Yakima River Flood Rises

THAW WOULD RELIEVE JAM—Waters of the Yakima River surrounded this unincorporated community of Enterprise, two miles west of the atomic energy center at Richland, Wash., yesterday. An ice jam some seven miles long which formed back of a railroad bridge forced eight families from their homes. State officials said nothing could be done but wait for a thaw to relieve the jam.

Would Avoid GOP Split

Bricker Says He'll Accept Compromise on Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said today a desire to keep the Republican party from being "torn apart" would lead him to accept a reasonable compromise on altering treaty-making powers in the Constitution.

Bricker disputed President Eisenhower's newly stated contentions that the Ohioan's proposed amendment would (1) make it impossible for the United States to deal with friendly countries on defense matters, (2) strip the President of his historical role as the nation's spokesman, and (3) force American withdrawal from leadership in world affairs.

In a letter yesterday to Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, Eisenhower said he subscribes fully "to the proposition that no treaty or international agreement can contravene the Constitution." He would back an amendment to make this clear, he added.

But the President said he was "unalterably opposed" to Bricker's proposal, now before the Senate for debate expected to begin tomorrow, on the ground that "it would impair our hopes and plans for peace and the successful achievement of the important matters now under discussion." He added:

Beeson Is OK'd for NLRB Post

Dems on Senate Labor Committee Hit GOP's 'Steamroller' Tactics

WASHINGTON (UP) — Democrats charged "steamroller" today as the Senate Labor Committee overrode union protests and approved the nomination of Albert C. Beeson to the National Labor Relations Board.

The vote was seven Republicans for the nomination to six Democrats against. It came shortly after CIO Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey joined United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis in opposing Beeson, who until recently was industrial relations vice president of the Food Machinery & Chemical Co.

Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY), who said he was speaking for other Democratic committee members, made the "steamroller" charge immediately after a short closed committee meeting at which the 7-6 vote was cast.

Lehman accused the Republicans of "an attempt to steamroller the nomination through the committee without hearings sufficient to disclose all the facts."

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz) replied that Democrats were "steamrollering backwards" on the appointment. He said committee Democrats were determined to block Beeson's appointment "regardless of what tactics it took."

In its short secret session, held after Carey had completed his testimony, the committee unanimously approved the nomination of Robert O. Boyd to the Federal Mediation Board and Edward Steidle to the Coal Mine Safety Board. (Earlier story, page 5.)

One Boy Dies From Knife Cut in Street Fight

Detroit Police Holding Youngster, 12, in Death of James Horton

DETROIT (AP)—A street fight between two 12-year-old boys after a grade school basketball game ended last night in the stabbing death of one of them.

Only last week school authorities banned all major high school athletics at night because of the icepick stabbing of Ross Deboskey, 17, star basketball player, after a night basketball game. Deboskey was badly hurt.

After last night's incident police said the accused boy admitted striking James with a knife but claimed it was self defense. James, he said, attacked him in an argument that started during a regularly scheduled night contest at Chaney Elementary School. The boys played on opposing teams.

Witnesses said that they did not see James hit the boy. However, they told police that James threw a heavy hunting knife at him after he had been knifed and was being held up by Louis Reed, 13.

Reports varied on where the hunting knife came from, but witnesses said Louis carried it in a sheath at his side. Louis said he "found it under a tree."

The pocket knife which killed James was found in a trash pile at the home of the accused boy. Its blade was two inches long.

City council is considering an ordinance that will prohibit all students from carrying knives or other weapons, also a result of the near fatal DeBoskey stabbing.

The accused boy has been turned over to juvenile authorities. Under Michigan law probate court cannot waive jurisdiction on a juvenile under 15 years of age.

Maximum sentence which the probate court can give a juvenile is sentencing to the boy's vocational school in Lansing. He must be released under no future jeopardy at the age of 19.

'500' Winner Flunks Out as Elevator Operator

Shaw, who is president of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, was stranded with a student nurse 55 minutes in an automatic elevator that stalled between floors Monday in St. Vincent's Hospital.

Commies to Take Turncoats

Dishonorable Discharges Ready for 21 Pro-Red GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has decided to wash its hands of 21 American soldiers who have turned their backs on their homeland and have asked the Communists in Korea to take them as "free men."

The Army, on orders from Secretary of Defense Wilson, has prepared dishonorable discharge papers for the 21 prisoners of war converted to communism.

The Americans, who have spurned all opportunity to return, now are stranded in the Korean neutral zone.

In a broadcast heard in Tokyo, the Peiping radio said today the Communists have agreed to take back the 21 Americans, one Briton and 325 South Koreans who have decided to stay with the Reds.

The broadcast said Gen. Lee Sang Cho, Communist member of the Military Armistice Commission, made the announcement in a letter to Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

In ordering dishonorable discharges, Wilson said the 21 have the right to try to clear their names, if they ever care to do so.

Meanwhile, their Army pay has been halted and any veterans benefits canceled.

Army lawyers, urging this course, cited regulations which say an enlisted man can be dishonorably discharged only in accordance with "an approved sentence of a general court-martial" at which the accused man is present to defend himself. An "undesirable discharge," the lawyers contended, may be ordered by the head of a service without trial.

BAD NEWS FOR COFFEE LOVERS—James W. O'Connor, president of the National Coffee Association, speaking to newsmen between sips of the brew, said in New York price of coffee will rise another 10 cents unless consumption drops off sharply. He blames a drought in 1952 and frost in 1953 for the high price of green coffee from Brazil.

Coffee Prices Still Rising With More Boosts Forecast

By UNITED PRESS

In fact, retailers in many localities reported that sales had increased recently as householders rushed to stock up on the beans needed for America's favorite hot beverage.

Experts warned that the worst was yet to come with prices possibly hitting $1.25 a pound at the end of February. They said retailers still had not passed on to their customers the latest wholesale price raises.

Coffee was becoming so precious that at Chicago a gang of burglars hijacked 12,000 pounds—valued at $1 a pound — from a warehouse, and police said coffee had joined liquor and cigarettes as a high grade form of loot.

In Southern California, housewives were reported sending letters urging recipients to switch to some other beverage for a month to force prices down.

Los Angeles housewives were talking of possible "coffeeless Wednesdays" and a mild buyer's strike was reported there. Retailers at Washington, D. C., reported some customers were switching from luxury blends to standard brands.

At Council Bluffs, Ia., a telephone survey indicated coffee consumption there and in nearby Omaha, Neb. is down "20 to 40 per cent."

Despite rumors that housewives planned to stage buyers' strikes against the price rise, there were very few signs of such direct action.

Guard to Inspect Armory Sites

Five Being Considered; Present Building May Be Sold to Pontiac

The Michigan National Guard will send a representative here to inspect five proposed sites for a new armory, according to Pontiac Mayor Arthur J. Law.

Notice of the move was contained in a letter to Law from Col. Herbert F. Layle, quartermaster general of the state guard.

Law recently revealed plans to construct a city park on the land containing the present armory, city hall and police garage.

City Attorney William A. Ewart drafted a bill to authorize sale of the present armory to Pontiac, which State Rep. Leaun Harrelson (D-Pontiac) agreed to introduce.

Pontiac would furnish land for the new building or money for the land. The plan would be a joint undertaking of Michigan, the United States government and Pontiac.

Union in Battle With Kolowich

Teamsters Buy Stocks in Fruehauf Trailer Co. to Aid President

DETROIT (AP)—A stocks battle for control of the Fruehauf Trailer Co. went on today between Roy Fruehauf, company head, and George J. Kolowich, president of the Detroit & Cleveland Navigation Co.

The Wall Street Journal reported meanwhile that a third party, the AFL Teamsters Union, was accumulating Fruehauf stock. Teamsters President Dave Beck told the Journal his union was accumulating $1,500,000 worth of the trailer company's stock.

The stock he said, will pay 4 per cent and be voted at Fruehauf's direction.

Fruehauf's 65,740 shares of his company's stock, combined with those of "associates" and the voting power from the union-owned block, give him control over his company. This control is currently threatened by Kolowich, the Journal said.

At the same time Kolowich is under fire from a group of minority stockholders in the D & C company who seek to have him removed as president, charging he withheld information in the pending purchase of a western trucking company.

Names on Notes Being Checked in Mattson Case

Steel Firm Executive Killed Sitting at Desk in Detroit Office

DETROIT (AP) — Police today were checking the names of several women found in letters and notes inside the desk of John W. Mattson, 51, a steel company executive who was mysteriously slain through an office window last night.

A 45-year-old married woman who admitted having been friendly with the Atlas Steel Co. executive was questioned and released.

But at noon police still were holding a 51-year-old milkman who they said had vied for the woman's affections. They were checking his alibi. No charge had been made.

In a partially finished letter to the woman questioned, police said the executive hinted vaguely that threats had been made against him. It mentioned no names or reasons, however.

Mattson was shot to death through a window of the company office on busy East Grand boulevard about 6:30 p.m. yesterday.

The killer used a .30 caliber deer rifle. The bullet struck Mattson in the head as he sat at his desk working on steel tonnage reports. It passed through his head and flew out an opposite window. The killer vanished.

With few immediate clues to go on, police questioned friends of Mattson in an effort to find a lead to his slayer. Associates expressed mystification at the killing.

Both Mattson's wife, Sylvia, and the Atlas Corp. attorney, Jack J. Brown, said he had no known enemies.

Police said they received one report that recently Mattson and an unidentified man had engaged in a violent argument in the company office.

Prior to joining Atlas, Mattson had been traffic manager for trucking companies. Atlas was organized two years ago. Philip Silver of Detroit is its president.

The only similarity to the Reuther shootings was that the assailants fired through windows. The Reuthers were shot at their homes.

Persons in the neighborhood of the Atlas office reported hearing a sharp report about the time of the shooting but attributed it to a car's backfiring. A girl passerby discovered the shooting about a half hour after it happened.

'Hydrogen Bomb' Explodes in Court, Mistrial Asked

CLEVELAND (AP)—A home-made "hydrogen bomb," used as a trial exhibit, exploded in court today and sprayed the 12 man jury with sludge from a city dump.

Judge Ross Michener wiping sludge from his bald head, said he would rule later today on a mistrial motion the defense made immediately after the blast.

Mrs. Mary Grosser sued for damages against Armet Alloys, Inc., in the death of her husband, Fred. He died of burns received in 1949 while operating a bulldozer in the city dump. The widow said Grosser's bulldozer hit magnesium shavings, dumped by the alloy firm, and was wrapped in flames when they ignited.

Today, Dr. Aaron Teller, Fenn College chemist, attempted to prove for the plaintiff the sludge at the dump is explosive. He exhibited a sludge-filled flask to which he added water, declaring it would give off hydrogen gas.

In an initial test, he lit the gas that came out of the flask. In the second and final test, he corked the flask.

Delivers Stinging Reply to Commie at Big Four Parley in Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles today blasted Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's attack on the United States in the Berlin conference and rejected the Russian's proposal for a big power conference with Red China on world peace problems.

Dulles also announced acceptance of Molotov's proposed procedure for the conference in order to avoid "weeks in futile argument" about an agenda.

In perhaps the most stinging speech he has made about Soviet policy since he became secretary of state, Dulles accused Molotov of wanting "reversion to a sterile and dangerous past" with his proposals for a German settlement.

"It seems incredible," he told Molotov, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault, "that Soviet leaders should now be devoting themselves to reviving . . . Franco-German hostility and obstructing a unification which would realize the vision of the wise European statesmen who for generations have been preaching unity as the indispensable foundation for lasting peace."

In a speech to the opening conference session yesterday, Molotov denounced the proposed European Defense Community which would link France and Germany militarily. He also generally assailed American and Allied defense measures throughout the world.

"There is no known substitute for EDC," Dulles declared today. "Certainly the Soviet Union has proposed none except a return to the obsolete, bankrupt system of Versailles and other so-called 'peace' treaties which have bred war."

The American secretary assailed Molotov's opening address as a "profound disappointment" in bringing up familiar Russian charges and failing to hold out any new ideas.

"I propose that we refuse to be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Lindbergh Says Character Is Essential to Survival

NEW YORK (UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said Monday night the world must face the "stark fact" that in 50 years or aviation history the role of aircraft has been "primarily military and destructive."

The greying, 52-year-old "Lone Eagle" who flew the Atlantic alone in 1927 made his first speech in many years at a meeting of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

He told the audience, made up mostly of aviation designers, that America must depend for survival on the character of its citizens rather than scientific progress which has ushered in the age of supersonic flight and terrible new weapons.

"At the end of the first half century of engine-driven flight, we are confronted with the stark fact that the historical significance of aircraft has been primarily military and destructive," Lindbergh said.

"Our bombs have wiped out, in minutes, an inheritance of life and labor which centuries created. Aviation is having its greatest effect on the force - influence of nations and factors of survival, while diplomatic relations are floundering in a strange new framework of power, time and space."

At the institute dinner Lindbergh received the 1953 Daniel Guggenheim award "for pioneering achievements in flight and air navigation." The medal was created in 1928 and first awarded to Orville Wright, who with his brother Wilbur designed and flew the first airplane.

Commission Clears Way for $225,000 Bond Issue to Be Put on April Ballot

From Our Birmingham Bureau

BIRMINGHAM — With apparently no opposition to a proposed $130,000 fire station to serve the city's East Side, the way was cleared last night for the City Commission to draft a resolution next Monday which would place a $225,000 bond issue on the April 5 ballot.

The other $95,000 would place a smaller station at Maple and Chesterfield.

City Manager Donald C. Egbert described the East Side station, to be built at Adams and Bowers, as the city's major station which would serve not only the residential area there, but also a portion of the business section and all of the industrial area.

The two-story red brick structure would house the city's major fire apparatus and all the well controls, and would be considered a training station with a personnel of from 18 to 20 men working in two shifts. The other floor would be dormitory space.

Plans call for placing the station 50 feet back from Adams and 25 feet from Bowers on city-owned property, with screening along the north side. Egbert said the station would serve as a buffer between residences and businesses on Adams.

Residents asked that the fire trucks use Bowers as the east-west access rather than the highly residential Hazel street, and Egbert said the city would proceed along those lines, providing an aggreement is reached with the State Highway Department.

Fails to Recall Shooting Mate

Mrs. Cartrette Testifies to Finding Gun in Hand, Denies Prior Knowledge

Mrs. Lucy Mae Cartrette, 33, denied any knowledge of the shooting of her husband last Aug. 29 when she took the stand in her own defense today before Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland.

She is charged with second-degree murder for the triangle-shooting of her husband, Scarborough, 32.

Mrs. Cartrette told how she went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Wright at 105 Judson St. to ask Wright to intercede with her husband about his running around with another woman.

"I didn't know (Scotty (her husband) was there until I saw his car in the drive," she said on the stand, "and I went in and asked him to come home with me."

She said she returned a second time to get her husband's pay check to pay for some groceries and that she doesn't remember a thing from that moment on.

Previous testimony showed that Mrs. Cartrette left the Wright home after her second visit and returned again about 45 minutes later.

"The next thing I remember," she said, "is someone grabbing me by the shoulders and asking me for the gun." "Somebody said, 'You'd better go home, you've shot Scotty.' "I looked in my hand and saw I had a gun."

Mrs. Cartrette was arrested a short time later in her home at 259 S. Jessie St. and collapsed when told her husband was dead, according to earlier testimony.

Testimony brought out in the trial, which started last Thursday, showed that Scarborough had been dating another woman and that Mrs. Cartrette knew about the affair.

The nine woman, five man jury adjourned to the shooting scene today at the request of First Assistant Prosecutor James G. Hartrick and defense attorneys L. Harvey Lodge and Edward J. Fallon.

2 Company Officials Die on Same Day

Two officials of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., A. J. McAndless, president, and J. J. Klingerberger, assistant secretary, died yesterday in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Mr. McAndless has been with the company since it was organized in 1905 and succeeded the first president Arthur F. Hall in 1942. Mr. Klingerberger has been with the company for a number of years. He had a stroke in November, 1953, and had been in ill health since that time.

Both funerals will be Thursday.

Station Robbery Fails to Materialize After Tip

An anonymous tipster last night alerted Oakland County police departments to a possible holdup attempt planned against a Bloomfield Hills gas station, but the tip failed to materialize.

Leon Vandevelde, owner of the Will-O-Way Service Station at 4009 Telegraph Rd., received a telephone call about 9 p. m. threatening a holdup. Vandevelde called Bloomfield Hills Police who alerted all departments in Oakland County.

'H. M. S. Pinafore' to Be Cooperative Production

BLOOMFIELD HILLS — Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "H.M.S. Pinafore" has been selected by Bloomfield Hills and Cranbrook Schools to be given in a joint production late in February.

Net profits of one of the three performances will be donated, as customary, to Children's Hospital in Detroit.

SNOW AVALANCHE DID THIS—Making this cow comfortable is a difficult task for the citizens of Blons, in Austria's Walserthal "Death Valley," so named because of its recent disastrous avalanches. The cow was buried in a snow avalanche, and hay is packed around the animal to keep her warm until help arrives to pull bossy out.

County Clerks Association Approves Voting Changes

Michigan Senate Bill 1009, which would rewrite and clarify the state's election laws, won approval of the Michigan Association of County Clerk's committees this weekend.

The committees, including an election study committee headed by Lynn D. Allen, Oakland County clerk, met in Lansing Saturday through Monday for their mid-winter conference.

Allen says a special committee of clerks and state senators, headed by Sen. Clyde Geerlings of Ottawa County, has spent two years working on Bill 1009.

The association's committees, including 46 county clerks, also approved several election law amendments, all suggested by Allen's election study committee.

The amendments, which Allen said would be suggested to Michigan's Legislature after Bill 1009 is acted on, would suggest the following changes:

1. Let voters who move from one township or city to another within the same county return to their original city or township to vote for the first 30 days. (Those who move across township or city boundaries now lose their right to vote for 30 days).

2. Make all petitions nominating candidates for any election conform to general state election laws.

3. Make sure that all precincts using voting machines provide at least one machine for each 800 registered voters;

4. Limit precincts to 1,400 registered voters, making them divide into new precincts when registration passes that mark;

5. Require that voters registration lists be "purged" at least once each two years.

Allen explained that now some communities only have to check registration lists and take out the names of dead residents or those who have moved away once each four years. This, he said, makes it possible for someone to vote twice or more, using a dead person's registration.

Another amendment, suggested by the legislative committee, of which Allen is a member, suggested county clerks charge $1 for every corporation report filed. Allen pointed out that clerks' offices now file businesses' reports to the Michigan Corporations and Securities Commission free of charge.

Lindbergh's Story Sells for Million

NEW YORK (AP)—Motion picture rights to Charles A. Lindbergh's autobiography, "The Spirit of St. Louis," have been sold for what may be the largest price ever paid for a literary property, his agent says.

The famed aviator's literary agent, George T. Bye, disclosed the sale yesterday, saying an undisclosed cash down payment and a percentage of the film earnings may total more than a million dollars.

Under the agreement, motion picture rights would go to Broadway producer Leland Hayward and Hollywood director Billy Wilder, who plan to film the book as an independent production.

Dulles Fires Back at Molotov Charges

He supported speeches made yesterday by Bidault and Eden to give priorty to European problems and to unify Germany by steps beginning with free elections throughout the country.

But then, he said Molotov had proposed an agenda and that while "it is not the agenda that we would propose ... we will take (it) for the sake of getting on with our work."

* * *

Molotov's agenda, Dulles recalled, proposed:

1. The convening of a five-power conference including Red China—which Dulles said the United States "is willing to deal with, and dispose of."

2. Consideration of the German question and of European security. Dulles said Germany "primarily concerns us here and the sooner we can get to it the better."

3. Discussion of an Austrian independence treaty. This has been almost completely drafted and Dulles said it should be quickly finished but if Russia prefers "to leave to the last what is the easies thing to do, then we will accommodate ourselves to their wishes."

* * *

"The important thing," Dulles declared, "is that we quickly show a capacity to discharge our responsibilities toward others and not to waste our time in recriminations as amongst ourselves."

While Dulles' speech was made behind closed doors of the conference, it was released for publication by the American press office here. Eden's, Bidault's and Molotov's speeches were released yesterday. The conference thus to date has been a public affair.

In discussing the American attiude toward China, Dulles said:

"Although six months have gone by since it agreed to hold a political conference with relation to Korea, Communist China has constantly found excuses and placed obstructions in the way.

"This convicted aggressor is the nation which the Soviet Union chooses to be its companion in its quest for peace and which it demands should be accepted by the United States and others."

Bricker Agreeable to Fair Compromise

splitting the Republicans. However, Knowland said compromise attempts would continue.

Disputing the President's stand, Bricker said his amendment would not in any way affect negotiations with friendly nations for mutual defense or impede Eisenhower's plan to pool atomic energy resources for peacetime uses.

"I have asked for a bill of particulars on this point and I never have received it," Bricker said in an interview.

"My amendment would not in any way, shape or form affect negotiations in international affairs and in no way would it restrict or interfere with the President in the proper conduct of his duties."

Bricker said his aim is to write into the constitution wording "that will keep the President personally or two thirds of the senators from making laws for the states." He said this would be accomplished by a clause in his amendment which says "a treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of treaty."

* * *

It is this language—the "which clause"—at which the administration balks. Officials have said it would prevent the President from executing a valid treaty dealing with any matters such as narcotics or divorces which are reserved to the states by the Constitution. They have also criticized a section to give Congress power to "regulate" executive agreements.

Bricker continued:

"I don't want to interfere with the President's international powers in political affairs—in fact I have fought for them. But I don't want treaties or executive agreements to destroy state governments.

"I'm willing to accept any language that will accomplish what I am driving at. I don't want the Republican party torn apart. I'll go as far as any reasonable man can go."

Students Boycott Tutors

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—A group of 49 high school students here are boycotting classes because of the alleged Communist tendencies of some of their teachers, Kyodo news service said today.

21 Pro-Commie GIs Spout Red Propaganda for Press

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Twenty-one self-assured Americans pleaded publicly today for the Communists to take them back as "free men" from their only homeland now—the barren Korean neutral zone.

The Reds have refused to accept them as war prisoners and the 21 have rejected the United States—at least for the present.

A spokesman told a press conference they expect to return to America "at some time in the future when we can fight for world peace without being persecuted."

* * *

"We are not Communists," declared Sgt. Richard Corden of East Providence, R. I., "though some of us hope to be." He read from a prepared statement which he said was approved by every man in the group.

The Americans in later individual interviews spouted Red propaganda catch-phrases and praise for the Communist command. They looked newsmen squarely in the eye as they answered questions.

Why choose communism?

Cpl. Morris R. Wills, Fort Ann, N. Y.: "People who voice an opinion for peace in the United States are persecuted and their voices suppressed. There is not a democratic government in the United States as long as McCarthyism and McCarranism are allowed to exist —the people cannot be allowed to fight for peace.

* * *

"There is no freedom of speech . . . People in office in the United States were put there by those who hold monopolies and control money."

The 21 Americans looked healthy, rosy-cheeked and warm in their huge blue padded Chinese overcoats.

They were cheerful, had good flesh on their faces and looked well fed.

All the prisoners were clean-shaven.

They posed readily for photographers.

There was no indication they were ill at ease among fellow Americans, although some joked and laughed about "mike fright" when they faced radio and television microphones.

* * *

The Americans, 1 Briton and 325 Koreans marched jauntily from their isolated compound in the quiet buffer zone between the huge Red and Allied armies in Korea.

Communist newsmen also attended the conference in the Panmunjom hut where the armistice agreement was signed last summer.

The extraordinary news conference appeared designed to get the Communists off the hook and let them accept the pro-Red POWs as free men rather than war prisoners.

* * *

In his statement, Corden said the prisoners understood why the Communist command refused to accept them as war prisoners.

"Therefore we ask the Korean and Chinese side to accept our return . . . to consider us as free men."

Saginaw News Now Accepts Ads for Liquor

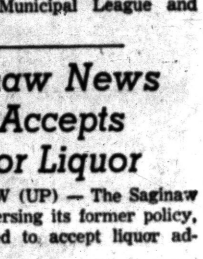

SAGINAW (UP) — The Saginaw News, reversing its former policy, has decided to accept liquor advertising.

In an editorial Monday, the Booth newspaper said it "has not and will never encourage young people and other non-drinkers to indulge in the use of distilled liquor."

"However," the editorial said, "The News is convinced that distillers are entitled to advertise their products and to encourage customers to purchase liquor by the bottle rather than over a bar."

"The News believes fundamentally that every adult has the inherent right to determine his own conduct so long as he does not trespass on the rights of others. A blackout on any field of advertising interferes with a free and fully informed exercise of that right."

Second Trip Set for Friday

Blood Donors Contribute 100 Pints to Bloodmobile

Pontiac area residents donated 100 pints of blood Monday as the American Red Cross bloodmobile stopped at Pontiac Elks Temple for the first of this week's two visits here.

Mrs. N. E. Durocher, Pontiac blood donor recruitment chairman for Oakland County Chapter, American Red Cross, says the bloodmoble will come to Pontiac again Friday.

Hours at Friday's visit to the All Saints Episcopal Church, Pike and Williams streets, will be 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

"We still need about 100 donors for Friday," Mrs. Durocher said. "Our chapter offices are taking telephone appointments every day."

She pointed out that it takes a steady flow of blood to keep the Red Cros' whole blood program going. While blood is good for only 21 days. Then it must be made into plasma, gamma globulin or other derivatives.

Dr. E. W. Bauer of Hazel Park county Red Cross blood program chairman, said recently that Oakland County had to fall back on other Red Cross chapters to carry it through December. Only 254 pints of blood were donated here, while 377 were needed by patients in local hospitals.

"January's been a lot better, though," Dr. Bauer said. "We're having 14 bloodmobile visits this month — compared to only two in December."

Hal Boyle Says:

Corpse in King Richard II Role Missed by an Eyelid

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you been invited to be a television actor yet?

No? Well, don't give up hope. In video everybody is getting into the act. If they got around to me, they'll get around to you.

I made my first professional TV debut last Sunday, and if I didn't immediately become a bright living legend in the theater it's not my fault. They switched roles on me. I was nosed out by a bronze bust of Hamlet.

* * *

The play was "King Henry II," written by William Shakespeare, or, as we in that enchanted world behind the footlights prefer to call him, "The Bard." It starred Maurice Evans and Sarah Churchill and was presented over the NBC network on the Hallmark Hall of Fame program at a cost of $175,000—more cash than Shakespeare saw in his whole lifetime.

* * *

When I was first asked to join the cast, I was careful to inquire what part I would play.

"You play the corpse of King Richard in the final death scene," the agent said. "You just lie there in a coffin with a mask over your face, lit by four candles, until they carry you off. It's a tremendous exit."

* * *

It did sound good. And playing a corpse with a mask over your face would bring out the Barrymore in any actor.

* * *

But when I went to the rehearsal I found the plans had been changed.

"When Evans played Hamlet on television last year, the corpse fluttered his eyelids and the camera caught it," a director said.

I promised on my honor not to breathe for five minutes before the last scene until five minutes after it was over, but the director said:

"We can't take a chance. We've given the corpse role to a bronze bust of Maurice playing Hamlet. The bust has been made up with greasepaint and hair to look like King Richard, and we feel pretty sure it won't flutter its eyes."

When I asked where that left me, he said:

* * *

"Most actors start their careers as offstage noises. "We'll start you as an onstage silence. You can be a lord at the court. You don't say anything. You just stand there and look as sober as an old English lord."

* * *

I shared my debut with three other newcomers to the theater, two Borzoi hounds named Nicholas and Lisa (a brother and sister act) and a horse called Southern Comfort.

Lisa was so nervous she had a stomach upset just before her entrance. But then she straightened up like the game little trouper she is.

"Good luck, kids," I whispered. They trotted out and came back a few minutes later, wagging their tails like veteran actors.

Southern Comfort also did about as fine a job of acting as any horse I can remember off hand, but when his groom led him back he said:

* * *

"Look at that horse's knees. He's still shaking like a leaf." Southern Comfort reached over and tried to bite him.

* * *

I was on during the first and last scene. I stood so still that after the first scene ended one of the prop men started to pick me up, then dropped me, exclaiming, "are you alive?" Quite a tribute to my acting, I thought.

Just before the final death scene I whispered to an actor. "Will it be all right if I wave goodby at the King's corpse when they carry me out? It'll make the scene look less somber."

"If you even so much as twitch your nose," he hissed back, "the director will cut your heart out and put you in that coffin for good."

So I stood as still as a waiter while they carried the made-up bronze bust offstage. I must say that bust played the role of a corpse to the hilt. It couldn't have been much more dead-like.

Later Evans threw a champagne party for the cast. As Southern Comfort didn't care for champagne, and Nicholas and Lisa were too young for it, I sipped their share and went home feeling better—feeling, in fact, more like an English lord than ever.

Next week, "East Lynne."

While a total of 400 first moves are possible in chess, only 22 are recognized as practical by experienced players.

California Sculptor

Finishes Nature's Statues

BURLINGAME, Calif. (INS)—E. Radnell Free is a beachcomber's Michaelangelo who finds wind and weather much more effective sculpturing tools than a mallet and chisel.

Free, a resident of Burlingame, carves statues from driftwood, but his carving is often limited to emphasizing and outlining the figures that nature has already shaped in the wood by the action of the wind and the sea.

He discovered the hobby by chance, and his main interest now is in interesting other would-be hobbyists in driftwood sculpturing as a pastime that is satisfying, relaxing and stimulating.

Free was strolling down the beach when he encountered an interesting bit of driftwood and took it home where it gathered dust until he happened to pick it up and study it. He imagined he saw a figure in the wood, took out his pocket knife and began to whittle. Within a short while, he had carved out the figure of a mother and child.

Since the first attempt, he has carved dozens of driftwood sculptures, using all kinds of wood. He utilizes the natural contours of the wood to form the figure. But he uses his knife to emphasize the shape of the figure and to give an assist to nature.

He also uses wood, dried weeds and flowers with his driftwood to make sculptural arrangements. Free admits he literally "stumbled" into the hobby, and points out:

"All you need is a little imagination, a few simple tools and small pieces of driftwood."

He has used his pieces of driftwood sculpture in flower arrangements, as wall brackets and decorations, and as shelf and table ornaments.

He uses adjustable blades, like a surgical knife, which are very sharp, in most of his work, but sometimes a knife is not necessary and the wood can be filed to shape or sanded.

He quite often uses contrasting pieces of wood as bases—oval, oblong or rounded pieces of wood that have been worn smooth by years of buffeting.

McCarthy Acts to End Boycott

Democrats Hint Return to Red Investigations After Long Layoff

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats claimed "complete vindication" today in their six months' boycott of Sen. McCarthy's Senate investigations subcommittee.

The Wisconsin Republican announced yesterday he was making major "concession" to the Democrats to woo them back to what has been since last July an all-Republican subcommittee.

The major point of dispute was McCarthy's claim to sole authority to hire and fire staff members, a claim which the Democrats said in effect made the subcommittee a one-man operation.

McCarthy said as recently as Jan. 8 that he was willing to "lean over backward" to get the Democrats to return, but that on the issue of hiring and firing the staff "I will be completely adamant—I will not give an inch."

* * *

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), who had led the Democrats' resignation from the subcommittee, said the negotiated peace amounted to "complete vindication of the position we took."

McClellan told newsmen in McCarthy's presence he sees no reason why Democrats now should not agree to serve on the subcommittee, adding: "This removes the barrier."

"I agree," said Senators Symington (D-Mo) and Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash), the others who had quit.

The three Democrats said they would announce later today whether any or all of them would agree to return to the subcommittee, or ask that some Democratic successor be named. McClellan had said previously other assignments would prevent his return.

* * *

McCarthy told reporters he had made concessions because he disliked "the dangerous precedent" of having a one-party subcommittee with such wide investigating powers.

The investigations subcommittee was created with virtually unlimited authority to investigate alleged wrongdoing in the government.

It had become apparent in recent weeks that McCarthy was under pressure from the Senate Republican leadership to bring the long dispute to an end. Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP leader, said recently McCarthy ought to make it possible for the Democrats to serve.

* * *

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), a subcommittee member, said one reason the GOP wants some Democrats on the subcommittee is that it plans to explore alleged wrongdoing in the Truman administration. To do so with an all-Republican group, Mundt said, "gives the country an erroneous impression . . . It looks like a Republican attack."

Ohio Man Got More Than He Bargained For

CLEVELAND (AP)—A restaurant owner seeking a divorce testified that within three months after his marriage to a widow she had moved five of her children and three other relatives into their home.

Josef A. Kindler, 59, said yesterday his troubles began in 1952 on the day he was introduced to Mrs. Mary A. Green, 50. She started living at his house immediately, he said, and 10 days later they were married.

Common Pleas Judge Frank J. Merrick adjourned the trial until Feb. 8. Mrs. Kindler is contesting the action.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahomans were deciding today in a special statewide election whether to approve a 150-million-dollar toll road program that would connect with Kansas, Texas and Missouri.

New Regime Aids Improved Relations

TOKYO (AP)—Author James Michener said today American relations in Asia have improved since the Republican administration took office a year ago.

The author of "South Pacific" and "Voice of Asia" said he felt relations had improved because of the visits of such statesmen as Vice President Nixon and Secretary of State Dulles, as well as leading senators and representatives.

"During the Democratic administration I don't recall one leader of the party who came to Korea and the Far East," Michener told the Japan-America Society and the American Chamber of Commerce in Japan.

Lewis Blasts Ike Nominee

Head of Mine Workers Calls Albert C. Beeson a Union Buster

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Lewis today denounced Albert C. Beeson, President Eisenhower's nominee for the National Labor Relations Board, as a "self-styled union-buster" who "possesses an astonishing bias" against labor.

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, wired all members of the Senate Labor Committee, now considering the nomination:

"It is inconceivable that any senator . . . who takes the time to read the record would in good conscience unleash, with the power of government behind him, such a raging protagonist of the exploiters of labor in the nation."

Meanwhile, the committee scheduled a fourth meeting on the nomination of Beeson, a San Jose, Calif., businessman who would bring the five-man board to full strength.

* * *

If approved by the committee and then by the Senate, Beeson would be the third Eisenhower appointee to take a seat on the NLRB—thus giving the administration a clear majority. Beeson has told the committee he would approach his duties without bias.

During close questioning by committee Democrats last Wednesday, Beeson said he thought the NLRB under former President Truman had administered the Taft-Hartley law to favor labor over management.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) expressed confidence that Beeson will be approved by both the Labor Committee and the Senate, but a committee vote appeared unlikely today.

* * *

Democrats have indicated they fear that Beeson might reflect the management point of view in board decisions.

Lewis said in his wire that Beeson "admits to a prejudical favoritism toward employers and a vengeful attitude toward labor which borders on hysterical malignancy. I protest the confirmation of the self-styled union-buster Beeson."

Most recently, Beeson has been industrial relations vice president for the Food, Machinery and Chemical Corp. of San Jose.

House OKs Air Academy

Unless Senate opinion is directly opposite to that in the House, our Air Force soon will have its own West Point or Annapolis.

When the bill to provide $26,000,000 and authorize establishment of an Air Force academy came up in the lower chamber, there was little debate. Sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of creating a school where the Air Arm could train its officers under conditions comparable to those in the Army and Navy academies.

There also is agreement that the initial appropriation is sufficient only to make a start on the project. Representatives believe that before it could get off the ground the cost would be nearly $200,000,000.

They decided, however, against choosing a site and finally left that decision to Air Secretary Talbott. Before the matter came up in the House there had been some agitation for use of Percy Jones Hospital at Battle Creek as the school site.

But it is probable that the ultimate location will be where the climate is milder and there is assurance of the maximum number of flying days a year.

House approval of this project is in complete harmony with the new concept that our Air Arm henceforth is to be our first line of defense. We believe the Senate not only should, but will follow the House in approving this bill.

Why Not Permanently?

Michigan's Conservation Commission has decided to continue for three months its policy of making public a master list of game law violators.

This decision was reached on the advice of newsmen present at the meeting after the assistant field administration chief had urged the policy's abandonment. His argument was that the names could be obtained from the courts where trials are held and that the saving would make possible the employment of another game warden.

Newsmen pointed out, however, that convictions often occur in out of the way places. This makes records of them hard to obtain with the result that many violations would escape publicity.

It can be argued further that maintenance of the master list, started last October, is a greater deterrent to violations than an additional game warden.

★ ★ ★

While we applaud the commission for extending the list for another three months, we can't understand why it doesn't make this policy permanent.

Historical Society Map

At hand is the first copy we have seen of the beautifully lithographed four color pictorial map of the State prepared for the Historical Society of Michigan.

Planned by a special committee chosen for the purpose, the map is a fine example of the cartographer's art. It also serves as an at-a-glance history of the Commonwealth famed for having put the world on wheels.

Naturally only the highlights of history could be noted in the small space available, but the story they tell is remarkably complete. Pontiac is pictured as having been named after the great Chief of the Ottawa tribe, Jackson as the birthplace of the GOP and Mt. Clemens as Michigan's spa. Similar information is given about many other historic sites.

★ ★ ★

The decision to produce the map was based on the society's desire to raise funds for further historical research. Work on the project was started when Mrs. Donald E. Adams of West Walton Boulevard, was State president.

Placing Country Doctors

There is new hope for rural communities in Michigan which have been unable to induce well trained young medical graduates to start practice within their borders.

It comes from a report made to the Michigan Rural Health Conference at Saginaw. Speaking for the State medical society's committee on rural medical service was its chairman, Dr. Brooker L. Masters of Fremont.

In its first year this committee, working with co-operating groups, has been able to place nearly 50 young doctors in rural communities.

For the benefit of communities anxious to get a resident physician, Dr. Masters listed inducements he said would enable any rural area to solve its doctor problem.

A town must be the center of a fairly large trading area having few or no other doctors. It should provide its doctor with a house as good as his neighbors enjoy and it should be able to offer him financial aid in the establishment of a well equipped hospital or clinic.

Finally, Dr. Masters pointed to the changed situation on the medical front which promises rural areas that before long the doctor shortage will diminish. This is the fact that the ranks of specialists are filled to overflowing while those of general practitioners will be wide open for years to come.

A few employees of our government, who claim to be and pass as citizens, at every opportunity furnish confidential information to the Russian government.

These people are traitors and guilty of treason. Under our laws they should be executed. When our government takes steps to remove these traitors from their governmental positions so called intellectual liberals set up a howl, claiming that these people are being persecuted.

Recently one of the Communist leaders, Beria, was shot. Since 1936 9 of 11 cabinet ministers holding office at that time were shot; 5 out of 7 presidents of the last Central Executive Committee met the same fate; 43 out of 53 secretaries of the Communist party Central Organization were liquidated by shooting. These are but a few examples.

We have some little, incompetent men in our government, but we have many capable, God-fearing men who, at a great financial loss to themselves, have made the great sacrifice and subjected themselves to cruel and unfair criticism to help save and make our country the great one it is.

Ike's Tax Program Actually an Old One, the Same System That Built America

WASHINGTON — Little by little it will dawn on the American people that what has just been proposed by the President in various messages to Congress may, if adopted, usher in the greatest era of business expanion and employment the United States has ever known.

Nothing so dynamic from an economic viewpoint has ever been brought forth as the new program.

This calls for a revision of tax laws and the proper use of governmental funds to encourage private lending.

It could lead to the rebuilding of America—a replacement of obsolete equipment, a renovation of buildings and homes on a scale not possible before.

Whether the present readjustment in business, made necessary by the curtailment of defense spending, last a few weeks or a few months more, the important news now is what's coming after it.

Congress has before it proposals which can lift the nation to higher national income than it has ever had.

The radical Democrats are already indicating that they would like to sabotage the program—they perhaps fear it may rebound to the political advantage of the administration.

But no better issue for debate could be developed for the people to test than the question of whether the creation of new jobs in America comes from merely reducing taxes to more and more individuals and ignoring the problems of business or from giving business the incentive to expand and thus create new jobs and at the same time granting moderate reductions in taxes to individuals.

* * *

In a sense, the conflict of philosophy is the same as that experienced in the 1930s when the radical Democrats favored government spending for "leaf-raking" projects, whereas the opposing school of thought kept urging an impetus to the heavy-goods industries where unemployment was largest.

* * *

Today the radical Democrats are urging, for example, that the things proposed by the President for the stimulus of business expansion shall be ignored and that the tax exemption of lower-income groups be raised from $600 to $700.

As Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey said the other day this would mean exemption from all tax payments of many millions of persons, and there certainly is an equitable principle in a democracy that every citizen should pay some taxes, however small.

The raising of the exemption by $100 may cost the treasury about two billions or more a year in revenue, and the radical Democrats are acting already as if they think it is better politics for them to sponsor that idea.

But what they don't realize perhaps is that, if they insist on such a proposal, it could wreck the whole program of job creation which incentives to business would foster.

The Republican program includes many a vital stimulus to business. The far-reaching benefits of it can hardly be exaggerated. Thus, the proposal to remove some of the taxes on dividends is from a demagogic point of view merely "helping the rich."

But, actually, it is a means of saving the whole system of private capitalism from the disintegrating process which has been eating away at it since the 30s.

It is not the benefits of an estimated $300,000,000 in tax reduction to dividend recipients that's important now, but the incentive hereafter to investors generally to buy equity shares in American enterprises for years to come.

A continuously sound and attractive capital market in America—the leading nation with a private capital system—has, paradoxically enough, been absent for 20 years. High taxes have prevented private capital from flowing into enterprises that needed it.

There are plans also for modifying the so-called capital-gains tax so that property will be bought and sold in an active and natural market, as it used to be before the days of high taxes.

Perhaps the most striking proposal of all, however, is the one that would allow deductions each year to owners of buildings and equipment.

The new plan would permit tax deductions for depreciation up to two-thirds of the value of a property in the first half of the life of the building or equipment. This provides a needed flexibility.

It could mean an unparalleled stimulus to office-building construction and to the manufacture of mechanical equipment of all kinds.

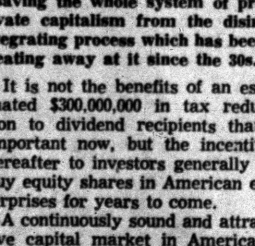

Many a company could cut costs and perhaps prices if it had up-to-date equipment. When a company can finance this purchase out of its earnings, the buying of new equipment is immediately encouraged.

All these items are not just part of a plan to avoid depression. They go much further.

They are designed to give America an era of unparalleled prosperity when military spending in the future necessarily tapers off and the citizens are permitted—as they always used to be permitted—to spend their money for enterprises that create more jobs.

Case Records of a Psychologist

Various Organs of Body Develop Certain Habits

Nathan has a special type of insomnia which bothers thousands of intelligent people. It isn't due to a guilty conscience, either, but indicates a high I.Q. The best solution to Nathan's problem is "prevention." The advice below is good for teen-agers as well as business tycoons.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case K-308: Nathan G., aged 39, is a department store executive.

"Dr. Crane, I am troubled by insomnia," he began. "But it doesn't bother me till the middle of the night.

"I can fall asleep O. K. when I first retire at 11 p.m., but then I waken about 3 or 4 a.m. to go to the bathroom.

"And when I return to my bed, I toss and fret and stew about the problems at the store till I simply can't fall back to sleep.

"It is getting me down. I hate to surrender to the mad sleeping pill craze that is sweeping America, so what do you suggest?"

The simplest solution to this difficulty, and it troubles thousands of brilliant men and women, is to eliminate the need to go to the bathroom at 3 a.m.

For that's what wakens Nathan. And his alert brain then begins to percolate so he cannot relax again.

If you wish to avoid the full urinary bladder which breaks your 8-hour sleep in the middle, then reduce your fluid input after 5 p.m.

This means you should avoid water, milk and other beverages, such as tea or coffee, at your evening meal. And don't drink before bedtime.

Next morning you can fill up on fluids and have your usual beverages at breakfast and lunch. Your body will thus obtain plenty of fluids.

But you will not be overloaded with liquids during those six hours just before bedtime.

Caffeine drinks also stimulate more urine secretion, so the omission of tea or coffee or cola drinks after 5 p.m. will be of double help.

Various organs of the body develop habits. Thus, fat people have stretched their stomachs by overeating until the stomach then will not register "full" until it reaches its accustomed distension.

The urinary bladder does likewise. But you can train yourself to go to the bathroom too often during the day until the bladder learns the habit of protesting by pain sensations when it has only 4 to 6 ounces of contents.

Many young men and women are embarrassed on dates because they must excuse themselves several times to visit the rest room.

Their bladders are now accustomed to the 4 to 6-ounce volume. To change this condition they must grit their teeth during the daytime until they compel their bladders to hold 8 to 10 ounces comfortably.

Actually, the human bladder can stretch until it holds 3 or 4 quarts, so don't think you are hurting your body when you re-educate the bladder to hold 8 to 10 ounces.

On dates, too, young folks are keyed up nervously, which means their hearts pound faster. This drives more blood through the kidneys. The latter then filter out more urine.

And such young folks also drink more heavily at dinner or at the ice cream parlors just as a nervous outlet, thus overloading their system with additional fluids.

As men like Nathan grow older and become preoccupied with business or professional problems, their minds tend to focus thereon when they awaken at night.

So the best antidote for Nathan's type of insomnia is to eliminate the prodding that makes him wake up.

In addition to the advice just given moreover, a little baking soda at bedtime will often neutralize the acidity of the urine and thus stop its burning.

So he will thus not feel the usual prod to awaken at 3 or 4 a.m. But if you are awake, don't grow emotional, for your heart gains almost as much rest, anyway, as long as you lie abed.

Baering Down

Always have had a warm spot in my hot water bottle for the letter carriers. Only thing more underpaid is a truffle hound with a choke collar.

Many, many years ago the mailmen sent me on my way with the famous West Virginia gageroo." Lafe Perry shot a letter carrier in mistake for a Confederate soldier."

That started more controversy than an anonymous check in the collection plate. Was it mine or whose?

There was one pernicious character who did a column on a rival paper he was sure it wasn't mine. Soon as I sensed it was annoying him I clammed up. That was 35 years ago and to this day his discontent simmers on the back-burners.

If he had been as smart as he was envious he might have known the letter carriers were switched from gray to blue in 1885 for just that reason. I wasn't born until 1886 so it couldn't have been mine.

Constant Moisture Supply to Heated Air Best Preventive and Aid to Winter Health

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Any one with winter cough or chronic bronchial trouble should make it a rule of health to wear only enough clothing for comfort under any and all circumstances and never wear a stitch more than is necessary for physical (not mental) comfort under any circumstances.

No, I decline to argue with you about this. I'm the doctor, and I'm telling you. Just take it or leave it.

Either you cherish the old almanac delusions about "exposure" to cold and dampness or by some chance a ray of light has penetrated the dark recesses of your cerebral convolutions and enabled you to see the humor in the antics of the fuddy-duddies dodging drafts and worrying about dampness or change of weather and all that twaddle.

There is one more remedy, preventive as well as palliative, I prescribe for every house, apartment, office, store, church, schoolroom, hotel, restaurant, shop or other room or building where one or more persons live, congregate, play, work, eat or sleep.

It is humidification — the constant supply of moisture to the artificially heated air.

This is desirable for everybody wherever any kind of artificial heating is used — makes little difference whether the place be heated by coal, wood, oil or gas stove, burner or furnace, or whether the method is hot air, hot water, steam or radiant heating, although radiant heating is always the method of choice so far as health and hygiene are concerned.

By actual measurements made in Topeka, Kansas, in the winter time, the average temperature of the air in a steam heated office was 72 degrees and the relative humidity 23 per cent.

The outdoor humidity at the same time was 82 per cent. That gives a fair idea of what happens when winter air is artificially heated.

Do you wonder why your heated winter air dries out your skin, hair and mucous membranes, makes your throat, nose and bronchial tubes irritable, causes the woodwork and furniture to shrink and fall apart, the bindings of books to crack, and makes you so sensitive to chilliness with every trifling variation of temperature or movement of air?

The preventive, palliative or corrective remedy I prescribe to combat the vitiating effect of the winter in the artificial Sahara is moisture.

No matter which method of heating you employ it is necessary to humidify the air constantly and in direct proportion with the temperature to which you heat it.

There are numerous automatic, built-in humidifying systems whose relative merits I shall not attempt to assay.

The apparatus or gadget which maintains the relative humidity in the room at nearly 40 per cent would be the most efficient, in my judgment.

Relative humidity means the proportion between the amount of moisture the air might hold if it were completely saturated. It is most accurately measured by the sling psychrometer.

In order to maintain 40 per cent relative humidity in an eight-room house heated to 70 degrees and fairly well ventilated it is necessary to evaporate about 15 gallons of water a day.

If the air is kept reasonably well humidified every one, young and old, will find the environment more comfortable, less chilly, less drafty with an air temperature of 68 to 70 than it is with a higher temperature but dried out atmosphere.

Red Three Rule Most Stringent

Readers Ask Questions on Freezing Pack and Holding Penalty

By OSWALD JACOBY

For the last few weeks I have discussed red threes used in the game of canasta in this column. Now I can answer some of the questions on this subject that seem to come most frequently from my readers.

Q—Are you ever allowed to discard a red three under any circumstances?

A—Never, for any reason whatever. I am frequently asked whether a discarded red three freezes the pack. There is no answer to this question, because there is no such thing as discarding a red three. It's just like asking whether pigs could fly if they had wings!

Q—In a game of samba my side had all six red threes but we didn't meld enough to get credit for them. Our opponents said we should be minus 1,000 points, but we said that we didn't have 1,000 points to subtract from our score since this was the first hand of the game. Should we start the second hand with our side still at zero score, or do we have to start with a score that is even less than zero?

A—You have to start with a score that is less than zero. The subtraction is made from your previous score no matter what that score happens to be.

If your previous score was bigger than the amount to be subtracted, you go forward with the balance; if your previous score is smaller than the amount to be subtracted, you go forward with a minus score.

Q—I had a red three in my hand when the opponents melded out. They wanted to penalize me 500 points. I objected that I hadn't seen it in my hand, and that they therefore should take my word for it and forget about the penalty. What should be done in this situation when the game is a friendly one?

A—The full penalty of 500 points should be paid. In this sort of situation, the offender has never really seen the red three in his hand. If he saw it, he would put it down on the table.

The penalty is not intended to apply to a player who sees a red three and deliberately holds it in his hand. A player who deliberately does that is behaving in an unethical manner, and the penalty for unethical conduct is some form of social criticism rather than any deduction from the score. The penalty of 500 points applies only to a player who does the wrong thing by accident, as in the case described.

Unnecessary Leap Kills Girl, Injures 4

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 7-year-old neighbor girl was killed and a mother and three of her children were injured when they leaped from the third floor window of a house during a fire yesterday.

A fourth child of Mrs. Morris May leaped from the building but escaped injury, while a fifth was carried unharmed from the house by a fireman.

The dead girl was Shirley Walker, who was playing in the third floor apartment with the May children. The group apparently panicked when smoke from a fire on the first floor filled the building.

The blaze was confined to the first floor and Battalion Fire Chief Irwin H. Walters said, "There was no reason for them to jump."

His Future Looks Bright, It Couldn't Get Dimmer

BALTIMORE (AP)—When Edward Daniel, 68, started for work yesterday he found his car had been stolen.

Less than three hours later he was summoned from work with a report his house was on fire.

"What more can happen to me today?" he asked.

Molotov, Man of Mystery! 'Argue and Stall' Teacher

By PHIL NEWSOM

United Press Foreign News Editor

A cold-eyed man with a golden pince-nez and a reputation for endlessly saying "no," sits down with other foreign ministers in Berlin today to discuss the future of Europe, and, in a larger sense, of the whole world.

He is Vyacheslav Molotov, who at the age of 63 is one of the last of Lenin's hard-core revolutionaries.

He has served in the politburo more than 32 years, longer than any other man. He has had more dealings with the West than any other top level Russian.

Yet in this conference, he will be, as he has been in the past, a mystery man.

Especially will he be an unknown quantity because this is the first high level conference between Russia and the West since the death of Stalin.

As President Eisenhower once put it, the West still does not know whether the Kremlin actually is sporting a "new look" or the same old dress with a new hemline.

Lenin called him "the best filing clerk in Russia." Trotsky said he was "mediocrity incarnate."

John Foster Dulles wrote of him: ". . . I have never seen such personal diplomatic skill at so high a degree of perfection as Mr. Molotov's."

Molotov says of himself: ". . . I only flatter myself that I have will power and guts."

In one way or another Molotov has proved all of them right.

Long before it occurred in the United Nations, or at Panmunjom, Molotov established the Communist ability to argue, stall and finally say "no."

It was he who signed the non-aggression pact with Hitler's Germany—a pact which made it possible for Russia to seize half of Poland and all the Baltic states, and finally, to give Russia time to prepare more fully for the inevitabe war with Nazi Germany.

Molotov, almost as much as Stalin, is credited with some of the incredible flip-flops in Russian foreign policy — changes which seemed to change the whole direction of that policy but which in reality changed only its outward appearance but not its goal.

He also has made colossal errors. He predicted the early downfall of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito and he did not believe the United States would intervene in Korea.

But filing clerk or most skilled diplomat he is a persistent foe to be feared and respected. In Russia, he rose from obscure revolutionary to serve for 10 years as premier and twice as foreign minister and to outlive powerful enemies, including Trotsky and the late Secret Police Chief Lavrenti Beria.

Outside Russia, he is the leading exponent of divide and conquer.

Goals Set by Medical Auxiliary

Group to Sponsor Nurse Scholarship and Aid Hospital

Members of the Auxiliary to the Oakland County Medical Society are again offering a nursing scholarship.

After consulting Dr. Robert J. Mason, president of the Oakland County Medical Society, it was decided to include in this project a gift to the new Southern Oakland County Hospital.

To finance these worthwhile projects, the auxiliary is planning a series of dessert bridge parties in members' homes during February and March. These will be sponsored either by individual members or by small groups.

From the proceeds, $250 will be used for an Oakland County girl entering an accredited nursing school of her choice. Funds over this amount will be used for the hospital gift.

International Dinner Held on Monday

U. N. Flags Form Decorative Motif at Hotel Gathering

Standards bearing flags of the United Nations set the scene for the International Dinner of the Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club when the group met Monday evening in Hotel Waldron.

Colored slides of Europe taken by Anny Koellner highlighted the meeting.

Ann Gosner of the international relations committee introduced the speaker. Miss Koellner showed pictures of Berne, and Lake Geneva, Switzerland, mountain climbing near Jungrau and the Matterhorn, and the Italian Alps.

The speaker pointed out that the advertising pillars at the street corners in Berlin prove useful because they keep the tourist informed of coming events.

At the business meeting an invitation to attend the Windsor BPW Club's International Dinner on Wednesday was extended. A letter was read from an exchange student who was a recent guest of the club.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Norman Dyer, Mrs. Marjorie Baker and Miss Koellner.

Movie Stars Are Scolded About Attire

Stylist Don Loper Mourns the Loss of Glamor

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the world's worst-dressed women are to be found among Hollywood stars, says Don Loper, designer of clothes, houses and movie sets and once an internationally known dancer.

"They go around in trousers and sweaters, or off-shoulder gowns," says this outspoken critic. "They haven't heard about the daytime dress."

* * *

There are, of course, exceptions, Loper hastens to add. Among these he lists Irene Dunne, Arlene Dahl, Claudette Colbert, Joan Crawford, Greer Garson, Lana Turner and Eleanor Parker. These stars, he concedes, always look like ladies, on or off the screen. Quite naturally, some are his customers.

In New York for a breather before journeying to London to open a men's and a women's branch of his California fashion salons, Loper was in a mood to get a few things off his chest.

"Here in the East nobody would think of going down town in a swim suit and shirt, but in Hollywood it's common practice. When the stars get out to the Coast they start going native in dress.

* * *

"Take Hedy Lamarr, for instance. After being known as one of the most glamorous women in Vienna, as soon as she arrived in Hollywood she took to peasant blouses and dirndls."

Loper began his designing career creating costumes for his dancing partner, Maxine Barrat, during their appearance in various Broadway hit musicals. From there he went to Hollywood to dance with Ginger Rogers in "Lady in the Dark," after which he was given a five-way contract as dance director, costume designer, coiffure designer, set designer and straight director. Then he opened his own salon.

* * *

Loper decries the current lack of glamour in the off-screen activities of Hollywood stars. He says:

"What made the movie business? Glamour, that's what. The public wants to see its favorite stars looking like stars, on or off the screen. But everybody's so 'gingham' today that there's no glamour left. That's why we have no big new stars today. No glamour."

Loper feels that any woman who devotes a little planning to a wardrobe can be well-dressed, even on a budget. He advises:

"If you have only a limited amount to spend, stick to one color, preferably black. Thus you need only one set of accessories, that go with everything."

GM Executive Says Gals Call the Tune

Women Credited for Smart Car Styles

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If anyone has any lingering doubts about the economic, industrial and general importance of women, he should have a few words with Harley J. Earl, vice president of General Motors.

If it weren't for women, he says, everybody might still be driving plain black cars, with high seats, small windshields and maybe even gears that have to be shifted by hand.

* * *

It's the little woman who has revolutionized automobile design, says Earl, who is in charge of styling. Women influence 75 per cent of all car purchases, and when women go shopping for automobiles they know what they want.

"Right after World War II we started to receive a lot more letters than ever before," says Earl. "Today about 65 per cent of the letters are from women. They're very definite in their suggestions and criticisms.

* * *

"Designers used to try to interpret the feminine taste as they felt it should be. But today a woman can almost write her own ticket.

"Automobile designers are pampering the women, and that's to the advantage of the men too. Men hesitate at evolution in design—in their homes, cars or anything else. If you change anything they're accustomed to, they squawk. But in the end they usually decide that mother knows best."

Today's rainbow-hued cars, with fingertip steering control, comfortable seats, smooth surfaces, foam rubber upholstery, automatic shift, power brakes and air conditioning are largely the result of suggestion and complaints.

* * *

When women wrote in that they snagged their nylons and scraped their shins getting in and out of cars, front seats were redesigned. Studies made with hidden cameras of women stepping in and out of cars, showed seats were so high and threshold plates so wide that the girls were constantly striking the backs of their legs against the seat edge. This was eliminated by dropping the seats 2½ inches and moving the cushions nearer the door. The carpet also was made wider.

New tinted glass windshields follow the feminine fashion for smoked or colored glasses. Luxurious new decorator upholstery fabrics are a result of women's urge to prettify things. And who else but women would bring about a trend in automobiles to what stylists call "the more passionate colors,?"

* * *

Just to be sure they keep up with the feminine taste from now on, General Motors now has a committee of five women whose job it is to criticize styling of new cars.

New Styles in Weddings Sweetly Coy

Nuptial Gown Trend Is From Shiek-Like to Young and Shy

NEW YORK (INS) — Stylists looked up statistics on marriage this year and decided that only the younger set want fancy weddings — so there'll be no slinking down the aisle, please.

The sophisticated wedding gown, which has been available for several orange blossom crops now, is virtually out.

Any girl over 25 who wants to get married the formal way had better just leave her mascara in its case and resign herself to coyness during the proceedings.

It's the "very young" and "so-shy" spirit that is necessary for 1954 weddings, according to New York's top bridal buyers.

Despite the sheath trend in normal dresses, nuptial dresses will always be full-skirted. A few will have open necklines (sweetheart shape or square-cut) but the dainty Peter Pan collar, often studded with prim seed pearls, has never been more fashionably respected.

Even the sleeves on the most stylish wedding gowns of the year will reflect the jeune fille look. Instead of the traditional long-slim, the new wedding gowns will sport long, short and medium puffs.

The most blase bridal buyers are said to be especially dewy-eyed over the short, accordion-pleated sleeve.

The waist-line is, as usual, the focal point. And the waist-line on the smartest bridal gowns stretches from the lady's natural middle to just under the bust-line. Empire style. This is another concession to the young bride.

Even the classic shirtwaist will be popular this year, combining the casualness of youth with the formality of wedding time.

There will be shirtwaist bodices atop full skirts in satin and lace for winter weddings, in tissue taffeta, organza, nylon tulle and other flimsy fabrics for spring.

There will be plenty of short mid-calf-length gowns too, and all will be full, often held up with several crinolines, sometimes even with hoops.

For the more mature bride who knows where she's going (and it's not down somebody's aisle in puffed sleeves and hoops) there's only one solution: ignore so-called high fashion.

B'nai B'rith Lodge Sponsors Lecture

B'nai B'rith Lodge of Pontiac extends an invitation to the community to attend an open meeting to be held at Congregation B'nai Israel on Oneida road where Dr. Milton Rosenberg of the University of Michigan Department of Psychology will speak on "Changing Attitudes."

Meyer Simon is chairman for the program which will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Thurman of North Shirley avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Lois, to Sgt. I.C. Rex Hefner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Hefner of Going street. The bride-elect is a graduate of Grace Hospital School of Nursing. No date has been set for the wedding.

LOIS THURMAN

Ardith A. Payne Becomes Bride of W. Robert Wood

The United Missionary Church was the setting Saturday evening when Ardith Ann Payne, daughter of the Russell Paynes of Winton drive, became the bride of W. Robert Wood, son of the Wesley J. Woods of Michigan avenue.

The double-ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Ira L. Wood of Detroit, the bridegroom's uncle. The Rev. Mr. Wood was assisted by the Rev. George D. Murphy. The altar was decorated with palms and vases of white gladioli, stock and pompons.

The bridal gown was made of traditional satin fashioned with a train. The long sleeves and bodice were of Chantilly lace to match the peplum on the skirt.

The bride's fingertip veil of illusion was edged with the same lace and she carried a chapel bouquet of white carnations in the center of which was a corsage of pink rosebuds which she wore later on the honeymoon trip. Her only jewelry was the bridegroom's gift of pearls.

Ellen Wood, the bridegroom's sister, was bridesmaid. She wore a floor-length gown of aqua nylon shantung fashioned with a halter-type neckline and featuring a short jacket and an overskirt of nylon tulle.

She wore a matching headpiece of velvet and mitts of the same shade. Her Shalimar bouquet was composed of pink carnations and pink roses.

Performing the duties of best man was Eugene R. Payne, the bride's brother. Harold F. Hall and D. Jack Leahy seated the guests.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the YWCA on Franklin boulevard. For the wedding trip the bride changed to a pink wool jersey dress with pearl and rhinestone trim. The couple will reside on Williams street.

Young Actress Scores at New York's 'Circle in the Square' Theater

Demanding Role Brings High Praise

Clarice Blackburn Believes 'Typing' Hurts Career

NEW YORK (NEA)—In a small theater in Greenwich Village, far off the beaten path of Broadway, some young people equipped chiefly with talent, enthusiasm and love for the theater are putting on some fine plays.

And their current play, Victor Wolfson's "American Gothic," stars a young actress named Clarice Blackburn who gives a performance as shining as the great ones sometimes seen on Broadway.

Her role would not be an easy one even for an actress of many years' experience. She plays the part of a girl whose marriage smashes and who, because of this, gradually loses her grip on reality.

It's a role that makes great demands on an actress. But from the moment Clarice Blackburn comes onstage, she ceases to be an actress at all and becomes the girl, Addie.

Actress Clarice Blackburn: "I find that I get a very quick response from the audience when I work in theater-in-the-round."

Backstage at the theater, Miss Blackburn had some interesting things to say that might prove helpful to young women who want to act.

"Well, I think it's limiting yourself to ingenue roles if you trade on good looks," was her opening remark. "I've always wanted to act but never to be an ingenue.

"I'd like to play almost any kind of role but the only thing I want to avoid is being typed. Those actors who are typed move up faster at the outset of their careers but often bog down later."

Acting, this talented young woman thinks, is a way of life rather than a career. Her present role is so demanding that she has no energy for anything else. That includes housekeeping.

And she feels that really to act, you must first understand people.

"I've studied people wherever I happened to live and learned a lot that was helpful. I was born in San Francisco, but grew up in Texas, Wisconsin, Arizona and Louisiana.

"I learned about people and even dialects that way. My mother and stepfather were always buying a farm somewhere and rebuilding it from nothing to a sound property.

"So, when it came time for me to play the role of Addie, I was ready. I knew all about the loneliness of farm life, the bleakness of winter and the business of filling oil lamps and cooking on a wood-burning stove."

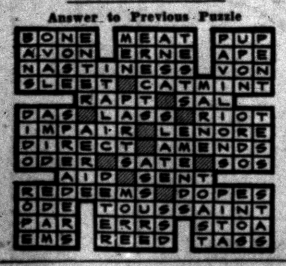

Playing a small theater like this one (it seats about 250 persons) gives an actress a feeling of real response from the audience, Miss Blackburn says.

Because the audience is so near to the set and so close to the actors, reaction is almost always immediate.

"I can never understand an actress who says she has difficulty crying in a certain scene," she explains. "It's simple to do, once you've learned to play on your emotions much the same way that you learn to type or play the piano. It's a matter of pressing the right key at the right time."

Miss Blackburn has learned very well the lesson of playing on her emotions, so well that the New York critics are heaping praise upon her.

Lemon Pie Filling Needs No Cooking

Mrs. Boadway Has Recipe Made With Condensed Milk

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Food Editor

Mrs. Edwin Boadway passes on her suggestion for an extra-special lemon pie. She thinks that adding just a little vanilla to the meringue brings out the flavor of the lemon. This filling needs no cooking.

Along with her job as homemaker and mother of two young children, Mrs. Boadway carries the responsibility of helping her husband with his bookkeeping. She loves to knit and sew; the latter skill she uses for both her family's benefit and to help her friends with their sewing projects.

LEMON PIE
By Mrs. Edwin Boadway

1 pie shell, either pastry or crumb
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 1-3 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
2 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon vanilla
5 tablespoons sugar

Combine lemon juice and grated lemon rind. Gradually stir in sweetened condensed milk. Add egg yolks and stir until well blended. Pour into cooled pie shell.

Beat egg whites until they begin to form peaks. Add sugar, a tablespoon at a time, continuing to beat. This gradual adding of the sugar will prevent the meringue's "weeping." Add vanilla last of all. Bake 15-20 minutes in a slow oven, until meringue is nicely browned.

New Glues for Furniture Hold Chair Leg Securely

Glue a loosened chair leg today and the chances are good that the leg will be more secure than it was in the first place.

War needs for unusual applications brought about great improvements in adhesives of all kinds, and especially good glues are widely available.

For a chair leg, use liquid hide glue, which not only holds the leg that fits but also has good gap-filling qualities to keep in place the leg that's a little too small for the hole in the chair seat.

Remove every trace of the old glue and sandpaper the wood clean. Test the fit of the leg and then apply the glue with a brush to the leg and to the wood surface to which it is to be joined.

But don't insert the leg immediately—results are much better if the glue dries slightly first. Test it to see if it pulls away at a finger touch, as shown in the upper right sketch.

Clamp the leg in place and let the glue dry thoroughly in a warm, not hot, place. Two to three hours are all that is needed for the best glues to set.

Over-Urging by Hostess Condemned

Guests Advised to Refuse Firmly, but Politely

By EMILY POST

"What can one say, without being rude, to someone who keeps coaxing you to have something to eat or drink?" is the question put to me by this reader.

"On quite a few occasions I have been confronted with this problem from hostesses who think they are being hospitable by urging guests to have something and who just won't take 'no, thank you' for an answer.

"It is very embarrassing and I usually end up taking something that I really do not want, just to satisfy the hostess."

Answer: If you answer "Please, No!" in a sincere tone of voice, I think you will find that they will stop urging you.

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me what initials an engaged girl should use when having her linens marked. I always thought that they were marked with either her maiden initials alone, or her maden initials plus the initial of her future name.

I have been told that the latest marking is a combination of both his and her first initial with the initial of her future name in the center. Will you please tell me if this is proper?

Answer: It is very unusual to have linens marked with the man's first initial, but there is no rule against it if it pleases you. The conventional marking is a combination of her maiden initials plus the initial of her future name.

Dear Mrs. Post: If our baby is a boy he will be named for his father. Ordinarily, this means he would be a junior. But in this case my husband was named for an uncle (his father's brother) and so the the baby would be the third living member of the family with the same name. Does this make him II or III, or may we still call him junior?

Answer: Correctly, your baby will be John Henry Smith III. If uncle should die, your husband would be John Henry Smith and his son junior.

Mary Margaret McBride Says:

Politics Would Be Fine If Officials Could Rhyme

The proposal of New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey that a code of ethics be established for public officials reminds me of something that Babette Deutsch, the poet, told me awhile back.

MISS McBRIDE

"In happier days in China," she said, "one of the requirements for a candidate for public office was that he should be able to write poetry."

Miss Deutsch didn't say what kind of poetry the candidate had to write nor whether there was a board to pass on the verse. Anyway, all that can come later. My immediate aim is just to get poetry onto our official agenda.

For even though he be no Keats, any good poet is likely to possess imagination and vision. Certainly every politician should have the same, though he often doesn't. If a poet isn't good with words, that's his finish and it's the same with a politician, unless of course he can play the banjo and sing cowboy songs.

Poets are notoriously willing to starve and even die for their ideals and it certainly would be all to the good if a few holders of office felt the same way.

The more I think about it, the more hopeful I am. Suppose we wrote a poetry clause into our office-holder requirements and achieved a corps of public servants so fine that the very word corruption became obsolete. Or am I dreaming again?

If the poetry idea works, I have one or two other ancient Chinese customs to recommend to the 20th Century. According to Father Lewis J. Gallagher, who spent years translating the journals of Matthew Ricci, Jesuit in 16th Century China, Oriental party-givers made a point back in the 1500s of sending out three invitations to a person.

The first not only invited him but described in detail what he would eat, drink and how he would be entertained. Then, on along came a second invitation. The third reached him by messenger as he was on his way to his host's house, presumably to reassure him that the party was still on.

Handier even than the multiple invitation system is, to my mind, the 15th Century courtesy vestment. This was a special garment which, when worn, indicated a desire to be sociable. When you wanted to be left alone to go about your business, you wore just any old thing and your friends discreetly ignored you as if you were invisible.

Right in line with Gov. Dewey's suggest code were the keepers of the public conscience appointed by the emperor with the right to criticize any official, even their boss. I wonder if they really did!

Anyway, Gov. Dewey, I thought you might like to consider these matters, especially poets and consciences in public offices.

How to Fix 'Checked' Furniture

By HUBBARD COBB

Lots of things can happen to the finish on furniture and one of them is for it to become checked—full of tiny little cracks. This condition is often due to just age or an inferior finish.

Sometimes it's caused by applying the finish coat over an under coat that did not have a chance to become hard. In any event, you'll probably want to do something about it.

If you have plenty of time and enjoy this sort of thing, you can strip off the old varnish with a liquid varnish remover, sand the work down and then apply a fresh finish. If the cracks are very deep, this is probably your best bet.

In many cases, however, the damage is confined to just the top layer of the finish and what you can do is just remove the damaged stuff and the finish is as good as ever.

What you need for this job is some very fine steel wool and some rotten-stone paste. You dip the steel wool into the paste and then rub it over the finish in the direction of the wood grain.

Have a cloth dampened in turpentine handy and wipe the work clean from time to time so you can see how you are doing.

When the finish has been worked down so that it is again smooth, wipe it clean with the cloth and then apply a good coat of wax to protect the surface.

Says Age Is Purely, Simply a State of Mind

RALEIGH, N. C. (INS)—Age is a state of mind.

So says North Carolina State College's family relations specialist, Corinnee Grimsley.

She maintained:

"Just because you're 51 or 52 years old doesn't necessarily mean that you are getting old.

"As a matter of fact, your age really isn't a question of the number of birthdays you've had but rather something determined by your state of mind."

Just what does old mean?

"When being old is defined as being tired, crab and futile," continued the specialist, "none of us wants to grow old."

She asked:

"How many young people have you seen — people who are still in their 20's who are completely bored with themselves and life in general?"

Female Employment Hits All-Time Peak

The incomes of more than 10 million families in America were increased in 1953 through the earnings of wives who had jobs outside their home.

Women's employment during the past two years has been higher, on the average, than in any period in American history, higher even than at the peak of women's employment during World War II. Many of the jobs held by women are part-time or seasonal jobs; this is particularly true of the jobs held by married women.

Tulip bulbs have considerable quantities of starch and, during World War I, the famous tulips of Holland were used for making starch.

Fleeced Parents, Indictment Says

Model Agency Director Promised Good Jobs for Talented Tots

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Thornton, publisher of a models' catalog, has been accused of fleecing proud parents of some $600,000 in fees for publishing their children's photographs.

Queens County Dist. Atty. T. Vincent Quinn said Thornton collected the money over the past three years from parents "under false representation that he would obtain lucrative model and TV employment for their children."

* * *

Parents were said to have paid him to print their children's pictures in the catalog after being told the publication would be circulated to big advertisers.

An indictment by a Queens grand jury charged Thornton with grand and petty larceny and conspiracy. He was arrested yesterday at his Park avenue office in Manhattan, taken to Queens for booking and then released in $2,500 bail.

Quinn said the grand jury action followed "six months of intensive investigation into Thornton's agency after complaints from hundreds of parents in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut."

* * *

Ten others, present or former Thornton employes, also were named in the indictment on the same charges.

Philip Handelman, counsel for Thornton, said, "We are sure that Mr. Thornton will be completely vindicated."

Thornton, 50, once was a bricklayer. Later he became a model, and in 1934 established a model agency.

* * *

In 1950, he let the license of his agency lapse and since then has concentrated on publication of "The Model Casting Directory," a catalog of models featuring children.

Queens authorities said he charged parents from $40 to $65 each to publish their children's pictures. The authorities said few if any ever got modeling jobs.

March 15 Is Nearer Than You Think

Which One of Three Forms Do You Use? If Income Is Over $5,000, the Long One

HERE'S HOW TO TELL WHICH FORM TO USE IF YOUR INCOME WAS LESS THAN $5000

(If you file a joint return, include wife's income and deductions)

1. Do you have deductions for contributions, interest, medical expenses, etc. which total more than 10% of gross income? (Articles 8 and 9 explain all about these deductions.) YES ☐ NO ☐

If your answer is "Yes" stop right here. You should file on Long Form 1040. If answer is "No" go to the next question.

2. Did you have more than $100 income from dividends, interest or wages not shown on a Withholding Statement? YES ☐ NO ☐

If your answer is "Yes" go no further. You should file on Short Form 1040. If answer is "No" go to the next question.

3. Did you have any income besides wages, dividends and interest? YES ☐ NO ☐

If you answer "Yes" go no further. You should file on Short Form 1040. If answer is "No" go to next question.

4. Do you have any deductible travel expenses? YES ☐ NO ☐

(Fourth article explains travel deductions.) If answer is "Yes" you should file on Short Form 1040. If you answer "No" go to next question.

5. Are you the head of a household? YES ☐ NO ☐

(Third article explains who qualifies as head of a household.) If answer is "Yes" you should file on Short Form 1040. If answer is "No" use Form 1040A.

By RICHARD A. MULLENS

Article 2

The first article of the Tax Primer told whether you are one of the millions who has to file a tax return for 1953 by March 15.

This article takes up the next question: which tax form should you use?

Just as for 1952, there are three different types of returns—Form 1040A, Short Form 1040 and Long Form 1040.

A description of the returns and who may use each can be found on page 3 of the official instructions and won't be repeated here. You can easily decide which return to use by following these two rules:

1. If your income is under $5,000, fill out the form printed with this article. It automatically tells you which return to use.

2. If your income is $5,000 or more, you must use Long Form 1040.

The next problem for married persons is whether to file a joint or separate return.

Single persons can only file a separate return, but many of those who are maintaining a home are entitled to the tax break given heads of households.

If you weren't married during all of 1953, read page 4 of the official instructions for the rules as to whether, for tax purposes, you qualify as a married person.

In all but a few cases, it is advantageous for married couples to file a joint return. Here are the important exceptions:

1. If both husband and wife have large incomes and also large capital losses. This is explained more fully in the eighth article.

2. If your wife could be claimed as a dependent by someone who gets a bigger tax cut than you would from her $600 exemption. For example, suppose you were married on Dec. 31, 1953, and your income is $4,000.

An unmarried taxpayer who maintains a home for himself and either an unmarried child, grandchild, step-child or dependent, gets a special break equal to about 50 per cent of the benefit which husband and wife get by filing a joint return and splitting income.

To see if you are entitled to the new tax break, read the section called "Unmarried Persons—Heads of Household" on page 4 of the official instructions.

Note that the "household" must be where you live as well as the principal residence of the children or dependents for whom it is maintained.

You do not qualify as the head of a household merely by supporting or maintaining children or dependents in some home other than your own.

A married person who is separated under a court order can be the head of a household for tax purposes.

If you qualify as the head of a household, use Form 1040. There is no way to take advantage of this tax break on Form 1040A.

'Sick' Red Gets Little Sympathy

Government Contends Mrs. Winter's Ailment Is 'Extreme Dramatics'

DETROIT (AP) — The government charged yesterday that Mrs. Helen A. Winter, one of six Michigan Communists on trial on Smith Act charges, had a case of "extreme dramatics."

Mrs. Winter was brought to court in an ambulance on court order, after an examination by a court-appointed physician showed she was not too ill to attend the trial.

The trial of the six Communists charged with conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government was recessed last week when Mrs. Winter reported she was ill.

It was the third time that illness had held up the trial in the past two weeks. The first sickness victim was Judge Picard. The second was Defense Attorney Ernest Goodman.

Dr. Eugene A. Osius, a cardiovascular specialist who examined Mrs. Winter, said she was suffering from sciatic neuralgia. Defense Attorney Goodman said the red blanket was part of ambulance equipment, but the court order stood and it was removed.

Mrs. Winter was then removed to a chair and promptly propped her ailing leg, covered with a blanket and lying on a pillow, on another chair.

William Hundley, a government attorney, objected:

"This is an effort to play on the jury's sympathies. Mr. Goodman ought to move for an adjournment or Mrs. Winter ought to waive her right to be present."

Judge Picard then told Goodman: "We'll allow no grandstanding heroics in this courtroom. What do you want me to do, Mr. Goodman?"

Goodman conferred with Mrs. Winter and asked for an adjournment until today to give him "a chance to think it over."

A one-inch rainfall on an acre of ground would amount to 3630 cubic feet of water and, since each cubic foot of pure water weighs approximately 62.4 pounds, the amount of this water would be 113 tons.

MOTHERS STAFF COMMUNITY LIBRARY—Four thousand volumes grew from a mere 13 over 10 years ago when the women of Waterford Township decided to found a library. Over the years the "library ladies" have staffed the facility located in the Community Activities Building on Williams Lake Rd. All the books are donated. Shown in the above picture helping two sixth graders select a book is Mrs. O. L. Siegman, 2832 Orangegrove, Waterford Township. The two youngsters are, left to right: Robert Scott and Eileen Green, both enrolled in the CAI sixth grade room.

Library Is Tribute to Volunteer Work

By HAZEL A. TRUMBLE

WATERFORD—Community projects can be operated on a volunteer basis, survive the ravages of the years, fires, changing personnel, and emerge highly successful 10 years later.

A case in point—the Waterford Community Library.

Without tax support, minus either constitution or bylaws, library supporters have given the boys and girls, as well as the adults, library facilities because Waterford Township is rich in book interest.

The organization simply has never gotten around to electing officers.

Mrs. O. L. Siegman, one of the original promoters and guiding light throughout the library's existence, says they always have had a treasurer or a secretary when they needed one.

Calling themselves "library ladies," mothers of the township have taken turns on library duty. They have begged books from their neighbors, held teas, bridge parties and bake sales to see their 13-book beginning library grow to over 4,000 volumes today.

Books are housed in the Community Activities Building on Williams Lake road. This has been the township's unofficial library since its inception. Space for the library was given to the group by the CAI and it is staffed by volunteers.

During the summer months they transport books, in cooperation with the township recreation program, to the playground areas of the district. Story hours are conducted by the library ladies and they have encouraged children's interest in books.

About seven years ago a fire destroyed the former CAI Building. The library went up in flames.

"We had to start from the beginning again. But the people of the township were so enthusiastic we couldn't do anything else but launch a new library," recalls Mrs. Siegman.

The progressive interest of the Waterford Village School Mother's Club has been another incentive for the library to keep on growing, Mrs. Siegman says. George Kimball, once head of the CAI, was another charter promoter of the idea.

No dues are charged at the library where the list includes everything from books for the pre-kindergarten child through the formal high school literature classics.

An auxiliary group of the library is the Great Books organization which meets every second Friday. Another is the Book Review group that for about seven years has reviewed the most contemporary fiction and non-fiction books. These groups are open to all interested women in the township, according to Mrs. Siegman.

Crediting the state library office with giving invaluable aid over the years, Mrs. Siegman says the state has a long-term loan service whereby people can specify wanted books to the local group and receive them direct from Lansing.

On Thursday at 1 p.m. a luncheon meeting to which all interested area people are invited will be held in the CAI Building.

"Mrs. Fannie Noonan, director of state aid to libraries, and Francis Scannell, head of readers' service, will speak and tell of new library laws which will enable tax support for this type of community function," says Mrs. Siegman.

Mrs. Eugene Cleland will take reservations for the luncheon. The speakers will begin at 2 p.m. for anyone interested in coming for that part of the event.

Students Begin All-Day Classes

Completion of School Adds Necessary Room to System

MILFORD — About 400 students in the Huron Valley school system are now attending classes full days because of the completion of Highland Elementary School.

Until this week, the students had been going to school half days. Also, there was no cafeteria service in Milford or Highland because that space was needed for classrooms.

The changeover to full days took place Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It included 12 rooms of children, according to Supt. Harold Hansen. Different grades were split up into six sections to attend classes half days.

Beginning today, full cafeteria service was expected to be provided in both Bertha Baker School and Milford High School, with service starting next week for Highland students.

Delayed by a shortage of steel last summer and some late shipments, the completed school has 15 classrooms, a kindergarten room, band room, a large gymnasium and auditorium, a library and two teachers' rooms.

A health room has also been installed and the rest of the building is devoted to office and storage space.

A new oil furnace has also been installed to replace the old heating plant which was inadequate for the new building, Hansen said.

Bird Chapter, OES, Plans Sewing Bee

CLARKSTON — Beginning at 10 a.m. Thursday, a sewing bee will be held at the home of Mrs. Ray Anthony on Barker street, Williams Lake.

Sponsored by the Joseph C. Bird Chapter 294, OES, the bee is open to all members of the organization. Articles sewed will be sold at the annual bazaar.

Those attending will bring sewing materials and a sandwich. The balance of the luncheon will be furnished.

Lie Test to Guide Judge in Sentencing of O'Neil

LAPEER — Results of a lie detector test in Lansing Friday will weigh heavily in the sentencing of George Albert O'Neil for contempt of court, according to circuit court officials.

O'Neil, 51, was found guilty of the charge yesterday by Circuit Judge Timothy C. Quinn.

The Clifford Township farmer had served as a juror in the trial of Floyd Schreiber, 60, of Almont last September. Schreiber was found guilty of preventing Sheriff Clark W. Gregory from serving an eviction writ on Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens at her farm home.

In December, O'Neil again appeared in circuit court, this time as a witness for four defendants—including Schreiber and Clayton C. Gilliland of Detroit — in a conspiracy trial in connection with the same eviction attempt.

Testimony and photographs showed that he had been at the Stevens' farm when Schreiber and others ejected the sheriff and a deputy.

Yesterday, he was found guilty by Judge Quinn for not revealing that he had personal knowledge of the case when being questioned as a potential juror in the Schreiber case.

After being found guilty, O'Neil told the court he still did not believe he had done anything wrong, that he had not lied to any question presented to him when the jury was being empaneled.

Judge Quinn took up his offer to submit to a lie detector examination and postponed sentencing until Monday, when results of Friday's test will be in.

According to prosecutor George Lutz, if the lie detector substantiates O'Neil's claim of no malice, Judge Quinn is likely to impose a lesser sentence.

At the same time, Judge Quinn warned O'Neil that if he was concealing anything now it would be "much more serious."

Lutz said contempt of court carries a maximum sentence of 30 days and-or $250 fine.

Prayed for Part if Done on TV

Studies History, Asks Who Can Remember Theodore Roosevelt?

By JACK GAVER
UP Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Television's oldest Dagmar will be 12 years of age the next time you see her on your screen this coming Friday night.

That's Dagmar Hanson, of course, not the Dagmar no-last-name, who has the edge in calendar maturity.

This Dagmar of the famous "Mama" program answers to the name of Robin Morgan when her tutor calls his class of one to order five afternoons a week and directs her attention to the traditional three R's instead of TV's three R's — rehearsals, rehearsals, rehearsals.

"I can't think of any better way to spend my birthday than to perform on the program," said Robin, whose real age keeps pace with that of the character she portrays, or vice versa. "It's the first time I've worked on my birthday.

"Right now, the program is in the year 1915. My, that's a long time ago, isn't it? But I really know quite a lot about that time.

"You see, they try to make everything on the program authentic, and I get so interested that I often go out and find books to read about things that have been mentioned on the programs.

"I must say that this helps me with my history lessons. Do you remember Theodore Roosevelt?"

The interviewer, being at the age-conscious stage, sought immunity behind the Fifth Amendment.

"Do you know that I actually prayed for the role of Dagmar?" asked the fair-haired child, who obviously was quite competent to supply her own answer.

"I was just a child at the time I saw the movie, 'I Remember Mama.' Right away I began wishing that they would put that story on television and that I would get the part of the little girl. I really did pray about it. Every night for a long time.

"And do you know they finally did turn it into a television program, and I was one of those called to audition for the part of Dagmar!"

Miss Morgan, of course, got the job, but it was quite a struggle.

"There were about a hundred girls auditioned for the part," she recalled. "There was one elimination after another. I thought it would never end."

The calling of Robin to audition was no accident, nor was her winning. She had entertained soldiers at the age of three during World War II.

She became a model in New York a short time later. At four she was the world's youngest disk jockey, on station WOR in New York. A little later she was a regular for several season's on radio's "Juvenile Jury" show.

All of this experience, followed by the five years of "Mama," hasn't made Robin blase about show business.

"I want nothing more than to grow up with the ability to become an actress," said the girl who already is one. "I mean a real grown-up dramatic actress."

Wood that has been charred on its outer surfaces often lasts much longer than wood that has not been so treated.

THIS GOES ON ALL DAY LONG—Motorists probably love it, but the gasoline price war in Kansas City, Mo., is keeping sign painters busy as they attempt to keep abreast of changing prices. Shortly after the 17.9 cents sign was made, prices dropped to a low of 15.9 cents per gallon.

Parking Lot Suit to Be Continued

Judge Hartrick Denies Motion to Dismiss City Condemnation Move

Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick Monday denied a motion to dismiss the city's suit for condemnation of property at 11-49 Parke St. and set Wednesday as trial date for the suit.

The motion to dismiss was introduced by attorney William J. Beer on the grounds that the city's suit had been filed under the wrong statute.

Selection of a jury will take place tomorrow, according to Judge Hartrick.

The city is seeking to condemn the property so that it may be used with adjoining city-owned land for a 200-car metered parking lot.

Accused Murderer Asks Examination

Robert L. Reed, 27, of 47 Smith St., Detroit, demanded examination on a first degree murder charge yesterday when he appeared before Pontiac Judge Maurice E. Finnegan.

First Bill of Session Passes On to Senate

LANSING (INS)—The House of Representatives passed and sent to the Senate last night its first bill of the 1954 session.

The bill would require notaries public to use the same name for the duration of their commissions as that used on their applications.

Ohio, a state of the United States since 1803, was officially admitted to the union in 1953 when Congress corrected a technical omission in the original legislation.

Aquatots' Father Gets Ten Years

Tongay Sentenced to Hard Labor for Kathy's Death; Will Appeal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Russell G. Tongay, husky father of the child swimming stars, "The Aquatots," faces 10 years in prison for manslaughter in connection with the death of 5-year-old daughter Kathy.

Tongay, a former Coast Guardsman, showed no emotion when a six-man jury found him guilty yesterday nor when Criminal Court Judge Ben C. Willard sentenced him to 10 years at hard labor. He did not take the stand.

* * *

Defense Atty. Louis Jepeway filed notice of appeal and Tongay's bond was set at $5,000. Tongay posted bond and was released.

The jury deliberated 54 minutes before returning its verdict, affirming the state's contention that Tongay sent his daughter to her death by forcing her to dive from a 33-foot tower.

Mrs. Betty Tongay, slender blonde schoolteacher and mother of the Aquatots, took the stand to describe Kathy's illness and death. She also testified that Tongay was a good father and said she was "very happy" with his efforts to make swimming stars of Kathy and her brother Bubba, 8.

* * *

Kathy and Bubba received wide publicity in 1951 when they went to England following the father's announcement they would attempt to swim the English Channel. British and French authorities refused to allow it.

Later, the children made several film shorts and appeared in a motion picture with Esther Williams.

Asst. County Solicitor A. C. Dressler told the jury that Tongay drove his children until they performed like automatons and said his motive was "pure selfish gain."

* * *

Jepeway contended the state did not prove that a dive was the cause of death.

Dr. Victor Calderin, who performed the autopsy on Kathy, said her body was a mass of bruises and that the cause of death was peritonitis brought on by an intestinal rupture. He said a bad dive from 33 feet or any violent blow to the back or stomach could have caused the rupture.

Kathy died last May. She was the second Tongay child to die a violent death. Russell Jr. died in convulsions in 1945 at the age of 18 months. An autopsy showed his death was caused by a hemorrhage brought on by a head injury and an inquest was held but no charges were filed.

Bulgarian Reds Prod for Books to Sway Children

ISTANBUL (AP) — Bulgarian Communists have opened a new drive to win the minds and hearts of the country's youth.

They plan to do it through children's books.

Bulgarian radio broadcasts picked up here report Communist bosses, in the saddle in that Balkan country for eight years, are calling on every resource to push the campaign.

The country's writers and artists are being prodded to get in line. The Ministry of Education and the Academy of Science are called on to "improve" the quality and quantity of children's literature. The country's paper and chemical industries are asked to provide better paper and ink for the new children's editions.

A lengthy decree, published in Bulgarian news journals, says flatly children's books are in "bad shape." Not only are they "poorly printed" and "improperly illustrated" but, most important, they "fail to glorify Communist heroes and the Communist way of life."

From now on, according to the decree, competitions will be staged to encourage new writings of "patriotic enthusiasm about Communist achievements."

Waives Examination on Breakin Charges

A Commerce Township youth examination on breaking and entering charges before West Bloomfield Township Justice Elmer C. Dieterle yesterday, and was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court for appearance Jan. 29.

David Carey, 17, of 1936 Paris, was unable to furnish $1,000 bond set by Dieterle and is being held in Oakland County Jail awaiting arraignment.

He was arrested Friday by Oakland County Sheriff's Detectives Delos Anderson and Leo Hazen and accused of breaking into three homes in the Long Lake Area.

According to Anderson, Carey admitted the breakins after his arrest. Most of the stolen property was recovered.

Earliest records of permanent waving go as far back as 3,000 B.C., when Babylonian ladies had their hair braided and treated with bitumen to preserve the curls.

Wills $20,000 to Aid Pair in Immigration

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit factory worker's will has provided a $20,000 fund to help his brother and sister settle in this country, or in Canada, if they can be located somewhere in the Ukraine.

The will was drawn by Sam Woycheshin, 57, who died last Tuesday.

His brother, Iiotr, and his sister, Mrs. Paraska Rublowska, are believed living in Poland. Woycheshin's will directs that a farm or farms be purchased for them and their families, if they can be located.

The document specifies that the farms must be in this country or Canada and none of the money may be sent to any other country.

Woycheshin was brought to Canada from the Ukraine as a child. He came to Detroit in 1919 and became a citizen in 1936.

Boy in Good Condition After Walking Into Car

A 9-year-old Drayton Plains boy who walked into the side of an auto on U.S.10 at Farmer St. last night is in good condition today at Pontiac General Hospital.

Dennis Catlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin E. Catlin of 2612 Edgevale, suffered a possible fractured collar bone and a dislocated knee.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputy Donald Wall said the boy walked into the side of an auto driven by Samuel Esse, 64, of 10440 Reese Rd., Clio.

A RARE PAIR—William N. Anderson, 15, of 35 Oneida Rd., is one of about five hamstery owners in the country offering white hamsters for sale. The albinos were first bred in 1952, he says. William has been conducting a profitable mail-order business in hamsters since March, 1953. The Pontiac High School sophomore says his business started by accident when male and female animals given him had so many offspring he sold the young ones to prevent overcrowding the Anderson home.

Hamster Sales Encourage Youthful Animal Breeder

"If they weren't male and female, I probably wouldn't be in business today," said 15-year-old William N. Anderson of 35 Oneida Rd.

He was explaining how a gift of two hamsters four years ago resulted in the formation of Anderson's Hamstery, the high school sophomore's own business.

"My first two hamsters started having litters. Their offspring had litters and I had to start selling them before they ran us out of the house," William says.

The young businessman began shipping the "toy bears" in March 1953, and has sent over 300 to all 48 states and Canada.

"I put classified ads in magazines and newspapers offering free literature on hamsters," William explains "then when I get an inquiry I return the material with an order blank. I receive about 10 letters a day."

William says he's one of about five breeders in the country who offers white hamsters for sale.

"They were first bred in 1952," he said, "and are still very rare."

The female is the chief cause of trouble in hamster raising, says William. "If things don't suit them perfectly, they kill their young."

William's original white female destroyed her first three litters, but then his dad, Frank A. Anderson, began caring for her and the finicky mother has behaved ever since.

"I guess dad has the white hamster touch," said William.

Anderson's Hamstery also sells specially designed pens and water bottles. The cages were designed by William and his father to prevent such occurences as when 25 hamsters were set loose in the Anderson basement by the family cat.

Hamsters are inexpensive to maintain, William says. He buys vegetable leaf trimmings, and a low cost protein compound to balance their diets.

William works every night of the week and a half-day on Sunday, answering mail, shipping orders, building and cleaning pens plus caring for the finger-nail-size newly born hamsters.

He "used to take them to school, carrying them on my shoulders or in my pockets. At first it went over pretty good, but then the teachers ruled them out."

If business continues to improve, William may carry on the hamster breeding business after graduating from school.

Biggest problem facing him right now is how to tell some people in Thailand that he can't ship them any hamsters because the express charges are too high.

Here's a New One, Not Enough Pupils

WOODLAND (UP)—Most schools have trouble enough finding housing and enough teachers to instruct pupils in overcrowded classrooms, but Woodland's problem is the other way around—not enough pupils.

The ratio is 17 pupils to one teacher in high school and 25 to one in elementary schools.

A radio of 30 pupils to one teacher could be easily accommodated in the system without straining the budget or facilities, school officials reported today.

Safety Seminar Proffers Ideas

More State Troopers Asked by Men Meeting at Lansing

LANSING (AP)—The legislature got a load of safety recommendations from the Michigan highway safety seminar last night but waited until this afternoon to see which measures should be given priority.

Eighty-nine of the state's 131 lawmakers attended the seminar banquet last night and heard reports of seven committees which had met all day on traffic problems.

The demand for 165 additional state police for highway patrols was extended by the public information committee to request 140 more troopers.

E. C. Hayhow, Hillsdale publisher and committee chairman, said that was the maximum number the state police could assimulate in one year.

Earlier, F. Granger Weil, Port Huron publisher and seminar chairman, appealed to the legislature for nonpartisan support of traffic legislation. He said the seminar was designed to aid the lawmakers, not "bludgeon" them.

The number of traffic deaths in Michigan this year is comparable, he said, to the toll which would result if Richland—population 2,000—were wiped out by a catastrophe, or if every resident of Bay City—57,000—were injured in a disaster.

Law enforcement officials and traffic engineers were divided over proposals for a speed limit of 65 miles an hour in the daytime and 55 at night.

Police chiefs and sheriffs argued strongly for the speed limit, while the engineering committee rejected it flatly. The engineers favored retaining the present law which requires cars to be kept under control at all times.

Delegates generally favored increasing the minimum driving age from 16 to 17 years. Schoolmen proposed a state subsidy for high school driver training courses to be financed with a $1 fee added to every $20 fine for a moving violation.

Other recommendations under consideration included:

Increases in number of the present 17 state drivers' license examiners.

Return to use of both front and rear license plates.

Legislation to make passing on hills and curves automatically reckless driving.

Issuance of permanent license numbers to owners of vehicles instead of associating the plates only with specific vehicles.

Parental responsibility for infractions by juvenile drivers.

Prohibition of angle parking when the driver must back into moving traffic.

Search for Dog's Hometown Leads to Oxford, Ohio

FLINT (UP)—There was talk today that "Blover," the mourning dog, might not be a native Hoosier after all.

Since he arrived here last December, Blover has been described as "emotionally ill." He eats and drinks barely enough to keep alive and won't have anything to do with humans.

A veterinarian said he believed Blover was longing for his former home and warned that the 200-pound dog "might die" unless he finds his original master.

Mrs. Betty Patson said her brother was given the dog at Oxford, Ind., where the animal had been "hanging around" for some time. Police now say there's a chance that Blover was picked up at Oxford, O., and not Indiana.

Radio stations at Lafayette, Ind., have been broadcasting appeals in an effort to locate Blover's master. Hoosier police became skeptical of Blover's origin, however, when Mrs. Patson told them in a telephone conversation her brother found the dog "right near the college."

There is no college at Oxford, Ind. Oxford, O., has one—Miami University.

National Guard Units Here Seek to Strengthen Ranks

Company M and the 107th Ordnance (DS) (NGUS) of Pontiac's Michigan National Guard are far below their authorized strength, according to reports from the group's commanding officers.

Co. M of the 125th Infantry Regiment is allowed 121 men, five officers and one warrant officer while the Ordnance unit is authorized 136 men, five officers and three warrant officers.

During the past year Co. M. recruited 20 men to bring its present strength to 92 men, three officers and one warrant. The group meets each Monday night at 7:30 in the Water Street Armory where the heavy weapons outfit reviews operation of mortars, machine guns, and 75mm recoilless rifles.

Training with pistols, carbines and the Garand rifle is also undertaken by the group, commanded by 1st Lt. A. J. Largent.

The 107th Ordnance is comprised of 39 men, three officers and two warrants, according to commanding officer Capt. Carl G. Yarling Jr., who says he hopes the unit's strength will be built up soon by new recruits.

Classes in drill, training, and maintenance of all weapons and mechanized equipment are a part of the direct snupport group's Tuesday night training each week at 7:30.

Both units attended a two-weeks field encampment at Camp Grayling last August and won high praise in competition with other sections of the 46th "Iron Fist" Division.

New members are being sought by both Co. M and the 107th in an attempt to build up strength. Interested persons are invited to stop in at the Armory, 57 Water St., for further information.

Knife-Wielder Robs City Cabbie of $53

A 22-year-old Pontiac taxicab driver today reported that he was robbed of $53 last night by a knife-wielding passenger who escaped in the cab.

Franklin M. Warden of 109 W. Chicago Ave. told police he picked up the man at Bagley street and Orchard Lake avenue and was instructed to drive to an industrial area in Oak Park.

"When I started writing on my trip sheet, he grabbed me around the neck and said, 'Give me your money or I'll kill you'," Warden reported. The stolen money was for a house payment, Warden told police.

Public Will Wait for Color TV

Production of New Sets Continues at Slow Pace Due to High Costs

Color television receivers will not be generally available to the public in the near future, according to John W. Hirlinger, assistant manager of the Pontiac Chamber of Commerce.

This prediction, Hirlinger said, is based upon results of survey of television manufacturers by the National Better Business Bureau with which the local chamber is affiliated.

"Returns from the questionnaires clearly demonstrate that there is no basis for public expectations that color receivers will be available in quantity in the near future," Hirlinger said, "or that the difference in price between color and black-and-white receivers will soon be a negligible factor."

He added that the concensus among manufacturers is that production of color sets in 1954 will be extremely low and that the sets will be ralatively expensive, retailing between $700 and $1,000.

While a few color programs on a limited network will be broadcast this year, authorities in the industry agree that color programs will be infrequent until enough color sets have been sold to make programs worthwhile to sponsors, Hirlinger explained.

Hirlinger said that present black-and-white sets will receive future color broadcasts after a few alterations.

"The future developments in TV will not make the present sets obsolete, in case anyone has deferred the purchase of the conventional television set," Hirlinger added.

12.5-Mill Levy to Be Discussed

Ceiling Would Be Hiked Jan. 1, 1955, if OK'd in April Election

Pontiac City Commission tonight is expected to consider a proposed city charter amendment to raise the 10-mill limitation on municipal property taxes to 12½ mills on Jan 1, 1955.

The city is presently collecting 13.80 mills, two of which are used for debt retirement. Last levy for debt retirement will be in 1955.

City Manager Walter K. Willman said the proposed amendment would simply mean the two mills presently going for debt retirement would go into capital improvements.

A majority vote of the city electorate is necessary to change the charter, according to City Clerk Ada R. Evans. The proposal would be included on the April 5 general election ballot.

Commissioners are expected to present reward checks to James Brown Jr., 18, of 37 Vinewood Ave. and Jack Seebaud, 48, of 27 Oriole Rd. for their part in the capture of rape-slayer Donald V. O'Brian. Brown will receive $2,500 and Seebald, $1,000.

Approval of the 1954 city budget is also scheduled. The proposed figure is $4,122,019, about $246,000 more than the 1953 budget.

Engineer's estimates for capital improvements scheduled include:

Curb, gutter, drainage and related work on Hovey from Cottage to Osmun.
Curb, gutter and miscellaneous drainage on Strathmore from Baldwin to University.
Curb, gutter, drainage and related work on East Rutgers from Baldwin to University.
Trunk storm drain on Bagley from Nevada to California.
Curb, gutter, drainage and related work on California from Franklin to Bagley.

A resolution of public necessity is expected for trunk storm drain on Bagley from Nevada to California and curb, gutter and drainage on California from Franklin to Bagley.

Public hearings are scheduled for proposed 2-inch blacktop paving on:

Bellevue from Paddock to Jessie.
Bliss from Hill to Parkhurst.
Chandler from Mariva to East boulevard.
Douglas from Pike to Mount Clemens.
Jessie from Mechanic to Hazel Bend.

Nominations are expected from Municipal Judge Maurice E. Finnegan for appointment of three process servers.

An application is expected from present owners of the Pontiac Hotel for transfer of ownership of Class B liquor license to M. E. Crane and L. C. Crane, stockholders.

Commissioners are scheduled to consider an ordinance adopted by Oakland County Board of Supervisors regarding establishing the level of Sylvan Lake.

A communication is expected from the Detroit Edison Co. asking extension of a water main to its proposed switching station at 175 Walton Blvd.

Guessing on Churchill's Retirement Waste of Time, Says Ex-Bodyguard

By JOHN J. CASSERLY

NEW YORK (INS)—A man who was Winston Churchill's personal bodyguard and shadow for 18 years indicated today that recent speculation over whether the British Prime Minister will retire is a waste of time—that Churchill himself will say so when he's ready to step down.

"Churchill always was a man of definite decision," said ex-Detective Inspector Walter Henry Thompson, who traveled at the Prime Minister's side into more than 30 different countries.

As an example of how Churchill moves when he's made up his mind to something, the graying, 63-year-old Scotland Yard shadow told of one occasion when Churchill decided to get some action out of the late Marshal Stalin.

"I believe it was at the first Moscow conference in 1943," Thompson reminisced. "It was the first time Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin met. For two days, Mr. Stalin kept putting off Mr. Churchill's attempts to see him.

"Things went along like that until a Friday night party given by Mr. Stalin. All Mr. Stalin would do at the party was toast everyone and avoided any mention of settling some of the problems between the countries.

"Finally Mr. Churchill sent him a message at the party. It said that no matter what happened he was leaving Russia on Sunday. And that if Mr. Stalin wanted to see him, he had better arrange a meeting soon. A meeting was arranged for the following day. And Mr. Churchill did leave on Sunday."

Now retired, Thompson is in the U. S. for an extended lecture tour.

"Churchill always was a very human man," he said. "Not many know this, but when he dictated his famous addresses—walking to and fro—he was given to the same emotions one saw later at the actual deliveries."

Asked for an insight into Churchill's private life over the years, Thompson said without hesitation:

"He was somewhat touchy, at times downcast, but always with a chuckle in reserve."

The blue-eyed Englishman smiled and added:

"But he mellowed over the years—not so sharp-tongued with a loss of almost all bias. He turned to painting which took much of the weight of his problems."

Thompson said he always was very fearful for the Prime Minister's safety because "you never knew what Mr. Churchill would do next." He added:

"He once walked amidst a big crowd outside the Capitol building in Washington. American Secret Service men were shocked and asked him why he did it."

Thompson recalled Churchill's reply:

For the Record

Saboteurs Could Be Planting A-Bombs in Our Midst

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

(George Schuyler, feature editor of The Pittsburgh Courier is also author several books).

Widespread public apathy and complacence about civil defense underscores the failure of responsible agencies to educate and alert the public to the less obvious dangers of atomic warfare.

Skywatching for hostile aircraft, periodic sounding of sirens, freezing of traffic, scampering for shelter and dramatic interludes of total silence unquestionably make a grand show which is both educational and disciplinary.

Unfortunately it is also somewhat superficial and misleading because it assumes that an atomic attack will come from without instead of within.

While our elaborate warning and interceptor machinery provides a sort of celestial Maginot Line, what do we do if the bombs are already hidden in our midst awaiting detonation?

We do not know how many of these hidden weapons there are, if any, nor is there evidence that Civil Defense is trying to find out or prepare the public for this eventuality.

Apparently Civil Defense has ignored the seven-year-old report of the Franck Committee of atomic scientists that an aggressor could "place his infernal machines in advance in all our major cities and explode them simultaneously in advance in all our major cities and industry and a large part of our population, congregated in densely populated metropolitan districts."

If our industrial population were warned that an atomic bomb can be concealed in a trunk or packing case in a cellar or warehouse and detonated by wireless from miles away, there would be far more alert and active volunteers in our civil defense organization.

Let's continue to watch the skies, learn to seek shelter, plan evacuation and practice first aid, but let us watch also our neighborhoods and subversives.

Given fissionable materials, bomb mechanisms, blueprints and photographs (such as have been stolen already from our atomic laboratories by alumni of the Young Communist League and other Red fronts) the enemy can cause atomic explosions wherever he chooses

Owing to criminally lax post-war security, A-bomb ingredients have been stolen. At least one of our scientists is already in prison for doing so.

Some authorities actually estimate that enough fissionable material may have been filched from Los Alamos since World War II to make 20 or 30 bombs.

Why should the Soviet Simon Legrees bother to smuggle it out of this country, then hazardously fly it back as bombs, when it can be kept hidden here close to the prime targets of Communism?

The trial records of atomic spies and Red agents, the reports of Congressional committees and the recurrent dismissals of strategically-placed employes for hiding behind the Fifth Amendment have told the tragic story of far-flung treason in our midst.

Is our huge Civil Defense army being trained to cope with our 250,000-strong Red Fifth Column who events have shown will obey its master's voice?

Isn't it time for some mass education, organization and investigation to prevent probable disaster?

Such a suggestion may fetch howls about witch hunting but what do we do when there actually are witches?

Any civil defense set-up which fails to consider these ominous factors or to prepare to deal with them before the enemy strikes is certainly missing the boat.

Chinese Nationalists Welcome Returnees

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—A second group of about 4,500 anti-Communist Chinese soldiers arrived in Nationalist Chinese Formosa today from Korea. The balance of some 14,000 Chinese freed from Red prison camps are due tomorrow.

The repatriates received a welcome, equal in favor to that given the first group of 4,684 which arrived yesterday.

Bands played, everyone cheered and thousands of firecrackers provided a deafening background barrage.

High Nationalist officials welcomed the former prisoners.

Most of the prisoners are expected to enlist in the Nationalist army. But Premier Chen Cheng said the government will do its best to provide jobs for those who choose civilian life.

Hemingway Safari After to Continue Wife Rests

ENTEBBE, Uganda (INS) — Rugged novelist Ernest Hemingway, who returned from two plane crashes in East Africa's big game country as big as life, waving a bottle of gin and a bunch of bananas, today waited only for his wife to rest before resuming their jungle adventures.

On his arrival by car in Entebbe, in the British protectorate of Uganda, the Pulitzer-Prize winning author told newsmen:

As soon as his wife, former war correspondent Mary Welsh, can rest up, the 55-year-old Hemingway intends to resume their safari. The author says it all is a birthday present for his wife, who suffered two cracked ribs in the first of their two crashes.

The pilot tried to make an emergency landing on a small body of water, despite the presence of seven crocodiles and "with more showing underwater," according to Hemingway.

Instead, the plane landed in some scrub near Murchison Falls. When dusk fell, the two men built a fire to keep away the wild animals which abound in the area. The crash victims had moved from the waterside to avoid clouds of mosquitoes.

In high good humor, Hemingway said he had to awaken his wife because her snoring attracted a herd of elephants which was only a few paces from their camp.

Hemingway, bare-chested one-time dabbler in the art of boxing said he "talked" to the animals who surrounded them. To illustrate this point, Hemingway emitted what he told newsmen at Entebbe was a wild dog's howl.

On Sunday, after they had been spotted from the air, a tourist launch took the Hemingways and their pilot to Butiaba on the Nile.

There, the chartered De Havilland Rapide, which was to take them out, crashed and burned on taking off. Hemingway opened the door by battering it with his head and shoulders. Leaving him cut slightly and with minor burns.

They then decided to go by car to Entebbe.

Michigan Resolution Lauds GM Expansion

LANSING (INS) — Rep. Gillispie (R-Genesee County) introduced a resolution in the Michigan House of Representatives yesterday commending General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice on his firm's billion dollar expansion program.

The Gillispie resolution noted:

"This program will bring increased job opportunities to the workers of Michigan, will enhance the economy of both our state and the nation, and will increase our national defense potential."

Curtice unveiled the big industrial program in an address Jan. 19 in New York.

Fund Planned for Housing Aid

Eisenhower May Use $360 Million to Bolster Mortgage Market

WASHINGTON (INS) — The Eisenhower administration planned today to set-aside 360 million dollars to bolster the mortgage market as a starter in its drive for more low-cost housing.

Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole said the funds — subject to congressional aproval — would be made available through the Federal National Mortgage Association, known to builders and bankers as Fanny Mae.

Under present plans, the often-criticized Fanny Mae would be allowed to buy low-cost housing mortgages totaling 360 million dollars from lenders or builders unwilling or unable to hold them for long periods.

Fanny Mae was used extensively by the Truman administration as a support device to provide adequate financing money for home building. Cole's announcement was the first indication that President Eisenhower might try to use the agency in the same way to obtain certain kinds of housing.

Actually, the 360 millions contemplated would provide for only 45,000 mortgages of about $8,000 each. However, officials said they hoped that some federal participation would make the low-cost home mortgage market so attractive to private lenders and builders that ample financing will be available for thousands more.

Man Struck by Bullet Escapes Without Wound

David Rhine, of 30082 Fairfax, was hit by a bullet which failed to pierce his clothing as he opened the front door of his home.

Oakland County Sheriff's Deputies Melvin Glover and Ross Miller, who said the bullet was spent when it hit Rhine, were unable to locate the person who fired the shot.

Recess Korean Talk Sessions

Reds Halt Preliminaries Pending Senior - Level Move to Spark Parley

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Attempts by liaison officers to arrange further preliminary Korean peace talks were recessed by the Communists today pending a high-level Red move to get the stalled negotiations started again.

They said further sessions of liaison secretaries would be meaningless since their senior delegates were in direct contact with Dean.

* * *

Dean was not available for comment. A State Department official said the Red proposal could be handled by aides on the scene who were empowered to act for Dean.

There was no official hint of the letter's contents, but the North Korean Pyongyang radio said earlier the Communists had sent a message to Dean proposing that negotiations to arrange a peace conference resume Monday.

* * *

The U. S. envoy broke off the talks Dec. 12 after the Communists had accused the United States of conniving with South Korea in the release of 27,000 anti-Red Korean War prisoners last June.

Dean said at the time he never would return to Panmunjom unless the Reds retracted their charge of perfidy. In recent liaison meetings Allied Liaison Secretary Edward Martin has tried unsuccessfully to have the Communists strike the charge from the record.

* * *

Meanwhile, the U. N. Command again accused the Communists of holding back some prisoners and reiterated its demand for an investigation.

The charge came as the U.S. Defense Department in Washington reported that 80 Americans known to have been prisoners of the Communists still are missing.

Communist news correspondents have acknowledged that the Reds are holding as "political prisoners" an undisclosed number of American airmen who presumably parachuted or crashed in Manchuria, across the Yalu River from North Korea, during aerial battles. The Red newsmen said their release would have to be negotiated through diplomatic channels.

* * *

A U. N. Command letter to the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission today accused the Reds of pressing into Communist armies some Allied prisoners. Presumably they were South Koreans.

Marilyn Suspended for Refusal to Work

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marilyn Monroe is suspended again, for refusing a movie role, and there is talk that the picture she rejected may be made without her.

She was suspended Jan. 5, when she disappeared. But Frank Sinatra left a reconciliation with his wife Ava Gardner in Rome and flew to Hollywood on time for his role in the same film.

Shooting was delayed, and when Miss Monroe turned up married to Joe Di Maggio her studio relented and gave her until yesterday to report.

She didn't, and her attorney announced: "Miss Monroe has authorized me to make this statement: She has read the script and does not care to do the picture." Miss Monroe was promptly suspended again.

Marilyn and Joe have been honeymooning in an undisclosed spot. He is now in New York. The studio said Marilyn was in Los Angeles, but it didn't know just where.

New Bill in State Would Legalize Women Police

LANSING (AP)—If Rep. Clyde E. Cooper (R-White Cloud) has his way you'd go into the State Police Post, approach the desk hat in hand and say, "Lady - - -."

Cooper filed a bill in the House today to require the State Police Commissioner to replace troopers tied down to radio dispatching, desk and clerical work with "specially trained" women.

Cooper said this measure would free at least 150 officers for road patrol and other "outside" work.

Grand Jury Indicts Kidnaping Suspects

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco County grand jury last night indicted Harold Jackson and Joseph Lear on charges of kidnaping for ransom and inflicting bodily harm on Leonard Moskovitz, a real estate broker.

The indictment accuses the Sacramento pair under California's "Little Lindbergh Law." Conviction would mean death in San Quentin's gas chamber.

The grand jury also indicted Jackson and Lear on conspiracy to kidnap charges.

State Legislators Ask Ike to Close Polish Consulate

LANSING (INS) — Polish members of the Michigan House of Representatives last night introduced a resolution calling on President Eisenhower to close the Polish Consulate in Detroit.

The resolution contends that the Red consulate serves as a front for Communist and propaganda organizations.

Similar requests have been sent the White House from Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Polish organizations.

Jeanne Crain Terms Stars Too Pampered

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jeanne Crain is back from the wilds of Africa with the comment that Hollywood stars are coddled and pampered too much.

The flame-haired mother of four filmed "Duel in the Jungle" with Dana Andrews. This was her first independent venture after 10 years of the glamor treatment at 20th Century-Fox. She says it was an eye opener for her.

* * *

"I never realized how much is done for a star at the studios," she remarked. "there is someone to take care of your hair, your makeup, your clothes, everything. If you have to walk down a hallway in a scene, the director thinks about whether you should do it or a double should be hired.

"In Africa, it was different. We were on our own. Our assistant director was killed in the rapids, rehearsing a scene which Dana and I were supposed to do in a small river boat two hours later. I had one swimming scene in the river, and I had to be tied by ropes underwater so I wouldn't be swept away.

* * *

"I had faith in our director, George Marshall. When you get that way, you're willing to undertake anything, no matter what the danger is. I think it's good too. You get a bigger thrill out of acting, and I think your work is more vital.

"A lot of Hollywood stars lose their vitality because everything is done for them. They lack the vigor of actually performing."

It is more than half a year since Jeanne ended her long association with 20th-Fox, and I asked her if she regretted asking for her freedom.

* * *

"Not in the least," she said. "It was well worth the $40,000 I had to pay to get out."

This was news to me, and I asked her about it.

"My option had already been picked up for another year," she explained. "But I didn't like the way I was being treated. Oh, I loved the people I worked with; everyone was nice to me. But the pictures! We will draw the curtain of charity over the last three I made there.

* * *

"When you've been at a studio as long as I was, you face a problem. They say they have built your name up and they have a right to use it. On the other hand, if you let them put you into anything, your name loses the value they have created.

"It was clear that they were knocking out several fast pictures in preparation to putting all their money into CinemaScope production. I decided I didn't want to be used in that setup. So I paid $40,000 for my freedom."

But there is a golden lining. On "Duel in the Jungle" alone, she says, she earned $185,000.

Colonel Gets Degree

DETROIT (AP) — Col. Tyrus K. Kirk, USAF, received his masters degree in business administration Monday in an official commencement at the University of Detroit in which he was the only graduate. Col. Kirk, organizer of the U. of D.'s first Air Force ROTA unit, must leave on orders for Japan.

Set Up Manpower Pool for Disasters

LANSING (AP) — The U. S. Employment Service joined arms today with the State Civil Defense Office to provide a pool of skilled labor in event of natural disaster or enemy bombing attack.

O. K. Fjetland, employment service director, told the Civil Defense Advisory Council, his agency was able to draw from its files the names of thousands of skilled workers of all types who might be needed for rescue and rehabilitation work.

Gov. Williams instructed Capt. C. F. Van Blankensteyn, deputy civil defense director, to work with Fjetland to develop a plan for using that service.

Bushnell Trembley of Flint, council member, suggested that the USES also might help local disaster crews by providing skilled interviewers to select and assign workmen from the groups of people who flock to disaster scenes and offer their assistance.

St. Louis Man Delivers Tenth Baby in 6 Years

That was the way Paul Fey Jr. described the delivery of his 10th child in six years of operating a St. Louis County ambulance service yesterday.

The 39-year-old Fey, known as "Mr. Stork," was called to the suburban Lemay home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pape. He found them standing anxiously at the door.

"I don't think I can make it," said Mrs. Pape. Fey agreed.

Fifteen minutes later, the 9 pound, 5½ ounce daughter was born. It also was No. 10 for the 37-year-old Mrs. Pape. Mother and daughter were "doing nicely."

Gets 1-15 Year Sentence for Assault-Robbery

A 1 to 15 year prison sentence was imposed Monday by Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick on Fred J. Livermore, 23, of 14582 Mulberry, Wyandotte, for assault with intent to rob while armed.

Livermore, who will serve his term in Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson, pleaded guilty Jan. 19 to trying to rob a grocery store at 16 Mile and Crooks Rds. of $90.

Foe of Seaway to Reconsider

Rep. McGregor of Ohio Still Won't Say He Will Support Waterway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) indicated today a softening of his opposition to U. S. participation in building the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway.

McGregor, a high ranking member of the House Public Works Committee that must pass on the Senate-approved seaway bill, has long opposed this country's joining with Canada in the seaway project.

"I won't say I'll favor this bill, but I am giving it a lot more attention than I have other seaway) bills."

McGregor said the lesser amount of money involved in the Senate bill for the seaway construction "will make a difference in my views."

Under the Senate measure, the United States would be required to pay only about 100 million dollars for its share of the 27-foot deep Atlantic to Great Lakes waterway.

Previous bills have tied in the St. Lawrence River power project as part of the construction. This, McGregor said, would have made the dual-purpose development "a billion dollar deal."

Dick Contino Back Home After 2 Years in Army

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Dick Contino, onetime $4,000-a-week accordionist who served a term for draft evasion, is out of the Army and belatedly celebrating Christmas.

Contino, 24, was inducted in May 1952, after spending 4½ months in federal prison. He was sent to Korea five months later.

"I made the best of it, and I'm glad it's over," he said when he reached his home. A Christmas tree, gifts and 50 neighborhood friends were waiting for him.

Jewelers Retain Unspoiled Mark in 'A' Circuit

Stop Chuck's Outfit in Spirited Tilt, 60-51; GM Drops Exhibition

Balanced scoring by the Jewelers and a second period slump by the Shack five helped Shaw's to its 6th win without a loss. By losing, Chuck's dropped a half-game back of General Motors.

GMC played an exhibition game Monday night and lost to Dearborn Ft. Wayne 40-31.

Garland Townes and Bob McManus were the scoring stars for the Jewelers, offsetting a fine job by Chuck's Tom Spencer. Spencer looped in 20 points, but Townes hit for 17 and McManus added 16.

In the exhibition game, Fort Wayne took an early 22-7 lead and coasted to the win. Patterson collected 25 points. Soc Rallis was high for the Coachers with 10.

City 'D' League in Tight Race

Phalanx Keeps Share of Lead; Elks Retain Third Place Tie

Race for the lead in the Class D City League remained as close as ever Monday night at Lincoln Junior High School as Phalanx and Elks 723 both won their games handily.

Phalanx, tied for the top with a 7-1 record, whipped Senior Hi-Y, 58-28, and Elks, tied for 3rd with a 6-2 mark, routed the Lakesiders, 62-27.

Bob Brennan led the Phalanx to its win with 21 points, while Tom Metzdorf and Bob Gordon tossed in 14 and 11 apiece. Jim Oats was high for the losers with 10 points.

Elks' scoring was well balanced with Willie DeWalt high with 17 points. Ed Ringgold added 14. Paul Schenk paced the Lakesiders with eight.

Gordie, Rocket in Tight Scrap for NHL Honors

MONTREAL (AP)—Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings and Montreal's Maurice (the Rocket) Richard, both right wingers, were waging a close battle for the National Hockey League scoring lead today.

Howe picked up one goal last week to bring his point total to 50 while Richard, with three goals and one assist last week has 48 points. Overall, Howe has 21 goals and 29 assists and the Rocket 28 goals — most in the league—and 20 assists.

Harry Lumley of the Toronto Maple Leafs has the lowest goals-against average among the net-minders, 16.68 per game while Bill Gadsby of Black Hawks has served most penalty minutes, 90. SPT

By H. GUY MOATS

Seeking its third Saginaw Valley Conference victory, and its 2nd in a row, tonight, Pontiac's newly-decked out Chiefs quintet will be fired-up by several important factors:

1. Arthur Hill's Lumberjacks have long been a traditional hard foe. If Chiefs get by Chuck Fowler's club they're still in contention for a high Valley spot. Victory will put them back on the winning side again.

2. This is the "swan song"—the finale—for two of Pontiac's most valuable performers. Both Dick Ayling, accurate-shooting guard and top scorer, and Leroy Moore, big, capable defensive ace, make their last appearances in PHS uniforms. Both will be fired to give extra value to their play against the 'Jacks.

3. Those new white suits did all right in a rough test with Bay City's Wolves last week end. Pontiac won that one, 49-44, on the night the new suits were first worn. Art Van Ryzin's club is going to try and keep the records in the right place, with a win.

Observers rate Chiefs a slight edge on the Hillites. This is due to the fact that Pontiac has the better SVC record and is playing on its own floor, always an important factor.

Both clubs will start their usual lineups. Leroy Moore, who did not get in the Bay City game until the second half, will be in at the opening jump tonight. His defensive play is counted on to keep big Bill McMahon in check. The 'Jack star hit for 19 points last Friday against Midland.

PWBA's Annual City Bowling Tourney Slated to Start March 6 at Rochester

Pontiac Woman's Bowling Association will hold its 21st annual city tournament at the Hilltop Bowling Alleys in Rochester starting March 6-7 and running weekends until its completion.

Entries are now open for the handicap affair, but the lists will close at midnight Saturday, Jan. 30. Tourney is open to all women bowlers sanctioned by the PWBA.

Team champion is See's Food Market. Singles winner was Clare Olsen, doubles titlists Nina Lawson and June Kinney, and all-events winners Mildred Molter (actual) and Hazel Clark (handicap).

Peggy Bender, secretary of the PWBA, may be contacted for further information at 363 Dover road or FE 5-5343.

Mrs. Bender also has entries for the Women's International Bowling Congress (WIBC) set for Syracuse, N.Y., starting April 8. Entries for this tourney close Feb. 8.

See's Market, a Milford team, posted 3033 to win last year's PWBA test. Three Pontiac quintets followed, Clar's Bar, West Huron Recreation and C & J. Cleaners. Margaret See of Milford had the high individual team game with 245.

Clare Olsen's winning singles total was 683. She was followed by Hazel Clark (661), Eleanor Baxter (658) and Maxine Wood (654). Madelyn Anderson, Jackie Gillow, Irene Aird, Louise Rummel, Peggy Bender and Dorothy Wisser rounded out the top 10.

Trophies went to Hazel Clark in all events, Mildred Molter for high tourney series (649), June Kinney for high series with handicap (752), Della Bardon for high tourney game and high individual game in doubles (246) and Wilma Myers for high singles game (actual) 213.

Tournament will be rolled in strict accordance with rules which have been adopted by the PWBA and sanctioned by the WIBC.

Unknown Tommy Jackson Scores TKO Over Layne

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Hurricane Tommy Jackson, a "new face" fighting his first main event, has nudged hulking Rex Layne a little closer to the end of the line.

* * *

The 22-year-old Jackson, a surprising 8-5 favorite over a man who once beat Jersey Joe Walcott and Ezzard Charles, wore down Layne, dropped him twice and forced Referee Mark Conn to call a merciful halt at 1:44 of the sixth round last night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway. It went as a technical knockout with the completely exhausted Layne unable to continue.

Next in line for the Negro youngster from New York, will be a Feb. 22 Parkway match with Clarence Henry of Los Angeles if matchmaker Teddy Brenner has his way.

* * *

Strictly a six-round prelim boy until the Layne fight, tireless Tommy now has a chance to move up in the thinly manned division. Not too much of a slugger, he wears down his opponents with his unorthodox right uppercut and continuous punching. He is crude but rough and ready.

Layne classified Jackson as an "all the time puncher" who "wears a guy down."

Red Wings Regain Peters From Hawks

Peters, who came to the Red Wings in 1949 from the Boston Bruins, played two seasons before he was sold to Chicago. He is expected to join Detroit in time for the Red Wings game with New York Thursday in Detroit.

Vic Stasiuk, a forward, was sent to the Edmonton, Alta., Flyers in the Western Hockey League to make room for Peters.

Richards Figures '54 Has to Be Year for Chisox, but AL Is Stronger Loop

WAXAHACHIE, Texas (AP) — The Chicago White Sox are a sounder club than at any time since I've been with them. We've reached a point where we are no longer to be taken lightly, by the Yankees or any other club.

Hawks, Gophers Chase Hoosiers

Beat NW and Purdue in Only Contests of Night in Big 10

CHICAGO (AP) — Iowa and Minnesota maintained a close pursuit of Indiana in the Big Ten basketball race last night with well-earned victories over 2nd division clubs.

Iowa won its 6th game in seven Big Ten starts, defeating Northwestern 65-52. Hawk sophomores grabbed an early 12-4 lead and never were behind, steaming away in the 4th quarter with 22 points to NU's 11 when the Wildcats threatened near the end of the 3rd.

Youngsters Bill Seaberg and Bill Logan topped the Hawk attack with 15 and 14 points, respectively. Frank Ehmann scored 16 for Wildcats.

Minnesota had its troubles with Purdue but ballooned a 32-29 lead at halftime to an 80-64 verdict. Ed Kalafat scored 22 points for Minnesota, Dick Garmaker 21 and Chuck Mencel 19. Sophomore Joe Sexson, hitting with accuracy from far out, topped Purdue with 26.

Indiana's Hoosiers, leading the league with a 6-0 record, were idle, as were other Big Ten teams.

Northwestern is at Butler Thursday.

Triumph Over Handicap

Babe, Jumping Champ, Honored for Courage

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A youth who doctors said would never walk but who later leaped to a world's high jump record and a woman athlete who triumphed over dreaded cancer were honored last night as the most courageous athletes of 1953.

Philadelphia Sports Writers Association celebrated its golden anniversary by presenging its annual award to Walter (Buddy) Davis, a 1952 Olympic champion, and Mrs. George (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias, the outstanding woman athlete and golfer of the half century.

Mrs. Zaharias was unable to be present due to illness, but Davis, the 6 foot, 8-inch Texan now playing in the National Basketball Association, was on hand for one of sports most unusual honors.

Davis was stricken by polio at the age of eight. He was hospitalized for 11 weeks and for several years blood drained from his heels so badly that he had to walk on tiptoes until circulation was restored. Doctors said he never would walk properly.

But the medics were diagnosing along strict scientific lines. They allowed no margin for determination. Davis had the courage of a man and the faith of a child. $$t He recovered sufficiently to walk, then run, then bicycle. He regained the use of his limbs and went to high school and then to Texas A. & M. college where he became a track and basketball star.

He passed up pro basketball offers for a year after his graduation, concentrating on an ambition to break the world record for the high jump. This he accomplished last June 27, in the National AAU track and field meet with a leap of 6 feet, 11½ inches.

Mrs. Zaharias, who generally is accorded the title of greatest woman golfer of all time, was stricken last spring by a malignant growth. She was told that surgery might cure her, but that she never would play golf of championship caliber again.

But less than three months later the Babe was back on the course, and less than four months after her operation finished 3rd in the star studded field of the women's section of the Tam O'Shanter in Chicago. The Babe showed too that the heart of a champion knows no odds.

Pair of Bobsled Stars From U.S. Quit in Italy

Benham, Bickford Head for Home Before Races This Weekend

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) —The feuding United States bobsled squad was trying to patch together a pickup team today to enter the four-man championships at this Italian resort Saturday and Sunday.

They packed and left for home immediately after they finished 3rd in the two-man world championships which were won by Guglielmo Scheibmeier, an Italian innkeeper. Italo Petrelli of Italy, a jet pilot, finished 2nd.

Benham and Bickford were supposed to be the driver and brakeman on the No. 2 U. S. sled in the four-man championships. They claimed they were forced to leave early because they were unable to get plane reservations immediately after the title races.

Racer Kicks Bucket,

Yesterday's 4th race drew only three horses and was cancelled because Classowa, which was supposed to show up as the 4th horse, backed up to his stall door and tried to kick his bucket out of the shed. He injured his leg.

Plans Set for NS Ice Carnival This Weekend

Races, figure skating, hockey, skating exhibitions and the selection of the 1954 Ice Queen all are a part of the yearly event co-sponsored by the North Side Community Club and the Pontiac Parks and Recreation department.

Weather permitting, the program is slated to start Saturday at 1:30 p.m. with various races followed by a hockey game at 3 p.m. Saturday night's portion of the affair begins at 7 p.m. with qualifying for the Silver Skates Derby and girls' figure skating.

Finals in skating events start at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. Silver Skates finals are at 3 p.m. and the figure skating finals at 3:30.

Peggy Bowman's Pontiac Skating Club will skate an exhibition at 7 p.m. and the program will be climaxed by the crowning of the Ice Queen at 8 p. m.

Dawson Stops Pompee, Spoils Shot at Title

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (UP) — Bobby Dawson, an obscure preliminary fighter during his early professional days in New York, was credited with two major accomplishments today in the wake of his upset, 10-round victory over Yolande Pompee of Trinidad.

In punching his way to a close decision before 2,000 fans Monday night, Dawson dealt Pompee his first defeat in more than 60 fights and also deflated Pompee's dream for an early shot at the world light-heavyweight title.

Pompee, rated the world's No. 3 challenger in the 175-pound division, scored two early knockdowns but could not cope with Dawson's slashing attack in late rounds.

Western Quints Proving 'Poison' to Oklahomans

City 'U' Was Doing OK on Home Lot, Takes Two Losses on Coast

OCU was doing just fine while it stayed in or near its own back yard. It had won 11 games and lost only to mighty Oklahoma A&M, certainly no disgrace. The nation's experts voted OCU No. 8 in the country.

* * *

Then the team headed West. The first rude awakening came Saturday night in Laramie, Wyo., where the University of Wyoming whipped the Oklahomans 57-38 and held high-scoring Arnie Short to a mere six points.

* * *

OCU moved on to Seattle last night and took another pasting, this time by Seattle University 79-64. Short revived to the tune of 32 points but his mates still looked homesick.

OCU dropped down a notch to No. 9 after the Wyoming beating and probably is due to drop some more. It meets Seattle again tomorrow night.

* * *

Seattle, beaten only by Wichita in its opening game, now has won 17 straight and ranks No. 11 in the country. Joe Pehanick topped Seattle scoring with 24 points.

Oklahoma's other ranked quintet, the Cowboys from A&M, fared much better in a Missouri Valley conference game at Houston, winning handily 64-48. Big Bob Mattick connected on his first four shots from the floor and wound up high man with 22 points. A&M is tied for fourth with Western Kentucky in the latest Associated Press poll.

* * *

Minnesota, No. 8, was the only other ranking team in action last night. It broke loose in the second half for an 80-64 decision over Purdue.

Bromwich Pulls Net Upset on Trabert

SYDNEY (AP) — John Bromwich, two-fisted swatter who won the Australian tennis title back in 1939 when Tony Trabert was an eight-year-old, upset the American Davis Cup ace today in the 2nd round of the current championships 1-6, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

The canny veteran used his famous two-fisted stroke to throw Trabert off his game. Time and again Bromwich hit the lines with twisting shots by swinging the racquet with both hands instead of the usual one-hand grip as he pulled off the biggest tennis surprise in years.

It's Time Out!

Absence of Spring Football Practice Is Hardship on Ivy League Schools; Bowl Drought Seen for East

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK—Spring football training is starting in a few weeks over most of the map. But not in the Ivy League. The boom of the punt or the thud of the tackle will not be heard at Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Princeton, Dartmouth, Cornell, Pennsylvania or Brown.

* * *

At over 400 colleges, hundreds of coaches will be trying to implant fundamentals into green troops or polish up certain veterans. But these coaches will not include Lou Little, Jordan Olivar, Charles Caldwell, George James, Tuss McLaughry, etc., from not exceptionally strong, piled up over 100 points against the two teams.

It was evident that neither team belonged in any Bowl against Southern, Midwestern, Southwestern or Far Western opponents. Yet both Syracuse and West Virginia had spring training, and even this was not enough to make either game fairly close.

* * *

Conditions now are such that most of the crack football players are heading elsewhere. Pennsylvania alone furnishes star players for many college teams. Pennsylvania, Ohio and Texas appear to have the best young material.

NC State Picks Edwards for Grid Post

EAST LANSING (UP)—The Michigan State coaching staff took its 3rd shock in recent weeks Monday with the announcement that Earle Edwards, end coach, had taken the head football job at North Carolina State.

He suceeds Horace Hendrickson.

Dr. H. A. Fisher, chairman of the North Carolina State college athletic council, said at Raleigh, N. C., Edwards was signed to a three-year contract. The reported salary was $12,000 a year.

Announcement came two days after Spartan backfield coach Steve Sebo had accepted the head football coaching assignment at the University of Pennsylvania, and only weeks after Hugh (Duff) Daugherty took over the top football job at State, and Biggie Munn was named athletic director.

Edwards had an interview at Raleigh, N. C., only Saturday and it was rumored that he might get the job.

Sebo, who is going on to Pennsylvania, said yesterday "I'd like to take along some assistants from the Michigan State staff," but now he was going to have to look a long ways to find any who hadn't already left.

Edwards walks into a school that won only one of 10 starts last season, and whose coach resigned in December.

His contract has been approved already by chancellor Carey H. Bostian of N. C. State and by Gordon Gray, president of the consolidated university of North Carolina of which N. C. State is a part.

The 43-year-old Edwards graduated from Penn State with a BS in industrial engineering in 1931, and got his masters in physical education from the same school in 1938. He is also on his way to a doctorate at Penn State.

Edwards said the job came "all of a sudden."

When Munn was known to be moving up to athletic director, Edwards, oldest of his full-time assistants, told college authorities that he would be looking for a head coaching assignment.

Even prior to the Rose Bowl trip he was being interviewed and rumored going to various schools.

Edwards said he planned to take over at North Carolina state "within a couple of weeks."

He will be allowed to hire four assistants, Edwards said.

Players Still Want New World Series TV Pact

NEW YORK (UP)—The fight over the major league pension fund broke out anew today.

J. Norman Lewis, the players' lawyer, indicated the players will ask that two-thirds of the World Series radio and television monies be allocated to the fund when the current contract expires in 1956.

"I believe the series TV can be sold to group sponsorship for from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000, Lewis said. "The players definitely should have a hand in negotiating the contract."

Lewis had sharp comment to make on commissioner Ford Frick's recent report on the pension fund. The 17-page report was made public by Frick last week and was sent to all members of the players pension fund.

Focal point of Lewis' attack was Frick's statement that there was a "definite understanding" in 1951 that All-Star receipts and World Series radio-TV cash go into a central fund to be applied for pension costs, commissioner's office expenses and club income tax on series TV money.

According to Lewis, the "definite understanding" was among the 16 club owners only and not the players. He said the players were mailed copies of the agreement but never were consulted.

Phillies Seeking Cards' Hemus

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Philadelphia Phillies, concerned over the possibility of young Ted Kazanski's loss to the armed forces, have offered a package deal in an effort to obtain shortstop Solly Hemus from the St. Louis cardinals.

Manager Steve O'Neill of the Phillies, it was learned, has approved a transaction which would send veteran pitcher Jim Konstanty and rookie hurler Bob Greenwood plus two unidentified players to the Redbirds in exchange for the 29-year-old Hemus.

O'Neill believes the Cardinals might be willing to trade Hemus because of their acquisition of Alex Grammas, a highly-touted farmhand who matriculated in the Cincinnati Redlegs' system. O'Neill believes Grammas could team with 2nd-baseman Red Schoendienst to provide the Cardinals with a 1st-class double play combination.

Kearns Already Talking Up Marciano-Maxim Title Bout

By MURRAY ROSE

MIAMI, Fla. (UP) — It's a long time between Jack Dempsey in Toledo in 1919 and Joey Maxim in 1954 but the old doc still is in there pitching.

Pitching harder than ever, and successfully, too. Moving a couple of "tigers" like Dempsey and Mickey Walker was a cinch. Taking a punchless fighter like Joey Maxim and hustling him into seven title fights puts Jack (Doc) Kearns in line for the grand medal of persistence and salesmanship.

No. 7 for Joey comes up tomorrow night in Miami Stadium with light heavyweight champion Archie Moore the party of the 2nd part for the 3rd time in a row.

"Why, my killer will murder Moore this time," said Doc yesterday, his blue eyes twinkling. "When Joey gets that title back we'll be after Marciano (heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano) for his."

"Who's he talking about? Me?" asked Maxim. "Oh, well maybe we'll get lucky and Moore will break a leg in the ring and I'll get me a knockout. Seriously, though, I'm going to beat that guy."

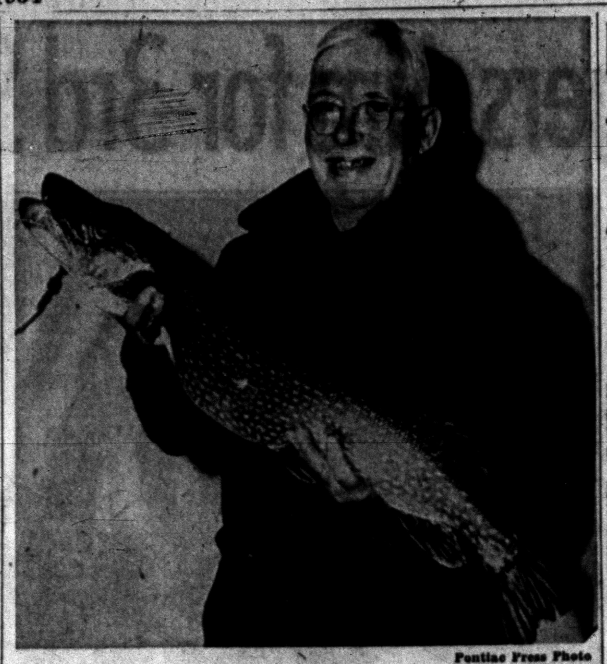

Moore's weight has been the "angle" that has been worked out for this No. 3 performance of the two rivals.

"I'll make the weight, okay," said Archie. "Will I knock him out? I'll try, but who knocks out Maxim? I'm going to beat him, I'll say that.

Jersey Aids Teenagers

CAMDEN, N. J. (UP) — Former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott has been placed in charge of recreational activities for Camden's teen-agers in a program designed to combat juvenile delinquency.

Dribbles Team Holds Girls' Loop Margin

Dick & Wes made its record 4-1 with a shutout, 17-0, over the Baskettes. In the night's other game, the Unknowns edged Skid Kids, 11-8.

Pat Smith led the Dribbles with 9 points. Kay Neldrett had 8 points to pace the Dick & Wes team, while Joan Warrner's 5 points were high for the victorious Unknowns. Peggy Barber had six points, all but two of the Skid Kids' total of eight.

Bernstein Yells 'Foul' Over, Al's Loss to Olla

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Fight manager Ike Bernstein yelled "foul" today over the unanimous decision against Al Andrews giving Ted Olla the Wisconsin middleweight boxing championship.

"It was the lousiest decision I ever saw," said Bernstein, Andrews' manager and past manager of several champions. "The referee told them two points would be taken away for each foul and Olla hit low seven times."

He said the Vejar fight had not been signed but was "all set up."

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

CASE—Solid On Heels.

For body balance—The bowling stride begins with a shuffle step, short and easy. Practice will determine how long the first step should be to consistently time the step with the push-away of the ball. Important thing is that the step be straight ahead to keep the body in line. No veering to the right. Now the second step: Don't stretch it. Keep it comfortably short so that, as sketch shows, the heel comes down solidly to take up the full body weight. Allow the upper half of the body to fall forward and a little downward, completely relaxed, as ball goes into backswing to further pull body into a crouched position. No tiptoeing in stride. On the heels all the way for sound balance.

Furillo Signs for Raise to About $27,500

Ferris Fain, 'Ozark Ike' Zernial Also Come to Terms Monday

NEW YORK (UP) — National League batting champ Carl Furillo signed his 1954 Brooklyn contract today, crossed his fingers and said:

* * *

Both men got substantial raises. Like the rest of the major league clubs the Dodgers don't announce salaries but it was learned reliably that Campanella got a $6,000 hike to about $32,000 and Furillo a boost of about $5,000 to $27,500.

* * *

On Campanella he said: "I couldn't very well cut him 25 per cent so I raised him 25 per cent."

* * *

The husky outfielder came into town last night from his farm at Bernville, Pa., near Reading, to receive an award at the New York Press Photographer's dinner.

"I think I'm worth a few dollars more," he said before the dinner, "but I haven't even talked with them yet."

However, both Bavasi and Walter J. O'Malley, president of the club, were also at the dinner.

"I suddenly got the notion we ought to sign him right then," O'Malley said later.

Four other major league regulars also came to terms yesterday.

Ferris Fain, another broken-hand fighter like Furillo, took a cut in salary from the Chicago White Sox. The first baseman, who Gus Zernial, the Philadelphia signed for a raise of about $7,000, boosting his earnings for the coming season to about $32,000. Zernial hit 42 home runs last year, second only to Al Rosen.

* * *

The Philadelphia Phillies came to terms with third baseman Willie Jones and the Chicago Cubs announced the signing of pitcher Johnny Klippstein, who won 10 and lost 11 a year ago.

Clarkston Merchants received their stiffest test of the season Monday and were equal to the task. They downed Beattie Motors 43-37, to stay undefeated and increase their lead to a game and a half in the Waterford Township Recreation basketball league.

Game was nip-and-tuck to the final minute, when Don Mauti dumped in two free throws and the Merchants pulled ahead. Percy Moore, with 12, and Ed Hintz, with 10, led the Clarkstonians.

Race for 2nd place tightened. Manny's dumped Drayton Drug, 48-46, to drop the Ringsiders into a 2nd place tie and put themselves only one game back.

Dick DeWitt had 24 points for Manny's including the game-winning basket in the last minute. Frank Keelean had 15 for Drug.

Davis Machinery won its 1st game, beating Briggs Sports, 50-45, as Chris Babler collected 29 points. Bob Walter had 21 for Briggs.

Waterford High Faculty tripped Poole's, 44-39, with a last quarter offensive. Seth Cummings led WHS with 13, while Chuck Gillis had the same number for the Lumbermen.

LIFE reports on page 133 this week that all over the country in such stores as Paul's Stag Shop that the new High Styles are becoming more and more evident. ". . . such things as the Mr. "B" Collar, the Five Way Jacket, the Link Button Suit, Rogue Pants, Mammoth Cuff Links, Mr. "C" Shirts, the Whip Tie, the Hipster Trousers, tho unknown to many adults . . . are items of everyday apparel for the younger set."

There is no typical High Styler, according to Life. One High Styler is a star hockey player and the president of his senior class. According to Life ". . . he describes himself as a conservative High Styler . . . that is to say he would not necessarily wear the most extreme items.

And to re-assure Parents, Life also asserts ". . . The boys who go for High Style carry themselves taller and straighter, take better care of themselves in such matters as fingernails and ears, and go about proudly, even elately."

". . . Why Do I wear High Styles?", one High Styler answered Life reporters, "Because I picked it out myself, and because I love High Style, buy mostly I guess, BECAUSE ALL OF THE OTHER GUYS DO, TOO."

Wildcats, Dukes Still Lead Cage Parade

By BEN OLAN

Again this week, these powerful quintets dominate the weekly Associatd Press poll with Kentucky, as usual, on top. Wildcats (12-0) received 30 first place votes and a point total of 764 yesterday from the 93 sports writers and sportscasters casting their ballots.

At that, Duquesne, although idle last week, gained ground on the pace-setters. Dukes (15-0) grabbed off 15 1st place votes and 707 points, figured on the basis of 10 points for 1st place, nine for 2nd, etc. Last week Kentucky topped Duquesne by 111 points as 127 voted.

Indiana, with a 12-1 record, remained 3rd. The Big Ten conference leader grabbed 13 1st place votes and 640 points.

Otherwise, there was no wholesale shakeup in the 1st ten, although some of the teams changed positions.

Oklahoma A&M, ranked 5th last week, climbed into a 4th place tie with Western Kentucky with 541 points apiece. Aggies, who whipped Houston 64-48 last night, collected eight 1st place votes while Western Kentucky 18-0) was rated 1st on seven ballots. Aggies now are 17-1.

Oklahoma City, victim of a 57-38 defeat by Wyoming Saturday night and a 79-64 lacing by Seattle last night dropped from 7th to 9th, enabling Holy Cross and Minnesota 11-2) each to move up a notch. Crusaders 13-1) took over 7th while Minnesota, which trounced Purdue 80-64 last night, moved into 8th.

Seattle and La Salle made the most progress among the 2nd ten teams. West Coast club moved from 16th to 11th while La Salle, on the strength of its 83-78 triumph over North Carolina State Saturday, climbed from 19th to 12th.

Connecticut, undefeated in 14 games, and Dayton (14-4) moved into a deadlock for 18th place. They replaced Niagara and Illinois in the 2nd ten.

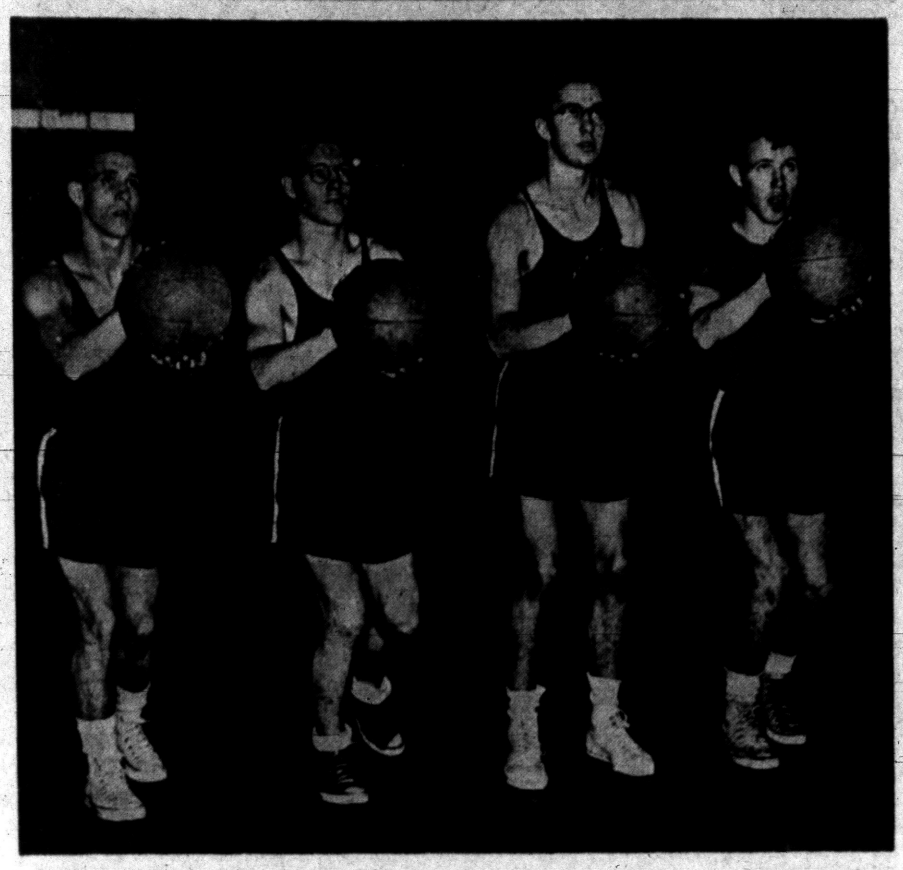

The leading teams on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 point basis first place votes and won-lost records through Sunday in parentheses):

1—Kentucky (30) (12-0).....764
2—Duquesne (15) (15-0).....707
3—Indiana (13) (12-1).....640
4—(Tie) Oklahoma A&M (8) (17-1)..541
and West. Kentucky (7) (18-0)..541
6—Notre Dame (2) (10-2).....230
7—Holy Cross (2) (13-1).....165
8—Minnesota (11-2).....163
9—Oklahoma City (4) (11-3).....135
10—George Washington (5) (12-1)....128

SECOND TEN

11—Seattle (2) (17-1), 115; 12—LaSalle (1) (15-2) 104; 13—Maryland (1) (12-4), 93; 14—Louisiana State (11-2), 83; 14—(tie) California (14-2), 83; 16—(tie) Wichita (16-2), 79; and Kansas (8-3), 79; 18—Connecticut (14-0), 47, and Dayton (14-4), 47; 20—Duke (12-4), 43.

Others receiving more than 10 points: Iowa 39, Wyoming (1) 36, Richmond 29, Idaho (1) and Navy 28, Louisville (1) 27, Bradley 25, Colorado Aggies 23, Oregon State and Rice 20, Vanderbilt 19, Niagara 10.

CONSISTENT SHOOTERS—Keego Harbor has relied on balanced scoring this season. If these President marksmen find the range, Keego could still be a strong factor in the Wayne-Oakland League race. From the left are John Wassel, Lester O'Shaunghnessy, Lloyd Law and Jerry O'Shaughnessy. Each manages between 9-14 points per game. Presidents play an important W-O game at home Tuesday against Northville.

Last Minute Toss Gives Greeks Win

A free throw by Tony Kazakos with 10 seconds remaining gave the Greek Orthodox Church a 35-34 basketball victory over the YMCA Monday night in Intramural League play at the Pontiac "Y".

In the other game, Apprentices routhed Oakland Avenue Presbyterian, 42-14.

Kazakos had two shots, missed the 1st, but made the 2nd. It nullified a great individual effort by the Y's Dick Mineweaser who bagged 22 of his teams 34 points. Sam Cosmas was high for the Greeks with 9.

Kentucky May Be Minus Top Stars for NCAA

Report Says Graduate Students Ineligible for Year-End Tourney

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A newspaper's report that three top Kentucky basketball players apparently will be ineligible for the NCAA Tournament started a flurry of action on the campus today.

* * *

Athletic Director Bernie Shively said he would look into the matter immediately.

In a story appearing in today's Louisville Courier-Journal, staff writer Larry Boeck said Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey and Lou Tsioropoulos apparently are ineligible for the tournament under an NCAA rule disqualifying graduate students.

Tsioropoulos received his bachelor of arts degree last August. Hagan, an All America center two years ago, and Ramsey expect to receive their degrees at the end of the current semester this month.

* * *

Thus, Kentucky, the nation's top ranked collegiate team, would be deprived of the services of its one-two-three scoring punch if it hopes to try for the national championship.

Kentucky's one-year suspension from basketball competition for overemphasizing the sport brought on the new difficulties. Although maintaining their playing eligibility in the Southeastern Conference, the players continued to progress academically.

Oliver K. Cornwell of the University of North Carolina, a member of the NCAA Eligibility Committee, told the Courier-Journal that Kentucky had not asked an eligibility ruling on the three players to his knowledge.

* * *

"It is my opinion that all three boys are ineligible for the NCAA championship tournament," Cornwell told the paper.

More Big Fish

The chamber said it gave out 167 plaques—11 more than in 1952—to sportsmen who caught big fish in the Traverse City region and gave them membership in the Che-Ge-Gon (Big Fish) club.

Prep Games Limited By Mid-Year Exams

By JACK SAYLOR

Mid-semester examinations hit the Oakland County prep basketball schedule this week. Tonight's card shows only 13 games involving county teams.

Only leagues in action are the Wayne-Oakland, Bi-County and Suburban Catholic.

With the end of Milford's 7-game winning streak, tonight's W-O contest between Keego Harbor and Northville takes on added importance. Keego is faced with the necessity of winning or being virtually counted out of championship contention.

Milford's loss was non-league, but the Redskins have seven more loop games to play, including one each with Northville and Keego and a pair against a dangerous Clarkston quintet.

Clarkston peppered the nets for 74 points in routing Clarenceville Friday and take a shot at Milford on the Redskins floor tonight. Milford has five straight conference victories. Northville's record is 4-1 and Keego stands 3-2.

A pair of undefeated fives clash in the Bi-County as Warren goes to Lake Shore. Each boasts a 7-0 record.

Other Oakland County teams are involved in non-conference play. Slumping Walled Lake, loser in 4 of its last 5 games, entertains Redford Union; Rochester, with seven wins in eight starts hosts Marine City.

Falcons, paced by high-scoring Arlan Stone, have lost only to Mt. Clemens St. Mary. That was a 57-54 overtime decision. It will be the season's second meeting with the St. Clair County five. Rochester won the 1st by a single point.

Oxford, conqueror of Milford, meets Almont of the Southern Thumb, and Lake Orion meets Avondale in a re-match. Leonard Visser's Orion club won the 1st game, 35-34, on the Auburn Heights' court.

In the Suburban Catholic loop, St. Fred's, flushed with two straight wins, tackles league-leading St. Benedict's on Rams' floor. Roger Nosek has sparked the Freds' resurgence by averaging nearly 23 points in the last three games.

St. Mikes is idle, but OL St. Mary meets winless St. Rita, and St. James is at St. Mary of Royal Oak.

Arthur Hill at Pontiac; Redford Union at Walled Lake; Marine City at Rochester; Lapeer at Davison; Almont at Oxford; Avondale at Lake Orion; Keego Harbor at Northville; Clarkston at Milford; Holly at Clarenceville; Brighton at South Lyon; Dearborn Roosevelt at Madison; Grosse Pointe at Fort Huron; Otter Lake at North Branch; Utica at Eastland; Warren at Lake Shore; South Lake at Lakeview; St. James at RO St. Mary; St. Rita at OL St. Mary; St. Benedict at St. Frederick.

Latest Coffee Price Hikes Resurrect Rationing Idea

By LAURA Z. HOBSON

NEW YORK (INS) An idea's been percolating through my mind about what to do if coffee goes to $1.20 a pound, and I'm piping hot about it.

It's not a boycott, though many housewives are threatening just that, and more power to them.

Among too many people, however, an absolute boycott might not stick. "Oh, beans," one of my friends said, "that's like biting off your nose to spite the grocer's face."

The beef boycott a while back was different — meat-lovers didn't have to become vegetarians; they could buy veal and chicken and pork and liver and lamb instead.

"I've tried it, so I know. Which is how I got my idea.

What I'm going to do is go back to rationing. With home-made ration stamps and tokens for myself and everybody I know who'll go along.

Rember during the war? In November of 1942, coffee rationing began and you got stamps for one pound per five weeks per person, which meant about a cup a day.

By February of '43, that was cut to a pound every six weeks, or ¾ cup per drinker per day.

What happened after a while was that when you had the bunch over for Sunday night supper, everybody brought a little envelope with a teaspoonful or so of coffee, and then when you went to their houses, you took an equal amount with you to pay it back.

It was jolly and neighborly—as well as sensible. And it would be all that again.

What's more, nobody would call you a miser if you hoarded the grounds from the morning coffee-pot, and sprinkled them with a few fresh grains at night for what the movies call "second runs."

If your husband found your whole crowd swapping little red coupons or any other form of IOUs, to show who owed who for the demi-tasse that night, he'd become more coffee-conscious and co-operative too.

No longer would he regard a weak, watery cup of java as grounds for a divorce, nor act so surprised at the breakfast table if you quietly fainted when he asked for a third refill.

And if enough people in enough communities set up their own voluntary coffee-rationing systems, the propaganda value would bubble higher and higher, and give off a fragrant aroma that would drift south of the border as far as Brazil.

Right to those coffee plantations where a sudden freeze last July is the January alibi for that possible $1.20 a pound. By comparison, the drop in demand would soon make the summer freeze seem like a tropical heat wave.

Lonesomeheart Is Lonely

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Barbara Lonesomeheart Taylor has been granted a divorce from Charles Taylor on grounds they have lived apart for three years.

Perjury Misfires, Lands Witness in Jail

WELCH, W. Va. (AP)—A 20-year-old Childs, Md., man who was a key defense witness in a malicious assault trial here Friday was in jail himself today.

James Henry Shortridge admitted lying on the witness stand, bearing out the charge of perjury.

He also admitted stealing a car in Maryland in order to get to the trial.

The crusher came when State Trooper J. N. Otto said Shortridge couldn't have been a witness to the assault to which he gave testimony at the trial. He said he was serving a term in the federal reformatory at Ashland, Ky., at the time.

Grains Slide Slightly Lower

CHICAGO (AP) — Grains slipped quietly lower on the Board of Trade today with losses limited in most cases to small fractions.

Disappointment over failure of any substantial export business to develop in wheat, lack of any incentive for buying feed grains and the possibility of increased country offerings of cash soybeans combined to give the market an easier undertone.

Wheat near the end of the first hour was ⅝ to 1⅛ cents lower, March $2.13½, corn unchanged to ⅝ lower, March $1.53¼, oats unchanged to ⅛ lower, March 80⅛, rye ¼ to ⅜ lower, March $1.24, soybeans ¾ lower to 1¾ higher, March $3.14⅞ and lard five cents lower to eight cents a hundred pounds higher, March $16.75.

Stocks Holding to Higher Points

Gains went to around a point while losses were held down to fractions, usually the smaller variety.

Major divisions higher or generally firm included steels, rubbers, oils, coppers, chemicals, textiles, tobaccos, aircrafts, and utilities.

Among higher stocks were Republic Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, Phelps Dodge, Du Pont, General Electric, American Woolen, American Tobacco, Santa Fe, and Sinclair Oil.

Yesterday the stock market was irregular. Just before the close a rally led by steels helped to improve the list from its lows.

who originally joined with the Americans still in Korea in refusing to come home. He later changed his mind.

Wilson's office said in a terse statement last night that the defense secretary has taken Dickenson's case under advisement.

The Army announced Friday night that the young Virginian faces charges that he dealt unlawfully with the enemy to get better treatment and that he curried favor with the enemy to the detriment of fellow POWs. A further pretrial investigation will determine whether he will be brought before a court-martial.

Dickenson is under arrest at Walter Reed Hospital, where he had come for a predischarge physical checkup.

View Hopeful Over Jobless

Detroit Put in Moderate Labor Surplus Grouping but March Is Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment is getting worse in Detroit and five other Michigan cities, a Labor Department survey showed today, but employers are "cautiously optimistic" that the downtrend will be halted by mid-March.

The department's bureau of employment security said unemployment had increased in nearly all of the 149 major labor market areas from November to January.

Detroit and Battle Creek were named, along with 13 other areas, as being in the "moderate labor surplus designation which means unemployment is affecting 3 to 6 per cent of the work force.

Both cities were previously listed as having a balanced labor supply.

Muskegon was changed from the "moderate" status to having "a substantial" labor surplus which means at least 6 per cent of available workers are jobless.

Ionia, Belding and Greenville were also added to the listing with Muskegon. All four areas will be eligible to special bidding on government contracts and to tax aid in erecting new plants and additions.

The new survey answers a complaint of CIO President Walter Reuther last week that the department worked too slowly on classifying labor areas.

He said that Michigan Employment Security Commission information showed that Detroit, Battle Creek, Muskegon, Port Huron and Michigan's Upper Peninsula should all be classed in the serious labor lists.

Of all the areas named by Reuther, only Muskegon fitted the new classification according to the Labor Department survey.

But Secretary of Labor Mitchell ordered new surveys for Detroit and the other Michigan points.

The Labor Department said the employment future in the automobile industry is "uncertain" but forecast little change for the steel and Textile industries.

However, the department pointed out, ordnance cutbacks by the Army will likely affect Detroit.

10 Pct. Income Tax Slash Is Predicted

JACKSON (AP) — An across-the-board cut of 10 per cent in all income taxes may come from the present Congress, if unemployment continues to increase. That is the prediction made under Washington dateline in the Jackson Citizen Patriot today.

The article written by Citizen Patriot Editor Carl M. Saunders from the national capital says that top Eisenhower men in Congress are ready to sponsor the tax cut in the hope that the public will use the "bonus" thus provided to buy "refrigerators, TV sets, automobiles" etc., by way of accelerating business.

The Washington report says that "men in the administration who should know" reported it unlikely that the White House would seriously oppose such a tax cut—provided the unemployment picture darkens.

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR darling Suzanne Kaye Pickering, who went home to her Heavenly Father 2 years ago today.
Your life's such a beautiful memory,
To grieve that it's gone seems unfair;
Like begrudging you more time in Heaven
Fondly remembered by Daddy, Mom, Stuart and Sharon.

IN MEMORY OF MY HUSBAND Ernest W. Werth, who passed away January 26, 1947. Nothing can take away the love a heart holds dear; fond memories linger every day. Remembrance keeps him near his wife, Delia and children.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF BENjamin H. Blackburn who passed away 3 years ago, January 20, 1951.
But never will the one we loved
Sadly missed by wife, Lena Vera Blackburn; 4 sons, Howard, Sam, Robert and Benjamin, Jr.; 2 daughters, Betty Jane and Vera Mae.
