Bridge Catwalks Near Completion

AP Wirephoto

READY FOR CABLES — Extending from the south cable anchorage (left foreground) across a "cable bent" pier, then to the tops of the two 46-story-high towers and on to the far anchorages, the two Mackinac Bridge catwalks neared completion this week. Each catwalk is a continuous combination workers' platform and safety net which is suspended below the eventual path to be taken by one of the huge bridge cables. Cable spinning is scheduled to begin early in July.

Deadline Nears as Steel Talks Run Into Snarls

Union Firmly Refuses 5-Year Contract Offer Proposed by Firms.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stalemated steel contract negotiations are tobogganning toward a strike deadline of midnight next Saturday.

The crux of the dispute between management and the United Steelworkers of America lies in the industry's insistence on a five-year contract and the union's turndown of the "stand pat" proposal.

Union refusal of a long - term contract focuses the spotlight on what labor considers its bugaboo of the future: automation.

The industry says it wants a five-year contract to avoid annual strike threats and freedom to proceed with plant expansion for the good of the companies, workers and the nation's business.

Past contracts have run for two years with a wage reopener.

Should the union's 650,000 workers in basic steel walk out, the effects will reverberate throughout the entire economy.

David J. McDonald, union president, says acceptance of a five-year pact would require steelworkers and their families to "mortgage an unpredictable future."

UNION IS AFRAID

Union sources have expressed fear that automation and new industrial techniques would lead to drastic shakeup in the present work force.

Referring to the industry's wage raise offer—a management estimated 7.3 cents an hour each year for five years—a union man said:

"What good is a wage increase if new techniques put you out of a job."

McDonald has contended the direct wage offer amounts to "only a nickel" in actual take - home pay.

• • •

Management has agreed to a 52-week layoff pay program asked by the union and has offered compromises in the field of premium pay, vacation, holiday and other benefits.

PROPOSAL INADEQUATE

Union sources said they believe agreement could be worked out on most issues, although McDonald has labeled the entire industry proposal as inadequate.

Yesterday John A. Stephens, U.S. Steel vice president, stated in behalf of 11 steel firms that the industry will be forced to start cooling its furnaces Wednesday or Thursday "if the union persists

Named to Top GOP Convention Jobs

AP Wirephoto

PICK OF THE PARTY — GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall announced yesterday that the 46-member convention arrangements committee had picked these three Republican leaders for key jobs at the August nominating session in San Francisco. They are, left to right, Sen. William F. Knowland of California, designated as temporary chairman of the convention; Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, permanent chairman; and Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut, chairman of the platform committee.

Langlie to Give Major Address at San Francisco

Ike, Nixon '56 Ticket Assured by Hall; Martin Named Chairman

WASHINGTON (INS)— GOP leaders, certain of President Eisenhower's renomination, today threw the influence of the nation's Republican governors behind his candidacy.

Washington's Gov. Arthur B. Langlie, chairman of the governor's conference which opens its annual meeting Sunday in Atlantic City, was picked to keynote the GOP national convention in San Francisco.

It was a pro-Eisenhower coalition of GOP governors at the 1952 conference in Houston, Tex., which, perhaps more than any other single factor, insured Gen. Eisenhower's nomination.

At their meeting, held a few days before the GOP convention in Chicago, Eisenhower supporters accused backers of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of attempting to "steal" Texas delegates.

The charge had the effect of lining up Republican delegates behind Eisenhower and of stalling the Taft drive.

Langlie's selection came amid GOP national chairman Leonard W. Hall's flat prediction that Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon will comprise the Republican ticket.

NO DOUBT FOR HALL

Hall said he didn't have "the slightest doubt" the President would run, and added: "I think you can paste the names of Eisenhower and Nixon in your hat."

The 46-member convention arrangements committee, which chose Langlie, also made these other selections:

House minority leader Joseph W. Martin, Mass., permanent chairman; Senate minority leader William F. Knowland, Calif., temporary chairman, and Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn), platform committee chairman.

Both Bush and Langlie are can-

If So — You're the Minority

Are You the Happily Married?

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Happily married? If so, you're an exception, says Samuel G. Kling.

Kling, Baltimore lawyer and author of several books on marriage, told the Maryland State Bar Assn. yesterday unhappy marriages far outnumber blissful unions.

"For every four marriages, there is one divorce," he said in a speech at the annual convention of lawyers. "And of the three remaining marriages, only one is really happy.

"The other two are marriages that are merely tolerated for one reason or another.

"Some couples remain unhappily wed because of religious scruples, some for the sake of children, others from sheer inertia, some because of cowardice or lack of gumption, some for reasons of vanity, status or prestige.

"Fifty years ago marriage was for life. Today the average duration of marriage is about 10 years. In almost half of a test survey of 81,000 divorces made in 1949, the marriage lasted five years or less."

Kling told the lawyers he is convinced that "youthful marriages are an important factor in our shocking divorce rate."

"The grim fact is that in a marriage where both parties are 20 or younger the divorce rate is even 14 per cent higher than the normal rate," he said.

"But where the bride and groom are between 21 and 25, divorces occur in only six per cent of the cases."

• • •

Kling proposed a sweeping study of marriage and divorce laws, especially those which make youthful marriages possible.

Promised: One Balmy Weekend

Highways Pour Thousands Into Lakes as Sun Shines

Clear skies began luring thousands to Oakland County lakes this morning.

Mostly fair weekend weather was predicted for the first time this summer, bringing the possibility of the heaviest highway travel this year.

State police ordered no special alert. Officials believed most of the congestion would center around lakes and parks in the metropolitan areas.

Heavy north-bound traffic had built up on Dixie Highway by 10:30 a.m. and jams were expected later today.

By mid-morning the Cass Lake state park was one-fifth filled to capacity with a crowd of 5,000 to 6,000.

Highways in Keego Harbor leading to the lakes were clogged around 10 a.m.

State Police at Lansing expected fewer long motor-trips than on a heavy holiday-weekend, but predicted that traffic would be heavier than usual for a summer weekend.

Some officials believed that Memorial Day traffic would be topped. Six died in Michigan traffic that day and five drowned, three in Oakland County.

Here's what the U. S. Wetather Bureau has to predict: A high temperature today of 87-90 degrees, with partial cloudiness later this afternoon and the possibility of a few scattered showers.

Partially cloudy tonight and tomorrow with a low temperature tonight around 64 degrees.

Tomorrow's temperatures were expected to be cooler, with a high of 74 to 78 degrees.

The lowest temperature in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 74. The mercury stood at 88 degrees at 2 p.m.

ARTHUR B. LANGLIE

The Republican party has selected Gov. Arthur B. Langlie, of Washington, to deliver the keynote address at the San Francisco convention in August.

Need Excuse for a Party? 'Half New Year' Is for You

Get out that half-bottle of champagne, Daddy-O, and put on a pint-sized party hat!

Because tonight—as if you didn't already know—tonight is Half New Year's Eve.

At midnight tonight this creaking, but still agile, year will have traveled 182 days of its allotted 366 (leap year, remember?) and tomorrow will be day number 183—half way, right on the button.

Society hostesses along the gold coasts of our swankiest cities have been puzzling for weeks over how many guests make half a party and how many drinks are needed for half-whoopee!

Butlers wielding meat cleavers have been splitting paper hats and noisemakers straight down the middle, preparing for the gay event.

The Night Club Set is buzzing over Lotta Wampum's party tonight. Lotta says she's serving caviar, and every little fish egg will be cut in half.

There should be half a crowd of revelers gathered in New York's Times Square tonight, eagerly watching the big clock. And precisely at midnight, half a shower of ticker tape will flutter to the streets.

(On the theory that two's company and three's a crowd, we figure the half-crowd in Times Square will be one man and a midget.—Ed.)

Half a pandemonium will rip the air. Total strangers will kiss each other in celebration — on the cheek, of course. (Just one cheek — a half, remember.)

And who knows, Daddy-O? You may wake up tomorrow with half a hangover, too.

McGuire Withdraws From Congress Race

Thomas F. McGuire, 52-year-old Oak Park candidate for the Republican nomination to Congress from the 18th District, announced he has withdrawn from the race in favor of Ferndale's George Higgins.

The industrial engineer and management consultant said he had decided to drop out of the race after learning his running against Higgins would mean a "division of strength" among the people in the Oak Park-Ferndale area.

McGuire said he made his decision after consulting with business friends and associates.

Woman Saved From Area Lake

Unidentified Hero Pulls Swimmer From Water; Suffers Shock

A Walled Lake woman was reported in "fair" condition at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital this morning after being saved from drowning by an unidentified man at Wolverine Lake in Commerce Township, last night.

Mrs. Lila Ryding, 41, of 1715 Shenken Rd., was said to be suffering from severe shock following the narrow escape.

She had sand in her lungs, eyes and ears, and water in her lungs when examined last night, according to the Oakland County Sheriff's Dept.

Investigating deputies said Mrs. Ryding had apparently been swimming alone when she went down. She was pulled out of the water at 8:07 p.m. and given artificial respiration before being rushed to the hospital.

LPGA in Third Round of Play

Marlene Bauer Hagge Holds Two-Stroke Lead Over Patty Berg

Another hot and humid day with the threat of rain greeted the pros and amateurs today in the LPGA Championship and the Wolverine Open which moved into the 3rd round at Forest Lake Country Club.

Leader after two rounds with an 8-under-par total of 69-73—142 is Marlene Bauer Hagge, followed by Patty Berg with 71-73—144 and Betty Jameson with 74-72—146.

Leading the amateurs is Miss Jean Hopkins of Cleveland with an 80-74—154.

Early scores for the front nine showed: Jane McFarlane, Country Club of Detroit, 41; Ms. S. W. Nunneley, Forest Lake, 42; Mrs. T. O. McLaughlin, Western Golf Club, 42; Mrs. L. W. Smead, Forest Lake, 45; Mrs. William Balkwell, Twin Beach, 47; Mrs. Phyllis Mehas, Pine Lake, 46; Mrs. Evelyn Vershure, Twin Beach, 49; and Mrs. Hazel Heincelman, Twin Beach, 50.

Other early scores: Mrs. Donald Watkins, Birmingham, 42, and Mrs. J. G. Israel, Knollwood, 43.

Nevada to Outthrow Everyone at Convention

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Going on the assumption that nothing impresses like money, the Nevada delegation to the National Junior Chamber of Commerce Convention figures to leave quite an impression.

The Nevadans have sent word they plan to pitch 10,000 silver dollars away during the parade of states next Wednesday. The week-long convention opens here Monday.

P.S. — The Florida delegation will throw grapefruit.

Twining in U. S. S. R. to 'Look and Listen'

MOSCOW (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chief of America's far-flung Air Force, arrived in Moscow today to inspect Russia's aerial might.

* * *

Twining told his Soviet hosts as he stepped off his DC6B that he had come to the Soviet Union to "look and listen."

He was met by Marshal Ivan S. Konev who told him "we are glad to meet you and hope you enjoy your stay."

Twining was the first of the West's Big Three air chiefs to arrive for an unprecedented look at the Soviet air force. He arrived in response to a Soviet invitation to attend its annual Aviation Day, tomorrow, at which this nation shows off its new air development.

Cubs Looking Over New U. S. Home

CAUTIOUS EXPLORATION — Two black bear cubs from Canada are casting wary eyes as they explore the surroundings of their new home at the Zoo in Forest Park, St. Louis. John Arado of suburban Affton, Mo., became responsible for the care of the cubs under Canadian law after he shot their mother on a recent hunting trip near Sioux Narrows, Ont. Arado offered them as a gift to the Zoo and George Vierheller, director, enthusiastically acecpted the offer.

Rehearsing Reds Save New Jets for Gen. Twining?

MOSCOW (AP) Soviet air force jets rehearsing for their big annual show have shown some gaps in their formations. Western observers are guessing that when the show is staged Sunday those gaps will be filled by some startling new models.

Already glimpsed in the practice formations screaming over Moscow from the nearby Tushino base have been two new types of aircraft.

The five empty places in each formation are taken to mean that five more experimental jets are to be unveiled dramatically before an international audience including Gen. Nathan Twining, U.S. Air Force chief of staff.

Group Will Push Water Fluoridation

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of medical, dental and civic leaders have formed a committee to spread facts and correct information on fluoridation of water supplies.

It has been named the Committee to Protect Our Children's Teeth, Inc., with headquarters at 105 E. 22nd St. Its chairman is Dr. Benjamin Spock, who is visiting professor of child development at Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

Dr. Spock said the campaign for fluoridation will concentrate on New York City where the board of health has recommended the measure repeatedly.

He called water fluoridation "the safest, most effective and the cheapest way to protect children's teeth."

But It's an Awful Living

'Free-Loader' Has Profitable Trip

By JANICE HAYHOW

The old proverb "You never get something for nothing" just "ain't necessarily so." It depends on what you're looking for.

Armed with a notebook and pencil and not a penny to my name, I went calling on local merchants to find tangible items they had to offer that wouldn't cost a copper.

Amazingly enough those kinds of items aren't too hard to find. Our merchants (full of goodwill) have several free items they stick in with purchases or hand out to those who ask.

Mostly what's available free of charge to local customers is plenty of good old-fashioned advice. But looking for something materialwise, I disregarded this major commodity.

Supporting yourself while free-loading off the merchants might not work out so well. Those tasty tidbits of cheese from Wrigley's are fine for a snack, but they don't quite suffice for a day's meals. Besides, people start giving you funny looks when you go back the fourth time.

You can stay neat and tidy looking with the comb and emery board compliments of Diem's Shoes. Diem's also sends matches home to dad and balloons to the kids.

If you want to paint a room or house, it's a free-loader's heaven at the Pontiac Glass Co., because you can get yardsticks, paint paddles and can openers when you go in for paint.

I walked in two banks in town and got free drinks of water; a road map of the North Central U.S. from the Goodyear Service Center; information from the man at the corner newstand on bus schedules; free mints and matches at Mary-Go-Round Restaurant, plus large amounts of free advertising material and sheets of instruction from six other local merchants.

If it counts, I did get a free chest X-ray when the mobile unit was in town. Several merchants told of items they gave away in the winter such as window scrapers.

My only regret about the whole thing is that I missed any grand openings of stores. What a free loader's paradise that is!

Senators Blast Wilson AF Remark

See Increase, Not Decrease

Dems Question His Judgment; May Lose Votes for Fund Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Chavez (D-NM) said today opposition from Secretary of Defense Wilson will add strength to senators' plans to increase Air Force appropriations.

And Sens. Symington (D-Mo) and Jackson (D-Wash) questioned Wilson's fitness for his job in the wake of the secretary's comment that Senate plans to boost the defense outlay were "phony."

Wilson told newsmen in Quantico, Va., Thursday he sees no need for the money senators have proposed adding to President Eisenhower's 34-billion-dollar defense budget for more planes, men and bases. He said that applied both to a $1,160,000,000 addition voted by the Senate Appropriations Committee and a half-billion counter proposal by Sen. Bridges (R-NH), senior GOP member of the committee.

"He's able to say the wrong thing at just the right time," said Chavez, floor manager for the multibillion dollar annual defense bill now before the Senate.

"Wilson made us a few votes," Chavez commented.

Bridges, joining Democrats in a round of criticism on the Senate floor yesterday, said Wilson's comments were "an unwarranted slur upon the Senate."

Sen. Ellender (D-La), who like Wilson wants to hold to Eisenhower's original budget requests, said Wilson "talks too much."

* * *

Symington, former secretary of the Air Force who has been directing a special investigation of comparative U.S.-Soviet air power, led the floor attack on Wilson.

"I believe a majority of the Congress and the American people will agree that the usefulness of this Cabinet officer has come to an end," Symington said. "Over the years he has bewildered the people with his continuous statements, statements not supported by the sworn testimony of many of his highest ranking officers.

"He has now seriously impaired much of the morale in our Defense Department all over the world," he added.

Jackson called openly for Wilson's resignation. He said he had urged this three years ago and since then Wilson "continues to confirm my original position that he is not qualified to be secretary of defense."

No senator arose in Wilson's defense, but Sen. Saltstonstall (R-Mass), GOP whip, defended Eisenhower's budget figures without mentioning Wilson by name.

Eisenhower to Talk About Politics Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower talks politics today—at least to the extent of discussing plans for the Republican national convention.

Still progressing "very satisfactorily" from a major intestinal operation two weeks ago today, Eisenhower arranged to get from his chief aide, Sherman Adams a report on yesterday's meeting of the GOP convention arrangements committee.

Whether Eisenhower would give any hint of his own thoughts concerning a second term remained uncertain in advance of his talk with Adams.

Here's Latest Method of Beating Parking Fine

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (INS)—City Judge Riley Graham received a letter of complaint, along with a parking ticket, from a motorist who wrote:

"Thank you ever so kindly for taking care of the enclosed ticket. Really, it was an injustice that I was given a ticket, as the meter was installed at this particular place after I had parked."

Judge Graham was lenient.

Radford Claims Defense No One Service Monopoly

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Adm. Arthur Radford told the high command conference of civilian and military leaders today that "defense is not the monopoly of any one service."

In an address prepared for the fourth annual conference of defense secretaries at this Marine base, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff made no direct reference to new controversies among the armed forces.

But his remark seemed to have timely point. He said of the services that:

"Each has vital roles to perform, and depends upon others for indispensable support."

At another point, in discussing strategy, Radford said that "What the chiefs seem to hear most about is that mobility is merely a matter of more airlift or sealift — more airplanes or ships." He added that he wishes this were true but "unfortunately, mobility is much more than numbers of airplanes or ships." Among other things, it includes an adequate system of bases and the systems of keeping them supplied with fuel and other material, Radford said.

* * *

Radford said that at this conference "we have reviewed significant events, and have heard excellent presentations about our military roles and capabilities." A number of planning problems have been "hammered out" during the past year, he continued, then said:

"But it is quite evident, too, that we still have a long way to go to reach a common understanding on a certain few problems. These few are the ones which currently consume a great deal of our time."

* * *

Radford spoke at a closed session. His prepared text, as released for publication, did not specify the "certain few problems" on which an understanding must be reached. Among other things, the Army, Air Force and Navy are now competing in the guided missile development and usage field.

* * *

The military commanders had some grave words to speak about the coming menace of missiles.

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, said that Russia will have ship and submarine based missiles "very soon." The Reds would seek to drive American seapower from the oceans with this and other weapons, including submarines and planes, Burke said.

* * *

Secretary of Defense Wilson hinted, in talking with newsmen yesterday, that another reduction in manpower, though not necessarily in unit numerical strength of the Army, might be in the offing.

Fenced-in Meals Out for Truman

Ex-President Wants to Eat in Public and Not in Room; Sees London

LONDON (AP)—Harry S. Truman said today he's not going to get "fenced-in" with breakfast in his room while he's staying in a hotel.

"I got in the habit of eating in public a long time ago and I'm too old to start getting fancy at this time of life," the ex-President explained.

The manager of the Savoy Hotel brought up the matter when he observed that Truman has been coming down to the Grill Room each morning.

"We explained to Mr. Truman," the manager said, "that he is using the royal suite and could certainly command a corps of waiters. In fact, we expected him to use them."

Truman declined.

"No sir," he said. "I'm not going to get fenced in like that. Hell, I'd never meet anybody if I stayed upstairs in that place all the time."

Mrs. Truman, however, has her breakfast in their fifth-floor suite overlooking the Thames.

"I left the Boss — that's Mrs. Truman—to get some peace and quiet but I like to come down here and talk to anybody that wants to talk to me," said Truman.

He took a boat ride on the Thames this morning and visited the Tower of London, St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey.

Sir Leslie Ford, general manager of the London Port Authorities, accompanied Truman to the gates of London Tower.

"Lot of famous people," said Ford, "have gotten in here and haven't gotten out."

Truman replied: "I've gotten out of a few tough spots in my time and I believe I'll make this one."

The former President spent most of the morning gazing at the tower's ancient and gaudy glories. He showed most interest in the crown jewels and the various execution spots.

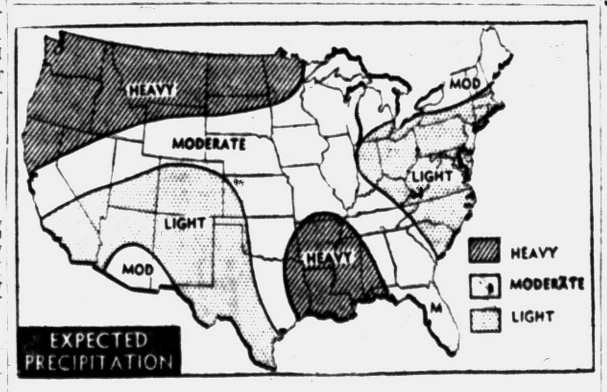

Head-on Collision Injures 3 Persons

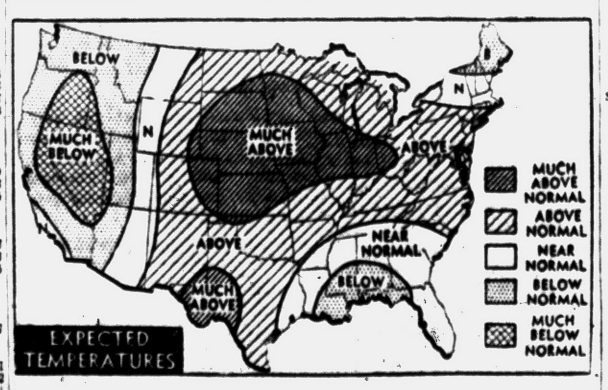

Three Pontiac men escaped with only minor injuries in a head-on collision on M-59, west of Voorheis Rd., late last night, Waterford Township police said today.

John Lukes, 21, and Lester Lukes, both of 540 Farnsworth St., and Elmer Pressnell, 34, of 120 Kemp St., one of the drivers, were treated and released at Pontiac General Hospital following the crash.

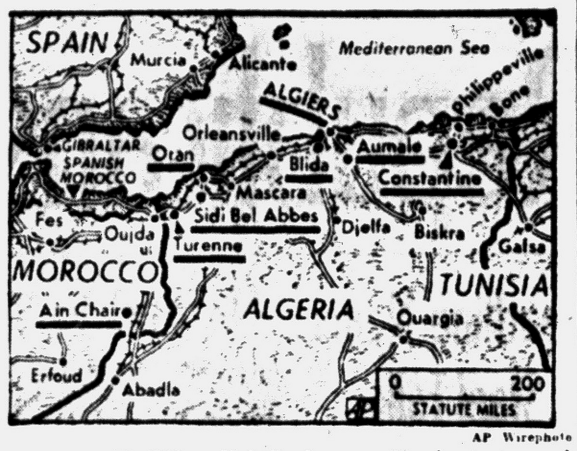

Roy Lukes, 26, of 540 Farnsworth St., was the operator of the other car. He was not hurt.

Pressnell told Waterford police the Lukes vehicle veered over to the right side of the road at a high rate of speed striking his car head-on.

Rebel Commando Group Terrorizes Algeria; 3 Die

ALGIERS (AP)—A rebel commando band terrorized a section of Algiers for four hours this morning with a series of attacks in which three persons were killed and six others seriously wounded.

Nearly all of the victims were European residents of the Bab el Oued district in the area between the Arab casbah and the waterfront. Two of the dead were Moslems, including one rebel shot down by police.

The commando group, believed to number three or four persons, struck just before 8 a.m. They shot and killed a European merchant. Fifteen minutes later the band shot and wounded three Europeans on a plaza near the Algiers cathedral. The rebels fired on a 72-year-old European cafe owner and wounded him.

* * *

In the fourth of a series of five attacks the rebels shot and killed a Moslem believed friendly to the French. The last attack, just before noon, wounded a European and a Moslem just before police shot and killed the rebel gunman.

Extreme excitement gripped residents of the district. Europeans in the neighborhood massed in the streets in a demonstration for stronger police protection against rebel violence. These demonstrations were dispersed by police. The neighborhood is one of apartment buildings largely occupied by persons of Spanish origin.

Earlier this week in the same district rebel attacks killed four persons and injured 12.

Kyes Addresses Reserve Officers

GM Executive Urges 'Crusade' to Increase Number of Scientists

Roger M. Kyes, General Motors vice president, was cited last night by the U.S. Reserve Officers Assn. for his contributions to national defense while serving as deputy U.S. secretary during 1953 and 1954.

Kyes was presented the organization's highest award, the distinguished service citation, at a banquet in New Orleans at which he was the main speaker.

In his speech before 1,200 reserve officers and their guests, the GM executive called for increased efforts to surpass "the technological offensive that Soviet Russia and communism are waging against America and the free world."

He referred specifically to the need for increased numbers of training scientists and engineers, a technological race which, he pointed out, Russian appears at present to be winning.

"If we are to continue to advance the standard of our people and maintain world leadership, we must launch the greatest crusade for technological progress ever conceived by man," he urged.

Warning that government has "drifted further" away from the people since 1932, Kyes disparaged credit given to the Federal government for pulling the country out of the Depression.

He credited industry, commerce and labor for contributing more labor and capital than the government's total expenditures for weighing the scales toward prosperity.

WHITE HOUSE OKS

The convention must approve the choice of convention officials, but it was clear that the White House has already given its approval.

Hall said Republicans are committed to four days of hotel reservations in space-tight San Francisco. He suggested deferment of a decision on a shorter convention until nearer the opening date.

Strike Rules Issued

NEW YORK (AP) — The strike arrangements being made by the United Steelworkers in the event of no contract settlement by midnight June 30 call for peace and order.

"The strike at your plant must be conducted orderly and peacefully," is the first of the instructions sent to district directors by I. W. Abel, the union's secretary-treasurer.

The orders forbid drinking on picket duty and insist that banners or placards deal solely with strike issues.

These are some of the instructions:

Picket lines shall operate on at least 3 shifts, 24 hours a day, and 7 days a week. More and shorter shifts can be arranged as desired.

"The pickets shall not bar management officials, superintendents or foremen, or office workers not on strike from entering the plant, mill or mine.

Cooperative relations shall be established with all municipal and police authorities. Picketing shall be peaceful and all lawful regulations shall be observed.

If a picket is arrested while on duty arrangements shall be made for bail bond if needed.

Strike committees shall not be stampeded by newspaper photographers or thrill seekers into putting on mass demonstrations or mass picketing.

Deputies Grill 4 on Area Thefts

Alleged 'Black Angels' Held; 2 Pontiac Youths Among Suspects

Oakland County detectives are planning to question four alleged members of a group known as the "Black Angels" concerning a report that they had committed seven breakins here in recent weeks.

* * *

The alleged burglars are being held by Brighton State Police for questioning on 14 breakins in Eastern and Central Michigan.

Troopers said the total of entries may reach 20 on further investigation. Five other gang members are believed to be still at large.

Arrested Thursday in Lansing were: Milton W. McDowell, 19, and Charles L. Cone, 19, both of Pontiac; Harold L. Rice, 21, and Harold C. Hammond, of Milford.

The gang was reportedly organized a year ago. Its members wear tight-fitting black costumes during their night jobs, state officials said.

"To join the gang a newcomer had to commit a breakin at night in the presence of a "charter member," Detective Clifford Dempsky of the Brighton post said.

Troy Automobile Crash Injures Driver, Passenger

Two persons suffered minor injuries in a two-car collision at Adams and Big Beaver Roads, Troy Township, yesterday afternoon. Both were treated and released by St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Rease Ragland, 40, of Novi Township, one of the drivers, suffered lacerations of the scalp. Eugene Graeber, 33, of Tonawanda, N.Y., a passenger, was treated for a lacerated right knee and bruises of the chest.

The other vehicle was operated by Ronald A. Seatherstone, 32, of Royal Oak.

Flames Sweep Dwelling, Cause $200 in Damages

Faulty wiring was the possible cause of a $200 blaze in the back porch of a home at 246 S. Jessie St. early this morning, firemen said.

Fire broke out at 3:20 a.m. and was extinguished in 10 minutes, they said. No one was injured.

The home is owned by James DaVault, who estimated $100 damage to the building and $100 to the furnishings.

Find Fisherman's Body

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — The body of John Becker, 50, of Roseville, missing since a fishing trip last Tuesday, was found yesterday by deputies in the Clinton River. Becker's car and fishing rod were found two miles from the spot where his body was discovered.

Continue Search for Ohio Killer

Seek Truck Driver Who Slayed Women; Discount Suicide

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—The rocky ledges and ravines in the northeast corner of Portage County were the center today of a manhunt for a husky truck driver who killed three women.

* * *

Alfred Wilson, 37, a 200-pounder who is 5 feet 9, clad in blue shirt and jeans, and armed with the same Luger pistol he had used to murder, was the quarry.

Along Silica Road, three miles north of nearby Windham, he had abandoned his 1949 sedan. In it was an empty cartridge clip and a note to his common law wife, Juanita, saying "Wanted to get you," and "hope to meet you in the other world."

Here in Trumbull County Sheriff T. Herbert Thomas held Mrs. Wilson, 37, in protective custody. He disbelieved the implication of suicide in Wilson's note.

"If the man were going to kill himself, he'd have done it in the car or nearby," he said.

* * *

First he shot and killed his wife's sister, Mrs. Geraldine Brown, at her home in Leavittsburg.

* * *

Then he drove to Cortland, north of here, and shot another sister of Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Hazel Botts, 32. It was here that Mrs. Wilson evaded him by locking herself and their two children in a bathroom.

Nancy Worthington, 17, of Leavittsburg, returning with two boys from a high school homecoming, was his third victim. He blocked their car on the road and said he would hold the girl until the boys brought some money. Instead, he drove on. Her body, with a bullet through the head, was found in a ditch near Windham yesterday morning.

41 Rotary Groups Send Delegates to Charter Night

Over 100 Rotarians from 41 clubs in the district will participate in a "charter night" program in honor of the newly - formed Auburn Heights club at Avondale Junior High School tonight at 7 p.m.

The event will be sponsored by the Rochester club.

The program will include dinner, entertainment, the presentation of the charter and flags, roll call of the clubs, and a tour of the nearby Nike base.

President Stanley Slowik will preside. He will receive the charter from District Gov. George Hartwick.

Kenneth Partridge, director of Rotary International from Port Credeit, Ontario, will be the guest speaker. He will be introduced by G. Clarence Nichols, who will assume the office of District Governor July 1.

Lake Orion Cemetery Damaged by Vandals

The malicious destruction of property at a Lake Orion cemetery is being investigated today by township police. Police Chief Clarence Braidwood has estimated destruction at $2,000.

He reported at least 50 tombstones, markers, and urns were tipped over or destroyed and said flowers were pulled out of the ground throughout the cemetery.

The damage was discovered early Friday morning and is believed to have taken place sometime Thursday night.

Royal Oak Woman, 19, Hurt as Car Overturns

Carol Polkinghorn, 19, of Royal Oak, was treated and released at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital last night after suffering scalp lacerations in an automobile accident.

She was a passenger in a car which went off the road and rolled over last night on Adams Road in Avon Township.

Leah A. Steel, 19, of Royal Oak, the driver, told Oakland County Sheriff Department deputies she lost control of the vehicle while making a right turn.

Woman Falls From Auto

Maria Kriako, 23, of 273 E. Pike St., suffered scalp lacerations when she fell out of a moving car late last night. She was treated and released at Pontiac General Hospital.

The woman was leaning on a door when it opened causing her to be thrown to the pavement, Waterford Township police reported today. They said the incident took place at Dixie and Telegraph Rds., Waterford Township.

The Day in Birmingham

Mayor Predicts Choice of Manager Early in July

BIRMINGHAM—Choice of a new city manager for Birmingham will not be made by city commissioners until after July 4, according to Mayor James Allen.

The field is now narrowed to six candidates to succeed D. C. Egbert in the city manager's post when Egbert leaves August 1 to take the reins of two area authorities, says Mayor Allen.

Two men presently employed by the city are among the applicants for the top city post, but both have asked that their names not be published.

One other Michigan resident and three out of state residents complete the list. Other than the two localites, the candidates now hold city manager posts.

Hold-up in choice is an interview with the last candidate on July 2 or 3, Mayor Allen says. And then a final interview will be held with the chosen candidate before announcement is made, he predicts.

Egbert's duties will probably be carried out by an acting city manager with some consultation from Egbert, until the new manager can leave his present duties.

* * *

The candidates rally June 28 will be highlighted by attendance of Donald S. Leonard, candidate for governor, according to present indications, but members of the League of Women Voters are being optimistic about the possible acceptance of invitations by Governor G. Mennen Williams and Albert E. Cobo.

The three rivals for governor's seat are tops in the long list invited to the rally. Parade plans are snowballing, according to league committee members.

Contacts to youth just home from college is part of preparation for the "birthday party" for those who have never voted before this year's primary.

* * *

The city has accepted the circuit court's recent award of certain funds for properties condemned for the site of Parking Lot 3-A. No further action is expected previous to payment for the land.

* * *

Rotary Anns will meet at 1 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. J. H. Achten of Telegraph Road. The meeting was postponed from last week because of the death of the president's husband, Jerome P. Neff.

* * *

Altrusans will meet Monday at Mrs. Warren L. Small's home, 17989 Dunblaine, Beverly Hills, when new officers will be installed.

* * *

New president is Muriel Brusie, while her staff is Mrs. Millard Newcomb of Pleasant Ridge, vice-president; Mary White, Pontiac, recording secretary for another term, Kathryn Vedder of Pontiac, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Small, treasurer.

Mrs. Carl Wonnberger is coordinating the year's program and directors are Mrs. Raymond Peck, Mrs. Paul Pankotan and Mary Spaulding.

* * *

The motor bus ordinance, taken from the table at last week's commission meeting, will be discussed in public hearing on July 2.

Burglars Loot Florida Home

$283,000 in Jewels, Money and Securities Reportedly Stolen

MIAMI BEACH (INS) — The wife of an internationally-known plastic surgeon told Miami Beach police yesterday that her plush island home had been ransacked of $283,000 in cash, jewels and negotiable securities.

* * *

The burglary was reported by Mrs. I. Daniel Shorell, who said the bandits apparently entered her Alto Island home on Miami Beach in the evening while she was attending a party.

The "rough" loss estimate was made by Dr. Shorell in New York. Mrs. Shorell said she called her husband after discovering the burglary.

The highly-successful plastic surgeon announced last year that he had face-lifted Elena Lupescu, widow of the late ex-King Carol of Romania. Madame Lupescu later denied the report.

Dr. Shorell said the bandits got $270,000 in negotiable securities; $5,000 in cash; U. S. money orders worth $2,000-$3,000 and $6,000 worth of jewelry.

Police said the job was apparently the work of a professional safe cracker.

Pontiac Deaths

William Bishop

William Bishop, 53, of 716 Walton Blvd. died yesterday in Pontiac General Hospital. He had been in ill health two months.

Born in Inman, S. C. Sept. 25, 1902, he was the son of William and Sally Williams Bishop. He was married to Evelyn Smith on May 14, 1928 in Freemont, Ohio.

Coming here from Detroit 30 years ago, he had been with the General Motors Truck & Coach Division 17 years.

During World War 1, Mr. Bishop served with the Navy aboard the U.S.S. Mercy. Besides his wife, he is survived by two children, William A. Bishop and Mrs. Billie Mardis, both of Pontiac and two grandchildren. Also surviving is a brother, George Bishop of Inman.

Service will be at 2 p.m. Monday from the Voorhees-Siple Chapel with the Rev. J. R. Taulbee of the First Baptist Church, Drayton Plains officiating. Burial will follow in Ottawa Park Cemetery.

Nick Schaad

Nick Schaad, 78, of 32 S. Marshall St. died this morning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. He had been ill for a month.

He was born Nov. 27, 1877, in Tell City, Ind. and was married to the former Anna Scheafer.

A retired miner, he came here five years ago from Duggar, Ind. where he was a member of Our Lady of Refuge Church.

He leaves three children, George Schaad of Terre Haute, Ind. Mrs. Peter Mooney of Pontiac and Mrs. Robert Simmons of Elizabethton, Tenn.; a sister, Mrs. Laura Woods, is living in Los Angelus, Calif.

Mr. Schaad's body will be at the Melvin A. Schutt Funeral Home until 10 o'clock Sunday morning. It will then be taken to the Marshall Evans Funeral Home in Duggar, Ind. where the Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday.

Service will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Our Lady of Refuge Church with burial in the Duggar Cemetery.

State Department Warns Possible Loss of Citizenship

U. S. Wary of 'Big Lure' Ads to Entice Air Technicians to Algeria

WASHINGTON (INS)—The State Department is taking a very close look at some rather fabulous "soldier - of - fortune" advertisements which Algerian rebels are inserting in U.S. newspapers.

They seek to entice American meteorologists, control tower operators and aviation mechanics into their service.

Spokesmen pointed out that an American can lose his citizenship by enlisting in a foreign cause, or at least be deprived of the necessary passport getting him to his destination.

The "Committee for the Liberation of North Africa" is underwriting the advertising, and the address given for prospective applicants is "Boite Postale 327, Tripoli, Libya."

The Libyan address probably will cause the State Department to make inquiries of that country—considered friendly to the U.S. and the western cause.

OFFERS BIG PAY

A minimum salary of $1,500 monthly is offered to technicians, together with "first class transportation, lodging, cuisine, daily needs, all provided."

"Wartime background" is preferred, and the applicant must sign an "irrevocable one-year contract."

Twin ads were inserted in the Los Angeles Herald and Express on June 16, each running three-quarters of a column. One was for five meteorologists and four control tower operators. The other was directed at an unspecified number of master mechanics and flight line mechanics.

* * *

Significantly, five of America's leading aviation operations are in the Los Angeles area—Douglas, Lockheed, North American, Northrup and Hughes.

The men are needed, said the ads, for "aircraft flying 'mercy mission' airdrops to the Algerian national army and civilian population."

"Bases isolated and temperatures extreme. Occasional combat conditions probable. Men of strong convictions will find a unique opportunity to aid in the relief of a people caught in a national struggle comparable only to that of the American colonies, 1775 to 1783."

UNDER SCRUTINY

Then comes a paragraph, being closely studied by State Department legal experts as against the one quoted above.

* * *

This one says "This is not military service. American civilian technicians will not be called upon to bear arms, wear any uniforms or insignia, or to bind themselves by any oath."

Apparently insereted on legal advice, this paragraph is obviously designed to circumvent the automatic loss of American citizenship by anyone enlisting in a foreign cause.

Officials indicated nevertheless that State Department men and court officials in the areas around the sites of major U.S. aircraft industries would be altered to scan carefully any passport applications for travel to North Africa.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau concluded three days of conferences earlier this week on a multitude of problems, including the French difficulties with the Algerian Nationalists.

Some months ago, U.S. Ambassador to Paris C. Douglas Dillon declared in a State Department-approved speech that the U.S. government regarded Algeria as a part of metropolitan France, and therefore in a different category than Morocco and Tunisia.

Although the rebel committee says acceptance of the high-paying jobs does not constitute military service, they offer "special inducements for tower operators with wartime airfield background."

Those who can speak French and German also are preferred, and all technicians are told to submit their honorable discharges from the U.S. Air Force, birth certificates and professional documents—in the latter case, for mechanics, "the opening and closing pages of log books."

Electrons 'Seen' by New Gadget

Instrument Produces X-Ray Beams of Any Fast Moving Object

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—An instrument which can "see" electrons jumping out of a row of atoms and can produce powerful but rigidly controlled X-ray beams for ultrafast work on swiftly moving objects was described today to the American Physical Society.

* * *

The device is fast enough and powerful enough to make motion picture X-rays of the internal changes in a circus man being shot out of a cannon, although it would be difficult to hook it up for such a feat.

It utilizes lightweight equipment and relatively little power from conventional supply sources. It produces steady, streamlike bursts of X-rays so potent that exposures of only a millionth of a second are enough to yield pictures of things happening deep in the living body.

* * *

It can "stop" a bullet coming out of the muzzle of a gun.

There are many instruments which produce X-rays of higher voltages than the 100,000-volt peak which this one has achieved so far, but the new device yields a much greater beam intensity and controlability, said Dr. William P. Dyke, who reported the development.

Dr. Dyke and Dr. J.K. Trolan developed the device at Linfield College, McMinnville, Ore., where electronics research is being done under contract with the armed forces and other government agencies.

The principle of the instrument is not new. It consists basically of a method of drawing electrons out of metals by the use of an electrical field. Scientists have used it for years and it is the main feature of a device called a field emission microscope.

* * *

The new thing about this instrument is the use of many fine tungsten wires drawn to a microscopically small point. When these points are put into an electrical field, they yield high-speed electrons. The outpouring electrons produce X-rays when they strike a metallic surface.

Acoma, famed "Sky City" of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico, resisted the coming of Coronado's Spanish army more than 400 years ago.

OPPORTUNITY

J. L. VOORHEES

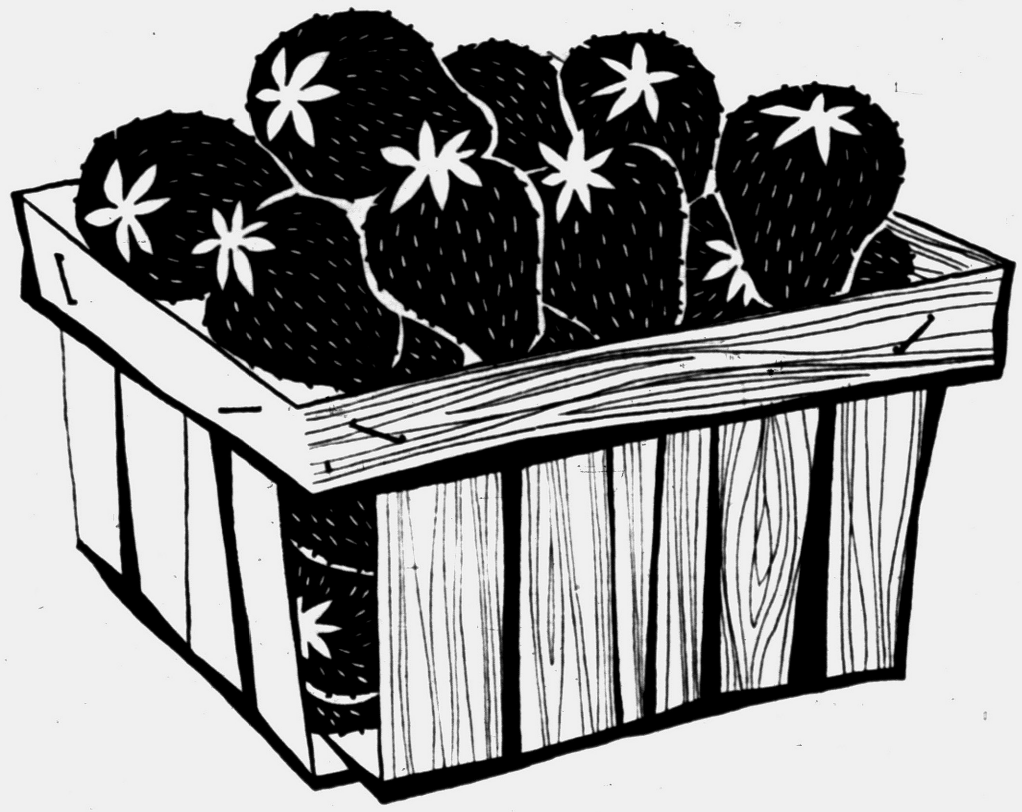

Most of us are slaves to habit. We do what our neighbors do, slavishly follow the crowds, make life a burden for those around us, leave home on the minute and arrive back again at a precise time; our newspaper is good or bad according to our concept of sports or sensational journalism. We are so immersed in habits that opportunity for better things can't squeeze in.

M. E. SIPLE

Opportunity is a NEW IDEA. We plant a seed; it must germinate in warm earth. It must be tilled, nurtured and eventually it will produce a harvest. Opportunity is like that seed; first it is an idea, you take it to your heart, nurture it, warm it with care and industry and eventually you have a harvest.

To be a slave to habit is to be in a rut. Be still. Listen to that idea. Take it to your heart. Nurture it. There is opportunity willing to sprout, grow and give you a bountiful harvest.

Dog Heroes, Loved Pets Rest in Happy Hunting Spot

TRIBUTE TO DOGS — Pet lovers contributed more than $3,700 in 1946 to erect this 16-ton granite tribute to dogs in military service. Buried at the base lies war hero Platoon Sgt. Sparks, a Doberman Marine Devil dog which received seven citations for World War II duty in Pacific.

By REBA HEINTZELMAN
Milford Correspondent

The job of being undertaker and funeral director for dogs, cats and canary birds, is old stuff to Cornell Elko, who operates a "Happy Hunting Ground" for pets near New Hudson. The cemetery is marking its 20th year of existence.

* * *

Hailed by experts in the field as one of the most outstanding pet cemeteries in the country, Elko has buried more than 4200 animals varying from Shetland Ponies to small size turtles.

The burial ground is located on the corner of 11-Mile and Milford roads just south of New Hudson, in a quiet wooded section of land owned by Elko. Twenty seven acres are devoted to interment of the animals and he said that there is no restriction as to what kind of pet is buried there.

This plot of land is not a whimsical contribution for children who have lost their pets. People from all walks of life, rich and poor, famous or otherwise meet at the burial grounds and have one thing in common—the love of a departed pet.

Among the notables of dogdom, there is Blizzard, the Husky, lead dog of one of Admiral Byrd's Antarctic expeditions, and nearby rests Bismark, a Great Dane belonging to the poet, Edgar Guest.

Another famous pet buried in the cemetery is a parrot that served as a mascot on Admiral Dewey's flagship and squawked defiance at the Spanish fleet during the battle of Manila Bay. It died at the age of 86.

Great father of the Happy Hunting Grounds is Dr. S. R. Elko, Detroit veterinarian who got the idea after receiving hundreds of requests from patrons of his small animal hospital for a suitable burying ground for their pets.

SEPARATE SECTIONS

The Elko's have separated the cemetery into three sections. "Elite" section A is restricted to graves with marble or granite markers. Section B features concrete head stones with the name of the pet's owner and the vital statistics inscribed, and Section C provides a simple burial plot without markers or upkeep of grounds. The fee here is very low.

For a fee of from $45 to $75, the Happy Hunting Grounds provide burial in a cedar box and a standard concrete marker. Mr. and Mrs. Elko hand-make these stones, by pouring cement in a 12 by 18 inch form and stenciling in the necessary information.

A Detroit taxi driver, temporarily low on funds, had his faithful Boston terrier buried in Section C. A month later he returned and told Elko that he "felt like a piker" and wanted the dog exhumed and buried in a better section.

Some pet owners are not satisfied with simple arrangements. A few have purchased beautiful satin-lined coffins of special manufacture.

One Doberman Pinscher belonging to a business executive was embalmed and laid in state for three days in Dr. Elko's office. Hundreds of people filed past the casket to view the remains and a stonecutter chisled a likeness of the dog on a granite tombstone.

FUNERAL FOR CAT

A common cat, four years old, so endeared itself to an elderly couple that they ordered an elaborate funeral service and had the animal buried in an expensive casket which was sealed in a concrete vault and marked by a marble stone.

Another owner raised two Shetland pony mares from colts. When they were fully grown, they produced enough offspring to send their owner through Michigan State University. They (Betty and Tillie) lived to be 18 and 22 years old, respectively, and their final resting place is the Happy Hunting Grounds.

There are chickens, rabbits, turtles, canary birds, parakeets and parrots resting in the cemetery besides the dogs and cats. Anything goes as far as grave decorations are concerned, and it is not uncommon to see elaborate settings, along with toy windmills, dolls and other childrens' treasures for the departed pets.

"I wouldn't mind being buried here myself," Elko said. "I've spent 20 years of my life caring for this section and it seems like this is where I belong—but I don't think my family will hear of such a thing."

Building Program Lagging at Orion, Contractor Says

LAKE ORION — Lake Orion's High School building program is 45 days, or 22 per cent, behind schedule says Leo Kuhlmann, contractor.

Some of this can be made up if the summer weather is dependable, and both classroom wings will be ready for the second semester of next year if no unforseen obstacles arise, he advises. The gymnasium the second unit of construction should also be ready at that time.

Despite setbacks because of the rain, the Webber and Carpenter elementary school additions will still be ready for use when school opens in September, according to Eberle Smith & Associates, the architects.

A light gray brick has been selected for the exteriors of both schools.

Royal Oak Township Group Tackles Study

ROYAL OAK TOWNSHIP — A committee of citizens, officials, and consultants is undertaking the long awaited survey of Royal Oak Township which is part of its program of slum clearance and urban renewal.

* * *

Over 50 persons met this week to formally organize an advisory committee and listen to program details outlined by David Geer, planning consultant, and Dr. Louis Friedland, consultant on governmental operations.

With sub-committees directed by Friedland, Geer, and other specialists, the study will be on practical needs of the community in relationship to its present and future growth and stability.

Health, education, recreation, public facilities and services, community activities, fiscal policies and operations and land uses, will be eyed.

Youth to Study Bible at Crescent Baptist

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — The Crescent Hills Baptist Church will hold vacation Bible school Monday through Friday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the parsonage, 2288 Crescent Lake Rd.

There will be classes for children ages 3-15. Teachers for the school will be Mrs. Lloyd Edwards, who will take charge of the Beginners department; Mrs. Carl Meng, the Primary department; Mrs. Rudy Schettling, the Junior department; and Mrs. Ben A. Bohn, the Intermediate department.

Program will be given by the children, and their handiwork will be displayed at 7:30 p.m. June 29, at the John Monteith school.

IMLAY CITY — The Rev. Leo Burch has been reappointed to the First Methodist Church, Imlay City.

See Silo Stave Pump as Farmer's Answer

Farmers with excess water on their land, and no place to put it, are watching with interest a new development, recently approved as an agricultural conservation practice and available through federal financial aid.

Soil conservations believe a silo stave sump is the answer.

The silo stave sump actually is a silo built below ground level. It collects water from tile drains and holds it to be pumped up and out by a vertical lift pump.

It is used to rid water from tiled fields when open ditches are not available or are too low.

Richard M. Kirch, Saginaw County conservationist, says the government will share costs of excavations, silo construction, piping and reinforcements.

Lester Braman, who farms in Southwestern Gratiot County, has a recently completed silo stave sump on his land. He used the specifications of a silo 10 feet deep and 16 feet in diameter to collect water from 132 acres of tile-drained fields.

Acting as a reservoir, the silo holds drain water up to a set level when a vertical pump turns on, lifts out the water and drains it into a nearby ditch.

Braman estimates the cost of the silo, excluding the pump, at about $300. The silo's size, Kirch says, is dependent upon the acreage to be drained.

Claude Campbell, Dathel Walls Marry

ORTONVILLE—Dathel M. Walls and Claude E. Campbell were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony recently in the Baptist Church at Clarkston.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Walls of 905 E. Mill St., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Campbell of 35 Taylor St., Pontiac.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace over white satin with a Queen Anne collar. Her veil was finger tip length and was held in place by a cap trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. Lillies of the valley and an orchid formed her bouquet on a white Bible.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Michael Martin, Pontiac, with Lois Campbell and Carol Koop, Davisburg, acting as bridesmaids. Flower girl was Lyvonne Valls.

* * *

Wendall Bishop of Clarkston was best man. Groomsmen were Veldon Garrison and William Campbell both of Davisburg. Dale Bruce Jenks of Clarkston acted as ring bearer. Ushering were Lynwood and Maurice Koop of Davisburg.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The newlyweds will reside in Pontiac after returning from their wedding trip.

One Teacher for All

North Branch Graduates Ninth of Westen Family

By MYRA M. SNOW
North Branch Correspondent

NORTH BRANCH — To Albert Stickle of the local high school staff has come the satisfaction of taking part in graduating rites for nine children of one family. They are the four sons and five daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Westen of 3566 East Castle Rd.

Current records show that Stickle is the only teacher who has had that number under his instruction from one family, during their high school years.

Beginning with the eldest child, Audrey, who received her diploma in 1941, he has seen a succession of capped and gowned Westens cross the rostrum for the prized "sheepskin." The parade concluded this May 31 with the commencement honors of the "baby," in the Westen family, Robert.

Now senior high principal, Stickle joined the faculty here in the fall of 1937. He has had each one of the Westen children in his math and science classes.

Although they now range in age from 18 to 33, the Westens still sustain the influence of the teacher's vigorous and stimulating personality, who has been an honored guest at their home at each graduation dinner given by their parents.

While most of the group are married and have homes of their own, to their instructor they will continue to be just "my boys and girls."

Faith Baptists Plan Open-Air Worship Hour

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — The Faith Baptist Church will hold open air services at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Marriott, 6785 Macaday Drive, Drayton Plains, in place of the regular Sunday services.

* * *

Dr. Jimmy Dodson of the Miller Road Bible Church of Lansing will be guest speaker.

There will be special music by a trumpet duet, and a vocal and instrumental quartet. Bob Granger will lead the choir.

Baptismal services will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday at Lotus Lake. Al Kasten, pastor, will hold services as usual the following Sunday at the Waterford Community Activities building.

Sylvan Manor Builder Pledges Work, Asks Residential Aid

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — Completion by July 11 of sceveral drainage projects is expected by Sylvan Manor Subdivision residents.

The plan is for completion of back filling and grading, installation of catch basins at the ends of easement lines where they empty into the Woodrow Wilson Street ditch, and tying homes where problems have developed into the new system.

Residents who met recently with R. J. Chase, of the Michigan Corporation and Securities Commission, township and county health department officials, and the builder and his representatives, promised certain actions.

They agreed to keep street ditches clean to lower the water table by one foot, to plant grass or rye to prevent erosion in ditches, to postpone new landscaping on the rear 25 feet of property until work is completed, and to aid with keeping Woodrow Wilson ditches clean.

Permission for working on their property should be granted, the officials told residents.

Tying in to the new system is possible for those owners who have the builder's engineer inspect their property while they have an active draining problem.

Next meeting of the association will be Sept. 10, according to Paul S. Kearns, president.

Growth Requires Voting Machines in North Branch

NORTH BRANCH — Voting machines will be used for the first time in the local precinct at the coming August primaries and November elections.

The use of these stems from the necessity of facing the alternative of dividing the township into more than one precinct, according to a legislative act of 1954, or using two voting machines, required for over a maximum of 800 electors.

The Township Board is renting two voting machines for use for one year only, before purchasing them for permanent use.

High French Socialist Sources Declare Mikoyan Was the Trigger-Man for Beria

PARIS (INS) — French Socialist sources state that Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan actually was the trigger-man in the 1953 killing of Red secret police boss Lavrenti P. Beria.

These sources said Mikoyan shot his hated fellow Red with a single revolver bullet in the back of Beria's neck in a Kremlin politburo meeting.

The socialist informants said that the secret story clearing up some mysterious details of Beria's liquidation stemmed directly from the lips of Soviet Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev.

ACCUSED OF WESTERN TIES

Russia officially announced the arrest of the 54-year-old Beria, confidante of Stalin and an orator at the dictator's funeral, July 10, 1953. Beria was denounced for "criminal antistate activities," including a charge of being a Western "imperialist agent." Western officials laughed at the latter charge, viewing his purge as part of a power struggle after Stalin's death.

On Dec. 24, 1953, Moscow announced that Beria and six codefendants had been executed by a firing squad Dec. 23 at the end of a six-day secret trial before a special judicial commission of the U.S.S.R. supreme court.

But the version of Beria's death given by informants close to a French delegation which recently visited Moscow said it was a one-man execution done by Mikoyan with politburo approval.

* * *

Mikoyan is the Armenian Communist who is high among the Current "collective leaders" in Moscow. He and Khruschev both denounced Stalin's ruthless rule during speeches at the 20th Soviet party congress in February.

QUOTED FROM MEMORY

Here is the story told by Socialist informants who have quoted from memory what Khrushchev is said to have told a French Socialist leader in Moscow.

* * *

"'After Stalin's death we of the politburo noticed that Beria was putting people of the MVD (secret police organization) devoted to him in all the administrations.

"'We had obtained evidence that in the early 1920's Beria had been working for the British intelligence service. (Editor's note: This charge, derided by Western leaders, has been a consistent one by Soviet leaders in their denunciation of Stalin and in their mending of the 1948 Moscow-Belgrade split. Soviet leaders blamed Beria for the split during the Khruschchev visit to Belgrade a year ago.)

"'We eventually were convinced that Beria was trying to take over complete power.

* * *

"'Politburo members then met with Beria. After a four-hour interrogation Beria admitted that he was aiming to take over all power for himself.

ONE SHOT FIRED

"'All of us then went into an adjoining room. While Beria was sitting on the very chair on which you (the French Socialist visitor) are sitting now, Mikoyan shot him in the back of the neck with his revolver and killed him.

"'We then appointed a young general prosecutor in place of the former one who was devoted to Beria. We were very happy when he informed us that he succeeded in finding evidence of Beria's treason.

"'Imagine how ridiculous we would have been if this young prosecutor would have discovered that Beria was innocent . . .'"

Khrushchev, in the U.S. State Department report of his speech last February, lengthily denounced Beria, who was Stalin's top executioner.

* * *

He accused Beria of shooting many Communists "without any trial" and said that sentence then was passed on the victim "ex-post facto, after the execution."

"Beria," said Khrushchev, in February, "was unmarked by the party's central committee shortly after Stalin's death. As a result of the particularly detailed legal proceedings it was established that Beria had committed monstrous crimes and Beria was shot."

The French Socialist version of Mikoyan shooting Beria does not give any specific date of execution. But it indicates that the "special judicial commission" which tried Beria was in fact the politburo members.

DINOSAURS AND CAVE KIDS — 6

Stone Age Boy

This Stone Age boy is tall and strong for his years, and uses his hands skillfully for the many things he must do to stay alive. Here he is chipping flint into a weapon to use in hunting or war.

As the centuries passed, man came out of the caves. He discovered metals and their uses, how to cultivate and store grain and preserve meat. When he was tired of living a wandering life, he began building primitive permanent homes, and to care for animals such as cattle, goats and sheep, which had previously been wild.

With your crayons color this picture. Like his sister, the boy should have a well-tanned skin.

Paste the picture down on cardboard, and then cut it out carefully. Fold the front panel forward and fold back the support, so it will stand up. This should complete a fine collection of beasts and man from ancient times.

Iceland Leader Sees Need for U. S. Troops

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Premier Olafur Thors says if his Independence (Conservative) party wins a majority in Sunday's parliamentary elections he will review the Legislature's decision to get rid of U.S. troops manning Iceland's NATO air base.

* * *

"I don't want the troops to stay longer than necessary and I am prepared to say they can go home the day I am convinced it is safe," Thors told foreign newsmen last night. "But . . . I am far from convinced that it is safe now."

Thors charged that opposition parties created the issue of Americans quitting the big radar and warning base at Keflavik to gain a local advantage at the expense of world peace.

* * *

He accused the Communists and other groups of starting a campaign in 1953 to get foreigners out of Iceland, even though the nation by that time was a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Sunk German Sub May Be Sailed Again

KIEL, Germany (AP) — Former crew officers agreed today that a German World War II U-boat salvaged from the Baltic this week could sail again in the new federal navy.

* * *

The submarine was raised off the Danish island of Anhold. It had been scuttled by its crew May 8, 1945, eight minutes before the German surrender became effective.

It was towed into Kiel today and inspected by its former skipper and its onetime chief engineer.

Both agreed the U-boat, which ranked among the world's fastest in 1945, would be acceptable after a thorough overhaul. They said that its Diesel engines and diving installations were still in order.

The Bonn Defense Ministry reportedly had not made any final decision.

Court Budget Too Small

A report from Attorney General Brownell's office shows that an inadequate budget for the Federal judicial system is a factor in crowded court dockets.

The Justice Department has been working hard but with little success, to win Congressional support for more liberal treatment of this branch of Government. That is the case despite the fact that lawyers make up the majority in both Houses.

The lawmakers show little concern over a situation in which shortage of judges is only part of the problem. As for the average citizen, he doesn't even know there is a problem until he becomes involved in a case delayed by the slow pace of Federal justice.

One result of this pinch penny policy is that most U. S. courts down South come to a full standstill during the three hot months because court houses aren't air conditioned. Another disruptive factor in the situation is lack of forced retirement of judges.

★ ★ ★

For example, of six U. S. judges in Brooklyn, the records show that three are in their eighties. They are reported to work only half days and not at all during the hot weather.

The one best hope for cure of this regrettable situation is public opinion. When the people get weary enough of snail's pace justice to demand a cure, Congress will appropriate the needed funds.

Shepilov's Cairo Visit

For a clue to the vigor of Russia's current politico-economic offensive it is necessary to watch the activities of only one official, newly inducted Foreign Minister Shepilov.

It didn't just happen that Molotov's successor arrived in Cairo in time for Egypt's celebration of the departure of the last Britons from Suez. The national holiday featured nine Russian MIGs flying over Port Said, a parade of Czechoslovak built tanks in Cairo and maneuvers at Alexandria of naval units bought from the Reds.

★ ★ ★

Comrade Shepilov, who was instrumental in the sale of modern Czech arms to Egypt was given a royal welcome. He responded with a cynically misleading address, posing as the envoy of a "country that has totally repudiated colonial expansion."

Naturally, he didn't mention that Russia is the world's largest colonial empire, holding prisoner more than 20,000,000 Moslems in Central Asia and the Caucases.

He assured Egypt, however, that his country has no place for oil monopolies or any other kind that "sucks the vitality of less developed nations." Yet, for over 30 years Russia has been using oil from the deposits seized in Moslem Azerbaijan.

From these and other obviously false statements it is clear that Shepilov's aim was to exploit Middle East tension. It is equally clear that there has been no fundamental change in Russia's foreign policy.

★ ★ ★

All this, plus Russia's reported offer of a $1.12 billion loan for construction of the Aswan Dam, emphasizes the need for continued U. S. foreign aid. The disruptive aim of that offer is clear in the light of offers by the U. S., Britain and the World Bank to advance Egypt up to $450,000,000 for the project.

Russia still is the bear that walks like a man.

India and U. S. Aid

Anyone interested in good relations between the United States and India can hope that Prime Minister Nehru is a reader of Capital, a weekly finance journal published in Calcutta.

In a recent issue this publication examined India's second five year plan scheduled to run from 1956 to 1961. It points out that foreign assistance is going to be needed to carry out the program.

★ ★ ★

Also emphasized is that during the first five year plan just ended, India got most of its foreign aid from the United States. According to Capital, the U. S. in that period "has offered Indian assistance totaling around $499,800,000."

Continuing, Capital said India's "demagogs and armchair politicians" would do well to contrast this with the record of the Soviet Union. Its "only contribution to the plan has been practically nil, apart from fulsome tirades against the 'capitalists and traitors' of the Nehru government."

★ ★ ★

The Calcutta weekly has made a needed contribution to better Indian understanding of the difference in motives between American and Soviet foreign policy. It is the more welcome because in the opinion of many Americans Prime Minister Nehru hasn't been critical enough of the Russians.

The People's Business

Dem Declaration

Michigan Party Promotes Liberal Viewpoint

By ROGER LANE

LANSING — Not a whole lot has been heard about the Michigan declaration since its unveiling three weeks ago but Democratic strategists are working patiently at getting it circulated and read.

★ ★ ★

The declaration, you'll remember, was drawn up by Michigan Democratic leaders in an ambitious attempt to reorient national party policy.

Generally, it is a statement of the so-called Northern liberal view on big issues of the present and future, ranging from war and peace through automation to farm problems.

The document was formally launched on its way with approval by the Democratic State Convention. It was hoped it would have an influence on national convention platform drafters in August.

★ ★ ★

At Democratic state headquarters here, party officials say a limited distribution in mimeographed form to party organizations in other states thus far has drawn a response from Wisconsin, Minnesota, New York, California and Indiana.

COPIES CIRCULATED

To date, about 1,500 copies of the declaration have been placed in circulation—including copies sent to Democratic congressmen, party leaders in other states and to party outlets within Michigan.

★ ★ ★

Four copies went to Averell Harriman, Sen. Estes Kefauver, Sen. Stuart Symington and to Adlai Stevenson—leading presidential aspirants.

The current issue of the Michigan Democrat, out today, is being devoted exclusively to the declaration, making 12,000 more copies available for distribution.

And in the weeks ahead plans call for printing another 20,000 copies in booklet form. This would bring the total number of reproductions to about 33,500.

★ ★ ★

Meantime, the governor, some of his aides and other state party leaders who get around are talking up the declaration when the opportunity offers.

GOVERNORS' PARLEY

This method of spreading the word probably will hit its peak of effectiveness at the governors' conference in Atlantic City starting Sunday.

★ ★ ★

There, the governor on a face-to-face basis will have a chance to sell the declaration to many big-name Democrats, and further promote its distribution and acceptance.

To some who attended the state convention in Grand Rapids, the declaration failed to live up to its advance notices. It seemed too long, repetitious and in many areas vague.

But however this may be, it appears too early to write it off, considering the effort being made to put it across.

Chart of a Soul

Days of All Faiths

St. John the Baptist Honored

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, John the Baptist, whose birth is commemorated, was never actually a Christian and therefore cannot be classified as a Christian martyr. He did not die for his faith in Christ.

Nevertheless, as the forerunner of Jesus he has always occupied a very high place in Christianity. In the Eastern Church he is second only to the Blessed Virgin Mary. Today's festival, called the Nativity of St. John the Baptist, is one of the oldest in the Christian calendar.

John is the patron saint of missionaries because he was sent to prepare the way of the Lord. To his own followers, however, he was much more than simply the precursor of some greater figure. He was to them the prophet of the Messianic age, with his own disciples, his own religious groups, and his own traditions and legends. It is only in the light of later knowledge that we see John as an important person in Christian history. The story of his miraculous birth (Luke, Chapter I, verses 5 to 25) is an example of the lore that surrounded him.

EPISCOPALIANS' CROSS

In San Francisco tomorrow there will be a special observance, especially among Episcopalians. It was on June 24 in 1579 that the Rev. Francis Fletcher, Sir Francis Drake's Chaplain, read the first English service ever heard on this continent, and of course he read it from the Church of England Prayer Book, which is substantially the same as the book of Common Prayer used by Episcopalians today.

A granite cross, called the Prayer Book Cross, marks the spot where this service was held. Many California churchmen will make pilgrimages to this cross today.

DESTRUCTION OF THE TEMPLE

Tuesday, the Fast of the 17th of Tammuz, is the day the Roman army broke through the wall of Jerusalem in the year 70, and the doom of the city and the Temple was sealed. It was the beginning of the end.

It had happened once before, six-and-a-half centuries earlier, when Babylon conquered Israel, destroyed the Temple, and carried almost all the population off into slavery. But this was a greater calamity than that first destruction, for the first had a happy ending. After 70 years the people returned and rebuilt the Temple and the second Temple had lasted through all the years.

This time the destruction, and the dispersion of the people, had a tragic finality about it. The Jews were scattered over the face of the world, and are still scattered — homeless to this day.

The Fast of the 17th of Tammuz (Tammuz is the name of a month) is, however, one of the four fasts which Zechariah (chapter 8, verse 19) said will someday be turned into days of joy and festivity. Jews have faith that this day will not always be a day of sadness.

QUO VADIS?

Friday, June 29—It was nearly 19 centuries ago, that the famous "Quo Vadis? incident happened. According to the legend, St. Peter, who had been condemned to death, had escaped from prison and was hurrying along a road outside Rome, putting as much distance as possible between himself and those who were determined to kill him.

* * *

To his surprise he met the Lord, carrying a heavy cross. "Domine!" said St. Peter, who by this time apparently spoke Latin, "Quo Vadis?" (Where are you going?) And Jesus replied "To Rome, to be crucified again in thy stead." Whereupon Peter, desperately ashamed, returned to the city to face his martyrdom. The story also says that he asked to be crucified head downward, as a symbol of his unworthiness to suffer the same death as his Lord.

Daily Exposures Are Beneficial

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Wearing just enough clothing for comfort, but not too much, and going without hat, cap or scarf, I find I have less cri and have more comfort than when I made myself tired bundling up with extra sweaters, etc. (Mrs. W. V.)

Answer—Naturally. The harmlessness of everyday "exposure" was one of the conclusions research by the British Medical Research Council's investigators after three years' study of the question and inoculation experiments on volunteer subjects. But Yankee Wiseacres and their doctors continue to ascribe illnesses they don't understand to real or fancied "exposure."

Following the fine advice in your pamphlet, our daughter has got her skin cleared. She had very obstinate acne. She is happy and we are grateful. (Mrs. D. W.)

Answer—And I am glad. The pamphlet on Acne (Blackheads and Pimples) is available on request if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope. A clipping of this offer is not a request.

There are many preparations to prevent perspiration and odor. What happens when such a preparation seals in the perspiration which the sabaceous glands would normally excrete?" (N. H.)

Answer—Sebaceous glands secrete sebum, skin oil. Suppressing sweat in a limited area of the skin, say the armpits or the feet, seems to have no untoward effect.

I'm sure that if it were not for the quick action of doctor and nurses my hospital-born baby would not have survived—she had a lung congestion at birth and had to be put in an incubator immediately. Had she been born at home, as you advise . . . (Mrs. C. R.)

Answer — Possibly. But other factors may have accounted for the baby's weakness — such as anesthesia or drugs given the mother in labor.

We are going to spend three weeks vacation at Lake ———, where there is more or less poison ivy. (H. C. H.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Ivy Poisoning.

Have read your articles since I was a girl of 15 in Duluth. So, when I was told a week ago that you are a myth I nearly jumped over the counter in the drugstore. (Mrs. F. J. M.)

Answer — I hope you'll trade elsewhere the next ten years. Another reader tells me a department store in your neck of the woods has a section of the drug department marked "Dr. Brady's Corner" — where, the reader implies, they have everything I recommend. Everything, perhaps, but my written consent. If you will identify the person who told you I'm a myth, I'll make him eat his words.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis, or treatment, will be answered by Dr. William Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is sent to The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan.

Try Family Night in Busy Home

Pearl is a vivacious clergyman's wife who has a sparkling personality and many clever ideas. Notice her "family night" strategy. And if you are interested in modern, streamlined church promotion, send for one of her monthly mimeographed church magazines. Wives are certainly responsible for 50 per cent of their husband's success, and Pearl meets that test.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case R-390: Pearl Hulse, aged 33, is a cousin of mine. Her husband is a talented young clergyman at Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

He is an avaiation enthusiast and has his own small plane which he uses when making speaking trips around the midwest.

During the winter they flew to Florida for a two-weeks' vacation. Pearl was navigator and Duane served as pilot. En route home, they stopped for a couple of days to visit us at our Indiana home.

"Who is looking after Karolyn and Judy?" my wife asked, for they are the children of Pearl and Duane.

"Oh, our assistant pastor and his wife are staying at our house till we return," Pearl replied.

"To be sure that the girls would come home promptly after school I used a bit of phychology," Pearl added with a smile.

"I sent them a little souvenir gift every day which I knew would be delivered early each afternoon. So the girls would probably rush home to see what each day's package contained."

PARENTAL STRATEGY

Then Pearl outlined another idea which is so valuable for all busy parents that I am reporting it in detail.

"As a clergyman, Duane is very busy. And he is often away from home at night to attend banquets or make speeches," Pearl said.

"That breaks up our home life a great deal. So we decided to set aside Friday night and call it our own private 'family night'.

"We let the girls plan the program for that night, too, so for several days prior to Friday they will eagerly consider various possibilities.

"Sometimes, as in summer, they decide we should all attend the drive-in movie.

"In winter, we may play Monopoly for several successive Friday nights. But after the game, they may decide we should go out for a soda.

"Our parishioners are very considerate about our 'family night' for they try to avoid breaking in upon our family group at that time.

* * *

"And I think it is the high spot of the week for our daughters. It is the one night when they can be sure that their parents will both be with them.

"And the plan of letting them decide upon the program, also seems to be stimulating. They like it very much, so I recommend it to other clergymen's families."

PARENTS, BEWARE

Pearl used to be my private secretary before her marriage, so she has carried over into her church work some modern newspaper ideas for their monthly mimeographed magazine, which she supervises.

Incidentally, I have never seen a church monthly magazine that surpasses the one released monthly by their church at Sheboygan.

They don't know I am writing this Case Record but I'm sure they will gladly mail you a copy free if you'll enclose a postage stamp.

It will be very helpful to all churches—Catholic, Jewish or Protestant. I have used their mimeographed magazine several times in addresses before conventions of clergymen of various denominations.

* * *

Christ was the greatest Applied Psychologist of all time, so we should certainly employ as good advertising psychology for our churches, as the advertising agencies do for commercial wares.

A flourishing church must be up-to-date in its methods. Moral virtues are age-old, but the "packaging" must be streamlined and in keeping with latest psychological discoveries.

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Warren Mendez Writes Favoring American Jazz

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

A letter from Music Lover expresses the general ignorance of too many American people concerning jazz music.

Many think boogie-woogie and the latest teen craze, rock and roll, is jazz. Ignorance made Paul Whiteman and Al Jolson jazzmen. Real jazz music falls into two classifications: New Orleans and the new progressive. Both art forms have been widely acclaimed in foreign countries.

Europeans considered us a boorish nation whose primary interest was the accumulation of money. They accused us of having no interest in the cultural and of having an entertainment-seeking age of about a 10-year-old.

Our jazz musicians have changed this attitude. They have brought it out of the gutter and into the concert halls only to have such people as Music Lover try to put them down again. Our musicians have done more good will in foreign lands than the billions of dollars spent in lend lease. They have conducted themselves in a way to do us proud.

Let us strive to develop our only contribution to art rather than speak disparagingly about it.

On the subject of narcotics — granted there are a few hopheads, but no more than in any other professional group. There are statistics backing up this statement.

Incidently, I'm not afraid to sign my name.

Ike Is Fit for Re-Election, Says Presidential Barber

WASHINGTON (INS)—Take it from Steve Martini, President Eisenhower's barber, there's "no reason in my opinion" why the chief executive shouldn't run again.

The quiet-spoken 44-year-old presidential barber, who has been trimming the President's hair ever since inauguration day, states that the President shows little effect from his operation.

Martini has trimmed the President's hair weekly during the chief executive's stay in Walter Reed Army Hospital, and has seen Eisenhower on alternate mornings to shave him.

The barber, a staunch Eisenhower suppporter, said in an interview with INS:

"I think he is in far better condition than he has ever been.

"I see no reason why he shouldn't run again.

"He doesn't look to me like he has lost much weight. His face is almost as full as the day I last saw him at the White House.

"His eyes are clear, his skin is firm, his face is ruddy, his voice is forceful. His manner is jolly.

"It's amazing, the recuperative powers he has."

The barber said the President does not look as if he had lost the seven pounds reported by his doctors.

"Of course," he pointed out," "I'm just saying how he looks to me."

Martini is a confirmed Eisenhower fan. Although a Democrat from Mississippi, he voted for the President in 1952.

I'm one of those Dmocrats who voted for the President last time. I'm a registered Democrat, but I'll vote for him again."

The barber said he regards the President as "the top man in the world—there's not much higher you can go."

He said that when he trims the President's hair or shaves him, "he talks to me just like he would to any other man."

* * *

The President is the kindest and most considerate man I ever met—he makes you feel like you are doing him a big favor in serving him."

* * *

What does a President talk about to his barber?

Martini answered: "He's always interested in how the small people are getting along. He asks me about my business, how the other barbers and the bootblack are doing."

Martini has a five-chair barbershop at the Chevy Chase shopping center in northwest Washington. His wife runs a beauty shop in suburban Bethesda. They have a home in nearby Silver Spring, Maryland, and three children, Kathleen, 22, who is married and has 2 children of her own: Steve, Jr., 14, and Gregory, 19 months.

ONCE-A-WEEK CHORE

He goes to the White House one day a week—on his off-day—to give haircuts to the President and other members of the White House staff.

* * *

He explained: "They get to work early and usually don't leave until barbershops are closed. They are too busy to get to a barber, so I go down and take care of them on my day off."

Martini, who wears a trim brown mustache and appears much younger than his 44 years, became Eisenhower's barber through presidential military aide Col. Robert Schulz.

The barber operated the first shop in the Pentagon when it was opened in 1942. He met Schulz there and cut his hair for several years, as well as trimming such notables as Gen. George C. Marshall, the late Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, the late Air Force chief General H. H. "Happy" Arnold, and many others.

TICKLED AT OFFER

He said: "When the President was elected, Col. Schulz sent for me and asked me how I would like to take care of the White House staff and how I would like to be presidential barber. Of course, I was tickled to death.

THE BERRYS By Carl Grubert

Find Possible Clue to Atomic Nuclei 'Glue'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission today announced its Los Alamos, N.M., laboratory has found a new atomic particle which may provide a clue to the "glue" that holds atomic nuclei together.

* * *

The particle, called a "neutrino," is the second one to be detected in less than a year. The first, identified by the University of California radiation laboratory, is the antiproton. Both had been objects of intensive search by scientists since theoretical physicists reasoned out their probable existence more than 20 years ago.

Dr. Willard F. Libby, acting chairman of the AEC, said in a statement accompanying the announcement that the new discovery "confirms the validity of important aspects of current nuclear theory and opens the way to further understanding of nuclear forces."

* * *

In particular, Libby said:

"One of the greatest mysteries facing scientists today is the nature of the 'glue' which holds atomic nuclei together. Discovery of the neutrino should help scientists to gain understanding of this force, which is one of the fundamental properties of matter."

Libby conceded that no immediate practical application of the discovery is known. He said, however, that it is of very great importance as an advance in the basic knowledge on which progress in utilization of atomic energy depends.

* * *

Libby offered congratulations to the scientific team led by Frederick Reines and Clyde Cowan Jr. "on its magnificent accomplishment" in detecting the new particle.

Their task was complicated by the peculiar nature of the neutrino. It carries no electrical charge and is of "vanishingly small mass," the AEC said, and it interacts only very weakly with material. Libby estimated that it could "pass through billions of miles of solid matter."

* * *

Libby said that part of the energy from the stars goes into the neutrino state in which it interacts only very slightly with matter. He said it would be of very great importance to learn how much of the energy of the universe has been "lost" in this manner and added that it is hoped an estimate can be made through experiments following up the neutrino work.

Mental Patient Fires Hospital; Three Die

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—A woman mental patient who police quoted as saying she started a fire for the excitement has been arraigned on an arson charge in connection with a blaze that cost three lives.

* * *

Killed in the fire, which destroyed the wing of a mental hospital yesterday, were three women patients. Their charred bodies were found in their beds.

* * *

Arraigned on an arson charge was Miss Mildred Waters, 29, Rocky Hill, Conn. She had been admitted to the hospital only the night before the fire. She was taken to Mercer County Jail.

Patrolmen Fred Porter and Jack Petrone quoted her as saying she set fire to a curtain for excitement after she had been smoking in her room.

* * *

Seven other women were rescued from the burning one-story frame structure of the private hospital and nursing home known as Tenacre Foundation.

Mrs. Jane Moyce, who singlehanded drove off a bull attcking a man, has been awarded the British Empire Medal. She is a housewife of Ruislip, England.

Ask Liquor Pint Ban

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Prosecutor Harry T. Running has sent the annual request from Grand Travers county law officers to the Michigan Liquor Commission, banning the sale of alcoholic beverages by the pint until the cherry harvest is completed. The request sets July 2 to Aug. 25 as the restriction dates.

First Methodist Church Honors Pastor and Wife

Pontiac Press Photos

Reminiscing with the Rev. and Mrs. Paul R. Havens (center) at the recent farewell reception in their honor were the Chester J. Arnolds of Riviera terrace. The Rev. Mr. Havens, who has been pastor of the First Methodist Church 12 years, has been appointed pastor of the Methodist Church in Davison where he will conduct two morning worship services besides Sunday School.

An arrangement of "Pink Radiance" and "Fashion" roses in a shell-pink bowl centered the refreshment table at the reception held in First Methodist Church. Adding a few more rosebuds were Mrs. David R. Cowan (left) of Henderson street and Mrs. Homer L. Johnson of North Perry street.

Spending the Summer With Family

Mary C. Moreau Returns to Pontiac From Germany

Mary Catherine Moreau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Moreau of East Iroquois road, arrived home by plane Friday from Augsburg, Germany, where she has been teaching school for the past three years. She will spend the summer here, returning to Augsburg in the fall.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Whitfield of Bloomfield Hills have as their houseguests her mother, Mrs. John R. Bagnall of Sault Ste. Marie, and Jan Gibson of Morenci. Jan is serving as an attendant at the Willits-Whitfield wedding today. Mrs. Bagnall will spend the coming week here.

Others here for the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. George Dennis of San Mateo, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hobin and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Madsen of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Marzelli of Dumont, N. J.

* * *

Gathering at the Pontiac City Club Thursday evening to honor W. Allen Booth were Wayne Gabert, R. F. Touscany, Harold King, H. A. Roy, James Hampton, James Harris, Harvey Berger and Milton Hay.

The group presented Mr. Booth with a gift in recognition of his service to a business firm from which he recently retired.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ferrer (Ann Cudney) of Berkley are the proud parents of twin sons born June 21 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Grandparents of the infants, named Clay Matthew and Craig Michael, are Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Cudney of Marlborough drive and Mr. and Mrs. William Hoeke of Washington, D. C. Mrs. Ferrer will remain at the home of her parents for a few weeks.

* * *

The Owen G. Wrights will soon be moving from their home on Dixie highway to their new home on Colrain drive.

Attending the shower are Mrs. Jack McVey, Mrs. Ruth Miller, Mrs. Matt Lingenfelter, Mrs. Carl Mason, Mrs. Carl Bartlett, Mrs. Bob Brown, Mrs. Orval Russell, Mrs. Bob Hughs, Mrs. Ed Good, Mrs. Clair Rasmussen, Mrs. Bob Kingsbury and Mrs. Ron Johnston.

Also attending are Mrs. Al Emsley, Mrs. Elaine Bragan, Mrs. James Cavalier, Mrs. Keith Roswall, Mrs. Ed Baker, Mrs. Jack Mariner, Mrs. Don Beattie, Mrs. Walt Siggins, Mrs. Bernie Bays and Mrs. Herbert Gaeth.

* * *

Completing the list are Mrs. Marvin Skelton, Mrs. Bob Carlin, Mrs. Jerry Donaldson, Mrs. Victor McNair, Mrs. Lee Haertter, Mrs. Jerry Ransom and Mrs. John Yungk.

MOMS Unit Meets at Edwards Home

MOMS of America, Inc., Unit Two met at the home of Mrs. David Edwards on South Jessie street recently. Members enjoyed a social evening, following which refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. E. K. Vanderlind invited the group to her home on North Johnson avenue for a business meeting July 17.

Stanley C. Colby of Lakeside drive and Mrs. John H. Rawley of Elizabeth Lake road (left to right) greeted Mr. and Mrs. Perc Parsons of Illinois avenue when they arrived at the reception in the First Methodist Church Tuesday evening.

Assisting with arrangements for the reception in First Methodist Church were David R. Cowan (left) of Henderson street, Mrs. Clayton Rule of North Anderson street and Guy Emery of East Tennyson avenue. The Rev. and Mrs. Paul R. Havens were honored by members of the congregation at the farewell party before their departure for Davison where the Rev. Mr. Havens will become the minister of the Methodist Church.

Women's Chorus Makes Fall Plans

Mrs. Edward Cornell of Henderson street entertained the executive board of the Pontiac Women's Chorus at her home Tuesday evening.

* * *

Mrs. John Keinert presided over the meeting. Charles Hutton, director, outlined plans for the coming year, which will mark the 25th anniversary of the chorus.

Auditions will begin on Sept. 4, with the first regular rehearsal scheduled for Sept. 11. The chorus is sponsored by the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation.

Sprinkle Evenly

Sprinkling clothes in preparation for ironing should be done with warm water, evenly and lightly. Be especially careful to sprinkle just slightly at the seams. Smooth out wrinkles, add Michigan State University home economists, and fold loosely. Store the clothes in a plastic container.

Presbyterian Women Meet at Clark Home

The January-March group of First Presbyterian Church gathered for luncheon recently at the home of Mrs. E. G. Clark at Silver Lake.

Assisting hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baumgartner, Mrs. May McNeil and Mrs. Robert L. Bliss. Mrs. Thomas Tillson conducted the business meeting attended by 24 members and three guests. Devotions were given by Mrs. Baumgartner.

Mrs. G. Eldred Mathes gave a study on the American Indians.

Freeze Ripe Berries

Blueberries that are to be frozen should be fully ripe ones which are blue-black in color. Whether they are frozen in sugar syrup or unsweetened depends on the planned use. For fruit compotes and other fresh fruit dessert, use syrup. But berries for pies and salads should be dry packed.

Rev. Paul Havens Going to Davison

By MARY ANGLEMIER
Church Editor, The Pontiac Press

The Rev. and Mrs. Paul R. Havens were greeted by more than 300 persons at an evening reception in the First Methodist Church recently.

* * *

Neighbors, members of the congregation and the community came to say "goodbye" and "God bless you" to their pastor and friend of the last 12 years.

The Rev. Mr. Havens was appointed Sunday to the Methodist Church in the fast-growing community of Davison by Bishop Marshall R. Reed.

* * *

Besides Sunday School, two morning worship services are currently being held in the Davison church, and plans are contemplated for the building of a new sanctuary.

The new parsonage was recently completed.

* * *

GROUP SINGING

Mrs. John Rawley, toastmistress, introduced representatives of various church groups. The program opened with Perc Carr, lifelong member of the church, leading the community singing.

* * *

In speaking of her pastor, Mrs. Ethel Proffitt said that he was a part of nearly every family life. She mentioned the sons and daughters he had married, the babies baptized and sick beds visited.

"When trouble or death came to our homes, he was always there. Above all, he helped us grow spiritually," she said. Mrs. Proffitt spoke for the Booster Class.

Oliver Dunstan, Aurora Class teacher, told how the various units would miss the pastor and his wife who had been so unselfish in their work for the church.

* * *

Carol Opland, speaking for the young people, said that the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Havens were people to whom they could turn for help and encouragement.

HELP APPRECIATED

Guy Emery, president of Wesleyan Class, expressed the appreciation of his class for the help and guidance given during the past 12 years.

* * *

David Cowan, president of Progressive Class, said the minister had helped lead young people and had given of himself untiringly.

Mrs. Clayton Rule told of the feeling of pride she has in belonging to First Methodist Church. She noted that Mrs. Havens has belonged to WSCS since its beginning and has been an inspiration to the members.

Joe Davis sang two selections and Merlin Asplin directed the Women's Choir in a selection.

The Rev. Duncan D. McCall, pastor of First Christian Church and representative for the Pontiac Pastors Assn. spoke to the group. He praised the work of the Rev. Mr. Havens in the community and in the pastors group.

SHARED IDEALS

He said that the Rev. Mr. Havens had shared the ideals of the ministerial group and had helped Pontiac realize that ministers are interested in the righteousness and welfare of the community.

* * *

"We are sorry that the time has come that your pastor must leave this community, but we realize that his work must go on. It is an hour of sadness to lose your pastor, but an hour or rejoicing that he will go on giving service to others," the Rev. Mr. McCall remarked.

Chester Arnold also spoke and told the Havens that the prayers of the church go with them.

Mrs. Havens thanked the group for the gifts presented to them and for the cooperation given in the past.

The Rev. and Mrs. Havens thanked the group for allowing them to make the trip to Holy Land, to walk the ground that Jesus walked. "This experience can never be equaled," he said.

Mrs. Dudley Colby led the group in prayer.

* * *

The Progressive Class was in charge of decorations and the women's groups were responsible for refreshments.

70 Gambol at Bakers' Lawn Party

Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Baker entertained 70 guests at a lawn party given at their home on Franklin boulevard Thursday evening.

* * *

Included in the party were Horton Southworth, principal of Crofoot School, the third grade children and their parents.

Beth Ellen Rotsel recited "A Little Parable for Mothers" and Charlotte Ann Janicki led in group memory work. Dyann Hayes presented her teacher, Mrs. Baker, with a heart-shaped crystal dish from the group.

Former principal Howard Burt and Mrs. Burt were guests as was Mrs. Fred Pomeraning.

Four former first grade pupils from Waterford who had attended a summer party 25 years ago reminisced at Thursday's affair.

Included were Mrs. Charles Pursley and daughter, Sandy, Mrs. Ralph Porter and daughter, Marcia, Mrs. Paul Danie and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lindquist.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindquist sang several duets. The harmonettes, comprised of Carol and Barbara Burt, and Beverly and Carolyn Allen also sang.

* * *

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Garner of Florida, Mrs. Harry White, Inez Slater, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hunt, Mrs. Alma Tremel, Mrs. Gerry Watts, Mrs. Ingabar Barker, Alice Willoughby and Mrs. Wilson Ballard.

Harold Chapel Claims Bride in Illinois Rite

BIRMINGHAM—At a wedding today in Kenilworth, Ill., Joan Leslie Birney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Birney, became the bride of Harold Raymond Chapel. He is the son of the Donald R. Chapels of Birmingham.

Gail Birney was maid of honor and Nancy Chapel, Mrs. Howard of Ann Arbor, Carole Hough of Dearborn and Suzanne Harvey were bridesmaids.

Robert Wood of Ann Arbor was best man, and ushers included Donald H. Birney Jr., Peter MacKenzie, Richard Turner and Lee Berling.

A reception was given at the Birney home in Kenilworth.

* * *

After a wedding trip to northern Michigan, the couple will live in Birmingham.

Eleanor Goulet Repeats Vows in St. Michael Rite

The Rev. William Immel of St. Michael Church celebrated the Nuptial Mass this morning uniting Eleanor R. Goulet and Leo. F. Coyle. The 10 o'clock ceremony was performed in the presence of 150 guests.

* * *

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Goulet of Hamilton street, chose a waltz-length gown of Italian silk for her wedding. The scoop neckline featured Alencon lace and sequin trim. She wore matching gauntlets.

Mrs. Leonard LaBarge, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a cotillion blue ballerina-length gown of crystalette with a tucked neckline and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Leo, the son of Joseph Coyle of Voorheis road, asked his brother, William, to be best man. Ushers were John Coyle and Harry McDonough.

* * *

The ceremony was held on the 32nd wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

For the reception at the VFW Hall in Drayton Plains, Mrs. Goulet wore a gold-colored sheath dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow talisman roses.

MRS. LEO COYLE

Following a honeymoon in northern Michigan, the couple will reside on Fourth avenue. For traveling, the bride changed to a light blue dress with white accessories.

* * *

Out-of-town guests attended from Buffalo, Canada, Detroit, Flint and Bay City.

Elaine Agnes Darden Becomes Bride in St. Hugo of Hills Rite This Morning

A garden reception at "Dardenelles" followed the wedding of Elaine Agnes Darden and Lawrence Daniel Heitsch this morning.

* * *

Elaine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bartolus Darden of "Dardenelles," Lake Orion, and Lawrence is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawson Heitsch of West Iroquois road.

St. Hugo of the Hills Church was the scene of the 11 o'clock wedding. Performing the double-ring rite was the Rev. Francis T. Stack.

* * *

For her wedding Elaine chose an ivory - colored gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin, distinguished by a tiny fitted lace bodice and an off-the-shoulder neckline.

Cascades of lace fell from the front of the skirt and a panel of lace formed the cathedral train.

VEIL OF ILLUSION

A matching lace shell trimmed with pearls and paillettes held a fingertip veil of illusion. Cascades of album lilies with stephanotis and ivy formed the bridal bouquet.

* * *

Mrs. Frederick M. Darden of Birmingham was matron of honor and Sarah Downham of Dearborn was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Beverly Watkins, Jean Stillman and Gail Glover, all of Birmingham, and Barbara Barker of Bloomfield Hills.

Marilyn Abele of Oak Park, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Identical gowns of white organdy embroidered in blue with scoop skirts and matching shoes and sashes were worn by the attendants.

* * *

Headpieces were bands of ivy with feathered white carnations and blue delphinium on the left side. The bridesmaids carried cascade bouquets of white carnations, light blue delphinium and ivy. The honor maid's bouquet contained deeper blue delphinium and the honor matron's flowers featured delphinium in the deepest shade of blue.

Gowned in all white organdy with lace trimming, the flower girl carried a basket of rose petals and a corsage of white feathered carnations. Blue delphinium and ivy were pinned to the basket. Her headpiece was a miniature replica of the attendants'.

ASSIST BRIDEGROOM

Performing the duties of best man was Robert Dawson Heitsch Jr. of Mount Clemens, and ushers were Charles Heitsch of Whitmore Lake and Richard Heitsch, brothers of the bridegroom; Frederick M. Darden of Birmingham, the bride's brother; Richard Fitzgerald, Verne Hampton and James Adams of Flint.

* * *

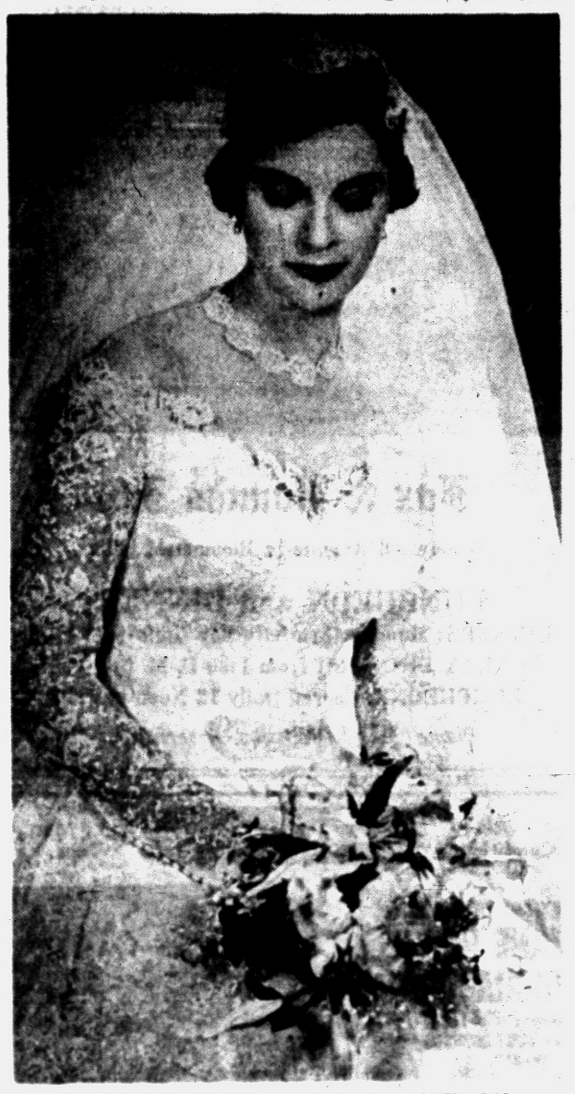

Mrs. Vincent Bronsing sang the bridal recital.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Darden chose a champagne-colored peau de soie dress trimmed with lace and a white hat of hair braid and foliage. She wore white cymbidium orchids pinned to her purse.

Gray organza was the choice of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Heitsch, for the ceremony. Accents of pink adorned the gown, and she wore a matching hat and accessories and a corsage of rubrum lilies.

* * *

Following the reception, the new Mrs. Heitsch changed to a beige linen ensemble distinguished by a deep white yoke with matching shoes for the honeymoon trip to Bermuda. Her hat was white and she carried a white purse. A white orchid was pinned at her shoulder.

MRS. LAWRENCE DANIEL HEITSCH

Elvis Breathes New Life Into Rock 'n' Roll

(This is the second of four articles reporting on a nationwide survey of educators, clergymen, parents and teenagers on the controversial rock 'n' roll craze.)

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
International News Service

Elvis Presley is a 21-year-young man who makes more than $40,000 a week for rockin' from his heels and rollin' his suggestive songs off his animated larynx.

* * *

He is the almighty king of millions of rock 'n' roll fans around America, and he puts on the kind of show that makes young girls violently excited, and adults violently angry.

"He ought to be banned!" is a frequent suggestion among shocked members of the older generation who have observed the seductive, undulating gestures that accompany his stage and TV vocals.

But no steps have been taken to ban Presley because rock 'n' roll is the hottest fad to strike the musical frenzy since the Charleston. It is big business. The kids love it. And youth, as usual, will be served.

* * *

Rock 'n' roll music (though "beat" is a more apt word than "music") might conceivably have died of monotony in 1955 after two years of bouncing prosperity, had not Elvis come along.

SLIGHTLY BECALMED

Things were becoming slightly becalmed. Bill Haley and his Comets were still making records, but none was quite hitting the peak of their early smash called "Rock Around the Clock."

There was that record of "Long Tall Sally" by Pat Boone, and "Fever" by Little Willie John, and dozens of others with titles too disturbing to mention — but RR seemed to be petering out a trifle.

Then, at a disk jockey convention in Nashville last November, some talent scouts for Victor records "discovered" long, narrow, cold-eyed, hot-voiced Elvis.

"We got pretty excited," one of them reported. "We hadn't seen anything so weird in a long time."

* * *

So saying, they hired him. Rock 'n' roll has become more passionate and prolific ever since Presley came out with his records, "Blue Suede Shoes" and "Heartbreak Hotel"—the latter having sold nearly 2,000,000 records at last check of the cashbox.

MORE AGITATION

Presley's fans scream with more agitation than the girls did a decade ago for Frankie-Boy Sinatra. In San Diego they stormed the stage. Elsewhere they wait outside the stage door and tear buttons off his shirt. And what does Elvis think of it all?

The rockin' wonder gave his personal appraisal of the craze during his record-breaking West Coast "concerts."

Question: What is your definition of rock 'n' roll?

Answer: "I don't know, ma'am, I got no definition. I feel it very strongly, that's all, because there's some very beautiful ballads in it. If people'd only listen to stuff like 'Only You' and 'The Great Pretender,' they'd see how pretty it is."

Q: Has sex anything to do with your popularity?

A: "Ma'am, I'm not tryin' to be sexy. I didn't have any idear of tryin' to sell sex. It's just my way of expressin' how I feel when I move around. My movements, ma'am, are all leg movements ... I don't do nothin' with my body."

Q: How long do you think this popularity will last?

A: "That I couldn't tell you, honey. I wish I knew. As long as it sells, I'll try to make the most of it, and when it stops, I'll try to do somethin' else the public likes. Or I'll just say 'Well, I had my day' and be happy."

WHICH IS WORSE?

In Colorado, a critic at a Presley "concert" reported, "It's a toss-up which was worse, Elvis or his fans. I'd say the edge goes to Elvis."

* * *

She received dozens of calls from girls who informed her she was many things—including "an old stinkin' rat!" and a "so-and-so old bag!"

All of this caused her to say of Elvis Presley, "There is nothing half-way about this boy. You either like him or you hate him."

The same general terminology could be applied to rock 'n' roll as a form of music. The vast majority of children, from age 5 to the 20s, like it.

* * *

Adults usually hat it—although there are exceptions. Guy Lombardo and Kate Smith insist they enjoy the rhythm.

BORES GROWNUPS

Mitch Miller, Columbia records' famous artist-executive, personally dislikes it and believes that virtually all adults concur. After passing a certain age, monotony bores an adult.

And rock 'n' roll, according to Miller, "makes a virtue out of monotony. No music which does that is good."

However, unlike other musical experts who see emotional dangers for youngsters in the heavy beat, Miller doesn't consider it harmful to healthy minded teenagers.

"No music can hurt kids who haven't been already hurt by their home environment. Rock 'n' roll is simply this: A safe form of rebellion against mother, father and teacher.

"It's a way they can take out their feelings of independence without hurting those they love.

"You know why kids are so crazy about rock 'n' roll? ... Because nobody else likes it!"

HAMMY CHILDREN

Many nauseated RR critics believe that its prosperity springs from a desire by children to be hams.

"It's just terrible," mourned a Denver mother. "They get up and hop around the dance floor—all because they want to look like bigshots and be the center of attention."

But the kids look at it differently. In an assembly full of high school students at Dayton, Ohio, only one youngster would admit that she didn't like rock 'n' roll.

"I really don't care for it too much," she insisted meekly.

"Don't you believe 'er!" hollered a boy two rows behind. "She's just trying to show off."

Donna Patricia Whitfield became the bride of John McGregor Willits Jr. today at Christ Church Cranbrook. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bradford Whitfield of Bloomfield Hills and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John McGregor Willits of Orlando, Fla.

MRS. JOHN McGREGOR WILLITS JR.

Beverly Munro Honored

Mrs. Lee A. Kremer entertained at a miscellaneous shower in her home on Dwight avenue Thursday evening honoring Beverly Munro, bride-elect of David Zittel.

* * *

Beverly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Munro of Mill street and David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zittel of Navajo drive.

The bride-elect chose this occasion to announce her bridal attendants.

Beatrice Hoffman of Rochester will serve as maid of honor, and Patricia Mullan of Wyandotte, Lorna Schneider of Saginaw, a cousin of the bridegroom, and Jackie Barton will be the bridesmaids.

* * *

Susan Wilhelm of Chicago will serve as flower girl and Larry Davis will perform the duties of ringbearer.

David has asked his brother, Fred Zittel Jr., to serve as his best man. Seating the guests will be Ted Carlson Jr., Dick Avling and Fred Foster Jr.

Junior ushers will be Ronald Dork of Saginaw, a cousin of the bridegroom, and Roger Munro, brother of the bride.

* * *

Guests attending the shower were Mrs. Munro, Mrs. Zittel, Mrs. Ray Lyon, Mrs. Robert Schapler, Mrs. Robert H. Schapler, Mrs. Erwin O. Slater, Mrs. Ivan Wilcox, Mrs. Ernest Wilcox, Mrs. Oscar Berbaum, Mrs. Donald Seed, Mrs. Benjamin Sweeney, Mrs. Earl Phillips, and Mrs. Frank R. Morton.

* * *

Mrs. James C. Aldrich, Mrs. Harold Boyer, Nancy Aldrich, Mrs. John Munro Sr., Mrs. Elmer Klemm, Mrs. W. A. Hiscock, Mrs. Robert Lyon, Mrs. Stanley Hester and Mrs. I. M. Lewis also attended.

Sylvan Lake Garden Club Plans Show

The annual picnic of the Sylvan Lake Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. John F. Roeper on Lakeview drive.

* * *

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Edward L. Williams, Mrs. B. A. TePoorten and Mrs. Charles S. Chandler.

Mrs. Albert E. Kohn named the committee chairmen who will participate in the annual flower show to be held in the Waterford CAI Building Aug. 25-26.

Appointed were Mrs. Earle Knapp and Mrs. Leon Skelley, entry clerks; Mrs. Ray Dombrowski and Mrs. Leon Zielinski, clerks for judges; Mrs. Gordon Dickie and Mrs. John Greenlee, finance; Mrs. Albert Flower and Mrs. S. J. Filkins, hospitality, and Mrs. Dombrowski, publicity.

* * *

Also appointed were Mrs. Kenneth Ollis and Mrs. Howard Wideman, junior division; Mrs. Williard L. MacRae and Mrs. Walter Schroeder, bazaar; Mrs. Zielinski and Olga Azmder, plant arrangement; Mrs. Dale Aumaugher, property, and Mrs. Ed Williams, tea.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Waid Hood and Mrs. Harold T. Sampey.

Glass to Be Topic for Guest Speaker

"Antique Glass" will be the subject discussed when Countryside Improvement Association gathers for a luncheon meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. T. Arno on Commerce road.

Mrs. Forest Grayson of Detroit will be the guest speaker. She will display her collection of early American pressed Flint pattern goblets and other interesting pieces.

Cohostesses for the gathering will be Mrs. S. P. Angott, Mrs. R. D. Baker and Mrs. Don F. Connor.

Donna P. Whitfield Wed in Cranbrook Ceremony

Christ Church Cranbrook was the setting for the ceremony at 12:30 o'clock today uniting in marriage Donna Patricia Whitfield and John McGregor Willits Jr.

* * *

The service was read by the Rev. William C. Norvell assisted by the Rev. A. J. J. Gruetter of Toledo, Ohio, in the presence of 250 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bradford Whitfield of Bloomfield Hills and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John McGregor Willits of Orlando, Fla.

As the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father, she was wearing a gown of embroidered nylon tulle. Panels of the embroidered tulle covered the pleated basic skit that fell into a chapel-length train, and the bodice was fashioned with short sleeves and a deep curved neckline.

A crown of seed pearls secured her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a cascade arrangement of Pinocchio roses, stephanotis and ivy.

ATTEND BRIDE

Jan Gibson of Morenci attended the bride as her maid of honor. Tona Madsen of Chicago, Marge Crandall of Midland, Barbara Pelton of Toledo, Ohio, and Caroline Willits, sister of the bridegroom, were the bride's other attendants.

* * *

All wore gowns of powder blue dotted nylon with white embroidery outlining the deep necklines and full skirts. They carried nosegays of Pinocchio roses and white carnations.

John McGregor Willits served as his brother's best man. Seating the guests were William Ratz, Gerald Christopherson, Garry Petty, Donald Worthey, William Walsh of Dexter and Ross Alquire of Plainwell.

When Mrs. Whitfield greeted her guests at the reception held immediately following the ceremony in the gardens of their home, she was wearing a pink silk linen dress with inserts of lace in the slightly flared skirt.

She chose matching accessories and carried a corsage of roses and delphinium pinned to her small purse.

* * *

Mrs. Willits was gowned in a Dior blue lace dress fashioned with short sleeves and paneled skirt. Her accessories were of a matching color and her corsage was composed of white roses.

TRAVELING COSTUME

For traveling, the bride changed to a blue eyelet sheath dress with a matching duster and matching accessories. A tiny arrangement of Pinocchio roses tied with a blue ribbon was fastened in her hair.

* * *

Following a honeymoon in southern Oregon, the couple will reside in East Lansing until John completes his studies at Michigan State University.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Dan O'Madigan were hosts to out-of-town guests and members of the bridal party at breakfast in their home, "White Pines," on Chesterfield road preceding the ceremony.

Tips to Save Swim Suit

Here are some tips from noted couturiere Nettie Rosenstein on how to keep your new swimsuit looking its best:

1. Don the garment by carefully rolling it inside out to the hip-line, then easing it up over the body.

2. When removing your swimsuit, roll it down from the top inside out.

3. After each wearing, rinse your suit in cool tap water, press the water out, and lay the garment flat on a towel to dry.

4. Launder with a mild soap in lukewarm water.

5. Don't use your fingernails to tug. Elasticized fabrics snag.

6. Don't wring your suit out.

7. Don't put it away damp.

8. Don't let a colored garment "run" on a wet suit.

Remove Stains Fast

It pays to look over clothes for special stains. Stains are best removed when they are fresh and always before the clothes are washed. Hot water and detergent may set stains so they never can be removed.

David Wayne Relates Trouble With Marilyn

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The best "Inside Marilyn Monroe" analysis ever told has been given to me by David Wayne, who has been married to her three times—in motion pictures.

"We've been in four pictures, but in the first, 'As Young As You Feel,' she just did a bit," Wayne said. "Yet I'll never forget it.

"This was a very expensive day at 20th Century-Fox.

"There were 300 or 400 extras, for we were to shoot an audience shot. A girl was supposed to come down the aisle and sit down right behind me. She wasn't supposed to say one line.

MARILYN — DAVID

"We sat there and sat there waiting for this girl. I finally said, 'For gosh sake, are they holding up this whole crew for an extra?'

"'They're waiting for Marilyn Monroe,' somebody said, and I said, 'Who's she?'

"'She's over there being made up,' they told me.

"About two hours afterward this girl finally slithered down the aisle with her hairdresser and customer.

"I was kind of sore. I turned around to her and said, 'Well, I'm very happy you finally made it.'

"And she said, 'Well, that's the way I always do it. It wouldn't be right if I was pretty.!'

"One of the worst times I've ever had in my life was in making 'How to Marry a Millionaire' with her.

"In that picture I sat down beside her in a plane—and eventually married her.

"We shot that scene all day long in the hottest, most enclosed situation. She had trouble doing the scene because of her fears. When she'd get a little perspiry, she'd stop, go fix her hair, change her makeup, and come back as though nothing happened. I got worse as the day went, on from exasperation.

"She had no fear of using other people's time or money in order to learn how to act. Eventually it was worth it to the studio and to the picture."

"Could anybody else have done it?" I asked.

" How many Marilyn Monroes can we afford?" replied Wayne.

"Still you couldn't help but say 'What a nice girl she is' because she was.

"Even then she was carrying around books by Kafka. I don't know whether she knew what she was reading, but she was making a try. She was out to get somewhere."

"Did you see her possibilities then?"

"Frankly, I didn't," admitted Wayne. "I did not believe she had the talent to make it the big way.

"But she has made it the big way already. And she's going to stay there, too, because of her will and her need."

"Never get her wrong, though. Once a wealthy man offered her the most beautiful fur coat in the world to go home with him. She knocked him tail over teakettle.

"I hope," David Wayne added, "that nothing I've said will be considered censure of her. I adore her."

Former County Man Held on Check Count

A former Royal Oak man, allegedly wanted in several states for passing an alleg&ed nationwide series of rubber checks, pleaded guilty to passing two of them in Royal Oak yesterday in Oakland County Circuit Court.

* * *

Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor William Lang said Erwin Bethke has been wanted on one of the two local warrants since 1952, but was unavailable for prosecution. Lang said Bethke has spent the past three years in a Washington Federal prison.

Bethke pleaded guilty to passing two checks totaling $143.67, one in 1952 and one last May 22.

Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick, who will sentence Bethke July 2, returned him to Oakland County Jail under reduced bond of $250 on each charge.

Seek $50,000 for Field

FREMONT (AP) — Workers will canvass Fremont for the remainder of June in efforts to collect a total of $50,000 for completion of a new athletic field. Campaign officials hope for partial completion of the project before school opens in the fall.

Hollywood Headlines

Ailment Makes Recluse of Clara Bow, the 'It' Girl

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — What has happened to Clara Bow?

* * *

That question is often asked about the famed "It" girl of the flaming twenties. I put it to her husband, Rex Bell, onetime cowboy star and now lieutenant governor of Nevada.

NERVE TROUBLE

"For the past few years she has had trouble with her nerves," he explained. "Mentally she is fine and dandy. But she had had emotional disturbances that have knocked out her health. She has had trouble with sleeping and has been high strung.

* * *

"She has had to live an entirely different life since the trouble began. She needs the constant care of a doctor and must go to a sanitarium when her condition gets worse. That's why she must stay in Los Angeles; we don't have the facilities here.

"She has been down there for the past four years. Some of the time she spends in a sanitarium in Culver City; we also have an apartment nearby. I get down every four or six weeks and our sons visit her when they can.

* * *

NO SOCIAL LIFE

"Unfortunately, she doesn't have a bit of social life. That's one of the things she can't take in her condition.

"If she had been Minnie Zilch instead of Clara Bow, perhaps this never would have happened to her. But the emotional strain of her early years was just too much for her nervous system.

He added that his wife's condition has been "a little better" recently. Although she cannot see her old pals, she keeps in touch with them via cards and remembrances.

Prado Claims Victory in Peruvian Election

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Former President Manuel Prado has claimed victory in Peru's three-way presidential race. But his runner-up, Fernando Belaunde, says he still has hopes of winning.

* * *

Prado issued a statement last night proclaiming himself the victor in Sunday's balloting.

Lima newspapers today credited Prado with a lead of 30,000 over Belaunde and nearly 300,000 more than Hernando Lavalle, who had the backing of President Manuel Odria's Restoration party.

* * *

Belaunde admitted he was trailing in latest returns, but he expressed hope the vote in outlying districts might put him on top.

Prado, a banker, served as president from 1939 to 1945.

Egypt Seeks Firm U.S. Aid Pledge

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser was reported today to be pressing the United States for a firmer pledge to help Egypt finish—as well as begin — construction of the proposed Aswan high dam on the Nile River.

Negotiations over the dam and American policy toward assisting in its construction are now at a critical point. They are badly tangled up by the fact that since the original U.S.-British offer of aid was made last December Nasser has followed an increasingly pro-Soviet line.

This has tended to endanger western security interests in the Middle East. It may also have lessened Nasser's chances of getting the firmer promise of long term assistance which he demands.

The Egyptian premier, according to diplomatic reports to the State Department, pressed the point in a meeting in Cairo Wednesday with Eugene R. Black, president of the World Bank which has offered to join in the financing.

The meeting reportedly was friendly and cordial. Black reportedly got the impression that Nasser preferred to have the Western powers help finance the $1,300,000,000 project rather than accept a Russian offer.

The financing plan calls for the World Bank to lend 200 million dollars, and the United States and Britain to provide another 200 million with the rest of the cost being met by Egypt.

The United States and Britain offered last December to give Egypt 70 million dollars to get the project started. But United States law limits foreign aid commitments to funds appropriated for any one year, and the American government could promise only sympathetic consideration of Egypt's further needs as the work progressed. This is a way of saying that the administration will ask Congress for funds as they are required.

• • •

At the time the United States, Britain and the World Bank arranged this deal there was high hope here that it would assist Nasser to concentrate on the peaceful social reform of his country and the raising of living standards among his people.

Nasser, however, did not move as quickly to work out details of the financing and construction plans as American and British officials had hoped.

Actor Isn't Congenial — Wife Awarded Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The sixth wife of character actor Douglas Fowley thinks it is all right to marry an older man "if he is congenial."

But, complained Mary Ann Fowley, 25, in Superior Court yesterday, Fowley, 45, wasn't congenial. And so she obtained an uncontested divorce.

Mrs. Fowley said the actor was jealous, locked himself in his room if he didn't like the company in the house and refused to let her see members of her family.

Outboards Cross Lake

GRAND HAVEN (AP)—A fleet of eight aluminum outboard-powered boats will attempt a Lake Michigan crossing today from Grand Haven to Milwaukee. The boaters, all from St. Charles, expect to make the 80-mile run in four hours. The flotilla includes a 20-foot cruiser, an 18-footer and six 14-footers.

In 1940 each 1,000 U.S. married women 20-24 years of age had borne 975 children, but in 1952 each 1,000 married women 20-24 years of age had borne 1,190 children.

Backfire Responsible for Airliner Explosion

NEW YORK (AP)—A South American aviation expert says a usually harmless engine backfire may have sparked the blaze that sent a Venezuelan airliner crashing into the sea Wednesday.

• • •

Seventy-four persons — 20 of them U.S. citizens—died when the Linea Aeropostal Venezolana Super Constellation plunged into the Atlantic 32 miles east of Asbury Park, N.J.

• • •

The big four-engine plane had turned back off the Virginia coast because of trouble with its left inboard No. 2 engine. The airliner was dumping its 5,000 gallons of gasoline in preparation for an emergency landing at Idlewild Airport when the fuel somehow ignited.

Capt. Jesus Indriago, an operational expert for the airline, told reporters yesterday:

"One of the theories we are working on is that the right inboard—No. 3—Engine failed."

Indriago said there is a possibility that a turbine "exploded or backfired in the No. 3 engine, igniting the octane gas spilling from the plane."

EML Accepts New Royal Oak School

The Eastern Michigan Class "A" League voted at a special meeting Thursday to accept the new Royal Oak Kimball High School into membership.

The school, now being constructed, is scheduled for opening in the second semester of the 1956-57 school year.

Royal Oak athletic officials said the school would be ready to conduct a full-scale athletic program by fall of 1957.

Present members of the EML include, Birmingham, East Detroit, Ferndale, Hazel Park, Mt. Clemens and Port Huron.

The Attitude You Take Can Effect What Life Does to You

Confident Living

My Stepmother Refused to Leave That Ball Game

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I've come to the conclusion that what life does to you is pretty well determined by the attitude you take. If you meet whatever comes with good humor, trying to be as impersonal as possible and not letting things get you down, you are likely to get along rather well. This applies to unconscious reations also, for often people act badly because of unconscious resentments within them, and not because they want to be that way.

* * *

Some people are indifferent and some have no sense of responsibility. Still others are concerned, kindly and helpful. But however and whatsoever may come into our experiences, the mature person imperturbably takes people and happenings as they come, and learns from them.

These thoughts were stimulated by an experience recently at a baseball game. With my wife, our three children and my stepmother, we want to Ebbetts Field in Brooklyn to see the Dogers play Pittsburgh. It was a great day, especially for my stepmother, it being her first big league game. As we entered our seats she said, "I'm so excited I'm walking on air." My late father was a devoted Dodger fan as I am also, and in his invaild last years, he was at the television every day to root for his favorites "Sometime I want you to go to Ebbetts Field and see them play," he said to her. "It will be a wonderful experience for you." Well, it sure was, but not in the manner he visualized.

We sat near first base. Soon from the upper stand everything started coming down onto the field—spectators, paper containers, apples, balls, even metal objects. Finally a heavy tin can hit my stepmother squarely on the head. Blood ran through her hair and down her face, and she slumped dazed in her seat.

'WE CAN'T DO ANYTHING ABOUT IT'

Now I had a chance to see some interesting personality demonstrations. The policeman who to this moment had done nothing ran off somewhere. The usher sprang to her assistane, as did an unknown man who helped her to the first aid station, declaring stoutly, "Such things could never happen in Pittsbrugh." A kindly nurse and doctor efficiently cared for her.

An official to whom I spoke while hunting the doctor said, "It's not my responsibility." When I said, "Judging from the blood, she may be dying," he replied, "Well, I can't help that." Other functionaries said, "We can't do anything else about things like this. We're helpless against rowdies."

Ushers seemed harassed by screaming children running up aisles and over seats. It was delinquency in active demonstration as these boys and girls packed the runways, looking down on the defeated Pittsburgh players and hurling jeers, boos and epithets as they quietly passed through to their quarters.

'I'M GOING RIGHT BACK THERE'

The startled spectators who witnessed the ghastly impact of the heavy can on the white hair of a gentle lady were concerned and sympathetic. No doubt they were humbly thankful to escape themselves.

But it was my stepmother who showed the stuff real human beings are made of. When the doctor finished cleansing the deep wound he politely asked if he might assist her from the park. Not at all," she said, a determined smile passing across her white face. She tried gamely to fit her once pretty hat over a big gauze bandage. I'm going right back and see the finish of my first game if it kills me."

She was braver than I. At first I decided I'd see my ball games here-after in the safety of my television room. But I'll go back, the lure of the game being what it is.

All in all, it was quite an afternoon, and I'll never forget my gallant stepmother bravely returning to the wars. It's all in the attitude you take.

FAVORITE HYMNS — Several young people of the First United Pentecostal Church visit the Oakland County Convalescent Home each month to sing hymns and favorite selections to patients. Mrs. Agnes Ellis of Royal Oak played while Albert Lawrence of 257 Baldwin Ave., Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wardell of 1195 Meadowlawn Rd. sang. The patients join in singing some of the beloved favorites.

Lebanon Official Cites Dangers

Says Western Policies Must Keep Arab Mind Away From Soviet

Dr. Charles Malik, leading Lebanese statesman, told a group of international church leaders that the Western powers must find a sound policy toward the Arab countries or see the Arab world throw its lot with the Soviet Union.

* * *

He said Communist penetration of the Middle East is a greater danger to peace than the Palestine question and that the Western powers must develop an overall policy in fighting it.

Dr. Malik, the former representative of Lebanon in the United Nations and now Dean of Graduate Studies at the American University at Beirut, addressed the opening plenary session of an international conference on Arab refugee problems, convened by the International Missionary Council and the World Council of Churches.

He warned that means of stemming the Communist tide are harder to find now than a year ago and the problem is becoming more difficult.

In favor of the Communists, he said, are "the superb technical party; the moral rehabilitations of Communism since the Geneva Conference; the great success of the Communists at the (Asian African) Bandung Conference; and the absence of a profound Western ideology that is adequate to refute and replace communism in the hearts of the Middle Western people."

Dr. W. A. Visser t'Hooft, secretary general of the World Council of Churches, in an opening speech, said that since the last church meeting on Arab refugee problems held five years ago "there has been no important change in conditions."

There are an estimated 1,000,000 homeless Arabs living in refugee camps along the Israel borders.

LOREN D. FLICKINGER

Gladys M. Flickinger Conference Delegate

Loren D. Flickinger of Glendora, Calif. will be ordained on Tuesday at the Unity Ministers' Conference in Lee's Summit, Mo.

He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Max R. Flickinger of Unity Christ Church, Pasadena, Calif. and former residents of Pontiac.

Loren attended Pasadena Junior College for one year, then went to Lee's Summit where he worked in Silent Unity and studied in the Unity Training School for three years.

* * *

Returning to California, Loren was soloist and teacher at Unity Christ Church, Pasadena until he took over the ministry of the Unity Church in Riverside, Calif. last September. He is married and has a daughter ten months old.

Gladys M. Flickinger, of Boston Ave., Loren's aunt, will be a delegate to the conference from Pontiac.

Methodists Train 40 Missionaries

Young People Undergo Special Courses Before Going Overseas

Forty young men and women will gather in Nashville, Tenn., Tuesday to begin a six-week orientation course which will prepare them to be overseas missionaries of the Methodist Church for three years.

* * *

Drawn from throughout the United States, the group are primarily 1956 college graduates, though a few are teachers and seminary students. They will serve three years as missionaries in Japan, Korea, Hawaii, Southeast Asia and Latin America. Lifetime "career" missionaries are sent out for terms of not less than four years before their first furloughs.

The 18 women and 22 men will be given their pre-field training at the Scarritt College for Christian Workers. In an accelerated program,they will study the Bible, linguistics, anthropology, theology, Christianity and communism, religious education and the practice of missions.

* * *

For a week before going to the Scarritt campus, the group will be at Camp Dogwood about 10 miles from Nashville. There they will discuss the missionary heritage, the missionary vocation and the mission of the church in a revolutionary world. Later at Scarritt they will separate into small groups to study the areas of the world to which they will be going. A special event will be a program of visitation evangelism, directed by the Methodist Board of Evangelism in Nashville.

Chicago Pastor Accepts Call to Grace Lutheran

Rev. Richard C. Stuckmeyer

The Rev. Richard C. Stuckmeyer of Christ Church, Chicago, Ill. has accepted the call to Grace Lutheran Church.

* * *

He will meet with the Call Committee, of which M. F. Rummel is chairman, July 1. The date of installation will be announced at that time.

Pastor Stuckmeyer was born Jan. 12, 1908 in Indianapolis, Ind. and attended St. Paul elementary school in Indianapolis.

In 1926, he was graduted from Concordia College, Fort Wayne, Ind. from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. in 1932. He also received his Ph.D. from the St. Louis Seminary.

He attended Butler University in Indiana, majoring in English. His Masters' and Doctors' degrees were received at the American Theological Seminary in Delaware and he has done graduate work at the Chicago Theological Seminary.

In River Forest, Ill., he taught church history at Concordia Teachers' College and is pastoral advisor there at the present time. He has been a member of the Board for Lutheran Educational Association and Board of Lutheran Children's Welfare Association.

Currently a reader for the literature printed by Concordia Publishing House for the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, he is also chairman of the coordinating committee of the Chicago Lutheran High School North.

The Rev. Mr. Stuckmeyer served as vicar in Indianapolis. His first parish was in Brazil, Ind. From there he went to Maysville, Ky., then to Redeemer Church, South Bend, Ind. and to his present church in 1947.

He was married to Bertha L. Haynes Nov. 29, 1934. The Stuckmeyers have three children, David, 20, who will enter Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, in the fall; Phyllis 18, will be a student at Valparaiso University in September and James, 10, at home.

Methodists Ask Trade With Reds

Oppose Race Tracks in Michigan; Suggest Bolder Soil Bank Plan

ADRIAN (AP)—The Detroit Conference of the Methodist Church yesterday approved a report calling for trade between all nations, including Communist countries.

* * *

The report on social and economic relations also praised the U.S. Supreme Court for "many of its decision upholding civil rights provisions of the constitution."

Other points included a bolder application of the soil bank plan and the distribution of surplus food among the United Nations.

The Methodists urged Gov. Williams and the Legislature to take action to help relieve unemployment.

The report spelled out the opposition of Methodists to gambling, any additional race tracks in Michigan or the proceeds from any race track being turned over to charity.

* * *

The conference also went on record as opposing use of public funds for private and sectarian schools.

Sunday Named Drive Safe Day

Prayer Needed to Cut Highway Deaths, Says Williams

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams, in a proclamation designating June 24th as highway safety Sunday, said this week that prayer is needed to cut highway deaths and injuries.

* * *

"It is apparent something more than man-made statutes and something more than human effort, vital as these are, is needed to meet this crisis," he said.

PRAYER NEEDED

"Prayer is needed in order that we may both physically and spiritually see the way in hill and vale as we walk and drive."

The Governor also said:

* * *

"Unless we do unto others as we would have others do unto us, and unless we obey the Commandment 'Thou Shalt Not Kill,' the tragic toll of highway accidents very likely will set a new and gruesome record in 1956."

* * *

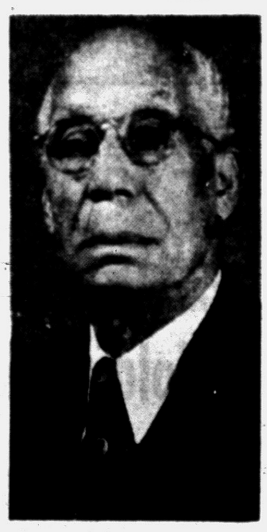

The Golden Rule, he said, should be applied to the measurement of our highway speed."

NCC Asks Paroles

A resolution of the National Council of Churches calling upon the U. S. Government to release imprisoned Japanese war criminals and commute the sentences of parolees was presented Friday at the White House by officials of the organization's Japan Committee. It was received on behalf of President Eisenhower by an aid.

Hi-Brow Welcome

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A variety of family welcome signs usually greet incoming troopships from the Far East. One was a sign in bold letters: "Hi Brow!" Jack Warren of Seattle knew it was for him, all right. He carried the nickname "The Brow" through school.

REV. J. W. CONYERS

New Bethel Baptists to Hear First Pastor

The Rev. J. W. Conyers, the first pastor of New Bethel Baptist Church, will be preaching at the home-coming service at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Following the worship hour, there will be an old fashioned pot luck served in the basement.

Women of the church planning the homecoming festivities are Mrs. Rosie Gray, Mrs. Lee A. Stewart, Mrs. M. G. Baker, Mrs. Sarah Little and Mrs. Nettie Davis.

Detroit Church Choir to Sing at Bray Temple

The Bray Temple C.M.E. Church 320 Rockwell Ave., will present the Inspirational Choir of New Grace Baptist Church of Detroit at a Musicale Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Rev. R. A. Britton, pastor, extends an invitation to the public.

Musical Programs Scheduled Sunday

The Silvertone Singers of Grand Rapids and the Wandering Travelers of Pontiac will present a musical program at the Church of God in Christ, 252 Wesson St. at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Accompanied by the Pastors' Chorus of St. Peter's A.M.E. Church of Detroit, they will give a program at 8 p.m. Sunday in the gymnasium, 320 Bagley St.

Bishop C. J. Johnson is pastor of the church and Philip Thompson is chairman of arrangements.

Past Grandmasters Will Speak at Trinity

Gilbralter Lodge 19 F&AM, Prince Hall Affiliation, will have the annual St. John's Day Service at 2 p.m. Sunday in Trinity Baptist Church.

Guest speakers will be past grandmasters Charles Campbell, Samuel Whitfield and Elmer Wallace.

Reading the Scripture lesson will be the Rev. Century Morris, assistant pastor of Trinity Baptist.

The Rev. L. N. Pryor of Antioch Baptist Church, Flint, will preach and the choir of the local church will present special numbers. Everyone is welcome.

13 Lucky Number

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP)—Number 13 has been a lucky number for Tom Ludwig of Barada. He has held Richardson County's No. 13 automobile license plate for the last 29 years and has never had an automobile accident.

Holy Communion to Be Observed at 9:45 and 11 A.M.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at both the 9:45 and 11 o'clock services Sunday morning in the First Presbyterian Church.

A class of new members will be received into the fellowship of the church at the later service.

The Vacation Bible School will continue through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon each day. The enrollment has exceeded that of last year about 40%.

The Rev. Edward D. Auchard, one of the associate pastors of the church, will serve on the staff of the Senior High Conference in session at Greenville from June 25 through July 2.

"Lightning and thunder, I break asunder." This verse was engraved on many old English church bells.

Prayer for This Week

Editor's Note: A prayer by a Pontiac pastor will be published on the church page each week with the hope it will be a help to someone. The Rev. O. J. Berseche of the Christian Missionary & Alliance Church offers the following:

Almighty God, in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, we give thanks for thy mercy and goodness towards us as a nation. Thy blessings are many. Thou, Lord, art good, but we are a sinful people and pray that Thou wilt "Have mercy upon us, O God, according to Thy loving kindness; according to the multitude of Thy tender mercies blot out our transgressions."

Forgive us for our sin of ingratitude. We profess but we do not possess. The way we live belies our testimony.

Forgive us our sin of desecrating Thy Holy Day. As a nation we have forgotten the standard of the Bible and the example of our founding fathers. Sunday, the Lord's Day, has become a holiday, a day of buying and selling and a day of worldly pleasure. O God, we are verily guilty, have mercy on us.

Forgive us our sin of forgetting Thee. We have allowed this materialistic world to well nigh blind us to things spiritual. Our vision of Thee and things eternal has grown dim. Bring to our remembrance the words of the Psalmist: "The wicked shall be turned into hell and all the nations that forget God."

"Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors and deliver us from evil," in Christ's name. Amen.

Ohio Council Hits TV Fare

Criticize Programming of Religious Shows and Sunday Emphasis

A state-wide survey by the Ohio Council of Churches indicates there are too many religious radio and TV programs of inferior quality on the air and that too many religious programs are broadcast on Sundays and not enough during the week.

• • •

Findings of the study released last week show the state's radio stations carry a combined total of 646 religious programs every week and the TV stations 86 per week.

Of these, it reports 461 of the radio programs and 59 TV shows were broadcast Sundays.

The findings are based on returned questionnaires received from 59 of the state's 81 radio stations and 16 of its 20 TV stations.

Observed the report: "It seemed that the percentage of religious programs broadcast on Sunday was out of proportion . . . Religion is not for Sunday alone."

• • •

It also registers concern about the quality of religious programs. "A disproportionate amount of time in religious broadcasting is given to that type of commercial programming which does not reflect either the theology or the worshop practices of the main body of the American people," it says.

More than three-quarters of the state's radio religious programs are devotional in nature, the study reveals. Of the TV shows, 25 were classified as devotional; 28 as instructional and 19 as dramatic.

Most of the station managers questioned asked for more programs of religious news, panel discussions, interviews, music and quizzes instead of "live" church services.

They recommended that churches make their programs entertaining as well as informative, vary their formats as commercial programs do and use less of the "preachy, hell-fire and brimstone approach and more of the down to earth, man to man approach."

Commission to Conduct Religious Study

Formation of a new study commission on a Christian approach to the common moral foundations of international life was announced last week in New York by officers of the Commission of the Churches on International Affairs.

The organization is a joint agency of the International Missionary Council and the World Council of Churches.

The new Commission has been asked to confer during the next two years in an attempt to find wider areas of moral understanding and explore efforts "to bring the guiding principles of international life into greater harmony with God's will."

Church leaders and experts in international affairs from 17 countries make up the commission. American members include: Ernest Gross, New York, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations and chairman of the Department of International Affairs of the National Council of Churches; and Mrs. Douglas Horton, Cambridge, Mass., former Wellesley College president and a NCC vice president.

Other names include Professor Arnold Toynbee, London; Sir Kenneth Grubb, London; and Professor J. L. Hromadka, noted Czech theologian. Werner Kagi, professor of International Law at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, is chairman. Dr. Richard M. Fagley, New York, CCIA executive secretary was named secretary. The study will be titled "International Ethos: A Christian Approach."

Lutheran Units Reject Merger

Resolution Spiked by 1,434 to 685 Ballot at Minneapolis Parley

MINNEAPOLIS (INS) — Unity among Lutheran churches received a boost and a setback in conventions yesterday in the twin cities.

• • •

The final obstacle to approval of a merger by the Evangelical Lutheran Church with the United Lutheran and American Lutheran groups apparently was removed when the Evangelical Church voted to apply for membership in the World Council of Churches.

The resolution carried by 21 votes over the required two-thirds majority, 1434 to 685.

Meanwhile, the Missouri Synod Lutheran Church, overwhelmingly declined an offer to join the Lutheran World Federation. A resolution refusing the offer noted that membership in the federation would involve the Missouri Synod's two million members "in union in spiritual matters with groups not in doctrinal agreement with us."

Dr. John W. Behnken, president of the synod, pleaded with the delegates at the 43rd triennial convention to reject the offer, saying he thought the synod could do more to bring about doctrinal agreement outside the federation because "if we're in there, our testimony will be choked."

• • •

Dr. H. H. Harms of St. Louis was elected second vice president. Dr. Walter F. Lichtsinn of Hammond, Ind., was re-elected third vice president and Dr. Oliver A. Harms of Houston, Tex., was chosen as a new vice president.

Premier Mollet Seeks Another Confidence Vote

PARIS (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet called again today for a vote of confidence by the National Assembly, this time on a proposal to levy new taxes on freight hauled by truck and canal boat.

The Assembly gave Mollet three votes of confidence only last Thursday in approving his bill to increase old age pensions.

When the Premier makes these measures issues of confidence in his government, he is virtually certain of their approval because none of his opponents wants to inherit the problem of settling the Algerian rebellion.

LINDA JACKSON EXHIBITS PORTRAITS—The St. John Methodist Church is sponsoring an exhibition of portraits by Linda Jackson of 327 California St. from 5 to 7 p.m., Sunday evening at the Y.W.C.A., 22 Franklin Blvd. Shown is Linda holding the portrait of a clown who is making up for a circus act. Her work also includes, landscapes, figure study and still life. All portraits are painted from live models. The clown was painted at the Art Students' League in New York City.

Paintings to Be Exhibited in YWCA at Sunday Tea

The St. John Methodist Church will sponsor a Chef D'ouevre Art and Musical Tea from five to seven o'clock Sunday evening at the Y.W.C.A., 22 Franklin Blvd.

Paintings by Vista Jackson, a native of Pontiac, will be exhibited.

Miss Jackson was graduated from Pontiac High School in 1953. She studied at Michigan State Normal, Ypsilanti and is at present studying at the Art League in New York City.

At the end of next year, she plans to do further study and painting in Europe.

For the program, Charlotte LeBrun will give a reading and lecture. Musical selections will be rendered by Sandra Trice, Donna Trice and Raphael Hooks.

During the exhibition, Joyce Dixon will furnish background music on the piano.

Mrs. Marvin Jackson, Vista's mother, and Mrs. Ethel Jones invite the public to view these paintings at the program and tea.

Filling the pulpit at St. Paul Lutheran Church at both services tomorrow will be Carl Emil Lutz Jr. of Grand Haven.

A student of Concordia Seminary at St. Louis, Mo. he will assist the Rev. George Mahder during the summer months.

He will preach, call on members, canvass and teach in the Sunday School. In the fall, he will resume his studies.

Reformed Church Approves Buying Knollcrest Farm

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The Synod of the Christian Reformed Church has authorized purchase of the 160-acre Knollcrest farm just east of Grand Rapids for $400,000.

Although Knollcrest has been mentioned as a relocation site for Calvin College here, delegates to the synod meeting spelled out in the authorizing resolution that the synod would not be committed to shift the church institution.

The decision to purchase Knollwood was opposed by several delegates from out of state. Canadian delegates maintained teacher training institutions in their country should have priority.

Religious Conclave to Study Education

The first National Conference on Weekday Religious Education will be held June 25-28 at Oberlin, O., under auspices of the National Council of Churches. Some 300 church officials and educators will convene to chart the future course of the 40 year old "released time" movement now serving an estimated three million public school youngsters in 45 states . . .

The U. S. Census Bureau is considering suggestions that Americans be asked their religious affiliation in connection with the 1960 population count.

A spokesman for the Bureau said the possibility is being studied because Congressional economy moves make impossible the previously scheduled 1957 Census of Religious Bodies. He indicated that unless the question of religious affiliation is authorized for the 1960 poll, religious bodies will have to keep their own statistics for another decade . . .

Literacy Experts Begin Campaign

National Church Council Sponsors Tanganyikan Survey in Swahili

A crack team of five literacy experts is in Tanganyika, East Africa, to conduct an intensive three-months literacy and literature campaign.

• • •

The team will concentrate on the development of a self-perpetuating native leadership training program and on the training writers who can supply new literates with simple materials.

Sponsor of the program is the Committee on World Literacy and Christian Literature of the National Council of Churches.

Dr. Floyd Shacklock, executive director of the Committee, said the program represents a major change in the churches cooperative world-wide program to teach illiterates their ABC's. He said previous work has concentrated on the teaching of large numbers of people in brief team-stop-overs in a country.

Team headquarters are at Kinampanda. Upon completion of the three-months campaign there, the team will go to Kenya, the Belgian Congo, Ruanda, Urundi, Egypt and the Sudan. They will teach in three languages—Shahili, the trade language of Tanganyika, and Irambi, and Remi, tribal languages of the areas.

• • •

Dr. Shacklock said recent statistics show that approximately 75 per cent of Tanganyika's 8,000,000 residents cannot read, and that the present school system is serving only about 40 per cent of the children.

Cleric Named Trustee

ADRIAN (AP)—The Rev. Hoover Rupert, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Jackson, has been named a trustee of Adrian College. The Rev. Mr. Rupert is former national director of youth work for the Methodist Church in the United States.

The world-wide Salvation Army has over 17,000 corps and outposts —in 85 countries on all continents.

140 Americans Studying for Foreign Mission Work

One hundred and forty young Americans will forego their traditional leisure-time vacations at home this summer to work on good-will projects overseas.

They will sail from New York and Montreal this month and in July to spend from three to five weeks digging ditches, painting houses, and laying bricks in 30 protestant church sponsored work camps in 22 countries of Europe, Asia and Latin America.

The U. S. contingent is part of a group of approximately 1200 young people from some 40 countries who will participate in the annual Ecumenical Work Camp program sponsored internationally by the Youth Department of the World Council of Churches.

NO SALARIES GIVEN

The young people — Students, teachers, ministers, social workers and others, ranging in age from 19 to 30 years—will receive no salaries for their labors. They must pay both for their transportation abroad and for their work camp lodging.

• • •

The Rev. C. F. Stoerker, New York, director of the U. S. program, for the United Student Christian Council, youthwing of the National Council of Churches, described it as "a graphic demonstration to the world of the concern of American youth."

"In every project," he declared, "they witness to the nature of the Christian life. It is an experience in living and working together with young people who differ from each other in national customs, ways of worship, personal background and convictions, race and church affiliation."

Each work camp will have two leaders and about 25 campers representing a cross section of the countries participating. Mr. Stoerker described the program as "one of the strict discipline of work and faith." About six hours of each day are devoted to the camp project and the remainder of the time to workship, Bible study, discussion, excursions to nearby points of interest and activities in the local communities.

Projects in Europe and the Middle East this year include construction of a youth center for the Coptic Orthodix Church in Cairo, Egypt; fruit picking and canning in orchards near the town of Goes in the Netherlands; reconstruction of an earthquake-damaged school in the Greek Village of Volos; and construction of a youth camp near Stockholm, Sweden.

Groups going to Asia will help build a medical clinic in Indonesia; a YMCA camp site at Aso, Japan and will terrace and build children's playgrounds at two sites in the Philippines.

Flash Floods Isolate Town in Pennsylvania

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—An hour-long cloudburst last night brought havoc to the nearby community of Harlansburg, virtually isolating the town's 300 residents for several hours.

Flash floods ripped along Slippery Rock and Big Neshannock creeks and smaller tributaries, forcing hundreds to flee their summer homes.

There were no reports of casualties.

Every stream and tiny rivulet in the area swelled out of its banks during and after the flooding storm. Streets in New Castle were inundated by the Neshannock. The North St. bridge here was closed for a time.

• • •

At East Brook and Mayview, nearby communities along the Big Neshannock, summer cottage colonies were deluged by a swirling mass of water and debris.

The runoff came quickly during the night. By daylight most of the streams were receding within their banks, leaving behind them highwater marks of mud and anything that would float or roll before the pressure of the water.

Farewell Party Planned Sunday for J. W. Mulders

A farewell party honoring the Rev. and Mrs. John W. Mulder will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Church Parlors of Central Methodist Church.

At the recent Detroit Annual Conference, Bishop Marshall Reed appointed the Rev. Mr. Mulder, who has been associate pastor at Central, to the church at Walled Lake.

The new associate pastor at Central Methodist is the Rev. Calvin Rice of Flint. He has just been ordained.

Drop Matches Down Oil Pipe—What Happens

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — What happens when you drop a book of lighted matches down a pipe into an underground storage tank for waste oil at a gasoline station?

Robert Fletcher, 8, and James Plunkett, 10, learned the answer the hard way. Both suffered third degree burns of the face and arms when the resulting explosion sent hot oil spurting 20 feet.

The blast caused by igniting fumes in the tank apparently put out the fire, authorities said. No other damage was caused.

Develop Unique Business

Couple Finds Big Demand for New Church Windows

ANN ARBOR (AP)—A unique husband and wife team does a thriving business in church windows.

Middle-aged Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Garey of Clinton specialize in rebuilding, repairing and replacing stained glass.

It's strictly a manual labor operation. No automation or assembly line can substitute for their painstaking skill.

Traveling by trailer, the Gareys set up temporary housekeeping close to whatever church they're working in.

Garey removed the windows of the church one at a time, inspecting them carefully for breaks in the glass sections and disintegration of the lead strips.

The broken glass is replaced, the old lead removed and the entire glass washed. Then the glass is releaded with Mrs. Garey using a hot iron to solder the lead strips on the glass.

After that the glass, now new and bright looking, is replaced in the window.

WORK ON THE SPOT

The Gareys work in the church basement or recreation room, unlike commercial window repair companies which usually take church windows back to a factory for work.

Garey has been a glass worker since 1922. His wife joined him in his trade five years ago—"after the children grew up."

Garey says he has never come in contact with another church window repair man. He and his wife have worked in six states besides Michigan, going as far west as Colorado and south as far as Florida.

They rarely have to "look for work," Garey adds. At one time their work schedule at various churches in Michigan had them committed three years ahead.

The Gareys find lots of need for their skill. They said the majority of church windows are not replaced or repaired for as long as 80 years and the lead deterioriates badly.

They currently are working at the First Baptist Church here, replacing all base glass in 16 stained glass windows. They've been on the project since April.

However, the toughest part of the job is over. That was the careful dismantling and refurbishing of an eight-leafed "rose window" measuring 20 feet in diameter.

Garey says his work has more appeal to him than any other occupation. He says, "and with my wife helping me, it is doubly enjoyable."

Sleepy Church Delegates Await End of Parley

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — On and on went the monotonous chant.

In the big auditorium, sleepy church delegates sat listlessly through the night.

Some of them dozed.

Some read newspapers or worked crossword puzzles.

A few women knitted.

Up on the platform, a weary succession of voices droned on for hour after hour today into the early-morning hours.

This was the odd spectacle of a national church gathering transformed into an endurance feat in oral reading.

It was prompted by a legal bombshell dropped yesterday into the biennial general council meeting of the Congressional Christian Churches.

A team of 16 readers, in turn, were giving a non-stop presentation of the entire minutes of the church's executive committee for a two-year period.

The length: an estimated 90,000 words of detailed notes, roll calls, discussions, meetings and other technical data.

Opponents of a proposed merger with the Evangelical and Reformed Church had threatened a lawsuit to stop it if the records weren't fully bared.

About 2,000 church delegates were present as the marathon reading job began at 10 p.m.

But as the midnight hour passed, some began drifting away. Others stayed on doggedly.

One delegate said he had taken some no-sleep tablets.

"There's coffee and cold drinks in the lobby," church moderator Dr. Albert Buckner Coe, of Boston, told the tired listeners. "The refreshment stand has agreed to stay open all night."

Occasionally, he advised delegates to stand up and stretch.

One official estimated the reading would take six or seven hours.

The strange procedure was voted in a stormy session late yesterday.

"We had no alternative under the circumstances," said the Rev. Dr. Raymond E. Walker, of Portland, Ore., president of the executive committee.

Mrs. Paul A. Quaintance, of Los Angeles, had cited a church constitutional provision requiring the committee to report in full "all its doings" during the past two years.

"The committee has violated our own constitution and bylaws by withholding information," she said. "We have not had a full report of all the doings presented to us."

The Rev. Malcolm Burton, of Pontiac, Mich., leader of the anti-merger faction, said failure to present the entire minutes could be a basis for action to have the whole council meeting "declared illegal."

The Rev. Ervin Hyde, of Cadillac, Mich., said "we seem to be forgetting we are a religious assembly."

The merger—in the past—was held up four years by a court suit.

The long night session began with a prayer: "Forgive us the things we have done that we ought not to have done, and the things we have left undone that we ought to have done."

First reader up was the Rev. Dr. Carl E. Martenson, of Grand Rapids, Mich.: He began: "The reading starts with the June 30, 1954 session: Chairman Gray called the meeting to order at 12:50 p.m. and . . ."

So on, add infinitum, into the wee hours—names, dates, places, procedural details, finances, figures, etc.

Politely Ignore One Another

Soviet, American Tourists Attend Paris Opera House

PARIS (AP)—Hundreds of Russian and American tourists met last night in the ornate Paris Opera House and politely ignored each other.

* * *

The occasion was an elaborate new production of Charles Gounod's "Faust."

There were tickets for all 440 of the first big batch of Russian tourists to visit Paris since 1914.

There were about as many Americans as Russians present in the 2,100-seat opera house. During the three intermissions the Russians and Americans paraded by one another.

* * *

But there were no East-West greetings. One reason may have been that few of the Russians or Americans spoke any language beside their own.

The Russian visitors have been the object of considerable curiosity and cordiality on the part of many Frenchmen since their arrival at Le Havre Thursday on a West European tour.

* * *

Another group of Russian tourists arrived in Berlin today for a visit to West Germany. The Russians, all from Moscow, flew to Berlin and took a bus from there or Hamburg.

After a week's tour, they will spend two days visiting both parts of divided Berlin before returning home.

Gas Flows Away as Worker Naps His Job Away

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The sound of flowing gasoline must have been restful to 18-year-old Donald Farmer.

* * *

The airline employe napped atop his gasoline truck while drawing gasoline from a supply tank.

The truck's tank overflowed and some 3,000 gallons spilled on the ground before someone awakened Farmer.

There was no immediate estimate of just how much Farmer's nap cost—in gas.

* * *

But it took firemen three hours to wash the gasoline away.

Boy Tries to Register — Gets Wrong Window

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A young man stepped up to a window at the post office and told clerk Ray Green:

"I'd like to register."

"Do you have your slip?" Green asked.

"No, but I just turned 18 years old," the youth replied, "and I was told I'd have to register."

Smiling, Green directed him to the Selective Service office. Green means the registered letter window.

Miller May Be Held on Contempt Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Walter (D-Pa) says his House Committee on Un-American Activities will discuss contempt action against playwright Arthur Miller—but it shouldn't interfere in Miller's honeymoon with Marilyn Monroe.

* * *

Walter said yesterday that Miller was "very obviously in contempt" when he appeared before the committee Thursday. He did not say when the committee might consider further action.

The chairman said he was speaking for himself "but I just don't see how we can consistently not cite him."

* * *

The contempt question arose when Miller refused to tell the committee the names of those who were at a meeting of what he understood to be Communist writers in 1939 or 1940.

Clarkston Host to Presbyterians

Centennial Year Noted by Sashabaw Church at Recent Meeting

The Presbytery of Detroit, Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., met in regular session recently at the Sashabaw Presbyterian Church, Clarkston, with the Rev. Herbert B. Hudnut, Moderator, presiding.

The Sashabaw church celebrated the opening of its centennial year by being host to the Presbytery Meeting. Organized as First Presbyterian Society of Independence in November 1855, the present church edifice was built early in 1856 with financial assistance from the Church Extension Committee of Presbytery of Michigan, and was dedicated in June 1856.

Functioning as a Presbyterian church until about 1890, it was later served by both Methodist and Baptist ministers, and was finally closed for several years.

Re-opened by Presbytery of Detroit on January 13, 1946, the first service in the church was conducted by the Rev. Albert Ratcliffe. Since January of this year the pulpit has been filled by the Rev. F. Robert Wilkie, who is also director of student work for the Westminster Fellowship at Wayne University.

This 100-year old church building was recently moved from its foundation temporarily to permit the construction of a basement, which contains modern kitchen and dining facilities. It was here that the women of the church served dinner to the 200 commissioners and guests attending Presbytery Meeting.

Action was taken during the session, on recommendation of the Committee on Christian Education, to bring under care for the Gospel Ministry the following young men: John Spaulding, from Olivet Presbyterian Church, student at Dubuque Seminary; Charles Zampick, from Redford Ave. Presbyterian Church, student at Alma College.

Norway Methodists Mark Centennial of Foundation

Like Methodists in India and Switzerland, the Methodists of Norway are celebrating this year the one-hundredth anniversary of the founding of their church and Methodist leaders have planned several events and set special goals in connection with the centenary.

* * *

Methodism was introduced into Norway by the Rev. O. P. Peterson, a Norwegian immigrant to American who became a Methodist in Brooklyn and was sent back to his homeland to preach his new faith. The first Methodist congregation was organized September 11 1856, at Sarpsborg in southeastern Norway.

This year the Methodist constituency is estimated at 18,500 persons, including 8,500 full members and the remainder children of Methodist parents. There are 65 churches and 40 preaching outposts, with 72 pastors and 63 lay preachers.

All of Norway is included in the Norway Annual Conference, which is related to the Methodist Church in America. The Norway church has its own program of home and overseas missions, evangelism, printing and publishing and social service.

Dr. Odd Hagen, Methodist bishop of Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark, said the centennial will be observed in a series of meetings, starting with the session of the annual conference this summer. A special event at the conference will be a concert by the choir of DePauw University Greencastle, Ind. The choir will tour Norway after the conference.

Methodist laymen from throughout Scandinavia will meet together for the first time in October and a special guest will be Dr. Harry Denman, of Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary of the Methodist Board of Evangelism. Other special events in connection with the centenary will be youth rallies, song festivals, and pastors' meetings.

* * *

Bishop Hagen said the Norwegian church has set various goals for the centenary year, including the building of two new children's homes, a nurses' home, and a youth college, expansion of hospital in Oslo and Bergen; and the construction of several churches—one a fisherman's church in Svolvaer, north of the Arctic circle.

Drowns in Duck Lake

Gamblers Robbed — Then Lose to Police

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Gambling charges were placed against four men here after two of them complained that a masked bandit robbed a poker game of $600 early yesterday.

* * *

Police are looking for a fifth man who allegedly took part in the reported game.

George May, 27, was charged with maintaining a gambling house; Henry L. Conger, 68, of Kalamazoo, and William Gash, 29, of Grand Rapids, were charged with gambling; and Charles Young, 20, Grand Rapids, was charged with frequenting a place of illegal business.

* * *

Police said Conger reported he and the other four men were playing poker at Mays' home here about 5:30 a. m. Friday when a masked man came in with a shotgun and made off with the money. Conger said he lost $300 and a watch.

Endorsement by Hoffa Surprise for Williams

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Williams says he "never expected" the support of teamster leader James R. Hoffa.

"I have never sought nor did I expect to get the endorsement of Jimmy Hoffa," Williams said. "He was against me two years ago, and the only difference this time is that his opposition is public."

* * *

Williams said he did seek and believes he will have the "loyal support" of members of all unions which made up the Michigan Federation of Labor.

* * *

The MFL convening in Detroit this week, referred a proposal to endorse Williams to its executive committee in the face of teamsters opposition to the Governor.

TOKYO (AP) — Nine members of the Japanese expedition that scaled 26,657-foot Mt. Manaslu in the Himalayas returned home last night to a hero's welcome.

The climbers reported that two two-man teams topped the peak last May 9 and 11.

Manaslu, the world's 10th highest peak, lies just below the Nepal-Tibet border west of Mt. Everest.

George Currans Now Suburbanites After Years in City

background for LIVING

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

For many years, while their large family was growing up, the George Currans lived in Detroit. Now that there are only two out of eight children still at home, the Currans have moved to the suburbs.

Judy is seventeen and a 1956 graduate of Pontiac High School. This past year was her first time in a large school and she found the experience exciting and interesting.

Candy is a student at Our Lady of Refuge grade school. She is twelve and thinks very little of being the baby of the family.

The Curran house on Middlebelt road was one of the first to be built by Jack Raisin in the Pine Manor subdivision. Their property covers almost an acre and extends down to Pine Lake. Here, in a cove, they have one of the few natural sand beaches on the lake.

Before her marriage Mrs. Curran was a commercial artist. She has done numerous oil paintings that hang throughout the house.

She also likes birds and has a large cage in the front hall. At present it houses a blue parakeet, a canary and a gray cockateel. A cockateel is a small Australian parrot. Until just a few weeks ago there were nearly a dozen canaries. They caught cold from an open door and died.

Fans are another hobby of Mrs. Curran's. She displays some of her collection of sixty-five in a cabinet in the living room. One, made of gold over ivory, is framed and hung in the hall.

All the fans are French. Marie Antoinette is supposed to have been the owner of an exquisite silver filigree fan with a court scene painted on it.

Another small ivory fan has hundreds of minute sequins—not more than a sixteenth of an inch wide — sewn on the silk fabric. There are marcasite inlays on a wooden fan.

The front entrance hall where the bird cage stands has a slate floor. It is separated from the living-dining room by a divider wall, with narrow strips of wood extending up to the ceiling. There are plants in abundance in the hall and throughout the house.

On the other side of the opening there is a large planter. Below this there is a short flight of stairs to the bedroom level.

The living room has a window wall looking out into the yard and down to the lake. The draperies here have a Florida scenic design printed on them. Most of the time, unless the sun is too bright, the draperies are kept open to show the view.

Much of the furniture is covered in green to harmoniz with the green walls. The chairs are large and comfortable looking. Tables for ashtrays and accessories are placed conveniently nearby.

There is a small raised fireplace in one corner. The woodwork is all birch. At the dining end there is a door leading to the outside.

Over the chartreuse rug there are several Oriental throw rugs. The dining room furniture is birch with needlepoint on the chairs.

The kitchen is compact. A folding door closes it off from the dining room. A low counter at this spot makes an excellent serving place.

The floor is spatter print linoleum. The cabinets are birch with red Formica counter tops. British soldiers march across the colorful curtains.

The bedrooms are on a level lower than the main rooms. Candy's room has charcoal walls with curtains in a natural color. Her furniture is maple.

Judy's room has a four-poster bed, complete with ruffled canopy. Both the quilted spread and the canopy are blue and white chintz.

She has a semi-circle dressing table. The walls in her room are sandalwood. One side is covered with a large bulletin board. Here she has pinned souvenirs and clippings of her high school doings.

A bathroom is built off the wall leading to the master bedroom. There are closets in this hall also. The bath is peach, aqua and coral. The shower curtain has a sea shell design.

The Currans' bedroom has pale blue walls. The furniture is finished in a grayed tone which matches the gray curtains. Over the twin vanities there is a mammoth mirror. Between the beds is a double chest of drawers. Their private bathroom is yellow and gray.

Downstairs on the lowest level, there is another bedroom, a shower room, the furnace room, a laundry room and a recreation room.

Dick Curran is on military duty in Japan. It is his bedroom that is downstairs. The walls here and in the recreation room are pickled birch. The ceiling is made of striated plywood squares.

There is a second fireplace in the recreation room. Around the walls are built-in tanks for tropical fish. Right now Mrs. Curran has filled the tanks with colorful sea shells. The flowered draperies help to carry out the tropical theme.

The floor is tiled in green and gray squares. In the center of the room is a conversation piece —a genuine tiger rug.

One of the most interesting pieces of furniture in the entire house is a Chickering concert piano in the recreation room. Made in France, it won a grand prize at the 1893 World's Fair in Chicago.

The piano is made of satinwood, inlaid with mother-of-pearl decorations. There are other decorations in brass on the legs.

The exterior of the Curran house is red brick. The garage is made of board and batten. A small porch at the front has a metal railing. The front door is painted red.

In the back, behind the garage, there is an extensive rock garden. Mrs. Curran and her two daughters did the work on these terraces and in the lower garden. The roses are now in bloom. Summer furniture invites the family to relax.

The Currans are enjoying their home in the suburbs. Their five married children visit them often, bringing twelve grandchildren to see the grandparents. Candy, young as she is, has been an aunt for almost nine years.

DIVIDER WALL — The wall between the hall and the living room has narrow strips of wood on the upper half. In the corner there is a raised fireplace. Behind the divider wall is a large bird cage housing a parakeet, a canary and a cockateel.

IT'S A PICTURE — There is a glorious view of Pine Lake from the living room of the Curran home. Their yard is almost an acre in size and goes right down to the beach. This room has green walls and birch woodwork. All the furniture is upholstered.

FHA Action Permits Agent to Complete Easy Transfer

LUBBOCK, Tex. — Under the terms of the recently-expanded trade-in house program of the Federal Housing Administration, realtors are now in a position to help home-owners buy a better house with almost the same ease with which they turn in their car on the purchase of a new model.

Through the new FHA action, the real estate broker is now able to qualify for loan insurance in taking over the present home. This makes it easier for him to arrange for interim financing, accept title to the original home, and arrange for the client's equity as the down payment on the purchase of the second home.

Before FHA took this action, only builders were able to take part in the trade-in program in this manner.

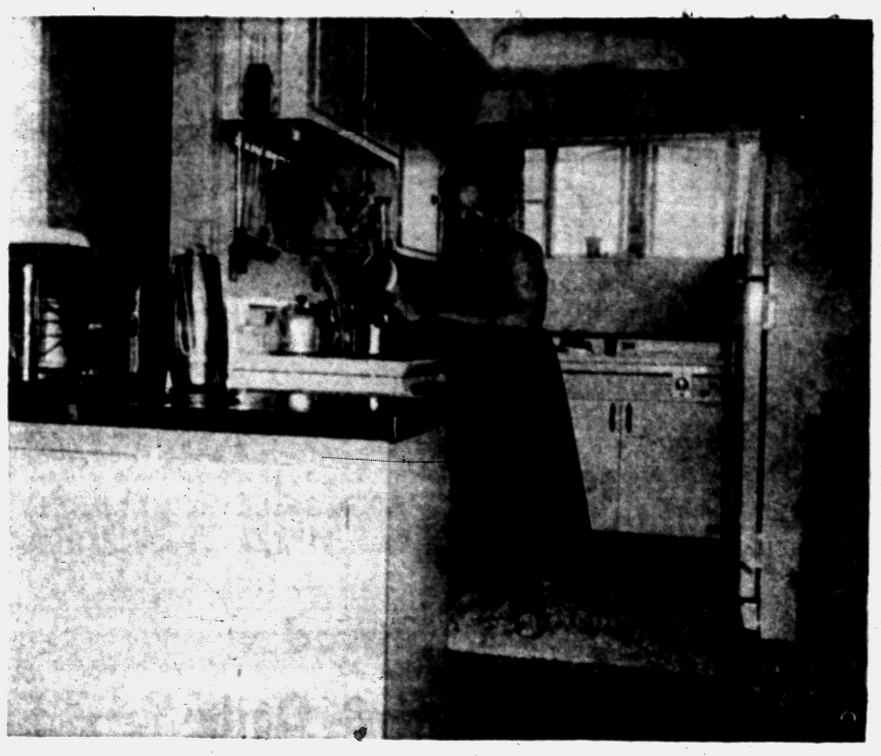

"This plan can be a real boon to families who need either to expand or to contract their housing facilities," Eugene Conser, Chicago realtor said. "A family needing a larger home hesitates to take title to a second home until the old home has been sold and cash received—unless it has substantial cash reserves.

"Likewise, a family hesitates to offer its present home for sale unless it holds at least an option for the purchase of the home of its choice. The resulting complications discourage many families from making a change except under the most necessitous circumstances.

"Now the realtor, with relatively small capital of his own, can be the intermediary through which the change from one home to another is made without danger that the client will find himself financially embarrassed with two homes on his hands at the same time."

The first, and probably largest, group is made up of families now owning two-bedroom homes. Since these homes were bought, the birth of children has made them either uncomfortably crowded or definitely too small. Families in this group are in the market for three-bedroom houses, and many will find the best buys among existing houses, he said.

Making up the second group—also substantial in size—are families enjoying increased incomes and therefore wishing to upgrade their housing in the same way that a car-owner turns in a low-priced car on one in the middle-price range.

WHAT'S COOKING? — Mrs. George Curran poses for the Press photographer in her small, but convenient kitchen. It is a bright room, with a spatter print floor and red Formica counter tops. Just this side of the counter in the foreground there is a folding door to close the kitchen off from the dining room.

CIRCLE DRIVE — The George Curran home on Middlebelt road in Pine Lake Manor is made of red brick with white trim. The end and one side of the garage are board and batten. A low white iron railing adorns the front porch. To provide more parking space for guests, a circle drive has been made in front of the house.

CANDY DOES HER BIT — Twelve-year-old Candy Curran helps to mow the lawn. She and her older sister, Judy, helped their mother with some of the work on the rock garden in the background. The canopy covers steps leading from the dining room down to the yard.

A BIG JOB — Landscaping this lot took a great deal of time. Mrs. Curran and her two daughters do the gardening. On the right on the ground level are two windows in the basement bedroom. The other windows are in the recreation room. In the upper story the windows are in the master bedroom. A table with a sun umbrella and comfortable lawn chairs invites family and guests to relax.

FHA Rejects Carpeting Within Mortgage Cost

Wall to wall carpeting is out as far as the Federal Housing Authority is concerned. For a while it was thought that it might be included in the mortgage security plans for home mortgages.

Among the reasons why FHA says carpeting cannot be included are that carpeting can be expected to wear out before the 30 year maturity on mortgages is over; that retailers have protested that they would be bypassed if homes were sold with wall to wall carpeting already installed.

ONLY BOICE Uses High Pressure Steam Curing in Oakland County

What Is HIGH PRESSURE Steam Curing?

IT IS THE BEST METHOD OF CURING CONCRETE BLOCKS KNOWN TODAY!

Blocks are placed into massive cylindrical Autoclaves, where they are subjected to 350 degrees steam at 100% humidity under 125 p.s.i. This process accelerates the hardening, produces a superior Lightweight Concrete Block which is STRONGER permanently!

This method also stabilizes the strength of the block, and reduces future shrinkage and expansion by at least 50%. Eliminating cracked walls!

Blocks are ready for immediate use when they leave the Autoclaves, having been given a treatment equal to at least 28 days of moist curing!

Nearly $250,000 has been spent to our plant to install High Pressure Curing . . . to assure our customers they are receiving the best products available!

REPAIRING BLACKTOP DRIVES—You can patch broken-down edges and holes or cracks in blacktop driveways with alternate layers of gravel and asphalt. Watch for future danger signs and repair the trouble before it gets too big.

Blacktop Drive Shoddy? — You Can Fix It Easily

If your blacktop driveway has crumpled along the edges or gone pothole-happy, you can consider yourself fortunate in at least one respect. Blacktop repairs are comparatively simple.

You'll need neither an asphalt mixing plant in your back yard, nor powerful road-rolling equipment. A pick and shovel to clear away the old, crumbled material, and a homemade tamper to compact the new—that's about the extent of the equipment requirements.

Repair materials you'll need are either gravel or crushed rock —whichever is more readily available — and an asphaltic goop which acts as a binder. Many paint and hardware stores carry asphalt emulsions, which are quick-setting and easy to handle. Asphalt and gravel also can be obtained premixed.

Here is the procedure to follow in patching deep holes and deeply rutted areas in blacktop driveways:

After clearing away the debris, dig down to a solid base. In severe cases, this may mean digging below the level of the driveway base. Then drop a layer of large stones into the bottom of the hole.

Fill an ordinary garden sprinkling can with emulsified asphalt and pour it evenly over the sides and bottom of the depression. Add about an inch of pea-sized gravel and pound this layer with a 2x4 board or homemade tamper. Follow with alternate one-inch layers of gravel, then asphalt.

For the top layer, use fine-screen gravel and build it up about ½ inch above the driveway surface. After coating the top layer with asphalt, sprinkle sand on the patch.

Clean out the sprinkling can with water immediately after use. If traces of emulsion remain in the can, dissolve them with kerosene.

Similar procedure is followed in filling shallow ruts and other slight depressions in a blacktop surface. However, use of asphalt roofing cement (the kind with an asbestos fiber binder) is advisable. Heavy-bodied roofing asphalt can be applied with a trowel.

CLEAN AWAY OLD

Blacktop driveways should be edged with permanent headers, such as 1x4-inch boards. In their absence driveway edges tend to break or collapse.

To repair a broken-down edge, first clear away the old material, then stake header boards in position where you want the new edge to be. Fill in with alternating layers of gravel or crushed stone and asphalt, following procedures for patching deep holes.

Generally the blame for the breakup of hard-surfaced walks and driveways, whether blacktop or concrete, can be laid to poor drainage conditions. Water which finds its way under the surface renders the subbase unstable, which in turn invites rutting. If it freezes there, heaving and cracking may result.

* * *

Naturally, if you wish to hold future driveway damage to a minimum, the answer is to provide for drainage. This can be achieved by burying a line of drain tile just off the edge of the driveway and 12 to 18 inches deep. Slope the tile gently toward a dry well or sewer, local regulations permitting.

* * *

Lay the tile about ¼ inch apart and cover the separations with strips of tarpaper, or asphalt-saturated felt. Cover over the tile line with gravel to within six inches of the driveway surface, then fill in with soil on top of the gravel.

Watch for danger signs in the of the bin, with the studs setting the width.

It's the Same Rug

If you recently bought a carpet or rug and are puzzled by its appearance, do not think the store made an error in delivering it. Different lighting can be deceptive. Turn the floor-covering end for end, or use the vacuum cleaner methodically upon it, to bring the pile all neatly into line. This, too, can correct a mistaken opinion regarding the color of the new carpet.

Press House of the Week Eliminates the Basement

A plan to keep a house up-to-date by providing big room, sensibly arranged, within a smartly conservative exterior is shown in Design HW-5 for the House of the Week.

Specially engineered for year-round air conditioning, with wide sun-shading eaves all around, this house is intended to reduce obsolescence as long as humanly possible to anticipate, W. H. Schumacher, its architect, says:

"Protection of the home owner's investment has been a primary consideration in the drawing of this plan."

Preventing a house from becoming obsolete is very important to the man who puts his money into a new house. Mortgage investors are now more concerned with the hazards of obsolescence than with normal depreciation. In launching a drive for better home planning standards, Walter H. Dreier, head of the United States Savings and Loan League, recently said:

"Obsolescence is running more rapidly than at any time in our history. Some houses are being built that are obsolete virtually as soon as they are built."

This means you can't get your money's worth in a house built from yester-years' plans with cubicles for rooms, unfitted to modern living.

NEW VERSION

Distinctive in the plan shown in this page is a club room. This is a new version of the family room which has become so much in demand. In this case it is not a kitchen adjunct, but is entirely removed from food preparation — boiling cauliflower or frying onions.

This club room is essentially a second living room. It is separated from the main living room by glass doors that slide into wall crevices. It's a big room, too, measuring 14 by 20 feet, dominated by a large log burning fireplace and enjoying broad picture windows facing the rear garden.

You can visualize this room paneled in exotic hardwood veneers and having some colored leather upholstery among its furnishings. It's a place for informal relaxation, making it possible to reserve the living room for more formal treatment and use.

And this club room really is the heart of the home. You can enter it from living room, kitchen, bedroom hall or back yard.

Three major features make the omission of a basement not only practicable but also economical in the building of this house. One is an abundance of closet and storage space. Another is a main floor laundry adjoining the kitchen where so many women prefer to have it. Third is an ample heating and air conditioning room behind the big fireplace chimney.

STATISTICS:

Design HW-5 covers 2,303 square feet.

Garage and storage add 463 square feet.

Since this house has a floor area of 2,303 square feet, elimination of a basement can mean a saving of $2,000 or more. On the other hand, if a basement is demanded, the heating and air conditioning room provides adequate space for a rear vestibule and basement stairway.

ROOMS ENLARGED

Room sizes are especially generous throughout this plan. The spaciousness of the sleeping rooms is illustrated by bed diagrams. This smallest bedroom is 11½ by 12 feet. The entire sleeping wing is raised two steps from the living areas for added privacy.

Appraisers have been advocating a minimum size of 110 square feet for a dining room in a three-bedroom house. This means a minimum room of 10 by 11 feet. Sometimes you find them smaller. The dining room in this plan is 196 square feet—14 by 14—plenty of space for gracious entertaining with wall spaces for serving table, buffet or sideboard.

Bathrooms are efficiently compartmented. One serves two bedrooms. Another serves both the front bedroom and the powder room off the entry.

A thoughtful provision in this plan is a raised floor bumper in the two-car garage. This low step, like a gentle curb, will keep you from coasting into the wall when your windshield is fogged over.

The architect suggests an exterior of brick veneer with ledge stone planting boxes. Ledgestone also is suggested for facing the fireplace.

A covered walk is created in front of the house by supporting the roof extension with six 3-inch pipe columns. Between the covered walk and the normal overhang above the broad living room and dining room windows, the roof is opened to the sky. Open shadow boxes also are planned above the wide overhead garage door.

Windows Have Function: To Let in Light and Air

Windows have come a long way since our forefathers first coated a sheet of paper with homemade wax.

* * *

But, according to experts, many homeowners might do just as well to return to wax-coated paper. Most people today forget a window's two functions: it lets in light and air.

Keeping those two purposes in mind, the home beautifier might do well to glance over this list of Dos and Don'ts prepared by the Small Homes Council.

DO

1. Provide glass area in excess of 20 per cent of the floor area of each room.

2. Place principal windows toward the south except in warm climates where a northern orientation is preferable to limit heat from the sun.

* * *

3. Select the window shape that gives the desired distribution of light within each room. For example, tall narrow windows give a thin deep distribution of light.

4. Use a kind of glass most suitable for the room's purposes. Clear sheet glass or plate glass is recommended for unobstructed vision, translucent glass for privacy.

* * *

5. Mount draperies, curtains, shades and other window hangings above the head of the window and to the side of the window frame in order to free the entire glass area and thus admit the greatest amount of light.

* * *

6. Take care when selecting blinds, such as the Flexelum models, as well as high-quality Venetian blinds.

DON'T:

1. Specify corner windows or bay windows as a means to increase the daylight effectiveness of windows. The actual area of glass is greater and more costly than the effective daylight area obtained.

* * *

2. Screen those parts of the window which are not opened for ventilation purposes. Full screens can absorb as much as 50 per cent of the light. Half screens will absorb only 15 per cent.

* * *

3. Finish ceilings and walls in dark colors. Light interiors are useful in taking full advantage of reflected light.

* * *

4. Use several smaller openings instead of one large window. Window openings should be grouped as closely as possible to eliminate undesirable contrasts in brightness.

Don't Forget Gutters

Before painting the outside of your house, clean out gutters and downspouts. They should, of course, be cleaned at intervals during the year and especially at the end of winter. Gutters that are clogged cause moisture to get behind walls or under the roof causing expensive damage.

Alter the Rhyme

The famous old wedding jingle "Something old, something new, etc. . . ." can be adapted to home color schemes by substituting "Something dull, something bright, something dark and something light." This rhyme is a reminder that color contrasts have their place.

Las Vegas, Nev. was starting point for 191,923 airline passengers in 1955.

Acoustical Plaster

Gypsum acoustical plaster is one of the latest developments for toning down noise in kitchens and recreation rooms. It has a fine-grained texture finish but its cellular structure absorbs sound waves much like a sponge takes up water. It's a ready-mixed plaster and a minimum thickness of a half-inch is recommended in place of the usual finish coat for ceilings.

Reliable Manufacturers Subject Product to Tests

More and more, manufacturers of modern products are testing their merchandise to assure consumer satisfactiion. An example of how reliable producers test their products for strength and durability is the series of laboratory tests just made on the paint-grade, plastic - surface plywood, GPX green, by research engineers of George-Pacific Plywood Co.

* * *

These tests reproduced every possible condition under which this new plywood might be used for indoor and outdoor construction. They ranged from broiling heat at 212 degrees Fahrenheit to freezing cold at 10 degrees Fahrenheit, and were the most gruelling tests that any building material ever has undergone, reports the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information.

HOW TESTS WERE MADE

Here is how the plywood tests were made:

First, panels of GPX green were soaked one hour in water at 120 degrees Fahrenheit. Second, they were sprayed with steam at 212 degrees Fahrenheit for three hours. Third, they were frozen for 20 hours at 10 degrees Fahrenheit. Fourth, they were dry baked at 212 degrees Fahrenheit for three hours. Fifth, they were steam sprayed at 212 degrees Fahrenheit for three hours. Sixth, they were dry baked at 212 degrees Fahrenheit for eight hours.

Every panel underwent this cycle of tests six times.

Not one of the panels showed the slightest trace of damage or deterioration from the rigorous cycle of tests.

GPX Green is a new building material combining the miracle of modern plastics with the structural strength of plywood. Exclusively produced by Georgia-Pacific, it has a surface that requires less paint, and because it will not check or crack, the paint lasts much longer.

Home owners, architects and interior designers are using GPX Green for exterior lapped and panel siding, soffits, gables, blinds and shutters of new and remodeled homes. Indoors this plastic surfaced plywood is ideal for cabinets, built-ins, sliding doors, storage doors, storage walls, shelves of every kind, partitions and every other use where painting is indicated.

* * *

Results of the torture tests prove that this new plastic-surfaced plywood can be used successfully indoors and outdoors under every possible kind of weather condition and change.

* * *

These extremely grueling tests thus insure that the strength and durability of this building material are far beyond the resistance required to insure consumer satisfaction under all circumstances.

With a national membership of more than 57,000 Realtors, the National Association of Real Estate Boards is one of the largest professional organizations in America.

Rearrange the Furniture for Warm Summer Use

With summer not many weeks away, think about re-arranging some furniture for the warm days to come. Possibly a sofa or a pair of chairs are too close to a sunny window for comfort; it may be that a slip-cover or two will brighten a room and give it an airy look; the heavy draperies could come down for the duration of the open windows.

By changing a chair or two or a sofa around to a cooler spot in a room and by adding a few growing plants or window boxes, the entire appearance of a room can be greatly improved.

INSULATED CAST-ALUM

CAST-ALUM—it's NEW!! It's INSULATED CAST-ALUM!!! A revolutionary type of aluminum.. Years ahead of the industry. Now and only in INSULATED CAST-ALUM, the beauty of an ALCOA manufactured aluminum siding together with at least $250.00 worth of Insulation all in one and both for the price you normally pay for most aluminum sidings.

Manufactured exclusively for the CASTONE MICHIGAN CORP.; INSULATED CAST-ALUM is a solid aluminum siding backed up with rigid insulating board. It's genuine pressure packed CELOTEX, approximately one half-inch thick, and made to insulate any walls. It's free from dry rot, termite attack and it's water resistant, too. YOU MUST SEE IT TO APPRECIATE IT. Before re-siding your home insist on seeing INSULATED CAST-ALUM. It defies comparison.

Ended the Drudgery

A homemaker-editor who practices what she preaches says that by adding some little household chore taking up not more than twenty minutes each day, such as a special use of the vacuum cleaner or one of its tools, she has put an end to any need for "cataclysmic" annual or semiannual housecleaning. Worth thinking about. Worth trying.

Money Market to Loosen, Says Real Estate Expert

"Even though some current conditions still seem to indicate that the tight mortgage market will continue, there are other signs now in evidence that we have already seen the worst of the down shift in the money market."

This optimistic appraisal of today's shortage of mortgage money for potential home owners was made recently in Lansing by Robert A. Taggart, president of Hannan Real Estate Exchange, Inc., in speaking to members of the Michigan Real Estate Assn. at their regular monthly directors meeting.

Taggart also said he looks for an upswing again in residential construction as soon as mortgage money begins to loosen.

He cited several reasons for the change: The potential federal budget surplus; no apparent cutbacks in defense appropriations; the solid position of steel, rails and other important bulwarks of our economy; and the fact that the general public is once again building up savings deposits.

SAVINGS INCREASING

"The fact that savings are again accumulating will help create the funds needed for a mortgage market. The buying market of the past period depleted savings, causing a shortage of investment money."

Taggart pointed out that the Federal Reserve Board is buying the short term government borrowings. This action gives the member banks credits to use in their loans.

"Another factor is the pressure on Congress for easing the money market. These pressures have come from groups such as the Michigan Real Estate Assn. which recently wired Congress appealing for relief."

Taggart carefully prefaced these statements to the MREA officers and the 30 real estate board presidents representing local areas across the state. He compared 1955 and first quarter of 1956 figures for bank loans, wholesale price index, gross national product, industrial production, corporate profits and consumer credit. "The continuing rise in 1956 shown by these bench marks of our economy required the attention and the controlling action of the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury Department."

Taggart reviewed the factors that led to the restricted mortgage market. "Last summer a variety of arrangements were made for financing through banks. The commercial banks were called upon to lend large sums to originators of mortgages. By mid-August there was a total of 1 billion, 400 million in credit outstanding on this 'commercial warehousing' type of loan. By November this amount had risen to 1 billion, 600 million. The large volume included commitments carried over from 1954 to 1955 to 1956.

BONDS HELPING TOO

"Then another influencing factor occurred," said Taggart. "The falling bond market made mortgages less attractive, especially the insured and guaranteed loans with a pegged interest rate."

Another source of competition to mortgage investment cited by Taggart are municipal bonds. "Considered top grade risks, with tax exempt features that appeal to large investors, these bonds up to three weeks ago were selling at 20 year lows. With their attractive yield, we run into real competition when we go to money sources to sell them 4½% yields from which they must pay ½ to 1% to service.

In conclusion, Taggart said that all of these reasons justified the Federal Reserve Board actions to halt "creeping credit inflation."

Taggart is a past president of the Detroit Mortgage Bankers Assn.

New Silver Wax

You can eliminate a good many of your silver polishing chores this summer with the use of liquid polishing wax. Silver articles will retain their gleam three times as long if they are treated with an application of liquid furniture wax immediately after cleaning. Merely put a little of the wax on a soft clean cloth and rub it on the article.

Jab a screw into paste wax and it will turn in and out of wood much more easily.

Special Plastic Replaces Dip Tube in Gas Heater

Special plastic now replaces metal in the dip tube of automatic gas water heaters. This is the pipe that conducts cold water into the heater. By preventing the electrolytic action caused by dissimilar metals, the plastic dip pipe eliminates a previous source of corrosion, lengthens heater life and bars discoloration, taste or odor which otherwise might be in the water.

Safest World Track

The internationally famous Monza Race Track in northern Italy, scene of the much-publicized Italian Grand Prix auto race, is considered one of the safest in the world, especially for spectators, because of a special protective guard rail installed at strategic points along the course. To withstand the impact of cars traveling at speds approaching 200 miles an hour, the guard rail is supported by a system of 6 by 8-inch oak posts.

Federal-State Conference for the Aging Recommends Adoption of Small Homes

WASHINGTON—A strong recommendation for the expansion of private home building for housing older persons was approved June 7 by delegates of the Federal-State Conference on Aging, meeting at the National Housing Center as a special committee on housing and living arrangements for elderly people.

* * *

The conference is sponsored by the Council of State Governments and the Federal Council on Aging, the latter an interdepartmental government group created by the President to explore housing programs and needs of oldsters.

In their recommendations to the conference at large, the delegates proposed that the various states take appropriate steps to encourage the production of small, suitably designed houses built by private industry and utilizing for that purpose, whatever necessary, the liberalized provisions for Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance contained in pending Congressional legislation.

"It was recognized by the delegates that private housing, both single-family and group units, plays an extremely important role in any well-rounded program of housing for the aging," said Mrs. Irene Thrasher of Newton, Mass. and a member of the Massachusetts legislative, who was discussion group leader. "We feel that the need for adequate housing for older persons presents a real opportunity to both private firms and non-profit organizations.

SPECIAL FEATURES

"A fact that should be stressed is that we ought not to be building homes for older people as such, bu well-designed, more flexible homes which would include special features, such as hand rails and a minimum of stairs.

Such house would have features that would be both essential for the aging and also useful and practical for younger people just starting their families. They would be, in effect a small homes that would be attractive and saleable to any small family seeking a modest-sized home."

Other recommendations by the group included:

1. State-wide meetings to be called by the various governors, of representatives of public, private, and voluntary organizations to study the housing problems and needs of the aging in their own states. Only 14 states now have active formal organizations for dealing with problems of older persons.

* * *

2. That governors include housing in the program of any state organization created for assisting older people.

* *

3. That social security legislation be amended to permit recipients of public assistance to receive old age assistance if living in tax-supported boarding houses, such as county homes.

* * *

4. Encouragement of services in each community which would enable older people to stay as long as possible in their own homes. The delegates stated that older persons prefer their homes to institutions, and that if such services as homemaking, visiting nurses, and friendly visitors were provided and expanded, this desire could be met more widely.

* * *

5. Participation by private and non-profit groups in building housing for the aging. This would include church groups, citizen organizations, and housing associations.

* * *

6. Small homes and apartments for older people in and facing retirement who are now living in large homes bought when their incomes were substantially greater, and their children lived at home.

* * *

7. A two-year extension of the Hill-Burton Act, as recommended by the President, because several states have not yet had the chance to avail themselves of the special provisions for nursing homes and rehabilitation and treatment centers.

8. Comprehensive planning by communities considering projects for older people, to include integration of such community services as recreation, nursing care, and hospital facilities with the projects.

9. Broad efforts to make available to the aging the residence and settlement requirements of the various states, so that they will not lose assistance and other rights.

Makes Pleasant Picnic

Many summer outings are made more enjoyable this year by the presence of picnic ice boxes, vacuum jugs and other outdoor items that are protected against rust and corrosion by smooth and attractive finishes.

Detergent Does It

Detergent and water is the way to preserve the gleaming beauty of ceramic tile walls, floors and counters. Occasionally the fine cement between tiles may accumulate grime through neglect. The remedy is scrubbing with a fiber brush and scouring powder. Avoid coating real tile surfaces with waxes or polishes. Such treatment may spoil ceramic tile's ideal natural walking and maintenance qualities.

The first census in the United States was taken in 1790.

C. B. HAMPSHIRE

Local Fuelman Cited in Article

C. B. Hampshire, a local forced-air heating contractor, is the subject of a feature article in the current issue of the trade journal, Fueloil and Oil Heat.

From quarters in an abandoned garage, Hampshire progressed to a small frame structure, then to an architect-designed building on West Huron street, just west of Elizabeth Lake road.

This building includes private offices, a 90-foot long showroom, projection room, metal fabrication shop, warehouse and garage. Hampshire believes it is the only building of its kind in the Pontiac area.

The Goodwill Automatic Heating Company is a family affair. His son, William L. takes care of all installations and servicing, while his wife Luva L., runs the office. Mr. Hampshire is the only salesman.

UNIQUE METHODS

Some of Hampshire's selling methods are unique. He makes extensive use of sound films. These are both educational and entertaining and are popular with schools, clubs and social groups. They are also shown in prospects' homes or in the office projection room.

Hampshire makes it a point to have prospective customers see the actual heating units they intend to buy before any contracts are signed. He uses one to heat his own building and demonstrates it to his customers.

Hampshire is optimistic about the future of Oakland county. Before he constructed his new building two years ago, he conferred with bank officials who agreed that the time to move was right.

With the extensive building now going on in this area, Hampshire believes the heating business is an excellent one to be in. Many summer cottages are being converted to year-round homes that need a central heating system.

Interesting enough, in an area where gas heating has enjoyed considerable success, better than 95 per cent of Hampshire's sales consist of oil-fired systems.

Hampshire has "Goodwill" in the name of his company. He uses all possible means to keep the goodwill of his customers. He concentrates on quality selling, installation and servicing.

Furnace Unit Saves in Costs

The troublesome problem of a clogged strainer, cause of 85 per cent of all service calls to repair oil furnaces in homes, has been eliminated in a new oil burner fuel unit perfected after eight years of testing and field trials.

Appropriately named the ServiceSaver Fuel-unit ,it is a product of the Webster Electric Co., Racine Wis.

The revolutionary unit eliminates this chronic "trouble Spot" in oil heating systems by doing away with the conventional type of wire mesh strainer or felt or paper filter. Instead the ServiceSaver features a high-speed, rotary, self-cleaning filter that is as effective as 100-mesh screen. It won't clog and never will require cleaning.

Approved by Underwriters Laboratories, this inexpensive unit, which includes the gear pump and pressure regulation and cutoff valve as well as the rotary filter in one assembly, can be installed as a replacement for any fuel unit now in use without bothersome piping changes.

Garage Has Useful Space

You have room for more room right inside your house!

* * *

To be sure, you can find more living and play space by converting attic and cellar, but a lot of families want extra indoor area on the same level as the ground floor. This best serves the whole family and avoids stair climbing.

What better place for dad's workshop, mother's utility room or a family "rec" room than the garage? Face up to it—do you prefer year-around housing for your auto or adequate living space for your family?

First requirement for remodeling the garage is to use durable and versatile materials such as ceramic or quarry tile on floors and walls. A versatile material will give your new room both charm and long life. Over the years this means an important economy.

WELCOME ADDITION

Much of the work you can do by yourself. Sit down with the family for some united planning so that all the wants of children and adults are taken into consideration. Again, think in terms of versatility. A tiled counter, for instance, can serve as a hobby center, a sewing bench or even a refreshment bar.

One welcomed addition will be a barbecue fireplace. It will afford family fun any and every day of the year. With good times at home the family stays happy—and it stays together.

In any case, don't go in for any radical departure from the design theme of the rest of the house. Vary the room a bit but don't make it a sideshow. Remember you'll probably do most of your entertaining there, so don't let it embarrass you.

Age Beautifies Wood

Unlike most substances, wood comes even more beautiful as it ages, when properly protected. Well-polished softwoods, like Douglas fir and west coast hemloc take on a deep patina with long wear. The wood seems to attain more depth after years of polishing and the grain and texture stand out more clearly and distinctly.

Lacquer Is Answer

Car owners spend over 50 million dollars a year to give the family car a new coat of color. Most often used for refinishing is lacquer, the fastest drying finish known. It is dust-free in a few minutes and hard enough for delivery within a few hours.

U. S. Leads World in Use of Lumber

The United States, which boasts the highest living standards in the world, also consumes more lumber than any other nation, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

* * *

In per capita lumber consumption, the U. S. is topped only by Canada and New Zealand,countries with much smaller populations. The U. S. per capita consumption rate is nearly four times that for all countries combined.

* * *

The average American uses twice as much lumber as his counterpart in the Soviet Union, four times as much as the average Englishman and six times as much as the typical Frenchman.

* * *

While per capita consumption in the U. S. today is only about half what it was in the early 1900's, the figure has been rising in recent years—from 238 board feet in 1953 to 239 board feet in 1954 to 256 board feet in 1955.

SPIDERWEB SUN ROOM — Ideal for small lots in heavily populated residential areas, this light, airy patio fence permits privacy without a closed-in feeling. Panels set into the cobwebby structure are rough tongue-and-groove cedar boards, painted with a driftwood rez to contrast with white painted cedar framing.

Screening Device in Yard Provides Family Privacy

Privacy on the small lot of modern suburbia often presents a problem to homeowners who like to utilize lawn and outdoor living areas for entertaining, sunning and casual lounging—without an audience.

• • •

Often, by building a high estate fence or property dividing section, you build ill will with your neighbors as well. So, architects have discovered more subtle means to enclose your own small segment of the outdoors which do not dub you an expatriate from your neighborhood surroundings.

Screening devices, rather than solid walls, are very popular for patio or fence sections, and allow circulation of cooling breezes as well. Built of western red cedar or Douglas fir, your outdoor divider walls will have the textural richness and beauty of grain and color which furnish lovely surroundings for outdoor living.

Cedar and fir withstand weather, too, and may be finished with a clear rez or loggers oil to retain natural colorings, or use a tinted rez, depending upon the exterior finish of the house. Some good-looking effects are achieved by combining painted with unfinished fence sections.

ALTERNATING PANELS

Designs for outdoor walls are numerous as the architect's or builder's imagination. One particularly attractive motif is that of alternating panels, consisting of a series of random width boards, paced at intervals, with perhaps a slat dividing the space between, strictly for decorative purposes. Space between the slat and solid sections allows circulation of air, and gives the wall an open feeling of freedom and spaciousness.

Fence panels may be set off the ground a foot or so in cedar frames of two by fours that extend another foot above the panels. Thus alternating panels and slats are placed in the very center of the frames. Frames should be braced at intervals, depending upon the width of the panels.

Boards used for the panel screens should probably be tongue-and-groove cedar or fir, and are especially texturally rich if rough boards are used.

You can capitalize on the interplays of light and shadow in your outdoor room by crisscrossing one by sixes and two by fours across the top of the patio. This will not shut out the sun, but will give you further decorative interest with squares and lines of shadow on floor and wall panels.

• • •

A solid board attached to one wall section, extended toward center of the patio and secured against one of the supporting columns divides your outdoor living room, and becomes a snack or serving bar for outdoor dining.

• • •

The small-home owner will find that his walled-in patio extends lines of the house and makes it look larger and more streamlined, especially if the patio walls are of the same siding material and finished identically.

Do-It-Yourself Craze Teaches Use of Tools

The do-it-yourself craze which has beguiled millions of men, women and children has served as a wonderful school for it has taught these people how to use tools.

Especially is this true where they work wood. Softwoods, like Douglas fir or west coast hemlock, can be cut, shaped and fit with simple and familiar tools. Many people have learned how satisfying it is to work with their hands and create useful articles and make needed improvements around the home.

You Must Use Bleach

Sometimes, when you take off the old finish from a piece of furniture with paint-and-varnish-remover, the wood is still dark from the original stain. If you wish the wood to be lighter still—so it will harmonize with newly-bought light wood pieces—you can use a bleach, obtainable from your paint dealer.

'Pecky' Wood Popular

"Pecky" wood, which has shown tremendous gains in popularity in recent years, is wood that's been attacked by fungi, birds or insects. It used to be tossed away in the wood scrap pile but is now enjoying a vogue for rustic interior paneling. Small indentations in the paneling give a room a "driftwood" look.

Building Permits Issued for 6 Homes on NW Side

Thirty-four building permits totaling $50,773 were issued by the city building inspector Monday through Thursday during the past week.

Included in the group were six permits for one-family dwellings to be built on the city's northwest side at an estimated cost of $5,500 each.

The following permits were granted (the price is estimated cost of the project): frame garage, 752 Joslyn, $500; build front and rear porch, 226 East Boulevard, $250; re-roof house and garage, 35 Edison, $569; remodel porch, new flooring, build fence, 180 Elm, $90.

Frame garage, 352 Beverly, $800; repair two porches, 130 Bagley, $200; wreck old shed, 33 Adams, $25; remove front porch and rebuild, 107 E. Brooklyn, $100; re-roof dwelling, 231 Fisher, $300; frame garage, 147 Osceola, $350; build one-family dwelling with basement, 340 Ypsilanti, $6,340; fence backyard, 709 DeSoto, $200; enlarge room for bath, 520 Highland, $100.

Six one-family dwellings, $33,000; rebuild front porch, insulate attic, re-roof dwelling and porch, 51 Michigan, $1,200; re-roof dwelling 166 Beach, $280; repair and reside porch, 12 Pinegrove, $2,363; remove old and build new porch, 782 Pensacola, $150; wreck and remove building, 50 Orchard Lake, $100; frame garage, 45 Ruth, $639; re-shingle dwelling, 150 Marquette, $181.

Reside dwelling at 24 Kemp, and 64 N. Anderson, $429 and $390; re-roof dwellings at 248 Chippewa, 148 E. Rundell, 226 Prospect, and 514 Second, total $939.

Humphrey Bogart Uses Wood for Backgrounds

Movie tough guy Humphrey Bogart seems to have developed an affinity for wood. Two of his most recent motion pictures, "The Desperate Hours" and "Sabrina," have featured elaborate use of wood paneling and cabinets.

A number of the scenes in Sabrina were filmed in an office highlighted by exquisite hardwood paneling. In The Desperate Hours, much of the action centered around a kitchen featuring the warmth and beauty of natural birch. In the latter film, the tranquility of the wood contrasted sharply with Bogart's portrayal of a nervous, hunted criminal.

Automatic Light Switch Aimed to Fool Burglars

While you are out of town on a vacation this summer, you can arrange to have a light turned on in the evening and off at bedtime to give the impression that you are at home.

It can be done through a new timer device that comes from International Register Co. of Chicago. The timer works automatically once it is set in its on-off cycle.

The usual football is a rubber bladder covered with cowhide and is not a pigskin.

VERSATILE TABLE—A 76-inch long table by Heritage Henrodon in The Merchandise Mart opens to 48-inch width or 32 inches as pictured. With the front leaf folded back over the top, the table is a narrow, decorative console, a buffet or server, and reveals a long linen and silver drawer. This is one of the popular space-savers being introduced in new furniture.

Wood Fence Practical When Living in Suburb

A wood tence has many practical and esthetic advantages, especially in the suburbs, points out the National Lumber Manufacturers Assn. For instance, a wood fence can improve the appearance of property, confine dogs and small children, provide just the right degree of privacy, and even serve as a shield against the sun.

Because lumber is available in so many standard sizes, the do-it-yourself league can build wood fences easily and economically in a wide range of designs.

Use a Rug Pad

A rug pad or cushion adds many years of life to your soft floor covering. It levels rough floors and absorbs wear. The softness and extra luxury it adds underfoot is amazing and rug cushioning gives greater insulation from floor drafts.

The New York metropolitan area has 12,300,000 people.

Power Mower Eases the Chore

Lawn mowing used to be strictly men's work. But since the tremendous rise in the popularity of the power mower, women and even children have been taking over the job in many homes. Manufacturers have learned to design lighter, more compact motor-driven mowers and the brawn, once so important to the job, has been replaced by another prerequisite: the spirit of enterprise and the desire to get the job done.

Many of the women and children who, at present, are running power mowers, have little or no mechanical knowledge or experience with gasoline engines. While these machines are designed to be safe in normal operation, ignorance or misuse of the equipment, can result in painful injuries to the operator.

The Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company has studied the problem and come up with a list of precautions to protect this army of inexperienced power mower users.

1. Rake your lawn before mowing it, especially if you use a rotary type power mower. Stones, wire or other debris flung by whirling blades, can inflict serious blows.

2. Be certain your starter rope is in good condition. A worn or frayed rope, breaking suddenly, can give a wrench resulting in painful bruises and sprained tendons.

3. Keep pace with your mower for best control. If you let it pull you or if you lag behind, you won't be in full control of the machine.

4. Never let a pet or child stray into the path of the mower and never let them play around it when it is in operation. Teach children the danger of playing too near.

5. Be sure that you know how to disengage the clutch or stop the motor in case of an emergency. Always stop the motor if you leave the machine.

6. Inclines require special caution. Be sure of your footing and balance on a hill.

7. An electric mower should not be used when the grass is wet or when it is raining, unless you are absolutely certain that the mower and cord are in perfect condition. The cord should be three-wire, one of which is a ground wire.

8. Never try to remove any objects from the mower blades until the motor has been completely stopped.

9. Never fill gasoline tank while the engine is hot or while the engine is running. To avoid spilling gasoline over engine parts and clothing, use a funnel

10. Cutting blade speed is a hazard if excessive—do not overspeed the engine by readjustment of the governor.

If you are planning to send Junior out to do this man-size job of power mowing, first be sure you coach him on the ten points listed above.

Exterior Paint Depends on Home Construction

When you're buying white paint for the exterior trim of your house, be sure to tell your dealer what material was used in the construction of the body of the house. The self-cleansing type of exterior white paint can be used on the trim of a house only when the body is also painted white.

Where a house is of unpainted masonry—or of a color different than the trim—use a non-chalking house paint or one that has only a limited degree of chalking.

Don't Forget Turps

Turpentine or mineral spirits are used for cleaning off paint spatters, for thinning some oil paints, enamels and varnishes — also for soaking and cleaning brushes and rollers used in such coating materials.

Marlene 8-Under Midway of LPGA

Marlene Bauer Hagge, the little trooper with a red hot putter, is out to prove she means business in her bid for the LPGA championship at the Forest Lake Country Club.

The talented blond started where she left off, yesterday, when she fired a 6-under par 69 in the first round by shooting a sub-par 73 for a 36-hole total of 142.

This was two strokes better than Patty Berg's 144 and four ahead of Betty Jameson's 146.

Marlene carried a 4-under-par with her to the 13th tee but two penalty strokes at this point for replaying an unplayable drive cut the margin to the lead she now holds.

* * * *

Her shot hooked into a bush and so she accepted the unplayable lie penalty and teed off again, playing the hole in four thus giving her a bogey six.

She followed with a bogey four on the 3-par 14th and then settled down for three pars and a birdie on 18.

Best round of the day belonged to Betty Jamesson and Kathty Cornelius both of whom fired 72's.

* * *

Jameson, now 74-72—146, moved into third position replacing Louise Suggs who fell to a four way tie with Joyce Ziske, Alice Bauer and Mickey Wright at 148.

Suggs found her putts grazing the rim of the cup several times as they refused to drop and she finished with a 71.

Miss Berg had four birdies in her round of 35-38—73, including a deuce on the 145-yard 4th hole where she missed a hole in one by less than a foot.

* * *

Best score of the day on the tougher back nine came from Alice Bauer who posted a 37-36—73 to go with her 75 of yesterday for 148.

Amateur Mary Mills faltered on the back nine as she carded a 36-45—81 to be pushed out of the Wolverine Amateur leadership by Jean Hopkins of Cleveland.

Miss Hopkins shot a 36-38—74 yesterday to give her an 80-74 total of 154. Miss Mills, of Gulfport, Mississippi, had a second round total of 76-81—157, followed by Helen Grinnell of Detroit with a 78-84—162.

Today the pairings were changed from three-somes to two-somes with the pros starting at 12:30.

MOMENT OF SUSPENSE — Louise Suggs (right) and two other members of the threesome Marlene Bauer Hagge (left) and Marilynn Smith watch intently as the ball which Miss Suggs putted hangs for two minutes on the lip of the first hole. The ball fell in and gave Miss Suggs a birdie four at the LPGA Championship at Forest Lake Country Club.

Sharp Shots at LPGA

Wonder how observing the fans are out at Forest Lake for the LPGA? You may not have noticed it, but the big board next to the first tee calls this the "Offical" LPGA Championship.

* * *

SALLY SHARP

Mrs. J. G. Israel had lady luck with on the starting tee. Her ball hooked, hit the fence and bounced back into the middle of the fairway. Don't think the fence was put out there for that purpose but now we know it can be put to other uses.

You probably have seen the 1956 Oldsmobiles being used out at the tournament for transporting the players and officials. Just thought a good place for one would be at the bottom of the hill at the 18th hole. That climb seems to get longer with every round.

* * *

A putt by Louise Suggs may go down in history as one of the slowest balls from the standpoint of time. From the time it left Louise' putter till it fell into the cup, at least 90 seconds had elapsed. It seems the ball got to the lip of the cup on the first green and then started a balancing act. The players just stood there waiting for it to fall. They were more patient than some of the gallery who walked away in dismay. But then a roar came up and we knew the ball finally dropped to give Louise a birdie, over 1½ minutes later.

* * *

Leave it up to Patty Berg and you'll hear everything. Just as she was about to tee-off on 10, a man in the distance started crossing the fairway. Patty stopped in the middle of her swing and yelled out, "Lookout down there, there's a wild woman up here."

Orange Bowl Speedster Here for OCBC Event

Rodd's Miami Belle in 135 Class; Field of 65 Looms for Regatta

One of the country's top 135-class hydroplanes has arrived here for Sunday's annual Invitational Inboard Regatta at Oakland County Boat Club, on Sylvan Lake.

This latest addition to an already imposing list of entries in the five classes is Weldon Rodd's Miami, Fla. beautifully sleek Miami Belle. The better-than-100-mph hydro is already at the slips on OCBC's headquarters, and will go against a fast field in the 135 race.

Rodd drove the fine speedster to victory in this year's Orange Bowl regatta at Miami, says Tom Comps, Regatta chairman. "She's really a beauty," Tom says.

* * *

Between 60 and 65 fast inboards in all classes, with the 15 or more in the big-powered 266s comprising the heaviest sector. There were a dozen or more flashy little boats in the outboard 48 class. This exciting division opens Sunday's races.

Comps also said today that What a Pickle, the new Gold Cup hydro, would probably make its exhibition run at 4:30 p.m. Sunday. It was to make a start today in the Canadian Maple Leaf Regatta.

Starting time for the Sunday races is 1:30 p.m. Starters include Bill Newton, Detroit (APBA) and Fred Alter of Detroit.

Spectators may park cars on Garland Blvd., walk to the clubhouse on Ferndale avenue. Garland is reached directly off Telegraph road.

Water-skiing, this afternoon, and the regatta ball, tonight, mark the opening of the two-day program.

Navy Dinghy Crew Wins

DETROIT (AP)—Brown University could have come in last in the final race yesterday and still won the National Intercollegiate Dinghy championships. But a fouled anchor rope gave the victory to Navy by a one point margin.

Brown's B division entry skippered by John Quinn was disqualified in the 32nd and final race for brushing against the starter boat. The Dinghy's centerboard had gotten entangled in the anchor rope of the official vessel.

The disqualification was the only thing that could have given the 20th annual championships to Navy. The final tabulation gave 201 points to the Middies and 200 to Brown.

Other scores for the three-day Regatta sponsored by the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Assn. of America were: University of Michigan, 178; Harvard, 175; Notre Dame, 173; Merchant Marine Academy, 168; Pomona-Claremont, 164; and Occidental, 136.

Detroit Falls in 11th, 3-2

Orioles Tame Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—Baltimore pitcher George Zuverink got his first hit of the season last night, and it:

(1) Defeated his former Detroit Tiger teammates, 3-2, in 11 innings;

(2) Dropped the Tigers to 6th place in the American League, and

(3) Extended Detroit's losing streak to six.

It also hiked the former Tiger hurler's record to 4-2 and dealt Walt Masterson his first loss in a Detroit uniform.

But the Tigers kicked the game away, with two glaring throwing errors that put the winning run in scoring position. Jim Pyburn led off with single, took second on Jack Phillips' throwing error on an attempted double play, went on to third when first baseman Wayne Belardi threw the ball away for the second time and scored when Zuverink punched a single to left field.

Each manager threw 15 players into the nightmarish contest played before 16,196 fans at Briggs Stadium.

Singles by Phillips and Al Kaline and starter Bill Wight's wild throw gave the Tigers a run in the first. Bill Tuttle's one-base hit, a sacrifice and Jim Brideweser's single over second base brought home the final Tiger run in the second inning.

Although they got eight more hits off Wight and Zuverink, the Tigers were unable to score. On the other hand, the Orioles fought back with a run in the 5th and another in the 9th to tie the score. The decisive tally in the 11th made it 19 times that Detroit fans have gone home from the Stadium without a victory.

The club has won only nine games at home, but is 18-13 on the road. The loss slipped the Tigers a half-game behind the Orioles.

Righthander Paul Foytack, who started for the Tigers, was in trouble in almost every inning because of his wildness.

A doubleheader Sunday will wind up the series. It'll be a pair of veterans for Detroit, Steve Gromek and Virgil Trucks. Manager Paul Richards of Baltimore will start Billy Loes and either southpaw Don Ferrarese or Skinny Brown.

Snap 7-Game Streak

Chisox Trim Yanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What's it take to spill the New York Yankees off a seven-game winning streak?

* * *

The Chicago White Sox had the answer:

A pinch-hitter batting .191.

Name's Sammy Esposito.

Hadn't delivered in three previous pinch jobs.

Had only five hits in his last 32 at bats.

So naturally, Sammy smacked a pinch, two-out, two-run double in the 11th last night to tie the game 4-all, then hung around to bloop a two-out, bases-loaded single in the 12th that gave it to the second place Sox 5-4 and trimmed the Yankees' American League lead to four games.

* * *

Third place Cleveland whitewashed Washington 4-0 and the Boston Red Sox smacked Kansas City back into the cellar 6-3 with Ted Williams hitting his first 1956 home run. Baltimore wrestled fifth place back from Detroit, handing defeat 3-2 in 11 innings.

In the ever-changing National League race, Milwaukee's Braves retained the lead with their seventh straight victory 3-1 over the New York Giants. But Cincinnati took over second place as unbeaten Brooks Lawrence set down Brooklyn on a two-hitter for his ninth victory 6-0. And Philadelphia tripped St. Louis into fifth place 2-1 as Pittsburgh backed into fourth when a light-failure ended its night game in the fourth inning with Chicago ahead 2-0. The game must be replayed from the start.

The big man of the night was little Sammy, a 5-9, 165-pound guy born in Chicago. At 24 he's up from Memphis, where he hit .281 last year after returning from service. He had six RBIs until last night.

Milwaukee reached the seven-straight mark—high in the NL this season—under new Manager Fred Haney with back-to-back home runs by Billy Bruton and Ed Mathews in the third off loser Ruben Gomez. Then Ray Crone, who won his seventh, singled home the other run in the fourth.

Battle Creek Horseman Rides to Win at Show

By BILL CORNWELL

Max Bonham, veteran professional horseman from Battle Creek, swept to victory in the F.E.I. "Big Jumping Event" last night at the Detroit Horse Show.

Astride Velvet Lassie, Bonham won the coveted "big jumper" title in a dramatic finish with a flawless performance over the rugged Olympic-type course at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club in Bloomfield Hills.

Riding last in Friday's top event, Bonham rose to the occasion to wrest almost certain victory from James R. Greene, surprising young New York City rider, who had won Thursday night's Midwest U.S.E.T. Challenge Trophy.

Greene, up on Moonflight, toured the 16-obstacle course without a single jumping fault, but suffered a ¾ time penalty, which is eight seconds over the limit.

His performance stood up against all comers and he seemed on the verge of winning his 2nd major jumping crown in two nights until Bonham applied the clincher.

Velvet Lassie, a handsome bay mare belonging to Mrs. Hubert R. Thomas of Indianapolis, Ind., traveled over the challenging course without fault in either jumps or time to better Greene's effort.

It was a highly rewarding triumph for Bonham, who had been experiencing difficulty with Mrs. Thomas' prize horse. Champion of many major events, Velvet Lassie was disappointing before yesterday's effort.

Exhibitors from the Oakland County area triumphed in five classes Friday while four others gained runner-up spots.

Winning exhibitors were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson of Lathrup Village, M. O. Bates of Bloomfield Hills, Zander Duffield of Rochester, Mrs. Robert Haass of Northville, and Walter and Rheda Kane of South Lyon.

The 39th annual show swung into its 4th round today with morning, afternoon and evening competition. Afternoon and night events on Sunday will conclude the program.

Coachers, Griffs Win League Games

General Motors breezed to its 10th consecutive victory and Griff's Grill came out on the long end of the score Friday night in Class A City Baseball League make-up games at Wisner and Columbia-Joslyn fields.

Herb Duncan, Berkley High School pitching star last spring, hurled the unbeaten Coachers to a 6-1 win over Elks No. 723. Duncan struck out 10 and gave up only four hits in his 1st start for GMC. Gene Cox led GMC's 9-hit attack with three safeties.

Griff's Grill scored two runs in the 6th inning to gain a 4-3 decision over Fowler's Fine Foods. A walk, Ted Wharry's double, a wild pitch and passed ball spelled defeat for pitcher Jim Featherstone. Griff's was outhit, 9 to 5.

4½-Pounder Puts Up Fight at Lake Orion

Joseph Said Jr. of 9661 Ward street, Detroit, had a real scrap on his hands Friday when he tied into a 4½-pound largemouth bass, on Lake Orion. The 20-inch-long bronzeback hit a night-crawler harness lure, then went to work in earnest to avert capture. Said netted the bass after a better than 10 minutes effort. It was one of the season's biggest at Lake Orion.

Satellite Chief Is Optimistic About Success

TORONTO (AP)—The man who plans to send an artificial satellite spinning around the earth says his hopes are similar to those of a baseball manager who signs a .300 hitter.

* * *

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory's satellite project, spoke Thursday night before 70 members of the American Assn. of Physics Teachers.

He mentioned the baseball hitter in outlining his hopes for the success of the 19-million-dollar "project Vanguard."

"You can't predict when or how he'll come through," he said, "but you're pretty sure he will."

* * *

The satellite project was announced by President Eisenhower last July. Hagen said the launching is scheduled during the International Geophysical Year, 1957-58.

* * *

It will take an 11-ton, three-stage rocket to carry the 21½-pound satellite to a point about 300 miles high where it will revolve once about the earth every 90 minutes, Hagen said.

As it moves, its 10 pounds of electronic devices will relay scientific data.

* * *

The satellite will be launched from the U.S. Air Force missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Begin New Police Post

PETOSKEY (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee reports voluntary contributions have started coming in to finance construction of temporary headquarters of the new state police post at Petoskey. The post is scheduled to be activated July 8. The Chamber committee seeks $7,500 for the project.

Dog on Lookout —for Dog Catcher

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A policeman complained that Alfred Dandridge's dog tried to bite him when he went to investigate a card game at Dandridge's house.

"That dog was sitting on the front porch like a lookout," the officer testified. "I think he's got him trained."

"No, sir, your honor," Dandridge protested. "He just don't like to see policemen around the house. The way it is, judge, he's been picked up by the dog catcher so many times that the sight of a policeman's badge drives him crazy."

City Judge Beverly Boushe dismissed gaming charges against Dandridge.

Although eagles are too small to carry off calves, they have been reported as making successful attacks on cattle in rare instances.

TENDERS WANTED

Royal Oak Drain District, Oakland County, Michigan

Sealed Tenders of Royal Oak Drain District Refunding Bonds dated May 1, 1937, with November 1, 1956 and subsequent coupons attached will be received by the Oakland County Drain Commissioner at his office in the Court House Office Building, Pontiac, Michigan up to 2:00 o'clock p.m. Eastern Standard Time, on the 24th Day of July, 1956 to be publicly opened by him immediately thereafter.

Tenders should specify the serial numbers of the bonds offered and the amount for which they will be sold to the Drain District. The County Drain Commissioner reserves the right to reject any or all tenders and to waive any irregularities in said tenders.

Offerings must be firm for three days and shall be accepted by depositing letter of acceptance in the U. S. Post Office in the City of Pontiac, Michigan, on or before 12:00 o'clock midnight on July 26, 1956. Collect telegraphic advice of acceptance or rejection will be made if requested in tender letter. Offering should be marked on the outside of sealed envelope "Tender of Bonds."

Funds will be available at the Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, Paying Agent, on August 1, 1956 and interest from May 1, 1956, in the amount of $10.00 will be paid on each bond so retired upon tenders.

Attention is called to the decree entered by the Circuit Court for the County of Oakland, in Chancery, in the case of Earl L. Clark, Plaintiff, vs. City of Royal Oak, et al., defendants, which decree was affirmed by the Michigan Supreme Court upon appeal by Bondholders and certain cities (Clark vs. City of Royal Oak, et al., 325 Mich. 298). Under this decree approximately two-thirds of the lands in the special assessment district are not subject to deficiency assessments, which result in the cancellation of approximately 40% of the total amount of the yearly deficiency assessments.

BISHOP, JUNE 22, 1956, WILLIAM, 716 W. Walton Blvd., Pontiac. Beloved husband of Evelyn Bishop; dear father of William A. Bishop, Mrs. Billie Mardis; dear brother of George Bishop. Funeral service will be held Monday, June 25, at 2 p.m. from the Voorhees-Siple Chapel with Rev. J. E. Taulbee officiating. Interment in Ottawa Park Cemetery. Mr. Bishop will lie in state at the Voorhees-Siple Funeral Home.

Card of Thanks 1

WE WITH TO THANK OUR friends and neighbors for their kindness and floral offerings during the illness and bereavement of Milton Moan a special tribute of appreciation to Rev. Carl Nelson and the Pursley Funeral Home. The family.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF A DEAR mother, Ruby Vincent who pased away one year ago today, June 22, 1955.
What is home without a mother?
All things this world may send
But when I lost my darling mother
I lost my dearest friend
Sadly missed by her loving daughter, Ethel

IN LOVING MEMORY OF HOWard L. Rohm who passed away June 23, 1952
He bade us not a last farewell
He said goodby to none
Your loving heart had ceased to beat,
Before we knew that you were gone
God saw that you were suffering
That the hills were hard to climb
And so He closed your weary eyes
And whispered peace be thine.
Sadly missed by wife and son

"LET'S TALK BUSINESS"
ROUGH & TOUGH
Pontiac tavern that's done it before and could do it again. Owners had it. If you have the strength, plus an extra good constitution, here's a bargain. Man don't talk about any offer unless you want to own a bar—this bird will take it.

HERE'S ANOTHER ONE
That ordinary people could handle with ease. The Merry Widow isn't lonesome anymore, so now you can buy her place. Always has been a good money-maker and is priced right. Very good lease.

Quash Anxiety Over Bug Bait

Japanese Beetle Traps Arouse Flood of Calls From Area Parents

Several Japanese beetle traps scattered throughout Pontiac and surrounding areas recently by the Department of Conservation has resulted in a flood of complaints as to their possible danger to children, the Pontiac Detective Bureau revealed today.

Police are assuring worried callers they need have no "serious fear" of the bait used in the traps but warn it could be harmful to the gastric system if taken internally, according to Sgt. John DePauw.

He said most complaints have been directed by the thought that the bait might be poisonous.

The conservation unit places traps in various locations on private properties, in parks, and near highways for 60 days of testing each year. This enables state workers to detect whether the troublesome beetles are present. The beetles cause rust in wheat crops.

Notes of explanation were left at the various locations when the traps were set up but they failed to prevent the phone calls.

10-Day Jail Sentence Given Motorcyclist

DETROIT (AP) — Both Mrs. Betty Matties, 19, and Lillard W. Newland, 24, seemed to be operating the same motorcycle. So patrolman Roy Snider ticketed one for speeding and the other for driving without a license.

Newland explaind that he was riding behind Mrs. Matties on the motorcycle. He said she started going too fast so he grabbed the handlebars and kicked her feet off the gas pedals. Patrolman Snider caught up with them at that point.

Traffic Judge John D. Watts postponed a decision on Mrs. Matties' speeding charge to "puzzle out" the situation. But he sentenced Newland to 10 days in jail for driving without a license.

Canadian Pair Marks 70th Year of Marriage

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James M. Watson, celebrating their 70th wedding anniversary today, said they "never thought we would live to see the day."

The couple, received congratulations from Queen Elizabeth II, Canadian government officials and Mayor Bernadette Smith. Mrs. Watson is 96, her husband is 94.

'Jack and the Beanstalk' Coming to TV in Autumn

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It appears that NBC-TV is trying to corner the children's market—or, to be more specific, the children's - story - into-musical market.

* * *

This past season it has presented translations of "Heidi," "Alice in Wonderland," and, of course, "Peter Pan." Now the people there are greatly excited about an original musical version of "Jack and the Beanstalk," scheduled for fall production on "Producers' Showcase." They're so excited, in fact, that the network reportedly is considering putting the show on Broadway after its TV showing. Which is an interesting switch.

SHOW ALL READY

The script, musical score and lyrics have been completed by Helen Deutsch, one of Hollywood's most successful film writers, and composer Jerry Livingston.

* * *

Miss Deutsch, in discussing the show the other day, had the problem of telling enough about it to make it sound intervesting and at the same time not spilling the whole bag of beans.

* * *

Scarcely anyone has a clear recollection of the story, she pointed out. It has passed out of fashion and is difficult to find in print. I couldn't find a copy, in fact, but I remember the story as going something like this:

BAG OF BEANS

Young chap named Jack is sent to the butcher with a cow by his mother. On the way he meets a fellow with a bag of beans and trades the cow for the beans. His mother gets so sore at this apparent idiocy that she throws out the beans. Over-night they take root and in the morning there's this enormous bean stalk growing to the sky. Jack climbs it to the top and walks to a giant's castle. There he steals the giant's magic harp, his bag of gold and the hen that lays the golden eggs. The giant, annoyed at this larceny, chases Jack down the beanstalk. But Jack chops down the stalk. Wham! The giant falls and is killed. Jack has the loot. End of story.

Kiwanis Club Heads Return From Parley

Nine Pontiac area delegates are returning home today following the completion of the annual Kiwanis International convention at San Francisco Thursday night. No local or state men had been candidates for state office.

* * *

The group which represented the four clubs in Pontiac and vicinity included the following: President Horace H. Hatfield and William D. McGlashen, of Pontiac North; Dr. Peter Hoogerhyde, Richard S. Clark, and Art Compton, of Pontiac; Webster Francis, West Bloomfield club president, and Lt. Gov. Richard C. Scribner, and Floyd H. Baker, president of Pontiac West.
