

Pontiac's 'Firebird' Will Debut in January

Pontiac Motor Division today confirmed it is expecting — the offspring will be a sporty new model called "Firebird."

Long rumored as the next step to round out the popular Pontiac line, the small sports model will debut in late January.

Pilot production is already begun in Chevrolet's Lordstown, Ohio, plant, but a majority of component parts will be made in Pontiac and shipped out, a spokesman said.

These parts include engine, axles, hoods and front fenders. The Firebird will be produced in both convertible and two-door hardtop styles, seating two in front bucket seats, and three in the back on bench-type seating.

106-INCH WHEELBASE

Built on the same 106-inch wheelbase as the Chevrolet Camaro, the Firebird will be four inches longer than the 185-inch Camaro.

Standard engine will be a 165-horsepower six-cylinder engine, with various options available.

No price has been revealed, but reportedly the Firebird's price will be below Lincoln Mercury Division's $2,851 Cougar, and similar to Ford's Mustang and Chevy's Camaro.

If the name Firebird seems familiar to both auto buyers and the industry, it's because it has been used previously on a series of experimental, futuristic GM models from 1954 to 1968 in connection with gas turbine engines.

Current reports indicate the Firebird will be a conventional sports car, with a front engine and rear drive. One of the first showings of the new model will be the Chicago Auto Show in McCormick Place, beginning on Feb. 11.

Firebird will be the latest addition to a growing American tradition of sports cars which began with the Chevrolet Corvette, grew in popularity with the Ford Mustang and Plymouth Barracuda, and spread with the Chevrolet Camaro and Mercury Cougar.

Reds Say U.S. Hit Hanoi Again

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—The Communists charged that U.S. jets raided Hanoi and its suburbs today for the second day in a row. Radio Hanoi declared eight American aircraft, including a pilotless reconnaissance plane, were shot down.

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. Command, which earlier said it could not confirm or deny the Communist claim that American bombs fell inside the North Vietnamese capital yesterday and that women and children were killed.

Bill Moyers Resigns Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill D. Moyers said today he is resigning as President Johnson's press secretary to become publisher and chief operating officer of the Long Island, N.Y., newspaper, Newsday.

Moyers also announced the impending resignation of a second $30,000-a-year Johnson aide — Jake Jacobson who has been serving as the President's legislative counsel. Jacobson will return to private law practice in Austin, Tex.

Moyers said he will be succeeded as press secretary by George Christian, 39, who joined the White House staff last May after being press secretary to Democratic Gov. John B. Connally of Texas.

Moyers will leave the White House Feb. 1, when Christian will take over his duties.

Moyers, the most prominent member of the White House inner circle since the resignation earlier this year of Jack Valenti, said his resignation was prompted by "reasons of personal family obligations."

Jacobson, said Moyers, will "leave sometime after the first of the year."

The impending departure of Moyers had been reported previously by the New York Daily News and the Marshall (Tex.) News-Messenger.

A U.S. spokesman said pilot reports of raids against North Vietnam today had not been received at Saigon headquarters.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in a Hanoi dispatch that American planes raided the city for about an hour and a half.

"As yesterday," the Tass correspondent said, "they bombed the right and left banks of the Red River, the embankment and the area of the bridge linking Hanoi with its suburb Zylam."

"The air pirates were met with dense antiaircraft fire. Numerous bursts clouded the clear sky. A rocket soared up leaving a white trail behind. I saw a U.S. plane catch fire and a parachute detach from the plane."

Though refusing to confirm or deny Communist accounts of the operations yesterday, the official U.S. spokesman in Saigon said he had no American reports indicating that bombs landed on the North Vietnamese capital.

The spokesman reported that American bombers attacked a rail yard six miles northeast of Hanoi and a truck depot five miles south of the Red capital.

The organ of the North Vietnamese Communist party, Nhan Dan, called on its army and the Viet Cong to "avenge the personal family of Hanoi."

Proposed City Budget Offered

A proposed $9.2-million budget was officially received last night by the City Commission and a public hearing ordered for Jan. 10.

The budget is for the 12-month period starting Jan. 1.

Final adoption of the 1967 budget, which consists largely of a $7.5-million general operating fund, is to come late next month.

In a message presented with the budget, City Manager Joseph A. Warren pointed out the austerity budget would not provide for employee wage boosts, currently the subject of negotiations.

Warren, who noted that the 1966 budget would probably end the year $65,000 in the red, said manpower in the police and fire departments remain at their strength on Dec. 1 in the proposed budget.

"Any pay adjustment which would come out of the current discussions with employees would have to be paid from surplus accumulated over the past three years," Warren reported.

The current year's deficit also is to come out of the (Continued on Page A-3, Col. 1)

Profile of a Motor Scooter Victim

By DAVID J. COOK
(Last of Two Parts)

An athlete and strong "B" student, 16-year-old Ronald Turcsak was typical of the "new breed" of motorcyclists which at times seemed to swarm over Oakland County roads this summer.

Most of the young cyclists and scooter riders are now looking forward to spring, thinking perhaps of getting a bigger, faster bike.

Turcsak, however, vows he'll never ride another two-wheeled vehicle.

His father, who bought the scooter one day before an accident which hospitalized his son more than three months, feels just as strongly.

"I know not everybody feels the same way I do," Joseph Turcsak said.

'NOT FOR KIDS

"On the other hand, not everybody's been through what we have."

"Cycles and scooters just aren't for kids — they're too dangerous. I wish I had never bought Ron's and I'll never buy another one."

The senior Turcsak, a body-builder at GMC Truck & Coach Division, is too busy assisting in his son's recovery, however, to dwell very long on the hazards of cycling.

BATTILING BACK — Doctors said 16-year-old Ronald Turcsak would not live through the night June 29 after his motor scooter was struck by a car. Sixty-two days later, Turcsak emerged from a coma, his 130-pound frame lighter by some 60 pounds. Still paralyzed at his left shoulder and arm, which specialists will work on for at least one year in an attempt to restore them

House Called Site for Drinks, Glue-Sniffing

Two men and four teen-agers were held at the Oakland County Jail today following their arrest last night in a raid on an alleged drinking and glue-sniffing hangout in Commerce Township.

Two boys, aged 12 and 14, and a 13-year-old girl were also apprehended by Oakland County sheriff's deputies and Wolverine Lake police and turned over to their parents.

Facing arraignment for contributing to the delinquency of a minor are William Mathews, 24, of Indianapolis, Ind., a former Wal-Mart Lake resident, and Rodney L. Nickerson, 25, of 3153 Chenoa, Commerce Township.

Charged with being minors in possession of alcoholic beverages are David E. Thompson, 17, of 525 Laguna Court, Wolverine Lake; brothers Cepha and Troy Fuson, 19 and 17, of 2877 Fisher; and Dennis R. Purdom, 19, of 3208 Barberray, all of Commerce Township.

Deputies Wayne K. Brause and Gerald Girard with Wolverine Lake officer Joe Tompkins forced their way into a legally unoccupied house at 1405 Oakley Park about 6:15 p.m.

Board to Trade Property for Control of Field

Unanimous Supervisor Approval Follows 4-1 Okay by Commission

By L. GARY THORNE

Transfer of Pontiac Municipal Airport from city to county ownership has been approved by the governing bodies of both units.

Agreeing to the city's revised terms, the County Board of Supervisors this morning gave unanimous approval to the acquisition of the 438-acre airfield in Waterford Township.

The terms, approved last night by the City Commission, were first announced last week by county negotiators.

The commission voted 4-1 to transfer the airport in exchange for two county-owned properties downtown. District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin cast the lone dissenting vote.

While only four commissioners voted in favor of the transfer, Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. said both absent commissioners, Leslie H. Hudson and T. Warren Fowler Sr., were in favor of the majority decision.

Irwin, while stating he thought the airport should be a county facility, thought the city was selling too cheap.

MONEY SPENT

He contended city taxpayers deserved more for their equity, estimated at $1.4 million, in the nearly 40-year-old airport.

The city is to receive the County Annex Building at 1 Lafayette and the county-owned parking lot at Huron and Saginaw.

In revising its offer last night, the commission relinquished its demand that the city retain ownership of 59 T-hangers at the airport in exchange for allowing the county to occupy the annex building until 1968.

Pontiac Sales Hit New High

Pontiac General Sales Manager Thomas L. King reported today that 23,277 Pontiacs and Tempests were sold in December 1-10 sales period.

Calendar year sales to date total 791,473.

Present Weather to Prevail

Mostly cloudy with little temperature change is forecast for the Pontiac area through Friday.

The weatherman predicts a low of 24 to 30 tonight and a high in the low 30s tomorrow.

Precipitation is expected to total one-tenth inch or less in snow flurries mainly late in the week.

Morning winds southerly at 5 to 15 miles will continue through tonight.

A frosty 18 was the low mercury reading prior to 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. At 2 p.m. the recording was 27.

DETROIT (AP)—Henry Ford II said today that many suggested federal auto safety standards are "unreasonable, arbitrary and technically unfeasible" and could lead to shut-downs on auto production lines.

Romney Calls for Viet Project

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney Tuesday announced a "Michigan Christmas in Vietnam" project and asked the state's citizens to aid voluntary organizations in helping Michigan military personnel and the people of South Vietnam.

Proclaiming the week of Dec. 19-24 as the project week, Romney asked citizens to act through established voluntary organizations to unite in giving something of themselves—tangible gifts requiring a measure of personal sacrifice—to the people of South Vietnam and to the Michigan men now serving there.

The governor presented representatives of several voluntary groups at a news conference and recommended that persons participating in the project work through such organizations.

Recalling the success of last year's statewide project to send a gift to each Michigan serviceman in Vietnam, Romney said the cost of a similar program would be prohibitive this year due to the buildup of U. S. forces in the Southeast Asian country.

CAN'T DUPLICATE
"It is not in the realm of realism to duplicate that program," Romney said, pointing out that while last year's program cost about $100,000, a similar program this year would cost between $300,000 and $400,000.

Pointing out that most of the voluntary groups represented provided services and aid principally to the South Vietnamese people, Romney said citizen aid will help U. S. troops in their dual role of building a country as well as fighting to win a victory.

"I believe every family in Michigan should give consideration to how they can make a contribution," Romney said. "There is not one that can't."

High-level Pentagon officials were reluctant to comment on the reported Soviet program, first revealed Tuesday in a technical journal.

However, one source said: "We know they have missiles (ICBMs), and it's a standard technical option to install the multiple warheads. 'It's one of the things missile people think about.'"

OPINIONS DIFFER
The official, who could not be named, said "Everybody has a slightly different opinion of what they'll (multiple warheads) do for you and what the threat is. But anytime they're throwing at us, we have to take it seriously."

As envisioned by some sources, the new Soviet program apparently would consist of warheads—ranging up to one megaton in size—carried aboard a mother vehicle and dispersed after reentry. A central control system would enable the warheads to be ejected at prescribed velocity and altitude after the ICBM's last stage had been spent.

The new development comes in the heels of a report by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that the Soviet Union was believed to be planning to deploy more long-range missiles than earlier indicated by U. S. intelligence estimates.

SUPERWHISTLING MISS—Two weeks before Christmas and all through Pontiac State Bank the angelic voices of student choirs could be heard at noon. When they got to the part about Santa whistling to his team, Waterford Kettering's Joanne Newton came on strong. Joanne, 4265 Roseberry, Waterford Township, gave forth a whistle that would shatter a bowl full of jelly.

Jackie Suing Look, Publisher Over Book

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy has served a summons on Look magazine and the publishing firm of Harper & Row in an apparent effort to block publication of a book about her late husband's death.

Author of the book, "Death of a President," is William Manchester who returned from Europe Tuesday. He said he was "not informed on what is happening" but was "puzzled by the disturbance."

William Attwood, editor-in-chief of Look, acknowledged receipt of the summons Tuesday but said the magazine was going ahead with its plan to serialize the book.

"The presses are already rolling," he said. "We're publishing. I don't see any way it can be stopped."

LEGAL ASPECTS
He declined to discuss the legal aspects of the summons pending the return of Look's lawyer, John Harding, who was in Washington.

Attwood noted that the summons merely indicates that Mrs. Kennedy intends to take court action but does not specify what course she will follow and carries no legal attachment.

NOT AWARE
Pamela Timmins, secretary to Mrs. Kennedy, said Tuesday night she had not been aware the action had been taken.

Mrs. Kennedy chose Manchester to record the events of the assassination "in the interest of accuracy" but later was reported disturbed by his use of some of her personal recollections in the book.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., is also believed to be unhappy with portions of the manuscript, but reportedly has told Harper & Row he would not seek to prevent its publication.

A source close to the Kennedy family said objections to the book, which implied that the Kennedys did not care for President Johnson.

City, County OK Field Swap

the annex rent-free until the new County Courthouse wing is ready. However, the city's proposal stipulated that the parking lot adjacent to the annex will be transferred immediately.

Thus, the county would only retain free use of the annex building itself, while furnishing appropriate maintenance.

Irwin, in opposing the commission majority, pointed out that it would probably cost approximately $75,000 to eventually tear down the annex.

"We must deduct this from the value received," added Irwin.

The district 2 commissioner also claimed the city was acting in haste.

LONG NEGOTIATIONS
Other commissioners disputed Irwin's contentions, claiming negotiations had been going on for some time.

"A deficit operation can't continue," commented Taylor. Commissioner John A. Dugan said that regardless of the financial considerations the transfer would merely put the airport under a different political body with city residents still able to make full use of the facility.

Bloomfield Hills Man Named to Commission

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—Edward H. Lerchen, 180 Lowell, was named to the City Commission last night to replace Manton M. Cummins who died last month.

Long active in area banking, business, industry and civic affairs, Lerchen is executive director of the Cranbrook Foundation.

A resident of the area since 1926, he was graduated from Cranbrook School for Boys in 1928 and later became chairman of the board of directors of the school.

Lerchen is a former vice president of the Detroit Bank and Trust Co. He has also been a security analyst for Walling, Lerchen & Co.

He will serve on the commission until the election next April.

OTHER ACTION
In other action last night the commission adopted an amendment to the building code which will prevent a builder from abandoning work on a building once construction has been started.

Under the amendment an unfinished building on which no work has been done for six months can be razed if there is no progress after a 60-day notice.

An amendment to the zoning ordinance was also approved by the commission following a public hearing.

The approximately 13 acres of McManus, John and Ada m.s. Inc., Woodward and Long Lake was rezoned for office use.

PREVIOUS ZONING
It was previously zoned for office, parking, multiple dwelling and single-family residential.

One hundred feet of greenbelt on the outer perimeter of the property will screen the office complex from a nearby residential area.

U.S. Admits Pilot Held by Red Chinese

Officials have admitted for the first time that an American Air Force pilot fighting in the Vietnam war is being held prisoner by the Red Chinese after his plane went down near China last year.

They said Capt. Philip E. Smith's F104 Starfighter went down over the Chinese island of Hainan in the Tonkin Gulf Sept. 20, 1965.

It was not known whether the plane was shot down or had mechanical failure.

Officials questioned at the time of the reported downing acknowledged there was "air action in the vicinity of Hainan," but could not confirm that a plane was shot down.

Smith is believed being held prisoner in Peking, but no contact between him and U. S. officials has been established.

Detective Sgt. Harry M. Maur said Monday for nonpayment of rent — had been under investigation for about a month.

The previous tenant, Sandra M. Preto, 19, was evicted Monday and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor in connection with a glue-sniffing complaint.

She is held at the Oakland County Jail in $1,000 bond.

The city manager said the $7.3-million general fund, which supports most of the city's operating expenses, carries a contingency of only $13,550, nearly one-third the contingency allowed this year.

The proposed budget predicts the city will continue to receive record high returns on state sales tax, projected $90,000 higher than this year at $770,000.

Pontiac's biggest source of municipal revenue, the local tax base, is only expected to increase $5 million, or a total of $405 million, next year, according to the budget projections.

In actual revenue for the charter-limited general fund, this tax base hike would mean about $60,000.

However, city officials decline to project a 1967 tax rate, but the rate is expected to be close to the July levy of $17.76 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

Warren said the proposed services; in fact, it provides for some reductions.

SOME VACANCIES

Only some employee vacancies are to be filled, including a purchasing agent, a professional librarian and three staff people in the engineering department. The latter is down to 13 persons from 27 a year ago.

The total appropriation proposed for elections next year is down $10,500 over this year. One special election, resulting from a projected millage proposition to be recommended by the Pontiac Finance Study Committee, is anticipated for 1967.

Meanwhile, Pontiac's withdrawal from the North Oakland Library Contract system is expected to save a $12,335 cash outlay in the coming year.

Also, the cut this year of contract with Oakland County for health laboratory services reduces the health department's budget next year by $15,000.

GENERAL FUND
The total general fund proposed for 1967 is $66,476 under the current appropriation.

Essentially, the only major new expenditure proposed for 1967 is an estimated $101,000 for improvements at the city's new sanitary land-fill site on Collier.

Warren said these improvements, which would be financed by the special, separate tax allowed for sanitation purposes, are necessary to prepare the site for use in early 1968.

The city plans to develop an attractive entrance and greenbelt along the Collier frontage, and partially fence the site. Also, a building will be constructed to house the equipment to be used there.

Not presented at last night's commission meeting was the 1967 capital improvement, supported by its own 1/4-mill tax levy. Income for this special fund is estimated at $609,000 next year.

Airport Loses Permit to Allow Use by Public

TROY — The Jim Robbins Co. airport has been at least temporarily returned to private status, a move sought by homeowners of at least four south Oakland communities.

Frederick Waite, assistant director of the Michigan Aviation Commission (MAC), verified yesterday afternoon that the permit allowing public use of the airport has been withdrawn.

Final disposition, he said, will await a Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) hearing tentatively set for some time in January, and another MAC review.

The license allowing public use was withdrawn by the MAC.

Waite said that, in issuing the license, the MAC was unaware of certain information held by the FAA in regard to flight patterns and potential traffic use of the airport.

Application was made by the Robbins Co. to the FAA last year, Waite said, when Robbins sought permission to resurface a runway. Permission was granted for private use purposes by the FAA, Waite said. He said the MAC did not have that information.

He said his group had not been given copies of papers filed in August with the FAA in which public use was requested. These papers, he said, contained figures on estimated traffic not made available to the MAC.

The FAA still has the matter under advisement.

The MAC, Waite said, had granted the license for public use on the basis of previous traffic and flight patterns.

MAY CONFLICT
He said during the review of the operation, special consideration will be given to flight patterns which may conflict with Big Beaver Airport and general safety precautions.

Zoning Unit Wants Data on Avon Bid

AVON TOWNSHIP — Sidney Weinberger's new petition to move dirt and grade the land on 56 acres off Sheldon has been referred to attorney Rex Beto by the Zoning Board of Appeals. He was instructed to determine requirements of the County Road Commission in regard to Weinberger's responsibility for road maintenance and truck size.

Some 75 persons attended to object to this newer petition of Weinberger. A previous one, encompassing more land and a processing plant on the property, was refused last fall.

Weinberger said he now plans to truck out the excess dirt for processing. He said plans for housing on the property should be ready for implementation in two years.

The board approved the opening of another 10 acres for grading and ground removal at Auburn, west of Leach.

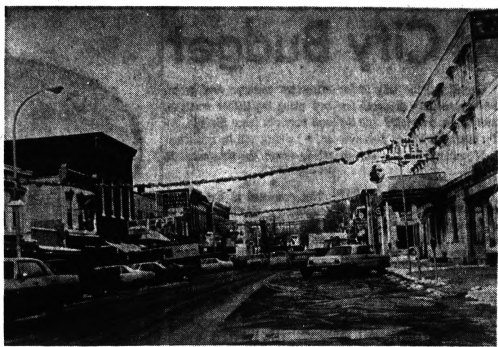

FIRST PLOT
A first plot of five acres is almost through the rehabilitation process, according to board spokesmen.

Fear of water level reduction prompted the board to ask township building inspector John Marmon, representatives from the engineering firm of Johnson & Anderson, and sand and gravel operator Roman Helanski to investigate an operation between Hamlin and School roads near the Southeast Oakland Dump.

Permission was granted John Dahman to level property on South, adjacent to the village limits, as site for future light industry development.

Story Hour for Yule

AVON TOWNSHIP — Stories and finger plays about many different types of Christmas celebrations will be presented at the Avon Story Hour at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in Woodward Memorial Library. The program is sponsored by the Rochester Junior Auxiliary.

Urban Renewal May Alter Milford's Main Street

Downtown Milford May Get New Look

MILFORD — A new look may be in store for the village's central business district.

Based on a preliminary report of planning consultants Villan-Leman and Associates, Inc., Southfield, the Village Council has approved entering the second phase of an urban renewal study.

In a report to the council last week, the planners indicated that based on an exterior survey of the buildings, the proposed urban renewal area would appear to meet the requirements for federal assistance.

To qualify for federal assistance as a clearance section, 50 per cent of the structures must be either substandard requiring their removal, or they must have blighting influences such as obsolescence, incompatible land use and overcrowding.

At least 20 per cent of the structures in the project must exhibit these deficiencies to qualify as a conservation project.

The planners pointed out that more detailed interior inspections must be made to determine eligibility.

The general area being considered for urban renewal is bounded by Canal Street on the south extending west of Main, by Commerce on the north, by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway and the south east shoreline of the Lower Mill Pond on the west, and by the one-half block line between Union and Hickory streets on the east.

A majority of the buildings in the proposed clearance area would have to be removed to allow for new commercial development and off-street parking.

In the conservation area, the majority of the buildings would probably have to be rehabilitated and remodeled.

COST OF PROJECT
Cost of the project is now estimated at $2,191,000 of which the village would pay one-quarter. The rest would come through funds under the federal urban renewal program.

The present study is being financed in part with $250 donated by the merchants and $750 voted by the council.

The council will apply for federal funds to finance the second phase of the study.

Pipes Sound O'er the Glens of Avon

By JEAN SAILE

AVON TOWNSHIP — Do the skirl of bagpipes and the strain of "Jingle Bells" sound like an odd combination?

It's not unusual for what goes on at Mac's Wee Hoose, 2650 S. Rochester, for while bagpipes have never been noted for caroling, the pipers that find their way to Mac's "can play anything."

Some nights the misty burr-r-r of the Highlander is as thick as the smoke, and the mere suggestion of a piper piping can start all sorts of interesting things to happen.

Mac's Wee Hoose is the idea and inspiration of Scotch descendants, Don and Kathryn MacInnes. Native-born Americans, they're proud of it, but they're proud too of a traditional heritage.

The aim of their lives has been the creation of a gathering-place for people of Scotch descent and for Americans who enjoy the Highlander atmosphere.

WANTED TO SHARE

Because "Mac" has played the bagpipes and danced most of his life he wanted other youngsters to share the same enthusiasm.

As a result, a weekly schedule of classes for both children and adults flourish at The Wee Hoose.

On Monday evenings Margaret MacInnes Connor, a qualified teacher recognized by the U.S. Highland Dancing Association, teaches the Highland fling.

Bagpipe and drum classes convene at 6:30 p.m. Thursday under the direction of Hector MacInnes, onetime pipe major of the old Ford Pipe Band.

Drawings OK'd for High School

Grievance Denied by Walled Lake Board

WALLED LAKE — The school district's proposed second high school has moved one step closer to reality with the board of education approval of preliminary drawings.

The board also authorized work to begin on working drawings for the foundation.

Scheduled for completion in September of 1969, the new building will take the pressure off the present high school which is housing 500 more pupils than the 1,300 it was designed to hold.

The new building will also accommodate about 1,300 students and together with the present high school will absorb ninth graders to temporarily relieve overcrowding at the junior high schools.

In other action the board denied a grievance filed recently by the Walled Lake Education Association.

CONFERENCE PERIOD

The grievance was filed after Schools Supt. George Carver denied the request of a teacher that he be paid for a conference period which he spent supervising a math test.

Application for a federal grant for two school sites under the Open Space Land Grant was also approved by the board Monday night.

If the grant is approved, the district will be entitled to receive up to 50 per cent reimbursement for open land not used for building and parking lots.

The board will apply for $32,000 for a 12.77 acre site at Loon Lake to be used for an elementary school, for development of that site and for a 40 acre junior high school site on Charms Road.

Substitute teachers will soon receive $3 more per day. The board raised the salaries from $20 to $23 to "stay more competitive with surrounding districts."

Ortonville Girl Pageant Winner

ORTONVILLE — Gail Kilbourn, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Kilbourn, 152 Mill, has been named Ortonville Junior Miss 1966-67.

She will take part in the state pageant next month in Pontiac.

Christine McPhail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McPhail, 7423 Groveland, Groveland Township, was named first runner-up. They were crowned by last year's Junior Miss, Gail Wray.

Miss Kilbourn received $75 from the audience; $25 from Owen's Chevrolet Co. and prizes from local merchants.

Santa and the Giant Fighter

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Billy gets the Rosanna Ruby, and the Harp Witch puts it in a magic necklace. Then the witch said Billy must not only destroy Goko but all the giants who live with him.

CHAPTER NINE The Laughing Ghost

Billy's teeth chattered so loud he was afraid that Santa and the Harp Witch might hear it. He was brave as any boy and he was ready to fight Goko the giant. But how could he fight Goko's brothers and his cousins and his nephews?

Santa was discouraged, too. "It can't be done," he groaned. "How can one boy slay so many?"

"He doesn't have to slay them!" rasped the witch. "There are other ways."

She told them about a powerful potion which mixed in the giants' food would turn them into pigs.

LAUGHING GHOST

"Where are we to get this potion?" asked Santa.

"From the eyes of Ha-Ha the laughing ghost," wheezed the witch. "Make Ha-Ha cry and catch his tears. Three drops will be enough!"

"Why not use this marvelous potion on Goko himself?" exclaimed Santa.

The witch shook her head. "Goko is too powerful. He cannot be turned into any other creature."

CROSS OCEAN

The witch gave Billy a little bottle to hold Ha-Ha's tears and she gave Santa a pair of slippers that would take them to Ghostland in seven enormous steps.

Santa put on the slippers and Billy climbed on his back and off they went. With the first step they crossed the ocean.

The second step took them over a mighty mountain range. Four more steps and they crossed four continents.

The seventh step brought them to Ghostland where spirits and spooks and phantoms lived and no human ever goes.

HAPPIEST GHOST

Ghosts are happy creatures. They sing and play all the day. But Ha-Ha was the happiest ghost in the land. He was called Ha-Ha because he seemed never to stop laughing.

Santa and Billy found Ha-Ha swinging in a rope swing hung from a weeping willow tree.

He was dressed in a white sheet that billowed around him like a sail. He was singing a laughing children's song.

How in the world could they get tears from such a joyful creature?

Santa told him who they were and why they had come. Ha-Ha said it was impossible to get tears from him. He had never cried in his life.

Santa and Billy found Ha-Ha in Ghostland

"Then," said Santa, "the moon will never rise again."

Ha-Ha laughed. "I don't like moonlight," he said.

"The giant will force the Fairy Queen to marry him," said Santa. "He will be King of all Fairyland."

VOVS CAPTURE

"That's nothing to me," laughed Ha-Ha.

"The giant has vowed to capture me on Christmas Eve," said Santa.

"Ha-ha!" laughed Ha-Ha.

"There will be no more Christmas," said Santa.

Ha-Ha stopped laughing. "No more toys? No more stockings? No more Christmas trees? Not even for ghosts?"

TEARS APPEAR

"Not for anyone in all the world," said Santa.

Tears came in Ha-Ha's eyes. They began to roll down his cheeks. "Never Christmas again!" he sobbed. "How sad!"

Billy held out his little bottle and caught Ha-Ha's tears as they dropped from his chin. In two minutes the bottle was full.

"It's all right now," smiled Billy. "Thank you for your help."

KEEPS ON CRYING

But Ha-Ha kept right on crying. "No more Christmas!" he sniffled. "How will we ever manage?"

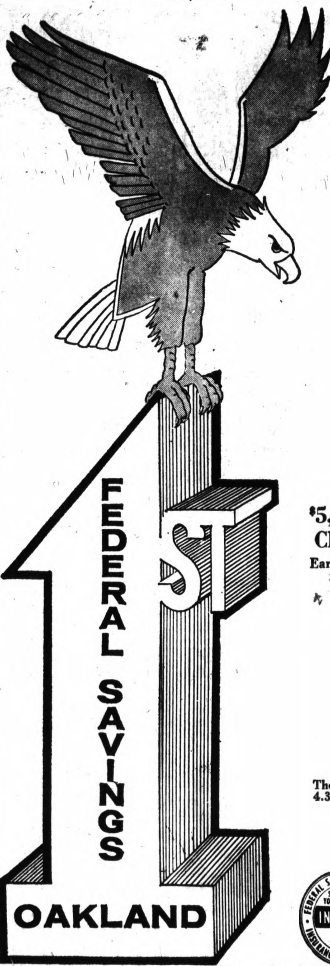

"We will manage I think!" promised Santa and he strode out of Ghostland with Billy on his back.

They came to the cave where Goko the giant had hidden the moon. Santa took off the Harp Witch's slippers and gave them to the boy.

Then Santa said, "You have the magic words to unlock the moon and the ruby necklace and Ha-Ha's tears. This is all the help I can give you."

"I must return to Santa Land now for the Fairy Queen said the rest must be done by you alone."

Billy nodded solemnly. He clutched his wooden sword and went alone into the cave.

Hoffa Dealt Blow by Supreme Court

HOFFA

Linked to a previous trial and acquittal on a charge of misuse of union pension funds, Hoffa was found guilty on a jury-tampering charge and sentenced to eight years in jail and fined $10,000.

Unless the Supreme Court grants a rehearing within 25 days, a most unlikely eventuality, Hoffa's sentence will become effective thereafter.

The 53-year-old head of the 1,700,000-member Teamsters Union (the largest in the country) has been beset by trouble with the law since he became its president in 1957.

Target of congressional investigations and defendant in a series of Federal court prosecutions, the jaunty Hoffa came through unscathed until he was tripped up in the court action of two years ago.

Though Hoffa seems destined to spend the next few years behind bars, he may well continue to direct his national labor organization. Perhaps foreseeing such a contingency, Hoffa had the union constitution rewritten at the Teamster convention last July to create the post of general vice president.

Elected to the office was Hoffa's longtime friend and Teamster associate FRANK FITZSIMMONS who, many think, will serve as a stand-in during the absence of his boss.

Seldom has there been a more forceful or controversial figure on the national scene than that of Jimmy Hoffa. It goes without saying that his impending eclipse will be viewed with mixed and vociferous emotions.

'The Trophy Room Is Almost Complete!'

David Lawrence Says:

Free FBI, Hoover From Politics

WASHINGTON — The controversy between the Federal Bureau of Investigation and a former attorney general as to when wire-tapping and eavesdropping are justified or illegal could have a salutary result.

For sooner or later the American people will have to face up to the fact that the Department of Justice is a political body, subject to the whims of a president or an attorney general, and this raises the question of whether law enforcement shouldn't be completely separated in the future from the executive branch of the government.

Law enforcement is a task so closely related to interpretations of law that it would be more natural to have the head of the FBI serve a 15-year term and report directly to Congress as is the case with the comptroller general — than to make him responsive, as at present, to the whims of the man in the White House or his attorney general.

Within the past 80 years, Congress has established what are known as "independent agencies" — the first being the Interstate Commerce Commission in 1887. Many similar bodies have been created since.

Their rulings are subject to court review, and they have become quasi-judicial commissions of the government. Their members are appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate.

They are not supposed to be under the duress or pressure of the president, and have the right to act independently of the executive branch of the government.

An analogous setup for the Federal Bureau of Investigation would at least permit its detachment from politics and would assure impartiality in handling the rules of law enforcement and investigative procedures.

It is true that through all the years during which the Federal Bureau of Investigation has operated, there have been relatively few instances of political interference by any administration. But the president or his representative, the attorney general and his brother, have the power to tell the FBI what to do.

This has just been emphasized by the disclosure of various memoranda passing between the FBI and Robert F. Kennedy when he was holding the office of attorney general and his brother was President of the United States. It has taken a good deal of courage for J. Edgar Hoover, who has been director of the FBI since 1924, to stand up to all the attorney generals who have from time to time sought to give him instructions as to what his agency could or could not do in law enforcement.

Fortunately, most of these differences have been resolved without publicity and in a constructive way. But the weakness in the system still prevails, and will not be cured until the FBI is set up as an independent agency similar to the various federal commissions already established by Congress.

Bob Considine Says:

Suicide Raid by Viet Cong Leaves a Tragic Aftermath

SAIGON — The wall of firepower that moved them down as they ran like devils was gone. It had transferred the dead Viet Cong into the hands of men and boys. The very stuffings had been blown out of them and what was left CONSIDINE was as limp and empty as scarecrows fallen from their uprights.

Tan Son Nhut Airport, where our warplanes share the strip with an incongruous amount of commercial traffic, had rather easily resisted the 40 enemy mortars and the kamikaze charge. A few planes, a jeep and half a dozen trucks would need repairing.

What could never be refurbished was the lives of three American defenders the suicide squad took with them in the senseless raid.

Only the Vietcong dead were still visible when Gen. P. Westmoreland's chopper alighted. Two, with blankets over them, were being lifted into a field ambulance.

Scant yards short of the sandbagged stronghold and the guns that had blazed the life from him lay the body of a VC with the face of an oriental toad.

He had given his equivalent of that "last full measure of devotion" at an age in life when your kids and mine were struggling with eighth grade grammar.

"I still can't understand it," an Air Force colonel muttered, looking at the bodies spread around in death. "What do they do to these people to get them to try something like this — knowing they won't have a chance in hell to pull it off."

The general had seen a lot of dead men in North Africa, Sicily, Korea and in this war. But two of the desperate little dead VCs now engaged his attention and thoughts.

"Notice those fellows," he said. "They're handicapped. They could have been wounded by our artillery and mortar fire before they made this charge — and still were sent into it. Or, could it be that they are running so low they've got to use their wits?"

He mulled his question as he started down at one bandaged dead man who had been blown completely out of his ragged shoes.

I asked him what disposition would be made of the enemy dead. "They're usually buried where they're killed," the general said. "But that's out of the question at an airfield like this. They'll be buried somewhere else."

"They seldom have any identification, so there's no way they can be shipped home to their families. But they'll be taken care of."

"Notice how tenderly the attendants are putting those two bodies in the ambulance."

Outer Space Promotes International Amity

It is ironic that the moon and other celestial bodies, where nobody lives (that we know of), and the space around them, are now preserved from nuclear warfare.

On earth, only Antarctica, which is but slightly less inhospitable than the moon, is similarly off limits to human military rivalry and ideological ambition.

The refining of nuclear weapons still continues by means of underground tests and, indeed, France and China still claim their sovereign right to pollute the earth's atmosphere by exploding nuclear devices above ground. And the arms race has entered a new stage, with Russia planning the deployment of antimissile missiles and the U. S. reacting by stepping up its production of ICBMs.

Yet the space pact, signed by the United States and Russia and 26 other U.N. members, is rightly hailed as the most important move toward peace since the 1963 limited nuclear test treaty.

By small, roundabout steps, mankind is abandoning war as a solution to controversy. Antarctica and outer space will not know war or preparations for war. We can truly hope that the day will come when the last step, which will include all of earth, will be taken.

'Togetherness' Seen Big Need of Latin America

Indicative of his intense interest in better relations with Latin America, President Johnson used a recent weekend to underscore regional cooperation as one method of insuring the progress of our friends to the south.

He visited Mexico to inspect, with President GUSTAVO DIAZ ORDAZ, progress on joint U.S.-Mexican construction of a flood control and power dam across the Rio Grande River, the second to be built by the two nations in this border stream.

Latin America's progress, he said, depends in considerable measure on multinational projects. He urged the harnessing of the River Platte and the joint construction of a highway through the eastern Andes; also the multinational construction of oil and gas pipelines, joint satellite communications systems, power grids, chemical and fertilizer plants, and the exploration of "inner frontiers" throughout the hemisphere.

The President has stated the problem correctly. Too much activity in Latin America has been on a nationalistic basis, which is narrow, rather than on the basis of cooperation, which brings the nations of the hemisphere together. The more the U.S. can do to encourage multinational projects, the sooner the whole hemisphere will be welded together as a viable unit.

Supreme Court Is Reaching Out

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The evolution of the Supreme Court — its willingness to plunge into the various thickets of American existence — has been a slow process.

From the beginning the court had the power to make decisions, and often did, broad enough to affect all American life although some of them at the time may have seemed too remote to give that impression.

MARLOW

But how deeply the court got into the everyday scene with its multitude of problems, including very human ones, depended on the members of the court at any one period: their philosophy about the role of the court, their courage, timidity, conservatism, liberalism, perhaps intellectual vigor, and the mood of the times.

The present court is the most activist in history, leaving its imprint in all directions. Its willingness to move in on civil rights, school prayers or legislative reapportionment are just the spectacular examples.

It has shown an equal readiness to tackle a wide range of dilemmas — personal, political, or economic, although all of them have a constitutional question within them — and its actions Monday were a good example. It unsanctioned Georgia's recent election dispute — should Democrat Lester G. Maddox or Republican Howard Callaway be governor? — by ruling that the state legislature can decide.

COURT'S DECISION

This was probably the Supreme Court doing the deciding since the Georgia Legislature, which meets Jan. 9, is overwhelmingly Democratic. A minority of the court thought there should be a runoff election.

Then the court dipped into the very human problem of people in love and people's rights.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Loving — he is white, she is part Indian, part Negro — went to live in Virginia where they were arrested, convicted, and sentenced to a year in jail under the state law forbidding the marriage of white and "colored" persons. They fought the conviction.

They argued on a number of grounds: that the Virginia law violated their constitutional guarantee to equal protection, to privacy, to choose a marriage partner, and other civil rights.

The Supreme Court agreed to consider their case.

It should have a wide effect, besides a human one, since there are 16 states, in addition to Virginia, which have similar laws.

Sometime ago I wrote that there wasn't anything to do in Pontiac, but I would like to restate that sentence. There isn't anything to do in Pontiac if you don't look for something to do. Recently, I joined the Junior Achievement, a great activity for all teens. Best of all, I now go to church and this provides many activities—all in good, clean fun.

So, teen-agers, get out and get into these great fun activities. Life is what you make it.

More Comments on Closing Area Schools

There has been much ado about schools closing due to snow. If the grumblers had been in Brookland, or many of the subdivisions in the Rochester area, they would have found mirror-like ice for two days. If the grumblers cannot stand having youngsters around an extra day or two, they should take up hibernation.
BRUNETT OF BROOKLANDS

As a teacher and parent I applaud Roger Oberg's consideration for his teachers on Monday, December 5. I can't justify closing school for art, math, English or science workshops if it can't also be closed on days as hazardous as that one. When I slid down my drive I didn't need to consult the police, weather station, etc., I knew it was slippery.
A TEACHER WHO LIKES TEACHING

Waterford students are fortunate that the bus drivers use good judgment. The drivers should be commended for refusing to drive on hazardous roads. When as many as 65 students are scheduled to ride a bus with only 20 double seats, it's encouraging to know the bus drivers are conscientious.

'Citizens Must Support Law Enforcement'

We are deeply concerned over the 15 per cent rise in major crimes for Pontiac during 1966. Equally disturbing is the indifference displayed by some Pontiac citizens who do not understand the problems facing today's law enforcement officers.

We are confident that once Pontiac citizens understand the importance of assisting police in their difficult task of maintaining law and order, they will support better wages and more effective training for police.

Upgrading our police officers is a responsibility of the entire citizenry. This is imperative if Pontiac is to have positive law enforcement.

Reader Questions Our American Justice

An American soldier in Vietnam said they were fighting for freedom, justice and the American way. What is the American way? And what kind of justice lets a man murder another with his car and then go free to drink and drive and probably kill someone else?

SCARED STIFF

Question and Answer

Does State law require signals when turning? Truck drivers seem to do a good job of this, but there should be a penalty for the rest of the drivers who usually fail to signal.

MAD MOTORIST

REPLY

Turn signals are mandatory under State law and failure to signal properly, either by hand or arm or auto turn lights, is subject to a $3 fine.

World Problem

Los Angeles Times

The Rhodesian rebellion, which Britain has tried for the last 13 months to keep primarily a family matter, is about to become a problem of world concern.

Failure of last-ditch talks between Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Ian Smith, leader of Rhodesia's break-away white-race regime, has left the British government with no real alternative but to go through with its pledge to seek U.N.-authorized mandatory economic sanctions.

These would be intended to so weaken the Smith government that it would have to agree to a satisfactory settlement with Britain.

Wilson will seek only a selective boycott on Rhodesian trade, aimed at such major export products as tobacco, chrome, asbestos and hides. But a bloc of African countries has made it clear it will be satisfied with nothing less than full sanctions against Rhodesia, backed up by force if need be.

Many Africans want not simply the overthrow of the Smith regime, but also punitive steps against white

Never Too Old

The Holland Evening Sentinel

There are silver threads among the gold in University of Kentucky classes these days. Instruction there is free to all persons over 65. Residential and scholastic requirements as well as tuition have been suspended for those who qualify by reason of age.

This is an educational experiment other colleges might be wise to have a look at. Continued education is, among other things, a constructive way of keeping the young-at-heart up to date in a rapidly changing world.

College at 65 is not for every senior citizen, just as it is not for every teen-ager. Yet it seems probable that tuitionless college classes would appeal to many who wish to remain abreast of the times, or who have always wanted to go to college.

Earth Dying—but Don't Panic

LONDON (UPI) — The world is moving into middle age, and its death is inevitable. But don't cash in your life insurance policies yet because the death scene probably will not be played out for some eight billion years.

British astronomer Patrick Moore, director of Armagh Planetarium in Northern Ireland, predicted the end of our planet after studying all the latest scientific evidence.

It will not, he said, die of old age and become a cold mass hurtling through space till eternity even though it may be as much as 10 billion years old right now. It will not, that is, die a natural death.

In more dramatic terms, it will be murdered by the sun.

Moore who is an expert on dead heavenly bodies — his specialty is the study of the moon — said: "There have been forecasts that the world will collide with a comet, or that the sun will burn out and leave us to freeze. These can be discounted.

"Now it is thought that the sun will become more luminous."

"Basically it is changing its hydrogen into helium and giving out energy. But the hydrogen available is limited, and eventually there will not be enough for the radiation process."

"So it will consume other substances, like helium and lithium, which will increase its luminosity and radiation."

"The sun will turn into a red giant star. It will be much larger than at present. The earth will then become so hot that all life will come to an end."

New York City has 27,636 policemen.

AIRPORT AT STAKE—This is a model of one of three terminal buildings proposed for Mid-Continental International Airport if Kansas City voters approved a $150-million bond issue in balloting yesterday. The outcome was still in doubt today. A fourth building would be added at a later date, forming a clover-leaf design. One major concept of the plan would be parking spaces near gates inside each terminal ring.

Strong Lungs Help to Save Pilot in Lake

MUSKEGON (AP)—A Coast Guard rescue boat, two Civil Air Patrol planes and a healthy pair of lungs saved Robert P. Tromblee's life Tuesday. Tromblee of Mequon, Wis., was flying his twin-engine plane over Lake Michigan when he discovered a fire aboard. He radioed the Muskegon air tower that he was ditching the plane.

The Coast Guard boat and Civil Air Patrol planes got into action.

Tromblee hopped out of his plane. His life raft's special inflating device failed.

BLEW IT UP
So Tromblee blew and blew until the raft was solid enough to support him.

He sent up flares. The planes radioed his position to the Coast Guard, and the boat picked him up.

Poor County in Colorado Faces Cost of Murder Trial

SILVERTON, Colo. (UPI)—The return of a bearded drifter from Michigan to stand trial for the murder of an Arizona couple is causing some financial problems for this area high in the southwest Rockies.

Authorities of San Juan County, which has only about 1,000 residents, said yesterday they did not have enough funds budgeted to handle a case as large as this might be.

The murder suspect, Thomas J. Sergeant, 25, now is in a Flint jail awaiting extradition to Colorado. He is accused of murdering Mr. and Mrs. Milton Moeller of Phoenix last October.

The last time a felony trial was ever held in the old brick San Juan County Courthouse was in 1951. Because of the lack of serious crime, only a small amount of money is budgeted to the courts each year.

Dist. Judge James M. No-land, who would hear the case if it reaches Silverton, said the situation was going to be "a real problem." He said the $3,185 allotted his court for the entire year could not support a trial for Sergeant and the remainder of the year's court activities.

CAN'T MEET

And Dist. Atty. Al Haas said the $1,517 allotted from the county to his office for the year could not meet prosecution expenses and investigation of the crime.

Another problem is the San Juan County Jail. It has been turned into a local historical museum, and authorities will need some place to house Sergeant if he is returned.

U.S. Scratches 3 Lunar Probes

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The space agency has dropped three Surveyor lunar probes which were to have been launched from Cape Kennedy in a move to save five million. The probes were to have been launched in 1968 and 1969. That leaves five Surveyors on the schedule in 1967-68.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials announced Tuesday the elimination of Surveyor 1 and the Ranger and Surveyor 2 failed in September.

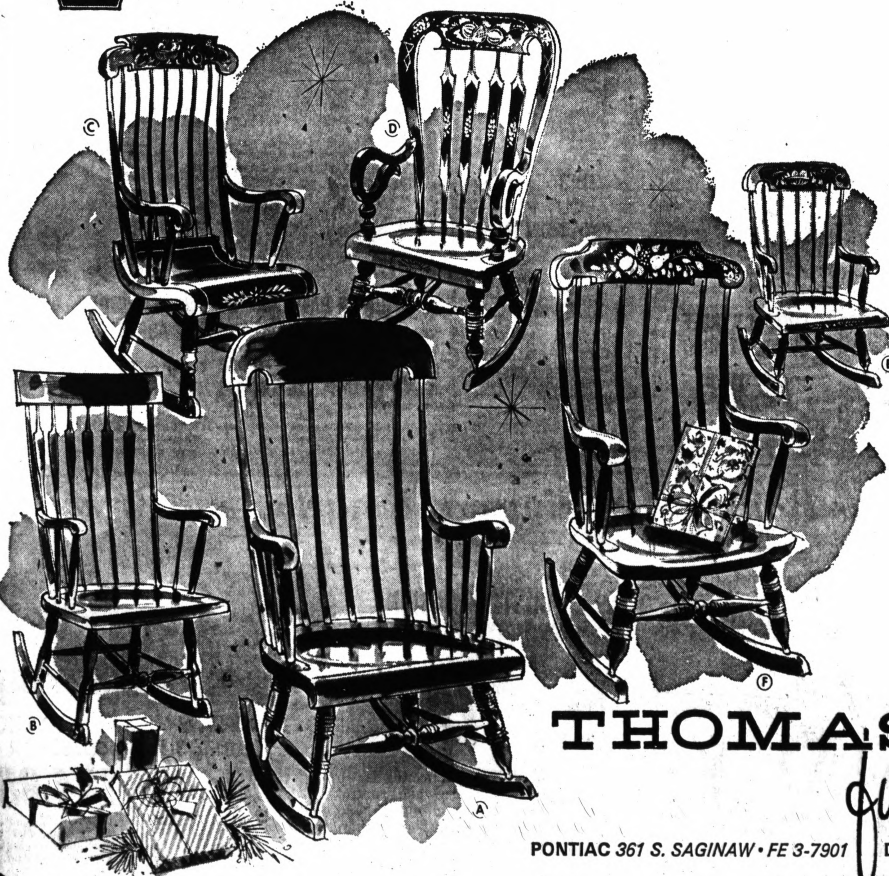

Surveyor 1 soft-landed on the moon last June and transmitted more than 11,000 pictures.

Friendship Ends at Bus Stop

Taxi Service Irks Woman

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Will you please comment on people who can afford to buy a car, but prefer to spend their money on European vacations and other luxuries? Yet, they expect their friends to provide them with taxi service.

ABBY

These same people never offer to buy a gallon of gas, and should there be any accident, they would be the first to sue the owner of the car.

The driver has all the liability attached to safely transporting the passenger just the same as a taxi driver, but without the remuneration. How do you discourage people like this?

LA JOLLA

DEAR LA JOLLA: You "discourage" them by refusing to transport them. But don't expect a cordial relationship to follow. The habit of imposing upon friends is the bane of the neck of friendship. And it is impossible to get rid of the bane without losing the patient.

DEAR ABBY: I am always getting blamed for the letters in your column written by women who hate cigaret smoke, so I thought I might as well get in my two cents and get the credit.

Is cigaret smoke as thick as fog in your home, ashes all over the place, and cigaret breath grounds for divorce? My husband's kisses taste terrible. He wants kisses, and he knows how I feel about his cigaret breath, so why does he smoke?

HOLDING OUT

DEAR HOLDING: Your husband smokes, poor slave, because he can't kick the habit. I don't recommend the "hold out" system. He might turn to something (or someone) else.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to my first prom, and my date has invited me out for dinner first. What should I order? Don't say to order whatever he does because I have to order first. My date isn't exactly poor, but he's not rich either. Please suggest something.

OUT OF IDEAS
DEAR OUT: Don't order the most expensive thing on the menu or you'll hurt his pocketbook. And don't order the cheapest thing on the menu or you'll hurt his feelings.

Order a dinner because the salad, vegetable, beverage, and dessert usually come with it.

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column of the girl who had been sent off to college with a whole new wardrobe, only to write home after two months that she needed more clothes because her boyfriend had seen her in everything she owned. You advised her mother to tell her to get a new boyfriend and start over. Good for you!

Now, may I tell you a true story: Once there was a struggling young law student who became very much attracted to a very pretty little co-ed, but he noticed that every time he dated her she was wearing a different outfit.

He soon realized that he could never afford to keep that girl in clothes, so he quit dating her before he got too involved. I was that man.

M.L. of S.F.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BRIDGE
EXPERT: Even if you are a better bridge player than your husband, try to conceal it when possible. Any woman who is smarter than her husband should not be dumb enough to show it.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Alice to Visit Birmingham Youngsters

A very special Christmas treat is in store for youngsters at The Birmingham Community House. On Saturday, at 1:30 p.m. the curtain will rise on a real live production of "Alice in Wonderland."

Complete with costumes, music and stage settings, the show is planned to transport children to the world of fantasy for a full hour and one half.

Besides the delightful Alice, the cast includes Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum, Mad Hatter, Queen of Hearts, Rabbit, Cheshire Cats, Jabberwocks, Dormouse and many other favorite characters right out of the book.

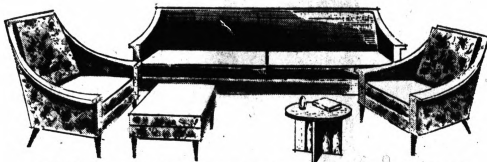

The women of The Community House Newcomer's Club will serve as chaperones as they do for all of the children's shows. They will also help Santa Claus and his elves serve refreshments to each child.

Tickets for "Alice in Wonderland" are on sale now at The Community House. Parents are advised to pick them up in advance since seating capacity is limited.

Further information may be obtained by calling The Community House.

Musicale Has Christmas Concert

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL

Pontiac Tuesday Musicale Chorus, well known throughout the state for its excellence and wide range of programming, gave its annual Christmas Concert for Tuesday Musicales and the general public yesterday afternoon at Central Methodist Church.

The program, under the fine and capable direction of Christine Gaensbauer, was beautifully, as well as tastefully accompanied by Helen Schmitz, the club president.

This year, with the addition of 10 fine new voices, the group of 36 talented women maintained an unusually fine blend, and achieved a mellow depth of tone which is rarely heard in women's choruses.

There was a sureness of pitch, a continued precision in attacks and releases, great care in phrasing and diction, which one might expect in a chorus of professional singers.

Mrs. Gaensbauer, with seeming effortless, produces not only fine tone in her chorus, but also heart-warming variety in dynamics, and a sympathetic response, not only from chorus, but audience as well.

With controlled enthusiasm, sentiment without sentimentality, and simply hard work in learning all the complexities of the three, and often more, part harmonies, the chorus gave a masterful performance of "The Many Meanings of Christmas".

This was an ambitious group of Christmas songs, which ranged in time from 18th century plane songs, like "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming", and "O Magna Mystery" to the contemporary "Mary, Star of the Sea" and "When I Bring to You Coloured Toys".

Gentle humor was exhibited in "The Cuckoo Carol", "Was-sall", and the difficult calypso arrangement of "Jingle Bells".

Nancy Puskas, and a charming flute accompaniment by Dorothy Pelton.

Also assisting was Jacqueline Washington, 10th grade soprano from Pontiac Central High school, whose beautiful and rich voice and mature style in singing is amazing in one so young.

On the instrumental side, the program was enhanced by the French horn accompaniment of Tyler Schmitz and the harp solo of Marcia Gold-

The young instrumentalists are also from Pontiac Central High School.

The program was introduced by past president, Mrs. W. H. Sink.

The Closing Costs Differ in Localities

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:
I am thinking of buying a house for the first time. My immediate problem is that I don't know exactly what is involved in closing costs. I've heard many vague comments, but nothing that can help me determine the cash requirements in advance.

Can you tell me what items are generally included in closing costs? On what basis can individual fees or rates for these items be estimated? Is there any rule of thumb to figure total closing costs on a house in the $20,000 range?

E. R., New York City

Dear E. R.:

Exact costs involved in the closing of a sale will vary in different localities. You'll be better prepared to handle these expenses if you talk to your bank or mortgage lender in advance, and get a general estimate.

Fete Pair at Party After Vows

A reception in the Metamora Hunt Club followed the recent marriage of Sharon Kay DeLano to Donald Terry Hoy, Saturday, in the Oxford Methodist Church.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. DeLano of Oxford and the Donald D. Hoy of Highland.

FLOWER ACCENT

Hand-cut three-dimensional flowers accented the neckline and Empire waistline of the bride's sheath gown of white velvet styled with court train.

A couple of Venice lace held her veil of imported silk illusion veil and she held a slim-line spray of gardenias. With honor maid, Rosalie Lippert, were the bridesmaids Mrs. William Erskine and Mrs. Leroy Rice.

The bridegroom had his brother Larry for best man, with John Copeland and Robert Cole for ushers.

The newlyweds are at a Boyne Mountain resort for their honeymoon.

In any event, you'll have legal fees because you'll want your attorney's services. Cost of recording the deed, registering the title, recording the mortgage, and notary charges must all be considered. Also the cost of land survey, home inspection (if you want it), and search and title insurance.

I can cite some specific closing costs that were itemized for a $20,000 home in your area: Legal fees, $150; fees for recording the deed, registering the title, recording the mortgage and notary charges, $20; land survey, $30; home inspection, $60; title search and title insurance, $115.

In this particular sale, advance payment for taxes, fire and comprehensive insurance, etc., amounted to $150. Total, $325. But remember that this figure is only a guide. Yours may turn out to be less (or more).

Dear Mary Feeley:

My husband and I are going to give our nephew a 20-year mortgage of $10,000 at 5 percent. We would like to know what his monthly payments should be — how to compute the interest and principal with each payment.

L.B., Colonia, N.J.

Dear L.B.:

On a mortgage such as you're offering your nephew, you might set his monthly payments at $105. This would include the interest necessary to amortize the loan over a 20-year period.

As for how monthly payments are computed, considering the amount of money lent and the time required for repayment — it's a complicated business.

The figures are calculated by financial lenders so that high interest and low principal payments are set up at the beginning. As the payments continue, a larger share of each monthly sum goes to pay off the principal, and the amount of interest decreases correspondingly.

Of course, in making this financial arrangement with your nephew you'll want to set things up on a business basis. You'll both want a lawyer's advice. There are certain provisions which a mortgage lender can state in the contract, provided that the buyer is agreeable.

For instance, you can specify that there be no pre-payment clause; or that the borrower can be requested to refinance the mortgage at a later date if you should need your funds.

Both you and your nephew will want to make sure that there are no defects in the title to the property, and that all's clear as regards the zoning regulations of the area in which he buys.

Dear Miss Feeley:

I recently sold some rental property at a profit. Must I pay the tax on this gain this year — even though the buyer has a ten-year period in which to pay?

W.W., Pontiac, Mich.

Dear W.W.:

If you have received no payment this year — or payment of 30 per cent or less of the sales price — your profit can be prorated over the period in which payments are made. Be sure to keep accurate records of payments, so that at the end of each tax year you'll know exactly where you stand and what your tax obligation is.

Born Overseas

The birth of a daughter, Lisa Ann, is announced by the R. J. Burches of Earls Barton, England. They are former area residents. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Burch of Walnut Road, Pontiac Township and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Richards of Northampton, England.

Party Styles Easy to Sew

'Tis the season to be jolly ... and that means parties and more parties. It can also mean the not-so-jolly problem of "what to wear."

If you sew, however, you have the problem licked. Today's most fashionable dress-up looks are simply-cut, easy-fitting styles designed for quick and easy sewing.

For a versatile, two-in-one party outfit, make a cotton lace "cage," with undercover velvetene shift. The shift can be worn alone or with the filmy A-line cage dress over it.

In sewing with lace, be sure to match the fabric motifs at seams. If the lace has a scalloped edge, use this for the hemline. Bind the neckline and sleeveless armholes of the lace cage with bias strips of cotton velvetene.

Why Grow Old?

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Life is not easy all the time for anybody! It is sure to hold disappointments, problems, pain and grief, as well as happiness, success, gaiety and pleasant surprises. Since it is tough enough, goodness knows just as it comes to us, it seems strange that we make it harder for ourselves than it need be.

Almost everyone does this. If you will examine your life and look at your reactions objectively, I believe you will find that this is true of you. Do you worry about every little mistake you make or about what people are saying about you?

Are you annoyed or thrown off balance by the small complications of daily living? Do you hold grudges? Do you cross bridges before you come to them?

Do you huff, puff and strain and push your way tensely through each day? In other words, do you fight life or are you at peace with it? Do you approach it in a relaxed way? There is power in the kind of relaxation I am thinking of.

APPROACH
If we could learn to approach each day with a feeling of peace and relaxation, we would get more done, be happier, prettier, and certainly healthier. Most people who have nervous breakdowns or crack up have not learned how to carry their responsibilities without strain, to let life rest lightly on their shoulders.

You won't get there any faster by tensing up and pushing your tongue against the roof of your mouth. It doesn't help to hurry while sitting down. The minor crises of daily life have their humorous side and anyway it doesn't help to stew about them. Grimness and tenseness also make one brain-bound and block the flow of thoughts and ideas.

I have one trick which always saves me. When I am really worried about something, I have reason to be worried about. I stop, relax and think, "Well, after all, nobody is going to chop my head off."

HAVE OPPORTUNITY

It is too bad that more people do not have the opportunity to get in touch with what I call "the forces of life" more often, because to do so is rejuvenating and reassuring.

Remember how it feels to be in the country or on water, under a star-studded sky, when all is silent, or, when snow has blanketed the earth, hiding everything in view which isn't beautiful, and there is not a single sound? Complete silence! You can feel strength pouring into you!

Yet many folks never even stop for a few minutes to enjoy a stunning sunset from the top of a hill or from a window in their home. This is such a waste of pleasure and also of inner reserve and health. I am sure that body chemistry changes at such times.

Perhaps we should try to approach each day in such a mood. Everyone needs to get away from the rat race at times, and life isn't nearly so ratty as we sometimes make it.

West Coast Destination of Couple

Seaman Appren and Mrs. Dale LaVerne Wiltse left for his base in Long Beach, Calif. after recent vows and reception in the Sashabaw United Presbyterian Church.

The former Mary Kathryn Boggs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Boggs of Clarkston-Orion Road, Independence Township.

VELVET GOWN
Bedecked applique accented the Empire waistline of the bridal gown of white silk velvet styled with chapel train.

She wore an illusion veil with crystal tiara and held a nosegay of gardenias for the evening ride.

Honor maid was Beverly Pike with Charlotte Boggs, and Nancy Wiltse, as bridesmaids. Betty Boggs was flower girl and Walter Dunbar, ring-bearer.

David Wiltse was his brother's best man. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Wiltse of West Walton Boulevard. Steve McGill, Randy Heltman, Melvin Boggs and Sid Neddo were ushers.

The growth in stretch pants continues to be in knits rather than woven stretch.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Have you noticed the large, important bell shaped sleeves that just make a dress? Use a very simple pattern with no other detail except the sleeve, and you can make it tell a very important fashion story. The possibilities are endless and the combinations of trimmings will really play games with your imagination. You can truly have fun creating and executing your own ideas.

Usually an A-line dress balances the line of the bell shaped sleeve, however, this sleeve is perfect for no other gals on an overblouse to wear with slacks. For the younger gals, try using the trimmings at the hemline of their dresses, or at the dropped waistline or a high yoke (the sleeves would be too overpowering for the size of the garment).

Here are a few trimming suggestions I have for you. Incidentally, for those of you who have searched for 1 inch woven braid, simply unfold the braid and remove the crease, and presto, you have the braid you are looking for. If it has been folded a long time, wet the braid and roll it up on an empty cardboard tube but don't stretch it out of shape. When it dries, it will be ready to use without a crease.

● Bind the lower edge of the woven bias braid. Leave about 1 inch of space and place the open bias braid on the sleeve, stitch in place and cover each of the edges with a contrasting edging. Then place a folded layer of the braid about 1 inch above this to match the lower edge. It's rather tailored and very attractive.

● Use the wide, unfolded bias woven braid at the lower edge of sleeve, then place a row of the folded braid in a contrasting color, just above this. For the pompon effect, cut your braid in 2 1/2 inch strips, sew it on at the center by pulling together. Next, ravel out the ends, and it will be fluffy and match exactly.

● Lace is perfect on velvet, especially black lace on a brilliant colored velvet. We used a row of narrow soutache braid on the lower edge. Then we took a piece of 4 inch lace, cut off the lower edge so that we would have a scallop next. Just above that, place another row of your narrow braid. Then cut off another section of your lace so that the edges of the roses appear and stitch above this. Finish with another row of the narrow braid. This is really eye-catching!

● Again, this is rather dressy and would look great on velvet. First, stitch a row of black decorative edging on the lower edge. Just above this, stitch a tiny row of narrow solid edging. About 1/4 inch above this, stitch a row of Greek-key decorative braid that has a row of the edging attached to each side. Add another narrow row of the gilt braid and complete with a finished edging in the braid.

After the holiday rush is over, please write to me and let me know what ideas you used. It would be fun to see how really creative you can be!

If you have trouble with set-in sleeves you will want to send for my helpful booklet "All About Sleeves." The booklet gives you step-by-step instructions for professional looking sleeves. To obtain your copy send 10 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

Can I eliminate the seam in the back of a coat or suit if the material is wide enough? Mrs. A. E. J.

Dear Mrs. A. E. J.:

Yes, you can eliminate this seam, and it is highly recommended that you do this especially on plaids or fabrics with a pattern. Just remember to place the seamline on the fold of the fabric, not the outer edge of the pattern!

Cotton Swabs Used for Christmas Holiday Decor

Christmas is more than a turkey and a tree. It's a time for showing your family and friends how much you care for them. With the simple-to-make designs shown above, quickly add your special, personal touch to gift packages or household decorations.

To translate the abstract reindeer or the slender tree into package designs, all you will need are sheets of brightly colored wrapping paper, cotton swabs from the medicine chest, small stars, glue and scissors.

If you want to make the designs into decorations for a mantelpiece, door or buffet table, you will need red or green felt instead of the wrapping paper, and pieces of post-erboard or cardboard to back the designs.

For the holiday tree, shown left, take 6 1/2 cotton swabs. Break 5 of the swabs in half for the branches. Glue 1 1/2 swabs onto the wrapping paper or felt to make the tree's trunk. Then glue the branches in place.

STAR ON TOP

Top the tree with a gold star. If you like, you can sprinkle bits of glitter around the star so it will "shine."

To form the reindeer, shown right, begin by gluing a star for the reindeer's eye slightly below the center of the wrapping paper or felt. You will need 3 1/2 swabs for the head.

Break three additional cotton swabs in half to serve as antlers. Arrange the design as indicated in the photo, then glue in place.

COTTON WREATH

Be imaginative when it comes to decorating your home for the holidays. Improve unusual decorations from "surprise" materials, suggests the National Cotton Council.

Instead of a Christmas wreath made from the traditional evergreen or holly, create one from cotton cosmetic balls. Soft and fluffy, they're easy to work with and can be glued into place. Use pure white for a snowy - looking effect or choose a delicate pastel shade like pink or green, depending on your color scheme.

To make a festive cotton ball wreath, cut a circle about 15 inches in diameter from corrugated cardboard. Pad the circle with cotton batting, and then wrap strips of crepe paper around the batting and cardboard.

HOLD WITH GLUE

Use household glue to stick cotton balls to the circle. Build up the center of the wreath by gluing additional balls in the middle. Leave an uncovered space about seven inches wide at the bottom of the circle.

Wire a large velvet bow in this space and fill in with more cotton balls around the bow.

As a final touch, add sprigs of artificial holly, Christmas bells, or candy canes for decoration.

Cotton "roses" create an unusual wreath for the holiday house. They're actually cotton cosmetic balls in a pale pink shade. Soft and fluffy, they're easy to work with. Glue them to a cardboard circle, decorate with sprigs of artificial holly, and add a bright red velvet bow for a final touch.

NO MONEY DOWN — CONVENIENT TERMS TO FIT YOUR BUDGET

Action Is Deferred on Sewer Financing

No action was taken last night by the City Commission to authorize application for state approval for a $1.8-million revenue bond issue to finance two major trunk sewer projects.

The commission deferred action one week.

Previously it had been expected that the city would seek the approval of the State Municipal Finance Commission to issue bonds for the Galloway Creek trunk sewer and a second trunk line along a portion of Opydke.

The latter line, which would serve the projected osteopathic college at Auburn and a housing-commercial development near Square Lake Road is to run from the sewage treatment plant south to Square Lake Road.

Total cost of the Opydke sewer is estimated at $700,000.

NEEDED FOR SCHOOL

The Galloway Creek sewer is needed by next fall to serve a projected new Catholic high school in the northeast corner of Pontiac, according to city officials.

The creek sewer is also considered part of the giant Clinton-Oakland Interceptor system proposed by the Oakland County Department of Public Works.

City officials had indicated prior to last night that the city would go ahead and seek financing approval for its two projects.

Meantime, the county was also to submit an application for state approval to bond the Clinton-Oakland project.

EARLIER DECISION

For the time being, Pontiac was to remain in the county project, despite the city's earlier decision to "go it alone" in construction of the creek sewer.

Since it takes four months to obtain state approval, city and county officials reportedly agreed that there is sufficient time to later decide whether Pontiac stays in Clinton-Oakland or continues on its own.

Technically, the county has Pontiac still in the system, but

Drainage Unit Potential Cited

Pontiac Faces Loss of Control—Neippling

"These are very broad, far-reaching powers, and the implication to the city is quite serious," Joseph E. Neippling, director of public works and services, said last night about the current attempt to set up a drainage district over the watershed area of the meandering Clinton River.

Neippling, in an informal report to the City Commission, warned that such a drainage board would have direct control over potential pollution of the river.

The ranking Pontiac official said that in effect, a third agency is created with control over what conditions will exist for the city's sewage treatment plant to discharge into the river.

Neippling added that the city already meets requirements set by the State Water Resources Commission.

After receiving Neippling's comments, Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. suggested that the matter be discussed more thoroughly by the commission in informal session.

FOLLOWED REPORT

Neippling's comments followed a report on a meeting earlier this month in Mount Clemens to set up a drainage district governed by a drain board over the watershed area of the Clinton River.

The move toward a drainage district — the Clinton River Basin Drain — is being made on the petition of a group of Macomb County communities plagued by pollution problems at the river's eastern outlet.

The next step is to legally determine the property covered in the drainage district.

A hearing has been set for Jan. 6 to interview consulting engineering firms to provide the legal description.

Rail Crossing Report Issued

A safety inspection of the Saginaw-Wilson railroad crossing may result in some improvements there, according to a report last night to the City Commission.

An inspection of the crossing was made last week by local and state officials, including representatives of the Michigan Public Service Commission.

City Traffic Engineer Joseph Koren reported last night that the crossing gates are to be looked at and a review made of the location of the railroad signal lights.

Also, the State Highway Department reportedly has plans to correct the problem of the uneven pavement there.

In addition, a red arrow flashing signal may be installed governing eastbound traffic on Wilson.

Snag on Pistol Range Bids Reported

Installation of a pistol range in the city's public safety building has hit a snag according to a report to the City Commission last night.

Joseph E. Neippling, director of public works and services, said bids for the range construction were due Monday, but were delayed because of revisions in the architectural plans.

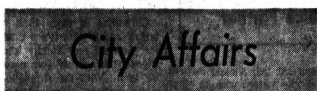

Neippling reported that the changes were necessary to avoid having to consider alterations or extras in the final bids.

He said the revised plans are now complete. New bids are to be received at 2 p.m. Dec. 27.

In other business last night, the commission held public hearings on construction of a sanitary sewer on Durant, from Pershing to 250 feet northwest, and on special assessments for 1966 weed cutting totaling $2,239.

HEARING HELD

Final approval was tabled, but a hearing was held on parking district on a lot north of 511

Installation of a pistol range in the city's public safety building has hit a snag according to a report to the City Commission last night.

A new, beefed-up heating ordinance was introduced last night. The ordinance governs the installation and repair of heating equipment.

A public hearing was ordered for Jan. 17 on requested alley vacations in an area bounded by Kennett, Joslyn, Montclair and Glenwood.

Another hearing was ordered for the same date on releasing easements in the area bounded by First, Joslyn, Madison and Highwood. Both requests were made by General Motors Corp. SET FOR HEARINGS

Two other planning items were set for hearings on Jan. 10. One is requested parking district zoning for the north side of Golf, between Telegraph and Canterbury.

A petition for paving on Emerson, Featherstone to Mount Clemens, was referred for administrative study and formal consideration next year.

Petitions for water mains were similarly referred. The water mains are sought for Giddings, Walton to Northfield; Northfield, Giddings to Cameron; and Cameron, Northfield to Walton.

Hospital Still Barricaded in 'Pay the Rent' Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — A neurosurgeon said today his private hospital will stay barricaded to keep out marshals who might attempt to close it down for non-payment of rent.

Dr. Thomas W. Matthew, executive director of the Interfaith Hospital in Jamaica, Queens, said the 10-foot-high, chicken-wire fence blocking the hospital's entrance would remain despite a $13,440 check the city offered Tuesday to help bail out the institution.

"I'm optimistic," he said, "but the bank and the eviction situation haven't been completely resolved so the barricade stays."

The check from the city was in partial payment for money it owes the hospital for care of welfare patients.

COURT ORDER

The Flushing Federal Savings and Loan Association obtained a court eviction order but has taken no action. Matthew said he owes the bank, owners of the hospital building, $16,000 in rent for two months.

Most of the city check, Matthew said, will go to buy food and fuel. He said he did not expect to use it for paying the rent.

"I think the bank will observe that there is a cash flow and will understand that the rent money will come when we receive the rest of what the city owes us, about $40,000 with the current payment deducted," Matthew said.

N-Test Is Held

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) set off a low yield (less than 20-kiloton) underground nuclear explosion yesterday at its Nevada test site. The blast was the 33rd announced this year in connection with weapons-related tests.

COLLEGE RAT RACE — A white rat athlete does the rope climb in the "annual Rat Decathlon" in the experimental psychology class at American River College, Sacramento, Calif. Looking on is its trainer, coed Sandi Bradshaw. As part of each semester's work, students must train a rat to run a maze, jump hurdles, climb rope and walk a tight-rope. At the end of the year, the fastest time wins.

Moms Block Corner After Children Die

BAY CITY (UPI) — A group of angry mothers planned to continue their traffic-stalling blockade at a busy intersection today where two little children were killed Monday.

Police yesterday broke up a blockade by the mothers as the children were returning home from classes. One woman scuffled with a policeman when he tried to pull her from in front of a police car.

The mother blocked the intersection along a busy state highway in the morning and afternoon by driving four cars into the intersection and locking them up. Traffic backed up for several blocks each time.

The mothers have been demanding a traffic light at the intersection where Kaleen Kennett, 6, and Michael Lowe, 7, died when they were hit by a car that plowed into a group of children crossing the street.

The driver, Dale Jackson, 19, Sebewaling, pleaded guilty to two counts of involuntary manslaughter. Police said he might have been drowsy because of a leaky muffler.

DOUBTFUL OF PLEAS

Authorities said they were doubtful that the mothers' pleas for a traffic light could accomplish anything. Police Chief Alvin Bridges said a traffic light at the busy intersection would not have helped Monday.

The crossing guard, Frank Causley, 65, who resigned after the incident, said he tried to flag Jackson's car down when it was still more than 200 feet from the intersection.

Causley said he had his sign and red straps denoting he was a crossing guard.

"He (Jackson) didn't stop for anything," Causley said.

State Hits Bias by Home Builder School District

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Civil Rights Commission Tuesday ordered a Warren home builder and the Romulus Township School District to stop discriminating against Negroes.

The order was issued against Mavanti Homes, Inc., of Warren after Mr. and Mrs. Auric Roy said the company refused to sell them a home because they are Negroes.

The State Department of Licensing and Regulation was asked to take action involving Mavanti's builder's license.

The commission also ordered the school district to offer James A. Key a teaching position for the 1967-68 school year. Key had filed a complaint against the school district when he was not hired for a full-time teaching post open for the 1963-64 school year.

Engineer Warns of People Link Kinks

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—People links may become kinks when added as communication ties to carefully designed engineering systems.

That was the message an Air Force human relations engineer was trying to get across at a recent symposium at the Arnold Engineering Development Center at Tullahoma, Tenn.

J. Albert Southern pointed out that all systems are created by men for the use of men, and communications bonds should be given just as much care as the most precise mechanical component.

"We are presently tolerating slop in this area that would not be tolerated in the mechanical portion of our systems," Southern said.

He said the communications area is frequently neglected, overlooked or misunderstood — often at the expense of a system's effectiveness.

A survey of human deficiencies of eight missile systems showed that one-third of the items dealt with poor communications, Southern said. At the top of the list was a deficiency in control and display labels.

As an example, Southern cited a warning in an instruction manual which said:

"Warning: The batteries in the AN-MSQ-55 could be a lethal source of electrical power under certain conditions."

An unknown serviceman translated that and placed a label directly on the piece of equipment which said:

"Look out! This could kill you."

But Southern said short messages don't always work either. There is the possibility that they might be misunderstood. In another example, he said the trend to brevity was overdue.

On an electrical panel, instructions for emergency service said:

"For trouble, call 7664."

The misunderstanding was revealed by a hand message just below it:

"Not me! I've got plenty already."

Another problem commonly found in technical documents is the jargon that becomes the language of any specialized field.

"The communications process is blocked if both sender and receiver are not familiar with the same jargon and the identical language will not be understood equally well by different classes of readers."

Southern, an engineer at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio, said whenever person-to-person communication is made part of a system, the chances for error or reduced reliability are greatly increased.

He said words themselves don't have meanings and must be used with caution and care. The meaning one person may give to a word may differ from a meaning attributed to it by another.

Words are one variety of symbols and no matter how or by whom they are generated, they remain merely sound waves in air or marks on paper until someone responds meaningfully to them."

Southern said it is the communications capability that makes a system — that links it to the contest should contact Van Dyke at 3802 W. Walton, Waterford Township, by mail or telephone.

Homes will be judged on originality and design of display. Plaques will be presented to the two winners.

Waterford JCs Plan Decoration Contest for Yule

The Waterford Township Jaycees announced plans today for their annual Christmas home decoration award contest.

All township residents are eligible to enter the competition. Entries will be judged Dec. 21 and 22, according to Earle Van Dyke, contest chairman.

Entry deadline is Dec. 21. Persons interested in entering the contest should contact Van Dyke at 3802 W. Walton, Waterford Township, by mail or telephone.

Homes will be judged on originality and design of display. Plaques will be presented to the two winners.

$100 Million in Russian Aid Fails to Make Somali Red

MOGADISHU, Somali Republic (AP) — Nearly $100 million worth of Soviet assistance has failed to make Communists out of the fiercely independent and traditionally democratic Somalis.

This little republic of 4.5 million largely nomadic people nevertheless is the major Soviet foothold in Africa south of the Sahara.

In their Moscow swimsuits, Soviet technicians and their wives crowd onto Mogadishu's Lido Beach together with Peace Corps teachers from the United States, German economic advisers, and businessmen from Italy.

Chinese workmen building a national theater in the Somali capital prefer to be alone. They drive out to a remote stretch of beach for their recreation and scurry for cover at the appearance of a white face.

TRAINING ARMY

Some 250 Soviet military experts are training the Somali army in the use of $35 million worth of Soviet equipment. About 400 Somali cadets are training in the Soviet Union.

Soviet technicians have put up a dairy plant in Mogadishu, a meat factory at Chisimayo in the south, and are building a big new port at Berbera in the north. They have installed Soviet transmitters at Radio Mogadishu. Soviet doctors are at work in Somali hospitals.

Plans for three big state farms on the Moscow pattern have been drastically scaled down.

There may be a total of 500 Soviet technicians, experts and advisers in Somalia. Many have their families with them.

"There is no doubt the Soviets are highly regarded," one Western diplomat says. "When Somalia rejected the West's pretty miserable offer of military aid, the Russians jumped in with a far more generous counteroffer. That boosted their popularity, but their economic assistance has been something of a flop."

Many Western diplomats here believe the Russians got into Somalia more to balk the Red Chinese than in the hope of winning the country for communism.

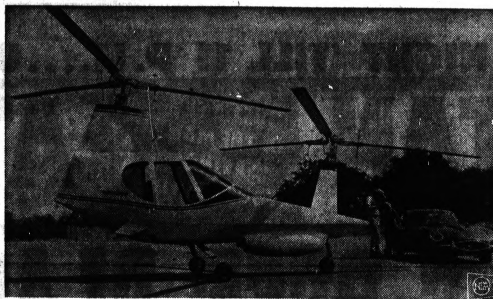

America's popularity suffers from Somali resentment of massive U.S. military aid to neighboring Ethiopia. The countries are feuding over disputed border regions. Somalis do not forget that when the feud flared into open war in 1964, the Ethiopians blasted Somali territory with American-made bombs dropped from American-built planes.

This is perhaps the most democratic country in Africa. Free elections are contested by half a dozen parties. Opposition groups criticize the government inside and outside Parliament.

STATUS SYMBOL RARE

Ministers and legislators get modest salaries and drive around in modest automobiles. The Mercedes, status symbol of the successful African politician from Dakar to Dar es Salaam, is a rarity on Mogadishu streets.

NEW COPTER — Something new in helicopters, this unconventional model uses rigid rotors instead of the hinged blades of other copters. The change, according to the developers, enables it to dispense with the usual exposed motor and long tail boom and rotor, giving it the appearance of an airborne sports car. Speed is said to be above 150 m.p.h., twice as fast as most light helicopters. With a price tag under $20,000, it is designed for business and private users seeking an aircraft easy to fly, reliable, inexpensive to buy and operate.

Nature's Blanket Guards Baby

By Science Service
GENEVA, Switzerland—Know why newborn babes never shiver?

You guessed it. Something to do with fat.

Two Oxford doctors have demonstrated a "thin sheet of brown adipose tissue between the shoulder blades," those angels' wings, "with small deposits behind the breastbone and all the way down the spine."

Nature also gives the young of other mammals such protection. In baby rabbits, for instance, the fatty tissue accounts for up to six per cent of the total body weight at birth, the Englishmen found.

The discovery is credited to Dr. David Hull, pediatrics professor at the Oxford University Medical School and his colleague Dr. Michael Dawkins, who died recently.

STEP UP CONSUMPTION

They showed that when the fatty layer was surgically removed from infant rabbits, the bunnies completely lost their ability to keep warm in the cold.

Infant rabbits placed in freezing conditions normally stepped up their oxygen consumption three times.

Without the brown adipose tissue, no increase in oxygen consumption occurred, showing that a higher use of oxygen in the tissue warmed the baby.

Why brown? Individual cell studies showed they are full of iron, an element apparently essential for high-speed respiration.

An Ultrasonic Look at Teeth

By Science Service
RICHLAND, Wash. — Dentists may soon be able to "see" into teeth to detect early cavities without the use of X rays. In some cases, the new ultrasonic technique can be used in conjunction with X rays to give the physician or dentist a clearer "picture" of the tooth or bone being studied.

The method has the advantage, however, of doing some of the things that ionizing radiation does without exposing a person to its dangers.

The ultrasonic waves are transmitted into the tooth or bone, where they echo or bounce back. The echoes are picked up on an oscilloscope, creating a picture, similar to that of an X ray, of the various densities of the bone, tooth or tissue. The idea of applying ultrasonics to biomedical uses came out of work in the field of non-destructive testing techniques in nuclear energy research.

For nearly 20 years, new testing methods have been systematically applied to medical needs. Now, under a research program sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service, scientists and engineers at Battelle-Northwest here are exploring the present uses of ultrasonics as well as possible new ones in the future.

Shoplifting—2

Potentially 100 Million in U.S.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of three articles on shoplifting in the United States written by Harry Ferguson of the United Press International.)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There appear to be 100 million potential shoplifters in the United States. They range in age from seven to 80, and an appalling number of them are under 15 years.

THE PARTY'S CHOICE!

RED BARN

Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake Road

Several years ago Donald Laird made an investigation which led him to the conclusion that probably 60 per cent of us are not averse to stealing, lying or cheating.

A survey of an Eastern drug chain, which lost $1.4 million in six months, discovered that three-fourths of the employees were stealing merchandise or petty cash.

There is one important difference between the adult and juvenile shoplifter. The adult is inclined to work alone. The kids travel in gangs, or at least in the company of one or two other teen-agers.

Many Owen Cameron, in her scholarly book "The Booster and the Snitch," concludes that juveniles comprise the major proportion of all shoplifters.

WALK AND TALK

Boys start shoplifting as soon as they can walk and talk with skill and confidence — about age seven. After they reach age 10, their rate of crime begins to decline. Girl shoplifters hit the peak of their activity at 15.

"Girls, age for age, stole merchandise of greater median value than boys," Miss Cameron wrote. "The median value of merchandise recovered from girls was $5 and from boys, $3.71."

"The merchandise stolen by boys was chiefly small leather goods and gadgets: cigarette lighters, flashlights, cheap cameras and the like."

"Girls stole jewelry, small leather goods and dress accessories. Juveniles of either sex are not mainly professional shoplifters. They steal for their own use."

CAN BE CURED

The Federal Bureau of Investigation leans to the belief that kids can be cured of shoplifting in short order:

"They do not profit by their act of shoplifting and, more often than not, do it as a sort of adventure. Also, some young people sent to the store by their parents with money to make certain purchases will steal the items and keep the money for their own use."

"When caught, which frequently happens on their first attempt, they are ashamed and usually stop their petty pilfering. Many never attempt the act again."

But in order to cure them, you have to catch them. That is quite a task, especially during the Christmas shopping season when the stores are crowded, the clerks harried and merchandise filling every cranny of the stores.

FASTEST-GROWING

Shoplifting now is the fastest-growing form of larceny, far exceeding such things as bank robberies, jewel thefts and embezzlements, and law enforcement officers are seeking to find out why it has doubled in volume since 1960.

One reason is the growth of the self-service store. The merchandise is lavish, the clerks are few and the food supermarkets are especially vulnerable.

People who would not consider stealing an automobile or a diamond somehow convince themselves it is ethical to steal food. The FBI says:

"There are women who enter a store flat-chested and emerge exceedingly well formed with tucked away merchandise."

"High on the list of articles taken by shoplifters are expensive cuts of meat in flat, cellophane-wrapped packages. The shoplifters occasionally switch lower price tags onto higher priced packages."

INSIDE WAISTBAND

"Male shoplifters commonly conceal such items as flat meat packages inside the waistband of their trousers, up under the armpit or between two bags, one tucked inside the other. This technique is difficult to detect."

A few days ago the National Observer did a cross-country survey on shoplifting by college students, and it appears to be approaching epidemic proportions.

One case mentioned was a student who entered his dormitory and took off his raincoat. In the inside pockets were two filet mignon steaks, two T-bone steaks, and four lamb chops.

He had made one of his regular visits to the supermarket and complied with all formalities, except payment.

DON'T TAKE MUCH

"We don't take much," he said. "Only what we can use. They won't miss it in a big store like that. And they add the losses to the price of everything else we buy anyway."

The losses can be substantial. Jack Worthington, manager of the Princeton University Stores, explained why he was putting in some protective measures against shoplifters:

"We were all a little naive. When we set up a new store with open shelves, we never thought that so many boys would behave as they did. But when our losses grew to about $75,000 a year, we had to take new precautions. Now we have cut the losses in half."

Store managers are reluctant to press shoplifting charges, and it is estimated only about 12 per cent of the persons caught are turned over to police. One reason is the fear of a suit for false arrest and for damages.

HEDY LAMARR

Such a case was that of Hedy Lamarr, the actress, who was arrested early this year and charged with stealing a $40 knit suit, a pair of shoes, beads, greeting cards and a pair of bikini panties from the May Co. Department Store, Los Angeles. She was tried and acquitted.

She then sought the permission of the Los Angeles City Council to sue the city for $5 million, but the request was rejected.

Junior Editors Quiz on PILGRIMS

THE MAYFLOWER HAD A ROUGH PASSAGE FROM ENGLAND

ARRIVING AT PLYMOUTH, THE PILGRIMS GAVE THANKS TO GOD

QUESTION: Why do New Englanders celebrate Forefathers' Day in December?

ANSWER: Forefathers' Day, which is December 21, is celebrated in honor of the Pilgrims, who landed at what is now Plymouth, Mass., Dec. 21, 1620.

Not only the New Englanders, but all Americans revere the Pilgrims. Their motives in leaving the old world for the dangers of a raw wilderness were based on a determination to live in a country where they could worship God in freedom. This has become one of America's most cherished conceptions.

The Pilgrims left England in the Mayflower Sept. 16, 1620, and had a rough passage over the Atlantic. They landed first on the tip of Cape Cod, where Provincetown now stands. Finding the soil too poor for settlement, they sailed west again and arrived at Plymouth.

The tradition is that they landed on the stone called Plymouth Rock, which can still be seen (lower right). Whether or not they landed on this particular rock, it remains a symbol for a great event.

The first year was difficult; but the Pilgrims made friends with the Indians, and in the autumn of 1621 were able to celebrate the first Thanksgiving, a three-day festival.

FOR YOU TO DO: Find a map of Massachusetts and look up the location of Provincetown and Plymouth, so you can better understand our Pilgrim story.

'Fluoride Cuts Adult Diseases'

By Science Service

BOSTON — Antifluoridationists, says a Harvard professor, "have little concern for the preservation of children's teeth," but "are contributing to the ill health of all of us, young and old alike."

Dr. D. Mark Hegsted, professor of nutrition at Harvard's School of Public Health, says an adequate intake of fluoride can keep bones healthy and prevent soft tissues from calcifying.

Studies on about 1,000 adults in North Dakota over a 45-year period yielded some interesting data, he reported at the American Dietetic Association meeting here.

Evidence that calcium deficiency causes osteoporosis, a disease of the elderly in which the bone becomes porous and soft, is tenuous, he said.

But the North Dakota studies suggested that fluoride deficiency may play a part: the prevalence of osteoporosis was about twice as great in women living in the low fluoride area as in the high fluoride area.

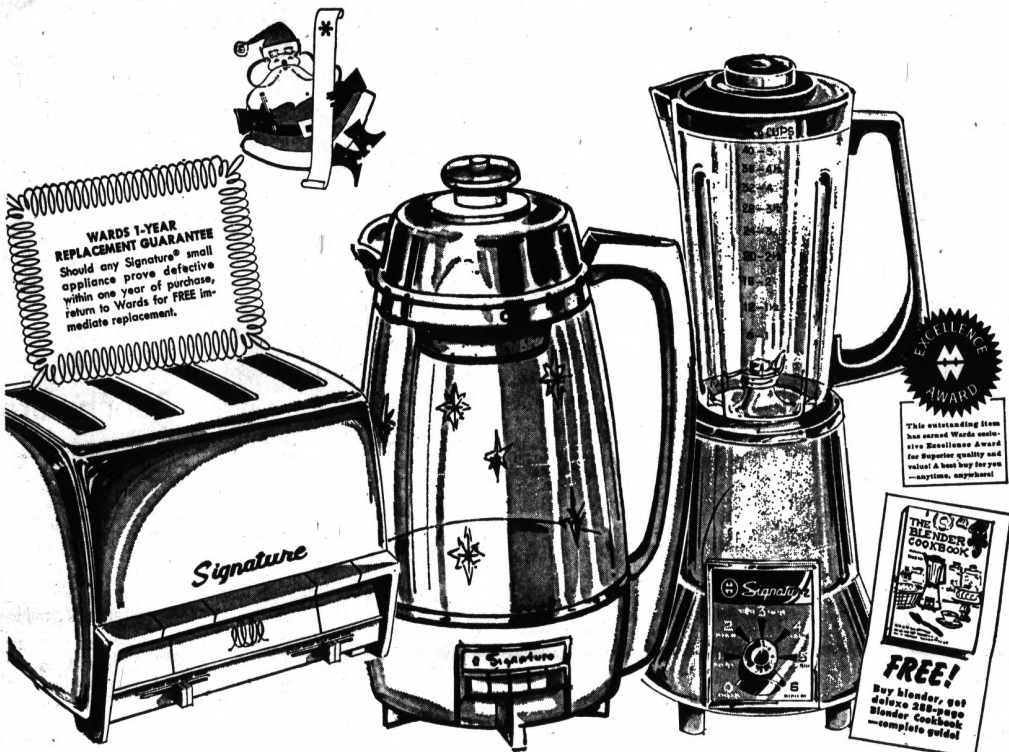

An unexpected finding of the studies was that the number of calcified aortas, which indicate severe hardening of the arteries (atherosclerosis), was greatly reduced among men who consumed high fluoride levels.

3 Cheeses Make Change in Plain Dish

For those who think macaroni and cheese is an ordinary dish, here is a surprise recipe. You don't use ordinary macaroni and you don't use just one cheese.

Parmesan, Swiss and mozzarella cheese are what you'll need. And buy farfalle which may be called bow ties, butterflies or egg bows.

The recipe will work just as well with regular egg noodles, the medium width most suitable.

Farfalle With Three Cheeses

Fine dry bread crumbs 1½ tablespoons salt
4 quarts boiling water
12 ounces egg noodle bows (about 6 cups) or 12 ounces medium egg noodles
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese (4 ounces)
1 cup diced Swiss cheese (4 ounces)
1 cup diced mozzarella cheese (5 ounces)
3 cups thin white sauce

Coat a buttered shallow 3-layer. Sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese or bread crumbs on crumb. Add 1½ tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil.

Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Toss with butter, then Parmesan cheese. Add Swiss and mozzarella cheeses; toss lightly.

Turn half the noodle mixture into prepared dish; top with teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Repeat

*To prepare Thin White Sauce (makes 3 cups): Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in saucepan; blend in 3 tablespoons flour. Gradually add 3 cups milk; cook, stirring constantly until sauce boils 1 minute. Add 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg.

FARFALLE WITH THREE CHEESES—In your market, this macaroni product may be called egg bows, or bow ties, or butterflies. Baked with a mixture of three cheeses, it's a grand dish.

Apple-Almond Touch Is New

Here's still another variation of ever-popular potato salad. water until tender. Drain and This one boasts the presence of sprinkle at once with vinegar fresh autumn apples and, for and onion. Cool.

further "fall-ish" flavor accent, roasted diced almonds.

Autumn Potato Salad
2 cups cubed peeled potato
1½ tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon grated onion
6 tablespoons minced parsley
¼ cup chopped celery
¼ cup mayonnaise
Few dashes cayenne
¼ cup thinly sliced apple
¼ cup roasted diced almonds
Iceberg lettuce

Mix parsley, celery, mayonnaise, cayenne and apple; fold in potato and almonds. Chill. Serve on salad plates lined with lettuce or in lettuce cups. Makes 5 servings.

For a change, instead of having candles on your child's birthday cake, make the face of a clock with colored icing and have the hands pointing to the number indicating the age.

Keep Leftovers Properly or You Waste Valuable Food

With the holiday entertaining season almost here, and with food costs still at high levels, stretching the food budget becomes a major challenge to homemakers.

"Making the best use of leftover food creates constant problems throughout the holiday season," observed Mrs. Pauline Church, home service adviser for Republic Molding Corporation, Chicago.

Leftovers that can't be used, either because they were for gotten or because they weren't protected properly in the first place, can waste a significant share of the family budget, she said.

As a first step toward preventing such waste, she suggested making sure you have enough of the right containers to store leftovers and contain fresh food as well.

Canned Beef Steaks Given Gourmet Taste

For this hurry up entree you'll need 2 cans (13 oz. each) sliced beef steaks with gravy. Cook some chopped green pepper in butter. When tender add beef steaks with the gravy, a little seasoned salt and a dash of hot pepper sauce; heat. Shortly before mealtime stir in a half cup of dairy sour cream (which has come to room temperature). Heat briefly and prevent transfer of odors.

All come with air-tight covers that keep contents fresh and prevent transfer of odors.

Homemakers who do their marketing on a weekly basis will find that most fresh produce retains its freshness longer if cleaned and stored in airtight containers. In some cases, it's even possible to revive wilted greens, Mrs. Church noted.

Instead of discarding the limp outer leaves of Boston or Bibb lettuce, for example, try soaking the entire head in very cold water—for at least a half hour.

Drain off excess water, then place in a flat container and store in the refrigerator. Within a few hours, even the outer leaves will be crisp and fresh.

Because the holiday season usually means more traffic in and out of the refrigerator, the Republic adviser urged homemakers to check food supplies every two or three days.

"It could be embarrassing if you've planned to serve that leftover turkey breast to lunch-leaving guests, only to discover too late that Junior—or even your husband—has confiscated it for a midnight snack," she pointed out.

One way to avoid such problems, of course, is to label containers that are supposed to be verboten. For this purpose, Mrs. Church recommended a marking pencil of the type available at any stationery or office supply store. The message can be rubbed or washed off before the container is used again.

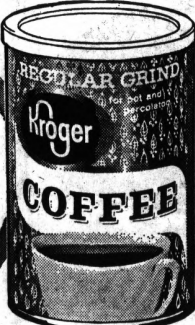

Pancake Mix Means Quicker Muffins

Raisin muffins are made in minutes. Combine 1 1/4 cups of pancake mix, 1/3 cup of sugar, Fill 12 greased muffin cups 2/3 and 1/2 cup of raisins in bowl. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Add 3/4 cup of milk, 1 beaten sugar. Bake in preheated 425-degree oven 15 to 18 minutes.

LONDON'S BURNING, by John Bedford (Abelard-Schuman $10): This year marks the 300th anniversary of the great fire that destroyed much of London.

Bedford, a London newspaperman and author, has tried to reconstruct the disaster through contemporary records and pictures and has produced a many-sided account of the holocaust which started one night in the backhouse of Thomas Farriner in Pudding Lane.

Feeding on the close-packed wooden dwellings and driven by a high wind, the flames swept on for four days. Then came the job of reconstruction.

The book successfully recaptures the excitement, agony, heroism and other passions that were forced to the front during those long-gone but not forgotten days.

THE BOSTON STRANGLER, by Gerold Frank. (New American Library $5.95): One of the strangest true crime stories of the century, a story which is still unfolding, although it seems substantially to have been solved.

Between June 1963 and January 1964, 11 women in the Boston area were murdered and sexually molested by a shadowy slayer who left distinctive marks on his victims.

Because most of the women were checked to death, the killer came to be known as the Boston strangler.

Then in March 1965, an attorney came forward with a taped confession from Albert De Salvo, an accused rapist in a Massachusetts mental hospital who claimed to be the strangler.

The author tells this strange and absorbing story in extensive detail, exploring the blind alleys as well as the route which eventually led to what appears to be the right answer.

VESSEL OF WRATH: THE LIFE AND TIMES OF CARRY NATION, by Robert Lewis Taylor. (New American Library $6.95): One of the phenomena of the Gay Nineties and later was Carry Nation.

She is chiefly remembered now for her single-handed combats against Demon Rum during which she wrecked many saloons, smashing bottles, mirrors, bars and furnishings with a hatchet, while bartenders and customers fled before her wrath.

But this formidable feminist had other hates too. As Taylor notes in this fascinating account, "Mrs. Nation was against alcohol, tobacco, sex, politics, government (national, state and local), the Masonic Lodge, William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt and William Jennings Bryan, in approximately that order."

THE ZINZIN ROAD, by Fletcher Knebel. Doubleday, $5.95. In the West African country of Kalya, run by a black dictator whom everyone calls Old Number One, Peace Corps volunteers are having a rough time.

This is particularly true in an outcountry town called Zinzia, where a protégé of the dictator — known among the volunteers as Genesis Khan — is an accomplished grafter, sabotaging the school in which several of the volunteers teach.

Equally disillusioned is Lew (Red) Corleigh, a truck driver who serves as a Corps courier. Almost before he knows it, Lew is "helping" the underground, known as The Forge.

This violates a prime principle of the Corps that volunteers must never mix in local politics. But some of them justify their acts on the ground they are helping the school, not politics.

Knebel is the author of "Night of Camp David" and coauthor of "Seven Days in May," so you know how adept he is at high-level melodrama saturated with plausible atmosphere.

Cookies Are a Part of Food Service Course

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor
There was a fragrance of baking cookies in the halls at Oakland Community College, Highland Lakes campus, on Monday.

Students in the Food Service department were making Christmas cookies.

Part of the fancy little treats will be served at the faculty wives' annual coffee for students on Thursday. The rest go to other functions in the school.

There are 28 students in the one and two-year food technology courses and 19 in the Manpower Development Training Program.

All are virtually assured of jobs immediately after finishing their courses. A few of the Manpower students are already working part-time.

Some of the cookies will be served at a party Friday to be given by the regular students for the Manpower group.

Raymond Simescu who heads food services at OCC says that one out of every four meals is eaten away from home now, in contrast to one in 40 a century ago.

In 10 years, he foresees one in three meals eaten in a commercial food establishment.

LEARN TRADE
Students in the one-year course learn commercial cooking and baking. Since the food service business is the fourth largest industry in the country, there is a constant demand for their services.

Those who enroll in the two-year program of food service technology receive the degree of Associate in Applied Science and are ready for middle management supervisory positions.

By reinforcing their learning with job experiences they have almost unlimited possibilities in their chosen field.

The Manpower program is a continuous retraining program sponsored by the government for selected individuals who have shown potential for this type of work. Many of these trainees are older than the average college student.

About five weeks ago, new cafeteria service was inaugurated at the Highland Lakes campus. Students had been able to buy their lunch before, but only from machines.

Now there is a complete selection of hot dishes, salads, desserts and short orders. Food technology students do all the cooking and serving, thereby increasing their experiences in actual job situations.

NEW HOME
Simescu says that when the Orchard Ridge campus is completed, most of the food services will be moved down there. The Manpower training program will remain at Highland Lakes.

Mrs. Charlotte Korte was working with the boys who were making cookies. Hired as supervisor for the cafeteria, she finds that part of her time is spent in teaching.

She taught Waterford Township high school students who were operating the Sky Room at Pontiac Municipal Airport last year. Before that, she taught foods for eight years at Chadsey High School in Detroit.

Fry Steamed Chicken

Crisp, crusty-brown, fried chicken is probably as typically an American dish as you'll find anywhere... and as popular a one, too. All of which is very nice since, in these days of rising food prices, chicken is one of your very best food buys.

There are almost as many versions of fried chicken as there are women who do the frying, but basically all recipes call for seasoning and coating for the chicken and shortening for frying.

Chicken may be pan fried in shallow fat or deep fried in a large amount of fat in a deep pan. Either way, the kind of fat and its characteristics are very important to good fried chicken.

Diced Apples in Hot Dessert

Besides the rice and the traditional mixings of a delicious rice pudding, this one calls for nuts, raisins and diced unpeeled apples. The family will call for more. A fine hot dessert for any cold night, served plain or with cream or whipped cream.

Holiday Apple Rice Pudding
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon salt
1 tall can (1½ cups) evaporated milk
1½ cups apple juice
3 cups cooked rice
1 cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup golden raisins
2 cups diced unpeeled red apples
Nutmeg

Combine eggs, brown sugar, cinnamon, allspice and salt in greased 2 quart casserole; mix well. Add milk, apple juice and rice. Stir in remaining ingredients. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake at 325 degrees about 1½ hours or until knife inserted near rim comes out clean. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

By NATO Envoys, Without France

N-Defense Discussed

PARIS (AP) — Foreign and defense ministers of the North Atlantic alliance met without the French today to put the planning and management of their nuclear defense in the hands of an inner-core group of six or seven nations.

The move, blueprinted by U. S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, has a double aim:

• To give the West German nuclear weapon management: the and smaller European allies a United States, Britain, Canada, voice in nuclear weapon policy Belgium, the Netherlands, Italy, Portugal, Denmark, Iceland and the Luxembourg have chosen to Soviet Union to join the West in stay out.

WITHIN ALLIANCE

The ministers met at the Defense Planning Committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to form two groups within the alliance.

The first will consist of the 9 or 10 member nations which

The second and more important group will consist of four permanent and two or three rotating members. The four will be the United States, Britain, West Germany and Italy. The two or three other places have still to be allocated, mainly because there has been some jockeying for the real or imagined prestige.

The nuclear groups originated with a temporary working committee proposed by McNamara in May 1965. They replace the American proposal for a Multilateral Nuclear Force and the British plan for an Atlantic Nuclear Force.

Boss, 27, Is Ohio's Prettiest

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — The 27-year-old boss of the Zimmerman Excavating Co. may be Ohio's prettiest contractor. JoAnn Zimmerman, a former student at fashionable Bryn Mawr College, heads a contracting company in Mansfield inherited from her father, the late Joseph J. Zimmerman. Her mother is the firm's vice president.

Her decision to take over the company was made suddenly last February when her father died. But it was not surprising. "I had wanted to go into the business when I was in school," she said, "but Dad didn't feel it was the sort of thing a girl should do."

CHANGED CAREERS

prepare for contracting work she might have chosen engineering school rather than Bryn Mawr for two years. She did get a business administration degree from Ashland College.

Miss Zimmerman was in her third year of schoolteaching when she changed careers.

"It was a real rude awakening to learn how much I didn't know — and I'm still learning."

Teamster Chief Is Back at Work

CHICAGO (UPI)—Teamsters President James R. Hoffa was back at work yesterday despite the fact that an eight-year jail sentence is almost certain.

Hoffa, along with top officials of the Teamsters, were in Chicago to meet with the Midwest Truckers Association at a regular grievance meeting.

Romney Group in Error

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the newly formed "Youth for Romney" group agreed Tuesday that a list of the group's temporary officers included names that should not have been there.

"Unfortunately we found some errors," said Merle K. Gates, chairman of the youth group which announced its formation at the Republican Governors Conference in Colorado Springs, Colo., last Friday.

France, Russia Get Bow From Kiesinger

By CARL HARTMAN
BONN, Germany (AP) — Un-der Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, the West German government can be expected to show a lot more interest in good relations with President Charles de Gaulle and the Soviet bloc and less in reunification with East Germany and Berlin.

This is the picture that emerges from Kiesinger's first statement Tuesday to the Bundestag, traditionally a painstaking product of pulling and hauling within a new govern-ment. This one was even harder to produce since Foreign Minis-ter Willy Brandt and his Social (Democrats were taking part for the first time with Kiesinger's German Christian Democrats.

The changes from Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's statement of policy 13 months ago are marked.

Erhard limited himself to a brief and mild statement on France.

PLEDGE OF HOPE
"Friendship between our people and the French is a pledge of hope for the future of Europe," Kiesinger said. "Peace and order in Europe, hoped for by both East and West, is unthinkable without a close and confidential relationship between Germany and France."

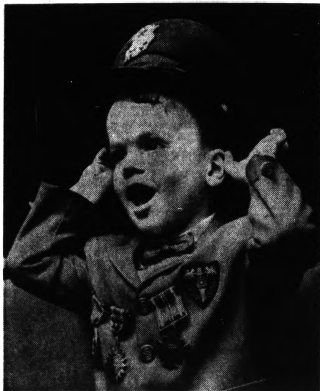

DIFFERENT BASIS

Kiesinger put the will to peace and understanding among peoples as the basis of West German policy. Reunification, he said mildly, had been prevented by "political conditions" and there was no foreseeing when it would come about.

He had no reproaches for the Soviets, such as have been prominent in recent past West German speeches on foreign policy. Kiesinger said he wanted to "maintain relations with all peoples, based on understanding, mutual trust and the will to cooperate."

Police Address Themselves to Case

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A Pittsburgh police dispatcher directed a patrol car to investigate a disturbance at 2000 Center recently.
"That's the police station," came the reply from the patrol car.
The dispatcher corrected the address, saying the disturbance was at a restaurant.

REPORT FROM BARRY—Former Sen. Barry M. Goldwater gestures during a talk yesterday to the Women's National Republican Club in New York City. Goldwater said President Johnson would be reelected if he ran today but if the "downtrend of his popularity continues," LBJ might decline to run in 1968.

Within Next Two Years

State Official Sees Income Tax

LANSING (UPI) — Clarence Lock, state revenue commissioner, predicted yesterday Michigan would have a state income tax within the next two years.

Lock made his prediction while addressing new state legislators.

Lock said if Michigan adopted a state income tax, "some adjustments within our present tax structure" would have to be made to ease the burden of the intangibles tax and the business activities tax.

In a special message to the Legislature last week, Gov. Romney estimated it would take $1.1 billion to maintain present state services at existing costs during 1967-68.

He said anticipated revenue would fall $89 million short of the needed funds.

Any new projects, increases in school aid and higher salaries for state employees would push the possible deficit even higher.

Romney, who has tried for the past four years to revamp the state's fiscal policies, has set fiscal reform as his major goal for the next legislative session.

Lock said his "guess" at this point "was that within two years we're going to have a state income tax."

A flat-rate income tax of 1 per cent, he said, with the standard exemption of $800 per person would bring the state an added $135 million.

AGAINST FLAT RATE

The biggest objection of Democratic lawmakers who controlled the Legislature during the past two years was against the flat rate which is spelled out in the Michigan Constitution.

Democrats have sought a graduated income tax which would require a change in the Constitution by a popular vote.

GIFT NOT IN HIS SACK — Santa Claus brings something for everyone on Christmas, but this Santa in Eugene, Ore., brought a present that wasn't in his traditional sack, nor was it bound with a pretty ribbon. It was a pint of blood and it went to the county blood bank to help someone truly in need.

Poland Cry Today: Line Forms at Right

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WARSAW, Poland—"Been in any interesting lines lately?" is a good conversation opener in Warsaw, where the people spend much of their lives waiting in line.

They line up for taxis, for movie tickets, for a cup of espresso coffee or an ice cream cone.

They patiently wait their turn to use a public telephone, to order a pair of spectacles or to buy a kilo of grapes. At times, one suspects them of lining up for the sake of lining up.

There seems to be a shortage of everything in Poland except 17-inch television sets, which were overproduced last year.

Poland's Communist bosses blame the runaway birth rate for the present shortage of consumer goods, claiming that production increases are gobbled up by increasing mouths to feed.

FAMILY PLANNING

In vain, the Communists exhort the overwhelmingly Catholic population to practice family planning. Poles prefer to listen to their Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński, who likes big families and tells them that birth control is a sin.

Bad distribution seems to be responsible for much of the panic buying. For example, a rumor that sugar is in short supply will start a stampede at a grocery store, with housewives lining up until the supply is exhausted.

However, large quantities of sugar will suddenly and mysteriously appear on the market a few days later.

The number of prostitutes who work the sidewalks in front of hotels is another sign of bourgeois decadence. The prostitutes have been practically taken over by the lobby of the Europejski Hotel, which is supposed to be Warsaw's finest.

ROLL OF NOTES

At breakfast at the Europejski early one morning, I watched a call-girl in red slacks counting a roll of 100-zloty notes that would have made a bank manager's eyes bulge.

Her companion, a red-haired girl wearing a turtlesneck sweater, clutched a carton of Keweenaw when she came to the table.

Warsaw in the old days was described as the "Paris of the north," referring to the elegance of its women, but I can see no evidence to justify this claim.

Today, most Polish women look dowdy and, worse, they neglect their figures. Too much borst and sour cream, too many pickled herrings — these have destroyed any claims to elegance.

MAJOR PROBLEM

Speaking of herring, eating is a major problem in Warsaw. There are milk bars where one can get a nourishing bowl of soup cheap, but there are almost no restaurants.

At the so-called quality hotels, the Bristol and the Europejski, the food is expensive and unbelievably bad.

The service in such hotels must be experienced in order to be believed. It is not uncommon to find two waiters seated at a table and deep in conversation when one enters the dining room.

'Tis the Season to Be Alert for Dangers of Home Fires

Fire safety should be observed more diligently than ever during the holiday season, warns Waterford Township Fire Chief Lewis Goff.

The Christmas tree itself can present a hazard, according to Goff.

Also creating a more conducive setting for the outbreak of fires during the holiday season are gift wrappings, overloading of electrical circuits and careless smoking.

Goff particularly stressed the importance of watering Christmas trees brought into homes.

TIPS ON TREES

The veteran fire chief offered the following recommendations pertaining to trees:

- Cut the base before setting up the tree — at least one inch above the old cut and on a slant so more raw wood is exposed to the water.

- Soak the base of the tree in water for at least 24 hours before setting it up.

- Use a type of standard that will permit watering the tree.

- If using a metallic tree be sure no electrical lights or wiring is placed on or comes in contact with any part of the tree. The chief danger with artificial trees is electrical shock.

Goff remarked that often trees are chopped down far in advance and, consequently, are dried out before they are purchased.

Excessive dropping of needles are a good indication a tree is getting quite dry, according to Goff.

"When this happens the tree should be removed from the home," he said.

SOURCE OF FIRE

If the tree is dry, said Goff, it is definitely a source of fire from electrical lights, from careless smoking or from children with lighted candles.

Other tips offered by Goff are:

- Don't let gift wrappings accumulate.

- Be extra careful of smoking during the holiday season.

"The tree, gift wrappings and gifts themselves sometimes create greater hazards than one would normally encounter."

- Don't go overboard on evergreen b o w s for decorations around the home. "These things are quite flammable and can cause the fast spread of fire."

- Don't overload circuits. Be sure the circuits will carry the extra load of Christmas lights and decorations.

- Turn tree lights off before leaving home.

- Don't leave tree lights on, unattended.

Goff recommends plugging tree lights into a switch receptacle if possible.

"It makes it much safer for children to turn the tree lights on and off. All they have to do is throw a switch, rather than plug in the lights," Goff said.

FINAL TIP

A final tip by Goff is:

- Use only safety — approved tree lights. Those bearing the Underwriters Laboratory Seal are recommended.

Hawaii Found to Be 'Leaking'

Fresh Ground Water
Escaping Into Ocean

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — Hawaii is "leaking."

Fresh ground water is leaking steadily into the ocean from 219 areas along the shoreline, the largest being Hilo Bay, about five square miles in size, where an estimated 100 million gallons of water are lost every day.

The "leaks" were revealed by differences in image tone on some aerial photographs indicating differences in water temperatures. Fresh water, appearing darker than ocean water, was found to be about 12 degrees cooler by analysis of samples.

Sources of fresh water are of considerable importance to the people of Hawaii, for although the average daily rainfall is about 13,000 million gallons, only 2 to 3 per cent is useful for human consumption.

"In seven-eighths of the island's area, potable water cannot be practically recovered because of the high permeability of the volcanic rock, which allows water to sink to levels only a little above sea level," reported William A. Fischer of the U.S. Geological Survey, which conducted the study.

MAYTAG SUPPLIES

Now that aerial infrared photography has been used successfully to pinpoint the specific places where abundant quantities of fresh water are being discharged into the salty sea, plans may get under way for the possible tapping of some of the underground water supplies.

An Atlas report of the fresh water leaks called "Fresh-Water Springs of Hawaii from Infrared Images" by Mr. Fischer, Dan A. Davis and Theresa M. Sousa has been published by the Geological Survey, Washington, D.C.

AIM'S THE SAME—Admiring the registered nurse's pin of Mrs. Paul J. O'Connell (left), their Oakland Community College instructor, are three Pontiac State Hospital attendants who have set their sights on associate degrees in nursing. They are Mrs. Odie Matlock and Juanita Warren (right).

Three Hospital Attendants Double as OCC Students

By PAT McCARTY

Their place of employment has become a "classroom" for three Pontiac State Hospital attendants who double as Oakland Community College students.

Eager envious when OCC began its associate degree nursing program in September 1965 were Mr. and Mrs. Odie Matlock and Juanita Warren.

They were anxious to have a close - at - hand center at which they could earn nursing degrees, after making sporadic attempts to pick up credits at Flint Junior College.

Now in the second year of the program, the three are among 15 students getting first-hand information on psychiatric nursing at the hospital.

For the past six weeks, they have been spending three mornings a week at the hospital—as students.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

During the period, they have been on educational leaves of absence from their regular jobs so that their dual roles will not be confused.

Six weeks without pay just before Christmas is no little sacrifice for the sake of education.

"We've been planning on this for some time," said Matlock.

"And we're good savers," added his wife.

THREE CHILDREN

Mr. and Mrs. Matlock 4870 Crestview, Independence Township, have three children aged 16, 11 and 8.

Mrs. Matlock credits them with "adjusting beautifully" to the work and study demands made on their parents' time.

The Matlocks have been employed at the state hospital for 10 years, working the 3-11 p.m. shift for the last year while attending OCC classes in the mornings.

Miss Warren, 365 Wesson, has been a state hospital attendant for eight years.

LOT TO LEARN

Now looking at the hospital through the eyes of a student, she comments, "There's a lot to learn."

Assistant professor Mrs. Paul J. O'Connell, a registered nurse, noted the students now are getting an insight into the theory behind work at the hospital.

Their training period at the state hospital is one of five designed to give OCC nursing students actual contact with patients.

They also have attended classes at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak and gained pediatric experience at children's day camps and nursing schools.

In addition to nursing courses, the two-year associate degree program includes liberal arts classes at OCC.

Upon graduation, students are qualified to take the state examination to become registered nurses.

The three attendants see the degree as opening the door to higher income.

Although they probably will start their nursing careers at lower salaries than they're now getting, they will have greater potential.

FINANCIAL REWARDS

Within a year of graduation, they will be reaping the financial rewards of higher education, their instructor predicts.

Wives of U.S. Civilians May Visit Saigon

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The U. S. Embassy announced today that wives of American civilian officials stationed in Vietnam can come to Saigon to visit their husbands during the Christmas holidays.

Deputy Ambassador William J. Porter directed that wives but no children could visit in Saigon from Dec. 23 until Jan. 3.

Some 2,000 wives, children and other dependents of U. S. officials were ordered out of Vietnam in February 1966, as a safety precaution. Many of them live in Bangkok, Manila and Hong Kong.

Today's announcement said wives who visit Saigon must travel at their own expense and there must be a "clear showing that adequate accommodation is available."

No special planes will be arranged, a U. S. spokesman said. Travel reservations have been hard to obtain for the holiday period.

2 From Area Named to State Crime Unit

An Oakland Schools administrator and a Bloomfield Township physician are among seven new appointments to the special State Commission on Crime, Delinquency and Criminal Administration.

Gov. George Romney yesterday made additions to the committee established July 14 to study the entire field of law enforcement, court administration and correction and rehabilitation programs.

Bloomfield Township residents named to the committee are Dr. Robert A. Williams, 1901 E. Hammond Lake, Oakland Schools director of measurements and guidance, and Dr. Herbert A. Raskin, 4600 Pickering, whose offices are in Detroit.

Bank Robbery

DETROIT (AP) — Two men robbed a branch of the First Federal Savings Bank of Detroit Tuesday and escaped with $5,000.

Snow Expert Retires in U.P.

RIPLEY (U.P.) — William Kaiser, one of Michigan's foremost experts on snow removal, announced his retirement today as head of the Houghton County Road Commission.

Kaiser, 69, has served the department 48 years, annually supervising snow removal on 1,000 miles of roads from Kenton to Calumet in western Upper Michigan.

Many Great Lakes area communities, including Milwaukee, have sought his advice on snow removal methods and equipment. His major task was the winter of 1949-50 when a record 28.2 inches of snow covered Houghton County. Roads were kept open with few traffic deaths or weather - attributed deaths.

A native of Red Jacket, now Calumet, Kaiser is a graduate civil engineer from Michigan Technological University. The commission named John Wealton, a civil engineer from Hancock, to replace Kaiser.

Should Rabbit Harvest by Hunters Be Earlier?

By RICHARD ALDEN KNIGHT

It never ceases to amaze me how Nature takes care of her own. Although it seems harsh, the strong survive and the weak perish. When food and water (along with cover) are in short supply for the numbers of animals or birds in a given area, disease will decimate the numbers down to reasonable levels. Predation culls the remainder and a strong and healthy breeding stock remains.

What has come to light lately may well point up that we are right in the process of missing the best.

Have you ever noticed how many rabbits you see in the summer and early fall months? The covers fairly bulge with young cottontails... your front lawn may well resemble a rabbit pasture any evening. Then, with your state's small game season a full month away, the crop begins a long, downward skid that does not end until the breeding season the following spring.

It has been found that a full two-thirds of the rabbits alive in the spring and summer do not survive until the small game season opens!

NO HUNTING IN EXPERIMENT

In the state of Iowa, biologist Paul Kline experimented with rabbit numbers on a controlled 186 acre area. By releasing tagged rabbits, Kline estimated that there were 294 on his area by Sept. 1. A month later, he counted 184. By Jan. 1, only 41 rabbits remained... this is with the toughest months of the year to come. None of the animals were hunted. They just died.

What happened to the rabbits was rain. What happened to the rabbits was disease and accidents and predators. What happened to them was the first fatal shock of frost. What happened to them are many things that we do not even know about. But one thing was certain... what had been there was no longer in existence.

We have been regulated, wisely in most respects, by seasons and limits set by the game commissions of our various states. Often given ground when they know full well that the compromise they make is an unwise one. This has been the case in deer herd control for years.

Rabbit hunting is traditionally done in the months of the fall and early winter, this on the premise that the animals are prime and fit to eat. The lure of frosty air, the cry of a beagle in full pursuit... all of these are plus factors in the sport.

Yet, with these plus factors, we must have some minus factors as well. In truth, we are harvesting a crop that has already been harvested, one taken by the master harvester of them all... Nature.

We are dealing with a paradox of sorts, one which has a solution, but a solution that not many of us would like. We should hunt rabbits earlier to harvest a crop that is ripe and rich. But we do not because tradition says that we should not. Could it be that tradition, at least in this case, could be wrong?

There is going to come a period of awakening, of appreciation in this sport of hunting. We are going to find (as we should by now) that joint seasons are a mistake under today's structure.

Seasons spread out over a four-month period would allow the gunners of rabbits to hunt unoppressed by men who would prefer to shoot pheasants. Woodcock and grouse men should never have to be in competition with men who prefer to hunt squirrel. The quail man shouldn't have to watch out for the bow and arrow deer hunter.

There are those who say that they do not want to hunt rabbits in the months of Indian summer. So be it. But when they feel this way, they should also know and know well that the subtraction will go on whether they hunt or not.

Facilities to Be Improved

Park Projects Slated

Improvements to existing facilities and new construction at state recreation areas in Oakland County is either under way or in the final planning stage.

Alfred Masini, district parks supervisor for the Conservation Department's Pontiac Lake office, said bids on two construction projects will be opened Dec. 29.

The proposals will cover construction of modern restroom facilities at Holly area's Wildwood Lake campground and construction of a district headquarters building.

The new headquarters will be in the Pontiac Lake recreation area near the intersection of Gale and Williams Lake Road. The department currently is resting office space.

Bids on new restroom, bath house and concession buildings at Pontiac Lake state park are expected to be sought early in 1967. Work on the three projects is expected to be completed by mid-summer.

Masini also said that work is progressing on expanding the swimming beach at Proud Lake. A boat launching ramp at the Proud Lake campground was scheduled for completion this week.

Game habitat improvement work also is scheduled to start early next year in the Pontiac Lake recreation area.

OTHER PROJECTS

"We have several other projects in mind," said Masini, "but they will have to wait for the money to become available. Others are under study and could be refined or rejected before reaching the construction stage."

One project that will definitely take place, said Masini, is construction of a new headquarters building for the Holly recreation area.

New Group on Recreation Being Formed

A new citizens advisory committee in the making has lodged itself to give recreational programs a higher place on the state's roll call for fiscal appropriations.

The group, which tentatively calls itself the Citizens Action Committee for Michigan's Recreation Future, took shape last week in East Lansing during a special all-day meeting in which the Conservation Department explained its proposed 10-year, $377 million statewide recreation program for Michigan.

Representatives from some 40 conservation organizations and governmental units who attended the meeting named James L. Rouman, executive director of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, as the new committee's temporary chairman.

Rouman announced that he would shortly appoint a subcommittee to help direct the formal organization of the action group which is expected to take place at a meeting scheduled for early in January.

He stressed that every effort would be made to fuse the advisory committee's membership with key people who will represent the broadest possible cross-section of recreation-oriented interests.

Forest Fire Losses Increase This Year

The forest fire season has come to a snowy end and now that the smoke has cleared, the state's 1966 burning toll stands at 13,681 acres, the Conservation Department reports.

This year's acreage losses, blackened in the wake of 1,645 fires, are more than four times greater than in 1965 when fire damage was held to a record low of 2,865 acres.

The number of forest fires breaking loose in 1966 also took a decided upward turn, more than doubling last year's total of 777.

Although there were many more fires than in 1965, the biggest difference in this year's substantially heavier toll is traced to several large blazes in northern Michigan during the spring.

One-in-Six Deer Hunter Success Rate

LANSING (AP) Severe new restrictions on the shooting of antlerless deer cut this fall's deer kill to about 91,000—meaning about one hunter in six was successful, the State Conservation Department reported.

It reported six fatal and 15 nonfatal wounding, compared with 15 fatalities and 14 nonfatal shootings last year.

Hunters shot 113,000 whitetails last year, but the department's preliminary estimate for the 1966 season was 61,500 bucks and 29,500 antlerless deer, down 17,000 from last year's antlerless take.

The department issued 36 per cent fewer antlerless deer permits this year.

The one-in-six success rate compares with one-in-five last year, the department said.

Dissatisfied hunters last year touched off a furor which led to the Legislature's restrictions this fall. They contended deer were scarce because too many antlerless deer had been taken in previous years.

VIOLATION FINES

The department said it expected fines totaling $32,000 would be assessed for deer hunting violations this season.

The Upper Peninsula take was an estimated 28,000 deer, down 4,000 from last season. The department said no hunters were killed in Upper Michigan this year.

In northern lower Michigan, the kill dropped 28 per cent, to about 50,120 whitetails. The antlerless deer kill in that region was about 14,310, down nearly 18,000 from last year.

Buck hunters in southern Michigan set a new record for the sixth straight year, taking an estimated 10,200, up 27 per cent. Antlerless deer kill in the southern farm belt was about 2,000, about the same as last year.

Fish Licenses Available

Michigan's 1967 fishing licenses, trout stamps and state park vehicle permits are now on sale throughout the state.

The new licenses will be honored for fishing during the balance of this year as well as in 1967.

Fishing fees for 1967 remain at 50 cents for the annual license covering residents 65 years and older; $2 for the annual resident license; $5 for the annual nonresident license; $4 for the 15-day nonresident license; and $2 for the trout stamp.

Senior sport fishermen eligible for the special 50-cent license still must have the $2 stamp for trout fishing. No special stamp or license is required for the new sport of salmon fishing.

This is covered by the annual resident or nonresident fishing license.

State park vehicle entrance permits for 1967, again priced at $2 for the annual and 50 cents for the daily, may be purchased at all public recreation areas where they are required.

Romney Hails GOP Group

'Party Policy Makers
Played a Real Role'

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney praised the Republican Coordinating Committee Tuesday as a recognized national policy-making body that "played a real role in the last election."

Romney, who attended a committee meeting Monday in Washington, said all committee members recognized that "The Republicans have done a unique thing politically."

"The creation of the committee brought together national leadership that can effectively determine policy between elections," Romney said. "There has been acceptance of the committee as a national policy-making body."

Romney, a member of the committee and considered by many as a leading contender for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination, said position papers prepared by the committee played a "real role in the election."

Romney said this was the best indication that congressional leadership has accepted the role of the committee and wants the help of "governors and others in determining day-to-day tactics in the national legislature."

The coordinating committee membership includes the party's former presidential nominees, congressional leaders, national GOP officials and several governors.

It meets periodically to define party policy on national issues.

Airmen Plan Blood Drive for Ailing Girl

DETROIT (UPI) — Six-year-old Sarah Jill VanBael is going to get a life-giving Christmas present from the men at the Selfridge Air Force Base.

Sarah, who lives in Harrison Township near the base, is suffering from leukemia and needs four pints of blood each day to stay alive.

The blood disease was discovered by doctors last February and the personnel at Selfridge began a massive blood donation in March.

They plan to repeat the blood drive again before Christmas.

Doctors said she has a 20 per cent chance for complete recovery.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS
Sarah, one of 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph VanBael, will have to spend Christmas at Children's Hospital in Detroit. But, thanks to the open-hearted Air Force Sarah Jill is going to have a happy Christmas.

Canadian Strike
May Close Airports
OTTAWA (AP) — A nationwide strike of airport traffic controllers has been called for Dec. 20. The walkout would close Canada's major airports to almost all commercial traffic.

Announcing the strike deadline, K. D. Lyon of Winnipeg, president of the 650-member Canada Air Traffic Control Association, said Tuesday night that the controllers had voted 578 to 63 to strike to back up their demands for more pay from the government. The strike vote was taken after negotiations with the government broke up following 26 months of talks.

Sources in Ottawa said the government was preparing emergency legislation to prevent the strike during the peak of the Christmas travel rush. The air controllers are civil servants. They are not covered by legislation providing for either collective bargaining or strikes.

Car Sales Take a 10 Pct. Drop

December Period 2nd Best for Big Three

DETROIT (AP) — New passenger car sales dipped approximately 10 per cent in the first 10 days of December, compared with those in the same period of record-setting 1965, it was disclosed by preliminary figures released by the manufacturers Tuesday.

There were nine selling days in each period.

Total new car sales for the Dec. 1-10 period were 222,931 this year, compared with 249,385 for the similar 1965 period. The difference was 26,454.

Despite the drop, the Big Three of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler reported the first 10 days of December best ever for the period, with the exception of last year.

RANKED SECOND

The month of November ranked second only to last year as well, and if the industry doesn't sell another vehicle before New Year's Day this still will be the No. 2 year. Sales already have topped those of any year other than last.

While car sales have been lagging by 1965 comparison, truck sales have been running ahead.

Ford reported today its truck sales went over the half-million mark for the first time in any year in the Dec. 1-10 period. To date Ford said dealers had sold 507,191 trucks in 1966.

Chrysler's Dodge division reported the 10-day sales pushed its truck deliveries for the year to 114,010, compared with 111,707 for the like period of 1965.

TRUCK SALES

Chevrolet division of General Motors also reported truck sales ahead, 559,945 against 545,668, with 15,276 delivered in December's first 10 days, down from 15,388 in comparable 1965.

Chrysler continues the only company with car sales exceeding those of 1965. It reports dealers have delivered 1,321,939 in 1966, a two per cent increase over the 1,297,814 deliveries to Dec. 10 a year ago.

For the first 10 days of the month, however, Chrysler's total was 35,148 passenger cars at a daily selling rate of 3,593 units against 36,374 at a rate of 4,264 in 1965, or down 8 per cent.

Ford Motor Co. car sales were off from 68,707 in the first 10 days a year ago, to 62,064; General Motors from 124,444 to 119,183, and American Motors from 7,880 to 6,258.

Figures reported by the various divisions showed:

	1966	1965
Chrysler-Plym	23,225	24,901
Dodge	12,193	13,473
Total Chrysler	35,418	38,374
Ford Division	51,750	57,192

Town Gives Free Coffee Instead of Parking Fine

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (AP) — This city may be the only place in the world where you can park overtime and get invited to a cup of coffee.

A little red courtesy card is placed on your auto by police when you forget the parking meter and tarry too long.

The card says: "Welcome to historic New Albany. You have just violated one of our traffic regulations. However, as a visitor to New Albany, won't you let us buy you a cup of coffee? Stop in at any of the following establishments."

The card lists the names and addresses of several restaurants.

Young: White-Nonwhite Gap Widens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gap between whites and nonwhites is mostly widening even as 10 major U.S. cities move toward Negro citizen majorities. Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, told senators today.

Despite "all the frenzied activity" in the field of urban problems, said Young, "the gap between white and nonwhite citizens in the United States and white citizens has not been closed. In most instances, it is not even narrowing — it is widening."

He said, for example, since 1964 Negro unemployment has doubled and is 2 1/2 times the white rate. "Any further failure to meet the needs of the Negro population, any further broadening of the gap between white and Negro citizens in their experience of the possibilities held out by the American dream can only lead to increasing unrest, disorder, and a mountain risk of violence," Young said.

SENATE HEARING

The Negro leader, in testimony prepared for a Senate Government Operations subcommittee investigating the plight of the cities, pointed out that Washington, D.C., and Newark N.J., each have more than 50 per cent Negroes.

He said that Detroit, Baltimore, Cleveland, Ohio, St. Louis, Mo., New Orleans, La., Memphis, Tenn. and Atlanta, Ga. now have at least one-third

Negro populations and will become more than 50 per cent Negro "before long."

Spain Holds Rare Vote Today

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spaniards flocked to the polls today for their second national vote in the 27 years of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's dictatorship. They were expected to give overwhelming approval to liberalizing constitutional changes proposed by Franco.

Many persons lined up in some sections of Madrid as much as two hours before the polls opened. Many of the early voters were women. Good weather over most of the country favored a heavy vote.

With formal opposition muted, government officials predicted 80 per cent of the vote would favor the changes, the first major sign of relaxation of control by the 74-year-old dictator.

Each of the country's more than 19 million eligible voters was provided in advance with a ballot marked "yes" — and a blank one if he wanted to vote no.

TAX THREAT Some absentions were expected. Government employees, who got four hours off, were subject to a 1 per cent withholding tax unless they voted.

Francisco's proposals, approved Nov. 22 by the Cortes, call for: —A king or a royal regent to succeed Franco on his death or retirement.

—Separation of the posts of head of state and of government, both now held by the generalissimo.

—Reducing the 594-member Cortes by 30 members, adding meet foreign criticism while 100 directly elected members preserving Franco's hold on and reducing the number appointed by the chief of state from 50 to 25.

—Permitting public religious services for faiths other than state-supported Roman Catholicism.

—Boosting the powers of the Council of the Realm, now an inactive advisory group and its membership from 13 to 17 members, 10 of whom may be elected by the Cortes.

PARTIES BANNED

The constitution, however, continues to ban opposition political parties, a provision the government utilized to shut off open campaigning against Franco's proposals while mounting a massive propaganda drive urging voters to support them.

Government officials said since there is no legal opposition in Spain, the government was the only group entitled to use the nation's propaganda and news facilities.

About a score of persons have been arrested for putting up antigovernment posters and urging voters to stay away from the polls.

Spain's only other national referendum of the Franco era was in 1947, when the country approved restoration of the monarchy. This has never been put into effect. Some critics have charged that the proposed new changes are a device to

Overheated Economy Burned New Housing

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK — The housing industry really got burned in this year's overheated economy.

Hopes, plans and the number of housing starts were caught in an inferno of interest rates.

The peak of CUNIFF the most recent housing boom — it seems to be either home or bust in housing — was in 1963, when 1.58 million units, nonfarm residential units were built.

This year the total will be about 1.2 million, but that figure doesn't tell the entire story. Housing starts late this year fell to a yearly average of only 880,000 units, the lowest in 20 years.

In itself, this drop is precipitous. Consider, though, that it came while affluence was growing, while new family units were being formed, while population was increasing.

About the only saving explanation is that there was a decline — not relative but actual — in the number of young marriages of 30 to 34. But this couldn't be the entire answer.

The decline this year was in direct proportion to rising interest rates, some of which soared to their highest in three or four decades.

COMPETITION

Another factor was competition between money lenders. Funds were withdrawn from savings and loan associations, the traditional mortgage suppliers, for higher returns elsewhere.

Some builders found themselves having houses on their hands for as long as a year. Some small builders went out of business. Construction crews of larger builders were broken up.

HOME FINANCING

In addition, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board plans to make $500 million of home financing available in the next few months.

Questions still remain, however, and the most important of these is: Can the housing industry drive through the recent slump, in a tight money economy? Many housing people think not.

As the industry stalls, the demand for new homes may eventually result in a housing boom. Although cautious forecasters see the doldrums remaining in 1967, others see an upturn in the latter part of next year.

The National Association of Home Builders, in fact, feels that there will be an upturn by midyear 1967 and that 1968 possibly will be the best housing year ever.

The theft of tools and clothes valued at $145 from his parked car was reported to Pontiac car yesterday by Pontiac 18, of 114 E. Princeton.

'67 Forecast: Funds Ease, Stocks Rise

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Computer analysis of current economic data suggests that a long-term decline in money rates has begun and will extend and possibly deepen through 1967, says Roger E. Spear, president of Spear & Staff, Inc., investment advisers.

"Such a long-term easing of the money situation is, of course, a prime requisite of any new primary bull cycle in the stock market," Spear said.

"While we do expect further unsettled periods in the market over the next several months, the start of a new primary bull cycle is very likely in 1967 and could come as early as next March or April," he said.

"It is apparent that money is as tight as it will get. From here on, any anti-inflation move will have to come from fiscal sources, namely a tax increase. This, in turn, means that in all probability, the bond market hit its low point back in August."

A key indicator of the trend toward easier money is the Federal Reserve's discount rate. It serves the difference between the borrowings of key Fed member banks from the Reserve To tal and the reserves held by other member banks in excess of legal requirements, showed a five-week average of $60 million daily recently, as compared with a $48 million daily average for the five weeks ending Oct. 31.

SMALL FRY SOLD

Lot statistics also augur well for the stock market, Spear said. "Through last Thursday the market's small fry had sold more than they bought each day for thirteen consecutive trading sessions, the longest streak of net selling since last year."

This passing of stock from weak hands into, presumably, the clutches of the stronger round-rotters is evidence that for thirteen consecutive trading sessions, the longest streak of net selling since last year.

Hollings met for 25 minutes with Johnson shortly after returning from an inspection trip to the war area.

Face Congress

June Expiration Date Will Force Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Decisions affecting the future of 10 major and controversial laws expiring next June 30 will be made by the Congress in a build-in period of work when it meets Jan. 10.

Among the big ones which will die in midyear unless extended are the draft law, the Reciprocal Trade Act and the antipower program.

They are likely to cause the most controversy and to dim hopes for an early adjournment, for, added to them will be new legislation to be proposed by the President, including increases in Social Security benefits and perhaps a tax boost.

The President's authority to induct young men into military service has been extended periodically, the most recent extension having been for five years. The first order of business among congressmen over what form the next extension should take. The House Armed Services Committee already has started preliminary work on a new draft law and will make it its first order of business.

ARMED FORCES

That committee also must come to grips early in the year over the overall size of the armed forces. By permanent statute, the manpower military ceiling is 2,000,500 but a temporary law expiring June 30 limited that restriction to meet war needs.

What to do about the Reciprocal Trade Act which allows the President to enter into trade agreements with other nations is a major headache bedeviling the House Ways and Means Committee. This act, which is a major cog in the foreign policy machinery, has been on the books for many years, its latest extension having been for two years.

The Ways and Means Committee also will be the preliminary battleground for new Social Security or tax legislation that may be proposed.

Authorization for continuation of the antipower program must be renewed if the program is to continue beyond June 30. Because of the heavy financial drain imposed by the war in Vietnam, the poverty program will be a prime target for budget-cutters.
