Signing Is Set on Voting Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson will go to the Capitol tomorrow to sign into law his Negro voting rights bill.

White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers announced today that Johnson will sign the bill at noon, with his cabinet on hand. He said details of the ceremony have yet to be worked out.

The signing will come on the 104th anniversary of a ceremony in which President Abraham Lincoln signed at the Capitol a bill giving freedom to slaves employed by Confederates in carrying out the Civil War.

Moyers said tomorrow's ceremony will be open to live coverage by radio and television.

Presidents went regularly to the Capitol to sign legislation through the administration of Herbert Hoover.

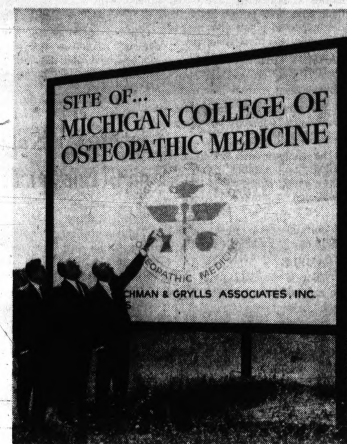

Johnson says the bills "bring within our immediate vision the day when every American can enter a polling booth without fear or hindrance."

The Senate, suddenly speeding up its procedures, gave the final congressional approval to the bill last night, 79 to 18, and the President went to the Capitol to extend congratulations in person.

Johnson, in a formal statement, thanked on behalf of the country the members of Congress of both parties who voted for the measure.

"Their action honors them as much as it perfects our country," he said, and later he added special commendations for the work on behalf of the measure by the two Senate leaders—Democrat Mike Mansfield and Republican Everett M. Dirksen.

Dirksen to Try Again on Districting Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen says he will try again for Senate approval of his constitutional amendment on legislative reapportionment, despite yesterday's defeat.

The margin of defeat—seven votes short of the requisite two-thirds majority—was greater than had been expected. But when the Senate Republican leader was asked whether he was giving up, he replied, "A loud no."

He said his next attempt might be to substitute his amendment, which would override the Supreme Court's ruling that legislatures must be apportioned wholly by population, for the administration bill to repeal the union shop provision of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Dirksen's proposed amendment would permit apportionment of one house to take geography and political subdivisions as well as population into account if the people of a state approved in a referendum.

Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., and William Proxmire, D-Wis.—All leaders of the opposition—predicted any effort to revive it would be beaten even more decisively.

On the showdown vote, after three weeks of debate, the tally was 97 for Dirksen's proposal and 39 against. Constitutional amendments require a two-thirds majority.

Voting for the amendment were 29 Republicans and 28 Democrats. Voting against it were 36 Democrats and 3 Republicans.

Senate Group OKs GI Raise

WASHINGTON (AP)—A billion-dollar annual pay increase for the 2.7 million persons now on duty in the nation's fighting forces won unanimous approval today of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The committee made a number of changes in a House-approved bill but kept virtually the same dollar total, which is more than twice the amount the administration had asked.

Included was a $10-a-month increase in special combat pay, from $55 to $65, for men and officers now in the Viet Nam fighting areas.

Also included was an administrative request for a cost-of-living increase in the retirement pay now going to some 400,000 former military personnel. It is expected to be 3 or 4 per cent or more.

"This is largely an enlisted man's pay increase bill now," Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told newsmen after his committee unanimously approved the measure.

Loss Won't Seriously
Affect U. S. Strikes,
Yank Official Says

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Viet Cong attack on a big aviation fuel dump near the Da Nang Air Base will not seriously affect U. S. air strikes, an American military spokesman said today.

Military authorities said the hit-and-run guerrillas destroyed two of the nine storage tanks in the complex early today and heavily damaged two others with an estimated loss of one million gallons of fuel.

All fuel for jets and propeller-driven planes operating from the big Da Nang base comes in by ocean-going tanker and is transferred to the harbor-side storage complex operated by Esso Standard East.

It is stored there until rail-

Hanoi Army Headquarters in Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist North Viet Nam has moved the headquarters for an entire army division into nominally neutral Cambodia, U.S. military intelligence sources said today.

The American intelligence sources told UPI that the headquarters directs the fighting of the 10,000-man 325th Division in the central highlands of South Viet Nam.

The new hideout was pinpointed about 270 miles north of Saigon in a trackless Cambodian wilderness between Laos and South Viet Nam.

The division's sanctuary was tracked down by secret radio detection equipment aboard U.S. surveillance planes. The new equipment was put to use after American intelligence lost track of the 325th headquarters.

The sources said the aerial surveillance planes have also spotted a supply base and airfield far deeper inside Cambodia. They said it appears to be funneling supplies to the Viet Cong and regular North Vietnamese troops.

The air base is about 50 miles south of the division headquarters, at a Cambodian town called Bo Kheo. Radar scanners have spotted aircraft flying from North Viet Nam to Bo Kheo.

The base is connected with South Viet Nam by national highway 19. Aircraft have sighted convoys of as many as 40 trucks rolling from Bo Kheo to the Vietnamese district capital of Le Thany, Le

A thousand government paratroopers were rushed into Duc Co on Tuesday to save the last outpost along the Communists' new supply line.

Yesterday, authoritative sources disclosed that the U.S. Army's First Cavalry Division (air mobile), en route to South Viet Nam, will be sent to the central highlands to confront North Viet Nam's 325th Division and to open and secure the area.

State Income Tax Backed at Hearing

A State House subcommittee, meeting at the county courthouse yesterday to hear the public's views on tax reform, received unanimous support for a state income tax.

In all cases, the endorsement was coupled with a plea for tax relief in other areas.

"The response was encouraging," said Subcommittee Chairman H. James Starr, D-Lansing, but he added:

"If a meeting of the legislature was held today, we couldn't muster up enough votes for a tax reform program."

He said that there were legislators who refused to discuss tax reform openly because it is politically unwise.

3 Charged as Safecrackers

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies today said they have cracked a ring responsible for at least six safe burglaries in the past 30 days.

Sheriff Frank W. Irons said three men have been arrested and charged with both breaking and entering and safe burglary.

John Raymond, 21, of 529 S. Broadway, Lake Orion, was picked up late last night. Both Raymond and Fisher have previous criminal convictions.

Irons said he believes the three were responsible for at least six safe burglaries in Lake Orion, Oxford, Goodson and Pontiac.

Fisher and Earl, who headed up the investigation, described Raymond as being adept at cracking safes, but being sloppy in his work.

Fisher and Collier just went along, Pender said.

Collier and Raymond were arraigned yesterday and were unable to furnish $5,000 bond. Fisher is expected to be arraigned today.

To Offer Finance Plan for County Buildings

The Oakland County Board of Auditors today was to present to the ways and means committee of the board of supervisors a plan to finance construction of new county buildings, including a courthouse wing.

The wing has been estimated to cost $1.6 million.

Projected revenue figures through 1968, plus $229,000 received from the sale of the TB sanatorium to the Oakland County Community College, indicate that $2,827,115 could be made available for new construction.

About $500,000 of this would be needed to build a South Oakland Health Center in Southfield.

MEMBERS AGREE

Mrs. George Mosher of Birmingham, chairman of the Michigan AAUW Division subcommittee on taxation, said that the AAUW members "agree with the tax experts, the past and present governors and many legislators that the income tax is the heart of tax reform, and that the enactment of such a tax is a must before any other consideration."

Trawler Finds 2nd Torpedo

Not Taken Aboard;
Navy Team Sent Out

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A deep sea trawler picked up a torpedo off the Virginia coast today in waters 60 miles north of a point where the trawler Snoopy was blown to bits by a similar cast last month.

But wary of the fact that took eight lives in the Snoopy blast off Hatteras, the trawler New Bedford didn't try to bring the torpedo aboard.

Instead it reported to 5th District Coast Guard headquarters it was rigging the net containing the 10-foot cylinder to a fishing buoy and retiring to a safe distance.

The New Bedford, built in 1941 and owned by Mrs. Michael Smith of South Dartmouth, Mass., carries a crew of 10. Her skipper is Robert Carlisle of New Bedford, Mass.

NAVY TEAM
Atlantic fleet headquarters announced a Navy ordnance disposal team will be sent out today to disarm or destroy the torpedo. The team will remove the torpedo from the dredge and return the dredge to the trawler.

The water is 96 feet deep in the area, a fleet spokesman reported.

A fleet of trawlers was operating in the vicinity and the Coast Guard ordered the area cleared pending disposal of the New Bedford's find.

The Snoopy, out of Portland, Maine, had been working 41 miles east of False Cape on North Carolina's Outer Banks, for years a graveyard for ships and World War II's famed Torpedo Assemblies.

As her net came in, the skipper, Edward Doody of Portland, told the skipper of a nearby trawler, he had something and was going to bring it aboard.

"It just went. There was just a flash and it was all in pieces," said Normal Mallet, skipper of the trawler Prowler and former mate aboard the Snoopy. Mallet was talking with Doody by radio when the blast occurred.

'Peking Is Blocking N. Viet Peace Bid'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.

(UPI) — A Ghanaian diplomatic mission to Hanoi returned with the impression North Vietnam is willing to talk peace in Viet Nam but Communist China is not, sources here reported today.

African delegates in close touch with Ghanaian affairs reported that the mission, headed by Ghanaian high commissioner (ambassador) in London Kwasi Armah, had seen some glimmers of hope for a negotiated peace in talks in Hanoi.

But they said Armah came away from Hanoi convinced that the Red Chinese remain as intransigent as ever, firmly committed to a "no talk" policy on Viet Nam.

Armah was sent to Hanoi last week by Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah — a member of the abortive "Commonwealth peace mission" proposed by British Premier Harold Wilson during the Commonwealth Premier's Conference in June.

That mission never got off the ground because of the refusal of the Hanoi and Peking governments to extend a formal invitation to it.

WARM WELCOME

But the North Vietnamese authorities gave a warm welcome to Armah and his Ghanaian mission and spent several days discussing the probable course of the war with them.

Diplomats here reported that Armah came away from Hanoi with the idea that the North Vietnamese government would be prepared, if left alone, to sit down at the negotiating table with the United States and South Viet Nam to discuss an end to hostilities.

The North Vietnamese hinted, the diplomats said, that if the decision were up to them alone they would be prepared to meet somewhere with the United States to discuss a cease fire.

Details were left purposely vague. There was talk of, but no agreement on, the necessity of reconvening the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina to thrash out a settlement.

HAMSTRUNG

But the diplomats said Armah returned from Hanoi convinced that the North Vietnamese, however willing they might be to talk on their own behalf, were hamstrung by Peking.

And the Chinese, they said, are definitely not interested in any negotiations at this time.

One African diplomat who obtained knowledge of the Armah mission said he felt "China will fight to the last North Vietnamese."

and gunfire from an American destroyer off Da Nang harbor were called on to shell suspected Viet Cong positions, military sources said.

An informant said fire from one destroyer fell short and hit a Vietnamese force sent to help the beleaguered post.

Vietnamese casualties from this were described as moderate.

COPTERS CALLED

A military source at the scene said U.S. Air Force helicopters were called on to drop chemicals on the burning fuel tanks to keep the fires from touching off other tanks.

It was the boldest attack in the Da Nang area since Communist squads hit the base itself a little more than a month ago and destroyed three planes.

U.S. warships shelled the hills surrounding the storage complex two nights ago after a report was received that the Viet Cong was readying an attack on the Esso facility.

Scattered Viet Cong attacks over a wide area of South Viet Nam were reported today.

U.S. spokesmen gave this account:

The Communists made three strikes in Chuong Thien Province, in the Mekong Delta about 115 miles southwest of Saigon.

Mortar attacks were made against government installations at Vi Thanh, Due Long and Long My. Vietnamese losses were described as light.

Developers Fight Zone Change

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The public hearing on a proposed zoning code change last night was colored by the attempt of developers to block the move.

Six owners of multiple-residential property yesterday filed a formal protest against the zoning ordinance amendment which would reduce the number of units they could build per acre of land.

The objectors own more than 20 per cent of the front footage which would be involved in the change.

Whether their action will be effective depends on interpretation of a state statute which requires a three-quarters majority vote of the governing body to override the objections of the property owners.

"It's an ambiguous statute," Mayor Robert S. Frye commented. But he noted that the commission "should retire and study" the matter.

FOUR OF FIVE

If the formal protest is effective, four of the five commissioners would have to vote in favor of the amendment in order for it to be adopted.

It now has the backing of three commissioners — Frye, E. R. Davies and Mantion M. Cummins.

"We're really up in the air at this point," Frye said.

No date was set for a commission vote on the matter, but the mayor told objectors he would notify them of the commission's interpretation of the statute before a decision on the amendment is made.

WOULD REDUCE

The proposed zoning code changes would reduce from four and a half to three the number of families allowed per acre in a multiple-residence zone.

They also would delete references to three-story town houses in the zoning ordinance adopted 16 months ago.

The two present commissioners who served on the commission at that time are opposed to making the change.

Louis J. Colombo Jr. and James A. Beresford have based their objections on the legal action expected if the city makes its regulations more stringent.

LAWSUIT THREAT

The threat of lawsuits came from several sources last night.

"The audience at the public hearing was heavily weighted with legal counsel."

The contemplated action was called "unjustifiable," "an arbitrary, pulled-out-of-the-air idea" and "a gamble."

Commissioners were urged not to open "Pandora's box."

A GAMBLE
"There's no doubt about it — we are taking a gamble," Frye said.

He and the other two "two-story" men reiterated their stand that they represent the majority of Bloomfield Hills citizens.

They campaigned for commission seats on the basis of tightening apartment restrictions.

Cited as one reason for the change was the number of recent requests for apartment building permits.

The mayor noted that the number of apartments either constructed or proposed now totals 242. Applications for more than 100 units were received by the planning commission Tuesday night.

The increase since passage of the new zoning ordinance has been 338 per cent, according to Frye.

He indicated commissioners "quite definitely" will seek the advice of City Attorney David C. Pence before acting on the amendment.

Contents of Pence's written opinion, made on the request of Beresford and distributed to commissioners last night, were not disclosed.

Johnson Gets Bill on GI Construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1.7-billion military construction authorization bill was sent by Congress to the White House today.

The Senate passed a compromise bill aimed at giving Congress a stronger hand in blocking future shutdowns of military installations. The measure was passed by the House Wednesday.

The compromise is not as strong as a bill approved by the House earlier. The Senate refused to accept a House provision that would have given either the House or Senate a veto over cutbacks.

Rezoning Denial on Complex Recommended by City Planners

City planners last night indicated they don't want a nearly $4-million multiple housing complex on a 30-acre parcel along Woodward in the south end of the city.

Basing the decision on the lack of available school facilities, the City Planning Commission voted last night to recommend denial of Residential-3 rezoning for the projected Bloomfield Township Apartments.

Final decision on the rezoning rests with the City Commission.

However, city officials have said that even if the rezoning is finally denied, this probably will not stop construction of the apartment complex since the land is already zoned for a less restrictive use.

The 263-unit complex is planned by developer Charles L. Langs of Waterford Township for a tract of land south of East Boulevard, across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

ISSUED PERMIT

Langs, who has been issued a city building permit for two model units, anticipates beginning construction within 30 days.

Under present city zoning ordinances, Langs does not need the R-3 zoning to erect his complex. The land is zoned Manufacturing - 1, which means it could be used for light manufacturing, commercial or residential buildings.

The developer said that he sought the rezoning only to clarify the paperwork involved in the project.

Langs said that he had reserved a two-acre site for a projected elementary school. An estimated 100 to 200 pupils would be housed in the apartment units.

School officials have met with Langs on the projected school there, but the school board tabled the school proposal last April after protests were made by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Urban League.

These groups charged that by building a school on the site, the board would be furthering de facto segregation in the school system.

School Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer said that the board had not undertaken any further discussion of purchasing a school site in the development.

The planning commission recommended denial of the rezoning on the basis that children from the proposed apartments would have to walk long distances to school along and across major streets with heavy traffic.

OVERPASSES

Some overpasses reportedly would be necessary.

The rezoning question is further complicated by the fact that the City Commission has introduced a zoning ordinance amendment to ban residential construction in commercial and industrial districts.

This amendment is slated for a public hearing Aug. 10 before the City Commission.

City officials have indicated, however, that the Langs' project probably would not come under the new ordinance because building permits have already been issued for a portion of the apartments.

long remembered for what they have done on this bill."

The bill will suspend the use of literacy tests, said to be used to discriminate against Negroes, in much of the South and permit the federal government to take over the registration of voters.

It also calls for the attorney general to bring a court test on the constitutionality of poll taxes still used in state and local elections in Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

Two civil rights leaders expressed less than all-out approval of the measure.

But Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, had called the bill "a good one because it goes a long way finally to redeem the pledge of the 15th Amendment by assuring the right to vote of all citizens regardless of race or color."

'INQUITOUS DEVICE'

He said, "I am confident that the poll tax provision of the bill — with vigorous action by the attorney general — will operate finally to bury this iniquitous device."

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said the measure is too weak, does not meet the problem of intimidation and violence to would-be registrants and voters, and should contain an outright ban on the poll tax in state and local elections.

However, Farmer said, "I think it is sufficiently strong so it can have impact in the South if it is enforced. And we intend to see that it is vigorously enforced."

The six nonpermanent members of the Security Council — Bolivia, Uruguay, Ivory Coast, Netherlands, Malaysia and Jordan — have been meeting for the past few days to discuss what, if anything, the Security Council can do to help bring peace to Viet Nam.

First Degree Murder Trial for Area Boy

A 16-year-old Waterford Township boy was ordered yesterday to stand trial on a charge of first degree murder.

The youth, A. Ross Pearson, 1127 Alhi, stood mute to the charge when he appeared at his arraignment before Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn.

An innocent plea was entered for the teen-ager by Thorburn. No trial date was set.

Pearson is accused of the fatal stabbing of Jeffrey Talbot, 17, of 2845 Watkins Lake.

The stabbing occurred June 27 in front of the Talbot home in view of 20 persons, according to Waterford Township police.

Thorburn is considering a motion made by Pearson's attorney to have the boy released on bond pending his trial. He is presently being held in the county jail.

Pearson was taken into custody after he turned himself in at the Pontiac state police post shortly after the stabbing.

Chicago Firm Hit by Blast

CHICAGO (AP) — A bomb exploded Wednesday night outside a three-story building housing a glass company breaking some 40 windows. No one was injured.

The blast, apparently caused by a dynamite bomb, left a hole a foot in diameter and four inches deep in the street, police said. The bomb had been planted between two trucks owned by the Glass Shower Door Co. at 1051 N. Throop St.

Police estimated damage at $500.

Taylor Gives 2nd Viet Estimate Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Combining hope for the future with acknowledgment of "serious problems" in Viet Nam, Maxwell D. Taylor turns in his final ambassadorial accounting today to a top ranking panel at the White House.

On Capitol Hill the administration moved to the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee with its plea for $1.7 billion more plus a 340,000-man military manpower boost to gird for the Southeast Asian war.

President Johnson got a two-hour briefing from Taylor late Wednesday. Johnson said he was so impressed by the retiring ambassador's knowledge from his year in Saigon that he called a whole array of administration policymakers to today's 5:45 p.m. EDT session.

The President also announced he has asked Taylor to be a senior adviser to the President on military and diplomatic matters and has named him to the intelligence board which supervises U.S. intelligence activities. Taylor, 63, onetime Army chief, was chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff when Johnson sent him to South Viet Nam.

CALLED IN
Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Henry Cabot Lodge, Taylor's successor in the Saigon post, and other senior diplomatic, military and intelligence officers were called in for Taylor's report.

"The future," Taylor told newsmen after seeing Johnson, "is certainly far more hopeful than it was a year ago."

He said he left South Viet Nam last week "feeling far from discouraged, although I recognize the serious problems we have — problems that are military, civilian and international in character."

"We are on the right track," he said. "It will take time. It will take determination."

NO SPECIFICS
Taylor declined to go into specifics on just how the war would be won or ended. He said the present 125,000-man goal for U.S. military strength in Viet Nam is a reasonable figure, but he does not know whether this will be enough in the future. McNamara, who presented the administration's $1.7-billion request to the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee Wednesday, arranged to make a similar appearance before the House group today.

The chairman of the Senate subcommittee, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., predicted committee action next week. "Obviously this is not all that will be needed," he added.

The current limited request would raise the military appropriation total for this fiscal year to $48.9 billion and increase the armed forces total to 2.96 million men.

BACK FROM TRIP

Johnson also got a report Wednesday from his roving ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, just back from a trip to various European capitals after conferring in Moscow with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Harriman said the Soviets would be on the Communist side in any negotiations on Viet Nam but "they'd like to see this thing settled." He said the Kremlin wants an international agreement on nuclear weapons control.

"As far as Viet Nam is concerned," he said, the Soviets think "that is blocking the way to other agreements. I got the impression that the Soviet Union would like to see that matter settled so they could get on to what they consider more important matters later on."

William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, voiced doubt in an interview on educational television that Red China would enter the Viet Nam conflict any time soon.

Bundy figured Peking might get into the war quickly if the United States sought to overthrow the Communist Hanoi regime. But he noted this is not Washington's aim, so the Chinese will "hesitate a long while" about involvement because "they're fully aware of their own vulnerability."

Bundy also said the United States had checked out an indication from U.N. Secretary General U Thant early this year that North Viet Nam might be interested in peace talks. Intermediaries could not get confirmation on this from Hanoi, he said.

Keego to Hear Bells

At Lake Orion Church

Pastor's Installation Is Sunday

REV. D. H. BECKWITH

LAKE ORION—Rev. Dean H. Beckwith will be installed Sunday as pastor of King of Kings Lutheran Church.

Rev. Frank P. Madson, president of the Michigan Synod will officiate at the 9 a.m. installation breakfast at the House Chapel 218 S. Broadway.

Following the service breakfast will be served at the Oxford Veterans Memorial Building, 28 N. Washington, Oxford. Members and guests planning to attend the breakfast are requested to call Mrs. William Spry, 806 Long Lake Drive, for reservations.

The new pastor completed his undergraduate studies at Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio, in 1962 and his ministerial studies at Hamma School of Theology, Springfield, this spring.

He and his wife and two children live at 3648 Hi-Villa Drive, Orion Township.

The first unit of the new church south of Lake Orion on M24 is expected to be ready for service by the middle of September.

Barbecue Set by Rotarians

MILFORD—Rotarians will stage their annual chicken barbecue Sunday at the southside village park.

The cooks are getting ready to prepare the thousands of chickens and bushels of fresh sweet corn which will be featured on the menu.

Serving will begin at noon. There also will be a carry-out service for patrons who prefer to eat at home or in one of the area's parks.

Improvements Announced for Rochester Intersection

ROCHESTER—Plans to widen, improve and install signals at the intersection of Rochester Road at Avon south of the village have been announced by John E. Meyer, director of engineering, Michigan State Highway Department.

Extensive studies, which have been made by the Department Traffic Engineers, also indicate that reopening of Parkdale, an east-west street paralleling Avon will provide some measure of relief until the permanent changes at the intersection can be made.

Plans are being prepared to widen Rochester Road south of the intersection and enlarge the radius on both the northeast and southwest corners to improve turning.

A signal light will be installed at the intersection after construction is completed. Plans call for a flashing red right-turn arrow for right turn traffic from Avon Road north onto Rochester.

The changes are part of the Operational - Betterment Program carried out by the State Highway Department to improve safety conditions on Michigan's highways.

Work should be completed on the intersection early next year.

Horse-pulling contests are returning to the Michigan State Fair this year. They are scheduled for Sept. 4.

Area Lawyer, Judge Cited by Boys' Club

Attorney R. Grant Graham and Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore were honored in Miami Beach today by the Boys' Clubs of America for their "material contributions to the cause of juvenile decency."

Graham, who has offices at 61 S. Squirrel, Auburn Heights, and Judge Moore are both on the board of directors of the Boys' Club of Auburn Heights, Inc.

They were honored during the annual board of governors meeting of the American Bar Association at the Fontainebleau Hotel.

A plaque was presented to the Bar Association in recognition of the members who serve Boys' Clubs throughout the country.

KEEGO HARBOR—Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Schroder like the sound of bells—and they want everyone else to share their pleasure.

The Schroders also like the city which has been their home for more than half a century.

So they have donated to Keego Harbor an 11-bell carillon which will be installed in the new municipal building.

The $50,000 building is now under construction on the block bounded by Knollson, Madry Lane, Wilbur and Beechmont.

After a delay caused by an ironworkers' strike, work on the structure now is moving at a regular pace and it is expected to be completed by early October.

MUSICAL TIMEPIECE

The automatic carillon will serve as the city's musical timepiece, marking the quarter-hours of the day with a Westminster melody.

Four outdoor projector speakers will carry the sound to all parts of the city.

The instrument also will be equipped with a civil defense signal generator, including a fire gong, "take cover" warning and siren alert.

By the time it is installed, the Schroders' gift to the city will have cost them between $3,500 and $4,500.

CHARTER MEMBERS

Giving in a grand style is nothing new to the couple. They've donated similar carillons to a church in Tampa, Fla., and to Keego Harbor's Trinity Methodist Church, of which they are charter members.

The local church also has a new piano because of the Schroders' generosity.

The couple's experience with Keego Harbor dates back to 1911, when he opened Schroder's Grocery here.

The store was sold 24 years later and for 10 years Schroder managed the concessions at Dodge Park No. 4 on Cass Lake.

NEARLY 80 Married 56 years, the Schroders live at 3070 Grove. He'll celebrate his 80th birthday Saturday.

Mrs. Schroder, 78, now is in the Seminole Hills Nursing Home, Pontiac, recovering from injuries she sustained in an accident.

But she plans to be within earshot of the municipal building when the bells start chiming this fall.

Manager Ouster 'Just Rumors'

ROCHESTER—Rumors that Village Manager Richard N. Don has been asked by the Village Council to resign are just that—rumors—at this point, according to two councilmen.

Councilman Louis A. Mitzelfeld said today that he has heard the rumors but does not know of anything official.

"And I'm sure he hasn't been given 60 days to resign because the rest of us would have heard about it," he said.

Councilman Burdette Lewis said that as far as the council is concerned "there has been nothing official."

One source said he has heard rumors that Don is going to present his resignation at the council meeting Monday night.

UNAVAILABLE

Don was unavailable for comment.

Don became village manager 10 months ago, replacing Paul York who resigned to become manager in Troy.

Rumors that he was leaving began last week when a "for sale" sign was put up in front of his home.

It has been rumored that Don has been asked to resign and that he has been given 60 days in which to do so.

'GIVEN OPPORTUNITY'

He was also allegedly given an opportunity to look for other employment before being asked for his resignation.

Don came to Rochester from Mount Desert, Maine, where he held the position of manager for a year. A native of Oregon, he worked for the Oregon Highway Department.

Contract OK'd for Sewer Arm

DPW Set to Begin Walnut Lake Project

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—The Oakland County Department of Public Works got the go-ahead last night to begin work on the Walnut Lake sewer arm.

The contract between the township and county was approved by a unanimous vote of the six Township Board members present at last night's meeting.

Trustee Emmett DeConick did not attend the session.

The $1,520,772 trunkline, an extension of the Farmington Interceptor, will be built in the area between 14 Mile and Pine Lake from east of Inkster to just east of Orchard Lake Road.

It will be paid for through fees charged to the individual property owner as he makes use of it.

CIRCULATE PETITIONS

While the DPW moves ahead with its part of the plans, residents of the area can begin circulating petitions for lateral lines into subdivisions.

"We already have a meeting scheduled for Monday night with a couple of gentlemen from the Walnut Lake area," Supervisor John C. Richard said. "We want to decide the expedient way to move in that area and how big the district should be."

Engineering for lateral lines is started when requested by the owners of 51 per cent of the property in a proposed special assessment district.

The supervisor said he also has received inquiries from other areas of the township.

ABANDONED

The sewer arm project was abandoned by the Township Board last year after a number of residents objected to the proposed method of financing, which would have been handled through a special assessment.

The new method calls for all users of the arm to pay a unit capital charge starting at $350 and increasing $25 a year to a maximum of $650.

Properly owners tapping directly into the trunkline would pay another fee starting at $300 and going up to $510 after 14 years.

APPETIZING EXHIBITS—Beryl Austin of the Oakland 4-H Club is shown with some of the canned vegetables, fruit, berries and pickles she will be entering in the Oakland County 4-H Fair next week. About 2,000 youngsters are expected to enter nearly 4,000 exhibits in the annual fair, which will be held at the Pontiac 4-H Fairgrounds, North Perry near Walton. Beryl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellison Austin, 8660 Kier, Groveland Township, will show a variety of projects in addition to food preparation.

'Meager Fodder'

Hopes Gone for Corn Crop in County

State and county agricultural experts have given up hope for this year's drought-stricken Oakland County corn crop.

Dean Quirin, state director of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said yesterday, after a seven-county tour, that the corn in midlower Michigan will provide little more than "meager fodder" this year.

Even if it rained now in the drought-stricken areas, it would be too late to help the corn," Quirin said.

He said feed grain would be in critically short supply in the region because of the corn loss, which he estimated ranged from 25 to 75 per cent of the crop in 14 rain-starved counties.

Marshall L. Mohney, Oakland County director of the ASCS, said conditions aren't so bad in the southwestern part of the county. He said farmers in north Oakland will probably lose 60 to 70 per cent of their corn, however.

WAST HIGH

Most of the corn in the north half of the county has started to tassle up, Mohney said, and some of it is only waist high.

"Such corn doesn't even make good fodder," he explained, "because it has no grain content."

Gov. George Romney, on the recommendation of Mohney and the ASCS disaster committee, has petitioned the U.S. Department of Agriculture to declare a drought emergency in Oakland and 13 other counties.

Mohney said any federal aid approved for the area will probably be in the form of a release of diverted acreage.

PASTURE LAND

This will permit farmers to graze their cattle on presently unused pasture land, thus saving feed and forage now on hand for a "rainy day."

Oakland County farmers have diverted about 19,500 acres under the feed grain and other diversion programs, Mohney said.

The drought has also seriously affected hay production in the county. Most farmers have got only one cutting of hay from their fields this year, according to Mohney.

Other counties which have asked for federal aid because of the drought are Clare, Clinton, Gratiot, Ingham, Ionia, Isabella, Livingston, Mecosta, Midland, Montcalm, Saginaw and Shiawassee in the Lower Peninsula and Menominee in the Upper Peninsula.

Similar requests are expected soon from 11 other counties, according to Quirin.

First Grades Will Be on Half-Day Sessions

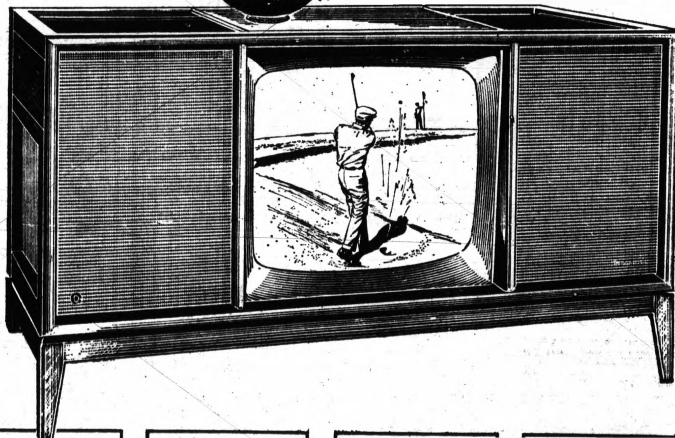

UTICA—First graders will be on split sessions in the fall instead of full-day sessions as was reported in yesterday's Pontiac Press.

They will attend school for four hours instead of 2½ hours as they did last year.

Ruling Fails to Dismay Guard Officer in Legal Battle to Regain Position

LANSING (AP) — Maj. Gen. Ronald McDonald says his legal battle to regain the state adjutant general's office, from which he was fired in May, suffered no serious harm from Wednesday's action by the attorney general.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said

Wednesday he has concluded that McDonald's successor, Maj. Gen. Clarence Schnipke, "lawfully holds and exercises the office of adjutant general."

He denied a request by attorney George Bushnell that he handle a quo warranto proceeding — a legal device used to challenge the right of a person to hold public office.

State law requires that in any quo warranto proceeding, the attorney general must first be asked to handle the case. If he declines, as often happens, the person seeking action then may go to court himself.

McDonald said Bushnell had anticipated Kelley's ruling since "the attorney general will have to appoint an assistant to represent the governor during the quo warranto proceedings."

Gov. George Romney, after holding a 93-hour hearing, dismissed McDonald for alleged gross neglect of duty, malfeasance and misfeasance in connection with reported irregularities in the Michigan military establishment.

McDonald said he intends to go ahead with the quo warranto proceeding, probably next week, and with his separate action of appealing Romney's action in the State Court of Appeals.

The general said both actions are based on his contention that he did not receive due process of law.

T-H Act Watered Down as GOP Votes Dry Up

The House vote (221-203) to repeal section 14(b) of the TAIT-HARTLEY Act, thereby in effect establishing compulsory union membership where a labor contract exists, represents a blend of divergent and tainted interests.

First off, it is a dues- and control-insurance measure for Big Labor and the payment of a debt owed by the Administration for ballot support in the 1964 presidential election. This in the face of public opinion polls, including a third of union membership, that overwhelmingly support the principle of voluntary unionism.

The second demerit, White House espousal of the repealer, casts doubt on the political integrity of President Johnson.

For the record shows that as a congressman, LYNDON JOHNSON voted for the TAIT-HARTLEY Act and to override President TRUMAN's veto of it. Moreover, JOHNSON in 1960 was elected Senator from Texas on the Democratic state platform that endorsed a right-to-work law as "essential to prosperity and well-being of the state."

Lastly, the vote to nullify the laws of 19 states making it illegal to require membership in a labor union as a condition of employment, at the same time nullified the first favorable opportunity for the Republican Party to stand united on the popular side of a legislative issue.

And let it be said that if there is anything more desperately needed for resurgence of the GOP than a king-size infusion of unity, it is not visible to the naked eye.

The 21 Republicans (none from Michigan) who bowed to political pressure and expediency and voted for repeal of 14(b), against a principle for which their party is supposed to stand, spelled the difference between victory and defeat.

The amendment now heads for the Upper House. Awaiting it there is a rare opportunity for Senate Republicans to rally in the cause of a democratic concept of government and vote down a reprehensible product of power legislation.

Working Wives Relish Their 'Double Lives'

The working wife and mother, like her forebears, is seeking the best the world has to offer for her family and herself. It may not be the easiest way to live, but it has distinct advantages, according to a current report.

Although findings show that she works for the money mostly, stimulation is by no means an insignificant motive for her presence among the 16 million working women in the United States.

In a survey covering 35 states, a solid 88 per cent, as noted, list financial consideration first. The three most important objectives are: to provide better living for the family; provide for the children's education; to get out of debt.

Even those working for monetary reasons reveal a secondary interest when asked why women like to work outside the home. Replies were heavily weighted with such comments as "it keeps them better informed" or "it keeps them young."

Although 63 per cent of the wives report they are able to get the necessary tasks done at home with a feeling of satisfaction and a minimum of fatigue, they candidly admit that they don't have enough time.

Half of those surveyed think schools should place more emphasis on the dual role of a working wife or mother, and they readily say why: "Schools are unrealistic in educating girls — most women are trained for one role or the other, but never for both." Almost unanimously, they think girls should be taught to budget time as part of their education.

Despite the lack of enough hours in the day, 67 per cent of the mothers declare they manage to have some unhurried time for each child. Although only 50 per cent have time for themselves, they do manage to read an average of three magazines regularly and to participate in church or community activities.

The majority regard the wife's salary as family income, to be applied where it is needed, and a high 90 per cent say they are achieving the goals they set when they went to work.

To no little extent, it seems, changing times have recast the role of the housewife from bread maker to that of supplementary breadwinner.

Ford Pushing LBJ Criticism

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan has been on President Johnson's back more than any top Republican in Congress. Johnson doesn't take persistent criticism lightly. And Ford, apparently, was Johnson's target last Sunday when the President cut loose on a Republican he didn't name but accused of leaking information on a White House conference with congressional leaders about Viet Nam.

For most of this year the 52-year-old Ford, Republican House leader since January, said little about Johnson, and most of it was mild. He began getting critical in June and stepped it up in July.

His swipes at the President were far more caustic than anything Johnson has said about Republicans this year. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republicans' Senate leader, has been one of Johnson's greatest helpers.

Ford really got rough last month when the House passed the administration-sponsored civil rights bill on voting after turning down proposals by Ford and another Republican, Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio.

RAPS MEASURE

Johnson, congratulating the Democratic-run House, said the Ford-McCulloch measure would have "seriously damaged and diluted the guarantee of the right to vote for all Americans."

The next day, July 12, Ford and McCulloch fired back in a joint statement that Johnson doesn't like anyone to differ with him, is a "dangerous advocate of one-party government," is a "Lyndon-come-lately" on civil rights, has "traveled a crooked path" in that field, and until 1957 had voted "against civil rights 100 per cent."

Johnson held a news conference the next day. Asked about the Republican comments on his civil rights position, he said he was "particularly sensitive to the problems of the Negro."

He said he wanted to do his best in that field "in the limited time that I am allowed. I did not have that responsibility in the years past, and I did not feel it to the extent that I do today."

LBJ REPLIES

"I am going to try to provide all of the leadership that I can, notwithstanding the fact that someone may point to a mistake or 100 mistakes that I made in my past." Later in July, Ford urged the President to tell the nation "straight from the shoulder" what this country faces in Viet Nam. He said Johnson revealed "grim news in installments."

And he accused the administration of using a "cynical type of log-rolling" to win House repeal of the federal law which lets states ban union shops.

Then last Sunday Johnson exploded.

David Lawrence Says:

Clergy in Protests In for Surprise

WASHINGTON — To those clergymen who have been teaching "civil disobedience" and the right to elect their own representatives, who then make the laws.

would have occasioned no surprise whatsoever a decade ago.

But since that time, the demonstrations on racial questions have been sponsored by groups which have insisted that this is the only way to dramatize grievances and get attention and that, because the objective is worthy, laws need not be obeyed.

Mr. Haggard missed one important point on the repeal of section 14B—that in the 19 states which have "right to work laws," wages of employees are from 35 to 35 cents per hour lower than in the 31 states which do not have the so-called "right to work laws." This about this.

Says Rep. Farnum Paid Postage on Report

In answer to Harry Grayson of Royal Oak, he can be sure Rep. Farnum paid for the postage on those letters. If he noticed, "official business" was crossed out on the envelope and it states at the top of the letter "not printed at government expense."

I have received the same type of letter from Rep. Broomfield of Royal Oak, stating what has been done in Congress. Rep. Farnum is an honest individual trying to do a good job for the people in his district.

Bob Considine Says:

Treatment for McNamara Irks Mother of GI in Viet

NEW YORK — "A worried mother" writes:

"On his latest trip to Viet Nam, Secretary of Defense McNamara briefly visited an area where my son is serving. His group was served a meal the likes of which the men who are engaged there had not seen since they left the states. Nor, of course, were they invited to join in."

"What fascinated them most, however, was that the party was served ice cold pineapple juice."

"The custom in that region has been to treat the troops to a couple of cans of beer after they have been on a patrol lasting seven or eight days. The beer was enjoyed to the utmost. Now a small PX has been set up in the area and if they want beer they pay for it."

"Fine. But why does it have to be warm? If pineapple juice can be iced for someone visiting from Washington, why not keep cold drinks for those who are fighting the war?"

"Now don't get the idea I have a cry baby on my hands. Far from it. My son has been involved in many action."

DON'T COMPLAIN

"He has seen friends in his platoon killed and seriously injured. He has seen what the war has done to the women and children of Viet Nam. He doesn't complain. He knows why he is fighting."

"However, his morale and that of the boys around him, he tells me, was shaken by one important visit by one who must be relied upon to come back with a true story of existing conditions in that hell hole."

"The boys figure that Mr. McNamara came back with a story of well-fed boys with high morale. They hope he and his group also noticed that the troops are hot, dirty, thirsty and eaten alive by bugs."

"Isn't there some way a chaplain can be sent to offer comfort to these men who were boys just a short time ago?"

"Such a move would certainly build morale more noticeably than a visit that was hardly a visit and the sight of food seldom seen."

"My apology for being unable to sign my name. This is not my normal practice. But under the circumstances, I'm sure you'll understand."

"With my son where he is, each day may be his last. I certainly cannot chance making things harder for him or the boys with him."

Bomb Builders Had Faith in Men

BY RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — On this 20th anniversary of Hiroshima and Nagasaki it is well to look back at two of the men of whose basic theories the atom bomb was built.

Albert Einstein, the German mathematician, had simple, straightforward hopes for his nuclear work. A little more than three decades ago, he visited my college in Pasadena and spoke from his heart to some of us students. His words changed the course of my life and the lives of several other young men studying nuclear physics.

His meanings have stayed clear in my mind after all these years, even though his exact words have faded. A few of us wrote down his words and carried them for years.

Said Einstein — In your nuclear work you must always remember that it is for the benefit of man that you do this research. There can be no other aim for your work. Without that you have nothing. Never forget this in the midst of your laboratories and your test tubes.

It could have been a sermon. The "bomb" had not yet been "invented." But even then it was clear from Einstein's mathematical studies that the nucleus of the atom contained awesome amounts of energy which could somehow be translated into power.

But he was not afraid.

Some men say Niels Bohr's nuclear theories contributed even more fundamentally than Einstein's in the development of man's knowledge of the atom and the bomb.

My own first personal contact with Bohr came in 1937 when he visited Tokyo.

Bohr, too, saw the development of nuclear energy in terms of what great works it would accomplish for mankind. He was not afraid of man's possessing this power or what the world would do with it once man had thorough knowledge of what he was dealing with.

He did worry about the great chasm between what was known by scientists and what was known by the nonscientist citizen and the danger this ignorance would cause.

Later some of the younger scientists who helped in the actual development of the atom bomb seemed to develop guilt feelings for their part in the work.

Some had hoped that the bomb would do away with wars and they saw it hadn't. Others feared they had given man a weapon by which he could destroy himself.

At one session of scientists some of us attended, a group worked out what they figured would be the average theoretical time it would take the men on any inhabited planet in the universe to develop a bomb and the average time it would take those men to use that bomb to destroy their civilization. They assumed that any civilization that developed the bomb would destroy itself.

But Einstein and Bohr voiced no such fears during the time we discussed their ambitions and their philosophies — and their fears in science and in world affairs. (It was the time Hitler was growing in power.)

These men had faith in men. They believed that men would be able to solve the awesome problems presented them by scientific discoveries if scientists would make certain that everybody — scientist and non-scientist alike — received the knowledge needed to make sound decisions.

Baby's Fussy Eater? Bananas Best Bet

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

A 3-year-old child with what doctors call "anorexia nervosa" (absence of appetite, refusal to take food) not only refused all food but regurgitated liquid food fed through stomach tube.

Finally the child was offered a ripe banana. This proved acceptable, and then the child began to take other food in more or less normal amount.

But when no more banana was given, there was a relapse. Only when more banana was given, did the child resume eating other food.

For what we old-timers called "chronic intestinal indigestion," now called celiac disease, and sometimes, particularly in England, "mucous disease," there is no better treatment or diet than ripe banana and plenty of it — all the infant or child will take.

For obstinate chronic constipation in young infants or young children the prescription is the same — ripe banana and plenty of it.

In the "Brady Baby Book" (35 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope) I say: At the age of 4 or 5 months begin feeding the baby ripe bananas daily. Only a teaspoonful a day at first, gradually increased, week by week, until the baby takes half a banana at the age of 8 months. This solves the constipation problem and makes puny, sickly, badly nourished infants thrive.

The skin of ripe banana is golden yellow, flecked with brown spots, not black bruise marks. The pulp is mellow, sweet and soft but not mushy.

Banana is an excellent source of vitamin A and vitamin C and a good source of vitamin B. Ripe raw banana also contains enough vitamin C to prevent and cure scurvy.

For instance in the case of an infant 8 months old with scurvy (marked pallor, severe anemia, bleeding gums, rapid heart, tenderness of the legs which makes the baby cry when handled or moved), a banana - milk diet proved curative. One ripe raw banana whipped into a pint of milk was the formula — such mixture constituted the diet — the baby took about half a pint of the mixture every four hours.

Unpublished letters to me from one parent or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, or disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady. If a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent to "The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan." Copyright, 1965

'Voice From the Grave' Stirs Shakedown Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — A voice from the grave accuses a New York City detective and a federal narcotics agent of plotting to shake down a crime syndicate figure under threat of a phony narcotics arrest.

Telephone conversations between the officers and ex-convict Joseph Kadlub — later slain by a policeman after Kadlub shot to death an officer — were taped for two newspapers, they reported.

JOSEPH KADLUB

Brooklyn Dist. Atty. Aaron E. Koola said transcripts of the tapes will be made available to a grand jury investigating the allegations.

The New York Journal-American said in a copyright story Tuesday that Kadlub, 39, had exposed the alleged plot to the newspaper a few days before he was slain last Saturday.

FORCED TO ACT

Kadlub said the detective and the narcotics agent, neither of whom has been identified publicly, forced him to act as a go-between in a plot to shake down Carmine (Sonny) Persico, 31, named by authorities as a Brooklyn and Long Island Cosa Nostra figure.

The Journal-American said Kadlub approached the newspaper with his story July 27. He was quoted as saying one more felony conviction would make him liable to life imprisonment as a four-time loser, and "that's what the cops and the feds are holding over my head — I'm caught right in the middle."

Kadlub, the newspaper said, taped conversations with the detective and federal agent in a sidewalk telephone booth near the newspaper plant. The tapes reportedly concerned a plot to shake down Persico for $2,000 a month.

The Journal-American said Kadlub, after much persuasion, made an appointment to go to Koola's office Monday.

VICTIM QUOTED

The newspaper quoted Kadlub as saying: "I'm gonna be hit (killed) by a cop or a fed. Believe me, I know what I'm talking about."

Dom Frasca, Journal-American Sunday city editor, signed a note and gave it to Kadlub to carry. The note — addressed to the detective and narcotics agent — said: "This is to let you know I have tapes which are going to be used if anything happens to Joseph Kadlub." Koola told newsmen the note was found at Kadlub's home after his death.

James D. Horan, assistant managing editor of the Journal-American, worked with Frasca on the interviewing and taping. Koola, for whom the newspaper played the tapes, told newsmen: "There is no indication that the killing (of Kadlub) has any relationship to these tapes."

HEAR DETECTIVE

Koola said the accused detective testified before the grand jury Tuesday after signing a waiver of immunity and then was excused, subject to recall. Koola said he hoped to call the federal narcotics agent before the grand jury today.

Police and federal narcotics officials also are investigating. Police have given this account of the death of Kadlub: Patrolman Matland Mercer, 44, on vacation, and patrolman Kelvin Mills were in a Brooklyn tavern early Saturday. The barmaid, who knows Mercer, tipped him that Kadlub, who also was at the bar, was carrying a gun and had boasted that he was a federal narcotics agent trailing a suspect. Mercer took Kadlub into an alcove to check on him. Spots rang out, and Mercer crawled toward the bar fatally wounded. Kadlub fled and Mills shot him to death.

The Journal-American said Kadlub, in addition to telling of the alleged shakedown plot, said at least 20 Brooklyn gambling establishments were operating under the eyes of police.

Two Men Convicted in $43,303 Holdup

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — William Pearson, 24, of Grand Rapids and James Marshall, 22, of Rockford, Ill., were convicted Wednesday of bank robbery in a $43,303 holdup last May 17. A jury deliberated only 33 minutes before returning a conviction to U.S. District Judge Noel P. Fox. The defendants were remanded to Kent County Jail to await sentence.

Pearson and Marshall were accused of being the shotgun-wielding bandits who invaded a suburban Wyoming branch of Union Bank & Trust Co.

People in the News

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and her daughter, Lynda Bird, last night saw the hit Broadway musical "Fiddler on the Roof." They were jostled several times in front of the Imperial Theater as the crowd and newsmen engaged in shoving matches with police and Secret Service agents.

When a reporter was pushed into the path of the President's wife, she exclaimed: "That must be awful. I'm so sorry."

In addition to a shopping tour for clothes, Mrs. Johnson and her daughter plan to see tonight the Pulitzer Prize-winning drama "The Subject Was Roses."

'Give Poorer Nations $20 Billion a Year'
Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers union in the United States, says the U.S. should spend $20 billion annually to aid underdeveloped nations.

Addressing Danish students yesterday in Copenhagen, Reuther said this would amount to only three per cent of the U.S. gross national product.

Astronaut to Get Tech Degree in Absentia
Astronaut Donald K. Slayton will receive in absentia an honorary doctor of engineering degree from Michigan Tech in Houghton on Aug. 25.

Slayton, who was scheduled to deliver the commencement address to the summer class of 1955, was forced to change his plans when the space agency moved up the date of the orbital flight of astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad. Slayton will be at the manned spacecraft center in Houston, Tex., as assistant director of flight crew operations.

MSU Books Are 'Tortuous'

EAST LANSING (AP)—Any student who wants to become an expert on crime, torture or dueling could get a good start at Michigan State University.

The university library reports it has acquired a 1,400-volume collection on these specialized subjects from the library at the Castle of Nuremberg.

The books mainly are written in Latin and German script and many have parchment bindings, said John Whitelaw, MSU special collections librarian.

Whitelaw said they are expected to be of special value to students in police administration and social science.

Included with the collection was a piece of charred cloth, reputed to have been taken from the coat of martyr John Huss who was burned at the stake.

Clock Suffers Shock, Makes Time in Reverse

AVON PARK, Fla. (AP)—The clock on the wall of the L.I. General Store on Main Street must have got quite a shock.

A customer noticed that it was running backward. Yes, said Mrs. Sara Houpe, the cashier, it had been doing that ever since an electrical storm a few days earlier.

Orientation Flights for 2 CAP Cadets

Two area Civil Air Patrol (CAP) cadets were selected as outstanding members of the Michigan Wing and were given T-33 jet orientation flights during their recent summer encampment at Selfridge Air Force Base.

Diana Calcut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Calcut, 153 Noble, Milford, and Kenneth Laird, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Klock, 122 Victory, were selected from the 100 cadets at the encampment.

Both cadets were issued personal equipment by the Air Force and briefed prior to the flight.

The two youths were chosen on the basis of understanding the CAP program, leadership ability, initiative, military courtesy, and enthusiasm.

Special activities such as the orientation flights are part of the Air Force's cooperation with the CAP to interest youths in aviation as well as prepare them to serve actively in the auxiliary unit.

ONE OF 51 Michigan's Cadet Wing Summer Encampment was one of 51 camps to be held at 32 Air Force bases throughout the U. S. this year.

During training the cadets live in barracks, eat in dining halls, and use the medical and recreational facilities the Air Force provides for its personnel.

Okinawan Casualties Few as Typhoon Passes

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — Okinawa emerged battered but with surprisingly few casualties today after Typhoon Jean passed within 50 miles of Naha during the night, triggering 100 mile-per-hour wind gusts and loading the island with 15 inches of rain.

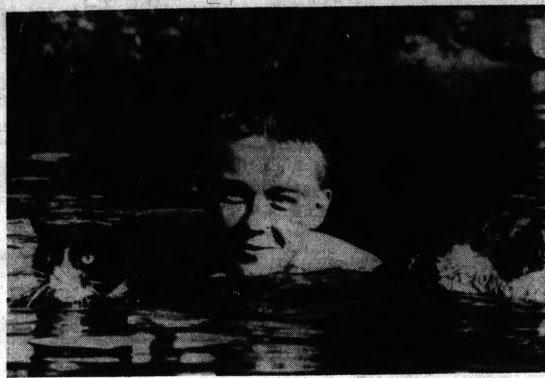

Initial police reports cited no fatalities. Damage reports, however, continued mounting, with flood conditions still existing in many low-lying villages.

Laborites Score on Legislation

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor government came to the end of its first session of Parliament today with a record of legislation astonishing to even its most zealous supporters.

With Prime Minister Harold Wilson's forces plagued by the smallest majority in this century, the House of Commons put through 65 separate measures before adjournment until Oct. 26. Some of the legislation represents minor social and economic revolutions in taxation, race relations, capital punishment and other fields.

For drama and accomplishment, the session probably will go down in the history books. Fifty-two of the successful bills were introduced by the government as part of its program, the rest by individual MPs. The total of 65 is two more than the number of bills more than the number of bills passed by the last Parliament, when the Conservatives had a majority of about 100 votes.

The opposition accused Wilson of overloading Parliament's antiquated procedures with a program better suited to a voting cushion 10 times the size of his actual nominal majority of only three votes. Wilson, anxious to make a record in office, shouldered the complaints aside.

The government's most difficult achievement — and the most wearing on the House — was the finance bill. This package of tax reforms was debated for 21 hours on 23 days. Most of the sittings lasting until long after midnight.

The Laborites lost only three times. This forced Wilson to accept a Conservative measure lowering capital gains taxes on mutual funds. Ironically, this had been suggested earlier by Labor's own economic advisers.

Other major platform pledges enacted were a new rent law, a boost in old-age pensions and a national severance pay scheme. The monopoly laws were tightened, especially on newspapers.

A permanent commission of judges and lawyers was organized to codify Britain's ancient, complicated and often conflicting laws.

Incitement to racial violence was made a crime, and racial conciliation boards were authorized.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT
The House of Commons also took the historic step of voting to abolish capital punishment for murder. The House of Lords before adjournment. Meanwhile, no murderers are being hanged.

Only a few dozen of Commons' 268 separate votes tested the House's confidence in the government and Labor won them all by majorities ranging from 2 to 20 votes.

The Laborites came into power after 13 years in the political wilderness.

Opposition within the party delayed labor's most controversial measure, rationalization of the steel industry, and may eventually kill it.

Support from the Liberal party's 10 members also helped on some bills.

Wilson still has a long way to go to complete his program. The economic squeeze probably will give him more trouble than his narrow majority. His own party is restive because of postponements of housing, education and health plans for which the country cannot pay.

17 Negotiators Agree Progress Is Needed

GENEVA — The 17-nation disarmament conference agreed unanimously today — that progress in the deadlocked negotiations is needed.

Agreement is rare in the history of the three-year-old talks. Today's was expressed by U.S. delegate William C. Foster, the chairman today on the second anniversary of the signing of the limited test ban treaty.

Speaking on behalf of all conference participants — the United States, Soviet Union, their allies and the eight nonaligned nations — Foster said:

"Two years ago today the treaty banning nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere, in outer space and underwater was signed by the representatives of the United States, the United Kingdom and the U.S.S.R. Since that time more than 100 nations have joined the original signatories.

FURTHER PROGRESS
"On the second anniversary of that achievement, we could not more urgent than ever further progress on disarmament measures."

Canada strongly rebuked the Soviet Union for its attacks on the United States and West Germany in the conference and accused the Russians of not being prepared for serious negotiations.

Denouncing the Soviet attack on American "aggression" in Viet Nam, chief Canadian delegate E. L. M. Burns said the Soviet definition of aggression "is simply any action taken by, or in aid of, legitimate governments to resist Communist-inspired attack."

He accused the Soviet Union of falsely maintaining that the "alleged warlike intentions" of West Germany are the main barrier to the signing of a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

"THREAT TO RUSSIA"
"The facts are today, it is not the armament of the Federal German Republic which does, or conceivably could, constitute a threat to the Soviet Union, but the converse," he asserted.

"The Soviet Union has 20 armored and motorized divisions, in the highest state of war-readiness, on the soil of East Germany. And it has many hundreds of medium-range and intermediate-range nuclear headed ballistic missiles in the Baltic areas and other western parts of the Soviet Union targeted on points in the Federal German Republic."

Referring to the anti-West speech delivered Tuesday by chief Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tarapkin, Burns said:

"When we listened to the Soviet delegate's speech we found nothing which would encourage us to think that he had come here prepared to negotiate seriously on either a non-dissemination treaty or extending the Moscow test ban treaty to include underground tests."

HALT SPREAD
Burns stressed the urgency of a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. But he said Canada understood the reluctance of some non-nuclear powers to adhere to such a treaty "in the absence of some positive arrangements to satisfy their legitimate need for security."

Canada is reported to have worked out details of how such security should be guaranteed. These are expected to form part of the Western draft non-dissemination treaty to be put before the conference shortly.

AMA Stand Deplored

Shun Medicare MDs Urged

CHICAGO — The 15,000 members of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons have been urged to follow a policy of complete non-participation in the administration's health care program for the elderly.

In a resolution passed by its board of directors and announced yesterday by Executive Director Harry E. Northam, the AAPS advocated total non-participation and deplored a pledge made by the American Medical Association leaders to cooperate in Medicare.

They emphasized, however that there was no intention to prevent anyone from receiving medical care, and that a policy of nonparticipation was in the best long-run interest of everyone concerned.

AAPS directors expressed "great concern and dismay" over a statement attributed to Dr. James Z. Appel, AMA president, that "we are, after all, law-abiding citizens and we have every intention of obeying the new law."

Dr. E. E. Anthony of Fort Worth, Tex., AAPS president, said the AMA statement was ridiculous because Medicare does not compel participation and therefore "there is no law to violate."

INDIVIDUAL DECISION

In June, the AMA House of Delegates said that cooperation with Medicare was the decision of "each individual physician."

The AAPS resolution said, in part:

"Although we may be forced to obey any specific legal edict, as moral and ethical individuals we cannot, in good conscience, be party to any voluntary act that violates our moral and ethical beliefs."

"The AAPS recommends a policy of nonparticipation to all physicians as the only legal, moral, and ethical means of concretely expressing their complete disapproval of the spirit and philosophy behind these amendments" (to the Social Security law which provided for Medicare).

An AMA spokesman said that his organization would have no comment on the AAPS action.

The association was formed in 1943 by doctors to oppose socialized medicine in America. The doctors are also members of the American Medical Association.

Seek to Leash Cats;

Too Many Birds Eaten

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Cats—like dogs—would have to be kept on a leash under a proposed ordinance before the City Council.

The request came from Alderman John Johnson, who said he'd been getting an increasing number of complaints about cats running loose and eating birds.

WAIT IN (COURT) WINGS—These "a go go" dancers, Doris Robins (left) and Diane Wiegner, both 22, wait in the wings of Circuit Court in Detroit yesterday to dance for the court, but Judge Benjamin D. And, without ruling on the merits of the dancing, he upheld the right of Garden City to oppose an entertainment license for a lounge where the two girls had been dancing before the city stopped their act.

Dollar Price of Gold Jumps; Pound Again Under Pressure

LONDON (AP)—The dollar price of gold jumped 1.875 cents, an ounce on the bullion exchange today to $35.19125 — the highest since November 1961.

Dealers said there was a very good demand from speculators who appeared to be gambling once again that the pound sterling will be devaluated.

Much of the demand came from European financial centers.

The official type of gold is $35 an ounce.

UNDER PRESSURE

The pound again came under pressure on the monetary exchange. At the opening of the price for immediate delivery slumped one-eighth of a cent from Wednesday night's closing $2.79 3/4 to $2.79 1/4.

A few buying orders came in then and shortly before noon the price rose 1/32 of a cent.

Dealers said the forward market in pounds being bought for future delivery — was particularly depressed with an almost complete lack of buyers. Finally the Bank of England stepped in on the buying side and the forward market improved slightly.

Financial commentators forecast further tightening of the government's economic squeeze to protect the pound.

EXPECT INCREASE

Some had expected a stiff increase in the Bank of England rates, which controls the Sterling's interest rate on credit transactions. It has stood at 6 per cent since June 3. The London Times said there were suggestions it would rocket to as high as 9 per cent.

But the Bank of England, in its regular Thursday announcement, held the rate at 6 per cent.

Federal, state and local governments own 279,000 passenger cars, 145,900 buses and 651,000 trucks.

Thailand Urges More U.S. Aid

Army Chief Warns of Communist-Threat

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The commander of the Thai army complained today that the United States is not doing enough to protect this country against the Communist threat.

Gen. Prapha Charathien said U.S. aid is urgently needed to "build up Thailand's fighting capacity" in spite with the situation that may arise.

He warned that unless the matter is dealt with soon "it may be too late."

Pragas confirmed reports that former U.S. Ambassador to Saigon Maxwell D. Taylor and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. supreme commander in South Viet Nam, paid a secret visit here last month, but he refused to reveal the purpose of their trip.

He cited reports that they discussed setting up a second front against Communism in Southeast Asia.

U.S. agents

Communist agents have been reported attempting to infiltrate northeastern Thailand in the past six months. Red China announced formation of a "Thailand Patriotic Front" on Jan. 1, and vowed it will overthrow the Bangkok government and drive the Americans out of Thailand.

American air bases at Korat, Udorn and Udon in north central and northeastern Thailand have been used for air attacks on North Viet Nam and Communist positions in Laos.

There have also been recent reports of a buildup of Communist strength along the Malay-Thai border, where about 500 survivors of the 12-year guerrilla war in Malaya are lurking in the jungle.

Supports Study on Keeping Ship Lanes Ice-Free

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Public Works Committee was urged today by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to approve a study of how to keep the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway ice-free during the winter.

He said a Senate-passed bill of which he is the author could lead to year-around shipping on the Great Lakes ports, thereby reducing unemployment and easing transportation costs.

In a letter to the committee, Proxmire said:

"In this age of science and progress, when the United States sends satellites into space and launches probes to distant planets, it is unthinkable that a thin sheet of ice should continue to stand in the way of year-around shipping of the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence Seaway."

Seek Historical Objects for Capitol Display

LANSING (AP) — Historic objects are needed for display in the State Capitol Building in Lansing, says the Michigan Historical Society.

George A. Osborn of Saint Marie, society president, announced the selection of a committee to serve as an advisory body to Gov. George Romney on a project to acquire such objects.

Roaring Cycles, Hooligans Terrorize Jersey Village

LAKE HIAMATHA, N.J. (UPP) — "O my children, day is restless, less is quiet; man imperious, woman feeble..."

So spake the moon to Hiawatha and his bride in Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's poem, "Hiawatha's Wooing."

The moon that casts its glow over this one-time resort village in northeastern New Jersey that bears Hiawatha's name today might tell a somewhat altered tale.

Man is still imperious, women remain feeble toward aggressors, and the day is restless—very restless.

The night is far from quiet. STREET PACKS

It is punctuated with the peal and roar of accelerating motorcycles and abusive jeering from street packs of raucous young adults reportedly spurred on by drug addicts.

"Women and children are afraid to walk the streets at night, and storekeepers won't stay open after dark," said Stanley Berson, a druggist and spokesman for merchants.

Berson yesterday petitioned police to deputize shopkeepers to protect themselves and frightened residents from arrogant, sometimes obscene young hooligans.

Authorities in this community of 7,000 said they were powerless to deal with alleged abusive conduct by gangs of young men and women in their 20s because the town lacks a non-littering law. It also has only one patrolman.

REFUSE TO SIGN

Residents have complicated the problem by refusing to sign complaints to back up their claims of molestation and other abuses, authorities said.

Berson said he has asked the town council to pass an urgent ordinance prohibiting loitering and vagrancy.

The council will consider such a law at its next meeting. It shelved a proposed anti-loitering ordinance last year following strong protests from high school students and their parents. The students claimed it would have imposed curfew on the innocent.

Berson said the town, once a popular resort spot for residents of neighboring New York, has had a rash of crimes since the ordinance was tabled.

ROARS OFF

As Berson spoke, a motorcyclist screamed to a halt in front of his home, roared on the accelerator and roared off into the night.

"See, that's what I mean," Berson said. "Only that's the least of our worries."

He said the gangs, numbering as many as 32 members, crowd sidewalks outside stores and homes and hurl obscene remarks at passersby.

Mayor Francis X. Downey said he had seen about 22 young men and women gathered on a street corner earlier this week. He said two of the men had been picked up in a drug raid last week and were out on bail.

DRUG ADDICTS

The situation is "intolerable," Berson said. "Known drug addicts, looked upon as heroes because of their complete disregard for the law and police, are the instigators."

"We know they're led by drug addicts and we know they're making it hard on the residents," Police Capt. Arthur Dray said. "But we can't pick them up unless we catch them using drugs."

Berson also lamented the fact Lake Hiawatha has only one foot patrolman. "When the patrolman sees gangs on the sidewalk, he just crosses the street," Berson charged.

The patrolman on duty last night smiled when told of Berson's comment. "Take a look," he said. "Do you see any gangs that I'm hiding from?"

FEW SHOPPERS

The town was near-empty with only a few shoppers strolling along North Beverwyck Road, the main thoroughfare.

"Yes, it's quiet tonight," said Lucien Skupienski, owner of Shir-Lou's, a teen-age hangout. "But you should see the street on other nights."

Skupienski said troublemakers from surrounding communities use the area as a gathering spot. He recalled that several members of a gang had walked into his luncheonette and asked for donations to bail out one of their companions arrested on charges of using narcotics.

Yank in Killing

Quizzed in Viet

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Robert Kimball, U.S. police adviser held for the fatal shooting of his American boss and a Vietnamese woman, underwent a preliminary hearing today behind closed doors.

A Vietnamese judge interrogated Kimball, who is expected to be formally charged with homicide and tried in a Vietnamese court.

Kimball, 37, has confessed shooting Jack E. Ryan, chief of the U.S. aid mission's public safety division, and Nguyen Thi Hai in a "crime of passion" at Ryan's home July 23, police said.

The U.S. government has agreed to waive immunity in the case.

Kimball appeared in court today with a Vietnamese attorney and an American military lawyer assigned by the U.S. Embassy.

About two out of every three new cars are purchased on credit.

Supervisors' Clerk Handles Job With a Smile

By BETTY CRAWFORD
"Clerk of Supervisors' Committee" is a title that barely hints at the work done by its holder Anton J. Guyer.

One would never guess he had such a myriad of duties from his calm disposition and ready smile. But his desk tells otherwise.

In addition to taking minutes of the various committee meetings, he is chief liaison officer and coordinator for the Oakland County Board of Supervisors.

The board has 25 standing committees which hold about 240 meetings a year, and three special committees. Guyer is responsible for taking the proceedings and putting them into record form. He then mails copies to committee members as well as to other committees and departments involved.

SETS MEETINGS
Guyer also schedules meetings requested by the various committee chairmen and informs members of the board of supervisors of these meetings and purpose in event a member wants to attend.

His office does research work, collecting background and statistical information for the committees.

The office also helps committees formulate resolutions to be presented to the entire board.

Preparing the agenda for board meetings is still another job for Guyer.

MAINTAINS LIAISON
With the assistance of Mrs. Reta Erickson, assistant clerk, and Joan Bruner, secretary, Guyer maintains a liaison for various county departments and local units of government.

His office provides information on the day-to-day operations of county government for these units or, steers them to the right source, if it doesn't have the requested information.

Guyer and his staff keep an eye on Lansing, for legislation that may be of interest to the county.

Public relations work is attached to the job as well. Guyer keeps news media informed on meetings and helps political parties and civic groups obtain information.

Detroiters Escape Death in Avon Train-Car Crash

Three persons escaped death yesterday when the car in which they were riding was struck by a 70-car New York Central freight train.

Eugene Kondash, 23, of Detroit is in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

The driver, Lydia J. McKrell, 51, and another passenger, Jeanette Smith, 42, both of Detroit, were treated at the hospital and released.

The accident occurred shortly after noon at the railroad crossing on Tienken near Livernois in Avon Township.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies said the westbound car was struck in the right rear by the southbound train. The driver told deputies she was lost and didn't see the train or any warning device prior to the accident.

Lawsuit Is Filed to Block Bank's Waterford Branch

A lawsuit to prevent the Pontiac State Bank from building a branch office in Waterford Township was filed yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court.

The action was started by Thomas H. Wagner, president and chairman of the board of the Birmingham - Bloomfield Bank, 250 Martin, Birmingham.

The codefendant in the case is the state banking commissioner, Charles D. Slay.

The suit contends that Slay approved a Pontiac State Bank application to establish a branch at denying a request of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank to build in the same vicinity.

The location is in the area of M59, Cass Lake and Elizabeth Lake roads.

ORDER SIGNED

Judge James S. Thorburn signed an order temporarily prohibiting Pontiac State Bank from starting construction pending the outcome of the case.

He also ordered the banking commissioner to appear before him Aug. 16 to explain why he did not permit the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank to operate in that location, as well as in another area for which it applied.

Wagner contends that the commissioner refused the bank authorization to build another branch in the vicinity of Hospital and Cooley Lake roads in Waterford Township.

No other bank, however, has received approval to operate in this area.

VIOLATION

In turning down both applications, Slay gave no reasons for his actions and thereby is in violation of the Michigan Banking Department regulations, the suit contends.

Wagner said that Slay also violated the banking rules by not announcing his decisions until more than 60 days after the applications had been filed.

The regulation states that the commissioner will approve or disapprove of the application within 60 days of receiving it, according to Wagner.

The suit alleges that Pontiac State Bank did not file its application until six days after the proper documents were submitted by the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank.

APPLICATION FILED

The Birmingham - headquartered bank claims its application was filed April 14, while Pontiac State Bank did not submit its application until April 20.

Wagner said he was informed of the two rejections on July 27, the same day Slay approved the application of Pontiac State Bank.

Public Appeal for Missing Bulgarian Girl

DETROIT (AP)—Immigration authorities and relatives appealed publicly Wednesday to a missing 19-year-old Bulgarian girl to make her whereabouts known so as to avoid visa complications.

Pretty Nevenka Tchobanova, brown-eyed brunette, is a visitor from Sofia on a three-month visa that expired Sunday night. She disappeared Sunday just before she was to start her return trip to Bulgaria.

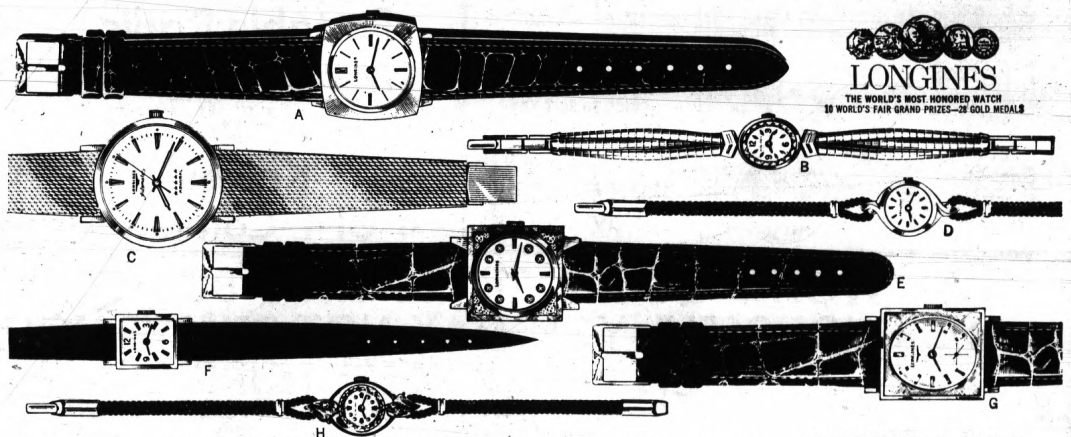

Police said there was no evidence of foul play and expressed belief Miss Tchobanova just did not want to leave the United States. She had stayed with relatives in suburban Warren.

Walter A. Sahli, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, promised help to Nevenka provided she shows up.

Lake Erie Basin Pollution Called a Real Threat to Aquatic Life

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Pollution in the Lake Erie basin has increased to the point where there is a real threat to many forms of aquatic life, a government official said here Wednesday.

Fred Wampler, regional coordinator of the Ohio River-Appalachian Area, U.S. Department of the Interior, made the statement in a report to a federal conference on pollution in Lake Erie and its tributaries.

"Natural habitats of lake and stream dwelling animals have been seriously depleted — some to the point of irreparable damage," Wampler said in presenting a report of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife. "Early surveys of water quality of Lake Erie serve to document the decrease in desirable fish species and aquatic insects which has come about as a result of polluted water and environmental conditions."

DESIRABLE INSECTS

Wampler said bottom muds, once the environment for desirable insects, have been so degraded that only pollution-tolerant organisms now survive. He added that fish habitats have become so degraded in some areas they are almost devoid of desirable species.

"Many tributaries, once used as spawning areas by muskellunge, bass, trout and sturgeon, are now unusable for this purpose," Wampler said. "Fishing near the mouths of polluted tributaries has similarly decreased."

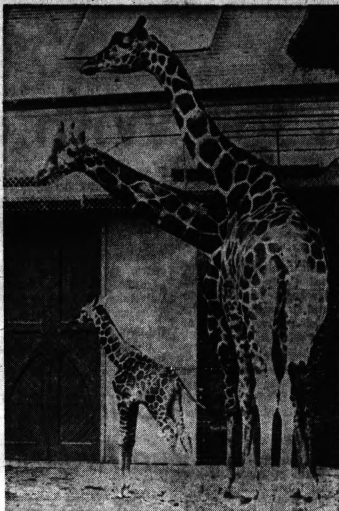

The conference, called by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare at the request of Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, opened Tuesday and is expected to end today.

Conferees include representatives of the federal government and the water pollution control agencies of Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

MAJOR FACTOR

Ernest Premetz of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, Ann Arbor, Mich., said evidence is accumulating that pollution may be a major factor in limiting the production of fish in fresh and estuarine waters. He added that pesticide pollution may even be influencing fish populations in the open ocean.

Premetz said, "We're not going back to the good old days with respect to water pollution problems no matter what we do here, but we can make great improvements by following the recommendations coming out of this conference."

Red Curbs on Berlin Barges Not Likely

By JOSEPH FLEMING
United Press International
BERLIN (UPI)—The Western allies are watching carefully for further Communist interference with Berlin barge traffic.

They do not think the isolated city faces an East German campaign to harass supply links to the West.

But it always pays to be a bit wary here when anything happens on the city's lifeline. It might not mean anything but you never can be sure.

The East Germans off and on have been halting barge traffic to and from Berlin, at times for as long as 10 hours at a stretch. They gave as a reason military maneuvers.

Amphibious maneuvers have been taking place and there is nothing unusual in this. The Russians and East bloc forces place great emphasis on river-crossing exercises because of the difficulty experienced by the Russians in World War II getting across rivers.

NOT UNUSUAL

Nor is it unusual for such maneuvers to interfere with Berlin barge traffic. Both in 1962 and 1961 the city's barge traffic was interrupted by maneuvers.

But the recent interruptions came on the heels of East German repudiation of barge permits issued under a Western allied-Soviet occupation agreement.

On July 1 the East Germans began to issue their own permits for barges traveling to and from Berlin and no longer accepted the old occupation permits.

This in a sense represented an East German claim to control the traffic and a rejection of any Western allied say in the

SE Wages, Salaries Come to $53.6 Billion

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Wages and salaries paid to workers in southeastern states amounted to $53.6 billion in 1964 or 67 per cent of total personal income.

The U.S. Department of Commerce reported the rest of the total $79.8 billion in personal income came from proprietors' income, property income, transfer payments and other labor income.

Excise taxes on telephone service amount to more than $1 billion a year — an average of $10 annually on each of the nation's approximately 55 million phones.

large traffic that brings in one-third of West Berlin's supplies.

DEMONSTRATION

Some, taking the two actions together, considered the interruption of barge traffic a demonstration of East Germany's power to harass the city's lifelines.

They reasoned that the Communists could halt traffic at any time under the pretext of maneuvers.

The city would be in a pretty fix indeed if the Communists used such a tactic.

But the Western allies were confident that the East Germans had nothing up their sleeve and the city faced no immediate threat.

KEY WORD

"Immediate" was the key word. It would be foolish to predict Berlin would stay quiet for long.

The confidence that the city faces no immediate threat was based on the belief that the Russians do not want another Berlin crisis now.

And the possibility was ruled out that the East Germans, no matter how much they dislike the Western outpost, would take any extreme action without Russian approval.

Little Hope for Decisive U.N. Action in Viet Nam

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Despite talk about possible U.N. action on Viet Nam, it is hard to find a U.N. diplomat who believes that the organization can play a decisive role.

Some feel Secretary General U Thant might be useful as a go-between in arranging peace negotiations, but there is little support for the idea that the Security Council could intervene effectively.

The secretary general himself has said that Viet Nam was a cold war conflict and that it was impractical to believe that the United Nations could overawe a nuclear power.

In fact, the big-power veto guarantees that the council cannot adopt any decision unless it has U.S. and Soviet approval. No one expects the Kremlin to act against the wishes of Red China and North Viet Nam.

That is one reason no one has thought it worthwhile to request Security Council action.

During recent weeks President Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg have stressed the possibility of a U.N. role. There has been no U.N. request for a Security Council meeting on the subject.

Some Asian and African delegates are skeptical of U.S. interest in involving the United Nations in Viet Nam. They recall that a few months ago Johnson sent word through the late Adlai E. Stevenson that he was annoyed by a peace initiative Thant took.

U.S. officials have been saying recently that Peking and Hanoi have rebuffed the secretary general's overtures. One Asian diplomat noted this and asked: Does the President now want to have Security Council members take an initiative simply in order to say that the council was cold-shouldered or that it failed to find a solution? This diplomat, speaking with the understanding he would not be identified, said some delegates are cautious because they fear they may be used in what U.S. officials refer to as a "peace offensive."

There was some surprise at U.N. headquarters when Rusk told newsmen that consultations on Viet Nam were taking place here. Both U.N. officials and U.S. delegation members insisted that no talks of any consequence were in progress, although there had been informal corridor discussions.

Here is the way some U.N. diplomats size up the situation: The secretary general is trying to establish contacts which might lead to negotiations.

Any action by the Security Council would necessarily be limited to a general appeal for a cease-fire, the creation of a good offices committee or a call for negotiations. There is no chance the council would condemn the Communists or send a U.N. peace-keeping force into Viet Nam.

Neither Red China or North Viet Nam is a member of the United Nations. Both have repeatedly rejected approaches by the secretary general, and the Hanoi regime as recently as Tuesday ruled out any U.N. intervention.

5 Slain With Ax in Quebec Village

LAC MEGANTIC, Que. (AP)

A woman and her four children were slain with an ax early today at their home in the village of La Gueuloupe, 130 miles east of Montreal, police said.

Police at Lac Megantic, 30 miles south of the village, said they got a telephone call at 12:50 a.m. telling them to visit the home of Mrs. Paul-Emile Roy.

In the house, the police reported, they found the bodies of Mrs. Roy, her daughter, France, 6, and her three sons, Gaston, 13, Claude, 12, and Mario, 9.

Police said a man is being held at Lac Megantic in connection with the slaying.

Him Puts Official Mark In 'Gooley' Cement

Oh . . . He Does?

Who Owns Those Dogs?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are some confused concrete workers at the White House today.

Why, they wondered, were dogs turned loose to pad around their freshly finished concrete slab in front of the White House's west wing offices?

Here's the story:

For some weeks, there has been a construction project in the White House west driveway involving the installation of an underground telephone switching center. Yesterday, a slab of fresh concrete was poured and smoothed.

Late in the day, President Johnson walked outside to take a look at the work. A photographer suggested raffishly, "Why don't you get the beagle and have him put his paw prints in the concrete like they do in Hollywood?"

HAPPY TO SERVE

Happy to oblige, the President had the dogs brought out. First, he took the beagle, "Him," and firmly implanted both the dog's front feet in the concrete.

The effort was not entirely successful. In the first place, Him has small paws but more importantly, the concrete had pretty well hardened.

The President tried in several places, leaving a somewhat mottled effect in the nearly dry cement.

Then he took "Blanco," the White House collie, and tried again. Blanco made a somewhat more visible impression. The President seemed happier.

LBJ IMPRESSED

However, Johnson was much more impressed by the polished camera posture of the beagle.

"If that's not a performance," the President exclaimed as Him looked brightly at the concrete, "He deserves a medal."

Fortas to Go Before Senate Judiciary Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abe Fortas, President Johnson's lawyer friend, goes before the Senate Judiciary Committee today amid signs his appointment to the Supreme Court will get swift approval.

Johnson named Fortas on July 28 to fill the vacancy created by the selection of Justice Arthur J. Goldberg to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. Two days earlier, the White House had quoted Fortas as saying he didn't want any government job.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who expressed opposition to the choice of Fortas at the time, told a reporter he plans no fight against the nomination.

"I will vote against his confirmation because I think the President could have made a much better choice for the highest court," Williams said. "But I am not organizing any opposition to him. In fact, I haven't talked to other senators about it."

NO REQUESTS

Williams said he had not asked to question Fortas at the committee hearing. Committee aides said they had no requests for any other witnesses than Fortas.

There has been some mumbling among senators about the President's selection of a nominee who at 56 has had lengthy legal, but no judicial, experience. But none of this was expected to develop significant opposition.

Fight Against Frauds

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley was to be in Kalamazoo today for the first of a series of meetings to organize a fight against frauds against consumers. Kelley will hold similar meetings later this month at Grand Rapids, Jackson, Albion, Bay City and Lansing.

Top Criminal Arrested by FBI

Accidentally Set Free on West Coast in '64

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — FBI agents arrested Robert A. Woodford, 26, one of the agency's 10 most wanted criminals, early today in a downtown hotel room.

"He was armed with a .22 revolver but had no chance to use it," said J. E. Milnes, in charge of the FBI in Seattle.

Woodford had been sought since he was inadvertently released from custody in San Francisco on Dec. 14, 1964, after the withdrawal of a federal indictment for the $1,222 robbery of the main branch of the First National Bank of San Jose, California, Jan. 16, 1964.

Milnes quoted Woodford, who was born in Warrenton, Ore., as saying when he was captured this morning: "I'm glad it's over."

SET FREE

After withdrawal of the federal indictment for the bank robbery in San Jose, Woodford was accidentally set free instead of being returned to a California state prison, the FBI said.

Three days later a federal warrant was issued charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid confinement for a robbery conviction.

The FBI said Woodford's arrest record includes convictions for armed robbery, assault and burglary. In his hotel room, the FBI said it found an advertisement for a correspondence course on how to be a crime fighter.

Woodford was to be arraigned today before the U.S. commissioner in Seattle.

Survey in Pakistan Backfires on U.S.

PESHAWAR, Pakistan (AP) — America's obsession with learning whether people like it has kicked back in Pakistan.

U.S. Information Service officials wanted to find out where America and its leaders fit into the Pakistani scheme of likes and dislikes.

They scheduled a public opinion poll during an unprecedented wave of officially supported anti-Americanism. Pakistani leaders were hurling insults at America and cooing at Communist China.

The poll takers were to go into the countryside and ask people how they felt about the United States and China, and "which political leader do you like best?"

President Mohammed Ayub Khan's government had been telling the people the answers to these questions for months and clearly didn't want any outsiders checking whether the unofficial answers were the same as the official line.

POLL CANCELED

The poll, now canceled, was attacked in the government-controlled press amid indications that restrictions on USIS activities may be pending.

USIS is being publicly accused of spying for the Central Intelligence Agency, meddling in Pakistan's internal affairs and trying to separate the nation from Ayub's government.

It has been announced that the Pakistani research firm hired to conduct the poll is being investigated.

Thus unleashed, anti-American agitators are having a field day with jokes and cartoons depicting Uncle Sam as a dodderer anxiously searching for someone to love him.

AMBASSADOR RIDICULED

U.S. Ambassador Walter P. McCaughy was ridiculed in a cartoon showing him ringing a bell and holding a sign reading "do you like American dollars?"

Here in Peshawar in northwest Pakistan mass rallies are being held to elicit pledges from those Pakistanis who can read that they no longer will read USIS materials.

The background is Washington's announcement last month that it was postponing new aid commitments in Pakistan and in the meantime would like to discuss several matters.

There was no attempt to disguise Washington's feelings that Pakistan, which has received more than $5.1 billion in aid since 1951, was expected to explain its increasingly close ties with Communist China and the Soviet Union.

PUBLIC OPINION

The aid postponement sent off anti-American flames that were fed by the public opinion poll.

One cartoon showed Uncle Sam hitting Pakistan on the head with a club labeled "aid" and then asking "excuse me but how do you feel about me?"

Only a fifth of Pakistan's 110 million people are literate enough to read editorials titled "USIS a Gang of Spies" or "Insolent USIS."

Junior Editors Quiz on TALKING BIRDS

QUESTION: Why is it that parrots and parakeets can talk?

ANSWER: Dictionaries give several definitions of the verb "talk." One is to express ideas through speech. Our picture shows that a parrot does not express ideas—in other words, he doesn't know what he is talking about.

But another dictionary definition of talk is to make sounds suggesting speech. Defined this way, the parrot in our picture is talking. He talks because he possesses the ability of imitating sounds he hears.

Like many birds, a parrot is noisy, and seems to enjoy making many sounds. He has a differently shaped bill from those of other birds, and inside it, a differently shaped tongue, thick and fleshy.

The large bill is used to crack nuts and the large tongue to manipulate cracked nuts inside the mouth. This means that the tongue has become very movable, so that a parrot can manipulate sounds as he makes them.

He can create many varieties of sound in this way. To get parrots to talk well, it is necessary to train them. The trainer covers the cage and pronounces the words he wants the parrot to learn a number of times, pronouncing them in exactly the same way each time.

FOR YOU TO DO: Copy the toy parrot in lower left on white paper, making it about five inches tall. Color according to picture. Cut out, tape weight to tail. Now Polly will sit on your finger, which fits in the opening. If you're a ventriloquist, Polly will talk.

Richest County? News to Residents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If riches rubbed off, the U.S. Census Bureau would have a sure-fire formula for affluence.

First, buy a plush resort in mountainous Hinsdale County, Colo., 200 miles southwest of Denver.

Then, plan to commute from a home in executive-laden Stamford, Conn., 35 minutes from New York.

But by all means stay out of Tunica County, Miss., or Laredo, Tex., while you're en route.

According to the Census Bureau, Hinsdale County, Stamford are the richest places in the United States on the basis of per capita and median family income figures.

POOREST AREAS

Tunica County, a largely Negro cotton-growing area 30 miles south of Memphis, and Laredo, a centuries-old city across the Rio Grande from Mexico, are the poorest.

But what makes an area rich or poor?

Take Hinsdale County. When told that the Census Bureau ranked the county No. 1 with a $3,541 per capita income in 1959 ($14,164 for a four-person family), Mrs. Max Hersinger, wife of the sheriff in Lake City, the county seat and only town, said: "That's news to me. I thought it was about the poorest."

200 RESIDENTS

She said the county, which covers 1,057 square miles, only has about 200 residents, and Lake City (pop. 106) "closes down in the winter." Most of the land (78.6 per cent) is national forest.

But it has a number of obviously valuable assets — the scenic grandeur of Mt. Uncampagne, highest peak in Colorado, and crystal clear San Cristobal Lake.

Known for its hunting and fishing, the county has a number of plush resorts, mostly owned by Texans, Mrs. Hersinger said.

"We don't have any water or sewer systems yet," she added, "but we're trying to get one through."

ORDINARY CITY

To baseball star-turned-executive Jackie Robinson, his home town of Stamford is "just an ordinary city."

It's not so ordinary as all that.

Stamford is the home also of musician Benny Goodman and publisher William F. Buckley Jr. plus a good many of some of the nation's highest paid executives. The Census Bureau lists the per capita income as $3,785 (a whopping $15,140 for a four-person family).

Goodman, Buckley, Robinson and the executives probably all do considerably better than that. But what helps keep the income average up is that the rest of Stamford's 102,000 residents are largely employed in services and industries requiring a certain degree of skill.

STAMFORD'S INDUSTRIES

Stamford's industries, for example, include a nationally known postage meter company, the world's largest x-ray tube manufacturer and a number of boat yards.

At the other end of the economic spectrum, Tunica County is made up mainly of large plantations with sharecroppers working the land.

There are only two industries in the county — a bedding factory which employs 120 women and 20 men and cottonseed oil and meal mill employing 50 to 75 Negroes. The per capita income is $570 a year and the median family income for a family of four is listed as $1,260.

Some citizens, while not denying the Census Bureau figures outright, claim there are 19 millionaires in the county.

NO NEEDY FAMILIES

They also say the Rotary Club was unable to find a single needy family to give a food basket to last Christmas and that bank deposits are $1 million ahead of last year's figure.

And, they add, their farm land is worth $500 per acre and yields 2 bales of cotton per acre.

But another side of the picture is given by figures which show that of the county's population of 16,828, 48.3 per cent are 18 or under and 8.8 per cent are over 65.

According to county judge, Jack T. Lowe, this is because many of the younger people have left the county to take jobs in cities and found they have not been able to support their children. As a result, they send them home for grandparents to raise.

AGRICULTURAL COUNTY

"This is just an agricultural county," says Lowe, adding that recent droughts have hurt income. "A lot of our farm labor has gone and left mostly older people and Negroes on the farms."

The lack of skilled labor means there is little chance for improvement of the situation through location of industry, he says. He adds that merchants extend credit readily and "I've never seen a person go hungry."

Laredo, an 80 per cent Mexican-American community of 64,791 which has left unchanged the narrow streets first laid out by Spanish colonizers in the 1700s, has a per capita income of $937. This adds up to $2,852 for a family of four.

The main industries are the Laredo Air Force Base and the tourist trade, which gets most of its income from guests at motels and sales of souvenirs to people who cross the border to visit Mexico.

CHEAP LABOR

The plentiful supply of cheap labor leaves little outlook for improvement in income. Mexican-American laborers frequently work 12 hours a day for a wage of about 50 cents an hour.

City officials do not have much comment on their community's economic situation, except to contend their own figures show they are not the poorest community in either the state or the nation.

How to Protect Yourself—10

Weapons Not Required for Certain Facets of Self-Defense

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the 10th article in a 12-part series from the new book "How to Protect Yourself on the Streets and in Your Home" by Gene Accas and John H. Eckstein.)

By GENE ACCAS and JOHN H. ECKSTEIN

Here are some methods of self-defense which don't require the use of weapons.

First, learn about your own body and its powers. Learn about the vulnerable points that everyone has, and how to use your knowledge for self-protection.

Now about the knuckle dig. Make a fist, raising the knuckle of your middle finger, with fingers still closed, so that your fist has a "projection."

In case of annoyance, dig that protruding knuckle vigorously into the back of the annoyer's hand and work it back and forth. The tendons on the back of the hand are very tender.

In the one-finger hold, grab the little or "pinkie" finger of your assailant and bend it, backward or out. Don't be gentle, be tough.

The leverage you have with your whole hand and strength working on just one little finger can dislocate or even break it.

Here's how to break out of a hand-hold. If you are grasped, around the wrist or forearm, use this simple leverage-and-weakness combination to break out.

First, press your hand or arm downward, thus causing the molester's hand to follow. Then quickly raise your arm upward, twisting against his thumb, and outward at the same time.

GAIN FREEDOM

The relative weakness of the single finger (the thumb) still holding on to your arm-grip wrist will enable you to break free.

In the hand spear, open your hand flat and make it as stiff as possible. Tuck the thumb flat along the top of the hand and lock the wrist.

Use as a spear by making the ends of your fingers the "point." Use straight and stiff, putting all your power from the thrust.

If you have to protect yourself with your "hand spear" — jab it hard into the attacker's solar plexus ("bread basket"), or jab it into the throat, or on the sides of the windpipe.

HAND AXE

In the hand axe, form your hand into a self-protective device. But instead of thrusting it straight forward (so that the tips of the fingers are the "cutting edge"), use the outside edge of the palm.

Hack with this at the throat, or at the side of the neck, midway between the angle of the jawbone and the shoulder.

With the finger (or thumb) dagger, use your index finger or your thumb to poke or jab at the eyes of your assailant. Gouge, then twist and turn your finger, and don't be tender.

GO FOR EYES

You can also use a finger effectively at the hollow of the throat, between the tips of the collar bones. This spot is unprotected, and a sharp blow and grinding pressure will produce gagging and sharp pain.

IN THE CLAW

In the claw, the phrase, "I'll scratch your eyes out," can be applied.

Used determinedly, and directed to the very vulnerable eyes of an assailant, the scratching, clawing, raking of fingernails, concentrated on the eyes, with the attack mounted ferociously, can be a powerful defense.

Also, when clawing, remember that gouging the eyes with your thumb adds to your offense and your attacker's pain and incapacity.

Remember: this defense must be a "wild animal counter-attack" by you; the clawing and gouging must be without restraint.

IDEAL FOR BLOW

The bony hardness of the elbow is ideal for a sharp blow to a vulnerable pain point. If you are in the right position, hit backward hard into the "bread basket" or into the kidneys (just above waist level in the back).

Bend your hand back at a right angle to your wrist. The heel of the hand, thus formed, can be used devastatingly.

Hit upward, putting all the power of your arm and shoulder into the movement. The spot where you will cause the most pain and damage is the base of the nose.

This blow, properly delivered, can break the nose or rip it badly, and cause severe pain and copious bleeding.

UNDER THE JAW

Another place less likely to cause as much damage is just under the jaw. But, don't just push — hit.

The French have a whole art of self-defense called Savate, which employs only kicking. The feet and legs are actually more powerful than the arms.

Here are some ways to kick:

KICK UPWARD

A hard blow, such as a knee kick upward, can literally incapacitate a man. Remember, though, kick your knee upward fast and hard, and don't hold back.

Use the side of your shoe, and kick forward or backward as your position requires; first, kick at the shin and then, keeping your shoe in contact with the shin, scrape downward along the shinbone — not with a feather touch, but harshly!

With the toe of your shoe or the heel, kick at the kneecap, and keep on kicking. You can break this piece of bone and thus immobilize your assailant.

A woman's high heel (even a "wedge"), or a man's shoe heel, for that matter, can be used most effectively in defense. The trick is in choosing the place to use that heel.

BEST TARGET

The best target is the arch, or top of the instep of an assailant. Like the back of the hand, the small bones and tendons in this area are very sensitive to pain and virtually unprotected.

So, if you have to, come down on the criminal's arch with the back edge of your heel, put all your weight on that point and, with all your force, press down, grind and twist the heel into the vulnerable spot.

Keep your heel in constant contact with that spot and grind...

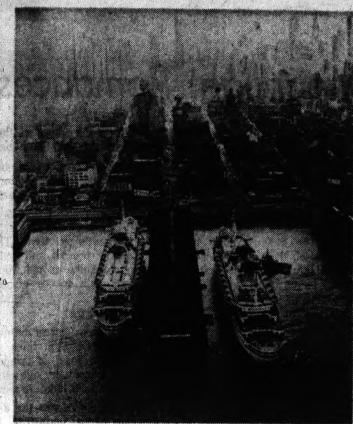

Do not tap your heel into the spot; do not stamp the heel lightly. The important thing is to concentrate all your weight and force on one spot and to keep up the pressure and the grinding motion simultaneously.

Increase Reported in Syphilis Last Year

ATLANTA (AP) — Michigan reported 622 cases of syphilis during 1964, or 7.7 cases per 100,000 population, the U.S. Communicable Disease Center reported Wednesday.

Nationwide, the number of cases reported was 22,969—more than a threefold increase since 1956 and the highest total since 1950, the center said.

American consumers spent 18.5 per cent of their take-home pay for food in 1964.

Road to a Better World Man's Challenge: Sarnoff

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. David Sarnoff sat in his gadget-operated office and stared into the 21st century.

He saw: Homes run by fingertouch, with 20 years of light, heat, cooling power buried in a suitcase-sized battery in the basement.

TWO HOUR DAY

Man working only two hours a day; living past the biblical three score 10 toward the five-score mark, in happier health with electronic replacements for worn-out hearts, lungs or kidneys; doctors programming their patients' symptoms into computers and collecting within seconds the latest medical knowledge from all over the world.

"All these things are possible by 2,000 A.D. from the development of scientific discoveries already made," says Sarnoff, 74, chairman of the board of the Radio Corp. of America. "Whatever the mind of man visualizes, the genius of modern science can turn into fact."

"What a world this will be, if mankind's hearts can pace their minds!"

Many of today's miracles — radio, television, electronics, radar, space shots, satellite television, machines that store giant masses of information and solve intricate equations with demonic speed — were translated into being by this dynamic dreamer-droid, born the first son of a poor Russian trader about the same year man discovered the secret of the electron which, harnessed by the mind of man, is the keystone of many of today's scientific marvels.

FATHER OF RADIO

Sarnoff, known as the "father of radio," has been called the "positive charge of kinetic energy" that put the electron to work.

Neither an inventor nor a scientist, Sarnoff is a catalyst, a man who has made many prophecies, then forged and managed the business and research which made them come true.

In 1915, when the wireless was still a "contraption," he foresaw music boxes in every home. In 1921, shortly after RCA was formed and he became its commercial manager, he talked his bosses into risking $2,000 to develop a "music box."

Today, 228 million radios are in use in homes, automobiles, coat pockets, under the sea and in space.

SAW TELEVISION

In 1923 he said, "Television will come to pass in due time." Sixteen years and $20 million later, he — then president of RCA — unveiled the first television at the World's Fair in New York.

Today, 67 million television sets are in use.

Today, he watches yet another prophecy come true. Color television has caught on, after $130 million in research and a 10-year wait before color's account could be written in uncolored ink.

By the end of the year, five million color sets will be in use. Demand is outracing industry's ability to produce color picture tubes.

EASY TO TAKE

This obviously pleases the courtly, stately Sarnoff. But Sarnoff also worries about the future.

"To put it bluntly," he warns, "either all men learn to live and work together, or all men perish together. Science awaits man's commands — commands that can lead to utter destruction or turn all the world toward greater civilization."

Yet his tough faith in mankind gives him an up-beat look toward tomorrow.

"Every discovery reveals more clearly the divine design in nature, remarkable harmony in all things, from the infinitesimal to the infinite. Physical processes and laws are logical, all-embracing, wholly dependable. They imply a Supreme Architect."

He ponders whether the imperfection of man may not be a part of that "creative sympathy."

"The great challenge to man is to survive — to learn to harness those new powers for useful, beneficent purposes, or we shall find ourselves victims of our own progress, trapped by our own genius."

He views communication satellites as forces for peace. "No barriers of time, distance or ideology can long withstand the mounting flow of information. The more man knows of man, the greater will be the desire to live and progress in mutual understanding."

Still, he warns, "the machine has neither mind or soul nor sense of moral values. Science alone does not create brotherhood of man. The mortar of brotherhood must come from the heart, not the lab."

"More than ever, man's soul is involved in the equations of our lives."

If he had his life to live over, he'd like to be born today. "The best is yet to be."

New Mexico Is Land of Tumbleweeds, Indians, Silence and Moonlight Romances

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Out in New Mexico and the great Southwest are mesas and sky, shattering beauty and silence. And also Indians who drive sport cars and live in pueblos in sight of Los Alamos. Here, in the first of a series, is a visit to one of America's natural beauty spots.

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

SANTA FE, N.M. — Some run-it-up-the-flag types from Madison Avenue reviewed New Mexico's tourist advertising a while ago and said maybe not enough people were saluting because all the state ever advertised were its scenery and Indians.

"Well," said a New Mexican who had spent much of his 71 years looking at scenery and Indians, "What else have we got?"

Not much water. "We have some bullfrogs," said another elderly New Mexican "who are five years old and still don't know how to swim."

Not too much industry — factory smoke is about as rare as Indian smoke signals. (Indians, today, are in the phone book.)

But New Mexico has one of the loveliest holes in the ground

SPACE AGE

New Mexico also has the space age. They assemble atomic warheads in Albuquerque and reportedly hide them away in caves in the Sandia Mountains near town much as Indian cliff dwellers used to store themselves in canyon walls back when they were the only New Mexicans and all they had to worry about was pulling the ladder up after them.

Coming to New Mexico from the swollen geometry of Chicago, say, or New York — the car-crammed cloverleaves and the boxed rows of the suburbs — is like leaving the hurly-burly of the plaza and entering the cool canyon of a church.

For New Mexico is a cathedral of nature, fashioned by wind, rain, river — and a hand that had ages of time and as much as much sky as there is.

It is a land of stark, ancient stone, of mesa and mountain, and the eye can follow a railroad track stretching off to the horizon. And beneath the huge dome of its sky there is something that is almost churchlike: silence. New Mexico is so quiet you can actually hear it.

TUMBLEWEED

Hear the scratching of the wind scurries it across the brown, rocky earth of the mission graveyard at Acoma; the creak of a door as it swings back and forth in the crumbling stillness of a ghost town; the deep, almost imperceptible gushing of the Rio Grande, still heavy with drink from the mountain snows, as it begins its long journey across the parched scrubland to the distant sea; the absolute stillness of a mission church when you can hear the crisp burning of a paper as a Franciscan monk pauses to inhale his cigarette.

These are sounds the supermarket society has not yet defensed in a land still lit more by sun and stars than neon.

Walk off cross-country and after a while you wonder whether you are the first person to stand there in 100 years — or since yesterday. There's no way of telling.

You can hear New Mexico. You can see it. And you can meet it. Its history, its culture, its atmosphere.

Scenery Stretches For Miles In New Mexico

First came the Indian (there are about 100,000 now, probably more than there ever have been). Then, in the early 16th century, back when Plymouth Rock was nothing more than a stone at the water's edge, came the Spanish. Finally in 1846, unbidden, came the U.S. Army and declared, again unbidden, that New Mexico was now a part of the United States.

That was that. The Indian went on reservations (eventually) or stayed in the same pueblos that had been recognized as his property by the Spanish kings.

The Spanish became hyphenized Americans and both wondered what the Anglo, as the American is known in New Mexico, would do next. He brought railroads, cattle in droves, Yankee efficiency that sometimes jarred the manana atmosphere of the Spanish, dug for coal, oil, potash, uranium, blew up the world's first atom bomb.

The resulting cultural layer cake, set in the dimension of the state's open spaces, presents a variety of history and atmosphere almost unique in America. You can stand among the box-like pueblos at Taos and suddenly the calendar, any calendar, is out of joint.

TOURIST ATTRACTION
Fray Angelico Chavez, a Franciscan historian who, in his cowl and cap and black habit, looks as if he might have marched north into New Mex-

The tribes still have their dances where moccasins-clap feet tramp on the hard, ancient earth of their villages and drums beat.

The Spanish tinge also persists. The Indians built with mud which the Spaniards adapted to the adobe style that endures today in old homes, new gas stations and even government buildings.

LILT TO LANGUAGE

The Spanish have also given a lilt to the language. A dump truck in Spanish-American becomes troca dompera, a decided improvement.

In this crossbreeding of Spanish tinge, Big Sky the Indian and Yankee drive there has been a mellowing, said one New Mexican, a tolerance, a friendliness. "This is big country," said Father Chavez. "People have had to be tolerant to survive."

"If someone painted himself blue and walked through the plaza," said one Santa Fean, "people would only say 'well, I see old Bill decided to paint himself blue.'"

"There is a tremendous awareness of the effect of the good earth on our lives," said Omar Barker, poet, writer of westerns who grew up on a ranch near Las Vegas, N.M.

BORROWED PLANE

Several of us flew over much of northern New Mexico in a borrowed plane on a day of blue skies and whipped cream clouds piling up over the mountains.

Over the Pecos wilderness, a vast government preserve of virgin timber, the green-black arrowheads of the spruce crowded up the slopes of the Sangre De Cristos Mountains. Ghostly spines of aspens not yet in leaf and tawny highland meadows soon to be emerald green dappled the mountains.

The plane turned west. The land became brown and reds. It was veiled like an old woman's hand with traces of dry arroyos.

WAGON TRACKS

There was no sign of human life other than thin lines of trails, some traces of wagon tracks of a century ago still aiming westward, like arrows.

Time and space are the dimensions of the Southwest. A country weathered by time, set in a sweep of land and sky; it seeps over the mind with another kind of tolerance.

The Indian must have learned it, too — an understanding of time, a restful feeling of peace with an endless nature that has always been and will still be, even when the hideous atomic artifacts of our time, burrowed in the ancient Sandia Mountains, are long forgotten.

I recalled a story Gilberto Espinosa told about an Indian tribe that had carried a statue of the Virgin Mary through their fields in a prayer for rain.

That night a cloudburst washed out the crops. The next day the Pueblo priest saw the Indians carrying a statue of the infant Jesus through the fields. "Why?" he asked. "We wanted him to see what his mother had done," the Indians replied.

RARE VIEW

And, in New Mexico, you can get a rare view of what his Father has done.

He's 'Taken to Cleaners' in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — It takes an edict from the Presidium to get a pair of pants cleaned and pressed in the Soviet Union.

Consider the trials of the American visitor who checked into one of the largest and most modern hotels only to find he had coffee and food stains on his trousers.

He did what came naturally. He picked up the phone and called, "Valet."

The hotel desk was thrown in to consternation. What is valet? An English interpreter couldn't help.

After a half hour of futile wrangling, the guest strode to the foyer and tried to explain in person.

CLEAN, PRESS

"Clean and press," he said, pointing to his trousers.

"Aw, press," one of the custodians said, eyes brightening with understanding. She retreated and brought back an iron.

"No, clean and press," the man insisted.

Clean and press—"Aw, you mean weight-lifting," one of the Russian service people said. By this time a dozen people had been brought into the act.

"No, that's clean and jerk," the man replied, his nerves now getting frayed. "Clean — you know, wash." He rubbed his hands in a washing motion.

After about two hours, during which the visitor was served with soap and towel and two interpreters from the Tourist Bureau, the message finally got across.

The pants were left at the service desk.

Three hours later, returning to his room, the American found the pants — untouched — on his table, wrapped in a three-day-old issue of the government paper Izvestia.

He got on the phone. More wrangling. "Take them to the second floor," he was told.

THREE DAYS

Finally, a girl took the pants, collected one ruble — $1.11 — and said the guest would have the garment back in three days. "I must," the man said. "I am leaving for Warsaw Monday."

Saturday came. No pants. Sunday, still no pants. The girl who contracted to do the job was not at home. She may be sick, the hotel said, and may be not back for a week or so.

"But the pants?" the man asked. He got a shrug. Another round of conferences ensued. The entire staff of the hotel, it seemed, was rushing around attempting to find the missing pants. Phones rang. People jabbered excitedly.

Tourist which handles travel, accommodations and other problems of visitors to the iron curtain countries, came to the rescue.

"When the pants are located," and employee said coldly "they will be sent to the U.S. ambassador in Warsaw."

Drop Move Limiting Shriver to 2 Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee has dropped from the Peace Corps authorization bill an amendment designed to force R. Sargent Shriver to resign one of two top level posts.

The amendment, inserted into the measure in the Senate, said that the head of the Peace Corps could hold no other federal post of equivalent rank. Shriver heads both the Peace Corps and the Office of Economic Opportunity, which runs the administration's antipoverty campaign.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who admires Shriver but feels he should devote full time to one job, sponsored the amendment. It was accepted at a time when few senators were present.

House members of the conference committee insisted it was unconstitutional, and Senate conferees agreed Wednesday to drop it. Javits said he might seek a roll call vote when the measure returns to the Senate.

$115 MILLION

The compromise bill authorizes $115 million to finance the Peace Corps for the fiscal year which started July 1. This contemplates having 15,110 volunteers abroad or in training by Aug. 31, 1966.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new study has increased the estimated construction cost of the proposed 200-billion electron-volt atom-smasher machine to $348 million from the original estimated range of $280 to $298 million.

The increase was reported Wednesday to Congress by Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., chairman of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

The Atomic Energy Commission is expected to announce shortly a list of some 30 front-runners in the nationwide contest for the atom smasher. But an AEC spokesman said he didn't know when the announcement would come.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has directed Secretary of State Dean Rusk to make sure the government does not engage in research in foreign countries that adversely affect U.S. foreign relations.

The White House said Wednesday that Johnson's directive was prompted by Project Camelot, an Army-sponsored study of the causes of social unrest and revolutions which was canceled July 8 after the U.S. ambassador to Chile protested.

Rusk told newsmen that Chile was not involved in Project Camelot but that some investigators from Camelot questioned some university professors in Chile and their activity was purposely misunderstood.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has launched a study to see if the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party violated any federal law by urging Mississippi Negroes to evade draft calls.

A department spokesman said any prosecution would be difficult because in order to prove a violation, "it has to be proved that the article had an appreciable effect on the Negroes to whom it was addressed — in other words, whether any of them evade the draft as a result of the article."

Kangaroo Has Police

Hopping Around Zoo

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Fort Wayne police armed with fishnets are after an unusual fugitive — a kangaroo last seen bounding about near Frank Park Zoo last night.

The animal escaped last Saturday.

The law provides up to five years in jail, a $10,000 fine, or both for anyone "who knowingly counsels, aids, or abets another to refuse or evade registration or service in the armed forces."

Mississippi Selective Service officials asked the department to look into the incident.

There were 3,098,000 orphans in the nation last year, or 4.4 per cent of the child population ages 1 to 17.

Social Security Facts

Can Work and Earn Benefits

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 11th in a 14-part series on the new health care and Social Security bill by John Troan, special writer for Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

BY JOHN TROAN

You don't have to quit working altogether to draw a Social Security retirement benefit.

Starting with 1966, you'll be able to collect your full benefit as long as you don't earn more than $1,500 a year (as compared to $1,200 now). Even if you earn more, you may be eligible for some Social Security checks.

And so matter how much you make in any year, you'll be entitled — effective 1966 — to your regular Social Security check for any month in which you don't earn more than $125 (compared to $100 now).

If you are self-employed the same rules apply. However, you can't get a check for any month in which you perform "substantial services" even if your net earnings — (profits) for that month fail to exceed the limit. There is no hard-and-fast definition of "substantial services." Generally, it means devoting more than 45 hours to your business during one month.

The ceiling on earnings is lifted the moment you reach 72. Then, you forfeit no Social Security benefits regardless of how much you earn.

In figuring your earnings, you count only such things as wages, salaries, commissions, and what you net from self-employment.

DON'T COUNT INVESTMENT INCOME

You do NOT count investment income (such as stock dividends), interest on bank deposits, rents you collect, private pensions, endowments on insurance policies, veterans' benefits, gifts, inheritances, capital gains, or royalties collected after age 55 from copyrights or patents you obtained before 65.

HOW EARNINGS AFFECT SOCIAL SECURITY

(Effective 1966)

Here is a table showing how much you can collect in Social Security benefits even if you continue working. First, look at the column on the left for the amount closest to the monthly benefit which you are getting or which your family is drawing on your Social Security account. Then look under the figure closest to your estimated earnings for the year to get a rough idea of how much Social Security you may still draw.

However, rental income is counted if you are a real estate dealer or if you rent out your farm under an agreement permitting you to participate materially in "production or management of production." And dividends are counted if you deal in securities.

A wife's earnings do not affect a retired worker's benefits. But they are counted against her Social Security benefit if she is drawing one along with her husband.

On the other hand, earnings of a retired worker may count against any benefits his dependents are drawing — as well as against his own.

The ceiling on earnings applies also to widows and children getting Social Security checks. But a widow's earnings don't count against her children's benefits — and her children's earnings don't count against her benefit.

During 1965, you may earn up to $1,200 without losing any Social Security benefits.

If you make more, $1 is taken out of your total year's benefit for each additional $2 earned. After you earn $1,700, a dollar is subtracted for every additional dollar of earnings.

EASE COMING

Effective 1966, this will be eased. You may earn up to $2,700 a year — instead of just

$1,700 — before the dollar-for-dollar rule sets in.

Thus, from 1966 on: You may earn up to $1,500 without losing any benefits. After that, $1 is taken out of your annual benefit for every $2 earned. And after you make $2,700 in a year, a dollar is subtracted for every additional dollar of earnings.

This means a person under 72 who is drawing a Social Security retirement benefit and continues to be employed regularly could earn $2,550 to $5,811 a year before losing all his benefits.

The exact amount depends on the size of the benefit, the type, and how earnings are spread out over the year. In general, you may — effective 1966 — draw some Social Security payment if your monthly benefit (or family benefit) is at least $50 and your earnings for the year don't equal 12 times the benefit amount plus $2,100.

(NEXT—Disability benefits.)

2 Cosmonauts to Leave Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Soviet cosmonauts Pavel Belyayev and Alexei Leonov are scheduled to fly home today after spending two weeks in Cuba helping Fidel Castro celebrate the 12th anniversary of his revolution.

The cosmonauts were honored at a reception in the Soviet Embassy in Havana Wednesday night, according to a Havana radio broadcast monitored in Miami.

The broadcast quoted Lt. Col. Leonov as describing the night of Cuba from the spacecraft in which he and Col. Belyayev made 17 earth orbits last March 18.

Leonov said the Soviet delegation visited troops manning the frontier along the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay. "They are disciplined and well organized," he was quoted as saying.

July 26 is the anniversary of the Castro revolution.

NY Farm Income Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York State's total farm income for the first five months of this year is $19 million higher than for a similar period in 1964. Cash receipts during the 1965 period rose to $370 million, the Agriculture Department said.

Tab Really Ranges for 'Night on Town'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A study of the pocketbook horrors attendant on a big night on the town in each of four gay capitals of revelry around the world has been made by a local bank's economists, perhaps as a promotion for good, clean niggardliness.

The "informal survey of the comparative cost of high living" could have been titled "The Tab of Four Cities."

It breaks down the approximate cost (including tips) of one night for one couple doing what is the local concept of high living in Hong Kong ($43.78), Rio de Janeiro ($38.55), Paris ($100.25), and New York ($182.40).

"A night on the town" is a window display now going the rounds of Chase Manhattan Bank branches here. It presupposes someone has said, "Let's have a really big night out!" and is rottiely rich enough to carry through. The study shows local big-time ideas vary widely.

What's considered a blast in Hong Kong might be a bomb in New York," the bank points out. "What's a carnival in Rio may not be at all gay in Patee.

NOTHING OF IT

"For example, natives of Rio think nothing of taking in four nightclub shows — after dinner — and then riding the cable car to the top of Sugarloaf, and topping off the evening with a dip at Copacabana.

"In Hong Kong, on the other hand, even the gamest couples would consider dinner at a fine restaurant more than enough living it up. Residents with extreme insomnia might follow dinner with one nightclub visit."

Prices vary as widely as local customs. The bank said dinner in an exclusive Hong Kong place runs $10 per couple — but in a New York restaurant of "average elegance" it could be $38.50.

And, it said, Madame's Parisian hairdresser will charge $20 per head, whereas one may be coiffed in Rio for a mere $1.00. The study also includes hidden extras, such as taxi fares and baby sitters.

Pointing out that a fine time can be had in each city at a fraction of these prices and that all figures represent the more expensive establishments, the bank offers this breakdown:

HONG KONG — Shoeshine (by houseboy), included in salary; pedicure (for two at home), $1.00; his haircut, massage and manicure (at home), $1.70; her hairdo, $5.00; her massage and manicure (at home), $1.00; water taxi to restaurant, included in dinner charge; dinner at floating restaurant (from shark's fin soup to lice nuts), $10.00; other taxis or rickshaws, $5.00; cabaret (four imported scotchies), $20.00; baby sitter (live-in maid), included in salary. Total: $43.78.

RIO DE JANEIRO — His massage, manicure, haircut, shave, shoeshine, $2.35; her hairdresser, $1.00; dinner (European food, Scotch, French wine), $13.00; four nightclubs (sometimes five), two international with U.S. and European entertainment $5 each, two Brazilian $4 each; cable to Sugarloaf mountain top, $1.00; early morning swim at Copacabana Beach, free; breakfast (coffee and slice of mamao), $1.50; baby sitter (live-in maid), included in salary; taxis, $2.00. Total: $38.55.

PARIS — Monsieur's hair-stylist (shampoo and set included), $4.00; madame's hairdresser, $20.00; dinner $34.50; souvenir ashtray from restaurant (to convince your neighbors you really went), $3.10; theater or opera, $15.00; cabaret, $18.10; baby sitter (always a relative), free (advice on child rearing included); taxis, $6.50. Total: $100.20.

NEW YORK — His haircut, shave, massage, shoeshine, manicure, $15.00; her beauty preparation (head to toes), $35.00; cocktails, dinner, $40.50; smash hit musical, $28.50; quick immersion drink, $3.50; nightclub (dancing entertainment, cocktails, "bite to eat," $38.50; baby sitter, $6.00; taxis, $7.50; morning-after remedy, 30 cents. Total: $182.40.

The bank's moral: "No matter where you are in the world, the cost of living it up is much higher than the cost of just plain living."

In Americus, Ga.

Biracial Unit Is Formed

By United Press International
A biracial committee was formed yesterday to try to solve the racial difficulties at Americus, Ga., but it lacked the sanction of city and county officials and one member of the committee said its announcement was premature.

Warren Fortson, county attorney who had been plugging for the formation of the committee, said the announcement was "most regrettable . . . a tragedy."

Fortson, who has been the target of a campaign by whites to have him removed from office, said some of the white men who had agreed to serve with him on the committee had already been subjected to harassment.

Americus became one of the nation's worst trouble spots after the killing of four Negro women on July 26 as the result of a segregated voting line disturbance.

A white youth was shot to death on the streets near a demonstration on July 28, and there have been almost daily incidents of minor violence and taunts between whites and Negroes since. About 200 civil rights advocates staged a demonstration again yesterday.

In Greenville, Ala., yesterday a group of about 25 persons at a street barricade was dispersed by police who threw tear gas.

The demonstrators answered with a brief shower of bricks and bottles but there was only one injury — a policeman who suffered a hand-cut when he held a tear gas grenade too long.

Elsewhere:
● SELMA, Ala. — A federal judge heard testimony yesterday in a move by Negroes to obtain federal protection for demonstrators seeking to march down the main street of Greensboro unhampered by police. Negroes are protesting voter registration procedures and the burning of two churches.

● CHICAGO — Seventy demonstrators disregarded Mayor Richard J. Daley's plea for privacy and marched on his home for the fourth successive night last night in a continuing protest against alleged de facto school segregation.

● BOSTON — The Massachusetts House last night passed a bill designed to eliminate racial imbalance in public schools.

● DUBLIN, Ga. — A total of 327 Negroes, many of them children, marched nine blocks through the city yesterday to protest police employment practices.

● CINCINNATI — A county judge yesterday ordered a halt to civil rights protests on local school sites in an injunction asked by the city's board of education. Sit-in demonstrators had demanded that apprenticeship programs be set up for Negroes with trades councils constructing new school buildings.

● CORINTH, Miss. — Authorities yesterday began an investigation into the burning of a third white church in the Corinth area within recent weeks. FBI agents joined with state and local authorities in a search for possible arson.

● MIAMI BEACH — Undersecretary of Commerce Leroy Collins yesterday chided Negroes who have "made it in a white man's world" for not joining in the civil rights movement.

● BOGALUSA, La. — Negroes staged two simultaneous marches yesterday, joining at city hall. A few white motorists honked their horns at the Negroes but were quickly silenced by police.

Passenger Record Set

NEW YORK (AP)—A record 11,207 international passengers arrived last Aug. 1 at the John F. Kennedy International Airport, the district immigration director, P. A. Esperdy, says. The passengers arrived on 100 flights.

The previous record of 10,500 was set Aug. 18, 1964.

Clergymen Released

ALLENDALE, S.C. (AP)—The Rev. Joseph L. Walsh, a Catholic priest, and the Rev. John Hutchinson, a Baptist minister, both of Detroit, were released Wednesday on bond from the Allendale jail where they had been taken from a civil rights protest, Monday.

13 Unlucky Number,

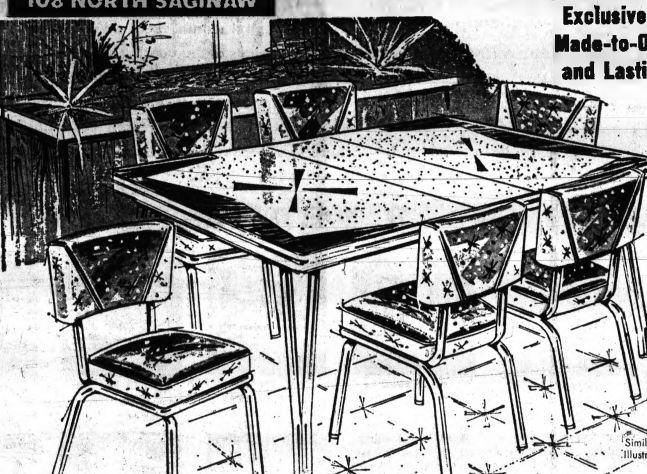

So 14th Was Added

CRENSHAW, N.J. (AP)—"Thirteen is an unlucky number," Bernard Champion said, "so we just had to have 14." An 8-pound, 1-ounce boy brought the family roster to 11 boys and three girls, the oldest 17.

Try Birth Curbs in Venezuela

1,050 Women Now Get Pills Regularly

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—"Look, I have eight children and we all live in one room. Where would I put another?" says the 31-year-old mother waiting in the clinic line. She's one of 1,050 women now receiving contraceptive pills regularly at the government maternity hospital in Caracas.

Two thousand more women are awaiting approval of their applications to join Venezuela's first major attempt to control its 3.5 per cent annual birth rate, higher than the rates of India or China.

"We do not want to halt normal population growth but rather to achieve some balance in the Venezuelan family," explains Dr. Darío Merchán López of the new Department of Birth Control.

EXAMINE APPLICANTS
Dr. Merchán and his colleagues interview and examine applicants for the pills. Social workers investigate them and their families. Unmarried mothers with several children by different men, mothers whose husbands are jobless, and those with medical problems get priority.

In the same hospital an average 100 babies are born daily. Only 20 have wedded parents. Some of the rest are born to mothers who don't know the name of the father, and to girls so young they scarcely know how it happened.

An estimated 500,000 of Caracas' people live in one- or two-room shacks or tenement apartments. Illegitimate births are estimated at 65 per cent of the national total.

The Roman Catholic Church, although influential with the people and to some extent with the government, has remained silent on the effort of the Department of Birth Control.

One source of opposition is the husband. Some of them feel many children indicate virility, and others just like children.

The average American family's share of all taxes — including federal, state and local — collected in fiscal 1964 approximated $2,600.

LUNCHEON MEAT — For summer fun have a Wikiwiki (quick) Hawaiian buffet supper. Sweet 'n' sour luncheon meat and fresh fruit kabobs on ginger rice are a perfect entree for an island-type buffet party—colorful and oh-so-good.

Go Hawaiian With Buffet-Style Dinners

Entertaining on a lazy summer day? Take a tip from the hostesses of our sister state, Hawaii. Have a Wikiwiki (quick) Hawaiian buffet supper and place the emphasis on easily made, oh-so-good food.

A buffet supper is a wonderful way to entertain informally. In fact, many visitors to the islands get the impression most Hawaiian meals are served buffet-style.

The food for such an occasion is colorful and has a delicious, island flavor obtained by combining interesting spices and sauces with meat, fruits and rice.

Sweet 'n' sour luncheon meat and fresh fruit kabobs are a perfect entree for an island-type buffet. It's attractive and flavorful, yet requires little last-minute preparation.

- Luncheon Meat and Fruit Kabobs
- 2 cans (12 ounces each) luncheon meat
 - 3 unpeeled limes, cut into ½ inch slices
 - 6 to 8 thick, fresh or canned pineapple slices, cut in half
 - 3 unpeeled navel oranges, sliced ½ inch thick and cut in half
 - ½ cup (packed) brown sugar
 - 4 teaspoons cornstarch
 - 1½ cups pineapple juice
 - ½ cup vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon soy sauce
 - 1 clove garlic
 - 1 cup uncooked rice
 - ¼ cup chopped preserved ginger, optional
 - 1 tablespoon preserved ginger sirup, optional
 - ¼ cup toasted slivered almonds

Such a Nice Way to End a Meal

A New York hostess likes to serve this dessert to guests.

- Grasshopper Pie
- 1 cup chocolate wafer crumbs
 - 3 tablespoons butter, melted
 - 25 large marshmallows
 - ½ cup milk
 - ¼ cup green creme de menthe
 - ¼ cup white creme de cacao
 - 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
 - 2 tablespoons shaved chocolate

Mix together the crumbs and butter; pat into a 9-inch pie plate; chill. Melt marshmallows in the milk, stirring often; cool. Fold in the liqueurs and whipped cream. (If you like, you may add a few drops of green food coloring.)

Turn into crumb crust. Freeze. Remove from freezer about 10 minutes before serving.

¼ cup toasted coconut
Cut each piece of luncheon meat into 6 pieces (in half lengthwise and in thirds crosswise). Thread meat chunks and fruit onto separate skewers. Arrange on tray; cover and store in refrigerator until cooking time.

Combine sugar and cornstarch; mix. Stir in pineapple juice, vinegar, soy sauce and garlic. Cook until thick and clear, stirring constantly. Remove garlic; keep warm.

Cook rice as directed on package; drain. Fold in ginger, ginger sirup and almonds.

Heat and brown meat and fruits on skewers over low, glowing coals. Turn meat cubes frequently while heating and brush lightly with sauce.

Serve kabobs atop hot rice with remaining sauce and toasted coconut. Serves 4.

Type of Cheese Decides Care

The Consumer Marketing Service of the Department of Agriculture recommends strongly that all natural cheese be kept refrigerated.

They give this further advice about using cheese:

- Soft unripened cheeses, such as cottage, cream or Neufchatel are quite perishable. Therefore, use them within a few days.

Ripened or cured cheeses keep well in the refrigerator for a few weeks if protected from mold contamination and drying out. Leave the original wrapper on the cheese. Wax paper, foil, or plastic wrap protect the surface from drying.

- If natural cheese do dry out and become hard, grate and refrigerate in a clean, tightly covered glass jar.

Natural cheeses may mold without spoiling. Just cut off the mold and use the rest.

Blue, Gorgonzola, Roquefort or Stilton contain particular molds that are carefully developed to produce characteristic colors and flavors. These molds are eaten as part of the cheese.

Keep strong-odored cheeses such as limburger stored in a tightly covered jar or container. These are fast curing cheeses and it's best to use them fairly soon.

SAUSAGE ON THE GRILL—Sausage is an ideal meat for the barbecue. It's easy to fix without special preparation, is self basting and offers variety. Use patties for quick tasty sandwiches. Fat hickory smoked sausage is a special treat when barbecued slowly; the outside becomes crunchy and the inside juicy and flavorful. Three little link sausages fastened together with two toothpicks won't roll off the grill or fall through. Serve with chili sauce or horseradish garnish.

Kabobs Let Everyone Be Own Chef

Kabobs, the zesty grilled meat on a skewer, are guaranteed to enliven any outdoor barbecue because everyone gets in on the fun.

Just set out the makings... squares of tender meat, big fresh mushrooms, tiny onions or onion quarters, green pepper squares, tomato quarters, pickles... and let everyone pitch in to skewer and grill his own combination.

Remember, whenever selecting beef for cooking over the coals, that the cut you choose should be one tender enough to broil. Chuck steaks and round steaks should generally be avoided.

Very high quality top round may be used, as well as sirloin tip. Of course, rib, club, T-bone, porterhouse and sirloin steaks are great barbecue favorites.

And for this sauce or any recipe that calls for lemon juice, you'll find lemon juice in bottles to be a great time and energy saver. It's economical, too.

- LEMON-CUE BEEF KABOBS
- ¼ cup bottled lemon juice
 - ¼ cup salad oil
 - 1 medium onion, grated
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - ¼ teaspoon pepper
 - ¼ teaspoon curry powder
 - ¼ teaspoon ginger
 - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 1 garlic clove, crushed
 - 2 pounds beef sirloin tips, top round, or sirloin steak, cut into 1 to 1½ inch cubes
 - Mushroom caps

Green pepper squares, quartered tomatoes, and baby onions, as desired.

In a shallow pan mix together bottled lemon juice, salad oil, onion, salt, pepper, curry powder, ginger, Worcestershire sauce, bay leaf and garlic. Add beef and mushrooms and marinate in refrigerator 4 hours or longer, turning meat occasionally.

Alternate beef cubes on metal skewers with mushroom caps, green pepper, tomatoes and baby onions, as desired. Grill over glowing coals or broil about 20 minutes, turning frequently and brushing with marinade. 6 servings.

Exotic Flavor of Orient Captured in Lamb Kabob

A sweet and sour sauce laced with a little soy, sparkling bright mandarin orange sections and lychee nuts all contribute to a new recipe called Oriental Lamb Kabobs.

The choice of lamb for these kabobs is ground lamb... juicy, moist and tender. If it is not already packaged in your meat market, then ask the butcher for it.

- ORIENTAL LAMB KABOBS
- 1½ pounds ground lamb
 - 1 cup soft bread crumbs
 - 1 egg
 - 2 tablespoons minced onion
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - ¼ teaspoon pepper
 - ¼ teaspoon allspice
 - ¼ teaspoon dill weed
 - 1 can (11-ounces) mandarin orange sections
 - 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon soy sauce
 - 2 tablespoons dark brown sugar
 - ¼ teaspoon salt

1 can (11-ounces) lychee nuts, drained
3 green peppers, cut in squares
Mix together lamb, bread crumbs, egg, onion, ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper, allspice and dill weed in mixing bowl until just blended. Shape into 1½-inch balls. Chill thoroughly.

Drain orange sections, reserving syrup. Mix together reserved syrup, vinegar, soy sauce, sugar and salt in saucepan. Heat until sugar is dissolved, stirring constantly.

Place lamb balls on skewers and broil 4 to 5 inches from heat source 8 to 10 minutes on each side or until desired doneness, brushing frequently with sauce.

Shower orange sections, lychee nuts and green peppers; broil 5 minutes on each side or until desired doneness, brushing frequently with sauce. Makes 6 servings.

ORIENTAL LAMB KABOBS — It's out with the hibachi or charcoal grill for lots of good outdoor broiling. Here, you see lamb... mixed and shaped into balls big enough for skewering... along with various colorful fruits and vegetables. This sauce is sweet and sour... and oh, so good!

LEMON-CUE BEEF KABOBS — Lemon-Cue Beef Kabobs gain a deliciously tart flavor when marinated and broiled with a lemon sauce. If you let your guests assemble their own, this dish will add creative fun to your outdoor meal.

Glamorous Ice Cream Desserts End Meal Perfectly

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor

When someone invents a better dessert than ice cream, I want to know about it. Lots of people don't share my enthusiasm for this frozen food, but I could happily eat it three times a day.

Instead of serving the time-honored combination of ice cream and cake, branch out and give your family or guests a frankly fancy ice cream dessert.

The three recipes printed below do take time to prepare. If your hours are limited, use shortcuts elsewhere in the meal and splurge on dessert.

Nectarines and fresh pineapple star in the first recipe. Nectarines are bigger and better and more numerous than ever. They team well with ice cream.

- Nectarine Ice Cream Pineapple
- 3 medium-size whole fresh pineapple
 - 3 tablespoons sugar
 - 3 tablespoons chopped fresh mint

- 1½ pints vanilla ice cream
- 1½ lbs. fresh nectarines, thinly sliced

Wash pineapple and with a large sharp knife cut the fruit and green top (crown) in half lengthwise. With a sharp pointed knife make a cut ¼-inch wide around the entire edge of the meat.

With a grapefruit or thin knife separate the fruit from the shell. Discard the tough center core. Cut pineapple meat into small pieces and place in the blender container along with the sugar and chopped mint.

Blend on low speed 1 minute or until a coarse puree forms. Spoon equal amounts of puree into each pineapple shell; place in the freezer until puree is frozen firm but not hard. For serving, remove from freezer and top each with a layer of ice cream and a layer of nectarine slices. Yield: 6 servings.

If you don't have or can't borrow a fancy mold for the next dramatic dessert, use a metal baking pan or mixing bowl of the right size. This dessert has a surprise inside.

Dark Cherry Ice Cream Bombe

- 1 can (4-pound) potted dark sweet cherries
- 1 quart orange sherbet
- 1 quart vanilla ice cream
- ¼ cup chopped pistachio nuts

Drain cherries, reserve syrup for Hot Cherry Sauce*. Finely chop cherries, reserving 12 for garnish. Press sherbet on bottom and sides of 6-cup mold; freeze.

Combine ice cream, chopped cherries and nuts; spoon into hollow center of mold; freeze until firm. Dip quickly into hot water. Unmold onto serving plate.

Garnish with reserved cherries and serve with Hot Cherry Sauce*. Makes 8-10 servings.

*To Prepare Hot Cherry Sauce: (Makes about 2 cups)

In saucepan combine reserved cherry syrup, 1 cup orange juice, 1 tablespoon sugar and cinnamon stick. Heat slowly to boiling. Remove cinnamon stick.

Blend 1 tablespoon cornstarch with 2 tablespoons cold water. Add to sauce and cook, stirring until sauce boils ½ minute. Serve with Ice Cream Bombe.

Edible cookie cups hold scoops of ice cream for the last glamorous dessert. The sauce is an unusual one. Remember that cooking drives out all the alcohol, leaving only the good flavor of the sherry.

Cookie Cups

- 1 egg
- ½ cup brown sugar (packed)
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- ¼ teaspoon coffee powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ cup finely chopped walnuts

Stir egg, sugar, butter, salt and coffee powder together until blended. Add flour and mix until smooth. Stir in walnuts. Chill batter. Bake only 1 cookie at a time, keeping remaining batter chilled.

Drop a heaping teaspoon of batter onto greased baking sheet and spread to a 4-inch circle. Bake 7 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Allow to stand for 30 seconds, then carefully remove cookie with broad spatula, and invert over lightly greased custard cup. Let baking sheet cool before starting another cookie.

If cookie cups are baked a day in advance of serving, they should be stored in tightly covered tin. Makes 8 cups.

Sherried Cinnamon Sundae Sauce

- 1 cup brown sugar (packed)
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup Sherry
- 3 tablespoons butter

Combine all ingredients in small saucepan. Cook, stirring frequently, until sugar is dissolved. Simmer 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool before serving. Spoon over ice cream in cookie cups. Makes about 1 cup.

Chocolate Leaves Will Cause Talk

To make chocolate leaves, melt brick chocolate over hot water and allow to cool.

Wash a dozen or so small leaves. Let dry. Spread the cooled chocolate over the back of the leaf and allow to set. Peel off the natural leaf, and the imprint of the veins will be on the chocolate leaf. Use to top a parfait or similar dessert.

NECTARINE PINEAPPLE BOAT

DARK CHERRY ICE CREAM BOMBE

Quick Bread Good Enough for Dessert

A quick bread that is sweet enough to eat on the cake side is useful to have in the house. It outlasts cake!

Cut part of it rather thick and serve it warm from the oven.

Wrap the rest of the loaf tightly and refrigerate it, then pull it out the moment you need it.

The following sweet quick bread has the delicate and delicious flavor of pineapple. Most quick breads need to be spread with butter or cream cheese; but not this loaf.

It is quite good enough to eat plain. After it's stored heat or lightly toast it.

Pineapple Tea Loaf

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar

1 egg
1 can (8 1/2-ounce) crushed pineapple
2 tablespoons butter, melted and cooled
1/2 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts

On a piece of wax paper, stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and sugar.

In a medium mixing bowl, beat the egg until thick and ivory color; stir in undrained crushed pineapple and butter.

Add sifted dry ingredients; stir until they are combined. Fold in walnuts.

Turn into a greased ovenproof loaf dish (about 8 by 4 by 3 inches). Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven 50 to 60 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean.

Turn out on wire rack; turn right side up on rack; cool. Loaf slices best after storing in a tightly covered container overnight or tightly wrapped in the refrigerator.

Note: If you like, you may fold 1/4 cup medium-fine grated sharp cheddar cheese into the batter with the walnuts.

Fruit Topping

Fresh fruit tastes so refreshing with glamorous Chantilly Cream dressing that it is so easy to prepare. In chilled bowl whip 1/2 cup whipping cream until stiff, but not dry; fold in 1/2 cup dairy sour cream, 3 tablespoons sifted confectioners sugar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla; blend well and chill before serving.

PINEAPPLE QUICK BREAD — It bakes with or without grated cheddar cheese.

Pie Filling Base of Ribs' Sauce

Is there anything quite as satisfying as a platter full of fragrant ribs?

The usual thing is to brush and glaze ribs with a spicy tomato sauce; but these East Indian Ribs are different.

The sauce here makes use of a can of pineapple pie filling that is seasoned with green onions, lemon juice, curry powder and a dry sherry from California.

Yes, that's right—pineapple pie filling. This versatile product is as delicious in main dishes as it is for desserts.

The pineapple sauce is simple to prepare and imparts a most wonderful flavor to the ribs. Just try them once to see! A sauce like this turns spareribs into exotic company fare any season of the year.

Bake the ribs indoors or cook them on a barbecue grill; it's the sauce that counts, the sauce that brings out the best in the ribs.

You might team the ribs with a bowl of fluffy rice or baked sweet potatoes, relishes, coleslaw and a tasty bread. Dessert could be a low-ering coconut cake made from a mix or from a favorite recipe.

A dinner like this will bring sighs of contentment from all your guests—reason enough to put East Indian Ribs on your menu again — and often.

East Indian Ribs

3 to 4 pounds spareribs

1 No. 2 can (2 cups) Pineapple Pie Filling

2-3 cup chopped green onions

1/4 cup lemon juice

1/4 cup water

2 tablespoons curry powder

1 1/2 teaspoons salt

1/4 teaspoon ginger

1/4 cup California sherry

Place ribs in a shallow roasting pan, meaty side up. Roast in a 450 degree oven for 30 minutes.

Combine pie filling, onions, lemon juice, water and seasonings; bring to a boil and simmer a minute or two. Add sherry.

Spoon over the ribs and continue baking in a 350 degree oven about one hour or until tender. Makes 4 servings.

Mushrooms Right for Fowl

Use a new frozen product in a favorite chicken dish.

Chicken With Mushroom Sauce

2 1/2-pound ready-to-cook broiler-fryer, cut up

1/4 cup flour

1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper

1/2 teaspoon paprika

1/4 cup butter

2 medium onions, cut in strips

1 package (6 ounces) frozen whole mushrooms in butter sauce

1/4 cup chicken stock

Roll chicken in flour mixed with salt, pepper and paprika.

Brown in hot butter in large skillet; cover tightly and cook until tender; remove and keep warm.

Add onion to drippings; cook gently and stir until browned; add frozen mushrooms; turn over repeatedly of skillet, breaking up mushrooms as they thaw.

Add chicken stock. Cover and cook until mushrooms are hot through — about 5 minutes.

Serve sauce with mushrooms. Makes 4 servings.

If mushrooms called for are not available, you may use sliced fresh mushrooms plus a little butter and omit the stock.

Marinated Beets

Here's a tangy, best recipe for warm weather meals — marinate cooked beets, cut into thin strips, with French dressing; chill several hours. Drain off excess dressing and toss with dairy sour cream just before serving.

UNUSUAL VICHYSOISE — This classical chilled soup is easily made with instant potato flakes. Sieved peas add flavor to this smooth soup. Try it with a salad for lunch-eon.

Chilled Soup Is Smooth, Creamy

Perhaps few can spell it but many have enjoyed its savory goodness. We're talking about Vichyssoise, the delightful French soup, thick with creamy mashed potatoes — topped with a sprinkling of chives.

Traditionally it is served chilled, which makes it especially apropos for warm-weather meals or even as a refreshing prelude to a hot meal.

Unusual Vichyssoise features a special flavor ingredient — a puree of sweet peas. The peas are the cupboard-ready canned variety also, along with instant potato flakes — from the same shelf, they help make the dish an easy-do treat.

Serve this delectable soup next time you've someone you really want to impress.

UNUSUAL VICHYSOISE

1 chicken bouillon cube

1/4 cup boiling water

1/4 cup chopped onion

1 cup light cream

1/2 cup instant potato flakes

1/2 teaspoon salt

Dashi pepper

One 17-oz. can sweet peas, undrained

Dairy sour cream (optional), Chopped chives

Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water. Add chopped onion and simmer about 5 minutes.

Remove from heat; stir in cream, instant potato flakes and seasonings.

Blend undrained canned peas to a smooth pulp (a coarse sieve may be used). Add to potato mixture. Chill thoroughly.

Serve in soup dishes with sour cream and a sprinkling of chopped chives. Yield: 4 to 6 servings or about 1 quart.

Seasoned Butter Is Best With Meats

Bread-and-butter sandwiches are naturals for so many summer-time fillings — or cold sliced meats, cheese or salad mixtures.

For extra flavor enjoyment, spread seasoned butter on the bread, or toast the buttered slices, with fine herbs as a flavorful blotter for the juices of chicken or steak. To make seasoned butter, try creaming in your choice of lemon juice, grated cheese, prepared mustard or minced chives.

STAR TREATS—Spend a relaxed summer in the coolness of the shade, with tall glasses of iced tea and your favorite records.

Leave the big stars to the astronauts and astronomers and enjoy confections made with star shaped toasted cereal.

New Cereal Stars Go Into Confections

Summer has many stars. Look above you on a clear night and you'll see the stars of the Big and Little Dippers, and maybe Draco the Snake. You may even see a falling star.

This summer you'll find new stars, but on your grocer's shelf rather than in the sky. These are new Sugar Stars (star shaped toasted cereal).

We've made some confections from these new stars. One we've named appropriately, Galaxies. Combined with peanuts in a brown sugar syrup, the cereal forms a yummy treat that just can't wait to be eaten.

Or try some Choco-Mint Drops, made with melted chocolate with crushed peppermint candy sprinkled on top. Great for youngsters of any age.

Galaxies
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup corn syrup
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
4 cups star shaped toasted cereal
1 cup salted peanuts

Combine sugar, corn syrup and butter in medium-sized saucepan. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved and mixture begins to bubble. Do not overcook.

Remove from heat. Stir in star-shaped cereal and peanuts. Drop by tablespoons.

onto waxed paper or buttered baking sheets.

Let stand in cool place to harden. Yield: about 36 confections, 1 1/2 inches in diameter.

Choco-Mint Drops

1 cup (6-oz. pkg.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
2 cups star shaped toasted cereal
1/2 cup chopped peanuts
1/4 cup finely crushed peppermint candy

Melt chocolate in medium sized saucepan over low heat. Stir in star-shaped cereal and peanuts until thoroughly coated with chocolate. Drop by tablespoons onto waxed paper.

Sprinkle with peppermint candy and set in a cool place to harden. Yield: about 24 confections, 1 1/2 inches in diameter.

Get Out of the Rut, Try a New Idea

A meat that's often overlooked when making picnic sandwiches is tongue. It's good sliced and made into sandwiches with pineapple cream cheese or topped with lettuce, sliced tomato and sliced hard-cooked egg.

Ground tongue combined with pickle relish, finely chopped hard-cooked egg, chopped onion and salad dressing makes an interesting sandwich filling, too.

Full Packages Pack Down in Shipping

The room at the top of a box of cereal, cookies, or crackers is there for a practical reason. Crisp products must be carefully packaged to avoid crushing.

The packages are full when they leave the factory where special machinery has been used to shake them down. As they are handled many times on their way to the grocery store, the contents naturally settle down and when the package is opened, there's often room at the top.

However, each package always contains the net contents stated on its label which is what the customer pays for, says Paul S. Willis, president, Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc.

Chef Clever With Chicken

Napoleon was famous, among other reasons, for his fondness for chicken. The National Broiler Council reminds us.

In 1801, when he returned to his camp fresh from a victory in Italy, his chef was horrified to discover that the supply train had been delayed and there was nothing available for the victory celebration.

The chef hastily rounded up a single chicken, olive oil, mushrooms, tomatoes, and garlic. The resulting dish, named for the battle, became one of the world's best loved chicken dishes — Chicken Marengo.

Nectarine Sauce for Steak

For a low-cost, highly flavorful main dish, make it "Nectarine-Sauced Steaks." You can use packaged buttered steaks or cube steaks or grilled hamburgers.

Whichever you decide upon, the meat will be greatly flattered by the heated mixture of slices of fresh nectarines and chopped tomato in a butter sauce enlivened by perky seasonings.

Don't bother peeling the skins of fresh nectarines — in most recipe instances, they are fuzzy-free and as good-tasting as the rest of the fruit.

Nectarine-Sauced Steaks

2 or 3 fresh nectarines
1 large tomato
1 package (15 oz.) buttered steaks or 5 cube steaks or hamburgers

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon oregano
Slice nectarines. Peel and coarsely chop tomato. Broil or pan-fry steaks. Melt butter in saucepan. Add tomato, parsley and seasonings; sauté 1 or 2 minutes. Add nectarines; heat through. Spoon over steaks. Makes 5 servings.

Try It on Shrimp

Try this tantalizing sauce for shrimp cocktail or serve it with shrimp salads. Combine 1/2 cup cocktail sauce and 1 cup dairy sour cream; chill before serving.

Be Knowledgeable About Michigan Peaches So You Can Enjoy the Bumper Crop

What should consumers know about Michigan peaches? Here are the questions most frequently asked Michigan State University's Consumer Marketing Agents:

Q. How do you choose good quality peaches?
A. The undercolor is your most important guide. Choose peaches with creamy yellow or gold background color. These will become soft and juicy if allowed to stand at room temperature.

The red blush does not indicate ripeness — the blush varies with variety. Avoid peaches with green background color — they will not ripen properly.

Q. What if peaches are quite firm, and too hard to eat?
A. Just let them ripen at room temperature (not in the sun) until they are soft. Then refrigerate to reduce further ripening.

Q. How do you prevent darkening after peeling?
A. For canning: one tablespoon salt or lemon juice to a gallon of water. Do not let stand longer than one hour. For fresh sliced: Sprinkle with lemon, orange or pineapple juice or concentrate; cover with ice and refrigerate. For freezing: Use ascorbic acid following label directions.

All Haven varieties (except Halehaven) are very resistant to browning, but use of ascorbic acid assures a brighter frozen product.

Q. How many peaches do you get in a pound and how much do you get from a pound?

A. Three medium-size peaches make about a pound. One pound makes two cups of sliced peaches. Two pounds will make an eight or nine-inch pie.

Q. How many peaches do I need to buy for canning or freezing?

A. Two and one-half pounds give two pints canned or frozen. One bushel (approximately 48 pounds) will yield 94 to 48 pints depending upon size of peaches, their condition and whether they are sliced, halved, or whole. One 38-pound wirebound box will yield 30-40 pints.

Q. Can you freeze whole peaches, and can you leave the skins on?

A. Yes, you can freeze whole peaches, but the pit may give a slightly bitter taste. Yes, you can leave the skins on, but they will likely be tougher when the frozen fruit is thawed for use.

Q. How many calories are there in a peach?

A. One medium-size peach contains about 46 calories.

Q. Does it really pay to can or freeze peaches?

A. That depends upon your family's preferences; the time energy, and money available; and your skill.

When a bushel of peaches cost $3 to $4, a pint of home canned or frozen peaches will cost 15 to 17 cents (including cost of containers, sugar and ascorbic acid for freezing).

SANDWICH ON A STICK — Bite-size sandwiches on an hors d'oeuvre stick or short skewer are ingenious and easy to eat. Arrange alternate generous cubes of American cheese, squares of sturdy brown bread, ham cubes, firm cherry tomatoes, mushroom caps, stuffed olives and tangy pickle slices or other favorites. Serve with a fruit drink, iced tea or coffee and add a simple dessert.

This Hearty Egg Salad Will Satisfy Men, Too

Hot weather meals call for light refreshing menus. But for the sake of the man of the house they must be nourishing and filling, too!

What could be more apropos in the salad department than a high-protein Egg Salad Mold. This one, first cousin to potato salad, is spiced with canned diagonal-cut green beans. Their perky slant cut exposes more of the meaty inside of the beans and supplies real bean flavor.

The superbly simple dressing is a blend of mellow cream cheese and zippy bottled French dressing.

Unmolded on crisp salad greens, the salad will disappear in a hurry. Serve it along with cold cuts rolled cornucopia style. Pass relishes and an assortment of freshly sliced breads.

Egg Salad Mold

1 dozen hard-cooked eggs, chopped
One 16-oz. can diagonal-cut green beans, drained
6 slices crisp bacon, crumbled
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup nonseparating French dressing
½ teaspoon salt
Two 3-oz. packages cream cheese, softened
Dash pepper
Combine eggs, drained canned beans, bacon, celery and onion, tossing lightly to mix. Blend dressing and seasonings into cream cheese. Combine with egg mixture. Pack into 1½-quart mold. Chill thoroughly.

Unmold on serving platter and garnish with salad greens, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

Ripe Olives and Bologna for a Filling

Ground bologna and finely cut ripe olives are combined with a few other tasty ingredients for hearty "Bologna Olive Sandwiches."

"With canned ripe olives from California so plentiful in markets these days, it's assuredly the right time to enjoy them in a lot of sandwich fillings, salads and main-dish casseroles."

Bologna Olive Sandwiches
½ cup ripe olives
6-oz. bologna
¾ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire
Buttered bread or rolls

Finely cut olives. Grind bologna or finely chop with knife. Mix all ingredients except bread. Spread between slices of bread. Makes about 2 cups filling.

Asparagus Goes Into Chip Dip

Here's a delicious dip to start your mealless day dinner. It's always "party time" when you serve a chip dip.

Vegetable Chip Dip
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1 tablespoon crumbled blue cheese
1 tablespoon chopped water-cress
1 hard cooked egg, chopped
½ tablespoon salt
pinch pepper
½ cups cooked asparagus tips
Combine all ingredients. Chill. Serve with crisp potato chips and a glass of tomato juice.

Pair 2 Fruits With Liqueurs for a Compote

Serve this fruit compote when you have epicurean guests!

New York Fruit Compote
6 very large navel oranges
2 medium red-skinned eating apples
2 tablespoons each white rum, dill and maraschino liqueur
Pare oranges so no white membrane remains; cut sections away from dividing membranes and turn into a bowl with any juice.
Wash and dry apples; cut each into 8 wedges; slice into thin fan-shaped pieces — there should be about 1 cup. Add apples to oranges and stir in liqueur. Cover and chill.
Serve in sherbet glasses. Makes 6 servings.

FIFTH CHILD — Sister Agnes Baker, a nurse, attends actress Patricia Neal and her newborn daughter at Radcliffe General Hospital in Oxford, England. The child was born yesterday and is yet unnamed. Despite partial paralysis by strokes last February, the 39-year-old actress had an easy natural delivery, according to a hospital spokesman. The infant is her fifth child.

Young People Urged to Work for Political Party

LANSING (AP) — Democrats, trying to interest young people in politics and their party, today urged young people in Michigan to become bearers of nominating petitions.

A new legislative act enables young people between 18 and 21 to work for the party of their choice by circulating the petitions, explained state Democratic Chairman Zolton Ferency.

And if they do a good job, he indicated, the present voting age of 21 may be lowered by the Democrat-controlled legislature.

"Michigan youths between the ages of 18 and 21 now will, for the first time, be able to participate fully and legally in one of the more important phases of the electoral process," Ferency said.

Wins Uphill Battle

Pat Neal, Baby Girl Doing Fine

OXFORD, England (AP) — Patricia Neal, feeling fine after winning her uphill battle to live and have her fifth baby, said today it was an easy painless birth.

"It was the easiest baby I have ever had and the easiest I'm ever likely to have," she told her husband, author Roald Dahl, 47.

Born Wednesday, the baby was sleeping this morning and doing very little crying.

"A beautiful, quiet child," said a source at the Radcliffe maternity wing of Radcliffe Hospital, "and mother's very fine too. She had a good solid American breakfast."

GIVEN INJECTION

Medical experts revealed that the actress, 39, was given a caudal analgesia injection in the lower region of the spinal cord. This numbed the critical area, but left Miss Neal fully conscious.

Asked if his wife would ever return to the movies, Dahl said:

"I can't say right now. That is something that just hasn't been considered for months, and yet — Pat's a truly amazing person as she has proven once again."

Miss Neal was partly paralyzed by strokes last February while making a film in Hollywood. She still wears a steel and leather brace on her left leg and speaks slowly.

Blair Moody Jr. Files

DETROIT (AP) — Blair Moody Jr., 37, son of former U.S. Senator Blair Moody, Wednesday filed as a candidate for one of the new Circuit Court positions created recently by the legislature. Moody, a former newsmen, is currently a Detroit attorney.

King to End Northern Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. concludes today a week-long tour of Northern cities with a visit to the White House and a later "thank you" march past the executive mansion.

In the afternoon, he will chat with President Johnson. A few hours later, he will lead an estimated 10,000 followers on a march through Washington and past 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

The evening march, aides said, will be a sort of "thank you" note to the President who Wednesday issued a public appeal to the House of Representatives for fast action on a bill to give home rule to District of Columbia residents.

The bill, strongly endorsed by civil rights groups, was approved by the Senate July 29.

HITS HOME RULE

King, conducting another whirlwind series of rallies and meetings in Washington Wednesday, touched off on the home rule issue.

"We are fighting for the right to vote in the South," he said at one point. "Right here in Washington, D.C., you don't have the right to vote except in federal elections, either."

At another stop, King said Negroes must insist on their right to better housing, schools and jobs. That has been the permanent theme of the rights drives in the South led by King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

He attacked integration on a token basis, saying "We're not interested in firsts — we want some seconds and thirds. We want all of our rights."

ATTRACT 10,000

Two evening rallies Wednesday attracted a total of about 10,000 persons. Cries of "You're right!" "Tell 'em" and "Yes sir" bounced back as King cried: "We know that America is our home and we're not going back to Africa. But we're not willing to wait 100 years for our rights — we want them here and now."

"We are through with segregation — now, henceforth and forever more."

At one point, King seemed to answer charges that Communists have entered the civil rights movement.

"We know that nobody has to come over here from Russia and China," he said, "to tell us that somebody's been standing on our necks. I learned my revolutionary doctrines from the New Testament — and not from Karl Marx."

MOVED OUTSIDE

Spokesmen for King, encouraged by his reception in Washington, announced late Wednesday night that a mass rally scheduled for a Washington church tonight had been shifted outside. The march to the White House will follow the rally.

"We feel there's going to be at least 10,000 persons there," one aide said.

Recall London Blitz

Came to America as Brides

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the first article in a two-part series on area international brides. As V-J Day approaches, they recall World War II and their early experiences in the United States.)

By MARGARET BROWN

Approaching V-J Day evokes as many varied reflections on the World War II era as there are people who lived it:

A somber General MacArthur at surrender signings on Tokyo Bay; jubilant returning servicemen; and war brides—hundreds of them—crowding ships' rails for that first awesome glimpse of the Statue of Liberty.

Among the latter were some girls who joined American husbands in the Pontiac area.

We met recently with several of these women to inquire about the war years and their experiences in this country.

WED ON V-J DAY

Mrs. Curtis E. Patton of South Tilden Avenue, an English war bride, recalls, "My husband and I were married in London on Great Britain's

Reception Is at Kingsley for Couple

A reception in Kingsley Inn followed the recent vows of Joan Carol Springer and Thomas Jack Goddard in St. James Episcopal Church, Birmingham.

Rev. Gene Snouell performed the double-ring ceremony for the couple whose parents are the Howard A. Springers, Birmingham, and the Roscoe W. Goddards of Prairie Lawn Avenue.

The bride's chapel-length Empire gown of white satin was styled with bodice of pearl-frosted lace. Her veil fell from a pearl tiara. She carried white roses and Stephanotis.

With Marilyn Springer, her sister's maid of honor, were bridesmaids Gene Ebhing, Nora Fitzpatrick and Mary Dornon. Pam and Donny Blower were flower-girl and ring-bearer, respectively.

William Goddard was best man for his brother. Guests were seated by Thomas MacArthur, Robert Newman and Arthur Campbell.

Mrs. Gray recalled that just before she left England, Eleanor Roosevelt addressed a group of war brides in London, telling them what to expect in America.

"Her talk certainly made a lasting impression."

Orientation here was relatively easy, they agreed. "We were all fortunate to have happy homes and husbands who were good providers."

Mrs. Gray said she found Americans generally friendly and inquisitive about her dignified accent. "Oh, you're from England?" one woman exclaimed. "You speak American beautifully."

"Breaking ties with our families and homeland was by far the biggest adjustment," said Mrs. Ott. "But after one reunion trip to England and realizing it's not really so far, things weren't so bad."

The importance of meeting with people, rather than sitting alone nursing nostalgia was underlined by the three.

CLUB HELPS
All belong to the Transatlantic Brides and Parents Association, which acquaints British Commonwealth women in this country, publishes a magazine and arranges trips abroad for its members.

Mrs. Patton laughed, "Because I came from England some people thought I'd lived all my life in a fog."

Changes in food measuring and cookery presented a few problems. "We were used to measuring in ounces, and your recipes called for cupfuls," said Mrs. Gray.

"And all flour is self-rising in England. Here you buy it separately," said Mrs. Patton. "For a while all of my cakes were going up when they should have gone down, and vice versa."

All commented on the abundance of food here. "I just couldn't believe I could buy anything I wanted," exclaimed Mrs. Ott.

TYPICAL WOMEN
Impressed with American fashions and huge department stores, the three said that shopping trips were first on their agenda in this country. "I loved the drug stores," said Mrs. Gray, "all those cosmetics and perfumes."

"The first thing I wanted was a banana split," said Mrs. Ott, whose husband owns a well-drilling company.

Before embarking for the United States Mrs. Patton and Mrs. Gray attended a U. S. government sponsored indo-tration "camp" where they also had immunization shots and physical examinations. Mrs. Gray was even given a part-time job.

Finding the experience a little grueling, Mrs. Patton commented, "We were sad at leaving England, but so glad to get camp over, board our ships and get going."

and Mrs. Milton Ott, Teggedine Road, White Lake Township. They have vivid memories of the war years, having survived Germany's relentless attempts to bomb the British into surrender.

HIGHEST PRAISE

"My biggest compliment came just recently," she said, "when a young friend said, 'Mrs. Gray, you talk just like the Beatles.'"

Mrs. Ott told of one woman whose comment was, "Why you're not at all straight-laced."

Mrs. Patton laughed, "Because I came from England some people thought I'd lived all my life in a fog."

This One Little Girl Has Blown Out Many Candles

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am in my mid-forties, divorced and have grown children.

In the past year I have become very fond of a divorced lady. She's my age, extremely attractive and most desirable.

I want to marry her, but this woman tells her mother everything, and is completely dependent on her for advice in all matters.

Even in our romance, her mother is chief consultant, adviser and has the final word. She says she has to do what her mother tells her because her mother gives her money to live on.

Now this girl is a college graduate, has taught school and worked in a law office. Friends tell me that her mother destroyed her first marriage, but not without the daughter's cooperation.

She says that after we are married she will keep her mother out of her affairs. But is this possible since she makes her mother a partner in our present romance?

What do you think?

UNCERTAIN

DEAR UNCERTAIN: A woman in her mid-forties who "tells her mother everything" and permits her to call the signals in her romances is just a little girl who has celebrated a lot of birthdays.

Unless she first proves to you that she can keep her mother out of her affairs, and proceeds to do so, don't marry her.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a word to the girl who fought with her fiancé because he didn't want her to wear make-up.

Before I married Ray he told me he didn't want me to wear make-up. I objected at first. Then Ray said that as long as I was attractive in HIS eyes it shouldn't matter what anybody else thought.

Now I just wash my face and I'm ready to go anywhere.

HAPPY AS A LARK

DEAR HAPPY: I'm glad you're happy. Some women look better than others without make-up and it's very important for a woman to look good in HER OWN eyes, too.

A considerate man will not disregard all opinions except his own.

Janice Kay Is Married

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barcome of Lake Orion announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Janice Kay, to Timothy D. Thompson.

Vows were spoken before Rev. Hubert May in Holy Cross Lutheran Church of Oxford.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Thompson of Minden City are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride wore a white brocade street-length ensemble for the afternoon ceremony, performed before members of the couple's immediate family.

A satin pill box secured her illusion face veil, and she carried an orchid on a white testament.

After a garden reception at the Barcome home, the couple left for a northern Michigan and Canadian honeymoon. They will reside on Euclid Street.

DEAR POLLY — Grating cheese is easier if you dampen a paper towel with salad oil and wipe the grater with it before starting the job.

Keeps the cheese from sticking to the grater and makes the grater so much easier to wash.—MRS. J. T.

DEAR POLLY — One day while looking for a small snap I discovered that snaps, which I had removed from old clothing, were scattered in several places.

I took a 3x5 index card and with a small punch made quite a few holes in the card. The two halves of each snap were snapped together in the holes so all my snaps are now in one place, ready to use and easy to find.—MRS. M.

Why Grow Old?

by JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many readers write to ask about the Prudent Diet, so it is about time I told you something about it!

In the first place, this diet is nutritionally sound. It was prepared by the Bureau of Nutrition of New York City's Department of Health. Experiments of several years duration have shown that if followed regularly, it is effective in weight reduction.

There also is evidence that it makes one less susceptible to heart and vascular diseases. The Prudent Diet recommends a generous amount of vegetables, several fruits a day, including a citrus fruit, bread, cereal or potatoes at each meal.

It suggests only lean cuts of meat with all visible fat cut off. It urges greater use of fish and poultry in the diet.

While there are fat-containing foods allowed in this diet, it does not allow such very fat foods such as bacon, sausage or corned beef.

QUICK START

I feel that the rapid, short reducing diet helps greatly to give a woman an encouraging start. It is also beneficial if you have just a few pounds to lose.

But this is not for the long haul. I've learned from the hundreds of thousands of letters I receive each year that women will stick to a short diet which curtails calories sharply for a short period.

Many of them stick to a reducing diet for long periods, until they reach their ideal weight. However they will not succeed if they must be a social recluse to do so, or if the diet does not satisfy the varied needs of the body.

The Prudent Diet has many advantages. It gives you a wide choice of foods. You can enjoy eating with your family and eat most of the items the others eat.

You will take smaller portions and adhere to the recommendations the diet gives; those I have listed above.

SUITS TASTE

The variety this diet provides gives you a choice so that you can satisfy your tastes to some extent. Few folks will live forever with a diet which is completely incompatible to them.

And forever is just about what it has to be if you are going to keep your ideal weight once you have lost those extra pounds. You must change your eating habits—but these changes do not have to be drastic.

The recommendations from the Prudent Diet can make a big difference. Of course you can make exceptions once in a while. It is the overall habit, the day-by-day picture which adds up.

Remember, too, what an important part exercise is in any reducing plan. The following exercise will stir up circulation and is easy to do.

Stand erect. Bend your left knee up in front of you almost to waist level. Slap your left knee with your right hand. Return left foot and right hand to place. This time bend your right knee and slap it with your left hand. Return to place. Continue, alternating.

If you would like to have my short routine of exercise planned especially for women, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Gary L. Oak, son of the Francis E. Oaks, Lake Angelus Road, recently was graduated from General Motors Institute with a bachelor of mechanical engineering degree. He will be associated with the die engineering department of Pontiac Motor Division.

Mailing Memo

Save those cardboard tubes from paper towels, waxed paper and similar products. Small articles of delicate material may be wrapped around them and then wrapped in heavy paper for safe mailing.

Racks on Ladder

Screw two small towel racks to the back of your step ladder. As long as the step ladder lasts, the racks will hold cleaning cloths for you when you are washing windows or other high spots.

WHERE FASHION IS A LOOK NOT A PRICE

He Recommends Girl-Watching

NEW YORK (UPI) — Girl-watching by industrial engineers led to the development of the automatic ice-cube maker, shelves in refrigerator doors, tilt-out control panels on television sets and other conveniences.

But if more designers paid attention to the needs of the homemaker—by watching the girls, even better things could be in store, says a Chicago businessman.

William L. Hullsiek put it this way:

"Engineers in the appliance business have been going stag too long. When engineers do keep an eye on the ladies, what they do, what they like —the results are better-designed products."

He said the automatic ice-cube makers were a down to earth development to satisfy a woman's desire for more efficiency.

Ditto for tilt-out control panels on television sets and shelves on refrigerator doors.

Hullsiek, vice president of the Appliance Division of Admiral Corp., said the average engineer likes to see all his dials and controls. They look businesslike.

MUST BE TASTEFUL

"But the housewife sees a television set as part of her living room, and doesn't want a model of engineering efficiency as the centerpiece," he said.

Through the years, Hullsiek has seen many fine product ideas come to nothing in the market place because engineers chose to remain in their monastic laboratories.

"Had these men taken into consideration the aversion most women have to mechanical complexity, involved instructions and impractical uses," he said, "those product failures never would have gotten off the drawing board."

"While this may seem to be revolutionary thinking for some engineers, women are a great deal more than eye-pleasers. They are general managers of the home, mothers, gardeners, cooks, chauffeurs, nurses, dieticians and more."

CUSTOMER IS RIGHT

He said that in all of these roles, the woman is a customer and must be catered to. The product-makers need to build on her wants and her whims.

The engineering executive also predicted the future holds many more interesting developments for the home. On behalf of homemakers, I asked him to consider working on a refrigerator with a lock on it.

This could help in the war against obesity. It also could save the dessert until serving time and otherwise protect the contents when children raid the refrigerator.

Court Adjourned by a Bowling Ball

DENVER, Colo. — Judge James C. Flanagan of the District court here phoned his wife to say that a complex legal case would make him late for dinner.

He listened for a moment, hung up and quickly adjourned court for an hour.

He explained that his wife's bowling ball was in the back seat of his car and she had to have it for a league match.

Towels Won't Slip

A good way to keep youngsters' towels from slipping off the rack is to slip shower curtain hooks over the towel bar, then sew a bone ring to the corner of the towel. Snap ring through the hook.

Button Cuffs to Shirt Front

Before putting a shirt into a washing machine, button the barrel cuffs to the shirt front, to keep the sleeves from getting tangled and overly muddled.

Damp woolen socks sometimes stiffen when they dry out. If you soak them at night in a baking soda solution, they'll be soft in the morning.

When washing any woolens to be stored away, dissolve a dozen mothballs in the last rinse water.

After washing washable slacks, hang them up by the legs. The weight of the garment will take out wrinkles and sharpen the creases.

Securing Facts on Small Businesses

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

I wonder sometimes if most of us aren't too inclined to use the easy phrases — Big Business, Monopoly, Mass Production, Assembly Lines. Maybe we fail to notice that many individuals are working away at small businesses.

Lots of people have saved money and are eager to launch a new business in order to make a modest living and even give employment to somebody else who wants to make a reasonably adequate living.

Private enterprise has always been one of the most exciting opportunities the U.S.A. has offered to its citizens. And let's not any of us forget what "small businessmen" like Henry Ford, Alexander Graham Bell, Thomas Edison, and men of their ilk have contributed to make us strong.

Maybe your neighbor down the block has an idea and a yen to start a small business that will grow to our everlasting gratitude. A man often has to start "small" in order to grow big enough to benefit the rest of us.

WHERE TO WRITE

So — with that bit of philosophy off my mind, let's get to today's mail:

"Dear Miss Feeley — I would like to start a small business of my own but don't have any idea where to begin. I must start from scratch but am willing to work hard and any advice you can give will be deeply appreciated." Mrs. A. C., Brooklyn.

Then there's another question from Mr. A. G., also of Brooklyn, who says:

"Dear Miss Feeley, — I would like to start a business of my own. Can you furnish me the address of the Small Business Administration in Washington, D.C., or of an organization in the city of New York?"

To Mrs. C., I suggest she write to the Women's Program, New York State, Department of Commerce, at either of these addresses: 230 Park Avenue, New York City; or 112 State Street, Albany, New York.

This program advises women residents of the state how to go about marketing handwork, services, recipes they have developed in their own kitchens, etc. They also advise on the pitfalls of starting a business.

To Mr. G., I think he would get worthwhile advice from the New York City office of the SBA — Small Business Administration, the Federal Government's service agency with headquarters in Washington, D.C. As one of the many regional offices, it is set up not only to advise on ways of obtaining financial assistance, but this office also does a consulting job with a service core of retired executives volunteering services in their specialized fields.

Of course, it should be understood that this Government agency thinks in terms of the taxpayer's money — the only funds it has to operate with. So any individual has to show the agency that there is a good chance that any help he receives will, in due time, provide a return on the "taxpayers' investment."

At the offices of the New York State Department of Commerce guidance is also offered to those having specific problems in starting new businesses.

Dad Needs Pampering

NEW YORK (UPI) — Once a new baby arrives, baby dad at once. All it requires is awareness of how he feels and a few common sense practices.

At the hospital, here's what to do: If there is a rooming-in plan and the doctor permits it, let your husband hold the baby or give him water. Also ask him to attend to some small, overlooked project at home that directly involves the baby.

LET DAD HELP

At home, here's the modus operandi: let him give the baby a bottle or change a diaper. Make things easy for him by taking advantage of the conveniences that take work out of baby care.

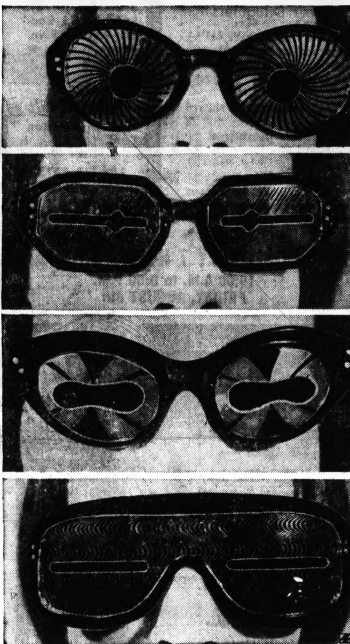

Keep the baby oil, powder, diapers in one accessible spot. A new plastic baby needs carry-all tray keeps it all together and is easy to move from room to room. Don't criticize him if his baby care is awkward.

Don't forget he's still a husband, too. Greet him with a kiss and give him a chance to make a few comments about his day before you begin to tell him everything baby did that day.

HAVE TIME FOR HUBBY

Give the grandparents a break. Let them baby sit so you and your husband can go to a movie together, or anything that gives you a chance to be alone.

Don't forget your own appearance. Borrow baby's lotion for your own hands when you rub him down. Or dip into baby's cream for your overnight face cream when you're tucking him in for the night.

The way to stare 'em down on the beach, or anywhere else under the sun for that matter, is to peer through zany sun glasses like this. These latest entries in the current fashion of madness are by Halo.

Leather Popular in Fall Fashions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fashion gets the boot again for fall and winter.

Styles seen during New York Couture Group fashion shows were crafted from every kind of leather and some fabrics, including velvet.

Decorations included fancy zippers, laces, gored inserts and exaggerated stitching.

A Time-saver

Use red nail polish to label those coffee tins in which you wish to store things. Saves time when looking for something.

Poisonous Snakes Survive Air Crash

PANAMA (AP) — Poisonous snakes aboard a Peruvian DC4 cargo plane survived its crash last night and hampered efforts to recover seven bodies strewn around the wreckage.

The four-engine plane crashed shortly after taking off from Tucuman Airport for Miami, Fla. Officials said the four passengers and three crewmen were killed.

All aboard the plane were believed to be Peruvians except the copilot. He was identified as William Westfield, a U.S. citizen, but his hometown was not known. National Guard troops cordoned off the area until it was cleared of the snakes.

Finds Death Comes Hard

CORDOBA, Spain (UPI) — Jose Garcia, 34, twice was thwarted yesterday in attempts to take his life.

He threw himself before a speeding bus. The driver stopped it in time.

Garcia got up, walked to a nearby bridge, and leaped into the water. A passing youth dived in and rescued him.

He was put under observation.

In New Hampshire, rare Alpine flowers begin to blossom above the timberline along the crest of the Presidential range about mid-June.

View Capitol Fire Hazards

LANSING (AP) — Elimination of fire safety problems in the 27-year-old State Capitol Building probably would take several years, more than $1 million and some unattractive structural work, an official indicated Wednesday.

Clarence Rosa, deputy state building director, described the Michigan Capitol last week as a firetrap. The state fire marshal agrees.

Rosa said the major problem would be sealing off open stairways and closing off the 200-foot high rotunda with fire screens so it wouldn't act as a chimney in case of fire.

Nothing in the way of safety renovation is expected until the multimillion-dollar capitol development area complex of new state office buildings is closer to completion.

Remodeling of the Capitol Building is the final order of business in the capitol development program.

Baking time of saltine crackers is less than three minutes at temperatures well over 500 degrees.

Indians Will Be on Hand to See Paleface Imitators

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — Authentic Indians will be on hand in Prescott to take a critical look at how the white man performs Indian dances.

To insure good vantage points, several members of the White River Apache Tribe have reserved tickets for the annual Smoki ceremonies Saturday night.

Perhaps the most famous of the Smokis — a group composed entirely of whites — will not be able to participate this year. Former senator and Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater will remain in Phoenix where he is recuperating from neck surgery.

Goldwater has narrated the ceremonies in the past and is one of the few members of the tribe whose name has been made public.

SMALL TATTOO

Membership in the Smoki people is secret, but the members can be identified by a small tattoo on the left hand.

A group of non-Indians living in Prescott organized the "tribe" in 1921 and the main objective is to preserve authentic Indian dances. Some 5,000 spectators are expected and proceeds are used to keep the Smoki Museum in operation.

The only dance which is repeated every year is the snake dance, in which bull snakes of over five feet in length are used.

Long Island Losing Farmers' Daughters

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Farms and farmers' daughters are disappearing from once rural Long Island.

Only three contestants showed up to compete for the title of Miss Farmer's Daughter of the Long Island Fair this week. The winner was Brenda Felicietti, 19, a coed. Her father is a bone surgeon who raises horses and some crops as avocations.

'Most Wanted' News Story

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve hundred career women, asked to pick their preference among 18 news stories, said they'd most like to read about a cure for cancer.

Next came Viet Nam peace talks, with the appointment of a woman to the Supreme Court running third.

The poll, to determine the range of women's interest in newspaper stories, was conducted last week during the annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Clubs.

The results were announced yesterday.

Neighbors Complain

Horse Stirs a Zoning Hassle

BAYVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The father of Karen Southard says he will fight this Long Island village all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary for her right to keep Mr. Magoo.

Mr. Magoo is a brown quarter horse, 13, has owned since November and she loves him dearly. Quarter horses are a breed known for their speed up to a quarter of a mile.

While Karen loves Mr. Magoo, the neighbors of Ernest S. Southard have a different opinion. They complain the horse is causing their property values to deteriorate, disturbs their sleep with his whinnying at night and is in violation of a new village ordinance.

"This whole thing is just ridiculous," Southard said in an interview Wednesday night. "The complaints began a week before we bought the horse. One neighbor has an obsession. When my German shepherd and one of my neighbor's collies get to barking at night they make five times as much racket as Mr. Magoo."

WOULD FEEL BADLY

Tears flowed from Karen's eyes at a recent hearing by the Bayville Board of Zoning Appeals. She said she would feel badly if the board made her give up the horse. She rides Mr. Magoo, grooms him and cleans out his stable.

A decision was reserved until Saturday when the board's six members visit Southard's $35,000 home and inspect the adjoining 62-by-105-foot fenced area where Mr. Magoo roams.

Southard is seeking an exemption from the ordinance enacted June 21 which prohibits the harboring of nondomestic animals, including horses. Violators are subject to a $50 fine for each day an illegal animal is kept.

The Southards pleaded innocent to a charge brought by the building department.

"If we lose at the local level, my attorney is prepared to fight this to the Supreme Court," Southard said. "I'm committed too far to turn back now. It's cost me a lot of money, several thousand dollars, in fact."

Southard's attorney, Eric Roedel, said he believes the ordinance conflicts with Article 14 of the U.S. Constitution which prohibits taking property without due process of law.

Since 1949, there has been a tenfold increase in the number of families that own more than one car — from about 1.5 million to more than 13 million families at present. The number of families with three or more cars is nearing two million.

THEY KIDDING? — It's a sure bet one sign painter is going to have a red face after city hall gets a look at this sign in San Francisco. Elsewhere, it is referred to as the Golden Gate Bridge.

Assuming an average of 15 miles is consumed in the U. S., the 3,000 miles across the corn-miles per gallon, enough gaso- each day to propel 940,000 cars tint.

Preps Pitch In on Pickle Picking Program

EATON RAPIDS (AP) — "We've wondered why farmers are complaining, and now we are inclined to be more sympathetic," said the high school boy during a pause from his arduous new job of picking cucumbers for pickles.

A group of 93 boys from Gary, Ind., is working for the Helitz Pickle Co. near Eaton Rapids this summer.

They are replacing the Mexican braceros who used to pick the cucumbers until Congress banned importation this year of foreign agricultural workers.

The decision brought opposition from farmers who were concerned that nobody else would take on the stoop-labor job. One result was the cucumber acreage was cut back somewhat this season.

LITTLE THOUGHT

"City folks get pickles out of all the work that's involved," added the boy, Wayne Brown, a high school senior.

The boys working at Eaton Rapids were recruited by the U.S. Department of Labor and formed into A-Teams — athletes in temporary employment as agricultural manpower.

"It's a little too early yet to evaluate the effectiveness of the A-Team pickle picking program," said William Masse, 36, a Gary high school teacher who heads one A-Team contingent of 31 boys at Eaton Rapids. "We're supposed to work here until Aug. 27, I understand," he said. "We'll know better then."

BOYS IMPROVING

Robert Schwartz, the company's general field manager, said he couldn't offer any figures on how many pickles the A-Team boys were picking per hour. The figure now is considerable less than for braceros, he said, but the boys are improving daily.

"This work is hard on the back," said Eric Dickerson, 17. "But I guess I'll get used to it after three weeks. At least that's what they tell us."

The boys earn $1.25 an hour, receive free housing and pay

$2.25 a day for their meals. They are staying at the Michigan State Holiness camp ground near Eaton Rapids, where they have a recreation program of baseball, badminton, fishing and television.

BACKS SORE

Charles Sheldahl, 17, said the backs of his thighs were sore for the first three days of work. "This will teach the kids to get an education if they don't want to pick pickles all their life," he added.

Gene Hedrick, 15, wondered why "can't they develop some kind of suction machine that would pull the cucumbers off the vines?"

He was told that mechanical harvesters have been developed, but there still are some bugs to be worked out in them.

Suffocates in Feed Bin

MOUNT PLEASANT (AP) — Cindy Vanacker, 8, of Mount Pleasant suffocated Wednesday when she fell into a feed bin on the farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Camiel Vanacker.

Don't think that North's bidding represented insanity. Quite the contrary! North was of very sound mind, but slightly hard of hearing.

When East opened the bidding with one heart, North thought he had said "Pass." Hence North was bidding on the assumption that Walter Malow who sat South had opened with a forcing two diamond bid.

East was pretty sure that his opponents were confused and his double was an attempt to punish them for their confusion. It also was a great mistake. West assumed that the double called for a club lead and led a club whereupon Walter was able to make the grand slam.

It wasn't very lucky! All it required was a diamond finesse; a two-two trump break; a favorable opening lead; and the possession by East of the ace of spades and king-queen of hearts so that a squeeze would be developed.

Walter won the club lead in dummy and led the queen of West passes. Your partner bids five no-trump. What do you do now after East passes?

"A MATTER OF ADJUSTING"—Thomas H. (Mickey) Countee Jr., a wheelchair-bound quadriplegic, poses at his Peace Corps desk in Washington where he has worked full-time for the past three years. "It was just a matter of adjusting my thinking to this way of life," Countee said in discussing his handicap.

There have been found patterns of hormone change that affect victims of cancer, including those suffering from lung cancer.

If present patterns prevail, more than 80 per cent of the teen-agers entering high school this year will never take a course in economics.

The medical term for headache is "cephalgia" and comes from three Greek words meaning "a condition of head pain."

Confined to Chair but Not to Isolation

By DON CARSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—"It was just a matter of adjusting my thinking to this way of life," Thomas H. (Mickey) Countee Jr. hitched himself up in his wheelchair. An open folder lay on his desk in the Peace Corps office where he puts in 40 hours a week screening overseas applications.

Strapped to his arm were two metal splints. One held a container to steady his pen; the other a tubular device for telephone dialing.

At 25 — he will be 26 Saturday — Countee has spent seven years in what he calls "this way of life."

QUADRUPLEGIC
He is a wheel chair-bound quadriplegic. An accident in 1968 left his legs paralyzed; his arms partly so.

He has worked full time for the Peace Corps for the past three years, winning during that time a bachelor's degree from Washington's American University and financing two years at Georgetown University's four-year law school.

Ultimately, Countee hopes to practice in New York.

Seven years ago, his thoughts were far from New York and the law.

HARVARD STUDENT
He had completed his second year at Harvard and like many 19-year-old college boys was unwinding during the summer.

He was at a Chesapeake Bay beach in Maryland when his world was shattered.

He dove from a pier. His head struck the sand. The impact crushed his spinal cord.

For three months, he lay in a hospital; for a year, he strained with the discomfort and pain that stems from a rehabilitation program.

RETURNS HOME
At last, he returned to his parents' home in Washington. Slowly during that first year, he reentered the world outside the hospital. He took one college course. The next year he enrolled for a full load.

He took a year off to try a novel, submit articles to some of the nation's top magazines — "I got nothing but rejections."

He resumed his education in 1962, combining it now with the Peace Corps job.

Countee can't pinpoint one factor as helping him transfer from the world of physical normalcy to that of the handicapped.

FAMILY SUPPORT
"Support from the family and friends and the best medical care — these things sustained me," he said.

"I more or less tried to cope with it."

"I was fortunate. Sure, there were times of fairly deep depression. I was in a good deal of pain for more than a year. But the sieges of despondency didn't last too long."

"Perhaps the greatest effect it had on me initially," he said, "was the way it affected my family. I knew the expenses would be heavy. I had one brother in prep school, and another about to start."

FAMILY CONCERN
"I think that was the greatest concern at that time — the family."

The family consists of his brothers and parents. His father is a lawyer and high school teacher; his mother is a social worker.

The brothers did get to prep school, and one is now a junior at Stanford. The other will enter Syracuse University this fall.

"I was fortunate in having a family which could adjust to the hardships they knew were ahead," he said, then grinned.

"And it was good to have two strong brothers. You know, I weigh about 200 pounds and this wheel chair adds about 80 more. That's not easy pushing."

HAS ATTENDANT
Today, Countee has an attendant to dress him and drive him to and from work.

Persuasive Bragan Triumphs

By The Associated Press

Bobby Bragan can't sell National League umpires on his spitball theory but he may have them swinging at his round-house curve.

The Milwaukee manager helped the men in blue decide that they hadn't seen what they thought they'd seen in the second inning of Wednesday night's doubleheader opener against league-leading Los Angeles.

Bragan's persuasive power paid off in a 4-3 victory for the Braves and Walt Alston didn't stop seething until his Dodgers had salvaged the nightcap 2-2 and protected their first-place foothold.

The Los Angeles pilot lodged a protest — later withdrawn — after Bragan and the umpires contributed to a zany play during Milwaukee's decisive three-run second-inning rally in the first game.

Gene Oliver's homer had tied the score 2-2 and the Braves had runners on first and third with one out when pitcher Hank Fischer bounced to second baseman Jim Lefebvre.

Lefebvre swiped at Woody Woodward as the Braves runner passed him on the basepath, then threw wildly to first as Frank Bolling scored the go-ahead run. Both first base umpire Ken Burkhart and second base umpire Lee Weyer appeared to have signaled Woodward out on the play.

Bragan rushed onto the field to dispute the call and, after a huddle with all four umpires, Woodward was declared safe at second — and awarded third base on the overthrow. He scored the deciding run a moment later on Felipe Alou's infield out.

Woodward explained between games that Weyer had given the out sign at second because he assumed Burkhart already had made the same call. "Then they decided to have a conference and discovered neither one had called me out."

BREAK TIE
However, after the Dodgers took the nightcap, breaking a 2-2 tie in the eighth on Lou Johnson's run-scoring triple, Alston said he was satisfied with the umpires' explanation of the disputed play and would not file a protest.

Second-place Cincinnati dropped a 4-3, 10-inning verdict to San Francisco and fell two games behind the Dodgers while Pittsburgh blanked New York 3-0. St. Louis rocked Houston 9-4 and Philadelphia drubbed Chicago 7-2 in other NL games.

Jim Hart doubled in the 10th and scored on Hal Lanier's single, lifting the Giants past Cincinnati and enabling Juan Mari-chal to gain his 17th victory.

Favorite Drops Split Decision

Philippine Champion Gains New York Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Parts of Madison Square Garden looked like a disaster area early today following what old-timers called the worst riot in the 40-year history of the famed sports arena. Surprisingly, in view of the damage and heavy objects thrown, only a few people were hurt in the 25-minute riot.

It all stemmed from a controversial split decision awarded to world junior lightweight champion Flash Elorde of the Philippines over 11-5 favored Frankie Narvaez, a Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, in a non-title 10-rounder Wednesday night.

FIVE IN HOSPITAL

Police said five persons, two policemen and a fireman, were taken to St. Clare's Hospital. They said the fireman was hit on the mouth by a brick, one policeman was struck on the head by a fire hose nozzle, and the other hit in the back of his neck by a chair.

Five New Yorkers, including the alleged brick thrower, were arrested and booked on malicious mischief, a misdemeanor. One of the five — Jesus Valez, the alleged brick tosser — also was booked for felonious assault.

Cries of "robbery" and "thieves" from "Irate Narvaez backers in the crowd of 6,918 rang out after it was announced two officials had voted for Elorde five rounds to four with one even, giving the Filipino underdog the decision. The other official voted for Narvaez, 7-2 with one even.

Market Session Mixed

Gold Mining Stocks in Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — A rally by gold mining shares featured a mixed session on the New York Stock Exchange early this afternoon.

Prices of most key issues showed very little or no change. The gold shares advanced 1 or 2 points, making new highs in some instances. Their rise reflected a jump in the price of gold on the London Bullion Exchange to the highest price in years.

Fear of currency devaluation

In Britain had its echoes in Wall Street, as the British pound and the dollar are closely related in international finance.

TRIMMED LATER

Some of the best gains of gold mining shares in Wall Street were trimmed later, however, as prices of other stocks rallied in London, showing that the immediate impact of the gold price news was softened.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 328.4 with industrials, rails and utilities unchanged as well.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 54 at 883.34.

Prices were higher in afternoon trading on the American Stock Exchange. American Corporate bond prices were mixed. U. S. Treasury bonds sagged in reaction to the advance in the price of gold in London.

Five-State Call Out in Slaying

Hunt Pair in Killing of Chicago Policeman

CHICAGO (AP) — Police of five states were asked today to hunt for two brothers wanted for questioning about the robbery killing of a Chicago police sergeant.

Teams of detectives searched hideouts in the city. Police in Gary, Ind., were joined by Chicago police after the two men were reported seen Wednesday night in Harvey, Ill., and police informants said that they had gone to Gary.

The 17-year veteran of the police force was fatally shot in the temple at close range Wednesday as he tried to prevent the robbery of a North Side supermarket. The slaying touched off what police described as the biggest man-hunt in recent Chicago history.

Eichorst was near the Treasury Island Food Mart shortly after it opened at 9 a.m. when an unidentified person told him the store was being robbed.

He ran to the holdup scene and saw a man, apparently a lookout, outside the front entrance and ordered him to raise his hands and face the wall.

Eichorst started to search the man, the second robber dashed out of the store and shot the policeman. Police said Eichorst apparently never saw his assassin.

FLED ACROSS LOT

The gunman fled across a parking lot with an estimated $3,000 taken from the safe of the grocery. Police said all the money carried in a paper bag was recovered because the bag became torn and the currency dropped out.

Lt. John Glas, one of the officers in charge of the investigation, identified the two brothers as Holice Black, 21, and Richard Black, 20. He said the older brother had a record of 10 arrests served six months in jail for theft.

Glas said as the two robbers fled they stripped off their shirts in an effort to avoid recognition. He said a traffic ticket bearing Holice Black's name was found in a pocket of one shirt.

A report that two men had vaulted the 20-foot wall of Wrigley Field, home of the Chicago Cubs baseball team, touched off a search of the ball park with police dogs and their policemen handlers. The ball park search was called off after an hour and 15 minutes.

Eichorst's partner, Philip Tolant, wept as he described the shooting.

"Eichorst was the first to arrive," he sobbed. "Charlie was that kind of guy — he was always first in."

NEW YORK (AP) — Washington is eyeing the nation's stock exchanges again with the idea of getting more power to review their ways of doing business.

In return it may offer them immunity from antitrust suits.

Presumably the investing public would get the securities and exchange commission considers needed additional protection from the professional operators in the stock markets — and the exchanges would be freed of some troublesome suits.

The SEC has been asking, getting, changes in stock exchange rules since 1963, following a study given emphasis by the 1962 stock crash. After considerable sparring in the early stages of this drive, the exchanges have acquiesced and helped draw up the new rules.

The Supreme Court held in 1963 that the New York Stock Exchange doesn't have blanket immunity from antitrust suits because of SEC regulation. Now the commission apparently would like to tighten its regulatory powers once more and get congressional immunity for the exchanges from antitrust suits.

But in his letter Cohen indicated that any action of the SEC as a reviewing authority over the exchanges would be subject to court review.

PRIVATE SUITS

A number of private antitrust suits have been filed in federal courts around the country against the New York Stock Exchange, charging its members acted like an insiders club to the detriment of brokerage houses that didn't belong. None of the suits has yet been decided.

Greek Crisis Flares Anew

Premier Is Defeated in Confidence Vote

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Premier George Athanasiadis Novas was re-elected today after his defeat in a stormy parliamentary vote of confidence in an unexpected move. King Constantine asked him to remain in office pending a NOVAS crisis.

Most observers had thought the king would accept the resignation immediately and name a new premier. His request to Athanasiadis Novas to remain in office temporarily indicated the king was undecided on his next step.

Before his overthrow in Parliament early today, Athanasiadis Novas suggested that Constantine call the leaders of all political parties together to discuss the crisis.

The outgoing premier said today the king had decided not to call a council of the party leaders but to consult with them individually.

NEW CHOICE?

Stephanos Stephanopoulos, deputy premier under George Papandreu, 75, was considered a strong possibility to be asked to form a government. The king Papandreu three weeks ago in a dispute over who should control the armed forces.

Also talked about as possible nonpolitical choices were George Mavros, a member of Parliament, and a member of the Center Union party and the head of the Bank of Greece, and Xenophantos Zolotas, deputy governor of the National Bank.

There were fears that if a lasting solution is not found, Greece would revert to the political instability of 1950-52. There were nine changes of government during the two years.

The Athanasiadis Novas government was voted down 167-131 in a stormy eight-hour session of Parliament last night. Deputies traded punches, catcalls and threats and the proceedings were suspended briefly. Speaker Emmanuel Baklatzis banged his gavel, rang his bell and shouted himself hoarse until the brawl eased.

APPLAUD DECISION

Outside the parliament building, 1,000 Papandreu supporters chanted their hero's name and tried unsuccessfully to break through police lines when word of the voting outcome reached them.

Papandreu had vowed to bring down his successor and return to power. But this seemed unlikely unless a general election were called.

I hope the disappearance of the Athanasiadis Novas government will mark the beginning of the restoration of constitutional order," he told newsmen.

Papandreu had announced on July 15 that he was resigning after the king refused to give him control of the armed forces.

A new government named Athanasiadis Novas without waiting for the premier's formal resignation and without canvassing the sentiment of Parliament. Although the king's action was technically legal, Papandreu contended it violated the principles of parliamentary monarchy.

By tradition, the king now should call on Papandreu, as head of the largest party, to form a new government. But political observers saw little chance of a reconciliation between the two.

Planners Support Roadway Vacating

The City Planning Commission last night recommended the vacating of Glenwood, Montclair to Kennel; Lowell, Glenwood east to the alley; and in Glenwood between Lowell and Kennel.

These are part of those street and alley vacations made necessary by the auto plant expansions.

A favorable recommendation was also granted last night to the vacating of Tallahassee between Woodward and Saratoga.

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) —

Parents of three Maccumb youths have been ordered to pay $991 for their sons' house-wrecking spree.

Applying a seldom-used Michigan statute holding parents liable for up to $500 damage caused by children, Macomb County Circuit Judge Alton B. Nov found the vandals committed two years ago to a building owned by Mrs. Stephanie Kopec.

Mrs. Kopec sued for $2,000, claiming that the youths broke windows, tore down a furnace, smashed walls and wrote obscene words in her building.

Parents of the teen-agers were ordered to pay $330.33 each to Mrs. Kopec.

Police said one youngster admitted vandalizing the building and implicated the others.

Teen Injured in Accident

Gary Dale Majors, 15, of 359 Hickory, Waterford Township, was reported in satisfactory condition this morning in Pontiac General Hospital following an accident yesterday afternoon in the Waterford Township High School parking lot.

Majors lost control of a go-cart he was driving and it rammed into the school building.

He received a fractured foot and head lacerations, according to hospital officials.

WCTU Head Wants U.S. 'Sobriety Policy'

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the national Women's Christian Temperance Union said today that the war on poverty cannot be won until sobriety becomes a "national policy."

"Poverty cannot be exterminated without elimination of things that create it," said Mrs. Fred J. Toose of Evanston, Ill. "Drink and alcoholism create poverty. Sobriety is not the national policy that it should be."

That assessment is given by Theodore C. Sorensen, Kennedy's special counsel, in his forthcoming book, "The Second of July," which is the first of a series of essays, the first entitled "The Kennedy I Knew," is contained in the current issue of Look magazine.

The senior Kennedy concerned himself "almost entirely with tactics, almost never with substance," Sorensen writes.

"He knew that Jack disagreed with him sharply on matters of public policy. And they spoke to two generations."

Eye Smuggling of Refugees

Order Probe After Reds Free Berliners

BERLIN (AP) — East German police are probing for evidence of eye smuggling of refugees from the business of rescuing refugees from communism for cash.

The West Berlin said a refugee smuggling ring had profited them $100-175 for taking forged West German documents to prospective refugees in East Berlin. They were to get the bulk of the money on their return, they said.

After a show trial, the Communists gave three of them prison sentences and let all four return to West Berlin Monday, saying they were pawns of "human slavery" in West Berlin.

The East German action was viewed as a propaganda maneuver, but West Berlin's Deputy Mayor Heinrich Albertz said Wednesday night the case would be investigated.

MAKING MONEY

A highly informed source in West Berlin said the city's western sector has "unscrupulous, ruthless and strictly commercial organizations operating for the sole purpose of making money from the plight of refugees."

One professional observer of the many escape organizations said they are made up of "thieves and idealists, commercial traffickers or the irresponsible."

"It's not a crime so there is no way of controlling them," he said. "The best groups are truly professional and they usually do not accept money in payment, although they will ask money for whatever it costs to bring a person out. Tunnels, for example, are very expensive."

One reliable source said the Communists themselves sometimes permit refugees to escape for cash.

"If the price is right, they will see to it that the person gets out," the source said.

The Germans were Guenter Muecke, 30, Klaus Lensek, 25, Hans-Dietrich Hofmann, 22, and Wolfgang Krefz, 28. They said they worked for the ring because they needed the money.

Priest Reports Sudan Carnage

LONDON (UPI) — More than 1,400 persons were killed during a July massacre in the southern Sudan "when northern Moslem Arabs fell on southern Christian Christians," the Rome Catholic newspaper Universe reported today.

In a front-page report the nationally circulated weekly said a Sudanese priest had sent a tape recording to the Universe but his name could not be given for fear of reprisals.

The Universe, describing the priest only as Father Joseph, quoted him as saying:

"The Arabs rose against the Negroes in every town of the south on the night of July 10 without warning. Innocent people were hunted down like wild beasts and either shot or tied in sacks which were then set fire."

They continued to plunder and burn all night and next day until the afternoon."

Distillery Will Keep Gin on the 'Rocks'

NEW YORK (AP) — Tiffany's, a posh 5th Avenue jewelry store, has 84 1/2 ounces of gin instead of water gurgling over some $930,000 worth of gems in a window display. There is a drought here, you know.

Trouble is, the gin evaporates. Nobody wanted that so ice left high and dry. So a distilling company has agreed to replace it free of charge. At a rate of some 12 1/2 flasks a day.

Sex Sparked Interest in Films During '50s

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of five articles on the sex revolution in movies.)

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD — The 1950s were Hollywood's dark decade. Everything seemed to conspire against the film industry.

THOMAS
With costs rising and attendance slashed in half, some studios flirted with bankruptcy. The companies tried 3-D, wide screens, even smells. Nothing worked for long.

RKO and Republic ceased operations as film producers. Other companies stayed alive only by making TV films, selling real estate, drilling for oil and dumping old movies into television.

CONVICTION GREW
The conviction grew among producers that films would have to come to grips with sex.

A maverick Viennese was to lead them. In 1962, Otto Preminger made a film version of a seemingly harmless sex play, "The Moon Is Blue." Because Preminger refused to cut the words "virgin" and "seduce" from the script, the production code refused a seal. The National Legion of Decency condemned the film.

"The Moon Is Blue" turned into a big money-maker. The seal was refused again to Preminger for showing a drug injection by Frank Sinatra in "The Man with the Golden Arm." The code banned the depiction of dope. This time the Legion didn't condemn.

"GOLDEN ARM"
"Golden Arm" proved just that at the box office, further convincing producers that the code had to be updated.

The big change came in 1966 when revisions provided that: Miscegenation was no longer banned; abortion, white slavery and dope addiction could be treated with certain restrictions; swear words could be injected when dramatically valid.

The code retained bans on sex perversion, venereal disease, sex hygiene and nudity and added a clause against open-mouthed kissing.

Franker films drew alarm from the keepers of public morality, but they also sparked renewed public interest in movies. No star did more to incite that interest during the 1950s than Marilyn Monroe.

WHISPERY VOICE
She was a girl with a whispery voice that made her seem all the sexier. In reality, she spoke softly out of sheer fright.

Yet Marilyn had an air of in-born naturalness that made her sexiness seem like the real article.

Marilyn symbolized the new attitude toward sex in films. She feared her career would be ruined when it was revealed that she had once posed in the nude. Her career boomed after the news, and later she cheerfully autographed the photos of herself nude on red velvet.

NEW FILM LOOK—In a do-or-die struggle with television during the 1950s movie producers discovered that films which raised an eyebrow or two would fill theaters. Hollywood's production code was liberalized. Marilyn Monroe, above, symbolized a new attitude in films as she ventured across a breezy grating in New York for a 1954 movie.

Oil Not Eggs-actly Well

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Industry tippees lightly, if at all, when it comes to eggs and oil at Sespe Creek.

Plans for an oil well drilling operation, a $90-million dam, a water system and roads can be halted by an egg — that's right, one big egg.

It's a California condor egg — and it hasn't even been laid yet. The Eastern Interior Oil Co. of Ventura has a permit to drill a well on a federal lease at Sespe Creek — right in the heart of a Condor refuge.

There are only about 40 of the giant birds left, and the National Audubon Society watches them all like — well, a hawk.

The oil firm's operations could be stopped if a Condor nests within a half mile of the site.

The society is also fighting plans of the United Water Conservation District for the dam and water system, and other plans for a scenic highway across the mountains.

The society says it is afraid noise may disturb the rare birds, stopping eggs and, eventually, wiping out the Condors.

Gen. Pulaski Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oct. 11 will be Gen. Pulaski Memorial Day.

President Johnson proclaimed the day Wednesday as a tribute to Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, a Pole who came to help Americans win their revolution and was fatally wounded while leading a cavalry charge during the siege of Savannah, Ga.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — "A change of scenery, faces and attitude" was given as the reason for the brief disappearance of actress Diane McBain.

The blonde actress was found at the Hotel Del Coronado Wednesday after her parents became alarmed and notified police.

Can't Sing, Says LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson can't carry a tune, a completely informed source says.

The source is Johnson. He told a choir from Bakersfield (Calif.) college in the White House rose garden Wednesday: "While I yield to no one in my enjoyment of harmony — you can take that any way you like — I yield to anyone in my ability to carry a tune."

Deputy Can't Recall Arresting Dog Before

HAINES CITY, Fla. (AP) — Carl Bower got tired of Bill "Runt" Combs' head dog hanging around his yard. So he obtained a court order Wednesday charging the hound with trespassing.

Deputy Wesley Johnson, who served the order, said it was the first time he ever arrested a dog. The hound was taken to the county pound at Barrow.

Goldberg, Ford to Talk as Conferences Go On

Amid Marriage Rumors

Sinatra, Actress Aboard Yacht

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Singer Frank Sinatra, 49, and TV actress Mia Farrow, 48, are vacationing aboard a luxurious, 108-foot yacht amid rumors that they are about to be married.

The couple dined Wednesday night at a restaurant on a moonlit harbor of Martha's Vineyard Island, and were joined by actresses Claudette Colbert, Merle Oberon, Rosalind Russell and their husbands.

When the party left the dinner table, Sinatra put his arm around the young actress who portrays Allison Mackenzie in the TV drama Peyton Place, and together they walked through a garden to a motor launch and were taken out to the sleek white yacht.

In answer to newsmen's questions, both Sinatra and Miss Farrow refused to say whether they are already or are about to be married, but rumors on the island persisted.

MARRIED TODAY

One was that the couple would be married today at the farm estate of actor James Cagney in Chilmare, one of the island's six towns.

Some insisted that "Sinatra and Farrow already were married." Others said they just "behaved as though they would be."

The couple and their party left the chartered yacht, "Southern Breeze," Wednesday for a shopping tour of the picturesque island. The Southern Breeze is owned by C. W. Edwards of Houston, Tex.

Later at dinner, both were dressed informally. Sinatra wore dark slacks, a light jacket and a turtle-neck shirt. Miss

Farrow, a blue-eyed, freckled blonde, wore a beige dress and a darker beige double-knit jacket.

SECOND MARRIAGE

Sinatra has been married twice, the last time to actress Ava Gardner. If he and Miss Farrow are married soon it would be the second marriage involving film stars within a few weeks. Cary Grant, 61, recently married Joan Cannon, 27.

Miss Farrow is the daughter of actress Maureen O'Sullivan and the late director John Farrow.

MIA FARROW SINATRA

WASHINGTON (AP) — You may be seeing your congressman often now, and hearing from him more by telephone.

The House passed Wednesday, sending to the Senate, bills that would:

Provide two more government-paid round trips for members to their home districts annually, or a total of five, and pay for two trips by the congressman's staff.

Increase by 20 per cent the allowance for long distance telephone calls and telegrams.

Double, to a total of $2,400, the allowance for rental of offices in the home district when free space is not available in government buildings.

Survey Details Effects in U.S.

Economy Feels Impact of Viet Buildup

(EDITOR'S NOTE: President Johnson's request to Congress for more money to pay for the war in Viet Nam focuses attention on the impact of the war on the American economy. This story, based on an Associated Press survey, details economic effects in many of the nation's industrial centers.)

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's military buildup for the war in Viet Nam is already having some economic effect in increased production and payrolls, an Associated Press survey, details economic effects in many of the nation's industrial centers.

A Hartford, Conn., firm plans to hire as many as 500 additional workers to handle helicopter contracts. Aerospace employment is up in the Los Angeles area. A Rochester, N.Y., firm reports sales to government and defense contractors "in strong vein." A Philadelphia firm reports, "We already are feeling this acceleration." These are a few of the effects reported.

But other areas report no step-up. The evidence still is too fragmentary to show what overall impact the war — already costing the United States $3 million to $4 million a day — will have on the American economy.

Certainly some of the production increase disclosed by checks around the country is the result of the U.S. effort in Viet Nam, as well as a general military buildup. And Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Wednesday the Pentagon is "preparing to gear up the production machine."

AMMUNITION EXPENDED

In Viet Nam, ammunition is being expended in increasing quantities. Aircraft, automotive equipment, communications sets, clothing and other items wear out from usage and must be replaced. But the Defense Department and many of the manufacturers are unable or unwilling to say what portion of the daily spending rate is attributable to production needs for Viet Nam.

One thing seemed certain: Procurement of military goods is going to increase.

McNamara, presenting the administration's request to Congress Wednesday for a $1.74-billion increase in the fiscal 1966 budget, gave that indication. He said his department hasn't had sufficient time to prepare detailed requirements and plans "for the additional materiel and facilities needed for the support of the expanding operations in Southeast Asia."

A check shows the curious fact that while the war in Viet Nam grew more fierce in the first six months of this year, Pentagon expenditures for all types of procurement decreased from the same period a year ago. The January-June period this year saw expenditures totaling $5.6 billion, which compared with $7.9 billion for the like period last year.

When asked why, spokesmen suggested several factors influenced the trend, including the tapering off this year in procurement of Minuteman missiles as that program neared completion and a slower rate of spending for the Polaris missile fleet, which also is beginning to approach completion.

LOWER COSTS

It also seemed probable that McNamara's "cost effectiveness" campaign, in which he has been pressing for lower costs in production of items, may have held down the dollars spent for procurement.

There have, however, been indications of accelerated spending in recent weeks.

These hints show up in batches of contracts announced daily. When the daily total of contracts announced is moderate or small — Wednesday's total amounted to $62,677,092 — there have been some outside strings. On July 30, a long string of contracts announced had a total value of more than $245 million — one of the largest in recent times.

NEW ORDERS

These new orders in some instances will influence the pay checks or numbers of workers for weeks or months. In others, especially those where the contracts are additional orders on previous procurement, the impact will be more immediate.

Is industry being urged by the Defense Department to go into use of multiple shifts of workers to meet orders?

A spokesman answered: "Delivery requirements on some contracts will be such as to require contractors to step up the rate of production. One way a contractor can do this is to go into multiple shifts of workers. Normally the need for extra shifts is dictated by delivery requirements and left to the discretion of the contractor."

Are expectations being made to the general policy of competitive bidding for contracts?

GENERAL POLICY

"Operating under authority of the armed services procurement regulation, there will be some instances of exceptions to the general policy of competitive bidding, when necessary to meet urgent or technical requirements. The general rule, however, will be to adhere to competitive bidding whenever possible."

What does industry say about the effects or noneffect of procurement in the first half of the year?

The Associated Press survey brought a variety of responses from manufacturing centers, none of them showing dramatic, heavy impact, but a number showing moderate results of the military's buying.

Among them were these: Philadelphia — Officials at Boeing-Vortel recalled McNamara's announcement last month that there would be a 100-percent increase in helicopter production and remarked, "We already are feeling this acceleration, requiring a 10-percent increase in the number of employees." On the other hand, a General Electric Co. spokesman in the area said there has been "nothing here at all which reflects the Viet Nam crisis" as far as his company is concerned.

COMBAT BOOTS

Baltimore, Md., area — The Bata Shoe Co. received a $20-million contract last week for 250,000 pairs of combat boots, possibly intended for use by forces in Viet Nam. The Martin Co. is modifying nine of the B-57 jet light bombers, like those already in use in Viet Nam, but this work is being done at the company's Tucson, Ariz. plant, under a $2-million contract. Westinghouse defense and space centers said it doesn't attribute the war in Viet Nam to the contracts on which it is working.

Detroit — The defense contract administration office for the Detroit region reported it has "noticed no step-up in the three months" since this office was opened. The office said about 5,000 contracts are under its administration now and estimated this is normal.

Seattle, Wash. — Little impact is noted for the state of Washington. No new orders have been received by the big Boeing plant and only minor contracts have gone to some other Seattle area firms for such items as Coast Guard vessels and the refurbishing of one mothballed ship out of the reserve fleet.

Newport News, Va. — The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. is overhauling two of five ships which have been taken out of the James River mothballed fleet of cargo type vessels. But the work on the two will be completed within the next week or two.

OIL FIRMS

Dallas, Tex. — Jake L. Hamon, chairman of the National Petroleum Council, said oil companies will have to increase the flow and attributed to a military official a statement that there has been a 300-percent increase in oil use in the Asian area within four months. Hamon said this meant that oil companies were being told they should be ready to supply 300 percent more oil in the next few months.

Also in Dallas, a Ling-Temco-Vought spokesman said that company has no new contracts and no accelerating of existing contracts. A Texas instrument company spokesman reported his company has a $100-million backlog of orders and that although there is steady growth "we can't ascribe it to Viet Nam." Collins Radio Corp. reported, "We have noticed an increase in production" on existing contracts for aviation and ground communications equipment. "A moderate increase which we feel is connected with the Viet Nam buildup."

Fort Worth, Tex. — Bell Helicopter Co. reported two contracts in less than eight months for a total of 720 helicopters and "a production increase is obvious." Bell is leasing more building space for expansion. General Dynamics Corp. is testing the new F111 tactical fighter, which could be used in such a war as Viet Nam. But full production of that aircraft still is a year or more away.

Nashville, Tenn. — The Genesee Co. reports large orders for jungle boots, an item popular with troops in Viet Nam's rice paddy fighting.

TURBINE ENGINES

Hartford, Conn. — Lycoming Division of Avco Corp. at Stratford received a $45.2-million contract, mainly involving gas turbine engines for helicopters. It has plans to hire as many as 500 more workers.

Burlington, Vt. — The General Electric plant there reported $16 million in defense contracts since Jan. 1 for manufacture of gun parts; employment since that time has increased from 1,100 to 1,600 workers — dollar totals and employment were described as well ahead of the pace for the first six months of last year.

Rochester, N.Y. — Spokesmen for defense-related firms said they have had no sudden calls for speedups. But Eastman-Kodak Co. reported sales to government and defense contractors "in strong vein," accounting for 12 percent of total sales in the first half of 1965, compared with 9 percent for the same period last year.

Young children learn more through cars than through their eyes, the National Education Association reports.

Since World War II, the Eiffel Tower has drawn more than a million visitors a year. It is Europe's No. 1 attraction.

Fifteen-century sailors shuddered if their ship listed to starboard; they considered it a very bad omen.

Children to Join Antimouse Drive

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungarian children have been urged to help rid the country of mice — a major pest which is threatening this year's harvest.

The antimouse drive was ordered by the Hungarian Ministry of Agriculture. The entire rural population — children included — have been asked to take part.

Hungary's considerable mouse population caused several hundred million dollars damage to the agriculture last year, deputy agriculture minister Janos Keresi said in an article in the Hungarian Communist Party daily Nepszabadsag recently.

The harvest census showed that their numbers have increased alarmingly meanwhile.

Vote Rights Bill Awaits Signing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A voting rights bill which President Johnson says "brings within our immediate vision the day when every American can enter a polling booth without fear or hindrance" needs only his signature to make it law.

The President will choose the time and place to make the signing a ceremonial landmark in the achievement of civil rights for Negroes.

The Senate, suddenly speeding up its procedures, gave the final congressional approval to the bill last night, 79 to 18, and the President went to the Capitol to extend congratulations in person.

Johnson, in a formal statement, thanked on behalf of the country the members of Congress of both parties who voted for the measure.

"Their action honors them as much as it perfects our country," he said, and later he added special commendations for the work on behalf of the measure by the two Senate leaders—Democrat Mike Mansfield and Republican Everett M. Dirksen.

Johnson said "they will be long remembered for what they have done on this bill."

LITERACY TESTS

The bill will suspend the use of literacy tests, said to be used to discriminate against Negroes, in much of the South and permit the federal government under specified conditions to take over the registration of voters.

It also calls for the attorney general to bring a court test on the constitutionality of poll taxes still used in state and local elections in Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

MANISTEE (AP)—Pretty police spy Peggy Allen yesterday identified 17 of the 20 defendants in the Steren Assembly Club case as being her fellow gamblers the night state police raided the plush Madison Heights establishment.

Miss Allen, 29, said she entered the club with $200 in marked bills given her by state police investigators. The defendants are charged as operators of a gambling club.

The girl, a former legislative secretary, identified one defendant as the man who "raked in money on the dice table and passed out chips."

She said another defendant was the gambling overseer.

The case, which stems from an October 1961, raid on the club, is being heard here before Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick Ziem.

GMC Truck Hits New Sales Mark

GMC Truck & Coach Division today reported an all-time sales mark for the first seven months of 1965.

Delivery of 72,208 trucks and buses to the domestic market are reported for the period.

Calvin J. Werner, general manager of the division and a vice president of General Motors said the record January through July figure this year topped by 13.1 per cent the 63,819 units delivered during the same period last year.

Werner said sales during the past month of 10,348 trucks and buses exceeded those of July 1964 by 11 per cent.

Hanoi Army Headquarters in Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist North Viet Nam has moved the headquarters for an entire army division into nominally neutral Cambodia, U.S. military intelligence sources said today.

The American intelligence sources told UPI that the headquarters directs the fighting of the 10,000-man 325th Division in the central highlands of South Viet Nam.

The new hideout was pinpointed about 270 miles north of Saigon in a trackless Cambodian wilderness between Laos and South Viet Nam.

The division's sanctuary was tracked down by secret radio surveillance planes. The new equipment was put to use after American intelligence lost track of the 325th headquarters.

The sources said the aerial surveillance planes have also spotted a supply base and airfield far deeper inside Cambodia. They said it appears to be funneling supplies to the Viet Cong and regular North Vietnamese troops.

The air base is about 50 miles south of the division headquarters.

after a Viet Cong mortar attack. A million gallons of fuel used by U.S. and Vietnamese planes stationed at the base went up in smoke.

The base is connected with South Viet Nam by national highway 19. Aircraft have sighted convoys of as many as 40 trucks rolling from Bo Kheo to the Vietnamese district capital of Le Thuy. Le Thanh was recently abandoned to the Viet Cong rebels by the Vietnamese government.

A Special Forces camp at Duc Co is the only remaining government outpost near the new Red convoy route. It has been under siege by the Viet Cong. A thousand government paratroopers were rushed into Duc Co on Tuesday to save the last outpost along the Communists' new supply line.

Yesterday, authoritative sources disclosed that the U.S. Army's First Cavalry Division (air mobile), en route to South Viet Nam, will be sent to the central highlands to confront North Viet Nam's 325th Division and to open and secure the area.

The sources said it would be possible for the 325th to have moved into its new headquarters without the permission, or even the knowledge of Cambodian officials.

The area is inhabited by primitive tribesmen who have scarcely heard of the Cambodian government.

Cambodia is officially neutral, but it has no diplomatic relations with the United States and has given verbal support to the Viet Cong rebels. But it has steadfastly denied giving the Reds bases.

Fuel Dump Hit Near Da Nang by Guerrillas

Loss Won't Seriously Affect U.S. Strikes, Yank. Official Says

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Viet Cong attack on a big aviation fuel dump near the Da Nang Air Base will not seriously affect U.S. air strikes, an American military spokesman said today.

Military authorities said the hit-and-run guerrillas destroyed two of the nine storage tanks in the complex early today and heavily damaged two others with an estimated loss of one million gallons of fuel.

All fuel for jets and propeller-driven planes operating from the big Da Nang base comes in by ocean-going tanker and is transferred to the harbor-side storage complex operated by Easco Standard East.

It is stored there until railroad cars transfer it to the base 10 miles to the southwest.

Large fuel dumps are located at the air base, however. The spokesman said it is believed they contain enough for immediate fuel needs.

EYEWITNESS

An eyewitness said Viet Cong commandos opened their attack about 1 a.m., inflicting heavy casualties with mortar fire on a government outpost protecting the storage complex.

Overrunning the outpost, the guerrillas blasted through the main gates of the dump and set the tanks afire with plastic charges and phosphorous rocket shells.

There was no report of Viet Cong casualties.

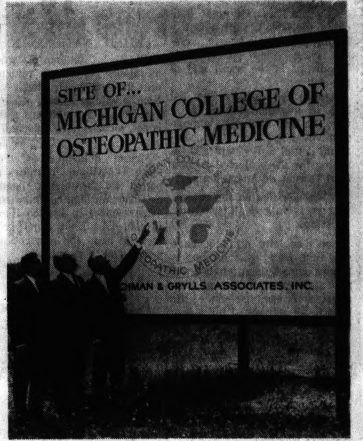

The complex lies about two miles from positions held by several hundred U.S. Marines.

DEFENSE ZONE

The Leathernecks were not sent to aid the post, which lies outside their defense zone.

But U.S. Marine artillery and gunfire from an American destroyer off Da Nang harbor were called on to shell suspected Viet Cong positions, military sources said.

An informant said fire from one destroyer fell short and hit (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Dirksen to Try Again on Districting Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen says he will try again for Senate approval of his constitutional amendment on legislative reapportionment, despite yesterday's defeat.

The margin of defeat—seven votes short of the requisite two-thirds majority—was narrower than had been expected. But when the Senate Republican leader was asked whether he was giving up, he replied, "A loud no."

He said his next attempt might be to substitute his amendment, which would override the Supreme Court's ruling that legislatures must be apportioned wholly by population, for the administration bill to repeal the unit shop provision of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Dirksen's proposed amendment would permit apportionment of one house to take geography and political subdivisions as well as population into account if the people of a state approved in a referendum.

Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., and William Proxmire, D-Wis.—all leaders of the opposition—predicted any effort to revive it would be beaten even more decisively.

On the showdown vote, after three weeks of debate, the tally was 57 for Dirksen's proposal and 39 against. Constitutional amendments require a two-thirds majority.

THE VOTE

Voting for the amendment were 29 Republicans and 28 Democrats. Voting against it were 36 Democrats and 3 Republicans.

Safecracking Ring Broken

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies today said they have cracked a ring responsible for at least six safe burglaries in the past 30 days.

Three men have been arrested and charged with both breaking and entering and safe burglary.

John Raymond, 31, of 829 S. Broadway, Lake Orion, and Larry Collier, 18, of 28 Burdick, Oxford, were arrested yesterday by Detective Fred Pender and Deputy Peter Earp.

Daniel Fisher, 19, of 655 Pleasant Ridge, Lake Orion, was picked up late last night. Both Raymond and Fisher have previous criminal convictions.

Irons said he believes the three were responsible for at least six safe burglaries in Lake Orion, Oxford, Goodison and Pontiac.

Pender and Earp, who headed up the investigation, described Raymond as being adept at cracking safes, but being sloppy in his work.

Fisher and Collier just went along, Pender said. Collier and Raymond were arraigned yesterday and were unable to furnish $5,000 bond. Fisher is expected to be arraigned today.

To Offer Finance Plan for County Buildings

The Oakland County Board of Auditors this morning was to present to the ways and means committee of the board of supervisors a plan to finance construction of new county buildings, including a courthouse wing.

The wing has been estimated to cost $1.6 million.

Projected revenue figures through 1968, plus $920,000 received from the sale of the TB sanatorium to the Oakland County Community College, indicate that $2,637,115 could be made available for new construction.

About $500,000 of this would be needed to build a South Oakland Health Center in Southfield.

On Tuesday, the building and grounds committee approved schematic floor plans for the health center.

It also gave approval to the hiring of an architect to begin preliminary plans on the courthouse addition.

Support Heard for State Income Tax

A State House subcommittee, meeting at the county court-house yesterday to hear the public's views on tax reform, received unanimous support for a state income tax.

In all cases, the endorsement was coupled with a plea for tax relief in other areas.

"The response was encouraging," said Subcommittee Chairman H. James Starr, D-Lansing, but he added:

"If a meeting of the legislature was held today, we couldn't muster up enough votes for a tax reform program."

He said that there were legislators who refused to discuss tax reform openly because it is politically unwise.

STUMBLING BLOCK

Another stumbling block in getting an income tax approved this year, according to Starr, is the fact that the state presently has a surplus of funds.

Starr, along with the two freshmen representatives on the subcommittee — Robert J. Slingerland, D-Lake Orion and Daniel S. Cooper, D-Oak Park — campaigned for election on an income tax platform.

Cooper said that the public must inform their legislators that they want fiscal reform. "We need help," he said.

Representatives of the American Association of University Women (AAUW), League of Women Voters (LWV), and farm bureau groups appeared before the subcommittee.

MEMBERS AGREE

Mrs. George Mosper of Birmingham, chairman of the Michigan AAUW Division subcommittee on taxation, said that the AAUW members "agree with the tax experts, the past and present governors and many legislators that the income tax is the heart of tax reform, and that the enactment of such a tax is a must before any other consideration."

President of the LWV of Birmingham-Bloomfield, Mrs. William Reddig, representing eight LWV chapters in the county, said that the present tax structure in Michigan is "regressive — with the lower income group paying the greater proportion of its earnings in taxes."

"Our basic revenue sources are the sales tax and the property tax," she said. "The sales tax is clearly regressive while the property tax is a very rough measure of ability to pay."

Robert E. Smith, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau, noted that farmers in Michigan are taxed about 15 per cent of their income on property, compared to about three per cent for the average homeowner.

TAX INCREASE

A Lapeer County farmer, Paul Friedenstab of Almont, told the committee that, since 1951, his property tax has increased 150 per cent, his school tax 350 per cent, while his income is 40 per cent less.

"I'm in a squeeze," he said. "My income is down and my taxes are up."

Dale Feest, county GOP chairman, said the Republican Party of Oakland County wants tax reform.

"Our platform on the county and state levels have called for changes in the tax structure since the payless paydays under Gov. Swanson."

City Planners Nix Request

City planners last night indicated they don't want a nearly 44-million multiple housing complex on a 30-acre parcel along Woodward in the south end of the city.

Basing the decision on the lack of available school facilities, the City Planning Commission voted last night to recommend denial of Residential R-3 zoning for the projected Bloomfield Townhouse Apartments.

Final decision on the rezoning rests with the City Commission.

However, city officials have said that even if the rezoning is finally denied, this probably will not stop construction of the apartment complex since the land is already zoned for a less restrictive use.

The 263-unit complex is planned by developer Charles L. Langs of Waterford Township for a tract of land south of East Boulevard, across from St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

ISSUED PERMIT
Langs, who has been issued a city building permit for two models, anticipates beginning construction within 30 days.

Under present city zoning ordinances, Langs does not need the R-3 rezoning to erect his complex. The land is zoned Manufacturing - 1, which means it could be used for light manufacturing, commercial or residential buildings.

The developer said that he sought the rezoning only to clarify the paperwork involved in the project.

Langs said that he had reserved a two-acre site for a projected elementary school. An estimated 100 to 200 pupils would be housed in the apartment units.

TABLE PROPOSAL
School officials have met with Langs on the projected school there, but the school board tabled the school proposal last April after protests were made by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Urban League.

These groups charged that by building a school on the site, the board would be furthering de facto segregation in the school system.

School Supt. Dr. Dana P. Whitmer said that the board had not undertaken any further discussion of purchasing a school site in the development.

The planning commission recommended denial of the rezoning on the basis that children from the proposed apartment would have to walk long distances to school along and across major streets with heavy traffic.

'Peking Is Blocking N. Viet Peace Bid'

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — A Ghanaian diplomat's mission to Hanoi returned with the impression North Viet Nam is willing to talk peace in Viet Nam but Communist China is not, sources here reported today.

African delegates in close touch with Ghanaian affairs reported that the mission, headed by Ghanaian high commissioner (ambassador) in London Kwasi Armah, had seen some glimmers of hope for a negotiated peace in its talks in Hanoi.

Trawler Picks Up 2nd Torpedo

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A deep sea trawler picked up a torpedo off the Virginia coast today in waters 80 miles north of a point where the trawler Snoopy was blown to bits by a similar catch last month.

But wary of the find that took eight lives in the Snoopy blast off Hatteras, the trawler New Bedford didn't try to bring the torpedo aboard.

Instead it reported to 5th District Coast Guard headquarters it was rigging the net containing the 10-foot cylinder to a fishing buoy and retiring to a safe distance.

The New Bedford, built in 1941 and owned by Mrs. Michael Smith of South Dartmouth, Mass., carries a crew of 10. Her skipper is Robert Carlisle of New Bedford, Mass.

NAVY TEAM

Atlantic fleet headquarters announced a Navy ordinance disposal team will be sent out today to disarm or destroy the torpedo. The team will remove the torpedo from the dredge and return the dredge to the trawler.

The water is 96 feet deep in the area, a fleet spokesman reported.

A fleet of trawlers was operating in the vicinity and the Coast Guard ordered the area cleared pending disposal of the New Bedford's find.

The Snoopy, out of Portland, Maine, had been working 41 miles east of False Cape on North Carolina's Outer Banks, for years a graveyard for ships and World War II's famed Torpedo Alley.

As her net came in, the skipper, Edward Doody of Portland, told the skipper of a nearby trawler, he had something and was going to bring it aboard.

"It just went. There was just a flash and it was all in pieces," said Norman Maillet, skipper of the trawler Prowler and former mate aboard the Snoopy. Maillet was talking with Doody by radio when the blast occurred.

Details were left purposely vague. There was talk of, but no agreement on, the necessity of reconvening the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina to thrust out a settlement.

The North Vietnamese hinted, the diplomats said, that if the decision were up to them alone they would be prepared to meet somewhere with the United States to discuss a cease fire.

But the diplomats said Armah returned from Hanoi convinced that the North Vietnamese, however willing they might be to talk on their own behalf, were hamstrung by Peking.

And the Chinese, they said, are definitely not interested in any negotiations at this time.

One African diplomat who claimed knowledge of the Armah mission said he felt "China will fight to the last North Vietnamese."

The reports of Armah's mission circulated here as quiet diplomatic efforts to bring the U.N. moratorium to the Viet Nam picture continued.

The six nonpermanent members of the Security Council — Bolivia, Uruguay, Ivory Coast, Netherlands, Malaysia and Jordan — have been meeting for the past few days to discuss what, if anything, the Security Council can do to help bring peace to Viet Nam.

First Degree Murder Trial for Area Boy
A 16-year-old Waterford Township boy was ordered yesterday to stand trial on a charge of first degree murder.

The youth, A. Ross Pearson, 1127 Alhi, stood mute to the charge when he appeared at his arraignment before Circuit Judge James S. Thorburn.

An innocent plea was entered for the teenager by Thorburn. No trial date was set.

Pearson is accused of the fatal stabbing of Jeffrey Talbot, 17, of 2045 Watkins Lake.

The stabbing occurred June 27 in front of the Talbot home in view of 20 persons, according to Waterford Township police.

Thorburn is considering a motion made by Pearson's attorney to have the boy released on bond pending his trial. He is presently being held in the county jail.

Pearson was taken into custody after he turned himself in at the Pontiac state police post shortly after the stabbing.

Chicago Firm Hit by Blast
CHICAGO (AP) — A bomb exploded Wednesday night outside a three-story building housing a glass company breaking some 40 windows. No one was injured.

The blast, apparently caused by a dynamite bomb, left a hole four feet in diameter and four inches deep in the street, police said. The bomb had been planted between two trucks owned by the Glass Shower Door Co. at 1051 N. Throop St.

Police estimated damage at $500.

Police did not connect the bombing to a series of explosions in downtown Chicago last month.

Saturn 5 Set for Test-Fire
HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — The first stage of America's Saturn 5 moon rocket was set for a 2½-minute test firing today to demonstrate for the first time the blast it will need to boost a 45-ton spaceship into the sky.

The five engines on the 13-story booster, firmly anchored to a test stand for the ground firing, were scheduled to roar into life at 3 p.m. CST (4 p.m. Pontiac time).

It will be an important step in the development of the 7½-million pound-thrust space machine and, will climax a series of shorter firings that started April 16 with a 6½-second run.

A military source at the scene said U.S. Air Force helicopters were called on to drop chemicals on the burning fuel tanks to keep the fires from touching off other tanks.

It was the boldest attack in the Da Nang area since Communist squads hit the base itself a little more than a month ago and destroyed three planes.

U.S. warships shelled the hills surrounding the storage complex two nights ago after a report was received that the Viet Cong was readying an attack on the Esso facility.

Scattered Viet Cong attacks over a wide area of South Viet Nam were reported today.

U.S. spokesmen gave this account:

The Communists made three strikes in Chuong Thien Province, in the Mekong Delta about 115 miles southwest of Saigon.

Mortar attacks were made against government installations at Vi Thanh, Duc Long and Long My. Vietnamese losses were described as light.

An estimated 50-150 Viet Cong attacked the Suoi Cao outpost about 15 miles northwest of Saigon. Fire and fighter planes were called in, and government casualties were described as light.

They also would delete references to three-story town houses in the zoning ordinance adopted 16 months ago.

The two present commissioners who served on the commission at that time are opposed to making the change.

Louis J. Colombo Jr. and James A. Beresford have based their objections on the legal action expected if the city makes its regulations more stringent.

LAWSUIT THREAT
The threat of lawsuits came from several sources last night.

The audience at the public hearing was heavily weighted with legal counsel.

The contemplated action was called "unjustifiable," "an arbitrary, pulled-out-of-the-air idea" and "a gamble."

Taylor Gives 2nd Viet Estimate Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Combining hope for the future with acknowledgment of "serious problems" in Vietnam, Mass. Gov. John F. Kennedy today gave his final ambassadorial accounting to a top ranking panel at the White House.

On Capitol Hill the administration moved to the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee with its plea for $1.7 billion more plus a $40,000,000 military manpower boost to gird for the Southeast Asian war.

President Johnson got a two-hour briefing from Taylor late Wednesday. Johnson said he was not impressed by the retiring ambassador's knowledge from his year in Saigon that he called a whole array of administration policymakers to today's 5:45 p.m. EDT session.

The President also announced he has asked Taylor to be a senior adviser to the President on military and diplomatic matters and has named him to the intelligence board which supervises U.S. intelligence activities. Taylor, 63, one-time Army chief, was chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff when Johnson sent him to South Vietnam.

CALLED IN

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Henry Cabot Lodge, Taylor's successor in the Saigon post, and other senior diplomatic, military and intelligence officers were called in for Taylor's report.

"The future," Taylor told newsmen after seeing Johnson, "is certainly far more hopeful than it was a year ago."

He said he left South Vietnam last week "feeling far from discouraged, although I recognize the serious problems we have — problems that are military, civilian and international in character."

"We are on the right track," he said, "it will take time. It will take determination."

NO SPECIFICS

Taylor declined to go into specifics on just how the war would be won or ended. He said the present 125,000-man goal for U.S. military strength in Vietnam is a reasonable figure, but he does not know whether this will be enough in the future. McNamara, who presented the administration's $1.7-billion request to the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee Wednesday, arranged to make a similar appearance before the House group today.

The chairman of the Senate subcommittee, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., predicted committee action next week. "Obviously this is not all that will be needed," he added.

The current limited request would raise the military appropriation total for this fiscal year to $46.9 billion and increase the armed forces total to 2.98 million men.

BACK FROM TRIP

Johnson also got a report Wednesday from his roving ambassador, W. Averell Harriman, just back from a trip to various European capitals after conferring in Moscow with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Harriman said the Soviets would be on the Communist side in any negotiations on Vietnam but "they'd like to see this thing settled." He said the Kremlin wants an international agreement on nuclear weapons control.

"As far as Viet Nam is concerned," he said, the Soviets think "that blocking the way to other agreements. I got the impression that the Soviet Union would like to see that matter settled so they could get on to what they consider more important matters later on."

William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, voiced doubt in an interview on educational television that Red China would enter the Viet Nam conflict any time soon.

Bundy figured Peking might get into the war quickly if the United States sought to overthrow the Communist Hanoi regime. But he noted this is not Washington's aim, so the Chinese will "hesitate a long while" about involvement because "they're fully aware of their own vulnerability."

Bundy also said the United States had checked out an indication from U.N. Secretary General U Thant early this year that North Viet Nam might be interested in peace talks. Intermediaries could not get confirmation on this from Hanoi, he said.

Social Security Facts

Can Work and Earn Benefits

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 11th in a 14-part series on the new health care and Social Security bill by John Troan, special writer for Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

BY JOHN TROAN

You don't have to quit working altogether to draw a Social Security retirement benefit. Starting with 1966, you'll be able to collect your full benefit as long as you don't earn more than $1,500 a year (as compared to $1,200 now). Even if you earn more, you may be eligible for some Social Security checks.

And no matter how much you make in one year, you'll be entitled — effective 1966 — to your regular Social Security check for any month in which you don't earn more than $125 (compared to $100 now).

If you are self-employed the same rules apply. However, you can't get a check for any month in which you perform "substantial services" even if your net earnings (profits) for that month fall to exceed the limit. There is no hard-and-fast definition of "substantial services." Generally, it means devoting more than 45 hours to your business during one month.

The ceiling on earnings is lifted the month you reach age 72. Then, you forfeit no Social Security benefits regardless of how much you earn.

In figuring your earnings, you count only such things as wages, salaries, commissions, and what you net from self-employment. DON'T COUNT INVESTMENT INCOME.

You do NOT count investment income (such as stock dividends, interest on bank deposits, rents you collect, private pensions, endowments on insurance policies, veterans' benefits, gifts, inheritances, capital gains, or royalties collected after age 65 from copyrights or

(Effective 1966)

Here is a table showing how much you can collect in Social Security benefits even if you continue working. First, look at the column on the left for the amount closest to the monthly benefit which you are getting or which your family is drawing on your Social Security account. Then look under the figure closest to your estimated earnings for the year to get a rough idea of how much Social Security you may still draw.

NOTE: Regardless of how much you make, you may still draw your regular check for any month in which your earnings don't exceed $125 or if you are self-employed, for any month in which you don't perform "substantial services."

patents you obtained before 65. However, rental income is counted if you are a real estate dealer or if you rent out your farm under an agreement permitting you to participate materially in "production or management of production." And dividends are counted if you deal in securities.

A wife's earnings do not affect a retired worker's benefits. But they are counted against her Social Security benefit if she is drawing one along with her husband.

On the other hand, earnings of a retired worker may count against any benefits his dependents are drawing — as well as against his own.

The ceiling on earnings applies also to widows and children getting Social Security checks. But a widow's earnings don't count against her children's benefits — and her children's earnings don't count against her benefit.

During 1965, you may earn up to $1,200 without losing any Social Security benefits. If you make more, $1 is taken out of your total year's benefit for each additional $2 earned. After you earn $1,700, a dollar is subtracted for every additional dollar of earnings.

EASE COMING Effective 1966, this will be eased. You may earn up to $2,700 a year — instead of just

$1,700 — before the dollar-for-dollar rule sets in.

Thus, from 1966 on: You may earn up to $1,500 without losing any benefits. After that, $1 is taken out of your annual benefit for every $2 earned. And after you make $2,700 in a year, a dollar is subtracted for every additional dollar of earnings.

This means a person under 72 who is drawing a Social Security retirement benefit and continues to be employed regularly could earn $2,550 to $5,811 a year before losing all his benefits.

The exact amount depends on the size of the benefit, the type, and how earnings are spread out over the year. In general, you may — effective 1966 — draw some Social Security payment if your monthly benefit (or family benefit) is at least $50 and your earnings for the year don't equal 12 times the benefit amount plus $2,100.

(NEXT—Disability benefits.)

2 Cosmonauts to Leave Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Soviet cosmonauts Pavel Belyayev and Alexei Leonov are scheduled to fly home today after spending two weeks in Cuba helping Fidel Castro celebrate the 12th anniversary of his revolution.

The cosmonauts were honored at a reception in the Soviet Embassy in Havana Wednesday night, according to a Havana radio broadcast monitored in Miami.

The broadcast quoted Lt. Col. Leonov as describing the sight of Cuba from the spacecraft in which he and Col. Belyayev made 17 earth orbits last March 18.

Leonov said the Soviet delegation visited troops manning the frontier along the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay. "They are disciplined and well organized," he was quoted as saying.

July 26 is the anniversary of the Castro revolution.

NY Farm Income Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York State's total farm income for the first five months of this year is $19 million higher than for a similar period in 1964. Cash receipts during the 1965 period rose to $70 million, the Agriculture Department said.

Tab Really Ranges for 'Night on Town'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A study of the pocketbook horrors attendant on a big night on the town in each of four gay capitals of revelry around the world has been made by a local bank's economists, perhaps as a promotion for good, clean niggardliness.

The "informal survey of the comparative cost of high living" could have been titled "The Tab of Four Cities."

It breaks down the approximate cost (including tips) of one night for one couple doing what is the local concept of high living in Hong Kong ($43.70), Rio de Janeiro ($38.85), Paris ($100.20), and New York ($182.40).

"A night on the town" is a window display now going: the rounds of Chase Manhattan Bank branches here. It presupposes someone has said, "Let's have a really big night out" and is rottenly rich enough to carry through. The study shows local big-time ideas vary widely.

"What's considered a blast in Hong Kong might be a bomb in New York," the bank points out. "What's a carnival in Rio may not be at all gay in Paris. NOTHING OF IT "For example, natives of Rio think nothing of taking in four nightclubs after dinner — and then riding the cable car to the top of Sugarloaf, and topping off the evening with a dip at Copacabana.

"In Hong Kong, on the other hand, even the gamest couples would consider dinner at a fine restaurant more than enough living it up. Residents with extreme isomania might follow dinner with one night-club visit."

Prices vary as widely as local customs. The bank said dinner in an exclusive Hong Kong place runs $10 per couple — but in a New York restaurant of "average elegance" it could be $36.50.

Pointing out that a fine time can be had in each city at a fraction of these prices and that all figures represent the more expensive establishments, the bank offers this breakdown:

HONG KONG — Shampoo (by houseboy), included in salary; pedicure (for two at home), $1.00; his haircut, manicure and manicure (at home), $1.70; her hairdo, $5.00; her manicure and manicure (at home), $1.00; water taxi to restaurant, included in dinner charge; dinner at floating restaurant (from shark's fin soup to lice nuts), $10.00; other taxis or rickshaws, $5.00; cabaret (four imported scotches), $20.00; baby sitter (live-in maid), included in salary. Total: $43.70.

RIO DE JANEIRO — His manicure, manicure, haircut, shave, shoeshine, $2.35; her hairdresser, $1.00; dinner (European food, Scotch, French wine), $13.00; four nightclubs (sometimes five), two international with U.S. and European entertainment $5 each, two Brazilian $4 each; cable to Sugarloaf mountain top, $1.00; early morning swim at Copacabana Beach, free; breakfast (coffee and slice of mamao), $1.50; baby sitter (live-in maid), included in salary; taxis, $2.00. Total: $38.85.

PARIS — Monsieur's hair-stylist (shampoo and set included), $4.00; madame's hairdresser, $20.00; dinner $34.50; souvenir ashtray from restaurant (to convince your neighbors you really went), $3.10; theater or opera, $15.00; cabaret, $18.10; baby sitter (always a relative), free (advice on child rearing included); taxis, $6.90; Total: $100.20.

NEW YORK — His haircut, shave, manicure, shoeshine, manicure, $13.00; her beauty preparations (head to toes), $35.00; cocktails, dinner, $49.50; smash hit musical, $25.50; quick intermission drink, $3.50; nightclub (dancing entertainment, cocktails, "bite to eat," $36.50; baby sitter, $8.00; taxis, $7.50; morning-after remedy, 30 cents. Total: $182.40.

The bank's moral: "No matter where you are in the world, the cost of living it up is much higher than the cost of just plain living."

Be Knowledgeable About Michigan Peaches So You Can Enjoy the Bumper Crop

What should consumers know about Michigan peaches? Here are the questions most frequently asked Michigan State University's Consumer Marketing Agents:

Q. How do you choose good quality peaches?
A. The undercolor is your most important guide. Choose peaches with creamy yellow or gold background color. These will become soft and juicy if allowed to stand at room temperature.

The red blush does not indicate ripeness — the blush varies with variety. Avoid peaches with green background color — they will not ripen properly.

Q. What if peaches are quite firm, and too hard to eat?

A. Just let them ripen at room temperature (not in the sun) until they are soft. Then refrigerate to reduce further ripening.

Q. How do you prevent darkening after peeling?

A. For canning: one tablespoon salt or lemon juice to a gallon of water. Do not let stand longer than one hour. For fresh sliced: Sprinkle with lemon, orange or pineapple juice or concentrate; cover with ice and refrigerate. For freezing: Use ascorbic acid following label directions.

All Haven varieties (except Halehaven) are very resistant to browning, but use of ascorbic acid assures a brighter frozen product.

Q. How many peaches do you get in a pound and how much do you get from a pound?

A. Three medium-size peaches make about a pound. One pound makes two cups of sliced peaches. Two pounds will make an eight or nine-inch pie.

Q. How many peaches do I need to buy for canning or freezing?

A. Two and one-half pounds give two pints canned or frozen. One bushel (approximately 48 pounds) will yield 34 to 48 pints depending upon size of peaches, their condition and whether they are sliced, halved, or whole. One 38-pound wirebound box will yield 30-40 pints.

Q. Can you freeze whole peaches, and can you leave the skins on?

A. Yes, you can freeze whole peaches, but the pit may give a slightly bitter taste. Yes, you can leave the skins on, but they will likely be tougher when the frozen fruit is thawed for use.

Q. How many calories are there in a peach?

A. One medium-size peach contains about 46 calories.

When a bushel of peaches cost $3 to $4, a pint of home canned or frozen peaches will cost 15 to 17 cents (including cost of containers, sugar and ascorbic acid for freezing).

SANDWICH ON A STICK — Bite-size sandwiches on an hors d'oeuvre stick or short skewer are ingenious and easy to eat. Arrange alternate generous cubes of American cheese, squares of sturdy brown bread, ham cubes, firm cherry tomatoes, mushroom caps, stuffed olives and tangy pickle slices or other favorites. Serve with a fruit drink, iced tea or coffee and add a simple dessert.

This Hearty Egg Salad Will Satisfy Men, Too

Hot weather meals call for light refreshing menus. But for the sake of the man of the house they must be nourishing and filling, too!

What could be more apropos in the salad department than a high-protein Egg Salad Mold. This one, first cousin to potato salad, is sparked with canned diagonal-cut green beans. Their perky slant cut exposes more of the meaty inside of the beans and supplies real bean flavor.

The superbly simple dressing is a blend of mellow cream cheese and tippy bottled French dressing.

Unmolded on crisp salad greens, the salad will disappear in a hurry. Serve it along with cold cuts rolled cornucopia style. Pass relishes and an assortment of freshly sliced breads.

Egg Salad Mold
 1 dozen hard-cooked eggs, chopped
 One 16-oz. can diagonal-cut green beans, drained
 6 slices crisp bacon, crumbled
 1/2 cup chopped celery
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/2 cup nonseparating French dressing
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Two 3-oz. packages cream cheese, softened
 Dash pepper
 Combine eggs, drained, canned beans, bacon, celery and onion, tossing lightly to mix. Blend dressing and seasonings into cream cheese. Combine with egg mixture. Pack into 1 1/2-quart mold. Chill thoroughly.

Unmold on serving platter and garnish with salad greens, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

Ripe Olives and Bologna for a Filling

Ground bologna and finely cut ripe olives are combined with a few other tasty ingredients for hearty "Bologna Olive Sandwiches."

With canned ripe olives from California so plentiful in markets these days, it's assuredly the right time to enjoy them in a lot of sandwich fillings, salads and main-dish casseroles.

Bologna Olive Sandwiches
 1/2 cup ripe olives
 6-oz. bologna
 1/4 cup finely chopped celery
 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper
 1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Vegetable Chip Dip
 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
 1 tablespoon crumbled blue cheese

 1 hard cooked egg, chopped
 1/2 tablespoon salt
 pinch pepper
 1 1/2 cups cooked asparagus tips
 Combine all ingredients. Chill. Serve with crisp potato chips and a glass of tomato juice.

Pair 2 Fruits With Liqueurs for a Compote

Serve this fruit compote when you have epicurean guests!

New York Fruit Compote
 6 very large navel oranges
 2 medium red-skinned eating apples
 2 tablespoons each white rum, brandy and maraschino liqueur
 Pare oranges so no white membrane remains; cut sections away from dividing membranes and turn into a bowl with any juice.
 Wash and dry apples; cut each into 8 wedges; slice into thin fan-shaped pieces — there should be about 1 cup. Add apples to oranges and stir in liqueur. Cover and chill.
 Serve in sherbet glasses. Makes 6 servings.

Class A Jam on Top as Cranbrook Wins

Cranbrook (11-5) joined Huron-Argus and Pontiac Business Institute atop the Class A city baseball standings with a 6-3 win over Talbot Lumber last night at Jaycee Park.

Neither team did much hitting but two of Cranbrook's three hits were run-scoring triples by Mike Burklow and winning hurler Dick Mosher.

Talbot managed only one hit of Mosher, who averaged his only mound loss in six starts this season. Bob Gilmore ripped a clean single to left, plating two runs in a three-run, fifth-inning rally by the lumbermen.

WMGA Event Won Despite 5-Putt Green

Mrs. David Mortimer of Birmingham won her first event in weekly WMGA play despite a frustrating 5-putt green on the 365-yard 7th hole at Salem Hills.

She had five pars and a bird on the front and five pars on the backside in posting a 43-41-84, five shots ahead of Miss Trellis Jacks.

On the 7th hole, Mrs. Mortimer reached the green in three shots, her putt lying 40 feet from the hole.

"It looked too far away. I really hit it," said Mrs. Mortimer. The ball went nearly 40 feet to the other side.
