Ocean Liners Wallow in Atlantic After Collision off Nantucket

Ships Ram in Heavy Fog; Gigantic Rescue Follows

Stricken Swedish Vessel Now Limping Back to New York After Disaster at Sea

NEW YORK (AP)—A thunderous crash of two huge ocean liners in Atlantic fog late last night took five lives and injured hundreds.

One of the vessels, the luxurious Italian liner Andrea Doria, sank mid-morning today.

Before it sank, however, its 1,634 passengers and crew members had been rescued by other ships in one of history's greatest sea epics.

It had collided shortly before midnight off Nantucket Island, Mass., with the Swedish liner Stockholm.

The end came at 10:09 a. m. today.

From Boston, Carlo Fava, Italian lines district manager, flew to the disaster scene and reported:

"When we got there all there was were bubbles rising from the water where the ship went down. There was a lot of wreckage about and some overturned lifeboats."

Their crash occurred shortly before midnight at a point about 200 miles northeast of New York. Heavy fog shrouded the area, but the seas were relatively calm—perhaps saving hundreds of lives of those forced to take to lifeboats.

"Settling rapidly, abandoned captain and handful of senior officers who fought to the last to save their ship."

"Sinking. Just her fantail is showing."

"S. Andrea Doria sank in 225 feet of water at 10:09 a. m."

This final word did not come to the Coast Guard here until 10:55 a. m.

The Andrea Doria went into the water deep in just a little less than 11 hours after the collision.

The deaths were reported following the rescue.

The Stockholm was damaged but not dangerously, and aided in the rescue of Andrea Doria's personnel.

Capt. Piero Calamai and a handful of senior officers stuck with the stricken Italian vessel for hours, but finally in mid-morning were forced to abandon ship.

A Coast Guard cutter radioed from the scene at 10:15 a. m.:

"Andrea Doria settling rapidly, not possible tow or board."

The vessel was on its starboard side at an angle of 45 degrees or more.

The stricken vessels were the 30,000-ton Andrea Doria, pride of the Italian merchant fleet, and the 11,000-ton Swedish liner Stockholm.

The Andrea Doria, sending out frantic SOS messages, immediately began tilt-

As the ship's list grew worse, the Andrea Doria advised it was unable to lower its lifeboats. Rescue vessels raced to the scene and sent their lifeboats riding over relatively calm waters to the stricken vessel.

Among the rescue vessels was the French luxury liner Ile de France. A Coast Guard plane hovering over on its starboard side.

Sally Sharp Forges Into Amateur Lead

MUSKOGEE — Sally Sharp of Pine Lake led Mrs. Don Weiss of Flint, 2-up, after the 16th hole in their quarter-final match today in the 40th annual Michigan Women's Amateur golf tournament at Muskogee Country Club.

Mrs. Weiss, four times a state amateur champion since 1935, made it a see-saw battle until that point. After Miss Sharp had gone 2-up by winning the 1st and 5th holes, the Flint veteran rallied to a tie by taking the 7th and 8th.

Miss Sharp, gunning for her first major state tournament victory, easily took the 9th hole for a 1-up lead when Mrs. Weiss carded a 7.

The blonde MSU coed sped briefly to a 3-up lead by winning the 10th and 12th holes. A par 3 on the 14th and a birdie 2 on the 15th by Mrs. Weiss cut the margin to 1-up.

Will Add Third Story to Structure

Buys Wholesale Grocery Building on West Lawrence for New Activity

Whitfield, Walter & Dawson wholesale grocery firm today announced sale to the Salvation Army of its building on West Lawrence street, as the site of a Men's Social Service Center.

The Army plans to add a third story to the present two-story structure to provide facilities for a complete rehabilitation center.

Purchase price was revealed as $180,000 and the operation with the addition and building renovations planned is expected to represent a near $300,000 investment.

Financing will be accomplished by the national organization of the Salvation Army and no funds are to be solicited locally. The center will be similar to 119 others operated across the nation.

Once launched, Army leaders said it will be self supporting, deriving revenue from the sale of merchandise made and renovated in the center.

The Social Service Center will operate independently from the local Salvation Army Corps. It will be run

New 3-Year Steel Pact Ready

NEW YORK (INS)—A new steel contract was virtually sealed today.

A key figure in the marathon talks to end the 26-day-old walk-out stated the negotiators had "completed about 80 per cent of the contract language."

The labor and management teams striving to formalize the agreement to send 650,000 striking United Steelworkers back to their jobs called "time out" at 1 a. m.

to get some badly needed rest. They are resuming their negotiations today.

Marine's Court-Martial to Enter Second Phase; Lawyer Steals Show

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C.—The government expects to complete its case today against Marine S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon for the death march of Recruit Platoon 71.

McKeon is the 31-year-old Worcester, Mass., drill instructor who led six members of that platoon to death in the tidewater waters of Ribbon Creek marsh here last April 8.

Yesterday the seven-member court-martial panel heard for the first time the suggestion that McKeon was drunk when he led his "boots" into the marsh.

In the statement, dated April 8, McKeon recounted his disciplinary difficulties with Platoon 71.

McKeon's well-known New York attorney is stealing the show at the court-martial.

Slim, baldish Emilie Zola Beriman, chief of the defense counsel, stands there in court like a lean Arturo Toscanini, calling the tune every time.

Utica Family of 4 Sailing Aboard Rammed Liner

A Utica family of four, returning to Sweden for a year-long stay, is aboard the liner Stockholm which returned to New York today after a collision at sea.

Aboard are Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Pegelfelt, of 8367 Nancy St., and their two sons, Bjorn, 5, and Bengt, 1.

They came to Utica about 2½ years ago from Sweden, and were en route to visit relatives in Göteborg.

The new agreement being hammered out reportedly will run for three years, contain a no-strike clause and give the steelworkers an average 20-cent hourly pay boost.

It was expected industry would announce price hikes averaging $10-a-ton to meet the increased costs of the new pact.

After conferences which ran from 10 a. m. yesterday, the obviously tired labor and management teams, eyes bloodshot and clothing wrinkled, announced:

"We have worn ourselves down. We are taking time out for a rest. We are continuing to make progress, drafting the contract language. We have agreed to meet again at 9:30 a. m."

The union's 170-man wage policy committee, which must approve any contract, was scheduled to meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Industry poised for quick return to work movement if contract is signed; industry estimates from 10 days to two weeks would be required to achieve full production and call all 650,000 strikers back to work.

$100,000 Blaze Sweeps Rochester Foundry Plant

A $100,000 fire swept through the manufacturing section of Rochester's Oakland Foundry & Machine Co. last night, leveling one building and threatening two others before it was brought under control.

Only a portion of one wall remained of the 80 by 200-foot brick and wood-structure after a four-hour battle by some 25 members of the Rochester Fire Dept.

Firemen reached the scene at 1:15 a. m. after a night watchman reported the plant's roof in flames.

The blaze was extinguished by 5 a. m.

The fire-fighters used all available equipment in using water from village hydrants and nearby Paint Creek. The company's office building and another foundry plant were saved.

John W. Albertson of 1321 N. Oak St., Rochester, on duty as night maintenance man turned in the alarm. Albertson, also a fireman with the Rochester department, described the start of the blaze as a "loud noise like a loud door slamming." The roof burst into flames shortly afterward, he said.

J. H. Gardner, president and general manager of the concern, this morning estimated damage at between $75,000 and $100,000. The loss is completely covered by insurance, Gardner added.

Institute Studies a Giant

Calls GM 'Too Big' but Well Run

NEW YORK (AP)—After a three-month study, the American Institute of Management has come to the conclusion that General Motors Corp. is a well-managed, highly efficient firm.

However, it added in a report released yesterday, GM "is too big for the good of American businessmen who must deal with it and too big for the good of the country."

The institute, a non-profit corporation established in 1948 to appraise the management of business firms, reviews the operations of 4,000 to 5,000 firms a year. It singled out General Motors for a full-fledged study because GM in 1955 became the first American corporation to return a billion dollar profit.

The report paid tribute to General Motors' management and said it is among the top 17 of the 418 firms which the institute thus far has rated as "excellent" in management.

GM's operating margin (net sales minus operating costs) rose from 15 per cent in 1935 to 20.6 per cent in 1955, the institute said, because the corporation "has maintained its productive efficiency and has economized in the administrative and selling effort despite a 10-fold rise in sales."

This has resulted in more take-home pay for GM workers ($5,011.36 in 1955 vs. $1,567.24 in 1935) and billions of dollars more taxes for the government, the institute added.

But, the institute said, it wonders "along with many other thoughtful supporters of free enterprise, if the time has not arrived to discuss limitations to enterprise, however honestly and skillfully managed."

This has not happened in the case of General Motors, the institute said.

Reach $5.8 Billion in 6 Months

GM Sales for First Half Second Highest on Record

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. says sales for the first six months of this year were the second highest in history for the period.

Sales totaled $5,868,673,907 compared with a record $6,512,672,139 for the first six months of 1955.

Earnings for the period ended June 30 totaled $503,471,823, or $1.80 a share, compared with $660,961,942 or $2.41 a share for the first half of last year.

Net profit for the second quarter dropped to $220,878,468 or 79 cents a share. In the April-June quarter of 1955 earnings had totaled $351,555,080 or $1.27 a share. Sales declined to $2,804,090,950 from $3,411,933,396.

GM factories around the world sold 1,074,862 cars, trucks and buses in the April-May-June period, compared to 1,385,497 in the second quarter of 1955. This cut the first half total to 2,284,904 from 2,629,556 a year ago. Second quarter vehicle sales were also below the previous quarter's total of 1,210,042.

In the second quarter, the report said, "there was a slight decline in retail sales from the March level instead of the upturn normally expected."

GM's income tax bill for the first six months was 563 million dollars, compared to 767 millions a year ago.

Auto Franchise Bill Ready for Signature

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill designed to protect franchised automobile dealers from "coercive acts" of auto manufacturers needed only President Eisenhower's signature today to become law.

By a voice vote yesterday, the Senate accepted House amendments to the bill and passed it on to the White House.

The measure would allow dealers to sue manufacturers in federal court if their franchisees are not carried out in good faith, and to appeal to the courts for redress from acts of coercion or intimidation by the manufacturer.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), the bill's floor manager, insisted the measure is designed only as a "first step to balancing little business with big business."

DESTROYED BY FIRE—All that remains of the production section of the Oakland Foundry and Machine Company on Woodward Street in Rochester is shown above. The building was destroyed by fire of unknown cause during the night. Damage estimates range between $75,000 and $100,000. Two other buildings of the plant were untouched.

The Day in Birmingham

City's Pools Are Fenced to Prevent Drownings

BIRMINGHAM—Almost all of Birmingham's swimming pools have been fenced since the tragedy of a small Oakland County child Tuesday, says City Building Inspector Andrew F. Butt.

The city's new law requires all swimming pools when built to have a 48-inch fence of solid wood, brick or masonry construction, or of chain-link fence, Butt says.

The law, passed May 21, is not retroactive. "No one can force residents to fence their pools," Butt says, "but most residential pools have would meet the ordinance specifications anyway," he says.

Two-year-old Norma Jane Sparks drowned near her Commerce Township home Tuesday while swimming with other youngsters in the family pool. Her father, John W. Sparks, was reported to have planned building a fence about the pool.

The Birmingham ordinance also specifies that an adult must be in attendance when children are swimming.

A new 16-inch water-line has been installed and pressure-tested and, as soon as its dissection is approved by state authorities, will be put into use, according to L. R. Gare, director of public works.

Use will probably begin within a week, he says.

Chlorination of the new pipe is under way now. It stretches from the Detroit water line on Cummings at 14 Mile, crosses Bessieville to Woodward Avenue and goes up to Lincoln where it enters the city line.

Starting use of the new line for Detroit water will probably stir up more "red water" such as brought residential complaints when the city first began using Detroit water earlier this month, Gare predicts. But, like the other, it will disappear in several days.

The 50 per cent ratio of Detroit water mixing with the city's well water has not been reached, Gare says, but probably will be when the new line opens. Detroit water has been feeding through the Pierce and 14 Mile connection.

Asphalt surfacing in the six-block area around the Municipal Building will begin in about two weeks, Gare says, and some part of the city's extensive road-repair program is already under way.

In the six-block area between Brown and Maple, and between Pierce and Bates streets, the replacement of broken curbs has already begun. While the two inches of asphalt is being added, traffic will be kept "as usual" except for one-block lengths where the surface is actually being poured.

Other paving jobs scattered about the town will begin in about ten days, but the work on catch basins and other street-edging

25-Year-Old Mexican Hopes to Remain 15 Days on Cross

By BILL GIBSON

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP) — A 25-year-old ventriloquist, who said he learned to bear pain by sticking cactus spurs into his flesh as a child, yesterday expressed hope of remaining 15 days on the cross to which he has been nailed since Sunday.

The ventriloquist, known as Tagore, lay on the cross as he talked through an interpreter. His hands were still nailed to the cross. His feet, bandaged on the bottom, had been removed from the cross but the nails were still in them.

He said they hurt but he gave no indication of suffering great pain. He did not appear to be in a trance.

Tagore was dressed in a white silk suit. The cross, supported by two carpenter's saw horses, was in a small room he rented near the bull ring where a crowd of 5,000 persons paid admission to see him nailed to the cross at sunset Sunday. The cross, which was never raised to an upright position, was carried to the room an hour later.

Tagore, who comes from Villa Gomez, Chihuahua, and whose real name is Ilenio Garcia Carmona, said he was putting on the exhibition to make money for himself.

Tagore said he will donate 10 per cent to the Catholic Church in honor of the Virgin of Guadalupe.

"Have church officials authorized this exhibition?" I asked. "I talked to them about it and they didn't seem to mind," he replied.

Earlier Father Jose Castillanos, a Reynosa priest, said neither he nor the Church had given permission for the exhibition and that as far as he knew the Church would not get any of the money.

Tuesday the mayor of Reynosa ordered that Tagore's permit to charge admission for an exhibition be canceled.

Tagore said he had been nailed to a cross on three previous occasions, once for 15 days.

Tagore said he planned to remain on the cross if he could stand the pain and if government officials would grant a special permit for the exhibition.

Ironing Board Safety

BELLEVUE, Idaho (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gray and Mrs. Carroll McCrea almost left their ironing board behind when they returned to Bellevue from a vacation in Fresno, Calif. Now they're glad they didn't. Near Wells, Nev., their car skidded and rolled over. The ironing board pinned three Gray and McCrea children in the back seat, saving them from possible serious injury.

2 Children Wait Chance to Testify in Dog's Behalf

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Twenty-one children waited patiently through hours of judicial procedure yesterday for a chance to tell Police Judge Edward J. Burleson how they felt about Blackie, a 4-year-old cocker spaniel, the pet of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan G. Kasper, is charged with biting a 3-year-old neighbor girl. If convicted the dog can be ordered either confined or destroyed.

The complaint against Blackie was brought by Mr. and Mrs. James C. Shusser. They said their daughter Lynn received a bite on the lip which required four stitches to close. The Shussers seek a court order to prevent the dog from biting anyone else. When the Kaspers' attorney asked for witnesses, hands shot up all over the courtroom. Judge Burleson allowed six youngsters to testify. They ranged in age from 5 to 15.

Some appeared awed in the witness stand and cracked chewing gum nervously. They all agreed, however, they had played with Blackie before and after the incident and that the dog was "fun."

Judge Burleson took the case under advisement until next Wednesday.

Nation Cheered by Talk of Steel Strike Peace

Though the effects of the nearly four weeks long steel strike haven't reached an acute stage, a report that a settlement is imminent is good news.

Even an economy as solidly based as ours cannot escape the effects of such a walkout. This was emphasized by the widespread relief apparent after reports that progress is being made in strike negotiations and by the upward reaction of the stock market.

The Press sincerely hopes that these encouraging reports are well founded. Certainly any dispute that throws 650,000 steel workers out of employment and idles 100,000 more in allied industries, can do the country only harm.

Wage and production losses are staggering. Strikers are losing $12,000,000 daily, while 280,000 tons of ingot steel production has come to a standstill.

Even if settlement comes within hours, experts say the effects of the strike will be felt through December, especially on highway construction.

Senate OKs Changes in Social Security Act

This being a presidential election year, it was not surprising that the Senate approved two important amendments to the Social Security law.

One of these provides that working women would be eligible for 80 per cent of full benefits at age 62. Wives of retired workers are to get 75 per cent at the same age, with yearly increases up to the full amount at 65. Widows, however, would be entitled to full benefits at 62.

Another change provides that the wholly disabled would get full benefits at age 50. Written into this amendment are two reassuring safeguards. Payment would not begin until after a six month waiting period and would be stopped in the event of refusal to take vocational rehabilitation training.

Besides adding some 200,000 to the Social Security rolls, the amendments call for increased taxes. For employers and employees the increase would be one-quarter of one per cent and for self-employed, three-eighths of one per cent.

This Democratic measure was passed over Administration opposition with six Republicans joining in its support. It now must go to conference with the House which reported a similar measure last year. The only vital difference in the House bill is that it would give women full benefits at 62.

During Senate debate Republicans questioned the wisdom of lowering the age qualifications of women. There was strong support, however, for the disability amendment. We feel it justifies presidential approval of the measure despite Mr. Eisenhower's original opposition.

Ike's Panama Plan

President EISENHOWER made wise and full use of the opportunity afforded by his Panama City visit to strengthen U. S. relations with Western Hemisphere nations.

The Chief Executive flew to the Central American capital to attend a meeting arranged to commemorate the 130th anniversary of the first Pan American conference. That gathering in Panama City on June 25, 1826, had been summoned by South America's great liberator, SIMON BOLIVAR of Venezuela.

Besides conferring with 18 fellow chiefs of state and signing the Declaration of Panama, the President delivered a nine minute address. In it he urged united action to fight "the ravages of disease, poverty and ignorance."

At the same time he proposed a commission on human problems which would include representatives of the 21 American republics. It would offer suggestions in the economic, financial, social and technical fields. The President's choice for U. S. representative is his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, just elected president of Johns Hopkins University.

The declaration signed by the President is one all Americans can endorse. It reiterated the Western Hemisphere's determination to stand fast against alien totalitarian forces and to safeguard economic and political freedom.

The country can be thankful that the President's recovery has progressed sufficiently so that a trip to Panama City caused him no undue fatigue.

David Lawrence Asks: Will We Repeat Coercion on South?

WASHINGTON—Americans would be outraged today if they read that a country calling itself a republic had forced the adoption of a constitution upon its local legislatures at the point of a bayonet.

Few Americans know, however, that this was precisely what happened in supposedly free America in 1865—nearly three years after the war between the states had ended and the southern states had already been accepted in the Union. Indeed, few people today know the historical background of the "civil rights" bill which the House of Representatives has just passed.

Instead, many people, in referring to the segregation issue, talk glibly about the need for "obeying the Constitution" without the slightest awareness that the famous 14th Amendment from which the whole "civil rights" controversy has emerged was never really ratified in the constitutional manner by two-thirds of both houses of Congress and by three-fourths of the then existing states.

ALL AGREE TO FACTS Without exception, all the historians who have written about that period in American history are agreed as to the facts of what happened. There were thirty-seven states in the union and, then as now, it was necessary before the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution that two steps be taken—first, approval of a proposed amendment by a two-thirds vote in both houses of Congress, and second, ratification by three-fourths of the state legislatures.

In 1865, when the 14th Amendment was considered by Congress, the members of the House and Senate who came from the South were deliberately disqualified from voting by a northern majority in both houses. Nevertheless, the amendment was submitted to the states for ratification. The action taken by Congress was in contrast to what had happened in 1865—after the war—when the 13th Amendment abolishing slavery, was before these same members of Congress. Southern members were not disqualified then. Nor was any question raised as to the legitimacy of the state legislatures when the entire South, through these same legislatures, voted to ratify the 13th Amendment. President Andrew Johnson had formally proclaimed amnesty and had recognized the state governments in 1865. To all intents and purposes, they were the legal governments of those states.

When—two years after the amnesty—the 10 southern states rejected the 14th Amendment, this was enough to defeat ratification, inasmuch as 10 states were more than one-fourth of the thirty-seven in the Union at the time. Congress then stepped in and, again without letting the southern congressmen or senators vote, passed the Reconstruction Act of 1867 over the veto of President Andrew Johnson, who in a message formally challenged the constitutionality of the law. Under the terms of that law, Congress attempted to coerce the southern states.

"Rump" legislatures were thereupon set up under military rule, which in turn accepted the conditions imposed on the South by Congress. With ironical disregard of the very words of the 14th Amendment which guaranteed "due process of law," this amendment was a proclaimed formally in 1868 as an integral part of the Constitution. There is, of course, no power contained in the Constitution itself which can order the states to vote for or reject a constitutional amendment. The Supreme Court, however, has since sidestepped every case brought before it which attempted to question the validity of the procedure used in 1867 and 1868. To this day, the highest court in the land has never ruled on the legitimacy of the 14th Amendment itself.

Yet the "civil rights" measure which the House has just passed does mean federal interference in the operations of state institutions and agencies and the harassment of citizens generally by a federal commission—even though such citizens are not connected with state governments in any way.

This is perhaps the most far-reaching invasion of the rights of the states that has been proposed since the ill-fated time when Congress coerced the southern states by means of puppet legislatures into "ratifying" an amendment that the people didn't want—the antithesis of government by the "consent of the governed."

Few voices, unfortunately, are being raised in the North against this defiance of basic principles of constitutionalism. Whether or not one believes in the principle of integration in the public schools wherever the states desire it—as this writer does—the fact remains that the orders to obey "integration" and the support in Congress for various "civil rights" measures are based on an alleged amendment to the Constitution that never was legally ratified.

Smiles

Dr. William Brady Says: Practitioner Still Maintains ---That Milk Is Best Food

It devolves upon me, as I was afraid it would, to speak out against the American Heart Assn., primarily, and against the Wisconsin Heart Assn. as accessory, for promoting the half-baked theory that Americans should consume less milk, butter and cheese, to prevent hardening of the—no, I won't say it.

The oracle from the American Heart Assn. told the Wisconsin Heart Assn. that (1) hardening of the arteries is not a result of old age; (2) that the condition can be produced in animals in various ways; and (3) one of the big causes of hardening of the arteries is the high fat content of the American diet.

This last assertion is theoretical and arbitrary. There is no convincing evidence that drinking lots of whole milk, and eating plenty of butter and cheese causes or predisposes to any kind of heart or artery disease. In man, that is. The effect of feeding these dairy products to laboratory animals may be as bad as the Heart Assn.'s expert says it is, but as nutrition authorities well know, you can't apply such knowledge directly to human nutrition.

Although the newspaper report didn't mention the word, the Heart Assn.'s expert seemed to be concerned about that mysterious and, if you take the near-scientists too seriously, frightful substance, cholesterol.

Cholesterol is normally a constituent of every body cell, particularly in brain and nerve tissues, blood and in bile—and of course in gallstones. From the fact that most gallstones are composed principally of cholesterol some doctors inferred that the cholesterol probably caused the gallstones to form. From this assumption it was easy to speculate farther afield and first theorize and ultimately decide that cholesterol causes hardening of the arteries and heart disease.

Unfortunately for the health and welfare of the nation, the Heart Assn. has discovered that milk, butter and cheese contain more or less cholesterol, and so the Heart Assn.'s spokesman advises the dairy people not to worry about distribution of milk but to "figure out what can be added economically to milk to make it innocuous."

My first inclination was to keep out of this argument and cry a plague on both their houses—the dairy interests like me about as much as the dentists do. But I still maintain that—

1. Milk is the most nearly perfect food.

Voice of the People 'Policemen Too Freely Ticket Young Drivers'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I feel that our policemen are becoming overly zealous in handing out tickets, especially the younger policemen.

A young man whom I know personally has received two tickets when in reality he broke no law.

I believe the policemen are trying to give the young drivers a bad reputation. Now, I agree we do have some young people who are terrible drivers and I think the police should concentrate their efforts on them.

The great majority of our young people are law abiding citizens and do adhere to the traffic rules, so I think these young people should be treated as the good citizens they are.

I do most of my driving west of Pontiac, on Huron, and there are some lawless drivers on that road. However, at such times, the policemen never seem to be there to stop them.

Justice and consideration should be given all good drivers.

More Tell Ideas on Hospital Calls

It has come to my attention that residents near the Pontiac State Hospital contacted police on July Fourth, objecting to the noise of the celebration by 1500 patients on the hospital grounds.

This celebration has been an annual affair for years, and it is in line with similar activities throughout the country. The loud speaker announcements by a local minister added to the festivities and general holiday atmosphere.

Any individual who has observed how this celebration is conducted and how the patients respond with enthusiasm and obvious enjoyment would understand the value of such a program in terms of rehabilitation for these sick people.

Rehabilitation is the aim and object of the hospital staff. I would like to see the program continued and expanded in the interest of speeding the recovery of as many patients as can participate in it.

I will add that I have been driving from my home in Royal Oak to the hospital voluntarily for nearly two years taking part in weekly discussions and meetings with relatives and friends of patients with the object of getting the patients back to their families in the shortest possible time.

If these neighbors had the right stuff, they would be at the hospital helping out where help is badly needed instead of griping.

Harold E. Field

Royal Oak

On the Fourth of July, the police came to the hospital saying that the residents of Elizabeth Lake road were complaining about the music and loud speaker.

The patients always have a carnival for a few hours on the Fourth. For some of them, it is the one time in a whole year that they are able to go out of doors.

Case Records of a Psychologist: Child's Education Up to Family

Hold up two cards at the outset and explain what they are: Then shuffle and expose them, one at a time. Your child will get them right at once, so add a third word; then a fourth, etc.

Soon you will have flash cards for maybe 500 nouns, verbs, adjectives, etc. For variation, when you hold up the "noun" cards, let the child take the card and place it on the object it names, as "table," "chair," "window," "floor," etc.

ACTION GAMES To inject some action into the game, let him depict the verb cards. Let him "jump," "walk," "run," "sleep," etc., as you hold up those verbs.

On the back of these word cards, you can have "5x1," "5x2" and the other multiplication tables. But don't work longer than a total of 15 minutes per night on all variations of these home tutoring games.

Let Daddy compete with Junior, but have Daddy pull his punches, for a child must win about 3 times out of 4 to keep his interest high.

Whoever identifies the card first when Mother holds it aloft, gets that card. The one with the bigger stack of cards is the winner of the game.

You can change your child's entire future career by altering his outlook on school. For when he makes good marks he will like school!

teacher can't devote much time to any one child. In fact, with those 30 children she can average not over 2 minutes per student.

But parents can devote 15 minutes per night and often within six weeks change the entire educational outlook of their maladjusted child.

Here's how: Make flash cards with strips of white cardboard on which you print a single word from the current school reader being used by your youngster.

Bob Considine Says:

Babe Zaharias Needs Help — From You

GALVESTON, Tex. (INS)—Babe Zaharias, the greatest woman athlete of all time, has cancer of the sacrum. The sacrum is the bone plate out of which the spine extends.

Two weeks ago this remarkably courageous girl underwent a five-hour operation that severed, just below her brain, certain nerves which for weeks had been transmitting the news to her mind that her legs hurt excruciatingly.

Previously, Babe underwent massive surgery for another cancer. A year ago she was operated on for a spinal disc which she feels was brought about by performing a little chore which would occur to comparatively few others of either sex—she lifted the back end of her car out of the sand in which it had become mired. The pieces about Babe will be along a bit later.

This preliminary offering concerns the disease itself. Only a few years back, one seldom saw the word cancer in print. Mention of it was in whispers. People died of an "incurable malady," the obits plausibly reported, often at the insistence of the family. The patient more often than not was left in the dark by physician, kin and friend. Under the circumstances, raising money to combat something as rarely mentioned in the U. S. as beri-beri was plain hell.

HUMORED RUTH

As recently as the comparatively enlightened 1948, nine doctors and close associates of Babe Ruth kept the news from him that his trouble was cancer. They humored him to the extent of extracting several teeth, which Ruth had concluded with iron resolution was the cause of the great pains in his jaws and head.

Both underwent surgery by the great Dr. Hippolyte Wertheim, whose own doctors are said to have ascertained shortly before that the "vicer" Wertheim complained about was a malignancy. The legend is that he, also, was not told.

But the break-through had already commenced. The U. S. Public Health Service was ringing a few more but still inadequate millions out of the treasury for cancer research. In New York, where the great Sloan-Kettering Institute was rising next to Memorial Hospital, and elsewhere in the land, the exact nature of the pitiless enemy of man was being explored. Still, it was a shock to many to see the word "cancer" in the first sentence of the announcement that

Steam Shovel Violates Grave

Indian Burial Site Found

YPSILANTI, Mich. — A chugging steam shovel has turned up the graves and skeletons of 10 adult Indians in a gravel-covered area outside Ypsilanti.

Dr. Emerson F. Geeman, curator of the museum of anthropology at the University of Michigan, says the Indians might have belonged to the Chippewa, Ottawa or Huron tribes.

The bones, taken to the museum for study, belonged to both male and female Indians and were found in one of the Indians' favorite burying grounds—a gravel area where digging is easy.

Dr. Geeman reasons that because of the positions in which some of the skeletons were found, they may have been placed there as part of an ancient Indian rite.

'FEAST OF THE DEAD'

He said some of the skeletons were doubled up, knees and head together. At least one was laid out and another appeared to have been moved from an earlier grave, he said.

The anthropologist said the bones of the moved skeleton were disarranged, leading him to believe they may have been placed there as part of the "feast of the dead," an old ritual.

The ceremony, practiced chiefly by the Algonquin and Iroquois Indians, were conducted about every 10 or 12 years.

The tribe would unearth the remains of all persons who died since the last such feast, honor them by the offering of gifts and make

Plan More Pipelines

NEW YORK — Industry reports indicate that more than 17,000 miles of new pipeline is scheduled to be added to the nation's oil and gas pipeline system during 1936. An average of 11,000 miles a year has been laid during the past 10 years.

cer leukemia, the emergence of the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund (which mostly through the work of Walter Winchell and Dan Parker has raised $12,000,000 without a penny's investment in administrative costs), the American Cancer Society's continued diligence, and the work of other organizations and individuals, all have combined to spell out the word so that all can understand.

Today, so few years after the hushed age, it would be unthinkable to write from Galveston's superb John Sealy Hospital (a division of the medical branch of the University of Texas) that Babe Zaharias is suffering from "a lingering ailment."

The Babe has cancer, bad cancer. She and her devoted husband and the staff at John Sealy and some of the most responsible wheels of the city have put their hearts and muscle into the Babe Didrikson Zaharias Fund, Inc., University Station, Galveston, Tex. to the end that others might be spared the cross this stout-hearted and struggling champion carries today.

Native New Yorker Wins Fame in Texas; Pawnshop Appeals to Bluebloods, Bums

DALLAS, Tex. (INS)—Need a second-hand set of false teeth, an artificial arm, or maybe a good used trap or buffalo gun?

If so, the guy to see is Rubin Goldstein, better-known along Dallas' famous "Deep Ellum" Street as "Honest Joe," pawnbroker extraordinary.

Goldstein, 47, is a product of New York's Lower East Side. He came to Dallas in 1931 and opened a small gun repair and locksmith shop at 2524 Elm Street, a neighborhood which is a bazaar of fried catfish joints, hock shops, second hand stores and used clothing marts.

Later he began lending money on pawned items and called the place "Honest Joe's."

Through the years the shop has gained widespread fame as a house of weird merchandise. Items to be found there may range from a pawned artificial leg or arm to a wedding ring.

A 'RIGHT GUY'

The "Deep Ellum" gentry vouch for Joe as a right guy. They'll tell you he's a great one for giving the underdog and the handicapped a break.

Often he gives these people a little work they can do. Among his friends and admirers are several deaf and dumb persons with whom Goldstein carries on friendly conversations in sign language.

NEEDED TEN SPOT

Once a man came into the store and asked Joe, "What would I have to do to raise a ten spot—put up my right arm?"

Without giving the matter much thought, Joe replied that that was just what the man would have to do to get the dough.

The man then rolled up his right sleeve, unscrewed a mechanical arm and laid it on the counter. Nonplussed, Goldstein gave the stranger $10 and he left and never returned for the arm.

Recently the Dallas Times Herald printed a story about Goldstein and his business. The article included the artificial arm incident.

A few days later a porter who had lost his right arm years before came to the store, said he had read the newspaper story and wanted to see the pawned limb.

Explaining he never had been able to afford a new artificial arm, the porter tried out the pawned limb. Apparently it was just what he had been looking for.

Joe told him it would cost him $22.50. The porter paid $3 down, arranged to pay off the rest of the debt in installments and walked out of the store with his new arm a happier man.

Joe's motto is that he buys "anything of value." But the value of some of the stuff crowding the pawnshop is doubtful.

He readily admits he buys lots of worthless items. "I'm a lover of junk," he says.

Joe is happy with his unusual business because it has meant a good and bountiful life for him.

When he came to Texas as a single man back in the depression days he had little money. Now he is a property owner and a highly-respected businessman, with a wife and five children.

One, Two, Three; One, Two, Three — Glub

By PHYLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK (INS)—It had to come to this eventually, of course. Now we are advised to reduce our rear-ends and fronts and sides and chins—in the bathtub.

The reason it had to come to this is that push-ups in the parlor are quite dull, even with music. Hip-rolls on the bedroom floor are no better. And picking up pins... well, once you've done it the novelty wears off.

Exercise in the bathtub, however, is sure to catch on for a couple of reasons. In the first place, when you perspire you don't know the difference, and in the second place, there is an unending sensation of excitement and adventure about being submerged in the water.

To do a knee-bend and not get a snoot full, this is a challenge! A current magazine has just come out with a seven-day aquatic exercise formula which it hopes will produce the cleanest sylphs in history. The ideas were supplied by Nicholas Kounovsky, a reducing expert who claims to have supplied some of the country's top models and actresses with his easy soapy system.

'REFINE YOUR ANKLE'

He warns, however, that you should use a rubber mat in the tub for safety's sake. And don't fill the tub more than 1-3 full, for the sake of others who may want to stray into the bathroom later without wading.

Now, On the first day, you "refine your ankles" in the bath. Put feet flat against the foot of the EXILE RETURNS—Ingrid Bergman will return to the United States this fall after 7½ years of self-imposed exile. Ed Sullivan announced that the Swedish-born actress will arrive in New York in October or November to appear as guest star on his T V program.

The Flaming Gorge Dam, and reservoir, to be built on the Green River in Utah, will include a power plant for 72,000 kilowatt capacity.

tub, pressing hard with the heels and flexing the toes back toward you. This exercise will stretch the leg muscles, too, and will allow you plenty of time to look down at your thighs and gasp.

Gasping is good exercise for the vocal chords.

Next, lean back in the tub, shoulder blades resting on the rear porcelain, and hands at the side for steadiness. Your legs are straight out, before you, providing the tub is long enough. Bend one leg at a time, bringing the knee close to the chest, and straighten out quickly.

This will make a pleasant splash and will also reduce the abdomen. UNDER THE SHOWER

Another exercise is to stand up in the tub under the shower, raise arms up and clench fists, then bend elbows so that your forearms are on top of your head, criss-crossed. This to firm up the upper arms.

For well-shaped upper arms stand with a wet sponge gripped in either hand. Bend forward and fling the arms back, as if looking angrily for a clog in the drain.

For a better bosom, Kounovsky recommends sitting erect in the tub and grabbing the middle of a wet towel in both hands. Now bend elbows and slowly pull the towel through the hands.

There are many more ideas for getting willowy in the water, including a number of pre-tub exercises to be accomplished on the mat in the shadow of the bathroom sink, but there is no room to go into them now. Suffice it to suggest: If you're overweight, try. At least you'll be coming clean.

VIENNA (INS)—There's an old song that says "kissing is no sin." Maybe, but a Vienna court recently found it illegal.

CONQUEROR — Meet an incongruity—French funnyman Fernandel playing the part of a Grecian warrior. He's filming "Honore de Marseille," a funny tale of the conquest of Liguria, in which the only thing Fernandel does conquer is the daughter of the enemy king.

Miller May Face Contempt Count

Playwright Could Be Prosecuted for Refusing Names to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Playwright Arthur Miller today faced possible prosecution for refusing to give the House Committee on Un-American Activities the names of persons with whom he attended Communist party writers' meetings in 1939 or 1940.

The House voted 373-0 yesterday to cite Miller for contempt of Congress and to send his case to the Justice Department. Also cited for contempt were seven other persons accused of refusing to answer committee question on communism.

Miller, now honeymooning in Britain with actress Marilyn Monroe, told the committee last month that he never was a Communist party member. But he did concede past associations with various Red front groups. Miller also told the investigators he "would not support now a cause dominated by Communists."

However, when the 40-year-old playwright was asked to list those whom he saw at the Communist party writers' meetings nearly two decades ago, he refused, saying, "My conscience would not permit me to use the name of another person" and bring trouble to him.

In declining to give the committee this information, Miller did not invoke his constitutional protection against possible self-incrimination.

Conviction on a contempt of Congress charge carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Others cited: Otto Nathan, executor of the estate of the late Albert Einstein and a New York University associate professor; Peter Seeger, a musician from Beacon, N.Y.; William E. Davis, John W. Simpson and Mrs. Anne Yagur Kling, all of St. Louis; Elliott Sullivan and George Tyne, New York actors.

Wearing Hats Won't Affect Bald Tops

LONDON (AP)—Prof. E. J. Moynahan, after a lengthy study of human hair, said today that wearing a hat will neither (1) make you go bald or (2) keep you from going bald.

"The wearing of hats," Moynahan reported in the doctors' magazine Medical Press, "has no influence, favorable or adverse, on baldness."

Moynahan, who carried out his research in the dermatological department of Guy's Hospital, put in a strong rap against barbers who shave your hair or massage your scalp.

A single, he declared, "may produce brittleness with fragmentation of the hair."

A scalp massage, he said, is bad for a balding customer because "in such individuals the hair is more than usually brittle and is liable to break off when rubbed or brushed vigorously."

Subsidized Aluminum

PARIS — Napoleon III was one of the first persons to recognize the possibilities of aluminum. Visualizing it as lightweight equipment for his soldiers, the French emperor subsidized the French scientist, Henri Sainte-Claire Deville, in his efforts to find a low-cost production method.

Plastic 'Dip Tubes' Lengthen Heater Life

CHICAGO — A minor revolution has taken place in the design of automatic gas water heaters. Plastic "dip tubes" are replacing the metal tubes that sometimes caused electrolytic action and brought on corrosion.

Special Groups Map Better Tax Measures

CHICAGO — Improvements in state tax laws are being worked out by special legislative commissions in 25 states. These groups were named by state legislatures in 1955 to report on 40 subjects, including revisions of tax structures, the relationship of state, local, and federal taxes, and taxes in general.

On Second Thought

SAN DEMETRIO, Italy (INS) — Despite loud protests from the mayor of San Demetrio, government police refused to permit him through their lines without a pass. But Mayor Achilles Altissimi is a quick thinker. He took a sheet of paper from his pocket, scribbled "let me pass," and signed his name.

The policeman read it, saluted, and ushered Altissimi through.

British Output Gains
LONDON—The United Kingdom's gross national product climbed to $16,634,000,000 in 1955, a gain of $265,000,000, or some 5 1/2 per cent, over 1954. The gross domestic product rose by about 6 per cent to a value of some $342,000,000.

Political Future of Stassen Doomed Unless Support Comes Forward

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON 26—Harold E. Stassen, who lives here in the last house on a dead-end street, doesn't know today whether that will also be the permanent address of his political future. This must be one of his loneliest days.

Not a single Republican leader has stepped up to back his proposal that Vice President Nixon be brushed aside in favor of Gov. Christian A. Herter as President Eisenhower's running mate.

The White House, where he has his office as special assistant to Eisenhower on disarmament, made it clear Stassen is not getting any support there. Republicans in Congress have called on him to resign his job.

And even Herter, after a telephone talk with the vice president, not only did not support Stassen but said he would nominate Nixon. Herter did, however, say he would accept the vice presidential nomination if Eisenhower wanted him.

UPSET AT STASSEN
The professional Republican politicians, who thought they had the way greased to present the voters this year with the same 1952 winning combination of Eisenhower and Nixon, have reason to be sore at Stassen.

He not only caused them trouble, if only temporarily, but also called sensational attention to the fact that not everyone wants Nixon. It's possible the fire Stassen tried to start may have spread by convention time. It doesn't look like it now.

Skinny Jailbreaker Recaptured at Home

DETROIT 26—Paul Murphy, 20, an ex-convict who escaped from the Inkster jail by squeezing through a 14-inch hole, was recaptured today at his home.

Murphy, held for investigation of burglary, wiggled through the small hole that police described as an unwired light fixture in the ceiling to make good his escape Tuesday.

Police said Murphy wrecked his car in a police chase yesterday after eluding a dragnet in a nearby community. He has served a previous sentence in Southern Michigan Prison for larceny.

Not even one member of that unnamed group of "Republican leaders" who, Stassen said, shared his views, has come out in public to stand beside him. Politicians pay a penalty for causing their party trouble.

Stassen may have to pay the penalty of being forced into political limbo from now on. Which raises a question: Why did he do it? He said he did it for the good of the country and out of "loyalty" to Eisenhower.

AMBITIOUS MAN

If this was Stassen's only reason—since he's been around long enough to know a bad reaction might ruin him—then it took sheer guts and unselfishness to do what he did.

But the 49-year-old Stassen, who never seems to stop talking and has been giving Republicans and Democrats alike advice from the sidelines for years, has been an immensely ambitious man.

He's had his eyes steadily on the presidency since he was in his 30s. He was a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1944, 1948 and 1952. And as late as July 9 he made it known he would like to be a candidate this year if Eisenhower didn't run.

Judging from the reaction he has received so far, his attempt to cut Nixon's political throat was not shrewd. Perhaps he had as-

Government Vetoes Gas Rate Increases

WASHINGTON 26—Four natural gas rate increases, proposed by a supplier of the Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline Co., Detroit, have been suspended by the Federal Power Commission. The increases totaled $1,512,000, annually.

The increases were proposed by Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Okla., on its sales to Michigan-Wisconsin, which serves Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

The suspension hearing was set for Oct. 1 in Washington. It will be consolidated with the commission's investigation of Phillips rates.

surance of support from Republicans who got gold feet when the reaction set in.

At the moment he looks like a politician who stuck his neck out once too often and had it cut off. And yet, if Stassen's presidential hopes for the future were involved in his action, then what he did was logical enough.

If now the Republican ticket is Eisenhower and Nixon, and it loses, Stassen will have some claim on party leadership through his foresight in saying Nixon's candidacy would hinder Eisenhower—even though Stassen isn't predicting defeat of an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

If Nixon were re-elected and served out four years, he would be the party's most likely candidate for the presidency in 1960. Stassen then would hardly seem to have a look-in. He's no political pal of Nixon.

If Nixon were re-elected and succeeded to the presidency through the death of Eisenhower, he'd almost certainly be the party candidate in 1960. Stassen would seem to have no chance at all then.

And All This Happened—From a Wasp Sting

TALLULAH, La. 26—Nine-year-old Danny Kirkpatrick disappeared from home after he was stung by a wasp.

Two hours later about 150 men, an airplane and two bloodhounds combed the surrounding countryside.

Three hours later, searchers found Danny in bed at the home of schoolmates, unharmed, unconcerned and unexplaining.

Four hours later he was in his own bed after a good parental hug, a good lecture and a good supper.

Stassen's best hope for his own presidential ambitions would seem to lie in the elimination of Nixon now. If not now, then perhaps he will feel grateful to Stassen for

Yet, in spite of the cold shoulder he has received inside his own party from the professionals, there are probably many independent and Republican anti-Nixon voters who feel grateful to Stassen for trying to get Nixon nixed.

Kavanagh Asks Ecorse Probe

Township Officers Face
Circuit Court Hearings on Crimes, Conduct

MACKINAC ISLAND (U. S. —) Atty. Gen. Thomas M. Kavanagh today said he plans to renew his request to the Wayne County Circuit Court to investigate charges of crimes and improper conduct by public officers in Ecorse and Taylor Township.

Kavanagh made his statement in an opening address prepared for the start of a three-day statewide convention of prosecuting attorneys at Mackinac Island.

Kavanagh said his previous petition was filed with the Wayne County Circuit Court on July 9. The court, he said, had promised to study it but he has received no official answer as yet.

"There are things going on in Ecorse and Taylor Township which should be stopped and stopped as quickly as possible," Kavanagh said.

"After months of investigation, we are convinced that to get to the source of these wrongdoings we need the assistance of a circuit judge sitting as a grand juror with the attendant powers of subpoenaing recalcitrant witnesses, questioning under oath and, where advisable, granting immunity.

"The people of Taylor Township and Ecorse are entitled to the peace of mind that comes from good, clean government, and I certainly intend to do all in my power as attorney general to give it to them," Kavanagh concluded.

Common table salt and its components, sodium and chloride, have more than 14,000 uses in diet, industry, and agriculture.

S. History on Stage." The children are (left to right) Eddie Bunnell, 11, Sharon Edgar, 10, both of Lincoln Playground, and Kirk Scarbro, of Malcolm Playground. Make-up is being applied to Menta Mack, director of the Malcolm Playground. Yesterday, children ranging from 7 to 16 years, presented a second play at Washington Junior High School entitled "United Nations."

Marie McDonald Wins Divorce —in Cool Boudoir

ENCINO, Calif. (U. S. —) Actress Marie McDonald won a divorce from her wealthy shoe manufacturer husband while lying in bed in her air-conditioned boudoir.

The 32-year-old actress, who is expecting a baby in September and has been ordered to stay in bed until the event, donned a coral chiffon nightgown and bed jacket for the special court session at her home yesterday.

She broke into tears twice while recounting some of the details of her storm marriage to Harry Karl, 48, whom she accused of cruelty.

Miss McDonald also won approval of a property agreement whereby she will receive $250 a month for each of the couple's two adopted children and the same amount for the new baby, plus $3,500 a month alimony for herself. The alimony payments will be reduced to $2,000 after three years and will remain at that figure the rest of her life.

The actress married Karl in 1948 and then remarried him again on June 14, 1955 after they had been divorced the previous November.

Ask for County Probation Unit

Needed to Deal With Justice Court Offenders, Request Says

A request for county approval to hire a probation officer to deal with offenders from county justice courts was discussed yesterday by the Miscellaneous Committee of the county Board of Supervisors, but no definite action was taken.

Committee chairman Winston S. Moberly said today the committee plans a further meeting to draft a resolution before the Sept. 10 meeting of the Board of Supervisors.

The request stems from a recent decision by Oakland County Circuit Judge Clark J. Adams, holding that justices have no power to place offenders on probation to themselves.

Since there is no probation officer in the county appointed to handle justice court cases, justices, in effect, have no power of probation at present.

Justices Emmett J. Leib and Willis D. LeFurgy, Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem and Justice Court Coordinator Gerald A. Terrien attended the meeting to present the request, first heard by supervisors at the June 25 meeting.

"Some legal problems still must be resolved, and we may call in more people to give us opinions on them," Moberly said.

Pontiac Man Suffers First Degree Burns

Vanice Kinder, 39, of 326 S. East Blvd., is in "good" condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital today after receiving first and second degree burns in a fire at his home yesterday.

Kinder, who has burns of the face, chest, arms and legs, told firemen the blaze started in his basement while he was washing paint brushes. He said the pilot light in his gas furnace apparently ignited the paint thinner fumes. Firemen were able to extinguish the flames shortly after arriving. Damages to the two-story home and its contents were estimated at $125.

Two-Year-Old Bruised When Hit by Automobile

A two-year-old Pontiac child received a slightly bruised forehead when struck by a car in Gillespie street near Lake street yesterday.

Billy Williams, of 45 Pleasant View Dr., was treated at Pontiac General Hospital.

Jack E. Maher, 57, of 161 Mark St. the driver told Pontiac police the boy dashed into the street from in front of a parked car. He said he could not avoid hitting him.

Lost Items Plague Transportation Firms

If you're missing a topcoat, briefcase, umbrella, or even a child, you might contact the transportation company that provided you with your last ride.

Bus, railroad, and taxicab companies in Pontiac agree that the lost-and-found problem is a never-ending one.

Commuters to Detroit and back have a habit of leaving raincoats, according to Grand Trunk ticket clerk Ray Crane, 1189 Myrtle St.

Crane said, however, that briefcases and hats are most frequently left behind. He said that lost items, if not claimed immediately, are returned to the lost and found department in Detroit.

Fred Elias, ticket agent for the Great Lakes Greyhound Lines, agreed that hats, coats, and umbrellas are a daily problem. Even more so are lost persons, especially children, he added. Elias pointed out that buses often travel in twos or threes. And the mother who leaves the bus to get her child a comic book or candy bar sometimes returns to find the child gone.

The child is rarely missing, however, the mother has just boarded the wrong bus.

Truck drivers can also be a problem, Elias said. The driver who transports a truck to a destination and then returns by bus often leaves his log book behind.

"They don't like it, but neither do we," Elias said.

The ticket agent said lost items are sent to the home office in Detroit if unclaimed after 30 days. Perishables are destroyed after 24 hours.

Lost briefcases and purses are the Yellow Cab Company's biggest headache.

And they become even more of a problem, according to radio dispatcher Walter Duckett, 81 Auburn Ave., when they aren't spotted in time by the driver. They're sometimes claimed by the next passenger.

However bad the problem may be, the transportation companies cheerfully accept it. They realize that as long as there is a forgetful person, there'll be a forgotten item.

Camel Buyers, Women in Same Fussy Class

NEW YORK (INS) — A New York animal importer thinks camel buyers are as fussy as women shopping for spring outfits.

Fred Zeehandelaar shipped 30 camels by truck from the U. S. quarantine station and said "good riddance."

Zeehandelaar said: "I must have had 20 long distance calls from people who are buying this lot. Some wanted 'em green. Some wanted 'em yellow. Some wanted 'em red. Others wanted 'em short and fat. Others wanted 'em long and lean. These people drive you nuts."

Girl, 2, Injures Head After 2nd-Story Fall

A two-year-old Pontiac girl was reported in "satisfactory" condition at Pontiac General Hospital this morning shortly after she tumbled out of a second story window, 18 feet above the ground.

Deborah Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fisher, of 459 Orchard Lake Ave., is being treated at the hospital for possible head injuries.

She reportedly landed in some gravel in front of the apartment house in which the Fishers live, missing the cement sidewalk by approximately 10 inches.

Deborah fell out of the upstairs window while playing with her three-year-old brother, according to Mrs. Fisher, who said she had left the room for only a few seconds to go across the hall.

Salvation Army Plans Social Service Unit

by a staff especially trained in this phase of Army work.

The facility is expected to house and serve 75 men at full capacity. These plans were revealed to the Press this morning by Mac Whitfield, part owner of the wholesale grocery warehouse at 118 W. Lawrence St., and Brig. Hyam G. Youngman, manager of the Detroit Salvation Army Center.

"We are bringing waste material and waste manpower together," Youngman said explaining the function of the proposed center.

The building is expected to be turned over to the new owners Oct. 1 with the first segment of men expected to enter the center by Jan. 1, 1957.

The $100,000 addition to be located atop the present building will contain modern up-to-date living quarters, Youngman explained. The self-supporting service is possible by the resale of redeveloped furniture, clothing, waste materials and miscellaneous items collected by the Salvation Army.

Sixty per cent of income is derived from the Army's resale shops while 40 per cent comes from the sale of baled paper.

The factory in the building will be used by the men to refurbish these materials, the Salvation Army official said. Whitfield, Walter and Dawson Co. has occupied the building on Lawrence street for the past 30 years.

"This is an extension of the Salvation Army service in Pontiac," Youngman related. "It is a long-term therapy plan to rehabilitate men with individual problems."

The center is not restricted to men from Pontiac or Oakland County, Youngman pointed out.

Purchase of the building was necessitated, he said, because the Detroit center "could no longer take care of the needs of the Oakland County area."

The transaction, which includes a parking area across Lawrence, was handled by Russell A. Hoff, Pontiac realtor.

The purchase was approved by the local advisory board of the Salvation Army and endorsed by Division Headquarters in Detroit, Youngman stated.

ering over the scene as a foggy dawn broke radioed:

"Seven hundred thirty survivors aboard the de France. May be a few more."

Despite the sensational rescue of passengers and crew, it must have been a harrowing experience for most of them.

They had to flee the sinking vessel by clambering precariously down ladders and cargo nets lowered over the side.

Besides the giant French liner, the de France, which took aboard about 730 persons the United Fruit Co. freighter Cape Ann took 168, and the military sea transport Pvt. William H. Thomas listed about 165.

All headed for New York, with arrival times listed as late today and tonight.

The Stockholm, which sailed from New York yesterday for Göteborg, Sweden, took aboard about 425 of the Andrea Doria's passengers. The Andrea Doria was inbound from Genoa.

caused the blaze," he continued. "I guess something amoldering just took off and blazed during the night."

About 60 men are employed by the concern, but small loss of employment is anticipated, he added. "We'll need them on this clean-up job."

Gardner hopes to begin building a new plant immediately. Castings were produced in the structure.

Biggest equipment loss, he reported, was the molding equipment in the foundry proper and company patterns.

Firemen carried out office records from the office building in case the blaze spread to adjoining buildings.

No injuries were reported although an ambulance stood by during the four hour session.

Horsepower Ban Keeps U. S. Cars Out of Bermuda

This is the second of a two-part series on Bermuda, the 1944 focal point of thousands of American tourists.

By JOE HAAS

In comparatively recent years, autos have been allowed in Bermuda. But, with the exception of those in the use of the military, they are restricted to cars of the English-made type, known in United States as "peewees."

HAAS produces more than 14 horsepower, according to their way of computation.

Since no car made in the United States meets these requirements, there are no American-made cars in Bermuda. Some bear the name plates of the smaller American cars, but were manufactured by their English branches, and in full accord with local requirements.

These include the taxicabs of which there is a larger percentage than in any community of similar size in the world. Most of them are open midgets and replicas of "the surrey with the fringe on top" of the horse and buggy days.

CLIMB HILLS EASILY

However these same cars climb the steep grades and get up almost as much speed as our seemingly higher-powered cars. It is quite understandable, but it keeps out cars made in the country that is supporting Bermuda, giving the car market exclusively to the mother country.

We never spend more than one day in Bermuda. A good licensed taxi driver will cover everything of interest in that time.

They have 200 miles of good paved roads, and he'll take you over 100 of them and show you the millions of flowers, tropical blossoms that greet you on every hand, the great landscaping, the hills, the beaches, the beautiful underwater growths, the business districts, the magnificent homes, the big turtles, the aquarium, the shipping and the tourists—also Bermuda's only somber spectacle, the thousands of dead cedar trees, killed a few years ago by a parasite.

Bermuda's climate varies but little; rarely above 80 at this season and rarely under 60 in the winter. Ocean breezes make it ideal.

In this respect it is quite unlike Hawaii where the mercury is practically a static 75 the year round, where there is no trouble with bugs or mosquitoes, and which comes closer to being a paradise.

Bermuda raises most tropical fruits, but apples will not grow there. Nor will some of the other delicious fruits we grow in plenty in Michigan.

DRINK RAIN WATER

It has no drinking water except that gathered from the white coral roofs when it rains and is stored in cisterns. There are no fresh water wells. Distilling sea water is being tried, but with limited success.

Unlike Hawaii which has a volcanic basis and presently erupting volcanoes of its own, Bermuda is of coral formation. The coral rock is cut up into building material for most of its homes, being sliced easier than our softest woods. Only once has it had a slight earthquake tremor, and the hurricane of the past year passed it by, but 39 odd years ago it went through a fierce one.

It can be easily reached in a 42-hour cruise on a luxury liner from New York, a round-trip affording an ocean voyage that cannot be matched in the whole world. Or if you're in a hurry, you can go by air in one-tenth of that one-way time. Either way you can keep the round trip under $200.

Bermuda abounds in places to stay if you wish to prolong it more than one day. You can go up to $100 per day in settings unmatched anywhere else on earth. Or you can get by very well at one-tenth of that figure.

A trip there will be among the most unforgettable joys of your life; even if the eagerness of the natives to extract the tourist dollar proves to you where originated the term "Bermuda short."

'Monster' Described as Just a Rare Whale

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A huge carcass, washed up on a lonely Alaska beach, was identified as a rare beaked whale today by a Michigan State University fisheries biologist.

Dr. Peter Tack, head of the school's fishery and wildlife department, flew to the spot where the monster washed ashore some months ago.

Checking the remains of the beast, Dr. Tack said it was probably only 35 feet long. It had been described as much longer. The whale, Dr. Tack said, was one of the rarest of the beaked whale species.

The red-hair, which had led to much of the conjecture as to the identification, was only a fibrous material, the residue of decomposing whale flesh and blubber.

Air Traffic Up 40 Pct.

FRANKFURT, Germany—Passenger traffic at Frankfurt's Rhein-Main Airport last year was 40 per cent heavier than in 1954. Planes of 25 airlines that use the port regularly and have offices in Frankfurt carried 809,081 passengers into Frankfurt last year.

EVEN THE GIRLS—Girls are no exception in learning all the trades of a good outdoors' man, when they sign up for five days with the "Frog Hollow Day Camp" run by the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Dept. Here Carolyn Gidcumb, 10, of 1275 Cherrylawn Dr., uses a sharp ax and a keen eye in learning how to split the wood for the fire. Instructing Carolyn, a member of the "Little Froggies" group of the day camp, is Mrs. Peter Everts, of Clarkston, counselor for the group.

SETTING THE TABLE—Although this table-to-be is a far cry from the dinner table these young misses are used to setting, it will have to do for this setting in the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area. The project is part of the Parks and Recreation-sponsored "Frog Hollow Day Camp."

THIS IS NOW . . .—Thoughts of "if mother could see me now" were passing through the minds of these young members of the "Golden Eagles," a troop of the "Frog Hollow Day Camp," as Pete Everts, 25, of Clarkston, their counselor, teaches them how to peel a potato. The boys, like the girls, at the Parks and Recreation camp in the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area, must cook their own noon meals over a wood fire. Included in this group are: Bill Chapdelaine, 9, of 48 Chamberlain St., Jan Anderson, 10, 79 Wenonah Dr., Thomas Webster, 10, 1475 Glenwood Ave., Mike Gaydos, 12, 1295 Atkinson Ave., Thomas Koechig, 9, of 335 First St., Jeffrey Smith, 9, 7994 Perry St., Hans Hjertquist, 10, of 99 Bloomfield Terrace, and Duane Gilboe, 10, of 231 S. Tilden Ave.

Still Open to Some Pontiac Boys, Girls Play, Learn at Camp

Fun—and plenty of it—is the password for hundreds of Pontiac school children who have been enjoying the "Frog Hollow Day Camp" operated by the City Parks and Recreation Dept.

Already nearly 400 kids—boys from 7 to 13 and girls from 9 through 12—have spent five days (they return home at night) living and learning outdoor life in the Highland and Pontiac Lake Recreation Areas.

Leonard T. Buzz, recreation director of the department, said 15 vacancies for boys 7 and 8 years old exist for the last two day periods, July 30 to Aug. 3 and Aug. 6 through Aug. 10.

The camp has been operating each summer since 1948 and the demand becomes greater each year, Buzz reported.

RIDE SCHOOL BUSES

The children board school buses at the Court House at 9 a. m. five days a week headed for a day of fishing, hiking, campcraft, camp cooking, adventure trips and many more activities. The buses return each evening at 4:15.

Director of the day camp is Vic Lindquist, 33, of Waterford Township who has six counselors or unit leaders and two high school students working with him.

Program May Face Delays

Senate OKs Housing Limit but Puts Action on House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, backing down on public housing, looked to the House to give ground today on other features of a bill to continue the government's vast housing program.

The House, which passed the bill yesterday after a long stalemate, now may either accept the Senate changes or send the measure to a conference committee.

By a standing vote, the Senate last night accepted House-fixed limit of 70,000 units of low rental housing to be started in the next two years.

The House had served notice it would not go beyond that figure, the total the administration had requested.

The Senate had voted previously for construction of 135,000 federally subsidized units a year until a total of 500,000 had been built for persons in low-income brackets, plus 75,000 additional units specially designed for elderly occupants. These were to have been built at a rate of 15,000 a year for five years, with no overall dollar limit spelled out.

On other features of the multi-billion-dollar omnibus housing bill, however, the Senate refused to budge.

It threw out every other provision the House had passed, sub-

Congress May Wind Up Session Friday

WASHINGTON (AP)—An adjournment-bent 84th Congress tackled another heavy load of work today with many of its weary members expecting the final gavel to bang sometime tomorrow.

A few optimists thought there was a faint chance to get through late tonight. Some pessimists talked about Saturday.

Truist Electrocuted While Digging Worms

PENDLETON, Ind. (AP)—A trust from Gladstone, Mich., was electrocuted yesterday at the Indiana reformatory while trying to force fishing worms from the ground with a steel rod attached to a 220-volt line.

Killed was Robert L. Blair, 36, a parole violator serving one to 10 years for car theft. He was sentenced in 1947.

A reformatory official said Blair was working outside the walls at a reservoir where prisoners sometimes fish. Officials said the rod apparently touched water or damp ground.

STUDY SHOPPING HABITS—Two years of extensive research are packed into the county marketing survey being discussed by three area civic leaders and a University of Michigan business expert, each of which was active in compiling statistics covering 22 Oakland County communities. Left to right: J. Robert F. Swanson, chairman of the Oakland County Planning Commission; Dr. William Carey, assistant director of the U-M Bureau of Business Research; Delos Hamlin, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors; and Charles Mortensen, chairman of the commission's Retail Advisory Committee. The report was released to the public yesterday at a luncheon in Bloomfield Hills. Principal finding was that four out of every five shoppers covered in an analysis of the shopping habits of over 19,000 families do their shopping in Oakland County.

Michigan Costs Scaring Industry

Business Blames Taxes, Wages, Fringe Benefits for Moving Out

LANSING (U) — The Michigan Manufacturers' Assn. says high labor costs, high taxes and a state administration unfavorable to business is driving industry out of Michigan.

The charges were made by John C. McCurry, general manager of the Michigan Manufacturers' Assn. representing 1,700 firms.

McCurry painted a dismal picture of the state's economic climate in testimony yesterday before the Senate Interim Labor Committee.

The committee, headed by Sen. Robert E. Faulkner (R-Coloma), is investigating effect of taxes on job opportunities in the state.

TELLS ABOUT POLL

Most of McCurry's testimony dealt with a poll of MMA members, to determine what manufacturers think of the state.

Sen. Garland Lane (D-Flint), only Democratic member of the committee, asked McCurry if some of the manufacturers replying to the poll had used it as a "political sounding board."

"Certainly some of them, maybe, but I think the vast majority are sincere," McCurry answered. McCurry said the poll established that high labor costs, high fringe benefits and high taxes—in that order—are the main reasons why some industries are moving to other states.

He said 173 of the 231 companies replying to the poll said costs of doing business in Michigan increased out of proportion to costs in other states.

Of the 172 companies complaining of high costs, 41 firms, or 24 per cent, said they had transferred part of their operation to other states.

And he said 78 of the 172 companies said high costs had cut down the number of jobs.

3 From Pontiac Studying Alcoholism

Three Pontiac residents are attending the Yale Summer School of Alcohol Studies on Michigan State Board of Alcoholism Scholarships.

Dr. Leon F. Cobb, physician, the Rev. Fred R. Tiffany of the Bethany Baptist Church, and Mrs. Frances W. Kessler, public health nurse in the City Health Department, are among 25 from Michigan attending the course.

Purpose of the course is to give people a better understanding of alcoholism as it relates to their profession and to prepare them to serve as resource people in their communities.

Gina to Decide Soon: Motherhood or Film

PARIS (INS)—Gina Lollobrigida has a big decision to make—whether to star in a new film or to have a baby.

Gina reportedly told producer Sam Goldwyn that she and her husband want a baby.

The people who hear such things in Paris say Gina agreed to make up her mind between motherhood and movie-making for Goldwyn within a week.

HERE'S HOW YOU DO IT — Three members of the Pontiac League of Women Voters yesterday received their introduction to voting machines which will be used for the first time in the city in the Aug. 7 primary. Instructing Mrs. Harry Aten, Mrs. Harry Killian, and Mrs. George Wyman is Keith Spaulding, representative of the Automatic Voting Machine Corp. of Jamestown, N. Y. Beginning next week, league members will conduct demonstrations for Pontiac voters at the City Hall and Pontiac State Bank. Some 35 precinct election workers also received instruction from Spaulding yesterday.

Voting Machine Instruction Is Started Here

Voting machines will make their Pontiac debut in the city's 44 voting precincts in the coming Aug. 7 primary election. Gone are the familiar paper ballots used by the city since around 1837.

On Feb. 7, the Pontiac City Commission approved the rental of 80 voting machines on a one-year trial basis. After the trial, it will be up to the commissioners to decide whether to purchase the machines for permanent use or revert back to paper ballots.

In preparation for the coming election, two representatives of the Automatic Voting Machine Corp. of Jamestown, N. Y. yesterday instructed members of the Pontiac League of Women Voters and city election workers on the new machines.

To help instruct city voters using the machines for the first time, two machines will be set up beginning Monday and lasting through Friday at the City Hall and the Pontiac State Bank. League members will be available to assist voters during regular banking hours and from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the City Hall.

Keith Spaulding, one of the representatives, demonstrated to the women the simplicity of the operation of voting machines. When asked how long it took to vote, Spaulding voted an imaginary ticket in seconds.

Assisting Spaulding and City Clerk Ada E. Evans in briefing election workers was Birmingham City Clerk Irene Hanley. Birmingham received its first voting machine in 1955.

Spaulding emphasized along with his fellow representative James H. Jensen, the four basic steps in the operation of these machines. They are:

- (1) Pull main operating handle from left to right until bell rings. This step closes curtains around voter and prepares machine for voting.
- (2) Push selective primary lever

Something to Do!

NEW YORK — One estimate of the total energy consumed in the world since the birth of Christ says it is equivalent to the burning of 400 to 500 billion tons of coal.

to either Republican or Democratic party. This automatically declares voter's party choice and prevents him or her from "splitting ticket."

- (3) Pull down pointers over names of candidates desired. For Pontiac voters, a "yes" or "no" pointer must be pulled down to decide a chartered amendment on joining the city employee pension plan with Social Security.

- (4) Return main operating handle from right to left. This opens curtains and records your vote.

Voters still must sign in at the precinct and be registered in the poll book as in paper ballot elections.

A miniature model of the voting machine will be available for voters to go through the four steps before voting.

Crippled Jet Levels Building

Pilots Bail Out Safely, 7 at Site Hospitalized for Shock

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (U) — A stricken Air Force jet training plane dropped out of the twilight sky last night, crashed into a building housing a grocery store and apartments, and burst into flames, leveling the structure.

The two crewmen bailed out of the plane shortly before it crashed. They suffered only minor bruises as they landed in a field eight miles away.

Only Mrs. Sylvester Bockum was in the building when the plane hit. She ran screaming to safety and was hospitalized for shock. Six other persons also were treated for shock.

Fire Lt. Welling Pulford estimated damage to the building and its contents at about $75,000.

Crewmen aboard the plane were Lt. W. K. Ryan and Lt. G. E. McCleod, who were en route from Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, N.Y., to Chanute Field, Ill. The craft was based at Perrin AFB, Tex.

Ryan and McCleod told police their plane developed mechanical difficulty and they ran out of fuel while they were trying to reach the Greater Pittsburgh Airport, some 50 miles south of New Castle.

Proposes One-Day Census for U.S.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Nose-counting in the 1960 census might be completed in one day, says a census bureau official, if all his workers had to do was count noses. Conrad Tseuber, assistant director of the census, said the bureau is considering a short form questionnaire that would drastically cut the time required to count the nation's population. He said much of the information now sought on a universal basis could be acquired in subsequent sampling.

A Story of a Sandwich — With One Endorsement

NEW YORK (AP) — A little shop specializes in hero sandwiches—king-sized buns split down the middle for filling. The proprietor found a printed story quoting a dentist who said hero sandwiches are good for the teeth. He had it enlarged, and before hanging it on the wall of his shop, showed it to a customer who had just purchased one of the big sandwiches. The proprietor turned to hang up his new sign. The customer took his first bite and began to yell. He had broken his lower plate. The hanging of the sign was delayed until the customer left. North Carolina's population density is 81 persons per square mile.

TODAY'S ASSIGNMENT FOR: JUNIOR EDITORS

FUN ON THE FARM — 4

Big Billy Butter

Even a small farm has many animals, such as cows, calves, horses, a dog, and perhaps a goat or two. Some people like goat's milk, and it makes very good cheese.

Here is Billy Butter, who has a very pleasant life roaming around the orchard nibbling the nice green grass and munching apples. There is nothing he enjoys so much as butting into things, and that is how he got his name.

Here he is running head-on into a tree, which has a sign "Private Keep Out."

Color this picture with your crayons. Billy is white with brown spots scattered over him. Paste on cardboard, and cut out the parts carefully.

Fold the small left flap under and fold the larger one forward on the dotted line. Cut the dotted slit near the bottom. Slip the goat down into the slit so that the lower edge rests on the table top when you stand the picture up.

Give him a push up his hind feet and he will move along the ground and butt the tree.

(This idea came first from Rollo D. Tullerger, Windsor, Vt. Perhaps you have a suggestion for Junior Editors. If so, send it in care of this newspaper, and you may win $10. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newfeatures).

RING AROUND THE RHINOS — Going even a step further than the courageous bullfighters, Herman Nelz, zoo keeper at the Hellabrunn Zoo in Munich, plays torero with two oversized rhinos.

"Kifaru," (left), and "Heinz" are tearing holes in the legend of the ferocity of rhinos — the playful pachyderms even let Nelz ride on their backs.

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Aeronautics Commission has authorized advertising in trade journals and other media in its search for a new director to replace Lester J. Maitland, who resigned July 7.

H. J. Norton, commission chairman, said after a meeting Wednesday that the group had set 10 requirements as necessary for the successful candidate for the post. One of them is 10 years of responsible administrative experience, preferably including time in some phase of aeronautics.

About 13 per cent of U.S. spending units (families and single people) had incomes over $7,500 in 1955 compared to 6 per cent in 1950.

The Blonde Cried MURDER

By Brett Halliday

XXIV

Will Gentry removed his cigar from between his teeth and nodded. "Anything else occur to you, Mike?"

Shayne shook his head. "I don't see how Mr. Raine can help us any more than that. You didn't search the body?" he added.

"Naturally not," Raine was quite properly indignant. "I could see it was murder right away and I didn't touch him."

Gentry got up to shake his hand. "Thanks for being so cooperative, Mr. Raine. You're not pulling out right away?"

"No for 10 days at least."

"A man outside will drive you back to the pier," Gentry told him. "Have him stop some place for you to buy cigarettes." He shrugged when the door closed behind the man.

"I know," Shayne scowled angrily. "But you can't get away from the gal who tried to force $140 bucks on me at 10 o'clock to pick the guy up at the Silver Glade."

JUST MARK TIME

Gentry drummed fingertips on his desk irritably. "There's a telephone listed for Barnes at that New York address. It didn't answer. I phoned the police to get anything they could on Barnes. And I've got a detective driving down to Jax with a picture of Bert and Nellie Paulson. Nothing to do but mark time, I guess."

Shayne squirmed uncomfortably in his chair. He wished, now, that he had told Gentry in the beginning about sending the girl to Lucy's apartment. In a sense, he looked on her as a client, and until he knew more about the case he had instinctively withheld the information that would have automatically brought her in for police interrogation.

He was roused from his brief reverie by a tap on the door and the entrance of Sergeant Hopkins of the Identification Squad.

He was young and square-jawed and had a crew-cut, and was not in uniform. He nodded incuriously to Shayne, stood stiffly in front of the desk and reported, "I'm just back the Hibiscus, sir. We gave 316 the works."

WE GOT NOTHING

"Well?" Gentry rumbled.

"We got nothing, I'm afraid. Photographs of the bed with careful lighting indicates someone was lain heavily on it since it was made up. We found no blood-stains. One set of fingerprints pretty well all over, in places that indicate they must be from the occupant of the room—another set that we checked out as the hotel maid. Prints of an unidentified man on the door-frame and the back of a chair."

When he stopped, Shayne broke in. "What about the windows?"

The sergeant regarded him stolidly. "Only the occupant's prints there. One of the screens is latched and probably hasn't been opened for months. The other opens easily and there was no dust underneath or on the sill." He shrugged and added, "On the other hand, the maid says she quite likely opened it herself recently in cleaning up the room."

Shayne let out a deep sigh. "I guess that puts it straight up to me."

"Puts what up to you?" Gentry was instantly and suspiciously alert.

Shayne grinned at him. "The girl who claims he's her brother." Gentry's heavy black brows came down threateningly. "You told me she ran out on you. Down your fire escape and disappeared."

I KNOW SHE IS

"She did. But I somehow forgot to mention that before she went into the kitchen I'd given her Lucy's address with a note to Lucy, and told her to go there."

"Do you mean to say you're got reasons to think she's at Lucy's now?"

Shayne kept his grin working and said lightly, "I can do better than that. I know she is. Remember when Lucy telephoned? That was to say she'd arrived safely."

Shayne reached for the telephone hastily as a rumble of anger spilled out from between Gentry's thick lips. "You've got to admit we're lucky to have her on tap this way." He gave Lucy's number into the phone.

IS SHE IN BED?

He listened to her phone ring five times before she answered. Then her voice sounded curiously thick, and the words were fuzzy at the edges. "Hello. Who is this?"

"Mike. Have you been asleep?"

"Just dozed off, I guess."

"Well, get yourself waked up," he said impatiently. "Both of you. I'm on my way over."

"Both of us? What do you mean, Michael?"

"Miss Paulson. Is she in bed?"

"But she left, Michael."

"What? When? I sent her there for you to take care of her."

"You didn't tell me I was to look her in, did you? How was I to keep her here if she decided not to stay?"

"When did she leave, Lucy? What did she say?"

"Fifteen or 20 minutes ago. She didn't say anything. Just thank you for the drink and I took I go home now. And she went."

Shayne slammed the phone down to prevent himself from taking any more of his sickening anger out on Lucy. He looked up, bracing himself to meet Gentry's fierce gaze, and said unnecessarily:

"She's ducked out on us, Will."

Accidents Analyzed

WASHINGTON—Case studies of fatal highway accidents in two representative states—one rural, one urban—indicate that most accidents happen on straight and dry roads, in broad daylight, and in clear weather. Mechanical or equipment defects were found in only 23 of 950 vehicles involved and nearly half the accidents involved only one vehicle.

Days of Fighter Pilot Are Numbered

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (NEA)—The days of the fighter pilot are numbered.

The future is a little longer for the bomber pilot. But he's already a self-styled "black box bus driver" facing technological unemployment. Black box is the name for electronic pilot aids.

A "named missile" is what they call the new 1,500-mile-per-hour Lockheed F-104 Starfighter. And F-104 units will have to be scattered around to be "pointed" at possible targets, more like missiles. This will take a reshuffling of fighter base locations.

The F-104 has electronic devices which lock it on a collision course with an enemy plane. Its shells and missiles are fired automatically.

But if the plane misses on the first pass it probably will not get another crack at the same enemy. The F-104's turn is so wide its radar goes out of range of the initial target.

THEY MUST HIT

Thus, F-104 squadrons must be disbursed at bases in the expected path of enemy planes. They must hit on the first pass. Circling to find an enemy plane is virtually impossible at speeds near 1,500 mph.

On his intercept mission the F-104 pilot takes the plane off, pushes a button when his radar shows his target, then lands the plane after a hit or miss.

The next step, to remove the pilot from the plane, is now feasible. Pilotless planes, or missiles, can be made to take off and land automatically. Such test missiles are already being flown from Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., the long range missile test center.

EXHAUST ATTRACTS

Rocket missiles fired from the F-104 which "home" on a target with sensitive "heat-seeking" controls are a vital part of the plane's complex weapon system.

The heat generated by the friction of an enemy plane with the air, for example, is enough to attract this heat-seeking missile. The hot exhaust gas of a jet engine also attracts it.

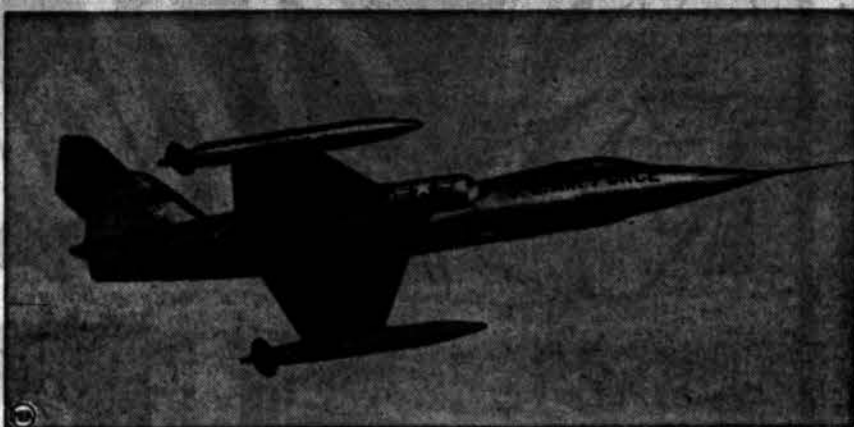

The new giant B-52 bomber is loaded with black boxes. But two new ones especially designed by Sperry Rand Corp. for the B-52 take a new area of responsibility away from the pilot.

One of the most frightening bomber pilot problems has been the necessity to fly a perfectly straight and level course over the target so that the bombardier could line it up properly.

This is now licked by the B-52's bombing system. Optical and radar target information is "fed" into it by the bombardier as he approaches the target.

With the help of the black boxes this information then permits the plane to take automatic evasive action to avoid enemy aircraft and ground fire on the final bombing run.

"MANNED MISSILE" — That's what they call the 1,500-mile-per-hour F-104 Starfighter. Pilot does little more than take off and land; the next step will be to get rid of him.

U.S. on Threshold of A-Energy Find

SAN FRANCISCO (U)—A member of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) comments he believes the United States is "on the threshold of other spectacular demonstrations" of peaceful use of atomic energy.

Commissioner Harold Vance, in an address prepared for the 60th annual convention of the National Association of Railroad Utilities Commissioners, offered no amplification of his statement.

It was made in connection with a discussion of the atomic submarine Nautilus and of a study of nuclear powered merchant ships. But conceivably, he might have been referring to atomic powered airplanes and locomotives.

The most recent word from the AEC on atomic aircraft has been that such planes are "only a few years distant."

Atom-powered locomotives, the AEC has said, are technically feasible but there is no great possibility that they would be economically feasible in the next 10 to 20 years.

One Definition

ROME (INS) — Movie actress Franca Valeri provides this spring-time criteria for how deeply in love a man is: "He is as deeply in love as he appears silly on the surface."

The other new Sperry black box, called parameter control, automatically determines the exact force needed on the B-52's control surfaces to obtain the maneuver desired by the pilot. In other words, it prevents the pilot from "over-controlling" or

"under-controlling" his plane.

It also automatically compensates for outside conditions such as high turbulence. Also, improved instrument landing aids on the B-52 almost land the plane completely automatically.

Borge's Act Given Razzing in Denmark

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (U)—Victor Borge heard a few catcalls from the balcony during his comedy-at-the-piano act last night for delegates to the International Congress of Pediatrics.

"Evidently," he said, "there are a few people here who cannot handle good Danish beer."

Then he returned to the piano and resumed his English-language monologue for the gathering, made up of persons of many languages.

The catcalls became louder.

"It seems someone doesn't like this act," Borge said. "I hope you have enjoyed yourselves."

He turned and walked off stage. The audience of more than 2,000 applauded him thunderously. The hecklers described as Frenchmen annoyed because the performance was in English — departed.

Borge returned, smiled and said: "The reason I left the stage was because it was too hot. You can see I have changed my suit." He finished his act and took three curtain calls.

Police Are Puzzled—Why the Concrete Trucks?

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (U)—Can you imagine several heavy concrete-mixing trucks charging into each other, then backing off and ramming again? It happened at a concrete supply company garage.

Night prowlers drove the trucks out of the building, banged them into each other several times, then parked them back inside, police said. Damage: $300; explanation: None.

Army Facing Overseas Cut

Trimming Size Means Bringing Troops Home, Taylor Testifies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army, faced with prospect of more manpower cuts, has suggested to Congress that further reductions must mean trimming forces overseas.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, in testimony which the Senate Airpower Investigating subcommittee made public today, said that the system of rotating troops on overseas duty is involved.

"We have found out from experience and simple mathematics," he told the committee, "that we can maintain about 40 per cent of our Army overseas as against 60 per cent at home. We are about that ratio now."

"Hence, if we reduce the Army's strength, and we are just about at that point now, inevitably that would mean reduction of overseas deployments."

Although no defense official has denied persistent reports that further reductions in armed forces manpower are coming, primarily as the result of increased firepower and range of new weapons, the Pentagon insists specific figures are not yet decided. Thus, Adm. Arthur Radford recently discounted a published report that an 800,000 over-all reduction in armed forces, with the Army the chief target, would be made within the next four years.

Present strength of the Army is about 1,039,000 men, including those deployed overseas. The bulk of this overseas deployment is in Europe, over 200,000 men.

'The Master of Sarcasm'Was Shaw Really Great?
Critics, Irish Can't Agree

CHICAGO — In Dublin there is dispute whether George Bernard Shaw was a very great Irishman or an imposter, but no such argument marred the start of Chicago's celebration of the 100th anniversary of his birth.

That the late Irish playwright might come in for some barbs as well as bouquets was in prospect, however, since there was no advance word of what might be said at a symposium entitled "The Many Sides of Shaw."

Such diverse personalities as playwright William Saroyan, Socialist Norman Thomas, author A. C. Spector and Shaw Biographer Archibald Henderson will discuss the various aspects of Shaw's life—that is, Shaw as a playwright, prophet, poet, pundit, philosopher, prankster and puritan.

Shaw died Nov. 2, 1950 at the age of 94, but judging from the activities under way here as part of Chicago's officially proclaimed Shaw Day, it would seem he was very much alive. The arrogant Irishman with the sarcastic tongue never visited Chicago but is quoted as once describing it as "America, with the lid off."

The Adult Education Council of Chicago, which was the prime mover behind the celebration, claims the tribute in Chicago is the biggest Shaw centenary observation in the world.

The program ranges from a Shaw game at Arlington Park race track to meekless meals—in recognition of Shaw's admiration of fine horses and dedication as a vegetarian.

'HE'S AN IMPOSTER'

Here for multiple activities which will wind up with a theater tribute tonight are theatrical personalities, society folks, Shavian students, authors, playwrights and politicians.

Whatever they may say or do probably will in no way alter the dispute involving two members of the Irish Parliament. It began recently when Sean Dunne, a Labor member, said that a statue of Shaw stored in the basement of Dublin's National Gallery should be placed on public display, since this was the centenary of Shaw's birth in Dublin and also because Shaw "was a very great Irishman." Patrick Giles, a government coalition member, objected, saying Shaw "was an imposter."

SELF-PORTRAITS

There will also be a dedication of a Shaw room in the Sherman Hotel, where Shavian mementoes will be kept on permanent display. Also to be exhibited will be 12 drawings—including two self-portraits—by Shaw.

Allied forces conducted 61 major amphibious landings during World War II. None failed.

LONDON — George Bernard Shaw, who loved a fight, would have chuckled over the controversy raging today on the 100th anniversary of his birth.

Was Shaw really great? Was he the reformer he pretended to be? Will his name be inscribed on the roll of immortals of English literature?

Critics can't agree. Some feel that the arrogant Irishman with the sarcastic tongue will fade with the years—still read but not revered. Shaw supporters think his greatness will grow with time.

LOST RESPECT

One thing is already evident—Shaw has failed to command the respect of the masses he so often ridiculed.

Stafford - on - Avon, Shakespeare's birthplace, is a mecca for tourists and Britons alike. They come by the thousands as if to a shrine.

An attempt to create a Shaw memorial fund of $100,000 was a flop. Sponsors gave up the idea after five years of campaigning raised $1,139.

Shaw's rambling home at Ayot St. Lawrence, where he did much of his writing, was rented out only last week by a government agency charged with preserving historic landmarks.

PUNY TRIBUTE

The centenary of Shaw's birth has been virtually ignored in London's West End theaterland. Not one of his plays is showing—though the Old Vic off the beaten path is presenting two weeks of "Major Barbara."

SHALLOW RATIONALIST

Frank Jackson, theater critic for Reynolds News, commented: "Some celebration! This puny tribute to a great writer is a national scandal."

The St. Louis-born British poet T. S. Eliot once described Shaw as a "shallow rationalist." Colin Wilson, brilliant young author of "The Outsider," challenges Eliot's assessment and predicts Shaw will gain "permanent and vital position, not merely in world literature, but in world history."

"His figure is far too vast for our age to be able to comprehend," says Wilson. Shaw died six years ago at the age of 94.

All in One Package

TORRINGTON, Wyo. — Goshen County Sheriff Ken Doby has no trouble remembering his wedding anniversary—June 7. It's also his birthday and his 2-year-old son's birthday.

SIGN CONTRACTS — Carol Morris (seated) of Ottumwa, Iowa, named Miss Universe in last week's beauty pageant at Long Beach, Calif., and two runners-up in the contest are pictured yesterday as they signed film contracts with Universal-International Studio. The contracts were among awards won by the girls. Left to right: Marina Orschel, who as Miss Germany, finished second in the competition; Ingrid Goude, Miss Sweden, who was third; Miss Morris, and a studio representative.

Disaster Traced to Faulty Radar Gear

By International News Service
Three years after her maiden voyage to New York, the Andrea Doria, sleek Italian luxury liner, lies on the bottom of the Atlantic under 350 feet of water.

Victim of a midnight collision with the Swedish ship Stockholm, the Andrea Doria sailed from Genoa, Italy, for New York with 1,634 aboard. Five died in the collision.

Preliminary investigation by the U.S. Coast Guard indicated "radar failure" was probable cause of the collision. A spokesman for the Italian Lines said the ship was equipped with the most modern radar equipment and was fully able to navigate under the worst weather conditions. Further investigation was to start immediately. Italy, Sweden and the United States are expected to join in the probe. Officials from both steamship lines were flying to New York from Europe to start their investigation.

STOCKHOLM OFF COURSE
The Coast Guard report indicated the Stockholm was "out of its regular steamer track" and should have been considerably south of Nantucket Lighthouse.

International law requires ships to stop or reduce speed in fog, to navigate with caution and to avoid approaching another vessel closer than one-half the distance of the remaining visibility.

Quick cooperation by the Stockholm and ships in the area averted what could have been the biggest maritime disaster since the sinking of the Titanic in April, 1912.

A swarm of mercy ships, fighting fog and darkness converged on the scene after receiving an SOS from the dying vessel. Within an hour help was arriving. Taking on survivors were such ships as the giant Ile de France, the U.S. Navy's Campbell, the Tamaroa, Hornbeam, Hawthorne, Evergreen, Yezton, Yakuta and Owasco.

Also on hand was the Military Sea Transport Service vessel, the Pvt. William Thomas, and the aircraft carrier Tarawa.

When the Andrea Doria began to list, the angle was so severe, lifeboats couldn't be lowered safely.

RESCUED LIKE FISH
Hastily strung jacks ladders and cargo netting were dropped over the side for passengers to scramble into the calm sea. Passengers and crew too old or too young to crawl down the ladders safely were scooped up in cargo nets—like fish—and hoisted over the sides by derricks.

The 27 million dollar Andrea Doria flashed its first SOS at 11:35 p.m. while about 50 miles off Nantucket Island. It was unable to launch a single lifeboat or raft.

Shortly after the crash the Stockholm began relaying all messages from the Andrea Doria which was forced to switch on its emergency power.

Aboard the Stockholm were 480 passengers, including 212 Americans. She had sailed with traditionally gay ceremonies from New York earlier that day.

The 12,600-ton Swedish ship's No. 1 hold was "stove in and flooded with water," a Coast Guard spokesman reported, but was limping back to New York, expecting to reach there later today. The Stockholm reported only "bad damage" but did not specify her troubles.

Newsmen flying over the disaster scene reported the entire bow of the Stockholm appeared to be sliced off "as clean as a whistle."

Closer examination, however, revealed the bow had been crushed inward "like an accordion, with a slight twisting to the right like a fighter with a broken nose." At least 30 feet of the bow was a mangled hunk of scrap metal, they said.

LAUNCHED IN 1951

The once-proud Andrea Doria was launched from the Ansaldo shipyards in Genoa June 16, 1951. She displaced 29,950 tons with a full load and was 697 feet long and 90 feet wide.

She carried one stack, had 19 decks, cruised at 23 knots and was powered by turbine engines churning up 50,000 horsepower. The name—Andrea Doria—is that of a 16th Century Italian admiral.

Completely air conditioned, the ship was elegantly modern and had floors covered with hand-woven rugs and walls lined with sheepskin and aluminum. It made the Naples-to-New York run in eight days.

The Stockholm, recently out of drydock, is 525 feet long and can carry 586 passengers.

Have to Find a Way Home

Wreck Strands Hundreds of U. S. Tourists in Italy

ROME (U)—The collision of the Andrea Doria and the Swedish liner Stockholm left hundreds of Americans in Italy wondering today how and when they can get home.

The luxurious Italian liner was scheduled to leave Genoa on its next sailing for New York Aug. 14. More than 1,100 persons had booked passage.

"It's the very height of the west-bound tourist season," said an official of a large tourist agency. "Everything from Italy is booked up solid. But one way or another, it will have to be worked out."

Among the survivors of the ocean liner collision in the North Atlantic were 29 Michigan residents, all passengers on the Swedish ship Stockholm.

Capt. Gunnar Nordenson, 63-year-old master of the motor ship Stockholm, is a native of Quincy, Mass., and went to sea at the age of 18. During his 36 years with the Swedish American line, he has served on all of its passenger liners, including the first Kungsholm, now the Home Line Italia.

The master of the stricken Italian luxury liner Andrea Doria is Piero Calamai, 59, scion of an Italian family with generations of seafaring experience.

The outstanding peacetime ship disaster in recent history was the sinking of the Titanic in 1912. The Titanic, on her maiden voyage, struck an iceberg and sank, taking a toll of 1,517, many of them prominent in the world's business and social life.

Americans in Debt, but Economy's Solid

PALO ALTO, Calif. (U)—More people owe more money for more things than ever before in this country but there's not too much to worry about, Dr. Martin R. Gainsbrugh indicated today at the Stanford University Business Conference.

Consumers "are in an extremely strong position," the New York economist said in a prepared address, because of the assets against which they have borrowed. He explained:

"Over a third still have neither mortgage nor short term debt and at least another fifth have savings well in excess of their short term debts."

A sounder credit base is being built, the chief economist for the National Industrial Conference Board said, through voluntary pooling of installment credit instead of through specific control.

On the other side of the picture, he noted that the rapid growth of debt in the past decade and debt management together form a major problem.

Group Seeks Ceiling on Life Insurance

A ceiling of $20,000 to $40,000 on group life insurance coverage for individuals will be sought from the State Legislature at its next session, officials of the Michigan State Assn. of Life Underwriters said yesterday.

Under the recommended formula, the amount of group term insurance on any one person would be limited to $20,000, or 1 1/2 times his annual compensation, but with a maximum amount of $40,000. Purpose of the move is to bring about a sounder life insurance plan for the public, according to Curtis E. Patton, of Pontiac's Great West Life, vice president of the newly-formed association. Patton pointed out that some 20 states have similar ceilings and others are expected to adopt them at future legislative sessions.

Army Stakes New Missile Claim

WASHINGTON (U) — The Army has staked out a new claim to use any and all surface-to-surface missiles, regardless of range.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, told a Senate Armed Services subcommittee recently that the Army is under no limitation, either by interservice agreement or Joint Chiefs of Staff action, as to the range of missiles it may use.

Taylor's testimony, made public today by the subcommittee investigating relative U.S.-Soviet airpower, appeared to clash with Air Force claims to primary responsibility in the ballistic missiles field.

The Army chief also foresaw the times when Army-controlled missiles will take over one of the Air Force's assigned functions—providing close support for Army ground units.

While Taylor was in the witness chair, Chairman Symington (D-Mo.), a former Air Force secretary, asked the general whether the Key West interservice agreement of 1948 justifies Army use of the 1,500-mile intermediate range missile. (The Key West agreement, still in force, is the basic memorandum of understanding among the armed forces spelling out roles and missions.)

"Yes, sir," Taylor replied, "because that paper says specifically that the role of the Army is sustained ground combat, and the destruction of hostile ground forces, and the 1,500-mile missile will do just that."

Symington wanted to know if the Key West agreement or any other "working papers" put any limit on the range of missiles used by the Army.

"Nothing affecting surface-to-surface missiles," Taylor replied. At another point the general said that "JCS has never restricted range with respect to surface-to-surface missiles."

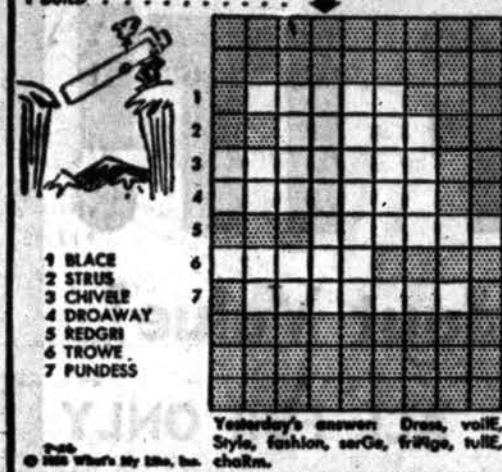

A surface-to-surface missile is one fired from the ground against targets on the ground. It includes such weapons as the Air Force's projected intercontinental ballistic missile, the intermediate range ballistic missile and the Army-Navy IRBM project. Specifications for an ICBM call for a 5,000-mile range; for an IRBM, 1,500 miles. Both types of missiles will mount hydrogen or fission warheads.

Behind Taylor's remarks obviously was the philosophy that in using missiles, of whatever range, the Army is merely extending its traditional artillery fire.

The Air Force considers itself the agency for both strategic (long range) air bombardment and tactical support of ground forces (with tactical application extending anywhere from a few hundred yards in front of friendly armies to 1,500 miles in the enemy's rear.)

Farmer Defies Market, Gives Melons Away

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (U) — A farmer who wouldn't sell a truckload of cantaloupes at the market price of 25 cents a bushel gave them away.

Norman R. Satterfield left the Birmingham Farmers Market when the price of cantaloupes dropped from 50 cents to 25 cents a bushel. He parked his truck downtown and passed out the cantaloupes to passers-by.

"I believe in selling things, but selling them for two bits a bushel just wouldn't be selling," he said. Satterfield estimates he gave away about 250 cantaloupes in 20 minutes.

Cuba Semi-Tropical

HAVANA — Cuba's annual average temperature is about 76 degrees. The climate is semi-tropical. The rainy season is from mid-May to November, the dry season from December through April.

'Sincerely' Is Latin for 'Without Wax'

ROME — When you sign a letter, "Sincerely yours," you are really saying, "Yours without wax." And you are using a saying that goes back to ancient Rome.

In those days bad potters used wax to conceal cracks in pots. The flaws could not be detected till the buyer tried to cook in the vessels and the wax melted. A pot without wax was genuine, and so the phrase, "sine cera," came into being—Latin for "without wax."

New Tube-Fitting Line Is Greatly Simplified

CLEVELAND — A simplified line of tube fittings that consist of two parts instead of the conventional three, require no flaring of the tube, and permit reuse of the tubing has been developed by a Cleveland concern.

The fittings incorporate the compression section as an integral part of the nut. They can be used with any type of tubing, metal or plastic, the manufacturer says.

Mountain Lift Cable Breaks

Report 1 Dead, 6 Hurt as Chair-Tow Snaps
in New Hampshire

GILFORD, N. H. (U. P.)—A cable on the 3,200-foot chair-tow up Rowe Mountain at the Belknap recreation area here slipped yesterday. State Police said first reports indicated one dead and six injured.

The injured were taken to Laconia Hospital.

The chair lift is used by skiers in the winter and tourists in the summer. It has a series of mechanically operated open chairs on a cable leading up the side of the mountain in the 800-acre recreation area here.

The lift operates a summer season from Memorial Day to Columbus Day and leads to an observation tower atop the picturesque mountain.

From this vantage point, tourists have one of the finest scenic views in the state—wide expanses of lakes, forests and mountains. On a clear day, the White Mountains can be seen from the peak.

The recreation area, owned and operated by Belknap County, was opened in 1938.

The lift, on the east slope of the mountain, rises a total of only 714 feet along the length of the 3,200-foot cable. The chairs, suspended from the cable, in some places are high over the ground on the trip.

It was the first fatality on any chair, ski or tow lift up New England mountains since their inauguration several years ago. The dead rider was identified as William Kirby, 30, Salem, Mass.

Berries Are Now Plentiful, Use in Variety of Recipes

Pontiac Press Home Editor

This is berry season. Fruit counters are spilling over with blueberries, raspberries, some strawberries and an occasional box of blackberries or boysenberries. With all due respect to frozen fruit, there is nothing, in our estimation, like fresh fruit. Make the most of it now while it is good and relatively inexpensive.

If you're tired of blueberry muffins or blueberries in cream, try this new frozen dessert. It takes six hours to freeze; make it before lunch and serve it for dinner.

Blueberry Cream Freeze
1/2 pint (1 cup) light sour cream
1 can (12-oz.) sweetened condensed milk
1 pint blueberries, pured
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Combine sour cream, sweetened condensed milk, blueberry puree and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Pour into refrigerator tray. Freeze until firm, about 6 hours. Garnish with whipped cream for extra beauty.

Taking much less time than the above dessert, this blueberry recipe requires only minutes for preparation. It's pretty too.

Fresh Blueberry and Pineapple Salad
1 1/2 cups fresh pineapple wedges
1 1/2 cups fresh blueberries

1 tablespoon French dressing
1 head lettuce
8-ounce package cottage cheese
Mayonnaise
Toss pineapple and blueberries lightly with French dressing. Arrange on lettuce with cottage cheese. Serve with mayonnaise, if desired. Yield: 5 servings.

How about a stunning pink dressing for your next fruit salad? Here's one, using fresh raspberries.

Raspberry French Dressing
1/2 cup red raspberries
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup salad oil

Press raspberries through sieve. Add sugar, 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice. Let stand 1 hour.
Mix mustard, salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Gradually add oil, beating with egg beater 'til slightly thickened. Add raspberry mixture in thirds, beating constantly.

A treat on fruit salads. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Baked Alaska French Strawberry Pie
For best results with this pie, have all ingredients ready before making it. Bake a 9-inch pie shell and cool. Prepare 2 cups sliced fresh strawberries and chill. Have 1 pint vanilla ice cream frozen hard.

Make meringue using 3 egg whites beaten until they stand in soft peaks and then, 1-3 cup sugar, gradually beaten into them. Just before serving, set oven control to broil.

Place 1 cup sliced strawberries in the bottom of a cold baked pie crust. Top with ice cream. Sprinkle with the remaining fresh strawberries and cover all with meringue, being sure to have it meet the rim of the crust. Place in the oven (not broiler) 1 minute or until meringue is brown.

Applesauce, Apricot Make Tasty Sundae

Just a few spoonfuls of Junior's Applesauce or Apricot-Applesauce? Add it to any muffin, pancake, waffle, cake or cookie batter for variety and flavor. Strained or junior fruits are popular over gelatin desserts; add them with other fruits to gelatin before it sets. A small gelatin mold is a pleasant addition to a salad plate. Make it a sundae by spooning strained or junior fruit over ice cream.

Foil the Heat
Let's foil the heat. Chilled fruits, especially watermelons or cantaloupes, will remain surprisingly cool for a couple of hours if chilled fruit is first wrapped in foil, then in several layers of paper and a final wrap of heavy-duty foil.

Plenty of Chicken Ready for Wise Shoppers to Buy

Ready for a summer treat? There is a wide selection of locally grown vegetables and small fruits of good quality now offered at reasonable prices. Meat choices are made easier with the supplies of fryers, stewers, and turkeys in the poultry department and the values to be found in red meats.

FRUITS—Excellent variety in homegrown fruits will whet the summer appetite.

Be alert to the local supply of raspberries, and use them in favored desserts. Generally quality is excellent. Avoid berries in stained boxes as this may mean they were picked when overripe or that they have become bruised from handling or from setting too long.

For fresh cherry pie, tart cherries are expected to be more plentiful this week and next. Sweet cherries are seasonal delight when used in fresh fruit salads.

Considering cost per pound, watermelon retains the first place on the fruit list. Quality of peaches arriving from New Jersey and North Carolina is good, and prices now range between 20 and 25 cents a pound.

Currents and gooseberries are suggestions for jelly making or tempting pies.

This week will close the strawberry season in the lower part of Michigan, reports Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, Consumer Marketing Information Agent.

VEGETABLES—Increasing supplies of green vegetables is accompanied by a combination of quality improvement and lower prices.

The list of salad greens grows in importance. New cabbage at 10 to 12 cents a pound is a perfect salad green when used alone or in combination with other foods. Michigan head lettuce adds to the list of state supply and prices are reasonable at 15 to 20 cents a head depending upon size and quality. Leaf lettuce, Romaine, or Bibb are other members of the lettuce family to add new flavor treats.

A host of greens such as turnip, collard, mustard, and beet can be found in many stores and at the Farmer's Markets. Prices are right for the season at about 19 to 29 cents a pound.

Relief is near for potato prices. Michigan's new crop will add to the present stock with a week or two bringing price back to normal.

MEATS—Poultry in the meat department heralds attention again. Broiler production is continuing at record level, even though prices are lower than last year. For the shopper, this allows plenty of chicken at attractive prices. Fryer prices are about 37 to 55 cents a pound depending upon whether these ready to cook birds are cut into frying pieces or left whole.

Chicken thighs, breasts, legs, and other pieces may be the best choice depending upon the number in the family, individual preferences, and the way the pieces are to be used.

Big meaty stewers are a smart meat choice. One stewer can go a long way when used with noodles, in salads, sandwiches, chicken pies, or casseroles.

All types and sizes of turkey are popularly priced for the mid-summer pocket book. Toms, hens, and the small broad breasted turkeys range from about 47 to 65 cents a pound in most markets.

If shopping with economy in mind, consider the best buys in ground meat and chuck cuts.

Even though pork supplies are lighter in summer good values are easy to spot. Both fresh and smoked picnic are thrifty buys at 29 to 39 cents a pound. Hams at about 45 to 49 cents a pound are around ten cents a pound less than they were last year at this time.

Frosty Fruit Salad
(Freeze these salads in individual Custard Cups)
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 package cream cheese (3 oz.)
1 cup orange sections, cut in thirds

1 cup fresh fruit in season (peaches, raspberries, halved pitted cherries, sliced peaches, or pears)
1 cup drained crushed pineapple
1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
1 cup maraschino cherries, cut in halves

1 can whipping cream
Blend mayonnaise and cheese together. Combine with orange sections, prepared fresh fruit, pineapple, nuts, and maraschino cherries.

Whip cream and fold into fruit mixture. Pour into Custard Cups. Set Custard Cups in freezing compartment of refrigerator for about 3 hours, or until frozen.

When salad is frozen, unmold individual salads by slipping a small knife inside Custard Cups around salads. Serve on lettuce, water, cream, or endive. Make 12 servings.

PRELUDE TO A PIE — Mrs. Philip W. Roy (left) of Harvard court had a surplus of rhubarb in her garden. Her neighbors, Mrs. Lester Laidig (center), also of Harvard court and Mrs. Kenneth Lindsay (right) of West Long Lake road came over to pull some of the tangy fruit for pies. Well, it's one way to spend a summer afternoon.

Built-in Eat Appeal Found in New Hybrid Chicken

Any day now you can expect to hear homemakers talking about buying a "robotryer" for dinner.

Topic of their conversation will be a remarkable new four-in-one chicken with built-in eat appeal.

Newest entry in the poultry parade is the Pettie Bird, a specially-developed butterball bird which was introduced here this week in A&P Food Stores super markets.

The Pettie Bird offers positive proof in fresh-frozen form that the "stuck chick" lock is gone forever and the "stylish stout" is here to stay.

MULTIPLE USES

Because the versatile new bird may be roasted, fried, baked or broiled, one poultryman terms it a "robotryer." Other names used to describe the chicken's multiple uses are "fribroast" and "fribroster."

How did the Pettie Bird get that way? It started with the breeding of a special strain of extra White Rock females with an equally top-drawer band of White Cornish males. The breeding males are hard to produce and quite expensive, costing about $2 per day-old chick.

From the breeding stock on carefully-selected farms in Western Michigan, the eggs produced are placed in modern hatcheries. Chicks from the hatcheries go to growers who have agreed to a special rearing and feeding program.

Baby chicks are started on a high protein formula and fed this way for seven or eight weeks. The formula then changes to a high calorie content feed, and the birds are induced to eat as much and exercise as little as possible until 12 to 14 weeks old.

The end result is a dressed chicken usually weighing four to five pounds with mostly white meat, broad breast, heavy legs and thighs, small bones and little waste.

The Pettie Bird is another development in the chicken evolution which has seen the poultry industry grow tremendously in the past decade as consumers responded to improvement of the product.

Golden Chicken Bake

1 Pettie Bird—about 4-6 lbs.
1/2 cup (1 stick) melted butter
1 package refrigerated ready-to-make biscuits

(1) Cut Pettie Bird into portions. Dust portions with flour, salt and pepper; dip in milk and dust again. Place in baking pan, 11x7x2; pour melted butter or margarine over.

(2) Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) about 1 hour. (If smaller chicken is used, bake for 45 minutes.)
Bast chicken with drippings about every 20 minutes. Place biscuits around chicken in pan about 15 minutes before you plan to take chicken out. Your own biscuit recipe can also be used.

Easy to fix recipe for these hot days, and still have a very special dinner.

Fried Chicken Maryland

1 Pettie Bird
1/2 cup flour
1 t. salt
1/2 t. pepper—1/2 t. paprika
3 T. fat

Clean and cut chicken into pieces. Wash carefully and dry, shake in bag with flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Brown chicken quickly in fat—reduce heat, simmer slowly until tender, about 30 minutes. Remove lid and let chicken fry slowly. (When browning quickly be sure there is enough fat to keep chicken from sticking. Enough fat insures a golden brown crust.)

Kentucky Fried Pettie Bird

1 young Pettie Bird
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 t. salt
Dash pepper
1/2 t. paprika
1 egg
1 t. baking powder
1/2 cup milk

Cut chicken into serving portions; steam or stew until tender. Dry and keep cool until time to fry. (This may be done the day before serving if a large quantity is to be cooked.) Just before frying, mix and sift flour, salt, pepper, paprika and baking powder together. Beat egg and add milk.

Combine liquids with dry ingredients. Dip each piece of seasoned chicken into batter and fry in hot deep fat (380 degrees) until brown. Serve hot.

FOR YOUR LEFT-OVERS

3 T. Fat

1 1/2 T. flour
1/2 t. salt, dash pepper
1 cup chicken stock or milk
3 cups diced chicken or turkey
Melt fat, blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add chicken stock and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add chicken and more seasoning if necessary. Serve in macaroni ring. Serves 4.

A Vegetable Medley

Dice carrots and celery, snap beans and white turnips small; cook in one saucepan with a small amount of salted water just until tender. This vegetable medley tastes wonderful when doused with butter and will save you washing several pots.

Pie Session Fills Freezer

On a warm sunny afternoon last week three neighbors in the West Long Lake area got together for a rhubarb-picking session. Mrs. Philip Roy had the rhubarb. Mrs. Lester Laidig and Mrs. Kenneth Lindsay wanted to make the pies. One pie was promised to the rhubarb producer.

We talked with Mrs. Laidig to get her recipe. She made a real production of her pastry making, had three pies to put in the freezer. Here's her recipe.

RHUBARB PIE

By Mrs. Lester Laidig

3 cups cut rhubarb
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
Dash salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
Pastry for 2 crusts

Line pie tin with pastry. Mix other ingredients and fill pie shell. Cover with top crust, cut gashes in top. Bake in a 450-degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake another 25-30 minutes.

Detergent Foods Aid in Cleaning of Teeth

Some foods have the special quality of cleansing the teeth. This is one of the ways in which foods combat tooth decay.

The American Dental Association says: "In addition to toothbrushing, every person should include in his diet, particularly at the end of each meal, some detergent food, such as a citrus fruit. (The word 'detergent' means 'having cleansing qualities'.) Detergent fruits and raw vegetables are nature's toothbrushes. They keep the mouth clean... Examples of the detergent foods are fruits, such as apples and oranges, and uncooked vegetables, such as carrots and celery."

The ADA holds that there is a well established statistical relationship between the kind of food eaten and tooth breakdown.

LO-CAL STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM — Good news for weight watchers is this fresh strawberry ice cream in which the use of pure vanilla extract has made it possible to step up the illusion of sweet, creamy richness while holding down the actual content of sugar and cream.

No Need to Turn Down Ice Cream Thanks to New, Low Calorie Varieties

"I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream"—so went the old song.

And, for too long, the weight watcher had to scream in vain. But now, thanks to some new low calorie ice cream ideas, the palate can be pampered without widening the waistline.

Oddly enough, the secret of these nonfattening ice creams is vanilla, the favorite flavoring for regular ice cream. However, the vanilla this time does not play the dominant flavor role. Rather, it is used to intensify other flavors to the extent that less sugar can be used.

It has been discovered recently that pure vanilla extract can actually bring out the natural sweetness of fruit, for instance, to the point where only a fraction of the usual amount of sugar is needed to produce a satisfyingly sweet dessert.

The pure extract has a similar effect on milk, pointing up its richness and body so that whole milk, or even skim milk, can be substituted for the heavier types of cream usually used.

As an example, fresh peach ice cream for 12 servings would ordinarily call for approximately 1½ cups of sugar and two cups of cream, and would add up in total calorie count to about 150 calories for each serving.

By adding two teaspoons of pure vanilla extract, the illusion of sweet, creamy richness is stepped up while the actual content of sugar and cream is held down so that a serving totals only 57 calories. Comparable calorie reductions can be made in fresh strawberry and coffee ice creams.

Lo-Cal Strawberry Ice Cream

½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg, separated
1½ cups milk
2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
1½ cups fresh strawberries, crushed

Combine sugar, flour, and salt in a saucepan. Add egg yolk and ¼ cup of the milk. Mix well. Stir remaining milk. Cook over low heat until slightly thickened, about 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Cool. Stir in pure vanilla extract. Pour into a freezing tray. Freeze until almost firm.

Turn into a mixing bowl and beat until creamy with an electric or rotary beater. Add unbeaten egg white and beat until mixture has doubled in volume. Fold in crushed strawberries. Return to freezing tray and freeze until firm.

Serve in sherbet glasses. Top each serving with a whole strawberry. Yield: 8 servings.

Calorie count—77 per serving.

Vanilla-Coffee Ice Cream

1 packet (rennet) tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
2 cups skim milk
½ cup sugar
1-16 teaspoon salt
2½ teaspoons instant coffee
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract

Crush rennet tablet and dissolve in cold water. Combine the remaining ingredients and mix well. Heat to lukewarm, stirring constantly. Test a drop on the inside of the wrist frequently. When comfortably warm (110 degrees) remove from heat at once. Add dissolved rennet tablet. Stir a few seconds only. Pour at once while still liquid into an ice cube tray. DO NOT DISTURB FOR 10 MINUTES WHILE MILK SETS.

Place in freezing compartment of refrigerator and freeze until almost firm. Remove from tray, break up with a fork and beat with an electric or rotary beater until fluffy and free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to freezing tray and freeze until firm. Yield: 8 servings.

Calorie count—84 per serving.

Lo-Cal Fresh Peach-Vanilla Ice Cream

1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
1 cup skim milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
1 egg white, unbeaten
4 medium peaches, crushed (1 cup)
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice

Soften gelatine in cold water and set aside. Heat milk and pour over gelatine. Stir in salt, sugar and pure vanilla extract. Turn into an ice-cube tray and freeze to a mush.

Remove from tray and beat with an electric or rotary beater until creamy. Add unbeaten egg white and beat until mixture has doubled in volume. Fold in crushed peaches and lemon juice. Return to freezing trays and freeze until firm and ready to serve. Yield: 12 servings. Calorie count—57 per serving.

Bacon Is an All-Meal Basic in Many Families

Bacon fits into every meal from breakfast to the midnight snack. This recipe combines bacon with a delicious stuffing and serves as a mighty, tempting luncheon.

Combine 2 cups bread crumbs, 1 small finely chopped onion, and 1 tablespoon finely minced parsley. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with hot water. Place 1 teaspoonful on one end of each bacon slice. Roll bacon slice around dressing and fasten with a toothpick.

Broil at a moderate temperature turning frequently to brown all sides.

A silver lame sweater with an attractive U neckline and very short sleeves becomes an elegant, sheathy dinner dress when worn with the silver lame knit skirt.

Refrigerator Not Needed for the Instant Coffee

For years food experts have advised keeping opened, ground coffee in the refrigerator, summer or winter. Don't do this with instant. Just recap your opened, instant container and keep in a dry area. It will not deteriorate. The cold moisture of a refrigerator might cause the instant coffee to solidify.

The larger, more economical container of soluble coffee is just as practical in summer as in winter, and for the same reasons.

Use of Whipped Cream Varies

By JANET ODELL,
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Upon reflection, we find we have never written an article about whipped cream. Perhaps the reason is that we personally never touch it. That is no excuse for not giving you readers some interesting recipes using the fluffy cream.

Cream for whipping should be at least 12 hours old. It is best to have both bowl and beater thoroughly chilled. If beaten in a warm bowl, in a warm place, cream is apt to turn to butter. That can be disconcerting to a hostess who plans to whip cream at the last minute before serving it on a dessert.

If you own a freezer, you can whip cream, drop it by spoonfuls on a cookie sheet and freeze it. Store in plastic bags until time to use it. Just a few minutes out of the freezer is enough.

Cream which is hard to whip will thicken more quickly if a few drops of lemon juice are added to it. For added fluffiness and economy use equal parts of whipped cream and stiffly beaten egg whites. This last should appeal to calorie-counters.

Whipped cream added to a fruit salad dressing makes it fluffy. Try this dressing on a salad of chilled melon rings. Add other fresh fruit or berries in season.

Fluffy Fruit Salad Dressing

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 egg yolks or 2 eggs
1/2 cup pineapple juice
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup lemon juice
Whipping cream

In a saucepan combine beet or cane sugar, flour, mustard, salt and egg yolks or whole eggs. Gradually stir in fruit juices. Place over medium heat and cook until thickened, about 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and pour into pint jar. Cool.

When ready to use, fold in an equal amount of whipped cream. Makes 3/4 cups Fluffy Fruit Dressing.

For a simple, but elegant looking

ANGEL CREAM LOAVES — One of the uses of whipped cream is to "frost" a cake. In this cake the filling between the layers of angel food is ice cream, two flavors of it. The cakes may be made ahead of time and "frosted" just before serving.

dessert combine angel food cake, ice cream and whipped cream. Put the layers of cake and ice cream together ahead of time, add the whipped cream "frosting" and a fruit garnish when you serve it.

Angel Cream Loaves
1 package un-tost angel cake loaf
1 pint chocolate ice cream
1 pint strawberry ice cream
Sweetened whipped cream
Fruit Garnish

Slice cake crosswise into three even layers (use toothpicks in sides of cake as markers for even slices). Soften ice cream slightly. Cut chocolate ice cream into 4 even slices. Arrange on bottom layer of cake. Cut strawberry cream into 4 even slices. Arrange slices on second layer of cake. Spread to cover cake. Cover with top layer.

Cut bar in half or into smaller portions. Wrap securely in foil or other self-sealing material. Store in freezer. Before serving frost with sweetened whipped cream, or if preferred, slice and serve with sweetened strawberries. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

On a cold winter's night hot chocolate with a dollop of whipped cream is a delightful nightcap. During the summer months whipped cream on frosty drinks is equally good.

dessert-drink to serve guests or yourself on warm evenings.

Viennese Velvet
1 quart vanilla ice cream
8 cups hot, double-strength coffee
Whipped Cream

Place one large scoop of vanilla ice cream in each of six tall glasses. Pour hot, double-strength coffee carefully over ice cream until glass is about 2/3 full. Add a second scoop of ice cream and fill glass with coffee.

Garnish with whipped cream, and add a sprinkle of nutmeg if desired. You will need long spoons for the first half of this dessert-beverage, but you will drink the latter half.

For the children, or anyone who does not care for coffee, use whipped cream in a lemonade-like this:

Lemonade Whip
1 can (8 oz.) frozen concentrate for lemonade
1 bottle (24 oz.) chilled ginger ale
Whipped cream for topping

Combine lemonade concentrate with chilled ginger ale. Mix thoroughly and pour into tall glasses. Top each glass with a few spoonfuls of whipped cream. Serves 4. Whipped cream is useful in making refrigerator ice cream. The following recipe uses chocolate milk as a base.
Chocolate Milk Mocha Ice Cream
1/4 cup sugar

SKILLET CLUB FOR MEN

By Frank Kohler

This exquisite dessert is from Mrs. Dorothy Brandon, Fort Worth Star-Telegram Chapter. She says this is a specialty from the Hotel Nationale de Cuba, in Havana. This does handily for six, and is fine summer fare.

Coupe Conchita
1 quart vanilla-ice cream
1 cup shredded coconut
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup red sour pitted cherries
1 cup canned cherry juice
1 teaspoon almond extract
Lady fingers

Combine ice cream with coconut in chilled mixing bowl, mixing quickly with large kitchen fork. Place in freezing compartment of refrigerator and turn indicator to coldest point.

Combine sugar, cornstarch and cherry juice in a small saucepan. Bring to boil over moderate heat, stirring constantly. A few drops of red coloring may be added if desired. Add drained cherries and almond extract. Chill sauce thoroughly.

When ready to serve, separate lady fingers and arrange four halves on each of six chilled ice cream dishes. Spoon the ice cream over, and serve topped with the cherry sauce.

Arroz Con Pollo comes to us from Senor Don Victor Yglesias, San Jose, Costa Rica. We like this very much as a hot dish for a summer night buffet, or as the main works in a Latin American dinner.

1 large frying chicken, cut up
1 cup butter
1 cup onion, sliced

1/2 cup green pepper, sliced
1/2 cup onion, sliced
1/2 cup tomato, sliced
1/2 cup corn, well washed
1/2 cup rice, well washed
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup large stuffed olives, halved
1/2 cup saffron
1/2 cup salt

Put the chicken, a few pieces at a time, in a sack with flour, salt and pepper, and shake to coat well. Fry in the bacon fat in a deep skillet to a golden brown. Remove the chicken, in the meantime, heat a large earthen casserole in a 350 degree oven and arrange the chicken pieces in it.

In the skillet, brown the onion and pepper lightly, then add salt, pepper, water, rice, tomatoes, sugar, olives, saffron and garlic salt and seasonings to taste. Bring to a boil, check the flavor, then pour over the chicken in the casserole and bake at least 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Stir in the peas for the last 15 minutes of cooking.

Oranges Go to Cans

A major part of the Florida orange crop now is canned, making it possible for Americans to have their morning juice the year-round and also saving homemakers almost uncountable hours in squeezing oranges. Last year almost two billion cans were made for single-strength and concentrated orange juice.

Serving ice cream sodas from your own kitchen counter? Use 12 or 14-ounce glasses.

Bake Satisfying Corn Casserole

Try corn for a main course vegetable casserole that is satisfying and delicious. This corn pudding can be made with either fresh or cooked corn, so if you've cooked more sweet corn than you can use, cut it from the cob, refrigerate it, and use it next day in this wonderful corn and mushroom combination.

A No. 303 can holds exactly two cups... if you'd like to use canned corn.

Company Corn Pudding

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup minced green pepper
1/2 cup minced onion
1/2 cup fresh or cooked corn
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup can sliced broiled mushrooms
1 teaspoon salt

Fry the bacon until crisp. Remove from fat and drain. Cook green pepper and onion in 2 tablespoons of the bacon fat, over moderate heat, until the onion is tender and yellow in color.

Mix onion and green pepper together with the corn, bread crumbs, eggs, milk, contents of the can of mushrooms and salt. Add bacon which has been broken into pieces. Pour into buttered casserole, 8"x2".

Top with additional buttered bread crumbs, if desired. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, until pudding is set, about 45 minutes. Makes six servings.

Hearty luncheon salad: Tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese (cream style) and bits of anchovy. Garnish the tops with a sprinkling of paprika and a caper-rolled anchovy. Serve in lettuce cups.

Succulent Turkey Today Was Fed to Pet Vultures

That old Spanish explorer and warrior, Cortez, called them peacocks when he first saw them in Mexico. King Montezuma used them as meat for his collection of pet eagles and vultures. But that was more than 400 years ago, and we've changed a lot of ideas since then. We've changed the birds, too.

Today we call them turkeys. They're so toothsome and tender they receive the place of honor at holiday dinners and they make an ordinary meal into a festive occasion. Turkey growers have designated July 26 to Aug. 4 as midsummer turkey time.

They say there will be an abundance of turkeys on the market at that time, young, tender birds, weighing mostly 10 pounds or less, ready to cook.

It was the iridescent tails of the male turkeys that attracted the attention of Cortez and prompted him to send some of his "American peacocks" to his king, Charles V. Many of today's turkeys have that same sparkling plumage, but the Department of Agriculture says there is a strong trend toward white turkeys.

As for the meat, the turkeys of four centuries ago simply can't be compared with today's thick-meated, tender birds. The original turkeys had to be muscular and fast fliers to stay alive.

Today's turkeys seldom even try to fly. They've been selected through many generations for thick flesh and quick growth. And they're fed on carefully planned rations of grain, minerals, vitamins, and even traces of the so-called wonder drugs that doctors prescribe for their patients.

Such a combination of breeding and feeding makes modern turkey wonderful eating in July, November, or any month when your appetite calls for something extra good. It's too bad both Cortez and King Montezuma can't be around to enjoy it.

Children Love Peach Mallow

Mothers always on the lookout for nutritious desserts, will appreciate this peach pudding.

Made with lots of milk, fresh peaches and quick-cooking rice cereal, this dish will provide plenty of good wholesome eating for the children. And don't be surprised when even the adults clamor for seconds.

Peach Mallow

1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup quick-cooking rice cereal
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 pound package marshmallows, quartered, about 1 cup
1 1/2 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Heat milk and salt in top of double boiler. Sprinkle in rice cereal and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Cover and cook 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and stir in sugar.

Allow to cool and fold in marshmallows. Sprinkle peaches with lemon juice and fold into pudding. Chill. Makes 4 servings.

Serve Spinach a New Way

If some of us protested spinach in our youth, perhaps parents were to blame.

"But it's so good for you," they would explain, even when this healthful green came to the table worn out with overcooking!

Ever think of serving spinach another way—cool and fresh in salad, where the flavor of good greenery can be at its best! This recipe combines fresh spinach with crisply crumbled bacon and partially-cooked eggs in a style reminiscent of Caesar's Salad.

Then, as indicated on the bottle, add vinegar, water and oil to this delicately blended dry mix of herbs and spices. Shake well, and your dressing is ready to make spinach not only good for you, but tastier than ever—as grown-ups and children in your family will agree!

Hearty Spinach Salad

1 package Miss Chase's salad dressing mix
Vinegar, water and oil
4 cups chopped raw spinach (1 1/2 lb.)
4 strips crisp cooked bacon
2 eggs
1/2 cup mixed dressing

Combine salad dressing mix, vinegar, water and oil as directed on the bottle or package.

Place spinach in a bowl. Chop bacon in small pieces. Cook eggs in water, just below the boiling point, for one minute. In a small bowl combine bacon, eggs, and 1-3 cup of the mixed dressing. Pour over spinach, tossing lightly. Makes 6 cups salad, enough for 4 entree salads, or 8 servings side salad.

A Cool Treat — Iced Coffee

Call on your unseen helpers, the grocer and the baker, when there is a crowd to be fed. They can provide so many fine and attractive foods which can be ready in a wink. Your favorite baker will have party cakes and petits-fours for you to purchase ready to serve on your prettiest plates, so even if the crowd is unexpected, you can whip up in minutes refreshments you will be proud to serve.

For a combination that's easy enough for a casual get-together, yet pretty enough for a really special occasion, serve your guests neat little frosted cakes and iced coffee. Add a bowl of whipped cream or provide ice cream for spooning on the coffee. Both whipped cream and ice cream are wonderful iced coffee toppers.

The iced coffee is made in a wink from instant coffee. This full-bodied coffee is ready brewed to perfection for you, needing only the addition of cold water and ice for a glassful or pitcherful of refreshing iced coffee.

The 6-ounce jars of instant coffee are particularly fine to have on hand for entertaining. Not only do they insure your having ample coffee for everyone, but they are economical.

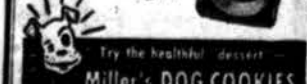

It Will Perk Food

Count on tabasco to perk up summer foods. Add the famous liquid pepper seasoning to taste for each glass to tomato, sauerkraut or vegetable juice cocktail. And for cheese and meat dips and spreads, the proportion is 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon for each cup of the mixture.

Charcoal Chefs! Firemen Offer Tips on Safety

Here are a few precautions suggested by firemen all barbecue chefs should follow:

1. When using lighter fuel to start charcoal, never pour more fuel on after the fire has started.
2. When using paper to lay the fire, ruffle it so the wind won't blow burning pieces of paper away.
3. Keep fluffy, inflammable clothes well away from the fire.
4. Keep a bucket of water or sand handy for emergencies.

Carbon dioxide is one of the best extinguishers for barbecues. It puts out the fire effectively, yet doesn't affect the taste of the food in any way and is harmless.

Another practical idea is to pour water over the charcoal to put it out when the food has been cooked. It's safer, and the charcoal can be used next time.

Cooking Any Bacon? Better Have Patience

Cooking bacon requires patience. Remember to start with a cold frying pan, using slow heat and turning frequently.

When buying bacon remember that the highest quality is firm and the fat is white and well streaked with lean, which is bright and pinkish in color.

Bacon which is too fat shrinks greatly when cooked and when it is too lean it may not be tender. You can store bacon in the refrigerator at 38 degrees for three or four weeks, but for best flavor it should be used within 10 days.

Roast Corn-on-the-Cob in Aluminum Wrapping

Roasting in the husks has long been a favorite way of cooking corn-on-the-cob, but why not try a new way?

Mrs. Josephine Lawyer, Consumer Marketing Information Agent suggests wrapping a clean ear of corn with a pat of butter in an 8 1/2 x 11 inch piece of aluminum foil. Bring the edges of the foil together over the corn and fold twice; twist ends together securely.

Place in the barbecue pit as soon as coals are glowing; turn occasionally with tongs. This corn can be baked in a 400 degree oven for 25 minutes and brought out to the barbecue at serving time.

Delicate Flavor in Sweetbreads

Most of us are familiar with variety meats such as liver or tongue, but few of us ever serve the delicately flavored variety meat, sweetbreads.

A fragile meat, sweetbreads should be precooked immediately upon arrival home from the market and served within a day.

Here sweetbreads are served with a rich mushroom sauce, colorfully flecked with green onion bits.

Sweetbreads With Mushroom Sauce

1 pair sweetbreads (approximately 1 pound)
Butter
Dry bread crumbs
Sauce
1 can mushroom soup
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon chopped green onion
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
Drop sweetbreads into a pan of boiling water and simmer 20 to 30 minutes. (Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar to each quart water.) Drain, and rinse in cold water while slipping off membrane covering; cut out dark veins and thick connective tissue.

Cool and cut each in half lengthwise and dry carefully. Roll in melted butter and then crumbs. Place in a shallow pan and broil until slightly browned on all sides. Mix sauce ingredients and heat. Serve sweetbreads and sauce over toast. Four servings.

Plan Now To Freeze Crop of Blueberries

Since blueberries will be plentiful by July 20, this is a good time to make plans for home-freezing them. Berries to be frozen should be fully ripe ones, blue-black in color.

Whether they are to be frozen in sugar syrup or unsweetened, depends on planned use. For fruit compotes and other fresh-fruit desserts use syrup. Berries for pies and salads should be dry-packed. Suggested Michigan varieties for freezing include Jersey, Pioneer, Rubel, Rancocas, and Wild.

To put a frost on bottles or containers of cologne, skin fresh-summer lodging in your refrigerator, astringents, cotton pads, etc.

Lake Orion to Decide Park Use

Village Poll Due July 30

Chamber of Commerce Taking Vote to Settle Controversy

LAKE ORION — The small village park on M24 here, which the council opened to "outsiders" recently, is the subject of much controversy.

A petition being circulated throughout the village asks for definite action in cleaning up and maintaining the park. These petitions will be presented at the Council meeting on Monday, July 30.

The Chamber of Commerce also has a plan to poll public opinion on this issue. Any property owner or resident of the village of Lake Orion, which owns and will be responsible for maintaining the park, has the opportunity to vote.

Elections may cast their vote for one of three choices:

1. Make the park available to village and Orion Township residents.
2. Reserve the park for village residents only.
3. Make the park available to everybody.

Residents who have not voted are asked to send a ballot to P. O. Box 365, or drop them in any of the boxes provided in stores who have Chamber of Commerce membership, by Monday noon, July 30.

Ballots must be signed and bear a village address so they can be presented to the council on Monday night.

Seek Grave Ghouls but Find Only Kids

LAKE ORION — A tip received early this week by a Lake Orion police officer may be attributed to the solution of this village's "graveyard mystery."

A child's foot was hurt by a falling gravestone as six youngsters caused an estimated $2,000 in damage in Evergreen Cemetery several weeks ago, police report here.

Long Set to Attend Prosecuting Course

Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Robert D. Long will attend Northwestern University's Short Course for Prosecuting Attorneys next week, Prosecutor Frederick Ziem said today.

The six-day course will include lectures on trial techniques, general legal problems and preparation of evidence, Ziem said. Eminent attorneys and professors of law will deliver the lectures, sponsored by the University's School of Law. Ziem and Chief Assistant Prosecutor George F. Taylor attended the course in 1954.

Marlyn Chadek to Wed Man From Rochester

DRAYTON PLAINS — Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Chadek, 2800 Airport Rd., announce the engagement of their daughter, Marlyn Jean, to Marvin T. Fater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Fater, 3520 Cone St., Rochester.

The wedding will be an event of Oct. 6.

Board Denies Dump Closing

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — A petition to close the Hospital Road dump was considered when the Township Board met this week.

Residents of the area were on hand protesting the site because of the amount of litter accidentally dropped from vehicles on the way to the dump.

The request was rejected because the fill will be completed by mid-September.

A letter from Pontiac City Manager Walter K. Willman, asking that a date be set for a meeting of the Township Board and the City Commission to discuss sewer problems, was included on the agenda. Arrangements have been made for an August 27 meeting.

In other action the Board authorized the purchase of a hot water heater for Fire Station No. 2 in Drayton Plains, and three liquor license permits were approved.

The Board okayed the transfer of the permit, now held by Manning's Market, to Kevin J. Ritter, new owner.

Bruno Wolosiewicz is now sole owner of the Clintonville Market and approval was given by the Board to have the name of his brother, Ladislav, dropped from the permit.

Beatrice E. Newcomb is new sole owner of the Dixie Bar and the name of Sofia Pousky is to be dropped from the permit.

The plat of the Union Lake Meadow subdivision was also approved.

A special meeting will be held tonight at 8, at the town hall, and the following three Thursday nights for the purpose of finding out what the people want in the new ordinance.

Both the Township and Zoning Boards will be present to answer questions and make ratifications.

People in Highland Township have voted down other ordinances set up by the Zoning Board at two different elections. This time, members feel that they have covered most of the objections but would like the people in the district to become acquainted with the plan before it is voted on again.

There is now an interim ordinance in effect set up by the Township Board earlier this year.

Thirty-One Year-Old Argument Ends: Detroit Owns an Original 'Van Eyck'

DETROIT — A 31-year-old controversy was ended today with the director of the Detroit Institute of Arts said was one of the major art finds of the century.

Edgar P. Richardson, institute director, said yesterday a painting exhibited as the work of a minor artist had been proven to be a masterpiece of the 15th Century Flemish master, Jan Van Eyck.

The painting is an almost hand-sized portrait of St. Jerome in his study. For centuries its true merit lay hidden by overpainting that distorted parts of the composition.

Removal of the overpaint and restoration of the original colors established it as a true Van Eyck, Richardson said.

For three decades experts have argued about the work. Some from the first saw in it the work of Van Eyck. Others held it to be the work of his pupil, Patrus Christus. Still others saw it as a collaboration between the two.

THE DATE "1442" The trouble was that the upper portion of the painting had all the characteristics of Van Eyck's style, while the lower portion was obviously the work of an inferior artist.

In 1922 the date "1442" was discovered in minute characters on the painting. Van Eyck, who with his elder brother, Hubert, was a pioneer in the introduction of oil painting and a founder of the Flemish school of painting.

William Sohr, a New York restorer, scraped off the overpaint and found the finer work beneath. The saint's robes came out in finer detail. A cord above his desk proved to be a rosary. Other doubtful portions appeared in their true colors and execution.

Richardson said the painting probably was damaged sometime within the first 50 years of its creation. An inferior artist had painted over the damaged parts and no one suspected the truth until Dr. William R. Valentiner, then director of the Detroit Institute, bought the painting for $18,000 from a Berlin art dealer in 1925. It was after that the mystery unfolded little by little.

Richardson said this same dealer has since its restoration offered $400,000 for the painting.

It took Sohr five and a half months to complete the restoration which Richardson described as "marvelous."

'56 Figure Supremely Feminine

Nat Tuman interprets the petite to bright reds, greens and shock-pink, and dresses it, in his fall collection designed by Miss Theresa, in soft, natural lines which need no elaborate drapings or fussy trimmings.

He sees the petite miss sleekly attired for fall in slim, pared-down dresses showing the season's top style trends.

The fashionable petite will wear sheath dresses softened by easy, bloused back effects, empire bodice ensembles, and tailored waists scored with knitted collars, sleeves and midriff insets.

Her jerseys will be fully lined to insure sleek fit. For dressy occasions there are pretty full skirted dresses with tiny waisted princess lines, slim empire sheaths, and cocktail dresses with filmy flying panels.

Sleeves range from 3/4 push-up lengths to short styles for late day wear. Necklines are scooped, sweetheart, keyhole or cover up, but they are always designed to flatter the small figure.

Princess line, broken, if at all, just below the bodice, give an illusion of height and slenderness.

ALL COLORS

The choice of fall colors will be left to the discretion of the lady herself, and will range from traditional blacks, grays and blues one, for women who cannot wear wool but want almost the identical texture and warmth.

Knit jerseys, the finest broadcloths, silk tweeds, sheer worsteds, classic crepes, satins, pure silks, failles and brocaded novelty fabrics are used in styles for all occasions.

One of the outstanding daytime dresses in the collection is a bright red wool jersey with a deeply bloused effect. The bodice and waist are eased while the skirt retains the flattering slim lines of a sheath.

PERFECT TAILORING

Three-quarter push-up sleeves and a high neck with its own side ascot add to the perfect tailoring. The ascot can be tied in several ways to change the effect of the dress.

For afternoon wear the designer shows an understated black wool dress topped by a brown and black tweed bolero jacket. Metallic thread runs all through the jacket and makes this a perfect dawn to dusk costume.

Miss Theresa has given free play to her creative talents in her collection of cocktail and evening fashions for Nat Tuman.

A beige wool jersey princess sheath dress is re-embroidered with cocoa wool thread and floating beige chiffon panels adorn one hip.

A cocktail sheath of emerald green satin sports a rose shaped poof draped down one hip. Brocade is used in another slim dress with chiffon banding, placed high on the bodice, circling to long, airy back streamers.

The entire collection is specially proportioned for the petite miss and emphasizes the youthfully sophisticated styling so often missing in short waisted dresses.

Betty Arnett Honored at Shower

Mrs. Fred Mueller and Mrs. Ernest F. Denne were cohostesses at a bridal shower honoring Betty Jo Arnett. The Wednesday evening affair was held at the Mueller home on Crane road.

Betty Jo, who will exchange vows with Ronald Burr Aug. 4, is the daughter of the Kenneth M. Arnetts of Pensacola street.

Ronald's parents are the Ralph G. Burrs of Beverly street.

Guests included Mrs. Arnett, Mary Jean Arnett, Mrs. Bill Goodson, Mrs. Howard Sweet, Mrs. Charles Vance, Mrs. John Sinclair, Mrs. Walter Evelyn, Mrs. Ralph Hewitt and Jeanne Zimmerman.

Mrs. Charles Reichert, Mrs. Kenneth Milleur, Mrs. Wayne Jaycox, Mrs. J. B. McClure, Peggy Mobey and Mrs. Bob DeLongchamp completed the guest list.

The 1956-57 party season will be started in style with this glamorous cocktail sheath of William Rose's pure silk novelty fabric. A draped bodice is set off with a single centrally placed rhinestone brooch and voluminous flaring panels start just below the waist. Specially proportioned for the petite miss. Designed by Miss Theresa for Nat Tuman.

Wastebasket Styles Are Whimsical

Game Motifs Used for Extra-Colorful Containers

NEW YORK (INS) — A whimsical wastebasket can do a lot to brighten an informal room.

Some of the latest in trash baskets, displayed at the New York Accessories Show, choose their motifs from games — making them perfect items for a playroom. Many could be made by the housewife herself, merely by using some felt and paste on an old basket.

The man of the house might like a red, rectangular felt-covered wastebasket, adorned by some blue and white chips and playing cards.

Another basket for card players was covered in green felt with red felt hearts and diamonds and black felt spades and clubs decorating the corners — a fine model for bridge players.

People with — or without — sporting blood might like the square baskets covered in white felt with red spots arranged to make them very much oversized dice.

Golfers might go for a green felt oval basket featuring two halves of a golf ball pasted on, plus tees and the flag from a No. 5 hole piercing the felt fabric.

Checkers addicts would like a basket made of cardboard — it looks just like a checkerboard, complete with red and black squares.

Markings Ease Home Sewing

COLUMBIA, Mo. (INS) — Home sewing can be made an easier job and result in a better fitting garment if every mark on the pattern is followed closely.

A clothing specialist says there are several quick methods of marking.

You may mark with tailor's chalk or with dressmaker's carbon and a tracing wheel. Both are quick accurate methods.

For some fabrics tailor's tacks, made with needle and thread, are the best means of marking.

There are two kinds of tailor's chalk. The wax kind is used for wool only while the chalk kind is used for all other fabrics.

Use light blue chalk for white fabrics and contrasting colors for other fabrics.

Dressmaker's carbon is specially prepared for marking fabrics with the use of a tracing wheel. As a rule, white or yellow carbon is best. Slip the carbon paper between the pattern and the wrong side of the fabric.

A blunt tracing wheel will make a well-defined dotted line. Typewriter carbon paper will stain the fabric.

Team Black Nylons With 'Siren' Dress

Dramatic off-black nylons will be in a class of their own this fall. They are expected to gain great fashion momentum, not only because of the importance of the many "little black dresses" but because designers have introduced what they call, "slinky" black afternoon and late-day dresses, for the "siren look."

Many of the siren dresses are cut high at the front neckline and clear down to the waist in back. Usually styled along slim, uncluttered lines and worn with heaps of sparkling jewelry, the sheer off-black stockings are the only hose that will not detract from the simplicity of the all-black look and complement the "slinky, siren" effect as well.

Greens Coming In

Many greens appear in fall apparel, such as moss, fir, ivy or loden green and there are subdued green nylons, some with a bronze or brown cast, to team up with the green family.

The feminine look is supreme in a sheer worsted sheath with satin waist banding and flying panels. Widely spaced satin buttons mark the body and outline the neck, and three-quarter push-up sleeves carry on the graceful theme of the afternoon dress. Designed by Miss Theresa for Nat Tuman.

Personal News of Interest in Area

Attracting notice in this area is the news that Albert Wignall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wignall of Jackson, Miss., former Pontiac residents, recently placed first in his age group for the State of Mississippi in the 1956 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition.

Each year the guild distributes cash and university scholarships to the nation's best teenage model car designers and builders.

Albert is the grandson of Mrs. M. A. Wignall of Norton avenue.

The Norman Underwoods of James K Blvd. have returned to their home following a vacation in Ontario and upper Michigan.

In Canada they visited at North Bay and the Lake Nipissing area. From there they traveled to Duluth, Minn., Superior, Wis., and on to Thunder Lake near Manitowish where they spent several days at their cabin.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller of West Lorne, Ont., Canada, are visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Minnie McDougall of Lincolnshire drive.

Pick Mrs. Frank Basford as Volunteer-of-the-Month

The Central Volunteer Bureau this month has named a Birmingham resident as its Volunteer-of-the-Month.

Mrs. Frank Basford of 205 Lake Park Dr., who has been working with the Catholic Family Center of Pontiac for the past two years, was selected for the honor.

The Central Volunteer Bureau is a Pontiac Area United Fund Agency serving the communities of Pontiac, Waterford and Birmingham and others on request.

When Mrs. Basford was placed with the Catholic Family Center she was given an orientation course to familiarize her with the Center's work.

SPECIALLY PICKED

Because her thoughtfulness of others and her understanding attitudes were apparent during this course, she was selected for special training by Leonard Jagels, director of the Center.

For a little more than a year now Mrs. Basford has been helping with the unwed mothers living at the Marillac Apartments near Farmington. She devotes one day each week to planning outings for them.

She arranges shopping tours, movie parties and, many times,

Luncheon Held by WCTU Units

The Frances Willard WCTU met Wednesday with other units and guests at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Leland Marion of James K boulevard. A picnic luncheon was followed by a fellowship hour.

The Anna Gordon unit will be hostess to local units Aug. 17 at an all-day meeting with Mrs. Hazel Green, district president, at her home in Royal Oak.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Clements and Mrs. Eleah Patten spoke of the qualifications necessary in the candidates for the coming election.

Juda Coleman gave several numbers on the accordion and the meeting was closed with a prayer by Elva Ashley.

Housecoats Are Fluffy, Feminine

Paris Concentrates on Romantic Look in Robes

PARIS (INS) — A woman should pay just as much attention to her housecoat or robe as she does to her cocktail dress.

All the new Paris "peignoirs" are long, feminine and as fluffy as possible. Masculine-styled dressing gowns, the former favorites of traveling Frenchwomen, are out.

Once again Christian Dior leads the fashion trend, this time to boudoir elegance. His loveliest robe is of fine white organdy with tiny red flowers embroidered as trimming on the edges.

The gown of tent fullness is short-sleeved and frilled out of a deep shoulder yoke, a style which has become trend setting.

Another interesting summer lingerie style has a chameleon quality: it can change its shade according to your mood. Made of machine embroidered, transparent white nylon, it comes with three removable linings. You can button in a fine dark pink, sea-blue or orange lining to change the robe's color.

The most feminine printed nylon robes now come with trimmings of velvet ribbons. In Roger Gallet's boutique an empire-styled nylon peignoir is printed with large bouquets of violets with their green leaves.

The trimming, in garter form on the three-quarter sleeves and a bow at the neckline, is a finger-wide violet-colored velvet ribbon. A rose-printed robe is trimmed with black velvet bows for a romantic look.

Carry Perfume

Carry a purse flacon of perfume. Few perfumes last longer on the skin than three to four hours, and should be reapplied at least that often. Carry a purse container of perfume in your handbag, and replenish your fragrance every time you retouch your lipstick.

'Love or Money' Opening Tuesday at Will-O-Way

Will-O-Way Playhouse will continue its parade of comedy hits with "For Love or Money," opening July 31 and playing through Aug. 12.

"For Love or Money" is one of the plays by F. Hugh Herbert, author of "The Moon is Blue" and "Kiss and Tell."

Mr. Herbert has written an amusing story of a charming and unsophisticated miss who wanders, quite by accident, into the life of a blase and worldly matinee idol.

With only the impregnable armor of innocence to combat the inflated ego of this unmitigated ham, the young maid proves once again that, eventually time wounds all heels.

State Senator William Broomfield, candidate for U.S. Congress, spoke briefly of federal legislation expected to appear on the agenda of the next session of Congress.

Sheriff Frank Irons told of the many changes at the Oakland County Jail and of some of the problems of his office.

Others who spoke briefly were Dan Murphy, register of deeds; Richard Kuhn who is seeking election to the State Senate; and Robert C. Miller, nominee for state representative.

Mrs. Eleah Patten opened her home on Augusta avenue for the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Emor L. Calkins WCTU, attended by 45 members and guests: Mrs. L. B. Ruby gave devotions and Mrs. Frank Hardenburg, presided.

In keeping with their Citizenship Day program, Mrs. Patten introduced several candidates who are seeking nomination in the coming election.

Be Sure Your Makeup Fits With Room Lighting

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Beauty Editor

The wrong light can put you in the old-hag category. I discovered that fact when I asked a Hollywood actress how she made up to look so gruesome in a particular picture.

She explained that she hadn't worn makeup at all—that the effect was achieved only with lights placed strategically.

That goes to show that lights aren't always as flattering as we think. Makeup does help cover up certain flaws even under wrong light.

There are all sorts of light to cope with—a rosy one from pink light bulbs, fluorescent bulbs that some women claim make their skin look yellow and white incandescents that may reveal skin flaws.

One makeup man, Max Factor Jr., says that you must be aware of light even if you are just planning an evening at home.

Your makeup know-how begins at the dressing table. Arm yourself with a good pair of lamps at least 15 inches tall if you sit at makeup, Factor says.

The lamp should flank your mirror, placed 18 inches right and left of its center and 6 inches from the back.

Lamp shades should be colorless and translucent to give the best light, about 7 inches deep and 9 or 10 inches in diameter at the base. Bulbs should be clear or frosted incandescents either standard 100-watt or 30-100 watt three-light bulbs.

If you know you are going to a home that has nothing but incandescent light, use the same make-up you use for daylight wear, recommended for your own coloring.

Apply it more dramatically, however. It should match—the foundation to the skin, eyebrow pencil to hair coloring and eye-shadow to the eyes.

Lipstick shades should make the skin glow and bring out hidden lights to your hair, rouge should harmonize with your lipstick.

Fluorescent lights cast a blue-white color, so all makeup shades that contain blue should be avoided if you plan to be under those lights. Wear a creamy makeup foundation.

Pink lights are flattering because pink glow blends all color tones of the face, according to Factor. But sometimes because of softening effects these new pink lights are color-draining, demanding more makeup emphasis than usual.

Wear a light makeup foundation with a minimum of pink in that case. There will be more than enough pink in the lights to add warmth to your skin. Use natural shades of eye makeup emphasizing your eyes.

Outline them with eyebrow pencil so the whites of the eyes will look clearer against the impact of the light's pink tones. Choose lipstick in shades that will become brilliant under pink lights, such as a true red, the color of a crushed rose.

Four Are Guests of Gold Star Mothers Club

Mrs. Rose Chase of Bloomfield, N. J., Mrs. Edith Tick, Mrs. Bessie Brown and Mrs. Duncan McVean were guests of the American Gold Star Mothers, Inc. Chapter Nine, when they met Wednesday evening with Mrs. Joe Doyle of Oakwood avenue.

Members sewed for the American Cancer Society during the morning. A business meeting was held following the noon luncheon.

Several chapter members will attend a board meeting in Lansing, Aug. 31, it was announced. Mrs. Glenn Waterfield will lay the wreath at the Veterans plot at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery Aug. 12.

A report on the recent national convention in Tulsa, Okla. was made by Mrs. Doyle.

The group will meet with Mrs. William Pike, 32 Doremus St., Aug. 15.

Mrs. Fred Fuller of Cass Lake entertained at a luncheon Tuesday at Edgewood Golf and Country Club in honor of her sister, Mrs. Charles Stevens, visiting here from Toronto, Canada. Pictured at the club are (left to right) Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Sam Stojack and Mrs. Howard Van Dusen.

Shoes Glean Softly

A soft lustrous satin finish on black is new for dress shoes. Alligators and lizards have taken on a shining lacquered look that is the last word in glitter and gleam. These, too, very effective in all-over sandals and pumps, or in combination with suede or smooth leathers.

Neglect Can Bring Wrinkles, Headache, Back Pain

For a Lovelier Face—Take Care of Feet

"Oh, my aching feet," will be groaned by about 72 per cent of the population this summer, according to a survey by American podiatrists and chiropodists.

Few women need to be told what miserable feet do to their appearance. Most women can see the wrinkles in their faces in the mirror. Others feel it in their creaky walk.

Others, ordinarily proud of their ankles and feet, see them swell. Those afflicted with athlete's foot, or dermatophytosis, are unable to expose their ordinarily pretty feet to the public eye.

For really "sick" feet or sudden unexplainable back or head aches, there is no substitute for the doctor and foot specialist.

Most women wouldn't attempt to operate on other portions of their bodies, yet they go after a corn with a razor. The foot doctor is the man for this.

But keeping feet in generally good health can be done by a few simple expedients, just as good hair health can be maintained with shampooing and brushing.

Exercises aid feet that frequently perform only one operation—walking—all day long. They do for the feet what a good stretch does for a body cramped by sitting still.

Picking up a few of Junior's marbles, with as many toes as possible, eases fatigue by working muscles in a variety of directions. This can be done while sitting in a low chair, with the marbles on the floor.

There should be a feeling of strengthening muscles from heel to toe.

Flexing toes up and down over the edge of a box or stair tread is also a good stretch. It may aid circulation.

'ROLL' ARCHES

Fatigued feet may be rejuvenated to some degree by rolling them over a bottle.

Place the bottle under the heel and roll it slowly under the arch to the ball of the foot and back again. It should be done until the foot feels supple and relaxed.

A day in the sun for shoes, alternating with a day of wear, helps keep the shoes free of fungus. This is particularly vital to persons who are convalescing from athlete's foot.

A good foot powder, one that's fungicidal, helps keep feet cool, dry and safe.

Dior Explodes Revolutionary 'Magnet' Line on Paris

Puffs Hips, Drops Skirts to Ankles

Style, If Successful, Would Outmode All Present Wardrobes

PARIS (AP)—Christian Dior electrified Paris today with his new magnet line, putting out the hips and emphasizing the bust.

Using real surprise tactics, Dior threw a dozen nearly ankle-length day dresses into the middle of an otherwise short-skirted collection.

Gasp and applause seemed to assure another "scandalous success," as the French call it. Back row spectators sprang up and craned at the sight.

Without risking his whole collection on the drastically different length, which would outmode every wardrobe, Dior clearly launched a trial balloon. Unless the critics puncture it, it may be the another New Look.

The magnet line, clearly intended to draw male eyes, rounds the shoulders, bust and hips, and often drops necklines daringly low. Skirts are wider at the hip than at the hem, being set-in in soft folds at the natural waistline. Dior calls them Dutch skirts.

Cleaning Supplies Often Poisonous

LARAMIE, Wyo. (INS)—Home-makers are urged to have some locked cabinets, if a high shelf is unavailable, to keep hazardous cleaning supplies away from small children.

Accidents are among the leading causes of death and injury to children under five years of age.

Poisonous chemical substances are found in many common household cleaning aids: bleaches, cleaning fluid, insect sprays, rat poisons, detergents, furniture polishes, ammonia and kerosene.

Pottery, china and porcelain all are types of ceramics; the difference lies in the translucency of the three. Pottery has none at all; china is more or less translucent; and porcelain is highly translucent.

LUGGAGE SPORTING GOODS

A corduroy print, which achieves the look of rich wool so successfully that seeing is no longer believing, makes a sport car coat dear to the heart of a sub-teen. This jaunty new style will be the rage of the young set for suburban wear, school and all outdoor activities. For an extra measure of warmth, there is a cotton and wool quilted lining. The turf-colored corduroy jacket on the young man has dashing touches of brown leather in pocket flaps and elbow patches.

New Hats Air-Conditioned

NEW YORK (INS)—The latest in headgear features the "hole in the hat" look.

The newest sports hat, smart for golf or any other outdoor activity necessitating protection against sun on the head, has millions of tiny, spongelike air pockets in the foam-type insulating fabric.

The manufacturer claims the hat is "air-conditioned"—and not just for summer.

When you want to keep a cool head despite hot temperatures, dip the hat in ice water, wring it out and wear it. The foamy material retains moisture and as it evaporates the head is cooled.

The insulating fabric, on the other hand, is supposed to keep the head warm in winter.

The new idea in hats comes in half a dozen colors—ice blue, pink, lemon, green, white and charcoal.

You can have your choice of several styles, including the sunshade type hat, a youthful copy of the

Make Sure Postcard Is Delivered

According to the Handwriting Foundation, a lot of vacation postcards won't be delivered, due to illegible writing. The Foundation offers the following suggestions:

1. Write legibly. Just being conscious of your handwriting will make a sharp improvement.

2. Address correctly. Full street address, including postal zone number. You'd be surprised how quickly you forget addresses of folks back home, so pack your address book or bring along a list of people to remember.

3. Always bring pen, pencil and other writing supplies along. Especially if you're traveling abroad.

4. Bring along stamps in 2c and 3c denominations. Get a handy book at your post office. If you buy them loose, sprinkle talcum on the backs so that summer heat won't make them stick together prematurely. Keep them in an envelope.

5. When sending children off to camp, remember rules number 3. Good tip is to send self-addressed stamped envelopes and cards, to make it easier to write home.

6. On car trips, send yourself cards along the route, or to friends who collect postmarks.

Empire Line Seen as Fall Favorite

In fall dresses—prime favorite is the narrowed, ribbed line that goes equally well with a slim costume coat or with dressmaker details all its own. The basic sheath gains interest through the pronounced empire influence.

Rising above a smoothly fitted waistline, the empire line is seen traced with bands of braid, simulated boleros, or underscored with ribbons, belts and sashes.

Hairdos Reflect Tempo of Times

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN
Here are a few facts about hair and its arrangement.

A woman's hairdo usually reflects the mood and tempo of the day in which she is living. At certain times in history hairdressers have had a field day creating complicated hairdos. At the time of our great-grandmothers women boasted that they could sit on their braids. Those were the more leisurely days!

The short bob of 1925 and the 3-inch haircut of 1941, the poodle cut and our current styles have much in common. At these times women were rushing about indulging in careers, social and civic activities and sports. This sort of life calls for a simpler and more comfortable style, one which is easier to care for.

Short hair requires a good permanent unless you have naturally curly tresses.

Soaps which are too strong in alkali are hard on the hair.

Some of the best authorities believe that long before drab, lifeless hair appears, unhealthy hair conditions have prevailed for a long time. Some even go so far as to believe that such conditions can lead to graying locks. Good health, cleanliness and scalp massage are preventive measures.

OILY OR DRY?

Test yourself to see if your hair is oily or dry. If your hair becomes oily a few days after a shampoo, if you have dandruff or thin hair at the temples, perhaps the little oil ducts are too active.

You should shampoo your hair had a normal or dry scalp. Massage helps normalize these oil glands and is therefore recommended for an oily scalp as well as for a dry one.

If you have dry hair your scalp probably will feel tense, your hair will feel brittle, you may have dry flakes on the scalp, and the ends of the hair probably will be extremely dry and may split.

If this is the case, do not shampoo, your hair too often. Hot oil treatments will be helpful. Massage and brushing are first aids. Look also to your vitamin intake.

If your face is round—Hair should be high on top and close at the sides of the face. The opposite is true if your face is long and thin.

PART IN MIDDLE

If you have a small nose—Wear a middle part if it suits the general contour of your face. Do not have a middle part if your nose is large. A middle part also widens the face in appearance. Therefore, if you have a broad face use a slanting part.

If your chin is pointed and your forehead broad—bring the hair in at the temple.

If you have a short neck—do not wear your hair shoulder length.

If you would like to have my leaflet about hairstyling send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 51. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Brushing is a first aid for your hair.

Your Home Sewing Plan Can Be Fun

The best home sewing project is something that is fun to make and fun to wear. Scoring both ways is a gaily appliqued new apron with soutache braid writing for the junior cook in the family.

It's simple enough for her to make by herself, and attractive enough to wear right into the living room, telling everybody, "It's fun to cook."

Funny-face appliques may be cut out of a gay printed linen dish towel. A real potholder in some whimsical form, such as a smiling teapot, is conveniently buttoned on to the apron front. Any other clearly outlined designs you may fancy, on washable fabric, may be used as decorations for the apron.

Choose decorative fruits, vegetables or any appropriate kitchen-inspired designs for your cutouts. And make quick and easy work of the whole apron the expert way by using your sewing machine and its handy set of attachments.

To make the apron you will need one yard of Indianhead or a similar sturdy cotton fabric, in any solid color; one package of No. 5 single fold white bias binding; one package of white soutache braid; one spool of white and one spool of black thread; a half-inch pearl button; a quarter yard of outing flannel, and enough patterned fabric to cut out the desired applique designs.

USE CIRCULAR PATTERN

Using a circular apron pattern, available at local sewing centers, cut out the apron. Next cut out the designs for the appliques, leaving a margin all around each design. Scatter the cutouts on the apron in any desired arrangement. Baste in place. Using the zig-zagger attachment for your machine, stitch the cutouts to the apron, following the lines of the design. Cut away the extra margin of fabric close to the stitching.

Next cut out an appropriate design for the potholder, leaving a seam allowance around the design. Cut a matching piece from apron fabric for back of potholder.

With right sides of fabric facing each other, stitch the two pieces together, leaving an opening so that it can be turned right side out. Trim seams and turn to right side. Interline with several thicknesses of outing flannel. Slipstitch folded edges of opening together. Using the buttonhole attachment, make a half-inch button hole in the top or one corner of the potholder. Decide where the potholder is to be fastened and sew a button on the apron at this point.

Trace the hand-written sentence "It's fun to cook" on the wrong side of the apron if the under-braider attachment for your machine is to be used for applying the writing.

Trace the words on the right side of the apron if the topbraider attachment is being used. Words should be placed in a curving line, following the curve of the bottom edge of the apron, in letters large enough for easy reading.

After applying the soutache braid writing, finish the edges of the apron with bias binding by using the multi-slotted binder attachment for the machine. To finish edges of the apron ties, use the narrow hemmer attachment for a fine, neat hem. Complete apron according to directions supplied with the pattern.

Personalize With Short Message Cards Save Bride's Time

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (INS)—Greeting cards can be a big help to the young, beginning homemaker.

In grandma's day, or even when mother became a bride, this would have been unthought of. But it is perfectly proper these days to send "thank you" cards instead of letters of appreciation for wedding gifts.

A warm little note at the bottom of the card will convey the personal touch.

Note papers, ranging from dignified to formal, are another way of handling the bride's correspondence. They have adequate message areas, but don't force the bride to fill up a long page when she has many such notes to write.

Greeting cards are an acceptable way to respond to wedding announcements, whether or not a gift is sent.

Cards range from the religious to the sentimental to the light-hearted, depending on the personality of the sender.

Among the new wedding cards this season are those that reproduce full-color photographs of such traditional symbols of the marriage ceremony as a tiered wedding cake and authentic music of "The Wedding March."

Many wedding greetings are deeply religious in nature, featuring handsome stained glass windows, churches and cathedrals and special prayers as their motifs.

Vary Pastel Clothes With Dark Cottons

Originally planned to span seasons only, transitional or dark cottons are appearing in stores now to bring a needed spice to wardrobes bland with summer pastels.

Here is the look of fall, with the feel of summer ... cool dark shades of cognac, grey, black ... styled with breeze-full skirts, snow fresh collars of white linen or pique. These "transitional" fashions are designed with fall's important fashion features ... narrow silhouette ... empire line ... back interest.

Remember the less unnecessary luggage you "lug" on a trip, the more fun you will have while traveling.

Fall brides will wear gowns designed along simple lines; fabrics will be rich. Femininity can be overdone.

A raised rose pattern on silk brocade is set off by the simplicity of the gown. A tailored back bow and softly draped neckline and sleeves are becoming to the slim and not-so-slim bride, the short and the tall, but fussiness is difficult.

Rumblings in Monaco—Grace 'Aloof'

LONDON (INS)—The distant dignity that marked Grace Kelly's reign as a movie queen is causing complaints among Monégasque socialites who want her to be an approachable Princess Grace.

Some of the grumblings came to light today when the movie correspondent of the London Daily Mirror reported on a just completed visit to Monte Carlo.

The Mirror said Monégasques were complaining especially about the aloofness of the Princess and Prince Rainier, although it claimed the government is afraid to admit to any dissatisfaction.

One unnamed young socialite was quoted as saying, "Grace is behaving like a film star wanting to be alone. We thought she would visit our sick, orphans and old people as your queen (Elizabeth) does."

"Instead, she buries herself in the palace, then takes off on a shopping trip to Paris."

The Mirror said there were other complaints that Grace was not acting as a princess and a social leader should act.

The newspaper quoted film producer Charlie Feldman as saying he scrapped a scheme to make "The Grace Kelly Story" because it's not a popular story around here any more.

Worst of all, the Mirror said, is that the Monégasque dream that the marriage would bring a financial boom to Monte Carlo has not been fulfilled—even Grace Kelly stamps are not selling.

Defenders Join Fray for Marilyn Men, Women Reply to Charge Actress Has 'Spare Tire'

LONDON (INS)—Male—and even female—rushed to the defense of Marilyn Monroe as the "battle of the bulge" waxed hot in Britain today.

The blonde movie queen—accused yesterday by London News Chronicle writer Jean Soward with displaying an undisguised spare tire about her middle—quickly found champions among the paper's readers.

Whether she needed them or not was something else again, since the film star wasted no time replying to the critical writer, who had also attacked Marilyn's dress.

Shot back Marilyn: "Any woman who dresses to please women is only fooling herself. She's not even fooling other women."

One of the gallant defenders of Miss Monroe labeled Miss Soward's criticism as "plain feminine jealousy" in a letter to the editor of the News Chronicle.

Wrote Norman Williams of Bath, Somerset County:

"As a man may I suggest Jean Soward's rather catty criticism of Miss Monroe's clothes originates in plain feminine jealousy. Miss Monroe at least looked like a human being. Many creatures displayed on the fashion page from time to time appear to suffer from badly set multiple fractures of the leg bones and dislocated hips."

Even the feminine readers joined in to back Marilyn.

Mrs. Miriam Mark of Kenton, Middlesex County, wrote the paper:

"As a woman may I tell Jean Soward I think Marilyn without a too tight skirt and ruffled hair just isn't Marilyn."

"As for her inevitable spare tire, this is far preferred to the 'plucked middle look' of some of our beauties."

The News Chronicle writer accused Marilyn of appearing in a rumpled dress and with tousled hair when she arrived in London.

"The most prominent thing about her was her spare tire ... lots of us have one, but most of us dress to disguise it," claimed Miss Soward in the article that raised the storm.

The sting of that touched off the barrage of letters to the editor.

Catchy Names Help Sell Products

By ANNE HEYWOOD
Naming a baby is sometimes a difficult task, but it's nothing compared to finding a name for a homemade product.

Many times a delicious recipe for salad dressing, or a new gadget for helping shampoo a child's hair, will rise or fall according to how catchy and effective its name is.

And many times, the woman who is good at inventing, designing or preparing it is terrible at thinking of catchy names.

SMARTY-PARTY

There's the children's party service in New Jersey which is called Smarty-Party. There's the prepared white sauce called Saucery. There's the thrift shop, where second-hand dresses are sold, which is called Encore.

By studying such names, you will begin to train your own mind in the right direction.

If you still haven't come up with anything, ask your family and friends for suggestions.

Some people have a natural knack for thinking up such titles and consider it fun to do so.

Let them cook it on the back of their minds, so to say, and they may come up with a really good one.

JOT DOWN IDEAS

As you go about your work, keep a pad handy and jot down any idea that occurs to you.

even if it's very silly. The silly ones are often much better than the sensible ones.

If you still haven't anything, give a Name-The-Baby party.

Invite a lot of friends and acquaintances, serve pleasant refreshments and display your "baby." Let them all jot down any names they can think of and give a prize to the winner.

Sometimes you'll have two or three possible names and no idea which is best.

In that case, test them.

SEE WHICH CLEVES

Make up a few samples under each name and give them to church fairs or women's club parties, for free.

See which name makes the biggest hit, is the most memorable.

There are several books on the subject of making money at home which have chapters discussing the all-important factor of naming the product.

Send me a stamped self-addressed envelope care of The Pontiac Press, and I'll send you the list of books.

Give Wheel Toys Only When They're Ready

Give your child skates and wheel toys when he is ready for them, advises Toy Guidance Council. Buy the safest models you can, and trust him with them.

Deprivation of such toys leads, in a timid child, to exaggerated fears and a sense of being "different" . . . in rebellious children, to the use of unsafe substitutes behind your back. Over-protection is a form of selfishness, a source of trouble.

When you buy limes, buy green fruit. Mature limes are yellow and lack the desired tart flavor.

Fine Feathers to Replace Mink Wrap

NEW YORK (INS)—The fashionable woman will be wrapped in feathers instead of fur this fall.

Ostrich is definitely more stylish than mink for next season, and considerably cheaper, too.

Instead of a mink stole, for instance, you're supposed to drip ostrich plumes on dress-up evenings.

Four feet of ostrich plumes, stitched to chiffon, will cost you $89 in black or white, and you wear them just the way Lillian Russell wore her feather bonnet—slung round your neck and casually dangling from your arms.

If ostrich sounds too plush you can be just as feathery in a $49 maribou cape. Maribou is that powder puff type feather that's on negligees, and it's being used for little fluffy white capelets this fall.

You can be feathery under $20, too—but only around your neck. A collar-capelet of coq feathers will set you back around $17, in turquoise, red, white or black.

The only objection to feathers instead of fur will come from the anemic. An ostrich plume won't keep you as warm as a mink, but it definitely will keep you stylish.

'Fair Lady' Theme

The "Fair Lady" theme or the "1912 look" shows up in every phase of ready-to-wear from top-to-toe. Designers have been inspired by that era to use luxurious fabrics, royal colors or Edwardian pastels, fur trimmings, floating panels, soft draping and blousing, slim, slinky silhouettes—and the most elaborate use of multicolor.

Fine - - If You're the Type Like to Go Stockingless?

Stockings or not in the summer? This is a question many women past 40 ask, as soon as the weather turns warm.

It can't be settled categorically. Some mature women have very youthful skin. They tan with ease and the skin on their legs has remained firm.

Certainly these women have no more need to wear stockings on casual occasions, if they wish to go without, than their daughters do.

Women who have conspicuous veins in their legs and women who wear elastic stockings for medical reasons know the answer before they ask. They hope only that someone will give them an excuse to do what they know they ought not to do.

WHAT PRICE COMFORT?

Women whose skin remains pallid throughout the summer and women who are severely under or overweight ought to decide about wearing stockings on the basis of whether the comfort is worth the price they will pay in attractiveness.

Some women who wear longer dresses and who have no circulation trouble may find that knee-length stockings that stay up by themselves give the benefits of comfort and looks.

But, if one's skirt hops up above the stocking line when one sits down, one ought not to wear them. Pregnant women should, in no case, wear stockings with elastic at the knees.

Women who don't feel the need of stockings should wear nylon foot-covers to protect the insides of the shoes and their feet. They should not wear socks with pumps.

Stack of Sandwiches

Making sandwiches in quantity? Plan on about two pounds of butter to spread 100 sandwiches; eight medium glasses of jelly, one gallon of sandwich filling, three quarts of peanut butter, six pounds of American cheese, or one pint of mayonnaise. Also for 100 sandwiches you will need five medium heads of lettuce.

Tend to Knitting and Be in Style

Fall '36 will go down in fashion history as the season of the knit look... beyond a doubt the most influential fall fashion trend.

From hand knits to novelty stripes, and fabrics designed with the surface look of knit... you need only to tend to your knitting to be in fashion for fall.

Bulks, in a variety of stitch patterns, dominate the sweater scene. Knit collars, (small and large) cuffs, yokes and sleeves carry this trend to dresses. In sportswear separates the knit look is carried out below as well as above the waistline... in ribbed knit skirts, topped by sweaters and jackets sporting... of course... knit trim!

There's no comfort in hot weather like a fresh nightie or pajamas, sweet from the sun, to wear every night in the week.

Income Tax Is 'Incentive' for Sultry Mari Blanchard

Says Percentage to Uncle Sam Spurs
Actors to Boss-Producer Classification

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Sultry Mari Blanchard, whose curves have meandered their way into the top Hollywood money brackets, said today Uncle Sam's income tax demands should be an "incentive" rather than a bugaboo to all self-respecting actors.

"It should inspire them to do better work," the actress added. "And this, in turn should result in better motion pictures and television shows."

Mari, who has starred in three movies and several TV shows so far this year, admitted that from this point on any money she earns goes to the government.

"From a purely selfish point of view," she said, patting her blonde locks, "I'd be just as well off to take a six-months rest. But from a professional viewpoint it would be costly, for it doesn't pay to stay out of the public eye too long at a time."

"Since I know I won't make any financial gain no matter how many extra films I do," she went on, "I select my pictures with great care and fight for the best possible roles."

In short, Mari says, since she makes any money she's going to be doggone sure she gets plenty of artistic return for her time.

SEEK BETTER PARTS

"The income tax situation to player to look for better pictures and better parts."

"Besides," the actress added frankly, "Why try to beat the income rap? I know some stars do—and have. But I think it's silly. You gotta figure what do you do if you get caught."

"And boy! such a penalty to pay! Besides, I never could understand how anybody could stand to stay out of the United States for 18 months. I know I couldn't do it. Anyway, it would be just my luck they'd change the law just as I was coming back in!"

Mari some day hopes to hit the be-your-own-boss jackpot that has caught on like an epidemic among Hollywood's top stars who discovered they can de-noise the income tax rap and make twice as much money working for themselves instead of for a studio.

If a star earns a $150,000 studio salary, Uncle Sam snatches most of it. But if the star is the boss, they take a capital gain on the profits from each film and if the gain is $150,000 the tax is only $37,500.

"That's for me," Mari insisted, "maybe a couple of years from now."

Girl's Date Ignores Duty to Pen Note

She's Embarrassed
About His Failure to Thank Hosts.

By EMILY POST

A girl writes: "A man I know spent a weekend at my married brother's house. My sister-in-law had let me ask him so that my visit would be more pleasant. She and my brother went all out to entertain us."

"I feel that the least my friend can do is write her a note, which I happen to know he hasn't done. Is there a way I could remind him to write her, because his thoughtlessness certainly puts me in a bad light?"

Answer: He should have written; but since he hasn't you can certainly write and tell them how much he enjoyed their hospitality.

"Dear Mrs. Post: Is demitasse ever served at the table in the dining room, or is it always served in the living room? Should cream and sugar be served with it, or is it always served black? There has been some discussion also as to whether it is proper to eat black ice cream with a fork or a spoon."

Answer: Demitasse is served more often at the table than in the living room. Either is correct, whichever the hostess chooses. Sugar is always served; cream is seldom served, but it is not incorrect to serve it if the hostess wishes.

Either a spoon or fork is correct; or you can use both and let the guests choose whichever one they like.

"Dear Mrs. Post: When an acquaintance comes to visit her, brings her young child with her, may the hostess, when she sees the child going for her best ornaments, ask her please not to touch them, if the mother sits by and says nothing? Or does politeness demand that the hostess stay silent and hope that nothing gets broken?"

Answer: It is entirely right for her to say something in a nice polite voice.

Pressure On in NL; Yanks Rip White Sox

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The heat's on in the long simmering National League pennant race and the Cincinnati Redlegs look like the fall guys who get burned.

Talk around the league pegged the second-place Redlegs as a club living high on a day-to-day business, with their home run power shielding a pitching staff that was on borrowed time. The dugout gossip is beginning to look good, with Cincinnati starting to crack just when the Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers are playing pennant ball.

The third-place Dodgers finally got to Brooks Lawrence, who was 3-0 against them, for a 3-1 decision last night. Duke Snider's 24th home run in the ninth broke up a duel between Lawrence, now 14-2, and Don Newcombe, 14-5.

The defeat sent Cincinnati skidding 4½ games behind the first-place Braves who fattened up on the last place New York Giants
7-4. Ex-Giant Bobby Thomson brought them from behind with a grand-slam home run.

Brooklyn and Milwaukee have four-game winning streaks, with the Braves winning 14 of their last 16 to boot. The Dodgers, winning eight of their last 11, now are within 1½ games of the Redlegs—who have blown a four-game edge over the Brooks by losing five of nine in a week.

In the other NL games, Roberto Clemente gave Pittsburgh a storybook finish with a grand-slam, inside-the-park home run that beat the Chicago Cubs 9-8 in the ninth inning. The St. Louis Cardinals pushed across two in the 10th to beat Philadelphia, 5-7.

In the American, southpaw
Whitney Ford and the New York Yankees put an end to Chicago's nonsense with a 10-1 breeze over the White Sox. Second-place Cleveland remained 8½ games behind the Yankees, walloping Washington 11-3. Detroit tied Baltimore for fifth place, beating the Orioles 6-2.

Kansas City scored eight runs in the seventh to whack fourth-place
Boston 9-6.

26 Area Stars Make Up Team at Roller Meet

One of the biggest roller skating squad (26) to represent the area in a national meet today was in in North American championships.

Event is sponsored by the Roller the international also taking place the final day.

Most of the national entries were among leading winners in the recent Great Lakes regional at Milwaukee.

Rolladium's team currently holds the nation's Haney Memorial trophy for most team points. It has won it the last two years.

Detroit Trips 4th Junior 'Seed' at Champaign

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Some up-sets were recorded but most seeded players advanced to the quarter-finals today in the Western Junior and Boys Tennis Tournament.

The fourth and seventh seeded players in the junior bracket, John Skogstad of Coral Gables, Fla., and Chris Crawford of Piedmont,
Calif., were beaten yesterday.

Skogstad lost to Rudy Hernandez of Detroit, 6-3, 6-3. Crawford was beaten by Earl Buchholz of St.
Louis, 6-0, 6-3.

In the boys' division John Adler of Scarsdale, N.Y., seeded No. 7, was beaten by Don Caton, Pensacola, Fla., 3-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Manager Ernie White of Nashville says shortstop Bobby Dur-baugh of Dayton, Ohio is "the hustlingest baseball player I ever saw."

BEATING THE THROW — Danny O'Connell, second baseman of the Milwaukee Braves, slides into home plate just ahead of the ball coming in to Bill Sarni, catcher of the New York Giants. Ed Mathews (41) next batter watches the slide as umpire Babe Pinelli gets into position for the call. The Braves won, 7-4, with help of Bobby Thomson's grand slam homer.

Unfamiliar Faces Dot Quarter-Finals

Louise Brough Upset in Penn Meet

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The eight seeded players formed the quarter-final round in the men's division of the 57th annual Pennsylvania State Lawn Tennis championship, but a couple of unfamiliar faces dotted the women's lineup in the round of eight at the Merion Cricket Club.

When today's competition gets underway, one of the spectators will be Louise Brough, veteran campaigner from Beverly Hills, Calif., who yesterday was unceremoniously dumped by Karl Fageros, a young Miamian who a few years ago played in the pigtail set.

Miss Fagros, the nation's 14th ranking player, defeated Miss Brough 8-6, 6-4. Today she meets Mimi Arnold, Redwood, Calif., seventh seeded player who won yesterday 6-0, 6-1 over Mrs. Arday
Richards, Waban, Mass.

Another match pits Althea Gibson, second seeded and now the tournament favorite, against Pat Naud, San Mateo Calif. Miss Gibson disposed of Mary Ann Mitchell, San Leandro, Calif., 6-2, 11-9, while Miss Naud eliminated eighth seeded Belmar Gunderson, Ft.
Meade, Md., 6-4, 6-2.

Mrs. William DuPont, former U.
S. Wimbledon champion from Wilmington, Del., takes on Janet Hopps, Seattle, U.S. Intercollegiate champion, and Lois Felix, Meriden, Conn., plays Mrs. Francis Vosters, Wilmington, Del., in other quarter-final matches. Mrs.
DuPont advanced at the expense of Barbara Green, Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-4, 7-5, and Mrs. Vosters won over Rosa Maria Reyes, Mexico City, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5.

The men were separated from the boys in the male bracket and the eight players most often mentioned for Uncle Sam's Davis Cup team pair off for some hot competition.

Water Ski Tourney

W. L. Site for 2-Day Midwest Event

Entries were beginning to arrive at Walled Lake for the Midwest water skiing championships, set for two days, Aug. 11-12. The four-section tournament, involving three types of skiing on the water is the first of this magnitude in Michigan in the last eight years. Clare Riley, president of the co-sponsoring Walled Lake Chamber of Commerce said today.

"Champions named at this tourney will qualify for the big nationals in LaPorte, Ind. sometime later in the fall," Riley added. He said that 13 states will be represented in the event at Walled Lake, with an expected total entry list of more than 150 top skiing stars.

Competition takes place on the north shore, at the Jake Taylor auto sale spot, where bleachers to seat about 1,000 spectators are now being erected. Trick ski riding, slalom and jumping are required for competitive events.

Championship efforts are listed for boys and girls under 17, for men and women (unlimited classes) and for a veterans' group, for men over 35 years.

Awards will include title trophies for winners in all classes, with 50 trophies on the list. Sportsmanship awards will also be made.

Competition begins Saturday Aug. 11 at 9 a.m. ends at 6 p.m. Sunday's events run from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Added features for the tourney include a banquet for the skiers Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in one of the schools. Friday night a barbecue and square dance have been arranged for the Shopping Center.

Riley said the sponsors expect Dick West and Dave Thompson among Midwest officials to be at the tourney.

Wins at Speedway

Kelly in Hardtop Streak

Rusty Kelly rolled to his 3rd consecutive modified hardtop feature victory and Don Irish grabbed the old model feature race in Wednesday night's doubleheader program at Pontiac Speedway.

Following Kelly across the finish line in the 35-lap race were Bud Wells, 2nd, and Jerry Lerner, 3rd. Earl Swiney took 2nd and Bob Gatton finished 3rd behind Irish in the old model feature.

Kelly picked up another honor by winning the hardtop dash. Swiney was the victor in the old model pursuit while hardtop pursuit honors went to Pontiac's Benny Howell. Heat winners were Chuck Partello, Chuck Allen and Wells. Fastest qualifiers were Howell with his hardtop and Gatton in the old model run.

Mid-season championship races will be held Sunday on the M59 oval with modified hardtops running in open competition. Time trials start at 5:30 p.m. with the 1st race at 7 o'clock.

Entries Close August 10

The United States Golf Assn. has announced that entries for the 56th Amateur golf championship will close Aug. 10. The entry fee is $10.

The tournament is set for the Knollwood Club at Lake Forest, Ill., Sept. 10-15. Knollwood will be open for practice between Sept. 4 through Sept. 9. Harvie Ward Jr., of San Francisco won the crown last year at Richmond, Va., and will be on hand to defend his title.

Doctoring Your Golf Game

By DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF

PATIENT'S COMPLAINT: Pronation problem.

DIAGNOSIS: Wrist roll natural TREATMENT: A lot of talk is heard about pronation. Ben Hogan attributed his change from hooking to finding the ball to wrist roll, which pronation is.

I don't like to think of pronation as a necessary movement, but only as the means to correct a fault. That's what it was in Ben's case. I feel that proper wrist action is the direct result of a proper backswing; that it is the natural sequence of a one-piece swing.

I prescribe concentrating on keeping a straight line from the clubhead up through the hands and the left arm to the left shoulder until the wrists break of themselves when the left arm has been extended at the end of the low sweep straight back from the ball.

If the wrists do not break too soon, the wrists, as the sketch shows, do pronate or roll over ever so slightly at a point about waist-high in the backswing. But don't think of it. As I mentioned, this comes naturally with the turn or pivot of the body. Concentrate instead on one-pieceing the swing. Get that first all-important move, straight back from the ball, and you're on your way to good golf. (Copyright 1956, John F. Dille Co.)

Needles Found Wanting

It was Elmo Shropshire, stable foreman of the Dickey Stable of William E. Leach in Ocala, Fla., who recommended 3-year-old stand-out Needles to Trainer Hugh Fontaine.

Joe Rutter, foreman under Fontaine, says:

"There were horses who could run rings around Needles as a yearling, but Elmo saw something in Needles and recommended the colt to Fontaine."

Fontaine bought the son of Ponder for $30,000 for the D & H Stable owners, Jackson Dudley and Bonnie Heath.

All Needles did this year was win the Flamingo, Florida Derby, Kentucky Derby and Belmont.

These Are Your Pals

Whoever stole 34 flags from the greens at the Midland, Mich., municipal golf course finally returned them by mail to the city parks director.

A note signed "Your Pals" said, "Thanks for a lot of fun this year and last. Hope we didn't hurt them too much." Golf course officials said the flags had been freshly washed and ironed.

Golf Comeback

Brooklands Is Green Again

Back many years ago, in the days of Pontiac's Tony Block and Bud Bassett, Brooklands Golf & Country Club was one of the finest and very active—golfing layouts of the metropolitan district.

Now, after a period of vicissitudes during which the once lush fairways and greens deteriorated, despite several sporadic attempts to bring them back, Brooklands is assuming its old status.

Since early spring a group of Detroit businessmen has taken over, and is making great progress towards rehabilitation of the Michigan road (No. 655) course.

Bud Charlip is the manager. The veteran greenskeeper, big, bluff Hughie Ross is out of retirement to help in the job. Charlip says he's done a "marvelous job" on the greens. Club pro is Don Rodgers, an excellent player, for some years with Lou Powers' Detroit city golf staff.

Brooklands is operated on a semi-public basis. It has many facilities.

The course is rapidly returning to top shape. It's 36-36-72 par (5,353 yards) is an intriguing test, with a creek making 13 crossings of fairways, offering major hazards.

A Good Napping Spot

Charley Boswell was elated to find a big log jutting out in the river at his favorite fishing spot.

Enough drift wood had collected around it that it made a perfect spot to fish from and pretty soon, Boswell stretched out and began dozing.

When he awakened, he found sharing his spot three turtles, a flock of blackbirds and a water moccasin!

Michigan Has Lone Survivor

Hamtramck Netter Gets to Semifinals of Girls Western Tourney

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Hamtramck's Virginia Hesse was the lone Michigan survivor in the Western Girls Tennis championships today after a series of upsets in quarterfinal rounds yesterday.

Miss Hesse, playing in the 15 and under class, turned back Katie Meyer of Nishota, Wis., 6-4, 6-2, yesterday and will meet Sylvia Hardaway of Gainesville, Fla., in the semifinals today.

In a surprising upset, second-seeded Sue Hodgman of Kalamazoo was knocked out by Gwyneth Thomas of Shaker Heights, Ohio, 5-4, 6-4 in the 15 and under division. Last Sunday Miss Hodgman carried top-seeded Carolyn Wilkoff of Middletown, Ohio, to three sets before losing in the finals of the Kentucky junior championships.

Other Michigan results: Jean Sorum, Madison, Wis., upset fourth-seeded Phyllis Saganaki, Hamtramck, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, in the 15 and under class; Judy Hagan, Middletown, Ohio, whipped Gwen McEvans, Hamtramck, 6-3, 6-3, 18 and under class; and Linda Neils, Lynn Keweenaw, the No. 4 seed in the 15 and under class.

Failed to Stop Cobb

Earl Hamilton, a lumber processor, still talks about Ty Cobb and how the Georgia Peach robbed him of a shutout in a 1912 no-hit game.

Hamilton, then a southpaw with the St. Louis Browns, says he beat Detroit on a no hitter 5-1 on Aug. 30, 1912. But he yanked Cobb and the terror of the American League proceeded to steal second, third and home.

"When Cobb got on first, he did so many things I couldn't keep up with him," Hamilton recalls.

SHOWING OFF—Irish stallion, Tulyar, romps vigorously around under the watchful eye of A. B. Hancock, Jr., at the Claiborne Farm, Paris, Ky. Hancock headed a syndicate which paid $672,000 for the 7-year-old son of Tehran. The horse arrived at Claiborne after a 14-hour flight from Shannon, Ireland.

There have been 88 Smiths in the major leagues since 1871. The name Brown and Jones have made the majors 42 times each.

Duke sprint star Dave Sims took part in baseball, basketball and football at Fair Lawn, N. J., High School.

The National league hit for 16, 998 total bases in 1955 as compared with 15,934 total bases for the American league.

Prize for Breaking Club

Sportscaster Don Dunphy won a prize for breaking his golf club. It happened on the 17th tee in the Metropolitan Basketball Coaches Assn. tournament. Dunphy hit a beautiful tee shot but he thought his ball had reached a pond 225 yards away.

He tossed his club and it hit a tree. When he found the club it was in two pieces. He received no prize for shooting a 93 but got six new golf balls for breaking the club.

No Car Allowed Please

Bethany College quarterback Max Homer has been suspended for taking his car to school. The sophomore was third ranked nationally by the NAIA last season in total yards gained among small college players.

Athletic Director John Knight said Homer failed to keep his car off campus as required at Bethany.

The Albany Senators of the Class A Eastern League are affiliated with the Boston Red Sox.

The longest soccer streak in Dartmouth College history was 13 victories, stretching from mid-season of 1953 through midway in

Juvenile Expert Absolves Parents of Blame for KidsBy BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (U)—An expert on juvenile delinquency today came to the defense of parents.

"The mothers and fathers are always getting the blame when their children get in trouble," said Sal Mineo. "I think that's wrong. Sure, some parents are responsible for delinquents because of neglect and poor upbringing."

"But more often it is the fault of the kids themselves. If a kid at 18 doesn't know the difference between what's right and what's wrong, there's something wrong with him."

Sal is 17 and an actor. He qualifies as an expert on juvenile delinquency because he is the most notable portrayal of delinquents in films and TV. He got his start in pictures playing Tony Curtis as a boy in "Six Bridges to Cross." That's the film in which Curtis pulled off a Brink's-like robbery. Sal got an Oscar nomination for his delinquent part in "Rebel Without a Cause" and is playing a trouble-maker in the current "Crime in the Streets" and "Somebody Up There Likes Me."

He did still another in "Dino" on TV, and he'll repeat the role in the film version, his next assignment.

Aside from his portrayals of delinquents, Sal draws knowledge of the problem from his boyhood in New York City.

"I didn't grow up in an especially tough neighborhood," he said. "My mother and father did, and they were determined that their children would be brought up in a better place."

"But neighborhood doesn't mean everything. I remember seeing a young kid who lived near us. He was groggy from drinking too much. Two days later he was ar-

Transportation Field Seen Developing New Carriers

EAST LANSING (INS)—Atomic-powered trucks... railroad yards operated by electric trains... flying boxcars traveling 500 miles an hour.

These are a few of the innovations in transportation predicted at the third annual Michigan Traffic and Transportation Conference at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Thomas Robertson, an executive director of the American Trucking Association, Washington, D. C., forecast "more than half the total freight transported by railroads and highways will go by truck-trailer by 1968."

New developments in rail hauling were outlined by W. W. Brown, president of the Union Pacific Railroad, Chicago. He listed as improvements: Welded rails, great lump yards, diesel locomotives, specially designed freight cars for easy loading and unloading and the increased mechanization of freight yards.

Southern Hospitality —a la Kentuckians

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jesse Hunt, a 32-year-old truck driver from Francisco, Ind., can tell you about Southern hospitality, Kentucky style.

When Hunt's trailer-truck overturned on a curve of U.S. 41 near here, Kentuckians helped take off his load of watermelons so the truck could be righted. Ready to go again, Hunt rewarded his helpers with watermelons on the house.

Then Hunt looked for his wife and young son who had been riding with him and escaped injury in the mishap. He found them at a nearby farmhouse where they had been fed and put to bed.

Hunt had to wake them up to resume his trip.

Grains Drifting
in Board Trade

CHICAGO (U) — Grains drifted aimlessly in rather quiet dealings on the Board of Trade today, grainmen finding nothing in the overnight news to inspire large scale buying or selling.

Wheat, oats and rye were mostly a little lower, largely on profit taking after recent advances. Soybeans forged ahead on unconfirmed rumors of export business. Corn eased early and then rebounded. Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to 1/4 lower, September $2.16; corn 1/4 lower, 1/4 higher, September $1.80; oats 1/4 to 1/2 lower, September 72 1/2; rye unchanged to 1/4 lower, September $1.30; soybeans 1/4 to 1/2 higher, September $2.42; hard wheat unchanged to 1/2 cents a hundred pounds higher, September $1.20.

Courtesy Losses Out to Southern Hospitality

A slightly bewildered male made several weak but ineffectual efforts to get on a department store escalator packed with women shoppers.

After waiting behind him a somewhat exasperated woman shoved ahead, wedged out space for two and boomed: "This isn't any time for courtesy. Let's have a little Southern hospitality instead."

An Akron rubber company is producing a new rubber conveyor belt insulated with glass fiber for foundries. It says the belt can resist pieces of red-hot metal that would burn through conventional rubber belting.

Great Lakes Steamer Gives Bell to Church

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP)—A 350 pound ship's bell from the old Great Lakes whaleback steamer Christopher Columbus, is set to ring in a new career. It's being sent to a missionary station in Northern Rhodesia, Africa, to be used as a church bell.

The Christopher Columbus, launched in 1892, was scrapped here in 1936. Oscar Lindemann Sr., of Manitowoc purchased the bell and used it as a dinner bell at his cottage on Pigeon Lake. Now he's given it to the Rev. A.B. Habben, of the Northern Rhodesian Mission who spent a furlough here.

Toast slices of ready-bought pound cake and serve with fresh fruit and whipped cream for a quick dessert.

Houston Invests $75 in Two Vote Election

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The City of Houston paid $75 for the votes of O.W. Fordyce and W.O. Cox on a city issue election.

They were the only voters at Precinct 14. The city paid out $42.50 in salaries for an election judge and three clerks to man the polling place, $22.50 to rent the voting machine and $10 rent for the precinct site.

In Tower of London

LONDON—The Tower of London is a fortress with many towers and dungeons, ravens, beefeaters, and the crown jewels. The White Tower, with its four turrets, was built nearly 900 years ago and contains one of London's oldest chapels.

They Give Pay Raise—Take Away Tea Time

BURY ST. EDMUNDS, Eng. (INS)—Workmen employed by the Bury St. Edmunds town council no longer enjoy their afternoon tea breaks. The council decided that "unofficial rest periods" should be cut out because of a raise in pay. The increase amounted to three cents an hour.
