State Draft Boss Assails Advisers of Protest

By JIM LONG

Leveling strong criticism at individuals and church leaders counseling young men to resist the draft, the state director of Selective Service said yesterday he will continue to "fight those who are against the loyal people of the United States."

★ ★ ★

Col. Arthur A. Holmes, speaking before the Pontiac Rotary Club, said that to date Michigan has been fortunate in not experiencing full-scale antidraft demonstrations like those that have occurred in other parts of the country.

"But we cannot sit back," warned Holmes, the state Selective Service director since 1952.

While noting that one of the first antidraft campaigns in the nation was squelched in Ann Arbor in 1965 with arrest of several demonstrators, Holmes pointed out, however, similar movements have gained momentum in recent months.

Reading from a Detroit police report, Holmes said meetings were held in October and December, one in the sanctuary of an Episcopal church, to lay groundwork for organized opposition to the draft.

At the December meeting, Holmes quoted the police report as saying a proposal was made to get Negroes involved in the movement so college students wouldn't lose their deferments.

"Let me say here, however," said Holmes, "that as long as I've held this job I have never been pickeled by a Negro."

Of the 50 to 60 draft cards that have been turned into his office, only one has been from a student who had received a college deferment, said Holmes. The others were deferred for various other reasons.

★ ★ ★

Holmes said he believed there isn't a Selective Service administrator in the country who likes the draft.

SOME OTHER WAY?

"I think the draft should be done away with if we could find some other way that this country could survive," Holmes added.

"And until we do, I will continue to seek the reasons why these conditions (of resistance) must exist in this country."

Holmes said the great majority of the people are "sound, patriotic and willing to do whatever is necessary to maintain the freedoms for which our ancestors have fought, and for which we know we must always be prepared to fight."

★ ★ ★

The communications media, though, have made it possible for the "noisy few to dominate the attention of many," Holmes said.

IRRESPONSIBILITY GROWS

Events, over a period of years he said, have added to irresponsibility of citizens.

"The few have claimed the right to fail to obey our laws and have sought refuge by strained interpretations of our federal Constitution," added Holmes.

Bank Bandits Slay Trenton Policeman

FROM OUR NEWS WIRES

TRENTON — A police officer was shot and killed today after robbery of a branch of the Trenton State Bank, and two men were arrested — one after a high speed chase and the other on foot.

★ ★ ★

The victim was identified as Patrolman Robert Perry, reportedly slain after he spotted the fleeing robbers and gave chase.

One suspect, driving a police car stolen from Perry, was captured by Detroit police after the vehicle rammed into another auto in a road block on the Rouge River Bridge of I-75 about 10 miles from the shooting.

Trenton Police Inspector Paul DuChane said the second suspect was apprehended on foot in the Woodhaven Ford Stamping plant near the scene of the slaying.

★ ★ ★

Perry was a veteran of six years on the Trenton police force. He was married.

APPREHENDED FIRST

The two suspects were first apprehended when Perry and a fellow policeman stopped a car speeding away from the branch bank.

The suspects were ordered out of the car, and one came out shooting, police said. Perry was killed, one of the suspects jumped into the squad car and sped away. The other tried to flee on foot.

Perry's companion ran down the suspect in the Woodhaven parking lot.

★ ★ ★

The branch bank, located in a trailer, was empty of customers when the two robbers entered.

KNIFE AT HIS THROAT

John Cutler, the bank manager, said one of the men grabbed him from behind and held a knife at his throat.

★ ★ ★

Cutler and two women tellers were herded into a bathroom while the robbers sacked cash drawers, he said.

No estimate of the loot was made.

Lindsay Rejects Bid to End NY Rubbish Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay rejected early today the recommendations of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's special panel for ending the 8-day-old sanitation men's strike.

★ ★ ★

Hours later, Rockefeller turned down Lindsay's renewed call for National Guard help in removing the tons of festering garbage.

The striking sanitation union had agreed to the special panel's offer of a $425 annual pay increase, only $25 above a state mediator's proposal made before the strike. The city had also rejected the $400 settlement offer.

Asked if he thought the Guard would be called out, Rockefeller replied: "No, I honestly don't."

★ ★ ★

The governor said he was "very hopeful" that Lindsay would change his mind about the formula offered by the special mediators.

VOTE FOR SETTLEMENT

Shop stewards for the strikers voted unanimously to accept the recommended settlement, which would have raised their pay $425 a year retroactive to July 1.

Grim and haggard at a predawn news conference, Lindsay declared: "I said yesterday the city would not pay blackmail in order to conclude this strike. The proposed settlement, in my view, asks the city to pay a little blackmail."

Lindsay was known to have felt that a strong stand might help bring an end to the rash of illegal civil employe strikes that have marked his administration. It was apparent he was disappointed in not getting firmer support from Rockefeller, a Republican like himself.

★ ★ ★

Garbage was piling up in the city's 6,000 miles of streets at the rate of 10,000 tons a day. Fire engines began regular patrols of the streets, and vacant lots were used as public burning sites.

POOR SUFFER MOST

The poorer neighborhoods, lined with tenements which lack incinerators, suffered most. Residents stacked garbage along the curbs in piles that overflowed into the streets.

Wind scattered paper, baring the rotting residue of dinner tables.

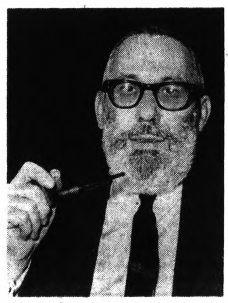
JAMES M. McNEELY



CARL F. INGRAHAM

Two Antipoverty Leaders Resign Posts in County

Two major figures in the Oakland County war on poverty have announced their resignations.

★ ★ ★

Leaving as executive director of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO) is James M. McNeely. Not seeking reelection as OCCEO Chairman is Carl F. Ingraham, lawyer and Birmingham city commissioner.

McNeely, 37, of 463 W. Iroquois has held the top salaried position ($18,000 per year) for the county agency since its inception in 1965. Sources have indicated he will seek the position as deputy chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee.

He is expected to be named assistant to State Sen. Sander Levin, D-15th District, chairman of the committee. However, confirmation of his appointment had not been affirmed.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Levin, contacted at his Lansing office today, said McNeely was "one" of the persons being considered for the post. He said he could not confirm the appointment at this time, but late next week something definite could be expected.

★ ★ ★

If he joined Sen. Levin, McNeely would be resuming a former relationship. When Levin of Berkley, was county Democratic chairman prior to 1965, McNeely was his deputy chairman.

NO CRITICISM

McNeely had no criticism of the program in his resignation, which is to take effect Feb. 23. He did, however, say that in his opinion the level of funding was too low.

The agency has been existing on a budget of about $2.5 million annually depending on the federal budget.

Providing a wide range of service to the poor including counseling, education and organization of the county's indigent, the agency often has been a subject of controversy in the county.

★ ★ ★

It has been attacked for supposed duplication of efforts, for interfering too much with other government agencies, and for not doing enough interfering.

CONFLICTS FELT VALUABLE

McNeely said he feels the conflicts were an important role for the OCCEO. "This stirred up more interest in the plight of the poor," he said.

Ingraham of 950 E. Maple, a member of the County Board of Supervisors, has several other political commitments. He said he would not continue as chairman because he had served three consecutive terms. "That's enough," he commented.

Strike Averted at Pontiac Div.

An 11th-hour agreement was reached today just in time to avert a strike at Pontiac Motor Division. Agreement by bargainers, after about 30 continuous hours of negotiation, averted a walkout set for 2 p.m. by some 17,000 employes.

A marathon bargaining session was going down to the wire at Pontiac Motor Division today as a strike deadline set for 2 p.m. loomed.

Negotiators for General Motors and from UAW Local 653 had been closeted together at the plant since 8 a.m. yesterday, but as of noon today no agreement had been reached.

No predictions on, if or when a proposed contract agreement would avert the strike were being made by either side. A third possibility exists that the UAW would extend the deadline. However, this was not done during the morning as the zero hour approached.

At issue are strictly local working conditions. A national agreement that settled wage matters was ratified by the membership last month.

Both sides have expressed a desire to avert the strike. Yesterday bargaining had narrowed to a few key issues including seniority rights, working conditions, use of outside contractors, lines of demarcation for skilled work and unsettled grievances.

If the strike was called, some 17,000 hourly rated employes would walk out. Another GM strike deadline has been set for Tuesday at plants in Flint where some 20,000 would be affected.

3 Negro Students Die in S.C. Battle

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — Three Negro students were killed in a brief but bloody exchange of gunfire with police last night in the fourth night of violence on two adjoining college campuses.

Thirty-seven other persons were injured.

The outburst started when state troopers and National Guardsmen attempted to push students back onto a campus to douse fires they had started.

Gunfire or fireworks echoed through the night from the grounds of South Carolina State College and Clafflin College, both predominantly Negro institutions. This morning, all was quiet.

The outbursts began Monday with a rock-throwing demonstration against a bowling establishment operated on a segregated basis.

Thirteen persons were injured in flareups earlier this week.

County's Financial Picture Looks Rosy

By ED BLUNDEN

Oakland County officials these days can sing that old song, "We're in the Money."

★ ★ ★

Thanks to a fortuitous set of circumstances, the county finds itself in an excellent financial situation in an era when many other governments, such as school districts, face deficits and austerity budgets.

Things began to look good last October when estimates of county income from the millage levy were made. Then things got even better . . . and better.

For 1968, the county is operating on anticipated revenues of $21,134,162. This is also the amount budgeters figured the county would spend — a balanced budget, right?

Wrong.

Not counted as income was money from the state income tax which went into effect last October.

BEING DISPUTED

Actually, the ways and means committee could not properly put this item into the financial picture as it was being disputed in the courts and it was not certain if and when it would go into effect.

However, the committee's report indicated that some $1.2 million would probably be turned over as the county's share.

The committee recommended using the money, if available, toward financing of a new jail.

The state tax since that time has obviously gone into effect meaning the money is forthcoming — but it will be more than anticipated!

UP TO 40 PCT.

On Monday the state revealed the levy was yielding far above expected revenue, some $234 million instead of $164 million, up over 40 per cent.

This would indicate the county will get about an extra $500,000, or about $1.7 million free and clear.

Another windfall of possibly $400,000 is expected from a different source, again thanks to the State Legislature. A new law turned over a tax on land transfers to the county.

Action Asked to Quell Race Tension

The Pontiac Area Planning Council board of governors last night went on record as recommending strong steps to quell continuing racial tension in the city.

★ ★ ★

The governing board discussed the problem for an hour and a half beyond normal adjournment time.

A unanimous vote, with 27 of the 32 governors present, was cast calling for immediate positive action.

The governing board decided to devote a major portion of its next meeting, Feb 22, to discuss possible ways of alleviating the tension.

★ ★ ★

The board was asked to act on the resolution by Hubert Price Jr., a board member.

The governors discussed evident signs of increased tension and the abundance of ill-founded rumors which have added to the tension.

James Dyer of 686 Central said a rumor that a Negro had been hammered to death in a Pontiac factory yesterday had been widely circulated yesterday afternoon and had led to noticable bitterness among Negroes.

Pontiac police said a 22-year-old Negro had reported to police himself that he was hit by a hammer after a misunderstanding with another worker yesterday morning.

He was treated for cuts at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

Sword and Olive Branch

N. Viet Offer to U.S. 2-Sided

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam offered the United States the sword and the olive branch Thursday on the 11th day of the biggest Communist offensive of the Vietnam war.

The peace bid was made by Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh, who said Hanoi would go to the peace table "as soon as the United States has proved that it has really stopped unconditionally the bombings and all other acts of war" against North Vietnam.

The promise of more fighting was held out by Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, North Vietnam's defense minister and the victor of the 1954 battle against the French at Dien Bien Phu.

Speaking at a reception marking the 20th anniversary of the North Korean army, Giap vowed to "fight on until we have won final victory."

IN INTERVIEW

Trinh's peace proposal—which said the 1954 Geneva armistice agreements could be the subject of the talks—was made in an interview with a French news agency correspondent in Hanoi.

State Department officials in Washington immediately began studying Trinh's statement. The initial reaction was that there was no fundamental shift in position.

Trinh went a step further than he had in his previous two declarations when he said that the "relevant problems" to be discussed were "questions related to a settlement of the Vietnam problem on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam; there are also other questions which could be raised by either side."

Though he insisted that Hanoi's long-standing four-point and the Vietcong's five-point conditions for settling the war still stand, he said their "spirit" was a U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam. He added that the points "conform to the fundamental principles and the main clauses" of the 1954 Geneva agreements.

WITHOUT CHINA NOD

Hanoi's willingness to use the Geneva pact as a basis for the peace conference suggested they had not consulted Peking on this point. The Red Chinese insist the agreements are dead and no longer applicable.

★ ★ ★

Giap said in referring to the Vietcong strikes in the south: "These brilliant victories marked a new and very important step in the development of our people's resistance against the U.S. imperialists for national salvation, and have taken our resistance to a new situation very favorable for our people and unfavorable for the U.S. aggressors. These resounding victories are vigorously stimulating the entire Vietnamese people from the South to the North to charge forward with still greater valor and determination and fight on until we have won final victory."

★ ★ ★

He made no reference to any possibility of peace talks.

It was the third time since early last year that Trinh had publicly expressed Hanoi's willingness to sit down with the Americans, if the bombing of North Vietnam's cities and military targets are halted.

Copters Land Yanks at Saigon Racetrack

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopters landed U.S. troops on Saigon's racetrack today to help rout out the diehard Vietcong forces as the North Vietnamese increased pressure against Da Nang and more Communist tanks were reported sighted near Khe Sanh.

Heavy fighting was reported across South Vietnam's northern sector, with 321 Communists and 67 U.S. troops killed Thursday, most of them in battles around Khe Sanh and Da Nang and in Hue. Another 170 Americans were wounded.

★ ★ ★

Troops from the U.S. 199th Light Infantry Brigade were landed in the center of the Saigon racetrack and quickly took up positions to bolster South Vietnamese forces having slower going blasting the Reds out of Cholon, the Chinese quarter and adjoining areas on the southwest side of Saigon.

★ ★ ★

Thursday night the Vietcong burned down a block of homes just south of the track. The region had been declared pacified two days ago, but the Vietcong either surfaced from hiding or slipped back into the city. A Vietcong battalion is reported to control 20 blocks east and south of the race course.

It was the third time Americans troops have been used in the battle of Saigon that began last Wednesday. Paratroops of the 101st Airborne Division were helicoptered onto the roof of the U.S. Embassy when Red commandos invaded the embassy grounds Jan. 31. Two days later an armored column of the 25th Infantry Division helped clear out Vietcong forces from the racetrack area.

Elsewhere below the northern provinces, the big Communist offensive against the cities launched 10 days ago appeared tapering off. But the U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese forces are still battling doggedly in Hue, the old imperial capital in the north, and fighting drew closer to Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city and the nerve center for Allied operations in the northern provinces.

★ ★ ★

An indication of the gravity with which the U.S. Command viewed the situation in the north was a decision to send Gen. Creighton D. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam, to take personal charge. Informed military sources said Abrams would set up his headquarters in Phu Bai, north of Da Nang.

Curb on Private Guards Approved in State Senate

LANSING (AP) — A bill to license and regulate private police and security guards was approved by the Senate Thursday, but a measure to deal similarly with lie detector examiners met a storm of protest.

Meanwhile, senators introduced an eight-bill package of anticrime and antiriot bills inspired by last summer's Detroit riots and a measure to allow school districts to provide instruction in sex education.

Elsewhere in the capital:

—The House debated a bill to give the secretary of state authority to revoke a driver's license, under certain conditions —if he was involved in accidents.

—The Senate Judiciary Committee reported out a lower court reorganization bill, designed to divide the state into 40 judicial districts presided over by 81 elected district judges.

★ ★ ★

—The Legislature met in joint session to hear an address by the national commander of the American Legion, William E. Galbraith of Beemer, Neb.

POLICE JURISDICTION

The private police regulation bill, sponsored by Sen. James Gray, D-Warren, was approved 30-1. It would place licensing of such officers under jurisdiction of the State Police.

★ ★ ★

The bill's backers said there currently are few regulations governing private police agencies and that last summer's riots in Detroit pointed out a need for stricter rules.

★ ★ ★

A private guard was one of 43 persons killed in last summer's riots.

★ ★ ★

The bill to license and regulate polygraph (lie detector) examiners, sponsored by Sen. Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, ran into opposition from Democrats and was laid over until next week after more than an hour's debate.

★ ★ ★

Zollar said Michigan has no rules governing such examiners and nothing to protect the public from "quack polygraph operators."

S. Korea-U.S. Deal on Talks Reported

SEOUL (AP) — Informed sources said today the South Korean government has agreed to stop complaining about the private U.S.-North Korean talks at Panmunjon to obtain release of the crew of the USS Pueblo.

The informants said the United States agreed in turn to regard the talks as part of the functions of the Korean Military Armistice Commission and not bilateral negotiations with the Communists.

★ ★ ★

The sources said South Korean Premier Chung Il-kwo and U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter also agreed to continue handling the Pueblo case in private talks but to discuss the Communist attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park on Jan. 21 in open session of the armistice group. South Korea presumably wants to keep spotlight of publicity on Communist threat from the North.

Councilman Gets Nod as Manager of Keego Harbor

Russell Greig, 54, Keego Harbor councilman for eight years, was appointed manager of that city last night.

He will begin the job, paying about $10,000 a year, by March 1. A resident of the city for more than 40 years, he has served as mayor for two years and on the Planning Commission several years.

He was recently appointed the city's delegate for the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. The council has also appointed him to a state beautification committee.

Greig, a machinist at Daniels Manufacturing Co. in Pontiac, lives with his wife at 2022 Willow Beach. He is a member of the Elks Lodge 810, Pontiac.

GEORGE GRBA

Candidate Files for Commission

George Grba, 37, of 28 Kimball yesterday filed nominating petitions seeking election to the City Commission seat now held by District 4 Commissioner Leslie H. Hudson.

This will be the third try for Grba in District 4. He lost out in the primary in 1964 while Hudson went on to win the election.

In the 1966 general election Grba carried District 4 but lost to Hudson in the citywide balloting.

Grba is a native of Pontiac, an Army veteran of the Korean conflict and a graduate of Ferris State College.

★ ★ ★

Married and the father of two girls, he is chief maintenance inspector for the Oakland County Department of Public Works.

Grba is a member of the American Legion, the American G.I. Forum, the Disabled American Veterans, Latin Americans United for Political Action, Oakland County Engineering Society and the Parent Teachers Association.

★ ★ ★

In announcing his candidacy he said: "The city of Pontiac is a dying community in need of salvation. To have salvation it is necessary for a man to be born again, and so it is with our city.

★ ★ ★

"Pontiac must rid itself of those people who have turned the waters bitter and now say they will make it sweet."

County Fiscal Picture Rosy

This levy was formerly collected by the U.S., but the authorization bill expired. The state passed a similar bill which designated the levy for the counties, collected at the clerk-register of deeds office.

The tax is not impressive sounding, 55 cents per $500 in property involved ($22 on a $20,000 home). However, John Murphy, clerk-register, reports that in January his office pulled in $47,000 on 6,311 land deals.

Murphy said it was too early to tell if this figure will be maintained. However, he reports one month last year 7,159 land deals were handled through his office.

Murphy and many others can foresee increased activity in Oakland County real estate in the coming years, so it is quite probable the land transfer tax will yield some $500,000 this year.

★ ★ ★

This is $400,000 more than anticipated in the budget when factors involved were very uncertain.

What will the county do with the money? The board of auditors is currently preparing a list of priorities of what the county needs to guide decisions of the board of supervisors.

Reportedly high on the list is the proposed jail, for which plans are now being studied, and development of the county airport facilities.

Some Items Moved in Rail Strike

By The Associated Press

Only a limited amount of perishables and some military supplies were being moved on three major railroads today as a strike by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen entered its fourth day.

Spokesmen for the Missouri Pacific (MOPAC) said the carrier had received reports of sabotage from widely separated points along its 12,000 miles of track.

W. Thomas Rice, president of the Seaboard Coast Line, said the coal supply for 12 power plants along its route is in jeopardy and that congestion at 17 Atlantic Coast ports served by the railroad "is mounting at tremendous rate."

The third carrier is the Texas & Pacific, a subsidiary of MOPAC.

STRIKE AVERTED

The threat of a strike against a fourth road, Union Pacific, was halted Thursday by a federal court restraining order issued at Lincoln, Neb.

U.S. Dist. Judge Robert Van Pelt temporarily restrained the Union Pacific from reducing the size of its freight train crews and ordered the union not to strike until good faith negotiations on the issues had taken place.

Passenger service on the struck lines halted Tuesday. Supervisory personnel are operating an undetermined number of freight trains.

The strike is over an old issue —size of crews for freight trains. Management contends only two men are needed, that any more amounts to featherbedding. The union argues that a minimum of three is necessary to operate safely.

Poverty War Leaders Resign

The county commission, in addition to losing its two central figures, is undergoing a painful reorganization process.

★ ★ ★

It must, under federal rules laid down in the year-end budget allotment, change its form of membership.

FACTIONS REPRESENTED

Those serving are representatives from many factions in the county such as labor unions, political and social groups, churches, social agencies, ethnics groups and others.

Under new, stricter guidelines, membership will be confined to 51 persons and 17 must be officials. The OCCEO is still trying to determine if "officials" means elected or appointed persons or both.

In any case, coming up with 17 persons willing to serve may prove difficult as only about five ever were active on the OCCEO in the past, members have pointed out.

A nominating committee is selecting candidates for an election, which will replace Ingraham and many others, which will probably be held in April.

Marine Try to Hijack DC6 in Viet Fails

DA NANG, (AP) — A U.S. Marine private in a black leather jacket with a cocked, 45-caliber pistol tried today to hijack a Pan American Airlines DC6 loaded with war-weary U.S. servicemen waiting to fly to Hong Kong, U.S. Air Force Police said.

★ ★ ★

After 2 hours and 45 minutes, the copilot thwarted the effort with a bold move.

★ ★ ★

The man arrested by Air Force police was identified as Marine Pfc. William Lee Clark of the 1st Division's 1st Field Artillery Group.

★ ★ ★

State Draft Boss Hits Advisers of Protest

He said the solution is not in passing more laws.

"Our job as citizens is to obey the law and to see to it that all others are required to do the same. Reasons for neglect to obey cannot exist, and excuses must not be tolerated."

SYMBOL OF ACCEPTANCE

On the subject of deferments, Holmes said an individual accepting a deferment apparently has accepted the draft system.

"And he must acknowledge, therefore, that the government is not removing him from the obligation to serve in uniform just so he can have a vantage point from which to attack the military obligation of others, or to impede the recruiting efforts of the Armed Forces."

Holmes said that if the individual wants to fight the draft system, "let him refuse the deferment and scream his head off," but he must be prepared to take the consequences.

"But if the individual has accepted a deferment, then let him shut up and carry on with the reason for which he was deferred. That's the only reason he is being permitted the deferment in the first place.

"If he insists on defying the government, the draft board should withdraw his deferment," said Holmes.

Riot, Crime Bills Offered in Senate

LANSING (AP) — An eight-bill anticrime and antiriot package aimed at answering "the need of four law-enforcement agencies to combat the rabble-rousers" was introduced Thursday in the State Senate.

The measures were sponsored by Sen. James G. Fleming, R-Jackson, chairman of the special Senate Crime Investigation Committee.

★ ★ ★

The bills should help law enforcement agencies "to combat the rabble-rousers, who incite our people to acts of violence. The bills also should fill loopholes in our present laws that make prosecution of hardened criminals more difficult," Fleming said.

The measures would:

—Make it a felony to incite anyone to commit unlawful acts of violence, or to burn, kill, wound or assault. Punishment would be from five to 20 years in prison.

UP TO 10 YEARS

—Make inciting to loot, commit larceny or burglary, a felony, punishable by a prison sentence of up to 10 years.

—Add a new section to the fire-bomb law, making it a felony to make, possess, manufacture, send or transport an explosive or incendiary device.

—Make it a felony for any person to fail to disperse on command of a police officer under unlawful mob action or riot-type situations.

—Make the defense of insanity unavailable to a criminal when the preponderance of evidence shows that the condition of alleged insanity was induced by the voluntary use of alcoholic beverages, narcotic drugs or inhalation of toxic fumes.

RIGHT TO APPEAL

—Give prosecuting attorneys the right to appeal trial court rulings on issues of evidence admissibility and questions of law, without upsetting any verdict of acquittal in a criminal case.

—Appropriate $1 million to the law enforcement training council to use as grants to local government in the training and equipping of local police force reserve units.

—Require the state to reimburse counties for the cost and expense they incur in conducting a grand jury.

Court Measure Unveiled

LANSING (AP) — A lower court reorganization bill that provides for a district court system, which would coexist with municipal, common pleas and recorder's courts, was unveiled Thursday by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The measure would divide the state into 40 judicial districts to be presided over by 81 elected district judges who must be attorneys.

The bill is an attempt to meet one of the major issues before the Legislature.

The State Constitution abolishes justices of the peace and circuit court commissioners on Jan. 1, 1969. Unless a new system is set up to take their place, the state's existing circuit courts would be jammed with the cases now handled by lower courts.

The bill, reported out of the Senate Judiciary Committee and sent to the appropriations committee for a study of fiscal implications, is a streamlined counterpart of a House bill now in the House Appropriations Committee.

The House defeated a court reorganization bill 57-48 in last fall's special session.

Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw, the judiciary committee chairman, described the Senate bill as "essentially a skeleton" to provide the state with a framework for a lower court system.

In addition to district judges, the bill would establish a system of at least 179 appointive nonlawyer magistrates to aid them.

Legislator Talks to Milford PTA on School Costs

Taxpayers aren't going to get out of helping foot the bill for education, stressed State Rep. Clifford H. Smart.

He spoke recently to 100 people at a Milford PTA meeting.

He brought out the possibility that education costs can be levied by localities and by the state. It's a question of which body will levy the most, he added.

Nevertheless, Smart, former Walled Lake School superintendent, advised the audience to vote yes on the millage requests.

* * *

Huron Valley Schools Supt. Truman Owens, speaking at the same meeting, told the audience that education is going to cost more money. He cited increases in cost of teachers and equipment.

MORE BUILDINGS

Owens reported that his district will need more buildings which will require more personnel.

Owens pointed out that 80.5 per cent of the district's operating funds go for salaries and 19.5 per cent for supplies.

He explained that although property assessments are rising, the district doesn't get much more money in the end.

* * *

The state aid formula is based on how much money the local district has behind each student, Owens said.

Parks Unit Forming in West Bloomfield

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A proposal to form a township parks and recreation committee has been formally launched.

Trustee Mrs. William J. Evans, on request of the Township Board, is setting up such a committee.

The impetus to form the committee came from the West Bloomfield League of Women Voters. This group sent a letter to the board several months ago urging that a committee be set up to consider acquisition of park sites here.

The letter was referred to the planning commission, which responded by recommending the creation of the committee.

* * *

But the letter was sent back to the board for any action. The action came at this week's board meeting, when Mrs. Evans was asked to head up a committee.

After a public hearing this week, the Township Board approved the $60,360 assessment roll for the Bel-Aire sewer district. The system, to serve 22 lots, is expected to be constructed within eight months.

Following is a list of special events taking place at the facilities at Cranbrook on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills:

PLANETARIUM—Regular public demonstrations, Wednesday at 4 p.m. and weekends at 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. The topic for the month is "The Stars of Magellan."

ATOMARIUM — Public demonstration Sunday at 3:30 p.m. or by appointment. Admission 25 cents.

CHILDREN'S SERIES—The second in a series of four programs designed for area children in grades 1-3 will take place Saturday.

Students may bring any personal collections pertinent to the subject. Student members will be admitted free. The charge for nonmembers is 50 cents.

FILMS — A film program for Institute of Science members will be shown tonight at 9 in the Cranbrook School gymnasium. Films scheduled are "Fish, Moon and Tides—the Grunion Story," "The World of Semiconductors" and "The Great Unfenced." Guest tickets, when available, are $1.

IT'S STARTED—Employing the traditional shovel, officials conducted a groundbreaking ceremony for the almost-$400,000 addition to the Farmington Township Hall. Participating yesterday were (from left) Township Trustee Peter Klopp Jr., Township Supervisor Curtis Hall and William Bowman, chairman of the building and grounds committee.

Ground Broken for Hall Addition

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Ground was broken yesterday on a $379,700 addition to the Township Hall. The addition is planned to alleviate overcrowding in the hall.

The present building at 31555 11 Mile will be remodeled and taken over by the police department, with its 66 men.

The addition, to be completed this fall, will house all other city offices.

Designed by Swanson Associates, Inc., and to be built by Pinkert Construction Co., the addition will be located to the east of the present building. A stair tower will connect the two buildings.

* * *

The project includes a 10-unit carport for the police department and additional parking space.

The township buildings and grounds committee, headed by William W. Bowman, executive vice president of Thompson-Brown Co., has been working on plans for the hall addition for a year and a half.

All Avon Twp. Property to Be Reappraised in '68

By JEAN SAILE

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has approved a resolution calling for the hiring of an independent appraisal firm to reassess all of the property in the township by Dec. 31, 1968.

Reportedly under consideration for several months, the selection of the appraiser has been turned over to the board's general business committee for recommendation.

At a special meeting earlier this week a reply was made to charges made Jan. 24 by Robert Thor, chairman of a township Committee for Fairer Taxes. A registered letter to Thor containing the board's answer was reportedly in the mail today.

Thor had asked in a letter to the board for the removal of Township Assessor John Marmon and the three-man board of review on charges of incompetency, discrimination and ridicule of taxpayers when they appear before them.

* * *

He had also asked that as of Feb. 1 the total property tax millage in the township be dropped from its present 43 to 45 mill level to a total of 20 mills.

'NO INSTANCES'

He had demanded the right of his committee to approve any assessing firm hired by the township as well as any new appointments to the board of review.

In regard to the charges made against the assessor the board wrote, "The board unanimously agreed that it knows of no instances of favoritism or incompetency on the part of the township assessor and requests that any assertion of such acts be submitted in writing to the board. The assertion should give the legal description of the property and be signed by the person making the complaint.

Regarding Thor's charges against the board of review, the board answered, "It is the opinion of the Township Board that the township assessor and members of the board of review have carried out the difficult and trying duties of their offices in a courteous, considerate and businesslike manner; and request that any assertions of discrimination be made in writing to the board. The assertions should be signed by the complainant and contain details of the alleged discriminatory action."

* * *

In regard to Thor's request that his committee be allowed to approve an assessing firm and new appointments to the board of review, the board wrote, "The board unanimously agreed that it has no right to delegate authority to anyone else."

'FOLLOWING LAWS'

Thor had also asked that the Township Board not put in any sewers, water or drains without a vote of the affected people.

* * *

The board answered, "The board is bound to follow the laws of the State of Michigan in regard to the installation of utilities and the board will follow state laws."

* * *

As for the drop in millage requested, the board wrote, "Under the law it is impossible for the Township Board to limit taxes to 20 mills."

Avon Twp. Recount Results in Bigger Cityhood Margin

AVON TOWNSHIP — A recount of ballots from the township incorporation vote Jan. 15 revealed two ballot changes, giving incoporation a 52-vote margin.

The recount was conducted yesterday in the townships' 10 precincts by a committee composed of county election officials, the board of canvassers, attorneys for both sides and township officials.

The additional "yes" votes were picked up in Precinct 3 in the southern part of the township. They involved absentee ballots. A total of 1,381 "yes" votes and 1,329 "no" votes were tabulated by the committee.

Norman F. Kapcia, attorney for Lloyd J. Brown, 881 Cobblestone, petitioner for the recount, reportedly challenged six ballots, all absentee, but he was overruled by the board of canvassers.

* * *

Voters cast a total of 2,710 ballots to start proceedings for the incorporation of the township as the City of Avon. A charter commission of nine members was also selected during the election.

TWO-YEAR PERIOD

That commission, headed by Township Trustee William McCullough, has two years and three attempts in which to write a city charter acceptable to the voters of the township.

Kapcia said that in his opinion the recount is not yet over, and that he has been assured the board of canvassers will reconvene at his request later for purposes of investigating further charges made by Brown in his original petition.

* * *

Kapcia said he would probably challenge some of the registrations themselves, but that earlier this week he had been denied access to the township voter registration files.

Sex Education Series Set in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — A series of five programs has been scheduled by the Citizens Committee on Sex Education for Feb. 27 through March 26. Meetings will take place at 8 p.m. Tuesdays at the Lake Orion Junior High School.

Dr. Armin Grams of the Merrill Palmer Institute, Detroit, will discuss "Sex Education and Human Sexuality" in the first program Feb. 27.

Other speakers include doctors and school administrators, according to Mrs. Merle Smith, 3961 Morgan, Orion Township, committee publicity chairman.

Aim of the group is the establishment of a sex education program in the school system in addition to the films presently shown.

Committee members state they feel such a program could:

- Support the home and church in their leading roles in teaching the relationship of parent to child in the family unit.
- Teach body development, personal hygiene and vocabulary as a means of understanding human growth.
- Develop wholesome attitudes toward human sexuality by helping to eliminate fears and anxieties created by misinformation and misunderstanding.
- Help to build a system of values to guide behavior when problems arise.

Farmington Residents Facing a 12 Pct. Rate Hike for Water

FARMINGTON — Residents may be paying 12 per cent more for their water soon.

An ordinance proposing the rate hike was introduced at a recent City Council meeting. Final action is expected to come at the council's Feb. 19 meeting, said City Manager John D. Dinan.

The ordinance calls for an increase from $4.50 to $5 per 1,000 gallons of the first 7,000 gallons used. Other rate changes are proportional.

The sewage disposal charge will remain at 75 per cent of the water charge, said Dinan.

* * *

The increase is due to a 15 per cent hike levied on all users of Detroit water and an extra 29 per cent levied just on the city.

MAXIMUM USE

The additional increase is because the city uses the maximum amount of water in the summer, the city manager explained.

If the city had adequate and properly operating storage and pumping facilities, the rate would go down, Dinan said.

He reported that the cost of constructing the additional facilities and the cost of paying the extra levy was about the same.

* * *

In other action at the meeting, the council tabled two rezoning requests after public hearings.

30 RESIDENTS ATTEND

About 30 residents appeared to oppose the multiple dwelling rezoning of about three-quarters of an acre east of Farmington Road and south of Nine Mile.

The City Planning Commission has given approval to this request of developer William Wilson of Birmingham.

There was no opposition, however, to the request to rezone 19 acres on the southeast corner of Halstead and Grand River for a shopping center, motel and apartments.

The $4-million complex, being planned by Standard Construction Co., has also received rezoning approval of the planning commission.

Romeo Firm Pays in Job Bias Case

ROMEO — A local manufacturing firm has agreed to pay wages to two Negro women who charged the company with employment discrimination in a Michigan Civil Rights Commission case.

Romeo Metal Products, 80380 Scotch Settlement, had appealed the commission's order to cease and desist unlawful employment practices and pay back wages.

The order was issued following a public hearing on a charge that the company denied Mrs. Dorothy Hannah and Mrs. Della Bell employment because of their race.

The appeal was filed in Circuit Court while the amount of back pay was being determined. Agreement on the pay resulted in withdrawal of the appeal.

The company will pay Mrs. Hannah $508 and Mrs. Bell $441, representing wages they would have received between the time when they applied for employment and the time when they found other employment.

Arts-Crafts Exhibit Set at PTA Meeting

ORION TOWNSHIP — An arts and crafts exhibit by students and parents of Proper School will highlight the PTA meeting at 8 p.m. Monday.

Robert Geeck, father vice president, has announced a program dealing with cystic fibrosis.

Avondale to Tell of Money Needs

The Avondale Board of Education will explain its request for additional operating millage at two meetings next week sponsored by PTA units.

The district is asking an increase of $12.70 per $1,000 of assessed valuation at a special election on Feb. 19.

* * *

The first meeting will be 8 p.m. Tuesday at Auburn Heights Elementary School, 260 S. Squirrel. The second will be 8 p.m. Thursday at Avondale Junior High School, 2900 Waukegan.

White Lake Twp. Assessments Hike Explained

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Residents have heard why their property assessments are increasing and what they can do if they dispute the increase.

These were the main topics at a recent meeting held by the area Good Neighbor League.

Speaking to some 100 people were Herman W. Stephens, director of the County Equalization Department, Township Supervisor James Reid and Pontiac attorney William Travis.

Several residents complained that their property was assessed higher than the required 50 per cent cash value.

* * *

Both Stephens and Reid answered questions regarding how most assessments have been increased because of the state requirement.

SIZABLE SPENDING

Reid explained that for all properties to be reassessed to meet this requirement, the township would have to spend a sizable amount to hire more personnel to complete the job immediately.

Attorney Travis explained how taxpayers could take their complaints regarding assessments and tax bills to court.

Several residents were concerned about the extra funds the school district is getting because of increased assessments.

* * *

As has been explained by school officials, the money is being soaked up by rising costs, expecially teachers' salaries.

At the next meeting of the Good Neighbor League March 6, new officers will be elected.

Walled Lake Rotary Will Hear McDonald

WALLED LAKE — Congressman Jack McDonald, R-19th District, will speak to the Rotary Club Monday on current legislative issues.

The meeting, open to the public, is at 7:15 at Walled Lake Methodist Church, 313 E. Northport.

Troy Official Seeks Opinion

School Monies Talk Delayed

TROY — The superintendent of this school district is slated to confer with state officials early next week on the use of building and site fund monies.

A meeting scheduled for today, to include Supt. of Schools Dr. Rex B. Smith, Assistant Atty. Gen.-Education James J. Wood and Roger Boline of the State Department of Public Instruction, was canceled this morning due to Wood's illness, Smith said.

"I will try to get the meeting rescheduled for Monday or Tuesday," the superintendent said.

Smith had said earlier that the board of education would seek the opinion of state officials with regard to the site fund.

* * *

The board's bonding attorney, Stratton Brown of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, has returned an opinion to the board stating he believed funds had been incorrectly spent.

The opinion, which had been requested by the board Dec. 1, said funds from the 1959 and 1965 bond issues could not be used to buy equipment for facilities which had already been constructed.

Both bond issues included the equipping and furnishing of additions to schools and erecting, equipping and furnishing new buildings.

The board sent a list of ten questions to Brown asking about different uses of the money. Of these, Smith said, "better than half brought forth a narrow interpretation of the uses for the money."

* * *

The board, he explained, had been using a broader interpretation.

'VINDICATED'

Board member Harold A. Janes, who has clashed with other board members and the administration on money matters, said Brown's opinion "completely vindicates me."

Janes announced nearly two weeks ago that he had met with Boline and Wood on "possible misuse" of funds in the district, but has since declined to elaborate on his charges.

He said the attorney general's office had asked him not to discuss the matter. No action has as yet been taken by the attorney general's office.

* * *

Smith said that if Brown's opinion was confirmed by state officials, expenditures which had been incorrectly made would have to be reclassified.

Brown told the board in his opinion that the district's auditor should correctly credit all past expenditures in the books and records.

Boline concurred, saying that if money was available to restore the finances to their proper condition, an adjustment could be made. "This is one of the things we will be trying to determine when we meet with Dr. Smith," he concluded.

Fire Damage Heavy at Home in Brandon

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — Firemen battled a blaze at the home of Harlan Hobbs, 380 Bald Eagle Lake, for more than an hour yesterday before bringing it under control.

Damage in the fire, reported at 6:05 p.m., was estimated by Fire Chief William Buckingham at $6,000 to $7,000.

* * *

Hobbs was home at the time, the fire chief said, and reported the fire. There were no injuries in the blaze, the cause of which remains undetermined.

Viet Frowns Turn to Smiles

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A Coast Guard chief boatswain's mate from Michigan serving in Vietnam gets Vietnamese fishermen to smile by providing them with photographs of themselves.

The Coast Guard's 9th District Headquarters in Cleveland released the story Thursday about Roger Syria of Dollar Bay, Mich.

★ ★ ★

Syria, in Vietnam eight months, is the Coast Guardman, and he serves on the Cutter Point Garnet, based in An Thei, Phu Quoc Island, Gulf of Thailand.

The Point Garnet is one of a number of cutters that inspect some of the thousands of Vietnamese fishing junks that ply the gulf waters. The Coast Guard is looking for material and men headed for the Vietcong.

BOTHERED BY FACES

Syria said he never could get used to the sober, sullen faces of the fishermen when the cutter pulled alongside their junks.

★ ★ ★

The usual gifts of soap, candy, cigarettes left unchanged the expressions of suspicion and hostility, and Chief Syria kept wondering whether there wasn't some way he could get the fishermen to smile.

★ ★ ★

"It's hard for them to understand," Syria said, "the honest ones, anyway, why an armed American boat should interrupt their fishing chores.

★ ★ ★

"They know very little about the war and pay even less attention to it. After all they've fished in the midst of one for a long time. . . .

'IDEAL THING'

"Then it hit me—all this time I had the ideal thing in my locker, but never thought of using it. I decided that the very next junk we inspected I would bring out my camera."

An old fisherman, his wife and three children — all grim-faced — were aboard the next junk the Point Garnet inspected. Syria snapped the picture and handed the color print to the fisherman.

★ ★ ★

A smile began to spread across the fisherman's face, and his wife and children pressed close to him, clamoring for a look. Soon all were smiling and then laughing and pointing to the picture and to one another, Syria related. They were still smiling and waving when the Point Garnet pulled away, the Coast Guard chief said. He added that he was smiling, too.

Hart Wary of Dem Split

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats will deliver the White House to the Republicans if they repudiate President Johnson, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said yesterday.

★ ★ ★

The GOP would have no such assured victory if the President elected not to run, Hart told a news conference, "but any 'dump-Johnson thing' simply delivers the White House to the Republicans."

Hart said he believed the candidacy of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., for his party's presidential nomination probably serves a useful purpose.

"Our house is overrun with kids who are doing more than complaining about Johnson — they're working for McCarthy," he said.

Their complaints, he said in an aside, actually are directed more at "the corruption" society has created than at the present resident at the White House.

HE SUPPORTS JOHNSON

But Hart made it clear that his support is pledged to Johnson.

"I want a Democrat in the White House for the next four years," and any candidate but Johnson would be defeated by a Republican, he said.

Scouting Helps Boys Grow Up

The Boy Scouts of America, celebrating its 58th anniversary, has as its current theme "Scouting rounds a boy out."

In its original statement of purpose, the Boy Scouts of America said that "emphasis shall be placed upon its educational program and the oaths, promises and codes of the Scout program for character development, citizenship training, and mental and physical fitness."

★ ★ ★

This aim and the development of it has touched the lives of over 44 million Americans since 1910. Today there are enrolled in Scouting's ranks 4½ million boys who are aided by 2½ million adult volunteer leaders. Locally, the Clinton Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, has some 15,000 boys and leaders currently active — the largest number ever.

Commemorating the national anniversary, Clinton Valley is observing a full schedule of events including parents' nights, potluck dinners, demonstrations of scouting skills and exhibitions of scouting handicraft. There will be special religious services for all faiths Sunday.

★ ★ ★

Boy Scouts find fulfillment for their love of the outdoors by hiking and camping. They earn recognition for good character and growing skills by advancing through ranks. Merit badges are earned in such skills as cooking, lifesaving, first aid, and camping to technical subjects such as space exploration, communications, oceanography, and atomic energy.

As Scouting helps boys grow in character, physical fitness, and citizenry, it engenders a sense of community and national responsibility.

Yes, Scouting rounds a guy out!

New Life Is Given to Ill-Fated Theater

Ford's Theater, where President LINCOLN was assassinated almost 103 years ago, is situated on a nondescript street in Washington's downtown shopping district. It, and the house where LINCOLN died, just across the street, undoubtedly would have been torn down years ago if the assassination had never occurred.

Ford's Theater thereby acquired instant status as a historical site, and the structure, newly refurbished at a cost of $2.5 million, was recently dedicated.

The theater has always been plagued by misfortune. Erected in 1833 as the First Baptist Church of Washington, it was purchased in 1861 by JOHN T. FORD, a Baltimore theatrical entrepreneur. One year later, it burned to the ground.

★ ★ ★

Cave-ins occurred after reconstruction of the present building was begun in 1862 on what proved to be quicksand. Additional delays were caused by Civil War building materials shortages. On June 9, 1893, the interior of the building collapsed, killing 22 employes of the Surgeon General's Records and Pensions Division.

The National Repertory Theater, which has toured the Country for six years, will take up residence in Ford's Theater on Feb. 12, LINCOLN's birthday. It's initial presentation will be "John Brown's Body." Later, the company will perform "She Stoops to Conquer."

★ ★ ★

The latter play was performed at at Ford's shortly before LINCOLN was assassinated. The one in progress at the time the martyred President was struck down was "Our American Cousin."

Business Has Key Role in War on Crime

Business leaders are bringing more job opportunities to the ghettos in the newest development in the urban crisis.

ALLAN SHIVERS, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, discussing "human frustrations" involved in the national crime wave, said: "To make a dent in this hard core of need (in the ghettos) businessmen are having to devise entirely new forms of help, and they must offer it convincingly because they are competing with the appeals of demagogues who preach the lawless way out."

To slang it up, Shivers said a mouthful on a subject that currently is sending shivers up the back of the Nation.

Educational Staff Shows Increase

BY DICK SAUNDERS

It's amazing how fast Pontiac School District's professional staff has grown in recent years.

SAUNDERS

Of course, we're primarily responsible for it. The more kids we pump into the system; the more staff is needed.

Talking to Assistant Superintendent Richard C. Fell the other day brought out some interesting facts.

It seems like only yesterday we were talking about teachers in terms of hundreds. That day is gone.

This year there are 1,129 professional people employed by the school district, of which 1,035 are teachers.

This represents an increase of 180 professional people including a hike of 153 teachers over the last five years, and is up 319 professional staffers including 306 teachers from 10 years ago when there were 729 teachers in a total professional staff of 810.

Looking ahead, school officials estimate we will need an additional 142 teachers five years from now just to maintain present average class size, which is already below generally accepted standards.

Most educators, according to Fell, advocate an average of one teacher per 25 students. Pontiac currently has a ratio of one to 27.2.

★ ★ ★

Another yardstick of educational quality is the ratio of total professional staff to student enrollment.

Presently, Pontiac has 47.56 professionals per 1,000 students. The generally accepted standard is a minimum of 50 professionals per 1,000 students.

By comparison, the Birmingham School District has 49.83 professionals per 1,000 students, Farmington has 55.93 per 1,000, Grosse Pointe has 48.06, Dearborn has 50.51 and Highland Park has 56.99 professionals per 1,000 students.

★ ★ ★

Enrollment, too, has boomed from 19,003 ten years ago to 23,729 in the current school year.

It is also interesting to note the increase in some specialized areas. For example, there were no special education teachers 10 years ago; there were 41 five years ago. Today there are 68.

"We've also tried in the past five years to increase emphasis on counseling, instrumental and vocal music, library services and reading," said Fell.

★ ★ ★

In fact, there is a trend to make a major thrust in the area of reading nowadays.

Today the school system has 20 reading specialists, while there were none five years ago.

Shifts in academic emphasis, however, are only one facet of the changing role of today's teachers. Another lies in the field of human relations.

★ ★ ★

Particularly in Pontiac, where there is a sizeable nonwhite population, the increase in racially integrated student bodies puts a premium in many schools on teachers with greater sensitivities and special skills in the field of human relations.

Taking into consideration normal growth and annual turnover, the school system now hires roughly 200 new teachers each year.

Thus, the job or recruiting is fast becoming a major task involving not only the ability to spot academic excellence, but also keen insight into basic human values.

So Right!

David Lawrence Says:

Freedom Is at Stake in Vietnam

WASHINTON — "What is the Vietnam war all about?" People have asked each other this question, but satisfactory answers are rarely available because of the confusion created by the debate, inside and outside of Congress, between the supporters and opponents of American policy.

LAWRENCE

Some of the critics claim, first of all, that what happens 10,000 miles away is none of America's business.

Another group says the United States is not winning the war, but is making claims of progress which are not true.

Still another faction insists that the American military commanders don't know what they're doing and have had no experience with the kind of war they're fighting.

A few of the members of Congress who have been to Vietnam say that the South Vietnamese are not giving wholehearted support to the American military operations and that the native population should furnish more troops.

News dispatches tell from time to time about corruption and an alleged lack of enthusiasm by the South Vietnamese people for the American effort.

Realistically, almost anything could be written about a troubled and chaotic situation like that which exists in Vietnam.

Under the Geneva agreement of 1954, the country was divided at the 17th parallel, with the understanding that there would be a cessation of all hostilities and eventually free elections to bring about the unification of the two sections.

The Communists in the North, however, boldly attempted to take over the South. The Soviet Union and Red China have aided the North Vietnamese with arms and money.

South Vietnam has the right to become an independent nation. Its territorial integrity and the safety of other countries in the region were pledged by the Southeast Asia treaty, which the United States and other governments signed.

Today the South Vietnamese people — who have little experience in self-government — are struggling to gain autonomy. They want to be safeguarded against aggression. They would like to have an opportunity to enjoy the privilege of governing themselves which other nations in the world exercise.

America has endeavored to help build civilian institutions in Vietnam. It is conceded that such a job will require many years to accomplish.

Now, however, with two major Communist powers intervening, the outlook is for human slavery — unless the nations of the free world can prevent such a tragedy.

It will take a long time for South Vietnam to construct an effective government, but its people would have no chance at all to live in freedom if the Communist aggression is successful.

Bob Considine Says:

In Case You're Curious How We Got in Vietnam

NEW YORK — There's a reasonable chance that with the possible exceptions of "I love you" and "I hate you," the sentence most said by Americans over the past five years is "Why did we get in there in the first place?"

CONSIDINE

"There," of course, is Vietnam.

In case you, too, have wondered, the clearest step-by-step advance toward that abyss was contained in the speech made by Assistant Secretary of State for Far Asian and Pacific Affairs, William P. Bundy, to the National Student Association at College Park, Md. Excerpts:

"Our first decisions affecting Vietnam were in 1945. President Roosevelt deeply believed that French colonial control in Indo-China should not be restored. This attitude led us in the closing months of the war against militarist Japan to adopt what the French have always considered an obstructive attitude toward their return.

★ ★ ★

"Separately, we briefly gave modest assistance to Ho Chi Minh as an asset against the Japanese. This story, like so much else in the whole record, is best told in Robert Shaplen's thoughtful 'The Lost Revolution.'

STOOD ASIDE

"Second, when the French had returned, we stood aside. In the critical year 1946, and over the next three or four years, the French first made the Fontainebleau agreement (to set Vietnam on the path to early independence) and then broke it, so that major conflict started.

"It has often been argued, by Shaplen among others, that we could have exerted greater pressure, perhaps even effective pressure, on the French to go through with the agreement. The failure to exert such pressure may thus be construed as a negative policy decision on our part.

"I myself am skeptical that we could conceivably have affected the unfortunate course that the French followed in this period. If it is argued that our overwhelming Marshall Plan aid to France should have given us leverage, then it must be pointed out at the same time that the Marshall Plan became operative only early in 1948 and that by then the die was largely cast.

★ ★ ★

"Moreover, I doubt very much if the proud and bruised French nation would have responded even if we had tried to act to end the colonial era, as we did to a major extent with the Dutch in Indonesia.

"The tragedy of Vietnam derives from the fall of France in 1940 and all the understandable emotions aroused by that event among French leaders, including notably De Gualle himself."

Seeks Some Suggestions on Aid for Area Citizens

Many talk about how the Department of Social Services wastes taxpayers' money by helping people to exist instead of encouraging them to become respectful, responsible citizens. If the people or clients are physically and mentally capable of working or learning a trade, it would seem more logical to aid them this way than to pay them to stay home with their obligations.

'We Must Consider Potential of Aviation'

The only way our leaders in Oakland County can plan our future needs is to look at the past. General Aviation has launched a transportation revolution all its own. It has given to all who use it more of one of life's most precious commodities—time—time to increase business profit and time to enjoy more and greater pleasure.

The air age has come a long way since Orville Wright's 12-second flight and the ultimate in aviation is nowhere in sight. The potential of aviation remains as boundless as the heavens it has invaded. So, leaders and taxpayers, think about your needs for the future.

Urges Parents to Send Children to Church

Parents, why won't you make an effort to send your children to Sunday School? When I visit pupils about their absence, it's almost pathetic to hear the excuses you make as to why they weren't there. You allow them to spend three or four hours at a movie but can't take one hour on Sunday morning to save their souls. Teen-agers need all the encouragement they can get.

After reading the item about the raid on the American Legion Post, I wonder that our country is not in worse condition. Is it any wonder our younger generation wonders why it is not alright to show any face it wishes?

Singlehandedly Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Jr. (D-Va.) checked mounting executive power over control of the purse strings, which has been traditionally the property of Congress.

Over four days the Senator spoke six times in pleading with his fellow Senators to halt the growth of executive power. In the end, he was successful.

The questioning of executive power came in consideration of a bill designed to strengthen and improve programs of assistance for elementary and secondary schools . . .

As reported out unanimously by a Senate Education Subcommittee, the bill said that if no appropriation were voted by Congress by May 15, two weeks before the beginning of any fiscal year, the Commissioner of Education would have the right to spend for the government the amount of money voted by Congress in the appropriation of the preceding year.

★ ★

Byrd argued that Congress would surrender its constitutional responsibility. The Constitution provides that the only funds a department may expend are those funds which have been appropriated by Congress.

★ ★ ★

"There are certain fundamentals about which I feel very strongly," Byrd told the Senate. "One is that there has been created an imbalance of power between the legislative and the executive branch. Either the President has assumed too much power, or Congress has voluntarily given him too much power.

"In any case, I think the imbalance should be corrected. I think Congress should seek to take back power that has been given unnecessarily to the Chief Executive; and most certainly we should not take another step which would continue and augment that imbalance.

"I cannot conceive of Congress saying, 'All right Mr. President, you take charge of the purse strings. We do not want to be bothered with them.' And I cannot conceive of the Senate saying that."

Bold Attempt

U.S. News & World Report

We have witnessed a bold attempt by the Communists to renew the Korean War. They evidently think our military power in Vietnam will be weakened if we have to reinforce the units stationed in South Korea to guard the armistice line there. This confirms the theory that, if South Vietnam comes under Communist domination, other countries in Asia will also be the victims of aggression.

★ ★ ★

Firmness is, therefore, more than ever necessary.

The American government has made a pledge to the people of South Vietnam which it cannot forsake. But as long as the "doves" in both parties present an image of a craven America eager to make peace on whatever terms the enemy may dictate, the chances are that the fighting will go on indefinitely.

★ ★ ★

The responsibility for this will clearly rest on the "doves," who cry out for peace but are actually prolonging the Vietnam war.

Miss Ann Uccello has discovered an interesting fringe benefit in her job as Hartford (Conn.) mayor — mail from would-be suitors.

The attractive 45-year-old Republican became first lady of Hartford when she polled the most votes in last November's City Council election.

Then the mail began coming in. "Judging from your picture in our paper, and from your outstanding qualifications, I don't see how you remain unmarried," wrote one Louisianan.

Harry, a Pennsylvania resident, is another letter-writing admirer: "I have some swell newspaper pictures of you and think you are very attractive." Harry was kind enough to enclose two photographs of himself.

And a Connecticut songwriter penned the following lyric:

"Love love love love love love love

"That is all I dream about

"Love love love love love love love . . ."

Composer Meredith Willson to Wed Secretary

Composer Meredith Willson, 65, and Rosemary Patricia Sullivan, 46, a movie studio secretary, took out a marriage license yesterday in Santa Monica, Calif., for a Valentine's Day wedding.

Willson, who wrote the musical "The Music Man," said they would be married privately at a friend's home and honeymoon in Hawaii.

It will be the third marriage for Willson and the first for Miss Sullivan, a native of Marion, Ohio. His second wife, Rini, a Russian-born actress, died of cancer in December 1966 at 54.

Oceanographer Finds Trouble on Dry Land

Oceanographer Jacques Yves Cousteau came through unscathed when he recently explored Mediterranean depths for a lost French submarine. But he found the movie capital more hazardous.

Cousteau was given a traffic ticket as a pedestrian yesterday.

Cousteau, 57, said he was returning to a television production office from lunch when two officers summoned him to their patrol car.

"Obviously they were sure there was something illegal about me because of my casual attire — corduroy pants and brown sweater," he said.

For 20 minutes they questioned him, he said, before writing a ticket for crossing the street against a red signal.

The usual fine is $10.

Cousteau is producing for Wolper Productions a series of 12 television specials, "The Undersea World of Jacques-Yves Cousteau."

Inventor of Signals Traffics in Honors

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Safety Engineering Club of Baltimore honored inventor Charles Adler Jr., 68, Thursday night on the 40th anniversary of the first traffic-actuated traffic signal.

It was invented by Adler and installed in Baltimore in 1928.

Adler was given a silver-engraved replica of his first traffic signal. The inventor also devised the first American train-actuated signal crossing. He has more than 60 patents to his credit.

House Wheels Spin on Bill to Curb Dangerous Drivers

LANSING (AP) — A bill to give the secretary of state more authority to take drivers off the road locked the House in another day of debate Thursday and is likely to occupy the chamber again today.

Meanwhile, a proposed constitutional amendment adding a ninth member, appointed by the governor, to the State Legislative Apportionment Commission was moved into position for final action.

★ ★ ★

The driver bill, advocated by Secretary of State James Hare as a weapon against "accident-prone" motorists, would permit Hare's department to revoke a driver's license, under certain conditions, if he were involved in accidents.

What the "certain conditions" would be was the major source of debate over the bill.

SPONSORS PROPOSED

Rep. Quincy Hoffman, R-Applegate, sponsors of the original bill, Thursday proposed revoking the license of a driver involved in one fatal accident or in three serious crashes within two years.

Some members insisted that a driver's license should not be revoked unless he had pleaded guilty or been convicted in court of a traffic violation connected with each accident. Hoffman said that would destroy the concept of the bill.

★ ★ ★

Rep. Thomas Brown, R-Lansing, charged that without the court requirement, "some desk clerk in the secretary of state's office" would decide a driver's innocence or guilt.

Asked Rep. Edward Mahalak, D-Romulus, "Are we going to wait until somebody kills someone before we start going after these individuals?"

FOR FURTHER ACTION

The House left Hoffman's bill in position for further action.

Advanced without debate to the final legislative stage was a bipartisan resolution which would, in effect, give an appointee of the governor the deciding vote on the body which draws up the state's legislative districts.

★ ★ ★

The constitution currently provides for an eight-member Legislative Apportionment Commission, with the state Republican and Democratic party organizations choosing four members each.

Five U.S. presidents failed to serve at least one complete term — William Henry Harrison, Taylor, Garfied, Harding and Kennedy.

Briton Donates to U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Fed up hearing people criticize the United States, 71-year-old Alfred Barrs took the slogan "I'm Backing America" and sent a check for 100 pounds—$240—to the U.S. government.

"We're touched," said a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy. "We are going to see how best the money can be used."

★ ★ ★

"I just couldn't stand it any longer," said Barrs. "Everywhere you go people have it in for America—after all they've done for us.

"People have got to understand that backing America is the best way of backing Britain. If America isn't doing well, we're in real trouble, too."

RETIRED BUSINESSMAN

Barrs used to own a chain of food shops. Now retired, he lives in Ramsgate, a resort in Kent.

Serving in the Royal Navy in World War I, "I had one or two punch-ups with the Yanks," he said, "but when it came to trouble they were always right by our side."

The introduction to "HELP" reads "A short message to the sec.$$ of agriculture." The message was anonymous. Following a short speech, Freeman solicited written questions from the 2,500 farmers and others at the forum.

S. Africa Sentences 19 'Terrorists' to Life

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Nineteen Africans were sentenced today to life imprisonment on charges of terrorism in South-West Africa after a controversial case that prompted the U.N. Security Council to condemn South Africa's white supremacist government again.

Supreme Court Justice J. F. Ludorf sentenced nine others to 20 years and two others to five years. The remaining three defendants drew five-year sentences with four years and 11 months suspended.

★ ★ ★

The accused had faced possible death sentences under South Africa's Terrorism Act.

The 15-nation council voted unanimously last month to condemn the court's refusal to halt the trial and release the defendants. Council members charged that the defendants had been held incommunicado and attacked the Terrorism Act because it requires defendants to prove their innocence rather than the prosecution to prove guilt.

RETROACTIVE LAW

Morris B. Abram, U.S. representative on the U.N. Human Rights Commission, charged earlier that the men had been uprooted from their homes by an alien government for trial under a 1967 law made retroactive to 1962.

The South African government has rejected U.N. General Assembly resolutions declaring void South Africa's League of Nations mandate over neighboring South-West Africa and calling for abandonment of the trial.

Ludorf said he would not impose death sentences when he convicted the group last month. Today he commented: "Others are warned that our courts will not necessarily decline to impose the death penalty in the future."

He said the crimes were so serious he was obliged to improse heavy sentences, adding that the ages, marital status and dependents of those convicted could make no difference.

★ ★ ★

The defendants claimed they were nationalists fighting for their homeland.

Ludorf said that publications issued by them were "clearly meant to create animosity toward whites."

Kansas entered the Union Jan. 29, 1861.

Subject of Smoking Study

He's Monkey in the Middle

By JACQUELINE KORONA

EAST LANSING (AP)—"Abe Lincoln" fought—then switched to smoking up to four cigarettes a day.

Abe is a monkey, a cute little guy with a curly white beard and a starring role in Michigan State University research aimed at learning more about lung cancer and other diseases linked with smoking.

★ ★ ★

MSU scientists first tried blowing smoke at Abe through a tube inserted in his cage.

He batted the smoke around, got it in his eyes, stuck out his tongue, shook his head and won the first round.

NOT ADDICTED

Today Abe still is no monkey with a monkey on his back.

"It's not addiction or habituation," said Dr. Leo Katz, director of the MSU statistical laboratory and one of four men working on the project.

★ ★ ★

"He won't light up a cigarette on his own."

Abe will, however, puff up to four cigarettes a day, the equivalent of heavy smoking in a human.

GOT WATER

Scientists won the second round by teaching Abe to suck on a tube to get water. When he'd suck, he'd get water through the tube and water poured into a little pan in his cage.

Gradually scientists diminished the amount of water Abe got through the tube, but continued to fill his water pan when he sucked the tube.

★ ★ ★

When Abe finally associated sucking with getting a full pan of water, they stuck a cigarette in the tube.

"Abe knows to get water he just rushes over and puffs," Katz said, adding, "He doesn't like the smoke at all, but he knows he has to take that to get water."

DOESN'T INHALE

Abe doesn't puff, inhale, then blow the smoke out like human smokers, explained Robert LaFollette, a doctoral candidate working with Katz.

"But if you look closely, you can see a little of the smoke leaking out the sides of his mouth."

★ ★ ★

Katz and LaFollette consider Abe a successful monkey-smoker, but, "We're having a little difficulty with the second class," Katz said.

Buster, Betty and Basil — three recent additions to the MSU monkey family — are not learning to switch.

NO CONNECTION

"Buster and Betty will suck in on the tube," LaFollette said, "but they haven't yet connected the sucking with getting water in the pan. And Buster doesn't even suck very well."

★ ★ ★

LaFollette said he couldn't predict success with the three Bs, but added that work would continue.

What good is a smoking monkey?

"We're trying to develop a process to teach monkeys to smoke," Katz explained, "so researchers can go on to the next phase of work: taking a big bunch of monkeys (200-1,000) training them to smoke, pairing them up and arbitrarily assigning one of each pair to be a smoker and one to be a non-smoker."

Scientists then could study the monkey pairs throughout their lifetimes — normally 10-15 years—and note any differences between those that smoked and those that didn't.

"It would be a beginning kind of study," Katz said. "But they would have a measured effect. They might be able to say that smoking shortened or lengthened the life of those little monkeys by so much."

Katz suggested also that any new ideas in cigarette manufacturing—different kinds of filters, new chemicals used in the cigarette, etc.—might be tested on smoking monkeys before being given to smoking people.

Tests for nicotine content already are being made on Abe's blood, Katz said.

He added that he expects MSU's part in this research, supported by the Council of Tobacco Research of New York, would be completed by June. MSU researchers probably would consult with whoever continued the work, he said.

Working with Katz and LaFollette on the smoking project were Drs. Stanley Ratner and M. Ray Denny, both psychology professors. Denny currently is on leave and Ratner teaches at Beloit (Wis.) College. He plans to return to MSU in the fall.

PUFFING AWAY — "Abe Lincoln," a monkey with a curly white beard, plays a starring role in Michigan State University research aimed at learning more about lung cancer and other diseases related to smoking. It took some doing, but the little guy has been taught to puff up to four cigarettes a day, the equivalent of heavy smoking in a human being. But he's not hooked on them, the researchers say.

Legal Doubt Delays Exhumation at Prison

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Thursday that excavation for graves of convicts who prison inmates said were murdered and secretly buried would cease until he is assured such excavation is legal.

Rockefeller said Thursday he had asked the state police to check the legal aspects of exhumation and report their findings to him.

★ ★ ★

The State Penitentiary Board had given Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton the authority to dig at will and Murton had planned to resume digging at Cummins Prison Farm next week.

★ ★ ★

Three skeltons were discovered at Cummins Jan. 29 after inmates informed Murton they had seen prisoners killed and secretly buried at the prison. Murton disclosed the discovery of the skeletons without notifying Rockefeller.

PRISON BOSS RAPPED

The governor criticized Murton for the way he had handled the case and expressed displeasure with the state police investigation.

"We're not trying to hide anything, but I see no need for making this procedure a Roman holiday," Rockefeller said. "I think we should move with dispatch and without sensationalism once the legal position on exhumation is established and they have established graveyards to which the bodies may be moved.

★ ★ ★

Rockefeller said he felt Murton had failed to demonstrate a capacity to work with people outside the prison administration and the superintendent had kept Rockefeller and the prison board guessing from hour to hour.

Murton was not available for commment Thursday.

STATE POLICE UNSURE

A spokesman for Rockefeller said the state police was unsure of the graves. The law enforcement agency announced earlier in the day that, unless the courts approve, it would not aid prison authorities in digging for graves.

Some officials contend that the skeletons were unearthed in a pauper graveyard, but inmates contend they were found in a burial ground for murdered convicts.

Tell Results of Colorado's Broadened Abortion Law

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A year ago the chambers of the Colorado Legislature rang and rumbled with the most acrimonious debate that has bounced off the old marble walls in many years.

★ ★ ★

There were outcries that Colorado would be turned into "an abortion mecca." Catholic mothers with baby carriages picketed outside the state Capitol. Newspapers sizzled with heated letters to the editor.

But once the uproar died down, the General Assembly passed a liberalized abortion bill — the first of its kind in the nation.

Gov. John A. Love, after what he admitted was considerable soul-searching, finally signed the bill into law last April 5.

In the weeks that followed, Colorado doctors, hospitals, legislators and state officials received hundreds of letters and telephone calls from women, mostly in other states, asking about the chances of getting abortions.

★ ★ ★

But controls in the law are strict and most out of staters seeking to end pregnancies have been doomed to disappointment.

★ ★ ★

Richard D. Lamm, Denver State representative who was the chief sponsor of the abortion bill, says he sees no danger now that Colorado will become "an obstetrical Las Vegas."

OPPOSITION

Sam T. Taylor, a veteran State senator from Walsenburg, led the unsuccessful battle against the bill last year. He was among those who contended the law would convert the state into "an abortion mecca."

★ ★ ★

Taylor, a Roman Catholic, said recently, "I haven't changed my mind on it. I still think the law is too broad. I still feel it should be limited to Colorado residents."

Before the 1967 law, a Colorado physician could legally perform an abortion only if it seemed certain that the woman's life was at stake.

★ ★ ★

Under the new law, legal abortions are permitted if the woman's physical or mental health is threatened, if there is a chance the child might be malformed, as in cases where the mother has had German measles, or in cases of rape or incest.

Each application presented by a doctor or a hospital official must be approved by a panel of three physicians at the hospital concerned, which itself must be accredited. Each hospital passes on its own applications and no statewide agency is involved in the decisions.

★ ★ ★

Between the time the law was signed and Dec. 31, 120 legal abortions were reported by hospitals to the Colorado Department of Health. Of these only 29 were performed on women coming here from other states.

OPERATIONS

All but three of the operations reported to the department were performed in hospitals in the Denver area. The youngest patient was a 12-year-old Denver girl who had been raped and the oldest was 48. There were 47 patients under 20 years, 25 between 20 and 24, 18 between 25 and 29, and 30 who were 30 or older.

★ ★ ★

Rape was the reason for eight abortions in addition to the operation on the young Denver girl and two were performed because of a risk of suicide. Psychiatric reasons were given for 50 of the 120 abortions and medical risks to woman or infant in 22 cases. The report listed 37 as therapeutic abortions with no reason disclosed.

In all of 1966, only 10 legal abortions were reported to the department.

★ ★ ★

Legislator Lamm, a Denver lawyer, said he received 113 letters from women interested in abortions, including "tear-stained letters from women in other states."

'Out of Place' to Shake Hand Asks a Woman

By ELIZABETH POST

Dear Mrs. Post: When you meet someone you have not seen in quite a while, do you shake hands with them? I am not a young person (three score plus.) I have seen this practiced all my life and sometimes I am the only one who does it. I feel silly and out of place shaking hands. — Mrs. B. Y.

★

Dear Mrs. Y.: You're not "out of place at all." Men generally do shake hands with male friends when they have not seen them in some time. It's up to a lady to decide if she wishes to or not. Some like to, some don't.

But when a woman extends her hand, the other person, male or female, immediately and warmly shakes it.

WEDDING RING

Dear Mrs. Post: About four years ago, a 75-year-old man gave me his wife's wedding band. She had died 10 years prior to the time he gave it to me. He passed away this summer. My question is: Should I wear the ring on my right hand, or not wear it at all?

I would like to wear it as it is a beautiful ring and I thought a great deal of both of the deceased. — Elaine W.

★ ★ ★

Dear Elaine: Many widows and divorcees transfer their wedding rings to their right hands, and if you wear your friend's ring, the impression will be that you were married to him. A wedding band is so clearly what it is that it is rarely mistaken for decorative jewelry.

If it is so unusual that it would not appear to be a wedding ring, wear it; otherwise, don't.

POLITE GREETING

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently I was invited to a formal luncheon. The maid opened the door and I said good morning to her. Did I make an error? I felt like I had. —Ethel Young.

★ ★ ★

Dear Mrs. Young: You did not make an error at all. A polite "good morning" to a maid who opens a door is absolutely correct; in fact it would be most unfriendly if you did not offer a simple greeting.

Teen Needs Assistance

Explain Situation—There's Help

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Your advice is needed badly. I am a 15-year-old girl. My best friend (I'll call her Tammy) is also 15, and she's about three months pregnant. Tammy isn't married and she doesn't have one single friend but me.

ABBY

The boy who got her pregnant took off, and she doesn't even know where he is now. She says she doesn't care, as he showed his true colors by running away, and she is better off forgetting him. I agree with her.

Abby, if Tammy's folks find out they will kill her. I can't ask my mother to help her. She wouldn't let me even speak to Tammy if she knew about this.

Tammy keeps talking about running away or killing herself. I can't take a chance on getting a letter at my house and neither can Tammy. Someone might get suspicious and open it, so will you please tell me in your column if there is a home for unwed mothers who would take my friend in? She doesn't have any money. Thank you. A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Find "SALVATION ARMY" in your telephone directory. Listed under it is BOOTH MEMORIAL HOSPITAL. Telephone either number, explain the situation, and they will help you. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: We have a son in his early teens, and we were recently blessed with a very much wanted and prayed-for baby daughter!

We feel so fortunate that the good Lord sent us this beautiful child and are completely thrilled about it. But why do some people take the joy out of such happiness, and hurt new parents just because they happen to be 40 years old, or a bit older?

How do we answer these so-called friends who ask, "Was it a mistake?" NEW PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Reply, "A mistake? Of course not! God never makes mistakes."

Group Leaders Study 'Money-in-Marriage'

Money plays a large and important part in every marriage. But money problems in marriage are not new. Over the years, disagreements about money have been described as one of the major causes of conflict among married couples.

In some cases the real trouble is related to attitudes about money. Gaining some awareness of one's spouse is one means to help forestall money difficulties.

* * *

It costs more to live in 1968 than it did in 1959. The computation of costs by the Bureau of Labor statistics is based on a pricing of goods and services in the fall of 1966.

The current figures show an increase over 1959 (when the last such study was done) of 43 percent for renting families and 52 percent for families who own their own homes.

But the change in cost is not just a difference in prices. As an agricultural economist at Michigan State University has put it — "It's the cost of high living" as well as the high cost of living that may give us trouble.

Lucille Ketchum, home management specialist, and Dr. Eugene Peisner, Family life specialist, Michigan State University, will present a discussion for Extension study group leaders on "Money and Your Marriage."

Study group leaders will have the opportunity to study the ways money can affect a marriage and some of the strategies that families use to manage money today.

* * *

Any person interested in money management is invited to attend either of two sessions: Tuesday, 9:30 a.m., Baldwin Library, Birmingham; Thursday, 9:30 a.m., Community Room, The Pontiac Mall.

Medical Costs Are Just Not the Same

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

If nobody in the family has been seriously ill or hospitalized for years, better whiff the dust off your health insurance policies and read them again — in a strong light.

You know theoretically, of course, that medical costs aren't what they used to be by a long shot. But you need to move in close and look at the coverage you can count on from your insurance in relation to what a medical emergency could total today. You don't expect one to happen, of course.

But neither did my healthy friend who fell and fractured her knee recently, and spent 19 days in the hospital; nor an acquaintance whose surprise was staggering when a "cough" necessitated a prompt lung hospitalization and convalesence.

* * *

So don't just assume that 1968 is going to be as carefree as past years have been. A little financial caution isn't going to jinx your luck.

You may find these Qs and As worth a going-over, as you reread your health insurance policies, or consider shopping for such protection, or broaden your protection, or figure out how you could pay the bills all on your own:

Q. Can you assume that because you have a group policy, you and your family will be "covered" for all medical costs in an emergency?

A. No. Even a modest percentage over and above the maximum the insurance company agrees to pay can amount to a sizable sum of money.

Q. What if you have both group insurance and a major medical?

A. Still be prepared to put out of your pocket. Miscellaneous expenses along, not covered by insurance, can run up when they include private duty nursing, use of phone, rented of TV, etc.

Q. What are the forms of insurance protection the family would benefit from, in reducing the high cost of illness to the very minimum?

A. There are five types: Hospital expense insurance (benefits ranging from 70 to 365 days); physician's expense insurance; surgical expense insurance; major medicals (benefits from $5,000 to $20,000); disability income insurance (loss of income insurance—usually about 60 per cent of individual's gross earning.)

Q. Are there any statistics to guide you in "guesstimating" what costs you'll run into in case of illness?

A. Latest available are from way back there in 1965: Average length of patient's stay in hospital was 9.9 days, for average cost of $502.33. In one specific, more recent case, a patient who ran up a $6,000 medical bill ended up paying $1,200 for miscellaneous expenses not covered even by group insurance for basics, plus a major medical.

Q. Could you raise the necessary medical funds if you're not insured at all?

A. The answer involves some other answers: How long would your company pay your salary if you were off the job? How's your credit at the bank? Do you have any ready "negotiables"—bonds, stocks, certificates of deposit, regular savings? How long could you stay in a hospital at today's high rates without going for broke?

Q. Are there any "gray areas" in your present policies which you aren't sure you can enterpret — such as exclusions or limitations involved in the insurance company's responsibility?

A. Could be. Have your agent spell them out to you—now, while you're healthy.

The program for the evening, entitled, "Project Hope," was highlighted with a film, "Legacy of Hope."

A question and answer period was led by Roy Adler, speech therapist from St. Joseph's Mercy Hospital.

Concluding the program was a talk given by Mrs. Michael Craft on the new teaching system being used in Bloomfield Hills schools. Mrs. Craft works for the Bloomfield Hills Board of Education.

Guests included Mrs. Henry Campeau and Mrs. Louis DeYonge.

Girl Scouts Tell Bird Fanciers to Build Early

NEW YORK (UPI) — Build birdhouses in winter and have them ready for the arrival of nesting birds in spring, say Girl Scouts of U. S. A.

Too often birdhouses are erected in summer after most birds have nested and when natural foliage already provides suitable nesting sites.

* * *

Good birdhouses can be made from simple materials such as large tin cans, tar paper and scraps of wood. To learn which kind of house is best suited to local species, consult bird books in the library.

Take Precaution in Disposing Cans

All aerosol containers should be disposed of with nonburnable trash. If you live in an apartment with an incinerator, inquire from the management whether the janitor picks up aerosols. Most city systems provide for adequate enclosure of trash and if your own community does not ask you to separate paper from other materials, you may safely put aerosols in the general trash.

Your Child's Heart—1

Parents Should Set Health Example

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the first article in a three-part series on how children can be taught to form good health habits to reduce the risk of heart attack in later life. The author also comments on heart transplant operations.)

By PAUL DUDLEY WHITE, M. D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

BOSTON — (NEA) — Parents today routinely take advantage of the protection given their children by vaccines against scarlet fever, chicken pox, diphtheria, measles, polio and numerous other diseases which were commonplace when my medical practice began.

In this series, I would like to convince parents everywhere that it is equally important to establish in their children certain health habits which in later years may substantially reduce the risk of heart attacks and strokes.

My test is this ancient maxim: " 'Tis educaton forms the common mind: Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined."

I strongly share the conviction of the American Heart Association, which is now observing its 20th anniversary as a national voluntary health agency, and which is an important part of my life and work, that the individual's risk is vastly improved if good heart and health habits are begun early in life and retained.

Many forces will in later years shape a child's susceptibility to heart attacks and strokes—among them physical inactivity, an overrich diet, cigarette smoking, excessive body weight, high blood pressure, genetic inheritance, the male sex, and increasing age.

A free public heart forum entitled "Heart Attack — Survival 1968" and sponsored by the Michigan Heart Association's Oakland County Heart Information Center and The Pontiac Press will be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 16 at Pontiac Northern High School.

BIG ROLE FOR PARENTS

The last three of these factors cannot be controlled. But the others are subject to modification by the individual.

The extent to which a person does the things that should be done will be conditioned in large measure by the habits which he or she develops in childhood. Parents play an extremely influential role in the development of these behavior patterns.

Both by precept and example, parents can establish for themselevs and their children a routine of regular physical activity consistent with their own or their children's conditions of health.

They should maintain normal weight, and make certain the children do the same.

They should abstain from smoking, thus setting a good example, and they should inform their children about the hazards of cigarette smoking.

DIET IMPORTANT

Mothers can help their children form good dietary habits by serving unsaturated fats (mostly vegetable oils) in place of saturated (mostly animal) fats and fewer foods rich in cholesterol.

Finally, the family can make doctor checkups a regular routine.

This is especially urgent insofar as adults are concerned, since the physician will have an opportunity to treat any high blood pressure, diabetes or other disorders his examinations may disclose.

If the habits suggested above are lastingly implanted, there is an excellent possibility that 10, 15 or even 20 additional years of life could be the bounty for each child.

* * *

Some parents violate all of these basic principles and still don't realize the harm they are doing.

Actually, they are increasing rather than reducing their children's probability of incurring premature cardiovascular disease.

LET THEM WALK

For example, some parents shield their children from wholesome physical activity. Instead of encouraging them to walk, they chauffeur them back and forth.

They may do nothing to persuade their children to engage in such wholesome sports as swimming, tennis, bicycle riding, running or hiking — activities which can become a lasting part of life-long exercise patterns.

Some parents are obese, and believe (as did their parents) that "a plump child is a healthy child." The mother ladles out high-calorie foods.

The children are admonished to clean up their plates, regardless of whether natural hunger has been satisfied. They are encouraged to take second helpings.

In some homes, both children and parents get virtually all their fat needs from marbleized meats, gravy, butter, milk, cheese and other saturated fats, with a minimum from such polyunsaturates as margarine, skimmed milk, vegetable oils and fish. High cholesterol foods (egg yolks and organ meats) are often served in abundance.

A great many parents smoke cigarettes, and then wonder why they can't stop their children from taking up the habit.

EARLY DETECTION

By failing to see their physicians regularly, parents fail to give their children an appreciation of the need for early detection of high blood pressure, diabetes and other diseases which can be treated best if diagnosed early.

To summarize: By taking the simple precautions I have mentioned, there is a good chance that both parents will live to see their children mature into long-lived people who are happy and healthy.

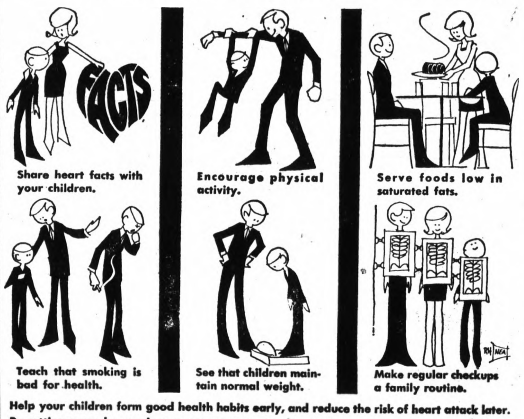
By failing to control these risk factors, parents take the chance that their own life spans may be shortened.

* * *

Furthermore, by setting a poor example, they encourage their children to adopt habits which may lead to premature heart attacks and strokes at ages considerably younger than those of the parents themselves.

In these circumstances, the outlook is not good for either parents or children, especially for the children.

(Next: The Importance of Physical Activity)



Help your children form good health habits early, and reduce the risk of heart attack later. By setting a good example, you protect your own heart, too.

Film on Helium Proves Popular

WASHINGTON (AP) — A film "Helium"—said by Bureau of Mines officials to be "a real gasser"—was among bureau films most requested last year for showing by schools and civic groups. Other films listed by the bureau in its "Top 10 for 1967 category included "The Magic of Sulfur" and "Washington and its natural resources" about the state and not the nation's capital.

The bureau said the 10 films —including another recounting "The Story of the Modern Storage Battery" — were shown 197,507 times and were seen by an estimated 10.5 million viewers.

5 Grants Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development Thursday approved urban planning assistance grants for five Michigan communities. The money, to be used for planning activites for one year, went to Lapeer County, $8,490; Frankfort, $8,040; Branch County, $6,474; Meridian Township in Ingham County, $11,176 and Emmet County, $4,930.

Khe Sanh Is Much Like Dien Bien Phu

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Fourteen years after the decisive French defeat in Indochina, U.S. Marines at Khe Sanh wait for battle in an outpost that looks like one synonymous with debacle in Vietnam—Dien Bien Phu.

The topography is similar, the same North Vietnamese general commands the Communist troops that surround the stronghold, and initiative is with the enemy.

* * *

U.S. military officials say there is a major difference—the American command's ability to supply its men with firepower, material and virtually unlimited air support.

The absence of these factors during the 55-day siege of Dien Bien Phu are considered the decisive factors that made possible the Viet Minh attack which overwhelmed the garrison May 7, 1954. Two months later, France was ready to leave Vietnam.

6,000 GIs

The Marine base at Khe Sanh, just south of the demilitarized zone near the Laotian border, is defended by 5,000 to 6,000 men. The French sent some 16,500 to their fortress about 180 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap's forces around Khe Sanh are believed to number about 20,000, some 10,000 less than the Vietminah attack troops he assembled at Dien Bien Phu, but another 20,000 are believed close at hand around the demilitarized zone.

* * *

While the Marines remain in their defensive position to block a campaign to take South Vietnam's northern provinces, the French conceived their Dien Bien Phu campaign as a way of bringing the Communists into a decisive conventional battle. But the French command was not prepared for the kind of fighting the Vietminh did.

Coolies and bearers carted heavy artillery piece by piece through heavy jungle. Then they were assembled on the rim of the valley and the murderous pounding began.

HEAVY VIETNIMAH LOSS

Outposts Gabrielle, Beatrice and Huguette fell under heavy enemy attack. The Vietminh took great losses, four times as many casualties as the French in one battle, but kept coming back.

Intense shelling—like that now aimed at Khe Sanh—eventually made landing supplies by air impossible for the French. Reinforcements and new material became limited to what could be parachuted into increasingly small secure areas.

* * *

Khe Sanh's Marine commander, Col. David Lownds, told AP correspondent George McArthur that Khe Sanh could be maintained without its airstrip. He said it had been done last fall when monsoon rains made the strip useless for more than a month. If it were to be closed again, U.S. troops among the more than 40,000 stationed within striking distance would presumably break through.

There were no French forces to come to the aid of the men dying at Dien Bien Phu. When the Vietminh's red flag went up on the garrison's command bunker, 3,000 French Union troops had died in the valley or on its hilly outposts. Another 7,000 prisoners died later in prison camps or forced marches.

NURSE SURVIVES

Among the survivors was a 29-year-old nurse, Lt. Genevieve de Galard Terraube. She and a handful of Vietnamese and Algerian prostitutes were the only women to live through the siege. She became known as the "angel of Dien Bien Phu."

"Our men received the catastrophe with a mixture of sadness and joy," she said. "They were sad to see lost what they fought for with such faith and sacrifice. They were glad because it was the end of the anguish."

* * *

Dien Bien Phu came back to the war communiques on July 2, 1965, when American F105 Thunderchiefs and A4 Skyhawks bombed a North Vietnamese base near the old battlefield.

For the late historian Bernard Fall, the lack of this kind of air power had been a key factor in the debacle. With better logistic support, he wrote, air power "would have saved Dien Bien Phu."

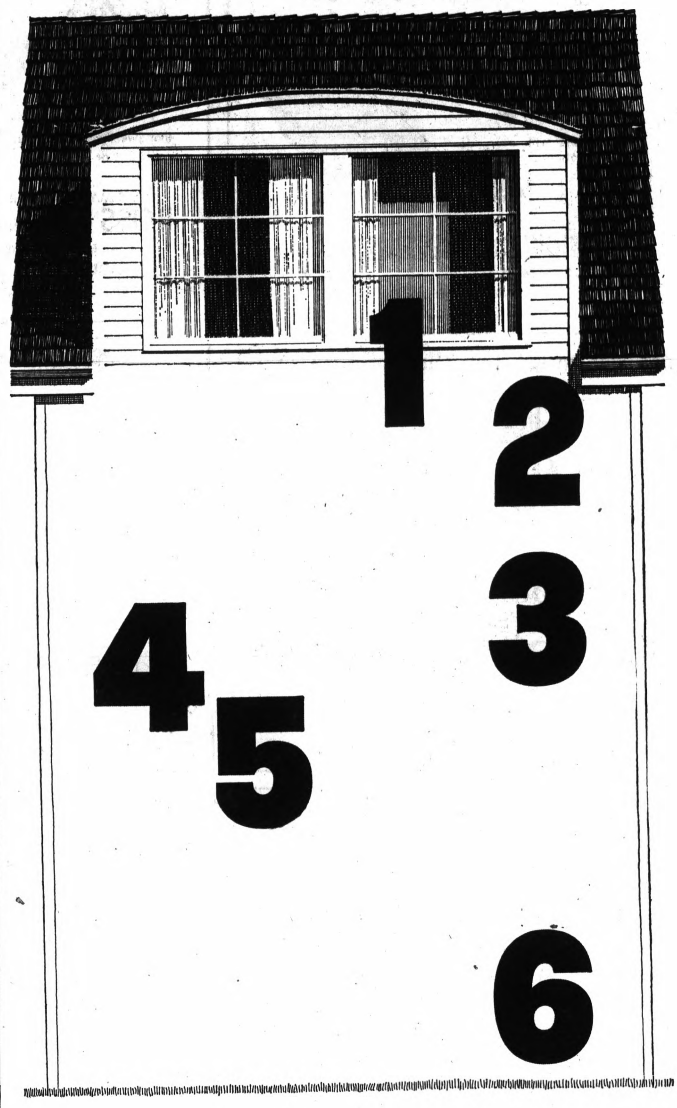
Six nice ways to put heat on the wife and kiddies.



Which of these electric heat systems would be best for your family? Let an Edison-approved electric heat contractor tell you. Without obligation, he'll survey your home and give you a carefully figured estimate of electric heat operating cost.

1. Radiant ceiling or wall panels. In these panels, modern electricity heats glass, ceramic or metal elements mounted in or on walls or ceilings.

2. Fan-forced units are mounted between studs or on walls. A low-velocity fan blows air across thermostatically controlled electric heat elements.

3. Baseboard heating units, at outside walls and under windows, provide warm air up walls and uniform heat throughout the room.

4. Floor drop-in units take the chill from in front of floor-to-ceiling window walls, sliding glass door walls, open stairwells and the inner side of exterior doors.

5. Radiant ceiling cable is unique. Only visible part is a thermostat. Heat cable is embedded in plaster. Ceiling can be decorated as you wish.

6. An electric furnace looks much like an ordinary furnace, but without a flame. Air is forced over electric heating coils and through ducts to warm cleanly, evenly. Electric hydronic types circulate hot water instead of air for radiant heat.

GLENWOOD PLAZA CORNER NORTH PERRY AT GLENWOOD

Reds in Hue Trying to Foment Popular Revolt

HUE, Vietnam (AP) — The Communist forces that all but overran Hue one week ago came with complete dossiers and photographs of enemies to be executed or arrested.

Intelligence sources say the Communist forces, numbering several thousand, planned to occupy the city and attempt to incite a popular uprising.

★ ★ ★

With half the city still in Communist hands after eight days, political commissars presumably are still pursuing that goal in areas under Red control.

The troops came with political commissars, wearing gold-colored Ho Chi Minh buttons and special arm bands, who went from house to house with dossiers on clipboards or in loose-leaf notebooks.

VERY POLITE

"When they gave an order it was obeyed immediately," said a refugee who was in Communist hands for four days.

The troops and the commissars in the initial days were exceptionally polite and tightly disciplined, many refugees reported.

They were predominantly North Vietnamese in dull khaki uniforms. A few, however, were from local guerrilla units. Many, obviously officers, wore no identification.

Details of North Vietnamese conduct were pieced together from refugees and other sources. The refugees, almost all with relatives and friends in enemy-occupied areas, were universally fearful and reluctant to talk.

STRANGE ACCENTS

They said the troops openly admitted they were from North Vietnam. In any event, their strange accents were immediately identified by the regionally minded Vietnamese. A few loosened up to the point of admitting they were from such places as Hanoi and Haiphong, and they swapped bits of nonpolitical gossip with the local people.

They would not, however, admit to being members of the regular North Vietnamese army. They said they belong to the "Quan Doi Giai Phong," the Liberation Army.

Among them were many identifiable students from the University of Hue acting as guides or wearing the uniform of Vietcong regulars.

Many Americans, both civilian and military, were known to have been taken prisoner. Several refugees reported that, at least at first, the Americans were being treated well, though kept under strict guard in several areas.

The few French civilians in the city were largely left alone once they proved they were not Americans. Some remained in Communist-occupied areas.

The Comunists took over several seemingly safe buildings for headquarters. One was a Catholic boys high school on the northern side of the city. Another was the former U.S. consulate on the south side, abandoned as a consulate in 1965 but still an official American residence.

The Communists seemed to have selected these sites in the belief American and South Vietnamese gunners would be reluctant to shell them.

Within the first 48 hours, the Communists had control of the city of about 40,000 and 100,000 others in environs.

In the political indoctrination the Communists sometimes came with a burst of gunfire in the doorway. Sometimes it was a routine knock on the door.

Cadres would knock on the door or burst inside, asking for American or South Vietnamese soldiers. If no soldiers were present, the Communist troops immediately became polite.

"We do not molest civilians," they would say. "Stay inside. Keep your doors closed and do not be afraid."

They distributed propaganda leaflets extolling the political programs of the National Liberation Front, appealing to the Vietnamese to argue with their relatives in the army of the Saigon government and condemning the Americans for the war.

The commissars also told the Vietnamese civilians that there were two kinds of Americans: Those who supported the war, and those who wanted peace.

They said the Americans who supported the war were considered to have "blood debts," but the others when taken captive would be sent home.

The Communists were harsher on the north side of the Perfume River, almost totally defended by South Vietnamese troops, than on the south side, where the fighting was being done by American Marines.

★ ★ ★

A Vietnamese officer who hid three days on the northern bank and later swam across to safety, reported his brother, a lieutenant, had been executed as he watched from a hiding place. Two other captured South Vietnamese officers in the same neighborhood were also reported shot.

Refugees said at least two ranking provincial officials had been executed and more were in captivity.

New Serum Helps Block Transplant Rejection

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Doctors here have devised another tool — a sort of biological blindfold — to help lessen the great danger of rejection following organ transplants, without killing the patient with massive drug doses.

This new serum, antilymphocyte globulin, or simply ALG, already has been used with impressive results in kidney and liver transplants at the University of Colorado Medical Center. It may prove to be useful in future heart transplants.

★ ★ ★

The serum was developed by the transplant research team at the medical center. It works on white blood cells called lymphocytes, the body's microscopic warriors that fight off strangers, whether they be germs bringing infection or the protein of a organ transplanted from another person.

ALG "blindfolds" these lymphocytes to the presence of the new organ, rendering them incapable of rejecting the new kidney or liver.

NO PANACEA

The doctors say ALG is no panacea — "there's nothing magical about it," said one — but they see it as a promising step along the way to controlling rejection, the big bugaboo facing any transplant, whether it be kidney or yeart.

★ ★ ★

Though some questions about ALG remain unanswered, the Denver team, headed by Dr. Thomas E. Starzl, reports the survival rate of kidney patients one year after transplant — with related donors — has risen from 70 to 95 per cent. About 60 kidney patients have received ALG since mid-1966.

★ ★ ★

Five liver transplant patients were given the injections. Three still are living, the only known survivors of such operations.

In both kidney and liver studies, the fatalities were not related to the serum.

Preliminary work on heart transplants is under way with animals in the laboratories here, but the transplant team has emphasized it is preliminary, and no immediate attempt with man is foreseen.

BY SPRING

However, Dr. Gilbert Blount Jr., head of the university's cardiology department, said in a speech in Texas the university should be capable of conducting a heart transplant by spring.

Dr. Christiaan Barnard, who has performed two human heart transplants in South Africa, said he and his associates "have thought a lot about this serum. We have carried out a lot of experiments with it, but have not used it clinically. There is still a lot of uncertainty and danger in it. In a new operation we do not want to risk complications."

The most common weapons used to head off rejection of new organs have been the drugs azathioprine and prednisone.

But massive doses of prednisone can open the way to diabetes, decalcification, ulcers, Cushing's disease and high blood pressure.

HEAVILY TOXIC

Azathioprine, or Imuran, is also heavily toxic in large doses.

Doctors here found that by giving ALG just before and up to four months after transplant, the prednisone dosage often could be halved, and the amount of azathioprine significantly reduced, without harming function of the new kidney.

Antilymphocyte globulin is obtained by injecting horses with human lymph nodes, spleens and thymus, then extracting the serum from the immunized animals and refining it.

The drawbacks to its use include evidence that overdoses can lead to nephritis in the transplanted kidney. That is the same disease that in many cases destroyed the patient's own kidneys. However, biopsies of the first eight kidneys implanted in patients getting ALG showed no sign of this.

NOT SELECTIVE

ALG, like other known immunosuppressive agents, is not selective. While it dampens the body's capability of fighting off the new organ, it also lowers resistance to infection.

Pain, fever and tenderness at the injection site almost always accompany the ALG shots. Patients often develop hives. Some patients developed more serious reactions, and injections were halted in the case of eight. But in no case was the patient's life endangered, and after more than 2,000 doses there have been no drug-related fatalities.

★ ★ ★

It is felt ALG has helped override some of the difficulty involved in transplanting an organ from a poorly matched donor. But, the doctors say, "it is highly unlikely that it will be the kind of panacea which will permit indiscriminate pairing of all donor-recipient combinations in the unrelated population. For a given recipient, however, it should expand the pool of cadaveric donors from which a biologically acceptable organ could be obtained."

HITLER'S LAST GAMBLE: THE BATTLE OF THE BULGE by Jacques Nobecourt (Schocken Books Inc., $8.95): A Frenchman's view of the December 1944 attempt by Adolf Hitler's weakened armies of the West to cripple Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forces then nudging against Germany's frontier.

The author builds an argument to suit his discussion of the French angle in the affair—mainly, Charles de Gaulle's refusal to allow French troops commanded by Eisenhower to pull back from Strasbourg.

Nobecourt slides into his narrative his own interpretation of various events and uses some questionable data.

Contrary to the author, most authorities report that President Roosevelt and not Gen. George command of the Allied armies although Marshall wanted the post.

The author paints a savage brief protrait of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, a portrait even MacArthur detractors might find woefully unfair.

★ ★ ★

The publishers refer to the book as THE account of the battle. It is an account, full of one man's prejudices and little new light.

THE GREAT CONSPIRACY, by Donald Barr Chidsey (Crown $3.95): He was one of history's greatest losers. He had lost his mother and father before he was two years old.

He lost his health in the Revolution. He lost the presidency by one vote and later lost the governorship of New York, together with control of the party machinery there.

He won the duel with Hamilton, but as a result of this "victory" he lost tremendously in prestige and in his profession. He lost his great gamble in the West.

He lost his only daughter, his only grandchild as well. He lost many fortunes.

But Aaron Burr never seemed to mind. He kept smiling. He had a wonderful time.

So did Donald Barr Chidsey, who summed up another of his popular histories in the 126 words quoted above.

★ ★ ★

The author avoids a personal conclusion as to whether Burr actually was guilty of treason against the United States.

But he shows no hesitation in going after Thomas Jefferson as the persecutor of Burr and the Father of Democracy comes off rather worse than he customarily is handled in American history books.

These Koreans Get Close Look at Foe

OUTPOST 752, Korea (AP) — A never ending war goes on here between the Republic of Korea and Communist North Korea, a war mostly of broadcasts but sometimes of bullets.

Outpost 752 and its strongpoint to the right, Outpost 751, are the closest approach to the North Korean lines.

★ ★ ★

Most of the 151-mile Korean front is divided by a swath of more than two miles, half of it owned by the American and Korean United Forces and half by the Communists.

But here on the Kimpo Peninsula, extreme western sector of the front, the dividing line is the Han River and the Han-Imjin river estuary. The lines are only 4,000 feet or so apart.

MARINE BRIGADE

Holding this sector of 32 miles, about one-fifth of the entire front, is the 5th Republic of Korea Marine Brigade, commanded by Brig. Gen. Lee Pyung-moon.

Outpost 751, on top of a wind-swept peak that commands the surrounding terrain, contains a powerful loudspeaker system which sends periodic propaganda broadcasts toward the Communist troops just a gunshot away.

★ ★ ★

Across the river and easily discernible through binoculars is a similar system that throws Communist propaganda at the South.

As the ROK marines endlessly scan the other side through telescopes and periscopes, so do the Communist troops peer at this side. Communist broadcasts start about five minutes after visitors to the southern outposts arrive.

USUAL SHOW

"They know we're here and they're putting on their usual show," said Maj. Frank Zimolzak of the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., area, second in command of the 15-man American Marine advisory team to the ROK marine brigade.

Sometimes this continual war of words erupts into gunfire. Since last March the Communists have stepped up attempts to penetrate the peninsula. Several have been either killed or captured by the Korean marines.

★ ★ ★

The brigade, possibly 5,000 combat troopers, has been on a full combat alert since the abortive attempt on President Chung Hee Park's life Jan. 21 and the North Korean capture of the USS Pueblo two days later.

But the ROK marines are almost always on full alert status as they guard what is known as the "back door to Seoul." When the North Koreans invaded the South in June 1950 their main stab came down the classic invasion route, just to the right of the Kimpo Peninsula. This is an 18-mile-wide area now held by the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division. But the thrust that caused the total collapse of South Korean forces then and resulted in the Communist capture of Seoul came down this peninsula.

The ROK marines are determined that this shall not happen again even though they are spread thin and are armed with weapons of World War II and Korean War vintage: American M1 rifles, carbines, Browning 30-caliber machine guns and Browning automatic rifles.

Along the front-line trenches, automatic 40mm cannon and batteries of heavy machine guns in quadruple mounts, also old but very practical weapons, stare down at the Han River.

When the Han, and the Imjin at its confluence with the Han, are not frozen or filled with ice floes, as they are now, the marines man "water ambush" positions, low silbouette motor boats with four or five riflemen who seek to intercept raiders coming across in rubber boats or by individual flotation devices something like water-wings.

FEW GET THROUGH

Few get through. Most of those who do are caught or killed. Zimelzak remembers one who got across and tried to get back. He was thwarted by one of the powerful whirlpools in the Han that kept pitching him back up ont he southern bank. After three tries, he was so exhausted that he gave up without a struggle.

The ROK marines are healthy and tough and knew how to take care of and handle their guns. Every man in the brigade, Zimolzak says, is either a veteran of the fighting in Vietnam or has volunteered to go.

★ ★ ★

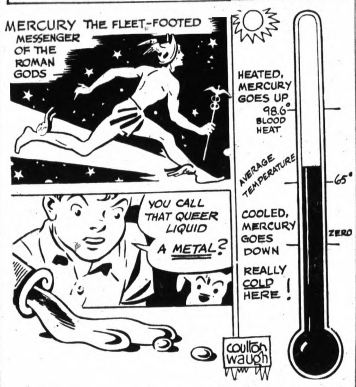
Sure of their ability, the ROK marines permit villagers and peasants to live and work in—and in front of—the primary defense line. This is the only place along the Korean DMZ that this is so. Elsewhere, normal rural life is limited to what is considered a safe distance behind the lines.

Besides their warlike activities, the marines build roads, construct dams and help gather in rice at harevst time.

★ ★ ★

Each marine company is engaged in a cooperative agreement with a certain village. The marines look after the villagers in various ways and the villagers return the favor both by reporting Communist intruders and helping out however they can with problems of individual marines, most of whom are serving far from home.

Junior Editors Quiz on MERCURY



QUESTION: Why is mercury called a metal when it is a liquid?

ANSWER: We think of metals as hard shiny substances. It seems strange to realize that mercury, which we see in fluid form in our thermometers, is actually a metal. But mercury meets the chemical specifications for metals, in that it conducts heat and electricity, may be fused with other metals, and so on.

All metals will become fluid with enough heat. The peculiar thing about mercury is that it is in a fuid form at temperatures in which we live, while other metals are solid. If the temperature falls to 38 degrees below zero, however, it will become solid.

When mercury is heated, it expands in size and when cooled, becomes smaller. This is why it is used in thermometers (right), since it keeps going up and down inside the glass tube and so tells us exactly what the temperature is.

Fluid mercury rolls along quickly. It was named after the mythical Mercury, messenger of the Roman gods, who was very fast and quick.

Mercury has many uses. It is combined with chlorine to make the medicine calomel. Mercuric chloride is used as an antiseptic. Mercury is used in making a red paint called vermilion.

From the Press Box

BY BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Into every athletic program, normally for the losing teams, some rain must fall.

What's surprising is when teams are winning, why their success should be clouded by little recognition.

Of course, winning or losing, high school athletes deserve attention for their efforts and a sports department such as here at The Press honestly tries to give fair and due recognition to all the teams, despite the letters which constantly claim preference for one and deference for another.

There are many circumstances involved in why and what teams get particular positions on the sports pages, and there are many reasons why the results of some teams are even omitted.

When parents and fans write or call to complain about sports coverage of certain teams we try to explain the particular problem which may have had a bearing on the story or its contents if the fault lies with us.

But, in more than half of the cases, the failure goes back to the school and the responsible people.

We have said very often in the past that coaches shouldn't be expected to also be public relations directors, but until the day when high schools specifically name a faculty member for public relations duties, the coaches are going to have to shoulder the burden of cooperating with the news media in getting their sports information reported.

USE STUDENTS

Some schools with adequate student journalism departments utilize and develop the talents of these students to be liaison communicators with the news media.

★ ★ ★

This is good, because these students who eventually want to pursue a profession in communication arts, learn much about styles, policies, methods of providing information and even the writing end to help their futures.

Until the schools do something more effective in setting up a faculty public relations position or to better student journalism programs, the taxpayers and fans in the school districts will and have the right to complain when mention or the results of their particular sport cannot be found.

For those people who wonder why the football team of one school gets so much attention and the baseball or swimming team hardly gets a line, the staff of this sports department recently made a listing of most schools in the Oakland County area awarding them "cooperative" points in each sport.

COOPERATION RATINGS

Five points was the maximum award per sport, and the total number of sports at a given school was divided into the total points awarded and the average was the rating of "cooperation" given.

★ ★ ★

Several schools could have received a maximum "5" in football and basketball and possibly a "0" in track or swimming or a rating of "1," "2," "3" or "4" in some other sport.

Many things of course are taken into consideration in deciding what teams of a school merit a "5" or any lower rating. Most important factor however is the consistency of cooperation received in reporting game information and team results.

We've mentioned this cooperative attitude many times in past years, but in event fans are interested in our rating of their schools here is our recent "Most Cooperative" poll by over-all percentage.

A 5.0 rating is perfect and for the umpteenth time, the honor goes to Orchard Lake St. Mary.

Discount Practices to Athletes Stirs 'M' Campus

Big 10 Sees Probable Violations

ANN ARBOR (AP) — University of Michigan athletes have been receiving discounts, free passes and part-time jobs at businesses and movie theaters, in probable violations of Big Ten rules, the Michigan Daily reported in a copyrighted story in its Friday edition.

The campus newspaper said one local restaurant, a men's shop and two theaters told of giving discounts and free merchandise to Michigan varsity athletes.

In addition, the paper reported one former pharmacy owner said he has given discounts, free meals and part-time jobs to athletes in a nine-year period from 1958 to 1967.

When asked about the discount policy, Wolverine basketball Coach Dave Strack said: "I didn't realize that they were such a common practice, but I knew, of course, that they weren't an uncommon practice.

"I've never thought about their legality and I am frankly surprised that they are considered illegal aid."

CONSIDERED VIOLATION

John D. Dewey, Big Ten assistant commissioner and examiner, was quoted by the paper saying he would consider this discount practice a violation of conference rules.

"If discounts are given only to athletes to the exclusion of other students, then they are illegal," Dewey told the Michigan Daily in a telephone interview from Chicago.

There was no immediate indication if the Big Ten planned to investigate the allegations, but Dewey said he planned to keep informed on any developments.

★ ★ ★

U-M Athletic Director H. O. "Fritz" Crisler told the paper, "I will conduct an immediate investigation and clamp down on anything uncovered."

Under Big Ten rules, athletes are prohibited from accepting any financial aid except support from their parents, guardians, university scholarships or earnings from nonuniversity employment which is obtained "without the assistance in any way of any employe or representative of the athletic department of a member university."

Crisler plans to retire sometime this year, and among the list of eight candidates interviewed as possible successors were Strack, football Coach Bump Elliott, track coach Don Canham and golf coach Bert Katzenmeyer.

All five businessmen, the paper reported, said that Michigan's coaches knew and approved of the discount practices.

"The entire team that makes the training table starts the season off by going to Tice's (a local men's habadashery) for $10 worth of free clothing, usually a pair of slacks," said Paul Johnson, a senior football tackle from Bay City, Mich.

MOVIE PASSES

G.H. Hoag, manager of the Michigan Theater, told of giving 3,000 free movie passes annually to football players after games.

John Smith, manager of the State Theater, confirmed this, saying that last fall, student football manager Steve Kenney of Norwalk, Conn., picked up tickets before games and distributed them to the players after the games.

"Hoag set up the policy a long time ago with Bump Elliott," Smith was quoted by the paper as saying. Both movie houses are operated by the same company.

The Brown Jug, an Ann Arbor restaurant, provided to athletes meals at discount prices, said Manager Pat Paron.

"I have a policy of giving 10 per cent discounts to players and have on occasion given free meals to the basketball players when the coach has sent them over," said Paron.

The Daily listed a number of Michigan athletes who told of receiving free gifts and discounts, from local merchants, including senior linebacker Dennis Morgan of Phoenisville, Pa., and split end Jim Berlien of Niles, Ohio.

French Ski Star Wins Downhill Event

3 American Girls Share 'Silver' in Speed Skating

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — Jean Claude Killy, France's colossus of the ski slopes, won the men's downhill race at the Winter Olympic Games today while three American girls sprang a major surprise by sharing silver medal honors in the 500-meter speed skating test.

Killy, 25-year-old ace of the powerful French Alpine team, beat countryman Guy Perillat by a slender margin for the gold medal in the downhill, with J. Daniel Daetwyler of Switzerland third and the four-man American contingent far off the pace.

The victory opened Killy's bid to match the 1956 feat of former Austrian star Toni Sailer, who won all three Olympic Alpine events — the downhill, slalom and giant slalom.

Mary Meyers of St. Paul, Minn., Dianne Holum of Northwood, Ill., and Jenny Fish of Strongsville, Ohio, provided the speed skating fireworks, finishing in a startling three-way tie behind gold medalist Ludmila Titova of Russia in the women's 500-meter race.

The American trio finished with identical times of 46.3 seconds — two-tenths of a second behind the winner — and each will receive a silver medal, highest award ever captured by U.S. girls in Olympic speed skating competition.

SPLIT SECOND

Killy, the world's premier skier, zipped down the Chamrousse slopes in one minute, 59.85 seconds to win the downhill race, postponed Thursday because of bad weather, by less than one-tenth of a second.

Perillat, starting in the No. 1 position, had set a bristling race of 1:59.93. Daetwyler finished in 2:00.32 and fourth-place Heinrich Messner of Austria in 2:01.03.

Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., skiing on a tender left ankle which he sprained two days ago during practice, could do no better than 18th, with a 2:03.40 clocking.

Dennis McCoy of Bishop, Calif., was 21st in 2:04.82, but the other two U.S. starters, Jere Elliott and Jim Barrows, both of Steamboat Springs, Colo., were among five of the 62 skiers who did not finish.

"I just skied badly," Kidd said. "I was terrible at the turns. My ankle was all right. It gave me no trouble."

Killy announced after the race that he would retire from competition after the World Cup race in Heavenly Valley Calif., April 5-7. "I'm very happy about this victory," he said. "I'm especially happy I showed that I was in as good form as at Portillo two years ago."

Killy won the downhill event at the 1966 world championships at Portillo, Chile.

The 2.890-meter downhill course was slowed by above-freezing temperatures when the race, which had been postponed Thursday because of wind, snow and fog, got underway.

Both Kidd and McCoy said the course was very fast in the top reaches and slow on the lower part.

FIRST MEDAL

The day's first gold medal went to Toini Gustafsson of Sweden, who ended Russia's reign in the women's 10-kilometer cross country ski race with a wire-to-wire victory.

There were no Americans entered in the demanding distance test.

Miss Meyers, winner of the 500-meter race at the 1967 World speed skating championships, seized the halfway lead today with her clocking as the girls skated in pairs against the clock at the outdoor rink in Grenoble.

However, after the ice was resurfaced for the second section of competitors, Miss Titova flashed around the track in 46.1.

Peggy Fleming Certain Winner of Gold Medal

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — America's Peggy Fleming would have to fall 20 times and wind up landing on her ear to lose the Olympic gold medal in the ladies' free-style figure skating final Saturday, her rivals conceded today.

"Peggy—she is much too good. No one has a chance to catch her," said Gabrielle Seyfert of East Germany, who placed second to Miss Fleming in the compulsory figures completed Thursday.

★ ★ ★

Tracing five figures brilliantly, the 19-year-old ice ballerina from Colorado Springs, Colo., rolled up 1,062.1 points to 984.9 for Miss Seyfert, 960.0 for Austria's Beatrix Schuba, and 943.2 for Hana Maskova, the European champion from Czechoslovakia.

Miss Maskova, 18, a student at Prague and a shapely, brown-eyed brunette who has been labelled the prettiest girl in the 10th Winter Olympics, joined in the raves for her American opponent.

"Peggy is a marvelous free skater and she will win quite easily," admitted the Czech girl. "The only competition is for the silver and bronze medals."

★ ★ ★

Ladies' figure skating normally is full of politics and petty jealousies, Contestants can be as catty as a houseful of sorority sisters. But around the Stade de Glace, scene of the figure skating event, you can't find a sour word for the slim American champion.

HIGH JUMPER

Kasumi Yamashita, one of the three pretty and talented Japanese skaters, put it very succinctly:

"Peggy is very gracious (graceful). Her jumps are high and stable. She is the best."

Karen Magnusson, the 15-year-old Canadian champion from Vancouver, said, "Peggy is absolutely beautiful. She does everything wonderfully—the figures and the free skating."

Miss Schuba, 16, her blonde hair tied in a bun, laughed when someone asked if she, in third place, had a chance of making up the difference in free-skating.

"Oh, no, no," she insisted. "It is impossible. We have no chance."

Even the Russians admitted that Miss Fleming was the sport's unparalleled queen.

"Peggy, she is way up here," Elena Cheglova of the Soviet Union said through an interpreter, lifting one hand above her head. "And the rest of us—we are way down here."

CLEARING THE AREA — Detroit Red Wing Paul Henderson (19) was charged with a penalty for interference on this play as he tried to break up the rush on the Detroit net by tossing New York's Camille Henry (21) out of the goal area. The Rangers made a rush on the net but failed to score on this play, however they did win the game, 3-2.

Red Wings Mired Deeper in Basement

DETROIT (AP) — Sid Abel normally shrugs off defeat with a professional we'll get them next time" attitude.

But the manager-coach of the Detroit Red Wings was visibly disturbed after a 3-2 loss to the New York Rangers Thursday night.

In the only other game played, Los Angeles turned back Pittsburgh 3-1 on the West Coast.

"This was a very important hockey game for us," said Abel, whose club has lost 11 of its last 16 games, including four of its last five.

The Wings are last in the National Hockey League's East Division, nine points out of the final playoff slot with 22 games to play.

The victory extended the Rangers' unbeaten string to three games and moved them into the sole position of fourth place, two points up on idle Toronto.

FROM BEHIND

The Wings battled back from 1-0 and 2-1 deficits to tie the game twice but were beaten on Rod Gilbert's 20th goal at the 12:27 mark of the third period.

He fired a shot between defenseman Gary Bergman's legs and past Detroit netminder Roger Crozier.

"We looked like we were ready to go in the third period," said Abel. "But we make one mistake and they score."

The Wings' frustrations came to a head late in the game when Bergman drew a 10-minute misconduct penalty for disputing an official's decision that Detroit had too many players on the ice.

"I only had one leg over the boards when he (linesman Pat Shetler) made the call," said Bergman. "One of New York's guys (Arnie Brown) came on early once but they didn't call it."

The Rangers took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Bob Nevin's shot. Bergman's goal, on a power play, knotted the score but the Rangers jumped back in front on Harry Howell's goal at 6:24 of the second period.

Detroit's Norm Ullman tied the score with his 28th goal, before Gilbert slammed home his clincher.

Chicago Regains Victory Formula Against Pistons

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bulls, who had lost nine games in a row, gave the Detroit Pistons an excellent chance to make it 10, but the Pistons seemed too embarrassed to take advantage of it and now the Bulls are working on a winning streak of one.

Late in the second quarter of their National Basketball Association game Thursday night, the Bulls were trailing by 15 points. Imagine their surprise when they won by 21, 131-110.

Jerry Sloan led a drive late in the first half that closed the gap at the intermission to 61-57 and early in the third period Barry Clemens, with five points, sparked a Chicago surge of 10 straight points and the Bulls were never threatened after that.

In other NBA games, Baltimore edged San Diego 106-102, Seattle whipped Los Angeles 115-110 and San Francisco humbled Cincinnati 126-109.

Jim Ryun Leads MSU Relay Field

EAST LANSING (AP) — World mile record holder Jim Ryun will lead a wholesale assault on existing times and distances at the 45th annual Michigan State Relays Saturday.

Ryun is a good bet to lower his meet record of 4:03.7 set last year. The Kansas star won't have any strong opposition to push him, but a below four-minute mile is still a possibility.

Ryun wouldn't have to strain too much to better the American indoor mark of 4:02.8 for an eight-lap, unbanked track, held by Conrad Nightingale of Kansas State.

Records also could fall in the long jump, pole vault, high jump, high and low hurdles and in the mile relay, two-mile relay and spring medley relay — nine of the 18 events.

Defending champ John Rainwater of Missouri will be after the long jump mark of 24 feet 9½ inches. Rainwater has done 24 feet 11¾ inches.

ABOVE RECORD

Ted Downing of Miami of Ohio could top the high jump record of 6 feet 9 inches. Downing jumped 6-10 last Saturday in a dual meet at Notre Dame.

Michigan State's Roland Carter is a strong possibility for erasing the present 15-5 pole vault mark. He has cleared 16-0 twice this winter.

MSU's Charles Pollard has the meet record of :08.2 in the 70-yard high hurdles and is defending champ. George Byers of Kansas is defending in the 70-yard lows, where the record is :07.7. both could win in new record times.

If the 60-yard dash mark of :06.1 isn't beaten, it should be tied. Bill Hurd of Notre Dame, the defending champ, tied the mark last week.

The relays events have strong entries from Michigan State, Michigan, Kansas, Drake and Notre Dame to threaten existing times in the mile, two-mile and sprint medley relays.

Dave Nelson Requests Withdrawal of Name for U. of M. Position

ANN ARBOR (AP) — David Nelson, athletic director at the University of Delaware, withdrew his name Thursday from a list of eight candidates being considered as possible successors to retiring University of Michigan Athletic Director H. O. "Fritz" Crisler.

Robben W. Fleming, the university's new president, made the announcement, saying Nelson told him he was "content to stay where he is."

Fleming is expected to name a successor to Crisler in the near future, possibly at the Board of Regents meeting next Thursday.

Full Basketball Slate for Big Ten Teams

By United Press International

Front-running Ohio State was a solid home court favorite and challenging Illinois a foreign court underdog for Saturday's key games in a full slate of big Ten basketball contests.

The Buckeyes will be at home against one of the defending co-champions, Michigan State, and Ohio State, boasting a 5-1 conference record and the best overall performance in the league was a nine-point pick.

Illinois, the only other team in the circuit with only one Big Ten loss at 4-1, will be on the road at intra-state rival Northwestern. The Wildcats, only half a game behind the Illini, were a seven-point choice.

In other games, Iowa, tied for third place with Northwestern at 4-2, appears at Michigan and the Hawkeyes were only an even bet, although Michigan has won only once in six league games and only six of 16 all season. Iowa has a 10-6 season mark.

Wisconsin, in a three-way tie with Purdue and Michigan State for third place, was a slim four-point favorite to down Indiana, 2-4 in the league, in the televised afternoon game and climb into the first division.

Purdue, boasting the league-leading scorer in sophomore Rick Mount, was a 15-point choice at home against last place Minnesota, 4-13 for the season and 1-6 in the Big Ten.

BEST OF DAY

The Northwestern-Illinois battle could be the best of the day. The Illini rank as the league's toughest defensive club, allowing its opponents only 60 points per game, but the Illini also have the least potent offense, netting only 64.2 points per game. Despite the defensive strength, Illinois has committed the fewest fouls in the league as well.

High Rated N. Carolina Not Rattled

By The Associated Press

You can beat that drum, scream and yell. You're not going to get the North Carolina Tar Heels rattled in a college basketball game away from home.

The nationally ranked Tar Heels, No. 3 in The Associated Press poll, won their 14th straight by defeating Wake Forest 80-60 at Winston-Salem, N.C., Thursday night. They didn't lose their poise even when they were behind 10-3 and the Wake Forest crowd was raising the roof.

"When we play away from home everyone is shooting at us and there is a lot of screaming," said Dean Smith, North Carolina coach. "I am happy we can keep our poise."

Larry Miller led North Carolina with 23 points and Charlie Scott added 21. Rusty Clark dominated the boards.

Duke, looking ahead to its meeting with North Carolina in next month's Atlantic Coast Conference championship tourney, also won on the road.

Mike Lewis' 28 points and 18 rebounds led the Blue Devils to a 78-54 victory over Southern Illinois in the opener of a doubleheader that marked the end of college basketball in New York's old Madison Square Garden.

Duke had been upset 72-63 by Southern Illinois in last year's NIT tournament. NYU defeated Southern Illinois in the opener of a doubleheader that marked the end of college basketball in New York's old Madison Square Garden.

Pitt Cage Mentor Offers Resignation

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Timmons has resigned as basketball coach at the University of Pittsburgh—but only after issuing a stern warning to college athletics.

"The pressures and burdens brought about by big-time intercollegiate athletics, to me, aren't worth it now," Timmons said Thursday as he announced he was quitting after this, his 15th season.

Timmons said all the fun had gone out of the game for him.

Timmons has a career record of 172-184 but his last four teams have all been big losers after he put two straight squads in postseason tournaments (1963 and 1964).

Eaglets' Ace Keeping Pace

High-scoring Tim Megge and his Orchard Lake St. Mary teammates will put the finishing touches on their Northwest Parochial League schedule tonight and then turn their attention to the Catholic League High School second division tournament which opens Sunday in Detroit.

The Eaglets, who sewed up the Northwest championship last week, entertain Waterford Our Lady of Lakes this evening. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Eaglets take on St. Gabriel Sunday at 5 p.m. at the University of Detroit Memorial Building in the first round of the second division playoffs.

A victory Sunday would send the Eaglets into the second round Feb. 17 against the winner of Sunday's St. Gregory-Detroit St. Thomas contest. Tournament finals are slated for 7 p.m. Feb. 25.

The WOLL-Orchard Lake St. Mary tilt this evening brings together three of the county's top 20 scorers.

TOP SCORER

Megge leads the scoring parade with an average of 25.9 through 12 games.

★ ★ ★

Moving onto the court for WOLL will be Dan Sioma, averaging 16.8, and Dennis McCulloch, who's sporting a mark of 16.6.

Holding down the second spot a little more than two points (average) back of Megge is Jack Zwemer of Detroit Country Day at 23.4.

Tim Merchel, third last week, tallied only 32 points in two games and fell to fourth behind Milford's Mark Giegler.

★ ★ ★

Midland's Dave MacDonald continues to have things all to himself in the Saginaw Valley Conference. In 11 contests, the slender MacDonald has tossed in 275 points for a mark of 25.0.

Par Breakers Plentiful in Initial Round

Unknown Jim Powell Fires 64 to Lead San Diego Field

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The par wreckers of golf, who had a pretty busy day in the first round, set forth again today in the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Tournament with virtually unknown Jimmy Powell in the lead.

★ ★ ★

Powell, a strapping 6-footer who teaaches the game for a living at Indian Hills Golf Club in Riverside, Calif., gave such more renowned pros as Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper and Arnold Palmer a lesson on how to whip the Torrey Pines Golf Club's par 36-36—72.

★ ★ ★

He did it Thursday over the 6,792-yard layout with 32-32—64, the lowest score of the 1968 PGA winter tour, and moved into today's play with a lead of two strokes.

★ ★ ★

Powell's eight-under-par performance didn't surprise him. He said very frankly that when he is confident of his game, he'll score low. "I was confident," said Powell.

VACATION ENDS

Nicklaus, ending a three-week vacation from competition, was three shots back of the leader with 33-34—67, Casper was in the 68 bracket after 34-34 and Palmer was even par with 36-36—72.

Questionables Offer No Doubt

The Questionables outlasted Petrolanes, 74-69, while Sam Allen's ran away from Local 594, 71-47, in National League men's city recreation basketball Thursday night.

A 30-25 edge from the field proved the difference for the Questionables. Luther Miller scored 22 points and John Daniels 18. Charles Robison hit 21 and Nick Halsema 17 for the losers.

★ ★ ★

Sam Allen's outscored the unionmen in every quarter, holding a 36-24 margin at the half.

Four players were in double figures for the victors. Jeff Meyer tallied 17 and teammate Ken Carpenter outdueled the losers' Bob Carter, 22-20, to take game honors.

Randy Wallick, an offensive end from Dixon, Ill., will captain Dartmouth's football team next season. Wallick caught 13 passes in 1967.

READY TO PROWL—John Hand, Detroit Tigers' equipment manager for the past 33 years, had the baseball gear packed and ready for shipment today to Lakeland, Fla., where the Tigers will begin spring training Feb. 24. Many of the baseball club officials are planning to leave over the weekend to get the Lakeland camp ready for the Tigers, many of whom also plan to be early arrivals.

Pesticides Prime Coho Suspect

LANSING (AP) — Pesticide poisoning appears to be the prime suspect in a major dieoff among young salmon being reared in Michigan hatcheries, the State Conservation Commission was told Thursday.

★ ★ ★

Brad Durling, head of the Conservation Department's hatchery program, said scientists are not yet ready to pinpoint the blame.

★ ★ ★

But he said the deaths are similar to those among young trout in Canada, where DDT was blamed.

"DDT appears to be the prime suspect," said Commissioner Matt Laitala of Hancock.

Other commission members agreed.

★ ★ ★

"Some Coho fry hatched from eggs taken from Lake Michigan salmon last fall are showing typical symptoms of pesticide poisoning," said Ralph MacMullan, commission director.

During said deaths among young salmon still are being recorded at the department's Wolf Lake hatchery. He estimated 350,000 will die, about 25 per cent of the salmon at the hatchery.

★ ★ ★

Some 75,000 salmon deaths are expected at the Charlevoix hatchery and scattered deaths, with the same symptoms, have been noted at other hatcheries.

Durling reported the dieoff hits the fish just as they are about able to feed in the tanks. They go into convulsions, sink to the bottom of the tank and then die.

★ ★ ★

He reported that a possible virus disease, a bacterial disease or iodine or other deficiency have been nearly eliminated as causes of the salmon deaths.

★ ★ ★

The fish, he said, all are being reared from eggs taken from Lake Michigan and Lake Superior salmon. The Lake Michigan salmon, he said, are known to have one or two parts per million of DDT in their system.

Christian Five 90-71 Loser

URBANA, Ohio — Michigan Christian Junior College hopes its Homecoming will be more enjoyable than Thursday's trip here for a rematch with Urbana College.

★ ★ ★

The Warriors were handed only their second loss in the last seven outings, 90-71, and their record slipped to 9-9. Both losses were to Urbana.

Gale Trees led the winners with 26 points, besting MCJC's Garth Pleasant (23) for game honors.

Jim Harris added 21 and Bill Leak 10 for Michigan Christian who trailed, 42-33, at the intermission.

★ ★ ★

The Warriors return to the Avondale gym for a 3 p.m. Saturday Homecoming encounter with Detroit Bible College in a Michigan Christian College AA league game.

Knuckleballer Phil Niekro of the Atlanta Braves made 19 wild pitches last season.

Cassius: 'Fight for My People'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Cassius Clay said Thursday that he's finished with boxing.

"All I want to do is work in country towns, teaching the truth, in the big fight for my people," said the former heavyweight boxing king.

He is in Phoenix to fulfill a Black Muslum speaking engagement.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs won 20 games last season and completed 20 while appearing in 38 National League games.

By JERE CRAIG

Time passes quickly and memories often become inaccurate and even blacked out. Sometimes it's pleasant experiences that fail to stay with us.

Peggy Bender was one of the nicest things that happened to bowling in the Pontiac area, and particularly to the Pontiac Woman's Bowling Association.

Yet there may be a few members — new to the organization in the past couple years — who don't realize what a vital factor she was in the development of the PWBA.

★ ★ ★

Of course, those who join in the future will only have the memories of those who knew best "Madame PWBA," who died last Sunday at age 62.

★ ★ ★

The organization began with less than 40 members at its inception in 1933. When Peggy took over as secretary in 1946, the PWBA rolls included 1,222 names. The list grew to the 10,000 mark during her 19 years in office.

Peggy's scoring achievements on the lanes won't earn her a spot in Pontiac's Bowling Hall of Fame (should this project ever materialize) and much of her administrative accomplishments were the type that only other officers would be aware of them.

Thus it is quite fitting that the PWBA board members have already voted to create the Peggy Bender Memorial Award.

The first of the annual presentations to the area woman who has done the most to promote the sport will be made April 28th at the association's general membership meeting in the Elks Temmple.

Action will begin tomorrow and Sunday in the eighth annual Dublin Doubles Tournament at Cooley Lanes. The advance registration reportedly is the best ever in the battling for the $500 first prize.

In fact, some squad times are closed. But many openings still exist and entries will be taken ($12 per duo) through the 10:30 p.m. squad Sunday Feb. 25th.

Janice Abel, daughter of Pontiac sports figure John Abel, will accompany the Western Michigan University intramural bowling team to Cincinnati this weekend for a collegiate tournament.

An education major, she is a sophomore on the WMU campus.

Hazel Park Bowl will kick off the 18th annual Motorbowl men's singles tournament tomorrow with three divisions, two of which have $1,000 first prizes and the third pays $500.

North Lanes at 20450 Greenfield in Detroit will have an Instructor's Clinic for all persons interested in working with American Junior Bowling Congress members from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 18.

Senior members of the AJBC are welcomed to attend the free clinic that will cover administrative as well as on-the-lanes procedures.

Pontiac Boys Club Claims Cage Crown

The Pontiac Boys' Club Blue Devils sewed up the Southeastern Michigan Association League basketball title Thursday night by upending Auburn Heights Boys' Club, 61-57.

★ ★ ★

The two-pronged attack of Larry Owens (20 points) and Roosevelt Washington (18) paced the Pontiac boys to their seventh straight victory.

★ ★ ★

Doug Medlen and Tom Johns each had 14 for Auburn Heights. The Blue Devils next will gun for the state championship in March on their own court.

Juan Marichal Okays SF Pact

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal, the National League's winningest active pitcher, agreed to terms yesterday with the San Francisco Giants and said he will report for prespring training conditioning Feb. 18.

It was assumed the high kicking right-hander signed for the same estimated $100,000 he was paid in 1967, when he suffered repeated injuries and slumped to 14-10.

'Slave' Buyer Fails to Collect

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — Tasos Konnaris, a 22-year-old Greek gambling croupier with little command of English, came across a slave market in this south coast city Thursday.

Nine pretty young things were parading on a platform before an eager bunch of bidders in a shipping center.

★ ★ ★

Konnaris asked haltingly what was going on, and a man told him:

"These girls are for sale. You can buy one if you want to."

The Greek whipped out a five-pound ($12) note, thrust it at auctioneer Stuart Penry, and said: "This one for me, please."

This one was Julia Van Dyke, a 16-year-old brunette in a mini-skirt and boots.

CHARITY STUNT

The auctioneer collected the money and Konnaris prepared to collect Julia. Then he learned that the slave market was a stunt organized by students of Plymouth College of Technology to raise money for charity.

Bids were being accepted as expressions of approval for the charms of the girls, and that's where it ended.

★ ★ ★

"I thought I could at least take her out," Konnaris told a reporter "what a pity, she's very pretty. I suppose it is my fault, because I didn't understand the rules."

Julia was sorry, too, in a way. "He was so polite and pleasant," she said, "and so good looking, but I already had a date."

S. Vietnam Ousts French Press Aide

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government today gave Francois Mazure, a correspondent for the French news agency, Agence France Presse (AFP), 24 hours to get out of the country.

The government accused Mazure and his agency of writing articles "detrimental to the well being of South Vietnam." Nguyen Ngoc Linh, director general of information, said many articles by AFP newsmen were "pro Vietcong" and AFP was "spreading false rumors and false news."

★ ★ ★

Linh added that Mazure was being expelled because he "allowed himself to be captured" briefly by the North Vietnamese in Hue and "was writing about North Vietnamese operations on South Vietnames soil.

WARNING GIVEN

Linh warned foreign newsmen that the government takes a dim view of correspondents who talk with the Vietcong or North Vietnamese troops. Government sources said the government first had planned to close the AFP bureau in Saigon, which has serveral newsmen in addition to Mazure.

★ ★ ★

Mazure is the second foreign newsman expelled from South Vietnam this year. The government refused to renew the visa of Everett G. Martin of Newsweek magazine and he left last month.

Doggone! Boy's Logic Not Lost

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Six-year-old Steve Norton set out to find his Boston bulldog. He did, but when he failed to return, his grandmother called police to tell them her grandson visiting from Fresno, Calif., was missing.

When found wandering with the dog near her home on Jackson's west side, Steve said: "I'm not lost. My dog's the one who's lost."

Riots, Gunboat Attack: Events of (18)67

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Flashing back to the 19th century with Sen. Everett M. Dirksen is a fairly diverting way to spend an hour. Especially if it includes free roast beef.

A group of lawmakers and newsmen were treated to such a combination at the Capitol Wednesday by the publishers of the World Almanac, which this year is observing its 100th anniversary.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader and recording star, highlighted the nonedible part of the program with selected readings from the first World Almanac, published in 1868.

Among other things, the original edition contained a review of the major events of 1867, some of which sounded hauntingly familiar.

* * *

There were race riots in a couple of cities and radical demonstrations in a couple of others. There was a military coup in South America and an attack on a U.S. gunboat in the Far East.

SWINGING YEAR

Altogether, it must have been a swinging year.

Any attempt to draw parallels with the present, however, would founder on the Almanac's succinct entry for August 5. It said: "President Johnson asks Secretary Stanton to resign; he refuses."

By cracky, they don't make Cabinet officers like that any more.

Nowadays when a President asks a department head to resign, he absconds with hardly a whimper.

WOULD FIND WAY

They don't make Johnsons like that any more, either. If such a thing were to happen to the current White House occupant, you can bet he would find a way to handle it.

By most accounts, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's recent resignation was not requested.

But knowing what we do of the President's temperament, we can envision the scene that might have resulted had LBJ asked for his resignation and had McNamara responded with a Stantonesque statement.

* * *

"What do you mean you won't resign, Bob?"

"Just that, Mr. President. I like my job and I've decided to keep it."

"Ah, come on Bob. That's no way to act. Tell you what. If you'll resign, I'll let you have the World Bank to play with."

"Sorry, sir. My mind's made up."

"Not even if I say 'pretty please.'"

"Mr. President, wild horses couldn't drag me away from the Pentagon."

"Okay, Bob. We'll compromise. You stay on the job but change you name to Clark Clifford."

1898 Flagship in Need of Repair

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The cruiser Olympia, which braved Spanish shot and shell as Commodore George Dewey's flagship in the battle of Manila Bay, faces another crisis—this one financial.

* * *

The ship, a relic of that May, 1, 1898, encounter, is berthed here. Casper J. Knight Jr., president of the Cruiser Olympia Association, says the ship is in dire need of repairs, but there is no money for them. Knight said it would take $250,000 to restore the ship.

Men, Don't Skirt the Issue

By BERNIE GOULD

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the problems facing the American male today is what to do about the miniskirt.

Most of us males are cowards. We sneak a look. But when Miss Miniskirt glances back at us, we look away hurriedly. That's where we make the big mistake, being embarrassed.

We shouldn't sneak, we should stare. And if Miss Miniskirt looks our way, we should stare even harder.

She may sit more primly on the subway or bus seat opposite us. She may even try—though it's probably a losing battle—to jerk her skirt down lower.

LEFT UNCHANGED

Above all, she'll be furious. Furious that we stared at a portion of her anatomy that she left uncovered purposely so we would look her way.

Isn't that just like a woman?

The point is that men—some of us, at any rate—have developed guilt complexes over these miniskirts. We're deathly afraid of being caught staring. And subconsciously we hate the miniskirt because it makes us feel uncomfortable.

Well, it wasn't our idea for the gals to wear above-the-knee skirts. Sure, we enjoy looking—as long as the gal we're looking at isn't our our mother, sister, wife, girlfriend or daughter. It's okay, of course, if it's someone else's mother, or sister, or wife, or girlfriend, or daughter.

So the answer to the problem of the miniskirt is to do just what the girls want us to do—look. Even stare.

And maybe someday the women will wise up, and the skirt will go down. Then men can breathe a sigh of relief, feel comfortable again on subways, buses and in cafeterias, and daydream about how wonderful it was when the gals used to wear their skirts above the knees.

Car Crash Fatal

KENTLAND, Ind. (AP) — Gwendolyn Daily, 21, of Wyoming, Mich., was killed Thursday when he car crashed into a ditch along U.S. 24 near this Newton County community.

"SATISFACTION" IS VALUE.....

...but what is a value?

You have undoubtedly heard the expression, "It takes all kinds of people to make a world." Well, it's true, and no two people are completely alike. There are many people who look alike, but very few think alike. People's tastes, likes, and dislikes are as varied as Michigan weather . . . and, there are few places where it is quite so evident as it is in what different people consider to be a value at the super market.

Some people value service above everything else. They will shop at the food store that consistently and willingly offers them all the service that they expect, and more.

There are many people who value savings more than anything else, and they will shop the food store that is the easiest on their budget.

Still others feel that unlimited selection is the most valuable asset that a food store can have, and they will shop the store that offers the greatest variety in every department.

And, last, but certainly not least, there are those who value the people who work in the store above all else. They shop the store where they can always find a cheerful smile or a friendly conversation from people who don't mind going out of their way to do things your way.

"Satisfaction" is value, and value is different things to different people. That's what is so nice about Spartan Stores . . . they've got something for everybody.

..."shop the store with the SPARTAN on the door."

And Speaking of VALUES, here's a delicious example

Charlie Chan Film Revival Is Waiting in the Wings

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Are you ready for a Charlie Chan cult, following those for Humphrey Bogart, Laurel and Hardy, W. C. Fields, etc.?

Warner Bros.-Seven Arts devoutly hopes it happens, since the company owns the mystery dramas produced by Fox in the 1930s. Such hopes are being furthered by a Charlie Chan film festival at New York's Museum of Modern Art March 4-17.

THOMAS

How could any middle-aged movie goer fail to recall the inimitable Charlie? Whether played by Warner Oland or his successor, Sidney Toler, he was always the same: The white suit with Panama hat perched squarely atop his head, . . his banter with No. 1 son, the breathless Keye Luke, . . . his way of wrapping up the situation with pseudo-Confucianisms like "bad alibi like dead fish—cannot stand the test of time."

Two ladies whose lives were profoundly affected by Charlie Chan met in Beverly Hills for tea. One was Nedda Harrigan Logan, wife of director Joshua Logan and a former actress. The other was Eleanor Biggers Cole, wife of the author who created Charlie, Earl Derr Biggers.

NOT PROLIFIC

"My husband and I took a cruise to Honolulu in 1920, when it was really Honolulu," Mrs. Cole recalled. "Nothing of a literary nature came from it; my husband was not a prolific writer. A year or so later he decided to do some writing, and went to the newspaper room of the New York Public Library to seek ideas.

"He happened to come across an item in a Honolulu paper that sparked his imagination. It mentioned that a Chinese detective had arrested three Japanese for gambling. That was the beginning of Charlie Chan."

* * *

Mrs. Logan recounted her own connection with Chan: "I was typed when I was playing in pictures; I was always the villainess. So I was chosen to play the murderess in 'Charlie Chan at the Opera.' Boris Karloff was also in the picture, and Oscar Levant composed an opera for us to sing."

Biggers produced the first of the Chan books, "House Without a Key," in 1925. Five others appeared before the author's death in 1933. Hollywood first saw possibilities in the Biggers books in 1926, when Pathe produced "House Without a Key." The role of Chan was minimized and handed to a Japanese actor, George Kuwa.

FILM PATTERN

Another Japanese, Kamiyama Sojin, played Chan in Universal's "The Chinese Parrot" in 1928. Fox filmed "Behind That Curtain" in 1929 with Warner Baxter as star and an English actor, E. L. Park, as Charlie. The pattern for future films finally arrived with "Charlie Chan Carries On" in 1931.

* * *

"I'm the one who suggested Warner Oland for the part," said Mrs. Cole. "I went to see 'Fu Manchu' and I came home and told my husband, 'I've found the man who should play Charlie.' He made the suggestion to Fox, and Oland was hired. He was a fine actor and had a marvelous face. He was Swedish, but the Scandinavians have a look that is not quite Mongolian, but slightly Oriental."

* * *

After Oland's death in 1938, Chan was played by Sidney Toler, who was of Scotch descent. He was an adaptable actor, but he never achieved the finesse and style of Oland. The low-key sleuthing of Chan seemed ill-suited to the wartime market, and the Fox series petered out in 1942.

* * *

But Charlie Chan carred on. Toler moved over to Monogram to continue the series, and after his death the role was played by Roland Winters. Then came a television series that starred J. Carroll Naish. Throughout Chan's entire history on stage, screen and television, the role has never been played by a Chinese.

Space-Return Method Tried

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Scientists at Holloman Air Force base are testing a new technique for recovering atmospheric - sampling equipment from 100 miles out in space.

A Holloman spokesman said a bullet-shaped container of electronic equipment was fired 100 miles into space Wednesday on a Nike-Apache rocket in a successful first test of the technique.

* * *

"As the payload falls back toward the earth," said Capt. John W. Adams of the Holloman Missile Development Center, "an aneroid barometer triggers the recovery chute to deploy at 21,000 feet.

* * *

"The parachute on this particular system was 40 feet in diameter," Adams said. He said a method must be worked out to recover payloads weighing up to 250 pounds.

Workshops Set

A series of six workshops on "A Parent's Dilemma — Changing Sex Values and Youth" will be held by Oakland Community College 7:30 p.m. Thursdays beginning next Thursday at Rochester Senior High School, 180 S. Lovernois, Rochester. The fee is $6.

He Flies Flag Upside Down as a Pueblo Protest

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — The flag flies Union Jack-down, in token of distress, at Joseph M. Dillon's home.

* * *

"It will stay that way until we get the Pueblo back," said Dillon, a 72-year-old retired tool manufacturer who says he served 18 months overseas in World War I.

"I sincerely feel this country is in great distress," Dillon said in an interview. "If we had any backbone at all we'd run right up that harbor and take the Pueblo back."

* * *

Dillon said the average citizen's unhappy over U.S. handling of the Pueblo seizure by North Korean and said he might write his congressman.

Socialists Score as Capitalists

LONDON (AP) — Britain's avowedly socialist government has scored one notable success in an unexpected field of capitalist endeavor-making big business even bigger.

The month of January broke all records for mergers and take-overs in Britain, accelerating a trend toward the creation of companies big enough to compete with U.S. and European giants in international trade.

★ ★ ★

Autos, electrical equipment, computers, banks, shipbuilding and petrochemicals are among major industries affected. More mergers are to come, especially in the export field of machinery and machine tools.

British industry, long fragmented into small and self-satisfied units, is being streamlined. Many capitalists as well as socialists agree this was overdue. Some businessmen fear that if the bottom drops out, a Labor government might be waiting to gather up the eggs by nationalization.

CATALYST

The government has acted as a catalyst through the Industrial Reorganization Corp., run by commercial bankers.

It was set up by Parliament just a year ago with 150 million pounds, now worth $360 million, of government money available for loans.

★ ★ ★

The first director, Ronald Grierson took unpaid leave from Warburg's, a leading investment bank. He assembled a small and youthful staff and quietly began investigating possibilities.

"I don't think any board of directors could have put any company under the microscope as they did with us," managing director Don Ryder of Reed Paper said after getting a loan.

DROP IN BUCKET

The corporation's activities are merely a drop in the bucket but the government hopes the ripples will shake British industry. So far they have.

During 1967, British companies spent about $2.4 billion on mergers. This is three times the annual average for the last merger boom in 1959-63. Then the urge to merge was dictated largely by the desire to diversify and protect profits. Now it is based on the need to organize combines for the economies of large-scale production.

★ ★ ★

Grierson was succeeded this month by Charles Villiers, a London investment banker for 20 years, who said: "I see the IRC as something between an accelerator and an oil can. It speeds things up and oils some rusty machinery, thereby making desirable mergers possible."

The mergers have a side effect in shaking up Britain's sometimes amateurish management practices. The smaller companies often were operated by old-fashioned chiefs working on inspired hunches. The big ones are too large for one-man bands. Professional management teams are being organized out of necessity.

Scientists Teach Chimps Ticktacktoe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists report they've taught chimpanzees how to play ticktacktoe—and sometimes the apes beat their teachers.

The chimps appear to be avid competitors, said the researchers, judging from the way their brain waves do double takes when they win or lose.

"You can certain train chimps to play a helluva good game of ticktacktoe, and sometimes they beat us — but it takes an awful long time to train them," said Dr. Lorne Proctor of the Edsel B. Ford Institute for Medical Research.

"We could train them gradually to do straight-across stuff, and up and down—and that's when they'd sometimes best you—but it was really rough to get 'em to do the diagonals," he added.

CATCHING ON

Proctor did his research for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and reported that after 18 months the chimps were starting to catch on to the diagonals until NASA ran out of money for the project.

New word on the games chimps play came from Dr. W. Ross Adey, space biologist at the University of California, who indicated his research aimed at helping evaluate prospective human astronauts.

Adey said today his chimps were taught to play ticktacktoe while wearing electrodes so their brain-wave patterns could be studied.

He said the chimps showed clearly separated brain-wave patterns, depending on whether they made a correct or incorrect plan in the game.

Two Spocks Meet at Party

BOSTON (AP) — Leonard Nimoy, a Boston native, stars in television's "Star Trek" show in which he portrays a frosty-faced character known as "Mr. Spock."

Nimoy said Thursday that he was at a party earlier in the week in Los Angeles when he saw Dr. Benjamin Spock, the baby doctor who is under indictment in Boston for counseling youths to resist the draft.

★ ★ ★

"I went up to him and said, 'Dr. Spock, meet Mr. Spock'," Nimoy said.

"His first words were, 'Have you been indicted yet'," Nimoy said.

Cyclist Did Bring Woes

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Betty Countryman was fined $15 Thursday for speeding, but she told Judge Thomas Wallner that she drove fast because she was scared.

Along the darkened street, she said, she felt certain the motorcyclist following her was "one of those black-jacketed, bearded hoodlums."

She was relieved, she said, when she finally stopped and discovered the officer was "a clean-shaven, red-blooded American boy."

War-Scare Selling

Stock Mart Takes Battering

NEW YORK (AP) — War-scare selling continued to batter the stock market early this afternoon. Trading was heavy.

Losses outnumbered gains by about 3 to 1.

★ ★ ★

Nothing came to relieve the renewed tension caused by the latest news developments out of Korea and Vietnam, among the statement by the North Korean premier that war could break out in Korea "at any moment."

★ ★ ★

The suspenseful situation of the U.S. Marines at Khe Sanh on the Laotian border continued to confront Wall Street with further uncertainty in advance of a three-day weekend. The stock exchanges will be closed Monday for Lincoln's Birthday.

★ ★ ★

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 6.24 at 844.08.

On an interim basis, this the average below the important support level represented by the Nov. 8 close of 849.57, a line which provided the springboard for a big recovery.

★ ★ ★

Prices sank in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. Losers outnumbered gainers by about 5 to 1. Louisiana Land was very active and down about 2 points. It traded on a block of 89,300 shares, off 1⅞ at 57. Signal Oil "A" and Unexcelled dropped about a point each.

★ ★ ★

A block of 2,540,200 rights of Computer Sciences Corp. traded at ⅜ for a total value of $952,575.

Some stocks snapped back in technical trading rallies, among them Data Processing and Kawecki Chemical, each up 4.

Romney Vote Drive Dovetails

Emphasis on Peace in Wisconsin Talk

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — The blue banner on the gymnasium wall urged "Go Hawks," but on the platform, Gov. George Romney was heading in the opposite direction. Campaigning on two fronts for the Republican presidential nomination, the Michigan governor is taking an increasingly dove-like tone on the war in Vietnam.

The change in recent days has been one of emphasis, not of position.

★ ★ ★

The banner, which exhorts not politicians but the St. Anselm's College basketball team, is in Manchester, N. H. From the platform there, Romney wound up a three-day installment of his presidential primary campaign, marked by escalating criticism of President Johnson's war policy.

Today he moved on to Wisconsin, which holds its primary April 2, to press the attack .

NIXON IS TARGET

While it is aimed primarily at Johnson, Romney also said in New Hampshire that former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his chief opponent in both primary races, has no real peace program on Vietnam.

Romney's formula: guaranteed neutralization of both Vietnams, Laos and Cambodia. He contends this is attainable because the United States and the Soviet Union share an interest in keeping Communist China out of Southeast Asia, and therefore might be able to agree on terms to guarantee neutrality.

★ ★ ★

Ten months ago, Romney was advocating the use of "military force as necessary" to achieve dominance in Vietnam. Now he says:

"This illusion of military victory is taking us down the wrong road, it's taking us down the road to World War III."

'NO REAL TERMS'

He complained that the Administration is not proposing any real terms for a settlement, only saying that it is prepared to talk sometime.

Similar complaints have been voiced by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, a Democrat challenging Johnson's renomination on a platform of opposition to current war policy.

★ ★ ★

Romney has challenged the constitutionality of the way the United States entered the Vietnam conflict, and discounted suggestions that campaign criticism disrupts national unity. On the contrary, he says, "We have to have discussion. We've got to arrive at a basis of unity."

★ ★ ★

He argues that the war is harming the U.S. image abroad, leading people to think of the United States as "great big military aggressors and imperial ists."

HARDER WORDS NEEDED

Romney said, "We can work harder for peace, and we can begin to change this opinion.

"Unless we can establish a sound basis for a solution, we're going to continue to bleed and lose strength and wealth and lives," Romney says.

There will be no stock market listings Monday, Lincoln's birthday.

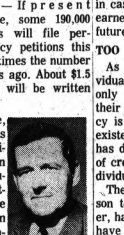
Trend Reflects Credit Abuse

Bankruptcy Rate Up

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — If present trends continue, some 190,000 Americans will file personal bankruptcy petitions this year, about 18 times the number of just 20 years ago. About $1.5 billion in bills will be written off.



CUNNIFF

This estimate, which comes from Linn Twinem, chairman of the Consumer Bankruptcy Committee of the American Bar Association, reflects the abuse of credit not only by recipients but very often by the grantor as well.

So disturbing has the trend become — bankruptcies are growing at a rate faster than the population or the use of credit— that the Bar Association and others are now trying to have the Bankruptcy Act amended.

The association has endorsed a House bill that would give referees in bankruptcy discretionary authority to deny petitions in cases where it is felt a wage earner can pay his debts out of future earnings.

TOO EASY

As matters stand now, individuals file for bankruptcy not only because they cannot pay their bills but because bankruptcy is so easy. The stigma that existed 15 years ago seemingly has diminished with the growth of credit and the mobility of individuals.

The factors that drive a person toward bankruptcy, however, have not lessened. They may have become worse, in fact. Overloading of an individual with credit, often at difficult repayment terms, is a widespread abuse. Threat to garnishee salaries or to repossess furnishings often is the activator.

★ ★ ★

Especially disturbing to Twinem is that many bankruptcies may be unnecessary.

"Studies conducted by universities have determined that from 25 per cent to 45 per cent of the people that filed petitions could have paid their debts out of future earnings," he says, "if they had been properly advised and so disposed."

UNFAMILIAR

This places much of the blame on legal advisers themselves, some of whom are unfamiliar with alternatives to straight bankruptcy, and on businessmen, who generally are felt to have a responsibility to educate their customers.

In Twinem's view, many people overloaded with bills would be better off seeking relief in Chapter 13 of the Bankruptcy Act. This enables a person to avoid bankruptcy by paying debts out of earnings over a three-year period.

★ ★ ★

However, it imposes a three-year supervisory obligation on the court's bankruptcy referee, whereas if he advises the petitioner to file for straight bankruptcy the matter is handled completely in a few weeks.

Merchants naturally like Chapter 13 because they get some of their money back. But why should an individual want to pay his bills when he can be released from them? Obviously for personal reasons, of course.

Twinem offers a few more reasons for using Chapter 13: an individual obtains protection from creditors and assistance in prorating bills, he cannot lose equity in property whereas he might in straight bankruptcy, he can be released from burdensome contracts, he retains a much better credit record.

The court supervision, protection and control afforded individuals under Chapter 13 is important for many low-income, poorly educated individuals who often are prey to credit predators.

It is a common practice among some merchants to solicit business from individuals a day or so after they have been granted a petition in straight bankruptcy, knowing that the person cannot again be discharged from bills for another six years.

"They feel they can at least force the bankrupt to pay them, even though he's been discharged from his other obligations," says Twinem. A company burned in a bankrupt case might even attempt to recoup its losses by selling the individual more goods—a car, for example—on impossible repayment terms.

FORM LETTER

One form letter sent to bankrupts begins:

"This is to tell you how sorry we were to hear about your bankruptcy. We noticed that you had a very good credit rating until this unfortunate bankruptcy was forced upon you."

After some solicitous words, the letter continues:

"I am enclosing a credit card that I send to all my special accounts as I know I will see you soon. If you will drop in and give me the opportunity to meet you personally within the next 10 days I have a free gift for you."

★ ★ ★

Later in the same paragraph: "If you do need anything in our family store for you, your wife, or children, I am enclosing a $10 certificate for your down payment."

And, as if the enticements were not sufficient, the letter concludes: "Your account has been set up for $200 with no money down."

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — I have Kaiser Industries and FWD Corp. I have $2,000 which I can invest. This is money to play with, so to speak. Should I hold or add to my present stocks or buy something else? — P. R.

A — I am going to urge you, if I may, to revise your thinking about stock investment. Putting money into the market is a serious business and should never be taken lightly. With this homily off my chest, I will look at your stocks.

Kaiser Industries has important investments in Kaiser Cement, Kaiser Steel and Kaiser Aluminum. Because part of its business is cyclical, earnings have sometimes been erratic, but I regard the company as sound and well managed. I would hold this issue. FWD Corp. is a relatively small Midwest truck manufacturer with a good record of earnings in most recent years. I advise you to hold.

For your $2,000 new investment, I suggest that you aim for solid, predictable, long-term growth. I would buy a few shares of Baxter Laboratories (346,690,375,398.62 Gold Assets— 11,880,827,764.17 13,159,221,912.00 (X) — Includes $260,386,878.47 debt not subject to statutory limit.

Jail Ploy Brings a 90-Day Term

MONTROSE, Colo. (AP) — "Bottle for Christmas—so here's bottoms up!" Read the message on a Christmas box brought to a prisoner at the County Jail 10 days before last Christmas. Deputies turned the box bottoms up and found hacksaw blade taped underneath.

This week, Virginia Butcher, 39, Montrose, pleaded guilty to trying to smuggle the hacksaw blade to the prisoner and was sentenced to 90 days in jail, with 80 days suspended.

Pair Accepts Lesser Charge

Among 20 Arrested in Raid at Legion Post

Two men, who were among 20 persons arrested Sunday night in a raid on an alleged illegal gambling and drinking establishment at an American Legion post, pleaded guilty to lesser charges yesterday.

Post commander Garland L. Baldwin of 3778 Gainesborough, Orion Township, and James R. Pillow of 2205 Sashabaw, Waterford Township, were fined $20 each and ordered to pay $10 court costs at their hearings before Independence Township Justice William. H. Stamp.

The charge against the pair was reduced from running card gambling and selling liquor without a license to loitering where liquor is served, a misdemeanor.

The 18 others involved in the activity previously pleaded guilty to the loitering charge and were each fined $10 and ordered to pay $10 court costs.

The Guns of Judgment Day

Cliff Farrell's new Western thriller

From the Doubleday & Co. novel; Copyright © 1967, by Cliff Farrell. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Chapter 27

It was over. The inflamed lynching spirit had been quenched. "Go back to your homes, citizens," Obie Willit said, as though preaching a sermon. "Livvy's right. Dan Briscoe will be held for trial before a jury of his peers."

He paused for effect, then went on, his big voice rolling through the town. "I promise you he'll see nothin' but prison walls the rest o' his day's, an' if Heber Shannon can't make it back to life, this man will hang from a gallows that I'll help build with my own hands.

"I'll see to it that court is held right here, an' justice done where all citizens of Flat Butte can see the penalty paid."

His voice rose still higher. "An' we will pray that it be a lesson to them that've let greed drive them to war on their neighbors for the sake of adding a few cubits of land to what they already own.

★ ★ ★

"If we do not drive these people from our temple, the name of Springwater Basin will become a stench in the land."

OBIE UNMASKED

He brought the whip down on the platform with a loud report.

"A horsewhippin' might bring 'em to their senses!" he added, bending scowls on both Livvy Shannon and Kathleen Royal.

Kathleen spoke. "I really did misjudge you, Obie. I won't make that mistake again."

★ ★ ★

"There's no call for lashin' at me, Katey" the store owner thundered. "Everybody knows you an' Livvy have turned as sour as sin an' as venomous as rattlers. Springwater Basin will be better off without the two of you."

FAST DEPARTURE

"How could we have been so blind, Livvy?" Kathleen said.

"Let's get out of here," Dan said. He pushed Kathleen toward the rear door.

Followed by Alex, he and Kathleen walked out of the building. A few men stood uncertainly in the darkness, unable to make up their minds whether to interfere.

★ ★ ★

Three saddled horses stood ground-tied near the exit from the store. One had loose stirrups lashed across the saddle.

UNEXPECTED HELP

Dan freed the stirrups. "You came prepared," he said to Kathleen.

"Yes, thanks to Hallie Barnes."

"Hallie Barnes? Who's she?"

"You mean you've forgotten her already? You should be ashamed. She's very grateful to you for pulling her child out of the bog.

DEED REWARDED

"She came riding to the ranch, not long after the sheriff Had left, to tell us that Tom Smith had rounded up half a dozen squatters at Shacktown, got them fired up on liquor, and had led the mto town to pull off a lynching.

"She understood that you were to be the lynchee, as one might put it. Therefore, Alex and myself lit a fast shuck for town to interfere in the proceedings, if possible. But Livvy Shannon had already taken care of the situation."

"My good deed was rewarded," Dan said. "You two know, of course, that the law frowns on people helping prisoners escape. Particularly, prisoners charged with murder."

★ ★ ★

"So what?" Kathleen sniffed. "Hurry, before some fool starts real trouble."

MAKE ESCAPE

"Exactly," Dan said. "At least one of that mob isn't a fool. Shep Sand. Gid Marko's there, too. There might be fireworks. And they can shoot."

He lifted her into the saddle. "Stay ahead of us," he commanded as he and Alex mounted.

Then spurred away. A voice yelled, "There they go!"

★ ★ ★

Pistols opened up, but the marksmen had only shadows and the sound of galloping hoofs to guide them, and the firing halted after a few rounds were touched off.

HIDE IN HILLS

The next day Dan and Kathleen hid in the hills while Alex stayed at the Royal ranch.

The waning moon had just cleared the rims. Dan could make out the buildings of the Shannon ranch on the flat ahead. Their meandering route had brought them to the sheep ranch from the west approach.

They dismounted at a distance, tied up the horses, and began moving in warily on foot.

★ ★ ★

They halted. The pound of hoofs rose abruptly out of the silence beyond the ranch, the sound rising rapidly as a galloping horse came steadily nearer.

SHOOTING STARTS

A six-shooter opened up, the flashes lighting the ridgepoles of the buildings. The weapon was emptied. In the vacuum that followed, Dan could hear the rattle of broken window glass following.

The thud of hoofs receded in the direction from which the rider had come. A woman was screaming something. That hysterical voice belonged to Lavinia Shannon.

Her outcries broke off, and the sound of hoofs faded. The ranch was silent again, but the terror in Lavinia Shannon's voice still rang in Dan's memory.

★ ★ ★

Dan spoke. "Lavinia Shannon!"

CALL TO LAVINIA

The sobbing broke off. "This is Dan Briscoe," he said. "I want to talk to you. Are you alone?"

"Please, go away! They might still be around!"

"I doubt if whoever shot up the house is still around," Dan said. "I heard him ride in, heard him ride away. I was too far away to interfere.

★ ★ ★

"Were there any others? More than one? Are you hurt? I want to help you. I've got to talk to you."

OFFER HELP

"No, no. It would do no good. You can only help me by going away."

Kathleen moved past Dan into the room. "Whatever it is, whatever they've done to you, we can help you," she said. "I'm coming in."

Dan knew Kathleen had the older woman in her arms and was trying to calm her. He felt his way to a hall which led to bedrooms and the kitchen.

Kathleen continued to try to soothe Lavinia Shannon, who still pleaded that she be left alone.

FORCED TO LIE

He found his block of matches and located a lamp which he lighted. He waited until Lavinia was able to listen. "They've got him, haven't they?" he said gently. "The boy?"

Lavinia looked appealingly at Dan. "They said they'd torture him if I refused to do the things they demanded."

"That's why you accused me of shooting your son, isn't it?" he asked gently. "They forced you to do it."

★ ★ ★

"Yes. I did what they wished. I had to have time. A chance to think. But when I heard they were going to lynch you, I just — just couldn't let them do it."

HEBER ALIVE

"When did they take the boy?" Dan asked.

"The next night after Heber was shot. They knew Heber was alive, and knew he had seen the man who shot him."

"Heber's alive?" Kathleen exclaimed.

★ ★ ★

"Yes. I lied when I said he had died. I even made Doc Anderson believe he had passed away and had been buried."

ABLE TO TALK

"Tell us what happened, step by step," Dan urged.

Lavinia fought for calmness.

"Heber was able to talk that night, after you had left. He told me he had come upon this man we know as Tom Smith setting fire to the shearing shed.

Another man shot Heber in the back. The two of them dragged him into the shed, leaving him to be burned alive, but he managed to crawl out to where you found him."

★ ★ ★

"Where's Heber now?" Kathleen asked.

HIDDEN IN WAGON

"I had the Basques move him out of the house. They're taking care of him in a sheep wagon, hidden out in the range. You see, Heber saw the second man too. The one who shot him."

"Who shot him?" Dan asked. "Or, maybe I already know."

"Maybe you do," Lavinia said. "It was Obie Willit."

Fight to Hold Saigon Is Far From Ended

SAIGON (AP) — Ten days after Vietcong guerrillas launched their massive surprise attack to seize Saigon, the battle continues.

The heart of the city is quiet an tense but from other districts new casualties pour into the overcrowded hospitals, columns of smoke mark blocks of burning homes and there is an almost steady thumping from rockets and shells.

In Cholon, the Chinese section, guerrillas hold 20 square blocks and have repulsed repeated attacks by government troops. They also control a large area of the western suburbs and are battling from village to village just north of the city.

According to police sources, only three of Saigon's nine districts are considered secure—the core of the city. Elsewhere, guerrilla activity ranges from sniper fire to probes to occupation, such as in Cholon.

GUERILLAS STAYING

U.S. officials estimate 700 to 1,000 guerrillas remain inside Saigon from the initial assault force of some 4,000 troops. There is no indication the guerrillas are trying to withdraw. Instead, they seem determined to stand and slug it out.

"Prisoners have told us they were ordered to hold their positions and not to give up for any reasons until they are reinforced," a police source said. "They were told that they were the shock troops and there were 10 regiments ready to move in and occupy the city."

The source added that the guerrillas "could have killed this city if they wanted to, but they didn't hit the power or water systems because they expected to be in charge in several days."

Generally, the guerrilla activity has tapered off, however, and authorities hope they have succeeded in cordoning off two enemy battalions that are still fighting as organized units.

In Cholon, some 1,000 combat police, rangers and marines have blocked off 20 blocks that some 200 guerrillas hold.

The second guerrilla battalion is operating in western Saigon, around the Phu Tho racetrack, and while it isn't sealed in, the police source said, "At least we think we have them blocked from coming farther into the city."

Possibly hardest hit in this immediate area is the Go Vap district north of Saigon where Vietnamese troops have been battling an estimated three enemy battalions that originally attacked Tan Son Nhut air base.

Flier's Harrowing Landing at Khe Sanh Recounted

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — The most dangerous airfield in South Vietnam is the dust-swept, three-quarter mile strip at Khe Sanh, where 5,000 Marines, supplied solely by air, are surrounded by Communist troops.

Ernest Guenther has been flying up and down Vietnam for two years, landing an ungainly, four-engine Hercules transport on fields not recommended by insurance companies, but until the other day he had never flown into Khe Sanh.

When the 31-year-old captain from Arcadia, Wis., got the questionable privilege he had the job of taking in 16 tons of ammunition.

He received no special briefing and saw little need for one. A pilot for 14 years, he knew his job and confidently expected soon to rejoin his wife and four children on Okinawa.

'KEEP SMILING'

When the plane emerged into the sunlight from Da Nang's overcast, Guenther relaxed and lit a cigar. He casually followed the changes in course asked by 1st Lt. Joseph Croft of Groesbeck, Tex., hunched over a navigator's desk covered with pinups and a little sign saying, "Keep smiling, you idiots."

Within half an hour, the crew was peering through cloud breaks, looking for Khe Sanh some 7,000 feet below.

"There it is," shouted the husky flight engineer, Richard Guessford, a 30-year-old Air Force veteran from Williamsport, Md., who has five children.

The Khe Sanh radio began to crackle about enemy fire. One C-8 30SI PILOTS HARROWING approach, please. Keep the engines running. It will be "a rapid off-load," the cargo shoved out of the rear hatch.

ESCAPE RAMP

"You will exit at the west ramp," the radio said. "That will give you 3,200 feet of runway. I want you to know that because if we get a few rounds in here, that is your escape route."

Guenther landed the pot-bellied transport like a fighter, grimacing as he taxied past the scarred bunkers and the disarray of a camp under siege.

★ ★ ★

When the plane's barnlike back door swung open, Marines jumped into help the load master, 21-year-old Sgt. Richard Finkle of Millcreek, Pa. They hastily showed off the crated 105mm shells.

Medics clambered aboard with four stretcher patients and five walking wounded.

'GET OUT'

"We have incoming," the radio suddenly blared in the plane's cabin. "Get your patients on board. I want you to move sharply and get out of here. Shut your door and get going . . . get out."

An incoming rocket made the big plane shudder as it inched forward to the runway. Then 16,000 horsepower shot it down the strip.

★ ★ ★

In the cargo bay, 60 men held on. One Marine on a stretcher was getting blood plasma through it all.

Touchdown to takeoff had taken exactly nine minutes.

When the United States took its first census in 1790, there were not quite four million persons in the new republic.

Charity Drive Is Big Success at Waterford

By MARY JERGOVICH

"The students here are great!" This is the comment made by Waterford Township High School senior, Denise St. Dennis, when she announced that $1,227.33 was collected for the March of Dimes by WTHS students

★ ★ ★

The March of Dimes Drive started here at Waterford with the girls running for Miss March of Dimes.

Among the Waterford queen candidates are: Ruth Ann Corey, Jeri Drinkard, Colleen Farris, Teresa Frias, Mary Hoffman, Shirley Keech, Renee LaBlanc and Diane Matas.

Concluding the list are Nancy Maynard, Judy Medley, Jeanette Motley, Barb Olson, Chris Plaicher, Billie Rooksberry, Mary Ann St. Dennis, Debbie Szymanski and Sheryl Van Dam.

★ ★ ★

But the big kickoff was the March of Dimes dance sponsored by the junior class. The $373 raised at this dance started the climb toward $1,000.

PENNY TOSS

The Student Council sponsored a penny toss against WKH at the pep assembly. This collected almost $100.

Later, at another pep assembly, Denise St. Dennis, Drive chairman, was presented with a few surprises.

She had just finished announcing that candidates for Ugliest Man on Campus had turned in $250. Mike Murphy then presented her with a check for another $100, a surprise donation from the Varsity Club.

★ ★ ★

This donation seemed to start something among the organizations for the band held a quick meeting in the assembly and announced they would make Waterford's collection an even $1,000.

$50 CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions of $50 were then made by the Girls' Letter Club and the sophomore class.

Last year's total collection was $500.

The drive is over at WTHS but not in the county.

Feb. 17, March of Dimes will sponsor a Ski Festival at Pine Knob from 5 to 11:30 p.m. and will feature the crowning of the queen, skiing, dancing, well-known bands, free refreshments and door prizes.

★ ★ ★

Tickets for the event will be on sale all next week in school or may be purchased at the door.

Bus transportation to Pine Knob will be provided, free of charge.

Valentine Queen to Reign at PNH Fete

By LORNA ANDERSON

Pontiac Northern High School students will stroll through the "Garden of Love" tomorrow during the traditional Valentine dance.

The highlight of the night will be the crowning of the Valentine Queen. Candidates are: seniors, Diana Ardelan, Teresa Dean, JoAnn Hattis and Karen Zoch.

The queen will be chosen according to the amount of money collected from the student body with the top "earner" emerging as queen. This money will be given to the International Club to sponsor overseas students.

Northern's cafeteria will be transformed into a garden, with a large gazebo as the band shell. Music for the evening will be presented by the Unknowns.

★ ★ ★

All four candidates were chosen by the Varsity Club. In previous years each major club sponsored the contestant of its choice.

STUDENT EDITOR

Karen of homeroom B-38 is a member of the Catalina swim club, Student Council and Pep Club and is editor-in-chief of the Avalanche.

Jo Ann of Homeroom B-17 swims with the Catalinas and serves as her homeroom Student Council representative.

Theresa, a recent Junior Miss contestant, sings in the Madrigals and the A Capella Choir. She is also a member of the Student Council Advisory Board.

★ ★ ★

Diane Ardelan is a member of Madrigals, A Capella Choir, and serves on the Student Council.

TALENT SHOW

Plans are being made for the Feb. 28 triangular talent show. The show will feature talent from Waterford, Walled Lake and Pontiac Northern. Those interested in participating should contact either Ferne Kerr or Linda Tenjeras by Wednesday.

Catalinas are holding the annual solo competition for the Spring water show. Competing are Brenda Drake, Cindy Beck, Barbara Deacon and Dawn Guenther.

Others include Sandy Vied, Karen Zoch and Terri Lamberson.

Two girls will be elected for the solo and the boy-girl duet. A member of the swim team will participate in the latter event.

Quill and Scroll members were chosen to represent Pontiac Northern. Those selected were Betty Atwell, Kathy Hoisington, Rob Clancy, Jon Hurtado, Elmer Ellsworth, Hilda Medina, Mark Cook and Linda Tenjeras.

SWEETHEARTS ALL — Senior candidates for Pontiac Northern High School's Valentine queen, (from left) Diana Ardelan, Teresa Dean, Karen Zoch and JoAnn Hattis, will learn who will wear the crown at tomorrow's "Garden of Love" dance which will be held in the school's cafeteria. All four candidates were nominated by the Varsity Club. Money garnered from the queen competition is earmarked for the International Club to sponsor foreign exchange students.

Groves to Have Valentine Fete

By KIM SEROTA

Wylie E. Groves' first Valentine dance will be held tomorrow night in the gym Featuring a holiday theme it will run from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

Music for the semiformal affair will be provided by H.P. and the Grass Root Movement. The dance is open to Groves students and their dates for a fee or free with two activity tickets.

Planning and decorations have been handled by the Student Council's social committee: Janet Armstrong, Anne Beier, Judy Daniels, Pam Obee, Scott Roller and Larry Smith.

The Valentine dance is replacing the annual Christmas dance because of the latter's closeness to the Regalia Ball, the homecoming dance and coronation. The move is part of the council's plan to spread the major dances more evenly throughout the year.

★ ★ ★

Also being held tomorrow is the District Solo and Ensemble Festival at Southfield High School. Fifty members of the Groves' band have been practicing steadily for the event.

STATE ELIGIBILITY

The competition is open to all Macomb and Oakland County band and orchestra students. Entries earning First Division ratings from the judges are eligible for the State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Ann Arbor High School March 8.

Groves' musicians will be competing in 28 of the festival categories.

★ ★ ★

The Groves Radio Club is building a radio transmitter which will receive and transmit sounds from all over the world. The transmitter is being built in the electronics room and will have a permanent place there.

Waterford Mott Is Preparing for Its First Play

By LYNNE ROSE

Preparations have begun for Waterford Mott's first dramatic production, to be presented Feb. 29 and March 1 in Mason Junior High School cafeteria.

Students and teachers at Mott who are working on the play, "Time Remembered," have really got problems. They are suffering from insufficient funds, and are now in the red for the purchasing of materials for the set.

Through the ingenious minds of the advisers and directors, Harriet Davidson, director; Kathy Phipps, assistant director; Jane Hunt, technical director; Richard Williams, technical adviser; Mary Ellen MacVay, costume designer; Alice Hunt, stage manager; the money and equipment are going a little bit farther.

The sets are being constructed in classrooms, so money and equipment are not the only things in short supply.

★ ★ ★

Mott plans to retain the theatrical style of the play's author, Jean Anouilh.

A romantic comedy, the play involves an eccentric duchess, her nephew, a prince, and a young girl.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Jenny Dowdy, Ronald Lund, Nancy Bateman, Cindy Cattell, Jo Gibbens, Sue Humphreys, Jan Dorking, Dan Deering, Debbie Cox and Veonne Ostrander are also included in the cast.

New Christy Minstrels Will Appear at Utica

By PENNY McMILLAN

A climactic highlight for the Adlai Stevenson-Utica High Schools' Teen Club will be the personal appearance by one of the nation's top recording groups, the New Christy Minstrels.

The Minstrels, noted for their folk, ballad and modern music, are scheduled to perform at the Utica High gym, Feb. 22. Tickets for the 8:15 p.m. performance are available at the door.

This versatile group has earned wide acclaim since its formation in 1961. This eight-member troupe patterns its style after a company of pre-Civil War minstrels who were led by Edwin (Pops) Christy.

The Minstrels' talents were passed from the hands of Randy Sparks and sold to George Geis and Sid Garis. Since then the Christy Minstrels have changed some of the members, perfected their skills and become international stars.

★ ★ ★

These entertainers have marked many firsts in the world of show business. They carry the distinction of being the first American vocal group to win first and second prizes at the Italian San Remo Festival in 1965.

OWN TV SHOW

The Copa Cabana's first headline group was the New Christy Minstrels and it was the first performing group to have its own scheduled television show, which brought the hootenany to that medium in its straight form.

To this date the New Christ Minstrels have made 15 albums.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" will conclude its three-performance run tonight and tomorrow night in the Utica High auditorium.

The George S. Kaufman play will begin at 8:30 both nights. Tickets are available at the door.

ATTRACTIVE VISITOR—Oxford High School's foreign exchange student, Angela Pulcherio, wastes no time getting into school activities as she paints a poster held by her American brother, Dennis Barrett. Angela is a senior and Dennis a freshman.

Visitor From Brazil

Rio Girl at Oxford High

By CLARA CALLAHAN

Early in January a girl from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, became a bright addition to the student body at Oxford High School.

Her name is Angela Ludolf Pulcherio.

She was introduced to the United States and to snow at the same time when she arrived in Michigan.

Angela will stay until June and is living with the Clinton Barretts of Lakeville.

The Barretts have six children in contrast to Angel's own family. She has only an older sister. The Brazilian girl says there is no difference between here and at home in basic home life — "always a rush to get places on time."

Angela has always wanted to come to the United States. Two years ago, after a friend of her's came here through the Youth for Understanding Program, Angela, too, applied for the forms.

At sixteen, she has finished the junior year of high school in Rio de Janeiro, but still has three years of schooling before she can enter college.

She has studied six years of French and four years of English in addition to her native Portuguese. Differences in education seem the most apparent.

Angela said, "Not so much time is spent in school in Brazil. There are not the extracurricular activities."

BUSY AT SCHOOL

Angela has been attending most extracurricular activities at OHS with either her American sister, Vicki, a junior, or brother, Dennis, a freshman. She claims to have been most impressed by the friendliness of American people.

Last week Angela went with the National Honor Society to visit the capitol building at Lansing. This was especially interesting to her for her mother is a lawyer involved in similar work. Angela's sister is also studying to be a lawyer.

Monday French Club will have a guest speaker, Donald Canfield. A new member of the OHS faculty, Canfield has visited Paris several times. Prospective new members will be present. They will be inducted at the March meeting.

March of Dimes Contest at AHS

By JAN MALANE

Students at Avondale High School recently competed for class honors in raising the most money for the March of Dimes.

Juniors and seniors challenged the sophomores and freshmen. Cheerleaders from each group went room to room Monday to collect the money that will go to combat birth defects.

Only 38 cents separated the two groups; but at the end of the drive, the freshmen and sophomores were announced the winners. Over $56 was collected.

Tonight after the basketball game with Lake Orion, the Sports Club will sponsor a dance featuring the Solitary Konfynment.

Four senior girls will attend a Western Michigan University conference tomorrow. Representing Avondale's Girls' Athletic Association will be Karen Bolton, Kay Clark, Vicki Sheldon and Jan White.

Wednesday, 100 juniors and seniors from the social studies classes will attend Meadow Brook Theatre to see "And People All Around."

The Spirit Risers are takng orders for navy blue Windbreakers, bearing gold initials, "AHS."

Holiday Dance at Lake Orion

By DIANE CHAMBERLIN

The cafeteria at Lake Orion High school will be transformed into a world of hearts and flowers tomorrow night, as the Buttons (the girls' service organization), present its annual St. Valentine Day dance.

The dance will be from 8:30 to 11:30, and the dress will be semiformal.

This week was the final week for senior students to sign up for the senior trip, May 17-19, to the Gay El Rancho near Gaylord, Mich. A $10 deposit is required.

Activities at the ranch will include horseback riding, swimming, waterskiing, archery, turtle races and splash parties, among others.

Seniors also were measured for their caps and gowns this week. Senior boys will wear green, and the girls white.

MUSICAL HONORS

Two Lake Orion students, Steve Griffin, a junior, and Barb Curtis, a senior, received high honors when they participated in an Ensemble Festival last week.

Steve received a one, the highest rating possible, and Barb a three.

By OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

If you want to be a great bridge player, start by learning how to bid. Then learn how to play the dummy and defend. Finally, you learn to play so as to make things hard for your opponents.

JACOBY

Pierre Jais and Roger Trezel have long been regarded as the greatest pair in France — and one of the greatest in the world. In addition to being great technicians, Jais and Trezel specialize in deceptive defense.

Today we see Trezel (sitting East in a rubber bridge game) trap declarer into taking an entirely wrong view of his opponent's distribution. Trezel played his queen of hearts at trick one.

When South played the four spot, Trezel could locate every missing high card. His opponents were using 16- to 18-point no-trumps. Trezel held 13 himself. Dummy held 10.

Obviously, West held the jack of hearts. Thus he could account for 24 high-card points not held by declarer, and declarer had to hold every missing ace, king, queen and jack.

Trezel promptly started on a campaign of deception. At trick two he led his king of hearts — not the deuce — to show that he started with four. South won that trick. He couldn't hold up again. Then South played his jack of spades. Trezel took his ace and promptly played his eight of diamonds.

South went right up with his ace. Obviously, West had led fourth best of a six-card heart fourth best of a six-card heart suit and South could be sure of his contract if he could keep West out of the lead. This looked easy.

South played his king of clubs and continued with a low club in order to finesse against the queen if West should hold it. He didn't mind in the least when Trezel produced that card, since now South thought he was sure of three spades, three clubs, two diamonds and a heart.

Now Trezel led a heart and another contract was ruined. Of course, if Trezel had defended normally and led a heart when he got in with the spade ace, declarer might still have gone wrong. We will never know about that, but we do know that Trezel's deception did work.

Ex-City Dealer Sentenced for Stealing Auto

A former Pontaic used car dealer, accused of heading an interstate auto theft ring, yesterday was sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the state prison at Jackson for stealing a car from Matthews-Hargreaves Chevrolet, 631 Oakland.

The prison term was ordered for Oscar M. Stabley, 50, of 34 Collingwood by Oakland County Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore.

At the time of Stabley's arrest on May 4, 1967, Pontiac police said that they believed him to be the head of an auto-theft operation which involved stealing cars in Pontiac and selling them at auctions elsewhere, including several Indiana cities.

On May 18, Stabley was arrested by the FBI on a warrant issued in Indianapolis, Ind., charging him with interstate transportation of stolen goods in violation of the Dyer act.

CHARGES PENDING

The federal charges are pending in District Court in Detroit.

Judge Moore set Stabley's appeal bond at $20,000. It has not been furnished, and he is in the Oakland County Jail.

Stabley was found guilty by a Circuit Court jury on Dec. 21, 1967.

RAYMOND E. ADDIS

The regional manager of the Franklin Life Insurance Co., Raymond E. Addis, died yesterday. He was 69.

Requiem Mass will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Rita's Catholic Church, Holly. Burial will be in Lakeside Cemetery by Dryer Funeral Home, Holly.

A Scripture service will be 7 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home.

Surviving are his wife Marian; three sons, John of Highland and Ralph and William, both of Holly; and 16 grandchildren.

Addis of 511 E. Maple was past president of the Michigan chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Lincoln Republican Club of Oakland County and the Holly Board of Commerce.

He was past commander of the Amel Schwartz Post No. 149, American Legion. He also belonged to the Pontiac Board of Realtors, the American Numismatics Association and St. Rita's Catholic Church.

Heaters Recalled After Death

JACKSON (AP) — An investigation following the death of a Jackson man last October has culminated in the recall by Sears Roebuck & Co. of at least 6,000 potentially dangerous natural gas baseboard heaters.

James W. Button, Sears vice president for merchandising, said four models of the firm's Homart heater are subject to defects which could allow carbon monoxide gas to escape into rooms being heated.

A Sears official said, "there are definitely some in Michigan, but we don't know exactly where they were sold.

"Every effort will be made by Sears retail stores and catalogue facilities to locate and replace all of these heaters but, because many customers purchased and installed the heaters themselves, it will be difficult unless they notify Sears," he said.

* * *

Button said anyone owning one of the heaters should turn it off immediately and contact Sears, the local public health official, or gas utility for positive identification.

ATTRIBUTE PROBLEM

The State Health Department attributed the problem to tubing cracks which develop when a defective section of a U-shaped tube in the heater is exposed to cold air and then heated to high temperatures when the unit is turned on.

The U.S. Public Health Service said all the potentially defective units were manufactured by the Samuel Stamping & Enameling Co. of Chattanooga, Tenn., which has since gone out of business.

The death of Damon Moore, 61, a native of Fayetteville, Tenn., last October followed two similar deaths in a cabin north of Jackson just months earlier.

Although no autopsies were performed on the two persons who died previously, examination of Moore's body revealed carbon monoxide poisoning.

The units currently being recalled by Sears bear the model numbers 133.72561, 133.72562, 133.725621, 133.72565, 133.725651, 133.72566 and 133.725661.

They were listed for regular sale from September 1962 to December 1966 but were sold through 1967, Sears said.

The plate with the serial number is located on top of the burner box behind the decorative screen.

Button emphasized that all other models of Sear's gas baseboard heaters are constructed differently and are safe.

YWCA Caretaker Attacked, Robbed

The caretaker at the YWCA, 269 W. Huron, was treated and released from Pontiac General Hospital after being knocked unconscious and robbed last night.

John Richard, 64, told police that he was attacked by three men when he went to check the parking lot about 7:15 p.m.

Richard said that $25, a watch and two rings were stolen. He suffered a cut over his right eye in the assault.

Cavanagh Seeks Registration of All Guns

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh has called for registration of all guns in Detroit and has ordered 200 policemen reassigned from desk jobs to street duty in efforts to cut crime.

Cavanagh Thursday presented the Detroit Common Council with a formal proposal for a law to require registration of all guns. Only small arms are required to be registered under current law.

* * *

The mayor said the ordinance is needed to halt the "arms race" in Detroit, torn last summer by rioting which resulted in 43 deaths. Crime rates have risen markedly, particularly in violent crimes, in the last two years in Detroit.

In addition to the 200 police officers already put on patrol duty, a City Hall source said 200 more would be reassigned to work on the streets in the near future.

'NOT SATISFIED'

But Councilwoman Mary V. Beck, who tried once to have Cavanagh recalled and failed, said she still isn't satisfied with the mayor's efforts to curb crime and that she may move again to have him ousted.

Miss Beck charged Thursday that the mayor has made "no further effort to cope with crime and other things" since she began her first recall campaign last spring.

* * *

Miss Beck, who heads the Recall Cavanagh Committee, criticized the mayor's programs to fight crime last May when she announced a petition drive for his recall.

The drive fell flat at the time at least partly because of a new state law making it necessary to gather required petition signatures within a 90-day period. It would be necessary to have 114,118 signatures to call an election.

GENERALLY IGNORED

The mayor has generally ignored her statements.

A spokesman for Cavanagh said the switch in policemen's duties has not affected vital departments, such as the Criminal Investigation Bureau. He said the police department, numbering more than 4,000 officers, was shorthanded, partly because of retirements.

* * *

An intensive recruitment drive has been under way in Detroit during the last few months.

In the shift of assignments, departments such as traffic safety and accident prevention were reduced in size, with remaining officers doubling up on jobs and some civilians hired to fill the gap.

Licenses Late

Oakland County Clerk John D. Murphy said today that all marriage licenses applied for either Wednesday or yesterday can be picked up in his office Tuesday, since his office will be closed Monday, Lincoln's Birthday, a legal holiday.

Actor's Burial Is Set in East

Autopsy Shows Death Due to Drug Overdose

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Nick Adams, 36, will be buried in Pennsylvania where as a boy he dreamed of becoming a movie star.

A Rosary will be recited tonight in Beverly Hills. Requiem Mass will be celebrated next week in Berwick, Pa., the home of his parents, followed by burial there.

* * *

Adams was found dead Wednesday night of an overdose of a drug used to treat nervous disorders and alcoholism, an autopsy established Thursday.

Dr. J. Wallace Graham, deputy county medical examiner, said the cause of death was "paralydehyde intoxication."

NO ALCOHOL

No alcohol was found in the actor's bloodstream, the coroner's office reported, and friends said they did not consider him a heavy drinker.

They added, however, that in recent weeks a series of personal problems had left him nervous and despondent.

* * *

Adams, former star of the television series "The Rebel," had been dead 24 to 36 hours, the autopsy showed. The body was found in an upstairs bedroom by his friend and attorney, Ervin Roder.

Adams lived alone in the Coldwater Canyon home.

Citizens Sound Off in Illinois

CHICAGO (AP) — Irate citizens protested with such vehemence Thursday that the Illinois Central Railroad ordered its engineers to suspend use of their piercing horns on south suburban runs.

Railroad executives had issued an order Wednesday to use the blast horns because of an increasing number of accidents at crossings.

* * *

Through the night Wednesday thousands of residents were on their telephones protesting to the IC officials, alderman, police and anyone who would listen.

One IC official, who spent six hours answering calls, said the last of three blasts is supposed to continue until the front of the train is through a crossing. But the trouble on the South Side is that crossings are often just two blocks apart."

'VERY STRIDENT'

"The result," he explained, "is that the last toot seemingly never ends. And I must admit that the air horns are very strident and probably disturbing to sleepers."

She Should Amend Phrase

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Belva Jean Belcher, 22, forgot the right phrase but answered anyway Thursday when she appeared in Maricopa County Superior Court.

The state's star witness at a trial charging a man with intimidating a witness, Miss Belcher told the judge: "I'm not going to testify. I take the 10th Commandment."

Drury: Color Shirts Hot

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Any red-blooded American housewife who worries about having the whitest laundry on the block may also be fretting about The Virginian's shirt.

James Drury, who has been playing the title role in the NBC series for the past six seasons, has never been seen on screen without a shirt that looks like mahogany or dark velveteen. And everybody knows they didn't have dry-cleaning establishments for those Old West ranchers.

★ ★ ★

"I guess they must have turned out about four or five dozen of those shirts for me since the show started," says Jim. "They bought a lot of the material when we started—it's upholstery cloth—but we ran out of that long ago. Now they've got some new material and dyed it to match the color of the original."

Drury is not so crazy about that distinctive shirt.

'AWFULLY HOT'

"It's awfully heavy and awfully hot," he said. "And last summer was the hottest I can remember. Some days it would get up to 116 on the studio back lot. And I suffered in those shirts."

Hot or not, Drury's basic shirt and the rest of his costume serve twin purposes.

★ ★ ★

His western getup from black hat to leather boots is distinctive, so that the figure of the Virginian can easily be spotted on the small screen.

And it is economical. If Drury is always dressed in the same clothes and riding the same horse, they can shoot a lot of film at one time and later cut it into a variety of episodes. In fact, sometimes, they can reuse the same film clip.

Liz, Frank Seen as Lovers in 'Vegas' High Jinks Film

By EARL WILSON

Liz Taylor and Frank Sinatra lovers?
Don't get so excited. In a movie.
And who'll get top billing?

Liz is negotiating to return to her "Cleopatra" studio, 20th Century-Fox, in a history-making financial deal which would also bring her Frank as her new leading man.

The picture'd be "The Only Game In Town," based on a play which opened in New Haven . . . all about the gay life in Las Vegas. Both Liz and Frank know a lot about Las Vegas. Liz lost her heart there to Eddie Fisher, and Frank lost his . . . but never mind.

WILSON

Frank and Liz are eager to do the film after phone discussions. Only remaining question is how much loot Liz'll wring out of 20th which paid her about $5,000,000 for "Cleo."

Sinatra's meanwhile causing talk in Miami Beach. There was a rumor he'd rapped Eddie Fisher in the mouth. Also other people. And that he'd been refusing calls from Mia Farrow. Probably all untrue. Who'd want to rap a nice guy like Eddie Fisher and who'd want to turn down calls from Mia? Frank's opening at the Fontainebleau postponed from today (Feb. 9) to next Friday because Frank has been in bed . . . with a 102 degree flu.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Sou Chan of the House of Chan gave a Chinese New Year's party just for his employes and their children—what a wonderful evening for everybody with "the help" in command. A brilliant thought for other benevolent employers, but probably little likelihood anybody else would do it, probably not a Chinaman's chance.

Harry Belafonte took Bobby Kennedy, Bill Cosby and the Smothers Bros. to the Monsignore after hosting them on the Carson TV'er; Bobby phoned home and all the celebrities talked to his kids . . . Lee Remick arrived solo at a screening of "Planet of the Apes" . . . Arthur Jacobs and Natalie Trundy say their wedding date's now Feb. 29. (She complains she'll "only get an anniversary present every four years!") . . . The Maharishi'll reportedly tour the south in the spring.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Corn is a commodity that's sold by the bushel in the Midwest, by the fifth in the South, and by the hour in TV.—Ray Sackett.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The income tax has made more liars out of the American people than golf has."—Will Rogers.

EARL'S PEARLS: "The greatest mistake of my life," sighs Pic Larmour, "is the number of temptations I've resisted successfully."

The Tune Timers, a music group, will get 6Gs a week in Las Vegas, and the leader says proudly, "That'll be the most money we ever lost out there!" . . . That's earl, brother.

Four Misprinted Airmail Stamps Bring $100,000

NEW YORK (AP) — The sale of four accidentally misprinted U.S. airmail stamps of 1918 has brought a record $100,000, raising to $2.6 million the total proceeds of an auction of part of the stamp collection of the late Josiah K. Lilly of Indianapolis, Ind.

The auction Thursday night was the second part of a two-day sale which grossed $637,000, and the seventh in a series to dispose of the stamp holdings of the pharmaceutical tycoon.

A spokesman for the auctioneer, Robert A. Siegal Auctions, said the $100,000 figure was the highest ever realized for a single item in an American stamp sale.

Three more sales are scheduled in the disposal of the Lilly collection, estimated to be worth $3.5 million. The next auction will be held in May.

Lilly, the former head of Eli Lilly & Co., died several years ago.

By JIM LONG

Leveling strong criticism at individuals and church leaders counseling young men to resist the draft, the state director of Selective Service said yesterday he will continue to "fight those who are against the loyal people of the United States."

★ ★ ★

Col. Arthur A. Holmes, speaking before the Pontiac Rotary Club, said that to date Michigan has been fortunate in not experienceing full-scale antidraft demonstrations like those that have occurred in other parts of the country.

"But we cannot sit back," warned Holmes, the state Selective Service director since 1952.

While noting that one of first antidraft compaigns in the nation was squelched in Ann Arbor in 1965 with arrest of several demonstrators, Holmes pointed out, however, similar movements have gained momentum in recent months.

Reading from a Detroit police report, Holmes said meetings were held in October and December, one in the sanctuary of an Episcopal church, to lay groundwork for organized opposition to the draft.

At the December meeting, Holmes quoted the police report as saying a proposal was made to get Negroes involved in the movement so college students wouldn't lose their deferments.

"Let me say here, however," said Holmes, "that as long as I've held this job I have never been picketed by a Negro."

Of the 50 to 60 draft cards that have been turned into his office, only one has been from a student who had received a college deferment, said Holmes. The other were deferred for various other reasons.

★ ★ ★

Holmes said he believed there isn't a Selective Service administrator in the country who likes the draft.

SOME OTHER WAY?

"I think the draft should be done away with if we could find some other way that this country could survive," Holmes added.

"And until we do, I will continue to seek the reasons why these conditions (of resistence) must exist in this country."

Holmes said the great majority of the people are "sound, patriotic and willing to do whatever is necessary to maintain the freedoms for which our ancestors have fought, and for which we know we must always be prepared to fight."

★ ★ ★

The Communications media, though, have made it possible for the 'noisy few to dominate the attention of many," Holmes said.

IRRESPONSIBILITY GROWS

Events, over a period of years he said, have added to irresponsibility of citizens.

"The few have claimed the right to fail to obey our laws and have sought refuge by strained interpretations of our federal Constitution," added Holmes.

Lindsay Shuns Bid to End Trash Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay rejected today the recommendations of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's special mediation panel for ending the week-old sanitationmen's strike, dashing hopes for an early settlement.

"I said yesterday the city would not pay blackmail in order to conclude this strike," the Republican mayor declared at a news conference. "The proposed settlement, in my view, asks the city to pay a little blackmail."

After the mayor acted, 400 shop stewards for the striking Uniformed Sanitationmens' Association voted unanimously to accept the proposal. A union spokesman said the strike would continue nonetheless.

As the city entered the eighth day of the municipal crisis, health officials warned of growing rat and typhoid dangers posed by 60,000 tons of uncollected garbage festering in the streets.

Lindsay renewed his plea for a National Guard call-up which the governor held in abeyance yesterday as he took charge of the dispute and sought to break the deadlock through mediation.

VOTE FOR PROPOSAL

The governor named his five-man panel last night and it voted 4-1 for the proposal submitted to the governor at 2:40 a.m. today.

Rockefeller endorsed the report as "fair and reasonable and above all in the best interest of the people of this city," and recommended acceptance by both sides.

But at 3:25 a.m. the mayor's press secretary announced Lindsay had turned down the proposal calling for a $425 annual increase in salaries — $25 more than the proposal of another mediation team which the union rejected earlier.

★ ★ ★

Union Presiden John J. DeLury, who was released from jail to join the talks yesterday, was returned to his cell today after he had presented the panels report to his shop stewards. He is serving a 15-day contempt sentence.

STRUCK FRIDAY

The union struck Friday in a demand for a $600 increase in the annual salaries that range from $6,424 to $7,956 after three years.

At the end of the first week of the unprecedented strike there was enough uncollected trash littering the city to fill the holds of six averaged-sized, ocean-going freighters.

In declaring the first citywide health emergency since a summer polio epidemic in 1931, the Board of Health warned that typhoid fever could result if uncollected garbage jammed sewers and caused flooding.

★ ★ ★

The Board also cited a whopping 700 per cent increase in rubbish fires since the beginning of the strike and the spectre of a citywide explosion in the rat population.

3 Negro Teens Die, 40 Injured in S.C. Battle

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — Negro students exchanged gunfire with police last night in the fourth night of violence on two adjacent college campuses. Three Negro teen-agers were killed and more than 40 persons wounded.

★ ★ ★

The shooting incidents came during a drive by students from the two predominantly Negro schools to break the segregation barrier at the All-Star Bowling lanes.

Henry Smith, 18, a student at South Carolina State College, died several hours after a barrage of gunfire broke out between students and police on a small slope bordering the State campus along U.S. 601. One student was reported in critical condition.

Sam Hammon, 18, was killed in the shooting, and Delano Middleton, 17, an Orangeburg high school student, died about an hour later.

★ ★ ★

Chief J. P. Strom of the state law enforcement division said Cleveland Sellers, 25, South Carolina coordinator for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), was arrested and charged with inciting to riot and placed under $50,000 bond.

TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY

Sellers was hit in the left arm by a shotgun pellet during the fray but was not seriously wounded. After questioning by Orangeburg police, Sellers was taken to the state penitentiary at Columbia, 45 miles away.

Associated Press photographer Dozier Mobley, who was on the shooting scene, said about 75 Negroes standing on a knoll opened fire on police, firemen and National Guardsmen who came to extinguish a bonfire the Negroes had set.

Mobley reported that police officers returned the fire with shotguns, but there was no report of guardsmen shooting and their commanding officer denied that any had.

★ ★ ★

Police said State Highway Patrolman D. J. Shealy of St. Stephens was struck in the face by a club wielded by a Negro. He was the only man reported hurt among the police and guardsmen.

Ambulances raced to the scene and removed wounded students to Orangeburg Regional Hospital.

★ ★ ★

At least three of the wounded were from Claflin College, which adjoins South Carolina State.

Two Antipoverty Leaders Resign Posts in County

Two major figures in the Oakland County war on poverty have announced their resignations.

★ ★ ★

Leaving as executive director of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity (OCCEO) is James M. McNeely. Not seeking reelection as OCCEO Chairman is Carl F. Ingraham, lawyer and Birmingham city commissioner.

McNeely, 37, of 463 W. Iroquois has held the top salaried position ($18,000 per year) for the county agency since its inception in 1965. Sources have indicated he will take the position as deputy chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee.

He is expected to be named assistant to State Sen. Sander Levin, D-15th District, chairman of the committee. However, confirmation of his appointment had not been affirmed.

★ ★ ★

If he joined Sen. Levin, McNeely would be resuming a former relationship. When Levin of Berkley, was county Democratic chairman prior to 1965, McNeely was his deputy chairman.

NO CRITICISM

McNeely had no criticism of the program in his resignation, which is to take effect Feb. 23. He did, however, say that in his opinion the level of funding was too low.

The agency has been existing on a budget of about $2.5 million annually depending on the federal budget.

Providing a wide range of service to the poor including counseling, education and organization of the county's indigent, the agency often has been a subject of controversy in the county.

★ ★ ★

It has been attacked for supposed duplication of efforts, for interfering too much with other government agencies, and for not doing enough interfering.

CONFLICTS FELT VALUABLE

McNeely said he feels the conflicts are important role for the OCCEO. "This stirred up more interest in the plight of the poor," he said.

Ingraham of 950 E. Maple, a member of the County Board of Supervisors, has several other political commitments. He said he would not continue as chairman because he had served three consecutive terms. "Thats' enough," he commented. mented.

Bargaining Down to Wire

Strike Close at Pontiac Div.

A marathon bargaining session was going down to the wire at Pontiac Motor Division today as a strike deadline set for 2 p.m. loomed.

Negotiators for General Motors and from UAW Local 653 had been closeted together at the plant since 8 a.m. yesterday, but as of noon today no agreement had been reached.

No predictions on if or when a proposed contract agreement would avert the strike were being made by either side. A third possibility exists that the UAW would extend the deadline. However, this was not done during the morning as the zero hour approached.

At issue are strictly local working conditions. A national agreement that settled wage matters was ratified by the membership last month.

★ ★ ★

Both sides have expressed a desire to avert the strike. Yesterday bargaining had narrowed to a few key issues including seniority rights, working conditions, use of outside contractors, lines of demarcation for skilled work and unsettled grievances.

If the strike were called, some 17,000 hourly rated employes would walk out. Another GM strike deadline has been set for Tuesday at plants in Flint where some 20,000 would be affected.

County Fiscal Picture Is Rosy

By ED BLUNDED

Oakland County officials these days can sing that old song, "We're in the Money."

Thanks to a fortuitous set of circumstances, the county finds itself in an excellent financial situation in an era when many other governments, such as school districts, face deficits and austerity budgets.

Things began to look good last October when estimates of county income from the millage levy were made. Then things got even better . . . and better.

For 1968, the county is operating on anticipated revenues of $21,134,162. This is also the amount budgeters figured the county would spend — a balanced budget, right?

Wrong.

★ ★ ★

Not counted as income was money from the state income tax which went into effect last October.

BEING DISPUTED

Actually, the ways and means committee could not porperly put this item into the financial picture as it was being disputed in the courts and it was not certain if and when it would go into effect.

However, the committee's report indicated that some $1.2 million would probably be turned over as the county's share.

The committee recommended using the money, if available, toward financing of a new jail.

★ ★ ★

The state tax since that time has obviously gone into effect meaning the money is forthcoming — but it will be more than anticipated!

UP TO 40 PCT.

On Monday the state revealed the levy was yielding far above expected revenue, some $234 million instead of $164 million, up over 40 per cent.

This would indicate the county will get about an extra $500,000, or about $1.7 million free and clear.

Another windfall of possible $400,000 is expected from a different source, again thanks to the State Legislature. A new law turned over a tax on land transfers to the county.

More Snow Seen Tonight

Snow flurries and occasional snow squalls are likely through tonight with an accumulation of less than two inches.

Temperatures are expected to fall slowly today to a low of five to 12 above zero tonight.

Tomorrow's outlook is variable cloudiness and cold with a chance of snow flurries. Partly cloudy and continued quite cold is the forecast for Sunday.

Morning northerly winds at 15 to 25 miles per hour and gusty will continue.

Snow or flurries are pedicted for all of Michigan today.

WINDY FORECAST

In northeast Lower Michigan the forecast is windy with considerable blowing and drifting of snow with heavy amounts likely near Lake Huron and Saginaw Bay.

Precipitation probabilities for Pontiac in per cent are: today 70, tonight and tomorrow 60.

Nineteen was the low reading prior to 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The thermometer recorded 20 at 12:30 p.m.

Action Asked to Quell Race Tension

The Pontiac Area Planning Council board of governors last night went on record as recommending strong steps to quell continuing racial tension in the city.

* * *

The governing board discussed the problem for an hour and a half beyond normal adjournment time.

A unanimous vote, with 27 of the 32 governors present, was cast calling for immediate positive action.

The governing board decided to devote a major portion of its next meeting, Feb 22, to discuss possible ways of alleviating the tension.

* * *

The board was asked to act on the resolution by Hubert Price Jr., a board member.

The governors discussed evident signs of increased tension and the abundance of ill-founded rumors which have added to the tension.

James Dyer of 686 Central said a rumor that a Negro had been hammered to death in a Pontiac factory yesterday had been widely circulated yesterday afternoon and had led to noticable bitterness among Negroes.

Pontiac police said a 22-year-old Negro had reported to police himself that he was hit by a hammer after a misunderstanding with another worker yesterday morning.

He was treated for cuts at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and released.

Some Items Moved in Rail Strike

By The Associated Press

Only a limited amount of perishables and some military supplies were being moved on three major railroads today as a strike by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen entered its fourth day.

Spokesmen for the Missouri Pacific (MOPAC) said the carrier had received reports of sabotage from widely separated points along its 12,000 miles of track.

* * *

W. Thomas Rice, president of the Seaboard Coast Line, said the coal supply for 12 power plants along its route is in jeopardy and that congestion at 17 Atlantic Coast ports served by the railroad "is mounting at tremendous rate."

The third carrier is the Texas & Pacific, a subsidiary of MOPAC.

STRIKE AVERTED

The threat of a strike against a fourth road, Union Pacific, was halted Thursday by a federal court restraining order issued at Lincoln, Neb.

U.S. Dist. Judge Robert Van Pelt temporarily restrained the Union Pacific from reducing the size of its freight train crews and ordered the union not to strike until good faith negotiations on the issues had taken place.

* * *

Passenger service on the struck lines halted Tuesday. Supervisory personnel are operating an undetermined number of freight trains.

The strike is over an old issue —size of crews for freight trains. Management contends only two men are needed, that any more amounts to featherbedding. The union argues that a minimum of three is necessary to operate safely.

Marine Try to Hijack DC6 in Viet Fails

DA NANG, (AP) — A U.S. Marine private in a black leather jacket with a cocked, 45-caliber pistol tried today to hijack a Pan American Airlines DC6 loaded with war-weary U.S. servicemen waiting to fly to Hong Kong, U.S. Air Force Police said.

After 2 hours and 45 minutes, the copilot thwarted the effort with a bold move.

* * *

The man arrested by Air Force police was identified as Marine Pfc. William Lee Clark of the 1st Division's 1st Field Artillery Group.

In the cockpit of the four-engined plane were the pilot, John P. Jones, of New York City; copilot E.L. Archer, 30, of Beeville, Tex.; and a flight engineer, Robert H. Clack, 26, of Midland, Mich.

Sword and Olive Branch

N. Viet Offer to U.S. 2-Sided

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam offered the United States the sword and the olive branch Thursday on the 11th day of the biggest Communist offensive of the Vietnam war.

The peace bid was made by Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh, who said Hanoi would go to the peace table "as soon as the United States has proved that it has really stopped unconditionally the bombings and all other acts of war" against North Vietnam.

The promise of more fighting was held out by Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, North Vietnam's defense minister and the victor of the 1954 battle against the French at Dien Bien Phu.

Speaking at a reception marking the 20th anniversary of the North Korean army, Giap vowed to "fight on until we have won final victory."

IN INTERVIEW

Trinh's peace proposal—which said the 1954 Geneva armistice agreements could be the subject of the talks—was made in an interview with a French news agency correspondent in Hanoi.

State Department officials in Washington immediately began studying Trinh's statement. The initial reaction was that there was no fundamental shift in position.

* * *

Trinh went a step further than he had in his previous two declarations when he said that the "relevant problems" to be discussed were "questions related to a settlement of the Vietnam problem on the basis of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam; there are also other questions which could be raised by either side."

Though he insisted that Hanoi's long-standing four-point and the Vietcong's five-point conditions for settling the war still stand, he said their "spirit" was a U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam. He added that the points "conform to the fundamental principles and the main clauses" of the 1954 Geneva agreements.

WITHOUT CHINA NOD

Hanoi's willingness to use the Geneva pact as a basis for peace conference suggested they had not consulted Peking on this point. The Red Chinese insist the agreements are dead and no longer applicable.

* * *

Giap said in referring to the Vietcong strikes in the south: "These brilliant victories marked a new and very important step in the development of our people's resistance against the U.S. imperialists for national salvation, and have taken our resistance to a new situation very favorable for our people and unfavorable for the U.S. aggressors. These resounding victories are vigorously stimulating the entire Vietnamese people from the South to the North to charge forward with still greater valor and determination and fight on until we have won final victory."

* * *

He made no reference to any possibility of peace talks.

It was the third time since early last year that Trinh had publicly expressed Hanoi's willingness to sit down with the Americans, if the bombing of North Vietnam's cities and military targets are halted.

Councilman Gets Nod as Manager of Keego Harbor

Russell Greig, 54, Keego Harbor councilman for eight years, was appointed manager of that city last night.

He will begin the job, paying about $10,000 a year, by March 1. A resident of the city for more than 40 years, he has served as mayor for two years and on the Planning Commission several years.

He was recently appointed the city's delegate for the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. The council has also appointed him to a state beautification committee.

Greig, a machinist at Daniels Manufacturing Co. in Pontiac, lives with his wife at 2022 Willow Beach. He is a member of the Elks Lodge 810, Pontiac.

The new manager was chosen from seven candidates.

Copters Land Yanks at Saigon Racetrack

SAIGON (AP) — Helicopters landed U.S. troops on Saigon's racetrack today to help rout out diehard Vietcong forces as the North Vietnamese increased pressure against Da Nang and more Communist tanks were reported sighted near Khe Sanh.

Heavy fighting was reported across South Vietnam's northern sector, with 321 Communists and 67 U.S. troops killed Thursday, most of them in battles around Khe Sanh and Da Nang and in Hue. Another 170 Americans were wounded.

* * *

Troops from the U.S. 199th Light Infantry Brigade were landed in the center of the Saigon racetrack and quickly took up positions to bolster South Vietnamese forces having slower going blasting the Reds out of Cholon, the Chinese quarter and adjoining areas on the southwest side of Saigon.

* * *

Thursday night the Vietcong burned down a block of homes just south of the track. The region had been declared pacified two days ago, but the Vietcong either surfaced from hiding or slipped back into the city. A Vietcong battalion is reported to control 20 blocks east and south of the race course.

It was the third time American troops have been used in the battle of Saigon that began last Wednesday. Paratroops of the 101st Airborne Division were helicoptered onto the roof of the U.S. Embassy when Red commandos invaded the embassy grounds Jan. 31. Two days later an armored column of the 25th Infantry Division helped clear out Vietcong forces from the racetrack area.

Elsewhere below the northern provinces, the big Communist offensive against the cities launched 10 days ago appeared tapering off. But the U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese forces are still battling doggedly in Hue, the old imperial capital in the north, and fighting drew closer to Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city and the nerve center for Allied operations in the northern provinces.

* * *

An indication of the gravity with which the U.S. Command viewed the situation in the north was a decision to send Gen. Creighton D. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam, to take personal charge. Informed military sources said Abrams would set up his headquarters in Phu Bai, north of Da Nang.

Curb on Private Guards Approved in State Senate

LANSING (AP) — A bill to license and regulate private police and security guards was approved by the Senate Thursday, but a measure to deal similarly with lie detector examiners met a storm of protest.

Meanwhile, senators introduced an eight-bill package of anticrime and antiriot bills inspired by last summer's Detroit riots and a measure to allow school districts to provide instruction in sex education.

Elsewhere in the capital:

—The House debated a bill to give the secretary of state authority to revoke a driver's license, under certain conditions —if he was involved in accidents.

—The Senate Judiciary Committee reported out a lower court reorganization bill, designed to divide the state into 40 judical districts presided over by 81 elected district judges.

* * *

—The Legislature met in joint session to hear an address by the national commander of the American Legion, William E. Galbraith of Beemer, Neb.

POLICE JURISDICTION

The private police regulation bill, sponsored by Sen. James Gray, D-Warren, was approved 30-1. It would place licensing of such officers under jurisdiction of the State Police.

* * *

The bill's backers said there currently are few regulations governing private police agencies and that last summer's riots in Detroit pointed out a need for stricter rules.

* * *

A private guard was one of 43 persons killed in last summer's riots.

* * *

The bill to license and regulate polygraph (lie detector) examiners, sponsored by Sen. Charles Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, ran into opposition from Democrats and was laid over until next week after more than an hour's debate.

* * *

Zollar said Michigan has no rules governing such examiners and nothing to protect the public from "quack polygraph operators."

S. Korea-U.S. Deal on Talks Reported

SEOUL (AP) — Informed sources said today the South Korean government has agreed to stop complaining about the private U.S.-North Korean talks at Panmunjom to obtain release of the crew of the USS Pueblo.

The informants said the United States agreed in turn to regard the talks as part of the functions of the Korean Military Armistice Commission and not bilateral negotiations with the Communists.

* * *

The sources said South Korean Premier Chung Il-kwo and U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter also agreed to continue handling the Pueblo case in private talks but to discuss the Communist attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park on Jan. 21 in open session of the armistice group. South Korea presumably wants to keep the spotlight of publicity on the Communist threat from the North.

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Edison Co. said Thursday its Trenton Channel Power Plant has begun operations of its new turbine generator. The unit, part of a $1 billion, seven-year expansion program, adds 519,000 kilowatts to the plan't capability.

Poverty War Leaders Resign

He county commission, in addition to losing it two central figures, is undergoing a painful reorganization process.

* * *

It must, under federal rules laid down in the year-end budget allotment, change its form of membership.

FACTIONS REPRESENTED

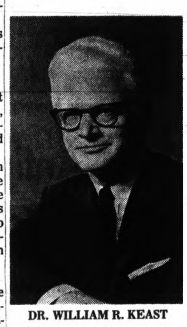
Those serving are representatives from many factions in the county such as labor unions, political and social groups, churches, social agencies, ethnics groups and others.

Under new, stricter guidelines, membership will be confined to 51 persons and 17 must be officials. The OCCEO is still trying to determine if "officials" means elected or appointed persons or both.

In any case, coming up with 17 persons willing to serve may prove difficult as only above five ever were active on the OCCEO in the past, members have pointed out.

* * *

A nominating committee is selecting candidates for an election, which will replace Ingraham and many others, which will probably be held in April.



DR. WILLIAM R. KEAST

This levy was formerly collected by the U.S., but the authorization bill expired. The state passed a similar bill which designated the levy for the counties, collected at the clerk-register of deeds office.

The tax is not impressive sounding, 55 cents per $500 in property involved ($22 on a $20,000 home). However, John Murphy, clerk-register, reports that in January his office pulled in $47,000 on 6,311 land deals.

Murphy said it was too early to tell if this figure will be maintained. However, he reports one month last year 7,159 land deals were handled through his office.

Murphy and many others can foresee increased activity in Oakland County real estate in the coming years, so it is quite porbable the land transfer tax will yield some $500,000 this year.

* * *

This is $400,000 more than anticipated in the budget when factors involved were very uncertain.

What will the county do with the money? The board of auditors is currently preparing a list of priorities of what the county needs to guide decisions of the board of supervisors.

Reportedly high on the list is the proposed jail, for which plans are now being studied, and development of the county airport facilities.

He said the solution is not in passing more laws.

"Our job as citizens is to obey the law and to see to it that all others are required to do the same. Reasons for neglect to obey cannot exist, and excuses must not be tolerated."

SYMBOL OF ACCEPTANCE

On the subject of deferments, Holmes said an individual accepting a deferment apparently has accepted the draft system.

"And he must acknowledge, therefore, that the government is not removing him from the obligation to serve in uniform just so he can have a vantage point from which to attack the military obligation of others, or to impede the recruiting efforts of the Armed Forces."

Holmes said that if the individual wants to fight the draft system, "let him refuse the deferment and scream his head off," but he must be prepared to take the consequences.

"But if the individual has accepted a deferment, then let him shut up and carry on with the reason for which he was deferred. That's the only reason he is being permitted the deferment in the first place.

"If he insists on defying the government, the draft board should withdraw his deferment," said Holmes.

Legislator Talks to Milford PTA on School Costs

Taxpayers aren't going to get out of helping foot the bill for education, stressed State Rep. Clifford H. Smart.

He spoke recently to 100 people at a Milford PTA meeting.

He brought out the possibility that education costs can be levied by localities and by the state. It's a question of which body will levy the most, he added.

Nevertheless, Smart, former Walled Lake School superintendent, advised the audience to vote yes on the millage requests.

★ ★ ★

Huron Valley Schools Supt. Truman Owens, speaking at the same meeting, told the audience that education is going to cost more money. He cited increases in cost of teachers and equipment.

MORE BUILDINGS

Owens reported that his district will need more buildings which will require more personnel.

Owens pointed out that 80.5 per cent of the district's operating funds go for salaries and 19.5 per cent for supplies.

He explained that although property assessments are rising, the district doesn't get mnuch more money in the end.

★ ★ ★

The state aid formula is based on how much money the local district has behind each student, Owens said.

IT'S STARTED—Employing the traditional shovel, officials conducted a ground-breaking ceremony for the almost-$400,000 addition to the Farmington Township Hall. Participating yesterday were (from left) Township Trustee Peter Klopp Jr., Township Supervisor Curtis Hall and William Bowman, chairman of the building and grounds committee.

All Avon Twp. Property to Be Reappraised in '68

By JEAN SAILE

AVON TOWNSHIP — The Township Board has approved a resolution calling for the hiring of an independent appraisal firm to reassess all of the property in the township by Dec. 31, 1968.

Reportedly consideration for several months, the selection of the appraiser has been turned over to the board's general business committee for recommendation.

At a special meeting earlier this week a reply was made to charges made Jan. 24 by Robert Thor, chairman of the township Committee for Fairer Taxes. A registered letter to Thor containing the board's answer was reportedly in the mail today.

Thor had asked in a letter to the board for the removal of Township Assessor John Marmon and the three-man board of review on charges of incompetency, discrimination and ridicule of taxpayers when they appear before them.

★ ★ ★

He had also asked that as of Feb. 1 the total property tax millage in the township be dropped from its present 43 to 45 mill level to a total of 20 mills.

'NO INSTANCES'

He had demanded the right of his committee to approve any assessing firm hired by the township as well as any new appointments to the board of review.

In regard to the charges made against the assessor the board wrote, "The board unanimously agreed that it knows of no instances of favoritism or incompetency on the part of the township assessor and requests that any assertion of such acts be submitted in writing to the board. The assertion should give the legal description of the property and be signed by the person making the complaint.

Regarding Thor's charges against the board of review, the board answered, "It is the opinion of the Township Board that the township assessor and members of the board of review have carried out the difficult and trying duties of their offices in a courteous, considerate and businesslike manner; and request that any assertions of discrimination be made in writing to the board. The assertions should be signed by the complainant and contain details of the alleged discriminatory action."

★ ★ ★

In regard to Thor's request that his committee be allowed to approve an assessing firm and new appointments to the board of review, the board wrote, "The board unanimously agreed that it has no right to delegate authority to anyone else."

'FOLLOWING LAWS'

Thor had also asked that the Township Board not put in any sewers, water or drains without a vote of the affected people.

★ ★ ★

The board answered, "The board is bound to follow the laws of the State of Michigan in regard to the installation of utilities and the board will follow state laws."

★ ★ ★

As for the drop in millage requested, the board wrote, "Under the law it is impossible for the Township Board to limit taxes to 20 mills."

Ground Broken for Hall Addition

FARMINGTON TOWNSHIP — Ground was broken yesterday on a $379,700 addition to the Township Hall. The addition is planned to alleviate overcrowding in the hall.

The present building at 31555 11 Mile will be remodeled and taken over by the police department, with its 66 men.

The addition, to be completed this fall, will house all other city offices.

Designed by Swanson Associates, Inc., and to be built by Pinkert Construction Co., the addition will be located to the east of the present building. A stair tower will connect the two building.

★ ★ ★

The project includes a 10-unit carport for the police department and additional parking space.

The township buildings and grounds committee, headed by William W. Bowman, executive vice president of Thompson-Brown Co., has been working on plans for the hall addition for a year and a half.

Parks Unit Forming in West Bloomfield

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — A proposal to form a township parks and recreation committee has been formally launched.

Trustee Mrs. William J. Evans, on request of the Township Board, is setting up such a committee.

The impetus to form the committee came from the West Bloomfield League of Women Voters. This group sent a letter to the board several months ago urging that a committee be set up to consider acquisition of park sites hers.

The letter was referred to the planning commission, which responded by recommending the creation of the committee.

★ ★ ★

But the letter was sent back to the board for any action. The action came at this week's board meeting, when Mrs. Evans was asked to head up a committee.

After a public hearing this week, the Township Board approved the $60,360 assessment roll for the Bel-Aire sewer district. The system, to serve 22 lots, is expected to be constructed within eight months.

Sex Education Series Set in Lake Orion

LAKE ORION — A series of five programs has been scheduled by the Citizens Committee on Sex Education for Feb. 27 through March 26. Meetings will take place at 8 p.m. Tuesdays at the Lake Orion Junior High School.

Dr. Armin Grams of the Merrill Palmer Institute, Detroit, will discuss "Sex Education and Human Sexuality" in the first program Feb. 27.

Other speakers include doctors and school administrators, according to Mrs. Merle Smith, 3961 Morgan, Orion Township, committee publicity chairman.

Aim of the group is the establishment of a sex education program in the school system in addition to the films presently shown.

Committee members state they feel such a program could:

- Support the home and church in their leading roles in teaching the relationship of parent to child in the family unit.
- Teach body development, personal hygiene and vocabulary as a means of understanding human growth.
- Develop wholesome attitudes toward human sexuality by helping to eliminate fears and anxieties created by misinformation and misunderstanding.
- Help to build a system of values to guide behavior when problems arise.

Avon Twp. Recount Results in Bigger Cityhood Margin

AVON TOWNSHIP — A recount of ballots from the township incorporation vote Jan. 15 revealed two ballot changes, giving incoporation a 52-vote margin.

The recount was conducted yesterday in the townships' 10 precincts by a committee composed of county election officials, the board of canvassers, attorneys for both sides and township officials.

The additional "yes" votes were picked up in Precinct 3 in the southern part of the township. They involved absentee ballots. A total of 1,381 "yes" votes and 1,329 "no" votes were tabulated by the committee.

Norman F. Kapcia, attorney for Lloyd J. Brown, 881 Cobblestone, petitioner for the recount, reportedly challenged six ballots, all absentee, but he was overruled by the board of canvassers.

★ ★ ★

Voters cast a total of 2,710 ballots to start proceedings for the incorporation of the township as the City of Avon. A charter commission of nine members was also selected during the election.

TWO-YEAR PERIOD

That commission, headed by Township Trustee William McCullough, has two years and three attempts in which to write a city charter acceptable to the voters of the township.

Kapcia said that in his opinion the recount is not yet over, and that he has been assured the board of canvassers will reconvene at his request later for purposes of investigating further charges made by Brown in his original petition.

★ ★ ★

Kapcia said he would probable challenge some of the registrations themselves, but that earlier this week he had been denied access to the township voter registration files.

Interfraternal Festival Scheduled Saturday

Pontiac area members will be among those members of the Knights of Columbus and Knights of Pythias to celebrate the second Interfraternal festival scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Flamingo Hall, Detroit.

A family-style roast beef dinner is planned. Entertainment is to be provided by the Kings Men Quartet of Pontiac. Serving on the central planning committee for the Festival is John F. Austermann, 231 E. Pike.

Farmington Residents Facing a 12 Pct. Rate Hike for Water

FARMINGTON — Residents may be paying 12 per cent more for their water soon.

An ordinance proposing the rate hike was introduced at a recent City Council meeting. Final action is expected to come at the council's Feb. 19 meeting, said City Manager John D. Dinan.

The ordinance calls for an increase from $4.50 to $5 per 1,000 gallons of the first 7,000 gallons used. Other rate changes are proportional.

The sewage disposal charge will remain at 75 per cent of the water charge, said Dinan.

★ ★ ★

The increase is due to a 15 per cent hike levied on all users of Detroit water and an extra 29 per cent levied just on the city.

MAXIMUM USE

The additional increase is because the city uses the maximum amount of water in the summer, the city manager explained.

If the city had adequate and properly operating storage and pumping facilities, the rate would go down, Dinan said.

He reported that the cost of constructing the additional facilities and the cost of paying the extra levy was about the same.

★ ★ ★

In other action at the meeting, the council tabled two rezoning requests after public hearings.

30 RESIDENTS ATTEND

About 30 residents appeared to oppose the multiple dwelling rezoning of about three-quarters of an acre east of Farmington Road and south of Nine Mile.

The City Planning Commission has given approval to this request of developer William Wilson of Birmingham.

There was no opposition, however, to the request to rezone 19 acres on the southeast corner of Halstead and Grand River for a shopping center, motel and apartments.

The $4-million complex, being planned by Standard Construction Co., has also received rezoning approval of the planning commission.

Romeo Firm Pays in Job Bias Case

ROMEO — A local manufacturing firm has agreed to pay wages to two Negro women who charged the company with employment discrimination in a Michigan Civil Rights Commission case.

Romeo Metal Products, 80380 Scotch Settlement, had appealed the commission's order to cease and desist unlawful employment practices and pay back wages.

The order was issued following a public hearing on a charge that the company denied Mrs. Dorothy Hannah and Mrs. Della Bell employment because of their race.

The appeal was filed in Circuit Court while the amount of back pay was being determined. Agreement on the pay resulted in withdrawal of the appeal.

The company will pay Mrs. Hannah $508 and Mrs. Bell $441, representing wages they would have received between the time when they applied for employment and the time when they found other employment.

White Lake Twp. Assessments Hike Explained

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Residents have heard why their property assessments are increasing and what they can do if they dispute the increase.

These were the main topics at a recent meeting held by the area Good Neighbor League.

Speaking to some 100 people were Herman W. Stephens, director of the County Equalization Department, Township Supervisor James Reid and Pontiac attorney William Travis.

Several residents complained that their property was assessed higher than the required 50 per cent cash value.

★ ★ ★

Both Stephens and Reid answered questions regarding how most assessments have been increased because of the state requirement.

SIZABLE SPENDING

Reid explained that for all properties to be reassessed to meet this requirement, the township would have to spend a sizable amount to hire more personnel to complete the job immediately.

Attorney Travis explained how taxpayers could take their complaints regarding assessments and tax bills to court.

Several residents were concerned about the extra funds the school district is getting because of increased assessments.

★ ★ ★

As has been explained by school officials, the money is being soaked up by rising costs, especially teachers' salaries.

At the next meeting of the Good Neighbor League March 6, new officers will be elected.

The Avondale Board of Education will explain its request for additional operating millage at two meetings next week sponsored by PTA units.

The district is asking an increase of $12.70 per $1,000 of assessed valuation at a special election on Feb. 19.

★ ★ ★

The first meeting will be 8 p.m. Tuesday at Auburn Heights Elementary School, 260 S. Squirrel. The second will be 8 p.m. Thursday at Avondale Junior High School, 2900 Waukegan.

Walled Lake Rotary Will Hear McDonald

WALLED LAKE — Congressman Jack McDonald, R-19th District, will speak to the Rotary Club Monday on current legislative issues.

The meeting, open to the public, is at 7:15 at Walled Lake Methodist Church, 313 E. Northport.

Troy Official Seeks Opinion

School Monies Talk Delayed

TROY — The superintendent of this school district is slated to confer with state officials early next week on the use of building and site fund monies.

A meeting scheduled for today, to include Supt. of Schools Dr. Rex B. Smith, Assistant Atty. Gen.-Education James J. Wood and Roger Boline of the State Department of Public Instruction, was canceled this morning due to Wood's illness, Smith said.

"I will try to get the meeting rescheduled for Monday or Tuesday," the superintendent said.

Smith had said earlier that the board of education would seek the opinion of state officials with regard to the site fund.

★ ★ ★

The board's bonding attorney, Stratton Brown of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, has returned an opinion to the board stating he believed funds had been incorrectly spent.

The opinion, which had been requested by the board Dec. 1, said funds from the 1959 and 1965 bond issues could not be used to buy equipment for facilities which had already been constructed.

Both bond issues included the equipping and furnishing of additions to schools and erecting, equipping and furnishing new buildings.

The board sent a list of ten questions to Brown asking about different uses of the money. Of these, Smith said, "better than half brought forth a narrow interpretation of the uses for the money."

★ ★ ★

The board, he explained, had been using a broader interpretation.

'VINDICATED'

Board member Harold A. Janes, who has clashed with other board members and the administration on money matters, said Brown's opinion "completely vindicates me."

Janes announced nearly two weeks ago that he had met with Boline and Wood on "possible misuse" of funds in the district, but has since declined to elaborate on his charges.

He said the attorney general's office had asked him not to discuss the matter. No action has as yet been taken by the attorney general's office.

★ ★ ★

Smith said that if Brown's opinion was confirmed by state officials, expenditures which had been incorrectly made would have to be reclassified.

Brown told the board in his opinion that the district's auditor should correctly credit all past expenditures in the books and records.

Boline concurred, saying that if money was available to restore the finances to their proper condition, an adjustment could be made. "This is one of the things we will be trying to determine when we meet with Dr. Smith," he concluded.

Fire Damage Heavy at Home in Brandon

BRANDON TOWNSHIP — Firemen battled a blaze at the home of Harlan Hobbs, 380 Bald Eagle Lake, for more than an hour yesterday before bringing it under control.

Damage in the fire, reported at 6:05 p.m., was estimated by Fire Chief William Buckingham at $6,000 to $7,000.

★ ★ ★

Hobbs was home at the time, the fire chief said, and reported the fire. There were no injuries in the blaze, the cause of which remains undetermined.

Medical Costs Are Just Not the Same

By MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

If nobody in the family has been seriously ill or hospitalized for years, better whiff the dust off your health insurance policies and read them again — in a strong light.

You know theoretically, of course, that medical costs aren't what they used to be by a long shot. But you need to move in close and look at the coverage you can count on from your insurance in relation to what a medical emergency could total today. You don't expect one to happen, of course.

But neither did my healthy friend who fell and fractured her knee recently, and spent 19 days in the hospital; nor an acquaintance whose surprise was staggering when a "cough" necessitated a prompt lung hospitalization and convalescence.

So don't just assume that 1968 is going to be as carefree as past years have been. A little financial caution isn't going to jinx your luck.

You may find these Qs and As worth a going-over, as you reread your health insurance policies, or consider shopping for such protection, or broaden your protection, or figure out how you could pay the bills all on your own:

Q. Can you assume that because you have a group policy, you and your family will be "covered" for all medical costs in an emergency?

A. No. Even a modest percentage over and above the maximum the insurance company agrees to pay can amount to a sizable sum of money.

Q. What if you have both group insurance and a major medical?

A. Still be prepared to put out of your pocket. Miscellaneous expenses along, not covered by insurance, can run up when they include private duty nursing, use of phone, rented of TV, etc.

Q. What are the forms of insurance protection the family would benefit from, in reducing the high cost of illness to the very minimum?

A. There are five types: Hospital expense insurance (benefits ranging from 70 to 365 days); physician's expense insurance; surgical expense insurance; major medicals (benefits from $5,000 to $20,000); disability income insurance (loss of income insurance—usually about 60 per cent of individual's gross earning.)

Q. Are there any statistics to guide you in "guesstimating" what costs you'll run into in case of illness?

A. Latest available are from way back there in 1965: Average length of patient's stay in hospital was 9.9 days, for average cost of $502.33. In one specific, more recent case, a patient who ran up a $6,000 medical bill ended up paying $1,200 for miscellaneous expenses not covered even by group insurance for basics, plus a major medical.

Q. Could you raise the necessary medical funds if you're not insured at all?

A. The answer involves some other answers: How long would your company pay your salary if you were off the job? How's your credit at the bank? Do you have any ready "negotiables"—bonds, stocks, certificates of deposit, regular savings? How long could you stay in a hospital at today's high rates without going for broke?

Q. Are there any "gray areas" in your present policies which you aren't sure you can enterpret — such as exclusions or limitations involved in the insurance company's responsibility?

A. Could be. Have your agent spell them out to you—now, while you're healthy.

Girl Scouts Tell Bird Fanciers to Build Early

NEW YORK (UPI) — Build birdhouses in winter and have them ready for the arrival of nesting birds in spring, say Girl Scouts of U. S. A.

Too often birdhouses are erected in summer after most birds have nested and when natural foliage already provides suitable nesting sites.

★ ★ ★

Good birdhouses can be made from simple materials such as large tin cans, tar paper and scraps of wood. To learn which kind of house is best suited to local species, consult bird books in the library.

Take Precaution in Disposing Cans

All aerosol containers should be disposed of with nonburnable trash. If you live in an apartment with an incinerator, inquire from the management whether the janitor picks up aerosols. Most city systems provide for adequate enclosure of trash and if your own community does not ask you to separate paper from other materials, you may safely put aerosols in the general trash.

War Jitters Keep Mart in Skid

NEW YORK (AP) — A war-jittery stock market continued to skid early today in heavy trading. The ticker tape was late.

Losses outnumbered gains by 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average lost 6.12 to 844.20.

Nothing had come up to soften the impact of news that the North Korean premier said a war could break out in Korea "at any moment" nor of the continued suspenseful military situation in Vietnam.

In the first half hour Dow Jones Industrials broke through the support level of 849.57 which proved the bottom of a long decline last Nov. 8.

Whether this breakthrough would prevail to the close was an important question to market technicians, as it would foreshadow a further steep decline.

Among active losers, Occidental Petroleum and Harvey Aluminum dropped about 2 points each, McDonnell Douglas well over a point and Avco about a point.

Losses of around a point or more were also shown by Caterpillar, International Nickel, U.S. Smelting and Johns-Manville.

Benguet was the early pacemaker on volume. It was off ⅜ at 10⅛ on a block of 30,000 shares.

American Telephone traded on 27,000 shares, off ⅛ at 51.

Opening blocks also included 11,700 shares of General Public Service, off ⅛ at 6⅜, and 8,000 shares of Pan American World Airways, unchanged at 20⅛.

On Thursday, the Associated Press Average of 60 Stocks fell 2.8 to 311.4.

Prices retreated on the American Stock Exchange.

Pair Accepts Lesser Charge

Among 20 Arrested in Raid at Legion Post

Two men, who were among 20 persons arrested Sunday night in a raid on an alleged illegal gambling and drinking establishment at an American Legion post, pleaded guilty to lesser charges yesterday.

Post commander Garland L. Baldwin of 3778 Gainesborough, Orion Township, and James R. Pillow of 2205 Sashabaw, Waterford Township, were fined $20 each and ordered to pay $10 court costs at their hearings before Independence Township Justice William. H. Stamp.

The charge against the pair was reduced from running card gambling and selling liquor without a license to loitering where liquor is served, a misdemeanor.

The 18 others involved in the activity previously pleaded guilty to the loitering charge and were each fined $10 and ordered to pay $10 court costs.
