Waterford Chief Blames Politics for Loss of Job

Van Atta Lays Action to His Support of Irons for Sheriff

Frank J. Van Atta, 41, told the Pontiac Press today that he was fired as Waterford Township police chief this morning by the Township Board of Trustees.

He said Louis G. Barry, township clerk, notified him of his dismissal by letter.

No reason for his ouster was given in the letter, but Van Atta attributed it to politics.

"The only reason that I can see is because a man voices his own personal opinion and takes a stand in an election," said Van Atta. Asked to elaborate, Van Atta said, "There's only one and that's the sheriff's race. I'm for Frank Irons for sheriff."

(Irons and two other candidates oppose Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell on the Republican ticket in the Aug. 3 election.)

Van Atta was an Oakland County sheriff's deputy from 1947 to 1953, leaving the department as a captain to become chief of the newly created Waterford Township Police Department.

He said he wasn't asked to appear before the board and knew nothing officially of the action until this morning.

In the letter of dismissal, the board of trustees said:

". . . At a regular meeting of the Waterford Township Board, held in Waterford Township Hall July 19, 1954, the following resolutions were passed by the board, moved by Barry (township clerk) supported by Loomis (Oscar D. Loomis, trustee), resolved that Frank Van Atta be dismissed as police chief effective immediately.

"Also, that he be granted two weeks pay in advance and that the clerk be instructed to notify Frank of same, motion made by Bliss (Robert Bliss, trustee) supported by Reese (Helen H. Reese, treasurer) resolved that Oscar Loomis be placed in charge of the operation of the Waterford Township Police Department on a temporary basis. Motion carried . . ."

Van Atta said "it all boils down to the fact that I wouldn't back Hubbell for sheriff. I made no

Way Is Cleared for Tax Billing

Southfield Withdraws Action; City Can Send Delayed Notices

Pontiac's delay in sending summer tax bills ended this weekend as Southfield Township withdrew action that could have changed tax values on all Oakland County property.

Southfield Supervisor William O. Roeser said his township "would rather pay a little more than our fair share of the total county tax than upset the whole applecart."

Pontiac City Treasurer M. M. Ashbaugh said the city will start adding up its 32,000 tax bills for property owners right away.

Taxes for Pontiac City and Pontiac Public Schools are usually payable July 1. This year they'll be payable Aug. 16 through Sept. 18—six weeks late. Pontiac Public Schools have already had to borrow $250,000 to tide them over until city residents start paying the delayed taxes.

Southfield Township June 1 asked Michigan State Tax Commission to check an equalized valuation of $80,162,007 Oakland county supervisors set for the township. This figure meant Southfield would pay 8.3 per cent of the tax levy to run county government.

Roeser said the State Tax Commission found the county's valuation on his township was almost $3,000,000 too high—under the county's formula. This reduction would have cut Southfield's share of the county tax levy to a little less than 8 per cent.

"But if we let the appeal stand," Roeser said, "the State Tax Commission would have set state equalized valuations on all Oakland County property. The state formula sets Oakland County's worth at $1,178,425,000—about 21 per cent more than the county supervisors' valuation. Out of consideration for our neighbors, we're dropping this appeal."

Harry J. Merritt, county corporation counsel, said Roeser was to be commended for his action.

"The tax allocation board has already set tax rates for the county and all its townships and schools," Merritt said. "If the state had put that billion-dollar value on the county, the board probably would have had to meet again and lower all the tax rates. Otherwise, every property owner's tax bill would have been 21 per cent higher—and the county, townships and schools would have collected more money than they needed."

Major Barriers in Truce Talks Surmounted

Reds Fail to Demand U.S. Inclusion on List of Approving Powers

GENEVA (AP)—The two major obstacles to the signing of an Indochina armistice appeared to have been surmounted late today, conference sources said, and an agreement before midnight appeared certain.

A highly reliable source, who declined to be identified, said the Communists have agreed the United States would not be listed among the powers approving the multilateral general declaration to be issued at the close of the session.

It was learned that the Chinese Communists, who originally asked that the United States be included in the list, were now not inclined to insist on this point. This block, thrown into the negotiations at the 11th hour, had dampened optimism for a while.

A responsible Laotian source said that agreement also was reached on the question of regroupment of "resistance forces" in Loas and the withdrawal of an estimated 10,000 Vietminh troops in that kingdom within 60 days.

A few minor issues remained to be settled.

An American source said the British officially informed the U.S. delegation late today that Communist insistence on the listing of the United States in the declaration's preamble had been dropped.

The French said the atmosphere at a luncheon given by French Premier Pierre Mendes-France for Red China's Chou En-lai was cordial and political matters were discussed only perfunctorily.

A well informed source said that things "went a bit better" at this morning's session of Mendes-France, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Vietminh Foreign Minister Pham Van Dong.

The ministers, meeting again this afternoon, appeared to be ironing out the few remaining differences between East and West.

Under the agreement reached with the Laotians, it was reported, present government will be grouped around Sam Neua and about 1,500 Laotians opposing the Phong Saly. They will be permitted to keep their arms until elections this fall.

Scattered Showers, Cooler Is Forecast

Cooler air from Canada again will keep Michigan out of the grip of a blistering heat wave that has caused at least 246 deaths since it spread across the nation last week.

On the fringe of the withering blast, Michigan is expected to cool down slightly tonight and Wednesday. Thundershowers will usher in somewhat cooler weather in the Pontiac area today.

Forecasters predict a low of 64 to 68 tonight and a high from 84 to 88 tomorrow in this area. Above normal temperatures are due over the next five days, with scattered thundershowers.

Yesterday's temperature in downtown Pontiac ranged from 61 to 86 degrees. The mercury rose from 68 at 8 a.m. today to 83 degrees at 2 p.m.

Wilson Not Enthused at Indochina Truce

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said today a truce line across Indochina may be the best "answer at the moment, but it is nothing I'm enthused about."

Wilson said also that it is for the people who "reach the agreement to defend any truce line," and that "certainly the United States is not going to do it alone."

The defense head expressed the opinion that even if the United States had had double its present military strength "nothing that has happened in the last 18 months would have been very different."

Wilson said he thought that the threat of another world war has not changed much but is "probably a little less" than when he took office 18 months ago.

Slayer Attacks Sleeping Family

Kills Father, Wounds Mother in Mysterious Dallas Shooting

DALLAS (AP)—Police today still sought a motive for the murder of a father and the attempted murder of his wife and daughter as they slept outdoors to escape searing Dallas heat.

A 22-year-old suspect was held but not charged immediately. He was picked up hours later from descriptions by the wife and daughter.

Killed was Durward G. Bursby, 36, a city bus driver. His wife Annie, 31, was shot twice in the chest.

The slayer attempted to shoot Patricia Ann, 11, but the pistol misfired twice.

The Bursbys had moved a mattress on to the back lawn Sunday night and Patricia Ann was sleeping on a pallet near her parents.

About 1:10 a.m., the girl was awakened by a man stopping over her. He seized her by the throat. Her screams awakened her father.

The slayer shot him twice in the chest. The mother then was shot twice and some bullets apparently went wide. The man attempted to shoot the girl, but fled when his pistol failed to fire.

Bursby's wallet, containing between 3 or 4 dollars, was missing. He had left it inside the house.

Small Sued for $250,000 on Behalf of Lack's Sons

DETROIT (UP)—A $250,000 damage suit was on file in Circuit Court today against Dr. Kenneth B. Small, handsome society dentist who shot and killed Jules Lack when he found the wealthy New Yorker keeping a love tryst with his pretty wife.

A Detroit attorney, A. L. Schwartz, filed the suit Monday in behalf of Lack's two sons, John, 10, and Andrew, 7. Schwartz said he acted on the request of Mrs. Jean A. Lack, the slain man's divorced wife, and David C. Lewis, a former business associate of Lack.

The suit charged that the slaying of Lack deprived his sons "of his love and affection and income they would have received had he lived."

Small, still held in Allegan County Jail, early Saturday was found innocent of murder by reason of temporary insanity in the May 29 shooting. Defense attorney Leo Hoffman has started legal action to have the 31-year-old Detroit dentist declared sane and released.

Small's dark-eyed wife, Edith, 30, who had asked him for a divorce after falling in love with Lack, 45, during a Florida vacation early this year, said she didn't see how anyone could sue an "insane man."

"He (Jules) didn't support his children anyway," she said.

Schwartz said he has been re-

Hunting Dates Set for Small Game

HIGHLAND (AP) — Small game and upland birds hunting seasons approved by the State Conservation Commission today were mostly unchanged from last year.

A 22-day pheasant hunting season from Oct. 20 through Nov. 10 was approved for the Lower Peninsula.

In the Upper Peninsula, the southern part of Menominee County was opened to pheasant hunting from Oct. 1 to 10.

There was no essential change in the ruffed grouse seasons, set as from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1 in the Upper Peninsula, Oct. 1 to Nov. 10 in the northern Lower Peninsula and Oct. 20 to Nov. 19 in the southern part of the Lower Peninsula.

The prairie chicken - sharptail grouse season was set from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1 in the Upper Peninsula. There will be no open season in the Lower Peninsula.

Members of the commission, meeting at Haven Hill Lodge, paused to pay tribute to the late Donald B. McLouth, Detroit industrialist and commission member, who died recently. Frank E. Burch of Detroit, executive secretary of the Detroit Sportsmen's Congress, named to succeed McLouth, attended his first meeting.

Lawyers Oppose Building Bonds

Bar Vote Is 25 to 20 Against Courthouse Because of Location

Oakland County Bar Association Monday afternoon voted to oppose the $4,500,000 bond issue at the Aug. 3 election for a new courthouse-office building because of the proposed location on Telegraph road.

Forty-five members attended a special meeting, and the vote to oppose the bond issue was 25 to 20.

The association agreed, however, that the county needs a new courthouse.

The meeting had been called to vote on a proposal to back the bond issue, but the attorneys approved an amendment to oppose it offered by Clarence Smith.

Several county officials and Dr. Louis Friedland of Wayne University, who surveyed the county's building needs, attended to answer questions.

Following the vote Monday, Jack W. Hutson of Royal Oak urged that a mail poll of all members of the association be taken on the issue, because of the small representation Monday. No decision was made on the request, as a motion to adjourn had already been made and took precedence over his suggestion.

In reply to the remark that no bus line serves the area Harry J. Merritt, county corporation counsel, said when the courthouse is moved to the "center" a bus line will run there "even if the county has to subsidize it."

Anthony Renne asked why the county didn't build a new courthouse several stories high on its present Huron-Saginaw street site, with an underground garage for parking.

Dr. Friedland answered that such a building would cost at least $2,250,000 more than the one planned — not counting the underground garage.

H. Lloyd Clawson, of Royal Oak, chairman of the supervisors special courthouse committee which recommends the building on Telegraph road, assured attorneys the county would consult with the bar association in making final plans for the court accommodations.

Beaten Infant Is Found Dead

Baby Killed by Blow, Left in Deserted Shack in Avon Township

The beaten body of a baby girl wrapped in a pink blanket was found last night in an abandoned brick shack on the edge of a quarry on Hamlin road just east of John R. road, Avon Township.

Apparently killed shortly after birth by a blow on the head, the baby was found by Richard Ponke, 30, of 1081 Hamlin Rd. as he was out walking his dog.

Cpl. Bernard Grace and Detective Ray McConnell of the Romeo State Police said they had few clues to work on.

Ponke said that he followed his dog to the roofless building about 150 yards from his home and found the body of the girl in the corner of the shack.

Deputy Oakland County coroner, Dr. Isaac C. Prevette, attributed the death to a blow over the right ear, and said that the baby had been dead approximately 24 hours.

Senators Meet Over Whether to Fire Others

Chief Counsel Resigns Before a Showdown With Opponents

WASHINGTON (UP) —The Senate Investigating subcommittee began a closed meeting at 12:45 (EDT) on whether to fire other staff members in the wake of the resignation of chief counsel Roy M. Cohn. McCarthy announced the transfer of Donald A. Surine to his personal payroll a few minutes before he entered a closed subcommittee meeting.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today announced the resignation of Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of his Senate Investigations subcommittee and No. 1 target of members demanding a staff shakeup.

McCarthy made the announcement in a statement just two hours before a scheduled meeting at which committee members seeking the scalps of Cohn and others were set to seek a showdown vote.

"The resignation of Roy Cohn must bring great satisfaction to the Communists and fellow travelers," McCarthy said.

"The smears and pressures to which he has been subjected make it clear that an effective anti-Communist cannot long survive on the Washington scene."

McCarthy made public a letter in which Cohn said he was resigning because "there apears to be a lack of unanimity among the members of the investigations subcommittee upon the question of continuing my services as chief counsel."

Actually, the committee was reported to be lined up 4-3 in favor of firing Cohn.

Cohn's resignation letter was dated yesterday. McCarthy's prepared statement of comment on it bore today's date, and was released in his absence from his office.

While McCarthy did not state specifically that he was accepting the resignation, he spoke of the young lawyer's withdrawal as an accomplished fact.

He said:

"The jury of the American people saw and heard him during the (McCarthy-Army) hearings. They know first-hand of his ability and his effectiveness. I know that they will resent as deeply as do I the treatment to which he has been subjected."

Following is the text of the letter from Cohn to McCarthy:

"Dear Mr. Chairman.

"As there appears to be a lack of unanimity among the members of the investigations subcommittee upon the question of continuing my services as chief counsel, I hereby tender my resignation.

"It has been a privilege to perform my duties under your inspir-

Bingo Verdicts Cause Conflict

Detroit, Millard Differ on Decisions Covering Voluntary Payments

Oakland County records indicate that a decision to condone voluntary-contribution bingo in Detroit conflicts with an earlier opinion from Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard's office.

Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem quoted the opinion when asked by the Pontiac Press to comment on the Detroit situation.

In Detroit, Chief Assistant Prosecutor Ralph A. Garber has ruled in at least one case that a charitable bingo game played on a "voluntary, unspecified contribution basis" is legal. Ziem said the opinion from Millard's office seems to oppose the stand.

The county prosecutor said he asked for the opinion in a letter sent to Millard last Jan. 18. The reply on Jan. 29 was signed by Harry W. Jackson, head of the attorney general's criminal division.

Ziem said he sought a ruling on the legality of bingo games in which members of an organization are not charged a specific admission price, but can leave voluntary donations.

Jackson's reply said in part:

"You ask whether or not we believe this to be illegal under our present laws. We would be inclined to believe that this is an illegal operation and that the donations constitute a mere subterfuge to by-pass the question of consideration."

Ziem said he would abide by the ruling as the attorney general's office is the top supervisory agency as far as prosecutor's offices are concerned.

Millard refused to comment when reached by telephone yesterday in his Lansing office.

Organized Gangs Prey on Park Visitors, Stealing Cars, Valuables, Police Warn

Visitors to parks in Oakland County were warned today to be on guard against a gang of young hoodlums that snatches valuables from cars while people are in swimming.

More than $1,500 in watches and other articles has been stolen in one park so far this year, and others report similar thefts.

Another ring specializing in car thefts also is believed to be operating in crowded recreation area parking lots.

The theft rings were revealed today by Michigan State Police of the Pontiac Post and park officials. Both warned park visitors to take extra precautions, until the gangs are broken up.

They said the hoodlums have eluded arrest so far due to their method of posting lookouts who flash a warning to other gang members when plainclothesmen are sighted.

The gang breaking into cars appears most active between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m., the hours when the parks have the most visitors.

"We've been plagued with the breakin gangs about four years," said Paul Rearick, manager of Cass Dodge Park No. 4 at Cass Lake. "About $8,000 in valuables has been stolen, $1,500 of it this year."

He said anyone leaving valuables in his car, even if the doors are locked, is just asking for trouble.

"Besides spotting the police, the gang's outlooks also watch the motorists hide their valuables. When the people leave their cars, the hoodlums strike," Rearick continued.

The gang was termed a "well organized bunch of professional thieves."

"It seems to be operating in all the public parks in this area," Rearick continued. "So far it has been impossible to stamp it out."

Thomas Haddon, clerk at the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area on Pontiac Lake, reported only two similar larcenies there, but said he was afraid the beach parking lot was "ripe for some more robberies."

State troopers admitted they don't have the manpower to patrol the crowded parking lots properly

Ford Tractor Engineering Unit Moves to Birmingham

Establishment of a major engineering center for tractors and farm equipment in Birmingham has been announced by the Tractor and Implement Division of Ford Motor Company. Irving A. Duffy, vice president and general manager, said the center will require a staff of over 500.

The center will have under one roof the facilities and manpower needed for research, design, engineering and laboratory testing of all types of farm machinery.

Duffy said that the division's tractor engineering department, now located at the Rouge with central engineering staff, will be transferred to Birmingham. Approximately 100 tractor engineering people are in this department.

The harvesting engineering activity of Wood Bros., Inc., Des Moines, Iowa, will also be transferred to Birmingham. Wood Bros. is a Ford-owned manufacturing subsidiary.

Commission Asks Plans for a New Park Adjacent to East Side Fire Station

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — Possibility of establishing a city park on eight plots of land adjacent to the new East Side fire station site is expected to be reported on by the City Planning Board within two weeks.

The City Commission last night assigned the plan board to review the request of residents of the Bowers-Forest-Adams-Elm area to create a park on the land.

Several owners of the eight parcels had previously petitioned the Commission to change the zoning classification on the property from single family residence to business.

Residents objected at that time, and have countered with the park proposal. The property is on the north side of Bowers street.

In other action, City Manager Donald C. Egbert was instructed to determine if a property exchange could be worked out to straighten out the Willits-Woodward-Oakland street jog.

Rates for the use by local residents of the Southeastern Oakland County Garbage and Rubbish Authority dump on East Maple Road were reduced approximately 40 per cent.

The city had power to reduce the rates to its individual residents because the land is city owned, according to Jack Walker, assistant city manager.

The Rubbish Authority has already agreed to the price cut.

Necessity hearings were set for August 9 on installation of water service to property at Eton, Mansfield, and 14-Mile road, and water and sewer lines on the east side of Southfield road.

Edward R. White Co. of Berkley was awarded the contract for laying approximately 35,000 square feet of replacement sidewalk in the city.

Manager Egbert outlined a plan to continue the ¼-mill tax which has been levied locally for Oakland County drain obligations. The final payment to the county from the levy was made last winter.

Egbert told the Commission he foresaw the need for new drains to the southeast, costing up to $30,000,000, "of which Birmingham might have to pay up to $1,500,000."

Several commissioners raised the question of the legality of levying a tax for something not actually needed at the time of the levy.

Egbert also reported on the West Side interceptor sewer which would carry sewage down to Detroit for treatment.

Starting tomorrow and continuing the following three Wednesdays, the swimming pool facilities at Barnum School will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. for swimmers over 18 years old.

Strictly recreational, with no instructors provided, the weekly sessions are part of the Recreation Board's summer program. A 25-cent admission fee will be charged.

Another summer program project will be closed for an indefinite period, it was announced yesterday.

The rifle range setup at the police shooting range was closed down yesterday as workmen began filling in dirt behind the targets. The dirt being used is coming from street-widening operations on Maple.

Frank Whitney, director of the city's recreation program, suggested that those losing the use of the rifle range take advantage of the play program at Birmingham High School. Archery, basketball, badminton, baseball, volley ball and a trampoline are available at the school.

Cohn Resigns From McCarthy's Staff

ing leadership. The enthusiastic support which has come to me from the American people for the small part that I have played in this task of exposing Communist infiltration in key places has been an inspiring force and a great comfort. I extend to the great American jury my heartfelt thanks for its loyal support.

"Needless to add it is with much reluctance that I leave the challenging work of the committee, but I am certain that the fight against atheistic Communist influence will continue until every vestige of it is driven from our shores.

"Respectfully yours,

"Roy M. Cohn"

Cohn had been chief counsel of the McCarthy subcommittee since early in 1953. His pay was $11,700 a year but he testified during the McCarthy-Army hearings that he received a larger income from a New York law firm with which he retained a partnership.

Cohn had denied repeatedly in recent weeks reports that he planned to quit. So had McCarthy.

The 27-year-old Cohn first became a familiar national figure during televised hearings of McCarthy's investigations in which as special subcommittee counsel he did much of the quizzing of witnesses.

His name became a household word when he appeared as a principal in the Army-McCarthy hearings, in which he was both a witness and a questioner.

During the 36 days of televised hearings, he was constantly at McCarthy's side steadily whispering into the senator's ear.

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), who has been maneuvering in an effort to get a Senate vote on censure against McCarthy, commented on Cohn's resignation:

"So far so good.

"This of course does not reach the heart of the problem represented by the junior senator from Wisconsin."

The group within McCarthy's subcommittee aligned in favor of ousting Cohn was reported to include Sen. Potter (R-Mich), and the three Democratic members—Sens. McClellan (Ark.), Symington (Mo) and Jackson (Wash).

Park Visitors Told to Watch Valuables

even though they know the situation is growing more serious daily.

Cpl. Emmett Bradley of the Pontiac State Police Post said they "need full-time guards out there (Cass Dodge Park), but we just haven't the manpower to spare for the job."

He joined Rearick in a plea for visitors to be more cautious.

"Do not leave valuables in your car" signs are displayed prominently in the park, Rearick said, "but still people will leave things in their cars."

Rearick said two Detroit juveniles, aged 12 and 14, were caught recently smashing a car's window vent.

Although the method of breaking into the car was the same as that used by the organized gang, Rearick said he did not think children were responsible for the majority of the thefts.

Park officials and state troopers also blame an organized gang for the theft of five cars from the Cass Dodge Park parking lot this year.

The most recent case was last Friday when a car was taken from the Cass Dodge lot, and another stolen car was abandoned there.

The car taken from the lot was recovered in Royal Oak, and the one found in the lot was stolen from Royal Oak.

Park visitors were urged by Rearick and Cpl. Bradley to remove valuables from their cars and lock their doors before going to the beaches or picnic grounds.

"That's when the thugs strike," Rearick pointed out. "They break in when people are swimming or picnicking."

Man Charged With Murder

Accused of Stabbing Worker in Row Over Suspect's Wife

Antone Bombagi, 48, was charged with first degree murder today in a warrant approved by Oakland County Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem. He is shceduled to be arraigned in Pontiac Municipal Court later today.

The suspect is accused of the fatal stabbing Saturday night of George Spencer, 30, of 1255 Baldwin Rd., Orion Township, following an alleged argument over Bombagi's 31-year-old wife, Lulie Mae.

Bombagi, of 161 Pingree St., according to Ziem, admitted scuffling with the unemployed construction worker after Spencer allegedly taunted: "I can take your wife away from you anytime."

Meanwhile Oakland County Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell said a search around Spencer's boarding house yesterday failed to turn up a weapon. Doctors who treated the victim said he died of a stab wound in the heart.

He said he had never had "any grievance with the board" until the campaign.

"In fact I've never had to appear before the board. Everything was operating smoothly and efficiently.

"I can't blame any candidate, but the whole thing started when I voiced my opinions as to who I thought was most qualified to be Sheriff of Oakland County."

Van Atta told the Pontiac Press earlier today that his special deputy's badge earlier had been revoked by Hubbell. He also laid this to "politics."

Members of the board of trustees could not immediately be reached for comment.

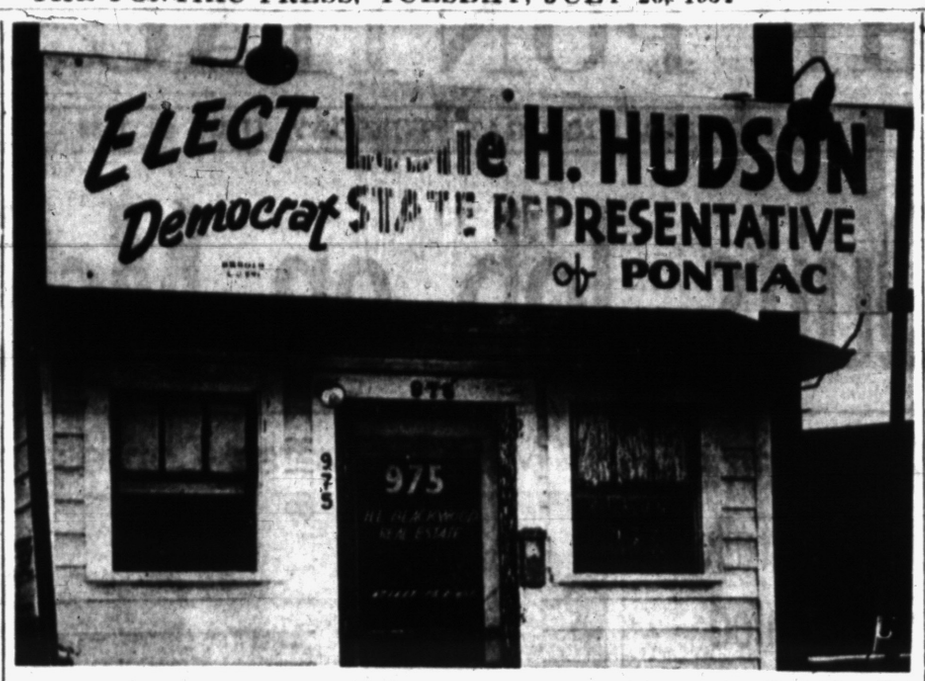

Waterford Township Supervisor Lloyd L. Anderson said he vigorously opposed the firing, but the resolution passed on the strength of votes by Bliss and Loomis, and Barry.

"The measure was presented by Barry and supported by Loomis," Anderson said. He added that a resolution offered by him to table the matter for a week was unsupported.

Anderson stated that one of the reasons for the ouster was Van Atta's activities in a political race. He added that this was not the main reason, but would not reveal the other factors behind the dismissal.

"I want to go on record as being highly satisfied with the efficiency of the police department and Chief Van Atta," Anderson stated.

"He has done a wonderful job as chief, and his firing was uncalled for," the township supervisor added. Anderson said he had no knowledge of the resolution prior to the meeting, and it was brought up as the last item of the meeting.

Rabbi Raps Visa Policy of U.S. State Department

DETROIT (UP) — The U. S. State Department was criticized yesterday for denying visas to American citizens of the Jewish faith to visit Israel's holy places.

Rabbi Theodore L. Adams of New York, in his presidential address, told the 18th annual convention of the Rabbinical Council of America that the present state department policy "denotes weakness on the part of the American government."

tained by the New York law firm of Newman and Katz, which is representing Lack's estate. He said the innocent verdict did not remove Small's "civil liability."

The dentist was expected to turn defense of the suit over to Hoffman. When informed of the suit in his cell at Allegan, Small said it "sounds like baloney."

"Where would I get that kind of maney?" Small asked. "My wife has it, but that's her inheritance and I don't think they can get into that."

Edith's brother, Julie Sandler, said that if any suit were filed in connection with his sister's romance it should be against Lack for alienation of affection. Sandler also said his sister should have sued Lack to recover $10,000.

Testimony in the trial confirmed earlier reports that Edith gave Lack the money to invest in the Majestic Air Conditioning Co. of New York City, of which Lack was president. She never got the stock she was supposed to have received.

Statement Corrected

A story in Monday's Pontiac Press mistakenly identified William S. Broomfield of Royal Oak as an incumbent in the race for the Republican nomination for state senator from Oakland County.

Broomfield is a state representative and a candidate for state senator.

Adventurers' Raft Still Unsighted After Two Days

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Calif. (UP)—An inner tube raft carrying five adventurers on a 71-mile voyage here from the California coast is still unsighted two days after its departure.

Asst. Harbor Master Bob Trammel said the sea was a little rough today, with an offshore wind, and the raft "may just be drifting around."

The raft's skipper, John W. Strobel III, 22, had said he expected to complete the trip yesterday. The 15 by 31-foot craft, built of 100 inner tubes wired to a wooden frame, left Ventura Sunday.

The Coast Guard said it still was not officially concerned because the raft has not been reported overdue and no one has requested a search.

Loaded aboard the raft were a gas stove, canned food, five gallons of water, a compass and an outboard motor.

3 Youths Waive Hearing in Theft of 12-Foot Boat

One Farmington and two Detroit youths waived examination yesterday on charges of boat theft, and were bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for arraignment July 23.

The trio, Patrick Pettey, 19, and Gerald E. Rousseau, 17, both of Detroit, and Ernest Kruschlin, 19, of 20837 Whitlock, Farmington, were unable to furnish $1,000 bond each set by West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle, and are being held in Oakland County Jail.

According to Dieterle, the three were arrested Sunday after they allegedly took a 12-foot boat, owned by Darrell Lantzy of Detroit, at Union Lake, Commerce Township.

Vandals Smear Campaign Signs

Hudson Claims Damage Violates Fair Play Code in Campaign

Two campaign signs erected by Leslie H. Hudson, candidate for Democratic nomination as state representative from Pontiac, were found smeared with paint this morning, with some of the paint splashed on a private building. Both signs were on private property.

One was a 3x15 billboard in front of the H. L. Blackwood real estate agency at 975 Baldwin Ave. and the other was a 4x8 sign on Hudson's property at Baldwin and Walton Blvd.

Hudson reported to Pontiac police that vandals had splashed white and green paint on the signs, also hitting the front and door of the Blackwood agency. He estimated damage at $60.

"I have no idea who is responsible," said Hudson, "but feel such actions violate the spirit of fair treatment which should be accorded every candidate for public office.

"The acts take on seriousness in that the vandals showed no regard for private property. Mr. Blackwood allowed me to erect the sign on his property and as a result his building was defaced.

"The democratic process guarantees each candidate the right to present his case to the people and I am sure such destructive tactics are resented by all honest citizens."

The building area now occupied by the division's parts warehousing activity will be converted into an engineering shop and laboratory, Duffy said. The parts activity will be transferred to the newly acquired Tractor and Implement Division Parts Depot at Lincoln Park.

Expansion of several employe service facilities, including the cafeteria and parking lots are included in the program.

Sherwood Mason Dies

COLDWATER (UP) — Darwood M. Leonard, 67, long active in Michigan Masonic activities, died Monday at his farm near Sherwood in Branch County. Leonard was a member of Masonic lodges and was a Knights Templar Commander in both Grand Rapids and Battle Creek. He is survived by his widow, Edith.

Dodge Strike Continues

DETROIT (INS) — A strike of 22,000 Detroit area Chrysler Corporation workers went into its second day today with pickets continuing to march in front of the struck Dodge Main Plant, the Winfield Foundry and the Lynch Road Garage. The walkout began yesterday as an outgrowth of a dispute over dismissal of two trim employes of the Dodge Main Plant.

Ike's Housing Bill Faces Likely Doom; Power Contract Foes Delay Atom Vote

WASHINGTON (UP)—Supporters pledged a last-ditch effort to pass President Eisenhower's full public housing program today but they conceded privately the move appeared doomed.

The compromise housing bill expected to win house approval would stimulate private home-buying by lowering down payments but falls far short of the four-year, 140,000-unit public housing program requested by the President.

The compromise bill, worked out in conference with the Senate which approved the President's program, would allow subsidy commitments on an additional 35,000 public housing units. But the commitments could be made only if necessary to house persons displaced by slum clearance or urban renewal projects.

Theoretically, that could permit construction of 68,000 more units over the next two years, including the 33,000 already committed and in the construction pipeline.

Other congressional news:

Atomic—Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland urged the Senate to halt a "filibuster" and start voting on the atomic energy bill today. But opponents of a proposed private power contract provision were primed with more lengthy speeches. The controversy centers on President Eisenhower's plan to have the Atomic Energy Commission contract for private power in the Tennessee Valley.

Subversives — The House civil service committee was expected to approve an administration bill to deny pensions to government workers who seek refuge in the fifth amendment. The measure also would deny pensions to any federal employe, who, like Alger Hiss, is convicted of a felony.

Appropriations — House GOP leaders, prodded by President Eisenhower, predicted restoration of some or all of the $93,500,000 cut by the appropriations committee in funds for shipbuilding and federal aid to airports.

Social security—The Senate finance committee has just completed work on the administration's security bill. The committee late Monday accepted the administration formula, approved by the House, for increasing the scale of benefits.

Tax law writers studied a new compromise plan today to provide some reductions for corporation stockholders in an effort to break the House-Senate deadlock on the huge revenue revision bill.

The compromise understood to be "in the works" would exempt the first $50 of dividend income plus three percent of all such income above $50 a year.

The House provided for a $50 exemption this year, and $100 in succeeding years, plus an additional five per cent on 1954 dividend income and 10 per cent in succeeding years.

The Senate knocked out everything except the $50 exemption, and presumably the proposed increase to $100 in coming years has been abandoned by the conference committee.

BIGGEST AIRPORT VISITOR—This Super DC3, an executive ship operated by United States Steel Corp., holds the distinction of being the largest airplane ever to land at Pontiac Municipal Airport. It was so large it could not use the airport's runways and had to land on the sod. The plane, with a wingspread of 110 feet, used the city airport facilities over the weekend.

3 Identify Suspect in Indiana Murder

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—Police said today that a former Indianapolis cab driver has been identified from pictures as the "Jack O'Shea" in whose hotel room the body of 18-year-old Dorothy Poore was found Sunday, crammed in a drawer.

They said identification was made by a taxi driver and two elevator operators.

Police withheld the name of the 29-year-old suspect.

A Claypool bellhop, Bruno Widmann, 30, dissented from the picture identification, saying the suspect's height of 5 feet 8 "makes him too tall."

'Key' to Housing Scandal Accuses GOP Committee

WASHINGTON (INS) — Senate investigators were told today that the ousted federal official who has been called the "key" to housing scandals claimed the Republican National Committee demanded he be fired so it could fill his post with someone else.

New York builder David Muss testified before the Senate Banking Committee that former Assistant Federal Housing Administration Commissioner Clyde L. Powell showed him the purported copy of a letter containing such a demand.

Cleary Tours Oakland County

Begins Final 2-Week Leg of Campaign for GOP Nomination

Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary toured northern Oakland County yesterday to start the final two weeks of campaigning for Republican nomination for governor.

A motorcade visited Pontiac, Rochester, Lake Orion, Oxford, Clarkston and Holly and ended at a luncheon in the Waterford Township home of his county campaign chairman, Bruce Annett.

Cleary addressed 125 persons at Holly and told them that the highest degree of cooperation between the governor and legislature will be necessary to solve future problems expected with the addition of 3,500,000 new citizens in the next 15 years.

An example of the cooperation necessary, Cleary pointed out, is in solution of the acute water shortage faced by Oakland County communities.

The problem could be quickly solved, according to Cleary, if the executive office loaned its prestige and power to the establishment of a cooperative planning board to assist all communities.

The Bay City-Toledo turnpike would be much nearer reality today if the governor had shown more than an academic interest in aiding the authority which he appointed, according to Cleary.

Michigan agriculture must be assisted with more research, particularly in marketing, according to Cleary, to meet the challenge of a 50 per cent increase in population.

When he addressed 150 members of Oakland County's Republican Women's groups in Annett's home at 2799 Sylvan Shores Dr., Cleary told of an optimistic outlook for the state's welfare.

"I foresee expansion and development which the St. Lawrence Seaway will present to us, which can conceivably dwarf the boom which the automobile industry brought to Michigan in the first half of the century.

"This is the time for vision and vigor, not for retrenchment and reaction," he declared.

In stating his qualifications for the post of governor Cleary told his audience of his record as a soldier for 28 years; an educator for 20 years; chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for four years; his post as secretary of state and his position as a member of the Liquor Control Commission and other agencies.

Fifty years ago 3 out of every 10 people could expect to live to be 70 years old; today the figure is 5 out of 10.

Sultan Weary of His Dancing Girls So Trades Small Talk With GI

By BILLY ROSE

At Lindy's the other night, a fellow who works for the Air Transport Command told me two little stories about World War II, and here they are . . .

The first tiny tale is about a lad named Dave Abrahams, an Air Force clerk-typist, who was transferred from Casablanca to a sandy installation on the outskirts of Matruh, the capital of the desert Sultanate of Trucial Oman in southern Arabia.

BILLY ROSE

The temperature was 120 when the GI arrived, and the sergeant who met him assured him they were in the middle of a cold spell.

As Dave sat typing the next day, the major in command spotted the newcomer and asked him an odd question: "Can you play chess?"

"Yes sir," said Dave. "I play a pretty fair game."

"The Sultan of Trucial Oman is a bug on chess," said the Major, "and there's no one in the outfit to play with him. I'm assigning you to the palace."

Well, the Sultan—Saiyid Said bin Taimur was his name—turned out to be a pretty good egg under his burnoose. He had four wives and 30 dancing girls but, as he put it, "Who wants to dance all the time?"

For several months, Dave and the Sultan traded pawns and small talk, and a warm friendship grew up between the two men. And as might be expected, relations between the United States and Trucial Oman were never more cordial.

A year later, when Dave was ordered back to Casablanca, the Sultan decorated him with a silver medal—the first time the Star of Trucial Oman had ever been awarded to an "infidel." Deeply moved, Dave thanked his chess partner and said he wished he could reciprocate—but what could a private give a potentate?

The Sultan pointed to a small metallic object which hung on a chain around Dave's neck. Abrahams promptly handed it over, and Saiyid Said bin Taimur promised he would wear it always.

And so it is that today, somewhere on the hate-torn Arabian peninsula, a Mohammedan Sultan is wearing around his neck a cylinder containing sacred quotations from the Hebrew Torah—the mezuzzah presented to him by a GI.

The second tiny tale is about an emergency landing field which the ATC set up in 1942 to service planes on the run between the Gold Coast and Cairo. It was located near Maidugere in Upper Nigeria, an outpost in the dark core of darkest Africa.

An officer and 18 men were assigned to operate the field, and to keep their morale from going to pot their colonel promised that their stint in the steamy juigle would be limited to three months. "But you'll have to go easy on your K-rations," he warned them. They're in short supply."

When the gloomy detachment landed at Maidugeri, they found no jungle and no steam. Instead, the area around the airstrip looked like a classy suburb of the Garden of Eden, and the territory a few miles out was even more exciting. It was laced with clear trout streams and the woods abounded with game on hoof and one wing.

As if that weren't enough, the British had once tried ranching in the district, and the cattle and horses they had left behind were all over the place.

All a man had to do to round up a beefsteak was to round up a horse and go after said beefsteak with a rope. As for the climate, it was Chamber-of-Commerce perfect, 75 degrees by day and 50 by night.

A week after the men arrived, they had a herd of dairy cows. A month later, they had a corral of blooded horses and a four-team polo league. When the colonel dropped in one day, they paraded before him on horseback—the only cavalry unit in the history of the American Air Force.

As it turned out, however, Maidugeri was too good for its own good. News of this African paradise grapevined among the pilots on the Gold Coast Cairo run, and soon plane after plane began to develop "engine trouble" in the neighborhood of the emergency field.

To hear the airmen explain it, the carburetors of their C-47s were forever getting clogged by the fumes of antelope fillets, broiled avocados and candied yams.

Because of "engine trouble" and the shifting patterns of war, Maidugere was closed down some months later and the 20 soldiers planed back to the Gold Coast, taking the still-unopened K-rations with them.

According to the officer in charge, they were the most obedient body of men he had ever commanded. The colonel had told them to go easy on their K-rations and they had . . .

Timber Areas Win Acclaim

Forest Service Expects 35 Million Vacationers to Visit Reserves in 1954

WASHINGTON — The National Forest Service in 1954 will play host to 35 million vacationers and sportsmen.

Each year more campers, picnickers, hunters and fishermen are "discovering" the 153 national forests in 40 states, Alaska and Puerto Rico.

Unlike the national parks, where original scenic beauty is preserved with as few man-made changes as possible, the national forests operate on a utilitarian basis. Careful conservation measures, however, are always heeded.

Managed by 15,000 college-trained foresters, national forests last year produced almost half a billion dollars worth of lumber, paper and pulp materials, one-sixth of all wood products marketed by the Nation's millions. Private timber concerns operating on government-owned land paid into the United States Treasury over $70,000,000, enough to show a good profit, according to the National Geographic Society.

In 1891 when Congress passed the first forest reserve law, indiscriminate cutting was fast depleting the country's usable timber supply. The new law imposed drastic restrictions on government-owned lands. Grazing, hunting and fishing were forbidden. No timber was to be cut. Shortly before the turn of the century, however, a movement began which eventually transformed the national forests from a "park" status of preservation to an active role in the nation's economy, managed "for the greatest good of the greatest number in the long run."

A forest conservation pioneer, Bernard E. Fernow, became the first head of the Agriculture Department's forestry division.

Fernow, Gifford Pinchot and succeeding directors made many changes. Sizable timber "crops" were harvested each year. Thousands of miles of public access roads were built. More than 4,400 camping and picnic sites were developed. Waterways opened to pleasure-seekers. Hunters and fishermen were welcomed to well-stocked fields, woods and streams.

An educational program sponsored by the Forest Service reduced the waste of public and private timber and grasslands through fire.

Soon owners of private timber lands found it profitable to follow the Forest Service's example, and many now practice conservation as a matter of policy. They take only part of the standing timber at each cutting, leaving immature growth for stock, and they reseed cutover areas for future harvest.

There are 7,520 daily newspapers in the world says a United Nations report which excludes most Iron Curtain areas where figures were unavailable.

2 Miss Greeces in Beauty Race

State Secretary Dulles Causes Mixup Clearing Original Winner

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Miss Universe committee today finds itself in a Hellenic predicament — two entries from Greece.

The unusual problem was created by the U.S. State Department.

Rika Dialina, who originally won the Miss Greece title in Athens, was refused a visa to this country for the international beauty contest. An artist, she had once drawn an illustration used in a Communist book. Her sponsors vouched for her patriotism, but the McCarran Act denies a visa to anyone who aids in the production of Communist literature.

That meant that runner-up Effi Ardoulakakis came here to represent her country.

But Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gallantly stepped in and cleared Miss Dialina for entry. She arrives in this country today.

One pageant official predicts that both girls will be allowed to compete.

"When the U.S. State Department puts you on such a spot," he asked, "what else can we do?" He believes that one will go into the finals as Miss Island of Crete.

Preliminaries of the Miss U.S.A. contest get under way today with four days of weeding out ahead of them.

Proposed City Ordinance Would Regulate Donations

Pontiac City Commission tonight is expected to receive a draft of a proposed ordinance to regulate charitable and other organizations in soliciting and receiving public donations.

The ordinance has been prepared by the Better Business Board, division of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce.

A chief aim of the proposed city law is to assure that the major portion of donations to charitable and other causes will be used in activities for which they are solicited, according to Milo J. Cross, president of the local C. of C.

In other action, commissioners are slated to consider a proposed amendment to the city charter changing several provisions in the city empioyes' retirement plan.

A resolution is expected waiving use of gatekeepers at polling places in the Aug. 3 primary election.

Confirmation is scheduled of special assessment rolls for:

Two-inch blacktop paving on Tasmania from Pike to Maines, Michigan from Paddock to East boulevard and Lois from Roselawn to East boulevard.

Curb, gutter and drainage on East Tennyson from Baldwin to University and Harrison from Franklin to Bagley.

Commissioners are expected to receive a special assessment roll for combined sewer on Columbia from Barkell to 400 feet east.

The women had about $400 in cash between them when arrested Saturday, according to Birmingham police. They admitted stealing articles ranging from groceries to men's shorts, but could give no reason for the shoplifting. Neither has a police record in Detroit.

Asks Bids on Separation at 8-Mile and Woodward

LANSING — The State Highway department will take bids in Lansing, July 28, for the construction of a large grade separation at Woodward avenue and Eight-Mile road. The area is at the south limits of Oakland County.

The intersection handles some 130,000 vehicles every 24-hour period making it the busiest highway intersection in the state.

Under terms of the contract to be made with the low bidder on the project, construction work is to be completed by Dec. 15, 1955. During construction, traffic on Woodward avenue and Eight-Mile road will be routed over temporary roads at the construction site.

The Woodward-Eight-Mile structure will be one of the largest highway grade separations ever built in Michigan. It will be a tri-level structure with the ground level used for turning movements. The estimated cost totals around $3,500,000.

The overall length of the Woodward separation will be 2,650 feet, extending from Almeda to Chesterfield streets. On Eight-Mile the length will approximate 2,800 feet extending from Hilton street to Queenston street.

Both Woodward avenue and Eight-Mile road will have three lanes of traffic in each direction at the new grade intersection.

On the ground level, to be used for turning movements, there also will be three lanes of traffic in each direction.

Also included in the project will be three service drives, one immediately north of Eight-Mile road and immediately south of Bennett street which will carry northbound Woodward avenue traffic. Another will be for southbound Hilton street traffic wishing to go westerly on Eight-Mile road and a third will take southbound traffic on Hilton street easterly to eastbound 8-Mile road.

The Caine Mutiny

Copyright

Early in June they were rescued from the treadmill delirium of Seventh Fleet duty. The operation order for the invasion of Saipan arrived aboard, and the Caine was assigned to the screen of the main body of attack transports.

An hour before dawn of the invasion day, with the night fading to blue and Saipan beginning to show on the horizon, a humped black shape, Willie was surprised to find himself badly scared.

It humiliated him to be afraid, approaching his second combat experience, when he had been so valorously carefree the first time. His innocence was gone.

The flame and noise and ruin and falling figures of Kwajalein had penetrated to his bones and viscera even while he had hummed Begin the Beguine.

The Caine was sent to an anti-submarine patrol sector as soon as the invasion got under way, and there it steamed endlessly in a figure-eight path several thousand yards long.

Twelve other ships moved in unison with it, back and forth at ten knots, in a protective fanning curtain around the transports anchored close to the beach.

It seemed like a safe place, and Willie's spirits improved as the hours passed. His morale stiffened when he observed that Queeg was really shuttling from one side of the bridge to the other so as to remain sheltered from the beach.

There was no mistaking it this time, because the ship kept reversing course every few minutes; and regular as clockwork, each time it presented a new side to Saipan, Queeg would come strolling around to the seaward wing.

This gave Willie a dearly cherished chance to display his contempt for the captain by doing exactly the opposite. He sensed that the sailors were noticing Queeg's conduct; there was a lot of sly grinning and muttering.

Willie ostentatiously moved to the exposed side with each turn of the ship. Queeg took no apparent notice.

Shortly after Willie took over the binoculars from Keefer for the afternoon watch, a Navy Corsair came flying across the northern hills of the island toward the Caine.

All at once it burst into a rosette of flame, and arced into the water with a great splash halfway between the minesweeper and another patrol vessel, the new destroyer Stanfield. Willie telephoned the captain.

"Kay, head over there at twenty knots," was the sleepy reply. Queeg arrived on the bridge wearing khaki shorts and bedroom slippers, yawning, as the Caine and the Stanfield were closing to within a thousand yards of each other at the place of the crash. There was no remnant of the plane on the water; only a rainbow-colored film of gasoline.

"Bye-bye Corsair," said Queeg.

Towers of white water suddenly grew out of the sea on both sides of the Stanfield. For half a second Willie was puzzled, and thought they might be a queer tropical weather trick. Then the words burst from his throat: "Captain! The Stanfield's being straddled!"

Queeg looked at the subsiding splashes and shouted into the pilothouse, "All engines ahead full! hard right rudder!"

"There, Captain!" Willie pointed to an orange flash followed by a puff of black smoke, high on a cliff to the north. "That's the battery, sir!" He ran out on the wing, and shouted up to the flying bridge, "Gun watch!"

Jorgensen poked his head over the bulwark. "Yes, Mr. Keith?"

"Shore battery bears 045 relative, distance 4000 top, of the cliff! There, see that flash? Train the main battery on it!"

"Aye aye, sir! . . . All guns, shore battery, 045 relative, elevation 10, distance 4000!"

The Stanfield was whirling in a tight circle through a rain of splashes, and, even as it turned, it blasted an earsplitting salvo from its five-inch guns. Willie saw the Caine's gun crews jump to their places. The line of three-inch guns swung parallel, pointing more and more astern each second as the ship turned.

"Rudder amidships! Steady as you go!" Willie heard Queeg say. The minesweeper was now headed directly away from the shore battery, leaping thraugh the water at twenty knots. Willie ran into the pilothouse.

"Captain, main battery manned and on target!" Queeg seemed not to hear. He stood at an open window, with a squinting smile on his face.

"Captain, request permission to come broadside and fire at the shore battery! We're on the target, sir!"

The guns of the Stanfield roared two more salvos astern. Queeg paid no attention. He did not turn his head or his eyes.

"Sir," said Willie desperately, "I request permission to open fire with number-four gun! A clear shot over the stern, sir!"

Queeg said nothing. The officer of the deck ran out on the wing and saw the destroyer, a dwindling shape, fire its guns again. A thick ball of dust enveloped the place on the cliff where the battery had been.

Flames darted out of the dust as the salvo struck. Again the Stanfield was straddled. It fired four rapid salvos. There were no answering shots; at least there seemed to be no more splashes near the destroyer. Already the Caine was too far away for Willie to be certain.

The old minesweeper went on was sent back to Kwajalein with some LSTs, and then to Eniwetok with the carrier to Eniwetok, and again with a tanker.

The year rounded into August and the Caine still plied among the atolls of the Central Pacific, trapped once more in tedious shuttling, this time in the grip of the Com Fifth Fleet.

On Oct. 1, with Capt. Queeg still in command, the old minesweeper steamed into Ulithi Atoll, a ragged ring of islands, reefs, and green water, halfway between Guam and the newly captured Palaus.

Personal to Lieutenants Keefer and Keith. Greetings minesweepers. How about coming over tonight? I have the duty. Roland.

The Caine received this blinker message from a carrier far up in the lagoon, one of a large number which had come in during the day. Willie, who had the deck, sent the boatswain's mate to fetch Keefer. The novelist came to the bridge when the Caine's anchor was splashing into the water.

"What is that lucky clown doing on the Montauk?" Keefer said, peering through binoculars at the carrier. "I guess I'd better ask Old Yellowstain for permission to go over."

Queeg, lying on his bunk, yawning over a wrinkled old Esquire, said, "Well now, Tom, let's see. Seems to me you had a registered publications inventory due on 1 Oct. Have you turned it in?"

"Sir, I promise to do the inventory tonight when I get back, even if it means staying up all night—"

The captain shook his head. "I've got my methods, Tom, and they're the result of a h--l of a lot of observation of human nature. I'm sorry and it's nothing personal but permission is denied until such time as you turn in that inventory."

Next morning Keefer brought the inventory to the captain's cabin, and handed it to Queeg with a shamefaced smile. "Permission to use the gig to visit the Montauk, Captain?"

"Permission granted. Thank you, Tom," said the captain, flipping the pages of the report. "Enjoy yourself."

When Keefer came out on the well deck Willie was waiting for him, looking drooped despite fresh khakis and a gleaming shoeshine. "Tom, the carriers are under way—"

"Oh, Ch--t, no—"

Two carries went slowly past. "I think I see him," said Willie. "Look there, in the gun tub, the twin-forty on the hangar deck, just aft of the hawse. There, that's him. He's waving a megaphone."

Keefer nodded. He pulled a green megaphone from a bracket in the bulwark, and flourished it over his head. As the Montauk approached, he roared, "Good luck, Roland You'll tell me all about the war next time."

They could see Roland laugh and nod. He was far ahead of them in a moment. He called back once more, but nothing was distinguishable except "'By, Tom.'"

Willie and Keefer stood watching the purple dot of the baseball cap as the Montauk swung into Mugai Channel, increased speed, and headed out to sea.

The people in the United States knew more about the great Battle of Leyte Gulf when it happened than the sailors who fought it, and much more, of course, than the men of the Caine becalmed in Ulithi.

On the old minesweeper the development of the battle trickled through slowly in terse coded despatches, mostly damage reports.

One evening Keefer was drinking coffee in the wardroom, when the phone buzzed. "This is Willie, Tom. I'm on the bridge. Montauk is standing in."

"Coming right up. How does she look?"

"Banged up."

Keefer came to the bridge with a dispatch Blank initialed by Queeg. "Get one of your boys to send this, Willie. It's okay."

The signalman flashed the Montauk as it turned into the anchorage. The signal light on the carrier's buckled, blackened bridge gleamed in reply: Boat coming to Caine.

Keefer spelled the Morse aloud. He turned to Willie and said irritably, "What the h--l kind of answer is that:"

The two officers stood in silence as the Montauk's boat drew alongside. A young, scared-looking ensign with a blond mustache and thin childish lips came up the ladder. His left hand was wrapped in a heavy bandage stained yellow.

He introduced himself as Ensign Whitely. "What's the story on my brother?" said the novelist.

"Oh. You're Lt. Keefer?" said the ensign. "Well, sir." he looked at the others, and back at Keefer. "Sir, I'm sorry to be the one who tells you. Your brother died of burns yesterday. We buried him at sea."

Keefer nodded, his face calm and apparently half smiling.

"Well, I'll tell you this, Mr. Keefer, your brother saved the Montauk." Whitely said. "He'll get the Navy Cross. His name's already gone in.

"I realize that doesn't mean much—I mean, to you and your family, compared to—but anyway, it's a sure thing, and he deserved it—"

"It'll mean a very great deal to my dad," said Keefer in a tired tone. "What happened?"

Keefer listened in silence as Ensign Whitely told of the surprise encounter of Admiral Sprague's escort-carrier force with the main battle line of the Japanese Navy off Samoa, in a chaos of rain squalls and smoke screens.

Roland had been damage-control officer, and when a Kamikaze flew through the smoke screen and smashed into the bridge, Roland had taken over not only the fire-fighting but the conning as well—even though he had been hit by a mass of flaming wreckage."

"Thanks," said Keefer when he had finished. "I appreciate your coming."

Whitely nodded. The novelist put out his hand, and the young officer from the Montauk shook it. He ran a forefinger over his mustache. "I'm sorry, Mr. Keefer, he was a damn good guy—"

"Thank you, Mr. Whitely. Let me see you to the gangway."

Our 10,000,000 Trucks

Trucks are important to Pontiac.

Our city is the home of the world's largest truck manufacturing plant. Many of our fellow citizens devote their working lives to production of all types of highway carriers.

But few, perhaps, realize the extent to which trucks have revolutionized transport in all parts of the world and the contribution they make to our national economy. At present, the Automobile Manufacturers Association reports, there are 20,000,000 trucks in service throughout the world. Nearly half of these operate on the streets and highways of the U. S. A.

A clue to the growth and potential of the trucking industry lies in the fact that the Nation's truck fleet has doubled since 1940. These trucks travel 100 billion miles a year. They haul more than 11 billion tons of freight annually.

This is more than three-fourths of the total freight tonnage transported in the United States. Trucks account for 12 per cent of the total ton mileage compiled by all forms of transportation.

From all this it is clear that trucks are essential to our way of life. Their economic importance is shown by figures revealing that the industry creates employment for 6,260,000 persons, or one out of every 10 employed persons in the United States. At the same time the industry pays $1.5 billion a year in taxes.

Yes, trucks are important to Pontiac and will grow in importance with the years as will the demand for these efficient freight carriers.

1955 Dust Bowl Threat

Agricultural experts fear, with reason, a 1955 repetition of the dust bowl tragedy which befell our Southern Great Plains in the 1930s.

Damage to soil reached a critical stage last Spring. It was the result of an unbroken 16 week period of dry weather marked by windstorms of unusual velocity.

Later rainfall reduced the damage and permitted the sowing of crops in some areas. But a return of drought and strong winds in 1955 would produce a disaster comparable to that which struck the region 20 years ago.

The area affected covers 1,000,000 acres. Roots of the trouble are the same as in the 1930s — prolonged drought and overcultivation of poor land which abnormal rainfall enabled to yield high profit crops.

Fortunately Congress and the Department of Agriculture are aware of the problem. The lawmakers voted $15,000,000 for loans to dust bowl farmers to help finance temporary wind-breaking operations. Such measures, however, are of limited value.

There is only one way to prevent creation of dust bowl areas. It is to return poor land to grass and leave it that way. That is a major aim of this Administration.

The 1955 Agricultural appropriation includes $55,000,000 to finance a program of diverting marginal land from cultivation. Among other things it is planned to place such cropland in a conservation status and help finance the diversion from crops to soil building cover.

This program makes sense.

From Rags to Red Riches

If you are among those who wonder why so many Guatemalans went in for Communism, there is a simple answer.

There was money in it.

This is the unavoidable conclusion in the wake of the successful revolution which unseated the Reds in that Central American country.

It should be borne in mind that only the Communist leaders profited. For the rank and file there was only disillusionment as facts gathered by U. S. News & World Report reveal.

Ousted President Arbenz' salary was $100,000 a year. Thus he could report no more than $325,000 in earnings during his term of office. Yet he acquired two big estates and a summer home on the Pacific Coast. He got hold of interests in various companies and he laid away money in overseas banks. His holdings are estimated to be worth more than a million dollars.

Then there is Humberto Gonzalez Juarez, private secretary to Arbenz. A former tailor, his job provided chances to cut in on all kinds of deals. Estimates of his profits run as high as four million dollars.

Ex-Foreign Minister Toriello and his brother also profited handsomely. The former acquired a $100,000 home and valuable farms. Attempts still are being made to figure out his total take. The brother cleaned up by selling equipment to the government and handling big contracts. His cut has been estimated at 50 to 60 per cent.

These are only a few examples but they could be multiplied many times. Communism, as the magazine says, paid off handsomely for the bosses, not for the masses.

Descendants of Pioneers to Meet on Sunday for Picnic

Horse power: What was safer when the horses had it.

Echoes of Pontiac's early days will resound at a notable assemblage next Sunday. The descendants of many of our pioneers will meet at a building that was erected 114 years ago. It is the picnic of the members of St. Patrick's Chapel and their families at the spot on Union Lake Road where the first Catholic church in Oakland County, and said to be the first in Michigan outside of Detroit, was established. The building, still in use, was built in 1840.

Last March when her husband received a kernel of corn in a birthday card,

Mrs. R. N. Hickson

Do Immigrants From the Balkan Countries Threaten to Outbreed American Race?

(Letters will be condensed when necessary because of lack of space. Full name, address and telephone number of the writer must accompany letters but these will not be published if the writer so requests, unless the letter is critical in its nature.)

Researchers in aviation and other fields must be of high I.Q. Unfortunately they tend to race suicide through excessive birth control. One thing Americans can do is to watch immigration control regarding arrivals from high birthrate countries, such as the Balkans.

While motoring there, the writer found the fee for chauffeurs was 40 cents daily. An additional charge of 10 cents daily secured one speaking 15 languages. Here is an index as to Balkan living standards. It is well known that in that corner of Europe families of 10 to 18 children are not rare. It is overpopulation that makes the Balkans "Europe's powder-keg."

The reward of education was a daily wage increase equal to our price of an ice cream cone. With that much effort worth 10 cents, can one marvel at a willingness to bribe smugglers to gain admission to a land where wages are ten times theirs?

If we really desire scientific reduction of poverty, should we not watch injection into the U.S.A. of immigrants inured to near coolies wages? Will not our old Americans soon be outbred by such?

Case Records of a Psychologist

Boy Friend Wants to See Himself Named on Every Page, Paragraph of Love Letter

Renee wants to win her boy friend away from other girls. But he is in Europe, so she must rely on letter writing. Most girls have never received any tutoring on how to compose an exciting love letter. So paste this Case Record in your scrapbook. You girls can win or lose a boy solely by your correspondence.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case L-362: Renee L., aged 19, is a college girl whose boy friend is with the Army in Europe.

"Dr. Crane, how can I become a more interesting letter writer?" she asked.

"For I understand that several girls correspond with the boy I am most interested in.

"Since he is so far away, my only contacts with him must be by letter, so I want to make sure he falls in love with me. How can I do that?"

The "substance" usually counts far more than the "form" as regards love letters, but don't ignore grammar and spelling.

One of my older sons grew disinterested, in a lovely college coed that I thought would make him a dandy sweetheart and wife.

When pressed for a reason for his disinterest, he said the girl was "sloppy" in her letter writing. Although she was a sophomore at college, she mis-spelled words and used incorrect grammar.

"Sometimes she'd go back and correct her letter by inserting the proper spelling, but why didn't she re-write the whole thing?" my son protested.

Maybe he was too squeamish, but I mention this so you girls will realize that your letters are employed as an indirect yardstick for measuring your personality.

Yesterday I told you that people look at themselves first when they view a group picture which has included them.

And they do much the same thing regarding your letters to them. Rence is cute and talented, but if she fills several pages solely with comments about a new dress she is getting or the fact she shampooed her hair and it looks frightful, etc., the boy will lose interest.

For he wants to see himself named on every page and even in every paragraph.

So deftly weave in a comment from time to time which will bring him into your recital of everyday activities.

A good letter should not be a diary of daily events. Those have minor interest to a husband or sweetheart, but the major interest is your reference to him and how he thrills you.

"I went to a movie last night with Dad and Mother," Rence might say, and then tell her view of the film, pro and con.

But that would be far less stimulating to her boy friend in Europe than to say:

"I went to a movie last night with Dad and Mother, but something was lacking. I didn't have you to hold my hand, the way you always used to do. Remember?"

She can then detour upon new conversational tangents, but she should never fail to work the boy's name into every page and preferably every paragraph.

Many of you wives, too, spend pages describing your laundry and housekeeping chores and the problems of the children, which are all of nominal interest to your husbands, but you fail to laud your mate sufficiently.

You wives may then conclude "All my love forever. XXX"

And it is that final sign-off with the kisses that the man will read and re-read till he wears out the paper it is written on.

So by all means use the "Compliment Club" technique and build up your boy friend's ego even in your letters. Be as clever and original and witty as possible, but keep him in the focus of your discussion.

David Lawrence Says:

McCarthy Investigations Won't Hurt Republicans

WASHINGTON — There are two big myths floating around nowadays — one that the fight which Senator McCarthy has been waging so aggressively against Communists in government and defense plants is "hurting the Republican Party" and the other that it is "harming America abroad."

So far as Europeans are concerned, they know little and care less about the internal workings of the American government.

Their only interest in the Wisconsin senator — and now in Senator Knowland also — is that Congress may cut off public funds hitherto sent abroad by the billions.

This writer, when in Europe for two months recently, found few Europeans talking about McCarthy but did note how intensively the left wing and communist newspapers were trying to keep the issue alive by almost daily distortions of what was happening in the United States.

Americans abroad, of course, talk to each other a good deal about McCarthy, as they do in this country. Also, disgruntled Trumanites fired from their gravy train jobs abroad have kept up a furious offensive against McCarthy.

The most persistent piece of Communist propaganda — swallowed nowadays by not a few Americans on this side of the Atlantic, too — is that McCarthy is "another Hitler." This is perhaps the most palpable effort of all to tie the anti-Communist fight with "Facism." For every Communist paper calls any anti-Communist a Fascist.

It will be noted that the Wisconsin senator has never had anybody put in a concentration camp and instead has had the temerity to stand up for two Jews — Roy Cohn and David Schine—at a time when an anti-Semitic campaign originating in Germany has been waged to excoriate the two young men who served on the senator's staff.

Also the Wisconsin senator could hardly be regarded as a political presidential candidate by anyone who really knows American political customs. For neither political party has looked with favor on giving the presidential nomination to a Catholic since Al Smith was beaten so badly in 1928.

Those who spread the fiction about another Hitler, however, try in vain to find a parallel between American investigating committees, which have to be authorized by a vote of either house, and the removal of dissenters by a one-man dictatorship government.

For the last two years the fight against congressional committee inquiries has been spearheaded by the Communists. Joining innocently in the drive are many well-meaning persons in America who seem to be exercised about McCarthy methods but appear to spend little or no time worrying about the Communis methods of infiltration which have been so successful in the past and which, judging by the current revelations in Australia, are still functioning in free countries.

Congressional committee inquiries are most feared by the Communists because they mean the fullest publicity for their operations.

Senator McCarthy may not be gentle enough as a champion of the anti-Communist issue to suit the pussyfooters, but it is significant that not a single chairman of any congressional committee who has had the courage to tackle that problem in the last 20 years or more has escaped personal abuse and some of them have suffered political defeat with funds poured against them by left wing groups.

As for hurting the Republican Party, probably 90 per cent of those behind the anti-McCarthy movement are from the CIO and the Americans for Democratic Action and other radical groups which supported Stevenson in the last election.

Many of them have effectively scared a fringe of Republicans in Congress into believing that the anti-Communist issue will drive so-called independents into the Democratic Party.

The fuzzy thinkers on the anti-Communist issue probably never deserted Stevenson in 1952 and, if some did and now are going to return to the Democratic Party, their number will be more than offset by those Democrats who will vote Republican next time in protest against the handling by the Democratic administration of the Harry Dexter Whites and other communistic individuals as revealed since the 1952 election.

The only way the Republican Party can be hurt in the next elections is through any action indicating that it wants to squelch the anti-Communist agitation by congressional committees and revert to the false doctrine that the executive agencies can do it all by themselves—something which no responsible official in the Eisenhower Administration has as yet been willing to say.

Politics is fundamentally governed by negative rather than affirmative issues. A ten per cent stay at home defection next time could ruin Republican chances of victory.

The only thing that can lick the Republican Party this autumn is a lack of enthusiasm by the regular organizations. The President's job in the next few months — as it was in the autumn of 1952 — is to convert a conservative support that's rather passive now into an active, enthusiastic force for his congressional slate.

It was this ambassador-at-loggerheads who predicted Geneva would be a skeet shoot with dead pidges.

We were out-slicked from the low house, feenagled from the high house and never did have an optional bird.

It was at Geneva our old fear-weather pals England and France played twinkle-toes under the table with Russia.

That's as sure as eggs for breakfast. Both nations were trying to save their far eastern brands from the burning.

Results have more than polished the pessimism. France is being squeezed out of Indochina like paste in a tube.

The French and the Chinese knocked off a ten-day conference in Berne. Chou En-lai and Pierre Mendes-France used sign language. With Pierre doing all the signing.

We know that the cards were stacked like dirty dishes on the cook's night out.

In this face-saving tournament Geneva was no beauty parlor.

Neither was Berlin or other why-stations.

Anytime we match international diplomacy with the old world we're up salt creek with the tide out. Somebody is whipping up a SATO along the lines of NATO. Well, we have buttered our toast and we must lie on it.

NATO is not complete because France refuses to line up with West Germany. Now the combined diplomatic duplicity of England and America figures the formula for evaporation.

Michigan Reader Told to Try Daily Iodin but Brady Knows of No Asthma Cure

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

A Michigan reader says he is troubled with asthma, coughs for an hour every morning, feels tired all the time, has no ambition.

The hour of coughing wears him out for the day. He is now considering a move to Arizona in order to get away from Michigan winters.

In the first place, how in Sam Hill did the reader or his doctor happen to call the trouble asthma? Not a word about wheezing or difficult breathing.

Just the familiar symptoms of chronic bronchitis (recurring winter cough) or bronchiectasis (dilated or ballooned bronchial tube or tubes).

Th word asthma is derived from a Greek word meaning to breathe hard, short drawn breath. In practice the wheeze is, I think, the distinguishing feature of asthma, and not just hard breathing or short drawn breath.

Shortness of breath frequently indicates one or another disease other than asthma. Well, for that matter, so does a wheeze.

But if wheezing and labored or difficult breathing occur only in spells of hours or days, with intervals of easy breathing and no wheezing, that constitutes true asthma, broncial asthma, spasmodic asthma.

I suggest to the Michigan reader, who has a hard hour of coughing every morning, and to others with this complaint, to slide out of bed head first, so to speak, so as to remain for several minutes resting prone, with forearms on floor, ower half of body across bed.

This position favors drainage of oronchial passages, particularly if there is a ballooned bronchus where fluid collects overnight. It makes coughing effective.

And it can do persons with winter cough, bronchiectasis or true asthma no harm—for that matter it can do nobody any harm—to take a suitable daily iodin ration.

It is a great pity that doctors and folks generally ponder over an ailment only enough to give it a name, and thereafter devote themselves exclusively to "trying" this and that remedy or treatment which purports to be a cure.

Aside from prophylaxis, the prevention of disease and the correction of wrong ways of living while regeneration is still possible—this quest for a cure is as vain as was Ponce de Leon's dream of the Fountain of Youth.

Poor fellow, he turned up his toes at 61, and if any of you children ever find a cure for asthma or anything else—well, I'll believe it when I see it.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self addressed envelope is enclosed, etc.

Reporter Rates as VIP During Stay at Fort Riley

By LAURA Z. HOBSON
(International News Service)

FORT RILEY, Kan. — For several days my sons and I were guests of Maj. Gen. P. D. Ginder and the U. S. Army — and never was anybody so coddled!

Being lucky enough to know the commanding general of the 10th Infantry Division is, of course, pretty good "channels" for some special privileges, but when he invited us to "visit Fort Riley a while," I never dreamed how special they would be.

It wasn't simply being installed in the huge three - room visitor's suite in Carr Hall, with flowers in vases, electric fans all over and—surprising touch — a nice big electric refrigerator right in our living room, stocked with bottles of Coke, "pop," and canned fruit juices against hot Kansas thirst.

Nor was it the tennis courts and the five swimming pools on the post which my boys sampled constantly while I was high and dry at my typewriter, nor our easy access to demonstration rides in jeeps, tanks and planes.

Even the big evening party with the general and his staff and their wives didn't complete my feeling —though it was wonderful to be greeted by "The Sidewalks of New York," enthusiastically blared at us by Pfc. Lew Mochson of Brooklyn, Cpl. Joseph M. DiPaula of Baltimore, Pfc. Tony R. Gorenc of Milwaukee, Cpl. George C. Rapp of Pittsburgh, and Pfc. Dennis H. Knife of Great Neck, N. Y.

The largest privilege of all was getting to see part of the United States Army in a kind of close-up, under the guidance of one of its famous young generals, about whom Gen. Mark W. Clark wrote, "Korea has provided the U. S. with a bumper crop of leaders. . . I have in mind Maj. Gen. P. D. Ginder . . ."

Back home, where I first met Gen. Ginder and his wife Jean, who's now in London producing a play, his friends always call him "Phil." In the Army that changes to "P. D.," often sounding like "Petie."

But at Fort Riley, where he's in command of 18,500 military personnel, I found myself addressing him half the time as "General"—and surprised each time to hear it come out that way.

I'd never seen him in his official capacity before, and in that 53,000 - acre post, with 101 years of Army history and tradition behind it, "Phil" and "P. D." somehow got lost on my tongue.

Maybe it's because his aides told me he'd won the Distinguished Service Cross when he was 39, and still a colonel, for "extraordinary heroism" in Germany, that he also has the Purple Heart, Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star with 2 oak leaf clusters and other honors.

Perhaps it's because they also told me of his French Legion of Honor and Croix-de-Guerre with palm, of his Korean Ulchi Medal and his high awards from Belgium, the Philippines and many other countries.

He's still the same genial "Phil Ginder" I knew at home, of course. But I kept remembering a summer night in 1952 when I was with his wife and some friends at their brownstone house on East 55th Street in New York. The phone rang and Jean Dalrymple Ginder answered.

"It's Tokyo," she said, and we all tried not to listen when the call came through at last.

"A star?" she cried a moment later, and our own babble of excitement all but drowned out the rest of her call.

That was the brigadier star. He won his second a year later, after Korea where he commanded the famous 45th Infantry, the "Thunderbirds," through the horrors and blood and deaths of Sandbag Castle, Christmas Hill and Heartbreak Ridge.

That was our host at Fort Riley, my sons' and mine. "Special privilege" is right.

Orr pleaded guilty July 7 to going to his girl friend's home at 268 Fisher St. and firing a shotgun blast through the door, injuring two visitors. He was charged with felonious assault.

Aussies Fitting Jigsaw of Spies

But Commission's Pace Is Slow; Petrov, Wife Called to Stand

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP) — The jigsaw of Soviet spying in Australia is being slowly put together before the royal commission of three judges sitting here in Melbourne.

The pace of this royal commission on espionage has proved painfully slow to Australians, who had expected sensation packed on sensation once Vladimir Petrov went into the witness box.

Petrov, who fled his post as third secretary at the Russian Embassy in Canberra, says he also was the chief Red spy in Australia. His request for political asylum started a chain of events that led to Russia breaking diplomatic relations with Australia.

Petrov, 47, short and plump, and his small, honey-blonde wife Evokia, 40, both have spent many hours in the witness box. But they have given only a small part of their evidence because the inquiry has been split into what William J. V. Windeyer, senior counsel assisting the commission, called compartments.

The idea is to fit cleanly into one piece the pattern of Soviet espionage and to give any person named as a Soviet helper an opportunity to get quickly into the witness box and tell his side of the story. Only two Australians have been named as helpers so far.

Petrov disclosed Russia had a special directorate in Moscow for technical and atomic espionage and described the system by which Russians serving in official positions outside Russia are watched by secret police who report back to Moscow.

Petrov said both he and his wife had come to Australia with orders to recruit agents. He said money was paid to some Australians who supplied information to the Soviet intelligence system. Some Australians, he said, were given code names by Moscow.

On Petrov's fifth day in the box, the evidence turned to money and Australians pricked up their ears. Petrov told the commission he received 5,000 pounds ($11,250 from Deputy Director of Australian Security Richards on April 3, the day he left the Russian service. Newspaper headlines reflected Australian surprise.

The same day Petrov and his wife gave evidence about their pay checks. The size of these was an even bigger surprise to Australians.

Petrov said as an officer of the Soviet Internal Affairs Ministry's secret police, his salary at the beginning of 1954 was more than 4,000 rubles—$1,000—per month. This was four or five times the earnings of a skilled Australian tradesman.

Petrov said he was paid 101 pounds ($227.25) in Australian money and the rest was deposited for him in Moscow.

Following her husband into the box, Mrs. Petrov said her salary was the equivalent of 3,240 pounds ($7,290) a year. Australians quickly added the husband's and wife's salaries to total over 8,000 pounds ($17,000) a year. Only a handful of Australians earn that much money.

The end of the commission is not yet in sight and the sittings possible will continue into next year.

Plead Guilty to Aiding Escape of 3 Patients

Two men charged with helping three mental patients escape from Pontiac State Hospital last Thursday pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick and will be sentenced Monday.

Clarence J. McLatcher of Royal Oak, an ex-patient, pleaded guilty to the charge today and a companion, Aloysius Savoie, an ex-attendant at the hospital, entered a similar plea yesterday.

Each was returned to Oakland County Jail. The charge, a felony, carries a maximum sentence of four years in prison. Savoie told police he had duplicate keys made while employed at the hospital and returned last week to release a 15 and a 16-year-old girl and a 30-year-old woman.

The name dollar was adopted by congress in 1785, for the monetary unit of U. S. Currency because the Spanish dollar was the chief unit of money circulating in the colonies at that time.

PIGTAIL PRINCESS — Carol Brand, 10, makes with the cheesecake after being named "Miss Pigtails of 1954" by the Children's Aid Society in New York City. Her braids were the longest and best-kept among the group of girls who vied for the title.

Liquor Commission Gets New Chairman

LANSING (UP)—New hands were in charge at the State Liquor Control Commission today.

Frank Blackford, former administrative assistant to Gov. Williams, was chosen chairman by the other two commissioners. Blackford recently was appointed to the commission by Williams.

At the same time, the former chairman, George J. Burke of Ann Arbor, moved over to the job of business manager which he recently won on a civil service examination.

The commission today denied three applications for new club licenses and granted two others.

Licenses were denied to the American Legion Post at Whitehall because the local governing body failed to approve, to the Tri-County Sportsmen's League of Saline because of an unfavorable survey, and to the Michigan Hunters and Anglers Assn. of Clark Lake because it failed to qualify as a club.

A license was awarded to the Moose Lodge of Lincoln Park.

Montana Voters Put Finish on Quiet Campaign

HELENA, Mont. (UP) — An estimated 170,000 voters start to the polls today after one of the quietest primary election campaigns in Montana history.

Campaigning was so quiet that incumbent James Murray of Butte did not bother to return from Washington to contest the two candidates opposing him for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

Opponents of the 78-year-old Democrat, seeking his fourth full term, are Sam G. Feezell of Great Falls and Ray Gulick, Joplin farmer.

On the Republican ballot, Rep. Wesley A. D'Ewart is stepping out of his House seat to seek the senatorial nomination. He is opposed by Robert Yellowtail, a Crow Indian leader from Lodge Grass.

Three Democrats and four Republicans seek party nominations for the 2nd Congressional District seat being vacated by D'Ewart.

There Ain't Any Flies on These Orlando Guys

ORLANDO, Fla. (UP)—The U. S. Bureau of Entomology here decided there aren't enough houseflies in downtown Orlando.

Not enough, that is, to justify an eradication campaign. Surveyors could find only 41 flies—and some of those might have been repeaters.

The bureau now plans to turn to the bottle fly, another pest.

Heir's Mother to Testify Again

Mrs. Thorne to Tell of Whereabouts on Day Body Was Found

CHICAGO (UP) — The mother of Montgomery Ward Thorne will be recalled at his inquest to testify about her whereabouts on the day his body was found.

This was announced by Coroner Walter McCarronn yesterday.

Meanwhile, stained bedding and other articles found in Thorne's room after his mysterious death June 19 were turned over to a team of four pathologists for examination and analysis.

Two housemaids, Elizabeth Lawton and Sheila de Leon, testified at the inquest that Mrs. Thorne went to nearby Lake Geneva, Wis., to attend a dog show at about noon on the day Thorne's body was found.

They said she returned when they notified her by telephone of her son's death.

The body of 20-year-old Thorne was found in his $75-a-month room about noon and doctors etimated he had died about 5 a.m.

Nine days before his death, Thorne, heir to a mail order fortune, revised his will leaving three fourths of his estate to his sweetheart, Maureen Ragen, 18, and her mother Aleen.

His mother, who was sole beneficiary under an earlier will, was given only a one-eight share.

The articles the pathologists will examine include a bed sheet, mattress pad, a handkerchief, a wad of cotton, part of a cigarette and a portion of what appeared to be a pill.

One of the pathologists, Dr. Otto Saphir, said the articles "may be very valuable evidence" in helping determine the cause of Thorne's death.

The inquest was continued to July 26.

Dawson, Yukon Makes Plans to Lure Tourists With Color of 90s

DAWSON, Yukon (AP)—This once-famous gold rush center is now almost a ghost town, but its 500 residents are striving to keep the place alive by luring tourists.

The home in 1898 of 40,000 gold-hungry prospectors, dance hall girls and bartenders, it now is a collection of sagging, decaying buildings.

The old Floradora Dance Hall, Nugget Saloon and Royal Alexandra Hotel lean precariously as if ready to fall. Dozens of other famous old honky-tonks, hotels and amusement places have disappeared.

Deterioration started after the gold rush. Raw gold worth 200 million dollars was carried through Dawson streets, but when the creeks were panned out, the prosperous and the penniless trekked out together.

A second crushing blow came when the Alaska highway bypassed the town, establishing rival Whitehorse, 470 river miles south, as the territory's trading center. Finally, the federal government stripped the dying city of its status as capital of the territory and moved the administration to Whitehorse.

The big Yukon Consolidated Mining Co. is still employing crews and to comb through the panned-out creeks with giant modern dredges and some old-time prospectors make a living by conducting guided tours of the ruins.

All steamboats coming down the Yukon River from Whitehorse this year will be greeted by quaintly costumed pioneers and their ladies. The Nugget Salon, threadbare and torn, will rock again to the sound of big money gambling (with play money sold at the rate of $10,000 for a dollar) and hard drinking (of soft drinks at 25 cents a bottle.)

But the colorful days Robert Service wrote about in verse will never be seen again in Dawson.

In a vacuum, water boils almost at the freezing point.

HOPPER INVASION — Some parts of northern Texas are beset by a plague of grasshoppers that threatens large crop losses. The invasion is especially bad in the Dallas area. Above, Louis Turner, of Wylie, north of Dallas, shows his corn, stripped of leaves and fruiting ears. He said: "Nothing's left and it didn't take them long to do it." The hoppers, by the thousands, are attacking corn, alfalfa, cotton and vegetable crops.

High School Diploma Granted Policeman, 23

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — B. E. Oliver, Petersburg policeman, has his high school diploma. Oliver, 23, left high school in 1948 to go to work, then the Army claimed him for a couple of years.

Coming back to join the police force he obtained private instruction while working. His wife and a young daughter saw him get his diploma.

Town's Only Bank Closes; Business Out

VALLEY CENTER, Ka. (AP) — Merchants and others in this community of 1,100 were stunned yesterday when they went to their town's only bank and found it closed. Bank Commissioner Elmer T. Beck said bank losses would exceed $310,000.

The doors of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank were closed following a week's investigation by state bank examiners. Depositors had no hint that anything was wrong. Beck said John W. Basore, the bank's president, had admitted irregularities and had promptly resigned.

Trend Notes More Men in Housecleaning Jobs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Lulu B. Bryden, director of the Volunteers of America's free employment bureau, observed yesterday that men are applying for household jobs hereabouts.

"Men are much more willing than women to hire out for housecleaning, floor waxing and odd jobs about the house," said Mrs. Bryden.

"My physician advised me to lose weight because I was suffering severe attacks which foreshadowed an operation. My weight had to be reduced before an operation could be performed," writes Mrs. Alvin Miller, 6461 Barrie St., E. Dearborn, Mich. "Rennel Concentrate was agreed upon as the reducing aid. I started to take Rennel about five months ago and weighed 172 lbs. Now I weigh 138 lbs. and am delighted to have lost that much up to now. Not only have I lost 34 lbs. but I have never had another attack. My physician is also pleased since he did not really want to operate for various reasons. I do not want to be without Rennel Concentrate in my home at any time. I feel certain that it will do for others what it has done for me."

Correct weight and regularity are so important to good health. If not pleased with the very first bottle return it to the manufacturer for your money back. Price $1.40. Institon and be sure to get genuine Rennel.

Finds Indians Hospitable, So Friendly to Americans

By ROBERT W. BROWN
(International News Service)

A little generalization can be a dangerous thing in any case, and the person making a sweeping statement about India or the Indians is on the wrong side of the table if ever he serves on a lunacy commission.

But there are some characteristics of the people that can be offered cautiously, and some attitudes which, if not general, at least are interesting to the American visitor.

1. The Indian might not particularly care for America, but he likes Americans.

2. He is polite and hospitable, is maintaining British customs, mannerisms and accents, respects and admires the British, and wants to be white.

3. He knows more about American history than the average American of comparable educational opportunities and social status, and keeps in closer touch with international affairs.

4. His favorite pastime is conservation.

The American is easily spotted by the Indian. The tourist usually brands himself with a camera swung from his shoulder, or by passing out the enormous one rupee (22 cents) tip. But without these give-aways, and even without the telling evidence in our speech, we easily are identified.

I interviewed Prime Minister Nehru and he gave me "hospitable" as the one word he would use to characterize the American people. I reminded him of the criticism that we are materialistic.

"Americans are hardheaded in business matters, and sentiment alists otherwise," he responded.

In Lucknow, an Indian newspaperman told me:

"I can't understand America. You give us aid. All of the Americans I have met are lovely people. But America is keeping the world tensed up."

He and others remarked that they regard our foreign policy as contradictory.

"You say you are against colonialism, and your history bears this out," the newspaperman stated. "Yet you support the French in Indochina."

In reporting on what Indians say, feel and do, I am referring usually only to that intellectual fraction of the visible social iceberg.

The preponderance of India's 365 million persons live in the villages, and possibly never heard of the United States.

But hospitality is a characteristic I would apply to all Indians, the villager as well as the educated cosmospolite, and with as much if not more confidence than the prime minister had in applying it to Americans.

Near a village in south India, my driver stopped the car to point out a papaya tree. The villagers, speaking only their local language (there are more than 200 languages and dialects) could not follow our English conversation. But they caught the word "papaya" and followed the driver's pointing finger.

"Papaya," they would say, coming up to my car window one by one and pointing to the tree. Their almost puppyish desire to be friendly and helpful was easily communicated in the international language of the broad grin.

A venturesome American student on a hitch - hiking stunt in India told me that the villagers along the narrow, mostly unpaved and usually vehicularless highways were so insistent that he rest and eat with them that his weight was becoming a serious problem.

On the rough, dusty and comfortless continental - type Indian trains, your compartment companions always insist on you sharing their food. You have to bring your own on most Indian trains. Likewise your bedding, and more than once a travel mate insisted on stripping his bedroll to provide me with a sheet and blanket.

Morning and afternoon tea, late dinner, the mid - afternoon nap, the accent and other customs, habits and mannerisms have been adopted from the British.

Contrary to my expectation of finding lingering resentment if not animosity toward the British, I found that now that they are gone, the Indian regards them with affection.

One of the first impressions of India is that there are people everywhere, they walk down the streets and highways in throngs. They stroll across the maidans or public parks in large numbers, or are visible by the thousands in small squatting groups in all directions.

The Indian squats when in resting position, and he will hold that position for hours on streets, sidewalks and in parks while in busy [illegible] likes to talk. There's little else for him to do.

Horde of Grasshoppers Devastates 20,000 Acres

ROOSEVELT, Utah (UP)—County commissioners met in emergency session yesterday to draft an appeal to Gov. J. Bracken Lee for help as hordes of grasshoppers devastated a 20,000-acre area in Duchesne and Uintah counties of eastern Utah.

Grasshoppers were reported "two to three inches deep" in some fields and eating everything in sight.

Silver Chalice Scripting Was Intricate Job

By HUBBARD KEAVY
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Thomas Costain's 500-odd pages of narrative called "The Silver Chalice" turn out, in the movie script, to be only 134 pages long.

Yet none of the drama of Costain's story of the slave who fashions a receptacle for the wine cup used at the Last Supper will be missing, scenarist Lesser Samuels assures potential viewers. For the benefit of Costain's readers, and perhaps also for aspiring scenarists, Samuels explains how he did his job.

After reading the book carefully, he made notes on what he considered the necessary dramatic scenes. Primarily the difference between his job and Costain's was to emphasize some scenes for greater dramatic effect.

Then he listed each scene, with a brief description, on a small card. He remembers that he had 100 cards. He pinned these to a large board in sequence and studied them. He finally reduced the number of cards to 76—"the essential dramatic steps."

With the characters and the 76 scenes, Samuels wrote a 140-page "treatment," actually a synopsis. From the synopsis he wrote the first script, 140 pages of dialogue and stage directions. This preliminary work was used to determine how many actors would be needed and for how long and the number and size of the sets. Costs have to be estimated first, so the first script was little more than a budget guide.

The final shooting script took Samuels 10 weeks to write. Costain, who read it, was pleased with the faithful translation although he must have missed some scenes and characters he liked. The Chinese prince, for example, was an interesting character, but he had nothing to do with furthering the dramatic elements of the play. He and his long fingernails will not be in the film.

The chalice itself is no tin prop. Victor Saville, who is producing and directing, declared it must be of sterling silver and so went to a silversmith to have it cast.

Ray H. Jenkin's Name Will Appear on Ballot

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Ray H. Jenkins said recently he would not run for the Senate, but his name will be on the Republican primary ballot Aug. 5 anyway.

Jenkins neglected to give official notification needed to cancel qualifying petitions filed by friends after he gained the public eye as special counsel in the televised Army-McCarthy hearings.

Lake Setting Enhances GOP Rally

100 Gather to Hear Official's Views on Governorship

By JUDITH L. CLEMENCE

It's one thing to listen to candidates in stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms, but it's a pleasure when a cooling breeze replaces a microphone to carry a message to an audience.

That's the way it was Monday when Mr. and Mrs. Bruce J. Annett of Sylvan Shores drive were hosts at a reception and garden party honoring Secretary of State Owen J. (Pat) Cleary who is seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The 100 who gathered included members of the Waterford Republican Women's Club, friends and neighbors of the Annetts and the candidates.

Mr. Annett introduced Mr. Cleary who explained briefly the problems facing Michigan today, which he said can be solved only through mutual cooperation between legislative and executive leaders.

Discussing the St. Lawrence Seaway, Mr. Cleary pointed out that Oakland County will increase in tourist trade and industry, and that Michigan as a whole is on the threshold of a new era of prosperity.

There must be more and better highways, he asserted, and the state must sponsor a teachers' encouragement program and help school districts find adequate financial solutions.

In conclusion, Mr. Cleary stated that if he receives the nomination and becomes the next governor of Michigan, he will call upon the knowledge and information of others to work for the people of Michigan.

"I am thinking in terms of those things which are vital to the people in the state of Michigan," he said.

Others speaking briefly were Frank Granger, candidate for state senator; Fred Beardslee, candidate for state representative; Louis Dorman Jr. for state senator; Fred Ziem, prosecutor; Frank Irons, candidate for sheriff, and Orrin McQuaid, register of deeds.

Owen J. (Pat) Cleary, Republican primary candidate for governor, points out a few of the needs of Michigan to Mrs. Byron Cole (left) of Sylvan Shores drive and Mrs. Everett Reese of Watkins Lake road. A reception was held in his honor Monday at the Bruce J. Annett home on Sylvan Shores drive.

Shower Given for Marja Wesp

Marja Wesp, bride-elect of Charles J. Till, was honored Friday evening at a kitchen shower given by Leona Roach in her home on West Rundell street.

The couple will speak their wedding vows in a ceremony Aug. 28 to be performed in Grace Lutheran Church. She is the daughter of the Floyd E. Wesps of West Rundell street and he is the son of the Robert Tills of Draper avenue.

Guests at the shower were Mrs. Wesp, Mrs. Till, Mrs. Frank Roach, Mrs. Floyd Wesp Jr., Mrs. S. J. McIsaac, Mrs. Patrick Daly and Mrs. Ward Reed.

Others were Mrs. John Distel, Mrs. Arthur Hick, Mrs. Peter Theis, Mrs. Lawrence Chase; Mrs. M. E. Vacaro and Mrs. James Cain.

Auto Etiquette Changes Today

The next time your escort opens the car door for you, show your regard for him by insisting that he get in first.

This auto etiquette rule comes from L. M. van Noppen, safety expert of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation, the nation's largest independent automobile financing firm.

"In modern traffic," says Van Noppen, "it is just too dangerous to enter a parked car from the street side. Considerations of safety have re-written the custom that the man should help his lady in and then risk his life by trying to get in on the traffic side of the car."

Wash White Jewelry

White jewelry is lovely with navy outfits. And usually it's simple to keep it sparkling white. If you have glued pieces, swab them with an old toothbrush that's been dunked into soapsuds. Otherwise, simply wash the pieces as you would lingerie.

Meeting Conducted by Gordon WCTU

Mrs. Joseph E. Green entertained the Anna Gordon WCTU at her cottage on Pontiac Lake Friday afternoon. Mrs. Elva Ashley led the devotions and song service. Mrs. Iva Cole was the speaker.

The group will gather for an all-day prayer meeting Aug. 19 at the home of Mrs. LeRoy Shafer on Roselawn drive.

VIRGINIA HICKSON

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Hickson of Preston street announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Stanley J. Slabinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Slabinski of Cherry court. No date has been set for the wedding.

Relaxing on the lawn of the Bruce Annett home Monday were Mrs. Charles White of Birmingham, Mrs. Keith Crissman of Rochester and Mrs. Edward E. Wilson of Birmingham (left to right). They arrived to greet Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Lady in Red to Dominate Fall Fashion

PARIS (INS) — If a woman wants to be fashionable now—and next fall too — she should buy red.

That's the color which the Parisian fashion dictators are now promoting as the year-round shade of chic.

In summer, wear it with white or navy. Come winter, it goes with black or gray.

Among the "new reds" in Christian Dior's high-priced collection are rib-knit wool sweaters with long sleeves and turtle necks, red nylon umbrellas with long, curved handles, red suede gloves and plenty of red hats, in all sizes and shapes.

Dark raspberry reds, it is rumored, will be even hotter than the more vivid shades. No one, of course, has looked in on the upcoming collections by the designers.

But it's no secret that miles of raspberry wools and synthetics were sold by fabric makers to the swankiest salons in Paris, to be made up into gowns for next autumn.

Try Hand Holders

If you have difficulty keeping your hands steady when manicuring your nails, try one of the plastic hand holders that are made especially for this purpose. They are available at notions counters.

Charles Highfield Marks 90 Years

Candles on a birthday cake, one for each of his 90 years, helped Charles A. Highfield celebrate his birthday Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Highfield, his son and daughter-in-law, and children, Charles and Dell, opened their Stirling avenue home Sunday afternoon to the family and friends. Robert Highfield also celebrated his birthday on Sunday.

All-Day Outing Held by Job's Daughters

Job's Daughters Bethel Five gathered at Crescent Lake Sunday morning for an 8 o'clock swim which was followed by a breakfast. Thirty girls had arrived by noon for a picnic luncheon. The afternoon was taken up with swimming and boating.

The group will hold a business meeting Aug. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple on East Lawrence street.

Choose Most Becoming Cut

Short Hair Lengths Vary According to the Wearer

If you like short hair, you don't have to wear it clipped as short as possible to be in style. Have it cut to the length that is most becoming to you.

Here are four different short hair styles all at different lengths:

If you have thick, curly hair you may find that the shorter it is, the better it behaves. Have it clipped to little-finger-length all over and shaped into a rippling cap.

The back should be waved all the way to a soft, girlish napeline, where the hair is clipped to the exact length that makes your neck seem longer than it actually is.

If you're tired of your Italian-boy cut, and are anxiously waiting for your hair to grow, you're in what is called the in-between stage.

You may find that your hair tends to straggle and resist training to a new style, so have it set and shaped more often than usual. Then no one will suspect you're solving the problem of an unkempt look at an intermediate length.

Perhaps you have that rare characteristic — the perfect face for straight hair. If your hair is fine, flyaway and hard to keep in curl, have a blunt cut, curving from your bangs to below your ears and reaching to the middle of your neck. This length solves another problem — a ragged napeline.

Make giant-size pincurls of the ends every night so that they turn under gracefully. This style is straight, shining, smooth.

If you dislike the fad kind of hair style and are striving for quiet individuality, beauty and interest, you can keep your hair short and still be different.

If you have pliable locks that naturally trend upward, an off-the-face, lifted coiffure is a natural for you. Have the hair graduated from the nape up, so it is longer as it approaches the crown.

Straining Halts Odor

Strain fat through a cheesecloth if you want to re-use it. Any odor can be removed by frying a cup-up potato in the fat.

13th Children's Play Slated July 28-29

MRS. EUGENE C. FOLK

Anita Colby to Increase Your Beauty

Glamor Expert to Advise Readers of Pontiac Press

Pontiac Press readers will find themselves looking — feeling — being — more beautiful after they start Anita Colby's beauty course which begins publication Wednesday.

The 28-day home course is the most complete guide to beauty, personality, glamor and charm ever published. It contains hundreds of fashion and grooming secrets, tips to vitality and good health, and solutions to individual beauty problems.

It can change you from that "before" drabness to that "after" smartness. It's comparable to a beauty course at any price, including those that cost hundreds of dollars.

No one is better qualified to bring such an extensive course to so many women than the beauteous Anita Colby who has made a career of glamor.

For years Anita Colby was the nation's No. 1 cover girl. Quentin Reynolds named her "The Face" when she smiled from 300 magazines in one year.

Many women would have been content with this. But not Anita. She went to Hollywood as an actress but stayed to become the first woman executive in the motion picture industry.

As feminine director for David O. Selznick studios she was charged with the grooming of such stars as Rita Hayworth, Jennifer Jones, Rhonda Fleming, Ingrid Bergman, Shirley Temple, Dorothy McGuire, Ann Todd and Valli.

She also acted as technical adviser for the film "Cover Girl," It was a natural choice.

In Anita Colby's beauty course she says, "That was my first large-scale grooming job and it taught me how necessary it is to know your business from every angle. My experience as model, actress and editor gave me explicit technical knowledge for makeup, beauty care, fashion, promotion and camera angles."

At Paramount, she worked with Paulette Goddard, Barbara Stanwyck, Mona Freeman, Diana Lynn, Florence Marly and many starlets.

In her home beauty course she passes on the secrets she gave them, to you.

"I found it an exciting, engrossing study," says Anita, " to uncover a girl's hidden talents and help develop her real individuality. It was my business to give my charges assurance, to put the tools of ease, poise and self-confidence in their hands.

"Over and over it came down to a formula: Disguise her worst points and dramatize her best ones."

And, says Anita: "You may not have a face that would give Hedy Lamarr any sleepless nights, but if you have determination and willpower you can't be kept from whatever goal you've set."

Start reading Anita Colby's beauty course tomorrow in the Pontiac Press.

To Clean Gloves

New crocheted gloves that fit any size hand are made of stretchable nylon yarn. This elasticity doesn't affect the washing virtues of the gloves. Just squeeze them through soapsuds, rinse well, and they'll dry as promptly as all other nylons.

EVELYN LUCILE SMITH

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Smith of Williamston announce the engagement of their daughter, Evelyn Lucile, to Willard John Jones Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard J. Jones of Pine Grove avenue. She attended Central Michigan College and he is a graduate of Wheaton College. No date has been set for the wedding.

GARNET JEANNE BLAHUT

Mr. and Mrs. M.W. Blahut of Spokane drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Garnet Jeanne, to Raymond L. Sitter, son of the Louis A. Sitters of Detroit. Raymond is a graduate of Wayne University Law School and a member of Alpha Sigma Phi and Delta Theta Phi fraternities.

Traditional Furnishings Get the Nod From Buyers

NEW YORK (INS)—Novelty home furnishings may make the style news, but traditional furniture still makes the sales.

That's the consensus among furniture industry spokesmen after watching buyers pick and choose at the annual summer home furnishings markets in New York and Chicago.

The newest styles—pink furniture, pastel provincials, harlequin modern—all sold nicely. But the big money sales were still in mahogany, walnut and cherry furniture styles along simplified traditional lines.

"It's just like women's fashions," explained J. J. Melniker, president of the New York Furniture Exchange. "Everybody talks about the latest Dior creation, but they still order 20 washdresses to one Dior."

Melniker said the 10,000 furniture buyers who jammed New York last week put most of their orders into traditional furniture. Modern, he indicated, is slipping in popularity — at least with buyers.

A buyer's opinion is important not only to the furniture manufacturers, but to housewives as well. The furniture the buyer orders is the furniture women see in the stores.

A really determined shopper can arrange for her local store to get her a desired item through special order, but most women buy furniture they can see, measure and feel at the store.

Furniture buyers have sometimes been criticized by decorating experts for their reluctance to order new styles and colors. A buyer understandingly likes a "sure seller."

But women must credit furniture buyers with one thing this year—the fact that furniture prices are staying pretty much down at the level of last year's prices, in spite of an undoubted upswing in quality, style and design.

The buyers knew their customers wouldn't hold still for price hikes, so they made it pretty clear to manufacturers that if the price went up, the orders would go down.

Prices stayed even with last market prices.

At the same time, some new furniture ideas attracted enough attention—and orders—to guarantee their appearance in stores this fall.

Shoppers are sure to see the following:

Pink furniture, for bedrooms, in higher-priced provincial and budget-priced modern.

Harlequin diamond patterns on modern small seating pieces, lamps and some rugs.

Pastel upholstery in every price range from the $20-a-yard nylons to the $2-a-yard cottons.

Traditional woods — walnut, cherry and mahogany, especially the light mahogany called Korina. Most of the woods in the lower-price furniture will be veneers.

Touring Locality on Weekends Can Be Colorful

Are you guilty of spending long "lost week-ends" at home buried in the Sunday paper and the doldrums? Or are you wisely using your week-ends to "get away from it all?"

The whole family can learn while having fun by taking what I call "Tourettes." These are short week-end trips within a 200-mile radius of your home town.

Adventure lies just up the road or around the corner on little known highways and byways off the main turnpike. Chances are 10 to one you can discover a museum, an historical landmark or an exhibition that both younger fry and parents will enjoy.

In addition, many factories open their doors to industrial tours. Such tours will take you behind the scenes of a textile mill, a cereal plant, an iron foundry or a food canning or packaging plant. An advance phone call usually insures you of a kingly cook's tour—and maybe some free samples, too.

Eva Marie Saint Is Glad Her Husband Isn't Actor

AP Women's Editor

Blonde, diffident Eva Marie Saint skyrocketed from television actress to an overnight sensation in moviedom because of the fire and tenderness of her love scenes with Marlon Brando in the new film "On the Waterfront."

Off-stage, her heart belongs to Jeffery Hayden, handsome young television director who has been her husband since 1951. She gets a faraway look in her eyes when she speaks of him, like this:

"Thank God he's not an actor!"

Not that Eva has anything against actors. Some of her best friends are actors. She speaks with real admiration of the talents of Brando and others with whom she has played romantic leads. But she adds:

"As husbands, no!"

Asked why she feels so strongly on this subject, Eva ponders seriously for a moment and replies:

"Well, I guess I feel you can't have two actors in one family. There would be too much professional jealousy, and that doesn't work in a happy marriage.

"Then, I suppose I feel I'd never know whether an actor meant it when he said he loved me, or whether he was just acting."

It's no problem for Eva to throw herself into a TV or movie love scene with an ardor that keeps her audiences on the edge of their seats.

"That's just acting," she says carelessly. "It's easy. It doesn't mean that I would have any interest in the man after the scene was over. The woman in the love scene isn't me—it's the character I'm playing. I don't see why people can't understand that.

"When you see an actor play the part of a murderer in a play, you don't assume that he must be one in real life. But the public never seems to be able to grasp the idea that two trained actors can make love with conviction on the stage and be completely indifferent to each other after the scene is over.

"I guess it's because people are just naturally so sentimental at heart that they can't bear to think a love scene that moves them so deeply isn't for real."

Eva says Jeffery never is jealous of her make-believe lovers in television or movie work. Says she:

"He understands that I'm an actress when I'm on stage, but that I couldn't bear to continue the role in real life."

Women's Gathering Held at Forest Lake

A buffet luncheon and an afternoon of cards were in store for the women of Forest Lake Country Club when they arrived for the women's party this afternoon.

Mrs. Roland D. Benscoter of Birmingham was chairman. Mrs. Bert Olsen was a member of her committee.

U.S. Woman Outsmarts Stylist Dior

By PHILLIS BATTELLE
INS Woman's Editor

NEW YORK (INS) — "Paris designer Christian Dior has got to face up to facts — the American woman is smarter than he is!"

This is the sober opinion of a young man named Morton Levin, who is vice prexy of an old firm named "Lassie Jr."

He says that although Dior seems to be calling for an austerely straight look in coats for next fall, the American woman "wouldn't buy it even if she could afford to."

"She knows that this is high-fashion and effective-looking on Dior's skinny mannikins," he explained, "but she also knows she wouldn't look good in it."

So what does she do? She waits until a season or two later, an American manufacturer comes out with a straight coat "with an extra yard of fabric under the arm, to soften and modify the high-style silhouette."

Very shrewd, M. Dior. But a little more so, Miss America.

Black Still Strong

Though navy forges ahead of black as color choice the old reliable is making a strong bid for first place in beach fashions. Many of the new swimsuits are all black or black with stark-white touches.

Off-Again, On-Again Dating Will Give Reputation for Hurting Others

Patch Up With Old Flame First

She Shouldn't Casually Jilt New Beau

By ELIZABETH WOODWARD

"Dear Miss Woodward: Three weeks ago I broke up with Malcolm because I was mad. He tells everyone he still likes me but won't speak to me because he's afraid I'll hurt him again.

"But the worst of it is that, on the rebound, I started going steady with a boy I don't really like, but who likes me.

"Now I want to know how to break up with this boy and go back to Malcolm!"

You're building yourself and "off again, on again" reputation.

Breaking up with your new boy friend will convince everybody, including Malcolm, that you delight in hurting people. You bounce merrily, doing as you please—let the chips fall where they may.

Until Malcolm will talk with you and give you his assurance that he wants to go with you again, you'd better stick right where you are.

If and when patching-up with him is accomplished and everything is straight between you, explain to your new boy friend as a great mistake of your own. Maybe he'll understand and forgive you.

"Dear Miss Woodward: I've been going with Lonny since the middle of April, and though he hasn't asked me to go steady, I think he thinks we are.

"A few days ago, another boy called me and asked me to go to the movies with him. Do you think I should go with him and explain to Lonny later, or should I talk to him first?

"Do you think I could go with this boy without hurting Lonny's feelings? He's very jealous.

Until this other boy's movie invitation came along, you probably considered yourself going steady with Lonny. Though nothing was said about it, neither of you went with anyone else.

Suddenly this bit of variety unsettles the smooth tone of your dating—and perhaps it's time to find out just what music you are playing.

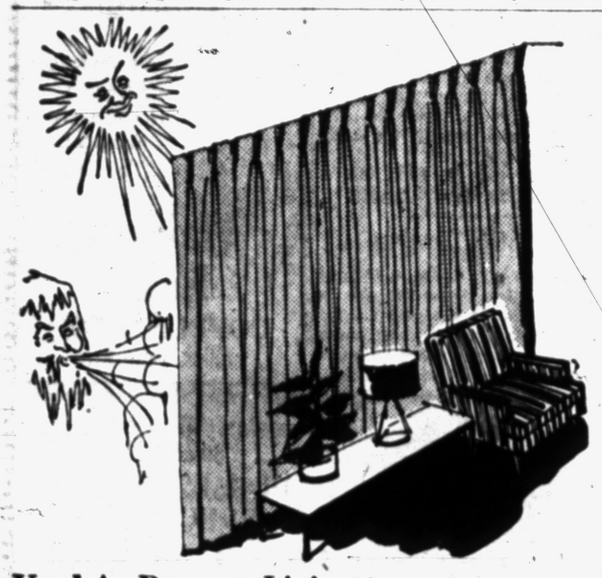

See Lonny and ask him what he'd do if some girl asked him to go to a party with her. If he answers, "If it sounds like a good party, I'd probably go," you're set to accept the other boy's invitation.

But if he answers, "I'm going with you—I wouldn't go with her," you'll know you have a steady boy friend and you're not free to accept anybody else's bids.

This movie invitation isn't important enough to cause a ruckus between you. That's what will happen if you accept it and then explain it to Lonny afterward. You'd be apologizing—and there's no point doing things you have to ask pardon for.

If you talk about it with him first, you'll be asking his permission. And if he doesn't give that gracefully, you'll have trouble on your hands.

If I were you, I'd turn down this particular invitation with a regretful and hopeful "Maybe another night." And then I'd find out from Lonny just how he views your friendship.

Used As Drapery Lining

Milium Insulates Homes

By ELIZABETH HILLYER

We knew milium first as a new wonder fabric lining for coats, which made them warmer in cold weather and cooler in warmer weather or indoors.

Important to the home is the later use of milium for drapery lining, and again the warm-against-the-cold and cool-against-the-warm quality of the fabric applies.

It is actually a soft, easily handled insulating material. Heat loss because of vast expanses of glass walls makes this important.

The cold meets a barrier that throws it back, with a resulting increase of the effectiveness of the heating system.

And equally important is the way milium deflects the sun's rays to cool the room. The appearance of the milium lining fabric is similar to the usual sateen lining and it is easy to sew.

One idea for using it makes it a separate curtain which can be drawn or opened behind a drawn drapery according to the need for light or temperature regulation.

Members Lend Hand to Sisters in Need

Club Work Helps Women to Become Self-Supporting

By ANNE HEYWOOD

Some time ago, we mentioned the work being done by the Altrusa International Club in helping the older woman worker.

This group backed a special study and book called "Women Go to Work at Any Age."

Now, another of their heart-warming activitities has come to my attention. It is called the Founders' Fund Vocational Aid Project, and behind that long title is a wonderful project, helping women workers with financial problems.

Here's how it works.

When a woman no longer young has a pressing need, the club, after due screening, can give her a grant of from $50 to $250.

She must be known by, and recommended by, the vocational information committee of any Altrusa Club.

Typical examples are: Women who must earn a living after being out of the job market for years, and who need money to pay for a business course or a vocational course, such as practical nursing, dressmaking, millinery, beauty culture and so forth.

Also, women who never were in the business world, and who desperately need to take such a course to prepare them for it.

Another group is that of the working women who need to prepare for better-paying jobs in the face of increased family responsibility. In addition, there are the women who need funds for personal rehabilitation.

These are the ones who cannot get a job because of lack of necessary dental work or lack of a decent wardrobe.

Sometimes the need is for equipment, such as a sewing machine for an expert seamstress or a washing machine for a skilled laundress.

Quietly and conscientiously, this club is going about its wonderful work, helping women to support themselves.

It's a thing we are seeing more and more of — this tendency of working women to help each other and lend a hand to sisters in need.

Tote Tiny Tube to Beautify Hair

Until now, the only totable hair beautifiers were purse sized combs and brushes. But recently, there's a new aid in the battle to keep hair well groomed all day long.

This problem becomes acute when a girl is engaged in active sports. It's also particularly disturbing at dances, since fast dances tend to send even the tamest hair flying wild.

A possible solution has just been introduced in the form of a hair cosmetic designed to go anywhere a lipstick can. The new product comes in stick form that makes both toting and application easy.

Encased in a small plastic container, it can be stroked over the hair whenever — and wherever — wisps go astray. It's small enough to fit into the pocket of a tennis dress or miniature evening bag.

For best results, the maker recommends combing and brushing the hair into place after using the stick. But, the firm adds, for quick touch-ups between tennis or dance sets, it can be used alone without giving a slicked-down look.

And, it's claimed, this wisp tamer will help to beautify dull, dry hair when used regularly. Neither a brillantine nor a pomade, it's supposed to leave the hair smooth and soft with no trace of stickiness.

A truly "younger-than-springtime" compact for a fresh young fashion season is "Buttons and Bows." The bright enamel compact comes in pastels and jeweler's bronze. The compact sells with or without a complete emergency sewing kit hidden behind mirrored door. Compact and pillbox combinations are also available.

Direct Descent Gives Boy Right to Be Called 'Third'

By EMILY POST

A wife explains: "I want to name our son after my husband; that is, William Wright III. My sister-in-law had a son several months ago and she named him after Grandfather Wright, using the suffix third.

"She says that my son is fourth. I say that my son is rightfully William Wright III, since he is in direct line. Who is correct?"

Answer: You are right. Your son has the definite right to be "III." Correctly, your sister-in-law's son is "II." Your husband, of course, is "junior."

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible to correct visiting children in the presence of their parents when the children are proving destructive and the parents sit by and say nothing?

I have many lovely ornaments around my house and whenever I see the children touching them I get terribly nervous for fear they might break them.

I suppose I could put them safely out of reach but I don't see why I have to rearrange my house just because they are not taught to keep hands off other people's possession.

Answer: Whether the parents like it or not, you have no choice but to say, "Please don't touch that," unless you are willing to have your things broken.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been going out quite steadily with a young man for the past six months. His birthday is coming soon and I would like very much to give him a present.

He has taken me to very nice places and I think the least I can do to show my appreciation is to give him a present on his birthday. Will you please tell me if this would be proper, and if so, what type gift would you suggest?

Answer: Considering he has taken you to a number of places and evidently feels that he is a good friend, it would be quite all right to give him something on his birthday—a necktie, billfold, book, pen or pencil, etc.

Clean Rust and Dirt Out of Plumbing

By HUBBARD COBB

Sometimes it's impossible to draw a full tub of water in the bathroom because the well has run dry, but often the trouble is due to the water pipes inside the house which have become clogged with rust, minerals or perhaps dirt.

The best thing to do in this case is to start saving money to replace the lines, but until you've saved up the necessary amount it will pay to do what you can to clear the clogged up lines.

The first thing is to check the fittings such as elbows, etc. These usually have a smaller inside diameter than the straight runs of pipe and so they are the first to clog up.

The rust and dirt in the straight runs of pipe can often be removed by tying a strong cord to each end of a small chain. Fasten one cord end to a piece of stiff wire and run the wire through the pipe so that the cord and chain can be pulled through.

Now pull the chain back and forth through the pipe. It will loosen up dirt and rust so they can be flushed through the line.

Another method of doing the job is with wire brush attached to a metal handle.

If a condition is not too bad, a line can often be cleared by forcing water through it in the opposite direction than the normal flow.

If rust is causing the trouble, you should remember that when the rust is removed from the line, the thickness of the pipe wall will be decreased slightly and eventually the wall will become so thin as to leak.

For this reason, the line should be replaced just as soon as you can afford to have it done.

Use Sharp Tools When Cutting Fibers

Use sharp tools to cut synthetic fibers, handle the fabrics carefully and reinforce edges with stitching or tape. For good pressing results, use low to moderate iron temperatures.

Pressing should be done on the wrong side, with the fabric protected by a moist, commercially treated press cloth.

Hands Quite Small?

If your hands are small, don't wear pointed nails. Wear rings set in small, feminine designs. Avoid heavy rings and wide bracelets.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

When you meet a person who is an expert in his field and you wonder how to carry on a conversation with a man who knows so much about a subject on which you know so little, never hesitate to ask questions. It won't show your ignorance, but your intelligent curiosity.

As Charles Steinmetz once said: "There are no foolish questions. No man becomes a fool until he stops asking questions."

Place Ties Evenly

To get curtain tie-backs even, pull the window shade down to the desired height when placing the curtain ties.

Says Man Can Now Use Power of 1000 Minds

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer, tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enable many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one-man-power-mind, has within him the mind power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind power, when awakened, can make him capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth, to success in many fields.

The author states the time has come for this long hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 9,000 word treatise —which reveals many startling results—to sincere readers of this paper, free of cost or obligation. In addition, to those who write promptly, he will give, free, a 64 page booklet showing the astonishing events the world may soon expect, as revealed in world-famous prophecies.

For your free copy of both works, simply send a post card or letter to the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. K393, Los Angeles, Calif.

Hal Boyle Says:

Verbal Argument Unites Hollywood Writing Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Fighting between married people often ends in black eyes and divorce suits.

But 22 years of almost continuous verbal warfare have made Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich into one of Hollywood's most successful husband-and-wife marrying teams.

Their long wordy quarrel has resulted in several jointly written Broadway plays, 25 movie scripts, and an annual income in the high clear financial stratosphere somewhere above $50,000.

"But if we take time off to do a play, as we have this year, we sometimes don't earn a nickel," said Miss Goodrich.

Both started out as actors. They turned to writing during lean seasons. After their third play, "Up Pops the Devil," made the grade on Broadway, they went to Hollywood, married, and settled down with the M-G-M Studio.

"We were in the doghouse for a long time," Miss Goodrich recalled. "It was easy to get lost out there then. The studio had 155 writers, and everybody was taking a fling at everybody else's script.

"Now they have only 30 writers, and they cast a writer almost as they do an actor for a part. They try to fit the writer to the kind of material he is best at."

Frances and "Hacky" hit paydirt first with "The Thin Man." Among other well known screenplays they fought out together are "Ah, Wilderness," "Father of the Bride," and their recently completed "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers."

For mutual safety many collaborating teams divide a script into acts, and the partners write alternate scenes. But the Hacketts believe fighting makes good writing. Each does the same scene, and then comes the nerve-wearing job of piecing them together.

"We fight, fight, fight—every line of the way," said Frances.

"—And rewrite, rewrite, rewrite," murmured Hackett.

"We used to have separate rooms, but now we write together in the same room, and that's better," continued his wife. "We're closer in the clinches. We don't have so far to walk to fight, do we, Hacky?"

"Um-m-m-m," murmured Hackett.

"I think it's a good thing we fight so much over our work," said Frances. "That way we avoid the quarrels that other married people get mixed up in. We never fight at any other time, do we, Albert?"

"Oh, not much anyway," murmured her husband.

"Listen, Hackett," said Frances, "that three days I didn't speak to you—it was a quarrel about work. Remember? It's more interesting to fight about work than about whether you can afford a new dress."

"M-M-M-M," murmured Hackett.

In 1939 they both wearied of the writing strain and let their typewriters rust for three years.

"It was a lovely nervous breakdown," said Frances "And we enjoyed it together. We just broke down at the typewriter and started crying, and neither of us could stop crying."

"In a relationship like ours," said Hackett, "if one partner gets stick, he soon puts the other one in the same condition."

Now they pick the scripts they want, knock off often for long vacations abroad together to keep from getting into a writing rut.

"We do everything together," said Frances, smiling. "Poor Hackett. He never gets away from me. He never gets to take advantage of all the opportunities in Hollywood—and there are so many."

"UM-M-M-M-M-M!" murmured Hackett, a look of distance on his face.

"Shall the County of Oakland, State of Michigan, borrow the sum of Four Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($4,500,000) and issue and sell its full faith and credit Bonds therfor, for the purpose of paying the cost of erecting a county building in the City of Pontiac, Michigan, to house the courts and the general county offices, said bonds to bear interest at a rate not to exceed 3½% per annum payable semi-annually and to mature serially as shall be determined by the County Board of Supervisors, the first maturity to be not more than 2 years and the last not more than 20 years from the date of issuance?"

5. That nothing contained in this resolution shall be construed to permit the making of said improvement or the borrowing of said sum of $4,500,000 and the issuing of the bonds of the county therefor, until the foregoing proposition shall have been approved by a majority of the electors of the county, qualified to vote thereon and voting at said special election.

6. That for the purpose of paying the principal and interest on said bonds and providing a reserve therefor, it is necessary that the tax rate limitation in the County of Oakland be increased by ½ of 1 mill for a period of twenty (20) years from 1954 to 1973, both inclusive, and that the proposition of such increase shall be submitted to the electors of the County of Oakland qualified to vote thereon, at said special election, which proposition shall appear upon the ballots in the following form:

"Shall the limitation on the total amount of taxes which may be assessed each year against property in the County of Oakland, State of Michigan, for all purposes except taxes for the payment of interest and principal on obligations incurred prior to December 8, 1932, be increased as provided in Section 21 of Article X of the Constitution of Michigan, for a period of 20 years from 1954 to 1973, both inclusive, by 1/20th of 1% (50c per $1,000) of assessed valuation as equalized, for the purpose of paying principal and interest on, and establishing a reserve for, bonds aggregating not to exceed $4,500,000 in principal amount to be issued to pay the cost of erecting a county building in the City of Pontiac, Michigan, to house the courts and the general county offices?"

7. That the County Clerk shall call said special election in accordance with the terms of this resolution and any resolution supplementary thereto.

Chores, Play Mold Useful Citizens at Camp Oakland

"WE'RE HERE — The first contingent of 50 needy county children jump from a bus as they arrive at Camp Oakland, one mile south of Oxford, to start a two-week vacation. The camp, under jurisdiction of Oakland County Probate Court, was established for underprivileged children. Service clubs and civic groups donated time and labor to erect cabins for the youngsters on the shores of a 55-acre private lake.

JUNIOR FROGMEN — William Graves and Joe Weir climb back onto swimming dock at Camp Oakland after a refreshing dip in Handsome Lake. The two are part of the 50 needy youngsters now enjoying a two-week vacation as guests of Oakland County Probate Court.

WORK DETAIL — Even young boys on vacation must go to bed sometime—so Johnny Ryan, Carl Strong and Harry Strong team up to make beds before joining in on some of the more relaxing phases of their vacation.

YOUNG SWABBIE — Curtis Beatty wrings excess moisture from a mop as he prepares to swab down one of the 16-person cabins at Camp Oakland.

200 Youngsters Attend Every Summer

Camp Oakland is thought of as a playground by several hundred underprivileged children who use its facilities each year—but camp directors consider it a forward step in the molding of these youngsters into useful citizens.

During the summer more than 200 children from seven to 15 years of age spend two weeks vacations at the camp. They wash dishes, mop floors and make beds but in return they receive instruction in swimming, archery, handicraft, boating, fishing, nature study and other activities.

Kunds to operate the camp, located one mile south of Oxford, are donated by county service clubs, and other groups throughout the county supply volunteer personnel for supervision purposes.

Besides those lucky enough to spend a vacation at the camp, other children from Oakland County Juvenile Home are brought out daily to enjoy summer activities.

The summer camp facilities are located across the lake from the camp's main building which houses year-around occupants participating in a permanent farm program.

The camp was established in June, 1951, with the motto "a dollar spent in the prevention of crime is worth $1,000 spent for prisons."

Principal aims of the camp are to provide farm living and work for boys 15 to 17 who are out of school and out of work and to provide a permanent site for a summer camp for underprivileged children.

Camp director James W. Hunt said the 310-acre site has been invaluable in helping deserving youngsters find a place in today's complex society.

Hunt, who is also director of Children's Services for Oakland County, said public-spirited groups have already been of great assistance in providing operating funds but "there's always a need for more aid."

Hospital's Team Nursing Aids Patients' Recovery

"Team nursing," a new concept of patient care, has been in full operation at Pontiac General Hospital since April, according to Mrs. Helen M. Beske, R. N., director of nursing service.

MRS. BESKE

"The aim is to promote better care by encouraging persons treating patients to form a closely knit, cooperating group, with all aspects of the sick person's well being in mind," Mrs. Beske explained.

A registered nurse heads each nursing team, with practical nurses, nursing aides and students under her direction. A number of patients are assigned to each team, usually between five and ten.

The registered nurse performs the functions which only an R.N., with her high degree of training, can do, Mrs. Beske explained. For example she would help the doctor in applying traction to a patient with a broken leg.

The R.N. would also talk with the patient in an attempt to discover outside pproblems which hinder a recovery.

"A patient might be worrying about how his family will fare while he is hospitalized," said Mrs. Beske, "and the R.N. may be able to discover this and help the patient find a solution.

The R.N. will then meet with the rest of her group, discuss the patient's situation, and assign them duties which each is qualified for and best able to perform.

"If any team member, in her dealings with the patient, discovers something which she thinks will aid in the over-all care, she will report her finding to other group members," Mrs. Beske stated.

"The team leader is responsible for all actions of the group," she added.

"The team nursing plan increases efficiency by assuring that R.N.s don't waste time and effort in performing functions which less skilled personnel can do," the nursing director added.

The groups meet to discuss patients assigned to them at the beginning and end of each work shift and also brief the team taking over for them.

An orientation course in the new system has been made part of the program for all new professional nursing personnel, said Mrs. Beske.

A "Manual for Team Nursing" has been prepared from a study of the system as used in other hospitals. Mrs. Anna Godwin, R.N. and Miss Helen Harper, R.N., compiled the manual. It lists the advantages of team nursing as:

1. Attention is focused on care of the patient rather than functions to be performed.

2. The patient feels secure knowing that the registered nurse, the team leader, is overseeing the work.

3. Democratic leadership, cooperation and job satisfaction are fostered through teamwork.

Drownings Prompt Boating Advice

By WILLIAM H. THOMAS

Summer water sports of all sorts are in full bloom—and an unofficial total of 15 water deaths in Oakland County already this year has equaled the number recorded for the entire 1953 season.

Boating accidents have taken a heavy toll throughout the state, especially on the larger lakes. In this county, one boating death has been recorded so far this year.

Local boating authorities have issued a list of safety rules that are meant for the "expert" boatsmen as well as those who are trying the sport for the first time.

The Outboard Boating Club of America has added to these "do's" and "don'ts" with a few pictorial safety rules that should be considered by anyone interested in the popular sport.

Oakland County Sheriff Clare L. Hubbell, whose department issues licenses for boats used for hire, has added to the long list of rules for water safety, with some wise, but oft-overlooked, fundamental rules:

1. Don't stand up in a boat after leaving the shore or dock. change seats unless in shallow water.

2. Don't allow passengers to change seats unless in shallow water.

DON'T OVERLOAD

3. Be certain your boat is seaworthy (or waterworthy)—are oars and oar locks in good condition?

4. Take oars or paddle with you if you are using a motor on the boat, in case of mechanical failure.

5. Have a bowline or front anchor rope in boat of sufficient strength to tow the boat in case of motor difficulties.

KNOW YOUR BOAT

6. Fishermen — DON'T OVERLOAD YOUR BOAT. Many accidents are the result of overcrowding—allow ample room to manipulate your tackle.

7. Watch the weather. Folks at the cottage can receive sudden storm warnings over the radio that you will not be aware of on the lake.

Oakland County's American Red Cross, whose water safety head, is

WATCH THE WEATHER

Mark Smith of 1039 Floyd, Birmingham, and a qualified small craft instructor, has a comprehensive manual entitled "Life Saving and Water Safety," which further supplements the above rules:

Beginners should start with boats of little power and little speed, and should do their practicing in shallow water.

Small boats and canoes cannot stand buffeting of heavy seas nor can they be handled well when the wind is blowing strongly and water is extremely rough.

The only good method of entering and leaving a boat is to steady the craft then step to or from the center of the boat. Keep weight equally distributed at all times.

It is safe to say, according to Smith, that a boat is not overloaded if it has in calm water a minimum of six inches of freeboard, but more freeboard (distance from water to top of boat) is needed in rough water.

Any craft which handles and maneuvers sluggishly is overloaded no matter what the capacity.

If a passenger or the pilot falls out of the boat his best bet is to stick with the craft until help arrives because an overturned boat, though loaded with water, will seldom sink.

The light weight and speed of a boat makes it difficult to control in rough water, Smith emphasized, and it is possible that a high speed motorboat driver could be knocked unconscious when thrown from his craft. For this reason he should wear a life-preserver that will hold his head out of water.

A boat user should be able to swim. Danger in boating, said Smith, is attempting advanced skills before fundamentals are learned.

Our advice is: Look out for swimmers and other boats which have maneuvered into your area, know your rules on water safety, and you are bound to have the time of your life.

Quint May Go Back to Convent

Marie Dionne to Spend Summer With Family to Regain Health

CALLANDER, Ont. (AP) — Quintuplet Marie Dionne, home today after eight months in a Catholic Cloister, says she will spend the summer with her family and "after I have regained my health, I will decide whether or not to return to the sisters."

Marie talked with reporters yesterday after a joyous reunion with her four quint sisters and the other Dionnes. She left the Quebec Convent of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament last Wednesday.

She departed, she said, because she was ailing, had lost her appetite and was homesick. She added, however, that her break with the cloistered life might not be final.

Since the 20-year-old girl had not taken her final vows, she was free to leave the order at any time and can return if she chooses.

Marie's father, Oliva Dionne, said the mother superior of the convent had written him that she thought Marie was "a little too delicate to endure the vigorous requirements of the order."

While at the cloister, she had worked long hours on priests' vestments, altar cloths and other religious articles.

Marie became a postullant, or candidate for the order, last Nov. 3 and took the novice's temporar, vows of poverty, chastity and obedience last May 24.

Should she return, she could take the final vows after two more years.

Tot Hit by Car Dies

LAKE ODESSA (AP)—Stewart Allen Smith, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Smith of Lake Odessa, was struck and killed by a car Monday near his home on M50. Glenn Langworthy, 47, of Big Rapids, driver of the car, told police the youngster darted suddenly in front of his car. He was released.

Boy, 6, Bleeding Since July 6, Has Best Day

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—It began to look today as though 6-year-old Eddie Phillips, who has been bleeding since July 6 might live.

"His condition is still critical but it is no longer desperate," his doctor said last night.

Since the slender, tow-headed son of a Middletown automobile dealer had his tonsils taken out early this month, there has been some trouble in his blood stream. Certain elements have been lacking and his blood hasn't been able to clot.

In an attempt to save his life, nearly 60 persons have given him their blood. The youngster has received more than 30 pints of whole blood plasma.

Until last night, there seemed little hope for the boy whose home in past weeks has been an oxygen tent and who has breathed through a tube in his throat and taken his meals intravenously.

Then the bleeding became almost negligible. His doctor said: "As far as I can see this has been the best day for the boy in almost a week."

Local Guard Units Off to Camp Aug. 7

Pontiac units of Michigan's 46th National Guard Division will leave Pontiac Aug. 7 by truck convoy and buses for a two-week encampment at Camp Grayling.

Capt. Robert G. Carland's Company "M" of the 125th Infantry Regiment, and 107th Ordnance Co., commanded by Capt. Carl G. Yarling, will begin summer training Monday, Aug. 9, and return to Pontiac Aug. 21.

Favor Ohio Investigation of Highway-Use Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trucking interests claimed today they now have Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche on their side in favor of a congressional investigation of state highway-use taxes.

The industry has been fighting such taxes—in particular an axle-mile tax law on trucks in Ohio sponsored by Lausche himself.

The Midwest Conference on Truck Reciprocity in a statement said Lausche now appears to agree with them that a congressional inquiry into highway taxes is in order.

Furgol, U.S. Open Champion, Aims for PGA Title

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — For the first time since Ben Hogan scored his first "slam" in 1948, the National Open golf champion is shooting for America's No. 2 pro golf prize, the PGA championship.

And even the celebrated "Minneapolis Line" won't give you much idea of "crooked arm" Ed Furgol's chances of winning this tough event over a course that could be plain murder to followers of golfing form.

Furgol, the surprise winner of the Open, got into the PGA championship on a sort of rain check—that's a rule which automatically qualifies the reigning Open titleholder even though he may have missed out, as Ed did, in the sectional rounds.

This rule, which hasn't been exercised lately, is something like the one which would have permitted Furgol to play clear through the recent Manakiki Open even though his score didn't qualify him for the last 36 holes.

Hogan doesn't play in the PGA championship any more. He figures the seven-day grind is too tough for him. And, until Furgol came through at Baltusrol last month, no other Open winner has been a full member of the PGA and eligible for the title.

The only other Open winners, Cary Middlecoff and Julius Boros, hadn't completed their five year "apprenticeship" to play in the PGA tournament when they won the big title.

As it stands, Furgol is just one of 135 players who'll start shooting tomorrow for 63 places in the match play bracket. After 36 holes of qualifying, the survivors will start Friday on the knockout phase, which winds up with next Tuesday's 36-hole final. Only the defending champion, Wally Burkemo, is exempt from this qualifying test and he plans to shoot for the $250 Medalist's prize anyway.

The short, sun-baked Keller Course is the factor which makes it virtually impossible to pick a winner. It's a public course, designed to give weekend golfers a fair test without presenting any difficulties that would cause traffic jams on busy days. But it's hardly the place where you'd expect to find some of the world's best golfers holding a major championship.

In past years, when the St. Paul Open was played at Keller, the pros have slashed its par to pieces. And although par had been reduced by one stroke and the course has been toughened slightly by adding a few traps and letting the grass grow in spots, it's still what some of the players call a "Flip Joint." They hit a long drive then flip a nine iron to the green.

GET OUTTA' HERE, LEO—Umpire Larry Goetz has just given the old heave-ho to Giant manager Leo Durocher and, obviously, Leo doesn't like it as he protests a catch made of a foul ball by Redleg Catcher Andy Seminick near the backstop screen in 9th inning of last night's Reds-Giants game. Leo pops a vein in his neck as he tries to get through to Goetz, but the umpire remained adamant and Leo was through for the night. Reds won 1-0.

Next 10 Days Crucial Period for Pale Hose

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sportswriter

The next 10 days can go a long way in deciding the American League pennant chances of the Chicago White Sox.

During that spell the Sox face the New York Yankees seven times, beginning tonight at Yankee Stadium. The Yanks trail first place by half a game. The White Sox are another four lengths back.

It's going to be a long hard road but Paul Richards' go-go boys from the Windy City, but their four-game sweep over the Indians just before the All-Star game break convinced a lot of fans the Sox still are a big threat.

The Yankees are their big stumbling Block. In 12 meetings so far the White Sox have come out on the short end eight times. Against every other team, including Cleveland, Chicago holds a winning edge.

Sandwiched between the home and home series with Chicago, the Yankees meet Cleveland in a three-game set in New York over the weekend.

It could turn out that the recently revived Boston Red Sox will hold the immediate key to the first place scramble. While the White Sox are playing the Yankees, the Indians will be meeting Boston. And when Cleveland switches to New York, Chicago goes to Boston.

The Indians and Yanks both won yesterday. Chicago had the day off. Cleveland defeated Washington 4-3. New York whipped Detroit 8-0. Boston won a pair from Baltimore 9-7 and 8-5.

In the National League Harry Perkowski of Cincinnati pitched a 12 inning three-hit shutout over the league-leading New York Giants, winning 1-0 on Hobie Landrith's home run. Second place Brooklyn also lost, 9-4 to Chicago. St. Louis beat Philadelphia 5-1 and Milwaukee defeated Pittsburgh 4-1.

The big thriller was in Cincinnati. Perkowski, a lefthander who had lost seven out of eight decisions this year, pitched brilliantly against the Giants.

Peace and quiet reigned at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, scene of Sunday's riot, as the Cardinals whipped the Phillies. Rookie Brooks Lawrence scattered 10 hits, winning his fifth game since joining the Red Birds less than a month ago.

Cleveland had to struggle against the Senators in Washington as Manager Al Lopez employed three pitchers to check a Washington threat in the ninth. Dale Mitchell's pinch single in the seventh drove in the winning run.

Home runs accounted for both Boston triumphs over Baltimore. In the first game veteran Mickey Owen climaxed a six run rally in the ninth with a grand slam drive. In the nightcap the Sox came from behind with five homers. Jackie Jensen hit a pair and Ted Williams, Milt Bolling and Jim Piersall hit one each.

Add Five Homers

Owen's Grand-Slammer Inspires Sox Hitters

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP) — Mickey Owen's grand slam home run won't decide any pennant race but it has put a gilt edge on his baseball memories and pushed the Boston Red Sox into fifth place.

There were two out and Boston trailed 7-5 in the ninth inning of the first game with Baltimore yesterday when substitute catcher Owen came to the plate. Reliefer Mike Blyzka had a 2-2 count on Mickey when the 20-year professional baseball veteran sent a high curve ball into Fenway Park's left field screen. The Red Sox won 9-7.

The effect lasted beyond the immediate bedlam with Owen's teammates swarming over him at the plate. They took his example to heart and lashed out five homers in the second game for an 8-5 triumph. By the end of the day Boston had supplanted Washington in fifth place in the American League and was a scant half-game behind fourth-place Detroit.

As Owen explained it:

"The boys figured if an old gaffer like me could hit a home run anybody can." Two blasts by Jackie Jensen and one each by Ted Williams, Milt Bolling and Jim Piersall were the second game fruits of the Owen inspiration.

Mickey showed up at the Red Sox Sarasota, Fla., spring training site this year trying to catch on as player, coach, anything. Figuring his experience would be an asset to the young team, Boston took him on. He had helped spell regular catcher Sammy White, appearing in 14 of 85 games prior to yesterday.

GMC Pushes Elks 9 Deeper Into 'A' Cellar

Former Chief Hurler Marv Caswell Tosses Two-Hitter

Second-place General Motors pushed Elks Lodge No. 723 deeper into the City Class A Baseball League cellar yesterday, taking a 6-1 triumph behind the 2-hit pitching of Marv Caswell.

Caswell, a former Pontiac High hurler, struck out 12 and walked two. Elk starter Walter King was charged with the loss before being relieved by Nevis Trevino in the 6th.

GMC outfielder Wes Roberts drove in three runs with a hard-hit double with the bases loaded in the 4th inning.

Zagers May Be Banned by MSC for Escapade

EAST LANSING (UP) — Bert Zagers, star Michigan State halfback fined $100 and sentenced to five days in jail for drunk driving, may not be allowed to return to school, college officials disclosed today.

The 21-year-old junior was put on a one-year probation and his driving license was suspended by justice of the peace Victor B. Anderson Monday after he was arrested by state police on M-55 near Cadillac early Sunday.

Dean of students Tom King said no action will be taken by the college until a report of the incident is studied, but said there is "a possibility" that Zagers would not be allowed to enroll for fall term classes.

Greco Takes Decision

MONTREAL (AP)—Veteran Johnny Greco of Montreal won a split decision over Billy Lauderdale of Hialeah, Fla., last night in a 10-round welterweight bout at Mont St.Louis gym.

The match had been postponed from last Monday when rain washed out the fight, scheduled for the outdoor Stade Exchange.

Lauderdale took a decision from Greco here a month ago in their first meeting.

Branca Looks Okeh to Yankees' Boss

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Branca, seeking another major league job after being cut adrift by Detroit, is making a good impression on Yankee Manager Casey Stengel.

"He looked loose out there and doesn't seem to have any arm trouble," Stengel said yesterday after Branca had pitched to the Yankee batters for almost 15 minutes.

"I don't know whether we will sign him or not," Stengel added. "We've got to make room first for Enos Slaughter who will be coming off the disabled list. Anyway, Branca will work out with us for another three or four days."

Celebration Is Planned at New Pool Dedication

Birmingham CC Spends $125,000 on Biggest State Layout

By H. GUY MOATS

A really big time is in store for Birmingham Country Club members and the district when the club dedicates its new $125,000 pool, bath house and shower-pool for children. The event is set for Aug. 7.

"While the pool was opened for members' use last Sunday," Chet Guilmet, chairman of the committee in charge of the development of the pool said the other day, "the really big dedication will come in August.

"We expect to have Governor Williams here. The pool will be formally turned over at that time to the membership. We hope to have some Olympic swimming and diving stars here and Coach Jay Myers of Birmingham High School's fine team will have his title-winners on hand for demonstrations."

Guilmet said the pool is the largest country-club pool in the state. It is 85.6 feet long and 57 feet wide, standard Olympic size, and its two permanent diving boards are of one-meter and 3-meter Olympic heights.

Georgia Tech in 1916 defeated Cumberland in football by 222-0, the most lopsided score in current football records.

Tigers Ponder Question of Ted Gray; Southpaw Hurler Has Lost Trading Value

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Is Ted Gray washed up as a pitcher?

Detroit Tigers pondered this question today as they prepared to meet the Philadelphia Athletics in a twi-night double-header.

Gray, at 29, should be near the peak of his career. Yet, these are the darkest days of his once-promising career.

The smallish southpaw is bothered by a sore arm. He has won only one game all season, losing three. It looks as though he's headed for his 4th straight losing season, and what makes it doubly bitter for the Tigers is that Gray has lost all trading value.

Gray made his 1st start since May 16, yesterday and was butchered by the emotionless New York Yankees, 8-0. They bombed Gray for seven hits and six runs in six innings.

Even L'il Willie Miranade, who has trouble hitting the ball past the pitcher's mound, hammered a home run off Gray.

In recent times, there has been much talk . . . and only talk . . . of the Tigers trading Gray. Most of the discussions were with the Yankees, who reportedly offered Irv Noren for Gray. Other players were mentioned but these were the key pawns.

It was reported, at that time, that Detroit left Noren was not Gray's equal in a trade, and requested more than the Yankee outfielder. Oh, how the Tigers would like to make that trade today; Gray is virtually useless while Noren, a fine fielder, leads the American League in hitting.

Another No-Hitter Posted in Junior Baseball League

Another no-hitter was pitched in Pontiac's Junior Baseball Leagues yesterday to highlight a 6-game card.

Latest pitcher to accomplish the feat is Denny Evans of Class F Avondale who set down Welden's without a hit as his team took a 21-1 triumph. Evans struck out six and walked three and contributed a single, double and triple to his team's 15-hit total.

In another "F" contest, Lunsford Market won its 6th victory in seven starts, 9-2, over Majestic.

Police had to play nine innings to scrape past the Mets, 1-0, in Class D. J. Gaton singled in R. Green with the winning run in the last of the 9th. Police nine won its 1st Class E victory of the season, beating Cass Ponts 14-6 in a 6-inning tussle that was halted by darkness.

Isaac Jones and Larry Quick smashed home runs as Boys' Club routed the Indians, 20-4, in Knothole loop play, Jones' round-tripper came in the 4th with one on and Quick got his in the following frame with two on. Al Tunney and Joe Gonzales combined to hurl a 2-hitter as Dick & Wes dumped Whitfield, 9-4, in another Knothole tilt.

Another Angler Lands His 'Biggest' Fish

Herman Burns, 2360 Hessel street, Rochester, knows just how Cliff Fiebelkorn, fellow townsman felt when he brought in his "biggest" perch the other day.

Burns, fishing with a neighbor, Russ Beaton, at Seven Ponds, tangled with a 5-pound-4-ounce largemouth bass, and won. "That bass," says Herman, "is the biggest I ever caught, and like Fiebelkorn said of his perch, it's the biggest bass I ever saw."

A big chub minnow was the lure, and the bass gave Herman a 20-minute battle. The pair took another smaller bass and a two-foot long pike.

Inn nine was surprised 5-3 by 3rd-place Moose last night and dropped into 2nd place behind idle General Motors. First and 2nd places, however, are separated by only a few percentage points.

Moose overcame a 2-1 deficit by scoring three runs in the 6th inning on two hits, two errors, a walk and a passed ball.

Douglas Hall fired a 2-hitter as Louie's Tavern won a 2-1 victory over Champagne-Velvet in another Men's game.

Giles Realty extended its Girls' League undefeated string to 12 games by downing Shaw's, 12-7. Katy Boykins, Effie Seay and Loretta Murphy homered for the winners. Avondale beat Gingellville, 7-4, in a 2nd girls' contest.

Back Ailment Fails to Hurt Allie's Record

NEW YORK (AP)—What would Allie Reynolds' pitching record be if he were healthy?

The New York Yankee right-hander, who yesterday blanked the Detroit Tigers 8-0 on three hits, said today his back still bothered him.

"I felt pretty good out there," he declared, "but a couple of times my back kicked up."

Reynolds, who has been troubled almost all season by a variety of hip and back ailments, has the top pitching record in the American League, 10 victories against a lone setback. His 10 victories have come consecutively. He hasn't lost since opening day when Washington beat him.

Noren Boosts Batting Lead to 19 Points

Yankee Slugger Hits .360 Clip to Bobby Avila's .341

NEW YORK (AP)—Irv Noren of the New York Yankees has increased his American League batting lead to sizable proportions and today holds a 19-point margin over runnerup Bobby Avila of Cleveland.

Noren, a left-handed hitting outfielder in his fifth major league campaign, gained 16 points on an 11-for-22 performance last week. He's hitting .360 to Avila's .341. Bobby's mark remained the same as he produced nine hits in 26 at bats.

Minnie Minoso of the Chicago White Sox moved into third place at .322 with a nine point climb. Minoso, who leads the circuit in runs batted in with 72, had nine safeties in 20 trips.

In the National League, Brooklyn's Duke Snider dropped six points to .361, but he held onto the top spot as his closest competitors, Don Mueller of the Giants and Cincinnati's Gus Bell, also lost ground.

Mueller fell five points to .351 and Bell four points to .340.

Willie Mays of the Giants slammed two home runs last week to bring his National League leading total to 33, Stan Musial of the Cards has driven in the most runs, 86.

The Yankees' Mickey Mantle still is the American League's pace-setter in home runs with 19.

3-Year-Old Championship Picture Hazier Than Ever

By TOM BRANAGAN

CHICAGO (AP)— The 3-year-old championship picture for 1954 was hazier than ever after Errard King's surprise victory in the $161,300 Arlington Classic Saturday.

As one trackwise veteran observed, "all the race proved is that there are a lot of classy 3-year-olds around."

The classic mile drew the finest 3-year-old field of the summer headed by Hasty House Farm's Hasty Road, the Preakness winner which as an entry with stablemate Lea O Erin went off as the 7-5 favorite.

Second choice in the betting was High Gun, the Belmont winner. And the field of 13 brilliant thoroughbreds included Allied, Hassesympa, third in the Kentucky Derby, and Duc de Fer, unbeaten as a 2-year-old and a sensational winner in two big races at Arlington this season.

But Errard King, an 11-1 shot owned by Joseph Cavegnano of Winthrop, Mass., stunned backers of the favorites with a speedy, courageous wire-to-wire race.

Errard King, given a heady ride by Sam Boulmetis, did the mile in 1:35—only 2-5 second off the Arlington record set by the great Equipoise in 1932.

The $104,475 earned by Cavegnano's ace almost doubled his lifetime earnings. He now has amassed $243,675 in two years of campaigning.

NL Prexy Warren Giles in Seclusion as He Institutes Hearing on Cards-Phillies Free-for-All Row

ST.LOUIS (AP)—National League President Warren Giles holds court here today on a free-for-all between the St.Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies Sunday in a game the umpires forfeited to the Phils.

Giles arrived in town yesterday from Cincinnati but quickly made himself unavailable for comment.

The time and place of the closed hearing were still not known late last night.

Giles suspended Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky, catcher Sal Yvars and pitcher Ellis (Cot) Deal of the Birds and first baseman Earl Torgeson of the Phils pending the hearing. He took no action against Phil Manager Terry Moore, who also was involved in the ruckus.

Coach Johnny Riddle directed the Cards as they defeated the Phils, 5-1, last night in a game as quiet and orderly as the second game of the doubleheader Sunday was riotous.

Presumably the circumstances leading to the forfeiture of the game, as well as the fight, will be considered at the hearing.

Giles notified the Cardinals of his action in a telegram yesterday after Redbird General Manager Dick Meyer asked the league prexy to come here for an on-the-spot investigation.

"We asked for the hearing," a Cardinal spokesman said, "and we're happy to have it."

To be on hand for the hearing, Giles said, are Managers Stanky and Moore, their coaches, not more than three other representatives of each club, Yvars, Deal and Torgeson and the umpires.

The brawl started after Torgeson objected to close pitches by Deal and then got nto a fight with Yvars. The two managers, enemies since Stanky fired Moore as a Cardinal coach in 1952, and players from both teams poured onto the field.

* * *

Police broke up the free-for-all after about eight minutes. Shortly afterward, still in the fifth inning, Umpire Babe Pinelli forfeited the game to Philadelphia because of delaying tactics by the Cards.

Phils Free Kipper

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies sent pitcher Thornton Kipper to their Syracuse farm club in the International League yesterday on a 24-hour option basis. Kipper's release made room on the team's roster for infielder Floyd Baker, obtained by waiver from the Boston Red Sox.

Tribe Boss Demands 'Sweep' in NY Series

Weak-Hitting Miranda Gets Homer in Rout of Bengals

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Guillermo (Willie) Miranda walked gingerly from the shower and laughed as he headed for his locker in the New York Yankee dressing room.

"See," he grinned, "you hit a home run and everybody waits to talk to you. There are more guys around here now than there have been all season."

This was yesterday, some minutes after the Yankees had blanked the Detroit Tigers 8-0 on Allie Reynolds' three-hitter. Two of the runs came on Miranda's first homer of the year and the second of his major league career.

Actually, the blow was a solid one, traveling on a line about 350 feet into the lower left field seats. Some in the crowd of 7,462 chuckled for Miranda's reputation is that of a very weak batter.

Except for one start against Boston in June the 27-year-old Miranda has been used solely as a late-inning replacement for regular shortstop Phil Rizzuto. That was until the first game of Sunday's doubleheader against Detroit when Manager Casey Stengel decided to give Rizzuto a rest.

Now Miranda may be kept in the lineup against the Chicago White Sox tonight in the first game of an important four-game set.

The sagging Tigers, only a half-game out of the 2nd division, looked for better things against the Philadelphia Athletics today as the two teams started a four-game series.

Tigers and Athletics play two games today. The afternoon contest makes up for an earlier game that was rained out. Tonight's game will be the 1st of three under the lights here that could drop Detroit to 5th — or even 6th — place in American League standings.

Ted Gray was making his 1st start since an inflamed tendon in his left shoulder sidelined him May 16. The little southpaw gave up six runs before he was lifted for Bob Miller in the 7th.

Two runs off Gray were homers. One came in the 3rd when Mickey Mantle arched his 19th of the year into the lower left field stands. The other came in the 6th and was Willie Miranda's 1st of the season.

Gil McDougald walked to open the 1st inning, took 3rd on Bill Skowron's single and scored the Yankee's 1st run on Yogi Berra's single off 2nd baseman Frank Bolling's glove.

In today's twi-night twin bill Hutchinson named Ned Garver, seeking his 7th victory in the opener, facing Alex Kellner (5-9), and Steve Gromek, who has 10 victories and nine losses, in the nightcap against Arnold Portocarrero (6-8).

AF Sports Car Races Are Hit

House Told Program Entails Great Cost to Taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House was told today that sports car races conducted under Air Force auspices entail "a great direct and indirect cost to the taxpayers, little of which is accounted for."

The average labor cost per race for military personnel, Rep. Scrivner (R-Kan) said in a congressional record statement, is estimated by the General Accounting Office (GAO) at from $23,000 to $115,000.

If military labor costs were considered, Scrivner said, profits claimed for the races would be turned into a deficit.

* * *

Scrivner led a congressional fight that resulted in cancellation of almost all races scheduled for the future. They had been held at strategic air command bases with the idea of raising funds for welfare and recreation.

Actually, he said, the racing program brought a net return of about $5 per enlisted man per year, exclusive of military labor costs.

Durocher Is Bounced for 1st Time in '54

CINCINNATI, July 20 (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants was kicked out of a game last night for the first time this year.

Umpire Larry Goetz thumbed him off the field in the ninth inning of the Giants' game against the Cincinnati Redlegs. Durocher was arguing that catcher Andy Seminick of the Reds had caught a foul fly off the screen.

In previous seasons Durocher has been involved regularly in rhubarbs with umpires.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Lord Steward, 7-year-old bay gelding owned by Ralph H. Kroening of Milwaukee, Wis., set a new Baltimore Raceway trotting record last night in winning the $10,000 District of Columbia Free-For-All.

The Wisconsin horse's time of 2:04 4-5 clipped one-fifth of a second off the old mark held by Famous Song.

WALTZ ME AROUND AGAIN — Yankee third baseman Andy Carey, left, and first sacker Bill Skowron appear to be going into a dance as they pursue high infield fly in seventh inning of game against Detroit yesterday. Carey caught ball from bat of Tiger outfielder Don Lund. Yankees remained within half a game of league leading Cleveland Indians by winning 8 to 0.

Indians Oppose Boston First, in 3-Game Affair

Weekend Set Against Yanks, However, Rated the 'Crucial' Test

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Al Lopez, whose Cleveland Indians are hanging stubbornly to a half-game lead in the American League said today he'll settle for nothing less than a sweep of the "crucial" series this weekend with the New York Yankees.

"Who wants two out of three?" Lopez said in the manner of a man who would rejoice with two out of three. "You've got to go for them all in this league."

The Indians moved to Boston today for a three-game set with the Red Sox before heading into Yankee Stadium for the big threesome with the world champions. The Yankees, meanwhile, tackle the contending White Sox in four.

"They've been pretty hot," Lopez said of the Yankees, "but they're bound to cool off sooner or later."

The Indians themselves have been more than lukewarm of late. The Yankees won five of six, since the All-Star game break, but haven't gained an inch. The Indians also have a 5-1 mark in this time after edging the Washington Senators in a 4-3 thriller yesterday.

Early Wynn, the big righthander who once worked for Washington, won his 12th game against seven losses, setting the Senators down with four hits in the eight innings he pitched. Teammate Mike Garcia also has won 12, losing 5, while Bob Lemon's mark is 9-5.

Lopez wouldn't tip his hand about his pitching selections for the Yankees, but it would be more than surprising if the three Cleveland pitchers don't turn out to be, reading from Friday to Sunday: Lemon, Wynn, Garcia.

In the 11 games played between the clubs so far this season, Lopez has started every time with one of his Big Three. This is true even though their combined record against the Yanks this year is only 2-5.

Wynn has started five and has a record of 1-2. In four tries, Lemon is 1-1, while Garcia is 0-2. Relief pitchers have won three, lost one, giving Cleveland an overall record of 5-6 against the champions with 11 games still to be played between the two clubs.

Lopez was making no predictions about the outcome of the pennant race. He said he is well aware the Yankees are tough and that you win no championships with talk.

"They've got to beat us," Lopez said. "It won't be easy, particularly now that we're in the best physical shape we've been in all season."

The Indians have been running in front despite a flock of injuries which have sidelined such stars as Lemon, Al Rosen and Bobby Avila.

Disgusted Billy Graham May Decide to Quit Ring

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—"When you get licked by a potato like that, it makes you think."

Billy Graham, admitting he will be 33 on his next birthday in September, was a thoroughly disgusted fighter today after losing a split decision to Danish Chris Christensen at Eastern Parkway Arena last night.

"When a guy like this hits you, it makes you wonder what's wrong," he said. "You ask yourself 'Why don't you counter?' Right now I feel let down. I thought I won the fight 6-4 but I am disgusted.

"I'll know in a few days about fighting again," he said.

Graham, at 150 pounds, looked ring-rusty in his second fight in seven months. He was slow and missed often against the faster Dane who kept pouring leather at him through the 10 rounds.

Al Andrews, who won a unanimous decision from Sauveur Chiocca of Corsica in the feature 10 at St. Nicholas Arena, headed back for his hometown, Superior, Wis., for a vacation.

All but 10 Lions Now in Club 'Fold'

DETROIT (AP) — Only 10 Lions were out of the den today as Detroit's National Football League champions announced the signing of 680 pounds of linemen.

The three members of the club, who signed 1954 contracts yesterday, are veterans Jim Martin, 6-foot-2, 230 - pound offensive guard and defensive linebacker; Jim Cain, 6 - foot - 4, 210 - pound defensive end, and Gilbert Mains, 6-foot-3, 240 - pound tackle.

General manager Nick Kerbawy, who announced the signing of the hulking trio, said the remaining 10 players of the 59-man squad would be considered holdouts if still unsigned Wednesday night.

Golfers Change Stance, Grip in Intentional Slice

By SAM SNEAD

The Intentional Slice

Though probably many of you are concerned with preventing your shots from slicing, there are times when a slice can come in handy. I must warn you that if you are hitting the ball straight and are confident of your game, intentional slicing can be dangerous. There is no unhappier golfer than the chronic slicer—unless it's the chronic hooker.

Now, here's how to slice intentionally. First the grip—move your left hand more under the shaft and your right hand more over it. This will make your right hand dominant. You must open your stance and bring the clubhead back outside the line of flight. So, when you strike the ball your club face will "slide" across the ball from right to left, thereby imparting the proper spin.

Player in today's drawing has moved his left foot (A) back from the line of flight, and he has also moved the ball back a bit farther than normal toward the center of his stance to create the slice. He is keeping his left arm straight. He'll probably get just the kind of shot he wants—and let's hope he doesn't get into the habit of slicing!

Only 3 Match Broadmoor Par

Army Major, Youngster Co-Medalists With 70; Morey Has 69

SEATTLE (AP)—The Broadmoor Course spread its inviting carpet again today for those who aspire to the Western Amateur golf championship, but all hundred-and-a-half of them stepped on it softly after stubbing so many toes in yesterday's opening round.

Only dapper Dale Morey of Indianapolis could shave as much as a single stroke off Broadmoor's par 70—and he was playing for fun. Being the defending champion, Morey doesn't have to qualify in the two days of medal play.

Morey outshone his playing partner, Bing Crosby. The crooner had a 78, nine strokes more than Morey but a lot less than a lot of others.

Among the others were bandleader Phil Harris, who had an 87, and comedian Jack Benny, with a 96.

An Army major and a youngster just out of high school tied for the low score—disregarding Morey—with 70's. Robert Prall of Salem, Ore., 18, had the best score of the day on the outgoing half with a 32, two under par. Maj. Harley Williams put together two 35's for his even par total.

U.S. Prestige in Viet Nam Hits Lowest Ebb in Decade

SAIGON, Indochina (AP) — American prestige in Viet Nam, largest of the states of Indochina, appears to have hit its lowest ebb since World War II.

Until a few days ago, the United States could still count on the friendship of some element of the population—anti-Communist Vietnamese in the North and the Nationalist government of Catholic leader Ngo Dinh Diem.

But reports from Washington that President Eisenhower's administration now accepts the principle of partition of the country seem to have wiped away much of this good will.

In the closing days of the Geneva conference and on the verge of a possible cease-fire in the long and exhausting war, the United States stands discredited in the eyes of many elements of the population.

It was to save this population from communism that the United States contributed billions to the Indochina war effort against the Vietminh and substantial civilian aid now being directed to help the hapless refugees of evacuated areas in the North. The general feeling in Viet Nam now appears to be that the United States didn't do enough, and much of what it did wasn't done right.

The aid program, for example, is a major cause of dissatisfaction among Vietnamese nationalists.

"Instead of giving us aid money and materiel through the French, why doesn't the United States turn it over directly to us?" one prominent Vietnamese asked recently. "In this way Viet Nam would be able to stand on her own feet, feel herself really independent, and the impression that the United States is siding with France in an attempt to keep us under her control would be eliminated."

Yet, there is nothing like open hostility toward Americans here, except in a few isolated cases. Many Vietnamese nationalists still look upon Americans as possible friends and hope for direct aid when the French are gone.

The principal reason for the decline in the American position here, as summarized by Frenchmen and their Vietnamese allies, is the apparent lack of clear and consistent U.S. policy, and Washington's uncertainty in dealing with the Indochina situation. Vietnamese, who don't know the intricacies of American party politics, are repeatedly confused by the conflicting statements coming from leaders in the United States.

From Hanoi in the North, Associated Press Correspondent Forrest Edwards reports:

"Americans are regarded with bitterness and disappointment by many Frenchmen. A French soldier told me bitterly, 'We are shedding our blood in your war.' "That was a reference to the American contention that this is a war against communism.

Man Drives Into Drive-In, Pulls Gun, Obtains $600

BEL AIR, Md. (AP)—Police are looking for a drive-in rober.

Harford County Sheriff Raymond Faulkner said the proprietor of the Bel Air Drive-in Theater reported the thief drove up in an old model just as the box office was closing. He pointed a pistol at the proprietor and demanded the cash box.

He escaped with more than $600. He never left the car, the sheriff said.

Hot Weather Ups Soybeans

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans shot up 10 cents a bushel, all contracts going to new seasonal highs, in another weather market on the board of trade today.

The rest of the market could not come close to duplicating the action of soybeans. Corn, which had gains extending to the daily limit of 8 cents yesterday, ran into more opposition today. It opened with a good advance but then backed down from its peak, holding on to small gains.

Oats were erratic and there appeared to be some hedging pressure in wheat, forcing that cereal under the previous close at times. Trading was active in all pits except soybeans, where offers to sell at the 10-cent limit advance were few and far between.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was unchanged to 1 cent lower, July $2.08¾, corn was 1½ to 3¼ higher, July $1.64¼, oats were ⅝ to 1 cent higher, July 77¾, rye was ¾ to 1½ higher, September $1.16½, soybeans were 10 cents higher, July $4.16¾, and lard was 3 cents lower to 55 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $17.15.

Mart Confused, Aircrafts Drop

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices in the stock market dropped rather abruptly today with a pickup in the volume of trading, but in the early afternoon there was a recovery from the lows.

Today's selloff following two days of moderately declining prices. Losses went to between 1 and 3 points at the worst. Gains usually were modest but some stocks moved up strongly in the face of the retreat elsewhere.

Business pushed well past the two and a half million mark. Yesterday's total was 2,370,000 shares.

Aircrafts were under selling pressure in a profit-taking movement after their recent strength.

Also lower were the steels, motors, utilities, coppers, chemicals, electrical equipments, railroads and oils.

Wayne, U. of M. Receive Grants

Money Will Be Used for Medical Schools' Expansion

The University of Michigan yesterday received a grant of $41,530 and Wayne University $23,603 for use in expanding their medical schools.

The grants were among 80 made by the National Fund for Medical Education to the nation's 74 four-year medical schools and six two-year schools, totaling $2,176,904.

S. Sloan Colt, president of the NFME, said the grants are used by schools primiarly to fill teaching vacancies, create new teaching posts and begin courses in areas of recent scientific advances.

Businessmen and doctors are the chief contributors to the fund, said Colt, which has donated $6,941,057 since 1951 when it s first awards were made.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower, then president of Columbia University, was one of the founders of the NFME in 1949.

Reds Demand Release of Chinese-Held Tanker

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia has sent a third note to the United States demanding immediate release of the Soviet tanker Tuapse, held by the Chinese Nationalists at Formosa.

In their latest protest, handed to the U.S. Embassy yesterday, the Soviets threatened to ask damages from the United States for capture of the 8,840-ton ship by the Chinese Nationalists on June 23.

The note declared: "The Soviet government considers the government of the United States fully responsible for the capture of the Soviet tanker Tuapse as well as for the security of the crew and safety of the vessel."

It's All in the Family

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (UP) — The Kennard brothers, Charles and E. H., may oppose each other in the campaign for Wabash County sheriff next November. Charles Kennard is a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff and E. H. Kennard seeks the Democratic nomination.

Anthony Ross Is Detective Hale

Script Lets Audience In on the Step-by-Step Trapping of Culprit

NEW YORK — The Telltale Clue, a new television mystery series dramatizing the work of Detective Lieutenant Richard Hale, portrayed by Anthony Ross started recently.

The Telltale Clue will occupy the time period of Public Defender."

Anthony Ross, top - ranking actor of screen, theater and television, won the Donaldson Award for his part in Broadway's smash hit The Glass Menagerie.

In addition to starring in Frogs of Spring, he has appeared in Season in the Sun and other stage successes, Ross is featured in two Hollywood movies soon to be released, Country Girl, starring Bing Crosby, and Rogue Cop. In television he has starred on Studio One, Suspense, Danger and a number of other top shows.

The Telltale Clue series will present suspenseful stories with a documentary touch written by such top writers as Gore Vidal, Harry Junkin, Alvin Sapinsley, Haskel Frankel and Sid Edelstein.

A unique feature of the new program will be audience participation with Detective Hale, who heads the criminological division of a large city police department, in the solution of each crime.

As Hale goes to work, clues successively developed become graphically apparent to television viewers as telltale evidence of the crime involved. In the progress of the drama, the home audience thus shares step by step the analysis and synthesis of this evidence in the trapping of the culprit.

In its unusual dramatic treatment of scientific detection, The Telltale Clue will show that premeditated acts usually are ingeniously conceived to be "perfect."

However, the perpetrator invariably fails to count on that small oversight or margin of human error, the misplaced piece in the jigsaw puzzle of perfect crime—the telltale clue — that undoes him.

The Telltale Clue will be produced and directed by Charles Martin, well - known Broadway and Hollywood showman.

Boys' Romp in Barn Ends in Flaming Death

LOGANSPORT, Ind. (AP)—A romp in a haybarn on a farm near Walton last night ended in flaming death for two small boys, sons of the landlord and the tenant.

Farmers forking through smouldering hay found the bodies of Charles Edward Jay, 8, and Laymon Propes, 7. Volunteers had swarmed to the farm to help in the search after the boys were reported missing.

In Home for 60 Years

FREMONT, Mich. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tanis, who still occupy the same farm home they moved into as newlyweds, recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary.

Nickel Saving Costs Parolee Bank Swag

DENVER (AP)—A paroled convict's failure to put a nickel in a parking meter led to his arrest here yesterday after a $9,658 bank robbery.

Taken into custody an hour later as he stopped for a beer and charged with the holdup was Otto A. Atterson, 24, of Denver. He was accused of taking the money at gunpoint from the Metropolitan State Bank in Derby, a North Denver suburb.

Officers said all but $7 was recovered from Atterson's car, parked outside a tavern. A motorcycle Patrolman heard a broadcast description of the bank bandit's getaway car, recalled ticketing it for overtime parking and the arrest followed.

FBI Agent Joseph Schmit said Atterson admitted the holdup.

Britain Offers Montgomery

To Help Run Proposed European Army; Brows Raise in London

BONN, Germany (AP)—An informed British source said here Britain has made an offer to appoint Field Marshal Lord Montgomery to help run the proposed European army.

(In London, eyebrows were raised in surprise at this report. The British Foreign Office refused comment.)

Lord Montgomery is at present deputy to the supreme Allied commander in Europe, American Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther. The informant here indicated that if the six-nation European army actually becomes a reality, the British government has suggested it would make him British representative to it. He would be replaced in his present post in supreme headquarters in Paris, it was said, by Lt. Gen. Sir Richard Gale present commander of the British-Belgian-Dutch northern army group in Germany.

The idea seems to be to demonstrate to the French that Britain, though unwilling to join the European Defense Community formally and merge its armed forces in the European army, intends to maintain "close association" with this organization.

The French have failed so far to ratify the EDC agreement, thus putting the entire project in jeopardy.

Drunk Is Headed Right So Sentence Suspended

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — David Joyner's unusual plea on a drunkenness charge paid off in City Court here yesterday. He admitted he was drunk but said he was on his way to church.

"At least," said the judge, "you were headed in the right direction. So drunk or sober, I'm going to suspend your sentence."

Frantic Philly Cops Find Armored Car

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police "lost" a Philadelphia Transportation Co. armored car reportedly carrying $300,000 yesterday and there was some mad scurrying about the city for a brief spell before it was found again—safe in a company garage.

The car was involved in an accident with another vehicle and several persons suffering minor injuries were taken to nearby hospitals by police cars.

Before leaving the scene, the officers radioed for added help to guard the contents of the armored car. Meanwhile, a company tow truck arrived and towed the disabled car to a garage.

The Turks introduced coffee to Europe about 1683.

'Chain Reaction' Sets Curtains Ablaze in Utica

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—It was a chain reaction — literally — that ruined Mrs. Alphonse Majewski's curtains.

A Public Works Department truck was dragging a tree limb through the street when a chain attached to the limb snapped. A link, heated by friction from grinding along the pavement, flew through Mrs. Majewski's window, setting fire to the curtains.

Jail's First Customer Aided in Construction

GREENWOOD, S.C. (AP) — A man charged with drunk and disorderly conduct became the first inmate in McCormick County's new jail during the weekend.

He is a construction worker who had worked on the building since it was begun last February.
