Cong Radio Calls for Truce During Holidays

Suspect Tells Judge 'Your Car Is Nice'
By JIM LONG

Judicial temperament at its best was shown yesterday by Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

The courtroom quality was displayed at a hearing for Troy B. Smith, 25, of Detroit, a fugitive from justice.

Smith was arrested Monday for driving a stolen car — Beer's 1966 leased Cadillac.

The car had been stolen from a Highland Park parking lot after Beer's youngest son, John, 22, had borrowed it for a trip.

While Smith was being questioned by police in Hazel Park, where the car was recovered, it was discovered that he was wanted by authorities in DuPage County, Ill., on a charge of armed robbery.

COINCIDENCE

By sheer coincidence the extradition hearing was assigned to Beer.

"I understand that we have a common interest in a Cadillac," said Beer. "How did it run?"

"Fine, Judge, just fine. It drives well," replied Smith.

A few minutes later Smith waived extradition, and was sent back to the county jail to await transfer back to Illinois.

"He sure seemed anxious to get out of here," Beer chuckled later.

Air Crash Kills 27 in Saigon
Names, Nationalities of Victims Unknown

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (U-P) — A U.S. Air Force transport crashed and burned tonight near Saigon's busy Tan Son Nhut Airport, killing all 27 persons aboard, U.S. military officials said.

It was believed the plane, a twin-engine C-47 Dakota, lost power in one of its engines shortly after taking off from the Tan Son Nhut airfield in the outskirts of the capital and the pilot was trying to return to the airport when the plane plunged into a swampy area.

It was believed all aboard were military personnel, but this was not confirmed immediately.

Reports from the scene said only a portion of the right wing and tail structure were left after flames swept the aircraft on impact.

The plane was en route to Pleiku, 240 miles north of Saigon in the central highlands.

An Air Force officer said the transports can carry a maximum of 45 passengers.

Holdup Victim Dies 40 Hours After Shooting
Pontiac Police Piece Together Stories of Robbery Near Tavern

A Pontiac man who was shot Wednesday night by an armed robber died yesterday in Pontiac General Hospital.

Joseph M. Doyon, 55, of 57 Park succumbed about 1:50 p.m.

He had been kept alive some 40 hours by doctors through emergency surgery and transfusion of 16 pints of blood.

Following Doyon's death, a .22-caliber bullet was removed from his abdomen.

Pontiac police said the slug had entered the victim's chest just below his ribcage and deflected downward shattering half his liver.

PICKED UP YOUTH

The end came as detectives continued to piece together from witnesses and the victim's own account the story of the holdup and sudden shooting.

Doyon told investigators he picked up a Negro youth about 18, whom Doyon said asked for a ride as Doyon left the Orchard Lake Tavern, 404 Orchard Lake, about 10:30 p.m.

Doyon said he walked with the youth to where Doyon had left his car — in front of 15 Beaudette around the corner from the bar.

The youth then pulled out a pistol, Doyon said, and demanded money.

SHOT AT CLOSE RANGE

Doyon reached for the gun, telling police later, "I didn't think he would pull the trigger."

The victim said he was then shot at short range as his assailant took from him a wallet containing "about $7."

Witnesses in the area said a single shot rang out.

Then, police were told, a youth who fired the gun fled, joined by two others whom Doyon said were hiding in nearby bushes.

Doyon, witnesses said, was seen walking back to his car.

He got in, but then got back out and staggered around the corner, where police found him leaning against a fence "in a state of shock."

Elizabeth Lake Claims Man, 61
Local Fisher Drowns After Boat Capsizes

A 61-year-old Pontiac man drowned about 2 yesterday afternoon when a 14-foot aluminum rowboat capsized in choppy Elizabeth Lake waters.

The victim was Joseph E. Taylor, 62, of 62 Ruth. His body was recovered near the overturned boat by Waterford Township firemen.

Taylor and 39-year-old Richard A. Morin of 187 Michigan were fishing about 125 yards off the southeast shore of the lake near Walters Beach when the mishap occurred.

Morin managed to swim to shore, according to township police.

Another Pontiac man, Donald Davidson of 402 N. Saginaw saw the accident from shore and began swimming toward the craft in an attempt to make a rescue.

The fishermen apparently were trying to pull in an anchor when the boat capsized.

Last year's final drowning in Oakland County occurred Nov. 15.

Pittsburgh Teacher Has Quintuplet Girls

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (U-P) — An attractive brunette school teacher gave birth today to quintuplets in the same hospital where she was born 22 years ago last month.

The quints, all girls, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Aranson of Pittsburgh at Magee-Women's Hospital.

Birth of the children, first for the couple who will celebrate their second anniversary next May, was 2½ months premature.

Doctors said there was only a 10 per cent chance all five would survive.

A hospital spokesman said one of the five new quints was strong, three were holding their own, and one was somewhat weak. The spokesman said no detailed report on their condition would be made for at least 24 hours — until the so-called critical period had passed.

Mrs. Aranson, a teacher in suburban Wilksburg, is an only child. Her husband, a law student at Duquesne University, has a 30-year-old brother.

Mrs. Aranson said she was conscious during the delivery. The first of the yet-unnamed babies was born at 2:41 a.m., the last at 2:51.

Hospital authorities are calling the children, ranging in weight from 1 pound 7 ounces to 1 pound 12 ounces, by letters until the parents come up with names.

British Monitor Broadcast in London Today

Christmas, New Year Periods Set as Time for Pauses in War

LONDON (U-P) — A Viet Cong broadcast monitored in London today called for a truce in Viet Nam at Christmas and another over the New Year, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported.

The Christmas truce, it said, would last from 7 a.m. Saigon time on Christmas Eve to 7 a.m. Dec. 26. The New Year truce would start at 7 a.m. Dec. 31 and end at 7 a.m. Jan. 2.

During this time, it said, the Viet Cong would take no offensive action.

A similar truce was observed last year.

The BBC said today's broadcast came from Radio Liberation, the Viet Cong transmitter in South Viet Nam, and was made in the name of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

SOME LULL

Today's Viet Cong proposal for a Christmas-New Year truce apparently assures some lull in the fighting. However, in Washington, President Johnson's advisers fear a diplomatic squeeze play to parlay such a cease-fire into a prolonged bombing respite for North Viet Nam.

They view this possibility as dangerous and are determined to guard against it.

This is the principal reason why several of President Johnson's top military advisers have taken the position in the last few days halting air strikes against the North would create unacceptable opportunities for increased movement of men and supplies to Communist forces fighting in the South.

A secondary reason appears to be a developing debate along the lines of a military-diplomatic split within the government over how tough the United States should be in handling the approach to any possible peace negotiations.

Santa will see children at both shopping centers until the day before Christmas.

Deer Visits Doctor, but Isn't Patient

Deer can be cunning animals when it comes to avoiding man — especially during hunting season.

But it's going a little bit too far when the whitetails start dropping in to see doctors for medical advice.

That's what happened about 12:30 p.m. today at the Woodward professional building, 900 Woodward. Only the deer appeared to be in need of more medical assistance than advice when it terminated its brief call.

The doe crashed through a plate-glass window, bounced off a door to the X-ray room and left the building via another large window.

Pontiac police reported that the deer, apparently injured by the glass, went elsewhere in the search of help.

State Road Jobs Hacked by Federal Fund Cutback

LANSING (AP)—A $34 million cutback in federal funds will reduce Michigan's road building for the fiscal year ending next June 30 will be cut. In a few months, the state highway director said Friday.

The federal government notified the Michigan Highway Department Wednesday that it is cutting highway expenditures by 17.5 per cent for the rest of the fiscal year to ease inflationary pressures of the Viet Nam war.

Highway Director Howard Hill said this will mean the $134 million in federal aid authorized for Michigan for the fiscal year ending next June 30 will be cut. In a few months, the state highway director said Friday.

He estimated the department already has committed about $88 million of its federal aid, including $23 million for a bid let for work on two Detroit freeway projects, work on I-75 near Standish and smaller freeway landscaping projects. Hill said the state does not

Dems, GOP Laud Budget Cut Plans

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Both the Republican and Democratic congressional leaders have applauded President Johnson's declaration that he plans to trim federal programs by more than $3 billion next year.

After conferring with the leaders for several hours yesterday at his ranch, Johnson held a news conference. The Senate and House leaders took part in the meeting with newsmen.

"Our goal is to have in excess of $3 billion in program reductions," Johnson said.

He said the cutback will be accomplished by setting aside programs "that we think they can be done better tomorrow than

Parties Reach Accord in Bonn

BONN, Germany (AP)—West Germany's Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats decided today to form a new coalition government.

The announcement gave no hint as to who would be the new chancellor to replace Ludwig Erhard, a Christian Democrat.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin is the Social Democrat leader and Kurt Georg Kiesinger is the Christian Democrat's candidate. The Social Democrats are socialists.

There had been speculation that a deal between the two leading West German parties would bring Kiesinger, an ex-Nazi, into the chancellery while Brandt's party would take key cabinet posts.

Kiesinger told reporters he hopes a new government can be formed next week. The decision is subject to approval of the representatives of the two parties in the Bundestag, Germany's parliament.

Road Toll Pace About Normal

By the Associated Press

The death toll on the nation's highways during the Thanksgiving weekend continued to rise today but it appeared the pace was about normal for a nonholiday period.

Traffic deaths totaled 333, including 69 under 16 years of age, since the start of the count at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday. The holiday period ends at midnight Sunday.

The death toll in last year's Thanksgiving weekend was a record high of 615. A recent survey of a four-day nonholiday period by the Associated Press showed 546 traffic fatalities.

A spokesman for the National Highway Traffic Safety Council said that the highway traffic pattern during the Thanksgiving weekend, as a rule, does not reach the high mileage volume of other major holidays.

Traffic accidents in the nation this year up to Oct. 1 totaled 36,190, an average of more than 130 a day. Last year's toll was 49,000, a record high.

Theater at Cranbrook Is Reorganized by Board

BLOOMFIELD HILLS—The directed by Carl G. Wonnberger Cranbrook Summer Theatre and his wife, Annette, under the School has been reorganized as trustees of Cranbrook School in Bloomfield Hills.

Porter said that the main reason for the move is the Wonnbergers' retirement next June from Cranbrook School and that "The Theatre School can be made more effective by establishing a trust to govern an institution concerned with liberal and theater arts and to carry on such educational programs indefinitely or until such time as a more effective program is devised."

The purpose of the school is to provide a liberal arts education through the pertinent aspects of theater with emphasis on individual development, rather than audience appeal.

Israel Rebuks Sign of Worry

U.N. Diplomats Show Concern Over Impact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The stinging rebuke and threat of punishment that the Security Council has leveled against Israel reflects U.N. concern over the impact border clashes might have on the explosion in the 15-nation region.

Diplomats noted that the council reacted to Israel's reprisal raids against three Jordanian villages Nov. 13 with the toughest resolution it has passed against that state in 15 years.

By a vote of 140 Friday, the council issued a threat of economic and military penalties against Israel for the first time since it began dealing with the Middle East border quarrels.

Even New Zealand, long abstainer on the 15-nation question, agreed that such acts of retaliation should not be condoned. It refrained from voting for the resolution because it felt the draft did not contain any positive proposal for bringing peace to the inflamed area.

Israel was plainly stung by the wording of the draft. Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay told the council that the basic cause of Arab-Israeli tensions lies in Arab belligerence and military threat against Israel.

"The weakness of the present resolution lies in its failure to address itself to the simple fact that one member state and one alone is faced by the refusal of its neighbors to allow it to pursue its life in peace with its neighbors," he declared.

Comay expressed hope that Israel's Arab neighbors would contribute to peace by refraining from any more attacks against Israel.

Brandon Woman Is Killed in Crash

Mrs. Margaret I. Lockwood, 80, of 344 Sunset, Brandon Township, was killed near Columbia City, Ind., yesterday when the car driven by her husband, Edwin, 80, collided with a delivery truck.

Lockwood reportedly suffered serious injuries in the accident. He was taken to Whitley County Hospital near Columbus City.

Police said the Lockwood car had just pulled onto the U.S. 30 bypass when the accident occurred.

The truck driver, William R. Hilbrich, 39, of Hammond, Ind., was treated at the county hospital and then released.

Police said that the office safe was carried to the warehouse area of the building where a company acetylene torch was used to open it.

The missing green checks drawn on Michigan Bank may have been reprotected machine, Parney said.

The machine was set at $213.25, according to Parney, and the repeat control for this amount was on. The missing checks were numbered 671 through 700.

Entry to the building was forced by forcing a lock on the front door.

Suit Against Rezoning in Avon Is Dismissed

A Circuit Court lawsuit contesting the rezoning of a 24-acre parcel in Avon Township for industrial development has been dismissed by Judge Arthur E. Moore.

The decision will permit the Dura Corp., a business machine manufacturing company, to establish a new plant on the site north of the village of Rochester.

Moore, in a written opinion, said that the rezoning, approved by the Township Board July 13, was within the discretion of the board and that it had not abused its powers.

The lawsuit was brought against the township board by members of the Upper Avon Improvement Association who claimed the construction of the plant would decrease the value of their homes nearby.

The property previously was zoned administrative and professional, and had once been considered as the site for a hospital.

"Rezoning the property in question does not violate reasonable planning and district zoning for basic public, health, general welfare and police purposes," said Moore.

Railroads Fuel U.S. Economy

The next time you are near a railroad track, take a look at the cross-ties and imagine paying as many dollars in taxes as there are cross-ties on the railroads. But that is almost exactly what the railroads do. If you place one dollar on every cross-tie of the 372,000 miles of U.S. railroad track, the total would add up to $913 million—just $1 million short of the annual taxes paid by railroads to Federal, state and local governments.

Law of Diminishing Returns Hits Cigarette Tax

An example of what happens when taxation becomes excessive is revealed in a current New York City problem. It seems that the State boosted the tax on a package of cigarettes by a nickel last year, and the city followed with an additional four cents. The combined action raised the cost of a package of smokes in New York City to a whopping 43 cents. But, instead of bringing in more revenue, there has been a major decline in New York City cigarette tax revenue.

CAB Opens Gates to a Host of Air Travelers

Would-be tourists of limited means will get a big break starting today, the effective date of a Civil Aeronautics Board decision authorizing 11 nonscheduled or supplemental airlines to enter the foreign charter-flight field. Americans who have yearned to visit Europe but could not afford the air fare will now be able to do so. The prospective savings in air fare and related expenses are startling. One supplemental carrier calculates that it could offer a two-week package tour of Europe for $440, with all expenses except meals included. The lowest economy air fare to Europe and back on an international carrier now stands at $300.

Martians Down-to-Earth in Politics

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON — Except for the gubernatorial race in Georgia, about the only issue that '66 voters have left hanging is whether they favor the establishment of political dynasties. Puzzled by the lack of a clear-cut decision, we referred the problem to some little green men from outer space, whose antics have lately been crowded out of the news by politics. Eager to be back in the headlines, they hovered over Alabama and quickly decided that Americans yearn for a royal family. If folks can't have papa Wallace, they'll take mama as a stand-in. We informed the Martians that this reaction was certainly not typical of all our citizens (how can you tell green men that some Americans only like pink men???) so we asked them to keep looking. Pointing their compass westward, the flying saucers swooped low over neighboring Arkansas. "Theory confirmed," they radioed back. There, Winthrop Rockefeller had just won a precedent-shattering gubernatorial race while his brother was doing likewise in New York, and their nephew was capturing a West Virginia state office on the opposite ticket. We urged the Martians to try some more, and as they span across the border into

The POWER of FAITH by WOODY ISHMAEL

When Peggy Cuddleback Woodard was a girl, she read "Windows in Henry Street" and "Forty Years in Hull House," by Jane Addams. That inspired her to work in the slums of New York, but she took a different turn and before her 21st birthday was teaching in Japan as a Baptist missionary. Although a graduate in journalism from the University of Oregon, she got her training at the Chicago Baptist Missionary School. The war interrupted her work in a Japanese village, and she went to China. In Shanghai when the Japanese took over, she became a prisoner. During seven months of horror in a prison camp she saw the brotherhood of man at work. Behind bars all were equal and worked together to help each other; the wealthy, the poor, the society matron, the dope addict. When she returned to Japan after the war she wondered if she would have to start all over again. Such was not the case, for when she reached her village she found a memorial to her faith and the faith of the villagers. Her house had been kept intact as a symbol of hope to the people. It is now the church in that village.

Confident Living:

Seek Happiness in Simple Life

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE
Did you ever meet a truly happy person? I did recently, an authentically happy man. We were invited to tea at the home of a friend and came away with a simple but impressive formula for happiness, one which struck me as just about the real thing. Our hostess lives in a lovely old-fashioned home at Briarwater, a fine village at the beginning of the Burning Pass in the Berner Oberland of Switzerland. An uncle of our friend was present and he really made an impact. A slight, spare man of 83 years, his face was ruddy-healthy with the same coloration as ripe apples. Why and how, without an excess pound of weight, his intelligent eyes were bright with the joy of life. He laughed a laugh of pure pleasure and came out with such a fascinating mixture of wit and wisdom that we were delighted and charmed. "You seem a genuinely happy man," I commented. "Are you as happy as you appear to be?" His eyes twinkled. "Happy? Of course I am happy. Why?"

Washington Notebook:

A Fraction Short of a Landslide

By WASHINGTON STAFF
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Jesse Unruh, speaker of the Democratically controlled California Assembly, was thought for an hour or two on election night to be in trouble in his reelection bid. Actually, he won a landslide in the end, but the impression lingered after he had had a close shave. He explained to the National Press Club: "They say Ronald Reagan had a landslide in winning the governorship with 52 percent of the vote. I got 57.1 percent so I must have been just nine-tenths of a point short of a landslide." A few days following this experience I was in the palatial home of one of the wealthiest and most influential men in Switzerland, a man 80 years of age, vigorous mentally and also physically save for a game leg. I told him of the old gentleman and noticed how attentively he listened to the philosophy of happiness which had been expounded. "I think," he said, "that is one of the soundest things I have ever heard." He looked down at his own leg gnarled and twisted by arthritis. "You know something? I would give a great share of my fortune to have this leg straight and strong as in my youth." I reminded him that to arrive at 80 years with mind and heart strong and only a bad leg was itself good reason for happiness. "If mind and heart and soul are okay, what is a twisted leg anyway?" "Yes," he replied, "God has been good to me. I am a happy man. But," he added wistfully, "the old wood corner is pretty well right about happiness being inherent in not having too much. My wealth has caused bitterness and unhappiness in my family. Yes, it is a cause for happiness not to have too much." He sighed, "Happiness comes by strange twists, doesn't it?" And so it seems that the way, or at least one way to have a happy life is to have a good stomach, good legs, a love of nature and of God and not to have too much of this world's goods. By those standards most of us should be pretty happy. How come so many are not? Try to make life simpler. You'll be happier if you do.

Voice of the People:

Advantages of Headlights on Foggy Days Attested

Pursuant to Mrs. John E. Smith's thoughtful letter about the use of headlights in foggy weather, a recent survey revealed that a great percentage of drivers use headlights in daytime fog. More afternoon drivers do so than morning drivers, perhaps due to having seen others with headlights on.

The use of parking lights gives added safety to the rear, but front parking lights can be dangerous. Oncoming drivers will see cars with headlights turned on but will not see those with parking lights or with no lights. They may form the impression that there are no cars between those cars that have headlights on, and attempt to pass.

A red light is the most effective light during all bad weather. In England where fogs are very prevalent, high intensity rear red tail lamps have been developed for use in foggy weather.

'Service Poorer Since Milk Prices Rose'

Milk prices recently went up and service has become poorer. I'm looking for a reliable company that will deliver milk at least every other day. Two major companies deliver 3 times a week. A third major company has put out a printed schedule which shows 12 days' milk delivery during December.

Recently, a major company had to recall all its powdered milk because of Salmonella. A month ago we had sour milk on Sunday that was delivered Saturday. Where's our Health Department? Our Better Business Bureau? Our doctors? Where are the old-fashioned conscientious milkmen?

Regrets Failure of 18 Year Vote Proposal

One of my losers in the recent election was the 18-year-old vote. My 13-year-old son was concerned about this too and disappointed. I told him that people generally believe that teens don't know enough about world affairs. He replied, "Oh, sure, but we can go to Viet Nam."

I agree some teens know little of world affairs but there are also a lot of them on our highways who know little about driving (it include some adults in this too). It is inevitable in all fields that some will be immature.

Tells Effects of Publicity on Personal Life

Whatever happened to the "controversial assessor" of Lake Orion who was "elected" but because of a non-existent so-called "resignation" never served? Because of the publicity given to a 35-year-old murder conviction (at the age of 16) and failure to mention that the conviction was reversed by the U.S. Supreme Court after he had served 17 years, he was ousted from a $25,000 a year job; his wife and three children were subjected to ridicule and abuse; he was sued for divorce.

mission on Intergovernmental Relations, had some advice the other day for state legislative leaders gathered in Washington. He said his agency has compiled a list of the catalogues put out by various federal departments and agencies setting forth the aid program they have for states, counties and cities. Said Colman: "Our little catalogue of catalogues" runs nine full pages of single-spaced type. This ought to be material for the opponents of the federal handout. Will the real Gordon Allott please stand up? The American Conservative Union, a right-wing political organization, hailed the Colorado Republican senator's reelection as a victory for the one of the "moderate Republicans" reelected. Warming up for the avalanche of 3.5 billion Christmas cards which will be mailed this year, the Post Office Department handled more than 100 million Thanksgiving greeting cards. The department is also gearing up for the standard holiday barrage of complaints which pour in, like this one of a few years back: "Congratulations on adding a new dimension to Christmas. I used to get all my cards and packages by Christmas Day and it made it quite a burden to get all my thank-you notes out at one time. Now, here it is two weeks after Christmas and my cards and packages are still trickling in. This makes it much easier to acknowledge them. Thank you."

Students in 'Middle Ages'

By DICK WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON — I've never met a student protest leader in the flesh, but judging from their pictures some of them are getting a bit long in the tooth.

Not long ago I was watching some television films of a campus "free speech" demonstration in which four-letter words were the main issue. Apparently they were seeking an "open vulgarity" policy, or something of the sort.

Some of those students, if they were students, looked old enough to be attending school under the original GI bill. This started me to wondering what the future might bring. The vision I got went something like this: "Would you please identify yourself, Sir?"

"My name is Ian Squashbuckles."

"Are you one of the leaders of this demonstration?"

"Yes, I'm the chairman of CCHSNWWHOMWOWS."

"It's the Campus Coordinating Committee for the Right to Say Naughty Words Without Having Our Mouths Washed Out With Soap."

"Would you mind giving us your age, Mr. Squashbuckles?"

Birchers, Radioman Are Sued by Widow

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The widow of Dallas Bedford Lewis, who owned Dr. Ross Dog Food Co., has filed suit against the John Birch Society and radio commentator Dan Smoot.

Mrs. Yolanda Lewis claimed in a Superior Court suit filed yesterday that the society and Smoot influenced her husband in preparation of his will. Lewis died April 26 at 62.

Lewis left $1 million each to the society, Smoot and Pepperdine College. The college, located here, refused the gift because of a condition requiring it to confer an honorary degree on Smoot.

"Not at all, I'm 64."

"How long have you been attending school?"

"Forty-two years."

"And what class are you in?"

"I'm a sophomore."

"How did you happen to become active in the protest movement?"

"When I was in the fifth grade, I said a naughty word and my teacher washed my mouth out with soap. I've been protesting ever since."

"How much longer do you expect to remain chairman of CCHSNWWHOMWOWS?"

"Only for one more year."

"Does that mean you'll be graduating next year?"

"No, I'll be eligible for Social Security."

"I hate to tell you this, Mr. Squashbuckles, but you are protesting an anachronism. It has been years since teachers used soap to punish student profanity."

"In that case I'll affiliate with CCHSNWWHOMWOWD."

"C C C R S N W W H O M W O W D? What's that?"

"It's the Campus Coordinating Committee for the Right to Say Naughty Words Without Having Our Mouths Washed Out With Detergents."

FRUIT FLIES

QUESTION: What good are fruit flies?

ANSWER: The fruit fly is a pest—but it has one useful function. Attracted by rotting, fermenting fruits, the female fly (1) buzzes around them and lays eggs (2) which hatch into maggots (3). These burrow through the fruit and turn into pupae (4), which become mature flies (5).

Fruit growers have various ways of controlling these pests, such as cultivating under the trees, using sprays and destroying over-ripe fruit.

Pest that he is, the fruit fly has been useful to scientists. These flies breed very rapidly; their life cycle is less than two weeks. This means that changes from one generation to another can be easily studied inside glass cages.

A scientist, in our picture, is pointing out one of these changes to his interested audience. By using knowledge gained in this way, experts learn how to control plant and insect pests. Thus, the poor little fruit fly someday may succeed in eliminating himself!

FOR YOU TO DO: Don't worry about fruit fly maggots being in the firm clean fruits you buy in the stores; these have been carefully raised and inspected.

Cuba Is Improving Technical Training

HAVANA (AP)—Communist Cuba is making slow but steady headway in educating young people in the technical fields.

Following the example of other Communist countries, the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro set up youth technical brigades two years ago with the dual purpose of educating technicians and utilizing an organized force to cope with the country's many technical problems.

Although many of the problems remain, some have even become more acute and others have been solved. The rapid deterioration of machinery and equipment has been arrested in many cases.

There are basic difficulties in the program.

WIDE RANGE

Cuba has much antiquated machinery, scant technical equipment and tools, no technical publications, limited study materials such as instruction texts and manuals, and few teachers.

Many of its scientists, engineers and other technicians fled in the early years of the Castro administration.

While the brigades have so far done little more than hold the status quo, Communist leaders still hope the program will begin paying off in increased production soon.

There are now almost 10,000 persons under the age of 30 in the program. They are organized into 788 brigades throughout the country—283 engaged in agricultural study and labor.

GOALS LISTED

Outgoing national director Jose Ramon Lopez set some goals for the future at a recent conference:

Ten hours of study weekly, plus the study of a foreign language, for each member; publication of technical manuals; young technicians to be used to teach other less-skilled workers; conduct experiments; develop new techniques; attempt inventions of machinery and machinery; form study groups and seminars; extend contacts with international scientific and technical organizations.

A large number of technicians are needed in the island's growing agricultural-livestock industry.

Many of the youths are concentrating on artificial insemination of cattle, soil fertilization procedures, crop diversity and irrigation methods while others are studying and undergoing on-the-job training in the important sugar industry.

MECHANICAL REPAIR

In Havana and other urban areas, the greatest number are working and studying in the mechanical repair field—trying to stem the tide of rapid deterioration in machinery. A large part of their time is spent on what they call "adapting" parts to antiquated machinery or mechanical-electrical apparatus. The term means making and installing stopgap parts, many of a crude but workable nature.

Some of the broad specialties in which the youths study and work are electronics, electricity, automotive mechanics, agriculture, livestock raising, chemistry, mechanical construction and repair.

Some of them can study at home or work centers through a newly created technological correspondence institute which televises some of its courses and places others in the Communist youth paper.

The four courses now being offered are general mechanics, industrial electricity, automotive mechanics and refrigeration.

Lopez says the Communist youths of today are in debt to the youth generations of the past who fought to make possible "the social revolution."

Now, he says, "the honor-bound duty of each young person is the technical revolution."

Miguel Martin, secretary general of the Cuban Labor Confederation, told delegates to the national conference that youth "is now, has always been and will continue to be at the forefront of the struggles of the Socialist peoples."

Infection Eyed as Source of 2 Symptoms

By Science Service
LOS ANGELES — Congenital blindness in the newborn child and certain spontaneous abortions may be caused by the same parasitic infection.

A team of doctors from the University of California at Los Angeles Medical School, the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, and the Southern California Permanente Medical Group conducted blood tests of 3,796 women of child-bearing age for evidence of toxoplasmosis.

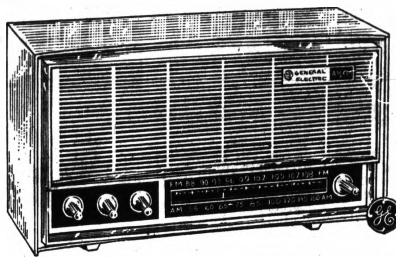

This parasitic infection usually does not produce symptoms in the mother. It may, however, cause blindness and other abnormalities in her offspring.

Associated in the study were Drs. Margaret H. Jones, J. L. Sever, J. G. Hallatt, E. D. Colson, Carol Bonnet, M. R. Gilkeson and J. M. Roberts.

The study was carried out over a five-year period. Initial blood tests were made in most shortly after spontaneous abortion or childbirth.

Blood tests were also made during subsequent pregnancies with 25 per cent of the group showing evidence of toxoplasmosis infection.

Animals With Tales Feature $10-Million Los Angeles Zoo

LOS ANGELES (U)—A hippo that survived rigors of the Viet Nam war, a chimp that receives fan mail, and a horse brought back from extinction are among stars of the nation's newest zoo.

The $10-million Los Angeles Zoo will have 2,500 animals on display when it opens next Monday, making it one of the nation's five largest.

It replaces the overcrowded, 54-year-old Griffith Park Zoo which citizens regarded as so antiquated that 80 per cent of them voted in 1967 to float a bond issue for the new one.

The new zoo also is in Griffith Park, five miles north of downtown Los Angeles. "I used to feel sorry for the animals at the old zoo," says one of its officials. "There were the elephants, for instance, so crowded together they couldn't have been happy."

OVERCROWDED
"The old zoo was built for 200 animals back in 1912 and there were 2,500 animals there when we closed it last August."

Three hundred animals from the old zoo will be used for trading with other zoos.

The new zoo, designed by Charles Luckman & Associates, has eliminated bars and placed animals in most - surrounded concrete compounds or glassed-in cages.

It has acquired new and rare tenants by birth, barter, and purchase.

HERMAN DELAYED

There is Herman the Hippo, a $34,000 purchase from India. Its journey to Los Angeles last spring was interrupted by a stop at Saigon.

The South Viet Nam harbor was so clogged with war material that Herman's ship was delayed a month.

When Herman's grassy food supply ran short, Americans sent lawn cuttings to the ship for fodder.

Princess Lolipop, a 14-year-old chimpanzee, was born in the old zoo. Keepers held a contest to name her. The reward—a certificate naming the winner a monkey's uncle or aunt.

SONGS FOR CHIMP

"We had entires from 39 states and the Canadian provinces — from businessmen, school children, housewives and even a nun. One woman sent songs and birthday cards to the chimp," said John Hunt, zoo publicist.

The zoo's solution was to combine the two most popular names and issue thousands of certificates, making all the contestants honorary monkey's uncles and aunts.

Pentagon Makes It Official: January Call to Be Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon officially announced today the January draft call will be cut from 27,500 to 15,000.

The 12,000-man reduction was forecast by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Wednesday before reporters at President Johnson's Texas ranch.

At the time, McNamara said

U.S. military needs are leveling off and over-all manpower requirements for the armed forces next year will be about one-third less than in 1966.

The Pentagon said all men drafted in January will go to the Army.

The cutback in the January draft call, the Pentagon said, expects there will be about 3.3 million men in the armed forces results from the most recent review of military force levels required for 1967.

NEXT YEAR

McNamara has indicated that about 800,000 men will be taken during the next calendar year, through voluntary enlistments.

The Pentagon chief says he stationed in the country by Dec. 31, and more will be sent to the war zone in 1967.

As for Viet Nam, McNamara has said 385,000 men will be placed.

NOTE ON GRAVE—A note and a bunch of flowers were discovered on the grave of Lee Harvey Oswald in Fort Worth on Thanksgiving Day. The note said: "Did he assassinate the President? Was he truthfully accused? Guilty, Yea? Or was he innocent? He has left all the world confused. Signed... Jr."

Anniversary of Death

Hundreds Visit Oswald Grave

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A note attached to a large bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums on the grave of Lee Harvey Oswald said "... he has left all the world confused."

Hundreds of visitors yesterday filed by the grave in Fort Worth's Rosehill Cemetery on the third anniversary of the day that Oswald, named by the Warren Commission as the assassin of President Kennedy, was shot to death by Dallas night club operator Jack Ruby.

The neatly typewritten note on the flowers read "Lee Harvey Oswald. Did he assassinate the President? Was he truthfully accused? Guilty, yes? Or was he innocent? He has left all the world confused."

In a three-hour period Thanksgiving Day more than 600 persons visited the grave.

Some stood, looked and said nothing. But others were quick to voice their opinions on the Warren Commission report and recent demands that the investigation into the assassination at Dallas Nov. 22, 1963, be reopened.

DOESN'T BELIEVE
A Missouri sheriff said "I don't think it has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt" that Oswald was the assassin.

Others said they thought the investigation should be reopened to determine if the shots that killed the President and wounded Texas Gov. John Connally came from more than one point.

Some said they were satisfied with the conclusion of the Warren Commission report that Oswald acted alone.

In the crowd were two Catholic nuns. Asked why they came, one replied: "I came to get a reflection in the heart that it doesn't pay to do something wrong and to say a prayer for Lee Harvey Oswald."

One man said he came because of sympathy for Oswald's family, adding "They were not wealthy people."

One woman, leading two twin girls about four years of age, approached the grave when one of the girls started yelling "I don't want to see his grave... I don't want to see his grave..."

She remained behind while her mother, sister and others filed past the grave and its yellow chrysanthemums.

Football Player Is 'Drawback'

HARTFORD, Ky. (AP)—Dorothy Gentry asked one mother what position her son played on the Ohio County High School football team.

"I'm not sure," the mother replied, "but I believe he's one of the drawbacks."

So everybody gave a half bushel of corn.

In the late 1600's, all citizens of the New England colonies supported Harvard University by voluntary tithing. A fair gift, they decided, was a half bushel of corn. A portion of their harvest.

Today, as then, voluntary gifts are one of our colleges' main means of support.

This and the community spirit of giving is what made higher education grow.

A portion of your harvest can keep it growing.

Give to the college of your choice.

Detroit Police Get $402,000 Bond in Narcotics Case Overtime Pay Early

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Bond totaling $402,000 was set by Municipal Court Judge Clay E. Hunter for six persons who allegedly brought a supply of marijuana to Canton concealed in the diapers of an infant. Five Michigan residents and a 19-year-old Canton resident were arrested Thursday, police said, as they drove into Canton, climaxing an investigation that had been under way since last summer.

Bond totaled $100,000—$50,000 on each count—for Leo Sutton, 30, of Ypsilanti, Mich., and Wyatt Taylor, 40, of Jackson, Mich. Judge Hunter said the bond was high for the two because they were on parole for narcotics violations in Michigan. Bond of $25,000 on each of the two major charges were set for Brenda Seymour, 19, of Canton, and Charles Taylor, 32, of Ypsilanti, and Lucille Sutton, 29, of Ypsilanti.

The nonwhite population of the nation was estimated at 23.6 million this year by the Census Bureau. Of this total, 21.7 million are Negroes.

Family United After 11 Years

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
DETROIT (AP) — For Guy Yee, Thanksgiving 1966 marked the beginning — not the end — of a period of thanks.

It ended a loneliness of 11 years.

Yee, 38, sat down to a turkey dinner with his wife, Yui, and two of his children, 15-year-old Larry and 11-year-old Margaret on Thanksgiving Day.

He had no seen his wife in 11 years. He had not seen his son in 15 years. He had never seen his daughter.

FIRST TIME

"I am seeing her for the first time," he said, beaming at the girl.

The separation began in 1951. Yee had been with Chiang Kai-shek's army headquarters until the Communist purge of 1948.

"He saw the Communists picked up all of Chiang Kai-shek's people," said Dale Yee, States immigration list.

partner and co-cook with his brother Guy in a Detroit restaurant. "He knew they would try to catch and brainwash him." Yee escaped Red Chinese reprisals, swimming a river in his flight from Canton City. He went alone.

"Too many people trying to get away would attract attention," Dale said.

Yee went to Hong Kong, waiting four years before he found a spot on the United States immigration list.

His wife was allowed to visit him just before he left Hong Kong. She returned to Canton to be with her children and gave birth to Margaret. Three years ago Yee returned to Hong Kong to seek Red Chinese permission for his wife and four children to leave Canton. The Chinese consented to let the wife and two children go.

The papers came in late 1965. Yee applied for the family to come. On Thanksgiving Day they arrived.

Smoking-Related Diseases Kill More

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Diseases linked by the Public Health Service (PHS) with cigarette smoking are killing Americans at a higher rate every year, although the over-all death rate from disease is declining.

This was the substance of a report issued yesterday in which the PHS compared the number of deaths per 100,000 population in the years 1950 and 1964.

Eleven diseases the PHS deems associated with smoking were the cause of death for 253 of every 100,000 Americans in 1964, the report said.

By 1964, these same diseases were killing Americans at the rate of 349 a year out of every 100,000 an increase of 96 persons in 14 years.

The death rate per 100,000 for all disease declined from 964 in 1950 to 940 in 1964.

37 PER CENT

The report was based on analysis of death trends for diseases linked to cigarette smoking by the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Smoking and Health.

Plays It Safe

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — After 3-year-old Gregory Stark was bitten by a cat he looked at four different felines, all gray, in four different places, all gray, in 1964 were caused by the smoking-related diseases. This compared with 26 per cent in 1950 and gave Gregory an anti-rabies inoculation.

REMOVE MAKEUP

First remove all makeup. Next apply a lubricating cream and leave it on while you relax in a warm bath. Take at least ten or fifteen minutes for this. Cool the water gradually before getting out of the tub. Remove cream with tissues and then with a hot wet cloth.

Rub a body lotion into the heels, toes and elbows. Apply a deodorant under arms and dust the body with powder. Now put on a comfortable negligee or robe and lie down for 15 minutes or better, a half hour.

Place cotton pads, dipped in ice water, over your closed eyes. Now try to really "go limp!" from your toes to your head. If you think at all, make them pleasant thoughts. Save any problems for later on.

Union Hits State Pay Hike Plan

LANSING (AP) — The Civil Michigan State Employees' Commission's staff Union, said if the commission's recommendation for pay raises totaling $18 million in fiscal 1967-68 and over, Thursday recommended a pay adopts the recommendations aging around 7 per cent. Some and benefit increase worth $21.5 next month, the state's 39,000 workers would get up to 16 per cent more money. Fringe benefits, mostly insurance premiums, worth $3.5 million are also in the staff recommendation.

Robert Grosvenor, director of The recommendation called.

The commission will decide whether to adopt the recommendation following a public hearing Dec. 5. If they approve, the new pay scales will be worked into the governor's budget and submitted to the legislature next year.

Grosvenor also criticized the staff's use of percentage increases and said the union favors raising everybody's pay by the same amount.

"An attendant Nurse B, which is our largest classification, gets $2.21 an hour to start and climbs to $2.61 after four years," he said. "Based on the projected 7.5 per cent raise, she will get about another 19 cents."

"But the medical superintendent she works with gets paid from $10.39 an hour to $19.85, and he'll get more than 90 cents," Grosvenor added. "Employees will take a look at that and they'll see it's not very fair. The union has advocated across-the-board raises so that we'd all be treated the same."

CLASSIFICATIONS
Some classifications and their recommended increases are regular clerical workers, 5 to 6 per cent; labor and trades classes 6.5 to 8; social welfare classes, 6.4 to 8.1; engineers 5 to 8.1; and doctors and physicians, 5 to 8.

The department said the largest increases, 14-16 per cent, would go to some classes of systems analysts, elevator and boiler inspectors, highway drill core operators, prison industry workers, disability examiners and vocational rehabilitation workers.

Auto Firms Progressing in Safety Recall Program

DETROIT (AP) — Auto companies reported Friday they will take up another two to three weeks to finish it, an AMC spokesman said.

LONG WAITS
"We not only have a mailing problem but we also have to try to arrange the notifications so that dealers will not be swamped with customers who will be forced to wait a long time for checkups," he added.

General Motors said that 12,000 cars, or about two per cent of the 841,000 it has built in the 1967 model run thus far, were involved in the checkup.

FEW DEFECTS
Few actual defects were found in the thousands of cars checked, industry sources said. A big percentage of the cars involved were 1967 models but some went back as far as 1965. American Motors undertook the job of notifying owners of 174,887 1965 and 1966 V-8s with automatic transmission that a few cases of sticky accelerators had been found.

"We began the task of mailing out notices last Nov. 4 but it is a monumental one and it

Takes 'Loan' at Gunpoint

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — A police, youthful bandit held up the Fort Ligonier Motor Lodge Friday and walked off with $75, expressing hope "it can some day pay it back."

The manager, Bernice Stranahan, quoted the youth as saying, "I'm sorry I have to do this, but I have to have it. Maybe someday I can pay it back."

He was armed, police said.

Rain in Northeast May End Smog Crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — Rain fell Friday night and early today in many areas of the smog-stricken northeastern seaboard, bringing with it the possibility of an end to the three-day air pollution crisis.

A Weather Bureau spokesman said rain helps "clear the atmosphere of fine dust particles," and he looked for the arrival of a cold air mass, which has been lying to the northwest.

Since Wednesday the inert air, getting dirtier all the while, clung over communities from Massachusetts to Maryland. Hardest hit were metropolitan areas with their mass industry and transit.

New York City, Connecticut and New Jersey were placed on antipollution alerts. A voluntary ban on use of cars was urged.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller ordered a first alert against pollution for the New York City area. First alerts, thickest and the dangers the also in effect in New Jersey and Connecticut, are voluntary as are second alerts. A third alert is mandatory and would shut down factories and bar autos and buses from the streets.

St. George Greek Orthodox Church Opening Tonight

For more than four years the Rev. Gus Tsompanas and congregation of St. George Greek Orthodox Church have been dreaming of the day when they would worship in the new church, now just about completed.

At 7:30 tonight the doors will be opened for a vesper hour.

Bishop Germanos of Synodon, Detroit will be present to cut the ribbon, opening doors to the narthex and sanctuary.

Bishop of the Seventh Diocesan District of North and South America with headquarters in Detroit, he will speak and bless the building.

Matin service at 9:45 a. m. tomorrow will be followed by the Archdiocesan Divine Liturgy at 11

a. m. with Bishop Germanos officiating. Pastor Tsompanas will assist.

The new church on Woodward is located on a four to five-acre site across from Berkshire Road and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Bloomfield Township.

The property is bordered on the north by East Berkshire and on the south by Winthrop.

Both the exterior and interior walls are of rose colored brick. Carpeting in the sanctuary aisles and chancel area is kelly green. Other floor covering is of beige tile.

SEATS 250

The building will seat 250 in the nave, and 300 in a meeting room or fellowship hall that can be divided into five classrooms. Sunday School classes are held in this room.

The chancel area presently is not complete. Pastor Tsompanas said new icons and pulpit furniture have not arrived.

COSTS $248,000

The approximate cost of the building and grounds without furnishings is $248,000.

Besides the Fellowship Hall with adjacent kitchen facilities, there is a pastor's study, church offices and meeting room for the board of trustees.

Provisions are made for a future community hall and a future parish house.

According to the architects,

Alden B. Dow Associates, Inc., Midland, the building is designed around two major objectives, one to embody the ancient and traditional form of the Greek Orthodox Church in a building contemporary and organic.

The other is the integration of the building with the site which features two knolls separated by a small valley.

The first is effected by use of circular forms in the roof over the main church, and in the windows which intersect it.

The second is accomplished by using the valley between the knolls as an entrance court in the front, and as a terrace adjacent to the meeting rooms in the rear.

The court is easily viewed from Woodward Avenue but is set well back from it.

Philip Christi is chairman of the board of trustees. Dr. Steven D. Socrates heads the building committee.

A parking lot is available.

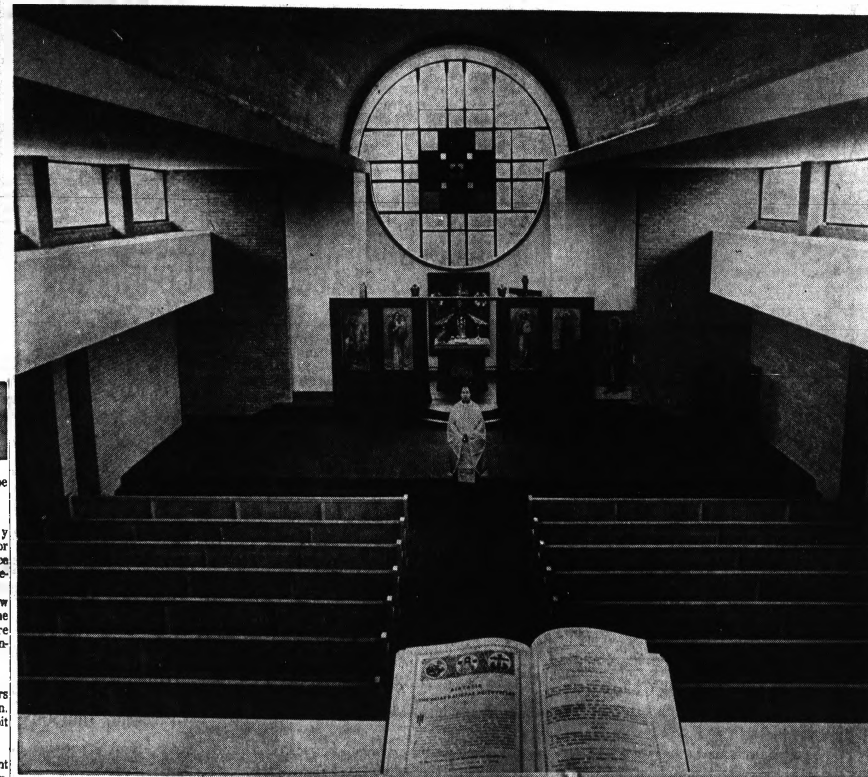

CHARTER IN 1929

The official charter for organizing a Greek Orthodox Church was granted in 1929.

The first church, built on Hill Street, was purchased by the City of Pontiac. Members relocated on the present site at 95 Mariva.

The church building was constructed in 1930 and Fellowship Hall in 1939.

The service dedicating the new building will be at a later date.

ST. GEORGE GREEK ORTHODOX CHURCH — The Rev. Gus Tsompanas, pastor of the St. George Greek Orthodox Church, Bloomfield Township, stands in the chancel area as he will tomorrow when Sunday services open for the first time. A ribbon cutting ceremony is scheduled for 7:30 tonight. The new icons, pulpit, bishop's throne, a part of the chancel area, have not arrived.

Interior as well as exterior walls are of rose colored brick treated with silanes, to preserve the beauty, to prevent staining and to reduce water penetration. The Bible printed in Greek lays on the balcony rail of the choir loft. Carpeting on chancel area and in the aisles is kelly green.

MAIN ENTRANCE — The new St. George Greek Orthodox Church of rose colored brick will open for vesper service at 7:30 today. Shown are the doors leading to the narthex and sanctuary. Bishop Germanos of Synodon, Detroit, will be present for the ribbon cutting

All Faiths Urged to Give Aid to India

NEW YORK (UPI) — In response to a joint appeal from the Vatican and the World Council of Churches, Catholics and Protestants in the United States have been called upon by overseas relief leaders of both faiths to help avert a looming famine in India.

Stainless Steel And Birch Kitchen Carpeted In Blue-Green

Clever Ideas Dress Up Home

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Clever Ideas reflect the ingenuity of Mr. and Mrs. William MacNeill throughout their Washington Township ranch.

"We not only designed the house ourselves," said Mrs. MacNeill, "we've done quite a bit of the building too."

"Friends of ours in Armada planned on burning down their old barn. When I heard about it, I called and asked them if we could have it."

"They agreed and now the siding is in our vestibule and hall."

When questioned whether or not the attractive still-life at the end of the hall was an original, Mrs. MacNeill chuckled.

"Oh no. It's actually a very inexpensive babushka mounted on sponge rubber over pegboard."

"When I brought it home, my husband snorted, 'That's an awful looking scarf. Who would ever wear it?'"

"I told him, I didn't know, that I was planning to hang it on the wall."

The head scarf still life picks up the blues and green of the kitchen and hall carpeting with its hint of rose emphasizing the weathered barn red of the area's siding.

In the master bedroom the polished black vanity accents the scarlet and white draperies and the stark white walls.

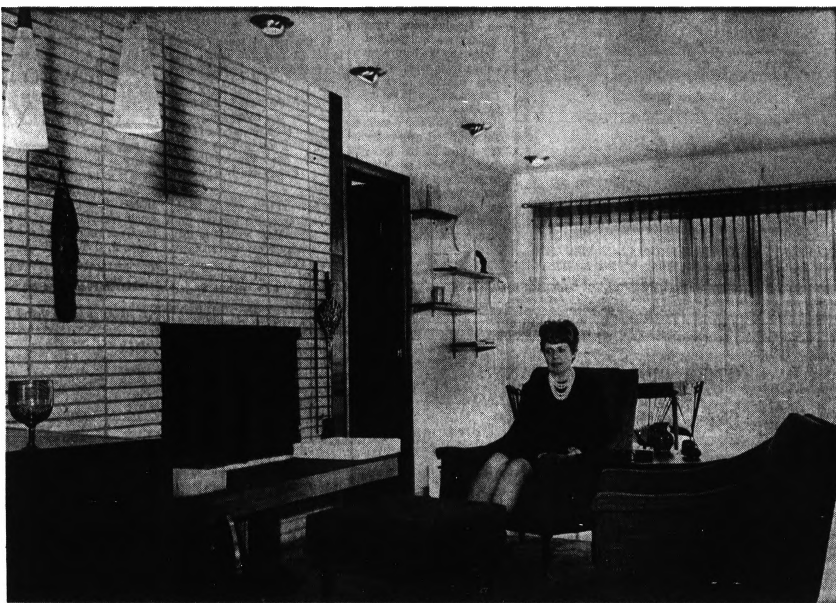

"The top of the vanity was the headboard of our bed," said Mrs. MacNeill. "The legs were extra chrome poling from the kitchen cabinets."

"The mirror was the dresser mirror turned on end and I slipped the nightstand under the vanity top to provide drawer space."

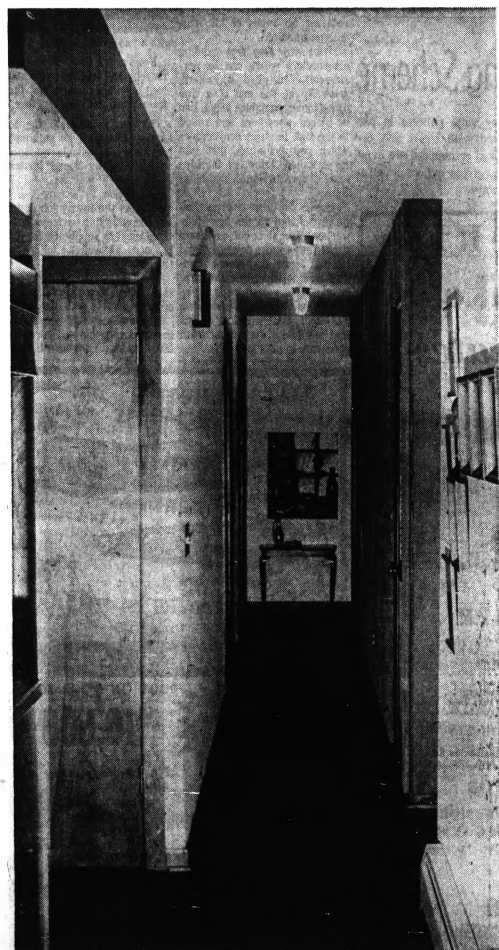

The family's inventiveness doesn't stop with the interior. In the front yard a graceful branch spreads out over the raised stone garden.

"I found just the curve I was looking for in the top half of an apple tree," said Mrs. MacNeill.

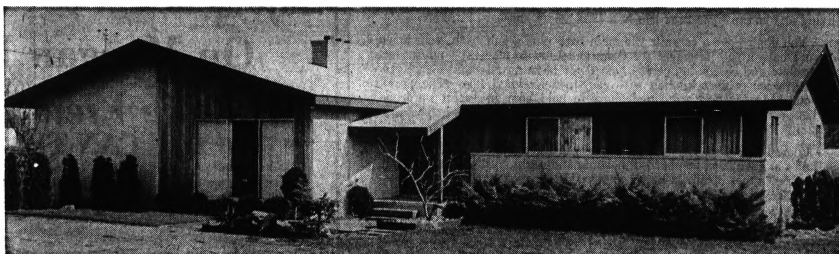

"My husband sawed it off and dragged it home. I peeled the bark to make it look weathered and planted it in front."

Kitchen Shapes Vary With Area

If your home is in the northeastern United States, chances are your kitchen is shaped like the letter "L," says the Tile Council of America.

The trade association of domestic ceramic tile manufacturers adds that "L"-shaped kitchens seem to be the standard in other parts of the country.

Colonial Adaptation Fits Variety of Lots

Here's still another version of an Early American Colonial home.

In line with the trend of recent years, it answers the demand of the prospective home owner for a house that invokes the charm and warmth of the past while still functioning to serve the contemporary requirements of a growing, active family.

Architect Samuel Paul has created this 1 1/2-story dwelling in an interesting L-shape that not only is pleasing to the eye, but permits placement on a site in either of two ways.

It can be set so that the short or long dimension of the house faces the street.

Design G-64 is especially suited to a young family which may someday wish to add two bedrooms on the second floor to the three bedrooms on the first floor.

UPPER STORY

The architect's plans show how the upper story can be utilized — two bedrooms, closets, a small reading nook near the staircase and a full bath that economically lines up with the bedrooms on the first floor.

The functional handling of space is immediately apparent on moving past the front door.

G-64 STATISTICS

Design G-64 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, family room, mud-laudry room, three bedrooms and two bathrooms on the main floor, with a total habitable area of 1787 square feet. If the upper floor is utilized for two bedrooms and a bath, 572 additional square feet are added to the living space. There are two patios, one at the rear and one at the side, plus a two-car garage. Overall dimensions, including the garage, are 70' 4" by 48' 2".

A gracious entrance foyer, with two closets to one side, provides easy access to all rooms of the house.

The kitchen, abounding in modern appliances and cabinet space, has enough room for a table for informal family meals and is convenient from the front foyer, rear patio and garage.

That's the kind of arrangement the housewife appreciates when she returns laden with grocery packages.

The location of the kitchen makes it also accessible to the family room and the dining room, both of which are, in turn, immediately off the foyer.

To one side of the kitchen is the mud-laudry room, which leads to the patio and to the two-car garage.

DINING ROOM

On the other side of the kitchen is the previously-mentioned dining room, which boasts a traditional casement bay window along with a seldom-found ceiling height of over 9'.

The same high ceiling is in the adjacent living room, which is 20' long, located at the far end of the house to insure maximum privacy and opens up through sliding glass doors to a second outdoor terrace.

The open feeling of the living room is thus maintained while still providing an enclosed core area along one wall for family gatherings in front of a large fireplace.

At the end of the entrance foyer, one may step up into the hall leading to the sleeping quarters.

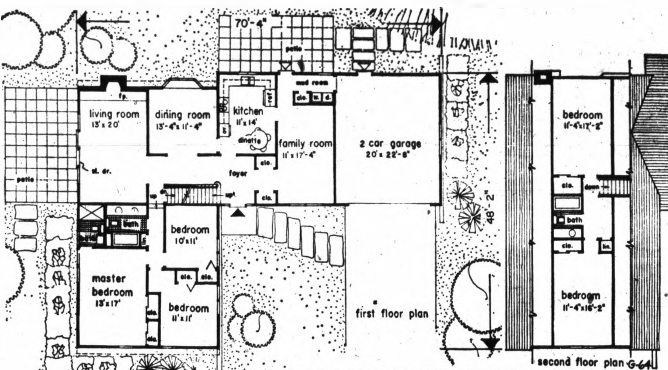

Besides the three bedrooms, there are two bathrooms, one of which is off the master bedroom and has a full stall shower. The other bathroom has a full tub and twin wash basins.

In addition to its regular front auto entrance, the two-car garage has a door leading to the mud-laudry room and another leading to the rear.

Its roof is an extension of that which covers the family room and kitchen.

Architect Paul has provided this house with an external lock that enables it to grace any neighborhood.

Colonial-style shutters, flower boxes, asphalt roofing shingles and shingle-clad walls contrast effectively with low brick parapet walls.

FLOOR PLANS: To determine the excellent traffic plan of this house, start at the foyer and take an imaginary walk to any single room upstairs and downstairs. You will note that, no matter which room you select, it is possible to get there without crossing any other room.

COLONIAL CHARM: The pleasing attributes of Early American homes have been retained here, with one portion of the L-shaped design having a second story which permits the addition of two bedrooms and a bath to the three bedrooms and two baths on the lower floor.

Dishwasher Cleans Up in New Home

Automatic dishwashers are fast becoming standard in new homes and apartments.

A national survey of builders showed that automatic dishwashers were included in 70 percent of new dwelling units planned or under construction in 1966.

This is in line with a growing demand by homeowners for dishwashers reflected in a record 132 percent sales increase over the past five years reported by the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

Modern electric dishwashers come in a variety of styles suitable for all types of kitchens, both new and old.

There are also free-standing dishwashers which can be permanently installed anywhere, generally at the end of a line of cabinets, portables which can be stored anywhere and rolled to the sink for use; convertibles which are portables that can be installed later as built-ins and dishwasher-sink combinations.

Among the convenience features included in the new dishwashers are slide-out or lift-up racks, automatic detergent and rinsing agent dispensers, random loading which permits large and more varied loads, rinse cycles that eliminate pre-rinsing by hand, and washing cycles that handle everything from glassware to pots and pans.

Ice Makers Go to Parties

For "real cool" entertaining on weekends or holidays, ice is nice.

Unfortunately, keeping the party in an abundant supply of ice is one of the problems of large-scale entertaining.

Most people own refrigerators that can't produce ice fast enough for party drinks.

Refilling ice trays can be a sloppy job, and storing ice ahead of time may result in cubes that are stuck together.

So the problem is usually "solved" by borrowing ice trays from a neighbor, or by buying ice from a vendor.

Storing ice is no problem in refrigerator-freezers equipped with a "no-frost" feature.

Frost never forms in no-frost models, and ice trays and mold packages stored in the freezer will not stick together.

The best solution to the ice supply problem is an automatic ice maker, available on most new refrigerator-freezer models.

In addition to storing ice, it eliminates the messy job of filling and emptying ice trays.

Ice makers supply ice for daily needs as well as for entertaining.

There are no trays to fill or spill, and cubes never have to be pried out.

The ice is stored "dry" in a handy storage bin and is replenished automatically as it is used.

Pontiac, Michigan

Dear Pon:

Good to see you last weekend. Sorry I couldn't spend more time with you personally, but I was tied up with 3 more families that decided to "make their move now." Yes Pon, we have sold 3 more new houses at HUNTOON SHORES and now have 30 families living in this pretty family planned community.

You puzzle me though, Pon. I hope you don't mind my observing that you drive a beautiful new car with stereo and bucket seats, dress in the latest style and on your last trip here you insisted on flying by jet! What confuses me most is how you can go for all the modern and "filtered tip" living and at the same time live in a 1936 model house.

You don't have a ceramic tile main bath plus a half bath, your house doesn't have a full basement for Oake and Lind to play in; your furnace is obsolete and costly to operate, you don't have an all-maintenance free wood grained cabinet kitchen with easy-to-clean vinyl floor. The closets in your bedrooms are even inadequate to hold your in-season wardrobe. I'll bet your wife would sure like wall-to-wall carpeting, storms and screens, a family room and live closer to better schools for the youngsters.

Come to think of it Pon, one reason you have tolerated this situation is that you have been bombarded morning and night, year in and year out, through all types of media with commercials demanding that you run out to the nearest corner, where you can park free and spend your dollars.

Of course we in the building and real estate industry don't have the profit-dollar to compete with this kind of pressure selling. Boy, I can see it now — an hour show on TV called "Beauty-Rite Homes and O'Neil Realty Presents" or "Beauty-Rite Homes and O'Neil Realty brings to you The World's Greatest Sporting Events." What commercials we could have! Show an old broken-down, delapidated house in cartoon animation saying: "Would you believe it? I'm getting old!" Then flash to a breath-taking, rambling ranch style home, or an eye-appealing Tri-level Model or a stately Colonial, at only $16,150, including carpeting, built for some razor blade manufacturer, and the announcer would say, "You too can own etc., etc."

If we could do it Pon, I'm sure we could motivate people to spend less dollars for trivia and invest more dollars wisely in a lovely modern home at HUNTOON SHORES commensurate with their other standards of up-to-date living.

Come on back this weekend and we can talk some more, particularly about our new financing plan that will allow you to move into a HUNTOON SHORES home with little down payment.

Oh, I almost forgot Pon, tell Watte Ford how easy it is to get to HUNTOON SHORES by driving West on M-59 then turn right onto Airport Road only 1 mile to the subdivision. Also tell him we're open every day and Sunday from 2 to 6 P.M.

Cordially,

Ray
Ray O'Neil

P.S. Don't worry about selling your house. We know a fellow living in a 1924 model who would like to upgrade to your 1936 job.

To Beat Winter's Drafts

Owners Have to Play It Cool

No matter how hard you try, it is very difficult to keep a house draft-free.

Drafts find a variety of ways to enter and the results are discomfort and higher heating bills.

First of all, such obvious remedies as weather stripping and the use of storm windows and storm doors should be taken care of.

Felt weather strip is cheap, easy to apply, but the least durable.

Consider this if you are renting. Bronze is expensive but lasts and lasts.

WEATHER STRIP

Don't forget a piece of weather strip for the bottom of all outside doors.

Closets on outside walls get pretty cold and an air current will result with a steady blast of cold air from under the door.

Apply weather stripping to this door, too.

If you have a fireplace, you may be getting a draft through the chimney when the fireplace is not in use. Just remember to keep the damper closed to block a downdraft.

If the fireplace is on an outside wall, check mortar joints around the fireplace.

Ready-mix mortar and trowel in after first cleaning cracks of all loose mortar.

Drafts often develop along the baseboard, especially in a basementless home.

PRY UP MOLDING

Wherever you find such a draft, carefully pry up the quarter-round molding and caulk the crack underneath.

PRY UP MOLDING

Wherever you find such a draft, carefully pry up the quarter-round molding and caulk the crack underneath.

Replace the molding. If there is no molding simply caulk the seam and paint, stain or varnish to match floor or baseboard.

Drafts enter around foundations, especially where masonry meets siding. Apply caulking here and around doors and window frames as well.

The holes where outdoor faucets come through the wall are another source of unwanted ventilation. Caulk these too.

If the holes are large, stuff them with insulation first. Treat outdoor electrical outlets, and the opening for your television antenna the same way.

Air conditioners installed in windows have small openings all around that will admit a draft.

If it is not practical to remove the air conditioner, then make it as air-tight as possible.

MOUNTING BOARD

Caik all around the mounting board and between the unit and the sill below and window edge above.

Get a cover for the air conditioner. This prevents air from blowing through the unit as well as protecting it.

Covers are available for exhaust fan openings through which a high wind can cause a draft.

If you can't find one, make your own by taking off the grill and lining it with aluminum foil.

Close doors and trap doors to unheated attics. Do not block ventilation openings in the attic. Insulate the floors of unfinished attics to keep rooms below warmer.

Is there a cracked window pane around? Air will come through it. If you can't repair it immediately, then cover with plastic film held with staples.

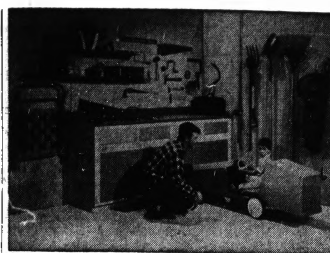

Dried and loose putty around windows will permit air to enter. Replacing the putty will stop the draft and end window rattling at the same time.

Plastics Serve Man a Lifetime

Cursed, discussed, distrusted and disliked until a few short years ago, man-made plastics now serve us from the cradle to the grave.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, a major supplier of vinyl, polyester and other plastic films, reports that these films are being converted to hundreds of consumer products ranging from baby pants to cemetery ground coverings and canopies.

Most refrigerator-freezers sold today are completely no-frost models.

NO MORE CLUTTER — Get your home improvement projects off to a good start with a handy workshop. It's easy to set up in the basement, garage or attic. You'll need counter space, cabinets and storage areas. A practical and attractive idea is to install storage walls of perforated hardboard panels. The perforations accept brackets and hooks which hold shelves, tools and equipment. Everything is right at hand and the workshop always looks neat.

First Home Project Man's Workshop

Groundhogs aren't the only ones who go inside for the winter.

During cold weather, most people spend a lot of time at home, leaving the outdoors to harder sports-enthusiasts types.

This is a good time to begin those inside home improvement projects you've been thinking about all summer and fall.

Setting up your own wood-working shop is a good way to get started.

Do-it-yourself projects will give you a great sense of personal accomplishment, help you keep repair bills down, and even increase the value of your property.

WHERE?

Where should you set up your workshop? You'll want a place that's far enough out of the way so you can leave unfinished work lying around without messing up the house.

A basement or garage is usually best. In some cases, a heated attic will serve the purpose.

After you've acquired the basic tools, you'll need a place to store them. A tool chest is good, and so is a closet if there's one handy.

But even with these, you'll still need a good idea to install perforated tempered hardboard paneling above the workbench or to panel an entire wall, so that frequently-used tools will be readily accessible.

You can hang any kind of tool on hooks set in the panel perforations. The paneling also accepts brackets to support shelves for nail and screw boxes or other small items.

Special heavy-duty fittings, ideal for hanging power tools, are also available.

This type of space-saving storage puts all your equipment right at hand and helps keep the workshop neat.

Homes Delivered Gift Wrapped

You'll soon be able to order your home C.O.D. and have it gift-wrapped and delivered to your land in two big packages.

Practical Builder magazine reports that several home manufacturers now truck prebuilt half-house sections ranging from 48 to 70 feet long.

The halves are lowered onto a foundation, fastened together by two men, and ready for occupancy within 20 hours.

Merry Christmas And A Happy New Year From Our House To Your House

Lights Brighten Holidays

Christmas lighting, like a Christmas card, is a special way of conveying your holiday greetings to neighbors and friends. It's not garish illumination, poorly planned and haphazardly installed.

Nor is it the indiscriminate use of expensive, store-bought decorations and self-lighted displays.

Christmas lighting which reflects both the joyousness and the dignity of the season is a result of tastefully blending proven techniques with your own artistry, originality and ingenuity.

The following suggestions from the home lighting specialists at General Electric can help you create distinctive indoor and outdoor Christmas decorations.

Your Christmas tree will be more attractive, and a lot safer, if it's properly lighted. How many lights does a tree need? There's an easy way to calculate that figure. Three times the tree's height (in feet) times the width (in feet, at the base) equals the maximum number of lights. One-half the maximum is the minimum.

OUTDOOR LIGHTING

Unity of design is the key to effective outdoor lighting. And whether you're an old hand at Christmas lighting or trying for the first time, you'll get more pleasing results if you work from a carefully-developed plan.

A lighting and decorating plan begins with a theme. Consider the house or area to be decorated, or the lighted figures you may already have.

How can they be used to their best advantage?

What features of the house or grounds seem to naturally lend themselves to emphasis? What aspects should be concealed or, at least, subdued? Keep in mind that a display does not have to be elaborate to be effective.

It's a good idea to start modestly and add elements as you see fit in subsequent years.

Let's say you have decided the house will be the main element in your display. Keeping in mind that everyday household activities will continue through the holiday season, ask yourself what architectural feature should be the focal point?

Be sure to choose one that will not interfere with people entering or leaving your home, or deliveries being made.

When you've selected the focal point — the element to receive the greatest emphasis — think of secondary points of interest that might be added to make a unified picture.

REALITY

When you're ready to translate your plan into reality. The exact number of string sets, floodlamps, spots, color filters, sockets, cords and holders you need is, of course, dependent upon your theme.

In any case, be sure that all lighting equipment is in perfect condition. Check old string sets for frayed wire or damaged sockets.

If there's any doubt in your mind, replace the old string set with one of the newly designed outdoor lighting sets.

Make sure outdoor sockets that need washer rings or gas-kets to keep moisture out have them. Many new U-L approved string sets designed for outdoor use do not require washers.

Use weatherproof outdoor receptacles for power sources wherever possible.

Protect outdoor plugs and connectors from rain or snow by a wrapping of plastic film bound tightly at the ends with plastic electrician's tape.

Use brass cup hooks to hang string sets or to hold wire from which you will suspend light-weight decorations. Provide support for heavier objects with No. 8 curved screw hooks.

INSULATED STAPLES
Fasten string sets or electrical cords to wood or hardboard surfaces with insulated staples.

Finally, when all the elements of your display are installed and lighted, check again for that important quality — unity. Walk across the street and put yourself in the spectator's place. Is the display one? Are there any gaps? Is there any overcrowding?

If necessary, rearrange figures, decorations or lights. It's well worth the extra time and effort, for your holiday greeting deserves to be shown at its best advantage.

Since First Winter

Civilization Tied to Heat

Since man's first winter, the "heat" has been on in one way or another. Today we take for granted our warm, cozy homes, but ancient man had to resort to leaves, bark from trees and animal skins to fight the cold.

To all ancient peoples fire had a religious, as well as practical, significance. Angie was the fire god of the ancient Hindus. He was depicted as having two faces: one good, the other evil. It was his role to act as an intermediary between man and the higher gods by bringing the essence of the sacrifices.

In honor of Hephaestus, the Greek fire god, each Hellenic city-state had its pyreanum, a temple with an eternal flame. When the Greeks went to colonize barbarian tribes, their most precious treasure was a glowing ember from the home pyreanum, carefully preserved to start a new eternal flame in the foreign land.

Rome, too had an eternal flame in honor of Vesta, goddess of hearth and home.

At the beginning of the Christian era, the Romans developed the first central heating system. Slaves kept their masters dwelling warm by holding smoking firebricks under the building to heat the air circulating through wall flues.

MANY FIREPLACES

During the 11th and 12th centuries when feudalism was in flower, the fortified, multistoried castles required many fireplaces to warm the homestead. Great halls had one or more fireplaces and reinforced walls to retain the heat.

Small rooms depended on metal baskets, or braziers, filled with coal. This custom was refined by the Italian nobles of the Renaissance. They burned charcoal in elaborate bronze pots and threw perfume on the flames to offset the pungent odor.

Fireplaces were long the major source of heat for homes in Europe and in Colonial America. Even today, many an English mansion keeps the chill of the countryside at bay with a warm fire in the fireplace. Central heating is just now making inroads in British homes, replacing room warmers.

The introduction of the stove represented a new step toward keeping the home fires burning. The first recorded stove, of brick and tile, was built in Alsace, France in 1490. In 1742, Benjamin Franklin invented the "pennsylvania fireplace" — we call it a stove — and for the first time a comparatively effective, low cost way of heating was available to all.

Well into the 20th century, the old pot-bellied stove was still a family's best friend in winter. In the general store of a by-gone rural America, the stove was the social focal point. Farmers gathered around to warm their bodies and refresh their minds with news of the surrounding area.

Steam, hot-water and warm air systems were next in the line of improvements. The principles for steam heating were worked out by James Watt as early as 1784. Coal or oil-furnaces produced heat which was conveyed to rooms through pipes or ducts.

MORE EFFICIENT

But since World War II, transmission of energy through pipelines has made heating more efficient than ever — even capable of keeping whole cities warm from one central plant. Some metropolitan areas have an elaborate under-street heat conduit system with manholes, expansion joints and valves that rival the sewer system for complexity.

Like these giant heating plants, today's modern homes also depend on piped-in gas heating. Today, gas heats more homes in the U.S. than all other fuels combined. A survey by the American Gas Association shows that where mains are currently available, nearly nine out of ten new homes are being built with gas heating.

Why? In a study made by the U.S. Housing and Home Finance Agency, 80 per cent of the gas consumers said they actually prefer the fuel they are now using. Several of the reasons they gave are that gas is clean and comfortable, the heating unit is fully automatic, and there are no deliveries or service expenses.

No matter what fuel feeds the furnace, however, now is the ideal time for the owner to make a home heating check. The list includes sealing off drafts around doors and windows, properly insulating attic and walls, inspecting and, if necessary, cleaning the chimney and room ducts or radiators, and changing the furnace's filter.

If the heating plant is beyond the owner's comprehension, it is best to have a trained serviceman make the necessary adjustments. And when the heat is turned on for winter, it's a good idea to keep a light hand on the thermostat. All overheated houses waste fuel and causes discomfort to the occupants.

FEUDAL FIREPLACE — For centuries the fireplace was truly the center of the home. It provided warmth, a convivial gathering place and an "oven" for cooking foods. First fireplaces date back to feudal times.

POT-BELLIED STOVE — The invention of the stove brought low cost heating within the reach of all. Fired with wood or coal, the stove, like the fireplace, provided heat and a focal point for social gatherings.

Simple Step Avoids Error

A simple cutting operation can provide neat fitting seams between sheets of six-foot-wide vinyl flooring material.

In the cutting operation overlap two pieces of vinyl approximately two inches and cut diagonally through both layers at one time.

Even if your hand wavers and you get a slightly wavy line, the vacuum.

MODERN HEATING — All the comforts of home, no matter how cold the weather is outside, are provided by modern heating plants, the majority of which use gas as fuel. Of new houses built in the U.S., nearly nine out of ten are equipped with gas heating.

Try Raising Nut Trees for Landscape Interest

Do you like to grow plants both useful and ornamental?

You'll receive a complete course copy by return mail.

Your own hickory tree or hazelnut bushes on your home grounds give you food as well as landscape interest.

There were 2,075,000 electric ranges — a new record — sold in 1965.

Edible Nut Production is a new correspondence course offering of The Pennsylvania State University.

Walter Halderman, of the university, says it's not aimed for commercial nut growers, but is intended for you growing a few nut trees or shrubs.

Chestnuts, walnuts, hickories, hazels, and filberts are dealt with. You learn soil and fertilizer needs, and disease and insect controls.

IMPROVED VARIETIES

Improved varieties are listed and described to suit your growing conditions. There's a lesson on propagation and grafting.

Author of the course is William S. Clarke, Jr., Professor of Pomology at the University and Secretary of the Northern Nut Growers Association.

To enroll, send your name and address with $2.75 to Edible Nuts, Box 5000, University Park, Pennsylvania 16802.

South is declarer at three no-trump. His normal play is to win East's jack of spades with the queen. Then he goes over to dummy with a heart and tries the diamond finesse. If it works he makes a lot of tricks but this time it loses and West is likely to abandon spades and go after clubs. If he does this the defense will pick up four quick club tricks and South will be one down.

South's false-card would have been a poor play in match point duplicate because it would cost him an overtrick if the diamond finesse won. In rubber bridge he could afford to give up this overtrick. Of course, if West shifted to a club anyway the false-card would really be expensive. East would cash five clubs and then give his partner four spade tricks.

Hole in Head Brings Veteran $10,537 More

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Arandall J. Snodgrass, 43, who was wounded by a Japanese sniper in the Philippines during World War II, has won a silver plate in his head for more than 20 years.

He has been receiving a government disability pension for the wound. A few weeks ago a Veterans Administration official in the regional office in Huntington discovered the hole in Snodgrass' head was larger than had been marked on government records.

The VA office said Snodgrass, Charleston, would receive $10,537.40 in back payments since his disability pension was based on an inaccurate rate determined by the size of bone loss in the skull.

There are approximately 672 people per square mile in Japan.

Five Cubans Fail in Escape Effort

HAVANA (AP) — Five men attempting to flee in a motorboat taken from a Cuban Naval Base were fired on and their craft stopped by a Cuban patrol boat, the Foreign Ministry announced Friday night.

A communiqué said three of the men were taken prisoner by the patrol boat and the other two jumped overboard and were presumed drowned.

Answer Monday

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

If you watch the average declarer follow suit he almost always plays his lowest card. Experts have a tendency to mix them up. Some times they have a reason, other times they are merely keeping in practice so as not to form a pattern.

All of this is part of declarer's strategy. He does not want to let his opponents know that he has played his lowest card. There is a lot more strategy possible in the play of high cards.

Here is another old timer from Fred Karpin's book on strategy.

Plush Bus Service Works, HUD Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today a successful experiment to ease rush hour traffic jams by luring people out of their cars and pampering them with "premium" bus service.

But, said the Department of Housing and Urban Development, it remains to be seen whether city transit companies can do the job on their own without the $85,616 federal grant used in the experiment.

The 14-month project even wooed commuters with free parking places at their own leaving their cars at home and riding the bus.

The special rush hour experiment undertaken at Decatur and Peoria, Ill., started off with a single busload of 31 passengers and wound up with 17 routes carrying 542 passengers.

The report said. It overlapped regular bus service in many areas.

The project was "essentially a personalized home-to-work and return express commuter service," the report said.

This meant picking up passengers virtually at their front doors, high speed trips, free taxis whenever a bus broke down and a monthly billing system instead of having passengers fumble for change to drop in a fare box.

Each passenger merely showed a special "flash pass" in getting on the bus and mailed in payments of $6 to $10 a month, depending on how far they rode.

In addition to getting most riders to work and back home more quickly than they could drive their cars, "the operation created a club-coach atmosphere," said Assistant Secretary Charles M. Haar.

SAME DRIVER

The same driver was used on each bus every day, and schedules never varied more than half a minute. Everybody was guaranteed a seat.

Passengers were encouraged to suggest improved routing of their buses.

The service became as good as "a large carpool" without the worries of driving a car in heavy traffic and finding a parking place in town.

But when the federal money ran out, the troubles began. The special "premium" bus service was dropped altogether in Decatur.

It continued in Peoria, but the transit company began eliminating such frills as the free car rides during an emergency breakdown and passengers started dropping out of the "club" at a rapid rate.

BUSINESS CLIMBING

But, said the interim report, the company then began reinstituting the extras and business at last report was climbing back up again. There'll be a follow-up report later.

The special service proved it can generate new bus ridership and increase revenues to transit operators in small to medium sized communities," the department said.

"And it is likely to be even more successful in larger-sized cities with their larger concentrated traffic," it added.

Haiti Force Gets Call

Invasion Still Eyed

MIAMI (UPI)—The invasion of Haiti that never happened may yet occur, according to a leader of one of the Cuban exile groups involved in it.

Dr. Jorge F. Mendez, head of the North Coast of Cuba organization, issued a call yesterday for a "refinancing" of the force that was to invade Haiti a week ago.

The aim of the invasion was to overthrow the regime of Francois (Poppa Doc) Duvalier and set up a base for Cuban exile operations against the Fidel Castro regime.

The force of 300 to 400 men broke up just hours before it was to depart last Saturday night. The reason, according to Mendez, was "the apparent decision of the American government to frustrate all efforts of this type."

Mendez's statement said the cancellation of the invasion should "not be called a failure but only a postponement."

BASIC GOAL

Most of the men who were to participate in the attack were Cubans, with a few Haitians and about 15 American adventurers. Their basic aim was the creation of a Cuban government-in-exile, a move that has been opposed in the past by the United States.

Mendez said the plans fell into turmoil when Napoleon Vilaboa, the commander in chief of the police, resigned over failure of the "organizers" to give him "unlimited powers in writing."

Another issue was the need for a guarantee from the new Haitian government of territory to be set aside as an anti-Castro base, Mendez said.

Vilaboa himself gave "defective" and inadequate weapons as the reason for his withdrawal. He has made himself unavailable since the invasion was scuttled.

The two men who organized and directed the invasion plans were a Haitian exile priest, Jean Baptiste Georges, and Rolando Masferrer, a Cuban senator under Fulgencio Batista and the former head of a private army that fought Castro's revolutionaries.

Georges was to be placed at the head of the new Haiti government following Duvalier's overthrow.

Neither Georges nor Masferrer has been available for comment since the plans became known Wednesday.

Bays at Moon

PUEBLO, Colo. (U)—The lady who telephoned police was right. A man was leaning from his parked automobile and baying at the full moon. He told police he was just trying to have some fun scaring patrons at a nearby drive-in theater that was showing a horror film.

BE POLITE

It's the man with the smile who usually wins out in business, as well as in other walks of life, for that matter. Sometimes it is surely no easy trick to smile, but the trick in business is to do the hard things. Anyone can do the easy things — but the reason a boss is paid a boss's pay is because he can be counted on to do some of the hard things. The practice in courtesy is a great schooling in self-control, for the courteous man must think of others, as well as of himself. He must keep his temper under trying circumstances and confine himself to proper language when it is easy to abuse and afterward have much to regret. Therefore, always be polite — not cringing — but just plain polite, to all persons, old or young, rich or poor. The importance of this cannot be too highly estimated.

New Zealand Vote Brings Little Change

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake's National government party was returned to power today in parliamentary elections in which Viet Nam was an issue.

Preliminary returns gave the party 44 of 80 seats, a loss of one. The Labor party stayed at 35 seats and the Social Credit party won a parliamentary seat for the first time.

In the campaign, Holyoake strongly supported the U.S. position in Viet Nam and said, "The whole of New Zealand would hang its head in shame if we withdrew our troops." New Zealand has a 150-man artillery battery in Viet Nam.

The results gave the National Government party a parliamentary majority for three more years.

All government ministers were returned to office. The party has had a majority for 14 of the past 17 years. Holyoake's government has been in office since 1960.

According to the preliminary count, the National Government party lost one seat when its candidate was defeated by 400 votes by the Social Credit party's leader, 52-year-old Vernon Cracknell. It lost another contest by 270 votes to a Labor candidate.

The Nationals gained one seat in a Wellington district, defeating former Labor Cabinet Minister William Fox.

Results in one of two districts will not be certain until a final count in about a week. In one, the National Government candidate had a majority of eight votes and in the other, the Nationalist won by 119 votes.

Holyoake had a majority of 5,005 votes in his district of Pahiatua, 323 fewer than in 1963. The Labor opposition's leader, Norman E. Kirk, was reelected but by 378 fewer votes than three years ago.

Police Win Race, Stop Train in Time

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio Highway Patrol cruiser raced alongside and stopped a railroad train that was bearing down on a crossing where a car had wrecked Thursday night, pinning the driver inside.

Cpl. Edmund McGowan of the Steubenville patrol post caught up with the train on Oct. 7 about two miles north of here and attracted the attention of the engineer with the cruiser's spotlight and red flasher.

The train stopped about 2,000 feet short of a Pennsylvania Railroad crossing where James E. Maumaw, 25, of Mingo Junction, was trapped in the twisted wreckage of his car.

The patrol said his car slid off the highway backward, flew over a guard rail, smashing a retaining wall and then came to rest on the tracks. It ended up on its side.

Maumaw was reported in "fairly good" condition early today at Ohio Valley Hospital here. A hospital supervisor said he suffered multiple bruises, abrasions, cuts and a possible back injury.

The patrol, before McGowan went into action, had notified a railroad control tower in an unsuccessful effort to stop the train.

Indiana Crime Lab Studies Purse of Slain State Girl

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—State Police laboratory technicians at Indianapolis yesterday examined a black purse containing papers belonging to Miss Eileen Marie Alex, 19, of Len Park, Mich., whose body with two bullet wounds in the head was found in a woods a week ago.

The purse, muddy and water-soaked, was found under a culvert along U.S. 31 four miles south of Rochester, Ind., Thursday, about 32 miles from the place where a rabbit hunter on Nov. 18 found the body of the girl dressed in a gold suit and wearing gold jewelry.

For days the body lay unidentified until dental charts and relatives revealed it to be Miss Alex, who disappeared from her hometown shortly after visiting a beauty shop to make an appointment for dyeing her hair.

Authorities sought a gold car belonging to Miss Alex's father which she was believed to have been driving when she vanished.

Discovery of the purse indicated Miss Alex's slayer drove south on U.S. 31 from the woods near Lakeview where she was killed, and tossed the purse under the culvert in an effort to destroy evidence of his association with her.

The purse contained no money but had Miss Alex's driver's license, the car registration papers, her high school graduation certificate and other personal effects.

Star Once Had Cold Treated at Bellevue on a 'Comp'

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The one acting accomplishment for which honey-haired Joanna Patet is not likely to be remembered — though perhaps she should be — was her getting into Bellevue Hospital as an emergency patient, and getting treatment for even a cold, free.

"I had an apartment at 25th and 1st Av. with a wonderful actress, Beverly Rich, for which we paid $600 a month," Joanna recalled the other afternoon.

We were at the Club 21, where much was being made of Joanna's sudden fame. She's in "Casino Royale" — but then, who isn't — and was outstaying in "The Group," and Peter O'Toole's favorite gal in "Night of the Generals." All this in just a year and a half.

"We found out that if you lived in that neighborhood, Bellevue had to treat you, free," Joanna said, flitting back to the days of her great privacy.

"At 4 a.m. once my roommate decided she had fallen arches," Joanna said. "She put on tennis shoes and wrapped scarves around her feet and we went to Bellevue."

"They were very nice. They bathed her feet in boric acid and gave her elastic bandages, and she walked home. . . And I was always going in for B-12 shots, or for my bronchial pneumonia. . ."

Joanna, 22, born in England, brought up in Montreal and Vancouver, a New Yorker since '59 when she came here with $2,000 saved from working in a little Canadian musical, never had to borrow money or take outside jobs.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Tony Curtis' film "The Wrong Key" got a zany title change to "On My Way to the Crusades I Met a Girl" . . . Three of the "Funny Girl" tunes will be dropped from the movie version, and four new ones added . . . Dionne Warwick turned down a fashion layout in a national magazine — she refused to wear the required miniskirts.

'Felony Squad' Ahead of Times

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — This week "Felony Squad" featured a story about a vigilante group that maintained an arsenal of arms for use against "left-wing" organizations.

Another segment of the ABC television series deals with a psychotic who launches a sniping attack from atop a tower.

THOMAS

Does this sound as if "Felony Squad" is stealing its plots from the headlines? Executive producer Walter Grauman claims innocence. In both cases, he testifies, the shows were filmed before the news events they paralleled.

This sort of thing worries Grauman, a dark, well-dressed veteran of the television and movie wars; he directed chapters of "The Untouchables" and "Naked City" as well as the film "Lady in a Cage." He wonders how many other "Felony Squad" plots will achieve reality.

HITLESS SEASON

"Felony Squad" — original title: "Men Against Evil" — appears to be a success in a virtually hitless new season. At least the show has managed respectable rating. It is one of the three newcomers to land in the top 40. Others are "Rat Patrol" and "Family Affair."

Credit for the achievement goes to Grauman.

"It's a cops-and-robbers show but with a difference. The police have an emotional relationship to each other and to the case that they're on. I wanted the contrast between a mature detective, Howard Duff, who operates by instinct, and a younger one, Dennis Cole, who goes by the book. He has been taught to do so by his father, played by Ben Alexander, who is an old-time cop," Grauman said. "The show is given a style of harsh realism by using real locations as much as possible. I think of it as an action show, even a chase, and I like to keep 50 per cent of it in movement. I hammer at the writers: Let us learn about the characters in action."

MORE CONSTRUCTIVE

The Supreme Court rulings on treatment of prisoners has made "Felony Squad" update its methods, as it has with police departments everywhere. "Instead of hamstringing police, I think the rulings have made them do more constructive work in investigations," Grauman opined. "It has also made us work harder in devising plots, and that is all to the good. We can't use the old dramatic devices of third-degrees and quick confessions."

The success of "Felony Squad" may have influenced NBC's decision to bring back "Dragnet" in January. The show will have Jack Webb back as Sgt. Friday, of course, but he'll have a new sidekick, Harry Morgan, since Ben Alexander is now employed in another show-biz arm of the Los Angeles Police Department.

My appreciation to every citizen who voted in the recent election and my warmest regards to you, who made my election a reality.

I shall devote my best efforts to the benefit and welfare of all of you and all the people of Michigan.

Af Transport Plane Crash in S. Viet Kills 27

Suspect Tells Judge 'Your Car Is Nice'

By JIM LONG

Judicial temperament at its best was shown yesterday by Circuit Judge William J. Beer.

The courtroom quality was displayed at a hearing for Troy B. Smith, 25, of Detroit, a fugitive from justice.

Smith was arrested Monday for driving a stolen car — Beer's 1966 leased Cadillac.

The car had been stolen from a Highland Park parking lot after Beer's youngest son, John, 22, had borrowed it for a trip.

While Smith was being questioned by police in Hazel Park, where the car was recovered, it was discovered that he was wanted by authorities in DePage County, Ill., on a charge of armed robbery.

COINCIDENCE

By sheer coincidence the extradition hearing was assigned to Beer.

"I understand that we have a common interest in a Cadillac," said Beer. "How did it run?"

"Fine, Judge, just fine. It drives well," replied Smith.

A few minutes later Smith waived extradition, and was sent back to the county jail to await transfer back to Illinois.

"He sure seemed anxious to get out of here," Beer chuckled later.

Holdup Victim Dies 40 Hours After Shooting

Pontiac Police Piece Together Stories of Robbery Near Tavern

A Pontiac man who was shot Wednesday night by an armed robber died yesterday in Pontiac General Hospital.

Joseph M. Doyon, 54, of 57 Park succumbed about 1:50 p.m.

He had been kept alive some 40 hours by doctors through emergency surgery and transfusion of 16 pints of blood.

Following Doyon's death, a 22-caliber bullet was removed from his abdomen.

Pontiac police said the slug had entered the victim's chest flected downward shattering just below his ribcage and de-hail his liver.

PICKED UP YOUTH

The end came as detectives continued to piece together from witnesses and the victim's own account the story of the holdup and sudden shooting.

Doyon told investigators he picked up a Negro youth about 19, whom Doyon said asked for a ride as Doyon left the Orchard Lake Tavern, 404 Orchard Lake, about 10:30 p.m.

Doyon said he walked with the youth to where Doyon had left his car — in front of 16 Beaudette around the corner from the bar.

The youth then pulled out a pistol, Doyon said, and demanded money.

SHOT AT CLOSE RANGE

Doyon reached for the gun, telling police later, "I didn't think he would pull the trigger."

The victim said he was then shot at short range as the assailant took from him a wallet containing "about $7."

Witnesses in the area said a single shot rang out.

Then, police were told, a youth who fired the gun fled, joined by two others whom Doyon said were hiding in nearby bushes.

Doyon, witnesses said, was seen walking back to his car.

He got in, but then got back out and staggered around the corner, where police found him leaning against a fence "in a state of shock."

Elizabeth Lake Claims Man, 61

Local Fisher Drowns After Boat Capsizes

A 61-year-old Pontiac man drowned about 2 yesterday afternoon when a 14-foot aluminum rowboat capsized in choppy Elizabeth Lake waters.

The victim was Joseph E. Taylor, 62, of 62 Ruth. His body was recovered near the overturned boat by Waterford Township firemen.

Taylor and 38-year-old Richard A. Morin of 157 Michigan were fishing about 125 yards off the southeast shore of the lake near Walters Beach when the mishap occurred.

Morin managed to swim to shore, according to township police.

Another Pontiac man, Donald Donald Davidson of 402 N. Saginaw saw the accident from shore and began swimming toward the craft in an attempt to make a rescue.

The fishermen apparently were trying to pull in an anchor when the boat capsized.

Last year's final drowning in Oakland County occurred Nov. 15.

Dem, GOP Leaders Laud Budget Cut Plan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Both Republican and Democratic congressional leaders have applauded President Johnson's declaration that he plans to trim federal programs by more than $3 billion next year.

After conferring with the leaders for several hours yesterday at his ranch, Johnson held a news conference. The Senate and House leaders took part in the meeting with newsmen.

"Our goal is to have in excess of $3 billion in program reductions," Johnson said.

He said the cutback will be accomplished by setting aside programs "if we think they can be done better tomorrow than they can today in the light of the war situation and in the light of other demands being made on the government."

Asked whether he and Republican House Leader Gerald R. Ford were "now generally happy with the effort the President is making to cut nonessential spending," Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen replied:

"Any effort in that direction, and particularly when it is substantial, ought to make everybody who embraces a reasonable or moderate or conservative view quite happy."

"Moving in that direction certainly does make us happy. It will make a definite impact on the inflationary picture that obtains to some extent in the country."

Craft Is Down Near Saigon's Busy Airport

Names, Nationalities of Victims Unknown Pending Investigation

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A U.S. Air Force transport crashed and burned tonight near Saigon's busy Tan Son Nhut Airport, killing all 27 persons aboard. U.S. military officials said.

It was believed the plane, a twin-engine C47 Dakota, lost power in one of its engines shortly after taking off from the Tan Son Nhut airfield in the outskirts of the capital and the pilot was trying to return to the airport when the plane plunged into a swampy area.

It was believed all aboard were military personnel, but this was not confirmed immediately.

Reports from the scene said only a portion of the right wing and tail structure were left after flames swept the aircraft on impact.

The plane was en route to Pleiku, 240 miles north of Saigon in the central highlands.

EQUIPMENT

An Air Force officer said the transport can carry a maximum of 45 passengers. It was used in Viet Nam, they normally are equipped with narrow bucket seats lining the sides of the fuselage.

The piston-engine C47, which was used extensively in World War II, is the military version of the DC3.

It is not uncommon for Viet Cong snipers to fire at planes landing or taking off from Tan Son Nhut, but officers said there was no indication of ground fire when the C47 went down.

The crash site was about 350 yards from the nearest road.

Holt Regime Far Ahead in Aussie Voting

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The government of Prime Minister Harold E. Holt, which staked its survival on support of Australian troops in Viet Nam, appeared to be the clear winner today in national elections.

The Sydney Sun Herald said the government likely would increase its majority over Labor in the 124-seat House of Representatives.

Early returns indicated the Liberal-Country party coalition appeared certain of victory in 65 seats. Labor opposition seemed sure of 43 seats.

Support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam and the commitment of 4,500 Australian troops there had been virtually the only issue in the nationwide vote to elect a new federal Parliament.

An estimated six million Australians voted. Despite rowdiness during the election campaign, no disturbances were reported at the polling booths.

Quints Born in Pittsburgh

Mother OK; Children Not Likely to Survive

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A Pittsburgh woman gave premature birth to quintuplets today at a Pittsburgh hospital.

The mother, Patti Aranson, 22, was reported "doing well" at Magee-Womens Hospital, but a hospital spokesman said it was doubtful the five children — all girls — would survive.

They were born in a 10-minute period from 2:41 to 2:51 a.m. and ranged in weight from 1 pound 7 ounces to 1 pound 12 ounces.

The hospital said they are responding well, but remain in guarded condition.

The children were the first for Mrs. Aranson.

Michael Aranson, also 22, father of the quintuplets, said he and his wife had been advised to expect a multiple birth, "but we were shocked."

"We're really very much excited about it," he said, "I don't think I've quite gotten both feet on the ground yet."

The couple will celebrate their second wedding anniversary next May.

Pair Held in Death of 2-Year-Old

Oakland County Prosecutor S. Jerome Bronson yesterday filed second-degree murder charges against a Royal Oak man and woman in connection with the death of the woman's 2-year-old son.

Charged were Mrs. Charlene Kowalski, 19, and Lynn Holback, 21. Both stood mute at an arraignment before Royal Oak Municipal Judge Keith J. Leenhouts.

Police said Holback brought the child, Kevin, who was already dead to Beaumont Hospital early yesterday. Police said the child's body was covered with bruises.

Mrs. Kowalski, who was working at the hospital when the dead baby was brought in, described Holback as the baby sitter.

The child was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital where an autopsy was performed by Dr. Richard E. Olsen. He said death was caused by internal bleeding from a severe blow to the abdomen.

PAIR QUESTIONED

Neither Mrs. Kowalski, who is separated from her husband, nor Holback admitted striking the child.

Bronson authorized the murder warrants after questioning the pair.

After the arraignment late yesterday, the man and woman were taken to the Oakland County Jail where they are held without bond.

An examination before Judge Leenhouts is scheduled next Friday.

Pontiac Symphony Hosts Young Pianist

The second fall performance of the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra will feature pianist Paul Schoenfield of Detroit as guest artist. The concert will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday in Pontiac Northern High School.

Schoenfield will bring with him to the stage Tuesday a host of accomplishments. His offering for the evening performance will be Brahms' Piano Concerto No. 2 in B flat Major.

The orchestra will open the program with the overture "Colar Bruggen" by Kabelevsky, followed by Mozart's "Haffner" Symphony in D Major.

Schoenfield was born in 1947 of Hungarian descent. He began studying piano at age six. His interest rapidly spread to composition — he produced a piano sonata at seven and a string quartet at nine.

He studied privately in Detroit and three years ago won a scholarship to Salzburg. He stopped at Chautauque en route to Salzburg and remained there to study with Ozan Marsh.

Last fall, he appeared on one of Leonard Bernstein's televised concerts for young people. He played during the autumn months at Town Hall recital in New York.

Writer Says Young Girl Unpleasant

By ELIZABETH POST
The following letter has been chosen as the most interesting one of the week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. David Taylor of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening we had company for supper — a young man and his fiancée who isn't 18 yet. When I had supper ready, I asked them to sit down and at first she refused, but after some words from him she did come to the table.

After we said Grace, I offered her a dish. She turned her face away and said, "I'm not hungry. I don't want anything to eat," much as a two or three year old would. Her young man served a plate anyway and set it in front of her.

Then she started picking on him, and continued through most of the meal. We ignored her and made conversation over, above, and around her nasty criticism. I almost got mad and told her to leave the table until she could grow up and act sociable, but I figured that would put me on her level and embarrass our friend whom I've known for twenty years.

Did we handle this situation correctly? This sounds almost absurd, as if no one could be this rude, but it happened. Is there nothing a hostess can do to defend herself against this?

Dear Mrs. Taylor: Your friend's fiancée is either mentally retarded or incredibly stupid. She certainly isn't psychologically old enough to be engaged.

You handled this situation perfectly. The only possible thing you could do was just exactly what you did.

MRS. D. S. McNABB

Area Couple Say Vows in Morning Rite

Cheryl McNabb was maid of honor with bridesmaids Mrs. David Braagan and Lynn Logsdon. Karen McNabb was junior attendant.

David Braagan was best man. Dennis King and Patrick Sheridan sealed the guests with Donald McNabb, junior ushers.

Having Raised Family Their Job Continues

By BEA SWORDS

There are people who have raised their family, but are not through raising children. There are those who have a small family and don't want to adopt, but would like another child.

For these special people there is the possibility of becoming boarding home parents.

A boarding home cares for children until their adoption or until their parents are in a position to resume their responsibility and take the children home again.

Very often boarding home children are not available for adoption. They are children the courts have removed from homes found unfit.

Even this is not always the case. There are people too who must leave their children in care of the court because of illness, financial problems, family situations, etc.

These children may be returned to their natural homes when conditions allow. They may be "partial" or "temporary" wards of the court.

The courts try to place these children into boarding homes as soon as they possibly can.

Unfortunately, there are a number of children in Oakland County right now who must be kept in the county home because there are not enough boarding homes to go around.

I asked her if it bothered her when the children were adopted or released from care.

She said, "Oh, no, I used to be upset, especially when the babies were here. I got up in the night with them and all. But — I got over it. I have a job to do and it wouldn't be fair to them if I couldn't accept that they had to leave."

Applying for a boarding home license is as easy as a phone call to the Oakland County Boarding Home Department. They will tell you all of the particulars and it might be just what you have been looking for.

Becoming boarding home parents is one of the most unique and useful things you can do for children. It helps them to continue their lives in a happy, busy home — often like their own homes. It gives underprivileged children a look at what a home and family should be.

Oakland County has an excellent system for boarding homes providing your home can meet the specifications which are flexible.

There are requirements concerning sleeping space for the children. But most of these qualifications would be easily met in most homes.

EXPENSES PAID

The county allows a sum for clothing and food for each child. His medical and dental expenses are covered as well as hair cuts.

Most boarding parents agree that they break "even." There is no profit in being a boarding home parent, unless, you want to enroll personal rewards.

One Avon Township woman told me, "Well, I am here when the children need me most. I like to think that while I can't keep them all, I can give them a great deal of happiness."

I asked her if it bothered her when the children were adopted or released from care.

She said, "Oh, no, I used to be upset, especially when the babies were here. I got up in the night with them and all. But — I got over it. I have a job to do and it wouldn't be fair to them if I couldn't accept that they had to leave."

Applying for a boarding home license is as easy as a phone call to the Oakland County Boarding Home Department. They will tell you all of the particulars and it might be just what you have been looking for.

Truth Needed in Marriage but Some Tact Is Vital Also

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A woman I know stood right there and told me that she was happily married and she and her husband told each other EVERYTHING.

Well, I've been married as long as she has, and I consider myself happily married, too, but I'm the first to admit that I don't tell my husband everything and I'm pretty sure he doesn't tell me everything either.

I didn't want to start an argument with her, so I just kept still. But I want to know if you think, in order to have a happy marriage, a man and his wife must tell each other EVERYTHING?

VOTES NO
DEAR VOTES NO: I also vote no. But don't jump to the conclusion that I am all for mutual distrust in marriage. Neither am I suggesting that a man and his wife should LIE to each other. I merely say that every marriage should have its proper restraints and privacies. There are certain things one should keep to himself, if only out of kindness and consideration for his mate. A wife should be on her husband's team — and he on hers. There must be confidence, trust, and loyalty, and to burst out every thought or put into words every motion can create hurt and needless complications.

DEAR ABBY: Someone told me that girls who wear glasses look more intelligent than girls who don't wear glasses. Do you think this is true?

CURIOSUS
DEAR CURIOSUS: Possibly. But it's only an optical illusion.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound trivial to you, but it has caused quite a few arguments at our house.

I have been raised to clean up after myself, and my husband hasn't. His mother did everything for him, including washing his hair. The big fight is over his leaving the bathtub dirty for me to clean.

Abby, I find this revolting, but if he refuses to do it, then

I have to, which is the way it's been lately. I did agree to wash the tub after him until we heard from you.

He said he would go by your decision. He says if I loved him, I'd do it. I say if he loved ME, he wouldn't ask me to. Who is right?

ACHING BACK
DEAR ACHING: The word from here is that every man, woman, and child able to bathe without assistance should clean out the tub after himself.

DEAR ABBY: There are some newcomers who live on the edge of town. They have about nine kids. These people (the whole family!) came to church last Sunday in a dump truck.

And Abby, I am not saying they weren't clean, but they sure didn't look like they were dressed up for church to me.

Don't you think this shows lack of respect for the Lord? And shouldn't someone in the community tell these people? I am not a snob, but I think appearances are important.

NO SNOB
DEAR NO: I doubt if the Lord cares how people dress for church or how they get there, as long as they go.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE SCHLEIMIEL" IN COUNCIL
BLUFFS: You sound like the man who started on a shoeing the year they came out with loafers. Try something a little less risky next time.

Clever Ideas Dress Up Home

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Clever ideas reflect the ingenuity of Mr. and Mrs. William MacNeill throughout their Washington Township ranch.

"We not only designed the house ourselves," said Mrs. MacNeill, "we've done quite a bit of the building too."

"Friends of ours in Armada planned on burning down their old barn. When I heard about it, I called and asked them if we could have it."

"They agreed and now the siding is in our vestibule and hall."

When questioned whether or not the attractive still-life at the end of the hall was an original, Mrs. MacNeill chuckled.

"Oh no. It's actually a very inexpensive babushka mounted on sponge rubber over pegboard."

"When I brought it home, my husband snorted. 'That's an awful looking scarf. Who would ever wear it?'"

"I told him, I didn't know that I was planning to hang it on the wall."

The head scarf still life picks up the blues and green of the kitchen and hall carpeting with its hint of rose emphasizing the weathered barn red of the area's siding.

In the master bedroom the polished black vanity accents the scarlet and white draperies and the stark white walls.

"The top of the vanity was the headboard of our bed," said Mrs. MacNeill. "The legs were extra chrome poling from the kitchen cabinets."

"The mirror was the dresser mirror turned on end and I slipped the nightstand under the vanity top to provide drawer space."

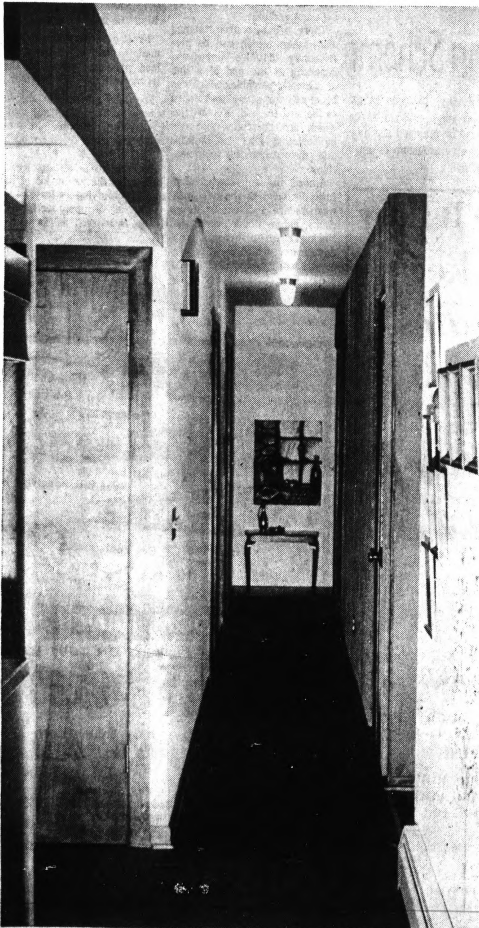

The family's inventiveness doesn't stop with the interior. In the front yard a graceful branch spreads out over the raised stone garden.

"I found just the curve I was looking for in the top half of an apple tree," said Mrs. MacNeill.

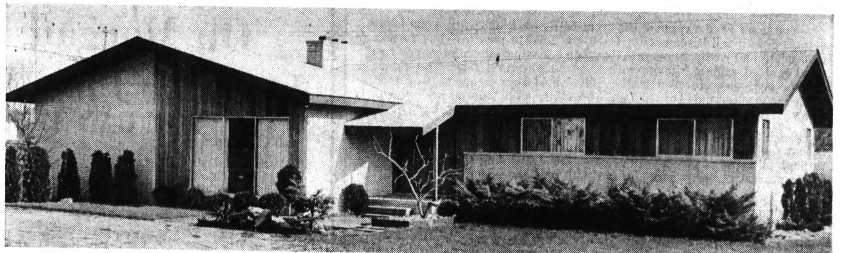

"My husband sawed it off and dragged it home. I peeled the bark to make it look weathered and planted it in front."

To Beat Winter's Drafts

Owners Have to Play It Cool

No matter how hard you try, it is very difficult to keep a house draft-free.

Drafts find a variety of ways to enter and the results are discomfort and higher heating bills.

First of all, such obvious remedies as weather stripping and the use of storm windows and storm doors should be taken care of.

Felt weather strip is cheapest, easy to apply, but the least durable.

Consider this if you are renting. Bronze is expensive but lasts and lasts.

WEATHER STRIP
Don't forget a piece of weather strip for the bottom of all outside doors.

Closets on outside walls get pretty cold and an air current will result with a steady blast of cold air from under the door.

Apply weather stripping to this door, too.
If you have a fireplace, you may be getting a draft through the chimney when the fireplace is not in use. Just remember to keep the damper closed to block a downdraft.

If the fireplace is on an outside wall, check mortar joints around the fireplace.

Ready-mix mortar and trowel in after first cleaning cracks of all loose mortar.

Drafts often develop along the baseboard, especially in a basementless home.

PRY UP MOLDING
Wherever you find such a draft, carefully pry up the quarter-round molding and caulk the crack underneath.

Replace the molding. If there is no molding simply caulk the seam and paint, stain or varnish to match floor or baseboard.

Drafts enter around foundations, especially where masonry meets siding. Apply caulk here and around doors and window frames as well.

The holes where outdoor faucets come through the wall are another source of unwanted ventilation. Caulk these too.

If the holes are large, stuff them with insulation first. Treat outdoor electrical outlets, and the opening for your television antenna the same way.

Air conditioners installed in windows have small openings all around that will admit a draft.

If it is not practical to remove the air conditioner, then make it as air-tight as possible.

MOUNTING BOARD
Calk all around the mounting board and between the unit and the sill below and window edge above.

Get a cover for the air conditioner. This prevents air from blowing through the unit as well as protecting it.

Covers are available for exhaust fan openings through which a high wind can cause a draft.

If you can't find one, make your own by taking off the grill and lining it with aluminum foil.

Close doors and trap doors to unheated attics. Do not block ventilation openings in the attic. Insulate the floors of unfinished attics to keep rooms below warmer.

Is there a cracked window pane around? Air will come through it. If you can't repair it immediately, then cover with plastic film held with staples.

Dried and loose putty around windows will permit air to enter. Replacing the putty will stop the draft and end window rattling at the same time.

Plastics Serve Man a Lifetime
Cussed, discussed, distrusted and disliked until a few short years ago, man-made plastics now serve us from the cradle to the grave.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, a major supplier of vinyl, polyester and other plastic films, reports that these films are being converted to hundreds of consumer products ranging from baby pants to cemetery ground coverings and canopies.

Special heavy-duty fittings, ideal for hanging power tools, are also available.

Most refrigerator-freezers sold today are completely no-frost models.

Get a cover for the air conditioner. This prevents air from blowing through the unit as well as protecting it.

Covers are available for exhaust fan openings through which a high wind can cause a draft.

If you can't find one, make your own by taking off the grill and lining it with aluminum foil.

Close doors and trap doors to unheated attics. Do not block ventilation openings in the attic. Insulate the floors of unfinished attics to keep rooms below warmer.

Is there a cracked window pane around? Air will come through it. If you can't repair it immediately, then cover with plastic film held with staples.

Dried and loose putty around windows will permit air to enter. Replacing the putty will stop the draft and end window rattling at the same time.

Plastics Serve Man a Lifetime
Cussed, discussed, distrusted and disliked until a few short years ago, man-made plastics now serve us from the cradle to the grave.

The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, a major supplier of vinyl, polyester and other plastic films, reports that these films are being converted to hundreds of consumer products ranging from baby pants to cemetery ground coverings and canopies.

Special heavy-duty fittings, ideal for hanging power tools, are also available.

Most refrigerator-freezers sold today are completely no-frost models.

NO MORE CLUTTER — Get your home improvement projects off to a good start with a handy workshop. It's easy to set up in the basement, garage or attic. You'll need counter top space, cabinets and storage areas. A practical and attractive idea is to install storage walls of perforated hardboard panels. The perforations accept brackets and hooks which hold shelves, tools and equipment. Everything is right at hand and the workshop always looks neat.

First Home Project
Man's Workshop

Groundhogs aren't the only ones who go inside for the winter.

During cold weather, most people spend a lot of time at home, leaving the outdoors to harder sports-enthusiast types.

This is a good time to begin those inside home improvement projects you've been thinking about all summer and fall.

Setting up your own wood-working shop is a good way to get started.

Do-it-yourself projects will give you a great sense of personal accomplishment, help you keep repair bills down, and even increase the value of your property.

WHERE?
Where should you set up your workshop? You'll want a place that's far enough out of the way so you can leave unfinished work lying around without messing up the house.

A basement or garage is usually best. In some cases, a heated attic will serve the purpose.

After you've acquired the basic tools, you'll need a place to store them. A tool chest is good, and so is a closet if there's one handy.

But even with these, you'll find it's a good idea to install perforated tempered hardboard paneling above the workbench or to panel an entire wall, so that frequently-used tools will be readily accessible.

You can hang any kind of tools on hooks set in the panel perforations. The paneling also accepts brackets to support shelves for nail and screw boxes or other small items.

Special heavy-duty fittings, ideal for hanging power tools, are also available.

This type of space-saving storage puts all your equipment right at hand and helps keep the workshop neat.

Homes Delivered Gift Wrapped
You'll soon be able to order your home C.O.D. and have it gift-wrapped and delivered to your land in two big packages.

Practical Builder magazine reports that several home manufacturers now truck prebuilt half-house sections ranging from 48 to 70 feet long.

The halves are lowered onto a foundation, fastened together by two men, and ready for occupancy within 20 hours.
