Mourning World Awaits Funeral for Churchill

Johnson's Budget Is Set at Record $99.7 Billion

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson in a message to Congress today said the first year of his Great Society will cost the nation a record $99.7 billion.

The President's budget message for fiscal 1966—which he hinted may be the last U.S. budget below $100 billion — called for:

- A $1.75-billion cut in excise taxes, without naming those to be reduced or repealed.
- A $2.1-billion increase in all Social Security cash benefits this year, amounting to 7 per cent on the average, but followed by a steep rise in the payroll tax next year.
- Hospital care for aged persons — perhaps 19 million citizens — with the taxpayers footing the bill for those not covered by Social Security. This would start in mid-1966.
- Quadrupled spending in the war on poverty.

See Stories, Page 12

Military and foreign aid outlays would be trimmed slightly, helping to reduce the budget deficit to $5.3 billion, or a billion dollars less than this year's red ink spending.

But federal outlays for education would be increased by more than 75 per cent, to $2.7 billion, in the fiscal year starting next July 1 because, as Johnson explained:

"It (education) is our primary weapon in the war on poverty and the principal tool for building a Great Society."

GOVERNMENT REVENUES

He estimated that government revenues would total $94.4 billion, also a record. This would mean a $3.2-billion rise in tax collections from 1964 to 1965, generated by an unprecedented fifth consecutive year of strong business expansion.

The President predicted a record prosperity for this calendar year — a prosperity with these dimensions:

National output at $660 billion, a gain of nearly $38 billion; corporation profits at $61 billion, up nearly $4 billion; personal incomes rising to $520 billion, up 6 per cent.

The word "frugal," used repeatedly in last year's budget message, did not appear in this one. The new budget, said Johnson, is one of "both opportunity and sacrifice"; he went on:

RESTRAINED

"It begins to grasp the opportunities of the Great Society. It is restrained by the sacrifices we must continue to make to keep our defenses strong and flexible.

"This budget provides reasonably for our needs. It is not extravagant. Neither is it miserly."

But the cost-cutting and payroll-paring emphasis of a year ago was diluted, in today's message, by what Johnson called "the rising need for more public and private services" resulting from an increasing population, growing incomes and changing ways of life.

The budget provides, in fact, for a 1 per cent increase in the number of civilian employes.

EXPENDITURES TO RISE

"It is evident," Johnson conceded, "that unless defense needs should decline substantially, government expenditures will continue to rise over the long run."

But the costs will rise less rapidly than the nation's ability to meet them, Johnson said.

Seven Killed in Ferndale House Fire

Father Escapes as Mother, 6 Children Perish in Blaze

DETROIT (AP)—Choking smoke from a house fire killed a mother and six children today while the father, already cut and bleeding from a rescue attempt, struggled with firemen in an effort to try again.

But while Harry Belcher struggled hysterically with firemen in an effort to reenter the inferno, his wife and six young children lay dead in a smoke-filled second story bedroom.

The woman, two daughters and four sons all were dead on arrival this morning when rushed from their suburban Ferndale home to Beaumont Hospital in nearby Royal Oak.

Belcher, 32, was being treated for shock.

A neighbor, Dennis Lukasik, 24, was in fair condition with cuts received apparently when he also tried to enter the blazing structure.

★ ★ ★

The victims were Catherline Belcher, 33, her two daughters, Dawn, 9, and Melodie, 8, and sons Matthew, 6, Timothy, 5, Jeffrey, 3, and Daniel, 2. All died of smoke inhalation, the hospital said.

BLAMES WATER HEATER

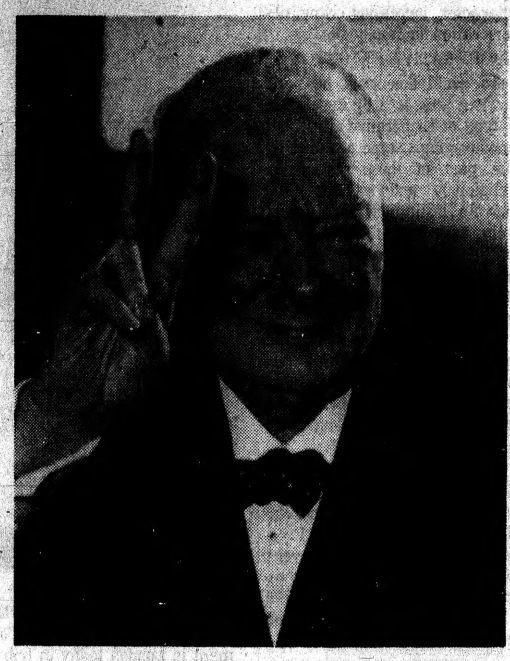
Ferndale Fire Chief William McMurray said the fire apparently was caused by an overheated water heater flue which set fire to ceiling joints near the rear stairs.

★ ★ ★

McMurray said all the victims were found in Mrs. Belcher's bedroom.

He speculated that the children had gone there to attempt to awaken their mother.

Neighbors described Belcher, manager of the pattern supply division for a Ferndale machinery and supply company, as a hard-working father who last year took a second job as a shoe salesman to earn money for the children's Christmas presents.



Sir Winston Churchill

Honor, Praise Go to 'History's Child'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation heaped unprecedented honor and unstinted praise today on Sir Winston Churchill, whom President Johnson called "history's child."

Johnson ordered the American flag to be flown at half staff through Saturday wherever it appears, on government buildings and on ships on the seven seas, in mourning for the British statesman who died yesterday.

So far as anybody could determine this is the first time such an honor has been accorded to a foreigner. But then, many thought, Churchill was not a foreigner. Wasn't he half American — through his American mother?

And did not Congress, which listened enthralled to the British leader in the dark days succeeding Pearl Harbor, endow him with honorary American citizenship?

Johnson had this statement issued:

★ ★ ★

"When there was darkness in the world, and hope was low in the hearts of men, a generous providence gave us Winston Churchill.

"As long as men tell about that time of terrible danger and of the men who won the victory, the name of Churchill will live.

"Let us give thanks that we knew him. With our grief let there be gratitude for a life so fully lived, for services so splendid, and for the joys he gave by the joy he took in all he did.

"The people of the United States — his cousins and his fellow-citizens—will pray with his British countrymen for God's eternal blessing on this man, and for comfort to his family.

"He is history's child, and what he said and what he did will never die."

★ ★ ★

Johnson, despite his uncomfortable cold, had issued orders that if Churchill died, he was to be notified immediately. Thus it was that the sad tidings were brought to him at 3:50 a.m. by Chief Petty Officer Thomas Mills at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

SENDS MESSAGES

The President sent personal messages of sympathy to Lady Churchill, Queen Elizabeth II and Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Global Leaders to Attend Rites

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill lay at rest today while the world awaited the somber magnificence of a state funeral he planned for himself.

Monarchs, presidents and veteran statesmen will follow his coffin on its last journey Saturday. President Johnson may be among them.

Churchill died shortly after 8 a.m.—3 a.m., EST—yesterday at No. 28 Hyde Park Gate, the London house in which he had lived since retiring from the premiership in 1955.

Two months past his 90th birthday, he had suffered a stroke nine days before. Medical experts said he died peacefully and without pain.

As the world's tributes flowed in for the greatest Englishman of modern times, friends revealed that he first started planning his funeral ceremony during World War II.

In December 1943, he was in Cairo after talks with President Roosevelt and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and caught a cold which turned to pneumonia.

★ ★ ★

Half jokingly he told aides: "They'll have to give me a state funeral. President Roosevelt will have to come to London to attend it."

Special Section, Pages 16-19; See Pages 4, 27, 31, 38

FUNERAL BOOK

From this remark grew Churchill's "funeral book," laying down the procedure he wanted followed and even detailing the names of military units which should attend.

In 1954 he returned to the exercise. Some details inevitably were changed but the outline remained, including a funeral progress up the Thames River of the kind accorded in 1805 to Admiral Lord Nelson, hero of Britain's naval victories over the French.

Determined that everything should go without a hitch, he toured the route the cortege will take. The route is a study in stone of Churchill's life.

★ ★ ★

From the house where he spent his last years in London, the coffin will go on Wednesday to Westminster Hall, the ancient seat of England's freedoms, adjoining the House of Commons which was his stage.

LIE IN STATE

There it will lie in state for three days. Then through Whitehall, the seat of government, and past his old residence as prime minister, at No. 10 Downing Street.

President's Condition Continues to Improve

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's physicians reported today that his condition has improved a great deal, a White House spokesman said late this morning.

But there was still no indication whether he would be able to carry out his stated desire to attend Sir Winston Churchill's funeral in London Saturday.

Nor was there any new information on how long the President would remain at Bethesda Naval Hospital fighting the remnants of a cold that hit Friday afternoon and put him in the hospital early Saturday.

David Waters, an assistant White House press secretary, said that since a 3 a.m. temperature reading of 99.2, subsequent checks of the President have shown normal readings.

★ ★ ★

Waters, reporting on Johnson's condition, said that the doctors characterize his condition as having improved "a great deal."

TEMPERATURE DOWN

Two and a half hours before the word was that the President's condition was quite good and that temperature readings during the night were below 100 but above normal.

Waters said a series of routine tests were made between 8 and 8:30 this morning and that the hemoglobin and red and white blood counts were normal, as was an electrocardiogram reading.

Waters said, too, that Mrs. Johnson, also resting in the hospital with a cold, "spent a restful night and her condition was considerably improved."

He said no presidential visitors were expected today.

Johnson told a group of reporters yesterday that he wants to attend the Churchill rites next Saturday but that a lot would depend on how his recuperation from a heavy cold and sore throat progressed.

Press secretary George E. Reedy said this morning no decision had been made yet on whether Johnson would fly to London.

Reedy said the President spent a very satisfactory night, resting comfortably, and that his temperature never went above 100. It was above normal, however.

Bus Crashes Into Oil Tanker

Greyhound Driver Is Killed; 15 Riders Hurt

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — A Greyhound bus slammed into an overturned fuel oil tanker on a snow - slick road today, killing the bus driver and injuring 15 passengers, one critically.

The crash occurred on the Dixie Highway near an entrance ramp leading onto Interstate 75 near this small southeast Lower Michigan community.

The dead driver was identified as William A. DeView, 51, of Bay City.

State police said the truck driver, Ronald J. Nickel, 24, of Holly, told them he was preparing to turn from the Dixie Highway onto the ramp leading to I-75 when the double tandem tanker went out of control and overturned, spreading 10,000 gallons of fuel oil across the road.

★ ★ ★

Police said Nickel told them he was unsuccessful in an attempt to flag down the approaching bus, which impaled itself on the cab of the overturned tanker.

PUTS OUT FIRE

Nickel, who was uninjured, told police he put out a small fire which started on the bus after the collision, officers said.

Seven ambulances were dispatched from Saginaw, 10 miles north of the crash scene. The injured were taken to three Saginaw hospitals.

A Lapeer man, William McCormick, 44, was among the injured. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

The bus was making a regular run between Detroit and Saginaw and carried approximately 20 passengers.

Prominent City Civic Leader Dies

L. Clare Utley, prominent Pontiac industrialist, died Saturday after a brief illness. He was 57.

Funeral service will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home. Burial will be in Bristol Cemetery in Flint.

Mr. Utley was owner and president of National Industrial Supply Co. of Pontiac.

Active in civic affairs, he was president of the Pontiac City Club, a member of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club of Pontiac and Camp 24.

He was past president of Flint Civitan Club, past master of Charles Durand Lodge No. 533, F&AM, Detroit Consistory, El Kur Shrine and BPOE No. 810.

A member of All Saints Episcopal Church, Mr. Utley lived at 261 Ottawa.

Surviving are his wife, Gladys; a daughter, Mrs. Victor P. Shaner of Wheaton, Ill.; a son, Martin C. Utley of Mattoon, Ill.; and four granddaughters.

School Starts Tomorrow for Area Cooks

Cooking school starts tomorrow. The Pontiac Press sixth annual food demonstration will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Pontiac Central High School.

Doors at the east end of the building will open at 12:30 and all those attending are asked to use these doors.

There will be afternoon sessions tomorrow, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Evening sessions at 7:30 will be offered for the first time Wednesday and Thursday.

Home economist Donna Punchochar who conducted last year's school is in town. The food is being delivered.

Prizes, including the largest array of "grand" awards ever given are ready to be claimed at the close of each session.

All food prepared on stage is given away. Dozens of bags of groceries, plus many many other prizes are in readiness.

Some tickets are still available at the Pontiac Press. Anyone in line after all ticket holders have been seated will be admitted, up to the legal limit of the auditorium.

Break News Tradition

LONDON (UPI) — The Times of London today carried news of Sir Winston Churchill's death on the front page — the first time news has been published on the front page in more than 50 years. It normally carries only classified ads.

Allies, Ex-Foes Hail Winston

LONDON (AP) — Former foe joined with friend today in mourning the death of Sir Winston Churchill. The onetime Axis powers heaped praise on the unrelenting adversary of World War II.

The Germans and Italians, Churchill's great wartime enemies, voiced tribute for the man who sparked the struggle that toppled their fascist rulers.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said: "The United Kingdom has lost one of the great statesmen of its history, the world a great fighter for the free democratic order.

Italian President Giuseppe Saragat said: "The glory which surrounded him in life will continue to shine from him even after death and so long as there is a free man on this earth his name will be remembered with gratitude."

★ ★ ★

The Japanese Broadcasting Corp. flashed Churchill's portrait framed in black on its screen Sunday and played a few bars of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, the victory theme of the war.

'GREAT LOSS'

Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato cabled the "deepest condolences" of his government and people and called Churchill's death "a great loss for the whole world."

French President Charles de Gaulle, often a trial to Sir Winston during the war, hailed him in a message to Lady Churchill as "my wartime companion and my friend."

To Queen Elizabeth, de Gaulle telegraphed that Churchill "contributed powerfully to the salvation of the French people and to the liberty of the world. In this drama he was the greatest."

Pontiac Sales Set Record for January Period

Retail sales of 24,144 new Pontiacs and Tempests were reported by dealers during the middle 10 days of January, it was announced today by Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager for Pontiac Motor Division.

This represents an increase of 67 per cent over the same period a year ago when the figure was 14,501, Bridge said.

In reporting the sixth consecutive 10-day record, Bridge asserted this was the "strongest market" he's witnessed in 39 years of selling automobiles.

"Buyers' optimism is outstanding," Bridge added. "All indications are that this will be our best January ever."

Winter Drizzle Will Continue

Tomorrow promises no relief from the drizzly winter weather that has plagued the Pontiac area.

Slightly warming temperatures and cloudy skies will bring more showers. By Tuesday night the thermometer will begin to fall.

Predicted for Wednesday are lower temperatures with cloudy skies.

Lowest temperature prior to 8 a.m. today was 24. By 2 p.m. the thermometer crept to 29 in downtown Pontiac.

Both Social, Economic

Crisis Near—Romney

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is heading toward a social and economic crisis, says Michigan Republican Gov. George Romney.

★ ★ ★

Declines in religious conviction and moral character, as well as "deterioration in family life" were cited by Romney Sunday as factors in what he termed a coming social crisis.

He pointed to what he called defects in the national economic policy in forecasting an economic crisis.

Romney said the defects would make it "more and more difficult" for America to "compete internationally in the economic field."

Romney expressed the views in a radio interview here that followed on his talk in Chicago Saturday night in which he deplored world conditions.

"No nation, and no people, can survive as islands of prosperity and plenty in a world that hungers and is filled with envy," he told the United Jewish Appeal at Chicago.

He said lessons must be learned from Jewish history or America will "fall short of its historic destiny and perish from the earth."

Romney, in a swift change of plans, had driven the 150 miles from Kalamazoo to Chicago Saturday after the weather grounded planes. He had delivered the Western Michigan University midwinter commencement speech.

NATION'S FUTURE

The governor talked about the nation's future Sunday in an interview on the Metropolitan Broadcasting Co.'s "Opinion in the Capital" program.

"The whole agricultural situation is on the wrong basis," he said.

Of morality, he said the following contribute to pending crisis:

"The decline in religious conviction, decline in local government and state government responsibility, decline in moral character, increasing crime, deterioration in family life."

COOPERATIVE EFFORT

To avoid the crisis, he said: "You answer it by developing a type of cooperative effort and encouraging a type of effort on the part of those responsible religiously and socially, the private institutions that are of help, as well as the public, and bring about a greater awarness of what we have to do individually and what we have to do as good citizens in this society."

Romney said the states should modernize their constitutions in order to block what he called centralization of further power in the federal government.

He repeated a belief the Republican party should broaden its base. He said he did not endorse Barry Goldwater for President in the election last year because of the Republican nominee's vote against the civil rights bill and his position on extremism."

Budget Hits $99.7 Billion

said, federal spending will decline in relation to the Gross National Product — "to less than 15 per cent, the lowest ration achieved in 15 years."

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless the federal debt will stand at an historic peak of $322.5 billion when the fiscal year has closed. Johnson served notice he will ask another increase in the debt ceiling fixed by Congress.

HIGHLIGHTS OF MESSAGE

These were among the highlights of the message:

● Defense — Spending would be reduced to $49 billion from $49.3 billion. Yet Americans, he said, can be sure they will have "a massive defense establishment of steadily growing power, within reduced outlays."

● Space — Big annual increases for space are being choked off. The proposed $200 million increase for 1966, to $5.1 billion, compares with rises averaging a billion dollars a year since 1960.

The high-priority space targets are unchanged — a man on the moon by 1970 and, soon after, an unmanned probe for life on Mars.

● Poverty — A four-fold increase in the antipoverty programs will bring 1966 outlays to $1.3 billion.

● Appalachia — Obviously confident of quick approval by Congress of his plan to attack "chronic poverty" in the 11-state Appalachian region, Johnson asked $103 million for roads and resource development in what remains of this fiscal year, plus $507 million in fiscal 1966.

● Agriculture — this biggest domestic program suffers a $500-million cut, to $6.36 billion.

● Atomic energy — For the second successive year, atomic energy outlays are cut — to $2.53 billion from $2.7 billion. The country's nuclear force will not be weakened, Johnson pledged. And preparations have been finished so that nuclear testing in the atmosphere can be resumed quickly if another nation violates the limited test-ban treaty.

● Foreign aid — Military and economic foreign aid outlays are budgeted for $3.2 billion, a cut of $50 million. This does not include the Peace Corps, up $25 million, or the Food for Peace Program, unchanged.

But putting a $1.75 billion limit on the promised excise tax reduction, Johnson was sure to disappoint many Congress members. Some have talked hopefully of slashes totaling $4 billion or more.

Wilson Is Named 'Skins Assistant

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Wilson, who quit last month as head coach of the Detroit Lions, joined the Washington Redskins today as an assistant coach.

"I plan to use his talents and knowledge of football strictly in the offensive phase of the game," Head Coach Bill McPeak said.

McPeak didn't say so, but it was understood Wilson would direct the Redskin offense.

death came from Queen Elizabeth II, last of the six sovereigns he served.

POLITICAL FOE

A political foe of Churchill while they served together in the House of Commons, Prime Minister Harold Wilson said:

"He will be mourned all over the world by all who owe so much to him. He is now at peace after a life in which he created history and which will be remembered as long as history is read."

Pope Paul VI went to his chapel to pray on hearing the news of Sir Winston's death and saluted him in a message to Lady Churchill as a "great statesman and indefatigable champion of freedom, independence and peace."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander during World War II and one of Churchill's closest collaborators and friends, said:

"His indomitable courage, his indestructible faith in the society of free nations and in the dignity of free men typified our way of life."

TRUMAN COMMENTS

Former President Harry S. Truman, who succeeded President Franklin D. Roosevelt as Churchill's war partner, said "providentially his intrepid spirit came to the fore and proved decisive in defeating the forces of evil and darkness."

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin hailed Sir Winston's war role and said "the grief of the British people in connection with this bereavement is shared here."

But a Tass dispatch castigated Churchill as "the master-mind behind the cold war against the Soviet Union."

Polish Communist leaders — President Edward Ochab and Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz — called him "one of the greatest and most indomitable leaders of the anti-Hitler coalition of the second world war." President Tito of Yugoslavia hailed "his fighting spirit, tireless work and big contribution to the (Allied) victory."

BRAZIL MOURNS

Brazil, the only South American country which sent troops to fight in Europe during World War II, declared national mourning.

In the little mud hut village of Kibera in Kenya, Chief Suleiman, one of the few surviving soldiers who fought against Churchill at the battle of Omdurman in 1898, said simply: "He was a brave warrior."

President Ayub Khan of Pakistan said he was "deeply grieved." Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said: "The lasting tribute we can pay him is to continue to work for the principles of peace and democracy."

Then into Fleet Street, London's newspaper row to which Churchill turned for a platform and for income in his youth and again in the years of political eclipse after World War I.

ST. PAUL'S

Finally to St. Paul's, Sir Christopher Wren's domed masterpiece where Britain traditionally takes leave of its heroes.

From St. Paul's the cortege will travel to the Thames. In the shadow of the tower Churchill's coffin will be put aboard a barge to travel up river to a pier near Waterloo Station.

Here the public ceremonial ends. The family will join the coffin on a private train and Churchill will be buried near his parents in a village churchyard in the heart of England.

★ ★ ★

Parliament was called together this afternoon to hear political leaders' tributes to Churchill and give formal approval to Queen Elizabeth's request that the funeral be made a state occasion.

AUTOMATIC APPROVAL

This approval is automatic. It is technically necessary since the funeral will involve some governmental expense.

The end was announced in a terse bulletin signed by his physician and lifelong friend, Lord Moran. At his bedside were Lady Churchill, his son, and his two daughters.

★ ★ ★

The queen, among the first to be informed of his death, immediately sent Lady Churchill this message:

★ ★ ★

"The news of Sir Winston's death caused inexpressible grief to me and my husband. We send our deepest sympathy to you and your family.

★ ★ ★

"The whole world is the poorer by the loss of his many-sided genius, while the survival of this country and the sister nations of the Commonwealth in the face of the greatest danger that has ever threatened them will be a perpetual memorial to his leadership, his vision, and his indomitable courage."

MANY STATESMEN

The funeral is expected to bring together the largest concourse of statesmen since that of President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

Diplomats said President Charles de Gaulle has unofficially let it be known that he expects to come.

They said the Soviet representative is likely to be President Anastas Mikoyan, whom Churchill knew well, or the new premier, Alexei N. Kosygin.

It will be the first state funeral for a British commoner since that of Prime Minister William E. Gladstone 67 years ago.

The service will be conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of the Church of England.

Burial will be in the small country churchyard in Bladon, 70 miles northwest of London. It is on the great Blenheim estate, home of the dukes of Marlborough, where Churchill was born. His father, Lord Randolph Churchill, was a son of the seventh duke, and Sir Winston died on the 71st anniversary of Lord Randolph's death.

Pontiac Scores in Auto Tests

Pontiac and Pontiac Tempest walked away with trunkful of honors over the weekend in the first tests in the annual Pure Oil performance trials at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Pontiac, along with Buick, dominated Detroit's V8 engine cars in the economy phase of the five-day event on Friday.

Acceleration tests were slated for today with braking tests tomorrow and Wednesday.

A Pontiac Bonneville Brougham, powered with a 359-horsepower engine, took first place in the luxury V8 class with 17.969 and 16.668 miles per gallon.

In the "deluxe" rated class, a 335-horsepower Bonneville finished on top with 19.551 and 17.949 miles per gallon.

ECONOMY

Economy honors among standard 6-cyclinder passenger cars went to a 140-horsepower Tempest in Saturday's performance trials. The winner registered 23.373 miles per gallon.

A similar model took third place behind a Ford Fairlane with 23.277 miles per gallon.

Buick picked up honors in the medium and small V8 classes.

A "440" Buick LeSabre registered 19.036 and 18.794 miles per gallon in the medium class, while a deluxe Buick Special finished first among the small V8's with 21.382 and 20.689 miles per gallon.

RUNNER-UP

A Pontiac Tempest LeMans was runner-up among the small V8's with 19.960 miles per gallon.

Saturday's economy trials saw Rambler successfully defend its title for the sixth straight year as the economy champion of all American passenger cars.

In the compact 6-cylinder competition, a Rambler American 440 with 125-horsepower finished with 27.542 and 26.636 miles per gallon.

Death Takes Prominent City Resident

A prominent Pontiac resident and leader in the Greek community died Friday at Pontiac General Hospital after an illness of more than a year.

George P. Bisbikis, 67, of 78 Bloomfield Trail, was a former partner in the Liberty Cafe, now the Liberty Lounge, at 85 N. Saginaw. He was retired.

Born in Athens, Greece, Mr. Bisbikis was a member of Elks Lodge No. 810, the Knights of Pythias Lodge No. 19, and the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association, Pontiac chapter.

He was a member of St. George Greek Orthodox Church.

Trisagion service will be at 8 tonight at the Voorhees-Siple Funeral Home. Service will be 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at St. George Greek Orthodox Church, with burial at Perry Mt. Park Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Georgia, four daughters, Mrs. Mary Hudson of Roseville, Mrs. Bess LaMont of Lake Orion, Mrs. Jane Walters and Mrs. Helen Hockstad, both of Pontiac; a son, Peter of Pontiac; a sister and four grandchildren.

Contributions may be made to the church's building fund.

To Hear Legal Opinion on City's Big Election 'If'

BIRMINGHAM — Commissioners were wondering what would happen if voters accepted both initiative and referendum charter amendments on the April 5 ballot.

They'll find out tonight at their 8 p.m. meeting.

Upon the recommendation of the Birmingham-Bloomfield League of Women Voters, the commission in September called for an election on the two provisions.

A month later, petitions were filed to have a similar but broader amendment included on the same ballot.

★ ★ ★

Cause of concern among commissioners was the possibility that both amendments would be approved.

IN CONFLICT

Since they are in conflict, adoption of both could create a confusing situation.

The commissioners asked City Attorney James L. Howlett to check on the matter and he consequently asked Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley for an opinion.

Kelley noted that the constitution provides that the amendment receiving the highest affirmative vote shall prevail.

★ ★ ★

"Any court decision which would permit to stand the terms of each of the conflicting charter amendments might render the charter ineffective in part or even lead to chaotic conditions impeding the city government's operation," he said.

15 PER CENT

The commission's amendment would allow 15 per cent of the city's qualified voters to call for initiatory or referendum elections.

At present, this would mean some 2,156 persons would have to sign a petition requesting the election within 90 days of the time a petition committee announced its intention to the city clerk.

The other so-called "popular" amendment would require the signatures of five per cent of the qualified voters who cast ballots in the last municipal election — about 186 this year.

★ ★ ★

It also would allow referendum votes on resolutions of the city commission, not limiting such an election to official action of the group.

★ ★ ★

The second amendment contains no exclusions while that of the commission would not allow initiative or referendum elections on the levy of taxes, appropriation of money, budget or capital improvement program and salaries of city officers and employes.

The commission's amendment also would prohibit petitioners from initiating zoning matters.

Mayor Is Improving After Heart Attack

Doctors at Pontiac General Hospital report today that Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., is in good condition and is resting comfortably.

Dr. D. Clare Gates, 64, who was appointed administrative head of the Oakland County Community Mental Health Services Board Jan. 8, died Saturday evening of a heart attack.

Funeral service will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Wessels Funeral Home in Pleasant Ridge. Cremation will follow at Evergreen Cemetery, Detroit.

Dr. Gates, of 6 Woodland, Pleasant Ridge, had served as a public health consultant with United Community Services (UCS) in Detroit since 1958.

He had resigned from this position to accept the directorship of the county mental health board, effective Feb. 8.

★ ★ ★

He received his doctorate in public health from the University of Michigan in 1937.

OTHER SERVICE

He went from there to Minneapolis, where he served eight years as deputy health commissioner and 12 years on the metropolitan Minneapolis Community Welfare Council.

In 1963 Dr. Gates directed a UCS survey of health and medical care in Oakland County.

He served as an advisor to a special committee which conducted a recent study of the county's TB sanatorium and had acted as part-time administrator of the county mental health board for more than a year.

★ ★ ★

He was past chairman of the Pleasant Ridge Planning Commission, past president of the National Conference for Health Council Work and a fellow of the American Public Health Association.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Gates attended Drayton Avenue Presbyterian Church in Ferndale.

Surviving are his wife, Helen; a son, Capt. Tad Gates, a dentist in the U.S. Air Force stationed in Montana; one grandchild; a sister and two brothers.

Winston and Clemmie Shared a Great Love Story

LONDON (UPI)—Lady Clementine Churchill lived with Sir Winston Churchill through his time as a great man in his prime and glory.

And she sustained him in his old age and illness.

Admired for the gracious support she gave him as prime minister, she is adored by those who knew her for her devotion to her husband in his declining years.

In his last illness Lady Churchill, herself 79 years old, once again marshalled the nurse, consulted with the doctors, comforted the children and grandchildren, and was always there so her husband could see her and draw strength from her.

★ ★ ★

Theirs was a great love story — though there were some at the wedding 55 years ago who swore the lovely society girl would not be able to stand the red-headed, pugnacious young politician for more than a few months.

LIVED HAPPILY

"I married," said Sir Winston in a widely quoted paragraph of one of his books, "and live happily ever after."

At the family dinner party in which the Churchills celebrated Sir Winston's 90th birthday on Nov. 30, he lifted his glass and toasted her across the dinner table.

A friend said that Sir Winston never drank in the presence of his wife without toasting her.

★ ★ ★

During their life together Lady Churchill received many honors and tributes of her own. But she always insisted on a minimum of publicity because she believed the spotlight should always be on her husband.

MOST IMPORTANT

"If I die first," she once told a friend, "the most important thing I can say in my will would be how to look after Winston."

But he went first.

Shortly after World War II Sir Winston told an audience in Strasbourg, with tears in his eyes, "it would not be possible for any public man to go through what I have gone through without the devoted assistance of what we in England call 'one's better half.'"

Feature writers called her "My Darling Clementine." Sir Winston called her "Clemmie."

★ ★ ★

Lady Churchill is a member of a Scottish family rich only in its long lineage.

FRENCH TEACHER

She even studied to be a French teacher in case she had to earn her own living. Then one night young Churchill and a friend were using nautical terms to rate the girls at a party. They were worth one ship if plain, 10 ships if pretty, or even a hundred ships if beautiful.

Clementine Hozier swept through the door and Churchill cried:

"One thousand ships!"

★ ★ ★

And so they were married.

On their golden wedding anniversary in 1959 the world and Sir Winston hailed the marriage as "the most successful of the century."

Lady Churchill, who did not always agree with Sir Winston on politics — she favored women's suffrage which he opposed — once told a girl's school that the secret of maintaining a distinct personality in marriage was not to become aggressive but to "quietly hold to your convictions."

★ ★ ★

In recent years Lady Churchill, still strikingly handsome, has suffered from fatigue, partly due to the strain of nursing her husband through his many illnesses. In addition there were family tragedies including the suicide of a daughter, the sudden death of a son-in-law.

★ ★ ★

But in tears or triumph Sir Winston knew he could always count on one thing. Clemmie would be at his side.

Rioting Viet Nam Students Burn Foes' Homes

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Rioting students in Hue were burning down houses of persons they described as "antinationalist" today. Among the first set ablaze was that of the regional police chief.

The mob of about 10,000 anti-government demonstrators was last reported heading for the local office of the Vietnamese government information service.

Police and troops in the city 400 miles north of Saigon were not interfering.

Demonstrations against the government of Premier Tran Van Huong were also reported in four other central Vietnamese cities and Saigon was an armed camp in preparation for threatened Buddhist suicides by fire.

Buddhist youths and monks scuffled briefly with police and paratroopers in Saigon, but the demonstration was broken up with tear gas and billy clubs. About 70 persons were arrested.

Traffic was halted on at least a dozen Saigon streets as paratroopers strung barbed wire at expected trouble spots.

Reliable sources reported a mob of 2,000 persons at one time within a block of the U.S. consulate in Hue.

Several thousand demonstrators were also reported on the march toward the key U.S. military detachment in Da Nang.

More than 3,000 U.S. servicemen are stationed at Da Nang and another 750 at Hue. Both cities were put off limits to Americans after the U.S. Information Service building in Hue was wrecked during a demonstration Saturday.

Student agitators demanded that businesses refuse to serve Americans. Banners reading "Taylor go home" and "Kick out Taylor" flew in Hue in protest against U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor's support of Premier Tran Van Huong's government.

GENERAL STRIKE

A general strike closed business in Da Nang and commercial airline flights to the city were canceled.

Taylor and Deputy Ambassador Alexis U. Johnson met in emergency session Sunday with Premier Huong, who later conferred with Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, chief of the armed forces, and other leaders.

There were fears that continuing civil strife might lead to a restoration of military rule. Informants said, however, that the military had decided to go along with the government for the time being after an urgent meeting Sunday.

Five Buddhist monks entered the sixth day of a hunger strike they vow will last until death unless Huong quits.

BUDDHIST CLAIM

The Buddhists claim the Huong government discriminates against them and that the United States continues to support Huong because of Taylor's influence.

Mailmen's Unit Installs Officers at Ceremony

At a recent ceremony at Airway Lanes, 4825 W. Huron, Waterford Township, Charles Smalley was installed as president of local Branch 320, National Association of Letter Carriers.

Smalley, who lives at 5247 Sashabaw, Independense Township, was installed by James Rademacher, national vice president, and Ralph Pizzuto, state president.

★ ★ ★

Other officers installed were Clyde Lowery, vice president; Wilbur Hinsperger, secretary; Frank Greenwood, financial secretary; and William Cavalier, treasurer.

A record 1,029 conventions and expositions were scheduled in New York City, during 1964.

Less Spending on Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. spending on foreign affairs — to promote "world peace, stability and prosperity" — will dip slightly next year under President Johnson's new budget.

Johnson estimated the outlay for nonmilitary international affairs and finance during the fiscal year starting next July 1 at just under $4 billion, a $59-million cut from this year's rate. This includes increases for the State Department and the Peace Corps.

Foreign aid spending of various types, including the bulk of the international finance figure plus $1.1 billion in arms assistance, was listed at $5 billion in the coming year — a $300-million drop. Military aid was down $100 million from this year and economic aid, at $3.9 billion, was down $200 million.

The budget allocated about $250 million for international organizations including the United Nations and related agencies — a $30-million boost. But officials said this was tentative pending the outcome of the fight over U.N. financing.

Dead Yank Apparently Executed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communists who captured four Americans while they were fishing Saturday apparently executed one of them on the spot.

U.S. officials reported today that the body of one of the Americans was found floating in the water near the group's boat, a rope around its neck, the feet tied and with a bullet hole in the back of the head.

The body of another of the soldiers was found earlier. The other two are missing and presumed either captured or killed by the Viet Cong.

The defense department in Washington said the dead soldiers were Sgt. James T. H. Cordova of Glen Burnie, Md., and Spec. 4 Roger L. Buss of Cottage Grove, Wis.

DEATH TOLL 254

Their deaths brought to 254 the number of Americans killed as a result of enemy action in Viet Nam since December 1961.

The missing men were Spec. 4 William E. Swaykos of Bloomfield, N.J., and Sgt. Harold E. Strong Jr. of Alexandria, Va.

★ ★ ★

The four soldiers went fishing Saturday in a cove near the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 270 miles northeast of Saigon. They had two rifles among them.

Offer Praise for Churchill

State Leaders Join Mourning

By United Press International

Michigan's political, industrial, labor and religious leaders joined the world today in mourning the death of Britain's Sir Winston Churchill.

From Gov. George Romney on through the list, the leaders in the world's "Arsenal of Democracy" in World War II voiced sadness at the passing of the man who rallied the world from despair to victory in that war.

Gov. Romney said: "Sir Winston's life provided the world with some of its finest hours. He shall be greatly missed by all."

Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of Detroit, said:

★ ★ ★

"The life we enjoy today would not be possible except for Sir Winston and his leadership in World War II. He symbolized the spirit of our democratic society."

AUTO LEADERS

Statements by heads of the Big Three auto makers:

Henry Ford II, board chairman of Ford Motor Co.: "To Winston Churchill more than any other, mankind owes the chance it still has to make this a world where free men can life in peace, security and honor."

Frederic Donner, board chairman of General Motors Corp.:

"Seldom in history has the death of one man so truly marked the end of an era as the passing of Winston Churchill. His deeds and his words will be his monument."

★ ★ ★

Lynn A. Townsend, president of Chrysler Corp.:

"The indomitable spirit of Winston Churchill will never be forgotten. The free world will mourn his death and miss the benefits of his wisdom."

WALTER REUTHER

Walter P. Reuther, President of the United Auto Workers Union said:

"He etched a place in history through his courage, his unshakable faith in the power of free men, his indomitable will."

Walter L. Cisler, board chairman of the Detroit Edison Co., said:

"Surely the people of Detroit and Michigan consider him one of us, even though he belonged to another allied nation. People of his stature belong to the world."

Joseph L. Hudson, Jr., president of J. L. Hudson Co., said:

"I don't see how any free person, anywhere in the world, can escape the conclusion that in part, he owes his freedom to the courage and determination of Winston Churchill."

BISHOP EMRICH

The Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, Episcopal Bishop of Michigan said:

"His will power and his eloquence carried us all through a very dark period of history and he was so great that you almost feel as though the Alps had disappeared."

Dr. Leon Fram, rabbi of Temple Israel, said:

"All the world is in Winston Churchill's debt. He will have a permanent place in Jewish history as the man who led the world in resistance to antisemitism and in total defeat of its chief spokesman, Adolf Hitler."

★ ★ ★

Rev. Fr. Arthur L. Valade, chancellor of the Archdiocese of Detroit, said:

★ ★ ★

"The influence of his life has touched sharply the character of our own. History alone will tell the measure of that influence."

Winston Twice Visited Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — Winston Churchill visited Detroit on two occasions, as a 26-year-old heroic veteran of four wars in 1901 and again in 1932 to talk of trade and gold during the depths of the depression.

In the first visit he was a sensation.

Churchill was a slender, dashing figure in the decorous uniform of a Hussar, and he had already gained fame as holder of the coveted Victoria Cross and as an author and lecturer.

By the second time, Churchill was older, baldish, not so slim and was by then best known only as the former British First Lord of the Admiralty.

He gave a lecture on the world's maldistribution of gold, urged a trade agreement between his country and the U.S.

He also gave a brief, cryptic warning about affairs in Germany where Adolph Hitler was coming into power.

Sees Gains for GOP in '66 Congress

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gerald Ford, R-Mich., says he is optimistic the Republicans will make gains in congressional elections in 1966 because "we need a strong two-party system and the public knows it."

Ford, the new House Republican leader, told a news conference here Saturday that the Democrats' overwhelming voting advantage in Congress will "really plague them as much as it will help them" during the current session.

Ford said, "The public will realize that having heavy concentration of power in the hands of one party is bad. The public doesn't want this power in the hands of one party. We need a strong two-party system and the public knows it."

Architect Expires at 86

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephen Francis Voorhees, 86, an architect who designed many famous buildings including the old Times Tower in New York's Times Square, died Saturday.

Lung cancer is now the leading cause of death from cancer and the American Cancer Society predicts that 52,000 will develop this disease in 1965.

Registration Time

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Construction Safety Commission has reminded construction firms that all firms which employ three or more persons on construction projects in Michigan must register with the commission for 1965.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Relax While Boyle Extracts a Few Facts

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Over 800,000 American kids achieved the dream of their lifetimes in 1964 — they became teen-agers at last. We now have more than 23 million of them.

BOYLE

Because of the growing number of young and old people, more than half the American population either is under 21 or over 65.

Word has just reached us that in Florida it's a jail offense for unmarried girls to parachute on Sundays.

Some 40,000 companies now employ lie detector tests, particularly in hiring new employes.

"Put away that machine, boss, I confess I was 10 minutes late to work this morning."

ODD HOBBIES

Odd hobbies: King Henry VIII, better known for collecting wives, also collected fipple flutes. A fipple flute is exactly like a phipple phlute. They are even pronounced the same.

Quotable notables: It is a rather pleasant experience to be alone in a bank at night—Willie Sutton, who now spends his nights in prison and his days, too.

One in five U.S. families at the start of 1965 owed $600 in instalment debts and $11,000 on mortgages, a 10 per cent rise over the year before.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union people proved long ago that if you dunked a worm named Oscar into a vial of pure alcohol it would die at once of booze shock. Now the U.S. Public Health Service reports an even more worrisome item: Heavy human drinking increases the risk of getting cancer.

FIRST CONGRESS

The first U.S. Congress met in New York City. It completed its work in two sessions—and all the members went back home.

Here's why actors hate to perform in winter: For every 100 people in a theater audience, there are 2½ coughs a minute.

★ ★ ★

The American Humane Association is offering $10,000 in awards for inventors who can create new wild animal traps that will catch or kill their victims without the suffering caused by present traps.

★ ★ ★

One way to gain fame would be to get hit by a "falling star," but it has never happened — at least as far as science can find. But millions of these fiery meteoric fragments steak into our atmosphere daily, and add two million tons to the earth's weight annually.

CHINESE BELIEF

Quickies: Chinese girls believe that if they can thread a needle blindfolded they will marry well. One in 20 families still has an Indian head penny somewhere in the house. In an eight-hour day, a movie star may spend less than an hour before the camera. Fewer than one in 80 convicts ever escapes.

It was Bernard Shaw who advised "Take care to get what you like, or you will end up by liking what you get."

New Arrests in State Strike

Police Beefed Up; Order Limits Pickets

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — Beefed-up police protection, a picket-limiting injunction and several new arrests marked the status of a union strike now on the eve of its 13th week at Gardner-Denver Co. here.

One man was fined and jailed over the weekend after outbreaks of violence including two car tippings and a window-breaking at a residence.

★ ★ ★

International Association of Machinists Lodge 1503 was limited to three pickets at each gate by a Circuit Court temporary injunction served today. The union represents some 300 workers who struck Nov. 3 in a dispute over a new contract.

Gardner-Denver, the city's largest employer, has continued operations of the plant with some 250 supervisory personnel.

POLICE FORCE

The city's 15-member police force, plus 10 officers from the Ottawa County Sheriff's Department and 10 State Police officers patrolled the plant area.

Jailed Sunday to await arraignment on charges following strike-linked violence were:

William N. Shappee, 31, Grand Haven; Bobby F. Tate, 20, Nunica; Ronald D. Schroeder, 23, Grand Haven; Charles L. Shears, 23, Nunica, and John Delaurier, 34, Nunica. Shappee and Tate were charged with malicious destruction of property. The others were arrested on charges of assault and battery.

★ ★ ★

Fined $104 and sentenced to 30 days in jail after pleading guilty Saturday to assault and battery was Clayton Rettinhouse, 37, Spring Lake. Occupants of a home identified him as a man who had thown a soft drink bottle through a window.

Ex-Correspondent Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Morton P. Gudebrod, 56, former Associated Press foreign correspondent and author, died of cancer Saturday. Gudebrod served as correspondent in London and Paris during World War II and later wrote for the Stars and Stripes, daily newspaper of the U.S. armed forces.

The farmer's share of the consumers food dollar for beef was 75 per cent in 1951, but declined to 56 per cent by 1963.

It Seems to Me . . . .

Community Gave Generously to Osteopathic College Drive

In the response to the Osteopathic College request for a site here, this community opened its heart and purse strings in a great burst of generosity.

Although it conflicted directly with the United Fund campaign, there was no alternative. Usually a drive that nudges $400,000 requires a score of committees, hundreds of active assertive campaign workers, and a wide assortment of community meetings.

This campaign was unique.

Not one public gathering was held.

★ ★ ★

There were no huge lists of committees and subcommittees. Some six or eight men pitched in wholeheartedly and this small group met constantly and explained the objectives and the cultural and economic advantages. The Pontiac Press made known the facts in a vigorous way and urged full consideration without having an interpleader knock at the door. The campaign swept along to a victorious conclusion.

Each week was a winning milestone.

Aside from water and sewers which the city promised, the original investment was in excess of $390,000. At the very outset the Osteopathic Group plans a new $6 million institution. Dr. Benjamin Dickinson, President-elect of the state organization, says quietly that he believes within a decade or two his group will have $40 million invested on the 164 acres now acquired.

I believe him.

I accept this prediction 100%.

★ ★ ★

There isn't a smidgen of vainglorious boasting or big talk in the makeup of this personable, sincere, and rather shy doctor. He has impressed everyone — and we were all strangers — with his straightforward sincerity of purpose.

Colleges, universities and all manner of specialized educational institutions are experiencing the greatest upsweep in the history of our nation. Further, we're in the midst of a great population explosion.

Hence, the future of this Osteopathic College is greater than we laymen can conjure. Osteopathic colleges are already lagging behind their own normal demands, and with horizons opening to them on all sides, this institution can become a tremendous force and one of great magnitude.

Everyone who has had a hand in contributing to this fund—and practically all of the smaller solicitations came without personal visits — can take a justifiable pride in playing an important part in a big, humanitarian move that is interwoven with civic pride and progress.

These names are forever enshrined in the hearts and minds of the live, progressive, thankful citizens here, who are the architects of the Pontiac area of tomorrow.

These are the doers.

They place humanity above self.

Presidential Parallels . . . .

Here are some curious, interesting and even startling parallels:

In 1965 our President's name is JOHNSON.

In 1865 it was Johnson.

LYNDON B. was born in 1908.

Andrew J. was born in 1808.

Each JOHNSON went into politics in his 20s, both ANDREW and LYNDON became U.S. senators.

★ ★ ★

Domestically, Andrew Johnson faced inflation and expanding economy, civil rights conflicts, and pressing internal problems.

Each is paralleled a century later.

ANDREW reached the presidency through assassination.

So did LYNDON B.

Both Andrew and Lyndon came from southern states. Each of them was reared in a family of modest financial circumstances. The parallel parts sharply for a moment as Lyndon is now worth approximately $12 million while Andrew was never worth more than approximately $12.

Both are staunch Americans.

And it was the JOHNSON of a century ago who declared: "When in history does a parallel exist to the public's happiness which is within the reach of the people of the United States."

★ ★ ★

A century later LYNDON B. JOHNSON said approximately the same.

Time marches on.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

★ ★ ★

STEVE ALLEN commutes from Hollywood to New York for "I've Got a Secret" and spends 220 hours in the air to do a 22-hour stint on the air . . . . . If you haven't heard of FERDINAND ALCINDOR, you will. He's the greatest prep school basketball player in America, stands 7 feet 1 and has a "B-plus" average. His mail's so great he turns it all over to his Memorial Academy coach unopened . . . . . Overheard: "If you think the world's all wrong, maybe it has too many people like you." . . . . . They signed a Tahitian woman for "Hawaii" who's 6 feet 2 and weighs 365 pounds.

★ ★ ★

Girls, several sources say that the sharp heel on your shoe is your best weapon in case of attack. It's murderous when swung all out against any man's cranium . . . . . Sign in Ozark movie: "Children under 16 not admitted unless accompanied by their husbands." . . . . . The movie ushers clapped long and loudly for the fourth time. "You must like this," said a spectator. "Tain't that," said the nearest. "One more minute and we're on overtime." . . . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's — the Osteopathic College givers; the J's—Me—for saying last Monday that the Eastman girl was photographed 700 times a year, when it's 700 times a day.

—HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

THE Bill of Rights contains 463 words, fewer than two women use when one is leaving after a visit and they are standing in the doorway sparring for the last word.

IF a bad beginning makes a good ending, those who began the New Year with a busthead hangover ought to feel like a million dollars (after taxes) when 1965 bows out.

The Eager Red Cap

David Lawrence Asks:

Is Defense Program Adequate?

WASHINGTON — While the outline of proposed defense policy which President Johnson gave to Congress a few days ago is the formal advice and recommendation of a chief executive, it is the duty of Congress to pass judgment on whether the safety and security of the United States can be preserved either by arbitrarily limiting expenditures for national defense or by allowing any factors other than national security to receive priority in the expenditure of public funds.

LAWRENCE

The President frankly admits that he sees ahead a "leveling-off in defense expenditures."

He says that outlays for defense will "constitute a declining portion of our expanding annual gross national product."

He recommends that over the next several years — barring "a significant change" in the international situation — approximately the same amount of dollars should be spent annually for our national defense as is being appropriated today.

OTHER NEEDS

He predicts that then "an ever-larger share of our expanding national wealth will be free to meet other vital needs, both public and private."

But who is to be the judge of whether the defense program is adequate and whether it can be measured primarily by the desire to spend more money on the Great Society?

Some of the top men in America's military establishment do not believe that such a rigid rule can be applied to defense expenditures.

They do not wish to leave a single stone unturned to obtain the most efficient armament that scientific minds can develop. Nor do they agree that, because America has a superiority in military power today, this will continue in the next several years.

APPREHENSION

On the contrary, military men say that, unless the Soviets reveal their secret plans — which is most unlikely — the United States cannot take for granted that it will continue to maintain superiority.

In fact, there is a distinct undercurrent of apprehension concerning the clandestine tests being conducted by the Soviets which may have a great deal to do with the increased effectiveness of their apparatus in the future and perhaps reduce the strength of America's defense against some categories of weapons.

President Johnson's message last week told of additional weapons, particularly certain missiles which are to be used from our submarines. He also recommended that more money be spent to improve strategic bombers.

There is a serious question, however, as to whether the Department of Defense will be able to maintain superiority in equipment if expenditures are to be limited on the theory that America has enough strength already.

Military men generally are not happy about what they consider to be an arbitrary reduction in expenditures for military needs.

They feel that military spending should not be conditioned upon or related to the size of welfare expenditures, particularly when the issue could involve survival itself.

Generations Will Study Life of English Leader

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — For a thousand years, the descendants of this century's generations will examine the life of Sir Winston Churchill to find why he was one of the most beloved figures in history.

MARLOW

They should have no trouble. They will read his speeches, they will look at television reruns of the chubby man in a derby poking around battlefields with a cane, they will grin at his growl.

But, they will understand him, just as the outnumbered Greeks at Marathon would have understood him 400 years before Christ, for he was and will remain the contemporary man of all seasons.

He was more than the symbol of the unquenchable human spirit's determination to die rather than submit. His enemy, Hitler, had that in a perverted kind of way: he shot himself when the Allies were closing in.

Churchill was more than a symbol of the ageless search for victory in the ashes of disaster. So was Napoleon, as the world learned to its regret in his last blood-soaked journey from Elba to Waterloo.

★ ★ ★

He was a symbol of something else, too, just as precious and discernible in those years of the 1940s when the world was consumed by fright and fury in the oven of war.

CEASELESS HOPE

It was his ever-present and always over-riding hope that life could be better than man's endless savagery might indicate or, perhaps, even deserve.

He put it this way: "The future towards which we are marching, across bloody fields and frightful manifestations of destruction, must surely be based upon the broad and simple virtues and upon the nobility of mankind."

Not that he had any illusions about mankind. He simply had the hope that with enough time and sufficient chance men might do better.

★ ★ ★

For he also said: "I believe that, generally speaking given free institutions on a fair basis, the best side of man's nature will in the end surely come uppermost."

IDEAL QUALITIES

The people of good will in his time saw in him a kind of human being they would be glad to be: the wit, the eloquence, the courage, the persistence against adversity, and the belief in the future.

President Kennedy said of Churchill: "Indifferent himself to danger, he wept over the sorrows of others. He has served all men's freedom and dignity."

Smiles

'Unemployed Immigrants May Increase Welfare'

Inasmuch as our government is spending billions of dollars a year for various forms of welfare to alleviate indigence and unemployment, what prompts the administration to agitate for the admission of one million unemployed immigrants to this country each year?

★ ★ ★

With five million Americans currently unemployed, whose jobs will be taken by these newcomers? Who will support them?

TAXPAYER

A Reader Questions Building Procedures

Why do construction workers have to build your house up so high when the neighbors are sitting in a hole? The water then runs into the neighbor's yard.

★ ★ ★

We had a garage built and its about three and one-half feet from the lot line. Now we're in trouble with the people from the city. Our neighbors are also unhappy and burn trash while my clothes are on the line. Why can't they pass a law about the time to burn your papers and garbage.

A DISGUSTED NEIGHBOR

Says Student Should Get Another Chance

A boy at Clarkston High School was caught smoking and expelled from school till next fall. The boy returned in a couple days to talk to the principal and see if he could return to school. Later two more boys were caught smoking. They were in the office for about fifteen minutes and returned to class, but nothing happened to them.

★ ★ ★

Maybe this one boy had been in trouble in school before, but so were the other two. I think the least they could have done was let him back in and give him another chance, since he showed that he wanted an education. Why doesn't someone check the girls' rest room if they want to catch students who are smoking?

CONCERNED

Sees Weak Points in Education Program

Why are students of hard-of-hearing and deaf classes and the special education program coming out of elementary school with a first or second grade education? Why do they have to miss hours of school every week because of the transportation problem? Why are there no Junior High School facilities for these children? Why can't they receive a regular diploma instead of an honorary one?

We make our mistake in not screening our school board members before election.

Tax Problems

The Daily Oklahoman

Apparently the Johnson administration is backing away from the idea of returning some of the federal government's tax collections to the states without any strings attached.

Walter Heller, former head of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, is credited with having conceived the idea as a way of coping with the "fiscal drag" he thought would result from an anticipated $6 billion annual increase in federal revenues growing out of the continuing economic boom.

The political drawbacks were apparent immediately. Federal money provided without strings would have deprived congressmen of any opportunity for identifying themselves with particular projects dear to their constituents.

But a further difficulty involved the apportionment formula governing how the money would be distributed to the states. Would it be allocated according to federal taxes paid, presumed need, population, area or what?

Thus it wasn't particularly surprising to hear Assistant Treasury Secretary Stanley Surrey say the other day that the proposal contained "serious implications for the future" and involved "broad policy considerations."

Banking Business

The Wall Street Journal

America's balance-of-payments deficit, certainly isn't improving with age. Not only is the deficit leaping upward again, but the Administration is considering some new approaches which could be as self-defeating as others adopted in the past.

For just one example, there was the program for requiring recipients of U. S. foreign aid to spend the funds in America. President Johnson told Congress the other day that "well over 80 per cent" of our aid is now covered by this restriction.

★ ★ ★

The restriction unquestionably limits the outflow of U.S. dollars in the short run; since 1960, the annual drain has been cut by $500 million. But forcing other nations to buy U.S. goods, even if they can get better wares elsewhere at lower cost, may not always promote the efficient use of American aid.

★ ★ ★

Now, some Administration officials seem to think they could help matters by ending the requirement that the Government hold gold equal to 25 per cent of the U.S. money supply; the payments deficit already has pulled the gold stock close to that legal floor. By removing the 25 per cent requirement, the reasoning runs, we would reassure the world, since foreigners then would know that the U. S. would be free to exchange all of its gold for their dollars.

Perhaps some foreigners would go along with this reasoning. But others might take it as an invitation to trade in their dollars while we still have some gold left.

Another unconstructive idea is to extend the investment penalty tax to cover bank loans. Since the tax was applied to Americans' purchases of foreign securities in 1963, it has held down the outflow of U. S. capital. It also, however, has clearly limited the future return flow of interest and dividends on U.S. investments abroad.

The payments deficit could be ended if the Administration would put its fiscal and monetary affairs in order, both at home and abroad. It's unlikely to be ended any time soon if the Government instead goes on banking mainly on measures which can all too easily boomerang.

Junior Editors Quiz on MANX CATS

QUESTION: Why don't Manx cats have tails?

ANSWER: Halfway between England and Ireland lies a good sized island, the Isle of Man. The people living there are called Manx or Manxmen — they are a branch of the Celts, which include the Irish and the Highland Scotch.

There are tailless cats in other parts of the world, particularly in the Malay regions and the Philippines, but the best know tailless cats originated in the Isle of Man.

Did the ancestors of this breed of cat come from the Far East? This is not known.

Sudden variations or mutations — changes in one direction or another — often occur in nature, and a short tailed or tailless cat may have been born on the Isle of Man.

Perhaps the people liked this cat's appearance and mated it with another short tailed one, in this way the Manx breed may have come into being.

All Manx cats are not tailless; some kittens are born with short or bobbed tails. The breed was brought to the U.S. in 1820. Taillessness is not their only peculiarity, for these odd-looking cats are short in the back with a high rump and have longer hind legs than other kinds.

This gives them a special ability to run and jump — the way they hop has given them the nickname "rabbit cats" in New England and the Middle States.

FOR YOU TO DO: Inquire among your friends to see if any of them knows of a Manx cat you can check up on and see how he hops.

N-Force Is Rallying Reds

The proposed NATO nuclear force has proved to be a great rallying factor for Eastern Europe's dissenting Communist regimes. This has emerged from the Warsaw Pact summit meeting which brought Moscow and the satellites closely together in opposition to the U.S. - proposed Multilateral Nuclear Force and the British alternative, the Atlantic Nuclear Force.

A MELLOW DE GAULLE: French officials expect President Charles de Gaulle to be in a relatively "mellow" mood at his news conference Feb. 4, following the apparent success of his talks with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

He purposely scheduled the press conference after the talks so he could be guided by the results. DeGaulle is expected to speak warmly of West Germany and to put in a strong new plug for Eruopean political unity.

EUROPEAN UNITY: Look for European political unity negotiations—stalled for nearly three years—to start up again soon following the DeGaulle-Erhard talks.

A meeting of the six common market foreign ministers on this is planned in the next month or so, and a six-nation summit conference in June or July is considered likely.

HUK TERRORISTS: Philippine police officers directing the campaign against Communist Huk terrorists in central Luzon believe the Huk threat is real but does not represent any resurgence in Red strength.

A senior police officer says the deployment of 2,000 army troops on police duties in the area — a 50 per cent boost — was done to restore public confidence and security following Huk slayings of small-town officials.

Police estimate 100 armed Huks may still be operating in the vicinity of Mt. Arayat, not far from the U.S. Clark Air Force Base.

Severe Snow, Ice Storms Cripple East, Middle West

CHICAGO (AP) — Severe ice and snow storms, which turned much of the Midwest and East into a mass of power failures, auto accidents, and school and road closings, plagued residents from Northern Illinois to New England today.

Cars skidded over ice-packed side streets. Power lines laden with ice snapped or were broken by falling tree limbs, leaving hundreds of communities without electricity.

Many hospital emergency rooms were jammed with victims of auto accidents and falls on icy sidewalks.

Adding to the troubles early this morning were new storms, dumping fresh snow on Northern New England, freezing rain, sleet and snow on southern New England and light snow across much of the northern part of the nation.

★ ★ ★

The Chicago area was one of the hardest hit. The Air Force canceled today's supersonic flights over the city, fearing that sonic booms could snap more power lines.

Thousands of utility workers labored through the day and night repairing damage caused by one of the worst ice storms in history.

Several public schools canceled classes for today and many families sat through a day of freezing weather without lights or heat.

Severe weather held a grip on the Northeast. Snow, sleet, freezing rain and strong winds played havoc with highways and air travel through wide stretches of the area.

★ ★ ★

Snow ranged up to a foot in southern New England, where sleet and freezing rain covered the snowfall.

TRAVEL DANGEROUS

A freezing rain in New York City applied a filmy coating atop two inches of sleet that fell Saturday night, making travel extremely dangerous.

The storm knocked out electric power to some 30,000 homes along Lake Erie in Ohio. The hardest hit area was in Ashtabula County, where 6,000 homes were without electricity.

About 50 families along the Huron River were evacuated when an ice jam near Sandusky raised the river to dangerous levels.

★ ★ ★

Winter also took a swipe at the Northwest.

A storm dropped nine inches of snow in the Spokane area over the weekend, bringing the total for the winter to 76 inches — the fourth heaviest for one season in history.

Temperatures early this morning ranged from 73 at Key West, Fla., to 2 below zero at Cut Bank, Mont.

Other early morning readings:

Organization Snags Make GOP Goals Parley Unlikely---Barry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barry Goldwater discounted today the likelihood that Republicans will hold a leadership conference this year to restate party principles as a result of last November's election defeat.

Goldwater said in an interview he has no particular objection to the holding of such a conference, as suggested by Republican governors. But the defeated GOP presidentiai nominee added the technical difficulties of organizing such a meeting seem almost insurmountable.

★ ★ ★

"Who would pick the people to attend such a meeting?" he asked. "Who would decide on the agenda to be discussed? Who would preside over it? How would the conference be financed? It seems to me these are difficult questions that won't be solved easily."

★ ★ ★

In a meeting in Denver last month the GOP governors called for such a conference and said it should "sharpen and restate our party's basic principles, develop positive Republican solutions to current problems of the nation and undertake a major strengthening of our national party structure."

SAME DIFFICULTIES

Ohio's Ray Bliss, elected at a Chicago meeting of the Republican National Committee last week to succeed Goldwater's hand-picked chairman, Dean Burch, on April 1, joined with Burch in pointing out some of these same difficulties Goldwater enumerated.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois went a little farther by voicing opposition to any attempt to write a new Republican platform for the 1966 elections.

Dirksen said on NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday night that no conference of the type the governors proposed would have any authority to supplant the 1964 platform. The major aspects of that platform were tailored to fit Goldwater's conservative policy.

Dirksen indicated he and Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader, will be willing to negotiate with Burch and Bliss for expansion of a party coordinating committee they have set up to bring representative governors and the five former GOP presidential nominees into consultation on policy matters.

Women members of the national committee raised the issue at the Chicago meeting that their sex had not been represented on this group. Goldwater was reported chagrined at this oversight and urging that it be rectified.

Dirksen said in an interview he does not expect the coordinating group to define party policy. He sided with Goldwater, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Burch in saying that the party image will be solidified by the votes of Republican members of the House and Senate.

★ ★ ★

"But I think this coordinating group will be useful in bringing new ideas before us," Dirksen said. "Everybody will get a chance to toss his suggestion into the hat, and I predict we'll get some good ones that we can use."

★ ★ ★

Goldwater said he stands ready to cooperate with the coordinating committee. He said he will be on hand for any scheduled meetings.

Cheating Quiz to Provide Answers, Not Names

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Who are the dozen cadets who operated the "exams-for-sale" racket and touched off the cheating scandal now rocking the U.S. Air Force Academy?

That was the major mystery as a special team of investigators dug today into the facts of a cribbing case that threatens to dwarf the honor code violations at West Point 14 years ago.

The chief of the Air Force Academy Office of Information, Col. Richard Haney, promised to start providing some answers today but insisted that no names would be divulged.

"It is the academy policy not to reveal names of ordinary dropouts, which represent about 9 per cent of the enrollment a year," the colonel said. "Naturally, we wouldn't think of changing that practice in this case."

MORE THAN 100

The secretary of the Air Force, Eugene M. Zuckert, announced Saturday that more than 100 cadets, including at least 30 members of the football team, are involved in the classroom irregularities.

Twenty-nine cadets already have resigned rather than face court-martial and others are being confined to their quarters. About 700 of the 2,567 cadets are reportedly being questioned.

★ ★ ★

"Cadets are probably involved who don't even know they are involved," said Col. Haney.

Privately, however, the 10-year-old academy, a gleaming plant of modernistic steel and glass set among stately pines, buzzed with speculation.

FORBIDDEN PAPERS

Who are the culprits who dared steal and then sell forbidden examination papers? Who bought them? Who knew about it and didn't tell? What football players were involved — were any of them stars? Who found out?

Only a few of the facts may be brought into the daylight. Identity of the original violators may never be known.

The current scandal is different from that which caused expulsion of 90 West Point cadets, including 43 of 45 varsity football players, in August 1951.

The Army case was one of simple cribbing. Examinations were given to different groups at different times. Under the West Point honor system, similar to that of the Air Force, the cadets were not permitted to discuss the subject matter in the presence of others who had not yet taken the exam.

DIDN'T TELL

West Point investigations revealed that Army athletes engaged in such discussions, and others knew about it and didn't tell.

The Air Force scandal is more cynical. Cadets, according to Secretary Zuckert, conspired to steal the papers and then offer them for sale. Zuckert referred to them as "a well-organized ring of 10 or 12 cadets."

★ ★ ★

Ben Martin, the academy head football coach, said he was stunned by news of his players' involvement. He declined interviews.

In Washington, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., attributed the scandal to athletic professionalism.

★ ★ ★

He said all three service academies have recruited athletes with marginal academic records in order to compete with private college teams.

★ ★ ★

"Inevitably," Stratton said, "many find that cheating is the only way they can continue their athletic careers at the taxpayers' expense."

Blasts Cripple Laos AF

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian government's fight against the Communist Pathet Lao has been dealt a major blow by a series of accidental explosions that destroyed half the little Laotian Air Force's combat planes.

Nine T28 fighter-bombers, a Soviet-donated helicopter and a light observation plane were reduced to wreckage by the explosions and flames that erupted as the T28s, supplied by the United States, were being loaded with bombs.

The accidental firing of a machine gun in one of the planes reportedly set off the chain of explosions. There were no serious injuries reported, and officials said they had no reason to suspect sabotage.

Witnesses said a machine gun aboard one of the T28s was fired accidentally and the bullets hit the gasoline tank of the helicopter parked nearby, setting it afire.

The flames spread to the T28s and the planes, parked in a U-shaped formation, began burning and exploding.

The mess hall at the field was gutted by flames which raced through dry grass to the building.

The T28s, used in the United States as trainers, have been converted for use as fighter-bombers in Laos and have been used extensively in raids against the Communist forces in the Southeast Asian nation.

Near Massacre in Congo Town

3 Killed, 16 Escape Attack by Rebel Band

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (UPI) — A Dutch refugee from Nkolo, 200 miles northeast of here, said rebels striking from the former French Congo tried to massacre the town's white population Saturday.

Wil Van Der Struyk said the rebels succeeded in killing three white men, but the other 16 white persons living in Nkolo—including three women and three children — escaped into the jungle. They were picked up by plane yesterday and flown to safety here.

The Dutch survivor said the rebels lined him and six other men up against a wall and opened fire on them with automatic rifles.

"When we came into our plywood factory at 6 a.m., the rebels overwhelmed us," Van Der Struyk said.

★ ★ ★

"They dragged us to the clubhouse and lined us up against the wall there. Two were armed with automatic rifles and opened fire without warning. It was a matter of seconds.

HEARD SCREAMS

"I heard Mr. De Walque (an official of the plywood company) screaming and jumped forward into the bush. Another, Mr. Colle, was shot in the stomach. He made it into the bush, but died there.

A Belgian identified only as Lefebvre, the Leopoldville representative of the plywood company, was killed when rebels attacked a house in which he and other whites had barricaded themselves.

Two other white men in the house were wounded.

★ ★ ★

Van Der Struyk said the rebels then looted the factory and stole a truck in which they fled to the east.

SURVIVORS SAVED

The survivors were rescued after air reconnaissance showed the rebels had left the village.

The planes also brought out three Belgian nuns and a visiting priest from the Yumbi mission near Nkolo.

Twenty-eight white refugees from Bolobo, a small town 20 miles south of Nkolo, are on the way here by riverboat.

★ ★ ★

Neither Bolobo nor the Yumbi mission was attacked, but the rebels did burn several houses in Nganya, 30 miles east of Nkolo. There was no report of white casualties there.

Mississippi Yields Trout

EAST MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — Helen Calson made a rare catch in the Mississippi River, taking a 16-inch brown trout.

It hit a minnow bait which Miss Calson was using in walleye fishing.

★ ★ ★

It is only the fifth trout known to have been caught in the Mississippi River in the area in the recollection of local fishermen.

The trout weighed 1½ pounds.

In LBJ's Budget

Details of Military Spending Outlined

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON — President Johnson told Congress today his $49-billion military budget — pared down $300 million from this year's spending — would provide "a massive defense establishment of steadily growing power, within reduced outlays."

Essentially, the President's military budget was a translation into terms of dollars, men and munitions of his more broadly worded special defense message to Congress a week ago.

Statistically, the military portion of his over-all federal budget included these points:

The $49 billion to be expended in the year beginning next July 1 would be made up of $47.9 billion for operation maintenance, research and other work of the armed forces, plus $1.1 billion for military assistance to foreign nations — including an unspecified but heavy investment in South Viet Nam.

LESS MANPOWER

The over-all manpower strength of the armed forces would lose men by 16,640 men to 2,640,000. The Army and Air Force would lose men: the Army with a 10,000 decrease to a strength of 953,000; the Air Force losing 20,000 for a fiscal 1965 strength of 809,000.

The Navy, with more ships to man, would move up 11,000 to a 685,000 level; the Marines would get a 3,000 increase to add to their current 193,000.

MORE MISSILES

In military hardware, he recommended an increase of one squadron over the present 16 squadrons of the quick-reaction, intercontinental Minuteman missiles. This represents 850 individual missiles, compared with an eventual goal of 1,000 Minutemen.

The present six squadrons of long-range Titan liquid-fuel missiles are to be retained, but the last of the older Atlas rockets—first of the U.S. ICBM's — will be withdrawn by next summer.

By the end of the next fiscal year, June 30, 1966, the Navy would have 38 missile-firing Polaris submarines in commission, compared with 29 at the end of the current year.

The Air Force would have fewer strategic bombers, more tactical fighter units. Johnson proposed 13⅓ wings of the heavy B52 bombers for next year, compared with a current 14 wings — a decrease of 30 B52s from the approximate 650 now. Tactical squadrons would be upped to 119 from a present 117.

The Navy would get along with its present 15 attack carriers and nine antisubmarine warfare carriers. But new ships coming off the ways or older ships rebuilt into modified form will boost the over-all fleet strength to 899 from this year's 880 average.

★ ★ ★

Without noting that this coincided with the tenure of the Democratic administration, Johnson wrote that:

★ ★ ★

"Through determined efforts in the past four years, our national defense establishment has been brought to a level of commanding superiority. These efforts have been expensive, but they have also been productive. We have largely completed a buildup of the world's most powerful military establishment, and our balanced forces are clearly superior to those of any potential aggressor. This superiority will be maintained in the future."

★ ★ ★

Social Security Plan Ups Benefits, Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The budget sent to Congress today by President Johnson proposed hospital insurance for the aged under Social Security, higher Social Security cash benefits and higher Social Security taxes to finance the broader benefits.

The hospital insurance program would provide benefits beginning July 1, 1966 for the estimated 85 per cent of the aged who are entitled to receive Social Security benefits. Thus, no expenditure is proposed during the year beginning July 1.

For aged persons who are not covered by Social Security, the cost of the program would be financed from general appropriations, with benefits also to start July 1, 1966.

However, the Social Security tax rate and the taxable wage base both would be increased effective Jan. 1, 1966 to build up a health insurance trust fund before benefits begin and also to help finance a proposed 7 per cent increase in Social Security cash benefits. The increase in cash payments would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1965.

PROMPT ENACTMENT

"I am recommending prompt enactment of a hospital insurance program for elderly persons, who are finding hospital and medical costs far greater than their ability to pay," the budget message said.

★ ★ ★

"This program should be self-financing, with a combined employer-employe payroll contribution of 0.6 per cent of the first $5,600 of income to start in calendar year 1966."

★ ★ ★

The President also recommended an increase from $4,800 to $5,600 in the wage base on which Social Security taxes are paid, effective Jan. 1, 1966, together with a smaller increase in the payroll tax percentage than is now scheduled to become effective that date under present law.

★ ★ ★

The budget document estimated expenditure of $26.5 billion during 1965-66 from the trust funds for Social Security, unemployment insurance and railroad retirement and for the retirement programs of federal employes.

TOTAL INCREASE

On the tax side, under existing law the combined employer-employe payroll tax for the old-age, survivors and disability insurance program is scheduled to increase from 7.25 per cent to 8.25 per cent on Jan. 1, 1966.

Teacher Has Dual Role

SEDAN, Kan. (AP) — Students of schoolteacher Laveta Abboud are people in the morning and horses in the afternoon.

★ ★ ★

For the morning half of each school day, Mrs. Abboud teaches commerce and government at Peru, Kan., High School.

In the afternoons, she trains quarter horses on the Abboud Ranch near Sedan.

Someone's sure to ask "What's trump?" at the dessert-bridge sponsored by Pine Lake Estates branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Feb. 4 in the Pine Lake School. Mrs. Gene Riegler of Normanwood Drive (at left) is chairman and Mrs. Frank Todd of MacNichol Trail is in charge of hostesses. Both are of West Bloomfield Township. The planters will be table prizes at the benefit.

School Is Beneficiary of Project

The Plymouth State Home and Training Center at Northville will receive proceeds from a dessert-bridge party, Feb. 4, in the Pine Lake School.

Sponsoring the affair which will begin at 7:30 p.m. is the Pine Lake Estates branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Committee heads working under Mrs. Gene Riegler, chairman, are Mrs. William Sharkey, door and table prizes; Mrs. Frank Todd, hostesses; Mrs. Adolph Speth, desserts, and Mrs. William Grubbs, publicity.

Delay Task Until They Go Home

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: What is your opinion of a hostess who washes the dishes as soon as dinner is over and her guests are still present?

Several of my friends do this and I think it is lacking in courtesy to their guests. When I invite people to my house I wouldn't think of washing dishes until after my guests leave.

A: Your hostess should do no more than clear the table, stack the dishes in the sink and rejoin her guests.

For her to wash dishes while her guests are still present, is not only discourteous but also places them in the position of feeling that they should offer to help her.

Q: I expect to be married soon and my fiance would like to ask six of his friends to be ushers.

Since I am having only a matron of honor, would it be proper to have this many ushers?

I would like to please my fiance but I think this number of ushers will look out of place without bridesmaids.

A: Even though you are not having bridesmaids, it will be entirely proper to have ushers, and if your wedding is to be of any size, six ushers will not be too many to help seat the guests and then later walk in the procession.

The Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Formal Wedding Procedure," includes details on the wedding procession, the receiving line and other helpful wedding information. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Emily Post Institute, in care of the Pontiac Press.

Fur Jacket Is Beastly

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A good friend of mine came to me with a problem, and not knowing how to advise her, I am writing to you.

ABBY

Her gentleman friend gave her a fur jacket for Christmas. It smelled awful and one of the hooks was missing. The lining looked frayed around the collar, and worse yet, it was several sizes too large for her.

She asked him where he got it so she could exchange it for one her size, but he wouldn't tell her. He keeps asking her when she is going to wear it.

She thinks the world of this fellow and hates to hurt his feelings, but she says she just couldn't wear that jacket anywhere. What should she do?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: She should tell him that she appreciates his thoughtfulness, but she isn't able to wear the jacket because it is much too large for her.

And if she really "thinks the world of him," she might confide that if he paid for a new jacket, he got skunked.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mediocre piano player who fancies himself as an accomplished musician and, while a guest in someone's home, would strike a few chords and exclaim (in a voice fortissimo), "OH, FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE, WHEN WAS THIS PIANO TUNED LAST?"

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I would say he had a good ear and bad manners. P. S. Someone should tell the host (in a voice pianissimo) to get the piano tuned.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am an ex-service woman. After World War II I took my discharge in the Philippines and accepted a civil service job in Japan.

At that time my sister called me a "vagabond" and urged me to come home. I didn't, and I loved Japan.

★ ★ ★

A few years later I wrote and told her I was taking a foreign job with the Navy in Guam. She replied, "What do you want to go to a place like THAT for?" I went and I had a ball.

THEN ALASKA

Last year, when I accepted a job in Alaska, I phoned my sister long distance and she yelled so loudly I had to hold the receiver a foot away from my ear.

This year I am faced with having to tell my sister I have another job offer in Hong Kong. I need the money and crave the adventure.

★ ★ ★

My sister is getting on in years and I don't want to upset her. Please advise.

GLOBE-TROTTER

★ ★ ★

DEAR GLOBE-TROTTER: So far you've done an excellent job of leading an exciting and independent life.

I don't know what you owe your sister, but you owe yourself more. Do what you want to do. And don't feel guilty.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISAPPOINTED FATHER IN KENTFIELD: Don't be too hard on the boy. You can be grateful for one thing — with those grades you know he hasn't been cheating.

Council Plans Founders Day

A luncheon meeting was held Saturday at Bedell's restaurant for members of the Pontiac City Council of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

Plans were organized for the ESA Founders Day observance on April 24.

Alpha Alpha chapter will locate the place, Beta Chi chapter will be in charge of the program, and Beta Mu will make the favors.

The Andrew E. Forsters of Birmingham and Spring Lake announce the engagement of their daughter, Renee Catherine, to Michael Joseph Foley, son of the Patrick J. Foleys of East Detroit. The couple will graduate from Ferris State College in June.

Mr. Foley is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. An October wedding is planned.

Special Program Set on Poison Prevention

An international public poison prevention program, "Poison Is No Picnic," will be presented March 16 at Cobo Hall, Detroit.

Over half a million people a year are accidentally poisoned in the United States, many of them fatally.

Most common causes of poisonings are household products easily purchased and stored within reach of children.

Aspirin, pep pills, chlorine bleach, kerosene, ant powder and food spoilage are just a few of the causes.

The Junior League of Detroit and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, Detroit District are cosponsoring this civic program to pinpoint poisoning problems and how to prevent them.

FULL PROGRAM

The 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. symposium will include general meetings, discussion groups, a luncheon and reports from the various sessions.

Principal speakers will be John J. Hanlon, M.D., Public Health Director, Detroit-Wayne County Departments of Health; Eleanor Ordway, Chief, Consumer Division, Food and Drug Directorate, Canadian Health and Welfare Department; Hugo Hullerman, M.D., Administrator, Children's Hospital, Detroit.

Four panels of authorities representing government, education, industry, medical profession, and community health and safety organizations on environmental poisons from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Washington, D.C., and Canada will outline specific poison problems.

Welcome New Son

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Kutcher of Royal Oak (Paulette Hempton) announce the birth of a son, Wayne Edward, on Jan. 18 at William Beaumont Hospital.

Grandparents are the Adam Kutchers of Birmingham and Mrs. E. J. Walerych of Drayton Plains and R. P. Hempton of Battle Creek.

Instant Gossip

Automation Can Be Heady Stuff

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK —Some observations on the American scene:

Automation, we hear, is both a blessing and a curse of our day and of the future.

I'm just waiting for the day they'll automate the hairdresser. Feed a punch card into the machine and out comes instant new hair color, style and gossip.

Come to think of it, who knows more about the average woman? Her dentist, her doctor, or her hairdresser?

PARK AVENUE BARGAIN

Park Avenue stands for elegance. It also stands for, amazing in this metropolis, bargains.

Our household has shopped around for an inexpensive source for firewood and found it — on Park Avenue.

I've nothing against boots in heavy snow or extreme cold but there are some women who'd look better (so they catch the sniffles) in other foul weather gear than in those knee-highs which turn the whole body into one massive sausage.

Tall boots are for the tall, elegantly slim girl, not for the plump and short one.

GHOULISH

Comment of several girl watchers: Well, if you asked us, those no-color lipsticks have to go. You call it the no-makeup makeup.

Then what's wrong with washing the face and letting the natural look shine through?

I'm puzzled at what seems a trend in the magazine world to keep a guide to contents a secret from the reader.

Just checking through some late editions of several popular publications produces the following: table of contents in one women's magazine, page four; table of contents (or index) on a news weekly, page 10; table of contents of another news weekly, page seven; on still another, it's page 19 before the reader finds what's inside.

By then, reader has digested several pages of advertisements, letters to the editor, et cetera, et cetera.

What's to hide, fellows?

BOW TO NEWSPAPERS

Pick up a newspaper, though, and by gosh there on the front page —or on the same page everyday — is a guide to what's inside.

The fine art of name and place-dropping reached some sort of pinnacle in my opinion when at the Metropolitan Opera the other evening I heard a twosome behind me commenting on the appearance of Joan Sutherland as the mad heroine of Lucia di Lammermoor.

Said one to the other, "Remember when she was nobody and we discovered her at Covent Garden?"

Irma S. Rombauer in her joyful "Joy of Cooking" has described one basic of American diet in these words: "A definition of eternity — a ham and two people."

Addendum: the same goes for beef stew. Lovely as it is, don't make unless there are at least 10 for dinner to mop up the last morsel of meat, onion, carrot and potato.

Otherwise, as a leftover, the stew goes on, and on, and on . . . .

Why is it that any soup, especially a vegetable or a bean soup, simmering on the stove attracts the soup watchers and taste experts as a perfume attracts the male?

At our house, if there's a soup acooking, anyone who goes into the kitchen is unable to resist a stir, a taste for consistency and suggestion for added seasoning, plus another stir or two.

A late August wedding is planned by Nancy Edna McLaughlin, daughter of the Edward G. McLaughlins of Hartford Street, and Gary L. Bunce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Bunce of Fortress Drive. The bride-elect attended Eastern Michigan University and her fiance is presently enrolled at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Marionettes Will Enchant in 'Aladdin'

Aladdin and his wonderful lamp will come alive for children Feb. 6 when The Detroit Puppet Theatre sponsors a marionette showing at The Detroit Institute of Arts.

"Aladdin," presented by the Meredith Bixby Marionettes of Saline, Mich. will be performed at 10 a.m., and 2 and 4 p.m.

Tickets for "Aladdin" are 50 cents each for children and adults; 35 cents in groups of 10 or more.

They are available at Marwil's, Northland, and by mail from The Detroit Institute of Arts.

Mail orders accompanied by stamped, self addressed envelope will be filled by the museum's theatre arts department.

Women Meet at Church

The Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church Cranbrook will begin their regular Tuesday meetings tomorrow, with Holy Communion in St. Dunstan's Chapel at 10:00 a.m.

Following the luncheon interlude, the Rt. Rev. Archie N. Crowley, Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of Michigan, and Mrs. Crowley, will speak about their recent visit in Alaska.

They saw and learned much about the earthquake-damaged area.

SECOND SPEAKER

Their guest, Mrs. Richard Swanson, a young clergyman's wife, who has spent seven summers in Alaska, will speak concerning "Mutual Responsibility and Interdependence, or What Alaska Can Do for You."

During the summer of 1963, the Swansons worked in the Arctic Village.

Wisner to Meet

Members of the Wisner PTA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the gym.

Dr. David Wells, director of mathematics education, Oakland County schools, will discuss the teaching of mathematics at the elementary level.

Wearable Fashions Designed in Rome

Direct from Rome by air mail came these pictures from the Italian spring and summer fashion shows.

Harem pants may be a bit out for most American women, but the other fashions are distinctly wearable.

Their trademark is simplicity, beauty of material and expert workmanship.

There's that "made to measure" look about this hostess gown. Featherweight pure silk is printed in a floral design of coral, turquoise and emerald. Gathered at the waist, the harem pants outfit is worn with earrings and necklet of natural coral.

Tidings from home? Possibly . . . but certainly hot news from Rome where the Italian capital's world-famous Sarelle Fontana have put their signature to this novel paper-white linen dress. The air mail motif bordering the rectangular front panel is hand painted in green and red.

What could be fresher for spring than this ensemble by Renato Balestra of Rome, fashioned in pale rosebud pink matelasse? The dress has a high waistline and deep plunge at the neck, while the loose-collared matching coat swings freely. Lines are deceptively simple.

From Nettle Creek Industries' new collection of designs for beautiful windows come these "Moonray" casement curtains, interestingly textured and brightly striped in horizontal bands predominantly bronze, tangerine, green and blue-green—all on natural grounds. Casements are custom made to any designed length and width. Boudoir chair is from Nettle Creek's upholstered furniture collection. Toledo chest is a Spanish import.

Sewing Is Different on Stretch Fabrics

Stretch offers a new dimension to fabrics that will interest the home seamstress.

Sewing with stretch fabrics may require slightly different techniques than you normally use for sewing. Understanding the nature of stretch will help make your experience with stretch fabrics a rewarding one, says Mary Hardy, Oakland County Extension agent, Home Economics.

Stretch fabrics are available in natural and man-made fibers and blends of both. They come in all weights from gabardine to batiste. Stretch can be lengthwise, crosswise or two-way. Choose the fabric for the direction of stretch needed in the garment.

SIZE DIFFERS

Use the same size pattern you would use for regular fabrics, because stretch is a comfort factor, not a size factor. A simple pattern with few seams will be easiest to work with because stretch at the seams is the hardest to adjust.

If fabrics are not preshrunk, preshrink them by holding a steam iron one-half inch above the fabric. Do not press. Let the fabric dry thoroughly.

Allow it to relax on a flat surface for several hours before cutting in order to release the tension or stretch created by previous handling.

Mrs. Hardy suggests cutting the garment this way:

Lay the fabric flat so there is no tension or strain. Do not let the fabric hang over the edge of the table.

Lay pattern pieces on grainline. Be sure stretch runs in the desired direction — usually lengthwise for anchored pants and crosswise for skirts, dresses and jackets.

Use fine dressmaker pins.

Use sharp shears to avoid pulling or stretching when cutting.

EXPERIMENT

Experiment with the fabric before starting the actual construction. Machine adjustments may be necessary because seams need to extend or stretch with the fabric to avoid seam breakage. Seam stretchability may be increased by:

Using more stitches per inch (14-16).

Stitching with the narrow bite zig-zag.

Loosening the tension.

Using a sewing thread which has elasticity. (Although textured nylon, nylon and silk thread have greater elasticity, mercerized cotton thread will also work. It is available in more colors and is not susceptible to heat).

Mrs. Hardy suggests this test for seam stretchability: Sew two pieces of fabric together in the direction of the stretch. Pull the seam in the same direction. If the seam threads break before the fabric is completely stretched, make further adjustments in the length of stitch, tension and type of thread.

PRINTED PATTERN

SHIFT into high fashion gear — sew this deeply collared shift in cotton knit, linen, surah, poplin with same or contrast color binding.

Printed Pattern 4574: Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards 35-inch fabric.

How to Care for Furs

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Abco Furs announced today the publication of an authoritative booklet titled "How To Care For Furs," dedicated to the fur-loving women of America.

★ ★ ★

The booklet was prepared under the supervision of the Abco Fur Institute, a division of Alco Furs, headed by Hy Fishman, an executive associated with thef ur industry for many years.

The subjects included in the fur care brochure present such important categories as General Fur Care, Repairing and Storage, Home Care, Cleaning, Damage Prevention, Restyling and others.

★ ★ ★

Women, who wish to stretch their fur-budget dollars, may write, without obligation, for a free booklet on "How To Care For Furs" to Abco, Dept. HF, 312 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

This Parisian model wears a white mink evening hood from Balenciaga's winter collection. A diamond clip with emerald center highlights the snowy white hood.

Pretty white eyelet and lace edges this Bobbie Brooks blouse. To frame the face is an Oriental mandarin collar outlined in lace. More lace trims the front eyelet panel and the cuffs on three-quarter length sleeves. Kodel, a fabric with built-in whiteness, keeps the bright look sparkling from washing to washing. About $7 locally.

College Pair Plans Vows

The Edward H. Websters of Savoy Drive announce the engagement of their daughter Cheryl Jean to Edward Joseph Giroux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin B. Giroux of South Jossman Road, Groveland Township.

The couple who attended Ferris State College, has set a Feb. 27 altar date.

Dance Club Elects Leaders

The Merry Mixers Square Dance club held its annual election of officers recently.

Those elected were James Ritchie, president; Gene Cleland, vice president; Mrs. Donald Daller, secretary; and Mrs. Frank Sias, treasurer.

New board members include, James Green, Howard Hatfield, Mrs. William Hadsell, and Mrs. Reg Edwards.

Anyone interested in beginning square dance lessons, may contact Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrison.

Winter Rites Are Planned

The Melbourne Taylors of Maplehill Road, Avon Township, announce the engagement of their daughter Judith Mae to Charles Thomas DeHart.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Byers of Lancaster Road.

Feb. 27 vows are planned.

Return From Peru Had Family Visit

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hughes of Maceday Lake Rd. have returned from a visit with their daughter, Jayne, who is secretary to U.S. Ambassador Wesley Jones in Lima, Peru. They had tea with Ambassador and Mrs. Jones at the Embassy.

One of the highlights of their visit was an eight-hour train ride at 16,000 feet to reach Huaycano, Peru, and its fabulous Indian markets. This is said to be the highest railroad in the world.

Measles Are Death Culprit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Common measles affects the outcome of pregnancy and threatens the life of the fetus in some cases, reports Dr. Stewart A. Fish, of the University of Arkansas School of Medicine.

Of 18 women studied who had had measles during pregnancy, Dr. Fish reported to the American Academy of Pediatrics, pregnancies in all of seven whose cases were severe ended in either abortion, anomalies, or premature delivery.

The 11 mild cases showed no threat from measles. Recent tests show a new one-shot measles vaccine developed by Dr. Anton J. Schwarz to be 99.1 per cent effective in immunizing patients against common measles.

Scouts Give Campers Tip

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. offer the following tip to make sure that campfires are completely out:

First sprinkle the fire with water, then rake up the coals and sprinkle again.

When the ashes and coals are cool to the touch, the fire is definitely "all out."

New Treatment Improves Fabrics

U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists have developed an inexpensive treatment that improves cotton fabric's resistance to weather and rot.

The treatment is especially promising for awnings, tents, tarpaulins and other outdoor fabrics.

Artists Here Eye French Art Awards

Early entries in the third annual Benedictine Art Awards indicate that the total number of artists to submit paintings this year may equal that of the competition's first two years.

If this projection is fulfilled, there will be enough Benedictine Art Awards paintings in existence to completely cover the walls of the famed Benedictine Abbey in Fecamp, France.

Inspiration for the American competition came from the art collection on permanent display at the Abbey's museum.

The third annual Benedictine Art Awards, which closes March 31, carries three cash prizes . . . $1,000, $750 and $500. American artists over twenty-one years of age are eligible to enter.

Entry blanks may be obtained by writing: Benedictine Art Awards Committee, 415 Madison Avenue, 7th Floor, New York 17, N. Y.

Raising Children Is Expensive Business

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant
in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley: I am separated from my husband and am trying to obtain a divorce. I have twin girls, 1½ years old. My lawyer has asked me to figure out for him how much it will cost me to care for my girls, including all expenses, until they are grown.

MARY FEELEY

Not having raised any children before, and realizing that costs go up with the years, I find this a very difficult task. How can I go about this?

J. W., Rochester, N. Y.

Dear J. W.: Even if you had raised a dozen children, this arithmetic problem is enough to addle any parent's brain.

Just go on the assumption that your crystal ball is bound to be cloudy, since you can't predict the country's economy 20 years ahead. Neither can you predict the children's future, whether they'll need braces, music lessons, or an appendectomy.

But at least I can give you some figures, based on the average costs of raising children on an adequate scale of living.

★ ★ ★

These figures are built on current cost standards by the Community Council of Greater New York. Included in the following are expenses for food, clothing, personal care, transportation, recreation — on a yearly basis:

Child:
1-5 yrs. old (per yr.)	$449.80
6-11 yrs. old (per yr.)	616.20
12-15 yrs. old (per yr.)	808.60
16-20 yrs. old (per yr.)	928.20

You'll note that the cost of housing — or sharing a home — is not included in the above figures. But since this really should be figured in, the standard is $12.76 per child per week, in a family of three, for "home maintenance."

★ ★ ★

So add everything together, and you arrive at these estimates for the yearly cost of raising a child:

From:
1-5 years	$1,113.32 per year
6-11 years	1,279.72 per year
12-15 years	1,472.12 per year
16-20 years	1,591.72 per year

For the twins, you'd have to estimate a total of $56,000 for their livelihood over the next 20 years!

★ ★ ★

Since this figure might drive your husband right into the river, I suggest you don't face him with it in one lump sum.

Better spoon it out to him as $71 a week, approximately, or $306 a month.

Of course, there's still another consideration: just what is your own particular standard of living? This is something you're going to have to work out, as the years go on.

Dear Miss Feeley: My husband receives tips as part of his wages. We have never mentioned them on our income tax. My conscience is bothering me, as we come to the end of the third year.

What should I do and what reaction should I expect from the Internal Revenue Service?

Mrs. S. H., Birmingham, Ala.

Dear Mrs. S. H.: If you listen to your conscience, it may cost you less. If you confess what has been happening to Internal Revenue Service officials, they will be inclined to be as lenient as possible.

But if you keep on this way and they find the discrepancy, there's no reason why they should be kind to you.

Dear Miss Feeley: In my own business I pay my children an hourly wage to help me at the peak of the season. Is it necessary to deduct social security out of their wages?

C. V., Portland, O.

★ ★ ★

Dear C. V.: If your children are under 21 years of age, and work for you in your own business, they are not subject to social security tax.

Rubber Tread Protects

DEAR POLLY—Tack a rubber stair tread to the seat of your child's outdoor swing. This tread protects the youngsters from splinters, shields the board seat from rain and will help prevent the children from accidentally sliding off and hurting themselves.—F. L.

DEAR POLLY—If you do much sewing on your machine, quite a bit of thread can be saved when sewing on small pieces.

Don't pull the thread and cut it every itme you come to the end of the cloth. Put another piece of cloth close to the one just sewn and continue on to another and another.

Pull and clip the thread only when all the small pieces are finished.—THELMA

DEAR POLLY—Wrap a strip of velvet along the length of a towel rack and screw the rack to the back of a closet door for use as a "ribbon bar."

Even the most slippery of ribbons or scarves will not fall off the velvet and they do not get tangled.—MARCIA

DEAR POLLY—My kitchen window is very near the stove so I contrived curtain covers to keep the curtains from getting splattered with grease.

I have cafe curtains so this hint is for windows that have a rod midway up the window.

Take a terry cloth dish or bath towel and hang over the curtains. Use plastic clothespins to clip to the rod.

If curtains are very wide, two towels may be necessary as they are hung lengthwise.

It takes only a second to put them on and I can fry chicken with a free mind and no worries over spotted curtains. — ANGELA

DEAR POLLY—I use my flower watering can, with a tiny spout, to fill the steam iron. This works well, but I have never seen anyone else do it.—BETTY

DEAR POLLY—I make pot holders from worn, stretched socks. Cut the tops from the feet and remove any worn rubber threads.

Use the foot for padding, the top for the outside and stitch around on the sewing machine.

Crochet or blanket stitch around the edges with bright-colored thread. These are not only pretty but very serviceable. —MRS. L. H. F.

Antibodies in Mother's Milk Prove Useful

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mother's milk as a food for newborn infants may have immunological properties hertofore unproven, suggests Dr. Clement A. Smith, of Harvard Medical School.

In recent years, antibodies from the mother were thought to be transmitted to the infant only through the placenta. Therefore, mother's milk was held to have no over-riding advantage in this regard.

New research, however, has proved the existence of polio antibodies in human milk, said Smith.

Honest Answers Best

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE U-489: Martha D., 58, is the grandmother of 3-year-old Milly who suddenly asked her mother:

"Mommie, where did I come from?"

Milly's mother evaded the issue for she didn't know what to say.

DR. CRANE

"You came out of Mother's tummy," is the simplest way to solve this problem.

"But, Dr. Crane," Martha protested, "suppose Milly were then to ask how she got out of her mother's tummy?

"And what if she also inquired how she got into her mother's tummy?

"Wouldn't that be very embarrassing, especially if guests were present?"

WHO'S EMBARRASSED?

Well, who would be embarrassed in such a situation?

Would it be Milly? Or her mother? Or her grandmother?

Milly would not feel embarrassed, for her casual childish query is motivated solely by scientific curiosity.

How do you suppose adult prudishness and blushes ever got tangled up with such sex queries?

Because of a false social sexual code!

College graduates have even concocted strange falsehoods (as about the stork) to delude children and thus generate an abnormal salaciousness in them.

BE SIMPLE

If you answer a child's sex queries in the same simple manner in which the child asks them, the child pays no more attention than to any other scientific puzzle.

Oddly enough, however, the normal child stops with that first query if you answer it correctly.

For it requires several more years of mental growth for a child to generate the next question in the sequence, which is this:

"Mother, how did I get out?"

This may come without warning, as the youngster may happen to see a pregnant neighbor woman walking down the street.

"How did you get out of where?" Milly's mother would probably reply.

"Why, out of your tummy," Milly would answer. "Remember? You told me I came out of your tummy."

DON'T HEDGE

Whereupon, her mother should answer her at once without any blushing or other evidence that she is embarrassed.

"There are several ways by which babies get out," she can begin.

"Don't you remember the story about the Little Red Hen, which was captured by the fox?

"While the fox was asleep the Little Red Hen cut a doorway in the big sack in which she was a prisoner and slipped out.

"Well, sometimes the doctor takes the mother into the hospital and gives her medicine to put her to sleep.

★ ★ ★

"Then, while she is still asleep, he cuts a little doorway in mother's tummy and lifts the baby out. Afterward, he sews up the mother, just as the Little Red Hen sewed up the hole in the sack while the fox was sleeping."

BE PREPARED

Incidentally, you young wives better familiarize yourselves with this classic about the Little Red Hen, for it is very helpful in explaining the Caesarian method of childbirth.

Again, it requires several more years of mental growth for the child to ask:

"How did I get into your tummy, Mother?"

Churchill—Beacon in Freedom's Dark Hour

By The Associated Press

Winston Churchill took the helm in Britain's darkest hour and steered a course through "blood, toil, tears and sweat" to victory over Nazi Germany.

★ ★ ★

To few leaders was it ever given to assume command of a great people at the nadir of their fortunes and lead them from such depths to such heights.

The empire's very existence was threatened at the time he became prime minister on May 10, 1940, and undertook the arduous task of marshaling ill-prepared forces for the war of survival.

He became the symbol of the determined spirit of Britain in wartime, of the courage of the British in the face of the gravest dangers in their country's long life.

★ ★ ★

In the dark days of the blitz, he was cheered continuously whenever he set foot outside Westminster.

BOMBED AREAS

He would visit the bomb-scarred sections and, in response to the people's shout of "Good old Winnie," would make a V-for-victory sign with two upstretched fingers or a thumbs-up gesture accompanied by a shy grin.

But Churchill had known stony silence from his countrymen as well as cheers.

In the grim days of World War I, people turned their backs on him after a campaign to open the Dardanelles — of which he was the prime mover—had ended in tragic failure.

A quarter of a million British and empire troops were killed or wounded in the debacle and the people blamed Churchill.

★ ★ ★

The campaign had been begun early in 1915, soon after the start of the war. Churchill, then first lord of the Admiralty, had sought a way out of the bitter fighting in France.

He hoped to force the straits with navy ships, defeat Turkey and give Russia a sea route for wartime commerce.

HIDDEN GUNS

But hidden land guns held the ships at bay and mines sank several. Troops landed upon the Gallipoli peninsula to attack the Turkish forts in the rear were repulsed.

The effort was kept up until December but by then Churchill was out of the cabinet, a political victim of the fiasco.

"I am finished," Churchill said at the time he resigned from the cabinet. A week later he was in the trenches in France as a lieutenant colonel commanding the Sixth Royal Scots Fusiliers.

★ ★ ★

Years later an investigating commission cleared him of all fault in the Dardanelles undertaking.

COMEBACK

When the storm of the tragedy had subsided, David Lloyd George, an old friend of Churchill's who had become prime minister, called him back to the cabinet as minister of munitions.

In that capacity he made great contributions to victory. Lloyd George credited him with introducing tanks to warfare.

These caught the Germans completely by surprise in 1916.

But it was in the Second World War that Churchill, as Great Britain's prime minister, scaled the greatest heights.

★ ★ ★

He had regained his old post as first lord of the Admiralty, and it was from that office that he was called to guide Britain through the dreary storm.

CHAMBERLAIN

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain had left Britain a legacy of peril, and as one Churchill biographer put it, it was by a "virtual but unspoken demand of the people who were to do the paying and the dying" that King George VI had bidden Churchill to form a new cabinet.

During the long and anxious months that the British Commonwealth stood alone against the victorious German fury, it was Churchill who personified the refusal of his people to admit defeat.

His was the eloquence, the indomitable will that summoned them to their finest hour, one of the magnificent climaxes of human history.

★ ★ ★

Within three weeks after he took the helm from the faltering hands of Chamberlain, Belgium capitulated to German might, precipitating the hazardous Dunkerque retreat of the British Expeditionary Force.

TRAGIC OPERATION

That tragic operation was one of the most masterful in history. It was not until long after victory that the full epic story of the evacuation from the bombed and bloody beaches of France between May 26 and June 4, 1940, was told.

The Admiralty had expected to rescue 45,000 at the most, but 330,000 were returned to Britain.

In addition, 123,095 French troops were moved across the channel by British and French ships, many of which were sunk or damaged.

★ ★ ★

The German planes were so numerous that the Royal Air Force was woefully outclassed, but it destroyed 262 of them.

UNEXPECTED SUCCESS

The unexpected success of the operation was hailed by some as an Allied victory, but Churchill saw it as "a colossal military disaster."

"Wars are not won by evacuation," he declared.

Shortly after Dunkerque, France fell. Britain then faced the conquering Nazis alone. The embattled little isle was in imminent danger of invasion by Adolf Hitler's hordes, a threat that Churchill met largely with bluff.

"We shall defend our island whatever the cost may be," he said in a defiant speech to the House of Commons. "We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender.

★ ★ ★

"And even if, which I do not for a moment believe, this island or a large part of it were subjugated and starving, then our empire beyond the seas, armed and guarded by the British fleet, will carry on the struggle until in God's good time the new world with all its power and might steps forth to the liberation and rescue of the old."

WAR BURDENS

When he shouldered Britain's war burdens he told the House of Commons that "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat" and added:

"We have before us an ordeal of the most grievous kind. We have before us many, many months of struggle and suffering.

"You ask, what is our policy? I say it is to wage war by land, sea and air, war with all our might and with all the strength that God has given us; to wage war against a monstrous tyranny never surpassed in the dark and lamentable catalogue of human crime. That is our policy.

★ ★ ★

"You ask, what is our aim? I can answer in one word. It is victory. Victory at all costs — victory in spite of all terrors— victory, however long and hard the road may be, for without victory there is no survival.

SURVIVAL

"Let that be realized. No survival for the British empire, no survival for all that the British empire has stood for, no survival for the urge, the impulse of the ages, that mankind shall move forward his goal."

Then with the bulldog persistence profiled by his jawbone, jowl and hunching shoulders, he rallied his people and led them through the dreary days when they fought alone and on to victory at the side of the United States and Russia.

Germany surrendered unconditionally on May 7, 1945. The back of Hitler's once mighty Wehrmacht had been broken and many of Germany's cities lay in ruins.

★ ★ ★

Britain still carried on, as Churchill had said she would when the country was suffering the agony of the disastrous Dunkerque retreat. At that time he had declared:

FAMOUS STATES

"Even though large tracts of Europe and many old famous states have fallen, or may fall, into the grip of the Gestapo and all the odious apparatus of Nazi rule, we shall not flag nor fail, we shall go on to the end."

Though Churchill was past 70 when victory came and the mantle of fame rested securely on his shoulders, he went on to new triumphs. Not even the turning out of power of his party deterred him.

After victory in Europe, the Labor party rejected Churchill's proposal for extension of the wartime coalition government until the end of the Japanese war, thus forcing the first nationwide election in 10 years.

★ ★ ★

That election, held July 5, 1945, resulted in a stunning defeat for Churchill's Conservative party.

WAR LEADERSHIP

Most observers agreed that Churchill was not repudiated as a war leader — friend and foe alike praised his war leadership — but was rejected as a politician and head of the Conservative party.

What the British voted for was the Labor party, which was pledged to take a strong and quick hand in national reconstruction.

The public, released from the immediate perils of day-to-day enemy action from across the narrow waters of the channel, had grown restive. There was a rising clamor against queues and a general impatience to get on with the job of making life more comfortable after six hard years.

★ ★ ★

Thus the doughty leader who had carried Britain through the gloom to victory was toppled from his post of prime minister.

VICTORY SIGN

Even in defeat he gave the V-for-victory sign.

"The decision of the British people has been recorded in the votes counted today," he said at that time.

"I have therefore laid down the charge which was placed upon me in darker times. I regret that I have not been permitted to finish the work against Japan. For this, however, all plans and preparations have been made. . ."

★ ★ ★

He resumed the role he once liked best — unfettered critic as leader of "his majesty's loyal opposition" — and directed sharp shafts at the government headed by Prime Minister Clement Attlee. He once called the mild-mannered Attlee "a sheep in sheep's clothing."

RELENTLESS

Churchill was relentless in his criticism that was sometimes impish, sometimes barbed and always arresting.

"The queues are longer, faces are longer and the shelves are barer, but nevertheless the conduct of daily life is more exacting," he said after the Labor party had taken over.

He accused the Labor government of exhibiting "stupidity, ineptitude and incompetence to an extent which I have never seen in any previous administered its decision in 1947 to quit India.

★ ★ ★

Churchill voiced to the House of Commons his "grief" at the "clattering down of the British empire with all the glories and services it has rendered to mankind."

HELP COUNTRY

As for himself, Churchill said he had no political ambition, explaining: "I have only stayed in politics to do my duty and help the country. Whatever happens in the future could only be anti-climax to me after the honor of what I have had to go through."

He declared that socialism was out of tune with the times and had made the country look like a jackass.

"What I want to do for John Bull," he said, is "turn him 'round, and you will be surprised to see how quickly a great change there will be."

★ ★ ★

Churchill entered the 1951 election campaign with a vengeance.

Sir Winston Churchill

LIKE THUNDER

He stumped up and down the land speaking like thunder, commanding Britain to recapture a greatness that he said was being frittered away by lesser men. He referred to the ruling Laborites as "these little men."

He would drive up with a flourish to the place where he was to speak. The old V-for-victory sign was a signal for cheering.

When he waved the inevitable cigar, it seemed to his supporters that all was well with the world, a world in which old England had a rightful place. Churchill, just standing and chuckling, fascinated a crowd.

While he did not always erupt deathless phrases, like "blood toil, tears and sweat," he could be counted on in any half hour to rise once or twice to the rolling, thundering and picturesque oratory that the world had come to expect of him.

The Conservative leader declared that Britain's prestige had shrunk more during the six years of Labor government rule than during any period since American colonies won the Revolutionary War.

"Our Oriental empire has been liquidated, our resources have been squandered, the pound sterling is worth only three-quarters of what it was when Mr. Attlee took over from me," Churchill stormed.

★ ★ ★

"Our influence among the nations is now less than it has ever been in any period since I remember.

PROMISED CONFIDENCE

He promised to restore American "confidence and good will" in the British government.

The voters turned out the Laborites in the election of October 25, 1951, and recalled the rugged old warrior to his former command.

Churchill was nearly 77 years old when he took charge of Britain's destiny for the second time. He assumed the post of minister of defense as well as that of prime minister.

★ ★ ★

Less than 24 hours after the victory, Churchill, acting with his usual vigor, went to King George VI with his eight key cabinet appointments.

BEAMING

He appeared at Buckingham Palace beaming and jaunty. Swinging a gold-topped cane, smoking a huge cigar and holding up two fingers in his famous "V" sign, he was almost mobbed by hundreds of cheering Britons.

ASKED A CHANCE

In his campaign, Churchill had asked the people to give him a chance to help prevent World War III. He said: "I pray indeed that I may have this opportunity. It is the last prize I seek to win."

During his postwar prime ministership, Churchill crossed the Atlantic three times on diplomatic missions.

He had hardly returned to office when he set out for Washington for talks with President Harry S. Truman.

★ ★ ★

Two years later, when Dwight D. Eisenhower became president, he was off to see him in Bermuda.

H-BOMB

In 1954 he flew to Washington for talks about the situation created by the hydrogen bomb.

The old warrior's lifetime spanned the transition from the old-fashioned soldier who on foot or on horseback could try to kill only one or a few of the enemy at a time to the soldier who could rain down death from the sky on millions.

Development of the atomic and hydrogen bombs threatened the very existence of nations.

★ ★ ★

"Which way shall we turn to save our lives?" the prime minister asked.

SOVIET TALKS

He wanted a face-to-face talk with Soviet leaders to tell them bluntly that if they started an atomic war, they would be overwhelmed by a massive retaliation.

With that made plain, he said, "we might then, by a process of sublime irony, reach the stage in the story where safety will be the sturdy child of terror and survival will be the twin brother of annihilation."

But he believed the surest protector of western civilization was the British-American unity — that "great unwritten alliance."

Speaking of the United States, he said:

"There is no other case of a nation arriving at the summit of world power, seeking no territorial gain, but earnestly resolved to use her strength and wealth in the cause of progress and freedom. . . .

DEATH, RUIN

"For America to withdraw into isolation would condemn all Europe to Russian Communist subjugation and our famous and beloved island to death and ruin."

While advocating a realisic "peace through strength," Churchill wanted to reach "a work-a-day understanding with the Russian people and government." He thought that was for the West to try for more trade with the U.S.S.R.

In the spring of 1959 Churchill made an informal seven-day visit to the United States, his first visit in five years, He had planned the trip a year earlier, but postponed it because of an attack of pneumonia and pleurisy.

★ ★ ★

At a White House dinner in his honor, Churchill called for a "fresh and further effort" to build Anglo-American unity in dealing with the difficult world problems.

HAILS IKE

He described President Eisenhower as "one of my comrades of wartime days." Eisenhower once reminisced that he probably had "more quite warm arguments" with Churchill than with anyone else during the war.

The reason, he smilingly explained, likely was that as an American, Churchill just wouldn't shut up.

"A truly great man," he said of Churchill.

★ ★ ★

The Briton spent three days as President Eisenhower's guest and then visited his old friend, Bernard Baruch, in New York. As he boarded the plane for his return to England, Sir Winston told those seeing him off:

HIGH HOPES

"I would like to bid you farewell in this key: As long as the United States and Great Britain are united and bound together, the future is one of high hopes both for ourselves and the whole free world."

In his two terms Churchill served for almost nine years as prime minister—from May 10, 1940, to July 26, 1945—a period of five years two months and 16 days that covered all but eight months of the war — and from Oct. 26, 1951, to April 5, 1955, a period of three years five months and 10 days.

In his second term he started Britain on the road back from socialism.

"Socialism brought us to the brink of bankruptcy," he said. "We were standing on a treacherous trapdoor leading to economic disaster."

2 STROKES

Despite his age and the exhaustion of two major strokes, he carried on his heavy duties until well past 80 and then quit reluctantly.

His first stroke was in 1950. The second, in 1953, left him temporarily speechless and paralyzed. An admirer gave him a modern wheelchair replete with ingenious gadgets to make life easier for invalids.

This intrigued Churchill at first. Then the thought struck him that the prime minister of Great Britain was dependent on a button, or an attendant, to get where he wanted to go. This angered him.

★ ★ ★

He made it known he wanted to work. State papers were sent to him. Officials called. Slowly his speech returned and his muscles came back to life.

SURRENDERED

The advance of time finally did what dictators' armies and warplanes had failed to do — made him surrender.

He bowed to the pleas of his doctor, Lord Moran; to the urging of his wife, Clementine, who felt he should conserve his waning strength; to the tactful—but urgent — suggestions of some Conservative party leaders who wanted a younger, more vigorous man as leader in Britain's general election campaign.

On his 80th birthday he had said, with a tinge of regret:

"I am now nearing the end of my journey."

★ ★ ★

But even then he was able to mow down opponents, one after another, with quick shafts of repartee in the House of Commons. His wit remained tart and impish, to the delight of political enemies as well as friends.

MILITARY SECRET

Once a Laborite asked a question about a matter that Churchill considered a military secret. He replied:

"You must not expect me to take the bread out of the mouths of the Russian secret service."

When he quit as prime minister, Churchill cleared the way for his political heir, Sir Anthony Eden, to succeed to the post and take up the fight in the nationwide election campaign that was just ahead.

★ ★ ★

Churchill had chosen Eden 13 years earlier to be his "heir apparent" and had often teased him about his long span as crown prince.

APPEARED RELAXED

For months Churchill had stubbornly resisted pleadings that he take things easier. When he did give in at last, he put on his Sunday best, with top hat and gold watch chain, and rode from 10 Downing Street to Buckingham Palace to tender his resignation to Queen Elizabeth II.

He spent 41 minutes in the palace with the queen. Then he slowly climbed back into his car and sat puffing a cigar in the manner of a man relaxed by the lifting of a weight from his shoulders.

After a brief vacation in Sicily, he returned to England and entered the 1955 election campaign.

★ ★ ★

No one seemed to have more fun out electioneering than did he. Churchill put on his favorite campaigning hat, a high cylinder of black felt. He beamed and chuckled as he ambled from meeting to meeting, waving cigars and making "V" signs.

DREW CROWDS

His speeches sparkled with wit. Occasionally he made the halls ring with mighty phrases in the old Churchillian manner. Wherever he went, he drew a crowd. At the end he was still going strong.

"So far," he said in his final speech as he looked over his spectacles, "I have taken part in 15 general elections and two other elections, but I've never seen one more calm and quiet than this one.

"A brooding silence hangs over the scene unlike anything I've ever seen."

And then—as if he personally resented the calm election—he began to get noisy. He hammered on the square oak box on which he put his notes. By the time he came to the end of his prepared talk he was quite spirited.

★ ★ ★

The election of May 26 resulted in a smashing victory for the Conservative party, whose majority was increased from 17 to 59 seats in the House of Commons. Churchill was sent back to Parliament from Woodford.

WANTED TO SERVE

When Churchill offered himself again in 1959 as a Conservative candidate, he told his constituents that he wanted to serve in the House of Commons as long as his breath held out. On election night he stayed up until past midnight until returns showed him a winner.

He finally closed his parliamentary career July 27, 1964, four months before his 90th birthday.

In a special motion the House of Commons recorded "its unbounded admiration and gratitude for his service to Parliament, to the nation and to the world; remembers above all his inspiration of the British people when they stood alone and his leadership until victory was won; and offers its grateful thanks to the right honorable gentleman for these outstanding services to the house and to the nation."

On his 90th birthday Nov. 30 crowds gathered outside his residence in Hyde Park Gate and cheered as the frail old man appeared at a window.

HONORARY AMERICAN

Thousands of messages poured in from all over the world. One was from President Johnson for the first person ever made on honorary American citizen by a vote of Congress. The Congress bestowed that honor in 1963.

During the 1959 parliamentary campaign Churchill strongly endorsed the policies of Harold Macmillan who had become prime minister when Eden resigned because of ill health after serving for only 21 months.

It was during Eden's regime that British and French troops invaded Egypt after President Gamal Abdel Nasser had seized control of the Suez Canal Company.

★ ★ ★

Israeli troops previously had moved into Egypt, a sworn enemy of Israel, and Eden contended his nation and France acted to prevent a Middle East explosion.

ORDER CEASE-FIRE

But the United Nations General Assembly called for a cease-fire and the withdrawal of all foreign troops from Egypt.

The United States had sponsored the resolution, and Britain, France and Israel bowed to it. A U. N. police force moved in.

Churchill praised Eden's "resolute action" in sending the troops into Egypt and blasted the U. N. for failing to back the invasion.

★ ★ ★

Churchill completed his four-volume "History of the English Speaking Peoples" in 1958. He had started this work more than 20 years earlier.

PAINTINGS EXHIBITED

In that same year 35 of his paintings were exhibited in the United States, Canada, Australit and New Zealand.

The Chicago Art Institute rejected an offer to exhibit the paintings there, rating Churchill as an amateur, but his works were shown in New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, stitute in Washington, among various other galleries.

Everywhere the exhibit attracted large crowds.

★ ★ ★

Later Churchill took over Britain's Royal Academy of Art in London for a one-man show of 61 paintings, including the 35 shown abroad. Never before in its nearly 200-year history had the Royal Academy turned over its principle galleries to an amateur.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Sir Winston and Lady Churchill celebrated 50 years of happy marriage in 1958. Golden wedding anniversary congratulations poured into their French Riviera resort from all over the world.

"My marriage was much the most fortunate and joyous event which happened to me in my whole life," Churchill once wrote.

"For what can be more glorious than to be united in one's walk through life with a being incapable of an ignoble thought?"

★ ★ ★

Old Lord Rosebery, who attended the 1908 wedding, forecast that the marriage would last for six months "with luck."

UNMARRIAGEABLE

At the time they seemed an oddly assorted pair. The 34-year-old Churchill was a most unmarriageable man — untidy, moody, unpunctual, careless of money. His 23-year-old bride brought thrift and discipline into his household, and love, loyality and understanding to his heart.

On his 85th birthday in 1959 Churchill put on a black jacket, striped trousers, white shirt and bow tie — his usual costume — and visited the House of Commons.

There he was greeted with prolonged applause from both the Conservative side and the opposition. Leaders of each side extended congratulations.

"May I say that I most gratefully and eagerly accept both forms of compliments," the old statesman said.

It was as long a parliamentary speech as he had made since quitting as prime minister. When the cheering ended, he left.

BIRTHDAY GIFTS

Birthday gifts and messages poured in from all over the world in such numbers that his personal staff had to sort them into three piles labeled from "close friends," "personal friends" and "well-wishers."

Churchill issued a statement saying that because of the great number he could not acknowledge them all, but did want all the senders to know of "my warm thanks for their thoughts of me."

Like his great ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, who won eight battles in a row for the young Queen Anne, Churchill first found fame in the service of a queen — Victoria.

★ ★ ★

Just back from the Boer War, the slim, red-headed firebrand was elected to Parliament in 1900 for the first time to begin a political career that was to continue for 60 years.

30 YEARS

When he resigned as prime minister, Churchill had completed more than 30 consecutive years as a member of the House of Commons. Altogether he had served a total of 52 years at that time — more than any other member.

His consecutive service was broken when he missed the years 1922-24. He continued his parliamentary career after quitting as prime minister.

Churchill was 65 years old when he reached his goal of prime minister. The British empire then faced a precarious future with Hitler's legions sweeping everything before them.

★ ★ ★

There was no other to take the helm after Prime Minister Chamberlain's "peace in our time" appeasement of the Nazi leader had failed dismally.

RAPPED CHAMBERLAIN

Churchill had assailed Chamberlain for his bargain with Hitler at Munich by which Czechoslovakia was sacrificed in an effort to avert war. He saw in the bargain "a total and unmitigated defeat."

The idea that safety can be purchased by throwing a small state to the wolves is a fatal delusion," Churchill said. He thought that Britain should have joined with others to prevent German encroachment on Czechoslovakia.

"The utmost the prime minister (Chamberlain) was able to gain for Czechoslovakia has been that the German dictator, instead of snatching his victuals from the table, has been content to have them served to him course by course . . . . " Churchill said.

★ ★ ★

He referred to the agreement to partition the country and give the Sudetenland to Germany, to be occupied in five stages.

NAZI THREAT

He called it "complete surrender by Western democracies to the Nazi threat of force."

A short time after appeasement, Hitler gobbled up the rest of Czechoslovakia, making it a German protectorate.

In the beginning Churchill had labeled the Nazi regime "a government of terrorists." He had cried out against appeasement and appealed — futilely — for rearmament.

★ ★ ★

Just a little more than a month after he became prime minister there came from England's ally, France, the anguished, bleeding and confused cry, "We must give up the fight." Belgium had already quit.

FRANCE YIELDS

Britain, whose forces had been trapped by Hitler's armies and impelled into tragic but masterful retreat from the continent when Belgium surrendered, pleaded that the French continue the fight on another continent in a union of British and French empires; but despairing France yielded to the enemy.

Thus the 1940 Battle of France ended on June 18. Germany was the winner with an overmastering weight of arms and military tricks. Britain stood alone. The Battle of Britain was at hand.

Then it was that Churchill became Britain's shield and sword, her clarion call to battle, a composite of her will to fight on. He was truly the man of the hour.

★ ★ ★

"Hitler knows that he will have to break us in this island or lose the war," he told the House of Commons while the enemy overran France within sight of Dover's cliffs.

FRANCE OVERRAN

"If we can stand up to him, all Europe may be free. . . Let us therefore brace ourselves to our duties, and so bear ourselves that if the British Commonwealth and empire last for a thousands years, men will still say 'This was their finest hour.' "

That was Britain's and Churchill's finest hour.

Hitler was planning a triumphant visit to England at the time Churchill became prime minister, but five years later the tables were turned and it was Churchill who visited Germany in the wake of Allied armies.

★ ★ ★

Honors came to Churchill in profusion. In the spring of 1953, Queen Elizabeth II knighted him for his decades of service to the empire and throne.

GAINS TITLE

As a knight he gained nothing substantial except the title "Sir, but investiture with the Order of the Garter, founded by King Edward II six centuries ago, was the highest honor he could accept without giving up his cherished role as Conservative leader in the House of Commons.

A peerage, with any title from baron to duke and the resultant membership in the House of Lords, would have debarred him from the lower house.

It was understood that he could have had a dukedom conferred on him by his queen any time he gave the slightest indication he wanted one.

★ ★ ★

The Order of the Garter was one of 140 honors Churchill had been awarded by his own and other governments. Sir Anthony Eden once said that Churchill was recognized throughout the world "as the greatest man upon this earth."

NOBEL PRIZE

The Nobel Prize for Literature went to him in 1953 for his writings and his oratory. A member of the committee that made the selection said that "the Nobel Literary Prize is intended to cast luster over the author, but this time it is the author who gives luster to the prize."

Sir Winston sought to crown his career made heroic largely by war by becoming an architect of peace. His aim was to "bring nearer that lasting peace settlement which the masses of the people of every race and in every land fervently desire."

"I believe myself that the mass of the people in all countries are kind, decent folk who wish to live their lives in neighborly fashion with their fellow men and women," he said.

★ ★ ★

Over and over again he said that peace was the "last prize" he sought.

COLD WAR

Not even his tortuous dealings with the Soviet Union leaders in the cold war dimmed his zeal.

"Patience and perseverance must never be grudged when the peace of the world is at stake," he told the House of Commons in a 1954 speech. A on another occasion, he said:

"Never flinch, never weary, never despair."

★ ★ ★

At his 80th birthday celebration in 1954, when he received eulogies from every side, the World War II prime minister modestly disclaimed credit for having been his country's inspiration during the long weary days of conflict.

'EXPRESSED WILL'

"I have never accepted what many people have kindly said, namely that I inspired the nation," he said.

"Their will was resolute and remorseless, and it proved unconquerable. It fell to me to express it, and if I have found the right word, you must remember that I have always earned my living by my pen, and by my tongue.

"It was the nation and the race dwelling all 'round the globe that had the lion's heart. I had the luck to be called upon to give the roar. I also hope that I sometimes suggested to the lion the right place to use his claws."

★ ★ ★

It was Churchill who designated the barrier the East erected against the West as the "Iron Curtain."

USED IN '45

He first used that expression on Aug. 16, 1945, in an address to the House of Commons. At that time he said:

"Sparse and guarded accounts of what has happened and is happening have filtered through, but it is not impossible that tragedy on a prodigious scale is unfolding itself behind the iron curtain which at the moment divides Europe in twain."

But it was his speech at Fulton, Mo., the following March that firmly planted the expressive term on the pages of history.

★ ★ ★

On that occasion he said:

"From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the continent. Behind that line lie all the capitals of the ancient states of central and eastern Europe.

IN SOVIET SPHERE

"Warsaw, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bucharest and Sofia, all these famous cities and the populations around them lie in the Soviet sphere and all are subject in one form or another, not only to Soviet influence but to a very high and increasing measure to control from Moscow.

"Athens alone, with its immortal glories, is free to decide its future at an election under British, American and French observation."

Churchill's Fulton speech was made at Westminster College, where he accepted an honorary degree. His words resounded thoughout the world.

★ ★ ★

The main thesis was a plea for a virtual permanent alliance between the United States and all the British Commonwealth, leading, perhaps, to common citizenship. In support, he cited the menace of Soviet communism's policy of expansion.

QUICK REACTION

The Soviet reaction was quick and loud.

In 1949 Churchill was back in the United States, this time to receive an honorary degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In his speech there, he observed that his address at Fulton had caused a world sensation, but that events had vindicated it.

He declared that the United States' possession of the atomic bomb was the principle reason the world had not been plunged again into war.

★ ★ ★

Churchill urged formation of "the United States of Europe, both of the East and the West."

SUNSHINE ON 2 SIDES

Declaring that "we do not wish the slightest ill to those who dwell on the east of the Iron Curtain," he said: "Let there be sunshine on both sides, . . . and if ever the sunshine should be equal on both sides, the curtain will be no more."

His long service as a statesman made Churchill a figure almost as familiar to Americans as their own presidents.

His round, beaming face, his cigar, his "V" sign with his fingers, his coverall blitz suit, his unmatched oratory were well-known to them.

★ ★ ★

With the eloquence that enthralled Parliament, Churchill addressed Congress three times while he was prime minister—twice during World War II and again in 1952 after he had regained his old post.

FIRST U. S. VISIT

He first visited the United States in 1895 as a slender youth of 21. He was on his way then to Cuba to act as an observer with the Spanish army engaged in fighting an insurrection.

During his lifetime he made 14 additional visits to this country. Americans knew him in his later years as a stout, stooped Briton puffing a long cigar, weighted with age and with triumphs.

In 1941 Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt met at sea in the historic Atlantic Charter conference. A fast friendship developed between them during the war years. With the Soviet Union's Joseph Stalin they formed the "Big Three" of World War II. Churchill was the last survivor of that famous trio. Roosevelt died in 1945 and Stalin in 1953.

★ ★ ★

While he always thought of himself first as a Briton, Churchill liked to recall that his mother was an American. She was the former Jennie Jerome of New York before her marriage to Lord Randolph Churchill.

In addressing Congress in 1941, Churchill said:

"I cannot help reflecting that if my father had been an American and my mother British, instead of the other way 'round, I might have got here (Congress) on my own."

★ ★ ★

However, he was British to the core. With his paunch, his jowls and his rugged jaw, Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill even resembled John Bull in appearance.

BORN IN 1874

He was born Nov. 30, 1874, at Blenheim Castle, Woodstock, Oxfordshire, eldest son of Lord Randolph Churchill who was the third son of the seventh Duke of Marlborough. He went to school at Harrow, then to Sandhurst for his military education.

His 60-cent cigars, his collection of hats and canes, his appreciation of good Scotch whiskey, fine brandy and vintage wines actually endeared him to Britons who found in those indulgences a vicarious wish fulfillment.

Churchill was what most of them would like to be or thought that England was. The rich Havana, the longer the better, which jutted from its firm enplacement in his broad mouth became a symbol of determined reassurance.

★ ★ ★

Lord Birkenhead once said: "Winston's tastes are very simple. All he wants is the best."

LIKED COMFORT

Sir Winston liked comfort and good living in the Victorian style. Especially he prided himself as a connoisseur of good food and drink. Lady Churchill asked who was the most important person in the house, replied without hesitation: "The cook." Champagne was regular with meals; brandy afterwards.

While at work at his desk, Churchill often had a scotch and soda — American style with ice—by his elbow to sip.

In 1908 Churchill married Clementine Hozier, whose parents were Col. Sir H. M. Hozier and Lady Blanche Ogilvy, daughter of the Earl of Airlie.

★ ★ ★

One son and four daughters were born to the Churchills.

FOLLOWED FATHER

Randolph Churchill, who followed his father's example and went in for politics and writing, was married twice. Both marriages ended in divorce. His first wife was Pamela Digby. His second was June Osborne.

Diana Churchill married John M. Bailey, son of a South African capitalist. The marriage ended in divorce as did her second marriage to Duncan Sandys, who served in Parliament and later held cabinet posts. She died Oct. 20, 1963. A coroner ruled that she committed suicide by taking an overdose of sleeping pills.

Sarah Churchill went on the stage as a chorus girl in 1935 and the following year married Vic Oliver, an American comedian. That marriage ended in divorce in 1945. Four years later she married Anthony Beauchamp, a British society photographer. He died in 1957. Her third husband was Baron Audley, a designer and holder of one of Britain's most ancient titles. He died in July 1963.

★ ★ ★

Another daughter, Mary, accompanied Churchill on one of his trips to Canada and the United States in 1943. She was married in 1947 to Capt. Christopher Soames of the Coldstream Guards.

The other child, Marigold Frances, who was born four days after the Armistice of World War I, died in 1921.

Whenever there was a war "Winnie" generally was on hand.

His first commission was as a lieutenant in the Fourth Hussars. He got leave from that regiment to go to Cuba in 1895 and served there for two months as an observer with Spanish forces combating rebellion.

He fought on India's northwest frontier in 1897; on the Nile in 1898, and on the western front in France in late 1915 and part of 1916.

★ ★ ★

In the Boer War (1899-1900) he served as a war correspondent for a London newspaper until taken prisoner when a British troop train was ambushed at Frere.

SPECTACULAR ESCAPE

One of his spectacular feats was his escape from the Pretoria prison camp.

Churchill scaled a wall when the sentries' backs were turned momentarily and walked boldly through the streets of Pretoria to the railroad station.

He waited beyond the station for a freight train, which he swung aboard as it was picking up speed and concealed himself under some empty coal sacks.

★ ★ ★

The Boers subsequently searched the train, but failed to probe deep enough in the sacks.

WANTED 'DEAD OR ALIVE'

Before dawn the fugitive jumped off the moving train and hid in the woods until night. His only companion, he said later, was a huge vulture.

After waiting in vain that night for another train, he took a chance and knocked on the door of a farmhouse, explaining he had been in a train accident.

Fortunately, the occupants were English, the only English family in a settlement of Boers, and they secreted him in a mine.

Two or three days later they smuggled Churchill aboard a car that was to be attached to another train and he hid in bales of wool.

TRAIN SEARCHED

This train was searched by the Boers — there was a reward of 25 pounds out for the future prime minister "dead or alive" — but he escaped detection. Eventually he reached the frontier and safety.

Churchill cabled his paper, the London Morning Post: "I have lost many pounds weight, but I am lighter in heart."

In 1900 he won his first seat in Parliament. His experience in politics were many.

★ ★ ★

Once he was the target of vegetables hurled by high-tariff advocates. His opposition to woman suffrage caused suffragists to beat at him with umbrellas and turn his meetings into riotous affairs.

'TURNED COAT'

After six years as an outspoken and often rebellious Conservative back bench legislator, Churchill "turned his coat" in 1906 to become a Liberal.

It was then that he got his first ministry as undersecretary for the colonies, a post he held until 1908.

His career included these other positions:

President of the Board of Trade, 1908-10; home secretary, 1910-11; first lord of the Admiralty, 1911-15; a soldier on the western front, part of 1915 and 1916; minister of munitions, 1917; secretary of war and air, 1918-21; secretary for colonies, 1921-22; chancellor of the exchequer, 1924-29, and first lord of the Admiralty, 1939-40.

★ ★ ★

Churchill left the Liberal ranks after failing of election to the House of Commons in 1922, and began edging back toward the Conservatives.

KEY APPOINTMENT

In 1924 Stanley Baldwin appointed him chancellor of the exchequer in his Conservative cabinet.

He broke with Baldwin in 1931 over the government's India policy — a break that proved a fortunate circumstance for he remained out of the Conservative government of Chamberlain.

Thus he escaped any blame for failure of British policy.

★ ★ ★

Churchill became first lord of the Admiralty in 1911 with instructions to build up Britain's sea power to meet the threat against its supremacy by the new fleet of Wilhelm II of Germany. By 1914 he had a powerful armada.

SHOWED FORESIGHT

He had the foresight to keep this great fleet, which King George V reviewed at Spithead on July 20, 1914, on a war footing, instead of having it scattered in the ordinary course the next week.

When England declared war on Aug. 4, the ships were at their stations in the North Sea and Germany's navy was bottled up.

Churchill rushed men and ships to Antwerp and went there himself in October 1914, when there was some hope of saving the city from the Germans. But his indefatigable efforts, diplomatically and in the actual work of defense, were unavailing.

His next great effort, in the early part of the next year, ended in the Dardanelles disaster.

Commentators have largely agreed since that both the Antwerp and Dardanelles plans were sound strategically and that if they had been executed vigorously their originator would have emerged as the great genius of the war, for the conflict would have been localized and shortened.

Instead he was made one of the outstanding "goats" of wartime Britain.

A generation later Churchill was the chief repository of British hopes during the war that unpreparedness spawned.

★ ★ ★

The people found almost spiritual solace in his words.

'FULL CONFIDENCE'

"I have myself full confidence . . . that we shall prove ourselves once again able to defend our island home and ride out the storms of war and outlive the menace of tyranny . . . if necessary alone," he said after the Belgian surrender.

After the fall of France, when Britain did stand alone, he said:

"And now it has come to us to stand alone in the breach, and to face the worst that the tyrant's might and enmity can do.

"Bearing ourselves humbly before God, but conscious that we serve an unfolding purpose, we are ready to defend our native land . . . We are fighting by ourselves alone; but we are not fighting for ourselves alone. . . . We await undismayed the impending assault."

And when that assault came in the summer of 1940 in the ordeal by fire and demolition which Hitler calculated would crush the British will and break a path for cross-channel invasion, Churchill spoke the people's inspiring gratitude and debt to the Royal Air Force.

GREAT DEBT

"The gratitude of every home in our island, in our empire, and indeed throughout the world except in the abodes of the guilty, goes out to the British airmen, who, undaunted by odds, unwearied in their constant challenge and mortal danger, are turning the tide of the World War by their prowess and by their devotion," he said.

"Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

He saw sympathy for Britain blossom into lend-lease relations as the United States became "the arsenal of democracy."

★ ★ ★

He welcomed the opportunity of trading leaseholds for American bases in British territory in the Western Hemisphere for 50 destroyers.

'MUTUAL ADVANTAGE'

"Undoubtedly this process means that these two great organizations of the English-speaking democracies . . . will have to be somewhat mixed up together in some of their affairs for mutual and general advantage," he observed of the cooperation between the two democracies.

"For my own part . . . I do not view the process with any misgivings. I could not stop it if I wished; no one can stop it. Like the Mississippi, it just keeps rolling along. Let it roll. Let it roll on full flood, inexorable, irresistible, benignant, to broader lands and better days."

The bonds of friendship between Britain and America were strengthened through the personal relationship of Churchill and Roosevelt. They were on "Winston and Franklin" terms.

★ ★ ★

Their battleship-cruiser rendezvous in the Atlantic in 1941 gave the world the Atlantic Charter, a blueprint of fundamental freedoms, four months before the United States went to war. Several times after this country joined the conflict, the prime minister visited the United States to confer with the President.

HISTORY MAKING

Churchill's 10-day "unconditional surrender" meeting with President Roosevelt at Casablanca in January 1943 shattered precedents to make history.

An action-packed 1943 testified to the thoroughness of their planning. The North African campaign was brought to a victorious conclusion.

Sicily was conquered. Benito Mussolini was ousted as Fascist dictator, the Italian mainland was invaded and Italy capitulated. Sardinia, Corsica and the Italian fleet fell into Allied hands.

★ ★ ★

In November-December 1943, the two met with Stalin at Tehran, Iran, to map the later course of the war and the early phases of the peace, and in February of 1945 the "Big Three" held another momentous conference at Yalta in the Crimea.

QUEBEC MEETING

Churchill and Roosevelt conferred at Quebec in the summer of 1943 and again the next year about carrying on the war in the Pacific.

Just before the meeting at Tehran, they had met with China's Chiang Kai-shek at Cairo to plan the future struggle against Japan.

The prime minister had two attacks of pneumonia in 1943, one in February in London and the other after the Cairo and Tehran conferences.

★ ★ ★

He convalesced in the Middle East. It was 10 weeks from the time he left for the conferences before he returned early in January 1944.

CARRIED ON DUTIES

While he was still ill, he announced proudly: "I have not at any time had to relinquish my part in the direction of affairs and there has not been the slightest delay in giving decisions which were required of me."

In 1947 he underwent an operation for hernia. Early the next year he contracted a heavy cold that developed into bronchitis.

He was always a problem to his doctors. Even in his illnesses Churchill resisted any curbing of his restless energies and refused to be separated from his cigars.

However, in late years he husbanded his energies by staying in bed most mornings until noon, reading and dictating, and trying to take a nap in the afternoon.

When the invasion of France started in June 1944, it took a lot of persuading by Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, Allied naval commander, to keep Churchill from accompanying the forces when they stormed the beaches of France.

Admiral Ramsay said he persuaded the prime minister "only with much difficulty" not to go along.

But less than a week later Churchill went to France on a destroyer and saw for himself how the battle was going in a tour of the Allied beachhead.

NARROWLY ESCAPED

Almost three years after the blitz of late 1940, it was revealed that Churchill narrowly escaped being killed in it. He was dining at 10 Downing street with two cabinet members when a bomb fell on the Treasury building next door, demolishing it and killing 12 persons.

The dining room chandelier plopped right into the center of Churchill's table, but no one was hurt. With a fatalistic attitude, he and his guests stayed at their table. It was that night that the stocky British leader adopted his famous air raid suit.

His attitude on life and death was summed up in the First World War after the engine failure of a plane carrying him across the Channel to France: "I love life, but I do not fear death." But he was not above carrying a tommy-gun in the back of his car in World War II.

NOTED AS WRITER

With his drive he combined uniquely a capacity for relaxation and good living. In the First World War he played polo.

In the second conflict he found time to rest among his tropical fish, cats and swans at his country residence, Chartwell Manor, near Westerham, Kent, which he bought largely with the royalties from his masterwork on the first World War, "The World Crisis."

His books numbered a score. The biographies of his father and his ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, along with his writings of World War I, are classics.

In the autumn of 1946 Churchill began writing his memoirs, aided by a diary he kept, beginning with the years preceding World War II when he opposed his government's appeasement policy and extending through the conflict.

The memoirs were published in serial form under the titles of "The Gathering Storm," "Their Finest Hour," "The Grand Alliance," "The Hinge of Fate," "Closing the Ring," and "Triumph and Tragedy." Later they appeared in book form.

On a visit to the United States in 1943, Churchill was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws by Harvard University, with this citation:

"Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill—an historian who has written a glorious page of British history; a statesman and warrior whose tenacity and courage turned back the tide of tyranny in freedom's darkest hour."

VACATION TRIP

During a 1946 vacation trip he received honorary degrees from the University of Miami, in Florida, Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and Columbia University, New York; addressed the Virginia legislature and was awarded New York City's gold medal and distinguished service certificate.

In 1949 Massachusetts Institute of Technology conferred on the British statesman a rare honor—that of honorary lecturer. He was cited as "the twentieth century symbol of resistance to oppression."

Hailing Churchill's 70th birthday in 1944, Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that "in the face of a bayonet aimed at Great Britain's breast with missiles of death falling around him, Churchill rallied the British people with a ringing challenge in defense of her homes and soil and defied the cruel and savage invader."

The senator added:

"He did more than rally the British people. He thrilled the English-speaking world and the peoples of the United Nations. With rare vision and stout heart he looked beyond the clouds and bravely faced the storm . . . He will take his place among the gallant and great historic characters of Britain."

Mighty Churchill Weapon Was English Language

SYMBOLS OF VICTORY — An American bomber, newly arrived in England, flies over silhouetted Churchill in 1941. Britain won a major phase of World War II at this time by turning back the bombing fleets of Hitler over England and striking back into Germany from the air.

He Stirred the Free World by Strong Words, Deeds

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill will be remembered as much for his words as for his deeds.

★ ★ ★

Both in war and in peace, he rose to descriptive heights —a verbal summit, he might have called it—as the great phrasemaker.

During World War II, in the agony of early military defeat, he forged the English language into a mighty weapon.

With it, he roused his own people and stirred the free world. He called Hitler a "bloodthirsty guttersnipe" and Mussolini a "whipped jackal."

★ ★ ★

In the postwar peace, his reference to an "iron curtain" and a "summit meeting" came into general use.

FIRST SCHOOL EXAM

Yet, when he took his first school examination, he could think of nothing more than his name to write on the black piece of paper before him.

This didn't mean that his youthful mind was lazy. On the contrary, it was fertile and restless, but rebellious and undisciplined.

The schoolboy who couldn't pass written examinations lived to write millions of words that promise to be quoted by generations.

★ ★ ★

"The essential structure of the ordinary British sentence is a noble thing," he said.

ENGLISH IS A MUST

"I would make all boys learn English. And then I would let the clever ones learn Latin as an honor and Greek as a treat.

"But the only thing I would whip them for is not knowing English. I would whip them very hard for that."

Some of his war sayings roll majestically down the avenues of time.

★ ★ ★

England's armies were driven from France. Her resources were low and her allies few. A victorious German army stood threatening across the channel.

'DEFEND OUR ISLAND'

"We shall defend our island whatever the cost may be," he told a stunned nation.

"We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender."

And then his tribute to the Royal Air Force that had heroically stood up to massive odds:

"Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

★ ★ ★

And as he became wartime prime minister:

"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

GREAT THOUGHTS

Those were great thoughts splendidly assembled and it is not detraction that some of them were not completely original.

When Garibaldi, the Italian patriot, set out on a perilous journey he offered his followers blood, toil, sweat and tears.

Churchill's deep preoccupation with historical works unquestionably contributed certain undercurrents of thought that emerged in some of his utterances.

★ ★ ★

Clemenceau also was eloquently defiant as the Germans threatened Paris in World War II.

'FIGHT IN PARIS'

"I shall fight in front of Paris," said the old French Tiger, "Within Paris, behind Paris."

Most of Churchill's greatest statements were purely Churchillian, though.

To describe the Soviet Union's postwar expansion in Eastern Europe, he said in March 1946: "From Stettin in the Baltic, to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the continent."

★ ★ ★

And in May 1953, he called for a "parley at the summit" of the big powers to ease world tension. (Although he coined the phrase, he was not to attend the first summit conference in Geneva in 1955 nor the abortive one in Paris in 1960.)

CLOSE TO POETRY

Churchill's words often came close to poetry.

When Hitler was trying to lure France into joining the Axis, Churchill broadcast the following to the French people:

"Good night then; sleep to gather strength for the morning, for the morning will come.

★ ★ ★

"Brightly will it shine on the brave and true, the kindly, on all who suffer for the cause, and gloriously upon the tombs of heroes. Thus will shine the dawn. Vive la France."

CLOSE TO VERSE

The closest he came to verse — according to men who followed closely his writings — was a couplet he recorded urging the Big Three leaders to get down to business:

"No more let us later, or falter, or palter, from Malta to Yalta and Yalta to Malta."

Churchill was neither a quick nor spontaneous writer.

★ ★ ★

In debate he could wither opponets with broadsides of irony and wit. He could puncture windbags and devestate bores. But he wrote with great care.

IMPROMPTU SPEECHES

A critical member of the House of Lords once said of him: "Winston Churchill has devoted a lifetime to the preparation of impromtu speaches."

Churchill generally composed in bed. He scribbled and dictated to secretaries. Then he rewrote and rewrote, polished and readjusted his phrases.

He called communism "a ghoul descending from a pile of skulls." He said "socialism is the philosophy of failure, the creed of ignorance and the gospel of envy."

★ ★ ★

He could turn his phrases against political foes, too. He once described Laborite Herbert Morrison as a master craftsman.

★ ★ ★

"The right honorable gentleman has promoted me," smiled Morrison.

"Craft," added Churchill, "is common both to skill and deceit."

OF ATTLEE

Of Clement Attlee, onetime Laborite prime minister:

"He is a small modest man — with a great deal to be modest about."

But Spirit Indomitable

Years Took Their Toll

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill gave up the prime ministership of Britain on April 5, 1955 — beaten in the end by the weight of years.

The advance of time did to Churchill what dictator's armies and warplanes failed to do. Time made him surrender.

He bowed to the pleas of his doctor, Lord Moran.

He gave in to the urging of his wife, Clementine, who felt he must conserve his waning strength.

★ ★ ★

He surrendered to the tactful — but urgent — suggestions of some Conservative party leaders who wanted a younger, more vigorous man at the helm.

81ST YEAR

The Churchill who stepped into history that day was in his 81st year.

He was an old man who dodered, as old men will, on one day, but who rose to great heights of oratory and intellect on the next.

Sometimes, he nodded his balding, white-fringed head in sudden sleep midway in meetings of the cabinet.

★ ★ ★

Sometimes he momentarily forgot the names of world-famous men—men of power with whom he had wined and dined and matched wits across the table in wary intimacy.

JOURNEY'S END

"I am now nearing the end of my journey," he said in tones tinged with regret in his 80th birthday speech on Nov. 30, 1954.

But in his waning years in office, he also stirred the British nation in ringing speeches.

"Never flinch, never weary never despair," he said in his last major address as prime minister.

★ ★ ★

The words burned themselves into Britons memories, crystallizing support for his policy of building British hydrogen bombs to hold the Soviet Union at bay.

SEAMED TO FADE

And while at times the old man had seemed to be fading, he revived regularly to mow down Laborite opponents, one after another, with quick shafts of repartee in the House of Commons.

In 1951 a sudden stroke laid him low at the French Riviera home of his friend, Lord Beaverbrook, the newspaper publisher.

The news was kept secret and Churchill was put to bed. Worried doctors hovered over him. They ordered him to stay quiet.

★ ★ ★

Instead the old man insisted on helping to phrase a misleading communique to reporters.

SHUFFLING FEET

Then, as a friend left the sickroom to deliver the statement to newsmen, he heard the shuffle of slippered feet behind him in the corridor.

Churchill, only a few hours after his stroke, was up out of bed—and chasing his associate down a drafty hall.

He wanted to make another change in the communique. And he did. His love of words and lust for work conquered his weakness.

★ ★ ★

Again in 1953, a second stroke paralyzed him and left him speechless. Men of his age rarely recover from a stroke of such severity. People close to Churchill expected him to die.

IN WHEELCHAIR

A friend gave him a modern wheelchair with ingenious gadgets intended to make life easier for chair-bound invalids. It delighted Churchill at first. Then the thought struck him that the prime minister of Great Britain was dependent upon gadgets.

His friends say the idea so angered him that he fought his way back to health.

Back to the House of Commons, where he had spent half a century in the political wars. Back to No. 10 Downing St. Back to Chequers, the official country residence of prime ministers.

★ ★ ★

Back to the routine of regular visits to Buckingham Palace, to brief a young queen on affairs of state.

BACK TO NORMAL

And back to his brandy and cigars and his normal way of life at Chartwell, his own country residence in the rolling Essex countryside where his grandchildren often romped and where he and Lady Churchill played cards to relax.

Oddly, the retirement in 1955 of the manw ho led Britain in World War II stirred no deep emotions among most Britons, whatever their political leanings.

It was more a sense of gratitude to him and a feeling that he had earned a rest.

★ ★ ★

Churchill remained in the House of Commons, as an ordinary member. In recent years, however, he seldom attended, showing up only on his birthday or other special occasions.

SUFFERED FALL

In November 1960, Churchill fell and fractured a small bone in his neck. In June of 1962, he broke his leg in a fall while on a vacation at Monte Carlo. The old warrior came back from both these injuries.

★ ★ ★

On May 1, 1963, he announced he would retire, at the end of his term, from Parliament.

PAID TRIBUTE

Members of Parliament gathered on July 28, 1964, shortly before Parliament was to be dissolved for new elections, to pay tribute to the man who had led Britain in war and peace.

Churchill did not attend, but his son, Randolph, and his daughter, Mary, sat in the gallery.

The Commons was hushed as Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home opened the tributes by saying Sir Winston would be remembered as a war leader and as "a man of magnanimity and humanity."

★ ★ ★

"The greatest member of Parliament of this or any other age," Said Harold Macmillan, the former prime minister.

IS A LEGEND

Harold Wilson, leader of the Labor opposition and soon to become prime minister, hailed Sir Winston as "a man who, in his own lifetime, has become a legend."

GREETING TO HITLER — Britain's prime minister chalks a greeting to Hitler on a big shell before it is fired into a German position from the Ninth Army area in Germany in 1945.

Robust Churchill Behavior Belied His Age, Condition

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill had the heart of a lion, the courage of a bulldog and a digestive system akin to a cement mixer.

His constitution was remarkable and his habits were the despair of his doctors.

He never believed in exercise, stayed up late, drank wine, whiskey and brandy, gambled in Mediterranean casinos and puffed on Havana cigars.

It was his beloved wife, Clementine, who finally got him into an ambulance one day in November 1960 when he injured his back. The ambulance drove him quietly through the streets of London to the Xray which disclosed a small bone fracture.

★ ★ ★

Churchill suffered two strokes —one of which brought on a temporary paralysis of speech and interfered with his walking —before he resigned on April 5, 1955 as Britain's prime minister.

ROBUST ACTION

Stricken, he scoffed at wheelchairs, struggled back to a life of robust action and at the age of 80 participated in an election campaign with the vigor of a man 50 years his junior.

He was back again at the age of 84 to campaign in the 1959 election. He steeled himself with large brandies and went on to make his speeches.

On one occasion in recent years, he asked his doctor, Lord Moran, whether a cointreau—a strongly alcoholic liquer—was permitted after lunch.

"Do you want it or do you need it?" asked the phyician.

"I neither want it nor need it, but I should think it pretty hazardous to interfere with the irradicable habit of a lifetime," replied Churchill.

Even late in life, his resilience was almost fantastic.

One day he could be seen tottering along the corridors of the house of commons.

"Poor old Winston," some would comment.

LIVELY STEP

The very next day he would tread that same corridor with a step that suggested a lively old gentleman.

He fell asleep at a political meeting. Two evenings later he regaled dinner guests with midnight stories.

Sometimes his memory appeared to play him tricks. On other occasions he could remember minute details of events that happened 50 years in the past.

At the end of the Geneva Conference of 1954, he summoned U.S. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith to come to see him on his way back to Washington.

Smith, then undersecretary of state, flew to London instead of directly back to the United States, and hurried to Churchill.

They talked about events at Geneva and when Smith was leaving his wartime friend, Churchill said to him as they reached the front door:

"How nice of you to think of coming to see me, Beetle (Smith's nickname). By the wav, how did you happen to be in London?"

★ ★ ★

One night during the 1959 election campaign Churchill spoke twice in the same evening at two halls 20 miles apart. His first effort was brilliant, but in the second, he mumbled, stumbled and lost track of what he was saying.

WASHED UP

Some people who heard him that night thought he was washed up as a campaign speaker.

But four evenings later he appeared on the platform again and the strength of his voice, his sharpness, his pointed humor and irony were reminiscent of his great speech-making days of World War II.

Churchill loved his bed and was a late sleper. Hours after awakening he remained in bed, working, talking, eating and drinking.

"When one wakes up after daylight." he explained. "One should breakfast. Five hours after that, lnucheon. Six hours after, dinner.

INDEPENDENT

"Thus one becomes independent of the sun, which otherwise meddles too much in one's affairs and upsets the routine of work."

A man who relished life, Churchill despised talk about death or his advanced age.

On his 75th birthday he was less reluctant.

★ ★ ★

Asked if he had any fear of death he replied:

"I am ready to meet my maker. Whether my maker is prepared for the great ordeal of meeting me is another matter."

On a recent birthday—after sitting for an official photograph—he slowly arose to leave.

"Sir," said the young photographer, "I hope I shall be able to take your picture on your 100th birthday."

Peering at the young man 50 years his junior, Churchill looked him up and down then growled:

"I see no reason why you shouldn't—you look hale and hearty enough.

America Paid Highest Honor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States did not wait until Sir Winston Churchill's death to do him honor.

Barely two years ago it conferred upon him the highest accolade within its constitutional power — honorary citizenship of the United States.

As far as Americans are concerned, there could be no greater demonstration of their affectionate regard for him.

The only other foreign nation to have been awarded honorary American citizenship was the Marqusi de Lafayette, the French nobleman who identified himself with the cause of American independence and fought in the Revolutionary Army.

The first approaches to Churchill that he should receive honorary American citizenship were made in 1958 by Representative Francis E. Walter, D-Pa.

Churchill felt unable to accept at the time, however, and wrote to Walter: "I am deeply touched at the great honor which you have sought to do me . . . nevertheless, after most careful consideration, I think I should decline it.

"As you know, I am half American by blood. I feel I would prefer to leave the matter thus, rather than have an official seal put on the affection and high regard in which I hold your country."

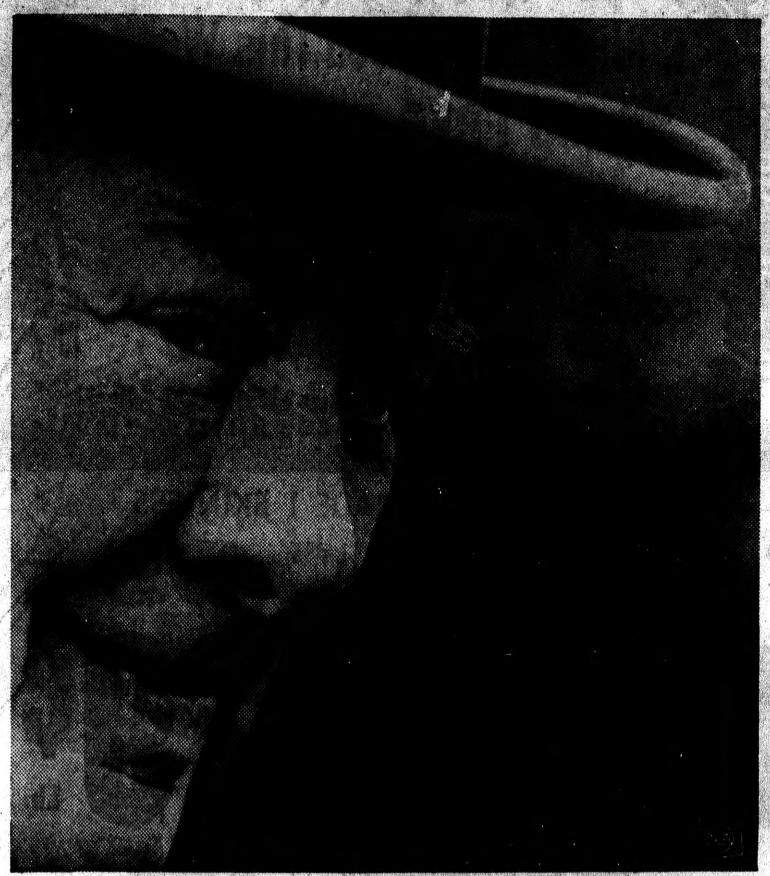
FAMILIAR CIGAR — After a meeting at No. 10 Downing Street with the then Prime Minister Anthony Eden, Winston Churchill puffed away at his familiar cigar.



WINNIE

Scarcely anybody in Britain doubts that Sir Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill will rank in history with great names like Julius Caesar, Napoleon, Nelson and Lincoln. When Churchill was a lieutenant in Boer War, shortly before the turn of the century, his commander, Sir Bindon Blood, mentioned him in dispatches: "He was useful," reported Sir Bindon, "at a critical moment."

And in war and peace, for more than 60 years, Sir Winston was useful at the critical moments. He was a prize-winning author and historian, a gallant leader of troops, an artist, a superb politician and a statesman. His countrymen called him "The Old Man," or "The Old Gentleman," or, with great love and respect, "Winnie." Here are the Churchill years in pictures.

He was First Lord of the Admiralty during World War I . . .

. . . and a champion polo player and sportsman in 1922 . . .

. . . who visited Washington, D.C., during a speaking tour in 1929 . . .

. . . and fought for England in World War II in his famous "Siren Suit" . . .

. . . this is Winnie at No. 10 Downing St., as the world will remember him.

In 1898, Churchill served as correspondent in South Africa's Boer War, was captured and made a spectacular escape. He saw such engagements as the above.

Churchill, the author who won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1952, was also an accomplished amateur painter. He loved the hills of the South of France.

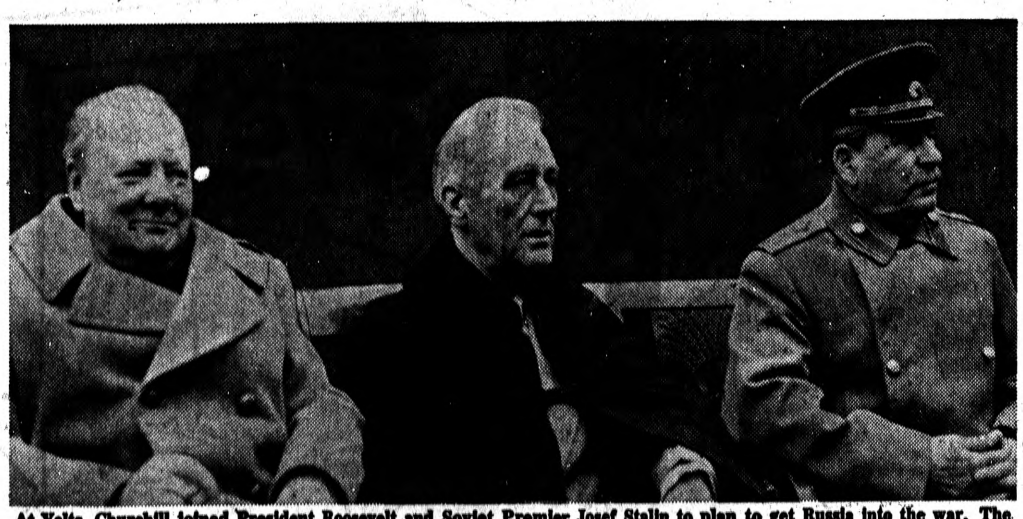
He was always prone to injury and has had many broken bones and bouts with pneumonia and strokes. In 1931, he was struck by a truck in New York City.

As Secretary of State for War and Air in 1919, Churchill knew and worked with the world's military leaders, like U.S. General of the Armies John J. Pershing. He and Pershing rode through London during the latter's visit.

Churchill was always the campaigner. A Conservative turned Liberal turned Conservative party member, he needed votes to stay in Parliament. He greets constituents in 1923 with a hearty grin.

AP Photos

Sir Winston acknowledged the cheers of well-wishers at the window of his London home last Nov. 29, the day before his 90th birthday. It was one of the last times the British statesman was seen by the public.



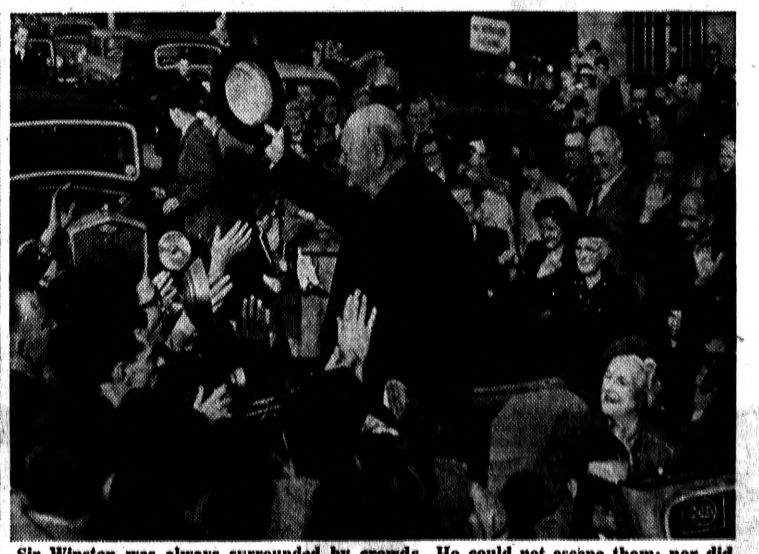
At Yalta, Churchill joined President Roosevelt and Soviet Premier Josef Stalin to plan to get Russia into the war. The year is 1945. He attended other "summit" meetings in Teheran, Potsdam, Casablanca.

As Prime Minister during World War II, Churchill tried always to be in the thick of battle. He was particularly interested in the Africa campaign and several times traveled to Egypt. He's watching a bomber squadron return to its base on the El Alamein front.

Churchill's speeches are still familiar. In 1941 he addressed the U.S. Congress and said the Japs "would be taught a lesson."

With his wife, Clementine, whom he married in 1908, Britain's grand old man campaigns in 1951, the year he was returned to power as prime minister and leader of the Conservative party. In 1955, he officially ended his long career.

Sir Winston, often in a wheelchair, spent much of his retirement in France.



Sir Winston was always surrounded by crowds. He could not escape them; nor did he want to. And this may be one reason why his countrymen will never forget him.

Rochester Primary Needed; One Likely in Milford, Too

A primary election will be necessary in Rochester and possibly in Milford Feb. 15.

In Rochester, a total of nine nominating petitions were filed before the noon Saturday deadline for four expiring Village Council terms.

In Milford, five candidates are seeking two council seats.

The Milford petitions turned in have not yet been validated, but if all are correct the list will have to be decreased by one for the March 8 general election.

Both of the incumbents for the three-year council terms, R. C. Wakefield and Max Kelley, are seeking reelection.

OTHERS FILING

Also filing petitions to run for the posts were Norton Caswell of 946 Duke, who works at the General Motors Proving Grounds; Charles Roose, 1217 Marjorie, a West Bloomfield Township employe; and Hugh P. Davies, 715 Atlantic, principal of Union Lake Elementary School in the Walled Lake district.

Archie J. Noon of 405 Hickory, a local insurance agent, will run against incumbent Merlia Feigley for the two years left in an unexpired term.

Feigley was appointed to the council following the resignation of Vernon Rounds in November.

ONLY CANDIDATE

Village President Wilbur Johnson, seeking reelection for a two-year term, was the only person to file for that office.

Two petitions, taken out and returned at almost the last minute in Rochester, put the total one above the maximum for a general election, making the primary necessary.

Harry E. Byers of 293 North Hill Circle, who operates Byers Shell Service, and Harold Milton of 1002 Mahaffey, a distributor for Sutherland Oil Co., Oxford, filed the last two petitions.

★ ★ ★

Byers made the deadline with but 15 minutes to spare.

EARLY FILINGS

Petitions had already been submitted by incumbent Village President John O'Donnell and fellow incumbent councilmen John Boeberitz and James McCarthy.

Other candidates who filed early were Samuel Howlett, David N. Parker of 436 Hill, John L. Dahlmann of 265 South and Louis A. Mitzelfeld.

Howlett is justice of the peace and a former police chief; Parker, technical director at Rochester Aerosal Corp.; Dahlmann, a former councilman and a landscaper; and Mitzelfeld, factory superintendent at National Twist Drill & Tool Co.

Dr. Kenneth Van Nocker did not file for reelection to his council seat.

The primary will cut the total number of candidates to eight. The three highest vote-getters in the March 8 election will serve two-year terms, while the fourth will get the one-year term.

DISCUSS RIGHT-OF-WAY — Rochester Village Manager Richard Don met with New York Central Railroad (NYC) and Public Service Commission (PSC) representatives Friday to discuss a NYC easement which would allow the extension of East University into 20 acres of Mill Pond property to open it to development. Taking part were (from left), Joseph Madej, NYC engineering department; Don; Robert Smitha, architect and codeveloper of the Mill Pond property; Harry E. Taylor, railroad safety inspector of the PSC; and village engineer William St. Clair. The matter will be up for further consideration at tonight's Village council meeting.

Directors of Hospital Unit Elected

MILFORD — Four new members have joined four incumbents returned to the board of directors of the Huron Valley Community Hospital Association.

★ ★ ★

Rev. Jacob Andrews and incumbent Mrs. Florence P. Rogers, both of Milford, were elected as directors-at-large at the association's annual meeting Thursday.

Others elected to two-year terms include Mrs. LaVerne Roe of Milford Township, L. F. Oldenburg of Highland Township and William H. Hoffman of Rose Township.

Retaining their places on the board were William Carls of White Lake Township, Mrs. Isabelle Taylor of Commerce Township and Glee Cook of Hartland Township.

★ ★ ★

Incumbents who chose not to run for reelection were Rev. Frank Williams, who had served as a director-at-large; Mrs. George Watkins of Milford Township; and Mrs. Walter Eis of Highland Township.

TO SPEARHEAD DRIVE

The association was formed four years ago to spearhead the drive for a $2-million hospital here.

Membership can be obtained with as little as a $1 contribution to the fund.

The proposed 100-bed facility would serve residents of 10 townships.

On Proposed $2-Million Complex

West Bloomfield Sets Zoning Hearing

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Public hearing on rezoning for a proposed $2-million multiple residence complex — pending before the township planning commission for over a year — is scheduled for tomorrow night.

The 8 p.m. session at the Township Hall will provide another opportunity for residents to express their views on the project, which in the past have been emphatically negative.

The request of Peter Popek to develop a 39-acre site at Mirror Lake on Pontiac Trail hit its last snag in September.

At a hearing before the Township Board, the question was returned to the planning commission because of a technicality.

★ ★ ★

State statute requires the posting of property under consideration for rezoning before a public hearing on the matter. This had not been done prior to a July hearing before the commission.

PLANS GO TO COUNTY

Having recommended the change, commissioners sent plans for the project to the Oakland County Coordinating Zoning and Planning Committee.

Protests from neighboring property owners first were heard at a meeting of the county group, which declined approving the project and recommended that Orchard Lake residents be heard by the planners.

Popek's property is bordered on the north and east by Orchard Lake, which was then a village and since has been incorporated as a city.

★ ★ ★

Despite the recommendation, planners reiterated their stand and sought Township Board approval of the project without that of the county group.

INFORMATIONAL

The hearing before the board, which never materialized as an official session because of the technicality, served as an informational meeting at which officials learned that there was considerable opposition to the proposed rezoning.

The 39 acres in question, including the 16-acre lake, now are in the township's most restrictive single - residence zone.

Preliminary architectural drawings indicated the apartments would be contained in eight buildings staggered on the hillside on the south side of the lake.

★ ★ ★

Objections have been voiced by residents of Sagamore Estates subdivision on the west of the proposed site and by Frederic K. Graef, developer of Sagamore Estates and owner of property on three sides of Popek's.

Trailer Court Gets Zoning Board OK

ORION TOWNSHIP — The zoning board has approved an amendment to the township zoning ordinance allowing trailer courts in the township.

Specifically involved in the amendment is a proposed trailer park on a 78-acre site at about 2285 Brown.

The amendment sets up restrictions and requirements for trailer parks by establishing a "Trailer Court District No. 3A," the first in the township.

Unanimous approval of the amendment followed Friday night's public hearing on the matter at which no objections were raised.

The amendment now goes to the Township Board with the zoning board's recommendation for passage.

SECOND HEARING

A second public hearing Friday ended with no action by the zoning board, which requested more information on proposed plans for a gas station, motel and restaurant.

The project is proposed for the northwest corner of Baldwin Avenue and I-75, and would need rezoning from residential to business classification.

While the 21¼ acres involved lie in both Orion and Pontiac townships, the buildings would be constructed on the Orion Township portion of the land.

Zoning board chairman Wallace C. Crane said that the layout details were insufficient to give members an idea of the placement of the buildings.

TO STUDY PLANS

Crane said the zoning board will meet with the township planning commission on Feb. 3 to consider more detailed plans.

Oakland Twp. Charity Has Meeting Tonight

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP—The annual meeting of the Oakland Township Community Chest is slated for 8 tonight at the Township Hall, 4393 Collins.

★ ★ ★

A report of the annual fund drive is on the agenda along with election of eight directors.

Tax Problem to Be Viewed by Troy's City Commission

TROY — The City Commission will tackle the complex problem of taxation again tonight, with the hope of resolving differences of opinion on how to increase money available for operation.

A resolution passed last week opened the door, but may be changed or rescinded tonight.

If left the way it was passed, the resolution would put a proposal on the April 5 ballot to eliminate the present 5-mill limitation on the amount of tax revenue the city can spend on operation.

This would not change the total tax levy of 10 mills, but would allow the commission to split revenue between operation and capital improvement as it sees fit.

At present, a 5-mill limit exists for each category, and although the city is not yet using all of the revenue available for capital improvement, it cannot use it for operation, where more money is badly needed.

But some commissioners say they want to reconsider their previous stands, since estimates of future capital improvement needs indicate that nearly all of the 5 mills allowed for it soon will be necessary anyway.

This would leave the same amount for operation that is available now, thus failing to improve the situation.

In addition to this, requests have come from the library board and the parks and recreation board for millage to support and expand their respective functions.

★ ★ ★

While several commissioners see the idea of increasing the over-all tax limit of 10 mills as a necessity in the near future, some of them feel that several proposals to do so on the April ballot might decrease the chance of passage for all proposals.

SEVERAL PROPOSALS

In order to accomplish an increase, voters would face several proposals all at once, they say, and might be reluctant to pass any of them.

Up for consideration tonight will be a resolution which would both rescind the action taken last week, since it puts a limit on over-all taxes, and would place an over-all increase proposal on the ballot.

Exchange Students Hold Worthless Airline Tickets

DETROIT (UPI) — About 125 exchange students from Colombia hold worthless return tickets to their South American country because an airline went bankrupt, a coordinator of the exchange program said today.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Carl Agosta, Detroit, said the students had been scheduled to return to Bogota, Colombia on a chartered plane of Aerovias Panama Airways (AVA) plane out of Miami next Friday.

But the airline was declared bankrupt Friday in a Miami court.

The woman said the students divided into small groups and were guests in homes at a number of cities around the country during a 10-week program. Seventeen of the students were visiting in Detroit. They were staying at the home of members of the Christian Family Movement, a Catholic lay organization.

★ ★ ★

Two of them were not affected by the airline going broke, however. They cashed in their tickets earlier because they wanted to do more traveling in America.

NO REFUNDS

Mrs. Agosta said she received word that APA was unable to refund any of the fare. The round-trip tickets cost $365, including flights to and from Miami within the U. S. Other airlines involved in the American legs of the trip refuse to honor the APA tickets.

Mrs. Agosta called State Rep. William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, who got in touch with Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., to see whether the federal government could help. Hart promised to get in touch with the State Department, Mrs. Agosta said.

"Meantime, the kids are just sitting tight," she said.

ROCHESTER — The Hix 'n' Chix Square Dance Club of Rochester will mark its second anniversary with a dance Saturday night at West Junior High School.

Cochairmen of the 8:30 p.m. event are Mrs. Earl Cischke and Mrs. Lee Truit.

The dance will be an open house for all intermediate dancers with Chuck Becker as caller.

Serving as officers of the club for the coming year are Ernie Formolo, president; Al Fantozzi, vice president; Mrs. Fantozzi, treasurer; Mrs. Hal Hunt, recording secretary; and Mrs. Bob Boncher, corresponding secretary.

AAUW to Hear Talk on Far East

ROCHESTER — A talk on the "Changes in the Orient" will be presented at the Wednesday meeting of the Rochester Branch of the American Association of University Women.

★ ★ ★

Speaker at the 8 p. m. session will be Miss Eunice Brake, who has been a teacher in both Japan and Thailand.

★ ★ ★

At present Miss Brake is assistant principal of River Rouge High School. She will illustrate her remarks with colored slides taken during her stay in the Orient.

The meeting will be held in the Avon Township Library.

Alcohol and Youth—1

Millions of Teens Drink, With or Without Approval

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

(Editor's note — This is the first of a series of five dispatches on teen-age drinking.)

"We live in a decadent age. Young people no longer respect their parents. They are rude and impatient. They inhabit taverns and have no self-control . . . "—Inscription on a 6,000-year-old Egyptian tomb.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Millions of teen-agers in the nation are experimenting with beer and liquor — on the sly or with parental approval.

Some have a corking good time. Many pay for the fun with only a hangover.

But the experimentation costs some youths life itself. Most often in traffic fatalities. The car went out of control. But first the driver went out of control, the alcoholic beverage way.

In California alone, in 1963, drinking juveniles were drivers in 112 fatal accidents.

★ ★ ★

The widespread incidence of teen-age drinking from coast-to-coast and its consistent yearly increase is documented by reports from United Press International bureaus. It is substantiated further in findings of family service agencies across the country.

ALL CLASSES

It occurs among the poor, the medium well-to-do and the rich. Percentagewise, there appears to be more youthful drinking in the latter category.

One of the most widely publicized incidents happened last June 23 in the New York suburban town of Darien, Conn. It is one of the wealthiest communities in the United States. Its most famous resident, living in seclusion, is Charles Lindbergh.

A car leaped off the road. Its wreckage yielded the body of Nancy Hitchings, 17. Her companion, Michael Smith, 19, has been convicted of negligent homicide.

★ ★ ★

The accident occurred two hours after the young couple left a gala lawn party at the home of a Darien psychiatrist where liquor had been served. It was a carbon copy of many such tragedies involving teen-agers—with one exception.

ISSUED WARRANTS

Judge Rodney Eielson, upon investigation, issued warrants for the arrest of 13 adults connected with the party. What they did that was against the law in Connecticut, according to the warrants: serve alcoholic beverages to minors who were not their own children.

Some of them pleaded no defense and paid fines. Others are appealing.

Judge Eielson believes all states should have a law prohibiting adults from serving liquor to minors — as in Connecticut.

★ ★ ★

Darien, of course, does not stand alone.

JOFS OF PARENTHOOD

"Apparently one of the joys of parenthood is getting your minor children drunk," reports the Family Service Association of Cleveland.

The agency said some residents of Cleveland's "inner city" give their children alcohol, but not out of a spirit of gaiety.

"They do it to satisfy their own warped desires — often to strike back at a spouse who disapproves of other misbehavior," said Myra F. Thomas, director of the agency's downtown office.

★ ★ ★

Teen-agers in Cleveland, as in other cities, are ingenious. In one problem area, they set up a bar in a basement of a building.

COOPERATIVE BASIS

It was operated on a cooperative basis. Those who brought liquor could drink free. Funds raised by the sale of liquor went to buy other things needed for the establishment.

The Family Service Agency of San Francisco notes that a boy, 12, secured whisky from his dad's liquor locker, took it to the front of the neighborhood church where he met some of his buddies. They drank the whisky there.

Drinking plays a large part in the spring vacation invasion of merry-making college students at Fort Lauderdale and Daytona Beach in Florida.

★ ★ ★

Beer is the catalyst as several thousand students pack into a couple of hundred yards of beach. Getting the beer never seems to be much of a problem, although 21 is the minimum age for purchasing it in Florida.

WRECKED HOUSE

In the Hastings, Neb., area several months ago, about 40 teen-age boys and girls threw a party in a vacant farmhouse. They wrecked the place — a la the famous coming-out and house-wrecking party involving offspring of high society types in Southampton, Long Island, last summer.

Capt. Kay Twohig, head of the girls' juvenile section, Seattle police, tells of a mother who wanted to have a cocktail party for her daughter at graduation from high school. Other mothers objected.

"I told her we couldn't stop her from serving a cocktail to her own daughter in her home, but we would have to prosecute if she served liquor to underage guests," Capt. Twohig said.

Capt. W. L. Richey, commander of the Los Angeles police department's Juvenile Division, said he believes drinking is a major factor in juvenile offenses.

MANY RAPES

"Many rape cases, many assaults, some riots result from drinking," he said.

From Dallas, Tex., Thelma Whalen, executive of Family Service, reports:

"Considerable drinking is done on most college campuses in spite of restrictions. These kids are looking for kicks. Most of them don't lack money, and being underage is no deterrent since the ability to doctor driving licenses and draft cards is almost a basic skill among them."

★ ★ ★

Last year, 101 teen-agers were picked up for intoxication in Pittsburgh, Pa. Most of those arrested had paid older men to buy liquor for them, reports Lt. Robert P. Henzler, head of the Pittsburgh youth squad.

Several studies have documented the extent to which teen-agers drink. One in New York indicated that about 86 per cent of the high school students use or had used alcoholic beverages.

Another study, in Wisconsin, concluded that roughly two-thirds of the high school students were sometime drinkers. And a study in Kansas noted that about 50 per cent of high school students drink.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Herman D. Goldberg, head of the psychology department at Hofstra University in Hempstead, Long Island, and an authority on teen-age drinking, reports that drinking increases for 13-, 14-, 15-, and 16-year-olds. But there is no great rise after 16.

Steam Fumes Kill 3 Small Brothers

DETROIT (AP) — Three young brothers died Saturday when steam escaping from a radiator near their beds asphyxiated them as they slept.

The victims were Gordon Smith, 4, and his brothers, Anthony, 2, and Stanford, 1.

Dr. Francis X. Krynicki, assistant Wayne County medical examiner, said steam escaped from the radiator through a small hole where a regulator normally is attached.

Hubert Is Set for Tucson Talk

Shriver Due to Open 3-Day Conference

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey planned today "to take the anti-poverty program to the people" in Tucson.

Humphrey came to Arizona to address the National Conference on Poverty in the southwest tonight.

"We ought to be here and not talking about it (poverty) on the banks of the Potomac," Humphrey said on his arrival in Tucson Sunday night.

The vice president said that if the Southwest conference proves successful it could lead to a series of other such meetings in other parts of the nation.

MORNING ADDRESS

Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, was to open the three-day conference with an address this morning.

The vice president said Sunday night that the problem of poverty is centered on minority groups, many of which are concentrated in the Southwest.

★ ★ ★

"It is important to take the program to the people," Humphrey said.

Some victims of poverty will testify at the conference which involves public and private agencies interested in combating poverty.

RESORT AREA

The vice president was to spend most of the day at a resort area about 25 miles south of Tucson.

Of President Johnson's illness, Humphrey said: "I'm doubtful about how long those doctors can keep him in the hospital." He said he understands Johnson is feeling better and expects the President will fly to London for the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill.

The vice president said Churchill "was a great friend of ours and a great friend of freedom."

Humphrey was under close vigil by security officers on his arrival and Secret Service agents were joined by Air Force police, Tucson police and deputies as the vice president stepped from the plane and talked to newsmen.

After expressing his sorrow at Sir Winston's death and his wish that the President give himself time to recover, Humphrey boarded a waiting car and was taken to the resort.

Lived Under Alias for 27 Years

Year's Freedom Harsh for Ex-Fugitive

(EDITOR'S NOTE — One year ago today, escaped convict George Hutchinson was pardoned after giving himself up after 27 years of illicit freedom. Here is the story of his first year of legal freedom.)

By JERRY CURRY

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — One year ago today, George Hutchinson became a free man after 27 years as a fugitive from an Illinois prison.

But freedom has not been kind to him.

★ ★ ★

He hasn't worked since last August, when he underwent an ulcer operation in which 80 per cent of his stomach was removed. His wife, Lucille, 37, was paralyzed by a stroke. The Hutchisons and their seven children are living on insurance and relief.

Yet Hutchinson, 51, who elected to give himself up rather than continue to live under an alias, says he is not discouraged.

GETS ALONG

"I get along," Hutchison told a newsman. "Lucille and the kids help. Lucille had to learn to drive the car."

After her husband's operation, Mrs. Hutchison vowed she would throw away her crutches in a month.

BEAT DEADLINE

"I walked three days before Labor Day," she said.

She married Hutchison when she thought he was Clyde Swanson —the name he adopted after he escaped from an Illinois prison farm in 1937.

★ ★ ★

He was serving a one-year-to-life sentence for the $12 robbery on a Chicago streetcar. "I decided it just wasn't worth it and I just walked off one day," he said. "As far as I know there was no immediate pursuit."

For 27 years he lived a model life. He fought in World War II with the 41st Infantry Division in the South Pacific, and won the Purple Heart and Combat Infantryman's Badge.

SOCIAL SECURITY

He got a Social Security card under the name of Swanson.

"I didn't know George's real name until a few days before he surrendered," said Mrs. Hutchison. "He was sitting up one night and I heard him cry a little. I had never heard him cry before. And then he told me."

★ ★ ★

A few days later, the Hutchisons left their children with relatives and went to the sheriff's office in St. Charles, Mo., near their home in Bridgeton, a St. Louis suburb.

When his story became known, the governor of Illinois pardoned Hutchison.

BRIGHT FUTURE

The future appeared bright. Hutchison was working in a plant in St. Louis.

Then came his wife's stroke, and Hutchison's illness.

★ ★ ★

"We've got to move soon," Hutchison said. "Our landlady has sold the property to a developer."

"I've been in and out of bed," he said. "They've cut a lot out of me. But my job's still waiting when I recover."

WRITING BOOK

He is writing a book about his years as a fugitive. Mrs. Hutchison learned to type so she could help. Friends from the Villa Brook Baptist Church have helped the family with gifts.

"It's been a bad year," said Mrs. Hutcison. "But we'll get along."

★ ★ ★

While Hutchison is out of bed — about four hours a day — he shows his children how to build a trailer to help the family move.

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound man sits on the front porch of his log home while the children play or cluster around a wood stove. Hutchinson looks over the snow-covered fields toward the bridge across the Missouri River.

★ ★ ★

The name Swanson no longer is on the mailbox.

Coast Guard Aids Vessel Near Cuba

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Coast Guard dispatched a cutter Sunday night to assist a fishing vessel which had developed engine trouble eight miles off the Cuban coast and was being aided by rescue planes under escort of American jet fighters.

★ ★ ★

The Coast Guard air station here said the 60-foot vessel, Darway, with three on board, will be towed to Key West by the cutter Ariadne.

★ ★ ★

Darway sent distress signals off Cuba's western tip, saying she was taking on water after having developed engine trouble. Rescue planes dropped a pump and were escorted by jet fighters from Key West Naval Air Station, the Coast Guard said.

Report $3,000 Theft at MSU Planetarium

EAST LANSING (AP)—Workings of the solar system, at least in Michigan State University' planetarium, have been stopped by the theft of more than $3,000 worth of electronic equipment. The theft was discovered Friday and planetarium showings were canceled Saturday and Sunday.

Recreation Helps the Mentally Retarded

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.

If you have ever played a game with a mentally retarded boy, you know some of the frustrations of dealing with youngsters in this group.

DR. NASON

But if you were frustrated, consider the boy. He was in a game in which situations changed too rapidly for him to adjust. People talked too fast. Before he could grasp a clear picture of what he had to do, the opportunity was gone.

If this boy is at a loss in a game, he is really in trouble in the schoolroom. He long since gave up trying to keep up with the conversations.

Life in the normal schoolroom to the retarded is quite like living in a foreign land. The language barrier is just as real.

Through the leadership of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation, a new surge of attention to the mentally retarded is taking place.

First, attention is being given to special recreation programs for these children. In such a program, the boy we mentioned would be having fun instead of feeling frustrated. The game is geared to his pace and ability.

Furthermore, experience in the recreation field may well lead to a better understanding of how the retarded can learn in the schoolroom as well as on the recreational field.

That recreation may be one of the keys to educational success is evinced by the dramatic results obtained by a British physical educator, Dr. D. N. Oliver. He instituted a physical education program for mentally retarded boys.

★ ★ ★

Not only did all of the retardees improve in athletic ability, physical fitness and strength but, in addition, they all improved in self-esteem, self confidence and in their ability to get along with others. In fact, 25 per cent of the retarded youngsters improved intellectually as measured by higher I. Q. scores.

A recreational game is a concrete situation where the words used must be followed with appropriate action. The rules are easily visualized in actual situations.

There is enough repetition, and all of the elements are continuously associated with each other and with the actions of the learner. A principle is established.

The same careful development must be used in all learning activities. More than the usual number of opportunities to relate words to actual objects and actions must be given.

★ ★ ★

There must be repetition and mastery of one set of words and ideas before the introduction of new ones. The pupil must have opportunity to draw pictures and to express his understanding.

Hand one of the second round of the U.S. trials for the World Championship appears to be completely flat. Every South player opened with two no-trump and played the hand at a no-trump game.

JACOBY

While South only has 20 high-card points he has no-trump shape, preparation for any lead and a strong five-card club suit.

Four West players opened the king of spades in hope of picking up a singleton queen in the North hand. Four others opened the spade jack and one West opened the four of hearts.

At all tables where a spade was opened, South proceeded to make four no-trump. He won the spade, entered dummy with the ace of hearts, took a club finesse, entered dummy with the king of diamonds, took a second club finesse and wound up with four clubs and two tricks in each other suit.

The heart lead held South to nine tricks because he was never able to make a second spade and the 20-point difference was worth one International Match Point.

The bidding in the box was standard at six tables. In each instance, North responded three clubs to check for a four-card or longer major suit holding and South's three diamond bid denied such a holding.

The three-club response was also made at the other three tables but in these cases South responded with three no-trump. These pairs used a slightly different convention in which a three-diamond rebid denies a four-card major and shows four or more diamonds while the three no-trump rebid shows four or more clubs.

Q—The bidding has been:

You, South, hold: ♠ K J 4 ♥ Q 10 6 5 ♦ K 6 ♣ Q 9 7 2

What do you do?

A—Just bid two clubs. You have shown at least nine high-card points by your redouble.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid two clubs. West bids two hearts. North and East pass. What do you do now?

BURIAL SITE — Sir Winston Churchill will be buried Saturday at St. Martin's Church on the Blenheim estate at Bladon, Oxfordshire.

College Takes Pride as Site of Speech

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — With dignity that seemed to say "we are proud that he stood among us," Westminster College paid tribute Sunday to Sir Winston Churchill in the same gymnasium where he delivered his Iron Curtain speech nearly 19 years ago.

The students, who were only babies at the time, talked in hushed voices before the memorial service, sharing in recapitulation the honor he conferred on the Presbyterian college in this town of 11,000. They and townsfolk filled the modest gymnasium.

★ ★ ★

"For 10 years now men have watched the ebb of vitality as age took its toll," said Dr. Robert L. D. Davidson, president of Westminster. "We have witnessed his personal heroism, dignity and courage, even when physical strength had deserted him."

With President Harry S. Truman sharing the platform, Churchill, on March 5, 1946, thundered the words that were to replace the title, "Sinews of Peace," that he had chosen for his speech:

THE IRON CURTAIN

"From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the Continent. Behind that line lie all the capitals of the ancient states of central and eastern Europe."

Churchill and his Conservative government had been voted out of office nine months before, robbed of the rewards that the World War II leadership should have bestowed. The invitation from the then Westminster president, Franc L. McCluer, gave Churchill a pulpit from which to voice his fears about the Soviet Union's desire of "the indefinite expansion of their power and doctrines."

He spoke of his hopes for the United Nations . . . for a special relationship between the United States and the British Commonwealth, and for a shield from what he called 'the two gaunt marauders — war and tyranny."

Last year Westminster began — with Churchill's approval — an unusual national monument to Churchill, an honorary American citizen. With publicly donated funds, the college will transport, stone by stone, the St. Mary Aldermanbury church from London to be used as a nondenominational chapel.

The site, now marked with three stones and a wooden cross from the church, is only a block from the gymnasium.

In his tribute, Dr. Davidson quoted Churchill's closing words from the speech that forever enobled this town:

"If we adhere faithfully to the Charter of the United Nations and walk forward in sedate and sober strength, seeking no one's land or treasure, seeking to lay no arbitrary control upon the thought of men the high roads of the future will be clear not only for us, but for all, not only for our time, but for the century to come."

Train Derails in Michigan

Several Hurt, None Die in Crack Express

GALIEN (AP) — The New York Central's crack Twilight Limited was derailed near this southwest Michigan community Sunday night, causing injuries to nine passengers.

None was seriously hurt.

State police and passengers among the more than 150 aboard said it was "lucky" that the casualties were no more severe or extensive.

Passengers were flung about in the cars. They told of dodging luggage tumbling from overhead racks.

Nine of the train's 11 cars left the track as the Limited, one of the middlewest's best known railroad trains, sped at 80 miles an hour through southwestern Michigan near the Indiana border.

All nine cars, which included the diner and club car, remained upright.

★ ★ ★

This was one of the "lucky" elements, said state trooper Fred Prysby, one of the first at the scene.

The cars derailed two miles west of here about 7 p.m., less than two hours out of Chicago.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

NYC spokesmen said the cause was not determined but that "some rigging or something" had fallen from the train and was "dragging along."

Admitted to Pawating Hospital at nearby Niles were Mrs. Andrew Shomberger, 40, of Allen Park; Michael Hayes, 65, of Chicago, and Mrs. Howard Newman, 49, of Kalamazoo.

★ ★ ★

The hospital said none of the three was seriously hurt. Mrs. Shomberger's husband was among those treated and released.

Herb Rice of Homer, a sailor coming home from reserve duty at Glenview Naval Air Station near Chicago, said he heard a "rumbling."

DUCKED DOWN

"I ducked down behind the seat to get out of the way of luggage coming forward," Rice said.

"After the train stopped," he said, "I saw a lady lying on the floor across the aisle from me. Her foot was tangled in the seat. I helped her and her husband get her foot out."

★ ★ ★

Three doctors aboard the train aided the injured. They were Dr. A. H. Keefer of Concord and Drs. William Joerin and W. E. McGarvey, both of Jackson.

State police and Berrien County sheriff's men rushed to the scene. Several ambulances also came.

Dixie Blasts Hit Autos, Building

By United Press International

Two explosions, coming about an hour apart, last night damaged a Negro funeral home and two automobiles parked near a church where Negroes were discussing the civil rights law at New Bern, N. C.

There were no injuries. Sheriff C. B. Berry said the funeral home explosion was caused by "one or two sticks" of dynamite. Other authorities said they had not been able to determine the nature of the explosion that damaged the automobiles.

The mortuary operated by Oscar Dove, a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and a member of New Bern's biracial committee, is located about a mile from the church.

The blast blew off a door and broke several windows in a rear room of the establishment.

The blast near the church damaged an automobile belonging to Charlotte Negro attorney Julius Chambers, who has served as legal counsel for the NAACP, and one owned by another Negro attending the civil rights discussions at St. Peter's A.M.E. Zion Church.

Both cars had to be towed away. Negroes said the Federal Bureau of Investigation would be asked to investigate the blasts, the first serious racial disturbance in North Carolina in more than a year.

ADVISERS ASSIST

Advisers assist approximately 15 teen-agers for each company from 15 to 19 years of age in operating their JA businesses.

The main purpose of JA is to instruct these young people how to safeguard and maintain the free enterprise system.

The men acting as advisers are representatives of local business concerns and are experts in the field of production, business and sales.

★ ★ ★

The teen-agers first decide upon the type of company they wish to operate, then sell stock (at 50 cents a share) and go through every step of operating a company including selling the product.

SPONSOR COMPANIES

Sponsors of the 16 local J A companies include Community National Bank, National Twist Drill, Chrysler Engineering, Pontiac Motor Divison, Ford Motor Michigan Bell, GMC Truck & Coach, Fisher Body Plant and Consumers Power Co.

James B. Middleton, 35 Liberty St., is coordinator of the Pontiac business center.

A teacher at Waterford Haviland Eelementary School, he is in charge of the area headquarters at 20½ E. Pike.

★ ★ ★

The headquarters will hold open house tonight through Thursday from 6:45 to 9 p.m. and the various products of the local J A companies will be on exhibit.

Local Gas Station Robbed by Bandits

Armed bandits robbed the Tulsa Service Station at 701 S. Saginaw Saturday night and fled with $16 in change.

Stanley Curtis, attendant, told police the two robbers came into the station about 8:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Curtis told the pair he had just the the day's receipts in the safe and the only cash he had was a box of small change.

The bandits took the change and fled.

Sato Views Japan-Red China Relations

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato told the Japanese Diet today Japan should deal with the problem of Communist China "prudently and from its own independent viewpoint, without making unnecessary haste to reach a conclusion."

In an administrative policy speech Sato said the China problem "is one of great importance with a variety of complications" for Japan.

★ ★ ★

The complications mainly stem from Japan's alliance with the United States and its diplomatic ties with Nationalist China. The government has been under constant pressure by opposition leftist parties to recognize Peking and support its membership in the United Nations.

"At the present stage," Sato said, "our country intends to promote economic and cultural interchange with Communist China and on the basic principle of separation of political matters and economic matters."

★ ★ ★

The prime minister said, Japan will maintain "the friendly relations with the republic of China with which Japan has regular diplomatic relations."

BANGKOK (AP) — Premier Thanom Kittikachorn, his wife and several Thai officials escaped injury Sunday night when their transport made a belly landing at Pitsanuloke, 250 miles north of here. Unofficial reports said the plane had landing gear trouble.

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — A passenger train loaded with vacationers collided with a freight train southwest of Guatemala City Sunday, killing at least 33 persons and injuring several others.

Reports from the scene near the town of Amatitlan said the brakes on the passenger train apparently failed.

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia's military junta says it will hold elections Sept. 26 for president, vice president and congress.

Political sources said Gen. Rene Barrientos, the head of the junta, would decide next week whether to run for the presidency.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Colombian government has agreed to repeal the new sales tax, and labor leaders have canceled a general strike scheduled for today.

After three days of almost continuous negotiations, the government agreed Saturday night to make other economic adjustments as well as repeal the tax.

Aussie Golfer First in 'Endurance' Open

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) —Bing Crosby's annual experiment in human endurance —his $84,500 gold tournament — is over and handsome Australian Bruce Crampton emerged the winner.

Today the golfers and their fans could discard their raincoats, greatcoats and all-weather gear after a weekend that must be known as the big blow —cold and rainy.

★ ★ ★

The skies turned bright Sunday afternoon, but not until they'd delivered a final brisk shower in the morning.

Next stop on the pro tour is the $55,000 Lucky International Open in San Francisco. "Crosby weather" may prevail there but it can't be worse than it was here.

Crampton, 29, who won the Australian open at age 20, is the first foreigner to win the Crosby.

THREE UNDER

He moved into the lead for the first time early in Sunday's round and finished with a three-under-par 69 and a three-under 284 for the 72 holes. It was worth $7,500.

Crampton whipped "The Monster," the Pebble Beach Golf course which is 6,320 yards of golfing chagrin and frustration with a par 36-36—72, in 32-37—69.

Tony Lema, the defending champion, finished with a 72 for 287. Jack Nicklaus, with a 71, and Bill Casper Jr. with a 72, tied at 288.

Lema won $4,000. Casper and Nicklaus each got $3,100.

Arnold Palmer shot an 80 for a 302 total.

National Open champion Ken Venturi and PGA ruler Bobby Nichols failed to survive the 54-hole cut.

SURPRISE LEADER

Newcomer Rockey Thompson of Wichita Falls, Tex., who was the surprise leader going into the final round, scored a 78 for 290, along with Ken Still, 70, and Jacky Cupit, 75. Each received $1,833.33.

Crampton credited Nicklaus with a big assist in his play. Jack volunteered to give Bruce a lesson Wednesday while they fired away on the practice tee.

★ ★ ★

"I want you to tell everyone," said Bruce later, "how much I appreciate that Jack took the time to help a nobody like me."

Nicklaus has a successful custom, it seems, of helping Australian golfers. He gave Bruce Devlin aid in the St. Petersburg, Fla. Open last March and Devlin won.

★ ★ ★

In the pro-amateur play, there was a tie between the teams of pros George Archer and amateur Nelson Cullenward, San Francisco sports writer, and George Bayer and Morgan Barofsky, Walnut Creek of Calif., with best ball scores of 260. The prose won $3,350 apiece.

Detroit Moves Closer to 3rd With 4-1 Win

Motor City Unit Uses 4 Lines to Bombard Toronto Netminder

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings parlayed four lines and a tight defense Sunday night to whip the Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 and climb a point behind the third place Leafs in the National Hockey League.

Parker MacDonald, Larry Jeffrey, Eddie Joyal and Gordie Howe scored the Detroit goals.

Toronto rookie Ron Ellis scored on a breakaway while killing a penalty to spoil Roger Crozier's bid for a second straight shutout.

★ ★ ★

The Wings made fifth defenseman Gary Bergman sit out the game in order to use four lines. The maneuver worked well, with three of the four units scoring as Detroit bombarded Leaf goalie Johnny Bower with 42 shots.

MacDonald and Jeffrey scored in the first five minutes. The Wings, playing one of their best games of the season, stayed on top the rest of the way.

★ ★ ★

Joyal made it 3-0 in the second period before Ellis scored with teammate Kent Douglas in the penalty box.

POWER PLAY

The Wings bounced back 26 seconds later with a power play goal by Howe.

The Detroit defense of Al Langlois, Doug Barkley, Bill Gadsby and Marcel Pronovost was outstanding. Langlois assisted on the first two goals.

MacDonald got the Wings off at 1:43 with his season's seventh goal, breaking in on the left side after a sharp pass from Barkley and firing a 20-footer.

Jeffrey, out much of the season with a knee injury, banged in a Paul Henderson rebound at 4:32 after Bower stopped the initial shot by Langlois.

Joyal's goal at 3:19 of the second period was disputed by the Leafs. The goal light didn't go on when he fired in Bruce MacGregor's passout—the puck hit the bottom frame of the net —but referee Vern Buffey ruled it a goal.

★ ★ ★

Ellis broke up the shutout with a hard slap shot from 20 feet for his 14th goal. Then, Howe deflected a point shot by Norm Ullman for Howe's 14th to wrap up the scoring.

★ ★ ★

Andy Bathgate returned to the Leaf lineup for the first time since breaking this thumb Dec. 20 but had only two shots on goal.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Boston blanked the league - leading Montreal Canadiens 3-0 while the second - place Chicago Black Hawks staggered New York 7-2.

Bowler Weber in All-Star Win

Ann Slattery Leads Women

Both Champs Rally in Final Games

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Weber of St. Louis and Ann Slattery of Salt Lake City spotted their opponents formidable leads in the opening game but battled back to win the championship matches at the $100,000 All-Star Bowling Tournament.

Weber won his third All-Star title Sunday by outscoring Jim St. John of Santa Clara, Calif., 608-586 in the three-game title match. St. John jumped off to a 34-pin lead when he outscored the champion 224-190 in the first game. But Weber came back with a 192-226 as St. John tapered off to 165 and 197 in the remaining games.

★ ★ ★

Weber, who pocketed $15,000, won the 1962 All-Star in Miami Beach and repeated the following year in Kansas City, Mo. He has the added satisfaction this year of being the first bowler in the tournament's 24-year history to win the qualifying trophy and the championship.

Mrs. Slattery won the $5,000 women's title by crushing pretty Sandy Hooper of Anaheim, Calif., 597-550, for three games.

Mrs. Hooper took a 26-pin lead when she shot 204 to Mrs. Slattery's 178 in the first game. Mrs. Slattery bounced back with 207 and 212, however, while Mrs. Hooper lost the range and shot 163 and 183.

ROUND ROBIN

Weber earned his berth in the title match by winning the American Division in the four-day, 56-game round robin series which ended Saturday night. He compiled a record of 37 wins and 19 losses and averaged more than 216. St. John won the National Division with a 32 won and 24 lost record and a 213 plus average.

W. Bloomfield Whips Foe; South Lyon Downs Cranes

West Bloomfield remained in contention for basketball honors in the Wayne-Oakland League with a victory Saturday night, but Bloomfield Hills' showdown with fast-rising Northville was postponed because of the weather.

The West Bloomfield squad pinned an 83-40 defeat on Clarenceville, and 10 of the Lakers entered the scoring column in the romp.

Bloomfield Hills, leading the league with a 6-1 mark, was scheduled to take on Northville (5-2). Weather intervened and the tilt will be rescheduled.

In other games, South Lyon downed Cranbrook, 75-67, North Farmington edged Southfield, 65-61, and Highland Park trimmed Walled Lake, 63-54.

The win for West Bloomfield raised the team's loop record to 5-3, putting the squad in fourth place. The Lakers could improve the position with a win over Hills this Friday on the Barons' court.

51 PER CENT

The Lakers hit on 28 of 55 attempts from the floor for 51 per cent while Clarenceville was connecting on only 25 per cent.

Tim Moller led the Lakers with 15 points, followed by Randy Hogan (12). Chris Hawkins topped the losers with 11.

South Lyon used a zone press in keeping Cranbrook offstride. The victory raised the Lions' record to 6-2.

Leading South Lyon's attack was Tom Duncan with 26 points. Tom VanHorn (23) and Jim Bailey (20) paced the Cranbrook (6-4) squad.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — In two weeks the Michigan basketball team returns to the friendly—though sometimes drafty — confines of Yost Field House.

But when it returns to meet Iowa on Feb. 8, the Wolverines probably will be right where they are now — leading the Big Ten.

★ ★ ★

Coach Dave Strack will send his charges into battle only two times before facing the Hawkeyes. The Wolverines play Michigan State at East Lansing Tuesday and journey to Purdue next Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The two teams have a combined conference record of 1-5 and are not expected to give Michigan any trouble as it continues toward its goal of an outright championship.

The Wolverines handled Purdue with ease last Saturday, racing to a 103-84 victory to keep their league record unblemished.

★ ★ ★

If anything, Michigan should get stronger in the weeks to come, especially with Oliver Darden regaining some of his confidence.

BACK SEAT

The league's top three scorers —Cazzie Russell and Bill Buntin of Michigan, and Purdue's Dave Schellhase took a back seat to the 6-foot-7 Darden as he turned in his best game as a collegian.

Darden scored nine of Michigan's first 15 points and finished with 27 to lead all scorers. He also topped both teams in bounds with 18 and batted at least a dozen Purdue shots back at the shooter or out of bounds.

Former Royals' Star on Road to Recovery

CINCINNATI (AP) — Today was a big day for Maurice Stokes, a cheerful and determined young man despite a seven-year illness.

His courageous fight for recovery inched a step forward when the former basketball star was moved across town to another hospital — where he hopes to learn to walk and feed himself again.

★ ★ ★

His recovery, however, is a long way off.

Big Mo, now 31, was on his way to becoming one of the great stars in the National Basketball Association when, in March, 1958, he was stricken with post-traumatic encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, which has left him paralyzed ever since.

He's determined to get well.

Stokes has spent the last 6½ years in Christ Hospital, most of the time either lying or sitting helplessly in a private room. Today he was moved to Good Samaritan to make use of the $300,000 physical rehabilitation program there.

GOOD PROGRESS

"He's looking forward to this very much," said Stokes' good friend, Jack Twyman of the Cincinnati Royals.

Twyman said Stokes, overall progress is good.

"Maurie is doing real fine," Twyman said. "He can talk much better — the most encouraging part of his rehabilitation.

"But he can't walk by himself yet although he can stand. He still cannot feed himself.

★ ★ ★

"He's got a tremendous attitude," Twyman added. "He's always maintained a competitive spirit and optimism. He's not depressed at all.

"But there's no way of telling at all when he might leave the hospital for good."

Pontiac Pair Holds Lead in Tourney

LANSING (AP) — The Pontiac entry of Betty Smiley and Margaret Carter took both the actual and handicap leads in the doubles event of the Michigan State Women's Bowling Tournament on the tourney's third weekend.

The pair scored 1281 in the handicap, eight pins higher than the winning total last year. Their 1140 actual was good for the lead in that department.

★ ★ ★

Several other changes occurred among the leaders in the tourney that runs weekends to Memorial Day.

Lea Carroll of Carson City took fourth in handicap singles with 672 and Vivian Curran of Muskegon fifth with 669. Wahneta Brummell of Wyoming, singles leader with 701, took second in all-events with 1896. Marge Pyll of Ubly took third with 1865 and Virginia Stanfield of Flint fifth with 1854.

Nationals Suffer Loss

GRAND RAPIDS — Pontiac's basketball pride took a bad beating this past weekend and capping the backslide was the Nationals' 135-102 drubbing in Grand Rapids.

The Pontiac entry in the North American Basketball League will have an intriguing possibility to recoup some of its lost prestige when it entertains the league-leading Benton Harbor Twin City Sailors Saturday at Pontiac Northern.

This will be the Nationals last chance to show their talents before most of the home fans and friends. Their previous tilt at home resulted in a 109-106 victory over Chicago.

The Nationals are aware that a repreat of Saturday's losing efforts against the Tackers will not impress those who they want to impress the most. The return of player-coach Bob Bolton should add to the direction from the bench.

Grand Rapids, the second place NABL team, pushed its log to 7-4 by breaking away from the visiting Pontiac pros in the last 12 minutes of play.

The Nationals stayed close through three periods although not shooting up to par. But Grand Rapids superior organization on the court, deeper bench and hotter shooting finally led to a near-record 49-point fourth quarter.

It was a mark for the Tackers and fell one short of the NABL record set by Benton Harbor.

SECOND BEST

Newcomer Dave Gunther hit 15 points on seven of 12 field goal attempts and pulled down eight rebounds — second best on the Nationals — in his debut.

The 6-5 Royal Oak Kimball coach had four-of-four in the first half as Pontiac led 49-47 at intermission.

Preceding the Benton Harbor-Pontiac tilt there will be a Catholic Youth Organization preliminary game between St. Fred's and St. Mike's junior high school teams.

The North Farmington gymnastic team will give an exhibition at halftime. Already, Walter Beach of the Cleveland Browns, Tom Tracy of the Washington Redskins, Dan Larose of the Pittsburgh Steelers have agreed to attend.

BEST-IN-SHOW — Looking slightly bored by all the attention, Gerd Christopher of Skycroft puts on his best show pose after taking top honors and The Pontiac Press Trophy in yesterday's Pontiac Kennel Club Show. Handling the big St. Bernard is Eugene W. Haupt (left) of Hudson, Ohio. Don Vogel, outdoor editor of The Press looks on after awarding the trophy.

St. Bernard 'Plows' to Bench Show Win

Most people picture a St. Bernard as a large dog carrying a small keg under its chin plowing through Alpine snows to rescue lost mountaineers and skiers.

Ch. Gerd Christopher of Skycroft moved his 190 pounds through Southeastern Michigan's rain, sleet and snow (in the back of his owners' station wagon) to win best-in-show honors yesterday at the winter Pontiac Kennel Club show.

★ ★ ★

Eugene W. Haupt, Hudson, Ohio, handled the champion over a field of less than the 657 entries in the show division. The foul weather kept several entered dogs away from the Pontiac Retail Store.

Shirlie C. Cox and Ann F. Humphries, Seville, Ohio, received The Pontiac Press Best-in-Show Trophy as owners of the winning St. Bernard.

One of Christopher's victims in the finals was Ch. Jo-Del's Nicholas, a long haired dachshund owned by Dr. William F. Koss of Indianapolis, winner of the Progressive Show in Detroit Saturday.

One county dog reached the finals.

Ch. Salilyn's Santa Claus, an English springer spaniel owned by Dianne W. Ziessow of Franklin, took the sporting group.

Mandarin's Kentucky Colonel, a Pekingese owned by Mrs. Ralph O'Daniel, Owensboro, Ky. and a former PKC winner, took the toy group.

There were several area breed winners. They were:

Devanvale Marigold, a Yorkshire terrier, owned by Lynn Devan-Devanvale, Birmingham George and R. R. Brower's Ch. Waggin' Tails' Much-O Gusto, a Dalmation from Birmingham; Jagersbro Mill Dietrichstein, a German shorthaired pointer, owned by Eric Bergishagen Jr., Birmingham.

The top obedience dog was a Belgian Turvaren, Chatte Brun Du Val De Tonnerre, owned by Karen Droz and Dorothy Hollister of Farmington, with a 199½ in Open B.

A golden retriever, Gayhaven Bit O Honey, owned by James Reynolds of Lake Orion, won Novice B with a 194½. Pony Boy of Siroi, a Shetland Sheepdog owned by Beverly Schell, 1991 Swaranne, was third.

Hills, Kettering Ski Champions

Barons Capture First Individually, Again

The Waterford Kettering girls team and Bloomfield Hills Dick Woods were surprise winners Saturday in the annual Interscholastic Ski Meet at Mt. Holly.

Hills' male skiers easily captured first place as a team, outdistancing Walled Lake and Pontiac Central; but the Barons' favored girls team could manage only third place.

Wood, a senior, finally escaped from the shadow of teammate Geoff Smith to win the boys' individual title. PCH's Dick Gorman prevented a sweep of the top three places by Hills. He took third place between the Barons' Smith and Mike Kraatz.

Cheryl Smith, Hills, repeated as the girls individual leader, trailed by Kettering's Stephanie McKenna and Jean Trevephan.

Others placing for the winning teams were Pam Myer of Kettering and the Barons' Greg Lau. West Bloomfield placed second in the girls competition.

The Lakers were led by fourth placer Laura Carter while Walled Lake's boys' squad was paced by Scott Galbreth and Mark Karell, who finished fifth and sixth, respectively.

Ice Squads Break Even

By The Associated Press

Michigan college hockey teams collected a sort of full house in weekend action with a win, a tie and a loss.

Michigan got the victory, scoring three goals in the final period to whip Colorado College 4-1. The win gave the Wolverines a third-place tie in Western Collegiate Hockey Association standings. Michigan is 4-4 in the league and CC is 1-5.

★ ★ ★

Denver and Michigan Tech fought through three periods and a 10-minute overtime to a 3-3 deadlock in WCHA play. The Pioneers held a 3-2 lead with five minutes left to play, but Tech captain Al Holm scored a power play goal at the 14:56 mark to tie the game and send it into overtime. Denver is 1-4-1 in the league and Tech stands at 4-3-1.

★ ★ ★

Minnesota, trailing by three goals, pulled its goalie and smashed in four goals in about three minutes to beat Michigan State 6-5 in another WCHA contest. MSU led 5-2 with three minutes and 53 seconds to go when Larry Stordahl drove one in to open Minnesota's last-minute victory surge.

Michigan State 5, Titans Lose

By The Associated Press

Winter froze out a chunk of the weekend college basketball calendar, but 20 games were played despite the foul weather conditions, two of them Big Ten contests.

★ ★ ★

In the Big Ten battles, Michigan continued its winning way with a 103-84 rout of Purdue. But hard-luck Michigan State was edged out by Northwestern 76-75.

Two free throws with four seconds left gave Villanova a 72-70 victory over Detroit.

Bill Melchionni made the shots, scoring a career high of 35 points, 20 in the first half, to lead the Wildcats to victory. Villanova now is 11-3 and Detroit is 9-6.

SOONERS SAG

In another close one, Gene Summers hit from the field with 13 seconds left to give Northern Michigan a 75-74 victory over the Oklahoma Sooners.

Summers hit twice in the final two minutes of the game and totaled 32 points to take scoring honors.

Don Carlos collected 39 points in leading Otterbein to a nonleague, 89-63 victory over Lawrence Tech. Carlos hit on 17 of 24 field goal attempts and made all of his free throws. Bobby Lester led Lawrence with 17.

★ ★ ★

Wayne State, paced by Fred Wolcott's 21 points, dumped the University of Chicago 61-51. The lead changed hands five times in the late minutes before Wayne finally took command.

Two free throws by Don Dronemeyer and another by Chris Buys in the last 15 seconds gave Hope a 73-70 victory over Concordia which had held a 36-34 halftime lead.

TECH SWAMPED

Moorehead State swamped Michigan Tech 85-50 in an NIAA conference game. It was Tech's 11th straight loss of the season. Moorehead held Tech to four field goals in the first half and pulled away to a 43-22 halftime lead.

Fenn rolled to an easy 97-59 victory over Detroit Tech as Weldon Kytle and Bob Borckardt scored 17 points each. John Wrobel and Neil Jones also got 17 each for Detroit Tech which has a 1-13 record.

★ ★ ★

Jerry Pettway dropped in 39 points to lead Northwood Institute to a 101-80 victory over St. Francis of Indiana.

Spring Arbor won the consolation game of the Malone Invitational Basketball Tournament with an 89-86 victory over Eastern Baptist of Philadelphia.

Most Changes Small

Mart Moves Generally Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved generally higher early this afternoon despite softness in some groups. Trading was moderately active.

Gains and losses of leading issues were from fractions to a point or so, with most changes small.

★ ★ ★

The trend was up for autos, steels, chemicals, building materials, rails and electronics.

erospace issues were weak as President Johnson's budget message focused further attention on plans to whittle about $1 billion from the defense budget.

Airlines were lower with some issues weak on special news. The trend was lower also among farm implements and mail order-retails.

Trading was halted for two minutes on the New York Stock Exchange in tribute to the memory of Winston Churchill.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .6 at 334.5, with industrials up 1.0, rails up .4 and utilities off .1.

National Airlines was down about a point and Eastern Air Lines well over a point on news that Northeast Airlines had rejected a $15 million offer from the two carriers to give up its lucrative Florida run where the three carriers compete. Pan American was off nearly a point.

★ ★ ★

Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Gains of a point or so were made by Syntex, Fotochrome and Supermarket Operations. Fractional gainers included Mohawk Airlines, Mackey Airlines, Consolidated Oil & Gas and Brazilian Traction. Down more than a point each were Allied Paper and Rollins Broadcasting.

★ ★ ★

Corporate and U.S. Government bonds were mixed in relatively light trading.

Master of Verbal Kick in the Pants

Many Have Felt the Lash of Sir Winston's Tongue

LONDON (UPI)—Incautious members of Parliament have felt the lash of Sir Winston Churchill's wit for more than half a century in his finest form, the House of Commons.

His gift for precisely placing a resounding verbal kick has sent a generation of challengers cringing back to their benches.

★ ★ ★

"Mr. Chamberlain," Churchill said of Joseph Chamberlain, "loves the working man. He loves to see him work."

Where was the red meat Churchill's Tories had promised in preelection oratory, demanded Socialist Gordon Walker in 1952.

★ ★ ★

"We all look forward to the moment when we shall be able to ram red meat down the throats of honorable members opposite," Churchill replied.

When a newcomer to the House rose in such wrath that he fumbled his angry question to Churchill, the old man said sympathetically, "My right honorable friend should not develop more indignation than he can contain."

Sir William Joynson-Hicks paused in midspeech when he saw Churchill shaking his head.

★ ★ ★

"I see my right honorable friend shaking his head," he snapped. "I wish to remind him that I am only expressing my own opinion."

"An I wish to remind the speaker that I am only shaking my own head," Churchill said.

Churchill publicly viewed the late Aneurin Bevan "a squalid nuisance" but couldn't help liking the articulate Welshman's mastery of oratory which led him in 1943 to compare the cautious approach of the Allied command in Italy with "an old man approaching a young bride—fascinated, sluggish, apprehensive."

★ ★ ★

But Bevan, who called Churchill "an 18th century extrovert," winced in 1952 when Churchill explained why Britain recognized Communist China.

"If you recognize anyone it does not mean that you like him," Churchill said. "We all, for instance, recognize the right honorable gentleman . . . (Bevan)."

Churchill is accused of calling Clement Attlee "a sheep in sheep's clothing."

★ ★ ★

He is known to have referred to socialism as a form of government that will vanish "unwept, unhonored, unsung and unhung."

Referring to Ramsay MacDonald he said the one-time prime minister had "the gift of compressing the largest number of words into the smallest amount of thought."

The story went about after Churchill's first meeting with Viscount Montgomery, then engaged in coastal defense work. "I don't use either alcohol or tobacco," said Montgomery, "and I'm 100 per cent efficient."

★ ★ ★

"I use both," replied Winston grinning, "and my efficiency is 200 per cent."

When he lectured in the United States in 1932 Churchill was warned by Scotland Yard that he faced the danger of assassination in certain cities.

When his agent, Louis Alber, came to see him about the warning Churchill asked him to get a bottle of champagne.

"All right," said Alber, "but I'll have to put off making plans against these plots if I go for it."

"First things first," said Churchill, "get the champagne."

In the 1922 parliamentary campaign, Churchill had an attack of appendicitis and did not reach his constituency until two days before the election.

He commented on his defeat: "I find myself without an office, without a seat, without a party—and without an appendix."

Churchill surprised his own party in Commons once by referring to Socialist Herbert Morrison as "the natural leader of the House."

Socialist suspicions of this apparent tribute were confirmed when they consulted the Oxford dictionary. It says "natural" can mean "illegitimate" and so on.

At the 1951 festival of Britain, Churchill visited the Dome of Discovery and was taken up an elevator to a telescope which he was told would show him outer space.

★ ★ ★

"Take me down," he said. "I am more interested in what is happening on the earth."

One of the late Harry Hopkins favorite stories was of President Roosevelt wheeling into Churchill's bedroom one morning during World War II when he was a guest at the White House and finding a pink, naked Churchill emerging from his bath.

★ ★ ★

"The prime minister of Great Britain has nothing to hide from the president of the United States," Churchill is reported to have exclaimed as Roosevelt turned to go, apologizing.

Even at the most precarious moment Churchill's good humor did not desert him.

While making his famous "We will fight on the beaches" speech in Commons after the fall of Dunkirk, he covered the microphone with his hand and added: "We will hit them over the head with beer bottles which is all we have to fight with."

Churchill never made any bones about his drinking and he once said: "I have taken more out of alcohol than alcohol has taken out of me."

SCHOOL GOES UNDERGROUND — Students of the new Lake Worth Junior High School, near Fort Worth, Tex., soon will move into a new school building, built underground. It contains 18 classrooms, library, offices, first aid room, book room, storage, cafeteria and kitchen. School Superintendent Grady W. Vaughn is shown in the main hall of the school.

People in the News

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Donald B. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, says the Legion "stands ready to take on the advocates of communism or any ism other than Americanism."

Johnson, of West Branch, Iowa, spoke yesterday at the Ohio Legion's winter conference at Columbus.

"It becomes increasingly evident," he said, "that the Communist party U.S.A. hash shifted major emphasis to its youth movement."

As an example, he cited what he called "the sad spectacle" of student rioting last year at the University of California. The riots grew out of the university's on-campus speaking policy.

Russian Conductor's Illness Is Over

David Oistrakh, famed Russian violinist who was ill of heart trouble last year, returned to the conductor's stand in Moscow yesterday.

Tass news agency said of the performance that Oistrakh, who took up conducting two years ago, "convinced everybody that he has regained his usual brilliant form."

Walt Disney Says Fairs Are 'Out'

"Fair today are passe. People have too many other things to do," says Walt Disney, whose touch contributed to the success of four exhibits at the New York's World's Fair.

Promoters have proposed a world's fair in the Los Angeles area in 1968-69.

Money to build a fair can best be used for more worthwhile purposes, Disney told the Los Angeles Times.

"This area already is a world's fair," said Disney, whose Disneyland in Anaheim near Los Angeles is one of the nation's most popular tourist attractions. "We've already got things that are attracting people."

Chiang Kai-shek's Son Sworn In

President Chiang Kai-shek's elder son, Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo, was sworn in today at Taipei as Nationalist China's new defense minister.

Young Chiang, 55, succeeded Ya Ta-wei, under whom he had served as deputy minister.

Italian Producer Becomes French Citizen

Italian Movie Producer Carlo Ponti has become a French citizen, it was officially confirmed today in Paris.

Ponti's name was included in a naturalization decree which appeared in the official government journal (Journal Officiel).

It was reported earlier this month that French authorities had granted Ponti citizenship after he had satisfied a five-year residence requirement in France.

French citizenship for Ponti may ease a dilemma created by his 1957 marriage to Italian film star Sophia Loren. He was married by proxy to Miss Loren in Mexico, but the marriage was never officially recognized as valid in Italy.

It's Official! Dillon to Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon today confirmed reports that he will leave the Cabinet in the next few months.

In remarks at a budget briefing for newsmen — made public along with the budget today — Dillon said in answer to a question that he would not be around when President Johnson's excise tax proposals are presented to Congress.

Dillon indicated that presentation of the tax recommendation is not expected for several months. He said no time has been set for his resignation.

His successor is expected to be Donald C. Cook, president of American Electric Power Co. and former chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Five Killed in State on Weekend

By The Associated Press

At least five persons lost their lives on Michigan highways during the weekend — marked by snow and ice storms throughout the state.

The Associated Press weekend traffic fatality count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

★ ★ ★

The victims include:

Alger Antes, 42, of Battle Creek, killed Saturday night when struck by a car on the icy I-94 overpass south of Bridgeman as he was putting out flares because of his disabled truck.

TRAIN FATALITY

Robert Knapp, 17, of Flint, killed Saturday in a collision between a car and a Grand Trunk Western passenger train in Flint. Knapp was a passenger in the car.

Demetria McGee, 23, of Detriot, killed Saturday in a two-car collision on U.S. 12 five miles south of Ann Arbor. Miss McGee was a passenger in one of the cars.

Honduras Cedars Donated to Hospital

MIAMI (AP) — Miami's new Cedars of Lebanon hospital will have visitors' foyers paneled in cedars of Honduras. An anonymous donor ordered 1,000 board feet of cedar from Belize, British Honduras, to decorate the third and fourth floor waiting rooms.

Jordan River Dispute Deepens

Middle East May Be on Edge of War

By HAL MCCLURE

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — The Middle East may be closer to war than at any time since the 1956 Sinai campaign.

Armed clashes along the heavily fortified frontiers of Israel and its Arab neighbors have been increasing since the Israelis put into partial operation their multimillion-dollar project designed to bring Jordan River water from the Sea of Galilee to the Negev Desert.

An AP News Analysis

Arab claims of dispatching "el-Asifah" storm troops of former Palestinians into Israel on sabotage missions have added to the gravity of the situation.

The Arab states, which have vowed to drive Israel into the sea, announced earlier this month at a conference in Cairo they were continuing with plans to divert the headwaters of the Jordan before the river reaches Israeli territory.

Israel hopes to halt Arab water diversion plans by making plain it will strike back rather than just filing routine protests.

Israeli officials believe Lebanon, Israel's northern neighbor, holds the vital key to the future of the region since it has been assigned an important role in Arab plans to divert Jordan headwaters.

★ ★ ★

Lebanon has been warned about participating in the scheme, official Israeli sources say.

Friday Lebanon's Parliament approved participating in the Arab plans. A pumping station will be built on the Wazzani River, a Jordan tributary inside Lebanon territory two miles from the Israeli border.

TROOPS ALLOWED

The Lebanese government was authorized to permit the entry of Arab soldiers if needed to help defend the country from Israeli attack.

Israel has warned that it will fight to prevent the diversion schemes.

★ ★ ★

Privately Israeli officials are worried over the latest Arab moves. Publicly they appear optimistic.

Prime Minister Levi Eshkol told a foreign correspondents' luncheon recently that a military showdown depended on how the Arabs tried to implement the diversion plans. Asked if he thought they would try, he replied: "I believe they will not."

ATTACK DOUBTED

Israelis also believe there will be no concerted Arab military drive until President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic withdraws his soldiers from Yemen.

Nasser has committed soldiers, tanks and planes to shoring up the republican regime in Yemen, which is opposed by royalist followers of deposed Imam Mohammed Al Badr.

Blizzard Isolates 500 in California

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —A blizzard and high winds stranded nearly 500 Palm Springs aerial tramway passengers on 8,500-foot Mt. San Jacinto for more than five hours Sunday.

★ ★ ★

One mighty gust swept an empty shuttle bus from a parking lot at the 2,600-foot level, toppling the bus into a ravine.

★ ★ ★

The blizzard struck suddenly at 3 p.m., shutting down the tramway. It began operating again at 8:30 p.m., and the last passengers reached the bottom by 10:30.

Profit figures in U.S. industry in the U.S. rose 20 per cent to pass 32 billion dollars for the first time.

Cut Your Own Taxes—13

'Income Averaging' Is Break for Fluctuating Earners

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

You are in for a pleasant surprise when making out your income tax return if during 1964 your total income was considerably more than it had averaged during the four previous years.

This windfall income for 1964 could have come from a big promotion with a substantial salary increase, perhaps a sizable incentive bonus, steady work with much overtime after several lean years or even a clean-up made on a quiz show.

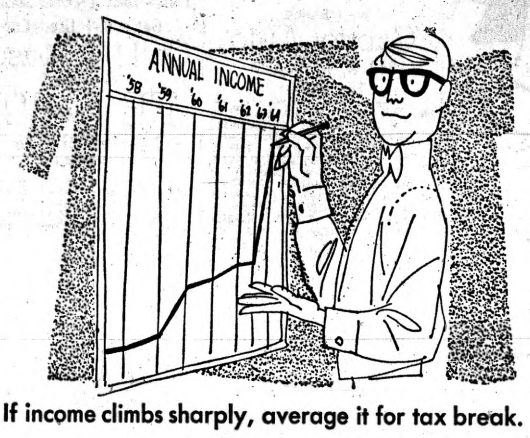
It's all due to a new feature in the Revenue Act of 1964 called "income averaging."

The big purpose of income averaging is to give a tax break to those persons with wide fluctuations in income, usually athletes, prize fighters, authors, actors and actresses.

But the principle is not limited to these groups and the tax-saving feature may be used profitably by any taxpayer to whom certain basic rules, which we will explain, apply.

★ ★ ★

You are now permitted to average all types of income except capital gains, gambling profits, income from gifts and bequests and premature distribution received by owner-employers under a pension plan.



If income climbs sharply, average it for tax break.

SAVINGS APPARENT

With the tax rate increasing several points with each ascending bracket, the savings resulting from holding income down into a low bracket are readily apparent.

The rule is effective whenever taxable income for 1964 is at least $3,000 more than 4-3 of the average taxable income for the four previous years.

This excess is termed averagable income. The tax on it is the tax on 1-5 of the averagable income multiplied by five.

To illustrate the workings of the new rule let's take a hypothetical case:

Tom Jones, a married man whose wife had no income of her own in 1964, has had an average taxable income of $9,000 for the four previous years. Last year, because of a new job on a commission basis, he had a taxable income of $32,000.

As we go through his income averaging procedure you will see how this one rule change has saved him $2,580. Here is how he determined his tax under the new formula:

★ ★ ★

Taxable Income for 1964	$32,000
4/3 Base Period Income ($9,000)	12,000
Averagable income	$20,000
The tax on 1/5 of the averagable income ($4,000) is found this way:
Tax on $16,000 (4/3 of $9,000 plus 1/5 of $20,000)	$3,500
Less tax on $12,000 (4/3 of $9,000)	2,420
Tax on 1/5 of Averagable Income	$1,080
To find the total tax:
Tax on $12,000 (4/3 of $9,000)	$2,420
Tax on averagable income ($5 X $1,080)	5,400
Total tax	$7,820

A year ago with higher tax rates and no income averaging procedure the same taxpayer would have paid $10,400 on his $32,000 taxable income.

Note that reference has been made throughout this discussion to taxable income and not to gross income for the year.

Taxable income is that amount remaining from total income after all deductions, credits for dependents and personal exemptions have been claimed.

The importance of having available your taxable income figures for the four previous years is readily apparent.

PHOTOSTATIC COPIES

If you do not have copies of the returns for those years you may obtain photostatic copies from the revenue director in the district in which you filed. He will charge you 50 cents for each page copied.

Because the taxable income figure changed from Page 1 to Page 2 of the returns during some of those years, to be on the safe side order copies of both pages for each of the four years.

Should you need those copies, don't wait until the last moment. our revenue director and his staff will be busy at that time handling the rush of newly filed returns.

Prefers Recess to Showdown

Thant Awaits Replies to New U.N. Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General U Thant reportedly favors a two-month recess of the U.N. General Assembly if necessary to avoid a Soviet-American showdown over the Russians' vote in the assembly.

Diplomatic sources said that Thant would seek a recess to gain time for further negotiations if he failed to settle the dispute now. He is awaiting replies from two big powers to the latest proposal for a settlement.

A showdown can come whenever the assembly finishes its eight-week-old general policy debate, stops its voting moratorium and starts voting to elect a steering committee and adopt an agenda. The general debate should end Tuesday.

The dispute concerns the U.N. Charter penalty of loss of vote for two years' nonpayment of dues. The nub of it is whether the Russians should pay roughly $21.7 million before they are cleared of the penalty, or whether the penalty will be waived before they say how much they will pay.

NEW PROPOSAL

Informed diplomats said the newest proposal would allow the Russians to vote after vaguely promising a "substantial contribution." At the same time it would safeguard the Americans' right to call for the penalty if the subsequent Soviet contribution fell short.

Article 19 of the U.N. Charter says any member two years behind in its total assessments "shall have no vote in the assembly."

★ ★ ★

The Soviet Union and 12 other countries are that far behind for refusing to pay peace-keeping assessments voted by the assembly. They contend the Congo and Middle East operations should have been financed by Security Council action.

The United States has insisted that Article 19 be enforced but it has agreed that the delinquents can satisfy the article by making voluntary contributions toward U.N. solvency rather than paying the disputed assessments as such.

Son May Get Mom's Kidney

Mother Might Travel to U. S. From Nigeria

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A mother in Nigeria may be flown here to aid her stricken 26-year-old son with a kidney transplant.

Doctors at the University of Michigan Medical Center said Sunday this may be the only way to help Abraham Adedire, Michigan State University graduate chemist and father of two children.

★ ★ ★

The mother, Mrs. Asabi Adedire, 7,000 miles away on a cocoa farm in western Nigeria, would be brought here to give a kidney to her son in a transplant operation.

★ ★ ★

First, however, tests must be completed on Mrs. Adedire to determine if this will be possible. A decision lies in an uncertain future.

TRUST FUND

The Detroit Free Press announced a contribution to a trust fund for Adedire sufficient to pay for the mother's round-trip flight from Ife, Nigeria.

The Free Press intervened with the State Department in Washington for assurance that Mrs. Adedire's trip to America would get clearance by this government.

★ ★ ★

At the hospital here Adedire expressed confidence his mother would come to his aid.

"She is my mother and she loves her son," he said. "She will come."

DISCOVERED IN '59

Adedire's condition was discovered in 1959. Doctors say his illness, described as an "irreversible kidney disease," could be fatal.

He and his mother have the same blood type and this faciliates matters, it was said.

★ ★ ★

Last year the hospital here performed a successful kidney transplant between 16-year-old twin sisters. A mother - son transplant has never been attempted here.

Adedire's wife Margaret, works here as a clerk. The two daughters, Ronke, 3, and Tayo, 2, live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Orvis of Marion, Mich., north of the Ann Arbor area.

Doesn't Desire to Act

Glenn Ford's Son a Singer

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD — Peter Ford, 19, son of Glenn Ford and Eleanor Powell, doesn't want to act or dance. He just wants to sing.

THOMAS

He's a rangy young man, standing 6-feet-3 when he doesn't slouch, which he is inclined to do. He weighs 200 pounds and is athletic; but he's accident-prone. Put him on a playing field and he's likely to come off with cuts, sprains or bruises. A wrenched knee in a basketball game ended his competitive career.

★ ★ ★

He has the handsomeness of his parents — the most notable resemblance is his father's eyes. Indeed, he has the physical equipment, the name and the opportunity to carve himself an acting career.

But he doesn't want it.

ACTING EXPERIENCE

"I've done a bit of acting in five of my father's pictures, usually playing an elevator operator or something like that," said Pete. "I have a ball doing it, and the money is great. But I don't really have any drive to be an actor, and I don't think you can make the grade without it."

Too true. The one element that impels all successful actors is a vital determination to succeed. Lack of it is the factor that prevents most second-generation actors from duplicating their parents' fame.

★ ★ ★

Young Pete is hopeful of a career in a different field. He is recording songs for Capitol. If they score with the younger set, Pete might be the start of a new clean-cut American trend in the record field, dominated now by shaggy Britishers.

Pete is no tyro in music. He was enjoying a brisk career with a local combo in nightclubs until the vice squad stepped in. That's right — the vice squad.

STRANGE CROWD

"I never told the owners of the nightclubs how old I was," he explained. "Everything was fine until the vice squad officers dropped in. I had to admit that I was 19, and they wouldn't let me work in clubs any more. I'm not too sorry about it, really.

"I don't want to knock the people I worked with, but I didn't find nightclubs very good places to be around. They attract a strange class of people; they must never work — how else could they stay out until 2 every morning? I found I was beginning to swear and my whole attitude was depressed."

★ ★ ★

If Pete seems more mature than most 19-year-olds, it's because he faced responsibility early. His parents separated when he was 13, and he became the man of the house. He took his duties seriously. It was he who persuaded his mother to return to dancing after a long lapse.

"I live at home with mother, but I see dad all the time," he remarked. "I love them both. And they have remained good friends, too."

EARNED MONEY

Pete has earned his own spending money in jobs that ranged from plucking chickens to pumping gas. He has observed his parents' wishes in continuing his education; he's a sophomore at Santa Monica City College. Most of all, he wants to write. But if his singing career takes off —

Savings Gnawed Away

LAGARES DA BEIRA, Portugal (UPI) — Jose Madeira never had much faith in banks. He kept his life savings — 8,000 escudos ($300) in banknotes — in a bag at his home. Yesterday, he needed some money. But when he looked into the bag, he learned with horror that rats had chewed up all the bills.

In Collier - Seminole State Park, 17 miles east of Naples, Florida, on U.S. 41, is a memorial to the men who built the Tamiami Trail in the 1920s. It is one of the dredges used to dig fill for the highway's base.

Doctor and Family Die in Home Blaze

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A young physician, his wife and three children died yesterday when a fire touched off by an electric heater swept through their home here.

Firemen said the heater ignited draperies in the den of the three-bedroom brick home of Dr. James Thomas, 34, a neurologist.

Allapparently died of suffocation, they said. The other victims were Mrs. Mary Ann Thomas, 34; two sons, James Jr., 8, and David, 6; and a daughter, Marion, 16 months.

Old Soldier Receives Medal 47 Years Late

PORTSMOUTH, England (UPI) —Old soldier Bill McDonald, 72, has just received a medal he won 47 years ago. The medal for meritorious service in France during World War I arrived in the mail at his home yesterday.

McDonald said the reason for the delay was a clerical error.

Bandits Rob D. C. Socialite

$265,300 in Gems Taken From House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gwen Cafritz, a rival to Perle Mesta as the capital's leading party giver, had unexpected house guests yesterday — four bandits who threatened, bound and gagged her and stole gems worth $265,300.

She was grabbed by the bandits in a bedroom of her 58-room mansion in northwest Washington after returning from a dinner dance at the German Embassy. They put a knife to her throat and forced her to open a safe.

"Another word out of you and I'll kill you," said one of the men.

The prize piece among the diamonds, pearls and emeralds taken was a necklace of 46 diamonds weighing 80 carats and valued at $100,000 by Mrs. Cafritz, the 54-year-old widow of Washington financier and real estate dealer Morris Cafritz.

★ ★ ★

She was not injured. But it took her at least an hour to free herself from the chaise lounge to which she had been tied with clothesline by the four robbers.

DISCOVERED BY MAID

The prominent socialite was discovered by a maid about 2:45 a.m. She was attacked about 12:30 a.m., as she changed into a dressing gown after removing the jewelry she had worn at the evening affair.

Police said 26 pieces of jewelry were taken. They said the men entered from a second-floor balcony French window after taping the glass so it could be broken through with little noise.

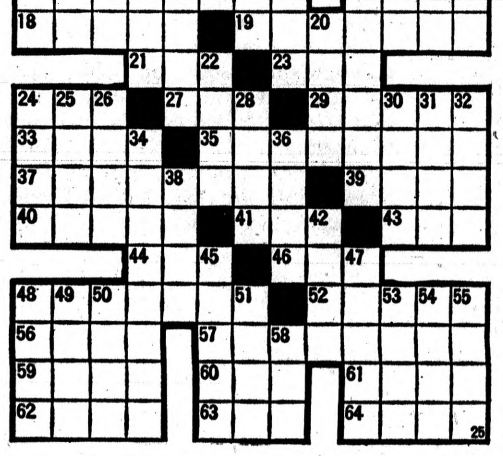
MARK TWAIN



Wilson Calls Inaugural Greatest 'Mob Scene' Yet

By EARL WILSON

WASHINGTON — You people who are going to Washington in the next few days might recalls the words of wisdom of a battered and beat-up visitor:

WILSON

"I feel like a sparrow that accidentally few into a badminton game."

The bedraggled-looking woman who spoke that sentiment at the Inaugural put the words right into my typewriter. It seems that the new flock of Democrats have a lot of push—especially at big receptions. They and their big Security guys push you right out on the floor and walk over you. It's sad but true that this capital city can't handle crowds.

The chaos around LBJ from now on will be like fifteen Beatles riots combined.

Thank God for those lighter moments, when Edie Adams' Silver Wraith Rolls Royce with the all-white body and black fenders foiled up and captured some attention at the Sheraton-Park governors' reception.

LBJ and Ladybird attended for an hour, while weary Secret Servicemen pushed, shoved and perspired, clearing a path so that the President and Ladybird could shake hands with the states' anxious, admiring leaders.

★ ★ ★

"I saw him, I saw him!" women squealed.

Those like Arlene Dahl, who shook hands with him, were also pretty ecstatic.

★ ★ ★

Edie Adams, with her own Rolls and own hairdresser—Mr. Robert, flown in from Hollywood on Gov. Pat Brown's special plane—was also rather noticeable. It wasn't surprising that a man who has a definite future in the party, Gov. John Connally of Texas, talked to Edie when she visited the Texas booth.

Marty Mills, Edie's husband, bashfully said to Mrs. Connally, "I'm Edie's husband."

"Yes, I know," Mrs. Connally nodded understandingly, with a shrug, "I'm John's wife."

Mary Kaye Trio Breaks Up After 20-Year Run

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "It's sad, but that's the way it's got to be," said Norman Kaye as the Mary Kaye Trio gave its last performance after 20 successful years.

"Mary is a great singer. For 20 years, being tied to a trio has been a frustration for her. She has to try it on her own.

"My real estate and insurance business is booming so that show business now is only a hobby for me.

"And Frank (Ross), a great comedian, has to try it on his own, too," said Kaye Saturday.

FEW TEARS

Mary Kaye, her brother Norman and comic Ross each shed a few tears Saturday as they wound up their final performance in the lounge of the Tropicana Hotel just before dawn.

Chou Is Urging U. N. Changes

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China says the world needs a "revolutionary" United Nations because the United Nations has "utterly disappointed" the new Asian and African nations.

Chou spoke Sunday in Peking in honor of Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio and an Indonesian delegation visiting Peking.

★ ★ ★

"A revolutionary United Nations may well be set up so that rival dramas may be staged in competition with that body which calls itself the United Nations but which, being under the manipulation of U.S. imperialism, is capable only of making mischief and can do nothing good," the premier said.

The speech was reported by Peking radio.

U.S. DRAMAS

"How can it be that only the United States is allowed to stage its own dramas, while we are not?" Chou asked.

"In a word, U.S. imperialism must be given a free hand to do whatever it pleases through the United Nations."

★ ★ ★

At U.N. headquarters in New York, some Asian diplomats said Chou's speech indicates Communist China has given up hope of securing admission to the world organization.

There was no indication that the premier's denunciation had cost the Chinese Communists any support in the coming debate over seating them in place of the Nationalist Chinese. But there was speculation that some backers of the Communist regime might change their minds if the attacks continue.

INDONESIA PRAISED

Chou also praised Indonesia's withdrawal from the United Nations.

★ ★ ★

In a speech today, Lo Juiching, Communist China's chief of the general staff, said that if Indonesia should be attacked, the 650 million Chinese people assuredly will not stand by idly with folded arms."

★ ★ ★

The pledge, reported by the official New China News Agency, was made at a luncheon for the Indonesian delegation.

Noted Composer Dies

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Mark Silver, Pulitzer Prize winning composer of Jewish liturgical music, died Saturday. He was 72. Silver won the Pulitzer Traveling Prize in 1917 for his general excellence. He was a composer of chamber music, symphonies and Biblical cantatas. He was a native of Russia.

'There Can Never Be Anyone to Take Sir Winston's Place'

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Iain Macleod, 51, one of the younger leaders of the Conservative party, tells what Sir Winston Churchill meant to him and to Britain. Macleod, one-time chairman of the Conservative party, served Churchill as minister of health.)

By IAIN MACLEOD

LONDON (AP) — Winston Churchill is dead. In the words there is nothing for tears, for the noblest of Englishmen has died full of years. Yet the words are solemn and final. In the true sense of the word the news is awful: full of awe.

We have lived in the age of Churchill; there will never be another. There can never be anyone to take his place. The trumpets sound and are stilled.

My mind is flooded with memories of this immortal man.

He became in wartime the living symbol of Britain. The cigar, the siren suit, the harsh mispronunciations ("Narrzi") we loved so much, above all the thrusting defiance of his two fingers as he gave the V sign. V for Victory — of course.

ROUGHER MEANING

What else could there be, he to lead and we to follow? And if the people of Britain chose to read a rougher and more aggressive meaning into his message, so be it. Churchill meant that, too.

No one ever has or ever will identify himself so completely with the spirit of the British people as did Winston Churchill in 1940. Our finest hour was his.

"We," so he flattered us long after the war, "were the lion. I only provided the roar." He did much more than that. Blood and tears, toil and sweat were all he offered in the strangest and noblest appeal in our history.

It was said of his speeches that they were worth an army corps. One more army corps would not have saved us. Winston did. The winning of the war came later, and no one man, no one nation, could achieve it. But first the war had to be salvaged, and he led us with relish and even with confidence into battle.

EXTRA EFFORT

He was able to summon from us that extra effort that achieved the miracle. Because of him, because of his speeches, because of what he demanded from us we were just a little more resolute, just a little tougher. And it was enough — just.

Churchill was one of the great romantics. Cavalier and sea-dog: historian and statesman; soldier and journalist; even a painter and a scholar in his fashion, Churchill was them all.

★ ★ ★

Tears came as naturally to him as did courage. In this, as in so many things, he was a true Elizabethan, a knight of the spacious days of Elizabeth I who had somehow strayed into the reign of Elizabeth II.

I remember one evening in the late 1940s, before I became an M.P., staying with my wife for the weekend with Christopher and Mary Soames. We went up to Chartwell to dine and see a film.

FILM STORY

The story of the film was set in Vienna. Boy meets girl. They part. Many years later when next they meet she, as an opera singer, is the toast of Vienna, and he the rising star of the Austrian cavalry. He does not recognize her, and the story ends in a mist of Strauss waltzes.

It would be hard to imagine a more predictable plot. Yet it cast a shadow over the next hour as Churchill, in his evening siren suit, lower lip jutting out, kept muttering, "I cannot understand how he could have forgotten her."

When an ordinary man dies his virtues are extolled and his faults brushed aside. When one writes of Winston Churchill, who became an immortal and a legend in his lifetime, the temptation to write only good of the dead is very strong. But it would be false history, and there was nothing Churchill detested more than that. He, like Cromwell, must be shown "warts and all."

★ ★ ★

He had an incredibly fertile mind which sprayed ideas like a fountain. It is easy to understand how solid but lesser men like Baldwin and Chamberlain often found him an uncomfortable colleague.

NEVER CONTENT

He was never content, as so many ministers are, simply to deal with his "in" tray. He was never even content simply to run his own department, and he poured out minutes full of original suggestions for running everyone esle's.

Few people are generous enough to accept with good will critical comments from a colleague. Besides, he had so many ideas that some of them were bound to be absurd, some were unsound, some would be worth trying, and a few were lit by the flash of genius, the true Winston touch.

★ ★ ★

No doubt it was bad politics to stand so staunchly in the abdication crisis for the young king and against Baldwin and the Establishment.

No doubt it was bad politics and false judgment which led him to his disastrous "Gestapo" broadcast against the Socialists at the beginning of the 1945 general election campaign.

WARTIME TEAM

No doubt it was bad politics to imagine in 1951 that as a peacetime prime minister he could recreate his wartime team — Alexander and Ismay, Leathers and Cherwell. All of them were outstanding in the war administration; all of them failed to make the adjustment to peacetime government.

His faults were the faults of a man of tumult and of ardor. Harold Macmillan, always one of Sir Winston's most faithful followers and admirers, paid him exactly the right tribute as he ended his short speech during the House of Commons valediction to Sir Winston in July 1964 as he came to the last days of his membership of the House of Commons.

"If I were to try to sum up his true character, I can think of no words more appropriate than those which he has himself written on the flyleaf of each volume of his history of the Second World War.

LIFE'S STORY

" 'In war: resolution.
In defeat: defiance.
In victory: magnanimity.
In Peace: good will.'

"The author called these words the 'moral of his work.' In fact, sir, they are the story his life."

Britons Weep Without Shame as England Mourns Churchill

LONDON (UPI) — Most Britons had resigned themselves to the fact that Sir Winston Churchill was dying. But many wept without shame in the streets of London when the end finally came.

Last night, Picadilly Circus, London's Times Square, was blacked out, the neon advertising signs turned off as a tribute to the great warrior.

The statue of Churchill in the small village of Woodford Green was all but buried in flowers laid around it by townsfolk and children.

Many bouquets carried anonymous cards reading: "To the memory of the greatest Englishman of all time."

★ ★ ★

As dawn broke yesterday, flags throughout England were lowered to half staff. The Union Jack dipped mournfully on Fleet Street, center of British newspaperdom, over the buildings where so much of Sir Winston's life had been chronicled.

SAD, QUIET

The city was quiet, wet and sad.

A small group had kept a prayerful vigil on the narrow street leading to the Hyde Park Gate mansion where Sir Winston lay on his deathbed.

"We came here to pay tribute," said a middle-aged Hungarian who recalled secretly listening to Churchill's broadcast speeches during War War II.

★ ★ ★

Robert Wilson, a bearded New Zealand sailor who was among the first to go to Hyde Park Gate when Sir Winston was stricken, cried softly.

"God rest Sir Winston," he said.

WALKS IN CROWD

A Frenchwoman, Evelyn Vandenhaute, 56, wandered through the crowd. She was in Paris during the war.

"Something is gone that was so great," she sobbed. "He represented England in all its strength and all its beauty."

But as the day wore on, the normal pace of Sunday life returned to London.

★ ★ ★

A youth queueing up for a movie in London's west end said: "He's had a good run."

MAN PRAYS

At No. 10 Downing Street, the prime minister's residence which Churchill occupied for two stints as Britain's leader, a man knelt and prayed.

★ ★ ★

The lights will be back on in Picadilly Circus tonight. But to many Londoners they will never again shine quite so bright.

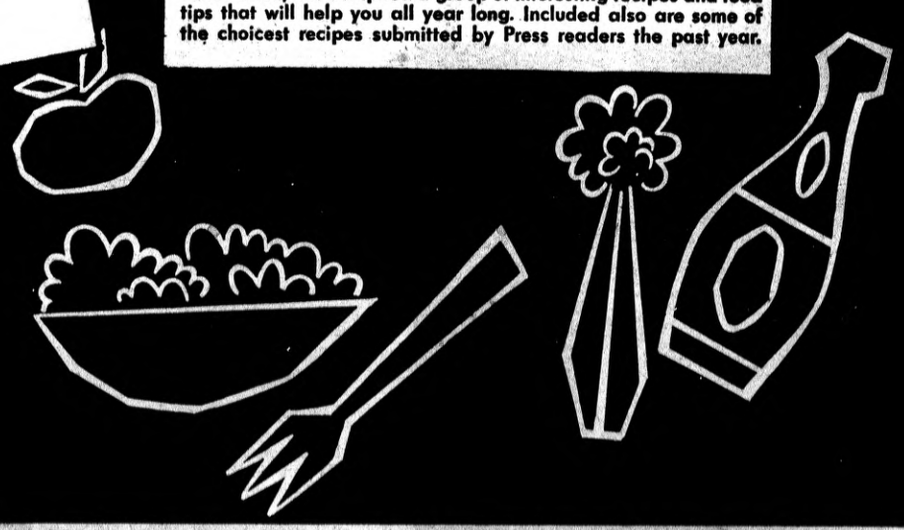
Here is your 1965 Pontiac Press select recipe book. Food editor, Janet Odell, has compiled a group of interesting recipes and food tips that will help you all year long. Included also are some of the choicest recipes submitted by Press readers the past year.



Exciting New Meals and How To Prepare Them!

Hot Salad Has Cereal on Edge

This hot chicken salad with lacy border of bran flakes could well be called a casserole. It rates the salad classification largely by virtue of its harmonious blend of ingredients.

★ ★ ★

Chunks of cooked chicken are tossed with celery, pecans, and sweet-tart pineapple bits, then bound with salad dressing.

★ ★ ★

Bran flakes move from the breakfast table to luncheon, in this instance, in order to give the rich, hot salad mixture an extra fillip of crispness and flavor.

While taste and texture are so important in this recipe, it is reassuring to know that breakfast cereals, when used as an ingredient, not only speed preparations but make nutritional contributions of protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy.

By whatever name the salad-casserole is offered, it is an excellent main dish with which to highlight a winter luncheon party.

Hot Baked Chicken Salad

- 2 cups diced cooked chicken
- 2 cups sliced celery
- ½ cup coarsely chopped pecans
- 1 can (13½ ounce) pineapple tidbits, drained
- 1 cup salad dressing
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped, optional
- 1 cup bran flakes

Combine ingredients except bran flakes; mix carefully. Pour into greased 1½ quart shallow casserole. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) until partially heated, 15 minutes. Remove from oven.

Sprinkle bran flakes around edge of casserole and return to oven 5 to 10 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

INSIDE, LOOKING OUT — Snapped as they peered into the refrigerator were three home economists who are demonstrating at this week's cooking school. From the left are Donna Puncochar, the "Susan Lowe" who will be on stage two days; and Barbara D. Zimmerman and Harriet T. Cannon of Consumers Power Company who will conduct the two night sessions. The latter's recipes in this cookbook are headed, "It's Kitchen Tested."

Margarine Crust Proves Success

One of our readers experimented with corn oil margarine in a pastry recipe. She shared her recipe with Press readers.

Margarine Piecrust

By Mrs. Leslie Tripp

- 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons pastry flour
- ½ cup chilled margarine
- 2 tablespoons cold water

★ ★ ★

Cut margarine into flour until mixture is well blended. Add cold water and mix gently. Roll out at once or chill until pie crust is needed. Makes one crust.

Cheese for Appetizers

When planning dinner menus for company, many hostesses begin by deciding what appetizers are to be served. This first course, usually served away from the table, is just as important to the total success of the meal as are any of the other parts.

Appetizers can be plain or fancy, served hot or cold, but they should never destroy the appetite for the meal ahead. Any and all types of cheese make good appetizers.

Some types of cheese are best when served sliced with assorted crackers. Other cheeses can be combined with different ingredients and easily converted to simple, but tasty, dips and spreads.

If you are the type of hostess who prefers to have everything ready before guests arrive, then Tuna Cream Cheese Dip is the appetizer for you.

On the other hand, if you don't mind spending a few minutes away from your guests, Parmesan Cheese Fingers are well worth the necessary last-minute preparation.

Tuna Cream Cheese Dip

- 1 8-oz. package cream cheese, room temperature
- 1 cup dairy sour cream (½ pint)
- 1 6½-oz. can solid-pack tuna, flaked
- 2 tablespoons chopped green onion
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt

Cream cheese until smooth. Blend in sour cream. Add tuna, onion and salt; stir. Refrigerate until ready to use. Makes 2½ cups dip.

Parmesan Cheese Fingers

- ½ cup butter (1 stick)
- 1 clove garlic, sliced
- 10 slices white bread
- 1 cup shredded Parmesan cheese

Melt butter; add garlic and let stand 5 minutes. Remove garlic. Trim crusts from bread and cut each bread slice into 4 strips.

Brush bread on both sides with butter. Roll in Parmesan cheese. Place on baking sheet. Sprinkle any remaining cheese over bread strips.

Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 40 fingers.

Miniature Fruit Cakes Are Popular

Mrs. William Newman probably doesn't have any idea how popular her fruit cake recipe was. For weeks after it first appeared in the Pontiac Press, readers called in requesting it.

★ ★ ★

It's reprinted here so that all can have it for next year and all the years to come.

LITTLE WHITE FRUIT CAKES

By Mrs. William Newman

- 1 cup vegetable shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 5 eggs
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ cup pineapple juice
- 2 cups diced candied fruit mix
- ½ cup dates, chopped
- 1 cup chopped candied cherries
- 1¼ cup chopped candied pineapple
- 1 cup golden raisins
- 2 cups flake coconut
- 2 cups broken walnut meats or sliced blanched almonds

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each.

Sift 1½ cups of the flour with salt and baking powder. Add alternately with pineapple juice to creamed mixture.

Dust fruit with rest of flour and fold into batter until well blended.

Pour into paper baking cups set in muffin tins. Bake 50 minutes at 275 degrees. Makes 32 2-inch cakes.

Good to eat right away or will store well for several months.

Candied Ginger Cut Into Fruit

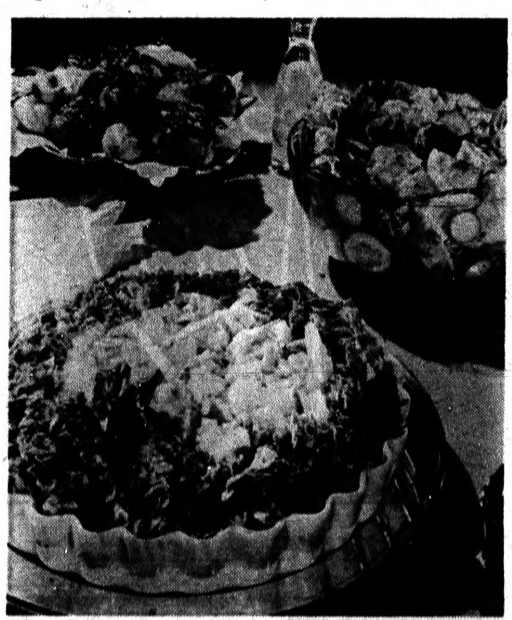
Try an easy-to-fix but interesting fruit compote for dessert.

Mandarin Compote

- 2 large grapefruit
- 1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) pineapple chunks
- 2 tablespoons thin strips syrup-preserved or candied ginger

Cut away peel from grapefruit so no white membrane remains; cut away sections from dividing membranes. Mix grapefruit sections (without juice) with pineapple chunks and their syrup; chill.

Just before serving, sprinkle with ginger. If candied ginger is used, wash away sugar coating in hot water so it will be easy to cut into thin strips. Makes 6 servings.



BAKED SALAD — Hot chicken salad is given a crispy border of bran flakes to increase the good flavor and texture of this elegant party dish.

CHEESE APPETIZERS — Cheese as part of a dip or as a coating on slim bread fingers — it's always welcome. When you can plan a leisurely dinner time for the family or guests, treat them to a first course in the living room. Serve cheese fingers.

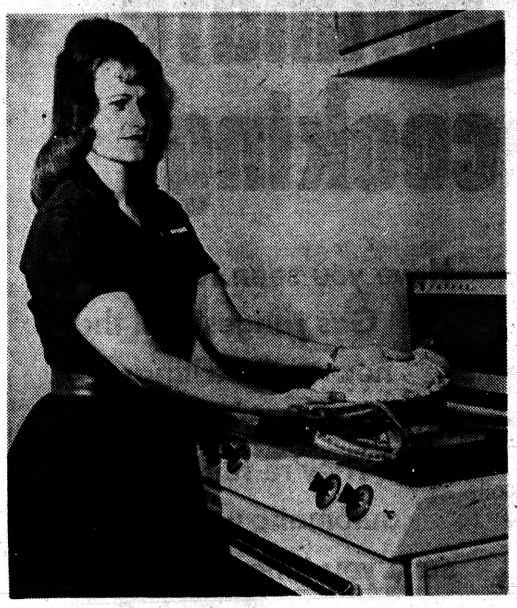
Bakes Pies in Prize Range



Pontiac Press Photo

Mrs. William Townsend who won the Tappan gas range at the 1963 Pontiac Press cooking school likes to make pies for her family.

This young homemaker from Waterford Township shares her recipe for Butterscotch Pie.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

By Mrs. William Townsend

1½ cups light brown sugar
1½ cups milk
3 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix flour with sugar and salt. Add beaten egg yolks and a little of the milk. Add rest of milk.

Cook until thick, stirring constantly, or in a double boiler.

Pour into baked pie shell. Make a meringue with egg whites and 6 tablespoons sugar. Brown 15 minutes in 350 degrees oven.

Pork Is Added to Hot Cornbread

For an unusual breakfast idea, serve sausage corn bread made by adding ¼ cup of leftover pork sausage meat, cooked and drained to your favorite corn bread mix along with the milk and egg. Top batter with 2 slices of crisp cooked bacon, crumbled.

Bake in a preheated 425-degree ovem (about 20 minutes.) Serve with eggs. Makes 6 servings.

Filling Contains Sour Cream

This is a nice dessert to serve for a winter party.

Sour Cream Date Pie

1 cup dairy sour cream (½ pint)
1 egg, beaten
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 cup finely chopped pitted dates
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ teaspoon salt
Pastry for one 9-inch unbaked pie shell

Combine filling ingredients and mix well. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Cover with lattice top and flute edges.

Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees, 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to slow oven, 325 degrees, and bake until filling is set and crust lightly browned, about 30 minutes.

Serve with unsweetened whipped cream. Makes one 9-inch pie.

When baking powder dough is to be used for apple dumplings, it's a good idea to add extra shortening to the dough.

Rhubarb Pie Is Made With Sour Cream

If Michigan hothouse rhubarb isn't in the stores yet, it soon will be. Then you can use it to make a pie from Mrs. Joseph Brandenburg's recipe.

This was first printed during the regular rhubarb season last year.

SOUR CREAM PIE

By Mrs. J. Brandenburg

3 cups diced raw rhubarb
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1½ cups thick sour cream
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell

Put rhubarb in shell. Beat together eggs, sugar, cream, cinnamon and cornstarch. Pour over rhubarb. Bake one hour at 350 degrees.

Serve plain or garnished with whipped cream.

Thaw Meat in Wrapper

The most common methods used in thawing meat are in the refrigerator, at room temperature or during the cooking process, as in roasting, for example.

* * *

The important thing to remember is to thaw or defrost the meat in its original wrapping unless the cut is to be cooked from the frozen state. Defrosting in the wrapping results in more even thawing or defrosting.

* * *

Frozen roasts will require 1-3 to ½ again as long for cooking as thawed roasts. Be certain to allow for the extra time in your plans.

INDIVIDUAL SCALLOP CASSEROLES—Easily prepared and quite delicious are scallops baked in a rich sauce skillfully seasoned with instant minced onion and other good things.

Quick Scallop Casserole Tasty With Instant Onion

Since the days of primitive man, who ate what he caught as soon as he caught it, there has been great variation in mealtimes. Breakfast, lunch, tea and dinner hours — and menus—can vary greatly around the world, or from century to century in the same country. Think of lunch, for instance.

★ ★ ★

"Luncheon" in 14th Century England was called "nuncheon" and meant a noonday snack "as much food as one's hand can hold." In Jane Austen's time it meant "a rough and hasty meal consumed by an impatient horseman while his mount is being rubbed down by the ostler at an inn."

★ ★ ★

For the most part we still feel this way about the noonday meal. The main dish is usually a lighter concoction than a dinner main dish and designed for quick preparation and eating. But, it still should taste as good.

The following seafood luncheon ideas from the American Spice Trade Association show how good flavor can be developed quickly and easily. For example, note the use of instant minced onion.

Onion is fully as important as salt and pepper as a seasoner of main dishes. There are hundreds of varieties of onions, but those grown for dehydrating — for the spice shelf — must be of the liveliest aroma as well as high in solids.

One tablespoon of instant minced onion gives about the same flavor as a medium onion. To rehydrate this newest dehydrated onion product, mix equal amounts of onion and water and let stand three to five minutes, or until water has been absorbed.

Individual Scallop Casseroles

2 lbs. scallops
1 large egg yolk, beaten
½ cup light cream
¼ cup white table wine
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
⅛ teaspoon ground white pepper
⅛ teaspoon ground ginger
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

If scallops are large, cut into quarters. Arrange in 6 individual buttered coquille shells or baking dishes.

Combine egg yolk, light cream, wine, lemon juice, instant minced onion, white pepper, ginger and salt. Pour an equal amount over each scallop portion.

Combine bread crumbs, butter or margarine and cheese. Sprinkle over scallops. Bake in preheated hot oven (450 degrees) for 10 to 12 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

Crab bisque is no chore when you make it this way.

Crab Bisque

1 can condensed cream of asparagus soup
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1½ cups milk
1 cup light cream
1 6½-ounce can (1 cup) crab meat, flaked

Combine soups, milk and cream. Stir in flaked crab meat. Place on temperature controlled burner set at 175 degrees or place over low flame for 20 minutes. Just before serving time, sprinkle with minced chives. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

Croutons for Salad Browned in Oil

To make crusty brown full-flavored croutons for tossed green salad, heat cubes of bread in garlic-flavored salad oil until toasted.

MEXICAN STUFFED ARTICHOKES — Set a festive table with elegant fresh artichokes. Simple in preparation and serving, their exquisite nut-like flavor provides excellent contrast and variety in this flavorsome Mexican-style dish.

Stuff Them

Artichokes Are Interesting

The next time you want to surprise your family and delight your friends with an unusual meal of gourmet caliber, set a table with fresh artichokes prepared in an unusual way.

They are so elegant in appearance and deliciously delicate in taste that they will inspire unbounded praise.

Now, especially, is the best time to enjoy their distinctive nut-like flavor, when they have been "winter kissed" by frost and their leaves are slightly darker.

Enjoy their heightened flavor in a Mexican style dish, stuffed and seasoned with warm spices.

Served as a main course in this way, they are worthy of the most discriminating palate.

HOW TO COOK

To make four servings of Mexican Stuffed Artichokes, wash four artichokes. Turn them upside down and press firmly. Remove chokes (thistle portion) using sharp knife and metal spoon.

Stand them upright in deep saucepan large enough to hold snugly. Add 1-inch boiling water and ¼ teaspoon salt for each artichoke.

Cover and boil gently 20 to 45 minutes or until stems can be pierced easily with a fork. (Add a little more boiling water if needed.)

Turn artichokes upside down to drain. Cut off stems.

Mexican Stuffed Artichokes

Prepare 4 artichokes as directed above
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 can (3 ounces) chopped mushrooms, drained
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup chicken stock or bouillon
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup diced cooked chicken
1 cup cooked whole kernel corn

While artichokes are cooking, melt butter. Add onion and mushrooms and cook over low heat 5 minutes. Stir in flour.

Gradually add stock and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add chicken and corn; mix well.

Spoon some of chicken mixture into each artichoke. Bake in 350 degree (moderate) oven 20 minutes.

Cheese in Salad

Ever add a little grated Parmesan cheese to an olive oil and vinegar dressing for tossed green salad? That addition of cheese is many a good salad cook's special secret!

It's Kitchen-Tested

Top of the stove cooking makes this bread recipe unusual.

Dilly Corn Bread

1 package corn bread mix (14 ounce)
1 egg
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon dill weed
½ teaspoon poppy seeds

Prepare corn bread mix, adding egg and milk, according to directions on package. Mix in dill weed and poppy seeds. Place batter in a well greased 8-inch skillet which has a close fitting cover.

Cook on thermostatic burner set at 300 degrees for 30 minutes. Turn off heat, remove cover, loosen edges with knife or metal spatula and invert on a plate. Serve in wedges.

Beets for Color in Any Meal

How inviting a dinner plate becomes when it is brightened with colorful red beets. Choose this vegetable both for the appealing flavor and the cheery color. Here are three delicious ways to serve canned beets...

Beet And Potato Salad

Fry 2 slices of bacon until crisp. Remove from pan and cook a small chopped onion in the fat. Add a pound can or jar of German style potato salad, a pound can or jar of well drained sliced beets and the crumbled bacon.

Season to taste with hot pepper sauce and vinegar. Serve warm. Six generous servings

Baked Beets In Orange Shells

Cut 3 large oranges in half and juice them. Fill shells with drained diced or sliced canned beets. Add 2 tablespoons each, sugar and melted butter to the orange juice; pour over beets.

Put in baking dish with ½ inch water in the bottom. Bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. Six servings.

Beets And Celery

Cook thin celery crescents in melted butter until tender. Add ¼ cup liquid from a pound can or jar of sliced, or small whole, beets. Season to taste with salt, dry mustard and paprika. Three to four servings.

WONDERLAND SNOWMAN — Shape 10 pounds of Iceman's crushed or "snow" Ice into a snowman. Decorate face with red glace cherry pieces for eyes, end of carrot for nose, green pepper for mouth and a radish pipe.

Using a vegetable peeler, cut three thin slices of carrot lengthwise (staple together or secure with toothpicks) for muffler. Place "carrot muffler" in warm water to give pliability to fold around snowman's neck, if necessary.

Complete with green glace cherries for buttons, pastry brush "broom" and a party-favor hat. Place on shallow tray to collect melting water and decorate to suit your theme.

Salads Have Gained and Lost Popularity

The popularity of salads could easily be shown on a curve that rises and falls.

According to Homer, salad was a favorite food of the gods, and a salad regularly appeared on a menu in Homer's time. A salad was altogether unknown at medieval tables.

Eighteenth century England served salads and often included flowers among the ingredients. During the early part of this century, salads were considered a lady's dish and one seldom enjoyed by men.

Today, a salad is an important part of any menu. A salad may be either the star of a meal or play a supporting part. In either role, a salad supplies color, flavor contrast and good nutrition.

These two salad recipes are perfect for today — a time in history when the whole family enjoys a salad.

Buttermilk Aspic Ring

2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin (2 envelopes)
½ cup cold water
½ cup boiling water
2 cups buttermilk
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons sugar
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup catsup
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 cup finely chopped celery

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved; cool to room temperature.

Combine buttermilk, salt, lemon juice, sugar, Worcestershire sauce, catsup and onion. Add gelatin and blend well. Chill to consistency of unbeaten egg white; fold in celery.

Pour into a 1½-quart ring mold; chill until firm. Unmold on plate; line center with lettuce and fill with chive cottage cheese or any desired fish, meat or chicken salad. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Spinach Salad

½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
½ cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
¼ cup sliced green onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
¾ teaspoon salt
1 pound fresh spinach leaves, washed and drained
1 cup ¼-inch Cheddar cheese cubes
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped

Combine mayonnaise, sour cream, vinegar, green onion, parsley and salt; mix. Pour dressing over spinach, add cheese cubes and chopped egg. Toss lightly. Makes 6 servings.

Raisin Bread Stuffing Good With Fowl, Fish

Raisin bread stuffings complement many meats. Cubes of raisin bread accented with sausage or chopped ham are excellent for stuffing poultry.

Celery and onion always enhance raisin bread fish stuffings. Add orange juice and a grating of orange peel to raisin bread stuffings designed for pork or veal.

HOT CURRY KRAUT — Kraut and frankfurters take on a spectacular role in a hot curry dish steaming with delectable taste. The rich contrast in flavors provides a sublime sauce to be eaten with rice.

Traditional Twosome Given Indian Touch

When you're planning meals, don't overlook the old favorites. Their popularity is well-deserved.

That great all-American favorite, kraut and frankfurters, is being celebrated in National Kraut and Frankfurter week from February 4-13, and provides stimulating food for thought as well as mealtime serving.

Every child and adult associates this famous pair with happy occasions and mouth-watering flavor. For the homemaker with budget problems and testy appetites to satisfy, it means even more.

It is the perfect answer to the many requirements in keeping a family well-fed and happy. Not only is it nourishing and economical, but just as important, it lends itself to an infinite variety of menu changes and ideas that mask its simplicity.

Many centuries ago, the Chinese discovered the outstanding nutritional and flavor attributes of kraut and used it to supplement the diet of laborers building the Great Wall of China. From that day on, its popularity spread around the world adding unique flavor to virtually every cuisine.

When it formed a team with frankfurters in this country, it reached the popularity of a national institution, providing the kind of relaxed eating pleasure Americans love.

Its claim to versatility is demonstrated superbly in a Hot Curry Kraut and Frankfurter dish that tastes better the longer you keep it.

Curry can be made several days before eating, as long as it is kept under refrigeration. Its piquant taste and rich combination of flavors is one of the most unusual ways we know of enjoying kraut and frankfurters.

Hot Curry Kraut and Frankfurters

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 medium onion, sliced
1 clove garlic, halved
1 pound frankfurters, diagonally sliced
1½ teaspoons curry powder
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2½ cups undrained kraut
1 medium apple, cored and sliced
¼ cup chopped chutney
Hot cooked rice

Melt butter in large skillet; add onion, garlic, frankfurters and seasonings. Cook, stirring frequently until frankfurters are lightly browned. Add kraut, apple and chutney.

Simmer 10 minutes, or until apple is tender, stirring occasionally. Serve with rice.

Surround Punch Bowl With Tasty Fixin's

Want a bright idea for your next party? Try a "do-it-yourself" punch. Serve a big bowl of basic party punch made of zingy cranberry juice mixed with ginger ale.

★ ★ ★

Then, around the punch bowl, arrange a variety of fixings: miniature scoops of sherbet, orange and lemon slices, several kinds of fruit juice. Let each guest create his own concoction!

Mrs. D. W. Martin Moves to Pontiac

The wife of the new medical superintendent at Pontiac State Hospital shared an unusual sauerkraut recipe with cooks in her new home.

SAUERKRAUT BALLS
By Mrs. Donald W. Martin

4 tablespoons margarine
1 onion, chopped
1½ cups chopped ham
½ clove garlic, minced
4 tablespoons flour
½ cup beef broth
3 cups sauerkraut, drained and chopped
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 egg
2 cups milk
Bread crumbs

Melt margarine in skillet and brown chopped onion slightly. Add ham and garlic and brown these slightly. Stir in flour and cook thoroughly.

Add broth, sauerkraut, parsley and cook a few minutes more. This should form a stiff paste. Cool.

Form into balls 1 inch in diameter. Beat eggs and milk together. Dip balls in flour, then beaten egg, then bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat until brown. Makes about 50.

WE LIKE VEGETABLES — Mrs. Donald O. Beens, 711 Willard, Avon Township prepares one of her family's favorite vegetable dishes, Spanish Green Beans. At this time of year she makes it with canned beans, but uses fresh ones in season.

Sauce Beans in a Skillet

Among the recipes of the section devoted to vegetables in "Favorite Recipes of Michigan" is a good-sounding green bean dish.

The cook is Mrs. Donald O. Beens of Avon Township.

She is junior past worthy matron of Rochester OES chapter No. 165. Membership in an extension group takes some of her leisure time. She has two children.

SPANISH GREEN BEANS
By Mrs. Donald Beens

3 slices bacon
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 green onions, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
½ can condensed tomato soup
1 can green beans or the equivalent amount of cooked fresh green beans

Fry bacon until crisp. Remove from pan and drain grease.

Melt butter and saute onions and green pepper 5 to 10 minutes, or until onion is transparent. Add soup and crumbled bacon. Simmer 10 minutes.

Heat beans. Drain and add to sauce. Makes 4 servings.

That yeast dough is sufficiently kneaded when it is smooth and springy and when tiny bubbles appear beneath the surface.

Cabbage Contributes Vitamin C to Diets

There are several nice things to be said about cabbage. One is that it tastes good, especially if not overcooked.

Another is that it is a relatively good source of vitamin C (ascorbic acid), again especially if not overcooked. It is an even better source of this important vitamin if eaten raw.

Try this hearty raw cabbage salad: Finely shred a firm head of cabbage.

Combine in large bowl with one-half head of green lettuce, finely shredded and one large green pepper cut in thin strips, one Bermuda-type onion finely sliced, and a can of pineapple bits, thoroughly drained. Salt to taste.

Mix with a sour cream dressing made of ½ French dressing and ½ sour cream, whipped. Toss until thoroughly mixed.

Try this hot cabbage combination. It cooks in only 10 minutes.

Cabbage with Capers

½ cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic
1 whole clove
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
1 cup chopped cooked ham
2 tablespoons capers
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1 cup diced fresh tomatoes
6 cups shredded cabbage
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup stock or water
½ cup soft bread crumbs

Saute onions, garlic and clove until limp and transparent in hot bacon drippings. Add ham, capers, vinegar, tomatoes, cabbage, black pepper, salt and water or stock. Mix well.

Sprinkle with soft bread crumbs. Cover and cook until cabbage is tender, about 10 minutes.

Vegetables Are Vital

The following is taken from the University of Wisconsin's pamphlet, "Vegetables in Our Meals," Circular 629.

"Peel and cut vegetables as short a time before cooking as possible. This helps keep food values high.

"Prepare vegetables in meal-size portions.

"Cook potatoes and carrots in their skins whenever possible.

"Cut vegetables in pieces to save cooking time. Most of the food value can be kept if the amount of water and cooking time is controlled. Use as small an amount of water and as short a cooking time as possible.

"Prepare vegetables to be eaten raw carefully. Store them in a covered container or plastic bag in the refrigerator so they will be crisp."

How Much?

Kitchen notes: If you like to use baby foods occasionally for the whole family, you'll find it convenient to remember that the 4¾-ounce size yields ½ cup; the 6½-ounce size yields ¾ cup; and the 8-ounce size yields ⅞ cup.

When you are boiling potatoes, add a teaspoon of salt for every quart of water used.

CALIFORNIA WALNUTS—Perfect partners for munching or dinner dessert eating are prunes, other dried or fresh fruits, crackers and cheese with in-the-shell walnuts. Just crack and snack, or toast the walnut kernels and salt to taste. For party time try walnut cheese spread or a walnut plate with assorted crackers or rye bread. Serve walnut maple cookies with cranberry juice either plain or whipped together with a sherbet.

Scandinavian Cooks Use This Stuffing

Prune Stuffing for Duck: Fry 1 cup chopped onion in ½ cup butter or margarine until onions are delicate brown. Add 4 cups bread cubes, 1 cup chopped prunes, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons poultry seasoning. Mix well. This gives enough to stuff one duck.

The new moisturized prunes are already soft. To "chop," simply snip the meat from the pits with scissors.

It's Kitchen-Tested

Inverted rice ring comes up nutty.

Festive Rice Ring

2 cups precooked rice
1 cup Diamond Walnuts halves and pieces

Cook rice according to package directions using the conventional or temperature controlled burner of gas range. Place ½ cup Diamond Walnuts around bottom of well greased 1½-2 quart ring mold.

Mix remaining ½ cup walnuts with rice and press into ring mold. Let stand 5 minutes. Invert onto serving platter. Yield: 6-8 servings.

Add California Walnuts for Flavor

The crunchy, California walnut is a great favorite across the nation.

Good cooks recognize that the walnut's fine fresh flavor and crisp texture is just the right touch to make everything from the most simple to the most glamorous recipe even better.

For example, toasted walnuts added as croutons in salads give a gourmet taste and appearance with a minimum of effort.

Use walnuts, too, as a soup garnish, for topping casseroles, and for garnishing and enhancing vegetable servings.

In fact, you'll find the versatile walnut ideal for everything from appetizers to desserts.

Try them in salads, breads, muffins, waffles, pancakes, cookies, candies, cakes, frostings, casseroles, all kinds of snacks, meat, seafood, poultry and cheese main dishes.

Walnut Maple Cookies

½ cup butter
½ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup maple flavored syrup
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 cup chopped California walnuts
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda

Cream butter, sugar, syrup, cinnamon and cloves well. Add walnuts. Resift flour with salt and soda and add to butter-mixture.

Shape in roll about two inches in diameter. Wrap in wax paper. Chill overnight.

Cut into thin slices. Top with walnut half. Place on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 325 degrees about 12-15 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

★ ★ ★

Walnut Edam Dip

1½ to 2-pound Edam cheese
1 to 2 cups commercial sour cream
1 2-⅛ ounce envelope dehydrated tomato soup mix
¼ cup chopped parsley or one tablespoon dry parsley flakes
½ cup finely chopped California walnuts
¼ cup brandy

Cut top off Edam about ¼ of the way down. Do not remove cheese from the lid. Scoop most of the cheese from the bottom portion of the Edam. Leave enough for a firm shell.

Blend sour cream, cheese and soup mix thoroughly. Fold in chopped parsley, walnuts and brandy. Return this mixture to the Edam cheese shell.

Replace lid and wrap tightly in plastic wrap. Chill thoroughly.

Serve whole Edam and filling with chips and—or crackers.

Dip thickens on refrigeration. Makes about six cups filling.

Use amount of sour cream to suit preference for dip or thicker spread. Cheese shell may be filled partially with one kind of spread and the remaining space with a second spread.

Walnut Chicken Liver Pate

1 pound fresh chiken livers
¼ cup butter
1 cup finely chopped onion
4 hard cooked eggs
1 small onion
1 cup finely chopped California walnuts
2 teaspoons seasoned salt

Dry livers on paper toweling. Saute in butter. Add chopped onion and cook in covered skillet about 10 minutes. Cool.

★ ★ ★

Remove livers from sauteing juice and grind with eggs and second onion using medium blade. Add walnuts and seasoned salt. Mix with chopped onion and sauteing juice.

Refrigerate 12 to 24 hours.

May be used as a spread, on canapes or as a sandwich spread on thinly sliced breads or toast strips. Makes approximately four cups pate.

Remove the crusts from bread when you are making "soft" bread crumbs.

Ambrosia Well Named

Ambrosia, a classic fruit dessert made with fresh oranges and grapefruit, has long been considered the ideally light holiday dessert, especially in the South.

The dessert is aptly named Ambrosia, the Greek word "ambrotos" means immortal, and ambrosia was the food of the Greek and Roman gods of mythology.

★ ★ ★

This simple combination of mouth-watering tart grapefruit and juicy sweet orange sections, combined with sugar and shredded coconut, is a refreshing finale to an elegant holiday dinner.

For four servings, chill 3 grapefruit and 3 oranges before preparing. Cut off peel round and round, spiral fashion, making sure to remove all white membrane.

Section grapefruit and 2 of the oranges over a bowl to retain juice; slice remaining orange crosswise, ¼ inch thick.

Sprinkle the combined sections and slices with 3 tablespoons sugar, if desired. Turn into serving bowl or individual dishes and sprinkle with ¼ cup flaked coconut.

Dot Onion Soup With Olive Slices

Ripe olives from California, now so plentiful in our markets, provide decided flair and flavor in "California Onion Soup." It's a simple soup to prepare—and a homemade one that should delight the entire family.

Next time you serve Vichyssoise, float ripe olive rings on top for an elegant touch.

California Onion Soup

¾ cup ripe olives
2 cups thinly sliced onion
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 cups water
2 bouillon cubes
1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
Salt
Grated Parmesan cheese

Cut olives into large pieces. Combine onion and butter in saucepan; cover and cook slowly until onion is clear and yellow.

Add water and bouillon cubes; cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, 15 to 20 minutes. Stir in olives and kitchen bouquet; add salt to taste. Serve immediately sprinkled with cheese. Make 4 or 5 servings.

Bakes in Hot Water

Placing custard cups filled with a custard mixture in a pan of hot water in the oven ensures even baking and helps to prevent the over-cooking that curdles custard desserts.

SLICE THE LOAF — Little Dee Ann Salley, 4, asks questions as her mother starts to make a pizza loaf. The Salleys who live at 3271 Schoolhouse Drive, Waterford Township, like to serve this for company refreshments. The family likes it too.

Pizza Loaf Favorite of Big Family

When Mrs. Dean A. Salley was president of the Waterford Township Jaycee Auxiliary, she sent a recipe in for "Favorite Recipes of Michigan."

Her directions for making a pizza loaf were accepted and appear in the book.

Mrs. Salley has five boys and one girl.

PIZZA LOAF

By Mrs. Dean A. Salley

1 loaf of French bread
¾ pound ground beef
1-3 cup grated Parmesan cheese
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup chopped olives
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano
dash of pepper
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
3 tomatoes, thinly sliced
5 slices sharp processed cheese

Cut loaf of bread in half lengthwise. Mix all ingredients except tomato and cheese slices. Spread evenly on both bread halves.

Broil 5 inches from heat for 12 minutes, or until meat is done. Cover with tomato and cheese slices. Broil 1 to 2 minutes more. Makes 8 servings.

Dry curries take to "saucy" accompaniments. Curried fried chicken, for example tastes delightful with a relish of diced fresh orange, minced red onion and green pepper folded into sour cream.

Cold Cuts in Fillings

Keep sandwiches for lunch boxes interesting by varying the filling frequently.

Like Braunschweiger? Then try it this way: blend one pound of this liver sausage with 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 finely chopped hard-cooked eggs and 3 tablespoons grated onion, if desired.

Another cold weather variation for sandwich filling uses ½ pound salami, finely chopped with ¾ cup canned, drained, baked beans in tomato sauce, 2 teaspoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard and 1 teaspoon horseradish. Mash well with fork and blend.

Marinade for Lobster

Equal quantities of lemon juice and olive oil plus crushed garlic make an excellent marinade for lobster tails that are to be broiled. Try this combination, too, for shrimp that are to be grilled.

It's Kitchen-Tested

Ripe olives are on the plentiful foods list now.

Cheese Ripe Olive Sandwiches

1 cup shredded natural cheddar cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
⅓ cup chopped ripe olives
⅓ cup finely diced green onions
¼ teaspoon curry powder (optional)
Party rye bread, sliced

Combine all ingredients, except bread. Spread on party rye. Broil 4" to 6" from flame about 2-3 minutes or until lightly browned.

Bake Hot Puffs or Fry Them in Shallow Oil

A festive canape called Italian cheese puffs can be baked or fried.

Heat ½ cup of water and ¼ cup of butter to rolling boil in saucepan. Stir in all at once ½ cup of all-purpose flour. Stir vigorously over low heat about 1 minute, until mixture leaves sides of pan and forms a ball.

Remove from heat. Thoroughly beat in 2 eggs, one at a time. Beat mixture until smooth and velvety.

Mix in ⅓ cup of grated parmesan cheese and ¼ cup of beef or prosciutto (Italian ham).

Drop from teaspoon either onto ungreased baking sheet or into 1 cup of olive oil preheated to 375 degrees in 1½-quart saucepan. Fry until light brown.

Or, bake 18 to 20 minutes in preheated 400-degree oven. Makes about 36 puffs.

Olive Nut Mixture Fills Sandwich

Our interpretation of a West Coast restaurant specialty.

Olive Walnut Sandwiches

¾ cup finely chopped and ¼ cup slivered ripe olives
½ cup finely chopped walnuts
¼ cup mayonnaise
8 thin slices whole wheat bread

Use a sharp knife to finely chop the olives and walnuts. Thoroughly mix together the chopped olives, slivered olives, walnuts and mayonnaise; there should be about 1 cup of the mixtuue, packed down.

Use ¼ cup of the filling for each of four sandwiches made from the bread; cut each sandwich into two triangles. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Black Walnuts Used Again

For a while in December, there were black walnut cookie recipes all over the place. Three of them were published in the paper, but one was saved for this cookbook.

Mrs. Andrew Kulich of Drayton Plains was one of the first cooks to call in with her favorite recipe using black walnuts.

BLACK WALNUT COOKIES
By Mrs. Andrew Kulich

2½ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
¾ cup brown or white sugar
½ cup white or dark corn syrup
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup black walnuts, chopped
¼ cup milk

Sift dry ingredients together. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and beat until fluffy. Add corn syrup and blend.

Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each. Stir in vanilla and nuts.

Add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Drop by teaspoonsful on greased baking sheet.

Bake 12 to 15 minutes at 375 degrees. Makes 5 dozen cookies.

Read Recipes From Cookbook of 19th Century

Printed household hints aren't anything new. Here are a few that were carried in a cook book of 120 years ago:

"To seal preserves, beat the white of an egg, take tissue paper the size that you require, dip into the egg, wetting the paper on both sides, cover the jar carefully, pressing it around the sides securely.

★ ★ ★

"To boil a ham, fill a pot with water, put in the ham. Fill all around with nice hay, add garlic, cloves, mace, allspice thyme and pepper; let it boil for several hours until quite done, and then add about a quart of cider or wine.

"To make a filling for a jelly cake. One quart of new milk, whites of five eggs, eight tablespoons of flour stirred and boiled to a thick paste.

"For a beautiful coloring for a cake, pound fine equal parts of alum, cream of tartar and cochineal and dissolve it in water.

★ ★ ★

"As a nice flavoring for a cake, mix one tablespoon of brandy with one teaspoon of lemon acid (pulverized)."

Did you note that "nice hay" around the ham as it boiled?

Beat With Fork

You can use a table fork, instead of getting out your beater, when you want to "beat eggs lightly" as is often directed in recipes. Beat only enough to blend the yolks with the whites.

OUT OF THE FREEZER — Mrs. Carrie Hartman, 261 Baldwin, likes to have breads and cookies in the freezer for instant use. Here she shows off a plate of cookies. At Christmas time, she made dozens of sweet rolls for family and friends.

Glazed Bar Cookie Is Sweet One

Bite-sized ribboned butterscotch squares are made from a mix, except for the melt-away topping.

Prepare and bake 1 box of chocolate chip butterscotch brownie mix as label directs, but reserve enclosed packet of chocolate chips for glaze.

Frost the cooled cake with a topping made by blending ¼ cup of butter with 1 tablespoon of milk or cream, 2 cups of sifted confectioners' sugar and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Chill.

Drizzle with sauce made by melting chocolate chips with 1 tablespoon of butter. When set, cut into 1-inch squares. Makes 64.

You can prepare a delicious winter-season marmalade with canned crushed pineapple and dried apricots.

Celery Corn

Corn with Celery Seed is a pleasing vegetable dish. For four servings: season a one pound can of cream style corn with celery seed and butter; heat.

It's Kitchen-Tested

Here is a truly glamourous dessert that's easy to fix.

Quick Creme Brulee

1 28-oz. can Bartlett pear halves*
1 pint commercial sour cream
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed

Place pears in shallow baking dish. Spread with sour cream and cover with brown sugar. Broil in gas broiler about 3 inches from flame until sugar caramelizes. Serve hot. Serves 8.

*Variations: Fresh, frozen or canned drained fruits — peach halves, pineapple chunks, whole berries, or seedless grapes in sufficient quantity.

Canned Milk Is Candy Secret

Ever wish you could make good caramels? You can if you'll use this recipe. Not only is the candy good, but it is not too expensive to make.

Mrs. George Beauchamp who shares her recipe with Press readers is active in the Ladies Day Out program at the YWCA.

She is the treasurer of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church.

Twenty-nine girls call her their Girl Scout leader. And two daughters call her, "Mom."

FOOLPROOF CARAMELS

By Mrs. George Beauchamp

2 cups granulated sugar
2 cups white corn syrup

Place in three-quart saucepan over high heat and cook to 248 or 250 degrees. You must use a candy thermometer.

Stir slowly while you cut in ¼ pound of margarine, pat by pat. Continue stirring until mixture reaches 280 or 290 degrees.

Very very slowly, add a 14-ounce can of evaporated milk, stirring all the time you add.

Bring candy back to 248 degrees. Remove from heat and cool 10 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Pour into well greased 9x13 pan. Cool several hours at room temperature.

Loosen sides of candy and turn out on cutting board. Using a sawing motion, cut into squares.

Wrap individually in waxed paper. This will keep indefinitely.

Choco-Scotch Flavor

C'est si bon . . . Here's an extra-special bonbon fudge to make, to give and to enjoy. Semi-sweet chocolate morsels and butterscotch flavored morsels blend together into a luscious flavor combination called choco-scotch.

Choco-Scotch Bonbons

2½ cups sugar
1¼ cups evaporated milk
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels, divided
1 6-ounce package (1 cup) butterscotch flavored morsels, divided
¾ teaspoon vanilla
12 candied cherries, halved
6 soft date halves, cut lengthwise
24 salted peanut halves, in clusters of 4
6 walnut or pecan halves
1 tablespoon shortening

Combine sugar, evaporated milk, and salt in deep 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Continue boiling for 5 minutes, constantly stirring up from bottom.

Remove from heat; add ¾ cup each of chocolate and butterscotch morsels, and vanilla; stir until smooth. Pour into greased pan. Press pieces of fruit and nuts into the top in 6 rows approximately 1 inch apart.

Melt remaining ¼ cup each of chocolate and butterscotch morsels with shortening over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from heat and spoon over fudge to completely cover the top. Chill until firm.

★ ★ ★

Cut into squares so that each is centered with a piece of fruit or nut. Yield: Approximately 2¾ pounds or 36 pieces.

Use Peppermint in Candy Recipe That's Crunchy

This is a great recipe to try while candy canes are still at large!

Peppermint Pieces

2 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
½ cup water
4 ounces crushed peppermint (6 small candy canes)

★ ★ ★

In a saucepan, stir together the sugar, corn syrup and water. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil.

Cook without stirring until temperature reaches 300 degrees on a candy thermometer or until a small amount of the mixture dropped into very cold water separates into threads that are hard and brittle. Stir in crushed peppermint.

Pour into a greased jelly roll pan (15½ by 10½ by 1 inch). Let cool. Turn pan upside down over board or table. Tap sharply to loosen candy; break into pieces.

Makes 1½ pounds.

MARLYS FOX

Marlys Fox who will appear at the Pontiac Press cooking school as one of the Susan Lowes is a newcomer on the scene. She will show area women new tricks in cookery and prepare a number of interesting recipes. Miss Fox will be demonstrating Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Made With Corn Syrup

It's a rare person who doesn't occasionally face the problem of using leftover ham. One of the best ways to stretch the last of a ham is to turn it into a ham loaf.

Spicy Ham Loaf

1½ pounds (3 cups) ground smoked ham
1 pound (2 cups) ground pork
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
2 eggs
½ cup apple juice
1 tablespoon minced onion
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon Worestershire sauce
1 recipe Glaze (below)

Combine ham and pork in large bowl. Mix in bread crumbs, then eggs, then apple juice, onion, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and pepper. Mix well.

Shape into loaf and place in baking pan. Bake in 300 degrees F. (slow) oven 2 hours, basting occasionally with Glaze. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Glaze

¾ cup dark corn syrup
⅓ cup vinegar
2 teaspoons dry mustard

Combine all ingredients in a small saucepan. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil and boil 2 minutes.

Pear Marmalade Simple to Make

When Mrs. Harold Swackhammer submitted the recipe below, it was Bartlett pear season. You might want to try it with winter pears.

PEAR MARMALADE
By Mrs. H. Swackhammer

Peel fresh pears. Slice and cover with sugar, using ¾ cup sugar to each cup of fruit. Let stand overnight, or until mixture forms a syrup.

Boil slowly until thick.

When fruit is partially cooked, add half of a number two can crushed pineapple for every 8 cups of pears.

Pour into sterilized glasses or jars and seal.

ECONOMICAL CHICKEN — Mrs. Gerald Copenhaver, 668 East Preda, Waterford Township, fixes chicken for her family often. She's lucky that chicken parts are sold separately. Otherwise her five sons might fight over the drumsticks.

Chicken Is Just as Good Second Time

Here are ways one cook uses leftover poultry.

SCALLOPED POTATOES AND CHICKEN

By Mrs. G. Copenhaver

4-5 medium potatoes
1 can condensed cream of chicken soup
1 soup can of milk
1 onion
Leftover chicken or turkey
Salt and pepper

Mix soup and milk and slice onion into it. Heat. Slice potatoes into greased casserole. Cover with slices of leftover poultry.

Pour soup mixture over all. Season. Bake 1 to 1½ hours at 350 degrees or until potatoes are tender.

No flour is needed and the dish will not be runny. Serves 4-6.

★ ★ ★

If you have leftover poultry dressing, line a flat casserole with it. Moisten with a little broth or chicken bouillon.

Lay slices of leftover poultry on top of dressing. Pour a can of condensed cream of chicken soup over dish and bake 20-25 minutes in 350-degree oven, or until thoroughly heated.

When you roll out pie dough into a round, pretend that the rolling pin is following the spokes of a wheel.

Open Chicken Sandwich Sports Brown Topping

A flavor rich combination of ingredients is used in the layered topping for this attractive open face raisin bread sandwich.

Begin by toasting the raisin bread on one side, then spread the untoasted side with a chicken and chutney filling and cover with a fluffy egg white and mayonnaise topping.

Finally run under the broiler to brown and heat the topping.

Raisin Bread Chicken Sandwich Puffs

3 cups chopped cooked chicken
¼ cup chopped chutney*
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
12 slices raisin bread
Puff Topping
Butter

Combine chicken, chutney, mayonnaise, salt and lemon juice. Lightly toast 6 slices raisin bread on one side under broiler.

Spread chicken mixture over untoasted sides and almost cover with Puff Topping. Broil 3 or 4 inches from heat until puffed and tinged with brown, about 2 or 3 minutes.

Meanwhile toast remaining raisin bread on both sides; butter and cut in half. Place one sandwich puff on each plate with 2 half slices raisin toast.

Garnish as desired with artichoke hearts and ripe olives. Makes 6 servings.

PUFF TOPPING: Beat 1 egg white with ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar until stiff. Gently fold in 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

*Or well drained pickle relish.

Season the Chicken Inside and Out

Special seasonings distinguish this roast chicken.

Mary Greene's Roast Chicken

3½ pound ready-to-cook fryer-roaster
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon celery salt
¼ teaspoon garlic powder

Wash and drain chicken; do not dry — chicken should be moist. Mix together the seasonings; sprinkle inside and outside of chicken with mixture.

Place breast down in a greased small shallow roasting pan in a hot (425 degrees) oven for 1 hour, shaking pan once or twice to keep chicken from sticking.

Turn breast side up; baste with pan juices or melted butter and continue roasting for 1 hour longer or until brown and tender — 190 degrees on a roast meat thermometer. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CHICKEN SANDWICH PUFFS — Tasty chicken salad is spread over slices of raisin bread. Then a mixture of egg white and mayonnaise is added and the whole slipped under the broiler. Result: a delightful open faced sandwich.

PRESIDENT WHO COOKS — At home, Mrs. Forbes S. Hascall, 946 Pine Hill, Bloomfield Township, is a gourmet style cook. In public, she is president of the Oakland County Federation of Women's Clubs. Here, she's seen preparing her shrimp and artichoke casserole with an open copy of "Favorite Recipes of Michigan" in front of her.

American cooks become more sophisticated all the time. They like to cook with gourmet foods like artichoke hearts. They like to add wine to their recipes.

Mrs. Forbes S. Hascall, president of the Oakland County Federation of Women's clubs, is one of these cooks.

SHRIMP AND ARTICHOKE CASSEROLE

By Mrs. Forbes S. Hascall

- 1 package (10-oz.) frozen artichoke hearts
- ¾ pound cooked shrimp
- ¼ pound fresh mushrooms
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ cup dry Sherry
- 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- ¼ cup Parmesan cheese
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- paprika

Arrange artichoke hearts in buttered baking dish. Arrange shrimp over artichokes.

Slice and saute mushrooms in butter for 6 minutes; add to shrimp and artichokes.

Mix Worcestershire sauce and Sherry with soup; pour over other ingredients. Sprinkle with cheese and paprika.

Bake 30-40 minutes at 375 degrees. Garnish with parsley. Makes 4-6 servings.

Don't Overbeat

You've overbeaten those "stiffly beaten" egg whites if they lose their gloss and look dull and if small curdlike spots appear. When egg whites get that "dry," they break down and lose the air that was incorporated.

Fruit Addition

Green cabbage salad is especially interesting when it is prepared with a sour - cream dressing and garnished with orange or tangerine sections.

New Way to Prepare Tuna in a Flavorful Casserole

Ah, the tuna casserole, what would we ever do without it!

A recent consumers study reveals that tuna users want more recipes for hot tuna dishes.

Sixty-two per cent of the women interviewed expressed this preference.

Since the tuna cassrole is a leader among hot tuna dishes, here's a Tuna Swiss Cheese Casserole that's different and delicious enough to satisfy the most exacting tuna fan.

The delicate flavor of canned tuna in vegetable oil combines with macaroni in an unusually piquant Swiss cheese sauce, subtly seasoned with mustard and sherry, if you like.

Slivered almonds add the final gourmet touch.

Tuna Swiss Cheese Casserole

- 4 ounces macaroni
- 1 can condensed cream of celery soup
- ¼ cup milk
- ¼ cup cooking sherry, optional*
- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
- ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 cup (4 ounces) grated Swiss cheese, divided
- ¼ cup slivered almonds

★ ★ ★

Cook macaroni according to package directions. Drain and reserve. Combine celery soup, milk and sherry. Add macaroni, tuna, green pepper, onion, dry mustard and ½ cup of the grated cheese. Heat.

Turn into 1½-quart casserole or individual casseroles; sprinkle with remaining cheese and almonds. Bake in a 350 degree oven 25 to 30 minutes. Yield: 4 to 5 servings

*If desired, milk may be substituted for sherry.

Easy brunch course; broil slices of molded cornmeal mush with bacon and apple rings.

Useful Little Fishes

Tangy little Norway sardines lend themselves to a wide variety of tasty party treats. Here are a few suggestions.

Sardine-Cheese Spread: Open and drain the olive oil from a can of Norway sardines. Mash the sardines and blend with jar type cheese. Add a dash of lemon juice and spread on saltines.

★ ★ ★

Party Tidbits: On thin fingers of buttered toast arrange whole Norway sardines. Sprinkle with lemon juice and serve. No fuss, no bother.

★ ★ ★

Sardine-Pimento Appetizer: Spread jar-type pimento cheese over fingers of toast and top each with a whole Norway sardine.

★ ★ ★

Salad Tip: Whether your potato salad is home made or store bought, try flaking a few Norway sardines into it for a new savory flavor.

★ ★ ★

Sardine Stuffed Celery: Try this variation of stuffed celery. Cut stalks into uniform lengths and fill each with a mixture of chopped hard cooked eggs, parsley and mayonnaise. Top each with a whole Norway sardine. Chill and serve.

★ ★ ★

SAVORY APPETIZER: Open and drain the olive oil from a can of Norway sardines. Make a puree of the sardines and combine with the contents of three packages of soft cream cheese. Add chopped chives. Season to taste and mix well. Spread on crisp crackers.

Corn Cob Jelly Nice and Red

One of the Pontiac Press readers requested a recipe for Corn Cob Jelly. She had seen a reference to it in a small filler article in the Market Basket section.

Another reader — in fact, half a dozen readers — heeded the request and sent in the recipe. Mrs. Frank Novotney's was the first recipe received.

CORN COB JELLY
By Mrs. Frank Novotney

12 bright red corn cobs
3 pints water
1 package powdered pectin
3 cups sugar

Boil broken cobs in water for 30 minutes. Remove from heat and strain liquid. If it does not make 3 cups, add enough water to bring it to that amount.

Add powdered pectin and bring to a rolling boil. Add sugar and boil hard 2 to 3 minutes. Pour into sterilized glasses.

This tastes a bit like apple jelly. Its red color make it appropriate for Christmas or Valentine use.

EASY PARTY PIZZA — A featured treat of teen-age parties is based on mom's electric skillet for its baking and an array of convenience foods for its making in this version of easy party pizza. A basket of fresh fruit and nuts completes a menu that is made for snack time serving and out of hand eating.

Cook Pizza in a Skillet

For a really swinging teen party, count on refreshments geared to the gang's favorite food, pizza.

This version is keen competition for a pizza palace for it's filled with true Italian flavor and features preparation so easy it keeps the hostess in the midst of her party.

Easy party pizza is quickly made using a shelf full of convenience foods plus Mom's electric skillet. And easy . . . it couldn't be better named.

All of its good flavor is based on a crisply cooked layer of biscuit dough stirred up with evaporated milk for perfect browning.

The basic biscuit mixture is first spread over the bottom of any well greased electric skillet with controlled heat.

The tomato sauce, mozzarella cheese and mushrooms which top it are traditional with the additional zesty flavors of pepperoni and oregano putting this easy snack into a party mood.

Easy Party Pizza

2 tablespoons shortening
1⅓ cups biscuit mix
⅓ cup evaporated milk
½ cup canned tomato sauce
1 teaspoon oregano
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
½ lb. pepperoni, or
1 can (8 oz.) pork sausage, sliced
1 can (2 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained

Grease a cold electric skillet on bottom and sides with shortening. In a small mixing bowl combine biscuit mix with evaporated milk.

Spread dough evenly over bottom of skillet. Spread tomato sauce over dough. Sprinkle with oregano.

Top with layers of cheese, sausage and mushrooms. Cover. Turn control dial to 325 degrees and bake until crust is lightly browned, about 12 to 15 minutes.

Cut into squares to serve. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Not Any Sour Cream

Use commercially prepared sour cream when a recipe calls for that ingredient, not pasteurized heavy cream that's turned sour during an over-long stay in the refrigerator.

Wooden Spoon

Use a wooden spoon when you are stirring a mixture that is cooking on top of the range; some cooks like to use the spoon to form figure eight as they stir to make sure the entire mixture is blended.

Note to new cooks: "self-rising flour" is flour with the addition of salt and leavening ingredients.

Sharp Cheese Puts Zip in Croquettes

Crisp cheese croquettes provide a welcome change to family or party fare, especially if they are made with sharp natural Cheddar cheese.

To make them as tasty as croquettes should be, follow the simple directions given with this kitchen-tested recipe.

Blend the ingredients carefully in a double boiler, spread the resulting mixture in a pan, and then chill thoroughly before shaping it into the croquette cones.

Serve the crisp cheese croquettes while they are piping hot, surrounding them with cooked green beans. A quick white sauce goes well with the beans.

Cheese Croquettes

6 tablespoons butter
½ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Dash cayenne pepper
1⅓ cups milk
4 eggs, separated
3 cups shredded (approx. three-fourths of 13¼ oz. pkg.) sharp natural Cheddar cheese
½ cup seasoned bread crumbs

Melt butter in top of double boiler over hot water. Blend in flour and seasonings. Gradually add milk. Continue to cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened.

Pour a little of the hot mixture into the unbeaten egg yolks in a small bowl, stirring vigorously. Add the egg mixture to the hot sauce and stir until well blended. Stir in shredded cheese until melted. Remove from heat and stir in bread crumbs.

Spread in an 8x10 x 2-inch pan. Chill thoroughly. Divide mixture into 12 portions. Shape into cones.

Dip into slightly beaten egg white, then roll in additional bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat at 390 degrees. (At this temperature a one-inch square of bread browns in 30 seconds.) Drain the croquettes on absorbent paper. Serve piping hot. Makes about 12 croquettes.

CHEESE CROQUETTES — Quality protein and sharp flavor make cheese croquettes a fine choice for meatless meals. Here they're served surrounded with frenched green beans. Pass the white sauce.

Homemade Relish Goes to the Dogs

Pontiac area cooks were told last summer how to make their own relish for hot dogs.

HOT DOG RELISH

By Mrs. A. B. Keller

4 onions
4 cups cabbage
4 cups green tomatoes
6 cups sugar
2 cups water
4 cups cider vinegar
12 green peppers
6 red peppers
½ cup salt
1 teaspoon celery seed
2 teaspoons mustard seed
2 teaspoons turmeric

Grind all vegetables. Sprinkle with the half cup of salt. Let stand overnight. Rinse and drain.

Combine remaining ingredients. Pour over vegetables and mix well. Simmer over low heat until mixture comes to a boil. Place in sterilized jars and seal.

VERY YOUNG COOKS — Five-year-old Ann Stauffacher and her three-year-old sister, Susan, are young, but they like to cook. With the help of their mother, Mrs. Albert Stauffacher, 201 Navajo, they can mix up a fruit salad.

Vanilla Pudding Base for Salad

A rich creamy fruit salad known as "24 Hour Salad" has long been a favorite. Now it can be made with some present day convenience foods.

Mrs. Albert Stauffacher recommends this recipe highly.

Cooking is her hobby and she is doing her best to pass it on to her young daughters.

GREAT FRUIT SALAD
By Mrs. Albert Stauffacher

1 package vanilla pudding mix
1 cup milk
1 cup fruit juice
1 package dessert topping mix
2 grapefruit, segmented
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 cup green grapes, halved and seeded
1 cup mandarin oranges, drained
¾ cup crushed pineapple

Make up pudding according to directions, but use 1 cup of fruit juice in place of 1 cup of milk. This juice comes from the drained crushed pineapple and the fresh grapefruit. Add pineapple-grapefruit drink to make the cup.

After pudding has cooled, fold in 1 cup of prepared dessert topping. Fold in fruit and chill thoroughly.

This mixture may be frozen and cut into squares for serving. It is good as a salad or a dessert. Makes 8-10 servings.

Sherbet Added to Jelled Salad

Orange sherbet as an ingredient in a molded salad is a rather unusual idea.

This is a recipe you can vary with other kinds of sherbets matching their respective flavors of gelatin.

ORANGE MOLD
By Mrs. Harold Elliott

1 package orange gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup orange sherbet
1 small can mandarin oranges, drained
2 sliced bananas

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water and stir in sherbet until melted. Add fruit and pour into small mold.

Two packages of gelatin made up will fill an 8- or 9-inch square pan.

This can be salad or dessert.

Only a Bit Is Added

A little goes a very long way when food additives are used in manufacturing and processing foods.

It takes only 4 pounds of calcium silicate to keep 100 pounds of baking powder dry and free flowing.

Less than 1/5-ounce of potassium iodide is added to 100 pounds of table salt to make iodized salt.

Whatever the amount of an additive needed, the exact proportion is scientifically controlled. Only the exact amount necessary to produce a desired result is used.

Floral Recipes Are Unusual

PICKERING, Ontario (AP) — Anyone with a taste for Bavarian cream with marigold petals will be in sympathy with the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Alan McKenzie.

The McKenzies like such food and when they found they could not obtain the required herbs they decided to grow their own.

Now the herb garden produces 75 varieties and the flower gardens are full of unusual specimens.

On her shelves may be found jars of dried savory, marjoram, Basil, lemon thyme, tarragon vinegar, jellies of mountain ash and other herbs.

If you have that kind of a garden, Mrs. McKenzie says a spread for whole wheat bread may be made from chopped chives, fennel, lemon thyme and tarragon mixed with salted butter.

As for the Bavarian cream with marigold petals, mix one pint of milk, three egg yolks and gelatin, then fold in a cup of pounded marigold petals. Surround the unmolded Bavarian cream with marigold blossoms.

Granny Had Recipes Like These Two

Sometimes old-fashioned dishes like apple pan dowdy and apple slump make life seem a little less uncertain.

So for peace of mind as well as stomach, let's try them.

Old-Fashioned Apple Pan Dowdy

8 thin slices day-old bread (about)
4 tablespoons butter
6 cups sliced apples
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons light molasses
½ cup water
Cinnamon-sugar

Trim crusts from bread slices; butter each slice. Line 1½ quart baking dish with bread, cutting to fit, and saving enough slices for top. Fill dish with apple slices.

Combine spices, salt, brown sugar, molasses and water; pour over apples. Top with remaining bread slices, buttered side up.

Cover; bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Remove cover; sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar; bake 20 minutes longer or until golden brown.

Serve hot with plain cream Makes 6 servings.

Old-Fashioned Apple Slump

4 cups thinly sliced apples
⅔ cup firmly packed brown sugar
⅔ cup granulated sugar
½ cup water
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 recipe dumpling dough*

Combine first 5 ingredients in deep frying pan; bring to a boil; cover; cook 10 minutes. Drop dumpling dough by spoonfuls on pieces of apple; cover; cook 12 minutes or until dumplings are done.

Transfer dumplings to deep dessert dishes; spoon apples over them. Serve with plain cream.

*Dumplings: Follow recipe for dumplings on package of biscuit mix.

Family Likes Pumpkin Cake

Canned pumpkin makes a cake that is a lovely golden color and one that stays moist for some time.

Here is Mrs Vernon King's recipe that appeared around Halloween time.

LETHA'S PUMPKIN NUT CAKE

By Mrs. Vernon King

½ cup butter
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup pumpkin
2¾ cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon maple flavoring
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream butter and sugar thoroughly. Add eggs and pumpkin and mix well.

Sift dry ingredients. Add alternately with milk. Beat well after each addition.

Fold in flavoring and nuts. Pour into 3 greased and floured 8-inch cake pans or a 9x13 loaf pan.

Bake layers 30 minutes at 350 degrees; 40 to 45 minutes for the loaf.

Frost with seven-minute brown sugar icing or serve unfrosted. The Kings prefer it the latter way.

Outline Hearts on Cake With Sifted Flour

To decorate a plain cake or coffeecake for February holidays, first cut out small hearts or cherry shapes from card board.

Place cut-outs on the cake in a desired pattern, then sift confectioners sugar over the top. Carefully lift off cut-outs, leaving perfect outlines of the design.

Ever add slivers of preserved ginger — the kind that comes packed in syrup — to a yam casserole? Delicious with ham or chicken.

Dry Toasted Peanuts Put Crunch Into Rich Dessert

Party fancy, party pretty, and party delicious all describe this handsome refrigerator dessert cake. Flavored with a combination of apricots and dry toasted peanuts, the dessert is a delicate, airy gelatine mixture accented with the richness of whipped cream.

Since the dessert should be made up a few hours before a scheduled party, it is a real favorite with a busy hostess.

When serving this superb cake at a dessert and coffee party, a buffet supper, or even at a late evening gathering, garnish it the last minute with whipped cream and dry toasted peanuts to give the special party touch.

Peanut Apricot Refrigerator Dessert

1 package lady fingers
1 cup dry toasted peanuts
1 (1 lb. 14 oz.) can apricot halves
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream

Place lady fingers on bottom and around sides of 7" spring mold pan. Finely chop the dry toasted peanuts.

Drain apricots; save canned syrup. Press apricots through sieve or a food mill to obtain puree (makes about 1¼ cups). Soften gelatine in ½ cup canned apricot syrup.

Mix together ½ cup sugar, apricot puree and the remaining 1 cup apricot syrup. (If not enough canned syrup, add water to make 1 cup.)

Beat egg yolks until bubbly and add with softened gelatine to apricot puree mixture. Place over low heat and cook, stirring constantly, until gelatine is completely dissolved, about 8-10 minutes.

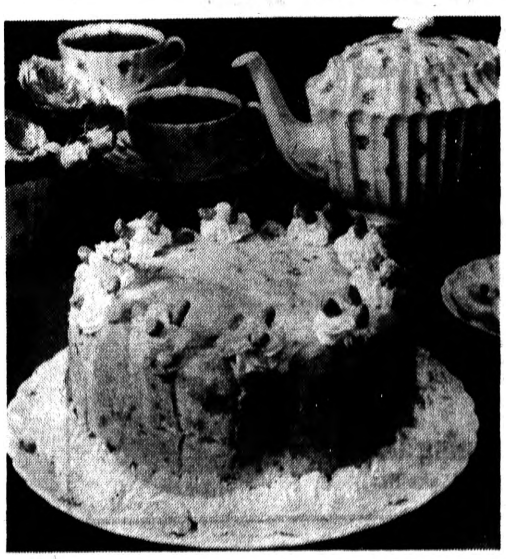
Remove from heat; stir in lemon juice. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when stirred with a spoon.

Beat egg whites stiff. Gradually, add the remaining ¼ cup sugar, a tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition.

Beat cream until stiff. Gently stir chopped peanuts into whipped cream.

Fold whipped cream and peanuts into chilled gelatine mixture. Stir in beaten egg whites.

Spoon into spring mold with lady fingers. Chill for at least 4 hours. Makes 6-8 servings.



PEANUT APRICOT DESSERT — Dry toasted peanuts play a big part in this elegant looking dessert. Flecks of canned apricots dot the creamy mixture. Ask the neighbors in for dessert when you serve this one.

Pound coarsely crushed black pepper (use the heel of your hand for the "pounding") into thin tender beefsteak and pan-fry in butter.

Make Pudding to Use in Cake From a Mix

For a really rich chocolate cake Mrs. Herbert Stoutenburg uses prepared chocolate pudding in place of the liquid called for on the box of cake mix.

SPECIAL CHOCOLATE CAKE

By Mrs. H. N. Stoutenburg

1 package milk chocolate or malted milk chocolate cake mix
1 package chocolate pudding mix (not instant)
¼ cup salad oil

Prepare pudding according to directions and let cool.

Prepare cake according to package directions with these additions: in place of the liquid called for, add the cooled pudding; add the salad oil before beating.

Pour into greased 9x13-inch pan. Bake as directed. Let cake cool.

Melt one small package chocolate bits and spread on cooled cake.

Ice Cream Helps Chill Gelatin Pie

This recipe using prepared blueberry pie filling was so different from ordinary berry pie recipes that it is worth repeating.

It's good any time of the year.

BLUEBERRY PARFAIT PIE

By Mrs. Clinton Lefler

1 package lemon gelatin
1¼ cups boiling water
1 pint vanilla ice cream
½ can prepared blueberry pie filling
1 9-inch pie shell

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Stir in ice cream until it is melted. Let chill until mixture begins to set. Add pie filling.

Pour into crust and let set in refrigerator. Makes one pie.

It's Kitchen-Tested

Candy bars are used in filling for a special pie.

Toffee Cream Pie

Pie Shell:
1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
½ cup melted butter

Mix the crumbs and butter; blend well with fork or a pastry blender. Press into an 8-inch pie pan.

Filling:
½ lb. peanut brittle or English Toffee, or Heath Bars
1 pint whipping cream, whipped

Finely crush English Toffee, peanut brittle or Heath Bars. Whip cream. Fold the crushed candy into whipped cream. Pour into pie shell. Drizzle Choco Bake over top for garnish. Chill thoroughly in refrigerator. This may be frozen. Serves 8.

PEACH PETAL SHORTCAKE — Winter shortcake can be exciting as the summer variety any day. Here you see canned peaches baked in a flower shaped biscuit. It's all easy to do and most satisfying.

Canned Peaches for Shortcake

As shapely as it is flavorful, "Peach Petal Shortcake" is surely as welcome as the flowers in spring.

Glistening canned cling peach slices nestled in buttery, sugared shortcake served warm from the oven constitute an irresistible invitation to dessert fanciers.

Have no qualms about heating canned cling peaches for desserts or meat accompaniments. They retain their sunny color and attractive appearance "under fire," and heating accents the fruit's flavor and fragrance delectably.

Peach Petal Shortcake

1 can (1-lb. 13-ozs.) cling peach slices
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
⅓ cup granulated sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 egg
⅔ cup milk
Melted butter or margarine
Brown sugar

Drain peaches thoroughly. Sift flour, granulated sugar, baking powder and salt into bowl. Cut in shortening to consistency of coarse crumbs.

Beat egg and add with milk to dry ingredients. Mix to moderately stiff dough.

Spoon onto greased baking sheet in petal shape (5 mounds of dough with small spoonful in center). With back of spoon or fingers, spread dough to form flower. Brush surface with butter.

Arrange 3 peach slices around dough in center and 4 slices in each petal. Sprinkle with brown sugar.

Bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm with pour cream, whipped cream or ice cream if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Mash Avocado to Supplement Orange Sherbet

A delightful made - at - home frozen dessert uses buttermilk.

Avocado Orange Sherbet

2 eggs
½ cup each sugar and light corn syrup
2 cups buttermilk
1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
2 medium avocados

In a large bowl, beat the eggs well; gradually beat in the sugar, then the corn syrup. Mix in buttermilk and undiluted orange concentrate.

Turn into a metal pan; freeze until almost firm — about 1 hour. Turn into large mixer bowl; break up into small pieces; quickly mash avocado (to make 1 cup) and add; beat until smooth.

Return to pan or serving dishes; freeze until firm—about 3 hours. Makes 1 quart.

One Session Produces 18 Pie Crusts

When an SOS for a quantity pie crust recipe went out, Mrs. Clarence Benner of Fox Bay subdivision came to the rescue.

We tried to get a picture of Mrs. Benner for this cookbook, but she refused. However, here is her recipe.

QUANTITY PIE CRUST
By Mrs. Clarence Benner

2 pounds shortening (preferably lard)
11 cups sifted flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
1 tablespoon salt
2 cups boiling water

Mix water with shortening until very creamy. Add dry ingredients and mix with hands. Chill before rolling.

This makes about 18 nine-inch flaky crusts. Freeze them right in pie tins or foil pans.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Benner always puts a floating crust on fruit pies so that the juice can bubble around the edge instead of running over into the oven.

Press, Don't Pat

When you are forming pie dough into a ball before rolling out, gather up the dough with both palms; press firmly together. Don't pat the dough together, or you'll probably over-work it. Turn the dough as you press it so that you have a ball-shaped mass.

Schafer Bakes The Bread That Makes The Meal

Spice Hot Fruit Punch

The punch that Mrs. Claude Leach makes is hot and spicy with a wonderful aroma. What makes it different is that it's made in a percolator.

WARMING HOUSE PUNCH

By Mrs. Claude Leach

2 cups cranberry juice
2 cups pineapple juice
2 cups water
1 tablespoon whole cloves
1 tablespoon whole allspice
2 sticks cinnamon
½ cup brown sugar
Dash of salt

Put juice and water in a percolator — not an automatic one. In the basket put spices and sugar.

Place on high heat until it perks. Perk 10 minutes, then lower heat. Serve hot. Makes 6-8 servings.

Changes Come in Fruit Juices

Changes are in store for consumers who buy canned orange juice and frozen concentrated orange juice as a result of revisions of the grade standards for these food products made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which is responsible for food grade standards, says these changes will bring permitted ingredients, additives and concentrations of orange juice into line with definitions and standards of the Food and Drug Administration.

Of special interest to homemakers will be a possible change in the rule of thumb for mixing frozen concentrated juice — 3 cans of water for each can of concentrate.

Under the standardization changes, manufacturers will be permitted to sell more highly concentrated juice.

As a result, homemakers will be able to make more juice from the same size can they now buy.

The new USDA standards also will allow manufacturers to add limited amounts of some citrus juices — such as tangerine juice — for better color and flavor.

Sweeteners can be added also if necessary for improved flavor. However, the orange solids content must meet a minimum weight standard regardless of how much sweetener is added.

When you make a batch of apple chutney, allow the flavors of the ingredients to blend and mellow before serving it.

LOUISIANA YAMS POTPOURRI — Louisiana yams, onion, celery and peas combine with juicy tender ham for a hearty wintertime dish. Additional flavor comes from sliced broiled mushrooms and liquid, bouillon and seasonings.

Ham and Sweets Mingle in Hot Pot

The word potpourri means a medley or mixture. Perhaps a blend of herbs comes to mind when you think of it in reference to cooking, but there are other areas in which this word applies and one is a mixture of vegetables and ham for wintertime eating pleasure.

During Louisiana Yam Supper Season try this recipe for your family. You'll notice it has a hearty broth made extra rich and zesty by the mushroom liquid, bouillon and tarragon.

These reasons, plus the wonderful vitamin content of Louisiana yams, make them ideal for teaming with other vegetables.

Make certain you spoon up every last ounce of it because if you don't you're missing something mighty good.

Louisiana Yams Potpourri

- 4 medium yams, peeled and sliced*
- 3 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 small onion, sliced
- ⅔ cup sliced celery
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, partially thawed
- 3 cups (12 ounces) cubed cooked ham
- 1 can (3 ounces) sliced broiled-in-butter mushrooms, undrained
- ½ teaspoon garlic salt
- ½ teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- ¼ teaspoon leaf tarragon
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups chicken bouillon or broth
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch

In large skillet, saute yam slices in oil until lightly browned; remove and drain on paper towels. In same skillet, saute onion, celery, peas and ham.

Reserve 1 tablespoon mushroom liquid. Add remaining liquid and mushrooms to ham mixture. Return yams to skillet; sprinkle with seasonings. Pour bouillon over all. Bring to boil.

Blend cornstarch with reserved mushroom liquid; stir into boiling mixture. Boil ½ minute. Serve hot.

*Place raw, peeled and sliced yams in cold water to cover, to prevent darkening while preparing and measuring remaining ingredients.

Round Steak Has Several Sections

Round steak can be divided into two portions called top or inside round and bottom or outside round steak.

To divide the meat at home, leave the bone in the larger section of meat and cut crosswise just under the bone. The top portion then contains the round bone and larger section of meat with an additional small section of meat around the bone.

The boneless bottom portion has three areas of meat outlined by connective tissue.

When you purchase round steak at the meat market, the choice of top or bottom depends upon your preference and use.

The top portion is slightly more tender than the bottom portion. Both pieces are more juicy and tender when braised, the method suggested by the American Meat Institute.

Braising is a method of moist-heat cookery in which the meat is browned in a little hot fat, then cooked slowly in a covered utensil, usually with a small amount of added liquid.

Pinkness Is OK

Your poultry meat may be thoroughly roasted and yet be pinkish in color. A number of factors account for this color, among them the age of the bird and the amount of fat in the skin, the degree of heat of the oven and whether the bird is roasted in an open or covered pan.

"AN elna IS TWO SEWING MACHINES IN ONE"

(SO IT MUST BE EXPENSIVE!)

Not so! Our wily competitors would like you to think that. When you mention the name Elna to them . . . they'll say, "Yes . . . an Elna does (this is true) the work of two machines". But they'll quickly add, "An Elna will cost you (this is not true) twice as much as our best machine."

Take heed! Before you buy any machine (even the polyunsatured models) be sure to see the Elna. Yes, Elna does do the work of two machines: it has all the features of conventional machines . . . plus extras such as completely built-in cams, interchangable double discs, universal tension which needs no adjustment, a no-jam rotary hook (which, incidentally, really does!) jam), and an automatic bobbin extractor.

FRUIT SPARKLE — Fruit punch goes modern in tall, slim "tulip" glasses — an appealing way to serve beverages if you didn't happen to inherit great-grandmother's punch bowl. Appealing, too, to weight-watchers is this Fruit Sparkle's calorie count—a sugar substitute helps to keep it low.

Fruit Punch Is Sugar-Free

Earlier generations thought fruit punches a delectable way of dispensing hospitality. And, indeed, they were, with their tangy flavors, their pretty garnishes, and their ability to refresh.

Now, fruit punches boast yet another virtue, for which, see the recipe below—it's low-calorie and sugar-free, but sweetly delicious, all the same, thanks to Pillsbury's liquid no calories sweetener.

Tempting enough to please even non-dieters, it's also a welcome way to make stalwart weight-watchers feel light of conscience and part of the party, too!

Fruit Sparkle

3 cups cold water
½ cup lime juice
½ cup lemon juice
2½ to 3 teaspoons liquid no calorie sweetener
1 quart sugar free lemon-lime carbonated beverage, chilled orange slices

Combine in punch bowl, water, lime-lemon juice, sweetener. Just before serving, add carbonated beverage and crushed ice. Garnish with orange slices and mint leaves, if available. Makes 2½ quarts.

About 25,000 babies are born with or develop cerebral palsy each year in the U.S. and the annual cost of care for 600,000 victims is $500 million.

Fit the Family

When you invest in kitchen utensils, buy those that suit the size of your family and your particular needs. A widely available food mill, for example, comes in both ¾-quart and 2-quart sizes.

Danish Recipe From a Winner

Mrs. Arnold Nelson doesn't make plain old meatballs. She makes Danish Frikadeller. Usually these are a combination of pork and beef.

Danish Frikadeller

2 pounds ground lean pork and beef mixed, or all beef
2 onions, grated
4 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs
⅓ cup milk or cream

Mix all ingredients except milk. Add milk slowly, mixing well after each addition until mixture is of consistency to form into balls with a tablespoon.

Fry in butter or margarine in uncovered skillet until meatballs or brown, or about 30 minutes. Make gravy from drippings.

Meat Loaf Is Stuffed

Have you ever stuffed a meat loaf? It's an excellent way to extend an already economical dish.

First prepare your own special meat loaf mixture, using 1½ pounds ground meat, and place half the mixture in a greased 4½ x 8½-inch loaf pan.

Prepare your favorite stuffing recipe, using about 4 cups crumbled enriched bread, and spread over meat mixture.

Cover with remaining meat and bake in pre-heated 350 degrees oven 1½ hours.

Pork Must Be Done

You can vary the temperature (using a meat thermometer) to which you roast beef, but pork should always be roasted to an internal temperature of 185 degrees.

Cranberries Help Ham

Next time you find yourself saying, "won't you stay for dinner,"—and wishing there were something a little more glamourous than that ham in the oven, you can glamourize the ham in five minutes flat.

Just take a can of whole-berry cranberry sauce, soften it over hot water, add about ¼ cup of brown sugar and 2 tablespoons of lemon juice, and spread the mixture over the ham.

The result is a luscious glaze that looks and tastes as though you slaved all day over it.

It's Kitchen-Tested

Bake this meatloaf in a ring mold.

Western Beef Ring

2 lbs. lean ground chuck
⅔ cup package bread crumbs
2 eggs
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 cup barbecue sauce

Mix meat and bread crumbs. Lightly stir in remaining ingredients with 1 cup barbecue sauce. Using a 4½ cup ring mold, form meat into large ring.

Turn out into 9-inch round cake pan (spring form pan facilitates serving). Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes. Remove from oven, baste with additional barbecue sauce.

Return to oven for 15 minutes to finish cooking. Makes 6-8 servings. Place parsley in center of ring for garnish.

How to Simmer Fully Described

Here is a method recommended by the American Meat Institute that is often used for cooking cuts such as corned beef, fresh brisket, hocks, ham shanks and smoked tongue:

1. Cover meat with hot water.
2. Season with salt and pepper unless cooking cured or smoked meats such as corned beef, ham or smoked tongue. Add a peeled onion and herbs or spices, if desired.
3. Cover and cook over low heat at simmering temperature (just below the boiling point) until done. (Forty to 50 minutes per pound for smoked pork; 50 minutes per pound for tongue.)

Bake a Flank Steak With Herb Stuffing

Characteristic of wintertime cooking across the nation are the pungent aromas of old-fashioned stews, soups and casseroles. These hearty dishes satisfy appetites and keep tabs on the food budget, too.

So it is with Flank Steak with Herb Stuffing — an excellent way to serve steak inexpensively. Subtly herb - seasoned bread stuffing makes each serving of steak a generous one and adds its own special texture and flavor.

Flank Steak with Herb Stuffing is so easy to prepare because your oven does most of the work.

Garnish the steak with canned sliced mushrooms browned in the meat drippings and carry it proudly to the table.

Flavor alone is enough to recommend Flank Steak with Herb Stuffing for many a winter meal — but this is only a part of its goodness. Most important is its nutritional contribution.

The stuffing made from enriched bread, literally the "heart" of the dish, has essential B-vitamins and the mineral iron, and the flank steak contributes protein and other nutrients.

Flank Steak with Herb Stuffing

1 flank steak (about 1½ pounds)
4 cups soft finely crumbled enriched white bread (about 8 slices)
½ cup melted butter or margarine
1 cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons minced parsley
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon basil
½ teaspoon marjoram
1 beef bouillon cube
1 cup hot water
½ cup sliced mushrooms, drained (4-ounce can)

Score one side of steak in diamond pattern. Mix together bread, butter or margarine, celery, onion, parsley, salt, pepper, basil and marjoram.

Spread stuffing over unscored side of steak. Pack down firmly. Starting with short end roll up steak jelly roll - fashion. Fasten edge and ends with skewers or tie with string.

Place steak in small roasting pan or large skillet. Dissolve bouillon cube in water and pour over steak.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 2 hours or until steak is tender. Baste with liquid every 15 minutes.

Remove steak to heated serving plate and keep warm. Brown mushrooms in pan drippings. Spread mushrooms over steak.

To carve, cut across the roll in 1-inch slices. Makes 4 servings.

Veal Steaks Browned Before Being Barbecued

Frequently sauces are served with mildly flavored meats to enhance the meat flavor.

In the case of barbecued veal cutlets, the sauce is not only served with the meat, but it also provides the braising liquid used for cooking.

To serve six people, purchase two veal round steaks to be cut into servings for each of them.

Brown the cutlets first, then add pungent seasonings like soy sauce, catchup and Worcestershire sauce to make the barbecue sauce.

Barbecued Veal Cutlets

2 veal round steaks, cut ¾-inch thick
¼ cup lard or drippings
3 tablespoons soy sauce
3 tablespoons catchup
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 garlic clove, finely chopped

Cut veal round steaks into 6 servings. Brown cutlets slowly in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine remaining ingredients, mixing thoroughly. Pour sauce over cutlets.

Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes to 1 hour or until done. 6 servings.

Alert Family Beforehand

Do you have a problem getting your family to eat a good breakfast? Here's a trick that may sound silly at first, but it's apt to work.

Print a breakfast menu the night before and post it on the family bulletin board. You'd be surprised at the interest it can create in a meal often neglected.

Items to make the menu especially interesting, suggests the American Meat Institute, are crisp bacon, Canadian - style bacon, pork sausage links and patties, ham slices, ground beef patties, dried beef and fried luncheon meat slices.

STUFFED STEAK — What could be a finer, more delicious dish to set before your family than this tasty Flank Steak with Herb Stuffing?

Spanish Style Steak Is Zippy

"Ole," the Spanish shout when something strikes them as being especially fine. Your family will shout "Ole" when you serve them round steak, Spanish-style.

Flavorful round steak takes on new taste appeal prepared this way. The unique flavor is due to a skillful blending of celery, onion, tomatoes, stuffed olives, garlic salt and red wine vinegar with round steak.

Long, slow cooking makes the beef juicy and fork tender.

Round Steak, Spanish-Style

3 pounds boneless round steak, cut 1¼ inches thick
1-3 cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon garlic salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons shortening
2 cups sliced onion
1 cup sliced celery
1 can (8 ounce) tomato sauce
¼ cup red wine vinegar
½ cup sliced, stuffed olives

Combine flour, salts and pepper. Pound seasoned flour into meat on both sides.

Brown meat on both sides, in hot shortening turning once. Sprinkle remaining flour mixture over meat. Add onion, celery, tomato sauce and vinegar.

Cover; simmer until meat is tender, 2 to 2¼ hours. (A small amount of water may be added to pan if needed.)

Sprinkle olives over meat 15 minutes before end of cooking time. Yield: 8 servings.

ROUND STEAK, SPANISH-STYLE — Tender, flavorful round steak is skillfully blended with aromatic spices, tomatoes, onions and stuffed olives. Bravo!

THREE-WAY FRUIT SALAD — One basic recipe offers three tasty fruit salad variations. Instant nonfat dry milk adds fluffiness to make a smooth fruit salad dressing which can be made into a 24-hour salad or frozen salad.

A Fluffy Fruit Dressing Can Become Salads

Salads are fun for everyone, so it's always a pleasure to discover a new, appealing salad recipe to serve a crowd. Here's one that's not only delicious and refreshing, but also versatile.

Starting with the same basic recipe, you can create a Fluffy Fruit Dressing to serve over a variety of fruits, or use the dressing as a main ingredient in a Fluffy 24-Hour Fruit Salad or Frozen Fruit Salad.

Enjoy one . . . two . . . three salads from the same delightful recipe.

Fluffy Fruit Salad Dressing

2 eggs
½ cup sugar
⅓ cup orange juice
⅓ cup lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
⅔ cup instant nonfat dry milk
⅔ cup cold water

In a small saucepan mix together eggs, sugar and orange juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened; blend in lemon juice and orange rind. Cool.

Sprinkle nonfat dry milk over water and beat until stiff peaks form; fold in fruit juice mixture. Serve over fruit salads. Dressing will keep several hours (covered and refrigerated). Makes 5 cups.

Fluffy Fruit Salad

Follow directions for Dressing except sprinkle 1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin over lemon juice to soften; add to cooked orange juice mixture along with orange rind, stirring well to dissolve.

When ready to fold mixture into whipped nonfat dry milk, also add 6 cups diced fresh and well-drained canned fruits. Chill several hours, or overnight before serving. Makes about 10 servings.

Frozen Fruit Salad

Follow directions for Dressing but add 5 cups diced fresh and well-drained canned fruits when folding mixture into whipped nonfat dry milk. Turn into two refrigerator trays, cover well and freeze.

★ ★ ★

When ready to serve, let stand at room temperature 5-10 minutes before cutting into squares or pie-shaped wedges. Serve on salad greens. Makes 10-12 servings.

★ ★ ★

Note: One fruit combination might include pears, oranges, grapes, bananas, dates and pineapple. Try other combinations, depending on fruits in season, interesting color and flavor combinations.

Twists Hide Ham, Cheese Bake as Duo

The perfect flavor combination of savory deviled ham and cheese is rolled and twisted into one hot snack that's scrumptious with any of the soups or beverages of the season.

A cheese-flavored roll is twisted with a deviled ham roll and fitted into a lightly oiled muffin tin.

Then they're baked until golden brown — and the distinctive flavors of deviled ham and cheese are beautifully blended together.

Spicy Hot Twisters

1 package refrigerated biscuits (10)
1 4½-ounce can deviled ham
¼ cup finely grated cheddar cheese

Separate biscuits and roll each biscuit into a strip about 6" x 2".

Spread half of strips with a generous tablespoon of deviled ham. Cover each of the others with 2 teaspoons of grated cheese.

Roll each biscuit lengthwise, seal seams, and twist a ham roll with a cheese roll. Seal ends, and fit into lightly oiled muffin cups.

Bake at 375 degrees about 15 minutes, until golden brown. Makes 5 twin twists.

Souffle Has to Stand a While

Put this recipe away in your Lenten file. It is an excellent luncheon dish.

It was given by Mrs. John Mahony last summer.

Immediate past president of the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Auxiliary, she has been appointed publicity chairman of the southeast region for the auxiliary.

FOOLPROOF SOUFFLE

By Mrs. John Mahony

8 slices firm white bread
Butter
Green onions, shredded
6 eggs
3 cups milk
Salt and pepper
1 pound medium sharp cheese

Trim crusts from bread and butter both sides. Cut into small cubes. Butter 9-inch baking dish and sprinkle in cubes of bread. Cover with shredded green onion.

Stir up eggs, milk and seasonings. Grate cheese over bread and pour egg mixture over all. Sprinkle with paprika.

Let stand in refrigerator overnight. Remove and let stand at room temperature for 30 minutes before baking. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

This may be frozen before baking.

You may add crabmeat, lobster or chicken before grating cheese over the bread.

MRS. JOHN MAHONY

Bread Keeps Best in Clean Dry Box

Keep your daily supply of bread in a clean dry breadbox in a handy spot in the kitchen. Keep it, too, in its own wrapper. As you use it, refold the paper snugly over the opened end so the slices fit close to one another.

In really hot, humid weather take special care to see that the breadbox is well ventilated to keep the bread fresh and prevent it from molding.

Shrimp Dish Is Different

Here's a recipe to prepare ahead of time and still serve in style. It's simple and tasty . . . a company-pleaser both in appearance and taste.

BIG BOWL SHRIMP ORIENTAL

⅛ cup salad oil
1 large mild onion, sliced thin
1 cup celery sliced
1 can (4-oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
1½ cups cooked asparagus cuts and tips
1 lb. fresh shrimp, shelled and deveined
1 can (5-oz.) water chestnuts, sliced and drained
1 can (11-oz.) mandarin orange sections drained
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
4 cups cooked rice

Pour salad oil into electric fry pan, add next six ingredients in layers. Sprinkle with soy sauce, sugar and salt.

Cover pan and set thermostat at 300 degrees until contents begin to steam, then lower heat and simmer for 15 minutes or until shrimp are done and vegetables are crispy tender.

Serve in individual bowls topped with scoop of hot fluffy rice.

When you want to use ham for kebobs, alternate the meat on skewers with pineapple chunks and green pepper slices.

Sesame Adds New Flavor to Pork

An exotic herb like sesame seeds, a touch of color and flavor in paprika and a simple breading process make a company dish out of thrifty pork steaks.

Preparing pork shoulder steaks in this way illustrates an importane preparation step according to meat expert Reba Staggs. This is slow cooking.

It's used in browning the steaks after they've been breaded as well as when they're cooked covered with a small amount of water added.

Sesame seeds are flat and pale yellow. They'll add a novel flavor touch that goes well with pork.

Hostess Pork Steaks

4 pork shoulder steaks, cut ½-inch thick
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons milk
⅓ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons sesame seeds
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 tablespoons water

Blend egg with milk. Combine flour, salt, pepper, paprika and sesame seeds. Dip steaks in egg mixture, then in flour mixture.

Brown steaks in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add water. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes to 1 hour or until done. 4 servings.

Pineapple Cheese Omelet for Brunch

Deluxe Hawaiian Pancake is actually a puffy omelet, cooked in a skillet in the oven.

Stiffly beaten egg yolks are folded into stiffly beaten egg whites to give the omelet-pancake its high, light texture. Pineapple juice beaten into the egg yolks gives a very subtle fruit flavor.

As the pancake bakes, a sauce of crushed pineapple and a touch of lemon is heated through.

Grated cheddar cheese is sprinkled over the omelet before it is carefully folded and rolled onto a warm oven-proof platter.

The hot pineapple sauce is gently poured over the omelet, topped with the remaining cheese, and popped under the broiler just long enough for the cheese to melt.

A puffy omelet of this nature should be served immediately.

The Hawaiian Pancake is ideal for a brunch, luncheon or light supper. One pancake generously serves two people.

A platter of boiled ham or cold cuts and a crisp garden salad is a perfect accompaniment to the omelet.

Serve hot bran muffins with the omelet and top off the meal with fresh peach shortcake.

Deluxe Hawaiian Pancake

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup pineapple juice
4 egg yolks
⅓ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 cup grated cheese
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Melt butter in a 10-inch skillet. Beat egg yolks until thick; gradually add pineapple juice, flour and salt, beating continually. Fold into beaten egg whites.

Pour batter into skillet and bake in a 450 degree (hot) oven for 12 minutes or until delicate brown.

As the pancake bakes, combine crushed pineapple, lemon peel and juice in a saucepan; heat over medium heat. When pancake is done, remove from oven and sprinkle half the grated cheese over it.

Roll pancake using two forks; place on heatproof platter. Pour pineapple sauce over it and sprinkle with remaining cheese.

Place under broiler until cheese melts. Serve immediately. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

DELUXE HAWAIIAN PANCAKE — Here is a puffy omelet with a Hawaiian touch. It won a price in a national egg cooking contest. You can serve it for brunch, luncheon or a light supper.

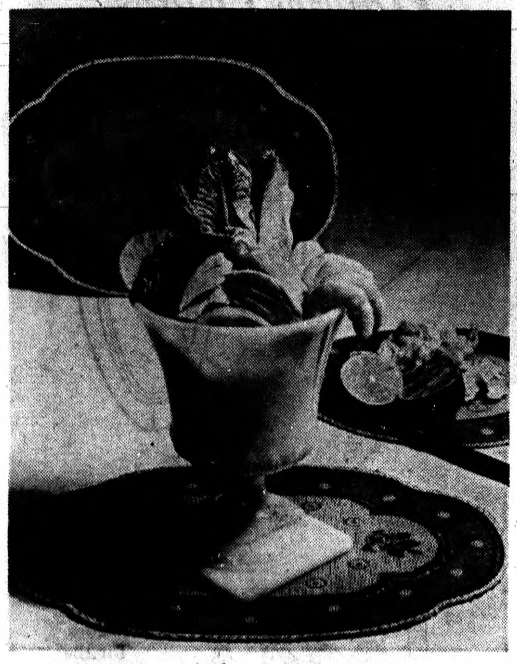
Tuna-Shrimp Salad Has Appeal

If you want to take the low road on cholesterol in your diet, rely on tuna and shrimp, or other seafood, which provide protein without fat.

A bowl of tuna, crisp greens and vegetables not only makes a satisfying luncheon that's low cholesterol, but one that's low calorie, too — if you skip the mayonnaise!

Even men, usually hearty meat eaters, are lunching on salads occasionally these cholesterol-conscious days, but women are watching it, too.

So you may want to count on this Tuna-Shrimp Salad for your next bridge luncheon. Follow it with fresh fruit for dessert.



TUNA-SHRIMP SALAD — Chunks of tuna and plump, pink shrimp make a whole-meal salad. Dressed with a zesty mixture of lime juice, catsup and wine, it's not only low cholesterol, but low calorie, too.

Rich pastry, pie or cake has animal fat, too. (Butter, whipped cream, shortening in them — remember?)

Incidentally, the oil found naturally in tuna, like that in other fish, contains some polyunsaturated fatty acids. These are credited with reducing the amount of cholesterol in the bloodstream.

They're also found in polyunsaturated oils — those made from seeds such as peanuts, corn, cotton and safflower seeds — which are called vegetable oils, and in which tuna is packed.

So tuna scores in more ways than one for low-cholesterol diets.

Tuna-Shrimp Salad

½ cup catsup
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire
¼ teaspoon grated lime peel
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup lime juice
2 tablespoons dry white wine
2 cans (6½ to 7 ounces each) solid-pack tuna, drained
¾ pound shrimp, cooked, shelled and cleaned
Shredded lettuce
Lime wedges

Mix together catsup, Worcestershire, lime peel, salt, lime juice and wine in bowl. Add tuna and shrimp; mix thoroughly and chill. Serve in lettuce-lined cocktail glasses garnished with lime wedges.

Fold light mixtures that hold air, such as whipped cream or stiffly beaten egg whites, into solid mixtures rather than vice-versa.

Tap Water Is OK for Whipping

EAST LANSING — You can use tap water instead of ice water to make whipped toppings from non-fat dry milk.

Tap water can be used because non-fat dry milk acts more like an egg white or other protein foam, which calls for room temperature mixing conditions, says Dr. Pearl Aldrich, research coordinator for the Michigan State University College of Home Economics.

Whipped milk and cream toppings are high in fat and require ice cold ingredients and utensils.

Dr. Aldrich recommends the following procedure:

- Whip on low speed until the milk and water are completely mixed. Then whip on high speed until the foam forms soft peaks.
- Add a little acid (usually lemon juice) to help the mixture form a stiff foam. Continue to whip until the foam holds stiff peaks.
- You are now ready to add your other ingredients, such as sugar and fruit. These should be folded into the mixture carefully.

Use the proportions of ingredients called for on the non-fat dry milk carton. These will vary a little among brands.

A thoroughly chilled dessert, served on the same day it is prepared, is the tastiest. It loses its fluffiness and begins to separate if it stands overnight in the refrigerator.

Dr. Aldrich suggests that chopped fruit or fruit purees combine well with whipped toppings for a pleasing dessert that is modest in calories.

While non-fat dry milk toppings are a boon to dieters, they do not really take the place of whipped cream for many desserts.

Dr. Aldrich points out that whipped non-fat dry milk lacks the rich taste and feel of whipped cream. It also has a somewhat sharp flavor from the acid that is added.

Fruit Cream Is Luscious Pink

Although this chiffon-type pie doesn't call for one speck of whipped cream, it tastes remarkably creamy.

The flavor is a great combination of pineapple, orange and coconut.

Pineapple Ambrosia Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 can (8¾-ounce) crushed pineapple
½ cup orange juice
3 eggs separated
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
Coconut Crust

In a heavy saucepan over low heat, stir together the gelatin, salt and ¼ cup of the sugar. Stir in the undrained pineapple and the orange juice. Cook and stir constantly over low heat until gelatin dissolves.

Beat egg yolks and stir in; continue cooking and stirring over low heat until mixture thickens slightly. Remove from heat; stir in orange rind. Cool to lukewarm.

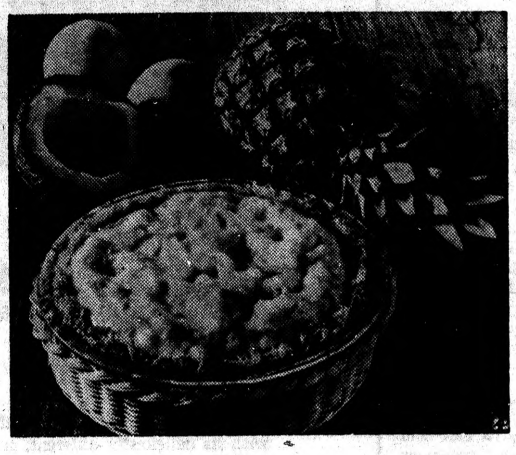
Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar, continuing to beat if necessary until very stiff and glossy. Fold into lukewarm mixture.

Turn into cooled baked Coconut Crust. Chill until firm.

Coconut Crust

1½ cups flaked coconut
2 tablespoons butter, soft

Thoroughly mix together the coconut and butter. Pat evenly over bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate. Bake in a slow (300 degrees) oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Cool.



PINEAPPLE AMBROSIA PIE — A creamy filling of crushed pineapple with a hint of orange nestles in an easy-to-make coconut crust.

Raisin Bourbon Balls Are No Cook Candy

Finely chop 2 cups of each dark seedless raisins and pecans. Combine with 1 pound crushed vanilla wafers, ½ pound powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons cocoa, 6 ounces bourbon and 1-3 cup light corn syrup.

Mix with hands and shape in 1-inch balls; roll in powdered sugar. Store in air tight container. Makes 6 dozen.

Count on a medium-sized eggplant weighing about one pound.

CORNER NORTH PERRY AT GLENWOOD

Crimson Top for This Cheese Cake

Birthday, anniversary or holiday . . . what an elegant occasion each can be! With the warm glow of candlelight, fragile china and a selection of choice refreshments the festivities become even more meaningful.

Whatever the occasion, the refreshments should be both lovely to look at and good to eat.

There's one thing for certain, a cheese cake is one of the most impressive desserts that hostesses can find to bring gaiety to party planning.

Cranberry Chiffon Cheese Cake, a beauty of delicate chiffon quality, will shimmer in the candles' glow. The recipe combines cottage cheese and cream cheese with a subtle tinge of lemon in a delicate gelatin base.

And, for a real party touch there is a luscious cranberry glaze garnished with a sprinkling of almonds.

Cranberry Chiffon Cheese Cake

¾ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¾ cup milk
2 eggs
2 cups cottage cheese
1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup whipping cream
1 cup fine graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup melted butter, OR margarine

Cranberry Glaze

Combine ½ cup of the sugar, salt and gelatin, milk and slightly beaten egg yolks in a saucepan. Cook over low heat until mixture coats a spoon, stirring.

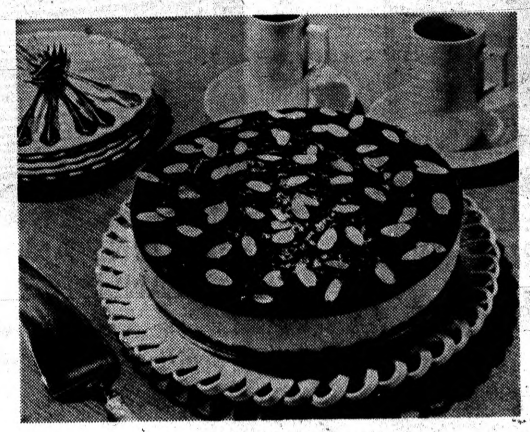
Mix sieved cottage cheese, softened cream cheese, lemon rind and juice. Add custard, mixing until smooth; chill until partially thickened. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream.

Combine crumbs with remaining ¼ cup of sugar and butter; mix well. Line bottom of a 9-inch spring form pan with crumbs. Fill with cheese mixture and chill until firm.

Carefully loosen cake from pan and remove ring; loosen on bottom and slip to serving platter. Spread Cranberry Glaze over the top; chill until serving time. (If desired, garnish with sliced almonds.) Eight to ten servings.

Cranberry Glaze

Soften 1 envelope unflavored gelatin in ⅓ cup cold water; heat over hot water until dissolved. Add to a can (1 lb.) jellied cranberry sauce and beat until smooth, using a rotary beater. Chill until partially thickened.



CRANBERRY CHEESE CAKE — For refreshment elegance, party hostesses can rely on a Cranberry Chiffon Cheese Cake. Preparation is easy for this gelatin cheese cake. A subtle hint of lemon enhances the flavors of the delicate molded cheese base, and for added beauty and richness the jellied cranberry glaze is perfect.

Spice Fruit in Syrup

Spiced prunes are a tasty accompaniment to poultry and roasts . . . and can be prepared and stored in the refrigerator for use at will. This recipe makes enough for about 10 servings.

Rinse 1 pound large prunes, cover with cold water; boil 10 to 12 minutes; drain. Combine 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup water, 1 teaspoon ground cloves and 1 teaspoon cinnamon; boil 1 minute. Add prunes; bring to boil. Refrigerate.

FINNSKA KAKON
By Mrs. John K. Kleene

¾ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
Finely chopped almonds

Mix together first four ingredients. Roll ¼-inch thick and cut into strips ¾ by 2½ inches.

★ ★ ★

Brush with slightly beaten egg white. Sprinkle with sugar and finely chopped almonds, mixed. Bake 15-20 minutes at 350 degrees.

Some cooks assert that waffles are lightest when the batter is made with eggs whose yolks and whites are separated and well beaten.

Teen-Age Winner Gives Recipe

A teen-ager won one of the ranges given away at the 1964 Pontiac Press Cooking School. Linda Beegle of 342 Coats Road Orion Township, was the lucky girl.

Linda had the range until just recently when it became necessary for her to sell it. So, there's no picture of Linda beaming over a hot stove.

CREAMY WHITE FROSTING
By Linda Beegle

1 cup milk
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup butter
½ cup white vegetable shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook milk and flour together until thick. Cool to lukewarm.

This is very important, Linda says.

Beat in butter and shortening until mixture is fluffy. Add sugar in small amounts. Add vanilla and beat until frosting is thick and creamy.

Linda says it is almost impossible to get the right consistency unless you have an electric mixer.

She likes the frosting on a chocolate chip cake.

MOM'S RECIPE

Linda's mother, Mrs. Charles Beegle, has a recipe in the recently published cookbook, "Favorite Recipes of Michigan."

Mrs. Beegle is the president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Oxford Free Methodist Church.

Don't you like the name of her recipe?

BEEGLE BURGERS
By Mrs. Charles Beegle

1½ pounds ground beef
1 medium onion
¼ green pepper, sliced
¼ cup celery, diced
1 small can mushrooms
1 egg
Salt and pepper to taste
1 can mushroom soup
½ cup milk

Combine all ingredients except soup and milk. Mix well; form into patties. Brown quickly in small amount of shortening.

Cover with soup and milk mixture. Simmer for 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

LUNCH BOX GOODIES — Fresh fruit is important in the lunch box. Even in winter, you can find pears for your school child or your husband. Either one would also enjoy sandwiches made with nut bread.

Keep the Lunchbox Menus Varied

Give tomorrow's lunch boxes a new look! For the traditional sandwiches use variety breads with true home baked goodness.

Lunch Box Nut Bread is truly a quick bread, using biscuit mix. Assembled in less time than it takes to preheat the oven, this nut bread is sure to please the cook as well as the consumer!

For an even quicker dessert with superb appetite appeal, tuck fresh winter pears in the lunch boxes. Whether munched whole or eaten as shapely slices cut with a pear cutter, fresh Western pears abound in flavor and satisfaction.

Anjou, the all-purpose pear that remains in season the longest, is a light green color when ripe.

Bosc have russet skins and long, tapering necks.

Comice, the well-known gift box pear, is heart-shaped and sometimes shows a faint blush on its yellow-green skin.

It's also easy to know when fresh Western pears are ripe and ready to eat for, regardless of color, they will yield to gentle pressure. Should you buy firm pears, simply hold them at room temperature for a few days and they will mature to juicy good ripeness.

LUNCH BOX NUT BREAD

½ cup sugar
1 egg
1¼ cups milk
1 cup chopped nuts
3 cups biscuit mix

Combine sugar, egg, milk and ¾ cup nuts. Add biscuit mix and stir just until blended. Pour into greased (5x9-inch) loaf pan. Sprinkle remaining chopped nuts over the top. Bake at 350 degrees 50 minutes.

NOTE: Lunch Box Nut Bread slices best the second day. Spread with butter or make into cheese sandwiches for a good, packable lunch box treat.

It's Kitchen-Tested

Satisfy your sweet tooth with this quick recipe.

Remarkable Fudge

⅔ cup undiluted evaporated milk
1⅔ cups sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups miniature marshmallows
1½ cups Nestle Semi-Sweet Morsels
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped Diamond Pecans

Mix evaporated milk, sugar and salt in a saucepan on the temperature controlled burner set at 175 degrees. Heat to boiling, then cook 5 minutes stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Add marshmallows, semi-sweet morsels, vanilla and pecans. Stir 1-2 minutes until marshmallows melt.

Pour into buttered 8" square pan. Chill until firm. Cut into squares to serve. Yield: 36 pieces.

A young homemaker knows that children like sugar cookies.

SOFT SUGAR COOKIES

By Mrs. Clarence Barnes

4 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup soft butter or 1-3 cup EACH margarine, lard and vegetable shortening
1½ cups sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 eggs
¾ cup sour cream

Sift dry ingredients. Cream butter and sugar with vanilla. Beat in eggs.

Add dry ingredients alternately with cream. Mix smooth after each addition. Chill at least an hour.

Roll out a third of the dough at a time to ¼-inch thickness. Cut with floured cutter.

Sprinkle with sugar and bake 9-10 minutes at 375 degrees. Store in airtight box with waxed paper between layers. Makes 40 cookies.

World Grieves Death of Churchill

Seven Killed in Ferndale House Fire

Father Escapes as Mother, 6 Children Perish in Blaze

DETROIT (AP)—Choking smoke from a house fire killed a mother and six children today while the father, already cut and bleeding from a rescue attempt, struggled with firemen in an effort to try again.

But while Harry Belcher struggled hysterically with firemen in an effort to re-enter the inferno, his wife and six young children lay dead in a smoke-filled second story bedroom.

The woman, two daughters and four sons all were dead on arrival this morning when rushed from their suburban Ferndale home to Beaumont Hospital in nearby Royal Oak.

Belcher, 32, was being treated for shock.

A neighbor, Dennis Lukasik, 24, was in fair condition with cuts received apparently when he also tried to enter the blazing structure.

★ ★ ★

The victims were Catherline Belcher, 33, her two daughters, Dawn, 9, and Melodie, 8, and sons Matthew, 6, Timothy, 5, Jeffrey, 3, and Daniel, 2. All died of smoke inhalation, the hospital said.

BLAMES WATER HEATER

Ferndale Fire Chief William McMurray said the fire apparently was caused by an overheated water heater flue which set fire to ceiling joints near the rear stairs.

★ ★ ★

McMurray said all the victims were found in Mrs. Belcher's bedroom.

He speculated that the children had gone there to attempt to awaken their mother.

Neighbors described Belcher, manager of the pattern supply division for a Ferndale machinery and supply company, as a hard-working father who last year took a second job as a shoe salesman to earn money for the childrens' Christmas presents.

★ ★ ★

Neighbors first learned of the disaster when they heard Belcher's shouts for help. Belcher, who apparently was sleeping downstairs, had run out of the house in search of aid.

CRAWLS ACROSS ROOM

Johnson's Budget Is Set at Record $99.7 Billion

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson in a message to Congress today said the first year of his Great Society will cost the nation a record $99.7 billion.

The President's budget message for fiscal 1966—which he hinted may be the last U.S. budget below $100 billion — called for:

- A $1.75-billion cut in excise taxes, without naming those to be reduced or repealed.
- A $2.1-billion increase in all Social Security cash benefits this year, amounting to 7 per cent on the average, but followed by a steep rise in the payroll tax next year.

See Stories, Page 20

- Hospital care for aged persons — perhaps 19 million citizens — with the taxpayers footing the bill for those not covered by Social Security. This would start in mid-1966.
- Quadruple spending in thte war on poverty.

Military and foreign aid outlays would be trimmed slightly, helping to reduce the budget deficit to $5.3 billion, or a billion dollars less than this year's red ink spending.

But federal outlays for education would be increased by more than 75 per cent, to $2.7 billion, in the fiscal year starting next July 1 because, as Johnson explained:

"It (education) is our primary weapon in the war on poverty and the principal tool for building a Great Society."

GOVERNMENT REVENUES

He estimated that government revenues would total $94.4 billion, also a record. This would mean a $3.2-billion rise in tax collections from 1964 to 1965, generated by an unprecedented fifth consecutive year of strong business expansion.

The President predicted a record prosperity for this calendar year —a prosperity with these dimensions:

National output at $660 billion, a gain of nearly $38 billion; corporation profits at $61 billion, up nearly $4 billion; personal incomes rising to $520 billion, up 6 per cent.

The word "trugal," used repeatedly in last year's budget message, did not appear in this one. The new budget, said Johnson is one of "both opportunity and sacrifice"; he went on:

RESTRAINED

"It begins to grasp the opportunities of the Great Society. It is restrained by the sacrifices we must continue to make to keep our defenses strong and flexible.

"This budget provides reasonably for our needs. It is not extravagant. Neither is it niserly."

But the cost-cutting and payroll-paring emphasis of a year ago was diluted, in today's message, by what Johnson called "the rising need for more public and private services" resulting from an increasing population, growing incomes and changing ways of life.

★ ★ ★

The budget provides, in fact, for a 1 per cent increase in the number of civilian employes.

EXPENDITURES TO RISE

"It is evident," Johnson conceded, "that unless defense

Bus Crashes Into Oil Tanker

Greyhound Driver Is Killed; 15 Riders Hurt

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — A Greyhound bus slammed into an overturned fuel oil tanker on a snow - slick road today, killing the bus driver and injuring 15 passengers, one critically.

The crash occurred on the Dixie Highway near an entrance ramp leading onto Interstate 75 near this small southeast Lower Michigan community.

The dead driver was identified as William A. DeView, 51, of Bay City.

State police said the truck driver, Ronald J. Nickel, 24, of Holly, told them he was preparing to turn from the Dixie Highway onto the ramp leading to I-75 when the double tandem tanker went out of control and overturned, spreading 10,000 gallons of fuel oil across the road.

★ ★ ★

Police said Nickel told them he was unsuccessful in an attempt to flag down the approaching bus, which impaled itself on the cab of the overturned tanker.

PUTS OUT FIRE

Nickel, who was uninjured, told police he put out a small fire which started on the bus after the collision, officers said.

Seven ambulances were dispatched from Saginaw, 10 miles north of the crash scene. The injured were taken to three Saginaw hospitals.

★ ★ ★

A Lapeer man, William McCormick, 44, was among the injured. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

The bus was making a regular run between Detroit and Saginaw and carried approximately 20 passengers.

Prominent City Civic Leader Dies

L. Clare Utley, prominent Pontiac industrialist, died Saturday after a brief illness. He was 57.

Funeral service will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Sparks-Griffin Funeral Home. Burial will be in Bristol Cemetery in Flint.

Utley was owner and president of National Industrial Supply Co. of Pontiac.

Active in civic affairs, he was president of the Pontiac City Club, a member of the Pontiac rea Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club of Pontiac and Camp 24.

He was past president of Flint Civitan Club, past master of Charles Durand Lodge No. 533, F&AM, Detroit Consistory, El Kur Shrine and BPOE No. 810.

A member of All Saints Episcopal Church, Mr. Utley lived at 261 Ottawa.

Surviving are his wife, Gladys; a daughter, Mrs. Victor P. Shaner of Wheaton, Ill.; a son, Martin C. Utley of Mattoon, Ill.; and four granddaughters.

School Starts Tomorrow for Area Cooks

Cooking school starts tomorrow. The Pontiac Press sixth annual food demonstration will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Pontiac Central High School.

Doors at the east end of the building will open at 12:30 and all those attending are asked to use these doors.

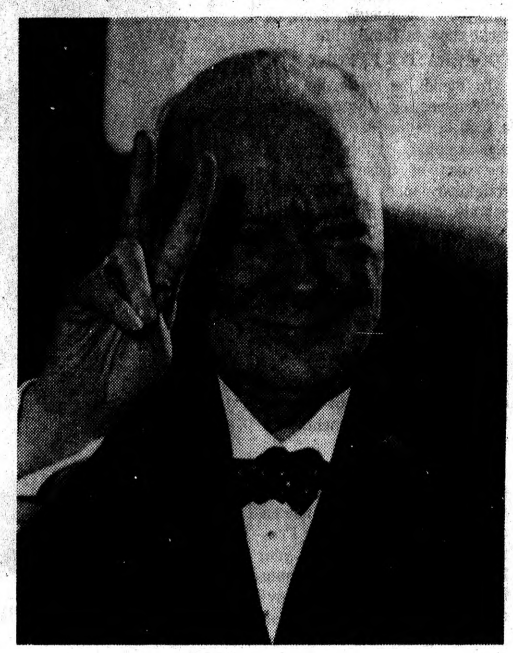
There will be afternoon sessions tomorrow, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Evening sessions at 7:30 will be offered for the first time Wednesday and Thursday.

Home economist Donna Punchochar who conducted last year's school is in town. The food is being delivered.

Prizes, including the largest array of "grand" awards ever given are ready to be claimed at the close of each session.

All food prepared on stage is given away. Dozens of bags of groceries, plus many many other prizes are in readiness.

Some tickets are still available at the Pontiac Press. Anyone in line after all ticket holders have been seated will be admitted, up to the legal limit of the auditorium.



Sir Winston Churchill

Honor, Praise Go to 'History's Child'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation heaped unprecedented honor and unstinted praise today on Sir Winston Churchill, whom President Johnson called "history's child."

Johnson ordered the American flag to be flown at half staff through Saturday wherever it appears, on government buildings and on ships on the seven seas, in mourning for the British statesman who died yesterday.

So far as anybody could determine this is the first time such an honor has been accorded to a foreigner. But then, many thought, Churchill was not a foreigner. Wasn't he half American — through his American mother?

And did not Congress, which listened enthralled to the British leader in the dark days succeeding Pearl Harbor, endow him with honorary American citizenship?

Johnson had this statement issued:

★ ★ ★

"When there was darkness in the world, and hope was low in the hearts of men, a generous providence gave us Winston Churchill.

★ ★ ★

"As long as men tell about that time of terrible danger and of the men who won the victory, the name of Churchill will live.

GIVE THANKS

"Let us give thanks that we knew him. With our grief let there be gratitude for a life so fully lived, for services so splendid, and for the joys he gave by the joy he took in all he did.

"The people of the United States — his cousins and his fellow-citizens—will pray with his British countrymen for God's eternal blessing on this man, and for comfort to his family.

"He is history's child, and what he said and what he did will never die."

Johnson, despite his uncomfortable cold, had issued orders that if Churchill died, he was to be notified immediately. Thus it was that the sad tidings were brought to him at 3:50 a.m. by Chief Petty Officer Thomas Mills at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

World Leaders to Attend Rites

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill lay at rest today while the world awaited the somber magnificence of a state funeral he planned for himself.

Monarchs, presidents and veteran statesmen will follow his coffin on its last journey Saturday. President Johnson may be among them.

Churchill died shortly after 8 a.m.—3 a.m., EST—yesterday at No. 28 Hyde Park Gate, the London house in which he had lived since retiring from the premiership in 1955.

★ ★ ★

Two months past his 90th birthday, he had suffered a stroke nine days before. Medical experts said he died peacefully and without pain.

As the world's tributes flowed in for the greatest Englishman of modern times, friends revealed that he first started planning his funeral ceremony during World War II.

In December 1943, he was in Cairo after talks with President Roosevelt and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and caught a cold which turned to pneumonia.

★ ★ ★

Half jokingly he told aides: "They'll have to give me a state funeral. President Roosevelt will have to come to London to attend it."

Special Section, Pages 16-19; See Pages 12, 27, 31, 48

FUNERAL BOOK

From this remark grew Churchill's "funeral book," laying down the procedure he wanted followed and even detailing the names of military units which should attend.

In 1954 he returned to the exercise. Some details inevitably were changed but the outline remained, including a funeral progress up the Thames River of the kind accorded in 1805 to Admiral Lord Nelson, hero of Britain's naval victories over the French.

Determined that everything should go without a hitch, he toured the route the cortege will take. The route is a study in stone of Churchill's life.

★ ★ ★

From the house where he spent his last years in London, the coffin will go on Wednesday to Westminster Hall, the ancient seat of England's freedoms, adjoining the House of Commons which was his stage.

LIE IN STATE

There it will lie in state for three days. Then through Whitehall, the seat of government, and past his old residence as prime minister, at No. 10 Downing Street.

At the head of Whitehall

Johnson Might Attend Funeral

Hospitalized LBJ May Fly to London

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's condition was described today as quite good, increasing speculation that he might be able to attend the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill.

Johnson told a group of reporters yesterday that he wants to attend the Churchill rites next Saturday but that a lot would depend on how his recuperation from a heavy cold and sore throat progressed.

Press secretary George E. Reedy said this morning no decision had been made yet on whether Johnson would fly to London.

Reedy said the President spent a very satisfactory night, resting comfortably, and that his temperature never went above 100. It was above normal, however.

★ ★ ★

In his second bedside news conference at the suburban Bethesda Naval Hospital, Johnson said he wants "very, very much" to attend the funeral Saturday. "A lot depends on how I feel in the next day or two," he added.

4 NEWSMEN

As four newsmen talked to him, the President seemed markedly improved.

Cheerfully, the President said: "It's all over with."

The doctors were not so sure, however. They want to keep him in the hospital until Thursday, for rest and to make sure the cold is licked.

★ ★ ★

When the four newsmen — "poolers" representing the many others congregated at the hospital — visited the President yesterday, he was clad in pastel-green pajamas with white piping and was chewing cough drops — Allenbury's pastilles, made in London.

SORE THROAT

The President said that his illness really amounted only to a sore throat, "but they call it by a fancy name." Now, he said, there is no discomfort in the throat.

The reason he agreed to enter the hospital at 2:50 a.m. Saturday, he said, was that half of the family was away and he could not object "if they wanted me to come out here where there are a lot of nice, pretty girls to wait on you."

Winter Drizzle Will Continue

Tomorrow promises no relief from the drizzly winter weather that has plagued the Pontiac area.

Slightly warming temperatures and cloudy skies will bring more showers. By Tuesday night the thermometer will begin to fall.

Predicted for Wednesday are lower temperatures with cloudy skies.

Lowest temperature prior to 8 a.m. today was 24. By 1 p.m. the thermometer crept to 29 in downtown Pontiac.

Pontiac Sales Set Record for January Period

Retail sales of 24,144 new Pontiacs and Tempests were reported by dealers during the middle 10 days of January, it was announced today by Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager for Pontiac Motor Division.

This represents an increase of 67 per cent over the same period a year ago when the figure was 14,501, Bridge said.

★ ★ ★

In reporting the sixth consecutive 10-day record, Bridge asserted this was the "strongest market" he's witnessed in 39 years of selling automobiles.

"Buyers' optimism is outstanding," Bridge added. "All indications are that this will be our best January ever."

World Reaction

Allies, Ex-Foes Hail Winston

LONDON (AP) — Former foe joined with friend today in mourning the death of Sir Winston Churchill. The onetime Axis powers heaped praise on the unrelenting adversary of World War II.

The Germans and Italians, Churchill's great wartime enemies, voiced tribute for the man who sparked the struggle that toppled their fascist rulers.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said: "The United Kingdom has lost one of the great statesmen of its history, the world a great fighter for the free democratic order.

Italian President Giuseppe Saragat said: "The glory which surrounded him in life will continue to shine from him even after death and so long as there is a free man on this earth his name will be remembered with gratitude."

★ ★ ★

The Japanese Broadcasting Corp. flashed Churchill's portrait framed in black on its screen Sunday and played a few bars of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, the victory theme of the war.

'GREAT LOSS'

Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato cabled the "deepest condolences" of his government and people and called Churchill's death "a great loss for the whole world."

French President Charles de Gaulle, often a trial to Sir Winston during the war, hailed him in a message to Lady Churchill as "my wartime companion and my friend."

To Queen Elizabeth, de Gaulle telegraphed that Churchill "contributed powerfully to the salvation of the French people and to the liberty of the world. In this drama he was the greatest."

Both Social, Economic

Crisis Near—Romney

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is heading toward a social and economic crisis, says Michigan Republican Gov. George Romney.

★ ★ ★

Declines in religious conviction and moral character, as well as "deterioration in family life" were cited by Romney Sunday as factors in what he termed a coming social crisis.

★ ★ ★

He pointed to what he called defects in the national economic policy in forecasting an economic crisis.

Romney said the defects would make it "more and more difficult" for America to "compete internationally in the economic field."

Romney expressed the views in a radio interview here that followed on his talk in Chicago Saturday night in which he deplored world conditions.

"No nation, and no people, can survive as islands of prosperity and plenty in a world that hungers and is filled with envy," he told the United Jewish Appeal at Chicago.

He said lessons must be learned from Jewish history or America will "fall short of its historic destiny and perish from the earth."

Romney, in a swift change of plans, had driven the 150 miles from Kalamazoo to Chicago Saturday after the weather grounded planes. He had delivered the Western Michigan University midwinter commencement speech.

NATION'S FUTURE

The governor talked about the nation's future Sunday in an interview on the Metropolitan Broadcasting Co.'s "Opinion in the Capital" program.

"The whole agricultural situation is on the wrong basis," he said.

Of morality, he said the following contribute to pending crisis:

"The decline in religious conviction, decline in local government and state government responsibility, decline in moral character, increasing crime, deterioration in family life."

COOPERATIVE EFFORT

To avoid the crisis, he said: "You answer it by developing a type of cooperative effort and encouraging a type of effort on the part of those responsible religiously and socially, the private institutions that are of help, as well as the public, and bring about a greater awarness of what we have to do individually and what we have to do as good citizens in this society."

Romney said the states should modernize their constitutions in order to block what he called centralization of further power in the federal government.

★ ★ ★

He repeated a belief the Republican party should broaden its base. He said he did not endorse Barry Goldwater for President in the election last year because of the Republican nominee's vote against the civil rights bill and his position on extremism."

Budget Hits $99.7 Billion

needs should decline substantially, government expenditures will continue to rise over the long run."

But the costs will rise less rapidly than the nation's ability to meet them, Johnson said.

Despite the 1966 increase, he said, federal spending will decline in relation to the Gross National Product — "to less than 15 per cent, the lowest ration achieved in 15 years."

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless, the federal debt will stand at an historic peak of $322.5 billion when the fiscal year has closed. Johnson served notice he will ask another increase in the debt ceiling fixed by Congress.

HIGHLIGHTS OF MESSAGE

These were among the highlights of the message:

● Defense — Spending would be reduced to $49 billion from $49.3 billion. Yet Americans, he said, can be sure they will have "a massive defense establishment of steadily growing power, within reduced outlays."

● Space — Big annual increases for space are being choked off. The proposed $200 million increase for $966, to $5.1 billion, compares with rises averaging a billion dollars a year since 1960.

The high-priority space targets are unchanged — a man on the moon by 1970 and, soon after, an unmanned probe for life on Mars.

● Poverty — A four-fold increase in the antipoverty programs will bring 1966 outlays to $1.3 billion.

● Appalachia — Obviously confident of quick approval by Congress of his plan to attack "chronic poverty" in the 11-state Appalachian region, Johnson asked $103 million for roads and resource development in what remains of this fiscal year, plus $507 million in fiscal 1966.

● Agriculture — this biggest domestic program suffers a $500-million cut, to $6.36 billion.

● Atomic energy — For the second successive year, atomic energy outlays are cut — to $2.53 billion from $2.7 billion. The country's nuclear force will not be weakened, Johnson pledged. And preparations have been finished so that nuclear testing in the atmosphere can be rsumed quickly if another nation violates the limited test ban treaty.

★ ★ ★

Foreign aid — Military and economic foreign aid outlays are budgeted for $3.2 billion, a cut of $50 million. This does not include the Peace Corps, up $25 million, or the Food for Peace Program, unchanged.

But putting a $1.75 billion limit on the promised excise tax reduction, Johnson was sure to disappoint many Congress members. Some have talked hopefully of slashes totaling $4 billion or more. Johnson's problem will be to fight off more cuts than he wants.

The President is not expected to specify the excise tax cuts until almost June 30, when some excises expire automatically.

Ex-Foes Join Allies in Tributes

death came from Queen Elizabeth II, last of the six sovereigns he served.

POLITICAL FOE

A political foe of Churchill while they served together in the House of Commons, Prime Minister Harold Wilson said:

"He will be mourned all over the world by all who owe so much to him. He is now at peace after a life in which he created history and which will be remembered as long as history is read."

Pope Paul VI went to his chapel to pray on hearing the news of Sir Winston's death and saluted him in a message to Lady Churchill as a "great statesman and indefatigable champion of freedom, independence and peace."

★ ★ ★

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander during World War II and one of Churchill's closest collaborators and friends, said:

"His indomitable courage, his indestructible faith in the society of free nations and in the dignity of free men typified our way of life."

TRUMAN COMMENTS

Former President Harry S. Truman, who succeeded President Franklin D. Roosevelt as Churchill's war partner, said "providentially his intrepid spirit came to the fore and proved decisive in defeating the forces of evil and darkness."

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin hailed Sir Winston's war role and said "the grief of the British people in connection with this bereavement is shared here."

But a Tass dispatch castigated Churchill as "the master-mind behind the cold war against the Soviet Union."

★ ★ ★

Polish Communist leaders — President Edward Ochab and Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz — Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz — called him "one of the greatest and most indomitable leaders of the anti-Hitler coalition of the second world war." President Tito of Yugoslavia hailed "his fighting spirit, tireless work and big contribution to the (Allied) victory."

BRAZIL MOURNS

Brazil, the only South American country which sent troops to fight in Europe during World War II, declared a national mourning.

In the little mud hut village of Kibera in Kenya, Chief Suleiman, one of the few surviving soldiers who fought, against Churchill at the battle of Omdurman in 1898, said simply: "He was a brave warrior."

President Ayub Khan of Pakistan said he was "deeply grieved." Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said: "The lasting tribute we can pay him is to continue to work for the principles of peace and democracy."

FLAG DIPPED IN TRIBUTE — The Union Jack flies at half-staff over Victoria Tower above the houses of Parliament in London today in tribute to Sir Winston Churchill. The British statesman's body will lie in state until Saturday at Westminster Hall.

Churchill Funeral Awaited

stands the Admiralty, always Churchill's favorite government office, and Trafalgar Square with its soaring staute of Nelson.

On down the Strand, with memories here of Churchillian nights out at the Savoy Grill and the now vanished Romano's, favorite haunt of Edwardian London.

★ ★ ★

Then into Fleet Street, London's newspaper row to which Churchill turned for a platform and for income in his youth and again in the years of political eclipse after World War I.

ST. PAUL'S

Finally to St. Paul's, Sir Christopher Wren's domed masterpiece where Britain traditionally takes leave of its heroes.

From St. Paul's the cortege will travel to the Thames. In the shadow of the tower Churchill's coffin will be put aboard a barge to travel up river to a pier near Waterloo Station.

Here the public ceremonial ends. The family will join the coffin on a private train and Churchill will be buried near his parents in a village churchyard in the heart of England.

★ ★ ★

Parliament was called together this afternoon to hear political leaders' tributes to Churchill and give formal approval to Queen Elizabeth's request that the funeral be made a state occasion.

AUTOMATIC APPROVAL

This approval is automatic. It is technically necessary since the funeral will involve some governmental expense.

The end was announced in a terse bulletin signed by his physician and lifelong friend, Lord Moran. At his bedside were Lady Churchill, his son, and his two daughters.

★ ★ ★

The queen, among the first to be informed of his death, immediately sent Lady Churchill this message:

★ ★ ★

"The news of Sir Winston's death caused inexpressible grief to me and my husband. We send our deepest sympathy to you and your family.

★ ★ ★

"The whole world is the poorer by the loss of his many-sided genius, while the survival of this country and the sister nations of the Commonwealth in the face of the greatest danger that has ever threatened them will be a perpetual memorial to his leadership, his vision, and his indomitable courage."

MANY STATESMEN

The funeral is expected to bring together the largest concourse of statesmen since that of President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

Diplomats said President Charles de Gaulle has unofficially let it be known that he expects to come.

They said the Soviet representative is likely to be President Anastas Mikoyan, whom Churchill knew well, or the new premier, Alexei N. Kosygin.

★ ★ ★

It will be the first state funeral for a British commoner since that of Prime Minister William E. Gladstone 67 years ago.

The service will be conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of the Church of England.

Burial will be in the small country churchyard in Bladon, 70 miles northwest of London. It is on the great Blenheim estate, home of the dukes of Marlborough, where Churchill was born. His father, Lord Randolph Churchill, was a son of the seventh duke, and Sir Winston died on the 71st anniversary of Lord Randolph's death.

Pontiac Scores in Auto Tests

Pontiac and Pontiac Tempest walked away with trunkful of honors over the weekend in the first tests in the annual Pure Oil performance trials at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Pontiac, along with Buick, dominated Detroit's V8 engine cars in the economy phase of the five-day event on Friday.

Acceleration tests were slated for today with braking tests tomorrow and Wednesday.

A Pontiac Bonneville Brougham, powered with a 359-horsepower engine, took first place in the luxury V8 class with 17.969 and 16.668 miles per gallon.

★ ★ ★

In the "deluxe" rated class, a 335-horsepower Bonneville finished on top with 19.551 and 17.949 miles per gallon.

ECONOMY

Economy honors among standard 6-cyclinder passenger cars went to a 140-horsepower Tempest in Saturday's performance trials. The winner registered 23.373 miles per gallon.

A similar model took third place behind a Ford Fairlane with 23.277 miles per gallon.

Buick picked up honors in the medium and small V8 classes.

★ ★ ★

A "440" Buick LeSabre registered 19.036 and 18.794 miles per gallon in the medium class, while a deluxe Buick Special finished first among the small V8's with 21.382 and 20.689 miles per gallon.

RUNNER-UP

A Pontiac Tempest LeMans was runner-up among the small V8's with 19.960 miles per gallon.

Saturday's economy trials saw Rambler successfully defend its title for the sixth straight year as the economy champion of all American passenger cars.

★ ★ ★

In the compact 6-cylinder competition, a Rambler American 440 with 125-horsepower finished with 27.542 and 26.636 miles per gallon.

Death Takes Prominent City Resident

A prominent Pontiac resident and leader in the Greek community died Friday at Pontiac General Hospital after an illness of more than a year.

George P. Bisbikis, 67, of 78 Bloomfield Trail, was a former partner in the Liberty Cafe, now the Liberty Lounge, at 85 N. Saginaw. He was retired.

Born in Athens, Greece, Mr. Bisbikis was a member of Elks Lodge No. 810, the Knights of Pythias Lodge No. 19, and the American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association, Pontiac chapter.

He was a member of St. George Greek Orthodox Church.

★ ★ ★

Trisagion service will be at 8 tonight at the Voorhees-Siple Funeral Home. Service will be 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at St. George Greek Orthodox Church, with burial at Perry Mt. Park Cemetery.

Surviving are his wife, Georgia, four daughters, Mrs. Mary Hudson of Roseville, Mrs. Bess LaMont of Lake Orion, Mrs. Jane Walters and Mrs. Helen Hockstad, both of Pontiac; a son, Peter of Pontiac; a sister and four grandchildren.

Contributions may be made to the church's building fund.

To Hear Legal Opinion on City's Big Election 'If'

BIRMINGHAM — Commissioners were wondering what would happen if voters accepted both initiative and referendum charter amendments on the April 5 ballot.

They'll find out tonight at their 8 p.m. meeting.

Upon the recommendation of the Birmingham-Bloomfield League of Women Voters, the commission in September called for an election on the two provisions.

A month later, petitions were filed to have a similar but broader amendment included on the same ballot.

★ ★ ★

Cause of concern among commissioners was the possibility that both amendments would be approved.

IN CONFLICT

Since they are in conflict, adoption of both could create a confusing situation.

The commissioners asked City Attorney James L. Howlett to check on the matter and he consequently asked Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley for an opinion.

Kelley noted that the constitution provides that the amendment receiving the highest affirmative vote shall prevail.

★ ★ ★

"Any court decision which would permit to stand the terms of each of the conflicting charter amendments might render the charter ineffective in part or even lead to chaotic conditions impeding the city government's operation," he said.

15 PER CENT

The commission's amendment would allow 15 per cent of the city's qualified voters to call for initiatory or referendum elections.

At present, this would mean some 2,156 persons would have to sign a petition requesting the election within 90 days of the time a petition committee announced its intention to the city clerk.

The other so-called "popular" amendment would require the signatures of five per cent of the qualified voters who cast ballots in the last municipal election — about 186 this year.

★ ★ ★

It also would allow referendum votes on resolutions of the city commission, not limiting such an election to official action of the group.

★ ★ ★

The second amendment contains no exclusions while that of the commission would not allow initiative or referendum elections on the levy of taxes, appropriation of money, budget or capital improvement program and salaries of city officers and employes.

The commission's amendment also would prohibit petitioners from initiating zoning matters.

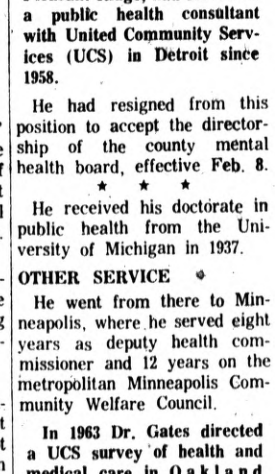
Light Heart Attack Hospitalizes Mayor

Doctors at Pontiac General Hospital report today that Mayor William H. Taylor Jr., is in good condition and is resting comfortably.

★ ★ ★

The mayor's physician, Dr. Clifford T. Ekelund, said that the 49-year-old mayor did suffer a small heart attack. Taylor is to remain in the hospital at least a week.

Dr. Ekelund said the mayor cannot have visitors or phone calls.



DR. D. CLARE GATES

Mental Health Leader Dies

Heart Attack Fells County Board Chief

Dr. D. Clare Gates, 64, who was appointed administrative head of the Oakland County Community Mental Health Services Board Jan. 8, died Saturday evening of a heart attack.

Funeral service will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Wessels Funeral Home in Pleasant Ridge. Cremation will follow at Evergreen Cemetery.

Dr. Gates, of 6 Woodland, Pleasant Ridge, had served as a public health consultant with United Community Services (UCS) in Detroit since 1958.

He had resigned from this position to accept the directorship of the county mental health board, effective Feb. 8.

★ ★ ★

He received his doctorate in public health from the University of Michigan in 1937.

OTHER SERVICE

He went from there to Minneapolis, where he served eight years as deputy health commissioner and 12 years on the metropolitan Minneapolis Community Welfare Council.

In 1963 Dr. Gates directed a UCS survey of health and medical care in Oakland County.

He served as an advisor to a special committee which conducted a recent study of the county's TB sanatorium and had acted as part-time administrator of the county mental health board for more than a year.

★ ★ ★

He was past chairman of the Pleasant Ridge Planning Commission, past president of the National Conference for Health Council Work and a fellow of the American Public Health Association.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Gates attended Drayton Avenue Presbyterian Church in Ferndale.

Surviving are his wife, Helen; a son, Capt. Tad Gates, a dentist in the U.S. Air Force stationed in Montana; one grandchild; a sister and two brothers.

Winston and Clemmie Shared a Great Love Story

LONDON (UPI)—Lady Clementine Churchill lived with Sir Winston Churchill through his time as a great man in his prime and glory.

And she sustained him in his old age and illness.

Admired for the gracious support she gave him as prime minister, she is adored by those who knew her for her devotion to her husband in his declining years.

In his last illness Lady Churchill, herself 79 years old, once again marshalled the nurse consulted with the doctors, comforted the children and grandchildren, and was always there so her husband could see her and draw strength from her.

★ ★ ★

Theirs was a great love story — though there were some at the wedding 55 years ago who swore the lovely society girl would not be able to stand the red-headed, pugnacious young politician for more than a few months.

LIVED HAPPILY

"I married," said Sir Winston in a widely quoted paragraph of one of his books, "and live happily ever after."

At the family dinner party in which the Churchills celebrated Sir Winston's 90th birthday on Nov. 30, he lifted his glass and toasted her across the dinner table.

A friend said that Sir Winston never drank in the presence of his wife without toasting her.

★ ★ ★

During their life together Lady Churchill received many honors and tributes of her own. But she always insisted on a minimum of publicity because she believed the spotlight should always be on her husband.

MOST IMPORTANT

"If I die first," she once told a friend, "the most important thing I can say in my will would be how to look after Winston."

But he went first.

Shortly after World War II Sir Winston told an audience in Strasbourg, with tears in his eyes, "it would not be possible for any public man to go through what I have gone through without the devoted assistance of what we in England call 'one's better half.'"

Feature writers called her "My Darling Clementine." Sir Winston called her "Clemmie."

★ ★ ★

Lady Churchill is a member of a Scottish family rich only in its long lineage.

FRENCH TEACHER

She even studied to be a French teacher in case she had to earn her own living. Then one night young Churchill and a friend were using nautical terms to rate the girls at a party. They were worth one ship if plain, 10 ships if pretty, or even a hundred ships if beautiful.

Clementine Hozier swept through the door and Churchill cried:

"One thousand ships!"

★ ★ ★

And so they were married.

On their golden wedding anniversary in 1959 the world and Sir Winston hailed the marriage as "the most successful of the century."

Lady Churchill, who did not always agree with Sir Winston on politics — she favored women's suffrage which he opposed — once told a girl's school that the secret of maintaining a distinct personality in marriage was not to become aggressive but to "quietly hold to your convictions."

★ ★ ★

In recent years Lady Churchill, still strikingly handsome, has suffered from fatigue, partly due to the strain of nursing her husband through his many illnesses. In addition there were family tragedies including the suicide of a daughter, the sudden death of a son-in-law.

★ ★ ★

But in tears or triumph Sir Winston knew he could always count on one thing. Clemmie would be at his side.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Over 800,000 American kids achieved the dream of their life-times in 1964 — they became teen-agers at last. We now have more than 23 million of them.

New Arrests in State Strike

Police Beefed Up; Order Limits Pickets

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — Beefed-up police protection, a picket-limiting injunction and several new arrests marked the status of a union strike now on the eve of its 13th week at Gardner-Denver Co. here.

One man was fined and jailed over the weekend after outbreaks of violence including two car tippings and a window-breaking at a residence.

★ ★ ★

International Association of Machinists Lodge 1503 was limited to three pickets at each gate by a Circuit Court temporary injunction served today. The union represents some 300 workers who struck Nov. 3 in a dispute over a new contract.

Gardner-Denver, the city's largest employer, has continued operations of the plant with some 250 supervisory personnel.

POLICE FORCE

The city's 15-member police force, plus 10 officers from the Ottawa County Sheriff's Department and 10 State Police officers patrolled the plant area.

Jailed Sunday to await arraignment on charges following strike-linked violence were:

William N. Shappee, 31, Grand Haven; Bobby F. Tate, 20, Nunica; Ronald D. Schroeder, 23, Grand Haven; Charles L. Shears, 23, Nunica, and John Delaurier, 34, Nunica. Shappee and Tate were charged with malicious destruction of property. The others were arrested on charges of assault and battery.

★ ★ ★

Fined $104 and sentenced to 30 days in jail after pleading guilty Saturday to assault and battery was Clayton Rettinhouse, 37, Spring Lake. Occupants of a home identified him as a man who had thown a soft drink bottle through a window.

Ex-Correspondent Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Morton P. Gudebrod, 56, former Associated Press foreign correspondent and author, died of cancer Saturday. Gudebrod served as correspondent in London and Paris during World War II and later wrote for the Stars and Stripes, daily newspaper of the U.S. armed forces.

The farmer's share of the consumers food dollar for beef was 75 per cent in 1951, but declined to 56 per cent by 1963.

Community Gave Generously to Osteopathic College Drive

In the response to the Osteopathic College request for a site here, this community opened its heart and purse strings in a great burst of generosity.

Although it conflicted directly with the United Fund campaign, there was no alternative. Usually a drive that nudges $400,000 requires a score of committees, hundreds of active assertive campaign workers, and a wide assortment of community meetings.

This campaign was unique.

Not one public gathering was held.

★ ★ ★

There were no huge lists of committees and subcommittees. Some six or eight men pitched in wholeheartedly and this small group met constantly and explained the objectives and the cultural and economic advantages. The Pontiac Press made known the facts in a vigorous way and urged full consideration without having an interpleader knock at the door. The campaign swept along to a victorious conclusion.

Each week was a winning milestone.

Aside from water and sewers which the city promised, the original investment was in excess of $390,000. At the very outset the Osteopathic Group plans a new $6 million institution. Dr. Benjamin Dickinson, President-elect of the state organization, says quietly that he believes within a decade or two his group will have $40 million invested on the 164 acres now acquired.

I believe him.

I accept this prediction 100%.

★ ★ ★

There isn't a smidgen of vainglorious boasting or big talk in the makeup of this personable, sincere, and rather shy doctor. He has impressed everyone — and we were all strangers—with his straighforward sincerity of purpose.

Colleges, universities and all manner of specialized educational institutions are experiencing the greatest upsweep in the history of our nation. Further, we're in the midst of a great population explosion.

Hence, the future of this Osteopathic College is greater than we laymen can conjure. Osteopathic colleges are already lagging behind their own normal demands, and with horizons opening to them on all sides, this institution can become a tremendous force and one of great magnitude.

★ ★ ★

Everyone who has had a hand in contributing to this fund—and practically all of the smaller solicitations came without personal visits — can take a justifiable pride in playing an important part in a big, humanitarian move that is interwoven with civic pride and progress.

These names are forever enshrined in the hearts and minds of the live, progressive, thankful citizens here, who are the architects of the Pontiac area of tomorrow.

These are the doers.

They place humanity above self.

Presidential Parallels . . . .

Here are some curious, interesting and even startling parallels:

In 1965 our President's name is JOHNSON.

In 1865 it was Johnson.

LYNDON B. was born in 1908.

Andrew J. was born in 1808.

Each JOHNSON went into politics in his 20s, both ANDREW and LYNDON became U.S. senators.

★ ★ ★

Domestically, Andrew Johnson faced inflation and expanding economy, civil rights conflicts, and pressing internal problems.

Each is paralleled a century later.

ANDREW reached the presidency through assassination.

So did LYNDON B.

★ ★ ★

Both Andrew and Lyndon came from southern states. Each of them was reared in a family of modest financial circumstances. The parallel parts sharply for a moment as Lyndon is now worth approximately $12 million while Andrew was never worth more than approximately $12.

Both are staunch Americans.

And it was the JOHNSON of a century ago who declared: "When in history does a parallel exist to the public's happiness which is within the reach of the people of the United States."

★ ★ ★

A century later LYNDON B. JOHNSON said approximately the same.

Time marches on.

And in Conclusion . . .

Jottings from the well-thumbed notebook of your peripatetic reporter:

★ ★ ★

STEVE ALLEN commutes from Hollywood to New York for "I've Got a Secret" and spends 220 hours in the air to do a 22-hour stint on the air . . . . . If you haven't heard of FERDINAND ALCINDOR, you will. He's the greatest prep school basketball player in America, stands 7 feet 1 and has a "B-plus" average. His mail's so great he turns it all over to his Memorial Academy coach unopened . . . . . Overheard: "If you think the world's all wrong, maybe it has too many people like you." . . . . . They signed a Tahitian woman for "Hawaii" who's 6 feet 2 and weighs 365 pounds.

★ ★ ★

Girls, several sources say that the sharp heel on your shoe is your best weapon in case of attack. It's murderous when swung all out against any man's cranium . . . . . Sign in Ozark movie: "Children under 16 not admitted unless accompanied by their husbands." . . . . . The movie ushers clapped long and loudly for the fourth time. "You must like this," said a spectator. "Tain't that," said the nearest. "One more minute and we're on overtime." . . . . . Dept. of Cheers and Jeers: the C's — the Osteopathic College givers; the J's—Me—for saying last Monday that the Eastman girl was photographed 700 times a year, when it's 700 times a day.

—HAROLD A. FITZGERALD

THE Bill of Rights contains 463 words, fewer than two women use when one is leaving after a visit and they are standing in the doorway sparring for the last word.

IF a bad beginning makes a good ending, those who began the New Year with a busthead hangover ought to feel like a million dollars (after taxes) when 1965 bows out.

The Eager Red Cap

David Lawrence Asks:

Is Defense Program Adequate?

WASHINGTON — While the outline of proposed defense policy which President Johnson gave to Congress a few days ago is the formal advice and recommendation of a chief executive, it is the duty of Congress to pass judgment on whether the safety and security of the United States can be preserved either by arbitrarily limiting expenditures for national defense or by allowing any factors other than national security to receive priority in the expenditure of public funds.

LAWRENCE

The President frankly admits that he sees ahead a "leveling-off in defense expenditures."

He says that outlays for defense will "constitute a declining portion of our expanding annual gross national product."

He recommends that over the next several years — barring "a significant change" in the international situation — approximately the same amount of dollars should be spent annually for our national defense as is being appropriated today.

OTHER NEEDS

He predicts that then "an ever-larger share of our expanding national wealth will be free to meet other vital needs, both public and private."

But who is to be the judge of whether the defense program is adequate and whether it can be measured primarily by the desire to spend more money on the Great Society?

Some of the top men in America's military establishment do not believe that such a rigid rule can be applied to defense expenditures.

They do not wish to leave a single stone unturned to obtain the most efficient armament that scientific minds can develop. Nor do they agree that, because America has a superiority in military power today, this will continue in the next several years.

APPREHENSION

On the contrary, military men say that, unless the Soviets reveal their secret plans — which is most unlikely — the United States cannot take for granted that it will continue to maintain superiority.

In fact, there is a distinct undercurrent of apprehension concerning the clandestine tests being conducted by the Soviets which may have a great deal to do with the increased effectiveness of their apparatus in the future and perhaps reduce the strength of America's defense against some categories of weapons.

President Johnson's message last week told of additional weapons, particularly certain missiles which are to be used from our submarines. He also recommended that more money be spent to improve strategic bombers.

There is a serious question, however, as to whether the Department of Defense will be able to maintain superiority in equipment if expenditures are to be limited on the theory that America has enough strength already.

Military men generally are not happy about what they consider to be an arbitrary reduction in expenditures for military needs.

They feel that military spending should not be conditioned upon or related to the size of welfare expenditures, particularly when the issue could involve survival itself.

Generations Will Study Life of English Leader

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — For a thousand years, the descendants of this century's generations will examine the life of Sir Winston Churchill to find why he was one of the most beloved figures in history.

MARLOW

They should have no trouble. They will read his speeches, they will look at television reruns of the chubby man in a derby poking around battlefields with a cane, they will grin at his growl.

But, they will understand him, just as the outnumbered Greeks at Marathon would have understood him 400 years before Christ, for he was and will remain the contemporary man of all seasons.

He was more than the symbol of the unquenchable human spirit's determination to die rather than submit. His enemy, Hitler, had that in a perverted kind of way: he shot himself when the Allies were closing in.

Churchill was more than a symbol of the ageless search for victory in the ashes of disaster. So was Napoleon, as the world learned to its regret in his last blood-soaked journey from Elba to Waterloo.

★ ★ ★

He was a symbol of something else, too, just as precious and discernible in those years of the 1940s when the world was consumed by fright and fury in the oven of war.

CEASELESS HOPE

It was his ever-present and always over-riding hope that life could be better than man's endless savagery might indicate or, perhaps, even deserve.

He put it this way: "The future towards which we are marching, across bloody fields and frightful manifestations of destruction, must surely be based upon the broad and simple virtues and upon the nobility of mankind."

Not that he had any illusions about mankind. He simply had the hope that with enough time and sufficient chance men might do better.

★ ★ ★

For he also said: "I believe that, generally speaking, given free institutions on a fair basis, the best side of man's nature will in the end surely come uppermost."

IDEAL QUALITIES

The people of good will in his time saw in him a kind of human being they would be glad to be: the wit, the eloquence, the courage, the persistence against adversity, and the belief in the future.

President Kennedy said of Churchill: "Indifferent himself to danger, he wept over the sorrows of others. He has served all men's freedom and dignity."

Voice of the People:

'Unemployed Immigrants May Increase Welfare'

Inasmuch as our government is spending billions of dollars a year for various forms of welfare to alleviate indigence and unemployment, what prompts the administration to agitate for the admission of one million unemployed immigrants to this country each year?

★ ★ ★

With five million Americans currently unemployed, whose jobs will be taken by these newcomers? Who will support them?

TAXPAYER

A Reader Questions Building Procedures

Why do construction workers have to build your house up so high when the neighbors are sitting in a hole? The water then runs into the neighbor's yard.

★ ★ ★

We had a garage built and its about three and one-half feet from the lot line. Now we're in trouble with the people from the city. Our neighbors are also unhappy and burn trash while my clothes are on the line. Why can't they pass a law about the time to burn your papers and garbage.

A DISGUSTED NEIGHBOR

Says Student Should Get Another Chance

A boy at Clarkston High School was caught smoking and expelled from school till next fall. The boy returned in a couple days to talk to the principal and see if he could return to school. Later two more boys were caught smoking. They were in the office for about fifteen minutes and returned to class, but nothing happened to them.

★ ★ ★

Maybe this one boy had been in trouble in school before, but so were the other two. I think the least they could have done was let him back in and give him another chance, since he showed that he wanted an education. Why doesn't someone check the girls' rest room if they want to catch students who are smoking?

CONCERNED

Sees Weak Points in Education Program

Why are students of hard-of-hearing and deaf classes and the special education program coming out of elementary school with a first or second grade education? Why do they have to miss hours of school every week because of the transportation problem? Why are there no Junior High School facilities for these children? Why can't they receive a regular diploma instead of an honorary one?

We make our mistake in not screening our school board members before election.

Funny Thing

(Ga.) Herald

Funny thing how middle age begins for your neighbor before it does for you.

Tax Problems

The Daily Oklahoman

Apparently the Johnson administration is backing away from the idea of returning some of the federal government's tax collections to the states without any strings attached.

Walter Heller, former head of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, is credited with having conceived the idea as a way of coping with the "fiscal drag" he thought would result from an anticipated $6 billion annual increase in federal revenues growing out of the continuing economic boom.

★ ★ ★

The political drawbacks were apparent immediately. Federal money provided without strings would have deprived congressmen of any opportunity for identifying themselves with particular projects dear to their constituents.

But a further difficulty involved the apportionment formula governing how the money would be distributed to the states. Would it be allocated according to federal taxes paid, presumed need, population, area or what?

Thus it wasn't particularly surprising to hear Assistant Treasury Secretary Stanley Surrey say the other day that the proposal contained "serious implications for the future" and involved "broad policy considerations."

Banking Business

The Wall Street Journal

America's balance-of-payments deficit, certainly isn't improving with age. Not only is the deficit leaping upward again, but the Administration is considering some new approaches which could be as self-defeating as others adopted in the past.

For just one example, there was the program for requiring recipients of U. S. foreign aid to spend the funds in America. President Johnson told Congress the other day that "well over 80 per cent" of our aid is now covered by this restriction.

★ ★ ★

The restriction unquestionably limits the outflow of U.S. dollars in the short run; since 1960, the annual drain has been cut by $500 million. But forcing other nations to buy U.S. goods, even if they can get better wares elsewhere at lower cost, may not always promote the efficient use of American aid.

★ ★ ★

Now, some Administration officials seem to think they could help matters by ending the requirement that the Government hold gold equal to 25 per cent of the U.S. money supply; the payments deficit already has pulled the gold stock close to that legal floor. By removing the 25 per cent requirement, the reasoning runs, we would reassure the world, since foreigners then would know that the U. S. would be free to exchange all of its gold for their dollars.

Perhaps some foreigners would go along with this reasoning. But others might take it as an invitation to trade in their dollars while we still have some gold left.

★ ★ ★

Another unconstructive idea is to extend the investment penalty tax to cover bank loans. Since the tax was applied to Americans' purchases of foreign securities in 1963, it has held down the outflow of U. S. capital. It also, however, has clearly limited the future return flow of interest and dividends on U.S. investments abroad.

The payments deficit could be ended if the Administration would put its fiscal and monetary affairs in order, both at home and abroad. It's unlikely to be ended any time soon if the Government instead goes on banking mainly on measures which can all too easily boomerang.

Strike Up Box . . .

The Arkansas Baptist

A local clergyman, upon hearing that liberalism was creeping into the churches, remarked, "If that is true, I hope it will soon strike the contribution box."

Someone's sure to ask "What's trump?" at the dessert-bridge sponsored by Pine Lake Estates branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Feb. 4 in the Pine Lake School. Mrs. Gene Riegler of Normanwood Drive (at left) is chairman and Mrs. Frank Todd of MacNichol Trail is in charge of hostesses. Both are of West Bloomfield Township. The planters will be table prizes at the benefit.

School Is Beneficiary of Project

The Plymouth State Home and Training Center at Northville will receive proceeds from a dessert-bridge party, Feb. 4, in the Pine Lake School.

Sponsoring the affair which will begin at 7:30 p.m. is the Pine Lake Estates branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Committee heads working under Mrs. Gene Riegler, chairman, are Mrs. William Sharkey, door and table prizes; Mrs. Frank Todd, hostesses; Mrs. Adolph Speth, desserts, and Mrs. William Grubbs, publicity.

Delay Task Until They Go Home

By The Emily Post Institute

Q: What is your opinion of a hostess who washes the dishes as soon as dinner is over and her guests are still present?

Several of my friends do this and I think it is lacking in courtesy to their guests. When I invite people to my house I wouldn't think of washing dishes until after my guests leave.

A: Your hostess should do no more than clear the table, stack the dishes in the sink and rejoin her guests.

For her to wash dishes while her guests are still present, is not only discourteous but also places them in the position of feeling that they should offer to help her.

★ ★ ★

Q: I expect to be married soon and my fiance would like to ask six of his friends to be ushers.

Since I am having only a matron of honor, would it be proper to have this many ushers?

I would like to please my fiance but I think this number of ushers will look out of place without bridesmaids.

A: Even though you are not having bridesmaids, it will be entirely proper to have ushers, and if your wedding is to be of any size, six ushers will not be too many to help seat the guests and then later walk in the procession.

The Emily Post Institute booklet entitled, "Formal Wedding Procedure," includes details on the wedding procession, the receiving line and other helpful wedding information. Fur Jacket Is Beastly

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A good friend of mine came to me with a problem, and not knowing how to advise her, I am writing to you.

ABBY

Her gentleman friend gave her a fur jacket for Christmas. It smelled awful and one of the hooks was missing. The lining looked frayed around the collar, and worse yet, it was several sizes too large for her.

She asked him where he got it so she could exchange it for one her size, but he wouldn't tell her. He keeps asking her when she is going to wear it.

She thinks the world of this fellow and hates to hurt his feelings, but she says she just couldn't wear that jacket anywhere. What should she do?

★ ★ ★

DEAR FRIEND: She should tell him that she appreciates his thoughtfulness, but she isn't able to wear the jacket because it is much too large for her.

And if she really "thinks the world of him," she might confide that if he paid for a new jacket, he got skunked.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mediocre piano player who fancies himself as an accomplished musician and, while a guest in someone's home, would strike a few chords and exclaim (in a voice fortissimo), "OH, FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE, WHEN WAS THIS PIANO TUNED LAST?"

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I would say he had a good ear and bad manners. P. S. Someone should tell the host (in a voice pianissimo) to get the piano tuned.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am an ex-service woman. After World War II I took my discharge in the Philippines and accepted a civil service job in Japan.

At that time my sister called me a "vagabond" and urged me to come home. I didn't, and I loved Japan.

★ ★ ★

A few years later I wrote and told her I was taking a foreign job with the Navy in Guam. She replied, "What do you want to go to a place like THAT for?" I went and I had a ball.

THEN ALASKA

Last year, when I accepted a job in Alaska, I phoned my sister long distance and she yelled so loudly I had to hold the receiver a foot away from my ear.

This year I am faced with having to tell my sister I have another job offer in Hong Kong. I need the money and crave the adventure.

★ ★ ★

My sister is getting on in years and I don't want to upset her. Please advise.

GLOBE-TROTTER

★ ★ ★

DEAR GLOBE-TROTTER: So far you've done an excellent job of leading an exciting and independent life.

I don't know what you owe your sister, but you owe yourself more. Do what you want to do. And don't feel guilty.

★ ★ ★

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISAPPOINTED FATHER IN KENTFIELD: Don't be too hard on the boy. You can be grateful for one thing — with those grades you know he hasn't been cheating.

Automation Can Be Heady Stuff

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK —Some observations on the American scene:

Automation, we hear, is both a blessing and a curse of our day and of the future.

I'm just waiting for the day they'll automate the hairdresser. Feed a punch card into the machine and out comes instant new hair color, style and gossip.

Come to think of it, who knows more about the average woman? Her dentist, her doctor, or her hairdresser?

PARK AVENUE BARGAIN

Park Avenue stands for elegance. It also stands for, amazing in this metropolis, bargains.

Our household has shopped around for an inexpensive source for firewood and found it — on Park Avenue.

I've nothing against boots in heavy snow or extreme cold but there are some women who'd look better (so they catch the sniffles) in other foul weather gear than in those knee-highs which turn the whole body into one massive sausage.

Tall boots are for the tall, elegantly slim girl, not for the plump and short one.

GHOULISH

Comment of several girl watchers: Well, if you asked us, those no-color lipsticks have to go. You call it the no-makeup makeup.

Then what's wrong with washing the face and letting the natural look shine through?

★ ★ ★

I'm puzzled at what seems a trend in the magazine world to keep a guide to contents a secret from the reader.

Just checking through some late editions of several popular publications produces the following: table of contents in one women's magazine, page four; table of contents (or index) on a news weekly, page 10; table of contents of another news weekly, page seven; on still another, it's page 19 before the reader finds what's inside.

By then, reader has digested several pages of advertisements, letters to the editor, et cetera, et cetera.

What's to hide, fellows?

BOW TO NEWSPAPERS

Pick up a newspaper, though, and by gosh there on the front page —or on the same page everyday — is a guide to what's inside.

The fine art of name and place-dropping reached some sort of pinnacle in my opinion when at the Metropolitan Opera the other evening I heard a twosome behind me commenting on the appearance of Joan Sutherland as the mad heroine of Lucia di Lammermoor.

Said one to the other, "Remember when she was nobody and we discovered her at Covent Garden?"

Irma S. Rombauer in her joyful "Joy of Cooking" has described one basic of American diet in these words: "A definition of eternity — a ham and two people."

Addendum: the same goes for beef stew. Loverly as it is, don't make unless there are at least 10 for dinner to mop up the last morsel of meat, onion, carrot and potato.

Otherwise, as a leftover, the stew goes on, and on, and on . . .

Why is it that any soup, especially a vegetable or a bean soup, simmering on the stove attracts the soup watchers and taste experts as a perfume attracts the male?

At our house, if there's a soup acooking, anyone who goes into the kitchen is unable to resist a stir, a taste for consistency and suggestion for added seasoning, plus another stir or two.

A late August wedding is planned by Nancy Edna McLaughlin, daughter of the Edward G. McLaughlins of Hartford Street, and Gary L. Bunce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Bunce of Fortress Drive. The bride-elect attended Eastern Michigan University and her fiance is presently enrolled at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

Marionettes Will Enchant in 'Aladdin'

Aladdin and his wonderful lamp will come alive for children Feb. 6 when The Detroit Puppet Theatre sponsors a marionette showing at The Detroit Institute of Arts.

"Aladdin," presented by the Meredith Bixby Marionettes of Saline, Mich. will be performed at 10 a.m., and 2 and 4 p.m.

Tickets for "Aladdin" are 50 cents each for children and adults; 35 cents in groups of 10 or more.

They are available at Marwil's, Northland, and by mail from The Detroit Institute of Arts.

Mail orders accompanied by stamped, self addressed envelope will be filled by the museum's theatre arts department.

Women Meet at Church

The Episcopal Churchwomen of Christ Church Cranbrook will begin their regular Tuesday meetings tomorrow, with Holy Communion in St. Dunstan's Chapel at 10:00 a.m.

Following the luncheon interlude, the Rt. Rev. Archie N. Crowley, Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of Michigan, and Mrs. Crowley, will speak about their recent visit in Alaska.

They saw and learned much about the earthquake-damaged area.

SECOND SPEAKER

Their guest, Mrs. Richard Swanson, a young clergyman's wife, who has spent seven summers in Alaska, will speak concerning "Mutual Responsibility and Interdependence, or What Alaska Can Do for You."

During the summer of 1963, the Swansons worked in the Arctic Village.

Wisner to Meet

Members of the Wisner PTA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the gym.

Dr. David Wells, director of mathematics education, Oakland County schools, will discuss the teaching of mathematics at the elementary level.

Council Plans Founders Day

A luncheon meeting was held Saturday at Bedell's restaurant for members of the Pontiac City Council of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

Plans were organized for the ESA Founders Day observance on April 24.

Alpha Alpha chapter will locate the place, Beta Chi chapter will be in charge of the program, and Beta Mu will make the favors.

Special Program Set on Poison Prevention

An international public poison prevention program, "Poison Is No Picnic," will be presented March 16 at Cobo Hall, Detroit.

Over half a million people a year are accidentally poisoned in the United States, many of them fatally.

Most common causes of poisonings are household products easily purchased and stored within reach of children.

Aspirin, pep pills, chlorine bleach, kerosene, ant powder and food spoilage are just a few of the causes.

The Junior League of Detroit and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, Detroit District are cosponsoring this civic program to pinpoint poisoning problems and how to prevent them.

FULL PROGRAM

The 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. symposium will include general meetings, discussion groups, a luncheon and reports from the various sessions.

Principal speakers will be John J. Hanlon, M.D., Public Health Director, Detroit-Wayne County Departments of Health; Eleanor Ordway, Chief, Consumer Division, Food and Drug Directorate, Canadian Health and Welfare Department; Hugo Hullerman, M.D., Administrator, Children's Hospital, Detroit.

Four panels of authorities representing government, education, industry, medical profession, and community health and safety organizations on environmental poisons from Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Washington, D.C., and Canada will outline specific poison problems.

Welcome New Son

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Kutcher of Royal Oak (Paulette Hempton) announce the birth of a son, Wayne Edward, on Jan. 18 at William Beaumont Hospital.

Grandpartents are the Adam Kutchers of Birmingham and Mrs. E. J. Walerych of Drayton Plains and R. P. Hempton of Battle Creek.

Wearable Fashions Designed in Rome

Direct from Rome by air mail came these pictures from the Italian spring and summer fashion shows.

Harem pants may be a bit out for most American women, but the other fashions are distinctly wearable.

Their trademark is simplicity, beauty of material and expert workmanship.

There's that "made to measure" look about this hostess gown. Featherweight pure silk is printed in a floral design of coral, turquoise and emerald. Gathered at the waist, the harem pants outfit is worn with earrings and necklet of natural coral.

Tidings from home? Possibly . . . but certainly hot news from Rome where the Italian capital's world-famous Sarelle Fontana have put their signature to this novel paper-white linen dress. The air mail motif bordering the rectangular front Panel is hand painted in green and red.

What could be fresher for spring than this ensemble by Renato Balestra of Rome, fashioned in pale rosebud pink matelasse? The dress has a high waistline and deep plunge at the neck, while the loose-collared matching coat swings freely. Lines are deceptively simple.

Churchill Was a Beacon of Light in Freedom's Darkest Hour

tary speech as he had made since quitting as prime minister. When the cheering ended, he left.

BIRTHDAY GIFTS

Birthday gifts and messages poured in from all over the world in such numbers that his personal staff had to sort them into three piles labeled from "close friends," "personal friends" and "well-wishers."

Churchill issued a statement saying that because of the great number he could not acknowledge them all, but did want all the senders to know of "my warm thanks for their thoughts of me."

Like his great ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, who won eight battles in a row for the young Queen Anne, Churchill first found fame in the service of a queen — Victoria.

★ ★ ★

Just back from the Boer War, the slim, red-headed firebrand was elected to Parliament in 1900 for the first time to begin a political career that was to continue for 60 years.

30 YEARS

When he resigned as prime minister, Churchill had completed more than 30 consecutive years as a member of the House of Commons. Altogether he had served a total of 52 years at that time — more than any other member.

His consecutive service was broken when he missed the years 1922-24. He continued his parliamentary career after quitting as prime minister.

Churchill was 65 years old when he reached his goal of prime minister. The British empire then faced a precarious future with Hitler's legions sweeping everything before them.

★ ★ ★

There was no other to take the helm after Prime Minister Chamberlain's "peace in our time" appeasement of the Nazi leader had failed dismally.

RAPPED CHAMBERLAIN

Churchill had assailed Chamberlain for his bargain with Hitler at Munich by which Czechoslovakia was sacrificed in an effort to avert war. He saw in the bargain "a total and unmitigated defeat."

The idea that safety can be purchased by throwing a small state to the wolves is a fatal delusion," Churchill said. He thought that Britain should have joined with others to prevent German encroachment on Czechoslovakia.

"The utmost the prime minister (Chamberlain) was able to gain for Czechoslovakia has been that the German dictator, instead of snatching his victuals from the table, has been content to have them served to him course by course . . . ," Churchill said

★ ★ ★

He referred to the agreement to partition the country and give the Sudetenland to Germany, to be occupied in five stages.

NAZI THREAT

He called it "complete surrender by Western democracies to the Nazi threat of force."

A short time after appeasement, Hitler gobbled up the rest of Czechoslovakia, making it a German protectorate.

In the beginning Churchill had labeled the Nazi regime "a government of terrorists." He had cried out against appeasement and appealed — futilely — for rearmament.

★ ★ ★

Just a little more than a month after he became prime minister there came from England's ally, France, the anguished, bleeding and confused cry, "We must give up the fight." Belgium had already quit.

FRANCE YIELDS

Britain, whose forces had been trapped by Hitler's armies and impelled into tragic but masterful retreat from the continent when Belgium surrendered, pleaded that the French continue the fight on another continent in a union of British and French empires; but despairing France yielded to the enemy.

Thus the 1940 Battle of France ended on June 18. Germany was the winner with an overmastering weight of arms and military tricks. Britain stood alone. The Battle of Britain was at hand.

Then it was that Churchill became Britain's shield and sword, her clarion call to battle, a composite of her will to fight on. He was truly the man of the hour.

★ ★ ★

"Hitler knows that he will have to break us in this island or lose the war," he told the House of Commons while the enemy overran France within sight of Dover's cliffs.

FRANCE OVERRAN

"If we can stand up to him, all Europe may be free. . . Let us therefore brace ourselves to our duties, and so bear ourselves that if the British Commonwealth and empire last for a thousands years, men will still say 'This was their finest hour.' "

That was Britain's and Churchill's finest hour.

Hitler was planning a triumphant visit to England at the time Churchill became prime minister, but five years later the tables were turned and it was Churchill who visited Germany in the wake of Allied armies.

★ ★ ★

Honors came to Churchill in profusion. In the spring of 1953, Queen Elizabeth II knighted him for his decades of service to the empire and throne.

GAINS TITLE

As a knight he gained nothing substantial except the title "Sir, but investiture with the Order of the Garter, founded by King Edward II six centuries ago, was the highest honor he could accept without giving up his cherished role as Conservative leader in the House of Commons.

A peerage, with any title from baron to duke and the resultant membership in the House of Lords, would have debarred him from the lower house.

It was understood that he could have had a dukedom conferred on him by his queen any time he gave the slightest indication he wanted one.

★ ★ ★

The Order of the Garter was one of 140 honors Churchill had been awarded by his own and other governments. Sir Anthony Eden once said that Churchill was recognized throughout the world "as the greatest man upon this earth."

NOBEL PRIZE

The Nobel Prize for Literature went to him in 1953 for his writings and his oratory. A member of the committee that made the selection said that "the Nobel Literary Prize is intended to cast luster over the author, but this time it is the author who gives luster to the prize."

Sir Winston sought to crown his career made heroic largely by war by becoming an architect of peace. His aim was to "bring nearer that lasting peace settlement which the masses of the people of every race and in every land fervently desire."

"I believe myself that the mass of the people in all countries are kind, decent folk who wish to live their lives in neighborly fashion with their fellow men and women," he said.

★ ★ ★

Over and over again he said that peace was the "last prize" he sought.

COLD WAR

Not even his tortuous dealings with the Soviet Union leaders in the cold war dimmed his zeal.

"Patience and perseverance must never be grudged when the peace of the world is at stake," he told the House of Commons in a 1954 speech. A on another occasion, he said:

"Never flinch, never weary, never despair."

★ ★ ★

At his 80th birthday celebration in 1954, when he received eulogies from every side, the World War II prime minister modestly disclaimed credit for having been his country's inspiration during the long weary days of conflict.

'EXPRESSED WILL'

"I have never accepted what many people have kindly said, namely that I inspired the nation," he said.

"Their will was resolute and remorseless, and it proved unconquerable. It fell to me to express it, and if I have found the right word, you must remember that I have always earned my living by my pen, and by my tongue.

"It was the nation and the race dwelling all 'round the globe that had the lion's heart. I had the luck to be called upon to give the roar. I also hope that I sometimes suggested to the lion the right place to use his claws."

★ ★ ★

It was Churchill who designated the barrier the East erected against the West as the "Iron Curtain."

USED IN '45

He first used that expression on Aug. 16, 1945, in an address to the House of Commons. At that time he said:

"Sparse and guarded accounts of what has happened and is happening have filtered through, but it is not impossible that tragedy on a prodigious scale is unfolding itself behind the iron curtain which at the moment divides Europe in twain."

But it was his speech at Fulton, Mo., the following March that firmly planted the expressive term on the pages of history.

★ ★ ★

On that occasion he said:

"From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the continent. Behind that line lie all the capitals of the ancient states of central and eastern Europe.

IN SOVIET SPHERE

"Warsaw, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bucharest and Sofia, all these famous cities and the populations around them lie in the Soviet sphere and all are subject in one form or another, not only to Soviet influence but to a very high and increasing measure to control from Moscow.

"Athens alone, with its immortal glories, is free to decide its future at an election under British, American and French observation."

Churchill's Fulton speech was made at Westminster College, where he accepted an honorary degree. His words resounded thoughout the world.

★ ★ ★

The main thesis was a plea for a virtual permanent alliance between the United States and all the British Commonwealth, leading, perhaps, to common citizenship. In support, he cited the menace of Soviet communism's policy of expansion.

QUICK REACTION

The Soviet reaction was quick and loud.

In 1949 Churchill was back in the United States, this time to receive an honorary degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In his speech there, he observed that his address at Fulton had caused a world sensation, but that events had vindicated it.

He declared that the United States' possession of the atomic bomb was the principle reason the world had not been plunged again into war.

★ ★ ★

Churchill urged formation of "the United States of Europe, both of the East and the West."

SUNSHINE ON 2 SIDES

Declaring that "we do not wish the slightest ill to those who dwell on the east of the Iron Curtain," he said: "Let there be sunshine on both sides, . . . and if ever the sunshine should be equal on both sides, the curtain will be no more."

His long service as a statesman made Churchill a figure almost as familiar to Americans as their own presidents.

His round, beaming face, his cigar, his "V" sign with his fingers, his coverall blitz suit, his unmatched oratory were well-known to them.

★ ★ ★

With the eloquence that enthralled Parliament, Churchill addressed Congress three times while he was prime minister—twice during World War II and again in 1952 after he had regained his old post.

FIRST U. S. VISIT

He first visited the United States in 1895 as a slender youth of 21. He was on his way then to Cuba to act as an observer with the Spanish army engaged in fighting an insurrection.

During his lifetime he made 14 additional visits to this country. Americans knew him in his later years as a stout, stooped Briton puffing a long cigar, weighted with age and with triumphs.

In 1941 Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt met at sea in the historic Atlantic Charter conference. A fast friendship developed between them during the war years. With the Soviet Union's Joseph Stalin they formed the "Big Three" of World War II. Churchill was the last survivor of that famous trio. Roosevelt died in 1945 and Stalin in 1953.

★ ★ ★

While he always thought of himself first as a Briton, Churchill liked to recall that his mother was an American. She was the former Jennie Jerome of New York before her marriage to Lord Randolph Churchill.

In addressing Congress in 1941, Churchill said:

"I cannot help reflecting that if my father had been an American and my mother British, instead of the other way 'round, I might have got here (Congress) on my own."

★ ★ ★

However, he was British to the core. With his paunch, his jowls and his rugged jaw, Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill even resembled John Bull in appearance.

BORN IN 1874

He was born Nov. 30, 1874, at Blenheim Castle, Woodstock, Oxfordshire, eldest son of Lord Randolph Churchill who was the third son of the seventh Duke of Marlborough. He went to school at Harrow, then to Sandhurst for his military education.

His 60-cent cigars, his collection of hats and canes, his appreciation of good Scotch whiskey, fine brandy and vintage wines actually endeared him to Britons who found in those indulgences a vicarious wish fulfillment.

Churchill was what most of them would like to be or thought that England was. The rich Havana, the longer the better, which jutted from its firm enplacement in his broad mouth became a symbol of determined reassurance.

★ ★ ★

Lord Birkenhead once said: "Winston's tastes are very simple. All he wants is the best."

LIKED COMFORT

Sir Winston liked comfort and good living in the Victorian style. Especially he prided himself as a connoisseur of good food and drink. Lady Churchill asked who was the most important person in the house, replied without hesitation: "The cook." Champagne was regular with meals; brandy afterwards.

While at work at his desk, Churchill often had a scotch and soda — American style with ice—by his elbow to sip.

In 1908 Churchill married Clementine Hozier, whose parents were Col. Sir H. M. Hozier and Lady Blanche Ogilvy, daughter of the Earl of Airlie.

★ ★ ★

One son and four daughters were born to the Churchills.

FOLLOWED FATHER

Randolph Churchill, who followed his father's example and went in for politics and writing, was married twice. Both marriages ended in divorce. His first wife was Pamela Digby. His second was June Osborne.

Diana Churchill married John M. Bailey, son of a South African capitalist. The marriage ended in divorce as did her second marriage to Duncan Sandys, who served in Parliament and later held cabinet posts. She died Oct. 20, 1963. A coroner ruled that she committed suicide by taking an overdose of sleeping pills.

Sarah Churchill went on the stage as a chorus girl in 1935 and the following year married Vic Oliver, an American comedian. That marriage ended in divorce in 1945. Four years later she married Anthony Beauchamp, a British society photographer. He died in 1957. Her third husband was Baron Audley, a designer and holder of one of Britain's most ancient titles. He died in July 1963.

★ ★ ★

Another daughter, Mary, accompanied Churchill on one of his trips to Canada and the United States in 1943. She was married in 1947 to Capt. Christopher Soames of the Coldstream Guards.

The other child, Marigold Frances, who was born four days after the Armistice of World War I, died in 1921.

Whenever there was a war "Winnie" generally was on hand.

His first commission was as a lieutenant in the Fourth Hussars. He got leave from that regiment to go to Cuba in 1895 and served there for two months as an observer with Spanish forces combating rebellion.

He fought on India's northwest frontier in 1897; on the Nile in 1898, and on the western front in France in late 1915 and part of 1916.

★ ★ ★

In the Boer War (1899-1900) he served as a war correspondent for a London newspaper until taken prisoner when a British troop train was ambushed at Frere.

SPECTACULAR ESCAPE

One of his spectacular feats was his escape from the Pretoria prison camp.

Churchill scaled a wall when the sentries' backs were turned momentarily and walked boldly through the streets of Pretoria to the railroad station.

He waited beyond the station for a freight train, which he swung aboard as it was picking up speed and concealed himself under some empty coal sacks.

★ ★ ★

The Boers subsequently searched the train, but failed to probe deep enough in the sacks.

WANTED 'DEAD OR ALIVE'

Before dawn the fugitive jumped off the moving train and hid in the woods until night. His only companion, he said later, was a huge vulture.

After waiting in vain that night for another train, he took a chance and knocked on the door of a farmhouse, explaining he had been in a train accident.

Fortunately, the occupants were English, the only English family in a settlement of Boers, and they secreted him in a mine.

Two or three days later they smuggled Churchill aboard a car that was to be attached to another train and he hid in bales of wool.

TRAIN SEARCHED

This train was searched by the Boers — there was a reward of 25 pounds out for the future prime minister "dead or alive" — but he escaped detection. Eventually he reached the frontier and safety.

Churchill cabled his paper, the London Morning Post: "I have lost many pounds weight, but I am lighter in heart."

In 1900 he won his first seat in Parliament. His experience in politics were many.

★ ★ ★

Once he was the target of vegetables hurled by high-tariff advocates. His opposition to woman suffrage caused suffragists to beat at him with umbrellas and turn his meetings into riotous affairs.

'TURNED COAT'

After six years as an outspoken and often rebellious Conservative back bench legislator, Churchill "turned his coat" in 1906 to become a Liberal.

It was then that he got his first ministry as undersecretary for the colonies, a post he held until 1908.

His career included these other positions:

President of the Board of Trade, 1908-10; home secretary, 1910-11; first lord of the Admiralty, 1911-15; a soldier on the western front, part of 1915 and 1916; minister of munitions, 1917; secretary of war and air, 1918-21; secretary for colonies, 1921-22; chancellor of the exchequer, 1924-29, and first lord of the Admiralty, 1939-40.

★ ★ ★

Churchill left the Liberal ranks after failing of election to the House of Commons in 1922, and began edging back toward the Conservatives.

KEY APPOINTMENT

In 1924 Stanley Baldwin appointed him chancellor of the exchequer in his Conservative cabinet.

He broke with Baldwin in 1931 over the government's India policy — a break that proved a fortunate circumstance for he remained out of the Conservative government of Chamberlain.

Thus he escaped any blame for failure of British policy.

★ ★ ★

Churchill became first lord of the Admiralty in 1911 with instructions to build up Britain's sea power to meet the threat against its supremacy by the new fleet of Wilhelm II of Germany. By 1914 he had a powerful armada.

SHOWED FORESIGHT

He had the foresight to keep this great fleet, which King George V reviewed at Spithead on July 20, 1914, on a war footing, instead of having it scattered in the ordinary course the next week.

When England declared war on Aug. 4, the ships were at their stations in the North Sea and Germany's navy was bottled up.

Churchill rushed men and ships to Antwerp and went there himself in October 1914, when there was some hope of saving the city from the Germans. But his indefatigable efforts, diplomatically and in the actual work of defense, were unavailing.

★ ★ ★

His next great effort, in the early part of the next year, ended in the Dardanelles disaster.

Commentators have largely agreed since that both the Antwerp and Dardanelles plans were sound strategically and that if they had been executed vigorously their originator would have emerged as the great genius of the war, for the conflict would have been localized and shortened.

Instead he was made one of the outstanding "goats" of wartime Britain.

A generation later Churchill was the chief repository of British hopes during the war that unpreparedness spawned.

★ ★ ★

The people found almost spiritual solace in his words.

'FULL CONFIDENCE'

"I have myself full confidence . . . that we shall prove ourselves once again able to defend our island home and ride out the storms of war and outlive the menace of tyranny . . . if necessary alone," he said after the Belgian surrender.

After the fall of France, when Britain did stand alone, he said:

"And now it has come to us to stand alone in the breach, and to face the worst that the tyrant's might and enmity can do.

"Bearing ourselves humbly before God, but conscious that we serve an unfolding purpose, we are ready to defend our native land . . . We are fighting by ourselves alone; but we are not fighting for ourselves alone. . . . We await undismayed the impending assault."

★ ★ ★

And when that assault came in the summer of 1940 in the ordeal by fire and demolition which Hitler calculated would crush the British will and break a path for cross-channel invasion, Churchill spoke the people's inspiring gratitude and debt to the Royal Air Force.

GREAT DEBT

"The gratitude of every home in our island, in our empire, and indeed throughout the world except in the abodes of the guilty, goes out to the British airmen, who, undaunted by odds, unwearied in their constant challenge and mortal danger, are turning the tide of the World War by their prowess and by their devotion," he said.

"Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

He saw sympathy for Britain blossom into lend-lease relations as the United States became "the arsenal of democracy."

★ ★ ★

He welcomed the opportunity of trading leaseholds for American bases in British territory in the Western Hemisphere for 50 destroyers.

'MUTUAL ADVANTAGE'

"Undoubtedly this process means that these two great organizations of the English-speaking democracies . . . will have to be somewhat mixed up together in some of their affairs for mutual and general advantage," he observed of the cooperation between the two democracies.

"For my own part . . . I do not view the process with any misgivings. I could not stop it if I wished; no one can stop it. Like the Mississippi, it just keeps rolling along. Let it roll. Let it roll on full flood, inexorable, irresistible, benignant, to broader lands and better days."

The bonds of friendship between Britain and America were strengthened through the personal relationship of Churchill and Roosevelt. They were on "Winston and Franklin" terms.

★ ★ ★

Their battleship-cruiser rendezvous in the Atlantic in 1941 gave the world the Atlantic Charter, a blueprint of fundamental freedoms, four months before the United States went to war. Several times after this country joined the conflict, the prime minister visited the United States to confer with the President.

HISTORY MAKING

Churchill's 10-day "unconditional surrender" meeting with President Roosevelt at Casablanca in January 1943 shattered precedents to make history.

An action-packed 1943 testified to the thoroughness of their planning. The North African campaign was brought to a victorious conclusion.

Sicily was conquered. Benito Mussolini was ousted as Fascist dictator, the Italian mainland was invaded and Italy capitulated. Sardinia, Corsica and the Italian fleet fell into Allied hands.

★ ★ ★

In November-December 1943, the two met with Stalin at Tehran, Iran, to map the later course of the war and the early phases of the peace, and in February of 1945 the "Big Three" held another momentous conference at Yalta in the Crimea.

QUEBEC MEETING

Churchill and Roosevelt conferred at Quebec in the summer of 1943 and again the next year about carrying on the war in the Pacific.

Just before the meeting at Tehran, they had met with China's Chiang Kai-shek at Cairo to plan the future struggle against Japan.

The prime minister had two attacks of pneumonia in 1943, one in February in London and the other after the Cairo and Tehran conferences.

★ ★ ★

He convalesced in the Middle East. It was 10 weeks from the time he left for the conferences before he returned early in January 1944.

CARRIED ON DUTIES

While he was still ill, he announced proudly: "I have not at any time had to relinquish my part in the direction of affairs and there has not been the slightest delay in giving decisions which were required of me."

In 1947 he underwent an operation for hernia. Early the next year he contracted a heavy cold that developed into bronchitis.

He was always a problem to his doctors. Even in his illnesses Churchill resisted any curbing of his restless energies and refused to be separated from his cigars.

However, in late years he husbanded his energies by staying in bed most mornings until noon, reading and dictating, and trying to take a nap in the afternoon.

When the invasion of France started in June 1944, it took a lot of persuading by Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, Allied naval commander, to keep Churchill from accompanying the forces when they stormed the beaches of France.

Admiral Ramsay said he persuaded the prime minister "only with much difficulty" not to go along.

But less than a week later Churchill went to France on a destroyer and saw for himself how the battle was going in a tour of the Allied beachhead.

NARROWLY ESCAPED

Almost three years after the blitz of late 1940, it was revealed that Churchill narrowly escaped being killed in it. He was dining at 10 Downing street with two cabinet members when a bomb fell on the Treasury building next door, demolishing it and killing 12 persons.

The dining room chandelier plopped right into the center of Churchill's table, but no one was hurt. With a fatalistic attitude, he and his guests stayed at their table. It was that night that the stocky British leader adopted his famous air raid suit.

His attitude on life and death was summed up in the First World War after the engine failure of a plane carrying him across the Channel to France: "I love life, but I do not fear death." But he was not above carrying a tommy-gun in the back of his car in World War II.

NOTED AS WRITER

With his drive he combined uniquely a capacity for relaxation and good living. In the First World War he played polo.

In the second conflict he found time to rest among his tropical fish, cats and swans at his country residence, Chartwell Manor, near Westerham, Kent, which he bought largely with the royalties from his masterwork on the first World War, "The World Crisis."

His books numbered a score. The biographies of his father and his ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, along with his writings of World War I, are classics.

In the autumn of 1946 Churchill began writing his memoirs, aided by a diary he kept, beginning with the years preceding World War II when he opposed his government's appeasement policy and extending through the conflict.

The memoirs were published in serial form under the titles of "The Gathering Storm," "Their Finest Hour," "The Grand Alliance," "The Hinge of Fate," "Closing the Ring," and "Triumph and Tragedy." Later they appeared in book form.

On a visit to the United States in 1943, Churchill was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws by Harvard University, with this citation:

"Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill—an historian who has written a glorious page of British history; a statesman and warrior whose tenacity and courage turned back the tide of tyranny in freedom's darkest hour."

VACATION TRIP

During a 1946 vacation trip he received honorary degrees from the University of Miami, in Florida, Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and Columbia University, New York; addressed the Virginia legislature and was awarded New York City's gold medal and distinguished service certificate.

In 1949 Massachusetts Institute of Technology conferred on the British statesman a rare honor—that of honorary lecturer. He was cited as "the twentieth century symbol of resistance to oppression."

Hailing Churchill's 70th birthday in 1944, Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that "in the face of a bayonet aimed at Great Britain's breast with missiles of death falling around him, Churchill rallied the British people with a ringing challenge in defense of her homes and soil and defied the cruel and savage invader."

The senator added:

"He did more than rally the British people. He thrilled the English-speaking world and the peoples of the United Nations. With rare vision and stout heart he looked beyond the clouds and bravely faced the storm . . . He will take his place among the gallant and great historic characters of Britain."

THE HUNTER — Winston Churchill is pictured as he attended a boar hunt in the forest of Allogny near Bourges, France, in January 1933.

WINNIE

Scarcely anybody in Britain doubts that Sir Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill will rank in history with great names like Julius Caesar, Napoleon, Nelson and Lincoln. When Churchill was a lieutenant in Boer War, shortly before the turn of the century, his commander, Sir Bindon Blood, mentioned him in dispatches: "He was useful," reported Sir Bindon, "at a critical moment." And in war and peace, for more than 60 years, Sir Winston was useful at the critical moments. He was a prize-winning author and historian, a gallant leader of troops, an artist, a superb politician and a statesman. His countrymen called him "The Old Man," or "The Old Gentleman," or, with great love and respect, "Winnie." Here are the Churchill years in pictures.

In 1898, Churchill served as correspondent in South Africa's Boer War, was captured and made a spectacular escape. He saw such engagements as the above.

He was First Lord of the Admiralty during World War I . . .

. . . and a champion polo player and sportsman in 1922 . . .

. . . who visited Washington, D.C., during a speaking tour in 1929 . . .

. . . and fought for England in World War II in his famous "Siren Suit" . . .

. . . this is Winnie at No. 10 Downing St., as the world will remember him.

Churchill, the author who won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1952, was also an accomplished amateur painter. He loved the hills of the South of France.

He was always prone to injury and has had many broken bones and bouts with pneumonia and strokes. In 1931, he was struck by a truck in New York City.

As Secretary of State for War and Air in 1919, Churchill knew and worked with the world's military leaders, like U.S. General of the Armies John J. Pershing. He and Pershing rode through London during the latter's visit.

Churchill was always the campaigner. A Conservative turned Liberal turned Conservative party member, he needed votes to stay in Parliament. He greets constituents in 1923 with a hearty grin.

AP Photos

Sir Winston acknowledged the cheers of well-wishers at the window of his London home last Nov. 29, the day before his 90th birthday. It was one of the last times the British statesman was seen by the public.

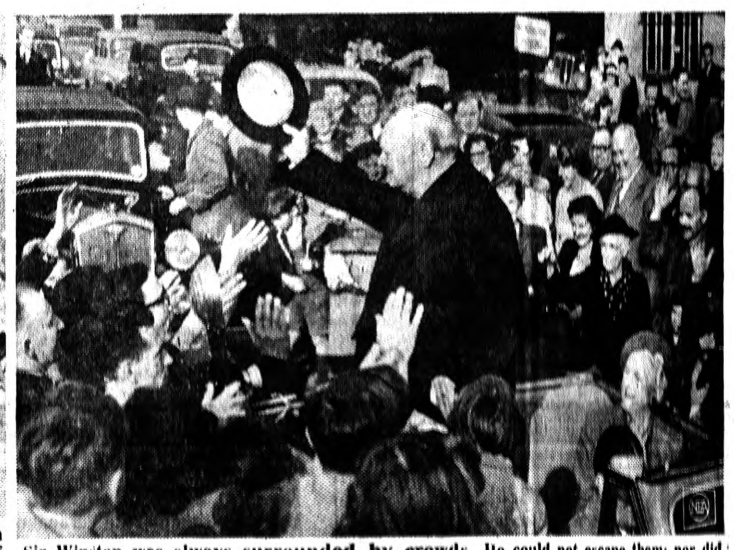
At Yalta, Churchill joined President Roosevelt and Soviet Premier Josef Stalin to plan to get Russia into the war. The year is 1945. He attended other "summit" meetings in Teheran, Potsdam, Casablanca.

As Prime Minister during World War II, Churchill tried always to be in the thick of battle. He was particularly interested in the Africa campaign and several times traveled to Egypt. He's watching a bomber squadron return to its base on the El Alamein front.

Churchill's speeches are still familiar. In 1941 he addressed the U.S. Congress and said the Japs "would be taught a lesson."

With his wife, Clementine, whom he married in 1908, Britain's grand old man campaigns in 1951, the year he was returned to power as prime minister and leader of the Conservative party. In 1955, he officially ended his long career.

Sir Winston, often in a wheelchair, spent much of his retirement in France.



Sir Winston was always surrounded by crowds. He could not escape them; nor did he want to. And this may be one reason why his countrymen will never forget him.

Rochester Primary Needed; One Likely in Milford, Too

A primary election will be necessary in Rochester and possibly in Milford Feb. 15.

In Rochester, a total of nine nominating petitions were filed before the noon Saturday deadline for four expiring Village Council terms.

In Milford, five candidates are seeking two council seats.

The Milford petitions turned in have not yet been validated, but if all are correct the list will have to be decreased by one for the March 8 general election.

Both of the incumbents for the three-year council terms, R. C. Wakefield and Max Kelley, are seeking reelection.

OTHERS FILING

Also filing petitions to run for the posts were Norton Caswell of 946 Duke, who works at the General Motors Proving Grounds; Charles Roose, 1217 Marjorie, a West Bloomfield Township employe; and Hugh P. Davies, 715 Atlantic, principal of Union Lake Elementary School in the Walled Lake district.

Archie J. Noon of 405 Hickory, a local insurance agent, will run against incumbent Merlia Feigley for the two years left in an unexpired term.

Feigley was appointed to the council following the resignation of Vernon Rounds in November.

ONLY CANDIDATE

Village President Wilbur Johnson, seeking reelection for a two-year term, was the only person to file for that office.

Two petitions, taken out and returned at almost the last minute in Rochester, put the total one above the maximum for a general election, making the primary necessary.

Harry E. Byers of 293 North Hill Cirele, who operates Byers Shell Service, and Harold Milton of 1002 Mahaffey, a distributor for Sutherland Oil Co., Oxford, filed the last two petitions.

★ ★ ★

Byers made the deadline with but 15 minutes to spare.

EARLY FILINGS

Petitions had already been submitted by incumbent Village President John O'Donnell and fellow incumbent councilmen John Boeberitz and James McCarthy.

Other candidates who filed early were Samuel Howlett, David N. Parker of 436 Hill, John L. Dahlmann of 265 South and Louis A. Mitzelfeld.

Howlett is justice of the peace and a former police chief; Parker, technical director at Rochester Aerosal Corp.; Dahlmann, a former councilman and a landscaper; and Mitzelfeld, factory superintendent at National Twist Drill & Tool Co.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Kenneth Van Nocker did not file for reelection to his council seat.

The primary will cut the total number of candidates to eight. The three highest vote-getters in the March 8 election will serve two-year terms, while the fourth will get the one-year term.

DISCUSS RIGHT-OF-WAY — Rochester Village Manager Richard Don met with New York Central Railroad (NYC) and Public Service Commission (PSC) representatives Friday to discuss a NYC easement which would allow the extension of East University into 20 acres of Mill Pond property to open it to development. Taking part were (from left), Joseph Madej, NYC engineering department; Don; Robert Smitha, architect and codeveloper of the Mill Pond property; Harry E. Taylor, railroad safety inspector of the PSC; and village engineer William St. Clair. The matter will be up for further consideration at tonight's Village council meeting.

AREA NEWS

Directors of Hospital Unit Elected

MILFORD — Four new members have joined four incumbents returned to the board of directors of the Huron Valley Community Hospital Association.

★ ★ ★

Rev. Jacob Andrews and incumbent Mrs. Florence P. Rogers, both of Milford, were elected as directors-at-large at the association's annual meeting Thursday.

Others elected to two-year terms include Mrs. LaVerne Roe of Milford Township, L. F. Oldenburg of Highland Township and William H. Hoffman of Rose Township.

Retaining their places on the board were William Carls of White Lake Township, Mrs. Isabelle Taylor of Commerce Township and Glee Cook of Hartland Township.

★ ★ ★

Incumbents who chose not to run for reelection were Rev. Frank Williams, who had served as a director-at-large; Mrs. George Watkins of Milford Township; and Mrs. Walter Eis of Highland Township.

TO SPEARHEAD DRIVE

The association was formed four years ago to spearhead the drive for a $2-million hospital here.

Membership can be obtained with as little as a $1 contribution to the fund.

The proposed 100-bed facility would serve residents of 10 townships.

On Proposed $2-Million Complex

West Bloomfield Sets Zoning Hearing

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Public hearing on rezoning for a proposed $2-million multiple residence complex — pending before the township planning commission for over a year — is scheduled for tomorrow night.

The 8 p.m. session at the Township Hall will provide another opportunity for residents to express their views on the project, which in the past have been emphatically negative.

The request of Peter Popek to develop a 39-acre site at Mirror Lake on Pontiac Trail hit its last snag in September.

At a hearing before the Township Board, the question was returned to the planning commission because of a technicality.

★ ★ ★

State statute requires the posting of property under consideration for rezoning before a public hearing on the matter. This had not been done prior to a July hearing before the commission.

PLANS GO TO COUNTY

Having recommended the change, commissioners sent plans for the project to the Oakland County Coordinating Zoning and Planning Committee.

Protests from neighboring property owners first were heard at a meeting of the county group, which declined approving the project and recommended that Orchard Lake residents be heard by the planners.

Popek's property is bordered on the north and east by Orchard Lake, which was then a village and since has been incorporated as a city.

★ ★ ★

Despite the recommendation, planners reiterated their stand and sought Township Board approval of the project without that of the county group.

INFORMATIONAL

The hearing before the board, which never materialized as an official session because of the technicality, served as an informational meeting at which officials learned that there was considerable opposition to the proposed rezoning.

The 39 acres in question, including the 16-acre lake, now are in the township's most restrictive single - residence zone.

Preliminary architectural drawings indicated the apartments would be contained in eight buildings staggered on the hillside on the south side of the lake.

★ ★ ★

Objections have been voiced by residents of Sagamore Estates subdivision on the west of the proposed site and by Frederic K. Graef, developer of Sagamore Estates and owner of property on three sides of Popek's.

Trailer Court Gets Zoning Board OK

ORION TOWNSHIP — The zoning board has approved an amendment to the township zoning ordinance allowing trailer courts in the township.

Specifically involved in the amendment is a proposed trailer park on a 78-acre site at about 2285 Brown.

The amendment sets up restrictions and requirements for trailer parks by establishing a "Trailer Court District No. 3A," the first in the township.

Unanimous approval of the amendment followed Friday night's public hearing on the matter at which no objections were raised.

The amendment now goes to the Township Board with the zoning board's recommendation for passage.

SECOND HEARING

A second public hearing Friday ended with no action by the zoning board, which requested more information on proposed plans for a gas station, motel and restaurant.

The project is proposed for the northwest corner of Baldwin Avenue and I-75, and would need rezoning from residential to business classification.

While the 21¼ acres involved lie in both Orion and Pontiac townships, the buildings would be constructed on the Orion Township portion of the land.

Zoning board chairman Wallace C. Crane said that the layout details were insufficient to give members an idea of the placement of the buildings.

TO STUDY PLANS

Crane said the zoning board will meet with the township planning commission on Feb. 3 to consider more detailed plans.

Oakland Twp. Charity Has Meeting Tonight

OAKLAND TOWNSHIP—The annual meeting of the Oakland Township Community Chest is slated for 8 tonight at the Township Hall, 4393 Collins.

★ ★ ★

A report of the annual fund drive is on the agenda along with election of eight directors.

Tax Problem to Be Viewed by Troy's City Commission

TROY — The City Commission will tackle the complex problem of taxation again tonight, with the hope of resolving differences of opinion on how to increase money available for operation.

A resolution passed last week opened the door, but may be changed or rescinded tonight.

If left the way it was passed, the resolution would put a proposal on the April 5 ballot to eliminate the present 5-mill limitation on the amount of tax revenue the city can spend on operation.

This would not change the total tax levy of 10 mills, but would allow the commission to split revenue between operation and capital improvement as it sees fit.

At present, a 5-mill limit exists for each category, and although the city is not yet using all of the revenue available for capital improvement, it cannot use it for operation, where more money is badly needed.

But some commissioners say they want to reconsider their previous stands, since estimates of future capital improvement needs indicate that nearly all of the 5 mills allowed for it soon will be necessary anyway.

This would leave the same amount for operation that is available now, thus failing to improve the situation.

In addition to this, requests have come from the library board and the parks and recreation board for millage to support and expand their respective functions.

★ ★ ★

While several commissioners see the idea of increasing the over-all tax limit of 10 mills as a necessity in the near future, some of them feel that several proposals to do so on the April ballot might decrease the chance of passage for all proposals.

SEVERAL PROPOSALS

In order to accomplish an increase, voters would face several proposals all at once, they say, and might be reluctant to pass any of them.

Up for consideration tonight will be a resolution which would both rescind the action taken last week, since it puts a limit on over-all taxes, and would place an over-all increase proposal on the ballot.

Exchange Students Hold Worthless Airline Tickets

DETROIT (UPI) — About 125 exchange students from Colombia hold worthless return tickets to their South American country because an airline went bankrupt, a coordinator of the exchange program said today.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Carl Agosta, Detroit, said the students had been scheduled to return to Bogota, Colombia on a chartered plane of Aerovias Panama Airways (AVA) plane out of Miami next Friday.

But the airline was declared bankrupt Friday in a Miami court.

The woman said the students divided into small groups and were guests in homes at a number of cities around the country during a 10-week program. Seventeen of the students were visiting in Detroit. They were staying at the home of members of the Christian Family Movement, a Catholic lay organization.

★ ★ ★

Two of them were not affected by the airline going broke, however. They cashed in their tickets earlier because they wanted to do more traveling in America.

NO REFUNDS

Mrs. Agosta said she received word that APA was unable to refund any of the fare. The round-trip tickets cost $365, including flights to and from Miami within the U. S. Other airlines involved in the American legs of the trip refuse to honor the APA tickets.

Mrs. Agosta called State Rep. William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, who got in touch with Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., to see whether the federal government could help. Hart promised to get in touch with the State Department, Mrs. Agosta said.

"Meantime, the kids are just sitting tight," she said.

ROCHESTER — The Hix 'n' Chix Square Dance Club of Rochester will mark its second anniversary with a dance Saturday night at West Junior High School.

Cochairmen of the 8:30 p.m. event are Mrs. Earl Cischke and Mrs. Lee Truit.

The dance will be an open house for all intermediate dancers with Chuck Becker as caller.

Serving as officers of the club for the coming year are Ernie Formolo, president; Al Fantozzi, vice-president; Mrs. Fantozzi, treasurer; Mrs. Hal Hunt, recording secretary; and Mrs. Bob Boncher, corresponding secretary.

AAUW to Hear Talk on Far East

ROCHESTER — A talk on the "Changes in the Orient" will be presented at the Wednesday meeting of the Rochester Branch of the American Association of University Women.

★ ★ ★

Speaker at the 8 p.m. session will be Miss Eunice Brake, who has been a teacher in both Japan and Thailand.

★ ★ ★

At present Miss Brake is assistant principal of River Rouge High School. She will illustrate her remarks with colored slides taken during her stay in the Orient.

The meeting will be held in the Avon Township Library.

Lived Under Alias for 27 Years

Year's Freedom Harsh for Ex-Fugitive

(EDITOR'S NOTE — One year ago today, escaped convict George Hutchinson was pardoned after giving himself up after 27 years of illicit freedom. Here is the story of his first year of legal freedom.)

By JERRY CURRY

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — One year ago today, George Hutchinson became a free man after 27 years as a fugitive from an Illinois prison.

But freedom has not been kind to him.

★ ★ ★

He hasn't worked since last August, when he underwent an ulcer operation in which 80 per cent of his stomach was removed. His wife, Lucille, 37, was paralyzed by a stroke. The Hutchisons and their seven children are living on insurance and relief.

Yet Hutchinson, 51, who elected to give himself up rather than continue to live under an alias, says he is not discouraged.

GETS ALONG

"I get along," Hutchison told a newsman. "Lucille and the kids help. Lucille had to learn to drive the car."

After her husband's operation, Mrs. Hutchison vowed she would throw away her crutches in a month.

BEAT DEADLINE

"I walked three days before Labor Day," she said.

She married Hutchison when she thought he was Clyde Swanson —the name he adopted after he escaped from an Illinois prison farm in 1937.

★ ★ ★

He was serving a one-year-to-life sentence for the $12 robbery on a Chicago streetcar. "I decided it just wasn't worth it and I just walked off one day," he said. "As far as I know there was no immediate pursuit."

For 27 years he lived a model life. He fought in World War II with the 41st Infantry Division in the South Pacific, and won the Purple Heart and Combat Infantryman's Badge.

SOCIAL SECURITY

He got a Social Security card under the name of Swanson.

"I didn't know George's real name until a few days before he surrendered," said Mrs. Hutchison. "He was sitting up one night and I heard him cry a little. I had never heard him cry before. And then he told me."

★ ★ ★

A few days later, the Hutchisons left their children with relatives and went to the sheriff's office in St. Charles, Mo., near their home in Bridgeton, a St. Louis suburb.

When his story became known, the governor of Illinois pardoned Hutchison.

BRIGHT FUTURE

The future appeared bright. Hutchison was working in a plant in St. Louis.

Then came his wife's stroke, and Hutchison's illness.

★ ★ ★

"We've got to move soon," Hutchison said. "Our landlady has sold the property to a developer."

"I've been in and out of bed," he said. "They've cut a lot out of me. But my job's still waiting when I recover."

WRITING BOOK

He is writing a book about his years as a fugitive. Mrs. Hutchison learned to type so she could help. Friends from the Villa Brook Baptist Church have helped the family with gifts.

"It's been a bad year," said Mrs. Hutcison. "But we'll get along."

★ ★ ★

While Hutchison is out of bed — about four hours a day — he shows his children how to build a trailer to help the family move.

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound man sits on the front porch of his log home while the children play or cluster around a wood stove. Hutchinson looks over the snow-covered fields toward the bridge across the Missouri River.

★ ★ ★

The name Swanson no longer is on the mailbox.

Coast Guard Aids Vessel Near Cuba

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The Coast Guard dispatched a cutter Sunday night to assist a fishing vessel which had developed engine trouble eight miles off the Cuban coast and was being aided by rescue planes under escort of American jet fighters.

★ ★ ★

The Coast Guard air station here said the 60-foot vessel, Darway, with three on board, will be towed to Key West by the cutter Ariadne.

★ ★ ★

Darway sent distress signals off Cuba's western tip, saying she was taking on water after having developed engine trouble. Rescue planes dropped a pump and were escorted by jet fighters from Key West Naval Air Station, the Coast Guard said.

BURIAL SITE — Sir Winston Churchill will be buried Saturday at St. Martin's Church on the Blenheim estate at Bladon, Oxfordshire.

College Takes Pride as Site of Speech

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — With dignity that seemed to say "we are proud that he stood among us," Westminster College paid tribute Sunday to Sir Winston Churchill in the same gymnasium where he delivered his Iron Curtain speech nearly 19 years ago.

The students, who were only babies at the time, talked in hushed voices before the memorial service, sharing in recapitulation the honor he conferred on the Presbyterian college in this town of 11,000. They and townsfolk filled the modest gynmasium.

★ ★ ★

"For 10 years now men have watched the ebb of vitality as age took its toll," said Dr. Robert L. D. Davidson, president of Westminster. "We have witnessed his personal heroism, dignity and courage, even when physical strength had deserted him."

With President Harry S. Truman sharing the platform, Churchill, on March 5, 1946, thundered the words that were to replace the title, "Sinews of Peace," that he had chosen for his speech:

THE IRON CURTAIN

"From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the Continent. Behind that line lie all the capitals of the ancient states of central and eastern Europe."

Churchill and his Conservative government had been voted out of office nine months before, robbed of the rewards that the World War II leadership should have bestowed. The invitation from the then Westminster president, Franc L. McCluer, gave Churchill a pulpit from which to voice his fears about the Soviet Union's desire of "the indefinite expansion of their power and doctrines."

★ ★ ★

He spoke of his hopes for the United Nations . . . for a special relationship between the United States and the British Commonwealth, and for a shield from what he called 'the two gaunt marauders — war and tyranny."

Last year Westminster began — with Churchill's approval — an unusual national monument to Churchill, an honorary American citizen. With publicly donated funds, the college will transport, stone by stone, the St. Mary Aldermanbury church from London to be used as a nondenominational chapel.

The site, now marked with three stones and a wooden cross from the church, is only a block from the gymnasium.

In his tribute, Dr. Davidson quoted Churchill's closing words from the speech that forever enobled this town:

"If we adhere faithfully to the Charter of the United Nations and walk forward in sedate and sober strength, seeking no one's land or treasure, seeking to lay no arbitrary control upon the thought of men the high roads of the future will be clear not only for us, but for all, not only for our time, but for the century to come."

Train Derails in Michigan

Several Hurt, None Die in Crack Express

GALIEN (AP) — The New York Central's crack Twilight Limited was derailed near this southwest Michigan community Sunday night, causing injuries to nine passengers.

None was seriously hurt.

State police and passengers among the more than 150 aboard said it was "lucky" that the casualties were no more severe or extensive.

Passengers were flung about in the cars. They told of dodging luggage tumbling from overhead racks.

Nine of the train's 11 cars left the track as the Limited, one of the middlewest's best known railroad trains, sped at 80 miles an hour through southwestern Michigan near the Indiana border.

All nine cars, which included the diner and club car, remained upright.

★ ★ ★

This was one of the "lucky" elements, said state trooper Fred Prysby, one of the first at the scene.

The cars derailed two miles west of here about 7 p.m., less than two hours out of Chicago.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

NYC spokesmen said the cause was not determined but that "some rigging or something" had fallen from the train and was "dragging along."

Admitted to Pawating Hospital at nearby Niles were Mrs. Andrew Shomberger, 40, of Allen Park; Michael Hayes, 65, of Chicago, and Mrs. Howard Newman, 49, of Kalamazoo.

★ ★ ★

The hospital said none of the three was seriously hurt. Mrs. Shomberger's husband was among those treated and released.

Herb Rice of Homer, a sailor coming home from reserve duty at Glenview Naval Air Station near Chicago, said he heard a "rumbling."

DUCKED DOWN

"I ducked down behind the seat to get out of the way of luggage coming forward," Rice said

"After the train stopped," he said, "I saw a lady lying on the floor across the aisle from me. Her foot was tangled in the seat. I helped her and her husband get her foot out."

★ ★ ★

Three doctors aboard the train aided the injured. They were Dr. A. H. Keefer of Concord and Drs. William Joerin and W. E. McGarvey, both of Jackson.

State police and Berrien County sheriff's men rushed to the scene. Several ambulances also came.

Dixie Blasts Hit Autos, Building

By United Press International

Two explosions, coming about an hour apart, last night damaged a Negro funeral home and two automobiles parked near a church where Negroes were discussing the civil rights law at New Bern, N. C.

There were no injuries. Sheriff C. B. Berry said the funeral home explosion was caused by "one or two sticks" of dynamite. Other authorities said they had not been able to determine the nature of the explosion that damaged the automobiles.

The mortuary operated by Oscar Dove, a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and a member of New Bern's biracial committee, is located about a mile from the church.

The blast blew off a door and broke several windows in a rear room of the establishment.

★ ★ ★

The blast near the church damaged an automobile belonging to Charlotte Negro attorney Julius Chambers, who has served as legal counsel for the NAACP, and one owned by another Negro attending the civil rights discussions at St. Peter's A.M.E. Zion Church.

Both cars had to be towed away. Negroes said the Federal Bureau of Investigation would be asked to investigate the blasts, the first serious racial disturbance in North Carolina in more than a year.

Junior Achievers' Week Is Opened at the Sno-Ball

A Sno-Ball, attended by more than a thousand young students and their parents, opened Junior Achievement Week at Cobo Hall Friday night.

Rosann Baldwin, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Baldwin, 1997 Henbert, West Bloomfield Township, and a senior at Waterford Township High School, represented the Pontiac area young women as Miss Pontiac.

Howard Owen, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard N. Owen, 5220 Lynsue, Waterford Township, a junior at Waterford Township High School, represented Pontiac area young men at the ball.

David Johnson, 17, of Ann Arbor and Sue Sadowski, 17, of Detroit were selected to represent the Southeastern Area JAs, at the national finals in August.

★ ★ ★

Junior Achievement is made up of 16 miniature companies in the Pontiac area. These companies are sponsored by area firms.

ADVISERS ASSIST

Advisers assist approximately 15 teen-agers for each company from 15 to 19 years of age in operating their JA businesses.

The main purpose of JA is to instruct these young people how to safeguard and maintain the free enterprise system.

The men acting as advisers are representatives of local business concerns and are experts in the field of production, business and sales.

★ ★ ★

The teen-agers first decide upon the type of company they wish to operate, then sell stock (at 50 cents a share) and go through every step of operating a company including selling the product.

SPONSOR COMPANIES

Sponsors of the 16 local J A companies include Community National Bank, National Twist Drill, Chrysler Engineering, Pontiac Motor Divison, Ford Motor Michigan Bell, GMC Truck & Coach, Fisher Body Plant and Consumers Power Co.

James B. Middleton, 35 Liberty St., is coordinator of the Pontiac business center.

A teacher at Waterford Haviland Eelementary School, he is in charge of the area headquarters at 20½ E. Pike.

★ ★ ★

The headquarters will hold open house tonight through Thursday from 6:45 to 9 p.m. and the various products of the local J A companies will be on exhibit.

Local Gas Station Robbed by Bandits

Armed bandits robbed the Tulsa Service Station at 701 S. Saginaw Saturday night and fled with $16 in change.

Stanley Curtis, attendant, told police the two robbers came into the station about 8:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Curtis told the pair he had just the the day's receipts in the safe and the only cash he had was a box of small change.

The bandits took the change and fled.

Sato Views Japan-Red China Relations

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato told the Japanese Diet today Japan should deal with the problem of Communist China "prudently and from its own independent viewpoint, without making unnecessary haste to reach a conclusion."

In an administrative policy speech Sato said the China problem "is one of great importance with a variety of complications" for Japan.

★ ★ ★

The complications mainly stem from Japan's alliance with the United States and its diplomatic ties with Nationalist China. The government has been under constant pressure of opposition leftist parties to recognize Peking and support its membership in the United Nations.

"At the present stage," Sato said, "our country intends to promote economic and cultural interchange with Communist China and on the basic principle of separation of political matters and economic matters."

★ ★ ★

The prime minister said, Japan will maintain "the friendly relations with the republic of China with which Japan has regular diplomatic relations."

BANGKOK (AP) — Premier Thanom Kittikachorn, his wife and several Thai officials escaped injury Sunday night when their transport made a belly landing at Pitsanuloke, 250 miles north of here. Unofficial reports said the plane had landing gear trouble.

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — A passenger train loaded with vacationers collided with a freight train southwest of Guatemala City Sunday, killing at least 33 persons and injuring several others.

Reports from the scene near the town of Amatitlan said the brakes on the passenger train apparently failed.

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia's military junta says it will hold elections Sept. 26 for president, vice president and congress.

Political sources said Gen. Rene Barrientos, the head of the junta, would decide next week whether to run for the presidency.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Colombian government has agreed to repeal the new sales tax, and labor leaders have canceled a general strike scheduled for today.

After three days of almost continuous negotiations, the government agreed Saturday night to make other economic adjustments as well as repeal the tax.

Fractional Gains Mark Key Stocks

Mart Up in Fairly Active Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rose in fairly active trading today.

Fractional gains were the rule for most key stocks.

★ ★ ★

Steels, autos, Electronics, rails, drugs and electrical equipments were generally higher.

★ ★ ★

Chemicals also showed a higher trend on balance. Nonferrous metals and cigarette issues were mixed.

SLIDES

IBM slid more than 2 points. Polaroid was up more than a point.

★ ★ ★

Aerospace issues declined. Boeing was down nearly a point, others fractions.

★ ★ ★

Opening blocks included: Ford, up ¼ at 56 on 6,000 shares; American Telephone, up ⅛ at 67⅝ on 4,800; and Burroughs, up ⅛ at 30½ on 3,700.

★ ★ ★

On Friday the Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose .3 to 333.9

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Trapeze Artist Falls

SAGINAW (AP) — A woman trapeze performer who plunged 30 feet to a mat-covered floor is reported in serious condition with a head injury.

Gertrude Johann, 50, of Uniondale, N. Y., a member of the Levas aerial trapeze act, was rushed to St. Mary's Hospital after the mishap Saturday at the Shrine Circus here.
