Thanksgiving Visions — Pungent and Sweet

Pumpkin pies yellow as gold — Melting lusciousness untold! Puddings, pickles, sauces various, these to tender lads precarious!

Last of all — by no means least — crowning all the jolly feast, making all the air quite murky, smoked the plump and light brown turkey. —George Cooper.

Federal Action May Halt Tieup in Dock Strike

Deadlock in Bargaining Could Force Ike to Use Taft-Hartley Law

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal action to halt the 20-million-dollar-a-day waterfront strike was reported imminent today.

The probabilities were: 1. Action by President Eisenhower to invoke the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

2. Or action by the National Labor Relations Board on a pending employer complaint.

Further negotiations were scheduled today between the striking International Longshoremen's Assn. and the New York Shipping Assn., representing 170 shipping and stevedoring firms in the port of New York area.

No concrete progress has been made so far toward settlement of the six-day-old strike of 60,000 I.L.A. members which has closed Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports except for military shipments and movement of some bulk cargo.

Reports from Washington said the administration was considering two alternate courses of court action for any injunction to end the strike.

If the President invoked the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, this would normally bring an injunction for an 80-day cooling-off period. However, Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, said last night: "So far as I know, there are no plans as of this moment to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act."

In view of Snyder's comment, the more likely course might be action by the NLRB based on charges by the New York Shipping Assn. The employer group complained several weeks ago that the I.L.A. had violated the Taft-Hartley Act by insisting on bargaining for an Atlantic and Gulf Coast contract with the Port of New York employer group.

In San Francisco, West Coast longshoremen worked today amid indications they had voted overwhelmingly to strike in support of an East Coast walkout.

Summerfield Expects to Be Home in 10 Days

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield is expected to be allowed out of bed again today at the University of Michigan Hospital where he is recovering from an operation nine days ago.

Summerfield took a short walk yesterday during what doctors described as his "best day yet" at the hospital. He is expected to leave the hospital in about 10 days.

Blocks Track Crossing

TRAFFIC TIEUP — The Grand Trunk Western railroad crossing on Huron street was blocked for 40 minutes yesterday after a truck skidded onto the crossing and was struck by a locomotive. No one was injured, as the three truck occupants jumped as the train advanced. (See story on Page 2.)

Envy the Turkeys — Humans Due to Shiver, Shake

The turkeys in those warm, warm ovens tomorrow may be the lucky ones. Their human tormentors can look forward to a shiver-and-shake Thanksgiving of near-freezing temperatures and snow. Evidence of rapidly falling temperatures is that the mercury plummeted in downtown Pontiac 12 degrees from 8 to 10 a.m. this morning.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecasts a continued dip to a low of 24 tonight, with temperatures near 33 to 37 degrees accompanied by chilly winds and snow flurries on Thanksgiving.

The eastern half of the Upper Peninsula is expected to get up to four inches of snow. Parts of Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota are digging out of one of the worst snow storms in four years.

The lowest temperatures recorded in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. was 45 degrees. The mercury had plunged to 36 at 2 p.m.

Two trees were blown across county highways, branches were scattered around roads and yards, street signs were bent and loosened and the large front window at the Dickinson Men's Wear store was blown out in the 55-mile-an-hour wind which struck the Pontiac area this morning.

Police Get Set for Traffic Rush

Highway Patrols Brace for Statewide Effort to Stop Accidents

Police patrols throughout the Pontiac area and the entire state are bracing again today for another holiday traffic rush on the eve of another Thanksgiving.

Gov. Williams has ordered all available state policemen on the highways between 6 tonight and midnight Thursday in addition to radar units and unmarked patrol cars.

"There were more highway fatalities on Thanksgiving than in any other 24-hour period of the entire year," he stated in issuing the order.

Locally, State troopers and sheriff's deputies are expected to put in plenty of overtime starting tonight in an effort to keep traffic rolling at a steady pace especially on Dixie and Telegraph highways. "We will have general coverage with special emphasis on the highways in and next to the city," Lt. Joseph Koren, of the Pontiac Police Department, told the Press today. He said a full crew will be on duty throughout the danger hours with special instructions pertaining to an expected change in the weather. "The pavements will likely be slippery," Koren remarked.

He is a first deputy premier and former foreign minister.

Fuel Controls Going Into Effect on December 17

Most of Europe Feels Pinch Resulting From Suez Shutdown

LONDON (INS)—British motorists rushed to fill their auto gas tanks today and got ready for "that old black market."

They are convinced such a market will start once Britain begins rationing gasoline on Dec. 17.

Last night, a rush of buying closed many filling stations in the London area. Stores were selling cans and oil drums in a sudden influx of customers.

One store owner reported, "The customers all assured me they wanted them for brewing home-made wine."

Across the channel in France, gasoline prices jumped to twice the normal price on the black market. Scores of filling stations closed as motorists queued for up to two hours to get a little gasoline.

The British government announced the rationing plan in Parliament yesterday, along with cuts in fuel oil supplies to homeowners and industrial users.

Britons got a nicer report in the government's statement that 6,000 reservists and regulars retained beyond their time because of the Middle East crisis would be released in three weeks beginning tomorrow.

LABORITES JEER

Both announcements were greeted with Laborite whistles, jeers and shouts of "resign." The Laborites have bitterly opposed the Conservative government's action in putting troops into Egypt.

The military intervention brought blocking of the Suez Canal, through which tankers bring most of Europe's oil and gasoline. The waterway is not expected to be back in operation for six months.

Reports from Paris, Istanbul, The Hague and Bonn all said that some form of restriction on use of fuel is planned in France. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Try Forcing Vote on Deportations

U.N. Assembly Urged to Okay Proposals for Hungary Inspection

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (INS)—The U.N. Assembly moved today to vote on demands that Russia stop deporting Hungarians, withdraw its troops and open Hungary's borders to U.N. inspectors.

The 79-nation forum, holding its third consecutive all-day session on Hungary, also was expected to approve a worldwide appeal for aid to Hungarian refugees pouring into Austria at the rate of 2,000 a day.

The U.S., which is backing all resolutions vigorously, is leading the fight against Soviet bloc efforts to water down the biting indictments of Russia in the imminent Assembly vote.

Never before in the 11-year history of the global organization has such a torrent of condemnation, indictment, accusation and diplomatic outrage been poured on any government as on Russia for the terror loosed in Hungary.

Indian Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon was scheduled to take the General Assembly floor on behalf of the proposal by neutral Asians seeking to break down Hungary's rejection of a U.N. overseer team. Throughout the second day of continuous debate on Hungary, the Soviet Union and Hungary were repeatedly asked why they objected to observers if they had nothing to hide.

Some Do—Some Don't

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Montgomery County Jail inmates should be thankful they're not in the city jail this Thanksgiving. Sheriff Bernard L. Keiter said Thursday's dinner will include turkey and the trimmings including pumpkin pie. The Dayton City Jail will serve chicken noodle soup, bread and coffee.

Area Services Announced

Millions to Give Thanks

By MARY ANGLEMIER
Church Editor, Pontiac Press
Millions of Americans of all denominations in thousands of communities will participate in observing Thanksgiving Day. They will gather in churches and homes giving thanks to God for peace and plenty and for the privilege of sharing their abundance with needy neighbors here and across the seas.

As congregations in cathedrals, churches and chapels sing the song of Thanksgiving, "We Gather Together to Ask the Lord's Blessing," men, women and children in Hungary, Poland and other suppressed countries will pray constantly the last line of the hymn, "O Lord Make Us Free."

Many churches in the Pontiac area are announcing their services of Thanksgiving as follows:

The Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church and the Baldwin Avenue Evangelical United Brethren Church will hold the annual Thanksgiving service in the Baldwin Avenue church at 7:30 tonight.

Guest pastor, the Rev. Theodore R. Allebach, will speak on "In Everything Give Thanks." The host church will provide the anthem music.

The annual service of Thanksgiving sponsored by the Pontiac Pastors' Association, will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday in the First Congregational Church.

Charles A. Wilson will play the organ prelude: "Now Thank We All Our God." The Rev. Carl W. Nelson of St. John's Lutheran Church will give the call to worship and the Rev. Malcolm K. Burton of the host church will lead in prayer.

The scripture lesson will be read by the Rev. Richard H. Dixon Jr. of Trinity Baptist Church. Dr. William H. Marbach of the First Presbyterian Church will offer prayers of gratitude to God.

All-County Grid Teams Will Appear Saturday

The "cream of the crop" in Oakland County high school football for 1956 is coming your way this Saturday on the sports pages of The Pontiac Press.

An All-Oakland County home team, selected by area coaches and Press sports writers, will be named, along with all-star eleven in classes A, B, and C.

Don't miss this list of home teams in Saturday's Pontiac Press.

The morning sermon will be preached by the Rev. Paul T. Hart of the First Methodist Church. The Congregational Chancel Choir will provide special music. Spontaneous expressions of gratitude for God's goodness will be featured at the Thanksgiving service at 11 a.m. Thursday in the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

The lesson-sermon will consist of selections from the King James Version of the Bible and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Brucker Greet First Group of Refugees From Hungary

CAMP KILMER, N. J. (AP)—Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker promised refugees from Hungary today "the opportunity to bring up your children in freedom, beyond the reach of the vicious Communist oppressor."

In remarks of welcome prepared for the arrival of the first group of some 5,000 expected to come to this country from their war-torn homeland, Brucker promised "peace and tranquility."

He continued: "Americans have shared your pain as we will always share with every captive of despotism the galling cruelty of his chains."

This sprawling Army camp extended a warm welcome on this eve of Thanksgiving to 62 Hungarian refugees from Soviet terror. Posted over its gates is a huge sign in Hungarian reading "God has brought you."

The refugees arrived at McGuire Air Force Base today aboard a four-engine DC4 chartered from the Flying Tiger Airlines by the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration.

They are the first of 5,000 to come here for permanent resettlement under orders of President Eisenhower. Four other plane loads are expected Thanksgiving Day and Friday.

Rep. Francis Walter (D-Pa.), co-author of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, said in an interview in Vienna yesterday that America should admit 17,000 Hungarians, not just 5,000.

In Austria, meanwhile, the flight of refugees across the border from Hungary continued at the rate of more than 3,500 a day—three or four times as fast as they can be resettled.

Thirteen nations have offered to resettle 27,500 and Canada has said it will take as many as want to come. But more than 40,000 Hungarians were already in Austria last night, most of them living in uncomfortable transit camps.

In Washington, the White House announced that the American people have responded to the relief needs of the refugees with more than five million dollars of food, blankets and medical and other supplies.

Table Proposal to Halt Business Activity Sundays

A possible Blue Law for Pontiac closing all businesses on Sunday was mullied by the City Commission last night after a proposed ordinance banning the Sunday sale of new and used auto parts was scrapped by a 4 to 3 vote.

Commissioner Floyd P. Miles moved for an ordinance to be drafted closing all businesses Sunday. He was supported by Commissioner Philip E. Rowston.

Miles charged that present ordinances regulating the sale of furniture and appliance shops and the operation of barber shops, are not "equitable."

Mayor William W. Donaldson moved the matter be tabled until the next informal meeting of the commission.

Voting against the auto parts law were Commissioners John Carry, Roy Cooley, Donaldson and John Dugan. Commissioners Miles, Rowston and Long favored the plan.

Representing the owner of the Hollerback Auto Parts, 340 Baldwin Ave., attorney Arthur Kollin told commissioners the ordinance "was aimed at his client only."

Several auto parts dealers appeared before the commission urging the adoption "in order that we can have one day off."

$27,318 Still Needed to Reach UF Goal

The extended Pontiac Area United Fund drive is now $27,318 short of its $612,202 goal, campaign chairman Walter K. Willman announced today.

The Commercial Division, headed by James F. Nye, is $2,119 shy of $158,086 quota, he said.

Over $25,000 is still to be collected, Willman said, by the Industrial Division, headed by Earl Maxwell. The division quota is $414,000.

Women solicitors of the door-to-door Geographic Division had reached their $19,116 goal at last Friday's victory luncheon.

Willman called for a 30-day extension after the drive fell $30,779 short at its official end Friday. UF funds support 54 community service agencies in Pontiac plus Waterford and Pontiac Townships.

Snow Problem of Ohio's

CINCINNATI (AP)—City highway officials got a call for snow plows, but it was all a big mistake. Maintenance Chief Charles Heidschuch said an atmospheric scramble brought the calls on the department radios from as far away as Oregon, now fighting winter blizzards.

Sister Backs Up Cruelty Charge

Diana Wilkinson Tells of Mom Burning Girl, Throwing Knife

By LAWRENCE S. MARTZ JR.
In a hushed, packed courtroom this morning, nine-year-old Diane Wilkinson testified in whispers her mother, Ada Wyatt, set her seven-year-old sister on an oil stove and threw a butcher knife at her.

Diane's dramatic testimony was the surprise highlight of the three-day-old trial of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wyatt of Keego Harbor, on charges of cruelty to Sherry.

Diane, who had only shaken her head when questioned at the couple's pre-trial examination before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle, was called to the stand at the insistence of defense counsel Milton R. Henry.

She first denied having seen the burning of Sherry's right hand, which Dr. Robert J. Cooper testified yesterday was permanently disfigured.

When assistant prosecutor Walter T. Denison asked if she had witnessed the burning of Sherry's buttocks, Diane delayed answering for 15 seconds. Then she whispered: "My mother burned her. She put her on the stove."

MOTHER SITS QUIETLY

Mrs. Wyatt apparently unmoved as Diane, like Sherry, her child by a previous marriage, confirmed Sherry's accusations against her. Asked how Sherry's lip was cut, permanently disfiguring her face, Diane said:

"My mother threw a knife at her. I saw it. It was a butcher knife."

First Degree Charge Faces Police Slayer

FLINT (AP)—A first degree murder warrant was issued yesterday against Harry G. Richards, 63, in the slaying Tuesday of two young state troopers.

Genesee County Prosecutor Jerome F. O'Rourke, after talking twice with Richards, said he is unable to tell how the retired Flint postal clerk feels about the fatal shooting of Troopers George E. Lappi, 27, and Bert A. Pozza, 28. Richards is in a psychiatric ward at Flint's Hurley Hospital recovering from the effects of tear gas fired into his barricaded home during the 45-minute gun battle with police.

Leap to Safety in Train Wreck

Truck Skids Into Path of Oncoming Freight; Three Escape Crash

Three men narrowly escaped death yesterday when their pickup truck stalled before an oncoming freight train on the Grand Trunk Western railroad tracks on Huron street.

The three leaped clear of the truck with only moments to spare as the 70-car freight bore down on them. The pickup was smashed.

Donald Weaver, 21, 398 Prospect St.; Bernard Emerson, 22, 22 School St., and the driver of the truck, Kenneth Griffin, 28, of 3407 Longview, Rochester, joined police and railroad workers in a 40-minute effort during a drizzling rain to clear the wreck.

All six Pontiac police traffic department cars and two patrol unit cars were on hand to direct traffic which had piled up for three blocks on both sides of the accident. Students from Pontiac High, located a block away, were returning home from classes at 3 p.m. which added to the congestion.

"I hit my brakes when I saw the red blinkers flashing on the tracks," said Griffin. "We were about 30 yards away and I had plenty of time to stop. We skidded a long way on the slippery asphalt though. The next thing I knew we were stalled on the tracks."

Riding in the engine of the freight was engineer, John Boeff, of Bancroft; fireman, George Whitcomb, also of Bancroft; and a student engineer, John Kerr, of Flint. They told investigators that the emergency brake was pulled as soon as the car was sighted when the train rounded a bend 150 yards from the intersection.

"We had braked for a long distance," Boeff told police, "and had slowed down almost to a stop when we hit the truck. Our momentum carried us on."

Child Cruelty Case Continues in Court

sat gripping the arms of the witness chair with her back to her parents. Judge George B. Hartwick twice reproved Henry for the harshness of his questioning.

Diane denied anyone had told her what to testify, and broke into tears when Henry asked, "Do you like your mother?"

"That's a very embarrassing question, Mr. Henry," Judge Hartwick observed. Diane previously had eagerly answered "yes" when asked if she would like to live with her grandparents in Howell.

Darwin Wilkinson, 10, who also testified this morning, was not named by Sherry as a witness to the alleged cruelty.

But Sherry said Diane and Darlene, 10, had seen her mother burn her hand and buttocks and throw a knife at her. Neither girl would testify at pre-trial examination. Darlene is scheduled to testify this afternoon.

During the trial, Henry has repeatedly insisted that "all the children" take the witness stand.

Credit Union Mails Yule Club Checks

The Pontiac Employees Credit Union yesterday mailed out a bundle of 1936 Christmas Club checks totaling $34,845.77 to some 250 employees.

Clyde G. Townsend, manager and treasurer of the bureau, said this represented close to a $5,000 increase over last year's program. Applications are already being filed for the 1937 and 1938 annual program for city employees for the Christmas season.

City Eyes Ordinance Proposal

City commissioners took their first look last night of a proposed city ordinance establishing street and sidewalk grade levels in the city.

The ordinance will be returned to the commission at a future meeting for a second reading and possible adoption.

The law would authorize the city building inspector to require the establishment of these grades if he deems it needed before a building permit is issued.

The grade levels would be set by the engineering department and approved by the city manager, the new law outlines.

No permits would be issued until builders complied with the grades. Violators would be faced with $100 fine, 90 days, or both.

LEASE GETS FIRST OK

In other action last evening, commissioners gave tentative approval to a lease between the city of Pontiac and Oakland County for the leasing of the Contagious Hospital to Pontiac General Hospital during the latter's construction program.

As the city manager and commissioners had no time to review the lease, its final approval was subject to study by the manager and the Board of Supervisors.

The county agreed to rent to the city the much-needed facilities of its hospital to help lessen the crowded conditions existing at Pontiac General.

A public hearing was scheduled for Dec. 11 on an ordinance to rezone to Commercial 2 usage two lots in the Homestead Park No. 1 Subdivision.

Tabled until a Nov. 29 meeting because of several objections voiced by residents, was a hearing on a special assessment roll to finance storm drains in the Dixie-land Subdivision.

Confirmation was deferred after a hearing was conducted on a roll to finance curb, grade, graveling and related work on Orlando avenue from Monticello to Oakland.

A claim from a citizen for reported damages done to her basement because of a city sewer, was referred to the city attorney.

Commissioners heard a communication from the James Madison Junior High PTA thanking them for the installation of a traffic light on Perry at the new school.

Pontiac attorney Milton R. Henry today filed a motion in Circuit Court asking new trial for Howard Wayne Moore, 24, of Lake Orion convicted sex-slayer of his neighbor's daughter, three-year-old Martha Little.

The motion is based on the claim there are new witnesses to establish that Moore was not in Lake Orion at the time July 27 the girl was discovered missing from her home.

Henry also said in his opinion introduction of lie detector results were incriminating during his trial last month, although Moore's attorney, Carl Ingraham, agreed to their introduction.

But Judge Doty said the zoo's parking lot and Rackham Memorial Golf Course — both in Huntington Woods — are "proprietary" functions of the city of Detroit, and must pay special assessments for the Twelve Town Drain.

The ruling opened the possibility of another legal battle over whether Huntington Woods can assess the parking lot and golf course for real estate taxes.

Judge Doty ruled only on special drain assessments, the only issue in the present case. Huntington Woods has tried several times to assess Detroit for drain projects which would benefit the three areas.

Kirk Donald Patrick, 33, of 6208 East Moor, Bloomfield Hills, died of a heart attack yesterday while deer hunting in the Houghton Lake area. He was manager of a sporting goods store in Royal Oak.

ADRIAN (AP)—A fire that blazed out of control for two hours damaged the administration building of the State Training School for Girls here yesterday. There were no injuries.

The 325 girls at the institution live in cottages several hundred feet from the two-story administration building.

Some of the girls helped school officials carry records to safety.

Workers discovered the blaze. Mrs. Wallace Watts, school superintendent, escaped from the building along with five clerk-typists and Mrs. Watts' mother, Mrs. Nellie Hall, 74, who lives on the second floor of the building.

Adrian fire department officials estimated damage to the second floor and attic at several thousand dollars.

Dies During Hunting Trip

Kirk Donald Patrick, 33, of 6208 East Moor, Bloomfield Hills, died of a heart attack yesterday while deer hunting in the Houghton Lake area. He was manager of a sporting goods store in Royal Oak.

ADRIAN (AP)—A fire that blazed out of control for two hours damaged the administration building of the State Training School for Girls here yesterday. There were no injuries.

The 325 girls at the institution live in cottages several hundred feet from the two-story administration building.

Some of the girls helped school officials carry records to safety.

Workers discovered the blaze. Mrs. Wallace Watts, school superintendent, escaped from the building along with five clerk-typists and Mrs. Watts' mother, Mrs. Nellie Hall, 74, who lives on the second floor of the building.

Adrian fire department officials estimated damage to the second floor and attic at several thousand dollars.

Beauties and Ugly Ducklings Are Cheated by Life

Average-Looking Girls Should Be Thankful

By PHYLLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK (INS)—On this day before the demise of the turkey and the expansion of the great American stomach, there are two facts of nature that I am heartily thankful for . . .

First, that I am not so beautiful that everyone stares at me.

Second, that I am not so ugly nobody cares about me.

A girl, it seems to me, has enough trouble in the ordinary business of living without being either notably dazzling or lamentably dowdy.

Both of these conditions can lead her into unlovable complexes, from narcissism to manic depression, and make everybody around her—particularly the males, of course, since one female's reaction to another female is relatively unimportant—most uncomfortable.

The girl who is born beautiful, for instance, is frequently the least adored woman in her local social circle by the time she is a woman. It's peachy to be a beautiful baby, but when the cooing is over and the adolescence begins, a sudden swift change takes place, LOVELY BUT LONELY

In high school, the boys are usually shy of the beauty and leave her for an "ordinary" girl so that she sits home with nothing to do but resolve to enter a convent or dream of going to New York for a job in the fifties.

Or the boys make much of her and vie for attentions, causing her ever afterward to snatch quick glances at herself in mirrors and shop windows.

By the time she is old enough to know her own abilities like the back of her lily white hand, the beautiful woman often is thus a vision of vanity—and frigidity.

She is unloved by other women (a cat may gaze on a queen, but doth it make her purr?) and she is more likely to be admired than adored by men.

In the case of many beauties we all know from reading the headlines, they even come to look at themselves with loathing. Nature overindulged them at birth and, as in most cases of overindulgence they wound up with a pain and a curious feeling of self-loathing and disgust for the world.

SHUNNED OR PITIED

The ugly duckling has about as much chance for true happiness as the beauty. She is, from adolescence on, either shunned or pitied—one reaction being as devastating as the other—and often hers becomes another long life of self-analysis and distrust of the race so generously referred to as "human."

Somewhere along the line, a nature older person with sympathy and compassion is sure to try to "do something" with Miss Unattractive, and she will come out with a new hairdo and a new posture and a wardrobe fit to impress the editors of "Harper's." So often you see it, and almost inevitably the results are destructive.

When the "done over" woman discovers that clothes do not make a woman, and hairdos do not make an impression, she inclines to retire even further into cocoon of resignation and introversion.

Nature—human and natal—has deceived her, and she becomes as cold and distrustful as the gorgeous doll who knows she is more a showpiece than a person.

How nice it is, and how thankful most of humanity should be to be normally, averagely, mediocrity in matters of personal appearance.

Neither pitted nor pampered by family and friends, you have been given that most wonderful of all privileges—being left alone to design your own personality, unhampered by a conspicuous trick of

Lawyer Is Hung, Client Isn't

Whisky Bottles Sway Jury but Stagger the Defense

NEW YORK — Big Ed Bobick lit a big cigar and let the match burn out in his fingers.

"Well," he sighed. "I beat that kidnap rap. That calls for a celebration." His face shone out like a red-hot nickel in a slot machine.

"Let's all have another glass of water," he said.

This paper didn't figure. A couple of days ago Bobick had gulped enough Scotch whisky to hang a jury. Now all of a sudden he was a water baby.

"Listen," he said into the glass. "I could go the rest of my life without another shot of whisky."

A guy with blond eyebrows said nervously: "You don't mean the rest of your life, Ed. He doesn't mean the rest of his life. He just means right now. He's a great kiddie. Tell us how you did it, Ed."

Bobick smiled across the table at blond eyebrows and told it again. The story was already gleaming here and there from constant use.

Last month, he began, he became the defense attorney for two kids charged with robbing and kidnapping a guy for $37, a ring and a wrist watch. It was the kidnap charge that could have been the rough part. All Bobick could do was to show that the kids didn't really mean it.

He got witnesses to prove that they had drunk about 80 beers before the crime—enough alcohol to make them "unaware of the nature of their acts."

Then the prosecution put an expert on the stand who said that was about 55 ounces of whisky—enough to put the kids in a coma.

"I figured he was wrong," Bobick said. "I remembered I once drank a fifth of Scotch at a party and all I got was a thirst. I remember I filled the bathtub with cold water . . . never mind."

"Anyway," he said, "I went out and bought two fifths of Scotch—312 ounces—"

The guy with the blond eyebrows said quickly: "Tell 'em the brand."

Bobick continued: "And I got a couple of witnesses and went home to drink."

Blond eyebrows said across the table: "It was good stuff, wasn't it, Ed?"

Bobick said: "I guess it was O. K. Like I said, I could go the rest of my life . . ."

Blond eyebrows hurried on: "What happened after you drank the Scotch, Ed?"

Bobick said: "It took about 18 hours because I wanted to drink it the way the kids did."

Then he took the two empties into court and asked his witnesses: "Am I in a stupor or unconscious?"

"No," the witnesses said.

"Then," Bobick announced sol-

No Present Need for Gas Rationing

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton said today he foresaw no immediate need for gasoline rationing in the United States.

He told a news conference that our oil industry could more than make up, through boosted production, the oil halted by the Middle East crisis.

Seaton said "it would tend to increase the domestic price of petroleum" if it took longer than six months to put the Suez Canal back in operation.

Everything's New
including the View

in each '57 Buick—SPECIAL, CENTURY, SUPER, ROADMASTER

WHEN we tell you the 1957 Buick is new, we're not kidding.

Because we don't mean just new this or new that. We mean new everything.

We mean everything you can't see, as well as everything you can.

And even the "seeing" is new from both the front seat and the rear seat—for the new, wider, rakishly angled panoramic windshield with its 200 more square inches of glass area widens the forward view of all passengers.

Take other examples.

Its styling is new. Never before have you seen a Buick like this one—sleek and stunning, and low as a cat-crouch.

Its engine is new. Never has any Buick boasted so big, so powerful, so obedient an engine as the purring V8 engine that gingers every '57 Buick.

Its performance is new—and right here we mean new like nothing else you ever experienced before.

For now, with Buick's new record horsepower, there's a new advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo* that's so instant in action, so vividly responsive, so smooth and flexible and full-torque throughout the entire "Drive" range—the need for "Low" is virtually eliminated.

But there's even more than all this to the newness of every '57 Buick—SPECIAL, CENTURY, SUPER and ROADMASTER.

There's a completely new chassis that gives the car the lowest center of gravity in Buick history—for a steadier, safer ride. And a new kind of ball-joint suspension for surer handling, safer cornering, and a wonderful new levelized braking.

There are safety features galore—new safety-padded instrument panel, new dip-center safety steering wheel, new controls recessed out of harm's way—even an ingenious new Safety-Minder* that lets you know when you reach the miles-per-hour you've preset for yourself.

Of course, the only way to get the whole, new wonderful story is to take the wheel and let this big new car do its own talking.

And that's something we'll be most happy to arrange first chance you get. Come in today.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special. Safety-Minder standard on Roadmaster, optional other Series.

UMW for Seaway

Not in recent years in this country has any great national organization changed its position on a public issue as drastically as has the United Mine Workers Union on the St. Lawrence Waterway.

For years the union, under the leadership of JOHN L. LEWIS, bitterly fought the project. The union had argued that the seaway would result in more hydroelectric plants and thus reduce the use of coal. At the same time it was contended that the waterway would bring 50,000,000 tons a year of cheap foreign coal to midwest users.

Not long ago at the UMW convention, the organization's Vice President THOMAS KENNEDY did an about face on the union stand. He told the convention that the seaway was one of the great hopes for coal and that utility plants are among the coal's best customers.

No longer is the union worrying about foreign coal. The fact is that foreign nations haven't any coal to send here. Moreover, American coal right now is being shipped to fuel hungry countries abroad. Mr. Kennedy now expects to see coal ships pouring out of the St. Lawrence bound for Europe.

One can only regret that Mr. LEWIS didn't see the light earlier. If he had, the seaway might now be in operation.

Sukarno's Ambition

It now appears that the admiration expressed during his visit here by Indonesian President SUKARNO for THOMAS JEFFERSON and our Constitution, reflected only a temporary attitude.

Any other conclusion is difficult in view of his address to a special session of the Indonesian Constituent Assembly. In it he urged the Assembly to draft a new Constitution rejecting capitalism, a federal form of government and the "liberal democracy of the West."

Two weeks ago in a keynote address President SUKARNO called for an end to political parties and heaped praise on the government of Yugoslavia's President Tito. At that time observers in Jakarta concluded that SUKARNO was seeking support for a Tito type dictatorship in Indonesia.

In other words, President SUKARNO, lately returned from Moscow and Belgrade, seems to have been much more impressed by governments in those capitals than by ours in Washington. This surely is a disappointing augury of Indonesia's chance of developing into a true democracy.

61 Years of X-rays

One November anniversary that got far less attention than it deserved was the 61st birthday of the process we know as X-ray.

It was on November 8, 1895, that a German physicist, WILHELM KONRAD ROENTGEN, took the first X-ray picture. He photographed his wife's hand, showing a ring on one finger.

This discovery unquestionably was one of the most important medical steps forward of all time. Not only is it of incalculable value in diagnosis but in the treatment of various ailments and fractures as well as in surgery. It also is of great aid to industry, being widely used to locate hidden defects in metal castings.

In paying tribute to Dr. ROENTGEN, THEODORE J. WERLE, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, had this to say:

"In the fight against tuberculosis alone it has proved the most vital weapon we have. The X-ray makes it possible to find TB in people even before symptoms reveal the disease. This means we can find tuberculosis early when it can be cured and before the germs are spread to others."

Not only does credit for discovery belong to ROENTGEN, but he earned high commendation for placing the process at the disposal of the world without patent or license fees. He lived 28 years after his first X-ray picture and though he generously refused to take money for his discovery, he had the satisfaction of knowing what a boon it was to mankind.

Out of Ordinary
Wonderful Growing Year
Brings Unusual Yield

Thanksgiving: When we should give a fuller consideration to the real meaning of the holiday.

Many of my readers, like MAT himself, usually are late in planting our tulip bulbs. But this year we're lucky. According to

Mrs. Rebecca Jefferson of Auburn Heights, the weather has been so warm that bulbs which she planted on Oct. 15 are sending up shoots and will be killed by the first hard frost. The same experience is reported by Mrs. Mercedes Markson of Keego Harbor, who also says she has petunias in bloom for the second time this year.

Several reports have been received about lilacs blooming in November. Including that of Mrs. Harry Percival of Pontiac Lake, who says the second crop on her white lilac bush has a tinge of blue in it. She wonders if it isn't because she dumps the blueing water at the base of the bush on wash days.

A sunflower in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Holloway Smith of Huron Gardens had over 30 blossoms. It was cut down from a month ago, and another plant grew from the stump—and it now has three blossoms.

Few people can be more interested in the outcome of the Cornell-Penn football game on Thanksgiving Day than

Mrs. Siana Streeter of Walled Lake. Of the original 3,678 entries in the MAT football contest only eight survive. Seven of them predict that Cornell will win the game, and Mrs. Streeter is the sole backer of Penn. So if Penn wins, she gets the $300 in U. S. Savings Bonds. If Cornell wins the seven carry over to the Michigan-Ohio State game on Saturday.

When moving from 442 South Paddock St.,

Mrs. Gertrude Ostrander found a wooden tool box, the cover of which is lined with parts of the Pontiac Gazette of 1840. Mentioned in its columns are the ancestors of several people who are prominent in this area 116 years later.

A silver leaf maple tree, all budded out, just as it does in spring, is reported by Mrs. Robert J. Howey, in her front yard at 52 McKinley Drive.

Seeming to sense the spirit of the times, the parakeet of

Mrs. Burney Lytle of Drayton Plains now says with an even greater emphasis than before Nov. 6, "I like Ike."

We haven't had much snow, but a snowball bush in the yard of Mrs. Myrna Ostend of Auburn Heights has larger November blooms than those which it bore at the usual time in May.

"But I'm Supposed to Be the Policeman"

David Lawrence Says:

Buckshot Criticism Hits at Policies

WASHINGTON — Criticism of what the government does is important and useful, especially when it is constructive. But criticism that is captious and has its origin among partisans who have an axe to grind can be mischievous, especially when it involves the foreign relations of the United States.

For several months now, the idea has been widely disseminated both here and abroad that there is something "wrong" with the State Department's policies. Lots of people throughout the country believe a thing if it's repeated often enough.

The propaganda has been fed regularly to newsmen, some of whom are predisposed anyway to favor the return of Truman-Acheson policies. The public has been told constantly that the State Department lacks "imaginative ideas" or that it does not do any "planning" or that it emphasizes "military alliances."

The State Department is a very large institution and "planning" often means the preparation of memoranda based on certain preconceptions on the part of a large staff of planners. Memoranda and pressures come also from New York City—the financial capital of the world—where the sources of financing for many a private project abroad must originate.

CRITICS YELL "SPEND"

The campaign to persuade the administration to make almost unlimited use of American taxpayer's money to build up foreign countries, irrespective of whether or not they are friendly to the United States in a military way, is sometimes related to advantages to be gained by various individuals in business and trade.

The effort to get Uncle Sam to spend more and more money abroad has been persistent. When temporarily frustrated, the proponents have turned their guns on Secretary Dulles, Under-Secretary Hoover, and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

It is amazing how far-reaching this propaganda has become in recent years through speeches, magazine articles and "seminars" on foreign policy. Many of the participants come from a cult which has been identified with large spending sprees under the Marshall Plan and hence they cannot see anything—but the outpouring of more money overseas as a way out of almost every difficulty.

This is an electronic age and many of the critics of the State Department seem to think when there is a crisis in the world it should be possible to press a button and out of some machine will come a sheaf of papers giving the exact policy that should be followed in a given part of the world in a given set of circumstances.

Too many things in international affairs change over night. Our potential enemies do not tell us what makes them change their tactics. America's intelligence service is the best in the world.

It can report in advance—as it did in recent weeks—that the Israelis would attack Egypt, that Britain and France would inter-

"I've been promised a good job when I'm 21. Does that make my credit good for a soda?"

vene and that American citizens in the Suez area would be in danger and had better be withdrawn. The White House was not officially informed of these facts by the British or French governments, yet did know military action was contemplated.

But what policies can be planned in advance to take care of mistakes that other governments make? Obviously it is important to adjust American action to changing circumstances.

The main principles of American policy, however, do not change just because our allies choose to

Dr. William Brady Says:

Dentists Object to Opinion
They Ought to Be MDs

Speaking of the routine application of glycerite of iodine and zinc iodide to the gums and lining of the mouth by dentist or physician a few minutes before mouth or tonsil operations, I said here recently that this was introduced by Eugene Talbot, MD, DDS, and the solution he recommended is called Talbot's solution. It is described in the Nationally Formulated as Glycerite of Iodine and Zinc Iodide.

Dr. Talbot reported (JAMA, Apr. 2, '10) that this solution used once a month in children's mouths prevents tooth decay.

So far it was all factual. But unfortunately I added a comment of my own. Talbot, I said, was both physician and dentist—"as I think every dentist should be."

That tore it. The dentists, at least dentists of the 19th Century school, reacted like hornets. If every dentist should be a physician, they argued, then every physician should have "at least four years additional training for the degree DDS."

Well, now, I wouldn't say that. I leave it to the dentists to estimate how much of his or her training the student who intends to practice dentistry would get in a straight four years medical school course.

URGES EXTRA STUDY

I venture to say that, having earned the degree M. D., the student could get the necessary post-graduate training to qualify him or her to practice dentistry in not more than two years.

When we get down to brass tacks, isn't it absurd to assume that a student can learn enough about medicine and surgery and also the special technical arts and skills of dentistry in a course no longer than the student of medicine requires to become a physician?

Separate schools of dentistry are obsolete and wasteful. They are kept open to gratify the vanity of small-minded men.

Such schools were established in the first place because the physicians in the early part of the 19th Century were short-sighted and of narrow calibre—various medical schools declined to found dental chairs.

And so, instead of becoming one of the branches of medicine, the leaders of the dentists virtually said the heck with you, we'll set up our own dental schools.

The first separate dental school, Baltimore College of Dental-Surgery, was established in 1833.

STARTED AT HARVARD

Nearly 30 years later Harvard differ with us in certain policies, or because our potential enemies pursue their plots. American foreign policy under the Eisenhower-Dulles administration has held consistently to these objectives:

1. To avoid plunging American boys into war;
2. To make clear at all times that if attacked America will fight back with a "massive retaliation";
3. To make sure American funds used abroad are spent prudently;
4. To strengthen the United Nations as an instrument for the preservation of peace.

(Copyright 1956, New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

University opened a dental department and began teaching dentistry as a branch of medicine or as nearly as the staid old ladies of the university dared—giving graduates the degree DMD, Doctor of Dental Medicine.

Within the next 25 years, I confidently predict, the silly Yankee affectation of brushing the teeth will have been forgotten, separate dental schools will have been closed for the public welfare and economy, and only physicians will be permitted to practice dentistry.

Signs of laughter go up from the Hungarians when the indoctrinated Russian soldiers argue that "we are here to defend you against the Fascist bandits."

The scornful shouts also arise when the Russians refer to Premier Josip Kadar's puppet government.

Posters appearing in Budapest lampoon both the Russians and the handful of Kadar government men who still rely on the "Stalinist" repression methods.

'Not GM's Fault Buyers Didn't Ask About Zoning'

Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests unless the letter is critical in its nature.

I saw a letter in the Voice of the People saying the Grand Trunk was unwilling to consider another location for those tracks. City Manager Willman says the Grand Trunk conferred with him on other locations many times.

Then the letter asks why they allowed homes to be built in this area. They allowed homes to be built in this area because it was legal and because someone wanted to build them. General Motors didn't build them. Grand Trunk didn't build them. They were built to live in by owners or built to sell. That seems very, very simple.

The people that bought them did so knowing that the big plants were located right there. It wasn't a secret. No one knew about the future. Most people know General Motors has grown in the past and it would probably grow some more.

That was no secret, either. You always build or buy on your own decision.

If you build without asking about zoning restrictions, is that your own fault, or is it the fault of the builder or seller? The letter closes by asking what chance you have when you fight General Motors and the Railroad. I'll answer that, too. You have the chance justice always gives. Aren't General Motors and the Grand Trunk as much entitled to justice as the letter writer? Doesn't justice go both ways?

Hungarians Boldly Mock Their Soviet Oppressors

By JOHN H. MARTIN
International News Service
Foreign Director

No wonder the Soviet Union will not allow U.N. official observers to check the bloodbath in Hungary. The capital is wrecked by Soviet guns. Famine is being used deliberately to force the Hungarians to quit their general strike.

The casualties inflicted on a nation that demands freedom from Soviet rule are enormous. The pinched faces of the people inside—as well as those of the refugees streaming into Austria—tell a grim story.

But the shell-pitted ruins of Budapest, the capital of the valiant Hungarians, house people who still laugh despite their hatred.

It is all very embarrassing for the Russian troops in Hungary. It would be even more embarrassing for Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov and other top Kremlin officials if U.N. officials were to see what was going on.

OFFICERS MOCKED

For instance, in Budapest the Soviet officers, still mostly hidden in the turrets of their tanks, are mocked by the Hungarian civilians who ask: "What are you doing here? Who sent you?"

Hoots of laughter go up from the Hungarians when the indoctrinated Russian soldiers argue that "we are here to defend you against the Fascist bandits."

The scornful shouts also arise when the Russians refer to Premier Josip Kadar's puppet government.

Posters appearing in Budapest lampoon both the Russians and the handful of Kadar government men who still rely on the "Stalinist" repression methods.

One of these posters in the form of a "police notice" warned Hungary's population of 10,000,000—minus what the Soviets have deported—that "10 million counter-revolutionaries are at large in the country."

"Former aristocrats, cardinals, generals and other supporters of the old regime," says this parody. "are disguised as factory workers and peasants and are making propaganda against the patriotic government and against our Russian friends."

Another says: "Wanted: Premier for Hungary. Qualification: No sincere conviction, no backbone; ability to read and write not required, but must be able to sign documents drawn up by others. Applications should be addressed to Messrs. Khrushchev and Bulganin."

Another poster says: "Lost—the confidence of the people. Honest finder is asked to return it to Janos Kadar, Premier of Hungary, at 10,000 Soviet Tanks Street."

Case Records of a Psychologist:

Blames Husband for Wife's Affair

Grace says her stodgy husband thinks he knows it all. He protests that he never reads this clinical column. Yet her Don Juan devours it, and Grace says if her husband had used the ideas contained herein, she never would have developed this tragic "affair." Husbands, if you wish to keep your wives faithful, send for the booklet named below.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
Case T-327: Grace G., aged 37, is the wife of a professional man.

"Dr. Crane, I have been married for 17 years," she began. "I have a wonderful husband and five lovely children."

"Yet I have been involved in an illicit love affair for the past six years."

"I have finally decided it isn't what I want and my husband is being very cooperative."

"However, he still thinks I am frigid and do not want to be loved or petted."

"Dr. Crane that is the opposite of the real facts. I crave affection. In fact, I need him far more than he seems to need me, which is why I first succumbed to the flattery and attentions of this other man."

"My husband thinks he knows it all, so he refuses to pay any attention to your booklet on 'Sex Problems in Marriage.'"

"I would never have entered into this clandestine affair if he had read your booklet and practiced the advice therein."

"The other man already had a copy of your booklet before I met him. Why is it that husbands seem so indifferent to the facts of life, yet the Don Juans study them carefully?"

The typical husband hates to admit before his wife that he has been wrong especially in his ideas of marriage.

Actually, there is no reason for such a man to feel humiliated, for many new ideas have been advanced in both medicine and psychology which make the theories of 25 years ago quite outmoded.

But husbands past 40 years of age imagine it will deflate them in the sight of their wives to confess that they have been in error ever since their honeymoon.

The other alternative to such an admission, is to deny the new truths and condemn the exponents thereof.

"Dr. Crane's column is all the bunk!" many an older husband thus insists, as he tries to maintain his mistaken notions.

Yet some of these same husbands eagerly write for the booklets, but have them mailed to their offices.

Hundreds of wives have told me that their husbands say they never look at this column.

"Yet, Dr. Crane, whenever you outline a case that has the same, faults as mine, my husband tears your column out of our paper and lays it beside my plate at the table," such a wife will explain.

"So how does he know when you are stepping on my corns, if he never reads it?"

YOUTH VS. AGE

Well, he simply denies reading this feature to protect his wounded male ego. But if he is a smart man, he realizes the truth of what I explain in this educational column.

Herein you readers see the latest facts from medicine and psychology, documented with actual cases from real life.

Young husbands are ardent readers of this feature for they want the truth and aren't set in their ancient erroneous concepts.

As Grace mentioned, the Don Juan realizes that love-making is a very scientific process, so he devours all medical and psychological data that deal with the subject.

If the average husband used half the energy that the Don Juan spends in learning how to be a master of love, we'd have hardly any divorces.

And if you husbands past 35 or 40 are shy about having the following booklet sent to your name, have it mailed to your place of work.

So send for the booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a stamped return envelope plus 20 cents (non-profit).

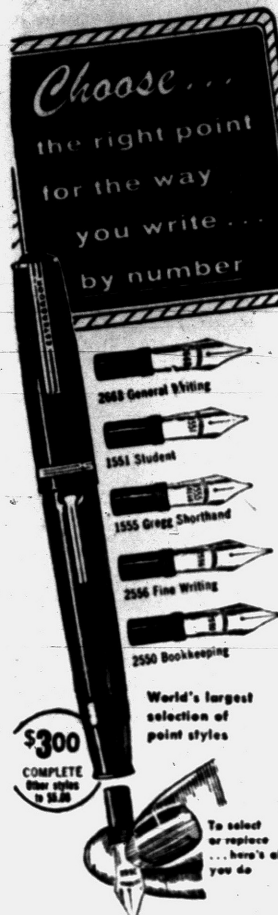

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a 3x5 stamped self-addressed envelope and 20c to cover typing and printing costs when you send for the psychological charts and pamphlets.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

Chapter 23

Leone seemed surprised at my approaching her at the reception desk.

"Leone," I said, "I've got to speak to you."

She didn't answer for a moment. Her guard went up. Then she said, "What do you want to speak to me about?"

"I think you know."

"I know?"

"What was that you hit me with, Leone? Honestly, sneaking up behind a girl like that! What would Mr. Bell think of such uncouth behavior?"

"All right," she said. "But this behavior?"

"Is a busy day..."

"Why can't you arrange to have lunch when I do?"

"I don't ordinarily have lunch..."

She stopped talking. She was looking beyond me and I turned to see what was so intriguing. Immediately, I turned back. Detectives Bolling and Hankins were coming down a corridor toward us. They were looking at me with interest.

I was glad to see them go. Leone didn't seem to miss them either, but I didn't discuss it with her.

I said, "Leone, stretch a point today and have some lunch. I'm sure if Mr. Bell knew about your uncouth behavior..."

"All right."

We made a date for lunch.

The hour that Leone arranged for us was late; the small restaurant on Forty-sixth off Madison was nearly empty. Leone told the waiter she wasn't hungry, that she would just have a Dubonnet cocktail. I didn't feel in the mood for food either, but I ordered milk and a sandwich. I had a hunch that I should keep my strength at its maximum.

The waiter went away.

Leone said, "Why did you get a job at the school?"

"That doesn't matter."

"Is Hester Frost your real name?"

"Leone, I'm not going to answer any of your questions. I'm not really tough, but I'm going to pretend I am. Call this any nasty word you like, but if you don't tell me the truth about what I want to know, I'm going to talk to Mr. Bell. About you, Leone."

"What makes you think he'd care?"

"Because... as of now... he's going to marry you."

Her eyes behind the stylish spectacles opened wide. Her surprise was genuine. That meant Bell had not yet told her about my conference with him. Perhaps he hadn't the opportunity, perhaps he meant not to tell her at all. At any rate, it gave me a chance to shock her some more, and I used that chance.

"I know all about it, Leone. From his proposal to you last New Year's Eve... by telephone... to your plans to be married this one. I know you don't even want to wait these few weeks, you want to get married now, right away."

"My God," she said. "Where did you learn all this? Nobody knows!"

"Listen some more, Leone..."

"Are you with the police... no, you'd tell me if you were."

"I'll tell you this much about me before we get on about you. I'm in much worse trouble than you are. That's why I'm behaving in such a... shall we say, an unladylike way? Now."

"It was you who knocked me out last night to keep me from seeing you."

"You don't know that, you're bluffing."

"You didn't want me to see you because you had found something in Anita's apartment... some tape recordings hidden in a lamp base. But you didn't get them all, Leone, did you know that? There were some more in another lamp. I got those."

All the fight was out of Leone now. She was no longer the cool, calm, girl-executive. She was a frightened, appealing young lady in trouble. She sat looking at me, waiting. I let her wait while I lit a cigarette I didn't want. I hoped she'd get a little more frightened.

"Leone," I said, "I want the tapes you have."

"I don't have them anymore. I burned them."

"Oh? Really?"

"Yes," she said, her voice low, vehement. "Yes, really. You didn't think I'd keep those horrible things. You know what was on them, Anita Farrell was a blackmailer. She was dreadful, evil... I didn't even play all the tapes I found. I burned them all."

"You just played them until you found the one you wanted? Then destroyed them all?"

"Yes."

"I don't think you should have done that... burned them. Maybe one of those blackmail victims of Anita's killed her."

"Do you expect me to care who killed Anita? I don't want to see that person caught, punished..."

She broke off as the waiter approached us with our orders. He did his job and scamped back to his own interrupted lunch. Leone drank half of her Dubonnet in one gulp.

She said, "I wish that were a double Martini."

"I'll buy you one."

"No, thanks, Hester... or whatever your name is..."

"Call me Hester."

"You're either trying to find out who killed Anita or else..."

She paused and her eyes narrowed as she appraised me. "Or else that's just what you want me to believe. Was Anita blackmailing you?"

I didn't answer her.

"No, of course you wouldn't admit it, but, believe me, Hester, if you were involved in any of the recordings I played before I found the one I wanted, I'm unaware of it. And I did burn them every single, filthy one of them. That's what you've got to do with the ones you have. Then Anita's victims will be safe. Free. None of them was a criminal."

"There was one who was. A man named Stubby. Did you ever meet him while you were living with Anita?"

"Stubby? No, I don't remember ever hearing that name."

"He..."

"No. No, don't tell me what he did! I don't want to know. If he committed a real crime he was the exception. Mostly Anita's victims were men making fools of themselves over her."

"The only exceptions to that I know of, Leone, are Stubby..."

and you."

"You're taking for granted that Anita was blackmailing me."

"Why else would you be interested in the tapes?"

"I suppose I'm going to have to tell you why."

As you shall see," she glanced at her wrist watch. "I'll have to talk fast," she said briskly. "Don't interrupt me unless it's absolutely necessary."

"I'd known Anita for quite a while... at the school, but I was surprised when she invited me to share her apartment. I was lonely then, and I was grateful to her, and flattered. Later I found out that she was using me."

"We got along fine together. Actually, I didn't see much of her and pretty soon, after Oliver and I became interested in each other, I saw practically nothing of her. So we got along perfectly. And things went from better to better for Oliver and me. He proposed to me, as you know, on New Year's Eve, and we planned to be married a year later."

Leone smiled wryly. "Not a very hasty man, Oliver... but worth waiting for. I couldn't have been happier."

"Then one night I came home unexpectedly and found Anita..."

playing back one of her more lurid tapes. I'd never known what she was doing, not even suspected. I was shocked, paralyzed, but I finally got the whole set-up.

"I even understood why Anita wanted me to live with her. She used me as a sort of bodyguard. If any of her victims began to play too rough, she could use my possible arrival as a threat. I was a kind of absentee chaperone."

"Oh, I was in a fine rage when I found out. I was practically on my way to the police when Anita threw her bomb at me. She played a certain tape from her collection for me. It was a little tete-a-tete between her and Oliver Bell."

Food Importers Appeal in Vain

NEW YORK (AP)—Food importers have appealed to striking longshoremen for help in pulling 24 million pounds of chestnuts out of the fire.

The importers said the chestnuts are buried in the holds of five strikebound ships in the Port of New York. They were headed for the stuffing in American Thanksgiving turkeys.

Worth $500,000, they represent more than half the total annual import volume, dealers said. They said all appeals to the International Longshoremen's Assn. to exempt the nuts from the strike ban have been unavailing.

Russia Angry With Yugoslavia

Kremlin Blames Tito for Loss of Control in Hungary

VIENNA (INS) — The Kremlin's wrath at rebellious satellites appears to be focusing on Yugoslavia, first and foremost exponent of independent Communism.

And with Russia reportedly pushing 20 divisions into Hungary, just across the border, Belgrade officials admitted Yugoslav troops were moving along the frontier with Hungary.

Officials termed the troop movements "purely normal," but western observers noted that with the Moscow-Belgrade split widening they might have been sent there "just in case."

The influx of the Soviet reinforcements into Hungary was patently to crush the dying rebellion.

Yugoslav informants reported from Belgrade:

"The atmosphere is very much like it was in 1948. The Kremlin blames Yugoslavia for the loss of control of Hungary."

That was the year Stalin ordered Yugoslavia kicked out of the Cominform because of the Nationalistic Communism advocated by President Josip Broz Tito.

The Soviet Communist Party Newspaper Pravda — which speaks always with the voice of the Kremlin Communists — has started its customary softening up process by attacking Tito for his Nov. 11 speech.

In that speech, Tito called Hungary's early request for Soviet military intervention in the rebellion "a fatal mistake."

Pravda and the Czechoslovakian Party Newspaper Rude Pravo both fired back that Tito was trying to split the Communist camp.

Accident Costs Dough, Doe, Woe, Almost Toe

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Deer hunter Ralph Fullerton shot his toe and killed a doe, lost the doe but saved his toe.

Fullerton, 19, shot himself in the right big toe with a 20 gauge shotgun while hunting south of Gladwin. He was driving to a hospital when a doe leaped in front of the car.

The deer was killed and the car wrecked. So Fullerton hitchhiked a ride to the hospital where doctors treated the injury. Police hauled away the doe.

Communists Face Viet Nam Opposition

WASHINGTON (INS) — Diplomatic intelligence messages say Communist troops in North Vietnam reportedly machine-gunned entire villages to crush recent anti-Red uprisings.

Meanwhile, a State Department official said a few refugees from North Vietnam have escaped to freedom in the south.

Reports reaching diplomats in Washington strengthened the belief that the Communists have been confronted with severe opposition in their portion of divided Vietnam.

Further information is expected when what the State department describes as a "handful" of refugees arrives in Saigon by plane tonight.

The refugees presumably made their way by coastal barge to the south Vietnam border, where a rescue plane was made available to fly them to Saigon.

The Communist North Vietnam radio admitted that the uprisings last week apparently were part of a well-planned rebel military operation.

Family Raises 40,000 Birds a Year

Ready Roasters for Holiday

Lloyd Millers and Four Children Keep Business Rolling

By MARTHA LEWIS
Ortonville Correspondent
ORTONVILLE — At this time of year, thinking of the Thanksgiving bird one is going to serve, it is interesting to look in on the Lloyd Miller farm, where Mr. and Mrs. Miller have raised chickens for 15 years.

Now averaging about 40,000 birds a year, it was 10 years ago that the couple made poultry raising a major project on their farm, located at 10270 Andersonville Rd., about 12 miles southwest of here. The breed raised is White Rock and Indian River, producing a white chicken. The couple buys day-old chicks — 2,000 every three weeks — so they are never without them.

As the tiny chicks arrive at the farm, they are de-beaked, thus keeping them from pecking at each other, and later on they are easier to prepare for market, say the Millers.

The chicks are then turned into the brooders where they stay until reaching "fryer" or "roaster" stage.

The three-story buildings which house them are 40 by 100 and 30 by 60 feet, with the third story used exclusively for storage.

The modern buildings boast gas heat, automatic drinking fountains and mortar box type feeders. In the modernly equipped "dressing room," about 700 birds a week are prepared for market.

The chickens are killed here, put into automatic scalders for a minute and a half, depending on age, then moved on to be machine-picked. Miller holds the bird to the non-automatic device and in seconds it is completely defeathered.

The family works as a unit in dressing the fowl, each person doing his part, passing the bird down the line until it is finally in the cooling tank. Family members, from father down to 6-year-old Ann, do all the work, with the exception of the occasional help of a hired man to clean the buildings which are kept sanitary at all times.

Watching them, one feels that it is the teamwork that counts, enabling them to dress 80 or more in an hour.

Miller, admitting that the business is all work and sometimes a fulltime job, adds "it is a joy to be able to work with one's family like this."

Mrs. Miller, asked what she did besides raise chickens, remarked, "I help the children nights with their homework and thoroughly enjoy it."

The Millers also raise Yorkshire hogs, having 30 at the present time.

The couple, both members of Andersonville Community Church, have taught Sunday School there since 1942.

Church Circles Choose New Staffs

WHITE LAKE TOWNSHIP — Newly elected officers of the Friendship circle of the White Lake Presbyterian Church are Mrs. Austin Palmer, president, Mrs. Orrin Chamberlin, vice president, Mrs. Foster Brendel, second vice president, and Mrs. Hugh Lewis, treasurer.

Officers of the Evening circle are Mrs. Wilfred Caswell, president; Mrs. Ed Johnson, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. David Miller, assistant.

On Nov. 28 the two circles will join for a meeting in the church basement.

Holiday Dance for Teen Friday at Waterford

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — Recreation Youth Nite for Waterford students, grades 9 to 12, will feature a special Thanksgiving dance Friday at the CAI building.

Don Sayles orchestra will play from 8 to 11 p.m.

This is a special feature of the weekly dance conducted for high school students by the Recreation Department here.

Nearly 500 members hips have been purchased to date, reports Tom Belton, recreation director.

Romeo Youngsters to Greet Santa Claus

ROMEO — Hundreds of local youngsters are expected to be on hand at 11 a.m. tomorrow to greet Santa Claus when he arrives by plane at Romeo Airport.

The bewhiskered gentleman will then be escorted to Highland Sales, 275 E. Gates St. where he will welcome each child and distribute gifts.

THANKSGIVING BIRDS — Out at the Lloyd Miller farm on Andersonville road, 40,000 chickens a year are raised, cleaned and rolled off to market. With the family working as a unit, an average of 80 birds are turned out hourly. At top left, Miller tends to the feather-picker. Right, six-year-old Ann has her part in the production line. In lower photo, working family members are (left back) Frank, 10, and Don, 12, (left to right) Mrs. Miller, Bill, 8, Ann and Miller. It all adds up to a lot of Thanksgiving birds.

Romeo Drops School Designer

Declines to Deal More With West in Planning for High School

ROME — Romeo's board of education last night told Robert J. West of the Jensen and Keough architectural firm that they would not continue business dealings with him.

The board withdrew the task of designing Romeo's new high school, with the board president reading a brief statement.

The statement based its decision on "since West did not notify the board that he was not working for Jensen and Keough architects and engineers."

A retired banking attorney, Leslie Jones, speaking for West fended off the board reason, saying, "We are willing to rework the plans even at a cost of more than $10,000 so that your school will be built possibly in a year."

Under West's direction, bids for the new school had been received and rejected for totaling $242,000 over the estimated building budget.

Slate Union Service at Galloway Church

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — The Galloway Lake Methodist and Five Points Community Churches are combining forces for a service at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving Day at the Galloway Church.

The combined choirs will sing and the Rev. Gordon Lindsay, Five Points pastor, will give the sermon. The Rev. Kenneth Stephens is the Galloway pastor.

Galloway Lake Methodist is on Pontiac Road between Perry and Odyke.

Oxford Church Thanksgiving Program Tonight

OXFORD — A community Thanksgiving service will be held tonight at 8 in the Oxford Methodist Church.

The message will be given by the Rev. Harlow Hoyt of the Free Methodist Church.

Commerce Methodists to Begin Construction

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — It is expected that construction will begin this week on the first unit of a master plan for a new Commerce Methodist Church.

Marshall Wheeler, finance secretary, announced that the cement footings for the first unit will be poured by the weekend.

News of actual construction came at the beginning of the second Building Crusade which was launched Sunday under the direction of the Rev. Grant Dunlop, of the National Board of Missions.

A report of the opening day activity for the crusade revealed that a total of $32,685 was subscribed with a cash total of $2,981.25. A goal of $52,000 has been established.

Personal contacts have been made by 74 "visitors," working in pairs, who received detailed instructions from the Rev. Mr. Dunlop.

The Building Crusade ended last night, Nov. 18, 19, 20 having been designated as Loyalty Days.

The first campaign netted a total in excess of $31,000. A sale of debentures which is still in progress is expected to raise about $40,000 and a loan from the Methodist Revolving Fund will amount to $35,000.

Philomathean Club Plans All-Club Night

MARLETTE — The Philomathean club will be hostess to an all-club night Nov. 27 in the Bea McDonald School multi-purpose room.

The club has voted $250 toward tennis courts at the swimming pool park.

World War II brought a demand for more facilities and new buildings were added. Later all of the company's remaining departments were moved to Rochester and the whole plant was rearranged.

Next the Winter Brothers Co. operations were moved to Rochester, during 1946-47. Then in March of 1949 Standard Tool Co. with headquarters in Cleveland was acquired. In March of 1955 the Staples Tool Co. of Cincinnati was bought. This is the firm's carbide division.

Today it manufactures a wide variety of rotating metal cutting tools, including both high speed and carbide steel. It sells to the whole metal working industry, its biggest customers being in the automotive, air transportation, farm implement and electrical industries, with a growing business in the plastics industry.

It occupies a 200-acre site, with 50 acres fenced in for parking and grounds, of which 14 to 15 acres are under roof. Employment in Rochester ranges from 1,500 to 1,800 people. Howard L. McGregor is chairman of the board and Howard L. McGregor Jr., is president and general manager.

Looking to the future, President McGregor said: "Business conditions appear good today. As the economy continues to grow, we expect to grow with it."

Higbie Manufacturing Co. is another of Rochester's larger industries. This company is headed by Carleton B. Higbie Jr., and maintains a payroll of $1,700,000 a year.

Then known as McAleer Manufacturing Co., the Higbie firm came to Rochester from Detroit in 1940 and bought Bradley Knitting Mills, containing 178,000 square feet of office and manufacturing space. They then made polishes and waxes.

Expanding during the war into pyrotechnics, powdered metals and other defense products, after the war it entered the steel tubing business, selling off its other divisions.

Now its entire Rochester production is centered in its Avon Tube Division. All of the old mill buildings have been torn down except the office building, and 100,000 square feet of modern manufacturing plant have been built.

This plant produces ten million feet of small diameter electric

Detroit Broach & Machine Co., a substantial industry, moved out to Rochester from Detroit four years ago, occupying the first building on its 11-acre site on South Rochester road. Three years ago it added other buildings.

It present an addition containing some 50,000 square feet of manufacturing space is being added to its machine building. This addition will be occupied by the first of the year and will result in increased employment.

This company manufactures broaches and the machines which operate the broaches.

Making broaching tools since establishment some 30 years ago, it began manufacturing the machines only after its move to Rochester. Its principal customers are the larger automotive, agricultural implement and electrical manufacturing companies.

Its payroll runs a million dollars a year.

Gustav von Reis is president and the principal stockholder, and David A. Nelson is secretary and treasurer.

Allen Cooler & Ventilator Co.

is another growing industry. It occupies some 32,000 square feet of plant area in two plants on a seven-acre site on Woodward avenue, and is planning a 20,000-square-foot addition to Plant 1.

Allen, formerly known as Production Planning, was engaged in engineering work when it started in Rochester in 1944. It began production on machine work the following year and was incorporated under its present name two years ago.

Engaged in sheet metal fabrication, it manufactures its own line of ventilators and also has accounts with the Lycoming Division of Aviation Corp. and the Electromotive Division of General Motors.

Allen Cooler has another plant, a foundry, at Richmond. It employs approximately 100 people in Rochester. Wayne H. Eddy is president.

PAPER INDUSTRY

One of Rochester's large industries is the Rochester Paper Co. of which Paul H. Travis is the president and principal owner. This mill has a long history behind it.

The first paper mill in Michigan was established on this site before the Civil War. The present company was formed in 1926. It manufactures blotting, filter, mount paper and industrial packaging, buying its raw material in the form of commercial pulp.

Area Ice Rinks Opening With Others in Plan Stages

By DOROTHY JEAN ZACK
Ice means wintertime recreation, but for three Oakland County communities it doesn't have to mean late December weather.

Today Oak Park opens a new ice skating rink, tomorrow Birmingham opens its Eton Park rink, and on Dec. 1, Royal Oak plans to open its new rink.

But in some of those communities that have to wait for Mother Nature to freeze skating areas, planning and in one case land-leveling is already under way.

In Rochester, young people will be skating, if plans materialize, at the foot of Oak street, on a flat bed of land on a lagoon centering what now is a sandy plain.

In Farmington, a long range recreation plan is in formative stages, with ice skating included.

"Our rink needs more care," Peche says of the rink which Dr. Joseph J. Gadbow arranged for six years ago and is kept in condition by the city. At the

Christ Lutherans Set First Program; Await Final Construction

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP — First service in the new sanctuary of Christ Lutheran Church at Airport and Williams Lake Roads will be on Thanksgiving Day at 10 a.m.

The addition in the process of completion is 40 feet wide and 112 feet long and includes the new nave and sanctuary upstairs and a full basement downstairs for educational facilities, with seating for 425 worshippers in the nave.

The service Thursday will be a festive service with the three choirs of the church participating. The Senior Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Martin Wager, will sing, as will the Acolyte Choir and Girls Choir, under the direction of Mrs. John Wiley.

The Rev. Arvid E. Anderson, pastor, will preach the Thanksgiving sermon on the theme, "Now Thank We All Our God." The public is invited.

Construction of the new church began May 1, 1936.

The dedication will be held later when new pews and other furnishings have been installed. Chairman of the building committee is Robert Edwards.

Elementary School Plans Card Party

COMMERCE TOWNSHIP — The Glegary Elementary School PTA will stage a harvest card party at 8 p.m., Saturday, in the school's Multi-Purpose Room. A large crowd is expected.

Proceeds from the event will be used to bolster the PTA fund.

Headed by Mrs. Daniel A. Canton, the party committee also includes Mrs. Ted Deyo, Mrs. James Stogdell and Mrs. Mike Roberts.

Tickets for the party may be purchased from any Glegary PTA member.

Refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

Birmingham's Eton Rink, which opened last in March and starts tomorrow on its first winter season, will see much organized skating and hockey activity as well as individual sport.

A new programmer has been added to the staff. Mrs. Vivian Heard will be teaching classes in ballet and square dancing on ice, and arrange other classes, as in figure skating.

A ceremony at 8 tomorrow opens the rink, with free skating thereafter until 10:30 that night.

Group rates will be in effect and hockey leagues are being formed, with 300 already signed up.

bottom of the town's main hill, it is opposite the city park.

"It would almost require a full-time man to keep it in shape," Peche says.

Extensive upkeep of a rink has been considered too expensive for Waterford Township Recreation Department, and ice skating is on a neighborhood scale on the many lakes about the township.

As one lake across Oakland County, boys and girls, as well as adults will be pitching in after each snow to clear the ice and scrape down marred surfaces on Waterford lakes.

But in that area skaters have a year around activity in the Rollerdom, on M58 near Pontiac Lake road. Group rates attract recreation groups such as the Fashion Your Figure and school classes.

Similar activities keep skaters active year around at the roller rink in Lake Orion, which last spring moved to new quarters, and at Utica where a rink attracts roller skating fans.

At Davisburg, the millpond near the town's limits provides skating, but not before late December, as in Clarkston.

There, firemen clear the ice, and a men's group have for several years strung lights across the pond.

At Leonard, skating is on lakes, but there school children have become roller skating fans. But with new incorporation of the school district with Oxford, school buses are no longer available for trips to the Lake Orion roller rink.

Parents are talking of organizing to transport groups of school children to the roller rink.

The newly completed skating rink in Oak Park is on a 50-acre city park site at Oak Park boulevard and Coolidge.

Also under construction on the site is a community center, library, which will be completed this fall and a swimming pool which will be completed next summer.

Oak Park's residents approved a bond issue of $89,000 in April 1935 to cover part of the cost of the entire construction.

Royal Oak's recently completed rink situated at Crooks and Lexington roads is also on a 50-acre city park site which will become a major recreation center in the future, said chairman of Parks and Recreation Arthur Boynton.

Citizens raised $12,000 by porch-night drives and other money making campaigns, which added to the $88,000 taken from Royal Oak's Capital Improvement fund made up the $100,000 cost of the ice rink.

Birmingham's Eton Rink, which opened last in March and starts tomorrow on its first winter season, will see much organized skating and hockey activity as well as individual sport.

Bob Considine Says:

Piney Woods Needs Money for Willie Mae

NEW YORK — INS — This is the 72nd birthday of a remarkable man named Laurence Clifton Jones, founder and principal of the Piney Woods Country Life School of Braxton, Miss.

"Mississippi's Booker T. Washington," as Dr. Jones is called, has dedicated his life to the proposition that the only way for the Negro to improve his social lot is to better his education and his economics.

Half a century ago, Jones, then freshly graduated from the University of Iowa, very nearly lost his life for advocating the very things whose achievement later caused Mississippi's Gov. Hugh White to call him "Mississippi's First Citizen."

Falsely accused of trying to incite an armed Negro rebellion, young Jones was dragged to a clearing and readied to be hanged.

But just before the lynch mob hoisted him over what soon would be an inferno of burning brushwood, one of the lynchers-to-be yelled, "I want to hear him make a speech 'fore we hang him up."

BURST OF APPLAUSE

Twenty minutes later, when Jones concluded, there was a wild burst of applause. A Confederate veteran spoke the mob's formal apology.

A collection was taken up then and there to help him get his school for Negroes started . . . and a man who had been prepared to die a ghastly death walked away $50 richer and unalterably in love with his fellow man.

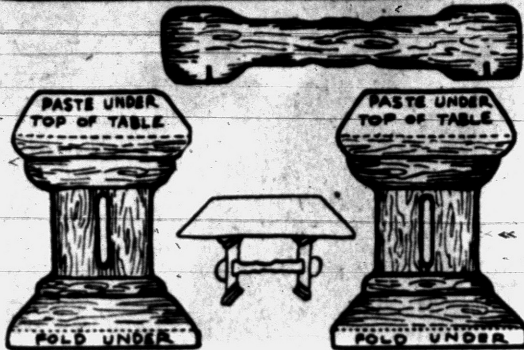

Jones' first three students were three illiterate colored children of poor sharecroppers in one of the state's most plagued areas. His chair and desk was a pine stump. His roof was the sky above him.

The school now houses 500 students in its 26 buildings on 1,700 acres of campus and farmland.

The students range in age from school's Cotton Blossom Singers. No Piney Woods graduate has ever had a police record. Alumni have gone on to practice medicine, teach, run farms and dairies along modern scientific lines, engage in businesses which were taboo to their fathers before them or beyond their mental grasp.

DOLL FURNITURE IN PILGRIM STYLE — 3

A Trestle Table

Homes in Plymouth colony were small, and the life of the family often centered on one big room which served as kitchen, dining room, living room and bedroom all in one.

A big trestle table stood in the middle. Wives used it for mixing and preparing food, the children sat by it to play, and the whole family gathered at it for their simple meals. Here's a table for our doll room.

Color the table brown with your crayons and paste the page down on heavy brown paper. Cut out the parts carefully, and cut the slots on the table legs and the slits in the bar. Fold down the flaps at the top of the table legs. Paste them to the underside of the top at the places indicated by the dotted lines, which represent the nails which would have been used.

Slip the bar into the slots in the legs and secure by pushing the slits down. This will hold the trestle firm.

The sketch shows you how the finished table should look.

(First to suggest this idea was Beverly Olson, Athens, Wis. Perhaps you have an idea for Junior Editors. If so send it in care of this newspaper and it may be worth $10 to you. Violet Moore Higgins; AP Newsfeatures.)

SETS THE EXAMPLE

The good doctor supervises everything. He feels it is his duty to set an example. Like all other members of the community, he is up at 5 in the morning and in bed at 10 each night.

On the road he preaches the gospel of Piney Woods: "Teach boys and girls how to work with their hands so they will be able to make a living, academic subjects to make them articulate and adjusted to American culture, and sane moral and religious training as a substitute for superstition and fear."

"Dr. Jones' school, as does Harvard, needs money to carry on its work. It needs money to take in Willie Mae Bush and all like her who hunger for the larger life."

"Dear Principal," she wrote from a wide place in the road across Arkansas. "Only to ask you a question. This is Willie Mae Bush writing you."

"Now you all give me a chance to ender school on the 22 second or 23. Now Mother and Daddy don't have any money but my mother do all she can to help me. An she teach me how to treat each and every one."

"Cousin C. B. Fox was telling Mother how nice it was over there. Now if Mother don't have no money on the 22 or 23, can I come on. An she pay you all when she can, please do this for me, because these school over hear aint worth nothing."

"An I want to make something out of my self. My mother is poor, we didn't make any thing last year at all. An you no grist how it is, Mother have more than I to send to school, but I am the oldest one. All from Willie Mae Bush."

Hit Show Launches '20s Revival

NEW YORK (INS)—The roaring '20s have returned with a blare of bugle beads, ankle-length skirts and "whoopie" bare-backed dresses.

The fashion revival is due to the new Broadway hit, "Auntie Mame," with Rosalind Russell showing off the best style points of the bathtub gin period.

The clothes Miss Russell wears as "Auntie Mame," designed by Travis Benton and Madame Marusia of California, have been adapted by the designers for general street and evening wear at prices from $155 to $395.

There's one elegant number called "shimmy" that's a direct descendant of the famous fringe dresses of the '20s. It's done in white silk jersey with flamboyant fringe that travels downward from shoulder to hemline like a whacky spiral staircase.

There's also a black dress with a plunging neckline-cut horseshoe shape. It plunges right down to the waist, and is the most popular dress in the "Auntie Mame" group.

Other "Mame" fashions: sumptuous Oriental gold-dragon-embroidered coat over evening pajamas; a suit trimmed tuxedo style in bands of Norwegian fox, and a new color called "Mame Red."

Balanced Diet Will Prevent Acidity

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

In the past we heard a great deal about acidity. Many of the ailments which haunt man, and many different forms of indigestion, were blamed on an "acid condition."

Actually, we could not live if our blood were to become acid. However, if we eat a well-balanced diet, with plenty of fruits, vegetables and milk in it, we need have no worry on this score.

Many folks have misconceptions about which foods leave an acid ash, or residue, in the blood stream. For instance, orange or grapefruit juice may taste acid but it actually contributes to the alkalinity of the body.

The following are some of the acid forming foods: Cereals, meat, fowl, wheat, eggs and shell fish. Cranberries and plums are also acid-forming. However, acidity is not a condition which need cause us alarm if we will eat three well-balanced meals a day.

One group thought that this diluted the digestive juices in a detrimental way.

Another felt that the water helped distribute the digestive juices in the food.

The latest thought on this subject is that it doesn't matter either way. The only reason for curtailing the water intake during meals is because it tends to fill you up and may thus dull your appetite for essential foods.

There always has been a lot of argument about whether or not we should drink water with our meals.

Study Club Hears Talk About Home

"It Takes a Heap of Living to Make a House a Home" was the theme for the luncheon held Tuesday at Devon Gables for members and guests of the Junior Child Study Club.

Dr. Dorothy Perry, supervisor of language education in the Detroit public schools, was introduced by Mrs. Orrin Huntoon Jr.

Dr. Perry said that to everyone the home is a deep-seated need, and for youngsters it means security and love. It may be a palatial dwelling of just one room, if it has love it is a home, she declared.

Dr. Perry reviewed several books that children enjoy, relating to the home theme, and concluded by saying, "A home isn't a place, it is a beautiful idea."

Table decorations were done by Mrs. Leslie Ware, and Mrs. Ross Walls and Mrs. Ted Gibson were in charge of the ticket sale.

It's Proper to Buy Ring for Husband Woman Belatedly Learns His Wish for Wedding Band

By EMILY POST

"We have been married for several years and not until lately had I known that my husband would like to have been given a wedding ring when we had our wedding ceremony. Is it too late now for me to buy this ring for him? If not, then how shall it be engraved at this late date?"

Answer: Certainly buy a ring for him! Have it engraved on the inside with whatever sentiment you would like; or with only initials and date of your wedding.

"Dear Mrs. Post: My parents died many years ago and I have been living at home with an older brother and sister. Both are unmarried. We always got on very well together and I am devoted to both of them.

"I am going to be married in the not too distant future and I would like to know if it would be proper to have the names of both my brother and sister on the invitations."

Answer: Yes, it would be quite proper.

"Dear Mrs. Post: I am a widow and expect to be married soon for the second time. I am buying some new linen but am puzzled as to how it should be marked. I assume the first initial should be that of my given name and the last initial that of my future husband's surname.

"However, I am in doubt as to what middle initial to use. Do I use my own family name or the initial of my first husband's name. I have had different opinions on this and would very much like to know what is correct."

Answer: Correctly you would keep your own family name and give up your first husband's initial.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Christensen of North Roselawn drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Marlene Harmes, to Robert G. McKellips. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl McCaslin of Myrtle avenue. A Jan. 19 wedding is planned.

The dipping hemline is best for the not-so-slender. The puffed harem hemline is not appropriate for the heavy-set figure.

For cocktail and dance dresses the dipping hemline is popular now and being shown for spring. This dipping line seems less formal than the ankle- and full-length gown, which is nice for summer.

And Get the Floor All Wet 'Drip-Dry' Fabrics Present Problems

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Remember when the best news you could hope for on washday was the promise of a fresh breeze and a warm sun to speed the drying?

This weather report is not exactly outmoded, but as more "washables" are added to the year-around family laundry, drying procedures come up for review.

And it isn't only the rapid growth of automatic dryers that has upturned clothes from the line.

One of the worthy aims of proper drying is to reduce the wrinkles and simplify the subsequent ironing. To further this aim, many garments, particularly those made of man-made fibers or blends of natural fibers treated with special finishes, come with the soggy reminder to "drip dry."

We all have different standards as to the amount of wrinkling that is acceptable before we reach for the steam iron. In one study I read recently on the handling of man-made fabrics, less wrinkling results when garments were hand-washed and drip-dried. Almost as good results were obtained in machine washing (and more soil was removed) if the garment was removed before extracting the water.

USE CONTOUR PAD

To drip dry with the fewest wrinkles, clothes should be hung up on hangers and kept completely free of contact with other pieces. The use of adjustable frames, in the case of men's trousers, tends to speed up the drying and to keep the crease sharp.

To avoid ridging from hangers along the shoulder seams of coats, try sticking a contour shoulder pad between hanger and suit.

Dresses to be drip-dried will come out more smoothly, according to another report, if hung on padded hangers, zippers closed and buttons buttoned.

The "where" of drip drying can be a problem. In moderate weather, a line strung in a quiet, shady place works the best for me. (Hangers have to be pinned or secured to the line so they won't slip off.)

THE BEST TEACHER

If a utility room or basement is to be the drying room, an investment in a shallow pan to catch the drips protects the floor. A bathtub or shower stall is a logical spot to use, if you can rig up a line or bar to support the hanger.

Experience is the best teacher as to the effectiveness of drip drying some blends and special-finished fabrics. I have blended fiber shirts in my weekly laundry that require about the same amount of ironing whether they're drip-dried, line-dried or tumble-dried.

I also have boys' suits and Bermuda shorts that can take the full machine cycle, tumble dry and scarcely show a wrinkle.

One major manufacturer of crease-resistant cottons has found that normal washing and drying up on hangers and kept completely free of contact with other pieces. The use of adjustable frames, in the case of men's trousers, tends to speed up the

and no final spin, it's a help to wash as many together as possible.

That way, you don't have to fish through the rinse water to rescue one dress from the other laundry. I don't, however, wash white clothing of man-made fibers with colored clothing.

And, if I have only one or two small drip-dries in the laundry, I pretreat the soiled areas and stains with extra care.

I then put them into a mesh bag before adding to the general laundry load, which makes them easier to pull out of the water before the spin cycle.

MR. and MRS. GERALD HUBBARD

Joanne M. Mize Speaks Vows in Double-Ring Rite

Joanne M. Mize and Gerald D. Hubbard were married Saturday at First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. William H. Marbach, assisted by the Rev. E. D. Auchard, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Joanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Mize of Menominee road and Gerald's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Hubbard of Lochaven road.

For the service attended by 150 guests Joanne chose a floor-length gown of French lace and tulle with a Peter Pan collar and long, fitted sleeves. The skirt was fashioned with a peplum of lace with the tulle extending into a chapel train.

Her headpiece, a tiara trimmed with seed pearls, secured a fingertip length veil of French illusion.

White roses, carnations and stephanotis composed the bridal bouquet, and Joanne also carried a handmade handkerchief which was carried by her grandmother at her wedding 50 years ago.

GOWNED IN GREEN

Norma Harland of Brazil, Ind., wore a ballerina-length gown of seafoam green taffeta with emerald green velvet trim with a matching headpiece. She carried a cascade arrangement of bronze fugi chrysanthemums. Bridesmaids Nancy Mize and Marcia Peters wore dresses identical to the honor maid's and carried bouquets of yellow fugi chrysanthemums.

Best man was Kenneth Spencer, Reginald Shaw and Robert Bradshaw of Carbon, Ind., were ushers.

The reception was held in the church parlors immediately after the ceremony. Mrs. Mize chose a smoke blue taffeta dress with a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Hubbard chose a navy crepe dress and also wore a corsage of pink carnations.

When the newlyweds left on their wedding trip the bride had changed to a green silk brocade dress with black accessories. Her flowers were white roses. A pearl and rhinestone necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, completed her costume.

The Hubbards will make their home on Menominee road.

To an orion slipover or cardigan, add a little fur-like collar in one of the cotton pile fabrics. Whole thing is dressy and washable, too. Collars come in white and fur colors.

BALDNESS
It is commonly believed that women don't become bald. . . this is about 99% true. It is seldom that you see a woman who is actually balded but there are those with hair so thin in spots that it presents a problem. This is a serious problem for the woman who has it, but there are a few things the hair stylist can do about it. The part can often be changed or a new style may be designed to hide the difficulty. Bangs are often effective as a camouflage. Lightening the hair makes it look heavier (cuts down contrast between scalp and hair). Of course a good permanent gives body and the bulk it needs. If you have such a problem please let us help you.

You Can't Lose! Pot-O-Gold Is Fun, $$ or Both

$700 isn't to be scoffed at, and here's an easy way to come by that tidy sum. All you have to do is read the rules, study the clues and come up with the correct solution. This week's puzzle will be worth $700 plus $25 for a subscriber if no winner is found for Puzzle No. 24. Even with a winner for last week it's worth $100, and it's fun besides. How can you go wrong?

The puzzle consists of (1) a number of circles which contain a few scrambled letters, and (2) a corresponding list of clues to these words printed below. The object is to arrange each group of circled letters into a word that best fits the clue. The word which you select for Circle No. 1, then would be the one which you would print in the space to the right of (1) below.

You'll notice that some circles contain $ signs in pairs of gold. You may use such a symbol as any letter you wish. However, it and all letters in this circle must be used. The $ sign, of course, can represent ANY letter in the word.

Do the same in all the other circles. Study the clues carefully and arrange all the letters into words that you believe best conform to these clues. Use your $ signs to help you spell out the right words.

Hollywood Headlines

'Witness for Prosecution' Will Star Tyrone Power

By DOUELLA O. PARSONS
HOLLYWOOD (INS) — When I was told that Tyrone Power was signed by Arthur Hornblow Jr. to head the cast of "Witness for the Prosecution" I said, "Oh, I printed that."

The truth of the matter is that I had discussed the Agatha Christie play with Ty in London when he said he was considering making it, but nothing definite was decided until a few days ago when Arthur and Ed Small made a deal with Copy Productions (the Power-Richmond independent organization) to film the popular melodrama.

Billy Wilder, the director, will film most of the picture in Hollywood, although camera crews have been shooting interiors and exteriors in and around London for the past few weeks.

One of the most generous and nicest gestures I've heard of in a long time is Joseph Schenck's endowment to the UCLA Medical School for research.

The Board of Regents will receive word today that Mr. Schenck will grant scholarships to deserving young scientists and doctors who want to do special research.

JAPANESE VISITORS

My morning started very pleasantly with a visit from four beautiful Japanese girls, all airline stewardesses who worked in "Teahouse of the August Moon."

The girls, Kikuko Sasaki, Tamie Kawamoto, Fumiko Shiba and Seiko Fukasawa, carried a huge box all the way from Tokyo for me, and in it was a beautiful Japanese doll. She was already named Lotus Flower.

The Japanese beauties were a picture in their native costumes in pastel shades. They made an appearance at the premiere of "Teahouse of the August Moon" and they'll visit the key cities where the picture opens.

My house was their first stop and was the first American home they'd ever seen.

I have fallen hard for Bruce Morgan, baby son of Yvonne De Carol and Bob Morgan. Yvonne and Bob's bright little Bruce stopped by my house to pay me a visit.

Today is the first wedding anniversary of the Morgans and they will celebrate by going to the premiere of "Death of a Scoundrel" in which both Yvonne and Bob appear. I offered to babysit for them anytime. The baby never cried once all during their visit.

Yvonne and Bob have just bought a ranch and already have five horses which they ride in their leisure time.

OUT OF DANGER

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Mrs. Hal Wallis (Louise Fazenda) is out of danger following major surgery.

Fifty bound volumes of clippings and other memorabilia from 1916 to 1936 have been donated by Richard Barthelmess to the Academy Library.

All the ambitious young actresses in Hollywood were eager to meet Susan Strasberg at the cocktail party William Dozier gave honoring her and Henry Fonda.

Ann Blyth tested for Helen Morgan, and Roberta Linn told me at the Larry Finley show that she made her test last week.

Spike Jones, Jerry Grey and Sarah Vaughan also on hand to applaud Larry. Spike has a new album with 36 songs—all in one book yet.

Call Roy Rogers' horse Trigger "Bluebird" now. The 7-year-old Camp Fire Girls at Campbell Hall School inducted him into their organization as their mascot.

At Public Expense, if Needed

Glasses and Hearing Aids, Dentures Urged for Aged

LANSING (U) — A study commission had recommended to Gov. Williams that hard-up old folks who need them be given eye glasses, hearing aids and dentures at public expense.

The recommendation was one of a long list submitted to the governor by his public health study commission during a three-hour session in Williams' office Tuesday.

The commission recommended continuation and expansion of the polio immunization and water fluoridation programs, stimulation of training of more doctors, nurses, dentists and psychiatrists and better and more frequent inspection of nursing homes.

It called for establishment of two new child guidance clinics in the state, increased personnel for existing clinics and encouragement of chronic disease units as integral parts of the teaching hospitals of the two Michigan medical schools.

The commission also urged encouragement of construction of chronic disease wings at general hospitals with federal aid funds supplied under the Hill-Burton act. Williams went over these and other recommendations with the group, one by one, and suggested the commission meet again to refine some of them.

The group is headed by J. J. Cohen, professor of social work at the University of Michigan. Its immediate purpose is to help Williams formulate his 1957 legislative program.

Pointing to "gaps" in the present welfare medical assistance program, the commission said the lives of many older persons are blighted "because they cannot see, hear, chew their food properly or walk about" in comfort.

"Many of these difficulties could be solved if they were provided with proper glasses, hearing aids, expensive medications,

A Strong Heart and Red Heart— a Good Heart

BOSTON (U) — Dog of the Year — selected by the National Society of Medical Research — is a black and white mongrel with a plastic patch on his heart.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, President Eisenhower's heart consultant, yesterday placed a silver collar on the 44-pound mutt, named Airplane, at the Children's Medical Center.

He was aided by 4-year-old Joanne McLaughlin, who only a week ago underwent a heart operation made possible by surgical research on Airplane's heart.

Doctors said a new surgical technique for repairing small holes between the left and right ventricles of the heart was developed by experiments on the dog's heart.

A defect was artificially created in Airplane's heart two years ago and then corrected surgically with a plastic patch.

The new operation technique was developed by Dr. Robert E. Gross, professor of surgery at Harvard Medical School, and a Harvard Medical School student, Judah Folkman, of Cincinnati.

The dog's heart and that of young Joanne were both declared to be in good shape now.

Silence?—Talking Golden

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (U) — Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin has a brand-new gold-plated telephone in his office, a gift from the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. on his 56th birthday. It was presented to him at a party. He was told the phone was the one-millionth to be installed in Maryland. The first was installed in Baltimore in 1878.

Armed Workers Guarded Prague

VIENNA (U) — The Communist rulers of Czechoslovakia mobilized armed workers to help guard the capital, Prague, at the height of the anti-Soviet revolution in neighboring Hungary.

This was disclosed by Mlada Fronta, newspaper of the Czechoslovak Communist Youth League, in an edition received here today. Unofficial reports said the Czechs also, under Russian instructions, rushed reinforcements to their borders.

Another Czechoslovak newspaper, Pravda of Bratislava, warned Czechoslovak youth "not to be seduced by the West, as have the youth of Poznan and Hungary." It said "reactionary demonstrations" would be crushed.

Prisoners Claim Cash, Get Damage Suit

RENO, Nev. (U) — In District Attorney A. D. Jensen's mind, six prisoners who broke out of the Washoe County Jail Oct. 28 went a little far trying to get ahead of the law.

Captured and held for Federal action at Sacramento, Calif., the six wrote asking return of $199 they had left behind in the jail.

The request prompted Jensen to file a small claims damage suit for the hole the escaping prisoners cut in the wall.

The amount of damage: $199.

ARTHRITIS or Rheumatism?
TRY O-JIB-WA BITTERS

"THIS WONDERFUL HERB MEDICINE BEGAN TO HELP ME IN JUST A FEW DAYS," SAYS MR. LAWRENCE SIMONS, 128 E. CEDAR ST., KALAMAZOO.

"My sister in law suffered many years with arthritis. After many different kinds of treatments, she found O-JIB-WA BITTERS to be the only thing to help her; in fact, it helped her so much that she gladly recommended it to me, as I too had suffered with arthritis for a long time. It started in my right knee and spread to my hips. At first I didn't know what it was, but they diagnosed it as arthritis. It was very painful when I walked, and especially bad getting upstairs. After seeing how O-JIB-WA BITTERS helped her, I was glad to give it a trial. In just a few days, the pains and stiffness started to leave and I could get around fine again, and actually felt better all over. After seeing first hand how much it can help a person, I can't say enough for this wonderful medicine. I believe O-JIB-WA BITTERS will help anyone suffering with rheumatism or arthritis if they give it a chance."

Nationalism Perils Soviet Position

Will Tito, Kremlin Slug It Out?

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

There seems to be more than a slight chance that Tito and the Kremlin may shortly engage in an all-out slugfest. It could make the last one, under Stalin, look like a Sunday School picnic.

It's certain that neither Tito nor the Soviet Communist leaders in Moscow, even the most Stalinist among them, prefer this to happen.

But the logic of history is usually stronger than personal preferences. And the logic of history in the Tito-Moscow case is that Tito's national communism in Yugoslavia is a challenge to Soviet power so long as the Kremlin insists on dominating even one state in Eastern Europe.

Tito understands this. Speaking of how, after the Poznan bread riots in June he noted a coolness among Soviet leaders, he said last week:

"They thought we Yugoslavs were responsible. Yes, we are responsible because we live in this world, because we are what we are."

Tito has reasons for wanting to avoid a renewal of strife with the Soviet Union. Among the most important are the economic reasons—some 600 million dollars worth of subsidies, grants, reparations and credits granted by Soviet bloc countries to Yugoslavia to save the rapprochement.

The Soviet leaders have as great an interest in political peace with Yugoslavia. They took a licking in that warfare once and could make themselves look silly by starting it up again.

So far the beginnings of the new split between Belgrade and Moscow have not gone very far.

Tito in his speech at Pula Nov. 11 was caustic about the actions of the Soviet Union in Hungary and strongly attacked the Stalinist element in the Soviet Union and outside. But he did excuse the second Soviet intervention in the Hungarian revolution, arguing that while an "error" it was necessary in order to prevent counterrevolution.

Pravda's reply on Nov. 19 was sharp. It claimed Tito was interfering in the internal affairs of other Socialist states. It objected to his thesis that the Stalin cult—as the personality cult—was a normal product of the Soviet system rather than an aberration of it. It objected to Tito's division of Communists into categories of Stalinist and anti-Stalinist.

Despite its forceful rejection of Tito's concepts, the Pravda article was within a framework of Communist self-criticism. It stressed Tito's support for the Kadar government in Hungary. It did not indulge in a diatribe against the Yugoslav Communists.

In other words it left the door open, as had Tito, for a reconciliation of views, even on a basis of an agreement to disagree.

The real possibilities for a widening of the Soviet-Yugoslav split lie, however, not so much in ideology as in concrete political situations; in particular, the question of continued Soviet rule over states neighboring on Yugoslavia.

including Hungary, Bulgaria and particularly Albania.

The recent exchange showed that Tito has strong objections to Soviet imperialism in Albania. And this could turn out to be a real bone of contention.

Back by Yuletide, Says Korean Vet Who Defected

URANIA, La. (U)—Aaron Wilson, who decided not to come home after his capture in Korea nearly six years ago, now hopes to be back by Christmas.

Mrs. Henry Wilson said yesterday her 24-year-old son had written that he had applied for permission to come back and was being aided by the Chinese Red Cross.

"I will be with you all for Christmas," the onetime corporal with the 7th Infantry Division said in his first letter home in eight months.

Wilson was captured Nov. 28, 1950, near the Changjin Reservoir. He refused repatriation after the war ended.

He gave no reason for coming home. Previous letters indicated he was homesick.

Didn't See Car—Has Witness to Prove It

OKLAHOMA CITY (U)—"I just didn't see that other car coming," the defendant explained to City Traffic Judge James Demopolos. The speaker was charged with failure to yield the right of way from a stop sign.

To prove his point, the defendant declared, "I've brought along a witness."

"He's right, Judge," said the witness, a pedestrian standing at the intersection when the two cars

hit. "I didn't see that other car coming either."

Pontiac Adopts New Ordinance

Classification Changes Would Rezone Districts for 'Personal Service'

An ordinance was adopted by the City Commission last night establishing "personal service district" zoning classifications as the ninth type zone possible in Pontiac. The ordinance placed the first of these districts in 40 lots in the Franklin boulevard area.

The new zones will permit professional offices for doctors, dentists, lawyers, realtors, architects, insurance firms, among others. Frank H. Marsh, chairman of the City Planning Commission, led this proposal to approval by the plan group. It later received the backing of the City Commission.

The classification falls between Residential 3 and Commercial 1 in the zoning scale.

Lots which will first become rezoned when the ordinance becomes effective in 10 days, are on the east side of Franklin boulevard from Pike to Orchard Lake, the west side of Franklin from Orchard Lake to Huron, and on the south side of Huron from Franklin to Palmer.

Homes for not more than three families will be permissible under the new law.

Clubs, lodges, social and community centers will be allowed also.

Yugoslav Denies Movement of Troops

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (U-P) — A Yugoslav official says precautionary measures of a small nature were taken along the Yugoslav-Hungarian frontier at the outbreak of the Hungarian revolution. He made the comment as officials denied there was any movement of Yugoslav troops now toward the frontier.

Border guards at Subotica at the frontier said calm prevailed in that area. They were commenting on a report that fighting had broken out in Hungary only 19 miles from Subotica.

As Far(ce) as It Goes strains of rock 'n' roll would doom jazz to the musical graveyard, they low-rated the vitality of the Dixieland school of horn tooters and their robust disciples.

By the sacred horn of the legendary Bix Beiderbecke — "He just put that horn to his lips, man, and blew himself straight up to heaven" — jazz is entering a new golden age.

Just 30 years ago jazz was regarded as the juvenile delinquent of the musical world. Today it is the darling of the intellectuals; it is accepted as an art form; it is taught in colleges.

A jazz band led by Dizzy Gillespie even went abroad, with the blessing of the U. S. State Department, to toot for the American way of life.

Jazz is doing well, too, in the realm of the big dollar. Its practitioners are in top demand. Old jazz records are high-priced collector items, and some 85 companies turn out a total of more than 1,000 new platters each year.

A leading historian of the field, Leonard Feather, has just compiled "The Encyclopedia Yearbook of Jazz," which is a fine prose pudding full of rich plums for fans who like to argue the merits of Count Basie versus Duke Ellington.

Personally, like many other tone-deaf musical illiterates, I thought that rock 'n' roll music was a form of jazz—a sort of retarded stepchild.

While admitting there is a fringe area where it is hard to draw a line between the two, Feather prefers to point out that the best jazz is closer to classical music.

"Rock 'n' roll bears the same relationship to jazz that wrestling bears to boxing," he said.

"Rock 'n' roll not only is very rarely jazz; it is very rarely music. Its present popularity is a passing fad about which the parents of America need hardly concern themselves."

Rock 'n' roll seems to have a firm grip on millions of high school students. Who, then, are America's jazz fans? Surprisingly, only a few are oldtimers nostalgic for the roaring 20s and the threedeade 30s.

A poll by Feather showed that about half were of college age; only 6.4 per cent were over 30.

Two-thirds of the fans reported they spent from 5 to 20 hours a week listening to jazz music, although one woman reported "I try to listen for at least 112 hours a week," and another said she devoted 84 hours a week to jazz and 30 to classical music.

Nearly half said they spent from $2 to $5 a week on jazz records, but one fan said his weekly outlay was $25 to $30.

The most cheering note in the whole poll to purist Feather was this: 78.6 per cent of the jazz fans expressed a violent dislike for rock 'n' roll.

"Beyond any doubt," he said, "the rhythm-and-blues — or rock 'n' roll — fan and the jazz fan are two different species, scarcely ever overlapping."

As one sfald collegiate jazz scholar put it:

"I wouldn't be caught dead at a rock 'n' roll concert unless I was doing research for a paper on mass hysteria."

France Feels Oil Pinch, Europe's Fuel Dwindles

PARIS (INS) — A threatened oil famine is forcing France to plan drastic restrictions to conserve her dwindling petroleum supplies.

The fuel crisis, caused by the blocking of the Suez Canal, was expected to have grave repercussions on the entire French economy, hampering all branches of industry which require oil to operate.

Already, French industry has begun to feel the pinch and many commercial enterprises may be forced to cut production.

Today, France has only a four months' supply of crude oil at the normal rate of consumption.

The French government has threatened heavy fines on car owners who violate the rules set down by authorities for driving outside certain prescribed limits. Weekend pleasure driving has been stopped. The next step may be actual gas rationing by coupons.

PARIS CHILLED

In houses and apartments heated by oil, the shortage will mean a cold winter for tenants. In some Paris apartments central heating has been dropped three degrees centigrade. In others, heat is only provided for a few hours a day.

Another significant economic factor in France is the loss of income from gasoline taxes, which provide each year 400 billion francs (about $11,428,568) for the state coffers. A 20 per cent loss in gas consumption, will mean 100 billion francs ($2,857,142) less for the already shaky French budget.

Last year, France used nearly four and a quarter million tons of gasoline, and without the gas restrictions, this figure would have jumped to close to five million this year.

Other European nations also are pulling in their belts.

Sweden has put in sharp gasoline rationing to cut the normal national consumption by about half. Sunday driving has been prohibited. Home heating fuel supplies have been severely cut also.

Germany has perhaps the lowest oil stocks of any country in Europe—less than a month's backlog. Yet, Germany counts on American supplies for it has the financial means to pay American oil bills in dollars.

Holland, like other European

Big George Mikan donned his size 17 basketball shoes yesterday for the 5th time in six days.

No, George isn't making a second comeback with the team he made famous, the Minneapolis Lakers, but he was in Birmingham on one of basketball clinic stops for a rubber company.

At Birmingham High he gave several hundred youngsters some of the finer tips on the various shots in basketball.

"It does get monotonous repeating the same things in a different city every day," said Mikan. He was scheduled to make an appearance at another clinic in Detroit last night.

"It's not so bad when there is a question and answer session, but sometimes no one asks a question and I just keep talking till I run out of words."

Mikan had an unusual career which led to his honor as the "greatest basketball player in the first half century."

He was told he was too clumsy to play high school ball, and he was even discouraged at his attempt to enter Notre Dame.

"They told me to forget about playing ball and concentrate on my studies," he said.

So, he entered DePaul University in Chicago and when coach Ray Meyer saw his 6-7 frame he wished him out onto the basketball court.

He played his first competitive basketball game as a college sophomore and before he left DePaul he was 6-8, an All-America and the school's greatest player.

His first pro assignment came with the Chicago Gears and George always has some interesting stories from that team.

"We had a great team that year, that was 1946," he said.

That was the year the Gears walked away with the pro championship and the triple terrors of basketball were known as "Mr. Outside," "Mr. Inside" and "Mr. In-Between."

"Bobby McDermott, who was one of the smallest players ever in the pro ranks was Mr. Outside," said George, "he was the deadliest set shot artist I had ever known."

"They called me Mr. Inside and I was already 6 feet nine then, and Mr. In-Between was Bob Calihan, who was only 6-3 but he had the best hook shot in basketball," George added.

"We were together for only one year, because when the team folded I went to Minneapolis and Calihan went to Detroit where he later took over as basketball coach at the University of Detroit," he continued.

Every time Mikan pulls into the Detroit area he manages to stop in at the U. of D. to see Calihan. "We talk over all kinds of plays and stuff, and sometimes it gets embarrassing when someone asks me to show them the hook shot, with Calihan who was the best hook shooter in the game standing nearby."

Mikan, who has a master's degree in law, ran for the congressional seat in Minnesota a few weeks ago, but was beaten by a narrow margin of 4,500 votes.

"I was very happy with the results considering that the party ticket I was on took pretty bad beating in the state," he said.

After the clinic "Mr. Basketball" rubbed his 17's and finished, "Well I hope these kids got something out of this—and maybe they'll try our shoes."

Munn-Daugherty Break Denied

Fallout at MSU Rumored

EAST LANSING, (AP)—Has there been a falling out between two old buddies, athletic director Biggie Munn and football coach Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State?

There have been rumors to that effect. But those who know them best say it doesn't seem likely.

Now that doesn't mean the pair haven't thrashed out honest differences. Both are positive characters.

But they've been closely associated for just one year short of 20 years now. A couple of men in the same business get to know each other pretty well during that time.

So the reports of any break are being discounted. "I was surprised as anybody to hear reports," said Munn when queried about rumors. "Way off base!" commented Daugherty.

At Minneapolis last week, Daugherty was speaker on a program where Munn was given a chamber of commerce award as an outstanding sports figure from Minnesota.

"I don't think anyone who heard me express my feeling about Biggie on the program would believe we are on anything but the best of terms," Daugherty said.

Munn and Daugherty first came together when Munn was line coach at Syracuse in 1937, and Daugherty was a sophomore guard.

Daugherty later became an assistant to Munn at Syracuse and followed him to Michigan State in 1947. When Munn moved up to athletic director in 1954, Daugherty was hand-picked as his successor.

Biggie stuck by his boy in Daugherty's 1st season, a 3-6 effort. The wolves weren't howling loud, but there was some whispering of unhappiness.

Daugherty hit the jackpot with an 8-1 season and the Rose Bowl last year. This year, State is almost certain to have a 7-2 season. Coming back on the team plane.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rick Casares of the Chicago Bears is gaining ground at almost a record breaking pace in the National Football League.

The latest NFL statistics disclose that Casares is averaging half a yard less than did Philadelphia's Steve Van Buren in 1949, when the latter set the seasonal record for ground gaining of 1,146.

Casares has totaled 761 yards in eight games, an average of slightly better than 95 yards a game. Van Buren averaged 95.5 yards in his record year. Hugh McElhenny of the San Francisco 49ers is runnerup to Casares in the ground department with 627 yards, followed by Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cards with 589.

In the passing department Casares' teammate, Eddie Brown, holds away for the sixth straight week. Brown has the sensational completion percentage of 64.2 connecting of 70 of 109 passes for 1,278 yards, an 11.19 average and 9 touchdowns. Runner up is Los Angeles' Bill Wade with a 53.1 percentage of completion on 77 of 145 for 1,253 yards, an 8.6 average and 9 TDs. George Shaw of Baltimore ranks third, 60 per cent, 594 yards, an 8.4 average and 7 TDs.

Green Bay's Billy Howton leads the pass receivers with 35 caught for 926 yards and 10 TDs.

SUSPENDED—Chicago Cardinal quarterback Lamar McHan found his pro salary would be $3,000 shorter after the fine and indefinite suspension placed on him by the Cardinals for "insubordination."

Turkey Day Foe

Toronto Next for Wings

DETROIT (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, who celebrated Canadian Thanksgiving over a month ago, will meet the Detroit Red Wings in a traditional hockey game at Olympia Stadium Thursday night.

The playing of a home hockey game at Olympia on Thanksgiving goes back almost to the inception of the Stadium.

Toronto's visit to Detroit will be their third of the season, and their second within eight days. Thus far the clubs have clashed four times, with the Redshirts showing three victories and a tie in the four games.

Ability to drive strongly in the final period has paid off for the Wings in their games against the Leafs. The Wings tallied three in the final session last Thursday to break a 2-2 tie and skate off with a 4-2 triumph. Earlier in the season Toronto had bagged a pair of quick, early final period goals to take a 3-2 lead, only to see Gordie Howe create a final deadlock at 19:30 of the last stanza.

In addition to winning and tying at Detroit, the Wings have scored two victories on Maple Leaf Garden ice. In one Ted Lindsay scored at 19:02 of the second period to snap a one-all tie. The Wings then added a pair of insurance goals in the final period.

The other meeting saw Toronto score the important goal of the game, to them, as the buzzer sounded.

This was the famous disallowed goal and protested game which went to Detroit 2-1 when Referee Frank Udvari ruled that the Toronto goal had been scored after the end of the period.

McHan Assessed $3,000 by Chicago Grid Team for Insubordination

CHICAGO (AP)—Lamar McHan, the Chicago Cardinals' quarterback who was suspended and fined $3,000 for saying he "didn't feel like playing" last Sunday, wants another chance.

McHan, 22, yesterday was suspended for the season and assessed the highest fine in National Football League history. The move followed McHan's refusal to work out with the team yesterday.

The action resulted from last Sunday's game against the Pittsburgh Steelers, which the Cardinals lost, 14-7. Managing Director Walter Wolfner said "He (McHan) couldn't play for us again even if there weren't anybody else left."

Wolfner, however, changed his stand after McHan consulted with Coach Ray Richards who returned to Chicago yesterday after being in a Pittsburgh hospital with a gall bladder ailment.

"They played a great game," Biggie said of the Spartans. "One of the best this season."

This isn't to say that Daugherty will never leave Michigan State to coach elsewhere. Just as every assistant coach wants to be head coach, every coach has the idea of moving up to athletic director. Munn made the move when he was 45 and is set for another 20 years. Daugherty is 41 now. Perhaps a well-priced package deal, football-coach now-athletic-director later, might attract him.

But even that still appears to be in the future.

Lions Seek No. 8 Win Against Packers

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's revitalized Lions, cured of the basement blues by seven National Football League triumphs, and a stumbling Green Bay Packers club collide here tomorrow in their annual Thanksgiving Day football meeting.

The nationally televised mid-day struggle finds the Lions, Western Division cellar-dwellers a year ago with a 3-9 record, going for victory No. 8 against a single loss. The Packers are on a four-game losing binge and have won only twice against six setbacks.

The turkey day classic, a fixture on the Lions' schedule since the team first was organized in Detroit in 1934, is a vital one to the resurgent Detroiters. The Lions will have only three NFL clashes remaining, two of them with the Chicago Bears, co-leaders with Detroit in the division.

"We'll worry about the Bear games when it comes time," said coach Buddy Parker. Parker said he doesn't think his club will be looking beyond Thursday's game. "We've never had that trouble before," he added.

"Anyway, there's no reason for us to take Green Bay lightly," he continued.

Detroit has won 13 of the last 14 encounters between the two clubs and took the season's opener in Green Bay 20-16. Four of the seven Lion victories have been by margins of four points or less.

"We may not run over anybody," said Parker, "but we've got a defense that isn't going to be run over either."

The Detroit club ranks second in total offense although it has not been an explosive, high-scoring outfit. Parker lists three reasons for the team's turnaround: a re-arranged defense, added running power from Howard Cassady, Don McIlhenny and converted end Leon Hart, and Bobby Layne's improved passing.

"We had some injuries, a few weaknesses and some complacity last year," said Parker. "But we probably were the best last place team in the history of the league."

A victory tomorrow will put the Lions in temporary possession of undisputed first place and leave the pressure on the Bears who face the rugged New York Giants Sunday.

110,000 to Watch Olympics

MELBOURNE (U) — The Duke of Edinburgh opens the 16th Olympic games tomorrow before a sell-out 110,000 and there was hope Melbourne's nasty spring weather would turn to warm sunshine.

The dissension that has plagued the games from the start seems to have melted away amid final preparations for the stately ceremony.

More than 4,000 athletes from 68 nations will compete in 16 sports between now and Dec. 8. Major honors are expected to go to the United States and Russia, with Australia and Hungary vying for third place in the unofficial point standings.

For the past seven years, the Melbourne games have been the center of controversy. At the start they were a political football and preparations went so slowly Avery Brundage, International Olympic committee president, threatened to move the games to another country. Then, in recent weeks, the troubled situation in the Middle East and Hungary brought the withdrawal of seven nations.

But to the throngs on the gaily decorated streets of Melbourne all this was forgotten today.

The ceremonies, which follow rigid protocol, begin at 3 p.m. Australian time tomorrow when the Duke of Edinburgh enters the great oval of the Melbourne cricket club and service bands play the national anthem.

Then comes the march of athletes in their uniforms of many colors — with team officials.

As thousands of pigeons are released, the Duke reads the simple words that start this great sports festival:

"I declare open the Olympic games of Melbourne celebrating the 16th Olympiad of the modern era."

He traveled 13,000 miles from London to speak the 16 words.

Then comes the dramatic arrival of the Olympic torch that was kindled at old olympic in Greece and brought by plane to Australia. From Darwin to Melbourne it was carried by 2,830 athletes, each running one mile. Who will have the honor of bringing it to the stadium and setting afire the big bronze torch has not — following tradition — been announced. The torch will burn day and night until the games are over.

Full scale competition starts Friday in track and field, fencing, the modern pentathlon, rowing, field hockey, soccer, weightlifting, and boxing.

The United States has a chance to win one of the first gold medals of the games in the men's high jump in which Charles Dumas, first man ever to leap 7 feet, is favored. Russia's Vladimir Kuts is favored in the 10,000 meters (6 miles 73 yards) but the field is a fast one.

Russia's Nina Ponomareva, center of the recent sensational shopping episode in London, is favored in Friday's other final event, the women's discus.

Writers Name Newcombe 'Most Valuable' for NL

NEW YORK (U) — Pitcher Don Newcombe, whose 27 victories made him the biggest Brooklyn winner in 32 years, was voted today the most valuable player in the National League for 1956 by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The big right-hander edged out his mound mate, Sal Maglie, by 40 points in one of the most spirited MVP races in recent years. Seven players received first place nominations from the 24 voting writers and five accumulated more than 100 points. Not since Hank Sauer nosed out Robin Roberts and Joe Black in a three-way battle for the 1952 award has there been such a close race.

Newcombe, 30, who lost seven games all season and but two of his last 20 decisions, topped the list with 223 points. His sub-par World Series performance — he was knocked out of the box in both starts — did not figure in the balloting.

Maglie, who won 13 games including a no-hitter, while losing five after joining the Dodgers in mid-May, was second with 183 points. Then came Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, 146, and Warren Spahn, 126. Junior Gilliam, another Dodger, rounded out the first five with 103 points.

Brooklyn players dominated the first place votes. Big Newk, the only man whose name appeared on all the ballots, received eight. Maglie and Gilliam got four each. Roy McMillan, Cincinnati's shortstop who wound up a sixth with 96 points, and Pee Wee Reese, the

Pappy Says There Was
No Pressure Back of Resignation

BERKELEY, Calif. (U) — Lynn O. (Pappy) Waldorf, 54, dean of Pacific Coast Conference football coaches, announced his resignation to his California squad last night, emphasizing "it was my own idea."

Waldorf, head man at California since 1947, said there was "no pressure on me to quit and this was merely the step I've contemplated for quite a while."

He announced the resignation before Cal's big game against Stanford Saturday "to avoid speculation about my future and to prevent pressure on the university."

Waldorf, whose three-year contract expires July 1, has been under fire by alumni groups two years. His salary has been estimated at $15,000 a year.

insured Auto Club members
IN OCTOBER

That part of the premium not used in carrying on the business and protecting the policyholder is returned by this Exchange to the Auto Club member at expiration of his yearly policy. This past month of October, 1956, a sum of $327,826 was so paid to the members in cash. In the ten months of 1956, $4,109,793 was so returned as savings on expiring policies. Seems too good to be true—but it's TRUE!

IT PAYS TO BELONG!

MOVES TO TOP — Title of leader in the two divisions of The Pontiac Press deer contest now under way, rests lightly on the incumbent. It changes quickly as witness the fact that Emmett Gaffney's 205-pounder now is out, and a rugged 207-pound, 10-point moves up. Rogers H. Davis, GMC worker, (484 Fourth, Pontiac), shot the husky buck opening day at Curtis (UP). His dad, Edgar H., brother Donald and mother were in the hunting party. Rogers got the only deer.

Monday at Birmingham

Wings on Puck Program

Detroit Red Wing stars Ted Lindsay and Marty Pavelich will be the guest speakers at a formation meeting of Birmingham's three new hockey leagues to be held Monday at 7 at the Elton Park Ice Rink. All those taking part in the program are boys who have signed up for one of the three leagues which will consist of four teams each.

The Wing skaters will talk on their team and the National Hockey League and sign autographs on six-inch cardboard pucks to be given all boys attending.

Unlimited registration is being conducted throughout Birmingham for the leagues. The leagues will consist of a junior group made up of players 13 and 14, an Intermediate League for boys 15 through 18, and senior teams for boys over 18.

Boys from nine to 12 years of age will be provided a hockey clinic with various experienced instructors teaching the fundamentals and procedures of the game.

The Monday program will be under the direction of Birmingham Recreation Director Robert Girardin. He has announced current plans call for league games to be played from 7 to 10 a.m. Saturdays, 7 to 9 a.m. Sundays, and on Mondays from 4 to 6 p.m.

The Elton Rink will open for skating Thanksgiving night at 8.

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (INS)—What does a nine-year-old boy do when he wants a real cowboy suit? He asks Santa to bring him one from Texas, naturally.

Such a request was sent to Chief Deputy Sheriff Mike Fitzsimmons of Texas City, Texas, by James Lavery, who lives in Ballycastle, County Antrim, in Northern Ireland.

James, who describes himself in his letter to Santa as "nearly nine years old," said he would like a real cowboy suit but "there's no real ones in this country, only in America, so I thought you could bring me one from Texas."

The Irish lad added he would like a "weeny one for his three-year-old brother, Robert, and dolls for his sisters, Thelma, 4, and Sharon, 5.

And just so Santa would put the right suit in the right room, James added:

"I will be sleeping in the room across the landing."

Grain Prices Push Upward

CHICAGO (U)—Grains pushed up against quite a bit of opposition on the board of trade today, making for an active as well as higher market.

Exports demand both current and potential, provided much of the buying impetus. Traders also noted slow movement of grains from the country to terminal markets.

A belief the dock strike would be settled before many days was another price sustaining factor, particularly in fats and oils. Lard again was very strong and soybean oil gained.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was 1/4 to 1/2 higher, December 2.39 1/2, corn 1/4 to 1/2 higher, December 1.38 1/2, oats 1/4 to 1/2 higher, December 79 1/2, rye 1/4 to 1/2 higher, December 1.49 1/2, soybeans 1/4 to 1/2 higher, January 22 1/2, and lard 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $14.70.

Air Search Suspended; Little Hope for 2 Marines

Mt. Clemens, Mich. (INS) — The Air Force and Civil Air Patrol today had suspended their search for a missing jet trainer believed to have crashed in Lake St. Clair.

The plane vanished late last Thursday shortly after it sent out a distress call that was received at Selfridge Air Force Base.

Two Marine reserve officers were aboard the plane, which was enroute to Selfridge from Hinesley Air Force Base in Dallas, Tex.

An intensive air, land and sea search has failed to find a trace of the missing jet.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTTEETH at any drug counter.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP — Therman Bailey, 20, of Detroit (left) has been named winner of the $2,500 Grinnell Foundation Opera scholarship. Shown congratulating him are Lloyd G. Grinnell (center), vice president of Grinnell Brothers, and Cameron McLean (right), Detroit voice teacher. The scholarship will give Bailey a year of voice study in New York, plus the opportunity to observe and study at rehearsals of the New York City Opera Co.

'Heart of Home' Classes Open

Next Session Tuesday, Tells How to Simplify Housework

Homemakers in Oakland County can still register for the "Heart of the Home" classes of the Michigan Heart Assn. to be held in Pontiac.

The next class, taught by Mrs. Norma Landon of Michigan State University, will be held Tuesday in the Pontiac Township Hall, Opdyke road south of Walton boulevard from 11:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Three more classes of two hours each will complete the series.

Slides and diagrams will show homemakers how to save both time and energy in their home by putting into practice world's simplification techniques, Mrs. Landon said.

Homemakers, especially those with ailments of the heart or blood vessels, can register for the free classes by attending Tuesday's session or by contacting Mrs. Frieda Bennett, home demonstration agent with the Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County.

The Heart of the Home classes in Oakland County are sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with the Michigan Heart Assn. through funds received from Pontiac Area United Fund.

Citizenship Class Sees Commission in Annual Visit

Miss Janice Antona's 40-member citizenship class made its annual visit to see its City Commission in action last night.

After the traditional invocation and introduction by Mayor William W. Donaldson, the class members led the commission in their customary Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

"It's a privilege to be here and I know that what is on the blackboard is coming to life today," Miss Antona told the commissioners.

Miss Antona has helped hundreds of foreign to become naturalized citizens by her teaching of citizenship classes.

In addition to those classes, Miss Antona embarks with members every summer for a journey to Washington, D. C.

Wind-Fanned Blaze Roars Out of Control

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (INS) — Weary firefighters, battling helplessly against wind-driven flames that have blackened 7,000 acres of brushland near San Bernardino, were told today there is no hope of controlling the rampaging fire until gusty winds subside.

Richard F. Johnson, San Bernardino national forest fire prevention officer, said gusts have reached 25 to 50 miles an hour, making the fire lines extremely perilous. One man has already lost his life and six others have been injured.

Johnson said that none of the perimeter is presently under control. He added:

"Our goal now is to bring the fire under control by 10 a.m. Thursday — Thanksgiving morning. This will be possible only if the winds subside."

Webb Goes to Towne — Before Friday, Too

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — Television policeman Jack Webb and Dorothy Towne have announced a reconciliation — their third. Dorothy said yesterday that she has recalled her divorce action against the creator and star of the "Dragnet" TV series.

New church construction in 1954 was $588 million; this year $900 million.

No $700 Theft, Lady — Monkey Business

MENLO PARK, Calif. (INS) — Mrs. Alice Tucker told the sheriff's office that someone had ransacked her pet shop and stolen her $700 South American monkey, Bosco. But when Inspector Frank Marlowe found and captured Bosco in a residential back yard he tried out an idea. He put Bosco on a leash, set him back in his cage, hid out and watched. Bosco promptly unlatched the cage and headed for the front door.

Marlowe told Mrs. Tucker that Bosco was the culprit who had broken every light bulb in the shop, stuffed himself on pet candy and dog food and disconnected the air pump to the aquarium.

About 98 per cent of marine officers and 89 per cent of marine enlisted men saw service overseas during the World War II duration. The world's population is growing at a rate of about 1.5 per cent a year, according to United Nations figures.
