Cash Queries Delay Renewal Item Action

Money questions postponed action on five urban renewal proposals before the Pontiac City Commission last night.

Commissioners called for a special meeting with local urban renewal officials Monday to clarify the items.

There was some confusion among the commissioners as the items came before them. Commissioner Charles H. Harmon gave it voice.

"We appear to be buying title insurance for properties we don't even own yet and hope we can sell," he said at one point.

Four proposed urban renewal contracts and two proposed leases of urban renewal property were slated for action last night.

One lease agreement was deleted from the agenda before the meeting started, with no reason given.

Another item requiring approval was a lease of cleared property at Saginaw and Pike streets, formerly the site of the Chapman Hotel.

The Downtown Pontiac Business Association had offered to rent it temporarily at $50 per month for a free parking lot.

"WORTH MORE"
Commissioner Winford E. Bottom opposed this on grounds that "it's worth more than $50 a month."

The association has already been offered the old courthouse site at Saginaw and Huron by the county at a rate of $1 per six months.

Another debate came over the requested approval of a contract for special appraisal services in connection with R20 project condemnation cases at a rate of $100 per day for a period not to exceed 100 days.

City Manager Robert A. Stierer said that some of the services had already been completed. Commissioners felt the price was too high and wanted clarification of the "services already rendered."

Three remaining contracts were for title insurance and legal services in connection with purchasing some 46 parcels in the R44 project area.

"URGENT NEED"
Stierer said the need for action on the items "is urgent" since properties must be purchased for Perimeter Road right of way by early 1963 or the state highway department will delay letting contracts on the project.

Harmon and others argued the need for title insurance. Commissioners indicated they felt the contracts, totaling a cost of $12,000, were priced too high.

Action may be delayed as much as two weeks if differences aren't ironed out at the special meeting Monday.

Expect Nation Will Be in Red by $7.8 Billion

Kennedy Plan to Slash
Income Levy in 1963
May Be Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials are forecasting a federal budget deficit this year of $7.8 billion. This could be enough, perhaps, to imperil President Kennedy's plans for a 1963 tax cut.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., was one of the first Congress members to comment today on the official deficit estimate announced Tuesday by the Budget Bureau.

"Under the circumstances," he said, "it would be a serious mistake to give the President the tax cut which he indicated last summer he will ask when Congress resumes."

It may have been no accident that, just prior to the deficit announcement, it was reported that the administration was giving thought to a gradual tax reduction that would take effect in several steps over a period of one to two years. Such a plan would soften the immediate impact of lower taxes.

The Budget Bureau said several factors were responsible for dashing its dream of keeping out of the red in the current fiscal year that began July 1. It said:

"The economy, by falling far short of earlier expectations, is cutting deeply into forecast revenues. Federal income now is expected to total $55.9 billion—down $7.1 billion from the estimate Kennedy provided when he sent the budget to Congress last January and predicted a $500-million surplus."

Ordinance Prohibits Use

Oppose Fluoride Water

The City Commission last night made it clear that the city opposes the proposed fluoridation of Detroit water to be supplied to Pontiac after July 1, 1963.

A resolution to that effect, offered by Commissioner Loy L. Lefford and unanimously approved, is being forwarded to the Detroit Water Board and Common Council.

With Pontiac already under contract to begin receiving Detroit water next July, the possibility of fluoridation of the water supply has been raised by the Detroit Common Council.

Lefford's resolution said that a Pontiac city ordinance prohibits the use of fluoridated water. The ordinance was approved 5,770 to 4,297 by voters in the April, 1955, general election.

The resolution doesn't say the city would refuse Detroit water if it is treated with fluorine.

Rain Holds Off as Nippy Air Visits at Night

The U. S. Weather Bureau is predicting that showers may be postponed until the weekend. Frosty temperatures will greet early morning workers again tomorrow, the low during the night dropping to near 38. The high is expected to reach 49 tomorrow.

Less than 5 of an inch in showers is predicted Friday through Monday. Temperatures for the next five days will range from 49 to 55.

Morning northeasterly winds at 5 miles per hour will become easterly at 8 to 12 m.p.h. late today and southeasterly tonight.

Winds will shift to northwesterly at 4 to 15 miles Thursday.

The lowest recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was a nippy 33. The mercury had climbed to 47 at 2 p.m.

JFK's Entire Salary Is Donated to Charity

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—President Kennedy's entire salary is going to charity, duplicating a procedure followed three decades ago by President Herbert Hoover, the "Minneapolis Tribune" and "Des Moines Register" say in copyrighted stories.

Six charities benefited from the $94,583.32 the President received in 1961, the story said.

Warn Russians on Build-Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—A State Department spokesman publicly warned Russia and Cuba today against any build-up of offensive naval facilities in Cuba that would present a threat to this hemisphere.

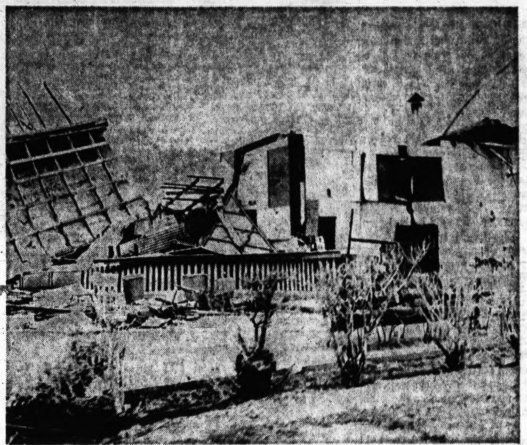

The statement by press officer Lincoln White came in response to questions about reports that U. S. aerial reconnaissance has spotted naval facilities being built at the "fishing harbor" at bases in northeast Cuba.

White did not specify how much of a naval build-up has been detected in Cuba, but said:

"Since the U. S. government is anxious to see that such (naval) facilities do not present a military threat to the United States, or to this hemisphere, we will continue to follow with great interest any port-building activities in Cuba."

Kennedy, Adenauer Discuss Berlin, Other Global Woes

From Our News Wires

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met at the White House today to discuss Berlin and other cold war tensions in what they agreed was an hour of great international peril.

The 85-year-old German leader, making his 11th visit to the United States since the end of World War II, received a high ceremonial welcome on the windswept south grounds of the White House.

After reviewing an honor guard drawn up on the velvety lawn, the President and the chancellor exchanged greetings of friendship and foresaw unity of their two countries. But they were equally grave in their appraisal of the current world situation.

Kennedy welcomed the opportunity of conferring with Adenauer "as we move into a climatic period" of relations with the Communist bloc countries.

Adenauer in turn said that "More than ever the past 10 years we are confronted by great danger." However, he expressed belief that prospects were favorable for nations and people of good will.

LAUDS CUBA STAND

Adenauer particularly praised Kennedy's firm stand in the Cuban crisis. He said American readiness to meet the Soviet challenge "rendered valuable service to the freedom of the world."

The visiting chancellor told Kennedy the measures he took in the Cuban crisis were "welcomed with qualification by my people and my government."

"We are firmly standing by your side and by the side of the American people," Adenauer said.

The problem before the President and the chancellor is tangled by the fact that the outcome of the Cuban crisis is not yet clear and the real effect of the Soviet withdrawal of missiles from Cuba on Premier Khrushchev's Berlin policies is not yet known.

When the present date for the Kennedy and Adenauer conference was set officials had hoped that the Cuban situation would be substantially cleared up.

They conceded today that with Soviet jet bombers still in Cuba the final results of the U-S Soviet confrontation are uncertain.

Adenauer arrived Tuesday night by plane from Bonn. Kennedy and Adenauer would cover a wide range of issues of which continuing coordination of policy on Berlin is the most important.

Long Cuban Conference Stops Short of Solution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson and acting Secretary-General U Thant met for almost two hours on the Cuban crisis today. There was no sign that any significant progress is being made toward a solution.

"I am hopeful that we can solve the problem," the U.S. ambassador told newsmen, "but this would be a triumph of hope over experience." Asked whether there were any new developments, Stevenson replied in the negative.

He said he had given the Secretary-General a fill-in on his long meeting yesterday afternoon with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov and that Thant had reported on a meeting with Kuznetsov and Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga yesterday morning.

A U. N. spokesman announced yesterday that Kuznetsov and Lechuga had submitted new joint proposals to Thant, reportedly containing earlier demands of Prime Minister Fidel Castro for U. N. withdrawal from the big Guantanamo Naval Base.

Stevenson told reporters, however, that he had received no Soviet-Cuban proposals. U.S. sources also denied that such proposals had been discussed at yesterday's meeting between Stevenson and Kuznetsov.

Commenting on the present status of the negotiations, Stevenson said: "We have isolated all the questions still outstanding and clarified them. I think in this respect there has been progress."

EARLY CONCLUSION
In his meeting with Thant, Stevenson said, the "emphasis on both sides was on the importance of bringing this matter to as early a conclusion as possible." He said it seemed likely that a Security Council meeting would be required at a later stage.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI)—Acting Secretary General U Thant said today that "some progress is being made toward a peaceful and speedy settlement" of the Cuban crisis.

Police Changes Already Started

New procedures have already been executed in the Pontiac Police Department and more are on the way.

Foot patrols have been initiated, the use of civilian personnel at the front desk has been discontinued and Lt. Clayton Randolph has been named head of the traffic bureau.

These were a few of the items covered in a report by City Manager Robert A. Stierer at last night's City Commission meeting.

The report concerned progress made to date on policy changes recommended in a resolution passed Oct. 30.

Among other things, the resolution recommended re-establishing a traffic bureau, setting up foot or beat patrols in certain areas, reinstating the former 70-man police reserves unit and revamping the police records department.

BOOK MISS — Senior Karen Gullet, 301 Dick Ave., helps stack some of the 3,000 books acquired by Michigan State University Oak-

Add to MSUO Library

A total of 3,000 books is being added to the library of Michigan State University Oakland with the help of MSUO's Friends of the Kresge Library.

The Friends pledged to raise $3,000 toward purchase of the private collection of the late Ralph David of Grosse Ile. Mr. David, a Vernor's Ginger Ale executive, died recently.

MSUO Librarian David Wilder described Mr. David as "a person who enjoyed reading very much and did not use libraries but bought his own books."

"As a result," he added, "he had the standard sort of books you would find in a library—books which we needed."

The collection is made up of books bought between 1920 and 1962. It is strong in the Civil War period and includes a quantity of American biography and travel books, as well as "better type" fiction, Wilder said.

The total purchase price of the books was not disclosed.

The last official count of the MSUO library's books stood at 28,500 catalogued books in June. So far, about 2,000 of the David collection have been catalogued.

Together with other additions, Wilder said, this brings the total to date to about 33,000 books.

JFK Praises Bolshoi Ballet

President Chats With Dancers

Soviet Ambassador Acts as Interpreter

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin sat on opposite sides of the theater Tuesday night but joined in a warm burst of approval for the visiting Bolshoi Ballet.

The Soviet diplomat acted as Kennedy's interpreter later in the performance backstage visit in which the President praised the troupe.

Kennedy, who said he had seen the Bolshoi in Moscow in 1959, declared their performance was "better than ever."

JFK LEAVES EARLY

While Dobrynin stayed to applaud to the end, Kennedy left after two of the four acts of the Tchaikovsky ballet "Swan Lake." Mrs. Kennedy, a ballet enthusiast, stayed in the mezzanine box through the 3½-hour performance. She wore a long white satin gown with a beaded black jacket.

Kennedy also thanked the Bolshoi dancers backstage for providing his daughter, Caroline, with an unforgettable experience.

She and her mother had gone to watch the dancers at an afternoon rehearsal.

PRESIDENT PRAISES

The Russian dancers not only captivated Caroline "but of all us here this evening," Kennedy told the group in his backstage visit, with Dobrynin interpreting. The Russians applauded the President and First Lady. They gave the Kennedys Bolshoi mementoes and introduced their world-renowned former prima ballerina, Galina Ulanova.

Meany said Hill had been making "baseless charges" of discrimination by some unions. He agreed that some unions do discriminate against racial minorities, but he said Hill's actions would do nothing to end such practices.

Nehru Gets Strong OK to Defend India

From Our News Wires

NEW DELHI—Parliament gave Premier Jawaharlal Nehru's government a thundering mandate today to "drive the Chinese from the sacred soil of India."

Nehru received a massive vote of confidence on two motions after a marathon six-hour debate in which 165 speakers took part.

One motion approved the government's emergency regulations and the other proclaimed the Indian people's determination to oust the Communist invaders of northern India "whatever the consequences."

In a speech winding up the debate, Nehru told parliament that no country as aroused as India has become "can ever be suppressed or defeated."

NEW APPOINTEE

India also got a new defense minister today and sought money to fight the border war against Red China.

President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan announced the appointment of Y. B. Chavan, the vigorous young head of the Bombay state government, to take over the defense ministry.

That is the post which V. K. Krishna Menon, a controversial leftist associate of Nehru, lost Oct. 31 in the face of charges that he had failed to prepare India's defenses against Chinese attack.

K. Raghuramiah was named minister of state for defense production, a subcabinet job in which Menon served through the first week of November. And T.T. Krishnamachari, a minister previously without portfolio, was named minister for economic and defense coordination.

Finance Minister Morarji Desai submitted a request for an additional $205 million to meet increased defense costs caused by the Chinese invasion. The regular appropriation for the armed forces in the fiscal year ending next March 31 was $715 million.

Police Department Initiates Changes

Police Chief Joseph Koren during the past week.

One memo, effective Nov. 12, ordered the use of two patrolmen for foot patrol in the central business district from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. daily.

It also orders a two-man foot patrol for the Bagley-Wessan-Jackson streets area "during the hours of darkness."

In the Sanford-Wilson-Ferry streets area a one-man foot patrol has been established Monday through Friday during the following school hours: 8:30 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m., and 3:45 p.m.

All foot patrols outside the central business district will use a car as their base of operations so as to be available for emergency calls. They'll park the car and return to check in by radio periodically.

Another memo asserts that henceforth the dispatcher sergeant will be located at the information desk at all times.

A third memo prohibits policemen from obtaining any outside work that might interfere with their police duties.

Already placed in effect, it states that "no one will be permitted to allow the handling of (civil) process papers or any other off-duty job to infringe on his regularly scheduled duty hours. No deviations from this order will be permitted."

In naming Lt. Randolph to head the traffic bureau, Koren said he would eventually be relieved of his duties as head of the Crime Prevention Bureau.

The traffic bureau "is in the process of organization," Koren said, and further details on the organization would be included in a future report.

Stierer said that Koren had slated a meeting with the Police Reserve for 7:30 tonight.

TO READ RESOLUTION

Today, Koren said he merely intends to read the Commission resolution to former members of the reserve unit "and tell them I plan to follow it to the letter."

He said means would be set up to notify all members of the unit and determine how many there are to be reinstated.

Koren said that none of the changes to date have required hiring additional personnel, but that he had recommended hiring more policemen in his recently submitted 1963 budget requests.

The proposed '63 city operating budget is scheduled for presentation to the Commission later this month.

Commissioners then have until Jan. 31, 1963, to make any revisions and adopt it.

Astronaut 'Delighted' by Mission

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr., a dedicated flier who handled the controls of a plane at the age of 6, will be the pilot for the next U.S. manned space flight—a 24-hour orbital mission scheduled for next April.

The 35-year-old Air Force major was named Tuesday to carry the banner on America's next big step toward its target of landing men on the moon in this decade. The full-day flight will swing him 18 times around the globe, triple the six-orbit ride made last month by astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr.

'VERY DELIGHTED'

Informed of his selection while working at Cape Canaveral, Cooper said he was "very delighted that I have been chosen. I've been working toward this goal for a long time."

At their Houston, Tex., home, Cooper's wife, Trudy — whom he married to fly soon after they were married — said she was happy and pleased with the choice.

She said Cooper called her from the Cape and broke the news shortly after their two daughters, Camala, 13, and Janita, 12, returned from school.

MOM HAPPY, TOO

The astronaut's mother, Mrs. Leroy G. Cooper Sr., who lives near the tiny mountain town of Carbonade, Colo., reported she was very happy with the selection. Her husband, the spark behind Gordon's early flying interest, died two years ago.

Cooper, a native of Shawnee, Okla., is the only eligible member of the seven-man Mercury astronaut team who has not rocketed into space. He was backup pilot for Schirra's flight.

The seventh Mercury pilot, Donald K. Slayton, has been grounded because of a heart flutter.

But Did Call Hagerty About Hiss on TV

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dwight D. Eisenhower yesterday scotched a report he had tried to halt the appearance of convicted perjurer Alger Hiss on a controversial television program about former vice president Richard Nixon.

The former President confirmed he had called his onetime press secretary, James C. Hagerty, now vice president in charge of news for the American Broadcasting Co., which aired the program, "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon."

However, Eisenhower maintained: "I expressed amazement, but never in my life have I ever asked anybody not to report a story after they got it fully. Anyone has the prerogative to make an analysis of somebody's career, but it was unusual."

Eisenhower said he phoned Hagerty to make the statement about the program, which flooded ABC with viewer protests because of Hiss participation, because of National Chairman William E. Miller was reported to have said Eisenhower attempted to have the show called off.

Miller subsequently denied making such a statement.

Falling Tree Kills 34-Year-Old Father

A 34-year-old father of four was killed yesterday afternoon in Bloomfield Hills when struck by a falling tree.

Dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital was Earl J. Moller, a Mount Clemens man who was foreman of a tree-trimming crew.

Police said Moller was in charge of a crew which was clearing trees on Canterbury Drive near the eastern city limits.

He was standing to one side while the men were cutting a tree with a double trunk, police said. One section split off and toppled over on him.

The accident occurred about 5:30 p.m.

$20,739 Sewer Project to Be Started Next Week

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—A $20,739 sewer construction project in the Telegraph-Quarton roads area is expected to get under way next week. Township Supervisor Arno Hulet said today.

The contract for installation of the Foxcroft No. 4 sanitary sewer was awarded to a Birmingham firm, Mike Harabedian, Inc.

The company's low bid is the same as the one received Oct. 22.

However, a second public hearing had to be scheduled and awarding of the contract was delayed until this week because the price was some $3,000 more than the original estimate for the project.

The second public hearing was based on new special assessment figures which took the actual bids into consideration.

The sewer will serve approximately 23 property owners in the Telegraph and Quarton roads area. Business places occupy most of the property.

"Art in Advertising Photography" will be the topic of next Tuesday's 8 p.m. meeting of the Bloomfield Hills Camera Club at the Silver Wolf, 4100 N. Woodward Ave., Royal Oak.

An optional club dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. preceding the meeting at Greenfield's Restaurant in Birmingham.

Willis W. VanWey of 3483 Blossom Lane, Bloomfield Township, has been elected president of the Olivet College Parents' Association.

Thomas E. Lowe

Service for Thomas E. Lowe, 81, of 6700 Indian Trail, Bloomfield Township, will be 2 p.m. Friday at Christ Church Cranbrook with burial to follow in Oakview Cemetery, Royal Oak.

Mr. Lowe died yesterday at his home after a long illness. He was secretary-treasurer of Frank C. Teal Co., Detroit, prior to his retirement in 1945.

He was an honorary member and past president of Plum Hollow Golf Club and served on the club's board of directors from 1921 to 1943.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Edward Laskie with whom he made his home; a son, G. Talbot of St. Clair; a sister and four grandchildren.

Arrest Ex-Con in Jewel Theft

$1.75 Million Worth of Gems Stolen

CHICAGO (AP) — An ex-convict has been arrested in connection with the $1.75-million robbery of a Pompano Beach, Fla., jewelry store.

John Patrick Johnson, 35, of Arlington Heights, was arrested by FBI agents last night in Chicago.

M. W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said Johnson is charged by the state of Florida with the robbery of jewelry from the Leonard Taylor jewelry store in Pompano Beach Feb. 18.

The robbery netted 521 diamonds and stones set in rings, bracelets, earrings and watches. The FBI recovered the loot and called it the biggest recovery in the country.

Agents said Johnson also is wanted in Michigan and Illinois for other robberies.

Charles Frank Mondzyk, 25, was arrested with Johnson on a federal warrant issued in Vicksburg, Mich., charging illegal flight to avoid state prosecution.

The week long trial of two other Illinois men and a Michigan convict accused in the Pompano Beach robbery ended in mistrial Friday in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The jury was deadlocked after 11 hours of deliberation and Court of Record Judge O. Edgar Williams said he would order a new trial.

Two defendants — Paul W. Paneczo, 38, of Chicago and Edward H. Cook, 36, of Oak Lawn, Ill. — were released on $50,000 bond. A third man, Richard W. Ray, 38, of Three Oaks, Mich., was released on federal prison in Atlanta.

Agents said Johnson and Mondzyk are wanted on a charge of armed robbery in connection with the theft of $15,000 in jewels from Arthur Oberlander's jewelry store in Kalamazoo, Mich., April 26.

Kelley Asks Denial of Districting Review

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley has asked the U.S. Supreme Court for a speedy denial of a petition asking for a review of the Senate reapportionment.

The review was requested by state Sen. Frank Beidle, John Fitzgerald and Paul Younger against the State Supreme Court in a 4-3 decision—declared the present Senate districting unconstitutional.

Michigan Senate districts currently are frozen into the state constitution and have a wide disparity in population.

The districting system was challenged as a violation of the federal constitution's guarantee of equal protection under the laws by August Schulte, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

In a brief filed on behalf of Secretary of State James Hare, Kelley said yesterday that the U.S. court is being confronted with a fundamental question that "is not substantial in nature."

Kelley said the state court's decision does not set a binding precedent upon any other court when it provides that no Senate district shall have a population more than twice the population of any other.

"The thrust of the decision of the majority of the Michigan Supreme Court is that the constitutional apportionment of the State Senate by frozen geographical areas reflecting no rational policy is arbitrary and an 'invidious discrimination,'" Kelley said.

Kelley said that although the majority of the court stated that the Michigan policy in Michigan was that no district could have more than twice as many people as any other, only two of the justices held it to be not only a state policy but also the minimum under the federal constitution's equal protection clause.

Referring to the recently-adjudged constitutional convention, Kelley said:

"While the petitioners plead that this is an important case and that the Michigan policy in Michigan was that no district could have more than twice as many people as any other, knowing full well that if the constitutional convention was approved by the people in April 1963, they will immediately invoke that question that the question herein is moot."

De-Stalinization Getting Cultural Boost

MOSCOW (AP)—The latest in a series of anti-Stalin plays, this one written by a playwright who once praised Stalin's secret police, has opened in Moscow. It looks like a hit.

In another example of the continuing cultural change since Stalin's death, composer Dmitri Shostakovich yesterday gave his approval to American jazz, once condemned and banned by Stalin.

But a Soviet doctor-journalist warned that another Western import, commercialized sex, takes young peoples' minds off the "class and liberation struggles."

The play is called "The Blackbirds," and it repeats the theme of several other plays performed here in the past year—that grave injustices were committed during the Stalin era. It deals with persons returned to Soviet society after years of unjust imprisonment, and also presents the fears of old Stalinists that the returnees somehow will make them pay for the past.

The play is all the more interesting because of its author, Nikolai Pogodin, who died two months ago at the age of 62. One of his best known earlier plays was "The Aristocrats," written in 1934 when thousands of Soviet citizens were held in Stalin's prison camps. It portrayed the notorious Soviet Secret Police as pure-hearted and idealistic defenders of the revolution.

"The Aristocrats" opened at the respected "Vakhtangov" Theater in Moscow and was one of the most favored works performed there. Ironically, the new play also is playing at the Vakhtangov.

So far, there have been no full-length reviews of the play in the Soviet press, but the fact that it is being performed is seen as evidence that the new de-Stalinization campaign begun a year ago still has its momentum.

STUDY FOREIGN MUSIC

Shostakovich, whose own music once was criticized by Stalin's central committee, told a composers' meeting yesterday that Soviet musicians should study modern foreign music, especially American jazz.

"Variety and jazz songs and music make an exceptionally important contribution to the molding of aesthetic taste, and complacency and intolerance are impermissible in appreciating works of these genres," he said.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev himself gave approval to jazz by attending a concert given by touring king of swing Benny Goodman in Moscow last summer. Although he said he did not understand the music, his presence at the concert was interpreted as the end of official opposition to jazz.

Shostakovich, echoing a claim by a Soviet writer that musicians in Odessa had improvised years before the days of Dixieland, said "Our Soviet jazz has been existing for a long time." But he did not claim jazz as a Russian invention.

The newspaper Moscow Young Communist printed a warning against Western emphasis on sex, written by Dr. Mikhail Tsvetitsky.

It said the imperialists "intentionally concentrate the attention of youth on sexual problems with the aid of literature, cinema and television . . . to deflect them from the class and national liberation struggles."

"Although love is one of the greatest emotions of life," he said, "it is unquestionable that the emotion of labor and creative work is higher."

Won't Help Athlete in School Dispute

GRAY, Ga. (AP)—The Justice Department has declined to aid an 18-year-old football player in his attempts to gain readmission to Jones County High School. Johnny Arnold and his 15-year-old wife were expelled several weeks ago when officials learned of their marriage.

James Balcom, president of the Jones County Boosters Club, asked the Justice Department to intervene in the case, charging Arnold's right to acquire an education has been violated. Balcom said Tuesday he was told by a department spokesman that "this appears to be a state matter, not a federal one."

Peiping Calls Envoys Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist China has ordered its ambassadors to return to Peiping for consultation. State Department sources reported yesterday.

The instructions were sent out some time in October and the reason given was that the Red diplomats need a thorough briefing after the Chinese Communist party conference in September. State Department officials in reporting this said it has been standard practice to recall the ambassadors after such a conference.

They said they do not know how many have returned to Peiping thus far.

Other sources give another version of Peiping's instructions.

They say that Mao Tze-tung ordered his ambassadors to Moscow and other Communist capitals to return after a sharp exchange with the Kremlin.

The Red Chinese, these sources said, repeated their request that the Soviets furnish them with nuclear arms and, in general, share nuclear secrets with them.

This request, which reportedly was made in unusually strong terms, was promptly turned down by Moscow.

State Department sources said they could not confirm these reports.

'Big Mistake to Let Junior Get Measles'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mom makes a big mistake when she allows Junior to catch the measles when very young so he will not miss school later on, an Oklahoma City physician said today.

Red measles, the ordinary variety, "is a very dangerous disease that every year results in numerous fatalities," Dr. Harris J. Riley Jr., said in an address prepared for the Southern Medical Association convention.

Riley said, "Pneumonia and other secondary effects are suffered from 15 to 20 per cent of the time. Brain infection is a complication in one of each 1,000 cases in this country."

'Cornered' With Dem Majority, JFK Must Improve His Next Round

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON—President Kennedy has painted himself into a corner with election campaigning for a big Democratic Congress. Getting out of it these next two years will require all his political skill.

Since he has plenty of that, the burden on him won't be unbearable and, win or lose with Congress, the result shouldn't interfere with his trying for the White House again in 1964.

But it will be interesting to see how he handles Congress with the presidential race coming up and the need for accomplishments intensifying.

BE NICE POLICY

In the past two years his has been a policy of be-nice-to-everybody, including even those Democrats and Republicans in Congress who did the most to frustrate him and his programs, like medical care for the aged. It's possible, feeling the need for a better showing, he'll switch and get tough. But it isn't likely, if only because of the presidential race when he may feel he needs every vote from every section.

Negro Leaders to Meet on U.S.-Africa Policy

NEW YORK (UPI)—A three-day conference on the creation of a program for influencing U.S. policies in Africa has been scheduled by Negro leaders to start Nov. 23.

One-hundred of the nation's Negro leaders, including Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Roy Wilkins and A. Philip Randolph, will meet at Columbia University's Arden House for the weekend conference.

In the recent campaign he pleaded for the election of more Democrats to Congress to help him make good in the next two years on programs he couldn't make good on in the past two because his Democratic-run Congress blocked him.

NEED MORE DEMS?

It was an amazing political sight to see a President saying he needed more people from his own party in a Congress where in sheer numbers people from his own party already drowned the Republicans.

What he really was asking for was more Democrats to offset those Democrats who teamed up with Republicans to kill his programs. In this case it was mainly the Southern Democrats.

The voters gave him four more Democrats in the Senate, making the party's majority there 68-32, or better than two to one over the Republicans, although in the House the Republicans picked up two seats.

Those two seats have practical by no significance in changing the already heavily conservative mood of the House since the Democrats there will outnumber the Republicans 259-176.

NO OFF-YEAR GAIN

These small changes in the make-up of the two houses actually can be considered a Kennedy victory since the minority party in an off-year election like this traditionally makes solid gains but this year didn't.

Therefore, through this triumph over tradition, Kennedy should be expected to deliver on a number of programs, particularly since he has overwhelming numbers of Democrats to help him.

But anything so nebulous as victory over tradition melts when placed against the hot arithmetic of politics.

Despite the huge Democratic majorities in both houses, some of the programs Kennedy talked most about, like medical care, were slaughtered by a combination of conservative Democrats and Republicans.

The complexion of Congress hasn't been changed enough by the Nov. 6 elections to make the outlook for his pet programs any more optimistic.

1964 CLAIMS

If he gets slaughtered again on some of his major programs, but manages to get through a moderate amount of more or less useful legislation, he probably will say in 1964 as he did this year: It was a tremendous Congress, one of the best.

And when he runs for re-election, as he seems certain to, he will be out campaigning for even more Democrats in Congress.

Hassing Finally Over-Airport to Be Dedicated

At long last the controversial Dulles Airport is ready for use and will be dedicated Saturday by President JOHN F. KENNEDY.

To handle the tremendous flow of jet traffic in our nation's capital it had to be large. In fact, it covers twice the area of New York's Idlewild, which is no small feat.

Like its name, it has been roundly criticized since work commenced several years ago. Everything about it including design, plan of operation, location, the delay in its construction, cost and even its very reason for being, has been questioned.

No one doubted the fact that Washington needed a new airport. But the question often arose as to why National Airport was not expanded or why Friendship Airport, which is 32 miles northeast and now handles the big jets, was not increased in size.

Apparently, Congress had its reasons and in 1956 ordered construction of a new airport at Chantilly, Va., 27 miles due west of Washington. Driving time is about 45 minutes to Dulles—about the same time it takes to get to Friendship.

Friendship, built 12 years ago when construction costs were relatively low and subsequently improved, carries a price tag of only $18 million. As first planned in 1956, Dulles was to cost $50 million.

When construction started in 1958, cost estimates had risen to $85 million. Now the figure is $105.5 million. Expansion by 1980 will bring the total to $185 million.

Many of the commercial airlines already settled at Friendship were reluctant to put money into new facilities at Dulles. Today, many around Washington are referring to Dulles International as "an expensive joke."

An interesting sidelight locally is that the tower and terminal were designed by the late Eero Saarinen of Bloomfield Hills. Architectural critics who have seen the building say that it should strike anyone with its beauty and dignity.

Despite all the haggling, it will be a welcome addition to all air travelers to Washington.

Cuban Arms Inspection Isn't Job for Red Cross

The International Red Cross has decided not to get into the Cuban arms inspection mess, at least for the present. We think this is a good decision.

If inspection is to be made, it it should not be conducted by the Red Cross. Between war, the Red Cross has done a good job helping the victims of natural disasters. In war time, the organization has risen to great heights and performed vital functions.

But handling arms inspection in a hassle between two major powers and a small but dangerous satellite is just not their meat. The Red Cross would jeopardize its lofty standing which rises above individual national interests.

Either way the inspection job were to go, there would be cries of dissatisfaction and resultant problems for the international agency.

Apparently the Red Cross officials only considered the project because they felt the world was on the brink of another world war. Now the danger seems less, and plans for such inspection at Cuban ports are laid aside. This is properly a job for the United Nations, and the responsibility should rest there. If Castro doesn't want U.N. inspectors, let him put up with the blockade.

40-Year-Old Philosophy Has Not Been Outdated

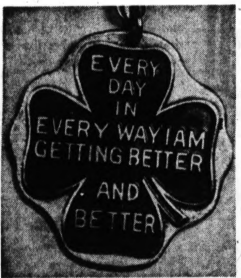

By HOWARD HELDENBRAND

Bringing back the distant thunder, a bit muted now, of the Roaring Twenties is a name that will register with oldsters. (Off-stage voice: How old is this guy, anyway?) It is Emile Cose of Nacy, France.

He was a pharmacist, and had studied hypnosis and therapeutic auto-suggestion. . . . Cose's running a little heavy today, someone said.

Anyhow, this was circa 1910. The Doctor, as he came to be called, went first to England, then came to America in 1923. He developed an extensive psychological cult on the simple concept seen below.

His lectures were well attended, and many found spiritual uplift and well-being in his preaching—though medical authorities were critical of his claims of organic healing.

The MAT is indebted to Miss Jean Anderson of Rochester, Goodwill Industries representative, for the charm, many of which came to the agency several years ago from a family disposing of a quantity of household goods preparatory to moving.

Saginaw Restaurant Phil Sauer says that his parakeet, Paddy, which had outlived three others, just died at the ripe old age of 14-plus. . . . wonders if it is a longevity record.

Could be. Your scrivener had one that lived to twelve—and thought that he was harboring a feathered Methuselah.

Says the Arkansas Baptist "You can tell Americans trust in God by the way they drive."

Bob McClure of Union Lake, says he recently saw a six-point buck near West Acres that was running like a deer and making no local stops as it sailed over fields and back yards.

In this day and age, with natural forage for the game so scarce that development of racks is retarded, a six-pointer is something to toast your barn about.

Foreign countries all seem to have the same motif, says

Jack Herbert. It is: "Americans go home and leave us a loan."

David Lawrence Says:

Hiss May Help Nixon, After All

WASHINGTON—Maybe Richard Nixon has nine political lives after all. Things looked pretty bleak for him the other day after his defeat for the governorship of California.

But now "Pravda," the leading Soviet newspaper in Moscow, and Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer, have rejoiced at LAWRENCE Nixon's defeat. So things are looking up for the former vice president.

In Soviet terminology, they are always "burying" Americans of today and tomorrow, and here is what a United Press International dispatch on Monday said:

"Moscow—The voters of California 'buried' forever Richard M. Nixon's 'ambitious dreams of becoming president,' Pravda reported to Soviet readers yesterday.

The newspaper said, 'All the forces of the most rapid reaction rallied around the former vice president, but even ex-President Eisenhower's endorsement of him did not give him the support of the working people of California.'"

There are Communists in California—not in large numbers, but they are active and influential in some labor unions in defense plants and in other places.

Most powerful, however, among the forces aligned against Nixon are many of the so-called "left-wingers" throughout the country who are not Communists at all but who somehow cherish the deepest resentment against him because he has helped to expose the influence of communism in America.

As a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities more than a decade ago, Nixon played an important part in bringing about the conviction of Alger Hiss, a former State Department official.

Ever since that episode, the invidious attack on Nixon has continued in various forms. The name "Tricky Dick" was invented, and many an innuendo was printed in the press to convey the impression that the former vice president was an unscrupulous man in politics.

Many a person who read such comments believed them because there was no effective way to rebut the implications. Details on specific points were disregarded.

A break for Mr. Nixon, however, came last weekend. The American Broadcasting Company put on Alger Hiss as one of the speakers in a TV program entitled "The Political Obituary of Richard M. Nixon."

This brought protests by wire and letter. It stirred up the friends of the former vice president and helped to make clear to many disinterested observers that Richard Nixon is still paying the penalty for having been a vigorous anti-Communist.

Ever since Nixon served on the House Committee on Un-American Activities, there has been, moreover, a determined movement—originating in California—to abolish that committee.

Also, there has been a continuous campaign to get an archrival communism, J. Edgar Hoover, out of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The overthrow of Nixon in politics has evoked many comments of satisfaction among those who feel that communism is no menace in America, and that Communists are just like Republicans or Democrats and are entitled to carry on what is naively called "political activity."

Even the Supreme Court of the United States has often accepted the theory that the Communists constitute just another political party.

Japanese Tells of Plans for 1964 Olympic Games

NEW YORK—Had a stimulating talk the other day with Mr. Shigeo Kameda over a rare old Japanese drink named Scotch on the Locks.

Mr. Kameda, one of Japan's all-time college baseball players, came armed with impressive facts about plans for the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo.

In his capacity as general manager of the American Republic of Japan Air Lines, he is also in this country to take soundings in 13 cities to establish just how many Americans plan to visit Japan in the immediate future.

Last year about 60,000 made the trip. He looks for perhaps 75,000 this year and more during the year of the Olympics. Despite certain currency crimps, about 25,000 Japanese visited the U.S. last year, spent about $18 million here. Their favorite U.S. spot to visit: Hallowed old Disneyland.

IN NATIVE STYLE

Japan is ready with 30,000 hotel rooms in the Tokyo area alone and many more in small inns, some of them featuring the native style of living.

To do something about the blood-chilling Tokyo traffic (there were 60,000 cars in Tokyo just before the war; by 1964 there will be 1 million new thoroughfares and highways are now being built.

The Olympic Village which will house 8,000 athletes from 97 nations is already complete. So is the 100,000-seat stadium, which Mr. Kameda feels will be sorely inadequate for the ticket demand.

Mr. Kameda does not think Japan will win the Olympics. "We'll do well in gymnastics, weight-lifting, perhaps swimming and we'll probably have Exceptional honorable mention goes to David Lawrence who surpasses any columnist I've read in the Detroit papers and as a result I am about to cancel one.

Some of the pathetic readers thought you were too harsh on Castro in calling him a "bearded lion" but it is precisely these complacent, naive people that have allowed our once mighty nation to become one that is indecisive and prone to inaction and appeasement. Those writers felt we have won a great victory after the national statement "we will not attack Cuba if the missile bases are removed." Unfortunately, by saying this we recognize that Cuba, like Poland, is the Russians' and the Monroe Doctrine is dead.

Reviewing Other Editorial Pages

The Vice President

The Atlantic Monthly

There never has been a satisfactory set of rules for the vice presidency. The job itself, as one historian put it, was "almost an afterthought at the Constitutional Convention."

The Kennedy-Johnson relationship is considerably different from the Eisenhower-Nixon relationship. A great deal of nonsense was written at the beginning of each of these administrations about how the President was going to make more use of his Vice President than ever before.

White House aides contend that the President has given Johnson every opportunity. Certainly, in public Kennedy has been extravagant in his praise of the Vice President. But the two men are very different.

Both Vice Presidents have been circumscribed by presidential directives in advance and by State Department diplomats all along the route. Each broke through the traditional diplomacy to engage in personal diplomacy with reasonable success abroad. But the results at home have hardly been sensational.

Johnson says nothing about his White House ambitions, but he can hardly deny them. Yet there is still six years to go, assuming a second successful Kennedy-Johnson ticket. At least Kennedy has gone on the public foot-dragging by Eisenhower in Nixon's case, and, indeed, private talk of moving him to a Cabinet post. Politics often is very cruel. In this modern age, it is probably crueler in the ordeal of an ambitious Vice President.

Enos the Chimp

The Chicago Sun Times

Enos, the nonchalant astrochimp whose two-orbit flight was the necessary prelude to the dramatic achievement of Astronauts John Glenn, Scott Carpenter and Walter Schirra Jr., has departed for whatever Elysium is reserved for good chimpanzees after they have shuffled off their simian coil.

Death came to the little fellow as the consequence of a very mundane ailment; not as a result of his brush with the firmament on his epochal flight.

Enos entered space on a planned three-orbit flight. But technical difficulties brought him and the capsule in which he was ejected down after two trips. Nonetheless, his flight demonstrated that the time had come when the United States could safely orbit a man and return him to earth. Enos had numerous duties to perform. He had been trained on the ingenious system. His reward, after completion of each task was a banana, flavored pellet and sips of water. Bananas have always been legal tender with chimpanzees.

Enos returned to earth to live out his days in true simian dignity and, we trust, with bananas aplenty. He earned them.

Says Fluoride Good for Teeth

No GOP Gain Last Week but Dems Still Weakened

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Dr. Winston B. Prothro is Grand Rapids' staunchest supporter of the city's fluoridated water supply.

It was recently charged by a member of the Michigan Pure Water Association that children in Grand Rapids suffer with mottled enamel or dental fluorosis, and that their teeth will be severely pitted, stained and subject to fracture.

"Not so," replied Dr. Prothro, city-county health officer.

"Our studies show that children in Grand Rapids and Kent County have firmer teeth and more pleasing appearances because of our fluoridated water supplies," he said, adding, "the same is not true where you do not find fluorides in the water."

Dr. Prothro said he was not in a position to recommend whether other cities in Michigan, principally Detroit, should undertake steps to fluoridate their water supplies.

However, he said, "wherever I was health officer I would strongly recommend fluoridation."

He said a 15-year study of Grand Rapids' fluoridated water supply made in 1960 showed a "conclusive" reduction in the percentage of decayed, missing and filled teeth among children in the 12-18 age bracket.

Britain, Japan Sign Treaty

LONDON (AP) — Britain and Japan today signed a treaty of commerce and navigation normalizing their trade ties for the first time since World War II and opening the way for a big boost in business between them.

The signing of the treaty in Lancaster House was witnessed by Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Hayato Ikeda, who is touring Europe.

The treaty provides for most favored-nation tariff and trade relations between the two governments. Since the war British-Japanese trade had been conducted on the basis of tightly controlled year-to-year agreements which set quotas and contained certain discriminatory provisions limiting the amount of business that could be done.

"Don't take it so hard; a good painter, a new rug and chair, some floor scraping, and you'd never know it happened."

2 LINES 6 DAYS $4.20

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional returns from the 1960 election must be considered in judging last week's polling.

For example: The judges have ignored the fact that the Democrats lost 11 seats in the House of Representatives in 1960 although they elected a President.

Most or all of these were in marginal congressional districts. A marginal congressional district is one in which the winner got 55 per cent or less of the vote.

Marginal districts tend to swing in a presidential election year. A presidential nominee who wins by a big margin usually generates political momentum sufficient to elect his party's house candidates in marginal districts.

Such candidates are the most eager to ride their presidential candidate's coat tails.

BARELY MADE IT
The 1960 presidential election was a squeaker. President Kennedy barely made it. He wore a vest; no coat. The Republican candidate in 1960 lost the White House but the Republican party gained 21 seats in the House of Representatives.

These seats were precariously held by their Democratic incumbents, else they would not then have been surrendered to the Republicans.

It was these areas of tenderly balanced congressional districts that developed a tradition of American politics. The tradition is that in an off-year election, the in-office party must expect to lose rather heavily in the house.

The average such off-year losses suffered by the in-office party is 40 to 50 seats.

When an in-office party loses that many or more in an off year, the out-of-office party reasonably may anticipate an improving chance to elect its presidential nominee two years later. If the out-party wins house control from the ins, so much the better are the out's presidential election prospects.

NEEDED 44 SEATS
The Republicans needed last week to gain 44 house seats to become the house majority. They didn't make it. The Republicans limiting the amount of business gained two seats; the Democrats lost four.

This mathematical monstrosity is accurate because the house just adjourned had 437 members to accommodate new states, Hawaii and Alaska. It now reverts to the previous number, 435.

Some or all of the 41 house seats the Democrats lost in 1960 would have tended last week to swing to the Republicans if the Democrats had not already lost them.

If the lot had remained Democratic in 1960 and gone Republican last week the 1962 won't tally would have been: Democrats lost 25 seats. Republicans won 23 seats.

In the clouded light of that calculation, Republican presidential prospects in 1964 look somewhat better, but not much. It is a fairer estimate of the immediate political climate, however, than are the comparisons of President Kennedy's first off-year election with FDR's spectacular first in 1934.

The Democratic party made great gains in house and senate in that second year of the fabulous new deal. FDR went on to ambush Alf M. Landon in 1936.

Republicans can be of some cheer, however. JFK will not match FDR's four-term preference.

That would be against the law.

ORDERS WHIPPING—Judge Stewart Lynch of Dover, Del. yesterday ordered a sentence of 20 lashes at a whipping post for Franklin Cannon Jr., 20, of Dover, after finding him guilty of violating probation.

'People Mistaken on Fallout'

EAST LANSING (AP) — A Michigan State University professor, conducting a research program on the public's attitude toward nuclear fallout, yesterday reported that people have a number of misconceptions about fallout and shelters.

Dr. David K. Berlo, chairman of MSU's department of communication, cited these mistaken beliefs:

—Two of three people believe shelter life would drive a person insane.

—One of seven believes radiation poisoning is contagious.

—Seven of 10 believe shelters must be airtight.

Berlo emphasizes that these are false notions.

"I don't think people are going to have any trouble to survive mentally in any kind of shelter," Berlo said. "People can survive fantastic amounts of stress."

Some people would be affected by the strain, he added, but "I doubt whether it would be any more than under other kinds of serious strains."

Berlo's still-uncompleted study is nationwide. The U.S. office of civil defense is paying $170,000 for the study.

Better Laws, Rehabilitation

California Slows Dope Traffic

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Total narcotic arrests in California dropped by 5.5 per cent in 1961 from totals of the previous year, Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk said today.

"The year of 1961 is a water-mark date in the fight against the illicit narcotics traffic in our state," he said. "In 1961 new narcotic laws were passed and became effective, the strongest in California's history.

"We have coupled greatly increased penalties for narcotic crimes with the leading rehabilitation programs."

In an annual report prepared by

The Bureau of Criminal Statistics said that a total of 18,190 narcotic arrests were reported by local, state and federal agencies in the state in 1961.

About 83 per cent of the arrests occurred in Southern California and 69 per cent were in Los Angeles County.

Pyramid Satellite Mapping Radiation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Air Force disclosed Tuesday that a satellite shaped like a pyramid and weighing only one and a half pounds has been launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

The announcement, made at the American Rocket Society convention, said the satellite is mapping radiation recently increased by atomic testing.

Called the TRS (Tetrahedral Research Satellite), it was carried into space within the past 60 days aboard a Thor-Agena rocket. The Air Force refused to give further details.

Mrs. FDR's Chair to Remain Vacant

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will not be replaced as chairman of the U. S. Commission on the Status of Women.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said yesterday the chairmanship would be left technically vacant, with its duties carried out by the vice chairman, to show the government's great regard for Mrs. Roosevelt.

Struggle for Little Yemen Worries Britain and U.S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
As wars go, the current struggle for Yemen, legendary land of the queen of Sheba, isn't much.

But its potential for much greater trouble throughout the Middle East is enough to cause apprehension in Washington and London. And in it, President Gamal Abdel Nasser sees his best chance for expanding his United Arab Republic since Syria's defection in September 1961, and his own break with the Yemen monarchy a year ago in December.

This new opportunity came on Sept. 18 when Yemenite rebels under Brig. Gen. Abdullah Salal shelled the new imam off his throne in the medieval capital of Sana and proclaimed a republic which would be closely allied with Nasser's U.A.R.

The imam, at first thought dead in the debris of the palace, turned up in neighboring Saudi Arabia, and thus the stage was set for the current conflict involving the U.A.R. and the rebel Yemen regime on the one hand and Saudi Arabia and Jordan on the other.

There was no special mourning for the fall of the Yemen monarchy.

But neither the Jordanian nor the Saudi Arabian royal governments fancied a revolutionary government on the flank. The United States and Britain were concerned not only over the stability of the Middle East but for the rich oil fields as well.

BRITAIN WORRIES
And Britain worried also about a possible threat to Aden colony, its port at the tip of the Arabian Peninsula, and the adjoining southern Arabian federation of sheikdoms and sultanates which Britain is pledged to protect.

The whole area is claimed by Yemen whose rebel leadership is appealing to the people of Aden to join them in the revolution.

Air strikes have hit both the Aden protectorate and Saudi Arabia.

These carry with them the threat that Britain will be drawn into the struggle.

On the Saudi Arabian side, the struggle is developing into a clear contest between Nasser and King Saud.

Nasser has poured men and supplies into Yemen which in turn has threatened to carry the war into Saudi Arabia.

ROYALTY SPLIT
Working for Nasser is a deep split within the Saudi Arabian royal family, five of whom have renounced their titles and citizenship and pledged to work with Nasser for a "free Saudi Arabia."

Four Saudi Arabia air force planes and their crews have defected to Egypt.

King Saud in turn has cut off relations with Egypt and has threatened further action.

At home, King Saud has reorganized his government and has named his half-brother, Crown Prince Faisal, to head it. Faisal has launched a series of internal reforms to channel more of the nation's oil wealth into social and economic developments.

The royal family and the government believe the Saudis will rally to their side. Nasser's actions indicate he is formulating and expects a revolution.

INDIAN DEFENDERS DRILL — Youngsters watch from behind barbed wire fence as Indian soldiers drill at Tezpur, Assam, near the disputed North East Frontier where India is battling against the invading Chinese Communist forces. The government announced yesterday that it will also organize home guard units in all districts bordering Tibet and will institute military training for all able-bodied men and women to help India fight its undeclared war against the Chinese.

Yum, Yum! Barbecued Hippo!

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There are several problems involved in barbecuing a hippopotamus. One is a simple question of logistics: How many persons will a barbecued hippopotamus serve? Most cookbooks are rather vague on that point.

But it is something that anyone planning a hippopotamus cook-out needs to know. A host would feel pretty silly telling his guests that he had run out of hippopotamus.

Another problem comes in figuring out what to serve with it. What vegetables complement a hippo? What wines are appropriate?

Until this week, there was very little information available on this subject. At least in this country. There was, of course, considerable data available in Africa, where a favorite dish is hippopotamus smothered with missionaries.

Fortunately, this gap in our gustatory intelligence has now been closed, thanks to the courage and cunning of Gordon Leech, general manager of the National Zoo Restaurant.

Each fall, Leech prepares a series of lunches for the Antelopes Association, a group of wild game fanciers. This year, the piece de resistance is barbecued hippopotamus.

I joined the Antelopes at their first lunch of the season, and I must say it was quite an adventure. But before dining, I cornered Leech to find out what the experience had taught him about barbecuing hippopotamus.

"We bought this one from a wild animal dealer who happened to have a spare hippo on his hands," Leech said. "Having a spare hippo is not like having a spare hamster or something like that. The dealer was easily persuaded to part with it."

"We had it slaughtered in Chicago and shipped here in a refrigerated truck. I don't know what it weighed on the hoof, but it dressed out at about 3,800 pounds."

"We expect to serve more than 900 people and still have plenty left over for hippo soup, pate-de-hippo and hippoburgers."

As accessories, Leech is serving wild rice, "Potatoes Mombasa" and "Carrots Nairobi." From the wine list he recommends Lancers Cracking Rose, which comes from Portugal and is served chilled in a ceramic crock.

Having satisfied my curiosity, I pulled up a chair and joined the feast. The taste of barbecued hippopotamus is rather difficult to describe. Its texture is something like barbecued beef that has been obtained from a bull that had been chasing too many cows.

After dining, I went by the mammal house at the zoo to refresh my memory as to what a live hippopotamus looks like. I shouldn't have done it.

Units Springing Up to Protest Sale of Red-Made Goods

WASHINGTON (AP)—A basket-burning ceremony in Fort Wayne, Ind. A special $1,000 license fee on Columbus, Ga., businesses that sell Communist-made goods "Card parties" denouncing imports from behind the Iron Curtain.

These are weapons in a cold-shoulder war waged by groups in several cities across the nation against merchandise imported from Soviet bloc nations.

'CARD PARTIES'
Card-carrying protest groups have marched on corner groceries and department stores in cities from Boston to Dayton to San Diego. They have staged

"card parties" pinning the Communist-made label on goods produced in Eastern Europe.

A typical card reads "Buy your Communist slave labor imports with the blank for the name of the store."

Leaders of organizations with such names as "The Committee to Warn of the Arrival of Communist Merchandise on the Local Business Scene," and "The Committee to Protect American Free Enterprise From Communist Slave-Labor Imports" say they have branches throughout the country.

Officials at the Commerce Department noted Monday there are no legal barriers to trade with Communist bloc nations, except Red China, North Korea, North Viet Nam and Cuba.

BELOW U.S. LEVEL

Although there are no special curbs, they added, imports from behind the Iron Curtain fall far below the level of U.S. exports to the Communist bloc.

Last year, the United States imported $1.1 million worth of goods from the Soviet bloc, while exports to Iron Curtain countries totaled $13.4 million.

The biggest single Communist import, and perhaps the easiest to spot on retail shelves, is Polish ham. Last year, $23.6 million worth of canned hams were imported from Poland.

Some merchants are fighting the boycott drive. Others withdrew Communist-made goods. In Dayton, Ohio, at least one major mail order and retail chain stopped selling Communist-produced bicycles, hams, wines, cut glassware, jewelry and other goods because of the protests.

At Fort Wayne, Ind., one store joined enthusiastically in the movement. As some 700 people looked on, wicker baskets imported from Yugoslavia were burned to a demonstration sponsored by the Young Americans for Freedom and the Allen County Council of Veterans Organizations. Mayor Paul M. Burns praised the store, for "spearing all ers, littering and using telephone drive to rid Fort Wayne of all Communist-made products." He said merchants should "see that only American-made products are sold here."

But in Dayton, the Retail Merchants Association said it will ask the City Commission today to make "card parties" illegal by banning the placing of pamphlets or stickers on merchandise in stores.

In Lexington, Mass., Atty. Edward M. Ginsberg warned after cards began showing up last month in a store he represents that he will seek prosecution of people caught putting them on goods.

Ginsberg said the people responsible are guilty of libel, tampering with the property of others, littering and using telephone with little success.

TO ASK PROSECUTION

After cards were found Saturday night in a supermarket at Decatur, Ill., State's Atty. Basil Greanias said he would recommend prosecution for trespassing of anyone found putting such labels on merchandise.

Police in San Diego, Calif., have refused to act on merchants' complaints that cards have been placed on Communist-made goods, advising the retailers to take civil action against any card-droppers they catch.

Robert L. Sparlin, who owns a variety store in Godfrey, Ill.,

has been trying to organize merchants against the protest group in nearby Alton, but with little success.

Sparlin ran afoul of the Alton Committee to Protect American Free Enterprise from Communist Slave-Labor Imports. The group's secretary, Mrs. William J. Drost, said the organization has chapters in 47 states.

She said it keeps no membership list and has no dues.

AN AFFILIATE

Leaders of the Dayton protest group said they are affiliated with the Committee to Warn of the Arrival of Communist Merchandise on the Local Business Scene.

They identified Dr. Jerome Herman as saying there are more than 200 chapters around the country.

Ralph Roberts, chairman of the Dayton chapter, said he and his wife may sue a local store for illegally detaining them. Roberts said they were held against their will for three hours Oct. 24.

The Columbus, Ga., City Commission voted Monday to adopt an ordinance imposing the special $1,000 fee on businesses which sell Communist imports, and requiring them to post signs reading "licensed to sell Communist products." The ordinance is to become effective Jan. 1.

City Atty. Lennie Davis said people in Mississippi, Idaho, New Jersey, California and Virginia have written praising the law and asking for copies.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

It's Wise to Beware of Tranquilizers

A very wise gentleman, taking note of the widespread unrest and just plain jitters in our midst, placed all the blame on communications.

In earlier times a man hardly knew what was going on in the next village.

Now he hears disturbing reports about skullduggery in Cuba, revolt in Algeria, murders in Afri-BRANDSTADT ca, and Communist infiltration in Laos.

It is as though your pet cocker could smell every plate of dog food and hear every yelp of canine rage all over the world at any given moment.

You would have to take him to the vet and ask that he be put out of his misery.

Now to put us temporarily out of our misery, the drugstore has added tranquilizers to the already overtopping shelves of pills.

Do not misunderstand me. Both types of pill are a much-needed help to physicians in the treatment of certain nervous and mental diseases but to use them for every flutter in the pit of the stomach is a gross abuse and one that nature has a way of punishing.

USED TO SPEED

The average American has become so used to speed that he expects a quick answer to every problem. It need not be the best answer or even the right answer but it must be quick.

Since tranquilizers were first used in mental hospitals in 1953, their use has spread to millions of persons who would be better off if they had never heard of tranquilizers.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A would-be photographer bought a camera at a suburban shopping center, but paid for it with a bad check.

It turned out to be easy for sheriff's detectives to find the man and arrest him at his home.

It is true that some of the most effective tranquilizers, like meprobamate and chlorpromazine, cannot be bought without a doctor's prescription.

However, other drugs, notably antihistamines, originally developed to combat allergies, have been found to have a depressant action on the brain. Some of these are now sold over the counter as tranquilizers.

REFERENCE TO ALCOHOL

Ex-Speedway President to Be Buried in Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Funeral service for C. William Sucher, former president of Speedway Petroleum Corp., will be held here today.

Sucher, 57, died yesterday of a heart attack. He and his late brother, Harold, were cofounders of Speedway.

He served as president of Speedway for 30 years before it was sold, then becoming chairman of the board of Tulsa Oil Co. His survivors include a son and three daughters.

their mouths to steal away their brains!"

He was referring to alcohol, but the same might be said of any drug that depresses mental activity and makes us less alert, especially if it is self-prescribed.

Just to make sure not to miss any bets, the manufacturers of these widely advertised tranquilizers now put out pills that contain a mixture of several drugs.

These include bromides, which are relatively harmless except that they cause some persons to develop pimples; painkillers of the type derived from coal tar, which may also depress heart action, and hyoscyne, the drug used to induce twilight sleep.

None of these drugs can be taken regularly or in large amounts without undesirable side effects.

The best advice is: Don't take any drugs unless you know all the actions, desirable and undesirable.

Know the smallest amount that will produce the desired effect, how often you can take it and for how long without causing damage to some part of the body.

Only your doctor can guide you on such a potentially perilous course.

Congressmen Will Play Numbers Game

By RUTH MONTGOMERY
WASHINGTON—The first order of business for the 86th Congress in January will be to play the numbers game.

Each new senator is entitled to two committee assignments, and although one senatorial contest in South Dakota is still in doubt, the odds are that minority Republicans will have to make way for Democrats on eight committees.

This will require a major reshuffling, since senators with greater seniority invariably use such an opportunity to improve their own committee assignments, shifting from lower ranking committees like "District of Columbia" and "rules" to such coveted ones as foreign relations, appropriations and armed services.

No matter how they play the numbers, however, one outcome is inevitable. Southerners and creaking oldsters will retain the powerful chairmanships of practically every major committee.

Senator Carl Hayden, the 85-year-old dean of the Senate who was re-elected from his hospital bed this month, will continue to preside over the purse-holding appropriations committee.

He may also continue the feud with 83-year-old Rep. Clarence Cannon of the corresponding House committee which bottled up all money bills this fall, until the very end of the longest peace-time congressional session in history.

Thanks to the rigid rules of seniority, Southerners will dominate legislation through these choice committee chairmanships: Allen Ellender of Louisiana, agriculture; Richard Russell of Georgia, armed services; Willis Robertson of Virginia, banking and currency; Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, finance; J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, foreign relations; John McClellan of Arkansas, government operations and investigations; James O. Eastland of Mississippi, judiciary; Lister Hill of Alabama, labor and public welfare; and Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, post office and civil service.

All except two of those gentlemen are well past 60, and several are septuagenarians.

Most are highly capable legislators, but since the 11 Communist states comprise only one-sixth of our union, and far less than that on a population percentage it is questionable whether these formidable chairmen accurately represent the political philosophy of America.

The next session would seem to present an ideal climate for Congress to do a little soul-searching about its cob-webby seniority system.

Neither brains nor wisdom, but the sheer ability to win re-election decides who will preside over congressional committees.

Since those from one-party areas of the nation have the best chance to retain their seats, these lawmakers move inexorably up the ladder of committee seniority until death or defeat at last vacates the chairmanship. Then they are automatically "in."

STAYS IN CONTROL

The political party with the most seats always controls the committees, and this is as it should be. There are two seemingly logical ways, however, that the seniority problem could be solved.

One way would be to rotate the chairmanship of committees each session. Another would be to place a limit on the length of time any man can hold a particular chairmanship.

Either of these methods would avoid the kind of entrenched power that permits one man to bottle up legislation he does not personally like, and thereby prohibit a vote on the floor.

About once every generation a group of "Young Turks" composed of discontented freshmen and sophomore legislators rises in

Petition for Recount in Virginian District

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Republicans filed a petition yesterday asking for a recount in the 3rd District congressional race which GOP candidate Louis Williams lost to veteran Rep. J. Vaughan Gary, D-Va., by 343 votes.

Williams, a 35-year-old obstetrician, said he wanted a recount as a check because the margin was close enough that an "honest human error" could have affected the outcome.

the Senate to challenge its hoary rules.

With 68 Democrats controlling the new Senate by better than two-to-one, and with only 21 of them from the Old South, the storm clouds may be gathering for another revolt of senatorial youngsters.

It's a cinch that a former senator named John F. Kennedy would welcome it.

Recovery Teams Sift Guam Rubble

AGANA, Guam (AP) — Recovery teams began sifting through what appeared to be a massive junkyard on Guam today and said they expect to find more victims in the rubble left by Typhoon Karen.

Karen, officially described as the worst disaster in the history of this strategic American outpost in the western Pacific, damaged or destroyed nearly every civilian building on the island. Winds up to 174 miles an hour blasted the island for four hours Sunday night.

So far, six Guamanians have been reported dead, at least 100 other natives and military men or dependents injured and damages estimated at more than $100 million.

Red Cross and civil defense offices have been set up to coordinate recovery. U.S. Dist. Judge Paul D. Shriver has been named as head of this effort.

WRECKAGE UNCHECKED

Most of the wreckage is still unchecked. "When we finally get to cleaning up the mess, we'll probably find more bodies," police officials said.

Acting Gov. Manuel Guerrero termed it a miracle that more did not die.

Most schools and businesses were closed. Male teachers were assigned to a security force to protect schools and property. Women teachers were ordered to work with the Red Cross and other recovery groups.

Temporary home repairs have begun, but most residents were still living in hospitals, churches and schools.

Water was in short supply and being distributed at emergency pumping stations across the 32-mile-long island.

Guerrero told his people that help was coming but urged them to "do what you can yourselves. We must help ourselves first."

TO MISS OKINAWA

In Tokyo, meanwhile, weather forecasters said Karen was expected to pass some 150 miles to the south and east of U.S. con-

"I'm for concrete on these new Interstate highways—its durability saves upkeep costs and tax money"

The National Road Test demonstrates again concrete's durability and lasting riding quality.

Concrete can save future upkeep expense on Interstate highways. The recent National Road Test, sponsored by the American Association of State Highway Officials, tells why.

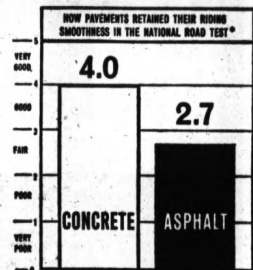

Concrete and asphalt were tested side by side on 5 loops under the same truck traffic for 2 years. Final ratings of riding quality (chart) showed surviving concrete still averaged "very good," asphalt "fair."

Other road tests proved concrete's upkeep savings: Indiana Test Road, $5,602.02 per mile in 6 years. Oklahoma Test Road, $22,393.52 per mile in 8 years. Concrete means economy.

Bold colors — emerald, yellow and turquoise — highlight the painstaking hand silk-screened designs of Mr. Dino. Perfectly color-matched with coordinating pants, both in 100 per cent silk, the over-shirt features a long back zipper designed for keeping hairdo unmussed. Pants come in shocking gemstone colors, and both pieces are available in sizes 8-18.

Here's a variation on a shorty skirt theme in white duck with slash, self-piped pockets by Chestnut Hill. It's pictured here with a black and white checkerboard sleeveless shell of 100 per cent cotton. The skirt, white only, in sizes small, medium and large, is a 50-50 blend of Arnel and cotton.

Piping in pretty harmony outlines this 100 per cent pure linen shift by Harburt. Both piping and sash come in contrasting colors, sizes 8-18. Comes in blue, green, shrimp or beige.

Typical of the season's newest look for resort-cruise wear, is the Americana print tunic over solid pants. Pantino adds a white braid to this sleeveless version, but it looks well unbelted too. The tunic comes in red, white and blue combinations, is 100 per cent cotton. Pants come in every color under the sun and are a blend of dacron and cotton.

Clothes Perk Up Holiday

There's always something novel and exciting added to each season's holiday cruise and resort wear.

This season, young conservatives have a chance to strike a bit of the unique and distinctive without foregoing their traditional look. Holiday entertaining takes on added zest with black velvet pants featuring double side zippers. The pants coordinate with silky long-sleeved shirts in multicolored abstract blocks and other prints.

Devotees of shorty skirts, both back and front wraps, will be pleased to see a number of variations on this look. One of the outstanding little shifts this season is in linen with contrasting piping and sash at the neck and arms—relaxed and sedate at home or anywhere.

Silk has a wonderful way of serving the year-round hostess. In appropriate weights for both tops and pants, it's perfect for shipboard or resort festive occasions.

It also plays a prominent role in the variety of dashing artistic hand silk screened patterns available in the most unusual prints and designs.

On the high seas or high ground, the look is easy — tunics, belted, sashed or buttoned if you wish — casual and colorful.

Nathan Gordon at Tuesday Musicales

Viola Artist Thrills Audience

By BERNICE ROSENTHAL
Once in a great while, a concert-going audience is privileged to hear an artist whose mastery of instrument and interpretation is so great that the result is sheer musical magic.

Such an artist is Nathan Gordon, principal violinist of the Detroit Symphony, and one of the great soloists of our time, who was heard Tuesday afternoon at the November meeting of the Pontiac Tuesday Musicales at Grace Lutheran Church.

In his hands, the viola, rarely heard as a solo instrument, combines the rich, mellow tones of the cello with the keen, fluid timbre of the violin.

Playing an instrument which was made by a 16th century predecessor of Stradivarius who established the modern form of the instrument, Mr. Gordon treated it with the reverence and devoted skill which showed its splendid qualities to best advantage.

SCHOLARLY PROGRAM

His program was varied and scholarly. The Arioso and Gavotte by the 17th century composer, Lully, set the tone of his concert with the sweet sadness of the Arioso and the playful patterns of the Gavotte.

With the first down bow, the magnificent tones of the viola sang with a kind of vocal fullness which is characteristic of Mr. Gordon's beautiful tone quality.

For this listener, the Bach Chaconne for viola, unaccompanied, was the highlight of that and many other musical experiences.

Andante, the most beautiful part of the entire sonata, was ethereal, wistful and haunting. Here the sensibility of both musicians showed true creative understanding.

The third and fourth movements, Allegro Giocoso and Vivace, were a graceful waltz played with as much delicacy as one could expect of Brahms, and a rapid, rondo-like movement, filled with fine bowing variation and incredible lightness.

Two encores provided a light and charming ending, the Valse Sentimentale by Tchaikowsky, and the Schornsmarien by Kreisler.

ARTISTS INTRODUCED

The program chairman, Mrs. Victor Lindquist, introduced the chairman of the day, Mrs. C. Benton, who introduced Mr. Gordon and Mr. La Gore.

Intermission speaker was Mrs. Robert Livsey of Birmingham, who spoke about the aims and objectives of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Hostesses at the door were Mrs. Arno L. Hulet and Mrs. Oscar Lundbeck. At the teatable were Mrs. John Thors and Mrs. Webster S. Francis.

On the social committee were Mrs. William Thomas and Mrs. J. P. Livingston, cochairmen, assisted by Mrs. J. F. Blamy, Mrs. Vernon Abbott, Mrs. Bruce Annett, Mrs. James Corwin, Mrs. Jack Habel and Mr. Harold B. Euler.

Membership chairman, Mrs. F. B. Read, welcomed the following as new members: Mrs. Harold F. Wells, Mrs. Emerson A. Gordon, Mrs. James Morris and Mrs. Clark B. McPhail.

Abby Says Live and Learn

Too Much and Too Soon

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A very popular boy at school (he is a basketball star) asked me out. And where did he take me? Parking!

Then he bought me a malt at some dark, out-of-the-way drive-in where no one could see us. He did this four times.

When a school dance came along he asked somebody else. When he sees me in the halls at school he acts like he doesn't even know me.

I was hoping if I parked with him a few times he would get to like me well enough to ask me to some school dances, but it isn't working out that way.

How can I get him to date me where we can be seen? PARKED

DEAR PARKED: Apparently the boy is not proud to be seen with you. (And can you blame him?) You gave too much too soon. You'll never make his first string.

Turn in your suit and get off his team. And let this be a lesson to you.

DEAR ABBY: Can I sue my husband for divorce for something that happened four years ago?

I just found out for sure that my husband ran around with another girl in 1958. When I told him about it he said that unless you catch a person within a year of the crime, your warranty runs out. Is it true?

DEAR AZELIA: You did not marry a washing machine — you married a man. Warranties do not apply to people. But think it over. How has he been behaving since?

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Sister Wins Party Prize; Forfeits It

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: I gave a party for a friend of mine who is leaving shortly for an extended trip abroad. It was an informal gathering of friends and a few relatives.

To add a note of novelty to the party I wrote a number on the back of each plate (I used paper plates for the refreshments) and announced to the guests there would be a drawing for a prize after we had finished eating.

I asked one of the guests to draw a number from a hat in which I had marked papers with corresponding numbers. My sister's number was drawn and as I did not think it right that she, as a member of my family, be given the prize, a second number was drawn.

My sister was quite put out over this and thinks that she should have been given the prize. May I please have your opinion on this?

A: If your sister lives with you, you were quite right in not giving her the prize, but if she came to your house as a guest she should have been allowed to keep the prize just the same as any other guest.

Q: I was invited to a lunch party recently for an out-of-town guest. The hostess was not a friend of mine although I have known her casually for some time. The person for whom the luncheon was given is an intimate friend.

I would like to know if I am obligated to the hostess in any way for this invitation? I am very anxious to know the correct thing to do.

A: Even though you were invited because of your friend, you should, if possible, return the invitation.

Q: The young daughter of a friend of mine is soon to have a birthday and I would like to send her a birthday card. I am not sure how to sign the card to this child. She calls me Mrs. Brown. Would it be proper in this case to sign my name as such?

A: To a young child it would be correct to sign yourself Mrs. Brown if that is what she calls you. Any other name would confuse her.

Details concerning the announcement of an engagement are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Announcing the Engagement." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Emily Post Institute, in care of this newspaper.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have not been able to locate any Japanese socks, or 'tobi,' to wear with my Japanese flip-flops. Besides being fine on the beach, these rubber-thonged sandals are useful indoors, even in cold weather, if worn with a divided sock.

"I stitched down the center of a pair of stretch socks, from the toe to about two inches down, and back again to the toe, leaving a space of about one-fourth inch between the two seams. I repeated this about 1/4-inch outside the first stitching, for reinforcement, before sitting between the seams. One side has room for the first or large toe, and the other side will accommodate the rest. The socks seem even more comfortable than ordinary socks when worn with loafers or tennis shoes."

Mrs. Clarice Scott, Norfolk, Va., is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for this helpful suggestion.

BROOMSTICK SKIRT?

"Dear Eunice:

"Would you please tell me how to make a 'broomstick skirt'? My mother made one for me many years ago. It was very full and pretty, and it seems to me that the skirt had a permanent pleated effect."

Mrs. G.M. I'm sorry but I have no information on this type of skirt. If any of you readers have one, please let us know how it is done. I will be happy to give the instructions in this column.

BIND THE SEAMS

"Dear Eunice: "I bought some quilted material to make my young daughter a skirt and weevil. Would you please tell me how to finish the seams and hem?"

Mrs. F.C. There are several ways you could finish these seams. Perhaps the best way is to bind the seams in matching bias binding.

You could also turn under about 1/4 inch of the seam allowance and machine stitch close to the edge. Since quilted fabric has a tendency to separate, it is a good idea to finish the seams in some way other than pinning them. The hem may be made in the ordinary way, using hem tape.

The weesit would serve "double duty" if you would make it completely reversible and use a contrasting color to complement the quilted fabric. This type of fabric is practical because it requires little pressing and is sturdy.

THERE'S A TRICK

"Dear Eunice:

"I have a pattern that calls for a rolled hem. I'm uncertain about how this is done and need your help."

Mrs. K.F.S. This is a very tiny finish to a garment that is done by hand. There is a little trick that will make this hand hemming easier.

Machine stitch about 1/4 inch from the cut edge of your garment. Trim the excess fabric to about 1/4 inch from stitching line.

Carefully roll this edge and hand-stitch with tiny invisible stitches. The machine stitching is especially helpful when hemming sheer fabrics such as chiffon because it keeps the edge from stretching.

Mrs. W.A.F. says, "I make hundreds of aprons, for the Scouts to sell, from odds and ends of material left over from sewing for my girls and grandchildren. It is a plain cut apron with a quilted band on the bottom. Since many women use the bottom of their aprons as a pot holder, you can see how handy this would be.

The quilting is done all the way across the bottom. However, I make it wider at each end to fit the hand. You can use worn out blankets for padding the quilted sections.

Please send questions and "new ideas" to Sew Simple so that we may share them with all the girls who sew from coast to coast. Send your mail to Sew Simple, in care of The Pontiac Press.

Carton seams: These are seams used in coats and dress skirts made up of several gored sections. The seams are pressed together like trouser pleats. Don't over-fit the skirt or you will lose the effect.

Have You Tried This?

Pan of Hot Rolls Will Be a Fine Addition

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor With Thanksgiving only a week away you are probably thinking of your menu. Mrs. Charles Martin's recipe for Pan Rolls may be just what you're looking for.

Exercise, Diet Help

Keep Yourself Young

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Don't give in to inertia, years and a matronly figure! Just a few exercises done every day and an eye on the calorie chart will give you a longer life expectancy and also a beautiful figure.

And do not make the mistake many women do and blame it on your glands! It is true that the glandular system begins slowing down some at middle age, but overweight from 40 on is usually due much more to decreased physical activity and too much food than to glandular deficiency.

EAT RIGHT

A woman must work hard to keep her figure from middle age on but she can retain control of it with exercise, less rich food and more vitamin and mineral-potent foods.

Women are likely to drop sports and dancing in which they have participated as their food budget increases. Their meals may become richer, too, and they probably will eattain more. They may fail to replace sports with planned exercise and thus give in to the middle-age spread.

Here is another combination exercise which will reduce the waist and diaphragm and pull fat off of the back. Kneel on both knees. Raise the arms overhead, one arm by each ear, head back slightly. Stretch upward, not only with the arms but by lifting the rib cage. Now bend forward touching the fingertips to the floor as far out in front of you as you can. Raise the trunk and arms upward again and stretch toward the ceiling.

 This exercise should be done very slowly. The stretch is the important thing. Take time for it! If you would like to have my Combination Exercises (which kill two figure faults with one motion) send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 5. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press.

Tomorrow: "Creative Outlet Important For Emotional Happiness."

Polly's Pointers

Both Practical Ideas

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I use an egg carton to store my earrings. Each compartment is the right size for a pair and it keeps them from being scattered all over my dressing room.

JUNE S. GIRLS — Any idea for keeping dresser drawers neat rings a bell with me. They really can get out of hand. Keeping jewelry separated cuts down on damage and breakage, too.

POLLY DEAR POLLY — After painting a room, remove the light switch plate and write on it how many gallons of paint were needed for the room as well as the color of the paint used. When repainting at a later date, you will only have to remove the switch plate to find out how much paint will be needed. MRS. K.

I would take that switch plate off before I started to paint.

POLLY DEAR POLLY — Just before vacuuming my rug, I sprinkle table salt on them. It not only brightens the rug but eliminates the moth problem, eggs and all.

LORRIE GIRLS — This is a sort of handed-down-from-mother-to-daughter trick. However, with all the different materials in today's rugs, I wonder if a little hidden corner first.

POLLY Share your favorite home-making ideas . . . send them to Polly in care of The Pontiac Press. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

Some Parents Cling to Past With Children

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. As the front door closes behind his daughter and her date, Mr. B. pulls down his newspaper and says to Mrs. B. "She's out again tonight? What's she got a home for if it isn't to stay in it once in a while?"

"It used to be good enough for her when she was a kid. Now it's go with any guy who wants to take her out."

"Oh Harry, she's growing up," says Mrs. B. "She's not a little girl any more. We're not enough for her any more. You remember when you were her age . . ."

But Mr. B. can't use this comfort. Folding his newspaper, he gets heavily to his feet and says, "I'm going to turn in. I've had a hard day. I'm tired. I guess I'm getting old . . ."

It's always exhausting to sentimentalize our pasts with our children.

Mr. B.'s past as the father of 16-year-old Lydia was not the purely golden one he remembers. She was often troublesome, self-centered and complaining.

She was quite unaware of what it cost her father to commute to his suburban home every morning and evening in order to give her fresh air.

She had no idea of the sacrifices that were involved to pay for the braces on her teeth now of the effort that had to be made to deal wisely with the lie she once told about not stealing another little girl's toy watch.

But Mr. B. has chosen to forget those memories that would make parenthood what it was — sometimes rewarding, sometimes unrewarding. In his middle age, he is becoming conservative, holding on to the past without investigation of its actual value to him.

In old age certain kinds of people clutter their closets and bureau drawers with stale food, faded newspaper, yellowed letters from dead people — collections of material things they must cling to regardless of present usefulness.

To Stage 2 Plays by 'Unstabled' in Waterford

Sponsored by the Waterford Township Schools English Association, two one-act plays will be presented at 8 p.m. tonight in the west cafeteria of the Waterford Kettering High School, according to Robert Kaminski, president.

The cast will be a group from Detroit known as "The Unstabled." The plays programmed are "The Sand Box" by Edward Albee and "Crawling Arnold" by Jules Seiffer. The program is open to the public, and admission will include refreshments.

Women's Day to Feature Talk by Club Member

Mrs. John Appleton of the Christian Women's Fellowship, First Christian Church, will be that group's speaker for Women's Day, Dec. 2.

This was announced during Tuesday's meeting. It also was noted that a blood bank will be set up Nov. 27 at the First Baptist Church. Co-chairmen for the bazaar set for Friday, Dec. 7, from 5 to 9 p.m. are Mrs. Harold Brown and Mrs. James Vaughn.

Mrs. Franklin Webster gave the program "Atomic Plow Shares," and a film, "The Atom and You," was shown.

A Beautiful Fallacy

Sees Medicare as Silly

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE N-478: Dr. Seth W. Shields is a famous dental surgeon of the Hoosier State. He has a very sense of humor that is a cross between that of James Whitcomb Riley and Mark Twain.

So he is popular as an after-dinner speaker, as well as a writer in dental journals, for he always injects enough wit to make his serious remarks sparkle. Like most of our patriotic Americans, he opposes letting Uncle Sam compete with us taxpayers in our jobs.

So he objects to socialized medicine. In England, for example, the doctors under socialized medicine can give patients only an average of three minutes apiece!

Why, in that time you could hardly get your shirt off so a doctor could listen to your heart!

No wonder medicine in England has now degenerated into a quick writing of prescriptions for pain-killing drugs.

To prevent such mass production and "assembly-line" medicine in America, Dr. Shields thus invites us to join his new organization.

Please notice his reduction to absurdum technique!

He calls this new society "Freedom Fighters for Socialized Beer, Whisky and Wine."

And to justify our joining it, he argues that in an average year "America spends 9.6 billions on alcoholic beverages and only 4.5 billions on medical care."

"Yet nobody needs alcoholic drinks though everyone is willing to pay for them. 'Nearly everybody needs medical care, but no one wants to pay for it."

"Therefore," adds Dr. Shields, "why should we furnish socialized medical care free to those past 65 and omit furnishing them free liquor?"

"So write your congressman," he urges. "Don't be a half-baked socialist! Go whole hog!"

In logic we describe several common fallacies, such as the ad hominem fallacy wherein your logic is ignored as your opponents try to belittle your personality or religion, etc.

A second common fallacy is called the hasty generalization where you may jump to conclusions on the basis of inadequate facts.

By another beautiful fallacy is called the reductio ad absurdum which means you carry your opponent's arguments to absurdity.

Beware, therefore, that some of you singletrack folks don't miss Dr. Shields' clever reductio ad absurdum!

For many of you will probably jump on me and attack Dr. Shields for urging free liquor for those past 65, espe-

HISTORIC CHURCH — Paint Creek Methodist Church, which has been at the same location in the heart of Goodison for 75 years, will be the setting for a homecoming celebration Sunday. Before the turn of the century it was known as St. John's Methodist Church. Later it was called the Goodison M. E. Church which was its official designation until 1961 when it was incorporated under its present name. The country church now has some 135 members.

Marks 75 Years Sunday

Anniversary for Church

GOODISON—Paint Creek Methodist Church, whose history parallels that of the community, will be the scene of a 75th anniversary celebration Sunday.

The present church edifice, which dates back 167 years, was dismantled and moved to its present site at Orion and Collins roads in 1887.

It was purchased for one dollar, then taken apart for easier moving by farm wagon from the Abraham Oxford farm to its present location.

Although the main structure is essentially the same as it was over 100 years ago, a few additions have been made in recent years. Among them was a Sunday school annex that the church members built with contributions of both work and money about 10 years ago.

The interior of the white frame church also has been modernized, a new bell and roof added and the outside landscaped with evergreens and other plantings.

Bishop Marshall R. Reed will take part in the special homecoming service at the church Sunday at 3 p.m.

SET OPEN HOUSE

After the service there will be an open house in the annex where refreshments will be served. On display will be a booklet written by Mrs. Elsie Harper which gives the entire history of the church building.

Also on exhibit will be a watercolor of the church painted by Charles Culver a number of years ago. In addition, there will be old deeds, pictures, Bibles and other items pertaining to the history of the area.

Chairman of the homecoming is Phil Johnson. Official greeters will be Oakland Township Supervisor Frank J. Voll and his wife, Mrs. William Reeves in charge of the refreshment committee.

Rev. David M. Liscomb, church pastor, also will be on hand to welcome parishioners, guests and ministers who have served the historic church in years past and are expected back for the homecoming.

The women plan to work with the Avondale Defenders, 12 men who also oppose the recall movement being attempted by the Avondale School District Improvement Association.

The ASDIA is trying to recall school board members Floyd L. Cobb Jr., president; David W. Hackett, vice president; Raymond N. Baker, secretary; and Mrs. Genevieve Porter, treasurer.

The four are charged with forcing former School Supt. Lefty R. Watt to resign as well as incompetence and lack of dedication in their work.

Mrs. George Dill, 368 Orchard view, Avon Township, was selected chairman of the group at yesterday's meeting.

The women issued a statement saying that they are "determined that at our community reflect the proper values for our children."

"We are very disturbed about this recall which is being promoted by an organization that is distorting the true facts about our schools and is spreading false rumors to satisfy adult desires."

The statement also expressed the group's opinion that the recall movement would discourage qualified persons from running for school board offices and discourage good teachers from working in the Avondale School District.

MARILEE JO CROSS

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cross, 717 W. University Drive, Rochester, announce the engagement of their daughter Marilee Jo to Phillip Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Townsend, 65 Hi-Hill Drive, Orion Township. The wedding will take place Feb. 2.

Avondale Mothers Work to Block Board Recall

Eight "very disturbed" mothers in the Avondale School District yesterday began a program of informing the public about the recall of four school board members.

Meeting at the home of Mrs. David W. Hackett, 1380 Ruby St., Avon Township, the mothers discussed the current school district

Holly Moves to Keep Plant

President Sets Talk With Firm

Out to Keep Container Maker in Area

HOLLY — Village President John F. Oldani is expected to meet with officials of the Allied Corrugated Container Co. in an attempt to keep the plant in Holly.

The company's plant here is one of the village's largest employers, with a working force of 108 persons, a firm spokesman said today.

My Sweet, president of Allied Corrugated Containers, was unavailable for comment on the rumored move at his Detroit offices this morning.

Sweet reportedly was on his way to Battle Creek on business. However, a company official in Holly said there have been "substantial rumors" that the plant here will be moved.

Acting quickly on the rumors which have been circulating here recently, the Village Council agreed that Oldani and possibly Village Attorney Robert A. McKenney should meet with company representatives to see if the plant can remain in Holly.

Little more than two years ago, the village's largest employer, American Spring of Holly, Inc., moved its entire operations to Charlotte, N.C.

American Spring officials blamed "high wages and taxes" for their decision to move. The firm employed 200.

However, the company which left for the South returned here early this year under a new name, the Holly Spring Co. It now employs about 100 workers.

Fred E. Barton, owner of Bar's Product Supply Inc. at 720 Rose St., was granted a tax concession by the village council Oct. 9 so he would move his Shortsville, N.Y., plant to Holly.

Troy Sets Session on Sewer Position

TROY — A special session of the Troy City Commission will be concerned with firming up its position on the proposed enlargement of the Dequindre Sanitary Interceptor Sewer prior to a 14-community meeting tomorrow.

City Manager David E. Firestone said today that 10 of the 14 municipalities involved in the Dequindre project have been contacted and will send representatives to tomorrow's joint meeting. It will be held at 8 p.m. in Troy High School.

He said 12 of the communities have formally approved the new contract requested by the Detroit Water Board, but they are all "extremely unhappy" about the 11th hour change.

The commission did not reach a decision on the position Troy would take on the project at its regular meeting Monday.

Instead they decided to sponsor tomorrow night's general meeting of the participating municipalities.

Mayor Robert J. Huber had signed a contract for the sewer on Oct. 30, having assurance of $250,000 in federal funds toward cost of the project and considering steps to obtain more federal aid on the sewer arm.

Monday, commissioners learned that the Oakland County drain commissioner's office and the Detroit Water Board agreed upon the need for an amendment to the contract.

The commission strongly objected to the amendment on grounds that Troy did not need a larger drain system than contracted for and it would be paying for something to be used by northern Oakland County communities.

He said the free parking policy originally was started as a test last April. The "free parking" stickers will remain on meters here as an aid to local merchants.

In discussion of a complaint by local residents, the council decided that an excavating job done by village employees on property owned by Holly's jurisdiction over to a larger institution. He said his feeling about the independence of Delta in no way reflected on his own institution, which he said has had no problems as the result of its close connection with MSU.

"I do not believe it would have made any difference if we had been established independently," he said. "East Lansing has neither added to nor detracted from our success in putting together a meaningful program."

He said he believed the real answer to Delta's future might lie in "starting from scratch" to build an independent four-year school on the foundation already existing instead of turning

Offer Evidence Why Delta Can Succeed as Full College

LANSING (AP) — Failure of the University of Michigan's Flint and Dearborn branches to attract expected enrollment from junior colleges was offered in evidence yesterday as to why Bay City's Delta Community College could succeed as a four-year, degree-granting institution.

Testifying before a House interim committee considering Delta's future, Dr. Roger Heyns, U. of M. vice president for academic affairs, said U. of M. officials are "frankly puzzled" by the apparent reluctance of junior colleges students to pursue their last two years of study at the U. of M. branches.

Because enrollment at both is far short of what was anticipated, the Flint and Dearborn branches — which offer only the last two years of college study — have added courses not originally contemplated in an effort to take up the slack.

"Evidence shows that students who enroll as freshmen in four-year institutions are far more likely to finish than those who start in a junior college and transfer at the end of their junior year," said Heyns.

They drop out. In a study conducted two years ago, he said, U. of M. found that some 15,000 Michigan junior college students completing their first two years, only 700 or 800 went on to pursue their education.

He said this is one reason why Delta could expect to maintain a high level of enrollment if it follows through on plans to expand to a four-year curriculum.

Heyns told the committee, headed by Rep. Lester O. Beagle, R-Bay City, that U. of M. is receptive to the proposal by Delta officials that it take over the Bay City college as a new branch, administered by the U. of M. board of regents.

The all-night parking ban will be in effect from Dec. 1 to May 1. The "free parking" stickers will remain on meters here as an aid to local merchants.

Village President John F. Oldani estimated the loss in parking meter revenue from $5,000 to $6,000 a year.

However, he said one merchant had told him that he would rather pay higher taxes than have the metered parking put into effect again.

The free parking policy originally was started as a test last April. The "free parking" stickers will remain on meters here as an aid to local merchants.

Councilmen agreed that the meters should not be removed since they may be needed again next summer.

In discussion of a complaint by local residents, the council decided that an excavating job done by village employees on property owned by Holly's jurisdiction over to a larger institution. He said his feeling about the independence of Delta in no way reflected on his own institution, which he said has had no problems as the result of its close connection with MSU.

"I do not believe it would have made any difference if we had been established independently," he said. "East Lansing has neither added to nor detracted from our success in putting together a meaningful program."

He said he believed the real answer to Delta's future might lie in "starting from scratch" to build an independent four-year school on the foundation already existing instead of turning jurisdiction over to a larger institution. He said his feeling about the independence of Delta in no way reflected on his own institution, which he said has had no problems as the result of its close connection with MSU.

New Audit Was Made After Manager Quit

OXFORD — The Village Council last night received a report from its auditors revealing "that the financial records have been maintained in an accurate and careful manner and no irregularities were disclosed."

A decision to make another audit of last year's financial records was made at the Oct. 23 council meeting, the first after the resignation of Village Manager Robert W. Smalley.

Smalley, 39, resigned from his post after learning he was to appear in Detroit's Common Pleas court on a charge of missing $1,450 in public funds while he was city manager of Riverview.

He will be arraigned in Wayne County Circuit Court within five weeks on the same charge.

In other business the council discussed plans for a $300,000 sewer system, and a $100,000 primary sewage disposal plant.

The village will soon receive an $8,000 loan from the Federal government for preliminary planning of sewage treatment facilities.

The residents complained that municipal employees, using village-owned equipment, dug out a basement for a clinic to be in the health officer's private practice.

But councilmen learned that the excavated dirt was used as "backfill" on village public works projects.

Churches to Care for Refugees

DETROIT (AP) — Presbyterians in Michigan plan to resettle three planeloads of Cuban refugees beginning this December, church officials said yesterday.

The first flight will bring 35 to 40 Cubans to Detroit Dec. 4, said the Rev. Robert F. Hermanson, pastor of University Presbyterian church near Rochester.

Hermanson, who heads the denomination's Michigan resettlement project, said the refugees will be channeled to Presbyterian churches in Detroit, Escanaba and other communities.

The Presbyterians plan to bring two more flights to Michigan early next year. Transportation costs and about $100 per case will be provided by the U.S. to get the refugees started.

The figures augment Catholic, Jewish and other Protestant resettlement work already under way.

Holly Keeps Parking Free in Day, Banned at Night

HOLLY — Parking will continue to be free during the day in Holly's business district, but it will be prohibited on all village streets at night during the next five months.

The Village Council last night voted to continue "indefinitely" its policy of allowing free parking at meters and in the municipal parking lot during specified hours.

However, councilmen directed Police Chief William Wood to enforce an old ordinance which prohibits parking on any street between 2 and 6 a.m. for snow removal purposes.

The all-night parking ban will be in effect from Dec. 1 to May 1. The "free parking" stickers will remain on meters here as an aid to local merchants.

Old Art Is Still Widely Used

Flaming Sauce Tops Shrimp

Sausage making is a very old art. Today it is one of the important parts of the meat packing industry. Pork alone, or combined with beef, is made into a great variety of sausages. A fresh pork sausage, smoked sausage, dry sausage and cooked specialties.

In all sausage, the meat is coarsely, seasoned with spices and smoked, cooked or otherwise processed according to the kind.

Broccoli and Cheese Like Each Other

This vegetable casserole may be prepared early in the day and kept refrigerated until it's time to be heated and served.

Broccoli Casserole Supreme
4 cups cooked broccoli stems and buds cut in 1 inch pieces
1 10½-oz. can cream of mushroom soup
12-oz. jar sliced pimientos
¾ cup dairy sour cream
1 cup celery, sliced
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
½-¾ cup grated cheddar cheese
In a large mixing bowl combine all ingredients except the cheese. Place in large oiled casserole. Top with cheese. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 20-25 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

You're Ready For Extras With Soup on Shelves

Soup's a good idea for a quick supper-stretcher when youngsters unexpectedly invite their schoolmates to stay and eat at your house. It takes just 4 quick minutes to heat up several cups or mugs of steaming condensed chicken with rice soup.

Or perhaps the children's favorite is tomato or green pea soup. Whatever the favorite, serve soup as a meal-stretcher beverage to sip along with supper.

Be an Expert

When pouring pancake batter on griddle, use a large spoon, or a pitcher. Pour batter in pools a little apart (for perfectly round cakes). If it is necessary, grease griddle very lightly.

You Can Do Exciting Things With a Blender

Pontiac Press Home Editor

Of all the appliances we use in the kitchen the one probably least understood and used is the blender. Food faddists have been trying for years to get us to blend all sorts of weird combinations. But day-by-day use has been somewhat neglected by most blender owners.

For the past week Mrs. Betty Sullivan, director of home economics at Hamilton Beach Corporation, Racine, Wis., has been in the area helping to make a color film on the use of the blender. We spent an hour with her at Portafilms Studio on Tuesday.

Although a blender has limitations — it won't whip egg whites or cream or grind meat as a food chopper does — it is the means by which the cook can give her family new food treats with unusual flavor sensations.

Take applesauce, for instance. With a blender you can make instant applesauce without cooking. We tried this one night for a party and our guests were intrigued with both the flavor and the texture of the sauce.

If you've given up grating coconut, carrots, or potatoes for pancakes because you keep losing fingernails, the blender is your answer. With a whir of the blades you can have any of these foods.

Hot fudge sauce is great fun to make with a blender. You can prepare it between the main course and the dessert. By changing the type of chocolate you use, you change the flavor.

Blender Chocolate Sauce
2 oz. chocolate (may be baking, semi-sweet, milk or rum flavored)

Onion and Orange Salad Colorful

For weight-watchers, here's a crisp, colorful salad with a low calorie count that satisfies the appetite.

Favorite Autumn Salad
1 head iceberg lettuce
1 head butter lettuce
2 oranges, sliced thinly or 1 cup mandarin orange sections
¼ Bermuda onion, thinly sliced
¼ sliced green pepper

Wash lettuce and tear into bite size pieces. Drain well. Place in salad bowl. Add other ingredients. Toss lightly with some of the Favorite French Dressing. Makes 4-6 servings.

If necessary, shell and devein shrimp. Heat olive oil; add onion, garlic and shrimp. Cook, stirring over low heat until shrimp are barely pink. Add tomatoes and seasonings. Stir to combine, then cover and simmer 10 minutes to blend flavors.

Mix cornstarch and water, then stir into bubbling liquid. Cook until thickened. Arrange hot rice to form a ring on serving platter. Stir half the brandy into shrimp mixture. Pour shrimp into center of platter. Warm remaining brandy, ignite rising vapors, pour over shrimp and serve. Makes six servings.

Mrs. Betty Sullivan, director of home economics, Hamilton Beach Corporation, makes what she calls a liquid salad. Every food you see on the table (with the exception of an onion) went into the blender with some pineapple juice. There were 4 kinds of fruit, three vegetables, raisins and peanuts. Mrs. Sullivan has been in the Pontiac area for a week making a film on the use of the blender.

½ teaspoon flavoring
½ cup granulated sugar
6 tablespoons hot liquid (may be milk, strong coffee or water.)

Cut the chocolate up into pieces the size of a pea. Add to other ingredients in the blender and let run until smooth.

This sauce thickens as it cools and may be made into little fudge balls. Roll in chopped nuts or coconut.

Speaking of coconut — if you chop it in the blender, be sure to peel off the inner brown skin or you will have dark specks all through your coconut. And do only half a cup at a time.

Mrs. Sullivan really gets enthusiastic when she talks about fixing food for children in a blender. As the mother of six, she is qualified to speak.

Children won't have to learn to eat a different type of food if they have always had some

Nut Bread Is Fine to Have in The Freezer

Nut breads make nice Christmas gifts. They can be made weeks ahead of time, wrapped in foil and frozen.

Cool thoroughly before slicing. Use thin sharp knife to prevent crumbling.

Nut bread slices spread with cream cheese are delicious for teas as well as lunch boxes.

Cut nut bread sandwiches in different shapes to give interest to a plate of sandwiches.

Mrs. Sullivan got us so enthusiastic — it must be contagious — that we were all set to go right home and make potato pancakes for our family. If you have a blender, get it highly seasoned foods for babies, out and put it to work in your but she believes that many of creative cooking. Maybe you the vegetables the family eats should put a blender on your are suitable for children if they list for Santa Claus if you don't are put through the blender first, own one.

Driving Dilemma: Bridge Falls

GOLCONDA, Ill. (UPI) — Dr. Paul L. Trovillion Jr., a veterinarian, can see his office building from his home — yet he has to drive 37 miles to work these days.

School buses bringing children to Golconda from the north must travel an additional 225 miles per day.

It's now a 47-mile trip instead of the usual 16 to the nearest hospital at Rosiclare, Ill.

Things changed suddenly in Golconda a week ago when a 133-foot-long steel bridge collapsed into Lusk Creek. The bridge, which spanned Ill. 146, gave way after a semitrailer truck carrying a bulldozer lumbered across.

Those living on the south side of the creek found themselves faced with a 37-mile drive to get to the grocery. Alternate means are a somewhat precarious walk across a 60-foot high railroad trestle crossing the creek and boat rides.

GIVES UP DRIVE

Trovillion has given up the long drive and twice a day steps gingerly along the trestle en route to his office. He schedules his visits so he can spend half the day on each side of the creek.

School children from the farms must get up much earlier and return home later and school officials complain the additional mileage run up by the buses is costing more than $300 a week.

The two physicians in the county both live south of the bridge and must go 31 miles out of their way to get to the Rosiclare hospital.

The merchants are worried about holiday season sales if a new bridge is not erected soon. "It could be a dreary season for the merchants," one said.

Another resident said the deer hunters "will not stay here and then make a long drive to hunt in the northern part of the county." Illinois highway department officials have been checking on the possibility of erecting a temporary one-lane bridge.

Golconda residents also are signing petitions addressed to Gov. Otto Kerner, urging he do something to replace the bridge immediately.

The longest application ever filed at the U.S. Patent office had 296 pages of text and 354 drawings.

Commissioners Defer Action on 3 Zonings

Action on three planning commission recommendations was tabled at last night's City Commission meeting.

Although city commissioners concurred with a planning board recommendation to rezone property from Manufacturing-1 to M3 on the southeast corner of Central and Irwin streets, further action was deferred due to public protest.

Opposing the proposed zoning change was Richard J. Sullivan, a Detroit attorney representing T. F. A. American Properties, of Detroit, which owns a warehouse at 267 E. South Blvd.

Sullivan presented a petition he said was signed by 77 owners or occupants of affected residential dwellings and owners of 16 business places representing some 118 employees in the area.

The petition "protests the proposed M3 zoning of this land and requests that it be denied without a public hearing."

City planners had introduced the measure "to supplement Pontiac's dwindling supply of vacant land zoned for heavy manufacturing."

Urban renewal officials had also publicly stated they hoped to relocate an auto parts or scrap metal dealer there from the urban renewal area.

A recommendation to deny rezoning 30 acres from Residential-1 to R3 on the East Side was tabled despite objections from Mayor Robert Landry and Commissioner Loy L. Ledford.

Developers who proposed to build a $2-million "townhouse" development on the site had asked that action on the recommended denial be postponed two weeks so they could be present to put their case before the commission.

The land lies north of Michigan Avenue between Tasmania and East Boulevard. Landry and Ledford asked for action on grounds that the proposal had been aired at last week's planning commission meeting. Both were in favor of denying the request for a zoning change.

Other commissioners generally agreed that action should be deferred to give developers a chance to present their case.

The third zoning item was a recommendation to deny a request to rezone from residential to commercial a triangular piece of land on the southeast corner of S. Telegraph Road and Glendale Street.

Action was deferred at the request of William F. Doherty, a Pontiac attorney, who owns the property and had asked for the zoning change.

Sammy Davis Jrs. to Adopt More Negro Children

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Sammy Davis Jr. says he and his wife, actress May Britt, plan to adopt two or three more Negro children in the future.

Legal adoption proceedings were completed this week with the Los Angeles County Adoption Agency for custody of 2½-year-old Mark Sidney Davis.

"We adopted him to be a big brother for our own little girl, Tracey," Davis said. "Given before May and I got married, we thought it would be nice to have a son first. But it didn't work out that way so we adopted one."

"His middle name, Sidney, is for my good friend, Sidney Polster. The song and dance man added that he and his blonde, Swedish-born wife plan to have seven children.

"We are going to alternate between having them ourselves and adopting them," said Davis, who married Miss Britt two years ago. "All you have to do is visit an orphanage to see how much you can do for a homeless child."

"May and I are so much in love there is plenty left over for lots of children."

Davis went on to say that all the couple's adopted children would be Negro.

LAST TO BE ADOPTED

"Minority ethnic groups are the last to get adopted," he explained. The lower financial strata isn't able to adopt children. I hope that we will inspire other people to adopt ethnic orphans."

"Anyhow, if you can afford to adopt children, you should do it. Kids enrich your life and make it fuller."

"A couple of years from now we expect to hear the patter of two more sets of little feet running around the house, one that we will have ourselves and one that we adopt."

Davis said that he is adding a third story to his large home above

Aid Director Resigns Post

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Kennedy has accepted the resignation of Fowler Hamilton as head of the U.S. foreign aid program, the White House reported. Hamilton's decision to resign and Kennedy's plan to accept had been widely reported over the weekend.

Assistant Press Secretary Andrew T. Hatcher, in answer to questions, said Hamilton had submitted his resignation as director of the Agency for International Development over the weekend. Hatcher said Hamilton will leave office when a successor is appointed.

He said he had no idea when Kennedy would choose a replacement but said flatly the new director would not be Sargent Shriver, the President's brother-in-law, who heads the Peace Corps.

Shriver has frequently been mentioned as a possible successor to Hamilton.

"We repeatedly with great emphasis have denied that," Hatcher said.

Ordered Committed to Mental Hospital

FLINT (UPI) — James R. Massey, 26, of Grand Blanc Township was ordered committed to the Ionia State Hospital for the Criminally Insane yesterday in the slaying of his wife Betty, 35, last June 8.

Genesee County Circuit Judge Louis McGregor yesterday ruled Massey was insane after testimony in a sanity hearing from three psychiatrists.

The psychiatrists described Massey as a paranoid and schizophrenic.

He had originally been charged with first-degree murder.

Rolls Will Economize

DERBY, England (UPI) — Rolls Royce Ltd. announced yesterday that Christmas bonuses — paid employees over the last 40 years — are being cut out this year for economy reasons.

Will Shoot Saturn in Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space scientists plan to launch a giant Saturn rocket within a few days in the third step of a test series aimed at blazing an American trail to the moon.

SAS—for Saturn-Atlas—will carry aloft more instruments than any U.S. rocket yet launched. It also will hurl a 95-ton ballast load of water into the ionosphere 104 miles up, in what the National Aeronautics and Space Administration calls a "bonus scientific experiment."

TEST FLIGHT

NASA announced plans today for the eight-minute test flight. The shot from Cape Canaveral, Fla., could come as early as Friday.

Only the eight-engine first stage of the 162-foot million-pound rocket will be powered in the test. That stage develops 1.3 million pounds of thrust.

The rocket's upper two stages will be loaded with water. Two minutes and 55 seconds after lift-off, when the Saturn has reached its apex and performance tests have been completed, the rocket will be blown apart, spewing the water into the ionosphere.

ICE CLOUD

NASA said this should form an ice cloud about five miles across. Scientists will observe and photograph the cloud, seeking more information on the atmospheric processes that lead to electrification. Similar experiments were conducted at lower altitudes on the earlier tests.

ICE CLOUD

All told, there are 10 tests of this model, the Saturn C1, on NASA's schedule. By late 1964 or early 1965, the agency said, the big booster should be ready to send the three-man Apollo spacecraft into earth orbit for flights of up to two weeks.

Push Button Gadgets Quick Way to Create More Work

BY PHYLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Okay, so now we're going to have groceries by computer . . . electronic super-marketing, push-button instead of push-cart.

I don't like the idea. Dr. John W. Mauchly, inventor of some of the first giant-sized computers, announced last week that within 10 years, housewives will have pocket varieties of electronic computers which will do the family shopping.

As he visualizes it, all the lady of the house will have to do is express her gustatory desires to her tiny packet of memory cells.

The computer will relate the information to the grocery of her choice.

Then she will toddle to the store, enter a delivery alcove, let the computer identify itself (I am Mrs. Jones' personal push-button!) and in less than a minute, her package of groceries will slide down a chute ready to be hoisted home.

My basic objection to this alleged boon to busy womankind is that science will be taking the joy out of shopping, while removing none of the misery.

It is the selection of foods that is fun for the average woman, who loves to meander amidst the potential meals; it is the loving home that is the drudgery.

If computers are so all-fired peachy dandy, why can't they lug home the canned soup and return the empty soda bottles?

JUST MORE WORK

But that is the trouble with push-button progress. It APPEARS to be helping Mama, while actually it is only creating more work.

For instance, in the case of this electronic personal shopper, it is easy to forecast that it might well (because it appears to be such a chore-saver) get carried away in its orders, to the extent that when the woman behind the itchy index finger arrives at the grocery, she finds 40 pounds of foodstuffs hurling down the chute for delivery.

In other words, a woman behind a push-cart knows what she's doing, while a woman behind a push-button is likely to get carried away. Possibly with a broken back.

I remember sociologist Dr. Margaret Mead telling me once that no woman of the rough-tough pioneer days of the oldest West worked as hard as the woman of today who has all the so-called "conveniences."

We have gadgets all over the house, to wash, dry, sweep, cook, distract the kiddies and ourselves. What happens? Because we have gadgets — and because they cost so much money — we use them constantly.

There was a day when we did the family wash once a week (or had a domestic helper do it), but now that we have a home laundry, we do the laundry once a day.

'COST MONEY'

Our consciences bother us. We say to ourselves: I'm privileged to own the latest modern contraption — it cost Joe a lot of money—

I'd better keep using it. The result is constant work.

And there's another factor. The more complex our little mechanical helpers become, the more difficult our tasks, the more little problems can arise. The dishwasher now has six separate cycles and when one goes out of whack, it takes a graduate of M.I.T. to put it together again, and the graduate of M.I.T. is very busy; he'll be around next week.

There is a great deal of talk now about our future "time-savers"—how about, for instance, the promised electronic ovens which will complete dinners in three minutes, shove them onto a conveyor belt which will deposit them on the table — the table which, after dinner, converts itself into a dishwasher-garbage disposal unit which does the dishes and conveys them back to the oven again? How about that?

But what happens when a screw gets rusty or a bolt drops away (and for loss of a nut, a woman could go nutty), not to mention the problem of maintenance. Who's going to clean out the monster's intricate insides?

No, I'm against progress. But maybe it's just my churchish mood.

Perhaps I'll look on it differently on that great promised day when the TV scientists promise we can push a button and have two-day consultations with a team of psychotherapists. . . .

A SWELL TIME — Eight-year-old Sheila Jenkins of Phoenixville, Pa., got the mumps, which isn't unusual for a youngster. But then her pet Manchester pup contracted mumps also. A veterinarian said the dog had a swollen neck and definite symptoms of mumps. He said it was not too common for dogs to contract mumps although it has been known to happen.

Estes to Withdraw Oath Stating He's a Pauper

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Bankrupt Billie Sol Estes, ordered by a federal judge to appear in court today to answer government questions, announced plans to withdraw a pauper's oath.

John Dennison of Pecos, one of Estes' attorneys, filed the pauper's oath petition Monday. It said Estes could not even afford the $3,500 cost of appealing the order which held him bankrupt.

Federal Judge R. E. Thomson set a hearing today and ordered Estes to appear to answer questions by government attorneys.

Dennison then went into federal court yesterday and notified Thomson that Estes will withdraw a pauper's oath.

It was not indicated when Thomson will rule on Estes' motion.

Morris D. Jaffe, a San Antonio businessman, bought Estes' multi-million dollar empire after Thomson declared the farm financier bankrupt.

Allan L. Page, an attorney representing bankruptcy trustee Harry Moore, said yesterday, "We will ask that it (the pauper's oath) be withdrawn with prejudice, so it can't be filed again in any court."

Page and Thornton Hardie, an attorney representing a committee of Estes' creditors, filed an answer yesterday to Estes' pauper's oath.

They said that it is their belief that Estes has kept certain funds at his disposal which he has not turned over to the trustee.

The answering petition also contended that Estes has not turned over to the trustee certain property in his hometown of Pecos including a home valued at $200,000 and an automobile, and that the pauper's oath did not contain proof that it was true.

Estes, 37, was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment last week for swindling a farmer in a complicated deal involving anhydrous ammonia tanks in West Texas.

2 Venezuelan Craft to Join Quarantine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Venezuelan destroyers are joining the arms blockade of Cuba, the Defense Department announced Tuesday.

The Venezuelan destroyers Zul-in and Nueva Esparta will operate along with destroyers and frigates from Argentina, the Dominican Republic and naval craft from the United States.

The multinational squadron is organized under a special inter-American combined quarantine force, which was set up last week under U.S. Rear Adm. John A. Tyree.

Pipelines Chewing Deep Into Freight Business

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK—Like a burrowing mole, a silent and hidden method of transportation is chewing deep into the conventional freight-moving business.

Networks of underground carriers are taking an increasing share of cargo, from the trains, trucks, barges and sea-borne tankers.

Astonishing demonstrations of versatility and an operating economy are the key to favor with trailblazers in the $100-billion-a-year transportation field.

The pipeline got its first big boost when oil and natural gas producers recognized its capabilities in the late 1800s.

Now, pipelines are moving coal, wood pulp, helium, liquid oxygen, high purity nitrogen and other chemicals on hauls from a few miles to hundreds of miles.

There is talk, perhaps visionary, of a day when such cargo as bauxite, forest products, milk and dry freight in bullet-shaped containers will move inside subterranean tubes.

ABROAD, ALSO
Pipelines are entering a new era abroad, too, specially for petroleum movement in the Soviet Union, the Near East and North Africa.

Engineers are working on plans for an intercontinental pipeline stretching through Mediterranean waters below the storm and steamship level to link Europe and Africa.

In the United States, the "Big Inch" and "Little Inch" pipelines captured the public imagination with workhorse faces in World War II.

At a time when conventional land and water transport was severely strained, the "Inches" delivered huge volumes of petroleum from southwestern fields to oil-thirsty metropolitan areas in the Midwest and Northeast.

In the next 15 years, the network of pipelines lacing the country's underground reached out to encompass an estimated 450,000 miles.

18 PCT. IN '61

The proportion of all intercity freight traffic moving through them grew from about 5 per cent in 1950 to nearly 10 per cent in 1960, to 12 per cent in 1961 and to just short of 18 per cent in 1962.

Pipelines now carry four-fifths as much intercity tonnage as trucks, about two-fifths the volume of railroads.

The upward trend is on the threshold of a new surge.

In June, work began on a $350-million, 1,000-mile new Colonial oil pipeline from 22 to 36 inches in diameter. It will run from Houston, Tex., to southeastern points and on to the New York area.

Nine big oil companies have joined in backing the project which will consume 650,000 tons of steel.

In the blueprint stage is a $100-million, 350-mile pipeline to carry slurry—finely crushed coal, mixed with water—from West Virginia to the New York area.

The technology involved was pioneered five years ago in a 105-mile coal slurry line in Ohio, connecting mines near Cadiz and coal-burning electric generating plants at Cleveland.

A third mammoth undertaking, a $223-million, 1,600-mile proposed gas pipeline, currently is tied up in a battle between utility corporations before the Federal Power Commission.

99 MILLIONS
This one would run from Texas across the northern edge of Mexico to Southern California.

Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. recently let contracts on a new 30-inch, six-state, $69-million conduit to expand gas deliveries from Kansas fields to the Midwest.

Wycoc Pipe Line Co. plans a 205-mile extension to pipe the output of petroleum refineries at Caspar and Cheyenne, Wyo., to a proposed new terminal at Rapid City, S.D.

Other king-sized projects are in the discussion stage.
Advances in automation and technology have spurred resurgent interest in pipelines, long favored for relative immunity to weather and terrain influences.

They have yielded anti-corrosive steels, greatly improved interior coatings and labor-saving pipe-laying and control techniques that permit a single man to regulate flow for hundreds of miles from a nerve center remote control panel.

The spread of pipelines sends shivers down the backs of railroad and shipping executives, for the economic implications are great.

DISPLACE TANKERS
A coastwise shipping spokesman protested that the Colonial pipeline, operating at full capacity, would displace nearly 100 standardized tankers plying coastal waters. An earlier estimate by a government agency put the number at 10 to 15.

Railroad men say the West Virginia-New York slurry pipeline would cut sharply into their coal-hauling business and lead to substantial layoffs. They are devising new rail equipment that will allow lower freight rates.

Even in some residential housing developments, pipelines—so far on a microscopic scale—are changing transportation patterns. In two new communities above New York City and one in New Jersey, builders have installed large-capacity, centrally located radiating to individual dwellings. Meters record usage at each fuel oil storage tanks, with pipes as in a water distribution system. house.

CHEERS FOR PHILIP — His royal highness, the Duke of Edinburgh (left), smiles as the crowd cheers him upon arrival at the Pacific Union Club in San Francisco. The prince arrived in San Francisco to highlight the city's observance of

New Orleans Cleanup Stymied

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — New again in full swing, B-drinking in Orleans night spots are hopping some of the strip palaces is worse once again and District Attorney than before the investigation. The Jim Garrison apparently has been only consolation that the district attorney can derive from his cleanup efforts was the activation of the Bourbon Association of Night Clubs (BANC).

The New Orleans district attorney's aggressive attack against crime in the French Quarter, described as the strongest ever taken in the city, was slowed to a standstill last week when eight criminal court judges charged him with defamation of character.

Garrison, irked over what he termed "lack of cooperation," blamed the judges for attempting to block his vice investigations by withholding funds due his office.

He also claimed the judges have a "vacation racket" which contributes to a heavy backlog of untried cases.

With Garrison's movements frustrated, the night clubs are

The girls work in well-organized fashion. As soon as they move in on the customers, waiters follow on their heels. The questions of "what would you like?" and "Are you buying the girls drinks?" are almost simultaneous.

The going rate for the B-drinkers' booze is $2.45 per shot. Most of the girls are hardened campaigners who can toss 'em down all night without batting an eyelash.

"The girls have to hustle the customers for drinks," one stripper explained. "Most of us get only $35 per week and we have to make up the rest on the drinks we hustle. We're not here to strip, but to get the patrons to buy drinks — and the drinks that are bought for the girls are watered down."

She went on to explain, "If we don't hustle drinks we don't keep our jobs."

Regular patrons, those who live in the French Quarter and know which ones are clip joints and which ones are not, can enjoy a good time at a reasonable price. But the poor, unsuspecting tourists are the ones who get taken to the cleaners.

HATE 'CLIP JOINTS'
Owners of the clean establishments despise the "clip joints" as much as the fellows who get taken. For these few night clubs give the French Quarter a bad name, scare business off from all strip palaces, and bring on strong investigations such as that conducted by Garrison this summer.

One trip to a clip joint usually is enough, but it can be a mighty costly lesson. And right now lessons are a dime a dozen in New Orleans' bawdy, gaudy French Quarter.

PLOTTING REVOLT — Members of a newly formed African revolutionary movement stand behind the barbed wire fence they built around their storeroom meeting place in Pelang, Bechuanaland, as they face a questioning newsman. The mud-hut village in the British protectorate is only two miles from the border of South Africa, which the revolutionaries hope to "liberate."

Actress Prefers the Real Thing

We Have 'Symbols' of Success

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Everything here is a symbol. If you ask a successful American who he is, he immediately wants to show you his motor car."

The speaker of the lines is Shirley Anne Field, who is known as one of Britain's angriest young ladies and also as "the pinup girl of the English intelligentsia."

Miss Field, a film star, is 24, beautiful, red-haired and green-eyed. She appears more cheerfully out-

CONTRAST HERE

"There is so much contrast in this country," she observed. "You meet here either people who are unbelievably talented—or people who seem to have no place at all."

"I'm a cold weather girl and like fresh air. But in New York you can't open a window. They're all painted together," she said.

"When I tried to open the window in my hotel, the maid told me, the air-conditioning in this room cost $10,000—and you have to use it."

Attacking a $6 steak with gleeful relish, Shirley said that despite the fact so many things in America were a symbolic price tag she was having a high old time visiting here.

"Actually, I live in a world of symbols myself rather than one of reality," she confessed. "I always feel like I'm on the threshold of maturity, but never quite through. You get very confused when you are young and in this business."

CLOSE TO MM

Shirley feels a close kinship to the late Marilyn Monroe. A war waif reared in an orphanage, she went to work as a secretary at 15, saved her shillings to take drama lessons. She was a model and a television performer before winning movie recognition.

As did Marilyn Monroe, she aspires to glamour, but she resents the thought that to a studio an actress is "just a mobile, animated piece of property."

"I picked show business because it forces a kind of discipline upon one. But to be yourself takes a lot of courage. In the final analysis, you're alone in what you try to do in life," she said.

"And you get lost if you're not yourself. If you don't know who you are, who does?" "But all I can do is act—and cook. Sometimes I feel happy only when I'm working. You need a complete dedication to self. But I have fears, and when I'm acting someone else—well, those fears go."

ON SOLID GROUND
Despite her qualms, Shirley ap-

Estimate Crisis Cost About $100 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of the Cuban crisis was estimated officially Tuesday at about $100 million.

The Budget Bureau, which provided this assessment, described it as "the roughest kind of allowance."

Most of the money will be used to pay reservists called to active duty and troops retained beyond normal release dates, to operate and maintain the Cuban blockade, to finance aerial surveillance of the island, and to move men and equipment to the southeastern part of the country.

Council Starts on New Subject

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Ecumenical Council today began its debate on "The Sources of Revelation," a subject dealing with the very fundamentals of Roman Catholic doctrine.

The new debate is far more sensitive than the discussion on sacred liturgy which ended yesterday.

It centers on the importance of sacred scripture and church tradition as sources of divinely revealed truth.

Any change in emphasis, however small, would be considered important.

The discussion on liturgy — the outward form of public worship and especially the Mass — lasted 23 days, including 15 sessions, due to the fact that it was the first item, and the starting procedure was cumbersome until Pope John XXIII amended it.

Another reason for the high number of speakers was that it was a harmless debate on everyday practical problems, on which

Strains May Hold the Answer

Marvel at Low Cancer Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Since the aromatic hydrocarbons are present in polluted atmospheres and since they are proved cancer-causers, many scientists have marveled that the cancer rate among human beings remains relatively low.

Experiments with one of these chemical compounds and two strains of rats may cause these scientists to marvel less.

You have to keep in mind that people come in strains, too — many, many strains. But generally it is impossible to distinguish one strain from another.

IN LAB RATS

In laboratory rats it is easy. One definite strain of them is called Sprague-Dawley and another is called Long-Evans.

Four scientists used only the females of these strains and the hydrocarbon, 7,12-dimethylbenz (A) anthracene which for convenience is called DMBA.

The scientists put a single dose of DMBA into the rats of both strains. Invariably in a m m a r y cancer appeared in the Sprague-Dawleys within a few weeks; cancers which were multiple in each animal. But in the Long-Evans rats mammary cancer appeared in only a few.

And in those few it took longer for the cancers to appear. When they appeared they didn't progress as aggressively. The fact was that some cancers regressed on their own.

This suggested the S-D strain was more susceptible naturally to mammary cancer than the L-E.

But this was true only in small part. The rate for spontaneous mammary cancer among the colony of S-D rats was a mere 1 to 2 per cent although for the colony of L-E rats it was zero.

This meant the S-D females were naturally more susceptible to the cancer-causing potential of DMBA than the L-E.

WHY WHY?

The scientists wanted to know why they should be and found marked constitutional differences in the system of endocrine glands of the two strains.

These seemed to originate from the chemical activity of the pituitary gland, the "boss" gland of the system.

The endocrine glands secrete hormones which regulate many phases of body chemistry, particularly those relating to reproduction.

The constitutional differences resulted in differing patterns of hormone secretions and this seemed to make the difference between susceptibility and resistance to an aromatic hydrocarbon as a cancer-causing agent.

Check Carefully When You Buy and Install Safety Belts

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA)—Despite new industry reforms and policies, the man who goes out today to buy a safety seat belt for his car is either a fool or an expert. This is the considered opinion of this reporter who for two years has watched companies in this burgeoning industry jockey for position against the day when the seat belt is required by law in all U.S. cars—new or old.

In theory, the belt is supposed to save your life and limb in the event of a crash.

In manufacture, each part of the belt is supposed to meet arbitrary, rigid, testable specifications for strength.

But in real life?

Practically everything about the safety belt—parts, installation, specifications, testing, and even theory—ends in a question mark.

1. How can you tell what you're getting?

The Society of Automotive Engineers and the U.S. General Service Administration have set down specifications for each part of the belt assembly. SAE, for example, demands that belts withstand 4,000 pounds of pull. ARE YOU SURE?

But even if the label on a belt package claims to have met these and other high-sounding requirements, can you be sure?

To police itself and shake out the fly-by-nights, the belt industry has reorganized and strengthened its American Seat Belt Council, hiring a testing laboratory to see that member firms put out products which meet minimum standards.

2. What about belts without the council seal of approval?

According to a council spokesman, many stores, gas stations and civic organizations are selling nonapproved belts today because they get a good break on price. In some cases a $3 shoddy belt has been marked up as high as $14.

On the other hand, individual manufacturers admit, a non-member of the council can put out a belt that meets all specifications.

In fact, one major manufacturer has refused to join the council because he fears present specifications are not high enough.

3. Even if the belt meets standards, how can you be sure it will hold up in a crash?

Belt specifications call for tests that place the belt in laboratory conditions—easily duplicated for every belt—where increased force is applied until the required strength limit is reached.

This is considerably different from applying the force suddenly in a quick thrust under simulated crash conditions.

In crash-test results reported by Consumer Reports (publication of Consumers Union, a non-profit testing organization), 9 belts out of 50 that had passed SAE and GSA static tests failed under sudden stress. These belts could have been made acceptable by manufacturers at no economic penalty in cost.

4. Even if the belt can withstand crash testing, how do you know it has been properly installed?

In older cars, the floor may be too rusty to hold the belt anchor during an emergency. In more recent cars, installation at many service stations is done by punching anchor holes in the floor rather than drilling them. The result may be to weaken the metal around the punched hole and leave shards that prevent washers from fitting tightly. This allows moisture to get in and rust out the area.

In new cars, by auto industry agreement, anchor holes are drilled and threaded on the assembly line—at least for the two pair of belts to be used in the front seat.

5. But even if the belt and installation are crash safe, is the lap belt the answer to the mangled lives we leave on our highways?

The belt, according to years research at Cornell University's Crash Injury program, can prevent about 5,000 deaths due annually to ejection from cars in collision.

What else it can do is purely conjectural, although a reader of safety literature frequently sees numbers like 19,000 or 23,000 "lives saved" attached to discussions of belts.

CROSS-STRAP NEEDED

But protection from ejection could be as easily accomplished by improving auto door locks. And as to the remainder of the lap-belt's protection—keeping the wearer from being hurled against windshield, steering wheel or panel in a crash—well, Sweden has found after years of testing that the belt is acceptable only in use with a shoulder cross-strap or chest harness.

In most U.S. cars, this kind of added protection is almost unthinkable. Not only is there no provision made for anchoring harnesses, but it might be impossible for a harnessed driver to reach all the controls on the dashboard.

Nevertheless, harnesses—especially for children—are already beginning to appear on the market, despite the fact that no specifications have been written for them.

A casual reader can frequently see a mail order ad for a child's auto harness tested at 500 pounds—whatever that means.

Since the adult population is hardly ready to accept lap belts yet, harness and chest strap are part of a future world.

"Let's just get the belt accepted by the people," a member of the SAE's seat belt committee says. "That's the first job. After that we can improve on the situation and specifications. For the present, any belt—even an inferior one—is better protection than none at all."

The protection against injury provided by even inferior auto seat belts will soon be part of the standard equipment of U.S. cars. With four states already calling for mandatory installation in upcoming models, auto company spokesmen admit it is just a matter of time before every state—or the federal government—passes a similar law.

These belts will become the responsibility of the manufacturers, along with other safety measures like brakes and shatterproof windshield glass.

FIGHTING LAWS

"In these moments before the hand finishes writing on the wall," says an impartial member of the Society of Automotive Engineers, "we are watching the auto industry fighting to protect itself from further encroachment by safety legislation."

For example, if seat belt specifications should call for crash-condition testing, the law would suddenly open for laws to call for crash testing of the whole front end of the car.

All auto makers, of course, crash-test their cars. But generally the results are kept within the executive suite.

"Once the way is open for crash-testing of seats, steering wheels, even bumpers," says an automotive consultant, "the front end of the car will no longer belong to the styling department. The engineers will be in charge."

Adds an impact expert and member of the SAE's seat belt committee: "It won't be so terrible. There's plenty of work for the stylists besides killing customers."

In response to pressure like this, the SAE seat belt committee has formed a study group to investigate the prospects of crash-testing.

TESTS NOT REAL

Present crash simulation techniques do not mirror the real thing. Cars, unlike test sleds, do not stop in three inches.

"Nobody claims present crash tests are perfect," says Boris Tourin, a veteran of Cornell's auto crash injury research program and now a member of Consumer's Union Public Service Projects.

"But," says Tourin, "there is room for improvement. Ultimately testers can simulate everything about a car in crash testing. Today we've got to be gin somewhere."

Aside from testing methods, a key issue in the belt industry today is the question of elongation—how much give should be built into the belt.

Too little and the belt wearer can be injured by the belt itself. But too much and the wearer stands the chance of being bruised against hard prominences like panel and steering wheel.

"It's another issue spotlighting the front end of the car," says an impact expert. "If he's following a crash, he won't stop to realize that he wouldn't have lived without that belt."

ASKS QUESTIONS

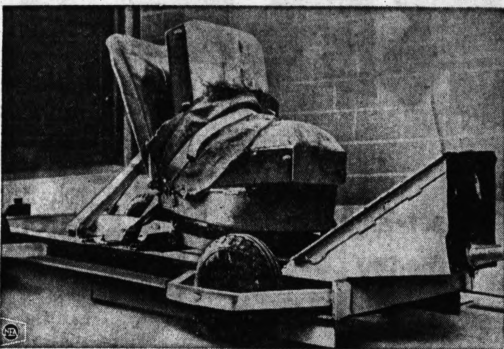

"Instead, he'll likely start asking embarrassing questions. Like why the bumper isn't built to absorb more of the collision force. Or why makes and models of cars are not disclosed in accident report statistics."

There is considerable apprehension in the auto industry that these questions might be asked by federal legislators as well.

Under these circumstances, automotive consultant Henry Wakeland says, the auto industry is apparently disciplining the seat belt makers in an attempt to keep belts—and auto safety in general—from test regulation by federal law.

"It seems to me that if I were a belt maker looking for a contract to supply the auto industry with an item that will go to 75 million consumers," Wakeland says, "I'd be careful not to hint in any way that the auto industry was oblivious to safety or engaged in a foolish horsepower race."

"On the other hand, I'd make sure that my belt met the minimum industry specifications, and I'd point out that safety is a matter of voluntary, manufacturing responsibility—not a case of federal supervision."

SWEDISH-DESIGNED — This sled was used in crash-simulation tests of auto seat belts by Consumers Union. Small cone at right is made of lead; it pancakes on impact to simulate the energy absorption of a car's front end in collision.

TAKES LESSON—Actor Robert Cummings took a lesson from the seat belts in his private plane and had similar ones installed in his car back in 1955, before the big push for auto lap belts.

Ceremonies Held for 100 New Citizens

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Federal Judge W. Wallace Kent yesterday issued citizenship papers to 100 persons, including a Hungarian who fled Budapest in 1956 with his family.

It was a great moment for Andre Rayto, his wife and their 9-year-old son. Soon after receiving their papers, they were joined by their aunt and uncle for the opening of the Rayto's second beauty salon in Grand Rapids.

The Raytos had been in the United States four years when their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Alföldi of Plainville, encouraged them to settle in Grand Rapids. That was in August 1960. Rayto said he hoped his mother would be able to settle with them after her expected arrival here from Budapest at Christmas time. "Thanks to Congressman Gerald R. Ford we were able to dispatch the necessary papers for her release," Rayto said.

Detroit Organist Dies After 3-Month Illness

DETROIT (AP)—German-born Heinrich Van Hussen, 54, who served as organist and choir director in several Detroit churches, died yesterday after an illness of three months.

He is survived by his widow, the former Bernice Mosyer, herself a well-known musician and teacher here.

The briefing advises "any sexual relationships whatsoever with Soviet or satellite citizens are to be avoided. This is one of the oldest and most favored methods of compromising individuals."

Begin Freeway Span

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The State Highway Department reports work has started on a $1-million, 1.8-mile section of the Grand Rapids east-west freeway. The project is due to be completed next October.

Warn U.S. Military Abroad to Watch for Red Spy Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The military is warning its personnel going abroad about Communist spy techniques ranging from bugging the heel of a shoe to using infrared detectors to listen to conversations inside a room.

The advice is contained in briefings given service personnel, their dependents and contractors who plan to travel in or through Sino-Soviet bloc countries or attend symposiums, abroad or at home, where Communist scientists—and spies—may be present.

Regulations to carry out an over-all order issued by the Defense Department are being distributed by the Air Force, Navy and Army.

The scope of Communist espionage activity is pointed to in the Air Force directive. It says that the Sino-Soviet bloc nations have 27 intelligence and security services employing an estimated 300,000 trained agents.

TINY TRANSMITTERS

Some of the technical surveillance devices which the Air Force says should be guarded against: Transmitters no larger than a 25-cent piece, with transistors as small as a match head. "The man with whom we are talking may have a miniature microphone hidden in a tie pin. A 'read' watch recorder can record an entire luncheon discussion. Transmitters made with the new tiny transistors can be so small that one can be planted in a false heel of your shoe, where it will broadcast, unknown to you."

A new eavesdropping device which uses an infrared beam. "When this infrared beam is focused from outside a room on any vibrating object inside the room, the conversations in the room can be 'read' from these imperceptible vibrations."

The Air Force says one may be certain that telephones in hotel rooms are tapped and that listening devices are planted in bars and restaurants or even automobiles used by tourists.

DON'T WRITE SECRETS

The point, of course, is to avoid talking about anything of a classified nature or of subjects which could have even remote interest to espionage agents. Also, don't write home about such matters; all mail to and from bloc countries is scrutinized.

In a section called "human frailties" the Air Force says espionage agents "exploit to the utmost any suspicion of irregularities in matters of sex, liquor, smuggling, blackmarket activities (illegal currency, etc.)."

Wants Illini, Gopher Victories

'Back of Week' Has 2 Goals

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's Ron VanderKelen, a quarterback who grabbed a last chance and turned it into a wild football success, said after his selection as back of the week by The Associated Press that he has two goals.

They are, in order, a victory over Illinois and a victory over Minnesota.

About his selection, announced Tuesday, he said, "I've had a lot of good help."

The honor recognized VanderKelen's near perfect performance Saturday in directing Wisconsin to a 34-4 victory over Northwestern. And it came only after three years of frustration and discouragement when it looked as though he never would get to quarterback the Badgers.

OTHERS NAMED

Others who received consideration for sparking performances Saturday were Bill King of Dartmouth, Daryle LaMonica of Notre Dame, Joe Namath of Alabama, Pete Beathard of Southern California, Bob Schweikert of Virginia Tech, Terry Baker of Oregon State, Joe Don Looney of Oklahoma, Tommy Wade of Texas and Terry Dillon of Montana.

As Wisconsin demolished Northwestern, it was the finest day in western, it was the finest day in football for the 23-year-old VanderKelen, a senior who had only played 90 seconds of varsity ball before this season.

VanderKelen made 12 passes for 181 yards and three touchdowns, he gained 28 yards running, blocked ferociously for his runners and turned in two sparkling plays defending against Wildcat aerials.

"He had the greatest day he's ever had and as good as any ever turned in by any quarterback we've ever had," head Coach Milt Bruhn said of VanderKelen.

At game's end, VanderKelen had put the Badgers squarely in contention for the Big Ten Conference championship and a Rose Bowl trip.

LONG ROAD

"It's been a long road and I've had to prove a lot of things to myself and a lot of people," VanderKelen said.

"But I've had a lot of good help," he added quickly.

The slim, 6-foot-1, 176-pounder has stepped in to fill the shoes of Ron Miller, the Wisconsin quarterback who was top passer in the Big Ten the past two seasons.

VanderKelen was out for football at Wisconsin long before Miller.

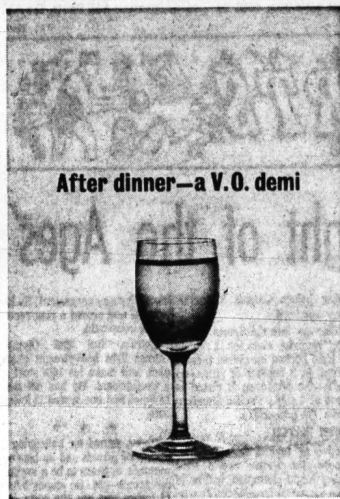

Vandy grew up in a hotbed for football—Green Bay, Wis.

"We went to all the Packer National Football League games," he recalled, "and we'd crawl over the fences to watch them practice when we were kids."

VanderKelen came to Wisconsin in 1958 and won a letter as a third stringer on the 1959 varsity. He played his 50 seconds in Wisconsin's second game of the season—a 44-0 rout of Marquette.

Vandy was counted on to move in as a top quarterback in 1960, but a knee injury blasted his hopes. That was the year Miller came along.

"I wanted to come back and get my degree in economics and show I could do something as a football player," VanderKelen said. "There was no doubt about what I wanted to do."

ABL Will Open Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Basketball League opens its second year of operation tonight and Commissioner Abe Saperstein is optimistic as ever the operation will succeed.

Saperstein, who owns the Chicago entry in the 6-team league also built the Harlem Globetrotters into one of sports most profitable ventures, has added another innovation this season.

Last year the ABL came up with the 3-point goal on a shot converted from 25 feet or more away from the basket. This season, the ABL will have doubleheaders played between the same two teams.

Tonight's opening schedule finds Chicago at Philadelphia and Kansas City at Oakland. Long Beach, Calif., and Pittsburgh will begin play later this week with Chicago at Pittsburgh Friday and Kansas City at Long Beach Sunday.

Chicago and Philadelphia meet again Thursday night in the league's first doubleheader. A regulation game calls for 12-minute quarters or 48 minutes. However, when teams engage in doubleheaders, each game will consist of 15-minute halves.

BOWLING

The Mufflers were anything but quiet in the three-man West Side Mobil Classic league last week as they hit for a 219 average per man and swept the Mobil Tires to increase their league lead to two games.

Led by consistent Stan Kurman's 223-223-223 performance, the pace setters hit for league highs of 1853 team total and 706 team game. Paul Karas had a 243 game and Bob Richards a 670 series.

Garth Green topped the individual efforts last week when he totaled a 708 trip, including a 251 and a 237. Paul Horie had a 657 series with a 246 game. The Headlamps and Gas Pumps enter this week's play with 19 points each, good for second place.

Carl Dehrick used a good kick-back off the eight pin to convert the 8-10 split as he rolled a 625 series.

TRIPPLICATES

Fairgrounds Bowling was the scene of two triplicates recently on successive days. Marilyn Burke hit a 112 trio in the Thursday Ladies competition and George Douglas a 174-174-174 in the Friday House League. Lou Ann Elmore had a 230 in the Thursday bowling and Marion Hudson added an all-spare game at the same time.

Another triplicate was completed when Virginia Sage rolled a 172 in her third game of last Tuesday's Lutheran Mixed League. At Airway Lanes, Charles York hit a 200 game in the same league.

Airway's Monsignor Sharpe No. 600 Knights of Columbus League last Wednesday had a new leader when Yellow Cab ousted Wayne Heeling from first place. Frank Blyeau hit a 245 game and 627 series while Chet Jaruzel was good for a 219 series.

Krunchie Potato Chips' margin in the Birmingham Junior House Bowling League is a slim one game over Beresford-Thompson and Borst Lincoln-Mercury. The car dealers swept four points from the leaders last week to tighten the race considerably.

Sixteen bowlers went over the 200 mark last week with Glen Greenleaf hitting a 226 high game and Charles Westing a 630 high series. Greenleaf was good for the 7-9 split, also.

The hot shot bowlers got the bird last Thursday night at 300 Bowl in the 300 Trio circuit. Turkeyes went to the evening's pace setters. Lorene Compeau and Betty Meier received the main course for their holiday meals when they led the way for high-game-with-handicap and most-pins-over-average (for three games) with 229 and 92 figures, respectively.

NEW LEADER

Hi & Dry Lounge's league leaders got a little wet last week as they fell back into the pond with the other title contenders. Quick Eat Coney Island took over the spot.

George Chicovsky rolled a 249 game in a 679 series in the Tuesday Night House Loop at 300 Bowl. In the same league, George Budwit had a 630 series with a 235 game and Irv Gray, 238.

Red Basketball Team Heads West

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Slightly mellowed by victory, Russia's touring basketball players head westward today.

Though outwardly blasé, the Soviet athletes undoubtedly leave with fond memories of this Tennessee capital.

After all, it was here that the Russian men won their first game on American soil.

One wonders, what happened that victorious Monday night, after the sweat was sluiced away in the showers?

LIKE YANKEES

Was there a huge celebration? Did athletes toast each other with vodka, pound backs with comradely abandon?

Not. Just like the New York Yankees those capitalistic lackeys in the stripe baseball bloomers, the Soviets retired calmly to their hotel.

There they fell upon their usual whopping supper with the utter same thing at home, why buy it here?

"The skyscrapers in New York really took away their breath. But they felt Washington was more beautiful. They say the people here are much warmer—but winning had something to do with that too."

From Nashville, the Russian men and women teams fly to Kansas City by chartered plane, en route to Sioux Falls, S.D., where they play their next game.

The Empire State building in New York and food have been the big hits of the campaign thus far, the report.

CARRY CHIP

Does nothing else impress the Russians? Here's the report from Irina:

"Well, if they are impressed they don't show it. They seem to have a chip on their shoulder. There is an instant barrier if anything political comes up."

"They are very careful about their money. They don't have much. I think they each probably have $30 or $40 to spend on this trip. They say, 'Oh, we have the same thing at home, why buy it here?"

Seek Outright Title

Coach Bill Sparks' Bandits (8-0), having clinched a tie for the title, go after an outright crown when they oppose fifth-place Spencer Bombers (2-4-1) tonight at 8:00 at the Drayton Plains Softball Park in the final week of play in the men's football league conducted by the Waterford Township Recreation Department.

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE (week-end records in parentheses): Tonight: 7, Drayton vs. Red Raiders (2-1); Bandits (8-0) vs. Spencer Bombers (2-4-1); 8, Spiders (1-2) vs. Highland Lakes (4-3); Thursday: 7, Triple Threats (1-4-1) vs. Highland Lakes; 8, Red Raiders vs. Spencer Bombers; 9, Red Raiders (2-4-1) vs. Tim's Barber Shop (1-4-1).

Calvin Takes 2 Titles

in MIAA Cross Country

ADRIAN (AP)—Ray Hommes set a course record yesterday as his defending champion Calvin teammates clinched the MIAA cross country championship on Woodlawn golf course here.

Hommes ran the four-mile course in 21 minutes, four seconds, 35 seconds better than second-place Mike Conwell of Albion.

The MIAA champions scored 27 points to clinch the title. Kalamazoo with 58 was second, followed by Adrian 78, Albion 92, Olivet 130, Hope 132 and Alma 189.

More Illegal Deer Kills

The count of illegally killed deer in Oakland County now officially stands at 15.

Nine of the deer, six bucks, have been killed in the Highland area. The remains of six other whitetails were found last week in a culvert off Squirrel Road just south of the MSUO campus.

Five killed around Highland were discovered on private property. The skinned out hind quarters of one deer turned up in a wooded area.

Conservation officers said evidence indicated the killing of the five not connected with the earlier slaughter of a buck, doe and two fawns.

FROM THE WEST

Prescott Sullivan writing in a San Francisco paper: "A friend of ours just got back from Colorado where the Elk hunting season ended Sunday."

"Our friend got no elk but he wasn't squawking. Shot at twice he considered himself lucky to be alive."

"Some crazy things happen back there during the two weeks the elk season is on. Thousands of hunters flock into Colorado from all over and they shoot at everything that moves."

"One man was shot off a horse. When the riderless horse ran away, they shot him, too. The govt. had to deal the shooting said he took the pommel on the empty saddle for a set of antlers. "Happily, most of the meat-crazed hunters can't shoot well enough to hit what they aim at. For this reason, the death toll for '62, when finally tabulated, may not exceed 20, including the heart failures brought on by frightening near misses."

Noting that starlings devoured $4.5 million worth of farm crops in New Jersey last year, the Farm Bureau in that state has launched a campaign to promote broiled starlings as a gourmet dish. Shades of "Five and 30 here Wednesday through Saturday."

Red-Coats Poised for Deer Opener

Now that the vanguard of red-coats has secured the western Upper Peninsula, the main force of 400,000 is poised for an assault on the remainder of the state.

Michigan's "second" deer opener is tomorrow and it promises to be a noisy one.

About 75,000 hunters have been combing the Western U.P. since Saturday's opening in that area. Many who failed to score will move to the eastern third of the U.P. and into the northern Lower Peninsula to take advantage of another opening day.

Howard Benedict, 1719 Elsmere St., entered the first buck in The Pontiac Press Big Deer Contest. It was a 181-pounder taken Saturday morning near Big Bay in the U.P.

He was hunting with Milton Bristol of Waterford Township who also tagged a four-pointer. SOME SNOW

Benedict said, "Conditions were pretty good. There was just a trace of snow."

Ford Duvall, 429 E. Tennyson

St., returned from the U.P. with a 350-pound bear and a buck. Frank Chaffin, 6286 Elizabeth Lake, took a four-pointer near Manistique.

About 20 bears have been killed.

Regional Chiefs Take Control

Conservation Dept. Changes Status

Field operations of the Conservation Department will be placed directly under regional chiefs as of Jan. 1, 1963, for greater efficiency and flexibility.

The transfer of line authority to regional chiefs is the first step recommended by the Conservation Commission's new committee on personnel and organization to improve the Department's over-all operations. Other organizational changes are being considered.

In announcing the change, department director Gerald E. Eddy explained that under their new assignment, regional chiefs will have full power to direct and coordinate all programs of the Department's various divisions in the field.

This will strengthen their authority beyond their present responsibilities as representatives of the Director and will help to improve inter-divisional activities.

The department's three regional chiefs are headquartered at Marquette for the Upper Peninsula, Roscommon for the northern Lower Peninsula, and Lansing for the southern Lower Peninsula.

Effective Jan. 1, they will be known as regional managers, a title change in line with their new duties and responsibilities.

Hollywood Good to Glynis Johns

Actress on Whirlwind Schedule

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD—When fellow actress Glynis Johns was asked about the Hollywood depression, Glynis Johns keeps her mouth zipped.

"I almost feel guilty about telling them that in my 14 months here I have had three feature films, 10 television films and a major operation," said the English actress.

There are reasons for her prosperity. First of all, she is one of England's most versatile and accomplished actresses, at home in roles on either side of the ocean. But she has hinted at an added quality.

"When I hear other actors complain about the lack of jobs, I feel like asking them a question," she said. "Are they really eager to find work or do they seek it merely because they need the money?"

WANTS TO WORK
"I work because I earnestly want to. I think when you are keen about your work, it really shows. It shows with producers who hire you and it shows on the screen."

Miss Johns admitted that she had lost that feeling three years ago. She chuckled the works and holed up in a Swiss chalet, not caring whether she acted again. It was a low period in her personal life, her third marriage having hit the rocks.

She came here with no great enthusiasm to do an "Adventures in Paradise" television show. She performed for another show, then underwent surgery.

"I was knocked off my feet for two months and for a while it looked as though it might be permanent," she said.

Since her recovery, she has been going like a whirlwind. Her schedule may be even more strenuous in the future. Desilu is cooking up a television series for her, called "Oh, Nurse!" It would be a comedy series about life in a hospital, and it seems a natural in the wake of grim-minded Drs. Casey and Kildare.

Would she want to work that hard?

"Why not?" she said. "I don't mind work, as long as it is stimulating. And it will be a pleasure to work with the same crew for a period of time. All my career—I started when I was 12—I have worked with companies just long enough to know the people, and then we say goodbye and go on to other jobs."

To Drop Trunkline Label on Orchard Lake

City Backs State Bid to Change 'M218'

City commissioners last night okayed two resolutions approving future State Highway Department plans to abandon the M218 trunkline designation of Orchard Lake Avenue and to close several local streets adjacent to a proposed right-of-way for the M59 freeway extension.

State highway officials have notified Pontiac that the state intends to drop, gradually, the trunkline designation on Orchard Lake Road from Pontiac to U.S. 16, City Manager Robert A. Stierer told commissioners.

"The move is being made as a result of a recent traffic analysis," he said, "which revealed most of the M218 traffic is of a local nature, and that trend is expected to continue with the construction of more freeways in this area."

Last night's resolution is merely a nod of approval from local officials. Final abandonment will come until the state has made all necessary improvements to Orchard Lake Avenue.

State and city engineers will conduct a survey to establish what improvements are needed. The action involves the stretch of Orchard Lake from the Telegraph Road overpass to Cass Avenue.

"It will be returned to us as an improved thoroughfare for which our only cost should be routine maintenance for many years," Stierer said.

In the other resolution, the city okayed closing portions of Michigan, Belmont, Jessie, Hazel, Tasmania, Astor, Ridgeway, Midland, Eastway, Riverside and Hillside Streets.

WOULD CLOSE ALLEYS

Four alleys in the area of Michigan and Belmont Streets would also be closed.

These are the streets that would be closed to access to the M59 freeway extension from the east city limits to the perimeter road.

The State Highway Department intends to construct service roads or turnarounds so that none of the closed thoroughfares would become dead-end streets.

The resolution also authorizes the highway department to acquire title, interest and lands necessary to relocate M59.

Estimated to cost some $3,368,

000, the extension involves the use of Mt. Clemens Street and an extended East Huron Street as one way, boulevard-type highways linking downtown Pontiac with the M59 freeway to the east.

Acting City Engineer Joseph Neippling, who also approved the resolution, said most of the streets will be closed during construction in the first quarter of 1964 with the rest being closed during the third quarter of that year.

The household troops of France's King Louis XIV (1638-1715) are believed to have worn the first truly military uniform, designed to mark them as a unit. It was a single-breasted frock coat with turned-up cuffs.

'62 Revenue Act to Hit Abuses Expense Account Living's on Way Out

DETROIT (AP)—Expense account living as a way of life is going to become extinct, the U.S. commissioner of internal revenue told the National Association of Real Estate Boards here today.

Commissioner Mortimer Caplin said expense account living as a way of life will die under provisions of the Revenue Act of 1962, which he described as "a pretty strong statute" aimed at abolishing "some pretty bad abuses of the past."

While he said he had "great sympathy for the legitimate expense account," Caplin told the association's 55th convention there had developed a "too casual use of the expense account," adding:

"Substantial tax loss has been suffered by the government and heavier burdens inflicted on the rest of the taxpayers who misused or abused personal expenses as business expenses."

While saying that expense account checking is going to be tightened up, the internal revenue service chief said "legitimate business expense deductions need cause little concern."

Congressional hearings, he added, developed abuses prevalent in the past.

'FAIR PROGRAM'

"The internal revenue service is now engaged in final preparation of regulations by which we will fill out the precise enforcement program outlined by the new statute," he said, adding: "It will be a vigorous, fair program."

Robert Weir, a tax attorney from San Jose, Calif., told the same convention session that real estate is becoming "an even more attractive investment in the light of the continuing trend of court decisions and the fact that it is unaffected by the depreciation restrictions of the Revenue Act of 1962."

Weir said that both the courts and government "are tending to be realistic about the 'dealer' question." Weir explained that in the past persons had lost the low capital gain treatment on profit from real estate sales if they were actively selling or trading real estate, even though that was not their main business.

"Today," he said, "this is changing and we even find a court saying that you do not necessarily lose capital gain treatment as the result of subdividing a property that you have held as an investment and selling it by lots in order to obtain a better price than it would have if sold as one unimproved tract."

"You have a good chance to invest in acreage, hold it while it goes up in value, and then convert it to lots. This is a time-tested improvement technique,"

Speeds Climb on Freeways

LANSING (AP)—There is a trend toward continually higher speeds on Michigan's freeways, the State Highway Department has told the State Safety Commission.

Reporting on a speed check during October, the department said 85 per cent of the motorists were clocked going at an average of 69.6 miles an hour during the day and 69.9 miles an hour at night.

The increase over July was 1.4 miles an hour for daytime driving and one mile an hour at night, the department said.

The average speeds, the department said, have been climbing steadily in the state during the past 10 years.

Secretary of State James M. Hare, commission chairman, reported that a new department computer was used to study patterns among juvenile drivers. Reports on 655 drivers involved in accidents in Wayne County last year were fed into the machine. Among the findings:

—More than 14 per cent of the youthful drivers had never been licensed.

—More than 52 per cent of the accidents occurred at intersections and more than 88 per cent involved a second car.

—Less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of the youths involved had been drinking enough to impair their driving.

Junior Editors Quiz on YOU

QUESTION: What makes you hungry?

ANSWER: Your body is made up of billions of cells. They have different shapes according to the different jobs they do, but the cell A is about average. Cells are made up of a marvelous material called "protoplasm," which seems to be the living stuff of life. It can take digested food and burn or charge it, releasing the heat we need inside our bodies and the energy we must have to charge around and do all the active things which make our lives worthwhile.

The cell is a little factory turning out finished products of heat and energy (C). Raw materials must be brought to it. Just as trucks roll up with supplies for a factory (B), the red corpuscles in the blood come to the cells, bringing digested food. These busy carriers can do their job only if they have something to carry.

When the food from your last meal is digested, your body sends you a hunger signal so that you will know it needs more food to go to work on. This is why you get hungry, so you will know that you must have help, help from your mother or the school cafeteria, at least three times a day!

FOR YOU TO DO: Nutritionists tell us that a relaxed, quiet atmosphere during meals is good for the digestive system. Young people are a bit apt to race through their meals. Try relaxing and eating more slowly.

Postmaster Defends Cutting Stamp Value

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Postmaster Gen. J. Edgar Day today defended his decision to print 400,000 additional "upside down" Dag Hammarskjöld stamps to drive down the rarity value of at least 400 misprints issued previously.

"The post office department isn't run as a jackpot operation," Day said in reply to critics who contended that the few purchasers who bought the 400 flawed stamps should be allowed to profit from their luck.

In a television interview, Day said he ordered the issuance of the special 400,000 Hammarskjöld stamps to protect the "rank and file" stamp collectors.

which he said are small change and amateurs.

He recalled that when the stamp commemorating astronaut John H. Glenn's space flight was issued without advance notice, the post office deliberately had issued numbers of first day covers from Cape Canaveral so that no collector would derive special advantage from being in the Cape Canaveral area.

Day said other countries have taken similar steps to nullify printing errors.

"We aren't running a lottery," the postmaster general said. If we are to give someone something of excessive value in this instance, we ought to make a deliberate error on every issue.

He also minimized the potential value of the 400 stamps which were sold by error. "The value was never close to $10,000," Day commented. "It would be $300 at most and maybe even less if more of them got out."

Despite the special printing, experts expressed belief that those with the original 400 can still get a healthy price if they act fast.

General Motors Fights Charge

U. S. Motion Alleges Documents Withheld

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp. seeks dismissal of a government motion that it be held in contempt for allegedly failing to produce certain documents before a Grand Jury investigating possible violations of federal antitrust laws in the automotive industry.

Through its counsel, Bruce Bromley, General Motors claimed in federal court yesterday that the records called for were produced by the corporation and that the government motion was without merit.

Paul Owens, attorney with the federal division of the Department of Justice, told Judge Edward Weinfeld GM had produced a document which was called for in another part of the grand jury subpoena and that the one in argument was not offered by GM.

The conflict centered around an order to GM to produce "a true and complete copy of each document submitted to any group executive of GM, the controller of GM, or the price review group of GM relating to the establishment of or changes in the prices of any model of passenger car during the years 1949, 1950 and 1951."

Bromley said "we already have complied with the order. We gave him (Owens) the price settings for each division he asked for."

Deformed Tot Gets Surgery

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI)—Fifteen-month-old William Joseph Webb Jr. yesterday underwent the sixth in a series of operations to correct deformities apparently caused by the drug thalidomide.

Doctors transplanted the flaps from the baby's right leg into the right forearm in what they hoped would be the last operation of the boy.

Doctors at Harbor General Hospital said the surgery was "completed as planned. The flaps were successfully transplanted to the forearm. Time will tell if it will continue to grow."

William, whose mother had taken thalidomide early in her pregnancy, had no radius in his right forearm and only partial bone structure in his left forearm.

The hospital explained in a statement that at no time was the soft tissue detached from the bone, so that it is probable circulation has been maintained and the bone should grow into a useful radius.

Attempts said they hoped the boy could be discharged in a week to 10 days.

UAW Bides Time on Official's Arrest

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United Auto Workers leadership has adopted a wait-and-see attitude concerning the arrest Monday of one of its officials on a federal charge.

The international executive board yesterday issued a statement after word of the arrest of Richard T. Gosser, an international vice president.

Gosser, his administrative assistant Donald Pincotti and Ted Mason were charged Monday in Toledo with conspiracy to defraud the Internal Revenue Service. All three are of Toledo.

The bank previously paid a 50-cent dividend earlier this year.

Officials Give 1st-Year Report

DETROIT (UPI)—American Motors Corp. officials said today their year-old profit sharing plan has paid off handsomely by improving the morale and efficiency of its 25,000 workers.

The compact carmaker will announce year-end figures tomorrow. The fiscal year statement will include a report on the first year of the profit sharing plan worked out with the United Auto workers in 1961.

AMC officials met with newsmen in advance of their board meeting. Board Chairman Richard S. Draheim and Vice President Edward Cushman explained the agreement, first of its kind in the industry.

Abernethy said the historic contract "has paid off effectively in 1962 and will continue to pay off to the advantage of workers and stockholders."

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

"I am concerned taking my money out of Building & Loan and Investing in United States Treasury bonds. Do you advise this? Will you please print a list of U. S. Treasury securities?" L. M.

(I am always in favor of upgrading your investment position, if this can be done without too great a sacrifice of income. The Building & Loans with which I am familiar are thoroughly safe repositories, but nothing in the world is so secure as a U. S. Government obligation. The latter, with the exception of one issue which has been called, are subject to Federal income taxes but exempt from similar state levies.

I cannot provide here a list of all Treasury securities available, since there are some 67 issues outstanding. However, I will give you a couple of examples. For the shorter term, I like Treasury 4 1/2 of 1966 selling at yield 3.55 per cent. As a longer-term investment, I suggest Treasury 4 1/2 of 1980, priced to yield 3.97 per cent.

(Q) "I have 100 shares of Lionel for which I paid $31 a share. Do you think it is worth buying more, now that it is down to $15?" R. S.

(A) What you are proposing is called averaging down, and in theory, it's a very attractive practice. In most instances, however, I'm very much against it unless there is good reason to believe that the decline in the shares in question is due solely to a temporary market condition rather than to a change in status of the stock.

Unfortunately, in the case of Lionel, I believe the latter condition to be largely responsible for the low price of the shares. Your company has operated at a deficit in three of the past four years, and also in the first nine months of this year.

I believe recovery here will be slow and I advise you to put your additional funds into fewer shares of a stronger stock, such as Munsingwear.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all personal questions, but will answer all questions possible in his column. (Copyright 1962)

Drops Antitrust Suit Against Troy Firm

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—U. S. District Judge C. William Kraft has dismissed on the motion of the government, civil antitrust damages suit against A. B. Chance Co., Centerville, Mo., and Kuhlman Electric Co., Troy, Mich.

Donald G. Baltoch, in charge of the antitrust division here, said the two firms were dropped from the suits involving alleged overcharges in the sale of insulators and distribution transformers because their sales to U. S. agencies were minimal.

The judge signed the government petition last Friday.

The two companies were among the 29 firms fined last year for price fixing and bid rigging in the giant criminal case.

Other officers are Henry Schurman, rich, vice president; Mrs. Sylvia Goldman, secretary; and Marshall Goldman, treasurer.

In Active Trade

Stock Mart Moves Upward

weathering a bit more profit taking on the two-week rally, the stock market moved upward early this afternoon in active trading.

Fractional gains among key stocks outnumbered losses, changing the balance to the losing side which existed in early trading.

Wall Street was filled with talk about the public returning to the stock market, some to buy, some to watch prices pending clarification of the market's major trend. Institutional buying also seemed to be perking up.

The market background included some conflicting factors. First was the doubt rising about the nature of a Cuban "settlement" which tended to dampen confidence. Second was a bullish factor, expectations of a $7.5-billion national deficit which would curb inflationary sentiment.

The automatic Big Three and American Motors gained fractions while Studebaker, which has reported layoffs, was about unchanged. Oils, rails, aerospace issues, drugs, utilities, and airlines also moved generally higher.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were irregularly higher in moderate trading.

Bond Trading Mixed at Start

NEW YORK (AP)—Bond prices opened mixed today.

U. S. Government issues were a bit lower and corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange also moved irregularly higher.

The mixed tone was the same as yesterday's session produced.

Over the counter dealings in treasury securities quoted intermediate and long maturities offered about 2 1/2 in moderate dealings.

Rails again were the best performers among corporates traded on the exchange. Industrials also started off a shade higher while utilities were mixed.

Few moves amounted to a point or more. Consolidated Edison treasury securities quoted inter-

3 3/8 gained 1/8 at one time.

2 Women Claim Boy Their Son

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A chubby-cheeked boy, abandoned in a bar early Monday, is suddenly coveted by at least two different women in different states—each claiming to be his mother.

The boy, 5 or 6 years old and brown-haired, has been in custody of juvenile authorities since he was left at the bar by a man. The youngster's predicament was described in news stories and pictures sent across the nation. They drew quick response.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., Catherine Collins saw an Associated Press Wirephoto of the boy and identified him as her son. Mrs. Collins, a waitress, said she has been looking for the boy, his father and another woman for six months.

Mrs. Collins said she talked by phone to a woman at the juvenile facility where the boy was taken. "She told me a hearing would be held Dec. 6 or 7 and to not bother coming to California, that they would contact me," said Mrs. Collins.

SENT LETTERS

Mrs. Collins said her husband, David Sr., disappeared with a woman and the boy July 12. "I've sent letters and pictures to police stations all over the country," Mrs. Collins said.

In Little Rock, Ark., another waitress saw the Wirephoto and also identified the boy as her son, but after talking to relatives here she decided he couldn't be her boy.

Another woman, from Tucson, Ariz., called the juvenile facility Tuesday night and claimed the abandoned boy is her son. Sara Rand, a probation officer said she did not have the woman's name, although it was taken down by another employee of the facility.

The 'Great White Way' Needs No Powder

NEW YORK (UPI)—The head of the Broadway Association said yesterday "the great white way" needs a face lifting.

Speaking at the association's 51st annual lunch, President Douglas Leigh said a drastic transformation was necessary to rid Broadway of "disgraceful marquees, offensive lobby displays and questionable business enterprises."

Prince Celebrating 14th Birthday Today

LONDON (UPI)—The heir to the throne of England is 14 years old today and he could well have begun the day helping put out the garbage at Gordonstoun, his school in Scotland.

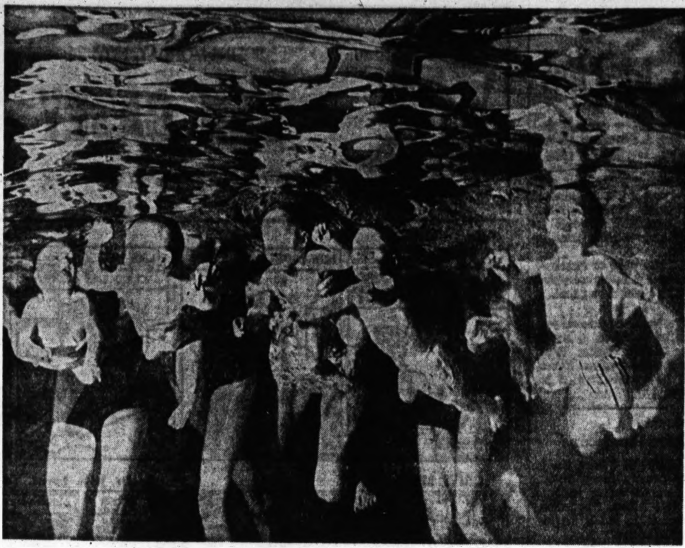

Giving a hand with the "dustbins" is something Gordonstoun boys are called upon to do. It is not a punishment, just part of the routine.

But Prince Charles, whose attendance at Gordonstoun—where his father Prince Philip attended—broke a royal tradition, also had a party of sorts with school chums.

A birthday cake was sent him from Buckingham Palace and there were greetings from Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, possibly a telephone call, too.

Charles, the first heir to the throne to attend a boarding school, entered Gordonstoun last May amid general buzzes from the British press.

Editorial writers thought the school's spartan regime, including morning cold showers and emphasis on gymnastics, would be good for the princeling.

Red Guards Halt Convoy Headed West
BERLIN (UPI)—Soviet border guards held up a U.S. Army convoy traveling in West Germany for 75 minutes today because the Russians again insisted the Army had to give advance notice of movements on the highway through East Germany.

The Russians delayed clearance of the convoy of 14 soldiers and seven trucks at the Babelsberg checkpoint at the West Berlin end of the 116-mile highway to the West, an Army spokesman said.

The convoy finally was cleared for passage to the West after a delay of one hour and 15 minutes.

He has improved his music, taken up pottery in his spare time and excelled in sailing practices. Regardless of his position, the prince is making his own name.

Boys first wear navy blue at the school and must prove themselves before they don the school uniform of grey shorts and sweaters. Charles has earned his "greys."

The prince is a composite of his mother's tastes and his father's ambitions. He likes, as the queen does, music, quiet outdoor walks, movies and the theater.

Like his father, Charles loves the sea and has decided on a naval career before he takes up his royal duties.

The school's first full personal report on the prince will be sent to the queen and Philip in a few weeks. It is expected to say Charles is doing all right.

Couple Bound Over by Township Justice

Arraignment in Oakland County Circuit Court of two men charged with murder in the slaying of a 44-year-old Inkster father of six is scheduled for Monday.

Richard Drobl, 28, of Belleville, and Stanley Maroley, 46, of 2200 Middle Belt Road, Farmington Township, were bound over to the higher court yesterday after their examination before Independence Township Justice William H. Stamp.

The pair is accused of the murder of Peter B. Perva, whose body was found in a shallow grave in Independence Township. He had been shot once in the head.

The body was discovered Oct. 17, only a day after it had been buried. Drobl and his former father-in-law were arrested by State Police three days later.

Drobl, in a statement to the prosecutor, admitted killing Perva "as a favor" to Maroley, who reportedly had been carrying on an affair with Perva's wife Vivian, 40.

The two men were returned to the county jail without bond following yesterday's examination. They pleaded innocent to the charge.

Liberals Face Trouble in Battle for GOP Post

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Republicans may be inviting a licking if they force a fight over the choice of a successor to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a chairman of the party's campaign committee.

Under the rules of the game which bar any member up for re-election from holding the job, Goldwater will step out as chairman early in the next Congress. This post, in which the Arizona senator has served two two-year terms, will be the only GOP leadership job up for grabs.

The Senate's GOP liberals have chafed at times under Goldwater's free-wheeling attacks on almost every Democrat, from President Kennedy on down the line.

Some of the party liberals shake their heads over Goldwater's proposal that President Kennedy fire U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson at a time when Stevenson still was enjoying many plaudits for his tough handling of Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin in the U.N. debate over Russian missiles in Cuba.

'Crisis' King to Celebrate 27th Birthday

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—King Hussein celebrated his 27th birthday today in the 10th year of a turbulent reign.

Hussein became king after his grandfather Abdullah was assassinated at his side and his father Talal was declared mentally unfit to rule.

His reign has been one of explosive incidents, including the termination of his country's treaty with Britain and his break with United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The latest crisis to confront Hussein is the Yemen conflict, in which Jordan sides with Saudi Arabia in support of Royalist attempts to regain control of the newly proclaimed republic.

Will Discuss School Budget

Pontiac Dept. of Schools Dana P. Whitmer will report on general guidelines in developing next year's budget at the Pontiac Board of Education meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

The report will include details on expected costs and income.

Miss Kay Stickle, a teacher at Baldwin Elementary School, represented the school district at the meeting and will give the report.

The last of four proposals made by district teachers for changes in personnel policies is also on the agenda for discussion. The proposal asks substantial leaves of absence.

Another item will be a review of district plans for using funds requested under the National Defense Education Act.

Police and Fire Depts. Represented on Body

Pontiac Police Sgt. Carl Colando and Lt. Fay J. Douglas of the Pontiac Fire Department were appointed to an interim fire and police pension plan board at last night's City Commission meeting.

The Charter amendment establishing the new pension plan, approved by voters last April, specifies that a board be set up to handle the transfer of assets from the old plan to the new.

As prescribed, this temporary board is to consist of the city manager, city finance director, one representative each from the fire and police departments and a fifth member to be selected by the other four.

Colando and Douglas, who have worked on the plan since its formation, were nominated by their respective departments.

Commissioners approved their appointment and suggested that the fifth member be a stock broker since most of the current pension fund is tied up in various stocks and investments.

The new plan is scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1, after which permanent members of the board will be selected.

Three Sentenced for Whisky Theft

DETROIT (UPI)—A business agent of the Teamsters' union, an ex-convict, and a juke box repairman were given Federal prison terms yesterday for hijacking a truckload of imported whisky.

George Cottage, 42, of Gibraltar, business agent and secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Detroit Local 49, was sentenced to three years in prison, as was Michael Harowski Jr., 49, of Melvindale, a juke box repairman.

Keith Francisco, 36, of Davisburg, who is on parole on an armed robbery charge, got five years.

Cottage and Francisco were found guilty and Harowski pleaded guilty to hijacking an 800-case truckload of Canadian whisky from a suburban Taylor Township truck terminal last Nov. 30.

Cottage and Francisco filed no plea that they would appeal.

Gets Bride by Mail

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—A 32-year-old Japanese "mail order bride" arrived here today to wed a Russian-born railway porter she has never seen.

Mio Izawa, a demure little woman from Tokyo, said she started corresponding with Valentin Patrenko two years ago after he advertised in a Tokyo newspaper for a Japanese wife.

"I was one of 20 girls who answered and Valentin picked me," she told reporters as she came ashore from the liner Iberia.

Patrenko, a naturalized Australian, is a railway employee in Adelaide. He was not on hand to meet her here today.

Elevate 2 as Departments of City Are Realigned

City Manager Robert A. Stier has announced two promotions in connection with an organizational realignment in the city planning and urban renewal departments. The planning department has been split into three divisions: planning, urban renewal and land development.

Stier has named Roland H. Bourke Jr. as assistant director in charge of the urban renewal department and Budd A. Findlay, assistant director in charge of the land development division.

Both appointments are effective immediately.

James L. Bates is planning and urban renewal director for Pontiac. Henry Smith remains assistant director of planning and secretary of the city planning commission.

"The reorganization has slowly become a necessity over the past year as our urban renewal program expanded and placed more responsibilities on our planning staff," Stier explained.

Bourke, 31, has been rehabilitation officer for the R-29 urban renewal project for 2 1/2 years. He joined the city in 1956 as an environmental sanitation with the city health department.

Bourke holds a masters degree in science from the University of Massachusetts and a BA degree from St. Anselm's College, Manchester, N. H.

Findlay, 45, has an extensive background in real estate. He is married and has five children. Both appointments were recommended by Bates.

Approve Funds for Airports

Michigan to Match Over $1 Million

LANSING (AP) — The State Aeronautics Commission has approved the distribution of $1,053,750 in state matching funds for airport improvements next year.

The state funds generally will be matched on a local level and federal grants will equal the combined totals of the local-state contribution. The commission estimated this will make it possible some $7.5 million in new airport construction for 1963.

In the case of Flint, where a grant of $100,000 in state funds was approved, no federal funds are available for 1963. A federal grant is expected for 1964, however.

The other state grants: Caro, $19,000; Charlevoix, $47,500; Charlotte, $37,750; Detroit City Airport, $23,00

Russians Glum on Farm Output

Khrushchev Predicts Sectional Shortages

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev reported yesterday Russia's farm production this year will fall short of planned goals in numerous sectors, despite marginal increases in the output of milk and meat.

The Premier's statement was part of a Nov. 10 report to the ruling presidium of the Communist party, published today in the Communist newspaper Pravda.

Khrushchev said the government would procure grain "on the level" of procurements in 1958 — which was a bumper harvest year.

This referred to grain deliveries to the state, which are governed by administrative decision, and did not necessarily mean the 1962 grain crop had approached that of 1958.

BETTER THAN '61

Pravda said yesterday the 1962 grain harvest would surpass that of 1961, but did not give any comparison with 1958.

Western observers expected that Khrushchev and other top Soviet leaders would thrash out the agricultural problem at the Nov. 19 meeting of the Communist Central Committee.

Observers were watching to see if the committee would reallocate investment funds to the military after the Cuban confrontation.

So far there have been no indications that major military spending is planned.

Her Hubby Drifts Away; It's Okay

EUREKA, Calif. (U) — Mrs. Robert Harris of Arcata, Humboldt County, telephoned police: "Help! My husband is floating down the river in his car."

A few minutes later, she called back:

"That's all right. Forget my call. He's OK. He's hung up on a sandbar."

Police said Harris tried to ford Mad River in his bus-type foreign car. In midstream the current caught the water-light auto and it was launched.

When the auto struck the sandbar, Harris climbed out the sun roof and waited for a tow truck to arrive.

Change Is Ordered in Part of Mass

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican yesterday ordered the first change in the most devout part of the Mass since the 7th Century.

A communique issued after yesterday's session of the Eucharistic Council said the name of St. Joseph, spouse of the Blessed Virgin, will be added to the canon — or heart — of the Latin rite Mass.

The announcement said Pope John XXIII ordered the change to become effective on Dec. 8, Feast of the Immaculate Conception of Mary.

Council experts said this will be the first change in the Latin rite canon in 13 centuries.

Deficit Could Kill Tax Cut

U.S. $7.8 Billion in Red by End of Fiscal '62?

Estimate Looks Bad for JFK's Plans to Slash Income Levy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials are forecasting a federal budget deficit this year of $7.8 billion. This could be enough, perhaps, to imperil President Kennedy's plans for a 1963 tax cut.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., was one of the first Congress members to comment today on the official deficit estimate announced Tuesday by the Budget Bureau.

"Under the circumstances," he said, "it would be a serious mistake to give the President the tax cut which he indicated last summer he will ask when Congress resumes."

It may have been no accident that, just prior to the deficit announcement, it was reported that the administration was giving thought to a gradual tax reduction that would take effect in several steps over a period of one to two years. Such a plan would soften the immediate impact of lower taxes.

The Budget Bureau said several factors were responsible for dashing its dream of keeping out of the red in the current fiscal year that began July 1. It said:

"The economy, by falling far short of earlier expectations, is cutting sharply into forecast revenues. Federal income now is expected to total $25.9 billion—down $7.1 billion from the estimate Kennedy provided when he sent the budget to Congress last January and predicted a $500-million surplus."

The administration's 1962 tax bill and the Treasury's July liberalization of tax deductions, both aimed at spurring business modernization, will account for $2 billion of the revenue loss.

PEACE-TIME HIGH

Spending will jump to a peacetime high of $32.7 billion—up $1.2 billion from the January forecast because of $400 million more for interest charges on a bigger national debt, and congressional changes in bills to boost postal rates and overhaul the farm program.

The Budget Bureau said that, despite the Cuban crisis, military outlays are expected to total $15.3 billion—one of the few figures unchanged since January.

The red ink total in the last fiscal year was $6.3 billion. A deficit of $7.8 billion would be the second highest in peace time topped only by the $12.4 billion chalked up in 1959.

Cuba and Russ Again Demand Base Pull-Out

Talk Goes Back, Forth as U.N. Delegates Eye U. S. Proposition

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Some U.N. delegates assessed today new Soviet-Cuban demands, reported to include U.S. withdrawal from the base at Guantanamo, as a bargaining maneuver in negotiations to end the Cuban crisis.

"It is just another move in the chess game," said one diplomat. "Now the Russians will wait for the United States to make a move."

The United States was certain to reject the package presented to U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant Tuesday by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov and Cuban Ambassador Carlos Lechuga.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson met for 3 1/2 hours Tuesday night with Kuznetsov and said the talk was "constructive." He said it "served to identify and clarify the positions of both countries on the unresolved issues."

Kuznetsov presumably presented the new Soviet-Cuban proposal to Stevenson.

The American delegate was believed to have countered with the main U.S. demands—that the Soviet Union withdraw its IL-28 jet bombers from Cuba and permit adequate verification that Soviet missile sites have been dismantled and all rockets and other offensive weapons sent back to the Soviet Union.

CASTRO'S DEMANDS

The new Soviet-Cuban proposal was reported based on Prime Minister Fidel Castro's five-point demand made on Oct. 29 for an end to all U.S. activities against his regime and U.S. withdrawal from Guantanamo.

The five points apparently were worked over by Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, who has been in Havana since Nov. 2. Informants said the Soviet-Cuban proposal dealt mainly with U.S. withdrawal from Guantanamo and included an end to the U.S. naval blockade of arms shipments and measures by the United States to prevent hostile activity against Cuba by exiles.

It also was said to call for firmer guarantees that the United States will not invade Cuba.

President Kennedy made a no-invasion pledge contingent on the Soviet Union living up to Premier Khrushchev's promise to pull out all missiles and other offensive weapons under adequate verification.

Kennedy, Adenauer to Weigh Impact of Cuba on Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer meet today to weigh the impact of the Cuban crisis on the East-West dispute over Berlin.

The problem before the President and the chancellor is tangled by the fact that the outcome of the Cuban crisis is not yet clear and the real effect of the Soviet withdrawal of missiles from Cuba on Premier Khrushchev's Berlin policies is not yet known.

When the present date for the Kennedy and Adenauer conference was set officials had hoped that the Cuban situation would be substantially cleared up.

They conceded today that with Soviet jet bombers still in Cuba the final results of the U.S. Soviet confrontation are uncertain.

Adenauer arrived Tuesday night by plane from Bonn.

U.S. and German diplomats said Kennedy and Adenauer would cover a wide range of issues of which continuing coordination of policy on Berlin is the most important.

GERMAN BUILD-UP

Development of French-German relations, British membership in the European Common Market, the promotion of European political integration and the build-up of German armed forces within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are the chief topics —apart from Berlin—listed on the agenda worked out in advance of Adenauer's arrival.

Prior to leaving Bonn, Adenauer told newsmen that he was not opposed to "negotiations in principle" with the Soviet Union on Berlin provided that the Russians give some evidence of good faith in their dealings with the West.

Kennedy administration leaders have been studying the possibility that the Soviet withdrawal of nuclear weapons from Cuba opened the way for new Western initiatives on Berlin.

Their study, however, was started on the belief that Khrushchev would remove more than two dozen jet bombers known to be in Cuba as well as the 42 missiles which the U.S. Navy checked out aboard Soviet ships last week.

The Russians have stalled on withdrawal of the bombers and the activities of First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in discussions with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro in Havana remain a mystery here.

U.S. officials had assumed that he would see that Castro lives up to Khrushchev's commitment to Kennedy to remove all offensive weapons from the island.

Purchase to Add 3,000 Books

MSUO Library Growing

A total of 3,000 books is being added to the library of Michigan State University Oakland with the help of MSUO's Friends of the Kresge Library.

The Friends pledged to raise 3,000 toward purchase of the private collection of the late Ralph David of Grosse Ile. Mr. David, a Vernon's Ginger Ale executive, died recently.

MSUO Librarian David Wilder described Mr. David as "a person who enjoyed reading very much and did not use libraries but bought his own books."

"As a result," he added, "he had the standard sort of books you would find in a library—books which we needed."

The collection is made up of books bought between 1920 and 1962. It is strong in the Civil War period and includes a quantity of American biography and travel books, as well as "better type" fiction, Wilder said.

The total purchase price of the books was not disclosed.

The last official count of the MSUO library's books stood at 28,500 catalogued books in June. So far, about 2,000 of the David collection have been catalogued.

Together with other additions, Wilder said, this brings the total to about 33,000 books.

Your borrowed books help to provide jobs and rehabilitative services for home-bound and handicapped persons. For prompt book pickup return call the Oakland Army, Veterans 6-8861.

President Chats With Dancers

Soviet Ambassador Acts as Interpreter

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin sat on opposite sides of the theater Tuesday night but joined in a warm burst of approval for the visiting Bolshoi Ballet.

The Soviet diplomats acted as Kennedy's interpreter later in the intermission backstage visit in which the President praised the troupe.

Kennedy, who said he had seen the Bolshoi in Moscow in 1959, declared their performance was "better than ever."

JFK LEAVES EARLY

While Dobrynin stayed to applaud to the end, Kennedy left after two of the four acts of the Tchaikovsky ballet "Swan Lake." Mrs. Kennedy, a ballet enthusiast, stayed in the mezzanine box through the 3½-hour performance. She wore a long white satin gown with a beaded black bolero.

Kennedy also thanked the Bolshoi dancers backstage for providing his daughter, Caroline, with an unforgettable experience.

PRESIDENT PRAISES

The Russian dancers not only captivated Caroline "but all of us here this evening," Kennedy told the group in his backstage visit, by Dobrynin interpreting. The Russians applauded the President and First Lady. They gave the Kennedys Bolshoi mementoes and introduced their world-renowned former prima ballerina, Galina Ulanova.

During the performance, the Kennedys sat in a box on the right, with the Russians in a box at the left of a huge horseshoe mezzanine of the Capital Theater. The ornate movie palace was filled with 3,300 for the black tie benefit premiere.

CABINET REPRESENTED

The Kennedys had come from a White House dinner party with several of their guests, including Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, who made a recent trip to the Soviet Union; Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who recently entertained a Russian group here; and former ambassador to the Soviet Union, Llewellyn Thompson.

PHOTOFEST REDS' INVASION — Demonstrators are shown outside Indian Parliament today as they protest Chinese Communist aggression and demanded banning of the Communist party in India. Some of the demonstrators carried red flags.

Nehru Gets Strong OK to Defend India

From Our News Wires
NEW DELHI—Parliament gave Premier Jawaharlal Nehru's government a thundering mandate today to "drive the Chinese from the sacred soil of India."

Nehru received a massive vote of confidence on two motions after a marathon six-hour debate in which 165 speakers took part.

One motion approved the government's emergency regulations and the other proclaimed the Indian people's determination to resist the Communist invaders of northern India "whatever the consequences."

In a speech winding up the debate, Nehru told parliament that no country as aroused as India has become "can ever be suppressed or defeated."

NEW APPOINTMENT

India also got a new defense minister today and sought more money to fight the border war against Red China.

President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan announced the appointment of Y. B. Chavan, the vigorous young head of the Bombay state government, to take over the defense ministry.

That is the post which Y. K. Menon, a controversial leftist associate of Nehru, lost Oct. 31 in the face of charges that he had failed to prepare India's defenses against Chinese attack.

K. Raghuramiah was named minister of state for defense production, a subordinate job in which Menon served through the first week of November. And T.T. Krishnamachari, a minister previously without portfolio, was named minister for economic and defense coordination.

Finance Minister Moraji Desai submitted to parliament a request for an additional $195 million to meet increased defense costs caused by the Chinese invasion. The regular appropriation for the armed forces in the fiscal year ending next March 31 was $715 million.

All foot patrols outside the central business district will use a car as their base of operations so as to be available for emergency calls. They'll park the car and return to check in by radio periodically.

Another memo asserts that hereafter the dispatcher sergeant will be located at the information desk at all times.

Arrest Ex-Con in Jewel Heft

$1.75 Million Worth of Gems Stolen

CHICAGO (AP)—An ex-convict in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said Johnson is charged by the state of Florida with the robbery of jewels from the Leonard Taylor jewelry store in Pompano Beach, Fla., jewelry store.

John Patrick Johnson, 25, of Arlington, Mass., was seized by FBI agents last night in Chicago.

M. W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said Johnson is charged by the state of Florida with the robbery of jewels from the Leonard Taylor jewelry store in Pompano Beach, Fla., jewelry store.

The robbery netted 521 diamonds and stones set in rings, bracelets, earrings and watches. The FBI recovered the loot and called it the biggest recovery in the country.

Agents said Johnson also is wanted in Michigan and Illinois for other robberies.

Charles Frank Mondyzyk, 25, was arrested with Johnson on a federal warrant issued in Vicksburg, Mich., charging illegal flight to avoid state prosecution.

The week long trial of two other Illinois men and a Michigan convict accused in the Pompano Beach robbery ended in mistrial Friday in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The jury was deadlocked after 11 hours of deliberation and Court of Record Judge O. Edgar Williams said he would order a new trial.

Two defendants — Paul W. Panchko, 38, of Chicago and Edward H. Cook, 36, of Oak Lawn, Ill. — were released on $50,000 bond. A third man, Richard W. Kay, 28, of Chicago, was returned to federal prison in Atlanta.

Agents said Johnson and Mondyzyk are wanted on a charge of armed robbery in connection with the theft of $18,000 in jewels from a jewelry store in Kalamazoo, Mich., April 26.

No Aid to Reds, Says Johnson

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said today that the United States will never give any pledge fortifying communism against "the united action of free men, in this hemisphere or any other."

With the Cuban situation still unsettled and the possibility looming of new Soviet threats to Berlin, Johnson declared:

"In the future, as in the past, we must be, and we shall be, ready to meet force with force and to seek honorable peace with all others who seek honorable peace also."

The vice president said in a speech prepared for the American Petroleum Institute that while the crisis in Cuba is fading for the moment, "the elements of continuing danger remain, in the same precarious balance as before" in the cold war.

Then he said: "The purpose of the United States remains unchanged toward this hemisphere: we intend that the Americas shall be free of Communism, free of those who serve Communist masters and—through the joint efforts of the Alliance for Progress—free of the seeds from which communism grows."

"The United States has not—and will never—enter any commitment by which Communist imperialism shall be fortified against the united action of free men, in this hemisphere or any other."

In an exchange of letters last month when the Cuban crisis was at the boiling point, President Kennedy gave Soviet Premier Khrushchev "assurances against an invasion of Cuba" if the Russians would remove their offensive weapons from the island.

Commissioners then have until Jan. 31, 1963, to make any revisions and adopt it.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Michigan Attorney Gen. Frank Kelley has asked the U. S. Supreme Court for a speedy denial of a petition asking for a review of the Senate reapportionment.

The review was requested by state Sens. Frank Beagle, John Fitzgerald and Paul Younger after the State Supreme Court—in a 4-3 decision—declared the Michigan Senate districts unconstitutional.

Michigan Senate districts currently are frozen into the state constitution and have a wide disparity in population.

The districting system was challenged as a violation of the federal constitution's guarantee of equal protection under the laws by August Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO.

$20,739 Sewer Project to Be Started Next Week

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP—A $20,739 sewer construction project in the Telegraph-Quinton area is expected to get underway next week, Township Supervisor Arno Hulet said today.

The contract for installation of the Foxcroft No. 4 sanitary sewer was awarded to a Birmingham firm, Mike Harabedian, Inc.

The company's low bid is the same as the one received Oct. 22.

However, a second public hearing had to be scheduled and awarding of the contract was delayed until this week because the price was some $3,000 more than the original estimate for the project.

The second public hearing was based on new special assessment figures which took the actual bids into consideration.

The sewer will serve approximately 26 property owners in the Telegraph and Quinton roads area. Business places occupy most of the property.

"Art in Advertising Photography" will be the topic of next Tuesday's 8 p. m. meeting of the Bloomfield Hills Camera Club at the Silver Wolf, 4100 N. Woodward Ave., Royal Oak.

An optional club dinner will be held at 6:30 p. m. preceding the meeting at Greenfield's Restaurant in Birmingham.

Willis W. VanWay of 3483 Blossom Lane, Bloomfield Township, has been elected president of the Olivet College Parents' Association.

Thomas E. Lowe, 81, of 6700 Indianwood Trail, Bloomfield Township, will be 2 p. m. Friday at Christ Church Cranbrook with burial to follow in Oakview Cemetery, Royal Oak.

Mr. Lowe died yesterday at his home after a long illness. He was survived by a daughter, Mrs. Edward L. Lowe, with whom he made his home, a son, G. Talbot of St. Clair; a sister and four grandchildren.

Adlai Chides Sen. Goldwater

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson has asked Sen. Barry Goldwater not to "distort my utterances" again.

The Republican senator from Arizona in a speech Monday night called for President Kennedy to fire Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, and three other officials—Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., special presidential adviser; Chester A. Bowles, presidential adviser on African, Asian and Latin-American affairs; and Richard N. Goodwin, deputy assistant secretary of state for Latin-American affairs.

Goldwater accused the four of being "soft on communism and soft on Cuba." He cited a statement by Stevenson in a speech on arms disarmament in which he said the United States was prepared to take risks to reduce the arms race.

"You have carefully neglected to quote the rest of the paragraph," Stevenson told Goldwater in a letter Tuesday. "I would be obliged if you would not again distort my utterances by quoting them out of context."

Falling Tree Kills 34-Year-Old Father

A 34-year-old father of four was killed yesterday afternoon in Bloomfield Hills when struck by a falling tree.

Dead on arrival at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital was Earl J. Moller, a Mount Clemens man who was foreman of a tree-trimming crew.

Police said Moller was clearing a crew which was clearing trees on Canterbury Drive near the eastern city limits.

He was standing to one side while the men were cutting a tree with a double trunk, police said. They were splitting off and toppled over on him.

The accident occurred about 3:30 p. m.

Some of the refugees boycotted the meeting. They had found out in advance that it was about and refused to attend.

One Cuban source said some of the refugees were planning to test whether the United States actually would send them back to Cuba—and possible death.

Ref. Adlai E. Stevenson has asked Sen. Barry Goldwater not to "distort my utterances" again.

PLOTTING REVOLT — Members of a newly formed African revolutionary movement stand behind the barbed wire fence they built around their storehouse meeting place in Pelang, Bechuanaland, as they face a questioning newsmen. The mud-hut village in the British protectorate is only two miles from the border of South Africa, which the revolutionaries hope to "liberate."

Actress Prefers the Real Thing

We Have 'Symbols' of Success

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (P) — "Everything here is a symbol. If you ask a successful American who he is, he immediately wants to show you his motor car."
The speaker of the lines is Shirley Anne Field, who is known as one of Britain's angry young ladies and also as "the pin-up girl of the English intelligentsia."
Miss Field, a film star, is 24, beautiful, red-haired and green-eyed. She appears more cheerfully outspoken than angry, however, and herself feels one reason she is flip with the lip is that she's half-Irish.

CONTRAST HERE
"There is so much contrast in this country," she observed. "You meet here either people who are unbelievably talented—or people who seem to have no place at all."
"I'm a cold weather girl and like fresh air. But in New York you can open a window. They're all painted together," she said.
"When I tried to open the window in my hotel, the maid told me, the air-conditioning in this room cost $10,000—and you have to use it."

Attaching a $6 steak with gleeful relish, Shirley said that despite the fact so many things in America were a symbolic price tag she was having a high old time visiting here.
"Actually, I live in a world of symbols myself rather one of reality," she confessed. "I always feel like I'm on the threshold of maturity, but never quite through. You get very confused when you are young and in this business."

CLOSE TO MM
Shirley feels a close kinship to the late Marilyn Monroe. A war orphan, she went to work as a secretary at 15, saved her shillings to take drama lessons. She was a model and a television performer before winning movie recognition.

As did Marilyn Monroe, she aspires to glamour, but she resents the thought that to a studio an actress is "just a mobile, animated piece of property."

"I picked show business because it forces a kind of discipline upon one. But to be yourself takes a lot of courage. In the final analysis, you're alone in what you try to do in life," she said.

"And you get lost if you're not yourself. If you don't know who you are, who does?"

"But all I can do is act—and cook. Sometimes I feel happy only when I'm working. You need a complete dedication to self. But I have fears, and when I'm acting someone else—well, those fears go."

ON SOLID GROUND
Despite her qualms, Shirley appears to have her two fair feet firmly planted on solid ground. Certainly no girl who can enjoy a $6 steak and laugh at herself as she does, has altogether lost her way.

"My landmarks in enjoyment are the British Museum, Hyde Park, Kensington Gardens, English pubs, fog, rain, sunlight, and all babies and animals," she said.

"I have no malice for anyone but myself. Sometimes I get on my nerves. What I can't do is be the same all the time. I change from day to day."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of the Cuban crisis was estimated officially Tuesday at about $100 million.

The Budget Bureau, which provided this assessment, described it as "the roughest kind of allowance."

Most of the money will be used to pay reservists called to active duty and troops retained beyond normal release dates, to operate and maintain the Cuban blockade, to finance aerial surveillance of the island, and to move men and equipment to the southeastern part of the country.
