Hope for Income Tax Cuts Dead for This Session

House Nears Showdown Vote on Farm Support Program Today

(From AP & UP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON — Any chance for a general income tax cut in the big tax revision bill appeared dead today after rival Democratic and Republican proposals were beaten in a crossfire of political maneuvering in the Senate.

And in the House, the politically potent farm price support issue headed for a payoff vote as farm bloc leaders predicted defeat for President Eisenhower's flexible program.

Senate passage of the tax bill may come late today after numerous minor amendments have been considered. The measure then will go to conference with the House which has already approved the bill in somewhat different form.

The principal fight yesterday centered on a porposal of Sen. George (D-Ga) to write a $2,400,000,000 annual income tax cut into the bill by raising personal exemptions $100.

Several Republican senators had indicated they might go along on this. So Sen. Millikin (R-Colo), floor manager for the measure, called a secret caucus of all GOP senators and came up with a substitute tax plan for a 960-million-dollar annual reduction.

This would have given each taxpayer a $20 annual cut—$40 for a man and wife—provided they did not use certain benefits included in the revision bill.

The Republican proposal came up first as a substitute for the George plan and went down on a 49-46 vote, with all 47 Democrats opposed along with Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) and Sen. Langer (R-ND). The 46 "ayes" were all from Republicans. The Democrats had to defeat the substitute in order to get a chance to vote on their own amendment.

But then the George amendment itself was beaten on an identical tally, 49-46. This time four Democrats, Byrd, (Va.), Holland, (Fla.), Edwin C. Johnson, (Colo.) and Robertson, Va.) voted "no" be-

U.S. Team Wins in Doubles Match

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (INS) — America's Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, shut out of the Wimbledon Tennis Singles championship, gained a measure of revenge today by blasting Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall of Australia in the doubles semi-final, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6, 4-6, 8-6.

Meanwhile, defending champion Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly of San Diego, Cal., unchallenged queen of world tennis, waltzed into her third straight women's final with a 6-1, 6-1 massacre of Betty Rosenquist Pratt, former South Orange, N. J., resident now living in Jamaica.

Pontiac Police Chief Lists Department Promotions

Pontiac Police Chief Herbert W. Straley announced today the largest number of promotions made at one time in the history of the police department.

The promotions, the first under the department's competitive system, include 2 lieutenants, 11 sergeants and 5 detectives. Promotions and re-assignments of two lieutenants and a patrolman became effective today.

Straley said during a meeting with his top officials that the re-assignments resulted from a study of the department's system and man-placement since he took over as chief in 1951.

"We are not functioning at greatest efficiency yet," said Straley, "because of the haphazard systems of the past. I expect the department to swing on a stable system in the near future after I complete my study and correct many of the shortcomings."

KOREN

Straley indicated more re-assignments will be made when his study is complete, but present re-assignments are to make room for new promotions, he added.

Elevated to lieutenants are Joseph Koren, 39, and George T. Scott, 49, both named sergeants in the Traffic and Accident Bureau by former Police Chief Milton Cooney in 1951.

Previously in charge of safety campaigns, Koren now replaces Lt. Davy Gilpin, 54, as head of the bureau. Lt. Gilpin, who once

Higgins Cracks Par in Motor City Open

DETROIT (AP) — Doug Higgins of Midland, Tex., was the first player to crack par and his one-under 70 gave him the early lead in the first round of the Motor City Open Golf Tournament today.

Starting with two birdies, Higgins shot 33-37—70 over the rolling Meadowbrook Country Club course which stretches 6,701 yards and plays to a par 35-36—71.

Cary Middlecoff, a pre-tournament favorite, busted his putter on the fifth green but made the turn with a one-under-par 34. The Memphis, Tenn., dentist three-putted the sixth, using, in turn, a driver, a one iron, and a sand wedge.

Rules prohibited Middlecoff from using another putter. He stuck with his sand wedge through the seventh, eighth and ninth holes, then went into the repair shop and ground it down to the size of a putter.

Halt Peace Talks in Guatemala

Cease Fire Extended One Day; Rebel Leaders Fail to Agree

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—Guatemala's rival anti-Communist chieftains haggled until nearly dawn today in a vain effort to agree on a peace settlement which would give their war-split land its fourth government in a week.

The peace talks between rebel Col. Carlos Castillo Armas and Col. Elfego Monzon, head of Guatemala's new governing junta, broke up at 3:35 a.m. Castillo Armas announced he was returning to his rebel headquarters at Chiquimula.

In a statement issued to newsmen, both leaders said they were extending until 9 a.m. tomorrow the cease-fire in effect between the rebels and the Guatemalan army.

El Salvador's President Oscar Osorio, acting as mediator, voiced optimism that a settlement could be reached.

But real peace seemed remote as Monzon's junta rushed troops to Communist strong points in Guatemala where vengeful Red leaders were reported trying to foment peasant uprisings. Red-indoctrinated farm workers were said to be inciting revolt in Escuintla, Pinula and Concepcion, hotbeds of communism about 30 miles from Guatemala City.

Monzon declined to say whether he was returning to the Guatemalan capital, but it was believed generally he would.

The joint statement said the cease-fire had been extended in order to give both parties time to consider and study various proposals to reach an accord.

Death Toll on Rio Grande May Reach Disaster Level

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (AP) — At least 55 persons are dead in the Rio Grande's most devastating flood in history, but the death toll might rise to disaster proportions today.

Across the river from here, at miserable Piedras Negras, Mexico, it was feared hundreds may have died in the collapsed adobe huts of the poor.

Of the counted dead, 38 were at Piedras Negras. Nearly 100 miles north of the river, at Ozona, Tex., one of the flash floods which fed Rio Grande's swollen stream Monday killed at least 16 others. Another died in a Pecos River flood.

Upstream at Del Rio, Tex., and Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, and downstream at Laredo, Tex., and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, there were few casualties and no deaths from the unprecedented flood. Adequate warnings and other safeguards plus organization paid off, officials said.

At least 15,000 were homeless and some 7,000 refugees huddled in the hills of Coahuila with no shelter, no food and no water. About 80 per cent of the homes in the city of 35,000 were flooded. Half of those were destroyed as the adobe brick crumbled in the flood.

"From what I hear, there may be anywhere from 200 to 500 dead," said H. G. Walker, U. S. Public Health Service official here to help in rescue and rehabilitation.

Although no dead were reported at Laredo, Associated Press reporter Dave Cheavens said there was

4 Million People Are Abandoned to Communism

End of 8-Year Struggle in Indochina Seems Not Too Far Off

SINGAPORE (AP) — Much of the Red River Delta, key prize in the bitter Indochina war, was falling into the hands of the Communist-led Vietminh tonight without a fight.

French Union forces were evacuating swiftly from their hard-to-hold centers in the Delta area. The end to the savage 8-year-old struggle appeared to be not far off.

The French Union forces were generally withdrawing to their last lifeline—the railway and highway linking the war capital of Hanoi with the seaport of Haiphong, 64 miles to the east.

An Indochina Dunkerque may come soon at the end of this road —"The most dangerous road in the world." Haiphong is France's last beachhead in northern Viet Nam. It is from there that they will have to make the attempt to evacuate tens of thousands of troops, whether as a result of a cease fire or after fighting their way through from Hanoi.

The French today announced they were pulling out of such important and heavily populated centers as Phat Diem, Thai Binn, Nam Dinh, and Ninh Binh, all within 55 to 75 miles south and southeast of Hanoi.

That automatically meant an area embracing thousands of villages peopled by round four million Vietnamese was dropping into the hands of the troops of Vietminh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap.

It also meant that while these millions were being abandoned to communism, the French soon would be shakily controlling only the lifeline between Hanoi and Haiphong and a strip of territory in the northeastern Indochina including the town of Moncay on the Chinese border.

That too, however, may soon be given up as the French concentrate all their defensive power in the do-or-die sector between Hanoi and Haiphong.

Close Some Options on Big Land Deal

Options on approximately 4,700 acres of some 6,000 acres of land under option in Macomb County for an undisclosed purchaser are being closed by Roy Annett, Inc., realtor. Options on the remainder of the land extend to later dates this month.

Closing of the options, verified today by Bruce Annett, treasurer, is indication that the big land deal will be consummated. No announcement of the purchaser or use to which the approximately six square miles of land will be put has been made. The property is bounded on the south by Mack Road in Macomb County and on the west by Dequindre, the Oakland-Macomb line.

Willie Keith Falls in Love, Finds Himself in the Navy

'The Caine Mutiny'... Herman Wouk's Prize Novel

CHAPTER 1

He was of medium height, somewhat chubby, and good looking, with curly red hair and an innocent, gay face, more remarkable for a humorous air about the eyes and large mouth than for any strength of chin or nobility of poise.

He had graduated from Princeton in 1941 with high marks in all subjects except mathematics and sciences. His academic specialty had been comparative literature.

But his real career at Princeton had consisted of playing the piano and inventing bright little songs for parties and shows.

He kissed his mother good-bye on the sidewalk near the corner of Broadway and 116th Street in New York City, on a cold sunny morning in December, 1942. The family Cadillac was parked beside them, its motor running, but maintaining a well-bred silence. Around them stood the dingy grey-and-red buildings of Columbia University.

"Don't you think," said Mrs. Keith, smiling bravely, "that we might stop in that drug store first and have a sandwich?"

She had driven her son to the midshipman school from their home in Manhasset, despite Willie's protests.

Willie had wanted to take the train. It would have seemed more like departing for the wars; he did not like being escorted to the gates of the Navy by his mother. But Mrs. Keith had prevailed as usual.

"The Navy'll feed me, Mom. Don't worry."

He kissed her for the second time and glanced nervously about, hoping no military men were observing the overtender scene. Mrs. Keith pressed his shoulder lovingly.

"I know you'll do wonderfully, Willie. Just as you always have."

"Aye, aye, Mother." Willie strode along the brick walk past the School of Journalism, and down a few steps to the entrance of Furnald Hall, formerly a dormitory for law students. A grizzled, pudgy Navy chief with four red service stripes on his blue coat stood in the doorway. Mimeographed papers in his hand flapped in the breeze. Willie wondered whether to salute, and swiftly decided that the gesture did not go well with a brown raglan coat and green pork-pie hat. He had completely forgotten his mother.

The chief opened the door invitingly. Willis Seward Keith stepped out of the sunshine across the threshold. It was done as easily and noiselessly as Alice's stepping through the looking glass; and like Alice, Willie Keith passed into a new and exceedingly strange world.

With 40 other upright pink animals he was herded into a large examination room. His lungs, liver, heart, eyes, ears, all the apparatus he had been using since birth, were investigated by hard-eyed pharmacists' mates, who prodded and poked him like suspicious women about to buy a turkey in the market.

Next the Navy now dressed him in blue jumper and trousers, black shoes, black socks, and a perky sailor hat, marked with the special blue stripe of a midshipman. Then it filled his arms with books, of all shapes, colors, sizes, and degrees of wear, and told him his room was on the top floor of the dormitory.

Room 1013, Keefer, Keith, Keggs

He went in, and dropped the books on the bare springs of a cot. He heard the twang of springs again directly behind him.

"My name's Keggs," said the horse face, poking an arm toward him. Willie shook the hand, which enveloped his in a big moist grip.

"I'm Keith."

"Well," said Keggs mournfully, "looks like we're roommates."

"This is it," said Willie.

A heap of books entered the door, walking on stout legs. "Make way, gentlemen, heah Ah come," spoke a muffled voice. The books fell and bounced all over the remaining cot, unveiling a tall, fat sailor with a cheery flushed face, small crinkling eyes and a very large loose mouth. "Well, fellas, looks like we're in for a lot of Shinola, don't it?" he said, in a high, musical Southern cadence. "Ah'm Keefer."

"I'm Keith."

"Keggs."

The fat Southerner shoved a number of his books off the cot to the floor, and stretched himself out on the springs. "Ah had me a farewell party last night," he groaned, inserting a happy giggle into the groan, "to end all farewell parties. Why do we do it to ourselves, fellas? 'Scuse me." He rolled his face to the wall.

"You're not going to sleep!" Keggs said. "Suppose they catch you?"

"My boy," said Keefer drowsily, "Ah am an old military man. Four years at Gaylord Academy. Don' worry about ol' Keefer. Punch me if Ah snore." Within a minute he was sleeping like a hog in the sun.

"He'll get bilged, sure," mourned Keggs, turning the pages of Naval Ordnance. "So will I. This book is absolute gibberish to me. What on earth is a cam? What do they mean by an interrupted screw?"

"Search me. What do you mean, 'bilged'?"

"Don't you know how they work it? We get three weeks as apprentice seamen. Then the top two thirds of the class become midshipmen. The rest get bilged. Straight to the Army."

The fugitives exchanged an understanding look. Willie's hand crept around to his back, to ascertain how hollow his hollow back really was. He began a series of frenzied efforts to touch his toes. At every bend he came nearer. He broke out in a sweat. Once he thought the tips of his fingers brushed his shoelaces, and he gurgled in triumph. With a swoop and a groan he brought his fingers squarely on his toes.

Coming erect again, his spine vibrating, the room spinning, he found that Keefer, rolled over and awake, was staring at him with frightened little eyes. Keggs had backed into a corner. Willie attempted a light-hearted laugh, but he staggered at the same moment and had to clutch the desk to keep from

Birmingham Forester Says Dutch Elm Disease Cases Total 25 for This Summer

BIRMINGHAM — One case of Dutch Elm disease, the incurable tree-killer, had been reported here last week, the first case of the summer.

Today the city can count 25 cases—only one less than the total number found all last summer.

City Forester William Lebold said the new cases were found after samples of under 30 trees were tested at laboratories at Michigan State College. About 25 samples are yet to be heard from, and he said the majority of these are strong suspects.

Main trouble spot in Birmingham is the area east of Woodward, but Lebold reported two new areas where the disease has taken hold. One case was discovered on Fairfax near Raynale, another on Lake Park near Redding.

Lebold urged residents living within a quarter mile radius of these trees to have their own trees sprayed during July. All elms east of Woodward should be sprayed this month, he said, particularly if they weren't in April.

Since rates are necessarily higher if only one or two trees are sprayed, Lebold suggested that neighbors band together in hiring a firm to do the job.

Another precaution is keeping all cut or dead elm wood picked up and burned, since that is where the disease-carrying bark beetles breed and feed. Beetles bore through the tree bark, spreading the disease through the sap stream.

Selection of the promotions, according to Capt. Edward H. Shigley, head of administration, was based on a new competitive examination policy recently adopted here.

Shigley said the men were graded 50 per cent on a written examination, 25 per cent for service records, 15 per cent on interviews by outside police officials, and 10 per cent for seniority. The promotions had been pending since last February when the examinations were given by the personnel division.

Straley, who told his officers during the meeting that he "intends to make this department the best in the nation as a result of his study," said the police force here is still under strength, lacking at least 20 to 30 men.

He voiced hope that the department's personnel will reach 140 by Jan. 1, 1955. The present number of policemen is 108 with 12 civilians employed in various bureaus.

The police department hired 12 new men last April, boosting the department to its present strength. Straley said the new recruits enable the department to make the present promotions.

Whether the Delta then is swept by monsoon rains will make little difference.

The Vietminh usually have staged their heaviest attacks during rainstorms because they immobilize French armor and warplanes.

There is also danger of a possible civil uprising as the Vietminh sweep into thousands of the approximately 5,500 villages where seven million Vietnamese live.

Throughout the war the sympathies of these Vietnamese rice-growers have been with the troops of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh and not with the French or the budding Vietnamese national army.

* * *

For weeks since the Vietminh smashed the French fortress of Dien Bien Phu on May 6 thousands of Vietnamese in Hanoi and elsewhere in northern Indochina have been almost chanting "Long live Ho Chi Minh." To these people the fall of Dien Bien Phu meant the French could not last much longer.

Vietnamese in the Delta rarely have demonstrated any patriotic streak. They have been interested only in having enough rice to eat.

They have never liked the French, who have fought to protect the fledgling nation of Viet Nam from the sweep of communism. They have not feared Ho and communism because they have never experienced it.

BIRMINGHAM — Found guilty when he appeared before Justice John J. Gafill yesterday on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor, William J. Evans, 41, of Royal Oak decided to appeal his case to Oakland County Circuit Court.

Mars Will Pass Only 40,000,000 Miles From Earth

Look for the brightest red object in the southeast sky Friday night and barring interfering clouds you'll see the planet Mars at its closest point to the earth since 1941.

The red planet will be at the best position for viewing from the Pontiac area at about midnight fairly close to the horizon, said Dr. Orren C. Mohler, assistant director of the McMath - Hulbert Observatory at Lake Angelus.

Man Drowns in White Lake

Skin Diver Loses Life When Mask Dislodges in 8 Feet of Water

A Detroit skin diver drowned in White Lake yesterday afternoon when his face mask apparently became dislodged while he was swimming in about eight feet of water.

Other bathers pulled LeRoy Behring, 33, to the beach and White Lake Township Fire Department driver LeRoy Schwinck applied a resuscitator unsuccessfully for more than an hour.

About 30 persons on the beach saw Behring enter the water and John Daniels, a visitor from Johnson City, Tenn., said he went looking for him when bubbles from his aqua-lung stopped coming to the surface.

Other witnesses said Behring's wife, Jane, of 10003 Arnold St., asked her husband not to enter the water shortly before the mishap.

Daniels and another swimmer recovered Behring's body and told Oakland County Deputy Sheriff Thomas Brimhall that the dead man was in a sitting position.

Brimhall said Behring might possibly have saved himself by unfastening a lead belt strapped to his waist. Deputy coroner Dr. Isaac C. Prevette pronounced Behring dead by drowning 30 minutes after he was pulled from the lake.

His body was taken to Richardson-Bird Funeral Home in Milford years, was recently demolished to make way for the expanding civic center. He lived to see a new plant rise at 4501 Woodward, one of the most modern and complete in the country.

Mr. Vernor served as president of the Automobile Club of Michigan in 1941 and 1942. In 1919 he helped organize and became president of the American Bottlers and Carbonated Beverages Assn.

He maintained a 178-acre farm at 4805 N. Harsdale, Bloomfield Hills, and a large estate near Lapeer called Arcadia Farms.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Emma F. Vernor; his son, James Vernor III; a sister, Mrs. T. Y. Leonard, of Grosse Ile, and two grandchildren, James IV and Grayce Shannon Vernor.

Mr. Vernor will lie in state at the Bell Chapel of the William R. Hamilton Co., Birmingham until noon tomorrow. Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p.m. at Christ Church Cranbrook with burial in Woodlawn Cemetery, Detroit.

The family has requested that memorial tributes be made to the cancer fund.

Girl Tells of Fire in Birmingham Home

BIRMINGHAM — A 17-year-old girl has revealed she helped put out a fire in a chair in the home of Thomas Couper hours before the home blazed up, killing Mrs. Couper and her two sons, Lawrence, 14, and Daniel, 12, June 12.

The unnamed girl, in a statement to Pontiac attorney Arthur Bogue, said she saw a cigarette smoking in a chair. She added that she helped pour water on it, and assumed it was out.

The fire swept the colonial style home at 1189 Brookwood, suffocating Mrs. Couper, 40, and the youths. Mrs. Couper's father, Lawrence Cross, 62, of Phoenix, Ariz., was rescued by firemen.

Mr. Couper, a vice president of the L. A. Young Spring and Wire Co. of Detroit, was on a boat cruise at the time and was notified of the disaster when his ship reached Montreal.

The girl's statement was turned over to the Birmingham Police department today.

Close State Convention of Typographical Unions

Other officers elected were Leonard Bennett, Ann Arbor, and Herbert Pietsch, Muskegon, vice presidents, and Edgar Crum, Lansing, secretary-treasurer.

Bingo Backers Meet Deadline

Total 300,000 Names on Petition for Election, Due Friday

LANSING (UP)—Sponsors of a movement to legalize "charity" bingo reported today they expected to have sufficient signatures by Friday to place the issue on the November election ballot.

Charles R. McLean, attorney for the Michigan Association of Charitable Organizations, said a preliminary count showed 300,000 signatures on hand and that he expected 305,000 to 325,000 to be ready for filing at the deadline Friday.

The organization needs 287,000 signatures to qualify its proposal for a place on the ballot. MacLean said present plans call for the petitions to be filed before noon Friday.

He said the majority of the signatures came from Wayne County, but that 60 of the state's 83 counties contributed signers.

MacLean said he anticipated no difficulty in obtaining the secretary of state's approval for the petitions since he had employed a former official of the state elections division to check the petitions before they were filed.

The campaign seeks to have the voters amend the constitution to legalize lotteries operated by fraternal, charitable, benovelent and similar groups for charitable purposes under laws laid down by the Legislature. The State Supreme Court has held that bingo and similar games are lotteries, now forbidden by the state constitution.

$15,000 Job in Paraguay Goes Begging

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UP) — A U. S. government job worth $15,000 a year and allowances is going begging.

It is the post of ambassador to this smallest South American nation. The job has been vacant since last October.

In recent years most of the work has fallen on a series of counselors of embassy—Archbald Randolph, John Shillock and now David H. Maynard. But they have lacked the rank to deal most effectively with tough problems.

* * *

Wealthy U. S. campaign contributors looking for a likely embassy quickly pass over Asuncion after one hurried look at the State Department's report on the post. The capital has a bare 300,000 population and the nation only 1,200,000. There is almost no public entertainment, no good hotel, no good restaurant. Water comes from private wells, and there is no public sewage disposal system. Electricity and automatic telephones function irregularly. Mail, radiotelegraphic and telephone communications to other countries are slow.

* * *

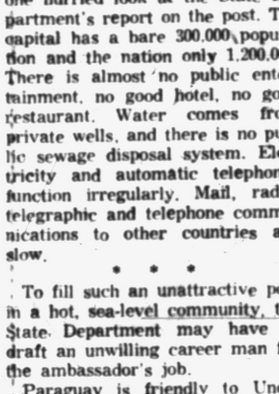

To fill such an unattractive post in a hot, sea-level community, the State Department may have to draft an unwilling career man for the ambassador's job.

Paraguay is friendly to Uncle Sam, who has poured funds into the country for a tuberculosis hospital and for valuable farm projects to help raise the nation's low standard of living. This friendship has stood the strain of a violent April revolution, the subsequent selection of a provisional president and the nomination of a new strong-man general, Alfredo Stroessner, for the remainder of the presidential term.

Long Life—Short Trip

DAHLGREN, Ill. (UP) — When Mrs. M. L. Hunter celebrated her 92nd birthday recently the occasion was marked by a reunion with Mrs. Edith Elliott, also 92, whom she had not seen since they were schoolmates more than 80 years ago although they live less than 50 miles apart.

A Damper on Fireworks

Recent legislation by the neighboring State of Ohio has put something of a crimp on the sale of fireworks south of the border. Roadside stands outside Toledo have long been the main source of firecrackers purchased by July Fourth visitors to Oakland County lakes and recreation areas.

This year Ohio is really clamping down. Under the law fireworks can only be sold to persons having a written permit from the sheriff or fire chief. Fines up to $500 can be levied on the seller if the purchaser has no permit.

Yet the "bootleggers" of fireworks still operate near the State line. One such stand observed Sunday had a "lookout" posted on the roof of the rickety structure, his eyes peeled for police cars.

Michigan State Police along the border have been alerted, as they have each year, for purchasers of the illicit fireworks. Under Michigan law both possession and transportation of fireworks are illegal.

★ ★ ★

Ohio's Department of Industrial Relations, charged with enforcing the anti-fireworks law, asks citizens to report to it the location of bootleg stands. Oakland County residents can cooperate with our neighbor by reporting any they spot while driving on Ohio highways.

The Atom for Peace

The atomic age in peacetime power is about to dawn much sooner than conservative scientists predicted. Last week nuclear engineers met in Ann Arbor and the American Management Association met in New York. Both groups learned startling new facts about the "atomic revolution" that is just over the horizon.

At New York John J. Hopkins, head of the company that built the atomic engine for the Navy's new submarine, Nautilus, noted a change in the attitude of scientists. "There are now but few who would argue that a nuclear power plant cannot be built to produce power at a cost somewhere in the upper one-third of present U. S. power costs," he said.

At Ann Arbor the scientists went even farther. A group of twenty-four from the Brookhaven Laboratory of the Atomic Energy Commission told of a pilot plant they set up which uses liquid metal to "breed" fissionable uranium.

In simple terms that means cheap fuel, thorium, can be fed to reactors that will produce high temperature steam that can run modern electric generators as efficiently as coal. And the investment cost in such a power plant need not be much higher than for a conventional coal-fueled plant.

Summing up, John Dowe, head of Dow Chemical's nuclear research, said these new developments mean that cheap electric power can be produced anywhere. That means the decentralization of industry from metropolitan congestion, he added. In other words, an atomic power plant can be built anywhere, regardless of the availability of coal, and in a few years will be able to compete with power plants that depend on coal.

★ ★ ★

Flag Day Is Every Day

Some people love a parade, while others are "sent" by martial band music. To all Americans, however, especially those who have been absent from the country for any time, the most moving sight is Old Glory whipping in a breeze.

★ ★ ★

The wonder is that so many Americans deprive themselves of this inspiring sight by thoughtlessness or inertia. Once we had a friend who bought a suburban home just outside of Pontiac that came already equipped with a 30-foot steel flagpole.

The first thing he did, after moving in and getting settled, was to buy a U. S. flag and make it a family custom to raise it with the help of his children every Sunday morning.

An Oakland County man who loves the sight of the flag is Henry F. Fett, Royal Oak builder. Before Flag Day, Mr. Fett presented American flags to every homeowner in his subdivision in Southfield Township.

"Years ago," Mr. Fett commented, "almost everyone displayed a flag of some sort from his house on Flag Day, the Fourth of July, Decoration Day, Armistice Day and other patriotic holidays. Now you can often drive for block after block without seeing a flag."

No finer family custom can be imagined than the proper care of and display of the household flag. It can become a symbol of family unity as well as a display of patriotism. Children are always impressed by ceremony, and a family flag ceremony is a simple yet impressive exercise.

Plans of California City to Bring Water Long Way

Daffynition

Representative William S. Broomfield

told Pontiac Kiwanians that Los Angeles is going to increase the amount of water it is taking from the Colorado River soon, so it can recharge the wells in the city's area for added protection in future years. This water is brought in an aqueduct 450 miles, whereas Oakland County is only 60 miles from Lake Huron.

After enjoying a picnic with his family at one of the numerous recreational spots in the Pontiac area, a man gives some good advice on the subject. He says to calculate in advance what everybody will eat, and then multiply it by three.

Today celebrating the twenty-fourth anniversary of the day he became a member of the Oakland County Board of Auditors is of 716 Fourth St., with $316. The other 75 received from $18.75 to $153 each.

Remember Dairy Employes' Faithfulness to Customers When Criticizing Strikers

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

Now that the milk strike is over for a short time and everybody is down on the dairy workers for striking, I would like to know how many men besides dairy employes are out everyday of the week, Sundays, holidays, rain or shine to serve customers with the most vital product known.

Think about this when you criticize the dairy workers for striking.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Well-Adjusted, Mentally Mature Women Have No Difficulty in Menopause Period

Clara is the type of patient the average physician would like to "tell off," but for diplomatic reasons doesn't dare to. So I am voicing the attitude of thousands of my colleagues who must keep "mum" to avoid alienating their home-town patients.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case L-346: Clara B., aged 42, thinks I am very partial to the male sex and devoid of proper feeling for suffering womankind.

"Dr. Crane, you seem to think a man is a king," she spoke sarcastically, "and that his wife should give in to his wishes at all times.

"Well, I'd have you know there are some husbands who have consideration for their wives.

"For example, the menopause took over my body when I was just 36. And for 5 years, I suffered every pain and ache described in the medical book, plus hundreds my doctor had not heard of before.

"Every nerve in my body was screaming and I felt as if my head would burst. I would have had to enter a rest home or commit suicid, if my husband had not been at my side constantly.

"He consoled me during my hellish nightmare and let his sex passion die entirely because of my constant pain and suffering."

A million menopausal wives are reading this Case Record today

throughout America, so I should let them answer Clara.

Do you have "hellish" suffering? Does every nerve in your body scream? Do you require medical attention twice a week for years and years?

Certainly not! You are well adjusted women who realize that the menopause should cause no more disturbance in your daily living than did puberty.

Clara is simply a spoiled brat. But I am citing her case today to show what used to be far more common in America.

For women used to believe they should go into a mental and physical collapse and cry and grieve and berate their husbands and exclaim that nobody loved them any more and that they were on the shelf, etc.

They made pests of themselves and alienated their children and other in-laws.

If their husbands were meek, long-suffering males, they became henpecked and browbeaten into waiting on those prima donna wives, hand and foot.

Clara is thus a throwback to millions of wives of a generation ago. But they are disappearing fast, thanks to modern psychology.

For the menopause is a sex bugaboo that is rapidly vanishing, thanks in part to the information broadcast the past 19 years in this medico-psychological column.

For as long as women thought they should be upset, then they actually became upset.

The female womb isn't primarily a sex organ, anyway, so whether it is surgically removed (hysterectomy) or stops its monthly function by the age of 45, it should make little difference to a woman . . . unless, she has been brought up with Clara's erroneous viewpoint.

Send for my bulletin "Menopausal Complexes of Men & Women," enclosing a stamped return envelope plus a dime.

It will give a more complete account of this condition and explode further myths about the menopause.

Aunt Het

Folks ain't apt to get divorced after the first few years. The things that seem unbearable don't matter after bearin' 'em gets to be a habit.

David Lawrence Says:

Full of Basic Principles Ike-Churchill Statement

WASHINGTON — Words, just words? Or basic principles of morality in the conduct of world affairs?

These are the two possible impressions which a cynic or an idealist, respectively, can derive from a reading of the joint statement by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill.

But there is every reason to accept the words as a new "Washington Charter" and as an inspiring step along the difficult road of present-day relations between allies.

For some significant things really have been proclaimed. They can be summarized thus:

1. America and Britain hold out the hand of friendship to all nations "which by solemn pledge and confirming deeds show themselves desirous of participating in a just and fair peace."

This reaffirms the American position and, by the emphasis on "deeds," shows Soviet Russia the way to peace.

2. The principal of self-government is upheld and "colonialism" in its worst sense is repudiated, because Britain and America will strive only "by every peaceful means to secure the independence of all countries whose peoples desire and are capable of sustaining an independent existence."

For what is the good of granting independence to nations not ready for it and which can become the prey of a Communist aggressor? That's a question America has asked before but it has never been so clearly answered as now.

3. America and Britain continue their support of the United Nations and of existing international organizations for common protection and security, and they "urge the establishment and maintenance of such associations of nations as will best, in their respective regions, preserve the peace and independence of the peoples living there."

This gives renewed endorsement to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Organization of American States. It also pronounces a blessing on associations like the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization that may be created in the future.

4. America and Britain will "with our friends" develop and maintain the spiritual, economic and military strength necessary to pursue the peaceful purposes and attain the objectives enumerated in the new charter.

Also every means will be sought to promote "the fuller and freer interchange among us (that is, among our allies) of goods and services which will benefit all participants."

These principles might perhaps be regrettably disregarded in the interest of national expediency some day but, having been written now explicitly and implicitly in the form of an American-British agreement at the highest level, they take on a solemnity which will not make easy in the future any violation of the pledges given.

The written communique tells of high purposes and reflects an atmosphere of cordiality and understanding. There remain differences of approach and emphasis.

Britain still feels inclined to deal with Red China. But the so-called Locarno idea of a non-aggression pact is gone.

American spokesmen made it clear that the United States couldn't agree to what is called the "status quo" in the world — the confirmation of existing seizures or controls by Communist imperialism or upholding the jurisdiction of colonial powers in every case.

The President and Secretary Dulles took the sound position that America isn't ready to sign any treaty obligating this country either to fight a war to alter the existing order in any country or to fight a war to preserve that status.

This made a "non-aggression" pact wholly illogical, and there is evidence the British visitors in the end saw the matter the same way as do the American government officials.

Time will tell whether the renewed efforts by Britain at conciliating the Soviets will bear fruit. Meantime, it is essential that both political parties within the United States be united on foreign policy.

It is unfortunate that the Democratic leaders, who themselves engaged in a merciless attack on Secretary Dulles when he first came back from Geneva, now should complain when Vice President Nixon answers them in kind.

A glance back at the newspaper clippings will reveal that Messrs. Truman, Acheson, Harriman, and certain senators and representatives let loose a partisan barrage at the very moment when the Indochina crisis was at its most delicate stage.

It is not surprising that Vice President Nixon last Saturday in a political address pointed out that the troubles accumulated under the Democratic administration, starting with its withdrawal of moral support from Nationalist China at a critical moment which led to the loss of China and the ultimate buildup of Red China as the aggressor in Indochina.

But, now that the partisans on each side have had their say, it is time to call quits and really make a sincere effort to carry on a bipartisan foreign policy.

Baering Down

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(International News Service)

When we offered Bob Young the Long Island, Tidewater and Sideswipe, he flew his bib upside down for a distress signal.

Bob just boa-constricted the New York Central and is digesting its back-log of liabilities.

But he will more than break even if half of his proxies buy season tickets.

When Bob took over the Central the stock pyramided one point. There's a wave you can ride without getting your feet wet.

If Bob wants the New York, New Haven and Hartford he can shave his proxies, dress 'em up in tattersall vests and let 'em follow a Radio City usher to victory. Every time the directors hold a meeting somebody upsets the Scrabble board.

In that case its rolling stock would consist entirely of wire baskets.

But it gives us an idea for financing the Long Island. Why doesn't it sell its grade crossings to lawyers?

The Long Island is a problem in frustrated transportation. It packs no freight and some of its passengers do not arrive. It's the step-child the Pennsy left on the steps of the competitive orphan asylum.

Albany stepped in and put the Long Island in insulated escrow. Now it goes back to the Pennsy hot or cold.

Albany will allow Bob a twenty per cent boost in fares. An oldtime westerner like Bob might demand more. He hasn't forgot that Jesse James used to do better than that. And detach the mail car too.

Just A Smile

The Magician

Aboard ship a magician was entertaining the guests—all except a parrot perched on its stand. Everything, including a pigeon that was made to disappear, was greeted with a shout of "Faker" from the bird.

All of a sudden an explosion destroyed the ship, and the parrot landed in a raft occupied by the magician. For two days it sat and stared at the man, then finally said: "All right, you win! What did you do with the ship?"

Bones in Old Age Turn Porous, Break Because They Lack Sufficient Calcium

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

When I was a boy people used lime to make mortar, as witewash and for sanitary purposes. Perhaps the farmers used it as fertilizer, too.

We didn't know—at any rate I didn't know what quicklime, live lime, unslacked lime, or caustic lime was, but from extensive research in Nick Carter literature I learned while still in short pants—that an unwanted body would vanish if you buried it in quicklime.

In high school chemistry, however, I learned that quicklime, otherwise called live lime, unslacked lime, burnt lime or caustic lime is calcium oxide.

Wet it or put it in water, to make calcium hydroxide, commonly called slaked lime or hydrated lime. Slake means to wet. Wet your whistle to slake your thirst.

The small amount of lime that dissolves in water is what you get when you drink lime water. Less lime (calcium) in a tablespoonful of lime water than there is in a tablespoonful of milk.

Remember this when some trick specialist or clinic racketeer gives you that line about "too much calcium" hardening your arteries or stiffening your joints.

Bone meal, the hard part of bone, from which fat and gelatin have been extracted, is ground to meal for fertilizer or feed. Like bone ash it consists chiefly of lime (calcium) phosphate.

Steele's textbook of physiology, used in public school when I was a boy (a kind reader sent me a copy, published 80 years ago) solemnly states that the proportion of animal and mineral matter in the bones is nearly half and half in youth, while in old age the mineral is greatly in excess. Horsefeathers.

As we know now, the bones become brittle, light, porous and weak as age advances, because of the steady loss of mineral matter (calcium) through the years—especially when the old party has worried along with a minimum daily ration of 1½ pints (three glasses) of milk or the equivalent in milk products.

Whether you feel it in your bones or not, I keep telling you poor souls that nearly everybody in America suffers from calcium deficiency, due to our modern over-refined diet and our vain attempt to maintain vite and stamina on cheat-foods.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Harry Truman Getting Better

Doctor Says Former President Is on Road to Recovery

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (INS) — Former President Harry S. Truman apparently is well on the road to recovery today.

Consulting physicians said "his substantial progress toward recovering is continuing."

The statement was issued at Kansas City's Research Hospital following an hour-long conference last night.

Truman has been battling to regain his health since he underwent an emergency operation for the removal of his gall bladder and appendix June 20.

Complications developed because of intolerance for antibiotic and other drugs with which he was treated.

He was taken off the critical list yesterday and his physician, Dr. Wallace Graham, now expects complete recovery.

The temperature of the 70-year-old former President was reported normal for the first time yesterday.

Mrs. Truman left the hospital early last night for the first time since the former President underwent surgery and commented:

"He seems very much better to me."

Pontiac School Board to Elect Officers Tuesday

Pontiac Board of Education will meet Tuesday to elect officers and organize for the 1954-55 school year which started July 1.

The meeting is the first for Dr. Walter L. Godsell, new board member elected June 14. Business session will follow a 7 p.m. dinner at Rotunda Inn.

Plan Celebration for 4th of July at Oakland Park

A Fourth of July celebration will be held July 3 through 5 at Oakland Park sponsored by the Northside Community Club and the Pontiac Parks and Recreation Department.

Saturday and Sunday will feature greased pole climbing contests and carnival activities, with a fireworks display scheduled for 11 p. m. on Monday.

Also on Monday, athletic and skill contests will be staged for all age groups from 4 years old on up. Games will include a penny scramble for tiny tots, boys and girls bubble gum contests, women's rolling pin and a husband calling contests.

Czech Spirit Resists Reds

Committee of Senators Says Anti-Reds Work With Unabated Vigor

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported today that the spirit of resistance to communism among the people of Czechoslovakia is unbroken despite six years of Red intimidation and terror.

It said that "almost hermetically sealed frontiers have proven no barrier to the resourcefulness of courageous individuals" who seek escape from the Communist-ruled country which was once the "most democratic nation in Eastern Europe."

Communists seized the government of Czechoslovakia by a coup in February, 1948.

The committee's study was prepared by the Library of Congress as one of a series on tensions behind the Iron Curtain.

The report said that the resistance movement "continues with unabated vigor inside the heavily guarded borders in spite of draconic countermeasures taken by the regime."

Dissatisfaction with the present oppressive rule expresses itself in a variety of forms ranging from passive resistance to outbursts of open revolt, the study declared.

It said there is defection and a reckless struggle for power even in the ranks of top Communist leaders.

The report declared that the Red rule has drastically cut leisure time of the workers, and not only failed to carry out promises to shorten the 48-hour work week but has increased work hours and has reduced holidays.

Police Kill Man in Death Duel

Patient Was on Leave From Mental Hospital When Shooting Started

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A 54-year-old man on convalescent leave from a mental hospital fought a death duel with 200 policemen in his West Side home yesterday and wounded eight officers before he was killed.

When the gunfire finally was stilled the body of Howard Ellis lay behind a bookcase barricade, riddled by 26 bullets. His dirty white frame house was splintered by thousands of rounds of ammunition.

One patrolman, Paul White, 39, was in critical condition with wounds in the chest, neck and arm.

• • •

Two others were listed in serious condition. They were Dora Ward, 27, shot in the head, and Marlin Lyon, 39, shot in the right side. Lt. Paul Pearcey, 60, was in fair condition. Four others were released after treatment for less serious wounds.

Five foster children who had been placed in the Ellis home by the Welfare Department slipped out of the house before the shooting started and were not harmed.

Central state hospital said Ellis had been on leave for a year and a half and had been checked by monthly reports. The hospital said his June report was the most favorable since his release.

• • •

Mrs. Ellis said the trouble started when Ellis beat one of the foster children wards. She threatened to call the hospital and have him recommitted, and he chased her from the house. She called the hospital and police from a neighbor's home, then started to return home.

• • •

That was when Ellis started shooting, wounding her. She fled again, and the first police to arrive found Ellis crouching behind a utility pole outside the house. He wounded Pearcey. The officers held their fire because there were children in the yard.

Ellis retreated to the house and the siege began. His wife said she had no idea where he got his shotgun, rifle and huge supply of ammunition.

Wagon Wheels May Turn Tide of Poverty in Iraq

KIRKUK, Iraq (AP)—Horse collars and wagon wheels could revolutionize the farming industry of northern Iraq.

That is the belief of a Montana county agent acting as a kind of agricultural ambassador for the United States among primitive farmers in the remote Kurdish country of northern Iraq.

Henry Botch came here from Missoula, Mont., nearly two years ago as a Point Four farm demonstration specialist. When he returns to America, he intends to leave here 13 well-trained young Iraqis to act as American-style county agents in this area.

* * *

"Before we teach them to use tractors, we first have to teach them to use wheels—ordinary wagon wheels," Botch says.

The Iraqi farmers usual procedure is to cut wheat with hand scythes and pile it on a wooden rack. When the rack is filled, a donkey walks beneath and it is tied to his back. The overloaded little animal then goes to the village a few miles away, where the wheat is unloaded. The donkey returns to the field for another load.

A donkey pulling a four-wheeled wagon could carry five or six times as much wheat per trip as he hauls on his back. But farmers here always have moved their wheat by donkeyback, and they won't change until they have seen better methods with their own eyes.

* * *

That is why Botch is bringing into this area a few simple farm wagons of a type the farmers can build themselves. Once they see these wagons used, the American is sure they will begin building their own.

The same thing is true of good animal harness. The primitive type harness used by farmers here slows down their animals by choking them when they pull a plow or water pump.

If such simple devices are introduced, Botch believes the Iraqi farmer can break out of a cycle of poverty in which he has been caught since civilized man first began farming the Tigris and Euphrates valley.

3 Howling Dogs Enough; Propose Limit in Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—A proposed ordinance to limit the number of dogs in any household to three — and thereby cut down on howling and barking — will be considered by the City Commission Tuesday.

Commissioner Joseph N. Langan said yesterday that he knew of one property owner who keeps 27 dogs on his place.

Incumbents Win in GOP Primary

FARGO, N.D. (AP)—North Dakota's two incumbent congressmen-at-large were virtually assured of re-election this fall after winning nomination Tuesday in the state's Republican primary.

Representatives Usher Burdick and Otto Krueger ran one-two in that order in the four-man contest, trailed by State Sen. Orris Nordhougen and Charles O. Herman, their challengers.

Also renominated was Gov. Norman Brunsdale, who defeated Wallace Warner, an avowed Democrat backed by the Nonpartisan League faction of the Republican party. Brunsdale is nominal head of the second group, the Republican Organizing Committee.

There was no Democratic primary as Con Brymers and other candidates on the slate were unopposed. Republican nomination virtually assures election in this normally heavily GOP state.

Fails to Win Campaign but Only Spent 25 Cents

BALTIMORE (AP)— Baltimore grocer Harry Kemper, who lost the Democratic nomination for state comptroller Monday by almost 150,000 votes, acknowledges he ran a two-bit campaign.

He said his total campaign expense was 25 cents — for stamps.

Kemper polled about 33,000 votes, to about 180,000 for Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

Second Sister Killed in Suicide Slaying

RADFORD, Va. (AP) — A Radford woman was shot and killed by her husband here late last night, police said — the second of two sisters to be slain by her husband in six weeks.

The husbands then committed suicide in each instance.

Officers said Guy Mills, 28, shot himself with a .22-caliber pistol after first killing Mrs. Loma Faye Wurzburger Mills. The couple's small daughter was found unhurt in the Mills home here.

On May 19, Mrs. Joe D. Howell — Mrs. Mills' sister—and her two young daughters were shot by Howell, who then killed himself, also with a .22-caliber pistol.

From 1920 to 1953, per capita production of steel in the United States rose from 886 pounds to 1,398 pounds.

Judge Orders Two Women to Write Essays

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP)—The literary ability of two Suffolk women may determine whether either faces an additional penalty on reckless driving charges as a result of an automobile accident.

Cars driven by Phillis Jean Culpepper, 21, and Mrs. Thelma Lee Baggett, 43, collided last week with only minor damages, but both women were charged with reckless driving.

After hearing the case yesterday, Police Court Justice E. Roland Custis reset the case for July 19 to pass judgment — after he reads two-page essays on "Who's Got the Right of Way" he sentenced the two women to write.

New Pump Creates Extreme Vacuum

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—An experimental air pump with no moving parts, known as the ionic pump, can produce a vacuum as high as one billionth of normal atmospheric pressure. The pump works like this:

Rough exhaustion of air to about one one-hundred-thousandth of an atmosphere is easy to attain. It is accomplished by an ordinary mechanical pump. When that stage is reached, a valve is opened to connect the ionic pump with the vessel and electric current is turned on.

The electrical forces break up the gas atoms and hurl them into carbon plates at the sides of the pump where they stick, so the gas is gradually removed and the desired vacuum reached.

Drs. A. M. Gurewitsch and W. F. Westendorp developed the pump for General Electric.

Students Have More Right to Complain

CHICAGO (UP) — Students have more right than professors to complain about the lack of academic freedom, according to a survey of 50 Illinois colleges by the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Dr. William A. Kerr, professor of psychology, and member of the survey group, said some students are suffering serious freedom deficiencies. He said the freedoms most often endangered were: "to hear outside speakers, to criticize the faculty and administration, to organize associations and affiliate nationally, of press, petition, and of reasonable off-campus activity."

He said the survey showed students' "most entrenched freedom" was choice of faculty advisers.

He said the faculty's least secure freedoms concerned self-government, tenure, curriculum and administration criticism.

MINNEAPOLIS (UP) — The University of Minnesota plans to use some 10,000 ninth grade students for personality tests looking toward prevention of juvenile delinquency, mental illness an dother maladjustments.

The studies will be under direction of Dr. Starke R. Hathaway, director of clinical psychology; and Dr. Elio D. Monachesi, sociology chairman, with a grant of more than $80,000 in U. S. Public Health Service funds.

Discriminating Music Lovers Catch On Quick

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—A Union College professor decided that local talent doesn't always draw big crowds.

A concert was sponsored featuring Ludwig Wechsler, Austrian pianist on tour in this country.

When the concert was over, the students found out that "Dr. Wechsler" was Dr. Elmer A. Tidmarsh, Union director of music, plus a beard and make-up.

Home Brewed

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. (UP)—Employes of several local firms think 10 cents is too much to pay for a cup of coffee. So they have put into effect a new system under which they buy their own coffee and brew it right where they work. The bosses are going along with the plan too, feeling it will cut down the time usually spent away from the job on the morning and afternoon "coffee breaks."

Habit of Lifetime

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UP)—Henry L. Jones, 19, after steadfastly denying he was an escaped convict, was tripped up by police on a slip of the tongue. He repeatedly gave a fictitious name to officers until one asked casually, "What's your name, Henry?" The spontaneous reply was "Jones."

Mentally defective children are destroyed by many primitive peoples and it was not until the 16th century that the civilized world sought methods to train and care for the feeble minded.

Busy Firemen

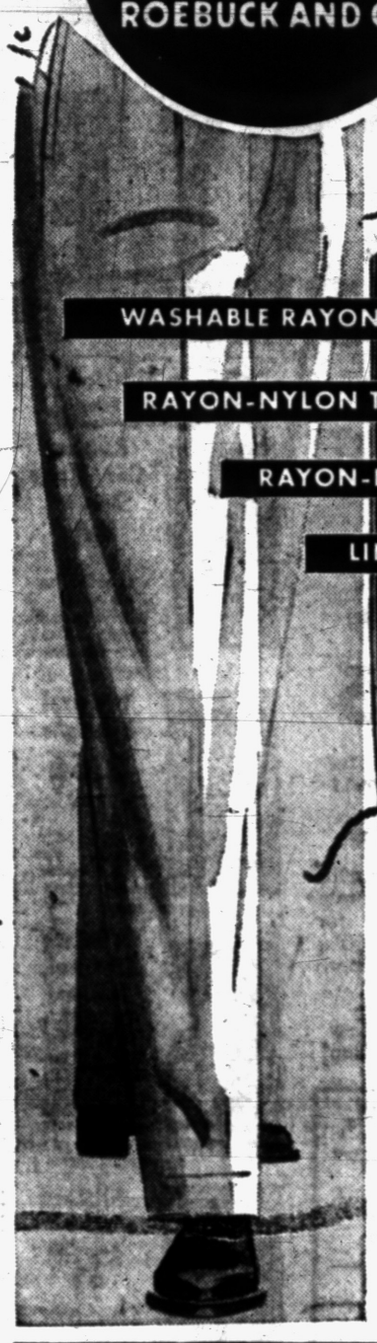

BOLTON, Conn. (UP)—Firemen chose what they thought would be quite a day to sand their engine house floor. After washing the floor, they were summoned to a grass fire. Resuming, they were interrupted by two more brush fires. As they started the sanding, they were called out again—to a grass fire. Fire Chief Peter Massolini issued a statement urging residents to be cautious when burning rubbish and grass.

Tree in Bedroom Has Its Uses—Plus Dawbacks

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP) It took Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Harris a while to get used to rising in the dark and running into a tree in their bedroom.

Harris decided to build an apartment onto the rear of his house about a year ago and rent out the front. But there was this peach tree right where he wanted to build. Since he couldn't bear to cut down the tree, Harris just built around it.

The tree trunk divides into two smaller trunks in the bedroom and both trunks go right on up through the roof. When the tree is in bloom, the trunks coming out of the roof look like the stems of big flowers, stuck into sockets. It's a handy clothes rack.

Harris is a carpenter and roofing man, so he fixed it so the roof wouldn't leak. But it does startle passersby, and it does have a couple of drawbacks.

One night Harris got up in the dark and walked right into the tree. He had a sore head for two or three days.

And on stormy nights Harris gets to thinking about how lightning often strikes trees. But he usually conquers his fears by remembering it's a small tree, and "lightning hardly ever strikes small trees."

Fly ash, a waste product recovered by plants that burn large quantities of coal, can be used as a substitute for part of the Portland cement in concrete and users say it improves the quality of the concrete.

Navy Experimenting With Scarlet Rafts

GROTON, Conn. (UP)—The Navy thinks a color change may save men's lives.

A research project in Long Island Sound indicates that yellow life rafts blend too much with whitecaps, water troughs and sun reflections, whereas scarlet objects are more readily spotted.

This conclusion was reached by Navy pilots searching for objects purposely "lost" by the crew of a tugboat from the U. S. submarine base. After further trials, the researchers will make recommendations to the Navy and Air Force, which may result in repainting life rafts, life preservers and similar rescue equipment.

Since human endurance in cold water and rough seas is limited, they are hoping that a different color will help save more lives.

Rensselaer Professor Started Crystal Models

TROY, N. Y. (UP) — Plastic models of mineral and chemical crystals sold as teaching aids were first made in the home workshop of a Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute professor.

* * *

Dr. James R. Dunn geology instructor, began making models in 1951 to show his students the internal optics of crystals. Other teachers asked for the models, and Dunn began spending most of his free hours making them.

When demand became too great, Dunn turned the making of the models over to a manufacturer.

Bargains in German Castles Are Offered

BONN, Germany (UP) — You can now buy or lease a German castle at bargain prices.

Some 5,000 tax - worried dukes, counts, and barons along the Rhine River are starting a sellout of Germany's medieval romance.

For instance, a real brick - stone tower, overlooking the legendary Rhine, is for lease at nearby Oberwesel for $23.81 a month. No heating, no electricity, but there are a few genuine armored suits of famous knights around the place.

At least 50 per cent of Germany's world - famous 10,000 castles—most of them on or near the Rhine River—are for sale.

Conferences Replace Pupils' Report Card

CORTLAND, N. Y. (UP)—Parents don't have to coax their children to bring home report cards from Cortland schools, where pupils' progress is now reported in conferences between parents and teachers.

School leaders say the new system for elementary schools places more responsibility on parents for children's behavior.

The conference is supplemented by written reports, but they don't contain grades. The reports state how the child is progressing in accordance with his ability, not in relation to his classmates.

After two years of experimenting with the new system, school officials say they may have to make one change. They may return to letter grades because of the number of complaints, but the grades will not be based on competition.

President Arthur's Desk Presented Alma Mater

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP) — The Albany County Historical Society has given to Union College a desk used nearly a century ago by alumnus Chester A. Arthur, 21st President of the United Stafes.

The desk, ornate with silver plating, was used by Arthur while serving as quartermaster - general of New York State during the early years of the Civil War. Arthur was a member of the class of 1848 at Union.

Old Folks Forsaking Home for Open Road

DETROIT (UP)—Harry N. Rogan, travel director of the Auto Club of Michigan, says persons past middle age no longer "cling to home and hearth" but get out and go places, thus booming travel and tourism.

Resort areas, transportation lines and travel groups are slanting their promotions toward older folks, he added.

"Elderly men and women have the time and inclination to enjoy leisure," Rogan explained. "They now live longer and they have higher incomes."

Torrential Rains, Droughts May Someday Be 'Made'

(Editor's Note—In one man's earliest attempts at forcing rain from the skies, he angrily fired cannon balls at likely looking clouds. But since a brilliant discovery in 1946, his attempt has been more scientific and is in progress on an impressive scale. Here, in the last of three articles, is the story of how he's going about it.)

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — It may someday be possible to cause torrents of rain over Russia by seeding clouds moving toward the Soviet Union.

Or it may be possible — if an opposite effect is desired — to cause destructive droughts which would dry up food crops by "overseeding" those same clouds.

* * *

And fortunately for the United States, Russia could do little to retaliate because most weather moves from west to east.

The possibility such a spectacular device as this might be used in some future total war "should not be discounted," according to the man who heads a group set up by Congress to advise it on the chances for success of plans to control the weather.

Capt. Howard Orville, USN, Ret., who charted the weather for Doolittle's raid on Tokyo and helped prepare the forecasts for the North African and Normandy invasions, is chairman of an 11-member advisory committee charged by Congress with seeing that current efforts at rain making and rain suppression don't get out of hand.

* * *

It is Orville's personal view that if the United States would devote the same effort and money to weather experiments that it does to atomic development it could, in about 40 years, "increase precipitation over any area almost at will, using favorable situations."

However, he emphasizes that the advisory committee does not take it for granted weather control will or will not work.

In the law setting up the advisory group, Congress aid application of scientific advances to the problem of weather "appears to be practical."

* * *

Primarily, Congress wants the committee to determine whether experiments, public and private, strengthen possibilities of large-scale weather control.

But the committee has a corollary job: to determine whether federal legislation is necessary to be sure that attempts at weather modification don't result in disaster, such as "catastrophic droughts, storms, floods and other phenomena. . . ."

And finally, Congress wants the committee to recommend to what extent the government should experiment with or engage in weather control activities.

* * *

Some federal work already is under way. Army, Navy, Air Force and Weather Bureau have research projects.

The Weather Bureau has been conducting extensive cloud-seeding tests in the Seattle area. Meteorologist Ferguson Hall, the man in charge, says results still are being evaluated. He adds, however, that as of now he does not think weather control on any kind of worthwhile scale will be worked out.

This opinion is echoed by one of the top scientists in the bureau, Dr. Harry Wexler, who maintains that if rainfall increases claimed by commercial rain-making firms were real "they would stand out like a sore thumb — and such has not been revealed, at least in the cases we have studied."

* * *

Orville sums up the work of his investigators this way:

"If the advisory committee finds that weather modification projects cannot produce important results, it will so report — and thus deter farmers and ranchers from spending their money unwisely . . . .

"If the committee finds out it can confirm the results claimed by reputable and scientifically competent operators — claims of rainfall increases of from 7 to 50 per cent and more — then, the dollar benefits to agriculture, industry and government will be so great as to be incalculable."

A fathom was originally the distance between the tips of a man's two middle fingers when his arms were outstretched, later standardized to six feet.

Keep an Eye on Those Soft-Bodied Elm Beetles

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP) — About this time of year householders may discover small, soft-bodied beetles around the house. They won't do any harm to the house, but the New York state science service says they may be elm leaf beetles.

The beetles winter in houses, but in the spring they want to get outside to lay their eggs. If they get to elm trees they can do much damage.

Teener's Death Ends Long Feud

Retired Auto Worker Shoots at Youngsters After Heckling

DETROIT (AP) — A neighborhood feud between an eccentric retired auto worker and heckling teenagers erupted in gunfire last night. One youth was fatally wounded, another shot twice, and the eccentric himself wounded.

Douglas Dudley, 18, was the youth killed. Barbara Kubbe, 16, a companion, was shot in both legs.

William Kursman, 67, was a police prisoner in Receiving Hospital, a bullet wound in the left eye. Tests were scheduled today to determine whether he was hit by a police bullet or attempted to take his own life.

Police said Kursman did all the firing, until they arrived, but that Dudley had a butcher knife.

Kursman barricaded himself in his home. Tear gas and bullets were pumped into it. Then police broke down the door and found Kursman on the floor, wounded.

Neighbors told police there had been a running, shouting fued between Kursman and neighborhood youngsters for years. They said his wife left him four years ago.

Police said Robert Trafelet, 15, who had been with Dudley and Miss Kubbe told them that Dudley walked over to talk to Kursman and shortly they were shouting at each other.

When he returned to the school steps where the other youths were sitting, Trafelet said Dudley told them: "'The old man has got a pistol in his pocket. I think it would be a good idea if we went over and took it away from him before he hurts someone.'"

Trafelt said Dudley had a butcher knife and put it inside his shirt, leaving the handle showing. Accompanied by Kathleen Koivu, 16, Dudley, Miss Kubbe and Trafelet went to Kursman's home.

Trafelet said Kursman shouted from his doorway "what do you want to do, kill me?" and started shooting.

Cut in Income Tax Dead This Session

cause they said the federal pocketbook couldn't stand the revenue loss. Joining George supporters were two Republicans, Langer and Young, ND., and Morse.

One part of the Republican substitute called for halving the effect of a relief provision for stockholders on their dividend income, and this was partly adopted during the parliamentary tangle yesterday.

As passed by the House, the provision would exempt from tax the first $50 of dividend income and permit the taxpayer to deduct from his tax 5 per cent of dividend income above $50 in the first year of the bill. In the second year and thereafter, the exclusion would increase to $100 and the deduction to 10 per cent.

The Millikin amendment knocked out the second step and would leave the benefit permanently at the $50 exclusion—5 per cent deduction scale.

As for the farm question, House leaders were confident they could muster the votes to push through a one-year extension of present 90 per cent of parity supports on five basic crops.

The administration wants this rigid high program to expire on schedule at the end of this year. It then proposes to put the crops—corn, cotton, wheat, rice and peanuts—under flexible supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity.

GOP House leaders came up with a last-ditch compromise which would prevent the support level under the administration plan from dropping below 82½ per cent next year.

Farm bloc leaders refused to support it and the issue was expected to be decided in a showdown vote this afternoon.

Administration hopes were jolted Wednesday night by the decision of a group of New York City Democrats to vote with the farm bloc. GOP leaders said frankly they needed city votes to win.

The decision of the New York Democrats brought a blunt warning from House GOP Leader Charles Halleck (Ind.) that city Democrats who vote "against their constituents" will have to "answer for it in the election campaign."

Hit-Run Driver Kills Pleasant Lake Girl

JACKSON (AP) — Margo Gorton, 9, was struck and killed by a car 100 yards from her home near Pleasant Lake, eight miles north of here, last night.

Police in the city later arrested Paul Engles, about 27, of Jackson, driver of a car which witnesses said resembled that which struck the girl.

Witnesses said the car failed to stop after striking Margo on the shoulder of the road. Margo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gorton, died in Foote Hospital shortly after she was struck.

State Police took custody of Engles. He was being held for a statement.

Police Accidentally Find Escapee Asleep in Car

NEW BUFFALO (AP) — State troopers found Donald L. Burgess asleep on the side of a road near New Buffalo Wednesday morning. Upon investigation they found that he was driving a car which was stolen in Oregon. They said that he was an escapee from the Florida State Prison in Tallahassee.

He is being held in Berrien County Jail, pending extradition.

Locate 'Stolen' Purse Under Sleeping Spouse

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — A woman phoned police at 5 a.m. yesterday to report her purse containing $70 had been stolen.

Patrolman Theodore Sanok went to her home to investigate.

He said he found the purse under the woman's sleeping husband.

City Convict Escapes for Only Few Hours

IONIA (INS) — A convict was back in his cell today after a brief one and one-half hours of freedom which began when he walked away from a working party outside of prison walls.

Lyle L. Samples, 22, of Pontiac, serving one and one-half to four years for larceny, became panicky and ran through the home of Mrs. Ralph Cole, about a block north of the Michigan State Reformatory.

Mrs. Cole called officials who found Samples hiding in the brush near the home.

Deaths in Traffic Continue to Drop

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's traffic deaths decreased in May, the fifth consecutive month which has shown a reduction from the corresponding month in 1953.

The May death toll was 2,960, the National Safety Council reported, a reduction of 3 per cent over May 1953. In the first five months this year, 13,470 persons were killed in traffic mishaps, a decrease of 5 per cent over the 14,150 reported in the corresponding period last year.

In 1952 the Detroit River carried 116,550,000 tons of freight, the St. Marys Falls Canal at Sault Ste. Marie 106,550,000 tons and the Mississippi River 77,584,556 tons.

Russia Reveals Operation of Nuclear Power Plant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia might be able to use a lead in atomic industrial power development as a lever to outmaneuver the United States in the cold war between communism and the free world.

American atomic officials contemplated this prospect today in light of the Soviet's claim to have put into operation a nuclear power plant with a 5,000-kilowatt electrical power output.

* * *

While there was no immediate official confirmation of the announcement made by Moscow radio yesterday, there also was no disposition to deny that the Russians had succeeded in getting an atomic power plant into operation. Experts here well remembered the success of the Reds in producing a nuclear fission explosion in 1949—several years before the time generally predicted.

Those who look upon peaceful use of atomic power as an instrument of national policy contend:

The nation which first succeeds in building practical atomic power plants capable of being assembled in components and shipped overseas will have an instrument to offer power-poor nations such as those of southeast and southern Asia, the Middle East, North Africa and in similar places.

* * *

If Russia should be ready first for the building and export of such plants, they say, she would have a good bargain to offer small nations which might be wavering between the free world and communism.

This is one of the arguments of those who urge a speedup in the United States' atomic industrial power development program, to telescope into something less than five years what they say would otherwise be a 10-year period needed to get nuclear power on a satisfactory, going basis.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy, said yesterday the Russian claim underlined a new need for amending the Atomic Energy Act to facilitate power development.

Ike May Hear Oppenheimer

Physicist Says Idea of Appeal Had Never Occurred to Him

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer said yesterday "I don't dismiss" the possibility of appealing to President Eisenhower the Atomic Energy Commission's decision barring him access to secret atomic data.

The atomic pioneer said he was surprised by the President's statement that he would be listened to if he decided to appeal, and added that the idea "never occurred to me."

In a telephone interview, Oppenheimer said his present plans are to continue research in fundamental physics although it will be "a nuisance" not having clearance to many laboratories.

There are many private institutions, Oppenheimer said, at which experiments are being conducted for the government and where he is "not welcome" any longer.

The AEC declared that Oppenheimer, once one of its most trusted advisers, is unfit to handle America's atomic secrets because of "defects of character . . . and dangerous associations." Its majority report said the question of his loyalty was not at issue.

Oppenheimer said he has no intention of resigning as director of the Institute for Advanced Study here.

Hot Weather Blamed for Drop in Marriage

CHICAGO (AP)—Marriage licenses in Chicago in June fell to a nine-year low and County Clerk Richard J. Daley blamed the hot weather. The June total was 5,357.

Temperatures of 90 or higher kept Chicago sweltering for 16 of the 30 days in June, a record number.

Turkey produces about three million tons of coal a year, an amount produced in the United States in about two days.

Trust World Around You for Gratifying Vacation

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

JESSUPS, Md. (INS)—I've just had me a nap beside a field of knee-high Maryland corn, and that makes me a real tourist again.

No longer do I resemble a Sunday driver out for a spin with my two boys, aged 17 and 12—any coincidental similarity ended the moment we pulled off white cement lanes onto a brown dirt road, and started sizing up the shade cast by this elm or that maple.

The boys are good at this, from much previous practice in their tenderer years in many other states of the union. They can also assay the firmness of a grassy road shoulder and judge the degree of slope a parked car would have knowing that a sharply banked sleeper inside will dream he's standing on his head or toe-dancing.

In the rich rolling hills of Maryland, it was a cinch to find a spot for my 200 horse-power cradle, and while my sons set off "to explore," I went prostrate on the roomy back seat of the car, and for half an hour slept like a power-steered, automatic shift, push-buttoned baby.

With 50,000,000 Americans expected to visit the 173 areas of our 28 national parks this summer, most of them going by car, this "back seat sleeper" trick—either on route or at a standstill—is a greater device for safer and happier motoring than power brakes and puncture-proof tires.

Families up to four present no space problem, for any one passenger can turn the back seat into a sofa while the car eats up more miles.

With six to a car, that late afternoon siesta has to be a roadside stand, with everybody stretched out on old coats spread on terra firma—mom and the small fry presumably off under another tree, in kindness to the driver's eardrums.

All kids with touring know-how realize parents are lots nicer if their eyes don't get too strained watching that white line, if heads don't ache from road glare, and if nerves don't start vibrating from the ceaseless swoosh-swoosh of passing tires.

And all parents know their offspring can become impossible when confined too long to a sitting position anywhere on earth.

My own touring training has taught me that any passenger over seven years old can be turned loose on any country road in the U. S. A. while a driving—or driven—parent is briefly dead to the world.

But there's one essential condition for off the road back-seat sleepers: an uncluttered car at all times. And on the highways of America the Beautiful, this seems a rarer sight than a duck-billed platypus.

Why the tidiest of housewives changes character the instant a family tour gets going beats me.

But most cars we pass with far-away license plates are piled rear-window high with everything that ever came out of a catalogue, topped off with cellophane bags of potato chips, baskets of peaches or cherries, camera, road maps all a-flutter, odd parcels and hooked rugs or Indian mocassins acquired at roadside tourist traps.

Clearing out such storage bins each afternoon, to make way for the sandman, stops the idea cold, so my own No. 1 rule of the road is: if it won't go into the luggage compartment it stays home.

Rule No. 2 is trust of the world aroundyou. Plenty of parents with kids of seven-up might disapprove of letting them go off and explore by themselves, and maybe those parents are right to be so cautious.

But they'll never get to know the peace and renewal that comes from an afternoon nap beside a Maryland cornfield, or an Iowa farm or a Wyoming ranch.

Which is a pitty and a loss—it's sweet sleep for Americans.

Rhodesian's Alchemy Fails to Change Time

CAPETOWN (INS)—A notorious native witch-doctor, appearing in court at Senanga, Northern Rhodesia, boasted publicly that he had a powerful concoction which would make the magistrate impose a light sentence.

A big crowd packed the court to watch the display of magic. But the magic failed. The sentence was heavy.

"Unfortunately for him" wrote the makistrate in his official report, "the accused when mixing his herbs for his brew must have added too much thyme."

THE PONTIAC PRESS

THURSDAY, JULY 1, 1954 PONTIAC, MICHIGAN SEVENTEEN

YIPE—This gal gives a yip as date flashes smile.

Amusement Not Too Amusing

What's Scaring These Folks? The Answer's Easy: Spooks!

These remarkable pictures of thrills and chills were taken at a darkened fun house at Pittsburgh's Kennywood Park. Patrons are carried in small cars around a winding track.

The only light provided is that which is beamed out by skeletons and other scary figures that "pop out" at the riders as they approach each divide.

A tripping mechanism makes the light flash just as the car nears the target, thus making for a quick reaction.

You'd never think it from the pictures, but a good time was had by all, thanks to the human quirk that gets fun out of being scared on amusement park devices.

U. S., Australia, New Zealand Press for Asian Pact

Pontiac Press Photos

INSPECTING WEAPONS—Police Chief Herbert W. Straley (left) and Capt. Clark M. Wheaton, chief of detectives, in photo at left, examine weapons confiscated in crimes in Pontiac's past. In photo above, Sgt. Claude Hodges, property custodian and court officer, is shown preparing confiscated rifles for shipment to Michigan State Police at Lansing, where the weapons are destroyed. Sgt. Hodges, also in lower photo, displays unclaimed euipment, either lost or found by police. The huge truck tire, he explained, was found in a field in the north section of Pontiac recently and was never reclaimed. Sgt. Hodges said other equipment confiscated as evidence also awaits reports of ownership.

Mutual Defense Action Urged

Dulles Pledges Support in Guatemala, Warns of Red Menace

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States pressed on today for early creation of an anti-Communist pact in Southeast Asia while hailing a victory over international communism in Guatemala.

Secretary of State Dulles, cautioning that "communism is still a menace everywhere," pledged the support of the United States yesterday to the people of Guatemala in their efforts to build a "prosperous and progressive" and non-Communist nation.

Several hours earlier, United States joined Australia and New Zealand in a declaration that there is "need for immediate action" to bring about early establishment of a collective defense in Southeast Asia.

• • •

The three nations are signers of a mutual defense treaty. Dulles met yesterday with Australia's Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey and New Zealand's Ambassador Leslie Knox Munro. Together they form a council set up by the "Anzus" pact, which takes it name from initials of the three countries.

Their declaration went beyond the agreement on a Southeast Asian collective defense announced Monday by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Churchill. The latter two said they would press forward with plans to secure Southeast Asia against communism whether the war in Indochina is ended or continues.

• • •

Diplomats agreed that the Anzus statement expressed a greater sense of urgency and implied that American consultation with the British government on future plans would be paralleled by talks with Australia, New Zealand and other nations having direct interest in stemming the Communist tide.

• • •

It was understood too that American officials believe concrete plans may be made shortly after July 10, when armistice negotiations between the French and Communist forces are supposed to be concluded. This would obviate waiting for the July 20 deadline for an Indochina peace settlement which was set by the new Mendes-France government at Paris.

After he met with Casey and Monroe, Dulles went on nationwide radio and television networks to make a statement on the Guatemalan situation, which the Voice of America also broadcast over the world.

• • •

Dulles said "international communism" had sought for years to establish a Red front in the Western Hemisphere by building up power in Guatemala. He tied this operation directly to Moscow, saying the dramatic events of recent days — during which the pro-Communist government in Guatemala was overthrown — have exposed "the evil purpose of the Kremlin to destroy the inter-American system."

He also said this "intrusion of Soviet despotism was, of course, a direct challenge to our Monroe Doctrine — the first and most fundamental of our foreign policies." (The doctrine laid down by President Monroe in 1923 bars any extension of foreign power in the Western Hemisphere.)

Calumet Mine Will Open for First Time Since 1931

(Editor's note—Earl J. Gagnon, feature writer of the Houghton mining Gazette, wrote the 20th in an Associated Press series on the accomplishments and problems of Michigan cities since the end of World War II.)

By EARL J. GAGNON
Houghton Mining Gazette
Feature Writer

CALUMET (AP) — Calumet's roots are 6,000 feet down and sprouting with a new vigor expected to extend at least through 1962.

Copper — the metallic life's blood of this Upper Peninsula community — still is a rich item on the world market. Calumet and Hecla Co., a mining firm, is reopening its Osceola shaft in the constant search for a new supply of raw ore.

The mine originally was opened in 1873. Some 66 dividends totaling $9,434,250, were paid to the mine's stockholders until 1910.

The Osceola shaft was abandoned in 1931 because of a poor world market.

Its post World War II revival, expected within a month, will feature electric and diesel-powered equipment to speed operations and absorb employes who will filter in from other C and H mines whose copper supply becomes exhausted. The employment level will remain at about 2,400 persons.

Calumet is a cluster of eight hamlets on the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula in Houghton County.

The area was named after the ancient Indian peace pipe and came into existence sometime during the early 1860s. Since then the Calumet field has become 10th among copper producers on the North and South American continents.

In 1953, the Calumet mines produced 88 million pounds of copper from all three major types of raw material operation—mining, scrap and reclaiming. The scrap copper is produced from a collection of manufactured copper items.

Reclaimed copper is produced from waste materials which originally are a by-product of mined raw copper.

The company says it expects to continue the search for commercial ore deposits to extend the Calumet area's prosperity.

Civic officials are extremely optimistic about continued good labor relations and a lack of problems. And there is a trend toward diversification of industry within the C and H.

The firm has entered the copper tubing business and also produces chemicals, insecticides, and other products.

Calumet's family of hamlets—including Blue Jacket, Red Jacket, Laurium, Copper City, Osceola, Tamarack and others — huddle on the Peninsula nearly surrounded by Lake Superior's chilly but important waters.

Calumet terms itself the gateway to the Keweenaw Peninsula and expects to become as noted among tourist attractions as it now is among copper producers.

Michigan Sales Tax Figures Top Budget

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's sales tax collections for the fiscal year ending today topped the 276 million dollar budget estimate by $500,000.

Walter F. Reddy, Deputy State tax commissioner, said June collections on May retail business totaled $25,074,314 for sales and use taxes, compared to approximately 24 million dollars in the preceding month.

The use tax, which is not divided with local governments as is the sales tax, produced a total of $13,186,000 for the closing fiscal year, Reddy said.

City Gets Payments From Lakeside Homes for Services

Some $17,000 has been paid the city by the Lakeside Homes low-rent housing project in its first 1½ years of operation pointing up "the fact that the project is not a drain on the city financially," according to a report by the Pontiac Housing Commission.

The money is paid the city in place of taxes to cover costs of municipal services provided tenants, such as fire and police protection, schools, garbage collection and street maintenance, the report explains.

Before the housing project's construction, the city received only about $1,500 in taxes per year on the 90-acre area which includes the project's 34-acre site.

Many families now living at Lakeside Homes were in overcrowded quarters previously and their moving into the project "has not necessarily increased the population of the city to any degree," the report stated.

Teachers Can Sport Beards in Centennial

DETROIT (UP) — The board of education in suburban Wyandotte has told men teachers that it won't frown on beards, brushes, sideburns or whiskers.

George Baisley, a member of the board, said high school boys also have an official blessing, if they prefer to keep razors off fuzzy cheeks.

Ironsides' Builders Go Out of Business

WARE, Mass. (AP) — A firm that made tools used to build the frigate Constitution, "Old Ironsides," launched in 1797, has gone out of business.

Mundt to Seek Rules Revision

Ready to Ask Senate to Give Members Right to Call Committees

WASHINGTON (INS)—Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said today he is ready to formally request the Senate to empower its members to call committees into session when chairmen are "recalcitrant" or absent.

His proposal drew firm support from Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich), a fellow member of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Mundt, who presided over the special subcommittee which investigated the McCarthy-Army controversy, told newsmen he would ask the Senate before nightfall to make the rules revision.

Yesterday, Mundt's unit voted to ask McCarthy to call a meeting of his group to take up the Pentagon's refusal to give security clearance to two members of the McCarthy subcommittee's staff.

Mundt said the names of the two staff members would not be made public because of the Pentagon's unwillingness to specify the nature of accusations on which the denial of clearance was based.

McCarthy has been vacationing at a secret location since the hearings on his dispute with the Army ended almost two weeks ago and was not on hand to receive the request.

Six of the seven members of Mundt's subcommittee also are on McCarthy's panel. The exception is Sen. Henry C. Dworshak (R-Idaho) who replaced McCarthy as the seventh member of the Mundt unit.

Mundt told reporters yesterday that even though the members desiring the meeting outnumber McCarthy six-to-one, they cannot call it because only the chairman has the power to do so.

Fireman Has His Cake and His Fire, Too

A police car was sent to the station to rescue the cake.

An Air Force sergeant charged with the first degree murder of a Pontiac woman was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Wednesday following examination before Pontiac Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

King is accused of slashing to death Mrs. Laura Marshall, 37, of 58 Chapman St., June 15 in the bedroom of her home, according to Pontiac Police.

According to Detective Sgt. Allen D. Noble, King admitted slashing the woman's throat with a razor when she told him of "another man."

Boy, Rescued Once, Drowns at Belle Isle

DETROIT (UP) — Donald Walgraeve, 12, was rescued once from the Detroit River Wednesday, but he drowned 20 minutes later in shallow water off the Belle Isle beach.

Police said two boys, Lorenzo Thomas, 13, and Edward Patton, 13, first found Donald in about three feet of water. They pulled him to shore and revived him.

An unidentified woman later spotted young Walgraeve floating face down in the water. A life guard discovered that he had drowned.

Beginning 'The Caine Mutiny,' Exciting Naval Story

falling over, so the effect of nonchalance was marred. "Nothing like a little setting-up exercise," he said, with drunken savoir-faire.

"Especially three o'clock in the afternoon. Ah never miss it myself," said Keefer.

Three rolled-up mattresses came catapulting through the open door.

* * *

The rest of the day went by in bugles, assemblies, dismissals, re-assemblies, announcements, marches, lectures, and aptitude tests. Every time the administration remembered a detail that had been omitted in the mimeographed sheets the bugle blared, and five hundred sailors swarmed out of Furnald Hall.

When the bugle sounded retreat and Willie climbed into bed, it occurred to him that he had not had a single thought of May Wynn or of his parents all day.

There had been some talk of Willie's returning to Princeton after graduation for a master's degree in literature, the first step toward a teaching career.

But in September following a summer of tennis and multiple romances at his grandparents' home in Rhode Island, Willie had found a job in a cocktail lounge of a minor New York hotel, playing the piano and singing his original ditties.

His songs were of the order known as cute, rather than witty or tuneful. His major piece, sung only for the larger crowds, was "If You Knew What the Gnu Knew," a comparison of the love-making ways of animals and humans. Willie's close - trimmed Princetonian haircut, his expensive clothes, and his childlike sweetness of face served to dress up his slender talent.

A couple of months later the proprietor of a very dingy night club on Fifty-second Street, the Club Tahiti, saw his act and bought him away from the hotel with a raise of ten dollars a week. This transaction was concluded in an afternoon interview at the Club Tahiti, a dank cellar full of papier-mache palms, dusty coconuts, and upended chairs on tables. The date was Dec. 7, 1941.

Willie emerged from this meeting into the sunny street full of exultation and pride. He had risen above the minimum union wage. It seemed to him that he had overtaken Cole Porter, and was well on the way to nosing out Noel Coward. The street, with its garish, weatherbeaten night-club signs, its magnified photographs of nobodies like himself, looked beautiful to him. He stopped at a newsstand, his eye attracted by unusually big and black headlines:

JAPS BOMB PEARL HARBOR. He did not know where Pearl Harbor was; in a passing thought he placed it on the Pacific side of the Panama Canal. He realized that this meant the United States would enter the war, but the turn of events seemed in no way comparable in importance to his engagement at the Club Tahiti. A very high draft number, in those days, helped a man to keep calm about the war.

So it was that Willie Keith sang and played for the customers of the Club Tahiti from December, 1941, to April, 1942, while the Japanese conquered the Philippines, and the Prince of Wales and the Repulse sank, and Singapore fell, and the cremation ovens of the Germans consumed men, women, and children at full blast, thousands every day.

In the spring two great events occurred in Willie's life; he fell in love, and he received a notice from his draft board.

CHAPTER II

Willie arrived at the Tahiti one slushy, drizzly day to play the piano for auditions of new acts. The Club Tahiti was dreary in all times and weathers, but most so in the afternoons. Willie loved this place exactly as it was. Looking as it did, and smelling as it did of stale tobacco, liquor, and cheap deodorant perfume, it was his domain of power and achievement.

The proprietor, Mr. Dennis, a pale fat man with grey stubby jowls and a face marked with deep soured lines, leaned on the piano, chewing a half-burned cigar and leafing through a musical arrangement.

* * *

"Okay, here's Princeton. Let's go."

Willie shed his dripping galoshes by the piano, stripped off his brown rabbit lined gloves, and sat at the stool in his overcoat, inspecting the girls with the horse trader's eye of a man of twenty-two.

A small nondescript girl in a loose brown raincoat came forward. She placed an unusually thick arrangement on the music rack in front of Willie.

It was no less ambitious a piece than Cherubino's love song from "The Marriage of Figaro," with words in Italian. Midway it broke into a syncopated parody in clumsy English. At the end it returned to Mozart's music and Da Pointe's words. "Haven't you something else?" Willie said, noting that the singer had amazingly bright brown eyes and a handsome mass of chestnut-colored hair rolled up on her head.

"What's the matter? You can play it."

"I don't think," said Willie in a stage whisper, "that he'll like it. Too high-class."

"Well, just for once, for dear old Princeton, shall we try?"

Willie began to play. The music of Mozart was one of the few things in the world that affected him deeply. He knew the aria by heart.

The girl seemed to be singing for the pleasure of friends, rather than for an urgently desired job. Willie's ear, trained by many years of opera-going, told him at once that this was no great voice, nor even a professional one. It was just such singing as a bright girl who had a love of music and a pleasant voice could accomplish, and it had that peculiar charm denied great performers, the caroling freshness of song for its own sake.

* * *

Mr. Dennis' office was a green-painted cubicle in the rear of the cellar. The walls were plastered with photographs of actors and singers. The light was a single bulb dangling from the ceiling.

"What do you think about the red?" he said, applying a match to a cigar stump.

"Well, the blonde is no barn-burner."

"Guess not, what about the redhead?"

"Ah—what's her name?" Willie asked.

"May Wynn," said the proprietor, squinting at Willie, possibly because of the burning cigar end an inch from his face.

Occasionally a name is spoken that sets up a clamor in one's heart, as though it has been shouted in a big empty hall. Often as not the feeling proves a delusion. In any case, Willie was shaken by the pronouncing of the words, "May Wynn." He said nothing.

"Why? What did you think of her?"

The proprietor choked over his cigar, and flattened its meagre remains in an ash try. "What's that got to do with the price of herring? I'm asking you about her singing."

"I don't know," Willie said. "Could be that Mozart thing would be a delightful novelty—distinction, class, charm. Could also be that it would clear out the place like a stink bomb—Let's hear how she does something straight."

May Wynn's "Sweet Sue" was better than her previous jazz singing—possibly because it wasn't inserted in a framework of Mozart.

"Who's your agent, dear — Bill Mansfield?" said Mr. Dennis.

"Marty Rubin," said May Wynn, a little breathlessly.

"Can you start Monday?"

"Can I?" gasped the girl.

"Okay. Show her around, Princeton," said Mr. Dennis, and vanished into his office.

"Congratulations," said Willie, extending his hand. The girl shook it briefly in a warm, firm little grasp.

"Thanks. How the devil did I get it? I murdered the Mozart—"

* * *

Luigi's was a bright small restaurant full of little tables in rows of booths. The warmth and the spicy smell were a pleasant change from the chill rainy twilight outside.

"You lie. This is the hottest, stuffiest restaurant in New York."

May Wynn rose, almost as reluctantly as if she were being compelled to strip. "I'm beginning to think you're very silly—Well," she added, her face flushing, "stop looking at me like that——"

When May at last took off her coat, Willie had the appearance of a startled stag—for good enough reason. Her figure was glorious. She wore a purple silk dress with a narrow grey belt. She sat, all in confusion, trying not to laugh at Willie.

"You have a figure," said Willie, taking his seat in slow motion.

"Bitter experience," said May Wynn. "I don't like to get jobs or make friends on the strength of my figure. Things are expected of me that I can't deliver."

"May Wynn," said Willie thoughtfully. "I like the name."

"That's good. It took me a long time to think of it."

"Isn't that your name?"

The girl shrugged. "Of course not. It's too good."

"What's your name?"

"Sorry——"

"I don't mind telling you, though I usually don't blab it. My name is Marie Minotti."

"Oh." Willie looked at a waiter carrying a tray heaped with spaghetti. "Then you're at home in here."

"Very much."

Willie's reaction to the discovery that May Wynn had an Italian name was complicated, and quite important: a mixture of relief, pleasure and disappointment. A night-club singer who could carol a Mozart aria with understanding was a wonder, for Willie's world familiarity with opera was a mark of high breeding—unless you were an Italian. Then it became a mere racial quirk of a lower social group, and lost its cachet. Marie Minotti was someone Willie could cope with.

She regarded him with narrowed eyes. "What are you thinking?"

"The nicest possible things about you."

"Your name no doubt, is really Willis Seward Keith?"

"Oh, yes."

"Well, Princeton," said the girl with a light laugh, "obviously we can never hit it off. My folks came over in 1920. My father runs a fruit store in the Bronx. My mother hardly speaks English."

The pizzas arrived on two large round tin platters: smoking hot flat cakes of dough covered with cheese and tomato sauce—and, in Willie's dish, sprinkled on one side with chunks of anchovy. May Wynn picked up a triangular slice folded it expertly with a flip of her fingers, and took a bite. "My mother's pizza is better than this. As a matter of fact, I make about the best pizza in the world."

"Will you marry me?"

"No, your mother wouldn't like it."

"Great," said Willie, "we understand each other. Allow me to tell you, then, that I'm falling in love with you."

* * *

The girl's face suddenly clouded over. "Keep the blows above the belt, chum. Let's talk about books. You're a Princeton man."

They did talk about books, between mouthfuls of wine and pizza. Willie started on current best sellers, with which May had a passable acquaintance, and worked back toward his eighteenth and nineteenth century favorites, whereupon the girl's answers grew lamer.

"Dickens," said Willie fervidly, riding high on a crest of comparative literature, "if I had any strength of character I'd spend my life doing research and commentary on Dickens. He and Shakespeare will be left when English is dead as Latin. Do you know his works?"

"All I've read is the 'Christmas Carol'."

"Oh."

"Look, chum, I never got beyond high school. Things were tough at the fruit store when I graduated. There was a little matter of keeping myself in dresses and stockings—and the family in food, every now and then. I've worked in dime stores and orange-drink stands. I tackled Dickens a couple of times. He's hard going after a day on your feet."

"You'll love Dickens someday."

"I hope so. I think appreciating Dickens goes with ten thousand in the bank."

"I haven't a dime in the bank."

"Your mama has. Same thing."

"Shall we go? I want to work over my numbers tonight, as long as I've got a job."

It was raining hard outside. Fluorescent signs, blue, green, red, cast blurry pools of color on the wet black street. May extended her gloved hand. "Goodbye. Thanks for the pizza."

"Good-bye? I'll tak eyou home in a cab."

"My boy, a cab to Honeywell Avenue in the Bronx would cost you five dollars."

"I have five dollars."

"No, thanks. Subway for the likes of me."

"Well, let's take a cab to the station."

"Cabs, cabs! Why did God give you feet? Walk me to Fiftieth."

* * *

Willie recalled some rhapsodies by George Meredith on walks in the rain, and fell in beside the singer. She took his arm. They strolled in silence, droplets hitting their faces and rolling off their clothes. The hand resting on his arm sent a soft glow through the rest of him. "There's really something rather delicious about walking in the rain," he remarked.

May glanced at him sidelong. "You wouldn't think so if you had to do it, Princeton."

"Oh, look," said Willie, "stop playing the poor little match girl. Is this your first singing job?"

"First in New York. I've only been singing for four months. Worked a lot of dives in New Jersey."

"How does Mozart go in a Jersey dive?"

May shuddered. "Never tried it. Out there they think "Stardust" is a heavy classic, like a Bach mass."

"Who wrote those English words of yours? You?"

"My agent, Marty Rubin."

"Write me better ones."

"I will," shouted Willie, as they crossed Broadway through a stalled jam of honking taxis and buses. "Tonight."

"I was kidding. I can't pay you."

"You already have. I've never in my life enjoyed Mozart as I did this afternoon."

May slipped her hand away from his arm. "You don't have to say such things. I really dislike smooth talk. I've been fed it by the yard."

"Every no wand then," Willie answered, "say, once in the course of a week. I'm honest."

May looked at his face. "I'm sorry."

They stopped at the kiosk. The shabby wrinkled newsman hawked imaginary victories in a hoarse voice, his headlines concealed under tarpaper. Crowds shouldered past them. "Thank you for dinner," said May Wynn. "See you Monday."

"Not before? I could conceivably want to. What's your phone number?"

"I haven't any phone." Willie winced. May Wynn was really out of the lower depths. "There's a candy store next door," she went on, "where I can be reached in emergencies, but that's all."

"Supposing an emergency arises? Give me the number of the store."

"Another time." She smiled, the wariness of her look fading for a moment into coquettishness. "Can't see you till Monday, anyway. Have to slave on my numbers. 'Bye."

"I'm afraid I bored you with all my book talk," said Willie, trying to fan a spark in the dying interview.

"No, I've had fun." She paused, and held out her hand. "It was an instructive afternoon."

She was swallowed up in the crowd before reaching the foot of the stairs. Willie walked away from the subway entrance with an absurd feeling of being newborn. The Roxy marquee, the black shafts of Radio City sprinkled with yellow lights, the restaurant signs, the groaning, darting taxicabs swam in an aura of wonder. He decided that New York was beautiful and mysterious, like Bagdad.

Livestock Shipping Bruises Cost Money

CHICAGO (UP)—Livestock producers lose millions of dollars a year because their animals are bruised during shipment, according to Livestock Conservation, Inc.

The organization said that 76,730 hogs out of 943,255 shipped were found to have been bruised with a loss of nearly $1 per hog.

Of 219,271 head of cattle processed, 14,788 were bruised with a loss of $5.88 per animal.

Livestock Conservation, Inc., said that the average livestock farmer will have one badly bruised hog out of every 12, and one badly bruised head of cattle out of every 15.

The organization urged farmers to keep yards and pens free of sharp objects, to keep chutes in good working order and to partition livestock loads.

Judge Orders Removal of 240,000 Pet Bees

DETROIT (AP) — Paul Falk is rounding up his approximately 240,000 bees on orders of traffic and ordinance Judge John D. Watts. Neighbors complained they had been stung by Flk's bees.

Judge Watts Wednesday found the three backyard hives a nuisance; gave Falk 30 days to get rid of them.

Thirty years ago, three pounds of coal were used in the United States to produce a kilowatt of electricity; today it takes a little more than a pound.

McMenimen, in Cambridge, Mass., to reconcile, and the couple, parents of 16 children, left the court arm-in-arm. "It's ridiculous," the Judge said when Sardo contended his wife was unfaithful. Sardo's allegation came after his wife filed petition for separate support. Hot-Rodders to Stress Safety This Summer CHICAGO (UP) — Organized hot-rod racing will become a national sport this summer under auspices of the Automobile Timing Association of America, Inc.

Arnold Maremont, president of Inc., said the true hot-rodder is proud of the name. To him, the public menace is the "shot-rodder," who roars down public highways in a souped-up jalopy, thinking only of speed, never of safety.

The Automobile Timing Association, representing some 5,000 hot-rodders in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, came into being last summer to operate Maremont Speedway, a one-half mile drag strip on an abandoned air strip near Chicago.

This summer's expansion plans call for supervised racing in 15 cities in eight states.

Unlike the reckless "shot-rodders," the hot-rodder builds for a combination of high speed with maximum safety. Maremont feels that a drag strip — a safe, off-the-street area — will provide a controlled meeting place where the hot-rodder can educate the "shot-rodder" in building for safety first, speed second.

In a drag race, two vehicles, starting from a standing stop, race down the course.

So effective were ATAA pre-race inspections that there were no accidents in 25 Sundays at racing at Maremont Speedway. Safety belts, crash helmets and heavy "roll bars" are standard equipment.

To operate the expanded 1954 program, ATAA will help local hot-rodders select appropriate drag strips and then will send a crew of specialists to set up and supervise the first racing program in each area. Local ATAA units will carry on later activities.

Genesee Republicans Won't Endorse Anyone

FLINT (UP) — With only 78 of 288 elected delegates on hand, the Genesee County Republican Convention decided not to make a pre-primary endorsement of candidates for county offices.

Endorsement by only 28 per cent of the elected delegates, it was contended, would bring criticism. The decision reversed a plan adopted April 8 to endorse the best qualified candidates to face the Democrats in the November general election.

Bay City Sells Bonds

BAY CITY (UP) — Bay City has sold its $1,400,000 in bonds to finance a veterans memorial bridge and a North street bypass to a syndicate of six bond houses for an interest rate of 1.7919 per cent. Halsey, Stuart and Co. headed the syndicate submitting the low bid.

Ralph Bunche Addresses NEA

Thinks Desegregation Is Sometimes Carried to Extremes

NEW YORK (AP) — The director of the United Nations Division of Trusteeship, Dr. Ralph Bunche, is a Negro.

He is strongly in favor of desegregation.

But, he told the 92d annual convention of the National Education Assn. last ngiht, he thinks it can sometimes be carried too far.

He said he had accepted an invitation at the University of Arkansas after receiving assurances that the Fayetteville audience would not be segregated. Afterwares, he said, the man in charge saw him to his train and sheepishly confessed:

"You know, when you wrote and asked about segregation we were in a spot. We had no intention of segregating the meeting, but the fact is that there are only about 15 Negroes in this whole county, and they are mostly sharecroppers who wouldn't turn out to hear Booker T. Washington himself.

* * *

"So, just to make sure you wouldn't think we were cheating you, we sent runners all the way to Little Rock and Pine Bluff to drum up enough Negroes to make a showing."

"I think that's carrying desegregation too far," Bunche told his audience, "and I think some of those Negroes who traveled 250 miles to hear me speak thought so too."

Sparkman Hits GOP Tactics

Raps 'Traitor' Charges; Ferguson Hurls Reply of 'Cry-Babies'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) accused Republicans today of trying to brand the Democrats as "traitors" and Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) retorted that the Democrats are becoming "cry-babies."

Sparkman, the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, commented that "there just isn't any bipartisan foreign policy because the Republicans still want the country to think the Democrats are traitors."

Ferguson, who heads the Senate GOP Policy Committee, said in a separate interview the Republicans have as much right to criticize what he called mistakes of past Democratic administration as the opposition has to differ on present foreign policies.

"The Democratic party is acting like a crybaby on these matters," the Michigan senator said. "Some of the Democrats are saying that if we criticize their past mistakes, they are going to pick up their marbles and go home and not cooperate on foreign policy."

* * *

Vice President Nixon recently contended that former Secretary of State Acheson's policies were responsible for the loss of China and helped bring on the Korean War and the troubles in Indochina.

Asked about the speech at his news conference, Eisenhower said Nixon was entitled to his own opinions. At the same time, Eisenhower said he believes we must seek agreements among ourselves with respect to foreign policy that are not confined to any party.

Woman Enters Home, Calls Long-Distance

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—A money order and an apology from a serviceman's wife have solved the mystery of a long-distance call to Oklahoma City for which a Lubbock couple had been billed.

This week, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Read received the money order and a note. The woman writer said she had entered the unlocked Read home while the couple was away and called her husband.

"I know it wasn't the Christian thing to do," she explained, "but my baby was sick and I had to let my husband know."

CUCKOO BIRD IMPALED ON ANTENNA—A rare visitor to Chicago, a black-billed cuckoo bird, met with an unusual accident while in the city this week. The low-flying bird apparently failed to see an antenna atop the roof of the home of Joe DImaggio (not the former ball player) and was impaled by it.

A carillon of 72 bells weighing half a million pounds in Riverside Church, New York City, is rated as the world's largest.

Asks Examination in Fatal Accident

William F. Vorce, 37, of 480 S. Paddock St., charged with negligent homicide in the traffic death of his father, demanded examination Tuesday when he appeared before Pontiac Judge Cecil McCallum.

Vorce, involved in a two-car accident June 19, was ordered held in Oakland County Jail when he failed to furnish a $500 bond. The hearing was set for Wednesday.

Sitting next to his son during the accident at Telegraph Rd. and Orchard Lake Ave., Ora F. Vorce, 63, of 1220½ Baldwin Ave., died two days later in Pontiac General Hospital.

Witnesses in the second car told authorities that Vorce made an improper left turn in front of their auto. Vorce refused to make a statement to the Oakland County prosecutor's office.

Woman Holds Exchange Job

Is First One Ever to Be Named Secretary at New Orleans House

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — The world of finance in New Orleans still is a man's world, but a woman gets in the first—and last word—at the Stock Exchange.

Mrs. Virginia LaScala is the first woman ever named secretary of the New Orleans Stock Exchange and possibly the only woman holding such a position in the United States. But she owns no stock—yet.

Promptly at 9:14 a.m. Mrs. LaScala walks into the center of the Stock Exchange ring. Exactly at 9:15 a.m. she grasps the gavel in a well-manicured hand and calls the exchange to order.

Actually, the pert 29-year-old brunette's day begins much earlier. She gets up at 6:30 a.m. in time to prepare breakfast for husband, Joseph, a packing company salesman, and their three children.

Once she has banged the gavel, she calls the names of each stock listed on the New Orleans board. The brokers who surround the ring give their bids.

The secretary first records these. After she has completed the call of stocks, she corrects bids from the previous day. The changing of bids on the board throughout the day as they are reported is a major task.

A relative newcomer to the New Orleans financial district, Mrs. LaScala had worked for a year as a teletype operator for a brokerage house at the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

When the stock exchange secretary—an elderly man who was ill—was out for several weeks, Mrs. LaScala was hired temporarily.

A short time later the secretary was pensioned and Mrs. LaScala became the first woman to hold the job.

Police in New York Unable to Find Youth

New York City Police today informed Oakland County Sheriff's Department that they have been unable to locate a missing Harper Woods youth, last believed to be enroute to the East Coast.

Ernest Lacasse, 16, earlier believed drowned in Stoney Lake June 13, was identified by a motorist recently as hitchhiking with another youth on Northwestern Highway.

The driver, Ernest Anderson, 39, of Southfield Township, quoted the youths as saying they were headed east to get a boat to South America. Anderson said he was positive one of the youths was Lacasse after seing his picture in the Pontiac Press.

Detectives David Brann and Mahlon France said they notified New York Police after learning Lacesse may be visiting a former girl friend in the Bronx.

Legislative Immunity?

ALTON, N. H. (UP)—State Rep. Llewellyn F. Fernald of Rochester was fined $25 in municipal court on a charge of taking more than one wood duck during a day of hunting. Fernald was chairman of the legislature's fish and game committee in 1949.

Car Lubrication Absolute "Must" Before Any Trip

Just take a few, simple pre-trip precautions, and you'll find your summer vacation driving can be a "breeze."

I believe it's just as important for motorists to have their cars tuned up before taking a trip as it is for orchestras to "tune up" before a concert.

Therefore, before you start your summer driving, take the car to your service station for a thorough service job. Proper lubrication is essential if you want to have your car in tip-top shape.

By lubrication, I don't mean just a "grease job" and a change of oil. Be sure the station you pick has up-to-date information on the changing lubrication needs of new and older car models, as well as service charts.

Your battery is the heart of your car, so have it thoroughly tested before a trip. Have the entire ignition and fuel systems gone over. Have your steering mechanism checked for "play," or "shimmy."

If you have to press down more than two inches on your brake pedal before the brakes take effect, they probably need servicing.

Have your tires checked for wear and proper pressure. Make sure your headlights, stop-lights, tail-lights and windshield wipers are in good working order. Remember to check the spare tire and car tools before leaving.

O'Neills' Search for Old Pottery Uncovers Skulls

Nena O'Neill is half of the husband - and - wife archeology team which last year in Mexico discovered two fossil skeletons — among the few remains of ancient man so far found in the Western Hemisphere.

The O'Neills were working on a project sponsored by Columbia University, collecting samples of the pottery of ancient Mexican civilizations at Santa Maria Aztahuacan, just outside Mexico City. They began finding primitive stone implements — the clue which finally led to the discovery of the well-preserved fossil skeletons.

"During the work we never lacked an audience — Indian women carrying bundles on their heads, farmers on burros, wide-eyed children, and all the pigs and chickens of the village. Impatient as we were to see the remains, the work of uncovering the skulls had to be done slowly and meticulously, at times with dental tools."

Nena O'Neill majored in anthropology at Barnard College and graduated in 1946. She takes her two sons, aged seven and four, on field trips and reports both are "amateur archeologists and seasoned travelers."

Gay Linens to Grace Tables

Cloths Require Little Care

SAN FRANCISCO (INS) — Linens to grace the nation's dining room tables this spring appeared to have been inspired by the old adage: "There's many a slip twixt the cup and the lip."

Exhibitors at the Western Linen and Domestics Association spring show in San Francisco made a point of stressing that their table cloths and place mats either: (1.) washed easily, (2.) required no washing, (3.) wiped off with a damp cloth, or (4.) stood up beautifully under repeated washings.

Plastic cloths are not new but their disguise this year is better than ever. One crinkle plastic tablecloth looks hand woven and was printed in gay flowers or in a striped pattern.

There is no odor to the plastic and the colors are bright — black, gray and gold, with red flowers and black leaves, for instance. This retails boxed with four napkins at $3 for the 54 x 54 size. The napkins are cotton in matching colors.

Also shown were pure linen sets with golden accents that are boilproof. Lurex thread makes the metalic accent and was widely used in the tablewares displayed at the show. A wheat design was particularly attractive.

Hand loomed table mats were shown in two styles — oval and rectangular — in 13 decorator colors at surprisingly low prices.

There was a really new dish towel, made of terry cloth and guaranteed to cut dish drying time in half. The terry cloth is chemically treated.

A reverse on the usual plan of mats and napkins were Wilendur mats of plain colors, with napkins in exceptionally realistic flower prints. The flower patterns are also sold as yardage to allow you to mix and match.

Fiber mats come in an amazing array of styles. Mats made from pineapple straw from the Philippines are either rectangular or oval and have a charming vine pattern of a contrasting color.

Some of the pineapple fiber mats had coasters to match, in seven different colors.

Don't Iron Fabrics

Washing your toddler's garments is easy if you dress your child in sturdy no-iron fabrics like plisse, seersucker or terry cloth. All you have to do is wash them in plenty of hot soapsuds, rinse in hot water, and dry them.

Coming Events

Metal Air Vents Used in Door Mat

For a tidier front porch, try a rust - proof metal "air - vent" mat. It scrapes mud off shoes, then lets it drop through to the floor. When clean-up time comes, it can be lifted off to wash the floor beneath. The mat itself comes clean when warm, soapy water is poured over it.

Fruit Whip Ice Cream Is Delicious

Mrs. Lamont Uses Ripe Strawberries in Frothy Dessert

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Let's use some of the in-season strawberries to make a strawberry ice cream that looks like a pink cloud. Mrs. Adam Lamont offers her recipe for Fruit Whip Ice Cream.

Mrs. Lamont says she is a "working lady." During her leisure hours she likes to play golf and to garden. She has a Girl Scout daughter with whom she shares many interests.

FRUIT WHIP ICE CREAM
By Mrs. Adam Lamont

1 package strawberry gelatin
2 cups hot water
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 cup strawberries

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Chill until partly set. Beat in ice cream with an electric or rotary beater. Fold in the strawberries. Serve at once or chill first. Garnish with whole berries. Makes 8-10 servings.

Dust Linoleum Often

The linoleum on your kitchen floor will wear better if you don't wash it too often. It's best to wax it after a washing, then use dry mop daily to take up dust.

For city or country, summertime is the time for blouses. Left is a cool gray checked cotton with white embroidered ruffle for dainty city wear. (Center) Black adds a dramatic touch to pima cotton in a man-tailored shirt for cooler summer days, and (right) is a versatile favorite in birdseye pique with a cardigan neckline.

Gay Cotton Blouses Are So Easy to Wash and Iron, 'Slip In and Out Of'

Lazy summer days are mostly lazy in the work department and no one likes to include too much work in the fun schedule of sailing, swimming, picnics and everything that brings us under the lovely summer sun.

One of the greatest energy savers in the clothes department is to have a carefully selected blouse wardrobe . . . . blouses being the easiest things to literally "slip in and out of."

Delicate baby pastels and lush torrid vibrant shades in sleeveless and scooped out neckline styles are a pretty compliment to a delicious sun tan.

Ultra-glamorous jet black in smooth pima cotton is a dramatic match for a gaily colored dancing skirt on country club weekends, or for lovers of the sea there's the jaunty sailor collar blouse in bright sailing blue trimmed with stitching.

Fabrics . . . . cool, fresh, seersuckers and tissue chambrays are a delight to everyone, and have the same appeal style-wise to country dwellers as those planning a summer in the city.

Collars are convertible peter pans or pointed ones, plus the completely new kerchief collar which is on many of the styles.

And there's the ever-important fact that all should be completely washable fast colors that won't fade from countless washings or being under the strong summer sun.

Foundation Is Heavier Than Powder Base

So many powder bases and foundations are now on the market it's not surprising that many women are expressing confusion about their purposes.

They wonder whether there's a difference between bases and foundations. And whether the various creams, lotions and cakes are prepared merely to satisfy feminine caprice or to benefit different skin types.

The terms, powder base and foundation, are not synonymous. A base is supposed to help the powder to adhere longer and at the same time to protect the skin from the elements.

A foundation, on the other hand, gives a heavier coating that adds color and hides imperfections. It's available in liquid and cake form. The former is made with an oily base that allows it to smooth lightly over the skin to achieve a natural look as it hides small imperfections.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Tulip Grows, Blossoms; Is Symbol of Death, Life

"How can I explain the death of his little sister to my five-year-old boy?" asks an Illinois reader.

I'm not an expert in psychology but I think one of the best answers to a child asking about death was given to her son by a woman who had lost a great friend.

Miss McBride

At dinner the night of the funeral, Margaret's five - year - old asked, "Where's Aunt Alice? I don't believe she's in the sky because I don't think she'd like riding around on a cloud. And besides, John said they put her in the ground."

"I didn't quite know what to say," Margaret told me, "so I explained to Jimmy that this was a hard question and asked him to give me until morning to answer. Next day I showed him a tulip bulb and asked him what it was. 'A dead old plant,' he replied.

"Yes, I agreed, it does look dead, doesn't it? But we're going to put it down in this pot and you shall keep it awhile and then we'll see. The child watched his dead plant eagerly as it finally came to life, grew and bloomed.

"I didn't have to say a word. He understood. 'I'll bet Aunt Alice is beautiful in heaven!' he commented happily."

As Margaret talked, I was remembering the summer morning when a knowledge of death first came to me. I was also five, and for years afterwards believed, because some grown up told me so that my little brother Buford drowned because he was too good and pure for this earth.

Buford, still wearing his little nightgown, had gone down to the creek with Tommy to meet Papa. Addie, the woman who did our washing, had come that morning to help Mama make soap in the big iron kettles in the yard.

Mama thought Buford was with Addie. Addie thought he was with Mama, and before either missed him, Tommy, aged four, came running up the hill alone, screaming.

The night before it had rained. The creek had risen as a result and when the little boys waded in, Buford slipped on a rock. Tommy tried to catch him and fell into the water himself. By the time he scrambled out, Buford had floated down the stream with the current.

They rang and rang our old iron bell that day. I can hear the frantic, heavy sound to this day—ding-dong, ding-dong, as if it would never stop. Papa rushed from the field.

Uncle Milt came and the hired man and the neighbors. Mr. Vaughn Smock from a nearby farm found little Buford, but he was dead and when they put him in the ground, I sobbed with terror. I wish some wise person had told me about the tulip bulb.

Pair Refuse to Let Life Beat Them

Plans Were Foiled, So Smart Couple Shift Their Aims

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Some people use an early disappointment as a reason for complaining bitterly the rest of their lives.

Other people use the same disappointment as a springboard to great success and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. James Caesar, of New York Sity, fall into the second category.

When Mrs. Caesar was young, she wanted to be a doctor. She loved people, and she wanted to help them.

When Mr. Caesar was a young man, he was apprentice to a sculptor, planning to be one the rest of his life.

But, Mr. Caesar's father died, and he had to get to work, quick, to help support the family. He moved into the hairdressing field, working in a lowly job and studying at night. After all, he figured, it wasn't too different.

All he had learned about line, all of his artistic interest and ability, could be turned to designing hair styles. And he would make money, as you cannot in the fine arts field.

Mrs. Caesar, too, found in her teens that medical training was going to be impossible. So, because she loved people and wanted, in some way or another, to help them, she, too, turned to the beauty field.

Eventually, she got a job in the same shop where Mr. Caesar was, and presently they married.

That was 20 years ago.

Today, the Caesars have a tremendously successful shop of their own, a lovely house in the suburbs, and two teenage children.

Every morning they drive to town together, work all day in the shop, and then drive home together. Mr. Caesar does nothing but the artistic end—designing and executing the hair styles.

Mrs. Caesar handles the personnel, the office management, and the direct contact with the many customers.

In short, he is using essentially the same interests and skills that sculpture demands; and she is using the same kind of abilities which medicine demands.

Cheer Up, Men! Garments Now Lighter Weight

Biggest news in men's sportswear for summer will be a trend toward lighter weight garments.

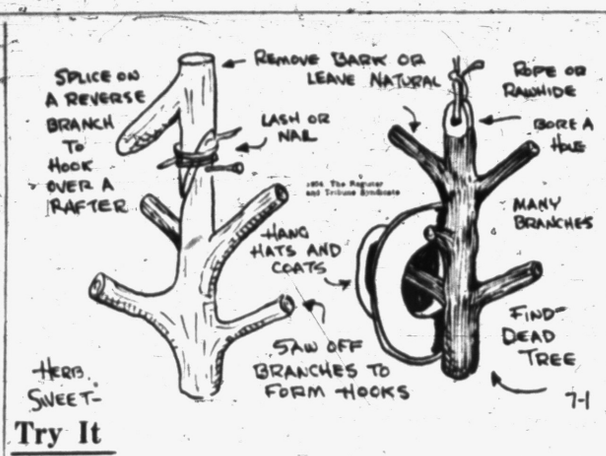

Resort centers, traditionally the pace setters for men's leisure wear, reported greater demand than ever for casual clothes which are top fashion but easy to get around in.

Try It

Rustic Hat Hanger Handy

Many times you need something out on a porch, at the lake cabin, or in a camp to hang wraps on.

That is the interesting part of summer, one day it will be very hot, then in a few days it often turns cool, so wraps must be kept handy.

This rustic coat and hat hanger may come in very handy for you and your family.

You will need a small dead tree for your hanger, or perhaps dad has done some trimming on the trees in your yard and you can use one of the branches which he has removed.

Do not just take a limb of a good tree. You can peel your hanger or leave the bark on. Suit yourself.

It can be hung in two ways. You can tie a piece of rope around the limb very tightly and hang it in a corner, or bore a hole through the limb, near the top, then run a piece of rope or rawhide through the hole for a hanger. Save these rustic tricks in a camping notebook.

These hanging coat racks will be liked by anyone who has the job of cleaning, for they will be off the floor, yet handy to use, always ready in the corner.

Tomorrow: A paper plate picnic tri-plate.

IF you need slimming—

The redingote cut, navy over panel of white pique slims bust and hips. Young, but flattering to larger figures in modest decolletage.

Mrs. N. S.—Modesty cut necklines have taken over for fall. For daytime, the "modesty" for low cut frocks is part of the dress, while high backs are practically the rule. Long sleeves add to the more decorous look.

Tight Seams Pucker

Too-tight seams will pucker when wet. So, to avoid excessive tension, make 11 to 14 stitches per inch.

'Her' Family Frightens Boy Friend

But Girl Can Work It So Chap Finds It Easy to Meet 'em

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

Many a boy considers his girl's family a necessary part of her picture—but not of his. He'd rather just stop by for her, grab her by the hand, and head for neutral territory than stick around to gab with her folks.

To such boys her parents are scary people. What under the sun is a guy to say to them? They look him over, think all sorts of things, size him up and make him feel self-conscious. A guy gets nervous—even under a friendly third degree.

Besides, his business is with the girl. They talk their own language, make sense to each other, find their fun in doing the same things. Her relatives are beside the point. He doesn't inflict his on her.

That's the way some boys think. Apparently this girl's boy friend is of that school of thought. She writes:

"Dear Miss Woodward: I ask him at least once a week to come to the house to see me, but he never comes because he's afraid of my parents.

"We have weekly dates and usually during the week we go for a ride or do something else. I know he'd like my folks if he'd get to know them, but he isn't willing to try.

"My parents want to know him, as I have told him repeatedly. Would it be wise to insist?"

Spending the evening at your house is something your boy friend just doesn't want to do. He's scared your family won't like him as much as you do. He can't face the prospect of being on exhibit for hours on end. You've given him every reason to dig up courage to try it—but he balks.

If you force him to come—and that would be pretty hard to do—you might force him right out of the picture.

But you can gradually overcome his fears if you play your hand carefully. Tip off your parents as to how he feels and ask them to be particularly nice to him.

Then next time he stops by to pick you up, forget something important as you're about to leave. Plunk him down with your parents while you buzz off to your room to read two more chapters in your book.

He may get along with them fine, since he knows his time is short. Another time when you come home from a date, take him out to the kitchen to join your parents in a snack.

The atmosphere will be gay and cozy—and again time will be short, so he may relax with them. Another time invite him to go somewhere very special with you and your family, and take another couple along to make is easier.

It won't be painful to get acquainted while you're all doing something entertaining together.

Let your parents grow on him gradually—and sooner or later he'll stop being scared of them.

Good Grooming and Exercise Beautify Legs

A girl can't avoid putting her legs in the spotlight at this time of year. Shorter skirts, sheerer hose, brief shorts—all these call attention to them.

If you feel your legs can't afford such attention, don't despair. Remember, legs depend on good grooming as well as shape for their attractiveness. And anyone can excel in that aspect.

You can do a great deal right now toward turning a trim leg to summer.

And, as far as improving their shape, you can do even that within a couple of months. These exercises, done faithfully every day, will streamline thighs and calves.

1. Lie on the floor with arms outstretched, bend one knee and pull the leg up close to your chest. Then straighten it out and bring it over to touch toes to opposite hand. Do this several times with each leg.

2. Grip the back of a chair and sink slowly to the floor while balancing on the balls on your feet. Do this about six times at first, work up gradually to 20.

If you give them a little extra attention during your daily bath, you won't be bothered with scaly patches showing through, and snagging your sheer hose.

Use a well-lathered brush and some elbow grease in cleansing your legs and feet. And go over callouses and rough spots on soles and heels with a sudsy nail brush or pumice stone.

It's important to keep your legs entirely free of hair when you wear sheer stockings. Remove the stubble as soon as it becomes noticeable, generally every four or five days.

The best time for this is during the daily bath. The suds will soften the stubble and make the razor slide more easily, lessening the likelihood of cuts.

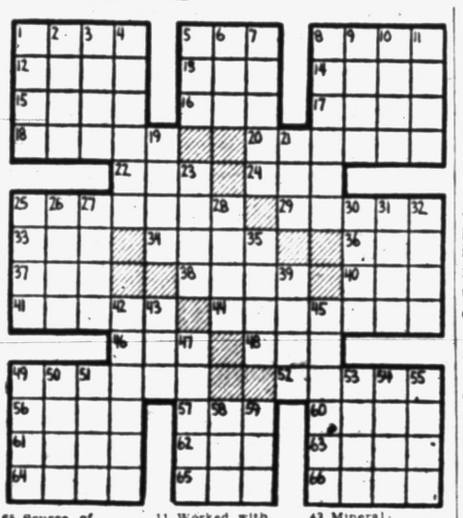

Cool off in the hot summer months with a cloud of heavenly scented poudre de toilette. Imported from France, it keeps you feeling fresh, sweet and luxuriously fragrant all day long.

Use Bag for Wash

A mesh bag can be almost as important on washdays as plenty of good hot water. Fragile items, easily in the washing machine, be placed in one of these bags or a pillow case for save washing. Then you'll be able to get cleaner clothes and brighter colors, using hotter water.

Only one in 15 British householders own washing machines.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Recreation Room Needs Sofa Bed

In furnishing a basement recreation room, you'll find that a dual-purpose sofa or day bed is a good investment. It provides both seating and lounging space and can be used to accommodate occasional overnight guests.

Informal dual-purpose sofas are available in sturdy plaid or checked cover fabrics in color combinations of black and white; black, white and red; brown, beige and green; and black and yellow.

They can withstand considerable romping without showing signs of soil or wear as readily as solid colors.

In the very informal recreation room. A day bed is more at home. Slipcovered in an easily washable material with bolsters to lean on, it is ideal both for the youngsters to sprawl upon in play and for adults to sit upon comfortably.

Day beds are now available with many different styles of wrought iron bases, which not only help carry out the informal theme of the room, but resist scuffing.

To provide lasting comfort and satisfaction, however, the dual purpose item chosen must be of quality construction so that it can stand up under the rigors of recreation room use.

One of the primary requisites of a good recreation room is that it look like a room and not what happened to be left of the basement. To achieve this effect necessitates walling off the utilities.

Construction of the recreation room, proper, is not as difficult a task as it might seem. Whether or not Father is handy with a hammer, in any good library he can find books and magazines that simply and graphically explain how to do it at a great saving in money.

As a Guest, One Has Limitations

Do Not Rummage in Icebox Even if Told to Be at Home

By EMILY POST

A wife writes: "Recently, friends of my family invited my husband and me to be weekend guests at their lovely country house. Upon our arrival we were told to make ourselves at home and my husband proceeded to do just that.

"Whenever he felt hungry, he went to the refrigerator and helped himself to a glass of milk, or made himself a sandwich of whatever happened to be around. When alone, I remonstrated him for this and said it was no way to act in someone else's house.

"He said he was only making himself at home as he had been told to do. Should such a statement be taken literally, and does a guest have the privilege of rummaging through the icebox?"

Very definitely not! A guest is not free to forage in the icebox or take any other similar liberties.

Making yourself at home means that you are not to feel strange or awkward. Nevertheless you must adapt yourself to the ways of the family with whom you are staying.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: The other night my husband and I were going out to a movie and as it looked very much like rain I took an umbrella along. This brought up the question as to who should carry it.

I thought my husband should, but he refused, saying it was not his place to carry the umbrella, and that if I didn't believe him I should ask Emily Post, so I am doing just that.

Answer: It depends on the umbrella. If it is a big, plain umbrella then he should carry it, but if it is your own definitely feminine umbrella then you should carry it.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: When dining out, and a bit of food falls off the plate onto the dining table, should it be left there, or picked up and put back on the plate?

Answer: It should be picked up with whatever implement you are using and put back on the plate.

Memento of Historic Loss, Fort Necessity Restored

WASHINGTON — Fort Necessity, one of history's fateful spots where George Washington learned the bitter meaning of defeat, again appears as it did 200 years ago.

The French burned the stockade after their victory in 1754. The flames ignited the French and Indian War and its European counterpart, the Seven Years War. Only in 1932 was a replica built on the site, ten miles southeast of Uniontown, Pa., along supposedly original designs.

Last year it was torn down as historically inaccurate. Now a new Fort Necessity rises, based on recently uncovered records and archeological exploration.

On July 3 and 4, a celebration there will recall the brief struggle at the fort named by Washington for the unavoidable demands of 18th Century warfare. Great Britain, France and Canada will be represented.

On May 28, 1754, the obscure young frontiersman and his small band scattered a handful of French and Indians in the Appalachian wilderness. As Washington subsequently wrote, there was "something charming in the sound" of bullets.

Not so charming, however, were developments five weeks later. To the east 700 French and Indians assailed Fort Necessity, and a world war had started. Britain had launched her great bid for global empire which brought her Canada and India. Soon the inexorable tide of events would lead to the founding of German military might under Frederick the Great.

And the young Virginia colonel in a matter of hours was to be, as he said, "soundly beaten." Lucky to get away alive, he later was to win renown for better known but no more portentous deeds. For this initial clash in the remote forest 200 years ago, rather than the opening of the Revolutionary War, provided "the shot heard round the world."

Twenty-two years ago Fort Necessity was restored as a rectangular stockade surrounding a third of an acre and a log hut. But recently Columbia (S.C.) archives yielded a deposition made after the battle by a soldier, describing the fort as a circular inclosure protected by entrenchments. Inside, the soldier had stated, bark and skins roofed a log hut, 14 feet square.

Government archeologists wanted further proof. Excavations on the site brought to light pieces of charred logs 3 feet below ground. Additional digging disclosed the outline of a circular stockade 52 feet in diameter, a third the size of the four-sided stronghold. Musket balls, clay pipe stems, gun flints and a scabbard tip were unearthed.

Beyond doubt they were the leftovers of 1754, the year Washington, 22 years old, found himself senior field officer of Virginia's military forces. That year he also found himself a special object of revenge. For after the first skirmish in May, the French sent a formidable punishing force to seek him out.

Military Men Alter Personnel Policies

In a campaign to make military service more attractive to young men, the Army announced today the adoption of a number of personnel policies.

To promote job stability, enlisted men returning from overseas assignments are assured of at least 18 months service in the United States before they are again ordered overseas. Enlisted men with 20 years service are not to be sent overseas involuntarily.

A change has been decided upon pending Congressional approval that will replace the current olive drab uniform with a green one.

Voters More Emphatic Second Time Around

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — Grand Haven Township voters were more emphatic a second time in rejecting a proposed $48,000 bond issue and tax increase for a new town hall and fire station.

Two months ago the issue lost by 11 votes. It was rejected again Monday by 31 votes.

The culture of Laos and Cambodia in Indochina are related to those of Thailand, Burma and ancient India while that of the Viet Nam area is related to China.

Baby Drowns in Pail

DETROIT (AP) — Steve A. Mlejnek, seven-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Mlejnek, of suburban Warren Township, drowned Tuesday when he fell into a half-filled pail of water in the living room of his home. The infant's mother told police she had stepped out of the house to hang up clothes.

May Shows Pick-Up in Used Auto Sales

Used car sales continued to pick up momentum over 1953 during the month of May, according to Ward's Automotive Reports.

A national average increase of 2.3 per cent was noted during May to mark the third consecutive month this year that sales have increased over last year. Largest regional sales centers were in the south where a gain of almost 6 per cent was noted.

YEAR-'ROUND GADGET—This gadget, driven by inventor Ollie Duitsman, can be used for mowing lawns or weedy fields, and plowing snow or for cultivating gardens. Duitsman built the vehicle in four months. The aluminum body resembles the fuselage of an airplane. Poker for the vehicle is a six-horsepower gasoline engine mounted behind the cockpit. His granddaughter occupies one of the passenger seats during a test in Royal, Ill.

Hal Boyle Learns:

Way of Carrying a Wallet Show's Man's Personality

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you know that the way you carry your wallet reflects your personality almost as much as the way you wear your face?

Howard N. Cooper, a psychiatrist, has analyzed the pocketbook-packing habits of American men and says they are "probably as good a test for individual psychological factors as the projective Rorschach."

(Editor's note: What is a projective Rorschach — a protruding racehorse?)

(Boyle's note: No, it's an ink blot a psychiatrist makes. When he asks you what does the shape of the blot remind you of, and you say it reminds you of a girl, he makes a note in his book, "patient has girls on his mind.")

(Editor's note: But what if the ink blot isn't shaped like a girl?)

"Boyle's note: How can you make an ink blot that doesn't look like some girl?)

Cooper (to get back to the subject) found that many men today periodically shift their wallet from the back pocket of their trousers to their inside coat pocket.

"That is a sign they feel insecure about people as well as worried about the safety of their cash," he said

"On the other hand, a man who carries his money in a metal clip separate from his wallet is less concerned over material wealth. But he is the type who hates to have the routine of his life upset. He is less afraid of losing his cash than he is of losing his driver's license."

Dr. Cooper said the man who carries no wallet at all is either completely free and easy or so insecure that "he fights it by over compensating—by pretending he is careless about money.

"A fourth type, the fellow who shifts his wallet from pocket to pocket haphazardly, is probably in an emotional flux about what money—and other things—in his life—really mean to him. He's unsettled."

The psychiatrist said that the guy who keeps a cluttered wallet, full of cards he never throws away, is related in type of the stamp collector.

"He may be stingy, rigid of mind and stubborn. He is likely to be generous only in spurts. But a man with too neat a wallet may have even more of a withholding personality than one with a messy wallet."

We all have met people who always have the exact change in their pocketbook for any situation—whether it's buying a newspaper, getting weighed, or tipping a waiter.

"They don't like to take the world as it comes," said Dr. Cooper. "They want to be prepared—and they don't like to be surprised. They prefer a planned life."

It isn't as easy to tell a woman's personality by the way she carries her cash.

Can a girl choose a husband by the way he carries his wallet?

"Well, the best husband," said Dr. Cooper, "is the one who carries a wallet full of money at all times—and opens the wallet at her slightest whim."

How about the thoughtless guy who marries and still keeps the picture of a former girl friend in his wallet?

Army, Air Force Drives Separated

In compliance with a recent order from the office of the Secretary of Defense, the recruiting system for the Army and Air Force in Pontiac was changed this morning.

Formerly both Army and Air Force recruiters worked in a combined effort, but now each will recruit separately.

The offices for both services will remain at 53½ W. Huron Street. T. Sgt. P. R. Moore and his staff including Staff Sgts. Douglas Haines and Louis Silverman will represent the Air Force. M. Sgt. Paul J. Smith, Pfc. Arthur E. Bowen, and Sgt. Thomas L. Murphy will continue to recruit for the Army.

Woman's Buying Spree No Cause for Warrant

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — A woman asked the sheriff's office here to issue a warrant charging her husband with nonsupport.

"When did he stop supporting you?" the desk sergeant asked.

"He hasn't yet," was the reply, "but I have just bought some new furniture and I don't think he is going to help pay for it."

Rebels Loot Home of Leftist Leader

GUATEMALA (AP) — Police say the plush residence of leftist ex-President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman has been ransacked of everything but some stale rolls and empty bottles in the kitchen — and a big pile of Communist literature stacked in the front loby.

Festive Dessert Sparks Holiday

Luscious Parfait Is Sure-Fire

Frothy Cream, Gelatin Crushed Candy Topping in July 4 Treat

A spark to set off a truly colorful ending for your July Fourth dinner might well be this Chocolate Sponge Parfait. Here, a frothy blend of chocolate flavored gelatin alternates with layers of delicately tinted whipped cream flavored with peppermint extract.

Pieces of peppermint stick candy top each serving. The special layered effect is achieved by tilting the glass slightly as you spoon in the ingredients.

Chocolate Sponge Parfait

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatin
⅔ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
3 egg whites, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup coconut, cut
½ to ½ cup chilled whipping cream
Red coloring
Peppermint extract

Mix gelatin, 1-3 cup of the sugar, salt, and milk in top of double boiler. Add chocolate. Cook over hot water until chocolate is melted and gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Blend well with egg beater.

Pour slowly over egg yolks, stirring constantly. Return mixture to double boiler and cook 3 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Cool, then chill until slightly thickened.

Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add remaining 1-3 cup sugar gradually and continue beating until mixture will stand in stiff peaks. Fold in chocolate mixture gradually, blending well. Add vanilla and coconut.

Place cream in small bowl. Add few drops red coloring to tint a delicate pink. Beat with egg beater until fluffy and thick. Then fold in few drops peppermint extract.

Place alternate layers of chocolate mixture and peppermint whipped cream in parfait glasses. Chill. Just before serving, top with additional whipped cream and crushed red peppermint candies. Makes 9 servings.

Interesting Recipes Found in Girl Scout Cook Book

Girl Scout Troop 30 of the Hickory Grove School has just completed an ambitious project, that of putting out a cookbook. The Scouts collected the recipes from relatives and friends—and relatives of the friends.

Bound in a hard board cover painted pale green with a Girl Scout decal on the front, the book contains a number of unusual recipes.

We have permission to share several of these good recipes with you. The first one is for a colorful gelatin salad.

Ribbon Salad

1 package cherry gelatin
1 package lime gelatin
1 cup tart applesauce
1 cup cottage cheese
3½ cups hot water

Dissolve cherry gelatin in 2 cups hot water. Pour half of it into a flat mold and chill until set. Dissolve the lime gelatin in 1½ cups hot water. Cool and add applesauce and cottage cheese. Pour over first mixture and chill.

Add the rest of the cherry gelatin and chill again. Cut into strips or squares and serve on lettuce.

Peanut-Oatmeal Drops

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
3 cups rolled oats
½ pound salted Spanish peanuts

Cream shortening; add sugar and vanilla. Add eggs and beat well. Add sifted flour and soda. Stir in oatmeal and nuts.

One Pound of Cold Cuts Yields About 16 Slices

A pound of bologna yields 16 to 18 slices; a pound of liver sausage makes about 16 slices ¼-inch thick.

Handy figures to remember when you are planning a platter of cold cuts and salad for a summer buffet party.

Use Imagination in Making Soup

The housewife's stand-by, soup, is thrifty, easy to make, and with a dash of imagination, can even be elegant.

A thoroughly good soup, says culinary wizard Harry Botsford, possesses versatile qualities. It can be the entree for a simple supper or the prelude to a formal dinner. It can be thick or thin; it can be served piping hot or frosty cold.

Soup probably has greater universal appeal than any other daily food. Its preparation calls for a little imagination, some critical tasting and seasoning, and ingenuity in the use of available ingredients.

It can be carefully planned, or it can develop, almost by accident, from ingredients at hand.

Black Bean Soup

2 cups dried black beans
1 diced medium onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 clove
4 peppercorns
¼ teaspoon celery salt
Bouquet of parsley and thyme
2½ quarts meat stock
1 tablespoon flour
Salt and pepper
¼ cup dry sherry
Sliced lemon

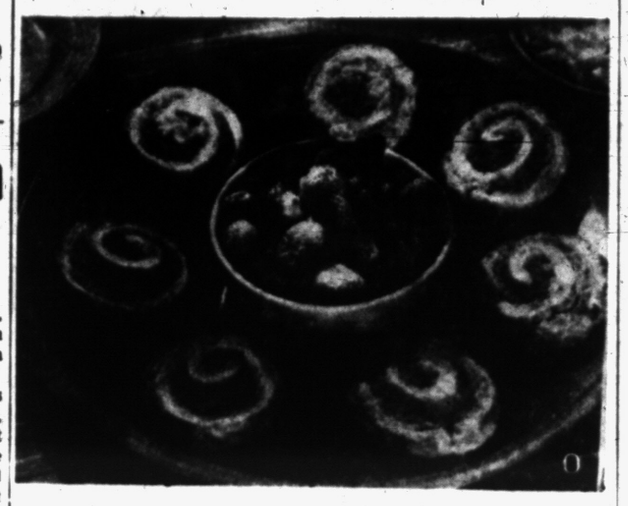

Soak the beans overnight. Brown the onion in 1 tablespoon of butter, add clove, peppercorns, celery salt, and beans. Cover with cold water, add the bouquet, and boil gently for 2½ to 3½ hours or until the beans are tender.

Remove the bouquet, press the beans and liquid through a coarse sieve. Add the meat stock to the sieved bean mixture and simmer.

Stir in slowly a brown roux made with the flour and remaining butter browned in a small pan. Cook for 5 minutes, season with salt and pepper, add sherry.

New Version of Shortcake Adds Orange Rind Flavor

Fresh red ripe strawberries are on the market. And it's few people who can resist the favorite dessert, strawberry shortcake.

The sweet, juicy berries are undeniably the featured attraction of this dessert. But your family and guests will agree that the Orange Scone Berry Cakes are . . . simply delicious.

A simple shortcake variation, this sweetened scone dough is brushed with butter or margarine and sprinkled with sugar and shredded orange rind, then rolled up like a jelly roll. The one-inch slices are baked to a golden brown.

The subtle orange flavor of the scone berry cakes complements the fresh strawberry flavor—makes wonderful shortcakes. Top with a generous blob of whipped cream—good eating. It's a simple dessert and yet truly elegant.

When baking, as with all other cooking, remember to use enriched flour. When you buy flour with the enriched label it means thiamine, niacin, and riboflavin plus food iron have been added at no extra cost to you.

Orange Scone Berry Cakes

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup shortening
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
⅓ cup sugar
1 tablespoon shredded orange rind
1 quart sweetened strawberries
Whipped cream

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Combine egg and milk and add to flour mixture, mixing until flour is moistened. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently 30 seconds.

Roll out to rectangle 8 inches wide and ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle with sugar and orange rind.

Roll up like jelly roll, sealing edge. Cut into 1-inch slices. Bake cut side down on ungreased baking sheet at 425 degrees about 15 minutes. Serve with strawberries and whipped cream. Makes about 8 servings.

Tip from home economists at Michigan State College: Milk will not scorch so easily if you wipe the bottom of the pan with a bit of butter before scalding.

Bake Spinach, Tuna in Florentine Style

Tuna Florentine

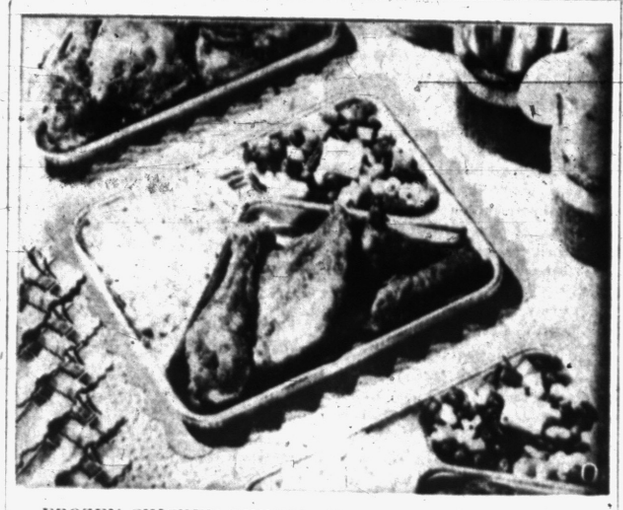

1 12-ounce package frozen spinach
½ cup boiling water
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
¾ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon finely grated onion (pulp and juice)
1 7-ounce can tuna
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 slices bread

Put spinach, water and ½ teaspoon salt in saucepan; turn spinach with fork to hasten thawing. Bring to a boil; remove from heat; place in strainer and press water out.

Melt 1 tablespoon butter in small saucepan; blend in flour. Add milk and stir over moderately low heat until thickened and bubbly; allow to bubble 2 minutes. Stir in ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper and onion; mix with drained spinach.

Spread half of spinach in 8-inch pie plate. Drain tuna and flake; spread over spinach; top with remaining spinach.

Cut bread into tiny cubes (do not remove crusts); mix with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Sprinkle buttered bread cubes over spinach. Bake in 350 oven until heated through—about 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Frozen Chicken Dinner Welcome Relief for Mom

It's big news when you can stop off at the grocery store on your way home and pick up a completely cooked frozen fried chicken dinner including vegetables.

A new 12-ounce individual fried chicken dinner is just now coming on the market at approximately 89 cents each. We think you'll agree that it tops the list of convenient food items.

This recent innovation in frozen prepared meals comes in an aluminum heating and serving tray with two compartments for vegetables. The tender young chicken is battered and fried by a test proven recipe.

A golden brown crust seals in the natural juiciness of the meat, so when you heat this meal the chicken has the flavor and aroma of home fried chicken.

In one section of the tray are diced white potatoes cooked in a tangy cheese sauce and topped with more cheese that melts when you heat the dinner. Another compartment contains mixed garden vegetables topped with a butter pat. On heating, the butter melts and seasons the vegetables.

The trays are like those used for dining on the finest airlines. They are tightly covered with aluminum foil and go into a very hot oven sealed in this way.

Just leave them for 25 minutes at 450 degrees F. By the time you set the table and perk the coffee your fried chicken dinner is steaming hot ready to eat.

Rip off the foil and serve in the shiny trays on straw or cloth mats. You save dish washing that way.

You'll like the extra professional touches given to the preparation of this food. The thin crisp batter on the chicken has a natural chicken flavor not usually found even in the best home fried chicken. The liberal amount of cheese perfects the creamed diced potatoes. This whole meal is quick frozen at 45 degrees below zero, sealing in the freshness.

These frozen fried chicken meals, called TV Dinners, are a real convenience when you rush home late. Just keep a few on hand in your freezer or stop by at your grocery store for a few.

Heat one for each member of the family and you will find this is the easiest fried chicken dinner you have ever served.

There is enough wood in the General Sherman tree in California to build 29 six-room houses.

Iced Tea Was Invented by Ingenious Englishman

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

This definitely is iced tea season. With all due respect to the soft drink manufacturers, there is something especially refreshing in a tall glass of iced tea on a very hot day.

Best of all, for calorie conscious people, there are no calories at all in plain iced tea, very few in iced tea with lemon.

America is the only country in the world that insists on iced drinks. We can't even drink a glass of water in a restaurant without complaining if there is no ice tinkling in the glass.

I imagine that foreigners are amazed at our roadside ice stations where, for a quarter or fifty cents, anyone can get whole, cubed or chipped ice automatically.

Strangely enough, it was an Englishman who invented and introduced to the American public the iced tea we have come to consider our own. In 1904 young Richard Blechynden had a tea booth at the St. Louis World's Fair. He was serving the finest teas from the Orient to Fair visitors. But the fairgoers passed up his steaming hot tea for soda pop and other cold sweet drinks.

Indesparation, Mr. B. experimented with his product until he developed a concentrated brew. He filled tall glasses with chunks of ice—poured the tea over the ice—and a new drink was born.

The scorching hot weather helped its popularity, and those who tasted it first spread the word. Before the fair was over iced tea was here to stay.

Add Tomato to Milk

When making cream of tomato soup, be sure that the tomato is added slowly to the milk, not the milk to the tomato. And it helps to use tomatoes that have been thickened, advises Roberta Hershey, MSC extension foods specialist at MSC.

Accurate measurements and brewing time in making iced tea are just as important as measurements and proper baking time for a cake. Cloudiness in iced tea has no effect on the quality or flavor. Sudden change in temperature, such as placing the tea in the refrigerator, is apt to cause clouding.

If you want to clear up cloudy tea, just add enough boiling water to restore it to its original color.

Try this way of making good iced tea. Bring 1 quart of water to a full, rolling boil in an open saucepan. Remove from heat. Immediately add 6 tablespoons of tea. Brew 3-5 minutes.

Stir and strain into a pitcher or container holding 1 quart of cold water. To serve, put 2-3 ice cubes in a glass, fill with tea and add sugar and lemon to taste.

Iced tea is an excellent base for punch. If you are serving a large crowd, make up a recipe of the following.

Hospitality Tea Punch

4 cups boiling water
6 tablespoons tea
4 cups cold water
2 cups lemon juice (strained)
4 cups orange juice (strained)
1½ quarts grape juice
2 cups sugar
2 quarts water
1 quart gingerale

Bring 4 cups water to full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat. Immediately add tea. Brew 3-5 minutes. Stir and strain ingredients except gingerale, into container holding remaining ingredients.

Just before serving pour into punch bowl over a block of ice. Stir in gingerale. Makes about 2 gallons.

Fry Liver in Butter

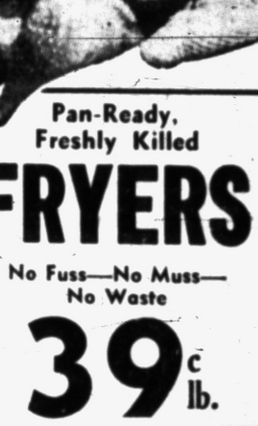

Cook calf's liver in butter in a skillet; sprinkle with chopped parsley and chives and serve with mashed potatoes and fresh green peas for a summer supper.

The smallest viruses are about one 25 millionth of an inch in diameter.

Cheese Consumption Up

The phrase, "there's a cheese for every taste and pocketbook," is substantiated by the fact that Americans consumed about 27 per cent more cheese per person last year than before World War II.

Carrot Loaf Has Different Taste

Do you enjoy fresh vegetables fixed in unusual ways? Then try this Fresh Carrot Loaf as suggested by the National Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. It is the Golden Anniversary of this organization which has been responsible for many delectable recipes.

Fresh Carrot Loaf

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
½ cup white table wine or water
2 cups mashed, cooked fresh carrots
4 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon sugar
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter and stir in flour. Add milk and wine or water. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and smooth.

Add carrots, slightly beaten egg yolks, onion, parsley, sugar, salt and pepper. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a well-greased loaf pan. Set in a shallow pan of hot water. Baked 350 for 1 hour.

Remove from oven and let stand for 5 minutes or so before unmolding on a heated deep platter. Surround with a creamed food such as creamed chicken, shellfish or hard-cooked eggs and mushrooms. Makes 6 servings.

CHICKEN CHOW MEIN—Well known as a Chinese favorite is Chicken Chow Mein—an Americanized version of Chinese cooking. With it serve Clear Consomme, Salad Tray Orientale, almond cookies and tea. Garnish your Chow Mein with crisp Chinese noodles.

Sidestep Meal Monotony With Subtle Chinese Food

With the readily available supply of canned Chinese food products, it is easy to make dinner with a Far East flavor in your own kitchen. The cooking is quick, the food delicious — a good way to entertain simply, economically, conveniently.

Chow Mein comes in one-and three-pound cans, good sizes for family or party entertaining.

Crunchy chow mein noodles have long been a "must" with chow mein or chop suey dinners. They also add crispness and flavor to creamed and casserole dishes of your favorite recipes.

Clear Consomme

1 can (about 11 oz.) condensed consomme
1 can water (measured in soup can)
Few slices of scallion
Few thin strips of carrot

Combine and heat consomme and water. Serve, piping hot, with garnish of scallion rings and carrot strips. Makes 4 servings.

Quick Chicken Chow Mein

2 cans (1 lb. each) chicken chop suey or 1 can (3lbs.) chicken chop suey
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 can (4, 5, or 6 oz.) boned chicken, cut in strips
2 cans (3 oz. each) chow mein noodles
Soy sauce

Carefully combine chop suey, brown sugar, vinegar and chicken in medium-sized saucepan, reserving a few strips of chicken for garnish. Heat, stirring gently.

Place chow mein noodles in shallow baking pan; heat in 375 oven 5 minutes. Serve piping hot over heated chow mein noodles; pass soy sauce. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Now See Purple Cow

So you've never seen a purple cow?

You can make one easily, but you'll have a hard time not drinking it so you can admire it.

Just mix one-half cup of chilled grapejuice with one cup of chilled milk and garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream.

Food Editor Off on Trip; Better-Half Subs as Chef

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

By the time you read this, I shall be enroute to visit relatives in Chicago and Milwaukee for a few days. Miss Teenager has gone on ahead, her first venture alone on a train. The Better Half and Five - Year - Old are going to take care of each other.

MRS. ODELL

Now, my husband can cook. He worked in a restaurant during college days. Naturally, he has not kept his hand in much these last few years; but when I do go away, I know he won't starve.

My father was a helpless individual in a kitchen. He would heat a can of soup or make himself a sandwich; but that was the extent of his culinary achievements.

You know, and I know that any homemaker who leaves home for more than a day must make some advance preparations. There are two reasons for this, one being to help out the male cook, the other sheer self - protection.

Unless careful plans are made in advance, the havoc one finds on return makes the trip hardly worth the effort.

Through the years I have learned what food not to leave. The Better Half abhors a lot of leftovers for him to eat up. So the refrigerator is a model of neatness and semi-emptiness.

Of course, there are the staples like bacon, eggs, salad materials, butter, milk, cheese and fresh fruit.

The basement store room has its quota of canned fruits, vegetables and soups, jam and jelly and soft drinks. In the freezer — love that freezer — are lots of good things to eat.

There are hamburger patties (glad my family will eat hamburger any time) . . . frozen fruits and vegetables (the Five - Year-Old has been known to eat nearly a package of peas by himself) . . . frozen orange juice and lemonade . . . some swordfish steak to fry quickly . . . cube and club steaks . . . even a meatloaf ready for baking if desired.

For dessert, I'm leaving plenty of ice cream, frozen sweet rolls and some frozen cupcakes. An adequate supply of bread is also frozen.

There's no point in planning actual day-to-day menus; the "boys" will eat what they want when they want it anyway. My main job is to see that plenty of easily prepared food is available, then trust their hunger to see them through.

If I left half a dozen large boxes of cereal and some cooked spaghetti, the Five - Year - Old would be perfectly satisfied. His father will have to see that he eats balanced meals.

I did leave their dinner for tonight, a casserole dish that just needs to be reheated, a gelatin salad and dessert.

For a week I shan't have to worry about what to have to eat.

Shrimp Takes Tempura Sauce

In the last section of Ben Lucien Burman's newest best seller, "The Four Lives of Mundy Tolliver," the author tells about the life of a small-time shrimper on the Gulf of Mexico (published by Julien Messner, Inc., New York, $3.75.)

So realistically has he told the story of Mundy's adventures in the Cajun shrimp country that the reader feels Burman must be well acquainted with this part of the United States and the luscious shrimp found in Gulf waters.

In fact, Burman told the Shrimp Assn. of the Americans that shrimp is one of his favorite foods, and that he likes it prepared in the Japanese "Tempura" style, like this:

Shrimp Tempura

2 pounds fresh or frozen shrimp, uncooked
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup milk
1 pint cooking oil

Peel and devein shrimp. Drain on paper towels. Slit shrimp along the inside curvature without cutting all the way through and press out, like a butterfly. Sift flour and salt together. Add eggs and milk and combine to make a thin batter. Heat cooking oil to 375 degrees — very hot, but not smoking. Dip shrimp in batter and fry for 3 minutes until golden brown. Do not overcook. Makes 6 servings. Serve with chutney, mustard cauce, or Tempura Sauce.

Tempura Sauce

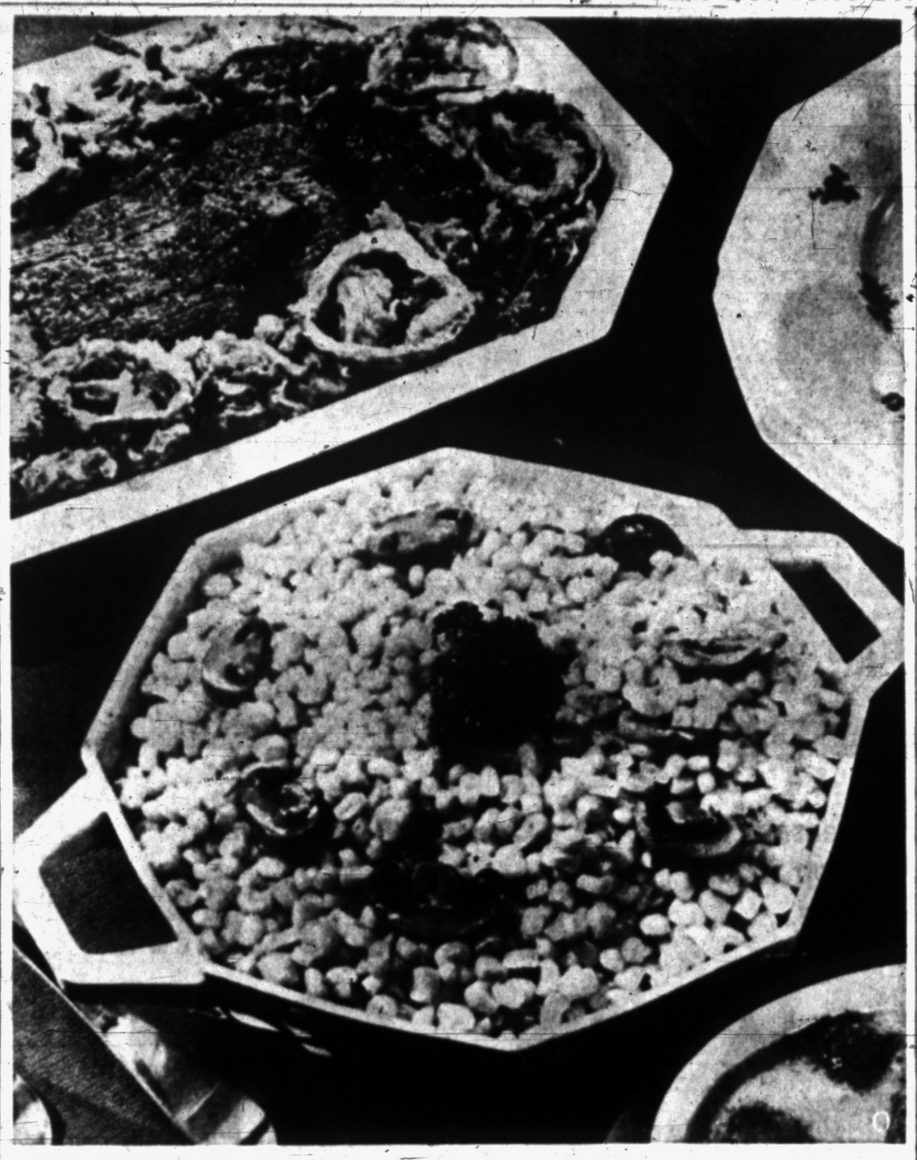

¾ cup cooking sherry
½ cup soy sauce
2 teaspoons sugar
¼ teaspoon ground ginger

Main-Dish Salad

Cubed chicken, cooked rice and green peas make a delicious salad when dressed with mayonnaise that has been blended with a dash of curry. Serve on salad greens—water cress, chicory, escarole, romaine or lettuce.

Use your kitchen scissors for mincing parsley, chives or mint leaves.

Garlic Touch Is Different With Corn, Minute Steaks

Tender canned whole kernel corn seasoned with garlic and tossed with mushroom slices is a vegetable specialty delicious with minute steaks.

Nutritious canned corn adds the note of flavor and color that makes the difference between an ordinary dinner and one served with a special touch.

To complete the main course, canned tomatoes, cheese and evaporated milk make up a flavorful sauce to top the steaks. Surprise the family with this delicious menu.

Corn Minute Steak Supper

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained
2 No. 303 cans whole kernel corn
6 cubed steaks
1 No. 303 can tomatoes
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ cup evaporated milk
½ cup grated processed American cheese
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt butter or margarine over low heat. Add garlic and mushrooms and cook until garlic is golden brown. Add corn and mix lightly. Turn corn mixture into bottom of broiler pan; cover with broiler rack. Place steaks on broiler rack and broil 3-4 inches from heat 3-5 minutes on each side, or until done.

Meanwhile, heat tomatoes over medium heat. Combine flour and evaporated milk and mix well. Gradually add to tomatoes and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add cheese and stir until melted. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve tomato sauce over steaks. Makes 6 servings.

Filling for Sandwich Is Creamy, Smooth

Creamy Beef-Pickle Sandwiches

One 3-ounce package cream cheese (softened)
¾ cup chopped dried chipped beef
1 tablespoon light cream
½ cup chopped sweet cucumber pickles
Buttered bread slices

Mix cheese, beef, cream and pickles. Spread between buttered bread slices. Remove crusts if desired. Cut each sandwich into 2 or 4 triangles. Makes about 1½ cups filling.

'Extra' for Frankfurters

Frankfurters taste extra good when they are grilled, put into toasted rolls and topped with a generous spoonful of chili con carne and a sprinkling of finely chopped onion and parsley.

Nutritionist Advises Milk for Women

CORVALLIS, Ore. (INS) —Women often drink too little milk, even though they see that their children get enough.

So says Agnes M. Kolshorn, nutrition specialist at Oregon State College.

The specialist reported that women, particularly the older ones, consumed less milk than any other group in a recent study by the Federal Department of Agriculture.

She recommended the liberal use of milk and milk products in meals and suggested such dishes as cream soup, custards, white sauce, ice cream, milk sherbet and cheese to benefit the whole family.

Milk is high in food value in comparison to the cost, Miss Kolshorn pointed out. She urged that plenty of milk be used for women as well as the men and children in the family, even in low cost diets.

Always cool a cake on a wire rack. If you use a board or a plate the bottom of the cake will probably become soggy.

Mom Needs Milk, Too

Foods specialists pass on this information from a U. S. Government report . . . "although most mothers make an effort to see that their families get enough milk, mothers generally have a poor record as milk consumers, often taking far less than they need for adequate nutrition."

Dangerous Breakfast

WICHITA, Kan. (UP)—Mrs. Mae Anderson and her daughter, Mrs. Annamae Clark, began preparing breakfast. While Mrs. Clark was slicing bacon, the knife slipped and her right hand was cut. Mrs. Anderson then took over. Same result. The women were treated at Wesley Hospital.

Making fresh apricot preserves? You'll need to buy 1½ pounds of the fruit if you want three cups cut-up.

Accommodating Police

DETROIT (UP)—The two stop signs on one pole at an intersection in suburban Grosse Pointe have brought hundreds of inquires from motorists. The explanation was that the bottom sign was put up to accommodate motorists in low-slung foreign cars.

Add molasses, prepared mustard, cider vinegar, and chopped onion to canned tomato sauce; use when you are barbecuing frankfurters for that picnic party.

AMERICA'S LARGEST SELLING SUGARS

MELON SALAD—Rings of golden cantaloupes filled with a blend of strawberries and bananas make a refreshing salad for summer meals. Serve garnished with cream cheese balls and sparked with French dressing. Vary the fruits and make this a salad standby for all summer.

Salmon Steaks Good Poached

The most important holiday of the summer is July Fourth, and this year, because of the three-day holiday, there will be lots of company entertaining. The main course of many an Independence Day luncheon and dinner will be salmon steaks, a New England custom from way back that has been adopted by other regions of the United States in the last few years.

The National Fisheries Institute believes that salmon steaks retain their delicious flavor and color best when poached. You may, of course, serve the salmon as the New Englander does, with egg sauce and creamed peas. Or you can vary it by garnishing your colorful plate of pink salmon with pickled beets and onion rings, and serve a tartar sauce.

Poached Salmon Steaks

6 salmon steaks
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pickling spices

Place water at least 1½ inches deep in skillet or pan large enough to hold steaks side by side. A roasting pan placed over two burners works nicely. Add salt and spices. Bring to boil. Turn heat down so that the water just simmers.

Add salmon steaks and cook 10 minutes, spooning off fat from top of water as it collects. Carefully remove steaks and serve on a hot platter with sliced beets and onion rings, and a bowl of tartar sauce—or with an egg sauce and creamed peas. Makes six servings.

Serve Cornbread Toast

Make Nutmeg Ice Cream; Serve It Sundae Style

Combine 1½ cups scalded milk with ¾ cup sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Pour gradually over 3 beaten egg yolks and cook to custard consistency, stirring constantly. Stir in 1½ tablespoons ground nutmeg and chill until mushy. Stir well and fold in 1 pint heavy cream, whipped. Freeze, stirring 2 or 3 times until mushy and then freeze firm.

A glass measuring cup that is graduated below the rim is fine for liquids to avoid spilling.

Vitamin-Rich Cantaloupe Has Intriguing History

Cantaloupes are a romantic fruit with a glamorous history. The very names of its places of origin breathe romance. Persia. Kashmir. Afghanistan.

China was introduced to them early in the Christian era. An Egyptian artist portrayed a cantaloupe in 2400 B. C. The Greeks claimed, in the second century, that they had medicinal qualities. Christopher Columbus introduced them to the new world.

Beautiful to look at, appetizingly fragrant, these melons are full of health-giving vitamins. The zestful orange flesh is particularly rich in vitamin A. It also contains vitamins B and C.

Dieters bless this tasty fruit. A half cantaloupe contains only 37 calories! It makes a delicious dessert or a refreshing first course without adding appreciably to the calorie count.

Chilled melons, tanged with fresh lime or lemon juice, make a festive opening to a Sunday breakfast. A cup of the meat, finely chopped, can be added to a pint of vanilla ice cream for a cool dessert on a hot summer day.

Many a salad can be sparked by the addition of cantaloupe balls. Rings of the cantaloupe meat make interesting "containers" for fruit salad combinations.

The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association's test kitchen has developed some interesting new ways of serving this delicious fruit.

Cantaloupe Mousse

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups mashed ripe cantaloupe
½ cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Set temperature control of refrigerator to coldest point. Soften gelatine in cold water. Cook cantaloupé and sugar in a saucepan only until hot and sugar is dissolved.

Stir in softened gelatine. Chill until the mixture has slightly thickened and fold in whipped cream. Rinse a freezing tray in cold water and fill with the cantaloupe mixture. Place in the freezing unit of refrigerator to freeze until firm. Yield, 8 to 10 servings.

Cantaloupe Fruit Salad Ring

1 ripe cantaloupe
3 bananas, sliced
½ cup pitted fresh sweet cherries
¾ cup fresh blueberries
8 whole fresh strawberries
Salad greens
12 whole fresh sweet cherries
3-oz. pkg. cream cheese
¼ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup whipped cream

Cut cantaloupe in half, crosswise. Remove seeds. Cut off rind. Slice into four crosswise slices. Place each on a salad plate.

Combine 1 sliced banana with the ½ cup each sweet cherries and blueberries and use to fill centers. Arrange remaining banana slices around top of cantaloupe ring.

Top each with 2 strawberries, cut in half. Garnish with salad greens, whole cherries, blueberries and cream cheese balls. Combine mayonnaise and whipped cream and serve with salad. Yield: 4 servings.

Protect Steel Cookware

Follow these three rules if you want to prevent heat tints on stainless steel cooking ware. Use only enough heat to cook the food. Do not apply heat to an empty pan. Avoid concentrated heat on a small area.

Piquant Sauce Enhances Fish

Salmon loaf baked in a ring and served in company with a wonderful wine sauce is well worth trying. Once tried, it will be a repeat item.

Just a can of condensed cream of celery soup, half a cup of grated cheese, a few spoonfuls of white table wine and a dash of paprika go into the piquant sauce.

Salmon Ring With Celery Sauce

2 cups (firmly packed) fresh bread cubes
1 cup milk
1 1-pound can salmon, drained, boned and flaked
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons grated onion
Salt, celery salt, onion salt and pepper to taste

Soak bread cubes in milk for 10 minutes or so; beat well with a fork. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Turn into a well-greased 8½-inch (1¼-quart) ring mold; set in a shallow pan of hot water.

Bake in a moderate 350 oven for 45 to 50 minutes, or until firm. Remove from oven and let stand 5 minutes or so before unmolding. Serve with Celery Sauce (below). Serves 4 to 5.

Celery Sauce

In a saucepan combine 1 can condensed cream of celery soup, ½ cup grated cheddar cheese, 1/3 cup Sauterne or other white table wine and a dash of paprika. Stir over low heat until cheese melts and sauce is piping hot.

Marinate Shrimp and Grill Outdoors

With the fascinating array of portable grills on the market, there's no reason why all of us can't have the fun of cooking out of doors when we go on a picnic, whether it's on the banks of a river far away, or in our own backyard. Not only does outdoor cooking provide more fun, but also adds variety to the picnic fare.

Gone are the days when a shoe-box of sandwiches, pieces of gooey cake and tepid lemonade made up the standard picnic menu. An up-to-the-minute picnic includes hot food, like this shrimp marinated in an herb-garlic sauce and then broiled on an outdoor grill.

Grilled Marinated Shrimp

Split through the shell of 2 pounds of jumbo shrimp with a sharp knife. Remove the black vein but leave the shell intact.

Place shrimp in a bowl or jar, with the following ingredients:

3 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1 medium onion, finely chopped
¼ cup chopped parsley (optional)
1 teaspoon dried basil (optional)
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup olive or peanut oil
Juice of 1 lemon

Let the shrimp marinate in this mixture for several hours. Place shrimp on a grill over hot charcoal. Grill about 5 minutes.

Frozen Suckers Easy to Make Right at Home

If frozen suckers are a big expense at your house in the summer, here's a way to save money—make frozen suckers in your own refrigerator.

It's so easy — when you use flavored sherbet mix. Just add any one of the 4 flavors — lemon, raspberry, orange, or new lime sherbet mix to water. One recipe makes 6 to 12 frozen suckers depending on the size of the mold.

There's a brand new flexible plastic mold available that makes 4 frozen suckers at a time. Comes right along with a package of sherbet mix.

Let your youngsters have fun this summer keeping themselves supplied with frozen suckers. Make it easy for them—stock up on the 4 flavors of sherbet mix — and have plenty of molds for everyone.

Here's the easy frozen sucker recipe:

1. Pour 2 cups cold water and contents of package of sherbet mix into a quart jar. Close cover tightly. Shake until powder is dissolved.
2. Insert sticks into molds as directed and pour in sherbet mixture. Place molds in freezing compartment of refrigerator until firmly frozen.
3. Remove frozen suckers from mold as directed.
4. Refill mold from remaining sherbet mixture. Makes 6-12 frozen suckers.

Chopped Chicken Mix Party Sandwich Spread

Party sandwich spread: chopped chicken mixed with finely chopped blanched almonds and mayonnaise. Season with a little onion juice, salt and freshly-ground pepper.

Use one slice of whole-wheat bread, one slice of white bread for each big sandwich; then remove crusts and cut into strips.

Milk Drink Refreshing

Small fry like a milk drink made with a cup of milk sweetened with two tablespoons of maple-flavored syrup and served over a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Sugar wafers taste good with this for summer afternoon refreshment.

Twenty Sausage Varieties Offer Tempting Selection

Almost everyone recognizes what skinless frankfurters, bologna and liver sausage look like. But how many other of these twenty top sausages can you identify?

If you merely point to the kind of sausage you want in the market case instead of asking for it by name. . . you have plenty of company according to an industry report. They say that 65 per cent of customers are unfamiliar with sausage names.

Small wonder, too, when you consider that not only does every nationality have its own specialties, but every manufacturer has his own methods of preparation.

Additional differences come from the kinds of meats and spices used, the manner of blending, the ingredients, the shape, and whether the sausage is cooked, smoked, uncooked, fresh or dry.

Even the casings in which various sausages are stuffed have gone modern. Cellulose casings are used for about 80 per cent of today's sausages, replacing the animal casings.

Cellulose coverings have proved their value. They reduce sausage costs, are more attractive in appearance, and allow greater penetration of smoke which means tastier sausage products.

Here are the general classifications in which the most popular sausages are grouped:

Fresh Sausage: Pure pork sausage, both links and bulk, which must be thoroughly cooked by the homemaker, usually by slow frying or baking lead this group.

Others are fresh country sausage, bratwurst, bockwurst, and thuringer, which are made from selected cuts of fresh meat, principally pork but sometimes beef and veal. These should be sliced and fried or cooked in water.

Cooked smoked Sausages: Frankfurters, bologna, ham style bologna and knackwurst are in this class. Generally they are made from fresh uncured meats, all beef, or part beef and pork. They are fully cooked and smoking takes place after cooking.

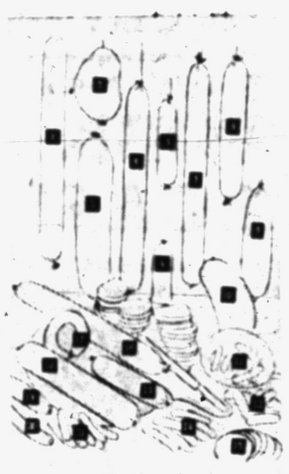

Uncooked smoked sausages: Most popular in the Mid Wes. are smoked country sausage, mettwurst, and Polish sausage. The first two contain pork, and the Polish variety usually contains pork and beef. All require further cooking by sauteing, broiling, or cooking in water.

Cooked sausages: Liver sausage and blood sausage come under this heading. Fresh liver sausage becomes braunschweiger when it is smoked and more highly seasoned. Generally both are of pork liver; sometimes a little veal or beef liver is used. Blood sausage is most often made from the pork product.

Cook Chicken Spanish Style

Spanish cooks have a way with chicken, peas and rice which makes the result a hearty, mouth-watering combination.

The trick is not hard to duplicate; it's primarily a blending of all the flavor and goodness that comes from simmering the main ingredients all together for an hour or so. Then, too, there is the wonderful flavor of the onion and pimiento, ever present in the zesty, colorful casseroles from this romantic land.

Canned peas are good in casserole combinations where the nutritious juices are utilized. Not only does the juice contain important water-soluble vitamins, but it carries much of the flavor, too.

Peas cooked in too much water are nearly tasteless, but canned peas never have that trouble. Cooking is carefully controlled, and each can is a miniature pressure cooker where flavor is held in.

Chicken and Peas Fiesta

1 1-pound can peas
2 cups water
2 bouillon cubes
1 3½-pound broiler-fryer, cut in pieces
Salt
Pepper
Paprika
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
2 medium onions, sliced
1 cup raw rice
½ teaspoon salt
1 4-ounce can pimiento, cut in quarters

Drain peas; measure liquid. Combine ½ cup pea liquid, water and bouillon cubes; reserve.

Sprinkle chicken with salt, pepper and paprika. Brown chicken in 4 tablespoons of the butter over moderately high heat. Add onion; cover and cook over low heat 15 minutes.

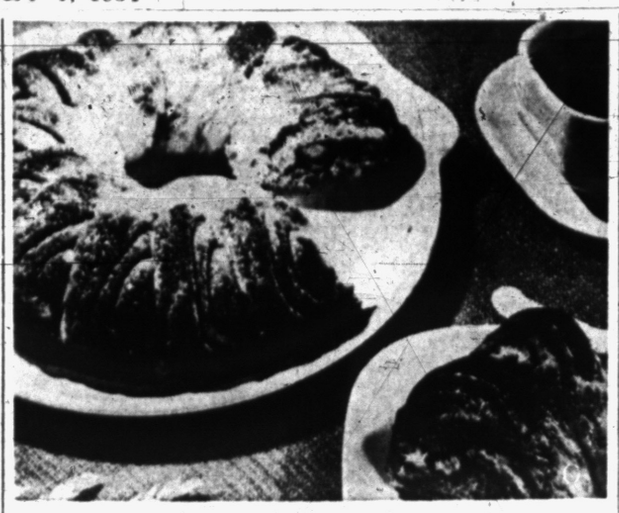

Sprinkle rice and salt over chicken; add reserved liquid and pimiento. Bring to a boil. Cover; cook over low heat 25 minutes.

During last 5 minutes cooking time, heat peas with remaining pea liquid and remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Serve chicken and rice in skillet or turn into serving dish. Spoon peas in center. Yield: 4 servings.

Wieners Make Meal

For an inexpensive summer buffet, serve grilled frankfurters with macaroni and cheese and a salad. The salad might be one of tomatoes and cucumbers, cabbage and carrot slaw, or tossed greens.

Don't worry if a tapioca cream pudding is thin when it is taken from the heat; it will thicken as it cools.

WHEAT GERM HONEY TWIST—This delicious Wheat Germ Honey Twist will brighten up any meal—give it an extra nutritional boost, too. Serve it for those porch meals that you may already be having. Let the family enjoy it for breakfast any time.

Hot Wheat Germ Breads Just Too Good to Resist

We couldn't get along without "store bought" bread — but every so often the thought of fresh, warm bread from our own oven is just too good to resist. If you like to cook at all, bread making is a tremendous satisfaction, and nothing pleases the family more.

Serve warm home-made bread with light summer meals for real appreciation of your bread-making talents.

Contrast it with cold meats, crisp tuna or chicken salad, and you'll have a delightful light meal with plenty of substance and flavor.

By using some of the newer bread recipes, you will be helping to keep nutritional values high in these lighter meals. Try one of these:

Wheat Germ Honey Twist

¼ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup scalded milk
2 cakes fresh or 2 packages granular yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 eggs, beaten
5 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup wheat germ
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon

In a large bowl combine shortening, ½ cup sugar, salt and milk. Cool to lukewarm; add yeast softened in warm water. Add eggs and flour, then wheat germ, and beat thoroughly.

Knead on floured board until smooth. Place in greased bowl; cover and let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk. Roll in 2 oblong sheets about ¼ inch thick.

Brush with melted butter and sprinkle evenly with ½ cup sugar mixed with cinnamon. Roll like a jelly roll and shape into 2 rings on a greased baking sheet. With scissors, cut almost through ring at 1-inch intervals. Twist slices slightly to the right.

Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Brush with honey topping and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. Makes two 9-inch rings.

Honey Topping

¼ cup margarine
1 egg
2 tablespoons warmed honey

Orange Wheat Germ Bread

1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup wheat germ
Juice and grated rind of 1 large orange
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons shortening, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg, beaten

In a bowl, sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Stir in wheat germ. Add enough hot water to orange juice and rind to make 1 cup.

Combine liquid with sugar, melted shortening, vanilla and egg. Add to flour mixture all at once and stir until blended. Turn into greased 9x5x3" loaf pan. Let stand 20 minutes. Bake in 350 degree oven 1 hour. Makes 1 loaf.

Always use low even temperatures when heating milk in a saucepan or in a double boiler.

Can Crab Meat Will Serve Four

How would a creamy crab appeal to you for lunch or supper? Sounds like an expensive gourmet dish, doesn't it? But it really isn't, if you follow the National Fisheries Institute recipe given below, and make it with nonfat dry milk, an inexpensive food which has the added advantage of being low in calories.

This is a true bisque, by the way, as it follows the definition given by the Encyclopedia of Cookery — "a thick rich soup made with a shellfish base." And this recipe is "penny-wise," as the name suggests, when you consdre you're using only one can of crab meat to make six first-course servings or four main-course servings.

Penny-Wise Crab Bisque

¾ cup nonfat dry milk
2 cups lukewarm water
3 tablespoons margarine or butter
¼ cup enriched flour
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 sprig parsley
1 cup canned bouillon or 1 chicken bouillon cube dissolved in 1 cup boiling water
1 6½ ounce can crab meat, flaked, or 1⅓ cups cooked fresh crab meat
1 sliced, peeled medium onion
½ cup grated cheddar cheese

Pour lukewarm water into mixing bowl. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk on top of water. Let stand a few minutes, then beat with rotary or wire beater, scraping down any nonfat dry milk that sticks to the sides of bowl and beating until dissolved (about 1 min.)

Melt margarine or butter in large saucepan; stir in flour, salt, pepper. Add milk and bouillon gradually, stirring over low heat until thickened. Add crab meat, onion, parsley. Cover; simmer 10 minutes.

Remove from heat; strain, forcing as much of the crab meat through the sieve as possible. Add grated cheese and reheat, stirring occasionally till cheese is melted. Makes 6 first-course, 4 main-course servings.

Boiled Frankfurters Good With Hot Slaw

Next time you are preparing a hot slaw, try adding rounds of frankfurters to the salad.

Heat the frankfurters by covering them with boiling water and then leting them stand off the heat for 5 to 7 minutes.

Cheese Spreads Moist

Rennet Custards So Easy to Fix

Milk, the mainstay of baby's diet, is also essential to the well-being of older children and adults. It is "nature's most nearly perfect food."

Milk furnishes protein and calcium more abundantly and economically than any other food. While providing these important nutrients, milk is not fattening, so "calorie counters" can — and should—have their daily quota of milk.

Milk too is beneficial in easing tension and is a source of vitamins which affect skin health. So, milk contributes in many ways to the well-being of everyone.

If your family isn't drinking enough milk (at least 3 glasses a day), include it in prepared dishes, like cream soups and casseroles. Make milk desserts too—they'll please every member of the family.

Easiest to prepare of all fresh milk desserts are rennet-custards. You simply warm the milk (no cooking necessary) and stir in sweetened and flavored rennet powder. Choose from 6 flavors of rennet powder.

Serve your whole family this nourishing fresh milk dessert this week. Keep rennet-custards in the refrigerator — they're fine for after school, or bedtime snacks, as well as for dessert.

Rennet Custards

3 cups whole milk
1 package rennet powder (any flavor)

Set out 4 or 5 dessert glasses. Warm milk slowly until lukewarm, stirring constantly. Test a drop on the inside of your wrist frequently. When it feels comfortably warm, (100 degrees F.) not hot, remove at once from heat.

Stir in rennet powder all at one time. Mix until powder is dissolved—not over one minute. Pour at once, while still liquid, into dessert glasses. Do not disturb for about 10 minutes while milk sets. Then chill in refrigerator until ready to serve.

Very young children prefer foods that are not chilled. To warm chilled rennet-custards, let stand at room temperature or place custard cup in pan of hot water for a few minutes before serving.

Serve older children and adults rennet-custards topped with fruit slices, jelly, whipped cream, crushed cereal, chopped nuts or other favorite toppings.

Use of Frozen Orange Juice Is Time Saver

Aside from the fine flavor and convenience of never-out-of-season canned frozen orange juice, the homemaker has found that she saves valuable minutes using the commercial pack.

In a timed experiment it was found that on the average it takes 1¾ minutes to open a six-ounce can of frozen orange juice, add water and mix well.

To obtain an equal amount of fresh orange juice using a hand reamer, the average was almost 10 minutes.

Extended over a whole year, getting the job done in one fifth the time adds up to quite a saving — free time for the busy housewife.

Because citrus products are such good sources of Vitamin C they hold an important place on America's dinnertable. The canned citrus products retain, in good degree, this high vitamin content of the fresh fruits.

In fact, one study found that frozen concentrated orange juice had higher initial content of Vitamin C than the fresh orange juice tested. This result can easily be explained by the fact the canners pick the fruit at the very peak of quality and process it immediately.

Other wonderful citrus fruits are being both canned and frozen today, too — tangerine juice and Mandarin oranges — which are really tangerine sections. There's even a citrus salad which is a combination or orange and grapefruit sections.

Citrus fruits are now available for all meals from breakfast to dinner and from brunch to midnight snacks. Whether you want fruit sections or juice, they're all ready to use — canned and frozen.

No Substitute for Milk in Producing Calcium

Studies reveal that adults require much more calcium than was believed formerly. And there is no other food source of calcium that can even approximately take milk's place. According to one authority, all the calcium in the human body is replaced every few years. If the calcium intake is not sufficient to meet the demand, the body takes the mineral from the bones and teeth.

Serious ill health of one sort or another is likely to manifest itself if a calcium deficiency continues for long periods. Calcium has a crucial role in regulating heart action, in the contractibility of muscular tissue, and in forestalling irritability of the nervous system.

To boil eggs which are cracked slightly, add a teaspoon of salt to the water. The contents won't ooze out.

BLUEBERRY ICE CREAM PIE—What could be cooler, more mouth-watering on a hot summer day than this Blueberry Ice Cream Pie. The sauce, made with the peak of the season's fresh cultivated blueberries, makes it a deluxe treat, yet so easy to prepare.

Use Plump Blueberries to Make Ice Cream Pie

Easy as pie! That's the way to describe this easy-to-prepare Blueberry Ice Cream Pie. And it's easy to eat, too—to the last crumb if you use big, dewy-cheeked cultivated blueberries to make the sauce.

Serve it on a hot day and just watch six wilted people perk up.

Blueberry Ice Cream Pie

1 chilled baked 9" pie shell
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1¼ cups cultivated blueberries, washed and well-drained
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Make pie shell early in the day or day ahead and chill thoroughly. Then combine sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Stir in water gradually.

Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Add lemon juice and butter.

Note: If frozen cultivated blueberries are used, thaw and drain. Proceed as with fresh berries. If canned cultivated blueberries are used, drain and proceed as with fresh berries.

Cookie Mix Makes Luscious Dessert

You can make this delightful tasting dessert in a matter of minutes by using a cookie mix.

Dutch Prune Squares

1 14-ounce package cookie mix
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup warm water
2 eggs (separated)
⅔ cup chopped drained cooked prunes (12 large)
1 tablespoon sugar
⅔ teaspoon cinnamon

Put cookie mix into large bowl; add 3 tablespoons sugar, water and egg yolks; set aside.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; without washing beater, beat cookie mixture just until smooth; stir in prunes. Fold in beaten egg whites.

Turn into greased baking pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches); mix 1 tablespoon sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over top. Bake in 350 oven 30 to 35 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out with no batter sticking to it. Place pan on cake rack until partly cooled.

Cut in squares in pan; remove with spatula; serve warm. Top with whipped cream or a pudding sauce if desired.

Frozen Whipped Cream Delicious on Fruits

Many fresh fruits taste delicious served with frozen cream. To prepare the cream, beat it until it begins to thicken, then gradually beat in sugar to taste and vanilla until stiff. Place in freezing compartment of refrigerator until firm.

Try this on a combination of pineapple, apricots, strawberries or raspberries and banana.

Make Pink Limeade for Weekend Guests

The July 4th weekend will be such a pleasantly long one that you'll probably be having lots of friends dropping by to visit. That means you'll want to have some refreshing beverages for them to sip. We think one of the most pleasant and delightfully "light" coolers is Pink Limeade, easily made with frozen limeade concentrate and wine.

Pink Limeade

1 (6-ounce) can frozen limeade concentrate
3 limeade-concentrate cans cold water
1 cup port wine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Red food coloring
Lime slices for garnishing

Combine limeade concentrate and the 3 cans water in a pitcher; stir to thaw concentrate. Add wine and lemon juice; mix well. Stir in a few drops of red coloring to give the mixture a pleasantly rosy hue.

Pour over ice cube in tall glasses. Garnish with lime slices. Makes about 1 quart, or enough for 4 or 5 tall glasses.

Make Splatter Guard

Does spattering fat from a skillet annoy you? Then fit a collar of foil, about four inches wide, around the pan. Use a double thickness of foil for the collar.

Grated Cheese, Onion Improves Hamburger

Mix hamburger with finely chopped onion and grated cheese, season with worchestershire sauce and form into patties. Grill over charcoal until a deep hearty brown.

Clean bacon rind and save it for flavoring soups and vegetables.

Bob Considine Says:

Typewriter-Tapping Wife Could Cause Competition

By BOB CONSIDINE
(By International News Service)

NEW YORK (INS)—A pretty disturbing thing has happened in our family. My wife recently became the New York columnist for Diplomat Magazine. Things haven't been quite the same around our hutch since that fateful hour.

"Got an item for you," somebody will say to me. It was several days after the calamitous decision that I realized why there was a sudden stiffening on the part of the little woman at such moments, plus surreptitious note-taking.

I now go into a fit of coughing whenever someone approaches with news that this other columnwriter is present, batting her big blue eyes and otherwise suggesting that the bearer of the news might do a lot better leaving it with her.

Through the coughing I say, in hog-latin, "now, now, Mac. Tell me when You Know Who leaves us to see about the nippers." Frequently, however, this message doesn't come through, and the fool with the news will stand there prattling his head off—making himself heard above the scratch of pencil and rustle of note-book pages to my left.

The kid has lots to learn, but she's in there pitching. Time was when, hearing her stabbing at the typewriter, I'd say, "good girl, writing to her mother," or "That's the spirit, tell them we can't pay this month."

Now, the sound of her typing stirs memories of the old Chinese drop-of-water-on-the-forhead-torture. Pleasant at first. Glad she's making a dollar. Then vague doubt. What's she writing about? Then, if the typing goes on for more than an hour, a sharp guilty feeling that I ought to be writing something, too.

When a new columnist comes along he/she usually likes to ingratiate himself/herself with the old bloods of the game by blurting this or that hard-won jewel and inviting the elder statesmen to wear it in print, if the mood strikes.

Not this newest of the new columnist. You never heard such a pained yowl as the other day when I tried to encourage her by using two of her items. One, attributed to Raymond Loewy, described the Eiffel Tower as the Empire State Building after taxes," and the other, contributed by Bob Brumby, commented on the unluckiest great golfer of all time, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, who has discovered after all these years that he is allergic to grass.

Out of pure charity, I've presented her with two peace offerings since then—an item on the number of bricks used in the construction of Madison Square Garden and an exclusive revelation that Babe Ruth's first name was George.. That for reasons beyond my comprehension relations are still strained in our warren.

I just hope it won't involve the children. I've been making a steady living out of them for years. Often it meant flogging them with my gold-headed cane until they said something clever. But writing after all, is the loneliest and frequently most exhausting of trades. The fear here is that this new columnist, who spends so much more time with them than I do, will start quoting them.

(Haven't told either my wife or a child of ours named Deborah that I made a sawbuck from Reader's Digest recently, thanks to a remark Deborah babbled about one of my wife's cocktail parties. The party was populated by the usual New York crowd; the booze, smoke and chatter were familiar, and this child (aged 5) whispered to me, "daddy, haven't we had this party before?")

I should tell this new columnist that the day will arrive when a man in the composing room drops out the one paragraphh she most treasured, or chops an anectode on the word ". . . suddenly—." I should tell her that those who don't like what she writes will pen scathing letters to her and those who do like it will say, "hmm, nice," and never send so much as a postcard.

Matter of fact, I think I will. Least I could do. We'll be married 23 years on the 21st of July, and I'm sort of stuck on her, even if she is a columnist.

Tuttle's Homer in Ninth Beats Chisox

BALTIMORE (AP) — With 4th place in safer shape, the Detroit Tigers came East for a short stay after their surprise knocking - off of the Chicago White Sox.

Tigers put a solid hold on 4th place by trimming Chicago 4-3 on Bill Tuttle's 9th inning home run yesterday before the Washington Senators fell to Philadelphia's Athletics 8-7 in a night game.

Detroit and 7th place Baltimore open a three-game series tomorrow, including a single game on Sunday's 4th of July. Today was an open date.

Tigers' present three-game edge on Washington gives them something of a breathing spell before they go back home for Monday's July 5 holiday doubleheader with the league-leading Cleveland Indians.

On their last eastern trip, the long one, the Tigers got little but rough treatment. But it could be easier on this short one limited to Baltimore.

Victory over the White Sox yesterday won the series, two games to one, for the Tigers and staked Billy Hoeft to his 4th win against seven defeats.

Hoeft came in in the 8th to replace George Zuverink when the latter weakened to allow two runs after doing an almost flawless job from the start.

Tuttle's game - winning homer was the 2nd of the game for Detroit. Wayne Belardi hit one with the bases empty in the 4th, which tied the score at 1-1. Chicago scored in the 2nd on a single, an error and an infield out.

Another Tiger newcomer, Frank Bolling, played a heavy role. He singled two runs across in the 7th with the bases full. Bob Wilson and Tuttle singled and Harvey Kuenn was purposely walked.

A walk, Chicago Carrasquel's double and George Kell's single tied it up at 3-3 in the Chichgo 8th and left the scene to Tuttle's important blow in the 9th.

Tigers lost the services indefinitely of catcher Frank House and infielder Fred Hatfield through injuries. House suffered a gash over his eye in a collision with Belardi while they chased a pop-up. Hatfield jammed a finger in a slide at 2nd base.

Victory was her 7th consecutive win over brush and hurdles. According to Nichols, the most consecutive steeplechase victories ever won by any horse previously was five. Young Stars Loom as Threats in Motor City

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP) — The Motor City Open—a $17,500 plum—tees off today with Golf's "Youth Brigade" given a good chance of dumping the old pros.

With former champions Ben Hogan, 42, and Lloyd Mangrum, 39, passing up the competition, the so-called youngsters—headed by Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif.—could dominate the four-day 72-hole event at the Meadowbrook Country Club.

* * *

The 23-year-old Littler is given a strong chance of taking the $3,000 first prize. Littler is highly regarded because of his brilliant showing two weeks ago in the National Open at Baltusrol, where he finished one stroke behind champion Ed Furgol.

* * *

Also rated high among the "youngsters" are 29-year-old Dick Mayer, third in the Open, and 29-year-old Shelly Mayfield, sixth in the Open.

They'll be battling for the title last won by Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist in 1952. Middlecoff, who hasn't won a tournament all year, is co-favorite with Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex.

Bolt is fresh from a playoff victory in the Insurance City Open at Wethersfield, Conn. He shot a record-tying 60 in that event and says "I'm hitting well, putting well and doing just about everything well." He shot a warmup 67 over the par 35-36—71, 6,701-yard Meadowbrook layout.

* * *

Middlecoff, who termed the greens extremely fast, won the title in a playoff with Ted Kroll in 1952 and shared it with Mangrum in 1949.

* * *

Mangrum won it outright in 1950 and Hogan in 1948, the year the tournament started.

The Motor City wasn't held in 1951 and 1953 because Detroit hosted, respectively, the National Open and National PGA in those years.

Defending Champs Regain Slight Edge in Men's Loop

Defending champion Stadium Inn again pulled a half-game ahead in the see-saw City Men's Softball League race last night, edging 8th-place Forster Tool, 4-3, in an extra-inning thriller.

Glen Wilson singled home Don Wilson with the winning run with two out in the 8th inning. Jim collected three of Riteway's six hits.

CIO No. 594 came up with three consecutive hits to score two runs in the final inning and down Milford Merchants, 3-2. Champaigne-Velvet outlasted Drive-In Cleaners, 10-9, in an 8-inning slug-fest that saw each team collect 12 hits.

Takes Big Perch

One of the season's biggest yellow perch taken from an Oakland County lake was landed a few days ago by J. W. Lehman, 36 Murphy, Pontiac.

Lehman thought he had a bass on his hook when the perch took hold, in Walnut Lake. He was surprised to see the "biggest perch I ever caught" when he hauled in his line. It was 12¼ inches long and weighed 1¼ pounds. Lehman used a night crawler harness. He also took some nice, fat roaches and pumpkin seeds, he reports.

'Thrilling Hobby'

Senator Is Part-Time Baseball Talent Scout

BY WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Herman Welker ever gets tired of being a U.S. senator, there's small doubt he could snap up a job finding baseball talent for the major leagues.

As a scout—part-time, unpaid and just for fun—he's already set up a good record.

* * *

"I know of no hobby more thrilling than this," said the Idaho Republican about the sideline at which he has been so successful.

"To work with young boys, give them a chance to be with great athletes, owners and managers," he said, "has been the highlight of my career in my book."

The latest in Welker's "Book" is Harmon Killebrew, a kid who knocked over fences in an Idaho bush league until the Washington Senators snapped him up for a reported $50,000. Through no coincidence it was Welker who put the Washington club onto the 18-year-old Idaho phenom.

Welker figures Killebrew as his favorite infield find, but he's got some other performers he ranks right up there. He recommended third baseman Andy Carey and infielder Rudy Regalado to the Pittsburgh Pirates, although Carey wound up with the New York Yankees and Regalado with the Cleveland Indians.

In the pitching department Welker rates his best discovery Vernon Law, a mainstay for the Pirate mound staff.

What's all this baseball got to do with being a senator?

Mims, Dykes Draw in Ring Feature on TV

Neither Middleweight Gains Stature After Wednesday Bout

WASHINGTON (AP)—Holly Mims and Bobby Dykes, both angling for a money-shot at Bobo Olson's middleweight title fought to a 10-round draw last night in a nationally televised bout that did neither boxer any great good.

Mims, Washington, D.C.'s second-ranked contender, looked good over the first half of the fight when he jolted Dykes with overhand rights.

* * *

Dykes, out of Miami, by way of San Antonio, Tex., gained his points by tying up Mims and sticking his long and light jab into Mims, pushing him off balance.

There were no knockdowns. Mims scored with the harder blows but apparently didn't score often enough for the three officials who each went his own way in the scoring.

One judge gave the nod to Dykes 97-94. The other judge likes Mims by 97-95 and the referee made it 95-95. The cards were not announced at ringside after the bout. District of Columbia boxing officials said the cards would be released sometime today.

* * *

The bout drew 2,601 fans to Uline Arena. The gate was not given out.

Mims weighed in for the fight at 155. Dykes was heavier at 159½.

Fighter Is Granted Permit to Carry Gun

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Jones, Oakland boxer who told police he received threatening phone calls after reporting an alleged bribe offer, yesterday was granted permission to carry a pistol.

Jones recently told New York police he was offered $15,000 to throw a fight there with Joey Giardello. He later lost the fight on a close decision.

Closed Course Speed Mark Now 182.55 MPH

DETROIT (AP) — A new closed course auto speed record of 182.55 miles per hour was set Wednesday at the Chrysler engineering proving grounds near Chelsea, Mich.

The mark was hung up by Sam Hanks, 1953 AAA national champion and a participant in nine Indianapolis 500-miles races. He drove the Kurtis-Kraft racing car powered with a special 447-horsepower V-8 engine.

Aragon, Martinez Tangle Tonight on West Coast

By BOB MYERS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Art (Golden Boy) Aragon, a little puzzled in a new role as the underdog, and Vince Martinez, a quietly confident young man from New Jersey, tie into each other for 10 rounds or less tonight at Gilmore Field.

The bout has no title aspects, although the winner may eventually get a shot at the welterweight king, Kid Gavilan. Martinez is unranked at the present in the division and the Los Angeles fighter is listed at No. 8.

None the less, upward of 15,000 fans are expected to file into the park, home of the Hollywood Baseball Club, and pay more than $100,000 for seats priced from $5 to $15.

A majority of the patrons, as Aragon himself can verify, will attend mainly in the hope that the Golden Boy will get whipped, or better still, knocked out.

Martinez, at 25, two years younger than Aragon, is a complete stranger to local fans, aside from what they have seen of him in televised bouts. But he was made the betting favorite as soon as matchmaker Babe McCoy signed the fighters, and probably will go into the ring a 2-1 choice

There will be no TV or radio broadcast of the match, slated to go on about 10 p.m. Pacific Daylight Time.

Richards Tops Decathlon Field

Milt Campbell Unable to Compete, So Vault Ace Is Favorite

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The Rev. Bob Richards, who won in 1951 and finished second last year, today was rated the man to beat in the two-day National Decathlon championship starting Friday night at Bader Field.

* * *

With Milt Campbell unable to defend because of an elbow injury, the 28-year-old Olympic pole vault king appears to be the class of the 26-man field. No one else in the competition has come close to the 6,876 points the "Vaulting Vicar" rolled up in the South Pacific AAU Decathlon last May.

Richards, representing the Los Angeles AC, scored 6,456 points at Plainfield, N.J., in '53 when he trailed the husky Campbell.

Boone Top 3rd Baseman

CHICAGO, JULY 1 (AP)—Veteran Ray Boone of Detroit today piled up a lead of more than 71,000 votes for the American League's third base position in the All-Star baseball game at Cleveland July 13.

The 30-year-old infielder's total reached 493,438 in the latest tabulation by the Chicago Tribune. George Kell of the Chicago White Sox ranks second at third base with 422,101 votes.

Giants Spotted Mays Accidentally, Had Him at Polo Grounds Within Two Years

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, like so many important discoveries in baseball, was practically an afterthought.

The New York Giants were interested in a Negro first baseman, a fellow whose name they've forgotten, not as a possibility for the Polo Grounds job but as a replacement at their Sioux City farm in the Western League. Eddie Montague and Bill Harris, Giant scouts, were dispatched to look him over.

"I received a phone call from Montague after several days," related Jack Schwarz, in charge of the Giants' scouting system. "He was so excited, I could hardly understand him.

* * *

"'The hell with this first baseman,' Montague shouted over the phone, 'he's not what we want. There's a kid center fielder with the Barons (Birmingham Black Barons) who's simply great. He's the greatest young ball player I've ever seen in my life. He'll be in the Polo Grounds in two years. We've got to get him at all costs."

Willie was assigned to Trenton, in the Class B Interstate League, after Sioux City had turned him down. He failed to get a hit in his first 22 times at bat but from the first he proved to be the best defensive outfielder in the league.

* * *

Mays began hitting before long and finished the season with a .353 batting average. The next year he was promoted to Minneapolis where he captured the fans' imagination with his tremendous hitting and fielding. When the Giants called him up May 25, 1951, he was hitting .477. Thus, in less than two years, Mays rose from a high school boy playing on weekends with a Negro team to a star in the big leagues.

Jets' Pitcher Hurls No-Hitter in 'A' League

Warren Hagyard Posts Feat in His First Start of Season

By BILL MARTIN

First no-hitter of the City Class A Baseball League season was turned in yesterday by Pontiac Jets hurler Warren Hagyard.

* * *

The 19-year-old right-hander, who just last week signed with the Jets and was making his 1st start, struck out 13 batters as the Jets blanked Elks Lodge No. 723, 10-0.

Only three Elks reached base—Joe Lofton on an error in the 2nd and Sam Woodmore and Chester Woodmore on walks in the 6th. Lofton advanced to 3rd, but the other two base runners were picked off attempting to steal.

Hagyard struck out the 1st three men he faced, watched Lofton go to 1st on the error and then retired the next 12 men in a row. He also collected two of the Jets' seven hits.

* * *

Hagyard is a former Clarkston High pitcher and will be a junior at Michigan State College next fall.

Jets jumped on Elks starter Garrett Douglas for three runs in the 1st inning, when Judge Booker homered with Fletcher Davis aboard and Don Russell scored on a sacrifice hit.

* * *

Medicine Calls Dr. Bobby Brown From Baseball

BOSTON (AP)—Dr. Bobby Brown, leaving baseball to pursue his career as a physician in San Francisco, predicts the New York Yankees will win their sixth straight pennant this year.

* * *

"This isn't the take-charge kind of club Casey Stengel has had in the past years," the Yankee infielder said after playing his final game yesterday. "It's had a tough time getting everything working together.

* * *

Writer Will Wait Before Moving Speaker Off All-Time Team

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK (INS) — There are some weird arguments around our town these days.

* * *

It appears that the local baseball nuts can't agree whether the Giants' Willie Mays, the Dodgers' Duke Snider or the Yanks' Mickey Mantle is the greatest outfielder in the game today, blandly ignoring, of course, the merits of one Stan Musial of the Cardinals.

It is generally agreed — outside New York, at least — that the all-time great outfield would be composed of Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth with Joe DiMaggio in reserve.

But some of these local masterminds already have shoved DiMaggio out of the picture and are thinking of supplanting Speaker with Mays, Snider or Mantle.

* * *

Cob's niche in the Hall of Fame seems safe enough but if Willie Mays, for example, should find those handy Polo Grounds fences for more than 60 homers, heaven help Babe Ruth's chances of sticking among the elite. Out he'll go.

Speaker had a life-time batting average of .344 over a 22-year span made during an era of great pitchers. One year he led even Ty Cobb with a bristling .386 average.

* * *

As for fielding, he was the artist supreme. He could go further to get 'em than anybody we've ever seen and he got them with exquisite ease and grace only rivalled, perhaps, by Joe DiMaggio.

Whereas, Willie Mays, running from under his cap, makes the simplest catch look difficult, Tris made the toughest catches look easy.

Sarazen Leads Britain's Alliss

Takes Four-Hole Edge in Speedy Round of 2 Hours, 2 Minutes

SOUTHPORT, England, July 1 (AP)—Gene Sarazen fashioned a fancy four-hole lead over Percy Alliss of Britain yesterday in the 1st International Senior professional championship golf match and did it so quickly the gallery gasped for breath.

* * *

The two veterans took only 2 hours, 2 minutes to play the dipping fairways and tight greens of the 6,625-yard Southport and Ainsdale golf course.

* * *

This is believed to be record time for international competition over a championship layout. With all their speed, they made their shots with precision. Sarazen had a medal 74, two-over-par, and Alliss 78 against a strong crosswind sweeping in from the Irish Sea.

Alliss played fast, but his popular American opponent from Germantown, N. Y., played faster.

Hoyt Wilhelm's Pitching Helps NY Beat 'Bums'

Giants' Relief Hurler Squelches Brooklyn's Rally in 8th

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants today called his brilliant bullpen duo of Hoyt Wilhelm and Marvin Grissom the best in baseball and challenged anybody to refute his statement.

* * *

The 51,464 fans who watched Grissom win his eighth game of the season with a scintillating four-inning relief job against Brooklyn Tuesday and the 29,693 spectators who saw Wilhelm subdue the Dodgers again with a brilliant rescue job yesterday, could have no rebuttal.

Wilhelm's performance was one of his best of the season. He entered the scene in the eighth inning with runners on first and third and nobody out and the Giants holding a slim 2-1 lead. As if the situation wasn't precarious enough, Jackie Robinson stood at the plate with his ever-dangerous bat. Waiting right behind him were Gil Hodges and Roy Campanella.

The 30-year-old knuckleball expert pitched out of the spot by holding Robinson to a short fly to left that failed to advance the runners and getting Hodges to hit into an inning-ending double play. The Giants went on to pick up three runs in their half of the eighth to win 5-2 and boost their first place lead over the Dodgers to three games.

Wilhelm did not receive credit for the victory. It went to Johnny Antonelli, the young southpaw ace, who became only the second left-hander to defeat the Dodgers this year.

It marked, however, the 15th time this season that Wilhelm worked in a winning game. Since June 12 he has been in nine games and the Giants have won them all. Grissom, the 36-year-old screwball artist, has an even better record. He has pitched in 17 winning games and owns an 8-2 won and lost record compared to Wilhelm's 6-2.

Writer Rates Willie Mays, Duke Snider Way Ahead in Race for Most Valuable Player Honors in NL

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—As the middle of the baseball season is rapidly approaching, the question of which player should wear the mantle of being the most valuable to his team is coming up.

At this date, the most valuable players to their respective teams appear to be: National League: Giants—Willie Mays; Dodgers—Duke Snider; Phillies—Granny Hamner; Cardinals—Harvey Haddix; American League: Indians—Al Rosen; White Sox—Minnie Minoso; Yankees—Yogi Berra.

The hottest race in baseball, however, is between Willie Mays of the Giants and Duke Snider of the Dodgers. I would say these are the two most valuable players of the year. Strangely enough they are in competition as center fielders for the all-star cast.

* * *

Snider has the jump as a batting average leader. Mays has the call as a home-run hitter.

But in the matter of inspirational qualities for his team, Mays leads both leagues by a definite margin. In other words, Mays means as much to the Giants as an uplifting factor as any two men can mean for any other club.

Leo Durocher saw this raw value in Mays two years ago, before Willie left for the Army. He was a big help then. He is an even bigger help today, and has been all season.

I would say that Willie Mays has won more ball games than any other player from either league. But he means something more to a team than a player who makes incredible catches and bats in many runs.

* * *

He is the likeable type, the type that is elemental. His love of the game is far beyond any salary influence. His eternal good nature is an inspiring factor day after day and week after week.

* * *

It is hard to say anyone physically is a better center fielder than Duke Snider. I have seen him make impossible catches, even to climbing walls. He is undoubtedly one of the games greatest all-around hitters—from single to home runs. He is becoming one of the games outstanding stars.

Babe Ruth hit two singles in his first opening day game as a member of the Yankees April 14, 1920.

Midget Auto Driver Dies in Race Crash

CINCINNATI (AP)—A midget race car crashed into a wall at the Cincinnati Race Bowl last night and driver Johnny Key, 30, of Anderson, Ind., was killed.

Key was thrown out of his car and then was struck by another racer. He was in the third lap of a preliminary heat when the accident occurred.

$2,236 Daily Double at Arlington Park

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP)—The biggest daily double of the current Chicago racing season, $2,236.60, paid off yesterday at Arlington.

Thirty one persons had $2 tickets, and one lucky bettor had a $5 ticket on the combination. Coronation Boy, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Muckler paid $114.40, $39.40 and $22.20 in winning the first race. Pete Moreno piloted Harry L. Freyn's Local Clover to a four-length win in the second. Local Clover paid $45.00, $19.00 and $12.40. The national record daily double is $10,772 established at Washington Park in suburban Homewood in 1939.

Heavy Sand, Thick Rough Calls for Use of Wedge

By SAM SNEAD

The Wedge

The wedge is quite a golf club. Some golf observers feel this club has cut the scores of the moderns from 3 to 5 strokes a round under the greats of the past. It is a great club for getting out of trouble.

I recommend the wedge for "heavy" sand shots or those sand trap lies in which the ball is partly buried, and from thick rough from about 60 yards or less from the green. Wedge's weight will cut through sand or grass better than an 8 or 9 iron.

Also if you hit with the wedge correctly the ball has plenty of backspin and stops quickly when (and if) it lights on the green.

Distance determines your backswing in this shot, but most of the time it is fairly short. It's more of an arm than a body shot, so don't use much pivot. Today's player is not using much of a pivot as he swings back. Bring the club back with a perfectly straight left arm, keep your right elbow especially close to your body and hit with your wrists.

If you want extra backspin from either the sand or the rough, open the clubhead and play the ball well forward.

Chiefs, All Stars Win

Pontiac Chiefs came from behind in the final 2 minutes on Don Howden's goal Wednesday night to defeat Strawberry Hill, 8-6, in the featured polo game at Ivory Field. In the preliminary, Mike Wacker's 8 goals led the Detroit All Stars to a 9-8 win over Ivory Polo Club.

Miss Connolly Is Favored to Retain Crown

'Little Mo' Is Paired Against Mrs. Pratt in Semi-Finals

By ROBERT JONES

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Four American women were keeping the Stars and Stripes flying at Wimbledon today as they clashed in the semifinals of the All-England women's championship—with all the betting money placed solidly on defending champion Maureen Connolly.

* * *

It will be 19-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia against Jaroslav Drobny, Czech-born now living in Egypt, Friday in the men's singles final.

* * *

Rosewall, second-seeded, defeated top-seeded Tony Trabert of Cincinnati 3-6, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1 and Drobny eliminated Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris 6-2, 6-4, 4-6, 9-7 yesterday.

Little Mo Connolly from San Diego, Calif., plays Mrs. Betty Pratt of South Orange, N.J., in one semifinal. Two former Wimbledon champions, Louis Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., meets Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., in the other match. The finals will be played Saturday.

* * *

Miss Connolly looking for a third straight championship is ranked first with Miss Hart seeded second. Both girls fought it out for the championship last year.

Miss Hart, who won the title three years ago, meets Miss Brough, who won the championship three years in succession. She won in 1948, 1949 and 1950.

* * *

Mrs. Pratt, seeded eighth, scored the only upset in the women's division by eliminating Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, in three sets in the quarter-finals.

Miss Connolly has polished off her four opponents in quick-time.

Her best victories were against Britain's Angela Buxton and Mrs. Margaret du Pont of Wilmington, Del. She crushed Miss Buxton without losing a single game and dropped only two in beating Miss Du Pont.

There are 17 players in the American League who have scored more than 500 runs during their major league careers.

Suggs Says Amateur Could Win Open Test

By BOB HOOBING

PEABODY, Mass. (AP)—The Women's National Open golf championship got under way at Salem Country Club today with a prediction by Louise Suggs that the amateurs had as good a chance to win the event as the professionals.

* * *

Miss Suggs, leading money winner among the play-for-pay girls so far this year, based her statement on the length of the 6,393 yard, tree-lined course on which the 72-hole three-day medal tourney is being held. Par is 36-36—72.

* * *

"There are a lot of long distance hitters among the amateurs this year like Joyce Ziske, Mickey Wright, and Pat Lesser and that's what this course requires," says Louise.

"It's a long course with plenty of sloping terrain that requires deep, high arching drives," she adds.

And its generally agreed that Theodora (Pippy) Rooney, a local girl, drives the ball as hard and as far as any of the 21 professionals and 32 amateurs in the field.

Still, no amateur has ever won the event in its eight year history and the five previous winners still hold the key to the Open. Babe Zaharias, Miss Suggs, and defending champion Betsy Rawls have won twice each while Patty Berg and Betty Jameson have scored single victories.

Mrs. Jacqueline Pung, the hefty swinger from Hawaii, who says the other golfers are determined to break the strangle of the Big Five, has her chance this morning on the program which began at 9.30 a.m. (EST). Mrs. Pung drew Miss Suggs in one of the feature twosomes.

7-Run 1st Inning Enough for Winner

All the scoring took place in the 1st inning Wednesday night at Township Park in Drayton Plains as Dixie Recreation downed Drayton Drug, 7-1.

Jim McClellan hurled 2⅓ innings without giving a hit, then retired for Don Hill. Hill pitched a 3-hitter the rest of the way, fanning 6. Corbin Ream's 2-run double highlighted Recreation's 7-run 1st inning.

Marshall Rose had 2 of Drug's 3 hits.

In Junior League play, White Brothers trounced Day's Sanitary, 15-1.

Young Ends 40 Years of Collegiate Sports Work

EAST LANSING (AP) — A burly, erect man took a walk today after more than 40 years in American college athletics.

Ralph H. Young, athletic director at Michigan State College for 31 years, took the walk—but only on orders. He was being retired under college policy and he went with his head up.

Young is old only in years. He has reached the retirement age of 65 and gone on his one-year terminal leave of absence but to thousands of MSC alumni Young seemed as solid and erect and chipper as he had for the past decade.

Today, Clarence L. (Biggie) Munn, the master coach who led MSC to a national football championship and a Rose Bowl victory over the west, takes over as MSC athletic boss—and Young looks for green fields.

Young came to MSC in 1923 when the college was not even a dim star in the football sky and its enrollment totaled 2,035.

Jackson Gets All Star Lead

Cubs' Third Baseman Overtakes Jablonski in NL Voting

CHICAGO (AP)—Randy Jackson of the Chicago Cubs today returned to the National League third base lead in the balloting for the annual All-Star game at Cleveland July 13.

Jackson regained first place by 12,233 votes over Ray Jablonski of the St.Louis Cardinals in the latest tabulation. Jackson had 548,259 to 536,026 for Jablonski.

Larry (Yogi) Berra, New York Yankees catcher, held a 3,035 lead over Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals in the race for the poll's highest individual vote-getting honors. Berra has 582,326 to 579,291 for Musial.

* * *

Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees and Walter Alston of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who will manage the American and National League teams, will announce complete squads for the game Tuesday.

Katlin Sets Mark, but Fair Wins Feature

Mickey Katlin, the Howell test driver, made his 1st appearance of the season at the Pontiac M-59 Speedway Wednesday night, winning 2 events and setting a track record.

Katlin won the 4-car dash, then took the Australian pursuit in 4 minutes, 7.28 seconds, a record for the 12-lap event.

Winner of the feature for the 4th time this year was Pontiac's Joy Fair. He caught Chuck Partello of Rochester with a half-lap to go.

A spectacular crash forced a re-start of the feature as Chuck Shaughnessy's car rolled and was struck by another. Shaughnessy was taken to General Hospital, treated for bruises and a face laceration and released.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING—Bill Wilson, Philadelphia Athletics, hit two home runs, the second with two out in the ninth inning to give the A's a 8-7 victory over the Washington Senators.

PITCHING — Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies, hurled a six-hit shutout blanking the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-0 for his 11th victory of the season.

HERE ARE the FACTS About Tire Guarantee

All tires carry the manufacturers Standard LIFE-TIME GUARANTEE which means a guarantee only against "factory defects" in workmanship and material . . . BUT only 1 tire in 100 fails because of "factory defects." The rest fail because of ROAD HAZARDS (glass cuts, spike, curb cracks, rim bruises, etc.) SO . . . Ask your dealer point blank, "IS THIS TIRE GUARANTEED IN WRITING BY THE MANUFACTURER AGAINST ALL ROAD HAZARDS?"

Rawlings Is Held on Draft Charge

CHICAGO, July 1 (AP) — Luther Rawlings, one of the nation's top welterweight boxers, was seized by FBI agents Wednesday on a charge of failure to register for the draft.

Rawlings, whose real name is Lucius Minor Jr., was seized while training at the Midwest Athletic Club on the West Side for a tentatively scheduled July 17 fight at Miami with Italo Scoriticcini.

Rawlings, who also was one of the top contenders for the lightweight crown in 1952 then held by Jimmy Carter, claimed he registered for the draft in 1947, but FBI agents said they could find no such record.

Only Giants, Indians Showed Gain in June

by BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians and New York Giants greeted July in first place today, but they probably were a little sorry to see June fade from the calendar.

In the last 30 days every one of the other 14 major league teams lost ground in the pennant races.

Cleveland was in first place a month ago but added two games to its margin over Chicago and half a game over the third place New York Yankees.

* * *

The Giants turned in the best record ever compiled for the month of June in the modern history of the majors. They won 24 out of 28 games and moved from third place, a game and a half out of the lead, into a three-game advantage over second place Brooklyn.

The Dodgers had an excellent 21-8 mark for the month but dropped from a single game behind to three.

The ground lost by American League teams also was considerable although not as much as in the senior circuit.

On the final day of the month the Giants whipped Brooklyn 5-2, Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 8-0, St. Louis crushed Cincinnati 11-3 and Chicago broke an 11-game losing streak with a 9-7 decision over Milwaukee in the National League.

Cleveland shaded Baltimore 2-0, Chicago bowed to Detroit 4-3, Boston tripped the Yankees 6-1 and Philadelphia edged Washington 8-7 in the American League.

* * *

Mike Garcia handcuffed Baltimore on four singles and Larry Doby gave him the only run he really needed with a 400-foot homer, longest hit so far in Baltimore's Municipal Stadium. Dick Kryhoski of the Orioles went hitless for the first time in 20 games.

* * *

The Yankees ran into Willard Nixon again in Boston and the righthander whipped them for the third time this season. Tom Morgan of the Yankees hit three Boston batters in the third inning, tying a major league record. Mickey Mantle's 14th homer was the only New York run.

* * *

Bill Wilson, who has found the home run range since being traded to Philadelphia by the White Sox, hit a pair against Washington, the second one coming in the last of the ninth for the victory margin. Wilson has hit seven homers, five in June.

Victors on Tuesday Feel Victim's Sting Wednesday

What a difference a day makes. Just Tuesday Pontiac Police baseball team was celebrating a 3-2 upset victory over Pontiac High, while Rochester was limping away from a 17-1 rout by Griff's Grill.

* * *

Both of these Class D City League clubs saw action again Wednesday, but this time things were different.

Clarkston halted the Pontiac nine, 8-2, on Bill Dunstan's 3-hit pitching, and Rochester rebounded to shut out Doris Skating Rink, 12-0, on Billy Henderson's 5-hit work.

In Class E, Lytell-Colegrove won for the 2nd day in a row by tripping Boys Club, 6-1. Again the winner was Ron Kind, who yielded 5 hits and fanned 11.

Jerry Orr registered a no-hitter in Class F as Lunsford Market downed the Boys Club Nationals, 7-1. Orr struck out 9 and walked 6, with 1 of the walks and an error depriving him of a shutout.

* * *

In the Knothole loop, Boys Club whipped Dick & Wes, 12-1, with Dave Jones posting a 1-hitter; Bob Arsenawlt homered in Avondale's 23-3 drubbing of the Indians; Senators routed the White Sox, 21-3, with Dan Chandler homering; and Vollmar's defeating the Red Sox, 8-4.

First Win for Clawson Legion

Clawson's American Legion baseball team won its 1st game of the season Wednesday night to evacuate the 18th District League cellar by downing Huron Valley Boys Club, 9-6.

Waterford fell to the basement by dropping a 4-2 decision to Berkley, which retained 2nd place by its victory.

Clawson took a lead in the 1st, lost it in the 3rd, tied the count in the 4th, then went ahead to stay in the 5th when pitcher Chuck Dunkel hit a 2-run homer. Dunkel fanned 6 and though touched for 8 hits, he stranded 11 Huron Valley runners.

A rarity in sandlot ball, no bases on balls, highlighted the Waterford-Berkley game. Skip Becker struck out 13 in posting the 3-hit triumph, getting 17 in a row from the 1st to 7th innings between a pair of singles by Jerry Kryskie.

Cavaretta Makes 1st Start Against Cubs

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)— Phil Cavarretta, hot-hitting "Spare Tire" of the Chicago White Sox, tonight plays for the first time against the team he served 20 years as man and boy, the Chicago Cubs.

* * *

There's a touch of irony in 37-year-old Cavarretta's appearance in a charity exhibition game against the wobbly Bruins who last spring disowned him as manager because of alleged lack of will to win.

* * *

Since Phil joined the Sox in May, he has become a most valuable pinch-hitter and standin for Ferris Fain at first base. In 19 games he has batted 30 times and produced 11 hits for a club-leading .367 average.

With Fain injured, Cavarretta must play in the vital series at Cleveland this weekend.

The Cubs, in replacing Cavarretta with Stan Hack, offered to keep Phil in the organization, but the "Old Pro" elected to step out and try to hook on elsewhere.

Cavarretta is in marvelous physical condition. He still can cut a wicked caper around first base. Even on his "outs", he has been laying the wood to the ball.

Top U.S. Pacers in National Test

World Mark Looms in Rich Event Tonight at Roosevelt Raceway

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP) — Philip Scott, who was an ordinary trotter in 1952 but was converted to a pacer last year, rules the slight favorite in Roosevelt Raceway's $25,000 National Pacing Derby tonight.

* * *

The derby is the first major eastern event for pacers this season, and features the appearance of the sensational Adios Boy, who amazed the harness racing world as a 2-year-old.

Nine of the nation's fastest side-wheelers are in the invitational mile and one quarter derby, and Grand Circuit veterans wouldn't be surprised if a world record went by the boards. Good Time set the world standard of 2:31 3-5 when he won the 1952 derby.

Deer Doing Damage

LANSING (AP)—Conservation department field personnel received three complaints of deer damage from southern Michigan farmers in one week. Officials said this was a sign of possible future trouble.

The three complaints came from Oakland, Livingston and Ionia Counties.

Tid-Bits From Majors:

Braves Have Lost 14 Games by One Run; Cards' Repulski Batting Sizzling Pace

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—No wonder Milwaukee Manager Charley Grimm has an ulcer. The Braves have dropped 14 games by one run and lost eight more by a two-run margin. If they had won half of these squeakers, the Braves would be one game behind the pace-setting Giants today instead of 12.

The Cardinals' Rip Repulski whacked National League pitching at a sizzling .443 pace over the last 15 games. He cracked out 27 hits in 61 trips and raised his batting average from .236 to .282. Included in the string are seven homers and two triples.

Four of the 22 pitchers who have served up bases-filled homers in the majors this year no longer are in the big time. They are Joe Page (to Whitey Lockman), Turk Lown (Jim Greengrass), Bill Werle (Yogi Berra) and Jehosie Heard (Cass Michaels).

* * *

Johnny Sain, the Yankees' valuable relief pitcher, has appeared in 23 games for the world champions this season and has been scored on in only three of them. He's given up eight runs in 33 innings and New York has won 17 of the tilts in which he's appeared.

* * *

The change of uniforms from Baltimore to Cleveland has done Vic Wertz a lot of good. Vic batted only .202 for the Orioles before they dealt him to the Tribe early in June. With the Indians, Wertz is hitting .305 on 18 hits in 59 trips.

* * *

Chico Carrasquel of the White Sox has the highest fielding average among American League short stops. He has made only 10 errors in 374 chances for a defensive mark of .973. Chico's batting .257.

In horse racing a "hand ride" is one in which the jockey does not use his whip at any time during the contest.

Giants Set Record Win Pace in June

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants set a record pace in June when they won 24 games and lost only 4. Only four other teams in modern major league history have better percentages for any single month and all came later in the season.

In 1906 the Chicago Cubs won 26 and lost 3 in August. In 1951 the Giants won 24 and lost 3, also in August. In 1938 the Cubs won 23 and lost 3 in September.

In the American League the only better record was by the 1941 Yankees who won 25 and lost 4 in July.

DETROIT (UP) — The Detroit Lions announced today its out-of-town games will be televised in the Detroit area again this year.

All of the out-of-town games will be televised except the Green Bay game Nov. 21. Cable difficulties will prevent the telecast of that game.

Lubricating Grease Gums Up Car Traffic

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — A 50-gallon barrel of lubricating grease gummed up rush-hour southbound traffic at Woodward Avenue and Long Lake Road yesterday afternoon.

Consumer's Power truck driver Richard Loucks, 38, of Royal Oak, stopped for the traffic light, about 4:30 p.m. The barrel bounced to the pavement, and the grease spread out.

Two southbound lanes were slicked over for two hours, causing traffic to detour around it. Oakland County Road Commission men shoveled sand into the morass until 6:30.

Juanita Warren, 21, of 365 Weston St., Pontiac, slipped while attempting to cross the intersection, and plunged into the grease, according to police. She was treated at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital for cuts and bruises.

Michigan, County Officials Discuss Area Sanitation

KEEGO HARBOR — State and county health authorities met with the local Chamber of Commerce this week, at the invitation of sanitation chairman Francis Ammerman.

Maury Richman of the State Health Department told the group that a sanitary system would be too expensive to build for Keego Harbor alone.

Probe of Blaze Not Near End

One of 3 Investigators Says Officials Will Be Questioned Next Week

BIRMINGHAM — Jonathan M. Ball, one of the three-man investigating committee set up to ascertain whether firemen or policemen were in any way at fault during the early-morning blaze which cost the lives of a mother and her two sons on June 14, said yesterday the committee can't yet see an end in sight to the inquiry.

Six or seven more witnesses met with the board Tuesday night, with another hearing scheduled for tonight, Ball said. He guessed that tonight's meeting will end the statements from residents, "although a few more may filter into meetings next week."

City officials will be questioned starting next week, Ball said.

Dead from the flash fire that swept through their home at 1189 Brookwood and suffocated them, are Mrs. Thomas Couper, 40, and her two sons, Lawrence, 14, and Daniel, 12.

Mrs. Couper's father, Lawrence W. Cross Sr., 62, was rescued unconscious from his bedroom and has since been released from the hospital.

Fire Chief Vernon W. Griffith has upheld the actions of his men in making rescue attempts first and fighting the flames second. Charges of negligence were brought by a few nearby residents who witnessed the fire.

Rochester Council Signs Fire Protection Coverage

ROCHESTER — Contracts with the Avondale Fire Assn. and the Avon Township Board were signed by the Village Council this week.

The recently established Avondale Fire Department, with its equipment purchased by the township, located on Auburn Road, will now have the same status as Brooklands Fire Department.

Fire Chief George Ross will inspect all equipment, and the Rochester office will dispatch the firemen to blazes. In case of a bad fire in the village, the outlying departments would render assistance.

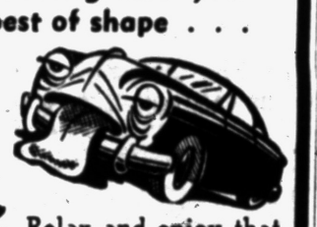

Councilmen voted to construct 600 feet of sidewalk on the south side of First street, reaching to the Brentwood Hills subdivision. The cost of this project will be split by the village and the property owners.

An auditor's report of the village's financial status was accepted. For the end of the fiscal year, it showed expenditures within the budget figures. Village Manager Robert Slone said he hoped by the next meeting that a sizable amount might be added to the $12,000 capital improvement fund.

A public hearing was set for July 26 on the proposed off-street parking zoning ordinance.

5th Is Recent Law Graduate

Rochester Family Unique, Has 4 Practicing Lawyers

By ROBERT F. MAHER

A Rochester family enjoys the unique distinction of having four of its members practicing attorneys and another a law school graduate.

Preston Allen, 62, of 485 Gunn Rd., was admitted to the Michigan Bar Association in 1922 following his graduation from Detroit College of Law. His wife, Cecile, attended Cumberland University's Law School in Tennessee after their marriage so that she "could be on equal footing in any arguments."

Their son, Robert, 27, also of the Gunn road address, was the latest member of the family to be admitted to the bar. A June graduate of Wayne University, he recently received word of his success in the April Michigan State Bar examination.

Robert has been court clerk for Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty for three years and finished his law school studies by attending night classes during that time. He said he doesn't believe his wife, Joan, has any inclination for taking up law studies, however.

Another son, John, 30, was admitted to the Michigan State Bar in 1950 after his graduation from Wayne University. He lives with his wife at 3311 Coolidge Hwy, Royal Oak, and is practicing with his father and Royal Oak Mayor Howard Kelley.

A daughter of the Rochester family, Mrs. Dorothea MacBratney, 33, now lives in Washington, D. C. and is a member of the Virginia and Tennessee State Bars.

She was graduated from Cumberland University in 1941, only seven years after her mother finished her law studies there.

Robert said that no pressure was brought to bear on any member of the family to go into law, that "it just appealed to us all."

He said his father was a registered pharmacist before entering law school and the other members of the family just seemed to accept the challenge too.

"The family is planning a reunion sometime in the near future in honor of the event," Robert said, "but we're all so busy that the celebration may be a long way off."

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marklewitz of 311 W. Fifth St., Rochester announce the engagement of their daughter Janice, to Alva Earl Shotwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Shotwell, of Leonard. An August 7 wedding is planned.

Carmen Jones Leads, Won't Do the Singing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The most expensive movie with an all-Negro cast is getting under way, and it will present Bizet with a Harlem touch.

The picture is "Carmen Jones." It is being made by Otto Preminger, the bold, bald Viennese who tilted with the censors last year with his "The Moon Is Blue."

"Carmen Jones" was a wartime hit on Broadway when it was produced by Billy Rose. Oscar Hammerstein II — this was just before his historic partnership with Richard Rodgers — took the opera and made Don Jose a GI, Carmen a parachute factory worker and the toreador a prize fighter. The Bizet music was not jazzed up. The arias remained the same, but Hammerstein changed the lyrics into the idiom of the American Negro.

* * *

Now "Carmen Jones" is getting the film treatment, with color CinemaScope and all that. Heading the cast are two popular singers — Dorothy Dandridge and Harry Belafonte. But you won't hear their singing voices.

Their songs will be recorded by Katherine Hilgensburg, a promising young white soprano, and Laverne Hutcherson, current lead in "Porgy and Bess."

"Why do you hire singers and then don't let them sing?" I asked Preminger.

"Because the music is still Bizet; I can't change that," replied the producer-director. "The two leads are not operatic singers.

"But I think it is very important to cast singers in the roles. Thus they will know how to 'sell' a song. If you have an actor do it, he merely mouths the words without feeling. And I am having the stars work closely with their singing doubles so each will get the feel of the songs together."

* * *

"I have been assured there will be none," he said. "Apparently there is no objection to all-Negro pictures, even in the Deep South. The pictures that have trouble are those with mixed casts or ones that present problems, like 'Pinky.' And even those manage to get playing time in the South.

"Ours is not a problem picture. There is not a white person in the cast. The whole action takes place in the Negro world, thus creating a kind of wonderland effect. No one could be offended by it."

Star's Mother Dies

Wayne County Sheriff, 76, Fights Retirement Order

DETROIT (AP)—William H. Kelly, 76, who says he's to oyoung to retire, has won the first round of his fight tokeep his job

Kelly won a temporary order from Wayne County Circuit Judge George B. Murphy yesterday, restraining the county retirement board from retiring im and putting him on pension.

He charged that the board was illegally depriving him of his livelihood and his $4,846 yearly salary. He said:

"I was appointed to my job 10 years ago and the law excepts elected or appointed county employes from forced retirement at 65 or 70."

The board of supervisors said, however, its retirement plan requires retirement at 65 on pension of all county employes except that they shall be allowed to serve ten years after their date of employment.

Criticism Fails to Restrain Chiang's Son in Red Fight

TAIPEH (UP) — The most controversial man in Formosa today is a short, 44-year-old lieutenant general named Chiang Ching-kuo.

He is the eldest son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, president of Nationalist China, and heads the general political department of the ministry of national defense. His power is tremendous.

Gen. Chiang Ching-kuo is by nature a modest, retiring individual who shuns personal publicity, but recently he has been thrust into the headlines by others.

K. C. Wu, former governor and self-appointed critic of the Nationalist regime in Formosa, charged that the younger Chiang is the Russian-taught engineer of a Formosan "police state."

A Princeton University professor, Dr. Hu Shih, who recently returned to the United States after attending the National Assembly here, drew a kinder picture. Chiang-kuo, he said, is the "McCarthy of Asia"—in short, a man who feels that the results outweigh idle talk of "methods."

There are those on Formosa who dislike the young general, but it is difficult to find one who does not respect him. His honesty, personal integrity and sincere devotion to a cause he deeply believes in are beyond question.

His critics claim Chiang Ching-kuo is using Communist methods to fight the Communist threat. They say he is hard, unyielding and capable of cruelty. They charge him with being a menace to the democratic ideals which China should strive for.

His admirers, and among them are numbered many Americans here, point out that the general is a super-efficient man China desperately needs at this time. They claim that if he had been given free-rein in time, he might have saved mainland China. They think he may yet save the land from the Communists.

General Chiang has organized an Army political setup that deals in morale as well as psychological warfare. The National Youth Corps is his brain-child.

"We have shortcomings," he said. "But the Communist are so close here. They are at our front door. We must deal with them first."

"War is 50 per cent manpower and equipment and another 50 per cent psychology and propaganda," he explains. "It all depends on how we use these forces."

"When we burn a forest we do not burn it one tree at a time. When we destroy a brick wall we do not do it brick by brick. We find a vulnerable point and smash it there."

Tour in Trieste School Spoiling English Teacher

LAS VEGAS, N. M. (INS) —A Highlands University English professor will be spoiled forever once she returns to American classrooms after teaching a year in Trieste.

Dr. Anne Lohrli, professor of English on a year's leave from Highland University in New Mexico to teach at the Institute de Lingue of the University of Trieste, wrote:

"I shall be quite impossible on my return from Trieste; I shall expect students to leap to attention — to their feet — whenever I enter the classroom; and I shall expect tea to be served me by a uniformed attendant between classes."

Dr. Lohrli, in her letter to Dr. Thomas C. Donnelly, Highland's president, said people in Trieste are very interested in learning English.

She said about 500 persons come to her evening classes every week despite snow and bitter cold.

Woman Studies Gorilla Behavior

Psychiatrist Conducts Long-Term Study of 3 Hairy Beasts

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (INS) — Mrs. Joan Kelly of San Diego, Calif., is one of the few people can say "monkey business" really is her business.

Mrs. Kelly, or rather Dr. Kelly, animal behaviorist, is so closely attached to "monkey business" that she has been dubbed by colleagues and friends as the "Gorilla Lady."

It all started in 1950 when Albert, Bata and Bouba arrived from Africa to add to the slim number of gorillas in American zoos.

Mrs. Kelly, holder of various psychology degrees from Wellesley and the University of Michigan, is conducting a long-term study of her three hairy charges.

"Albert is the friendliest," she confides, "while Bata is the tomboy and Bouba is just an old glamour puss."

One thing stands out above all other features of a gorilla's growth, Dr. Kelly said, and that is "they get more animal-like as they grow older — but I still think of them as three little babies."

Dr. Kelly's study is unique in that there are only some 35 or 40 gorillas in American zoos and her's is the only group of three under a single roof.

Despite the volumes of data she already has accumulated concerning the gorilla's growing habits, mental and social behavior, the doctor is writing a children's book about her three "kids."

Three Are Dead in Flint Shooting

Discontent, Resentment Seen Behind Suicide, 'Double Murder'

FLINT (AP) — A story of family discontent, including a husband's apparent resentment toward his college - graduate stepdaughter, emerged today from a double slaying and suicide.

Police called it "double murder" and suicide after finding the bodies of Harry S. Bancroft, 58, a paper salesman, his estranged wife, Grace, 46, and his stepdaughter, Ann Alimberg, 21, Michigan State College graduate, in the basement of the $75,000 Bancroft ranchhouse home.

All had been killed by rifle shots. Mrs. Bancroft's body lay across that of Ann's, as though the mother had flung herself there in a futile effort to protect her daughter before being shot herself.

Both the women were shot twice. Bancroft once. Bancroft had gone into the basement recreation room to shoot himself, police said.

Mrs. Bancroft, charging extreme cruelty, recently brought suit for divorce. She complained mainly that her husband, whom she married in 1945, repeatedly embarrassed and criticized Ann although before their marriage he had acted with affection toward her.

The Bancrofts' separated June 7. A court decree forbade Bancroft from living in the house or molesting Mrs. Bancroft. Mrs. Bancroft, onetime owner of a small printing firm, owned the ranch house, according to her attorney.

Phone Workers Out on Strike

Picketing Delay Eases Prospect of Crippled Communications

NEW YORK (AP)—Seventeen thousand CIO workers who install and maintain telephone equipment were called on strike across the nation today but a delay in picketing eased any immediate threat of crippled phone communications.

The men reported for work as usual this morning, but quit their posts shortly after 11 a.m.

The strikers did not set up any picket lines immediately at Michigan Bell plants and neither local nor long distance telephone calls were affected.

However, dial phones and automatic equipment could continue to operate for some time before needing attention or repairs.

The CIO Communications workers Union announced shortly after 6 a.m. that "the strike is on."

In some areas—notably the huge metropolitan area of New York and at Baltimore—the walkout was delayed until 11 a.m. (EDT). No explanation was given.

In New York it also was announced that the present plan of the equipment installers is to delay picketing telephone buildings around the nation until next Tuesday morning. But an official said this plan was "subject to change."

The strike was called after a breakdown in negotiations between the CWA's District 10, and the Western Electric Co., which is the manufacturing arm of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The official start of the strike was announced by Joseph Dunne, director of CWA District 10.

Conference Delegates Told Aging Should Be Achievement

Fourteen Oakland County people were among some 500 men and women attending University of Michigan's Seventh Annual Conference on Aging held Monday through Wednesday.

Co-sponsors of the Ann Arbor conference were the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and U. S. Department of Labor.

The conference decided that aging is an achievement—that healthy oldsters should be proud of the obstacles they've conquered in their long years and their families should share that feeling.

Delegates decided that helping today's young people with mental and physical health problems will help ease future aging problems. They agreed youngsters who start life well-adjusted and healthy are more likely to end it that way.

The conference urged churches, clubs, organizations, and "all levels of society" to try in coming years to help give older people a chance to do useful work.

Mrs. Harold B. Euler, chairman of the Y. W. C. A.'s "Golden Age" group, Miss Eileen E. Muir, Y. W. C. A. executive director; and Mrs. Verne Kennedy, Pontiac attended the conference.

Other delegates were Howard R. Estes, Oakland County Infirmary manager, and Mrs. Estes; and Miss Martha E. Johnson, Oakland County Health Department's assistant nursing director.

Attending from the Birmingham area wwere Mrs. Alice W. Burlingame, Ethel Wood, Mrs. H. H. Corson, Rev. John D. Rose of Birmingham Congregational Church; and Stella Kirk and Virginia L. Meyer of Christ Church Cranbrook.

Delegates also included Fred J. Beckman of Michigan State Grange, Milford; and James G. Bryant, Milford.

GM Wins Patent Suit Against Bendix

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP)—A claim by General Motors Corp. that it held patent rights on an automatic automotive carburetor choke prior to a Bendix Aviation Corp. patent for a similar device was upheld Wednesday by Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert.

Eugene C. Knoblock, South Bend attorney for GM, said the chief effect of the decision in the lengthy lawsuit would be to keep Bendix from blocking General Motors' manufacturer of the choke.

The suit, first filed at St. Louis in 1951, was transferred to the Northern Indiana Federal Court last year.

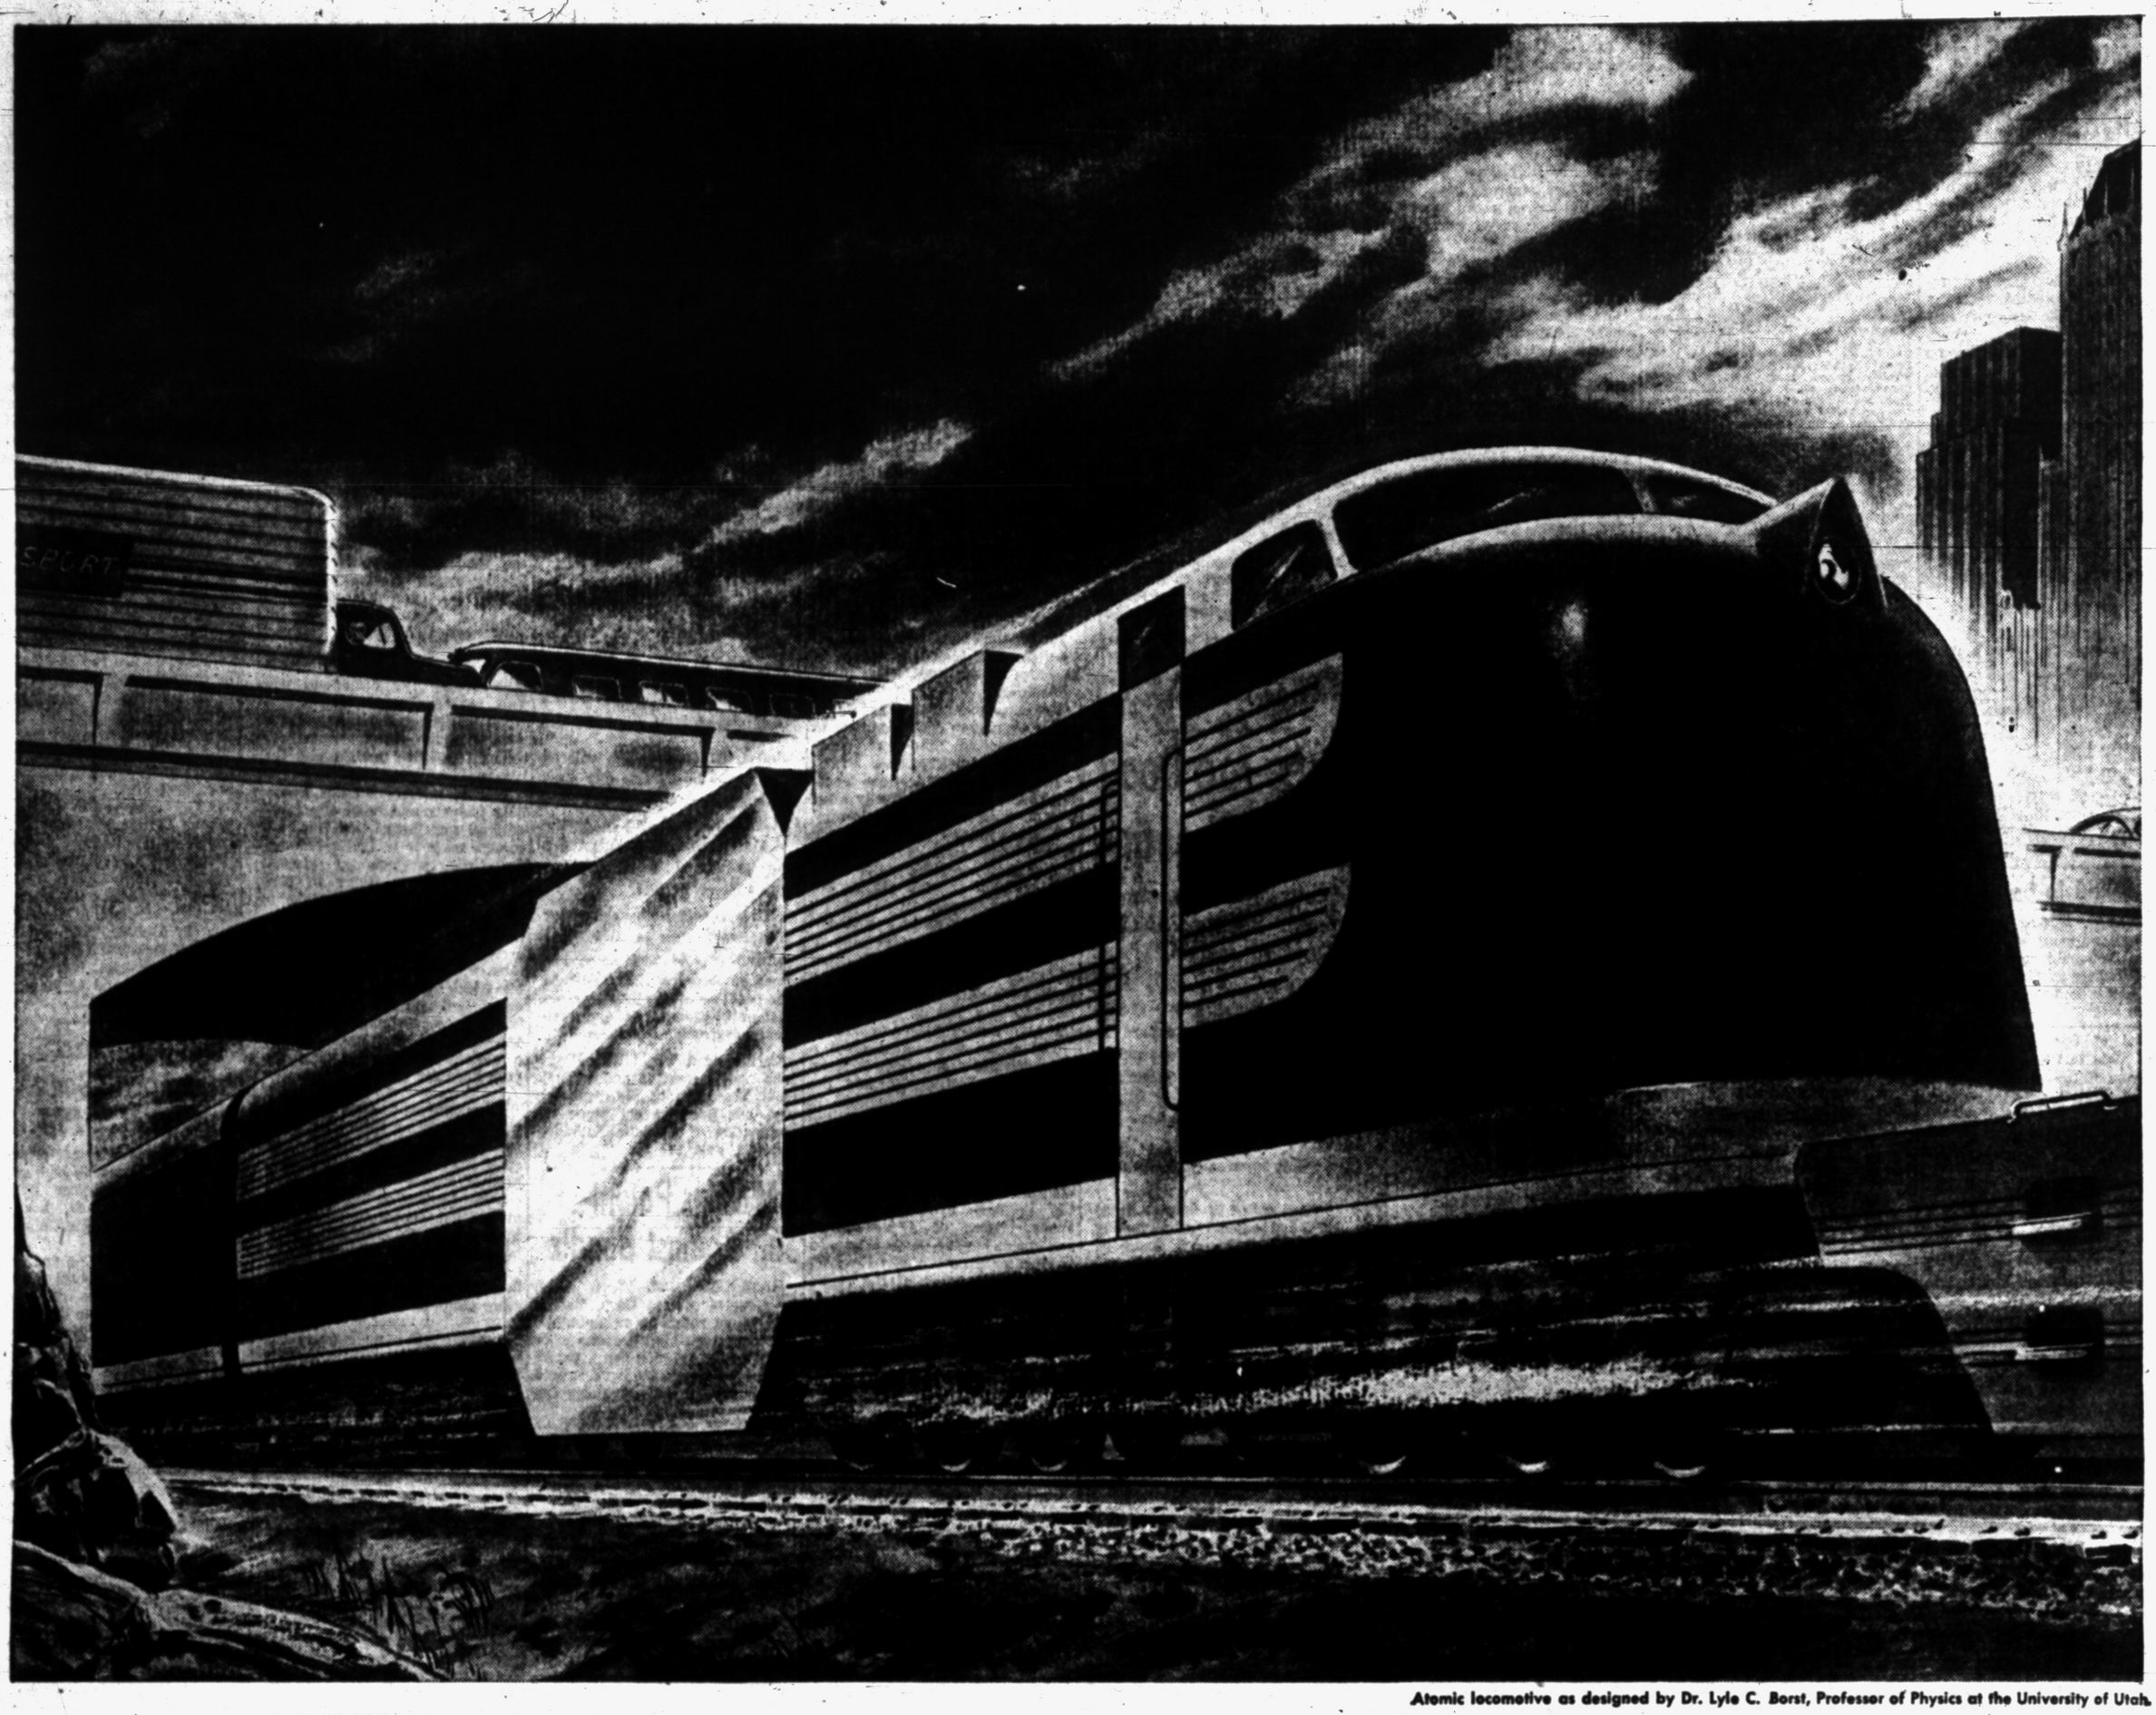

At issue was whether the automatic choking device of Peter and Clarence Jorgensen of Chicago, which was bought by General Motors, was developed before equipment invented by Ernst H. Shaff of Muskegon, Mich., in the late 1920s. The Shaff device was sold to Bendix.

Judge Swygert ruled that General Motors had proved its contention that a patent registered in Washington in 1932 covered work which pre-dated the Bendix claim.

Nature Hastened in GM Device to Age Car Paint

General Motors researchers reported today they have built a machine that will weather auto paint 20 times faster than nature and promises to give new clues to car finish upkeep.

Constructed by the physics and instrumentation

Atomic locomotive as designed by Dr. Lyle C. Borst, Professor of Physics at the University of Utah.

Plans for an atomic locomotive have already been drawn up. As you can see in the picture above, it would look like a conventional engine, except for a 200-ton steel block in the center, which would house the nuclear reactor. It would have the power of four diesels – yet would run for a year on only eleven pounds of fuel.

We point this out merely to emphasize the fact that atomic science is progressing much faster than you may realize – opening up fabulous new fields of opportunity for the American people.

In fact, America is growing and changing so fast that you might well call this our age of opportunity. Just look, if you will, at some of the things that are happening in the U. S. today:

1. SOARING POPULATION—Each month our population increases by enough people to make a Syracuse, N. Y., or a Des Moines, Iowa. By 1960 there will be about 180 million of us. This means huge new demands for everything people eat, wear and enjoy.

2. MONEY AND SAVINGS—Americans have over twice the spending power today than we had in 1940. And savings have risen from $68.5 billion in 1940 to an estimated $250 billion in 1953.

3. WE'RE GOING SUBURBAN—With new suburbs springing up like magic near every city, there's a tremendous demand for houses and everything that goes in them. Not to mention schools, streets, hospitals and shopping centers.

4. MORE LEISURE TIME—Americans are working shorter hours—and today 40,000,000 people have paid vacations. This is a great boon to the hotel and transportation business, to the sport, hobby and entertainment fields.

5. $500 BILLION OPPORTUNITY—Because we've grown so fast, and because the war halted civilian construction, there is now a $500 billion backlog of demand for goods and services to build highways, schools, offices and factories – a backlog that must be filled. (For example, we have to nearly double our school system in the next few years.)

Any way you add it up, America today is a land of phenomenal growth, change and expansion. And in the long run, you're bound to benefit – whether you're a businessman, or a farmer, or a housewife, or an industrial worker.

In short, as America grows . . . so do your opportunities!

Berle Says Public's Vote Is the Last Word

London, England, claims that its fleet of 1,750 trolley buses is the largest in the world and carries 750 million passengers a year.

Although the moon revolves about the earth, it is also part of the earth complex which revolves about the sun.

Milton Spends 6 Years in TV

Finds Everyone Won't Laugh but Performer Can Keep Trying

By MILTON BERLE

NEW YORK — I've been in showbusiness now for 41 years, and the six of them that I've spent in television have been more of an education than all the other 35 put together.

During those hectic six years I've seen many people I've known in the business come and go, week after week. My brother Jack has come for his check and my brother Frank has gone to the bank for his.

However, in all fairness to them, I must confess they both have my interest at heart. The other day they told me when my TV contract is up in another 27 years, I can quite the TV business and go into color radio.

It's been quite a thrill to me, as one of the pioneers in television, to watch it grow. When I first started, all we had were the seven-inch screens.

The new stars on television are a little luckier than the other performers and myself. They have the advantage of the mistakes everybody made in putting on shows when TV first began.

They're not making the same mistakes we made. They're making new ones. I made, and I admit it freely, many natural errors that anyone in a new business is bound to make.

I only kick myself for the one big mistake. I should have had the foresight to buy up all the chairs in the country. If I did that six years ago, today I could rent them out to all the panel shows and I'd never have to work another day in my life.

One of my most important realizations is the lesson I've learned—that although I'm technically the quarterback of my show, I'd be a lost soul without the help of some 100 people who work with me.

These stars-sans-grease-paint run the intereference for me. They include stagehands, writers, musicians, secretaries, costumers and cameramen.

I guess my big lesson in my six years was this. I learned that maybe you can't entertain all of the people all of the time, but it's up to a performer to try.

After four years of doing a variety show, I realized the change in video tastes and I changed with them.

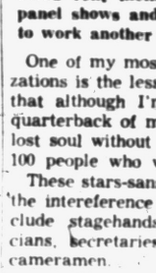

The actors put the show on, the sponsors pay the piper, but in the last analysis it's mother, dad, sister and brother who are the real brains of the TV industry.

On Tuesday nights at eight, I don't want itchy fingers, and the only way I can prevent that is to put on the best show I know how. That's a lesson I learned long ago—when I went on stage for the first time.

PHS Graduate Wins Scholarship to MSC

Charles Gamester, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gamester of 472 Harper St., was recently awarded a Kroger Co., food retail scholarship in a statewide competition.

GAMESTER

The youth, who graduated this June from Pontiac High School, will enter Michigan State College this fall to major in food distribution. The scholarship is a $500 per year grant renewable for four consecutive years at the college. The student's credentials and accomplishments were submitted by PHS teacher Grace McLaughlin, head of the retail department at the high school.

Hirlinger in Chicago

John W. Hirlinger, assistant manager of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce, is in Chicago this week attending a national institute of the U. S. Chamber. The institute, running through Saturday, is primarily an information course for local chamber executives.

CANINE DRAMA—Show business is really going to the dogs as the Kalamazoo Kennel Club stages its annual all-breed dog show. Cast of characters for a "Red Riding Hood" dramatization included Mamma (left), Papa (right) and Red Riding Hood at the breakfast table. The wolf eavesdrops and hears Red's plan to visit grandma. "Actors" have been in training for their unusual act for several weeks.

12-Foot Alligator Ties Up Traffic Nearly an Hour

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A 12-foot alligator is back in the Everglades after tying up traffic on U.S. 1 north of Miami for nearly an hour.

Sheriff's Deputies Richard Wright and Robert Laichak suffered rope burns in the battle to subdue the huge reptile which was first spotted by a motorist along the busy highway last night.

Wright said they couldn't figure what to do when they arrived, since there's a $300 fine for shooting an alligator.

"It lay there peacefully enough until three Humane Society workers arrived," Wright said. "But when we started to rope it, it went wild."

Four ropes were tossed over the creature's snout and neck. It whirled and lunged, snapping its huge jaws and thrashing its tail.

More than 100 persons assembled and shouted encouragement while perspiring officers struggled with the 'gator.

Wright said it was more than a mile from where the 'gator was found to the nearest water.

"This alligator looked like the daddy of them all," said Charles W. Pusey, executive vice president of the Humane Society. "He was the biggest alligator I ever saw."

Index of Farm Prices Four Per Cent Lower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers received for their products dropped 4 per cent between mid-May and mid-June, but the decline was felt largely by commodities not directly involved in the congressional battle over farm price supports.

Most of the decline in the farm price index announced yesterday reflected a decrease of about 17 per cent in prices of hogs and an over-all decrease of 10 per cent in prices of all meat animals. Prices of meat animals are not supported by the government.

Air Age Women Harder to Elude, Flier Believes

OMAHA (AP) — If a girl is looking for a man she might well learn to fly to speed up her search.

That's the advice of Kenneth Newland, who directs the aviation program at Stephens College for Women at Columbia, Mo.

He told an air institute here, "The girls can really get around when they fly. They fly home on weekends from college. They fly here and there. You're bound to meet a lot of men that way."

"Thing" Left on Porch Is Bazooka Shell

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "There was this thing on the side porch," said Christopher Brenner of suburban Greece. "It kept getting in the way."

Brenner had moved into the house a few months ago. He took a plumber's advice against throwing the "thing" away.

Copyright Office Income at Peak

Government Office Gets Most Revenue in Fees From Periodicals

WASHINGTON (UP) — More money was earned by the copyright office during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1953 than ever before.

The register of copyrights reported $865,300 in fees was turned over to the treasury, compared with $803,168 in fiscal 1952. The office registered 218,506 claims to copyright, the third largest number.

Periodicals led the field in fiscal 1953, with 59,371 registrations. Musical compositions were a close second, with 59,302. In third place were 52,347 registrations for books, pamphlets, and similar publications.

More than 5,000,000 copyright registrations were in effect in the United States on June 30, 1953, the report showed. This fugure includes claims registered for the first time or renewed whithin the last 28 years.

The materials for permanent preservation in the Library of Congress' copyright section are varied. One deposit last year consisted of a sample of smelts with a recipe for their preparation. Other developments documented in materials received were the new 3-D wide-screen motion-picture films, the first book composed by the new photographic process known as photon.

Onoy one change was made in the copyright law during the year. An amendment became effective Jan. 1, 1953, extending to non-dramatic literary works performing and recording rights similar to those already accorded dramatic and musical works. This will make it possible for authors to receive royalties for commercial readings of novels, essays, and poetry.
