add yams and continue to cook until butter is absorbed. Mix stock, curry powder, lime juice, salt and pepper; add to skillet.

* * *

Mix gently; continue to cook, stirring occasionally, until stock is absorbed but mixture is not overly dry. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Polynesian Meat Balls Start Party Off Right

Tahiti is just a party impulse away with this exciting South Sea suggestion. Start your next company dinner with these delicious two-bite-size Polynesian Pork Dips, or plan a Tahitian cocktail party.

Flavored with grated onion, these tiny meat balls owe their smooth-textured succulence to a binder of toasty rolled oats. They're delicious as is, but with a pineapple-ginger sauce for dunking they're irresistibly exotic.

If you want to sail way out, serve from island "TI trays." Use large Polynesian TI leaves for cocktail plates (they may want some support underneath) and drink from hollow coconut shells with colorful straws.

SET SCENE

It's easy and inexpensive to evoke the islands: decorate with grass or bamboo mats, paper flowers and artful arrangements of fresh fruit, perhaps in simple wood bowls.

With today's fashions, there's probably a swingy flowered print in your wardrobe now—hostess gown or floor-length culottes — perfect for a few Tahitian hours on your porch or patio.

POLYNEISAN PORK DIPS

Pork Balls:
1½ lb. ground pork
¾ cup rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup milk

Sauce:
1 cup pineapple juice
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons firmly-packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 tablespoon catsup

For pork balls, thoroughly combine all ingredients. Shape to form small balls, using a tablespoonful of meat mixture for each. Place in an unheated fry pan; fry over low heat about 25 minutes or until done. (If using electric fry pan, set at 325 degrees). Dip pork balls into warm sauce.

For sauce, combine all ingredients in a small saucepan. Stir until cornstarch is dissolved. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until sauce comes to a boil and is thickened. Continue cooking over low heat and until clear, stirring frequently.

* * *

NOTE: If skillet is not large enough to fry all pork balls at once, remove cooked pork balls and place in warming dish. Do not drain drippings from fry pan. Add remaining pork balls and fry 18 to 20 minutes or until done.

PAR-TI MORSELS—Little balls of ground pork make an interesting first course for a Hawaiian party—or for any cocktail party. They're dipped in a spicy sauce with pineapple juice base for one delicious bite.

Coffee Drink Has High Nutrition

Here's a recipe for a delicious coffee nog: Mix in blender 2 cups cold milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 teasponns instant coffee, few grains of salt, 2 tablespoons toasted wheat germ, ½ teaspoon vanilla and one egg. Beat at high speed for one minute. Yield is 2 cups.

Serve cold. A scoop or slice of ice cream may be added, if desired.

Skillet Cook Unusual Omelet

Elbow macaroni — just one of the many macaroni shapes — mixes deliciously in most any type of recipe. Soup, salad or stew, casserole or skillet dishes, and even in desserts — name the dish and there's a way to make it with macaroni!

And now, from the National Macaroni Institute, comes a new recipe for a delectable omelet. Here's an idea for a hearty breakfast dish, luncheon or supper.

IN SKILLET

Cooked elbow macaroni is mixed with beaten eggs, milk, and cheese and bacon for extra flavor. The mixture is cooked slowly in a skillet, then turned out upside down for serving. It will be lightly browned on the bottom and slightly crisped.

The omelet's delicate flavor will be enhanced by a tangy tomato sauce which begins with canned tomato sauce and is easily prepared. (If you want a meatless dish, simply omit the bacon.)

MACARONI CHEESE OMELET

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
8 eggs
⅓ cup milk
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
⅓ pound bacon, cooked and crumbled
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter
Tomato Sauce*

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally until tender. Drain in colander.

Beat eggs; add milk, cheese, bacon, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Add cooked macaroni and mix well.

Heat butter in large skillet. Pour in egg mixture; cover and cook over low heat until set (about 20 minutes). Turn out onto serving dish, and cut in wedges. Serve with Tomato Sauce*.

*Tomato Sauce: (Makes about 2 cups) Melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Saute ¼ cup each: chopped onion and chopped green pepper. Add 2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce and 2 teaspoons Worcestershire. Heat to serving temperature.

Sharp Cheese Is Part of Crust

"American as Apple Pie" is a popular cliche and the recipe is an all-American beauty. Fresh Apple Cheese Pie has a Cheddar crust and the gentle bite of lemon and spices. Strips of the pastry pattern an attractive lattice look over the apple mixture. Serve the pie warm or cold.

FRESH APPLE CHEESE PIE

1 2-3 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
⅔ cup shortening
4-6 tablespoons cold water
2 pounds apples, pared, cored and sliced (6-7 cups)
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
⅔ cup sugar
2 tablespoons tapioca
½ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspon salt

Sift flour and salt into bowl; mix in cheese. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Sprinkle water over flour-cheese mixture; mix gently. Form into a ball and chill 1 hour. Roll out 2-3 pastry into 13-inch circle; loosely fit into 9-inch pie plate.

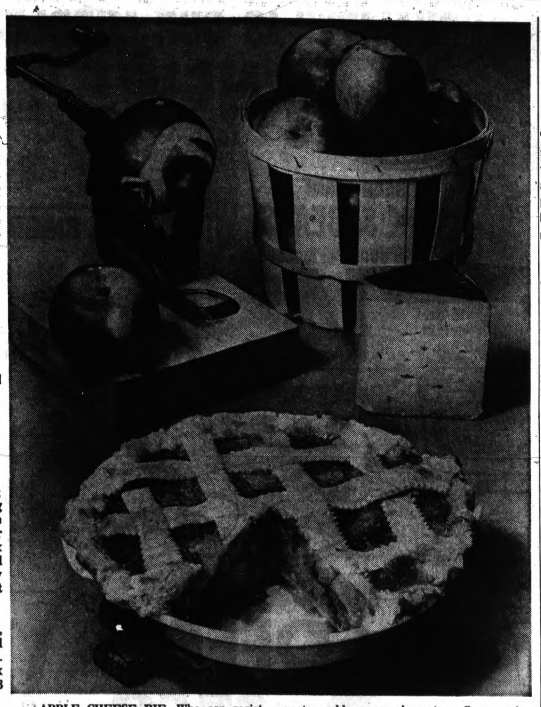
★ ★ ★

Combine apples, lemon juice, sugar, tapioca, cinnamon and salt; place into pastry shell. Roll remaining pastry into 6 x 12-inch rectangle; cut into 8 strips.

★ ★ ★

Weave strips over filling to make a lattice top. Seal edges to pastry shell. Flute edge of pastry shell. Bake in 400-degree oven 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375 degrees. Bake about 30 minutes longer or until apples are tender and pastry is lightly browned. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

Finished cookies should be removed from the baking sheet immediately, or they will continue to bake and lose their tenderness.



APPLE CHEESE PIE—Who can resist juicy home baked apple pie? Cheddar cheese pastry adds a complementary flavor note. This is always a favorite with the men.

Corn Mixture Used as Pepper Filling

Cook 2 slices of bacon until crisp; remove from fat and add chopped onion and tops of peppers which have also been chopped. Cook the vegetables until tender. Combine the crumbled bacon, cooked onion and pepper, 2 canned diced pimientos and a can of cream style corn. Fill the peppers and put in a baking dish with a small amount of water.

★ ★ ★

Cover and bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes. This is very good with roast beef.

Ripen at Home

Pineapples are picked when hard. They normally ripen in a few days at room temperature. Depending on the variety, ripe pineapples are golden yellow, orange yellow or reddish brown, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Marinate Cauliflower' Serve Hot or Cold

Spicy Cauliflower is different. The flowerets are infused with the aroma of pickling spices while being tenderized. You can stop right there by adding salt, pepper, butter and serve as a hot vegetable. However, the recipe has several variations.

★ ★ ★

The spicy, tender flowerets can be marinated in a sharp dressing and served as a relish to accompany pot roast or prime rib of beef. Should a piquant, colorful salad be desired, the marinated cauliflower can be served with thin slices of red onion, green ripe olives and mandarin oranges.

★ ★ ★

Western cauliflower is normally in peak supply during March. This year may be different. Arizona and California have been deluged with rain during January and February. This condition may affect the supply and price.

SPICY CAULIFLOWER

1 large head cauliflower
½ teaspoon pickling spice
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup boiling water
1 tablespoon anchovy, chopped
¼ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 red onion rings
½ cup sliced green ripe olives
Mandarin orange slices

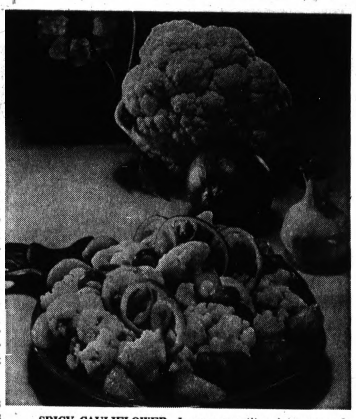
Wash cauliflower. Cut off base and separate the flowerets. Add the pickling spice and salt to boiling water. Steam or cook the caulifower until crisp-tender, 5-8 minutes. Drain.

★ ★ ★

Meanwhile, mash the anchovies with a fork in a shallow bowl; add the oil and lemon juice and beat together. Pour over the cooked hot cauliflower and toss. Refrigerate for at least an hour.

★ ★ ★

Garnish with red onion, olives and orange slices. Serve it as a relish with pot roast or prime rib. Or, line a plate with lettuce leaves and serve as a salad. Makes 4 to 6 servings.



SPICY CAULIFLOWER—Is your appetite winter weary? Pamper it with a spring tonic of cauliflower served with a spicy dressing. Hot, it's a good go-with for beef; cold, it's an unusual salad.

Proper Cooking Keeps Quality

To conserve nutrients and maintain good eating quality, the U.S. Department of Agriculture says: (1) Keep the amount of cooking water small; (2) Cook foods until just tender; (3) Use low to moderate cooking temperatures; and (4) Hold cooked food only briefly before serving.

Creole Recipes Call for Okra

The Louisiana Purchase brought America more than a sound investment. With it came some of the most notable foods that have ever graced the American dining table, particularly seafood dishes. Some of these creole dishes can perk up an otherwise everyday meal.

★ ★ ★

In this recipe, the tangy flavor of Norway sardines is used in an inviting hot casserole dish.

SARDINES CREOLE

2 (3¾ oz.) cans Norway sardines
2 large onions, thinly sliced
2 large green peppers, sliced
2 large fresh tomatoes, sliced
3 tablespoons butter
6 heads minced mushrooms
1 small can okra
1 lemon, thinly sliced
Few drops Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper

Melt the butter. Add thinly sliced onion and stir until the rings are transpartnet and tender. Remove the seeds and pitch from the green peppers, cut into thin slices, and add to cooked onion together with sliced tomatores.

Saute the minced mushrooms in another pan until brown and tender, then add them to sauce. Season to taste and add a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Cook slowly for 25 minutes or until the peppers and tomatores are done.

Add the okra, which has been sliced, and bring to a boil. Pour into shallow dish. On top place the sardines and top with lemon slices. Pour a little melted butter over all and serve hot.

For Winter Salads

Overlap thin, round slices of grapefruits and oranges on a bed of watercress sprigs; top with lemon-coated avocado balls and finely chopped almonds.

Chocolate Drops Are Rich, Nutty

When you combine chocolate, marshmallows and California walnuts, you're bound to get someting pretty special in the way of good eating. And when they are together in cookies, well watch out! The cookies are just liable to all be eaten before you get a chance to serve them for the party-fare they are.

There's a special surprise flavoring of instant coffee powder in the recipe to give them just a bit of different flavor, too. And crunchy California walnuts are baked inside the cookies, as well as being used to give a glamorous crown to the marshmallow and chocolate frosting topping.

WALNUT ROCKY ROAD DROPS

½ cup butter, ⅔ cup brown sugar, packed
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg, beaten
½ cup (3-ounces) semi-sweet chocolate morsels, melted
½ cup chopped California walnuts
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon instant coffee powder
½ cup milk
12 to 14 marshmallows
36 to 40 California walnut halves and or larger pieces

Cream butter, sugar and vanilla until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Add melted chocolate and chopped walnuts mixing well. Resift flour with soda, salt and coffee powder. Add to creamed mixture along with milk; stir until well blended.

Drop by rounded teaspoonsful onto greased cookie sheets. Bake at 350 degrees, 10 minutes or just until cookies test done; be careful not to overbake so cookies will be moist.

SWEET TOP

Cut marshmallows into thirds, crosswise. As soon as cookies are baked, top each one with a marshmallow slice and return to oven a minute to set marshmallows. Remove cookies to wire racks; top each marshmallow with a walnut half or piece, pressing down lightly to make it stick.

When cookies are nearly cool, place racks over waxed paper and carefully spoon or ladle warm Chocolate Frosting over top of each one. Let stand until set.

* * *

Frosting that drips on waxed paper maybe scraped up and reheated to use again. Makes 3 to 3¼ dozen cookies.

Chocolate Frosting

¼ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup milk or light cream
½ cup (3-ounce) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups sifted powdered sugar

Combine butter, milk and chocolate in top of double boiler. Place over hot (not boiling) water until melted and smooth, stirring occasionally. Add vanilla and beat in powdered sugar until smooth. Spoon warm frosting over baked cookies.

* * *

Note: If a double-tick frosting is desired, double frosting recipe. This heavy coating will make an almost candy-like cookie.

WALNUT ROCKY ROAD DROPS — These chocolate cookies will taste as good as they look. They are just the answer when you're looking for something special to serve with coffee after a bridge game or to pass with sherbet at a company meal.

Wine Shipping Origin of 'Ton'

The wine barrels of Bordeaux added a word to our language . . . ton, for the giant wine barrels in which wine was shipped abroad for bottling.

When Bordeaux belonged to England, as part of Eleanor of Acquitaine's dowry to Henry III, English merchant ships every year hove into Bordeaux harbor to haul away the vintage for the king. The ships were described by the number of tonneaux (wine barrels) they could hold. Since a ton weighed something over 2000 pounds, all ships began to be described by their tonnage, which is still the word to this day.

Tons, incidentally, are still used to send wine abroad to be bottled; except for the United States, where all table wine is imported in bottles.

Opening lead—♣5

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

The years 1927 through 1931 might well be called the pre-Culbertson era of contract. Except for Harold Vanderbilt, whose Vanderbilt Club constituted a good but complicated bidding system, most systems had nothing to recommend.

Strangely enough, their writings on the play of the cards were about as bad. They could all write about a simple squeeze or an elimination play but their general analysis was frightful. Of course, modern writers make mistakes also.

★ ★ ★

The bidding is typical early American, particularly when South goes on to seven no-trump because he has not shown his six-card diamond suit.

The pre-Culbertson writer does not discuss the five of clubs opening except to call it the normal lead against no-trump. But he does point out that South lost his grand slam because he let dummy's seven of clubs hold the first trick.

★ ★ ★

Of course, there are only 12 sure tricks available after that club lead but any declarer of today would have no trouble making the grand slam by the simple procedure of playing out the hand, provided he leaves diamonds to the last.

He simply cashes four spades, three hearts, three clubs (the seven that won the first trick included), and winds up with the jack of clubs and king-deuce of diamonds in dummy while he is holding the ace-to-nine of diamonds.

West has to hang on to the queen of clubs and must unguard his queen of diamonds.

Waitress Stabs Man to Death

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A friendship is put to test. Carry your fair share of responsibility — not excessive weight. You make decision. It should be based on give and take. Scales should be balanced.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your aid is asked in special project. Answer in affirmative. Superiors judge your reactions. Maintain poise. Give and you will also receive. Prestige rises. You gain recognition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Good lunar aspect today coincides with long-range plans, including travel. You gain needed information, incentive. Correspond with one at a distance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Don't take too seriously complaints about finance. One close to you will soon change tunes. Know this and ride with the tide. You will get what is required. Cheer up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Need to break from routine is obvious. Do something about it. You may not get perfection, but satisfaction is available. Message clear before day is finished.

★ ★ ★

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Accent on basic tasks. Stick to routine. Once debris is cleared, you can make real advance. Cooperate with associates. Build good will. Avoid excess at social affair tonight.

IF FRIDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have fine sense of humor, artistic ability. At times you want your own way to such an extent that others are resentful. Temper desire with consideration; then you make real gains. If single, marriage opportunity is on horizon. If married, there could soon be an addition to family.

Tiny Shrimp Add Fluorine to Seawater

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The quarter-inch-long opposum shrimp may have a big influence on the ocean's chemical structure by adding crystalline flourite to the ocean's floor, a scientist says.

The popposum shrimp has small button-shaped stones on its tail that are rich in fluorine.

Dr. Heinz A. Lowenstam, professor of paleontology at California Institute of Technology, says his research shows these buttons are added to the floor deposits each time the tiny shrimp sheds its exterior skeleton—as many as 40 times during its lifespan.

The buttons then are eaten by bottom-feeding creatures that can digest some of the organic materials, liberating individual crystals of fluorite.

At one time scientists believed that fluorine in seawater came only from rocks on land and submarine volcanoes.

Man Is Sought in Bar Slaying

RIVER ROUGE (AP) —Police are seeking a man seen in a three-sided argument in a River Rouge bar with two other men, one of whom died Wednesday of a gunshot wound.

Police said they don't know who shot whom in the incident. Jerry D. Harris, 27, of River Rouge was killed and Harold R. Blackburn wounded.

Six million cars and 856,000 trucks were junked in 1966.

Trading Is Active

Stock Market Remains Strong

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market remained strong early this afternoon in active trading.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, ahead from the start, was up 6.27 points to 929.57 at noon. The Dow gained 6.22 points Wednesday.

Gains stretched their advantage over losses to more than 400 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers attributed much of the market's action to continued peace hopes, despite apparent rejection by the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, of a South Vietnamese offer to meet privately.

'PSYCHOLOGICAL JOLT'

"The market got a psychological jolt from the South Vietnamese offer," a broker said, said, "and it's apparently still drawing strength from that."

It also was observed that the NLF rejection was viewed by changed.

some as a cover aimed at keeping any secret talks secret. They pointed to administration remarks recently that noted the importance of private talks as a means toward reaching peace in Vietnam.

Nixon's Budget Reflects ABM Outcry

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's reshuffled budget for antiballistic missile defense could make it more politically attractive to a skeptical Congress.

★ ★ ★

Most congressional opposition centers on construction funds with some aimed at procurement budget. But even some opponents support continued—or even increased—research.

Construction, however, would get the least money, procurement somewhat more and research the most, if Congress follows detailed recommendations given to the Senate Armed Services Committee this week by

News Analysis

Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor.

Congress is only being asked to provide $14.1 million in new construction funds, compared with $266 million voted last year and $647 million included in the budget submitted in January by the Johnson administration.

Another $83 million in carryover funds, left when work was stopped on the Johnson administration's Sentinel ABM, will be available for construction and deployment in the year starting July 1.

The Nixon proposals also include $345.5 million in new procurement funds, about the same amount voted last year, and $736 million asked by the Johnson administration, and $400.9 million for research, higher than last year's $311.3 million and the $335 million in the Johnson budget.

★ ★ ★

Over-all, the Nixon administration is seeking $793.5 million in new appropriations to go along with $98 million in carryover funds. This is $996.5 million less than sought by the former administration.

Thus, when Congress votes on whether to go ahead with the controversial project, it will have to approve a smaller amount of money than was provided last year—$961.9 million—with the emphasis in the areas of least resistance.

★ ★ ★

Traditionally, Defense Department funds are divided into four separate bills: authorization measures for construction and procurement, operations and research, and corresponding appropriations measures which provide the actual funds.

PUT IT ALL TOGETHER?

There has been some talk this year of lumping the entire package into one authorization and one appropriations bill, thus cutting in half the number of chances foes have to take cracks at the program.

Another possibility is a separate Safeguard bill, including all of the ABM funds in one package.

★ ★ ★

But this decision will not be made for some time, as the Senate and House Armed Services committees have barely begun their hearings on the Pentagon's plans.

Deputy Secretary of Defense David R. Packard made it clear again Wednesday, in testimony to the Senate disarmament subcommittee, that work has been stopped on the Sentinel and that no deployment or construction of Safeguard would start until Congress votes the necessary funds.

★ ★ ★

This brought praise from both Democrat J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the parent Foreign Relations Committee, and Republican Clifford P. Case of New Jersey.

"This is a very refreshing change," Case told Packard.

★ ★ ★

The deputy defense secretary, who encountered the same resistance from subcommittee members as his boss, Secretary Melvin R. Laird, met last week, said that research and development on the ABM would continue. Fulbright said he had no objection to that.

Up to $3 Million in TWA Bonuses Set for Employes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Trans World Airlines will offer between $1 million and $3 million in bonuses between April and September to employes who provide superior service, Blaine Cook, senior vice president of marketing, said Wednesday.

He said the airline had been looking for a gimmick, like movies, when it really needed better service. "We are not going to have high-priced executives sitting around figuring what the proper shape of the wine glass should be or how short our stewardesses' dresses can get," Cook said.

★ ★ ★

He said an independent firm will decide from passenger comments what employes have given better service.

"We know what the profit motive can do," Cook said. "And we feel this is going to succeed."

Coloring Book Is in Demand

CADILLAC (AP) — The superintendent of schools at Cadillac has been receiving requests from educators all over the country. They all want his coloring book.

★ ★ ★

Supt. Stuart Ohlmstead devised a 16-page cartoon booklet to explain to parents the mysteries of school millage elections.

He used it in the last election in Cadillac. The millage proposal passed. The book is called "A Coloring Book for Busy Parents."

★ ★ ★

Said Ohlmstead, who gives the copies away free:

"I wish I would have copyrighted the thing."

A Disclaimer by Lions Club

Robert Raduz, secretary of the Pontiac Lions Club, has disclaimed any connection of his club with the sponsorship of the Clyde Beatty Circus in this area.

★ ★ ★

Raduz explained that the circus, for promotional reasons, has indicated all area Lions Clubs are sponsors, when, actually, joint sponsorship was discontinued in 1965.

★ ★ ★

This summer, the circus will appear in the Pontiac area under the auspices of the Drayton Plains Lions Club, Raduz said, but the eight other area clubs are not participating. The date has not yet been determined.

The family was moved from a condemned building in January and has had to eat all its meals in restaurants. The City Welfare Department is picking up the nearly $2,000-a-month tab.

Pentagon Defends Controversial Tank

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says a tank under congressional attack as a "billion-dollar boo-boo" has made a significant contribution in Vietnam combat operations.

The military came to the defense of the controversial Sheridan light tank after Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., charged this week that the Army hustled the weapon to Vietnam with "manifest defects and deficiencies."

★ ★ ★

The Sheridan program has been a "billion-dollar boo-boo," Stratton charged. Hundreds are now sitting idle at Army depots throughout the country, he said, adding that the Sheridans in Vietnam are unsuited for the fighting.

The Army, however, said a command report from the war zone "reflects a very favorable assessment" after six weeks of battle use.

TOLL IS CITED

The Army told an Inquiring newsman that troops equipped with the Sheridan—technically referred to as an arms reconnaissance vehicle—"have accounted for 268 enemy soldiers killed and 11 captured."

"The trafficability, mobility, speed and firepower of the Sheridan have enabled it to make a significant contribution to combat operations," the Army stated.

★ ★ ★

"The problems that have been experienced during this early period appear to be minor when considered in the context of the system's overall performance."

Stratton thinks the Army didn't consider the problems small. On Tuesday, he noted that the Army has issued some 20 pages of restrictions on the Sheridan's operations. Some dealt with fuel tank leaks, clogged air vents, periscope failures and flammable cartridge cases.

AN EASY TARGET

Stratton also said the reconnaissance tank was so noisy it could be heard for three miles and its heavy exhaust smoke made it an easy target.

Nevertheless, the Army cites these statistics as attesting to the Sheridan's Vietnam performance:

● "The Sheridan has participated in more than 150 combat operations in Vietnam since Feb. 9 of this year. These operations averaged nine hours and involved several thousand hours of combat operations over difficult terrain."

★ ★ ★

● "Numerous operations have been successfully conducted at night. Several hundred conventional rounds of main gun ammunition and 10s of thousands of rounds of machinegun ammunition have been fired."

★ ★ ★

The Army said the Sheridan was deployed to Vietnam without its new Shillelagh surface-to-surface missiles "due to the close quarters of most engagements in Vietnam and the absence of other armored targets."

★ ★ ★

The operation of the Sheridan's missile system has been subject to some question, but Lt. Gen. Austin Betts contended Tuesday the Shillelagh passed all its tests "with flying colors."

'RETURNS NOT IN'

Betts, the Army's chief of research and development, acknowledged, however, that "all the returns are not in. We won't know for another two years whether it was a mistake or whether it wasn't."

Huber to Fight Post for Varner

Move on Appointment Tied to OU 'Conduct'

LANSING (UPI) — The chairman of the Senate committee investigating campus unrest has vowed to try to block the appointment of Chancellor Durward B. Varner of Oakland University to the Michigan Arts Council.

Sen. Robert J. Huber, R-Troy, said Varner should be denied the post because of a controversial film festival at Oakland last weekend and an earlier event involving a disrobing by a poetry-reading student.

★ ★ ★

Varner, 52, was appointed chairman of the council by Gov. William G. Milliken Wednesday. He has headed Oakland University since its beginning in 1959.

The appointment must be reviewed by the Senate Business Committee before it goes to the upper chamber floor for a vote. Huber conceded his chances of scuttling the governor's selection were slim.

'GOING TO TRY'

"But I'm going to try anyway," he said. "It's a matter of principle."

Huber described the film festival at Oakland more smut than art, and said taxpayers are "fed up" with doling out hard-earned dollars for the support of schools that permit "this kind of conduct."

★ ★ ★

He was particularly upset with two feature-length offers called "Chafed Elbows" and "The Bed." He said they were in poor taste.

"There's a difference between art and smut, William Shakespeare and Andy Warhol" Huber said.

★ ★ ★

Milliken said he was not aware of Huber's position on Varner and the flap over the film festival.

"I have the highest regard for Chancellor Varner — and I'm sure he will do an excellent job as chairman of the council," the governor said.

Injunction Ends Teacher Strike

GRAND RAPIDS (AP — Normal classes for Grand Rapids public schools were scheduled today after Kent County Circuit Judge Stuart Hoffius ordered 1,400 striking teachers to return to work.

Superintendent of Schools Norman Weinheimer slated the classes, although no agreement has been reached with teachers on a contract.

★ ★ ★

Judge Hoffius, who has been mediating the dispute, issued the injunction against the striking teachers Wednesday.

The judge said he had gone as far as he could in trying to reach a settlement. He said if schools were not reopened, it would cause irreparable harm to the district's 34,000 students.

★ ★ ★

Members of the Grand Rapids Education Association walked off the jobs Friday, ending their day-to-day work agreement with the school board. They have been without a contract since Jan. 17.

Schweigert Will Use Title

'Acting Lt. Governor' Bill OK'd

LANSING (AP)— Despite the strenuous objections of many Republicans, the House Wednesday agreed to permit Senate President Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey, to assume the title of "acting lieutenant governor."

But the minority party members blocked Democratic efforts to permit Schweigert to use the title immediately upon receipt of the governor's signature.

★ ★ ★

A move to get the required two-thirds vote necessary to give the bill immediate effect was defeated. However, backers of the bill said they would make another attempt today to garner the necessary 74 votes.

Republican harrassment came in the form of a series of amendments that, Democrats said, would defeat the purpose of the bill. None of the amendments was passed.

FISCAL ARGUMENT

Rep. John Smeekens, R-Sherwood, argued that the bill had fiscal implications and should be referred to the House Appropriations Committee. This maneuver, too, was defeated.

Under terms of the bill, authorities said, Schweigert would be permitted to use the title "acting lieutenant governor." No official duties would be assigned to Schweigert.

★ ★ ★

His primary function as acting lieutenant governor, one representative said, would be to "cut the ribbons and kiss the babies" at ceremonial functions Gov. William Milliken would be unable to attend.

The bill was believed by some to be a prelude to the 1970 gubernatorial race when a lieutenant governor would have to be nominated to run with Milliken.

TITLE ADVANTAGE

Some sources said that Schweigert is seeking the nomination and would have an advantage over other candidates if he could use the title. One member of the House believed to be a possible candidate is Rep. William Hampton, R-Birmingham.

These sources added that House Republicans hoped to give impetus to Hampton's purported candidacy by defeating the measure.

★ ★ ★

If the bill fails to get the necessary two-thirds vote for immediate action, it would become law 90 days after the Legislature adjourns.

This could keep Schweigert from using the title until late fall.

SIGNING EXPECTED

Milliken is expected to sign the bill.

The coldest known inhabited place is the Siberian village of Oymyakon in the U.S.S.R. where the temperature reached -96 degrees F. in 1964.

Burroughs OKs 2-1 Split

DETROIT (AP) — Shareholders of Burroughs Corp. voted Wednesday to split common stock of the firm two for one and to increase the number of authorized shares from 12 million to 30 million.

★ ★ ★

Shareholders also approved several other proposals, including the reelection of the corporation's 10 directors.

★ ★ ★

President Ray W. MacDonald said the firm expects to spend $100 million this year for a new plant, tools and equipment and modernization of existing plants. Another $150 million will be invested in equipment for lease to other companies, MacDonald said.

100 S. Viets Reach Safety After Bloody 2-Day Battle

SAIGON (AP) — A hundred South Vietnamese soldiers made it to safety today after a two-day battle 30 miles north of Saigon, but 50 were still missing and 22 were dead.

An estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese regulars badly battered the strike force battalion of about 600 men before helicopters put down reinforcing troops. After the reinforcements landed, the survivors began making their way into the landing zone.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the 22 dead and 50 missing, more than 100 of the battalion and several American Green Beret advisers were wounded.

About 500 soldiers from the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry took up blocking positions four miles north of the battle area but reported only sporadic contact. Field reports said the division's helicopter gun-ships killed six enemy soldiers, but enemy casualties in the fighting earlier were not known.

OVER 500 COMMITTED

The battle was one of only a few occasions in the enemy's 33-day-old offensive that he committed more than 500 troops to an action. U.S. analysts said the proximity to Saigon indicated an attempt to clear the way for an assault on the Bien Hoa air base 18 miles away. The base is the nerve center of most air operations in Vietnam. As the enemy offensive continued the Vietcong's rocket and mortar fire hit 35 towns during the night. A military spokesman said the persistence of these attacks since late February demonstrated the enemy's ability to infiltrate and stockpile munitions.

Although allied sweeps continue to turn up large amounts of arms, U.S. officers say it is impossible to halt the nightly shellings because they are carried out by small groups operating without elaborate means of support.

The U.S. Navy reported the nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise was on its way back to the Tonkin Gulf off North Vietnam after 2½ months of repairs. The huge carrier stopped at Subic Bay, the Philippines, today, its last stop before heading for the war zone.

The Enterprise, which carries 100 fighter-bombers, was damaged Jan. 14 during training exercises off Hawaii when a series of explosions killed 28 men.

Its planes will join the campaign against North Vietnamese supply routes in eastern Laos.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said the Saigon government had not received any response to President Nguyen Van Thieu's proposal for secret talks between his government and the Vietcong's National Liberation Front.

Ky: S. Viet Can Bomb North

SAIGON (UPI) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam said today his nation "quite possibly" could defy the United States and resume the bombing of North Vietnam on its own.

★ ★ ★

"South Vietnam could quite possibly unilaterally take the decision to bomb the North," Ky said. "The planes are ready. There is no reason why we can't bomb Hanoi."

★ ★ ★

Ky reportedly has urged a resumption of the bombing, at least by South Vietnamese planes, in retaliation for the nationwide Communist offensive in the South, now in its 33hr day.

★ ★ ★

Both the United States and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam have taken a cautious attitude toward resuming the bombing, stopped Nov. 1 in a peace move by Johnson.

A Look at TV

Dr. Welby's in the Bag

NEW YORK — The dedicated doctor, after a long absence from the nighttime television, is on his way back. And ABC, by good luck or shrewd foresight, has "Marcus Welby, M.D." signed up for next season, a good time to have a doctor in the house.

There are plentiful signs that the barrage of criticism from Washington will effect next season's action output in television.

★ ★ ★

In an earlier period when TV violence was under attack, the public grew to know and love that brooding neurosurgeon, Ben Casey, and the earnest hospital resident, Dr. Kildare.

Dr. Welby who made his first house call Wednesday night when the series pilot—all two hours of it—was shown, is something else. This devoted doctor is middle-aged, a widower with a daughter who married in the pilot, and the victim of a heart attack at the beginning of the program. What's more, he's a general practitioner— perhaps show business's first since Dr. Christian.

BUILT-IN ADVANTAGES

A series about a doctor has built-in advantages. In their daily work they deal with the drama of life and death. Where the western or private eye series might draw critical fire for gunplay or fights, a doctor's involvement with his patients is less likely to attract that kind of attention.

The feature-length pilot film that introduced Robert Young in the title role suffered from the ailments that afflict most of these two-hour double-duty shows. It was full of bits and pieces that demonstrated the directions the series might move into but did not work well into a single show.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Welby not only had his own health problems but was busy trying to persuade a young doctor—on the rugged Vince Edwards style—to become a family physician instead of a specialist. He also was treating an assortment of patients with an assortment of ailments. They ranged from a young man who had lost all speech except one word to an overweight teen-ager who was cheating on her diet.

William Holden's first program in his CBS "Unconquered Worlds" series was a document on wildlife conservation in Africa and a program of superior quality.

It was a report on a trip to a huge lake in northern Kenya. Its shores are inhabited by primitive tribes, some of whom still hunt with spears.

INTERESTING SEGMENT

One especially interesting segment showed efforts to save the ostrich in the area which had been hunted almost to extinction. The job was primarily that of reeducating the men of the Turkana tribe to protect rather than kill the big birds—a delicate business since to the tribesmen, the plume of the ostrich is a symbol of manhood.

Another unusual segment showed ceremonies initiating young men as tribe warriors. Generally the film and the subject matter were fascinating. The script and narration, however, were standard travel-talk.

Chile Hen Lays Colored Eggs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Easter bunny doesn't lay those brightly colored eggs, kiddies, but a special kind of hen from Chile called an araucana does.

Since araucanas are relatively rare in the United States, Agriculture Department egg-sperts explain, most Easter eggs will require the traditional dyeing and hand painting.

★ ★ ★

Araucana hens normally lay blue eggs, but when crossbred, they often produce green, lavender, pink, khaki and brown varieties.

And the hens are as colorful as their products—a mixture of white, gray or black, streaked with red and yellow.

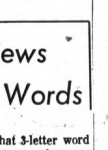
Hackett Gives His Views on Three-Four-Letter Words

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "I think I'll give up using that 3-letter word you don't like," Buddy Hackett said. "It's gettin' too popular.

"I may start a campaign against it. A lot of other guys are hooked on it. Some are using it just because they think it's the smart thing to do."



WILSON

Buddy was here promoting his picture, "The Love Bug," at Radio City Music Hall, and we went to lunch at the Sun Luck East where some customer remembering his Chinese waiter routine yelled out, "Hey, Won Ton, where's my chop suey?"

★ ★ ★

"I don't use the Chinese waiter routine any more. Three times a year would be a lot. Humor has changed. You can't stay 6 minutes on one piece of material like you used to," Buddy said.

★ ★ ★

"About the 3-letter words, I don't feel dirty/clean about any word. The thing is to use the right word. Why do some people say trousers when they mean pants?"

Buddy was busy talking to customers between his observations. "I once said a 4-letter word on the stage and I blushed. I had not planned on saying it. I hated myself for my lack of control. The people in the audience saw me blush and said 'Don't mind it.'"

He contends that there are worse words than the 4-letter words we have in mind when we use the expression "four-letter words."

"How about 'kill' and 'hate'? Aren't they worse than love and some other words?" he wanted to know.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Mia Farrow, consoled by a fan for not getting an Oscar nomination, shrugged, "They consider me Peck's bad girl in Hollywood" . . . Producer Ray Stark, whose "Funny Girl" film was about his mother-in-law Fanny Brice, is preparing a TV series based on her comedy chacter Baby Snooks.

Jack Jones' dates are with pretty Anita Mrajska, a former Londoner . . . A patron at "Che" — the latest how-much-further-can-they-go off-B'way sex show — gasped, "It's unbelievable!" . . . Tiny Tim is branching out — he's taking acting lessons . . . A prominent political personality showed up at a Madison Ave. beauty salon to have his hair trimmed.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Some women who can remember their husband's first kiss have daughters who can hardly remember their first husbands."

EARL'S PEARLS: John J. Plomp's suggestion for success: "If at first you don't succeed — try again when nobody's looking."

Alex McCowen, who portrays the Pope in "Hadrian VII," said jokingly he'd like next to have an adventurous role — such as a college dean . . . That's earl, brother.

Venezuela President Is Making Use of TV

CARACUS (AP) — They can't really be called "fireside chats" because there aren't that many fireplaces in Venezuela. Maybe "living room visits" would be more like it. Or perhaps "patio politics."

By whatever name, President Rafael Caldera is putting his "government of change" where everyone can see it-on television between "Johnny Quest" and "Ironsides."

★ ★ ★

Caldera, Venezuela's first president from the Social Christian party, is rapidly becoming the most televised chief executive in Latin America. By the time he took office March 11 Caldera had been seen on television more times than any previous political candidate in Venezuelan history. He apparently intends to keep that up.

The 54-year-old father of six, three times unsuccessful in presidential campaigns, used television to help him squeeze out a narrow victory over the incumbent Accion Democratica party.

INTRODUCED CABINET

Then he apparently read about the reaction to President Nixon's introduction of his Cabinet members on television. So Caldera made no announcements of cabinet appointments until the Sunday night before inauguration. Then he had them all, and their families, in a television studio and introduced them to the nation.

His inauguration, of course, was televised. So were most of the ceremonies that went along with it.

★ ★ ★

Now Caldera has started a weekly "dialogue with the people" to keep Venezuelans informed of what his government is doing. His first such appearance took place last week on a show taped five hours earlier before a crowd of newsmen.

Caldera opened with a 13-minute talk, without notes, as he sat at a small table beneath a big portrait of South America's liberator, Simon Bolivar. Then he answered five questions put to him by newsmen.

★ ★ ★

The questions were selected by Caldera and his aides that morning from many submitted in writing. They obviously represented five points Caldera wanted to stress. The questions and answers took 12 minutes, making a 25-minute package for presentation to the public on two television stations which reach almost all parts of the country.

Angered Dem Threatens to Resign Post

LANSING (AP) — Disgusted over debate on whether Congress should reppeal the right-to-work provision of the Taft-Hartley Act. Rep. Albert R. Horrigan Wednesday said he was quitting as chairman of the House Policy Committee.

The Flint Democrat issued the statement after a resolution calling for repeal of the provision became entangled in debate over a proposed amendment.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, tried to amend the resolution to prohibit unions from using funds "for political or other nonunion purposes."

After heated debate over the proposed amendment, members suggested the resolution be sent back to the policy committee for further study.

WASTE OF TIME

This apparently angered Horrigan, who said it would be a waste of time and that he no longer would serve as chairman.

The House immediately suspended action on the proposal. And a resolution urging Horrigan to continue as chairman was offered.

After the resolution was passed, Horrigan apparently reconsidered and decided not to relinquish his chairmanship.

Catholics to Air School Revamp

KALAMAZOO (AP) —Recommendations regarding future reorganization of the Kalamazoo Catholic school system will be revealed during a public meeting here Friday.

Paul W. O'Connell, president of the Kalamazoo area Catholic board of education, indicated no major changes are proposed for the 1969-70 school year.

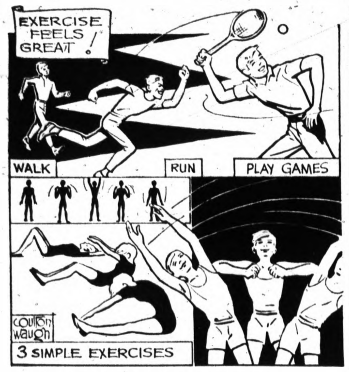
Junior Editors Quiz on EXERCISE



QUESTION: What is the value of exercise?

* * *

ANSWER: It's a fortunate thing for young people that they love to move around so fast and furiously — to play games, to run, jump and leap. All these things mean they are using their muscles, and when they do, they are making their muscles stronger.

They are also making the blood circulate better. This means that the blood stream becomes more active in carrying the life-giving food and oxygen to the cells and carrying out waste material.

Exercise helps the mind too, as well as the body. Haven't you noticed when you were feeling a bit blue or discouraged, and then went out to walk briskly in the open air, how your mental attitude began to improve?

Walking, by the way, is one of the best exercises. Our picture shows some of the exercises you might like to try at home.

Exercise is especially important for young people because you are building strength, agility, coordination and endurance into your body, and you'll need all these later on.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Curricula 'Often Follow Fads'

EAST LANSING (AP)—What appear to be changes in college courses often only are hasty adoption of fads, report two Michigan State University researchers.

* * *

Paul Dressel and Frances deLisle compared the 1957 and 1967 catalogs of 322 institutions to determine changes and trends in undergraduate curriculum.

* * *

"Much of what passes for innovation is really the hasty adoption of fads," the pair concluded. "Many changes are only new devices of record keeping."

The most marked changes, they said, have been in the individualization of undergraduate education.

These include study abroad, work study, community service, independent study and other plans to broaden student experience to include more than the classroom.

Meanwhile, the researchers said, "very little effort has been given to rethinking the total program to restore unity and relevance."

Seaway Celebration Set at Soo in June

LANSING (AP) — The American celebration of the 10th anniversary of the St. Lawrence Seaway will be held June 26 at Sault Ste. Marie, Gov. William Milliken has announced.

* * *

"The commemoration of the Seaway-Great Lakes system is designed to recognize its importance to the economic growth of the center of the North American continent," Milliken said.

* *

Canada will conduct its simultaneous celebration at Montreal, site of the locks that serve as the opening of the Seaway.

He Throws Aside Crutches to Help Save Tot in Water

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A man recovering from a broken leg threw aside his crutches Wednesday and sprinted 150 yards to help save 2-year-old Ernie Land, who had fallen into the Jordan River.

* * *

Police aid Charles Brown raced to the assistance of Byron Farnsworth, who had become stuck in the muddy river bottom after grabbing the child.

* * *

Brown, a former Army medic, then applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and revived the boy.

Police said the youngster apparently fell into the stream while playing.

In Sweden, a device for the blind has been developed which is a unit that accoustically indicated a "stop" and "walk" signal.

'Falls Caused Youth's Death'

DETROIT (AP) — An autopsy shows Fernando Gonzalez, 16, of Detroit died of accidental injuries, not injuries received in a beating by police, according to Dr. John Burton, Wayne County medical examiner.

Burton said Wednesday it appeared Gonzales was fatally injured in falls.

* * *

A top-level inquiry into allegations that Gonzalez was beaten with a blackjack was promised by Detroit Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen. But Spreen said all evidence indicated Gonzales was fatally injured when he fell a number of times during a recent drinking bout.

* * *

The youth died Tuesday at a Detroit hospital after brain surgery. He was brought to the hospital by police who picked him up at a party on Detroit's west side.

* * *

A spokesman for a Spanish-American group in Detroit, Mrs. Jose Jesse Soriano, demanded Tuesday that the incident be investigated to reassure the Spanish-American community that city officials would tolerate no misconduct.

No Cut Penalty on Good Friday

KALAMAZOO (AP) —A request that Kalamazoo schools be closed April 4 (Good Friday) to mark the anniversary of the death of Dr. Martin Luther King has been turned down by school officials.

* * *

But Dr. John Cochran, acting school superintendent, said youths who take the day off in memory of Dr. King will not be penalized.

School Millage Loses in Waterford

MAKE OVER PAGES

By MEL NEWMAN

Waterford Township voters turned out in record numbers yesterday to resoundingly defeat a two-year 9-mill proposal for schools. The issue failed in all eight precincts.

Despite foul weather, 12,665 votes were cast — 7,765 against, 4,788 for and 112 void.

The volume easily surpassed the 9,602 ballots which established a record millage vote when the same proposal was defeated Dec. 7.

In fact, yesterday's turnout was an unofficial record for any millage election in Oakland County history.

AUSTERITY PROGRAM

With the last chance for reprive thus denied, school district officials will now turn to the task of developing an austerity program.

However, they promised to join other districts in seeking reform of the method of financing schools.

Budget adjustments will begin at the next meeting of the school board, April 3.

"That's when we'll make recommendations on reemployment of staff," announced Dr. Don O. Tatroe, superintendent of schools. "We'll recommend only enough staff for the projected half-day sessions," he said.

'DEFEAT EASY TO UNDERSTAND'

Tatroe described the defeat as "easy to understand in view of what the township faces in terms of a tax burden."

However, he pointed out that understanding the situation doesn't remove the need for funds and he called upon the entire community to become involved in seeking statewide reform in school financing.

★ ★ ★

"We're starting a tax reform movement in earnest now," he said.

Tatroe asserted that experience in both Waterford Township and elsewhere has proven that the millage system of raising funds isn't sufficient.

SUPPORTS CLAIM

Yesterday's election, in which about 62 per cent of those who voted refused further taxation, lends apparent support to his claim.

Three School Issues Lose in Huron Valley

A record turnout of 3,608 voters rejected all three propositions in the Huron River Valley School District's millage and bond issue package yesterday, according to incomplete returns.

The turnout represents 62 per cent of the district's registered voters.

The vote on 21 mills for operations—renewal of 15 mills and a six-mill increase—was 1,665 yes and 1,834 no.

A second proposition calling for two mills for expanded operations lost by a 2-to-1 margin, 1,910 to 943. The third proposition, a $10.5-million bond issue was defeated 1,238 to 888.

The bond issue would have provided funds for a new elementary school, a junior-senior high complex and renovations to older buildings.

Vote totals on the second and third propositions were incomplete this morning with votes from one precinct not tabulated. The votes were sealed for board of canvassers. School officials, however, said both propositions would still lose by substantial margins.

Dr. Theodore Hagadone, superintendent of schools, commented, "The Board of Education is very concerned. residents did not see fit to support a continuation of the present education program."

He would not speculate regarding board action on the triple defeat. The superindendent indicated, however, there undoubtedly will be another millage request on the ballot in June. The board will meet in the near future, he said, to begin discussions on another millage request.

Ike Continues to Grow Weaker

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower "continues to grow weaker," his doctors said today.

A morning medical bulletin from Walter Reed Army Hospital the doctors reported the five-star general is "sleeping for longer periods" but when awake is lucid enough to converse with members of his immediate family.

★ ★ ★

His physicians said late yesterday his condition was deteriorating and he was not responding to treatment for the severe heart congestion threatening his life.

Their latest report, read to newsmen by Brig. Gen. Frederic J. Hughes Jr., hospital commanding general, said evidences of Eisenhowers' potentially fatal congestive heart failure "continues unchanged."

MRS. EISENHOWER CLOSE

Meanwhile Mamie Eisenhower "remains close" to the general's bedside and is "a constant source of support and encouragement both to the general and others present," it added.

The doctors' reference yesterday to Eisenhower's failure to respond to treatment "is considered an unfavorable prognostic sign," the bulletin said.

Eisenhower, the doctors said, remains in critical condition and there had been a resumption of the deterioration of his heart's ability to function properly.

Tuesday, the doctors had reported success in arresting the deterioration which was hindering the ability of Eisenhower's heart to pump and adequately empty its chambers.

This was the condition that was resulting in the severe congestion.

Osteopathy School Aid Tied to Affiliation With University

LANSING (AP) — The State board of education said yesterday its support of a school of osteopathic medicine rests on the condition that the school affiliate with one of the major existing universities.

The resolution appeared to be a blow to hopes by osteopaths of state financial support for an independent school of osteopathic medicine, under construction at Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

The resolution was offered by Dr. Leroy Augenstein, a professor at Michigan State University. MSU is trying to obtain funds for a four-year medical school to expand upon its present two-year program.

The resolution put the board on record as supporting the necessary public facilities for training doctors of osteopathy.

ANCILLARY FACILITIES

The resolution said, however, that this should be accomplished "through one of our major universities which had an ancillary academic and physical facilities to make this practicable and workable."

The resolution said further the board would recommend to the governor and the Legislature that needed funds be provided (for osteopathic education) once the details were worked out for such an affiliation.

Guidelines set up by the board provided that to win approval an osteopathic school should:

- Have sufficient academic strength to support a medical program.
- Have a potential for a broad base of related health science programs to support a medical center.

WILLING TO MEET

When such a school location is not on or adjacent to a main campus, the guidelines said, the university should transmit the reasons for its location.

Meanwhile, the board said it was willing to meet with representatives of the state's medical universities and the osteopaths to try and work out an arrangement that would meet these provisions.

★ ★ ★

Board members James O'Neil flatly objected to the use of public funds to establish any new osteopathic school of medicine.

O'Neil said a recent report by the board indicated Michigan needs to increase its first year medical school enrollments to about 600 by 1975.

"The presently approved three medical schools have indicated they can more than accomplish this goal at a minimum cost to Michigan taxpayers," he said.

"To propose the use of public funds to establish another multi-million-dollar medical school is not only highly questionable, but a disservice to the citizens of Michigan," O'Neil said.

Closed-Door County Meeting Tomorrow

$30-Million Budget Proposed

By JEAN SAILE

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors Finance Committee will discuss a recommended $30.8-million budget for 1970 when it meets behind closed doors at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the courthouse.

The County Board of Auditors has recommended a budget increase of 16 per cent from this year's $25.8 million and calling for the levy of 5.85 mills as compared to the present 5.28-mill tax spread.

★ ★ ★

The budget which must also be approved by the full board of supervisors, is based on a total state equalized valuation of $4 billion, up from $3.4 billion last year.

Included in the levy are payments to the building authority for construction of the courthouse east wing and the proposed jail and law enforcement complex to be located at the Service Center plus drain assessments. Funds for the east wing and drains previously were levied over the 15-mill limit.

FOR FUTURE NEEDS

As recommended the budget also includes $1.2 million as the start of a capital improvements program which could be used to help fund future building needs.

The total salaries budget recommended for the county amounts to $14 million, including $2 million which has been set aside for new positions, salary adjustments and emergency funds.

★ ★ ★

No money has been set aside for further land acquisition at either county-owned airport: (Oakland-Pontiac and Oakland-Orion), though $800,000 is included in the 1969 budget for that purpose.

The welfare budget shows a $500,000 increase, including more than $200,000 added to the sum for supplemental clothing allowances, and another $225,000 or food and household supplies. The county's share of the total welfare budget is expected to amount to $2.4 million.

While auditors did not recommend any appropriation to the Oakland County Road Commission, the finance committee

Brothers Face Bribe Charge in Probe of Highway Dept.

LANSING (AP) — Two brothers — a former State Highway Department employe and an Ohio businessman — today stand charged with conspiracy in the first indictment handed down in a grand jury investigation into alleged wrongdoing in the highway department.

One-man grand juror Judge Marvin Salmon filed the indictment yesterday, naming John E. Miller, 58, of Lansing, former property management engineer for the department, and his brother William, president of York Realty and Decorating Co., Inc., of Columbus, Ohio.

★ ★ ★

John Miller, now working with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, was charged with accepting more than $25,000 in bribes for the execution and renewal of a lease for a garage by the highway department in Lansing.

He also was charged with using a document to deceive his employer, conspiring to have his brother offer a bribe and committing perjury while testifying before the grand jury.

SURRENDERED HIMSELF

John Miller, a tall, greying man with rimless glasses, surrendered himself March 18, Salmon told a news conference.

At the arraignment Wednesday, he demanded examination, tentatively set for April 4, and was released on $1,000 bond.

William Miller, charged with conspiring and giving his brother the bribe money, has not yet been arraigned.

He is "not considered a fugitive," said Leo Farhat, special prosecutor for the investigation. "We know where he is." Authorities said plans were being made to bring William Miller to Michigan for arraignment, although the date of that proceeding was not yet known.

NEARLY SIX YEARS

John Miller was employed by the highway department from July 15, 1957, through April 26, 1963.

With the highway department, he supervised the administration of highway-owned facilities such as sign shops and maintenance garages.

★ ★ ★

Farhat said he expected the investigation to conclude June 20.

Former Gov. George Romney and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley petitioned the Ingham County Circuit Court last June, asking for the probe and the Legislature appropriated $150,000 to pay for it.

Salmon was selected by his colleagues to conduct the investigation.

Latest Sex Slaying Victim a Drug User

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A flirtation with drugs led to a serious problem and then murder, said a Wayne County policewoman recalling Maralynn Skelton, 16, whose multilated body was found this week near the University of Michigan.

Policewoman Beverly Scannell said yesterday Miss Skelton was a known user of drugs.

★ ★ ★

Her body was found Tuesday in a secluded portion of Ann Arbor not far from sites where bodies of three other young women have been found in the past two years. None of the slayings has been solved.

In each case the young women had been stripped and beaten to some extent. An autopsy showed Miss Skelton died from a skull fracture. Walter Krasny, Ann Arbor chief of police, said Miss Skelton had been beaten near the spot

Compensation Fraud Must Be Stopped, Says State Official

DETROIT (AP) — A small group of law firms in the Detroit area is involved in a scheme to bilk large corporations and the city of Detroit out of millions of dollars in workmen's compensation claims, according to a state official.

The compensation racket "must be stopped and stopped now, not two years from now," said Burke L. Dailey, director of the State Workmen's Compensation Bureau.

Dailey said in a news conference that it appeared only about 10 law firms were handling the bulk of fradulent claims, but berated the Michigan Bar for being slow to act despite its knowledge of the situation.

"What they are doing is the lowest form of ambulance chasing," Dailey said of the 10 firms, which he declined to name.

In addition to the guilty firms, Dailey said, the racket involves physicians who supply phony medical reports to confirm heart, lung and back ailments which are said to be work-connected.

The charge also is aimed at personnel workers, local union officers and stewards who allegedly solicit clients for the law firms.

★ ★ ★

The largest victims of the relatively new racket are the major auto companies and their suppliers and the City of Detroit, all of which have state permission to underwrite their own workmen's compensation insurance.

Smaller businesses are required to purchase unemployment coverage through insurance companies.

General Motors wrote the State Bar a year ago after benefits paid to retirees had shot from $120,000 in 1962 to $3 million in 1967.

"The number of retiree claims against GM has increased 11,000 per cent in seven years," said GM Vice President Earl R. Bramblett. "The pace is not slowing down."

"These firms are flooding the big companies that can most afford to pay," said one attorney. "What they shoot for is settlements. They know that litigation is expensive and that ultimately, the company will want to take the settlement route."

Dailey said a form letter was sent to members of United Auto Workers Local 160, consisting of GM technical center employes, informing them:

"It has recently come to our attention that as a UAW retiree, you may be entitled to additional benefits under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Law. As an incidental benefit, we have arranged a meeting for you with the law firm of "

"We are only trying to do our retirees a service and we are not involved in any schemes," says Local 160 Vice President Fred Murray.

'NO PROOF'

"We have no proof that letters like this are solicitations," Dailey says. "The letters may contain misleading information, but we cannot establish criminal conduct unless we can show there were kickbacks. We have many reports of payoffs and kickbacks, however."

Some of the methods of solicitation by the accused firms, Dailey said, include:

● Retiree parties, where paid workers pass out business cards of law firms. "They even provide bus service and arrange car pools" for the parties, according to Dailey.

● Buying lists of pensioners from plant personnel employes or local union stewards. According to Dailey, runners are paid as much as $25 a head for "live ones" recruited from the lists."

● Signing up claimants in hospitals.

● Dressing hustlers in ministerial garb and placing them outside churches on Sundays to pass out business cards.

● Letting local union officials pass the word.

The Michigan Manufacturers Association says unemployment compensation insurance premiums have shot up 43.6 per cent since 1965 and have become a factor in the stalling of industrial expansion in the state.

Designers get the look of separates in dresses that actually are one. Murray Nieman, designer at Hannah Troy, does it with a play of patterns. A full, swirling skirt for instance is a black and white floral pattern, the bodice a novelty check.

Volunteers Are in Great Demand

A challenging role in human relations is available to men and women volunteers who are sincere about helping those who live under poverty-welfare conditions. The position involves varied assignments as a para-professional case worker aide in the field of social welfare.

The Oakland County Volunteer Bureau invites all citizenry seeking a sense of direction into programs of action concerning economic problems in the nation to phone the Bureau in Birmingham for consultation and placement.

Intelligent Shoppers Get More for Money

CHICAGO (NFS) — Whether you're a bride-to-be buying a mattress for the first time or an experienced homemaker replacing old bedding, it will pay to bone up on some mattress terms and shopping facts.

- Box Spring — The foundation of good sleeping, providing 40 per cent of body support. Whatever mattress you buy should have a matching box spring underneath it, with construction and springing tailored to the mattress.
- Coil Count—The number of coils in a mattress, which has nothing to do with comfort. A poor mattress can have as many as 800 coils, a well-engineered one, 300. What's important is the design, gauge and tempering of the steel springs.
- Firmness — A much misused and misunderstood term referring to mattress comfort. A good mattress should feel comfortable on the surface and become progressively firmer as more weight is applied. A mattress that feels firm is apt to cause you to toss and turn more than normal.
- Foam Rubber—A relatively new development that takes the place of innersprings. If you prefer foam rubber, be sure the mattress you buy is reversible with a different degree of firmness on each side.
- Innerspring—The complete spring unit inside most mattresses, made up of individual coils. The type most recommended by sleep experts is the Karr innerspring. This unit is made up of spiral coils joined by special pivot hinges which eliminate knots and permit a flexible surface action that conforms to body contours.
- Supersize—Refers to queen-size mattresses (60 inches wide x 80 inches long) and king-size (76 inches wide x 80 inches long).
- Ticking — Fabric used to cover mattress. Heavier, closely woven ticking wears the longest.
- Tufting — A method of fastening ticking and upholstery to innerspring to prevent shifting.
- Upholstery — Cushioning material between ticking and innerspring: includes a thick layer or insulator directly next to innerspring.

In Report to OCCEO

Transit Woes Cited

By ED BLUNDEN

Transportation is a problem that is blocking efforts to improve the lot of the poor in Oakland County, according to a report received last night by the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO).

The report was labeled a "position paper" by Mrs. Doris Storer, OCCEO research specialist. It will be up for later adoption by the commission and forwarded to other county agencies.

★ ★ ★

The report points out very little public transportation is available except for Pontiac and the extreme southeast portion of the county.

Only along Woodward do public buses run and not north of Pontiac, leaving vast areas in the 900 square miles of the county isolated, it was reported.

CENTRALIZED SERVICES

"Existing services available to the poor are, for the most part, centralized in a few locations, seldom on main transit arteries. Consequently they are not accessible to most poor and are entirely isolated from the rural dweller," the report states.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Storer quoted statistical material gathered by the $4-million study made of southeastern Michigan by TALUS (Transportation and Land Use Study). The figures show Oakland County to be on one hand quite affluent, but also containing large segments of poverty.

★ ★ ★

"The affluence here results in the poor going unnoticed," Mrs. Storer remarked. Supporting her "hidden poor" observation were TALUS figures that showed many families have more than one car, but large numbers do not have any car. In Pontiac, the percentage of families without cars was 12; Holly, 13; Novi 10; Oxford, 18; and Royal Oak Township, 52.

In addition some 66,000 persons are on Social Security in the county, it was pointed out.

On the urgency of the problem, the report cited the following developments complicated by lack of transportation:

JOHN A. RILEY

Press Executive Heads Board of Local Hospital

John A. Riley, advertising director of The Pontiac Press, was elected president of the board of trustees of the Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital last night.

★ ★ ★

Other newly elected officers include Vice President Herbert N. Stoutenburg Jr., dean of student affairs and assistant to the chancellor for administrative affairs at Oakland University; Secretary Ivan M. Forbes, Pontiac attorney; and Treasurer Edward Debabian, a certified public accountant from Southfield.

★ ★ ★

At a meeting of the corporate board last night, T. Warren Fowler Jr. and William K. Hanger were elected to six-year terms on the corporate board.

- Recent formation of day care centers has run headlong into the problem of getting poor children to the facilities.
- The increased number of manpower training programs will need to assure transportation for the hard-core unemployed until they become self-sustaining.
- Housing developments for the aged and low income will have limited successs unless transportation is available.
- County health and welfare facilities are increasinly centralized, with no provision for transportation.
- Summer recreation programs have no way of bringing urban youth to the rural locations.

The report concludes: The problem of inadequate transportation is countywide rather than localized. The effect on poor people is one of isolation from needed services or extreme inconvenience. The situation perpetuates poverty since the poor are unable to participate in self-help programs."

Mrs. Storer said last year that more than $100,000 was spent in transporting OCCEO clients, either in direct charges or in mileage driven by aides. In addition the Volunteer Corps of drivers provided thousands of man hours and miles without cost.

★ ★ ★

In addition to the OCCEO, other agencies not directly concerned with the poor such as the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) and the Oakland County Board of Supervisors, have been studying the area transportation problem.

Mrs. Storer said the OCCEO hopes to join with the other agencies to bring some kind of results.
