'Will Lead as Best I Can,' Johnson Tells U.S.

Atomic Explosion by Russians Might Bring U.S. Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may charge the Soviet Union with violating the limited nuclear test-ban treaty as a result of an underground explosion last Friday in Central Asia.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said last night the blast has produced some fallout in the northern Pacific near Japan.

Officials noted that under the treaty, fallout is supposed to be kept within the boundaries of the testing nation.

The evidence to date suggests that while the Soviet explosion technically violated the treaty, it apparently was accidental.

The AEC said, "the amounts of radioactivity measured to date will not produce measurable exposures to persons."

ASK EXPLANATION

Still, Secretary of State Dean Rusk has asked Moscow for a full explanation. Officials said they will await a report from the Soviet Union before determining the application of the treaty.

The treaty, signed in Moscow 18 months ago and subscribed to by more than 100 nations, prohibits nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water.

It also prohibits underground explosions if they cause radioactive debris "to be present outside the territorial limits of the state" that is testing.

★ ★ ★

The force of the Soviet blast, set off in the Semipalatinsk area of central Russia, was described by the AEC as "in the intermediate range." This means it was equivalent to the force loosed by 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT.

U.S. BLAST

Last March, officials said, an underground American test blew radioactive material into the air and the debris was traced over the southwestern part of the United States.

However, they said, no radioactivity was detected outside U.S. borders.

Three days after the incident, the Soviet news agency Tass commented that if the fallout went beyond U.S. borders the treaty would be violated.

Viet General Accepts Post

Decision Averts a Crisis in Government

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky agreed today to accept temporarily the post of minister of youth and sports and a potential government crisis was averted.

★ ★ ★

The revamped cabinet of Premier Tran Van Huong, with four young generals added to its civilian rolls, was sworn in after a 24-hour delay caused by Ky's initial rejection of his appointment.

The flamboyant commander of the Vietnamese Air Force told newsmen, however, he will keep his military job and will stay in the cabinet "for only a couple of weeks."

Two U.S. generals were reported to have encouraged him to accept the ministerial appointment in the interests of harmony within the armed forces

★ ★ ★

Three other generals were sworn in with Ky at the Gia Long presidential palace. Chief of State Phan Khac Suu presided.

OTHER GENERALS

The other were Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, a second deputy premier; Maj. Gen. Tran Van Minh, armed forces minister; and Brig. Gen. Linh Quang Vien, minister of psychological warfare.

Meanwhile, five of South Viet Nam's top Buddhist leaders vowed before a crowd of 10,000 weeping and applauding followers that they would fast to the death if the government of Premier Huong does not step down.

The noisy rally at Buddhist headquarters was under way at exactly the time Huong was presenting his new cabinet to the public in another part of the city.

Rights Drive in Selma Goes Into 3rd Day

Comedian Gregory Leading Cafe Tour in 2nd Alabama City

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Sheriff James G. Clark arrested an estimated 200 Negroes today after they refused to enter the Dallas County Courthouse through an entrance designated by the sheriff.

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Negroes aim another offensive today at the lengthy and complicated system of registering voters in Dallas County where Negroes comprise 60 per cent of the population and 1 per cent of the voters.

A registration attempt was planned for the third day in a row. Meanwhile, at Tuscaloosa, Negroes led by comedian Dick Gregory mount another tour of cafes today in their new test of segregated facilities.

Rev. T. Y. Rogers Jr., a Negro leader, said places which probably would be visited include three businesses where lunch counters were closed yesterday on the first day of the new integration tests.

"We are not going through the back door any more," said Rev. James Bevel, a leader in the Selma civil rights drive that hit its first serious snag yesterday after initial success in desegregating downtown businesses.

Sixty-six persons, most of them prospective Negro voters were jailed by Sheriff James G. Clark Jr. when they refused to use the alley entrance to the courthouse or move from the sidewalk.

All were released late yesterday and three civil rights workers were freed of "suspicion" charges. The others signed their own bonds of $300 each on charges of unlawful assembly or of criminal provocation.

36th President Is Inaugurated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson took the presidential oath amid stirring ceremony today—and solemnly pledged that: "I will lead as best I can."

Johnson declared the time has come for the United States "to achieve progress without strife and change without hatred . . ."

Before a great throng at the U. S. Capitol, the President raised his right hand, rested his left on a family Bible given him by his mother, and repeated the old oath to:

"Preserve, protect and defend the Constitution."

Then came the inaugural address, and the chief executive summoned the nation to a war on poverty and ignorance.

He called these things an enemy to justice, and predicted:

"Before this generation of Americans is finished, this enemy will not only retreat—it will be conquered."

Hatred too must go, he said, racial divisions at home and dangerous suspicions among the nations. For, he said:

★ ★ ★

"We are all fellow passengers on a dot of earth. And each of us, in the span of time, has only a moment among his companions."

GREAT SOCIETY

Johnson said his Great Society is not to be "the ordered, changeless, and sterile battalion of the ants."

"It is the excitement of becoming — always becoming, trying, probing, falling, resting, and trying again — but always gaining," he said.

If the nation succeeds, it will be "not because of what we have, but what we are; not because of what we own, but what we believe . . . "

★ ★ ★

"We believe every man must someday be free," he said. "And we believe in ourselves."

SAME MISTAKE

"That is the mistake our enemies have always made," Johnson said. "In my lifetime—in depression and war — they have awaited our defeat.

Each time, from the secret places of the American heart, came forth the faith they could not see or even imagine. It brought us victory. It will again."

Johnson said the United States was conceived in justice, and he said that means that all its citizens must "share in the fruits of the land."

★ ★ ★

"In a land of wealth, families must not live in hopeless poverty," Johnson said. "In a land

Johnson Guard Biggest Ever

Precautions Show JFK's Death in Mind

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's inaugural is being safeguarded by the most massive security precautions ever devised for a chief executive.

★ ★ ★

During the oathtaking and the inaugural address, before tens of thousands of spectators fanned out below the Capitol steps, the President stood behind a three-sided, bulletproof screen of glass.

The protective cage has a sheet of 1½-inch glass directly in front of the podium, like the one at the White House reviewing stand, but in addition has flanking panes extending back diagonally on each side to deflect a bullet fired from any possible angle.

Helicopters, television scanners, armed Secret Service men on rooftops, a rebuilt and rearmored presidential limousine, and some 5,000 policemen, National Guardsmen and regular troopers are among the further unprecedented precautions.

★ ★ ★

With President John F. Kennedy's assassination in mind, special attention has been given to building tops and windows along the parade route from the Capitol to the White House. Even manholes in Pennsylvania Avenue have been checked.

WINDOWS CLOSED

Orders have been issued that all windows overlooking the parade be kept closed. Even regular government workers must have special one-day passes to get into their own buildings.

The names of all other persons planning to enter private and public buildings along the line of march have been taken and turned over to the Secret Service.

Two helicopters manned by police and Secret Service agents have been detailed to watch from the skies.

★ ★ ★

At Reception for Governors

Gov. Romney Steals the Show

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Gov. Romney, who has shown a knack in getting in on Democratic-sponsored shindigs, got more attention at preinaugural events than some members of President Johnson's own party.

As a matter of fact, the President spent more time chatting with two Republican governors —Romney and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York—than with most Democratic state executives when he called at a reception for governors last night.

The President was heard to tell Romney, a possible GOP presidential nominee in 1968, the White House would welcome any ideas from him.

"Just pick up the telephone, governor, and call me anytime," Johnson told Romney during a four-to five-minute conversation.

The President was accompanied by Mrs. Johnson. Romney was accompanied by his wife, Lenore.

LBJ Warms to Message

Is Loud and Clear on Great Society Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When he took his oath of office today, President Lyndon Baines Johnson spoke in tones so low his words could scarcely be heard by the thousands packed into Capitol plaza for his inauguration.

But he came through loud and clear when, moments later, he began to paint the picture of the "Great Society" he has promised to build.

Johnson stood bareheaded and in a chill 15-mile breeze, in near freezing weather, at the traditional ceremony on the east portico of the Capitol.

But the President warmed to his work as he delivered his inaugural address.

★ ★ ★

He broke into a smile he apparently could not contain as he told his listeners of his belief that every child who learns, every man who finds work, and every sick person made whole brightens the hopes of all.

AMERICAN DREAM

"This is what America is all about," Johnson said. "It is the uncrossed desert and the unclimbed ridge.

"It is the star not reached and a harvest sleeping in the unploughed ground."

Johnson spoke under blue skies crisscrossed with cirrus clouds which — in defiance of the weatherman's glum prediction — failed to hide the noontide sun.

★ ★ ★

MOMENT LAPSE

Warren, although an old hand at this matter, also forgot for a moment.

A few words late, both got their hands up.

At a bipartisan breakfast for Michigan's congressional delegation, Democratic Rep. Charles Diggs ribbed Romney about political ambitions, saying:

"I suspect the governor's real purpose in riding down Pennsylvania Avenue this year will be to look over the parade route for the future."

★ ★ ★

SENIOR DEMS

The breakfast was sponsored by Diggs and Rep. Martha Griffiths, the state's two senior Democrats.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Griffiths described Ford's election by fellow Republicans as "a really great honor to Michigan."

★ ★ ★

Ford and Diggs said the breakfast was an indication of the ability of the state's congressmen to put aside political differences and work together for the benefit of the state.

May Mean New Crisis

Doctor With Churchill

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's personal physician, Lord Moran, left the Churchill home today after spending nearly 40 minutes there in a surprise visit. No medical bulletin was issued immediately.

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill slept peacefully through the night but his doctor made an unscheduled visit to his bedside this afternoon.

The reason for the visit of Lord Moran, the aged statesman's physician, was not known. Whether it portended a new crisis in Sir Winston's condition was a question.

Thirty minutes after Lord Moran's arrival, two automobiles and a taxi pulled up in front of the house. Churchill's daughter Sarah and his granddaughter Celia Sandys were in one of the cars.

A medical bulletin issued just before noon said:

"There is little to record. The restlessness has gone and Sir Winston has slept peacefully through the night and morning. There will be another bulletin this evening."

It was the 13th bulletin issued since the 90-year-old statesman suffered a stroke last Friday.

Throughout the night a shivering crowd kept watch at the end of Hyde Park Gate, the dead-end street where Churchill has lived since 1955.

OPENS ONCE

The door of No. 28 opened only once, at 1:55 a.m. Churchill's 24-year-old grandson and namesake, Winston Spencer Churchill, stepped out and drove off in his sports car.

The watchers assumed that Churchill had spent a quiet night. Tuesday his physician, Lord Moran, was called at 2 a.m. after Churchill suffered a setback.

The medical bulletin Tuesday night, issued at 9:21 p.m., said:

"Sir Winston has slept through the day and there is no appreciable change in his condition."

Medical experts interpreted the continued sleep as a sign of extreme weakness but an indication that Churchill was not in pain.

★ ★ ★

Some earlier bulletins had spoken of extreme restlessness, variable pulse and circulatory weakness.

★ ★ ★

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, spoke of the approach of death Tuesday in addressing the Convocation of Canterbury, the "parliament" of the Church of England.

Cloudy, Colder Tonight

Partly cloudy and colder with snow flurries is the outlook for the Pontiac area tonight.

★ ★ ★

Temperatures will drop to a low of 8 to 15 tonight and rise to 24 to 30 tomorrow.

For the next five days there will be little change in temperatures.

Precipitation will total about one-fourth inch in snow possibly mixed with rain about Friday and in light snow about Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Twenty-four was today's low thermomter reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The mercury registered 28 at 2 p.m.

Speaker Ends Period as First in Succession

WASHINGTON (AP) — For House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, today ends a period of almost 14 months during which he stood first in the line of succession to the presidency.

Still Tickets for Press Cook School

Tickets for the Pontiac Press cooking school which begins next Tuesday are still available.

In the past, many area women were disappointed when their requests for tickets were too late.

A different arrangement this year has made it possible for more women to attend and there are still places open at every session.

Day sessions at Pontiac Central will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 1:30 p.m. Evening sessions at 7:30 p.m. will be on Wednesday and Thursday.

★ ★ ★

At every session, a grand prize will be presented. You need not be present to win these prizes and Pontiac Press employes and their families are not eligible.

OTHER PRIZES

In addition to the grand prizes, many other prizes will be awarded daily.

The grand prizes include gas ranges from Consumers Power Company and Frayer Appliances; a GE portable television set from Hampton Electric; sewing machines from Domelco, Inc., and Richman Brothers Sewing Center; and a Speed Queen automatic washer and dryer.

Daily prizes include all the food prepared on stage; other food, trading stamps, kitchen equipment, rugs, jewelry, flowers, cleaning certificates and cookbooks.

★ ★ ★

Robert Lilleyman of Calbi Music Company will play selections on a Baldwin theater style home organ before every session.

MEAT CUTTING

Hoffman's Pontiac Freezer Foods, Inc., will again put on a demonstration of meat cutting.

Come in or send in for tickets now. There are still some left.

Inauguration Vast Contrast From First LBJ Oath-Taking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The past and the present collided in the starkest of contrasts today when President Johnson placed his hand on the Bible to take the inaugural oath.

Thirteen months and 28 days ago, Johnson repeated the same ceremony in the cabin of Air Force One, the presidential jet airliner, at Love Field, Dallas, Tex.

Then there was no pomp, only the simplest of ceremonies as Johnson took over the power of the presidency from John F. Kennedy whose body lay in a casket at the rear of the plane.

Today millions of persons were watching. Then, only 27 persons were able to jam into the cabin of the plane.

The last person to enter was Mrs. Kennedy, her dress stained with her husband's blood. Mrs. Johnson took her place at her husband's right.

WOMAN JUDGE THERE

The august dignity of the U.S. Chief Justice was absent. A plain-looking woman stood in front of Johnson to administer the oath. She was Federal District Judge Sarah T. Hughes, who only minutes before had been in her home, mourning the death of Kennedy.

Judge Hughes had no constitutional oath to bring with her, but one was dictated by phone from Washington by the then Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach. The Bible came from the bookshelf beside Kennedy's bed in the plane.

At 3:36 p.m. EST, Nov. 22, 1963, the swearing-in began with a nod from Johnson. United Press International reporter Merriman Smith, who was on the scene, described it this way;

"Hold up your right hand and repeat after me," the judge told Johnson.

"Johnson covered the Bible with his left hand . . . his right arm went slowly into the air and the jurist began to intone the constitutional oath . . .

"The brief ceremony ended when Johnson in a deep, firm voice, repeated after the judge . . . and so help me God."

The ceremony had lasted only two minutes. Once it was over, Johnson turned to his wife and kissed her on the cheek. He did the same to Mrs. Kennedy.

In contrast to this almost private ceremony, Johnson's inaugural today was being recorded in every aspect for posterity. Cameras covered his every step from the time he left the White House for the trip to Capitol Hill until he returned to his living quarters.

ONE PHOTOGRAPHER

But on the day of Kennedy's assassination, only one photographer — Capt. Cecil Stoughton of the Signal Corps — took pictures of the swearing-in. A dictaphone was used to record the voices.

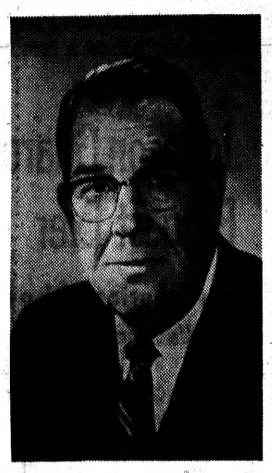

Many of those who watched the ceremony in Air Force One that tragic day no longer are close to the presidency.

Kennedy aides David Powers and Kenneth P. O'Donnell have resigned. But others remain. Assistant Press Secretary Malcolm Kilduff holds the same job for Johnson that he did for Kennedy.

Jack Valenti, who held no government position in 1963, was in the cabin at the time of the swearing-in. He is now a presidential aide.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, Kennedy's personal secretary, is gone, but Marie Fehmer, Johnson's personal secretary, who typed out the inaugural oath, is on the White House staff.

MEET PIANIST — Mrs. Lyndon Johnson is shown shaking hands with fellow-Texan Van Cliburn. They met at Constitution Hall last night where Cliburn played in the inaugural concert. Hubert Humphrey, who was sworn in as vice president at noon today, is at center.

Johnson Family Mixes Beethoven and the Watusi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson family celebrated inaugural eve with a salute to culture that was a mixture of Beethoven and the Watusi beat.

The President went first to an inaugural concert and then out partying with the audience that included famous Americans upon whom he had bestowed the Medal of Freedom.

★ ★ ★

At the windup, he stood back with the rest to stare in wonderment as his teen-age daughter, Luci, took over the dance floor at the staid State Department to dance the Watusi and the Frug.

It was an evening in which names met names with champagne and candlelight informality.

AROSE TOGETHER

Three thousand VIPs, the Johnsons included, rose together to wind up the concert in Constitution Hall singing "America the Beautiful."

They had applauded and shouted bravos to violinist Isaac Stern, playing Beethoven, Mozart and Saint-Saens; pianist Van Cliburn, doing a Liszt concerto; and Todd Duncan and Theresa Coleman, presenting the heart-tugging songs of Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

SOUNDED GOOD

Johnson quipped at intermission that Van Cliburn "sounded as good as he did at Stonewall," the spot near the LBJ Ranch where he performed at a Texas barbecue for German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Mrs. Johnson "loved the entire evening."

Huge Constitution Hall was bedecked in red, white and blue, with hundreds of red and white carnations. Johnson had a red one in his tuxedo buttonhole, the Johnson girls carried the flowers and the First Lady wore a matching American Beauty red gown of cloque silk with a small back train.

Edward Steichen, 80, bearded, world-renowned photographer, was reminded at the lavish supper dance by the nation's First Lady that he had promised to send her a new strain of delphinium called "Connecticut Yankee."

IGNORING COLD

Trying to ignore a burgeoning cold, Lynda Johnson chatted and waved to a man she said she had long admired, Pulitzer Prize-winning editor Ralph McGill.

Luci was swapping remembrances of a joint appearance made with Van Cliburn to narrate Peter and the Wolf at the Interlochen Music Festival. Meeting the young pianist in the concert reception room, she curtsied and Van Cliburn kissed her hand.

While lamenting the absence of her steady boyfriend, premedical student Paul Betz, who was taking exams, Luci did her dancing with older brother Jim Betz, 26, her stand-in date.

As the Johnsons left the party after midnight, Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey arrived, still going gaily.

With a grin, he explained the absence of his wife, Muriel: "She's gone to rest for all of us."

Snow 'Fall' Not Quiet, Court Told

Giving a helping hand to Old Man Winter has gotten the Pine Knob ski resort in trouble.

Legal action was started yesterday to halt the operation of its artificial snow making equipment.

Fred E. Kluesner and his wife, Kathryn, of 7350 Pine Knob filed the suit in Circuit Court against the Independence Township recreation center.

They claim that the noise and vibration caused by the machine makes it impossible for them to sleep, entertain, or carry on other normal functions of home life.

★ ★ ★

The couple's home is located on 15 acres of property across the road from the resort.

TERMED NUISANCE

In terming the machine a nuisance, they complained that the equipment is used during long periods of time, principally during the night hours.

They cited one example this month when the equipment operated continuously for three and a half days with only an interruption of about three hours.

The equipment provides snow for skiing when the natural supply is insufficient.

★ ★ ★

On Jan. 25 Pine Knob must show cause before Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore why a temporary order should not be issued restraining it from operating the equipment pending the outcome of the case.

REMOVE CULVERTS

The suit also asks that the Oakland County Road Commission be ordered to remove culverts which allegedly drain waste from Pine Knob onto the Kluesner property.

Africa has two Congos: the Congo Republic, a former French colony (area: 139,000 square miles; population, 820,000) and The Congo, formerly Belgian Congo (area: 904,000 square miles, about as big as Texas, Alaska and New York State together; population, 14 million).

Inflation Hits Cost of '65 Inauguration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's inauguration today is expected to cost about $2 million almost $500,000 more than the 1961 installation of the late John F. Kennedy.

This is a 30 per cent increase in the cost of installing a president in the four years from the New Frontier to the Great Society.

Inaugural Chairman Dale Miller attributed the increase to the higher cost of parade reviewing stands and "many other things."

All except $500,000 of the inaugural costs were to be paid out of private funds. Congress authorized this sum to build the temporary stands on the capitol steps for the actual swearing-in ceremonies.

The remaining $1,600,000 has been underwritten by local business firms and large national corporations which are permitted by law to make inaugural contributions, although forbidden to donate "political" gifts.

36th President Is Inaugurated

rich in harvest, children must not go hungry.

HEALING MIRACLES

"In a land of healing miracles, neighbors must not suffer and die untended. In a land of learning, young people must be taught to read and write. . ."

On this sharp cold, but not unbearable day, Hubert Horatio Humphrey, the Johnson companion in last November's enormous election sweep, was the first to take the oath.

Humphrey raised his hand swore that "So help me God" he would faithfully discharge the duties of vice president.

★ ★ ★

The oath was administered by House Speaker John W. McCormack. Humphrey laid grave stress on the words "So help me God."

HANDCLASP, KISS

Then he shook hands with the President, and kissed Mrs. Humphrey.

Then came the President's turn. And here came a heart-tugging change in the schedule. An official of the congressional committee on the inauguration had been scheduled to hold the Bible.

But the person who did hold it was Lady Bird Johnson, clad in gorgeous American beauty red. She looked very proud; tears glistened in her eyes.

★ ★ ★

As her husband, mandated now in his own right to lead the nation, delivered his address, the First Lady sat listening intently, her hands folded in her lap.

TRADITIONAL TIME

The schedule had called for the President to raise his hand in the age-old oath-taking ceremony at exactly the stroke of noon, but it turned out that the time was 12:03.

Just before Johnson took the oath, the Marine band played "Hail to the Chief" while a 21-gun salute boomed out over the Capitol grounds.

Johnson and his party had traveled to the capitol in a string of limousines.

★ ★ ★

The President rode in the armored, bubble-topped limousine, especially reinforced to prevent any repetition of the tragedy of Nov. 22, 1963.

CLOSE SECURITY

The security in this crowded capital was the most elaborate in American history. Secret Service agents, their eyes roving right and left, rode the back bumpers of the presidential car.

Great throngs gathered for the inaugural ceremony outside the east portico of the Capitol and along Pennsylvania Avenue, the route of the grand, postinauguration parade.

Early in the morning, spectators began gathering on the sidewalks, many carrying blankets and bringing their own camp stools.

★ ★ ★

Parade horses by the hundreds were tethered on the Capitol grounds. Emergency ambulances took up their stations. Many in the crowds wore Texas-style hats.

MINDS TURNED

Amid all the solemnity and the gayety, many minds turned to that raw, cold day four years ago when John F. Kennedy was inaugurated—only to have his magistracy cut short by an assassin's bullets.

Walnut Lake Pollution to Delay School Plans

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Development of a swimming area at the Walnut Lake school site may be postponed again this year.

Last year the holdup was a legal protest by neighboring property owners to the proposed site of a beach where school district children could be taught swimming and boating skills.

The Bloomfield Hills Board of Education eventually was granted permission by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem to develop the property for use by the Recreation Department.

This year the problem is one of pollution.

★ ★ ★

The county health department has tested water from the West Bloomfield Township lake and returned an adverse report to the school board.

CONTAMINATION SOURCE

Sanitation experts found a four-inch storm drain running through the school property to be the source of contamination.

"We expect the problem to be cleared in the near future either by the parties responsible or by the school board, which has a responsibility in the matter," Schools Supt. Eugene Johnson said.

Legal aspects also are being investigated to settle the matter as soon as possible.

★ ★ ★

"However, we may not be able to develop the lake front this summer," Johnson noted. He said the Recreation Commission also would discuss the problem next week.

SPECIAL STUDY

The school board last night approved a special curriculum study project for district teachers.

The study was proposed by Mrs. Mary White, high school counselor, and Ted Cavin, junior high school counselor.

It will provide in-service training in a tailor-made course for the district's curriculum needs. The class is being shaped by Wayne State University staff members.

★ ★ ★

Teachers will be able to take the course for college credit or as part of the district's curriculum study program, in which case their tuition would be paid by the board.

OTHER ACTION

In other action, the board approved tentative plans for construction of a large activities room and renovation at Vaughan Elementary School, expected to cost $118,000, and construction of a smaller activities room and some remodeling at Wing Lake Elementary School, carrying an estimated cost of $43,000.

Three Named to Tax Board

Three new appointments were made last night to the city's Board of Tax Review.

The City Commission named Maxwell H. Doerr, 174 Ottawa, Gordon Rice, 235 Nelson, and Howard F. Simmons, 135 E. Iroquois, to the tax board.

The new members will replace Charles J. Nasstrom, 208 E. Iroquois, Rudolph J. Nosek, 565 E. Pike, and John Q. Waddell, 90 Cherokee.

Doerr and Rice served previously on the board in 1962.

★ ★ ★

The Board of Tax Review is made up of three citizens, the city finance director and the city attorney.

SETS VALUATION

The board sets the city's total assessed valuation annually about April 1. It will begin hearing appeals on local assessed valuations in late February or early March.

School Board to Air Change in Boundary

Proposal to change the present boundary line between the Waterford and West Bloomfield school districts will be considered tomorrow night by the Waterford Township Board of Education.

The proposed straightening of the present jagged boundary would result in Waterford losing about 20 families to the West Bloomfield district and an area of approximately a quarter of a square mile.

Final action on the boundary change must be taken by the Oakland County Board of Education following public hearings.

In other business the school board will hear a report on the Initial Teaching Alphabet program on trial in four first-grade classrooms.

Dr. Marshall Jameson, elementary school coordinator, and the teachers working with the program will present the report.

REVIEW SAMPLES

Board members also will review samples of applications for federal funds under the Open Space Land Grant program.

The board voted two weeks ago to seek federal funds in the the purchase of additional school property.

Also slated for board attention are recommendations from the superintendent of schools regarding staff appointments and a resignation.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Area automobile owners will be able to purchase 1965 license plates at the Tel-Maple Shopping Center starting Feb. 1.

A subbranch of the Secretary of State's office will be established there in the S. S. Kresge Co. store. The licensing service will be available during regular store hours Feb. 1 through Feb. 28, the last day of the sale.

Mrs. Robert A. Fargher, 1697 Wabeek, has accepted the Bloomfield Township chairmanship for the 1965 March of Dimes campaign.

She is the wife of Dr. Robert A. Fargher, divisional medical director for the General Motors Truck and Coach Division.

BIRMINGHAM — The 1917 seven - passenger Locomobile owned by Dale O. Miller of 444 Waddington has been awarded the Stein Trophy in Boston.

'Hubert's Band' to Go Big-Time in Parade

WASHINGTON (AP) — On this great inaugural occasion Lyndon B. Johnson is reported to be calm, Hubert H. Humphrey eager and the Doland, S.D., High School band extremely nervous.

It's easy to see why.

★ ★ ★

Johnson and Humphrey have dreamed and slaved for this moment until even the presidency and vice presidency can be taken in stride. But only a few months ago who in Doland — pop. 481 — could have guessed that today its band would march up Pennsylvania Avenue with some of the nation's finest musicians?

Doland got here for only one reason. Doland is Hubert Humphrey's old home town. Doland is proud of Hubert and Hubert is proud of Doland.

153 STUDENTS

Doland High School has 153 students, 61 of whom play in the band. This reporter, after spending Tuesday afternoon with its leader, Gus Anderson, and some of its members can testify that you never saw a more excited, spirited and queasy group.

Most bands march during the football season, but not Doland's, for two splendid reasons. Anderson is the football coach, too, and some of his bandsmen are also athletes.

★ ★ ★

"My first trombone, Larry Twiss, made all-state fullback," Anderson said, puffing contentedly on his cigar. "On the next to the last play of the season he hit a guy so hard he split his helmet right down the middle.

★ ★ ★

"My star trumpet player, Kenneth Reuschenberg, is a great halfback. You should hear him play 'Carnival of Venice'."

How much time could Reuschenberg devote to music?

"I get right at it as soon as I get in from basketball practice," Reuschenberg said. "I try to get in four and half hours a day. Ever since I was small I've wanted to be a professional trumpet player."

★ ★ ★

Every time Humphrey campaigned in South Dakota last fall the Doland band was there to play for him. "My very own band," Humphrey cried. When he won, so did Doland.

It cost $8,000 — or $16 from every man, woman and child in town — to send the band here. Neighboring communities kicked in handsomely, and the whole amount was raised in 10 days.

CHEERING SQUAD

Forty-eight other Dolanders came along, six as chaperones, the rest as a cheering squad. The shortage in Doland is so acute school is being canceled for the rest of the week.

Naturally Doland wants to look spruce so there are new uniforms for Anderson and Nancy Hahn, the head drum major. At 6 feet, 1 inch she is a real standout.

★ ★ ★

"I'm glad she's tall, so the band can see her," Anderson said.

Riding back from the Lincoln Memorial, the drummer girl, Jane Loveless, explained why so many students were hoarse.

★ ★ ★

"We had three basketball games last week," she said. "We haven't a big student body, but we're pretty loud for the kids we have."

"They're nervous," Anderson said, "but I could turn them loose on their own, and they'd do just fine."

New Assessor Named in Troy

A second Rochester official has accepted a new job in the neighboring City of Troy.

Ernest C. Reschke has been appointed assessor by the City Commission, after serving five years as assessor and two as urban renewal director for the Village of Rochester.

His appointment was recommended to the commission by City Manager Paul York, who himself left his job as Rochester city manager to go to Troy about six months ago.

Reschke, who will start work in Troy on Feb. 1, replaces Aldon J. Dowd, who resigned in December after eight months as city assessor.

The 28-year-old landscape architect is a graduate of Michigan State University and a member of the Oakland County and Michigan assessor's associations.

Undercurrent of Irritation

Minor Squalls Face LBJ Bills

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson begins his first elective term today with minor congressional squalls reflecting the deep iceberg of controversy threatening some of his legislative proposals.

★ ★ ★

Although calm seas prevailed for inaugural day itself, there was an undertow of irritation among some Democrats and Republicans at the President's economy actions and a freshening wind of opposition by Republicans to his spending proposals.

★ ★ ★

A call by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana for a speedup on the President's Great Society program was met with a demand from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois for "adequate time" for a thorough study of individual bills.

★ ★ ★

"Diligence is a good thing," Dirksen said in an interview. "But there must be adequate time for a thorough examination of each bill as it comes along. In the interest of sound legislation we must give careful consideration to each measure."

NO INTENTION

Dirksen said Republicans have no intention of engaging in tactics of obstruction by trying to stall action on administration bills. But he said they will resist to their limited ability any spending proposals they believe unnecessary.

Mansfield said he hopes the $1.07-billion Appalachia area aid bill and a measure to curb pollution of the nation's rivers and streams — both part of the Great Society program — will be ready for Senate action next week.

★ ★ ★

A companion Appalachian aid measure and a bill to provide health care for the elderly through Social Security taxes are on Speaker John McCormack's priority list for House action.

Irritation with the direction Johnson has taken in effecting budget economies in some fields in order to finance expansion in others took the form of a holding action Tuesday on the President's appointment of W. J. Driver as veterans' administrator.

BLOCKS ACTION

Sen. Winston L. Prouty of Vermont blocked Driver's expected confirmation. He said he hopes to keep it tied up until a Senate subcommittee holds hearings on the President's order closing 11 veterans' hospitals.

Mansfield, who led a previous protest by senators against the economy move, said he doesn't believe Driver should be held responsible for the decisions.

★ ★ ★

This and a forthcoming inquiry into Johnson's cuts in the defense budget represented minor flurries compared with the major controversy the President may face later on some legislative proposals.

His call for a change in the immigration law, his suggestion for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act provision permitting states to enact so-called right-to-work laws and his proposal to extend minimum wage coverage appear headed for trouble.

Johnson's ability to get things done in Congress will be tested in three fields in which President John F. Kennedy tried and failed — the enactment of federal standards of unemployment compensation, creation of a department of housing and urban development, and transportation proposals to free railroads from many present regulations.

★ ★ ★

On the other hand, Johnson's prospects for getting action on health care, an expanded education aid program and a cut in excise taxes appear bright. He also seems likely to get through Congress a big new health center program and an increased authorization for what he calls his war on poverty.

Troy Man Gets 63rd District Post

James F. Carey of Troy has been named legislative director for the 63rd District, Republican County Chairman Dale A. Feet announced today.

As legislative district director, Carey will be responsible for guiding the Republican Party activities in the district.

★ ★ ★

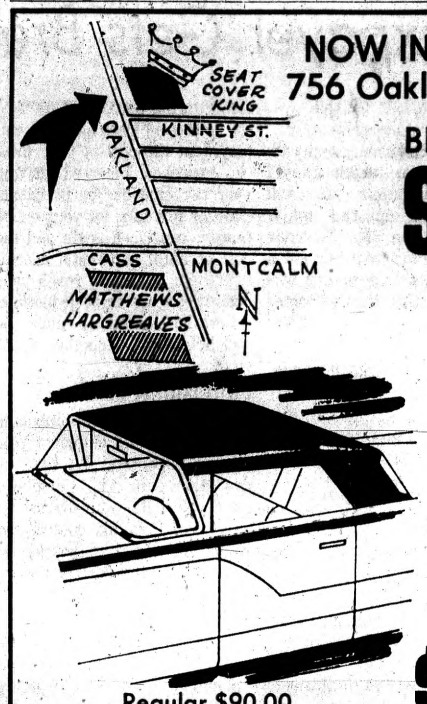

Carey, of 2691 Binbrooke, was the Republican candidate for state representative in the 63rd District in the Nov. 3 election, and recently served as an elected member of the Troy City Commission.

SEARCH FOR CLUES — Parts of a parachute and its nylon cords were found wrapped around parts of the engine of an Air Force tanker plane that crashed Saturday at Wichita, Kan., killing seven crewmen and 23 persons on the ground. The engine and other parts of the plane are being studied to determine the cause of the crash. Probers feel the parachute did not contribute to the accident.

'Don't Feel Cord Caused Crash'

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Brig. Gen. Murray A. Bywater says it is too early to tell whether a nylon cord found in a jet engine from a KC135 tanker plane contributed to the crash last Saturday which killed 30 people, destroyed 11 houses and damaged 25 to 30 others in a Wichita residential area.

Bywater, head of the investigating team, said Tuesday it was too early to draw a conclusion on how the cord got there. "At the moment," he said, "we don't feel it contributed to the crash."

The jet engines were sent to Tinker Air Force Base at Oklahoma City for examination.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman at Tinker said the engine apparently picked up parts of a parachute after the plane crashed. He said parts of the chute and its nylon harness were "so located that it is evident it did not contribute to the accident."

Cut Your Own Taxes—11

Taxpayer Gets Break on Moving Costs, Loses on Casualties

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Internal Revenue giveth; Internal Revenue taketh away."

This somewhat irreverent parody sums up two major changes in the 1964 Revenue Act. In one the taxpayer got a break and a new deduction was created. In the other a former deduction has been partially eliminated.

Of course, Internal Revenue is merely the whipping boy. Congress makes all the tax law changes and then turns over the job of collection and enforcement to IRS.

The "good" change was on moving expenses.

Heretofore viewed as a personal expense item and never deductible, expenses of moving your household belongings from one city to another when employment is changed or where an employer orders the transfer are now fully deductible.

The "take away" change concerns casualty and theft deductions. They are now tightened up with the result many such deductions will disappear on 1964 tax returns.

First the good news. A deduction is now allowed for the expense of moving household goods and personal effects, for the transportation expenses of the taxpayer and his family and reasonable expenses for meals and lodging while in transit.

This means that if you were forced to move from New York to California because of a transfer or a complete change in employment the cost of your mover, expenses incurred driving your personal car or for plane, train or bus fare for your entire family, meals en route and the cost of hotel and motel accommodations until you reach your destination are fully deductible.

Certain conditions must be met before the deduction is taken.

UNREIMBURSED

These must be unreimbursed expenses. If the employer paid all the expenses, you have no deduction. If the employer gave you a flat sum toward the expenses, then his contribution would be added to your gross income and the cost of moving plus all the "fringes" would be fully deductible.

The deduction is allowed only if the new place of employment is at least 20 miles farther from the former residence than was his former place of work.

Furthermore, in the first year following the move the taxpayer must be a full-time employe in the general location of the new work area for at least three-fourths of the time.

If you were reimbursed by your employer for the move this qualification does not apply.

BEST PART

The best part of all is that this is a Page 1 deduction on the tax form. This means that after the deduction is taken the optional standard deduction or the new minimum standard deduction can still be taken.

The Page 1 part of the return would then look like this:

Salary from Ajax Corp. $13,450.00
Less Moving Expenses (See Statement) 2,070.00
Adjusted Gross Income $11,380.000

In his separate statement attached to his return the taxpayer would explain the move and then recite his expenses in this fashion:

Fee to Ace Cartage Co. $1,620.00
Auto Expense 205.00
Motel (6 persons, 4 nights) 120.00
Meals 125.00

With his adjusted gross income down to $$11,380, the taxpayer could continue on Page 2 either to itemize his deductions or take either of the optional methods which would allow him a maximum of $1,000, in lieu of deductions.

NEW FEATURE

A new $100 deductible feature has been introduced in casualty and theft deduction. Formerly all such losses were fully deductible if the taxpayer was not reimbursed through insurance.

Beginning with your 1964 return the deduction from these sources is limited to the excess beyond $100. In brief, the first $100 of the loss is on you.

This floor must be applied to each loss or each accident. You may not total up all your losses for the year and then subtract the $100.

In the case of auto accidents—a big source of such casualty deductions in the past—a $100 deductible feature generally protected the motorist against all losses beyond $100. And now Congress has closed the door against charging off the first $100 on your tax return.

Quartets Sing to Aid Charity

Holiday of Harmony Is Saturday at PNH

"We sing . . . that they shall speak."

This will be the underlying theme Saturday night when the Pontiac Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing, Inc., stages its 22nd annual Holiday of Harmony at Pontiac Northern High School.

The theme specifically applies to the Institute of Logopedics at Wichita University, Kan.

SPEBSQSA voted last summer to make the institute its special project.

★ ★ ★

There are nearly 30,000 barber shop singers in the international organization. Four quartets and a chorus will participate in the show at 8:15 p.m. Saturday.

DETROIT FOURSOME

One of the foursomes is the Trebleshooters from Detroit — the Michigan District champions. The lead singer for the group is Robert Winters, 2350 Old Salem, Pontiac Township.

An American history teacher at Ferndale High School, the 28-year-old Winters has been singing for three years in the barber shop quartet society.

The Institute of Logopedics works to correct speech deficiencies, and the physical limitations connected with them.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac SPEBSQSA chapter is considering the possibility of sponsoring a patient from the area to the institute in the future, should the response be encouraging Saturday.

OTHER QUARTETS

Among the quartets appearing in addition to the Trebleshooters and the local Revelaires chorus are the Rhythm Counts from Toronto, Can.; the Roadrunners from Gary, Ind.; and the Foremasters, a novelty foursome from Muskegon.

For Indonesia Air Attacks

Malaysia Defense Set

LABAUN, Malaysia (AP) — "If Indonesian aircraft cross the border and we are near them, we will shoot them down," said the commander of the biggest air base in eastern Malaysia.

"It is no secret what we will do," went on Wing Cmdr. Arthur Harper of Britain's Royal Air Force, who has been in northeast Borneo for six months.

★ ★ ★

He pointed to Firestreak missiles, fitted with a homing device and slung beneath the wings of his Javelin fighters that do better than 500 miles an hour.

"My boys know their instructions and will not hesitate," said Harper. "Nobody has yet fired one of these weapons in anger anywhere and we could be the first.

BOMB BAYS OPEN

"Once the Indonesians flew over this strip with bomb bays open. They will never do it again."

★ ★ ★

Largely as a result of that incursion, all of Malaysian Borneo and the protectorate of Brunei were declared an air identification zone last February. Any plane that flies over without permission is liable to be shot down.

Since the February declaration, Indonesian planes have come across the border a few times but only for a mile or two.

"They quickly got back again before we could engage them," said Harper.

WON'T FOLLOW

The RAF at this stage has orders not to follow them across the border.

Labuan Island, which has a good port, is just off the coast about midway between the eastern and western tips of Malaysian Borneo. It is 30 square miles in area and has 13,000 people — Malays, Chinese, Indians and Dayaks.

They all call themselves Malaysians.

Labuan has a fine concrete airstrip and the RAF here has a score of different planes, ranging from tiny Pioneers that can land on jungle airstrips to giant Beverley transports that can parachute bulldozers, guns, gasoline, and food into jungle outposts.

LESS VULNERABLE

Because it is 100 miles from the Indonesian border, Labuan is less vulnerable to surprise attack than the other big strip at Kuching, in Sarawak.

★ ★ ★

From Labuan, the British could parachute supplies to forces anywhere in the territory.

Australia has set up a rice experimental station in Humpty Doo, about 40 miles from Darwin in the Northern Territory of the country.

GOP Post for Area Man

Rep. Raymond L. Baker of Oakland County's 64th District has been appointed to represent his 37 GOP colleagues in the House on the Republican State Central Committee.

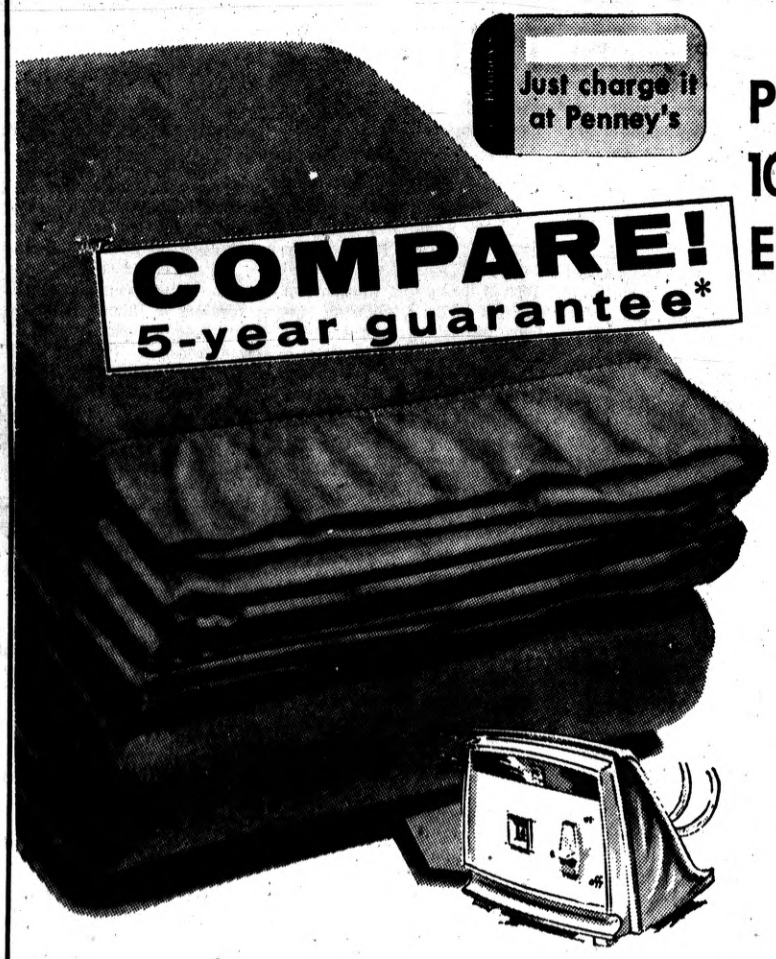

His appointment is one of a series of moves designed to develop a closer relationship between Republican organizational personnel and elected GOP officials.

Baker, of Farmington, is now serving his third term. He was appointed last week to the Insurance, Judiciary, Liquor Control and Metropolitan Affairs committees of the House.

With at least 6,640 miles, Alaska has the longest seacoast of any state in the Union.

Party Unity Enhanced by GOP Chairman Shift

Bowing to private and public sentiment of the majority of Republican party leaders, national chairman DEAN BURCH will relinquish his post April 1.

The functions of the office are more administrative than policy making, and hence little responsibility for the overwhelming rejection of the GOP conservative philosophy at last November's election can be laid at his door.

Nevertheless, the new, more moderate faction of the party now in the ascendancy considers BURCH to be tarred with the brush of GOLDWATER'S defeat and a negative factor in the creation of a more acceptable public image.

★ ★ ★

Burch, a Tucson attorney and Arizona friend of Barry Goldwater, has held the national chairmanship since his predecessor, New York Congressman William E. Miller, was tapped by the Republican presidential nominee to be his running mate at the party convention in San Francisco last July.

The rising tide of intra-party conviction that rebirth of the GOP called for removal of all vestiges of its crushing defeat was at first resisted by both the chairman and his sponsor, GOLDWATER.

But the threat of a showdown over the issue at a meeting of the National Committee in Chicago on Jan. 22, the effect of which could have been to divide deeper the already split party, led to BURCH'S decision to step down. It was made with concurrence of GOLDWATER and other top-ranking party figures.

★ ★ ★

Stepping into the top GOP organization spot will be Ohio's chairman Ray Bliss, a political pro long identified as the guiding spirit of the Buckeye state's Republican strength.

We believe that a new hand at the GOP helm is in the best interest of the party, a hand that will steer a steady course in revitalizing it and restoring the strong two-party political system that is the essence of American democracy.

Report Censures TV in Delinquency Probe

A three-year Senate Subcommittee investigation on juvenile delinquency with emphasis on the part played by depiction of violence and crime on TV programs disclosed some startling facts.

The 74-page report carries a scathing indictment of the television industry in programming such antisocial themes during prime viewing hours, when children form a substantial part of the audience.

It was found that in 1954, shows featuring lawlessness during the 7-10 p. m. period accounted for 16 per cent of all programming. By 1961, the rate had risen to 50 per cent.

As a result of public hearings at that time, all three major networks agreed to adhere more closely to the TV Code of Good Practices administered by the National Association of Broadcasters.

But by 1964, only one of the three networks had made an observable attempt to improve its proportion of blood-and-thunder shows by dropping the proportion of them to 26.5 per cent during the prime-time period. The ratio of the other two networks had risen to 55 per cent.

Internal correspondence subpoenaed by the subcommittee showed that this was not due to oversight. Evidence pointed to a deliberate policy by top network officials to stress violence and sadism in TV programs.

The report indicates an awareness that legislative scrutiny of a mass medium treads on highly sensitive ground, since freedom of speech is basic to American democracy. It expresses a deep desire to find solutions which will "simultaneously safeguard our children and our constitutional liberties."

But it insisted that Congress has the right and the responsibility to protect the public in the use of the air waves "over channels which belong to the people."

We agree.

EVEN if the truth-in-packaging bill is passed, ways will be found to make it necessary for the buyer to continue to heed the advice, "Caveat emptor!"

English Honed Churchill's Mind

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Sir Winston Churchill was doused in the English language because his teachers thought he was stupid, and English was all he was fit for. It turned out to be a good fit.

MARLOW

It was his eloquence, just as much as his leadership, which made him in just five years one of the shining figures of history. All this had its roots in his school days.

He wasn't dumb. He said years later: "Where my reason or my imagination or interest were not engaged, I would not or could not learn. I should have liked to be asked what I knew. They always tried to ask what I did not know."

Not long ago, the British scientist, C. P. Snow, said Churchill must have had an IQ as high as anyone could wish. But his teachers thought he was one of the slow ones.

They let the bright boys cut their teeth on Latin and Greek but they put the slow ones in the lowest grades and drilled them in English. And this Churchill loved.

★ ★ ★

Looking back at 51, he wrote: "Even as a schoolboy I questioned the aptness of the classics for the prime structure of our education. So they told me how Mr. Gladstone (prime minister when Churchill was growing up) read Homer for fun, which I thought served him right."

COULDN'T GET INTO COLLEGE

His grades weren't good enough to get him into college. He went into the army. But at 22 he felt he was a social, political and historical boob. He decided to educate himself.

He read eight volumes of Edward Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," then Thomas Babington Macaulay's "History of England," and went on from there.

Churchill, consciously or not, patterned himself after Gibbon, as he showed in what he wrote later, and it was a lot: 30 books, including a history of England and histories of the two world wars.

★ ★ ★

With Churchill, as with Gibbon, nouns and adjectives hand in hand, tripped down the pages like a bridal pair in splendid ceremony.

HAD SOMETHING ELSE

But all of Churchill's reading and memorizing would not have been enough to make him remembered as a writer without something else.

He had an artist's glistening sense of life and a romantic's sense of drama, plus a special ear for the language. He could make a phrase look as happy as a puppy with a porkchop.

Some times his sentences sound as wistful as the wheels of a wagontrain or as robust as a platoon with drums in a shuttered street at three in the morning.

★ ★ ★

His teachers, who thought they had scrutinized his mind, forgot to examine his ears.

An Oath And A Prayer

David Lawrence Says:

All Inaugurals Seem Different

WASHINGTON — Fourteen inaugurals have been witnessed by this correspondent, and no two of them have seemed alike.

LAWRENCE

This week's celebration of the Democratic victory at the polls last November has certainly brought a different atmosphere than has prevailed in the past for that party. For there is an air of affluence about it which is far more reminiscent of Republican than of Democratic inaugurations.

Never before has so much money been spent on the festivities, which now have become a big social event with plenty of entertainment furnished by professionals from Broadway and Hollywood.

When this writer came to Washington in 1910, the story of the inauguration of President Taft in March 1909 was still a topic of conversation. For on that day there was a snow storm so severe that all telegraphic and telephone communications were disrupted for several hours.

★ ★ ★

Some of the same issues which divide the Republican party today were present when Woodrow Wilson, Democrat, was inaugurated on March 4, 1913. He had won in a landslide of electoral votes, although he had gotten only a minority of the popular vote.

MIDST OF WAR

The next inauguration, on March 4, 1917, was in the midst of the First World War.

The inauguration of Warren Harding, on March 4, 1921, had a note of tragedy in it. For Woodrow Wilson, broken in health and unable to walk to the inaugural stand, gave his greetings to the president-elect in the Vice Presidential Room in the Capitol Building.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated, on March 4, 1933, the inaugural day was far different from any that had preceded it or any since. For all the banks throughout the country were ordered closed and the nation was in the midst of a deep depression. Rumors were current about a possible devaluation of the gold content of the dollar, and the whole country was uneasy.

★ ★ ★

President Roosevelt's inauguration for a fourth term, on Jan. 20, 1945 — in the midst of war — was hardly a day of jubilation. American boys were being killed in large numbers overseas. It was one of the saddest of inaugurations.

The inauguration of President Truman on Jan. 20, 1949, was a return to "normalcy," so to speak, for the war had ended and the United States was emerging from a recession that began in 1947.

The inaugurations of Gen. Eisenhower in 1953 and again in 1957 marked an era in which the dangers of war had increased. Russia exploded an H-bomb in 1953. The world situation changed into one of deeper anxiety than ever before.

When John F. Kennedy — the youngest man elected to the presidency — was inaugurated on Jan. 20, 1961, there wasn't a thought in anybody's mind that he wouldn't live out his term. But an assassin's bullet changed the course of history.

Inaugurations come and go. Each one has its own characteristics, and the personality of the man inducted into office is always different from that of his predecessors.

Today, there is uncertainty in the world, and small wars continue in Viet Nam and Africa.

But, as usual, the inauguration spells out the hopes of the nation and its historic appreciation of the custom whereby, in contrast to the totalitarian systems abroad, a free country chooses by secret ballot its own president and by appropriate ceremony he takes office for a four-year term as chief executive.

De Gaulle Seen Priming for Drastic NATO Change

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI)—Signs are multiplying that President Charles de Gaulle of France has set his sights on drastic changes in the Atlantic alliance by 1969.

These changes could include pulling France out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

They certainly would involve top-to-bottom revamping of NATO itself.

One main De Gaulle objective is to strip NATO of its "integrated" and "supranational" aspects that he finds so objectionable.

★ ★ ★

Another would be to ease the United States out of the NATO driver's seat—something that is increasingly irksome to the nationalistically minded old French leader.

Why 1969?

20 YEARS OLD

On April 4, 1969, the North Atlantic Treaty will be 20 years old and Article 13 provides that from then onwards any member state can quit on one year's notice.

Whether de Gaulle actually would walk out of NATO is not yet certain.

He might, for instance, use the threat as leverage to obtain the drastic revision of the treaty he deems essential.

★ ★ ★

But rebuilding of NATO in line with his own ideas is clearly very much in his mind these days.

HINTS AT IT

He has hinted at it in several of his recent semiannual news conferences.

Asked point-blank by newsmen at a New Year's reception the other day whether he planned a NATO walkout, he replied, "I think the present form of the Atlantic organization is not destined to last indefinitely. No one thinks it should."

After asserting that NATO must be changed, de Gaulle added, "but the Atlantic Alliance is another matter. The alliance exists and should last."

★ ★ ★

One reason is that de Gaulle wants to keep France and Europe protected by the immense American nuclear deterrent umbrella, even after NATO is revamped and even after his own fledgling French nuclear force becomes more of a reality than today.

'Is Democratic Election a Fair Method?'

In adopting their policy on teacher-board relations, the Pontiac Board of Education apparently believes that a democratic election is not a fair method to be considered in deciding what group shall represent the teachers of Pontiac. Apparently they believe that submitting membership lists is in the democratic tradition .

To institute a new policy in the middle of a school year without an election seems extremely unfair to all. No political question is decided by membership lists. It was heartening to see one board member, Mr. Russell L. Brown, support the use of democratic principles. The Pontiac Board of Education wants its teachers to teach democracy — why doesn't the board practice it?

No Survivors?

Chicago Sun-Times

The obituary notices said that there were no survivors left by Miss Helen Harris who died at age 89. It is true members of her own family preceded her in death, but when memorial services were held at Kenilworth Union Church, those present included some of the hundreds of her "children" whom she greatly influenced during her 40 years as a schoolteacher.

Helen Harris was the kind of teacher students never forget; the teacher we believe every teacher wants to be. National attention was called to her influence two years ago when Herbert Block, the Pulitzer prize winning cartoonist, whose work appeared in the Sun-Times, named her as the teacher who influenced him the most.

★ ★ ★

The occasion was Block's being awarded the 1963 Golden Key Award from the American Association of School Administrators. Block was a student in Miss Harris' journalism class in Senn High School in the '20s.

As we said at the time, everyone must have in his own memory, grateful and warm sentiments for a favorite teacher who may have opened doors or turned on lights for him that shaped his destiny.

★ ★ ★

Because they were her only family, Miss Harris kept in lifelong touch with her students, often a source of encouragement and counsel. The final tribute paid Miss Harris could well be voiced every day for some teacher somewhere.

Speaking of the President, he sent to Congress an elaborate and hugely expensive ($1.66 billion in the first year) program for federal aid to education.

The details can be found in the news columns.

★ ★ ★

Various professional anti-Catholics are almost certain to try to wreck the President's proposal for indirect aid to private primary and high schools. But Mr. Johnson seems more than likely to get most if not all of what he wants from Congress under this head.

And it seems beyond dispute that he is right in calling ignorance the "taproot" of wicked old many-rooted poverty, which he seeks to abolish.

★ ★ ★

We hope, mainly, that state governments and local school boards will insist on a complete absence of federal strings on this federal aid to education—and will yell their heads off when the first federal bureaucrat tries to get his hooks into local administration of the aid in any way.

Fights for Political Life

Color Problem Is Clinging to Laborite

LONDON (AP) — Like a label that won't wear off, the color problem clings to Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker as he fights to get into Parliament.

Through two campaigns, he has been haunted by a provocative jingle —"If you want a nigger neighbor, vote Labor."

★ ★ ★

The theme comes up now as Gordon Walker campaigns for the House of Commons seat for the grimy London suburb of Leyton. Voting is Sunday.

British political tradition requires that Gordon Walker must get into Parliament if he is to continue as foreign secretary.

PATRICK GORDON WALKER

NONWHITES

In last October's national election Gordon Walker was defeated in the parliamentary district of Smethwick — an English midlands locality heavily settled by nonwhite immigrants from the Commonwealth.

It was at Smethwick that the "nigger neighbor" slogan first cropped up.

★ ★ ★

A flood of leaflets bearing this slogan appeared in that district. Gordon Walker's Conservative opponent, Peter Griffiths, denied any hand in them.

Laborites agreed that members of a tiny Fascist group actually sponsored the leaflets. But they accused Griffiths of playing heavily on white prejudice — a charge Griffiths denied.

★ ★ ★

In the voting, Gordon Walker lost what had previously been a Labor party district, largely because of the racial issue, political sources agreed.

The Laborite leadership sent up a loud cry of "foul." They forecast that the word Smethwick would become synonymous around the world with race prejudice.

'LEPER'

Harold Wilson, becoming prime minister as a result of the election, referred to Griffiths as a "parliamentary leper."

Despite Gordon Walker's defeat, Wilson went ahead with his original intention to make him foreign secretary.

★ ★ ★

This meant a House of Commons place had to be found and the chance came when Reginald Sorensen, 72, a member for Leyton, accepted elevation to the House of Lords.

Sorensen held Leyton for the Labor party in the national election by a comfortable margin of 7,926 votes. The district has some Negro immigrants.

DULY NOMINATED

Gordon Walker was duly nominated as the Labor party candidate. The situation held every promise of a humdrum campaign.

But the speech making had hardly started when the race issue exploded once more in Gordon Walker's face.

★ ★ ★

Addressing a routine news conference Jan. 4, Gordon Walker was startled by a bellow of "How would you like a punch on the nose?"

It came from Colin Jordan, leader of the tiny British Nazi party.

"You are a disgusting racialist traitor," Jordan bellowed at Gordon Walker before being hustled out of the room.

Outside, Jordan admitted he was circulating "nigger neighbor" leaflets on the same lines as the Smethwick ones.

Three days later, Jordan and a group of his men turned up at an election meeting held by Gordon Walker in the Leyton town hall. They turned it into a riot.

The violence was condemned by both Gordon Walker's principal opponents, Conservative Ronald Buxton, an engineer and an old Etonian, and Alastair MacKay, a baker who is running for the Liberal party.

Gordon Walker dismissed the rioters as Nazi troublemakers brought in from outside the district. Doggedly, he continued to insist the race problems had no place in the campaign.

Of the other candidates who did actually enter, one is an independent, George Delf, who declared himself in favor of total disarmament.

★ ★ ★

The remaining contender is Jeramiah Lynch, who styles himself a representative of the United Kingdom and Dominion party and demands a referendum on colored immigration.

Why does the color issue cling to Gordon Walker?

RESENTMENT

One theory is that extremists still nurse resentment over the strong speech Gordon Walker made in the House of Commons supporting colored immigration at the time of the Conservative government's curbs on immigration in 1962.

Though it opposed the curbs at the time, the Labor party has since modified its view.

★ ★ ★

Political forecasters believe there is little chance Gordon Walker will suffer another defeat when Leyton votes Sunday, but a significant drop in his winning margin could be damaging both to the party and to his own political reputation.

Fear Plunge Into Bay Is Fatal to Pair

ESCANABA (AP)—Two commercial fishermen apparently lost their lives Tuesday when their cut-down truck plunged through ice on frigid Green Bay.

A third fisherman escaped a similar fate because his two friends failed to pick him up earlier for the trip out on the ice.

★ ★ ★

State Police of the Gladstone post said Robert Nicholson, 49, of Escanaba confirmed his safety through the Delta County sheriff's office, after word of the tragedy had been broadcast.

Those believed dead were Irving Dahm, about 48, and Edward Boyle, about 57, both of Escanaba.

'DIDN'T STOP'

"I was to have gone with Dahm and Boyle but I didn't because they didn't stop to pick me up," Nicholson told sheriff's men.

State police said the two fishermen presumably did not know that ice had blown out of the bay overnight and that new ice was only one inch thick.

Ordinarily, the bay ice is from 15 to 20 inches thick. The weather here has been near zero.

★ ★ ★

The men's truck went down in 80 feet of water about three miles south of Escanaba.

Police said they found holes in the ice but not a trace of the fishermen. Divers were to start a search today.

Outlook in '65 for U. P. Is Dim

No Gain Predicted for Area's Economy

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan's general economic outlook for 1965 is excellent but the Upper Peninsula is likely to have continued troubles, a Michigan State University business specialist says.

Leo Erickson, director of MSU's Bureau of Business and Economic Research, discussed the 1965 outlook in the "Michigan Economic Record," a bureau publication.

★ ★ ★

"The U. P. can be expected to show gains in such areas as tourism, shipping and iron ore production," Erickson says.

"However," he adds, "such gains will not be sufficient to do more than make a dent in the U. P.'s relatively unfavorable economic position, as reflected in its unemployment rate in excess of nine per cent."

YEAR TO REPEAT

In the state's agricultural sector, he says, the best that can be expected is a repeat of the past few years, in which total net income remained virtually constant.

Consumer spending may drop when it comes time for Michigan residents to pay their 1964 income tax bills, he adds, explaining:

★ ★ ★

"Apparently, despite repeated advance warnings, most people are going to find that on April 15 they will have a rude shock when they discover withholding payments have not been as high as they thought."

Key to the state's over-all economic success, Erickson says, is a production goal of close to 10 million vehicles by the auto industry.

No Fireworks Planned, Says Acting Governor

LANSING (AP) — The "administration" of William G. Milliken started quietly Tuesday—and he says it will continue that way.

Milliken, Michigan's new lieutenant governor, is serving as acting governor for the first time while Gov. Romney is in Washington for inauguration festivities.

★ ★ ★

His stint in the chief executive's chair will be merely a holding action until Romney returns Thursday afternoon, he said, and there will be no report on his administration.

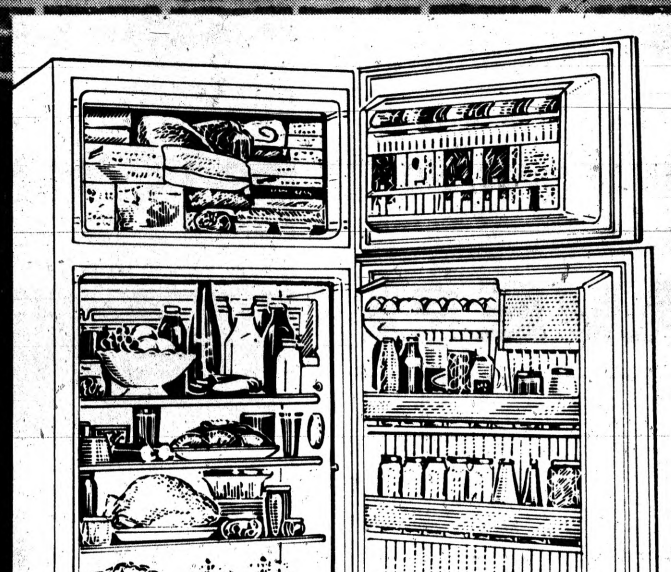

Former Democratic Lt. Gov. T John Lesinski got a lot of laughs last year when he issued a tongue-in-cheek report on the "accomplishments" of his 14-day administration during a Romney absence.

Snow and Rain Mix With Cold

SE Thawing Out From Low Temperatures

By The Associated Press

Snow, cold and rain covered most of the country today while the Southeast began a slow thaw from temperatures which chilled Florida tourists.

Strong winds and snow swept an area from upstate New York to Minnesota as a vigorous low pressure system passed north of the Great Lakes.

★ ★ ★

Squalls deposited up to 4 inches of snow in western New York State. Buffalo reported 1 inch of new snow late Tuesday.

The season's first cold snap for Florida apparently ended as temperatures ranged from 56 in Jacksonville to 68 in Miami.

NEVER THIS COLD

"It is never this cold in Miami," one newspaper said in an editorial.

Scattered showers pelted the Pacific Coast from central California northward. Heavy rains soaked the northern half of California and snow fell in the mountains.

★ ★ ★

Extreme cold in the Midwest thwarted the removal of snow and slush, frozen in the near-zero weather.

★ ★ ★

One community in southern Illinois dumped snow from the streets into a reservoir to alleviate a water shortage.

Two commercial fishermen apparently were killed Tuesday when their truck plunged through the ice on Green Bay in Escanaba, Mich.

New Mass May Still Song Group

CHICAGO (AP) — The switch in lyrics of Roman Catholic hymns from Latin to English apparently is sounding the end of the famed Paulist Choir.

Worshipers now sing at intervals during the Mass — a function that had been performed by priests and trained vocalists.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Eugene F. O'Malley, 63, said Tuesday in an interview he will retire after 37 years as director of the choir, a group of men and boys.

★ ★ ★

"The liturgical reform movement, with congregational singing and English instead of Latin, seems to have made us unnecessary," Father O'Malley said.

END OF AN ERA

"I doubt that the choir will continue. It's the end of an era."

Since its founding in 1904 at St. Mary's church — the city's oldest Roman Catholic congregation — the 85-voice choir has sung in most major cities of the United States, Canada and Europe.

★ ★ ★

Audiences have included Pope Pius X, Pope Pius XII, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the late President John F. Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

The main purpose of the choir, however, has been to sing the Latin hymns and responses during Mass at St. Mary's.

LAST MASS

Because of liturgical changes adopted by the Second Vatican Council, the last Mass to be sung in Latin at St. Mary's will be Feb. 28.

The choir, whose members range in age from 8 to 65, was founded by the Rev. William J. Finn shortly after the Paulist fathers took over St. Mary's.

★ ★ ★

The parish had become run-down and Father Finn was asked to organize a choir as a means of bringing worshipers back to church.

Father O'Malley began singing with the choir as a red-haired soprano at age 11. Five years later, he went to New York with Father Finn to organize a similar choir. After his ordination as a Paulist priest in 1928, Father O'Malley returned to St. Mary's as choir director.

★ ★ ★

Thousands of boys have learned to sing under Father O'Malley's guidance.

Hubert Humphrey Is Adjusting to Suit His New Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, the man who battled so hard for the presidential nomination four years ago, begins today his "new life and new experiences" as Lyndon B. Johnson's vice president.

For the bustling, staccato-talking Minnesotan, the new life may be a bit tight here and a bit loose there, like the new dinner jacket he hopes to wear at tonight's inaugural ball.

★ ★ ★

"I'm going to put on my new tuxedo, if they get it altered," he promised a throng of friends and well-wishers.

Humphrey has already tried on his new life for size — and he has been slightly altered to fit it.

He and his wife, Muriel, know things won't ever be quite the same for the Humphreys. Now and then they look back. With tongue partly in cheek Humphrey acknowledged, "I have all sorts of mixed thoughts."

★ ★ ★

You could see some of the change Tuesday night as he made the rounds of a big three-ring reception in his honor at a local hotel.

The old Humphrey, the "Happy Warrior" of the campaign only 10 weeks or so ago, would have plunged into the crowd, shaking hands, patting backs and talking, talking, talking.

★ ★ ★

Tuesday night the Secret Service slipped him along back corridors so that he made his grand entrance close to the speaker's platform in each of the three rooms of the reception.

FORGOT TIME

The old Humphrey had a way of forgetting the clock when talking to people. He'd shake off campaign aides who tried to get him moving along to the next stop. "These people came to hear me," he'd say.

Tuesday night he had his eye on the clock.

★ ★ ★

He had a date to attend the inaugural concert with President Johnson, and he told the hundreds who packed the vast hotel ballroom that the concert begins "at 8:30 p.m. on the dot."

★ ★ ★

It would not be good to keep the President waiting, particularly the night before his first day on the job.

SOME HUMPHREY

But the high-domed man began talking to the hundreds of people who had paid $5 a ticket to see him. It was the same old Humphrey — quipping one moment, sentimental the next; introducing his relatives and friends and politicians from back home; asking the crowd's prayers so that he would be worthy of their friendship and support; asking its prayers that he be a good vice president and a help to Johnson.

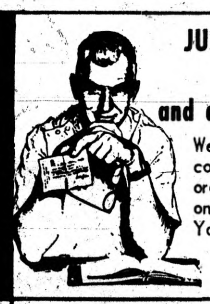

As much as anyone, Mrs. Humphrey felt the change. She looked at the scores of old friends around her and said with emotion "It's a sentimental night. It seems like goodby, but it isn't. It's a new beginning."

Humphrey, grinning, had a quip: "I'm getting a new job rating tomorrow, and I hope you're doing as well."

HAD COMPANY

As he left the hall, it was the old Hubert Humphrey, walking down the aisle, beaming, shaking hands — but with the Secret Service nudging him along.

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION — SAFETY OF YOUR SAVINGS INSURED UP TO $10,000

PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1964

At this time of year it is customary for the management of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland to make its Annual Report to members. Due to unprecedented support from its membership and the community at large, the Association has enjoyed record activity in every phase of its business activities. It is a pleasure for me to submit the Thirtieth Annual Report to the shareholders.

During the year your association increased its assets 25.31% from $56,395,015.46 as of 1963 to $70,666,951.51 as of December 31, 1963; this being our highest level in our thirty years of operation. This reflects a dollar gain in assets of $14,271,936.05.

During 1964 First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland attracted $11,066,059.86 in new savings - the amount by which total receipts exceeded withdrawals. This net savings gain brought our total savings capital to an all time high of $59,841,335.01 or 22.69% increase, giving us the opportunity to further expand our home financing activities.

We are appreciative of the expression of public confidence which the growth in savings balances reflects. The total number of new savings accounts opened in 1964 was 7,105 accounts which is an average of 592 new savings accounts per month. The total number of savings accounts on the books at this time is 28,818 accounts. In addition, we have 1,149 Christmas Club accounts giving us a grand total of 29,967 accounts.

The total amount of dividends paid out during 1964 to our shareholders amounted to $2,105,992.03. The total amount of dividends paid out in 1963 was $1,674,314.54. This indicates that we paid out $431,677.49 more to our shareholders in 1964 than we did in 1963. This institution has always paid the highest rate of dividends consistent with safety.

Our reserve position was strengthened by the addition of $556,703.15 giving us a total in reserves and surplus in the sum of $3,000,844.46, thus giving us a total of reserve against savings in the amount of 5.014%.

During 1964, First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland increased its total mortgage portfolio to a high of $56,124,836.72 or a 25.98% increase from 1963. The total dollar volume of mortgages closed in 1964 was $26,893,590.18. This was an increase of $7,067,741.22 over 1963, amounting to 1,562 new loans. There were 429 mortgages amortized or paid off during 1964, and the majority of these people now own and enjoy their homes free and clear.

The total dollar volume deposited in 1964 was $34,896,747.84. The total dollar volume withdrawn was $23,830,687.98.

Our FHA Modernization Department, which was formulated in July, 1962, for the year 1964 closed 1,295 new loans. This was a dollar volume of $1,162,754.42 giving us a total aggregate of $2,146,873.69 outstanding on the books at this time. 1964 saw introduced in the Home Improvement Department, the Home Improvement Loan where the guarantee is carried by First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland. These loans are commonly known as HIP Loans. The loans in this category numbered 18 in 1964 with a dollar volume of $54,332.49, giving us a total aggregate of $50,976.51.

Our predictions for 1965 reflect that this Association will have assets in excess of $81,000,000. as of the close of business on December 31, 1965.

For the third year running, First Federal of Oakland has been the largest mortgage lending institution in Oakland County.

In conclusion, I would like to refer to our greatest asset. Unquestionably the greatest asset of First Federal of Oakland is its personnel including the Directors - responsible for making policy; its officers who carry out policy and direct day-to-day business activities, and a staff of well-trained men and women responsible for courteous service for the savers and home borrowers. The Directors of our Association are successful business and professional men long acquainted with the problems and opportunities offered by this community. I am sure that under their able leadership, 1965 will certainly be a banner year for First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Oakland.

Respectfully submitted,

James Clarkson

WOMEN'S SECTION

Advice to Jealous Wife

DEAR ABBY: My problem is jealousy. I am 24 and my husband is 26. We've been married two years and have a beautiful baby daughter, and we're still very much in love.

ABBY

I know there is absolutely no basis for my jealousy, but I can't help it. Here's an example:

At a party recently, the center of attention was a blonde with a good figure, which she showed off by wearing skin-tight red stretch pants and a red sweater.

Every man there danced with her, but when my husband did, something inside me exploded.

I walked out and went home alone. I was hurt, humiliated and mad. My husband came home right after me and was shocked at my behavior.

I know there was nothing to it, but this happened over a month ago and every time I get a mental picture of my husband dancing with that blonde I get all worked up inside again.

Is something wrong with me? How can I control this terrible jealousy?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Since we are not all equally endowed (looks, brains, health, money, opportunity), it is only natural for those who lack what others appear to have in abundance to be "jealous." You can control your jealousy by counting your blessings.

When that mental picture creeps into your mind, go pick up your baby. Or look at your husband's picture, and thank heavens for what you HAVE.

Good Towels Are Worth Price

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Women's Editor

Towels get prettier every year. This idea of having rich colors in the bathroom is one we like.

If we didn't consider it frightfully wasteful, we'd throw out all the white and pale blue towels we now own and buy a complete set of new, more colorful ones.

As mentioned in previous articles, this is the time to replenish your linen supply. Linen, of course, is a term that covers bedding, table linen and towels.

How many sets of towels should one have and what are the things to look for when you go shopping?

THREE SETS

One authority suggests three sets of towels and wash cloths for each member of the family, plus a few extras for guests. This will keep one set in use, one in the wash and one on the shelf.

Rotating their use prolongs the life of your towels.

Buy the best quality you can afford. Cheap towels wear out so fast that they are no economy in the long run.

We saw proof of this a while back when we decided to buy bright red terry towels for kitchen hand towels. The price per towel—for red was not easy to find some years ago—staggered us.

But those towels held up under hard usage for over five years.

CLOSE WEAVE

Bath towels should be closely woven. Hold one up to the light. Buy those through which the light barely shows.

Terry cloth should be soft and springy to the touch. Loops should be deep and the underweave and selvages firm.

If the border on your towel shrinks, you have just cause for complaint. Take the offending towels back to the store and ask for a refund. Good towels do not shrink in this manner.

Buy wash cloths that are ample in size and as firmly woven as your towels.

We have always found it a good idea to buy extra wash cloths just as one should buy an extra cup or two. They wear out faster than towels.

When the cloths wear thin in the center, use them for padding in potholders. Folded into a square, they are just the right size.

Terry cloth dish towels have come into use in the last few years. Here, too, quality counts.

If you prefer the older type of dish towel, remember that linen outwears cotton any day. It may shed water the first time it is used and be hard to iron. But it softens with use and absorbs water as no other fiber does.

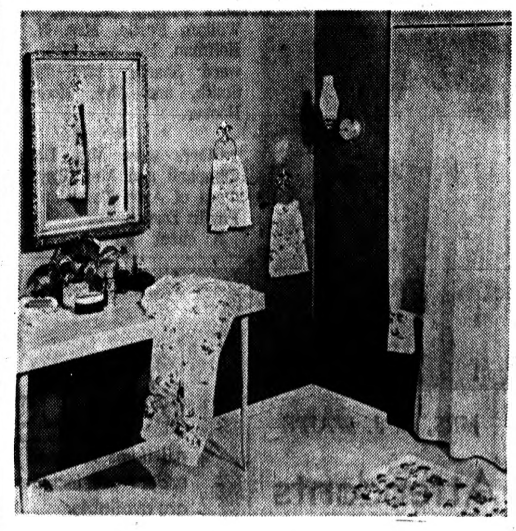

You may have to launder deeptone colors alone for the first few times. Check any information tags on the towels.

Don't let towels get too soiled. That's laughable advice if you have youngsters.

But with modern laundry equipment, frequent washing is no problem. And it lengthens the life of the towel.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Easterle of Royal Oak announce the engagement of their daughter, Marilyn Ruth to James Curtis Lavis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Lavis of Orchard Lake. She is a sophomore at Oakland University where her fiance is in his senior year.

Today's homemaker is fortunate to have a galaxy of patterns and colors to choose from in terry towels that will practically turn the bathroom into a bower. The sampler rose design by Morgan-Jones shown in this bathroom provides both decorativeness and practicality to the area without the undertaking of a full remodeling job. Note how the two tones of pink in the towels are repeated in the "Tassels" shower curtain by Jakson, while the green of the design is used for the wall color.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice Farmer:

I want to alter a man's sport coat. The sleeves and shoulder seams will be taken up at the shoulders. What will I have to do to make the sleeve fit and is this too big a job for an amateur?
MRS. M. S. L.

Dear Mrs. M. S. L.:

If you are making the shoulder seams larger, the sleeve would be too large. You will have to make the two sleeve seams a little larger to compensate for this.

It is always tricky to alter men's clothes. If a professional tailor is available I would certainly advise paying him to do it, especially if you are inexperienced.

As I always tell my pupils, men's clothes must be tailored perfectly. Of them you simply can't "pin a rose over a boo-boo"! Fortunately for us gals, if something doesn't work out perfectly for us, we can use our creative talents and come up with some salvation.

But men's clothes don't warrant this type of creative talent. In most cases it would be better to save money on your clothes and leave the men's clothes alone.

Dear Eunice

You wrote about lining cotton dresses, for the life of me, I can't understand why. I will have to admit, this seems to be the trend today, even in children's clothes, but I just ignore this and omit the lining.
Mrs. G. R.

Dear Mrs. G. R.:

Many of our cottons are lined today because of the type of fabric we are using. Today many of the lighter weight fabrics are being used.

Straight sheath-type dresses won't wrinkle quite as much if lined. Techniques are constantly changing because of our changing fashions.

The A-line dresses require lining in order to retain the shape the designer intended.

You must learn to be your own judge, if you have shirt waist dresses, or cottons that you will wear very casually, you probably wouldn't line them. However, I must admit we are lining most of our good clothes today.

Also, most women have their good cottons cleaned instead of washing. This is long term economy because they will retain the brand new look that is so hard to achieve if we wash and iron the dresses ourselves.

The sizing that is added is important and is often lost when garments are washed.

Always take into consideration the type of dress you have made and the value you have attached to it and make your own decisions.

"I stitch each knife-edge fold of pleated skirts very close to the edge on the WRONG SIDE of the skirt. Press these knife-edges smooth on the wrong side first.

Then it is much easier to lay the pleats flat and space them correctly for pressing on the right side. Continue this stitching through the hem of the skirt and your pleats will hang so much nicer without spreading out.

"You can do this to any ready-made skirt with the same wonderful results."

Mrs. Willard Hayne, Silverton, Ore., has been awarded this week's Tailor Trix pressing board for this helpful suggestion.

Dear Eunice:

A few weeks ago you talked about making beautiful buttonholes in different colors and having the same colored buttons. Where do you find a pattern like this?

I was merely trying to tell you how creative you could be when you learn to make beautiful bound buttonholes. This is most attractive in the summer when you make a white or beige linen dress.

Use a pattern with buttonholes down the front or on the side, or perhaps just on the bodice. Make colored buttonholes instead of using the same material that is in your dress.

This is a most attractive variation and will give your dress a real "costume room look".

If you haven't sent for your free copy of my leaflet "Bound Buttonholes," do so today.

Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and send to Eunice Farmer, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Dear Eunice:

I had the misfortune to get a cigarette burn on my good velveteen dress. The pile is burned off and is very noticeable. Have you a solution?
Mrs. D. E. S.

Dear Mrs. D. E. S.:

You could make some small satin bows of the same color as your dress and scatter them on the skirt. You could scatter lace or sequined motifs.

Another idea is to make a dull satin rose as an accent. It all depends on the spot where the burn appears. However, I feel you could add some kind of trim as a camouflage.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Thousands and thousands of women have joined my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan which this newspaper has been bringing you.

Many of you have had a loss of weight which pleases you. Others may be discouraged because they have lost only a pound or so.

Do not be disappointed or feel like a failure. Often it takes a few days of dieting before the pounds begin to drop away.

★ ★ ★

Just keep on counting your calories and doing your exercises.

If, for some reason, you cannot exercise, then you will have to succeed with calorie counting alone. You can do this!

EAT LESS

The only way to lose weight is to eat less than you need for body maintenance and your activity. The difference is made up with stored fat—those extra pounds you want to banish.

If you CAN do the exercises they are valuable because they increase your energy output, redistribute your weight more attractively, and improve tone.

★ ★ ★

Today I want to add two more exercises to the ones I have already given you. I will give you another waist and abdominal slimmer.

Stand with your feet separated. Raise your right arm up by your right ear and hold it there while you try to touch the fingertips of your left hand to your left toe.

If you cannot go all the way down go as far as you can but be SURE to keep your knees straight. Raise your trunk and lower right arm to side.

This time raise your left arm up by your left ear and try to touch the fingertips of your right hand to your right toe. Raise trunk and return arm to side.

Continue, alternating.

This is for the abdomen — lie on the floor on your back. Arms rest on the floor, extending straight out from your shoulders, palms facing the floor. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen.

Now straighten the legs toward the ceiling, toes pointing toward the ceiling. Slowly lower the legs to the floor. Continue.

If this is too difficult for you at first, bend only one leg at a time.

★ ★ ★

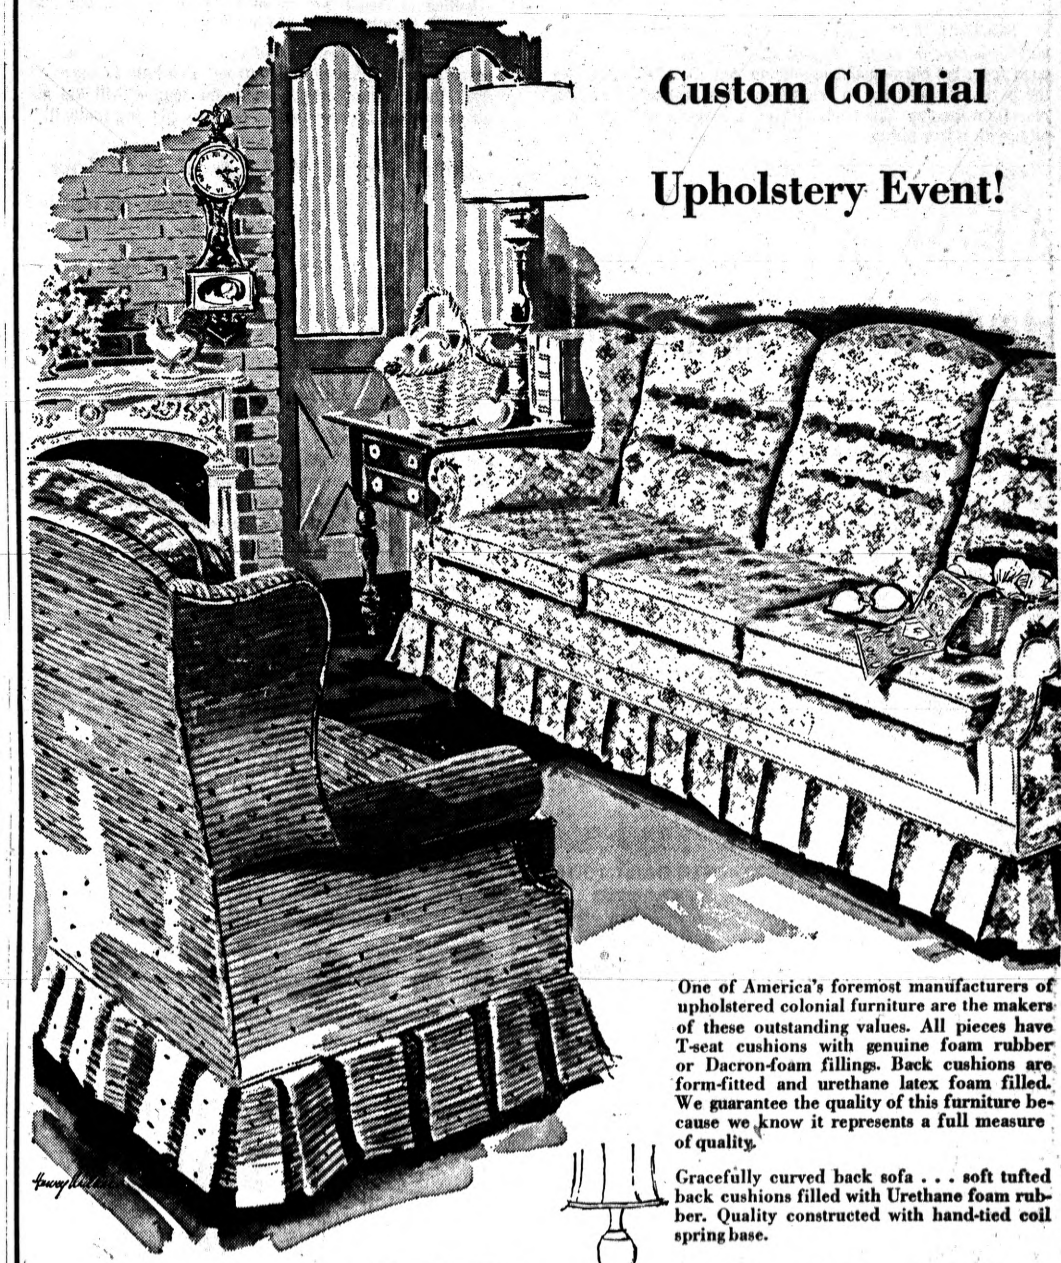

Those of you who have been following BIP now have all of the directions you need for continuing alone.

ROUGH DAY — Pajama-clad, blanket-covered Pat O'Donnell, 7, is rushed to the hospital yesterday after he was rescued from his burning Chicago home. Sgt. Don Miller carries the boy to a squad car in below-freezing temperature as firemen fight the fire. The boy's mother was also sent to the hospital with minor burns.

Attacks on Chicago Sites Have Ended---Illinois Aide

CHICAGO (AP) — "It has stopped. Thank God."

James McMahon, assistant director of the Illinois Department of Public Safety, so answered a reporter's query about what had happened to the series of bomb and fire attacks on restaurants, nightclubs and other places.

★ ★ ★

A blast knocked out a wall of the Homestead restaurant in Proviso Township Nov. 29. It went down on the list of such crimes as No. 80 in a three-year sequence.

But in recent weeks the hiss of such set fires and the boom of explosives have been missing from the Chicago area.

USED PHRASE

"Intensive investigations."

Both McMahon and Charles Siragusa, director of the Illinois Crime Commission, used that phrase in separate interviews Tuesday.

McMahon heads a joint cooperative effort started in 1963 by officials of seven counties in northeastern Illinois at the behest of Gov. Otto Kerner.

★ ★ ★

McMahon recalled that rewards of $11,000 had been posted for information that could lead to the arrest and conviction of the terrorists.

"Not one call or one letter came in," he said.

20 INDICTMENTS

A special Cook County grand jury last fall returned 20 indictments but indicated it wasn't satisfied.

★ ★ ★

Jurors said they suspected that some of the 200 witnesses had withheld information.

Two men currently are on trial on charges of arson and conspiracy to commit arson in two Chicago restaurants which one of them owned and where the other worked.

Siragusa said hearings his agency conducted last month demonstrated that money via insurance and intimidation had been the main motives.

'TIED UP'

He expressed the belief the Chicago crime syndicate was "tied up with a few places."

One apparent reason for the lull — if that's what it is — is the heat generated by news and comments on the subject.

McMahon said: "The public is aroused through the cooperation of news media."

How Mighty Have Fallen

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — In 1963, Jim Whittaker became the first American to climb Mt. Everest. He scaled the world's highest peak without injury.

Tuesday Whittaker was released from a hospital after treatment for a severed tendon in his left hand. He fell on a piece of glass in the sporting goods store he operates.

Inventor Succumbs

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — William D. Buckingham, 62, who invented a pinpoint arc lamp credited with bringing a major breakthrough in cancer research, died Tuesday of cancer. Buckingham had been with the Western Union Telegraph Co. from 1925 until his retirement last year and had served as an engineer at the company's research laboratory at Water Mill, on Long Island. He was born in Toledo, Ohio.

People in the News

Another Kennedy in the U.S. Senate?

Well, not right away, but Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., has a candidate in son, Matthew, who's all of nine days old.

ROBERT KENNEDY

"Teddy (Sen. Edward F. Kennedy of Massachusetts) was the ninth child in our family and became a U.S. Senator," said Kennedy as he and his wife, Ethel left Roosevelt Hospital in New York yesterday with Matthew, their ninth child.

Kennedy said "it would be nice" to see Matthew in the Senate someday, but in the meantime:

"He's going to be a leader of the Assembly in Albany. We finally came up with a candidate."

The quip referred to the Democratic factional fight over leadership of the New York legislature, unresolved after two weeks of maneuvering.

The first Kennedy in the Senate was the late President John F. Kennedy, elected from Massachusetts in 1952.

Mrs. Ethel Kennedy, asked as she left the hospital if she planned more children, said: "We hope to be back soon."

New Tarzan Should Know His Lines

A new Tarzan soon will be swinging through the propman's jungle. He's Mike Henry, 6-foot-3 227-pound linebacker for the Los Angeles Rams.

Producer Sy Weintraub in Hollywood announced the selection of Henry for the next screen Tarzan, the 14th since the popular series of films began in 1918.

Said Henry, former Southern California star and a seven-year veteran of the National Football League: "I don't think the other players in the league will kid me about playing Tarzan; they're too busy playing football."

British Singer May Cancel U.S. Tour

British singer Julie Rogers, whose recent hit records include "The Wedding" and "Like a Child" may have to cancel a tour of the United States and take a rest.

The 21-year-old singer fainted Monday night during a nightclub performance at Newcastle. Her manager, Teddy Foster, said last night Miss Rogers would complete the Newcastle engagement, but that he then would recommend that she take a vacation.

All Dems AREN'T in D.C. Today

Former Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and his wife will watch the inauguration of President Johnson today on television at their Chapel Hill home.

Hodges, who retired from the government Monday, flew home from Washington yesterday.

The former North Carolina governor said he and Mrs. Hodges packed yesterday morning "and our things will get here Thursday."

"We're just looking at our mementoes and odds and ends," he said. "It'll take a few days to bring order out of the chaos."

Drinking Moonshine Is 'Fuel-ish'

Treasury agents said Albert Mears, 23, arrested at a still on his farm near Dundee, Ill., told them he didn't sell his product, and explained: "I drink most of it. The rest I put in my car. It makes the car run good."

Pontiac City Affairs

Second Step on Budget Taken

The second step in the process of adopting a city budget was taken last night by the City Commission.

The commission introduced the annual appropriation ordinance for the fiscal year beginning Jan. 1, 1965. Final action on the ordinance is slated for next Tuesday.

The first step was a public hearing held last week.

As prepared by City Attorney William A. Ewart, the appropriation ordinance provides for a tax levy of $5,049,758 this year.

The 1965 budget totals some $8.1 million.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business last night, the commission approved the annual workable program for community improvement for submission to federal government authorities.

Each year the city must submit a progress report in connection with federally-sponsored projects in the city.

Federal officials recertify programs annually, giving approval for federal participation in federal-city projects.

Pontiac is seeking the approval of its third workable program, according to City Manager Joseph A. Warren.

Warren said that federal officials are particularly concerned this year with the enforcement of housing codes at the local level and efforts made to correct substandard housing.

The city manager said that the city has not been able to move as fast in some areas as the 1964 report visualized.

"The approval of this year's program may hinge on our reasons for not moving faster," he told the commission.

★ ★ ★

Among the reasons given for the city not moving faster were: (1) the "turmoil" at city hall during the past year, and (2) the need for added revenue.

FEE SCHEDULE

In still other business last night, the commission received for study a new fee schedule for electrical inspections.

Recommended by the Electrical Examining Board, the new schedule would raise the minimum fees for electrical permits by 50 cents and $1 in most categories.

The new fees, if approved by the commission, would bring in an added $5,000 a year, according to Roy Hetherington, city electrical superintendent.

He said the 1964 receipts amounted to $13,333 and $17,333 is needed to cover the department's 1965 budget. The new fees schedule is expected to balance the budget.

DEEDS ACCEPTED

Deeds to two houses, labeled substandard by city officials, were accepted last night by the City Commission.

The houses, located at 440 E. Wilson and 92 Irene, were acquired for demolition upon the recommendation of the Substandard Housing Committee.

The city will tear down the houses, clear the lots and resell the properties. The owners of the two homes (both are vacant) gave the city the deeds.

★ ★ ★

In related business, the commission accepted the lone bid of Truckaway Corporation, 355 S. Sanford, for city-owned property at 350 Osmun.

PROPERTY BID

The firm bid $12,001 for the property.

City Commissioners were informed last night of a regional meeting Feb. 25 of the Michigan Municipal League to be held in Mount Clemens.

Road Research Projects Slated

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department will spend more than $3 million this year on a coordinated nationwide testing and research program, some $2 million of it coming from the Bureau of Public Roads.

The remainder will come from department funds

Research projects in Michigan range from a complex television - monitored traffic control system on the John C. Lodge Freeway in Detroit to routine origin and destination traffic studies.

One unusual research project now under way in Michigan involves an electronic scale which weighs and measure trucks while the vehicles are moving at freeway speed.

The Philco Co. of Pennsylvania has been awarded a $200,000 contract for installation of the electronic scale on westbound I-94 near Jackson.

Probe of Laos Strikes in Works

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The International Control Commission said today it is committed to investigate charges that U.S. planes bombarded Laotian zones held by the Communist Pathet Lao.

★ ★ ★

Asok Bhadkamkar of India, the ICC chairman, said the commission received its first complaints of U.S. bombing missions in Laos last Sept. 30. No mention was made of the attack by American jet fighter-bombers on Jan. 13.

Bhadkamkar said the commission had been waiting since last Oct. 30 for the royal Laotian government to provide facilities for the investigation.

The commission, he said, voted on Oct. 30, with Poland abstaining, "to investigate these allegations and, as is required, asked the royal Lao government for facilities."

The ICC is composed of Indian, Polish and Canadian delegations. It was charged by the Geneva agreement of 1962 with supervision of the situation in Laos.

ADMIT STRIKES

U.S. officials in Washington have admitted the American air strikes against strategic targets on the Communist supply routes running through Laos and into South Viet Nam. They said the strikes would continue.

But American officials also charged that Communist North Viet Nam and Red China have both violated the 1962 agreement repeatedly by maintaining thousands of soldiers in the jungles of Laos.

After failing to get an ICC investigation of these treaty violations, the United States began reconnaissance operations over the Communist areas early last summer.

Meanwhile, a senior Laotian army source said today that reinforcements were being hurried to the northern province of Sam Neua, where the Pathet Lao are largely in control but where the national army still has a pocket of resistance.

Election Is March 18 on City Income Tax

It's official! Pontiac will vote March 18 on the city's income tax ordinance.

The City Commission last night approved a resolution setting the date for the election, which was petitioned for by local citizens.

Rezoning Petition Fees Are in Effect in Waterford

A new policy specifying a $75 fee for rezoning petitions is now effective in Waterford Township.

The fee was established last September by the Township Planning Commission.

It took effect Jan. 1 and first petitions received under the new procedure will be reviewed at the Jan. 26 zoning meeting of the planning commission.

Previously there was no charge for rezoning requests. Purpose of the fee is to cover costs of processing zoning change petitions.

It was authorized following an extensive study by the planning commission of costs of petitions and practices of other communities in levying such fees.

FEES COMMON

The study indicated that most surrounding communities levy fees. These range from $25 to $180.

Cost of a rezoning petition in Waterford Township is computed at $46.82 if a public hearing is not required and $138.65 with a hearing, according to Vern Wiggins, acting township planning director.

It will still be possible, however, for Waterford property owners to petition rezoning without paying a fee.

The planning commission holds monthly zoning meetings the fourth Tuesday when there is zoning business. The January and June meetings have been set up by the commission as "free" meetings.

WITHOUT FEE

That is, a zoning petition introduced at one of the two free meetings and given a hearing at the subsequent biennial free meeting may be processed without a fee.

For example: a rezoning request introduced at the Jan. 26 meeting could be handled without a fee if the hearing on the petition is delayed until the June meeting.

Hearings on rezoning petitions introduced this month and held between January and June, however, will require the payment of a $75 fee.

The fee is levied on any request requiring the commission to meet other than at the two yearly free meetings.

REIMBURSED

If an application for rezoning does not receive a public hearing, due either to its withdrawal by the applicant or denial by the planning commission, the applicant is reimbursed $50 of the $75 fee.

Last September when the planning commission assumed the duties of the former zoning board, innovations were introduced to provide broader notice of impending rezoning action.

Previously only a brief newspaper notice of a public hearing on rezoning was required.

Under the new procedure, a detailed drawing of the parcel considered for rezoning and its surrounding area, as well as a legal description of the property, are printed in a newspaper.

NEW PLACARD

In addition, parcels up for rezoning are posted with a newly designed placard by a township employe and the posting is certified.

Further, it was decided that notices of the prospective rezoning be mailed to property owners within 250 feet of the perimeter of the parcel being considered for rezoning.

★ ★ ★

The stepped-up advertising effort was launched to give maximum notice of rezoning so that interested parties could attend public hearings.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Medical Specialties Need Explaining

Phthisiologist. There's a $64 word.

If you ever needed the services of such a man, you were under the care of a doctor who specialized in the treatment of tuberculosis.

BRANDSTADT

The practice of medicine has expanded so greatly that lots of specialists are required. Many people wonder about these titles. Let's try to clear the air.

An anesthesiologist does not always put you to sleep. He may inject a drug into your spinal canal so that you can remain awake throughout your operation.

A dermatologist is a skin specialist and a gerontologist or geriatrician specializes in the diseases of the aged — a field that is growing because of the increased proportion of persons over 60 in our population.

* * *

SPECIAL FIELD

His special field has been subdivided to include our old friend, the phthisiologist; the gastroenterologist, who treats diseases of the digestive tract; the endocrinologist, who treats diseases of the glands of internal secretion (pancreas, pituitary, thyroid and sex glands); the cardiologist or heart specialist; the rheumatologist and the allergist.

The obstetrician gives prenatal care to expectant mothers, delivers them and cares for them during the postnatal period, and the gynecologist is a surgeon who treats all other conditions of the female reproductive system.

The oncologist specializes in the treatment of tumors, especially cancer.

FITS GLASSES

The ophthalmologist is a surgeon who fits glasses and treats all diseases of the eyes.

The otologist treats the ears; the rhinologist, the nose; and the laryngologist, the throat.

More often a surgeon, the otorhinolaryngologist, treats all three fields.

The orthopedist is a surgeon who treats fractures, dislocations, and other diseases of the bones and joints.

The pathologist specializes in laboratory procedures and when all else fails he performs an autopsy to determine the true cause of death.

A pediatrician takes care of infants and children, but he now has a counterpart, the ephebiatrician, who takes care of the very special problems of teenagers.

The physiatrist is a specialist in treatment and rehabilitation by physical means.

The proctologist is a surgeon who takes care of rectal diseases.

Although this list is not complete, let's not neglect the greatest specialist of all, the general practitioner, who, it has been truly said, specializes in all the diseases of men, women and children.

Lake Orion Meeting Set on Pollution

LAKE ORION — A special Village Council meeting will be held Monday to discuss a second antipollution proposal as an alternative to a proposed $1.36-million sewer system.

One possible solution to the pollution of Paint Creek, which has placed the village in court facing two lawsuits, was initiated yesterday, as village Department of Public Works employes collected water samples from the creek.

Arrangements have been made with the Oakland County Health Department for the testing of the samples to determine the specific sources of pollution being injected into Paint Creek through seven storm sewer outlets.

This plan calls for the elimination of the pollution through local action against the sources, once they are defined. This is likely to take at least 30 days.

The second idea, to be discussed Monday, was suggested by Lake Orion general contractor Bud Schaar, who has had considerable experience with sewage facility construction.

INTERCEPTOR SEWER

Schaar's idea, put before the council at this week's meeting by Village President William V. Shoup, calls for an interceptor sewer along the natural course of the creek.

The interceptor would collect the discharge from the seven storm sewer outlets which have allegedly been discharging polluted effluent into the stream and carry it to a treatment facility.

Once treated, the material would then be discharged into the creek.

The advantage of the second plan, if found workable, would be that only a sewage treatment facility would be necessary, rather than a widespread system of trunk and lateral collection lines that would be required if a separate sanitary sewer system were constructed.

ONE MORE PLAN

Shoup, who calls the suggestion "just one more idea in our struggle to stay alive financially," pointed out that "the state does not normally favor a combination sewer."

And village engineers Hubbell, Roth & Clark of Birmingham, who will be represented at Monday's meeting, had told the village previously that the state would not go along with the combination-type system proposed by Schaar.

But time is a big factor in the sewer issue, and Shoup is anxious to consider all possible alternatives to the large-scale system that the state wants the village to construct.

★ ★ ★

Also at Monday's meeting will be Donald Ringler, deputy director of the Oakland County Department of Public Works (DPW).

TAKING STEPS

The county DPW is presently contacting residents and obtaining easements for the construction of the sewer lines which will go in if the village loses its case with the state in court.

The state is suing Lake Orion for failure to meet planning deadlines for the $1.36-million sewer system which was designed after the Michigan Water Resources Commission ordered the village to construct a system to eliminate Paint Creek pollution.

At present, all parties are awaiting the scheduling of a trial in the case, which also involves a separate suit against village officials on behalf of the Lake Orion Homeowner's Association and all village residents.

★ ★ ★

That suit charges delay in dealing with the pollution, plus "conspiracy" on the part of village officials with respect to the $1.36-million system.

Both suits are to be considered simultaneously by the court.

Another time factor is involved in a grant of $125,580 in federal funds to be applied against the estimated $272,000 cost of a treatment plant and site if the full-scale system is built.

The grant was applied for by the County DPW on behalf of Lake Orion, and a letter from the DPW this week warned that failure to decide on financing arrangements for the system by March 1 may result in loss of the grant.

★ ★

The letter pointed out, however, that loss of the funds this year would not preclude the village's ability to apply for the money under next year's grant program.

But in order to receive the funds, the DPW must have construction started by May 1.

The lawsuits themselves may create another delaying factor, and the DPW letter states that a delay of eight or nine months before a trial can be scheduled is possible.

DPW Director R. J. Alexander stated recently that while the agency is moving ahead on trying to obtain the necessary easements it would await the outcome of the court case before initiating any condemnation action against those who refuse to grant the easements.

Homeowner's Association president Mrs. Charles Robbins called the DPW letter "another pressure method used by the county to push us into the sewer system.

ESTIMATES COST

"We have to keep in mind that over a 33-year period, based on an average assessment of $3,000, it would cost the property owner in Lake Orion approximately $3,300 at the lowest," she said.

"It's also interesting to note," she added, "that although the grant is for $125,580, the interest on the bonds for the first two years will be over $106,000, before anything is done on the system."

Soup said the Schaar proposal will be the only item on the agenda for Monday's 7:30 p.m. meeting, to be held at the village hall.

ONE SAVED, ONE DESTROYED — The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Courtney Sr., 4775 S. Milford, Milford Township, was saved from the fire which leveled the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Courtney Jr. early yesterday afternoon. The blaze, which firemen said started in a faulty space heater, spread throughout the Courtney garage and four-room apartment above it in a matter of minutes. The fire was extinguished by fire fighters from the Milford, Lyon, Wixom and Highland departments. Damage tentatively was estimated at $8,000.

Quaker Mark Being Sought

Farmington Asks for Recognition

FARMINGTON — Recognition of Farmington as the first Quaker settlement in Michigan is being sought by the Farmington Historical Society.

The society has applied to the Michigan Historical Commission for verification of the designation.

Arthur Power led a small group of Quakers here from Farmington, N.Y., in 1824.

The historical society is seeking authority to place a marker commemorating the move.

It has been granted permission by the City Council to install the marker in the small city park at Grand River and Liberty.

The marker would be dedicated in a Heritage Day ceremony during Michigan Week, May 16-22.

Home Fire Fatal to Girl

LANSING (AP) — Lori Ann McGee, 3, died Tuesday in a fire which destroyed her frame home in suburban Lansing Township. The girl apparently was playing in the living room, where the fire broke out. Her mother, Lillimae Rhodes, suffered burns on one arm. The two were alone. Cause was not immediately determined.

News of the Area

Millage Plea to Be Studied

FARMINGTON—Members of the Farmington City and Township District Library Board are going to review their plans to ask for two special millage levies.

Aiming at the April 4 election, they were going to seek two separate propositions — one for continuation of the current half-mill levy and the other for a new one-mill levy to finance expansion.

★ ★ ★

The library is supported jointly by the city and the township.

A half-mill levy is collected from the township property owners for operation of the facility and the city matches the sum from its general fund.

The half-mill levy has been extended twice in the last six years. Library board members now want it placed on a long-term basis—for 20 years.

★ ★

Expansion of services for the convenience of patrons in the northern part of the district is featured in the second proposal, although it also includes major improvement of facilities in the city.

IN OLD POST OFFICE

Present location of the library is the old post office on Farmington Road south of Grand River in the city.

★ ★ ★

The proposed additional levy would finance construction of a new library on a five-acre site the board owns on the south side of 12 Mile east of Farmington Road.

The library in the township would have 15,000 square feet of floor space, while the current one has 6,000 square feet, housing some 21,000 books.

Besides expansion of physical facilities in both the township and city, the 10-year levy would include funds for increased operation. Demand for library service has jumped some 70 per cent in the last four years.

★ ★ ★

A half-mill levy now provides about $60,000 in the district, which has a population of 45,000.

By 1980, there are expected to be some 80,000 persons living here. If property assessments increase accordingly, a half-mill could be expected to net upwards of $100,000.

GET SUGGESTIONS

Meeting in executive session with the City Council Monday night, library board members received some suggestions "which merit further discussion," according to board president Albert Herzog.

One topic expected to be discussed at the board's informal meeting Saturday is the possibility of long-term financing for the proposed capital improvement program, thus allowing the additional levy to be cut to one-half mill and stretched over 20 rather than 10 years.

★ ★ ★

After opening discussion with the city this week, the Library Board will take its recommendations to the Township Board's regular meeting Monday.

★ ★ ★

"Either a representative of our board will attend or sufficient information will be passed between the township board and our board to get the ball rolling," Herzog said.

Open House to Be Held at New School

INDEPENDENCE TOWNSHIP—An open house at Bailey Lake Elementary School, which opened last September, is slated for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

All residents of the school district are invited to visit the Clarkston Community Schools' newest building. The school is located at 8051 Pine Knob, a quarter mile north of Orion Road.

★ ★ ★

Members of the school system's administrative staff as well as Bailey Lake staff members will be present to guide visitors through the building.

The new school, which contains 26,000 square feet of floor space, handles 588 pupils.

For 7 State Lifers

Terms Commuted

Two men serving life terms for slayings in Oakland County were among seven inmates at Southern Michigan Prison whose sentences were commuted yesterday by Gov. Romney. All were serving life terms for first-degree murder.

★ ★ ★

Romney said the action makes the convicts eligible for immediate parole consideration.

Acting on the recommendation of the State Parole Board, Romney said that among the men whose commutations he signed are:

Lee A. Phillips, 43, sentenced March 25, 1946, from Oakland County for a killing during a robbery; and George Coapman, 48, sentenced Nov. 3, 1947, from Oakland County for slaying a confederate in a robbery attempt.

★ ★ ★

Others include Floyd Hurl, 59, sentenced from Lapeer County on Jan. 21, 1949, for killing another man; Wallace A. Wilson, sentenced Feb. 5, 1947, from Detroit for killing a man during an argument over a woman; and James Richardson Jr., 38, sentenced Dec. 3, 1948, from Calhoun County for killing his wife.

★ ★ ★

Rounding out the seven are James I. King, 39, sentenced Oct. 14, 1949, from Detroit for fatally shooting another man in an argument; and James M. Willis, 46 sentenced Nov. 20, 1947, from Detroit for killing his common-law wife.

TO PRESENT CONCERT — The Harbor Lights Quartet of Battle Creek will conduct a "singspiration" service at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Oxford Free Methodist Church, 790 S. Lapeer. The four singers, pictured here with their accompanist, also will appear in the 10 a.m. service Sunday.

The fires caused damage unofficially estimated at more than $80,000. There were no injuries. Firemen fought the blaze in 10-degree weather.

Chief Justice Warren administered oath to Eisenhower in 1957.

Kennedy repeats oath of office after Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Late Rep. Sam Rayburn swears in Lyndon Johnson as Vice President.

Thousands braved freezing temperatures to watch ceremony in 1961.

INAUGURATION 1965

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

President Lyndon B. Johnson repeated this oath shortly after noon today in front of the Capitol in Washington, D. C. He and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey then led a cavalcade to the White House reviewing stand to watch the rest of the parade go by.

The simple oath and the parade to the White House are a part of a rich tradition which began in Washington with the inauguration of Thomas Jefferson.

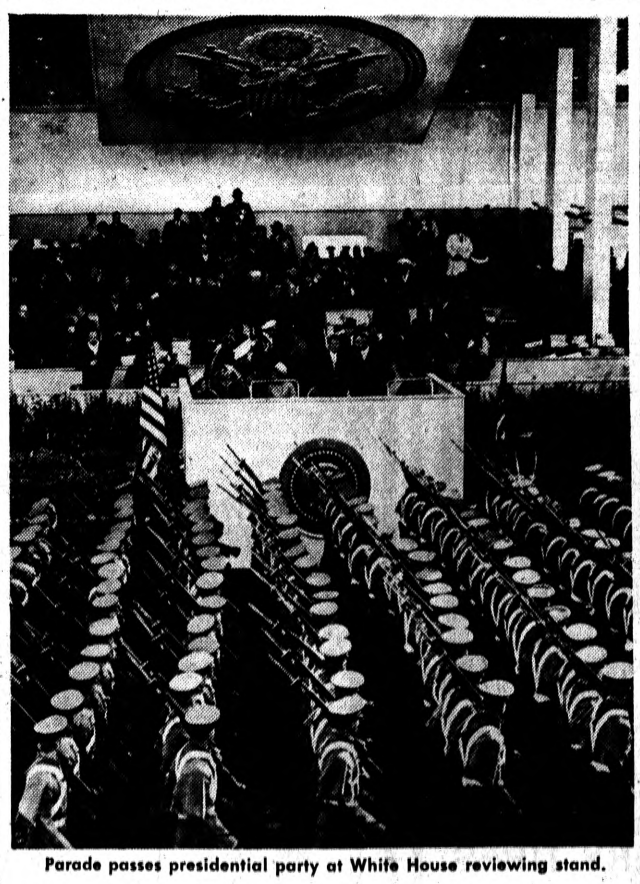

The weatherman offered a cloudy day, with freezing temperatures and winds up to 20 miles per hour—bracing weather for lightly clad girls on floats. In 1961, a howling blizzard left a thick blanket of snow for the Kennedy inauguration. Temperatures dipped and the ground was white with snow for President Eisenhower's ceremony in 1957.

Going back further, Taft's ceremony took place in the Senate chamber because of a raging blizzard outside. William Henry Harrison's death a month after he was sworn in is attributed in large part to the rigors of his inauguration day.

Simplicity and brevity are being stressed for the celebration this year. More than half a million people attended the open air ceremony at the Capitol and lined the streets along the route of the parade.

President leads traditional parade from Capitol to White House.

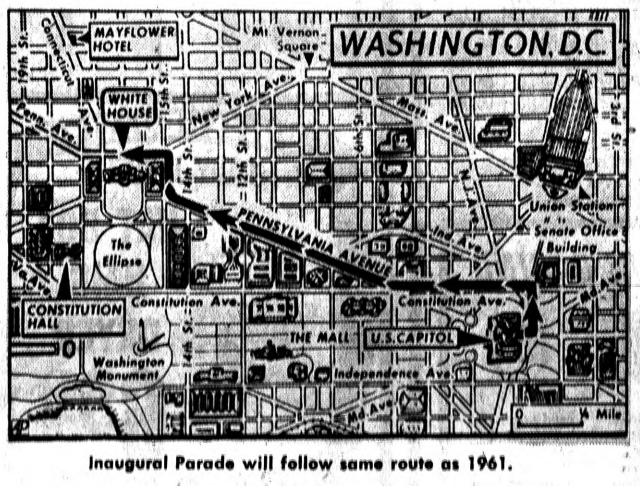

Parade passes presidential party at White House reviewing stand.

Complete Text of Inaugural Address by President Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following is the prepared text of President Johnson's inaugural address:

On this occasion, the oath I have taken before you —and before God — is not mine alone, but ours together. We are one nation and one people. Our fate and our future rests not upon one citizen but upon all citizens.

That is the majesty and the meaning of this moment.

★ ★ ★

For every generation, there is a destiny. For some, history decides. For this generation, the choice must be our own.

Even now, a rocket moves toward Mars. It reminds us that the world will not be the same for our children, or even for ourselves in a short span of years. The next man to stand here will look out on a scene different from our own.

TIME OF CHANGE

Ours is a time of change — rapid and fantastic change — baring the secrets of nature — multiplying the nations — placing in uncertain hands new weapons for mastery and destruction — shaking old values and uprooting old ways.

Our destiny in the midst of change will rest on the unchanged character of our people — and on their faith .

They came here — the exile and the stranger, brave and frightened —to find a place where a man could be his own man. They made a covenant with this land. Conceived in justice, written in liberty, bound in union, it was meant one day to inspire the hopes of all mankind. It binds us still. And if we keep its terms we shall flourish.

First, justice was the promise that all who made the journey would share in the fruits of the land.

HOPELESS POVERTY

In a land of wealth, families must not live in hopeless poverty.

In a land rich in harvest, children must not go hungry.

★ ★ ★

In a land of healing miracles, neighbors must not suffer and die untended.

In a land of learning, young people must be taught to read and write.

HAVE FOUGHT

For 30 years I have believed this injustice to our people — this waste of our resources — was the enemy. For 30 years, I have fought against it, I know it will not surrender easily.

But change has given us new weapons. Before this generation of Americans is finished, this enemy will not only retreat — it will be conquered.

Justice requires us to remember: When any citizen denies his fellow, saying: His color is not mine or his beliefs are different, in that moment he betrays America, though his forebears created the nation.

Liberty was the second article of our covenant. It was self-government and the Bill of Rights. But it was more. America would be a place where each man could be proud to be himself: Stretching his talents, rejoicing in work, important in the life of his neighbors and his nation.

MORE DIFFICULT

How much more difficult this has become in a world where change and growth seem to tower beyond the control, and even the judgment, of men. We must work now to provide the knowledge and the surroundings which can enlarge the possibilities of every citizen.

The American covenant called on us to help show the way for the liberation of man. That is still our goal. Thus, if as a nation there is much outside our control, as a people no stranger is outside our hope.

★ ★ ★

Change has brought new meaning to that old mission. We can never again stand aside prideful in isolation. Dangers and troubles we once called "foreign" now live among us. If American lives must end, and American treasure be spilled, in countries we barely know, that is the price that change has demanded of conviction.

Think of our world as it looks from that rocket heading toward Mars, It is like a child's globe, hanging in space, the continents stuck to its side like colored maps. We are all fellow passengers on a dot of earth. And each of us, in the span of time, has only a moment among his companions.

FRAGILE EXISTENCE

How incredible it is that in this fragile existence we should hate and destroy one another. There are possibilities enough for all who will abandon mastery over others to pursue mastery over nature. There is world enough for all to seek their happiness in their own way.

Our own course is clear. We aspire to nothing that belongs to others. We seek no dominion over our fellow man, but man's dominion over tyranny and misery.

★ ★ ★

But more is required. Men want to be part of a common enterprise — a cause greater than themselves. Each of us must find a way to advance the purpose of the nation, thus finding new purpose for ourselves. Without this, we will become a nation of strangers.

The third article was union. To those who were small and few against the wilderness, the success of liberty demanded the strength of union. Two centuries of change have made this true again.

TOGETHER

No longer need capitalist and worker, farmer and clerk, city and countryside, struggle to divide our bounty. Together we can increase the share of all.

We have discovered that every child who learns, every man who finds work, every sick body made whole — like a candle added to an altar —brightens the hope of all the faithful.

★ ★ ★

Let us reject any among us who seek to reopen old wounds and rekindle old hatreds. They stand in the way of a seeking nation.

Let us now join reason to faith and action to experience, to transform our new unity of interest into a new unity of purpose. For the time has come to achieve progress without strife and change without hatred: Not without difference of opinion, but without the deep and abiding divisions which scar the union for generations.

KEPT FREEDOM

Under this covenant — of justice, liberty, and union — we have become a nation; prosperous, great, and mighty. And we have kept our freedom.

But we have no promise from God that our greatness will endure.

★ ★ ★

We have been allowed by him to seek greatness with the sweat of our hands and the strength of our spirit.

I do not believe the great society is the ordered, changeless, and sterile battalion of the ants.

ALWAYS GAINING

It is the excitement of becoming — always becoming, trying, probing, falling, resting, and trying again — but always gaining.

In each generation — with toil and tears —we have had to earn our heritage again.

★ ★ ★

If we fail now, then we will have forgotten in abundance what we learned in hardship: that democracy rests on faith, freedom asks more than it gives, and the judgment of God is harshest on those who are most favored.

If we succeed, it will not be because of what we have, but what we are; not because of what we own, but what we believe.

NATION OF BELIEVERS

For we are a nation of believers. Underneath the clamor of building and the rush of our day's pursuit, we are believers in liberty and justice and in our Union. We believe every man must some day be free. And we believe in ourselves.

That is the mistake our enemies have always made. In my lifetime — in depression and war — they have awaited our defeat. Each time, from the secret places of the American heart, came forth the faith they could not see or even imagine. It brought us victory. It will again.

★ ★ ★

For this is what America is all about. It is the uncrossed desert and the unclimbed ridge. It is the star not reached and the harvest sleeping in the unplowed ground.

Is our world gone? We say farewell. Is a new world coming? We welcome it — and will bend it to the hopes of man.

I WILL LEAD

I will lead as best I can. But look within your own hearts — to the old promises and the old dream. They will lead you best of all.

For myself, I ask only in the words of an ancient leader: "Give me now wisdom and knowledge that I may go out and come in before this people: For who can judge this, thy people, that is so great?"

MEA Says Teacher of Amish Unfit

LANSIN G(AP) — The Michigan Education Association has gone on record in opposition to allowing a graduate of the eighth grade to teach at an Amish school at Camden, Hillsdale County.

★ ★ ★

The association board of directors, representing some 67,000 Michigan educators, took a stand in support of maintaining minimum standards for the certification of teachers, without any exceptions.

★ ★ ★

"This is not an easy stand to take," the association statement said, "especially involving these fine people in Hillsdale County who have themselves made many sacrifices to maintain their beliefs and way of life in a world that is conformist and unsympathetic.

★ ★ ★

"However, it is the children that guide our decision. Teaching standards are established to provide for the needs of American children. The time has long since passed when eight grades of schooling were adequate for the preparation of youth for American society."

Estes in Jail as Appeals Running Out

E LPASO, Tex. (AP) — Billie Sol Estes was in a four-man county jail cell today on what may be his last stop en route to a federal prison.

He was driven 440 miles from Abilene, Tex., Tuesday by Deputy U.S. Marshal William C. Black.

★ ★ ★

Estes was arrested at his Abilene home Monday after his $100,000 bond was revoked by U.S. Dist. Judge R. Ewing Thomason of El Paso. That step followed a U.S. Supreme Court decision not to hear Estes' appeal from a 15-year prison term for mail fraud and conspiracy.

His lawyer, John Cofer of Austin, telegraphed Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black Tuesday morning to ask that Judge Thomason's bond revocation order be rescinded.

'Lawyer Out of Guard Case'

LANSING (AP) — Suspended Brig. Gen. Carson Neifert, charged with neglect of National Guard duty, said Tuesday a colonel who was to have been his defense attorney has withdrawn from the case.

★ ★ ★

Neifert's announcement came after a meeting between the attorney, National Guardsman H. Donald Bruce of Lansing, and Maj. Gen. Cecil Simmons, commander of the 46th Infantry Division and Michigan chief of staff.

"I summoned Col. Bruce to my office and asked him in the presence of a witness (Col. Leo Whitaker, acting adjutant general) whether he planned to defend Gen. Neifert," Simmons said.

★ ★ ★

"He said he had not made up his mind yet," Simmons added. "It also turned out he would be on active duty Feb. 13-16 and wouldn't be in town Feb. 15."

Feb. 15 is the opening date for Gov. George Romney's hearing for Neifer and suspended Maj. Gen. Ronald McDonald, suspended adjutant general.

★ ★ ★

Asked what he would have done if Bruce had accepted the case, Simmons said he would have decided when the event actually occurred.

★ ★ ★

Simmons said he was not sure of military policy on such a case, but added it was his personal opinion that "it would not be right to have the National Guard fighting among itself."

Simmons noted that he signed the complaint charging Neifert and McDonald with "gross neglect of duty, misfeasance or malfeasance in office" in connection with alleged unauthorized expenditures for buildings and equipment.

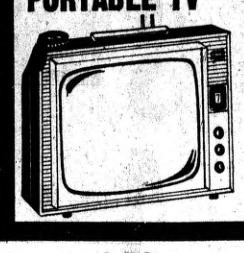

Neifer said that at the Simmons-Bruce meeting, Bruce was informed "there could develop a conflict of interest resulting in his dismissal from the National Guard."

Kentucky County That Poverty Program Overlooked Sinking Deeper Into Despair

BACKGROUND OF THE NEWS — SPECIAL REPORT

INEZ, Ky. (AP)—"There just isn't much pride left. You'll find about 80 per cent of our people just looking for another handout."

"They don't know anything else. In some cases, there has been unemployment for three or four generations."

★ ★ ★

County Judge Willie Kirk, chief administrative officer of Martin County, reflected dispair as he spoke. His county may be the poorest in Appalachia.

★ ★ ★

Martin County was visited by President and Mrs. Johnson last April during a tour of depressed areas of Appalachia. The Johnsons met men such as Tom Fletcher, whose income was under $400 a year.

OVERLOOKED COUNTY

But Martin wasn't among nine eastern Kentucky counties named recently as sites where $10.5 million will be spent in the federal government's war on poverty program.

"I don't know why, but we don't get a cent of that money," Kirk said. "I thought sure we'd be included in that program."

"But they told me down at Frankfort that if the antipoverty bill is expanded, we might get on the list," he added.

Most of money now available will be used to find employment for jobless persons. In Martin County, at least for the time being, such a program might be pointless.

NO INDUSTRY

There is no industry in the county. There is little hope for the present of getting any. And there is little profitable agriculture.

There is coal under the ground, but lack of transportation makes mining unprofitable. The only mine now operating in the county employs 30 men.

About one-third of the county's population is unemployed. Nearly half of the residents live on government surplus commodities. The per capita annual income is about $400, perhaps less.

There is one doctor in the county, but he is about to retire. There is one lawyer, also near retirement age. There are no dentists, no hospitals, not even an outpatient clinic.

HIGHWAYS BYPASS

There are no plans for the interstate highway system to touch Martin County. There are no U.S. highways within its borders. The 47 miles of paved state roads in the 231 square miles of the county are classed as poor.

There isn't even an incorporated city or town in the county.

★ ★ ★

One community, Warfield, population 295, has a water system. The rest of the county's 10,201 residents must use individual wells that produce sulphur-laden water.

There are no sewer systems. Everyone uses septic tanks.

NICE MEMORIES

Most areas in economically distressed Appalachia have memories of better days, when mining or other industries boomed and money jingled in mountain men's pockets. But not Martin County.

"Times were never good here," W. R. McCoy, an attorney here for more than 30 years, said.

★ ★ ★

"I guess the best times were between about 1908 and 1914, when the timber business was going. But even then, I wouldn't say times were good."

In those few years, the hills were stripped of their virgin timber. When it was gone, there was nothing.

FEEBLE ATTEMPTS

There were a few attempts at mining. Some oil wells were drilled and there was some exploration for natural gas. But all were too expensive to show a profit.

So the county went from bad to worse and people left.

★ ★ ★

In the 10 years between 1950 and 1960, the county's population declined by 34 per cent. What is more important, its population in the 18-24 age group declined 32 per cent.

"The older people, like me, who are left aren't optimistic," McCoy said. "What we need is new blood — young people with new ideas."

NEW PEOPLE

Gene Ball, county extension agent, believes an industry would bring with it new people and new ideas, "and the people here would have a reason to want to improve the area."

Kirk also thinks an industry is the answer. "If we just had even a small one, where there would be income for a few men, it would let them hold their heads up and we could build on that."

★ ★ ★

But Gov. Edward T. Breathitt pointed out that the county must make itself attractive before it can attract industry. It needs roads, a good school system, doctors, dentists.

The prime road need, members of the County Development Association say, is one to Prestonsburg, about 20 miles away as the crow flies and nearly 40 winding miles as a man must now drive.

AREA COLLEGE

It would allow Martin Countians to attend a community college, raising the educational potential. It also would connect the county with the mountain parkway, a toll road.

Breathitt has promised to do what he can, but he warned that "You shouldn't expect results tomorrow. We have to do what we can with the money we have."

There also are moves afoot to build a clinic and to attract a physician and a dentist. And there has been a proposal to consolidate the schools to improve curriculum.

But any hope is only for the distant future.

PEOPLE ARE SICK

"People come in here and tell you they are sick and don't have money to pay for treatment," Kirk said. "We do what we can, but we just can't do much.

★ ★ ★

"We don't have the money, either."

Greece Planning Action to Curb Selling and Exporting of Babies

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece plans to take steps to curb the export trade in babies, at present believed to be running at about 1,000 a year.

It's legal to buy a baby in Greece. Prices range from $1,000 to $3,000. This is mainly a legacy of World War II, followed by a Communist guerrilla war and the prevailing poor economic conditions that exist in outlying areas.

At war's end, thousands of orphans were roaming the streets. Adoption was deliberately made easy and was considered a humanitarian act.

The same ease of adoption still exists. Adopting parents do not even have to be in Greece. Many lawyers do a lucrative business supplying babies to childless foreign couples.

WILLING TO SELL

Parents of large families often are willing to sell one child so that the child itself and the others may live a little better. Often the price is sufficient to send an elder son to a trade school or provide a daughter with a dowry.

Numerous midwives will deliver babies free of charge in return for the child.

★ ★ ★

The Orthodox Church of Greece — the state-sponsored church — forbids the teaching of birth control. But devices are openly sold. Though abortions are not legal, women have little difficulty finding a doctor to perform one.

The government expects to tighten up adoption laws and possibly restrict adoption of Greek babies to Greeks, whether in Greece or abroad; and to foreign citizens of Greek descent.

WORST THING

The church feels that the worst thing that can happen to a Greek orphan is for it to be adopted by parents not of the Orthodox faith.

Orphanage officials say that if the laws are tightened or revised too drastically, childless couples may look elsewhere to adopt a child.

"With our orphanages already overcrowded, new measures by the government might pose unsurmountable problems for the orphanages in legally disposing of their stock," one official said.

Death Is Contagious

THE HAGUE, Holland (UPI) — G. J. N. Wijling, a gravedigger who suffered a heart attack here Monday while helping to lower a coffin into a grave at the Kerkhoflaan Cemetery, died in a hospital here last night. Another grave-digger who was helping Wijling collapsed and died minutes before Wijling was stricken.

Recipes Won't Be Successful if Cooks Are Careless About Measuring Ingredients

EAST LANSING — You can improve your cooking by using correct measuring techniques.

Liquid and dry ingredients should be measured in different ways by methods developed to account for their different natures, says Mary Coleman, foods specialist at Michigan State University.

Recipes printed in magazines, newspapers and books assume that accurate measuring techniques will be used.

Dry ingredients are measured in "standard" cups — those which may be leveled off at the top for the correct amount.

Liquids are measured in a "liquid measure" — a glass or transparent plastic cup — so that the divisions may be read easily.

Miss Coleman suggests following the methods approved by the American Home Economics Association.

Measure dry ingredients this way:

1. Spoon flour or any other dry ingredient lightly into the measure until it is overflowing. Do not shake the cup.
2. Level with the straight edge of a metal spatula or knife.
3. If the ingredient is to be sifted, it should be sifted first and then measured.
4. Measure small quantities of powdered foods by dipping the correct spoon size into the powder and bringing it up heaping full. Then level it off.
5. Measure white sugar by filling the cup to overflowing and then level it off.
6. Measure brown sugar by packing it firmly into the cup (enough for it to keep the shape of the cup when it is turned out) and then level it off.

"Brownulated" sugar is measured like granulated white sugar. Both brown and white sugar may be sifted before measuring if they are lumpy.

LIQUIDS

To measure liquids:

1. Pour the liquid to the measure mark.
2. Hold the mark at eye level for an accurate reading.

Measure solid fats in a "standard" cup:

1. Press the fat firmly into the cup until it is full.
2. Level with the straight edge of a spatula or knife.

Solid fats may also be measured by water displacement if the water will not affect the fat.

To do this, pour the water into a liquid measure so that it will equal one cup when the fat is added. For example, to measure ½ cup of fat, you would add ½ cup of water and ½ cup fat.

Oils and melted fats are measured like other liquids.

Rice Almondine

Lightly brown cooked rice in a generous amount of melted butter or margarine in skillet; stir in toasted slivered almonds and turmeric to taste. Serve as accompaniment for lamb chops or roast lamb.

Jelly Roll Filling

Ever use packaged lemon-flavored pudding and pie filling as the filling for a jelly-roll cake? Slice this lemon-roll cake and top it with whipped cream for a delightful dessert.

Remove at Once

Remove muffins and popovers from their pans as soon as you take them out of the oven so their bottoms do not steam and soften. Serve at once.

Brush With Oil

When you are broiling hamburgers, it's a good idea to brush their surface with melted butter of margarine, or with salad oil; this treatment helps to make the hamburgers brown and crusty.

Lowly Prunes Make Appearance in Salads and Desserts

Tender, plump prunes are available in unusually abundant supply. Production this year, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service, will be considerably greater than both average and last year's harvests.

These handy dried fruits have a multitude of mealtime uses, from nibbling as is, to complicated creations. And preparation may vary with intended use.

For salads and garnishes, dried prunes may be cooked without soaking. Just place in a saucepan and cover with cold water. Bring the water to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer slowly, 25 to 30 minutes.

If a thick syrup is desired, prunes should be soaked 3 to 4 hours, then simmered about 5 minutes after the water is brought to a quick boil. This style of cooking is perferable for breakfast and dessert prunes.

For baking or cooking, prunes should be soaked in a covered container for 24 hours. Use twice the volume of cold water as prunes. Cooking is not necessary.

Prune juice can be obtained by pouring boiling water over the fruit — twice as much water as prunes. Cover the container tightly and let prunes soak 24 hours.

Now you are on your way to preparing and serving plentiful dried prunes in a number of styles, such as these recommended by USDA home economists.

Prune Whip

⅔ cup prune pulp
2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice

For the fruit pulp, mash or put cooked prunes through a sieve. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff. Add sugar gradually, beating constantly until glossy. Fold in fruit pulp and lemon juice. Chill. 4 servings.

Prune-Apple Treat

Wash and core apples. Place in greased baking dish. Fill centers with chopped, pitted prunes. Pour one tablespoon undiluted orange concentrate into each apple. Top generously with a crumbly mixture of grated cheddar cheese, chopped walnuts, sugar, flour, and butter.

Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 35 minutes or until apples are tender.

Prune-Peach Salad

Arrange chilled peach halves on shredded lettuce. Top peach with a fluting of whipped cream cheese. Nestle a pecan-stuffed prune (soaked and pitted) into cream cheese. Serve with French dressing.

Prune Delights

Fit rolled cookie dough into an oblong greased baking dish. Arrange walnut-stuffed prunes (soaked and pitted) over dough. Dot with butter or margarine. Sprinkle with sugar.

Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven for 20 minutes. Sprinkle with coconut crumb top (combine coconut, sugar, milk, beaten egg, and salt) and reduce heat to 325 degrees.

Continue baking 15 minutes longer. Cool and cut into squares or strips.

Grapefruit's at Its Best Now

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Although the freezing temperatures in Florida this week damaged sugar cane and vegetable crops, the citrus fruit orchards weren't severely harmed.

So you can go on having grapefruit for breakfast.

The grapefruit we buy here comes from both Florida and Texas. For the next few months it will be in good supply.

You pick good grapefruit the same way you pick eating oranges — by the thickness of the skins.

For the best, juiciest fruit, choose fruit that is thin skinned.

Heavy fruit is usually better and juicier.

Superficial rust marks on the skin do not impair the taste.

While halves of fresh grapefruit for breakfast and segments of fresh grapefruit in a salad are hard to beat, you may want some different suggestions.

How about broiling it? This is a brunch or even a dessert suggestion if you omit the sausage.

Broiled Grapefruit

Cut fruit in half; remove core if desired. Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Do not cut around entire outer edge of fruit.

Sprinkle each half with 1 tablespoon sugar and a dash of cinnamon, mace or nutmeg. If desired, dot each half with 1 teaspoon butter. Place grapefruit on broiler rack 3 inches from heat.

Broil slowly 15 to 20 minutes, or until grapefruit is slightly brown and heated through. Grapefruit may be also baked in a moderately hot oven, (400 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes.

Serve hot with link sausage.

Note: If grapefruit is baked, sausages may be baked at the same time. Place links on rack in shallow pan; place on top shelf of oven 15-20 minutes.

A friend once served Grapefruit Alaska. She topped chilled halves of the fruit with a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Meringue was swirled over the ice cream, securely sealing the edges of the fruit. A few minutes in a very hot oven and she had a glamorous dessert.

Sherbet may be substituted for the ice cream.

Now is also the time to make your citrus marmalade. The recipe below adds oranges too.

Florida Marmalade

1 Florida grapefruit
2 Florida oranges
2 cups water
⅛ teaspoon soda
Sugar (about 6 cups)

Remove peel in quarters from fruit. Remove half the inner white part from grapefruit peel with paring knife; discard.

Cut remaining peel into fine slivers. If desired, cut part of peel in fancy shapes with small cutters.

Add water and soda. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

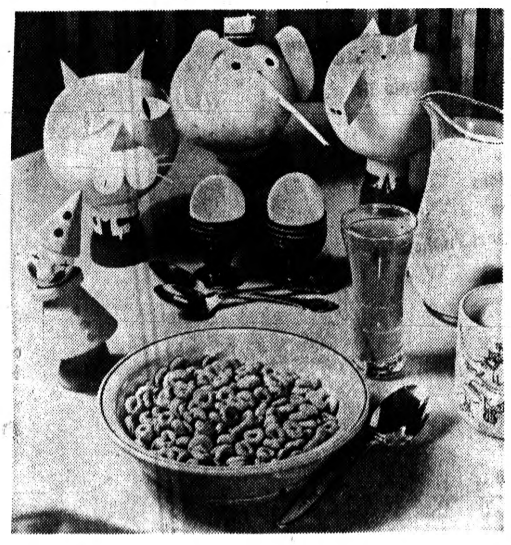

Dice pulp, removing core and seeds. Add pulp and juice to undrained rind. Cover; simmer 10 minutes.

Measure; add 1 cup sugar for each cup mixture. Bring to boiling point, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved.

Cook mixture rapidly, stirring frequently, to prevent scorching, until thick and clear, about 30 minutes, or until syrup runs off side of spoon in two drops which "sheet" together.

★ ★ ★

Pour into hot sterilized jars or glasses; paraffin at once. Yield 6 8-ounce glasses.

MAKING FACES — Do your children make faces when you mention the word "grapefruit"? Well, there's a humorous recourse to this situation; simply have the grapefruit make faces back at them. A laugh goes a long way to overcome resistance. Children will delight at the five cute paper faces in the grapefruit "fun cutouts" kit you can quickly and easily affix to Florida grapefruit to make it an appealing breakfast treat. See grapefruit display in your local store.

Meatballs Cook Fast When Broiled

A quick way to prepare meat balls that have good flavor is to broil them.

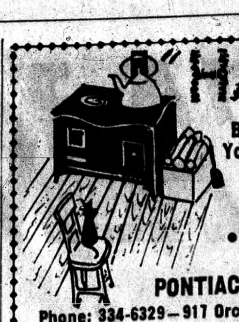

Broiled Meatballs

1 pound ground round steak
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon catsup
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ cup medium-fine grated Cheddar cheese (do not pack down)
Melted butter or margarine

With a fork, thoroughly mix together all the ingredients except the melted butter. Form into 20 balls, using about 2 tablespoons for each; have surfaces compact. Brush with butter.

Place on greased broiler rack; broil several inches from high heat, turning, until brown and cooked through. Makes 4 servings.

Marinate lamb chops in salad oil seasoned with onion salt and coarsely ground black pepper before broiling for a savory meat course.

Spanish Style Is Zesty

Are you in an economy-minded mood?

This is the time for most food budgets to come in for a bit of a trimming, but appetite-appeal must stay high or the family won't eat.

Heart is at the top of the list among variety meats as an excellent source of protein, while remaining low in calories.

It also furnishes iron, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin.

Braised Stuffed Heart

Wash one beef heart and remove the hard parts.

Fill the cavity with a bread stuffing made by combining 2 cups of soft bread crumbs with ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon sage and 2 tablespoons chopped onion. Mix in ¼ cup chopped celery and 1 beaten egg.

Combine thoroughly and add just enough water to make a slightly moist stuffing.

Sew or skewer the heart to hold the stuffing inside. Dredge the stuffed heart in ¼ cup flour seasoned with 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Brown on all sides in 2 tablespoons lard or drippings. Lastly, add ¼ cup water, cover tightly and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) 3 to 3½ hours or until tender.

Add more water, if necessary. This serves 8.

Garnish Beef With Bowknots of Bacon

This way of fixing bacon is sure to interest your friends.

Beef And Bowknots

8 slices bacon, at room temperature
1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Parsley sprigs

Tie 1 slice of bacon around another so there is a single knot in the center; straighten ends.

Make similar bowknots of the other 6 bacon slices so that there are 4 bowknots in all. Arrange on a broiler rack.

Mix beef with salt and pepper; shape into 4 patties; reserve. Broil bacon until crisp, turning and straightening ends to brown evenly; remove carefully to brown paper to drain; keep warm.

Brush the beef patties with some of the bacon drippings and broil rapidly, turning to brown both sides, to desired doneness. Garnish hamburgers with parsley and serve with bacon.

Low Cost Eggs Star in New Recipes

BAKED CABBAGE AND TOMATOES — Team two vegetables high in vitamin C — fresh cabbage and tomatoes — and feed the family a dish which is as good as it is good for them.

Cabbage and Tomatoes Mixed in Casserole

One of the strangest legends of mythology is the one about the feud between the cabbage and the grapevine.

The story goes that the two became enemies many centuries ago when the Thracian Prince Lycurgus injured or destroyed some grapevines belonging to Dionysus (or Bacchus), god of grapes and wine.

As punichment, Lycurgus was lashed to the vine to think of his wrong-doing. While bound, he began weeping big fat tears.

Where they fell to the ground, cabbage heads promptly appeared and nearby grapevines died away.

Cabbages are great, lusty growers, so good-natured in their needs that this vegetable can be grown commercially in 41 states of the Union, including Hawaii and Alaska.

Easy to grow and requiring a minimum of hand labor, with an annual supply of 1.9 billion pounds, it ranks fifth in vegetable crops, topped only by potatoes, lettuce, tomatoes and onions.

Cabbage is an excellent source of ascorbic acid (vitamin C), the greener the leaves, the higher the vitamin C content.

Other nutrients such as thiamine and iron are found in cabbage in amounts valuable as supplements to other sources.

To point out still other virtues of the cabbage, it is generally relatively low in price; it is low in calories and most men love cabbage raw or cooked.

A man who approaches other salads sniffishly will almost certainly take a nice big helping of cole slaw. Incidentally, despite the ancient feud, shredded cabbage and halved grapes team wonderfully to make a novel and delicious cole slaw.

From the kitchens of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association comes this good tested recipe.

Baked Cabbage and Tomato

1 lb. (4 cups) head cabbage
½ cup water
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
½ cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon ground marjoram
2½ cups tomatoes, cut up
1-3 cup stuffed green olives, sliced
1 cup cracker crumbs
1 cup (4 oz.) grated Cheddar cheese

Wash cabbage and cut into quarters. Discard core and shred coarsely. Cook in water for about 8 minutes, until tender then drain.

Heat oil in saucepan. Add onion and saute until transparent. Blend in flour, salt, ground black pepper, marjoram and stir until thickened, adding tomatoes and green olives last.

Place 1-3 of tomato mixture in individual casserole. Add 1 part cabbage, repeat. Cover with cracker crumbs and grated cheese. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (375 degrees) for 25 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Date Custard as Cake Filling

Serve well chilled "Date Cake De Luxe" to your friends and family with every assurance that their compliments will be flowing your way. Thin strips of fresh California dates provide delightful flavor and rich color in this multi-layered dessert.

Tuck some whole fresh dates into school and office lunch boxes for a noon-time treat.

Date Cake De Luxe

2 baked, cooled layers (8- or 9-inch) yellow or white cake
1 cup California dates
1 cup milk
1 envelope plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ pint whipping cream, whipped

Cut each cake layer crosswise into 2 thin layers.

Cut dates lengthwise into thin strips; combine with milk in top of double boiler. Place over hot water until milk is scalded.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Beat yolks lightly; stir slowly into hot milk and cook, stirring, until mixture coats spoon. Stir in gelatin until it is dissolved; cool to consistency of heavy syrup.

Meanwhile, beat egg whites with salt until foamy; gradually beat in sugar. Fold in gelatin mixture, vanilla and whipped cream. Chill a few minutes until almost set.

Spread ¼ of mixture on one cake layer; top with second layer, spread with mixture and repeat with remaining layers and mixture. Chill. Makes 12 to 14 servings.

Livers on Kebobs

Ever use chicken livers for kebabs? Alternate the livers with squares of bacon and with small mushrooms on skewers. Brush the chicken livers and mushrooms with melted butter or margarine before and during the broiling process.

For pretty ice cubes to add to punch, fill ice trays half full of cold water and freeze; now put a maraschino cherry in each compartment of the tray, fill the tray with cold water and finish freezing.

Fancy Compote Uses Pine Nuts

This unusual and delectable dessert was developed by one of the best of modern cookbook writers.

Nika Standen Hazelton's Raisin Compote

2 cups white raisins
1 cup water
1 cup honey
Grated rind of 1 lemon
½ cup pine nuts

Soak raisins in water to cover for 1 hour; drain. Boil together water and honey for 2 to 3 minutes. Add raisins and lemon rind; simmer for 10 minutes over low heat.

Skim with slotted spoon as needed. Add pine nuts to raisins. Chill thoroughly before serving.

A pretty southern teen-ager, Miss Sally Smartt, took second place honors in the Junior Division of the recent National Egg Cooking Contest. The belle from Morrison, Tennessee, impressed the judges with a Molded Egg Salad recipe, prepared at the second annual contest held in Chicago. The contest is sponsored by the Poultry and Egg National Board.

Sally used one dozen hard-cooked eggs to create the beautiful molded gelatin salad that won her a prize.

Made in two layers, with a bright green layer of chopped parsley and celery between them, Molded Egg Salad is an ideal one for a main dish or as the star attraction for a smorgasbord table.

MOLDED EGG SALAD

2 tablespoons (2 envelopes) unflavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1½ cups salad dressing or mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated onion
½ teaspoon salt
4 drops Tabasco
12 hard-cooked eggs
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped parsley

Filling:

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups cooked, diced chicken
1 cup cooked peas
½ cup button mushrooms

In top of double boiler mix gelatin with cold water; place over boiling water until gelatin is completely dissolved. Cool slightly. Add salad dressing or mayonnaise, lemon juice, grated onion, salt and Tabasco.

Arrange center slices of hard-cooked eggs in bottom of an oiled 1 to 1½-quart ring mold. Separate remaining yolks and whites of eggs. Sieve the yolks and combine with half the gelatin mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Chop egg whites and combine with remaining half of gelatin mixture.

Pour slightly thickened yolk mixture into ring mold. Sprinkle celery and parsley over yolk mixture. Spoon egg white mixture into mold and chill until set.

To prepare filling: melt butter in skillet; add flour and blend. Add chicken, peas and mushrooms; heat thoroughly. Unmold salad on a serving plate and fill center with chicken mixture. Garnish with parsley or other salad greens. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Fluffy Shirred Eggs are something different for a light luncheon for ladies, or perhaps for a Sunday brunch for weekend guests. Canadian bacon and golden fresh eggs provide the basis for this unusual dish.

SET ON TOAST

Toast rounds form the bottom layer for the Fluffy Shirred Eggs. Spread mustard to taste on generous slices of Canadian bacon and broil for 5 minutes or until lightly browned. The bacon is placed on top of the toast rounds before they are covered with the fluffy eggs.

The golden goodness of eggs provides a wealth of meal planning tricks to brighten your menus and provide well-balanced meals. Eggs are in plentiful supply, which means the price is low.

Eggs are high in the most complete protein needed for good health and energy, yet low in calories. Take home an extra dozen today.

FLUFFY SHIRRED EGGS

6 slices Canadian bacon
Prepared mustard
6 eggs
¾ teaspoon salt
6 large toast rounds

Spread mustard over Canadian bacon and broil for 5 minutes. Separate eggs, keeping each yolk in an egg shell half set upright. Add salt to whites and beat until very stiff, but not dry.

Pile whites on top of Canadian bacon that has been placed on toast rounds. With spoon make a well in the center of whites and slip a yolk into each well.

Bake in a 350-degree (moderate) oven about 10 to 12 minutes, or until yolks are of desired consistency. Makes 6 servings.

Raisin Bread Cubes Folded Into Pancakes

Danish raisin bread pancakes make a festive Sunday supper with creamed ham or cheese sauce.

Fry until crisp ¼ pound salt pork or bacon, cut in small pieces; drain. Beat 4 egg whites foamy, add 2 tablespoons water and beat stiff. Fold 3 cups raisin bread cubes, 4 beaten egg yolks and meat into whites.

Drop into 6 mounds on hot greased griddle. Bake 10 minutes first side, 5 minutes second side over medium heat. Makes 6 cakes.

The parallels drawn between Jimmy Brown of the National Football League and Cookie Gilchrist of the American Football League can be made only on the field of play.

"They are two different players," said Buffalo Bills' coach Lou Saban in Pontiac this week. "Brown draws so many assignments running and pass receiving he doesn't get a chance to do any blocking. Cookie is a great runner and as tough a blocker as you'll find."

Saban, who inherited the AFL all-pro problem player two years ago admits that Gilchrist is beyond comparison or comprehension.

"He's one tough football player, but he's a poor business man," Saban said.

Cookie's business ventures which have included at least two dozen projects extending from iron ore to Christmas trees, have been as sound as selling earmuffs in the tropics.

LATEST VENTURES

The latest business disasters for Gilchrist took place in December just prior to the Buffalo-San Diego championship game.

"I think he put something like 20,000 Christmas trees on leased lots all around Buffalo," said Saban, "but half of them were stolen and he hardly made enough money on the other 50 per cent to pay for the trees and for leasing the lots."

His business mind, however didn't stop working. He ordered 15,000 earmuffs to sell in historically cold Buffalo prior to the title contest and his plan was to have the players autograph them.

"A week prior to the game, however, we had an unusual warm spell," recalled Saban, "and fortunately he was abel to cancel the order."

Another business proposition was a men's clothing store which he planned on buying because it was going bankrupt. He offered Ralph Wilson a chance to make a $15,000 investment and he even had his sign made, "Cookie's Closet, Inc."

He couldn't get Wilson or anyone to make up the "Inc." part of the sign so he gave up the idea.

The big 245 pound fullback, who has sprinter's speed and the power of a bulldozer, came up through football ranks of the Western Pennsylvania hotbed.

PREPS TO PROS

After his junior year at Har-Brack high school in Natrona Heights, Pa., he went into the Cleveland Browns' training camp and after one week he admitted the jump from the preps to the pros was too big.

He went on to Sarnia, Hamilton, Regina and Toronto in seven years of Canadian ball, establishing fantastic records on the gridiron and incredulous marks in his personal life.

"He keeps us on our toes," said Saban, "we never know what he may come up with next. In fact I'm satisfied talking to him just before each game and at contract time."

Saban noted a humorous story of a rookie lineman who came to the Bills last summer, and during an exhibition game the rookie asked for a chance to go in at the guard spot so that he could block on a play for Cookie "to see how he handles his blocking."

★ ★ ★

"I didn't think it would hurt so I sent this rookie in," Saban said. The excited rookie moved into the line of scrimmage and at this point he looked up at the opposing defensive tackle and said, "You better look out man, I'm blocking for Gilchrist on this play and we're gonna run right over you."

The shocked Gilchrist yelled for time out and quickly raced to the sidelines shouting for Saban to get that %)&$%? out of there.

With this tale, Saban may have been trying to prove that Cookie Gilchrist does have some sense of direction.

Rozelle Opens Lecture Series

NFL Boss Shuns Peace Pact With AFL

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Any ideas of a summit peace conference between the American Football League and the National Football League certainly don't seem to fit the present in the mind of NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Speaking at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Auditorium in the first of a four-week lecture series on the theme "Professional Football," Rozelle commented, "Any success they (AFL) would have they would have to do on their own and not through us (NFL)."

"We are obligated to the fans in our 14 franchise cities and we aren't going to make any changes which would hurt our caliber of football," he added.

★ ★ ★

Rozelle touched on all phases of pro football and the duties of the commissioner's office in his one hour talk, and in the ensuing question and answer session he was called upon to express his views on the current problems in the NFL—that of signing college players, of recent charges of the NFL player's association and the inevitable questions on the AFL.

Rozelle avoided the question on the common draft suggestion between the NFL and AFL, as was re-iterated by Ralph Wilson of the AFL Buffalo Bills in Pontiac Monday night.

He merely pointed out that NFL clubs have pledged to the colleges to refrain from signing players until after all eligibility has been completed including post season games, and he pointed out that "the NCAA is hoping the AFL will make similar commitements."

He implied, however, that NFL coaches may not readily favor the pledge idea when he said, "I hope we don't lose any players as a result of the unconditional pledge."

★ ★ ★

Monday night Wilson, the Bills' owner, expressed the idea that "excessive bonuses are ridiculous . . . . . and if this should continue, every team in pro football would be operating in the red in a few years . . . . . because veterans would start demanding higher contracts and it would be unfeasible to raise tickets prices and increases stadia capacities."

NO AFFECT

Rozelle on the other hand said, "I don't think the big bonuses would affect the morale of the teams. This is part of the times, just as in baseball, and most of the veteran players understand this.

"These bonus players just happened to be born at the right time," he added.

He also said that there were no plans at this time to put limits on these bonuses.

In regard to recent criticisms by the NFL Players' Association in which he was termed the "Owner's Commissioner" Rozelle said the two major points of misunderstanding with the players have been the commercial endorsement rights of the players and the pension plan and committee in which they want player-club representations.

SIGN RELEASE

Rozelle said the players signed a release in 1961 permitting him to bargain for commercial contracts and all moneys would go into the player pension fund. "Since 1961 from these endorsements a total of $151,000 has gone into the pension fund," he said.

On other matters, Rozelle said a central scouting system may result in the near future with the NFL office handling this and evaluating all college players and supplying each club with similar information.

"Currently each club has the task of going through 3,000 to 5,000 names of college players and the amount of information required for each player is now becoming a task for IBM machines."

In closing the program, he was asked if it wouldn't be a nice gesture to bury the hatchet and ask Alex Karras to join him at the Lindell AC for a beer and a sandwich.

"I've already made the arrangements," he said, "Alex, Dick "The Bruiser' and myself are going over there after this program."

3-Way Trade Sends Colavito to Indians

White Sox, KC Involved; Eight Players Move

Sox Obtain Romano From Tribe; Landis Goes to Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Outfielder Rocky Colavito returned to the Cleveland Indians today and catcher John Romano went back to the Chicago White Sox in an eight-player trade among three American League clubs.

The Kansas City Athletics sent Colavito to Cleveland; the Indians gave Romano, outfielder Tommie Agee and pitcher Tommy John to Chicago; and the White Sox delivered outfielders Jim Landis and Mike Hershberger and a pitcher to be named later to the A's, and catcher Camilo Carreon to the Indians.

In Cleveland, General Manager Gabe Paul of the Indians said he had been negotiating the deal since last fall.

The 31-year-old Colavito, a popular figure with the Cleveland fans before the Indians traded him to Detroit in 1960, was quoted by Paul as saying:

"I'm delighted. I never wanted to leave Cleveland."

The Indians are hoping that the long-ball slugger not only will help bring back fans but also provide some additional home-run punch in its line-up.

.274 AVERAGE

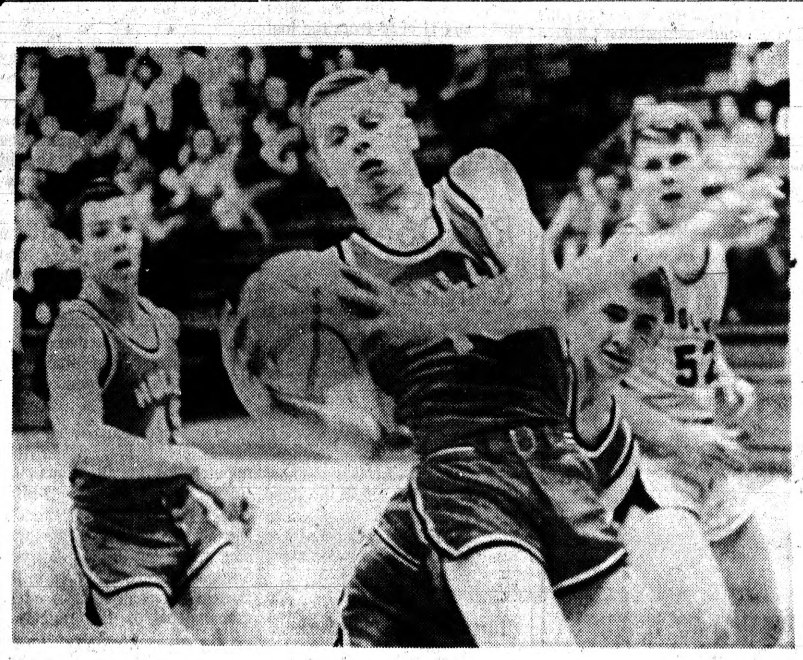

Colavito, who had 34 home runs and 102 runs batted in, finished last season at Kansas City with a .274 average.

Romano batted .241 last season, hitting 19 homers and driving in 47 runs. He has had trouble regaining his earlier form since being sidelined for most of the 1963 season when he broke his hand in early May.

Hershberger, who had been with the White Sox since 1961, batted .230 last season.

Landis, 30, started his major league career with the White Sox in 1957 and had been with Chicago steadily since 1958. The fleet outfielder was used sparingly last year, when he had a falling out with Manager Al Lopez, and batted .208.

John had a 2-9 record for Cleveland in 1964 and Carreon, sidelined much of the season by injury, hit .274 in 37 games. Agee is regarded as a top-flight young defensive outfielder.

BRONCO HARASSED — Holly's Tom Fagan came away with this rebound against Clarkston last night and turned in a top job on the boards, but the senior suffered in the scoring column, collecting only eight points as Holly bowed, 60-54. Behind Fagan are teammates Jim Hanks (45) and Bill Taylor. No. 52 is Clarkston's Dave Coulter.

Defensive Unit Decisive

Clarkston Halts Holly, 60-54

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Clarkston's sticky defense silenced Holly's big guns last night and came away with a 60-54 basketball triumph.

★ ★ ★

The winners strategy was simple: Stop Holly's Tom Fagan.

Fagan was stopped and so was Holly. The defeat was costly for the Broncos, who slipped into second place in the Wayne - Oakland League with a 5-2 record, a half game behind league-leading Bloomfield Hills (5-1).

Fagan, handling the center position for the Broncos, went into the game with a scoring average of 19.3 points a game.

★ ★ ★

Clarkston coach Bud McGrath handed senior Ron Lippert the assignment of stopping Fagan.

GOOD JOB

Lippert did the job well. The game was approaching the midway mark of the third period before Fagan collected his first points — a pair of charity tosses.

Unable to score inside, Fagan moved away from the basket in the fourth quarter and hit on a pair of long jump shots. He finished with eight points.

Fagan wasn't the only Bronco corralled by the Wolves' defense.

Holly took only 45 shots at the basket—the team normally gets 60 to 70—and connected on 17 for 37 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The Wolves fired away at a 34 per cent pace, hitting on 24 of 70 shots.

FIFE LEADS

Dan Fife, Clarkston's sophomore guard - forward, led the Wolves with 25 points, with most of his buckets coming on driving layups.

★ ★ ★

Fife led the team to a 27-22 halftime, collecting 15 points in the first two frames, and he sparkled on offense and defense in keeping Holly off balance in the second half.

Helping Fife with the scoring chores were Lippert (11) and Rod Allen (11).

The Wolves' Gary Pearson, held scoreless for three quarters, came through with seven points in the fourth quarter to turn back a Holly rally.

★ ★ ★

The Broncos came within two points of Clarkston in the third quarter and cut the deficit to four midway in the fourth.

Bill Taylor paced the Holly attack with 18 points, followed by Jim Hanks with 10.

All-Star Keg Finals Begin Today in East

PHILIADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Weber of St. Louis and Jean Winsch of South Bend, Ind., led 36 survivors from an original field of 632 into the finals of the $100,000 All-Star Bowling Tournament today.

Weber won the qualifying trophy Tuesday night for the second time in his 11-year All-Star career with an average of more than 218. He piled up 10,474 pins in 48 games of preliminary action. An old nemesis, Harry Smith of Boston, finished second in the qualifying with 10,408.

★ ★ ★

Weber, Smith and Billy Welu of St. Louis are the only former champions in the 20-member men's field. Tommy Tuttle, the stocky newcomer from King, N.C., who finished second last year, survived the semifinal cut Tuesday night but Bob Strampe, the defending champion, was eliminated when he finished 30th.

Defending women's champion LaVerne Carter of St. Louis was eliminated Monday night when she failed to survive the first preliminary cut.

MODEST SCORE

Mrs. Winsch, 40-year-old mother of two, won the women's qualifying trophy with a modest 196 average. She totaled 5,886 for 30 games, enough to edge out second-place Helen Duval of Berkeley, Calif., by 35 pins. Olgar Gloor of Chicago finished third with 5843 and Betty Kuczynski of Chicago was fourth with 5,840.

The sponsoring Bowling Proprietors Association of America will inaugurate a new format for the five-day finals which will be climaxed by a nationally televised championship match on Sunday, Jan. 24.

★ ★ ★

Both the men's field and the women's roster of 16 will be separated into two divisions. Contestants in each division will bowl a series of two round robin matches with each bowler in their own division. In addition, they will cross over to bowl single matches with opponents in the other division.

The final match of the tournament will pit "winners" of the various divisions.

City Rec 5s Post Lopsided Triumphs

The city recreation department's Class B and C basketball programs began last night with two double-headers.

Booth Builders whipped McDonald's Drive-In, 90-39, and Messiah Baptist Church dumped The Packers, 66-49, for "B" victories that were in little doubt.

★ ★ ★

In "C" play, Coulacos Insurance drubbed J. R. Neph Heating, 83-52; and in the night's only close contest, The Hawks nipped The All-Stars, 55-53, after trailing for three periods.

PGA Cancels Fresno; San Jose Stop Okayed

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The Fresno Open Golf Tournament, which has lost an estimated $20,000 in its two years on the calendar, has been canceled from the Professional Golfers Association 1965 fall tour schedule.

Tournament committee co-chairman Stan Borasi, in making the announcement, said "It is a matter of being unable to agree on dates." Last weekend the PGA Tournament Committee voted to give the Almaden Open in San Jose the dates requested by Fresno — Oct. 28-31.

Final Spurt Ends Streak for Quintet

WHITE PIGEON (AP) — White Pigeon's basketball drought is over.

The high school dumped Coldwater St. Charles 73-69 Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

The victory was the first for White Pigeon in 62 games — dating back to the 1961 state high school tournament.

Greg Stritz was the hero of the night. He scored 15 of his game-leading 20 points in the second half.

The game was tied, 52-52, after three quarters and again at 65-all with 2:42 remaining.

But White Pigeon held the upper hand for those final precious seconds to the delight of its screaming supporters.

HAMTRAMCK WINS

Elsewhere around Michigan, Hamtramck, No. 3 in Class A in this week's Associated Press poll, outclassed Hamtramck St. Florian, No. 3 in Class C, 65-38. Ferndale No. 8 in Class A, edged past East Detroit (No. 7), 65-61, in a game that was tied 13 times.

Cranbrook Sextet Loses to Ecorse

Ecorse took a 5-3 victory from Cranbrook's International High School Hockey League team by tallying three goals in opening five minutes of play.

Tom Pfaff and Steve Parrott netted first period tallies for the losers. Dick Moon cut the deficit to 4-3 early in third period but the lighter Ecorse sextet clinched its second win of the lean season with an insurance marker in the closing minute of play.

Cranbrook is 1-5-2. The Cranes entertain Catholic Central this afternoon.

Dickie Moore, former National Hockey League scoring champion with Montreal, is with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Table Tennis Star on Pontiac Horizon

An 11-year-old protege of the Pontiac Table Tennis Association League, sponsored by the city Parks and Recreation Department, is rapidly gaining respect and titles around the state.

LESNER

Bill Lesner, 2416 Empire in West Bloomfield Township, has launched himself from the weekly league play in Pontiac Central's girls gym, to the 1964 city boys' championship, to the state associatoin's President's Tournament midget boys crown.

The latter was earned this past weekend in Detroit's Cobo Hall at the expense of entries from Lansing and the Motor City.

The youngster, who began his table tennis competition three years ago, also, was the consolation division junior men's champion in the President's Tournament.

Lesner won the CKLW television Sports Spectacular Tournament earlier this month. His next tourney is the Central Inter-State meet next month, which will be followed by the U.S. National Tournament in March—both of them at Cobo Hall.

Charity Shots Help Ferris Nip Hillsdale

HILLSDALE (AP)—Foul shots made the difference Tuesday night as Ferris State defeated Hillsdale 82-75 for its seventh basketball win in 10 starts.

★ ★ ★

Each team shot an identical 32-of-79 from the floor, but the Bulldogs clicked on 18 of 37 charity tosses, while the Dales made only 11 of 23 from the foul line.

Rudy Ransom topped the winners, who held a 45-34 halftime edge, with 29 points. Charlie Works scored 24 for Hillsdale, now 8-8.

Ref Doesn't Chicken Out

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — A chicken drew a foul Tuesday night at the Dartmouth-Harvard hockey game.

★ ★ ★

A fan tossed a live chicken — dyed crimson, Harvard's school color — onto the ice in the third period and the referee assessed the Big Green a team penalty.

Dartmouth won anyway, 5-3.

Jury Duty Extended

TORONTO (UPI)—Punch Imlach, coach of the Toronto Maple Leafs, must serve as a juror a week longer than the rest of the panel he is working with due to a misunderstanding. Imlach, who reported on Jan. 12 as ordered but left when mistakingly told he didn't have to serve, will be sidelined from coaching during the week's jury duty.

Pistons Beat Weary 76ers

Harding Paces Win; Royals Stop Hawks

By the Associated Press

Wilt Chamberlain was expected to come home to Philadelphia today and the weary 76ers were waiting at the airport with open arms.

★ ★ ★

Since acquiring Chamberlain from San Francisco during last week's National Basketball Association All-Star break, the short-handed 76ers have dropped three of four starts, the latest a 103-97 loss to the Detroit Pistons Tuesday night at Toledo, Ohio.

The 76ers, down to eight men as a result of the 3-for-1 trade and Chamberlain's belated arrival, fell behind in the third quarter, rallied to tie the score at 91 with 4:45 to go and collapsed in the closing minutes.

★ ★ ★

Rod Thorn's three-point play broke the deadlock and the Pistons hung on behind baskets by Player-Coach Dave DeBusschere, Reggie Harding and Joe Caldwell. Harding led Detroit with 22 points and 21 rebounds.

BELOW - 500

Hal Greer, 22 points, and John Kerr, 21, paced the 76ers, who fell below the .500 mark with their 23rd loss in 45 games.

Chamberlain is expected to play against his former mates Thursday when Philadelphia entertains the Warriors.

★ ★ ★

Oscar Robertson poured 15 of his 40 points in the last 10½ minutes, leading the Cincinnati Royals past St. Louis 103-99 in Tuesday's only other game. The loss ended a three-game winning string for the Hawks, who dropped into second place in the Western Division race, one-half game behind idle Los Angeles.

CHAMP DITCHED — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, playing host to a group of newsmen bound for the training camp of Canadian champion George Chuvalo near Monticello, N.Y., took over the wheel of his bus and it wound up in a ditch en route to the camp. Clay explained afterward he thought he saw the 'washerwoman' — his name for Chuvalo — in the road "so I turned my head. The newsmen, none injured, walked the last mile to camp.

Returns as O-A Contender

Avondale 5 Resurges

Avondale's basketball team is growing up.

Back in the 1960-61 season, coach Dick Bye and the Yellow Jackets were enjoying basketball prosperity, winding up the campaign with an 11-4 record and an Oakland A League title.

The years since have been lean ones. The team slid to a 5-11 mark in 1961-62, dropped to 2-14 in 1962-63 and posted a 2-13 record last year.

Bye accepted the defeats gracefully, at the same time laying plans for another day and another season.

★ ★ ★

Following the championship year, Bye, with few upperclassmen trying out for the team, pushed a freshman into the lineup and he stayed there.

TOP SCORER

The freshman was Lynn Thorpe and he's been the team's top scorer the past two seasons.

The next year, Bye handed the starting positions to sophomores.

The team still lost, but it was learning.

Bye was optimistic at the start of this season. He had the same team back and the squad was eager to make fans forget the losing seasons.

★ ★ ★

It has. The Jackets own a 6-1 record over-all, and hold down second place in the Oakland A with a 4-1 mark. They are rated 12th in the latest Associated Press Prep Class B poll.

WINNING FORMULA

Bye easily explains the reasons for the Jackets' success. Foremost is experience.

"Basically, all these kids started as sophomores or earlier," said Bye. "They all played on the varsity as sophs since we didn't have many boys out that year."

Still around are seniors Thorpe (6-0), Roger Hill (6-0), Tom Reek (6-0) and John Anderson (6-0).

Those four plus another senior, Dan McCoskey (6-3), and junior David Irwin (6-4) give the Jackets a potent sting.

"McCoskey has been the big difference," says Bye.

NEWCOMER

"He came out for the first time last year as a junior and he's a much improved ballplayer this season.

"Thorpe is our big scorer (averaging 18.8); and the last two seasons other teams have been able to stop us by stopping him.

"We have better balance this year and they can't concentrate on Thorpe. And another big reason for our success this year is rebounding.

"The team has more confidence. My way of thinking, underclassmen look to older kids . . . these boys are older now and they are producing."

Bye will find out in the next four games if the team has matured enough to take the Oakland A crown.

MEET CLAWSON

This Friday the Jackets play host to Clawson. After Clawson will come league-leading Troy, Lake Orion and Warren Cousino.

The Jackets should get by Clawson but there are a few problems after that.

★ ★ ★

Madison tightened the race a little last night by upsetting Cousino, 65-62. The Cousino quintet ran into cold streaks in the first and fourth quarters and Madison took advantage of the lapses to post the victory.

Jim Combs led Madison with 20 points. Drew Pisha had 18 for Cousino.

Other games on the O-A slate Friday have Madison (3-3) at Lake Orion (3-3), Cousino (4-2) at Fitzgerald (0-6) and Rochester (4-2) at Troy.

Pro Cage Player Deals Reflected in Standings

The sports team that stands still in its dealings soon is passed by the opposition.

Only the Chicago Bombers in the North American Basketball League have made fewer significant attempts than the Pontiac Nationals to improve their personnel.

★ ★ ★

Only the Bombers are lower in the five-team NABL standings.

Grand Rapids, Benton Harbor and Muskegon all have improved their playing strength since the season began—particularly the latter.

The Panthers have added Joe Roberts, Mel Nowell, Ralph Honderd and Herschell Turner; and they have passed Pontiac in the standings.

But the Nationals this week made a move which they feel will improve their prospects this season and next. It isn't too late, either, to close the gap on Muskegon (one game) or Grand Rapids (two games).

Dave Gunther, currently cage coach at Royal Oak Kimball, has signed a contract and seems set to finish the season with Pontiac.

The 6-5, 210-pound former two-time all-Big Ten performer at Iowa and honorable mention All-America joins the Nationals at a key time.

They will travel to Grand Rapids Saturday for their third meeting with the Tackers, runners-up to league-leading Benton Harbor. Pontiac (4-6) has lost two straight and will meet a team it has not beaten to date.

Another loss would put them at a distinct disadvantage for the remainder of the season. The pace-setting Twin City Sailors from Benton Harbor who have taken Pontiac three times will visit the Nationals the following Saturday.

PRO EXPERIENCED

Gunter, after his graduation, played briefly with the Chicago Majors in the now defunct American Basketball League and then in the Eastern Professional League where he averaged close to 20 points per game.

His new duties at Kimball plus physical ailments prevented him from joining the Nationals earlier this season.

The Nationals' newest performer will take the place of guard Frank Chickowski on the travel roster. The latter, averaging less than one point per game, will go on the team's reserve list.

TICKET SALE

Arrangements for the Nationals-Benton Harbor game Jan. 30th at Pontiac Northern are progressing rapidly. Tickets are on sale at several locations with Griff's Grill acting as the central ticket agency.

The Perry Drug Stores; Oakland University Student Center; the Family Barber Shop, Sylvan Shopping Center; and the Walled Lake Discount House are other announced locations. Additional ones will be listed shortly.

Prices start at $1 for students and include $1.50 for end sections and $1.75 for center section reserved seats.

Local Cager Also Victim of Accident

The death of young Birmingham Seaholm swimmer Rodger Henderson Saturday night in an automobile accident was not the only area athletic fatality during the weekend.

★ ★ ★

The auto accident the same night on Telegraph near Hazel that claimed two lives deprived Midwestern Baptist Seminary of a promising basketball player.

Calvin Hopkins, 26, was a junior and a substitute guard on the Midwestern Falcons of the Michigan Christian College Athletic Association.

Hopkins, who was buried today in the Wixom Cemetery with several of his teammates serving as pallbearers, scored two points in the Midwestern victory Saturday afternoon at Lansing.

HOPKINS

That night he was involved in a minor accident on Telegraph and was discussing it along the roadway with Dennis and Terry Waring, Waterford Township, when they were struck by another car. Both Hopkins and Dennis Waring were killed.

Hopkins was a transfer student from Tennessee Temple Schools who was described by Midwestern dean and basketball coach Ken Frederick as an excellent student who was studying to be a minister.

He taught Sunday school and was a member of Emmanuel Baptist church in Pontiac while working nights at General Motors Truck and Coach and commuting from Wixom.

"Calvin was quiet and serious, but very friendly," Frederick said. "He was a good all-round athlete . . . a great hustler and highly regarded by all his teammates."

The coach noted that Hopkins had played in four games (the Falcons are 3-3) and had scored six points. He was being groomed as a starting guard for next season.

Only 34 Autos Can Continue Monaco Rally

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI)—Only 34 cars of an original field of 237 survived snow, ice, mud and slush in the Alps and will take part in the final stage of the Monte Carlo automobile rally starting tonight.

The final test of this annual event covers 362.5 miles and takes the cars over the mountain circuit from Monte Carlo through Sospel, past Saveur, Pont Charles Albert and other towns in the Maritime Alps.

Leading the reduced field today were Timo Makinen, Finland's ace rally driver, and Lucien Bianchi of Belgium.

Makinen is driving a BMC Cooper with Paul Easter for the BMC factory team. After arriving in Monte Carlo from his Stockholm starting point, Makinen said of his trip that it was "certainly the worst conditions I've ever met in a rally."

HALL OF FAME BOWLING TIPS

By JOE NORRIS
Written for NEA

Hall of Famer Frank Benkovic, elected to membership in 1958, is an acknowledged expert on equipment for bowling. He got that reputation through lifelong study of the sport and personal testing of equipment innovations.

It's true for bowling as in all other individual sports, that how his equipment fits a player is vital to his performance. And a bowler can equip himself with a custom-fitted ball, shoes and bag for under $50.

On many occasions, I've heard Frank tell how critical ball fit is to scoring potential. A beginner can take advantage of free ball use at his bowling center, but when he progresses into regular play, he should get expert help on the choice of a personal ball.

A ball matched to a bowler's stature and style by weight and finger hole specifications will help improve scores.

Obedience Dogs at Mall

A special dog obedience demonstration is scheduled Friday at 7 p. m. in the Mall.

Southern Michigan Obedience Training Club members are staging the program in connection with upcoming obedience classes conducted by the organization.

★ ★ ★

SMOTC members will be at the Mall during the day and after the demonstration to explain the training course.

An added attraction will be the appearance of obedience trainer Charlie Franks of Detroit and his talking duck Lulu. The demonstration will include having dogs follow voice, whistle and hand commands and retrieving.

The training group, which had more than 1,000 dogs in its classes last year in Southeastern Michigan, is organizing three classes in the Pontiac area.

A demonstration is scheduled tonight at the CAI building in Waterford and tomorrow night at Whitfield school in Pontiac. The 10-week classes at these two sites will get under way next week.

★ ★ ★

Walled Lake senior high will be the site of a demonstration Feb. 2, followed by classes. Dog owners attending the demonstrations are urged to leave their canines home as no individual instruction will be given until classes begin.

Demonstrations at the CAI, Whitfield and Walled Lake are at 8 p. m.

Additional information is available from the Waterford recreation department, Walled Lake board of education and Reg. Armstrong, 2385 Oaknoll.

An obedience class is scheduled to start at Rochester in March.

Public Hearing on State Park Dog Ban Moved

Prompted by indications of a larger turnout than originally expected, the Conservation Department has shifted the site of Friday's public hearing on a proposed state park dog ban to Parlors C and D in Lansing's Civic Center.

The hearing was to have been held in Room 133 of the Stevens T. Mason building. As previously scheduled, it will begin at 2 p.m.

Discussion will center upon a plan to bar dogs from state parks and recreation areas in Michigan from May 1 through Sept. 30.

800 Anglers Fail to Catch One Fish

A couple of paragraphs moved on the AP wire should be read by fishermen who are forever proclaiming that lakes they can't catch fish from are "fished out."

Lake Allie in Minnesota is noted for its top-notch catches. Last Sunday 800 persons swarmed on Allies' ice to participate in the annual fishing contest.

★ ★ ★

"Not one fish—not even a three-inch sunfish—was caught by any contestant," according to the AP dispatch. The prizes were given out in a free drawing.

Technique, including tackle, and the idiosyncracies of fish hold the key to success on any lake known to harbor a good population of fish.

Cliff Fuller, who watches over the closed Drayton hatchery for the Conservation Department, but more specifically handles the planting of fish in area lakes, reports that 25,000 splake were stocked in Cass Lake. An official of the department reported this figure originally, but it was later dropped to 13,000 in a department release.

"Some people may have thought we didn't get all the splake in the lake because a truck broke down," said Fuller. "But we were using three trucks and when the alternator went out on one, we completed the operation with the other two.

"To set the record straight, there were 25,000 planted at Cass."

Fuller also passed along the information that the department initially plants "about 500 trout to the acre on lakes." He also said that all trout releases scheduled for the county were completed in December.

★ ★ ★

The Conservation Department's Pontiac Lake district office building is being readied for occupancy before the end of the month, it is located on M59 near Williams Lake Road. The department is renting the building until a new structure is built.

REPORTS ON BEAR HUNTERS

Rep. Robert Slingerlend from the 63rd district (northeast Oakland County) is a member of the House conservation committee. The recently elected Democrat attended a meeting of the Michigan Bear Hunters Association at Lake City during the weekend.

He reports that the group went on record urging a moratorium on bear hunting in the northern Lower Peninsula for the next two years.

The Bear Hunters favored similar action a year ago.

Slingerlend also reported that Conservation Department Director Ralph McMullen mentioned an expanded elk hunting season next fall and indicated that the department may be ready for limited wild turkey hunting.

★ ★ ★

Hunting equipment dealers in the area are saying that the price of guns, ammunition, reloading components — shooting equipment in general — is going up five to 15 per cent this spring.

One dealer reported that the cost to his firm of a recent shipment of .22 rimfire ammo was up 15 per cent. All increases will be passed on to the consumer.

LEADS AREA RIFLE SALES

What high power rifle was the most popular new purchase before the last deer season and before Christmas?

Oakland County area hunters leaned heavily toward the Remington 700 in 7 mm magnum and 6 mm. The Savage 110 in 30-06 was runner-up.

Dealers say that new gun buyers are scouring gun racks looking for "old" model 70 Winchesters. They don't like the looks of the "new" model 70 with its assembly line look.

★ ★ ★

Stoney lake near Oxford is the home for several thousand muskie fingerlings that had to be transferred in a hurry from the Conservation Department's Wolfe lake hatchery when a dose of weed-killer spray blew onto the rearing pond late last summer.

The lake probably will be closed to spearing within the next couple of years.

PONTIAC AUDUBON CLUB

Meadowlarks, rufus-sided towhee and purple finches were reported to be using bird feeders at the homes of area members during a recent meeting of the Pontiac Audubon Club.

Slides made during a summer trip to Alaska were shown by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thorpe. Larry Hall, PAC president, will show pictures on birds, eggs and flowers at the Feb. 10 meeting.

Snared Eagle Back in Wild

MENOMINEE (AP) — Magnus Eichern usually catches coyotes in his coyote traps.

The other day, though, he caught a mature bald eagle.

The species is the largest in North America except for the rare California Condor.

Eichorn released the eagle from his trap and took it home. He put it in his henhouse in the little Menominee County town of Carney to recuperate.

★ ★ ★

"He had been caught by one claw and he wasn't very zippy when he was released. He made one short flight and then took off on a long flight back to freedom."

Press Trophy Goal of Dogs

Retail Store Is Site of Sunday's Event

The Pontiac Kennel Club's summer and winter shows continue to grow.

Last summer over 700 dogs competed for honors. This was a new record. Another mark has been established for the winter show which gets under way at 9 a.m. in the Pontiac Retail Store.

★ ★ ★

A total of 698 entries were received with 656 entering competition for The Pontiac Press Best-in-Show Trophy. The remaining 42 entries make up a record obedience field.

Seventy-five breeds, another record, will be on hand for the all-day show.

This show, licensed by the American Kennel Club, is unbenched. This means that the dogs can be removed from the building as soon as they are eliminated from competition.

★ ★ ★

Rules Changed on Two Lakes

Kent and Judah Lakes have been opened "to hook and line fishing for any kind, size and number of fish at any time during 1965," according to the Conservation Department.

These same regulations are a continuation of those in force on the two lakes during 1964. Heavy winter-kill of fish is the reason for the liberal rules.

★ ★ ★

The mystery of the missing bluegills on area lakes this winter is puzzling area ice fishermen.

"I haven't seen a good catch since the ice first formed on a couple of small lakes," said conservation officer Cyril Adams of Lake Orion. Warren Kendall, the officer from Rochester, echoes this statement.

Kendall did say, however, that Crystal Lake on Pontiac's South Side produced some "very good catches of bluegills and crappies" just after first ice.

Activity on lakes was limited to shanty fishermen for the most part last weekend because of the icy winds. Catches were poor. Even the rabbit hunters stayed home.

Kendall and officer Harold Stoll of Fenton checked the shanty problem on Pontiac Lake created when heavy rains softened the ice a couple of weeks ago.

★ ★ ★

"We only found three shanties that had not been recovered," Kendall reported. "And I doubt if these will be removed before the ice goes out."

Over 20 shanties broke through the ice during the warm spell.

Outboards to Compete in Bay City Nationals

BAY CITY (AP)—The National Outboard Marathon Championships will be June 26-27 in Bay City, an official of the American Power Boat Association said Monday.

Paul Kalb, the APBA's vice president of stock outboard racing, said he expects at least 200 outboards to compete in the 120-mile Saginaw River event.

Last year's races were held at Trenton, the first in Michigan in recent years.

Help Teen Avoid Dangerous Tensions

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

School days are no longer carefree days. Perhaps they never were, except for a fortunate few.

With job requirements constantly changing and colleges filled to overflowing, apprehension about the future is natural. Never has the pressure on students to produce good grades been so great.

DR. NASON

A student's problems are many. What vocations to follow? College or no college? How to meet the expectations of both parents and teachers? Whether to smoke or to take a drink?

With modern transportation and city living, the teen-ager has less parental supervision and is faced with more personal decisions than ever before.

Excessive feelings of failure and inability to measure up to demands bring severe tensions to some teen-agers. Unless a boy has developed a capacity to accept some failure, the pressure becomes intolerable and he seeks relief. Such a boy is tempted to try anything—even narcotics!

★ ★ ★

Narcotics give only temporary relief from such feelings. Some try it, are disillusioned, and get away only singed. But there are less fortunate ones whose bodies develop such a strong craving and appetite for the narcotics that they are "hooked" to the habit.

NEED POSITIVE STEPS

We try to protect our youths with laws. But more imporant, we should be taking positive steps to help teen-agers avoid excessive feelings of failure and the tensions which make them easy prey to outside influences.

Fortunately, the same developments which build a guard against falling into wrong habits are the ones which help the youngster succeed better in school and live more happily as a teen-ager.

Here are some positive steps:

PARENTS MUST NOT BE OVERPROTECTIVE. A child must be allowed to fail and still not consider himself a failure.

★ ★ ★

ENCOURAGEMENT AND APPROVAL must be given for successes. If a child knows what to do and how to do it, he should be expected to do a good job. However, encouraging a boy to work harder for A grades, when he lacks skill in studying and feels incapable of making A grades, can become an extreme pressure.

★ ★ ★

ACCENTUATE THE POSITIVE. A boy must have a feeling that he measures up to expectations, at least a fair share of the time.

Opening lead—♣ 3

One pair that opened with a weak two bid stopped below game and lost six international match points by this omission.

In the play at four spades, West usually opened a club. Thus, the defense would start with two club tricks. Six declarers proceeded to lay down the ace and king of trumps, whereupon they had to concede a trick to the spade queen.

Two declarers decided to try the slightly inferior play of a second round spade finesse and were rewarded unjustly by a gain of one IMP. I use the word unjustly because in the absence of adverse bidding or special information, the correct play with nine trumps is to try the drop.

Trials to determine the American team for the 1965 world's championship were held in Dallas, Tex. last November. Eighteen of the best pairs on this continent qualified and each one played 340 hands under International Match Point scoring in 17 20-board matches. Thus, each hand was played at nine different tables and, showing the idiosyncracies of duplicate, practically no hand produced nine identical results.

JACOBY

I will devote this column to discussion of a hand, with declarer in this case moved to the South seat and without a name.

Hand one of match one was an easy four-spade contract. The most common bidding is shown in the box, although there were several variations including a couple of instances of North choosing to open with a weak two bid rather than a normal one bid.

Mart Hits Record High Ground

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market averages today again moved into record high ground. Trading was active early this afternoon.

Steels, after some early wavering, moved solidly ahead.

The trend was generally higher among chemicals, mail order-retails, aerospace issues, rails, utilities and nonferrous metals.

★ ★ ★

Behind it, the market had a string of 11 straight sessions with more gains than losses, and there was a tendency to take profits. Despite this, the popular market averages were all in gear for the third straight session in all-time high territory.

Sentiment was bolstered by gains in new factory orders for durable goods, housing starts and personal income.

BIG BLOCKS

Big blocks were traded in a variety of issues.

The trend was mixed among electrical equipments, building materials and airlines.

★ ★ ★

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 334.6 with industrials up .9, rails up .3 and utilities up .1.

Fractional gains were posted for U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic and Jones & Laughlin.

Similar advances were made by General Motors, Ford and American Motors. Chrysler was about unchanged and Studebaker easy.

ON AMERICAN

Prices were higher on the American Stock Exchange in active trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. Government bonds continued higher.

Two Big Cats Both Stalked by Trouble

By The Associated Press

Life is tough all over, but doubly so for Simba and Rajah, a couple of big cats who were cooled off for cutting up too much.

Simba is a 200-pound lion. He's only seven months old, still growing and unhappy with life in a cage in the Norfolk, Va., zoo.

Simba's owner is Herman Dail, a Williamsburg, Va., house painter. He gave the lion to the Norfolk zoo last week after Simba jumped playfully at Mrs. Dial one day, knocked her down and sprained her back.

Dail said yesterday he's taking Simba back "for his own welfare" because the lion couldn't adjust to life in a cage."

Rajah, the 120-pound Asian spotted leopard, bit and clawed 21-year-old Linda Lee Barnum in Las Vegas, Nev.. Sunday night.

100 STITCHES

She needed 100 stitches to close teeth and claw wounds on her throat, chest and face, but was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

Police wanted to corral Rajah, but the animal's owner, Mrs. Maria Dokolas of Las Vegas, wanted assurances the leopard wouldn't be destroyed.

Finally, Rajah was removed from Mrs. Dokolas' station wagon and taken to a cage in a zoo at Paso Robles, Calif.

With the aid of a veterinarian, Mrs. Dokolas fed tranquilizing pills to Rajah.

The victim of the attack was among guests at a party looking at Rajah when the leopard slipped through a car door and attacked.

School Representatives OK County Budget Items

Two items amounting to $20,800 were approved yesterday by school board representatives for inclusion in the proposed 1965-66 Oakland County Schools' budget.

★ ★ ★

Authorized were expenditures of $16,800 for research on a program for gifted children and $4,000 for visiting education specialists who will conduct teacher conferences.

Dr. Martin Wechsler, representing the Clarenceville Board of Education, spearheaded the idea of a county level program for the gifted.

A suggested $12,500 expenditure to pay part of the cost to school districts for sending teacher representatives to the county for training was voted down.

The feeling was that no county expenditure was necessary since the teachers were deriving professional benefit from the training.

Sixteen of the 29 representatives were present at the meeting.

Action by the Oakland County Board of Education on the proposed budget of $421,109 is slated Feb. 25.

Junior Editors Quiz on CHOCOLATE

QUESTION: How can chocolate come from a tree?

ANSWER: In certain warm countries such as Brazil, Ghana and Nigeria, which lie not far from the equator, the cacao tree is raised in large numbers.

About 25 feet tall, this tree bears small flowers which turn into fruits or pods, each of which contain from 20 to 40 seeds. From these seeds, which are fermented, dried, roasted and ground, all chocolate products are made.

The first product of the grinding is called "chocolate liquor." This has a very rich flavor but it is unsweetened and bitter.

When cooled into solid form, the liquor becomes unsweetened baking chocolate, which is widely used in flavoring cakes, puddings and desserts. Manufacturers press the fat of coco butter from the liquor and turn what remains into a fine powder; this is the cocoa which gives us such a fine drink.

When extra coco butter and sugar is added to the liquor, we get the sweet and semi-sweet chocolate which is used as a coating for chocolate candies.

When milk solids are added to the last we get one of the foods Americans are very find of: milk chocolate.

FOR YOU TO DO: Ask your mother to give you a bite of unsweetened baking chocolate. You probably won't like it as well as sweetened chocolate, but it has a kind of heavy dark taste that is interesting and makes you think of the tropical countries from which chocolate comes.

PTA Starts Drive Aimed at Units Hit by Extremists

NEW YORK (AP) —The national Parent-Teacher Association has launched a campaign to woo back some 100 local units it claims extremist organizations have spirited away in the past three years.

Mrs. Jennelle Moorhead of Eugene, Ore., national president, said yesterday the campaign is directed mainly at right-wing groups, such as the John Birch Society, which stepped up their attacks in 1964.

★ ★ ★

Extremists, she said, have used physical violence, intimidation and even in one case — at St. Augustine, Fla. — forged membership cards in efforts to control local PTA groups, she said.

The PTA campaign will start off with pamphlets mailed to all parent and teacher groups telling them how to recognize and deal with extremists.

Beach Landings Are Going Out of Style—General

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Amphibious warfare's classic maneuver — the rush of fighting men across the beach — is going out of style, a high-ranking Marine Corps officer reports.

★ ★ ★

Half of any Marine Corps landing force can now get ashore without getting its feet wet — by helicopter — the commander of the Camp Pendleton Marine base told a veterans group here Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr. said that the corps is aiming at adding enough copter capacity to be able to take two-thirds of a given landing force ashore by air.

Prepare for 2-Man Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The space agency and astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young today began preparing for the first U. S. two-man space flight following the success of the final unmanned launching in Project Gemini.

The success yesterday ended months of frustration for America's man-in-space plans and opened the way to three, possibly four, tandem astronaut flights this year.

Grissom, who made a 15-minute suborbital space trip in the Mercury program, and Young are slated for an April date with the stars. They are to take a three-orbit, five-hour ride to check spacecraft systems.

Grissom, 36, is an Air Force major. Young, 34, is a Navy lieutenant commander. They have been training for their space journey for several months.

Their ticket was okayed yesterday when an unmanned duplicate of their Gemini craft rocketed over a 19-minute suborbital course and was recovered intact after parachuting into the Atlantic Ocean 2,150 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy.

SCOOPED FROM SEA

The craft was scooped from the sea by the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain.

Experts aboard the ship said the capsule survived its punishing trip, in which it was seared by temperatures up to 2,000 degrees, in excellent condition.

The successful unmanned mission brought an end to a series of development, technical and other problems which have lagged the Gemini program 16 months behind the original schedule and left nearly a two-year gap in U. S. astronaut flight.

No American has soared into space since Air Force Major Gordon Cooper circled the globe 22 times in May 1962.

Deputy Wounded by Fellow Officer

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Macomb County Sheriff's Deputy Marvin Sauger was reported in fair condition today at St. Joseph Hospital after being mistakenly shot and wounded by another officer as they pursued a suspected car thief Tuesday.

★ ★ ★

Sauger 28, was shot in the abdomen as he and three other officers chased the fugitive on foot in a field after he had abandoned his car. The four officers, two men in each car, had fired several shots in their earlier pursuit.

It was not determined which officer fired the shot that struck Sauger. A man was picked up later for questioning in the car theft.

Sunday Crash Claims Life of Second Nun

ALPENA (AP) — A two-car collision Sunday night claimed the life of a second Catholic nun Tuesday.

Sister Melitone, 54, principal of St. John's Elementary School here, died of injuries at Alpena General Hospital.

Classroom Behavior to Be Put on Film

EAST LANSING (AP) — A movie camera will poke into an East Lansing third grade classroom sometime in mid-February, to help future teachers learn what situations to expect and how to handle them.

The idea is to be able to "share what educators know among the entire profession," said John Barson who is directing the project for Michigan State University.

★ ★ ★

"A teacher in Texas would be able to obtain ideas from some one teaching in Michigan," he added.

Trying to describe teaching techniques by reports is not as satisafactory as showing them used in the classroom, Barson said.

DETAILS LOST

"It's difficult to exchange information in all the detail which filming allows us," he explained.

Filming classes is not brand new, he said, but there has been "an upsurge in interest in it as a means of illustrating techniques for future teachers and fellow teachers.

★ ★ ★

Thus MSU is setting out to build a systematic film library on classroom situations. It hopes to create a program of sharing such films among Big Ten universities.

The advantage of films over observing in classes, Barson said, is that films can be stopped, repeated, and combined with other films to compare one teaching approach with another.

ONE-WAY GLASS

Cameras will be set up behind a one-way glass partition outside the classroom of Mrs. Mildred Vescolani at the Spartan Village School.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Vescolani, looking forward to the project, hopes the end product will "encourage other teachers to feel they can do it with their class, and to feel the things they are doing are important in teacher education."

★ ★ ★

Students will not see the cameras in operation but they are being told of the project.

"As far as the children are concerned I don't think it's going to make too much difference," Mrs. Vescolani said. "They're excited about the novelty of it but they soon forget the distractions around them.

ACT NATURAL

"We want the children to be as natural as possible. If they were models of behavior, it would throw the college students off," she added.

There was a similar project when she taught at the University School in Ann Arbor, she said, and the students were affected little by it.

★ ★ ★

"Teachers probably will be surprised by the things the students do which they don't have an opportunity to see because they're concentrating on subject matter," she said.

The films may help "develop some theories of instruction which are very much needed," Barson said.

ADULT TEACHING

They also could help educators learn more about teaching adults, he said.

Barson said strict controls are placed on use of the films and parents will be asked to sign a form allowing the filming.

To Speak on 'Creation'

"The Key to the Mystery of Creation" will be the theme of a public lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in The First Church of Christ, Scientist. Thomas A. McClain of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship will be guest speaker.

Philly Pretzel Epicures Pronounce Mustard a Must

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — They say New York has everything — but are you aware there's hardly one place in our great city that sells pretzels with mustard on them?

WILSON

"In Philadelphia, everybody eats mustard on pretzels!" exclaimed an executive of WNEW, which numbers several ex-Philadelphians, all horrified that New York's so backward in discovering this delicacy.

The WNEW Boys now carry their own mustard when they go pretzel shopping. Philadelphians generally have their pretzels-and-mustard in the late afternoon . . . sort of like teatime in London.

The Duke of Windsor and his Duchess ate royally but also ravenously their first night out since the operation, at the Colony with the Winston Guests: Italian salad, mousseline of sole, beef bouquetierre, cold asparagus, chocolate mousse, and wine aplenty but no champagne. After this feast the Duke said, "I have to watch my diet."

★ ★ ★

LBJ's inaugurated now but Jackie Kannon warns him at the Ratfink Room: "Look out for Nixon. He's still auditioning makeup men . . . I preferred Eisenhower, I like a man who doesn't meddle too much in the affair of government."

Cesar Romero, the Petrocelli fashion plate, was at Voisin wearing a black suit, black tie and gold (or beige) pocket handkerchief. Seems like pocket handkerchiefs have got to have a touch of color now if you're the best dressed man in the block. If not, the hell with it.

Actress Gloria Prince's boosters nominate her as "the new MM," opposite Joey Heatherton . . . Joe E. Lewis is going to ask LBJ to repeal the law closing bars from early morning till night election day. "A lot of us get locked indoors that way and never get out to vote," he complains.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

ABC's renewed the much-put-upon Jimmy Dean TV show through May 15 . . . When Jack Carter opens as star at the Americana Royal Box Jan. 26 Paula Stewart will be the "opening act"—completely apart from his act . . . Eddie Fisher, getting $35,000-a-week at the Vegas Riviera, staying in the Royal Suite, wants to break his 5-yr. contract with another hotel and stay at the Riv.

At the Lincoln Center opening of Moliere's "Tartuffe," an actor came out in period costume, opened a scroll, and in what the audience thought was the start of the play, he bellowed: "No Smoking!" (The audience loved it—and the play) . . . The Sardi's coatroom was filled to overflowing—with souvenir balloons from "Any Wednesday."

Absentmindedness a Sign of Intellect---Of Course, Some Carry It Too Far

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

Not long ago, I read something that gave me great reassurance and bolstered my ego no end.

Heldenbrand

The piece said that absentmindedness, far from being indicative of mental inferiority, went hand-in-hand with superior intellectual capacity.

In other words, you don't have to be a professor to be absentminded.

If you've doubted that these words come from the pen of a mental giant, a high-dome nonpareil, let me submit my absentminded credentials for such recognition.

It'll pass over as unworthy of mention such common, run-of-mind vagaries as lighting the wrong end of a filter-tip cigarette, brushing teeth with shaving cream, mailing a letter without enclosing the check alluded to, setting the percolator going without putting in the coffee, appearing at a U. of M. football game in Ann Arbor with "State" tickets or greeting your wife over the phone by the name of an office co-worker.

BUSH LEAGUE

All this is bush league and would hardly do more than stamp a subject as normal in the think department.

But let me move to higher ground, and document my claim to top-rated absentmindedness and the cranial brilliance it signifies.

Suppose I start with locking the car in the parking lot with the keys dangling in the ignition.

Shucks, you say, everyone's done that?

Okay — but not with the motor still running.

THE LOST BAG

Then, there was the time that "Shopper" Heldenbrand put a bag of groceries in the wrong car and left on foot to do some other errands. The identity of the beneficiary of the grocery windfall will undoubtedly remain one of the unsolved mysteries of the times.

Beginning to be a bit impressed?

But there's more in the file. Many mornings I awaken early, slip on a robe, socks and slippers for a snack of breakfast and a look at the paper before later filling in the routine with a shower.

★ ★ ★

A few mornings ago, in the shower with the water running, "Bather" Heldenbrand had a feeling that things were not as they should be.

SOMETHING NOT MISSING

They weren't. He hadn't taken off his socks.

Now for the case of "Handyman" Heldenbrand and the application of new auto license plates. After the first plate was attached, he reached confidently for the second — to clutch nothing but air.

An intensive search was made. The car was peered under, the paper container looked into not once but twice, and the lady of the house accused of having mislaid a plate — all to no avail.

★ ★ ★

At this point, inspiration struck. Maybe there was but one plate provided for 1965 — there had been one plate years before, remember?

HOPES DASHED

A call to the secretary of state's office dashed this hope.

After the passing of several hours, an inner gleam of intuition lighted one or more of Handyman's brain cells. Back to the car he went to closely examine the plate already in place.

Yup, you're right. The thin plates had fitted together so compactly that both had been put on together.

Can there be any question about my eligibility for membership in the lofty Society of Eggheads — Scrambled Division?

A firecracker started a fire on July 4, 1866, in Portland, Maine, destroying 1,500 buildings.

Worker Is Rescued From Rock Salt Burial

DETROIT (AP)—Milton Cox, 45, of Detroit, stepped into a hopper to unclog salt-loading machinery at the Morton Salt Co. Tuesday and was burried under tons of rock salt. But Detroit police say quick work by fellow workers freed him. He was not injured, but police said he was treated for shock at a medical center.

Atomic Explosion by Reds May Trigger U.S. Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may charge the Soviet Union with violating the limited nuclear test-ban treaty as a result of an underground explosion last Friday in Central Asia.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said last night the blast has produced some fallout in the northern Pacific near Japan.

Officials noted that under the treaty, fallout is supposed to be kept within the boundaries of the testing nation.

The evidence to date suggests that while the Soviet explosion technically violated the treaty, it apparently was accidental.

★ ★ ★

The AEC said, "the amounts of radioactivity measured to date will not produce measurable exposures to persons."

ASK EXPLANATION

Still, Secretary of State Dean Rusk has asked Moscow for a full explanation. Officials said they will await a report from the Soviet Union before determining the application of the treaty.

The treaty, signed in Moscow 18 months ago and subscribed to by more than 100 nations, prohibits nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water.

It also prohibts underground explosions if they cause radioactive debris "to be present outside the territorial limits of the state" that is testing.

★ ★ ★

The force of the Soviet blast, set off in the Semipalatinsk area of central Russia, was described by the AEC as "in the intermediate range." This means it was equivalent to the force loosed by 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT.

U.S. BLAST

Last March, officials said, an underground American test blew radioactive material into the air and the debris was traced over the southwestern part of the United States.

However, they said, no radioactivity was detected outside U.S. borders.

Three days after the incident, the Soviet news agency Tass commented that if the fallout went beyond U.S. borders the treaty would be violated.

Selma Registration Drive Slated for 3rd Straight Day

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—Negroes aim another offensive today at the lengthy and complicated system of registering voters in Dallas County where Negroes comprise 60 per cent of the population and 1 per cent of the voters.

A registration attempt was planned for the third day in a row. Meanwhile, at Tuscaloosa, Negroes led by comedian Dick Gregory mount another tour of cafes today in their new test of segregated facilities.

Rev. T. Y. Rogers Jr., a Negro leader, said places which probably would be visited include three businesses where lunch counters were closed yesterday on the first day of the new integration tests.

"We are not going through the back door any more," said Rev. James Bevel, a leader in the Selma civil rights drive that hit its first serious snag yesterday after initial success in desegregating downtown businesses.

Sixty-six persons, most of them prospective Negro voters were jailed by Sheriff James G. Clark Jr. when they refused to use the alley entrance to the courthouse or move from the sidewalk.

All were released late yesterday and three civil rights workers were freed of "suspicion" charges. The others signed their own bonds of $300 each on charges of unlawful assembly or of criminal provocation.

They had walked to the courthouse under close watch by city policemen. When they reached the courthouse they were arrested by the county sheriff.

LEGAL STEPS

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who launched the drive Monday, appealed to the Justice Department for legal steps to bar interference by the sheriff.

He said that attorney John Doar of the federal agency pledged cooperation in a telephone conversation.

King left last night for Atlanta and speaking engagements elsewhere.

Viet Leader Takes Post; Averts Crisis

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky agreed today to accept temporarily the post of minister of youth and sports and a potential government crisis was averted.

The revamped cabinet of Premier Tran Van Huong, with four young generals added to its civilian rolls, was sworn in after a 24-hour delay caused by Ky's initial rejection of his appointment.

The flamboyant commander of the Vietnamese Air Force told newsmen, however, he will keep his military job and will stay in the cabinet "for only a couple of weeks."

Meanwhile, five of South Viet Nam's top Buddhist leaders vowed before a crowd of 10,000 weeping and applauding followers that they would fast to the death if the government of Premier Huong does not step down.

The noisy rally at Buddhist headquarters was under way at exactly the time Huong was presenting his new cabinet to the public in another part of the city.

The hunger strike, starting immediately, was to be carried on by the monks Thich Tam Chau and Thich Tri Quang, top secular leaders of the movement, and Trich Tri Phap, Thich Ho Giac and Thich Thien Hoa.

Three Named to Tax Board

Three new appointments were made last night to the city's Board of Tax Review.

The City Commission named Maxwell H. Doerr, 174 Ottawa, Gordon Rice, 235 Nelson, and Howard F. Simmons, 135 E. Iroquois, to the tax board.

The new members will replace Charles J. Nasstrom, 208 E. Iroquois, Rudolph J. Nosek, 565 E. Pike, and John Q. Waddell, 90 Cherokee.

Doerr and Rice served previously on the board in 1962.

★ ★ ★

The Board of Tax Review is made up of three citizens, the city finance director and the city attorney.

SETS VALUATION

The board sets the city's total assessed valuation annually about April 1. It will begin hearing appeals on local assessed valuations in late February or early March.

FRIENDLY FOES — President Johnson greets Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York yesterday at the inaugural reception for governors. Johnson reportedly spent more time with several Republican governors than with those from the Democratic ranks.

At Reception for Governors

Gov. Romney Steals the Show

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Gov. Romney, who has shown a knack in getting in on Democratic-sponsored shindigs, got more attention at pre-inaugural events than some members of President Johnson's own party.

As a matter of fact, the President spent more time chatting with two Republican governors —Romney and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York—than with most Democratic state executives when he called at a reception for governors last night.

The President was heard to tell Romney, a possible GOP presidential nominee in 1968, the White House would welcome any ideas from him.

"Just pick up the telephone, governor, and call me anytime," Johnson told Romney during a four-to five-minute conversation.

The President was accompanied by Mrs. Johnson. Romney was accompanied by his wife, Lenore.

ALSO VISITED

The Romneys also were visited by Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey and by Lynda Bird Johnson, the President's daughter, who arrived with her escort, former Marine Lt. David Lefeve.

At a bipartisan breakfast for Michigan's congressional delegation, Democratic Rep. Charles Diggs ribbed Romney about political ambitions, saying:

"I suspect the governor's real purpose in riding down Pennsylvania Avenue this year will be to look over the parade route for the future."

Another guest at the breakfast honoring Republican Rep. Gerald F. Ford of Grand Rapids, newly elected Republican House leader, was former Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

SENIOR DEMS

The breakfast was sponsored by Diggs and Rep. Martha Griffiths, the state's two senior Democrats.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Griffiths described Ford's election by fellow Republicans as "a really great honor to Michigan."

Ford and Diggs said the breakfast was an indication of the ability of the state's congressmen to put aside political differences and work together for the benefit of the state.

Restlessness Is Gone, Says Churchill Doctor

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill slept peacefully through the night and his restlessness is gone, his doctor announced today.

A medical bulletin issued just before noon said:

"There is little to record. The restlessness has gone and Sir Winston has slept peacefully through the night and morning. There will be another bulletin this evening."

It was the 13th bulletin issued since the 90-year-old statesman suffered a stroke last Friday.

Throughout the night a shivering crowd kept watch at the end of Hyde Park Gate, the dead-end street where Churchill has lived since 1955.

OPENS ONCE

The door of No. 28 opened only once, at 1:55 a.m. Churchill's 24-year-old grandson and namesake, Winston Spencer Churchill, stepped out and drove off in his sports car.

The watchers assumed that Churchill had spent a quiet night. Tuesday his physician, Lord Moran, was called at 2 a.m. after Churchill suffered a setback.

The medical bulletin Tuesday night, issued at 9:21 p.m., said: "Sir Winston has slept through the day and there is no appreciable change in his condition."

★ ★ ★

Medical experts interpreted the continued sleep as a sign of extreme weakness but an indication that Churchill was not in pain.

★ ★ ★

Some earlier bulletins had spoken of extreme restlessness, variable pulse and circulatory weakness.

Mrs. Carlson said she plans to resume her work as a nurse. Dr. Carlson, who was held as a hostage by the rebels, was killed as Belgian paratroopers arrived in Stanleyville. He is buried at Karawa, in the Congo.

Temperatures will drop to a low of 8 to 15 tonight and rise to 24 to 30 tomorrow.

For the next five days there will be little change in temperatures.

Precipitation will total about one-fourth inch in snow possibly mixed with rain about Friday and in light snow about Sunday.

36th President Is Inaugurated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon Baines Johnson began a four-year term as President today with a solemn oath-taking ceremony.

The 36th president was sworn in by Chief Justice Earl Warren at noon—the hour fixed by the Constitution for the start of the new administration.

That ceremony, before tens and tens of thousands massed in the cold before the Capitol's east portico, was but the first of three major events today. The others:

★ ★ ★

● The grand parade down Pennsylvania Avenue, the "Thoroughfare of Presidents." By suggestion of Johnson, the parade was stripped of much of the military might displayed in the past — it was intended, instead to stress the nation's peaceful achievements, past, present and to come.

● The ball, spread over a huge armory and four big hotels.

The President and the Vice President, Hubert H. Humphrey, will look in tonight at all these balls, where some 27,000 dressed-up people will dance, if they have the temerity. The First Lady readied her dress of jonquil, double-woven satin, Mrs. Humphrey hers of shimmering lavender.

Security forces were bent on doing all possible to protect the President.

★ ★ ★

The Bible chosen by Johnson was his mother's, the same on which he placed his hand in the plane that horror-filled day in 1963, the day of President John F. Kennedy's assassination. Chief Justice Earl Warren was to administer the oath.

FOR HUMPHREY

For Hubert H. Humphrey, the bouncy man who is daisy-fresh after an endless round of receptions, concerts, cocktail parties and other fetes, the vice presidential oath-giver was House Speaker John W. McCormack.

Before taking his inaugural oath, the President attended interfaith religious services today and heard evangelist Billy Graham call for a national rededication to spiritual values.

Clergymen of the Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic faiths united to conduct the special Inauguration Day service—at Johnson's request—at the National City Christian Church, a few blocks from the White House.

★ ★ ★

The President and Mrs. Johnson sat in the second pew from the front, surrounded by cabinet members, governors, other leaders of government, relatives, and friends.

SPIRITUAL VALUES

Graham lauded both Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey, the new vice president, for dedication to spiritual values.

"At the very apex of government," he said, "There is

Johnson Guard Biggest Ever

Precautions Show JFK's Death in Mind

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's inaugural is being safeguarded by the most massive security precautions ever devised for a chief executive.

★ ★ ★

During the oathtaking and the inaugural address, before tens of thousands of spectators fanned out below the Capitol steps, the President stood behind a three-sided, bulletproof screen of glass.

The protective cage has a sheet of 1½-inch glass directly in front of the podium, like the one at the White House reviewing stand, but in addition has flanking panes extending back diagonally on each side to deflect a bullet fired from any possible angle.

Helicopters, television scanners, armed Secret Service men on rooftops, a rebuilt and rearmored presidential limousine, and some 5,000 policemen, National Guardsmen and regular troopers are among the further unprecedented precautions.

★ ★ ★

With President John F. Kennedy's assassination in mind, special attention has been given to building tops and windows along the parade route from the Capitol to the White House. Even manholes in Pennsylvania Avenue have been checked.

WINDOWS CLOSED

Orders have been issued that all windows overlooking the parade be kept closed. Even regular government workers must have special one-day passes to get into their own buildings.

The names of all other persons planning to enter private and public buildings along the line of march have been taken and turned over to the Secret Service.

Two helicopters manned by police and Secret Service agents have been detailed to watch from the skies.

★ ★ ★

Detectives have been imported from police forces as far away as Boston and Houston.

Still Tickets for Press Cook School

Tickets for the Pontiac Press cooking school which begins next Tuesday are still available.

In the past, many area women were disappointed when their requests for tickets were too late.

A different arrangement this year has made it possible for more women to attend and there are still places open at every session.

Day sessions at Pontiac Central will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 1:30 p.m. Evening sessions at 7:30 p.m. will be on Wednesday and Thursday.

★ ★ ★

At every session, a grand prize will be presented. You need not be present to win these prizes and Pontiac Press employes and their families are not eligible.

OTHER PRIZES

In addition to the grand prizes, many other prizes will be awarded daily.

The grand prizes include gas ranges from Consumers Power Company and Frayer Appliances; a GE portable television set from Hampton Electric; four sewing machines from Domelco, Inc., and Richman Brothers Sewing Center; and a Speed Queen automatic washer and dryer.

Daily prizes include all the food prepared on stage; other food, trading stamps, kitchen equipment, rugs, jewelry, flowers, cleaning certificates and cookbooks.

★ ★ ★

Robert Lilleyman of Calbi Music Company will play selections on a Baldwin theater style home organ before every session.

MEAT CUTTING

Hoffman's Pontiac Freezer Foods, Inc., will again put on a demonstration of meat cutting.

Come in or send in for tickets now. There are still some left.

Inauguration Vast Contrast From First LBJ Oath-Taking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The past and the present collided in the starkest of contrasts today when President Johnson placed his hand on the Bible to take the inaugural oath.

Thirteen months and 28 days ago, Johnson repeated the same ceremony in the cabin of Air Force One, the presidential jet airliner, at Love Field, Dallas, Tex.

Then there was no pomp, only the simplest of ceremonies as Johnson took over the power of the presidency from John F. Kennedy whose body lay in a casket at the rear of the plane.

Today millions of persons were watching. Then, only 27 persons were able to jam into the cabin of the plane.

The last person to enter was Mrs. Kennedy, her dress stained with her husband's blood. Mrs. Johnson took her place at her husband's right.

WOMAN JUDGE THERE

The august dignity of the U.S. Chief Justice was absent. A plain-looking woman stood in front of Johnson to administer the oath. She was Federal District Judge Sarah T. Hughes, who only minutes before had been in her home, mourning the death of Kennedy.

Judge Hughes had no constitutional oath to bring with her, but one was dictated by phone from Washington by the then Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach. The Bible came from the bookshelf beside Kennedy's bed in the plane.

At 3:36 p.m. EST, Nov. 22, 1963, the swearing-in began with a nod from Johnson. United Press International reporter Merriman Smith, who was on the scene, described it this way:

"Hold up your right hand and repeat after me," the judge told Johnson.

"Johnson covered the Bible with his left hand . . . his right arm went slowly into the air and the jurist began to intone the constitutional oath . . .

"The brief ceremony ended when Johnson in a deep, firm voice, repeated after the judge . . . and so help me God."

★ ★ ★

The ceremony had lasted only two minutes. Once it was over, Johnson turned to his wife and kissed her on the cheek. He did the same to Mrs. Kennedy.

In contrast to this almost private ceremony, Johnson's inaugural today was being recorded in every aspect for posterity. Cameras covered his every step from the time he left the White House for the trip to Capitol Hill until he returned to his living quarters.

ONE PHOTOGRAPHER

But on the day of Kennedy's assassination, only one photographer — Capt. Cecil Stoughton of the Signal Corps — took pictures of the swearing-in. A dictaphone was used to record the voices.

Many of those who watched the ceremony in Air Force One that tragic day no longer are close to the presidency.

Kennedy aides David Powers and Kenneth P. O'Donnell have resigned. But others remain. Assistant Press Secretary Malcolm Kilduff holds the same job for Johnson that he did for Kennedy.

Jack Valenti, who held no government position in 1963, was in the cabin at the time of the swearing-in. He is now a presidential aide.

Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, Kennedy's personal secretary, is gone, but Marie Fehmer, Johnson's personal secretary, who typed out the inaugural oath, is on the White House staff.

MEET PIANIST — Mrs. Lyndon Johnson is shown shaking hands with fellow-Texan Van Cliburn. They met at Constitution Hall last night where Cliburn played in the inaugural concert. Hubert Humphrey, who was sworn in as vice president at noon today, is at center.

Johnson Family Mixes Beethoven and the Watusi

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson family celebrated inaugural eve with a salute to culture that was a mixture of Beethoven and the Watusi beat.

The President went first to an inaugural concert and then out partying with the audience that included famous Americans upon whom he had bestowed the Medal of Freedom.

★ ★ ★

At the windup, he stood back with the rest to stare in wonderment as his teen-age daughter, Luci, took over the dance floor at the staid State Department to dance the Watusi and the Frug.

It was an evening in which names met names with champagne and candlelight informality.

AROSE TOGETHER

Three thousand VIPs, the Johnsons included, rose together to wind up the concert in Constitution Hall singing "America the Beautiful."

They had applauded and shouted bravos to violinist Isaac Stern, playing Beethoven, Mozart and Saint-Saens; pianist Van Cliburn, doing a Liszt concerto; and Todd Duncan and Theresa Coleman, presenting the heart-tugging songs of Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

SOUNDED GOOD

Johnson quipped at intermission that Van Cliburn "sounded as good as he did at Stonewall," the spot near the LBJ Ranch where he performed at a Texas barbecue for German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Mrs. Johnson "loved the entire evening."

Huge Constitution Hall was bedecked in red, white and blue, with hundreds of red and white carnations. Johnson had a red one in his tuxedo buttonhole, the Johnson girls carried the flowers and the First Lady wore a matching American Beauty red gown of cloque silk with a small back train.

Edward Steichen, 80, bearded, world-renowned photographer, was reminded at the lavish supper dance by the nation's First Lady that he had promised to send her a new strain of delphinium called "Connecticut Yankee."

IGNORING COLD

Trying to ignore a burgeoning cold, Lynda Johnson chatted and waved to a man she said she had long admired, Pulitzer Prize-winning editor Ralph McGill.

Luci was swapping remembrances of a joint appearance made with Van Cliburn to narrate Peter and the Wolf at the Interlochen Music Festival. Meeting the young pianist in the concert reception room, she curtsied and Van Cliburn kissed her hand.

While lamenting the absence of her steady boyfriend, premedical student Paul Betz, who was taking exams, Luci did her dancing with older brother Jim Betz, 26, her stand-in date.

As the Johnsons left the party after midnight, Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey arrived, still going gaily.

With a grin, he explained the absence of his wife, Muriel: "She's gone to rest for all of us."

Inflation Hits Cost of '65 Inauguration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's inauguration today is expected to cost about $2 million almost $500,000 more than the 1961 installation of the late John F. Kennedy.

This is a 30 per cent increase in the cost of installing a president in the four years from the New Frontier to the Great Society.

Inaugural Chairman Dale Miller attributed the increase to the higher cost of parade reviewing stands and "many other things."

All except $500,000 of the inaugural costs were to be paid out of private funds. Congress authorized this sum to build the temporary stands on the capitol steps for the actual swearing-in ceremonies.

The remaining $1,600,000 has been underwritten by local business firms and large national corporations which are permitted by law to make inaugural contributions, although forbidden to donate "political" gifts.

2 Sick Children Die in Wilds

Parents Try in Vain to Get Them to Ranch

WATSON LAKE, Yukon Territory (AP) — Two small children, the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayes, died on the trail in the northern British Columbia mountains as their parents fought last week to bring them and another child to a ranch where medical aid could be summoned by radio.

The Hayes family moved into the remote area from Lower Post, B.C., last October. Hayes had a contract to supervise horses during the winter at the Turnagain Camp, owned by Amox Alex, a big game outfitter.

★ ★ ★

When the children became violently ill, the couple decided to hike to a ranch which has a radio about 60 miles from the Turnagain River wintering camps.

Gloria, 15 months, died the afternoon of Jan. 12 and George Alex, 5, the following morning.

The bodies of George and Gloria were cached in trees in the Moody Pass District.

FROZEN FOOT

Royal Canadian Mounted Police said Hayes, 24, suffering a frozen foot, and his wife, Emma, 23, near exhaustion, finally reached a cabin on the Kechika River, 120 miles southwest of here late Wednesday, the 13th. Their six - months - old boy was still alive.

They remained there until Sunday to allow Hayes to recover somewhat from his frozen foot. Then Hayes continued on to the ranch by himself and a radio call was sent out for help.

★ ★ ★

Later they were flown here and Hayes was treated at a nursing station and released.

Today they awaited the return of two men who set out to recover the bodies of their children.

Troy 'Steals' 2nd Official

A second Rochester official has accepted a new job in the neighboring City of Troy.

Ernest C. Reschke has been appointed assessor by the City Commission, after serving five years as assessor and two as urban renewal director for the Village of Rochester.

His appointment was recommended to the commission by City Manager Paul York, who himself left his job as Rochester city manager to go to Troy about six months ago.

Reschke, who will start work in Troy on Feb. 1, replaces Aldon J. Dowd, who resigned in December after eight months as city assessor.

The 28-year-old landscape architect is a graduate of Michigan State University and a member of the Oakland County and Michigan assessor's associations.

Walnut Lake Pollution to Delay School Plans

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Development of a swimming area at the Walnut Lake school site may be postponed again this year.

Last year the holdup was a legal protest by neighboring property owners to the proposed site of a beach where school district children could be taught swimming and boating skills.

The Bloomfield Hills Board of Education eventually was granted permission by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem to develop the property for use by the Recreation Department.

This year the problem is one of pollution.

★ ★ ★

The county health department has tested water from the West Bloomfield Township lake and returned an adverse report to the school board.

CONTAMINATION SOURCE

Sanitation experts found a four-inch storm drain running through the school property to be the source of contamination.

"We expect the problem to be cleared in the near future either by the parties responsible or by the school board, which has a responsibility in the matter," Schools Supt. Eugene Johnson said.

Legal aspects also are being investigated to settle the matter as soon as possible.

★ ★ ★

"However, we may not be able to develop the lake front this summer," Johnson noted. He said the Recreation Commission also would discuss the problem next week.

SPECIAL STUDY

The school board last night approved a special curriculum study project for district teachers.

The study was proposed by Mrs. Mary White, high school counselor, and Ted Cavin, junior high school counselor.

It will provide in-service training in a tailor-made course for the district's curriculum needs. The class is being shaped by Wayne State University staff members.

★ ★ ★

Teachers will be able to take the course for college credit or as part of the district's curriculum study program, in which case their tuition would be paid by the board.

OTHER ACTION

In other action, the board approved tentative plans for construction of a large activities room and renovation at Vaughan Elementary School, expected to cost $118,000, and construction of a smaller activities room and some remodeling at Wing Lake Elementary School, carrying an estimated cost of $43,000.

Assault Count for Detroiter

A 43-year-old Detroit man will be arraigned in Oakland County Circuit Court Jan. 28 on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

At his arraignment before Troy Municipal Judge Charles Losey, Harry K. Gamble pleaded guilty to the charge after confessing that he stabbed his girlfriend in the neck with a 12-inch screwdriver.

He told police he and Lovella Grace, 37, also of Detroit, had an argument while parked at Crooks Road and I-75 in Troy Sunday, and that he stabbed her in the throat.

He took her to William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, which reported the incident to Troy police. Gamble was arrested.

He will be arraigned before Judge James S. Thorburn.

The woman was reported in satisfactory condition today.

School Board to Air Change in Boundary

Proposal to change the present boundary line between the Waterford and West Bloomfield school districts will be considered tomorrow night by the Waterford Township Board of Education.

The proposed straightening of the present jagged boundary would result in Waterford losing about 20 families to the West Bloomfield district and an area of approximately a quarter of a square mile.

Final action on the boundary change must be taken by the Oakland County Board of Education following public hearings.

In other business the school board will hear a report on the Initial Teaching Alphabet program on trial in four first-grade classrooms.

Dr. Marshall Jameson, elementary school coordinator, and the teachers working with the program will present the report.

REVIEW SAMPLES

Board members also will review samples of applications for federal funds under the Open Space Land Grant program.

The board voted two weeks ago to seek federal funds in the the purchase of additional school property.

Also slated for board attention are recommendations from the superintendent of schools regarding staff appointments and a resignation.

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Area automobile owners will be able to purchase 1965 license plates at the Tel-Maple Shopping Center starting Feb. 1.

A subbranch of the Secretary of State's office will be established there in the S. S. Kresge Co. store. The licensing service will be available during regular store hours Feb. 1 through Feb. 28, the last days of the sales.

Mrs. Robert A. Fargher, 1697 Wabeek, has accepted the Bloomfield Township chairmanship for the 1965 March of Dimes campaign.

She is the wife of Dr. Robert A. Fargher, divisional medical director for the General Motors Truck and Coach Division.

BIRMINGHAM — The 1917 seven - passenger Locomobile owned by Dales O. Miller of 444 Waddington has been awarded the Stein Trophy.

Area Doctor Promoted

The appointment of Dr. Edwin DeJongh of 3880 W. Lincoln, Bloomfield Township, as associate medical director of General Motors was announced today by Louis G. Seaton, vice president in charge of personnel staff.

★ ★ ★

Dr. DeJongh, who has been medical director of Pontiac Motor Division since 1957, succeeds Dr. Earl Lutz who has retired under the provisions of the General Motors retirement program.

To succeed Dr. DeJongh, Dr. Merrill P. Benoit has been named medical director of the Pontiac Motor Division effective February 1.

Dr. DeJongh is a graduate of Hope College and the University of Michigan Medical School.

He joined Fisher Body Division of General Motors in 1941 and served as medical director of the Fleetwood plant.

In 1944 he was named medical director of Detroit Diesel Division where he served until he joined the Pontiac division.

AT MILWAUKEE

Dr. Benoit has been medical director of the AC Spark Plug Division in Milwaukee, Wis., since September 1959.

★ ★ ★

He joined GM as the plant physician for the Harrison Radiator Division, Lockport, N.Y. in 1947, and in 1949 became plant physician for Delco-Remy Division in Anderson, Ind.

Dr. Benoit is a 1944 graduate of Tufts Medical School, Medford, Mass.

Snow 'Fall' Not Quiet, Court Told

Giving a helping hand to Old Man Winter has gotten the Pine Knob ski resort in trouble.

Legal action was started yesterday to halt the operation of its artificial snow making equipment.

Neighbors and Fred E. Kluesner and his wife, Kathryn, of 7350 Pine Knob filed the suit in Circuit Court against the Independence Township recreation center.

They claim that the noise and vibration caused by the machine makes it impossible for them to sleep, entertain, or carry on other normal functions of home life.

★ ★ ★

The couple's home is located on 15 acres of property across the road from the resort.

TERMED NUISANCE

In terming the machine a nuisance, they complained that the equipment is used during long periods of time, principally during the night hours.

They cited one example this month when the equipment operated continuously for three and a half days with only an interruption of about three hours.

The equipment provides snow for skiing when the natural supply is insufficient.

★ ★ ★

On Jan. 25 Pine Knob must show cause before Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore why a temporary order should not be issued restraining it from operating the equipment pending the outcome of the case.

REMOVE CULVERTS

The suit also asks that the Oakland County Road Commission be ordered to remove culverts which allegedly drain waste from Pine Knob onto the Kluesner property.

'Hubert's Band' to Go Big-Time in Parade

WASHINGTON (AP) — On this great inaugural occasion Lyndon B. Johnson is reported to be calm, Hubert H. Humphrey eager and the Doland, S.D., High School band extremely nervous.

It's easy to see why.

★ ★ ★

Johnson and Humphrey have dreamed and slaved for this moment until even the presidency and vice presidency can be taken in stride. But only a few months ago who in Doland — pop. 481 — could have guessed that today its band would march up Pennsylvania Avenue with some of the nation's finest musicians?

Doland got here for only one reason. Doland is Hubert Humphrey's old home town. Doland is proud of Hubert and Hubert is proud of Doland.

153 STUDENTS

Doland High School has 153 students, 61 of whom play in the band. This reporter, after spending Tuesday afternoon with its leader, Gus Anderson, and some of its members can testify that you never saw a more excited, spirited and queasy group.

Most bands march during the football season, but not Doland's, for two splendid reasons. Anderson is the football coach, too, and some of his bandsmen are also athletes.

★ ★ ★

"My first trombone, Larry Twiss, made all-state fullback," Anderson said, puffing contentedly on his cigar. "On the next to the last play of the season he hit a guy so hard he split his helmet right down the middle.

★ ★ ★

"My star trumpet player, Kenneth Reuschenberg, is a great halfback. You should hear him play 'Carnival of Venice'."

How much time could Reuschenberg devote to music?

"I get right at it as soon as I get in from basketball practice," Reuschenberg said. "I try to get in four and half hours a day. Ever since I was small I've wanted to be a professional trumpet player."

★ ★ ★

Every time Humphrey campaigned in South Dakota last fall the Doland band was there to play for him. "My very own band," Humphrey cried. When he won, so did Doland.

It cost $8,000 — or $16 from every man, woman and child in town — to send the band here. Neighboring communities kicked in handsomely, and the whole amount was raised in 10 days.

CHEERING SQUAD

Forty-eight other Dolanders came along, six as chaperones, the rest as a cheering squad.

The shortage in Doland is so acute school is being canceled for the rest of the week.

Naturally Doland wants to look spruce so there are new uniforms for Anderson and Nancy Hahn, the head drum major. At 6 feet, 1 inch she is a real standout.

★ ★ ★

"I'm glad she's tall, so the band can see her," Anderson said.

Riding back from the Lincoln Memorial, the drummer girl, Jane Loveless, explained why so many students were hoarse.

★ ★ ★

"We had three basketball games last week," she said. "We haven't a big student body, but we're pretty loud for the kids we have."

"They're nervous," Anderson said, "but I could turn them loose on their own, and they'd do just fine."

Johnson Sworn In as 36th President

a spiritual influence in national affairs."

Humphrey sat across the aisle from Johnson's pew.

The President, who chatted with Graham after the 35-minute service, wore a dark suit and tie. He wore no topcoat, though the day was chilly.

WOMEN'S GARB

The President was accompanied by Mrs. Johnson, wearing a coat and hat of American Beauty rose red, and their daughters, both in blue coats. Lynda, 20, wore a light blue, and Luci, 17, dark blue.

The parade — stepping off time 1:30 p.m.—was greatly shortened in comparison to past years. The President, up near the front, planned to review it until the end at the White House, and the aim was to get it past him before sundown, at 5:16 p.m.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Medical Specialties Need Explaining

Phthisiologist. There's a $64 word.

If you ever needed the services of such a man, you were under the care of a doctor who specialized in the treatment of tuberculosis.

BRANDSTADT

The practice of medicine has expanded so greatly that lots of specialists are required. Many people wonder about these titles. Let's try to clear the air.

An anesthesiologist does not always put you to sleep. He may inject a drug into your spinal canal so that you can remain awake throughout your operation.

A dermatologist is a skin specialist and a gerontologist or geriatrician specializes in the diseases of the aged — a field that is growing because of the increased proportion of persons over 60 in our population.

* * *

SPECIAL FIELD

His special field has been subdivided to include our old friend, the phthisiologist; the gastroenterologist, who treats diseases of the digestive tract; the endocrinologist, who treats diseases of the glands of internal secretion (pancreas, pituitary, thyroid and sex glands); the cardiologist or heart specialist; the rheumatologist and the allergist.

The obstetrician gives prenatal care to expectant mothers, delivers them and cares for them during the postnatal period, and the gynecologist is a surgeon who treats all other conditions of the female reproductive system.

The oncologist specializes in the treatment of tumors, especially cancer.

FITS GLASSES

The ophthalmologist is a surgeon who fits glasses and treats all diseases of the eyes.

The otologist treats the ears; the rhinologist, the nose; and the laryngologist, the throat.

More often a surgeon, the otorhinolaryngologist, treats all three fields.

The orthopedist is a surgeon who treats fractures, dislocations, and other diseases of the bones and joints.

The pathologist specializes in laboratory procedures and when all else fails he performs an autopsy to determine the true cause of death.

A pediatrician takes care of infants and children, but he now has a counterpart, the ephebiatrician, who takes care of the very special problems of teenagers.

The physiatrist is a specialist in treatment and rehabilitation by physical means.

The proctologist is a surgeon who takes care of rectal diseases.

Although this list is not complete, let's not neglect the greatest specialist of all, the general practitioner, who, it has been truly said, specializes in all the diseases of men, women and children.

The parallels drawn between Jimmy Brown of the National Football League and Cookie Gilchrist of the American Football League can be made only on the field of play.

"They are two different players," said Buffalo Bills' coach Lou Saban in Pontiac this week. "Brown draws so many assignments running and pass receiving he doesn't get a chance to do any blocking. Cookie is a great runner and as tough a blocker as you'll find."

Saban, who inherited the AFL all-pro problem player two years ago admits that Gilchrist is beyond comparison or comprehension.

"He's one tough football player, but he's a poor business man," Saban said.

Cookie's business ventures which have included at least two dozen projects extending from iron ore to Christmas trees, have been as sound as selling earmuffs in the tropics.

LATEST VENTURES

The latest business disasters for Gilchrist took place in December just prior to the Buffalo-San Diego championship game.

"I think he put something like 20,000 Christmas trees on leased lots all around Buffalo," said Saban, "but half of them were stolen and he hardly made enough money on the other 50 per cent to pay for the trees and for leasing the lots."

His business mind, however didn't stop working. He ordered 15,000 earmuffs to sell in historically cold Buffalo prior to the title contest and his plan was to have the players autograph them.

"A week prior to the game, however, we had an unusual warm spell," recalled Saban, "and fortunately he was abel to cancel the order."

Another business proposition was a men's clothing store which he planned on buying because it was going bankrupt. He offered Ralph Wilson a chance to make a $15,000 investment and he even had his sign made, "Cookie's Closet, Inc."

He couldn't get Wilson or anyone to make up the "Inc." part of the sign so he gave up the idea.

The big 245 pound fullback, who has sprinter's speed and the power of a bulldozer, came up through football ranks of the Western Pennsylvania hotbed.

PREPS TO PROS

After his junior year at Har-Brack high school in Natrona Heights, Pa., he went into the Cleveland Browns' training camp and after one week he admitted the jump from the preps to the pros was too big.

He went on to Sarnia, Hamilton, Regina and Toronto in seven years of Canadian ball, establishing fantastic records on the gridiron and incredulous marks in his personal life.

"He keeps us on our toes," said Saban, "we never know what he may come up with next. In fact I'm satisfied talking to him just before each game and at contract time."

Saban noted a humorous story of a rookie lineman who came to the Bills last summer, and during an exhibition game the rookie asked for a chance to go in at the guard spot so that he could block on a play for Cookie "to see how he handles his blocking."

★ ★ ★

"I didn't think it would hurt so I sent this rookie in," Saban said. The excited rookie moved into the line of scrimmage and at this point he looked up at the opposing defensive tackle and said, "You better look out man, I'm blocking for Gilchrist on this play and we're gonna run right over you."

The shocked Gilchrist yelled for time out and quickly raced to the sidelines shouting for Saban to get that %)&$%? out of there.

With this tale, Saban may have been trying to prove that Cookie Gilchrist does have some sense of direction.

Rozelle Opens Lecture Series

NFL Boss Shuns Peace Pact With AFL

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Any ideas of a summit peace conference between the American Football League and the National Football League certainly don't seem to fit the present in the mind of NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Speaking at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Auditorium in the first of a four-week lecture series on the theme "Professional Football," Rozelle commented, "Any success they (AFL) would have they would have to do on their own and not through us (NFL)."

"We are obligated to the fans in our 14 franchise cities and we aren't going to make any changes which would hurt our caliber of football," he added.

★ ★ ★

Rozelle touched on all phases of pro football and the duties of the commissioner's office in his one hour talk, and in the ensuing question and answer session he was called upon to express his views on the current problems in the NFL—that of signing college players, of recent charges of the NFL player's association and the inevitable questions on the AFL.

Rozelle avoided the question on the common draft suggestion between the NFL and AFL, as was re-iterated by Ralph Wilson of the AFL Buffalo Bills in Pontiac Monday night.

He merely pointed out that NFL clubs have pledged to the colleges to refrain from signing players until after all eligibility has been completed including post season games, and he pointed out that "the NCAA is hoping the AFL will make similar commitements."

He implied, however, that NFL coaches may not readily favor the pledge idea when he said, "I hope we don't lose any players as a result of the unconditional pledge."

★ ★ ★

Monday night Wilson, the Bills' owner, expressed the idea that "excessive bonuses are ridiculous . . . . . and if this should continue, every team in pro football would be operating in the red in a few years . . . . . because veterans would start demanding higher contracts and it would be unfeasible to raise tickets prices and increases stadia capacities."

NO AFFECT

Rozelle on the other hand said, "I don't think the big bonuses would affect the morale of the teams. This is part of the times, just as in baseball, and most of the veteran players understand this.

"These bonus players just happened to be born at the right time," he added.

He also said that there were no plans at this time to put limits on these bonuses.

In regard to recent criticisms by the NFL Players' Association in which he was termed the "Owner's Commissioner" Rozelle said the two major points of misunderstanding with the players have been the commercial endorsement rights of the players and the pension plan and committee in which they want player-club representations.

SIGN RELEASE

Rozelle said the players signed a release in 1961 permitting him to bargain for commercial contracts and all moneys would go into the player pension fund. "Since 1961 from these endorsements a total of $151,000 has gone into the pension fund," he said.

On other matters, Rozelle said a central scouting system may result in the near future with the NFL office handling this and evaluating all college players and supplying each club with similar information.

"Currently each club has the task of going through 3,000 to 5,000 names of college players and the amount of information required for each player is now becoming a task for IBM machines."

In closing the program, he was asked if it wouldn't be a nice gesture to bury the hatchet and ask Alex Karras to join him at the Lindell AC for a beer and a sandwich.

"I've already made the arrangements," he said, "Alex, Dick "The Bruiser' and myself are going over there after this program."

3-Way Trade Sends Colavito to Indians

White Sox, KC Involved; Eight Players Move

Sox Obtain Romano From Tribe; Landis Goes to Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City Athletics today announced the acquisition of three players from the Chicago White Sox in a three-team, eight-player swap which saw Rocky Colavito go to Cleveland.

The Athletics obtained outfielders Jim Landis and Mike Herschberger and a starting pitcher from the White Sox. The pitcher is to be named later.

★ ★ ★

The Athletics sent Colavito to Cleveland, which in turn traded catcher John Romano and pitchers Tommy John and Tommie Agee to Chicago.

In addition to the three players the White Sox sent the Athletics, they also sent catcher Camilo Carreon to Cleveland.

No cash was involved the A's said.

GATE IDOL

Colavito, who started his major league career with the Indians is expected to be a much-needed gate attraction in Cleveland where he was an idol before being traded to Detroit for Harvey Kuehn in April 1960.

He hit .274 for Kaycee last season with 34 home runs and 102 runs batted in. The Tigers dealt him to the As in the fall of 1963.

Romano returns to the team he broke in with, also. The highly regarded catcher, however, has spent most of his career with the Indians.

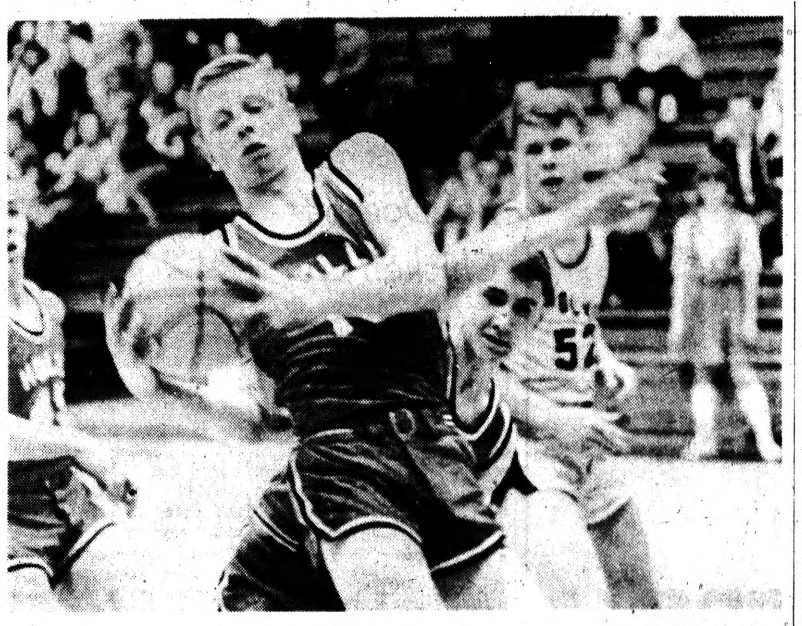

★ ★ ★

A fine handler of pitchers, he had a bad year at the plate, falling under .250 and 50 RBIs, although hitting 17 homers.

Both Hershberger and Landis tailed off last season in their hitting, finishing under the .240 level. Both are outstanding in the field, though.

★ ★ ★

Carreon was the White Sox' No. 1 receiver last year. John and Agee made brief appearances for the Tribe.

BRONCO HARASSED — Holly's Tom Fagan came away with this rebound against Clarkston last night and turned in a top job on the boards, but the senior suffered in the scoring column, collecting only eight points as Holly bowed, 60-54. Behind Fagan are teammates Jim Hanks (45) and Bill Taylor. No. 52 is Clarkston's Dave Coulter.

SPORTS

Defensive Unit Decisive

Clarkston Halts Holly, 60-54

By FLETCHER SPEARS

Clarkston's sticky defense silenced Holly's big guns last night and came away with a 60-54 basketball triumph.

★ ★ ★

The winners strategy was simple: Stop Holly's Tom Fagan.

Fagan was stopped and so was Holly. The defeat was costly for the Broncos, who slipped into second place in the Wayne - Oakland League with a 5-2 record, a half game behind league-leading Bloomfield Hills (5-1).

Fagan, handling the center position for the Broncos, went into the game with a scoring average of 19.3 points a game.

★ ★ ★

Clarkston coach Bud McGrath handed senior Ron Lippert the assignment of stopping Fagan.

GOOD JOB

Lippert did the job well. The game was approaching the midway mark of the third period before Fagan collected his first points — a pair of charity tosses.

Unable to score inside, Fagan moved away from the basket in the fourth quarter and hit on a pair of long jump shots. He finished with eight points.

Fagan wasn't the only Bronco corralled by the Wolves' defense.

Holly took only 45 shots at the basket—the team normally gets 60 to 70—and connected on 17 for 37 per cent.

★ ★ ★

The Wolves fired away at a 34 per cent pace, hitting on 24 of 70 shots.

FIFE LEADS

Dan Fife, Clarkston's sophomore guard - forward, led the Wolves with 25 points, with most of his buckets coming on driving layups.

★ ★ ★

Fife led the team to a 27-22 halftime, collecting 15 points in the first two frames, and he sparkled on offense and defense in keeping Holly off balance in the second half.

Helping Fife with the scoring chores were Lippert (11) and Rod Allen (11).

The Wolves' Gary Pearson, held scoreless for three quarters, came through with seven points in the fourth quarter to turn back a Holly rally.

★ ★ ★

The Broncos came within two points of Clarkston in the third quarter and cut the deficit to four midway in the fourth.

Bill Taylor paced the Holly attack with 18 points, followed by Jim Hanks with 10.

All-Star Keg Finals Begin Today in East

PHILIADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Weber of St. Louis and Jean Winsch of South Bend, Ind., led 36 survivors from an original field of 632 into the finals of the $100,000 All-Star Bowling Tournament today.

Weber won the qualifying trophy Tuesday night for the second time in his 11-year All-Star career with an average of more than 218. He piled up 10,474 pins in 48 games of preliminary action. An old nemesis, Harry Smith of Boston, finished second in the qualifying with 10,408.

★ ★ ★

Weber, Smith and Billy Welu of St. Louis are the only former champions in the 20-member men's field. Tommy Tuttle, the stocky newcomer from King, N.C., who finished second last year, survived the semifinal cut Tuesday night but Bob Strampe, the defending champion, was eliminated when he finished 30th.

Defending women's champion LaVerne Carter of St. Louis was eliminated Monday night when she failed to survive the first preliminary cut.

MODEST SCORE

Mrs. Winsch, 40-year-old mother of two, won the women's qualifying trophy with a modest 196 average. She totaled 5,886 for 30 games, enough to edge out second-place Helen Duval of Berkeley, Calif., by 35 pins. Olgar Gloor of Chicago finished third with 5843 and Betty Kuczynski of Chicago was fourth with 5,840.

The sponsoring Bowling Proprietors Association of America will inaugurate a new format for the five-day finals which will be climaxed by a nationally televised championship match on Sunday, Jan. 24.

★ ★ ★

Both the men's field and the women's roster of 16 will be separated into two divisions. Contestants in each division will bowl a series of two round robin matches with each bowler in their own division. In addition, they will cross over to bowl single matches with opponents in the other division.

The final match of the tournament will pit "winners" of the various divisions.

City Rec 5s Post Lopsided Triumphs

The city recreation department's Class B and C basketball programs began last night with two double-headers.

Booth Builders whipped McDonald's Drive-In, 90-39, and Messiah Baptist Church dumped The Packers, 66-49, for "B" victories that were in little doubt.

★ ★ ★

In "C" play, Coulacos Insurance drubbed J. R. Neph Heating, 83-52; and in the night's only close contest, The Hawks nipped The All-Stars, 55-53, after trailing for three periods.

PGA Cancels Fresno; San Jose Stop Okayed

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The Fresno Open Golf Tournament, which has lost an estimated $20,000 in its two years on the calendar, has been canceled from the Professional Golfers Association 1965 fall tour schedule.

Tournament committee co-chairman Stan Borasi, in making the announcement, said "It is a matter of being unable to agree on dates." Last weekend the PGA Tournament Committee voted to give the Almaden Open in San Jose the dates requested by Fresno — Oct. 28-31.

Final Spurt Ends Streak for Quintet

WHITE PIGEON (AP) — White Pigeon's basketball drought is over.

The high school dumped Coldwater St. Charles 73-69 Tuesday night.

★ ★ ★

The victory was the first for White Pigeon in 62 games — dating back to the 1961 state high school tournament.

Greg Stritz was the hero of the night. He scored 35 of his game-leading 20 points in the second half.

The game was tied, 52-52, after three quarters and again at 65-all with 2:42 remaining.

But White Pigeon held the upper hand for those final precious seconds to the delight of its screaming supporters.

HAMTRAMCK WINS

Elsewhere around Michigan, Hamtramck, No. 3 in Class A in this week's Associated Press poll, outclassed Hamtramck St. Florian, No. 3 in Class C, 65-38. Ferndale No. 8 in Class A, edged past East Detroit (No. 7), 65-61, in a game that was tied 13 times.

Cranbrook Sextet Loses to Ecorse

Ecorse took a 5-3 victory from Cranbrook's International High School Hockey League team by tallying three goals in opening five minutes of play.

Tom Pfaff and Steve Parrott netted first period tallies for the losers. Dick Moon cut the deficit to 4-3 early in third period but the lighter Ecorse sextet clinched its second win of the lean season with an insurance marker in the closing minute of play.

Cranbrook is 1-5-2. The Cranes entertain Catholic Central this afternoon.

Help Teen Avoid Dangerous Tensions

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

School days are no longer carefree days. Perhaps they never were, except for a fortunate few.

With job requirements constantly changing and colleges filled to overflowing, apprehension about the future is natural. Never has the pressure on students to produce good grades been so great.

DR. NASON

A student's problems are many. What vocations to follow? College or no college? How to meet the expectations of both parents and teachers? Whether to smoke or to take a drink?

With modern transportation and city living, the teen-ager has less parental supervision and is faced with more personal decisions than ever before.

Excessive feelings of failure and inability to measure up to demands bring severe tensions to some teen-agers. Unless a boy has developed a capacity to accept some failure, the pressure becomes intolerable and he seeks relief. Such a boy is tempted to try anything—even narcotics!

★ ★ ★

Narcotics give only temporary relief from such feelings. Some try it, are disillusioned, and get away only singed. But there are less fortunate ones whose bodies develop such a strong craving and appetite for the narcotics that they are "hooked" to the habit.

NEED POSITIVE STEPS

We try to protect our youths with laws. But more imporant, we should be taking positive steps to help teen-agers avoid excessive feelings of failure and the tensions which make them easy prey to outside influences.

Fortunately, the same developments which build a guard against falling into wrong habits are the ones which help the youngster succeed better in school and live more happily as a teen-ager.

Here are some positive steps:

PARENTS MUST NOT BE OVERPROTECTIVE. A child must be allowed to fail and still not consider himself a failure.

★ ★ ★

ENCOURAGEMENT AND APPROVAL must be given for successes. If a child knows what to do and how to do it, he should be expected to do a good job. However, encouraging a boy to work harder for A grades, when he lacks skill in studying and feels incapable of making A grades, can become an extreme pressure.

★ ★ ★

ACCENTUATE THE POSITIVE. A boy must have a feeling that he measures up to expectations, at least a fair share of the time.

Opening lead—♣ 3

Trials to determine the American team for the 1965 world's championship were held in Dallas, Tex. last November. Eighteen of the best pairs on this continent qualified and each one played 340 hands under International Match Point scoring in 17 20-board matches. Thus, each hand was played at nine different tables and, showing the idiosyncracies of duplicate, practically no hand produced nine identical results.

JACOBY

I will devote this column to discussion of a hand, with declarer in this case moved to the South seat and without a name.

Hand one of match one was an easy four-spade contract. The most common bidding is shown in the box, although there were several variations including a couple of instances of North choosing to open with a weak two bid rather than a normal one bid.

One pair that opened with a weak two bid stopped below game and lost six international match points by this omission.

In the play at four spades, West usually opened a club. Thus, the defense would start with two club tricks. Six declarers proceeded to lay down the ace and king of trumps, whereupon they had to concede a trick to the spade queen.

Two declarers decided to try the slightly inferior play of a second round spade finesse and were rewarded unjustly by a gain of one IMP. I use the word unjustly because in the absence of adverse bidding or special information, the correct play with nine trumps is to try the drop.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	Dble	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠K 10 6 5 ♥A Q 6 4 ♦6 5 ♣A 3 2
What you do now?

A—Bid three clubs. Your two club bid showed strength. Your three club bid shows the ace of clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner continues with a bid of three diamonds. What do you do now?

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved unevenly early today near the level of its new record highs. Trading was active.
