

Poll Favors Romney as GOP Presidential Choice

NEW YORK (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney came out a favorite for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination in a poll of some of the nation's governors, the Columbia Broadcasting System reported yesterday.

None of the Republican governors who replied to the poll mentioned Richard Nixon, Barry Goldwater or Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton as the most likely GOP choice.

Seven Democratic governors, however, thought Nixon was most likely.

Sixteen Republicans and 27 Democrats replied to the poll.

On the Democratic side only 16 of the 27 Democratic governors who answered said they thought Johnson-Humphrey was the most likely ticket.

Among the Republicans, nine thought Johnson-Humphrey most likely for their opponents, one thought the Democrats would nominate Sen.

Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and six wouldn't say.

4th of July

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — With fireworks, parades and patriotic speeches, the United States celebrated the 190th anniversary of independence today.

The nation's observance centered on Independence Hall where Undersecretary of State George W. Ball was the scheduled speaker.

Despite soaring temperatures — the mercury reached 104 degrees yesterday — a spokesman for the National Park Service said he expected one of the largest crowds of the year to visit Independence Hall where the Declaration of Independence was adopted July 4, 1776.

Because Ball is a spokesman for the administration and its position in Viet Nam, demonstrators, both for and against, said they would appear today.

Across the nation, Americans had their choice of a day of fun in the sun, on the beaches or in the mountains, or participation in patriotic ceremonies.

VEEP GOES MOTORING
In Minnesota, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said he would drive from his home town of Waverly in his 1931 Model A Ford to nearby Delano to appear in a July 4th parade.

At Winston-Salem, N. C., the Independence Day celebration featured Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler as speaker.

The festivities there centered in Salem, the old portion of the city.

Salem claims that its July 4th celebration in 1783 was the first official celebration in the United States.

Auto Death Toll
Climbs to 391

Multifatal Crashes
Swell Total to 127 Die in Water Accidents

By The Associated Press
A two-car crash in Arizona snuffed out 10 lives and two Arkansas accidents killed 11 other persons as the grim July 4 holiday weekend auto death toll mounted today.

The auto toll stood at 391 on the last day of the 78-hour holiday.

Boating accidents killed 15 others and 102 persons drowned.

The National Safety Council estimated that by the time the count ends at midnight (Ponatic time), between 510 and 610 persons will die in traffic. The count began 6 p.m. (Ponatic time) Friday.

Two cars collided head on 30 miles west of Tucson Sunday and all the occupants were killed. Police said all of the dead were Indians from Arizona.

ARKANSAS CRASHES
That was the worst single accident. But Arkansas police reported two separate crashes within five hours Sunday which killed 11 others.

The first, a three-car pileup near Bayville, killed six. Five hours later, a head-on crash between two cars killed five.

The Safety Council predicted yesterday that traffic deaths will continue at their present rate, it will exceed not only last year's Fourth of July, but possibly the Labor Day weekend of 1965.

The Labor Day weekend set a record for any summer holiday — 575 persons killed in traffic.

HEAT A FACTOR
The July 4, 1965 weekend saw 551 die. A four-day July 4 observance in 1963 resulted in 567 deaths.

Record heat forced millions of Americans to take to their cars in search of relief along cool beaches and in shady forests.

New York City recorded a record 101 Sunday; Harrisburg, Pa., had 107 and Allentown 106; Atlantic City, N. J., posted 104 and Windsor Locks, Conn., 102 as radiation — and temperatures — boiled.

The Safety Council said motorists would drive 9.5 billion miles during the holiday weekend.

Fishing Boat Is Hit,
1 Killed; Man Held

A Waterford Township man whose onboard cruiser allegedly ran into an anchored fishing boat on Oakland Lake and killed a Pontiac man late last night was arraigned early today on a manslaughter charge.

Harold Ions, 52, of 4489 Parrell was arrested by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies Gregory Putman and Gerald Reeves at his Oakland Lake home shortly after the accident.

Killed in the collision was Walter Balaskey, 30, of 174 Florence, who suffered head and internal injuries, deputies said. An autopsy was to be held today.

Ions demanded examination of the manslaughter charge when arraigned before West Bloomfield Township Justice Christian Powell and was ordered held at the Oakland County Jail in $1,000 bond.

Powell set a preliminary hearing for Friday.

WITHIN 50 FEET
Witnesses told deputies Ions was cruising at a "reasonable speed" in his boat until, they said, he got within 50 feet of the outboard runabout containing Balaskey, his wife, and in-laws Mr. and Mrs. Alvin West of 4675 First, Independence Township.

All four persons in the fishing boat were thrown into the water by the impact. Witnesses testified Ions sped away following the accident, apparently in his own dock across the Lake.

Mrs. Balaskey and the Wests suffered cuts and bruises.

'INTOXICATED'
Putman and Reeves said Ions was "in an intoxicated condition" when they found him at his home with the aid of witnesses who pointed out where the hit-run boat had fled.

Rain may have ruined holiday outings today, but it brought to the Pontiac area the first break in a heat wave which began 14 days ago.

The temperature registered 72 degrees when the rain came about 7:30 a.m.

For area residents, who sweltered in record-breaking 104-degree heat yesterday, it was a welcome relief. The temperatures reached the 100-degree mark at 3 p.m. yesterday, topping the predicted 97 degrees.

Saturday's temperatures reached 98 degrees, setting a record for that date. The previous high this year was 96 on June 24. Saturday's low was 69 degrees while temperatures yesterday dropped to 76 degrees.

The new comfortable temperatures came with a mass of cold air which surged across the northern Midwest today, causing (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7) drivers were killed June 19 in the President's Cup race at Washington, D.C.

Thompson's boat disintegrated moments after he crossed the starting line at more than 180 miles an hour in what for him was a third heat.

A Coast Guard helicopter swiftly dipped down and plucked the 54-year-old Detroit-er from the water. Physicians applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation as he was driven to Detroit's Receiving Hospital. It was in vain.

Gold Cup officials canceled the meet but then decided to resume the race today.

Thompson, one of speedboat racing's most popular figures, had won every major hydroplane racing crown except the Gold Cup in a racing career which extended back to 1933.

Planners Say Project
Could Have Worked

Several Pontiac planning commissioners said today that they had realized there were a few obstacles in the rezoning of a site for a $3-million apartment development, but believed these could easily have been overcome after the project had been approved.

The planning commission unanimously recommended the rezoning of 20 acres on the far East Side from single family to multiple but was overruled Tuesday by a 5-2 vote of the City Commission.

The rejection killed the plans of developer Joseph Dresser to build 266 units, 188 in the immediate future and the rest later when sewer facilities in the area are enlarged.

The property is adjacent to the Herrington Elementary School, and north of the Herrington Hills Subdivision on Featherstone near Opdyke.

The sweep in the rural areas Barrientos claimed victory as had been expected for Barrientos as return showed him to, who campaigned by plane, leading the opposition by 51,000 votes to 22,000 on foot in hundreds of the cities and by even larger margins in the rural areas.

PROMISES DEVELOPMENT
Barrientos promised economic and social development, public works and equality for all — attractive promises in a backward land in which all those elements have been denied the majority of the population.

There were reports of scattered violence including an incident in which rocks were hurled at Barrientos' motorcade took over in November 1964 as he was to take the oath of office.

He dismissed the affair as an isolated incident.

The election surprised Bolivian and foreign observers alike.

Barrientos, who takes office Aug. 6, told newsmen he will seek the best men in Bolivia for his cabinet, regardless of political affiliation.

He said he expects to retain close relations with the United States and the Western nations, and said he would not be inclined to establish ties with Communist countries because of what he termed their record of trying to subvert small nations.

The front led by Barrientos took most of the 26 Senate seats brushed aside worldwide criticism and 102 chamber of Deputies can its resumption of no-poets. ## Minister Quits City Planners Feel British Cabinet Rezoning Feasible

Wilson Still Pushing Economic Reform Plan

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson pushed his key economic reform program in parliament today despite the resignation of a cabinet member to dramatize his opposition to it.

Technology Minister Frank Cousins, 61, a former trade union leader, resigned from his $23,000-a-year post, saying he could not go along with Wilson's prices and income bill.

The bill, a vital part of the government's plan to restore the British economy by linking wages with productivity, was met with stiff resistance from union and employers who fear it would lead to a "early warning" system of giving price of wage cuts.

Cousins' abrupt resignation yesterday prompted a hurried reshuffle of the cabinet.

Wilson appointed Postmaster General Anthony Wedgwood Benn, 41, to the technology post and promoted chief government whip Edward Short, 53, to Benn's former post.

SECOND DEPARTURE
Cousins' resignation was the second dramatic departure from the Wilson government — this year.

Shortly before the March 31 general election, Navy Secretary Christopher Mayhew quit in protest against a government decision to build new carriers for the royal navy.

Since Labor returned to power in 1964, the Wilson government has sought to peg wages increases to the increase in production and thus limit wage hikes to about 3.5 percent a year.

Cousins said in his letter of resignation that he was opposed to any legislation "that could have the effect of restricting the rights of trade unions to present claims freely on behalf of their members."

City Police Searching for Rape Suspect
Pontiac police today were searching for a man who raped a young woman in her house on East Ingham in the city's west side.

The 21-year-old victim was assaulted early Saturday after being awakened by an intruder carrying a knife, according to police.

"I'll cut your throat if you make a sound," the woman quoted the man.

She told police she was left alone in her bedroom during the attack, but didn't know if he climbed down or jumped to the ground.

Police said that both the front and back doors of the house had been left unlocked.

City Commission to oppose its recommendations.

BARRETT
One barrier cited by both planning and city commissioners in the proper development of the project was the fact that no access to a major thoroughfare was provided.

"Normally, we try to get a large and egress out of a main road," said Planning Commissioner Dennis W. Laughlin, "and we made this clear to Dresher."

"The property he did obtain an option on was next to a graveyard and according to Dresher would not have made an attractive entrance to the development," said Laughlin.

The only entrance to the development was off Bay Street, and area residents, particularly those in the Herrington Hills Subdivision objected on the basis that increased traffic would create a safety hazard for children.

Petitions protesting the development were received by the planning commission at the meeting they recommended the rezoning.

"But at the time there was no way to know how many of the names were valid," said Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., also a member of the planning commission.

Taylor first recommended the rezoning as a member of the planning commission, and later switched his vote at the City Commission meeting.

"I don't believe the city has been arbitrary with developers," he said.

He said he voted for the rezoning because Bay Street is to be improved and that sewers are to be installed.

Another planning commissioner, Howard F. Simmons, said, "I felt that the situation warranted a yes answer when we voted on the rezoning."

San Antonio, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson was described as pleased today by a July 4 statement expressing official West German support for American goals in Viet Nam.

The message came from West German president Heinrich Lübke. Sources said it indicated that not all U.S. allies in Western Europe share British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's public disassociation from Johnson's decision to bomb North Viet Nam oil storage facilities near Hanoi and Haiphong.

Lübke did not mention the bombings, however. He simply said: "May the struggle in which your country as the champion of freedom against

The pilots saw an orange fireball rise from the reventilators that house the missiles and reported heavy damage to the control radar van.

While the Air Force jets edged close to the North Vietnamese capital yesterday, Navy fighters from the 7th Fleet carrier Constellation sent up clouds of smoke and dust as they pounded the Do Son fuel depot 12 miles southeast of Haiphong for the second time in five days.

TANK FARM
Last Wednesday U.S. planes hit the tank farm while also hitting a fuel complex three miles from Hanoi and unloading and storage facilities two miles from Haiphong.

In all, U.S. pilots flew a near record 83 missions against the Communist north, although an American spokesman emphasized that the number of planes involved was not a record.

He said Air Force F-4C Phantoms and B-57 Canberra bombers damaged or destroyed all 20 trucks in a convoy southeast of Dong Hoi in the Panhandle and nine vehicles in another 20-truck convoy south of the city.

The U. S. jets returned to North Viet Nam's industrial belt while Red China warned it considered itself freed from "boundaries or restrictions" on aiding the North Vietnamese as a result of the American raids near Hanoi and Haiphong last week.

'GRAVEYARD STAGE'
The Peking statement said the attacks had brought the war to "a new and still graver stage" but did not specify what if any new aid the Chinese would provide.

Guan-ben B53s gave the Communists a July Fourth salute in South Viet Nam by saturating for the second successive day a Viet Cong concentration near Da Nang and another along the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon.

Ground fighting in South Viet Nam continued in small patrol actions today after several flareups over the weekend.

The largest of these was an engagement between about 200 men of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division and an entrenched Communist force estimated at two companies, about 350 men.

SPECIAL FORCES CAMP
The action took place seven miles south of the Duc Co Special Forces camp in the central highlands and five miles from the Cambodian frontier.

As the bandits left the store, one of them struck the store's assistant manager Jim Beeler with a karate punch, police said.

Beeler suffered injuries to his nose and "old police he was dazed by the blow. The two gunmen had entered the store shortly after it opened, herded customers to the rear of the building and forced Beeler to open the safe.

The President and Mrs. Johnson attended religious services Sunday at the tiny St. Michael's church in Blanco, 25 miles southeast of the ranch. Johnson drove his own car and from the church.

ASKS PRAYERS
The lay vicar, Edwin A. Thayer, asked the congregation to pray for Luci Johnson, who observed her 19th birthday Saturday.

Luci and her fiancé, Pat Nugent, attended services at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church in Fredericksburg, 15 miles east of the ranch. They will be married Aug. 6 in Washington.

Birmingham Area News School Board to Eye $11.97-Million Budget

BIRMINGHAM — An $11.97-million operating budget for 1966-67 will be considered at the 8 p.m. meeting of the board of education tomorrow.

The proposed budget is up $1,491,957 from the present budget of $10,480,043.

District property tax levies will be 31.7 mills for Bloomfield and West Bloomfield townships and 32.1 mills in Birmingham, Troy, Bloomfield Hills, Southfield and Southfield Township.

The levy includes $18.50 of $1,000 of state equalized valuation for extra-voted operating funds, $5 per $1,000 for debt retirement and the allocated millage, 8.2 or 8.5 mills.

Contracts with teachers, custodians, bus drivers and other school employees — still being negotiated — are expected to increase anticipated expenditures.

ESTIMATE RECEIPTS
Total receipts are estimated at $11,954,000 with the difference between this figure and expenditures being made up from a general fund balance of $1 million.

Property tax receipts of $7,952,000, added to state school aid funds of $3,394,000 and the county special education tax of $90,000, are the most significant amounts making up total anticipated income.

Tentative expenditures include $8,166,138 for instruction; $383,435 for administration; $1,317,579 for plant operation; $433,000 for maintenance; $311,330 for transportation; $161,404 for fixed charges; and $135,909 for capital outlay.

Salaries for teachers, custodians, bus drivers, and other school employees — still being negotiated — are expected to increase anticipated expenditures.

Yesterday was the hottest day of the year in most of Michigan. Pontiac came close to setting the record for the state, topped only by Jackson, which registered 106 degrees. There was an unofficial reading of 106 at New Buffalo.

The Auto Club of Michigan's four observation planes reported batters were elbow to elbow on almost every Michigan beach.

Those who didn't go to the beach tried to find relief any way they could, in back yard swimming pools, under sprinklers or out riding in cars, hoping to catch even a little breeze.

According to the averages, Michigan is supposed to have only 10 days of 90-degree temperatures a year. The average was broken by high wind currents being blocked in the Ontario and Great Lakes area, the U.S. Weather Bureau in Lansing.

Temperatures tomorrow are expected to be in the 80s, but skies will clear and the sun will have a clear shot at the thermometer again.

Try to Avert Unrest as Purge Continues

URGENT police meetings were called throughout Yugoslavia to explain the move to the rank and file.

Yugoslav leaders were expected to give a full account of the dramatic session of the Central Committee at Brioni last Friday when President Tito charged that a power-seeking element in the secret police was endangering both state and party.

CHIEF AIDE OUSTED
The climax came when the committee ousted Tito's chief aide, Alexander Rankovic, from his official post in the party and ordered him to resign as vice president.

Sources said the crackdown on police officials coincided with the ouster of Rankovic, who dominated the police for two decades.

school employees are not included in the budget as contract negotiations are incomplete.

Cost per pupil is estimated at $709. The Oakland County average for 1964-65 was $439.94.

A summary of the budget was previously circulated and a public hearing was held June 21 on the proposed budget.

The climax came when the committee ousted Tito's chief aide, Alexander Rankovic, from his official post in the party and ordered him to resign as vice president.

Sources said the crackdown on police officials coincided with the ouster of Rankovic, who dominated the police for two decades.

There has been no disclosure of the number of officers involved, but sources said it could be large because of Rankovic's big following.

The forms of discipline involved in the purge are said to include outright ouster from police or party transfers to lower-ranking positions and official party reprimands.

'NO WITCH HUNT'
The weekly publication Svet said today that "some high functionaries of the state security did not want to collaborate" with a commission set up by the Central Committee to investigate the police.

Tito, in his speech to the committee Friday, said the purge of the police was not intended to spread fear or to spread to lower-ranking positions and official party reprimands.

Throughout the party, he said he was not asking for a witch hunt, but a watchfulness insuring that the party's highest decisions are implemented.

The Yugoslav press today voiced strong support for the Central Committee's action and called for unity.

Svet said: "The League of Communists and the whole country must in this moment be united and mobilize against those forces that would want to slow the development of our country and march backward."

The Belgrade daily Borba said the party and "our entire people" were "removing another major obstacle — breaking up an attempt of Stalinist, reactionary, caste-like, police-bureaucratic, backward forces to slow down our pace."

Marina Has Son in Texas Hospital

RICHARDSON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter, 26, whose first husband assassinated President Kennedy, gave birth yesterday to a 7-pound, 12-ounce boy.

The child, Mark Wayne, was the first for her and Kenneth Lee Porter, a former electronics technician. They were married June 1, 1965. Mrs. Porter has two other children, born of her marriage to Lee Harvey Oswald, June Lee, 4, and Marina Rachel, 3.

The child was born in Richardson General Hospital in Richardson, a Dallas suburb.

Legislators Benefit Each Other on Bills

By DICK BARNES
LANSING (AP)—Log-rolling, vote-trading, call it what you like, the practice of passing bills for an individual's political benefit is an ancient legislative practice.

In Congress, it happens regularly with passage of the public works bill, a collection of port development projects which usually just happen to be in the districts of favored legislators.

The Michigan Legislature's prime example this year was the lengthy and heated quarrel climaxed by passage last week of bills including a state park at Grand Mere and an access road for a mining company in Ontonagon County.

Democrat hope that granting $500,000 for the Berrien County park will help the reelection chances of Rep. Floyd Matthews, D-Benton Harbor, a freshman from a normally Republican district.

Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, wanted the road for the White Pine Copper, a major employer in his district. The Senate told the House it would have to take Mack's road in order to get approval for the sole reason for its passage.

Matheson's park. The House finally agreed. The value of projects involved in the practice of passing bills for an individual's political benefit is in the case of the park and the road.

Even where everyone agrees the project is worthwhile, behind it is usually a desire by the legislative majority to help its man win an election or keep projects which usually just happen to be in the districts of favored legislators.

The Legislature passed other bills this year which, regardless of how desirable they may or may not be, were partly designed to provide a campaign talking point for their authors. Sen. Jan. Vanderploeg, D-North Muskegon, has a tough race to be won approval for the so-called "blueberry bill," exempting certain bushes, shrubs and trees from property tax. He has a lot of growers in his district who will appreciate it.

Sen. Roger Johnson, D-Marshall, got his colleagues to okay a property tax exemption bill for farm equipment. He's from a normally Republican agricultural district. Politics, of course, is the name of the game—no don't think that the merits of a bill are always the sole reason for its passage.

Shelf Region Potential Eyed

Evaluation Conducted on Economic Picture

By Science Service
WASHINGTON—The tremendous economic potential of the continental shelf regions—a vast undersea area of nearly a million square miles—has been evaluated for the Environmental Science Services Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Pleasure boating in the shelf region will be a billion-dollar activity by 1975, with 14 million persons participating, it is predicted in a report prepared for ESSA by Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus, Ohio.

Expected growth in salt water sport fishing during the next decade would bring the number of participants to 18 million and expenditures to $1.3 billion.

The study showed that economic activity in the regions of the continental shelf totaled an estimated $21.4 billion in 1964, the latest year for which figures are available.

Natural resources, such as oil, gas and fish, taken from these areas amounted to about $1.2 billion.

REMAINDER
The remainder was made up of income, investments and expenditures associated with the services, missions and activities of private and governmental groups.

The study was undertaken in order to assess the current economic value and future growth potential of activities on the continental shelf, and to evaluate today's and future needs of these activities for products and services provided by ESSA.

This agency was created by merging the Weather Bureau, the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Central Radio Propagation Laboratory of the National Bureau of Standards.

ESSA will be one year old July 13, a birthday celebration that will be marked by commissioning the country's largest, most modern ship for oceanographic research, the Oceanographer.

Many ESSA offices in the 50 states will be open July 13, so that the public can see how weather forecasts are made, how earthquakes are recorded, how the size and shape of the earth are measured, and how are predicted.

Incentive Moves Prisoner to Action

CINCINNATI, Ohio—A prisoner in the Hamilton County Jail feels that the state is depriving him of his four cents an hour.

James E. Hall, 29, was brought here May 17 from Ohio State Penitentiary where he was serving a term for malicious destruction of property. He is to face charges of passing bad checks.

But Hall has written Gov. James E. Rhodes saying he wants his bad check trial speeded up so he can get back to the penitentiary, where prisoners are paid four cents an hour.

North America Nearly Monopolizes Food Exports

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP) — The Agriculture Department has come up with this significant analysis of the world food situation:

"North America today has a near monopoly on the world's exportable supplies of food. The worldwide implications of this fact ought not to be lost."

It has been generally recognized that the United States and Canada have been major sources of food exports, but it is doubtful few had measured and analyzed the situation to come up with the recognition that these two countries hold close to a monopoly on world export supplies.

Certainly, this fact supports the arguments of many that these two countries are not making the most of their dominant food supply situation in behalf of world social, political and economic stability.

Those who make this claim say the United States is putting too much dependence on military might and not enough on its food power.

SHOWN BOLDLY

The North American position is shown boldly by the prospects that, in 1966, it is expected to export 60 million tons of grains, mostly wheat and other food grains out of 70 million tons likely to move in world trade.

By comparison, North America exported only 5 million tons out of 25 million tons moved in the 1924-38 period. By 1960, the North American share was 20 million tons out of 45 million sold in foreign trade.

The department calculates that North America could export consistently 100 million tons annually if the world market were large enough. It says:

"Three basic factors underlie the dramatic changes in the pattern of world grain trade. The agricultural revolution in North America, the runaway population growth rates in the developing countries, and the near failure of the socialist countries to develop viable agricultural sectors."

E. EUROPE FAILURE

Most significant changes — changes that spell failure — have taken place in the grain trade situations of Eastern Europe, including the Soviet Union, and Asia. In 1955-56, for example, Eastern Europe exported an annual average of 5 million tons of grains. This year it will import 14 million.

Similarly, Asia, which exported an annual average of 2 million tons in the 1924-38 period will import 30 million tons this year.

Latin American exports will be 2 million tons compared with 9 million in the earlier period; Africa will import 3 million tons compared with the export of one million tons, and Oceania — mainly Australia — will export 8 million tons compared with 3 million formerly.

In reviewing the world situation, the department says Latin America, plagued by runaway rates of population growth, has lost its large net export surplus of grain and is scarcely self-sufficient.

The report makes the significant point that the Soviet Union, the major world political rival of the United States, changed from a ranking exporter in the late 1950s and early 1960s and became a large net importer in 1964. Since then it has been the world's leading importer of wheat.

More than anything else, this change in the Communist position with regard to food has reflected the failure of its agricultural policies to encourage greater production.

Perhaps, some observers say, this country has not made enough of the contrast between Communist and North American production in its efforts to influence other countries toward democracy.

$16-Million Increase in Military Contract

ST. LOUISE, Mo. (AP) — The U.S. Army Aviation Materiel Command has increased by more than $16 million an aircraft-engine contract with AVCO of Stratford, Conn.

The modified contract, for UH1 helicopter engines, now provides for 459 engines at a cost of $22,107,483.

PHOTOGRAPHERS' PARADISE—Despite hot temperatures, amateur photographers turned out by the dozens recently to picture the loading of antique circus parade wagons at Baraboo, Wis. The World Museum's antique wagons were to be main attractions in today's parade at Milwaukee.

Little Changed Below Surface

Bali an Island in a Different World

DEN PASAR, Bali (AP) — slacks and shoes, but in the countryside, women still pad on Indonesia's 3,000 islands, but it is a world by itself. Its volcanic rise from the sea and disappear in perpetual mists at their tops.

Little has changed beneath the surface in Bali for centuries. The cities, of course, have cars and the people wear dress-

Women still prefer not to cover their breasts, despite continuing but halfhearted — efforts by the Bali government.

On the slopes of Gunung Agung, the sacred and still smoking volcano that killed thousands when it exploded in 1963, the farmers have gone back to their houses. Their homes are rebuilt along slopes that have been centuries covered with ash and lava from the frequent eruptions.

OFFERINGS

Balinese men and women, both wearing sarongs, gathered in the temple courtyards to prepare offerings for the gods. Rice and fish are wrapped in leaves and tied artistically with strips of palm. Flowers are woven into patterns and palm leaves are twisted into delicate designs, all for the gods.

Bali is truly the island of the gods. Temples rise throughout its lush, jungle or rice-covered mountains. They are ancient, yet new, for the temples are a continuing culture to the Balinese.

Bali has not let its temples fall into disrepair or made them into museums. If some ancient stone carving breaks or looks unsightly, they remove it and put in another.

Temple life is carried into the homes itself. Each courtyard, sealed off from the outside by a high mud wall, is divided into three sections, like the temples. One for the cows and pigs, another for the family, and the third for temple offerings and prayers.

RELIGION A MIXTURE

Unlike the faith of most of the rest of Indonesia, the Balinese religion is not Moslem but a mixture of Hinduism, Animism and Balinese culture. For the Balinese, the spirits and the

The outward serenity of Bali belies the people's fierce independence. The Dutch colonized the Indonesian islands in the 18th century, but did not establish a foothold in Bali until 1914, and only after heavy battles.

After the attempted coup by the Communist party last Oct. 1, Bali's Communists were hunted down and killed by the thousands, perhaps as many as 10,000 in less than two months.

The agricultural revolution in

Disease Tied to Shortage of Chemicals

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — The tremors and rigid muscles of Parkinson's disease may be due to a shortage of two chemicals in the brain, a Canadian doctor reported here.

One of the chemicals serotonin — had previously been linked with a variety of nervous and mental disorders, but only by circumstantial evidence (its presence or absence in a diseased subject).

Dopamine, the other chemical, was known to be lacking in Parkinson's disease victims, but again there was no direct evidence of a connection.

Experiments by Dr. T. L. Sourkes of McGill University, Montreal, reported at a medical symposium of the American Chemical Society, may have provided the "missing link."

INCISIONS

Incisions made in nerve pathways in the brains of 40 monkeys produced a deficiency of dopamine accompanied by permanent tremors of the limbs resembling Parkinson's disease, Dr. Sourkes explained.

Incisions were made in the substantia nigra, a nerve relay center of the midbrain. In these cases, a decrease in dopamine but not in serotonin was noted, along with a decrease in limb movement.

Another set of incisions in a nerve pathway linked to spinal nerves produced uncontrolled tremors in monkey limbs and a decrease in serotonin, while the dopamine level remained the same.

A combination of the two operations produced a loss in both chemicals, accompanied by Parkinsonian tremors.

Junior Editors Quiz on BOWLING

QUESTION: What is the best way to bowl?

ANSWER: In the grave of an Egyptian child who died in 5200 B. C., a British Egyptologist, Sir Flinders Petrie, found implements for playing a game very much like bowling.

Various forms of bowling became popular in European countries during the Middle Ages. The English bowled in the 1100's and the game became popular in Germany about 1300. Martin Luther set the number of pins in the game at nine.

The Dutch brought the game (skittles to them) to New Amsterdam (N.Y. City) in the 1600's.

It spread to New England and there was much gambling on the game. The Connecticut legislature banned "bowling at nine pins" to get around this law, a 10th pin was added.

Our illustration shows the approved position of the ball during the four steps most bowlers take before they start the ball across the "foul line" on its way toward the pins.

Marge has knocked down all the pins in the bottom picture, making a "strike."

FOR YOU TO DO: We forgot to explain what a "turkey" is, so you can tell your friends. A turkey is a strike repeated three consecutive times.

Graduate Schools Adding New Degree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some- thing new has been added to the world of graduate education — an intermediate degree between the master's and doctor of philosophy.

Yale University was the first to announce the new degree early in May. Yale calls it a master of philosophy degree, or M. Phil. for short.

The University of Michigan soon followed. It will award a similar recognition for those who have gone beyond the requirements of a master's degree, but have not completed the formal dissertation required for a Ph.D.

Michigan calls it a candidate certificate, meaning it is awarded to candidates for Ph.D. later this to candidate degree.

HIGHEST DEGREE

The Ph.D. is the highest degree a university graduate school can award. It carries with it the cachet of putting man- "Dr." before the name.

It takes a minimum of three years to win a Ph.D. in any field, and often four or five years — or longer — including the all-important dissertation, or lengthy research paper.

Yale's M. Phil. degree will take two years of study, and will become effective for students entering graduate school in the fall of 1965.

Michigan is a member of the Big Ten of Midwest universities, and the deans of graduate schools of the other Big Ten members already have approved in principle the idea of an intermediate degree.

A similar doctor of arts degree was proposed by a special committee at the University of California at Berkeley, which spent 10 months studying the problems of student unrest there.

But it has met opposition at Berkeley by faculty members who say it would undercut the value of a Ph.D.

At Yale, Graduate Dean John Perry Miller said "for over a decade there have been demands that our leading graduate schools establish a new degree which represents substantially greater achievement than the typical master of arts or master of science degree, but which places less emphasis upon research than the Ph.D."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinkage) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthesia or strappings of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dynex®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dynex is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in proprietary or over-the-counter form called Prohemorrhoid HZ. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Evolving Democracy Requires Participation of All Citizens

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In keeping with our policy of running guest editorials from time to time, our Independence Day message has been written by Don O. Tatroe, Superintendent of Waterford Township Schools.)

By DON O. TATROE

of our fellow Americans are dying in Viet Nam to guarantee our safety and another nation's right to self-determination.

As an evolving democracy we continue to face problems. Yet it is the essence of our way of life which permits all of us to share in maintaining our freedom. Along with the freedoms to speak and worship is the responsibility to participate, to give the gift of self to improve one's city or town or neighborhood, to help a friend or neighbor in need, to help select those who will lead us.

If the American dream of an informed and participating citizenry comes true, it will be because each one of us has done what he could where he was.

In other words, American tourists leave more dollars around the world than nationals from other countries leave with us.

The U.S. Travel Service, a branch of the Commerce Department, has been performing yeoman service in promoting travel in America by foreigners. Without its efforts, there is no telling how much wider would be the spending gap between outgoing and incoming tourists.

For Americans the time-honored recruiting "Join the Marines and See the World" has lost meaning. Most of our countrymen by now have seen more of the world than the Marines.

SEERGEANT: Unless you have one with you, sir, it would be illegal as well as unethical to discuss the bank holdup with you. Such uncommunicative custodial interrogation could be interpreted as an effort to induce you to incriminate yourself. This, of course, would mar our public image.

So the character leaves with his right of silence, his freedom of action—and his little black bag full of loot.

Each and every American is entitled to his rights, of course, as the Supreme Court says.

Presumably, this includes the public, law enforcers, and even the victims of crime and violence.

Permitted increased cheese imports while cutting back on purchases of dairy products for the school lunch program.

Cut back on purchases of pork and butter by the armed services.

IOWA TALK

It was against this background of Republican efforts that Johnson talked about farming at Des Moines, Iowa, last week and declared that net income and purchasing power of farmers has risen sharply since the Democrats took office in 1961.

"A successful farm policy unparalleled in the world," he said of the Democratic farm programs.

"There are people," he went on, "who want you to forget that cattle are bringing $1.30 more a hundredweight than they were six years ago, that hogs are up $6.90 per hundredweight, that corn is up 12 cents a bushel, grain sorghum 25 cents a hundredweight, soybeans 90 cents a bushel and milk 56 cents a hundredweight."

Des Moines, as a farm capital, was a natural choice for such a speech.

Beyond that, five of the six Democrats in Iowa's House delegation are freshmen elected to Congress for the first time in the 1964 Democratic sweep.

All five overturned Republicans. The GOP comeback drive in aimed particularly at recapturing such seats.

Capital Letter:

Draft Inequity Needs Correction

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON — In the early days of our republic, a young man of means could hire a substitute for himself in the armed services.

As wars became bigger and more horrible, this "aristocracy of wealth" was outlawed, but Montgomery today's Selective Service has degenerated into an "aristocracy of brains" as well as money.

Those who can afford college and can maintain a B average are passed over by their draft boards.

The House Armed Services Committee launched a review of the Selective Service System Wednesday, in investigative congressional charges of discrimination against the poor and uneducated.

This is long overdue, but it would be well for legislators also to look into the fact that since those with below-normal mental capacities also are deferred status, the burden of defending their country falls unfairly on young men who are neither particularly brilliant nor particularly dull.

Such a system inevitably incites bitterness and breeds class consciousness.

In a modern army we need truck drivers, file clerks, computer operators, typists, cooks, janitors, nurses and linguists as much as front-line soldiers.

It seems ridiculous, therefore, to pass over such groups as college students, low-IQ manual laborers, people with minor physical defects, conscientious objectors—and women.

Certainly something should be done, and speedily, to correct today's inequities.

IN MODERN ARMY

In a modern army we need truck drivers, file clerks, computer operators, typists, cooks, janitors, nurses and linguists as much as front-line soldiers.

It seems ridiculous, therefore, to pass over such groups as college students, low-IQ manual laborers, people with minor physical defects, conscientious objectors—and women.

Certainly something should be done, and speedily, to correct today's inequities.

Congressman William E. Minshall, who recently conducted an opinion poll of his suburban Cleveland, Ohio, district, discloses that the vote was four-to-one for stronger military action against the Viet Cong, but 70 per cent believed that draft regulations are in need of revision.

OVERAGE STUDENTS

By playing no favorites in Selective Service, our overcrowded college campuses would automatically rid themselves of the overage students who continue to shift from one major to another until they pass beyond draft age, and those who sign up for the snap courses in order to maintain a B average.

Women who clamor for equality would get it, and those who earnestly seek an education might profit from a year or two away from home, between high school and college.

Who knows? A little less monism might even eliminate the beatnik demonstrators who, enjoying their first fling without parental supervision, think that exposure to a college campus has automatically given them all the answers to today's problems. Under such a system, the inequalities of Selective Service would virtually disappear.

the army. Teng Hsiao-ping the party, and Chou En-lai the government.

But perhaps bringing down the reportedly ambitious Peng would require also disgracing Liu, Mao's closest collaborator.

WOULD HURT PARTY

To do this would inevitably weaken the whole party structure and make a mockery of the propaganda about the invincibility of "Mao Tse-tung's thinking."

Possibly what the purge architects are trying to do is persuade Peng Chue to denounce himself and take the blame for China's painful reverses in internal and foreign policies.

Liu Piao's Army liberation Daily said recently that the struggle now going on inside China "is a protracted and tortuous one which, in time, can even be very violent."

That may be a key. The time is not yet ripe for the "very violent" phase.

Progress has a way of solving old problems. Nobody ever did explain satisfactorily why a chicken crosses the road, but in these days of six-lane super-highways the chicken doesn't even know there's another side.

Coin Hoarders!

The Daily Oklahoman

Apparently there isn't any way to get half-dollar coins back in circulation.

Not even the reduction of the half-dollar's silver content by 40 per cent is deterring the hoarders. The mint only last month put several million of the new 40 per cent silver John F. Kennedy half-dollars into circulation. First reports suggest that they are following the earlier 80 per cent silver half-dollars into hoarding. The mint produced 450 million of these earlier half-dollars before dwindling silver supplies

Voice of the People:

Our Heritage of the 4th Remembered Proudly

Americans, wake up before it is too late. We have always been a strong country with firm belief in freedom, free from Communist rule, proud of our freedom and proud of being Americans.

Surely, if we don't straighten out some of the messes that exist and get back on the right track, we are heading straight into Communist hands. Our youth must be taught higher moral standards and respect for others. The crazy music, seductive dances, trashy movies should all be stopped. These things are decaying their minds and making them weak, spineless, lazy, irresponsible individuals. Adults are to blame for allowing such things.

A definite undermining of the country has already begun, like a cancer eating away at us. Remember what this 4th of July stands for and how terrible it would be without our freedom.

AN AMERICAN AND PROUD OF IT

'Just Wondering' Need Wontler No More

Why should "Just Wondering" expect people to put up with their neighbors' kids and dogs running all over their nicely kept lawns and say nothing?

I say those people who have kids running all over should be in a large subdivision by themselves.

HOW ABOUT THAT

If "Just Wondering" really wants to know why some people seem to hate their neighbors' children and pets, come and stay at my home for as long as you like. I'm sure you'll be shown no more respect than I am. You've probably never had to go out and work to pay for their damages, like we do.

If you can find that neighborhood for us grouchies, I'll be glad to let you have my home at a real bargain.

A TIRED GROUCH

In reply to the letter signed "Just Wondering" I have a small question: Are you the parents of the children who pick flowers or the owners of the dogs that run loose and water our shrubs or the cats that eat the eggs out of our birds' nests?

As for us respecting your children, there is no such thing as instant respect. Children must earn that, and before I can respect them they must learn to respect things that are not theirs.

I would enjoy a grouch's neighborhood where children are children and adults still have the upper hand.

GROUCHY

Finds Thought-Provoking Ideas in VOP

VOP for Monday, June 27, carried two provocative statements: HWP believes atheists to be, probably, "the most religious." Possibly so, because there is no such thing as a true atheist. There are many who claim to be atheist, but pin them down and they will concede to some good (God) in the hearts of men.

Thief in the Night avers, "In spiritual unity they will love each other, not for themselves but for the sake of the Creator." This is a debatable love. To love for his Creator's favor, is to love with hope of reward.

True love is a sacrificial love, with no hope of reward, harbors no barriers; is humble, tolerant, understanding, color blind, forgiving, unselfishly expending itself without hope of acknowledgment or appreciation or some special spot in Heaven.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

forced a change in the system of coinage.

Apparently popular fondness for the assassinated president has something to do with the persistent hoarding. Maybe the mint will have to return to the more utilitarian Ben Franklin half-dollar in order to get a coin that will stay in circulation.

But of course much of the hoarding is based almost certainly on the expectation that silver eventually will increase in price.

late President Ngo Dinh Diem and now an exile in France, is making quiet efforts to get his name back into the political picture. The emperor's mother, who lives in Hue, has been holding discrete conversations with Buddhist leaders, students and members of the old Vietnamese nobility. The purpose of the talks is to suggest Bao Dai as one possible leader for a unified national Vietnamese Government.

Midwest Is Prime Campaign Target

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON (AP) — By picking the Midwest for his first out-and-out 1966 campaigning, President Johnson tacitly agreed with Republican strategists who figure the farm country is prime battleground in this year's congressional election.

Republicans, talking of picking up 50 to 60 House seats in November, have been assuming that about one-fourth of these would be gained in the Midwest.

New Analysis

And campaign literature coming out of the Republican Congressional Committee, which has the job of trying to elect House members, has been slugging away at administration farm policies.

The GOP argument runs that the Johnson administration, concerned over inflation, has used its powers to depress farm prices rather than attacking inflation by other means as cutting government spending.

Among the specific charges are that the administration

• Dumped surplus stocks of corn on the market to depress the market price.

• Restricted exports of cattle hides to hold down the domestic price.</

'Good for Research'

Pigs Said Amazingly Similar to People

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What's of radiation biology in the good for a piglet is plenty good School of Veterinary Medicine enough for your child.

In a recent Scientific American article Bustad discussed "Pigs in the Laboratory."

Because of their anatomical and physiological similarity to human beings, pigs are better research animals in many respects than "those laboratory favorites, the rat and the dog."

"The pig's alimentary tract and metabolism is so similar to man's," Bustad said, "that it has yielded a wealth of information bearing on human nutritional problems."

It has, in fact, provided "a standard for the feeding of infants and young children."

"It has been found," Bustad reported, "that a young pig has more stringent food requirements than a human baby. Consequently one can be sure that a diet that provides healthy growth in a piglet will be adequate for a baby."

Bustad is director of the radio biology laboratory and professor "Like man, the pig has comparatively little hair on its body. It has a tendency to be sedentary and fat. It develops stomach ulcers and cardiovascular diseases resembling man's."

So why hasn't science made more use of the pig as a laboratory animal? It was too big, for one thing. Some pigs get to weigh close to half a ton.

But in the past decade several laboratories have succeeded in breeding miniature pigs (10 to 200 pounds), little larger than a man, and there is some expectation of getting them down to around 60 pounds.

So now the pig at last has "come into its own in biological research."

It has contributed greatly to man's understanding of radiation effects (because of its similarity to man) and has taught science a lot about diet, dental problems, ulcers, digestive difficulties, glandular functions, and diseases of the heart and arteries.

At times in comparing pigs with man, Bustad appeared to be blessing the pig most as a "servant complementing the pigs, as when of science." Its heart and circulatory system, its diet, its all-things to its thought, neat and clean if given the chance, dignified in courtship and conjugal duty.

PHOTO TRANSFORMED — Bullfight action changes a tiny area of a 35 mm photo into a graphic design like a pen-and-ink drawing. When the original negative was greatly enlarged on extreme contrast film — not paper — the grain of the film became part of the design. The positive film was printed again on contrast film to make a negative. It made this illustration in "Croy's Creative Photography."

Designs Created in Pictures

By IRVING DESFOR

Photography gives us an opportunity to distinguish between seeing and perceiving.

Whatever appears in the viewfinder at any time can be seen. But only when something is perceived should the shutter be released.

And for a really worthwhile picture, what we perceive should have significance in addition.

This is an introductory thought of Prof. O. R. Croy, Austrian photographic educator, editor and author, in his latest book, "Croy's Creative Photography."

Originally published in Germany, an English edition was printed by Focal Press, London, with American distribution by Amphibio Books, N. Y. ($10).

SOMETHING SPECIAL

Most of the photographs which we see daily are routine shots. To gain attention — and hold it — they need "something special."

Prof. Croy has become a European authority in pioneering various techniques to consciously create unusual designs in photographs.

He usually starts with the negative of a scene, person or object which has been photographed.

He believes the original scene in front of the camera is like a blank canvas to an artist, something to be worked on as a foundation but transformed by various photographic methods.

REARRANGES SUBJECT

He searches out minute details, makes big enlargements, crops drastically, and rearranges the subject matter.

Pictures are copied and re-copied on extreme contrast film, reversed, turned into positive and negative.

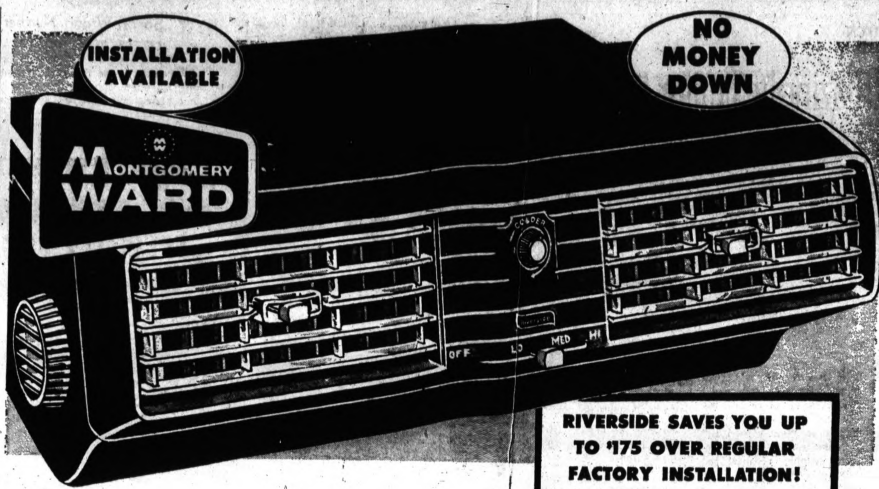

Some films are solarized, others have tints, screens or design-producing materials (like muslin) added.

The picture which finally emerges is an eye-catching photo design which may bear little resemblance to the photograph from which it started.

Bride Reflects British Grace

By MADELEINE DOEREN
"Ballet, brass rubbings and auction sales are big with young people in my country," said the former Patricia Jones, bride of Tod Culpán Williams, of Bloomfield Village.

The couple arrived in New York on Wednesday after their recent marriage in the Holy Trinity Church, Hildersham, England. They will spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Jamison Williams. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander Jones of Cambridge.

"Everyone is so very friendly here and the country with its lawns, trees and flowers is very beautiful and such a change from a congested area which was my home," said the young bride.

MET AT DANCE

"Tod and I met at a Poppy Day dance in Cambridge and found a mutual interest in brass rubbings in old courtyards and cemeteries.

"Brass plates etched in the likeness of the deceased mark the location of remains just as markers are used in America," she continued.

The brass plates are worn by the current popularity of brass rubbings as permission for sanding or smoothing them is obtained the day before they are worked on, Mrs. Williams explained.

You kneel on little cushions while working over the designs using cobble's wax. It takes an hour or two to finish the figure of a man.

Framed and hanging in the Williams' living room is a brass rubbing of the Rev. Prelate Umphrey Tyndall, fourth dean of Ely Church, and former master of Queen's College in Cambridge.

This was Tricia's Christmas gift to her future husband's parents.

Tricia studied ballet in England and hopes to continue with it here and later in New York when she and her husband will be in the east. He plans to attend Princeton University for his final year of graduate study.

"Perhaps I can join a ballet group and work professionally as a dancer," she said. She enjoys swimming and her pets are two miniature poodles.

On a motor trip into Detroit with her mother-in-law, Tricia found the urban renewal program very interesting, making way, as it does for high-rise apartments and office buildings.

"I am enjoying being able to take fresh fruit from the refrigerator. In England, we use chocolate for snacks and of course tea is served between each meal and before bedtime."

She is a little and about leaving her parents as she is an only child. "It would be wonderful if Tod would return to Cambridge some day for further study. I like his doctorate in architecture."

Holding a brass rubbing of Sir Roger de Trumpington dated in 1286, is Mrs. Tod Williams who with her husband arrived to spend the summer with his parents Mr.

and Mrs. R. Jamison Williams of Bloomfield Village. The pair spoke recent vows in England.

How Did You Rate on Flag Quiz?

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Whether or not you tested your knowledge by looking for the incorrect statements in yesterday's quiz, today's answers will help you to display your flag properly on the 4th of July.

1. The statement that the flag is flown every day from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. is incorrect. It is flown from sunrise to sunset, whatever these hours may be. It is not generally flown in inclement weather, unless a special occasion requires it. It is perfectly correct to display the flag at night as part of a patriotic celebration.

2. It is wrong to use a flag as part of a costume. A person may use red, white and blue stripes to simulate a flag, but not the flag itself. It should never be used as a tablecloth, or in any situation where objects might be placed on it. The flag may be flown in church. Many churches display the flag and many include a salute to the flag in the service.

3. In flying the American flag along with other flags there are certain rules. In a row in a parade, the American flag is on the marcher's right if there are two flags, or in the center if there are several. If two flags are flown from crossed staffs, our flag hangs to the spectator's left, with its staff in front of that of the other flag. International usage decrees that flags of different nations fly at the same height.

4. A flag to be flown at half-staff is raised to the peak first and then lowered to the proper position. A flag should be raised briskly and lowered slowly and solemnly, being sure that it is caught before it touches the ground.

Detroit Symphony Opens Second Week of Festival

Detroit Symphony Orchestra performances will open Meadow Brook Festival's second week at Oakland University.

Sixteen Ehrlich will conduct with the noted contralto Maureen Forrester as soloist. Concerts are slated for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

On the Thursday-Friday program Miss Forrester will be heard in the Mahler "Songs of a Wayfarer" and Ravel's "Trois Poemes de Mallarme," the poignant songs dedicated to Stravinsky, Florent Schmitt and Erik Satie respectively.

ORCHESTRAL SELECTIONS
Orchestral portion of the program will include the Richard Strauss Tone Poem "Macbeth," and Stravinsky's suite from the ballet "Petrouchka."

Saturday and Sunday Miss Forrester will sing Gluck's "O del Mio Dolce Ardore" from "Paris and Helen" and "Che Faro Senza Euridice" from "Orfeo ed Euridice," Verdi's "Stride la Vampa" from "Il Trovatore" and "O Don Fatale" from "Don Carlos."

Ehrlich also has programmed the overture to Gluck's "Iphigenia in Aulis," Mendelssohn's Symphony No. 3 ("Scottish") in A minor, the Prelude to Act I, "Lohengrin," by Wagner and de Falla's dances from "The Three-Cornered Hat."

Canadian born, Miss Forrester is known internationally as one of the most talented lieder singers now performing and for her particular affinity for the orchestral music of Gustav Mahler. Married to conductor-violinist Eugene Kash, she appears occasionally with her husband but devotes most of her time to touring the world with appearances in concert and recital in every major music center.

Tickets for performances are available at OU's Festival Office and area Grinnell stores.

Ask Your Lawyer

False Ring to Insistence

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Neither my husband nor I wears a wedding ring. He insists that I wear mine all the time, although he hasn't worn his for two years. At the same time he is holding my diamond engagement ring for "security" reasons, as he claims it is his property in case we separate.

Is that true? Legally, I mean? I haven't seen that ring in nearly three months now. I would appreciate your opinion.

SICK MARRIAGE
DEAR SICK: If you want to know whose property the diamond ring is, ring up a lawyer. The important issue here is not whose is whose, but what is what.

DEAR ABBY: We four girls work in an office with five men. One of them (the boss) insists on shaving every morning with an electric shaver as he sits at his desk which faces all of us. We find this disgusting and crude. He says there is nothing wrong with it. What is your opinion of this practice?

DECORUM FORUM
DEAR FORUM: I think it's crude, too. But he's the boss, so it would be rather difficult to short circuit his connections.

DEAR ABBY: The lady I babysit for owes me for 44 times at 35 cents an hour. I usually sit for seven hours at a time.

I keep sitting for her because the lady in the apartment below her has me watch her kids, too. (They are older, and all I have to do is look in on them every hour.)

Keren Curry has received her bachelor of music degree from MacPhail College of Music, Minneapolis, Minn. She is the daughter of the C. I. Currys of School House Drive.

The downstairs lady pays me everytime, but the upstairs lady keeps putting me off. Whenever I mention to her how much she owes me she says she is in a big hurry, and then she runs out the door.

I am getting the idea that she isn't ever going to pay me. Can you tell me how to get my money, Abby? I need it.

GYPPED
DEAR GYPPED: The next time the lady asks you to babysit, tell her how much she owes you and ask her for a little down on a big bill. Then tell her that unless she pays you something, you will not sit for her again. (And stand firm!)

DEAR ABBY: Last April I entertained a group of women in my home for lunch and bridge. I am from out of state and knew none of these women. The group was set up by a woman who arranges such "clubs" as newcomers can get acquainted. The women, however, immediately after that luncheon I missed a small glass container which held toothpicks. No great value, moneywise, but it belonged to my dear mother, who is now deceased. It meant so much to me, Abby. I've never had anything like this happen before and am praying that the person who took it will mail it back to me. It would take away the hurt and disappointment. Thank you.

Talking Cools His Ardor

Conversation Saves You

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE 2-446: Molly Q., aged 17, asks a very vital sex question.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I am still frightened by my narrow escape last night. For I had attended a dance with a girl friend. Mine was a blind date. He was a college man and good looking."

"But when we were to go home, he took me in his car, all by myself."

"Despite my protests, he drove to a Lover's Lane and parked. Then he tried to get fresh."

"And when I refused, he tore half my clothes off. Just then a police car drove up or I don't know what might have happened."

"For the police also found a revolver in his car, so he might even have killed me."

"Dr. Crane, if a girl gets into such a dangerous situation, what can she do to avoid assault?"

"Girls, if you wish to calm a passionate male and cool his threatening ardor, then make him cerebral."

MAKE HIM TALK
This means, prod him with questions so he will be forced into conversation, for the mere act of talking is a brain function."

Shoot questions at your escort, for if you can get him answering them, you are saved."

A man cannot "emote" and or indulge in original thinking.

And by "original thinking" I don't refer solely to creative invention or musical composing, etc.

But ad lib conversation is original, not memorized.

A man can remain passionate and recite, parrot fashion, memorized verses.

But he cannot engage in spontaneous repartee (conversation) without having his emotions subside.

So quiz him about his family and his mother, plus his brothers and sisters.

Subsequently, the male will realize that he dare not let you keep on talking, and thus he will try to impress your lips in a prolonged kiss.

AVOID KISS
Just turn your head sideways so he can't close your mouth and keep right on talking!

He may irritably exclaim, "Shut up!"

But that very remark indicates he is waning in his original passion and resents the fact that you are cooling his ardor by making him reply.

Meanwhile be liberal with honest compliments and don't antagonize him by making insulting remarks, but KEEP HIM TALKING.

Even in marriage, the chat-box type of wife is not likely to have many children. Why?

Because she diverts her husband's attention from erotic matters via her bedtime conversation!

For neither a husband nor a sexual attacker can maintain his erotic fervor and keep up with dialogue!

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents and read about other cases where this strategy worked.

Kathryn Joan Goode, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Norman J. Goode Jr. of Beverly Hills and Dr. Edward Bradley, son of the James H. Bradleys of Spokane Drive were wed Saturday in the First Baptist Church of Royal Oak.

MRS. J. EDWARD BRADLEY

In Baptist Rite

Kathryn Goodelsa Bride

Kathryn Joan Goode became the bride of J. Edward Bradley, Saturday, in the First Baptist Church of Royal Oak. Reception followed in the Kingsley Inn ballroom.

Dr. and Mrs. Norman J. Goode Jr. of Beverly Hills and the James H. Bradleys of Spokane Drive are the newlyweds' parents.

PEARL BEADING
Pearl beading accented the bride's Biachi gown of white silk peau de soie with chapel train falling from deep Watteau folds. A matching pillbox held her tiered veil of imported illusion.

Priscilla Haapa of Pleasant Ridge was honor maid. Bridesmaids were Christine Kahramani of Rock Island, Ill., Jacques Cochran, and Elizabeth Green of Franklin.

With best man, Thomas J. Steiner, were ushers David Cavill, Franklin, Gary Falkenstein and Edward McLean.

Susan and Richard Hutterlocher of Clarkston were flower girl and ring-bearer at the afternoon rite performed by Dr. Idris W. Jones.

After a northern honeymoon the couple will reside in East Lansing where both attend Michigan State University.

New Ailment

NEW YORK (UPI) — Add to new ailments: credit-carditis. It happened to an attorney who diagnosed the trouble and dreamed up a name, says a report in the "New England Journal of Medicine."

For several years the attorney sought relief from an aching pain over the left hip. The pain radiated down the leg.

Many treatments were tried, without success. The patient's wallet, thick with credit cards, was removed for a time from his left hip pocket. The pain was relieved. It came back when the patient put the fat wallet into the pocket again.

Why Grow Old?

JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

There are very few women, if any, who are not affected by their appearance. Most are greatly influenced by the way they look. Fortunately we don't have to be beautiful in order to be happy but we DO respond, in a dramatic way, to feeling that we are at our best.

I am giving you a peep into my mail. This is an interesting letter.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: I am a constant reader of your column and I and my friends agree that your advice concerning the struggle to avoid growing old is excellent. (Thanks)

A BOOST

"In my profession of custom dress design I have seen the effects that a perfectly made suit or dress can have on my customers, most of whom are mature chronologically. They radiate an inner glow of satisfaction and preen themselves in the realization that they look good."

Instantly their posture improves, their eyes light up and momentarily they are younger and brighter, if even in spirit.

"You can almost feel their desire to continue to enhance this aura of well-being — a new coliffure to set off the garment, a new color lipstick, something new, which in reality is the basis of thinking young."

"When I think of the great feeling of accomplishment, which being a part of these changes in women, has brought me, I am glad that I selected the profession I did."

It is true that physical self-improvement or physical neglect, and usually do, snowball. If a woman becomes careless in one way she is likely to slide in another. If she is so overweight that she is self-conscious about it she will probably take less interest in her clothes and hair-do and grooming."

If she becomes really discouraged about her appearance and decides that it is hopeless, she gives up. This affects her posture and her personality. It is even possible that it will affect her interest in her health.

Self-improvement "snowballs." If you have allowed yourself to become trapped in the rut of neglect, begin with one determination and follow through. You will find that other determinations and interests will follow quickly.

You just have to take that FIRST step. Nobody else can take it for you.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Essential Daily Routine" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Plastic Cutlery

Here's a little housekeeping tip to save you time and effort: use plastic spoons for soft-boiled eggs, and plastic forks for omelets or scrambled eggs.

Will eggs tarnish silver, plastic doesn't tarnish under any circumstances. It takes only a minute to "shine" plastic: wash it in soap or detergent suds, rinse, and wipe dry. This silverware substitute is suggested just for eggs.

College Students Ask Why? For What?

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
"They feel a void at the center of things."

"They question the values of traditional religion with its moral rigidities. They question humanism, the traditional alternative to religion. They question rationality. They question our machine culture and its impersonality. They question science and civil authority."

Finally, they question the stability of the inner self. So there is left an image of life as a what? They want to develop the meaningless whirlpool with undeveloped nations, but develop it at the center into which develop them for what? So they'll everything is eventually sucked down."

Speaking in Stanford University's Professor Philip H. Rhineclander, who heads the joint group of students and faculty members organized to resolve conflicts between students and the university administration.

I think he has nailed it down. For yesterday a young eastern university student said to me, "You growups want to make everybody equal, but equal for what? You want to develop the meaningless whirlpool with undeveloped nations, but develop it at the center into which develop them for what? So they'll buy as many electric washers as the developed nations do?"

You want to beat the Russians to the moon but get there first for what? You want to purify the air and rivers, abolish disease but for what? You want to make our sex experiences meaningful to us but meaningful for what? You see "FOR WHAT?" is the question.

So the human beef will be so prophetically healthy, so sexually satisfied, so happy to weigh the same weight as every other human beef that he can be more easily computerized into your civilization machine?"

These days, the young are talking as the poets have been talking for the past 20 years, says Professor Rhineclander. And so they are.

It's not so long ago that T. S. Eliot asked:

"Have they deceived us? Or deceived themselves, the quiet-voiced elders? Bequeathing us merely a receipt for decay?"

Their wisdom only the knowledge of dead secrets. Useless in the darkness into which they peered. Or from which they turned their eyes..."

As Professor Rhineclander says, "The cause of this youthful unrest lies not in our universities but in our society itself."

Many does not live by bread alone nor by three-car garages nor equal rights nor "economic opportunity," pure air nor even "meaningful sex experience." And soon we will have to reckon with millions of the young who know it.

Holiday Weekend Brides Appear

VANLOVEN-SUTTON

A reception in the Oakland County Sportsmen's Club followed the marriage of Judith Ann Sutton to James C. VanLoven, South Shirley Street, Saturday, in the First Methodist Church.

PRINCESS GOWN

The Woodrow C. Suttons of Myra Street are parents of the bride who chose a princess-line gown of white silk organza over taffeta, with Venise lace applique.

Completing her ensemble for the rite performed by Rev. Clyde E. Smith, were an illusion veil and bouquet of white orchids, roses, ivy and Stephanotis.

Mrs. James Light of St. Clair was her cousin's honor matron with Sally Nimier, bridesmaid.

Frank VanLoven was his brother's best man. They are the sons of Mrs. Dorothy VanLoven, North Johnson Avenue, and George VanLoven of Pontiac.

Robert and John Sutton, assisted by James Miller and Kenneth Cauley, seated the guests.

HILL-TONG

Vows were taken by Linda Sue Tong and Roger A. Hill Saturday, in the First Baptist Church.

Their parents are the Frank A. Tong, Auburn Avenue, and the Gerald R. Hills of St. Clair Street also in Avon Township.

FRENCH LACE PANEL

A panel of French lace highlighted the bride's Empire gown of white silk styled with overskirt and chapel train. Her veil was silk illusion and she carried white carnations and yellow roses.

Mrs. Ronald Herr was honor matron with bridesmaids, Judy McHane, Susan Hill and Mrs. Michael Miller.

Ronald Herr was best man at the rite performed by Rev. Robert Shelton. Seating guests were the bridegroom's brothers Jerry, Robert and Dennis Hill, with Larry Tong.

DeHUT-SLATE

After their wedding and reception Saturday in the First Congregational Church of Rochester, the Everett Joseph DeHuts (Nancy Louise Slate) left for a northern honeymoon.

Their parents, all of Rochester, are the Louis T. Slates and the Irving DeHuts.

LACE TIERS

Tiers of Chantilly lace fashioned a detachable train for the bride's gown of white organza and lace, her veil of imported illusion fell from a lace crown. She carried white roses and Stephanotis.

Lynn J. Houghton was maid of honor at the evening rite performed by Rev. Robert Jacobson. With Ann Slate, her sister's bridesmaid, were Sally Stanton and Sandra Bailey.

Best man was Dave Doerr with ushers, James Clave, David Lehman and Kenneth Martin.

ARTHURTON-DANCEY

In the Porcupine Mountain area for their honeymoon are the Lyn Wesley Arthurtons (Charlotte Ann Dancey) after Saturday vows in the Auburn Heights United Presbyterian Church.

Her parents, the Elmer L. Danceys of Nichols Drive, Pontiac Township, hosted a home reception following the ceremony performed by Rev. F. William Palmer.

LACE APPLIQUES

Pink roses accented a bouquet of white carnations for the bride who chose lace-appliqued white nylon organza over taffeta, styled with court train.

Deborah Devereaux of San Diego, Calif., was honor attendant, with bridesmaids Cynthia Hebel and Linda Arthurton.

Allen and Craig Arthurton were best man and usher for their brother. Their parents are the Arnold V. Arthurtons of Brookfield Court, Shelby Township. Frederick Uttings also served as an usher.

Tiny Mother Hauls 15 Tons on Daily Runs

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Folks who picture truck drivers as rough, tough weatherers of heavy equipment just haven't met Linda Cottrill.

Mrs. Cottrill, 24, is a truck driver. But she's a petite and pretty 80 pounds.

HAUL SAND

She and her husband, Daniel, both drive trucks — huge tandem axle dump types—for Mrs. Cottrill's mother, Mrs. Maria Fisher. They haul sand from a gravel company near Navarre, south of here, to a concrete block manufacturing company in Massillon.

Mrs. Cottrill makes 10 or more round trips a day and is a frequent sight on the U.S. 21 freeway.

She started driving the big dump and semitrailer rigs two years ago and her only break from daily driving came for the birth of her daughter, Shelly, early in 1965.

FIFTEEN GEARS

Her type of driving is even more complicated than that of over-the-road rigs. Her truck has 15 forward gears, for instance, to use in hauling its 15-ton load. It takes all 15 to get moving again after a stop for a traffic light — and her route has nine signals.

Mrs. Cottrill, who is 5 feet 3 inches tall, sees nothing unusual about her job, although it does provide a different nursery for her daughter.

It's Bulky, Colorful

Try Baking Self Some Jewelry

By TIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Make it yourself — big, bulky Mexican jewelry. Put it in the oven, as simple as baking a cake. You'll have it in time to add a bit of dash and color to warm weather clothes.

The clay is made by mixing a pound of baking soda and a cup of corn starch in a sauce pan.

Add a cup and a quarter of water, mix again.

Bring to a boil over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture reaches a dough-like consistency, or about 4 minutes.

Transfer it to a plate. Cover it with a damp cloth, and let it cool. (To speed up cooling, stick it in the refrigerator for a few minutes) then knead it a little as you would dough, and begin fashioning the stuff.

FOR BEADS

For these handsome Mexican beads, mold into shapes and insert beads on a large size, straightened out paper clip, one clip for every three or four beads. The clips tunnel the holes for threading and make it easier to paint and shellac the beads.

Place the beads on a wire rack in a warm (350 degrees) oven that has been turned off. After a half hour, the beads, should be dry and hard and ready for the wildest colors you can conjure up with your water color paints.

One or two coats of shellac after coloring gives them a glossy, professional finish. Slip off the paper clips and thread beads using a darning needle and double strand of dental floss or good stout thread.

BRACELETS

Bracelets are a cinch to make. Roll the clay out into a long cylinder, flatten and pinch the two ends together. Dip your fingers in water to smooth out the connection. Follow the same drying, painting and shellacking procedure.

When designing pins and earrings be sure the backside is smooth and flat so that a pin and earring backer may be glued on firmly. Those necessary parts may be located in variety stores.

Once you've made a few pieces you'll want to go on. Make some for gifts, or sell them to make money for a sorority or club.

As in anything else you are doing for the first time, follow directions.

Sally A. Hilderley Weds

An evening ceremony and reception Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church marked the vows of Sally Ann Hilderley and Almon J.C. Phillip Wayne Mudge.

After a northern honeymoon the couple will go on to Shaw AFB in South Carolina.

Their parents are the William S. Hilderleys of Joy Road, Pontiac Township, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mudge of Seminole Avenue.

COURT TRAIN

Alecon lace applique enhanced the bride's gown and court train of Dresden, white peau de soie worn with bouffant illusion veil held by a petal headpiece.

She held white carnations, ivy, and Carol Aming roses for the rite performed by Rev. Richard Reynolds.

Mrs. Robert Coleman was her sister's matron of honor, with Sharon Harsch as bridesmaid.

With Gerald Mudge, his brother's best man, were the ushers Robert Coleman, Jack Wright, Wesley Williams and Gary Mellon.

Scrub Off Dead Cells

Scrubbing face and body with a well-soaped cloth, brush, or loofah is more than a social necessity to keep clean and presentable. It also helps nature get rid of billions of dead cells that make up the outer layer of skin — commonly referred to as the "complexion."

Busy cells far below the surface are renewing and multiplying at the same rate that used up top layers are being scrubbed or washed off with soap and water.

New Towel Trick

Stark lines and smooth surfaces — with no curliness to catch and hold spots — are being favored by homemakers choosing electric cookware such as coffee makers, toasters, and fry pans. This makes it easy to keep them gleaming by the three-wise method. First, wipe with a sudsy cloth; second, wipe with a cloth wrung out of clean water; and third, wipe the surface dry.

Courage Is Hallmark of Negro American

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.
Executive Director
National Urban League

If the march through Mississippi did nothing else, it brought to national attention the shocking fact that in 1966 in some sections of the most enlightened democracy in the world, it takes a tremendous amount of courage to believe in freedom and equality for all.

Strength of character and determination to bring justice to the oppressed dominated the marchers from the start.

In the face of violence and intimidation, they walked through the state with a message of equality and justice for the Negroes who were being denied both.

They seemed to have taken their text from Isaiah: "They helped every one his neighbor, and everyone said to his brother, 'Be of good courage.'"

And courage is the trait which, perhaps more than any other, is the hallmark of the Negro American.

It is the trait which has been cultivated throughout his 300 years of slavery and oppression.

It is the trait which enables him to stand up for his rights in the face of discrimination and prejudice today.

A poet has written: "Courage is to feel the daily daggers of relentless steel."

And keep on living.

That is the kind of courage the Negro has been familiar with. It is present in the South, in the same region of Mississippi where the Klan's terror reigns.

The people in these areas live with the knowledge that at any moment, even if they have done nothing which anyone can object to, they might be set upon by night riders out to kill.

Shortly after James Meredith was attacked on a Mississippi highway, a Negro farmer was killed by two men out to "make an example" of someone, any one — as long as he was Negro.

It takes courage too, to live in the abject poverty of the city slum or the rural farm.

One of the men whom the Mississippi marchers persuaded to register showed them his pay stub — two dollars for a long day of backbreaking stoop labor.

EKE OUT LIVING

It takes courage and faith and hope for this man, and hundreds of thousands like him, to eke out a subsistent living and raise his family and try to give his children a start in life.

Courage is the byword too, of the countless men who look for work in industry and can't get it because their color has prevented them from getting the needed skills. Or the many men who have been locked into menial jobs because of past discriminatory practices and cannot now get the jobs they might have in today's freer job market.

They must bear life with courage and hope their children will have a better future.

The Negro women and mothers know what courage is too. Millions of them have had to work in other people's homes or offices to help pay the rent and buy the groceries because males have traditionally had a harder time getting work. And they have raised their children and kept their own hopes up after this labor.

MONUMENT IN DELHI — The Qutb Minar Monument in India dates from about 1200. The tilting structure was constructed about the same time as the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

India's Own Leaning Tower Draws Thousands of Tourists

NEW DELHI (AP) — India has its Leaning Tower—Qutb Minar Monument.

Qutb Minar — It's pronounced koo'-b mee-nahr — doesn't tilt as much from perpendicular as the Leaning Tower of Pisa, but it does have a definite list.

Thousands of tourists — both Indian and foreign — come to see the 238-foot monument, a nearby "good luck" iron pillar, other surrounding ancient structures and the lovely gardens.

Little has been recorded about the monument's tilt, but it is now in the southwestern out-skirts of New Delhi.

The tower was completed by the Kutub-ud-din, one of Ghori's favorite slaves, who became sultan of Delhi on Ghori's death.

Qutb is the spelling now used, although it originally was Kutb.

SUPERSTITION
The prevailing superstition is that anyone who can back up to the pillar and lock his arms around it shall have good luck in the years ahead.

The pillar, according to Indian scientists, is 99.75 per cent pure iron. Yet, for some reason, though exposed to the elements, it never rusts.

It bears an inscription credited to the 4th Century.

Qutb Minar is 59 feet taller than the Tower in Pisa and is approximately the same age. Pisa's tower was built in 1174, while Qutb Minar dates from about the year 1200.

"TOWER OF VICTORY"

It was started by Muhammad Ghori, a Moslem conqueror who invaded India in 1192.

The tower was completed by the Kutub-ud-din, one of Ghori's favorite slaves, who became sultan of Delhi on Ghori's death.

Qutb is the spelling now used, although it originally was Kutb.

Law Moves In to Safeguard Water Animals

By Science Service
WASHINGTON — The law is closing in to protect all those frogs, oysters, crabs and lobsters pulled illegally from ponds, bays and oceans.

Even that tough ugly alligator will be helped before he disappears forever from the world, victim of greedy people who desire his sturdy mottled hide for purses and shoes.

These and other wildlife creatures may be given greater protection by a request sent today by the Department of the Interior. This would extend enforcement of already existing criminal statutes covering offenses against wildlife to halt poachers from transporting any wild animal, killed or captured, in violation of state, Federal or foreign law.

2nd Kiwi Hatched at Australian Zoo

SYDNEY — A second kiwi has been hatched at Taronga Park Zoo, Sydney.

Keepers saw it for the first time when it emerged from a burrow with the parent birds and the chick hatched earlier this year.

The chicks are the first kiwis hatched in captivity outside New Zealand.

The zoo's honorary director, Sir Edward Hallstrom, said that the hatchlings would arouse great interest among zoologists. He thinks there may be another egg in the burrow ready for hatching.

States Passed Laws to Aid National Beautification Drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The preservation of natural beauty along roadways was a leading concern of state legislatures meeting this year.

An Associated Press survey showed today that recent legislative sessions responded to the urging of the federal government in trying to make the roadside more attractive.

New Mexico lawmakers put rigid controls on the location and maintenance of signboards and junkyards along federally aided interstate and primary highways.

Lawmakers in Rhode Island enacted a bill to control outdoor advertising adjacent to those types of highways.

MORATORIUM

The Colorado Legislature placed a moratorium on billboard construction on major highways until July 1, 1967. In the interim it will study federal standards.

Missouri authorized its highway department to beautify federally aided roads. Vermont decided to control junk yards along interstate and primary road networks.

These measures are in line with federal legislation approved last year, which appropriates money for states for landscaping surroundings, constructing rest areas and acquiring scenic easements. The federal statute also envisions the uprooting of certain billboards and the removal or screening of junkyards that are close to highways.

A few states took steps to prohibit the less viable qualities of survey. It did find many noteworthy new laws.

Maryland's Assembly regulated pistol sales for the first time.

GUN CONTROLS

New Jersey adopted gun controls. They require all prospective gun buyers to go to local police stations for fingerprinting and identification cards. They empower police to deny permits to ex-convicts, narcotics addicts, subversives and persons with mental illness or certain physical handicaps.

Sparingly settled Alaska authorized the distribution of birth-control information by a government agency. Georgia decided to let the state provide birth control information to anyone who asks for it.

Virginia and New Jersey

joined the great majority-states with sales taxes, which brought in 26 per cent of the total state tax revenues last year. Such states now number 42.

New Jersey's 3 per cent sales tax was effective July 1. Virginia's 2 per cent tax will go into effect Sept. 1. It will rise to 3 per cent in 1968.

STATE LOTTERY

The New York Legislature

decided to place on the November ballot a proposed constitutional amendment authorizing a state lottery. The proceeds would be earmarked for education.

Alaska's legislators refused to approve a state lottery.

Among other bills enacted were these:

POLLUTION CONTROL

Colorado enacted air and water pollution control legislation. Vermont set up an air pollution control program. New Jersey's legislators empowered the state to fix standards for antipollution devices on auto-miles to jibe with federal regulations applying to 1968 auto-

This even year of 1966 is regarded as an off year because less than half of the legislatives are in session. The odd years—such as 1967—are the all years go periods of lawmaking and all but a few of the state assemblies will be in session.

While there was little in the way of patterns disclosed by the one who asks for it.

ALL ABOARD, TOURISTS—The S. D. Cannonball gets a trout spin on the streets of Saugatuck, prior to taking its place among the tourist attractions. The toy-like vehicle will carry passengers on a tour of the waterfront and business section.

New Choo Choo Debut Due

SAUGATUCK — At the rate it's going, Saugatuck just may become the hub of casual transportation in southwestern Michigan.

And its going rate is very slow, indeed.

Last year the old Chain Ferry began its endless clanking trips across the Kalamazoo River Channel, carrying tourists from the village to the Oval Beach side of the river.

Earlier, the Island Queen, a modern version of the old paddlewheelers, under the genial command of Dick Hoffman, inaugurated leisurely trips on Kalamazoo Lake and up the river, traveling at a speed slightly faster than the current.

This weekend, the S. D. Cannonball was fired up for the first time to carry sightseers on a 10-mile-an-hour jaunt along the waterfront through the business area.

The Cannonball looks like a rubber-tired Toonerville Trolley pulled by a farm tractor that aspired to be a steam engine.

Setting up the new transportation empire in the heart of Michigan's resort land are three out-of-towners.

Andrew Peters of Peters Auto Parts at Okemos, Tom Kelly, a graduate student at Western Michigan University, and Henry Niles, an artist who lives in Niles, are the owners, operators and originators of the S. D. Cannonball. The initials signify the twin communities of Saugatuck and Douglas.

GARAGE-BUILT

The colorful carrier was designed by Niles and constructed by all three men at the Peters garage near Kalamazoo.

It was started early this spring. The frame and wheels of a 1960 one-ton truck were used for the trailer which has room for about 40 passengers. The seats came from the River Queen when replacements were installed in that craft.

The exterior of the trailer is brightly painted plywood, with the trim suggesting an old-fashioned railroad observation car. Also like an observation car, passengers mount the Cannonball on a back platform, deposit their 25 cents and find a seat forward in the car.

Locomotive power is supplied by a four-wheeled farm tractor restyled to look like a pull-toy steam engine. Painted in bright red and yellow, it has a canopy over the engineer's seat, a disguised 10-gallon gasoline can as a smokestack and a sheet-metal cover that suggests a boiler.

The converted furnace ducts hold the forward lights. A shiny brass ship's bell clangs merrily when the engineer pulls a cord.

Moderation Needed Under Sun's Rays

Photosensitivity is just a long word to some people.

To others, it is a nightmare because even a slight exposure to the sun's rays will give them an itching skin eruption or a severe sunburn.

All such persons are made worse by taking BRANDSTADT such as modern drugs as sulfa, including those used to treat diabetes; certain antibiotics — griseofulvin, given for ringworm, and the tetracyclines; nalidixic acid, a urinary antiseptic; and sedatives of the phenothiazine group.

The same effect, but to a lesser degree, may be caused by barbiturates, salicylates, estrogens, gold salts, quinine and procaine.

Even such products as eau de cologne and perfumes may cause an exaggerated sunburn if they contain bergamot or citron oils.

(a vitamin deficiency disease), they frequently aggravate the trouble.

The best sunscreen preparations to apply locally are those that contain red veterinary petrolatum (RVP) or para-aminobenzoic acid (PABA).

The antihistamines used for allergic types of hypersensitivity are of no value and salves that contain antihistamines should be avoided by light-sensitive persons because

On the bright side, it has been found that some diseases are benefited by exposure to sunlight.

These include psoriasis, some forms of allergic dermatitis on hives, acne, pityriasis and skin tuberculosis.

For most of us, however, the watchword where sunlight is concerned should be moderation.

QUEENSIZED LITTER—Princess Adrian, a most prolific collie in Brockton, Mass., guards her latest litter of 17. All the pups are tucked away neatly in an adapted shoe bag. An experienced mother, who raised 11 pups in her first litter and 12 in her second, she is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hooke of Brockton. Dog experts say the average collie litter is six to nine.

'Systematic Unlearning,' Psychoanalysis Conflict

NEW YORK (UPI)—Advances in "systematic desensitization" have proved a boon to psychological scientists who dislike Freudian psychoanalysis as a means of abolishing embedded quirks of the mind.

The quirks manifest themselves in phobias, such as unreasonable fear of heights, fear of crowds, or insomnia.

Much success in treating these phobias has been claimed for "systematic desensitization" over the past eight years.

But scientists experimentally applying it to others among a wide assortment of common mind-quirks had until now reported no outstanding results.

Drs. James H. Geer and Edward S. Kaskin raised a perhaps remote threat to the sleeping pill industry — if it is assumed that insomnia may prefer a fairly simple psychological treatment to habitually knocking themselves out with chemical sledgehammers.

COULDN'T SLEEP

They reported to the American Psychological Association that "systematic desensitization" had worked beautifully in a 29-year-old nurse who lost the ability to sleep nights after she gave the birth to her boyfriend.

TB, Alcoholism Found Related Among Inmates

By Science Service
TORONTO, Canada — Another reason for not committing alcoholics to jail is that large numbers of them have tuberculosis and could infect other prisoners.

Alcoholism itself is an illness that should not be punished by jailing, authorities say.

More than 40 per cent of alcoholic inmates of the Don Jail, Toronto, Canada, were found to have positive tuberculin tests as compared with 33.3 per cent of 50 offenders tested, the Toronto investigators reported in the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

Of 227 chronic drunkenness offenders studied, 20 gave a history of active TB.

Reports from other centers show that tuberculosis and alcoholism frequently coexist, particularly among the homeless men of skid row.

LOW STANDARD

The low standard of living associated with poor nutrition probably lowers resistance to infection.

Drs. Jack S. Olin and Stefan Grzybowski, who reported the study, suggested a special treatment center and an outpatient clinic where both diseases can be treated.

Railroad Collecting
Tickets Automatically

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Central Railroad has introduced an automatic ticket-collection system.

The system involves use of magnetically coded tickets which the line's 35,000 commuters insert into gate slots. It was designed by Litton Industries.

It required only six weeks, and it was lasting, they said.

Psychoanalysis would have theorized that giving up the man activated conflicts in her unconscious mind, and insomnia was the symptom.

It would have then proceeded to bring the conflicts to consciousness by its well-known techniques involving "the couch."

In its view, that would be a cure. But it would take months, if not years.

LEARNING THEORY

"Systematic desensitization" derives from "learning theory" which holds, to give it barebones simplicity, that all behavior is learned.

The harmful ingredients can be unlearned and replaced by learning healthier ways of dealing with problems.

Its advocates are numerically a small minority in the psychological sciences but include prominent figures. They are the most persistent of the scientific critics of psychoanalysis.

On the other hand, psychoanalysts are politely contemptuous of "systematic desensitization," holding that it treats only symptoms and leaves the basic disorder unlearned.

DETAILS PROBLEM

The nurse had 14 sessions with the psychologists. The first was devoted to detailing her problem. It turned out her mind worked on three themes during her sleepless nights.

One was the man: she still liked him. Another was what to do with herself — get a college degree or nurse? The third theme was her inability to sleep.

Then came four "training" sessions. She was trained to relax and to visualize what was in her mind.

But she insisted she had no fears nor anxieties associated with sleeping and this part of "systematic desensitization," which is desensitizing fears, had to be skipped.

RELAX IN CHAIR

In the following twice-a-week "therapy sessions," she was asked to relax in a reclining chair and to visualize herself at home in bed trying to fall asleep.

She was told to imagine her mind was racing. As the sessions progressed, she was asked to turn her mind away from disturbing thoughts and think only of relaxation.

By the seventh session, she was sleeping better, Geer and Kaskin reported. After the last session, she was no longer an insomniac, and eight months later, she still was doing well with sleep.

All this happened at the State University of New York in Buffalo.

Geer and Kaskin underlined the advantages over psychoanalytic treatment. But it is not at all possible psychoanalysis will agree.

July 4 leaders have gone on to win the flag more than 50 per cent of the time. Last year Minnesota and Cleveland were tied for first place on July 4, three games ahead of the pack. The New York Yankees snipped Washington's 6-0 on Bobby Richardson's 11th inning homer and the Chicago White Sox did a doubleheader with Boston, beating the Red Sox 3-2 after

CINCINNATI (AP) — Third-seeded David Power of Fort Collins, Colo., conquered Tom Gorman of White, Wash., 6-4 in Sunday's men's singles semifinal of the 67th annual Tri-State Tennis Tournament.

Power will face fourth-seeded Bill Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., Monday for the championship. Harris advanced to the finals Saturday with a 1-6, 6-4 victory over Peter Van Lingen of South Africa.

Top-seeded Peachy Kellmeyer of Charleston, W.Va., reached today's women's finals with a 6-1, 6-3 victory Sunday over Patricia Rippey of Shawnee, Okla.

Miss Kellmeyer won her second-seeded Peaches Barkwicz of Hamtramck, Mich., who advanced to the finals Saturday by beating Becky West, Jackson, Mich., 6-1, 6-6.

Miss Barkwicz and Miss Kellmeyer won the women's doubles title Sunday by beating Miss Vest and Miss Rippey 6-1, 6-6.

Rozelle's a Commissioner ■ 'Walking on Eggs'

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — In the own words, this (Pete) Rozelle of the National Football League is a commissioner "walking on eggs."

Peace, it may be wonderful for the owners of the pro teams in terms of immediate stabilization of their financial picture.
But for Rozelle it's an inter-period of stress.

Over one shoulder he has the Justice Department and over the other shoulder he has Congress, and he's playing it with the finesse of an Iron Cartain plenipotentiary before he steps in and takes full command of the two professional football leagues (NFL and American) which come under his domain since the startling merger of June 8.

Sports in the second half of the 20th century are no longer a matter of winning or losing and sowing the seeds of future victory on the field of friendly strife. What's big now, baby, is merchandising and licensing, telesharing and ancillary rights, sponsor cost-per-minute and lobbys.

This adds up to interstate commerce, with possible restraint of trade and all the other trappings of big business. So now the Justice Department and Congress can get into the game.

The pro football leagues aren't too worried about the Justice Department's tampering with their merger, even though it means a common draft and monopoly (theoretically) and a college kid who just got his degree in football can't hold up the pros for half a million in foot.

The feeling is that pro football has so grabbed the public's imagination that the Justice boys wouldn't want to mess around with the structure. At least, that's the way pro football's playing it now.

They'd be even more confident of their stature, however, if the Hart bill — popularly known as the Sports bill — could get through Congress during the current session. It's already halfway there, having passed the Senate. But it's holed up tight in Rep. Emanuel Celler's (D-N.Y.)
Judiciary sub-committee.

NO PLANS
Hearings aren't even scheduled for at least a month, according to Kenneth Harting, chief counsel of the antitrust division of Subcommittee No. 5 (which means he's Rep. Celler's opponent).

Its advantages are obvious, since it will put football in the same specialized position as baseball. The bill would enable a sports league to operate in its unique way without the restraints put on normal business.
In other words, they wouldn't have to worry about the legality of option contracts, common draft, equal split of television money, etc.

Meanwhile, Rozelle, whose own contract as NFL commissioner hasn't been renewed yet, is reluctant to step in as a czar

And there are no hazards of Celler, who's friendly to football but has had a hate-on for baseball ever since the Brooklyn Dodgers were moved out of his native borough.

So the immediate problems confronting pro football are in abeyance. Like 1) who's going to run the AFL if and when Al Davis quits; 2) who'll be the NFL boss; 3) untangling the dual signings of such people as quarterback Roman Gabriel of the Rams (and Oakland); 4) pushing into a new expansion area (the NFL is committed for '67 the AFL may wait until '68)

5) keeping CBS happy since the NFL title game has been watered down by the impending championship meeting of the two leagues; 6) choosing a site for the latter; 7) revising the common draft so that weak slaters like Denver get a better break than one out of every 28 choices (Rozelle has some ideas on the subject).

If you don't think Rozelle is gingerly impatient, consider this: The Atlanta Falcons have already started football workout in Asheville, N. C.

because it might raise the hackles of Celler, who's friendly to football but has had a hate-on
for baseball ever since the Brooklyn Dodgers were moved
out of his native borough.

high hurdles (14.5), 100-yard dash (8.1) and the 120-yard low hurdles (15.0) in Senior competition.

The 443 by Steele in the 440-yard dash was the fastest time for the distance ever recorded on the Cranbrook track. Steele, third in the National AAU 440-yard hurdles last week, is an alternate on the U.S. team that will meet Poland and Russian squads this month.

Pontiac Central's Bill finished second in the 120-yard high hurdles (15.4) and runner up in the 120-yard low hurdles (15.3).
Drake Stringer placed third in the junior division of the 120-yard low hurdles (15.3).
Some members of the Pontiac club will travel to Flint Friday and Saturday for the AAU Decathlon Championship, while others will participate in events
Saturday at the State AAU championship at University of Detroit and in the federation meet at Dearborn High School.

QUITE TENSE
"I felt I was thinking out my game better than I ever did and that's the difference between winning and not winning, thinking out your shots," said Miss Spuzich, an Indian University graduate.

"I was quite tense when I took off for the final round, but when I got a double bogey on the first hole, I became real relaxed. It was my first bad hole of the tournament and I knew had one coming.

"I felt then that I would finish one, two or three and I was nervous until the last hole which I played for an intention at bogey."

Holly Golfer Records Club's 1st Hole-in-One

A Holly golfer made a little history Saturday by getting the first hole-in-one at Holly Greens Golf Course which opened this year.

Carding the ace was Max Boler of Holly, who knocked a six-iron into the 175-yard, 17th hole. It was his first in 15 years of golfing and he came in with an 83.

The 3 entrants in three divisions competed over a surface of crushed ice that had been laid down since last January.
Rapid melting of the ice led to several spills.

Jay Rand Jr. of Lake Placid's Northwood Outing Club survived one spill and came back to record the longest jump of the day, 115 feet.

Chicago Star in Water Ski Jump Victory

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) —
Arne Oby combined jumps of 85 and 108 feet with smooth style to win the Class A competition in the 19th annual summer ski jump held Sunday in 55-degree weather.

Oby, who represents the Norwegian Ski Club of Chicago, scored a total of 1807 points.
Second place in the division went to George Krog of the University of Denver, who had 1741 points with jumps of 96 and 111 feet, and third to Max Pett of the University of Montreal, with jumps of 97 and 103 feet, and 1703 points.

cey. He managed to finish the heat but his boat had to be scratched from the race.

Thompson, an electrical contractor, said after winning his first two heats that the river was unusually choppy. "I got bounced around pretty good in the second heat," he said before taking off on his fatal run.

Thompson had become known as the hard luck guy of the Gold Cup.

In 1954, he zoomed across the finish line first. Three months later, the racing committee reversed the finish and gave victory to Muncey who had been penalized earlier for allegedly hitting a buoy.

In 1964, Thompson then driving the Tahoe Miss which he battled Sunday, lost out by a boat length in his bid for the Gold Cup.

Tahoe Miss, with two wins in its two heats Sunday, had 800 points and was in the favorite's position as the race resumed today.

Ex-Softball Star Takes Women's Golf Crown

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sandra Spuzich, a dark-eyed Serbian lass who used to belt a softball as a clean-up hitter around Indianapolis, used her head instead of power to become the surprising new U.S.
Women's Open golf champion Sunday.

Miss Spuzich, who has been one of feminine golf's lesser lights for five years, made the game's biggest title her first tournament victory by capturing the Open and its $4,000 first prize by one stroke over defending champion Carol Mann.

Sandra finished with a 72-hole total of 297 and Miss Mann was second with 298.

It took a rimmed 15-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole by Miss Mann to give the crown to Miss Spuzich, 29, who plays out of the Speedway course in Indi-

Californians Dominate National Drag Racing

BYRON, Ill. (AP) — A Santa Monica, Calif., team continued to dominate competition Sunday in the nitro-fueled dragster races of the Rockford 500 National Drag Racing Championships.
The team, known as the Surf-ers, captured the division first place Sunday by attaining a speed of 200 miles per hour in 7.58 seconds.

BIG DAY — Atlanta Braves' right hander Tony Cloninger had his biggest day in major league baseball as he pitched the Braves to a lopsided 17-3 triumph over the San Francisco Giants in San Francisco. Shown here at the plate, on the mound and after the game.

game, Cloninger closed two grand slams and drove in three runs to spark the Braves.
Cloninger's exploits with the bat set National and American League records for grand slams and his RBI total eclipsed the previous pitcher's mark.

State Traffic Toll Hits 12 on 4th of July Weekend

By The Associated Press
Michigan traffic, so far in this long and scorching Fourth of July weekend, has claimed at least 12 lives.

In addition, at least seven persons have drowned.

Torrid temperatures have driven millions to seek relief on highways and byways and on lakes and rivers.

Three Detroiters died in a single smashup when their car ran off a rural road and banged into trees Saturday night in a Livingston County community of Hell. They were: Vernol Kincher, 41, William Allen Webb, 46, and Burkley Kaiser, 40.

OTHER DEATHS

Other killed included: Adolph Flores Aguilera, 24, of Adrian, when his car overturned and burned in a chase by police on M52.

Jack Louis Randall, 20, of Remus, in a car-truck smashup on U.S. 10 in Clare County.

Clyde Burris, 38, of Bloomingdale, when his car smashed into a culvert at M45 east of Bangor.

Pietro Furlo of Saginaw, in a rear-end collision on I-94 near Paw Paw.

Andrew Wilson Brown, 33, of Monroe, when his tractor-trailer sideswiped a car and hit several trees on M59 in Livingston County.

Randy James Butzin, 4, of Belleville, struck by a car on a bridge on U.S. 2 in Mackinac County.

Jackie O. France, 25, in a crash when he parked car on M18 in Gladwin County.

Joseph Herbert Kelley, 42, of Gladwin, who fell out of a truck after it hit a parked car on M18 in Gladwin County.

Marcia Gossett, 10, of Lennox Township in Macomb County, when she fell from a hay wagon and was crushed under wheels of the wagon.

Victims of drownings were: Sharon Old, 5, of Detroit, in a canal behind Colony Drive in Algonac.

Rebecca Pauline Funk, 42, of Flint, in Silver Lake in Genesee County.

THOMAS AYRES, 51, of Mishawaka, Ind., in Boye Lake in Berrien County.

Nathaniel Holmes, 10, of Branch, in Mason County's Lincoln River when he jumped from a railroad bridge.

He was expected to recover completely in two weeks from the routine operation yesterday.

JFK Jr. Satisfactory After Minor Surgery

HONOLULU (UPI) — John Kennedy Jr. was reported in satisfactory condition and resting comfortably today after a plastic surgeon performed "very minor surgery" on burns from an accidental fall into hot coals on a campout.

He was expected to recover completely in two weeks from the routine operation yesterday.

Tariff Dealers Face One-Year Deadline

GENEVA (AP) — After four years of haggling, participants in the Kennedy Round of tariff-cutting talks now face a 12-month deadline to wrap up the biggest international package in the history of world trade.

The Kennedy Round, which aims at a 50 per cent global cut in all tariffs, began in 1962 when President John F. Kennedy pushed the Trade Expansion Act through Congress.

This year the United States a five-year mandate to negotiate the proposed tariff cuts. The mandate runs out in July 1967, and chances are slim that the Trade Expansion Act would be renewed promptly by Congress.

There would certainly be active lobbying against renewal of the act, at least in its present form, by some sectors of American business. They might not gates finally reached agreement on cereals at a meeting in Brussels last month. They also agreed on some other key items — mainly aluminum, newspaper and pulp — which threatened to hold up the industrial bargaining.

RIVAL BLOC

From the outset, France's veto on Britain's entry into the Common Market split Europe into two rival trading blocs and automatically made the negotiations more difficult.

Economic differences between France and the United States caused a further crisis.

Officials here think that French President Charles de Gaulle is being more cooperative because he realizes what France stands to lose if the talks fail.

Failure of the Kennedy Round would not just mean that the world has lost a chance to free international trade.

Economic experts are convinced it would result in a new wave of protectionism which could set trade liberalization back 20 years.

CAMPING CAMPAIGNER — James R. Hoffa has no opposition for reelection as Teamsters president in the union convention which opens today, but this woolly poodle, shown with Hoffa, wears a campaign button anyway as it scampers about the Miami Beach hotel convention site.

Threats to Organized Labor Ripped by Hoffa at Parley

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Convention with a barrage of verbal fireworks against opponents, is certain to win reelection to a new five-year term and a $25,000-a-year pay raise.

"Powerful forces have banded together to destroy this organization and its leaders," Hoffa said in a state of the union report to some 2,200 delegates representing 1.7 million members of the world's biggest union.

Enemies of labor work around the clock in their efforts to pass crippling anti-labor legislation, to apply anti-labor provisions to free labor and to curtail our effectiveness at the bargaining table," Hoffa said.

He made no specific reference to his own legal troubles including jury tampering and mail fraud convictions, except to say: "My only regret concerning the personal harassment and political vendetta of the past several years is that my family has suffered embarrassment and personal anguish."

But, Hoffa added, "I can truthfully say nothing has happened to me personally which I wouldn't go through again if I knew it would protect this great international union or reap benefit for rank-and-file members and their officers."

Hoffa could be in prison before his new term is far under way if the Supreme Court rules against him.

Red Leaders Gathering for Critical Talks

BUCHAREST (UPI) — Eastern Europe's top Communist leaders assembled here today for a critical Warsaw Pact meeting. The war in Viet Nam and a new drive for independence from Russia were expected to be discussed.

Although there was official silence about the Red Bloc summit conference, it was expected to begin late today.

Delegates from the Soviet Union, Poland and East Germany arrived during the weekend and were to be joined by representatives from Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria today.

Missing was Albania, Communist China's staunch supporter, which has boycotted the meeting.

A curtain of secrecy was drawn over the agenda, but informed diplomatic sources said the escalation of the U.S. air-lifts on North Viet Nam would be discussed.

Another key problem for discussion is the economic ties between East European countries and the Soviet Union.

Leading the drive for more independence from the Soviets is Romanian Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu, sometimes called the "Charles de Gaulle" of the Warsaw pact.

The French president is the maverick at the Western NATO alliance.

News in Brief

The theft of $250 from a locker at the Englewood Country Club in Commerce Township was tried yesterday to Oakland County Sheriff's deputies by Earl Schmidt of Southfield.

2nd Trial in Negro Slaying

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Opposing attorneys will try to choose a jury Tuesday in the second trial stemming from the shotgun slaying of a Negro Army Reserve officer.

WASHINGTON CROSSES DELAWARE — A reenactment of Washington's crossing of the Delaware is reflected in sunglasses worn by Walter Hinn of Milwaukee during Fourth of July festivities Saturday in Milwaukee. ## Arraign Man on Charge of Embezzling

A Royal Oak man has been arraigned on a charge of embezzlement after admitting to Oakland County Sheriff's detectives he has taken between $2,700 and $3,000 from a Rochester bowling league since last November.

Earl Kinsler was arraigned on the charge before Avon Township Justice Luther C. Green Friday, who set preliminary examination for July 26.

Kinsler was released after posting $500 bond.

The defendant, secretary-treasurer of the "Friday Night" bowling league, told detectives Alphonse Anderson and Everett Fredericks he had used the money to gamble and lost it.

Authorities were alerted to the missing money by the president of the league, Louis Barriereau of 1335 Northumberland, Avon Township.

When asked by Barriereau about the funds, Kinsler said he had taken the money by making out to himself league checks without having Barriereau co-sign them.

Deaths in Pontiac, Nearby Areas

RAYMOND E. BAUR
Service for Raymond E. Baur, 71, of 77 Euclid, will be 2 p.m. Wednesday at Green's Funeral Home, Atlanta, with burial in Hillman.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver, director of the antipoverty program, says poverty in the United States can be eliminated in 10 years at a total cost of $50 billion to $60 billion.

"I think it would be one of the most successful and welcome expenditures in the history of our country," Shriver said Sunday night in an interview.

Two weeks ago, Shriver led a Senate labor committee about the 10-year goal for eradicating poverty, but did not estimate its cost. He went further Sunday night when questioned by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.

"There is the economic knowledge, there is the basic wealth in this nation, there is the mobility of people, there are the techniques to eliminate poverty in the United States, these 50 states by 1976," Shriver said, adding: "It might run somewhere around $3 billion or $4 billion (a year), maybe a little bit more."
