

Kennedys Greeted Warmly in Venezuela

FIRST SALE — A check for $100 from The Pontiac Press and the Pontiac Goodfellows off to a good start as they prepared for their annual sale of newspapers today in the city. Receiving the donation from Fred Thompson (right), circulation manager of The Press, are Mickey George, a postal employee; George Ferguson, a Pontiac fireman; and James R. Lafour, a policeman who is chairman of the Goodfellows sale for the Pontiac Metropolitan Club, Spirit 6.

Sell Papers to Aid Needy

Needy families in Pontiac and three other area communities will have their faith restored in Santa Claus by Christmas Day.

But Santa Claus for them might be a postman in Pontiac, a fire fighter in Highland Township, a Lions Club member in Oxford or a policeman in White Lake Township.

All these men, plus hundreds of others, will use it that less fortunate families in these communities receive badly needed food and clothing for Christmas through sale of today's Good-

Two MSUO Dormitories to Be Dedicated Sunday

Two dormitories for 192 students will be dedicated at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow at Michigan State University, Oakland.

One is the men's dorm, and the other is the women's dorm, Anibal House, named after Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Anibal who provided furnishings through a gift of 1,000 shares of General Motors stock worth $50,000.

The donation will also provide support for MSUO's science-engineering program.

Anibal, of 1435 Cranbrook Road, Bloomfield Township, is a former chief engineer of the Pontiac Motor Division.

COST $600,000

Construction cost of the two dorms was $600,000, according to a MSUO spokesman.

The two-story dorms are located on a sloping site Northeast of the Oakland Center. Each dorm has two wings joined by a resident advisor's apartment. There are 24 double rooms in each floor of each wing. Laundry facilities are also provided for each wing.

"These small residences," a spokesman said, "are intended to provide the advantages of fraternities and sororities—small-group living—without the disadvantages. There are no residence fraternities or sororities at MSUO."

U.S. to Put Up $133 Million for Ghana Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has decided to put up $133 million to help build a giant hydroelectric project on the Volta River in Ghana.

The money would be used both for a dam and an aluminum plant.

The State Department announced that Clarence Randall, sent by President Kennedy to Ghana to investigate prospects for the multimillion-dollar undertaking, will inform Ghana Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah today of the U.S. decision.

Randall is now in Accra, capital of the new West African country.

In addition to the $133 million loan from the United States other interests will contribute $100 million, including $88 million from the government of Ghana and $32 million from a U.S. aluminum group composed mainly of the Kaiser Aluminum Co.

Rain to Substitute for Snow on Sunday

Some snow late tonight changing to rain Sunday is the weatherman's forecast for the Pontiac area. The low will be 28 tonight.

A warmer 35 is the predicted high for Sunday. More snow flurries and sleet are the outlook for Monday. Morning easterly winds at 5 miles per hour will become southeasterly at 5 to 15 m.p.h. late today and southerly tonight.

Fourteen was the lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury reading at 1 p.m. was 29.

Resistance Weakens

Katanga Base Falls to U.N.

Peiping's Loss Is U.S. Gain on U.N. Seat Vote

Uncle Sam's Prestige Soars as Red China Is Denied Membership

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — U.S. prestige in the United Nations soared today with the stunning defeat of a Soviet-led attempt to seat Communist China in place of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists.

The General Assembly's 48-0 rebuff of Peiping's bid was hailed as a victory for the United States that finally met the 10-year-old China issue head-on in a test of strength with the Soviet Union.

The fact that only 36 nations voted for Red China surprised many delegates. It was obviously less than anticipated by the United States, which had sought to block the Communists with its proposal making China seating an "important question" requiring a two-thirds vote for adoption.

The Reds actually fell more than a dozen votes short of even a simple majority. Twenty countries abstained from voting.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson declared the result had reinforced Nationalist China's long-disputed right to hold its seat in the United Nations. Stevenson said he was "gratified" by the outcome of the first showdown on the seating question since the Communists took over the China mainland in 1949.

FOR YULE BASKETS

Lafour, a Pontiac policeman, said proceeds will be used to provide funds for Christmas baskets distributed by the Salvation Army and for other charitable causes supported by the club during the year.

Members of the Metropolitan Club, which includes Pontiac policemen, firemen and postal employees, will be assisted by the city's police reserves and men who serve with the local Naval Reserve Division.

Pontiac Goodfellows will be stationed at all major intersections in the city and at the Tel-Huron and Miracle Mile shopping centers.

Boeing to Build Part of Man-on-Moon Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has taken another step in its man-on-the-moon project by awarding a $30-million contract to the Boeing Co., of Seattle.

Boeing's job: to build the main part of the huge Saturn rocket that is to launch a manned U.S. space capsule on a mission to the moon.

Elimination of the fee system for justices of the peace has been urged by Michigan's state police commissioner, Joseph A. Childs, said Friday that some justice courts are very good and some are very poor.

Speaking before the judicial committee of the constitutional convention, Commissioner Joseph A. Childs said Friday that some justice courts are very good and some are very poor.

Childs said his men are instructed not to take cases to justices who use "improper quarters" for their courtrooms, such as trailers.

State police have been criticized in some quarters because they have the power to control the income of justices operating under a fee system by making a case on where they take traffic cases.

Shouts of 'Viva Kennedy' Warm Venezuelan Arrival

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Kennedy drove safely through the streets of Caracas today, happily responding to shouts of "Viva Kennedy," and then voiced a warning to Latin Americans to be aware of alien philosophies that promise prosperity but take away liberties.

The President was here to promote the Alliance for Progress that links U.S. aid billions with a program of Latin American self-help. His welcome was warm.

On reaching La Carlota Airport at the south edge of Caracas, he took off by helicopter to visit housing and agrarian reform projects.

At La Morita, 50 miles south-west of Caracas, the Venezuelan government is presenting land titles to its families. There Kennedy made his principal address of the day, touching on the ways that Communism and Catholicism could impede the progress of Latin America.

Alien philosophies, he said, try to tell the people that "economic progress is possible only if we submit to a discipline which destroys liberty."

He congratulated Venezuelans who "have made the transition from a repressive dictatorship with its false show, its illusory promises and its ruthless destruction of human freedom to progressive democratic rule."

Holdout Forces in City Next Goal of Troops as Tshombe Moves Out

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — U.N. Swedish troops today captured the main Katangan base in Elisabethville and drove against holdout forces in the heart of the city against weakening resistance. Two other strongpoints also fell to U.N. attack.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga moved his government 30 miles south to the mining town of Kilpushi, a spokesman for his regime reported from near Northern Rhodesia.

Three companies of Swedish troops captured Camp Masari, Katangan stronghold on the eastern side of Elisabethville, overwhelming 350 defenders, a U.N. announcement said. The fall of the camp was expected to break the back of Katangan resistance in the capital.

The attackers held the northern half of the city and its eastern and western approaches, the Katangans denied the capture of the capital and the southern district and suburbs.

A Katanga mission spokesman in Brussels denied that Tshombe had fled for Kilpushi. But he said his last contact with the president in Elisabethville was several hours earlier. He added: "We cannot say with absolute certainty that he is still there at this moment."

On the second day of an all-out attack, the 6,000-man U.N. army was reported to have captured the Lido Hotel, a stronghold on the western side of the city near Tshombe's residence. The hotel commands one of two main roads leading south from the capital.

Thant Holds Out for Objectives

Won't Back Cease Fire in Katanga Till U.N. Gains Military Goals

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary General U Thant was still holding out today against a cease-fire in Katanga until the United Nations has won all its objectives in fighting there.

He made that clear Friday night in replying to cabled pleas from the leaders of two French-speaking African countries that he "issue formal instructions for an immediate cease-fire in Katanga."

Thant told President Abbe Fureux of the Congo-Brassaville and President Philibert Tsiranana of the Malagasy Republic he was first considering their pleas carefully.

But he said the United Nations could stop fighting only when it had freedom of movement and freedom from attack, plus clear guarantees that it could carry out completely all U.N. resolutions "to the satisfaction of Security Council and General Assembly."

Those resolutions call for the removal of all foreign mercenaries from the Congo, uphold the territorial integrity of the country and demand an end to secessionist activities in President Moise Tshombe's Katanga.

The committee on legislative organization, handling the most explosive issue facing the convention, will travel by bus to Kalamazoo and Berrien Springs Wednesday.

Urge State Aid for Mentally Ill Youngsters

Speakers at a public hearing yesterday demanded state help for mentally ill children, many of whom can't get into overcrowded state hospitals.

Among those attending the meeting of the American Association of University Women's state division was State Sen. Farrell E. Roberts, R-Pontiac, who pledged his help in introducing bills to aid such children.

One bill would provide $1.5 million for separate children's units in state hospitals. In most state hospitals, children now are mixed with adult patients.

A second bill would increase operating funds of state hospitals by nearly half a million dollars to improve care, treatment and education programs for children.

Race Demonstrators Are Ordered to Stop

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The Congress of Racial Equality was under federal and state court orders today to stop demonstrations against racial discrimination here after police used tear gas to quell 1,500 Negroes.

Three CORE leaders were among 12 Negroes jailed in a series of protests that culminated yesterday afternoon when police needed tear gas at least five times to stop disturbances in the downtown business area.

Officials took three steps to end further demonstrations: 1. U.S. District Court Judge Gordon Webb issued a restraining order against CORE that forbade any activity that might tend to breach the peace. He set a show cause hearing for Jan. 4.

2. Three state judges, C. A. Barrett, Fred Blanchard and Fred LeBlanc, signed a similar restraining order that named a number of CORE leaders in Baton Rouge and New Orleans. They set a show cause hearing for Dec. 26.

3. The dean of Southern University, Dr. E. C. Harrison, said Christmas holidays would begin today instead of Dec. 19.

The tear gas attacks followed demonstrations in front of the East Baton Rouge Courthouse, where the 23 arrested Thursday were jailed; at the nearby old state capital, on the edge of the business district, and in downtown streets filled with Christmas shoppers.

Each time the marchers, mostly Southern University students, regrouped to continue the demonstrations, officers fired tear gas into the crowd.

Those jailed included David Dennis, CORE field representative for Louisiana, who was jailed with 22 other Negroes Thursday for blocking a public thoroughfare while picketing downtown shops; Ronnie Moore, CORE leader at the all-Negro Southern University who was arrested during Friday's demonstrations and charged along with 48 others with disturbing the peace; and the Rev. E. B. Cox, CORE field secretary from High Point, N.C., who was arrested on two charges of conspiring to riot and inciting riot. Bond was set at $150 apiece.

Officers used two police dogs in making arrests. There were no reports of injuries.

Chambers was hurt when struck by a car as he was crossing Saginaw Street near Rarburn Avenue. The driver of the car, Marcus J. Scott, 283 Marlborough St., told police a parked car kept Chambers from his view as he started to cross the street.

Wright was injured when his car went off the road and struck a speed limit sign on West Main Road in Commerce Township at about 10 a.m. Wright left Oakland County Sheriff's deputies two or three cars forced him off the road.

The Garrison girl suffered head injuries when a car in which she was riding struck her car and crashed into a tree in Independence Township at 2 a.m.

SKIDDED ON ICE
Marshall K. London Jr., 18, of 6255 Shapelle Road, Brandon Township, the driver of the car in which Miss Garrison was a passenger, told deputies his car skidded on ice just before the accident occurred on Stickney Road near Pine Knob Road. He was treated and released.

NO SUICIDE WAY
"As is true in controversial questions," Whitmer told the protesting parents, "there is no decision that would be fully acceptable to all people."

"This is always unfortunate. We do, and will continue to guarantee that the reservations which parents have in school matters will always receive serious and complete consideration by school personnel."

Both books had been recommended for reading nationally by the National Council of English Teachers, the American Library Association and in a widely used listing of "The Standard Catalog for High School Libraries," published by the H. W. Wilson Co., a publishing firm of reference works.

Whitmer noted that none of the 15 citizens, who were asked to read the two books, reported back as being opposed to their use in Pontiac high schools. The citizens' study group included all walks of life ranging from law enforcement officers to psychologists to businessmen and parents.

Spokesmen of the parents' group had indicated however they would abide by whatever decision was taken by school administrators.

In letters sent to the parents, Dana P. Whitmer pointed out that parents retain the right to ask for different readings to the pupils and his family because of their beliefs and convictions.

Ousted Teacher Ordered Back

School Unit to Be Told to Reinstate Mrs. Vogel After Tenure Group OK

Mrs. Isa M. Vogel, ousted in 1960 from teaching in a Pontiac elementary school, yesterday was ordered reinstated by the State Tenure Commission.

Mrs. Vogel today said she still intends to work for the Pontiac school system, "but I don't know what the board's thoughts are at this time." If it wanted, the board of education could appeal the decision in circuit court.

Reinstatement also means the granting of back pay amounting to the difference between what she would have earned at Herrington Elementary School and any job she may have held in the meantime.

The case started in April 1960 when the school district did not offer her a contract after completion of the probationary period of two years.

In a formal resolution by the Pontiac Board of Education in July 1960, Mrs. Vogel was described as not having "demonstrated competence in using good judgment in dealing with children and parents."

The resolution also said she did not demonstrate a willingness to accept personal assistance and guidance from her superiors.

A group of 31 parents had petitioned the board in Mrs. Vogel's support after another group demanded her ouster.

Who IS in Caracas?

But Only if Reds Modify Policy
U.S. Gets Green Light on Berlin Talks

PARIS (AP)—The way lay open today for the United States to lead the West's quest for a Berlin bargain with the Soviet Union, but only on condition the Russians make major modifications in their policy.

A high U.S. source said the recent public statements of Soviet leaders do not lend an acceptable basis for negotiations.

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan got the approval of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers to chart a cautious course for the West's next move.

Kennedy and Macmillan will meet in Bermuda Dec. 20 and 21. They are expected to draft a directive that will send the U.S. ambassador in Moscow, Llewellyn Thompson, to ask Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko—and himself—to explore prospects of a compromise on Berlin.

As foreign, finance and defense ministers of the 15-nation Atlantic alliance traveled home, a high French official unfolded the intriguing drama of the Allied duel over Berlin policy played out behind the sedate scenes of the three-day assembly.

This is the story as the Frenchman gave it:

France opposed talks with the Russians on grounds that Khrushchev, who manufactured the Berlin crisis, would see it as weakness. Almost all the other allies favored negotiations, fearing that the crisis in the divided city could become a flashpoint of possible nuclear war.

Foreign ministers of the four big Western powers directly concerned—the United States, Brit-

Public Assistance Asked to Provide Animal Shelter

BIRMINGHAM — The Birmingham Humane Society has issued a plea for financial assistance for a proposed animal shelter, Mrs. Carl R. Kocher, secretary of the organization, announced today.

In the five years the local society has been in existence, it has only been through the generous donations of persons who know what is being done in caring for animals that the organization has been able to continue its work, she said.

"If each pet owner would send a small donation, I'm sure it would not be too long before a shelter for lost, found and neglected pets could become a reality," added Mrs. Kocher.

"The society attempts to take care of all cats but it is difficult with no finances coming in. Just this past two weeks we have had 11 calls on cruelty cases."

Last year, she said, the society has received more than 4,100 service calls, with the result that homes were found for 780 animals and another 624 lost animals were returned to their owners.

These calls are not only from the Birmingham's Blount County area, but from Oak Park, Clanton, Troy, Madison Heights, Berkeley, Royal Oak, and many other county communities, according to Mrs. Kocher.

Donations can be mailed to the Birmingham Humane Society at 275 E. Maple Road.

Ernest A. Jones, president of the Birmingham's Blount County area, has been named a seven-member committee to plan Michigan's participation in the Century 21 World's Fair at Seattle next year.

The appointments to the committee were made by Gov. Swift.

Michigan Day at the fair will be June 19. Ceremonies will include raising of the Michigan State flag on the Plaza of States.

Fred A. Kaiser, vice president of Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., is chairman of the committee and will serve as the governor's personal representative at the fair.

Birmingham architect Linn Smith has been named to the jury for the 1962 second annual Reynolds Aluminum Prize for Architectural Studies.

Smith, a graduate of the University of Michigan's College of Architecture and Design, is director of the American Institute of Architects in the Great Lakes Region.

A national prize of $5,000 is offered for "the best original design for a building component in aluminum." It will be presented during the AIA state convention in Dallas May 7-11.

The competition is open to all students in participating schools who have completed at least two years of an architectural design curriculum.

Arthur H. Gruber, Service for Arthur H. Gruber, 84, of 1376 Villa Road, was scheduled for 3 p.m. today at the Manly-Bailey Funeral Home followed by cremation at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy.

Mr. Gruber, the retired owner of a copper mine in Mexico, died yesterday at his residence after a long illness.

He is survived by his wife Caroline; two daughters, Mrs. Richard Sprague of San Marino, Calif., and Mrs. Ralph Blakehook of Arcadia, Calif.; and two sisters.

Break Off Talks With Negroes

Unit in Georgia City Ends Negotiations With Race-Fight Leaders

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—The Albany City Commission today broke off negotiations with Negro leaders over demands to lower segregation barriers in the city.

The action came as Negroes threatened a renewal of demonstrations which have resulted in more than 150 arrests this week.

The City Commission resumed its executive session shortly before 8 a.m., after the president of the Albany movement, Dr. W. G. Anderson, set a 10 a.m. deadline for the city to reply to his organization's demands.

In a statement issued as the commission meeting broke up, the city said it could not continue negotiations in view of what it called the apparent intention of the Negroes not to live up to their pledge not to stage demonstrations while the talks were going on.

When the NATO Council began its meeting Wednesday the subject was discussed at length again, for most of the day. The same pattern emerged—France was old man out. The ministers ordered their experts to try to reconcile the conflicting viewpoints.

They worked at the job postop for 13 hours, producing draft after draft. Finally agreement was arrived at on a brief passage fitted into a general communique of the NATO conference, which totaled about 1,900 words.

The whole communique, with 14 points, was placed before the ministers Friday.

He is survived by his wife Caroline; two daughters, Mrs. Richard Sprague of San Marino, Calif., and Mrs. Ralph Blakehook of Arcadia, Calif.; and two sisters.

Defense Department to Purchase Biscuits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department said Friday it would buy about 150-million pounds of bulgur under a survival biscuit made of crushed wheat which can last at least five years without spoiling.

A Civil Defense official said the bulgur—a parched wheat that draws its name from a Turkish area—is "probably one of the most ancient foods." The water itself was developed by Agriculture Department research scientists at Albany, Calif.

The two-inch-square wafers, having a little like granola crackers, will be placed in shelters now being marked across the country.

John M. Pater Named Alger Probate Judge

LANISING (AP)—John M. Pater of Munising was named probate judge for Alger County by Gov. Swanson Friday.

He succeeds the late Judge Frank L. Dufour, who was re-elected last year for a term expiring Dec. 31, 1964.

Pater, 47, will face election for the remainder of Judge Dufour's term at the November, 1962, election. He has been public administrator for Alger County since 1955.

Robs Firms, Not Employees

Gunman Has Yule Spirit

DETROIT (AP) — A holdup man with a code of ethics robbed other money about was the $32 in the E&G Finance Co. of $57 Friday.

Nancy Lovell, 26, a clerk, gave the gunman the $57 in her cash drawer. The man asked for more but Mrs. Lovell said that all there was on the premises was a few dollars in her purse.

"Forget it," the man replied. "I don't want any of your money. You need it to buy Christmas gifts."

Shortly afterward, Joseph Elias, 38, the office manager, returned and the holdup man demanded money from him. Elias explained the firm did all its business with checks and the only other money about was the $32 in his wallet.

"Keep it and buy Christmas presents. I only want the firm's money," the man replied and left with the company's $57.

Space Mishap Ends U.S. Success String

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A mishap at the edge of space Friday night wrecked the second longest string of successes ever run up by a U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile.

The accident, due to a mechanical or electrical failure, struck a huge Titan missile a little more than two minutes after it was launched on a flight to test a new guidance system.

The 98-foot rocket, aimed at a target about 5,000 miles southeast of here, instead plummeted into the Atlantic Ocean only a little way off the Florida coast.

The fizzle ended the Titan's success string at 12—a string that started June 23.

Santa and the Flying Shoes

(AP)

SYNOPSIS: Santa and King Perchick of Valley Forge, whooping over the mysteries of the Ipswitch, suddenly the lights go out and the King disappears.

CHAPT. TWELVE

Santa looked about in bewilderment. The King's room appeared perfectly normal but the King was missing. Standing there, Santa heard a strange rattling in the closet on the far side of the bed. He tiptoed to the closet and put his ear against the door.

The rattling was subdued but violent as if a cock in a hurry was beating a dozen eggs into an omelet.

Santa took a deep breath and threw open the door. The King's clothes hamper was jumping up and down on the closet floor.

Reaching out gingerly, Santa opened the hamper and stepped quickly back. A pair of legs popped from the tangled clothes and waved frantically in the air. "For goodness sake!" exclaimed Santa. "It's the King!"

And so it was. Santa fished him, pattering and quivering, out of the tough leather pants and coarse the clothes hamper and set him on his feet.

WHAT HAPPENED?

The King unwound a purple stocking from his neck. "When the lights went out I felt myself fly through the air and I landed upside down in the dirty clothes. That's all I know."

"We must get to the bottom of this," said Santa suddenly very business like. "Since all of your troubles started with the first visit of the Ipswitch I suggest we find the Ipswitch."

"But — I can't go out of the palace!" protested the King. He told Santa how the people were very angry because he had not stopped the Ipswitch. "If they see me they will tear the crown from my head."

"Poo!" said Santa cheerfully. "We will wear disguises." He opened his bag and pulled out two woodchoppers costumes. "This will suit me better than an old woman's dress anyway," he said, putting on his new disguise.

Delighted, the King drew on the pattering and quivering, out of the tough leather pants and coarse coat and admired himself in the mirror.

"We'll need rope," said Santa as he hustled around the room.

"There's the fire rope," said the King. "It hangs out the window for escape in case of fire." He opened the window and pulled up the rope that dangled like stories down.

Santa wound the rope over his shoulder and the two woodchoppers stole out of the palace. Dawn was just breaking when they arrived at a narrow plain between two hills just beyond the town.

"Wherever the Ipswitch steps it will have to pass this way," reasoned Santa. "We'll stretch this rope across the plain and no matter how fast it goes or how big it is it is bound to trip over the rope."

They tied one end of the rope to the top of a sycamore and the other end to an oak on the opposite side of the plain. Then they hid themselves in some bushes and waited.

WAITED ALL DAY

They waited all that day and all that night and by the next morning they were not only frozen they were starved. They were just going to get food when they heard a distant thud.

"It's coming!" cried the King. In a moment there was another thud, still far away but shaking the ground around them. There another thud, this one so close it upheaved the bushes around the woodchoppers and buried them in dirt and shrubbery.

The thuds receded and Santa and the king unbared themselves and rushed to the plain. There was the footprint of the Ipswitch and right in front of it stretched the rope just as they had left it. The Ipswitch had never even touched it.

Boy Scouts Set Sixth Jamboree at Valley Forge

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America will hold its sixth national jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., in July or August 1964, it was announced Friday by chief scout executive Joseph A. Brunton Jr.

He said the jamboree will be planned for 50,000 Boy Scouts and explorers, and adult leaders.

It will be the third jamboree at historic Valley Forge. A 1950 jamboree there was attended by 47,163 boys and leaders from every state and from many other lands. Some 50,000 camped there in 1957.

Annexation Vote Slated Feb. 6 in Port Huron

PORT HURON (AP) — The city of Port Huron and Port Huron Township will vote Feb. 6 on proposed annexation of four township areas to the city.

The St. Clair County Board of Supervisors fixed the date Thursday. Township residents petitioned for annexation.

It Seems to Me . . .

Pontiac, Fisher Body Extend Grand Christmas Greetings

Without a doubt the most heartening and even sensational Christmas news in many a day lies in Pontiac Motor Division's current announcement. The declaration that 1,250 men will be added to the payroll is electrifying. It affects both Pontiac Motor Division and the big Fisher plant. JAMES E. GOODMAN, Executive Vice President, told me last night that the corporation was very happy to take this big, forward step here in the Pontiac area.

The families of these 1,250 delighted individuals come first. That's for sure. It means a merry, merry Christmas for 4,000 people at least. Santa himself can't beat that. Then, there are the friends and associates of this big, happy group. It's discouraging and depressing to see people out of work, or to be vaguely aware that you yourself may be teetering on the ragged edge of a layoff because of conditions entirely beyond your control—that of your employer. Pontiac Motor's sales are nationwide and depend on a variety of independent and inter-related circumstances. And as the Pontiac car and the GMC truck go, so goes a big populous area.

Next, the economy of the entire district is tremendously stimulated and bolstered. Employment is increased other than purely in the Pontiac Motor and Fisher Body Divisions. All businesses will be stimulated and new employees added here and there, or those marked for reluctant release can be retained.

The actual Christmas trade should be buoyed appreciably by the good news and the confidence it pumps into an entire area. E. M. ESTES and his associates are currently wearing red suits, white flowing beards and ample paunches that they can't see or feel. But they're there. Merry Christmas to all.

There's No Rush . . .

Our fine Spanish speaking friends to the South are justly celebrated for their famous "manana." But the inscrutable Orientals far to the East even regard "tomorrow" as unseemly haste.

Laos is a case in point.

Sometime in the early summer, our Mr. Averill Harriman recommended that we let three rival potentates adjudicate their country's fate. This meant that we must forsake a compatriot, Prince Boun Oum, who was "in our corner."

Weeks dragged into months and finally the three announced solemnly that the only man they could rightly support would be one Souvanna Phouma. This estimable individual tagged himself a "neutral" and while this might be deceptive, he was the closest thing they found to a satisfactory compromise.

This was the start. Weeks and weeks have passed. In Pennsylvania or Montana, decisions of sorts would have been reached in 1.2 days, but in these circumstances it took 120.

The business of a cabinet came next—and they're still at it. Apparently no one of them trusts the other two; and all three may be right. Thus, the world stands respectfully by while they harangue each other—without ostensible gain. Perhaps "haste makes waste" as Honorable Confucius says, but it gets things off dead center. Of course, there has been some progress and these matters have been settled:

- 1-Outsiders will not interfere with Laos;
- 2-Laos will not be used as a base for operations elsewhere;
- 3-Outside troops will leave Laos except for a small French contingent;
- 4-They are agreeing on the basic terms of a Laotian settlement.

But stickier matters remain. And they'll probably be pursued in the same unhurried fashion.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter. Gals, here's the newest: different colored lipstick for each lip. . . . The Blue Angel in New York has so many reservations for New Year's Eve they're having two—one Saturday and one Sunday. . . . And speaking of N.Y.E., the Waldorf Astoria has a package deal: dinner in the Empire Room, dancing, a floor show, over night at The Waldorf and breakfast in bed—all for $100. . . .

JOCELYN SCOFIELD, daughter of J. Edgar Hoover.

Purely personal nomination for an especially attractive Oakland County girl: JOCELYN SCOFIELD. And incidentally, it was JOCELYN and ANN WILSON MCMAUS that TED SMITS and I took to see the Pope. The Holy Father never looked upon two lovelier girls at the same time.

I can't prove it (now), but I'll bet a sugar cookie The Cross Country News (an aviation paper) is wrong in predicting the world will end Feb. 22, 1962. . . . "Do you know," boasted the first little girl "that my daddy's a dentist?" The second snifled. "Huh. Mine's a civil serpent." . . . Sign on a Chicago florist truck: "Drive Carefully. Did you hear about Miss Wall Street? Her measurements are 34 1/2-23 1/4-35 1/2. A well-known German rocket expert insists the Russians put a man in orbit in 1958 and he died there. . . . Miami's general area and the Caribbean report early reservations are 30 per cent ahead of last year at this time. . . . If Ed SULLIVAN adds two more commercials, there won't be time for Ed himself. . . . Impossible for it may seem—and incredible as it actually is—I goofed. Acting seriously on "good advice" I said mink pelts were at the lowest price in years. Now DAVE Horowitz tells me they're not even level. They're up. My face's as red as Santa's. . . . The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

"And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn." And from the humble manger would come a loving faith that would change the world.

Days of All Faiths:

Special Holiday Devoted to Mary

BY DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

On Dec. 18, one week before the celebration of the birth of Jesus, there is a holiday that makes one realize that some people are thoughtful and some just aren't. In France and Spain, and mostly among the religious orders there, they remember how the Virgin must have felt, as the most important birth in history drew near. The day is called The Expectation of the Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The observance started in Toledo, Spain in 654, but somehow never spread very far beyond that part of the world. The reasoning that began it seems to have been something like this: The Feast of the Annunciation (March 25) is the only day on which the mystery of Mary's preparation gets any attention at all. But this day always falls in Lent, when the church is preoccupied with its own preparation for Easter. Therefore we ought to devote a day to the young mother here at this season when her time is drawing near.

It is a good and sensitive thing to do, and it makes one wonder why the day is known and kept by so few people. The rest of us are not really unconcerned about what must have been going on in Mary's mind and heart at this time.

SAINTS WHO INVENTED SIN

There is a general theory that the chief characters of the Old Testament all made definite contributions to the preparation of the world for the coming of Christianity, and are in a way, therefore, to be considered saints. On this basis, some parts of the church celebrate Dec. 19, or at least carry it in their calendars, as the Feast of Saint Adam and Eve.

This is a hard one to understand. Isn't it true that if it hadn't been for the misbehavior of these two we would all be saints? It was their Fall that made it necessary for Christ to come and redeem all the human race from what they had done to it. How then are they saints? Their contribution to the preparation for Christianity certainly seems to have been a negative one.

FOREFATHERS' DAY

It might be a little difficult to show that Dec. 22 is a religious day now in these modern times, but religion is certainly the basic reason why there is such a day at all. Friday is Forefathers' Day, celebrated principally in New England, as the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, Mass., in 1620.

It is impossible to talk about the Pilgrims without talking about religion. Other early settlers may have come to America for any number of reasons—adventure, escape, business, or even because in some cases they were prisoners and had no choice in the matter.

But the Massachusetts Colony was made up of people whose only reasons for leaving the old country were religious reasons. They could not express their faith freely where they were, and that was so important to them that they were willing to leave all home ties and property so as to find a place where they could worship and live in the way that seemed right to them.

The date selected for this anniversary is a shaky one indeed. It is either one day late or 12 days early, depending on just what is being commemorated.

On Dec. 21 a landing party went ashore from the Mayflower near Plymouth, for exploratory purposes. On Jan. 4, 1621, all the Pilgrims disembarked. Nothing at all happened on Dec. 22. The first celebration of Forefathers' Day was held in 1789, with a dinner given by the Old Colony Club of Boston. How they got the date wrong is not known. (Copyright 1961)

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Good Salesman Needs 'Cheer Leader' for Wife

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE K-478: Richard A., aged 41, is agency manager of a large insurance company. "But I have difficulty keeping up the morale of my sales force," he ruefully confessed during our luncheon.

"We have regular Monday morning sales meetings at which time we discuss our plans for the week, and try to develop enough pep and enthusiasm to carry us along. "But many potentially star salesmen grow discouraged. They often are tempted by jobs giving them less income, but a regular pay check each week.

"Dr. Crane, have you any ideas for buoying up the morale of my salesmen?"

ENLIST WIVES

Many companies and sales managers don't devote enough time and attention to the wives of their salesmen. A wife can do a great deal to stimulate her husband's morale, or to tear it down. I have seen companies spend great sums trying to build up a winning spirit in a large sales force, but fail to devote one cent to the wives.

A sales convention may do wonders in pepping up a lukewarm salesman. But if his wife is bitter toward the sales field and makes belittling remarks about his product or merchandise, or his sales ability and his erratic income, she can entirely offset the good influence of those sales meetings.

'CHEER LEADER' WIVES

A man who is having difficulties with his wife or sweetheart, the wisest able to do this best in the severe game of salesmanship. Even with a loyal little wife who keeps telling him he can succeed and who helps spur him on, a salesman has a hard enough time in this competitive age. So include the wives in your sales convention! And I don't mean for sight seeing trips around the city or for bridge parties. Include them in an actual sales conference.

Always write in Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press. Pontiac, Mich. 48106. Stamp: self-addressed envelope and 30¢ when you send for his psychological charts and case records. (Copyright 1961)

Chairman Ginn Leaving 'Em

County Dems Face Crucial Period

By GEORGE T. TRUMBULL JR.

The Oakland County Democratic Committee is losing its chairman, James M. Ginn, at a crucial time. The young, aspiring political leader will turn in his resignation some time after Jan. 1 from the nonpaying post, a position he had hardly sunk his teeth into, to accept a $15,000-a-year "nonpartisan" job as TRUMBULL, Southfield city

TRUMBULL

The leadership of the always-the-bride-and-never-the-bride organization is up for grabs then, just months before the team should be unified toward 1962 election victories. Groomed during 1962 interparty strife in 1960 as the man to pull the group out of losing doldrums, Ginn has little to show for his 16 months of effort. The organization lost all but one of seven county constitutional convention seats, except a sure bet in the heavily Democratic 6th District—and then came within 300 votes of losing this seat.

SQUABBLING!

Squabbling exists in Democratic strongholds, Madison Heights and Royal Oak Township. There's been talk of the Democratic clubs there splitting in two. Although they're November congressional dinner was considered

Voice of the People:

Wonders What's So Good About President Kennedy

"Twilight" states that JFK is the best President to ever occupy the White House. Khrushchev states that communism is the best way of life. These statements prove nothing.

People fleeing from Khrushchev's captive satellite nations by the thousands prove he must be wrong. As for JFK, the missile gap he campaigned on did not exist and the Dems themselves admitted it was politics.

The Cuban underground was promised U.S. backing which they failed to get and the invasion was a flop. The Berlin issue is no better. DeGaulle predicts another Yalta. The Reds got the better of the deal in the U.N. is fighting in the Congo. The unemployment situation is still with us and JFK's top economists say the only way to solve it is raise the economy. I wonder if "Twilight" will elaborate on why JFK's such a good President.

Taxpayer Desires Reserved Parking

I read Herman Mulsin's letter. Where has he been? Doesn't he know we are already here. I paid my taxes today and almost all the parking places were reserved. Reserved for this one, reserved for that one. Don't park here, don't park there. Walk, wiggle, waddle, come on crutches or wheel chair, we don't care as long as you get it to us. I hope I live to see just one sign: taxpayers only park here.

Eye Antidote for N-Fallout

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. scientists are exploring the possibility of using chemicals as antidotes against radioactive fallout, an authority on radiation said today.

They hope to find that certain chemicals will "wash away" radioactive substances from the human body, said Dr. Donald P. Chadwick, chief of the Federal Health Service's Division of Radiological Health, in an interview.

One idea is to use the type of chemicals that are effective as antidotes against poison gas and such common poisons as arsenic. CLENGING TENDENCY. These chelating agents, as named after the claws or chelas of lobsters and crabs, tend to cling to certain chemicals and render them more or less inert. They also speed removal of unwanted chemicals by way of the body's urinary waste disposal system.

The British used the principle in developing a chemical defense for poison gas. Chelating agents have been used to develop antidotes for arsenic, blamuth and mercury poisoning. Now, says Dr. Chadwick, government and other researchers are trying to develop substances that might work similarly on constituents of radioactive fallout.

Smiles

BY HAL COCHRAN

Hard workers smile the most, says a doctor. We'd call that a real sense of humor.

If you're looking for a note of harmony that will settle family disputes, it's dough. You're taking a chance when you remove your galoshes in a movie. You may find them full of popcorn.

It makes you feel better yourself when you think they are nicer than you know they are.

County Dems Face Crucial Period

A financial squeeze, their "Dollars for Democrats" drive was nothing to brag about.

They lost what friends they had in neighboring Macomb County when Gov. John B. Swainson jumped Sherwood Colburn of Huntington Woods over their favorite son for state insurance commissioner. And this after Macomb went Democratic and Oakland didn't, last November.

At their last committee meeting in Pontiac—attended by about one-third the members—Ginn urged candidates for 1962 county offices to come forth immediately.

Although he did not openly State Rep. John C. Hitchcock in the sure-bet 6th—more privately came forth for the job Ginn hadn't even relinquished yet. Political feelers are going out for support for about six rumored successors.

Strong at the top of the list is Pontiac Motor Division worker Howard M. Arnold, Ginn's executive assistant and manager of the Federal Security Service's office, one of the first political plums pulled off by the local Democrats.

Arnold, of Royal Oak, had a big voice in the Reagan movement in 1960 which landed Ginn the chairmanship.

But the Local 653 UAW official would have strong labor backing, something not altogether pleasing to the committee members who they recall Ginn's successor. They must appoint the labor played in the dumping of Carlos G. Richardson, Ginn's predecessor.

'Church Must Teach Evils of Gambling'

An article quoted Richard Cardinal Cushing as saying that Boston was "betrayed" by a TV program about gambling. There were three betrayals.

1. The folks of Boston betrayed themselves by patronizing the bookie. 2. Their police department betrayed its responsibility for not upholding the law. 3. This high-ranking member of the clergy has given account to the major source of revenue for the underworld.

He said that "gambling exists everywhere" and "that gambling is not a sin." Our churches must lead!

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, Dec. 16, the 350th day of the year with 15 to follow in 1961.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1773, the Boston Tea Party was held by American colonists protesting the British tax on tea.

In 1916, the "Mad Monk" Gregory Rasputin, who had great influence over the czar and czarina of Russia, was lured to the palace of a Petrograd nobleman and was poisoned and slain.

In 1944, the Germans launched a great counteroffensive beginning the Battle of the Bulge in Belgium.

In 1950, President Harry Truman proclaimed a state of emergency calling for a united effort to withstand Communist aggressions in Korea.

A thought for the day: English literature critic John Churton Collins said:

"Truth is the object of philosophy, but not always the object of philosophers."

The Country Parson

"Don't let the future frighten you as you face it a little bit at a time."

Another such war next year would be fatal if they ever expect to run Oakland Democratic.

Last year's candidates, George J. Fulkerston, S. Jerome Bronson and William A. O'Brien Jr., also a con-con loser, might be in the for Ginn's job. Or they might seek office again.

Also on the list is Berkeley attorney Sander Levin, who chaired the successful 1960 campaign for Joseph Masterson, salesman from Birmingham who aided in Fulkerston's campaign for prosecutor last year.

Ginn voices no alarm about the work ahead, which the 33-year-old attorney from Franklin will continue to share in, but only as a nonofficer member of the committee.

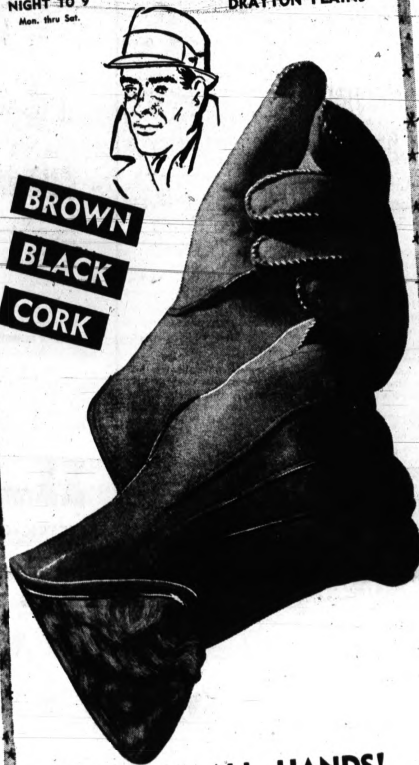

"Unity is only a part of effectiveness," he said. "If a com County went Democratic but they aren't unified, We're more effective and not ineffective. Our more effective precinct organization will pay dividends."

Next year, will tell.

Birmingham Architect Named to Contest Jury

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The appointment of a jury for the 1962 second annual Reynolds Aluminum Prize for Architectural Students was announced recently by the American Institute of Architects, which administers the competition.

The jury members are: Olindo Grossi, FAIA, dean of the School of Architecture, Pratt Institute, New York City. A graduate of Columbia University's School of Architecture. Dean Grossi has been in private practice in New York since 1945.

Lin Smith, AIA, Birmingham, Mich., director of the American Institute of Architects' Great Lakes Region. A graduate of the University of Michigan's College of Architecture and Design. Mr. Smith is well known as a designer of school structures.

Harold Spitznagel, FAIA, is prominent architect of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania's School of Fine Arts, Mr. Spitznagel is a past regional director of the AIA.

To date 37 collegiate schools of architecture have notified the AIA of plans to participate in the 1962 Student Prize.

The Reynolds competition offers a national prize of $5,000 for "the best original design for a building component in aluminum." This top prize is divided equally between the winning school and the student or student group submitting the design. The design winner in each participating college is awarded $200, and the college winners are entered in the national competition.

The national prize will be presented during the AIA student convention in Dallas May 7-11.

Military Callup Policy to Get Deep Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's policy of calling up National Guardsmen and Reserves will get a deep scrutiny by the House Veterans Affairs Committee early next year.

Chairman Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., disclosed Friday in an interview that he already has notified President Kennedy, the Veterans Administration and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that the committee would schedule hearings Jan. 10 after Congress convenes.

"We want to know what their plans are from now on," Teague said. "Are they going to continue calling up Reserves to meet crisis situations in the cold war?"

"I think we may go to some of the bases and talk to these men who have been called up," Teague said.

FROM HOME STATE

One of the two National Guard divisions called up came from Texas—the 48th Armored of Texas. The other was the 32nd Infantry from Wisconsin.

Roswell L. Gilpatrick, deputy secretary of defense, told a news conference Thursday that in the future the United States might rely on more regular forces, using the Reserves and the Guard for long-range mobilization.

He said the Pentagon was re-evaluating the problem.

Kennedy took note of Reservists' morale at his Nov. 29 news conference. He said those called up might get out in less than a year and urged them not to grumble in the meantime. He also noted that Congress had approved the call-up last summer.

Some Republicans in Congress have called attention to complaints of poor facilities at some bases and alleged failure to put the men to work at useful jobs.

Gen. James A. van Fleet surveyed a number of bases and reported to Kennedy this week that morale of the Guardsmen and Reservists was "magnificent."

Teague's committee is primarily concerned with veterans' affairs, but Teague said he wanted to look into all aspects of the situation. A broad review of that sort is normally in the jurisdiction of the House Armed Services Committee.

A Layaway Is a Contract

When you pay a deposit on merchandise to be put aside for you, the seller usually takes the article from his stock and is obligated to deliver it according to the terms of the agreement; he may lose several opportunities to sell it.

If the purchaser later decides he does not want the article, the seller is not obligated to make a refund or exchange. Both parties are bound equally by the terms of the agreement.

This explanation is made on account of the numerous inquiries received on the subject.

Angry Hannah Raps Charges

Denies Claims College Too Liberal, Inclined Toward Socialism

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State University President John A. Hannah has angrily denied a charge that the college is too liberal, left wing and inclined toward socialism.

Hannah, irritated by accusations from an MSU professor who sponsors the campus conservative club, stated his position before the board of trustees Friday.

"I've been accused of filling the college with liberals," Hannah told the board. "Left wingers and Socialists and Communists."

"We do have people like Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Walter Reuther and Ralph Bunche come out to visit with us and speak to us. Are these undesirable?" he asked.

The charge that is the key to the matter and has received the most publicity, Hannah said, was a vote by the academic senate to delete the loyalty oath requirement from the National Defense Education Act.

John N. Moore, associate professor of natural science and an advisor to the conservative club, had asserted that "something was wrong" at the university because faculty members voted against the loyalty act.

"This charge is readily refuted by the record and should be disposed of at this time to clear the good name of our faculty," said Hannah.

The issue the faculty voted on.

U.S. Suspends Reduced Rates for Air Travel

NEW YORK (UPI)—Christmas travelers received an unwelcome present today with news of a surprise federal suspension of reduced airline fares on cross-country flights.

Thousands of persons who had made reservations under the special rates were being called by the three major transcontinental airlines and told to ante up as much as $92 more or face cancellations.

The airlines were forced to act under a Civil Aeronautics Board ruling late Wednesday suspending a special reduced rate in effect for round-trip flights between 19 cities on the East and West Coasts. The three airlines—United, Trans World and American—said many persons already reached reacted to the news with anger and cancellations.

Legislators Set Caucus Sessions

Leaders of Each Party to Discuss Strategy, Formulate Policies

LANSING (AP) — Political leaders of both major parties meet today to discuss strategy and formulate policies.

Republican legislators will hold a pre-session caucus at their headquarters in Lansing. Democrats will meet on the Michigan State University campus today and Sunday, focusing their attention on the constitutional convention.

House Speaker Don R. Peary, R-Buchanan, and Senate Majority Leader Frank D. Beale, R-St. Clair, said the Republican meeting was intended to map out GOP programs and strategy for the legislative session which opens in January.

John J. (Jose) Collins, Democratic state chairman, said Democrats are meeting to decide on what stand the party should take on certain constitutional convention issues. He said:

"Many of us are not pleased at what appear to be proposals aimed more toward partisan advantage than toward any meaningful change in critical constitutional areas."

MSUO Students, Officials to Meet

A meeting of students and administration officials has been announced for 12:45 p.m. Monday at Michigan State University Oakland.

In a notice of the meeting, Chancellor D. B. Varner said he was inviting "interested students" to attend, since "there has been some question in the past few days about the goals of the University and since it is a matter of great importance."

Varner this week had said he would not appear at a student meeting called by the Student Senate for last Wednesday. The meeting then was cancelled.

Duke Looks Through Mementos...and Remembers

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of articles written by Bob Considine on the basis of a visit with the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.)

By BOB CONSIDINE
PARIS — The Duke of Windsor, 23 years out of office as king of England and all the title flitted there, came lying across the cobbled court of his nearby country place, dogs under foot, while pigeons fanned past his bare head. He wore a long red woolen bathrobe, which was just as well. It was raining.

"Hullooo," he said, looking into the upper portion of the split door of a former cowshed. "Anybody home?"
"Only us cows," his guest said. "You haven't seen the barn," he said.
"I call it my museum," he said of the room. It is just that. A quick look around showed there is enough memorabilia in it to fill a wing of the British Museum.

"This table might interest you," the duke said in his pleasant way. The beautifully made table held framed photographs of some of his illustrious forebears, a great tongue of jade combed from some forgotten voyage, and a neat little gold sign on which was engraved: "On this table King Edward VIII signed the instrument of abdication 10:30 a.m. Dec. 11, 1936."

If the duke attached any emotional importance to the object, his cheerful face masked it. I asked him about the abdication speech of a quarter of a century ago, that superbly phrased and so touchingly delivered declaration of the heart. Was it true that Winston Churchill had come to Fort Belvedere that day to say goodbye?

MADE SUGGESTIONS

"I told him I planned to go on the radio that night with a statement, and had prepared it. Old Winston said, 'I'd like to see what you have to say.' Naturally I showed it to him. I think that if anybody was to make a speech of that moment, that importance, and you had old Winston in your house and didn't ask him to look it over, well, that person should have his head examined. He made a few suggestions. He was always dramatic, the old man."

He came over to where I had planted a typewriter and handed me a leather-framed picture of his father, himself and his brother-in-law, Lord Mountbatten, in their RAF-marshal's uniforms.

It had such a fine feeling of England that it recalled, by contrast, his self-enforced estrangement from the royal family. I asked him which member of the family he missed most, that early morning of Dec. 12, 1936, when he sailed away from Portsmouth navy yard for the USS Fury.

"I don't think anyone's ever asked me that," he said, cocking his head as if to recollect better. He thought it over for a bit and then said:

"I really don't think I missed anybody, longed for anybody, that is, I would miss Fort Belvedere, that I remember. I miss Fort Belvedere. As for persons, the only one in my mind was in France, getting her divorce. Hope she would marry me."

I had read that the parting from his mother, Queen Mary, was tearful.

"Really?" he asked, surprised. "The only nice thing, human thing, my mother said to me during that time when I was fighting a very lonely battle was, 'Isn't it a pity it'll be so long before you see her again.'"

The reference was to the then prevalent six-month period of cloister during divorce proceedings.

CHURCHILL PORTRAIT

A color portrait of Churchill in uniform, bringing out all the inspiring virility he displayed in the early days of World War II, looked down from a wall, guarding the room.

"Old Winston," the duke said, "in the mood of a man saying 'thank you.'"

He took us out for a climb over the considerable rock garden that slopes up from the boisterous and winterized swimming pool.

We viewed the little walled complex of the old mill, for that it once was, and though there is no way of telling, Windsor could not have been more pleased by what he saw than if he were being headed Buckingham as Edward VIII.

It was time to join the duchess and a recently arrived luncheon guest, their friend Marjorie Wilson, an attractive American widow who lives in New York and Paris.

We rubbed wet shoes on the mat outside the living room entrance and came in out of the damp gray day. Marjorie Wilson curtsied ever so briefly and affectionately as she shook hands with the duke.

We had a pre-luncheon drink while the duke leafed through the pages of The Express.

A pleasant luncheon followed, with talk as varied as those opposite poles of conversation, psychiatry and the Peppermint Lounge, New York's Twist joint.

The little room was somehow oddly hushed, almost as if Marjorie Wilson and I were unwitting intruders.

The mood was still there as the duke walked to the car that would take me back to Paris.

I had one more question. The duchess had said, the night before, "He should've given me up. It would have been so much easier on him." I asked him about that. "She lost out in that argument," the Duke of Windsor said with steady pride. "I won."

WHERE'RE THE REINDEER?—The mechanical age has gone too far this time. Imagine a subway car full of Santa Clauses riding to work just like the rest of the big city wage earners. Like it or not, here's the proof and we hope no youngsters wandered into the car. The bearded riders, collectors for Volunteers of America, were on their way from downtown Manhattan headquarters to midtown-New York posts for the day's work.

Outline Measures to Increase Effectiveness

U.S., S. Viet Nam Get Together on Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and South Viet Nam agreed on a dozen new steps, including measures for social reform and more representative government—to make U.S. aid more effective in combating communism in the Southeast Asian republic.

Informed sources today reported details of the agreement between President Ngo Dinh Diem and U.S. Ambassador Frederick

E. Nolting Jr., which cleared the way for the increase in U.S. assistance.

The sources also said Nolting has flown to Pearl Harbor for consultations with U.S. military authorities. U.S. officials said Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara would join the Pearl Harbor meeting.

The increased support for South Viet Nam ordered Friday by President Kennedy indicates that firm agreement had been reached on a number of reform measures, informants said.

Among them:

SHARE DECISIONS
1. An agreement by Diem to share some of his decision-making responsibilities with the South Viet Nam National Council.
2. An agreement by the South Viet Nam military to share more responsibility in meeting the Communist threat with the American command stationed in South Viet Nam.

ADOPTION
3. Adoption by the South Viet Nam leadership of new ideas on the training and deployment of the Viet Nam armed forces.
4. Acceptance of joint U.S.-Viet Nam teams to report on social and economic conditions in the country.

JOINT OPERATION

5. Acceptance by South Viet Nam of joint intelligence operations with U.S. military personnel in the campaign against the Communist Viet Cong infiltrators.
6. A decision to increase pay of militia forces and some civil servants to improve morale.

CRACKDOWN
7. A crackdown on nepotism and corruption in the administration of certain districts.

BETTER UTILIZATION
8. Better utilization of Viet Nam's local currency and counterpart funds generated by the sale of U.S. aid commodities.

Physicist Dies in Crash

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Giocchino Failla, 70, internationally known physicist, was killed Friday in a two-car accident on an icy road near Chicago. Failla, an expert on radiological measurements at the Argonne National Laboratory and an Atomic Energy Commission consultant, retired last year from Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons where he had been a radiology professor since 1943.

Death Poured From Skies Over New York City

Aviation's Blackest Moment... Can It Happen Again?

By DICK BUCK

Dawn barely made a dent in the night skies over New York City one year ago today.

Even by 10:30 a.m., low clouds, heavy snow and fog choked the skies over the giant metropolis.

At that moment, two giant airliners groped through the murk for landings at separate airports. Neither one made it.

Their flight paths, which had started hundreds of miles apart, in Chicago, Ill., and Dayton, Ohio, merged sickeningly over Staten Island at 10:34 a.m.

And death fell from the sky with the snowflakes.

A Trans World Airlines Constellation with 84 aboard broke apart on impact and splattered onto the edge of an abandoned Army airfield near New Dorp, Staten Island.

FELL ON BROOKLYN

The other plane, a United Airlines DC3 jet carrying 84, came down another 10 miles through the overcast. The mortally-wounded jetliner fell on a heavily populated Brooklyn neighborhood.

All 84 aboard the jet also died, although one, an 11-year-old boy, lived until the next day. Six persons on the ground where the DC3 finished its flight were added to the death list.

An appropriate question on this aviation's blackest moment is: Can it happen again?

It would be reassuring but unrealistic to those who fly to say such an accident couldn't be repeated. Less likely, yes. Impossible, no.

The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) is the police force for the nation's aerial highways. In an exclusive statement to The Pontiac Press, it answered the above question this way:

"We are doing everything possible to achieve a high level of quality from both man and machine.

"Regardless of the kind of air traffic control system we will eventually have... the system will always remain a cooperative one, requiring absolute compliance with procedures and rules by both pilot and controller."

In other words, no matter how good a new traffic system may be adopted, disaster will be avoided only by strict observance of all the rules.

The FAA makes no attempt to judge the New York case with this statement, since no probable cause for that crash has yet been fixed.

ALMOST REPEATED

This reporter was nearly the unwitting witness to another tragic collision of this type at New York's Idlewild Airport on Oct. 26 of this year.

We were in Idlewild's 10th floor airport traffic and listening to the piped-in conversation between pilots and the control tower.

The tower was being up planes making landing approaches to land. First in line was an Eastern DC7B, 3 in line right?

A United DC8, given No. 2 position, was to make a left turn into the pattern. Then a third plane identified itself.

"Idlewild tower, this is Trans Canada. We're making a straight-in approach from about eight miles out."

"Trans Canada, this is Idlewild tower. You're No. 3 in line right?"

"Idlewild tower, we're No. 2, behind Eastern and we're on, brother, where did he come from?"

"Trans Canada, didn't you have information on that United jet being in the pattern?"

"No, we didn't even know he was around."

SHAKEN BY EXPERIENCE

The TWA crew member's voice had broken sharply as the DC8 swung into the pattern right in front of his plane. His voice shook as he paused here, then queried:

"Idlewild tower, this is Trans Canada. We'd like some information on how that happened. We felt that was much too close here."

"Trans Canada, we'll check and see what we can find out."

"Fortunately, all the planes landed safely. When the TWA Vanguard was on the ground, the tower relayed the information that proper identification of the United jet had been made during a change in radio frequencies.

This was a clear day, when good visibility may have been the key factor between disaster and a safe landing. What if it had been soupy, as it was one year ago today?

"Near-miss" cases like this can play a vital role in preventing air tragedies. The FAA realizes this. It has let a contract with the Flight Safety Foundation to obtain vital data from "near-miss" pilot reports.

New Antibiotic Kills TB Germs in Mice

CHICAGO (UPI)—Discovery of a new antibiotic which kills streptomycin-resistant tuberculosis germs in mice was described recently at the American Chemical Society's annual meeting.

Dr. Earl B. Herr Jr., a biochemist, said the new agent, called capromycin, was as potent in animal experiments as streptomycin or PAS, drugs commonly used against human tuberculosis and also was effective against the resistant organisms.

He said this was of interest to doctors because the mycobacteria which cause TB acquire immunity after long treatment with a particular drug.

To Open Xway Stretch

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev arrived in New Delhi Friday for a two-week state visit.

He said he brought the warm greetings of the Russian people and those of Premier Khrushchev, "whom millions of Indians know as a good friend of India."

Trinidad was discovered by Columbus in 1498 and has had ties with the Spanish, Dutch, French and finally the British.

Big Plans Afoot for Little Algae

Plant Eyed as Source of Food; Could Be Used in Space Flights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of nature's simplest plants is figuring in some mighty big plans these days — including manned space flights.

Scientists are finding out more and more about algae, which probably were among the first forms of vegetation to grow on the earth, and still are going strong.

Those who hold to the theory that an expanding world population may one day bring about a food crisis are keeping an eye on these developments. Because algae can be used for food.

Researchers also predict that algae may become a rich source of vitamins, animal feed, fertilizer and other valuable organic products.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has announced that algae may play a key part in man's pioneering flights into space. Aboard a space vehicle, the fast-growing plants would absorb the carbon dioxide breathed out by the astronauts and furnish them with oxygen in return.

The specimens could use the algae as food. And so that they could have meat as well as vegetable, they could feed small animals on the algae while in flight.

Algae vary in type and sizes from the microscopic growths which cause the phenomenon of red-tinted snow to the kelp plants found at the bottom of the sea and which stretch 600 feet or more.

Algae grow in fresh water, in the ocean and on land. Most seaweeds are algae — and some types of seaweed have been a staple diet in the Orient for many years.

Probably the best-known form, though, is the green scum that forms in ponds and lakes and provides rich fare for fish.

The fresh-water algae now promise to help man solve the growing problem of disposing of sewage in big cities.

Veteran Actor Dies

Bowlerama Finalists Eye 180 Keg Prizes

Why has the Pontiac Press Bowlerama nearly doubled in entries since last year? And why could The Press Bowlerama double again next year and become one of the best tournaments in Michigan?

The answer could be told in the prize list which shows 180 money prizes to be awarded tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. following Bowlerama handicap and Actual's finals at 300 Bowl.

In ratio to the 1,023 bowlers entered in the Bowlerama this year, this means that one of every 5.6 bowlers will get a prize. Last year, one for every 6.8 bowlers entered received a prize.

This percentage is far better than the average tournament which is based on one prize for every 10 entries. After the qualifying rounds it was expected that 145 bowlers would get into the finals of the handicap and 72 in the actuals.

After checking the averages a large number of the alternates got a chance to move into the finals bringing the handicap total to 156 and the Actuals to 75, plus the Bowlerama champion.

The highest first prize in history of the tournament, $545 will be at stake Sunday. Last year Ken Leese took home $335 of which $10 was for being high qualifier.

The new addition of additional finalists assures them of at least $10.

All bowlers going into the finals should report to the 300 Bowl a half hour before squad time. The two squads go at 11:00 a.m. and 12:15 and the Actual's start at 1:30 p.m. At 5:30 p.m., all bowlers are requested to report to the banquet room at 300 Bowl for the presentation of prizes and trophies.

Bowlers are warned, they MUST bowl in their designated squad times. They will NOT be permitted to change squads if they are late.

Should a tie occur for the Bowlerama championship, there will be a three-game rolloff on handicap basis. A tie in the Actuals would mean a 3-game rolloff based on actual pinfall. The winner in each case would be the champion and the loser the runnerup.

In event of ties for second place, there will be no rolloffs. Second and third place money would be divided equally.

Hank Wants Any Champion After Beating Scotsman

DETROIT (U) — "I want to fight a champion, any champion," middleweight Henry Hank shouted in his dressing room after winning a unanimous 10-round decision over Ole Calderwood, the British Empire's light heavyweight king.

Hank pounded Calderwood to the canvas with body punches in the third round and turned Chick's face into a bloody mask late in their fight last night.

He had to endure a sharp, stabbing left hand that popped off his head and face all night to do it, but Detective Hank's crowing tactics and overhand rights made the difference. Hank, weighing 168, gave away six pounds to the Scotsman.

In the third round Hank smashed Calderwood's body, driving in a right and a streaming left. The Scot grimaced in pain, clutched his belly and sank to the canvas for an eight-count.

"It was unexpected," Calderwood said later. "I knocked the wind out of me and I took a bit of rest."

Hank staggered Calderwood with a left and right to the head in the fourth round, but the Scot fired back strongly and at the bell winked broadly at his shorter opponent.

Hank said in his dressing room, "Calderwood never hurt me, but he's a very smart boy. He has a very good left and he's a very good mover."

"I was hurting him every so often with overhand rights," Hank said.

Asked about his plans now, Hank replied, "I want to fight a champion, any champion, middleweight or light-heavyweight and it doesn't make any difference which share of the championship they hold."

Calderwood, who lost his second fight in 34 bouts, said he'd like to fight Hank again. Hank won his 50th fight in 56 starts.

The Scot's manager, Tommy Gilmore, said Calderwood would have his nose scammed today. He has had it broken before and it started to bleed in the seventh round last night. From the eighth on it bled freely and obviously bothered him.

A crowd of 8,000 paid an estimated $40,000.

Anderson Hanged in Effigy by Lion Players

Unhappy Over Top Draftees Getting Away

Hadl Denies Signing Pro Contract; Eagles at Detroit Sunday

From Our News Wires
DETROIT — Detroit Lion general manager Edwin J. Anderson was hung in effigy yesterday by the players on his National Football League team.

A dummy, marked "E.J.A.," was hung from the goal posts at Tiger Stadium shortly after news reached the club locker room that the Lions reportedly had lost their three top college draft choices.

The trio, halfback John Hadl of Kansas and quarterback Ed Wilson and halfback Bobby Thompson of Arizona, all reportedly have signed contracts to play in rival football leagues.

One player was quoted as saying, "I don't care what the excuses are. Other teams are signing these players, why can't we?" Another said, "Anderson is not a salesman."

PLAYERS FUME
Coach George Wilson and his assistants were in another section of the locker room while the players fumed over Anderson, Wilson erased the practice field later to find the players gathered together, pointing to the effigy.

Wilson motioned the team to the far end of the field and apparently tried to end their discussions of Anderson. Wilson reportedly knew of the player bitterness before taking the field.

One of the players criticized Anderson for "burturing our future" another complained that the club needed a "real front line salesman."

"Why don't they get rid of him?" another quipped.

Wilson, too, gave signs that he was unhappy over Anderson's failure to sign the players. He said the boys were all signed before we drafted them," Wilson said. "That makes our coaches look like dopes."

Anderson was attending a Lions' finance meeting, when the discussion broke out.

"I explained how we had left nothing undone in an attempt to sign the Arizona boys and Hadl," the general manager said. "Other than that there was no further discussion except finances."

Anderson said he questioned the "moral quality" of the boys. "We had Wilson and Thompson try to get last week to take in the Minnesota Vikings game. They expressed an interest at the time. I guess they were just along for a free ride."

DENIES PACT
Hadl, who is scheduled to play against Rice today in the Bluebonnet Bowl, signed a statement Friday denying that he had signed with any professional team. If he is under contract, the Lions No. 1 draft choice would be ineligible for the bowl game.

The Lions, meanwhile, continued to workout in preparation for Sunday's encounter with the Philadelphia Eagles in Tiger Stadium.

A victory would send the Lions into the playoff bowl game at Miami, probably against the Eagles. Philadelphia is second in the Eastern Division and must win to keep any title hopes alive.

If the Giants win, the New Yorkers will meet the Green Bay Packers for the NFL championship.

San Francisco can make the Miami game if the 49ers top the Colts today and the Lions' lose Sunday.

Utica Rallies for Bi-County Victory, 59-49

South Lake enjoyed the early laugh, but Utica had the last chuckle in a Bi-County League basketball game Friday night on the Utica floor.

Trailing by a 16-13 margin at the end of the first quarter, the Chieftains stormed back for a 35-27 halftime lead and went on to defeat South Lake going away, 59-49.

Tony Palazzolo, 5-foot-9 guard, netted 21 points to lead the Chieftains to their 2nd victory of the season in as many tries. George Salsgrove notched 14 for the Eagles. Philadelphia's second in the Eastern Division and must win to keep any title hopes alive.

Trailing by a 16-13 margin at the end of the first quarter, the Chieftains stormed back for a 35-27 halftime lead and went on to defeat South Lake going away, 59-49.

Bob Henrietta paced South Lake's losing cause with 19 points.

Farmington OLS Loses

Ypsilanti St. John overcame a 21-point effort by Farmington OLS Lady of Sorrows' Rick Barth Friday night to gain a 57-49 triumph.

DENVER SIGNING — Kansas University coach Jack Mitchell (left) and his star quarterback-halfback John Hadl, look over a statement Hadl signed saying he has inked a contract to play professional football. Hadl, the Lions No. 1 draft choice, is reported to have signed with the San Diego Chargers of the rival American Football League.

Central, Eastern Lose League Games

Tourney Showdowns

By The Associated Press
There will be some high-powered pairings tonight as the season's first major college basketball tourney reaches their climax. And a set of sundowner state doubleheaders concludes in Kansas.

Duquesne meets familiar rival Pitt for the Steel Bowl title at Pittsburgh. St. Bonaventure and Louisville play in the Bluegrass Classic final at Louisville. Auburn tries for its second straight Birmingham Classic crown against Virginia Tech. Seattle takes on St. Mary's (Calif.) for top place in the City of Roses tournament at Portland, Ore., and St. John's (N.Y.) at Kansas State for a showdown between intersectional powers.

Duquesne (4-0) staged the major surprise last night, hanging on for a 66-61 victory over Duke's Blue Devils, who had won their first five starts. Duquesne cut loose late in the first half for a 18-point lead and had enough left at the end to withstand Duke's effective full court press.

Soph Brian Generalovich led Pitt to an 83-38 runaway over Arizona in the second half of the Steel Bowl opening round.

Ed Petrovich's two baskets in the final minute and the all-around play of Miles Aiken carried St. Bonaventure (5-0) to its 66-50 squeaker over Western Kentucky in the Bluegrass.

Louisville (4-1) pulled away to a 76-60 decision over Texas. Auburn, clicking on 29 free throws, gained the Birmingham Classic final by clouting Louisiana State 67-50. Virginia Tech held off Alabama's second half threats and beat the Tide 70-65 in the first game.

They were close in both ends of the City of Roses doubleheader — St. Mary's 61-60 over Portland and Seattle (4-0) 66-61 over Houston.

In all four tourneys, consolation games between the losers will be held tonight before the finals.

In Friday night's doubleheader at Kansas' court in Lawrence, St. John's (3-0) had some scares before taking Kansas 64-59, and Kansas State (4-0) romped against Marquette 80-64. The two winners and two losers pair off tonight on Kansas State's floor at Manhattan. In a doubleheader at New York, the unbeaten Violets of New York University won their fifth in a row, overwhelming Syracuse 122-50, and Manhattan upset previously undefeated Georgetown (DC) 73-73.

And in a pair at Los Angeles, Southern California knocked off Colorado State University 67-51 after UCLA routed DePaul 91-61.

Central Michigan was a winner and Eastern Michigan a loser in their opening games of the IIAA basketball season against Illinois opposition.

With Ken Van Dyke scoring 28 points, Central topped Western Illinois 83-64 in a game at Mount Pleasant, while Eastern Michigan bowed to Illinois State Normal 73-64 at Ypsilanti. John Swart, all-conference center, scored 23 points for Normal.

SKIN ENDS
In MIAA action Calvin won its second straight game, defeating Adrian 77-54 as Warren Ott sank 30 points for the winners. Adrian broke a five-game losing streak by trimming Alma 82-77.

Leg Is Amputated Ex-Rochester Griddier Has Dream Shattered

By BILL CORNWELL
A sandlot accident has turned Dan Lickert's fondest dream into a sickening nightmare.

The 18-year-old Rochester youth lies flat on his back in Flint's St. Joseph Hospital, his left leg missing and all hopes gone of ever playing college football.

Dan's griddier wishes are now figments of the imagination—a fantasy every bit as unreal as was the reality of the bone-crunching tackle that caused it.

But if the dark-haired, crew-cut youngster displays the same guts and courage that he showed during his recent surgery, he'll fight back and make a successful go of most everything he tries.

What appeared to be a routine griddier injury developed into a tragic ordeal for Lickert, one of Gene Komey's finest football players for three seasons at Rochester High School.

Dan was playing sandlot football with a group of his fellow students at Flint Junior College where he is a freshman. It was a brisk Sunday afternoon prior to Thanksgiving vacation.

Lickert, a talented halfback in his prep days, was carrying the ball and trying to get away from a would-be tackler who had him by the ankle. Another tackler hit him from behind and the knee popped.

Hospital physicians at first diagnosed the injury as a dislocated knee and treated it accordingly. But when Dan's knee did not respond to treatment and he began running high temperatures, doctors examined the knee once more.

An artery specialist was summoned for further diagnosis and it was discovered that the muscles and arteries in the knee were completely shattered.

When the installation of an artificial artery failed to prevent further deterioration, it became necessary to amputate the leg.

Today he's recuperating from a 5½-hour operation, understandably depressed but no longer plagued with fever and resting comfortably.

Dan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lickert of 1135 Avon Circle, are hoping he'll be home for Christmas, but it's only a fervent wish at this time. As soon as he's made full recovery, getting him an artificial limb will be the next step.

Lickert, who graduated from Rochester High School last June, was studying at Flint J.C. preparatory to enrolling at the University of Detroit where he wanted to play college football.

What he will do now is uncertain, of course, but his father, an engineer at Ford Motor Company's stamping division in Dearborn, is encouraging his son to continue his college studies.

Creamy Gelatin Mold Is Full of Toasted Almonds

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Now we're having a run-on gelatin salad recipes. Funny, how recipes run in cycles. Mrs. Jerome Fink gave us her favorite recipe for Party Salad. She says it's good enough to serve as a dessert.

An artistic individual, Mrs. Fink spends many of her free hours painting, doing sculpture and experimenting with fused glass. She does some church work and is active in a number of civic affairs.

PARTY SALAD
By Mrs. Jerome Fink
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
2 cups crushed pineapple
2 cups whipping salt
2 cups whipped cream
1 cup toasted almond slivers
Soak gelatin in cold water. Heat pineapple and add dissolved gelatin. Add salt, chill to syrupy stage. Whip cream stiff and fold into gelatin mixture. Fold in almonds. Pour into mold and chill until set. Serve with pineapple slices, cranberries or spiced crabapples for colorful garnish.
A double recipe will fill a 2-quart mold and serve 16.

Finals (Ugh) to End (Ah)

By DON BRAUNAGEL
Michigan State University students were provided a welcome break from final exams this week when former President Dwight D. Eisenhower spoke in the auditorium Wednesday.

Eisenhower stopped at the campus after his address to the constitutional convention in Lansing.

Otherwise, it has been a drab week, filled with last-minute cramming and cold weather.

The cold and snow are fine for sliding enthusiasts, however, and the MSU Ski Club held a ski weekend fashion show.

Freshman Charlotte Braden, Erskine Street, Waterford Township, was one of the models in the show moderated by Nancy Anne Fleming, Miss America of 1961.

The football team closed the book on the 1961 season with annual awards banquet. Charley Brown, Chovese Street, Pontiac, sophomore, was one of 42 letter winners on this year's varsity. The freshman team voted Jerry Rush, Lull Street, Pontiac, outstanding lineman of the year.

The MSU Sailing Club has been invited to compete in the Sugar Bowl Regatta Dec. 29-31. Two members from Oakland County will be among those making the trip.

Dave Davies of Wrentham Drive, Pontiac, a senior, will be one of the four racing members, and senior Cora Lee Janssen, Adams Road, Birmingham, also is scheduled to attend.

Dotty Dreyer of Auburn Ave., Birmingham, a senior, is anticipating Christmas vacation as she will represent MSU in the beauty tournament of the Far West Basketball Classic in Portland, Ore. The last week in December.

Miss Dreyer, who was in the Homecoming Queen's court last month, was chosen by the Varsity Club and will compete for the honor of being tournament queen against candidates from the other seven participating schools.

Marcia Mills, Union Lake sophomore, was selected as an Air Force ROTC corps sponsor. She will represent a cadet flight in such events as spring parades and awards ceremonies.

Nancy Robinson of Nelson Street, Pontiac, a sophomore, was picked as All-University Student Government representative for her dormitory, Gilchrist Hall.

Two Birmingham coeds were initiated into women's honoraries at recent ceremonies.

Connie Gordon, Bates Street, a senior, was tapped for Omicron Nu, home economics honor, and sophomore Carol Friedman, Warwick Street, was selected for Alpha Lambda Delta, an honorary for girls who attain a 3.5 (B-plus) average or better during the freshman year.

After finals, MSU students will go their separate ways for the holidays. Winter term will begin Jan. 2.

Sorority Alumnae Set Dessert Social

Birmingham Alumna Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta has scheduled a dessert social meeting for 8 p.m. Monday. The group will meet at the Glenhurst Road home of Mrs. J. J. Hogan in Birmingham with cohostesses Mrs. Leo Brewer, Mrs. R. B. McIntosh and Mrs. R. B. Gerweck.

No One Has to Be Lonely, Says Abby

You'll Find Yourself a Man --- Just Be Useful, Needed

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Tell me in plain language, how does a nice woman find a nice man? I am a very respectable, unmarried woman, an 42 who would like male companionship.

I disapprove of going alone to bars. I have even thought of writing to a lonely hearts' club, or registering with a marriage bureau that matches up people for a small fee. (They claim each applicant is thoroughly investigated and screened.)

What do you think of the idea? I don't want to waste my life living alone.

RESPECTABLE AND LONELY

DEAR R. AND L.: In this big, wonderful world no one need be "lonely." Try to make YOURSELF attractive and interesting to men and women. (Women have brothers, cousins and friends who are eligible.)

Get out and do volunteer, political or church work. Be your useful and needed. Investigations and screenings mean nothing. Most lonely hearts' clubs and "marriage bureaus" are run for $2-a-week service to humanity. Don't fall for them.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl with a problem I have never seen in your column. When I am on a dinner date with a young man and I

Set Concert to Welcome Christmas

Plans are being completed for accommodating 1,200 people at a Christmas concert 2 p.m. Sunday at Pierce Junior High School, Waterford Township.

The combined band, orchestra and choruses will feature a variety of numbers, with Christmas music predominating. George Fetter is the director.

For solo part in "Fantasy For Flute," will be played by Carol Meyer and Terry Costa will play the clarinet solo in "Pipe Dream," by Clara Grundman.

In a more serene vein, the mixed chorus will present two Bach chorales, "Break Forth, O Beauties, Heavenly Light" and "A Child is Born in Bethlehem."

The age-old "Carol of the Drum" and "Carol of the Bells" also will be presented by the chorus, along with "Gesu Bambino."

In a lighter mood, the orchestra and choruses will conclude the program with "Silver Bells," "Winter Wonderland" and "White Christmas."

All elementary school-aged children who are accompanied by their parents will be admitted free, as will all Pierce School students connected with musical work.

"We are trying to encourage young people, as well as their parents, to attend these school concerts," Fetter said.

Club Holds Party

The Foursquare Club, Order of the Amaranth, met Tuesday for a social evening in the Markle Street home of Mrs. Ernest Watson. Mrs. Albert Kugler announced that meetings will be resumed Jan. 16.

Choirs, Trio Present Memorial Program

Rev. Gerald H. Rapelle will preach on "Blessings Received by Believing in Jesus Christ" at the Memorial Baptist Church Sunday morning.

The Adult Choir will sing "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross" and the Choir Trio composed of Betty Crandell, Nancy McKowan and Diane Myers will be heard in "Room in a Manger." The Youth Choir will sing "My Wish for You" at the Sunday School.

Marjorie Justin and Barbara McCarty will play a flute duet at the evening worship hours.

Children of the Sunday School will present a Christmas program at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday under the direction of Linda Brown. Parents and friends are invited, the pastor said.

The church Christmas party scheduled for Friday at Bethany Baptist Church will be held at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in Fellowship Hall.

The theme of the program will be "Christmas in Other Lands," with people from other countries participating. There will be stories and carol singing, refreshments and good fellowship for young and old. Pastor Emil Konitz said.

An important feature of the evening will be the White Gift Service. The pastor suggests groceries be brought for the baskets, planned for the needy.

At 8:40 a.m. Sunday a group of young people and adults will profess their faith in Christ, by Baptism. At 11 a.m. there will be a service of dedication for infants and parents.

Rev. Thomas H. Holt Jr. of New Hope Baptist Church will preach on "The Loved Her Pastor" at the final program of the Pastor's Aid Club at St. James Missionary Baptist Church at 3:30 Sunday afternoon.

Rev. George Burke of Lansing will preach the closing sermon at 7:30 p.m. Music will be furnished by the Male Chorus of St. James Church and the Charamettes directed by Mrs. Bobbie White. Rev. W. Luther Lewis said the public is invited.

It was while Billy Sunday was holding meetings in Boulder, Colo., that he was awakened to his need of Christ, the pastor said.

Following graduation from the university he decided to go to the Moody Bible Institute for a year, specializing in music, with the thought of being more efficient in his hometown church.

In the summer of 1911 the church in the little town of Barron, Wis. was without a pastor.

Someone wrote to the Moody Bible Institute for a pulpit supply. It was Henry Savage who was sent even though he was not a ministerial student. Bessie Jensen was the church organist in the little church and her father was church clerk.

The pastor's family will be honored with a farewell dinner at 6:30 Sunday evening. The Rev. Mr. La Fountain who accepted the call to work as Lutheran campus pastor at the University of Ohio, Athens, Ohio will take up his duties there about Jan. 1. He came to Pontiac in 1956.

1st Baptist Pastor Retires Sunday

Dr. H. H. Savage who is retiring from the active ministry of the First Baptist Church will preach his farewell message Sunday morning. He was here nearly 38 years.

A farewell reception will honor Dr. and Mrs. Savage from 2 to 6 in the social rooms of the church Sunday afternoon. Friends, neighbors, and members of the church and community are invited.

Born in Blair, Neb., Dr. Savage spent his early years in Colorado. Graduating from the University of Colorado with a master's degree in engineering. He said he did not want to be a pastor.

It was while Billy Sunday was holding meetings in Boulder, Colo., that he was awakened to his need of Christ, the pastor said.

Following graduation from the university he decided to go to the Moody Bible Institute for a year, specializing in music, with the thought of being more efficient in his hometown church.

In the summer of 1911 the church in the little town of Barron, Wis. was without a pastor.

Someone wrote to the Moody Bible Institute for a pulpit supply. It was Henry Savage who was sent even though he was not a ministerial student. Bessie Jensen was the church organist in the little church and her father was church clerk.

When the call came for Dr. Savage to become pastor of the church it was Bessie who wrote the letter for her father, so it was really his wife who called him into the ministry.

Dr. Savage had no formal Bible or theological training, but through the years he has been a great reader and built up a library of over 3,000 volumes.

Before coming to Pontiac in 1924, the Savages ministered in the church in Barron, then in River Falls and Barnaboo, Wis. Their oldest son, Robert, was born in Barron.

James Savage who was born in River Falls is now serving in Latin America under Youth for Christ International with headquarters in Lima, Peru. Daughter Helen born in Pontiac is with her husband Richard Brown in the ministry in Quito.

In 1924 the missionary giving of First Baptist was $1,300. At the present time the annual giving is running over $150,000.

Dr. Savage said he believed in a vision of service, quoting one of his favorite Bible verses — "Where there is no vision, the people perish."

The needs of the world have been kept before the church with over 120 young people of First Baptist Church going out into full time Christian service through his ministry. Some 40 persons are serving presently in foreign lands.

In the early years of Dr. Savage's ministry he challenged young people with the need of going out into the unreached areas to organize Branch Sunday Schools.

More than 27 Sunday Schools have been started under the jurisdiction of First Baptist. Of these 15 have become self supporting churches with their own pastors and a strong missionary program.

Just two years after arriving in Pontiac the opportunity of the radio ministry was presented. Dr. Savage's voice has been heard in morning worship service and Sunday School of the Air for the past 38 years.

Another outreach of the First Baptist pastor was Maranatha Bible Conference where he serves as director.

BUILDS NEW CHURCH
From the time Dr. Savage arrived here he felt the need of a more adequate church building but it wasn't until 1941 that the congregation voted the construction of the new church.

Candlelight Music Vesper Set for 1st Congregational

The annual Christmas candlelight music vesper and Church School party will be held at 5 p.m. Sunday in the First Congregational Church. The four choirs will sing under the direction of Charles A. Wilson, minister of music.

David Wilson, a student in the University of Michigan School of Music, will play the organ prelude and assist at the piano for some of the choral numbers.

The "Fantasia on Greensleeves" by R. Vaughan Williams will be performed by Larry Reymann, alto; Marvyn Simon, flute; David Wilson, piano; Mary Leonard, soprano and Mr. Wilson, organ.

The program will include organ numbers "Jesus Accepts La Soudra" by Messiaen and "Chorale Prelude on 'Silent Night.'" "Once in Royal David's City" will be sung during the candlelight professional.

The Choral Union will sing "Break Forth" by Bach.

Selections by the Chancel Choir will be "Midwinter" by Holst, the traditional "The Lord at First Did Adam Make," "Nowell Sing We," a medieval carol; "Make We Joy," another medieval carol sung by Howard Clegg and Mr. Wilson; "Shout the Glad Tidings" by Avison and "O Little One Sweet" by Scheidt.

The Probationers Choir will present "Little Jesus, Sweetly Sleep" a rocking carol; and "Sleep, My Little Prince Sleep" by Leonard.

Mary Leonard will solo with the Chancel Choir for medieval carols "Nowell, Nowell, Tidings True" and "Now, Now, Now." An old Basque Noct entitled "Gabriel's Message" will be sung by a quartet.

"What Child Is This?" arranged from "Fantasia on Greensleeves" will be presented by an ensemble.

Closing numbers will be "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks" by Est; and the Choral Union singing a German melody "In Dulci Jubilo," "We Three Kings of Orient Are" by Hopkins and "O Come, All Ye Faithful."

"Home for Christmas" will be the theme of the annual Sunday School Christmas program at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

The presentation written by Ellen M. Trimmer will be given in three parts, "God's Son Away From Home," "God's Children Away From Home" and "God's Family Forever Home."

A vocal trio composed of Karen Marten, Karen Allhouse and Suetelle Will, will introduce each part of the program.

The Junior High Ensemble will sing "There Is Room in My Heart for Thee," "The Good Shepherd" and "Tell, Tell the Message" and both groups will combine for the last number, "O Come All Ye Faithful."

More than 40 kindergarten, primary and junior boys and girls will take part in recitation while teenagers and young people will present a play, "Away From Home at Christmas."

"Overcoming Pitfalls" will be the subject of Rev. Theodore R. Albeck's sermon at 10 a.m. tomorrow. A group of new members will be received and the sacrament of Baptism administered.

St. Trinity Choirs Give Christmas Concert Sunday
The Senior and Junior Choirs of St. Trinity Lutheran Church will present a concert of Christmas music at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. The program will include a solo "Joy Night" by Gayle Reas; and Handel's "O Comfort Me" by Rev. Gerald Petch, vicar of St. Trinity.

The Men's Choir will sing "O Come All Ye Faithful" and the Ladies' Group will present "Glory to God in the Highest."

The choirs will be under the direction of Paul F. Stohlmann, minister of Christian music at St. Trinity Church. Mrs. Ervin Miller and David Barnhart will be organists.

Everyone Must Combat Evils Confronting Man

Dateline, a religious magazine says: "The struggle confronting us is one which must be waged against evil in all of its forms: communism, fascism and gangsterism — delinquency, adult as well as juvenile — economic inflation — with all of their underlying causes and factors."

"And if this campaign is to be effective, it must be adopted as the personal modus operandi of every conscientious American acting as an individual."

"If our future is not to become known as the Post-Religious Era, the church and the synagogue must furnish the moral and ethical leadership."

"If our future is not to become known also as the Post-Management Age, business executives face a challenge of trusteeship and statesmanship in maintaining healthy physical and financial conditions, and providing their personnel with the opportunities of enjoying the satisfactions of personal accomplishment and the sense of "belonging."

"And if our future is not to become known as the Post-Foreign Labor Era, the leaders of labor must rise to the position of responsibility which their power in the economy demands."

St. Trinity Offering Going for Children
Edwin Barnhart, superintendent of the St. Trinity Lutheran Sunday School, announces that the children are being sent a special offering to be given at their Christmas program for the Lutheran Children's Friend Society of Michigan.

There will be a variety of services at Silvercrest Baptist Church tomorrow. The choir will sing "What Did He Do?" at 11 a.m. and the worship hour and Rev. Wayne E. Smith will preach on "What Do Wise Men Bring to Jesus?"

A service of Holy Baptism will be observed at 2 p.m. and the film, "The Family That Chanced the World" will be shown. The pastor said the public is invited to all services.

Boys and Girls Sing Sunday

First United Missionary Church Presents Annual Christmas Program

The First United Missionary Church will present the Sunday School Christmas program in the auditorium at 7 p.m. Sunday.

"The Gates of Christmas" by Ellen McKay Trimmer, the program points to the birth of Christ with emphasis on the love of God and the necessity of personal salvation.

Children from nursery to seniors will take part in the three sections: "The Gates of Heaven," "The Gates of Earth" and "The Gates of Life." Mrs. Norman Clothier will be narrator.

Giving the "Welcome" will be Jeff Buck and Barbara Mayer. Lawrence Heltz and nine beginners will recite "Christmas." Included are Judy and Jill Brown, Kimberly Snyder, Cindy Carr, Ronald Welch, Pamela Reagan, Ricky Featherstone, Norma and Debbie Welch.

An illustrated song entitled "Angels Told of Jesus Birth" will be sung by Joyce Spurrier, with Dale Young, Greg Reichard, James Spurrier and Garry Hull as shepherds.

PORTRAY ANGELS

Portraying angels will be Barbara Spurrier, Terri Kent, Denise Johnston, Linda Murray, Karen Williams and Kyle Good. The Church Choir will sing "Away in a Manger" and "Little Stranger."

Primary department children will sing "Jesus Christ Is Born." Taking part in the recitation, "Singing His Praises," will be Stephen Wood, Ronald Dimay, Rodney Hayward, Jerry Teague, Joe Heltz and Donnie Reiter.

Reciting "My Gift for Jesus" will be Pamela Killinger, Sheryl Johnson, Kelly Cleiber, Brenda Brown and Sue Bass.

"The Gate of Giving" will be presented by junior high boys: Robert Hall, Danny Irwin, George Sprague, Clyde Reiter and Jim Johnston.

The junior high department will sing "Joy to the World." Presenting "Closed Gates" will be Sherry Mitchell, Colleen Cleiber, Lela Haskell, Sharon Smith and Linda Crawford.

High school young people will offer the play, "The Key of Life." Participating will be Bob Plummer, Jim Hiltner, Garry Hull, Bob Irwin, Homer Davis, Joe Quintero, La Vaughn Beek, Mary Mitchell, Jan Prieto, Carol and Helen Patterson.

A girls' trio composed of Martha Wells, Glenna Hall and Linda Weir will sing a solo. The cantata presented by the choir under the direction of Bernice Schultz.

"Journey to Bethlehem" is the theme of the annual Church Festival of the Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian, at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Six choirs with an enrollment of some 200 persons will participate. The first portion of the festival, "The Song of Bethlehem," will feature the Church and Chancel Choirs singing "Sing Gloria" and the Chapel Choir presenting "Christmas Street."

The Church will sing "Glory to God in the Highest," "Christmas Bells" and "Happy Christmas." The Westminster Choir will offer "Carol of the Shepherds."

"The Road to Bethlehem," the second portion, will feature the Chancel Choir singing "In Bethlehem's Lonely Manger." The Chancel Choir will be heard in "The Snow Lay on the Ground."

In the third theme, "The Babe of Bethlehem," the Crusaders will sing "What Child Is This" and the Church will present "Away in a Manger" and "A Christmas Carol."

"O Come, Let Us Adore Him" is the fourth theme. The Crusaders will sing "The Babe of Bethlehem" and "The Babe of Bethlehem."

Other selections will be "We Have Seen His Star" and "Alleluia, Gloria Is Thy Name" with Fred Fuller singing the offertory number.

Rev. Edward D. Auchard will preach on "Christ and Creation" at 9 and 11 a.m. Sunday. The Crusader Choir will sing the traditional carol "What Child Is This" in the early hour and the Chancel Choir will sing "We Have Seen His Star" at the second service. Mary Beitel will offer "In the Bleak Midwinter."

Descendants of Orchard Lake will meet Thursday morning to prepare Christmas baskets. The Junior High Fellowship will sing Christmas carols Thursday evening and later be guests of the pastor's family at the manse for refreshments.

Portraying shepherds are Gordon Mapley, Robert Aldrich, Robert Braunton, Kevin Murphy and Ray Talleberry. Philip Andrews, Jerry Murphy and Roger Putnam will be kings.

Taking the part of pages will be Dennis Brown, Dicky Newton and Danny Sibbey. Barbara McClure will be the reader. Candelbearers will include Kathy Kendrick and Kathy Stanke.

Emmanuel Baptist Presents

"His Name Jesus," the well-known choral pageant which has been presented for many years, will be given at 7:30 Sunday eve.

The inspiring Christmas music and colorful dramatic scenery depicts the prophecy, birth, visit of shepherds and magi to the manger. Also portrayed are the death of Christ on the Cross, His Resurrection and second coming.

Some 175 members of Emmanuel Church and Sunday School will participate. Mrs. Tom Malone, director of the pageant for 14 years, will again conduct the program.

Edson Ersk is in charge of the scenery which is climaxed by a glittering three dimensional New Jerusalem, "The Holy City."

Clarence Smith will direct the colored lighting effects. Arthur Vowles is in charge of the authentic make up.

An angel chorus will sing the old French carol, "Gloria in Excelsis Deo." Many nationalities are featured in the proclamation of "The Birth of Christ."

Emmanuel Baptist Church Choir and Glee Clubs accompanied by the church orchestra will present all musical numbers. Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" is among the selections.

The public is cordially invited to attend the pageant. There is no charge for admission. Mrs. Malone said.

Once a year we throw off our conventional habits and let the spirit of gaiety take over in our homes. As we see all the homes decorated for Christmas, we sometimes regret that it lasts such a short time. There's a warmth in the rooms trimmed with greens and flowers and all the holiday decorations that is felt at no other time.

We think that what pleases the family is more important than something which is perfect from an artistic point of view. We think a string of brightly colored paper chains made by a kindergarten and strung across the mantel is more heart-warming than an entire house full of bought decorations. We are not against the latter, but we do think that putting something of ourselves into what we do is important. Why not use a little of both?

Display your Christmas cards because they add so much color to a room. If you don't want to buy anything special to mount them on, do as we did for years — put them up around the window frames with transparent tape.

No mantel on which to put your manger scene? Clear out the top shelf of a bookcase. You can even suspend stars from the "sky" with this arrangement.

You'll want to make a plan for all your decorating. It's a good idea to put away the usual ornaments and knickknacks you have around all year. Your Christmas ones will be more effective that way.

Greens of all kinds make the perfect background for your colorful arrangements. Whenever possible, keep them in water. This not only keeps them fresher, but is a safety precaution.

If you are a new couple having your first Christmas together, you can start your own traditions. Maybe you will want to buy a few new ornaments for the tree each year. Perhaps you will have a little tree made of dowels and hung with cookie ornaments. If your living room is small, you may want an espalier tree on the wall.

Everyone decorates the front door. Don't stop there — put a wreath or some holly or a few bells on the back door too. A spray of greenery will look nice on the lamp post in front.

Elsewhere on this page you will find new and different suggestions for your Christmas decorations. Local stores will give you many other ideas. Let's make this a decorative Christmas.

Create Individualized Decorations

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP News Features Writer

You can devise ingenious Christmas decorations that are truly personalized if you use your own homespun ideas and materials, says interior decorator Maxine May who has made a career of floral designs.

"If you want individualism in your holiday decorations, use your imagination," she suggests.

"You can be clever with an orange, apple, mushrooms and pine, if that's all you have at hand. Make your decorations look as if they belong in your home, rather than in the florist's shop."

Design for a specific place. A stairwell, breakfast table, bookcase, mantle piece, child's room, need different decorations. You should take into consideration the light in the room, colors in the area and the height at which the object will be displayed. You want to achieve simple elegance that will complement your room decor, rather than gaudy effects," she says.

"One of the prettiest decorations for a front door can be made by studying an Italian onion basket with lollipops and gum drops. You can shape a Christmas tree out of wire, trim it with what you have at hand for another attractive door decoration," she says.

Hec-wire trees and flat-wire Christmas tree shapes have red fabric bases to simulate flower pots. The trees are trimmed with bows, prisms, or with pine cones that have been cut and shaped into flowers, sprayed with paint and wired.

"A small basket of pine and strawberries over which you've sprinkled frosted sugar makes an attractive centerpiece. Or use grapes, crab apples, lady apples with pine. Walnuts, pine cones and leaves can be displayed in a pretty bowl."

Anyone may utilize tree branches or driftwood for decorations.

TINY TREE

Use ordinary pruning branches — tree limbs, pine, juniper. Spray the pine or tree limb gold, pink, white, whatever color blends in with your plan. Trim it with the objects found in the attic or in the button box. Prisms, beads, little bows and birds can make gay doodads. Sprinkle glitter spray on the limbs if you like, drape it with angel hair that has a toy bird caught in it," she suggests.

Shadow boxes make handsome wall Christmas displays. She frames her boxes in large, old frames "picked up for a song" in old shops and paints the interior of the box to flatter the decorative arrangement used in it.

She uses ordinary glass goblets or soda fountain sundae glasses, deep dish bowls and dishes as containers, spraying them white, green or red. Small arrangements for them are likely to include a combination of ivy and kumquats, tiny plastic roses and glitter spray, red anemones and ivy.

"These are ideal for a bedroom where you want a little part of Christmas but don't want to be overwhelmed by it," she explains.

One of Miss May's most effective hanging creations is a large free-form design, a wicker chain draped over a usual frame. She decorates it with just about anything — holly with red velvet bows, pine and lemons. A globe of wire in a child's room is enhanced with just about anything that has child appeal such as little flowers and birds.

"Encourage children to decorate their own rooms and tree. If possible, let them gather and string pine cones and nuts. They can decorate ordinary tin cans that have been punctured with holes."

Do-It-Yourself Plan Adds Fun to Holiday Decorating

The fun of Christmas is in the "making" — planning and creating your own decorations and gifts. There's also the added pleasure of personal satisfaction when you share your handiwork with family and friends.

One of the loveliest and most versatile holiday decorating ideas is the "wreathlike" wall ornament made from discarded tin cans. You will need various sized cans which, depending on your color scheme, have silver or gold linings.

First, cut the sides of the can into 1/4-inch-wide strips down to the base. Then, press the strips out into a sunburst pattern. Repeat these steps with smaller sized cans, attaching the bases to the first can, etc.

For a splash of color, place a large Christmas ball or a cluster of greenery in the center. The effect will be shimmering layers of gold and/or silver — an eye-catching adornment for the door or wall.

Candles are fun to make affording a good outlet for creative imagination. You can produce candles of any shape, size or color for only a few pennies. Crayons dissolved in paraffin provide festive color. Be sure to put the pan of paraffin in hot water when melting it.

Pour the melted, colored paraffin into an empty milk carton for a mold, put a long wick in the center, and you have a large, square candle. A weight tied on the wick or a dab of florist's clay will hold the wick down as the wax cools.

Whipped soap suds or artificial snow heaped on the sides and sprinkled with glitter will make such a candle a welcome addition to any table or mantle arrangement.

There's no trick to making wreaths of any size or shape from left-over greenery. Take healthy, lustrous holly leaves, spruce or pine branches and wind them around a wire coat-hanger that you've bent into a circular shape. Use bits of thin wire (the type used for hanging pictures will do nicely) to hold the greenery on the wire form. Frosted pine cones, miniature balls or bells, and a bright red bow provide traditional color.

An unusual effect on the Christmas tree or other decorations can be had by spreading a cocoon of angel hair over the lights and greenery.

AHEA Prexy Has All Red Tree

WASHINGTON — Looking for a new way to decorate your Christmas tree?

Here's the way the president of the American Home Economics Association, Dr. Dorothy Siegest Lyle, does it.

She tried out new decorations last December. They were so successful it is doubtful that her contemporary home in suburban Washington (Silver Spring, Md.) will ever have a differently-hung tree.

She used red cloth poinsettias, red birds, and all red light bulbs on her bushy, floor-to-ceiling spruce. Three red reindeer — one was fairly large and two were small — "galloped" along the lower branches. Everyone who saw the tree admired the all-red-green theme.

Dr. Lyle is serving a two-year term as president of the 27,600-member American Home Economics Association, and travels about the country a great deal.

FEATHER TREES—Mrs. Howard White of 3417 Airport Road has made table trees from chicken feathers. She aired the feathers all summer, then washed and dried them with a hair dryer and fluffed them. Some she tinted with food coloring. Then she glued each feather carefully in place on a paper cone. Tiny ornaments and glitter were added before the trees were set on their bases. Other decorations made by Mrs. White include a ribbon bow tree, egg head carolers, aluminum foil wreaths and milkweed pod poinsettias.

THE LAST TOUCH—The young lady in the picture is putting the final touch on the Christmas decorations; she's hanging up her stocking. She probably helped her mother and father with the greens and the creche on the mantel. Maybe she made the paper chain and put together the angel at the left. Christmas decorations are as personal as the people who use them. Whatever you like, whatever colors you want, these are right for you. Start now and get your house ready to say, "Merry Christmas" to all who see it during the holidays.

Say Merry Christmas Outdoors With Decorations

Outdoor Christmas beauty is the sum of two parts — good taste and color. It can be a simple wreath or holly spray decorated with lights spotlighted on a door; it might be illuminated carolers on the lawn or Santa and his reindeer perched gaily on the roof; or it could be a Christmas tree aglow on the lawn.

They all spread the warmth and welcome of the holidays and call a friendly greeting to visitor or passer-by. One thing about all outdoor decorations: They cannot be garish or cluttered; they must be selected with taste and have as much fashion sense as a Paris creation.

Outdoor decorations can make a home sparkle with individuality or make it gaudy and downright unattractive.

Appealing to your fashion sense is that sleekly shaped tree on the lawn that has never worn a Christmas dress of lights. Robe it this year with strings of gay colored lamps. For an unusual combination of simplicity and beauty, place a white light at the top of the tree, mix with a few blue lights interspersed in an overall pattern of green. The effect is lovely, especially when the lamps are shining on a carpet of white snow.

Blue Spruce and Douglas Fir are trees which need special protection from the heat of tree lights and from the weight on the branches. Provide protection by building a simple "teepee" to carry the light strings. Pound stakes into the ground around the tree inside the spread of branches at regular intervals. Then string wire up from the stakes to a point several inches below the tree top.

PADDLED COLLAR

Fit a padded wire collar around this point and fasten to the wires. The tree will be alive with lights and carry the Christmas message, yet remain free from damage.

String lamps (with strong accents on colors) around door-in-window as well as eaves.

Sugar Plum Tree

You'll enchant the kids at Christmas. Anchor a heavily twigged branch in a shallow 11-oz. tin can, filling with sparkle to a depth of 1 1/2". Let harden and place a circle of foil on top. Paint branch white, with needle and colored thread make hangers on gumdrops and tiny leaved cookies or mints and hang on the branches.

Place saturated Oasis flower holder on sparkle, cutting out a narrow wedge so that the Oasis fits around the tree stem. Fill in rustproof, inexpensive and available at hardware stores.

A beautiful and impressive Christmas wreath is a 22" gold sunburst with 18 midgeet blinking lights. It's spectacular in a window or on a door wrapped in green foil and tied box fashion with red foil ribbon. A spotlight will call attention to this door.

It is essential that all outdoor wiring be either 12 or 14 heavy duty rubber insulated to withstand all types of weather. The perfect solution to outdoor lighting is a permanent protected outdoor receptacle. Or you can use a garage or porch lamp. If these are not available, you can safely reach an indoor receptacle by this simple method.

Fit a board snugly into the frame of a window resting the window on the board. Drill a hole just large enough for the outdoor wire, string it through and plug into a receptacle. The window can be locked by using a stick.

Holiday Flowers Add to Color

There's no better way to get into the holiday mood yourself — or to induce it in others than to create novel and beautiful flower arrangements for Christmas.

The task will go more merrily if you use a foam flower holder instead of conventional "underpinings." Foam plugs, sold by florists' and garden shops under the name of Oasis, not only secure stems at any desired angle, but hold water for the arrangement. With Oasis, you can make flower containers out of bread baskets or pie tins — or make flower arrangements with no container at all. You can, for example, make these holiday centerpieces:

Merry Santa Centerpiece

A flower-trimmed Santa will delight children and grown-ups alike. Santa is formed of a rolled cone of red construction paper with cotton trimming for eyebrows, beard, and fur. Features may be made of candy or cut-out colored paper, glued to the cone.

Place a saturated Oasis holder in a 7" pie tin. A long dowel stick is ceptered in the Oasis and the Santa cone placed over the dowel, which holds it above the flowers. Circle Santa with small holly branches and few red carnations, inserting one long-stemmed carnation through the cone for Santa's top knot.

Sugar Plum Tree

You'll enchant the kids at Christmas. Anchor a heavily twigged branch in a shallow 11-oz. tin can, filling with sparkle to a depth of 1 1/2". Let harden and place a circle of foil on top. Paint branch white, with needle and colored thread make hangers on gumdrops and tiny leaved cookies or mints and hang on the branches.

Place saturated Oasis flower holder on sparkle, cutting out a narrow wedge so that the Oasis fits around the tree stem. Fill in the base by inserting holly or other greens and a few short-stemmed flowers in the Oasis.

MERRY SANTA CENTERPIECE — A flower-trimmed Santa will delight children and grown-ups alike. Santa is formed of a rolled cone of red construction paper with cotton trimming for eyebrows, beard and fur. Features may be made of candy or cut-out colored papers, glued to the cone. A long dowel stick is centered in the Oasis flower holder and Santa cone placed over dowel, which holds it above flowers. Circle Santa with small holly branches and a few red carnations.

Noel Wreath

For a traditional wreath that will stay fresh and festive throughout the holiday season, place the cut halves of two saturated Oasis holders in a ring mold. Set a large red candle on the center opening and circle with short holly branches inserted in the Oasis. Accent with stemmed red Christmas ornaments.

Kissing Ball

Place a saturated Oasis flower holder on a circle of foil large enough to cover the Oasis completely. Fold over and tie with decorative cord, making a long loop for hanging. Insert sprigs of mistletoe and Christmas greens, using a knife to puncture foil. Trim with stemmed Christmas ornaments and add a velvet bow to the top. Displacement of water occurs from stem insertion, so let the ball drain for 30 minutes before hanging.

Show Off Art Work on Peg-Board Panels

One of the most effective ways to display children's Christmas artwork is to feature it in the recreation room. In this way relatives and guests will get a chance to see it and encourage the youngsters.

To create a flexible display area, display the art and craft work on a Marilee peg-board panel. Adjustable shelves can be fitted to handle fragile models and irregular objects.

The perforated hardboard panels present a good-looking background since Marilee comes in plain colors, woodgrains and patterns.

Dehoco, at First, Looks Like Girls' School

Cottages, Not Walls, Hold Inmates

(Editor's Note: The Detroit House of Correction with its snug white cottages looks at first glance like a girls' school. But in the prison area, the serious business of rehabilitation goes on.)

By EVELYN AUGUST

PLYMOUTH (P) — The Detroit House of Correction—its snug little sloping green countryside—appears, at first glance, like a girls' school from a prison. No armed guards patrol the grounds. There are no brick walls—in fact, no fences of any kind.

The maximum security cell block is almost the only reminder that this 1,300-acre site of rich farmland just outside Plymouth is the home of some 1,400 prisoners from Detroit, Wayne County and the State of Michigan.

Behind the strong iron bars of the cell block are housed the maximum security prisoners and the seriously emotionally disturbed inmates of the men's division of Dehoco.

For the most part, Dehoco is made up of clean white residences interspersed with red-bricked dining halls, administration and work buildings.

Then, of course, there are the farm buildings—the cow barns, stables and piggy. These are nestled between corn fields, fruit orchards and recreation areas, including Dehoco Park, a baseball diamond complete with bleachers.

The physical makeup of Dehoco reflects the type of work that is carried out at this, the only women's prison in Michigan and the only city-owned (Detroit) prison boarding state prisoners.

TO RE-EDUCATE INMATE
The staff of Dehoco has devised a series of programs which it thinks can best help an inmate—either man or woman—to re-educate himself. These programs include academic schooling, vocational training, occupational therapy, medical assistance and recreation.

In the women's division, the main administration building houses the academic classrooms, two libraries and the offices of the director, Mrs. William Gladney.

In an adjoining building there is complete hospital with facilities for minor surgery, a room where nurses' aides training is taught and a fully-equipped dental laboratory for training dental assistants.

The entire prison compound at Dehoco is designed to give the inmate a sense of human dignity that will enable them to re-enter the society which they rejected by breaking the law.

The main function of Dehoco, according to Superintendent Albert Shapiro, is rehabilitation. "By rehabilitating and re-training the people who come to us," Shapiro maintains, "we are also protecting society. We must not lose sight of this goal."

OUR ANCESTORS
By Quincy

Fruits and vegetables grown by Dehoco inmates in this fertile farmland surrounding the prison are processed in the canteen, where inmates not only earn some money—up to 35 cents a day—but also learn a useful occupation which they can follow after their release.

USED AT PRISON
Almost all of the food grown there is used at the prison itself.

A rundown on production totals for 1960, shows that the farming, causing and dairy industry is big business at Dehoco.

In the sewing room in the women's division, all linens and inmate clothing, except part of men's outer coats, are made. Filter cloths for the Detroit Water Board, uniforms for Wayne County Training School and dresses for inmates at the Wayne County Jail also are custom made there.

Over in the men's division, inmates learn new trades—furniture refinishing and reupholstering, radio and TV repair and printing—by doing work for Dehoco, its staff members and their families.

The main function of Dehoco, according to Superintendent Albert Shapiro, is rehabilitation. "By rehabilitating and re-training the people who come to us," Shapiro maintains, "we are also protecting society. We must not lose sight of this goal."

HENRY M. MERRILL — Service for Henry M. Merrill, 77, of 5522 Mount Road, will be held at 3:30 p.m. Monday at the Pikeley Funeral Home, Rochester, with burial in Prestonville Cemetery.

He died yesterday after a long illness. Mr. Merrill was a member of the Iron Molders Association of Detroit.

Surviving are three brothers: LeRoy B. of Washington, James B. of Savannah, N.Y. and John of Canandaigua, N.Y., and a sister Mrs. Hattie Kline of Interlochen, N.Y.

MRS. FLORENCE VANDAWAKER — Service for Mrs. Florence Vandawaker, 64, of 5593 Liberty St., will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Muir Brothers Funeral Home, Imlay City. Burial will be at Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

Mrs. Vandawaker died suddenly at her home yesterday.

Surviving are her husband, Edward, a son, Donald, both of Dryden; a daughter, Mrs. Tom Weitzel of Imlay City; a sister, Mrs. Vera Peterson of Detroit, and eight grandchildren.

Service for William S. Posthumus — Service for William S. Posthumus, with Waite's Department Store for many years, will be held 3 p.m. Monday at Sparks-Griffin Chapel. The Masonic Lodge will conduct the grave service at Oak View Cemetery, Royal Oak.

Mr. Posthumus, 85, of 199 Ogden Road was a member of First Congregational Church and Roosevelt Lodge.

Surviving are a daughter Mrs. Blanche Alexander of Pontiac; three great-grandchildren; and a sister.

Mr. Posthumus died yesterday at Pontiac General Hospital following an automobile accident.

Service clubs stage parties — Over the Christmas season to be the result of the untimely death of Mr. Posthumus. In each camp there is usually a children's Christmas party when the youth and their orphans are given an American Christmas dinner and loaded down with presents from Santa Claus.

The kids often were bewildered by it all, but the party goes down with local authorities.

Married soldiers — an estimated 35 per cent of the 300,000-man U.S. Army in Germany still have their dependents with them — get over closer to Christmas at home.

The U.S. housing areas which dot the South German countryside are practically indistinguishable from those of the American.

The festivities are just the same, though whatever the recruiting manuals say.

Friendships struck up through these Christmas exchanges, Army spokesmen advise, do more to bring closer relations between the two communities than all the ceremonies which take place in elaborate German-American Friendship Weeks staged later in the year.

For those forced to stay in the barracks, Army chefs lay on men-Godwin turkey and all the trimmings.

Reflections — The longest, straight road is where most fatal accidents occur from boredom. Friendship cannot endure without contrast; it thrives on differences of opinion. Every facet of a church is contrast; serious and sublime, meditation and activity, giving and taking. Our homes are saturated with contrast; bride and first disagreement, baby smiles and illness, first home and the pinch of finances. Monotony is a curse, boredom is worse. Contrast is the seasoning of life; it gives zest to living.

For greater enjoyment, every day, try to change your pattern—instead of watching T.V., read a book, speak with a change of place in spacing of words and intonation; pause, listen and respond; choose a different route to work; meditate, exercise your imagination, walk in a tree-shaded lane, look intently at plants and animals you see—rabbit, squirrel, ant, beetle and bee; every scene can be filled with pleasant surprises. There you have a secret every doctor will endorse: A cure for boredom, in contrast.

MACOMB DEMOS SEEK STATE POST — Still Mad at Swainson, Leaders Back Mihelich for Attorney General

LANSING (AP) — Macomb County Democratic leaders, still maddened by what they consider cold-shoulder treatment from Gov. Swainson, are backing Joseph E. Mihelich of East Detroit for attorney general.

No sooner did Swainson name Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams to the State Supreme Court than the Macomb Democratic Committee endorsed Mihelich for the vacancy which would be to the executive office here.

He is one of several under consideration for the $17,500 post.

"I hope the governor comes through on this one," said Frank Ruggiero of Warren, Macomb County Democratic chairman. "We have been hoping for a major appointment ever since Swainson went into office, but we haven't got one yet."

"Considering we turned in a 2-1 Democratic majority in a county as big as ours, we think we deserve it."

Ruggiero pointed out last month when Swainson appointed Sherwood Colburn of Oak Park state insurance commissioner.

DENIED ASSURANCE — Ruggiero said he had all but been assured that John S. Macomb, County man, would get the job. Democratic leaders denied it.

In 1958, Mihelich came within six votes of winning the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 7th District. He lost out to Rep. James O'Hara of Utica, the incumbent.

Attack Strikes Unborn Infant

Heart Seizure Is Fatal to Baby Girl; Call Cause Extremely Rare

CHICAGO (AP)—The extremely rare occurrence of a heart attack suffered by a baby before birth has been reported by two Vermont medical scientists.

The latest sufferer was born alive, but died 50 hours after birth.

The infant, a white female, weighed 7 pounds, 10 ounces. The only complication of the pregnancy was a 36-pound weight gain by the 24-year-old mother.

Wright's Flight Is Marked by Streaking Jets

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N.C. (AP)—Sixteen military jets streaked through the skies at near supersonic speeds today over the sand dunes of North Carolina's Outer Banks, where man's first powered flight was made 58 years ago.

The flyer signals the start of ceremonies at the Wright Brothers National Memorial commemorating Wilbur and Orville Wright's achievement of Dec. 17, 1903. The anniversary is being observed day early this year because Dec. 7 falls on Sunday.

The Wright brothers failed in their first attempt to fly their rickety plane. That was on Dec. 14, 1903.

Yoga Helpful to Merrill in Opera Career

NEW YORK—By EARL WILSON

Robert Merrill, the opera star, was standing on his head in his room in Chicago one day recently. Believe it or not, he was practicing yoga.

Suddenly, he heard a key turning in the lock. Before he could yell a warning, a hotel chambermaid stepped in—and also right out again.

"Well," laughs Bob, recalling it, "there was such a look of astonishment on her face. I imagine she must have thought, 'Oh, my, these conventions!'"

Yoga followers will understand why Bob couldn't get instantly off his head and into a towel.

"You have to come down slowly or you might break your neck," he explains. He continued his headstand for several minutes.

Hare Bemoans Traffic Deaths

Urges MSU Trustees to Petition for Funds to Revitalize Safety Unit

EAST LANSING (AP)—"Every one grieves when 20 children are killed in a school bus accident. We all that many every week," said Secretary of State James M. Hare.

Hare made a dramatic appeal to the Michigan State University Board of Trustees Friday, asking them to petition the legislature for funds to revitalize the MSU highway traffic safety center.

Trustees agreed, after hearing Hare, to ask the legislature for a special subsidy to support the center.

Hare, chairman of the State Safety Commission, was referring to the children killed in a train-bus accident in Colorado Thursday.

"Only the spectacular accidents are the ones that get in the newspapers," Hare told the board. "But every death is important. We are going to run about 1,600 traffic deaths this year."

Highway's highway death toll will be lower than last year, Hare said, because of the work the safety center did two years ago.

"Our center and the work you did for us paid off," Hare said. Michigan State, pressed by budget problems, this year cut out most of the activities of the safety center. Some of the work is still being carried on, but under various other departments.

Governor Names Safety Group for Swimmers

EAST LANSING (AP)—Appointment of a commission of swimming safety to combat the problem of nonboating water deaths will be recommended to Governor Swainson, state police said Friday.

The move was agreed to at a meeting of water safety experts, headed by Alex Canale, administrative assistant to the state superintendent of public instruction.

Emphasizing the seriousness of the problem, Col. William Carter, state police water safety officer, told the group that 63 per cent of the 255 drownings in Michigan this year were in nonboating mishaps.

Representatives of state universities, various state agencies, the Red Cross and other groups attended the meeting.

Funerals Set for Bus Victims

Declare Mourning Day for Children Killed by Train at Crossing

GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—Funerals were scheduled today for six of the 20 children killed Thursday when their school bus was smashed by a passenger train at a grade crossing.

Mayor Gordon Bissler said he would proclaim Sunday a day of mourning, calling on all residents to attend church and pray for the victims and their families.

The driver of the bus, Duane Harms, 23, was charged Friday with involuntary manslaughter. Released under $1,000 bond posted by a school district official, Harms told newsmen: "I feel terrible. I don't know how to say how terrible."

His bus, bound for Greeley with 37 pupils from a rural area south-east of here, was hit by a Union Pacific train traveling 79 miles per hour.

Harms was knocked unconscious but escaped with minor injuries. He said in a statement he was unsure whether he had stopped the bus at the railroad crossing. A 16-year-old student injured in the wreck told reporters that Harms not only stopped the vehicle, but opened the door as required by state law.

Reset Trials of 13 in TV Quiz Scandal

NEW YORK (AP)—Special Sessions Court rescheduled for next month the perjury trials of 13 TV quiz show contestants after giving a suspended sentence Friday to another contestant who pleaded guilty.

To appear Jan. 10 are Charles Van Doren, Eladio Von Nordoff, Hank Bloomgarden and others.

Both Miller of New York admitted she had received help in winning $2,000 on the show "21."

The suspended sentence Friday came on her attorney's plea that she was a minor figure in the case and that she had been helpful in the two-year investigation.

The perjury charges against her and the others came after they told a New York grand jury in September 1958, that they had not received help on the shows.

Two MSUO Dormitories to Be Dedicated Sunday

Two dormitories for 192 students will be dedicated at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow at Michigan State University Oakland.

One is the men's dorm, and the other is the women's dorm, Anibal House, named after Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Anibal who provided furnishings through a gift of 1,000 shares of General Motors stock worth $56,000.

The donation will also provide support for MSUO's science-engineering program.

Anibal, of 1435 Evansbrook Road, Bloomfield Township, is a former chief engineer of the Pontiac Motor Division.

Uncle Sam's Prestige Soars as Red China Is Denied Membership

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. S. prestige in the United Nations soared today with the stunning defeat of a Soviet-led attempt to seat Communist China in place of Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists.

The General Assembly's 48-36 rebuff of Peiping's bid was hailed as a victory for the United States (and faintly met the 19-year-old China issue head-on in a test of strength with the Soviet Union.

The fact that only 36 nations voted for Red China surprised many delegates. It was obviously less than anticipated by the United States, which had sought to block the Communists with its proposal making China a "non-aligned" question, requiring a two-thirds vote for adoption.

The U.S. actually fell more than a dozen votes short of even a simple majority. Twenty countries abstained from voting.

U.S. Ambassador Aflak E. Stevenson declared the result had reinforced Nationalist China's long-disputed right to hold its seat in the United Nations. Stevenson said he was "gratified" by the outcome of the first showdown on the seating question since the Communists took over the China mainland in 1949.

ZORIN SAYS OTHERWISE
But Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said the vote showed many nations felt the Chinese problem "should be solved immediately and radically."

"We are convinced," Zorin said, "that many who were compelled to vote against or abstain on this Soviet resolution will vote in favor at the next session."

Delegates predicted, however, that the Communists would have to wait a long time to see Peiping get the China seat. They pointed out that the "humping 61-34 vote" for the decision requiring two-thirds majority for admission. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Boeing to Build Part of Man-on-Moon Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has taken another step in its man-on-the-moon project by awarding a $30-million contract to the Boeing Co. of Seattle.

Boeing's job will be building the main part of the "stage Saturn rocket" that is to launch a manned U.S. space capsule on a mission to the moon.

LANGSING (AP)—Elimination of the fee system in favor of salary payments would squelch the criticism, which has never been proved to his satisfaction in the first place.

The commissioner indicated he felt the best court system would be one under which police do not have to make a choice on which court to use.

DETROIT (AP)—There will be an employment gain of 135,000 persons in Michigan next year, a Michigan State University economist predicted Friday.

Dr. Eli P. Cox, director of the MSU Bureau of Business and Economic Research, told an Economic Outlook conference that as Michigan started returning to its former economic levels its industry and commerce in 1962 would be governed in large part by out-of-state forces.

FIRST STOP—President and Mrs. Kennedy chat with Puerto Rican Gov. Manuel Morín and his wife at the San Juan airport. It was the first stop for the Kennedys on their Latin American trip. Today they flew to Caracas, Venezuela.

Kennedy was deeply moved by the wildly enthusiastic reception he and Mrs. Kennedy were given by the people of Puerto Rico.

Shouts of 'Viva Kennedy' Warm Venezuelan Greeting

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—President Kennedy drove safely through the streets of Caracas today, happily responding to shouts of "Viva Kennedy," and then voiced a warning to Latin Americans to be aware of alien philosophies that promise prosperity but take away liberties.

The President was here to promote the Alliance for Progress that links U.S. aid billions with a program of Latin American self-help. His welcome was warm.

He took off by helicopter to visit housing and agrarian reform projects.

At La Morita, 50 miles south-west of Caracas, the Venezuelan government is presenting land titles to 46 families. There Kennedy made his principal address of the day, touching on the ways that Communism and Castroism could imperil the progress of Latin America.

Allen Phillips, he said, try to tell the people that "economic progress is possible only if we submit to a discipline which demands liberty."

He congratulated Venezuelans who "have made the transition from a repressive dictatorship with its false show, its illusory promises and its ruthless destruction of human freedom to progressive democratic rule."

Thousands of troops guarded his routes and helicopters patrolled overhead, successfully blanketing the hands of Communists and Castro sympathizers who for days endeavored with firebombs and unfriendly paint brushes to create a tense and confused atmosphere for the President's visit.

On reaching La Carlota Airport at the south edge of Caracas, he would be one under which police do not have to make a choice on which court to use.

The committee on legislative organization, handling the most explosive issue facing the convention, will travel by bus to Kalamazoo and Berrien Springs to hear arguments concerning several proposals for reapportioning the legislature.

The hearings were denounced by outstate delegates as a balancing factor to a meeting held in Detroit this week.

The lottery hearings will be conducted by the committee on legislative powers. Four proposals have been submitted pertaining to the present constitutional prohibition against lotteries, including bingo.

The sponsor of one of the proposals, delegate Don Elnowski, D-Detroit, said he favored local decision on whether bingo should be restricted.

Puerto Rico Scores Hit With Jackie

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy, sampled the acclaim of modern-day Puerto Rico, then got a taste of the island's splendid historic past—and appeared to like the fare.

The First Lady waved gently to a cheering throng of flag-waving Puerto Ricans who turned out 300,000 strong Friday to welcome her and President Kennedy.

As an admirer of guitars, she was shown crystal table centerpieces that came to this island as a gift of Queen Isabella of Spain in the 16th century.

It was perhaps the easiest day of the three-day schedule of a fast-moving presidential weekend trip to Latin America.

Kennedy noted on her arrival that the last time he and his wife were in Puerto Rico was "one of the last carefree interludes we have had." At that time he was a senator.

Graced with an armload of ceremonial flowers, Mrs. Kennedy stood by as her husband was accorded a 21-gun salute. Friendly crowds jostled her as they tried to get in close but she did not seem to mind.

RECALLS LAST VISIT

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Western Michigan University students ended a telephone talkathon at noon Friday, 48 hours after it began Nov. 20. The students were forced to stop because school dormitories were being closed for the Christmas holidays. The telephones used in the talkathon were in the dormitories.

He made that clear Friday night in replying to calls placed from the leaders of two French-speaking African countries that he "issue formal instructions for an immediate cease-fire in Katanga."

Thant told President Abbe F. Fulbright of the Congo-Brazzaville and President Philibert Tsiranana of the Malagasy Republic he was considering their pleas carefully.

But he said the United Nations could stop fighting only when it had freedom of movement and freedom from attack, plus clear guarantees that it could carry out completely cut Congo resolutions "to the satisfaction of Security Council and General Assembly."

Those resolutions call for the removal of all foreign mercenaries from the Congo, uphold the territorial integrity of the country and demand an end to secessionist activities in President Moise Tshombe's Katanga.

Claim Tshombe, Other Officials Retreat South

Provincial Capital Site of Heavy Fighting; Core of City May Fall Soon

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Three companies of U.N. Swedish troops today captured Camp Massari, Elisabethville stronghold of the Katanga gendarmerie, the United Nations announced here. By mid-afternoon all fighting in the camp had ceased, the United Nations said.

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—Heart of this capital today U. N. troops drove into the heart of this capital today and were reported to have seized two Katangan strong points in heavy fighting.

The roar of mortar shelling and machine gun fire echoed through the nearly deserted city.

The government of this secessionist province said to have retreated to Kipushi, 30 miles to the south, or to Kolwezi, 130 miles to the northwest. Telephones were not answered at President Moise Tshombe's residence.

Brussels Radio said Tshombe was heading for Kipushi.

On the second day of an all-out attack, the 6,000-man U.N. army was reported to have captured the Lido Hotel, a stronghold on the western side of the city near Tshombe's residence. The hotel commands one of two main roads leading south from the capital.

TAKE TUNNEL
The second stronghold to fall was the railroad tunnel commanding the main road into the city from the eastern suburbs, site of Irish and Swedish U.N. force headquarters.

A heavy battle between Katangans and the Swedish and Irish attackers had raged around the "Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Thant Holds Out for Objectives

Won't Back Cease Fire in Katanga Till U.N. Gains Military Goals

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Acting Secretary General U. Thant was still holding out today against a cease fire in Katanga until the United Nations has won all its objectives in fighting there.

He made that clear Friday night in replying to calls placed from the leaders of two French-speaking African countries that he "issue formal instructions for an immediate cease-fire in Katanga."

Thant told President Abbe F. Fulbright of the Congo-Brazzaville and President Philibert Tsiranana of the Malagasy Republic he was considering their pleas carefully.

Cox said "It generally is believed Michigan's economy has fluctuated more widely than the nation's up and down."

"This still is true on downswing because of structural unemployment in the state."

Robs Firms, Not Employes

Guman Has Yule Spirit

DETROIT (AP) — A holdup with checks and the only man with a code of ethics robbed other money about was the $32 in the E&G Finance Co. of $57 Fri-day.

Nancy Lovell, 26, a clerk, gave the gunman the $37 in her cash drawer. The man asked for more but Mrs. Lovell said that all there was on the premises was a few dollars in her purse.

"Forget it," the man replied. "I don't want any of your money. You need it to buy Christmas gifts."

Shortly afterward, Joseph Elias, 38, the office manager, returned and the holdup man demanded money from him. Elias explained the firm did all its business with checks and the only man with a code of ethics robbed other money about was the $32 in the E&G Finance Co. of $57 Fri-day.

"Keep it and buy Christmas presents. I only want the firm's cash money," the man replied and left with the company's $57.

Space Mishap Ends U.S. Success String

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A mishap at the edge of space Friday night wrecked the second longest string of successes ever run up by a U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile.

The accident, due to a mechanical or electrical failure, struck a huge Titan missile a little more than two minutes after it was launched on a flight to test a new guidance system.

The 98-foot rocket, aimed at a target about 5,000 miles southeast of here, instead plummeted into the Atlantic Ocean only a little way off the Florida coast.

The fizzle ended the Titan's success string at 12—a string that started June 23.
