

Full Days Impossible—School Board

3rd Candidate Due in Race for Dirksen Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska plans to make the race for Senate Republican leadership a three-way contest.

Hruska, regarded as the conservative entry in the struggle to succeed Everett M. Dirksen, is expected to make his formal announcement today.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the acting leader, already has opened his campaign with a letter of candidacy seeking to play down the element of ideology in the Republican race.

Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee declared himself in the race yesterday, saying that he has support from both liberals and conservatives in the Senate.

SCOTT VIEWPOINT

Scott, considered the most liberal of the candidates, wrote his GOP colleagues:

"All too often you and I are the victims of labels which serve only to mislead. I seek this position not as the spokesman of any particular group of ideology, but as one who fervently believes in the necessity of effective and cohesive Republican action in the Senate."

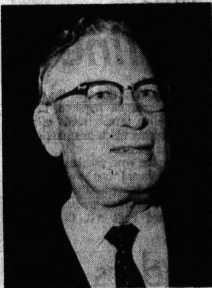

Scott said he felt he had proved this during eight months as Republican whip. He defeated Hruska, 23 to 20, to win that position at the beginning of the current Congress.

There remained one question mark on the lineup of possible candidates. Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, who had advised some colleagues he intended to run, said he would announce his intentions Monday.

TO STAND ASIDE

Either Allott or Hruska had been expected to stand aside, lest the votes of the more conservative senators be divided.

But Allott would give no hint as to his plans.

PONTIAC GTO FOR 1970—The accent is again on styling and performance for Pontiac's 1970 GTO. Shown here for the first time, the new GTO has its own distinctive front end highlighted by an energy-absorbing Endura bumper. Offered in a convertible and two-door hardtop, this muscle car comes equipped with such standard features as a 400-cubic-inch V8 engine, glass-belted tires and new exhaust extensions with dual outlets. The GTO and other 1970 Pontiacs will be unveiled in dealer showrooms Thursday.

Israeli Jets Hit Targets in Egypt

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets blasted Egyptian targets near Port Suez today for the fourth time in five days. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said the raids were designed to force Egypt "to guard those places" and tie up troops.

An Israeli spokesman said the Israeli planes struck at Abu Daraj, 40 miles south of Port Suez, and returned safely.

The latest attack came as thousands of Jews began celebrating Rosh Hashana, the two-day holiday that marks the start of the 5,730th year on the Jewish calendar.

Interviewed on the state radio after today's attack, Dayan said, "I don't delude myself into thinking these raids in themselves will bring an end to the fighting. There is such a thing as a constellation of pressure on our part."

He said the raids force Egypt to tie up troops in the area, presumably meaning that they have to withdraw them from the west bank of the Suez Canal.

First Pictures of GTO, LeMans

Pontiac Motor Division's 1970 intermediate models—the Tempest, LeMans, LeMans Sport and GTO—feature performance, comfort and safety.

First photographs of the new GTO and LeMans are in today's Pontiac Press. The entire 1970 Pontiac line will go on display in showrooms Thursday at the following dealerships:

Pontiac Retail Store, 85 University; Haupt Pontiac Sales, 7151 N. Main, Clarkston; Lee Osborn Sales Co., 115 E. Liberty, Milford; Audette Pontiac, 1850

W. Maple, Troy; Russ Johnson Motor Sales, 89 M24, Lake Orion; Shelton Pontiac-Buick, 855 S. Rochester, Rochester; and Keego Sales & Service, 3090 Orchard Lake, Keego Harbor.

Styling of the 1970 intermediates follows that of the 1969 Firebird.

FRONT VIEW

The front view reveals the familiar Pontiac split grille. The bumper, wrap-around parking and side marker lamps have all been restyled.

Horizontally mounted head lamps extend to the outboard ends, and the split grilles are surrounded by the wrap-around bumper.

The one-piece panel which is above the grille and houses the head lamps is made from fiber glass-reinforced plastic. The GTO's profile shows the fresh look of new fenders, doors and rear quarter panels, and has its own distinctive front end with a newly styled energy-absorbing Endura bumper.

NEW ENGINE OFFERED

With a lineup of 15 models in the intermediates, Pontiac will offer a new 250-cubic-inch six-cylinder engine as standard on all intermediates except the GTO.

Standard engine for the GTO is a 350-horsepower, 400-cubic-inch V8. A new 455-cubic-inch engine rated at 360 horsepower is optional on the GTO, as are Pontiac's famed 368-horsepower Ram Air and 370-horsepower Ram Air IV performance packages.

Optional on the other intermediates are a 350-cubic-inch V8 and the 400-cubic-inch V8 available with two- or four-barrel carburetion.

A major safety feature on all new Pontiacs is side-door beams built-in for added protection. This safeguard consists of a boxlike steel beam positioned horizontally within each door plus additional door pillar reinforcements.

The 1970 Firebird is slated for introduction in the spring of 1970.

Sol Will Dominate Weekend Skies

Another wonderful weekend is forecast for Pontiac area residents. Everything will come up sunshine through tomorrow.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's official forecast looks like this:

TODAY — Mostly sunny and warm, high 80 to 86. Fair and mild tonight, the low 58 to 62.

WINDS will continue southeasterly at 8 to 18 miles per hour through tomorrow.

TOMORROW — Partly sunny and warm, the high 82 to 87.

PROBABILITIES of precipitation are near zero today, 10 per cent tonight and 20 per cent tomorrow.

A sunny 59 was the low mercury reading before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The thermometer recorded 82 at 12:30 p.m.

Waterford Gets Two Weeks to Restore Classes

By DICK ROBINSON

Waterford Township school officials say it's "impossible" to comply with a court order to put some 18,500 students back on full-day sessions in two weeks.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer ruled yesterday against the township board of education in favor of parents whose children attend half-day sessions in elementary schools and reduced school days in secondary schools.

Beer said he agreed completely with Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman who ruled two weeks ago that half-day classes in Livonia are unconstitutional.

Kaufman ordered the Livonia school board to restore full-day classes for grades five through eight "with all expediency," placing no time limit.

APPEAL PENDING

The Livonia board is appealing the decision to the Michigan Supreme Court and meanwhile is allowed to continue with half-day classes.

Waterford acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen said the school district has no money to provide full days and that no one will loan it to them.

"Even if we had the money in the bank, we couldn't hire a needed 100 additional teachers and secure supplies in two weeks," he commented. "If we did restore full days, we'd be in the red $1.5 million by the end of the year."

One school board member, who didn't want to be named, said it is likely the board also will appeal the decision to the higher court and temporarily rid itself of a massive headache.

EXECUTIVE MEETING

Board President Philip M. Hampton said he would try to call an executive meeting of the board for Monday to decide what to do.

Meanwhile, some 200 parents who attended the court hearing were joyous. They applauded the judge's decision. Some wept emotionally. Some hugged each other.

School boards are forbidden by state law to knowingly adopt a deficit budget, Waterford school board attorney John T. Rogers argued.

The Legislature had made this a misdemeanor punishable by a $500 fine and 90 days in jail.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION

"If there must be deficit financing, there must be," Beer said, "or it should be appealed to the state."

Beer, like Kaufman, made his ruling on a constitutional question. They said the State Constitution requires the state furnish a free education for each child.

The Legislature then decided that a school year should be 180 school days and that presumably meant "full" days, attorneys for the parents contended.

Beer only defined the length of a school year as one students knew before the school district began shortening days. For the second year, secondary students are going to school five hours a day instead of the normal six.

NEVER DEFINED

Rogers contended it wasn't clearly shown what laws the board is violating since the length of a school day has never been defined by any state legal authority.

State law gives local boards the authority to determine the length of the class day, Rogers said.

Attorneys for the parents were Stanley W. Kurzman, Eugene K. Pool and Mrs. Frances R. Avedanaka, all Waterford township residents.

Elementary pupils in grades one through three started half-day sessions last week. They were to return to full days in the winter with grades four through six going on half days.

MILLAGE FEATS
Pagen testified the shortened schedules were a cost-saving device because voters in the county's third largest school district turned down two tax millage increases in the last 10 months.

"Every one of the county's 28 school districts except us and another district have approved millage increases since 1963, some three and four times," he noted.

Philippines Air Crash Kills 45

MANILA (UPI) — A power failure that cut off signals from an automatic direction finder caused the worst crash in Philippine aviation history, in which 45 persons died, a Philippines Air Line (PAL) spokesman said today. Three of the victims were Americans.

Only a flight steward and a passenger survived. They were thrown clear when the BAC111 slammed last night into a fog-shrouded hill in suburban

Antipolo during an instrument approach to Manila International Airport on a flight from Cebu in the Central Philippines.

The last message from the pilot, Capt. Alberto Naval, to the control was: "Approach on Antipolo at 5,000 feet and coming in on a straight in approach on runway 24."

But, the PAL spokesman said, the plane was actually at 700 feet.

Edmonds Still Pondering Post

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Dr. William Edmonds, the Pontiac Board of Education's choice as the system's first black assistant superintendent, has not yet accepted the position.

He said in an interview late yesterday afternoon that he is still considering the position.

Edmonds, director of Virginia State College's graduate school, Petersburg, told The Press that he is still in the information-gathering stage concerning the controversy over his appointment.

He has received tape recordings of last week's board meeting at which he was named to the post, Pontiac Press clippings about the meeting and subsequent events, and letters from many parents and teachers in Pontiac.

PROTEST APPOINTMENT

Community people and teachers have been protesting his appointment because they say they feel he is not familiar with the problems in Pontiac. Also, they prefer another black candidate with experience in the system and knowledge of the community — John Perdue, director of school-community and human relations.

Edmonds said yesterday that he feels there is a difference of opinion on what the job entails. He said that letters from the community intimated the post involves working primarily with black children.

He said he feels the breadth of the position is much greater than this connotation placed on it by the letters.

"The position as described to me involved research, testing, application of measurement techniques and their appropriate use in the educative process, and general administrative procedure."

WORKED IN THIS FIELD

"I have done quite a bit of work in this field — such as research for national magazines, private agencies, certain governmental agencies and many industries. I have also been in counseling of schoolchildren," he said.

"Since I am black, I would of course be very sensitive to the problems of black children. I would like to try to help provide a better education for all of the children in Pontiac," he added.

He said he feels that one cannot solve the problems of black children without working with all children in the district.

"I do not feel the controversy is a personal attack on me — I feel they wish another candidate," Edmonds said.

MORE IMPORTANT

"The integrity of the Pontiac system and of the community is far more important than my selection. However, I

SAIGON (AP) — Bombing raids resumed over South Vietnam today, but Washington is directing them, military spokesmen said.

The B-52s resumed their attacks after a 36-hour halt ordered by President Nixon to test the intentions of the Communist Command following the three-day cease fire for the funeral of North Vietnam President Ho Chi Minh.

Two waves of bombers dumped 300 tons of explosives 27 miles northeast of Saigon, another mission struck base camps along the Cambodian border 98 miles northeast of the capital, and two missions hit the central coast near Da Nang.

Spokesmen declined to speculate whether the B-52s would continue to maintain their average of about 50 sorties — one flight by one bomber — a day over South Vietnam.

The decision to resume the raids came at a time when communiques indicated that fighting appeared to have tapered off across South Vietnam.

U.S. headquarters reported eight Americans injured in 34 rocket and mortar attacks overnight.

The U.S. Command also reported two terrorist attacks in Saigon, two shelling incidents in the demilitarized zone Friday and one fight 28 miles northwest of Saigon in which U.S. helicopters killed eight enemy.

Since the cease-fire ended Thursday, U.S. troops reported killing 144 North Vietnamese and Vietcong troops in six battles north of Saigon and near the Cambodian border.

22-SHELL BARRAGE

The most serious shelling hit Dien

Ban, a district town about 10 miles south of Da Nang. A barrage of 22 mortar shells landed on a refugee camp, wounding 18 civilians.

In Washington, the White House disclosed that President Nixon had ordered that the B-52 raids be resumed because the level of enemy activity now has reverted to pretruce levels.

Will-O-Way Opening Set in October

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater will begin a season of repertory theater in October under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Turner.

A resident company of young actors will present "Luv," "Star Spangled Girl" and "The Apple Tree." The opening performance is scheduled Oct. 7.

Performances are scheduled Tuesdays through Sundays at 8:30 p.m.

In addition to the repertory performances, the theater will offer training in all branches of theater including acting, stage management, directing, makeup, script writing, and play design.

Fall term classes begin Sept. 20. Registration is now open.

The Will-O-Way theater is located on West Long Road, one block east of Telegraph in Bloomfield Hills.

The Cranbrook Music Guild will hold a membership tea at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Cranbrook House.

Members of the guild are urged to attend the Tuesday party and to bring guests and prospective members.

The guild's opening concert this season will be Oct. 7 in Kingswood School Auditorium. Guest artists are duo pianists Stecher and Horowitz.

Remaining concerts will be in Cranbrook House. Scheduled groups include the Michigan Chamber Choir, Nov. 11; the University of Michigan Baroque Trio Dec. 2; the traditional Young Artists' Concert Feb. 3 and the Marlboro Trio April 14.

Following the Tuesday tea, guests may roam at will to see the Cranbrook gardens.

BIRMINGHAM — Two former Birmingham men have become chairmen of the board and chairman of the executive committee of Heuristic Concepts Inc. after the company acquired K & K Associates, Inc., a bank management consulting firm.

James A. Hayden and Kevin J. Kearney, a former vice president of COMAC in Birmingham, were the executive officers and principal stockholders of K & K Associates Inc. when the acquisition was finalized Aug. 25.

Hayden, who will become board chairman, was formerly president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank. He will be responsible for internal operation at Heuristic.

Woman Is Acquitted in School Board Row

A six-person jury yesterday afternoon found Mrs. Eldred Sweeney innocent of disorderly conduct at a July 18 Pontiac school board meeting.

The jury, five women and one man, deliberated about two hours before acquitting Mrs. Sweeney of 228 Orchard Lake. The acquittal ended a four-day trial before Pontiac District Judge James R. Steil.

The protest was triggered by Brown's announcement that comments from the audience would be heard at the beginning of the meeting and not during the board's discussion of agenda items.

Alcoholics Aid in New Budget

The start of a treatment service for alcoholics of Oakland County is foreseen in the new Oakland County Community Health budget just announced.

Director Dr. Lino Romero said a budget of $2.2 million — up 28 per cent from last year — will be available. Funded 75 per cent by the state and 25 per cent by the county, it is still $900,000 short of the $3.1 million requested, Romero said.

It will allow $15,000 for alcoholic service, $25,000 for schooling for mentally ill children, $50,250 for an activity center for retarded persons, $73,250 for a vocational rehabilitation program, and $65,604 for a southeastern county mental health program.

Romero said 55 per cent of the budget would be required simply to continue existing services.

These include three mental health clinics for children and three for adults, two sheltered workshops and two day training programs for the mentally retarded, a program for delinquent youngsters, diagnostic and counseling service for the retarded and their families, hospital care, and consultation and education programs.

2 Nab African Plane

BEIRUT (UPI) — Two members of the Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF) hijacked an Ethiopian DC6B airliner with 44 persons aboard at gunpoint over Africa today and forced the plane to fly to Aden.

The Ethiopian News Agency said one of the men who carried out the hijacking was wounded, apparently in a gunfight with South Yemen security police after landing at Aden.

Boy, 3, Drowns in Family Pool

A 3-year-old Wolverine Lake boy was found drowned at 9 p.m. yesterday in the family's backyard swimming pool.

The fully clothed body of Paul S. Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shaw, 2124 Shanken, was pulled from the 7-foot-deep fenced pool by Stanley Clark of the Sheriff's Department water safety division following a four-hour neighborhood search.

The boy had been reported as last seen at 5 p.m. by his mother. The family home is across the street from Wolverine Lake and situated in a moderately built-up wooded area, police said.

WILLIAMS ARRIVES—Black power leader Robert Williams (bottom right) arrives at Detroit's Metro airport from London yesterday with his lawyer, Milton Henry (top), and escorted by an FBI agent. Williams was whisked to a waiting car which took him to a U.S. District court where he was immediately arraigned on kidnapping charges.

RNA Chief Says He'll Fight Extradition to N. Carolina

DETROIT (AP)—Black militant leader Robert Williams — arrested and later released yesterday when he flew to Detroit to end his eight-year self-imposed exile — said he will fight extradition to North Carolina where he is wanted on a 1961 kidnap charge.

"If Michigan surrenders me, I will move my fight to North Carolina and ask my people to come with me to fight," said Williams, 44-year-old president of the Black separatist Republic of New Africa. "And when I say fight, I mean war."

Milton Henry, attorney from Pontiac, Mich., and first vice president of RNA, said Williams decided to return to this country through Detroit because he felt he would get better treatment in courts here than in any other city. Henry of 518 Orchard Lake, accompanied Williams on the flight.

Williams said the kidnap charge was trumped up. "I have never held anyone hostage," he said.

Williams was released on a total of $11,000 personal bonds after appearing in federal and state courts in connection with the North Carolina charge.

Following several major airline refusals to fly him from London to the United States Williams finally arrived in Detroit as one of two paying passengers in a large Trans World Airlines jet—a special flight said to have cost TWA about $20,000. TWA spokesmen said they arranged the flight at the request of the U. S. government.

Fleeing the United States in 1961 to avoid charges of kidnapping an elderly white couple during a Monroe, N. C. racial disturbance Aug. 27, Williams has since lived in Cuba, China, and Tanzania in East Africa.

The Republic of New Africa (RNA), a paper government, which aims to establish an independent black nation from five southern states, was created in Detroit more than a year ago. Williams, then living in Red China, was named president of the movement.

Duties of School Post Outlined

Last week's appointment of a third assistant superintendent of Pontiac Schools is an end result of a reorganization of the central administration, approved by the school board Feb. 6.

In the reorganization, responsibilities which had been assigned to the two existing assistant superintendents and the business manager will be redistributed among three assistant superintendents and the business manager, all of whom report to the superintendent.

The director of school-community and human relations also will report directly to the superintendent. Other department directors will report to the three assistant superintendents.

The new assistant superintendent will be responsible for eight pupil personnel departments include special education, psychological, school social worker, health, child accounting, census, attendance and guidance.

Interaction between the schools and the community will be among the functions of the new assistant superintendent. Guidelines of the administration reorganization stipulated that the person in the new post be required to pay special attention to new kinds of relationship problems which are part of the civil rights movement.

Named to the new position by a 4-3 vote of the board last week is Dr. William Edmonds, presently director of Virginia State College's graduate school.

He said he had seen a newspaper clipping where a woman was quoted as saying he was not involved in community and civil rights affairs.

He said this is untrue.

Edmonds is a life member of the NAACP and a member and vice president of the Petersburg chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, a vanguard in the field of civil rights.

IN VOTING DRIVES

He has been active in voting drives in poverty areas of Virginia, and was once a candidate for the Madison County (Ala.) Democratic Committee.

He is a member of the Petersburg Zion Baptist Church and sings in the church choir. Edmonds also became one of the first black members of the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce, in 1968.

In terms of education, Edmonds is a life member of the National Education Association and is listed in the 1967 Who's Who, Vol. 34.

Edmonds is married and has a married daughter who is a teacher and a son serving with the armed forces in Vietnam.

He's Choice of People—Not Board

By MARY SUNDRUM

"We want Perdue," chanted about 400 people at last week's Pontiac School Board meeting.

John F. Perdue, director of school-community and human relations for Pontiac Schools, was the people's choice for the system's first black assistant superintendent.

JOHN PERDUE

However, despite protests from the audience, the board voted 4-3 to appoint another black man, Dr. William Edmonds, director of Virginia State College's graduate school. Although no one in the audience argued against Edmonds' professional and educational qualifications, the audience said they felt Perdue was better qualified for the position because of his 13 years' experience in the Pontiac system, his knowledge of the community and his rapport with both black and white citizens.

DISTRICT FIRST

Perdue has been a teacher and principal in elementary and secondary schools in Pontiac, and became the school district's first black central office administrator in 1956 when he was named to his present position.

He applied for the position of assistant superintendent because, "I feel I have all of the qualifications for the position as outlined by the board," he said.

Perdue pointed out that the job was the result of an Equality of Educational Opportunity (EEO) report recommendation, which advised that the position be filled by "a minority group member who shows a sensitivity to human relations problems and who has the faith and trust of minority group citizens."

He said the support he has received from the community and teachers is personally gratifying. He added, "I sincerely hope that more understanding will be derived from this common effort of both black and white people in the community."

SPRINGBOARD FOR UNITY

"I hope that this unity can be used as a springboard for other activities between the different races of Pontiac which will result in this city becoming one of the best in the country to live," said Perdue, who exhibits extreme pride in Pontiac.

In his position as director of school-community and human relations, Perdue has negotiated many differences between parents in the black community and the board of education.

Whenever any disturbances flared up in black schools in Pontiac, Perdue has been called to the scene.

He is coordinator of, and writes the basic guidelines for, the Pontiac Citizens Study Committee on Equality of Educational Opportunity, which produced a report in June 1968.

MILLAGE DRIVE

Perdue also was coordinator for the Finance Study Council in 1967-68 and coordinated the successful 1968 millage campaign for a $18-million bond issue and a 1% increase.

He also has been the system's staff person on the Pontiac School District Citizens Committee on Human Relations.

Perdue has been a director of the Pontiac Urban League for the last 12 years and has served in every official capacity in the league except president.

His experience in community affairs, Urban League, human relations and education spans more than 25 years and five cities—Philadelphia, Toledo, Ferndale, Detroit and Pontiac.

Court Throws Out Supervisor Recall

DETROIT (AP)—Proposed recall elections involving three Wayne County supervisors have been struck down by a circuit judge.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman ruled Friday that the petitions were circulated too soon after the three—Robert L. Tripp, Ralph P. Turco and Harvey J. Beadle—took office.

State law dictates that public officials must be given 45 days of service in their offices before a recall petition can be circulated.

The judge's ruling, in effect, ended a campaign by the Detroit Jaycees to throw out of office 15 of the 28-man board elected last fall.

The campaign had begun after the supervisors first voted to

The crossing is unmarked and Martin's car was dragged about 40 feet after the impact, deputies said.

Race Relations a Key Duty

Edmonds, who is black, has not yet accepted the position but says he is seriously considering it.

About 300 teachers boycotted schools for one day Wednesday and joined hundreds of parents picketing the board offices in protest of the board's choice of Edmonds for the post.

They said they prefer John F. Perdue, director of school-community and human relations, the district's first black administrator at central offices, because he has 13 years' experience in the district and is familiar with community problems.

Creation of the new position came as a result of recommendations in the Equality of Educational Opportunity (EEO) report made by the Pontiac Citizens Study Committee (PCCS) last year.

THE RECOMMENDATION

That report stated:

"In order to meet the challenges now facing the school system, it is recommended that an assistant superintendent be appointed whose responsibility will be the implementation of policies and practices of equal educational opportunity for all."

"The establishment of this position will have numerous favorable results—one of which will be to indicate the good will of the board of education toward members of minority groups."

Another EEO recommendation stipulated that the position be a newly created one and not a reclassification of any existing position in the administration.

The PCCS also advised in its report that "this position be filled by a minority group member who shows a sensitivity to human relations problems and who has the faith and trust of minority group citizens."

In a section regarding promotions, the EEO report stated: "The study committee supports the policy of promotion from within the district whenever candidates appear equal in qualifications."

The position was advertised in the school district and at colleges and universities in the United States to attract highly qualified Negro candidates.

A number of applications were received and the school board interviewed several candidates and reviewed their qualifications for several months before selecting Edmonds.

Work on 'Belfast Wall' Nearly Finished

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — After averting another clash between Roman Catholics and Protestants, British troops worked today to complete the "Belfast Wall," a steel and barbed wire fence designed to separate the neighborhoods of the two groups.

The British hope the fence will persuade both Catholics and Protestants to dismantle the barricades they erected after last month's rioting.

The Catholic Civil Defense Committee of "Free Belfast" meets tonight to decide whether the barriers should come down.

Informants said the barriers probably would be removed after a face-saving agreement with the army that would allow leaders of the enclave to take them down voluntarily.

MORE TROUBLE

Details of the agreement were said to have been worked out between a "Free Belfast" delegation that met with British Home Secretary James Callaghan in London Friday.

An army spokesman said trouble might be expected when a crowd of Protestants approached British troops and "bashed and banged the roofs and windows" of trucks they were driving. He added, "The soldiers inside decided caution was the better part of valor and moved away."

But the crowd then advanced on a Catholic bar in a predominantly Protestant neighborhood, smashed in the door, broke all the windows and threw two gasoline bombs inside.

Catholics began gathering to retaliate, and more Protestants began streaming into the area.

Finally, the army spokesman said, British troops arrived and the crowds dispersed.

The bar is on the same street where a Methodist church and a junior high school were heavily damaged by fire Thursday night.

Earlier Friday, the British army cleared the last political hurdle in completing the "Belfast Wall" by bowing to the demands of Mrs. Annie Keown, a 79-year-old Catholic who had objected to the planned location of the wall because it would have put her house in Protestant territory.

After an extended haggle with Mrs. Keown's relatives—their son is in a hospital—the engineers agreed to move the barrier to a spot that would leave her house on the Catholic side. Then they began work on the last 15-foot section.

Although there were disagreements over the location of several sections, most of the wall in the Protestant area was completed without much trouble.

The fence of barbed wire piled six feet high is strung between double row of steel stakes cemented into the ground. It is about a mile long and runs between the Protestant Shankill district and the Catholic Falls Road area.

Army guards patrol the roads at both ends of the fence day and night, check every vehicle in and out, and disperse any crowds that gather.

The British soldiers are not too happy with their work. One lance corporal, his rifle across his knee, said, "We get the rough end of it from both sides, but the Protestant name-calling is usually the worst. The language is appalling. Even little girls of 5 and 6 swear worse than any soldiers."

There are some 50,000 students enrolled in Puerto Rico's colleges and universities this semester.

School District Vote Decides Existence

WEST BRANCH (AP)—Voters in the Ogemaw County School District of West Branch-Roseville decide today whether the district will remain in existence.

At stake is a 9.3-mill school tax. The issue has failed in two other elections by margins of more than two to one.

If the millage falls to pass, officials say the district would cease to exist. Without the levy, the district doesn't have enough school taxes to meet the 10 mills required to obtain state aid.

If the district goes out of existence, its pupils would be transferred to other school systems.

Ag Unit to Meet

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Agriculture Commission will discuss the state's hog cholera problem at the next meetings, Tuesday and Wednesday in Benton Harbor. Outbreaks of the cholera occurred this summer in the Niles and Jones areas. The U.S. Agriculture Department suspended Michigan's cholera-free certification.

THE PENNEY STORY

Mrs. Penney's answer to her husband

By ROBERTA NASH

One day we were up in Mr. Penney's office talking about how hard it is to get "the Penney difference" across to people outside the company. Mr. Penney told this anecdote:

"Once after a very inspiring meeting with store managers, I said to Mrs. Penney, 'You know, I am not yet satisfied that I have ever been able to tell the real story of this company. Why?'"

"Mrs. Penney turned to me. 'Because you cannot define the soul,' she answered."

CAB Okays New Air Fares: Average Boost Is 6.35 Pct.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airline fares would go up for short hops but would be reduced slightly for some longer flights under terms of the year's second adjustment approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The board late Friday approved, with some modifications, a fare formula proposed by American Airlines.

Other major trunk airlines were invited by the board to apply for the adjustments which may become effective Oct. 1.

All five members of the board voted for the increase, although Vice Chairman Robert T. Murphy and member G. Joseph Minetti said it was too generous. Minetti cited an interim fare boost of 3.9 per cent granted by the board last February.

6.35 PER CENT BOOST

While the formula boosts fares on an average of 6.35 per cent, it is in the shorter flights where the big percentage increase comes.

For example, the $18 fare for the 188-mile flight between Boston and New York will be raised by 11.1 per cent, or $2; and the $23 fare for the 261-mile Chicago-

St. Louis trip will go up 13.6 per cent, to $25. The Chicago-Washington 595-mile fare will go up $5, or 12.8 per cent, to $44.

But there will be a $1 cut in the 1,749-mile Chicago-Los Angeles fare. Although the CAB order mentioned only one fare, saying that the Los Angeles-New York charge would be reduced from $145 to $141, a board rate expert placed the new fare at $139, a reduction of $5, or 4.14 per cent.

The New York-Miami fare, distance 1,094 miles, would remain unchanged at $72.

CHARGE PER MILE

Under the formula, there will be a flat $9 charge for each ticket—then an additional charge for each mile flown, ranging from 6 cents per mile for trips under 500 miles down to 4.8 cents per mile for flights of more than 2,000 miles.

The basic fare covers coach service—with first-class jet fares 25 per cent higher and night coach fares 25 per cent lower than the base.

The discounts for promotional fares will be reduced—from the present 25 per cent to 20 per cent for Discover America fares; from 50 per cent at present to 40 per cent for youth standby fares; and from 33 1-3 per cent to 30 per cent for young adult reservation fares.

Family plan discounts will be reduced, also, to half fare for children 2 to 11, and two-thirds fare for children 12 to 21, accompanying the adult.

REJECTS OTHERS

In accepting the American proposal, the board rejected plans by five other airlines for increases ranging from 4.5 to 8 per cent.

All trunk airlines taking advantage of the new formula must file their proposals at least 14 days in advance of their effective date.

The adjustments are offered for Northwest, American, United, Western, Trans World, Braniff, Eastern, Continental, Delta, Northeast and National.

The CAB in effect left the nine local service airlines—Air West, Allegheny, Frontier, Mohawk, North Central, Ozark, Piedmont, Southern and Texas International—out of the fare increase bracket.

10,000 Back Home After Gas Threat

GLENDORA, Miss. (AP) — Some 10,000 northwest Mississippi residents were back home today after an evacuation order by state officials sent them fleeing from gas released by a train derailment.

Controversy arose Friday over whether the evacuation was necessary.

Among the evacuees was Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., who called for a congressional investigation of rail safety. "Tragedy can be lurking on every train," he said at a hotel in nearby Cleveland. "We must do whatever we can to prevent tragedies like this, and we must do it quickly."

The residents of 10 Mississippi Delta towns and 1,400 inmates of the state penitentiary at Parchman were evacuated after five tank cars loaded with vinyl chloride derailed, exploded and caught fire Thursday night.

Dr. J.T. Minyard, a state chemist, said the vinyl chloride "by itself is toxic" and the burning was sending deadly phosgene gas into the air.

However, Uniroly Inc. of Geismar, La., where part of the shipment originated, disputed the danger.

A company spokesman said vinyl chloride is not lethal and "it is impossible to liberate phosgene, other than inconsequential trace amounts, when vinyl chloride is freely burning in the air."

Dr. Robert T. Van Aller, the chairman of the chemistry department at the University of Southern Mississippi, agreed with Minyard's conclusions, and added: "Even a little bit of phosgene gas is dangerous. It is an insidious poison that does not act immediately."

MAN INJURED

A 74-year-old man was critically injured when he was struck by the engine of the seven-car Illinois Central train. The derailment apparently occurred when the train engineer put on the brakes.

The northbound train was heading to Chicago.

Broomfield Backs Direct Presidential Vote

U.S. Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-18th District, yesterday urged Congress to approve a constitutional amendment to abolish the Electoral College and permit the direct popular election of the president and vice president.

"Every voter, regardless of where he lives in the country, should have the right to vote for president with the assurance that his vote will be counted for the candidate of his choice," Broomfield said.

The House since Wednesday has been debating a constitutional amendment which would provide for the direct popular election of the president.

Broomfield has a sponsored similar measures in each of the last several sessions of Congress.

A vote on the direct election plan and several alternatives is expected early next week. If approved, the measure would then go to the Senate. Before it can take effect, the amendment must be ratified by three-fourths of the state legislatures.

Senate Scans Tax Bill

The tax reform bill passed by the House on Aug. 8 may be even longer than its present 368 pages when it reaches the Senate floor this autumn. The Senate Finance Committee began public hearings on the bill Sept. 4, and hopes to conclude them around Oct. 6 and then, after closed hearings to send the measure to the floor by Oct. 31.

By that time, several provisions of the bill may have been rewritten. Criticism of the House-passed measure centers on the fact that it will, when fully effective, provide $2.4 billion more in relief than in additional revenue. However, Chairman WILBUR D. MILLS, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee says that the difference would be made up through higher tax collections stemming from normal growth of the economy.

The 394-30 margin by which the tax-reform bill passed the House reflects the intensity of the current "taxpayers' revolt." The terms of all House members, of course, expire in January 1971. But the pressure for reform may not be so strong in the Senate, only one-third of whose members face reelection or retirement next year.

In the Senate Finance Committee, only three of the 10 Democrats—ALBERT GORE (Tenn.), VANCE HARTKE (Ind.) and HARRY BYRD JR. (Va.)—have to run in 1970, and only one of the seven Republicans—PAUL FANNIN (Ariz.)—faces reelection. Sen. JOHN WILLIAMS (Del.) has announced that he will retire.

The question is whether these five will prove more susceptible to the discontent of the voters or to the concern of some of the big taxpayers whom reform might hurt. The same question applies to the vote of the entire Senate when the bill reaches the floor.

'Comedy of Errors' Rewritten

The recent "comedy of errors" at Shenandoah Country Club gave near-tragic import to the title under which Shakespeare wrote his famous comedy.

The action of the modern version centered on the $100,000 Michigan Golf Classic staged at the club and the inability of tournament sponsors to meet their prize commitments to the participating players.

But the dismal denouement reflects not only an incredible display of promotional and business ineptitude on the part of the promoters but also discredit on name players of the Professional Golf Association (PGA) who failed to enter the PGA-sanctioned tournament.

Presumably, the prize-winning players will eventually be paid in full. Indeed, the Tournament Players Division of their association has advanced half the total of prize money owed players pending settlement of the hassle on the local level.

The regrettable effect of it all, however, is that the image of the State, unsurpassed for championship golf facilities, has suffered an undesired black eye as the locale for major golf tournaments.

It is to be hoped that the administrative element of golfdom will profit by the debacle at Shenandoah and establish financial and procedural guidelines against a repetition of it.

Camille Exacts Fearful Toll

Hurricane Camille, one of the most devastating storms ever to hit this country, has fittingly called forth one of the greatest outpourings of help from the American people in Red Cross history.

The organization first estimated that 41,000 families suffered losses from the hurricane's raging winds and high tides in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama. Later surveys, when workers were able to get into more remote areas, raised this figure to 69,000 families.

More than 18,000 dwellings were destroyed or damaged so much as to be uninhabitable. Another 1,000 families lost trailer homes. In addition, hundreds of small businessmen, farmers and fishermen lost their livelihoods. Later, in Virginia, flooding spawned by the backwash of the hurricane affected over 1,200 more families.

The initial nationwide relief appeal was set at a minimum of $9 million and the quota for at least 45 cities was quickly met. The emerging story of the full extent of the tragedy, however, has forced this to be increased to $15 million.

Camille thus promises to set another record as the need for funds continues—the most expensive disaster operation the Red Cross has ever carried out.

Senate Public Address Hookup Delayed

BY WILLIAM E. MEAD
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, which has delighted in the sound of its own unamplified voices for nearly two centuries, seems secure from electronic encroachment this year despite its own approval of a senatorial loudspeaker system.

Back on April 15, the Senate broke tradition and voted itself a $125,000 "speech reinforcement system," a euphemism for a fancy public address hookup complete with 15-foot cords so a senator could stroll the aisles while talking.

It was a drastic step, spurned for decades and taken only when the Senate Rules Committee warned that constituents visiting the gallery sometimes complained they couldn't hear what their senator was saying, much less what he meant.

The expectation was that workmen could begin wiring the place during the August recess, but a bill appropriating money for the system is still languishing in the Appropriations Committee. The Capitol architect cannot order mikes until it passes.

"Not a thing has been ordered," one official in the architect's office said. "It would have helped us if we'd had those three weeks to work during the recess. We can't work in there during the day when they're in session."

The architects' official estimate is that the system would take six months to buy and install after the appropriation passed. Both the Senate and House must approve it, and the whole process—bill passing, equipment buying, and installation—could drag into the middle of 1970.

That should give senators time to gird for the change. The system involves a small mike and loudspeaker at each desk, speakers in the galleries, and earplug extensions for senators who want to hear debate from the clubby privacy of the cloakroom.

"The proposed arrangement is superior to that utilized in state legislative chambers and in the majestic parliamentary edifices in foreign countries," the Senate Rules Committee said in its formal report.

The system is designed to please senatorial whims and compensate for decided differences among the 100 members. Besides the extension cord for roamers, the mikes are designed to clip onto clothing so the arms are free to gesture and swing.

A technician, manning a console in the gallery, and an "automatic gain control" would work together to turn down the volume when a powerful orator like Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R. I., speaks, and turn it up when a whisperer like Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, takes the floor.

Perhaps most reassuring to members, no senator's mike will turn on unless he picks it up. That's to make sure senators can continue to whisper among themselves, secure from eavesdropping by the press or public, as they have since the 18th Century.

The teaching and example of a devout Christian mother is a most important ingredient in making a boy into a fine man—and sometimes a great man or a hero. Mrs. Effie Jackson of Newman, Ga., knows the rewards of being such a mother.

Widowed in 1935, she raised seven boys into fine men. But it was her youngest, Joe, who became a national hero. She had taught him dedication to duty, selfless service and the golden rule.

On May 12, 1968, Lt. Col. Joe Jackson's power of faith shone through as he landed his unarmed C123 transport aircraft in a rain of rockets and mortar fire on an enemy-overrun special forces camp in Kham Duc, Vietnam. His mission was to rescue the three remaining survivors of the camp.

At great risk and possible loss of his own life, Lt. Col. Jackson saved the lives of the three men, and is the latest Air Force recipient of the nation's highest award, The Medal of Honor. But that honor also goes to Mrs. Effie Jackson, whose faith in God and prayers gave Joe his singleminded dedication and courage.

Peace Idea: Bi-National State

By REV. DAVID POLING

A group of concerned Christians in Lebanon have proposed that the only enduring settlement and solution to the constant crises in the Middle East is the establishment of a "bi-national state." That surely must sound like the most absurd suggestion ever made to the warring parties across the Jordan and the Suez but it has merit and ought to be given careful consideration.

There are certain facts that must be considered in order to reach such a startling conclusion. The Palestinian Arabs, about 2 million, refuse, in spite of all the Arab military disasters, to accept the seizure of their homeland by an alien Western political movement. Many of these families date their origin in this area for thousands of years. Like the Vietnamese who have endured the Chinese, the French, the Japanese, and now the Americans, they will wait it out.

The past 18 months has seen the rise of the most effective Palestinian liberation movement since the creation of the state of Israel in 1948. We should note that many observers feel that the fedayeen (those who sacrifice themselves) are now better equipped, more highly organized and trained than ever before. But of even greater importance is the fact that they are recognized by most Arab countries as the legitimate expression of the Palestinian Arab's demand for justice.

The possibility of a "settlement" imposed upon the Palestinians by either the great powers or the United Nations—or even the Arab states or Israel for that matter—is a practical impossibility. No one is going to be the broker for the lives and real estate of these Arabs. They are now contestants, participants.

And so the Beirut group asks the primary question: Is there any way in which the future of the Middle East could hold the promise of something more than implacable hatred, vindictive contempt and endless rounds of indecisive little slaughters? No, if the situation continues as is.

The solution is striking in that it realizes that Arab and Jew must live together or die separately. There is no other way and the past has surely proved it.

And so the proposal is for a bi-national state. "For some years Israel Jews (notably Uri Avneri, a member of the Israeli parliament) and thoughtful Palestinian Arabs (including spokesmen for the fedayeen organization) have each advocated an eventual solution in which both Israeli Jews and Palestinian Arabs would work out together a common political and cultural destiny for the land of Palestine."

The Beirut group has suggested that only a nation that seriously incorporates the diverse groups and religions in a just and equitable manner will survive. Call it bi-national, or pluralistic secular state or even a Semitic Union.

This would mean de-Zionization of Israel (since Israel has always insisted that it wants a purely Jewish state). A pluralistic society is just that—not for one but the many. The Middle East, if nothing else, is many peoples.

The concerned Christians in Beirut quickly point to the living arrangements in their own society that has made it possible for Christians and Muslims and Druze to get on in Lebanon. Another example, albeit stormy, is Cyprus, where Greek Christians and Turkish Muslims drink from the same wells.

Peace means adjustment, negotiation and compromise. The alternative is eternal war—and that can mean nothing but death and disaster. Land is not more precious than life—anywhere.

Japanese Citizen League Comments on Headline

Your headline of July 30, was sent to me by a member of the Japanese American Citizens League. The League is the only organization of Americans of Japanese ancestry in the United States, has 92 chapters with 30,000 members. It is dedicated to the promotion of the interests and welfare of Americans of Japanese ancestry in the United States.

Our organization has long fought to eliminate the derogatory term "Jap" from our vocabulary. I call your attention to the use of this term in your paper, with the request that you avoid a recurrence. We are deeply concerned about the need for all of us to do all we can to avoid slighting any minority group.

'Suggest Recommendation Be Accepted'

Since when can't the superintendent of Pontiac schools recommend a candidate for assistance, expect his board of education to back him up on his choice, and still be in good standing in the community? So John Perdue has put in many years of service in the Pontiac system. Administration knows what those years have produced. They just might think that new outside blood may be an improvement, a fresher outlook, and it's time for a change.

This has happened before in the Waterford system. Dr. Tatros has recommended new outside blood over local candidates for a job. The Waterford Board of Education backed the superintendent and went along with his recommendations. In most cases, to the good of the school system. This is part of what the superintendent's handsome paychecks cover.

So, why can't Pontiac do the same? Accept your superintendent and administrative recommendation of Dr. Edmonds, and your board of education's vote of approval, and you too may be pleased with the results.

Two Agree Tax Exemptions Are Too Low

I agree with many other taxpayers that the tax law is unfair. $600 a year exemption is not enough. I sympathize with the welfare and ADC mothers and their problem, but do not think that giving them money for clothing will solve anything. In fact, it will raise more problems as there surely will be some who will use the money for everything but clothes. Children do not need new clothing every year if it is taken care of properly and handed down from child to child.

I am a working mother and to help the clothing budget I go to rummage sales, etc. Why can't these mothers go to the Salvation Army or St. Vincent de Paul and get an allotment of clothing needed? How about a community ADC baby-sitting club where some mothers watch the children and some work, part-time? How about some free sewing lessons? Some of these mothers really have plenty of time.

As a citizen and taxpayer I object to more taxes, and if welfare increases its payments, I may try to get on the rolls myself.

M. P.

I second the remarks concerning the ADC income and the allowance of only $600 per dependent for the working man who has to pay outrageous taxes to support the people on ADC. What would happen to the "system" if every mother decided to strike for school clothes money, etc.? We have to plan ahead, hand down and worry a lot.

WORRYING A LOT

Gives Opinion on Human Relations Meeting

After reading how the Pontiac school system wasted $10,000 of the taxpayers' money on a "monkey festival," it's no wonder our education systems keep screaming for more money. Over-intellectualized organizations instill into our system such silly and non-logical things as you see at these human relations meetings which were mandatory for our teaching staff. You behind the scenes who are instigating these things can take your human relations committees, S.I.E.C.U.S., H.E.W., forced integration and all sex classes and shove them down your Communist-sliding throat.

Question and Answer

I'd like to know if it's possible for the State Legislature to pass a law stating all people that rent and have children in school should be made to pay school taxes. Homeowners pay for it all, and if renters paid school taxes instead of just book fees, all our children could go to school all year.

CONCERNED TAXPAYER

REPLY

Because rent rates are figured to cover cost of all taxes on the rental property, it is generally conceded that renters pay school taxes indirectly. However, persons who feel as you are free to write their elected representatives and urge them to pass such laws as you suggest.

Question and Answer

Recently we had new sewers put in our street and they had to break up two squares of sidewalk, which they replaced. The new sidewalk caved in, leaving a three-foot deep hole. Could you find out who's responsible and who should fix it? Everybody is passing the buck. I also had a shower put in the basement, and the water runs all over the floor. They won't do anything about it.

M. K.

REPLY

Mr. Lawson of Waterford Township Building Department says the sidewalk sounds as though it might be the Township's responsibility. He said he would look up the work done at your address and see that it is repaired if it's their job. The shower matter should be taken up with the plumber. If he won't do anything, we suggest you consult a lawyer or Oakland County Legal Aid Society, 335-8163, (if you can't afford an attorney) to see what your legal rights are.

Italy Facing Autumn of Labor Strife

ROME (AP) — Growing worker radicalism, wildcat strikes and violence are dragging Italy into an autumn of labor strife. It could undermine the government, and damage a flourishing economy.

The threat of major labor disturbances hanging over Premier Mariano Rumor gives the Communist party a chance to consolidate its power. It has grown with every election but one since World War II and won 27 per cent of the vote in the last elections. The Communists have tried in vain for 20 years to win a role in the central government.

NEW GRAB HANDLE
A new grab handle is added to the lower crash pad section of the instrument panel which also boasts indirect lighting.

Interiors are quieter as a result of a new sound insulation package and the AM-FM Multiplex-stereo tape radio system is integrally designed into the instrument panel with five speakers.

There is an optional rear seat heater, a locking steering column with a column-mounted ignition key and warning buzzer, and a positive action glove box latch.

The Imperials also feature windshield-concealed antenna, wider rear track, new design single caliber full-floating power disc brakes, fiber glass belted tires and a new, cleaner air system.

Standard power plant on the Imperial models is a 440-cubic-inch engine.

retary of a metal workers' union.

Unions are having their own troubles. Membership has never been so low in Italy. Of the 140,000 Fiat employees in Turin, only 10 per cent are enrolled in any union.

This, in Cerriti's view, has opened opportunities for small groups of vocal rebels who refuse allegiance to any union and advocate all-out revolt against industry and state.

MAJOR HEADACHE
These groups, variously called Maoists, Chinese, Marcusians and Marxist-Leninists, are a major headache for unions and industrialists alike.

The workers are beset by rising household prices, a shortage of inexpensive housing, social problems caused by massive migration from the backward south to the industrial north, and a chaotic national medical care system. These provide an appealing list of issues.

Left-wing students and teachers lend support and advice. Student and worker groups have established close collaboration. They had a meeting in Turin in July. The "Maoists" want to "set fire to the capitalist class and this capitalist state," according to a communiqué presented to the meeting by the Fiat workers' committee.

The radicals, in their own words, despise the unions, whether they are led by moderate Moscow-line Communists or by Roman Catholics. They call the unions the "fire squad" of the industrialists.

'ADAPTS TO SYSTEM'

The Communist party in Italy has adapted to the parliamentary system, the radicals say, making the party an "instrument of direct repression of the workers' independence, an open class enemy."

This stings the Communists, but they believe a few thousand Maoists are no match for the party's nationwide, well-organized strength.

SMALL PLANTS IDLED

Scores of small plants from the Alps, to Sicily have been made idle by worker take-overs whenever there have been prospects of layoffs or transfers.

"Workers now react with a fighting capacity that was unimaginable until recently," says Pierre Cerriti, 33, national secetary of the metal workers' union.

HOURLY WAGES

Hourly wages for semiskilled construction or shop employees run from 80 to 80 cents an hour for a 44-hour week.

Similar wage increases are sought for bank employees and workers in a wide range of industries—soft drinks, petroleum, glass, transportation, electricity and umbrellas.

UNIONS SAY

The unions say the industrialists' warnings that such wage increases are inflationary. They quote industrial data showing that the economy, despite a sharp increase in man-hours lost to strikes, has never been so flourishing.

The industrialists say the wage increases sought will actually increase labor costs 30 per cent or more because of higher accompanying social security charges payable by employers. This will inevitably force prices up. Umberto Cutti, a personnel director at Fiat says: "Fiat doesn't set the prices of its vehicles; the workers do, through their wage demands."

Main labor negotiations became stalled this week, and a number of strikes were called. They are expected to touch off Italy's anticipated "hot autumn" of labor agitation, almost certainly including demonstrations and riots which could endanger Rumor's weak government.

Tax Program Hit

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Michigan Sen. Phillip A. Hart in Kalamazoo Friday attacked the Nixon administration's tax program. U-M Threat of Legal Move Halts Protest

ANN ARBOR (AP) — After University of Michigan President Robben Fleming threatened antiwar protestors on his campus with legal action, militants called off Friday's planned disruption of classes on military science.

But at a rally attended by about 200 persons on the campus Friday night, students vowed to storm Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) classrooms again Monday afternoon.

The protesters began their drive to push the ROTC program off campus Thursday when groups of 30-50 students stopped three military science classes.

Nearly three hundred students gathered Friday noon in the center of the campus to hear future plans discussed. Student spokesmen said the demonstrations were called off Friday to avoid jeopardizing those students who protested Thursday thinking they would not receive court punishment.

Camille was no lady.

Camille was a hurricane the likes of which this country has never seen.

Starting on the night of August 17th, it ripped its way through Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

It flooded Virginia and West Virginia.

It killed people by the hundreds.

It destroyed homes by the thousands.

It crippled countless small businessmen and farmers and fishermen.

And it left thousands of Americans in desperate straits.

Red Cross volunteers are there right now, doing everything they can, but the latest estimate says it will take $15,000,000 to put those thousands of American men, women and children back on their feet.

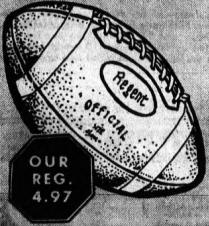

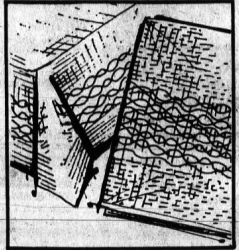

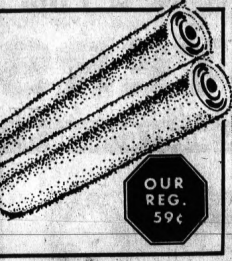

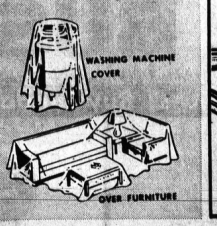

Give them all you can. Right now, you're all they've got.

Camille was a disaster.

Give to your local American Red Cross Chapter or United Fund.

Radical Change in Soviet Navy Role Seen

LONDON (AP) — The buildup of Soviet warships in the Mediterranean was seen by experts in London yesterday as a radical change in the traditional role of the Russian navy.

Twelve more ships sailed through the Straits of Gibraltar Thursday and the British Ministry of Defense estimated that Soviet naval strength in the area now at 44 ships. Other allied sources placed the total of Soviet ships at near 70. Of these, 44 were surface and subsurface combat vessels and the rest intelligence-gathering, logistic and supply units.

The U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean numbers 50 ships, including two attack aircraft carriers. The Russian fleet does not include aircraft carriers.

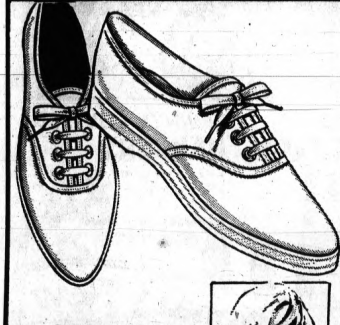

The chief aim was to make clear to the United States that its Navy was not the sole master on the high seas. The experts said another reason for the growing Soviet presence in the Mediterranean might be to hold naval exercises at this military arm should

Junior Editors Quiz on ELECTRICITY

QUESTION: How does electricity get into a lamp socket?

ANSWER: If electricity, opposite poles attract each other. Picture (1) shows an empty lamp socket. Two wires from opposite poles of the power source come through the bottom; one — we call it pole (A) — connects with the screw top of the socket; the other — pole (B) — connects with a metal plate inside the socket. These two connections do not touch.

Notice that the light bulb in (2) also has a pole (A) and a pole (B). When you screw the bulb into the socket far enough, the two pole (As) connect and so do the pole (Bs).

The current runs up a delicate wire inside the bulb, which is connected by a fine filament to the other side. The current runs across the filament and down the other wire; now everything is connected and a circuit is established.

The filament tries to resist the current — gets white hot doing so, and makes the bulb glow with light (3).

If you put your finger in an empty socket, your finger would connect poles (A) and (B). Instead of cheerful light, you'd get a nasty shock. It's dangerous — don't try it!

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Year-book if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Current Books

NORMA JEAN, by Fred Laurence Gules (McGraw-Hill, $8.95).

This is a serious biography of a woman the author feels could have ranked among the great actresses of film history.

That the lady's studio name happened to be Marilyn Monroe makes the tortured detail more intriguing and the bare, documentary approach more palatable.

Here is Marilyn, the unsure, striving artist, not the "arrogant little tail twitcher," as one screen writer called her.

The author, a playwright and public relations executive, is more concerned with the doctors who fed her pills and the friends who fed her pathetic fears than he is with the loves which brought her momentary solace.

The author gets close to her but, perhaps, no one can explain this sad woman.

THE FRENCH CONNECTION, by Robin Moore. (Little, Brown, $5.95).

Most investigators will admit that luck often plays a large part in breaking apart any investigation. This book, subtitled "The World's most Crucial Narcotics Investigation," is a perfect example.

And here again we see the versatility of Robin Moore, who built a following with the factual "Green Berets" and followed with "The Country Team," a nifty novel, and his biographical "Fiedler," about the colorful director of the Boston Pops, Laurence Gules (McGraw-Hill, $8.95).

Moore sets down an incredibly detailed account of the investigation which turned up 123 pounds of heroin worth some $32.5 million, from the innocuous start to the thriller ending.

THE CANARIS CONSPIRACY, by Roger Manvell and Heinrich Fraenkel. (McKay, $5.95).

Some commentators for year have sneered at Adm. Wilhelm Canaris and the other German leaders who botched their attempts to kill Adolf Hitler.

The critics say the plotters did little but plot and talk. Authors Manvell and Fraenkel, who have produced a shelf of books on the Third Reich, stamp the critics as wrong and cruel.

Canaris was German military intelligence chief. Other plotters included army generals, diplomats and politicians.

The story has been told before. But Manvell and Fraenkel have done a job of knitting through the claims of Third Reich survivors who say they had a hand in the great plotting. They have dotted 'i's and crossed 't's.

Cassini Brings Fashions to Detroit

By JEANNE NELSON

Man comes of age in the new fall-winter collection by Oleg Cassini. The internationally known designer, who showed his new men's line for fall and winter in the Detroit Press Club Friday, scolds at the idea that new trends in men's fashion have a feminine element about them.

"Men's wear can only be effeminate if it is designed that way," he claims. His own collection is a bold statement of color in strong tones that move with ease from a nine-to-five day into leisure weekends. Shaped, double-breasted jackets with six and eight buttons (either two or three to button) dominated the show throughout.

Ask Minister of Hometown to Unite Pair

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: I have lived in this town for only three and a half years and have never attended church here, so I wanted my wedding in my old hometown where I know the pastor quite well. My fiancé says it is improper to marry outside of your town.

Who has the right to choose? And is it improper to marry outside of your hometown? — Vicki

Dear Vicki: It is not a question of being "improper," but of finding the most convenient and happy arrangement.

Fortunately, there is a very simple solution. You have lived in your present location long enough to feel it is home, and friends of you and your fiancé undoubtedly live there, as well as his family. It would, therefore, seem the best place to have the wedding.

But there is no reason your own pastor may not perform the ceremony. This is often done. Discuss it with the clergyman at a church in your new hometown, and with his approval, invite your pastor to perform, or at least assist in, the ceremony.

CONGREGATION

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently, a question arose as to the congregation standing when the bride and groom left the altar after the wedding. In over forty years I have attended weddings of the wealthiest and of the poorest, and I have never seen this happen.

After this couple had passed each row those who were seated there rose, and this continued until the last row. Most of the times no one stands until the couple reaches the end of the aisle. Is this new innovation correct? — Mary M.

Dear Mary: There is no definite answer — it varies in different communities and congregations. In the area where I live, the congregation stands when the bride and groom leave. In most cases the clergyman asks them to be seated after the first part of the ceremony. Occasionally they remain standing throughout the ceremony.

Elsewhere it is customary for the guests to remain seated at all times. It would be perfectly correct for them to rise as the couple leave, either row by row, or all at once.

Home base for this fashion wit is Milan, Italy, sometimes New York but, that European influence is definitely a factor in all his designs. He has been working with Italian knitting mills for some time now and insists that knits will be playing bigger and bigger roles in the future of menswear.

To line (thereby losing the ease) or not to line, has always been the biggest problem with using knits. Cassini suggests one answer is a stretch fabric lining. It might just work!

As opposed to the worsteds in this collection — all trim, taut and angular he envisions knits in a considerably more relaxed way, even abolishing the front trousers crease entirely.

Using the same philosophy that has made him so successful through the years in women's designs, the dapper Cassini insists that separation of the sexes in fashion is absolutely essential. "There is something very unnatural about males and females looking alike," he says. If you've ever heard or seen Oleg Cassini in person or on TV, you know he had a few more things to say about this that naturally can't be printed.

His women's designs have always been notoriously sexy, although subtly so with the master's touch. And, this is accomplished more often than not by concealment of the built-in structural elements and a revelation of the natural female form.

In switching to men's fashion, he apparently favors a much bolder concept that is stated in a number of ways including the wide use of ornamental buttons both on jackets and shirts.

The Cassini collection, along with other name designer collections of men's fashions are being displayed in "New Directions Shops" in the J. L. Hudson downtown, Oakland, Eastland and Northland Centers and will shortly be arriving in our Pontiac Mall store.

J. W. Smith, men's merchandising manager for Hudson's, our host at this press luncheon, is extremely enthusiastic about the store-within-a-store concept that now includes men's fashion boutiques as well as women's.

Oleg Cassini proves that a casual look can still be a handsome one. At left are matching navy slacks and blazer jacket with bright red piping that serves to identify the Cassini touch. The other model wears blue slacks with red blazer piped in blue. J. L. Hudson's is featuring Cassini designs in its "New Directions" shops.

One-Way Tickets Mark the Life of Those Blessed With Youth

By SHIRLEY GRAY

Just wait 'til you hear what Karen Andrae, daughter of the Maynard Andraes of Bloomfield Hills, is doing with her young life! Karen, a Katherine Gibbs grad, has been working in Chicago for a year, and Lord knows what a bore that gets to be.

So, come next month, she's quitting, hopping a plane to Hawaii and then she's off to see the world. The beautiful part of it all is that all her tickets will be one-way. She's at that loose, lovely time of life when it doesn't necessarily matter when she gets back.

Meanwhile, for the rest of the family, life goes on. Dolph and Adrienne are off to the University of Denver, she is returning as a senior, he an entering freshman.

SCANDINAVIA

Doris Baldoni and her mother, Mrs. Joseph Baldoni, of Bloomfield Hills, just took their first trip to Scandinavia although both are experienced European hands.

"The best part of the trip," says Doris, "was the desserts in Norway, Sweden and Denmark." Paradoxically, the women there were surprisingly slim, observes our traveler.

Among the beautiful sights: Norway's Hardfjord, Stockholm, Copenhagen, the blond children everywhere.

One of their stops was the home of sculptor Carl Milles, outside Stockholm. The grounds abound with pieces created just for that setting. Milles' second home for many years, of course, was Cranbrook. The cast of his well-known fountain at the school is one of the works on display at his Swedish home.

HIPPIES

Doris, an English teacher at Pershing High School, takes some comfort from the number of hippies she saw in Scandinavia and feels it's nice to know that whatever it is that's causing the phenomenon, it's not just this nation's problem.

It is really true that the George Walkers have sold Rock Castle, their Harbor Springs home of one year. In any case, they are back in Del Ray now, miles away from the autumnal chill that Michigan is enduring in lieu of summer.

Picnic Set for Group

Members and guests of the Waterford Township Book Review Group will gather Monday at 11:30 a.m. for a picnic meeting in the Elizabeth Lake Road home of Mrs. William Miller.

"Erasmus of Christendom" by Roland Bainton will be discussed. Sharing cohesious duties will be Mrs. Russell Maybee and Mrs. Albert Kray.

Local Freedom League Plans Talk at YWCA

Frank Joyce, national staff member of People Against Racism, a Detroit-based organization, will speak on "The New White Backlash," Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Pontiac YWCA.

The meeting, sponsored by Oakland County Branch of Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, is open to the public.

A question and answer period will follow the talk.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently you answered in your column that it was better for children to learn the facts of life from an "informed, responsible educator" than in the home where the parents equaled sex with sin, etc. In other words, you were pushing sex education in the schools.

That sounds all right, but how do we know that the school teachers are "informed and responsible"? Some friends of mine said they are sure their sixth grade daughter is being taught by a COMMUNIST teacher who is trying to break down the morals of our youth by telling them there is nothing wrong with "sex." I heard, too, that one 12-year-old boy had his head so filled with sex at school he went home and tried to "practice" on his little sister.

It has been proved that sex education has been the ruination of the Scandinavian countries. Do we want that to happen here?

ALSO CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: I recently returned from COPENHAGEN, DENMARK, and noticed no "ruination" there. In fact their sex crime rate is far lower than ours, and declining steadily. I, too, heard the tale about that 12-year-old boy, but thus far no one has been able to provide me with his name.

Recently I have been deluged with material from anti-sex education organizations. One in particular sent a questionnaire that supposedly was being used in our junior high schools. I, too, was appalled to see such "advanced" questions. Upon investigation, I learned that this questionnaire was NOT used in our public schools. It was used for premarital counseling! Quite a difference!

Why don't YOU check out what you hear? Go to school and ask to see the material being used, and talk to the teachers who teach the courses. They will cooperate and you will be much relieved.

And don't worry about the quality (or political persuasion) of our schoolteachers. In a class of 36 students, the teacher has 36 "watchdogs." For children go home and tell their parents everything.

DEAR ABBY: The young married woman across the hall from me accepted $500 from her father-in-law for having "given up" smoking. (She is pregnant.) Yet she comes over here at least once a day and begs a cigarette off me. I like this person a lot, and hate to refuse her but I don't like being a party to this sort of deception. Any suggestions?

A FRIEND

Concerned Writer Expresses Some Fear on Sex Education

DEAR FRIEND: Tell her! But be prepared to see your friendship go up in smoke.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has an 83-year-old great aunt who is a darling woman. Most of her friends are gone now, and we are her only relatives within the immediate area, so on Sundays she cooks Sunday supper and invites us. Her cooking isn't what it used to be, but we can stand that. It's the roaches!

She isn't careful about her housekeeping, and the bugs are everywhere. Crawling up on the table, in the sugarbowl, etc.

I just cannot accept another invitation to eat at her house! My children have positively refused to go there. She is a very sensitive woman and I hate to come right out and tell her the honest truth, so I've been making excuses until I am blue in the face.

Can you offer a suggestion for handling this very touchy situation in a diplomatic way? I told my husband that she is HIS great-aunt, and HE should tell her, but he refuses as he's afraid she wouldn't take it very well.

STUMPED IN INDIANA

DEAR STUMPED: It is highly unlikely that an 83-year-old woman is going to change the quality of her housekeeping at this late date, so if you refuse to eat with roaches (and I don't blame you) continue to decline her dinner invitations, saying YOU like to cook on Sundays, and invite HER to your house.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Contract Bridge Great Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Funeral services were being completed today for Helen Sobel Smith, one of the world's best contract bridge players, who died in a Detroit hospital Thursday night from cancer. She was 58.

Playing under the name of Mrs. Sobel, she achieved recognition in a long tournament career, often playing with Charles Goren, a champion player and noted author who retired from active play in 1957.

A spokesman for the American Contract Bridge League in New York described her as "universally ranked as the best American woman bridge player of all time, if not the world's best."

She won her first ABCL championship tournament in 1934 and her last in 1968.

She had won more league events than any other woman.

In 1937, Ely Culbertson, the leading bridge expert of his time, invited her to play on his team in the first World Team Championship. She represented North America in that championship again in 1957, and played for the United States on the First World Team Olympiad in 1960.

MORE POINTS

By 1958, she had amassed more accumulated master points than any other American woman player, and she held this record without interruption until 1964.

She was born Helen Martin in Philadelphia. She learned to play bridge during a brief career as a chorus girl, during which she appeared with the Marx Brothers in the film "Animal Crackers."

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR EKSTRAND

MR. AND MRS. JOHN COOPER

Married 50 Years

An afternoon open house in their residence on Cherokee Road will honor the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ekstrand.

Area residents for 27 years, they have two children and seven grandchildren. Mrs. Wallie Maki of Redwood Street, Dale Caswell of Hillcliff Street and their families are feting the women's parents with the open house.

Mr. and Mrs. Ekstrand were married Sept. 11, 1919 in Seattle, Wash.

MR. AND MRS. J. M. COOPER

A family party at the home of their youngest son, James, marked the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Cooper of Pauline Street.

The couple was married Sept. 13, 1919 in Madisonville, Tenn.

Their other children are: Mrs. Ernest (Lorene) Hyde of Athens Street; Henry Evans Cooper, also of Pauline Street and Gid Lee Cooper of Stanley Street.

There are nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Couple Makes Wedding Vows on Lunch Hour

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — It was a wedding, but the usual traditions had some variations.

Fish, tacos and watermelon were eaten in place of cake.

There wasn't a reception for the bride and groom, James Lindop and Bonnie Jennings.

The newlyweds worked at a registration table at the Simmons University of Mississippi senior, was his own before and after the wedding.

Lindop is assistant director of admissions at UTEP. His bride is a secretary to the dean of the Nancy Spivey and Melanie Sanders, had borrowed the 1949.

They were married during their lunch hour, and afterward returned to the campus to help register students for the second year.

The couple was offered the afternoon off, but Mr. and Mrs. Lindop chose to begin their honeymoon after registration was finished.

Youth's Car Painted Pink

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — The birthday present of Wayne Simmons, University of Mississippi senior, was his own before and after the wedding.

The girls then crammed the interior with balloons and draped it from bumper to bumper with crepe paper.

The paint was washable, Simmons was happy to learn.

Paul McCormack of Binghamton is teaching English and Latin to Eskimo, Indian and white Alaskans in a school where one tuition bill was paid last year in moose meat.

McCormack, who was a painter, paperhanger and odd-job man before becoming a teacher, made up his mind to go to Alaska as he watched more and more youths join the Peace Corps or take what amounts to payless jobs to teach children of the poverty pockets of America.

"I started to get this strong feeling, this strong sense that if they can give up a year, I can give up a year. I asked for a leave of absence and got it."

The school is 300 miles from the Arctic Circle and is run by Jesuits. "It isn't exactly like any other school in the world. One of the subjects in our first two days of orientation for volunteers is how to escape coming down with cabin fever," he commented, explaining that "cabin fever" is a virulent neurotic reaction to living in isolation.

2 Hurt in Crash Still in Hospital

Two Pontiac residents, injured in a fatal three-car crash in the city Thursday, remained in critical condition this morning in William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak.

The injured are George Goodson, 28, of 287 Perry and Lillian Amos, 20, of 285 Osmon.

Killed in the crash was a woman cabdriver, Mrs. Benjamin J. Hyde, 46, of 116 Raymond. Goodson was a passenger in the cab, and Miss Amos was a passenger in a car driven by James H. Curry, 30, of Tulsa, Okla.

The two cars were involved in an intersection crash at 6:15 a.m. Thursday at Osmon and South Paddock. Curry has been charged with manslaughter and faces examination in Pontiac District Court on Thursday.

Latin Club Sets

Potluck Dinner

A potluck dinner sponsored by the Pontiac Latin Club will be 6:30 p.m. tonight at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, 400 W. South Blvd., at the corner of Bagley.

Also sponsoring the event held in honor of Mexican Independence Day, will be Haranbee, the Hispanic-American Club and the Pontiac Office of Economic Opportunity. Mexican food and music will be provided. The public is invited to attend.

Husband Is Shot; Police Charge Wife in Incident

Mrs. Willie Atkins, 38, of 404 Bagley is being held in Oakland County Jail on a charge of attempted murder in the shooting of her husband, according to Pontiac Police.

He was in fair condition in Pontiac General Hospital today with a stomach wound.

Pontiac police said the shooting took place at 1:35 a.m. today at the 88 Club, 88 Bagley.

There are now about 100 million cars and trucks in this country. By 1980, the figure is expected to be 160 million.

2 Shooting Victims Are 'Unchanged'

Waterford Township Police today reported the conditions of two people wounded in a shooting incident yesterday are unchanged.

Thomas Atwell, 29, of 1300 Jeffwood remains in critical condition at Grace Hospital, Detroit, following neurosurgery. His wife, Carolyn, 27, is listed in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit at Pontiac General Hospital.

Police theorized the shootings occurred as the husband apparently tried to kill his wife and then himself early yesterday morning at their home.

Restaurant Fire Damage $5,000

Waterford firemen estimated $5,000 damage at the Steak and Eggs Restaurant, 6395 Dixie, where faulty wiring was believed responsible for a dinner-time fire yesterday.

Several customers fled when flames erupted in an area housing the charcoal broiler fan, firemen said. The fire was reported at 6:23 p.m.

News in Brief

More than $800 in appliances were taken in a burglary of the home of Brenda Fletcher, 21 Miller, sometime early this morning, according to Pontiac Police.

Against Firebirds Tonight

Dayton Colts Favored by Five

Dayton's stomping Colts, who have lost only two of their last 21 games in the Midwest Football League, are five point favorites tonight to defeat the Pontiac Firebirds at Winner Stadium.

Dayton's two losses in consecutive order came at the hands of Lackawanna and Lansing, the divisional leaders, by a total of five points.

However, the Colts, 1968 MFL champions have most everyone been capped by the title squad except quarterback Pete Mikolajewski, who is now with the San Diego Chargers.

HIS UNDERSTUDY

Pistol Pete's understudy Mike shoes capably as the No. 1 QB in Schneider however has filled the league in the passing department.

Pontiac's hopes for staying in the Central Division lead is on the line since co-leader Lansing is a strong favorite to defeat Flint tonight.

It will be Schneider's passing and Chuck McElligott's receiving against Doug Holcomb's aerials to his top receiver Craig Hanson.

Two big lines will battle each other, with Pontiac having the weight edge on defense and Dayton the edge on offense.

The secondary units will pit the Firebirds' midjet quartet led by Chuck Stein against the tall defensive backs of Dayton led by Al Thornton and Roy Kronenburger.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. Ticket window will open at 6:15 and the Firebirds are hopeful of breaking the record crowd of 5,200 set against the Colts in 1965.

Skippers Pounce on Laker Miscues

By DON VOGEL

Waterford Township's rebuilt football team was full of too many surprises for West Bloomfield last night.

The aggressive Skippers unveiled unexpected speed and power in the backfield and the defense forced the visiting Lakers into several costly errors which led to a 15-0 Waterford victory.

Three fumbles — two lost — by West Bloomfield opened the gates for all of Waterford's points in the opening game for both schools.

The first miscue ended a long Laker march after taking the opening kickoff and Waterford quickly drove 79 yards for its first TD. A bobbled punt led to a safety and another Laker fumble was recovered on the 20 and the Skippers quickly carried in for the final points of the nonleague tilt.

END SWEEP

Mike Shaw capped the first quarter drive by sweeping around right end from the four. Quarterback Carl Whetstone tallied the other touchdown on a one-yard sneak.

West Bloomfield, also being reconstructed by coach Art Paddy after heavy graduation losses, knocked at the door four times, but the Skippers kept it locked.

The safely early in the third period seemed to take the steam out of the Lakers. They were limited to only 59 yards rushing and passing in the second half after moving the ball well in the opening two periods.

Fullback Craig Whetstone proved to be a strong power runner for the Skippers. He carried 13 times for 72 yards. While he was running inside, junior halfback Don LaBlanc showed excellent outside speed with 59 yards in 15 tries.

Shaw, who has power and good speed for 57 yards in 11 carries. West Bloomfield's big threat was Randy Beaver who sped 70 yards in 16 tries, displaying power, speed and an ability to follow blockers.

LONG RUN

Quarterback Bill Bullock raced 26 yards on an end sweep, the first play from scrimmage and the Lakers marched to the Waterford 18 before fumbling away the bid.

The Skippers charged right back with a 21-yard sprint by Craig Whetstone and a 16-yarder by LaBlanc the long plays in the march capped by Shaw's short sprint. Steve Krassback kicked the conversion.

The third quarter safety resulted where sophomore Dave Carey tried to field a Waterford punt inside the five instead of letting it bounce into the end zone. He fumbled and fell on the ball less than a yard from the goal line.

Bullock was thrown in the end zone on the next play.

Waterford's attack was hampered by 153 yards in penalties, which caused Coach John Moffat discomfort, and West Bloomfield was slowed by two fumbles and a Skipper defense that checked its foe at the 18, 10, 8 and 15 yard lines.

W. L. Western New, But Grid Habit Is 'Old'

It may be a new school, but coach Leo Folsom still has the same habits . . . winning football games. Walled Lake Western made its grid debut in whipping Bloomfield Lahser, 40-6, last night with Roy Coome connecting on four long pass plays.

Bob Zaebst took a pair of 60 yard pass plays from Coome and Marvin Gross was on the receiving end of a 23 and 55 yarder as Western held a 20-0 lead at halftime.

Coome connected on 11 of 21 passes for 296 yards while Lahser's passing game netted only 18 yards in four completions. Lahser scored its only TD in the third quarter on a one yard dive by Craig Albert.

Zaebst was on the receiving end of 127 yards of the passing total. Coome also accounted for a pair of two-point conversions by passing on passes to Zaebst.

Central has its moments of glory, too. Junior halfback Dennis Brown turned in the most exciting play of the event when he took a kickoff on his own 14-yard line and went all the way behind a wall of blockers for the six points.

SCORE TWICE

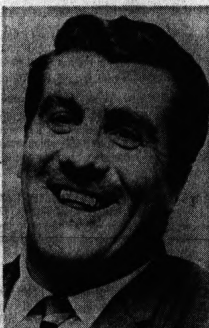

Drake, who collected 138 yards in seven trips, and Leigeb, good for 49 yards in 17 carries, scored twice each as the Chemics ran up 394 yards rushing. Midland shunned the forward pass, tossing only one time with that one falling incomplete.

But with Drake and Leigeb around the passes weren't needed.

Leigeb capped a long drive in the first by diving in from the one to put the Chemics ahead 6-0.

ELECTRIFYING RUN

Brown then produced his electrifying run to score at 7:04 and deadlock the game at 6-6.

JOLLY GIANT—Alex Webster smiles like a coach without problems as he talks to newsmen following his appointment as head coach of the New York Giants yesterday when Alie Sherman was fired after eight seasons.

Midland came right back, taking the kickoff and marching 66 yards with Drake scooting in from the four-yard line.

But the Chiefs weren't through. Starting from their own 34-yard stripe, the Chiefs ate up the 66 yards — aided by two major penalties — with John McAdoo turning left end for the final 11 yards.

TIGHTENS SCORE

McAdoo's scamper closed the count to 14-12, but Midland, recovering a fumble on its own 25, widened the gap again by covering the 75 yards in just three plays.

Drake was the whole show. After short runs of five and four yards, he set sail on a 66-yarder that put him in the endzone.

The Chemics then wound up the scoring in the third stanza when Leigeb tallied on a five-yard run and John Roberts tackled Chief's quarterback Perry Humphrey in the end zone for a safety.

TOP GAINER

Fullback Charles Clark was the big gainer for PCH. He toted the ball 17 times for 49 of the Chiefs' 123 yards rushing. PCH tried only four passes and the lone completion resulted in a seven-yard loss.

The game doesn't count in the Saginaw Valley Conference standings since the two are in different divisions.

Elsewhere around the SVC, Bay City Central blanked Traverse City 34-0, Alpena shaded Bay City Handy, 28-22, Flint Central rolled past Saginaw Arthur Hill, 48-6, Battle Creek stopped Flint Northern, 27-9, and Flint Northwestern turned in a 37-18 decision over Flint Southwestern.

Halfback Walter Scholka scored twice on runs of three and 20 yards.

Mott Scuttles Rival Captains

Milford Continues Mastery of Jackets

Milford's Redskins continued their season-opening mastery over Avondale last night as they derailed the Yellow Jackets for the fifth straight year, 20-14. The two foes wrapped up the scoring in the first half, and for a few brief moments, it looked as though new coach Tom Wheatly of Avondale would emerge with a victory.

EARLY LEAD

Milford grabbed an early lead, lost it early in the second frame and then put the winning points on the scoreboard just before time ran out in the first half.

Slender senior halfback Tom Newcomb played the hero's role for the Redskins.

WINNING TALLY

Newcomb galloped over on a 55-yard jaunt early in the second quarter and scored the winning touchdown with just five seconds left in the half when he hauled in a 55-yard pass from quarterback Mike Monnier.

The Monnier-to-Newcomb bomb broke a 14-14 deadlock that Avondale had forged with a pair of second-quarter six-pointers.

WON IN '64

The last victory for Avondale in the series that was launched back in 1958 came in 1964 by a 13-0 score. Since then, in losing five times, the Yellow Jackets have been blanketed twice.

Both teams started with a potent running game, using the forward pass only two times apiece.

POWER RUNNER

Fullback Matt Partridge, a senior power runner with 185 pounds on a six-foot frame, exploded on a 35-yard run in the first quarter and rammed over for the two-point conversion to put the Redskins in front, 8-0.

Newcomb hiked that lead to 14-0 early in the second on a 55-yard scamper. Then the Yellow Jackets put on a power show of their own.

Moments later, the Yellow Jackets were knocking again and hitting paydirt on a one-yard dive was Gary Price.

STAGE SET

That set the stage for the winning tally, Monnier's toss to Newcomb.

For the night, Milford collected 191 yards on the ground and 55 — on one completion — in the air. The Redskins were slowed on numerous occasions by penalties. They picked up 95 yards for seven infractions.

BROKEN UP — Defensive halfback Mike Myers (24) of Waterford Kettering breaks up this pass intended for flanker Bob Poe of Waterford Mott during the second half of their game on the Kettering field last night. Myers almost intercepted the ball. Poe later caught a 51-yard touchdown pass to give the Mott eleven a 14-7 victory.

Corsairs Pin 14-7 Setback on Kettering

By FLETCHER SPEARS

With a start like last night's win over Kettering behind them, the sky's the limit now for the Corsairs of Waterford Mott.

Playing Kettering for the first time, the Corsairs polished off their township rival, 14-7, with a come-from-behind Hollywood-type finish that had a crowd of some 3,000 cheering at the end.

Even a few hundred freeloaders on a nearby hillside were impressed.

SEE SAW AFFAIR

It was a seesaw game with all of the action packed into early and late stages of the game.

In between, the two strong squads played a lot of give and take, with several individual players distinguishing themselves with strong performances.

EARLY RUSH

Mott seemed to have the game won early after going ahead, 6-0, in the first stanza.

But Kettering, after a fumble recovery deep in Mott territory, used that break as a springboard and went in to score and take a 7-6 lead with just 1:35 left.

MOTT'S TURN

Then it was Mott's turn. From their own 40, the Corsairs, guided by Bill Ziem, a junior quarterback, who displayed a lot of poise, scored just five plays later to pull it out.

On a third-and-10 situation at his own 49, Ziem faded back and uncorked a pass far downfield. Flanker Bob Poe, a slender senior, leaped above three Kettering defenders at the Captains 20, hauled in the ball and outraced his pursuers to the end zone.

RARIN' TO GO

Whew! "I told you how'd it be," said Mott coach George Perry. "I never saw kids the way they were at halftime. They didn't rest. They wanted to get back out there and go at it."

The Ziem-to-Poe toss wiped out the great comeback the Captains had manufactured just seconds before.

QUICK MARCH

After a Corsair bobbled a punt, Kettering took over on Mott's 38-yard line and marched to paydirt in seven plays with halfback Tom Setter cutting over left tackle for the final four yards. Senior Berry Baker kicked the PAT.

Quarterback Paul Curry engineered that drive and he teamed with fullback Bob Gratz for a 13-yard gain on an option play that put the ball at the Mott 12. Gratz then gained seven yards on first down and added another on a burst into the middle before Setter's turn.

LOOKED TOUGH

Mott looked unbeatable at the onset. Taking the kickoff, the Corsairs moved 58 yards in nine plays with end Bob Schuppach hauling in an 11-yard toss from Ziem for the six points.

From then until the final two minutes, defenses of both teams asserted themselves.

Seaholm Turns Back Groves

Maples Rely on Defenders

While a crowd of more than 3,000 spectators watched, Birmingham Seaholm opened the 1969 football season by edging neighboring Groves last night, 14-8.

Groves battled valiantly throughout the game and almost upset the pre-game favorite Maples until a stalwart Seaholm defensive effort thwarted Groves final drive only seconds before the game ended.

NEAR PAYDIRT

With one minute left in the game and trailing 14-8, the Falcons, under the cool signal calling of junior quarterback Tom Rex, battled their way down to Seaholm's three-yard line where they called time out with a first and goal position.

Rex reached the Seaholm one on a quarterback sneak, but was called for illegal procedure on the next play putting the ball back on the six.

PASS FAILS

A pass to halfback Bruce Mims failed, followed by Bill McLarnon's plunge to the four-yard line with one down left and 12 seconds remaining in the game.

On the next play, Groves' left end, Drew Jackson dashed over center into the endzone and was all alone when Rex's pass whizzed past him two feet above his head, killing all hopes the Falcons had left of at least tying the Maples.

DIFFERENT YEAR

The Maples, who had suffered their first and only defeat in the ten-year series between the schools during last season's opener, 7-6, wasted no time in proving that things were going to be different this year.

Seaholm, after receiving the opening kickoff and moving 81 yards in only eight plays, took a 6-0 lead on a 30-yard pass from quarterback Rick Merrill to halfback Jack Hartrick.

MAPLES LEAD

Halfback Jim Shettel crashed through left guard for the two point conversion giving the Maples an 8-0 lead at the 8:08 mark in the first period.

Seaholm's second touchdown came with 3:43 left in the half when a bad snap from the center on a punting situation pushed the Falcons back to their own five-yard line where the Maples took over possession of the ball.

HIKES LEAD

Seconds later Hartrick bulled his way around left end for the tally giving the Maples a 14-0 lead at the end of the first half.

Groves, which had almost complete control of the ball during the third period, picked up its only touchdown of the evening when Rex plunged over from one yard out with only nine seconds before the final stanza.

A 10-yard pass play to Drew Jackson and a 15-yard pass interference call against the Maples contributed to Groves

Second-Half Surge Sparks Orion Win

Bogged down in the first half, Lake Orion put its gridiron machine in motion in the second half last night and emerged with a 14-0 blanking of Warren Woods before a happy home crowd.

The win was a stalinging one for the Dragons and second-year coach Doug Holcomb and it raised their hopes for the upcoming Oakland A. League opener against Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

Lahser visits the Dragons next Friday.

Adams' Victory Makes History in 42-8 Debut

Although the game wasn't against varsity opposition, the victory was nevertheless an enjoyable one as Rochester Adams took the field for the first time yesterday.

The Adams eleven, under coach Max Hasse, toppled a Southfield junior varsity team, 42-8.

Gary Willis and Mike Hall set the pace with two touchdowns apiece. Hall romped over on runs of 15 and 45, while Willis made it on runs of 1 and 12. Willis also passed to Jim Yount for a five-yard six-pointer, and Mike Pellerito added the final tally on a 65-yard run.

In whitewashing visiting Warren Woods, the Dragons displayed a potential offense and a stingy defense.

After a scoreless first half, Lake Orion broke through with a touchdown in the third and picked up the second one in the final frame.

DEFENDERS SHARP

Meanwhile, the defense was limiting Warren Woods to 81 yards on the ground and zero through the air. The visitors' deepest penetration was to the Orion 20-yard marker.

Quarterback Ed Kubilus and end Gary Roberts teamed to put Orion on the board in the third stanza, after two visits deep into Warren territory in the first half failed to produce any points.

DRIVES FIZZLED

Those two drives carried to the Warren three-yard stripe, but the attack bogged down. But the third-period score lifted the Dragons.

After moving the squad to the eight-yard line, Kubilus then rifled a pass to Roberts for the six points. A Kubilus pass to Tom Perry produced a two-point conversion.

EXTRA TALLY

The Dragons checked in with an insurance tally in the fourth when sophomore fullback Roger Allison barreled through from the five-yard line. On the ground the Dragons came through with 179 yards and they added 81 in the air with Kubilus hitting on five of nine passes.

Giants Boot Sherman; Webster Takes Over

By The Associated Press

The once-proud New York Giants began a new chapter in their football lives today with old workhorse Alex Webster taking over as head coach from the fired Alie Sherman.

Sherman was dismissed and Webster named to replace him late Friday. Sherman's firing came less than 24 hours after the Giants had absorbed their fifth exhibition loss in as many tests, a 17-13 licking Thursday night by the Pittsburgh Steelers at Montreal.

Webster, 38, had served as offensive coach for the past two seasons under Sherman after an illustrious 10-year National Football League career as a running back with the Giants. He was a star during the years the Giants reached their loftiest heights under Sherman.

Webster still holds three records as a player. He ran with the ball 1,213 times, gained 4,805 yards rushing and scored 39 touchdowns by rushing.

Andover Crew Impressive in Blanking Oak Park, 20-0

Bloomfield Hills Andover put together a stingy defense with an unrelenting offense to win its season opener against Oak Park Friday afternoon, 20-0. The Barons, who had beaten Oak Park by an identical score in their season opener last year, overwhelmed the Redskins on offensive yardage, 179 to 80.

The Barons scored their first touchdown with 3:25 left in the first period following defensive back Bob Reid's interception of a pass intended for Oak Park's Gary Kleiman on Andover's 43-yard line.

Five plays later the Barons had reached Oak Park's 37 where Reid shot through right tackle and scampered past the defending backs for the six points.

'RECALLED'

Quarterback Scott Roley once again called on Reid's talents on an end around sweep for the PAT which was good, giving the Barons two extra points, under the new high school scoring rules, and a 8-0 lead.

After exchanging punts, Andover took possession of the ball on Oak Park's 49 and with the aid of a 15-yard interference penalty, moved to the Redskins 20.

FINAL SCORE

Three plays later Roley hit halfback Howard Tryon who dashed the final two yards for Andover's second score and the clock showing just three seconds remaining in the half.

Roley's attempted pass for the PAT was batted away and both teams left at halftime, with the Barons holding a 14-0 lead.

Andover's final touchdown came in the fourth period with just 3:35 remaining.

Howe Dean of Wings' 64-Player Training Camp

PORT HURON (AP)—All the players invited to the Detroit Red Wings training camp arrived Friday for the first day of practice and general manager Sid Abel said, "They all look in pretty good shape."

Forty-one-year-old Gordie Howe, entering his 24th National Hockey League season, led a contingent of 43 professionals and 21 amateurs ready to work. Three of the amateurs are from Europe.

Among the new faces were two NHL veteran defensemen, Carl Brewer and Matt Ravlich. The 30-year-old Brewer, talked out of a four-year retirement early this year by Wings management, is expected to team up with his former Toronto teammate Bob Baun as Detroit's first defensive unit.

Ravlich will probably team with Gary Bergman on the second string. He was acquired

Carl Brewer Answers Call by Red Wings

PORT HURON (AP)—Carl Brewer, a National Hockey League player who hates flying, has been taking flying lessons.

Brewer, the 30-year-old defenseman persuaded out of retirement this year by the Detroit Red Wings, was one of 64 professionals and amateurs who showed up for Detroit's training camp opening Friday.

"Yes, it still bothers me," Brewer said of his adversity to flying. But he added surprisingly, "I had been taking flying lessons."

Brewer explained that he wants to learn how to fly small aircraft because, "I don't mind the little planes, it's the big ones that bother me."

His dislike of large commercial flying was thought to be one of the factors that prompted him to retire from the National Hockey League after the 1964-65 season. A three-time All-Star in his seven years with Toronto, Brewer scored 150 points in 453 games.

Detroit acquired the rights to sign him as a result of a trade with the Maple Leafs which brought Frank Mahovlich, Pete Stelmokowski and Garry Unger to the Wings in 1968.

After retiring, Brewer played on the Canadian National Team for a year, then after retiring on the Canadian National Team for a year, then became player-coach of the Muskegon Mohawks of the International Hockey League in 1967-68. Last year he held the same job with a national team in Finland.

"He knows we fly 90 per cent of the time and he voiced no complaints," said Red Wings general manager Sid Abel of Brewer's signing.

"It's just something I have to put up with," Brewer said, adding that he didn't expect to ride any trains to the various NHL cities while the rest of the team flies.

Coach Bill Gadsby, who plans to pair Brewer with former teammate Bob Baun as the first defensive unit, said the question of flying was never discussed in the contract negotiations.

from Chicago in the draft and hopes to continue a comeback from a serious leg injury which almost ended his career in 1967. "I'm looking forward to Carl Brewer being back," Abel said. "There might be some doubt he can play after four years, but knowing him there is no doubt he will do well."

Last year Brewer was player-coach for a national team in Finland and before that was in the same position for the Muskegon Mohawks of the International Hockey League.

Another newcomer was Larry Jeffrey, a former Wing who was acquired in an off-season trade with New York.

Among the rookies who have the best chance to stick with the Wings is 22-year-old Garry Monahan, who came to Detroit with defenseman Doug Piper in a trade with Montreal for Pete Mahovlich and Bart Crashley.

"He's questionable right now, but if players could make the year with Detroit. "Two others we're high on are defenseman Gerry Hart and Brian Gibbons," Gadsby assured that this season he will keep the Power Line of Howe, Alex Delvecchio and Frank Mahovlich together. Last year the trio set a league record for most goals scored by a line in one season—114.

Gadsby said Detroit this year "is shooting for a playoff spot. I don't care if it's fourth, third, second or first. Since we have been out of the playoffs for the last three years that's all right with me."

The three Europeans on hand at the Memorial Arena were first-regular-season-game in at Pete Hejma of Duisburg, West Germany; Veli-Pekka Ketola of Pori, Finland; and Lennart Svedbert of Sundsvall, Sweden. The Wings are scheduled to practice twice a day starting Monday. Their first preseason game is Sept. 22 vs. Montreal in Halifax, Nova Scotia and their first regular-season game is at home Oct. 11 against Toronto.

Flag Raising Ceremonies Take Place Every Morning at Skyline Camp Where Senior Citizens Are Vacationing

Ringing The Dinner Bell Are Mrs. W. J. Sonnenburg (Right) And Mrs. Ethel Campbell

Senior Citizens Attend Camp

Boys, girls, young people and families took off during the summer for church camps throughout the state.

This week it was the senior citizens living in the Detroit-Pontiac area who set out for Camp Skyline near Almont. The camp is sponsored by the Presbytery of Detroit.

Some 30 women and a few men represented the Pontiac area.

A registered lifeguard was on hand to assist swimmers and a wonderful cook cared for the kitchen.

The senior citizens, 50 years of age and up, took field trips, went fishing, played favorite records, games and took their vitamins.

Discussion on controversial topics and talent programs afforded evening entertainment.

Skyline Camp is open to 50 men and women of all religious convictions who like outdoor adventure and a real change, said Wallace Watt, consultant for the Presbytery.

Senior citizens attending Camp Skyline this week will be back in worship services tomorrow in First Presbyterian Church.

Royce Everett will present the offertory solo, "Come Unto Me" and the Chancel Choir will sing "The Love of God."

Pastor Galen E. Hershey will preach on "Remember Truth" using the Ninth Commandment "Thou Shalt Not Bear False Witness Against Thy Neighbor" as a text.

Why I Go to Church

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the tenth in a series of articles written by Pontiac area residents.)

By MRS. ARTHUR W. SELDEN
Mother of Five; Grandmother of Many

"We are creatures of habit," it has been said. A habit which I formed early in life has paid off rich dividends, for the week does not seem right if it does not start off with Sunday at church. There are many benefits.

Not only do I return thanks to God for a long life of many blessings, but I come away with a feeling of being a better person.

There is the inspiration of a good sermon, the uplift of beautiful music, and more than all else, association with persons who believe quite as I do, meet the same problems that I face each week, and are dedicated to bringing Christian solutions to the turmoil of our present world.

I am challenged by the courage which many in the congregation show in difficult situations, and the steadfastness of their beliefs.

Church membership and constant attendance has been my most rewarding experience.

Our Lady of Refuge Mothers to Hold Tea

The Mother's Club of Our Lady of Refuge School, Orchard Lake, will hold the annual membership tea at the Sisters' Convent, 2725 Erie 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Invitations were sent to all mothers of the children attending the school.

Heading the group as president this year is Mrs. William Fitzpatrick. Mrs. David Roach is membership chairman.

Cochairmen of the tea are Mrs. Charles Lawson and Mrs. Wilfrid Smith.

Assisting with arrangements are Mrs. Donald Most, Mrs. Eloy Gonzalez, Mrs. Thomas Solezzo, Mrs. John Mager, Mrs. Anthony Sanders and Mrs. Peter Landry.

Sister Mary Noel is principal of the school.

New Temple to Observe Annual Day

The congregation of The New Temple under the spiritual guidance of Rabbi Ernst J. Conrad, will hold Shabbat Shuvah services at the Birmingham Unitarian Church, Woodward at Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills, at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

This special Sabbath (the Sabbath of Repentance) falls between the Jewish New Year (Rosh Hashanah) and the Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur).

The sermon titled "To Do Justice," pursues the theme that repentance, prayer and good deeds may influence God's judgement upon man and avert the stern justice which man's failings and trespasses would justify.

Immediately after the service, members and guests are invited to gather at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Green, 3650 Larkwood C.T., Bloomfield Hills for further discussion.

This will present an opportunity for new and old members to become better acquainted. Mr. Green is president of the New Temple congregation.

Minister of Music Comes to St. Paul

John W. White, director of choirs at St. Timothy Evangelical Lutheran Church in Oak Park for the past two years, has accepted the position of choir director at St. Paul United Methodist Church, 165 E. Square Lake, Bloomfield Township.

His duties at St. Paul will include directing the Chancel and Children's Choir along with being in charge of the total music program.

A graduate of Oberlin College, White was a member of the college choir and orchestra under the direction of Robert Fountain. He received his master of music degree from the University of Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1965.

With his wife, Barbara, and daughter, Kathy, he lives at 2843 Teasdale, Troy.

PLAY BALL — The family of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Colberg love to play ball. Here Erik is ready to bat if someone will pitch. The family consists of (from left) Erik,

Karna, Scott, Stig, and the pastor and his wife. The Rev. Mr. Colberg, pastor of Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, has accepted a call to serve in English language work and as ecumenical consultant with the Basel Christian Church in Malaysia. An open house will honor the family at the church Sunday afternoon. Members of the community are invited.

Pastor Colberg Accepts Call to Serve Church in Malaysia

The Rev. Charles A. Colberg, pastor of Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, Pontiac Township has accepted a call from the board of World Missions of the Lutheran Church of America to serve with the Basel Christian Church in Malaysia.

With Mrs. Colberg and children Erik, Karna, Scott and Stig, he will leave for his new home in Kota Kinabalu, Sabah in the northern part of Borneo.

The new work will be basically with Chinese persons.

A graduate of Augustana Theological Seminary, Pastor Colberg came to Pontiac after his ordination into the ministry in June 1960 at Rock Island, Ill.

He was installed as pastor of St. John Lutheran Church, formerly Gloria Dei Church, when located on Hill and Cherry Court.

When the congregation completed the building of the new church on Pontiac Road, the name was changed to Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

Pastor Colberg has served as president of the Pontiac Pastors' Association and later as president of the Pontiac Area Council of Churches.

FOUNDING FATHERS

The founding fathers of the Basel Christian Church of Malaysia came to Sabah in much the same way as the early pioneers came from Europe to the United States.

Shortly after acquiring the North Borneo territory in the 19th century, the British learned of the industriousness of the Hakka Chinese farmers and of the Basel Mission's work among them.

The British asked if the mission would assist in recruiting Chinese Hakka farmers for North Borneo. It did.

The first Christian Hakka families arrived in Kudat, the purchase of land and the North Borneo in 1883, following erection of buildings.

a hazardous crossing from Hong Kong. Others followed, both of scholars for the preparation of pastors and teachers, and in the sending of missionaries.

Recently the Lutheran Church Reformed Lutheran Basel in America has joined hands with the Basel Church in opening up a ministry to the Aborigine and conversions Baseline in Sabah's interior.

church congregations sprang up along the seacoast from Kudat in the North to Tenom near Sabah's southern border.

The Basel Christian Church of Malaysia has maintained its connections with both the China Basel Church and the Basel Mission.

A few Hakka pastors have come from China.

And, since World War II a succession of Basel Mission missionaries have served in the church's educational and evangelistic ministries.

6,000 MEMBERS

Today the Basel Christian Church in Malaysia has 6,000 members in 20 congregations, served by eight pastors, five evangelists, and four untrained evangelists giving part-time service.

Birmingham Unitarian

Irvin Rubin, director of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation and Land Use

Study, will discuss "The Next 20 Years" at the cooperative dinner Friday evening at Birmingham Unitarian Church, Woodward and Lone Pine, Bloomfield Hills.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. The program follows at 8.

Those attending are asked to bring a dish serving four, a place setting—knives, forks, plates—and 50 cents.

Reservations are being taken by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Willingham and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rittinger.

The ice cream social set for 5 p.m. tomorrow will be a birthday party celebrating the 10th anniversary of the first service in the church building.

Women are asked to bake a sheet cake for the occasion.

Grace Lutheran

Rally Day will be observed at both the 9 and 11 a.m. worship services tomorrow in Grace Lutheran Church. All children will attend regular morning worship with their parents.

Sunday School teachers and assistants will be commissioned during the worship hour, then spend the rest of the period with SS classes.

The Women's Choir will sing "Loving Shepherd of the Sheep" under the direction of Mrs. Richard C. Stuckmeyer at the early service. The Senior Choir directed by Melvin Rookus will sing at 11 a.m.

Regular Sunday School classes for pre-school children through grade six will resume Sept. 21.

Hold Service
The Rev. Carl Sayers, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Bloomfield Township will conduct a memorial service at the 8 and 10 a.m. services tomorrow for the late Bishop James A. Pike who died this week near the Dead Sea in Israel.

Tea Sunday
The Adult Choir of Mt. Olive Baptist Church is sponsoring a Queen's Tea at the home of Mrs. Mary Teasley, 192 E. Wilson, 4:45 p.m. tomorrow. Mrs. Bernice Carroll is chairman of the event.

Seminar Concerns Women

Among the programs offered by Division of Continuing Education sponsored by Oakland University is the 8-week seminar with concentration in "Widows and Divorces." Meetings will explore the problems of women who live alone or must raise children without a father in the house.

Beginning Sept. 24 meetings will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Birmingham Congregational Church, Grandbrook and Woodward, Bloomfield Hills, with the Rev. Raymond A. Fenner, minister of the church, serving as program chairman and moderator. Subjects for the seminar include: "Personal Problems and Solutions," "Effects of Grief and Loss on Children and Mothers," "Loneliness, Self-Doubt and Guilt Feelings," "Problems of Raising Children Without a Father," and "How to Use the Professional." Other program topics are: "Social Life and Remarriage," and "Acceptance and New Opportunities."

Speakers for the weekly meetings, besides the Rev. Mr. Fenner, will be the Rev. Ralph Strible, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour, Birmingham; the Rev. Carl Bieley, director of Social Service and Family Life Metropolitan Detroit Council of Churches; James Theodoroff, senior vice-president of Detroit Bank and Trust; William Robertson, psychologist and director of research of Pontiac Public Schools; and Jesse Bacalis, former divorce attorney.

PRACTICAL. "Women Alone" is an intensive, practical program in which students explore the problems of widows and divorcees. Women who live alone, who may have to support themselves, who may have children to raise without the father in the home, have many frightening problems to solve.

Seemingly society composed of complete families does not necessarily view these "women alone" with compassion or understanding.

This program investigates the main areas of concern as money management, children, social life problems, remarriage, self-improvement, legal rights, and opportunities outside the home.

Professional consultants are drawn in as deemed necessary. OFFER ADVICE. The Continuation Center for Women offers a special testing and advising service for any woman who wants to return to school.

This service helps women diagnose their intellectual abilities and educational interests, evaluate previous academic work and plan an educational program. Women have the opportunity to discuss interests and concerns with knowledgeable and experienced people.

For complete information, contact Continuation Center for Women, 265 South Foundation Hall, Oakland University, Pontiac Township.

REV. JOSEPH W. MOORE

Franklin Road Women Plan Evening Class

A group of women known as the Willing Workers at the Franklin Road Church of Christ and Pastor Robert L. James have been getting together to come up with a program that would be helpful to people of the community.

"The program," Pastor James said, "should be broad enough to meet the needs of all the people with whom it comes in contact."

With this thought in mind, the women of the Franklin Road Church are offering classes every Thursday evening in the church building, 1400 Franklin Road.

Classes now in progress are sewing, cooking, handcraft of all kinds, quilting and upholstery. Other courses will be added as needed. There is no entrance fee. Hours are from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Those who would like to enroll in more than one class are asked to call the church office between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Those who call after hours may get in touch with Mrs. Benah Glazier.

If senior citizens are interested in the classes but lack transportation, they may call the church office.

Well-timed silence hath more eloquence than speech. - Martin Tupper, English author.

St. Stephen's Baptist Marks Anniversary

The Rev. Joseph W. Moore of New Hope Baptist Church, Buffalo, N.Y., will be guest speaker when the congregation of St. Stephen's Baptist Church, 69 S. Astor, celebrates the second anniversary of the founding of the church.

The Rev. Mr. Moore, former pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, will preach at the 11 a.m. service and again at the 3:15 p.m. program.

Dinner will be served members and guests at the church about 1 p.m.

Cochairmen are Mrs. James Thekeld and Mrs. Charles Walton.

1st Birthday at St. James

The Goldenettes, a singing group of St. James Missionary Baptist Church, will observe its first anniversary with a musical program at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Vocal groups appearing on the program include the Heart Touchers, Friendly Echoes, Stars of Faith, Mighty Golden Wonders, Shackford Singers, Wandering Travelers, Goldenaires, Soul Blasters, Gospelites, Joy Harmonizers, and a group from Lansing. There is no charge and the public is invited.

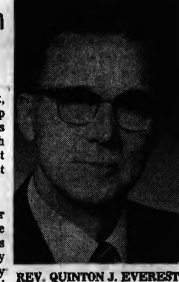

A man's true wealth is the good he does in this world. - Mohammed, founder of Islam.

Founder of Program at First Missionary

The Rev. Quinton J. Everest, who founded "Your Worship Hour," a program now in its 37th year on radio, will preach at services tomorrow in First Missionary Church, 149 N. East Blvd.

Pastor of Gospel Center Church, South Bend, Ind., the Rev. Mr. Everest has served as president of the Missionary Society of the Missionary Church for 19 years, and visited mission fields around the world. For several years he served as chairman of the board at Bethel College, Mishawaka, Ind.

"It's not the dying for a faith that's so hard; it's the living up to it that is difficult." - William M. Thackeray, English novelist.

Mauve Lady's Couch Contrasts With Living Room's Avocado Carpet

Tiny Home Is Decorated Tastefully

By JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

A home's being small does not mean it can't be tastefully furnished and decorated. A case in point, the red block home of Mrs. Alice Cowan in Pontiac.

Mrs. Cowan moved into the diminutive one-bedroom one-story in 1952, five years after it was built.

A collector of antiques, she has incorporated them into her home's decor, making sure that she doesn't sacrifice comfort . . . for when her grandchildren come to call, she wants them to remember grandmother's house as a fun place to visit.

Wallpapered in an American blue, the kitchen is large enough to provide adequate dining space as well as work area. The round pine table is lighted by a crystal-drop chandelier which belonged to Mrs. Cowan's grandmother.

COMPANY'S COMING

When preparing for a company dinner, Mrs. Cowan frequently combines her blue antique goblets, milk glass and blue-embossed china for table settings. As an effective centerpiece, the candleabrum is filled with blue candles to repeat the blue trim of the white china.

"I also like to use the plate with the fresh fruit and flowers," said Mrs. Cowan. "But I'll have to admit I'm quite careful of it. It's over 400 years old."

And, since Mrs. Cowan's not one to hide her favorite china and glassware behind closed doors where they can't be appreciated, she had the doors removed from her top kitchen cupboards turning them into display shelves.

A talented artist, Mrs. Cowan's still-life of onions with its red background hangs on the wall. She has signed it with her Creek Indian name, Statkie, which means white woman.

THREE DAUGHTERS

Art work by two of her three daughters helps to alleviate the drudgery of dishwashing. Mrs. Paul Arnold of Grosse Pointe painted the tiles on the drainboard and Mrs. Louis Schimmel Jr. of Pontiac, the oil on the sink wall.

"It was the first thing I'd ever done," chuckled Mrs. Schimmel, "a lesson in shapes and shadows. I'd relegated it to storage when Mother decided she had a better place for it."

Mrs. Cowan has one other daughter, Mrs. Evan Pievel of Georgetown, Calif. In the nearby den or Oklahoma room as Mrs. Cowan fondly calls it are mementoes of her Creek heritage. "The flag on the wall is the state flag of Oklahoma," she said.

LAND GRANT

"And that paper you see on the wall is a blue print of the original land grant from the federal government. The farm of 160 acres is located on a bluff in Oklahoma overlooking Tulsa."

To make the nearby small living room seem larger, the walls are painted white and the floor is carpeted in an avocado green.

A grand piano dominates the room with the seating capacity provided by a mauve velvet lady's couch and an abstract print sofa.

"The tilt-top card table is one of my favorite pieces," said Mrs. Cowan. "It's solid walnut and hand-carved."

Antique Mirror Above Cherry Commode Reveals Paintings Over Sofa

TRADITIONAL EXTERIOR gives warm appearance to three-bedroom split level, with right side of house featuring wood shingles, diamond-paned windows and scalloped gable.

Porch Marks Design of Roomy Splitlevel

The excellent first impression created by the long, attractive porch at the front of this split-level is carried past the entrance door into the spacious foyer.

A brick-faced fireplace, set into a corner of the family room and surrounded by wood paneling, catches the eye immediately on stepping into the foyer.

Since the family room is at the rear of the house, the view from the front door stretches 25'.

To the left of the foyer is an equally interesting and even longer vista. It encompasses the raised living room, with decorative railings on both sides, and the in-line dining room.

The two-step rise combines with the railings to produce a balcony effect.

LIVING ROOM
The living room and dining room can be reserved for formal entertaining, since the dinette area of the kitchen is

S-10 STATISTICS

Design S-10 has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen with a separate dinette, foyer, three bedrooms and two bathrooms, totaling 1930 square feet. There are 342 additional square feet on the lower level, not including the two-car garage. The overall dimensions are 65' 6" by 34', including the garage.

large enough to handle the daily eating requirement of the family, while the adjacent family room is ideally situated for informal activities.

Sliding glass doors lead from the family room to the rear garden and/or terrace.

Although at the back part of the house, the family room can be reached from the front door without passing through any other room.

Six steps below the family room and a few steps from the two-car garage and full basement are a den, lavatory and laundry.

UPPER LEVEL

The upper level has three bedrooms, excellent closet space and two bathrooms.

The master bedroom, facing the rear, has a large walk-in closet. Its private bath includes a dressing area and a tiled stall shower.

The other bathroom is compartmentalized, with a full wall, mirrored double vanity in one section, a bathtub and water closet.

The two smaller bedrooms are at the front of the house and are entered directly from the bedroom hall which, in turn, is directly accessible from the front foyer.

DESIGN-TO-SIDE

Design S-10 is what is known as a side-to-side split level because the living area and bedroom wing, although at different levels, are located alongside each other rather than one behind the other.

The exterior of this one features a covered portico with wrought iron arches, leading to a double entry door, small diamond-paned windows, scalloped gable, wood shingles and brick veneer.

It has a pleasant, warm appearance.

S-10's splitlevel design is by architect William Chirgots.

Bathroom Expansion Possible

Need more "bath" room? Try compartmentalization. That 26-letter word means simply to divide into separate areas. In a bathroom it will permit simultaneous use of the various facilities by several members of the family.

And it will serve the same purpose as addition of another bathroom at substantial savings of both space and money.

The division can be accomplished quickly and easily by erection of partitions if the room's floor plan permits. If not, a rearrangement of facilities may be necessary.

UPDATE DECOR

You may wish to update the bathroom's decor while you're at it by resurfacing the walls, floor and vanity counters. Be sure you select the right surfacing material.

Chances are the surfacing material in the bath originally was ceramic tile. It was used because it resists moisture and water, is sanitary and easy to keep clean.

Tile is available today in more than 1,000 colors and color combinations, 500 designs and over 100 different shapes and sizes and can be applied over virtually any surface — even old tile.

Ownership of the Southern Pine forests is shared by nearly a million people mostly in small individual tracts.

Chain Proves a Beauty Link

Take a hint from the fashion world and decorate your homes with link chains.

Smart decorators have discovered that chains, for beauty, security and novelty, have as many interesting uses around the house as they have in such fashions as belts and necklaces.

Try suspending chains-as window decorations or room dividers. Hang them from ceilings to hold shelves, planter baskets and lighting assemblies. For an attractive and unusual treatment, use sash chain to form a curtain for any large window. This most practically is done in a foyer or living room where there is no need to close out light completely.

DRAMATIC

This dramatic brass covering for the entire window is highly effective, especially when used with contemporary furniture. Hang the chains from traverse rods, with drapery pins or little S-shaped hooks used to connect the chain to the openings on the rod.

And if a decorative rod is attached to the ceiling, chains may be hung in the same way as room dividers.

Decorative chains are available in gold, brass, black, copper, nickel and zinc plated finishes and, of course, they may be painted any color.

A good way to paint chains for individualized effect is to put a long cord through the top link and dip the chain into the can of paint.

TIE

After submerging the chain, simply tie the cord to a wall bracket or bathroom rod and hang the chains to dry.

Keep a newspaper underneath to catch the paint drippings.

Aside from window treatments and room dividers, chains are useful as well as decorative assets. They fit right into the modern trend of using walls and ceilings as anchors for furniture and accessories.

Instead of taking up floor space with shelving, planter boxes, lamps and even chairs suspended from securely attached decorative chains, from ceiling or wall brackets.

Consult your dealer for proper chain and hook sizes and fastening methods.

Where The Best Begins Status Symbols in BLOOMFIELD HILLS

Lake Hills apartments represents, to many, the highest point in apartment living and social status.

It could be the refined architecture... or the naturally hilly site overlooking the lake... or the fishing and boating... or the water skiing... or the enjoyment of water sports on the lake. And it could be the attention given to details inside the apartments — such as all Westinghouse appliances.

Or it could be the Bloomfield Hills Address.

We really don't know... Come, see for yourself.

New Tables Indispensable in the Home

NEW YORK — It is modest, or the gift of fresh flowers that it is small, it is unobtrusive — but it is indispensable. It used to be called a cigarette table, but there are no longer any function specifications because it has become the "everything" to-furnishings for two or three people. The first requirement for the newly-recognized versatility of the little table is its mobility, whipped in a jiffy when life is quiet and instant different jobs when the pace picks up. It displays accessories and flowers for decoration; it holds plates, cups and ashtrays from sofa-side to chair-side and within handy reach for practical use. Lane up two or three in the front of a long sofa and together moment. It moves into action to take care of the extra guest's place of the cumbersome coffee cup, the ashtray that will immobilize coffee table once so de save your precious new carpet, rigour.

Styling, too, is infinite in its variety. The little table is available in designs that range from Jacobean to "Pop" and in materials that have never been used for furniture until now.

Termites Chomp
Wood, Byproducts

Some creatures are carnivorous, some herbivorous and now there's a word for a pest which eats neither meat nor plants and does $250 million in damage annually in the United States by literally eating people out of house and home.

The pest is the termite, which dines on wood or cellulose by-products of wood, and he's "lignivorous," according to Dr. David Watson, entomologist of the Veliscol Chemical Corporation, supplier of pest-control chemicals.

Approximately 2 million homes get termite treatment each year in this country, and Americans spend about $45 million in every state but Alaska to keep termites in their place — underground and out of buildings.

Movers Responsible Solely for Handling of Appliances

Your heavy appliances such as stoves, refrigerators, home freezers, washing machines and dryers, represent an investment of probably a thousand dollars or more.

If properly prepared for shipment, they should arrive at your new home in excellent working condition. Remember, however, that moving men are only liable for faulty handling, not mechanical damages. They cannot be expected to do the work of experienced servicemen.

ADVICE

B. Leroy Burnham, president of Burnham Van Service, Interstate movers, passes along the following advice about servicing heavy appliances before a move:

Stoves: Call the Power Company if you have an electric stove for both connecting and disconnecting. If you have a gas stove, the Gas Company will disconnect it and connect it in your new home. Movers are not permitted to disconnect gas appliances.

Refrigerators: Remove all food. Defrost the refrigerator and allow it to come to room temperature. It should be thoroughly dried. Glass trays should be wrapped and left inside the box. If yours is a gas refrigerator, the Gas Company will service it. It might also be a good idea to call a local service company to see if your make of refrigerator needs any special servicing for a move.

Home Freezers: Prepare as you would your refrigerator. The freezer must be empty. It is not designed to carry heavy food while in motion and fire hazards prevent the connecting of the freezer to power en route. If you have food left and want it delivered to your new home, contact a local freezer company for packing and shipping instructions.

Washing Machines and Dryers: If gas-fired, have the Gas Company disconnect and connect. Servicing should be considered even though units have moved in the past without service and without damage. Since the mover has no liability

Furniture Field Has No Leader

No one single design trend dominates the wood furniture field, although Spanish is the common denominator in upholstered. Spanish and Renaissance are there in case goods; the former is at or over the crest; the latter is coming up. Ornate, bulky case pieces, with applied plastic "carvings" and "moldings" look like "a lot for the money." But Early American and Contemporary are holding their own.

"Pure" Modern is somewhat scarce, but is doing well with some specialists in the field. Delicate glass, transparent plastics and shining strips of aluminum are "in." Hipple Mod is "out." Almost every display room features a mix of harmonious styles of differing origins, but enough similarities to give a refreshing, uncontrived look. Seldom has the selection been so versatile.

STILL NO SALE . . .

This man has made a serious mistake.
He tried to sell his house alone.

He neglected his job to play salesman . . . exposed his family to danger by opening their home to complete strangers . . . wasted time on curiosity seekers and bargain hunters. RESULT — STILL NO SALE.

Someone should have told him to see a REALTOR. Truly interested buyers seek professional help when they go shopping for a home. Traffic Movement Near Home

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

Every driver knows a shortcut. Generally it winds through an older residential neighborhood; the newer, planned developments have been designed to prevent through traffic.

Now, however, plans are underway to curb such traffic which is dangerous both for residents and drivers because the narrow streets in most older residential areas just cannot handle major traffic movement.

D. Grant Mickle, president of the Automotive Safety Foundation, Washington, D.C., says traffic in older residential neighborhoods has been a problem too long ignored — left to hit of miss traffic control with a resulting increase in the potential for injury and loss of life. Soon, however, he said, a pilot study will call attention to the problem in a constructive way.

PROJECT TO START

Early this fall in Burlington, Vt., a team of civil engineering graduate students will begin a project to "design traffic improvements into the existing transportation facilities of an established neighborhood."

Mickle said the University of Vermont Civil Engineering Department will direct the project, which is supported by grants from both the Automotive Safety Foundation and the University.

Peter G. Koltzow of the Foundation's Urban Division, who will monitor the grant, said the project involves "a study of an established neighborhood with narrow streets, awkward intersections, little or no traffic control, inadequate off-street parking and mixed land uses."

The area was chosen by the Burlington City Planner and the University's civil engineering department. The population of 14,000 represents the highest population per district in the city.

MIXED

The neighborhood, a mixed district of industries, businesses and residences, had the second highest total of traffic accidents in the city over a period of seven years, according to a recent traffic study.

Within the bounds of financial

WHEREVER YOU LIVE — town or country, summer cottage or permanent residence, you will like one of these boxes. resources, city approval, and community participation. Koltzow explained, the students will design for the area some of the traffic features and amenities of a modern suburban neighborhood.

The project, he said, is expected to demonstrate how improved traffic patterns can contribute to general improvement of a neighborhood and, at the same time, will point up a service that a university can provide to a city and provide experience for engineering students who someday will have to work with other disciplines in improving environmental and social conditions.

Because of the many factors to be considered in the redesign of neighborhood traffic patterns, many disciplines will work together for the first time. Koltzow noted that the coordination of city and university services "is one of the many things we will be watching in the study."

MESH?
"We want to see how various departments of an educational institution and a city will mesh and work together."

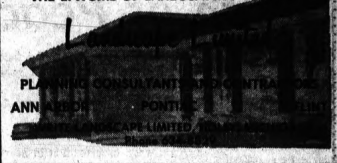

Civil engineering students will be assisted by students and their advisors in fields such as economics, geography, political science, and sociology.

Hold the Phone

What can you do if you're in the middle of a paint job and the phone rings? Tape paper towels around the telephone and put a newspaper beneath it. The next time the phone rings, you can answer it without worrying about paint splatters.

Koltzow said it is hoped the pilot project will serve as an example for other universities and cities across the country, and will demonstrate what specialized cooperation can do to improve the safety and environment of cities.

Death of Peace Corpsman Saddens Bolivians

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — In the slum high above this mountain capital the ragged Indian peasants say Sandra Smith was an angel.

In the city, itself, sophisticated editorial writers say she was a true revolutionary, a soldier who gave her life to the cause of redeeming Bolivia's downtrodden Indians.

In her own eyes Sandra L. Smith, 22, was a Peace Corps volunteer doing her job. That was to run a one-room school where children were learning to read and write. She also helped their mothers with advice on cooking and sanitation, and kept house for her husband, a fellow volunteer and childhood sweetheart.

Sandra died last month of a sudden brain injury.

FRONT FOR CIA?

While congressmen in nearby Chile accused the Peace Corps of serving as a front for the Central Intelligence Agency, the newspaper El Diario de La Paz editorialized: "Although you do not wish it to be, your life is a slap in the face to all the paper revolutionaries who sing odes to the 'campesinos' from their plush homes and comfortable desks."

One of 200 volunteers assigned to Bolivia, Sandra had been living and working in the El Alto slum near the city's mountain airport for a year. Her husband, Frederic W. Smith, 23, taught masonry at a nearby trade school and worked with Sandra in teaching their neighbors rudimentary sanitation.

Both were brought up in Upstate New York where they attended Clarence Central High School, and both graduated from the University of Rochester. Fred's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic W. Smith Jr., live in Rexford, N.Y., while Sandra's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Lee Taplin, have moved to Miami, Fla. "I liked Sandra very much, one of the ragged toddlers who attends the tiny school where Sandra taught. 'I hope they name the school after her.'"

The school, in the middle of a dirt-floor adobe compound, is about 12 by 26 feet. The furniture consists of scrap lumber and bricks. But for the 27 children who study there the school is a great deal better than what their parents had in childhood.

NO SCHOOLS THEN

"There were no schools when I was young," says Amelia de Churates, whose two children attend Sandra's school. "My girls are learning many things."

Like most of the other mothers in El Alto, Mrs. de Churates is an Indian peasant whose main language is the Aymara dialect. For her children's education she pays a peso a week. That's only about a nickel in American money, but it's sizeable for the desperately poor campesinos of the highlands. The money was used to pay for supplies and for the salary of a young girl from the interior who helped Sandra with the younger children.

"She was constantly thinking of the school and how to improve it," says Rosa Pelaez, Sandra's 24-year-old assistant. Barely literate herself, she is now trying to run the school alone while waiting for the Peace Corps to decide whether a new volunteer will be sent into the project.

Gino Baumann, the Peace Corps director for Bolivia, says the school probably will be continued and in the meantime is helping El Alto residents fulfill the hope that the school will be named after the New York girl.

"AN ANGEL"

"She was an angel; we could hardly believe it when we heard she had died," says mechanic Juan Mamani.

When Sandra's coffin was flown out of La Paz for burial in Rexford, many of the neighbors trudged to the airport with small gifts for her husband in an unusual tribute from people who are generally taciturn and withdrawn.

"You were truly working for the liberation of the Indian peasant," said one La Paz editorial, "because you taught him to read and that is where his true redemption will come from. And you did not ask for votes and you didn't bring arms for them to kill brother Bolivians, and you did not ask them for support in future political campaigns."

Californians, Says Cassel, Meet Only at Traffic Lights

By EARL WILSON

LONDON—Jon Voight, the tallish, handsome blond fellow from Scarsdale who excited a lot of people in the movie "Midnight Cowboy," was pretty amused the other day listening to another actor, Seymour Cassel, chewing his walrus mustache and exclaiming about London's advantages over Hollywood's and New York's.

"People come to see you in London," Seymour Cassel was definitely chewing his mustache.

"In California you have to go look for people. They're never home. You know where they are? They're in their cars. The only time you can ever see a friend of yours in California, is at a traffic light."

As he pictured it, the Californians say, "Well, see you at another traffic light some time," and off they go.

Six-foot-two, unmarried, athletic-looking Voight just rested and let Cassel carry the conversational ball. They are both filming "The Revolutionary" here with practically an all-American company, but at this point Voight seemed to have more fun just letting Cassel go on.

"You know how I amuse myself," said Cassel, who's from Detroit, Florida and N.Y., on the way to L.A. "I act all the time. I go into a Hollywood drug store and I order cigarettes in French. I drive down Hollywood Boulevard and I suddenly stand up in my car and scream. Or I enter a room and fall down. My kid, Matthew, who's 5, is like me. He'll come into a room and fall down just for laughs."

"Every day I entertain myself. You can't trust other people to do it. Who's my favorite entertainer? Me!"

Rock Garden Would Be Groovy Gramophone-Grown Greens?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Agriculture Research Service has been at work for several years trying to develop substitutes for chemical pesticides and fertilizers that cause environmental problems.

Thus far there have been no major breakthroughs, but I recently read an article that looked extremely promising. It told about a farmer in Florida who plays soft music to his mango trees.

The farmer said he had heard that corn in Iowa grows faster when music is played to it. So he had Muzak piped into his mango grove on the theory that it would increase the yield.

After reading this article, I went home and began installing a stereo record player in my backyard victory garden. My wife rushed out of the house and said, "What in the name of Luther Burbank do you think you are doing?" I told her about the mango grower.

"That's ridiculous!" she exclaimed.

"It certainly is," I agreed.

"That farmer should know better than to expect insipid Muzak schmalts to stimulate a supply store and put up an album of all-time o.k.a favorites."

A seed dealer can tell you the type of fertilizer and bug spray to buy for a particular plant. But ask his advice on asparagus or fugu or broccoli ballads and you only get a blank stare.

In a small, diversified garden such as mine, the trick is to pick tunes that will bring out the best in an okra plant without offending the neighboring squash.

Then I finished hooking up the vegetable garden stereo. I put one speaker in the tomato vines and the other in a row of collard greens. If you stand over by the okra patch, you get a perfectly balanced tone.

My okra hasn't been doing well lately. A late summer wilt has caused many of the stalks to droop and drop their leaves.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP IN N. Y.

Nobody's been chosen yet to take over Pearl Bailey's "Dolly" role on Broadway when she leaves. "What we need," said a David Merrick aide, "is the greatest thing on two feet, to replace the greatest thing on two feet!"

The cast of "Hadrian VII" thinks Bill Bush, who plays one of the cardinals, should have won the "Met's Greatest Fan" contest; they claim he once kept a radio in his cap onstage to hear an important game. Katherine Ross (of "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid") and the film's cameraman, Conrad Hall, may wed soon. Some of the comedy routines Pat Cooper'll use in his Copa stint were written by his wife Patty.

DIPLOMATIC OVERVIEW—Secretary of State William Rogers points out some of Washington's highlights to Japanese Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi. The view from the balcony came as Aichi visited the State Department yesterday.

Okinawa Talks in D.C. Add Textiles to Agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan's Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi, who came to talk about the return of Okinawa to his government, found himself involved today in discussions about Japanese textile exports.

Although it had not been part of his schedule, Aichi agreed to meet today with U.S. Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans to discuss voluntary restraints on Japanese textiles sent to the United States.

This led to speculation among Japanese diplomatic sources that the United States was placing a textile price tag on its negotiations for the reversion of Okinawa.

It was announced Friday that Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Sato will meet here with President Nixon on Nov. 19-21 to

BASES AN ISSUE

The two leaders also will try to reach an agreement on the future status of the U.S. military bases on Okinawa. Aichi, after meeting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, told a news conference that differences still exist on how Okinawa shall be used after it reverts to Japanese control.

Japan opposes the storage of nuclear weapons on the island and wants to have prior consultation before American planes, warships, or ground forces are used for the defense of U.S. allies in the Far East. Official sources said little progress was made on the issue of nuclear weapons, and this would have to be solved by Nixon and Sato.

People in the News

By the Associated Press
John A. Gronouski, postmaster general and later ambassador to Poland under former President Lyndon B. Johnson, has been named dean of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of public Affairs in Austin, Tex.
The school is part of the library complex named for the ex-president. It is scheduled to open in the fall of 1970.
Gronouski is to be a specialist in state government.

Ex-Viet Official Fired as Navy Teacher
Dr. Nguyen Ton Huan, who quit as South Vietnam's vice premier five years ago, says he was fired as a language teacher for the Navy in San Diego because he refused to polish classroom floors and heads a teachers' union group. A spokesman for H. L. Yoh Co., which contracts teachers for the school, said the company dismissed Huan and his wife Wednesday because of absenteeism. The Navy called the floor-cleaning matter "a misunderstanding." Seven other Vietnamese who teach at the school walked out Thursday and yesterday in sympathy with the Huan and said they would continue their strike Monday.

Comedienne to Be Released From Hospital

Phyllis Diller's doctor says the comedienne, hospitalized in Santa Monica, Calif., Wednesday with a 105-degree fever and "postinfluenza fatigue," probably will be released tomorrow or Monday.
"I feel better, but my hairdo is a mess," Miss Diller, 52, said yesterday. She had initially diagnosed her case as "extreme gastritis from eating my own cooking."

Opera Star Not Kidnaped; Voice Proves It
Operatic tenor Mario Del Monaco sang his way out of police trouble in Brazil during the search this past week for the kidnappers of U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick.

Del Monaco and his wife were driving Wednesday from Rio de Janeiro to Sao Paulo for the opening of the San Carlo opera company of Naples when police stopped them. The opera star did not have his passport along. A soldier at a guard station nearby said he looked like a sketch of one of the kidnappers.

Del Monaco protested that he was an Italian opera singer, but the officials said he would have to wait in the guard station 24 hours until they checked his story.

The singer thought of an easier solution. He sang "O Solo Mio" and said: "I don't know of any terrorist who sings like that."

The police let him go.

TV Fare a Mixture of Old and New

TV offers viewers a mixed bag of goodies this week—mostly reruns on Channel 2, mostly new on Channel 4, and a bit of both on Channel 7.

The other stations in the viewing area also are in transition, booking in the new series they'll feature in the coming season.

TONIGHT

College football swings back into action, with Southern Methodist hosting the Air Force Academy at Dallas at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

Channel 56 has an interview with Earl Warren at 8:30 p.m. and takes a satiric look at "The History of Frivolity" at 10 p.m.

A new country-western show hosted by Hank Williams Jr. debuts on Channel 62 at 8:30 p.m.

SUNDAY

Baseball clashes with football at 12:30 p.m. Washington hosts the Tigers on Channel 2 and Joe Namath's New York Jets play the Bills at Buffalo on Channel 4 in the AFL season opener. Following Jets-Bills action, the Houston Oilers take on the Raiders at Oakland.

On the NFL side of the gridiron, the Cowboys host the Baltimore Colts in a preseason game at Dallas at 8 p.m. on Channel 2.

In a special Young People's Concert at 3:30 p.m. on Channel 2, Leonard Bernstein conducts the New York Philharmonic in a program of ballet music—without the ballet.

Making a rare nighttime appearance at 6:30 on Channel 2 are Archie and his pals. The cartoon crew normally is aired on Saturday mornings.

And Danney Thomas is back, on Channel 2 at 7 p.m. His old TV family is reunited in a special, "Make Room for Granddaddy," as Rusty and his wife are about to provide a grandchild.

Ersine and his boys also are back as "The FBI" starts another year at 8 p.m. on Channel 7.

Bill Cosby debuts in his new role, as a phys-ed teacher, at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

Ben, Hoss, Little Joe and Candy ride in for Bonanza's 11th season, at 9 p.m. on Channel 2.

In another vein, former lawyer E. G. Marshall scrubs up for his debut on "The New Doctors" segment of "The Bold Ones" on Channel 4 at 10 p.m.

Barbara McNair hosts a new talk-variety show debuting at 11:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

MONDAY

New York hosts the Tigers at 7 p.m. on Channel 2.

Debating at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 4 is "My World and Welcome to It," a whimsical combination of live action and animation inspired by James Thurber.

Debbie Reynolds and Peter Sellers join the "Laugh-In" gang to launch that show's third season at 8 p.m. on Channel 4.

NET Journal looks at the dilemma of the black middle class at 8 p.m. on Channel 56.

And Burt Lancaster narrates a salute to pro football on its 50th anniversary in a special at 10 p.m. on Channel 2.

TUESDAY

Genie Jeannie and her Air Force boss change nights as they begin another season at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

Debbie Reynolds starts her new career as a sports scribe's wife at 8 p.m. on Channel 4.

Channel 2 presents the Miss Black America pageant, on tape, at 8:30 p.m.

Mahalia Jackson is among the stars featured in a folk-gospel music special on Channel 7 at 8:30 p.m.

WEDNESDAY

Sister Bertrille wings into her third season at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

Dianne Warwick hosts her first special at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 2.

Debating at 8 p.m. on the same channel is one of those My-Three-Sons-Julia-type things, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father."

Continuing on Channel 7, another new one at 8:30 p.m.: "Room 222," a comedy-drama about a black teacher in an integrated urban high school.

Michael Parks stars as an ex-newsman who tries to flee the Establishment on his motorcycle in "Then Came Bronson," which debuts at 10 p.m. on Channel 4.

THURSDAY

Roger Miller guests as Jonny Appleseed as Daniel Boone begins his sixth season at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

The bearded captain docks in a new berth—different day, different network—as "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" begins its second season on Channel 7 at 7:30 p.m.

A special documentary takes an historical view of ecology at 8 p.m. on Channel 2.

"That Girl," Marlo Thomas, bubbles into her fourth year on Channel 7 at 8 p.m.

And Raymond Burr, as the crippled cop Ironside, wheels into his third season at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

Channel 9 starts a new variety show, "A Time for Livin'," at 8:30 p.m.

Tabatha has a new daddy, Dick Sargent, as "Bewitched" begins its sixth year at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

"Dragnet" begins its fourth year of crime-busting and moralizing at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

Dennis Weaver, Goldie Hawn and Don DeLuise help Dean Martin uncork his fifth season at 10 p.m. on Channel 4.

FRIDAY

"High Chaparral" rides again, for its third year, at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 4.

Channel 7 takes a look at ethics in government—especially Congress—in an 8 p.m. special.

"Name of the Game" is the name of the game as Gene Barry and his newshounds begin prowling for their third season on Channel 4 at 8:30 p.m.

And behind-the-scenes Hollywood is where it's at, on Channel 4 at 10 p.m., as "Bracken's World" debuts.

The Cover

Dionne Warwick will host her first network TV special Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 2. Glenn Campbell, Burt Bacharach, George Kirby and the Creedence Clearwater Revival will guest.

3rd Candidate Due in Race for Dirksen Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska plans to make the race for Senate Republican leadership a three-way contest.

Hruska, regarded as the conservative entry in the struggle to succeed Everett M. Dirksen, is expected to make his formal announcement today.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the acting leader, already has opened his campaign with a letter of candidacy seeking to play down the element of ideology in the Republican race.

Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee declared himself in the race yesterday, saying that he has support from both liberals and conservatives in the Senate.

SCOTT VIEWPOINT

Scott, considered the most liberal of the candidates, wrote his GOP colleagues:

"All too often you and I are the victims of labels which serve only to mislead. I seek this position not as the spokesman of any particular group of ideology, but as one who fervently believes in the necessity of effective and cohesive Republican action in the Senate."

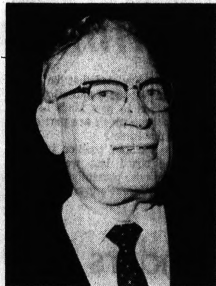

Scott said he felt he had proved this during eight months as Republican whip. He defeated Hruska, 23 to 20, to win that position at the beginning of the current Congress.

There remained one question mark on the lineup of possible candidates. Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, who had advised some colleagues he intended to run, said he would announce his intentions Monday.

TO STAND ASIDE

Either Allott or Hruska had been expected to stand aside, lest the votes of the more conservative senators be divided.

But Allott would give no hint as to his plans.

PONTIAC GTO FOR 1970—The accent is again on styling and performance for Pontiac's 1970 GTO. Shown in Spectacolor here for the first time, the new GTO has its own distinctive front end highlighted by an energy-absorbing Endura bumper. Offered in a convertible and two-door hardtop, this muscle car comes equipped with such standard features as a 400-cubic-inch V8 engine, glass-belted tires and new exhaust extensions with dual outlets. The GTO and other 1970 Pontiacs will be unveiled in dealer showrooms Thursday.

Israeli Jets Hit Targets in Egypt

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets blasted Egyptian targets near Port Suez today for the fourth time in five days. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said the raids were designed to force Egypt "to guard those places" and tie up troops.

An Israeli spokesman said the Israeli planes struck at Abu Daraj, 40 miles south of Port Suez, and returned safely.

The latest attack came as thousands of Jews began celebrating Rosh Hashana, the two-day holiday that marks the start of the 5,730th year on the Jewish calendar.

Interviewed on the state radio after today's attack, Dayan said, "I don't delude myself into thinking these raids in themselves will bring an end to the fighting. There is such a thing as a constellation of pressure on our part."

He said the raids force Egypt to tie up troops in the area, presumably meaning that they have to withdraw them from the west bank of the Suez Canal.

First Pictures of GTO, LeMans

Pontiac Motor Division's 1970 intermediate models—the Tempest, LeMans, LeMans Sport and GTO—feature performance, comfort and safety.

First photographs of the new GTO and LeMans are in today's Pontiac Press. The entire 1970 Pontiac line will go on display in showrooms Thursday at the following dealerships:

Pontiac Retail Store, 95 University; Haupt Pontiac Sales, 7151 N. Main, Clarkston; Lee Osborn Sales Co., 115 E. Liberty, Milford; Audette Pontiac, 1850

W. Maple, Troy; Russ Johnson Motor Sales, 89 M24, Lake Orion; Shelton Pontiac-Buick, 855 S. Rochester, Rochester; and Keego Sales & Service, 3080 Orchard Lake, Keego Harbor.

Styling of the 1970 intermediates follows that of the 1969 Firebird.

FRONT VIEW

The front view reveals the familiar Pontiac split grille. The bumper, wrap-around parking and side marker lamps have all been restyled.

Horizontally mounted head lamps extend to the outboard ends, and the split grilles are surrounded by the wrap-around bumper.

The one-piece panel which is above the grille and houses the head lamps is made from fiber glass-reinforced plastic.

The GTO's profile shows the fresh look of new fenders, doors and rear quarter panels, and has its own distinctive front end with a newly styled energy-absorbing Endura bumper.

NEW ENGINE OFFERED

With a lineup of 15 models in the intermediates, Pontiac will offer a new 250-cubic-inch six-cylinder engine as standard on all intermediates except the GTO.

Standard engine for the GTO is a 350-horsepower, 400-cubic-inch V8. A new 455-cubic-inch engine rated at 360 horsepower is optional on the GTO, as are Pontiac's famed 366-horsepower Ram Air and 370-horsepower Ram Air IV performance packages.

Optional on the other intermediates are a 350-cubic-inch V8 and the 400-cubic-inch V8 available with two- or four-barrel carburetion.

A major safety feature on all new Pontiacs is side-door beams built-in for added protection. This safeguard consists of a boxlike steel beam positioned horizontally within each door plus additional door pillar reinforcements.

The 1970 Firebird is slated for introduction in the spring of 1970.

Sol Will Dominate Weekend Skies

Another wonderful weekend is forecast for Pontiac area residents. Everything will come up sunshine through tomorrow.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's official forecast looks like this:

TODAY — Mostly sunny and warm, high 80 to 86. Fair and mild tonight, the low 58 to 62.

WINDS will continue southwesterly at 8 to 18 miles per hour through tomorrow.

TOMORROW — Partly sunny and warm, the high 82 to 87.

MONDAY — Partly cloudy and warm with a chance of showers.

Probabilities of precipitation are near zero today, 10 per cent tonight and 20 per cent tomorrow.

A sunny 59 was the low mercury reading before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. The thermometer recorded 82 at 12:30 p.m.

Philippines Air Crash Kills 45

MANILA (UPI) — A power failure that cut off signals from an automatic direction finder caused the worst crash in Philippine aviation history, in which 45 persons died, a Philippines Air Line (PAL) spokesman said today. Three of the victims were Americans.

Only a flight steward and a passenger survived. They were thrown clear when the BAC111 slammed last night into a fog-shrouded hill in suburban

Antipolo during an instrument approach to Manila International Airport on a flight from Cebu in the Central Philippines.

The last message from the pilot, Capt. Alberto Naval, to the control was: "Approximately over Antipolo at 3,000 feet and coming in on a straight in approach on runway 24."

But, the PAL spokesman said, the plane was actually at 700 feet.

Edmonds Still Pondering Post

By MARY SUNDSTROM

Dr. William Edmonds, the Pontiac Board of Education's choice as the system's first black assistant superintendent, has not yet accepted the position.

He said in an interview yesterday afternoon that he is still considering the position.

Edmonds, director of Virginia State College's graduate school, Petersburg, told The Press that he is still in the information-gathering stage concerning the controversy over his appointment.

He has received tape recordings of last week's board meeting at which he was named to the post, Pontiac Press clippings about the meeting and subsequent events, and letters from many parents and teachers in Pontiac.

PROTEST APPOINTMENT

Community people and teachers have been protesting his appointment because they say they feel he is not familiar with the problems in Pontiac. Also, they prefer another black candidate with experience in the system and knowledge of the community — John Perdue, director of school-community and human relations.

Edmonds said yesterday that he feels there is a difference of opinion on what the job entails. He said that letters from the community intimidated the post involves working primarily with black children.

He said he feels the breadth of the position is much greater than this connotation placed on it by the letters.

"The position as described to me involved research, testing, application of measurement techniques and their appropriate use in the educative process, and general administrative procedure."

WORKED IN THIS FIELD

"I have done quite a bit of work in this field — such as research for national magazines, private agencies, certain governmental agencies and many industries. I have also been in counseling of schoolchildren," he said.

"Since I am black, I would of course be very sensitive to the problems of black children. I would like to try to help provide a better education for all of the children in Pontiac," he added.

He said he feels that one cannot solve the problems of black children without working with all children in the district.

"I do not feel the controversy is a personal attack on me — I feel they wish another candidate," Edmonds said.

MORE IMPORTANT

"The integrity of the Pontiac System and of the community is far more important than my selection. However, I

Waterford Gets Two Weeks to Restore Classes

By DICK ROBINSON

Waterford Township school officials say it's "impossible" to comply with a court order to put some 18,500 students back on full-day sessions in two weeks.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer ruled yesterday against the township board of education in favor of parents whose children attend half-day sessions in elementary schools and reduced school days in secondary schools.

Beer said he agreed completely with Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman who ruled two weeks ago that half-day classes in Livonia are unconstitutional.

Kaufman ordered the Livonia school board to restore full-day classes for grades five through eight "with all expediency," placing no time limit.

APPEAL PENDING

The Livonia board is appealing the decision to the Michigan Supreme Court and meanwhile is allowed to continue with half-day classes.

Waterford acting Supt. Dr. John Pagen said the school district has no money to provide full days and that no one will loan it to them.

"Even if we had the money in the bank, we couldn't hire a needed 100 additional teachers and secure supplies in two weeks," he commented. "If we did restore full days, we'd be in the red $15 million by the end of the year."

One school board member, who didn't want to be named, said it is likely the board also will appeal the decision to the higher court and temporarily rid themselves of a massive headache.

EXECUTIVE MEETING

Board president Philip M. Hampton said he would try to call an executive meeting of the board for Monday to decide what to do.

Meanwhile, some 200 parents who attended the court hearing were joyous. They applauded the judge's decision. Some wept emotionally. Some hugged each other.

School boards are forbidden by state law to knowingly adopt a deficit budget, Waterford school board attorney John T. Rogers argued.

The Legislature had made this a misdemeanor punishable by a $500 fine and 90 days in jail.

CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION

"If there must be deficit financing, there must be," Beer said, "or it should be appealed to the state."

Beer, like Kaufman, made his ruling on a constitutional question. They said the State Constitution requires the state furnish a free education for each child.

The Legislature then decided that a school year should be 180 school days and this presumably meant "full" days, attorneys for taxpayers contended.

Beer only defined the length of the school day as one student knew before the school district began shortening days. For the second year, secondary students are going to school five hours a day instead of the normal six.

NEVER DEFINED

Rogers contended it wasn't clearly shown what laws the board is violating since the length of a school day has never been defined by any state legal authority.

State law gives local boards the authority to determine the length of the class day, Rogers said.

Attorneys for the parents were Stanley W. Kurzman, Eugene K. Pool and Mrs. Frances R. Avendenka, all Waterford Township residents.

Elementary pupils in grades one through three started half-day sessions last week. They were to return to full days in the winter with grades four, through six going on half days.

MILLAGE DEFEATS

Pagen testified the shortened schedules were a cost-saving device because voters in the county's third largest school district turned down two tax millage increases in the last 10 months.

"Every one of the county's 28 school districts except us and another district have approved millage increases since 1963, some three and four times," he noted.

S. Viet Bombing Resumes; Directed in D.C.

SAIGON (AP) — Bombing raids resumed over South Vietnam today, but Washington is directing them, military spokesmen said.

The B52s resumed their attacks after a 36-hour halt ordered by President Nixon to test the intentions of the Communist Command following the three-day cease fire for the funeral of North Vietnam President Ho Chi Minh.

Two waves of bombers dumped 300 tons of explosives 27 miles northeast of Saigon, another mission struck base camps along the Cambodian border 96 miles northeast of the capital, and two missions hit the central coast near Da Nang.

Spokesmen declined to speculate whether the B52s would continue to maintain their average of about 50 sorties — one flight by one bomber — a day over South Vietnam.

The decision to resume the raids came at a time when communiques indicated that fighting appeared to have tapered off across South Vietnam.

U.S. headquarters reported eight Americans injured in 34 rocket and mortar attacks overnight.

The U.S. Command also reported two terrorist attacks in Saigon, two shelling incidents in the demilitarized zone Friday and one fight 28 miles northwest of Saigon in which U.S. helicopters killed eight enemy.

Since the cease-fire ended Thursday, U.S. troops reported killing 144 North Vietnamese and Vietcong troops in six battles north of Saigon and near the Cambodian border.

22-SHELL BARAGE

The most serious shelling hit Dien

Ban, a district town about 10 miles south of Da Nang. A barrage of 22 mortar shells landed on a refugee camp, wounding 18 civilians.

In Washington, the White House disclosed that President Nixon had ordered that the B52 raids be resumed because the level of enemy activity now has reverted to pretruce levels.

Will-O-Way Opening Set in October

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — The Will-O-Way Apprentice Theater will begin a season of repertory theater in October under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Turner.

A resident company of young actors will present "Luv," "Star Spangled Girl" and "The Apple Tree." The opening performance is scheduled Oct. 7.

Performances are scheduled Tuesdays through Sundays at 8:30 p.m.

In addition to the repertory performances, the theater will offer training in all branches of theater including acting, stage management, directing, makeup, script writing, and play direction.

Fall term classes begin Sept. 20. Registration is now open.

The Will-O-Way Theater is located on West Long Road, one block east of Telegraph in Bloomfield Hills.

The Cranbrook Music Guild will hold a membership tea at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Cranbrook House.

Members of the guild are urged to attend the Tuesday party and to bring guests and prospective members.

The guild's opening concert this season will be Oct. 7 in Kingswood School Auditorium. Guest artists are duo pianists Sue and Horowitz.

Remaining concerts will be in Cranbrook House. Scheduled groups include the Michigan Chamber Choir, Nov. 11; the University of Michigan Baroque Trio Dec. 2, the traditional Young Artists Concert Feb. 3 and the Marlboro Trio April 14.

Following the Tuesday tea, guests may room at will to see the Cranbrook gardens.

BIRMINGHAM — Two former Birmingham men have become chairmen of the board and chairman of the executive committee of Heuristic Concepts Inc. after the company acquired KJK Associates, Inc. a bank management consulting firm.

JAMES A. Hayden and Kevin J. Keenan, a former vice president of COMAC in Birmingham, were the executive officers and principal stockholders of KJK Associates Inc. when the acquisition was finalized Aug. 25.

Hayden, who will become board chairman, was formerly president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Bank. He will be responsible for internal operation at Heuristic.

Woman Is Acquitted in School Board Row

A six-person jury yesterday afternoon found Mrs. Eldred Sweeney innocent of disorderly conduct, at a July 18 Pontiac school board meeting.

The jury, five women and one man, deliberated about two hours before acquitting Mrs. Sweeney of 228 Orchard Lake. The acquittal ended a four-day trial before Pontiac District Judge James R. Stell.

Mrs. Sweeney was one of three persons arrested for disorderly conduct during an audience protest to the way School Board President Russell Brown proposed to conduct future meetings.

Two other persons, Mr. and Mrs. Lynwood Nichols of 41 Bagley, pleaded guilty to assault and battery of a Pontiac policeman during a scuffle at the session.

The protest was triggered by Brown's announcement that comments from the audience would only be heard at the beginning of the meeting and not during the board's discussion of agenda items.

Alcoholics Aid in New Budget

The start of a treatment service for alcoholics of Oakland County is foreseen in the new Oakland County Community Health budget just announced.

Director Dr. Lino Romero said a budget of $2.2 million — up 28 per cent from last year — will be available. Funded 75 per cent by the state and 25 per cent by the county, it is still $900,000 short of the $3.1 million requested, Romero said.

It will allow $15,000 for alcoholic service, $25,000 for schooling for mentally ill children, $60,255 for an activity center for retarded persons, $73,235 for a vocational rehabilitation program, and $65,604 for a southeastern county mental health program.

Romero said 86 per cent of the budget would be required simply to continue existing services.

These include three mental health clinics for children and three for adults, two sheltered workshops and two-day training programs for the mentally retarded, a program for delinquent youngsters, diagnostic and counseling service for the retarded and their families, hospital care, and consultation and education programs.

2 Nab African Plane

BEIRUT (UPI) — Two members of the Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF) hijacked an Ethiopian DCSB airliner with 44 persons aboard at gunpoint over Africa today and forced the plane to fly to Aden.

The Ethiopian News Agency said one of the men who carried out the hijacking was wounded, apparently in a gunfight with South Yemen security police after landing at Aden.

Boy, 3, Drowns in Family Pool

A 3-year-old Wolverine Lake boy was found drowned at 3 p.m. yesterday in the family's backyard swimming pool.

The fully clothed body of Paul S. Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shaw, 2134 Shannin, was pulled from the 7-foot-deep fenced pool by Stanley Clark of the Sheriff's Department water safety division following a 900-r-h-o-u-r neighborhood search.

The boy had been reported as last seen at 5 p.m. by his mother. The family home is across the street from Wolverine Lake and situated in a moderately built-up wooded area, police said.

WILLIAMS ARRIVES—Black power leader Robert Williams (bottom right) arrives at Detroit's Metro airport from London yesterday with his lawyer, Milton Henry (top), and escorted by an FBI agent. Williams was whisked to a waiting car which took him to a U.S. District court where he was immediately arraigned on kidnapping charges.

RNA Chief Says He'll Fight Extradition to N. Carolina

DETROIT (AP)—Black militant leader Robert Williams — arrested and later released yesterday when he flew to Detroit to end his eight-year self-imposed exile — said he will fight extradition to North Carolina where he is wanted on a 1961 kidnap charge.

"If Michigan surrenders me, I will move my fight to North Carolina and ask my people to come with me to fight," said Williams, 44-year-old president of the black separatist Republic of New Africa. "And when I say fight, I mean war."

Williams was released on a total of $11,000 personal bonds after appearing in federal and state courts in connection with the North Carolina charge.

Following several major airline refusals to fly him from London to the United States Williams finally arrived in Detroit as one of two paying passengers in a large Trans World Airlines jet—a special flight said to have cost TWA about $30,000. TWA spokesmen said they arranged the flight at the request of the U.S. government.

AVOIDED CHARGE

Fleeing the United States in 1961 to avoid charges of kidnapping an elderly white couple during a Monroe, N. C. racial disturbance Aug. 27, Williams has since lived in Cuba, China, and Tanzania in East Africa.

The Republic of New Africa (RNA), a paper government which aims to establish an independent black nation from five southern states, was created in Detroit more than a year ago. Williams, then living in Red China, was named president of the movement.

Milton Henry, attorney from Pontiac, Mich., and first vice president of RNA, said Williams decided to return to this country through Detroit because he felt he would get better treatment in courts here than in any other city. Henry of 518 Orchard Lake, accompanied Williams on the flight.

Williams said the kidnap charge was trumped up. "I have never held anyone hostage," he said.

Duties of School Post Outlined

Last week's appointment of a third assistant superintendent of Pontiac Schools is an end result of a reorganization of the central administration, approved by the school board Feb. 6.

In the reorganization, responsibilities which had been assigned to the two existing assistant superintendents and the business manager will be redistributed among three assistant superintendents and the business manager, all of whom report to the superintendent.

The director of school-community and human relations also will report directly to the superintendent. Other department directors will report to the three assistant superintendents.

The new assistant will handle the functions of pupil personnel, community action programs, research, data processing, standardized testing programs, quality of education in schools with large numbers of minority groups, and central office activities involving pupils.

Committee Trims OCCEO Fund Plea

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors Human Resources Committee has recommended a 1970 appropriation of $63,000 for operation of the Oakland County Commission on Economic Opportunity.

The money, less than half that requested, is earmarked for dental and senior citizen programs.

Edmonds Still Ponders Post

The new assistant superintendent will be responsible for eight pupil personnel departments include special education, psychological, school social worker, health, child accounting, census, attendance and guidance.

Interaction between the schools and the community will be among the functions of the new assistant superintendent. Guidelines of the administration reorganization stipulated that the person in the new post be required to pay special attention to new kinds of relations problems which are part of the civil rights movement.

Named to the new position by a 4-3 vote of the board last week is Dr. William Edmonds, presently director of Virginia State College's graduate school.

He said he had seen a newspaper clipping where a woman was quoted as saying he was not involved in community and civil rights affairs.

He said this is untrue. Edmonds is a life member of the NAACP and a member and vice president of the Petersburg chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, a vanguard in the field of civil rights.

IN VOTING DRIVES

He has been active in voting drives in poverty areas of Virginia, and was once a candidate for the Madison County (Ala.) Democratic Committee.

He is a member of the Petersburg Zion Baptist Church and sings in the choir. Edmonds also became one of the first black members of the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce, in 1968.

In terms of education, Edmonds is a life member of the National Education Association and is listed in the 1967 Who's Who, Vol. 34.

Edmonds is married and has a married daughter who is a teacher and a son serving with the armed forces in Vietnam.

Rogers, Red to Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed strategic arms controls and the continuing Middle East crisis are expected to be key items on the agenda for Secretary of State William P. Rogers' private talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The State Department announced yesterday the sessions in New York Sept. 22 and Sept. 29 would be working dinners.

JOHN PERDUE

By MARY SUNDSTROM
"We want Perdue," chanted about 400 people at last week's Pontiac School Board meeting.

John F. Perdue, director of school-community and human relations for Pontiac Schools, was the people's choice for the system's first black assistant superintendent.

However, despite protests from the audience, the board voted 4-3 to appoint another black man, Dr. William Edmonds, director of Virginia State College's graduate school.

Although no one in the audience argued against Edmonds' professional and educational qualifications, the audience said they felt Perdue was better qualified for the position because of his 13 years' experience in the Pontiac system, his knowledge of the community and his rapport with both black and white citizens.

DISTRICT FIRST
Perdue has been a teacher and principal in elementary and secondary schools in Pontiac, and became the school district's first black central office administrator in 1966 when he was named to his present position.

He applied for the position of assistant superintendent because, "I feel I have all of the qualifications for the position as outlined by the board," he said.

Perdue pointed out that the job was the result of an Equality of Educational Opportunity (EEO) report recommendation, which advised that the position be filled by "a minority group member who shows a sensitivity to human relations problems and who has the faith and trust of minority group citizens."

He said the support he has received from the community and teachers is personally gratifying. He added, "I sincerely hope that more understanding will be derived from this comparison for the both black and white people in the community."

SPRINGBOARD FOR UNITY
"I hope that this unity can be used as a springboard for other activities between the different races of Pontiac which will result in this city becoming one of the best in the country to live," said Perdue, who exhibits extreme pride in Pontiac.

In his position as director of school-community and human relations, Perdue has negotiated many differences between parents in the black community and the board of education.

Whenever any disturbances flared up in black schools in 1967-68, Perdue has been called to the scene.

He was coordinator of, and wrote the basic guidelines for, the Pontiac Citizens Study Committee on Equality of Educational Opportunity, which produced a report in June 1968.

MILLAGE DRIVE
Perdue also was coordinator for the Finance Study Council in 1967-68 and coordinated the successful 1968 millage campaign for a $1.5-million bond issue and a 6½-mill increase.

He also has been the system's staff person on the Pontiac School District Citizens' Committee on Human Relations.

Perdue has been a director of the Pontiac Urban League board for 13 years and has served in every official capacity in the league except president.

His experience in community affairs, Urban League, human relations, and education spans more than 25 years and five cities—Philadelphia, Toledo, Ferrandale, Detroit and Pontiac.

Court Throws Out Supervisor Recall

DETROIT (AP)—Proposed recall elections involving three Wayne County supervisors have been struck down by a circuit judge.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman ruled Friday that the petitions were circulated too soon after the three—Robert L. Tripp, Ralph P. Turco and Harvey J. Beadle—took office.

State law dictates that public officials must be given 45 days of service in their offices before a recall petition can be circulated.

The judge's ruling, in effect, ended a campaign by the Detroit Joyces to throw out of office 15 of the 26-man board elected last fall.

Commerce Man Listed Fair After Train Hits Car

A Commerce Township man was in fair condition in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital this morning after his car was hit by a Grand Trunk locomotive yesterday.

Carl C. Martin, 43, of 3024 Fisher was driving a car at the crossing at Bensten north of West Maple at 10:55 a.m. when his car was hit, according to sheriff's deputies.

The crossing is unmarked and Martin's car was dragged about 40 feet after the impact, deputies said.

Race Relations a Key Duty

Edmonds, who is black, has not yet accepted the position but says he is seriously considering it.

About 300 teachers boycotted schools for one day Wednesday and joined hundreds of parents picketing the board offices in protest of the board's choice of Edmonds for the post.

They said they prefer John F. Perdue, director of school-community and human relations, the district's first black administrator at central offices, because he has 13 years' experience in the district and is familiar with community problems.

Creation of the new position came as a result of recommendations in the Equality of Educational Opportunity (EEO) report made by the Pontiac Citizens Study Committee (PSC) last year.

THE RECOMMENDATION

That report stated:

"In order to meet the challenges now facing the school system, it is recommended that an assistant superintendent be appointed, whose responsibility will be the implementation of policies and practices of equal educational opportunity for all."

"The establishment of this

Another EEO recommendation stipulated that the position be a newly created one and not a reclassification of any existing position in the administration.

The PSC also advised in its report that "the position be filled by a minority group member who shows a sensitivity to human relations problems and who has the faith and trust of minority group citizens."

In a section regarding promotions, the EEO report stated: "The study committee supports the policy of promotion from within the district whenever candidates appear equal in qualifications."

The position was advertised in the school district and at colleges and universities in the United States to attract highly qualified Negro candidates.

A number of applications were received and the school board interviewed several candidates and reviewed their qualifications for several months before selecting Edmonds.

Cassini Brings Fashions to Detroit

By JEANNE NELSON

Man comes of age in the new fall-winter collection by Oleg Cassini. The internationally known designer, who showed his new men's line for fall and winter in the Detroit Press Club Friday, scoffs at the idea that new trends in men's fashion have a feminine element about them.

"Men's wear can only be effeminate if it is designed that way," he claims. His own collection is a bold statement of color in strong lines that move with ease from a nine-to-five day into leisurely weekends. Shaped, double-breasted jackets with six and eight buttons (either two or three to button) dominated the show throughout.

Home base for this fashion wit is Milan, Italy, sometimes New York but, that European influence is definitely a factor in all his designs. He has been working with Italian knitting mills for some time now and insists that knits will be playing bigger and bigger roles in the future of menswear.

To line (thereby losing the ease) or not to line, has always been the biggest problem with using knits. Cassini suggests one answer is a stretch fabric lining. It might just work!

As opposed to the worsteds in this collection — all trim, taut and angular — he envisions knits in a considerably more relaxed way, even abolishing the front trousers crease entirely.

Using the same philosophy that has made him so successful through the years in women's designs, the dapper Cassini insists that separation of the sexes in fashion is absolutely essential. "There is something very unnatural about males and females looking alike," he says. If you've ever heard or seen Oleg Cassini in person or on TV, you know he had a few more things to say about this that naturally can't be printed.

His women's designs have always been notoriously sexy, although subtly so with the master's touch. And, this is accomplished more often than not by concealment of the built-in structural elements and a revelation of the natural female form.

In switching to men's fashion, he apparently favors a much bolder concept that is stated in a number of ways including the wide use of ornamental buttons both on jackets and shirts.

The Cassini collection, along with other name designer collections of men's fashions are being displayed in "New Directions Shops" in the J. L. Hudson downtown, Oakland, Eastland and Northland Centers and will shortly be arriving in our Pontiac Mall store.

My advise is that every couple consult their clergyman, who knows what is accepted and proper for his own congregation.

J. W. Smith, men's merchandising manager for Hudson's, our host at this press luncheon, is extremely enthusiastic about the store-within-a-store concept that now includes men's fashion boutiques as well as women's.

Internationally famed designer, Oleg Cassini outlines expanded plans for new store-within-a-store concept for designer collections in the downtown and branch of Hudson's stores.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have lived in this town for only three and a half years and have never attended church here, so I wanted my wedding in my old hometown where I know the pastor quite well. My fiancé says it is improper to marry outside of your town.

Who has the right to choose? And is it improper to marry outside of your hometown? — Vicki

Dear Vicki: It is not a question of being "improper," but of finding the most convenient and happy arrangement.

Fortunately, there is a very simple solution. You have lived in your present location long enough to feel it is home, and friends of you and your fiancé undoubtedly live there, as well as his family. It would, therefore, seem the best place to have the wedding.

But there is no reason your own pastor may not perform the ceremony. This is often done. Discuss it with the clergyman at a church in your new hometown, and with his approval, invite your pastor to perform, or at least assist in, the ceremony.

CONGREGATION

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently, a question arose as to the congregation standing when the bride and groom left the altar after the wedding. In over forty years I have attended weddings of the wealthiest and of the poorest, and I have never seen this happen.

After this couple had passed each row those who were seated there rose, and this continued until the last row. Most of the times no one stands until the couple reaches the end of the aisle. Is this new innovation correct? — Mary M.

Dear Mary: There is no definite answer — it varies in different communities and congregations. In the area where I live, the congregation stands when the bride and groom start. In most cases the clergyman asks them to be seated after the first part of the ceremony. Occasionally they remain standing throughout the ceremony.

Elsewhere it is customary for the guests to remain seated at all times. It would be perfectly correct for them to rise as the couple leave, either row by row, or all at once.

One-Way Tickets Trademark One of the Blessings of Youth

By SHIRLEY GRAY

Just wait 'til you hear what Karen Andress, daughter of the Maynard Andress of Bloomfield Hills, is doing with her young life! Karen, a Katherine Gibbs grad, has been working in Chicago for a year or three now, and Lord knows what a bore that gets to be.

So, come next month, she's quitting, hopping a plane to Hawaii and then she's off to see the world. The beautiful part of it all is that all her tickets will be one-way. She's at that loose, lovely time of life when it doesn't necessarily matter when she gets back.

Meanwhile, for the rest of the family, life goes on. Dolph and Adrienne are off to the University of Denver, she is returning as a senior, he an entering freshman.

SCANDINAVIA

Doris Baldoni and her mother, Mrs. Joseph Baldoni, of Bloomfield Hills, just took their first trip to Scandinavia although both are experienced European hands.

"The best part of the trip," says Doris, "was the desserts in Norway, Sweden and Denmark." Paradoxically, the way they then stay beautifully slim, observes our traveler.

Among the beautiful sights: Norway's fjords, Stockholm, Copenhagen, the blond children everywhere.

One of their stops was the home of sculptor Carl Milles, outside Stockholm. The grounds around with pieces created just for that setting, Milles' second home for many years, of course, was Cranbrook. The cast of his well-known fountain at the school is one of the works on display at his Swedish home.

HIPPIES

Doris, an English teacher at Pershing High School, takes some comfort from the number of hippies she saw in Scandinavia and feels it's nice to know that whatever it is that's causing the phenomenon, it's not just this nation's problem.

Is it really true that the George Walkers have sold Rock Castle, their Harbor Springs home of one year? In any case, they are back in Del Ray now, miles away from the autumnal chill that Michigan is enduring in lieu of summer.

Picnic Set for Group

Members and guests of the Waterford Township Book Review Group will gather Monday at 11:30 a.m. for a picnic meeting in the Elizabeth Lake Road home of Mrs. William Miller.

"Erasmus of Christendom" by Roland Bainton will be discussed. Sharing cohostess duties will be Mrs. Russell Maybee and Mrs. Albert Gray.

Local Freedom League Plans Talk at YWCA

Frank Joyce, national staff member of People Against Racism, a Detroit-based organization, will speak on "The New White Backlash," Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Pontiac YWCA.

The meeting, sponsored by Oakland County Branch of Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, is open to the public.

A question and answer period will follow the talk.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Recently you answered in your column that it was better for children to learn the facts of life from an "informed, responsible educator" than in the home where the parents equated sex with sin, etc. In other words, you were pushing sex education in the schools.

That sounds all right, but how do we know that the school teachers are "informed and responsible"? Some friends of mine said they are sure their sixth grade daughter is being taught by a COMMUNIST teacher who is trying to break down the morals of our youth by telling them there is nothing wrong with "sex." I heard, too, that one 12-year-old boy had his head so filled with sex at school he went home and tried to "practice" on his little sister.

It has been proved that sex education has been the ruin of the Scandinavian countries. Do we want that to happen here?

ALSO CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: I recently returned from COPENHAGEN, DENMARK, and noticed no "ruination" there. In fact their sex crime rate is far lower than ours, and declining steadily.

I, too, heard the tale about that 12-year-old boy, but thus far no one has been able to provide me with his name. Recently I have been deluged with material from anti-sex education organizations. One in particular sent a questionnaire that supposedly was being used in our junior high schools. I, too, was appalled to see such "advanced" questions. Upon investigation, I learned that this questionnaire was NOT used in our public schools. It was used for premarital counseling! Quite a difference!

Why don't YOU check out what you hear? Go to school and ask to see the material being used, and talk to the teachers who teach the courses. They will cooperate and you will be much relieved.

And don't worry about the quality (or political persuasion) of our schoolteachers. In a class of 36 students the teacher has 36 "watchdogs." For children go home and tell their parents everything.

DEAR ABBY: The young married woman across the hall from me accepted $500 from her father-in-law for having "given up" smoking. (She is pregnant.) Yet she comes over here at least once a day and begs a cigaret off me. I like this person a lot, and hate to refuse her but I don't like being a party to this sort of deception. Any suggestions?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Tell her! But be prepared to see your friendship go up in smoke.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has an 83-year-old great aunt who is a darling woman. Most of her friends are gone now, and we are her only relatives within the immediate area, so on Sundays she cooks Sunday supper and invites us. Her cooking isn't what it used to be, but we can stand that. It's the roaches!

She isn't careful about her housekeeping, and the bugs are everywhere. Crawling up on the table, in the sugarbowl, etc.

I just cannot accept another invitation to eat at her house! My children have positively refused to go there. She is a very sensitive woman and I hate to come right out and tell her the honest truth, so I've been making excuses until I am blue in the face.

Can you offer a suggestion for handling this very touchy situation in a diplomatic way? I told my husband that she is HIS great-aunt, and HE should tell her, but he refuses as he's afraid she wouldn't take it very well.

STUMPED IN INDIANA

DEAR STUMPED: It is highly unlikely that an 83-year-old woman is going to change the quality of her housekeeping at this late date, so if you refuse to eat with roaches (and I don't blame you) continue to decline her dinner invitations, saying YOU like to cook on Sundays, and invite HER to your house.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P. O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Contract Bridge Great Dies

DETROIT (AP) — Funeral services were being completed today for Helen Sobel Smith, one of the world's best contract bridge players, who died in Detroit hospital Thursday night from cancer. She was 59.

Playing under the name of Mrs. Sobel she achieved recognition in a long tournament career, often playing with Charles Goren, a champion player and noted author who retired from active play in 1957.

A spokesman for the American Contract Bridge League in New York described her as "universally ranked as the best American woman bridge player of all time, if not the world's best."

She won her first ABC championship tournament in 1934 and her last in 1968.

She had won more league events than any other woman.

In 1937, Ely Culbertson, the leading bridge expert of his time, invited her to play on his team in the first World Team Championship. She represented North America in that championship again in 1957, and played for the United States on the First World Team Olympiad in 1960.

MORE POINTS

By 1958, she had amassed more accumulated master points than any other American woman player, and she held this record without interruption until 1964.

She was born Helen Martin in Philadelphia. She learned to play bridge during a brief career as a chorus girl, during which she appeared with the Marx Brothers in the film "Animal Crackers."

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William E. McCartney of Sheffield Street, Pontiac Township and Mr. and Mrs. William O. Speck of Flint.

Honor attendants were Mr. and Mrs. James Van Messel. Following a honeymoon trip in Canada, the newweds will be at home in Chicago, Ill.

Eastman - Kubasinski

Joann Kubasinski and Charles Eastman were wed recently in Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic Church. They were feted at a reception in Airway Lanes following the exchange of vows.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester S. Kubasinski of David K Drive asked Mrs. George Walsh to attend her as matron of honor.

Melvin Green performed the duties of best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn L. Eastman of Transparent Street, Independence Township. The newweds are honeymooning on the Bahama Islands.

McEntee - Whitfield

Saturday afternoon wedding vows were exchanged by Kay Eileen Whitfield and Andrew Patrick McEntee. They were married in Saint Louis Catholic Church in Mount Clemens.

A reception in Devon Gables followed the ceremony. The couple asked Mrs. William G.

Teach Volunteers How to Avoid Isolation 'Fever'

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Paul McCormack of Binghamton is teaching English and Latin to Eskimo, Indian and white Alaskans in a school where one tuition bill was paid last year in moose meat.

McCormack, who was a painter, paperhanger and odd-job man before becoming a teacher, made up his mind to go to Alaska as he watched more and more youths join the Peace Corps or take what amounts to payless jobs to teach children of the poverty pockets of America. "I started to get this strong feeling, this strong sense that if they can give up a year, I can give up a year. I asked for a leave of absence and got it."

The school is 300 miles from the Arctic Circle and is run by Jesuits. "It isn't exactly like any other school in the world. One of the subjects in our first two days of orientation for volunteers is how to escape coming down with cabin fever," he commented, explaining that "cabin fever" is a virulent neurotic reaction to living in isolation.

Couple Makes Wedding Vows on Lunch Hour

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — It was a wedding, but the usual traditions had some variations. Fish, tacos and watermelon were eaten in place of cake. Iced tea was substitute for punch.

There wasn't a reception for the bride and groom, James Lindop and Bonnie Jennings. The newweds worked at a registration table at the University of Texas at El Paso before and after the wedding.

Lindop is assistant director of admissions at UTEP. His bride is a secretary to the dean of the university's graduate school.

They were married during their lunch hour, and afterward returned to the campus to help register students for the second summer session. The couple was offered the afternoon off, but Mr. and Mrs. Lindop chose to begin their honeymoon after registration was finished.

Munson's Arm Gives Mann's Foot Rest MAKE OVER PAROUT

Aerial Bombs Smash New Orleans Saints

By BRUNO L. KEARNS

Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

Bill Munson's arm gave Earl Mann's foot a rest last night.

The lanky quarterback of the Detroit Lions played football with an "open mind" and he threw scoring bombs around faster than the Germans did on London in 1944, in ripping the New Orleans Saints, 42-7.

Mann, who had kicked nine straight field goals in three exhibition games, winning two of them with key 3-pointers, had to settle for one point conversions as Munson and Greg Landry hit Earl McCullough, Bill Malinchak and Larry Walton with "bomb" passes and touchdowns.

"My reading coverage was much better," said Munson, "wasn't really thinking about the long ball, but it just so happened they were there."

Head coach Joe Schmidt, enjoying a 5-1 pre-season record and now looking ahead to the season opener in his home town of Pittsburgh next Sunday, said, "I think we've put together the things we set out to do when we first opened camp."

Cranbrook. There were a lot of bright spots in this game and thank goodness we got through the exhibition schedule with the least number of minor injuries."

Mei Farr sat out the game with a temperature and Alex Karras was held out to give his knee more time to mend.

But even without the two stars, the Lions came up with their finest performance since the early stages of last season, and they posted their best exhibition record since the 6-0 mark of 1964.

RUNNING DEPTH

The Lions learned for certain the kind of depth they have in the backfield as Nick Eddy, who had his best game since becoming a Lion, and rookie Larry Watkins led the ground attack while Farr and slightly injured Albie Taylor were on the sidelines.

The scoring came so fast in the first period the Lions had only 12 offensive plays from scrimmage and had 21 points on the scoreboard.

LOONEY FUMBLES

Two touchdowns came just 22 seconds apart. The first TD came after Joe Don Looney fumbled and Wayne Walker recovered. Munson quickly fired a 49 yard aerial TD to Malinchak.

Right after the kickoff, Tommy Vaughn intercepted Kilmer's pass and went 25 yards to make it 14-0 with Mann's conversion.

A few moments later on the Lions' 12th scrimmage play, the Lions waited in the pocket for McCullough to get clear and hit him perfectly for a 71 yard touchdown.

When Lem Barney's punt took a 20 yard bounce and rolled backward, giving him only a 21-yard punt, the Saints started on the Lions' 46 and in six plays scored on a pass from Kilmer to Al Dodd.

After Eddy and Watkins ate up ground yardage, Munson again delivered the bomb and McCullough made a leaping catch for 40 yards on the third yard line.

Eddy and Charlie Sanders delivered the key blocks to allow Watkins to score and make it 28-7 with the PAT.

ANOTHER PASS

Another 28-yard pass to McCullough set up Eddy's three-yard TD burst in the third quarter and as Schmidt began clearing the bench.

"Hey, I'm happy, baby," bubbled coach Gerry Nieldinger after Oxford's surprising 26-14 victory over Clarkson last night.

A season opener really shouldn't be surprising, but in Oxford's case it is. The Wildcats have been on a losing kick in recent seasons and they have lost four openers in a row to Clarkson.

DEBUT SPOILED

But not this time. They moved in front and they stayed there before a happy home crowd, at the same time spoiling the debut of Clarkson coach Paul Rakow.

What's it like to win? "Just fantastic," said Nieldinger.

"The kids played real good football. We didn't make too many mistakes...at least we didn't make as many as they did."

NOT CONTENT

But Nieldinger didn't leave the impression that the team has arrived. They won't be the contented cats.

"We have lots of work to do. I'm pleased with the results tonight, but we have a lot of work to do," he added.

OFFENSIVE SHOW

The game was strictly an offensive show for both squads. Oxford rolled up 355 yards on the ground, almost as much as the team had all last season, and the Cats added another 25 in the air.

CLOSE BEHIND

Clarkson wasn't far behind. The Wolves collected 230 yards rushing and 25 in the air.

Halfback Dave Kastelic, a senior, was the big gun in the Wildcats' attack.

SCORING JAUNTS

The speedster found a big hole in the first quarter and romped 40 yards for a touchdown. He broke loose in the second and raced 60 yards for another. And before the half ended, John Calahan hauled in a 25-yard pass from quarterback Bill Biebuyck and Oxford had a 20-6 halftime lead.

The other Oxford tally came in the third when Biebuyck scored on a seven-yard keeper.

Rick Prasil scored both of Clarkson's touchdowns. After the Wolves blocked a kick in the second period on Oxford's two-yard line, Prasil bulled his way over for the six-pointer.

In the third, Prasil climaxed a long drive with a five-yard sprint to the endzone and he ran the two-point conversion.

Traffic Movement Near Home

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

Every driver knows a shortcut! Generally it winds through an older residential neighborhood; the newer, planned developments have been designed to prevent through traffic.

Now, however, plans are underway to curb such traffic which is dangerous both for residents and drivers because the narrow streets in most older residential areas just cannot handle major traffic movement.

D. Grant Mickle, president of the Automotive Safety Foundation, Washington, D.C., says traffic in older residential neighborhoods has been a problem too long ignored — left to hit of miss traffic control with a resulting increase in the potential for injury and loss of life. Soon, however, he said, a pilot study will call attention to the problem in a constructive way.

PROJECT TO START

Early this fall in Burlington, Vt., a team of civil engineering graduate students will begin a project to "design traffic improvements into the existing transportation facilities of an established neighborhood."

Mickle said the University of Vermont Civil Engineering Department will direct the project, which is supported by grants from both the Automotive Safety Foundation and the University.

Peter G. Koltnow of the Foundation's Urban Division, who will monitor the grant, said the project involves "a study of an established neighborhood with narrow streets, awkward intersections, little or no traffic control, inadequate off-street parking and mixed land uses."

The area was chosen by the Burlington City Planner and the University's civil engineering department. The population of 14,000 represents the highest population per district in the city.

MIXED

The neighborhood, a mixed district of industries, businesses and residences, had the second highest total of traffic accidents in the city over a period of seven years, according to a recent traffic study.

Within the bounds of financial resources, city approval, and community participation, Koltnow explained, the students will design for the area some of the traffic features and amenities of a modern suburban neighborhood.

The project, he said, is expected to demonstrate how improved traffic patterns can contribute to general improvement of a neighborhood and, at the same time, will point up a service that a university can provide to a city and provide experience for engineering students who someday will have to work with other disciplines in improving environmental and social conditions.

Because of the many factors to be considered in the redesign of neighborhood traffic patterns, many disciplines will work together for the first time.

Koltnow noted that the coordination of city and university services "is one of the many things we will be watching in the study."

MESH?

"We want to see how various departments of an educational institution and a city will mesh and work together."

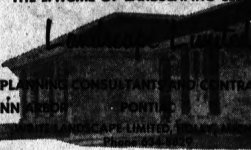

Civil engineering students will be assisted by students and their advisors in fields such as economics, geography, political science, and sociology.

Koltnow said it is hoped the pilot project will serve as an example for other universities and cities across the country, and will demonstrate what specialized cooperation can do to improve the safety and environment of cities.

Death of Peace Corpsman Saddens Bolivians

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — In the slum high above this mountain capital the ragged Indian peasants say Sandra Smith was an angel.

In the city, itself, sophisticated editorial writers say she was a true revolutionary, a soldier who gave her life to the cause of redeeming Bolivia's downtrodden Indians.

In her own eyes Sandra L. Smith, 22, was a Peace Corps volunteer doing her job. That was to run a one-room school where children were learning to read and write. She also helped their mothers with advice on cooking and sanitation, and kept house for her husband, a fellow volunteer and childhood sweetheart.

Sandra died last month of a sudden brain injury.

FRONT FOR CIA? While congressmen in nearby Chile accused the Peace Corps of serving as a front for the Central Intelligence Agency, the newspaper El Diario de La Paz editorialized: "Although you did not wish it to be, your life is a display in the face of all the people revolutionaries who sing odes to the 'campesinos' from their plush homes and comfortable desks."

One of 200 volunteers assigned to Bolivia, Sandra had been living and working in the El Alto slum near the city's mountain-top airport for a year. Her husband, Frederick W. Smith, 23, taught masonry at a nearby trade school and worked with Sandra in teaching their neighbors rudimentary sanitation.

Both were brought up in Upstate New York where they attended Clarence Central High School, and both graduated from the University of Rochester. Fred's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Smith Jr., live in Rexford, N.Y., while Sandra's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Lee Taplin, have moved to Miami, Fla. "I liked Sandra very much," says 6-year-old Jose Limache, one of the ragged toddlers who attends the tiny school where Sandra taught. "I hope they name the school after her."

The school, in the middle of a dirt-floor adobe compound, is about 12 by 25 feet. The furniture consists of scrap lumber and bricks. But for the 27 children who study there the school is a great deal better than what their parents had in childhood.

NO SCHOOLS THEN

"There were no schools when I was young," says Amelia de Churruarín, whose two children attend Sandra's school. "My girls are learning many things."

Like most of the other mothers in El Alto, Mrs. de Churruarín is an Indian peasant whose main language is the Aymara dialect. For her children's education she pays a peso a week. That's only about a nickel in American money, but it's sizable for the desperately poor campesinos of the highlands. The money was used to pay for supplies and for the salary of a young girl from the interior who helped Sandra with the younger children.

"She was constantly thinking of the school and how to improve it," says Rosa Pelaez, Sandra's 24-year-old assistant. Barely literate herself, she is now trying to run the school alone while waiting for the Peace Corps to decide whether a new volunteer will be sent into the project.

Gino Baumann, the Peace Corps director for Bolivia, says the school probably will be continued and in the meantime is helping El Alto residents fulfill the hope that the school will be named after the New York girl. "AN ANGEL,"

"She was an angel; we could hardly believe it when we heard she had died," says mechanic Juan Mamani.

When Sandra's coffin was flown out of La Paz for burial in Rexford, many of the neighbors trudged to the airport with small gifts for her husband in an unusual tribute from people who are generally taciturn and withdrawn.

"You were truly working for the liberation of the Indian peasant," said one La Paz editorial, "because you taught him to read and that is where his true redemption will come from. And you did not ask for votes and you didn't bring arms for them to kill brother Bolivians, and you did not ask them for support in future political campaigns."

Californians, Says Cassel, Meet Only at Traffic Lights

By EARL WILSON

LONDON—Jon Voight, the tallish, handsome blond fellow from Scarsdale who excited a lot of people in the movie "Midnight Cowboy," was pretty amused the other day listening to another actor, Seymour Cassel, chewing his walrus mustache and exclaiming about London's advantages over Hollywood's and New York's. "People come to see you in London," Seymour Cassel was definitely chewing his mustache.

"In California you have to go look for people. They're never home. You know where they are? They're in their cars. The only time you can ever see a friend of yours in California, is at a traffic light."

As he pictured it, the Californians say, "Well, Wilson see you at another traffic light some time," and off they go.

Six-foot-two, unmarried, athletic-looking Voight just rested, and let Cassel carry the conversational ball. They are both filming "The Revolutionary" here with practically an all-American company, but at this point Voight seemed to have more fun just letting Cassel go on.

"You know how I amuse myself," said Cassel, who's from Detroit, Florida and N.Y., on the way to L.A. "I act all the time. I go into a Hollywood drug store and I order cigarettes in French. I drive down Hollywood Boulevard and I suddenly stand up in my car and scream. Or I enter a room and fall down. My kid, Matthew, who's 5, is like me. He'll come into a room and fall down just for laughs."

"Every day I entertain myself. You can't trust other people to do it. Who's my favorite entertainer? Me!"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP IN N.Y.

Nobody's been chosen yet to take over Pearl Bailey's "Dolly" role on Broadway when she leaves. "What we need," said a David Merrick aide, "is the greatest thing on two feet, to replace the greatest thing on two feet!"

The cast of "Hadrian VII" thinks Bill Bush, who plays one of the cardinals, should have won the "Mets' Greatest Fan" contest; they claim he once kept a radio in his cap onstage to hear an important game. . . . Katherine Ross (of "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid") and the film's cameraman, Conrad Hall, may wed soon. . . . Some of the comedy routines Pat Cooper'll use in his Copa stint were written by his wife Patty.

WISH IT SAID THAT: Service has become so slow in some restaurants that they've eliminated the three-minute egg.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "My illness was due to my doctor's insistence that I drink milk, a whitish liquid they force down helpless babies." —W. C. Fields.

EARL'S PEARLS: Don't confuse brilliance with education. I know a man who can speak 12 languages—and is a liar in all of them. —Dr. Tennyson Guyer.

A college professor was asked (reports Quote) to give two reasons for becoming a teacher. He sighed wearily and said, "July and August." . . . That's earl, brother.

Gramophone-Grown Greens?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Agricultural Research Service has been at work for several years trying to develop substitutes for chemical pesticides and fertilizers that cause environmental problems.

Thus far there have been no major breakthrough, but I recently read an article that looked extremely promising. It told about a farmer in Florida who plays soft music to his mango trees.

The farmer said he had heard that corn in Iowa grows faster when music is played to it. So he had Muzak piped into his mango grove on the theory that it would increase the yield.

After reading this article, I went home and began installing a stereo record player in my backyard victory garden. My wife rushed out of the house and said, "What in the name of Luther Burbank do you think you are doing?" I told her about the mango grower.

"That's ridiculous!" she exclaimed.

"It certainly is," I agreed.

"That farmer should know better than to expect insipid Muzak schmaltz to stimulate a mango tree. Mangos obviously need something lively, like the '1812 Overture.'"

Then I finished hooking up the vegetable garden stereo. I put one speaker in the tomato vines and the other in a row of colored greens. If you stand over by the okra patch, you get a perfectly balanced tone.

My okra hasn't been doing well lately. A late summer drought has caused many of the stalks to droop and drop their leaves. I am hoping the music will perk it up.

But I'm not making the mistake the mango grower did. Rather than serenading my okra with background slush, which is a scattershot approach at best, I'm carefully selecting the songs that okra loves best. Unfortunately, the science of horticultural harmonics is still in the experimental stage. You can't just walk into a garden-supply store and pick up an album of all-time okra favorites.

A seed dealer can tell you the type of fertilizer and bug spray to buy for a particular plant. But ask his advice on asparagus fugues or broccoli ballads and you only get a blank stare.

In a small, diversified garden such as mine, the trick is to pick tunes that will bring out the best in an okra plant without offending the neighboring squash.

I have found that okra, being primarily a southern plant, thrives on Homer and Jethro records mixed with Roy Acuff's recording of "Blood on the Highway." But this mixture will cause a sophisticated plant like the artichoke to develop a fungus.

Now TRUE GRIT
The strangest trio ever to track a killer.
A fearless, one-eyed U.S. marshal who never knew a dry day in his life... and a girl still wet behind the ears who didn't care what they were or who they were as long as they had true grit.
A BRAND NEW BRAND OF AMERICAN FRONTIER STORY
THE YEAR'S BEST SELLER ABOUT THE TRUE WEST!
TRUE GRIT is the most stupendous high adventure!
