

U.S. Crime Rate Rose Faster Than Population in '65

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a sharp increase in juvenile delinquency, the nation's crime rate continued to rise faster than its population growth, with a 5 per cent increase in 1965. The FBI's annual crime report said yesterday serious crimes occurred at a rate of five a minute last year, with more than 2.78 million such crimes reported. The increase was sharpest in the suburbs—8 per cent—and in the Western states—10 per cent. The 5 per cent gain in the crime rate reflected more than 14 crimes for every 1,000 inhabitants of the United States.

And while the rate increase fell off from the 11 per cent gain reported a year ago over 1963, the crime rate continued to outpace the population increase by almost six to one. Since 1960, the FBI said, serious crimes have increased 46 per cent while the population has grown by 8 per cent. The FBI figures carried a grave portent for the future of law enforcement. Arrests of juveniles under 18 for serious crimes have increased by 47 per cent in the past five years—nearly three times the 17 per cent increase in the population of that age group. In determining the rate of serious crimes, the FBI and reporting law enforcement agencies measure murder, rape, assault, robbery, burglary, larceny, and auto theft. RAPE RATE The rape rate showed the sharpest gain among those crimes over 1964 with 22.70 forcible rapes, for a 9 per cent increase. Murder, robbery, assault and burglary each increased 6 per cent, larceny of $50 or more 8 per cent, auto theft 5 per cent. While crime in the suburbs showed the highest increase, rural crime showed the lowest with a 3 per cent gain. The crime rate rose 4 per cent in cities over 250,000 population. Following the 10 per cent increase in the Western states, the Northeast showed an 8 per cent gain, the North Central and Southern states 4 per cent each.

TAKING A CHANCE — Sunglasses may cut down road glare, but this youth and his companion wear neither helmets nor protective jackets. Doctors cite the lack of such safety equipment as a leading cause of lacerations and soft-tissue injuries received in motorcycle accidents.

Is Cycle Boom Out of Control?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a two-part series on the rapid growth of motorcycling as a sport and the accompanying rise in motorcycle accidents.)

By DAVID J. COOK
The genuinely serious public concern over automobile safety this spring came nearly a half century after the automobile became commonplace on American roads.

Motorcycling on the other hand has been prominent on the traffic scene only in the last few years.

Its rapid growth is illustrated in one instance by the experience of Roy Wallace, owner of Roy's Harley-Davidson, 203 W. Montclair.

"Five years ago, I got by with one full-time helper," Wallace said.

"Now I have three full-time mechanics, two boys who work part-time, and two fellows who work full-time in the sales office."

GROSS SALES

"Our gross sales are up about 80 per cent."

Wallace and other dealers, as well as law enforcement officials, are concerned about what direction motorcycle safety will take in response to the proliferation of cycles on the roads.

The consensus among many is that cycling in itself is not unduly hazardous — rather, it becomes dangerous when the powerful machines are misused by their drivers.

"If these guys would ride motorcycles the way they're supposed to be ridden," said Pontiac Police Lt. Clayton A. Randolph, "there would be no problem."

NOISY DECISION
"There's always some who insist, for example, on taking the mufflers off the bikes and putting on 'straight pipes.'"

"Nine times out of 10, these are the ones who are cited for excessive noise and similar offenses."

Randolph's sentiments find sympathetic ears among motorcycle dealers.

"These high handlebars and 'hot pipes' are no good," said Wallace.

"And so many of the kids on bikes are simply unequipped for riding."

"This new law requiring safety helmets (effective this fall) should help some."

RENTAL AGENCY
A target of criticism among motorcycle dealers and "old guard" motorcyclists is the rental agency which generally deals in smaller bikes.

The going rate for renting a motorcycle with a small engine (100 cc piston displacement) is $4 an hour or $25 a day.

The fee includes public liability and property damage insurance. All that is needed besides money is a driver's license.

Accident figures indicate that rented motorcycles figure prominently in injuries.

ACCIDENT STUDY
Of 36 motorcycle accidents investigated this month by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies, five involved rented bikes.

"I think rentals are a very poor thing," Wallace commented.

Man Is Discovered in Bloomfield Hills

A man identified as a butler at a Bloomfield Hills home thrown yesterday in a pool in his employer's back yard. Harold H. Bross Jr., 49, was found dead in the pool about 8:30 a.m. yesterday by Walter L. McGirt, a fellow servant. The exact time of death has not been determined.

Both men live and work at the home of Jordan Stover of 3805 Lahser, Bloomfield Hills.

Bloomfield Hills police said a four-foot bench was found in the pool with the body. Apparently, they said, Bross fell into the water as he was carrying the bench near the pool. McGirt said Bross was not a swimmer.

Chance of Showers Late Today, Friday

A few scattered thunderstorms may drop in on the Pontiac area late today, and there's a chance of showers again tomorrow afternoon.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts temperatures will be a little cooler, lows falling to 65 to 70 tonight. Highs will reach into the low 80s tomorrow.

Partly cloudy with a chance of showers is the outlook for Saturday.

Morning northwesterly winds at 10 to 12 miles per hour will become variable at 5 to 10 miles tonight.

Seventy-two was the low reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The mercury stood at 88 at 2 p.m.

First to Escape From N. Viets

How Pilot Was Rescued

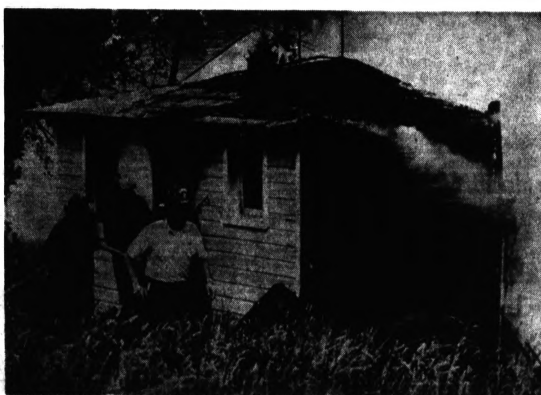

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Lt. (j.g.) Dieter Dengler fledged excitedly with the pilot as the big green helicopter hovered 150 feet overhead in a remote valley in North Viet Nam during the final moments of his ordeal. Exhausted, hungry, blistered on his feet, the Navy pilot from Pacifica, Calif., was hauled aboard the rescue ship after a 23-day trek through the jungle wilderness and flown to a U.S. military hospital in Da Nang.

Some six months after his plane had plunged into enemy territory, Dengler, 28, became the first American to escape from the North Vietnamese.

Record Turnout Is Forecast for Oakland County Primary

The largest voter turnout in an Oakland County Primary election is forecast for Tuesday by County Clerk John D. Murphy.

Murphy said today that he anticipates at least 50 per cent of the county's 345,000 registered voters will go to the polls.

In the 1964 primary, a presidential election year, 100,163 voters cast ballots.

A 75,000 increase over that figure is expected by Murphy. Pontiac has over 32,000 registered voters, and Waterford Township, 23,000.

A total of 8,325 votes were cast in the 1964 primary in Pontiac, while there were 7,438 in the township.

Murphy cited several reasons for his optimistic view. Chief among them is the race for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination between former Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

The two differ on Viet Nam, where Williams is an administration supporter and Cavanagh favors a cease-fire for elections and negotiations.

INTEREST IN BATTLE

"On the Republican side there's been a lot of interest in the south end of the county over the battle of precinct delegates," added Murphy.

"The race between Dick Kuhn and Jack McDonald in the 19th District should bring out the vote on the west side of the county."

Oakland County voters will nominate candidates for two congressional districts, four State Senate districts, 10 state representative districts, three positions on the Circuit Court bench, and for one Probate Court post.

There are 22 circuit judge candidates and five for the probate office.

Nominees for township offices also are to be selected.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. A bill which would have extended the closing time to 9 p.m. passed the Senate but died in the House.

Absentee ballots can be ob-

Combat Losses Double Those of Last Week

Operation Hastings, Aircraft Casualties Account for Increase

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. military command announced today that American combat dead more than doubled last week from the previous week's toll.

A spokesman said 136 Americans were killed, 578 wounded and 14 missing last week compared with 65 killed, 308 wounded and no missing in the week of July 10-16.

The dead brought the number of Americans killed in Viet Nam this year to an unofficial total of 2,728 and to 4,440 since American combat involvement in the war began Jan. 1, 1961.

The largest increase in casualties stemmed in part from heavy fighting by U.S. Marines as they launched Operation Hastings against a North Vietnamese regiment near the northern border July 15.

The toll also reflected dead and wounded in a spate of aircraft losses. Smaller percentage, allied spokesmen said. They said 1,272 Communists were killed, an increase of 72.

A South Vietnamese spokesman said 195 government troops were killed and 42 were missing last week, a decline of 14 in the number of dead and an increase of three in the missing category. No report is made on government or Communist wounded.

City Youth Is Slain; Suspect Being Held

An 18-year-old Pontiac youth was fatally shot in the neck last night, reportedly as he argued with another man on the city's South Side.

Donald A. McGhee, 165 Crestwood was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital just before 10 p.m.

Pontiac police said he was felled with a single shot from a semiautomatic .22-caliber rifle.

Field at the Oakland County Jail is Curtis Lewis Jr., 23, of 353 Howard McNeil, in front of whose home the victim was found.

Detective Sgt. John A. DePauw said he would seek a warrant charging Lewis with first-degree murder.

Police were told Lewis was arguing with McGhee and several other men when Lewis went to his car and returned with a rifle.

McGhee began backing away with his hands over his head, witnesses said, but fell to the ground when the gun discharged.

Lewis warned the other men to "stay away" from McGhee. Lewis was told, and then fled inside his home.

Lewis told detectives McGhee had threatened him with a screwdriver during the argument.

He immediately radioed to get the rescue on the way.

"There was always wariness, of course, of being trapped into something," Deatrick said. "However, I was firmly convinced that the man was friendly, even though I could not identify the person on the ground from what he was wearing."

"It was a dense area, so remote from everything and the possibility of ever seeing anything—this was one in a million."

Another flight of planes came in to fly over while the crew of an Air Force "Jolly Green Giant" helicopter scrambled into action.

"At about 11:15 a.m. we got our first call for this mission and by about 11:20 we were in the air proceeding to this area," said Capt. William E. Cowell of Oahu, Hawaii, the helicopter commander.

PULL HIM OUT

The big chopper made one pass over Dengler, then went into action to pull him out of the jungle. By noon, the helicopter men had him on board.

Airman L.C. Mike Leonard of Fowler, Iowa, a pararescue man, described the actual rescue:

"The hoist operator let the cable out. He must have used about 150 feet—maybe 175 feet—of cable."

"He put it down on the ground. The survivor (Dengler) got in it. It took him a couple of seconds to figure out how it operated. He was a little excited and glad to be there, and he just had a little problem."

Problems in Transferring Control

City Airport Negotiations Complicated

Negotiations for control of Pontiac Municipal Airport face a complicated course of action.

The ultimate goal is to transfer control and operation of Pontiac Municipal Airport, the third busiest in the state, from the City of Pontiac to Oakland County.

The problem is to make the transfer to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Negotiations, stalemated for nearly a year, were resumed Tuesday between Pontiac City Commissioners Leslie H. Hudson and T. Warren Fowler Sr. and a six-member special county study committee headed by Supervisor David Levinson of Royal Oak.

At first glance it would appear that the negotiations for the 438-acre facility, located in Waterford Township, would be simple — the city wants to sell, the county wants to buy.

THE PRICE

The area of disagreement centers around the price. The county has offered $1 — the city wants an exchange of properties amounting to several hundred thousand dollars.

Both sides agree that the facility must be expanded if it is to continue to meet the growing demands of aviation.

County officials apparently feel they are better able to make the needed improvements. The financial difficulties surrounding the airport are a bit more obvious this year.

AID CUT OFF

Federal aid, for example, has been cut off. This resulted from the city's failure to keep a 1962 promise to acquire land to expand the airfield.

The added land is needed for an instrument landing system — considered the key to any real growth for the former cow pasture.

The negotiators realize that the City of Pontiac does not have any funds to attempt to acquire the additional land, which is fast being developed, located east of Airport Road.

It also appears obvious that if the land is ever to be acquired it must happen before there is complete development of the area.

COUNTY SERVICE

Meantime, both city and county officials indicate that operation of an airport for area residents is logically a county service.

Likewise, the need for expanded air service is conceded. The demand is expected to increase with the county's growth.

Optimism is reflected in conversation of members of the county's special committee.

While disagreement on the price tag continues, county representatives talk of the cost of future airport expansion and the cost of operating the facility.

TALK OF NEEDS

They talk of the need for a new north-south runway, an instrument landing system and more T-hangers.

This is talk of a future owner.

In the past, discussion has largely centered on what the city had invested in the field, present income and liabilities.

If and when the negotiators agree on a price, further approvals are necessary.

THREE COMMUNITIES

At the county level, three other communities would be involved before the recommendation went to the full County Board of Supervisors for final approval.

These groups would include the aviation committee, buildings and grounds, and the ways and means committee.

The chairman of these committees are also on the special county study committee.

Pierre Says Bobby on Way to Presidency

NEW YORK (AP) — Pierre Salinger says Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., "is on the way to the presidency" in 1972. But Salinger, who served Presidents Kennedy and Johnson as press secretary before a brief term as U.S. senator from California, through a special governor's appointment, said Wednesday night that he is confident Johnson will seek reelection in 1968.

Salinger also stated on the preaped "Ladies of the Press" program on WOR-TV that actor Ronald Reagan, now the Republican nominee for governor of California, has a good chance of getting the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

NIXON 'LEADS'
He added, however, that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "is today the leading (GOP) candidate for the Presidency."

He had this to say of the future of New York's junior senator: "Kennedy is one of the few potential presidential candidates now on the horizon for the 1972 elections. So I would say in that category, you would have to say he is on the way to the presidency."

Salinger brushed aside comments that Kennedy might be aiming for the presidency in 1968. Asked if he considers Kennedy

State Will Study School Financing

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education took the first step Wednesday toward a $200,000 study of the financing of elementary and secondary education in Michigan.

The board authorized School Superintendent Ira Palley to start lining up a director and staff for the study, authorized by the Legislature this year to end the state's "piecemeal" approach to school financing.

Junior Editors Quiz on CANARIES

QUESTION: Are wild and tame canaries the same?

ANSWER: The jolly little tame canary, one of the best loved pets, is a member of the large bird family of finches. His scientific name is "Serinus canarius." He is called a canary because his ancestors once flew wild in the Canary Islands.

Canaries have been bred in many countries. They have become more yellow and sing much more beautifully than the wild ones which still exist in the old world.

When we speak of "wild canary" in America, we generally mean another bird, the goldfinch, which, with his black wings and cap, is different in appearance, and has a different scientific name, "Spinus tristis."

In spite of this, the goldfinch (lower picture) is a distant relative of the canary, as both belong to the finch family.

Besides the bright yellow of their bodies, these two kinds of birds resemble each other in their temperaments—cheerful and bubbling in both cases.

The flight of the goldfinch is a distinctive series of undulations, with the bird whistling per-chick-o-ree at each crest.

With his smart black and yellow colors, the goldfinch's appearance rivals the brilliant singing of his cousin, the little Caruso inside the cage.

FOR YOU TO DO: Now that you know how to identify a goldfinch, keep your eyes open for one.

dy qualified at this time for the presidency, Salinger said: "I definitely feel he's qualified. I think that he's equipped in every way to be president."

"But I think that he himself has not crossed the line to make the decision whether he will seek the presidency," Salinger continued. "And I think that that will be a matter of time before he makes that decision."

Hoover Reports on U.S. Crime Rise

There is somber news for Americans in the annual report of the FBI just released by Director J. Edgar Hoover.

It shows that more than 2.75 million serious crimes were committed in the U.S. in 1965, an increase of 6 per cent over the previous year. Since 1960, the total percentage of increase has been 46 per cent.

The statistics run counter to general beliefs. In urban areas, cities of 250,000 inhabitants or more showed the lowest rate of crime increase, 4 per cent, while suburban communities jumped to 8 per cent.

Documenting the alarming increase in juvenile crime, the survey shows that while arrests for serious crimes as a whole rose 33 per cent during 1960-65, arrests for those under 18 years were up 47 per cent — twice the percentage increase in the young-age population.

Posing a formidable problem for law enforcement agencies in the detection and apprehension of criminals is their increasing ease of mobility. This is borne out by a study covering records of 135,000 offenders indicating that 48 per cent had been arrested in two or more states during criminal careers spanning 10 years.

The challenge is being met, however, by advances in communications methods, notably in the area of data processing, that facilitates quick and effective exchange of interstate police information.

Criminal repeaters likewise are a thorn in the side of police forces and raise the question of how wisely judicial and parole leniency is being administered. In a follow-up of 6,900 charged offenders who were released to society between January and June of 1963, 48 per cent were arrested for new crimes within two years.

Though the Hoover report presents an alarming criminal trend in America, underlying it is the inescapable conclusion that were it not for the dedicated crime-busting of the boss of the FBI, the national picture of criminality would be appreciably darker.

Geminis Provide 'Groundwork' for Moon Visit

As the relatively limited space objectives of the Gemini flights progress to almost routine performance, many may forget that they are but a prelude to the main event — a manned landing on the moon.

That momentous event, originally seen as a reality by 1970, is running well ahead of time.

Some of the more enthusiastic space planners even see an American on the moon by the end of next year. But that presupposes a long-shot combination of flawless technological progress and old-fashioned good luck.

However, if we do manage to accomplish the feat, we might find the moon a bit crowded, unless we land before early November.

For the Russians are straining every resource to put a Red cosmonaut on the moon by Nov. 7, 1967—the 50th anniversary of the Communist takeover in Russia.

Regardless of which country first treads the moon, sanity is on the side of continuing space exploration as a joint project — such as the several years' collaboration between Russia and the United States on scientific studies in Antarctica.

Our own round-trip fare to the moon was pegged at $20 billion, but you can be sure it will have been upped repeatedly before a U.S. spacecraft zeroes in on our space neighbor.

It used to be said "the sky is the limit" when a particularly wild objective was being blueprinted. We'd like to think that the moon is the limit of our unilateral space plans.

'Agriculture' Workers Grow for Fewer Farmers

Since ORVILLE FREEMAN took over as Secretary of Agriculture, reports Rep. HOWARD COLLIER, R-III., the Department of Agriculture's personnel has increased 20 per cent—from 98,694 to 117,481.

During the same period, the Nation's farm population has decreased the same percentage — from 15.6 million to 12.3 million.

You see here in its purest form the application of the self-named PARKINSON LAW that sardonically equates the number of government workers inversely with the amount of work to be done.

Federal, Civilian Pay Compared

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP)—It was with evident concern that President Johnson signed the new federal pay raise bill last week, the fifth pay hike voted federal workers by Congress within four years.

For the most part, the $540 million annual pay increase, a 2.9 per cent boost, fell within the White House's suggested wage-price guidelines. But by beginning the pay boosts July 1, six months earlier than he had recommended, Johnson said Congress had added $500 million to his 1967 budget.

"These outlays begin at once, and they begin at a most critical time when we are striving to restrain inflationary pressures," the President said.

But more to the point, he signed the bill into law, said it would help "attract and retain the talent and excellence needed to conduct the complex affairs of government," and continued the steady upward spiral of government pay.

Johnson is firmly committed to the principle laid down by Congress in the federal salary reform law of 1962—that, as he said in his federal pay message to Congress last March, "government workers are entitled to a pay scale which compares favorably with pay in private industry."

PAY CLIMBS HIGH

Since 1961 federal pay has increased by about 19 per cent, about 15 per cent of this since Johnson took office. The pay raises of October 1962, January 1964, July 1964, October 1965 and the latest one boosted government pay by almost $2.8 billion annually.

The emphasis has been on the lower brackets, the clerical and administrative help who make up the bulk of the 1.8 million covered federal workers, with the result that the pay in these brackets is now generally comparable to industry's.

But despite sizable jumps at the higher levels, industry evidently is ahead on the top rungs, by a considerable margin. For example: the average pay at grade 15, the top professional level though there are three super grades above it, is $19,371 while industry pay for comparable jobs, according to government figures, is $22,708.

WHITE COLLAR PAY

The government's efforts to try to keep pace over-all and edge toward comparable pay is illustrated by the average percentage increases the five pay hikes brought the 1.1 million government white collar workers—5.5, 4.1, 4.2, 3.6 and 2.9.

Most recent government figures show, however, that from 1961 through early 1965, accountants in private industry gained a pay increase of 13 per cent, auditors 14.2 per cent, attorneys 16.2, personnel directors 15.6, chemists 15.8, engineers 13.7 and clerical workers 11.2.

Preliminary data for the year through early 1966 indicate an additional over-all boost of close to 3 per cent.

(James H. Hester in N.Y.)

Maybe That'll Hold It!

David Lawrence Says:

Lausche Sees Riot Conspiracy

WASHINGTON—Sen. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, Democrat, is one of the most independent-minded men in the Senate and has the confidence of the people of his state, where he served five terms as governor and previously as mayor of Cleveland.

He has just spoken out about the riot in Cleveland as well as the disturbances in other parts of the country, and his conclusion is that the disorders and the looting are part of a national conspiracy "methodical and manifestly directed by experts."

Lausche yesterday addressed a convention in Chicago of the Independent Grocers' alliance, and he minced no words as he warned the "civil rights" leaders that the street demonstrations are not helping their cause. He said in part:

"The mode of operation, especially in the Cleveland riot, indicated design and organization. The technique adopted clearly showed that there were certain centrally managed tactics keeping the riot in progress while many innocent people became involved in it."

The Ohio senator said that increased denial of law and order is due in large part to those "civil leaders, including clergymen," who publicly argue that "civil disobedience is justifiable if one believes the law to be morally wrong."

There was a time when most of the racial disturbances were in Southern states, and the National Guard in Mississippi, for example, was superseded by federal troops on the theory that a court order was involved and that the guardsmen might not be too enthusiastic about intervening.

Since those days, however, riots have occurred in Rochester, Brooklyn, New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and a dozen other smaller communities in states outside the South.

During the last few days, criticism has been voiced by a few Negro leaders about the phrase "black power" as used by Chairman Adam Clayton Powell of the House Education and Labor Committee.

He denies any intention to stimulate racial feeling, but the net effect of the cries for "black power" has been to stir up animosities between the races and arouse fears that the uneducated and irresponsible elements — both Negro and white — in the big cities will become involved in more and more disorders.

Here in Washington, Congress is well aware that resentment is building up in different parts of the country because of the stimulus given by men in public life to "demonstrations."

Bob Considine Says: GOP Election Outlooks Are Strikingly Different

NEW YORK — Republican party spokesmen entertain some strikingly different outlooks for this fall's elections and the national elections of 1968.

President Johnson's dip in the popularity poll means, for some Republicans, a heady ray of hope that the GOP can actually recapture the White House in '68—Considine a prospect not even the most optimistic could conjure a few months ago.

Other Republicans, with such names as Lucius D. Clay and Ray C. Bliss—respectively chairman of the GOP Finance Committee and national chairman—take a much grimmer view.

"Think seriously about power for a minute... political power," demands a letter sent out from GOP headquarters in Washington and signed by these two stalwarts.

"No American can afford to sit by and watch this year's coming election with detachment, to be unconcerned if one party is able to finally hurdle the last remaining obstacles to full and complete power."

"SERIOUS THREAT" "Never before in our lifetime has the two-party system been so seriously threatened!"

Details of the general alarm are impressive:

"Today, one political party: "Controls the White House and the vast and powerful federal bureaucracy;

"Holds two-thirds majorities in both houses of Congress;

"Has appointed a majority of the Supreme Court;

"Controls more than 60 per cent of the national governments and state legislatures."

Chairman Bliss observes: "The present uphill struggle of the Republican party is not simply a problem for Republicans. It is a problem for all Americans.

FLESH AND BLOOD "The contest in which we are now engaged is the defense of our two-party system—the flesh and blood of our constitutional system. If this system fails, our governmental system fails with it."

It is a thought-provoking plea.

Reds Fail to Eliminate Thinkers

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Red China's Mao Tse-tung has outsmarted himself.

He has filled his schools with so much propaganda, so many agitation campaigns and "voluntary" labor projects and cut study time so sharply that he's not getting the number of experts he needs to make his economy work.

In science, engineering and other fields, he's heavily dependent on men trained abroad.

Yet even Mao's propaganda-saturated high schools and colleges have turned out considerable numbers of students and graduates who think for themselves, privately challenge his decisions and criticize his mistakes.

These disagreements are voiced only in secret or hidden in allegorical writing, to be sure.

But these criticisms are growing in intensity with the regime's economic, political and international bumbles.

The problem of individual

'Let's Make Foreign Aid Election Issue'

Senate opposition to the foreign aid program met with notable success. The two instead of one-year authorization proposal was defeated. The amendment sponsored by Senator Harry F. Byrd denying aid to countries shipping to Hanoi was adopted. Senator Dirksen's amendments to cut $250 million from the development loan authorization and to deny aid to countries which refused to arbitrate U.S. claims were approved; seven amendments to tighten aid loan regulations also passed. Senator Dominick's amendment carried to raise interest rates on foreign aid loans.

Conservatives have a golden opportunity to make their foreign aid views known. By letter, wire or telephone, urge your Senators to stand fast on the amendments above-cited; urge your Representative to support these same amendments.

Let's make foreign aid an election issue.

'An Appalling Apathy Toward Government'

I am appalled at the apathy shown by the people of White Lake Township toward the Supervisor, Edward Cheyz. The evidence was strong enough to call for a grand jury investigation but no one has even asked for his temporary removal from office. He is still drawing his $1,000 monthly salary and is being assisted in the financing of his lawyer's fees by a group of citizens asking for donations.

If we are so busy pursuing our own personal interests that we condone this kind of government at the township level, how can we possibly hope for good government in our County, State or Federal offices?

In Washington:

thinking has become so great and so "dangerous" that Mao's aides have decided to make changes in the school system.

They can't load the schools with much more propaganda. So they've decided to tighten up even more on which young people are to be allowed to go on to high school and college. Entrance examinations of the past — based in part on knowledge of school subjects — are to be eliminated. Red officials say these examinations placed too great an emphasis on individual achievement and encouraged the "bourgeois" idea of "making one's own way and achieving individual fame, wealth and position."

This picking of students according to their knowledge of school work, Mao's men have decided, keeps from high school and college many young men and women who aren't much at studying but who come from the right class and who have high party spirit. The new system aims at restricting higher education to people who do not think as individuals.

By doing more to eliminate the thinkers, Mao hopes his colleges will no longer be centers of secret opposition to his regime.

But he is likely to discover that it is more difficult than he thought to keep young people from thinking.

Attempts to screen out the individuals are not new in Red China. For years, students have had to pass tests both in knowledge of their subjects and in political theory.

Regardless of the excellence of his subject knowledge, a student wasn't likely to go to high school or college if he did poorly in his political examinations or if his political record in daily life was mediocre.

Conversely, if a student was a political cell leader or the son of an official, he followed a relatively easy route to higher schooling.

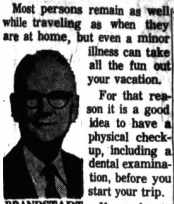

This selection system was quite rigid. But Mao's men now find that it failed in keeping out thinkers.

So they're tightening up the selection system.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Ponder Health in Picking Vacation Site

BRANDSTADT If you plan to leave the country, ask your doctor about the vaccinations you will need.

The United States Public Health Service recommends vaccination against typhoid, tetanus, poliomyelitis and diphtheria for everyone.

This is in addition to a small-pox vaccination which must have been done within three years of your latest return to the United States and validated with the official stamp of your local or state health department.

FACE DETENTION

Failure to comply with this regulation may mean detention for up to 14 days.

If you are returning from a country where cholera, yellow fever, typhus or plague are prevalent, you must also have valid proof of vaccination against these diseases.

When planning your trip it is well to consider the effect on your health of the area you expect to visit.

If you have hay fever you will find a welcome absence of ragweed in Europe, Bermuda and the Virgin Islands.

If you have asthma or other respiratory diseases a warm, stable climate is recommended.

COLD CLIMATE

If you have a gastrointestinal disease or an easily upset digestive tract, your best bet is a cold climate.

If you have a heart disease, high blood pressure or a circulatory disorder, you should avoid high altitudes.

Some thought should also be given to your wardrobe.

In hot humid areas your clothing should be light in weight and color, loose in fit and preferably linen or cotton.

For high altitudes you must be prepared for warm days and cold nights.

For cold countries provide yourself with woolen night wear including a sleeping cap and bed socks.

For any country it is wise to have a raincoat and a jacket or sweater.

Take shoes that are well-broken in. If you wear glasses carry not only an extra pair but also your prescription.

Wherever you go, you must eat. In most countries pasteurized milk is safe but to be on the safe side you should use only bottled milk.

Lucie Johnson is met at the door of the exclusive Washington Club as she arrives for a bridal luncheon in her honor. From the left are her hostesses, Charlotte Sizoo and Kathleen Carter. They will be bridesmaids at Lucie's Aug. 6 wedding.

Women's Wear Daily Hits Back at White House Ban

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women's Wear Daily, which was banned from Lucie Johnson's wedding for publishing an unauthorized description of her bridesmaids' gowns, published a front page sketch Wednesday of "The Dress."

Susan Rogers, the newspaper's Boston correspondent, reported she came across Miss Johnson's bridal gown "in an old Boston cupboard," apparently a reference to Priscilla of Boston, the fashion firm reported to have designed the bridal and bridesmaid gowns for the Aug. 6 wedding.

TONGUE IN CHEEK

Noting that the White House hasn't yet provided the press with an official sketch of Miss Johnson's gown, Miss Rogers wrote that it is "in keeping with Lucie Baines Johnson's idea of a dress to hand down to her grandchildren... a traditional white lace with long sleeves, a high neckline, a little bow to mark the natural waistline, and a face-framing mantilla ending in a sweeping train."

"No great fashion significance — just a simple dress for a simple wedding" for a bride

How Do You Rate on This Picnic Test?

By ELIZABETH L. POST

We're coming to the height of the picnic season and I have used the subjects of some of the questions I've received to make up a quiz.

Take a moment to check your picnic manners.

● When planning a picnic or barbecue, you must include your guests' children. True — False

● You must have at least one hot dish at a picnic for adults. True — False

● When organizing a beach party, it is permissible to ask each couple to contribute one dish. True — False

● It is safe to assume that every one loves a picnic. True — False. Don't peek. Here are the answers:

● False. If you happen to have children the same age as those of your guests, you may wish to make it a family affair, but you certainly need not ask the youngsters if you want to have an adult party.

● False. On hot nights a picnic of assorted cold cuts, salads, sandwiches, or many other cold dishes are much preferred to a hot meal.

● True. But make it clear which dish each member of the group is bringing or you'll have four salads and no bread!

● False. I personally know at least three people who hate picnics.

WOMEN'S SECTION

Young Homemakers

They Share Similar Lives

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles on today's young homemakers — girls under 25 who have been married five years or less.)

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Women's Editor

The Simmons girls are a pair of young homemakers who should be written about in one story because they are so closely related — in action as well as in family.

Twenty-one-year-old Janice Mitchell Simmons has lived in Pontiac all her life. A graduate of Pontiac Central High School and the Ann Arbor School of Practical Nursing, she has been married nearly 18 months.

Her husband, Paul, is employed at Pontiac Motor Division.

Janice has just returned to her job at Pontiac General Hospital after a maternity leave. Paul Anthony is two and a half months old.

Sandra (that's short for Cassandra) is 20 and Janice's sister-in-law. Her husband, David, is a supervisor at the Office of Economic Opportunity. Sandra is a service representative at Michigan Bell Telephone Company in Southfield.

Sandra and David met in France while he was in the Army and she was attending high school. Her father worked for the US government in Europe and Sandra graduated from high school there. They have been married 15 months.

The two couples live across the street from one another on Filview Street.

CONSTANT COMPANIONS

The girls are in and out of each other's homes all the time. They help each other with common household problems. They shop together. Sandra babysits with Paul occasionally.

Janice has an advantage over

Sandra; she did a lot of cooking while she was going to high school. Her mother worked and there were five other children.

"I used to be angry about having to cook, but it really helped," Janice says now.

Sandra is feeling her way in the kitchen. She likes to cook when she has plenty of time, but she hates to come home late and "start from scratch."

Janice who has a big freezer, cooks and freezes on her day off.

ORGANIZING CLUB

Because they feel the need of companionship with other girls, the two are organizing a club for young married women.

They do not have much in common with older homemakers although they are quick to say that their neighbors have been helpful.

And like our first young homemaker, Patricia Loviska, they commented that they and their single friends have little in common.

Although Janice had only one year beyond high school, she is convinced of the necessity for more education. She had the grades to go to college for an RN degree, but was too anxious to get married, she says.

She is encouraging her sisters and brothers to get their education first. She might get that RN title someday.

Both Sandra and her husband intend to go back to school; he will work on his master's degree and she wants a teaching certificate.

Meadow Brook Music Festival Thursday 8:30 p.m. Detroit Symphony Orchestra with pianist Eugene Istomin. Admission charge.

"What would you say to a girl of 13 who wants to quit school and get married?" we asked.

"Forget it," they both chorused.

MARRIAGE IS MORE

"When you're that age, says Sandra, "you think that all there is to marriage is sitting around, kissing or eating. But it's more than that. It's cooking, cleaning, working and understanding each other. You can't walk out."

Janice is delighted with her small son, thinks that by having your children young, you can enjoy life more.

"You have to keep up with the kids and have to stay young."

Both couples have learned something about managing money.

Janice said she used to splurge on clothes; then she had to stop work because of her pregnancy. But the bills still had to be paid.

Now she's willing to slow down and take time to get the things she and her husband want.

"You learn!"

Sandra says they went head over heels in debt because she thought she had to have everything right away. She and David didn't have a big wedding like Janice and Paul and didn't get as many household items for wedding presents.

SAVING MONEY

But they're on an even keel now and saving too. Both couples would like to build a house someday.

Meanwhile in their small, but immaculate homes, both of the girls are doing a capable job. Their mothers can be proud of them. Their husbands certainly are.

Symphony to Profit From October Gala

Dancing to and for music will be the fashionable thing to do on the evening of Oct. 1.

The first dinner dance to benefit the Pontiac Symphony Orchestra will be held at Bay Pointe Country Club on Middle Straits Lake.

"Symphony Hi-Note" was the name agreed upon by the committee of dedicated women who met Wednesday at the West Iroquois Road home of Mrs. B. B. Roush. Mrs. Roush and Mrs. Joseph Walker are cochairmen of the event.

Bay Pointe is a new club. The symphony benefit will probably be its first big party. Completion of the clubhouse is scheduled for August or September. The orchestra for the 7:30 p.m. affair has not yet been named. It will be a semi-formal occasion.

CHAIRMEN

A few committee heads were named at the first meeting. Mrs. Walker has charge of tickets. Mrs. Edmund Windeler and Mrs. Meyer Simon will oversee the mailing of invitations.

Working with the decorations committee will be Mrs. James McCoy.

Others present at the informal coffee hour Wednesday were Mesdames: Robert B. Oliver II, Collis Scott, Ferdinand Gaensbauer, Fred Fuller, Glenn Griffin, and William Daines.

Mrs. Richard Poole and Mrs. Donald Dawson who are ticket chairmen for the Pontiac Symphony were also present, but are not working members of the dance committee.

Not present, but appointed to serve, were Mesdames: Arnold Brown, W. S. Furlong, Harold S. Goldberg, George Harkless, James Hewlett, R. C. Irwin, John A. Riley, James Rosenthal, and Edward Dalton.

Try 'Bubble Bath'

A "bubble bath" can add many days to the life of your hydrangea, according to the Society of American Florists. When the soil is the least bit dry, submerge the whole pot in warm water so that the soil is completely covered. When bubbles no longer appear on the surface, remove the pot and let the water drain from the bottom.

Mrs. B. B. Roush is chairman of the dinner dance scheduled for Oct. 1 at Bay Pointe Country Club on Middle Straits Lake. Mrs. Joseph Walker is cochairman.

Group Gathers for a Luncheon

Members of the Country-side Improvement Association gathered Wednesday for a luncheon in the Green Lake home of Mrs. Harley Melzian.

Co-hostesses for the noon event were Mrs. J. P. Charles, Mrs. Neree Alix, Mrs. Gene P. Stanley, and Mrs. Robert J. O'Neill.

Mrs. Russel Foukes presented a talk on "Creative Art of Decoupage."

Dead TV Set Is Lively

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The 12-year-old television set of Mr. and Mrs. James Botz wasn't even turned on, but nevertheless it put on a "live" show which lasted more than 15 minutes.

Mrs. Botz heard a "sort of a loud pop," and found pieces of the set's glass protective shield all over the room. The TV continued for a quarter of an hour to crackle and send out glass slivers.

Localities Help Plan Fall Show

Four members of Lorraine Manor branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, are among committee members for the Fall Flower Show at The Pontiac Mall.

Mrs. Glenn Hickson and Mrs. Robert Smith are chairman and cochairman, respectively, of Judges and clerks. Mrs. Ray Allen and Mrs. E. C. Carlson are handling publicity.

Six other area branches are participating in the event set for Sept. 26-Oct. 1.

For the second year, Lorraine branch has given a scholarship to Nancy Mills of Holly, homemaker student at Michigan State University.

Plans for the Christmas bazaar were also discussed, Tuesday, in the home of Mrs. Joseph Carpenter on Fernbury Drive.

August Bride Is Honored

Bride elect, Barbara Jean Allen was feted at a noon luncheon and shower Tuesday in Rotunda Inn. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Hugh Grove and Mrs. John Patterson.

Gifts in shades of blue and purple for bedroom and bath were opened by the honoree in Rotunda Inn. Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Hugh Grove and Mrs. John Patterson.

Parents of the engaged couple are the Robert J. Alton of West Froidous Road and the William Days of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Tips on Whitening Soiled Synthetics

Maybe you've had this happen to your pretty white nylon slips and underthings. White nylon and other white synthetics look fine when they go in the wash, yet come out looking yellow and gray. Discouraging to say the least.

The problem could be that synthetics tend to pick up soil from the wash water and you've been laundering them with heavily soiled fabrics. To restore, wash lightly soiled polyesters or blends with other lightly soiled fabrics. Regular use of liquid chlorine bleach is also effective in whitening discolored nylons.

For Mothproofing

Absolute cleanliness is fundamental to moth-proofing wools. Whether the moth-repellent finish is added to the rinse water after laundering tubable wools — such as blankets, sweaters, and skirts — or is sprayed on carpets and heavy overcoats, its effectiveness depends in great measure on having the fabric thoroughly clean.

'Rather Switch Than Fight' Is Fate of Furniture Movers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After eight years of marriage I am ready to leave my husband. Saturday morning while he was sleeping, I rearranged the furniture in my front room.

When I went out in the afternoon, he moved everything back again my way.

ABBY: This was no small job, as I have a grand piano, an overstuffed sofa with two matching chairs and several tables and lamps in that room.

Well, at 2 o'clock in the morning my husband was moving the furniture around again. I figure that the office is HIS, and the house is MINE. And I don't tell him how to arrange the office furniture and he shouldn't tell me how to arrange the house furniture. I'd like your opinion.

ANGRY: DEAR ANGRY: You don't have to share your husband's office, but he has to live in the house. If he is dissatisfied with the furniture arrangement at home, let him say so and perhaps you can effect a compromise.

In a marriage, there is no HIS and HERS. And if you two don't quit shoving that grand piano around, there will be a HIS and HERS HERINA.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow. 45. I work and live in a small town where every move I make is seen. I have lived in the same house for 20 years and naturally my friends and neighbors are interested in what I do and with whom I come and go.

I date occasionally and have resorted to meeting my gentle friends in nearby towns rather than answer questions such as "Who was he," and, "Is it serious?" I have nothing to hide, I just like privacy. Am I wrong?

WANT'S PRIVACY: DEAR WANTS: If you have nothing to hide, don't go ducking behind potted palms in near-

Second Debut for Mother

Now Mother can smooth out her facial lines right at home—thanks to a new non-surgical face-lift discovery called 2ND DEBUT. It contains skin-smoothing CEF-500 (CEF-1200 for the face over 40). 2nd Debut is a moisturizing skin lotion that smooths out facial lines... helps return eyes, mouth, chin and neck to firm, more youthful tone and softness. The process is simple: it's based upon resuppling the skin with the natural ingredient through which the inner cells obtain and retain much-needed water moisture. This ingredient is called CEF... Cellular Expansion Factor. 2nd Debut is a non-surgical face lift that gives Mother a more youthful look fast. Get it at your drug or department store today.

by towns, lest you give the appearance of guilt. ("The wicked flee when no man pursueth.")

DEAR ABBY: Why don't people who are too old to live alone put themselves in a rest home instead of waiting until their children are ready for a mental institution trying to care for them along with their own family?

I work in a rest home and I wouldn't mind living here. Elderly people need more heat than younger people. They have special diets, can't stand too much noise and many of them need some kind of medical care. They go to sleep early and get up early. Their whole routine is different.

Trying to fit them into a home with teen-agers is unfair to them and the young people, too. Why do so many older people who can well afford it, fight against going to a rest home? Once they get here they are sorry they didn't come sooner.

WORKS IN ONE: DEAR WORKS: Many elderly people "fight" going to a rest home because they think it's an institution for unwanted, homeless old folks who have nowhere else to go. And in some cases, their children are to blame. THEY are afraid their friends will think they PUT their parents in a rest home because they didn't want to bother caring for them at home.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine asked me which doctor my daughter had to help her lose 33 pounds in three months. I asked this neighbor how come she knew about my daughter's weight loss, and she told me she had LISTENED IN ON MY TELEPHONE CONVERSATION! (I have a party line.)

Then she asked me if my sister-in-law and her husband were back together yet because she heard me telling my mother-in-law on the phone that I thought the separation was temporary so she shouldn't worry. She even asked me who IZZY was? (He's my butcher, but it's none of her business.)

How can I tell this snoop to stay off my line without being rude?

MAD: DEAR MAD: Don't pussyfoot with a cat. Just tell her to stay off your line or you'll report her to the telephone company. If I were you, I'd find another party for my party line. You could hardly do worse.

Luncheon Fetes
Miss Freeman

Mrs. H. S. Freeman Sr. of Watkins Lake entertained recently at a luncheon in the Detroit Golf Club for her granddaughter, Sandra Lee Freeman.

The event was in anticipation of the August wedding being planned by Miss Freeman and Joseph Allen Ayrault.

The bride-elect is the daughter of the Harry S. Freemans of East Gunn Road, Oakland Township. Her fiancé's parents are the Robert A. Ayraults of Grosse Pointe.

Both Sides

Gay, decorative window treatments, such as unusual shades, curtains or drapes, can certainly do a lot for a room. But before you choose, give a thought to how the window will look from the outside. That, after all, is everyone's first impression of the window.

January photos are planned by Arlene Kay Mannings, Western Michigan University senior, daughter of the Glenn Mannings of Caledonia, and Phillip Robert Rabaja, son of the Felipe B. Rabajas of Victory Drive. He is an alumnus of Hillsdale College.

Adoption Laws Are Cruel, Complacent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

I have a friend who works as a nurse's aide in a metropolitan hospital's psychiatric ward for disturbed adolescents.

She lives with her 50-year-old mother in a home that is warm, colorful and lovingly organized. She lives with her mother because her marriage was unsuccessful.

I know her well, and were someone to ask me "What woman of your acquaintance seems to you best endowed with the essential maternal qualities of tenderness and intelligence?" I should have to answer with her name.

But she can't adopt a baby. The law won't allow her to adopt one because there's no name — no Father Figure — in her home.

As a matter of fact, foster motherhood, like adoptive motherhood, is also denied to her because of the absence of that Father Figure. I tried hard to help her get a baby.

I pleaded with all kinds of people in the adoption and welfare services, not just for her but for the right of some unwanted baby who could bud and blossom under the love of a woman created to mother children.

And there are thousands and thousands of what the Welfare Machine calls "dependent and neglected" children who overcrowd our child-caring institutions. Nothing doing.

The law which forbids that baby to thrive and grow as the adopted child of my friend is a crazy law. It is the expression of that hideous perfectionism in social welfare which says, "We must have everything EXACTLY RIGHT — or we can't have it at all."

For while a Father Figure is surely a most desirable presence in the home of a child, a home with a Mother Figure like my friend in it is more desirable than one in which no Parent Figure of any kind exists — the bleak, the deadly child-caring institution.

I would like to take the pompousities who have made such a law through one of my city's distributing points of unwanted children.

Past the cheek-by-jowl cribs in which the unwanted babies lie, sometimes wailing feebly, mostly silent; into the nurseries where toddlers move aimlessly from one overworked toy to another, their faces a blank of featureless faces as barren of human warmth as will be their futures.

You see, my friend works with their barren futures. They bring her scarred arms riddled with holes made by needles conveying drugs that quiet the intolerable loneliness. They bring her 12-year-old pregnancies, screams, hysteria — a lowering hate and fear of the world that denied them a Mother Figure because it couldn't also provide that Father Figure. What a proudly complacent law! What a cruel law!

Couple to Honeymoon Five Weeks Abroad

Off on a five-week European honeymoon are Nicholas Jon Ilinsky of Marquette and his bride, the former Barbara Jeanne Mapley, who were wed recently in the Oxford Methodist Church.

Reception in the church Educational Building followed the evening ceremony.

The newlyweds' parents are Mrs. Russell W. Lenger of Minnetonka Drive, Oxford Township, the late Charles H. Mapley; John V. Ilinsky, Irons, Pa. and the late Mrs. Mary Lucas Ilinsky.

FLORAL MOTIF

An embroidered floral motif adorned the bride's gown and train of white chiffon over taffeta and a Dior bow held her elbow-length illusion veil.

A white orchid and Stephanotis rested on her white Bible.

With honor matron, Mrs. Robert Bloeker, were Mrs. Richard Francis and Mrs. Wayne Spalding as bridesmaids.

Earl Garberson was best man. Kenneth Mapley and Roy Nason seated the guests. The bride was graduated from Oakland University and her husband holds a master's degree from Northern Michigan University.

Beach Towel Won't Be Blown

Create a beach towel that can't be blown away by sea breezes.

Here's how: cut and stitch a buttonhole in each corner of a large, gaily printed terrycloth towel. Then collect four long lollipop sticks which can be inserted through the buttonholes to anchor the towel in the sand.

After a day in the sun, just remove the "pegs" and machine-laund the towel in hot suds as usual.

Soda Solutions for Spots, Odors

When visiting or traveling with baby, carry a bottle filled with a baking soda solution along with a sponge in the diaper bag.

Should accidental spit-ups occur, a quick sponging with the soda solution removes both the spot and odor from clothes, rug or furniture.

When Should You Request Doctor's Aid

Chicago, Ill. — Most of us are faced with the vexing problem, from time to time, of whether to call a doctor. The American Medical Association (AMA) offers some clues that may be of help in deciding:

- If the sick person is suffering acute, persistent pain the doctor should be called at once.
- When a minor symptom persists for more than a few days, and does not seem to be due to some readily identifiable cause, a call to the doctor is in order. The AMA notes, "A nose bleed from a sharp blow is one thing; a nose that bleeds constantly or frequently for no apparent reason is quite a different matter."

You Can Be Popular Too

By Dr. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Z-415: Norma L., aged 17, is the unhappy coed who was a one-date flop.

But she soon learned how to captivate boys by use of the "Compliment Club" strategy.

It involves tooting the other fellow's horn. Instead of your own.

"But, Dr. Crane," she reported later, "I believed that human beings like to boast about knowing important people."

"So I thought if I showed off my daddy's importance and the fact I had traveled to Europe, then my escort would have a greater desire to keep on dating me."

"Why didn't it work out that way?"

"Or don't we like to have important friends? I'm all confused!"

POPULARITY STRATEGY

Yes, it is an axiom of psychology that we like to number important people among our acquaintances.

That's even one of the underlying reasons why teenagers collect autographs.

But beware!

We don't want our companions to leave us figuratively tied to the post while they go in for prestige.

But if they will meanwhile tow us along with them, then we don't mind how high they go in the eyes of the public.

Remember Christ's comment about the disgruntled villagers with whom he had grown up?

"A prophet," Jesus said, "is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house."

His fellow townsmen thus resented Christ's publicity.

But it is possible to toot your own horn and at the same time avoid alienating your escort or companions.

To do so, use the magician's strategy and deftly slip in your bit of self-advertising.

... Margaret Merrill

while you have your companion focusing on something else.

Consult Chapter VI in my college textbook, "Psychology Applied" at your public library for additional examples, but here are a few drawn from Pages 209-214 therein:

• "Wasn't it sweet of Janet to give me this hand-painted recipe box for my birthday?"

Norma asks Bill, her boy friend.

He nods assent.

• "One of my pet hobbies is getting down on the floor to play with my young nieces and nephews."

While diverting his attention thus, Norma is slipping across this idea:

"I love children so I'd make a good mother!"

• "If it is true that the good die young, then my family must be full of black sheep!"

What Norma planted in Bill's subconscious mind was this thought:

"I come from healthy, long lived stock so should make a good wife and have healthy children."

• "Homecoming games always have a rejuvenating effect on me."

Which is usually a coed's device for implanting this sales point:

"I'm a college woman!"

Polly's Pointers

Use Plastic Curtain

DEAR POLLY — When my plastic shower curtains become too unsightly for further use I no longer discard them. I use them for making laundry bags which prove to be invaluable for separating white and colored things to take to the washing machine.

They are equally good for storing damp things waiting to be ironed. — HELEN

DEAR POLLY — I clean the tracks of my sliding glass shower door by bending to a right angle bristles of a percolator brush. This makes an excellent tool. Anyone having the unhappy combination of hard water and an older bath-tub that has lost its original glossy china-like finish will find that a stiff nylon brush (the nail cleaning type) is much more efficient than a cloth for removing a stubborn bathtub ring.

I now find that particularly unpleasant job quicker, it requires less hand rubbing and is not dreaded nearly so much. — M. D. B.

DEAR POLLY — My son developed squeaky shoes too while he was ushering at a wedding. Someone came up with the idea of sprinkling talcum powder in his shoes but there was none available. One of the attendants had loose face powder which he used and it worked. Therefore he was able to escort the groom's mother down the aisle without the embarrassment of squeaky shoes. — FRAN

DEAR POLLY — Our two children take music lessons but practice was always a problem. Most young children are early risers so we now have a schedule which works well for us.

While one child practices the other one dresses, eats, brushes her teeth, makes her bed and tidies her room. When the first child has finished practicing the other one is ready to start and they switch tasks so that both are ready for school at the same time.

If I win a Polly Dollar it will go to my daughters for their cooperation. — SHIRLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Osworth, former Pontiac residents, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house party in their Roscommon home Sunday, Wed Aug. 2, 1916 in Detroit, the couple has two sons, Gerald of New Holstein, Wis., and Alab of South Shore Drive. There are three grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Horns Are Too Hard to Play

CHICAGO (UPI) — The trouble with trombones, Mark R. McDunn believes, is they're difficult to play.

"We do not know if the trombone is the most difficult instrument," McDunn said, "but we are certain the trombone doesn't have to be as difficult to master as some people think."

McDunn, an instructor at De Paul University, said he has worked out a system that permits trombone proficiency with less trouble than heretofore.

His system involves exact measurement of 31 positions on the trombone and their corresponding musical notes.

But, equally important, McDunn said, is training. This means knowing when to quit.

LIP DAMAGE
"A student working his lip muscles beyond their capacity until they reach total fatigue is doing untold damage to his career," McDunn said.

The trick: "Relax before you feel fatigue," he said. This should turn random honkings into melodious melodies.

Clean U.S. Pretty Gals Bring Grin

When two "first ladies" get together, there's bound to be talk about getting things done — and prettier!

That's precisely what happened recently when a Lady Bird Johnson played hostess to a group serving on the Status for Women program.

Mrs. Min Matheson, who is director of the Union Label Division of the ILGWU, was one of the representatives, and managed to hold the White House Lady's attention with great intensity by her greeting.

"You know we are helping you with your 'Make America Beautiful' program," Mrs. Johnson said. Matheson as she was presented.

Mentioning the First Lady's pet project brought immediate response as Mrs. Johnson queried as to how and how much.

"We union people are helping to keep America beautiful by turning out beautiful women" was Mrs. Matheson's reply — and Lady Bird Johnson nodded that this was, indeed, a substantial contribution to her program.

BEST DRESSED
Mrs. Matheson isn't kidding. The New York fashion market is responsible for turning out the best dressed women in the world, and Mrs. Matheson sees that a union label goes into every garment "to make sure it is well made and beautiful."

"Min" is a whirlwind, appearing on radio, TV, greeting the press and generally acting as a good public relations person for the union. She's lately been keen on presenting the story of "Only in America" — underscoring that this is the only country in the world where you can decide on Friday to take a vacation and by Saturday be on your way with a suitcase full of brand-new, well-fitting clothes.

"We're the only country in the world where this can happen" she keeps saying, "and that's not only a big boost to Mrs. Johnson's 'keep beautiful' program — it's a big help in her husband's war against poverty."

"Besides," she adds with twinkling enthusiasm, "it's fun!"

Why Grow Old ?

By JESPERINE LOWMAN

Some weeks ago I wrote a column quoting a reader who is disgusted because everyone thinks she is so much younger than she is. Actually she is married and has children. This situation annoys both her and her husband. As a result I have received many letters from others with this same problem.

There are many different viewpoints. I thought you would be interested in reading some quotations from a few. Here they are.

HER FATHER
"I seldom answer letters in columns or comment on them but your recent one from 'Lolita' stimulated this one. You see, I am a 42-year-old Lolita, but I've learned to enjoy it. My only problem is dating. I'm divorced, after 20 years of misery. Most of the men my age look old enough to be my father. In fact every-one thought one man I dated WAS my father.

"My daughter has presented me with two lovely grandchildren. When my daughter tells them to 'Go to Grandma' in a store people gasp in astonishment. This is no exaggeration! People think my daughter and I are sisters.

In school the other day the attendance officer thought I was one of the students. But looking young is God's blessing. Also, it's a good feeling when a teen-ager whistles at Grandma."

Another: "As for Dad, or the husband of the woman you quoted who looked too young, I think there is a little jealousy there. Deep down he is proud of her. It sounds like the young lady is really annoyed. She COULD upswEEP her hair and wear high heels, and if that doesn't work, take an eyebrow pencil or some shadow and put bags under her eyes. Then what would Dad's reply be? She will most likely sit at home while Dad goes out with a blonde."

Another: "The letter you printed today was especially interesting to me because I am 43 years old, 5 feet 3, and weigh 118 pounds. I have five sons ranging from 19 to 27 years old, and weighing from 185 to 220 pounds each.

When I am with them I look like a midget and no one will believe I am their mother, much less that I am a grandmother. The boys often say they wish I would get some gray hair.

HAPPY GROUP
"I live for my husband and sons. They help me in the house when I need it and I help them with the car when they need it. I fish and hunt with them. My neighbors often tell me that I should act my age, but what is wrong so long as everyone is happy and having a fine time?"

Room-Darkeners Insure Privacy

Here's a way to add a brilliant new decorative flavor—as well as height and width—to the window wall of a smallish room. The casual elegance of Carousel Stripe window shades is just your ticket.

In crisply contrasting vertical lines of red, pink, blue or black on white—brown or orange on natural—these attractive room-darkeners insure privacy and, because of their up-and-down design, can even make a low ceiling seem higher.

Mrs. Irene Warden of Motorway Drive and Jasper Warden of Pontiac announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Ann, to Pvt. Charles James Deering, son of the Clifford Deerings of Boston Street. She is enrolled as a freshman at Central Michigan University. Her fiancé is stationed at Fort Rucker, Ala., with the U.S. Army.

WTHS Class Sets Reunion

Plans are being made for a 10-year reunion for members of the 1956 graduating class of Waterford Township High School.

The event is scheduled to take place at 8 p.m., Aug. 29 in the Coral Reef Room of Airway Lanes.

Dancing will follow the buffet dinner at 9 p.m. and continue until 1 a.m.

Cochairmen of the reunion are Robert Mawhinney Jr. of Southward Street and Tom Sweetman of Loch Leven Drive.

Romance Has 'Fluttered' Through the Centuries

WASHINGTON — Air conditioners are all right for cooling people, but they're worthless in romance.

The hand fan always had drawbacks as a cooling device, yet with a few artful flutters a coquette could initiate, formalize, and terminate a love affair.

The language of fans was expressive. In drawing a fan across her cheek, a girl told an admirer that she loved him. If, however, she twirled her fan in her right hand, it meant that she loved another.

Fan flirtation reached a peak in the 18th century. A French baroness wrote that the fan "cannot be too much exalted; we see it straying over cheeks, bosoms, hands, with an elegance which everywhere provokes admiration." An English wit of the period was less impressed. "Women are armed with fans as men with swords," he wrote, "and sometimes do more execution with them."

EARLY MAN FANNED

It took a few thousand years for fans to reach this degree of sophisticated use, the National Geographic Society says. The very first fan probably was a leafy branch waved by some prehistoric man to fan his fire or, by the more fastidious, to whisk flies from food.

Egyptian pharaohs were cooled by long-handled semi-circular fans; in India the punkah, a large overhead fan, also cooled rooms; and the Assyrians built huge ceiling fans which they claimed could develop "enough wind to wreck a ship."

The Chinese usually are credited with inventing the hand fan, possibly as early as 3000 B.C. The first models were peacock or pheasant feathers mounted on a handle.

A Japanese fan maker invented the folding fan in A.D. 670. Tradition says he was inspired by the breezes from a fluttering bat's wing.

LANGUAGE OF FANS

Portuguese traders brought the folding fan from the Far East to Europe in the 16th century. Fans became a vogue in Spain and Italy, also spreading to France. Within a century, Paris became the fan-making center of Europe, and the coy language of fans swept European social circles.

By the 18th century, fans were extravagantly and luxuriously ornamented with mother-of-pearl, ivory, gold, silver, jewels, and enamel. In England, fans were embellished with idyllic scenes of true love to commemorate important weddings. Souvenir copies were given to maids of honor and women guests. In some cases, fans served as wedding announcements.

Jacques Heim and his designer Jean Pomerade have revived the female look in the fall-winter collection shown in Paris. Here is a sketch of a suit in the collection showing the revival of peplums and belts. It has a longer wrist-length jacket; a wide tight belt at normal waistline and a flared skirt.

Metal, Biggest News in Paris Fall Shows

PARIS (UPI) — If there's one sure thing that fashion-conscious females will be wearing this fall, it will be shoes and gowns of silver or decorated with silver.

The Christian Dior winter shoe collection looked like the 22nd century with rows of shoes of silver-metal or appearing that way. Some consisted of postage-stamp size pieces of metal hammered together with tiny nails.

A black leather shoe was decorated with a half dozen squares of silver.

Alligator oxfords had been dipped in silver paint. For evening there were shoes made of silver-metal fringes and even silver ankle-high boots. In addition Dior presented silver lame slippers and many models with silver bows and buckles.

The trend for metallics, particularly silver, flickered in the first two days of the winter fashion collections, and style parades exploded in enough silver to dress an army of cosmonettes.

Designer Pierre Balmain released these three tendency sketches in Paris Wednesday for his presentations at the fall and winter fashion show. His hemlines generally are at the kneecaps but for debs and college girls he hiked them up three inches. He introduced the bias line for evening. In Balmain's tailored suit ensembles the general silhouette is cut closer to the figure and the waistline is natural and often belted.

AP Wirephotos

Designer Jean Lanvin staggered and zig-zagged the buttons on suits he presented at the Paris fall and winter showings. The silhouette was slim and the hat large.

Zigzag "It" in Lanvin's Collection

In the highly praised Lanvin show, suits had slightly A-line skirts, stand-up collars and big buttons in a zig-zag effect. Designer Crahay abandoned his last season attempt at football padding and kept suit and coat shoulders natural.

For cocktails and evening he used either a high stand-up neckline discreetly slipping past the washbone, or a low off-the-shoulder drawstring effect.

Both short and long crepe evening gowns had billowing back panels attached to the hem. One outfit looked like a drawing from a 1920 perfume ad — a mannequin in round Beaven toque hat, wrap-around bulky heavier coat with a gigantic nose-hiding collar of beige fox.

Like Pierre Balmain, Lanvin's designer Crahay used lots of Roman-striped heavy silk, meaning horizontal bands of black alternating with bright colors.

Just Where Do You Rank in the Great Rate Race?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Have you wondered how you're faring in the rate race lately?

Well, maybe it's time for a periodic check-up. Sometimes you're the last to find out that you've slipped a few rungs down the ladder of success.

Keeping face in is no picnic. The only face you can lose is your own; once lost, it is difficult to get it back.

Here's a little guide to help you see where you stand in the pecking order. The chances are that you are still doing okay if—The manager of the local supermarket is glad to cash your wife's checks whenever you need some quick walking-round money.

Your kids don't have to get their Christmas toys from the local firehouse.

When your son flunks out of college, you are consoled by the fact that at least it was a good college, not a second-rate one.

Your barber will hold his chair open for a full 10 minutes—not just five—if you're late for an appointment.

The office bootblack doesn't mind letting you charge a shine now and then.

At a business lunch you don't hesitate to be the first to order a second martini out of fear that your associates may think you're drinking too much.

There are more pounds of steak than hamburger in your home freezer.

You have a two-car garage, a 2½-bathroom home and take vacations winters as well as summers.

At least three other people in the firm are worried that you are out to get their job.

In an emergency you can take $25 out of the petty cash fund without writing a five-page letter explaining why.

You can use your personal key to the executive washroom without feeling self-conscious about it.

The boss makes a daily bet with you on the outcome of baseball games, and likes to tell you all his home troubles.

When you present a new idea at a staff conference, nobody knocks it until he first sees how the head of the firm likes it.

You are important enough to have your own parking place in the company lot.

You no longer feel it is necessary to carry a briefcase home every night to impress anyone with how hard you are working. Nobody at the water cooler says he has already heard it when you start to tell a joke.

You have a bigger office expense account than you had five years ago, and owe more at the bank.

It is no longer necessary for you to go to the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service every year to explain your return. They now send one of their tax specialists to see you.

You know a golf pro, a wealthy orthodontist and at least one prominent gall bladder specialist on a first-name basis.

You can't seem to get more than five hours of sleep a night, and you munch two packages of antacid stomach pills a day instead of one.

Yep, brother, you're riding high. You've got what counts—status in your time.

Time Meals When Dieting

Eating at Top Hunger
Periods Gets Results

By Science Service
NEW YORK — If you are trying to lose weight on a certain number of calories per day, you will probably have better success if you time your eating for periods of peak hunger, a Harvard nutritionist advises.

In some cases this may mean eliminating "meals" and substituting more "snacks," says Dr. Jean Mayer in Nutrition Today.

A careful distinction should be made between patients who overeat regardless of whether or not they are hungry and those who overeat, or cannot stick to a reducing diet, because of severe hunger pangs.

A good reducing diet, or any good dietary plan, is one that does not make a person too hungry.

If you eat at the peak of hunger you may not have to take appetite curbers, but if the method fails, you may require medication. Here, too, medication should be taken at times of greatest hunger. Amphetamines may have fallen into disrepute with some physicians because they were given too early in the day when the patient's hunger level was low.

SMALL DOSES
Small doses of fast-acting drugs given at times of greatest hunger can be expected to have the best effect, as well as to minimize the habit-forming danger.

ALWAYS PREPARED — A Marine at a staging area at Dong Ha, South Viet Nam, had all the standard equipment before going into battle. He had his rifle, entrenching tool, canteen and folding chair. Folding chair? Well, maybe that isn't standard equipment, but the Marine was comfortable until he climbed aboard a helicopter and flew into battle.

In Detroit

Port Control Tightened

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit-Wayne County Port Commission yesterday passed a set of regulations to place tighter controls on licensing for the city's waterfront.

The regulations, which must be approved by the county board of supervisors, provide that an applicant must possess "good character and integrity."

The regulations were apparently a partial reaction to the recent entry on the waterfront scene of three persons with criminal records. They include Anthony (Tony Jack) Giacalone; his brother, Vito; and Louis (Big) Kosny.

The trio formed a company to provide stevedores to shipping companies and warehouses. In apparent reference to Giacalone and his partners, Commission member Robert Holmes said: "Reliance upon good character and integrity will allow the commission to take care of every situation, including the one that everyone seems to fear."

VC Get Record Air Pounding

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese pilots struck Communist positions in South Viet Nam Wednesday with new fury, flying a record total of 826 combat sorties, a military spokesman reported.

American fliers also hammered at North Viet Nam despite bad weather limiting most of their 100 missions Wednesday to the southern panhandle.

The heavy air blows in the South accompanied a rise in small-scale Communist attacks as the Viet Cong stepped up hit-and-run attacks in the wake of their defeats in larger battles with U.S. troops.

The most significant of these assaults took place 18 miles from Saigon where guerrillas overran a village a few hours before dawn and drove off the 40 militiamen defenders.

RECORD DAY

U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine fliers flew 542 single-plane strikes in the record day in the South Wednesday, Vietnamese fliers added 284 more. The Strategic Air Command's B-52s made three raids today. Two were aimed at the Communist-held D Zone north of Saigon, the other at the hills just below the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone where the Marines are continuing the hunt for North Viet Nam's 324B Division.

U.S. Plan for Control of N-Arms Told

GENEVA (AP) — The United States today proposed worldwide supervision of peaceful nuclear activities to safeguard a treaty banning the spread of atomic weapons.

U.S. delegate Adrian S. Fisher warned the 17-nation disarmament talks that by 1980 more than 100 kilograms — 220 pounds — of plutonium will be produced every day in the nuclear power stations of the world.

Under proper safeguards, he said, this material may be used as fuel to provide a substantial part of the world's power needs. But in the absence of a treaty "it can also be used to make at least 20 nuclear weapons every day."

The conference's failure to make progress on a treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons is partly due to the Soviet refusal to accept inspection procedures demanded by the United States to guarantee observance of a treaty.

But the nonnuclear states have also shown reluctance to undertake obligations which are not coupled with agreement by the nuclear powers to halt their own development of weapons.

A Navy A4 Skyhawk from the carrier Oriskany and its pilot was reported missing over North Viet Nam on a strike against a missile site near Vinh. It was the 11th plane reported lost over the North.

Although limited by typhoon weather, the U.S. fliers blasted 11 fuel dumps, including a big complex near Vinh and another at the nearby former army camp of Badon, a spokesman said. He said the pilots did not encounter any anti-aircraft missiles or Communist MIGs.

The fliers on the Badon raid said the Reds were using craters from previous bombings to hide their oil drums. The pilots said they started five new fires.

Says Angry Sukarno

'Malay War to Persist'

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Soaring, shouting and shoeless, President Sukarno asserted today that Indonesia's undeclared war against Malaysia would continue.

"Confrontation will continue," Sukarno declared in an hour-long address after he swore in a new Cabinet. "Malaysia as such is a neocolonialist project."

Sukarno, 65, now largely a figurehead, kicked off his shoes as he began his speech. His face reddening with anger, he alternately shouted and whispered at his audience. Lt. Gen. Suharto, the army strongman who forced Sukarno to give up his authority last March and who heads the new Cabinet, stood stony-faced as the president spoke. Suharto was promoted to full general at the ceremony.

After Suharto and the army took control last March, one of their first actions was to halt the three-year-old war with Malaysia and begin negotiations to establish normal relations. The moves were endorsed by the Indonesian Congress last month.

TEMPERED DEFIANCE
Sukarno tempered his defiance of the peace moves by saying confrontation could be ended only on the basis of the Manila agreement.

This accord, reached in the summer of 1963 by Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman of Malaysia, then-President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines, and Sukarno, called for self-determination for the people of Sabah and Sarawak, the Malaysian states on the island of Borneo.

A United Nations team surveyed public opinion in the two states and found it favorable to Malaysia. Indonesia and the Philippines, which claims Sabah, refused to accept the findings, however, and Indonesia launched its guerrilla war. The Philippines has backed down since and recognized Malaysia.

"If there is no Manila agreement then confrontation will go on," Sukarno said. "Let the people of Sabah and Sarawak decide their own destiny."

COMPLETE COMMAND
Sukarno also insisted that he is still in complete command in Indonesia.

He said a congressional decision giving Suharto primary executive power was "a mere directive."

PINT-SIZED COLLEGIAN—Mike Grost of Lansing is only 12 years old and stands less than 5 feet high, but after two years at Michigan State University, he's head and shoulders above most students. The robust youngster has plugged quietly along, studying such subjects as calculus, physics, religion, computer science and French. He got A's in most of the courses.

Collegian, 12, Isn't Idle During Summer

LANSING (AP) — Mike Grost is one 12-year-old with no summer vacation problem of, "Hey, Mom, what is there to do?" The National Science Foundation grants him $30 a week to do mathematical research.

It is a program to encourage college students, and that is what Mike is — almost an all-A student at that.

Mike, who just completed his sophomore year at Michigan State University's Honors College, plugged quietly along among 35,000 other students at the East Lansing campus, studying calculus, physics, religion, French and computer science.

He received only two grades of B — one in French and one in religion — to go with an otherwise straight-A record.

NO CONCERN
Faculty advisers, who first watched to see if the decision to admit Mike to college at age 10 was correct, no longer show such concern.

They are careful not to influence him, toward any one career field.

His classmates exerted a bit of influence on him last summer, suggesting he make a try at athletics.

YOUNGEST FRESHMAN
Mike was the youngest known freshman in the United States since 1886. He could receive a master's degree before he is old enough to drive, and a doctorate at an age when many students are just entering college.

Mike's father, William Grost of Lansing, says that it is unimportant whether Mike receives his bachelor's degree at age 14. He and his wife, Audrey, would rather see him proceed slowly, taking extra courses and exploring new fields.

As a junior, Mike has to pick a major field and has decided on physical science.

He has been working with Dr. Fritz Herzog, a mathematics professor, to catch up on some steps he missed by not taking high school math. He has taken a series of advanced calculus courses.

He also is working 20 hours a week on the National Science Foundation summer program, designed to teach research methods to college undergraduates.

"I'm enjoying it," said Mike. "It's not at all like work."

The short summer workweek was designed to give Mike time for recreation with his family and friends his age.

3 State Marines Among 23 Killed in Viet Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Michigan Marines were among 23 servicemen identified Wednesday by the Defense Department as killed in action in Vietnam.

They are: Pfc. Ronda L. Raglin, brother of Mrs. Wanda F. Price of (19925 Rosedale) St. Clair Shores; Lance Cpl. Robert L. Studards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Studards of (18065 Goulburn) Detroit; and Pfc. Randy D. Brosnan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard F. Brosnan of (2161 Gray) Detroit.

With pool or pocket billiards becoming a respectable and popular game across the country, there are now an estimated 19 million players, 25 per cent of them women.

Officials Back Studded Tires

LANSING (AP) — Use of tire studs as a safety factor on slippery roads should be encouraged in Michigan as long as the studs don't seriously damage the pavement, state and industry officials agreed Wednesday.

But officials of the State Highway Department indicated they would like one year to study exactly what effect the studs have on roads.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley called the meeting after being asked for an opinion on the legality of using tire studs in Michigan. He sought the reactions of representatives of the state, safety organizations and the tire, auto and trucking industries.

TWICE THE TRACTION

Backers of the studded tires told Kelley they have twice the traction of nonstudded tires on slippery or icy roads.

Kelley and Secretary of State James Hare planned to consult with their counterparts in other states. Kelley noted that some neighboring states, such as Ohio, allow use of tire studs and this causes problems for Ohio citizens driving in Michigan.

Red Ends Talks

Waterford Planners Back Rezoning Bid

The Waterford Township Planning Commission last night unanimously recommended for approval a rezoning request for a 26-acre multiple complex development on the northeast corner of Elizabeth Lake Road and Williams Lake Road.

Meeting for the second consecutive night because of an overload of cases, the planners rezoned the property from single family residential (RIA) to Multiple dwelling residential (R2).

Plans call for construction of 115 apartment units on the land.

New Dial Tone for 682 Numbers

Pontiac telephone users whose numbers begin with "682" will hear a new dial tone, starting at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday, the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. announced today.

Charles B. Woodhead, local manager for Michigan Bell, said the new signal, somewhat lower in pitch than the present dial tone, is being put into service to prepare for the introduction of touch-tone push-button telephones.

been previously deferred by the planning commission until applicant Ted Opalinski submitted site plan revisions and necessary information on soil conditions.

In other business, the planners recommended for denial a request to change the zoning of

Italy Storms Cause Flooding, Damage

ROME (U) — Violent wind and rain storms, rare in July, struck Italy today at the peak of the tourist season, flooding streets, damaging beach resorts and triggering landslides.

Storms swept the whole Sorrentina Peninsula south of Naples. A cemetery wall collapsed and streets were flooded at Sorrento. At Sorrento and Marina di Cassano rain-loosened landslides partly buried a dozen parked cars.

High waves smashed beach resorts around Naples, carrying wrecked cabins out to sea.

Talk by Lenore Set

GRAND LEDGE (U) — Mrs. George Romney will speak at the 98th annual camp meeting of Michigan Seventh-day Adventists, which opened Wednesday.

FOUND GUILTY—A federal court jury yesterday found Delbert Garmon Jr. (center), 26, guilty of kidnapping. Garmon of Wichita Falls, Tex., is watched closely by U.S. marshals as they escort him from the court. During the noon recess, he inflicted superficial cuts on his wrist with a piece of double-edged razor. Garmon returned to the courtroom after receiving medical aid. He was accused of abducting 19 persons during a 17-day, two-state crime spree last October.

W. Bloomfield Is Appealing Ruling on JPs

A Circuit Court ruling that placed the names of justice of the peace candidates on the ballot in West Bloomfield Township is being appealed.

As a result of the ruling last week, the township could be the only township in the state that will have a contest for justices in November.

A notice of the appeal was filed yesterday with the county clerk's office by Joseph T. Brennan, attorney for the township.

The election of justices this year was abolished by the legislature as a method of providing a more orderly departure of office holders when the justice system is ended throughout the state in 1968. The terms of those justices presently in office were extended to that time.

Circuit Judge James S. Thornburn ruled, however, that the extension did not include justices who were appointed to fill a vacancy.

SOUGHT RULING
Richard Kramer, an attorney with offices in Detroit, had sought the ruling.

His name, and that of the appointed incumbent, Christian Powell, will appear on Tuesday's primary ballot.

Since Powell, a Republican, and Kramer, a Democrat, have no opposition from within their parties, they will automatically be nominated for the general election.

10 Pirate Stations Face British Curbs

LONDON (U) — The British government today threatened prison terms and fines on its campaign to silence the 10 pirate radio stations operating off Britain's shores.

The drastic legislation presented to the House of Commons would make it unlawful for any British subject to broadcast from the commercial stations to install equipment for them, supply them with tapes, records or materials, and advertise on their programs.

Penalties of up to two years imprisonment and fines exceeding 100 pounds ($200) are provided.

Death Valley Hiker Ends Long, Dry Walk in Desert

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (U) — Jean Pierre Marquand trudged the final six miles to Stovepipe Wells today, ending a 100-mile, circuitous hike through Death Valley, tired but in good physical condition.

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Jean Pierre Marquand, his blistered feet red and swollen, his body baked by 130-degree heat, hoped to plod the final few miles of his Death Valley adventure today.

The French ex-paratrooper stopped Wednesday night eight miles short of completing his 102-mile walk across the valley. "I've got to get some sleep," he said.

Near high noon Wednesday, two park rangers reported they found Marquand dozing under his umbrella, five miles from Furnace Creek. "I've got to keep going," he told them. "If I don't I won't be able to make it." The rangers accompanied Marquand for nearly four hours, reporting he consumed three gallons of water.

FEET SUFFER
Marquand's feet suffer from 100-degree ground temperatures, his arms and legs are cut from scrapes, he needs a shave.

Marquand, 28, says he started the hike seven days ago to show adventure still exists in America.

O'Brien Aims to Override Romney Veto

State legislature leaders have been asked by Sen. Carl W. O'Brien, D-Pontiac, to make Gov. Romney's veto of a bill to waive the one-week waiting period for workmen's compensation the number one item on the Legislature's Aug. 22 agenda.

Lawmakers are scheduled to return to Lansing Aug. 22-23 to wrap up business of the spring session—including consideration of the governor's veto messages.

O'Brien charged Romney with a "lack of concern with the problems of working people in our state" and scoffed at Romney's description of the bill that O'Brien sponsored as a "welfare measure."

O'Brien said that if the veto is overridden, auto workers would get $60 to $80 more in jobless benefits next year during model changeovers.

Counseling Needed at Lower Grade Level

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.

The guidance counselor's job is to help each student understand his strengths and limitations, to know what interests him, and to help him plan for and attain satisfactory goals.

In public high schools there is only about one counselor, on the average, for every 550 students. Unfortunately, not all the counselor's time can be spent counseling individual students.

Much of the routine work of programming and scheduling falls within the counselor's duties.

As a result he scarcely has time enough to become familiar with each student's test records and grades, much less become acquainted with the student himself or guide him in solving his problems.

To compound the counselor's frustrations the problem children of high school age who take up most of his time and attention are the result of lack of individual attention in the elementary grades.

It was in the elementary school that the problem child first became discouraged and, perhaps, even gave up the struggle to learn.

While the number of counselors in elementary schools has increased in recent years in all parts of the country, it is estimated that even now only 10 per cent of the elementary schools have some form of organized guidance.

It is at this level that added attention to the guidance function can bring about the greatest improvement in our educational system.

COMBINED HELP

Early identification of children's abilities is necessary if each is to be brought to maximum development. Children who have learning difficulties often need the combined help of their teachers, parents and guidance counselor.

Counselors at the high school level are rapidly improving their skill in helping students get into college. There is, however, still much room for improvement in two other areas.

First, that of helping a student learn the study techniques that will make him successful in college and, second, helping the noncollege-bound student make realistic educational and occupational plans.

The most usual complaint of college freshmen regarding their high school training is that they did not learn study techniques needed for success in college.

And a reason often given for high school dropouts is that the student sees no relationship between his school work and any future job.

Both of these are guidance functions.

Vets, Dependents Losing $26 Million Yearly

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Some 100,000 veterans, widows and children are losing about $26 million a year in disability and death pension benefits.

New government estimates show that these benefits are being lost because qualified Americans haven't applied for the increased benefits to which they're entitled under a law effective in 1960 and amended in 1964.

These pensions are paid to wartime veterans (including including Korea) permanently and totally disabled from causes not traceable to their military service.

Payments are also made to widows and children of wartime veterans who have died of causes unrelated to their military service. Veterans of Viet Nam and their widows and orphans are not eligible.

All veterans, widows and orphans who came on the pension rolls after June 30, 1960 receive pensions under the new system.

LESS MONEY
But qualified Americans already on the rolls on July 1, 1960, have continued to receive pensions under the old system unless they applied for transfer. They may be receiving less money than they should.

In general, six groups of veterans, widows and orphans pensioners are the greatest beneficiaries of a shift from the old system to the 1960 plan:

GROUP ONE — Veterans so helpless they require the regular aid and attendance of another person.

Under the old plan, such a veteran drew a flat $135.45 a month pension. Under the new plan, such a veteran receives $100 a month plus a pension of from $43 to $115 a month, depending on the number of dependents.

Under the 1960 law, veterans receiving this regular aid and attendance allowance are also entitled to free prescription drugs and medicine, therapeutic or rehabilitative devices, invalid and other medical equipment and supplies.

These benefits are not available to those receiving pensions under the pre-1960 law.

GROUP TWO — Veterans helpless enough so that they are housebound, but not so badly off that they require the regular aid and attendance of another person.

Under the pre-1960 plan, such a veteran drew only his pension of $66.15, or $78.75 a month after 18 years of age 65, whichever came sooner.

Under the new plan, such a veteran draws a pension of $43 to $115 a month, depending on the number of dependents, plus a $35-a-month "housebound" allowance.

GROUP THREE — Orphans whose veteran fathers have died of non-service-connected disabilities and whose mothers are dead — or are ineligible for pensions because, say, they're remarried.

Under the pre-1960 law, one such child was entitled to $27.30 a month. Two in the same family were entitled to $40.95 and three, $54.90.

A child was ineligible if his other income exceeded $1,400 a year, even if it was income he himself earned.

Under the new law, the first child is entitled to $38 a month, with $15 for each additional child. A child is eligible if his other income does not exceed $1,800 a year. Income he himself earns is not included in the $1,800 limit.

GROUP FOUR — Single veterans with incomes of $600 a year or less and veterans with dependents with incomes of $1,000 a year or less.

Under the 1960 law, such a single veteran can draw $100 a month and a veteran with dependents up to $115. The less a veteran earns, the more he can receive.

Under the pre-1960 arrangement, a totally and permanently disabled wartime (including Korea) veteran whose disability was not traceable to service causes, was entitled to a flat $66.15 a month, until he reached age 60 or had been on the pension rolls 10 years, whichever came first.

After that he received $78.75 a month. He received the same amount, whether single or married. His other income could not exceed $1,400 a year, if single, and $2,700 a year, if married.

GROUP FIVE — Single veterans with incomes of more than $1,400 a year but not more than $1,800, and veterans with dependents with incomes of more than $2,700 a year but not more than $3,000.

Under the pre-1960 law these veterans received no pensions at all.

Under the new law the eligible single veteran in this group receives $43 a month and the veteran with dependents receives $48 a month.

GROUP SIX — Eligible widows of veterans who have died of non-service-connected causes.

Such widows are particularly better off under the new system if they have no children by the veteran and their other income is $600 a year or less or if they have one or more children by the veteran and their other income is $1,000 a year or less.

Under the pre-1960 law, widows without children by the veterans could receive $50.40 a month. Under the 1960 law they can receive $64.

Under the old arrangement, an eligible widow with one child could receive $63 a month and $7.56 for each additional child. Under the 1960 law, an eligible widow with one child could draw $80 a month and $15 for each additional child.

WIDOW GAIN
There are many veterans and widow pensioners not in the six groups above who would benefit by shifting to the new system.

Conversely, some in these groups might not profit by the shift. The groups mentioned are merely representative samples.

Four types of veteran pensioners are unlikely to profit from a shift to the 1960 system, though, again, there are special individuals within these groups who might profit.

GROUP ONE — A single veteran pensioner with other annual income between $1,200 and $1,400 and a veteran pensioner with dependents with between $2,000 and $2,700 annual income.

GROUP TWO — A married veteran pensioner whose wife has an income other than earnings considerably greater than $1,200 a year or whose wife has a combined earned and unearned income considerably greater than $1,200 a year with a significant amount of that total being unearned income.

Under the pre-1960 law, a wife's income did not count as part of her veteran husband's income for pension purposes.

Under the 1960 law, if her income is greater than $1,200 a year and part of it is from stocks, bonds, rents, annuities, pensions or Social Security, or is otherwise "not earned," a part of her income is counted as income of the veteran.

GROUP THREE — Under the 1960 law, an otherwise eligible veteran with a "sizeable" estate, exclusive of his home and personal effects used in "ordinary" living.

The Veterans Administration has not defined what a "sizeable" estate is. Officials say each case "will be judged on its individual merits."

Under the pre-1960 law, the size of an eligible veteran's estate was not considered.

GROUP FOUR — A single veteran who anticipates a long stay in a VA hospital may not profit by a shift to the new system.

Under the 1960 law, the pension of a veteran without a wife or child is reduced to $30 a month after two full calendar months of care.

He would draw full pension payment upon release from the hospital or VA maintenance, but the money reduced from his pension during hospital or domiciliary care would not be recoverable.

Losing Leg Doesn't Slow Former Beauty Contestant

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Two years ago, pretty Roberta Scott's left leg had to be amputated because of cancer. But her zest for living wasn't lost.

"I'd rather lose my leg than my life," commented the former runner-up in the Miss Oklahoma competition. "I get too much enjoyment out of life to sit and gripe about it."

Sitting isn't one of the things the 23-year-old Oklahoma State University coed does best — she's seldom still and her enthusiasms range from yard work, water skiing and painting to just cheering up others who have suffered setbacks.

"If anything," she says, "I have added to my activities rather than given any up."

ENCOURAGEMENT

Miss Scott often visits hospitals to "give encouragement to fellow members of the fraternity of the wooden leg."

A native of Ada, Miss Scott attended school in Tulsa. She was doing part-time modeling by the time she graduated from Will Rogers High School and included tap and ballet dancing, singing and summer stock theater work among her accomplishments.

In 1961, she was chosen Miss Tulsa and was second runner-up that year in the Miss Oklahoma beauty contest. She already had included a number of local beauty and talent trophies in her collection.

Admittedly interested in aiming for a career in the theater, she worked for her degree in elementary teaching with emphasis on music instruction.

ENTERED HOSPITAL

When she was a senior, Miss Scott learned she had cancer. On Feb. 18, 1964, she entered the hospital. Her leg was amputated on March 4.

"God had his arm around me," she comments simply. "I didn't cry about it and I have not."

The only complaint she is likely to voice is "Just after a rain, when it is hot and the tall grass is wet, I would like to be able to run across the pastures barefooted."

Her drive was obvious even just after losing the leg. Eight days after the operation, she slipped out of bed and hopped to a telephone to tell another patient she was already out of bed.

Miss Scott has returned to her school, with her training now slanted toward special education for elementary students who are slow or retarded, the problem learners.

Margaret Wiggins, special education teacher at Stillwater's Lincoln Elementary School, is in charge of Miss Scott's practice teaching.

She says Miss Scott's ability to overcome the difficulties of her handicap encourages the youngsters around her to try slanted toward special education for elementary students who are slow or retarded, the problem learners.

"I'm so glad to be alive."

ROBERTA SCOTT

Less Widowers Than Widows

By Science Service

NEW YORK — Widows now outnumber widowers more than four to one.

According to the Bureau of the Census, one out of every eight American women 14 years or older is a widow.

In the five years following the 1960 census, an increase of 870,000 widows brought their total to 8,815,000, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s Statistical Bulletin states.

Not only are there more new widows than their male counterparts each year, there are more men each year who die or remarry.

Most of the widows are past middle life. One-fifth of all American women at ages 55-64 are widowed, more than two-fifths at ages 65-74, and seven-tenths past 75.

HIGH RATIO

Even at ages 45-54 one woman in every 12 has lost her husband by death.

Three-fourths of the widows under 45 with their own households have at least one child in their care, and many who are past middle life also have children under age 18 in their homes. In 1960, about 900,000 widows faced this responsibility.

Many widows are in the labor force. Close to two-thirds at ages 35-54 were working in 1960, and although the employed proportion fell off rapidly when the widows passed middle life, one-seventh of them at ages 65-74 were employed. Many of these older women had part-time jobs.

With the favorable prospects of longevity for women, most widows will go on living many years.

Students Using Newer Facilities

LANSING (AP)—Nearly half of all children attending Michigan Public Schools next fall will go to class in facilities built within the last 10 years, the State Board of Education said Wednesday.

Nonpublic schools will have by the time she graduated from 36 per cent of their pupils in similarly new facilities.

The board said public and nonpublic schools have built more than 37,000 classrooms in the last 10 years and sold $1.4-billion in school bonds, mostly for construction.

Only American Motors sales were up in June!

Our Safety-Built '66s are great buys now. Take a look.

American Motors was the only U.S. car maker whose sales were up in June from June '65. Seems more and more people are discovering that our new styling, performance and advanced safety features add up to greater value... especially now that savings are at their model-year highest!

In our Single-Unit body, strong welded box girders surround you.

1966 Ambassadors, Marlins, Rambler Classics, and Rambler Americans. All-around protection. Get behind the wheel of any American Motors car and notice how solid, smooth and quiet it rides. The old way to build bodies is to start with a frame and bolt a body on.

Our Ceramic-Armored exhaust system is the longest-lasting one in the industry, and it's standard.

top of it. In all American Motors cars, body-and-frame are welded into a single unit, surrounding you with strong, rigid box-section girders. Thousands of welds join these girders, adding to the strength and durability of the body. We pioneered Single-Unit construction and we've been improving on it for 26 years.

A year-ahead safety feature. Starting with 1962 models, we began equipping all our cars with a Double-Safety braking system, simply because we thought all cars should have it. Starting next year, all cars will, which makes us just a little proud of our leadership with this safety feature.

The heart of the Double-Safety braking system is a tandem master cylinder. Inside are two separate reservoirs for hydraulic fluid, each connected to its own set of hydraulic lines. If a front or rear wheel brake line should lose its pressure, the system serving the other wheels would still function, stopping the car. This vital extra margin of safety is standard on all '66 American Motors cars.

Power for safe passing. Our five V-8 choices give you ample reserve power for brisk acceleration when necessary. Same goes for our advanced-design six-cylinder engines. Even our smallest Six, standard in Rambler American, won honors for acceleration and gas economy in 1966!

Other "safety firsts." Our Ceramic-Armored exhaust system — an American Motors exclusive — is the longest-lasting in the business. Back in 1950, we pioneered in offering seat belts. We were also among the leaders in making available safety headrests* and power disc brakes*.

Get a good deal — and a good deal more! Right now your American Motors/Rambler dealer can offer you a wide choice of safety-built '66s. And right now, savings are at a model-year-high. See him today!

Ordinary braking system has one set of hydraulic lines. If it's ruptured, you're out of hydraulic brakes! Most '66 cars are made this way.

Double-Safety braking system has a tandem master cylinder and two separate sets of hydraulic lines. Rupture one and the second will stop the car.

PICKLE LAMB KEBABS—Cubes of tender milk-fed lamb (from the shoulder or leg) are marinated in a mixture which includes sweet pickle liquid. Whole sweet gherkins, slices of eggplant and chunks of fresh pineapple are the other appetizing ingredients in this recipe for kebabs.

Cubes of Lamb Grilled With Pickles, Fruit

A picnic means different things to different people. To some it is the occasion on which huge quantities of food are prepared at home, packed in the big hamper, and loaded into the car for a trip to the country. To others, it means simply rolling out the portable grill and cooking in the back yard.

For either kind of picnic, pickles are essential. Milk-fed spring lamb is tender and ideal for outdoor cooking. Charcoal seems to enhance the sweet flavor of the meat.

As it cooks the aroma sends out an irresistible invitation that keeps hungry picnickers hovering around the fire, so as not to wait a moment longer than necessary before sinking their teeth into the succulent morsels.

Pickle Lamb Kebabs
1/2 cup sweet pickle liquid
1/2 cup catsup
1/2 cup water
6 whole cloves
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon instant minced onion flakes
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon peppercorns
1 1/2 pounds cubed shoulder or leg of lamb, about 1 1/2 inches
1 medium eggplant, cut in 1/2-inch thick slices
12 sweet gherkins
1 medium pineapple, cut in wedges

Combine pickle liquid, catsup, water and seasonings. Add lamb. Marinate several hours or overnight.

Place lamb on skewers. Broil 5 to 6 inches from source of heat, or cook on outdoor grill, 10 to 12 minutes per side, brushing frequently with marinade.

Place eggplant on skewers. Grill 8 to 10 minutes per side, brushing frequently with marinade.

For the conservative taste, try shrimp, asparagus tips and hard-boiled egg on a bed of Boston lettuce; radish, cheese and tomato slices with asparagus tips on a iceberg lettuce; or asparagus spears with a band of tangerine cream sauce and a ring of red onion for color contrast.

More often seen for this type of roasting are the boneless beef sirloin tip and rolled rump or the rolled chuck cut called English cut. These are excellent for rotisserie roasting if they're high quality.

Boneless pork loins or pork loin rolls are also rotisserie favorites.

All out-of-doors roasting or grilling (broiling) should be done at moderate temperature, just as inside.

If possible, use a thermometer to check on the grill temperature as well as the meat roasting thermometer to determine the doneness of the meat.

Making chocolate fudge for a party? Add toasted shelled almonds (crushed) to it for flavor that's similar to those fancy chocolate creams called "truffles."

Vary Asparagus Salads

Summertime's salad time. Unfetter your imagination and serve cool, satisfying summer salads that can be anything from a side dish to a complete meal.

For those who simply must have meat with every meal, remember that successful salads can be built around any kind of leftovers. Cold cuts, seafood, poultry and cheese are fine; singly or in combination.

Take advantage of the wide variety of fresh summer vegetables, also. All you add is a dab of a devil-may-care gourmet dressing and, to top it all off, a sprinkle of chopped fruit and/or nuts.

For the conservative taste, try shrimp, asparagus tips and hard-boiled egg on a bed of Boston lettuce; radish, cheese and tomato slices with asparagus tips on a iceberg lettuce; or asparagus spears with a band of tangerine cream sauce and a ring of red onion for color contrast.

You Might Want Sundaes in a Hurry

Along about 9 o'clock on a hot summer night, ice cream sundaes seem like a fine idea.

No trip to the corner soda fountain is required if you have ice cream and one of these four chocolate sauces on tap. Make them ahead — they'll keep in the refrigerator — or spur of the moment — they're that easy.

Bittersweet Mocha Sauce
1 package (4 oz.) sweet cooking chocolate
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon instant quality coffee
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons light cream
Melt chocolate with sugar and water in a saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in instant coffee until smooth. Then stir in vanilla and cream. Makes about 1/2 cup.

Chocolate Peanut Butter Sauce
2 squares unsweetened chocolate squares
1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup water
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup peanut butter

Combine chocolate, honey, sugar, salt, and water in a saucepan. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cook over medium heat 2 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. Stir vanilla extract into the cooled chocolate syrup.

Gradually add chocolate syrup to peanut butter, beating constantly. Serve over ice cream. Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Choco-Mello Sauce
1 package (4 oz.) sweet cooking chocolate
1 1/2 cups evaporated milk
1 cup miniature marshmallows
Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until chocolate and marshmallows are melted and mixture is blended. Makes about 2 cups.

Cinnamon Bittersweet Fudge Sauce
4 squares unsweetened chocolate squares
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 to 3/4 cup light cream
Melt chocolate in top of double boiler over hot (not boiling) water. In a separate saucepan, mix sugar and water. Bring to a boil, stirring frequently to dissolve sugar; then boil vigorously 5 minutes.

Cool the melted chocolate and syrup to room temperature; then thoroughly stir syrup up into chocolate. Add salt, cinnamon, and vanilla. Blend in light cream until desired consistency is obtained.

Serve hot or cold over ice cream. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Bit of Molasses Gives Tang to Orange Sauce

First stir two table spoons of heavy cream into one cup of cottage cheese and beat it on your warm gingerbread squares. Then pour on the tangy orange pudding sauce. As you see, this, too, is easy to make:

Sweet-Tangy Sauce
3 tablespoons sugar
1 table spoon light molasses
1 table spoon cornstarch
Pinch salt
1 cup orange juice
Mix sugar, cornstarch and 1 table spoon butter salt. Combine and add molasses and orange juice. Stir smooth. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Remove from heat and stir in butter. Serve hot over Cottage-Ginger Squares.

A small side dish of grated orange peel makes a pleasant addition of this dessert.

In Cabbage Cups

Novel way to serve beef stew is in cabbage cups! Steam whole, large cabbage leaves on top of stew the last seven to ten minutes of cooking time. Place them on serving platter and fill with beef stew.

Remove from heat and stir in butter. Serve hot over Cottage-Ginger Squares.

Use Broccoli in This Soup

Delicious way to use cooked broccoli when it is leftover is in soup.

Broccoli and Potato Soup
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) frozen, condensed cream of potato soup
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup cooked broccoli buds, tightly packed
1/2 cup thinly sliced cooked broccoli stems, tightly packed

In an electric blender, blend until pureed the remaining 1/2 cup milk with the broccoli buds; add to soup with the sliced broccoli stems. Heat according to directions on soup can.

If soup is thicker than you wish, add more milk. Makes 4 servings.

Brown shelled blanched almonds in butter, then sprinkle with salt and such a seasoning as chili powder, curry powder or garlic powder. Use a light touch when adding the seasoning. Serve for pre-dinner nibbling.

Into a medium saucepan, turn the soup just as it comes from the can; gradually stir in 1 cup of the milk.

Michigan Blueberries Are Tops

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Food Editor, Michigan blueberries are in fine supply now. They're just waiting to be put into waffles, pancakes, muffins, cereal bowls and pies.

Today's large cultivated blueberries are less than 50 years old. All of them have been domesticated from wild swamp huckleberries.

A Michigan State University professor introduced the industry to this state some 40 years ago. We are the beneficiaries of that far-seeing program.

Michigan's peak season is in August. That's the time you'll want to buy berries for freezing or canning.

ORANGE MOLD WITH BLUEBERRY DRESSING
1 (10-oz.) can Mandarin orange sections
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 (3-oz.) packages lemon gelatin dessert

Water cress or chiorio
1 cup (½ pint) sour cream
1 to 2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup fresh blueberries, washed and dried

Drain orange sections well; save the syrup. Add lemon juice to syrup and enough water to make four cups liquid. Bring about half the liquid to a boil and remove from heat; add gelatin dessert and stir until dissolved. Add remaining liquid. Chill until about consistency of unbeaten egg white. Stir in well-drained orange sections and turn into lightly oiled ring mold, about 5 to 8 cups capacity. Refrigerate until set.

When ready to serve, unmold and garnish with water cress or chiorio. Accompany with dressing made by combining sour cream with sugar, nutmeg, lemon rind and blueberries. Makes 6-8 servings.

Blueberry Parfait Dessert
Starts with sweetened condensed milk.

BLUEBERRY PARFAIT DESSERT
1½ cups (15-oz. can) sweetened

Freeze Asparagus for Later Delight
Select young, tender stalks of asparagus with compact tips for freezing. Sort them, according to the thickness of stalk, then wash thoroughly, cut or break off and discard tough parts. Leave spears in length to fit your package or cut in 2-inch lengths.

Blanch — small stalks — 2 minutes; medium stalks — 3 minutes; large stalks — 4 minutes. Cool, drain and package, in air-tight containers, leaving no head space. When packaging spears alternate tips and stems. Seal, label and freeze.

It takes about one to one and one-half pounds of fresh asparagus to make a pint of frozen. With the abundant spring supplies, take advantage and stock up for all your future menu masterpieces.

condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon finely grated lemon rind
2 cups (1 pint) sour cream
2 cups (1 pint) fresh blueberries; washed, drained and stemmed

In a large bowl, combine sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice and rind. Blend thoroughly. Fold in sour cream. Gently fold in blueberries. Spoon into 8 parfait glasses.

Chill in refrigerator 2 hours, or until thoroughly set. If desired, garnish each parfait with reserved blueberries. Makes 8 servings.

Another spectacular dessert is Blueberry Ice Cream Bombe.

BLUEBERRY ICE CREAM BOMBE

1 quart French Vanilla ice cream

Blueberry Sauce:

2 tablespoons cornstarch

¼ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon cinnamon

¼ teaspoon nutmeg

1 cup water

1 tablespoon lemon juice

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

2 cups fresh blueberries

Scoop ice cream into a large mixing bowl and let soften. Fold berries into ice cream until well blended and pour into 1 quart mold. Plunge a spatula down through ice cream several times to release any air bubbles. Freeze at least 24 hours.

Unmold by setting into a pan of tap water for a few seconds. Invert onto a chilled plate. Return to freezer for 2 to 3 hours.

Blueberry Sauce: In a heavy saucepan mix cornstarch, salt, cinnamon, and nutmeg. Add water and lemon juice. Cook until thickened. Add butter and stir until melted. Blend in blueberries.

When ready to serve, cut bombe into wedges and spoon hot or chilled Blueberry Sauce over each serving.

BLUEBERRY ANGEL FOOD CAKE

1 package angel food cake mix

1 cup fresh blueberries

½ cup sugar

1½ cups water

1 envelope unflavored gelatin

¼ cup cold water

1 teaspoon lemon juice

1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Make angel food cake according to package directions. Cool.

Place fresh blueberries, sugar and water in saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer about 5 minutes. Put through a sieve or food press to eliminate skins.

Soften gelatin in ¼ cup cold water and add to hot blueberry juice, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Add lemon juice.

Chill mixture until partially thickened and then beat with an electric mixer until light and fluffy and stands in peaks. Add the whipped cream and mix thoroughly.

Slice cake into two layers and spread blueberry cream mixture on bottom layer. Replace top and frost top and sides of cake with remaining blueberry cream. Decorate top with additional fresh blueberries.

Keep in refrigerator until ready to serve. Yield: 12 generous servings.

BLUEBERRY ANGEL FOOD CAKE

Cukes in Vinegar Are Sweet, Sour

Help-yourself service and paper plates will make life easy for the hostess!

Marinated Cucumber

1 large cucumber

½ cup vinegar

½ cup cold water

2 tablespoons sugar

1 teaspoon salt

Pare cucumber and remove ends. With a swivel-blade vegetable peeler, cut cucumber cross-wise into paper-thin slices—there should be a generous cupful. Stir together the remaining ingredients until sugar and salt are dissolved; mix in cucumber.

May be served at once or chilled as long as overnight. If served at once, do not drain cucumber from marinade.

ORANGE MOLD WITH BLUEBERRY DRESSING

Lettuce, Spinach Are Cooked Together

You'll be hitting culinary pay-dirt for sure when you cook "Lettuce and Spinach Bonanza" for the family.

This recipe with its wealth of flavor dividends shows how effectively crisp western iceberg lettuce can be heated to become part of a truly delectable vegetable concoction. The lettuce is torn into large pieces and cooked with spinach leaves just long enough for the vegetables to get hot.

Then they are served at once with a warm mushroom sauce piquantly seasoned with nutmeg, garlic powder and lemon juice. The combination is one to tempt even the hardest-to-please appetites.

Lettuce and Spinach Bonanza

1 head western iceberg lettuce

1 bunch (about 12 oz.) spinach

1 can (3½ oz.) sliced mushrooms, undrained

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

¼ cup water

1 teaspoon sugar

¼ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon nutmeg

¼ teaspoon garlic powder

1 tablespoon chopped pimiento (to optional)

2 tablespoons lemon juice

1 tablespoon cornstarch

Core, rinse and drain lettuce lightly; tear enough lettuce into large pieces to make about 2 quarts lightly packed. Place in large kettle. (Refrigerate any remaining lettuce in saran or plastic bag for use another time.)

Remove stems from spinach. Wash leaves well; drain and mix with lettuce.

Combine mushrooms, butter, water, sugar, salt, nutmeg, garlic and pimiento in saucepan; heat to boil. Mix lemon juice and cornstarch until smooth; stir into mushroom mixture.

Bring to boil, stirring constantly; cook until thickened. Keep warm over low heat.

Cook lettuce mixture over medium heat, turning a few times, just until hot and leaves begin to soften. (Lettuce should still be crunchy.)

Drain; place in heated shallow bowl. Pour in mushroom sauce over. Serve at once and toss at table. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Suspect Held in New York Sniping Death

NEW YORK (AP) — Police today imposed strict curbs on information about the arrest of a teen-ager in the sniping-slaying of an 11-year-old boy in last week's Brooklyn racial rioting.

Adhering tightly to recent Supreme Court rulings on excessive pretrial publicity, authorities gave only minimal details on Ernest Gallashaw, 17, held without bail Wednesday on a homicide charge.

It was not known how police arrested the youth.

Gallashaw is charged in the sniping death of Eric Dean, 11, a Negro, in the East New York tenement slum area June 21.

HOUSE PAINTER

A spokesman for the Brooklyn district attorney's office said Gallashaw, a Negro, was employed as a house painter in the New York State antipoverty program.

Dean was shot in the chest as he hurried to see Mayor John V. Lindsay who had arrived in the riot area for a conference with community leaders. The shot, it was said, may have been meant for a policeman.

Sport Fishing Boat Burns at Sea, Sinks

PORT ARANSAS, Tex. (AP) — The catch had been good and the sport fishing boat Marlin Queen was returning through shark-infested waters to its Gulf Coast port when a passenger shouted: "Smoke! Smoke!"

"I couldn't imagine where it was coming from," said the vessel's skipper, Tom McNatt. "One of the deck hands opened an engine hatch and smoke billowed out, and flames."

"The crew shot carbon dioxide on it but didn't make any headway. That's when I told them to issue lifejackets and radioed a 'Mayday.'"

Forty-eight passengers and three crewmen, including McNatt, scrambled off the stern of the burning craft into the sea—some into lifeboats—late yesterday afternoon.

All were rescued within 20 minutes by shrimp boats operating in the vicinity. They

BURNED AND SANK

The fishing vessel, valued at more than $80,000 burned to the waterline, listed and sank in 60 feet of water.

There were several women and children aboard, along with a young police victim who had both legs in casts.

How the fire started had not been determined. The Coast Guard duty officer here, D. H. Trent, said the Coast Guard's office of marine inspection in Corpus Christi would decide whether to conduct an investigation.

McNatt speculated that an electrical malfunction caused the fire. "All the instruments and gauges were normal—maybe a battery exploded," he said.

The Marlin Queen, owned by White Marlin Enterprise, was about 6½ miles off the coast after a five-hour fishing excursion. Trent said sharks had been caught in the area.

Why is Judge Burton R. Shifman first choice of the Oakland County Bar Association for Probate Judge?

Patronage Politics have no place in the Probate Court.

The Probate Court is a public trust. It deals with the life savings of all our citizens and the security of widows and orphans; the mentally ill and juveniles. It is too important to the administration of justice for its operation to be influenced by politics or patronage.

It is too important in the protection of your interests for any but a judge with long experience, maturity, courage and ability. The probate judgeship is no place for a merely "nice guy" or a popular name candidate.

It is essential that this judgeship be filled by a man of the highest legal accomplishments, completely free from political obligation. Judge Burton R. Shifman is such a man. He has been an outstanding lawyer for many years and a referee of the Probate Court for five years. He has been a distinguished judge in Oakland County for almost ten years. Through 28,022 cases every lawyer who appeared before him can testify to his fairness and devotion to justice.

Judge Shifman is pledged to protect the people of Oakland county from political patronage in the operations of the probate court.

Death Takes Ex-Pastor of Area Church

The Rev. Edwin H. DuBois, former pastor of Andersonville Community Church, Waterford Township, died yesterday after a short illness. He was 70.

A pastor for nearly 40 years, the Rev. Mr. DuBois of 3506 Coesbourn, Waterford Township, was first ordained a minister of the Methodist Church. Some 20 years ago he was ordained into the Baptist Conference in Saginaw.

The Rev. and Mrs. DuBois served as house parents at the Star Community for Boys in his early ministry.

After retiring from the ministry, the Rev. Mr. DuBois became a member of Waterford Community Church, where he attended the Adult Bible Class.

Service will be 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Waterford Community Church with burial in Ottawa Park Cemetery, Independence Township, by the Sharpe-Goyette Funeral Home, Clarkston. His body is at the family residence.

SURVIVORS

Surviving are his wife, Nydia; two sons, Edwin of Grand Rapids and George of Detroit; and five daughters, Mrs. Charles Gueth of Pontiac, Mrs. Charles Hamilton of Leonard, Mrs. Kenneth Pawley of Waterford Township, Mrs. Frank Berry of Northville and Mrs. Donald Rose in Germany.

Also surviving are 16 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Albert Landers of Ulca; and two brothers.

Jackie Celebrates Her 37th Birthday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy, 37 years old today, traveled to Newport, R.I. to celebrate the occasion with her family.

Mrs. Kennedy returned Monday from a seven-week Hawaiian vacation and sent the children, Caroline and John Jr., to stay with their grandmother, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss at the family's summer villa, Hammersmith Farm.

Janet Auchincloss, Mrs. Kennedy's half-sister, Saturday will marry Lewis Rutherford of New York in the same Roman Catholic church where Mrs. Kennedy married the late president in 1953.

The expression "to cool one's heels" started in the days when horses were the usual means of transportation. The horse's hooves would get hot on a long trip and riders would stop and pour water over the horse's heels to cool him off.

Man Pleads Guilty

Sentence Due in Assault Case

A Pontiac man will be sentenced Aug. 15 in Oakland County Circuit Court for attempted felonious assault in connection with the alleged abduction of a Waterford Township woman last winter.

Gary Rappuhn, 23, of 302 Clifford, pleaded guilty to the offense yesterday just before he was to stand trial before Judge William J. Beer on charges of kidnapping and felonious assault.

Rappuhn was remanded to the county jail to await sentence after Beer canceled his $10,000 bond.

He had been arrested early the morning of Feb. 15, when state police stopped his car for speeding on Elizabeth Lake Road near the Pontiac Mall.

$5,000 Bond Set for Flint Trio in Area Break-In Bond of $5,000 each was set yesterday for three Flint men charged by Pontiac State Police with breaking into a cleaning firm.

J. D. Jones, 21; Boles Jackson, 20; and Lewis Turner, 20, were remanded to the Oakland County Jail following their arraignment before Waterford Township Justice Patrick K. Daly.

Daly set preliminary examination for the trio for Aug. 5. The three were arrested Tuesday night after an alleged burglary attempt at Martinizing One-Hour Cleaners, 2501 Dixie, Waterford Township.

Deaths in Pontiac Area

Mrs. Frank Crandall

Service for Mrs. Frank (Garnette J.) Crandall, 38, of 61 Glenwood was to be this afternoon at Voorhes-Siple Chapel with burial in Perry Mount Park Cemetery.

Mrs. Crandall died Monday after a long illness.

Arthur Northcott

Service for Arthur A. Northcott, 84, of 335 Woodward was Monday at the Chagnon Funeral Home in Onaway with burial conducted by the Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Northcott, a former employee of M. L. Evelyn Co., died Saturday after a brief illness. He was a life member of the Masonic Lodge and the Episcopal Church.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Fred Anderson of Berkeley, Mrs. Cy Nolan and Mrs. H. L. Stephenson, both of Waterford Township and two sons, Bruce and Gerald, both of Onaway.

Also surviving are 13 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Douglas J. Blakely

LAKE ORION — Services for Douglas J. Blakely, 16-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad W. Blakely of 143 Schorn, will be tomorrow at the Beaulieu Funeral Home, Newberry. Burial will be in the Forest Home Cemetery, Newberry.

Douglas drowned Tuesday in a back yard swimming pool. Surviving besides his parents are two sisters, Carrie Lynn and Laura Lee; a brother, Richard, and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Carroll and Mrs. Walter Blakely, all of Newberry.

Mrs. Robert DeHetre

ROCHESTER — Service for Mrs. Robert (Nellie) DeHetre, 74, of 240 First will be 11 a.m. tomorrow at the William R. Potere Funeral Home. Burial will be in Mount Avon Cemetery.

Mrs. DeHetre died yesterday after a short illness. Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Mrs. Doris

Joseph T. Stadnik

WIXOM — Service for Joseph T. Stadnik, 46, of 4043 Pontiac Trail will be 3 p.m. Saturday at the Walled Lake Methodist Church. Burial will be in Wixom Cemetery by the Richardson-Bird Funeral Home, Walled Lake.

A Masonic Lodge funeral service will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow, by Lodge No. 528 F&AM.

Mr. Stadnik died yesterday after a long illness. Owner of an auto dealership in Plymouth, he was the first president of the Village of Wixom and the first mayor of the City of Wixom. He was also a member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Free Masonry and the Valley of Detroit Consistory and was master of Lodge No. 528 F&AM, and a 32nd degree Mason.

Surviving are his wife, Barbara; a son, Jeffrey at home; two sisters; and three brothers.

Stockholders OK Merger

CLEVELAND (AP) — Stockholders of Pickands Mather and Co., and the Interlake Steamship Co. voted yesterday to merge, with Pickands Mather to be the surviving name.

Pickands Mather produces iron mining products. Interlake, which will become the Interlake Steamship Division of Pickands Mather and Co., is an independent bulk cargo fleet of 20 vessels.

Under the agreement, Pickands Mather will issue for each share of Interlake common stock, nine-tenths of a share of its common stock and one share of $25 par value convertible preferred stock having a cumulative dividend of $15 a year payable quarterly.

Wilson Seeks U. S. Support

Washington-Bound to Aid Wobbly Pound

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson flies to Washington today, and high political authorities said he would seek ironclad American support for the wobbling pound sterling during the next six to nine months.

Wilson was reported confident such a breathing space would provide the time his Labor government needs for its crash program of deflation to pull Britain out of the red.

The economic crisis, its implications on Britain's role in the world and the Viet Nam war will dominate Wilson's conference with President Johnson Friday.

Wilson will give the President a detailed account of his recent Moscow talks with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin. The prime minister has claimed privately that these discussions produced a new understanding of the motivations, strains and stresses within the divided Communist world. This suggests he feels he can throw new light on the Moscow-Peking-Hanoi relationship.

A variety of other issues, ranging from the Rhodesian problem to Red Chinese intentions, also will be examined.

Train Severs Legs of Man in Saginaw

SAGINAW (UPI) — Leo Denning, 46, was in critical condition in a local hospital today after his legs were amputated by a train.

Authorities said a Chesapeake and Ohio train ran over Denning as he lay on the tracks at a downtown crossing.

A brakeman on the train, Terry Gilson, 19, Clo, said he yelled at Denning when he spotted him on the track but the man did not move or indicate that he had heard.

Federal Jury Ponders Case of Car Thefts

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A federal jury considers evidence today against Harold Belton Andrews, who testified he stole four new cars in 1965 and that three of them went to persons he believed were connected with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

An official of the SCLC denied the organization knowingly bought any stolen cars.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney O. Smith planned to charge the jury in the case of Andrews, then begin the trial of a second man indicted on federal charges in connection with interstate transportation and disposal of a stolen vehicle.

The second defendant, Morris Finley, an Atlanta printer who has done work for the SCLC, was identified in testimony yesterday as one of the persons Andrews said were recipients of stolen cars.

Andrews, a former Atlanta man who now lists his address as Moultrie, Ga., testified that he obtained cars from rental agencies in Virginia, New Jersey, Florida and Atlanta under his own name.

He said he equipped the cars with stolen license plates and prepared phony bills of sale and registrations before turning the vehicles over to Finley and a man known as Charles Mize.

Arraign Man in Shooting

A Pontiac man held for investigation of attempted murder was arraigned yesterday in Municipal Court on a reduced charge of felonious assault.

Bobbie L. Odneal, 22, of 443 Orchard Lake demanded examination on the charge at his appearance before Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

Finnegan set the hearing for Aug. 10 and released Odneal on $100 personal bond.

Odneal is charged by Pontiac police with shooting Martha Turner, 20, of 459 Orchard Lake, in the leg following a "neighborhood argument." She is in fair condition at Pontiac General Hospital.

Odneals wife, Sarah, 26, also arrested in the incident, was released by police after questioning.

All-Stars Taste Pro Grid Action

Chicago Bears Triumph, 34-20 in Practice Tilt

Back Roy Shivers
Shines for Losers;
Defense Porous

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — The College All-Stars, who meet the Green Bay Packers at Chicago's Soldier Field the night of Aug. 5, got a lesson in pro football finesse from the Chicago Bears Wednesday.

But All-Star Coach John Sauer saw some bright spots as the Bears, pulling punches a bit, subdued the collegians 34-20 in a game-type scrimmage at the Bears' St. Joseph's College training base in Bensenville, Ind.

"This is the first time we've practiced this far for any recent All-Star Game with six good running backs," said Sauer, who has succeeded Otto Graham as the All-Star boss.

"Over-all, the squad did a good job and it will be hard to pick our starting offensive and defensive units."

THREE UNITS

The All-Stars, working with three different attacking units, never really got organized against the Bears, but halfback Roy Shivers of Utah State emerged as a distinct threat to the champions of the National Football League nine days hence.

Shivers darted 70 yards from scrimmage for the last of two All-Star touchdowns.

The 200-pound speedster, who belongs to the St. Louis Cardinals, wound up with 100 yards on five carries and was a constant menace as pass receiver.

Another of the running sextet which impressed Sauer was Donny Anderson, the Packers' big money signer from Texas Tech. Anderson scored the other All-Star touchdown on a 10-yard run.

Jim Grabowski of Illinois, also a prize packer rookie; Walter Garrison of Oklahoma State; Johnny Roland of Missouri; and Mike Garrett of Southern California also had short, but fairly successful stints against the Bears.

Sauer said he couldn't choose a starter, either, from among a quarterback trio including Steve Sloan of Alabama, Bill Anderson of Tulsa and Gary Lane of Missouri.

The ball will be given to players commencing at the semi-finals.

Strike Bound

CHICAGO (AP) — The All-America Youth Bowling Championships scheduled July 29-Aug. 1 in Washington, D.C., have been postponed to Aug. 5-8 because of the airline strike, a spokesman for the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America announced Wednesday.

High school graduates from 37 states will be competing for 21 college scholarships worth $10,500.

Festival Open Starts Bleakly

Tony Lema Memorial Highlights Pro-Am

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The $25,000 Festival Open Golf Tournament starts bleakly today with the pros wearing black ribbons in memory of their colleague, Tony Lema, killed in a plane crash last Sunday.

The tourney is one of the PGA's most unusual events. During a pre-amateur affair Wednesday, which Jacky Cupit topped with a six-under-par 66 for a record on the new Speedway course, a memorial to Lema was recorded.

At noon, play was halted and taps sounded on the loud speaker system. Father Paul Reichart, Speedway chaplain, gave a brief memorial prayer.

Flags were put at half-staff for the remainder of the meet, which ends Sunday.

Billy Casper was installed the tournament favorite. He won the same title in 1963 and is on the crest of a great 1966 season after taking the National and Western Opens.

Canoe Races Slated

ALPENA (AP)—The Michigan Canoe Racing Association has scheduled three races Sunday on the Thunder Bay River near here. One will be a professional men's race, one a state championship race for junior boys and girls under 16, and the third an open amateur event.

Hope to Play in Cup Final

2 W. German Soccer Stars Hurt

LONDON (AP)—West Germany's soccer officials worked feverishly Wednesday to get two stars in shape for Saturday's World Cup final against England and had a third star cleared to play in the game.

Goalkeeper Hans Tilkowski had a sore shoulder and right back Horst Hottges nursed a damaged ankle. Team officials said they hoped to have both men fit for the final in Wembley Stadium.

Franz Beckenbauer, who was in danger of missing the match after being warned by the referee for unnecessary rough play in Monday's semifinal against Russia, got an official go-ahead.

IGNORE WARNING

The World Soccer Federation (FIFA) ignored the warning given Beckenbauer by Referee Conetto to Bello of Italy because Beckenbauer already had been warned once during the tournament and a second warning could have meant suspension for one game.

Beckenbauer and Helmut Haller are the middle pair in Germany's 4-2-4 system and the men who score the goals. Each has registered four since the tournament began.

FIFA's disciplinary committee gave no reason for allowing Beckenbauer to play. Perhaps it listened to the Germans' argument that the first warning, in the 9-0 draw with Argentina, was an error. They claimed the referee should have reported Wolfgang Overath, not Beckenbauer, but got their numbers mixed.

While the Germans trained for Saturday's final, the troubled atmosphere of the World Cup began to simmer down.

Fans used up all their superlatives in describing Tuesday night's classic semifinal in which England defeated Portugal 2-1.

Meanwhile, Portugal was favored to beat Russia in Thursday's playoff for third place.

LA Wins, but Not Sandy

Koufax Tests Aching Arm

By the Associated Press
Sandy Koufax has given his aching left arm an 11-inning acid test . . . and proved that the Los Angeles Dodgers can win without him.

The Dodgers are within a whisker of the National League lead after Koufax' longest pitching ordeal of the season but all the matchless southpaw has to show for it are two more strikeouts and a no-decision.

And Philadelphia's Jim Bunning knows just how Sandy feels.

NEED RELIEFERS

Bunning and Koufax gave way to relief pitchers after a brilliant 11-inning duel Wednesday night and the Dodgers immediately pushed over an unearned run in the 12th for a 2-1 victory that stretched their winning string to six and put them only one-half game behind first place Pittsburgh in the NL race.

The Pirates climbed back into the top spot with a 5-3 victory over San Francisco, dropping the Giants into second place.

Koufax, whose arthritic pitching arm became painfully inflamed after his last start, causing speculation that he would miss a starting turn for the first time this year — overpowered the Phillies except for a second-inning homer by Rich Allen.

He yielded only four hits and fanned 16, breaking one of his own records and moving up

Washington Giving Angels a 'Valentine'

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
All the sweet talk in the world won't help. Until they are treated more gently, the California Angels won't show any affection for Washington's Valentine.

Don Capad used a low and arrow but gave Fred Valentine a bat and the Angels to sit against and the results are just as devastating.

Valentine walloped a grand slam homer and a double Wednesday night, driving in five runs as Washington whipped California 7-5.

His slugging was hardly unexpected by the Angels. Like a persistent beat, he's been pestering them all season. Valentine, batting .278 over-all, is hitting at an amazing .521 pace against California.

The husky Senators outfielder has had 25 hits in 48 swings against the Angels this season. He has driven in 38 runs, 20 of them against California.

Tags Homer
He tagged his 10th homer run of the season in the third inning against rookie Clyde Wright following bunt singles by Ed Brinkman and Ken McMullen and a fielder's choice which loaded the bases.

In the sixth, his bloop double scored McMullen, who had singled.

Brinkman had four hits for the Senators and Barry Moore won his second major league game in as many starts.

Elsewhere, New York downed Minnesota 6-3, Chicago blanked Detroit 5-0, Baltimore defeated Cleveland 7-1 and Kansas City routed Boston 14-2.

Moore, who pitched a three-hitter in his debut last Saturday, left with a 7-3 lead after six innings. Casey Cox and Ron Kline finished up.

Joe Adcock tagged his 11th homer for the Angels and Bob Rodgers had his fifth.

Bobby Richardson and Joe Pepitone walloped two-run homers and Horace Clarke drove in two runs with a triple as the Yankees downed the Twins.

Snow Skiers Show Merits Over Water

A team representing the local National Ski Patrol unit showed its talents on water skis Sunday by dominating the Metropolitan Detroit Ski Council's annual tournament.

The National Ski Patrol provides first aid and skier control services to snow skiing resorts during the winter.

The female members of the water ski team dominated their phase of the meet. Betty Comiskey and Dorothy Steiler, Mt. Brighton resort patrolwomen, won first and third place.

Second and fourth were captured by Pine Knob patrolwomen Karen Henry and Carol Ferguson. Team coach Jim Ferguson (Pine Knob patrol) was first in the men's event.

Lee Heinbecker, also Pine Knob, took fourth place. The team took first place, dethroning the defending champion Viking Ski Club easily, and earning the privilege of being host to the tournament next summer.

Richardson and Clarke keyed New York's four-run first inning against loser Jim Kaat, 14-7, after the Twins had grabbed a quick 2-0 lead. Fred Talbot went the distance for his ninth victory, retiring 15 in a row over one stretch.

Another Blast
Frank Robinson hammered his 30th homer of the season, one of three circuits for the Orioles as Dave McNally won his 10th.

Robinson connected with two on the seventh after rookie Larry Haney and veteran Luis Aparicio had homered earlier. Del Crandall hit his fourth for the Indians.

McNally, who pitched a six-hitter, striking out eight, contributed three straight singles to the Baltimore attack.

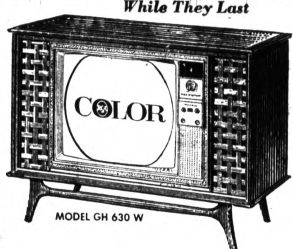

Kansas City used 13 singles and bases-empty homers by Mike Hersherberger and Jim Gosger to humble the Red Sox.

Jim Nash got credit for the victory, his fourth. Hersherberger had two singles to go with his first homer of the season as Kansas City snapped a four-game losing streak. Gosger's homer was his eighth.

TRIES GLASSES—Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder Johnny Callison, who's been having his troubles at the plate this year, tries glasses for the first time during batting practice in Dodger Stadium last night in Los Angeles. Doctors found Callison had 20-40 vision in his right eye. Earlier this week, Callison was quoted as saying he no longer wants to play for manager Gene Mauch because the skipper has criticized his play.

Golfers Lash PGA Decision

Ban on Touring Pro Unpopular Verdict

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
AKRON, Ohio (NEA) — Halfway through the golden anniversary of the PGA championship, Frank Beard philosophized that the tournaments which carry the most prestige — the Masters and the U.S. Open are the other two — have the poorest field.

It would be a lot tougher to win at Indianapolis this week than at the tough Firestone course.

Frank, a leading contender at that point, was in no way degrading the competition — merely the quantitative level. Fellows like Kermit Zarley and Homero Blancas were perfectly capable of winning, although they hadn't qualified for the PGA and weren't on the premises.

You might ask who Zarley and Blancas are. You might just as well ask who Al Geiberger is, and he won the championship or Dudley Wyson, and he finished second.

The PGA sometimes skips over players perfectly capable of winning because they don't belong to the "clubs."

There is, for instance, the explosive case of Harold Henning, Henning is the young (31) golfer from South Africa who was told during the middle of the Western Open that he no longer was considered fit company for the PGA clique. It seems that Harold didn't qualify because he didn't go to the PGA school last winter.

"Ridiculous," snorts Jack Nicklaus. "What does he have to prove? That he can play golf?"

You see, the PGA action came after Henning had won the Texas Open this year and finished second in the Dallas Open as a sample of his ability.

Why the ban on Henning? "They're selfish and greedy," fumes Nicklaus. "There are some of us who would eventually like to play tournaments all over the world. Suppose other countries did the same thing to us."

Mauch Says No

Was Callison Fined?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Was outfielder Johnny Callison fined $1,000 for publicly blaming Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies after being accused of not hustling?

"Completely erroneous," Mauch said Wednesday when asked about such a report from Philadelphia. "That's all I want to say on the matter. I don't discuss those things."

Callison could not be reached for comment on the fine.

He said earlier he was sorry about his remarks about Mauch. Over the weekend, Callison was quoted as saying:

"I don't think I can play for him. I've had enough. Mauch told me I was playing like I needed a rest — that I wasn't giving 100 per cent on the field. I'll be the first to admit I'm having a bad year, but I'm not about to stand for anyone saying I'm not trying."

OFF PACE
Callison, batting around .275 and far off his normal home run pace, subsequently visited an eye specialist and learned he has 20-30 vision in one eye and 20-40 in the other. He was fitted for glasses here and remained in his hotel room Monday night as the pennant-hopeful Phillies met the Dodgers.

On the playing field Monday, Mauch said he hadn't talked to Callison about the comment: "I'm more concerned about the condition of John's eyes than about what he said."

"I had to get on John just like I would get on any other player who I felt was not giving 100 percent. When one player is playing sloppy, it makes the others play the same way.

After his session with the eye specialist, Callison said of his "can't play for Mauch" remarks that I wish I hadn't said them now."

Tuesday night the 25 active players on the Phillies roster held a closed-door meeting before the game, excluding even the coaches and Mauch. None of the players would discuss the meeting.

Finds Target

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Rookie Wally Gabler of Royal Oak fired a 21-yard touchdown pass with two minutes left Wednesday night to give Toronto a 28-27 victory over the British Columbia Lions in a Canadian Football League exhibition game.

Bill Munsey scored three touchdowns in 16 minutes for the Lions.

Quality Counts for Local Skaters

Rolladium Skating Club members will try to make up with quality performances what they lack in numbers during the North American Roller Skating Championships.

For the first time in over a decade, Rolladium will not be among the favorites for the team trophy when the meet gets under way Sunday in Fort Worth, Tex. Competition will continue through Saturday.

Rolladium won the North American team championship 11 of 12 years. But the last two years the trophy has gone elsewhere.

Increased interest in competition skating in the Midwest during this period has cut into the local skaters' domination of the regional meet. This year Rolladium qualified 22 skaters in 27 events for the North American.

This is well under the representation in previous years.

"The Great Lakes region has the fastest growth in roller skating," said Rolladium manager Bert Anselmi. "Our skaters are just as good, and in some instances better, than in the past, but the other clubs are starting to catch up with us."

Anselmi is looking for strong performances from the senior members of the team and the speed skating qualifiers.

RATED CHANCE
"We don't have the depth to compete for team honors," he said, "but I feel that anyone coming out of our regional has a good chance of winning a North American title. We have quality skaters and if they all perform up to their capabilities we will make a creditable showing."

The manager feels that the senior pairs team of Dennis Rolla and Diane Grassi could be a sleeper.

"They will be up against the world championship team and nobody is giving them much of a chance. But they have been outstanding in practice and were exceptional in the regional and I think they could pull a surprise."

The intermediate dance teams of Paul Armstrong-Diana Bielicki and David Downing and Mary MacDonald also are rated top contenders. Horrall, Downing, Miss Grassi and Diane Schofield are given a good chance of winning the senior fours.

Miss Grassi, former North American intermediate singles titlist, is expected to make a strong bid for senior crown.

The speed team, led by Miss Bielicki and Janet Ford, defending N.A. intermediate and senior ladies champions, respectively, is Rolladium's strongest point.

These girls will team with Jerry Gohs and Rick Gross to challenge for the mixed relay crown. Bob Heath in juvenile D, and his sister, Mary, in juvenile C, are speed contenders.

John Halpin is rated a dark horse in the intermediate men's race.

The meet will officially open Saturday night with presentation of a skating show directed by Mrs. Anselmi and presentation of the contestants.

Other Rolladium skaters competing will be Alex Kane, juvenile boys' singles and juvenile C speed; Bill Richardson, novice men's figures; Kurt Anselmi and Angela Kraud, juvenile dance; Jim Bell and Carole White, senior dance; Karen Hayden, juvenile B girls' speed; Bair, junior boys' speed; and Bill Miller, senior boys' speed.

The Americans also placed seven men in the finals of the field events, which include javelin, discus, shot put and club throw. They are Robert Hawks, Brewer, Me.; Tim Harris, Rockville, Ill.; John Gray, Columbus, Ohio; Charles Fandass and Alonzo Wilkins, New York City; Hugh Smith, Upland, Calif.; and Leonard Chrysler, Los Altos, Calif.

In basketball, the U.S. beat Britain, 30-20, and Belgium, 36-30. Against Britain, the high scorer with 10 points was Denver Brannum of Detroit. Brannum and Tim Harris each scored eight points against Belgium.

Britain was second to the U.S. in gold medals with 19. Italy had 15, Israel 10 and Austria and France four each.

TIRE TALK

LESSON NO. 3

Next time someone advertises one of those $9.50 "first line, triple-safe, panther-paw" tires and lure of trying to save money becomes overpowering — pause and consider . . .

The labor cost of making a cheapie is about the same as that of a good tire. Also the distribution, overhead, freight, sales expense, advertising costs are, too, about the same.

There's really only one place to cut costs — the materials — steel, rubber, fabric.

So the $9.50 bargain basement cheapie is no bargain. You pay less and get less — less quality, less wear, less weight, less safety.

No tire man drives these 3rd and 4th line firecrackers, so Lesson No. 3 is simply to save money on tires by buying good ones — and live to spend the $ you save.

Cranbrook Steals Past Union Nine, 3-2

The magic number for making the city's baseball past season playoffs was reduced to 13 last night as Cranbrook slipped by CIO 594, 3-2, in eight innings at Jaycee Park.

Ron Murray scampered home on a wild pitch with two out to score the deciding run. He'd lead home on a walk and took third on John Colosimo's single — only the third hit off losing pitcher Steve Kendrick.

Kendrick's wildness also cost him two earlier runs. Both times he walked Tom Hummel.

49ers' Mentor Not Expecting Tardy Brodie

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — Jack Christensen, San Francisco 49ers coach, said Wednesday he didn't know any more than he did a week ago about whether holdout quarterback John Brodie would come back.

That was after Christensen, by his own admission, had "blurted out" in a reporter: "In my opinion, he (Brodie) won't show up."

The remark was not intended as a news release, Christensen explained. "I was only trying to express an opinion, strictly personal, that since John hasn't shown by now, he wasn't going to."

"Nobody ever pays much attention to coaches' opinions, particularly mine. I don't know why they should start now."

The 49er general manager, Lou Spadina, on Monday requested that all questions concerning Brodie be directed to him and not to Christensen.

A day later Christensen was asked whether Brodie would start the first exhibition game Aug. 7, and said, "No. And I don't think we have to worry about it."

Pressed for clarification Christensen said he didn't think Brodie would show. The quarterback is vacationing in Hawaii with his family.

Ailing Linebacker Out

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — Injured 49er linebacker Jack Chapple was declared out for the entire National Football League season Wednesday by Dr. Lloyd Milburn, San Francisco team physician.

Gogolak Finds Range in N.Y. Giants' Camp

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Pete Gogolak participated in his first field goal scrimmage with the New York Giants Wednesday and hit on eight of 10 attempts from between the 30 and 45-yard lines.

The Giants connected on only four of 21 field goal tries last National Football League season.

Redskins QB Is Proud of New Form

CARLEISLE, Pa. (AP) — The new, slim, trim Sonny Jurgensen is something to see. No more paunch. No more sloppy bulge around the middle.

Otto Graham, the new boss of the Washington Redskins, had a little meeting with Sonny last winter. Among other things he told Jurgensen he wanted him to report at 205 pounds instead of 225 or 230. Jurgensen came in at 195. After one workout on a steaming hot day, he was down to 188.

Graham was very pleased. "Sonny likes to live and it took a lot of dedication to get down to that weight. He hasn't been down in the 180s in 10 years. It will make him quicker and will have a good effect on the team."

Palmer Hits Record in Round for Charity

ELLCOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, posting a course record 64, paced Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus in the Annual MABC charity golf match at Turf Valley Country club Wednesday. Palmer leading off an inning and the fleet outfielder reached third base — once on two more walks and the other time on a sacrifice and Guy Bramble's single — from where he stole home twice.

Dave Fagerlie tripled home Chet Woodmore off walked, then scored on a two-out error.

The victory went to Mike Burklow, who yielded only two hits and whiffed 11 in the eight innings. He now has won seven times in ten decisions.

Cranbrook's mark is 11-7 after the win, good for third place. M. G. Collision (10-7) could tie for the spot by beating winless Evan's equipment tonight.

Canada Boots Racing Figure Back to State

DETROIT (AP)—State racing commissioner Barry Beaman said Wednesday that he would ask for a legal opinion on the status of Dominic Corrado, 36, a driver of the Hazel Park racing Association.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Leon Cohan said in Lansing he had received Beaman's request for legal assistance.

But, Cohan said, Michigan law gives the commissioner control over the personnel at the race tracks. Beaman said he plans no immediate action of his own.

Corrado was returned to Detroit Tuesday night by Canadian authorities after being arrested in Montreal on Monday. He and Anthony Giacalone were arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police as they arrived at the Montreal airport with their wives.

Canadian immigration authorities said Giacalone was escorted from the country because of his criminal record. He was convicted in 1964 on a bribery charge. Corrado, the authorities said, had to leave because he was associated with an organization unacceptable to the country.

School Bus Law in State Ruled Legal

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's 1963 school bus law is constitutional, says Ingham County Circuit Judge Sam Hughes in what one state attorney calls a "landmark decision...the first to interpret the entire (religious) section of the Michigan Constitution."

Hughes upheld the law which requires public schools to provide bus transportation on an equal basis, to nonpublic school students in their districts.

He dismissed a suit filed more than two years ago against the State Board of Education and the state treasurer by a group of Ingham County parents, who contended that the law violated the separation of church and state.

SECULAR PURPOSES

Hughes said the providing of such transportation serves a secular — not a religious — purpose: The promotion of education and the safeguarding of the physical well-being of the students.

"It seems to this court," Hughes said, "that we are sometimes so fearful of violating our constitution relative to the prohibition against our government's establishment of a religion or making some move that destroys the separation of church and state that we overlook the fact that we deny some rights to groups or individuals because of religion."

Dismissal of 2 Suits Upheld

Two Oakland County Circuit Court decisions involving a Sylvan Lake councilman have been upheld by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The court affirmed the rulings of the late Judge Stanton G. Dondoro in dismissing two suits over the eligibility of John D. McKinlay.

The complaints claimed that McKinlay didn't meet the residency qualifications when he was elected Nov. 3, 1964.

The cases were dismissed in February and April of 1965.

High water has drastically reduced the roaming areas for deer, which lack the instinctive sense to move away.

Advice From Ford, Laird

GOP Hopefuls Told to Skirt War Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two top Republicans in the House said today they are advising GOP congressional candidates against making the Viet Nam war their chief campaign issue this fall.

But both Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the House GOP leader, and Rep. Melvin R. Laird, chairman of the House GOP Conference, agreed that the war will play a major role in the congressional campaign in which all 435 House seats and 35 Senate seats will be at stake.

"I think Viet Nam is going to be a liability to any incumbent — Democrat or Republican," Ford said in an interview. He noted that Democrats hold 2-1 majorities in both House and Senate and therefore are likely to be most affected.

INFLATION

Laird said in a separate interview many of the nearly 100 GOP House candidates who came here earlier this month to

Fancy Bathtub Put in Master Bedroom

Some large homes are now featuring ceramic tiled bathtubs in the master bedroom.

Some of the bedroom tubs are exotic circular, sunken units that serve as the focal point of the room while others are conventional sized plunges that can easily be concealed.

get campaign advice wanted to emphasize Viet Nam in their campaigns. His advice, he said, was to play up domestic issues such as inflation.

"I cautioned them not to make Viet Nam their No. 1 issue," Laird said. "I told them there's only one man who decides that issue — the President. He calls the tune on it."

"He really understands the power of the presidency," Laird said of Johnson, adding that he expects the President to take some dramatic step in the war just before the Nov. 8 election.

Does Asteroid Threaten Earth?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Like the Loch Ness monster, an asteroid named Icarus keeps rearing up into the news.

Reports of a monster in Loch Ness Lake in Scotland date back to the 1200s, but no one has verified its existence.

Icarus is a newcomer, but very real. The asteroid was discovered in 1949, and is due to pass relatively close to the earth in 1968.

This has led to persistent reports that Icarus is on a collision course with the earth. The latest accounts include speculation that this country, Britain and the Soviet Union are considering the use of a nuclear rocket to prevent the alleged collision.

POSSIBLE CRASH

And Prof. Stuart Thomas Butler, Australian physics professor at Sydney University, has been quoted as saying a tiny deviation in the asteroid's orbit could result in that collision course.

But the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here, which keeps track of such things, says, "The chances are about a billion to one."

An observatory spokesman says Icarus will pass about four million miles from the earth on June 16, 1968.

Three other asteroids, Apollo, Adonis and Hermes, have come closer. Hermes came within 468,000 miles in 1937, "without any ill effect," the Smithsonian noted.

CAME CLOSE

Icarus itself made a four-million-mile pass at the earth in 1949, even before it was discovered.

Keep his Experience!

S. JEROME BRONSON Prosecuting Attorney of Oakland County has achieved unprecedented results on behalf of the people of our County. His leadership and courage in law enforcement led to the break-up of organized crime. He was responsible for exposing the phony marriage counselling racket. His understanding and concern resulted in new programs to curtail youth crime. Under his direction, our county has become a safer place to live for all of us.

Negroes Call Conference on 'Black Power'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Negro leaders say they are calling a national conference to define "black power" and specify its goals. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., and Stokely Carmichael, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, told a news conference Wednesday the meeting will be held in Washington Labor Day weekend.

Carmichael said leaders of all types of Negro organizations will be invited. Invitations also will be extended to whites, he said, "if they have any black power."

The conference will undertake the establishment of "pockets of black power," Carmichael added, and discuss "the tactics we will use."

THE SNCC chairman was asked if black power is based on nonviolence. He countered: "Can you have power without violence?"

He said that black power has been badly misrepresented in the white press and does not seek Negro supremacy. Powell also said recently that black power does not involve black supremacy or black nationalism but means that Negroes should be admitted to American society on an equal basis.

Blind Award Presented

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Henry A. Wood, retired executive secretary of the North Carolina Commission for the Blind has received the Ambrose M. Shotwell Memorial Award of the American Association of Workers for the Blind. The award was presented for Wood's long disability National Guard will train service to blind people.

Networks Sparring for Hosts to Light Up 'Tonight' Shows

By EARL WILSON
With Joey Bishop about to be lassoed by ABC to do a "Tonight" type TV show, CBS looking for a talented host to do the same, and the new network promising a nighttime show from Las Vegas while Merv Griffin keeps adding outlets, it looks like the air will soon be full of midnight mumbler.

"I'll be lousy with them," "Even louder than it is," I can imagine Johnny Carson saying. "It's his success on NBC that they're all hoping to emulate."

Joey Bishop says his deal with ABC isn't definitely closed... yet he says he has some segments in mind that would be different than Carson's... also, he'd probably originate his show from Hollywood.

Curiously, this deal for Bishop is being negotiated at a time when he's sub-hosting for Johnny Carson. And he has a handshake deal with NBC VP Dave Tebet to do 7 weeks a year sub-hosting if the ABC contract doesn't go through.

"We're very good friends," Tebet told me, "and if Joey goes with ABC, I can only wish him luck and say I'm sorry we don't have him."

Secret Stuff: Some NL restaurants estimate a 40% business drop due to the strike... A famous young actress (a bit of a rebel) lost a big movie role because the producer happened to look at her fingernails.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Roddy McDowell was one of the actors very broken up by Montgomery Clift's untimely death. Friends said that as recently as three weeks ago he was in happy spirits and looking well. The new Menasha Skulnik-Molly Picon musical, "Chu Chin," has already sold 126 theater parties.

Jolly Joe Levine's "Romeo and Juliet" (with Nureyev and Fonteyne) will have the plushiest premiere party of the fall, to be hosted by Sybil Christopher at Arthur... Watch out for a "trial" comedy: Audie Neil ("Barfotee in the Park," "Odd Couple") Simon has been tapped for jury duty... Harry Belafonte's vacation in Brazil after his tour.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "I don't think Frank Sinatra wants to be president," says Eddie ("The Odd Couple") Bracken. "Not just of one country, anyway."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Growing pains are when your children have to start paying adult prices at the movies." —Frank Gorshin.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Many people confuse experience with spending a long time learning very little." —Dublin Opinion.

EARL'S FEARS: At the Dudes 'n' Dolls they were talking about the poor rock 'n' roll singer who started at the bottom and stayed there.

Comedian Mal Lawrence at the Copa says it's a cinch to pretend you're on vacation: "Just tip everyone you see." That's earl, brother.

TAKING A CHANCE — Sunglasses may cut down road glare, but this youth and his companion wear neither helmets nor protective jackets. Doctors cite the lack of such safety equipment as a leading cause of lacerations and soft-tissue injuries received in motorcycle accidents.

Is Cycle Boom Out of Control?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a two-part series on the rapid growth of motorcycling on a sport and the accompanying rise in motorcycle accidents.)

By DAVID J. COOK
The genuinely serious public concern over automobile safety

Life Sentence for Area Teen

An 18-year-old Farmington Township youth was sentenced yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court to life imprisonment for the fatal stabbing of an elderly neighbor woman last fall.

The maximum sentence for second-degree murder was ordered by William D. Sleeper, 20819 Pearl, by Judge Philip Pratt.

The teen-ager pleaded guilty last month to killing Mrs. Ethel Van Wicklin, an 80-year-old widow who lived next door to the Sleeper home.

Sleeper was charged with first-degree murder after being arrested by Farmington Township police while he was attending funeral services for Mrs. Van Wicklin three days after the Oct. 16, 1965, slaying.

He was allowed to enter the guilty plea to the lesser offense shortly before he was to stand trial.

NO PAROLE

A first-degree murder conviction carries an automatic life sentence with no chance for parole.

A prisoner serving a life term for second-degree murder is eligible to be considered for parole after 10 years.

Mrs. Van Wicklin was stabbed more than 10 times, according to police.

this spring came nearly a half century after the automobile became commonplace on American roads.

Motorcycling on the other hand has been prominent on the traffic scene only in the last few years.

Its rapid growth is illustrated in one instance by the experience of Roy Wallace, owner of Roy's Harley-Davidson, 263 W. Montcalm.

"Five years ago, I got by with one full-time helper," Wallace said.

"Now I have three full-time mechanics, two boys who work part-time, and two fellows who work full-time in the sales office."

GROSS SALES
"Our gross sales are up about 80 per cent."

Wallace and other dealers, as well as law enforcement officials, are concerned about what direction motorcycle safety will take in response to the proliferation of cycles on the roads.

The consensus among many is that cycling in itself is not unduly hazardous — rather, it becomes dangerous when the powerful machines are misused by their drivers.

"If these guys would ride motorcycles the way they're supposed to be ridden," said Pontiac Police Lt. Clayton A. Randolph, "there would be no problem."

NOISY DECISION

"There's always some who insist, for example, on taking the mufflers off the bikes and putting on 'straight pipes'."

"Nine times out of 10, these are the ones who are cited for excessive noise and similar offenses."

Randolph's sentiments find sympathetic ears among motorcycle dealers.

"These high handlebars and 'hot pipes' are no good," said Wallace.

"And so many of the kids on bikes are simply unequipped for riding."

"This new law requiring safety helmets (effective this fall) should help some."

RENTAL AGENCY

'65 Crime Rate Topped Rise in Population

FBI Cites Increase in Suburbs and West, Juvenile Lawlessness

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a sharp increase in juvenile lawlessness, the nation's crime rate continued to rise faster than its population growth, with a 5 per cent increase in 1965.

The FBI's annual crime report said yesterday serious crimes occurred at a rate of five a minute last year, with more than 2.78 million such crimes reported.

The increase was sharpest in the suburbs — 8 per cent — and in the Western states — 10 per cent.

The 5 per cent gain in the crime rate reflected more than 14 million for every 1,000 inhabitants of the United States.

And while the rate increase fell off from the 11 per cent gain reported a year ago over 1963, the crime rate continued to outpace the population increase by almost six to one.

SINCE 1960

Since 1960, the FBI said, serious crimes have increased 46 per cent while the population has grown by 8 per cent.

The FBI figures carried a grave portent for the future of law enforcement.

Arrests of juveniles under 18 for serious crimes have increased by 47 per cent in the past five years — nearly three times the 17 per cent increase in the population of that age group.

In determining the rate of serious crimes, the FBI and reporting law enforcement agencies measure murder, rape, assault, robbery, burglary, larceny, and auto theft.

RAPE RATE

The rape rate showed the sharpest gain among crimes over 1964 with 22,740 forcible rapes, for a 9 per cent increase.

Murder, robbery, assault and burglary each increased 6 per cent, larceny of $50 or more 8 per cent, auto theft 5 per cent.

While crime in the suburbs showed the highest increase, rural crime showed the lowest with a 3 per cent gain. The crime rate rose 4 per cent in cities over 250,000 population.

Following the 10 per cent increase in the Western states, the Northeast showed an 8 per cent gain, the North Central and Southern states 4 per cent each.

COTTAGE BLAZE — Two cottages were destroyed and two others gutted by fire which broke out yesterday morning on Pine Lake. West Bloomfield Township firemen spent two hours battling the 10 a.m. blaze. All four cottages, located on the southwest corner of the lake near West Long Lake Road, were vacant and were being torn down. A fire department spokesman said no cause of the blaze has been determined.

Record Turnout Seen for County Primary

The largest voter turnout in an Oakland County primary election is forecast for Tuesday by County Clerk John D. Murphy.

Murphy said today that he anticipates at least 50 per cent of the county's 345,000 registered voters to go to the polls.

In the 1964 primary, a presidential election year, 100,163 voters cast ballots.

A 75,000 increase over that figure is expected by Murphy.

Pontiac has over 32,000 registered voters, and Waterford Township, 23,000.

A total of 8,335 votes were cast in the 1964 primary in Pontiac, while there were 7,436 in the township.

Murphy cited several reasons for his optimistic view. Chief among them is the race for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination between former Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh.

The two differ on Viet Nam, where Williams is an administration supporter and Cavanagh favors a cease-fire for elections and negotiations.

INTEREST IN BATTLE

"On the Republican side there's been a lot of interest in the south end of the county over the battle of precinct delegates," added Murphy.

"The race between Dick Kahn and Jack McDonald in the 15th District should bring out the vote on the west side of the county."

Man Is Discovered in Bloomfield Hills

A man identified as a butler at a Bloomfield Hills home drowned yesterday in a pool in his employer's back yard.

Harold H. Bross Jr., 49, was found dead in the pool about 8:30 a.m. yesterday by Walter L. McGirt, a fellow servant. The exact time of death has not been determined.

Both men live and work at the home of Jordan Stover of 3805 Lahser, Bloomfield Hills.

Bloomfield Hills police said a four-foot bench was found in the pool with the body. Apparently, they said, Bross fell into the water as he was carrying the bench near the pool.

McGirt said Bross was not a swimmer.

Chance of Showers Late Today, Friday

A few scattered thundershowers may drop in on the Pontiac area late today, and there's a chance of showers again tomorrow afternoon.

The U.S. Weather Bureau predicts temperatures will be a little cooler, lows falling to 65 to 70 tonight. Highs will reach into the low 80s tomorrow.

Partly cloudy with a chance of showers is the outlook for Saturday.

Morning northwesterly winds at 6 to 12 miles per hour will become variable at 5 to 10 miles tonight.

Seventy-two was the low reading in downtown Pontiac prior to 8 a.m. The mercury stood at 86 at 1 p.m.

7-Day Deaths Double Total of Week Before

Large Increase Stems From Aircraft Losses, Operation Hastings

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. military command announced today that American combat dead more than doubled last week from the previous week's toll.

A spokesman said 136 Americans were killed, 578 wounded and 14 missing last week compared with 65 killed, 368 wounded and no missing in the week of July 10-16.

The dead brought the number of Americans killed in Viet Nam this year to an unofficial total of 2,728 and to 4,440 since American combat involvement in the war began Jan. 1, 1961.

The largest increase in casualties stemmed in part from heavy fighting by U.S. Marines as they launched Operation Hastings against a North Vietnamese regiment near the northern border July 15.

The toll also reflected dead and wounded in a spate of aircraft losses.

Communist battle dead also rose last week but by a much smaller percentage, allied spokesmen said. They said 1,272 Communists were killed, an increase of 72.

195 TROOPS KILLED

A South Vietnamese spokesman said 195 government troops were killed and 42 were missing last week, a decline of 14 in the number of dead and an increase of three in the missing category. No report is made on government or Communist wounded.

Morse Warns of Floor Fight Over Airlines

WASHINGTON (U) — Sen. Wayne Morse, defying the administration, threatened today to bypass the Senate Labor Committee and go directly to the Senate with his bill for legislation to end the three-week airline strike.

The Oregon Democrat said he will take that course if the committee does not approve his bill for a six-month back-to-work order.

"If it doesn't pass here it will be taken to the floor of the Senate," Morse told a reporter moments before the committee closed its doors to consider legislation to deal with the walkout.

The session began just after 9 a.m. EST, starting time for the resumption of bargaining between airlines and machinists union negotiators at the Labor Department.

The talks had been in recess for 48 hours since Congress moved in on the dispute.

Morse said he saw little chance of success in those sessions.

First to Escape From N. Viets

How Pilot Was Rescued

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Lt. (jg.) Dieter Dengler fled excitedly with the host as the big green helicopter hovered 150 feet overhead in a remote valley in North Viet Nam during the final moments of his ordeal.

Exhausted, hungry, blistered on his feet, the Navy pilot from Pacifica, Calif., was hauled aboard the rescue ship after a 23-day trek through the jungle wilderness and flown to a U.S. military hospital in Da Nang.

Some six months after his plane had plunged into enemy territory, Dengler, 28, became the first American to escape from the North Vietnamese.

For security reasons, the U.S. military command kept details of the escape secret but let his rescuers tell today how they snatched him from North Viet Nam on July 20.

Air Force Lt. Col. Eugene P. Dietrich of Morgantown, W.Va., spotted the German-born flier on a reconnaissance mission just north of the 17th Parallel frontier as his A1 Skyraider swept over a deep valley crossed by a stream.

"I passed over a bed of rocks across the stream and saw someone waving a white flag at me," said Dietrich, commander of the 1st Air Command Squadron at Pleiku. "I went by so quickly I wasn't sure what it was. Perhaps a villager waving as we went by."

City Youth Is Slain; Suspect Being Held

An 18-year-old Pontiac youth was fatally shot in the neck last night, reportedly as he argued with another man on the city's South Side.

Donald A. McGhee, 165 Crestwood was dead on arrival at Pontiac General Hospital just before 10 p.m. Pontiac police said he was

"There was always wariness, of course, of being trapped into something," Deatrick said. "However, I was firmly convinced that the man was friendly, even though I could not identify the person on the ground from what he was wearing."

"It was a dense area, so remote from everything and the possibility of ever seeing anything—this was one in a million."

Another flight of planes came in to fly over while the crew of an Air Force "Jolly Green Giant" helicopter scrambled into action.

"At about 11:15 a.m. we got our first call for this mission and by about 11:20 we were in the area," Deatrick said. "I saw a man in a flight suit, William E. Cowell of Oahu, Hawaii, the helicopter commander."

PULL HIM OUT The big chopper made one pass over Dangler, then went into action to pull him out of the jungle. By noon, the helicopter man had him on board.

Airman I.C. Mike Leonard of Fowler, Iowa, a parascue man, described the actual rescue:

"The hoist operator let the cable out. He must have used about 150 feet—maybe 175 feet—of cable."

"He put it down on the ground. The survivor (Dangler) got in it. It took him a couple of seconds to figure out how it operated. He was a little excited and glad to be there, and he just had a little problem."

tal agency which generally deals in smaller bikes.

The going rate for renting a motorcycle with a small engine (100 cc piston displacement) is $6 an hour or $25 a day.

The fee includes public liability and property damage insurance. All that is needed besides money is a driver's license.

ACCIDENTS Accident figures indicate that rented motorcycles figure prominently in injuries.

ACCIDENT STUDY Of 35 motorcycle accidents investigated this month by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies, five involved rented bikes.

"I think rentals are a very poor thing," Wallace commented.

"Kids get on a bike in which they have no money invested, they're out for a good time, and as a consequence they don't care how they ride."

Andy Anderson of Anderson Sales & Service, 1645 S. Telegraph, insists on the instruction with each motorcycle sold.

LEATHER JACKETS

He decries "this thing people have about leather jackets."

"Anyone who's been on a cycle knows the protection given to the arms and body by a leather jacket," he said.

"I just think it's too bad that the jacket has been given such an unfavorable image, because it's nothing more than a sensible piece of safety equipment."

Donald Wilson, owner of K & W Cycle Sales, 7615 Highland, Waterford Township, said he's "love to see protective jackets mandatory."

SHARE LOAD "Also," he commented, "automobile drivers must share some of the responsibility for motorcycle safety."

"Some of them assume that a two-wheeled cycle is capable of performing gymnastics they don't give a bike driver an inch in traffic."

"Most of the people I sell to are sensible drivers. But it seems we all have to fight the image of the 'bad boy' who's out to show the world what he can do on a motorcycle."

Wilson's contention about automobile drivers is partly borne out by examination of the eight motorcycle deaths in Oakland County this year.

VEHICLES HIT

In at least four of these accidents, motorcycles collided with trucks or automobiles.

In a fifth, the most recent, a 21-year-old youth was killed when he was reportedly forced off the road by a car.

"You've got to keep your head on a swivel—drive defensively," declared Anderson.

"I've ridden motorcycles for the better part of 21 years and never had a collision."

ALL CONCERNED Safe driving of motorcycles is a subject of everyday concern to dealers, according to Wallace.

"I think almost every motorcycle dealer in the city would be interested in some kind of organized program of safety instruction," he said.

NATO Weighs Feelers to East

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atlantic allies are weighing proposals for initiatives to improve relations with the Communist East.

One suggestion — for a broad declaration of principles within which specific East-West accommodations could be worked out — is reported to have been submitted by the British for discussion in the North Atlantic Council.

In addition to the British paper, other allied representatives were said to have expressed varying views orally during past deliberations of the council, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's political body.

But there appears to be a widespread feeling that under the impact of the Viet Nam war, Moscow is hardening its position against the West. This tends to reduce Western urgency for initiatives which, at this time, would seem likely to meet a Kremlin rebuff.

BASIC REVIEW In Washington, a basic U.S. governmental review of European policy is under way, but informants said no conclusions have been reached yet.

The search for ways to trim East-West tensions over Europe was ordered by the NATO ministers at their Brussels meeting last month. The ambassadors at the North Atlantic Council were told to prepare for the ministers a "report which should deal with all possible initiatives in their field."

The British proposal was said to envision a generalized statement of principles to which the NATO nations, and perhaps the East European Communist countries, too, could subscribe. The declaration would set forth common aims such as:

- Desire for limited East-West agreements in areas of common interest pending a broader settlement.
- More contacts between East and West.
- Renunciation of use of force in settling disputes.
- Disarmament.
- Cooperation in aiding underdeveloped countries.

The Atlantic allies were said to be in agreement that NATO, as an organization, would not be a practical channel for negotiating with the Reds. Each member would remain free to conduct his policy toward the East.

Yesterday, the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Commission recommended that a ½-mill proposition covering a five-year period be placed on the ballot.

THE Ways and Means Committee is expected to decide whether to submit the resolution to the Board of Supervisors during a joint meeting with the parks and recreation commission at 10 a.m. next Tuesday.

Next meeting of the Board of Supervisors is scheduled Aug. 17.

According to Kenneth Van Natta, director of parks and recreation, the millage would provide about $672,267 a year or about 85 cents from each of the county's 800,000 residents.

FEDERAL FUNDS Federal funds under the open space and land and waterfront acts, as well as state monies are available, according to Van Natta.

Presently, the only park maintained by the county is the Davisburg County Park in Springfield Township.

Rapid population growth and land development is forcing the county to move quickly to acquire all of its long-range recreation land needs, said Van Natta.

The first part of the proposed program would be devoted to purchase of land. However, no specific properties were mentioned.

emergency absentee ballot the day of the election for persons who become suddenly ill and cannot make it to the polls.

The emergency ballot, available until 10 p.m., can be picked up by a friend or relative as long as he has a note signed by the person requesting it.

With four exceptions, all of Oakland County's 385 precincts will use voting machines.

Paper ballots will be used in two precincts in Brandon Township, one in Groveland Township, and one in the City of Orchard Lake Village.

The number of precincts in the county has increased by 34 over the 351 in the last election.

Police Break Up Rock Fight by Negroes, Whites broke up a rock-throwing disturbance Wednesday night involving Negro and white youths and some adults.

About 100 persons were involved, said Police Chief Rod Weinberg. No one was injured.

Weinberg said teen-aged girls in the car apparently started it by shouting at Negro youths visiting in the downtown Globe from a federal Job Corps camp at San Carlos.

There was no fighting, but rocks and other articles were thrown, police said.

Bloomfield Hills Board and Teachers in Accord

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Final agreement has been reached between representatives of the Bloomfield Hills Education Association and the board of education on a teacher contract for the coming school year.

George E. Cavin, head of the teacher negotiating team, said that all that remains now is for the board and members of the association to ratify the contract.

He expected this to be accomplished within a week.

The two sides reached an accord on the remaining issues of release time for teachers for negotiations for next year, hospitalization insurance and arbitration procedures.

BIRMINGHAM — Oakland County Youth for Griffin will sponsor a car wash Saturday behind the Oakland County Republican Headquarters.

The project will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The headquarters are located at 2455 Woodward, approximately one block south of the Maple-Woodward intersection.

Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt Says:

Ponder Health in Picking Vacation Site

Most persons remain as well while traveling as when they are at home, but even a minor illness can take all the fun out of your vacation.

For that reason it is a good idea to have a physical check-up, including a dental examination, before you start your trip.

Some thought should also be given to your wardrobe. In hot humid areas your clothing should be light in weight and color, loose in fit and preferably linen or cotton.

For high altitudes you must be prepared for warm days and cold nights.

For cold countries provide yourself with woolen night wear including a sleeping cap and bed socks.

For any country it is wise to have a raincoat and a jacket or sweater.

Take shoes that are well broken in. If you wear glasses carry not only an extra pair but also your prescription.

Wherever you go, you must eat. In most countries pasteurized milk is safe but to be on the safe side you should use only boiled milk.

(Write for Newspaper Enterprise Association)

BRANDSTADT If you plan to leave the country, ask your doctor about the vaccinations you will need.

The United States Public Health Service recommends vaccination against typhoid, tetanus, poliomyelitis and diphtheria for everyone.

This is in addition to a small-pox vaccination which must have been done within three years of your latest return to the United States and validated with the official stamp of your local or state health department.

FACE DETENTION

Failure to comply with this regulation may mean detention for up to 14 days.

If you are returning from a country where cholera, yellow fever, typhus or plague are prevalent, you must also have valid proof of vaccination against these diseases.

When planning your trip it is well to consider the effect on your health of the area you expect to visit.

If you have hay fever you will find a welcome absence of ragweed in Europe, Bermuda and the Virgin Islands.

If you have asthma or other respiratory diseases a warm, stable climate is recommended.

COLD CLIMATE

If you have a gastrointestinal disease or an easily upset digestive tract, your best bet is a cold climate.

If you have a heart disease, high blood pressure or a circulatory disorder, you should avoid high altitudes.

Young Homemakers

They Share Similar Lives

By JANET ODELL

Pontiac Press Women's Editor

The Simmons girls are a pair of young homemakers who should be written about in one story because they are so closely related — in action as well as in family.

Twenty-one-year-old Janice Mitchell Simmons has lived in Pontiac all her life. A graduate of Pontiac Central High School and the Ann Arbor School of Practical Nursing, she has been married nearly 18 months.

Her husband, Paul, is employed at Pontiac Motor Division.

Janice has just returned to her job at Pontiac General Hospital after a maternity leave. Paul Anthony is two and a half months old.

Sandra (that's short for Cassandra) is 20 and Janice's sister-in-law. Her husband, David, is a supervisor at the Office of Economic Opportunity. Sandra is a service representative at Michigan Bell Telephone Company in Southfield.

Sandra and David met in France while he was in the Army and she was attending high school. Her father worked for the US government in Europe and Sandra graduated from high school there. They have been married 15 months.

The two couples live across the street from one another on Filwood Street.

CONSTANT COMPANIONS

The girls are in and out of each other's homes all the time. They help each other with common household problems. They shop together. Sandra babysits with Paul occasionally.

Janice has an advantage over

Sandra; she did a lot of cooking while she was going to high school. Her mother worked and there were five other children.

"I used to be angry about having to cook, but it really helped," Janice says now.

Sandra is feeling her way in the kitchen. She likes to cook when she has plenty of time, but she hates to come home late and "start from scratch." Janice who has a big freezer, cooks and freezes on her day off.

ORGANIZING CLUB

Because they feel the need of companionship with other girls, the two are organizing a club for young married women.

They do not have much in common with older homemakers although they are quick to say that their neighbors have been helpful.

And like our first young homemaker, Patricia Loviska, they commented that they and their single friends have little in common.

Although Janice had only one year beyond high school, she is convinced of the necessity for more education. She had the grades to go to college for an RN degree, but was too anxious to get married, she says.

She is encouraging her sisters and brothers to get their education first. She might get that RN title someday.

Both Sandra and her husband intend to go back to school; he will work on his master's degree and she wants a teaching certificate.

"What would you say to a girl of 13 who wants to quit school and get married?" we asked.

"Forget it," they both chorused.

MARRIAGE IS MORE

"When you're that age, says Sandra, "you think that all there is to marriage is sitting around, kissing or eating. But it's more than that. It's cooking, cleaning, working and understanding each other. You can't walk out."

Janice is delighted with her small son, thinks that by having your children young, you can enjoy life more.

"You have to keep up with the kids and have to stay young."

Both couples have learned something about managing money.

Janice said she used to splurge on clothes; then she had to stop work because of her pregnancy. But the bills still had to be paid.

Now she's willing to slow down and take time to get the things she and her husband want.

"You learn!"

Sandra says they went head over heels in debt because she thought she had to have everything right away. She and David didn't have a big wedding like Janice and Paul and didn't get as many household items for wedding presents.

SAVING MONEY

But they're on an even keel now and saving too. Both couples would like to build a house someday.

Meanwhile in their small, but immaculate homes, both of the girls are doing a capable job. Their mothers can be proud of them. Their husbands certainly are.

Women's Wear Daily Hits Back at White House Ban

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women's Wear Daily, which was banned from Luci Johnson's wedding for publishing an unauthorized description of her bridesmaids' gowns, published a front page sketch Wednesday of "The Dress."

Susan Rogers, the newspaper's Boston correspondent, reported she came across Miss Johnson's bridal gown "in an old Boston cupboard," apparently a reference to Priscilla of Boston, the fashion firm reported to have designed the bridal and bridesmaid gowns for the Aug. 6 wedding.

TONGUE IN CHEEK

Noting that the White House hasn't yet provided the press with an official sketch of Miss Johnson's gown, Miss Rogers wrote that it is "in keeping with Luci Baines Johnson's idea of a dress to hand down to her grandchildren... a traditional white lace with long sleeves, a high neckline, a little bow to mark the natural waistline, and a face-framing mantilla ending in a sweeping train.

"No great fashion significance — just a simple dress for a simple wedding" for a bride who just happens to be the president's daughter."

Women's Wear Daily, which has a policy of not accepting embargoed news material, did not accept an invitation to attend an off-the-record White House news conference July 13 at which a description of the bridesmaids' gowns was provided. The description carried a July 17 release date.

On July 14, Women's Wear Daily published a sketch and description, which was not entirely accurate, of the bridesmaid's gown together with a sketch of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's ensemble. Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, the first lady's press secretary, announced that the publication would be excluded from working press area credentials for wedding coverage.

How Do You Rate on This Picnic Test?

By ELIZABETH L. POST

We're coming to the height of the picnic season and I have used the subjects of some of the questions I've received to make up a quiz.

Take a moment to check your picnic manners.

• When planning a picnic or barbecue, you must include your guests' children. True—False

• You must have at least one hot dish at a picnic for adults. True—False

• When organizing a beach party, it is permissible to ask each couple to contribute one dish. True—False

• It is safe to assume that every one loves a picnic. True—False. Don't peek. Here are the answers:

• False. If you happen to have children the same age as those of your guests, you may wish to make it a family affair, but you certainly need not ask the youngsters if you want to have an adult party.

• False. On hot nights a picnic of assorted cold cuts, salads, sandwiches, or many other cold dishes are much preferred to a hot meal.

• True. But make it clear which dish each member of the group is bringing or you'll have four salads and no bread!

• False. I personally know at least three people who hate picnics.

Details concerning the announcing and christening of a baby are described in the booklet, "The New Baby," to get a copy, send ten cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Elizabeth L. Post in care of The Pontiac Press.

Townships' Primary Candidates Are Listed

Candidates for local offices in 21 area townships are all poised and waiting for the primary election Tuesday which will determine who will appear on the Nov. 8 general election ballot.

Two year terms will be sought by township supervisors, clerks, treasurers and constables. Trustees will run for four-year terms.

Primary elections will be held in all townships even though there is no opposition for some offices.

Congressional, state legislative and county circuit and probate judge candidates are to be nominated in all areas.

Following is a list of candidates whose names will appear on Tuesday's ballot:

Addison

Supervisor — Jane T. Westphal, 1301 Rochester, (R); Robert C. Inwood, 2500 Frick (R); and Billy VanArsdale, 975 Rochester (R).

Power Failure

Blacks Out Area in Birmingham

A power failure early this morning blacked out a portion of downtown Birmingham for about an hour.

An area bounded by Townsend, Lincoln, Hunter and Southfield was without power from 1:30 to 2:40 a.m. because of an underground cable failure, according to a Detroit Edison Co. spokesman.

Included in the affected area was the Birmingham police station which had to use emergency power during the blackout.

Band Concert Set

TROY — The Recreation Department's advanced band will hold its final concert of the summer Sunday.

It will be held at 3 p.m. in front of Troy High School.

1 Mill Asked in Highland

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP — Voters here will be asked Tuesday to approve a 1-mill levy for 10 years for support and maintenance of the township library.

Mrs. Norman Green, township clerk, said the millage would raise an estimated $14,000 in new revenues.

She said the rapid growth of the township has necessitated the hiring of a full-time librarian and an assistant, adding to the operating costs of the facility.

Groveland

Supervisor — Earl B. Rhinevaux, incumbent (R); Donald J. Carter, 1831 Bird, Orionville (D).

Clerk — Donald Tittsworth, incumbent (R).

Clerk — Floyd A. Cairns, incumbent (R); Elizabeth B. 2922 Utley (R); Elizabeth O'Connor, 31078 Berryhill (D).

Treasurer — Elise P. Avery, incumbent (R); Mattie M. Strasser, 3427 Cotswold (R); Nyla Archer, 33875 Quaker Valley (R); Joyce T. Hungerford, 22221 Cass (D).

Trustees — Thomas R. Nolan, incumbent (R); Thomas Williams, 26538 Badalamenti (R); Conrad Braxeth, 21217 Walden (R); Samuel H. Rubiner, 2753 Fairway Hills (R); Arthur S. Bassette, incumbent (R); Harold E. Shippe, 35708 Westmoreland (D); Harris Berger, 36224 Paddford (D). (Two to be elected).

Constable — Hugh Owen, incumbent (R); Hessel G. Reaume, 26217 Killoran (R); Billy Hicks, 28700 Bartlett (R); Robert F. Green, 26530 Rosehill (R). (Four to be elected).

Township Party Committee — Norman Peterson, 21751 Randall (D); Marie Hutschell, 25330

Dura Corp. of Oak Park, which manufactures electronic equipment, plans to build a five-building complex on the site.

The board approved the rezoning two weeks ago subject to the approval of the Oakland County Coordinating, Zoning and Planning Committee. The Committee subsequently approved the action.

Township Supervisor Cyril E. Miller said the board could vote to rescind its action but that he, personally, would not be in favor of doing so.

West Bloomfield Picks Supervisor

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The township board has named Duane K. Sanford to serve out the unexpired term of Township Supervisor John C. Rehard, who recently resigned.

Sanford, 32, of 5535 Wild Ridge Lane, will hold the post at least until the November general election.

High L. Freeman of 3253 N. Elder, a Democrat, and Sanford, a Republican, are candidates for the post in the Aug. 3 primary.

School Bus Law in State Ruled Legal

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's 1963 school bus law is constitutional, says Ingham County Circuit Judge S. M. Hughes in what one state attorney calls a "landmark decision....the first to interpret the entire (religion) section of the Michigan Constitution."

Hughes upheld the law which requires public schools to provide bus transportation on an equal basis, to nonpublic school students in their districts.

He dismissed a suit filed more than two years ago against the State Board of Education and the state treasurer by a group of Ingham County parents, who contended that the law violated the separation of church and state.

SECULAR PURPOSES

Hughes said the providing of such transportation serves a secular — not a religious — purpose: The promotion of education and the safeguarding of the physical well-being of the students.

"It seems to this court," Hughes said, "that we are sometimes so fearful of violating our constitution relative to the prohibition against our government's establishment of a religion or making some move that destroys the separation of church and state that we overlook the fact that we deny some rights to groups or individuals because of religion."

Dismissal of 2 Suits Upheld

Two Oakland County Circuit Court decisions involving a Sylvan Lake councilman have been upheld by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The court affirmed the rulings of the late Judge Stanton G. Dondoro in dismissing two suits over the eligibility of John D. McKinlay.

The complainants claimed that McKinlay didn't meet the residency qualifications when he was elected Nov. 3, 1964.

The cases were dismissed in February and April of 1965.

Advice From Ford, Laird

GOP Hopefuls Told to Skirt War Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two top Republicans in the House said today they are advising GOP congressional candidates against making the Viet Nam war their chief campaign issue this fall.

But both Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the House GOP leader, and Rep. Melvin R. Laird, chairman of the House GOP Conference, agreed that the war will play a major role in the congressional campaign in which all 435 House seats and 35 Senate seats will be at stake.

"I think Viet Nam is going to be a liability to any incumbent — Democrat or Republican," Ford said in an interview. He noted that Democrats hold 21 majorities in both House and Senate and therefore are likely to be most affected.

"INFLATION"

Laird said in a separate interview many of the nearly 100 GOP House candidates who came here earlier this month to get campaign advice wanted to emphasize Viet Nam in their Fancy Bathtub Put in Master Bedroom

Some large homes are now featuring ceramic tiled bathtubs in the master bedroom. Some of the bedroom tubs are exotic circular, sunken units that serve as the focal point of the room while others are conventional sized plunges that can easily be concealed.

campaigns. His advice, he said, was to play up domestic issues such as inflation.

"I cautioned them not to make Viet Nam their No. 1 issue," Laird said. "I told them there's only one man who decides that issue — the President. He calls the tune on it." "He really understands the power of the presidency," Laird said of Johnson, adding that he expects the President to take some dramatic step in the war just before the Nov. 8 election.

Does Asteroid Threaten Earth?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Like the Loch Ness monster, an asteroid named Icarus keeps rearing up into the news.

Reports of a monster in Loch Ness Lake in Scotland date back to the 1200s, but no one has verified its existence.

Icarus is a newcomer, but very real. The asteroid was discovered in 1949, and is due to pass relatively close to the earth in 1980.

This has led to persistent reports that Icarus is on a collision course with the earth. The latest accounts include speculation that this country, Britain and the Soviet Union are considering the use of a nuclear rocket to prevent the alleged collision.

POSSIBLE CRASH

And Prof. Stuart Thomas Butler, Australian physics professor at Sydney University, has been quoted as saying a tiny deviation in the asteroid's orbit could result in that collision course.

But the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here, which keeps track of such things, says, "The chances are about a billion to one."

An observatory spokesman says Icarus will pass about four million miles from the earth on June 16, 1968.

Three other asteroids, Apollo, Adonis and Hermes, have come closer. Hermes came within 485,000 miles in 1937, "without any ill effect," the Smithsonian noted.

CAME CLOSE

Icarus itself made a four-million-mile pass at the earth in 1949, even before it was discovered.

Boeing was a point. Fractional losses were taken by American Can, Homestake and Montgomery Ward.

Motors showed sharp gains. Ford was a fractional gainer. Small gains were posted for Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Alameda, Kennecott, General Electric, Raytheon, Sperry Rand and General Dynamics.

World Sales a Ford Record

Profits Down in First Six Months of Year

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. Wednesday reported new highs in worldwide sales of cars and trucks.

Like General Motors Corp., however, Ford said its profits were down in the first six months of this year compared with the same period in 1965.

Chrysler Corp., third of the auto makers to report, was scheduled to make its six months figures public today.

American Motors Corp., whose fiscal year ends Sept. 30, will report quarterly figures next Monday.

Ford said its "decline in profits was due primarily to increased costs of labor, materials and other factors associated with a facility expansion programs and higher product and marketing costs."

GM gave almost identical reasons for its profit drop Tuesday. In the January to June period this year, Ford reported net income of $427.1 million or $3.86 a share. That compared with $438.1 million or $3.95 a share in the first six months of 1965.

For the first six months of 1966, Ford reported sales of $5.513 billion, up nine per cent from last year's first six months sales of $5.098 billion.

For the second quarter, sales of $2.1 billion were eight per cent higher than the $2.05 billion in April, May and June of 1965.

Profits for the three-month period this year were $216.9 million or $1.97 a share compared with $227.3 million or $2.14 a share in the second quarter of 1965.

BIGGEST IN HISTORY

Unit sales count in the second quarter of 1966 came to 1,285,847 cars, trucks and tractors, the biggest worldwide quarterly sales in Ford history. The previous high was the 1,266,078 units in the second three months of last year.

Ford sold 2,534,038 units in the half year just ended, compared with 2,458,901 in the first half of 1965.

U.S. car sales in the second quarter of 1966 and first six months of this year ran behind the 1965 figures.

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK—Rising interest rates in Europe are a stumbling block for those who are clamoring to cut interest rates in the United States.

Europe gets into the domestic debate this way: Europe's higher rates could attract more U.S. dollars, seeking DAWSON higher yields. Lowering interest rates here on short-term money could send this pool of money, rarely idle dollars—usually called "hot money"—overseas.

And this would make it just that much harder for the United States to see that the dollar doesn't fall into the dire straits that beset the British pound.

The guardians of the dollar's status as being as good as gold are having plenty of trouble now, even with the interest rates at home still on the climb.

boosted by a flight of dollars seeking higher interest yields overseas.

There are a lot of dollars over there now, called Eurodollars, with the total estimated as high as $8 billion. These are in private rather than foreign government hands, and were built up in the years that the higher money market has run a payments deficit.

Eurodollars are used to finance many private deals, including plant expansion overseas. The interest rates at which they can be borrowed swings widely, reflecting the ease or tightness of the international money market.

Higher interest rates here has brought some dollars home, along with some foreign money deposits and investments. But the recent upturn in European interest rates is halting that trend.

At home the debate over interest rates divides like this: Seeking easier money and congressional curbs on interest rates are those alarmed at the sharp rise in the cost of new mortgages for homes, at the higher monthly payments for the purchase of a car, at the increasing cost of financing business expansion, at higher rates on commercial borrowing to build new schools.

But tight money advocates see high interest rates as needed to halt inflation and rising living costs, to prevent overheating of a booming economy with a burst as the aftermath, a means of holding down the U.S. balance of payments deficits and thus protecting the standing of the dollar.

In the early 1960s, U.S. money managers pushed short-term interest rates higher to stop the outflow of dollars seeking higher yields abroad, but at the same time managed to keep long-term interest rates low to get the economy rolling.

DECEMBER CHANGE

All this changed last December. Since then the money managers have been letting interest rates slide along the line to halt inflation.

This has made U.S. money markets almost as attractive as European. But now European interest rates are pushing higher than American rates, much higher in Britain, for example.

Curbs on the outflow—such as a tax on the buying by Americans of foreign securities from foreign sources—have been letting interest rates rise all along the line to halt inflation.

That is why the debate over the domestic issue of putting congressional ceilings on interest rates here can have overtones of international finance, and of the fight over the dollar sound despite the balance of payments deficits.
