State Budget Finish Eyed by Legislators

LANSING (AP) — Hoping to finish the budget today and take a recess after six wearying months in session, the Legislature gave final approval yesterday to bills spending $537.4 million in fiscal 1967-68.

★ ★ ★

Eliminated, meanwhile, was the most controversial item left on the legislative calendars — Sunday liquor.

Proponents of the measure to allow counties to legalize Sunday sale of liquor in restaurants without a popular vote let it die yesterday. They conceded they lacked the votes to pass it in the House.

Up for House action today were two of the biggest spending bills in the state's anticipated $1.1 billion general fund budget — those making appropriations for higher education and for the Department of Social Services.

Approved yesterday was a bill to appropriate $323 million to various departments from a number of special restricted funds, such as the Motor Vehicle Fund, the Trunkline Fund and the Watercraft Law Enforcement Fund.

ADDITIONAL SPENDING

That $323 million represents state spending in addition to the $1.1 billion general fund budget.

Also passed by both houses in identical forms were bills appropriating $17.9 million to the Public Health Department, $2.6 million to the Department of Military Affairs, $24.68 million to the Department of State Police, $10.1 million to the Commerce Department, $3.72 million to the Labor Department and $2.14 million to the Department of Licensing and Regulation.

The Senate approved House-passed bills giving $22.92 million to the Corrections Department and $131.16 million to the Department of Mental Health.

★ ★ ★

Senate majority leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, and House majority floor leader William Hampton, R-Bloomfield Hills, said they hoped to finish by noon today. But a House floor fight was considered likely on the big higher education bill.

The Senate version would appropriate $240.2 million. The House increased the figure to $255.7 and tacked on a 5 per cent increase in aid to public K-12 schools, estimated at about $24 million.

RETURN FROM VIETNAM — Returning from an inspection tour of U.S. forces in Vietnam, U.S. officials arrive at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington late last night. McNamara is to report his findings in Vietnam to the President. (See story, page E-11.)

Township Officers Get Longer Terms

A new law, signed by Gov. Romney Monday, will add nearly two years to the current terms of Michigan's elected township officers and trustees.

The new legislation will eliminate the lame-duck period now affecting township officials, who are elected in November, but must wait until April 10, before assuming office.

Township officers — including supervisors, clerks and treasurers — elected in 1966 will serve until Nov. 20, 1970, in accordance with the new law.

Trustees elected in 1964 also will serve until Nov. 20, 1970.

Trustees elected in 1966 will remain in office until Nov. 20, 1972.

Township officers normally serve two-year terms. Trustees are elected to four-year seats.

For example, Waterford Township's Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson, who was elected to a two-year term last November, will instead remain in office until Nov. 20, 1970. His term was slated to expire in April 1969.

Waterford Township Trustee Herbert C. Cooley was elected to a four-year term in November.

Under the new legislation, that term will be stretched until November 1972. The former expiration time was April 1971.

The new law reduces the wait for newly elected township officials to assume office from five months to two weeks. Beginning in 1970, township officials will be sworn into office on Nov. 20.

Of significance is that no township contest will be on the November 1968 election ballot.

The law climaxed a move by township leaders to wipe out the five-month lame duck period faced by newly elected township officers.

Under provisions of the state constitution, terms of office can be lengthened, but not shortened.

Reuther Takes UAW Bids to Chrysler Today

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther presented his contract demands today to Chrysler Corp., smallest of the automotive Big Three.

Reuther's demands were believed identical to those he served on General Motors Monday and Ford yesterday.

Vice president-administration John D. Leary, who headed the Chrysler negotiating team, told newsmen, "We are prepared to work hard to settle our differences . . . and hope we can reach an agreement without a strike."

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union, did not chat with newsmen before he went into the Chrysler negotiating room. His aides said he would make a statement after he presents his demands to Chrysler. These include profit-sharing.

Reuther's Chrysler visit is his third in as many days to members of automotive's Big Three, where current three-year pacts run out Sept. 6.

Related Story, Page A-3

He previously dropped on bargaining tables at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co., similar sets of what he describes as the union's "longest and most ambitious" list of demands.

The profit-sharing goal came as a surprise Monday at General Motors. Reuther emphasized this as "essential" to a peaceful settlement at Ford yesterday.

★ ★ ★

A guaranteed annual income previously had been given top billing among union goals.

INCOME PLAN

Under a guaranteed annual income plan, Reuther says a worker must know at the beginning of a year what his income for the next 12 months will be, any layoffs not withstanding.

Congolese Said Devouring Whites

KIGALI, Rwanda (AP) — A Congolese Cabinet minister today reported cannibalism of white settlers in the southeast Congo as a refugee pilot told of a stalemate between mutineers and loyal troops in Kisangani to the north.

Interior Minister Etienne Tshiesekedi told newsmen at Bujumbura, capital of Burundi, that Congolese had eaten several whites in Lubumbashi. He said he feared similar cannibalism might occur in Bukavu because of the mutiny there by white mercenaries and Katangan troops loyal to ex-Premier Moise Tshombe.

Freezing-of-Bodies Process Detailed by Group Leaders

A long-standing rule in the history of man is that death signals the end of life. Perpetuity is not now generally considered a realistic alternative. But, there is hope for the dead of the future.

New techniques in freezing may open the way for prolongation of life on Earth after death.

Dr. Robert C. W. Ettinger, a professor of physics at Highland Park College, outlined recent developments in his concept last night at an open meeting of the Michigan Cryonics Society at Stouffer's Restaurant, Southfield.

Appearing with Ettinger was Robert Nelson, president of the California Cryonics Society.

PURPOSE OF CRYONICS

The purpose of the cryonics (low-temperature biology) movement, said Ettinger, is to preserve a body after clinical death until such time as scientific means are available to revive, repair and rejuvenate the whole person for a continued life.

The freezing process was outlined by Nelson who carried it out in January on Dr. James Bedford, a professor of psychology at Glendale College, Calif.

Immediately upon death, artificial respiration is applied to prevent permanent damage to body cells that otherwise would be deprived of blood.

The body is packed in ice as quickly as possible and cooled to about 10 degrees centigrade. Once the body is cooled to the required temperature, the blood is removed and replaced with a chemical preservative.

CADAVER FROZEN

After this perfusion, the cadaver is frozen and stored in a special vault at minus 320 degrees centigrade.

There is no risk to the individual being frozen since failure of the process will simply leave the person dead, according to Ettinger.

★ ★ ★

About 40 people in the Detroit area have asked to be frozen upon death, Ettinger said.

Oh, What a Beautiful Morning . . .

Poets rave over the perfect days of June and October's bright blue weather, but was there ever a more beautiful summer morning than today?

Weatherman, however, says the picture will change. He forecasts mostly cloudy skies and a little cooler tonight and tomorrow.

Temperatures registering a low of 54 to 60 tonight will reach a high in the mid-70s tomorrow. Considerable cloudiness and quite cool is Friday's forecast.

Northwesterly winds will continue at 10 to 20 miles per hour.

Precipitation probabilities in per cent are: today 10, tonight 20, tomorrow 30.

The temperature at 2 p.m. was a warm 81.

N. Viets Kill 35 U.S. Troops in Vicious Highlands Battle

SAIGON (AP) — Offensive pressure from North Vietnamese troops, which had seemed lately to be concentrated near the demilitarized zone, erupted violently today against two companies of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division in the central highlands.

A large detachment of Hanoi regulars pounced on an American force totaling about 250 men in rain-swept jungles just north of the Ia Drang Valley. They killed 35 and wounded 26 in vicious, close-quarters fighting.

There was no immediate accounting of North Vietnamese casualties.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from Pleiku that the infantrymen had completed a survey of an area hit by B52 bombers Monday. They were on their way out when they came under heavy fire from mortars, automatic weapons and small arms.

The Ia Drang Valley, near the Cambodian border, was the site of the week-long battle between U.S. air cavalrymen and North Vietnamese regulars that cost heavy casulaties on both sides in November 1965. Several major engagements have been fought in that area since.

INTELLIGENCE REPORTS

Intelligence officers had reported that fresh North Vietnamese regiments were braced close to the frontier of Cambodia, which professes neutrality, during the present rainy season for another effort to wrest the highlands from allied control.

American planes and ships carried the war to North Vietnam again yesterday with air raids deep in Red territory and ship-to-shore bombardments far up the coast. Five Red MIG21s were reported sighted.

Masters Champ Fires 70 in Britain

HOYLAKE, England (UPI) — Masters champion Gay Brewer, after opening his round with a double bogey, fired an eagle and three birdies on the back nine today for a two-under-par 70 in the opening round of the British Open golf champion.

Brewer, who went out in a near-disastrous 39, had five-onder 31 figures coming home over the 6,995-yard Royal Liverpool course.

Colorful Doug Sanders, runner-up to Jack Nicklaus for the British crown last year, had an identical start as Brewer, reaching the turn in 39, but he too caught fire on another scorching day to cover the back nine in 32 for a 71.

The early first-round lead went to Lionel Platts, a 32-year-old Englishman, who shot 36-32—68.

Peter Jones and Jimmy Hume, two relatively unknowns from England, were tied at 69.

Kel Nagle, the 1960 British Open champion from Australia, opened with a 70 and South African Gary Player, who won this title in 1959, equalled par with a 72.

Most of the field of 150, including favored Jack Nicklaus, still were on the course.

JUNK ROCKET — Mrs. William Tymkow (left) and Mrs. Ronald Baker, both of Avon Township, will present this "junk mail" laden rocket to Congress in early October along with a moving van load of the mail to make their protest emphatic.

Junk Mail Drive 'Is Doing Well'

The drive by a group of Rochester area women to collect a moving van load of "junk mail" to present to Congress is "doing exceptionally well," according to Mrs. William Tymkow, initiator of the effort.

★ ★ ★

Forty-three centers have been established throughout Michigan to gather the mail, and some contributions have been received from a far away as Mesa, Ariz., and Roanoke, Va.

The Ivory Brothers Moving Co. of Warren has donated a large moving van and a driver to haul the accumulation to Washington, D.C., where it will be delivered to the doorsteps of the Capitol in early October.

Mrs. Tymkow of 47953 Dequindre, Avon Township, said the drive is being made to protest a congressional plan to raise rates on personal mail while junk mail (third class bulk rate mail) continues to be sent by the millions of pieces each day at the same low rate it has always enjoyed.

★ ★ ★

Members of the Avon-Rochester chapter of the Oakland County Democratic Women's Federation, of which Mrs. Tymkow is vice president, started the drive late this spring.

Nasser a Moderate?

CAIRO (AP)—It became increasingly evident today that President Gamal Abdel Nasser is siding with the doves, as far as immediate counteraction against Israel is concerned.

Giving the first indication of Nasser's thinking at the top-level Cairo talks among Arab leaders, Yousef el Sebay, Nasser's closest confidant, counseled patience and moderation.

High Taxes, Reserve Call-Up Seen

'Escalation Means Dark Future'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional critics paint a dark picture of increased taxes, price-wage controls and mobilization of reserves if President Johnson intensifies the Vietnam war.

The doves are telling Johnson through Senate and House speeches that he also will be risking World War III if he pours in a huge complement of ground forces and expands the bombing of North Vietnam.

The hawks, diverted at the moment by the alarms of possible American involvement in African conflicts, are otherwise relatively silent while awaiting Johnson's decision after he confers with Gen. William C. Westmoreland and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Both just returned from Vietnam.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen seemed to voice the general view of hawks that if Westmoreland wants more troops, he ought to have what he needs.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who wants a renewed effort to reduce the present level of U.S. involvement in the Asian war, cited the possible domestic effects of expanding the conflict.

Mansfield told the Senate Tuesday that a third world war may be "already incubating in the ever-deepening and expanding struggle in Southeast Asia." He said every escalation thus far had failed to bring the conflict nearer an end.

* * *

"Before we take another significant step deeper into Vietnam," he said, "it is to be hoped that we will have asked ourselves at what point we intend to increase taxes, apply the wage and price controls, tighten the draft exemptions, call up the reserves and make the countless other adjustments in our national life which are implicit in further extensions of the American involvement."

Mansfield's estimate that Vietnam expenditures will rise to $25 billion yearly brought a prediction from Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., that an increase of 18 to 20 per cent in income taxes may be in the offing.

Aiken questioned whether citizens who urge intensification of the war are willing to pay the price for an all-out effort.

* * *

An effort by Secretary of State Dean Rusk to placate senators who vigorously protested Johnson's dispatch of three U.S. transport planes to help the Congo government appeared to have made little headway.

* * *

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who said it was immoral to send one American serviceman to the Congo, said after hearing Rusk in a closed session that he hadn't changed his opinions about anything.

CALLED IN FOR QUESTIONING — Secretary of State Dean Rusk (left) and Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, pause yesterday on Capitol Hill before a closed-door session of the joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees. Rusk was on hand to defend the administration action—criticized by members of Congress—which sent three U.S. military transport aircraft to the Congo, a new trouble area.

'Riots Bring Antirights Acts'

BOSTON (AP) — The first Negro popularly elected to the U.S. Senate says this summer's racial violence is causing what appears to be a "punitive reaction" to the civil rights movement.

"Today," said Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., "alarmed by riots and cries of black power which have often meant violence, the mood of the nation is resistant to progress in civil rights."

Brooke received the Spingarm Medal for outstanding achievement by a Negro Tuesday night from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People during the organization's 58th annual convention.

Eye Second Vote on School Tax

CHELSEA (AP) — School officials will meet Thursday to decide when to hold another balloting on a Chelsea school operating levy defeated by voters Monday 427-410.

Also to be decided is the amount of the levy to be sought. The defeated 6.75-mill proposal consisted of a 4.25-mill renewal and a 2.5-mill increase.

New state law prescribes at least a 40-day wait before another balloting can be held on the levy.

Israeli-Arab Forces Clash During Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — New fighting between Egyptian and Israeli forces on land and at sea was reported today as angry Moslem diplomats at the United Nations worked on a resolution to censure Israel for refusing to give up the Old City of Jerusalem.

Israel announced that Israeli naval units sank two Egyptian torpedo boats Tuesday in the first naval clash between the two nations since the Middle East war last month.

An Israeli army spokesman said the engagement occurred in the Mediterranean about 16 miles off the occupied Egyptian town of El Arish when the Egyptian boats fired on a patrolling Israeli flotilla which included the destroyer Eilath and two torpedo boats.

The spokesman said eight Israeli seamen were slightly wounded.

An Egyptian communique claimed that Israeli machine guns opened fire on Egyptian forces on the west bank of the Suez Canal south of Ismailia. The communique said Egyptian guns fired back and knocked out two Israeli armored cars. It said there were no Egyptian casualties.

Fisher Body Plant Slates Open House

An open house at the Fisher Body plant, 900 Baldwin, is scheduled tomorrow from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. to give the public an opportunity to view the plant operation.

Adults and school-age children are invited to visit the plant. Parking will be available at Receiving Entrance No. 1 on Baldwin.

Refreshments, including coffee, donuts, soft drinks and milk, will be served to visitors. Plant tours are expected to take about 45 minutes.

Defeated Bill Is Slipped By

LANSING (AP)—Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee demonstrated Tuesday that there's more than one way to skin a cat or change a license fee.

Observers said it was a clever maneuver, but some House members said it was a dirty trick.

Earlier in the session, Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Frank Beadle, R-St. Clair, and members Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, and Garland Lane, D-Flint, introduced a bill changing license fees for real estate brokers.

The Senate passed the measure but the House killed it.

Then the senators tacked an identical provision as a rider to the 1967-68 budget bill for the Department of Licensing and Regulation — sending it over to the House on a take it or leave it basis.

Congress Wants to Hike Role in Troop Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress wants a much greater voice in deciding whether U.S. military forces should be ordered into new world trouble spots, members of two key Senate committees told Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

He met with them Tuesday to defend the dispatch of three U.S. military transports and about 126 troops to the Congo, whose government is trying to overcome rebel mercenaries.

"We don't wish to continue intervening here, there and everywhere," Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee commented in telling newsmen of the congressional demand served on the administration.

He also charged the administration's Congo decision was based on greatly exaggerated reports of dangers to Americans there.

Fulbright said the experience of the initial involvement in Vietnam caused what he described as growing congressional apprehension over the authority of the President to order U.S. military forces into troubled areas. He said Rusk seems unaware of this apprehension.

In the future, Fulbright said, Congress wants to be in on the decision-making. Consultation involves more than notifying congressional leaders of decisions already taken, the chairman asserted.

Reason Why 6 Seized Ship Still Mystery

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A heavily armed band of six greasy, thirsty stowaways who took command of a freighter off Miami Beach apparently vanished after listening to the ship captain's jokes for two hours Tuesday.

The stowaways fled ashore after struggling for 30 minutes with the moorings of two lifeboats. They brushed past a barkeeper and his date and hailed a taxi, which has not been found, either.

That was the story police and officers and passengers of the ship, the Freight Transporter, pieced together.

The motive for the ship's seizure was still a mystery.

Ramon Carpio, captain of the 353-foot ship, said the men told him they had intended to "use the vessel to hijack another ship."

Ambulance Firm Loses Pact, Not Determination

BIRMINGHAM — "I'm still here in busines and I'm here to stay," said Michael O'Hara, owner of Birmingham Ambulance Service, 855 E. Maple, which lost a city contract held for 10 years.

His firm lost in bidding for a city contract to a Royal Oak firm, Oakland Directors Service at 13½ Mile near Woodward.

O'Hara asked $1,000 per month, but the other firm asked $300.

The contract amounts to a subsidy by the city. Under it, an ambulance service is obliged to have vehicles ready at any time of night or day at the call of police or firemen.

* * *

O'Hara said his ambulances averaged four minutes to answer a call and challenged the new firm to equal that time.

$350 SUBSIDY

O'Hara's bid had steadily risen over the years. He started out with $350 subsidy, when the city was "hurting for an ambulance," he pointed out.

However the costs of everything climbed since then and to keep an ambulance now costs $138 per day, he said.

The Royal Oak firm at Monday's commission meeting promised to provide equal service at a far lower rate.

Representatives of the firm said they were able to operate more cheaply due to superior bookkeeping and collecting services.

O'Hara commented "If they can do it, let them." He said he intends to bid again next year. Meanwhile, his service is "available anytime to anyone," he said.

Wiretap Hearing for Hoffa July 24

CHICAGO (AP) — James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president now in prison, will be brought to Chicago July 24 for a hearing to determine whether government wiretapping aided his conviction of fraud and conspiracy in 1964.

Judge Richard Austin of U. S. District Court issued the order Monday for Hoffa's appearance.

Suspect Shot in 'Escape Try'

One of two men arrested as suspects in the burglary of a Pontiac grocery store was shot by police early today when he attempted to escape, according to city officers.

* * *

In satisfactory condition in Pontiac General Hospital is Robert McCullough, 26, of 1317 Stanley.

McCullough was shot once in the right leg, police said, after he and Sampson Miracle, 39, of 125 Parkdale were followed to the Stanley address and arrested shortly after an undetermined amount of goods and cash was taken from Figa's Market, 344 W. Kennett, about 3:30 a.m.

Police, who said the suspects were pursued because of a vehicle identification by witnesses, said Patrolman Robert Bates fired the shot when McCullough attempted to flee while being placed in handcuffs.

Grand Juror Issues 2 Bench Warrants

Bench warrants were issued yesterday by Oakland County Grand Juror James S. Thorburn against two men who failed to answer subpoenas.

Arrested, then brought before Judge Thorburn, were Emil Pavlovics, a Madison Heights druggist, and Roman Nowicki, a former Madison Heights councilman.

Why they were ordered to appear Monday before Thorburn is not known because of the secrecy surrounding grand jury proceedings.

Early in the inquiry, then conducted by Judge Philip Pratt, both Nowicki and Pavlovics, along with two other men, including Rep. Bill S. Huffman, were cited for contempt of court.

* * *

The four contempt charges were later dismissed by the Michigan Court of Appeals, a ruling that subsequently led to the disqualification of Pratt as the grand juror and the naming of Thorburn as his successor.

The investigation being conducted by Thorburn on the request of State Attorney General Frank Kelley is aimed only at alleged criminal activities surrounding the Hazel Park Race Track.

Thorburn's authority as a grand juror expires Aug. 16, since the investigation is only a continuation of the Pratt judicial inquiry which under law can only be conducted for one year.

Ford VP Speculates His Firm Is Likely UAW Target for Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Its vice president in charge of labor relations figures that Ford Motor Co. "stands a better than even chance" of being the "target" of the United Auto Workers Union in this year's contract bargaining.

Such speculation came from Ford's Malcolm L. Denise shortly before the UAW presented him with what Denise described as "a long, large and difficult" set of demands Tuesday.

* * *

UAW strategy in the past has been to win a contract by strike or otherwise from the "target" company ,then use it "target" company, then use it elsewhere.

Denise's speculation came in a news conference. Following him, UAW President Walter P. Reuther said "I don't know if Mr. Denise is volunteering or not," but added, "I'll find out."

POTENTIAL TARGETS

Reuther said that "right now Ford is one of three companies in our general sights." The others would be General Motors, the industry giant, and Chrysler Corp., smallest of the Big Three auto makers.

After a three-hour session with the union negotiators who want profit-sharing, a guaranteed annual income and substantial wage increases among other things, Denise told newsmen he still thought Ford stands "a pretty good chance of being it."

* * *

Reuther isn't likely to name a target until he decides where he stands his best chance of winning. That decision likely will be delayed until the final days of current three-year contracts that expire September 6.

Denise said that based on "the logic of the situation, Ford could be the target, as it was in 1949 and 1955. Chrysler was the target the last time around in 1964, when the UAW won early retirement with pensions ranging up to $400 a month. The union got its first pension plan at Ford in 1949 and in 1955 got a supplemental unemployment benefit plan there.

GM CHANCES

The size of General Motors makes a strike against it a serious financial risk. But the UAW pulled its longest ever against any of the Big Three there. That was in the 1940s and it lasted 114 days. The UAW's strike fund is expected to reach $65 million by the time current pacts expire.

But a strike against GM, where the UAW claims almost 400,000 members, would drain the fund dry in just over six weeks, even at the UAW's low strike benefit rates of $20 weekly for a single worker, $25 for a member with a wife and $30 for a man with a family.

* * *

The drain of a GM strike would run about $10 million a week. A strike at Ford with a 152,000 UAW members would cost about $3.8 million weekly and one against Chrysler, with 95,000 UAW hourly rated workers, about $2.3 million a week.

Before Denise tabbed Ford as a most likely target, others within the industry had expressed a similar view privately.

1964 TARGET

But Chrysler the least suspected—ended up the 1964 target. Most guesses then were GM.

Curious Pair Held, Grilled in Maneuvers

KINGSWOOD, W.Va. (AP) — Two teen-agers mistaken for Special Forces troopers disguised as civilians were taken prisoner Tuesday during a military maneuver in central West Virginia.

"They were on top of us before we knew what happened," said David Mayle, son of Tunnelton Mayor Corder Mayle. "We were scared to death."

* * *

Mayle and Larry Harris, 17, also of Tunnelton, said they had spotted helicopters and went to investigate.

"But instead of finding them, they found us," Mayle explained.

INTERROGATED

The youths were interrogated and confined to a compound at Camp Dawson for more than an hour until they were properly identified. Both were wearing old Army fatigues. Mayle also wore a green beret.

The incident occurred as members of 19th Special Forces Group were attempting to infiltrate territory defended by Ft. Knox, Ky., soldiers.

Strike Is Over

MUSKEGON (AP)—Plumbers and steamfitters, members of Local 154, AFL-CIO, were back on the job today, ending a work stoppage since Thursday which threatened major West Michigan construction projects. Agreement with contractors was reached Monday but details were not revealed.

Troy Schools Keep Principal, System

By ED BLUNDEN

TROY — In an emotion-packed school board meeting last night, the high school principal survived another motion to fire him and the "modular system" survived the educational trash can. In both cases the vote was 4-3.

About 300 persons jammed the high school cafeteria.

The board meeting was a climax to a long, bitter dispute on how to solve the district's financial crisis — which is expected to be in the red about $465,000 by next June — and the experimental education system in effect at the high school.

* * *

The meeting ended with petitions being circulated demanding the school board hold another election asking for an eight-mill school levy, a request that was defeated by a 2½-1 margin on June 12.

5-POINT PROPOSAL

Dr. Rex Smith, schools superintendent, acting as a catalyst, clarified the issues by making a five-point proposal.

"I've been backed into a corner," he said. "I have to take a stand." His proposals were:

- Fire Joseph Bechard, high school principal.
- Drop the Stanford System (modular) at the high school.
- Return to traditional classroom procedure.

* * *

- Call for an investigation and evaluation by outside educational authorities.
- Drop "tea-grouping" or "sensitivity training."

MIXED VOTE

The first three proposals were defeated, the request for outside analysis passed unanimously and it was decided "sensitivity training" had already been done away with.

Dr. Smith said he had "lost all confidence" with Bechard's ability to administer the modular system. He said many complaints had been received of students loitering in the halls in the unscheduled type of class procedures.

He also attacked teachers who did not know how to handle the system and who were indiscriminate in handing out passing marks.

* * *

Students were advised to retake classes which they "skipped" or "were not taught."

Board members and parents in the audience said the system was fine for some students, but others seemed unable to cope with it.

DIFFERENT FORMS

Trustee Donald Richards pointed out that 1,400 schools used a form of modular system and it was up to the district to find the one best-suited for it.

In the confusion and noise of the meeting, the modular system was actually voted out for a few minutes.

In the roll-call vote which followed discussion of the issue, Robert Dolmag voted to abandon it. Members of the audience pointed out he had been speaking in favor of it a few moments before.

* * *

The issue was called back and then passed 4-3. Voting against the system were Lloyd Stage, Alex Tunstal and Harold Janes.

TO RETAIN BECHARD

Dolmag also voted to retain Bechard, the principal, as did Stage, William Stewart and Richard Snoad.

Voting against him were Richards, Tunstall and Janes, newest member of the board.

The board announced a 28-step austerity program revealed before the millage election loss was being put into effect.

* * *

The junior high was placed on a shift basis, divided between morning and afternoon groups. Sports, music and art are to be dropped.

VICTORY ONLY HOPE

The only hope expressed for retaining at least some of the programs was a quick millage election victory, it was pointed out.

A committee was formed among the audience and petition-taking started as the meeting broke up.

* * *

Trustee Stage made a plea to the audience when the issues at hand were resolved: "Let's quit fighting and make our school system one Troy can be proud of," he said.

DR. REX SMITH

School Millage Supporters Will Present Views

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — Proponents of a 10-mill school ballot issue will present their point of view at three meetings coming up in the area.

* * *

The millage proposal lost in the June election by a narrow margin, but school authorities are hoping to put it across in a second attempt.

At stake is about one-fifth of the school's total money. Of the 10 mills being asked, 7 are operating renewal and 3 represent a tax increase.

The meetings are set: tomorrow, 8 p.m., Holly High School, 850 E. Sherman; Tuesday, Holly High, 8 p.m.; and July 19, 8 p.m., Davisburg Elementary.

* * *

A third election may be held, if the second fails, and under study is a plan to institute an austerity school budget in the event all elections fail.

According to school officials a group of 70 volunteers is helping with the millage election.

Lake Orion Will Get Tough With Junk Violators

LAKE ORION — The Village Council here has served notice on residents that unsightly and unhealthy junk collections will not be tolerated.

* * *

The council added two sections to the village's public nuisance ordinance stiffening the terms of the ordinance and establishing penalties for its violators.

Excessive collection of junk, scrap metal, lumber and other discarded materials on private property or village premises will be punished with a fine not to exceed $100 and a jail term not to exceed 90 days.

Complaints against persons accused of violating the ordinance will be investigated by Village Manager John F. Reineck who also serves as village health officer.

* * *

The ordinance was made effective immediately.

REPRESENTATIVE SELECTED

In other business, the council voted to appoint Village President Wallace Crane the council's representative to a Lake Orion area recreation committee.

Crane will take steps to form the committee to be composed of representatives of the Orion Township Board, the Lake Orion Youth Center, and the Orion School Board.

Formation of the committee was requested by the Pontiac Area United Fund which has approved a grant of $2,610 to the Orion Area Youth Guidance Committee to conduct a summer recreation program.

FACE-LIFTING—The trailer park site on Orchard Lake Road in Keego Harbor gets a face-lifting. The lot was recently sold to the Roll Development Co. of Pontiac, whose first step in renovating the site is the removal of large trees that lined the roadway. The trailer park is to be relocated closer to Cass Lake while space along the street will be cleared for future stores.

Principal in Utica Gets Directorship

UTICA — The Utica Community Schol Board has appointed Leonard Morrison, currently principal of Morgan Elementary School, to the post of director of elementary education for the distrct.

* * *

Morrison, 37, 45890 Brownell, before becoming principal of Morgan, was principal of Sterling Elementary School for seven years.

The board also appointed Bernard Matrille of 11210 Saar to a position on the board vacated by the resignation of William Porter.

* * *

Matrille, 44, is an engineer at the General Motors Technical Center in Warren.

Milford Rejects Bids to Fix Bridge

The price wasn't right as far as the Milford Village Council was concerned.

* * *

The council decided to forego immediate plans for repairing the River Street Bridge when they learned that the lowest bid for the work was still some $5,800 above village manager Joseph S. Brophy's original estimate of costs.

In January, when the council voted to accept bids for the bridge repairs, Brophy estimated the cost would be approximately $12,000.

While rejecting all bids, the council did indicate that it may prefer to completely reconstruct the bridge sometime in the future, Village Clerk Mrs. Norma Jean Melzer said.

* * *

The River Street Bridge has been closed since it was destroyed in an accident last year.

Oxford School Board Elects New President

OXFORD — The board of education has elected Robert McWilliams as president for the coming year, replacing Louis Coryell.

Roe V. Sausser was reelected secretary and Stewart Langley was again named treasurer.

* * *

The board also discussed finding another building to house the administrative offices.

Schools Supt. Roger Oberg said the high school, where the offices are now located, needs the extra two rooms which would be made available if the offices were moved.

Oxford Council OKs Hearing on Rezoning for Expansion of Plant

OXFORD — The Village Council last night authorized a public hearing on a request to rezone 8.35 acres of land in the northeast section of town from residential to industrial.

The rezoning was recommended for approval by the planning commission.

* * *

Village Manager Robert Smalley said that the township land adjoining this acreage is now zoned industrial. He said the change within the village would allow expansion of a small industrial plant now located in the township.

The area is near some abandoned gravel pits.

Found in Bloomfield Hills

Indian Skeleton Marked for Research

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The bones of an Indian found at a building site across from City Hall will be used in a study of ancient disease.

Dr. Warren L. Wittry, director of the Cranbrook Institute of Science, said he has offered the remains for study by Dr. Donald Hagge of St. Mary's Hospital, Livonia.

"Dr. Hagge has an interest in paleopathology (ancient diseases) and is writing a book on the subject," said Dr. Wittry.

The skeleton is at the institute, and the bones are marked by arthritis and absecesses, the director said.

They were found by workers for the Alden Building Co. on a site for the Kingsridge apartments.

* * *

Dr. Wittry said the bones were marked by the presence of a copper or bronze object believed buried with the dead Indian.

However, despite a renewed search the object was not found. "It would prove extremely valuable in dating the bones," Dr. Wittry said.

He would like to know if the metal was a type brought to the continent by Europeans or one that Indians made for themselves.

Copper-using Indians predated white man in this area, Dr. Wittry pointed out.

FOUR FINDINGS

About four findings of Indian remains have been made recently in the Bloomfield Hills area, he said. However, he doesn't expect many more.

"The places chosen to build homes are exactly the places the Indians preferred," he said.

Agency Apologetic

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit office of the Michigan Department of Social Services was apologetic today over certain letters to servicemen in Vietnam.

The letters — to servicemen whose families are on welfare — implied that the men might send home some of their combat pay.

Mildred Fritz, a district supervisor for the state agency, said the letters were sent as a matter of form to relatives of persons receiving state aid.

Miss Fritz said no serviceman needs to send home any money — nor does he even need to acknowledge the letter.

* * *

She said the department is studying the matter.

"Whether or not these letters should be sent to soldiers whose income is limited and who are in battle is a question in my mind," she said.

The practice was disclosed when one young soldier sent his letter home to his mother. It reportedly was the first letter he got from home since arriving in Vietnam two weeks ago.

The soldier's father was described as a wounded World War II veteran who has been in and out of hospitals since his service and unable to hold a steady job.

* * *

The form letter, received by servicemen as well as others, said, "It is important that we know about your income, obligations and contributions to this relative before we can help or continue to help your relative."

Hot Water for the Romans a Future Power Source?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fat old Romans steeped in the stuff — undoubtedly munching languidly on grapes or sipping wine.

Twentieth Century Icelanders use it to heat houses and generate electrical power.

Bills are pending in Congress to exploit it further in this country, particularly in Hawaii, Alaska, and western states.

The "stuff" is geothermal energy, manifested in the Roman Baths of old as hot water supplied freely by Mother Earth and elsewhere in this century as steam to drive power generators.

* * *

"The earth," according to the U.S. Geological Survey, "Is a tremendous reservoir of heat, with hot spots generally occurring near areas of volcanic activity that occurred during the past million years.

INCREASE IN USE

"World use of the earth's natural heat as an energy source — mainly in Italy, New Zealand, Iceland, and the United States — has now reached about one million kilowatts.

"It can probably be increased at least 10 times under present economic conditions, and maintained for at least 50 years.

"This production would be approximately equivalent to the energy produced by burning one billion tons of coal."

* * *

To tap the earth's subterranean heat sources for power, you drill holes deep into the crust and then channel the uprushing steam into turbine generators.

MINOR ROLE

At the moment, geothermal energy seems likely to contribute only in a minor way to civilization's fast-growing power needs.

But the same thing might have been said about petroleum resources a dozen decades ago. According to the geological survey "Our knowledge regarding geothermal resources is comparable to that regarding petroleum resources at the turn of the century."

Since early Roman times "Health spas" built around hot springs have flourished in Italy, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Arkansas, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia, and North Dakota.

* * *

Italy, in 1904, was the first nation to use steam from the depths for power. Now Italy and New Zealand generate about 400,000 kilowatts each from this source.

WORLD LEADER

Iceland is the current world leader in use of geothermal energy for production of heat and electricity. California is generating more than 56,000 kilowatts with steam supplied by the earth.

Mexico, Central America, and New Britain Island in the South Pacific have geothermal power projects. The Russians are exploiting the deep volcanic heat of Kamchatka Peninsula.

* * *

Of the world's total geothermal resources, according to the geological survey, the United States possesses 5 to 10 per cent.

Bills now before Congress would spur their development.

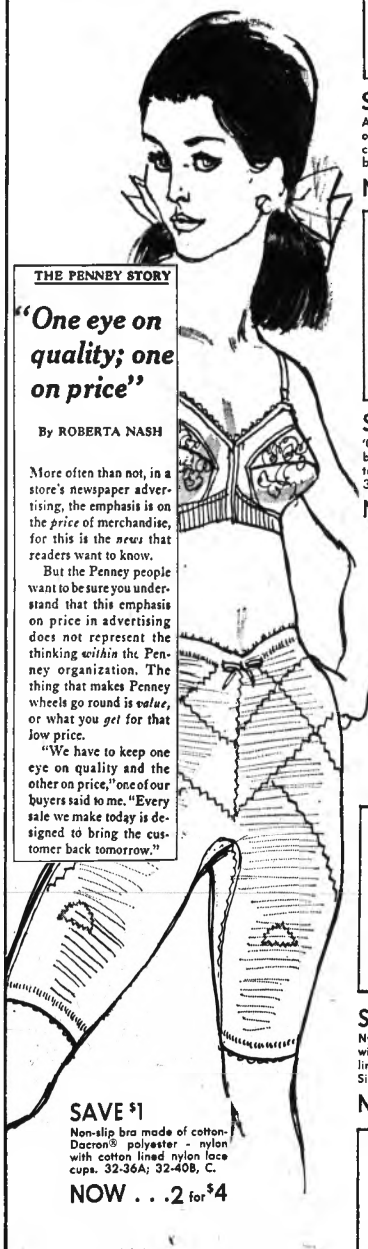
Clerk Retires

ADRIAN (AP)—County Clerk Alice Welch retired today after a 47-year career in the Lenawee County Courthouse. She has been clerk since 1956. Lenawee County supervisors designated today as "Alice Welch Day" and closed the courthouse early to give her a party. She is 70.

Hospital Exec

HART (AP)—Robert Trautman, Oceana Hospital administrator the past seven years, has resigned to become head of the Manitowac, Wis., Memorial Hospital on Aug. 1.

Penneys
ALWAYS FIRST QUALITY



THE PENNEY STORY

"One eye on quality; one on price"

By ROBERTA NASH

More often than not, in a store's newspaper advertising, the emphasis is on the price of merchandise, for this is the news that readers want to know.

But the Penney people want to be sure you understand that this emphasis on price in advertising does not represent the thinking within the Penney organization. The thing that makes Penney wheels go round is value, or what you get for that low price.

"We have to keep one eye on quality and the other on price," one of our buyers said to me. "Every sale we make today is designed to bring the customer back tomorrow."

High Court Struggles With 'Smut'

The U. S. Supreme Court, with much backing and filling over the past decade, at last seems to be arriving at a philosophy regarding obscenity which, while it will not satisfy everyone, may be the least imperfect solution to this difficult and enduring problem.

Reading between the lines of the court's latest decision voiding obscenity charges brought against a batch of girlie magazines in three states, and in the light of other recent decisions, these guidelines seem to be emerging:

● Censorship or suppression of reading or looking matter sold to adults will be extremely difficult and limited only to the most flagrant cases presenting a clear threat to the health of society.

● Laws designed to keep pornography away from children, or vice versa, will likely be upheld.

● In no event will the court tolerate the "pandering" or high-pressure sale of erotic matter through such means as provocative advertising or unwanted junk mail.

★ ★ ★

This still does not answer the question of just what constitutes "pornography" or "obscenity," nor why it is permissible to use sex to sell shaving lotion but not magazines.

Because the question is probably unanswerable, the court will continue to be called upon for verdicts in individual cases. But these three guidelines seem to be something each community can live and work with.

Long Struggle Back!

Voice of the People:

Protests and Proposals Outlined by Press Reader

I protest: increase in taxes before we at least tried an austerity program; the purchase or expensive landscaping by the highway department from private concerns at the same time we are selling trees at the conservation department.

★ ★ ★

I propose: State employes — even elected ones — supply their own transportation to work; we tell fathers they will support their own children and when they don't they be placed in work camps for use in critical labor shortage areas and their wages refunded to the public agency caring for the children; we tell any female over 18 that her first illegitimate child will be supported by her and that her second child will be considered the result of a criminal act by her and she will be prosecuted instead of supported by the public.

★ ★ ★

I propose a new look at the Medicaid program to put an end to the endless paperwork and abuses; that every able-bodied person now on welfare rolls be required to report to the nearest MESC office and apply for any job he can do. Failure to report or accept a job would automatically terminate eligibility for public assistance. I would put an end to withholding taxes.

Question and Answer

I recently read that the volleyball was invented in the late 19th century in Massachusetts. It seems to me you ran an answer some time ago saying the same thing about basketball. Were the two games invented by the same person?

FAN

REPLY

No. Basketball was invented by Dr. James Naismith at Springfield, Mass., in 1891. Volleyball was the brainchild of William G. Morgan at Holyoke, Mass., in 1895.

Sea Swimmers Warned Against Coastal Current

Beware the killer at the seashore this summer.

The killer, says the Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) is the rip current (often miscalled an undertow) — an insidious, powerful ocean and Great Lakes action which can exhaust the strongest of swimmers but which even the average swimmer can easily escape if he knows how.

The rip current is a strong, narrow current flowing out to sea at right angles to the shore, carrying back the water brought in by waves and longshore currents.

It can travel at speeds up to three miles an hour and change its position from day to day and even during the same day. The same beach may have several rip currents at one time and then go for weeks with none at all.

The person caught in a rip current soon notices that he is much farther out to sea than he expected to be, or is moving out faster than other swimmers.

★ ★ ★

This is the point where most swimmers who lose their lives make a fatal mistake: They begin swimming their hardest toward the beach.

Since the rip current is seldom more than 10 to 20 feet wide, swimmers should swim PARALLEL to the beach, says ESSA, and they can soon be free of the current.

Welfare Assistance Reflects Crazy Quilt Picture

Nobody likes the public welfare system — neither the taxpayer, nor the welfare worker, nor the recipient. Thousands of welfare dependents across the Country demonstrated against claimed inadequacies of the system on June 30. A second nationwide protest is scheduled for Friday.

Public welfare is expensive. In large cities, expenditures for care of the needy are second only to those for public education. The over-all cost of welfare has risen by more than 150 per cent in the past decade, and it is still rising. The U.S. Commissioner of Welfare estimates that 7.5 million Americans are on welfare rolls — at a time when the Nation is enjoying unprecedented prosperity and jobs are going begging.

The welfare system actually is not a system at all, but a hodgepodge of Federal, state and local programs. The Federal government shares in the cost of state programs for needy aged, blind, or disabled, and for needy children in certain circumstances.

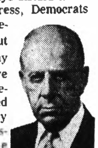
All 50 states have programs financed by state and local funds, and most localities have some aid for those not eligible under other assistance programs.

Something is obviously wrong somewhere. Steps toward reform may be taken next November, when a conference of business and labor leaders will try to "come up with new and revolutionary ideas which . . . will lead to more effective programs and reduce dependency" on public assistance.

David Lawrence Says:

Hawks, Doves, Now It's Eagles

WASHINGTON — Lots of things nowadays disturb members of Congress, Democrats as well as Republicans, but lately many of them have become somewhat annoyed by the way the newspapers use zoological terms in describing their attitudes on questions of policy in Vietnam.



LAWRENCE

Thus, senators are described as either "hawks" or "doves," and while the distinguished legislators have no special antipathy to birds in either category, they would much prefer that some other bird be chosen to characterize them — as, for instance, "eagles."

Republican Sen. George Murphy of California has embarked, therefore, on a crusade to raise the ornithological standard by sending around a small pin to be worn in the lapel.

It's not exactly made of gold, but it is at least that color, and the California senator hopes to line up at least 50 members of the Senate who would avow themselves to be "eagles" rather than either "hawks" or "doves."

★ ★ ★

The "resolution" written by Sen. Murphy is not intended to be filed for passage, but nevertheless has been distributed to many members of the Senate.

Thirty-two have already signed the declaration, which reads as follows:

"The press and communications media have initiated a practice of designating members of the United States Senate as either 'hawks or doves.

"If one is designated a 'hawk,' it carries the implication of the most unfortunate image generally attributed to the 'war-monger.'

"A 'dove,' on the other hand, would ignore our national honor, interest, friends, agreements, stated principles and commitments in order to avoid conflict at any cost and achieve peace at any price.

"This division of the members of the Senate has created some confusion at home and abroad and great uncertainty as to the true positions and dispositons of the members of the Senate, which might have a distorted and detrimental effect on our national policy.

"We would therefore point out that if bird-like designations must be used, our national bird has been the American eagle which, one will recall, carries the olive branch of peace and friendship in the one claw, and the armed arrows of war in the other.

"This most impressive emblem has served our nation honorably and well in both peace and war for nearly 200 years. We see no reason to change.

"Therefore, we the undersigned members of the United States Senate respectfully request that hereafter we be referred to as eagles, so that everybody at home and abroad may know exactly where we stand."

Bob Considine Says:

Tyrants Built Great Cities of World, Says Architect

NEW YORK—"Every great city in this world was built by a tyrant," Edward Durell Stone assured us the other day. "Rome, Paris, Leningrad . . . New York. Boss Tweed gave us Central Park."

CONSIDINE

I mumbled something about San Francisco.

"An exception, perhaps," he conceded. "But it had a naturally spectacular platform on which to build. And the good fortune to be limited, like the island of Manhattan.

"San Francisco is the tip of a peninsula. Water protects it from, say, Oakland, and God protects it from the other suburbs.

"New York—I mean Manhattan, of course—has three saving graces: the East River, which separates it from Brooklyn, the Hudson, which separates it from Hoboken, and a tyrannical man named Robert Moses who knows what he wants and doesn't give a damn who doesn't like what he does.

"Tyranny is the only thing that will make democracy work," one of the world's foremost architects said. "You just can't build something big and important if some little old lady holds up the program with her vote until she dies. Would Louis XIV have listened to her? Peter the Great? Caesar?

"New York, to me, is the greatest city in the world today. I know Los Angeles is or will be bigger, if that's the word. But I feel about Los Angeles as Frank Lloyd Wright did.

"Frank said, 'If you turned the world on its side and everything ran down to one point, you'd have Los Angeles.'

"New York, well, is different.

"I want to be where the action is. In New York everything is conditioned to attainment.

"People who achieve anything in the arts are recognized and honored here even if they don't have two pennies to rub together.

"Where else in the world could I have had breakfast one morning with Joe Louis, lunch with Henri Soule and dinner with Frederic March?"

Mr. Stone is for "tyranny" against "progress."

"Progress, so called, is something we've got to be wary of," he said.

"It is a scourge that is so evident in New York, for example, that it has decimated our hotels until the Plaza is just about the last stronghold.

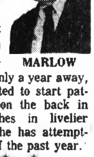
"Progress means tearing down some delightful old building, a wonderful brownstone, say, and replacing it with something taller with lower ceilings, and walls so thin you can hear somebody going to the bathroom three apartments away.

World Headed for Waltz of Words

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The next few months look gabby.

The United States and most of the world seem headed into a slow waltz of words. This looks true for President Johnson, for Congress, and for foreign affairs in general.



MARLOW

President Johnson, with the 1968 presidential race only a year away, can be expected to start patting himself on the back in public speeches in livelier fashion than he has attempted for most of the past year.

★ ★ ★

His exuberance recently got the better of his reticence after two events which pleased him:

● His summit meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

● His neat sidestep of the Arab-Israeli war.

After that he sounded off in a Baltimore speech on the wonders of life in America. He got thunderous applause. Since he likes to be liked, this was probably all the encouragement he needed to try more of the same.

Now he has to deal with a dawdling Congress which nobody expects to make a distinguished record in the last half of this year's session.

This 90th Congress seemed clothed in defeatism from the start. No one expected it to match the performance of the 89th which, in 1965, put on a fabulous performance, and it hasn't.

★ ★ ★

The 90th wasn't as thoroughly dominated by Johnson's Democrats as the 89th. The 1966 elections, turning a lot more House seats over to the Republicans, gave them and Southern Democrats a lot more veto power over Johnson's requests.

ENERGY BURST

And, since the 90th will remain here until the elections in November 1968, there's no reason to expect a sudden burst of energy next year, either.

Recently, the United Nations has been as chatty as a psychiatrist's office. The defeated Arabs, unable by themselves to push the Israelis off their land, were not at all self-conscious about asking the United Nations to do the pushing for them. But the United Nations didn't.

And, since the Arabs are in no position to fight another war soon, for months to come they and the Israelis should be relying more on gabble-gabble than guns.

★ ★ ★

Moscow has been showing restraint, which seems part of its policy, since the Soviets want to influence the Mideast just as much as the United States does.

BIG UNPREDICTABLES

The two big unpredictables in these next few months are Red China and Vietnam. The Chinese, undoubtedly puffed up over their progress in developing a hydrogen bomb, are still as chopped-up looking as a hamburger because of their internal dispute.

This may distract them for a while from any outside capers although the violence of the Chinese Communists in the British crown colony of Hong Kong could turn grim.

Still unsettled, with no end in view, is the war in Vietnam. Johnson has to wrestle with the problem of sending, or not sending, more U.S. troops there. He is sure to be denounced if he does or if he doesn't.

There will be no end of talk about all this although the war itself seems there indefinitely.

Our New Tax

Grand Haven Tribune

A Wisconsin citizen, upon being informed that Michigan had no income tax, was amazed. "How did you ever escape that"? he asked. Well, we haven't. Michigan has become the 39th state to adopt an income levy.

Our enthusiasm is not overwhelming. But Michigan, despite its onetime big surpluses, was heading for a bind.

★ ★ ★

Government services simply cost more. They reflect the inflationary trends that have worried Americans for several years. Most of the agencies depending on Michigan tax revenue for their operations were strongly in favor.

We have a deep-seated concern over the initiation of this new tax in Michigan. The early indications are that the levy is relatively moderate. But our prediction is that it will climb. In a relatively short time Michigan will be on the verge of going broke again and then there will be loud clamor for a tax increase.

Our Wisconsin citizen says that the Wisconsin state income tax is becoming almost as painful as the federal income tax. He might add that the federal boys are also considering at least a six per cent boost.

★ ★ ★

We feel that the new revenue should not give the Lansing crowd the feeling that they have just been given a nice fat bunch of bills to spend.

We know that we need more money for education, for highways, for parks, for mental and hospital institutions, for advertising the state. The state is growing and progress must continue. But it might be surprising to find out how much money is being wasted in various small projects.

★ ★ ★

Governor Romney had to win this fight or suffer a serious reverse in national prestige. Yet the honor of boosting taxes, even when needed, is a dubious one. It would have been splendid, although apparently impossible, if our governor had distinguished himself by reducing taxes without damaging state services.

Young at Heart

Hartford Courant

At 71, Miss Vivien Kellems is acting like a woman half her age. She showed up at a Republican fund-raising dinner in Hartford last week, full of pep and excitement about another adventure she soon will undertake—going back to school.

Everything Miss Kellems does she does with zip and a keen sense of drama. She likes to take on the big ones—the income tax, voting machines, or A. Searle Pinney, the former state Republican chairman. Now that Mr. Pinney is out as Republican chairman her war in that sector is over.

Now that the party lever has been at least half-conquered, her assault on that front has concluded. But income tax deductions are, like the mountain, still there, and the attack must go on.

★ ★ ★

So Miss Kellems this fall will enroll as a graduate student at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. And her doctorial thesis will be—guess what? The income tax.

The thesis eventually will be published as a book. Miss Kellems' war in Connecticut may be at an end, or at least there is a truce. But her war with Washington is still on, and, if we know Miss Kellems, it will be escalated.

Disposal Study Gets Grant of $83,000

Approval of an $83,000 federal grant for a solid-waste disposal study in Oakland County and adjacent communities was announced today.

The project will begin Aug. 1, according to Oakland Cunty Drain Commissioner Daniel W. Barry, and completion is expected by the end of this year.

Total cost of the study is estimated at $125,000. The county will be responsible for funding the $42,000, or one-third share, not covered by the grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Jones, Henry and Williams, Inc., a Toledo consulting engineering firm, has been retained to conduct the study in conjunction with the drain commissioner.

Barry was named by the County Board of Supervisors last October as the agent for the refuse disposal study by a 40 to 39 vote after a lengthy power struggle over which county unit should handle the project.

Several supervisors wanted the study under the jurisdiction of the County Board of Auditors which would have given the supervisors direct control over the project.

In voting to give Barry, an elected county official, the study jurisdiction, the supervisors actually voted away some of their own authority because the three members of the board of auditors are employes of the board of supervisors.

Last month the supervisors authorized inclusion of Wayne and Macomb counties in Barry's study to assure federal participation.

Credit Union Chief Quits; Ex-Teacher Gets Position

Joseph Atwell, who recently retired as an industrial education teacher at Pontiac Central High School, was elected president of the Pontiac Teachers Credit Union yesterday.

He replaces Ted Wiersema, whose resignation is effective today.

Wiersema, a former principal of Eastern Junior High School, has been an officer of the credit union since 1933 and president since 1960.

ATWELL

WIERSEMA

He and his wife Mildred, will be moving to California to be near their two children. The Wiersemas now live at 316 W. Iroquois.

Atwell, 810 Menominee, has been an officer of the credit union for seven years.

NEW OFFICE

Pontiac Teachers Credit Union, which has 1,400 members and more than $1.7 million in assets, is currently constructing a new office at 100 Auburn.

More than 70 per cent of the Pontiac School District employes are members of the 36-year-old credit union.

U.S. General to End Sad Trip Home

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, ends a sad journey home today with the burial services for his mother, Mrs. James Ripley Westmoreland.

Mrs. Westmoreland died at her home Sunday of a congestive heart failure. She was 81.

The funeral is at 5 p.m. at Trinity Episcopal church with burial at Elmwood Cemetery.

* * *

The Rev. James Stirling, rector of Trinity, and the Rev. Allen B. Clarkson of Augusta, Ga., will conduct the services. The Rev. Mr. Clarkson is the brother-in-law of Mrs. Westmoreland's daughter, Mrs. N. Heyward Clarkson of Columbia.

President Johnson and Gov. Robert McNair sent messages of condolence to the general.

MAY MEET WITH LBJ

On his arrival in Columbia Tuesday, Westmoreland said he was unsure about when he would return to Vietnam. He said he would "probably meet with the President, presumably in Washington" before making the return trip.

* * *

He told newsmen "I am encouraged," when asked of the progress of the military situation in Vietnam.

Westmoreland, accompanied by his wife and two of their three children, spent Tuesday night at Ft. Jackson, near Columbia.

* * *

Also arriving with Westmoreland was Spec. 5 Bobby Strickland, 24, of Mullins, S.C., who was in Hawaii for a brief rest when he heard that Westmoreland was to stop there on his way from Vietnam. Strickland asked for a ride so he too could attend the funeral of his mother. She will be buried at Mullins late this afternoon.

Rail Unions Irk Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate conferees still trying to agree on legislation to prevent a nationwide rail strike indicate they're displeased about increased pressure from the six rail unions involved.

The unions told congressmen Tuesday they will withdraw their interim pledge against a nationwide strike unless Congress agrees soon on the legislation.

* * *

The conferees planned a series of meetings today after reaching no agreement Tuesday.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., of the House Commerce Committee said he has "high hopes we can reach some agreement."

QUESTIONS TIMING

But he said he questioned the timing of the unions' statement "a little bit." Several conferees said privately that the letter from Joseph W. Ramsey of the six-union negotiating committee complicated matters.

The unions pledged not to strike pending congressional action after the Senate and House approved differing anti-strike plans in mid-June.

* * *

Ramsey said the unions are setting no strike date but would withdraw their pledge if the conferees make no progress by Saturday.

He said "the only way we can get the railroads to negotiate seriously is through our members' right to strike." He accused the railroads of "still stalling, hoping Congress will enact compulsory arbitration."

Fitzpatrick's Son Born

Here are two creations designed by Karen Stark for Harvey Berin, a house that makes clothes a man might buy for his wife. At left, a jersey wool dress with red, pink and gray stripes. The gray melton coat complementing the ensemble is striped in similar manner as the dress. For evening wear, right, it's a regal white crepe ball gown with the bib necklace sewn in. It eliminates lost jewelry.

Skirt May Miss Presidential OK

LONDON (UPI) — Lynda Bird Johnson bought a mini-mini skirt and the shopkeeper who sold it worried today about what her father will say.

"I hope the President approves," said Harry Fox.

* * *

President Johnson's eldest daughter went into the Carnaby Street shop wearing a yellow dress that some fathers might consider as mini as style should allow.

Its hem reached the middle of Lynda's knees. Swinging London considers that most Victorian.

* * *

Carnaby Street which popularized the mini skirt now features items which come nowhere near the knee. According to reports from Carnaby Street, Lynda Tuesday spent 20 minutes making up her mind and then selected the shorter model.

Her yellow dress with the knee hem and her wide-brimmed hat attracted virtually no attention as she strolled down Carnaby Street amid the wild stripes and thigh-high skirts it has made famous.

* * *

She was reported delighted. "The weather is gorgeous," said Lynda.

Tuesday night she was guest of honor at a party given by her host and hostess, U.S. Ambassador and Mrs. David K. Bruce. Her frequent date, movie actor George Hamilton, was reported on location in Spain.

It was not known if she planned to meet him in Europe.

Let Her Attend These Gatherings

Lonely Woman Does No Harm

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There is an older woman in our town who is a real weird character. She lives alone on some sort of pension. (They say her husband ran off and left her years ago.) She loves to get all dressed up and go where people are.

ABBY

Well, she must think her church membership entitles her to attend all the social functions that take place in the social hall of her church, because she never misses one. The fact that she's not invited doesn't seem to bother her.

* * *

She goes to all the teas, receptions, and parties where refreshments are served, mingles with the guests, helps herself to everything, and has a very good time.

Isn't it the minister's place to tell her she should stay away? He sees her at all the gatherings and surely knows she hasn't been invited.

CHURCH MEMBER

DEAR MEMBER: If anyone is to discourage an uninvited guest, it should be the hostess. The poor woman is probably lonely. And if she causes no harm and enjoys herself, what's another glass of punch and a few cookies amid the socializing?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I've always been a big fan of yours, but now I'm a bigger fan than ever, and here's why:

While out at Arlington race track the other day I came across a horse named GABBY ABBY, so I had a hunch and bet a bunch. The horse came in and paid over $55.

I hope you won't take offense.

CHAS. FROM ELMHURST

DEAR CHAS.: I've been told that I have "horse sense" (that's the kind one finds in a STABLE mind). And horse sense is what keeps horses from betting on people.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I would like to speak for grandmothers who feel as I do, but don't have the courage to complain:

Why do young mothers think that since we have raised our family and now have some leisure time that we have NOTHING to do — so they give us the grandchildren to raise while they go out and work to keep up with the Joneses, or to get away from the children.

Please tell them that we did OUR job — now it's time for them to do theirs.

GRANDMA W.

DEAR GRANDMA: A general "statement" won't accomplish anything. If YOU know of such a "young mother," I suggest that YOU tell her.

Luncheon, Golf Game Marks Day for Club

A round of golf at Pontiac Country Club followed a luncheon Tuesday for the Niblick Golf Club. Hostess for the occasion was Mrs. Paul Buechler of Motorway Drive.

Some 29 members made plans for an outing Tuesday at Harsens Island. A day of golf with a luncheon at the Mid-Channel Golf Club will be featured. Mrs. Wilma Dickinson will be hostess.

* * *

Mrs. Dennis Lowes, a former member, was a guest at Tuesday's meeting. Mrs. Oscar Eckman of Largo, Fla. was also a visitor.

A guest day is slated at the Pontiac Country Club in August.

Bridal Vows Are Spoken

Vows were exchanged Saturday evening between Jannene Kathleen Lasley and David G. Barens in St. Andrew's Episocpal Church.

* * *

The bridal couple was attended by Julie Ann Lasley, sister of the bride, and Michael Barens, the bridegroom's brother.

* * *

Guests were greeted later at a reception in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lasley of Geneva Road. The bridegroom's parents are the Henry Barens of Graves Street.

Picnic Is Planned

The Women's Society of Christian Service of St. James Methodist Church will sponsor a picnic supper at 6:30 p.m., Thursday in Fellowship Hall.

* * *

A Last Minute Touch for Silver

A beautifully appointed table calls for silver that glistens. For that just-polished look every time, keep a pair of clean white cotton gloves in the silverware drawer.

* * *

Before you set the table, put the gloves on and use them to handle the silver — without leaving tell-tale fingerprints— and also to give it a final rub before setting it in place. The gloves, of course, should be washed in hot soap or detergent suds between uses.

See Guests Board Your Elevator Too

ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: What are the rules about seeing departing visitors to the door? We live in a large apartment house. Our apartment is at the extreme end of the hall.

When the guests are leaving, I close the door behind them as soon as they have started walking down the hall. My husband prefers to keep the door open until he sees our guests step into the elevator. We'd appreciate your helping us do the right thing. — Wilma N.

* * *

Dear Wilma: Because occasionally an elevator is not operating correctly, I prefer your husband's way. In order to be sure that guests are safely on their way, wait inside your open door until you see that the elevator has arrived. Then give a final wave if they look back, and close the door.

STRANGER

Dear Mrs. Post: I was invited to a large cocktail party recently and found I knew no one there but the hostess. I felt very out-of-place and left after 15 minutes.

Would it have been proper for me to go up to other guests without being introduced, and start a conversation? What is the proper behavior for a guest who finds himself a stranger at a large party? — L. K.

* * *

Dear L. K.: You can't very well walk up to two strangers who are talking together unless they speak directly to you. But you can start a conversation with anyone who appears to be alone.

Don't carry it on without some response from your listener, but if she or he seems eager to talk, no other introduction than that of being under your hostess' roof is necessary.

Former Area Resident Wed in South Carolina

MRS. H. E. CAMERON

Charleston Air Force Base Chapel in South Carolina was the site of recent wedding vows of Sharon Ann Dunlap and Harold Eugene Cameron.

The bride is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Austin F. Dunlap of Charleston Air Force Base. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Cameron of North Hospital Road.

LINEN GOWN

The bride chose a floor-length A-line linen gown. Her full chapel train and elbow-length sleeves were bordered with scalloped inserts of Venetian lace.

She carried a prayer book bouquet of lily of the valley centered with a single white orchid.

* * *

Carol Dunlap was maid of honor for her sister. Best man the bridegroom's father. Michael Stewart of Charlotte, N.C. and Philip R. Jones of Charleston, S.C. ushered.

* * *

A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the rite, after which the couple left for a honeymoon in the Virgin Islands.

Christie Nuptials in Bride's Home

Darlene Gail Pratt and Douglas C. Christie exchanged vows recently in a morning ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

* * *

The bride was gowned in a two-piece street length dress of brocaded nylon lace.

Hosting the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Pratt of Holly. Parents of the bridegroom are the Roy Christies of Oakridge Street.

* * *

Christine Babin was maid of honor with best man Richard Haynes of Ann Arbor.

Conserve Water During Drought

While drought conditions are still causing water shortages in many cities, fortunately people are being advised on ways to conserve water other than by stinting on their daily soapings.

* * *

In fact, tub baths are being recommended over showers because it is possible to take a long soapy soak without using a drop more water than is required for a quick in-and-out shower bath.

Margaret Emily Best was recently graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a B.A. degree. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Best of Robinwood Street.

Area Women Are Initiated at Pilot Club

Three new members were initiated to the Pilot Club of Pontiac, Inc. at the group's annual picnic Monday evening.

Mesdames: Neil Burkholder, Oscar Ferrell and Vivian Guidos were initiated by Mrs. Edgar Arnold, Mrs. Glen Dolan and Mary Elizabeth Marcero.

Mrs. Mallory Coleman of Orchard Lake was hostess for the event.

* * *

Plans were made for a benefit garage sale on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Dolan on Menominee Road.

Area service projects will benefit from the 8 a.m. sale.

Mrs. Edgar Arnold will represent the club at the Pilot International convention in New Orleans July 24 through 27.

* * *

Convention sessions will be presided over by Professor Meralda Brennan of Shenandoah, Penn. She is the Pilot International president.

'Found' Money Is Lost Again

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — While cleaning out her desk, Mrs. Virginia Hopkins found an uncashed check issued to her on June 21, 1956.

* * *

It was given her in payment of appraisal work done for the Fort Worth Real Estate Board. It was still negotiable when she took it to a board meeting to display as a joke.

* * *

Someone inadvertently spilled a glass of water on it, washing off the signature and invalidating the check.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Sherman of Crescent Road will mark their golden wedding anniversary on Friday. The couple was married in Detroit July 14, 1917. An open house to celebrate the event will take place in the home of their son, Clair, on Voorheis Road from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday. There are two grandchildren.

Psoriasis, a Stubborn Skin Problem

New treatments for psoriasis, a stubborn skin problem affecting an estimated 6 million Americans, have to be evaluated in a number of ways, according to Dr. E. Lipman Cohen, a dermatologist.

Convenience, side-effects, site and size of lesions, and the patient's medical history must be considered.

* * *

Dr. Cohen, reported in Medical Digest, that he has found ammoniated mercury ointments and steroid therapy (with or without wrappings) unsuccessful because of adverse side-reactions. Tar and dithranol (available in the U.S. as Anthryl), he wrote, remain "the two most important substances in the topical treatment of psoriasis."

Subject: Back Yard Cooks

Students in the recently completed Gourmet Outdoor Cookery class at Oakland Community College find that sampling is part of the fun. Mrs. Leon Renner, Cooley Lake Road hunts for the proper utensil as Ray Linley of Hazel Park eats an orange wedge. They are preparing seafood and fruit kabobs. The men in the class almost outdid the women in their enthusiasm.

Amel Dunbar will teach a second and third group of students in his Gourmet Outdoor Cookery class how to bone chicken breasts. Two new classes start July 20 on OCC's Highland Lakes campus. Hours are 9:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Further information may be had by calling OCC's division of community services.

Mrs. J. A. Kratage, Wards Point Drive, waits with a pan of chicken as Steve Willis, second year food technology student at Oakland Community College, gets the grill ready. Willis assists Dunbar in conducting the course. Prospective students are advised not to eat dinner before attending the evening class, say graduates of the first course.

Phobias Cause Adolescent Girls to Starve Selves

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) — Pre-adolescent and teen-age girls who starve themselves to dangerous levels may do so because of inner fears of growing up, being lonely, or becoming independent of their families, according to a psychiatrist and psychologist at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston.

The experts said the problem is one that may be increasing. Since 1960, they have seen about 25 cases at Children's. Known as "anorexia nervosa," the disturbance usually starts with a girl being preoccupied with her body size, contour, and a fear of fatness.

The refusal to eat any and all foods is connected with a deep-seated fear of something growing inside the body. The experts figure such fears and fantasies turn out to be a disguise for the anger and built the children experience towards people in authority over them.

Auto Agitation

Motor-touring families can convert their car into a washing machine by carrying dirty duds in a large covered container filled with soap or detergent suds. The car's motion, en route to the next campsite or motel, supplies the agitation needed for loosening soil.

Wash After Wearing

It is imperative to wash those conspicuous "new look" stockings — of all colors and textures — in soap or detergent suds after every single wearing. This keeps them bright and snug to flatter legs which are always in the limelight.

Mom's Snobbishness Creates Resentment

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I'm asking you to help me stop resenting my five-year-old girl. You'll need to know that I'm a college graduate, a musician who at 21 married a man who could not read.

After eight years of marriage, he has not only learned to read but also has taken college courses that promise us finally a secure future. But I can't stand my second child.

She's got my mother-in-law's red hair and many of the common mannerisms I detest in this woman . . .

ANSWER: You don't hate this child, girl. What you detest is yourself—that aspect, that part of you which married so detestably "beneath" you.

You asked for this. So I'm handing it to you straight. Your resentment has nothing whatever to do with this child. It's got to do with your still-lingering terror that the scornful people who told you that it was a "common" streak in you which married an illiterate man were right.

In this child who resembles your vulgar mother-in-law you see no escape from your own "common" streak.

What I'm saying is that you have not yet worked out your freedom from your family's snobbish social values.

You're 29. At that age we still have a long way to go before we truly trust the judgement we have opposed to our parents' judgements.

★ ★ ★

Oh, we'll think we pulled free of control by them when we married the illiterate man we loved—the man who has justified our confidence in him as your fine husband has done. But sooner or later we discover we haven't. We discover that we're still manipulated by terror that we are the socially disappointing inferiority they said we were when their college graduate-musician daughter announced her intention of marrying a man who could not read.

So my advice to you is to try to accept your resentment of this child as tranquilly as you can—and attend to your fear of her as an inescapable reminder of your own nasty "commonness."

If I want to be glib about it, I could say that you'll quit resenting your little girl when you quit your ancestor worship of your family's social measurements.

Revive Skin Beauty With Facial Sauna

We usually take for granted that the family automobile needs a tuneup from time to time. But how many women will take the time to give their complexion a much needed revitalization?

Winter winds, summer sunning, drying heat indoors, and the heavy concentrations of dust and soot in the atmosphere are among the factors playing havoc with the complexion.

★ ★ ★

The new beauty appliance, the Saunda Facial Sauna, takes the guesswork out of complexion care, thoroughly deep cleanses the face, and when used with the Saunda beauty preparations offers a complete facial in 20 minutes.

The results are immediate and the process assures a professional-type facial which can be taken conveniently in the home.

STEAM MIST

The gold, crystal and ivory colored appliance is specially designed for dressing table use or in the powder room. Unlike the old-fashioned teakettle or vaporizer whose searing steam could cause injury to delicate facial tissues, the Saunda mist is scientifically created and controlled to remain a constant, comfortable 118 degree F.

The appliance is activated by adding 1½ ounces of tap water and plugging into an electrical outlet. Warm mist is generated within a few seconds. The swirling mist penetrates the pore openings causing pearly beads of perspiration to form.

The flow of perspiration drives out deeply-ingrained grime, oil, and make-up which often cannot be removed even with the finest cleansing creams. At the same time, the gentle action of Saunda increases the blood circulation to the surface of the face, and results in a natural radiant glow.

A Saunda facial is a comfortable, relaxing experience, easing tensions, soothing the eyes — and it helps clear sinus passages, too!

After the face has perspired freely for five to eight minutes, the following skin care program is recommended.

ROUTINE

First, a facial scrub preparation is applied to absorb the impurities driven out by the perspiration; secondly, a freshener is applied to close the pores and tone the skin; finally, a moisturizer is used to restore the skin's protective oil and moisture to just the proper balance.

The Saunda appliance which is packed with the special facial preparations is available at most fine drug and department stores.

Padding Out in Contest Swimsuits

By KAY BARTLETT

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Some might call June Wiley a statistician. Others would say she's more a detective.

But at least one Miss Universe contestant is sorry June's backstage.

NO HELP

June checks to make sure the girls aren't giving nature a boost in the swimsuit competition.

"I fit all the girls personally and I can tell pretty quickly if one of them suddenly gets more busty," she said.

Miss France, 36-22-33, and Miss Scotland, 38-24-36, presented the biggest problems for Miss Wiley as contest rule prohibit altering any part of the official swim suit.

★ ★ ★

"I need to have my suit taken in at the waist and hips," complained Lena McGarvie of Glasgow, a public relations officer. "Not so," proclaimed June, "only buttons on the straps can be adjusted."

Anne Vernier, a student from Geneva, France, would like for the lower porgion of her suit to fit a little snugger, June said. The answer is still no.

"These suits are made for averagers, and let's face it, she has a much better than average figure," Miss Wiley said.

★ ★ ★

Miss Wiley also decrees what size suit the contestants shall wear as they parade before the judges in Saturday night's CBS television production. Sometimes her judgment and the contestants are at odds.

Miss Italy, a 39-25-39 model, wanted to wear a size 10 suit, Miss Wiley said. She got a 14.

Another of Miss Wiley's chores is producing the official statistics for the girls. Sometimes the tape measure here varies from what the girls reported.

★ ★ ★

One girl this year, whom Miss Wiley would not identify, burst into tear when her hips measured 36.

"They're 34½," wailed the contestant. "Thirty-five at the most, but never 36."

Can't Forget His Birthday

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Three years ago Mrs. Susan Reese "forgot" her husband's birthday. The next year, to prevent a similar occurrence, Kaye Reese ran an ad in a newspaper to remind her of his natal day. Last year he again reminded her in radio commercials.

This year the husband used portable billboards at intersections to remind his wife, saying: "Kaye Reese announces his birthday will be this Thursday."

His wife did not forget.

Orphan Colt Eats Buttons

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Ted Burns came home from a trip to Los Angeles with an unexpected passenger in the rear seat of his car—a horse.

Burns found the two-month-old mustang on the Nevada desert after cougars had killed its mother. He brought it home for his son, Tod. He named the colt Buttons "because that's the first thing he ate off my jacket."

'Little Baby' Stuck in Tire

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) —Firemen jumped aboard the fire truck and rushed to the scene when a woman called the station and frantically shouted: "Little Baby's got her head stuck in a tire."

★ ★ ★

Upon arriving, the firemen greased the ears of the 10-month old baby and slipped the head out of the center rim of an automobile tire. The woman who called the firemen said she got excited and forgot to tell them that "Little Baby" was a dog.

Temporary Job Lasts 48 Years

LOUISVILLE, Ga. (AP) — When a group of businessmen bought the News and Farmer, Louisville's weekly paper, they asked a local school teacher to edit it "for a while." That "while" stretched into 48 years.

Mrs. Virginia Polhill Saxon recently retired after nearly five decades as editor, during which time she met some of the nation's most famous personalities, including President and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt. "There's no place like a country newspaper for meeting people," she declares.

Michigan made in The Pine Shops, Big Rapids, this furniture is reminiscent of a bygone era. The secretary desk might have belonged in a rural landowner's counting house; it is carefully fitted inside.

The handmade rush seat of the ladder-back chair is tough and pliable; the chair would be at home anywhere. Wall sconces are charming accessories. May be wired for electricity.

Curious Tot Downs Lye; Will Recover

SEATTLE (UPI) — Lee Ellen Prevele was a curious youngster. Like any two-year-old.

She took a swallow from a container that contained a small amount of lye and her esophagus — or food pipe — was severely burned.

That was two years ago and the child since then has had more than 50 operations to open the esophagus, which became partially blocked with scar tissue. On occasions she had to be fed directly through a tube in her abdomen.

* * *

When it was found that repair was impossible, doctors made a new esophagus for Lee out of a piece of her large intestine. The youngster is recuperating well and doctors rate her chances of total recovery as excellent.

But it has been a bad two years for Lee and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Prevele.

EXPENSE

"I'd estimate our medical bills at about $20,000 but that is nothing compared to the utter anguish we have had," said Mrs. Prevele.

Mrs. Prevele said she hopes their experience will serve one useful purpose, by acting as a reminder to others to keep dangerous substances out of the reach of children.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

Today, I'm giving you a few more travel tips for home or abroad.

Everyone loves knits and they do travel beautifully. Knits don't wrinkle, don't soil easily, and can be dressed up or down. I'd suggest one in a becoming color, possibly a sleeveless dress that can be accessorized with either jackets or sweaters.

You can add printed smoke rings, chiffon scarfs, or jewelry and wear one costume from morning to night.

Be sure your raincoat is just as functional under the sun as well as under a cloud. A gay colored one can serve as a regular coat and because it has been treated with a water repellent spray, it can double in the rain.

Remember when traveling, no one expects you to dress the way you would at home. Most large cities of the world are very fashion conscious, and you will always want to look your best.

Fashions latest dictate is a coat of cotton brocade. They are so handsome and can be worn 12 months a year. They have the look of wool, silk, or whatever. Make yours tailored in style, the beauty of the fabric will make it outstandingly beautiful without being overdone.

A tip from a fashion coordinator: Tent dresses of whipped cream fabric are perfect for auto travel (belted or unbelted). They are so comfortable, look nice when you get out of the car and can serve as a robe in an emergency.

Lately, I have had several requests for a pattern for an English riding jacket and breeches. I haven't been able to locate any and am hoping one of you can help us out. If you know of such a pattern, please write to Eunice Farmer in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600. I will be happy to forward the information to others.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. George Schupp of Louisville, Ky. is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following suggestion.

Recently, I had to reline a coat, and I didn't have a pattern to go by. I ripped out the old lining, sprayed it with spray starch and pressed it flat. This gave body to the material, and it served much better as my pattern.

Dear Eunice Farmer:

Many of the new patterns have gone back to the side zipper or else simply open at the shoulders with no other closing on the pattern. I have become so used to the back zipper and find it very difficult to get a dress on and off without one. Is it all right to go ahead and place the zipper wherever I wish? Mrs. B. C.

Dear Mrs. B. C.:

Many of the foreign designer patterns have eliminated the center back seam. These dresses also have a minimum of fit, making it rather simple to get in and out of. However, if you are the least curvacious and wish to have a slight amount of fitting, it will be difficult for you to get the dress on and off.

In most instances, I can't see where a zipper (if done professionally with a hand-picked finish, instead of top stitching on the machine) detracts from the design of the garment.

* * *

Be sure to add the additional seam allowance at the center back of your garment when you are cutting it out. Another tip that will save frustration: Make your center back seam 1 inch wide instead of the usual ⅝ inch. This will give you ample seam allowance for a smooth zipper application.

WSCS Social Will Be Saturday

The Women's Society for Christian Service of St. Luke's Methodist Church is planning an ice cream social Saturday at 4 p.m.

Cochairmen are Mrs. Glenn Weiler and Mrs. Jack Coulter. Proceeds will be used for landscaping of the church property.

Wet Cut Blooms

If you do not have time to arrange your bouquets of flowers as soon as you have cut them, place them in a bucket of water until you do have time to arrange them.

Just a 10-minute wait on a hot day can ruin an otherwise beautiful bouquet if you don't put the flowers immediately in water.

'Soap and Suds' Is Club Project to Help Needy

Any club group seeking ideas for a special project might consider one developed by a woman's group in West Monroe, Louisiana — where August was designated as "Soap and Suds Month."

* * *

Members collected contributions of soap and cleaning supplies which were then given to deserving organizations for distribution among needy families.

* * *

This theme could be used any time of the year, because every day is a soap-and-suds day — and needy people are bound to appreciate such thoughtfulness.

Somehow It's Just Not the Same

By BETTY CANARY

The Beverly Hillbillies lost one of its sponsors recently because the show was too popular. Now the way it usually happens is that a sponsor drops a show because nobody is watching it.

But this company, a cigarette manufacturer, withdrew voluntarily because the show's ratings were so good and many watchers were children.

Applause is due the cigarette makers for living up to their voluntary code of not advertising to juveniles. The cigarette code, set up by the industry itself, requires among other things that advertisers avoid suggesting that smoking is essential to social prominence, distinction, success or sexual attraction.

Athletes or celebrities with special appeal to children do not appear in the advertisements.

Things have also changed with the program script writers. And, while I don't think they should coerce people into smoking, I cannot help but wonder how some of the old scenes would have been handled.

Take the romantic shot. You know, where Humphrey Bogart lit two cigarettes and handed one to the lady. Health factor or not, that scene had real implication. Can you get the same effect with two sticks of spearmint?

Or what about the wounded soldier scene? He's down and breathing heavily. His buddy leans over him, pouring sulfa into the wound while the battle rages around them.

Does the buddy shake a cigarette from a crumpled pack and light for the dying man? No siree! He hastily unwraps a caramel and presses it between his lips.

* * *

Then there's the dramatic shot where the blindfolded man is backed against the wall. Time was when he was shown a little mercy before the rifles cracked. Not any more.

ANY LAST WORD?

"Got a last request?"

"Please — a cigarette."

"Can't do it, old buddy — rules, you know."

"But I'm going to die!"

"Sorry about that!"

"Just one puff, man!"

"Can't do it -- bad for your heart."

"So what? You're going to shoot me!"

"You want to go with emphysema?"

"Look, I'm begging! One last butt!"

"How about a mint?"

"Good Lord! Shoot me!"

"Sure you wouldn't like a mint first?"

"SHOOT! SHOOT!"

Lengthen Life With Exercise

Lack of exercise is probably shortening the average American man's life expectancy by as much as five years, says Dr. Jean Mayer, professor of nutrition at Harvard's School of Public Health.

American man's life expectancy now is 68.5 years, which is a good five years or more under that of men in other civilized countries. The main difference is that men in those countries get more exercise, Dr. Mayer says.

Miserable Rise Site of Worst Viet Fighting

CON THIEN, Vietnam (AP) — Con Thien is a miserable rise of not more than 100 feet high that commands a good view of the amber dust and scrub of the western lowlands of the demilitarized zone.

The bunkers, command post and artillery battery here have become a focus for the heaviest fighting of the war. The U.S. Marines are in a summer campaign to keep tough North Vietnamese army units out of South Vietnam.

* * *

The fighting has been mostly within one or two miles in all directions from Con Thien.

The Marines repulsed one strong attack of North Vietnamese but recently the attacks have been all artillery — more than 2,000 rounds of rockets and heavy gunfire.

NO BREAKS

There are no breaks. The North Vietnamese shell all day, sometimes heavily — 806 rounds one day — and sometimes lightly. This calls for care all the time.

A once-formidable control bunker full of Marines, maps and radios is gone. A rocket hit it squarely and exploded inside. It looks like a mine disaster. Sandbags were thrown 40 yards by the explosion, one Marine said.

* * *

The Marines at Con Thien are generally reluctant to talk, but two privates did so with the understanding that they not be identified. Both have spent several weeks at Con Thien.

"You know how you have your friends, and you get a little group together," Dan said.

TWO LEFT

"We're the only friends left in our group. Joe and I were going to celebrate our birthdays together. He was killed. He would have been old enough to vote today."

A shell whipped in and dust trickled into the bunker. A second later, dust from the explosion darkened the ring slit like a sudden overcast. The dust went away and it brightened inside.

"It's terrible," said Jim. "Sometimes you can see the flashes right out in front of you. Flash, flash, flash. It takes 30 seconds and then they hit. We saw one rocket all the way. It came right out of the sky toward us with a big yellow tail. It missed.

"The rounds go less than the speed of sound. You can hear the muzzle blast a second before it hits here.

NO DEFENSE

"You never know. Three guys were standing together the other day. Two guys were killed. The other wasn't scratched. There's nothing you can do.

"You get to the point where you can't worry about it, but I'm getting jumpy."

"God's got His eye on this bunker," Dan interposed.

"We're down to about 400 men," Jim said. A Marine battalion should have about 950 men.

Lt. Col. Richard J. Schening, of Springfield, Va., is commander of the 1st Battalion, 9th Regiment, at Con Thien.

"This is like war," he said. He has been in two others.

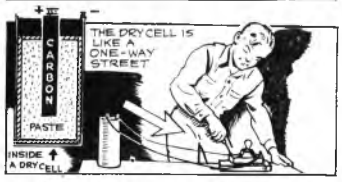
A Junior Editors Quiz About BATTERIES



QUESTION: What is the difference between dry cell and storage batteries?

* * *

ANSWER: Each dry cell battery has two electroides made of different materials. These give off the electricity and have terminals at the top to which the wires are attached.

In the dry cell (upper left), the central electrode is of carbon and the outer one of zinc — this being the battery container. Dry cell batteries also contain an electrolyte, the paste in upper left.

Chemical action inside changes chemical energy to electrical energy. When chemicals in such a battery are used up, it goes dead and cannot be recharged.

The storage battery in your family car is different. Here, electricity is made by your car's generator and comes into, or charges up, the car's battery. The battery stores this power. When you need to start your car, it will send out electricity by its own chemical process.

It will go dead, however, unless the car's generator keeps recharging it. On the instrument panel of your family car, a needle or light will show if the battery is not being properly recharged.

Militant Young Turks Fight for NAACP Control

BOSTON (AP) — While 2,000 NAACP delegates relax in the early, easygoing days of their national convention, a small group mindful of a growing militancy among young Negroes is waging a behind-the-scenes fight to gain control of the 58-year-old organization.

For the fifth successive year, a group of delegates primarily in their 30s, dissatisfied with what they consider overly conservative policies, are trying to change the rules so they can control the policymaking board of directors.

* * *

These "young Turks," as they are known within the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, have won a slightly stronger hand each year.

They believe they may come out on top this year, but the present leadership doesn't agree.

LITTLE CHANCE

"They don't have a snowball's chance in hell at this convention," said one of the "old guard" as he walked away, laughing.

"This is not a personal attack on Roy Wilkins, Glouster Current, John Morsell or any of the old guard," said Chester I. Lewis, a Wichita, Kan., attorney who is generally considered a leader of the young Turks.

* * *

"Many of these old ducks have made a hell of a contribution in years past. I have great respect for the old guard, but they are no longer relevant. This happens to all of us, let's face it. New ideas, new faces have to emerge if an organization is going to retain its sanity."

Much of the NAACP leadership has been in control for more than a decade.

POLITICAL WAR

Lewis' fight, and the old guard's counterattack, are being waged within bounds of the NAACP constitution in old-line political style—buttonholing delegates, stacking the resolutions committee, gaining control of nominating committees.

His Kansas branch submitted the proposed constitutional amendment on which Lewis pins his hopes for victory. It would double the number of regional members on the 60-member board of directors, and halve the 18 which the board itself chooses.

* * *

With a proposed 44 members out of 60 elected regionally, Lewis believes, control would pass "back to the people. The NAACP mass membership is a lot more militant than its national posture."

"The real trouble with the NAACP is it's too conservative, too responsible and too moderate. There is more segregated housing in 1967 than in 1957, more school segregation than before 1954, and the schools are less equal," Lewis said.

Random interviews turn up support in roughly equal amounts for each position.

But one man said the NAACP leadership always closely controls its conventions, and that he thought the site of this year's meeting was picked to help defeat the insurgents.

* * *

Boston is an interesting city, he explained, and the delegates, many far from home and spending a great deal of money, will be so anxious to have a good time that they will quickly accept the recommendations of the resolutions committee, controlled by the old guard, instead of spending hours in debate.

Lewis says he is confident that his constitutional amendment, although not passed by the 42-member committee, will come to the floor in the only other way permissible—a minority report signed by at least 10 members.

LEWIS' PLAN

"Once on the floor on Friday or Saturday, he said, he believes the young Turks have enough delegate strength to have it adopted. The board of directors could overrule it, but usually accepts recommendations from the convention.

Not all of Lewis' supporters are as confident.

* * *

Donald R. Lee of Buffalo, young president of the New York State Conference, said the NAACP needs to be more effective than is possible for an organization whose local leaders volunteer their time.

"We need to hire full-time people," he said. "We'd like to see broader representation on the board, more vibrant national leaders."

NO PERSONAL ATTACK

But he added, "The tone has been set, in my opinion, in the convention. People envision any change as an attack on the executive director (Wilkins). This is not so. He's been a very capable person."

County Unit Eyes Citizen Crime-Fighting

The law enforcement committee of the Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday decided to study the feasibility of a countywide program that would give citizens a hand in fighting crime.

It probably will be patterned after the Citizens Helping to Eliminate Crime (CHEC) program in Pontiac and similar efforts in Flint, Genesee County and Grand Rapids.

Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger explained the Pontiac program to committee members.

He said that some 1,000 citizens have been issued CHEC identification cards and that, as CHEC-MATES, they will call police when they observe a crime being committed or have suspicion of crime.

Hanger called the present high rate of crime "a disgrace" and said he welcomed citizen participation in efforts such as CHEC.

TO STUDY PROGRAMS

The committee in a letter from chairman John S. Slavens will seek information on present citizen programs, particularly the Genesee County effort, and evaluate its findings at a meeting Aug. 10.

Last Friday Circuit Court Judge Arthur E. Moore proposed a 13-point program to prevent and control lawlessness and this stirred some friction at the law enforcement committee session.

Monte R. Geralds, an attorney, termed some of the proposals by Judge Moore as "wild" and said he wondered if the judge knew that a supervisors law enforcement committee existed.

★ ★ ★

Geralds was particularly critical of Moore's proposed multiple mayors' proclamation that would give police powers similar to that under martial law.

MEETING SUGGESTED

Geralds suggested the committee ask Moore to meet with it prior to the judge's proposed July 17 gathering of municipal officials when his proposals will be discussed. Committee members decided against Geralds' suggestion.

RFK Tells Poverty Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Accusing President Johnson of conducting a platoon-size war on poverty, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy today proposed enlisting the "great armies" of U.S. private enterprise in the battle.

In a major speech to the Senate, the New York Democrat urged that U.S. business be offered tax breaks to build job-creating industries in decaying urban America.

He termed the current administration assault on hard-core ghetto problems "ineffective, inefficient and degrading."

"More dangerously, we have created for the poor a separate economy, almost a separate nation; a second-rate system of welfare handouts, a screen of government agencies keeping the poor apart from the rest of us."

House to Air Lending-Truth Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House advocates of the so-called truth-in-lending bill, approved unanimously by the Senate, say the House will begin hearings on the measure in three weeks.

The controversial legislation cleared the Senate 92 to 0 Tuesday after only 2½ hours of debate.

* * *

House sponsors said hearings will be conducted by one of the bill's strong backers, Chairman Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., of the consumer affairs subcommittee.

Some opposition generated by retailers, bankers and others melted away in the Senate after several compromises were made in the bill's provisions.

RECONCILED

Many of its foes also became reconciled to its passage in some form during the lengthy consideration starting after former Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., introduced it in 1960.

The bill would require disclosure of the cost of loans on items for which $100 billion of debt now is outstanding. The theory is that this will enable consumers to shop for the most advantageous credit terms. The bill would not regulate interest rates or credit charges.

Consumers would have to be told two things on most debt transactions—the annual percentage interest rate and the total finance charge in dollars and cents.

The biggest type of borrowing covered would be auto loans, now totaling more than $30 billion.

OTHERS AFFECTED

Also affected would be $20 billion of personal loans, about $20 billion of second mortgages, $19 billion of loans for appliances and other consumer items, $7.8 billion worth of single payments loans, and $3.6 billion worth of repair and modernization loans.

Thus, a lender financing a $2,200 automobile for installment payments of $75 a month for three years would have to tell the borrower the payments included a $500 financing charge and a 16 per cent annual interest rate.

And a person buying a $300 refrigerator with 18 $22-a-month installments would have to be told the payments included a $96 financing charge and 41 per cent interest.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chief Senate sponsor in the present Congress, said the bill "should save millions of dollars in excessive charges and prevent millions of families from being saddled with excessive debt."

* * *

The Senate Banking Committee, in piling up 6,000 pages of testimony, found cases where interest of 289 per cent was paid on used-car loans and 235 per cent on television sets, Proxmire said.

More than 300 pilots killed in light-plane accidents during the past four years had alcohol in their bloodstream.

Egyptian Air, Tank Forces Building Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Russians have replaced about half the planes and one-quarter of the tanks lost by Egypt in its recent war with Israel, U.S. officials said today.

The State Department, viewing the Soviet shipments "with increasing concern," appealed anew for Moscow's cooperation in halting another Mideast arms race.

The Johnson administration was silent on what it would do about resuming its own arms shipments to the Mideast. But it was clear that it would not — as urged yesterday by Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, D.-Md. — supply Israel with enough new armaments to match Soviet arms being airlifted to the Arab states.

Although the United States has no firm figure on the size of the Soviet commitment, it has received some authoritative reports on shipments so far.

* * *

These have included 30 new MIG21 delta-wing fighters, 10 directly from the Soviet Union and 20 from Algeria. Egypt lost 100 of its 163 MIG21s in the war.

MIG REPLACEMENTS

Replacements for at least 50 MIGS of earlier models also are reported to have been received by Egypt.

More than 100 new Stalin-3 heavy tanks are reported to have been sent to Egypt, which lost about 500 of the 1,000 such tanks it had before the war.

There were indications that President Johnson would press his bid for getting the United Nations to make an early report on arms shipments to the area.

State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said yesterday "it seems clear to us that the great powers should be working for limitation of arms in the Near East and not a resumption of the old race."

C. of C. Annual Summer Session Is Slated Aug. 9

The annual summer Pontiac Chamber of Commerce meeting will be Aug. 9 at Morey's Golf and Country Club.

Information and tee-off times may be obtained at the Chamber office in the Riker Building.

Tickets are $12 a person. There will be golf, entertainment, meals and prizes.

You don't have to play golf to attend the day-long annual summer meeting, a Chamber spokesman said.

* * *

He reminded Chamber members that this would be a good time to introduce prospective members to the Chamber functions.

Romney Force Will Serve Regional Economic Panel

LANSING (AP)—Appointment of a 21-member Michigan advisory task force to serve the Upper Great Lakes Regional Economic Development Commission was announced Tuesday by Gov. George Romney.

Harold J. Vanlerberghe, a member of the Escanaba City Council, will be chairman of the task force, which Romney described as "broadly representative of the areas and the economic interests of the Michigan segment of the Upper Great Lakes Region."

Romney serves as a member of the commission along with Gov. Warren Knowles of Wisconsin, Gov. Harold LeVander of Minnesota and federal co-chairman Thomas Francis.

The commission is designed to "bring to bear the forces of federal, state and local governments in meeting the economic problems and fostering the further economic growth of the Upper Great Lakes Basin," Romney said.

* * *

The governor said he has asked the task force to aid in obtaining the thinking and cooperation of the residents of the 45 Upper Peninsula and Northern Lower Michigan counties included in the Upper Great Lakes Region.

* * *

China N-Progress May Force U. S. to Build Antimissile System

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — Red China's development toward nuclear rockets may force the Johnson administration toward a decision to spend billions of dollars for an antiballistic missile system which it doesn't want now.

★ ★ ★

Although most of the nation's top military men favor an ABM defense, President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara are reluctant to give a go-ahead for the present Nike-X system for these reasons:

- The extremely high cost, an estimated total of $22 billion to protect just 50 U.S. cities, leaving unprotected 130 cities each with 100,000 or more population.
- Rapid technological advances that continually improve a missile's ability to hit a target. Such advances could make a system like Nike-X obsolete before it could be completely deployed, a matter of five or six years.
- Before committing a huge sum to producing Nike-X, the United States might have to conduct atmospheric nuclear tests to make sure the system worked. This would violate the limited nuclear test-ban treaty.

McNAMARA'S COMMENT

McNamara commented: "Studies we have made cast doubt on the ability of any system to protect our population against Soviet attack."

President Johnson has asked $375 million in the fiscal 1968 budget for contingency production of the Nike-X system. But he has indicated he would withhold an order to produce a missile killer pending the outcome of diplomatic contacts seeking agreement with the Soviet Union not to deploy ABMs.

★ ★ ★

The Russians have started constructing at least a limited ABM system, and Johnson is saying that if both nations hold off, each will save considerable money. But, two weeks ago at his United Nations news conference, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was asked about prospects for an agreement on limiting development of antiballistic missile systems.

He indicated there was little chance, saying: "We believe the discussions should center not on merely the problems of an antimissile defense system because after all the antimissile system is not a weapon of aggression, of attack, it is a weapon of protection— it's a defensive system. And we feel, therefore, that what should be considered is the entire complex of armament-disarmament questions."

SOVIET DEFENSE BOAST

Earlier last month the chief of Soviet civil defense boasted that his country could destroy all enemy missiles before they reached Soviet territory. In February this same official, Marshal Vasily I. Chuikov, had said the Soviet Union was not completely safe from missile attack.

Red China's emergence as a nuclear power is causing the United States to reevaluate its position.

In a report issued June 15, the Senate-House Economics Committee concluded that Red China has a "very large capacity for nuclear weapon development" but added: "It will take time before China can hope, if ever, to approach a position of parity with the United States or the Soviet Union, either in numbers or sophistication of nuclear weapons."

★ ★ ★

Two days later, Red China exploded its first hydrogen bomb. Furthermore, scientists on the staff of Japan's Institute of Atmospherics concluded that the explosion had occurred 18 to 31 miles high, indicating that the bomb was sent aloft by a missile.

EXPERTS DIVIDED

Some American experts, while opposing an all-out ABM system, believe this country should provide some protection against a possible surprise attack from a substantial force of nuclear-tipped missiles from Red China.

Others favor holding off until improvements in technology make possible more sophisticated systems, such as exploding huge nuclear bombs in the path of incoming warheads, or orbiting a series of satellites that could destroy a rocket as it lifted off.

★ ★ ★

Much research and testing is being done in these areas, as well as on projects designed to intercept, inspect and destroy hostile satellites.

Nike-X consists of two separate rocket systems. The Spartan, with a range of 400 miles, would intercept a warhead outside the atmosphere. Warheads that eluded the Spartan would be attacked below 100,000 feet by the Sprint.

Both these ABMs destroy the targets with a nuclear explosion and merely have to detonate their charges within a mile of the warhead.

★ ★ ★

But the Soviet Union, like the United States, has complex decoys to fool tracking radar and is producing missiles with maneuverable, multiple warheads. U.S. Minuteman and Polaris missiles are believed able to carry three warheads each. There has been speculation that the large Soviet ICBM might have as many as 15 in a single nose cone.

★ ★ ★

Exploding very large nuclear bombs in the paths of such concentrated attacks thus would be better than the "one-on-one" concept of Nike-X. Such bombs would have the force of 100 or more megatons, more than 10 times the power of the Nike-X bursts.

Detonation of a few of these large rocket-carried bombs at the proper altitude and latitude could trap dense quantities of radiation particles in the earth's magnetic field.

RADIATION BELT

The explosion would disable any missile within several miles, and within 30 minutes an artificial belt of radiation would encircle the globe. This umbrella would be strong enough to damage the electronic elements of nuclear warheads, rendering ineffective entire barrages of enemy missiles. It would not require the complex tracking radar of Nike-X, and it would not be hampered by decoys or maneuverable warheads.

Underground nuclear testing in Nevada has proved the feasibility of such an awesome weapon. However, some specialists say atmospheric tests would be required to perfect it.

They note that the Soviet Union has conducted considerable above-ground testing with bombs up to 60 megatons. The Russians accomplished 71 such tests before signing the limited nuclear test-ban treaty and are believed to be developing such an ABM defense.

The Defense Department also is reexamining a concept called Project Bambi which was abandoned in 1964 as too costly. It envisions hundreds of satellites spaced out in low earth orbit so that several would be over enemy territories at all times.

ROCKET DETECTION

Satellite sensors would detect a rising rocket, and the vehicle would immediately unleash clouds of metal projectiles to pierce and destroy the rocket before it got out of the atmosphere.

The development of mammoth rockets capable of orbiting payloads of several tons had sparked the Bambi revival. A Saturn 5 moon rocket, scheduled for an initial test flight later this year, could with one launching place more than 100 Bambi-type satellites in orbit.

The United States also is working on a second generation antisatellite system. It already has the Nike-Zeus rockets on Kwajalein Island and Thor missiles on Johnston Island in the Pacific Ocean. But these early systems are limited, and defense officials have been studying follow-up programs for two years.

Until recently, most satellites had a predictable path, determined by orbital mechanics. However, both the United States and Soviet Union now have maneuverable satellites that could easily elude present antisatellite defenses.

MANEUVERABLE MISSILES

Systems under study by the United States include maneuverable nuclear attack ships that would fly directly at a target and satellites that would fly alongside an enemy payload. By electronic means, the latter could learn the contents of the suspected satellite and, if necessary, destroy it.

★ ★ ★

Defense officials report the United States already can determine whether an enemy has placed a nuclear bomb in orbit. However, they say it is unlikely in the near future than an orbiting bomb could match the accuracy or reliability of ground-based missiles.

★ ★ ★

To protect U.S. satellites from possible attack, this country is developing coveys of satellite decoys to confuse trackers and interceptors.

Under extensive research is the possible use of powerful laser or radiation beams which could concentrate enough energy in a pencil-thin line to obliterate either warheads or satellites.

Backward Look at Flying

It's Plane Man Can't Adjust

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At recent House subcommittee hearings on the new Transportation Department's budget, Rep. William E. Minshall, R-Ohio, came forth with a trenchant observation.

WEST

"You cannot fly an airplane backward," he said.

This shall be our thought for today.

For the shortcoming pointed out by Minshall is not confined to aviation. Man's inability to fly an airplane backward is symbolic of a much larger and more vexing problem.

I refer to man's inability to adjust psychologically to the exigencies of modern transportation.

There seems to be some dispute as to whether man is actually incapable of making this adjustment, or whether he is just being stubborn about it. Either way it may well be the greatest problem of our life and times.

★ ★ ★

Consider first man's refusal to accept the sonic boom.

OVER WATER

Officials of the Federal Aviation Administration told the subcommittee the forthcoming supersonic transports may have to operate mostly over water. The reason is that people on the ground complain about aircraft noise.

The FAA witnesses said there is no evidence that sonic booms actually hurt anyone. They implied that those of us who find sonic booms annoying are merely being petulant.

Eventually, I suppose, someone will prove that sonic booms are good for us. Meanwhile, our psychological maladjustment appears to be holding up progress.

★ ★ ★

Consider next man's resistance to auto seat belts. It has already been proven that seat belts are good for us. Yet officials of the Federal Highway Administration testified that public acceptance remains tepid.

WARNING LIGHT

When one auto maker put a warning light on the dash board to show when seat belts were unbuckled, many motorists responded by smashing the light.

Finally, consider man's reluctance to ride backward in airplanes.

FAA officials said research shows that when seats face toward the rear of the plane, passengers have a better chance of surviving a crash. But, they added, "people seem not to like to ride backward."

★ ★ ★

It occurred to me the solution to that problem might be to leave the seats facing forward and fly the planes in reverse. But when Minshall observed that "you cannot fly an airplane backward," I realized it wouldn't work.

Don't Overlook Cukes for Summer Eating

Cucumbers are in peak supply. So enjoy yourself.

And we are happy to remind you that they are very, very low in calories. But not when served with sour cream, of course.

Try them cooked sometime. Delicious and different.

Slice unpeeled cucumbers about ¼-inch thick. Cook 5 to 6 minutes in 1 inch of salted water. Drain.

Serve with a white sauce flavored with a little minced onion, or a sauce of half chicken stock and half light cream.

Cucumbers in Sour Cream

2 cucumbers, 8 inches long
1 cup thinly sliced fresh onion rings
¼ cup sour cream
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1 tablespoon water
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh dill
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

Wash cucumbers. Wipe dry and score down sides with fork.

Slice thin and combine with onion rings, sour cream, cider vinegar, water, salt, pepper and chopped dill. Toss lightly. Turn into serving bowl.

Garnish with sliced hard-cooked eggs. Serve as relish. Makes 6 servings.

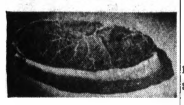
Fresh Cucumber Sauce for Fish

1 cup finely chopped, peeled fresh cucumbers
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ cup heavy cream, whipped

Combine cucumbers and salt. Let stand in covered bowl in refrigerator for at least 1 hour. Drain and mix with sugar, cider vinegar and black pepper.

* * *

Just before serving, fold in heavy cream. Serve over baked salmon, broiled fillet of haddock, swordfish or other fish. Makes 1 cup.



Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Beef tip sirloin butt steak.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?

A. It comes from the hindquarter of beef, specifically the section known as the tip or knuckle. This is right next to the sirloin section, as well as below the round or leg. The steaks are boneless and the fat follows a pattern similar to that of round steak in that most of it is in the edging.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By broiling if the meat is of high quality. This means using a dry heat method as is used for steaks from the short loin or sirloin sections. This steak is also marinated and broiled. It is excellent to use for cutting into cubes to be used for kabobs, to be broiled out-of-doors on the grill. If it's cut thin, panbroiling is the method to use. If there's any doubt about the quality, use the moist heat method (braising) for cooking.

Cook Apples in Syrup for Good Dessert

You'll still find a good assortment of controlled-atmosphere storage apples in the store. Try some like this.

Skillet Apples

⅓ cup of sugar and a pinch of salt
1 cup water
3 very large yellow Delicious apples, pared and cored and each cut into 8 wedges
1 teaspoon vanilla

In a 10-inch skillet over low heat, stir together the sugar, salt and water until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil. Add the apples; cover and boil gently about 5 minutes.

Uncover and continue cooking, gently turning apples as necessary, until they are soft through, have transparent-looking surfaces and still hold their shape. This will take about another 5 minutes. Use a slotted spoon to remove any apples that get done before the others until all are removed.

Stir the vanilla into the small amount of syrup in skillet; pour over apples. Cover and chill. Serve with Custard Sauce. Makes 6 servings.

CUCUMBERS — Crisp and green and wonderfully fresh tasting are cucumbers. Here, they're prepared with sour cream and fresh dill. Use a sour cream substitute if you're a calorie counter.

Canned asparagus benefit from being served with browned butter.

Always remove cake-pan liners as soon as the cake is inverted on the cooling rack.

You can add minced parsley with a heavy hand to a bread stuffing for poultry.

Sugar Pie So Simple

Sugar pie is a sweetie. The one that is baked starts with an uncooked pastry shell — the 9-inch size. Sprinkled into it is ¾ cup flour mixed well with 1 cup light brown sugar.

* * *

The dry flour particles are separated by the moist sugar to prevent their clumping together when a pint of light cream, flavored with vanilla and nutmeg is poured in. Small pieces of a stick of butter are added.

* * *

The filling will thicken when cooked 40 to 45 minutes in a 350 degree oven. When firm in the center and pastry is brown, this sugar pie is done.

Sugar Important in Baking—Does More Than Sweeten

Sugar has a hidden life that very few people suspect. It isn't that sugar is sneaky. Nor has it developed any tricky character traits since it was first discovered umpty - steen years ago. It's just that there's more to sugar than meets the taste buds.

You have known sugar all your life. It might have been added to the formula that went into your nursing bottle. More likely than not, it's been on your table at home every day.

- To sprinkle on grapefruit.
- To stir into coffee or iced tea.
- To add to anything that needs a touch of sweetness or a better flavor.

You have used sugar in your cooking, too. Most often, of course, in your baking.

Yet outside of sweetening a cake, a pie, a cookie . . . outside of adding to the flavor of bread, biscuits and muffins . . . outside of being an indispensable item in the frostings you put on the goodies you bake—outside of these things, do you know the many other ways sugar has been helping you all these years?

Learn more about sugar and you'll understand just how it helps you to bake better.

Here are some facts — real "cloak and measuring spoon" inside information — that can come to your aid every time you do battle with the mixing bowl and the oven. Let's consider breadmaking first.

In bread, the primary ingredient is flour. And the important element in flour, as you know, is gluten.

It's gluten that becomes elastic when flour is moistened, but if you don't take care, those gluten strands can become tough. They can develop a stubborn streak and tend to fight the yeast or baking powder or beaten egg whites you rely on to make your baking "rise and shine."

But did you know that sugar takes the fight out of gluten? Sugar tenderizes gluten.

While you're blending, mixing or kneading, sugar softens up the protein molecules in the gluten network and keeps it from toughening, thereby insuring a high rise every time you bake. And that's why sugar belongs in your baking recipes.

There is one more way that sugar does a secret job for you in breadmaking. When you bake with yeast, sugar acts as a food. A very special one. For sugar feeds yeasts—makes them grow—and when they do, yeast breads rise faster and higher.

FEEDS YEAST

In other words, sugar multiplies the power of yeast to leaven. Feed those yeasts, and see what it does to your reputation as a baker!

And sugar comes to your aid in the matter of light and tender cakes, too. Perhaps you have thought it was only leavening agents (baking powder, etc.) that accounted for the lightness in your baking. 'Taint so!

Sugar's effect on shortening also contributes to tenderness and lightness. When you cream butter (or other shortening) with sugar, the sugar is not merely being combined with the butter to produce a better flavor, but it is also incorporating additional air into the shortening and eventually into the cake.

This additional air expands under heat when you bake. Result: greater height, greater lightness and tenderness.

There's still another way that sugar helps when you bake. A fascinating change comes over sugar when baked goods are in the oven. Under heat, sugar changes its color.

When the temperature goes about 347 degrees Fahrenheit, sugar becomes golden amber in color and richly delicious in flavor. This magical change in sugar, called caramelization, accounts for the brown color and crisp surface of cakes and cookies.

Sugar, then, acts as a counter agent against tough gluten; escalates your yeast forces; adds extra air when creamed with shortening; and caramelizes to make your baking glamorous and richly delicious.

Quite a secret agent, sugar!

Luau Sandwich

Have a little "luau" with open-faced sandwiches of deviled ham spread on toast and topped with a half slice of cheese and one whole pineapple slice. Bake these easy and exotic-tasting hot snacks in a 375 degrees oven for about 10 minutes, or cheese bubbles.

Spice Is Subtle

Ground mace accents the flavor of fresh fruit in this fruit cup combination.

* * *

For 6 servings, combine 2 cups of sliced strawberries with 1 cup each of diced pineapple and grapefruit sections, 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, ¼ cup of sugar and ¼ teaspoon of ground mace. Toss lightly.

Tangy Cooler

Buttermilk and orange juice are happy companions. For a cool and refreshing beverage, combine 2 cups each buttermilk and orange juice. Add a dash of salt and 2 tablespoons sugar for 6 wonderful servings.

As a general rule, cake pans should be filled from only one-half to two-thirds full.

Take Special Care of Poultry Purchased in Summertime

Taking turkey home on your next shopping trip? If so, consider yourself a budding actress — a star in the great tableau of getting turkey meat from farm to table.

Your role as homemaker, though it comes toward the final act of this drama, is as important as any other.

The producer, of course, is an essential character. And this drama needs the support of retailers, wholesalers, processors, transporters and inspectors as well.

But for the final scene — the protection and pleasing of your family — the spotlight is on you.

Poultry is highly perishable — and all the more susceptible in the summertime. Spoilage producing microorganisms are more active in warm weather, you see.

So, your role in providing wholesome food for your family is even more demanding than usual.

INSPECTED?

Starting in the store, you would do well to look for turkey — whether you want a whole bird, or pieces — wearing the official USDA inspection mark. This is your cue to a wholesome selection.

Poultry wearing this mark, you can be sure, has been processed under the careful eye of your behind-the-scenes partners, inspectors with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

The inspection mark is your assurance that the turkey has been processed under sanitary conditions, was a healthy bird, and is honestly labeled and packaged.

Any turkey which has come across state lines on its way to your food store will have been inspected by these experts.

And since most poultry is raised in large numbers in widely scattered parts of the country, the majority of birds in food stores will have undergone this inspection.

Once you catch the cue from the inspection mark, it is time to go into your own act.

Select the size package which seems right for your family or meal plans. Reject any products which have damaged wrapping, or if the display cases seem unclean or improperly refrigerated.

WORK FAST

As soon as you check out of the food store, hustle your purchase home to refrigerator or freezer. Avoid letting this "meat" stand at room temperature for any length of time.

If frozen, your purchase will keep well up to a year in the freezer.

Depending on size, it will keep in your refrigerator, thawing gradually in 1 to 3 days. Use fresh, chilled poultry within a day or two, or freeze it at home.

Do not thaw the bird at room temperature. Allow it to thaw slowly in the refrigerator, or quickly under running cold water.

Serve the hot turkey, hot, and cold turkey really cold.

Refrigerate leftovers right away.

If your performance has included all these pointers, you can take a bow — and plan on encores — as a protector of your family and provider of good, wholesome turkey meals.

Egg Batter Is New for Coating Fish

Yorkshire Fish and Chips

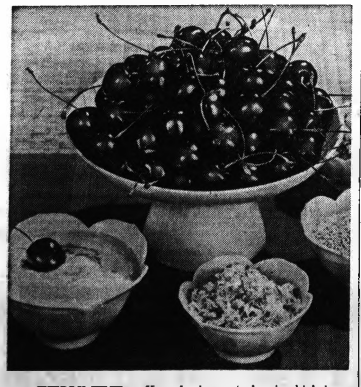
3 eggs
⅓ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup (about) unsifted regular flour
2 packages (each 12 ounces) frozen sole fillets, defrosted
Frozen French-fried potatoes

Beat eggs until foamy; gradually beat in milk, then salt. Gradually stir in enough flour to make batter consistency of heavy cream. Dip strips of fish in batter, a few pieces at a time, allowing batter to run off before frying in deep fat.

Heat potatoes according to package directions.

Apples Top Cake

Ever serve square of chocolate cake with a topping of applesauce flavored with orange? Interesting and delicious combination!



CHERRY TIME — Heap fresh sweet cherries high in a white bowl. Surround them with a half pint of sour cream mixed with two tablespoons brown sugar and half a teaspoon of vanilla. Add small bowls filled with toasted coconut, chopped almonds and toasted sesame seeds. Let your guests dip the cherries first into the sour cream, then into the other ingredients. Wonderful conversation piece.

For Meat and Shrimp Dish

Rice Is Cooked in Tea

Recently, a reader described a particular dish as a "bell ringer." Actually, the connection between food and bells goes back to ancient Far Eastern legends: various shaped bells were used to proclaim the excellence of food as well as its variety.

For example, in India, "Chai Garam" bells told of travelers drinking hot tea under the blazing sun; "Sweetmeat" bells decorated street stands and helped the vendor sell his wares; "Curry House" bells adorned spice houses.

Here's a "bell ringer" of a dish, adapted from a highly popular oriental one. It's fast and easy to make—uses ham, beef and cooked shrimp (leftovers if you have them) and is unusually delicious.

The seasoning trick that makes it so good is: cook the rice in tea. "Brisk" tea adds an extra "something" to the taste — full-bodied flavor — that cooking in plain water won't do.

Garnish the rice mixture with thin strips of omelet and accompany it with salted peanuts and toasted coconut for a touch that's authentically oriental yet not too bizarre for American tastes.

Tea is the proper beverage to serve with oriental foods and most people will prefer a "brisk" tea blended especially for American palates.

Use either loose tea or "flo-thru" tea bags and start off with fresh cold water. Bring it to a fast rolling boil and brew the tea for 5 full minutes in a teapot which has been rinsed with scalding water.

You'll have a delightful beverage that rates the ringing of a bell — or sounding of a gong!

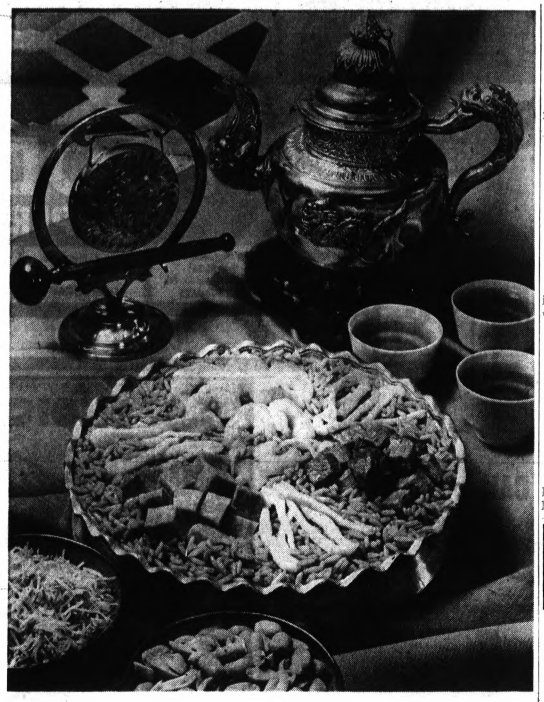
"Ho-Chih" Rice with Meat and Shrimp

2½ cups water
4 tea bags
2 cups packaged precooked rice
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
1½ cups diced cooked ham
1 cup diced cooked beef
1 cup small cooked shrimp or chopped large shrimp
Dash of Tabasco
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup chopped salted peanuts
1 cup toasted coconut

In large saucepan, bring water to a boil; add tea bags; cover and brew 5 minutes. Remove tea bags; stir in rice and salt. Cover; let stand 5 minutes.

In medium skillet, melt 2 tablespoons butter; saute onion, ham, beef, and shrimp until onion is tender. Fold mixture and Tabasco into rice. Cover; keep warm over low heat.

Meanwhile, in the same skillet, melt butter. Add eggs to make a thin omelet. Then cut into 1-inch strips. Garnish rice mixture with omelet strips. Serve with chopped peanuts and toasted coconut. Makes 6 to 8 servings.



ORIENTAL DISH — Here's a version of a favorite oriental dish, admirably suited for American tastes. Cook the rice in "brisk" tea to give it specially delicious flavor. Garnish with thin strips of omelet and accompany with salted peanuts, toasted coconut—and plenty of hot "brisk" tea.

Add Rose Wine to Jellied Mold

The dessert is light, refreshing and prepared ahead.

Pineapple Wine Jelly

1 package (3 ounces) strawberry-punch flavor gelatin
1 cup boiling water
¼ cup pineapple syrup (from canned tidbits)
¾ cup dry rose wine
1 cup well drained canned pineapple tidbits

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; stir in pineapple syrup and rose; chill until slightly thickened. Fold in pineapple tidbits.

Turn into 6 or 7 one-half cup molds; chill overnight to allow wine to flavor pineapple tidbits. Unmold. Makes 6 or 7 servings.

Your chocolate pie will have a new flavor if you melt several chocolate mint candy patties in the hot chocolate pie filling.

Mix Egg Yolks With Roquefort

Stuffed eggs make a great appetizer!

ROQUEFORT EGGS

4 hard-cooked eggs
2 tablespoons Roquefort cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
Salt and pepper to taste
Paprika and parsley sprigs

Shell eggs and slice in half lengthwise; remove yolks and mash fine with Roquefort, mayonnaise, salt and pepper. Refill whites with yolk mixture. Ruffle yolk mixture with the tines of a fork held flat.

Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with parsley sprigs, tucking in stems.

Fill Ham Bone Cavity

Having your meatman remove the leg bone from a ham leaves a dandy cavity for stuffing! Of course such festive treatment of a ham demands a party.

Oven Is Answer

When frying bacon for a crowd and you do not have time to stand over it, place the unseparated slices on a rack in a four hundred degree F oven with a shallow pan below. Bacon is done without any watching in eight to 12 minutes depending upon how crisp you want it.

Well-beaten egg white is used for clarifying sugar syrup.

Celery Soup Is Creamy

Let a soup and sandwich menu fill the bill.

Celery Cream Soup

1 cup diced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons each butter or margarine and flour
2 cups clear fat-free chicken broth
1 cup light cream
1 egg yolk
Salt and white pepper to taste

Gently boil celery and onion in ¾ cup boiling water until very soft; reserve.

Melt butter; stir in flour, then chicken broth; cook and stir constantly until thickened; add ¾ cup of the cream; bring almost to a boil; add celery mixture. Thoroughly mix egg yolk with remaining ¼ cup cream and gradually but vigorously stir into soup. Add salt and pepper.

Cook and stir constantly over low heat (do not boil) until hot. Makes 3 servings.

Drop Cookies Are Full of Peanuts

Popular with young and old! Serve them at a tea party.

Peanut Wafers

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla
1 egg, separated
½ cup unsifted regular flour, stir before measuring
¼ cup finely chopped cocktail peanuts
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Cream butter, sugar and vanilla; thoroughly beat in egg yolk. Gradually beat in flour; mix in peanuts and cornstarch. Beat egg white until it holds soft peaks; fold in.

Drop by 2 teaspoonfuls about 3 inches apart on greased cookie sheet; spread into 2½-inch rounds with back of spoon. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven about 5 minutes or until browned around edges.

Remove at once with wide spatula to wire rack to cool. Makes about 2 dozen.

Sauerkraut Had Chinese Origin

Sauerkraut usually appears on German menus. Actually, though, the Germans did not originate this food.

In the third century B.C., Emperor Shih Huang of China used a form of kraut to supplement the rice diet of the workers building the Great Wall. This cabbage was fermented in rice wine.

Sauerkraut has changed but little through the years and the Germans gave it the name by which we know it today.

Land Trade With Michigan Bell Is Approved

City commissioners last night approved, 7-0, an agreement for the city to trade downtown parking lot land to the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. for a planned phone company expansion.

Under the terms, the city would give to the phone company its present parking lot south of the Bell building and east of Mill.

The phone company would purchase property in the block bounded by Perry, Lawrence, Mill and Pike, raze the buildings there — a bar, bowling alley, a diner and a sport shop —and turn the land over to the city for blacktopping and installation of parking meters.

City Manager Joseph A. Warren said the actual mechanics would take about 10 months.

* * *

Commissioners, after much discussion, added an amendment to the proposed agreement which calls for the city to receive compensation if the existing city-owned lot is worth more money than the lot proposed to be developed for parking.

Warren said the city will actually receive more usable land for parking under the exchange and noted that it is more convenient to the downtown area.

District 2 Commissioner Robert C. Irwin was the only commissioner to vote against the amendment.

* * *

He said he thought the land the city was to receive is more usable and probably of more value that that it would give, and because he didn't think it "proper to come in at the last minute and make changes" in the agreement.

ADOPTED UNANIMOUSLY

The resolution to effect the agreement was adopted unanimously.

Commissioners last night also received formal notice from Robert R. Eldred, chairman of the Citizens Finance Study Committee, concerning the committee's recommendation on the best method of raising new tax income for 1968 municipal spending.

Mayor William H. Taylor Jr. expressed thanks to the committee but no formal action was taken. Commissioners are expected to announce within a week their decision concerning the need for new taxes.

* * *

In other action, the commissioner received a report that a public health service and the Alcoholism Information Center has been taken over by Oakland County as of July 1.

NURSE TRANSFERRED

The services were housed in City Hall. The public health nurse on the city payroll has been transferred to the county, and is now located in the County Health Building.

The information center, still located in City Hall, is being financed now by the county and will be moved to county facilities in three weeks, Warren said.

The city will save $21,000 yearly but Pontiac residents can still avail themselves of the services, Warren said.

The commission also tabled a zoning decision and approved rezoning to Residential 3 the area north of East Walton and east of Giddings and rezoning to a Parking District land connected to the General Motors Truck ? Coach Division parking lot at South Boulevard and Tex.

After hearings, the commission approved installation of water mains in Northfield Cameron to Arlene; Arlene, Walton to Northfield and Woodward, East Boulevard to the southern city limits.

Lowest Bidder on Loan Notes Is Announced

City commissioners last night received a report that the Community National Bank of Pontiac was the lowest of six bidders on $1,004,000 worth of loan notes.

Money gained from the notes is committed to development of Pontiac's R44 downtown urban renewal area.

James L. Bates, director of planning and urban renewal, said the Chicago office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development had approved the bids.

The commission will take formal action to approve the bids at its meeting next Tuesday.

The interest rate to be charged on the notes by Community National as quoted by the local bank is,3 per cent.

Five other banks or institutions, none local, submitted bids calling for from 3.02 per cent interest to 3.49.

LOVE LETTER — Mrs. Leonard J. Barnes of 1664 Beachcroft, West Bloomfield Township, reads a letter from her husband, a telephone lineman with the signal corps in Vietnam. She said she received the 14-by-16-foot letter after writing to her husband complaining he "didn't write enough." She thought it was a package until she began unwrapping — and unwrapping — and unwrapping. Her husband entered the Army in 1966 and has been in Vietnam nine months.

'M' Confirms Tuition to Rise

Vice President Says Level Not Yet Set

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A University of Michigan vice president confirmed Monday that the university will raise tuition for the fall.

However, he would not speculate on the size of the increase.

'We haven't set the level of the increase," the unnamed vice president explained. He commented that the state appropriations were inadequate to maintain present levels of university services, and said additional revenues had to be secured.

The U-M regents had been expected to act on a tuition increase and the university's fiscal budget at a special meeting today, but university officials announced Monday the meeting had been postponed until sometime next week.

They have been wafting for the Legislature to agree on higher education appropriations.

A higher education budget bill passed the House last Friday providing $62.2 million for the University of Michigan compared to $58.6 million in the Senate version. The differences are now being worked out in conference committee.

A decision is thought unlikely until the end of this week, however, since Senate representatives to the conference committee will not be in Lansing until Thursday.

Monday night a House conferee said the lower chamber will stand firm on its figures and fight for an increase.

The $62.2-million appropriation approved by the House would mean a shortage of $2.6 million or about $35 per student per term, to cover existing programs and increased enrollment commitments at the university.

The university has scheduled a 6.2 per cent enrollment increase of 2,244 students, to bring total enrollment to 38,307.

House OKs Farmer Relief, but Dems Delay Its Effect

LANSING (AP) — The House, over some Democrats' objections, agreed Tuesday with the Senate version of a bill to ease a burden on farmers resulting from extension of workmen's compensation to farm workers.

The Democrats retaliated by refusing the bill immediate effect—meaning it will do farmers little good this year.

* * *

Also passed by the House was a Senate measure giving the Public Health Department power to inspect, license and regulate hospitals — setting up quality standards and banning discrimination because of race, religion, color or national origin.

The compensation bill changes a law which took effect July 1. It provides that in computing a farm worker's "average weekly wage" for compensation purposes, only wages earned in farm labor would be counted.

DEM OPPOSITION

Democrats said that was discriminatory because other workers' benefits are calculated on an average of earnings from any type of employment.

The bill also limits coverage to workers employed by the same farmer for at least 13 weeks in a row. The original law did not require that the weeks be consecutive.

* * *

Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, House Labor Committee chairman, said the law in its present form is "raising economic chaos among 'farmers,' because insurance companies, lacking experience in writing workmen's compensation policies in agriculture, are protecting themselves by charging large premiums.

* * *

Earlier this session, majority Republicans tried to delay the effective date of the workmen's compensation extension until late this year. They passed their bill on a party-line vote but Democrats then also withheld the needed immediate effect and would agree to only a two-month extension—until July 1.

Corporate mergers in the United States in 1966 totaled 1,746, a drop of eight per cent in comparison with 1965, the Federal Trade Commission reports.

Auto Victim Dies

COLDWATER (AP) — James Fuller, 50, of Berkey, Ohio, died Tuesday at a Coldwater hospital where he was under treatment for injuries suffered in a traffic accident Saturday. His wife, Granet, 49, remained hospitalized. Branch County sheriff's deputies said the car in which Fuller was riding collided with one driven by Helen Doane, 18, of Burlington, Mich., at a county road intersection northwest of Coldwater.

Romney OKs Bill Setting Minimum on School Days

LANSING (AP) — A bill requiring schools to provide a minimum of 180 days of instruction a year and setting a penalty for those who fail to do so was among three measures signed into law today by Gov. George Romney.

Besides setting the minimum number of school days per year at 180, the law stipulates that school aid will be deducted from a violating district at the rate of 1-90th of its total school aid for each day under 180.

Also signed by the governor was a bill authorizing cities, villages and townships to enter into mutual police assistance agreements in case of emergencies.

The bill which takes immediate effect, also provides that two or more cities, villages or townships adjacent to each other may set up an intermunicipal police authority to provide police services to member units.

* * *

Romney also signed a bill changing the residency requirement for undersheriffs and deputy sheriffs from three months in the county to one year in the state.

N-Weapon Strength Defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, taking issue with some retired military leaders, says the United States has enough nuclear weapons to discourage any attack on this country.

Among the group contending the Soviet Union is gaining military superiority are Air Force Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, who for 12 years headed the intercontinental ballistic missile development program, and Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, former commander of the Atlantic Fleet. Dr. Edward Teller, the nuclear scientist who often is referred to as father of the hydrogen bomb, also is in the group.

* * *

They said evidence indicates "the Soviet Union is succeeding in its massive drive toward strategic military superiority and that the United States is cooperating in this effort by slowing down its side of the arms race.

The group said in a report released Monday the United States will lose its lead this year over the Soviet Union in deliverable nuclear power.

MEGATONNAGE GAP

They said that by 1971, "it appears a massive megatonnage gap will have developed." This refers to the atomic force of strategic weapons. One megaton equals one million tons of TNT.

The Pentagon, asked to comment, said it wouldn't discuss megatonnage figures because they are classified. But it did maintain that numbers of weapons and size of warheads alone "are a very incomplete indicator of military strength.

* * *

"True military capability results from numbers of weapons that are accurate and reliable, that can survive an enemy attack and that can penetrate enemy defenses," the Defense Department said. "The United States has and will continue to have more than enough of such weapons to convince any enemy that an attack on this country would be suicidal."

The group, headed by Schriever, also said the United States should deploy an ABM — antiballistic missile system — because, in its absence "and with our offensive weapons restricted to a wholly defensive role, the danger of a general nuclear war is greatly increased."

PRESENT POLICY

The Johnson administration's present policy is to hold off deployment of the ABM, which would be designed to intercept incoming enemy warheads.

The report said the United States is placing sole reliance for deterrence on offensive missiles and a dwindling bomber force. This means, the group said, that if there were a Soviet ultimatum to surrender, the United States could only fire its offensive nuclear weapons or surrender.

The report concluded that an ABM "would at least strengthen the hand of the President if he is confronted with such a fateful decision, and it might stay the hand of an enemy at a critical moment in history."

The report said the Soviet Union apparently is developing orbiting nuclear bombs, and said civilian leaders deliberately decided to let the Soviets reduce the U.S. lead in long-range offensive missiles.

OTHER SIGNERS

Others signing the report were Army Gen. Paul D. Adams, former commander in chief of the U.S. Strike Command, and Air Force Gen. Thomas S. Power, former commander of the Strategic Air Command. Like the other military men, they are retired.

The group said it made the report at the request of Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee.

Israelis Face New Battle: Governing Captured Areas

JERICHO, Occupied Jordan (AP) — The Israeli army is fighting a new battle: how to govern two million Arabs living in the region west of the Jordan River.

"We are soldiers. We had no military training in civil government," said the middle-aged major who is the military governor of the Jericho area. "But we are learning—the hard way."

* * *

The Israelis have set up administrative machinery among people who for 20 years have been hostile to them.

The cities of Nablus and Hebron have considerable unemployment which the Arabs claim was caused mainly by restrictions imposed on the light industries there—soap, furniture, shoe and glass factories.

SOME HOSTILITY

There is some hostility among Bethlehem's young people despite the tourist boom by Israelis visiting holy places.

A young hotel clerk pointed at the blue and white Israeli flag flying from the town hall and said: "I am angry and ashamed when I see that flag fly there. It does not belong here. The Israelis do not belong.

"I am ashamed to see our people take the Israelis' money. My people are drunk with money now. But when the money stops, they will wake up. The struggle is not yet over."

In most places the Arabs are docile and are trying to continue as they did before the six-day war.

NEW ENEMIES

For the tough soldiers who suddenly smashed three Arab armies and became an army of occupation, the new enemies are boredom and the complexities of civil administration.

The Israelis had water, electricity and transportation facilities back in operation within days of their occupation.

* * *

In Jericho, eight miles from the wrecked Allenby Bridge where thousands of refugees crossed into Jordan, the soldiers put aside submachine guns to become garbage collectors.

* * *

"The Arabs came to me one day and asked us to help them because they had no trucks and the garbage had been piling up," said the military commander. "Once they were able to do it themselves, we let them.

"Our policy is to have them do things themselves, run the municipalities as before. We cooperate and supervise rather than interfere."

The major, a reservist who is a lawyer in civilian life, is luckier than most of the Israeli military commanders in the occupied towns. He once was mayor of Rishon-Letzion, one of the oldest settlements in Israel, and knows municipal problems.

* * *

Troops spent a day watering orange and banana groves abandoned by their owners since the fighting.

There is no official program to win over the Arabs, but many Arabs seem convinced their standard of living would rise under the Israelis.

'WANT PEACE'

Sallah Abdu, 65, was installed as mayor last month after the regular mayor and four of Jericho's seven municipal councilors fled with half the town's 15,000 inhabitants. In surrendering the town to the advancing Israelis, he said, he told them: "You have nothing to worry about here. We want peace."

His secretary, Rashid Areikat, 30, area U.N. Works and Refugee Agency officer, said he did not flee because "I prefer to die in my own home and my own country if I am to die with honor."

* * *

His brother is a Jordanian general.

In Nablus, 60 miles north along winding mountain roads littered with burned-out shells of Jordanian tanks and army trucks, some 17,500 persons are living hand-to-mouth because of unemployment, according to Mayor Hamdi Kana. He said the Israelis had promised to reopen factories soon.

Jenin, a small dusty farming town, appears quiet and normal. The mayor said some 30,000 persons had fled the area, but he expects 25,000 of them to return.

"I am sure they will come back," he said. "What is there for them in Jordan? The Jordanians don't want them. This is farming country. I understand it. It is hard to leave the land."

In Bethlehem, the white-stone city where Christ was born, Mayor Elias Bandek said there were 2,500 unemployed and work on many municipal projects had been halted. But he said the Israelis had promised him funds to resume them.

He claimed that 95 per cent of the city's income of $2.8 million a year from tourism would be lost because of the war.

* * *

Bandek said several buildings had been damaged in the fighting around the city, including the Church of the Nativity. He claimed 30 civilians were killed and 40 wounded.

Current Books

FOUR LETTER WORD GAMES — The Psychology of Obscenity. By Renatus Hartogs, M.D., with Hans Fantel. M. Evans Co. $5.

This is no scholarly, footnoted dissertation aimed at university archives.

Rather, it is a series of essays the layman can understand — though he will find a good many semitechnical terms — on psychological significance of obscenity in our present day social order.

Dr. Hartogs is an experienced psychiatrist who uses many case histories to illustrate his points.

He finds that obscenity is a language of antivalue, antiorthodoxy, closely related to the curse and black magic.

* * *

He has a chapter on American swearing, asserting that American cussing is more heavily salted with sex than elsewhere (a revolt against Puritanism).

Here is something different from the popular book "Games People Play," suggesting some of the whys and wherefores of obscenity's currency in contemporary life.

ILL-AT-EASE IN COMPTON. By Richard M. Elman. Pantheon. $5.95.

Compton, the 13th largest incorporated city in Los Angeles County, has an estimated population of 75,000 and is next door to the vaguely defined Watts area where riots occurred in the summer of 1965.

The author, a free-lance writer, paid a visit there last summer and spent weeks getting to know the people and their ways.

He found that in the rapidly changing population of Compton, the city has become more than 50 per cent Negro. The bulk of the Negroes are quiet, lower middle class people.

But he says the riots accelerated the exodus of the whites and the influx of impoverished Negroes from Watts, so that Compton has become unstable and economically on the downgrade.

This is a disturbing report, obviously, and many residents of the big cities and their satellites will discover some surprises. Angelenos and other Californians won't like some of Elman's judgements and opinions. But at least they are offered more in sympathy than in scorn.

The price of the average railway freight car has doubled in the past decade from $7,800 in 1955 to about $15,000 at present.

All-Star Rookie Earns Royal Treatment

National Team Triumphs, 2-1, in 15 Innings

ANAHEIM (AP)—Tony Perez started his California trip as a king and climaxed it by keeping the National League on the throne in All-Star competition.

Perez, the Cincinnati Red who replaced starter Rich Allen at third base in the 10th inning, decided the longest All-Star game ever played when he hit an 0-1 pitch from Kansas City's Jim Hunter into the left field bleachers in the 15th inning.

★ ★ ★

That gave the National League a 2-1 decision Tuesday and a record five straight victories over the American League.

Trailing 12-4 in the All-Star series in 1949, the Nationals now hold a 20-17-1 edge after winning 16 of the last 22 games, which include a tie, and nine of the last 11.

Until Perez hit his homer, pitchers had dominated the game with a record 30 strikeouts.

The victory before 46,309 at the California Angels' Anaheim Stadium also helped soothe the National's and Walter Alston's feelings that were collectively shattered last October by Baltimore's four-game sweep of Alston's Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series.

★ ★ ★

Alston, however, felt no more joyful than Perez, the 25-year-old Cuban who brought his wife, Pituka, and their 14-month-old son, Victor, to see him play in his first All-Star game.

They arrived in Anaheim late Monday night, unaware they were about to receive royal treatment.

PRESIDENTIAL SUITE

"I don't know what happened," Perez related in between accepting congratulations from Alston, President Warren Giles of the National League and Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert.

"But when we got to the hotel we had a lot of trouble because they have no more rooms left. So they give me the presidential suite. I felt just like a king."

Even at the $58-a-day rate, the National League probably would be willing to keep Perez in the suite the rest of the week.

His home run, the third of the game—the others also were by third basemen, Philadelphia's Allen in the second inning and Brooks Robinson of Baltimore in the sixth—broke up a duel that was punctuated more by strikeouts than by hitting.

Allen connected for his homer in the second off AL starter Dean Chance of Minnesota, a former Angel who was booed by the fans before the game. Robinson tied the game with his drive off Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs in the sixth.

Tony Conigliaro, AL right fielder from Boston, prevented possible damage a couple of times when he grabbed a pair of shots off the bat of St Louis' Orlando Cepeda, in the 10th and in the 15th—just before the homer.

A total of 12 pitchers, seven for the National and five for the American, took part in the three-hour, 41-minute contest that eclipsed the 14-inning game at Chicago's Comiskey Park in 1950.

★ ★ ★

Prior to Tuesday, the record for total strikeouts by both clubs was 20 in 1955. Jenkins led the fan parade by getting a record-tying six American Leaguers.

Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, on the other hand, belied his stature as one of baseball's best hitters by striking out a record four times.

★ ★ ★

Perez struck out in his first appearance against Hunter in the 12th inning and got revenge the second time around.

The Kansas City right-hander was permitted to go more than three innings—he pitched five—because the game went into extra innings.

Team Scrimmage Set for July 29

Lions Schedule Tussle on Local Turf

The seventh annual Detroit Lions' full dress intra-squad game will be Saturday afternoon July 29 at Pontiac's Wisner Stadium, it was announced today.

The intra-squad scrimmage is being sponsored by the Community National Bank and the Pontiac Jaycees.

In the past, except on two occasions, it was a contest between the offensive and defensive units. In 1964 at U. of D., the scrimmage was played as a game between the White squad and Blue squad for the Scooter McLean fund.

In 1965, it returned to Wisner Stadium and was also played as a regulation game. Last year under coach Harry Gilmer the format returned to a contest between the offensive and defensive units.

★ ★ ★

The format of this year's scrimmage has not been determined.

The game in the past was also a night event, but this year coach Joe Schmidt said he preferred to have it as an afternoon scrimmage.

Tickets will be available at all Community National Bank branches.

Herb Adderley of the Green Bay Packers may be helping out the Lions.

Adderley, former Michigan State star, is serving an example for the Lions' rookie cornerback Lem Barney.

Barney, entry from Jackson Miss. State bidding for a job with Detroit, chose Adderley as one man he'd like to emulate.

Another Packer Barney admires is Bobby Jeter, also a cornerback.

"They're the greatest and I've tried to pattern myself after them," Barney said

★ ★ ★

Barney, a Southeastern Conference all-star three years in a row, was Detroit's second round selection in the college draft.

A 6-feet, 195-pounds, Barney is fast and has impressed defensive coach Jimmy David.

QUICK AND FAST

"He's very quick and he has good speed. You have to have both to play the outside," David said.

The Lions spent their third day of rookie practice today. Head Coach Joe Schmidt brings in he regulars next week.

Rookie flanker Jack Clancy of Michigan was a standout Tuesday as the Miami Dolphins scrimmaged in preparation for American Football League action. "Clancy could step in as a first-year man," coach George Wilson said.

DRAWS BEAD — Boston's Tony Conigliaro zeros in a sparkling one-hand catch of a long drive hit by Orlando Cepeda of St. Louis in the 10th inning during yesterday's marathon 15-inning All-Star Game at Anaheim's Big A Stadium.

Buffalo Swaps Center for Denver Draft Choice

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Center Dave Behrman of the Buffalo Bills was traded Tuesday to Denver for a high choice in the 1968 American Football League draft.

★ ★ ★

Behrman, the Bills' No. 1 draft choice in 1963 after starring at Michigan State, was sidelined on the eve of the 1965 AFL championship game in San Diego with a back injury and has not played since. He was starting center in 1965.

★ ★ ★

A spokesman said the trade was contingent on the AFL draft choice player's health and ability to play.

Sanders Two Shots Back

Scot, Briton Share Golf Lead

HOYLAKE, England (AP) — Peter Jones of England and Jimmy Hume of Scotland shared the early lead in the British Open Golf Championship today with three-under-par 69's on the tough Hoylake course.

Jones, a 24-year-old protege of ex-champion Henry Cotton, made the turn in even par 36 and came home in 33. Hume fashioned his brilliant score with 34-35—69. A bunker on the 18th caught his second shot and gave him a 5 that lost his chance for the clear lead.

Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., flubbed his way around the first nine in 39 shots which included a bogey at the short fourth and a double bogey at the fifth. But then the man with the fancy colored suits and shoes and the short backswing got loose with birdies on the 10th, 11th, 16th, and 17th.

His par on the final hole gave him a back nine of 32 and a challenging 71, two shots off the pace.

Harold Henning of South Africa was ragged around the greens and had to settle for a 36-38—74. Stan Peach of Australia fired a great 33 on the back nine for a one under par 71.

Sanders said after his round: "that's the best I've putted for some time. I could read the greens properly — because they were green. I have difficulty in lining up properly when the greens have a tendency to be brown. The greens have a marvellous putting surface."

Sanders had a good drive at the 404-yard tenth hole, sent a wedge to eight feet and sank the putt for his birdie.

LONG PUTT

Then his four iron at the short 11th wound up 13 feet from the hole and he sank it. He bunkered his second at the 529-yard 6th, blasted out to 14 feet and sank the putt for another birdie and then canned a 10 footer for a birdie at the 17th.

A 28-year-old British professional playing in the golf's big league for the first time set a blistering early pace.

Jim Cockin, a playing pro this year after holding a teaching job in Sweden, shattered the front nine of the 6,995-yard par 72 Hoylake links with a four under par 32.

Cockin, a Yorkshireman now attached to Royal Midsurrey in England, played flawless iron shots which set up birdies on the third, seven, eighth and ninth holes.

SHARP THREESOME—Chuck Byrne of Birmingham (rear) along with sons Kip, 12, (front) and Chuck Jr. won the annual Father-Son Tournament yesterday at Pine Lake Country Club. Chuck Jr. and dad teamed to fire a one-under-par 71.

Birmingham Father, Son Win Honors in GAM Competition

It's nice to have a golfing partner such as Chuck Byrne of Birmingham in a tight match.

Byrne, 48, at present is champion of three country club invitationals with a different partner for each and he's a past champ in a couple others.

In winning the above, Byrne golfed with family friends.

Yesterday, it was strictly a family affair, the annual Golf Association of Michigan Father-Son Tournament, and Byrne's two partners scored again.

★ ★ ★

Byrne teamed with Chuck Jr., 27, for a one-under-par 71 at Pine Lake Country Club to lead all teams in the gross division, and their handicap of six gave them a 65 and a share of first in the net division.

And that wasn't all. Byrne's other partner, son Kip, 12, helped his dad to an actual 78 in the best ball event and they wound up with a net 65.

A third team in at net 65 was that of Earl Burt and son Mike.

In with even par 72s were the teams of F. E. Richart and son Frank, along with Dr. A. LaCroix and son Paul.

Battle Line Drawn by Golfer's Father

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — The battle over a 10-year-old girl's eligibility to play in the Ladies Professional Golf Association championship moved to the courts today as her father blamed "Jealousy" for the controversy.

"The only reason I can see that they the other players won't accept her entering is that they're jealous of her," Jack Klass said after his daughter, Beverly, was barred Tuesday. "They don't like to be beat by a 10-year-old girl."

★ ★ ★

All of the lady pros questioned on this subject declined comment.

Klass and his attorneys indicated they would seek a restraining order to halt the tournament from the state Superior Court sitting at nearby Worcester.

The week-long controversy came to a climax Tuesday as registration was completed for the 72-hole tourney scheduled to begin Thursday at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

At an emergency meeting, the tour players voted to stick with their newly enacted rule limiting professional entrants to those 18 and over.

Open Tennis Vote Due Today

MONTDORF LES BAINS, Luxembourg (AP) — Robert Kelleher, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, went into a vital meeting on open tennis today still unsure how he would vote.

As the International Lawn Tennis Federation prepared to discuss Britain's plan for open tournaments over an experimental two-years period, Kelleher said:

"The U.S. delegation has no firm instructions. We will listen carefully to the views of other nations and, according to how the debate develops, we shall decide how to cast our votes."

Latest canvassing among delegates suggested that the British resolution had only a slim chance of success.

A two-thirds vote was needed to pass it. Open tennis is bitterly opposed by the Communist bloc, and by many smaller countries who fear their players would be squeezed out of competition if the pros were allowed to play at Wimbledon and other big tournaments.

* * *

Kelleher said: "We don't know whether open tournaments would be a good thing for tennis in the United States. It might prove to be — but we just can't tell.

TWO YEARS

"However, we do feel that if Britain wants to stage open tournaments we should not stop her. The British are suggesting an experimental period of two years, and maybe that would tell us what we want to know.

"If the experiment proved a success we would all have learned a useful lesson."

The British argue that Wimbledon is accepted as the unofficial world championship, and they want the world's best players competing in it.

Australia, which opposed open tennis for years, has changed its position and it is seconding the British resolution.

* * *

The French, who disagree with Britain over details of prize money, kept the delegates guessing as to how they would vote.

Britain, the United States, France and Australia are the major tennis powers. Each command 12 votes. If they acted together many other countries might go along with them — and the battle for open tennis could be won.

Tennis Rookie Sharpens Play

Ralston Posts Win in Tourney Opener

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Rookie Dennis Ralston, second leading money winner on the current tour although he is still looking for his first victory, has "high hopes" in the $25,000 U.S. pro tennis championships.

* * *

"I've just started to play well again after a long period of so-so play," Ralston said after polishing off fellow American Butch Buchholz 6-2, 6-3 in an opening round singles match Tuesday at Longwood Cricket Club.

* * *

"I was returning service well, and that's the key to playing on grass," Ralston said. "I wasn't serving well myself, however, but I just managed to get it in somehow."

Ralston's was the only easy victory of the long, foggy evening.

Luis Ayala had to rally for a 1-6, 6-1, 16-14 victory over Sammy Giammalva, and Mike Davies hung on for a 6-1, 9-11, 11-9 triumph over Pierre Barthes in the other singles matches. Both matches went more than two hours.

* * *

Australians Rod Laver and Fred Stolle eliminated Mal Anderson and Barry MacKay 6-4, 6-2 in doubles play.

Top - seeded Ken Rosewall swings into action tonight against Anderson, while Stolle meets MacKay in another first-round singles match.

Tonight's doubles pairing is Alex Olmedo and Pancho Segura vs. Davies and Buchholz.

Golf Champion Renews Defense of Her Crown

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP) — Defending champion Peggy Conley of Spokane, Wash., was out to win her second match today in the Women's Western Golf Association Tournament.

* * *

Miss Conley, who posted a 76 in qualifying, defeated Robbye King of Arlington, Va., 2 and 1 in her first match Tuesday. Today in the second round, Miss Conley went up against Mrs. Mark Porter of Riverton, N.J., a co-medalist who defeated Jane Bastanchury of North Whittier, Calif., 1 up in her first match.

Three of the five co-medalists who tied in the qualifying round were beaten in their first matches. Among them was Mrs. Barbara Ann Boddie of Shreveport, La., the runner-up last year and twice the champ.

* * *

Mrs. Boddie fell before Mrs. James Pickrell of Dayton, Ohio, 2 up.

State Titlist Enters B'ham CC Tourney

Michigan amateur champion Bill Newcomb will be among the starters when the 20th annual Birmingham Country Club Invitational opens tomorrow.

Newcomb, 27, a golf course architect from Ann Arbor, won the state amateur crown two weeks ago at Charlevois, and he'll try for the Birmingham title with Al Robinson as his partner.

The Robinson - Newcomb team is one of 96 member-guest squads that'll tee off in the first round tomorrow.

Another single round of match play in the best-ball tournament is on tap for Friday with semifinals and finals slated for Saturday.

* * *

Returning to defend their title will be Chuck Byrne and Joe Brisson, and winning invitationals is becoming commonplace for Bryne.

OTHER TITLES

Back in June, Byrne teamed with Rob Ryan of Birmingham in taking the Indianwood crown and last year he and Tom Lowrey captured the Dearborn title.

Other teams expected to give the defending champions some trouble are Bob Whiting and Charles Granadev; the father-son combination of Rollie and Richard Weyand; ex-state amateur king, Bud Stevens and Elmer Ellstrom; and current GAM titlist Pete Jackson and A. V. Lotti.

2-Hitter Aids Leader in City NL Softball

Timberlanes No. 2 continues to cling to first place in the city's National League softball race.

The bar team raised its record to 8-2 last night as Jim Fields flipped a two-hitter in a 1-0 nod over Timberlanes No. 1 (6-7).

Fields struck out four and gave up singles in the second and seventh frames. The victory kept Timberlanes-2 a few percentage points ahead of J. A. Fredman (9-3).

A walk to Jerry Meger, a sacrifice and a double by Rick Fitzgerald produced a first-inning run and that was all Fields needed.

* * *

In a second NL game, Orchard Lanes (4-11) forfeited to Bob's Bar (5-10).

Local No. 594 (10-6) moved into second place in the American League with a 5-1 decision over Town & Country (9-6), while MGM-Shalea (8-2) moved into a tie for first in the International Slow-pitch with a 15-12 decision over Artco (5-4).

* * *

Local 594 scored twice in the second and three times in the third to down T & C. Dennis Diehm picked up a pair of singles to pace the winners attack.

Bill Waun and Bob Prisbe rapped out three hits apiece for MGM - Shalea. The winners jumped into an early 13-6 lead and choked off a late rally by Artco. Lee Arnold and Ray Ream came through with three hits each for the losers.

Netter Fretting Over Her Age

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Although she may have a bad birthday, Linda Tuero's tennis doesn't leave much to be desired.

The Metairie, La., player advanced easily in Tuesday's second round of the National Junior Clay Courts Tennis Championships, defeating Kathy Dombos, of Kalamazoo, Mich., 6-0, 6-1.

Still, Miss Tuero is apprehensive about being top-ranked in the junior girls division — partly because she thinks she had a bad birthday. She explained:

"I won't be 17 until October, that's what I mean about a bad birthday. . .I was only 15 when I was ranked first last year, but now I'm too old for the 16-year-old division and I'm pretty young to be in this one."

In other action, top-seeded Woody Blocher of Dallas, Tex., whipped Tim Vann of Los Angeles, Calif., 6-4, 7-5 in the boys' 16-and-under division.

Second No-Hitter for Young Hurler

Leroy Bone fired his second non-hitter of the season yesterday as he pitched the Pirates to a 1-0 victory over the Owls in a Union Lake Little League contest.

Bone fanned 12 and walked two. Losing pitcher Bob Fulton allowed only one hit and struck out 13.

Comeback Test for Local Golfer

Mrs. T. M. (Sally) Werner of Indianwood will get an indication today of how well her 'comeback' is progressing on the women's golf scene.

* * *

Raising a family kept the sharp-shooting Mrs. Werner away from the tournament activity for four years, but she returned this year with a performance that made it look like she had never been away.

In her first 'comeback' test last month, Mrs. Werner captured the Women's District Golf Association medal title for the fourth time and now she's trying for her second state championship.

In the opening round of match play in the 51st Women's Michigan Golf Association yesterday at Red Run in Royal Oak, Mrs. Werner turned back Mrs. W. D. Anderson of Lakelands, 4 and 3.

* * *

But her real test was slated for today when she met defending champion Joyce Kazmierski of Grosse Ile.

EASY WIN

Miss Kazmierski, a graduate of Michigan State University, advanced to the second round by easily disposing of Kathy Thomas of Lakelands, 7 and 6.

Twice runner-up Patti Shook rolled past Mrs. Sharon Barrett of Bridgeport, 4 and 2.

The third round is slated for tomorrow with the semifinals and finals on tap for Friday.

Leader Extends Softball Lead

Third Place Battle in Waterford Loop

The first-place Day's Sanitary nine extended its Waterford Township men's recreation softball lead Tuesday night while the third-place battle grew hotter.

* * *

Day's trimmed the Waterford Merchants, 8-0, on John Herrington's one-hit, 10-strikeout hurling. Clarkston Appliance dumped Clyde's Wheel & Frame 7-1.

* * *

The win boosted the Appliance men within one game of third-place Clyde's.

Third place is important in the standings since it will provide the township's entrant to the state Class D post-season tournament.

The Rev. Harold Hughes allowed five hits but whiffed 11 in recording his second win in two nights for Clarkston. Mike Applegate had two hits to produce four runs, whiel Jerry Powell scored three times and has two hits.

Day's big hitters were Art Ruelle who had three safeties, and Ben Traxler whose two-run single opened the scoring for the sanitation crew (17-1).

U.S. Skippers Eye Yachting Weather

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Skippers of the four U.S. yachts competing for the right to defend America's Cup hoped for better weather today and a chance to resume the current series of observation trials.

* * *

Thick fog and heavy rain forced another postponement Tuesday, giving the yachtsmen their third straight day of idleness. Weather also forced postponement of Sunday's scheduled races, then the crews took Monday off before trying to resume Tuesday.

* * *

Pairings for today's races remained the same as for the two postponed events: Intrepid vs. American Eagle and Columbia vs. Constellation.

Unbeaten '9' Shuns Spot in Playoffs

Coach Warren Stephens saw his unbeaten Pontiac Police Officers' Association Class D team overcome a 3-0 deficit in the final two innings last evening for a 4-3 triumph, then vote to forego any chance for the city junior baseball title.

P.P.O.A. denied the upset bid of Arnold's Drugs as Mike Clancy ripped a big triple in the sixth inning and then ended the game with a tie-breaking single.

After the tense win, the team elected to enter the state Connie Mack Baseball Tournament and thus not play in the city Class D playoffs for the right to compete in the State Recreation Association tournament.

* * *

In other results Tuesday, Bloomfield Hills had an eight-run inning featured by Larry Appleby's three-run triple to edge Cranbrook, 10-8, in "D" action; and Felice's Market topped the Auburn Heights Boys Club Patriots, 6-1, in a key Class A American contest.

Accent on Accuracy in Publinx Tourney

By ED JOHNSON

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — "When I first got out there and looked down some of those fairways I thought I was on a rifle range."

That little thought from Tommy Chee of Honolulu, Hawaii, pretty well sums up what the nation's top amateur Public Links golfers think of Seattle's scenic but tricky 6,329-yard Jefferson Park Municipal Golf Course.

The lush par 36-34—70 layout is where 150 local Publinks elimination winners were to begin today the four-day 72-hole National Public Links Championship, using a medal-play format for the first time this year.

Chee, who works in a Honlulu insurance company office, agrees with most other players that it will be accuracy, not power, that will determine the new champion after the final 18-hole round Saturday.

The hilly, narrow fairways—no wider than 35 yards most places—and the tiny, postage-stamp greens "give a fair shake to the short, accurate hitter, rather than the big blaster," said Chee after Tuesday's final practice rounds.

CAN'T SLIP

"There have been a lot of birdies on the par-five holes," he went on. "They are easy and there'll be a lot of low scores—that is, if you can keep the ball going where you aim it.

"One slip, though, and a fellow's had it."

With Monty Kaser, last year's titlist from Wichita, Kan., now a pro, pre-tourney favorites include the 1966 runner-up, Dave Ojala of Two Harbors, Minn., and a couple of former Publinks champs—Verne Callison, Sacramento, Calif., winner in 1960 and Bill McDonald, Topeka, Kans., who took the crown in 1964.

The field will be trimmed to the low 60 players, plus ties, after the second 18-hole round. The team championship also will be decided Thursday, after 36 holes. A trio from Pittsburgh won the Harding Cup team title last year.

Among Michigan players in the field are Dick Robertson of Pontiac and Ron Rothbarth of Clarkston.

All-Star Game Tidbits

Tiger Goes Distance

ANAHEIM (AP) — Walter Alston of Los Angeles used all of his 25-man National League squad in the All-Star Game with the exception of pitcher Claude Osteen who worked Sunday.

Hank Bauer of Baltimore had five men left over on his American League squad, including the three pitchers who worked Sunday and were not expected to see action. They were Jim Lonborg of Boston, Joe Horlen of Chicago and Steve Hargan of Cleveland.

The others who didn't see action were catchers Paul Casanova of Washington and Andy Etchebarren of Baltimore. Starter Bill Freehan of Detroit was one of 10 players who played in the entire game.

In the early days of the All-Star series they didn't have rules about pitchers working only three innings, so Lefty Gomez of the New York Yankees went six innings in 1935.

Under the current rules no pitcher can go more than three unless the game goes into extra innings. The last time anybody worked as many as five innings in recent years before Tuesday's long stint by Kansas City's Jim Hunter was in the 14-inning game in 1950. Larry Jansen, then of the New York Giants, worked five frames.

There is one exception. A relief pitcher can finish an inning and then go three on his own. That was how Johnny Antonelli of the Giants worked four in 1956 and Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves in 1957. In the wartime years special rules were in effect.

When Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh struck out four times, he broke a record held by eight players.

Among the eight men who had struck out three times in an All-Star Game were Lou Gehrig, Mickey Mantle, Bob Johnson, Stan Hack, Joe Gordon, Ken Keltner, Jim Hegan and John Roseboro.

The two new Hall of Famers formed a battery for the first-ball ceremonies before the game.

★ ★ ★

Red Ruffing, the old pitcher, was on the mound and Lloyd Waner, the former outfielder, was the catcher. When Lloyd, the Little Poison of the famous Waner brothers, caught the ball he dashed for the dugout.

They started the game in 91-degree heat Tuesday, but they sweated it out into the cool evening hours.

★ ★ ★

The game set a new All-Star record for time consumed, three hours, 41 minutes and the innings, 15. The old records were 14 innings and 3:19 in 1950 when a homer by Red Schoendienst, now St. Louis manager, won it for the Nationals who have taken all five extra-inning games.

The winning pitcher doesn't usually get a booing, but Don Drysdale heard the old bazoo at Anaheim Stadium.

Lake Orion's Miscues Help

OU's Pioneers Snap Losing Streak

Oakland University took advantage of a generous Lake Orion defense for an 11-5 city baseball league win Tuesday night at Jaycee Park.

* * *

The win ended a four-game losing skid for the Pioneers (4-11) and moved them within one game of the slumping seventh-place Orion nine (5-10).

The Cardinals committed seven errors and had several other fielding lapses in handing Oakland seven unearned runs.

Dave Call's two-run double and two bases-loaded errors resulted in a six-run decisive fifth inning for the winners. Call had three hits and three runs batted in for the tilt.

* * *

After John Kampsen's ground ball triple sparked a three-run outburst for Oakland, the Cardinals rallied for five runs on two outfield misplays by the winners and singles by Jim Stitt, Erik Eriksen and Willie Williams.

A key contest is set for 8 p.m. today at Jaycee when M.G. Collision meets defending champion Teamsters 614.

Clay After Bout in Charity Cause

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Cassius Clay wants to defend his heavyweight championship in Oakland, Calif., and give all proceeds except $100 to feed "the poor, undernourished people — white as well as black — in Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia."

The champ, dethroned by the World Boxing Association but still king in New York and possibly California, was expected to apply to the California Athletic Commission this afternoon, in person, for a license. He let his old one lapse.

State City Will Fete Golf King

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Walter Hagen once ruled the world of golf as Babe Ruth ruled baseball and Jack Dempsey ruled the ring.

Younger men have taken over the fairways since Hagen's reign during the 20s. But the Haig, possibly the best golfer the game has known, still is viewed by many as master of them all.

* * *

Traverse City is having a testimonial dinner for the 75-year-old Hagen the second week in August. The guest list reflects Hagen's enduring stature.

Gene Sarazen might wind up as the toastmaster, And if all goes as planned, the audience will include Arnold Palmer, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Byron Nelson and Sam Snead.

* * *

A dozen stars from the current tour are expected. So are Johnny Revolta, Craig Wood, Al Watrous and Ralph Guldhal, contemporaries of Hagen when his name was a household word.

In all, about 350 persons are expected.

HELPED STATUS

"This whole affair is so fitting as a tribute to the man," says Eddie Karcheski, Traverse City club professional, "because in addition to winning every professional golf tournament in his time, he (Hagen) did more than any other person to elevate the game of golf to the status and respectability it now enjoys."

Hagen won the PGA title a record five times. Four of those wins were in succession, from 1924 through 1927.

* * *

"The one I enjoyed the most was the first one, in 1921," Hagen says. "But it was fun after that seeing how many more I could pile up."

Hagen, thrilled about the testimonial, describes it as a "shocking, wonderful surprise."

PRESERVED TROPHY — Danny Lee (left), 2076 Gulliver, Troy, shows off a mounting of the state record brown trout he caught May 15 while fishing McCormick Lake near Lewiston. Bob Armstrong of Hilde's Taxidermy helps hold the 19-pound, 3½-ounce trout that eclipsed the former mark by almost two pounds. The fish measures 33½ inches long and has a girth of 21 inches.

Longer Season on Woodcock Being Sought

Mio to Be Opened for Turkey; More Quail Gunning Days

A longer woodcock season, an increase in antlerless deer permits and a new open area for turkey hunting are being recommended for this fall.

This Conservation Commission is expected to approve the changes during its monthly session tomorrow and Friday at the Higgins Lake Training School.

Small game seasons are expected to remain the same. The firearms deer season will either open Nov. 15 or 18. The final date still is being mulled by the Legislature.

Regular Waterfowl seasons will be set next month when regulations are issued by The Interior Department.

If the recommendation on woodcock is approved, the season will open in the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula Sept. 15, instead of Oct. 1, as in the past, and run for 64 days.

Regular small game seasons in these two zones will start Oct. 1.

Conservation Department game biologists feel that an earlier opener will give hunters a chance to harvest timberdoodles that may migrate before the regular opener. Michigan is considered the No. 1 woodcock hunting state in the nation.

Antlerless permit quotas probably will be raised for some areas.

NEW AREA

Turkey hunting will be Nov. 3-12 in three special areas and by permit only. The Mio area will be opened for the first time. Allegan County is being closed. Baldwin area and Beaver Island will remain open.

The Legislature has increased the quail hunting from Nov. 1-20, but the department is requesting a curtailment in the number of counties open to hunting bobwhites. It is recommended that Oakland and Macomb be among those closed. Nine would remain open.

A special season on snipe and rails will be tried concurrently with the special nine-day shoot on teal. The same areas will be open for snipe and a teal hunting permit is required.

By legislative act, bow hunters will be permitted to take deer in Southern Michigan until Dec. 31. The December grouse season in Zone 3 probably will be continued.

NEW LEADER—Alan Wilson, 13, of 6919 Simmons, Waterford Township, holds the new pike division leader in The Press Big Fish Derby. It is a nine-pounder he caught last week while fishing from shore at Fox Bay. The bass division leader remains at seven pounds, two ounces.

Angler's Rule Book Not Being Followed

Fish in area lakes aren't going by the angler's rule book.

Bluegills should be taking crickets in deep water — catches are only spotty.

* * *

Pike are supposed to retreat into their weedy lairs and sulk for the remainder of summer — action on pike is good.

* * *

Black bass hit only at dawn and in late evening this time of year — limit catches are being made in mid-day. And even trout, normally very difficult to catch on area lakes after June, are showing signs of new life.

Good catches of large pike are being made early and late in the day at Pine, Oxbow, Orion, Orchard and Union lakes. Large chubs still-fished about four feet down are the top producers.

Most fishermen feel top bluegill fishing with crickets is a week away, although a few large fish are being caught at Walled, Elizabeth and Lakeville.

Bass action during the day, using plastic eels fished on the bottom, has been good at Louise, Woodhull, Cass, Kent and Maceday. Evening is best at Pontiac, Pine, Deer and Duck.

Trolling deep with spoons has been producing some rainbows in the 20-inch class at Pine and Deer.

Canine Training Opens

Sportsmen may train their dogs in the field from sunup to sundown beginning July 15.

Car-Deer Mishaps Rise in Southeastern Michigan

Deer hunting with cars in Southeastern Michigan continues good — and the driver gets to keep the deer.

Unfortunately, he also has to pay the repair bill. Cars have been known to sustain heavy damage in this type of hunting. Injuries to drivers occasionally result.

* * *

During the first six months of this year, 74 deer have been reported killed by cars in Oakland, Macomb and Wayne counties. The same period in 1966 resulted in 42 deer being killed.

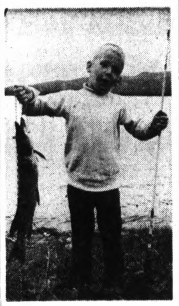
* * *

Oakland is by far the leading county, according to Conservation Department district game biologist Howard Greene. He said northern and western Oakland are the big danger spots.

"The only solution," said Greene, "is for motorists to be more observant. Deer can run into the road from anywhere in Southeastern Michigan."

* * *

Deer have been reported struck by autos along Woodward Avenue in Birmingham and heavily populated areas along Dixie Highway in the Waterford Township area.



HE'S PROUD — David Grubb Jr., 5, of 4155 Mill Lake, Orion Township, is proud of the 26-inch northern pike he landed last week at White Fish Lake near Wawa, Ont. He caught the pike on a fly rod and his father assisted with the landing.

Boating Group Set to Open

Pinter's Boat Club begins its fourth season of operation with the Saginaw River Cruise as the highlight of the season scheduled for Sunday, July 23.

The trailer boats will leave Pinter's Marine, 1370 N. Opdyke, at 8 a.m. according to cruisemaster Carl Betz of Pontiac.

Another event on the schedule is the Bob-Lo Cruise July 30 and reservations should be made with V. Karagosian for boat slips.

Other trips are planned for Cedar Point, Ohio and Chatham, Ont.

Membership in the club includes boaters from Pontiac, Rochester, Bloomfield Hills, Clarkston, Waterford, and other Oakland County communities.

Any boaters desiring membership can call Pinter's Marine.

Dead Alewives Big Problem

Dead alewife, windrowed from one end of Lake Michigan's east shore to the other, have communities, resorts, property owners, the Conservation Department and vacationists, all deeply concerned with the question:

What can be done about it?

* * *

There is hope, based on past experience, that mid-July will see the beginning of the end of the messy situation. Meanwhile, all kinds of cleanup operations are under way.

Conservation Department fisheries men point out, however, there is little hope that any of these cleanup efforts will be adequate until the dieoff tapers off through natural processes.

* * *

Vacationists might be wise to postpone Lake Michigan holidays wherever possible until later in the summer.

A&P

It isn't easy to buy bean coffee!

Nowadays, very few stores offer you bean coffee.

Why does A&P still offer coffees in the bean?
Basically, because "We Care."
Specifically, because we know these facts:
The coffee bean is nature's seal that holds the flavor.
Once that seal is broken by grinding, flavor fades...
NO MATTER HOW IT'S PACKAGED.
The shorter the time between grinding the beans and brewing your coffee, the greater the flavor.

Something else that's important to full coffee flavor
...the correct grind.
We don't have just one or two grinds. We have seven.
We custom-grind your coffee to fit your coffeemaker,

So if you want the finest cup of "The Think Drink" you've ever tasted, buy and brew one of A&P's three Bean Coffee blends.

Mild & Mellow | Rich & Full-bodied | Vigorous & Winey

Not every store can offer you custom-ground bean coffee.
A&P can and does.
Shouldn't A&P be your store?

INSTALLMENT No. 27

CHAPTER 27

THE train was pulling in when I got to the station on a dead run. I saw Anne de Villemont climb aboard. When I stepped into its vestibule, the train was already sliding out of the station.

I reached Compartment 2, Car 8, found the door unlocked, and stepped inside, locking it behind me.

Anne looked completely unstrung.

"I'm glad you showed up," she said with a weak attempt at the light touch. "I was just getting ready to panic."

"Nothing to panic about. Did you get a customs declaration from the trainman?"

"Yes, I already signed it and gave it to him along with my passport. He has the money, too. I told him to change it to lire. And I asked about connections to Venice. He said we'd get into Milan at three in the morning, and a train to Venice comes through there about four."

"Now let's see that newspaper. Which one is it?"

"France-Soir. It was the only one they had from Paris."

My spirits rose as I scanned the first few pages. There was no mention of Louis le Buc's murder in them.

"The man who killed Louis was the same one who delivered Paul to his grandmother afterward. Who is he?" I asked.

"I don't know. Probably someone sent by Charles Leschenhaut."

"Leschenhaut?"

"He's the head of the whole organization," Anne said wearily. "He does the planning. He gives the orders."

So that was it. When I had stupidly let Leschenhaut know I couldn't work with him on my stories the coming weekend because Anne had other plans for me, he already suspected what those plans were. And when his spy, Leon Becque, brought Elaine to Veronique's apartment the next evening to celebrate their engagement, he had learned enough to confirm the suspicions.

"And Sidney Scott?" I said.

"They killed him."

"Who did?"

"All of them. They called me up that night to say Madame Cestra was dying and that I was to have Sidney drive Paul and me to Ile Saint-Louis right away. They killed Sidney there. They drowned him in the bathtub the way you'd drown a helpless animal. I didn't see it because when I came in they gave me a drink with something in it that knocked me out completely."

"Why did they kill him?"

"Because I told him everything so he'd help Paul and me get out of the country. And that same evening he went to Bernard about it. I didn't know he trusted Bernard Bourdon."

"So the whole story you handed the police—?"

"It was Leschenhaut and that doctor who runs the sanitarium—Dr. Linder—who made up the story."

"And," I said, "when Max Marchat, your nice respectable lawyer, read the transcript of the police interview he suspected you were lying. After a while he made the mistake of asking people embarrassing questions, and that was the end for him."

"How do you know about it?"

"Because once you know the OEI it's easy to work out the answers. Do you want to know another answer I just worked out? It's pretty risky handing over a quarter of a million dollars a year to an outfit like the OEI, what with all the snooping bank officials and tax collectors who might get curious about it. But you can hand it over by losing it in installments to someone named Spinosi who runs a gambling joint in Saint-Cloud. He doesn't keep the money for himself. He's an OEI agent and passes it on to them, doesn't he?"

"Yes."

"So with Leschenhaut the president of the club and Spinosi the treasurer, what does that make Morillon? Sergeant-at-arms? Chief executioner?"

I felt Anne stiffen at this, but she said nothing.

"Well?" I said angrily.

Still Anne remained silent. The infatuation for Morillon might have withered; but a loyalty remained.

It was a knocking at the compartment door which started her.

"Madame, I have your passport and money."

I swiftly doused the reading light, drew the blanket over my head, and got a grip on the gun under the pillow.

"All right," I whispered, "you know what to do."

I heard the snick of the door bolt.

"The passport, madame. And this packet contains twelve thousand lire."

"Thank you very much."

The door closed; the bolt snapped back into place. Half-smothered, I threw aside the blanket and turned on the light.

"We got away with it after all," I said.

"I think we did."

Anne's eyes were fixed on the ceiling, her lips drawn back, her teeth set. She looked like someone on the rack while its ropes were being tightened.

"If you only told me everything from the start. You trusted me enough to bring me into the house, but from then on—"

"I told Sidney everything. You know what happened to him. I didn't want the same thing to happen to you."

"That was a mistake."

"Caring what happened to you?" she asked.

"Oh, why don't you try being honest for a change! What you cared about was having me get you and Paul to the States. All right, that makes sense. But the romance you cooked up between us, that touching love story you were acting out for my benefit — that wasn't the way to do it. There never really was a love story at all, was there?"

"All I want is to get Paul out of danger. I don't care what happens after that!"

"Then you'd better start caring. Do you think you'll be safe anywhere with what you know about the organization? Do you know the first assignment Leschenhaut would give Colonel Hardee and his Yankee storm troopers if you ever got to the States?"

"I'll find some place—"

"Not until the whole lot of them are finished off for good, and that includes Hubert Morillon. Now answer one question. If the time comes that you can get up in court and testify against him, would you do it?"

She didn't speak, but when she abruptly turned her head away from me I knew the answer. I took hold of her chin and forced her to look at me. Her eyes were glistening with tears.

"You fool," I said, almost pitying her, "do you really believe you can keep running the rest of your life? Just because you once thought you were in love with him—"

"More than that."

"More than that?"

"I married him," Anne said. "He's Henri de Villemont, my husband."

The dark-haired, dark-eyed, trimly mustached Colonel Henri de Villemont became the blond, blue-eyed, clean-shaven, highly Nordic Dr. Hubert Morillon. The hair dyes, contact lenses, and scholarly-looking spectacles completed the transformation of colonel to doctor.

A stranger becomes a further threat to Davis and Anne.

India's Princes Set to Fight for Pensions

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's 554 remaining princes are sharpening their swords for a duel over their pensions.

First blood was drawn when the National Committee of the governing Congress party demanded an end to princely privy purses. These are the major means of living for the former fabulous, bejeweled princes.

* * *

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government would have to amend the constitution to give effect to the National Committee's recommendation. The constitution guarantees the princes their rights and privileges.

The princes receive a total of $7.73 million a year from the Indian exchequer. This was granted them at the time of independence in return for surrender of nearly 400,000 square miles of territory held by the princes with absolute rule over more than 100 million people.

UNEXPECTED VOTE

The unexpected vote was taken at the end of the three-day Congress convention under the initiative of a left-winger, Mohan Dharia, 42. Only 50 out of the 450 members were present.

Competent sources said the move took even the party's high command by surprise. The high command had presented a motion for curtailing some of the princes' titles and privileges such as freedom from arrest and exemption from income tax and municipal tax. Nothing stronger was expected.

* * *

The reaction from the princely order was sharp.

"It is nothing but a unilateral act of highhandedness," said Maharaja Manbendra Singh of Tehri-Garhwal, himself a follower of the Congress party and a member of Parliament.

'RETALIATORY MEASURE'

"Of the princes, only five per cent are in politics, and, of them, only half are against the Congress," the maharaja said, explaining that he was unable to understand the Congress committee's "retaliatory measure."

The party suffered reverses in last February's elections. For the first time in the 20 years since freedom, non-Congress governments took over in eight of the 17 states. Even in Parliament the Congress strength was reduced from 384 to 282 in a house of about 500.

* * *

The party's rank-and-file condemned faulty leadership, failure of the government to arrest soaring prices and check corruption and internal bickering. Finally, they blamed the princely order for Congress foundering in some states.

They had in mind Maharani Gayatri Devi of Jaipur, opposition leader in Rajasthan State, and the stately Maharani of Gwalior, who is the opposition leader in the Madhya Pradesh Legislature. In Hariana and Orissa, former rulers dominate the non-Congress governments.

NEXT MOVE

"We are not going to take it lying down," Maharaja Manbendra Singh said, "and we are awaiting the next move from the government."

Mrs. Gandhi, caught between her party's mandate and the princes, has arranged a meeting with some of them to find out what can be done and how far she can go with the willing consent of the princely order.

* * *

Two princes are in her government, Maharaja Karan Singh of Kashmir as minister for tourism and Maharaja Bhanu Prakash Singh of Narasingarh as deputy minister for industrial development.

Of the 554 princelings, 11 receive privy purses exceeding a million dollars a year. The purses range down to a mere $25 per month received by the Maharaja of Katodia in Gujarat.

HEIRLESS PRINCES

Privy purses have been reduced with the death of every ruler and have lapsed with the death of some heirless princes. It is estimated that in another couple of decades the total expenditure would be cut in two.

The younger elements are taking to business, politics and to learned professions," one prince says.

* * *

The Hindustan Times called the move "privy purse-lifting" and said: "The question bristles with embarrassments and difficulties for the government. It will damage the confidence in the government's pledged word to the princes, and its lifting is not worth the limited political gains that will accrue to it."

Beam Kills Man

McNamara Silent on Viet Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara kept secret today his recommendations on boosting U.S. troop strength in Vietnam, but hinted strongly at plans to get more combat power out of the forces already there.

In advance of a luncheon with President Johnson at the White House, McNamara refused to disclose what measures he will propose as a result of his ninth on-the-spot checkup of the U.S. military effort in Vietnam.

"I can't comment on what additional troops, if any, will be sent," the defense chief told newsmen who met him at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., where he arrived from Saigon just before midnight yesterday.

He refused flatly to give any idea about the course of the air war, saying "I never comment on future operations."

The effectiveness of the bombing in North Vietnam was a prime topic during McNamara's conference with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and other key American military leaders there.

McNamara restated what he said is a two-year-old policy this way: "What the military commanders feel necessary to carry out the military operations that are required to meet our limited political objectives in South Vietnam will be sent."

"I'm not pointing to any future troop increases — I just want to make perfectly clear the basis on which we consider troop requests," he stressed.

Westmoreland is reported to have asked for up to 140,000 more fighting men. Present U. S. strength in Vietnam stands at about 466,000.

Current Pentagon speculation centers on the possibility Johnson will approve possibly two more division forces, totaling possibly 70,000 men, spread over a period of months.

* * *

Army officials said they could handle such an increase, and possibly even a bigger one, by increasing the draft rather than calling up reservists.

The strongest possibility appeared to be the addition of one division force, totaling about 35,000 men, to plug gaps left by Army troops moving into the central highlands and the northernmost provinces to bolster other Army and Marine troops against serious North Vietnamese probes.

One effect of this shift of men from the provinces around Saigon has been to reduce U. S. Army sweeps into Vietcong-held areas, thus permitting some Vietcong to return to sectors from which they had been driven.

The mishap occurred about 11:30 p.m. when a car driven by Roger W. Thompson, 21, of 120 Windsor, Rochester, collided with DeCaen's vehicle as he entered the intersection, Oakland County sheriff's deputies said.

GIs Use Civil War Tactics to Fight VC in Delta

MEKONG RIVER DELTA, South Vietnam (AP) — America's military commanders have harkened back to Civil War days on the Mississippi for tactics to fight guerrilla dominance of Vietnam's lush Mekong River delta.

* * *

It's called riverine warfare, a term first used by Union troops in 1862. The 1967 version combines amphibious tactics, river assault groups like those formed by the French in Vietnam, and an historical thank you to Gen. Winfeld Scott, who saw the need for Navy gunboats on the Mississippi.

For the past month a flotilla of barracks ships, gunboats and landing craft has been launching antiguerrilla sweeps in estuaries below Saigon. These are pinpricks in the vast area that holds one-third of Vietnam's people and furnishes most of the rice to government and Vietcong alike.

* * *

The heart of the operation is the Benewah, a converted tank-landing ship now jammed with troop quarters, command centers and communications gear as well as a popcorn stand.

GI COMPLAINTS

Aboard the troopships are two battalions of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division; the officers anxious to make riverine warfare work and the infantrymen bemused at finding themselves part soldier, part sailor and part Marine.

The GIs complain at cramped quarters and the Navy's refusal to permit beer aboard.

* * *

The growing pains appear relatively minor and the infantrymen plowing through the gooey paddy-fields are happy to have the motley fleet of armored landing craft nearby.

The shallow-draft landing boats are modified versions of old World War II craft but much better armed. Some carry machine guns and mortars. A special type carries a 40mm cannon. They are meant to not only land the infantrymen but then push into narrow waterways and give direct supporting fire where possible.

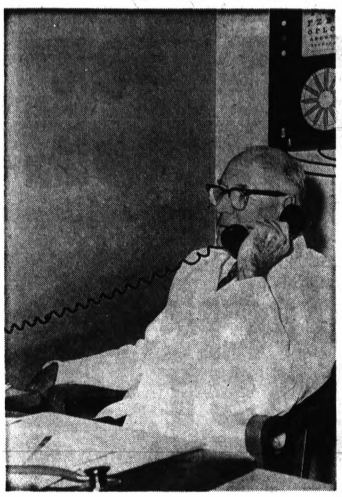
The delta, 75 per cent underwater during the rainy season now starting, has countless waterways where such craft can operate.

The Vietcong has used these waterways freely in the past, flitting about in sampans at night and disappearing by day. Many areas are honeycombed with bunkers, foxholes and trenches neatly hidden in palm stands, inside villages or camouflaged into the dikes criss-crossing the paddy-fields. The Vietcong move into them when needed, then fade away to another area if pressed too far.

Last year U.S. planners sharply increased U.S. Navy patrol craft in the delta to cut down guerilla mobility and — hopefully—to force the Vietcong onto high ground strongholds to be pounded by air, artillery and infantry assaults.

* * *

The idea of the riverine forces is to put infantrymen into the delta for relatively short operations then brining them out for hot meals, clean beds, hot showers and a few days' rest — before sending them out again.



YOUNG IS YOUNG — Dr. Arthur Young, long-time Pontiac physician and new Oakland University doctor, is still young and healthy after 34 years in the profession and at age 71. He spends his mornings at OU's health service, afternoons at his own practice and spare time traveling or following sports.

OU's Doctor at 71— Too Busy to Retire

By DICK ROBINSON

When Pontiac physician Dr. Arthur R. Young took a job as Oakland University's doctor earlier this year, he thought he would coast into retirement.

* * *

But today the 71-year-old doctor is busier than ever with his own practice and a new health center project at the university.

"I decided to ease up a little when I took this new job," Young says, "but I discovered my work increased since I had to condense devotion to my own practice into half a day."

He works mornings at OU's makeshift health service and afternoons in his office in the Riker Building.

* * *

A veteran of 34 years in the medical profession, Young is now wrapped up in plans for the university's $600,000 health center. Ground-breaking for the new facility is scheduled to start this summer.

AWAITS COMPLETION

"I want to stay around to see that finished," remarked Dr. Young.

The one-story health center is expected to be completed in eight months. It will have offices for a medical director and two doctors and examination, physical therapy, first aid, isolation and solarium rooms as well as overnight wards.

Oakland University's first regular doctor, Young indicated that he is healthy and has no immediate plans for retirement.

* * *

Prior to entering medical school, he was a basketball coach at East High School in Wichita, Kan., where he grew up. One of his teams won a national championship in Chicago.

SWITCHED TO MEDICINE

"I decided to go into medicine when I was working for the DuPont Co.," he explained. "People with Ph.D.'s there were getting ahead. So I decided to get an M.D."

The personable physician still vividly recalls incidents when he started his practice in the mid-1930s.

"There was no money in those days," he said. "We used barter. I got paid butter, chickens, tomatoes. Once I fixed a fracture and got paid a quarter of a beef.

"It was a very pleasant relationship."

Recalling one memorable experience during one of the many home visits, Dr. Young commented:

"I had to follow a snow plow to within 1½ miles from a woman who was expecting a baby. Then I had to walk to the house in 1½-feet of snow. To get to the hospital, we had to find a neighbor to hitch up a team of horses and sled."

Dr. Young's business built up so much since the depression days that he has to think twice about retiring.

* * *

"There is such a shortage of doctors in the area that it is a problem for me to retire," he maintained. "I have loyal patients. There is no place to send them."

OAKLAND PATIENTS

On the other hand, his patients at Oakland University will certainly have a place to go when the health center is completed.

Before Dr. Young came to OU, sick students received attention from on-duty nurses with a doctor called in for more serious cases.

Now, Dr. Young — as the only physician at the university—has three nurses helping him during the day and two people to take night cases.

"My chief responsibility is the dormitory students," explained Dr. Young who lives at 2340 E. Hammond Lake, Bloomfield Township. "We expect 1,800 of them in the fall."

* * *

He conceded that there is "not much pressure" on him at the university since most cases involve sore throats, headaches and other minor ailments.

But it is apparent that his university patients will continue to increase as OU grows. Almost 4,000 students are expected this fall.

Dr. Young will continue to be a busy man.

Report Boosts Cigarettes

Active Stock Market Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined early this afternoon but cigarette stocks were strong on an encouraging news report. Trading was active.

The market as a whole seems to be taking a breather after a strong performance since the end of June, analysts said. They called it a pause in the summer rally.

The cigarette manufacturers advanced from the start in an unusual display of strength, considering that the over-all market was stymied by profit taking.

Late in the morning a report was published that Columbia University will hold a news conference Thursday to announce a new development relating to reducing the health hazard of cigarette smoking. The same report quoted tobacco industry sources as indicating that Columbia will announce it has acquired the rights to a new filter for cigarettes.

The reports were not confirmed immediately.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon dipped .3 to 330.1 with industrials off .5, rails off .3 and utilities off .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.43 at 877.02.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Goldfield was active and off about a point. Losses exceeding a point were taken by Gale Industries, Alloys Unlimited and Flying Tiger.

Fischer & Porter advanced more than 2 points. Scurry Rainbow Oil added about 1½.

Thieu: More Yanks Needed

'S. Viets Must Hike Army Size, Efficiency'

ABOARD USS CONSTELLATION (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu said today South Vietnam's 350,000-man regular army will have to be increased and made more efficient to press the war against the Communists.

* * *

But Thieu cautioned that any increase in the armed forces would have to be weighed against the effect on the nation's economy, the availability of equipment and the time it would take to train the new soldiers.

* * *

Because of this, he said, a substantial increase in American troops was needed as soon as possible in South Vietnam to "exploit the successes we already have." he would make no estimate of how many Americans he believed were needed.

"I believe that, with equipment and financial help from the United States, we will have more troops ready to meet any situation," said Thieu, a lieutenant general who is running for president in the national election Sept. 3.

MANPOWER LOW

U.S. sources have indicated that South Vietnam had scraped the bottom of its manpower pool and could not substantially increase its armed forces. But Thieu said, "We still have the manpower for that."

* * *

Echoing a statement made Tuesday by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara that allied troops should be used more effectively, Thieu said "a big program to increase the efficiency of the South Vietnamese operational forces and popular forces militamen" was under way and would start to show results in about one year.

* * *

Eventually, Thieu said, there will be more Vietnamese troops to 'relieve the American troops from the operational and pacification task. It should and must be done."

* * *

Thieu spoke with newsmen after presenting 62 medals to pilots and other officers and enlisted men of the U.S. 7th Fleet aboard the big aircraft carrier Constellation, cruising off North Vietnam in the Gulf of Tonkin.

By Private Enterprise Council

Big Government Fought

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

CUNNIFF

NEW YORK — Philosophical distinctions sometimes fail to disturb front-line fighters in the continuing war between private enterprise and what some businessmen consider to be the swollen monster of big government.

The brand-new Council for Private Enterprise, for example is headed by Edward Hood, who also heads the Shipbuilders Council of America, which represents an industry well-subsidized by big government.

The Council for Private Enterprise, whose main purpose is to "publicize the importance of private enterprise in every possible way," maintains a simple, pragmatic approach to the contest.

Its view is that the more work the government handles, the less there is for private enterprise. And so it suggests that wherever possible the government get out of retailing, engineering, dredging, employment agencies, florist shops, parking lots, restaurants and shipbuilding.

MORAL APPROACH

In this way it is unlike its cousins in the fight against big government, the largest enterprise in America today. Many other opponents of big government take a moral or legal or political approach.

First, there are those who simply dislike big budgets and deficits. This group maintains that big budgets are mostly politically inspired and that the government is acting immorally in passing on debts to future generations.

Another group consists of those who oppose government regulation on the grounds that the fewer the restrictions on business, the better it is for both buyer and seller.

And there are those also who believe that certain government services in fields such as recreation and entertainment are inherently bad, even when they offer little competition to private enterprise.

LEGITIMATE RIGHTS

The council, however, states simply that such activities are wrong because they deprive business of its legitimate rights. Private enterprise, they say, is the American way. It built the country. It is the strongest system.

Despite its great strength, however, private enterprise is hardly winning the battle with a growing government, the council feels.

* * *

"This is a problem that won't be corrected immediately, if ever," Hood said. "This little effort isn't going to solve the problem."

The little effort Hood refers to was formed by representatives of various industrial associations, many of which have lobbying as their main concern. They meet once a month, informally, in Hood's office.

Dedication Set for Hospital

The board of trustees of Crittenton Hospital yesterday set Aug. 5 as the date for dedication ceremonies to take place for the hospital's new Rochester unit.

* * *

An open house for the public is scheduled the following day.

Work on the new facility, located on Walton just west of Rochester, has been under way since July 1965. The opening had originally been set for this month but was set back due to a series of strikes in various building trades.

The 207-bed hospital will begin receiving patients Aug. 15, according to Mrs. M. E. Allen, director of public relations.

Administrators have staffed the hospital with 110 doctors; recruiting efforts are still under way for nurses.

The $6,170,000 cost of the facility has been financed through donations, loans and federal grants under the Hill-Burton Fund.

2 Spacecraft Await Trips

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Technicians today prepared two big spacecraft scheduled to depart from here Thursday—one by barge, the other by rocket.

At 7 a.m. a powerful Atlas-Centaur rocket will blast off to begin Surveyor 4's 65-hour flight toward a soft landing on the moon.

Surveyor 4's television system is expected to relay thousands of pictures from its target site.

The departing barge is to carry a big steel box housing the Apollo 1 spacecraft in which three astronauts died in a launch-pad fire Jan. 27.

ELECTRICAL SYSTEM CHECKER—Pontiac Motor Division has announced a new method of checking the electrical system on its cars through a built-in diagnostic system called the Sercon, which stands for service connection. The procedure (right) utilizes a new analytical device that connects with the chassis wiring and allows the Pontiac mechanic to check all of the electrical systems at one time. A series of colored lights (left) on the Sercon panel shows any electrical malfunction immediately.

New Way to Check Car Electric System

Pontiac Motor Division today announced a revolutionary new method of checking the electrical system on its cars that is said to be considerably more accurate and time saving than existing electrical checks.

The new built-in diagnostic system, called Sercon, which stands for service connection, is a Pontiac exclusive, according to a Pontiac spokesman.

The procedure utilizes a new analysical device that connects with the chassis wiring so that the Sercon checks all electric systems at one time which formerly had to be inspected one at a time.

A series of colored lights on a portable instrument panel on the Sercon enable the mechanic to immediately spot any electrical malfunction in the three miles of wiring in the car.

* * *

The Sercon gives the customer a thorough electrical check and indicates if the entire electrical system coming through the diagnostic connector is working properly, according to a Pontiac spokesman.

* * *

Sercon was developed in cooperation with Pontiac's engineering department and the Sun Electric Corp. It will plug into all 1968 Pontiac, Tempest and Firebird models and adapters are available for all 1964 and later-model Pontiacs.

Opening lead—♦ K

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

Once upon a time a pitcher could get by with a fast ball and a curve. Today he needs several other pitches.

A winning bridge player must also mix his bids.

One of the standard rules for preemptive bids of three is that you don't make them when you can just as well open with one.

Malcolm Martin of Bermuda knows this rule but violated it with tremendous success in a recent rubber bridge game at New York's Regency Whist Club.

North knew that West might well have opened three diamonds with a seven card suit to the queen-jack and nothing else.

* * *

His double was for takeout. South might have passed and picked up 300 points but South did have five spades and his partner had asked him to bid.

The spade bid was right up North's alley. He forced to a spade slam and when the slam bid got back to Malcolm he decided to go all out and doubled.

The double was dangerous but as Mal remarked later on, "I came here to take chances."

* * *

The double was spectacularly successful. South ruffed the diamond lead and played a low heart from dummy. This play turned out to be just as unsuccessful as the bidding.

East took the trick with the ten and forced dummy with a second diamond. The ace of hearts was led next. West ruffed and forced out dummy's last trump with another diamond lead.

At this point East and West had two tricks in and were still able to collect two trumps, a diamond and 1,100 points on their side of the score.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
			1 ♣
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	2 N.T.
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	3 N.T.	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠ A Q 2 ♥ K 9 6 ♦ A Q ♣ K J 9 7 6

What do you do now?

A—Pass. You have nothing more to show.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three no-trump your partner bids four clubs over your three spades. What do you do now?

House Rules Unit Develops Positive Look

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Rules Committee, celebrated in the recent past for dragging its feet, has developed a positive image under new management. Some of its liberal critics like the new look even less than the old.

* * *

Many House members had anticipated the committee would go into decline with the departure of former Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., its strong-willed veteran chairman.

But Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., Smith's understudy for years and the committee's chairman since the start of the current Congress, is making it evident he didn't take the job to preside over the committee's demise.

The rules committee's traditional role has been to act on requests of legislative committees for clearance of their products for a vote in the House. Under Smith's reign, some liberal-type, big-spending bills couldn't seem to get cleared.

* * *

Getting such clearance has been less of a problem this year possibly because nothing very controversial or liberal or new has been coming along. But something else has been added.

* * *

The rules committee, it turns out, is not just a traffic cop for other people's legislation. It has the power to crank up legislative action on its own, and this year it is doing just that.

So far it can claim credit for a bill against flag-burning passed by the House and for an antiriot bill that is just about to be passed. Under Colmer's management it may have other such feats in mind.

Take flag-burning. Early this year dozens of members, incensed when peace demonstrators put the torch to the national emblem, introduced bills to make flag desecration a federal crime.

* * *

The bills were deferred to the judiciary committee, where they mouldered.

Mississippi Is Dirty but Still Drinkable

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The tourist studied the wide, muddy oil-spotted Mississippi River at New Orleans, the product of perhaps man's greatest pollution campaign in history. Then he turned to the Orleanian.

"You drink that water?"

The Orleanian does. So does the tourist if he stays here any time. The river water — carefully treated—is used for some of the most famous coffee in the world.

The muddy Mississippi River water doesn't hurt anyone — unless it is mixed with too much bourbon or Scotch.

Louisiana Health Engineer John E. Trygg, a transplanted Iowan who learned to swim — Huckleberry Finn style — in the upper section of the river, put it this way:

"The quality of our water in New Orleans is generally pretty good. Occasionally we may have a problem of taste or odor, but that isn't often. It's pretty good water."

If the water can be used at New Orleans, it can probably be used anywhere along the 2,500-mile river.

By the time the Mississippi reaches here it has drained a third of the nation, picking up wastes from dozens of smaller rivers, including the giant Ohio and Missouri.

In Louisiana alone about 1.5 million people depend on the muddy river for their drinking water. So do millions of people upstream — including the city of St. Louis.

This is all in spite of the awesome abuse and neglect of the river by individuals, communities and industries that use it from Minnesota to the Gulf of Mexico.

Baseball Game Stalls Great Special on K

NEW YORK (AP) — A vital American interest—the All-Star baseball game—almost pushed Nikita S. Khrushchev into television exile Tuesday night as the game ran an hour overtime and threw NBC's schedule out of kilter.

* * *

The switchboard at NBC was first beseiged by telephone calls asking why the Lucy Jarvis-produced "Khrushchev in Exile" was delayed and then, when it finally went on, there were more phone calls demanding to know why Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show was not on.

* * *

NBC officials said they feared the delay had cut deeply into the number of viewers of the show, which was a magnificent portrayal of Khrushchev and which Jack Gould, television critic of the New York Times, called "an absorbing study."

* * *

There was little to criticize about the show but there was one example of American censorship being more stringent than Soviet censorship.

LANGUAGE LAUNDERED

On the Russian sound track, Khrushchev called former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "an S.O.B.," which the NBC translator rendered as "a good for nothing" for American audiences.

* * *

The film showed that Khrushchev has aged considerably since he was ousted from power in October 1964. The commentary said that he had lost 20 pounds, and this was evident from his sunken cheeks and falling jowls.

* * *

There was one interesting scene in the film, upon which there was no commentary; Mrs. Jarvis said it was because she had not recognized the man: A shot on the terrace of Khrushchev's dacha showed him with his reputed brother-in-law, Mikhail Shokholov, the Nobel Prize winner for literature. Shokholov, wearing a white Russian peasant shirt, playfully tapped Khrushchev on the arm.

Internal evidence showed that the film used was largely obtained from sources within the Khrushchev family since few others, except Soviet officials, have access to the dacha.

3 Wallendas Hurt in Crash

LEWISTOWN, Mont. (AP)—Three members of the Flying Wallendas, famed acrobatic troupe, were injured Monday in a traffic accident near Grass Range in central Montana, about 30 miles east of Lewistown.

* * *

Carlos Guzman, 21, driver of the truck-trailer unit in which the three were traveling, and Ricky Wallenda, 12, both of Sarasota, Fla., were treated at a Lewistown hospital and released.

* * *

Joseph Perraz, 21, Oakland, Calif., was held overnight in a Lewistown hospital.

Damage to equipment in the truck was estimated at $6,000. A spokesman for the troupe said its tour of Utah and other western points would be delayed about six weeks for rebuilding the equipment.

* * *

The troupe was en route to Billings, Mont.

'Cleopatra' Suits Expected to Net Liz Taylor Millions

NEW YORK—Elizabeth Taylor's coming into MILLIONS of dollars in a settlement soon to be announced of the lawsuits involving Liz, 20th Century-Fox, "Cleopatra," Eddie Fisher, the divorces, the children, and other disputable points. Liz as usual appears to be the victor with a staggering amount of money coming to her, and, strangely, her ex-husband Eddie Fisher will get a chunk, too, as a partner with his ex-wife in their "Cleopatra" enterprise—although as I understand it, the very clever Liz will have arranged it that somebody else, not Liz, will be paying Eddie off.

WILSON

We've got our own campaign now: Give up standing ovations on Broadway (night clubs especially). They're mostly insincere, meaningless, and leave the audience disliking the performer they stand up for.

We don't think it's important, really, but at the Monkees' great press conference at the Warwick, we wished to find out for a girl reader whether Mickey Dolenz is engaged to British model Samantha Juste. Their press agents kept turning their backs on us till we finally said "Are you always this rude?" Finally, Ward Sylvester, their M.C. and producer, said he would answer—they are not engaged and Mickey, 22 now, will not marry till he's 27.

During all this, one of the Monkees said he's never found press people so impudent. So next time you hear the British are bad-mannered, put in a word for the good old U.S.A. We're bad-mannered as anybody and proud of it, right, Chums?

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Sheila MacRae, Ronnie Wayne and Irving Cowan formed a film company, Charisma, and want to star Buddy Hackett in the W. C. Fields screen bio . . . Govs. Romney and Rockefeller have something in common—both had a birthday July 8. Romney was 59, Rocky 60 . . . Jesse White'll star on Broadway in "Take My Wife—Please," directed by Allan Sherman. (The title's an old Henry Youngman joke).

Robert Goulet almost missed getting aboard the S.S. France—he'd stopped at Carmine the Barber's for a haircut . . . Digging the Don Ellis jazz at the Riverboat: the non-jazzy Hildegarde . . . Joe Louis did a mild frug at Trude Heller's, showing his sister Eulala the town . . . Guests at the new Mellow Yellow in the Village smoked bananas, community-style, in hookah pipes.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A showgirl went on a strict diet, and after a week all she'd lost was her voice, from talking about it.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: One airline, Monty Hurst hears, gives passengers a choice of a drink or a Dean Martin movie.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A man is never so weak as when some woman is telling him how strong he is."

EARL'S PEARLS: A fellow explained he'd found the fastest way to get his car across town—have a police truck tow it.

Ronald Reagan's installed a hotline phone in the governor's mansion. It's a direct wire to MGM . . . That's earl, brother.

Legislators Hope to Finish State Budget Work Today

LANSING (AP) — Hoping to finish the budget today and take a recess after six wearying months in session, the Legislature gave final approval yesterday to bills spending $537.4 million in fiscal 1967-68.

Eliminated, meanwhile, was the most controversial item left on the legislative calendars — Sunday liquor.

Proponents of the measure to allow counties to legalize Sunday sale of liquor in restaurants without a popular vote let it die yesterday. They conceded they lacked the votes to pass it in the House.

Up for House action today were two of the biggest spending bills in the state's anticipated $1.1 billion general fund budget — those making appropriations for higher education and for the Department of Social Services.

Approved yesterday was a bill to appropriate $323 million to various departments from a number of special restricted funds, such as the Motor Vehicle Fund, the Trunkline Fund and the Watercraft Law Enforcement Fund.

ADDITIONAL SPENDING

That $323 million represents state spending in addition to the $1.1 billion general fund budget.

Also passed by both houses in identical forms were bills appropriating $17.9 million to the Public Health Department, $2.6 million to the Department of Military Affairs, $24.68 million to the Department of State Police, $10.1 million to the Commerce Department, $3.72 million to the Labor Department and $2.14 million to the Department of Licensing and Regulation.

The Senate approved House-passed bills giving $22.92 million to the Corrections Department and $131.16 million to the Department of Mental Health.

★ ★ ★

Senate majority leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, and House majority floor leader William Hampton, R-Bloomfield Hills, said they hoped to finish by noon today. But a House floor fight was considered likely on the big higher education bill.

The Senate version would appropriate $240.2 million. The House increased the figure to $255.7 and tacked on a 5 per cent increase in aid to public K-12 schools, estimated at about $24 million.

JUNK ROCKET — Mrs. William Tymkow (left) and Mrs. Ronald Baker, both of Avon Township, will present this "junk mail" laden rocket to Congress in early October along with a moving van load of the mail to make their protest emphatic.

'Junk Mail Protest Is Going Very Well'

The drive by a group of Rochester area women to collect a moving van load of "junk mail" to present to Congress is "doing exceptionally well," according to Mrs. William Tymkow, initiator of the effort.

★ ★ ★

Forty-three centers have been established throughout Michigan to gather the mail, and some contributions have been received from a far away as Mesa, Ariz., and Roanoke, Va.

The Ivory Brothers Moving Co. of Warren has donated a large moving van and a driver to haul the accumulation to Washington, D.C., where it will be delivered to the doorsteps of the Capitol in early October.

Mrs. Tymkow of 47953 Dequindre Avon Township, said the drive is being made to protest a congressional plan to raise rates on personal main while junk mail (third class bulk rate mail continues to be sent by the millions of pieces each day at the same low rate it has always enjoyed.

★ ★ ★

Dedication Set for Unit Hospital

The board of trustees of Crittenton Hospital yesterday set Aug. 5 as the date for dedication ceremonies to take place for the hospital's new Rochester unit.

★ ★ ★

An open house for the public is scheduled the following day.

Work on the new facility, located on Walton just west of Rochester, has been under way since July 1965. The opening had originally been set for this month but was set back due to a series of strikes in various building trades.

The 207-bed hospital will begin receiving patients Aug. 15, according to Mrs. M. E. Allen, direct of public relations.

★ ★ ★

Administrators have staffed the hospital with 110 doctors; recruiting efforts are still under way for nurses.

The $6,170,000 cost of the facility has been financed through donations, loans and federal grants under the Hill-Burton Fund.

Congolese Said Eating Settlers

KIGALI, Rwanda (AP) — A Congolese Cabinet minister today reported cannibalism of white settlers in the southeast Congo as a refugee pilot told of a stalemate between mutineers and loyal troops in Kisangani to the north.

★ ★ ★

Interior Minister Etienne Tshisekedi told newsmen at Bujumbura, capital of Burundi, that Congolese had eaten several whites in Lubumbashi. He said he feared similar cannibalism might occur in Bukavu because of the mutiny there by white mercenaries and Katangan troops loyal to ex-Premier Moise Tshombe.

Tshisekedi said he ordered a stop to "such barbarism and reprisals" in Lubumbashi, which as Elisabethville was capital of Katanga Province and Tshombe's former stronghold.

"I am going to Bukavu where similar acts could take place, all the more since the local population is still furious against mercenaries who mutinied there last week," he said.

★ ★ ★

He said the situation was fairly quiet in Lubumbashi, but the Congolese population feared mercenary attacks. Lubumbashi escaped the mutinous uprisings that raged last week in Bukavu, 650 miles to the north, and in Kisangani, the former Stanleyville.

NO REPORTS

The Belgian Foreign Ministry, which has a consul general in Lubumbashi, said in Brussels that no reports from its embassador and consuls in the Congo even suggested that cannibalism had taken place in Lubumbashi or elsewhere in the Congo.

"That does not mean such acts did not take place," a spokesman added.

★ ★ ★

A Cuban-American pilot who escaped from Kisangani said a stalemate seemed to prevail there with mutineers and loyal troops holding opposite banks of the Congo River.

Reuther Takes UAW Bids to Chrysler Today

DETROIT (AP) —Walter P. Reuther takes to Chrysler Corp. today new contract demands of his United Auto Workers union. They include profit sharing, with the threat of a strike to get it.

Reuther's Chrysler visit is his third in as many days to members of automotive's Big Three, where current three-year pacts run out Sept. 6.

Related Story, Page A-3

He previsousy dropped on bargaining tables at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co., similar sets of what he describes as the union's "longest and most ambitious" list of demands.

The profit-sharing goal came as a surprise Monday at General Motors. Reuther emphasized this as "essential" to a peaceful settlement at Ford yesterday.

A guaranteed annual income previously had been given top billing among union goals.

INCOME PLAN

Under a guaranteed annual income plan, Reuther says a worker must know at the beginning of a year what his income for the next 12 months will be any layoffs not withstanding.

On top of that, the UAW president disclosed as new bargaining opened that the union wants bonuses based on profits at the end of the fiscal year, just as company executives get bonuses and stockholders get extra dividends.

Reuther repeatedly has failed to gain profit-sharing from the Big Three in past negotiations. there have been no indications the companies are any more disposed to agree to it now.

At a news conference preceding his visit yesterday to Ford, Reuther emphasized his determination to get it this time.

New Michigan Law Adds Two Years to Township Officer, Trustee Terms

A new law, signed by Gov. Romney Monday, will add two years to the current terms of Michigan's elected township officers and trustees.

The new legislation will eliminate the lame-duck period now affection township officials, who are elected in November, but must wait until April 10, before assuming office.

Township officers — including supervisors, clerks and treasurers — elected in 1966 will serve until Nov. 20, 1970, in accordance with the new law.

Trustees elected in 1964 also will serve until Nov. 20, 1970.

★ ★ ★

Trustees elected in 1966 will remain in office until Nov. 20, 1972.

USUAL TERMS

Township officers normally serve two-year terms. Trustees are elected to four-year seats.

For example, Waterford Township's Supervisor Elmer R. Johnson, who was elected to a two-year term last November, will instead remain in office until Nov. 20, 1970. His term was slated to expire in April 1969.

Waterford Township Trustee Herbert C. Cooley was elected to a four-year term in November.

★ ★ ★

Under the new legislation, that term will be stretched until November 1972. The former expiration time was April 1971.

REDUCES WAIT

The new law reduces the wait for newly elected township officials to assume office from five months to two weeks. Beginning in 1970, township officials will be sworn into office on Nov. 20.

★ ★ ★

Of significance is that no township contest will be on the November 1968 election ballot.

Freezing-of-Bodies Process Detailed by Group Leaders

A long-standing rule in the history of man is that death signals the end of life. Perpetuity is not now generally considered a realistic alternative. But, there is hope for the dead of the future.

New techniques in freezing may open the way for prolongation of life on Earth after death.

Dr. Robert C. W. Ettinger, a professor of physics at Highland Park College, outlined recent developments in his concept last night at an open meeting of the Michigan Cryonics Society at Stouffer's Restaurant, Southfield.

Appearing with Ettinger was Robert Nelson, president of the California Cryonics Society.

PURPOSE OF CRYONICS

The purpose of the cryonics (low-temperature biology) movement, said Ettinger, is to preserve a body after clinical death until such time as scientific means are available to revive, repair and rejuvenate the whole person for a continued life.

The freezing process was outlined by Nelson who carried it out in January on Dr. James Bedford, a professor of psychology at Glendale College, Calif.

Immediately upon death, artificial respiration is applied to prevent permanent damage to body cells that otherwise would be deprived of blood.

The body is packed in ice as quickly as possible and cooled to about 10 degrees centigrade. Once the body is cooled to the required temperature, the blood is removed and replaced with a chemical preservative.

CADAVER FROZEN

After this perfusion, the cadaver is frozen and stored in a special vault at minus 320 degrees centigrade.

There is no risk to the individual being frozen since failure of the process will simply leave the person dead, according to Ettinger.

★ ★ ★

About 40 people in the Detroit area have asked to be frozen upon death, Ettinger said.

High Taxes, Reserve Call-Up Seen

'Escalation Means Dark Future'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional critics paint a dark picture of increased taxes, price-wage controls and mobilization of reserves if President Johnson intensifies the Vietnam war.

The doves are telling Johnson through Senate and House speeches that he also will be risking World War III if he pours in a huge complement of ground forces and expands the bombing of North Vietnam.

The hawks, diverted at the moment by the alarms of possible American involvement in African conflicts, are otherwise relatively silent while awaiting Johnson's decision after he confers with Gen. William C. Westmoreland and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. Both just returned from Vietnam.

But Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen seemed to voice the general view of hawks that if Westmoreland wants more troops, he ought to have what he needs.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who wants a renewed effort to reduce the present level of U.S. involvement in the Asian war, cited the possible domestic effects of expanding the conflict.

Mansfield told the Senate Tuesday that a third world war may be "already incubating in the ever-deepening and expanding struggle in Southeast Asia." He said every escalation thus far had failed to bring the conflict nearer an end.

"Before we take another significant step deeper into Vietnam," he said, "it is to be hoped that we will have asked ourselves at what point we intend to increase taxes, apply the wage and price controls, tighten the draft exemptions, call up the reserves and make the countless other adjustments in our national life which are implicit in further extensions of the American involvement."

Mansfield's estimate that Vietnam expenditures will rise to $25 billion yearly brought a prediction from Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., that an increase of 18 to 20 per cent in income taxes may be in the offing.

WILLING TO PAY

Aiken questioned whether citizens who urge intensification of the war are willing to pay the price for an all-out effort.

An effort by Secretary of State Dean Rusk to placate senators who vigorously protested Johnson's dispatch of three U.S. transport planes to help the Congo government appeared to have made little headway.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who said it was immoral to send one American serviceman to the Congo, said after hearing Rusk in a closed session that he hadn't changed his opinions about anything.

AP Wirephoto

CALLED IN FOR QUESTIONING — Secretary of State Dean Rusk (left) and Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, pause yesterday on Capitol Hill before a closed-door session of the joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees. Rusk was on hand to defend the administration action—criticized by members of Congress—which sent three U.S. military transport aircraft to the Congo, a new trouble area.

Israeli-Arab Forces Clash During Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — New fighting between Egyptian and Israeli forces on land and at sea was reported today as angry Moslem diplomats at the United Nations worked on a resolution to censure Israel for refusing to give up the Old City of Jerusalem.

Israel announced that Israeli naval units sank two Egyptian torpedo boats Tuesday in the first naval clash between the two nations since the Middle East war last month.

* * *

An Israeli army spokesman said the engagement occurred in the Mediterranean about 16 miles off the occupied Egyptian town of El Arish when the Egyptian boats fired on a patrolling Israeli flotilla which included the destroyer Elath and two torpedo boats.

The spokesman said eight Israeli seamen were slightly wounded.

An Egyptian communique claimed that Israeli machine guns opened fire on Egyptian forces on the west bank of the Suez Canal south of Ismailia. The communique said Egyptian guns fired back and knocked out two Israeli armored cars. It said there were no Egyptian casualties.

'Riots Bring Antirights Acts'

BOSTON (AP) — The first Negro popularly elected to the U.S. Senate says this summer's racial violence is causing what appears to be a "punitive reaction" to the civil rights movement.

"Today," said Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., "alarmed by riots and cries of black power which have often meant violence, the mood of the nation is resistant to progress in civil rights."

Brooke received the Spingarm Medal for outstanding achievement by a Negro Tuesday night from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People during the organization's 58th annual convention.

Defeated Bill Is Slipped By

LANSING (AP)—Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee demonstrated Tuesday that there's more than one way to skin a cat or change a license fee.

Observers said it was a clever maneuver, but some House members said it was a dirty trick.

* * *

Earlier in the session, Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Frank Beadle, R-St. Clair, and members Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, and Garland Lane, D-Flint, introduced a bill changing license fees for real estate brokers.

The Senate passed the measure but the House killed it.

* * *

Then the senators tacked an identical provision as a rider to the 1967-68 budget bill for the Department of Licensing and Regulation — sending it over to the House on a take it or leave it basis.

Reason Why 6 Seized Ship Still Mystery

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A heavily armed band of greasy, thirsty stowaways who took command of a freighter off Miami Beach apparently vanished after listening to the ship captain's jokes for two hours Tuesday.

The stowaways fled ashore after struggling for 30 minutes with the moorings of two lifeboats. They brushed past a barkeeper and his date and hailed a taxi, which has not been found, either.

That was the story police and officers and passengers of the ship, the Freight Transporter, pieced together.

The motive for the ship's seizure was still a mystery.

Ramon Carpio, captain of the 353-foot ship, said the men told him they had intended to "use the vessel to hijack another ship." When there was no sign of a rendezvous, the men grew nervous and abandoned the escapade, he said.

Congress Wants to Hike Role in Troop Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress wants a much greater voice in deciding whether U.S. military forces should be ordered into new world trouble spots, members of two key Senate committees told Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

* * *

He met with them Tuesday to defend the dispatch of three U.S. military transports and about 126 troops to the Congo, whose government is trying to overcome rebel mercenaries.

* * *

"We don't wish to continue intervening here, there and everywhere," Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee commented in telling newsmen of the congressional demand served on the administration.

He also charged the administration's Congo decision was based on greatly exaggerated reports of dangers to Americans there.

GROWING APPREHENSION

Fulbright said the experience of the initial involvement in Vietnam caused what he described as growing congressional apprehension over the authority of the President to order U.S. military forces into troubled areas. He said Rusk seems unaware of this apprehension.

In the future, Fulbright said, Congress wants to be in on the decision - making. Consultation involves more than notifying congressional leaders of decisions already taken, the chairman asserted.

Virginia Strike Erupts in Riot

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Police stood by today to maintain order at the strike-bound Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., where a two-hour riot erupted after midnight.

* * *

A crowd estimated by newsmen as at least 3,000 persons turned on about 30 policemen in front of the shipyard. Some rioters overturned one police car, set it afire, and looted stores in a two-block area across from the shipyard.

* * *

The crowd began to disperse at about 2 a.m., as five firetrucks wheeled in to douse the blazing auto. About 20 persons were treated for minor injuries and released from four hospitals.

Ambulance Firm Loses Pact, Not Determination

BIRMINGHAM — "I'm still here in busines and I'm here to stay," said Michael O'Hara, owner of Birmingham Ambulance Service, 855 E. Maple, which lost a city contract held for 10 years.

His firm lost in bidding for a city contract to a Royal Oak firm, Oakland Directors Service at 13½ Mile near Woodward.

O'Hara asked $1,000 per month, but the other firm asked $300.

The contract amounts to a subsidy by the city. Under it, an ambulance service is obliged to have vehicles ready at any time of night or day at the call of police or firemen.

* * *

O'Hara said his ambulances averaged four minutes to answer a call and challenged the new firm to equal that time.

$350 SUBSIDY

O'Hara's bid had steadily risen over the years. He started out with $350 subsidy, when the city was "hurting for an ambulance," he pointed out.

However the costs of everything climbed since then and to keep an ambulance now costs $138 per day, he said.

The Royal Oak firm at Monday's commission meeting promised to provide equal service at a far lower rate.

* * *

Representatives of the firm said they were able to operate more cheaply due to superior bookkeeping and collecting services.

O'Hara commented "If they can do it, let them." He said he intends to bid again next year. Meanwhile, his service is "available any time to anyone," he said.

Suspect Shot in 'Escape Try'

One of two men arrested as suspects in the burglary of a Pontiac grocery store was shot by police early today when he attempted to escape, according to city officers.

* * *

In satisfactory condition in Pontiac General Hospital is Robert McCullough, 26, of 1117 Stanley.

McCullough was shot once in the right leg, police said, after he and Sampson Miracle, 39, of 125 Parkdale were followed to the Stanley address and arrested shortly after an undetermined amont of goods and cash was taken from Figa's Market, 344 W. Kennett, about 3:30 a.m.

Police, who said the suspects were pursued because of a vehicle identification by witnesses, said Patrolman Robert Bates fired the shot when McCullough attempted to flee while being placed in handcuffs.

* * *

Miracle is in custody in Oakland County Jail pending arraignment on a burglary charge according to officers.

Theft Hits Police

DETROIT (AP) — Thieves stole property from the parked cars of two policemen at an East Nine Mile Road precinct headquarters Tuesday.

Wiretap Hearing for Hoffa July 24

CHICAGO (AP) — James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president now in prison, will be brought to Chicago July 24 for a hearing to determine whether government wiretapping aided his conviction of fraud and conspiracy in 1964.

* * *

Judge Richard Austin of U. S. District Court issued the order Monday for Hoffa's appearance.

Grand Juror Issues 2 Bench Warrants

Bench warrants were issued yesterday by Oakland County Grand Juror James S. Thorburn against two men who failed to answer subpoenas.

Arrested, then brought before Judge Thorburn, were Emil Pavlovics, a Madison Heights druggist, and Roman Nowicki, a former Madison Heights councilman.

Why they were ordered to appear Monday before Thorburn is not known because of the secrecy surrounding grand jury proceedings.

Early in the inquiry, then conducted by Judge Philip Pratt, both Nowicki and Pavlovics, along with two other men, including Rep. Bill S. Huffman, were cited for contempt of court.

* * *

The four contempt charges were later dismissed by the Michigan Court of Appeals, a ruling that subsequently led to the disqualification of Pratt as the grand juror and the naming of Thorburn as his successor.

The investigation being conducted by Thorburn on the request of State Attorney General Frank Kelley is aimed only at alleged criminal activities surrounding the Hazel Park Race Track.

Thorburn's authority as a grand juror expires Aug. 16, since the investigation is only a continuation of the Pratt judicial inquiry which under law can only be conducted for one year.

Troy Schools Keep Principal, System

By ED BLUNDEN

TROY — In an emotion-packed school board meeting last night, the high school principal survived another motion to fire him and the "modular system" survived the educational trash can. In both cases the vote was 4-3.

About 300 persons jammed the high school cafeteria.

The board meeting was a climax to a long, bitter dispute on how to solve the district's financial crisis — which is expected to be in the red about $465,000 by next June — and the experimental education system in effect at the high school.

★ ★ ★

The meeting ended with petitions being circulated demanding the school board hold another election asking for an eight-mill school levy, a request that was defeated by a 2½-1 margin on June 12.

5-POINT PROPOSAL

Dr. Rex Smith, schools superintendent, acting as a catalyst, clarified the issues by making a five-point proposal.

"I've been backed into a corner," he said, "I have to take a stand." His proposals were:

- Fire Joseph Bechard, high school principal.
- Drop the Stanford System (modular) at the high school.
- Return to traditional classroom procedure.

★ ★ ★

- Call for an investigation and evaluation by outside educational authorities.
- Drop "tea-grouping" or "sensitivity training."

MIXED VOTE

The first three proposals were defeated, the request for outside analysis passed unanimously and it was decided "sensitivity training" had already been done away with.

Dr. Smith said he had "lost all confidence" with Bechard's ability to administer the modular system. He said many complaints had been received of students loitering in the halls in the unscheduled type of class procedures.

He also attacked teachers who did not know how to handle the system and who were indiscriminate in handing out passing marks.

★ ★ ★

Students were advised to retake classes which they "skipped" or "were not taught."

Board members and parents in the audience said the system was fine for some students, but others seemed unable to cope with it.

DIFFERENT FORMS

Trustee Donald Richards pointed out that 1,400 schools used a form of modular system and it was up to the district to find the one best-suited for it.

In the confusion and noise of the meeting, the modular system was actually voted out for a few minutes.

In the roll-call vote which followed discussion of the issue, Robert Dolmag voted to abandon it. Members of the audience pointed out he had been speaking in favor of it a few moments before.

★ ★ ★

The issue was called back and then passed 4-3. Voting against the system were Lloyd Stage, Alex Tunstal and Harold Janes.

TO RETAIN BECHARD

Dolmag also voted to retain Bechard, the principal, as did Stage, William Stewart and Richard Snoad.

Voting against him were Richards, Tunstall and Janes, newest member of the board.

The board announced a 28-step austerity program revealed before the millage election loss was being put into effect.

★ ★ ★

The junior high was placed on a shift basis, divided between morning and afternoon groups. Sports, music and art are to be dropped.

VICTORY ONLY HOPE

The only hope expressed for retaining at least some of the programs was a quick millage election victory, it was pointed out.

A committee was formed among the audience and petition-taking started as the meeting broke up.

★ ★ ★

Trustee Stage made a plea to the audience when the issues at hand were resolved: "Let's quit fighting and make our school system one Troy can be proud of," he said.

DR. REX SMITH

School Millage Supporters Will Present Views

HOLLY TOWNSHIP — Proponents of a 10-mill school ballot issue will present their point of view at three meetings coming up in the area.

★ ★ ★

The millage proposal lost in the June election by a narrow margin, but school authorities are hoping to put it across in a second attempt.

At stake is about one-fifth of the school's total money. Of the 10 mills being asked, 7 are operating renewal and 3 represent a tax increase.

The meetings are set: tomorrow, 8 p.m., Holly High School, 850 E. Sherman; Tuesday, Holly High, 8 p.m.; and July 19, 8 p.m., Davisburg Elementary.

★ ★ ★

A third election may be held, if the second fails, and under study is a plan to institute an austerity school budget in the event all elections fail.

According to school officials a group of 70 volunteers is helping with the millage election.

Lake Orion Will Get Tough With Junk Violators

LAKE ORION — The Village Council here has served notice on residents that unsightly and unhealthy junk collections will not be tolerated.

★ ★ ★

The council added two sections to the village's public nuisance ordinance stiffening the terms of the ordinance and establishing penalties for its violators.

Excessive collection of junk, scrap metal, lumber and other discarded materials on private property or village premises will be punished with a fine not to exceed $100 and a jail term not to exceed 90 days.

Complaints against persons accused of violating the ordinance will be investigated by Village Manager John F. Reineck who also serves as village health officer.

★ ★ ★

The ordinance was made effective immediately.

REPRESENTATIVE SELECTED

In other business, the council voted to appoint Village President Wallace Crane the council's representative to a Lake Orion area recreation committee.

Crane will take steps to form the committee to be composed of representatives of the Orion Township Board, the Lake Orion Youth Center, and the Orion School Board.

Formation of the committee was requested by the Pontiac Area United Fund which has approved a grant of $2,610 to the Orion Area Youth Guidance Committee to conduct a summer recreation program.

Principal in Utica Gets Directorship

UTICA — The Utica Community Schol Board has appointed Leonard Morrison, currently principal of Morgan Elementary School, to the post of director of elementary education for the distrct.

★ ★ ★

Morrison, 37, 45890 Brownell, before becoming principal of Morgan, was principal of Sterling Elementary School for seven years.

The board also appointed Bernard Matrille of 11210 Saar to a position on the board vacated by the resignation of William Porter.

★ ★ ★

Matrille, 44, is an engineer at the General Motors Technical Center in Warren.

Milford Rejects Bids to Fix Bridge

The price wasn't right as far as the Milford Village Council was concerned.

★ ★ ★

The council decided to forego immediate plans for repairing the River Street Bridge when they learned that the lowest bid for the work was still some $5,800 above village manager Joseph S. Brophy's original estimate of costs.

In January, when the council voted to accept bids for the bridge repairs, Brophy estimated the cost would be approximately $12,000.

While rejecting all bids, the council did indicate that it may prefer to completely reconstruct the bridge sometime in the future, Village Clerk Mrs. Norma Jean Melzer said.

★ ★ ★

The River Street Bridge has been closed since it was destroyed in an accident last year.

Oxford Council OKs Hearing on Rezoning for Expansion of Plant

OXFORD — The board of education has elected Robert McWilliams as president for the coming year, replacing Louis Coryell.

Roe V. Sausser was reelected secretary and Stewart Langley was again named treasurer.

★ ★ ★

The board also discussed finding another building to house the administrative offices.

Schools Supt. Roger Oberg said the high school, where the offices are now located, needs the extra two rooms which would be made available if the offices were moved.

Oxford School Board Elects New President

OXFORD — The Village Council last night authorized a public hearing on a request to rezone 8.35 acres of land in the northeast section of town from residential to industrial.

The rezoning was recommended for approval by the planning commission.

★ ★ ★

Village Manager Robert Smalley said that the township land adjoining this acreage is now zoned industrial. He said the change within the village would allow expansion of a small industrial plant now located in the township.

The area is near some abandoned gravel pits.

Found in Bloomfield Hills

Indian Skeleton Marked for Research

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The bones of an Indian found at a building site across from City Hall will be used in a study of ancient disease.

Dr. Warren L. Wittry, director of the Cranbrook Institute of Science, said he has offered the remains for study by Dr. Donald Hagge of St. Mary's Hospital, Livonia.

"Dr. Hagge has an interest in paleopathology (ancient diseases) and is writing a book on the subject," said Dr. Wittry.

The skeleton is at the institute, and the bones are marked by arthritis and absecesses, the director said.

They were found by workers for the Alden Building Co. on a site for the Kingsridge apartments.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Wittry said the bones were marked by the presence of a copper or bronze object believed buried with the dead Indian.

However, despite a renewed search the object was not found. "It would prove extremely valuable in dating the bones," Dr. Wittry said.

He would like to know if the metal was a type brought to the continent by Europeans or one that Indians made for themselves.

Copper-using Indians predated white man in this area, Dr. Wittry pointed out.

FOUR FINDINGS

About four findings of Indian remains have been made recently in the Bloomfield Hills area, he said. However, he doesn't expect many more.

"The places chosen to build homes are exactly the places the Indians preferred," he said.

For Letters to Viet GIs

Agency Apologetic

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit office of the Michigan Department of Social Services was apologetic today over certain letters to servicemen in Vietnam.

The letters — to servicemen whose families are on welfare — implied that the men might send home some of their combat pay.

Mildred Fritz, a district supervisor for the state agency, said the letters were sent as a matter of form to relatives of persons receiving state aid.

Miss Fritz said no serviceman needs to send home any money — nor does he even need to acknowledge the letter.

★ ★ ★

She said the department is studying the matter.

"Whether or not these letters should be sent to soldiers whose income is limited and who are in battle is a question in my mind," she said.

The practice was disclosed when one young soldier sent his letter home to his mother. It reportedly was the first letter he got from home since arriving in Vietnam two weeks ago.

The soldier's father was described as a wounded World War II veteran who has been in and out of hospitals since his service and unable to hold a steady job.

★ ★ ★

The form letter, received by servicemen as well as others, said, "It is important that we know about your income, obligations and contributions to this relative before we can help or continue to help your relative."

Let Her Attend These Gatherings

Lonely Woman Does No Harm

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There is an older woman in our town who is a real weird character. She lives alone on some sort of pension. (They say her husband ran off and left her years ago.) She loves to get all dressed up and go where people are.

ABBY

Well, she must think her church membership entitles her to attend all the social functions that take place in the social hall of her church, because she never misses one. The fact that she's not invited doesn't seem to bother her.

* * *

She goes to all the teas, receptions, and parties where refreshments are served, mingles with the guests, helps herself to everything, and has a very good time.

Isn't it the minister's place to tell her she should stay away? He sees her at all the gatherings and surely knows she hasn't been invited.

CHURCH MEMBER

DEAR MEMBER: If anyone is to discourage an uninvited guest, it should be the hostess. The poor woman is probably lonely. And if she causes no harm and enjoys herself, what's another glass of punch and a few cookies amid the socializing?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I've always been a big fan of yours, but now I'm a bigger fan than ever, and here's why: .

While out at Arlington race track the other day I came across a horse named GABBY ABBY, so I had a hunch and bet a bunch. The horse came in and paid over $55.

I hope you won't take offense.

CHAS. FROM ELMHURST

DEAR CHAS.: I've been told that I have "horse sense" (that's the kind one finds in a STABLE mind). And horse sense is what keeps horses from betting on people.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I would like to speak for grandmothers who feel as I do, but don't have the courage to complain:

Why do young mothers think that since we have raised our family and now have some leisure time that we have NOTHING to do — so they give us the grandchildren to raise while they go out and work to keep up with the Joneses, or to get away from the children.

Please tell them that we did OUR job — now it's time for them to do theirs.

GRANDMA W.

DEAR GRANDMA: A general "statement" won't accomplish anything. If YOU know of such a "young mother," I suggest that YOU tell her.

Senior Citizens to Meet

Pontiac Area Council of Senior Citizens will meet Friday at 2 p.m. in the Community Services Building. The speaker will be Joseph Perkowski of the Pontiac Co-Op Federal Credit Union.

Luncheon, Golf Game Marks Day for Club

A round of golf at Pontiac Country Club followed a luncheon Tuesday for the Niblick Golf Club. Hostess for the occasion was Mrs. Paul Buechler of Motorway Drive.

Some 28 members made plans for an outing Tuesday at Harsens Island. A day of golf with a luncheon at the Mid-Channel Golf Club will be featured. Mrs. Wilma Dickinson will be hostess.

* * *

Mrs. Dennis Lowes, a former member, was a guest at Tuesday's meeting. Mrs. Oscar Eckman of Largo, Fla. was also a visitor.

A guest day is slated at the Pontiac Country Club in August.

Skirt May Miss Presidential OK

LONDON (UPI) — Lynda Bird Johnson bought a mini-mini skirt and the shopkeeper who sold it worried today about what her father will say.

"I hope the President approves," said Harry Fox.

* * *

President Johnson's eldest daughter went into the Carnaby Street shop wearing a yellow dress that some fathers might consider as mini as style should allow.

Its hem reached the middle of Lynda's knees. Swinging London considers that most Victorian.

* * *

Carnaby Street which popularized the mini skirt now features items which come nowhere near the knee. According to reports from Carnaby Street, Lynda Tuesday spent 20 minutes making up her mind and then selected the shorter model.

Her yellow dress with the knee hem and her wide-brimmed hat attracted virtually no attention as she strolled down Carnaby Street amid the wild stripes and thigh-high skirts it has made famous.

* * *

She was reported delighted. "The weather is gorgeous," said Lynda.

Tuesday night she was guest of honor at a party given by her host and hostess, U.S. Ambassador and Mrs. David K. Bruce. Her frequent date, movie actor George Hamilton, was reported on location in Spain.

It was not known if she planned to meet him in Europe.

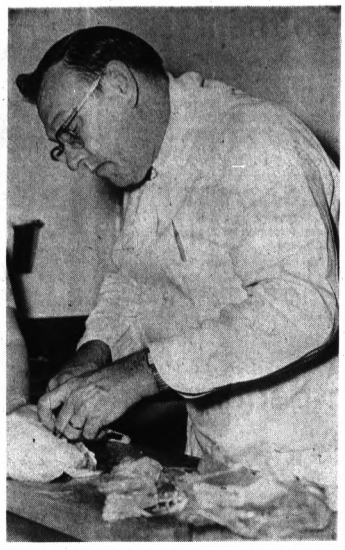
Subject: Back Yard Cooks

Students in the recently completed Gourmet Outdoor Cookery class at Oakland Community College find that sampling is part of the fun. Mrs. Leon Renner, Cooley Lake Road hunts for the proper utensil as Ray Linley of Hazel Park eats an orange wedge. They are preparing seafood and fruit kabobs. The men in the class almost outdid the women in their enthusiasm.



Amel Dunbar will teach a second and third group of students in his Gourmet Outdoor Cookery class how to bone chicken breasts. Two new classes start July 20 on OCC's Highland Lakes campus. Hours are 9:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Further information may be had by calling OCC's division of community services.

Mrs. J. A. Kratage, Wards Point Drive, waits with a pan of chicken as Steve Willis, second year food technology student at Oakland Community College, gets the grill ready. Willis assists Dunbar in conducting the course. Prospective students are advised not to eat dinner before attending the evening class, say graduates of the first course.

Adolescent Girls to Starve Selves

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) — Pre-adolescent and teen-age girls who starve themselves to dangerous levels may do so because of inner fears of growing up, being lonely, or becoming independent of their families, according to a psychiatrist and psychologist at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston.

The experts said the problem is one that may be increasing. Since 1960, they have seen about 25 cases at Children's. Known as "anorexia nervosa," the disturbance usually starts with a girl being preoccupied with her body size, contour, and a fear of fatness.

The refusal to eat any and all foods is connected with a deep-seated fear of something growing inside the body. The experts figure such fears and fantasies turn out to be a disguise for the anger and built the children experience towards people in authority over them.

Auto Agitation

Motor-touring families can convert their car into a washing machine by carrying dirty duds in a large covered container filled with soap or detergent suds. The car's motion, en route to the next campsite or motel, supplies the agitation needed for loosening soil.

Wash After Wearing

It is imperative to wash those conspicuous "new look" stockings — of all colors and textures — in soap or detergent suds after every single wearing. This keeps them bright and snug to flatter legs which are always in the limelight.

Lake Orion's Miscues Help

OU's Pioneers Snap Losing Streak

Oakland University took advantage of a generous Lake Orion defense for an 11-5 city men's baseball league win Tuesday night at Jaycee Park.

* * *

The win ended a four-game losing skid for the Pioneers (4-11) and moved them within one game of the slumping seventh-place Orion nine (5-10).

The Cardinals committed seven errors and had several other fielding lapses in handing Oakland seven unearned runs.

Dave Call's two-run double and two bases-loaded errors resulted in a six-run decisive fifth-inning for the winners. Call had three hits and three runs batted in for the tilt.

* * *

After John Kampsen's ground ball triple sparked a three-run outburst for Oakland, the Cardinals rallied for five runs on two outfield misplays by the winners and singles by Jim Stitt, Erik Eriksen and Willie Williams.

A key contest is set for 8 p.m. today at Jaycee when M.G. Collision meets defending champion Teamsters 614.

Clay After Bout in Charity Cause

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Cassius Clay wants to defend his heavyweight championship in Oakland, Calif., and give all proceeds except $100 to feed "the poor, undernourished people — white as well as black — in Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia."

The champ, dethroned by the World Boxing Association but still king in New York and possibly California, was expected to apply to the California Athletic Commission this afternoon, in person, for a license. He let his old one lapse.

State City Will Fete Golf King

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)— Walter Hagen once ruled the world of golf as Babe Ruth ruled baseball and Jack Dempsey ruled the ring.

Younger men have taken over the fairways since Hagen's reign during the 20s. But the Haig, possibly the best golfer the game has known, still is viewed by many as master of them all.

* * *

Traverse City is having a testimonial dinner for the 75-year-old Hagen the second week in August. The guest list reflects Hagen's enduring stature.

Gene Sarazen might wind up as the toastmaster. And if all goes as planned, the audience will include Arnold Palmer, Ben Hogan, Jimmy Demaret, Byron Nelson and Sam Snead.

* * *

A dozen stars from the current tour are expected. So are Johnny Revolta, Craig Wood, Al Watrous and Ralph Guldhal, contemporaries of Hagen when his name was a household word.

In all, about 350 persons are expected.

HELPED STATUS

"This whole affair is so fitting as a tribute to the man," says Eddie Karcheski, Traverse City club professional, "because in addition to winning every professional golf tournament in his time, he (Hagen) did more than any other person to elevate the game of golf to the status and respectability it now enjoys."

Hagen won the PGA title a record five times. Four of those wins were in succession, from 1924 through 1927.

* * *

"The one I enjoyed the most was the first one, in 1921," Hagen says. "But it was fun after that seeing how many more I could pile up."

Hagen, thrilled about the testimonial, describes it as a "shocking, wonderful surprise."

Fleet of 80 Set for Sailing Event

CHICAGO (AP) — A fleet of more than 80 sailing vessels leaves the Chicago Yacht Club harbor Saturday for the start of the annual 333-mils Lake Michigan crossing to Mackinac Island — the longest inland lake race in the country.

The ships leave the harbor in shifts beginning at 1 p.m. They are expected to cross the finish line at Mackinac Island sometime Tuesday.

More Equipment, Too

Need More Yanks---Viet Chief

ABOARD USS CONSTELLATION (AP) — Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu said today South Vietnam's 350,000-man regular army will have to be increased and made more efficient to press the war against the Communists.

But Thieu cautioned that any increase in the armed forces would have to be weighed against the effect on the nation's economy, the availability of equipment and the time it would take to train the new soldiers.

* * *

Because of this, he said, a substantial increase in American troops was needed as soon as possible in South Vietnam to "exploit the successes we already have." he would make no estimate of how many Americans he believed were needed.

"I believe that, with equipment and financial help from the United States, we will have more troops ready to meet any situation," said Thieu, a lieutenant general who is running for president in the national election Sept. 3.

MANPOWER LOW

U.S. sources have indicated that South Vietnam had scraped the bottom of its manpower pool and could not substantially increase its armed forces. But Thieu said, "We still have the manpower for that."

Echoing a statement made Tuesday by U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara that allied troops should be used more effectively, Thieu said "a big program to increase the efficiency of the South Vietnamese operational forces and popular forces militamen" was under way and would start to show results in about one year.

* * *

Eventually, Thieu said, there will be more Vietnamese troops to relieve the American troops from the operational and pacification task. It should and must be done."

* * *

Thieu spoke with newsmen after presenting 62 medals to pilots and other officers and enlisted men of the U.S. 7th Fleet aboard the big aircraft carrier Constellation, cruising off North Vietnam in the Gulf of Tonkin.

GIs, Red Units Battle in Jungle

VC Strikes in Force at 2 Delta Outposts

SAIGON (AP) — American troops were locked in heavy combat today with a Communist force attacking in the rainswept jungle of the Ia Drang Valley area of South Vietnam's central highlands.

As fighting erupted in the central highlands, Communist guerrillas struck in force against two Mekong Delta outposts before dawn but were chased back across the flooded paddyfields with heavy losses.

* * *

American warplanes and naval ships carried the war to North Vietnam again with air raids deep in Red territory Tuesday and ship-to-shore bombardments far up the coast. Five Red MIG21s were reported sighted. The U.S. Command said they refused battle.

U.S. headquarters said a unit of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division was fighting off Red fire from three sides according to the last report from the Ia Drang battlefield. The size of the American unit was not known in Saigon.

MOUNTAINOUS AREA

The fighting raged in a mountainous area close to the Cambodian frontier where fresh North Vietnamese regiments have been braced to drive into South Vietnam during the present rainy season for another effort to wrest the vital highlands from allied control.

The 4th Division infantrymen began running into Communist soldiers shortly after daybreak. An artillery barrage was called in on one group of 30 Reds. A few minutes later another group of about 150 Communists was brought to battle in a jungle firefight.

* * *

A short time later another unit of the 4th radioed that it was being pressed on three sides.

American reinforcements began to pour into the battle from helicopters shortly after noon.

Reports from the remote battlefield were sketchy. The site is near the Ia Drang Valley where the biggest battle of the Vietnamese war was fought two years ago with heavy losses on both sides.

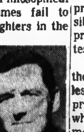
By Private Enterprise Council

Big Government Fought

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — Philosophical distinctions sometimes fail to disturb front-line fighters in the continuing war between private enterprise and what some businessmen consider to be the swollen monster of big government.



CUNNIFF

The brand-new Council for Private Enterprise, for example is headed by Edward Hood, who also heads the Shipbuilders Council of America, which represents an industry well-subsidized by big government.

The Council for Private Enterprise, whose main purpose is to "publicize the importance of private enterprise in every possible way," maintains a simple, pragmatic approach to the contest.

Its view is that the more work the government handles, the less there is for private enterprise. And so it suggests that wherever possible the government get out of retailing, engineering, dredging, employment agencies, florist shops, parking lots, restaurants and shipbuilding.

MORAL APPROACH

In this way it is unlike its cousins in the fight against big government, the largest enterprise in America today. Many other opponents of big government take a moral or legal or political approach.

First, there are those who simply dislike big budgets and deficits. This group maintains that big budgets are mostly politically inspired and that the government is acting immorally in passing on debts to future generations.

Another group consists of those who oppose government regulation on the grounds that the fewer the restrictions on business, the better it is for both buyer and seller.

And there are those also who believe that certain government services in fields such as recreation and entertainment are inherently bad, even when they offer little competition to private enterprise.

LEGITIMATE RIGHTS

The council, however, states simply that such activities are wrong because they deprive business of its legitimate rights. Private enterprise, they say, is the American way. It built the country. It is the strongest system.

Despite its great strength, however, private enterprise is hardly winning the battle with a growing government, the council feels.

* * *

"This is a problem that won't be corrected immediately, if ever," Hood said. "This little effort isn't going to solve the problem."

The little effort Hood refers to was formed by representatives of various industrial associations, many of which have lobbying as their main concern. They meet once a month, informally, in Hood's office.

Grant Awarded to OU Professor to Find Writers

An Oakland University English professor yesterday was awarded a $3,000 federal grant to discover new literary talent in the Midwest.

The grant will provide Thomas Fitzsimmons, noted for his translations of Japanese poetry and his own poetry, with funds to seek out and confer with unknown writers and students who have undiscovered literary ability.

In announcing the grant from the Office of the National Endowment for the Arts, Congressman Jack McDonald, R-19th District, said it is the first of its kind.

Fitzsimmons, 1105 Lake Angelus, Lake Angelus, will report his findings in three months to a panel in Washington, which will decide if any of the authors' works will be published.

Plotter Gets 2nd Jail Term

A Livonia man, sentenced to prison last week for attempting to conspire with his parents to kill a witness to a robbery, yesterday was sentenced to another prison term for the holdup.

Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Ziem ordered that Jules V. Sorna, 25, be sent to the state prison at Jackson for 4 to 20 years.

Last Wednesday Sorna, his father, John, and mother were sentenced by Circuit Judge Farrell E. Roberts for an attempted plot to have Mrs. Virginia Gogates of Detroit murdered.

Mrs. Gogates was the operator of a party store in Farmington Township which was robbed by Jules Sorna.

ELECTRICAL SYSTEM CHECKER—Pontiac Motor Division has announced a new method of checking the electrical system on its cars through a built-in diagnostic system called the Sercon, which stands for service connection. The procedure (right) utilizes a new analytical device that connects with the chassis wiring and allows the Pontiac mechanic to check all of the electrical systems at one time. A series of colored lights (left) on the Sercon panel shows any electrical malfunction immediately.

New Way to Check Car Electric System

Pontiac Motor Division today announced a revolutionary new method of checking the electrical system on its cars that is said to be considerably more accurate and time saving than existing electrical checks.

The new built-in diagnostic system, called Sercon, which stands for service connection, is a Pontiac exclusive, according to a Pontiac spokesman.

The procedure utilizes a new analytical device that connects with the chassis wiring so that the Sercon checks all electric systems at one time which formerly had to be inspected one at a time.

A series of colored lights on a portable instrument panel on the Sercon enable the mechanic to immediately spot any electrical malfunction in the three miles of wiring in the car.

* * *

The Sercon gives the customer a thorough electrical check and indicates if the entire electrical system coming through the diagnostic connector is working properly, according to a Pontiac spokesman.

* * *

Sercon was developed in cooperation with Pontiac's engineering department and the Sun Electric Corp. It will plug into all 1968 Pontiac, Tempest and Firebird models and adapters are available for all 1964 and later-model Pontiacs.

House Rules Unit Develops Positive Look

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Rules Committee, celebrated in the recent past for dragging its feet, has developed a positive image under new management. Some of its liberal critics like the new look even less than the old.

* * *

Many House members had anticipated the committee would go into decline with the departure of former Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., its strong-willed veteran chairman.

But Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., Smith's understudy for years and the committee's chairman since the start of the current Congress, is making it evident he didn't take the job to preside over the committee's demise.

The rules committee's traditional role has been to act on requests of legislative committees for clearance of their products for a vote in the House. Under Smith's reign, some liberal-type, big-spending bills couldn't seem to get cleared.

* * *

Getting such clearance has been less of a problem this year, possibly because nothing very controversial or liberal or new has been coming along. But something else has been added.

* * *

The rules committee, it turns out, is not just a traffic cop for other people's legislation. It has the power to crank up legislative action on its own, and this year it is doing just that.

So far it can claim credit for a bill against flag-burning passed by the House and for an antiriot bill that is just about to be passed. Under Colmer's management it may have other such feats in mind.

Take flag-burning. Early this year dozens of members, incensed when peace demonstrators put the torch to the national emblem, introduced bills to make flag desecration a federal crime.

* * *

The bills were deferred to the judiciary committee, where they mouldered.

Mississippi Is Dirty but Still Drinkable

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The tourist studied the wide, muddy oil-spotted Mississippi River at New Orleans, the product of perhaps man's greatest pollution campaign in history. Then he turned to the Orleanian.

"You drink that water?"

The Orleanian does. So does the tourist if he stays here any time. The river water — carefully treated—is used for some of the most famous coffee in the world.

The muddy Mississippi River water doesn't hurt anyone — unless it is mixed with too much bourbon or Scotch.

Louisiana Health Engineer John E. Trygg, a transplanted Iowan who learned to swim — Huckleberry Finn style — in the upper section of the river, put it this way:

"The quality of our water in New Orleans is generally pretty good. Occasionally we may have a problem of taste or odor, but that isn't often. It's pretty good water."

If the water can be used at New Orleans, it can probably be used anywhere along the 2,500-mile river.

By the time the Mississippi reaches here it has drained a third of the nation, picking up wastes from dozens of smaller rivers, including the giant Ohio and Missouri.

In Louisiana alone about 1.5 million people depend on the muddy river for their drinking water. So do millions of people upstream — including the city of St. Louis.

This is all in spite of the awesome abuse and neglect of the river by individuals, communities and industries that use it from Minnesota to the Gulf of Mexico.

Baseball Game Stalls Great Special on K

NEW YORK (AP) — A vital American interest—the All-Star baseball game—almost pushed Nikita S. Khrushchev into television exile Tuesday night as the game ran an hour overtime and threw NBC's schedule out of kilter.

* * *

The switchboard at NBC was first beseiged by telephone calls asking why the Lucy Jarvis-produced "Khrushchev in Exile" was delayed and then, when it finally went on, there were more phone calls demanding to know why Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show was not on.

* * *

NBC officials said they feared the delay had cut deeply into the number of viewers of the show, which was a magnificent portrayal of Khrushchev and which Jack Gould, television critic of the New York Times, called "an absorbing study."

* * *

There was little to criticize about the show but there was one example of American censorship being more stringent than Soviet censorship.

LANGUAGE LAUNDERED

On the Russian sound track, Khrushchev called former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "a son of a bitch," which the NBC translator rendered as "a good for nothing" for American audiences.

* * *

The film showed that Khrushchev has aged considerably since he was ousted from power in October 1964. The commentary said that he had lost 20 pounds, and this was evident from his sunken cheeks and falling jowls.

* * *

There was one interesting scene in the film, upon which there was no commentary; Mrs. Jarvis said it was because she had not recognized the man: A shot on the terrace of Khrushchev's dacha showed him with his reputed brother-in-law, Mikhail Shokholov; the Nobel Prize winner for literature. Shokholov, wearing a white Russian peasant shirt, playfully tapped Khrushchev on the arm.

Internal evidence showed that the film used was largely obtained from sources within the Khrushchev family since few others, except Soviet officials, have access to the dacha.

3 Wallendas Hurt in Crash

LEWISTOWN, Mont. (AP)—Three members of the Flying Wallendas, famed acrobatic troupe, were injured Monday in a traffic accident near Grass Range in central Montana, about 30 miles east of Lewistown.

* * *

Carlos Guzman, 21, driver of the truck-trailer unit in which the three were traveling, and Ricky Wallenda, 12, both of Sarasota, Fla., were treated at a Lewistown hospital and released.

* * *

Joseph Perraz, 21, Oakland, Calif., was held overnight in a Lewistown hospital.

Damage to equipment in the truck was estimated at $6,000. A spokesman for the troupe said its tour of Utah and other western points would be delayed about six weeks for rebuilding the equipment.

* * *

The troupe was en route to Billings, Mont.

Highway Dept. Will Offer U. P. Land at Auction

LANSING (AP)—Now you can become an Upper Peninsula landowner for only $10.

* * *

The State Highway Department will auction off 44 parcels of excess U.P. land Aug. 15 at Crystal Falls.

The smallest, a triangle containing 50 square feet and located about six miles southeast of Marquette, is valued at $10.

* * *

The biggest, 74 acres, nine miles west of Sylvania in Gogebic County, is valued at $925.

'Cleopatra' Suits Expected to Net Liz Taylor Millions

NEW YORK—Elizabeth Taylor's coming into MILLIONS of dollars in a settlement soon to be announced of the lawsuits involving Liz, 20th Century-Fox, "Cleopatra," Eddie Fisher, the divorces, the children, and other disputable points. Liz as usual appears to be the victor with a staggering amount of money coming to her, and, strangely, her ex-husband Eddie Fisher will get a chunk, too, as a partner with his ex-wife in their "Cleopatra" enterprise—although as I understand it, the very clever Liz will have arranged it that somebody else, not Liz, will be paying Eddie off.

We've got our own campaign now: Give up standing ovations on Broadway (night clubs especially). They're mostly insincere, meaningless, and leave the audience disliking the performer they stand up for.

We don't think it's important, really, but at the Monkees' great press conference at the Warwick, we wished to find out for a girl reader whether Mickey Dolenz is engaged to British model Samantha Juste. Their press agents kept turning their backs on us till we finally said "Are you always this rude?" Finally, Ward Sylvester, their M.C. and producer, said he would answer—they are not engaged and Mickey, 22 now, will not marry till he's 27.

During all this, one of the Monkees said he's never found press people so impudent. So next time you hear the British are bad-mannered, put in a word for the good old U.S.A. We're bad-mannered as anybody and proud of it, right, Chums?
