To Get Around High Court

'Prayer' Amendment Asked

Ruling to Ban Recitations in School Rapped

Law Introduced Into House, Other Bills Eyed to Back Critical Clergy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A constitutional amendment to get around the Supreme Court ruling against official prayers in public schools was introduced in the House today and others were in the planning stage in both houses of Congress.

The bills, and the views stated by their sponsors amounted to a distillation from the cauldron of criticism stirred up among churchmen and legislators by the high court action.

The specific ruling of the court was that the Constitution's ban against establishment of religion is violated by this prayer authorized by New York State for its public schools:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers, and our country."

But the 6-1 decision said further that "it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers for any group of American people to recite as part of a religious program carried on by government."

First to act in Congress was Rep. Roy A. Taylor, D-N. C., who lists evangelist Billy Graham among his constituents.

He put in his bill shortly after Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., had announced plans to offer one along the same line in the Senate.

Almost simultaneously Rep. Frank Chelf, D-Ky., said he was sounding out House Judiciary Committee members on such a bill.

Chelf, criticizing other recent court rulings, said that if he cannot get legislation to that end he will favor a law limiting Supreme Court justices to a specific term of years instead of the present lifetime appointments.

Rep. Thomas F. Johnson, D-Md., joined the parade with an announcement that he too is drafting a proposed Constitutional amendment to permit "noncompulsory prayers in public schools and other places."

All the sponsors of legislative proposals expressed fear of an extension of the legal theory back of the court's ruling.

Johnson's statement said he

Drainage Plan Officially Wiped Off the Books

County Unit Dismisses Original Pontiac Bid at City's Request

A $4-million Clinton River drainage project died this morning, giving place to a tentative new plan possibly ranging from $2,120,000 to $2,620,000 in cost.

The Oakland County Drain Commission officially wiped off the books a city petition for a bigger project, after City Manager Robert Stierer reported on the latest viewpoint of the City Commission.

The city now will have to petition for an okay on the new plan as soon as commissioners definitely agree on its scope.

City Commissioners at an informal meeting last night indicated their possible approval of placing a $2,130,000 stretch of river in an underground conduit from 200 feet west of the Grand Trunk Western Railway tracks to Pike Street.

The commissioners also indicated they might be willing to extend this stretch from Pike Street to Union Street for another $500,000.

★ ★ ★

OBJECTED TO PLAN

At the last formal City Commission meeting, both Commissioners Milton R. Henry and Charles H. Harmon had objected to a slashed plan to spend a then estimated $2,500,000.

One objection voiced by Harmon was that the plan would overburden the city capital improvement fund. Last night, this objection appeared to be met with information that the city could ask the county to collect taxes for the river project.

The bill for the project then would be sent to city taxpayers by the county and would not appear on the capital fund. This method of tax collection is being used by other municipalities in the 12-Town Drain Project, Stierer told commissioners.

Commissioners last night appeared impressed by arguments to give priority to the railroad track-to-Pike Street section:

★ ★ ★

Current delay of the river project decision has already caused a hold-up by Chicago urban renewal officials of any further processing of the R44 Urban Renewal Area plans, Stierer told commissioners.

In addition, the Michigan State Highway Department told Stierer it could not proceed with further design work on the west leg of the perimeter road until it "knows the exact nature

Resumption Depends on Hearing

PanAm Strike in Balance

NEW YORK (AP)—Possible resumption of the flight engineers' strike against Pan American World Airways hinged on the outcome of a federal court hearing today.

Daniel Kornblum, counsel to the engineers' union, predicted that the U.S. District Court in New York would lift the temporary restraining order which ended the strike four hours after it started last Saturday. Kornblum called the ban clearly untenable under the law.

Ron A. Brown, president of the union, said that if the temporary order is lifted, Pan Am's 500 flight engineers will strike again immediately.

Today's hearing before Judge George Rosling was on whether a full-fledged injunction against a strike should be issued. Union counsel have been called upon to show cause why such an injunction should not be granted.

Rosling issued the temporary order Saturday on a plea by Pan Am. Rosling acted under terms of the National Railway Labor Act, which covers transportation.

Eastern Air Lines — struck Saturday at the same time as Pan Am — has been closed down since then by the walkout of its 575 flight engineers. A spokesman for Eastern said it did not seek an order similar to that obtained by Pan Am because Eastern's position was "somewhat different." He did not elaborate.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said in Washington that negotiations of the AFL-CIO Flight Engineers International Association are deadlocked with both Pan Am and Eastern.

Flight Engineers 'Lie' in Claim of Safety

WASHINGTON (AP)— A principal union claim in the present airline labor controversy — that a flight engineer must be a qualified mechanic in order to operate jet planes safely — has been termed pure bunk by the government's top civil aviation official.

Najeeb A. Halaby, Federal Aviation administrator, says such a claim as advanced by the Flight Engineers International Association is "a base lie."

"Any spokesman for the Flight Engineers Association who claims that air safety is involved, or compromised," Halaby said, "is just irresponsible and distorting the situation for his own end. There is no safety compromise, and there won't be any."

Government officials made public here portions of a news conference Halaby held on the matter Monday at the Investment Banking Association convention at Santa Barbara, Calif.

Dam Switch Fails, 3 States Go Dark

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—A new switch that proved faulty was blamed today for a two-hour power failure which affected several million persons in parts of three states.

Officials said it would take some time to determine what went wrong with the switch at South Dakota's Fort Randall Dam, cutting off 320,000 kilowatts of power to two-thirds of Iowa and Nebraska and parts of South Dakota.

It was the first time the switch had been used, an Army Corps of Engineers' official said.

Coupled with failure of a 100,000-kilowatt generator at Omaha, the interruption in power from the Fort Randall Dam caused power suppliers in adjoining states to "go flat."

The chain reaction was "like a line of dominoes," each causing another failure, one official said.

Omaha, Lincoln, Neb., Des Moines, Iowa, and other cities were cut off from service, but emergency systems throughout the area prevented serious trouble at hospitals and other institutions.

Strategic Air Command headquarters relied on its own emergency system and came through without incident.

'WHAT HAPPENED?'

At Omaha, thousands of persons walked the streets as everything from traffic lights to air conditioning went out.

They asked each other, what

Airport Plans Awaiting FAA

Supervisors Also Vote Oakland Medical Care Official Survey

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday left it up to its aviation committee to recommend future plans for the county airport site.

The board also authorized a health and medical care survey costing $15,000.

A resolution to abandon the jet airport, in favor of establishing a community college on the property, was made by Orion Township Supervisor John Lessiter.

His suggestion was offered in light of the fact that the Federal Aviation Agency has rejected the county's plans to establish a major jet air terminal in Pontiac and Orion townships.

TO AWAIT REPORT

Springfield Township Supervisor John Carey, acting chairman of the aviation committee, said his committee would not convene on Lessiter's resolution until after the county has received official notification of the FAA's disapproval.

Announcement of the rejection was made a week ago by U.S. Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County), following a communication he received from the FAA regional office at Kansas City.

The request to spend $15,000 for a study of the various hospitalization and health programs of the county was made by Ways and Means Chairman David Levinson, supervisor from Birmingham.

The study is needed "to determine whether these services are being furnished economically and yet consistent with the type and degree of care required," he said.

AUTHORIZE SURVEY

The survey will be conducted by the United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit, along with the appointment of a director and citizens committee here.

It is expected to take 6 to 9 months to complete.

UF Leaders Meet, Plan 'Commercials'

Leaders of the Pontiac Area United Fund met last night and concentrated on "UF commercials."

A team of business and civic leaders headed by UF General Chairman Fred Haggard met at the Waldron Hotel to shape plans for operations of the UF's commercial division, which solicits contributions from business, government, professional and educational groups.

Bruce Annett, division chairman, met with members of his committee and discussed assignments for the 1962 campaign. Annett said Charles Brown, Pontiac Division manager of Consumers Power Co., will head the chapter plus group which last year raised pledges of $116,399. This section is made up of businesses with 10 or more employes.

SECONDARY GROUP

Governmental units will be under the direction of David Ewalt, director of the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation. Last year this group raised $16,956 in pledges.

Dr. Michael Kozonis will lead two professional groups in their efforts to top the $27,789 pledged a year ago.

Work among educational groups will be led by William Shunck, superintendent of Waterford Township schools. These groups pledged $15,620 a year ago.

Prior to the October opening of the drive, additional committee heads will be named and several hundred solicitors recruited, Annett said.

Scholle Ousted by Republicans

Refuse to Okay Board Appointment; Accused of Spite Work

LANSING (AP) — The controversy over whether Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle should serve on the State Conservation Commission has ended.

★ ★ ★

Senate Republicans decided in a straight party line vote, 18-8, last night to reject Scholle's appointment. The labor leader has been serving on the commission on a tentative basis for more than a year.

Gov. Swainson flayed the Senate action as a demonstration of "cheap, shoddy politics—of government by spite."

In explaining the Senate Business Committee's recommendation that Scholle be turned out, Chairman John W. Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, argued that the Senate was in a fight for survival because of Scholle's Supreme Court suit on reapportionment.

★ ★ ★

"We are in a fight for our own survival — and Mr. Scholle is the motivating center of the attack," Fitzgerald said. "It is time to rise up in righteous indignation."

★ ★ ★

Democrats said Scholle had proven to be an outstanding conservation commissioner, and they accused the Republicans of making a political issue out of the appointment.

Aides' Wives OK, Lad Dies in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — The wife of U. S. Ambassador Frederick Nolting said she and the wife of American Commander-Gen. Paul Harkins escaped injury today when a flight of helicopters in which they were riding was fired on by Communist guerrillas.

The 5-year-old son of a Vietnamese army colonel was killed in action.

Mrs. Nolting said a party of wives was being flown to the town of Bien Hoa, 15 miles north of Saigon, to see new quarters constructed there for families of Vietnamese 5th Division soldiers.

The helicopter carrying Mrs. Nolting, of Danville, Va., and Mrs. Harkins, of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, was not hit by the Communist fire from the ground. But another helicopter carrying the young son of Col. Truong Khue Quang, director of welfare services for the Vietnamese armed forces, was hit and the boy was wounded. He died on the way back to Saigon.

Mrs. Nolting told United Press International that the incident occurred about 10 a. m. (9 p. m. Pontiac time) Monday when the two helicopters reached Bien Hoa and encountered difficulty in landing because of heavy fog.

To Buck GOP Tradition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced today it is studying plans for a few nuclear detonations in Nevada "slightly above ground or at depths shallow enough to form craters." The shots would be of "very low yields" — probably meaning the blast equivalent of perhaps 2,000 to 3,000 tons of TNT at the most.

See No Red China Invasion

Arms to Quiet Chiang? - Allies

Rusk, Lord Home Said to Feel Islands in No Immediate Danger

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home reportedly believe Red China's military buildup in Fukien Province does not foreshadow an attempt on the Nationalist-held offshore islands. They think it may be meant to silence Chiang Kai-shek's threats to invade the mainland.

Spokesmen said Rusk and Home reached this conclusion Monday in wide-ranging talks that paid much attention to the Communist buildup opposite the Nationalist islands of Quemoy and Matsu, just off the Communist mainland.

★ ★ ★

'HELPED TO CLARIFY'

The talks aligning British-American views on Communist threats and inter-Allied problems followed Rusk's meetings with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn. Rusk's aides expressed belief his trip has helped clarify some misconceptions among chief allies of America over aspects of U.S. policy.

Rusk's round of talks heralded the start of a period of intensive maneuvering between the Communists and the Western powers.

The three Western Allies sent notes to Moscow Monday calling on the Soviet Union to join four-power talks in Berlin to end violence along the Berlin wall and try to bring peace to the divided city.

AGREE TO ATTEND

Rusk and Home agreed to attend the signing next month of a 14-power pact being written at Geneva to guarantee the neutrality of Laos. If Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko also attends, it would provide an opportunity to confer anew on Berlin, disarmament, nuclear tests and other East-West problems.

★ ★ ★

Summing up the results of Rusk's trip so far, his aides said he had not come over to break up what has been called the Paris-Bonn axis because that would be against America's own interests.

GIVES ASSURANCES

He had not brought along any plan to help France's nuclear weapons program, but he gave assurances that America stands ready to help build up a multilateral European nuclear force dovetailed with American nuclear might.

Rusk told Home that De Gaulle had assured him that Britain's bid for entry into the flourishing Common Market would not be vetoed for political reasons. American diplomats feel that Britain's entry into the European Economic Community could provide the basis for setting up an American-backed nuclear strike force within the framework of the Atlantic alliance.

The board voted 59 to 11 in favor of giving the road commission here the added power.

Sylvan Lake Supervisor Don R. MacDonald, chairman of the roads and bridges committee, said the authorization was necessary to speed widening of 15 thoroughfares in the county.

Prayer Ruling Hit by Solons, Ministers

fears it will lead to efforts to "delete from our pledge of allegiance the portion which says 'one nation under God' and will lead to a marked deterioration of spiritual emphasis in the United States."

Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., had taken a similar line yesterday with a comment that "the next thing you know they'll be telling us we can't open our daily house sessions with prayer."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., was asked today if he expected any effects on the daily prayer, and he snorted in response: "of course not."

The decision—written by Justice Hugo L. Black—likely will have broad impact.

Some states require public schools to begin each day with the Lord's Prayer. The wording of Black's opinion indicated these state laws also violate the First Amendment.

Wrote Black:

"It is neither sacrilegious nor antireligious to say that each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves and those the people choose to look to for religious guidance."

The only dissenter in the decision was Justice Potter Stewart who noted that the Supreme Court's own sessions are opened with the words "God save the United States and this honorable court," and that the House and Senate begin the day with prayers.

He also observed that the "Star-Spangled Banner" invokes God's help.

In the majority decision, Black noted parenthetically that there is nothing in the ruling inconsistent with the fact that school children and others are often called on to express love for our country by reciting historical documents such as the Declaration of Independence which contains references to the deity or by singing officially espoused anthems which include the composer's professions of faith in a supreme being or with the fact that there are many manifestations in our public life of belief in God."

While there were many expressions of protest, there were also voices raised in approval of the ruling.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, an elder in the Mormon Church, remarked:

"I don't know how much further we can go to forbid the expression of even the simplest acknowledgement of a belief in God. How long will it be before the daily prayer in Congress is considered a violation of the constitution?"

In Lansing, Michigan's deputy attorney general today said the U. S. Supreme Court ruling against prayers in public schools follows the line already established by legal rulings in Michigan.

Leon Cohan, deputy attorney general, cited two rulings made in 1961 at the request of the department of public instruction.

A religious training program sponsored by the Rural Bible Mission was held to be unconstitutional, Cohan said. The program used public school facilities during school hours.

Use of public schools after school hours by religious groups was held constitutional, Cohan said, citing the decision allowing religious training classes to be held in public schools in Crystal Falls in Iron County.

Cohan pointed out, however, that the public school must not aid or promote attendance in the religious program.

The Day in Birmingham

Unitarian Members Tell of Temporary Minister

BIRMINGHAM — Robert Marshall, an Ann Arbor bookstore owner, has been named interim minister of the Birmingham Unitarian Church. He succeeds Rev. Lester Mondale who recently resigned.

Although trained as a Congregational minister at the Chicago Theological Seminary, Marshall, 41, has for several years been engaged part time in the Unitarian ministry.

Most recently he has been interim minister for the Universalist-Unitarian Church at Horton.

He has also served as guest minister at various Unitarian churches in southeastern Michigan and has been active speaker before campus and community groups in the Ann Arbor area.

In 1948-49, he managed the UAW bookstore in Detroit. He started his own book shop while a seminary student.

Marshall is married and has five children. He and his family will continue to live in Ann Arbor. He will spend about two days each week in Birmingham.

A $6,168 contract for the construction of a sanitary sewer to serve the Bloomfield Surf Club was awarded last night by the Bloomfield Township Board.

Receiving the contract was the Dane Construction Co, of Clawson, the lowest of five bidders for the project on Square Lake Road, just east of Woodward Avenue.

While the township awards the contract, the club will pay for the construction.

The board, in another action, amended the township swimming pool ordinance.

The purpose of the provision is to keep home owners from constructing pools adjacent to neighbor's property.

of the Clinton River improvement."

At the same time, Harold Kelley of Jones, Henry and Williams, the firm doing initial planning told commissioners, "if there is any holdup in the perimeter road . . . there will be a delay in construction of the new water mains scheduled in the Parke Street right of way." The mains would carry part of Pontiac's new Detroit water supply.

WOULD BE CHEAPER

Stierer also repeated that the river project would yield the city at least $800,000 in credit on its urban renewal expenses in R20 and R44. This sum would be deducted from the one-third share of total urban renewal cost which the city must bear. The other two-thirds are carried by the federal government.

The engineers also said that river conduit construction would be cheaper during the time that buildings were razed in the urban renewal area.

Kelley added:

"Construction of this stretch, during the time the area is clear of buildings while urban renewal is going on, also would save the city the astronomical cost of tunneling underground."

Most of the conduit construction could be done in open-cut fashion, with the conduits being covered later.

★ ★ ★

There was hope on the horizon last night that federal and state funds might help pay for a large portion of river not being immediately considered by the City Commission.

★ ★ ★

The section from Union Street eastward could be delayed until federal public works funds become available.

A law to provide these has already passed the House and is now in Senate committee, Stierer said.

Another section — approximately from Belmont Street to Tasmania —would be improved by the state highway commission, because building of the I-75 Highway includes rerouting of the Clinton River in that area.

In Estes Hearing

Gives Conflicting Version

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of a House subcommittee investigating the Billie Sol Estes case said today he would refer the "diametrically opposed" testimony of two key witnesses to the Justice Department for possible perjury prosecution.

WASHINGTON (AP — Lawyer Frank Cain repeated today testimony about a mid-March meeting with Billie Sol Estes that contradicted the story told by Maynard C. Wheeler, president of Commercial Solvents Corp.

Cain, in testimony prepared for the House Government Operations subcommittee, told essentially the same story that he related to a Texas court of inquiry in April about a breakfast meeting at Estes' Pecos, Tex., home.

Wheeler told a sharply different version to the committee June 13 and called Cain's Texas testimony "false and defamatory" and "slander of the most vicious kind."

Cain is a Dallas attorney representing finance companies which had loaned money to Estes. Wheeler's firm also gave Estes extensive credit, for purchase of fertilizer and a start in the grain storage business.

Cain touched on all the essential points of his statement in Texas, without any major changes.

This establishes a direct conflict of testimony under oath which subcommittee counsel James Naughton says is likely to reach the Justice Department for study of possible perjury charges.

Naughton, however, says the committee is interested only in finding the truth, not in having anybody prosecuted for perjury.

Estes, 37, a West Texas financier, is under indictment for fraud and his holdings are in receivership.

He is also on trial in Pecos, Tex., on a state charge of felony theft in the sale of liquid fertilizer tanks.

Cain testified in Texas that during the meeting with Estes, Wheeler said, "If Billie gets too involved, we can always use him as a consultant in Switzerland."

Cain added, "Billie spoke up and said, 'Well, I think Brazil will be better.'"

He said Wheeler "dropped several names" of high Agriculture Department officials and said "If we have to, why we can step in here and take the place of Billie. We can keep those tanks full, too."

Wheeler denied saying any of the things.

Estes had assigned payments for surplus grain storage to Commercial Solvents as collateral for loans and when arrested, he owed the company more than $5 million.

Swainson's March for Money Flops

LANSING (AP) Gov. Swainson's plea for a public march on the capitol to demand bigger legislative appropriations produced only about 100 participants today, including 30 school children.

"It was a complete flop," chortled Sen. Lynn O. Francis, R-Midland, Senate majority leader. "This indicates that people are thinking conservatively and that they have been saddled with all the taxes they can take."

Swainson sent out 2,000 letters last week to groups and individuals, urging them to rally in Lansing and call on the legislature for bigger appropriations for education, mental health and other state programs.

Those who assembled included Democratic legislators, Ingham County party officials and tourists. Swainson told his listeners he had been told that many more demonstrators were on their way.

In a two-minute speech, the governor said he found a great deal of public support for his spending program in tours around the state since last December.

The governor called attention to 1,700 mentally retarded citizens waiting for admission to state institutions as justification for a bigger appropriation for mental health programs.

Sanity of Sheldry Topp Upheld After Testimony

A circuit court decision requiring Sheldry Topp to stand trial for the murder of Charles Davis remained unchanged yesterday despite testimony from two doctors that the defendant is insane.

Judge William J. Beer continued his previous ruling that Topp is mentally competent to face trial after hearing testimony from three doctors and Topp's parents at a sanity hearing.

Drs. Morris Golden of Warren and Ira Altshuler of Southfield, who examined Topp at the Oakland County jail, told the court they considered the 17-year old youth insane and unable to understand the proceedings against him.

Dr. Gisela Schroeder of Pontiac State Hospital, who examined Topp at the hospital and at Detroit's Lafayette Clinic in 1959, said she does not consider the defendant psychotic.

These divided opinions brought the total medical testimony in Topp's case to 4-2, the majority convinced the youth is not insane.

Three other doctors who examined Topp testified at an earlier hearing that he is not psychotic and can assist in his own defense.

Topp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvery J. Topp of Mt. Clemens, were called first to testify at yesterday's hearing. Both said their son had been a "problem" child since he was about 12 years old.

They told the court he had been in trouble for theft, window peeping and entering a girls' restroom at school.

Topp and Dr. Walter Obenauf, superintendent of Pontiac State Hospital, were not called to testify although defense attorney Gilbert Davis submitted their names beforehand as witnesses.

According to Asst. Prosecutor Richard Condit, Topp's examination on first degree murder charges has not been definitely rescheduled. It will be held in Pontiac Township Justice Court, he said, probably sometime next week.

Ban on Prayers Affects 2 Areas

Novi, Bloomfield Hills Schools to Bow to Rules by Supreme Court

Yesterday's U. S. Supreme Court ban on prayers in public schools is expected to bar the practice in the Novi and Bloomfield Hills school districts.

Both school boards had endorsed the practice earlier this year, bowing to heavy public pressure.

"I suppose you would consider the ruling a mandate from the Supreme Court, and our local policies have to be in accord with the law of the land."

He added the item would be placed on a board of education future agenda but said he could not set an immediate date.

In Bloomfield Hills, the ruling may be up for discussion at the 8 p.m. July 17 board meeting, according to Supt. Eugene L. Johnson.

Johnson today agreed with Culbert that, "off-hand, the ruling would appear to be a mandate."

"It would be assumed," he added, "that, since the ruling specified application to governmental agencies, we would be affected."

Johnson added he wanted to read the full ruling before making any further policy changes. Besides, he added, "the prayer issue is no problem during the summer when most of our classes are special courses in junior and senior high schools."

The prayer issue had cropped up in elementary school classes during the regular session, he noted.

The Bloomfield Hills board had originally on Dec. 13 banned prayers in classrooms. However it yielded 4-to-1 to demands for a permissive policy voiced by 500 parents at a public hearing Jan. 16.

In Novi, the school board also had voted 4-to-1 to accept a written policy allowing prayers submitted Feb. 14 by a citizens group.

Police rushed from desk duties to jammed intersections to keep traffic moving.

"My electric typewriter wouldn't work," a secretary said, "but not having air conditioning was worst of all." Windows closed since cooling units were installed years ago, opened again. Hundreds of workers peered out at the streets from darkened offices.

Concessionaires Win Lo-ong Baseball Game

DETROIT (UPI) — The concession owners at Tiger Stadium had a field day when the New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers staged their seven-hour, 22-inning marathon game Sunday.

They estimated that the 33,638 spectators drank 41,600 cups of beer and 34,500 soft drinks; ate 5,165 boxes of popcorn, 10,000 ice cream bars, 32,200 hot dogs, 2,800 hamburgers, 3,500 bags of potato chips and 5,000 bags of peanuts.

Mid-June Sees 15,999 Sales of Pontiac, Tempest

Retail sales of 15,999 new Pontiacs and Tempests were reported by dealers during the middle 10 days of June, it was announced today by Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager for Pontiac Motor Division.

This represents an increase of 59 per cent over the same period a year ago when the figure was 10,054, Bridge said.

For the first 20 days in June, Pontiac and Tempest deliveries total 30,222, Bridge said. He added that Pontiac has sold 383,836 cars since the new models first went on sale last September. This is 47,828 more than were sold during the entire 1961 model year.

OAS Continues Oran Terror Following Huge Oil Blaze

ALGIERS (UPI) — The European Secret Army Organization (OAS) resumed its Oran offensive today as weary firefighters brought under control the huge oil fire which terrorists set yesterday.

Plastic bombs shattered telephone exchanges in two districts, cutting communications with two major police stations. A building housing the departmental headquarters of the Health Ministry was burned.

Official sources estimated that nearly half the original European population of 200,000 in Oran now has left the Western port city for France, some 150,000 since June 6.

★ ★ ★

Reliable sources said that while the fires in the oil storage area of the port were still raging this morning, all danger of the fire spreading now had ceased. No casualties have been reported.

FIRE CONTAINED

For a time the flames threatened to engulf a wide area of the city and harbor but officials said they believed they had contained the blaze to a section of 10 storage tanks.

Flames 90 feet high still leaped up from the fuel oil tanks after daybreak today and an immense shroud of greasy, black smoke hung over the city. The sun looked like a luminous tennis ball through the black haze.

Gen. Joseph Katz, Oran Military Commander, took charge of the battle and flew over the area in a helicopter. Extra firefighters were sent in from the big Mers-El-Keber naval base.

Residents fled homes near the fire area, some of them crying in panic. Ten thousand persons flocked to the area to watch the battle.

JAMES MEREDITH

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—"A man with a mission and with a nervous stomach."

That's the way U.S. Circuit Judge John Minor Wisdom describes James H. Meredith, who has come closer than any Negro in cracking Mississippi's school segregation barrier.

★ ★ ★

Wisdom wrote the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision issued in New Orleans Monday which ordered U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize to issue an injunction forcing the white University of Mississippi to admit Meredith.

★ ★ ★

It took more than a year for Meredith to get the order. Mize, 74, an Ole Miss graduate, rejected his suit several times.

SEEKS COMMON GROUND

"I have no argument, fight or struggle with segregation," he said. "I seek only to find a common ground for settlement of our mutual problems. My relationship with whites goes no further."

Meredith described the appellate court decision as a good birthday present. He turned 29 Monday.

★ ★ ★

Meredith said his ambition is best described by Ole Miss registrar Robert B. Ellis, who once said: "This man has a mission in life to correct all the ills of the world."

★ ★ ★

Attorneys for the state of Mississippi used Ellis' description as one reason why Meredith should not be admitted to the 126-year-old university.

Wisdom commented on Ellis description and noted that the defense made strong issue of an Air Force psychiatrists report that Meredith suffered occasional nervous stomach and was extremely concerned with racial problems.

The judge wrote: "It is certainly understandable that a sensitive Negro, especially one overseas, might have a nervous stomach over the racial problem.

"There must be a good many Negroes stateside with similar abdominal reactions."

Meredith is only six credit hours away from graduation at Jackson State (Negro) College. Ole Miss officials say he will lose half his credits by transferring to the university, must take a full year's course to graduate, and will lose his GI educational benefits.

Meredith says he is financially stable and doesn't mind the delays. Married and the father of a 3-year-old son, he owns three farms near his native home of Kosciusko in central Mississippi.

Ole Miss authorities and state officials had no comment on the appeals court decision. They almost certainly will appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court, which recessed Monday until Oct. 1.

Rights Unit Named to Study Military

Swainson Urges Aid in Campaign Against Litter

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson yesterday asked representatives of Michigan's communications businesses to help the campaign to keep the state's roads, beaches and parks free from litter.

Swainson said "Michigan's natural scenic attractions are often marred by careless littering on the part of ordinary citizens," as he asked the group to help an education campaign geared to Michigan's summer and fall vacationers.

★ ★ ★

"The communications industries have always cooperated in worthwhile civic endeavors, the governor said. "I am sure their cooperation in this drive will pay great dividends in making Michigan first in the nation in the cleanliness of our public places."

British Put American on Best-Dressed List

LONDON (AP)—American millionaire J. Paul Getty was selected yesterday as one of this nation's 10 best-dressed men.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan failed to make the list, but got honorable mention.

Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, neither made the first 10 nor received mention of any kind. A fashion writer once criticized Prince Philip for wearing his breast pocket handkerchiefs American style — that is, squared and straight across the pocket. The style expert said it was a bad habit that Philip must have picked up in the United States.

The selections are made annually by the Clothing Manufacturers Association.

LIVES IN BRITAIN

Of Getty, the clothing men said: "He has been nominated not because of the size of his wardrobe or the price he pays for his suits, but simply because he maintains the spirit of these awards — to dress well on each and every occasion."

The clothing men said this showed: "That when in a crisis, a man—just as much as a woman—can obtain a moment of relief by buying an article of clothing."

Others chosen in the list of Britain's 10 best-dressed:

Architect Sir William Holford.

Rock 'n' roll singer Cliff Richards.

Paint manufactuer Michael Mander.

Racing driver Innes Ireland.

Informed of the award, Getty said: "It came as a complete surprise. I'm pleased of course, but I thought I might be one of the last men to get this one."

Colorado has 40 mountain peaks more than 14,000 feet in altitude.

Are You Registered to Vote in Primaries?

This week has been proclaimed as Voter Registration Week, with registration continuing until July 9. If you are not on the rolls, you cannot vote. Once registered, a citizen must vote once in every four years to protect his eligibility. Otherwise, he must reapply.

Places of registration through the county for the Aug. 7 primaries are city and township halls. If there is any doubt regarding your registration status, call the respective city or township clerk.

The county's present number eligible to vote is 328,615. The high point was for the 1960 presidential election when 356,875 were registered. Of that number, 301,405 voted—a sobering 16 per cent indication of apathy among those qualified.

We believe that now and in the years ahead, government—good government—should be the primary interest of every American. We are touched by it on all levels—Federal, State, Local. And the only way citizens can have a part in it, make their voice heard, influence it, is by action at the polls.

Every election, therefore, is important—whether it be for national headline-making issues or confined to wholly local matters. The important thing is that citizens develop the voting HABIT—that they come to regard it as a sacred privilege—and obligation.

Let your vote conscience make you vote conscious!

Shipping Rate for Pigs Creates Quite a Tale

It dealt with an initial difference of opinion between the station agent of an interurban express company and the consignee of two guinea pigs over the shipping rate to be applied — a lower one if considered "pets"; higher (five cents each) if just "pigs."

★ ★ ★

By the time File No. A6754 became swollen with communications and attendant matter from

- Consignee to Company and referral back to Claim Department;
- Consignee to Claim Department and referral back to Tariff Department;
- Tariff Department to Station Agent;
- Station Agent to Tariff Department;
- Tariff Department to Station Agent, citing Rule 83, General Instructions to Agents;
- Tariff Department to President of company as to whether guinea pigs were pigs or not pigs;
- President to a Prof. Gordon, an authority on such matters, who proved to be in South America;
- Prof. Gordon—eventually—to President, pointing out that the guinea pig was the Cavia aparoea while the common pig was the genus Sus of the family Suidae;
- Audit Department to Station Agent and reply therefrom, followed by continuous exchanges, the guinea pigs totaled 5,043 and occupied almost the entire station premises; two boys had been hired full time to help care for them; a cabbage bill of $64 had been run up—and the consignee had moved, leaving no trace.

★ ★ ★

The point of all this? We think it is ridiculously analogous to some standard procedures of the mushrooming bureaucracy in Washington.

IN opposing the proposed "medicare" for the aged legislation, the AMA is fighting a losing battle, as every American is either a Senior Citizen or he expects to become one.

READING about the recent "trunk" murder in Chicago brought back memories of the "Roaring Twenties" and gave us an enjoyable painful spell of nostalgia.

IN THE Southeast it has been extremely hot and dry so long that even the grass is wilting slightly.

Retiree's a Goad!

Crisis Is Averted by Exit of Friend

By HOWARD V. HELDENBRAND

A close friend (name and address only under subpoena) is prepared to say "balderdash" to the stories about retirees being lost when they leave the job.

His neighbor (recently retired) is unintentionally working him into the ground. Got his sailboat in the water first, after almost rebuilding it. Keeps his lawn trimmed so that our friend feels guilty about the difference at the lot line. The neighbor stubbornly keeps his place so carefully tended that my C. F. is developing an inferiority complex.

Just at the breaking point, however, our diligent trouble spot over the fence showed his true, friendly colors. He took off for a week, and gave our beleaguered panting friend a loafing and catching up spell.

In Washington:

Administration's Farm Bill Defeat

By PETER EDSON

Picking himself off the floor after the surprise knockdown 215-205 vote which defeated the Kennedy administration farm bill in the House of Representatives, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has already begun to fight another round in his battle to get new legislation through Congress this year.

EDSON

The official line at Department of Agriculture is "no comment" until the full strategy can be worked out.

But it can be stated authoritatively that the administration is not taking the House vote as a complete and final defeat. A six-vote switch would have changed the result in the administration's favor.

As soon as the vote was tallied department officials in charge of the legislation went to work on changes that might be made to get an acceptable bill. They worked most of the night and were at it again early next morning.

The House vote did not kill the bill for the session. It merely sent the bill back to the House Agriculture Committee for reconsideration. The legislation has already been sent back to committee three times. So what comes up next will be a fourth round in a long hard fight.

That puts the business up to House Agriculture Committee Chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N. C., and his 22 Democrats, 14 Republican colleagues. The chairman, sometimes unpredictable, is reported to be willing to make another try. But he has been known to change his mind.

The administration already has a farm bill passed by the Senate. This is an important factor in the decision not to give up after the House licking. The Senate bill is a lot tougher than the final bill on which the House voted.

There is little chance that the Senate bill will be taken up by the House without change. But if any kind of legislation can be put through the House, it will then go to conference with the Senate. And there are good chances that a bill acceptable to the administration can be agreed on.

In trying to analyze what caused the House to reverse itself on the final farm bill vote, after defeating a number of crippling amendments in four days of tough debate, a number of factors are cited. It was no one issue.

Some of the amendments adopted on the floor, like those on release and reapportionment of acreage allotments, lost the administration a few votes.

The 48 anti-administration Democrats — 37 from the South — held the balance of power, obviously. Other defecting Democrats included some city Democrats who don't like to be considered administration rubber stamps.

The circus atmosphere of the House "debate" on the bill also sickened a number of congressmen. They swallowed the amendments but couldn't stomach the whole bill.

The Estes case is not believed to have turned any Democratic votes against the farm bill, but it may have caused some farm belt Republicans who might otherwise have voted for the bill in principle to vote against it.

Opposition to the Kennedy-Freeman program by American Farm Bureau Federation and the cattlemen's organizations influenced many congressmen to vote against it.

★ ★ ★

While Republicans claim the House vote is a repudiation of Kennedy control and regimentation farm proposals, Democrats charge the Republicans with irresponsible action by voting in effect to continue the present farm chaos at a cost to taxpayers of $1 billion a year.

He stated that it was not the responsibility of Republicans to propose solutions to farm problems, but to criticize the Democratic administration at every point.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

Preserve Value of Food With Waterless Cooking

We have previously summarized the recommendations of the AMA Council on Food and Nutrition for preserving nutritive values when storing foods. Here are further suggestions for cooking:

Waterless cooking is one of the best ways to develop maximum flavor and to reduce vitamin and mineral losses in food preparation.

As an example, remove a bunch of fresh, tender carrots from refrigerator about a half hour before expected meal. Scrub with stiff vegetable brush. While still dripping wet, place in preheated, thick-bottomed container.

★ ★ ★

Salt lightly. Add one tablespoonful of water (no more). Moisten the inside of a snug-fitting lid. Cover the container. Place over medium heat. Turn burner to low as soon as steam starts to escape. Do not lift lid for 20 minutes.

Just before serving, add butter. Serve while still hot. (Vitamins of the B complex and iron are lost when foods are soaked, overcooked and drained).

★ ★ ★

Do not wash rice. Add only enough water to permit grains to swell. Do not rinse after cooking. These precautions essential to preservation of thiamine and perhaps other constituents of vitamin B complex.

★ ★ ★

Do not sear, rapidly brown or overcook roasts and thus preserve maximum concentrations of vitamin B complex.

Do not cut foods in small pieces. The larger the surface area exposed, the greater the loss of vitamins and minerals.

Serve "pot liquor" with vegetable (contains much of vitamin content especially if large quantity of water is added).

★ ★ ★

The rate of vitamin C destruction in cookery is hastened if the food is prepared in a copper utensil.

'So What's the Big Debate About Fluoride in Water?'

It'll be wonderful if we get fluoride in our water. Ninety-five per cent of the population is affected by tooth decay. Here we have a simple and inexpensive means of decreasing this rate and yet we debate whether we want it. An individual living with fluoridated water from birth will have a 60 per cent prevention of decay and possibly better.

★ ★ ★

We would pay for it twice over in place of the expense of dental repair. It would cost the taxpayer a mere 6 cents per person per year.

The "poison" retort is ridiculous. You would have to drink 50 bathtubs full of fluoridated water (1 part per million) in one day to get ill.

★ ★ ★

It is only out of pure ignorance that our community does not have fluoridated water now. We should support the Detroit program. All of the U. S. Health Departments support it.

'Why Are Cab Stands Being Removed?'

Why is the city taking off the cab stands when we need more? Before election day we get letters from commissioners saying "we're for the people," then when they get elected, they run things as they please and don't do anything for the people. We need cab stands when we go downtown. Be fair.

Nothing but Praise for Crane Column

Among the many features I like about The Pontiac Press is the column by Dr. George Crane. He has excellent ideas and expresses his thoughts clearly and forthrightly. Opinions such as his help to present a perspective of some of the major problems facing the country. I understand his column has been under attack in some quarters. I hope you will continue to run it as a regular feature.

Caution Children of Danger Area

Children are playing by the river at the north end of the Avon Township Park where the swings and slides are located. This area is not controlled by the Avon Youth Service and Recreation Association and it will not be responsible for injury to children. All AYSRA children are under strict supervision. We urge all parents to take immediate steps to caution their children not to play near the river until we can arrange further supervision for the north end.

On this day in history:

In 1945, 50 countries signed a charter in San Francisco setting up the United Nations.

In 1948, the United States announced the organization of the "Berlin Airlift" in answer to the Russian blockade.

In 1959, President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth dedicated the St. Lawrence Seaway at St. Lambert, Quebec.

A thought for the day: The French novelist, Albert Camus, (Kah-moo) said: "Nothing in the world is worth turning one's back on what one loves."

Blame JFK for Slump

WASHINGTON (AP)— Although there is some dissent within the party about the use of gloom-and-doom tactics, Republicans are pounding the theme that President Kennedy's policies caused the stock market drop.

★ ★ ★

The Senate Republican Policy Committee has added its critical voice to that of the Republican national committee, which has been suggesting that Wall Street has witnessed a "Kennedy crash."

BLAME JFK

In its weekly memo to members, the policy group said that returns from Kennedy's Yale speech June 11 "which he made ambiguous statements to say the least, about the 'myths' of federal fiscal responsibility began to come home to roost" in market declines.

★ ★ ★

"And so it apparently began to look as if one couldn't screw a time-tested, sound economic altar with fiscal policy garbage, such as an expression at Yale that deficits are just 'sometimes' dangerous," the memo said.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., decried gloom-and-doom statements. But he suggested in the Senate Monday that Kennedy ought to send to Congress now "a tax program for the restoration of business confidence and the acceleration of economic activity."

David Lawrence Says:

'Guilt by Association' Is Bad Habit

WASHINGTON—There's a good deal of mudslinging going on here. Scarcely a day goes by that someone's character or integrity isn't being impugned in speeches or in hearings in Congress.

LAWRENCE

Whether its an implication about the Billie Sol Estes case or about profit "windfalls" in the stockpiling controversy, there seems to be no restraint or forbearance.

Most disappointing of all is the strange silence of the so-called "liberals." Time was, during the days of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, when the air was full of outcries from them about the unfairness of the attacks and especially as to insinuations or innuendoes about disloyalty.

The phrase "guilt by association" was heard repeatedly, and even the Supreme Court of the United States got into the act and denounced the spreading of inferences and assumptions and suspicions as not being the way to deal with questions of personal integrity.

The political world accepts as commonplace the bestowing of "favors" by government officials and by members of Congress upon those who have helped finance their political campaigns or who happen to be friends of other highly placed persons in the government or Congress.

It is done every day all the way from the White House to Congress and back again. It has been done by previous administrations, too.

This doesn't justify it, but it does make ironical some of the professions of virtue which come out of the administration's lectures on the high ideals of modern government, especially on campaign contributions.

ON BILLIE SOL

To date, Billie Sol Estes himself has only been indicted on charges involving fraud and conspiracy. The trial has only just started. He has not yet been declared guilty or innocent.

Those who have had any contacts with him, however, now are held in suspicion.

Even a list of telephone numbers of government officials that he or his associates called over the years is publicized with the inference that maybe something wrong occurred during conversations which, one would suppose, are protected by the right of privacy.

Recently a speech was made in Congress attacking former President Eisenhower with innuendoes about "conflict of interest" and "stockpile subsidies to his business cronies."

It was deplored that a man who, while serving his country as a soldier, had had his medical bills paid by the government, should oppose proposals for government aid to elderly persons for medical care, whether or not they can afford to pay for it themselves.

Nobody rose to point out that Dwight Eisenhower, in the years he gave to military service, could have earned in private enterprise many times his pay as a soldier or even as President.

He is still a veteran and few will dispute the right of men in the armed forces to receive medical care.

Guilt by association is substituted for orderly trial and procedure. This is the product of a low state of morality inside government.

It is still a mystery why there isn't a widespread protest against such injustices.

In Great Britain and Canada, under the parliamentary system, they conduct legislative inquiries, but they do so judiciously.

They make their reports public after they have gathered all the evidence and formed a judgment thereon.

Injured Youth Passed Despite Missing School

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Everett Knowles missed a lot of classes after his arm was torn off by a train May 23, but the school feels he stayed up with his studies in the hospital.

The 12-year-old youngster, the subject of medical history when his arm was sewn back in an apparently successful operation at Massachusetts General Hospital, got the word Monday—he has been promoted.

28 U. S. Copters Airlift Guerrillas to Hunt Out Viet Cong Reds

From Our News Wires

KIEN HOA, South Viet Nam—A major antiguerrilla action was in full swing 60 miles south of Saigon today.

About 2,300 South Vietnamese soldiers were hunting out Viet Cong Communists dominating the eastern third of this province.

Twenty-eight U.S. Army and Marine helicopters airlifted the trained guerrilla fighters here yesterday for the first major military action in a week.

First reports said eight Communist jungle fighters were killed and 20 captured.

IN WASHINGTON

In Washington, the State Department says fighting in South Viet Nam—which has cost more than 9,000 lives so far this year—is planned, caused and led by the Communist authorities in North Viet Nam.

* * *

The department reported Monday that 9,000 soldiers have been killed this year in the Southeast Asian nation. It said more than 80 per cent of the dead were on the Communist side.

* * *

An unknown number of South Vietnamese civilians, perhaps more than 1,000, have been murdered in the Communists' war of subversion and terror, the department said.

The State Department issued the casualty report in a statement applauding the report of the three-nation control commission for Viet Nam.

The commission found that Viet men and arms have streamed into South Viet Nam from the Communist North in a drive aimed at toppling the Western-aligned government in the South. The commission said this violates the 1954 Geneva agreement on Viet Nam.

Van Wagoner and Brown on Bridge Board Again

LANSING (AP) — Former Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner of Birmingham and former Congressman Prentiss Brown of St. Ignace were reappointed by Gov. Swainson today to the Mackinac Bridge Authority.

$375 Millions in Electronic Defense

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP)— Underground construction crews near the North Bay Bomarc missile base are putting the finishing touches on a $375-million electronic system designed to become one of the keys of North American air defense.

Deep inside North Bay's rocky Reservoir Hill contractors are aiming at a fall deadline to complete general construction of the SAGE (Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) system to control Bomarc flights and interceptions.

* * *

It is expected to become operational in 1963 following installation of equipment.

The North Bay complex will also control the Bomarc base being built at La Macaza, Que. Canada and the United States are sharing the cost.

* * *

150 T OF EXPLOSIVES

More than 750 tons of explosive carved out cathedral-sized caverns and subterranean passageways. The finished SAGE project will have a three-story underground building. It also will include diesel generators capable of providing enough electricity to light a town of 3,000 people and to pump in tens of thousands of cubic feet of fresh air every hour. Another chamber is a reservoir, holding five million gallons of water, for cooling the installation.

Using radar, radio and digital computers as their ears and eyes, air force personnel will be able to control not only the Bomarc missiles but also manned interceptors which would be called into action against enemy attack.

At present in Canada, the control radar is manually operated, requiring eight or nine minutes for a human to plot a course for an interceptor.

* * *

SAGE, basically a high-powered computer, will handle the process in a fraction of the time. Canada's newest jet interceptor, the Voodoo, is equipped with a "data-link," which enables SAGE to transmit orders to a pilot without the need for a human intermediary.

Thug Uses Gun to Get $1,000 in Grocery Store

Cashier Joan Bucknell complied.

Syria Hits Israel for Border 'Attack'

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Syria charged Israel with aggression Monday following an exchange of gunfire between Israelis and Syrian troops in a border area Sunday night.

The charge was made in an official complaint lodged with the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem.

A Syrian spokesman said Israeli troops stationed in Tal Elkadi area on the frontier shelled the Syrian village of Nkhevla with heavy mortar and automatic fire. The Syrians, he said, returned the fire.

Israel has blamed Syria for the incident.

Hopes Dim for Bills to Aid Migrants

(Editor's Note — America's poorest people are 500,000 migrant farm workers and their families who follow the seasons from state to state to harvest the nation's crops. The following dispatch reports on the prospects for congressional action on legislation to relieve their plight.)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Last year, the Senate unanimously approved four bills to combat the poverty, disease and illiteracy which stalk the lives of migrant farm workers and their children.

Church groups, which had vigorously supported the legislation, sat back and breathed easier. They believed the public sentiment about the migrants' plight had been sufficiently aroused to insure that the House would complete congressional action on the bills this year.

It now appears that this assumption may have been unduly optimistic.

"The situation doesn't look good at all," said Father James L. Vizzard, S. J., director of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference. "Despite the hopeful outlook at the beginning of this session, the migrant bill have been pushed aside in the House."

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N. J., who sponsored the legislation in the Senate, said he was still hoping the House will act.

* * *

"It would be a tragedy if Congress adjourned without completing the enactment of these measures," he said. Since this is the last session of the present Congress, adjournment without House action would automatically kill the bills. It would be necessary in the new Congress which meets next January to start all over again from scratch.

$3 MILLION

One of the Senate-approved bills would authorize $3 million in federal grants to states to provide better health care for migrants through special clinics, inoculation programs, etc.

Surveys have shown that about three-fourths of the migrant children have not even received basic shots against diphtheria, typhoid and smallpox. The tuberculosis rate among adult migrants is the highest in the nation.

Another bill would authorize a federal outlay of about $750,000 a year to help states provide special schools for migrant children and adults. Because they are forever moving from one school district to another, migrant children receive spotty education at best.

A large percentage grow up illiterate like their parents, and thus are doomed to continue the same kind of life.

A third bill would provide for federal registration of the "crew leaders" who recruit migrant workers, transport them from place to place, and contract with farmers for their labor.

Some crew leaders are honest. Othes are racketeers who rob and exploit migrants. The registration bill is designed to drive out the latter.

* * *

The fourth bill would make it a federal crime to put migrant children to work in the fields before they are 12 years old.

Today it is commonplace to see children as young as 6 or 7 at work, trying to add a few pennies to their parents' earnings. The average income for a migrant family, even when everybody works, is less than $900 a year.

BURIED IN COMMITTEE

The child labor and crew leader registration bills have been cleared by the House Education and Labor Committee, but are presently buried in the House Rules Committee, which decides whether a bill actually goes to the floor.

The rules committee has not been sympathetic to migrant legislation in the past. Last year, it refused 9 to 4 to let the House vote on an earlier version of the crew leader bill.

A House education subcommittee headed by Rep. Herbert Zelenko, D-N. Y., is holding hearings this week on the migrant education bill. Zelenko said he is confident the bill will clear his committee, but he declined to speculate what its fate may be in the rules committee.

"We're pushing these bills as hard as we can over here," he said. "But there is strong opposition from farm interests. I don't believe that this opposition comes from the operators of small family farms. I think it is sparked mainly by the big corporate farms, which employ most of the migrant labor, and which have a lot of influence in farm organizations."

Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, who serves as chairman of a special cabinet committee on migrant labor, recently made a personal appeal to Speaker John W. McCormack to put his weight behind the migrant legislation in the House.

"I am certain this legislation enjoys the overwhelming support of the American people," Goldberg said. "It could do much to improve the welfare of people who now live and work under nearly intolerable conditions."

Recognizing that the migrant bills are in serious trouble, religious agencies which have long served as the migrants' only "lobby" in Washington are now swinging into action to alert the public to the situation.

* * *

"Protestant, Catholic and Jewish agencies are all working together on this thing," said Father Vizzard. "We are doing all we can to arouse the nation's conscience, and to let the members of Congress know that Americans do not want to see another year go by without some action to help these miserably deprived and long neglected people."

Detroit Mother, Son Die in N. Y. Mishap

YOUNGSTOWN, N. Y. (UPI) — An automobile carrying a Detroit couple and their four children went out of control near this Niagara County community last night and slammed into several guard rails, killing the mother and a five-year-old son.

* * *

Dead were Helen Boss, 36, of Detroit, and her son, Murray.

Mrs. Boss' husband, Dave, 33, who was driving the car, was in critical condition at Ransomville General Hospital, and the three other children—aged 10, 6 and 3—were in satisfactory condition at the same hospital.

Guild Meets for Luncheon

★ ★ ★

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Walter Galbraith. Reports were read from welfare sewing and knitting chairmen, after which members spent the afternoon sewing children's garments.

The next meeting, a picnic luncheon, will be July 5 at the Crescent Lake home of Mrs. John Newton.

Designers of Hats Tell About Pin Superstitions

NEW YORK (UPI) — When millinery designers say they're on pins and needles, they could be talking either about tension before the opening of their new collections or about superstitions which pervade their workrooms.

Hat designers are among the most superstitious persons in the apparel industry, for some reason. None of them can explain why.

But several, as they worked on their fall and winter designs to be shown to buyers and the press in early July, took time today to list some of the good and bad luck symbols of their trade.

★ ★ ★

Almost all agreed that a box of pins dropped on the floor means a good sales season. A hat dropped on the floor also will be a hit.

But put a hat on a chair and no matter how attractive it is, it's a flop at the sales counter.

MRS. VICTOR SAYS:

Mrs. Sally Victor opens all of her fashion shows with a gray hat, because her first hit collection began with that color. She also rips apart an old hat for the makings of at least one new one in her collection.

MR. JOHN SAYS:

Mr. John, head of John Fredericks, believes peacock feathers on a hat bring bad luck. The color green is evil. To try on a hat backwards is bad luck. And one pin left in a hat after it is sewn means the customer will return the hat.

To Mr. John, if the seamstress sticks her finger with a needle, the customer who buys the hat will be married soon.

MR. ARNOLD SAYS:

The designer, Mr. Arnold, holds that if the women in the workroom toss pins at the designer before the opening of a collection, this will bring good luck, like throwing rice at a wedding.

If a designer buys a new scissors, this means he or she will be in the business seven more years.

To designer Emme, the sale of an original model means it must be duplicated before the original leaves the salon or that particular style never will be successful.

If 'Hired,' He Should Take Pay

By the Emily Post Institute

Q: My husband and I have been asked to his cousin's wedding. My husband is a musician and has his own orchestra. The bride has engaged him to play at her wedding reception. Their fee for playing at weddings is 25 dollars apiece.

★ ★ ★

My husband is doubtful about whether or not it would be proper for him to accept payment for his services. He seems to think that since the bride is a relative it would be improper for him to do so. The other men will, of course, be paid their regular fee.

I think my husband should consider this as any other job and be paid for his services—cousin or not. Will you please give us your opinion on this matter?

A: As his cousin has actually engaged your husband's orchestra to play at her wedding, he should treat this engagement as any other, and need not go into the question of what part of the charge for the music is his share.

Q: How can one properly attract the attention of a friend who has become separated in a crowd. I have been told that it is bad manners to call names out in public. Also, if the attention of a stranger must be attracted, what name can one use.

A: It is bad manners to call out names in public, but when absolutely unavoidable, an "Oh George, here we are!" is permissible. To attract the attention of a stranger one says, "Sir," or "Madam, I think you dropped this."

Q: Will you please tell me what I can say to a neighbor of mine who is always gossiping about someone in the neighborhood? I get on well with all of my neighbors and like most of them very much and cannot stand to listen to gossip about them. I do hope you have a solution to this problem.

A: Try to change the subject when she begins gossiping. If this doesn't help, then say politely, but firmly, "I'm sorry, but I'm very fond of Mary and don't want to hear anything against her."

Best Not to Saddle Yourself

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Since the track opened up I am without a boy friend. To tell you the truth I have been stood up by a horse.

ABBY

He spends all his time doping the races and then he stays around the track every day the horses are running. You know you can't get hold of a man when he's at the track all the time.

When the track is closed he is wonderful. Should I date the nice nonbetting man who lives in my apartment building? My boy friend tells me he can't help it if he has horses' blood in his veins.

STOOD UP BY A HORSE

DEAR STOOD: Date the nice nonbetting man in your building. He might not win, but I'll bet he can place and show. And when your horse lover calls you after the racing season, tell him you've got horse blood in your veins, too — and say NAY.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I wish you, or one of your readers, would explain to me what a "'double greenback" shower is.

I received an invitation to one last week and haven't recovered yet. It is being sponsored by the GROOM's parents.

Someone told me it means that the guests are expected to give money to both the bride and groom. I can't believe it! Begging, that's what it is. Heaven help us!

PROUD

DEAR PROUD: Yes, a "double greenback" shower is indeed an invitation to give money to both bride and groom. And you don't have to accept every invitation you get.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I've noticed that when you get adverse comments on your opinions, you are fair enough to print them.

Well, recently, you ran a letter from a man whose wife spent hours reading the Bible and copying verses from it. He complained, "She tries to convert all our friends who are already nondrinking, church-going people." And you advised him to take her to a doctor!

I infer that you are also one of those "nondrinking, church-going people" who feels that religion consists of just that.

You do not realize that there can be a life lived in vital contact with God. It makes one a different person.

No doubt this woman has had that experience, and is eager to share it with others. I've had it, too. And it wouldn't bother me one bit if you printed my name.

MRS. DAYTON YOUNG
Fort Smith, Ark.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received an invitation to a shower by the mother of the bride. On the invitation was written: "Please bring sandwiches."

I am not a relative. I wasn't sure if she meant I should bring sandwiches for the crowd, or just for myself, so I called her up and she said to bring a sandwich just for myself as she'd serve coffee.

I have never heard of a shower like this, have you? And I never knew the bride's mother could give the shower. Will you please straighten me out?

NEWS TO ME

DEAR NEWS: It is news to me, too. YOU are all straightened out, my dear. It is the bride's mother who is confused. SHOWERS for brides should be given by friends — not relatives. And a guest should not be asked to bring her own lunch.

MRS. JOHN M. POUCH

Mary Jo Brady, daughter of Mrs. John F. E. Brady of East Iroquois Road spoke vows with John M. Pouch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Pouch of North Park Avenue, Saturday, in St. Benedict Church.

At Pouch-Brady Rites

Vows Exchanged

Wedding vows and rings were exchanged by Mary Jo Brady and John M. Pouch before Rev. Richard W. Thomas at one o'clock Saturday in St. Benedict Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John F. E. Brady of East Iroquois Road and the late Mr. Brady. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Pouch of North Park Avenue.

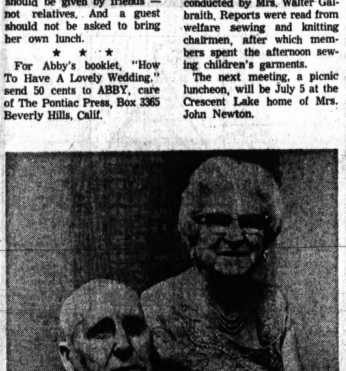
A buffet luncheon-reception in the home of the bride's mother followed the ceremony. The couple will live in Pontiac and plan a southern honeymoon later in the summer.



MR. AND MRS. PETER A. PETERSON

Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Peterson of West Rundell Street celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday during a family get-together at the Ottawa Drive home of their daughter, Mrs. Vere Hodges. Also attending the affair were the couple's other children, Justin, Roy, Mrs. Earle Atkinson, Hugo, Carl, Mrs. Harold Bigelow, Mrs. Margaret Spalding and Mrs. James Purkiss. The Petersons have 20 grandchildren and 29 great grandchildren.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Second baby in the house? Here's an interesting idea from a clever mother to curb toddler jealousy. She hit upon the idea of showing off baby #1 to baby #2 instead of vice versa. By telling the baby all about big brother, it made the older child feel important and baby enjoyed being talked to. Worked wonders, claims the mother.

•

Babes in arms or toddlers need the "helping hand" of body-building protein. Gerber Strained and Junior Meats are good sources of this important nutrient. Only selected Armour cuts are used. Special processing removes most of the fat, so digestibility is assured. All are pure meat, with just enough broth left in to give a wonderfully smooth, moist texture.

•

Important P. S. Meat protein is complete protein, supplying all the essential amino acids that build and re-build vital body tissues.

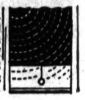
•

Sign of summer. Prickly heat is one of those minor nuisances that sometimes plague wee ones. Ways to prevent or relieve the rash:

- Baby powder keeps baby dry, helps foil prickly heat.
- Brushing hair upward helps prevent it at nape of neck.
- A couple of tablespoons of baking soda in baby's bath, soothes irritation if baby does get a rash.

•

Sandman story. Baby's room will be cooler for his afternoon nap if you shade it against strong morning sun.



•

More on meat protein in another palatable form. Gerber Strained and Junior High Meat Dinners boast heaps of juicy meat blended with tasty garden vegetables for good protein content and unusual flavor interest. Beef, Veal, Chicken, Turkey and the new Strained Ham. Try one, try all and watch your baby's appetite rise to the occasion. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

'Daughters' Meet for 48th Parley

The 48th annual Michigan Department convention of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War was held June 19-22 at the Jack Tarr Hotel, Lansing.

Attending from the Frances C. Butterfield Tent No. 9 were department officers, Mrs. William E. Paetow, president; Mrs. William L. Vandruska, secretary; Mrs. Foster Baker, councilor; Mrs. John Beechum, guide; and Mrs. Mae Worth, chief of staff. Mrs. Leon Nye, Pontiac Tent No. 9 delegate.

About 50 members besides the national representative, Mrs. Ruth M. Hayes, past national president from Nebraska; and Mrs. Marie Robinson, national president from Lansing, attended the open house the Michigan Department held in the Michigan headquarters room in honor of Mrs. Paetow.

Newly elected and appointed from Butterfield Tent No. 9 were department officers Mrs. Paetow, council member No. 1; and Mrs. Vandruska, delegate-at-large. Mrs. Beechum again was appointed guide.

The National Convention will be held Aug. 26 - 30 in Springfield, Ill.

Parks - Campbell Nuptials

Couple Touring Around Michigan

Susan Ann Campbell, daughter of the Harold G. Campbells of Evadna Street, Waterford Township, and Michael C. Parks, son of Mrs. Harold Parks of Milford and Delbert M. Parks, East Tennyson Avenue, were wed Saturday in the Oakland Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

MRS. MICHAEL C. PARKS

★ ★ ★

Daughter of the Harold G. Campbells of Evadna Street, Waterford Township, the bride wore ballerina-length white chiffon over satin with bodice of Chantilly lace. A crown of seed pearls and apple blossoms held her short bell-shaped veil of silk illusion. Orchids and white rosebuds rested on her white lace-covered Bible.

★ ★ ★

Attendants wore pale blue taffeta with overskirts and veiled headpieces. Nosegays of white carnations were tinted the color of their crowns, pale blue for matron of honor Mrs. Donald Petts of Fenton, turquoise for the bride's sister Dolores and pink for Karen Holgorson who served as bridesmaids.

★ ★ ★

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Harold Parks of Milford and Delbert M. Parks of East Tennyson Avenue, had Donald Petts for his best man. Jerry Schones and Gene Csizmadia ushered.

Returning from a tour around Michigan, the couple will live in Pontiac.

Mrs. Campbell chose a navy silk jacket dress for the wedding and church reception. The mother of the bridegroom appeared in navy Irish linen. Both wore white cymbidium orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Almon R. Austin of West Huron Street announce the engagement of their daughter Sally Joan to Gary P. Metz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Metz of Brighton. No wedding date has been set.

Pick Pleasant Topic Is Conversation Rule

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The last, but for women, perhaps the most important, is "Talk weddings — not funerals."

That is, of course, just Mr. Wheeler's breezy way of saying that given a choice between happy talk and unhappy talk we ought to choose happy talk every time.

Men seem to follow this rule much better than women. It's not that men don't know as much unpleasant news as women. They just don't seem as eager to pass it along.

Men would much rather talk about pleasant than about unpleasant subjects, to pass along the latest joke rather than a tale of woe.

SAD NEWS

But all too many women think the sadder the news the more impact it will carry. When you run into a woman with this conversational philosophy she will immediately say, "I guess you've heard about poor Martha," and if you haven't you will, with every sad detail stressed.

When Martha's troubles are taken care of — there will be other misery for you to hear about. Telephone conversations with these women who love tragedy are just as dreary as as face-to-face talk. And if you receive a letter from one of them you will go around feeling depressed all day.

Trouble and sadness and tragedy touch all of us, but that is no reason why we should pass along as much unhappiness as we possibly can.

Why not pass along the bits of news that will brighten the day for others, rather than passing along the kind that will darken it?

'Rocketeers' in Golden Armor

(UPI)—The working man of the space age soon may wear a 24-carat gold suit.

A lightweight fabric — surfaced with plastic film metalized with pure gold—has been developed by Du Pont to protect missilemen and rocket launching personnel from the fiery and corrosive hazards of working with chemical fuels.

Its gold surface can reflect safely flash temperatures as high as 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit, the company said.

Unflavored Gelatine Is Basis of Summery Pie

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

There's something cooling about lemons. Just think of a fluffy lemon chiffon pie. Doesn't that sound good for summer eating? We think so and are giving you Mrs. Edward Hackett's recipe today.

★ ★ ★

The mother of 6 lively youngsters, Mrs. Hackett keeps her slim figure with all the chores necessary for a family that size. She loves both snow and water skiing.

LEMON CHIFFON PIE
By Mrs. Edward F. Hackett

1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind juice of 1 lemon
¼ teaspoon salt
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Dissolve gelatine in cold water. Put egg yolks into top of double boiler and stir into them the sugar, lemon rind and juice. Cook over hot water about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in gelatine mixture and let cool.

Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff peaks form. Slowly add ½ cup sugar, beating well. Fold in cooled gelatine mixture.

Pour into baked pie shell and chill until serving time. Whip ½ cup cream for topping. Makes 1 pie.

Lackey-Gavette Wedding Followed by a Reception in Evangel Temple

Rev. Geoffrey Day officiated at the Saturday marriage of Carmen Joy Gavette to Larry G. Lackey, followed by a reception in Evangel Temple.

Daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Fuchs of West Rutgers Street and Gerdon Gavette of Melrose Avenue, the bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Oscar Hooper. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Emile Najm, Highland Park, and Charles E. Lackey, Auburn Heights.

Carmen Joy Gavette became Mrs. Larry G. Lackey Saturday in Evangel Temple. Her parents are Mrs. Kenneth Fuchs of West Rutgers Street and Gerdon Gavette of Melrose Avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Emile Najm, Highland Park, and Charles E. Lackey, Auburn Heights.

MRS. LARRY G. LACKEY

Sequined medallions of Alencon lace accented the Sabrina neckline and skirt of the white taffeta bridal gown styled with chapel sweep. A rhinestone tiara held her bouffant veil of illusion. She carried white stepanotis and ivy and wore the bridegroom's pearl gift pendant.

Mrs. William S. Visniski, Drayton Plains, her niece's matron of honor, appeared in Nile green nylon sheer over taffeta, styled with dome skirt.

★ ★ ★

Wearing identical dresses were bridesmaids Janet Turnbull, Oxford, the bridegroom's sister Pamela Green, and the bride's younger sister, Catherine Fuchs, flower girl. Their flowers were white and pink carnations.

On the esquire side were William G. Gann, best man, and ushers Darrell D. Lovell and Kenneth Buckley.

It Just Takes Effort

You Can Improve Memory

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE M449: James J., aged 46, is a brilliant executive. "But I could be far more successful if only I could remember names and faces," he protested to me.

DR. CRANE

"Dr. Crane, I may meet people and forget their names so quickly that I can't introduce them to anybody else two minutes later.

"It has embarrassed me on several occasions. Is there anything wrong with my brain? Some people have marvelous memories for names."

The ability to remember names and faces is possessed by every person with normal intelligence, but it requires conscious effort.

It has been estimated, however, that nobody uses more than 25 per cent of his gray matter, so we need not worry lest we burn out a brain cell by overwork.

It isn't lack of mental ability, therefore, which causes us to forget names. Instead, it is lack of sufficient motivation, plus a definite mnemonic system or memory scheme.

James A. Farley, in the political field, is supposed to have had one of the best memories for names and faces, but I am informed, he carried his little black book in which he jotted them down, and then rehearsed them just before he visited a city a second time. That is smart psychology.

The real secret of a good memory is simply good LEARNING, for your brain will retain impressions for almost a lifetime if they are clearly impressed thereon in the original learning situation.

When you are introduced to a stranger, therefore, be sure you obtain a clearcut sensory impression of the name. A mumbled or indistinctly understood name, is like a poorly exposed camera film.

You can never get a good reproduction later if you don't get the proper original exposure on your camera film. In like manner, you must not expect your brain to give you a clear memory reproduction later if you have a hazy, or fuzzy original impression.

Furthermore, if you can obtain a double sensory impression, you thus increase your likelihood of remembering. For example, if you can visualize or see the name in addition to hearing it, you thus involve the eye as well as the ear.

★ ★ ★

Then be sure to act upon the new impression as soon as possible, for muscular activity helps "etch" the memory more deeply. Write the name down in a little book, for instance, or use it quickly by introducing the stranger to somebody else.

"I'm glad to meet you," is thus of no help in developing memory, for you failed to mention the name of the stranger.

"I'm glad to meet you, Mr. Brown," gets the name into action. And you can quickly repeat the process by saying, "Miss Smith, may I introduce Mr. Brown?"

Since items are filed away in our memory much as in an office file, try to cross-index your memory.

This means you should try to link the new name with many associated ideas.

For example, consciously associate "Mr. Brown" with the color brown, or brown autumn leaves. Or link it to some city that is familiar to you or to some county, like Brown County, Indiana.

Thus you will have more cues for pulling the name "Brown" from your memory at a later date. Send for my bulletin "How to Improve Your Memory" if you wish further facts on this valuable subject.

★ ★ ★

Always write to Dr. George W. Crane in care of The Pontiac Press, Pontiac, Michigan, enclosing a long 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for his psychological charts and pamphlets.

Rebekahs Meet in Malta Temple

Mrs. John Hocking, vice grand of Welcome Rebekah Lodge No. 246 of Pontiac, presided at the meeting in Malta Temple. Honored guest was Mrs. Thurman Huston, president of Oakland County District No. 6.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Forest Cummings and Mrs. Shirley Galloway. The Past Noble Grands Club will be hosts for Thursday's meeting.

The Friendship Club of the Lodge met for cooperative luncheon in the home of Mrs. Albert Kugler on oNrth Roselawn Avenue.

Mrs. Orrion Hettinger will be hostess to the group at her summer home in August and regular meetings will resume in September.

The group welcomed Mrs. Clara Rousse who has been inactive for some time.

Mrs. Richard Rohrer, of Rosewood Place (left), senior regent of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 360, is shown receiving her corsage at the luncheon in her honor last week. Hostess for the day's event held at the Moose Home on Mt. Clemens Street was Mrs. Jackson Upton (right) of Moore Street.

Rubber Tile Care

Rubber tile flooring has a distinctive appearance, but requires careful maintenance. Since grease, oil, or abrasives can damage rubber tile, spills should be wiped up promptly with a sudsy cloth.

To maintain its brightness, wash a rubber tile floor with thick soap or detergent suds, followed by a damp-mop rinse. When dry, wax it lightly with self-polishing wax.

Shoulder Dazzle

(NEA) — The newest place for a jewel: the shoulder. A bright sunburst pin with a diamond heart passes muster just fine.

At Nuptial High Mass

McMahon - Burch Vows Spoken

White delphiniums banked the altar in St. Michael Church for the Saturday vows of Dorothy J. Burch to John O. McMahon spoken before Rev. Charles E. Cushing at a Nuptial High Mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles H. Burch of Monroe Street and the late Mr. Burch. The bridegroom's parents are the Thomas J. McMahons of Judson Street, who were hosts at a wedding dinner in the Villa Inn, Lake Orion.

Imported white silk organza over tulle and taffeta fashioned the bridal gown and overskirt edged with Chantilly lace. A double crown of jeweled lace held her bouffant veil of illusion. She carried white feathered carnations with ivy.

Mrs. John F. Keesling, attended her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jerry Novotney, Garden City, Mrs. Charles Schmidt, and the bride's nieces Carol Burch and Pamela Clark, LaPorte City, Iowa.

They wore powder blue embroidered sheer nylon with matching flower hats and carried blue feathered carnations with white carnations added to the honor matron's bouquet. Lisa Richer was flower girl, and Tommy McMahon carried the rings.

Assisting their brother were best man Robert McMahon, Waterford, and Thomas and Dennis McMahon who ushered with Edward McLaughlin, Lake Orion, and Del Chavez.

After greeting some 400 guests at an evening reception and dance in Villa Inn, the couple left for Niagara Falls and Tupper Lake, N.Y. They will live on Sheridan Street.

White carnations accented a pink lace jacket dress for Mrs. Burch and an aquamarine and white silk sheath dress for the mother of the bridegroom.

MRS. JOHN O. McMAHON

Dorothy J. Burch, daughter of Mrs. Charles H. Burch of Monroe Street and the late Mr. Burch, pledged vows to John O. McMahon, son of the Thomas J. McMahons of Judson Street Saturday in St. Michael Church.

At John J. Dunn Home

Style Show Planned

An "around-the-pool" fashion show and tea will be presented from 2 to 5 p. m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John J. Dunn of Trowbridge Road, for the benefit of the Dominican Sisters of Oxford.

★ ★ ★

Approximately 250 area women are expected to attend the affair.

Women's and children's summer fashions will be exhibited by professional models, Hilda and Margo.

Volunteer models from the women attending will include Mrs. John Woodek, Mrs. Basil M. Briggs, Mrs. Bruce G. Kendall Jr., Mrs. Robert Clark and Mrs. Jessie Flury. Guests will be Mrs. John J. Raymond, Mrs. Dean Johnson, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. Curt Becker, Mrs. Ben Morganroth and Mrs. Nick Takis.

While models are on parade, radio station WCAR's Bob Charlton will describe the newest designs and frills in women's wear. The Chuck Leonard Trio will give background music.

Mrs. John J. Dunn Jr. is among several sponsors who have dedicated their efforts toward raising money for the Dominican Sisters. One such effort was a fashion show last August at the Kingsley Inn, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dunn. They raised more than $5,000.

Will Install New Officers

Officers for the Waterford Fashion-Your-Figure Club will be installed at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Waterford Community Center.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. John McGowan is incoming vice-president; Mrs. Wayne Ostrand, treasurer and Mrs. Merle Isom, weight recorder.

Last week's trophy and gift for weight loss was presented to Mrs. Glenn Jones.

At Lakeville Church

Janet Allen Married

MRS. HERBERT E. KEYES

LAKE ORION —The altar of the Lakeville Methodist Church was decorated with peonies and tulips for the wedding Friday evening of Janet C. Allen and Herbert E. Keyes, U.S.N. Rev. Alfred Eddy performed the nuptials.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Allen of 18 Andrews St., chose a floor-length gown of taffeta and rosepointe lace for her wedding.

It featured a scalloped neckline trimmed with pearls and rhinestones and long tapered sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her fingertip veil was attached to a flower headpiece.

★ ★ ★

Thomas Dudley of Detroit was best man while Kari Zmich of Pontiac and Kenneth Watson of Detroit seated the guests.

Nancy Hagemeister of Troy, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Craig Dornton, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. They are sons of Mrs. Harrison Dornton, 523 Central St., and Mr. Herbert Keyes Sr. of Livonia.

★ ★ ★

The Knights of Pythias Hall No. 277 in Pontiac was the setting for the reception that followed the 7 p.m. rites. The newlyweds then left for Norfolk, Va., where they will make their home while the bridegroom is serving abroad the USS Fremont.

Queen Contest to Be at Center

Romeo High School Band Concert Will Be at 7 Thursday

ROMEO — In order to have music before and during the Miss Romeo contest Thursday night, the event has been moved from the junior high school to the Youth Center.

The change was made yesterday when the contest committee learned that the first summer high school band concert will be held at 7 that night at the center.

This is just an hour before the beauty queen competition is scheduled to get under way. So the committee decided to make double use of the musicians' talents by having some of them remain to provide background music for the contest.

Twelve girls will be competing for the Miss Romeo crown. They will appear on stage twice in street dress, first for individual interviews, then later to answer questions they will draw out of a bowl.

For the first time in three years talent has been eliminated as a requirement for the local contest and also as a prerequisite for the Romeo Peach Queen competition later this summer.

Clarkston Jaycees to Receive Charter

William Pressprich of Saginaw, state president of the Jaycees, will present the charter to Milford Mason, president of the two-month-old local organization.

The ceremony will follow a 7 p.m. banquet. About 130 persons are expected to attend.

The Clarkston Jaycees is sponsored by the Pontiac Area Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Church Plans Dinner

ORION TOWNSHIP — The Women's Society of Christian Service of Howarth Methodist Church will serve a dinner tomorrow at 5 p. m. in the church hall, Silver Bell and Bald Mountain roads.

Lutheran Group Okays Tithing

DETROIT (AP) — Delegates of the United Lutheran Church in America approved tithing for the church's 2.5-million members in a close voice vote yesterday following a heated debate.

The conference adopted a statement by its stewardship committee that binds the denomination to encourage members to give 10 per cent of their income to the church.

The United Lutheran Church is the largest of the merging churches and its director of stewardship, Dr. Henry Endress, will head the new church's department of stewardship.

The actual language of the resolution was: "Proportionate giving, directed to and beyond the tithe, should be encouraged."

★ ★ ★

Augustana Lutherans, among the merging churches, "will like this . . . wording better," said the Rev. Dr. Martin E. Carlson, the Augustana stewardship director. "Our emphasis has always been on proportionate giving than the tithe."

A spokesman said neither of the other two merging groups, Suomi (Finnish) or American Evangelical Lutherans, have done very much concerning the tithe.

Missouri Synod Lutherans, meeting in Cleveland, still are opposed to making the tithe official, their stewardship director, the Rev. Dr. John E. Hermann, said.

★ ★ ★

Most major denominations have come out in favor of tithing as both a successful and spiritual means of giving. These include Presbyterians, Nazarenes, Episcopalians, Baptists (all major branches), Methodists, Church of the Brethren and Disciples of Christ.

Officers of the Keego Harbor and Union Lake Business and Professional Women's club were installed at a joint ceremony last night at Haven Hill Lodge in Highland Township.

Those installed as officers of the Keego Harbor unit were:

Mrs. Bernice Frayer, president; Mrs. Bernice Cover, first vice president; Mrs. Helen Godhardt, second vice president; Mrs. Beraice Avery, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Barbara George, recording secretary; Mrs. Madge Sturdy, treasurer.

Union Lake officers installed were:

Mrs. Marion Fraser, president; Mrs. Sara Paklaian, first vice president; Mrs. Hazel Peck, recording secretary; Mrs. Lee Kocsis, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Effie Percy, treasurer.

★ ★ ★

Both presidents are serving their second term.

The officers of the two organizations were installed by past presidents of the club.

Retired Persons Plan Picnic at Oakland Park

Chapter Seven of the American Association of Retired Persons will hold a potluck picnic 11:30 a.m. tomorrow at Oakland Park in Pontiac, Glenwood Street and Hammond Avenue.

Members are asked to bring their own table service as well as a dish to pass. In the event of rain the picnic will be held at the Pontiac Union Hall on Kennett Road.

DISCUSS PLANS — Pontiac Township Supervisor Leroy Davis (left) and Ed Mitchell talk over arrangements for the township Democratic Club's party Saturday. The event will dedicate the new kitchen in the township hall at 2060 Opdyke Road. Dinner will be served from 6 to 8:30 p.m. with dancing to start at 9.

City Incorporation Issue Crosses Rochester Agenda

ROCHESTER — The prospect of city incorporation, a controversial subject here for years, made a sudden appearance at the Village Council meeting last night, but departed again just as suddenly and without any discussion or comment by councilmen.

★ ★ ★

Village President Roy Rewold had placed the matter on the agenda for discussion, but suggested the council let the issue ride temporarily until he looked into it further.

Rewold said there was quite a bit of talk in the village about the subject and he was advising councilmen on its status in case they had heard some of the talk.

MAY NAME UNIT

After the meeting, Rewold said he had been contacted by several people asking about the issue. He said the next step may be appointment of a committee to study the question.

In other action, councilman okayed an application to the federal government for approval of its urban renewal workable program.

Approval of the workable program, which includes the village's planning, ordinances, enforcement provisions and a 14-member citizen's committee that participates in urban renewal planning, is necessary for the village to qualify for federal urban renewal funds.

Specific plans for the urban renewal project proposed for the East Third Street area between the railroad tracks will be considered by Council at a later date.

Councilmen also passed a resolution formally accepting Pontiac Township into the Avon-Rochester Regional Planning Commission, changing the planning group's name and realigning its membership.

To be known henceforth as Avon-Rochester-Pontiac Township Regional Planning Commission, the group will have five members from Avon Township, four from Rochester and four from Pontiac Township. Avon and Pontiac townships have already approved the same resolution.

★ ★ ★

Nonresidents Awaiting Decision of Detroit Tax

DETROIT (AP) — Arguments were concluded Monday in a Wayne County Circuit Court hearing to determine whether this city's proposed one per cent income tax is illegal.

The tax, slated to become effective July 1, is being challenged in two lawsuits — one filed by Detroit attorney Thomas L. Poindexter, the other by a group of suburban officials.

In final arguments before Circuit Judge Neal Fitzgerald, spokesmen for the tax opponents contended Detroit has no legal power under the Michigan Constitution or the Home Rule Act to impose a tax on the incomes of residents or nonresidents.

They said a city income tax proposal was turned down in committee during the 1908 constitutional convention, but John H. Witherspoon, assistant corporation counsel for the city, countered the 1908 convention has no bearing on the issue.

He said the 1908 con-con committee expressed its opposition only to a graduated type of tax, but not to a tax per se.

★ ★ ★

Fitzgerald took the arguments under advisement and indicated he would rule on the case before Sunday.

Ask Change in Uniform Water Code

LAKE ORION —Village councilmen last night decided to ask Orion Township officials to consider a change in the uniform watercraft ordinance passed by the township board June 12.

★ ★ ★

Village President Irvine J. Unger said the village had received complaints about a provision of the ordinance prohibiting persons under 14 years old from operating boats with motors larger than 7½ horsepower.

The council will meet with township officials to discuss the possibility of a change in this provision.

Orion Township is one of ten county townships that has adopted the uniform ordinance recommended by the Township Supervisors Association. It also sets times for water skiing, limits boat speeds near bathing areas, and makes recklessness punishable as a misdemeanor.

Village councilmen also will meet with township trustees to discuss establishment of a joint planning commission. This meeting has been scheduled for July 17 at the Orion Township Hall.

Special Election Thursday to Push for 4.5-Mill Raise

NOVI — The Novi School System, faced with losing $23,000 annually in state aid, will ask voters in a special election Thursday to increase taxes for general operations.

A 4.5-mill hike for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation is being requested.

This, however, would be offset considerably by a proposed 2.5 mill reduction in taxes levied for bonded indebtedness, according to the school board, thus making the actual increase only two mills.

While the new tax would provide the district with an additional $83,000 annually for the next four years, the gain in yearly revenue would be only about $30,000 if the new school aid program becomes effective.

Novi is one of the few school systems that will not benefit from the new assistance program, says Supt. Thomas Culbert.

Admittedly, he said, the school system will receive more funds per pupil, but at the same time the program will reduce the district's state tuition allowance for students attending neighboring high schools.

Culbert said Novi will receive an additional $6,500 for gross enrollment but will lose 80 per cent of its tuition allowance, or $30,000.

Novi, which has no high school and only two elementary schools, sends its 216 high school students to classes in Northville.

$30 PER PUPIL

Culbert said the state has been paying about $150 of the $343 tuition per student. Under the new program, which cuts the state aid tuition budget from $3 million to $500,000, the Novi School District will receive about $30 a pupil.

"Since we already know that we will be operating on a deficit budget this year because of the failure of voters to approve a six-mill increase in April, the problem has been compounded now on the state level," said Culbert.

"The board hasn't had time to deliberate the loss of the state revenue and what it means in curtailing the school program," he added.

Another problem facing the Novi system within the month is the possible loss of a portion of its district to the Northville School System and about $15,000 in local property taxes and state aid.

A group of parents living in the Echo Valley Subdivision wants to separate from the district, claiming that its children cannot receive the proper education under the present operating standards.

SET HEARING

A public hearing on the transfer is scheduled for 4 p.m. July 12 at the Oakland County Board of Education office, 1200 N. Telegraph Road.

They have indicated that even if the proposal passes Thursday they still want the separation.

BONNIE JANE RIES

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ries of 717 Hilltop Lane, Oxford, announce the engagement of their daughter Bonnie Jane to Ronald Adkisson. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Herman Bruske, 105 Seymour Lake Road, Oxford Township, and Woodrow Adkisson of Daly City, Calif. An Aug. 18 wedding is being planned.

Troy to Step In on Road Fight?

City Manager in Pontiac to Study Intervention in Resident-State Dispute

TROY — City Manager David E. Firestone is in Pontiac today to determine if Troy can or should intervene in disputes between property owners here and the Michigan Highway Department.

City commissioners last night instructed Firestone to attend a public hearing by the highway department at the county building. The hearing is the first step in condemnation proceedings against property owners along the route of the Chrysler Freeway in the south half of Troy.

Property owners have complained to city officials that highway department representatives have backed down from earlier statements in regard to purchase provisions.

Firestone said today that, although the city cannot enter into disputes arising out of individual negotiations on property values and purchase offers, the city commissioners would take action to intervene if they decided the complaints of misrepresentation were justified.

One complaint charged the highway department promised access to a main road from property left an owner after the highway department took what it needed, but later changed its mind.

Teachers Study About Business

OAK PARK — How can business and industry assist local schools — and vice versa — in promoting understanding of the free enterprise economic system?

How can schools and business and industry cooperate in developing a community's resources?

Answers to these and related questions are being sought by some 45 teachers in the four-week South Oakland County Community Resources Workshop at Clinton Junior High School here.

Field trip tours of industrial and business firms and government offices highlight the workshop as teachers seek to gain a better understanding of economic and other factors that affect the areas in which they teach.

Participants in the course, sponsored by Michigan State University, will be asked to develop courses based on what they learn.

Such courses might be teaching economic concepts in elementary school, and vocational opportunities in our community.

★ ★ ★

Director of the workshop is Edwin W. Crandell, assistant school superintendent from Grand Blanc. More than half of the participants are teachers in the Oak Park School District.

Also represented are St. Patrick High School, White Lake Township; Southfield School District; Birmingham School District; Royal Oak School District; Waterford School District; and, from outside the county, River Rouge School District; South Lake Public Schools; and Lakeview School District.

Field trip destinations include the Oakland County Court House, the Ford Motor Co. River Rouge plant, National Bank of Detroit, William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak and the J. L. Hudson Co.

★ ★ ★

The teachers also hear talks by representatives of business and industry in classroom sessions.

The workshop is scheduled to end July 13.

WON'T BE READY — Despite the fact that work is proceeding rapidly these days on the construction of West Junior High School in the Rochester District, the school will not be ready for occupancy this September as originally planned. The recent six-week strike of carpenters and reinforced steel workers has caused a setback in the building program and the date for completion has been move back to Nov. 1. School officials are studying plans to place students in other schools for the two-month period.

In Candlelight Rites

Sharp-Arnold Vows Told

AVON TOWNSHIP—Rose Marie Arnold became the bride of William O. Sharp in a candlelight ceremony Saturday afternoon at Elmwood Methodist Church. Rev. Henry W. Powell read the service.

★ ★ ★

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Arnold, 2948 Dearborn St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville L. Sharp, 3776 Dearborn St.

MRS. WILLIAM O. SHARP

Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a lace crowll decorated with seed pearls and aurora borealis teardrops. She carried a cascade of carnations, sweetheart rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Serving as best man was Duane P. Miles of Pontiac. The guests were seated by Charles Sharp, brother of the bridegroom, James Blair of Rochester and James Reynolds of Milford.

★ ★ ★

Flying Man, Car to Be Featured at Festival

DETROIT (AP) — A flying man, a flying auto and ordinary, down-to-earth parachutists will be some of the highlights of Saturday's international Freedom Festival here.

* * *

The parachutists will drop from a helicopter and skydivers will plummet into the Detroit River. The Army will demonstrate the rocket belt which straps onto a man's shoulders and allows him to leap 150 feet and the aeromobile which floats on a cushion of air a foot above the ground.

U.S.' Poor Little Rich Girls Want to Live--Spend--NOW

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — America's teen-age girls are the wealthiest in world history.

Put their purses together and you'd come up with $5 billion. That's billions, is what that is. All in cash, free and jingly. Untaxable. Annually.

Not only do the girls have their own rather fabulous earnings and allowances, a survey shows that when they go steady (as three out of 10 do), they often handle the monies of their boy friends.

And they like to spend their fortunes. Girls at this age don't dig gilt-edge securities — they want action. They like to carry their cash around with them so they can spend when the urge overcomes them. It's no wonder the days of blue jeans are waning. Pockets aren't roomy enough.

Mrs. Enid Haupt, editor of a magazine aimed solely at teen-age girls (seventeen), is delivering a speech today before the National Shoe Manufacturers Association. She has drawn up a picture of the American girl—for the edification of the shoemakers—that will make the merchants happy. But somehow it makes me pale . . .

* * *

The average teen-age girl (let's call her Barbara) wants clothes, and she wants them now! "Teen-agers have no tomorrows," says the editor, "they have only todays."

A store had better be well stocked with what Barbara wants, when she wants it, or she's not likely to go back. "Telling a teen-ager her size will probably be in next week is like telling her it will be in during the next decade. She can't wait."

Barbara loves to spend money, but before she does, she wants to pick up the clothes she's contemplating. She wants to touch, pinch, heft and smell things.

WANTS MORE INTENSELY

She wants things more intensely than adults. And what she wants, she generally gets. Mrs. Haupt gave the example, since she was speaking to shoe men, of Barbara's buying record in that department.

An adult woman buys four pairs of shoes a year. An adult male, one and three-quarters pair. And the girl teen-ager? She buys seven pairs a year. Seventy per cent of those pairs, what's more are pitched out by year's end and replaced.

As the editor added, "Her dough is for blow!"

Mrs. Haupt speaks with great pride of this wealthy new generation of spendthrifts. She is very happy that they have "catapulted into the economic limelight, their pockets bulging with dollars to spend, their spirits filled with desire for new things . . ."

* * *

She claims that by 1970, a big 40 per cent of the U.S. population will be under 20, and she insists this is a great new economic lift for merchandisers.

Of course it is. I envy the shoe (and the dress, accessories, jewelry, record and movie) makers their good luck.

But I can't say I envy the rich, impulsive, aggressive, impatient girl teen-agers as described here. They're having a ball now but when they marry young (as most do today), it may be hard to break away from the extravagance policy — to realize suddenly that you can't have seven pairs of new shoes each year because, as the saying goes, baby needs a new pair.

It used to be that kids worked up to an adult position of affluence. Now they must tumble down from it . . .

Bull Gives Town Profit After 9 Years of Losses

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (AP) — Downton Hall Dasher, a 4-year-old bull has turned a nine-year-old municipal deficit into a cash profit.

* * *

Wolverhampton town council bought a farm nine years ago for sewage disposal. It was a cattle farm and every year it lost money.

Tim was put among the city's 50 cows on the farm. Mrs. Jessie Beddoes, chairman of the farm committee, told the council last night the farm had made a profit of 1,069 pounds ($2,993.20) from the year's crop of calves.

Ruling on Civil Defense Has State All Confused

LANSING (UPI) — The legislature cannot reorganize a state agency by inserting language into an appropriation bill, Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley said yesterday.

* * *

Gov. John B. Swainson asked Kelley for an interpretation of a bill now before the legislature which would provide for his proposed executive reorganization of the civil defense department to take effect earlier than usual.

*

Kelley said the proposed House change in the 1962-63 appropriation for public safety and defense would make the budget bill a multipurpose measure, which is prohibited by the State Constitution.

Swainson had proposed that civil defense operations be taken over by the State Police Department. His reorganization plan would be effective 90 days after the legislature adjourns.

The budget bill was changed to make the reorganization effective at the start of the next fiscal year, July 1.

Kelley said, however, the legislature could make the reorganization plan effective earlier than the 90 days provided by law if it enacted legislation to do this, separate from the the budget bill.

Michigan also could lose out on federal civil defense matching funds if the proposed legislative action were enacted into law in its present form, Kelley said.

The appropriation bill section dealing with civil defense would make the state police commissioner the director of civil defense in Michigan.

* * *

Kelley said federal funds for state civil defense operations were contingent on the state having a full-time director or a full-time deputy director.

* * *

Michigan would not have either of the required full-time civil defense officials under the legislative proposal as it now stands in the form Kelley ruled was unconstitutional.

Tragedy of Alcoholic Touches Wife and Children Too

(Editor's Note — The tragedy of the alcoholic is not restricted to the one person who cannot control his thirst for a drink. In this second in a five-part series reports the new avenues of help being opened for the mates and children of alcoholics.)

How terrible it is to hate someone you should love; how hard it is to love someone who is so hateful.

Love and hate for the same person make a strange combination. But to the child or wife of an alcoholic, intermixing love and hate are familiar, twisting threads in painful, constant emotional crisis.

* * *

'COULDN'T UNDERSTAND'

"Sometimes I loved my father and mother, sometimes I hated them," says the 16-year-old beauty. "I hated them more than I loved them. I couldn't understand why they were doing this to me."

Her companions in Alateens—nine boys and nine other girls who have an alcoholic parent or parents—recognize her torture.

* * *

Their feelings are important. They must be expressed—not in horror stories recounting the alcoholics' misdeeds—but in terms of their own reaction, their feeling. By exploring these feelings, they hope to reach understanding.

* * *

Al-Anon and Alateen are adjuncts to Alcoholics Anonymous, the fellowship of alcoholics that is widely credited with doing inestimable work in helping persons with drinking problems. The only requirement for membership in A is a desire to stop drinking. It is nonsectarian.

PROVEN RECORD

After more than 25 years of service, AA has a proven record: At least 300,000 persons who have stayed sober after long histories of problem drinking.

The chasm between the alcoholic and his—or her—family has been described many times. But few have told it so guilelessly and pathetically as the woman at an AA group meeting.

* * *

"My name is——. I am an alcoholic," she said, and related a background of church and PTA and civic activity—and the shyness that seemed to vanish under drink; and then the drinking that got out of hand.

'HAD TO HAVE DRINK'

"I couldn't eat. I had to have a morning drink. And then one day I overheard my three children. They were having a family conference. And they decided, 'Mommy doesn't love us any more.' "

That was when she went to AA.

* * *

But while AA seeks to dry out the drunk and keep him sober, what about the other wreckage? There's plenty, for the alcoholic leaves in his wake debt and disorder, and pains that need long soothing. And he, too, needs something from those he's hurt: an understanding of what they may have done to make him the way he was, or to keep him from recovering.

STARTED INFORMALLY

Al-Anon grew informally from the AA group, its name is merely an enlarged abbreviation of Alcoholics Anonymous. Mates of alcoholics sometimes acted as unofficial hostesses at AA meetings, passing out soft drinks and coffee and cake.

They began discussing mutual problems and eventually this turned into concrete soul-searching. Soon little groups were founded, usually wives but occasionally including the husband or a woman alcoholic, and an organization was formally incorporated in 1954.

* * *

Now there are 2,000 Al-Anon groups in the U. S., Canada and 20 foreign countries. Members are not solely mates of those in AA. In a good many groups, the members are mates of drinking alcoholics.

200 GROUPS

Three years later, in 1957, Alateen arose. It specifically geared itself toward helping children of alcoholics and was started by a teen-ager in California. There are 200 such groups today.

The goal for both is the same: to lead them to sufficient understanding so that they can live with the alcoholic.

* * *

At an Alateen meeting in a New York suburb recently, a girl of 16 opened the meeting with the "serenity prayer":

"God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, courage to change the things I can, and wisdom to know the difference."

'ARE YOU AFFECTED?'

Then she asked, "Is your unhappiness at home affecting your school work?"

Around the table the teen-agers answered. Some hesitantly, some in gushes of words.

"I'd fight with my father," said a handsome crewcut lad of 17, on my teachers. I just didn't care. I got bad grades, flunking grades, and I thought I was hurting him by doing it. I've learned here that I've hurt myself."

* * *

The questions go on, striking at the heart, digging deep, and leading to conversation that would strongly impress any psychotherapist.

'DRANK TO ESCAPE'

"I drank to escape," said the young girl with waist-length hair. "I tried to commit suicide five or six times. I couldn't do anything I wanted, not even lay down to die."

"If you wanted to kill yourself, you would have," said a boy. "You just wanted sympathy, you wanted to say to them ,'Look what you made me do? Now you'll be sorry.' Isn't that it?"

* * *

They talked realistically of what they've suffered—and what they have learned.

At an Al-Anon group, meeting on a Monday afternoon in the heart of Manhattan, a dozen women explored the same dark avenues.

IS HE READY?

They considered just one main question, based on the AA's Sixth Step. This asks whether the alcoholic is "entirely ready to have God remove" all the defects of character uncovered in "a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves."

"I thought I was the best wife and mother that ever lived," said a well-dressed woman of 61 who had completed a moral inventory of her own.

* * *

"No one else could have cooked like me, made a better home, raised children like me, been a better mate. I was perfect. It was always him. It was his fault. If I wasn't strong, what would happen to us? He was my child, in addition to our children. But after joining Al-Anon I realized what I was doing; I was building myself up in order to tear him down."

'NEVER REALIZED'

Another woman said, "I never thought I was perfect, but I didn't realize how arrogant I was, and how scornful. I think I must have done him irreparable harm by being so aloof—that's a dreadful way to act to a sick person. I never realized how much love the alcoholic needs, how lonely he is."

* * *

In these meetings, these children of corporation heads, bartenders, shop owners, doctors, these wives of bank executives, stock brokers, blue collar and white collar workers, plunge forward—some bravely, some timidly—toward one goal:

* * *

Unraveling the web of their entrapment, trying to free themselves so they can see their alcoholic parent, their alcoholic mate, clearly and fearlessly.

Hopefully, they then can live together, first in harmony and perhaps, ultimately, in sobriety.

Idea Man Rostow Ready to Talk

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Foreign Relations committeemen should find Walt Whitman Rostow a man of many ideas even if they don't learn just what is in his master strategy document.

Rostow, scheduled for a committee quizzing behind closed doors late today, is a sort of professional idea man. That is much of his job now as State Department counselor and chairman of the department's policy planning staff.

* * *

The mild-mannered 45-year-old former professor, economist, historian, author and intelligence officer seems not in the least gunshy about talking to the senators about his personal views.

Whether Rostow and the secret document linked with his name are soft on communism has popped up as something of an issue this congressional year. Critics hint this allegation while defenders deny it. Partly on trial, at least, is the foreign policy of the Kennedy administration.

From MIT

Rostow, an adviser to President Kennedy during the 1960 campaign, came to Washington last year from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to become a deputy special assistant at the White House for national security affairs. Last December he switched to the State Department post which carries the rank of assistant secretary.

* * *

His State Department duties have included compiling a document which, department officials say, gathers together various Washington ideas on foreign and defense policy including some which have not been put into effect and many which have publicly been espoused by administration authorities.

The thick volume is now at the White House for review. Then it is supposed to go into the National Security Council archives. The administration has shown no intent ever to make it public.

'NO-WIN' POLICY?

The Senate hearing was sought by Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois against a background of charges by some Republicans that the administration has a "no-win" foreign policy.

Some associates regard Rostow actually as a proponent of a rather tough line against the Communists. Rostow himself has this to say about the "no-win" allegations. "We stand ready to fight to the limit to defend the vital interests of the free world. But we are not looking for a military climax to this historic struggle.

* * *

"The victory we seek will take many years and perhaps decades of hard work and dedication—by many peoples—to bring about.

"It will not be a victory of the United States over the Soviet Union.

"It will be a victory for those who recognize that the powers of the state over the individual should be limited by law and practice. It will be a victory for those who recognize the profound interdependence of the nations on this planet over those who would press to the limit their national or ideological ambitions."

PROLIFIC AUTHOR

Rostow has a prodigious record of authorship. He has written books on topics ranging from the American diplomatic revolution to the British 19th century economy, dynamics of Soviet society and Communist China's prospects.

Born Oct. 7, 1916, in New York City, Rostow was graduated from Yale in 1936 and received a Ph.D. there in 1940. He was a Rhodes scholar.

During World War II he served as a major in the Office of Strategic Services, winning the Legion of Merit.

Sicilian Volcano Pours Out Lava in Latest Show

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Volcanic Mt. Etna poured out black smoke and hurled hunks of molten lava almost 2,500 feet into the air today in its latest eruption.

* * *

The new outbreak of Europe's tallest volcano began last night and put on a spectacular show of flame and explosions for tourists crowding vacation resorts along Sicily's east coast.

By this morning lava had poured almost 1,000 feet down the slope from the crater, but it posed no immediate threat to villages miles farther down the mountainside.

To Commemorate Visit

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican government is issuing a new series of airmail stamps to commemorate President Kennedy's visit this weekend. Four million copies of the issue will go on sale.

Two future Presidents were among 5,000 persons who gathered on the tree-shaded slopes of Arlington National Cemetery for the first official observance of Memorial Day in 1868. They were Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, an honored guest, and Gen. James A. Garfield, who delivered the oration.

Backless Tops New Rage For Wimbledon Women

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The ladies took the court today in the 76th Wimbledon Tennis Championships, which may be remembered as the tournament of the backless top.

Not since Gussie Moran's lace panties startled the Wimbledon throngs in 1949 has there been so much advance excitement about the female form.

Gussie's flippant finery was designed by Teddy Tinling. The same man is behind the latest revolution in fashion, which will drop backs revealingly, exposing a good deal more of the female figure than can easily be remembered in these parts.

LATEST CREATIONS

Maria Bueno of Brazil, twice the women's titleholder, has a dress plunging at the rear to within an inch of her tiny waist.

"I have no wish to give my girls goose pimples but I've had no complaints yet from those who are trying it."

Tinling has dressed the last 10 winners of the women's singles title. As designer for seven of this year's eight seeded players — America's Karen Hantze Susman is the only holdout — he has a better than even chance of doing it again.

The second day of the Wimbledon Championships is traditionally ladies' day, when fashion plays almost as important a part as tennis.

HEMLINES UP

Hemlines, Tinling reported, will be about six inches above the knee—which is some five inches higher than in Miss Moran's day. Pleats are out this year, ruffled ribbons are in.

"We have almed," said Tinling, who was a British intelligence officer in World War II, "for an unbroken princess line, casually fitted and bursting into a swirling hem. We have got something much more fluid than in the past and much more akin to what I call the twist line.

★ ★ ★

"You see, we have aimed at the contemporary."

The ladies opened their Wimbledon campaign with Margaret Smith of Australia a firm favorite to clinch the singles title on her second attempt. The holder of the Australia, Italian and French Championships has been beaten only once this year — by Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif.

★ ★ ★

MEN'S DIVISION

The championships opened before a crowd of 20,251 Monday with Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo. last year's losing finalist, leading seven Americans into the second round of the men's singles.

McKinley outpowered a 20-year-old Australian, Owen French, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1, but on balance it was a bad day for Uncle Sam. Eight Americans, including the veteran Gardnar Mulloy, were knocked out in the opening skirmishes and a ninth—Ed Rubinoff of Miami—had his match suspended because of darkness.

Rod Laver, Australian titleholder, and favorite here got off to an impressive start with a comfortable 7-5, 6-1, 6-2 victory over the Indian Davis Cupper Nareth Kumar.

SQUEEZE WORKS — Hector Lopez of the New York Yankees scores from third on a squeeze bunt by Bill Skowron in the sixth inning of yesterday's game with the Tigers. Detroit catcher Mike Roarke waits for the throw which never came. Bengal first baseman Norm Cash fielded the bunt and threw to first, but Skowron beat the ball to the bag. It was the second run scored on a bunt by the Yanks in their 2-0 win.

Lula Wins State Event With 142

Bone Second In PGA

SAUGATUCK — Gene Bone of Pontiac gave par a beating here yesterday, but the best he could do was finish in a three-way tie for second in the Michigan PGA tournament.

The Warwick Hills pro fired a three under 69 over the 6,650-yard par 36-36—72 Hamilton Country Club for a 144 total.

This was two strokes more than Hillcrest's Ben Lula needed to win the 36-hole tournament.

Bone actually lost the tournament during Sunday's opening round when he triple bogied one hole on the way to a 75. In yesterday's final 18 holes, he posted five birdies and two bogies.

One of Lula's first tasks after finishing yesterday, and waiting to see his three closest competitors and their round two strokes off his pace, was convincing his wife, Marjorie, that he had won. First prize in the Michigan PGA is $750.

BEGAN CRYING

"She started to cry when I called her to tell her I won," said Lula. "She said, 'Don't joke with me.' But I told her she should be laughing and it convinced her I won."

Lula had a so-so first round 74. He ran with six others, including defending champion John Barnum of Grand Rapids and host pro Bill Hamilton, four strokes behind first day leader Larry Tomasino of Ann Arbor's Barton Hills. Barnum finished with a 36-hole total of 146.

But while Tomasino's game went sour in the final 18 holes yesterday when he soared to a 77, Lula became a Roman candle. He bagged four birdies and five pars on the front nine and erased two back nine bogies with birds to finish four-under-par. It gave him his 36-hole total two-under-par 142.

Here are the top 30 scorers in the Michigan PGA championship. (Par 72-72—144):

WHITEY AT W•RK — The Tigers posted plenty of zeroes on the scoreboard yesterday while Whitey Ford was pitching for the Yanks. Ford left the game with one out in the ninth when his arm began bothering him, but Marshall Bridges got the final two outs without a Tiger crossing the plate.

Scheffing Criticizes Busy Schedule; Host Indians Twice Tonight

It's a double negative that has manager Bob Scheffing moaning the blues.

"This year's schedule is the worst I've ever seen, said Scheffing after the Tiger bats were silent again yesterday in a 2-0 loss in the finale of the five-game series with the Yankees.

Mossi was a loser for the fourth straight time. In three of those defeats he gave up a total of six runs while his teammates failed to respond with a single run. Mossi now has been given two runs of support in his last 34 innings.

The Tigers haven't had an off day since June 18. And making matters worse after losing three of the five Yankee games in the invasion of the first-place Cleveland Indians in a twi-night doubleheader tonight.

★ ★ ★

"It's awful," said Scheffing. "Here they give us an off day Thursday.

"By any sensible reasoning Monday should have been an off day after a series with the Yankees."

JONES TO START

A day-night doubleheader Saturday, that 22-inning game in which seven pitchers toiled Sunday and tonight's twinbill has Scheffing's mound staff just about worn out. Jim Bunning, the only Tiger who didn't face the Yankees, will pitch one game tonight, Sam Jones will be pulled in from the bullpen to start the other game.

At least Mossi was beaten in a new way Thursday. The Yankees, with homer king Roger Maris on the bench, resorted to bunts for their runs.

The Yankees got four bunt hits off Mossi and two drove in the Yankees' runs. Phil Linz pushed one past Mossi in the fifth and broke open a scoreless duel with Whitey Ford by scoring Jack Reed from third.

The Tigers could muster only two hits off Ford, before he left with a sore arm in the ninth. They got another one off reliever Marshall Bridges — but failed to score. The Tigers haven't scored a run for 25 innings.

The best chance came yesterday when Jake Wood led off the first with a double and advanced to third on a ground out. But he died there and was the only Tiger runner to get that far.

The defeat dropped the Tigers into seventh place, 6½ games behind Cleveland and four behind the Yankees.

★ ★ ★

Johnson Out to Match Kocsis

JACKSON — Glenn Johnson, one of the great competitive golfers in Michigan amateur history, hopes to equal the record of a very distinguished colleague this weekend.

Johnson will be gunning for his 6th Michigan Amateur golf title, a feat already accomplished by incomparable Chuck Kocsis of Red Run.

The Grosse Ile veteran has annexed the State Amateur crown five times in an eight-year stretch, three of them in a row (1954-1956).

The 52nd edition of the Michigan Amateur tournament gets under way here Wednesday and runs through Sunday with the state's finest players taking dead aim on Johnson's throne.

TWO-DAY TRIALS

Thirty-six hole qualifying rounds are scheduled tomorrow and Thursday at the Country Club of Jackson and neighboring Arbor Hills Golf Club.

A mammoth field of 335 golfers meeting the requirements of an eight-stroke handicap or less will battle for 63 positions for match play starting Friday.

Johnson, exempt from qualifying as defending champion, will join the 63 qualifiers in head-to-head combat. Double rounds of match play are slated daily with the championship being settled Sunday afternoon.

Each qualifying section will play 18 holes at each course. All of the match play portion of the event will be conducted at C.C. of Jackson.

There are 168 players scheduled to tee off tomorrow at Country Club and another 167 at Arbor Hills. Thursday the two sections will switch courses.

7 PONTIAC ENTRIES

Seven Pontiac golfers are entered in the tourney, including Mike Andonian who lost a heartbreaking 1-up decision to Johnson last year in the championship match at this same C.C. of Jackson layout.

Andonian, three-time State Publinx champ, and Frank Pinkham will play their first 18 holes of qualifying at Country Club.

Johnson, a fierce competitor in match play golf who never knows when he's licked, made Andonian the victim of an incredible comeback a year ago. Four down at the turn, Johnson rallied to win the title to climax the greatest comback in state amateur history.

★ ★ ★

EYES ELITE SPOT

Now the talented Grosse Ile performer is eyeing No. 6. If he succeeds, he'll join Kocsis at the head of the class.

Kocsis has not competed in the Michigan Amateur since his last title conquest in 1951.

★ ★ ★

Fisher 2-Hits Japs

Michigan Nine Wins College World Series

HONOLULU (AP — Fritz Fisher, a lanky left hander, hurled a two-hitter as the University of Michigan won the first annual International Intercollegiate World Series last night, downing Hosei University of Japan 2-1 to take the championship three games to two.

The 20-year-old junior from Adrian who fanned 14 and threw a five-hitter in Friday night's series opener, was working on a no-hitter for nearly eight innings before Kimitaka Hojyo reached first on an infield grounder.

Fisher, selected as the tournament's most valuable player, settled down after being bothered by control trouble in the first inning. He walked four men straight in the opening frame, forcing in Hosei's only run.

Harvey Chapman led off with a single and moved up on a single by Fisher and a ground out. Then Chapman stole home as Kihara went into a full windup. Fisher stole third on the same play and scored on a single by shortstop Dick Honig.

BRIEF THREAT

Hosel, a weak hitting but sharp fielding club, threatened briefly in the seventh when right hander Yutaka Kamata was safe on an error by Chapman at third. Kamata advanced on a sacrifice bunt only to be thrown out attempting to steal third.

Fisher struck out eight and walked five in going the distance, while Kihara fanned six in five innings. Ironman Takyuri Kyu, working for the third day in succession, and captain Katsuhiro Tomotoshi finished up.

The only solid hit off fastballer Fisher was Kamata's sharp single to right with two out in the ninth. Only two other balls were hit to the outfield.

Second basemen Joe Jones went two-for-four at the plate to raise his series average to .467, tops on either club.

THE PALMER METHOD

TWO SWING CHECKPOINTS

If your game has fallen off, here are two important checks you can make.

The clubface should point away from the ground at a 45-degree angle at the top of the backswing on all full shots with the longer clubs. Closed (face pointing skyward) and open (parallel to ground) positions will cause innumerable errors.

If topping, skying or hitting "fat" shots (hitting behind the ball) are among your tormenters, you're probably using a chopping downswing. The way to get rid of this is to concentrate on starting the clubhead back low to the ground, and in an unhurried, deliberate manner.

Heavy Downpour Spoils Baseball, Softball Slates

A heavy downpour yesterday afternoon halted baseball play and forced postponement of softball action scheduled at night.

The only baseball decision reported was a 4-2 Class E triumph in 5½ innings for Pontiac Boys Club over Weinberger Homes. Winner Wally Logan had a big single in a four-run 1st. Moose led St. Mikes 1-0, Felice Market had 300 Bowl 2-1, Pontiac Optimist had 2, Perry Drug 0 and Westside Kiwanis and Pontiac Central were 2-2 in early innings.

A Class A affair matching R. T. Clippers and CIO was put off until Friday at 8 p.m. following a 5:30 PCH-Kiwanis makeup.

Walled Lake Pitcher Fires Perfect Game

John Lundquist, 15, of the White Sox, pitched a perfect game Sunday in the Walled Lake Babe Ruth League. He also had four singles in a 13-0 rout of Union Lake.

Making his 1st start of the season, Lundquist struck out 12 and allowed only one ball to be hit to the outfield in seven innings.

Famed Horse Stymie Dies of Heart Attack

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The movie-script life of Stymie, the sixth-ranked money winning thoroughbred of all time, has played out after 21 years.

The fleet son of Equestrian—Stop Watch suffered a fatal heart attack Sunday night at the farm of Dr. Charles Hagyard, where he had been in stud for the past two years.

His record: Winner of 35 races, second in 33 and third in 28. He retired in 1950 as the world's leading money winner with $918,485 after starting 131 times.

Maxwell Saddened by Trade

DETROIT (AP—Charlie Maxwell's No. 4 Jersey hung limply in a vacated locker in the Tiger clubhouse and the darling of the Detroit fans suddenly was a member of the Chicago White Sox.

★ ★ ★

A saddened Maxwell—realizing it was bound to happen sooner or later—was informed just before yesterday's game he'd been traded.

He was a Tiger eight seasons —and few players ever enjoyed more popularity with their hometown fans.

"I had a lot of ties here," said Maxwell, emerging from vice president Rick Ferrell's office where he'd come to say farewell. "It's tough to take off after being here eight years.

"But I knew it was coming. I felt it in spring training. But I felt a little better after the trading deadline passed on June 15. Only then did I bring my family here from Paw Paw for the summer.

"Sure, I'm going to report to Chicago. We'll be here against the Tigers next week, won't we?"

Maxwell was in his Tiger uniform yesterday for the last time,

He learned the Tigers had secured waivers on him and traded him to Chicago for rookie Bob Farley.

At 35, Maxwell had outlived his usefulness as a Tiger. Maxwell has a .194 batting average and hit only one home run this year.

Farley is only 24 and his salary is less than half the $25-000 Maxwell is earning. The new outfielder-first baseman was used sparingly by the White Sox. Farley's average is only .189 and he, too, has only one homer.

Race Track Official Dies in Walled Lake

King, 52, also had worked at tracks in Miami, Fla. He was a native of Hagerstown, Md.

Berra Gets Day Off After Catching Marathon

But a weary Bill McKinley, plate umpire in Sunday's 7-hour marathon, had no such break. He had to work at third base in Monday's rematch between the New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers.

"Yogi earned a day off and besides, I only use him on our long days," grinned Manager Ralph Houk, whose Yankees outlasted the Tigers 9-7 and won the longest game in time in baseball history.

'I'm a little tired, that's all," said Berra, who had caught only two previous games this season. "I don't have any cramps in my legs. Matter of fact, I feel pretty good but my hand hurts a little."

SORE HAND

Houk also gave Roger Maris, who has been slumping, and Tom Tresh a rest, although Maris came in as a defensive measure in the ninth inning. They went all the way in Saturday's day-night doubleheader and followed it by playing the entire 22 innings Sunday.

"They played the equivalent of five games in two days, so they could use a little rest," Houk said.

★ ★ ★

Jack Reed, whose two-run homer in the 22nd won it for the Yankees, started in Maris' place in center field. Phil Linz, only a pinch hitter Sunday, replaced Tresh at shortstop.

"I only had one cup of water through the whole thing," said McKinley.

STAYED ON FIELD

"None of us umpires left the field in the entire 7 hours. Yogi at least had a chance to go back to the dugout and sit down every half inning. I wonder if he had a good night's sleep. I didn't I woke up about 6 this morning. I couldn't sleep, my legs ached too much.

"The only thing I could compare it to was an Army march—go on, go on, go on. All we ever thought about was 'When will somebody score a run?"

'Monster Course' Western Open Site

CHICAGO (AP) —Golf's big dealers began practices today for the Western Open over the timbered acreage of the Medinah No. 3 course and none was expected to do much bragging about his scores.

Those who faced the expanse of traps and broad greens at Oakmont in the National Open now are bucking a wandering 7,110 yards but through enough forest land to make a lumberjack drool.

Par 36-35—71 on the rugged layout isn't going to take much of a beating, and many a player would settle for something like 281 to take the championship when the 72 hole meet ends Sunday.

'MONSTER COURSE'

The last big tournament on the so-called "monster course" was the 1949 National Open won by Cary Middlecoff with 286 on rounds of 75-67-69-75. The 67 still remains the course record.

Although Jack Nicklaus and the man he defeated in a playoff for the National Open June 17, Arnold Palmer, share the favorite's role, some of the lesser power-hitters may find the course more to their liking.

"Maneuverability off the tees is required more than distance," says Medinah pro Jack Bell. "And the most important shots will be from the tees. I don't see this tournament as a putting contest.

"A player must maneuver the ball from right to left, or left to right. There are eight doglegs that demand precision spotting from the tees to set up second shots.

GREENS OK

"You have to be carefull on the greens, but they are not of the real tricky variety. The course is in much better condition than when Middlecoff won with his 286 in 1949. There won't be a bad lie in the fairways. It is a very fair course and a great championship test."

One practicing pro cracked: "The trees are so thick you need a guide to find your way out... I'll bet there are some guys in there left over from 1949."

The 59th Western Open will start Thursday with a field of 136 players. Nicklaus and Palmer will be in competition against each other for the first time since the National Open.

★ ★ ★

"I haven't done anything since then," said Nicklaus, two-time National Amateur champ who turned pro this year. "I've been nibbling a lot of food and coasting. I've put on 10 pounds and am up to 205. But last September when I won the National Amateur I weighed 215."

Women Start Open Practice

U.S.G.A. Play Begins on Thursday for 70 at Myrtle Beach

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—The big names of women's golf were expected here in force today to tune up for the U.S. Golf Association's open tournament which starts Thursday.

Early birds in the field of 70, including 39 pros and 31 amateurs, have been here since Sunday getting acquainted with the demanding 6,400 yards of the par 72 Dunes Golf and Beach Club course.

Joining them today will be professionals Mickey Wright, the defending champion and three-time winner in four years; Betsy Rawls, Mary Lena Faulk, Ruth Jessen, Sandra Haynie, Patty Berg and Marlene Bauer Hagge. Miss Rawls comes here from a Sunday playoff victory over Kathy Whitworth at Plainfield, N.J.

LOUISE READY

Veteran campaigners Jackie Pung and Louise Suggs got a look at the course Monday as did amateurs Clifford Ann Creed, Marge Burns, Pam Barnet, Mrs. Philip Cudone and Anne Richsardson, all top competitors in their class.

★ ★ ★

Rains of the past two weeks have brought the course along to near top condition, professional Jimmy D'Angelo reports. He says the greens will be faster once the tournament starts than they have been in practice. A final pre-tourney cutting will see to that.

The $8,000 tournament has 18 professional prizes, $1,800 to the winner, and three pins to the low amateurs.

Lindy McDaniel Saves Cards Again

By The Associated Press

Lindy McDaniel, a workhorse right-hander rapidly reaffirming his position as one of the acknowledged leaders o fbaseball's relief pitchers union, may be just about ready to hoist his placard and campaign for a shorter work week.

The St. Louis Cardinals' relief ace trudged out of the bullpen Monday for his third appearance in four days, blanked Chicago on two singles for the final 3 2-3 innings and preserved a 6-4 victory over the Cubs.

The "Fireman of the Year" in 1960 with a 12-4 record and a 2.09 earned run average in 65 games, slipped to 10-6 last year as his ERA ballooned to 4.88. He got off to a slow start again this season, but in his last 10 outings has been virtually untouchable.

NO WALKS

He has allowed only nine hits and has not yielded a walk, keeping the opposition from scoring for 23 1-3 innings and lowering his ERA to 2.37.

The triumph was the fifth in seven games for the fourth-place Cards and moved them within 6½ games of National League-leading Los Angeles, beaten by Milwaukee 6-4. San Francisco crept to within a half-game of the Dodgers by whipping Cincinnati 3-1 behind Billy O'Dell's five-hitter, and third-place Pittsburgh clobbered the New York Mets 13-3 to pull within 5½ of the top. Philadelphia edged Houston 4-3.

The Cubs moved ahead of the Cards in the third when Ernie Banks tagged his 21st homer with two on. St. Louis finally cracked a 3-3 tie in the sixth with two runs on a double by Ken Boyer. Carl Sawatski's triple and a wild pitch by loser Glen Hobbie (1-9). The Cubs put men on first and third in the bottom half but McDaniel got Lou Brock and Ken Hubbs on force plays to end the threat and save it for Ray Washburn (5-3).

Hank Aaron hit a two-run homer in the sixth for the Braves and his seventh inning single capped a three-run uprising that sent the Dodgers to their fourth loss in the last five games. Tommy Davis went 5-for-5 for Los Angeles with a double and four singles, tying for the league batting lead with Stan Musial of the Cards at .342.

COMPLETE GAME

O'Dell (8-6) allowed the Reds only singles. It was the third consecutive low-hit, complete game triumph for the Giants' staff. Willie Mays broke a 1-1 tie in the third, reaching base on a fielders' choice, taking second on Willie McCovey's single, stealing third despite a pitchout and crossing on Orlando Cepeda's sacrifice fly off Jim Maloney (2-2).

Smoky Burgess pounded Met hurlers for a triple, double and single, driving in four runs as the Pirates lashed 15 hits in support of Vern Law (5-3). Roberto Clemente, with three singles, and Don Hoak each knocked in three runs as Law scattered eight hits. The loser was Craig Anderson (3-7).

Determination of Johns Shows Interest in PBA

The determination of local standout bowler Bill Johns to gain one of the 10 open places in the big Professional Bowlers Association tournament at 300 Bowl Aug. 16-19 is indicative of the way interest is growing already for the $23,400 event.

Johns, who has been among the outstanding performers in The Press Bowlerama over the years, ranks 2nd thus far in eliminations for the tournament with 967 for five games, but it was not enough to satisfy him.

He re-entered the competition paying a 2nd $12.50 to try to better his score in order to be sure of making the grade and getting a chance to bowl against the best male stars in the nation. Johns totaled 883 the next time around which is 8th best of those who have participated thus far.

Several others are expected to give it more than one chance with several big prizes to be on the line starting with $3,000 for the champion. Johns may go at it some more.

Veteran Dick Carmichael currently leads the way with 979 for a 195.8 average. A 245 was his only game above 200 but he never dipped very low. Johns had a high of 222 1st time and 217 on re-entering.

ARCHIE MOORE 3RD

Archie Moore, head man at Auburn Lanes, is 3rd at 912, Earl Castle hit 910; Arnie Osta 906, Jerry Perna 903, Stan Kurzman, who was the 1st to enter, 895, Bill Bull 882, Ray Brancheau 869, Bud Fell 865 and Ernie Cosma 854.

A 205 was Moore's best effort. Castle had a high of 212, Osta 198, Perna 213, Kursman 204-201, Bull 195, Brancheau 193, Pell 199 and Cosma 181 twice.

All eliminations for the regular tourney are being held at 300 and will continue until Aug. 12 with the 10 high actual scorers for five games gaining the right to join the pros for a three-day battle.

Meanwhile, handicap qualifying continues at six establishments for the opening night pro-amateur show which will place 204 local amateurs with 102 pros making up three-man teams. Each unit will include two amateurs and one pro with only the amateurs sharing in the $5,100 in prize money. The places are Lakewood Lanes, Auburn Lanes, West Side Recreation, North Hill Lanes, Howe's Lanes and 300.

West Side has set its pro-am squad times as 6 and 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and 4, 6 and 8 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Russians Perfect in New Mat Meet

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The Bulgarians—who are good—say the Russians — who are better—are sure to take the team championship in the Greco-Roman division of the World Amateur Wrestling Tournament here. The Russians say the Bulgars are good and getting better.

If the opening day Monday meant anything, the Russians are unbeatable. They stepped on the mat 11 times, scored 11 victories, and hardly worked up a sweat. The Soviets had seven falls, including two each by Amari Egadaze at 125.5 pounds and Vladimir Rosin at 154.

Still in the running as the second round resumed today were Bulgaria, Turkey and possibly Hungary.

FIVE VICTORIES

Bulgaria and Turkey each had five victories, and men active in each of the eight weight divisions. Hungary had five victories, but wasn't entered in all divisions.

The United States lagged far behind.

3 Cities Seeking Future Berths in AFL Setup

BOSTON (AP)—Representatives of groups from Atlanta, New Orleans and Kansas City meet with American Football League club owners today to discuss expansion of the professional game into one or two of the cities.

All three groups have put up or pledged $25,000 to show good faith. All insist they have the $360,000 needed for players and have promises of reaching the 20,000-ticket sale goal set for new entries.

Representing a seven-man syndicate at Kansas City was Warren Lockwood, who said the team would play its games in Municipal Stadium.

An Atlanta group which boasts 300 members, the Greater Atlanta Athletic Association, said it plans to build a 28,000-seat stadium now, and a $3 million 60,000-seat stadium a year or two later. W. V. McCane carried the ball for the Georgia city.

TOP PBA HOPEFULS — Dick Carmichael, right, holds the early lead in the eliminations for 10 places in the big PBA tourney at 300 Bowl in August with 979 for five games followed by Bill Johns, left, at 967. Johns tried to better himself by re-entering and hit 883.

Newcombe Starts Well in Japan

By ALAN CLINE

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—"Newcombe may be just the spark the Dragons need," wrote a baseball reporter.

★ ★ ★

"Newk may well be considered as playing the role of a stimulant for his team," said a radio commentator.

"Newk already has had a good effect on my team's pitching and batting," declared Dragon Manager Takami Nonin.

This is sweet music for Don

SWEET MUSIC

Dodger pitching star, making an auspicious start for the Chunichi Dragons of Japan's Central League. He's enjoying every note.

"I'm 100 per cent satisfied," he said today. "The club has done more than we anticipated. My wife has been provided with everything from diaper pins to an electric washer-dryer combination."

★ ★ ★

In three games he has hit a homer (he says it was at least 450 feet), a double and two singles in 11 official at-bats. He's played errorless ball at first base, an unfamiliar position.

He classified Japanese baseball as "near Triple A," and, is particularly happy over not coming here as a pitcher, although he may be used as one later in the season.

Japanese pitchers, if they're good, work nearly every day. Newcombe knows about too much work. He won 27 and lost 7 in 1956 and was the National League's Most Valuable Player. But that was his last effective season.

GREAT RECORD

He's won but nine games this season and complains of a sore arm. "That's understandable," Newcombe said, "but I don't think it is right for me to say anything. I'm being paid (an estimated $24,000) to give advice when asked."

Newcombe, 36, said he's been working with the pitchers, teaching them mainly how to throw sliders and curves.

★ ★ ★

"Their control is amazing," he said, "but they are not overpowering."

When Newcombe joined the Dragons last week they were in the basement, 10 games back. They've got a four-game win streak going now and are in fifth in the six-team league, eight games out.

Indian Tryouts Start Thursday at Wisner

Cleveland Indian scouts Hal Newhouser and Nap Ross will conduct a tryout camp Thursday and Friday at Wisner Stadium for local players 17 to 22.

★ ★ ★

Another Indian scout, Jim Hoke, 2985 Covert Rd., Drayton Plains, made preliminary arrangements for the camp. Sessions will start each day at 10 a. m. for all players but pitchers. The pitcher tryouts will be Friday only.

★ ★ ★

American Legion players who attend must have a written permit from their post commanders, according to Hoke. The ball club will furnish bats and balls.

Gainers Outnumber Losers

Market Hanging On to Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained higher early Tuesday afternoon, striving to hang on to its first advance in seven sessions. Trading was active.

Gains of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered losers in the same range.

The list was up vigorously at the start as it continued a recovery drive launched late in Monday's declining session. Stock prices were rebounding from peaks reached three times in 1956 and 1957.

After today's initial rise, however, profit-taking cut back some gains. Steels were no better than mixed. Chemicals were at best irregularly higher. Building materials and electrical equipments were irregular. A number of other major groups remained well off the upside.

The market has met these "supports" at various times in its steep 1962 decline and many Wall Streeters felt that there was nothing but day-to-day significance to them until proved otherwise.

★ ★ ★

A point lower as a unanimous early advance by motors faded. General Motors kept a gain of nearly a point. Chrysler, American Motors, and Studebaker-Packard held a narrow plus edge.

International Business Machines which was up half a dozen points in early trading, showed a net loss of around 4. Litton Industries held a gain of about 2.

Bond Prices Down Again

Over - the - counter dealers quoted some issues off ¼ of a point in moderate activity.

Among corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange rails, industrials and utilities all fell back. There were quite a few issues off a point in early dealings.

These included: Katy Railroad 5s by 1½ at 77, Montgomery Ward credit 4⅞s by 1¼ at 103, Columbia Gas 5s by 1 at 103⅛ and Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis 3⅜s by 5 at 72.

Supreme Court Nixes Merger

Acquisition of Kinney by Brown Shoe Ruled Illegal by Justices

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court decided yesterday the Brown Shoe Co., St. Louis, must dispose of its interest in assets and business of G. R. Kinney Co.

★ ★ ★

Chief Justice Warren delivered the majority decision which declared that the government had sustained its burden of proof in opposing the merger and asking that it be overturned.

The case was one of the most important under the antitrust laws to come before the court in several years.

★ ★ ★

It was on an appeal by Brown from a decision by the U.S. District Court in St. Louis, that acquisition of Kinney by Brown violated the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

Kinney is the largest retailer of family shoes in the country. It operates a chain of stores. Brown was third leading manufacturer of shoes in dollar sales in 1954.

The Justice Department said that as a result of the merger, Brown became second in the shoe industry in net sales in both manufacture and retail.

The case hinged on interpretation of a section of the Clayton Act which says no corporation may acquire another when "in any line of commerce in any section of the country, the effect . . . may be substantially to lessen competition or to tend to create a monopoly."

Broomfield Hit on Farm Bill

Area Dem Candidate for House Slams GOP Vote Against Program

A Democratic candidate for U.S. congressman from Oakland County has called incumbent Rep. William S. Broomfield's vote against President Kennedy's farm bill a part of the Republican program of "obstruction."

"Rep. Broomfield has given the people of Oakland County one more good reason to vote him out of Congress," said George Lennox, Royal Oak congressional candidate.

Lennox noted that the final vote was 215 to 205 against the plan and a six-vote shift would have meant victory for the President's program.

"The Republican vote was a vote of obstruction and was not in the national interest," Lennox said.

Aly Khan's Child Wins Suit Over Father's Death

PARIS (UPI) —A French court awarded Yasmin, daughter of the late Prince Aly Khan and Rita Hayworth, $30,000 damages yesterday for the death of her father in an automobile crash near Paris May 12, 1960.

★ ★ ★

The damages were awarded against French businessman Charles Bichaton, 35, whom the court ruled was "entirely responsible" for the collision. In addition to the damages Bichaton was ordered to pay a $100 fine and costs of the case.

The court handed down its judgment four weeks after the case was heard on May 28.

Yasmin's case was brought by movie star Miss Hayworth, her legal guardian. Miss Hayworth appeared on the court list under her real name of Margarita Cansino.

What's the FINANCIAL HEALTH of your stocks?

Strange question? It's one every investor should ask himself periodically because stock values can and do change. New developments in companies . . . industries . . . the economic outlook can make one or more of your stocks less desirable in terms of your particular objectives. It is important that you reappraise your portfolio to determine how your holdings may be affected by current—and future trends.

Watling, Lerchen & Co. will be glad to review your present holdings at your request. There's no cost or obligation.

Album Ban 'Very Interestin'

Mae's Back in Old Form

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD — It gives Mae West kind of a warm feeling being banned again.

THOMAS

She had received word that her new record, "Am I Too Young?" had been banned by a San Francisco radio station. It was another demerit badge to add to her long string. The list extends from being pinched for her New York play "Sex" to having her "Person to Person" segment dropped by CBS because her mirrored bedroom and nude portraits were deemed too racy for the home screen.

★ ★ ★

I dropped out to Mae's seaside home at Santa Monica to learn about these and other matters. As usual, she was in the pink negligee and surrounded by portraits of herself with and without costuming.

"Very interestin'," she commented on the record ban. "I guess they thought it was a little too suggestive. Can't understand that."

IRONS IN THE FIRE

She indicated that she would get her career going again, what with the record and forthcoming album, "Peel Me a Grape." She might deliver the new songs in the flesh, so to speak, on a night club tour. Also cooking: a possible picture in Rome, an animated (what else) television series called "Little Mae, the Wickedest Woman in the World."

★ ★ ★

Mae had some observations about the current Hollywood situation, in which stars are accused of sabotaging the film industry by their high demands and low work habits.

"I think the answer might be to give these stars a percentage of the profits rather than big salaries," she observed. "Then the studios can make the pictures more reasonably and the stars might behave better, knowing added cost would cut into their profits."

TRIED TO SAVE

"Personally, I never had any problems. I was always on time and tried to save money; I learned that early, because my mother put up the money for my first shows.

★ ★ ★

"I never got a percentage of the profits on my pictures because Paramount was in bankruptcy litigation and couldn't give it to me. I got the studio out of trouble. I made 'She Done Him Wrong' in three weeks when most pictures were taking 12 and 15. It made a fortune.

★ ★ ★

"Even though I didn't get a piece of the action, they paid me very handsomely. I got $300,000 for acting in the picture and another $100,000 for writing it."

★ ★ ★

Mae admitted that the studios faced a tough job in wooing the public away from the television set.

'ONLY ELVIS HAS IT'

"There has been only one real sex image to come along in recent years," she commented, "and that is Elvis Presley. Oh, there are some girls who are good actresses and all that.

★ ★ ★

"But Elvis is the only star to come along with real sex. That boy has got it. I recognized it the first time I heard his records."

AP Photofax

BANNED AGAIN — Mae West, who's had trouble with censors all her life, throws her hands up in mock dismay as she learns her new record, "Am I Too Young?" has been banned by a San Francisco radio station. Actually, it gave Mae a kind of warm feeling to get the news. "Just like old times," she said.

$6.8 Million Suit Filed by Martin Against Studio

★ ★ ★

The suit, filed Monday, charged that the studio damaged Martin by accusing him of unprofessional conduct and blaming him for putting 120 film workers out of jobs.

SUED BY STUDIO

The studio has sued Martin for $3,339,000 and Marilyn Monroe for $500,000. It charged the two refused to complete the film.

★ ★ ★

Martin's suit contends the actor was within his rights when he refused to do the picture with Lee Remick, who was named to replace Miss Monroe.

★ ★ ★

Martin said his contract gave him approval of the co-star and that he did not think Miss Remick was a satisfactory substitute.

Talk of Union Fruitless; Katanga Chief Departs

By PETER GROSE

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Katanga President Moise Tshombe left for Elisabethville today, ending six weeks of negotiations with Premier Cyrille Adoula without any further sign of progress toward the union of Katanga and the central Congolese government.

After a sleepless night of 11th-hour bargaining, Robert Gardiner, the U.N. chief in the Congo, admitted no document had been signed, and no agreement or communique could be produced to indicate any progress.

"There is nothing," Gardiner said, adding that a communique to be issued later today would be purely routine.

Tshombe told newsmen much remains to be done and that the negotiations would continue. He said he had every intention of meeting again with Adoula in Leopoldville or "some other place." He gave no indication of when.

SMILES OF RELIEF

U.N. officials broke into smiles of relief as Tshombe's U.N. plane took off without incident. Last time he left Leopoldville, in March, the Congolese authorities made a clumsy attempt to stop him by blocking the runway.

Today the U.N. had three truckloads of Nigerian troops discreetly standing by to prevent any interference with the departure. There were no Congolese troops in sight and all went smoothly.

Tshombe promised Gardiner to write a letter Wednesday after he had conferred with his Katanga government about the negotiations thus far. He also agreed to name his members of four joint commissions authorized to study the problems of reintegrating Katanga with the rest of the Congo.

ATTITUDE RESIGNED

"It will be interesting if he in fact does this," Gardiner told newsmen, "and it will also be interesting if he doesn't."

Gardiner's attitude was resigned.

"We move in tiny steps," he said. "If we didn't accomplish anything this time, maybe we will the next."

U. S. Dependents to Return to Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — An American Embassy spokesman said today dependents of American officials stationed in Laos have been allowed to return to Vientiane.

★ ★ ★

American families were evacuated in August 1960 after the coup of neutralist Capt. Kong Le. Most of them moved to Bangkok, capital of neighboring Thailand.

★ ★ ★

The decision to allow the return of American women and children was taken after a coalition government was formed. The embassy spokesman could not say how many would return.

The president of Liberia is elected for an initial term of eight years. After that he may be re-elected for further terms of four years each.

Chevy '62 Sales Past 1 Million

Chrysler, Rambler Tell of Excellent Mid-June Deliveries

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet announced its 1962 passenger car sales have passed the one million mark and Chrysler and Rambler both announced excellent mid-June sales yesterday.

K. E. Staley, Chevrolet sales manager, said Chevrolet retail deliveries between Jan. 1 and June 20 totaled 1,050,286, up 43.5 per cent from the same period last year and 22 percent above the previous company high for the period, set in 1960.

Staley said 74,269 Chevrolets were sold during the second 10 days of June, well above the previous mid-June high of 64,-023, set in 1956. Truck sales for the period were 12,877, or 33 percent better than during the same period last year.

Rambler mid-June sales of 14,-204 cars were the best for any comparable period in Rambler history, said T. A. Coupe, American Motors sales vice president. The previous high was 13,059 in mid-June 1960.

★ ★ ★

Dealers have sold 313,896 new Ramblers since the start of the 1962 model fiscal year, compared with 270,578 delivered in the comparable 1961 period.

★ ★ ★

Chrysler passenger car sales of 3,567 units during June's middle 10 days were the best for this period in seven years, Chrysler-Plymouth Division announced. Chrysler sales for the first 20 days of June were 21 percent better than 1961 figures.

★ ★ ★

Plymouth-Valiant 20-day deliveries totaled 17,365, with 9,568 of them during the mid-month period. It was the best mid-month total in the last 11 months for combined Plymouth and Valiant deliveries.

★ ★ ★

Imperial deliveries of 313 units were up 13 percent from the first 10 June days' daily rate and 25 percent ahead of the mid-June period of 1961.

Patient Swallows Knife 'in Moment of Pain'

PERUGIA, Italy (AP)—Francesco Pagliacci, 67, swallowed a table knife while eating in a hospital ward yesterday. Attendants grabbed him just in time to keep him from gulping down a spoon.

Pagliacci, suffering from arthritis, told doctors he swallowed the knife in a moment of extreme pain. He cut his mouth and throat. The doctors said they would operate to remove the knife.

U.S. Going Out to Woo Foreign Tourists

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — For the first time in the history of the nation the government is trying seriously to coax foreign tourists to the U.S. It's an effort to overcome a hulking imbalance. In 1960, for example, Americans spent $1 billion more overseas than did visitors to this country.

★ ★ ★

That same year we ranked 23rd among the 25 countries with travel promotion budgets of $20,000 or more, barely edging out Cyprus an San Marino, the Mets of the travel league.

The Congo spent three times as much as we did, proclaiming its questionable glories; Russia, 30 times as much; Britain, 50 times more.

Each year about 2-million Americans take off for lands beyond the seas and borders, most of them just for the hell of it. About half a million foreigners come this way for a look-see at our exotic way of life.

In the hope of boosting the incoming figure to a million, we're spending $4 million this year telling the peoples of the world that they'll miss a lot if they don't see Wichita before they croak.

Some of that money is spent on attractive travel posters and paid advertisements, some on spreading the word that traveling through America can be achieved without bankruptcy. We're a bargain counter travel land compared to, say, Venezuela.

If a half a million more can be attracted, that would contribute a quarter of a billion dollars to the national economy. The U.S. Travel Service, a division of the Commerce Department, believes that in time the influx of tourist dollars will be felt all over the U.S., not in just the big cities and major tourist spots.

COOPERATION

Private industry is cooperating. The two leading bus companies, Greyhound and Trailways, offer the foreign visitor 99 days of unlimited bus travel for only $99. U.S. railroads give a 15 per cent discount on all coach tickets purchased by foreign visitors. TWA and Pan Am have set up attractive "Visit USA" exhibits overseas. Air France, Scandinavian, BOAC and other foreign carriers conduct regular seminars abroad, attempting to quicken interest in visits to the U.S. American Express has developed a series of low-cost group tours of the land.

★ ★ ★

"You have a deep quiet pride in your country, which is a welcome contrast to the vocal, emotional nationalism in other nations," says Mrs. Nguyen Thi Hai, Vietnamese economist.

"But you tend to underplay the intellectual environment and accomplishment in this country. Too many people apologize for the country being young."

J. Van Der Woude, Amsterdam butcher, says, "The United States is wonderful, but it's hard on the feet. It needs more sidewalk benches."

★ ★ ★

There have been complaints about the rudeness of waiters and waitresses, bewilderment over the bigness of everything, and astonishment over the extent of automation.

But many questioned, as they leave the country, assert that this is the greatest vacation land they've ever known.

To overcome that hurdle, the U.S. Travel Services urges Americans who want to further international understanding to open their doors, and their hearts, to those who choose to "Visit U.S.A." They can do so by registering their names with the U.S. Travel Service, Commerce Department, Washington, D.C.

Husky Theater Patron 'Shows Up' Film Hero

CASTROVILLARI, Italy (AP) — Giuseppe Campilongo's derisive comments on an Italian movie about a legendary strong man touched off an uproar in a theater here yesterday.

Two policemen pounced on Campilongo and bounced right off. Two more joined the fray, but the husky youth still looked like a winner. Only after a fifth policeman joined in was Campilongo hauled away to jail and charged with violence and resisting arrest.

Four of the five policemen required hospital treatment.

It costs more than $500 to create facilities to make one ton of steel per year, including finishing facilities, working capital and the sources of raw materials.

South has the same hand as yesterday and North has almost the same. The play is also similar. South is in six no-trump and has 11 top tricks with a potential 12 trick in either spades or diamonds.

If either suit breaks, his troubles are over. If neither breaks, he must try to develop a squeeze.

Because he has 11 and is trying for 12, the first thing for South to do is to lose a trick and he might as well begin by letting West's queen of spades hold that first trick.

Assuming West continues spades, South takes the second trick and cashes his other high spade just to see if anything nice will happen.

It doesn't. East shows out, so now South takes his clubs and hearts. On the third heart, West has to discard a diamond. He certainly can't let that good spade go. Now the squeeze has operated and South makes four diamond tricks.

This hand is quite simple and the way it is constructed, South can make the hand by changing the order of his plays in almost any way he desires. The method I have shown is just the most elegant.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR
For Wednesday

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Money matters may be surface highlights of day. But what you feel "inside" really dominates. So, strive for truth. If not true to yourself you feel a loss no matter what temporary gains occur.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Cycle up, but unless you take initiative, opportunity slips by. Choice is between "resting" and moving with vigor. Take latter course. Otherwise you may have regrets.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Moon in section of chart associated with "closed areas." Means today you should check on past obligations and fulfill them. Otherwise, you invite trouble, especially in connection with PAST DUE BILLS.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): No matter how much others praise you, real reward comes from SELF-FULFILLMENT. Take initiative and be true to yourself. In other words, FOLLOW YOUR OWN COUNSEL TODAY.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 21): One who is close to you may mean well but today you must be leader. Set the pace. Do what you must do. Build up strength and worry later about "consequences."

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Favorable lunar aspect . . . today means financial matters can be settled in YOUR FAVOR. But speak up. Let others know you have allies. Or business associate might "push."

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Strength of your convictions "pays off." Let no one tell you how to live your own life. Once and for all state position, and stick to it! You are a champion in long run.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Cycle not high, but you can make most of day by striving for great independence. Take time to look around to scout for benefit of your own future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Emphasis on UNDERSTANDING desires of loved ones. No matter how much success you have OUTSIDE your home, real happiness results only from harmony and love.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20): Favorable lunar aspect today means long-range view best. If you look "too close," actions are apt to be petty. GIVE LOVED ONE BENEFIT OF THE DOUBT.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Trusting judgment of others could cause you to change your mind at critical point. Better have self-confidence and MAKE YOUR OWN DECISIONS!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Be versatile today and see ALL SIDES of a dispute. There are persons who would like nothing better than to have you make mistake. So, WATCH YOUR STEP.

IF WEDNESDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . You are sympathetic individual who is concerned with a "fair break" for underdog. Never give up this quality! Much detail work to be attended to next month. So, start preparing by checking facts, figures.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for ARIES, TAURUS, GEMINI. Day when persons are concerned with improvement. . . And with safety, security. This applies to NATIONS as well as persons. Not day to try to force your way. Key word is DIPLOMACY.

Muskegon Goes All Out for Summer Business

MUSKEGON (AP) — This west side of state port community — a fast developing foreign trade station on the St. Lawrence Seaway run — is channeling $100,000 into an all-out drive for the summer tourist and resort dollar.

It is pitting hard cash, practiced showmanship, a year's experience and the work of hundreds of volunteers in a bootstraps effort to bolster its business economy.

The tools are hard-sell promotion of the area's recreational assets—which are considerable—and of a summer entertainment spectacular unique in size and variety in Michigan and the Midwest.

Tub-thumping for the project—the community's second annual Seaway festival, June 30 - July 7 — is backed by a $17,000 advertising budget, and has produced travel column nods in several national magazines and in major dailies in all sections of the country.

The festival's general chairman, who is assistant general manager for Consumers Power Co. here, says the aim is to "provide the best of all possible entertainment worlds for a sunny span of Michigan summer," and to "make Greater Muskegon the mecca for vacationing families all over the Midwest."

While the chairman, A. Frank Brewer, admits "this is ambitious," he feels the community has the lodestone to attract tourist and resort silver in an impressive public fun package which crowds more than 50 sports and entertainment events into a fast-paced 8-day span.

The festival started as a spontaneous volunteer program last year which developed as a "let's fight back" reaction to news that Borg-Warner's Norge division was pulling out to relocate in Arkansas, turning 2,000 workers into the street.

BLACK INK

A nine-day program attracted thousands, buoyed community spirits, and wound up in the black—an achievement described as "incredible for an undertaking of its size" by the director of Detroit's giant "Freedom Festival."

The community's cash registers confirmed the success and whetted enthusiasm for an expanded 1962 program. Directors of the festival organization added a score of new events and lopped a day off the program to tighten the entertainment pace.

Festival week will center again on the annual Miss Michigan pageant, July 4-6. The competition will see 36 Michigan beauties vying for the state title and a chance to recapture the Miss America crown relinquished only last year by Muskegon county's own Nancy Anne Fleming.

★ ★ ★

A parade of major attractions lead up to the pageant, including A June 30 "battle-of-bands" opening night musicale and, on July 1, a faith and freedom sunrise service, with Father Flanagan's Boys Town Choir, a sports car gymkhana, and the new Brunswick Cup races, a 100-boat regatta sanctioned and run by the Michigan Outboard Racing Association.

★ ★ ★

A three-block carnival midway opens July 2 in the downtown area, along with an "international night" show in the arena and other events. July 3 is the date for a big Miss Michigan pageant parade, expected to draw between 75,000 and 100,000, a public ox roast, and a jazz concert.

The Fourth of July program will center on the Lake Michigan parks and beaches where the Navy's "Blue Angels" precision flying team is expected to attract thousands for an early afternoon show.

The Miss Michigan pageant opens in the arena that night, running through the first of two preliminary competitions leading to the Friday night finals. Another big event is the Seaway square dance, Saturday, July 7, expected to draw between 3,000 and 4,000 colorfully costumed dancers from this and neighboring states.

Sandwiched through the week are scores of other events, including fireworks displays, a baby contest, fishing and turtle derbies, band concerts, roving barbershop quartets and musical combos, a symphony concert, art fairs and exhibitions, a coin exhibition, airplane rides, a state invitational archery tournament, national baton twirling contest, stilt contest, skin diving exhibitions, tours of foreign vessels, a sand sculpture contest, horse shoe tournament, baseball exhibitions and other spectator and participant attractions.

It's by-and-for-the-community affair, and festival leaders feel it can force a strong middle link in the "biggest chain of spring and summer festivals in the mid-west."

They say that Michigan could make big tourist industry capital by concentrated promotion of the "string of west state entertainment pearls" opening with the blossom festival at Benton Harbor in early May, the Holland tulip festival, Muskegon's Seaway extravaganza, Ludington's perch festival, Traverse City's cherry festival and, in August, Grand Haven's Coast Guard festival.

Pablo Casals Gives Small Concert in NY

NEW YORK (AP)—A miniature concert was presented by cellist Pablo Casals before an audience that included Queen Mother Elisabeth of Belgium as the feature of a formal dinner Monday night.

The occasion was a tribute to the 85-year-old Casals by the friends of the Conservatory of Music of Puerto Rico which was opened at San Juan three years ago under Casals' sponsorship.

About 400 persons attended the dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel and gave the maestro repeated applause.

Impatient Man Seeks and Finds His Stolen Car

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—John C. Adomelis was too impatient to wait for police to locate his car after he reported it missing Monday.

He got hold of another car and drove around the city for awhile looking for his sedan. But this method was too slow.

He drove to the airport, climbed into his plane, and started making passes over the city.

Sure enough, he saw his car, parked in an open area near the railroad tracks.

Back on the ground again, Adomelis notified police he had found his stolen car.

More than $4.6 million has been appropriated for cancer research by the Tobacco Industry Research Committee.

Gov. Swainson Will Veto Bill

Ford-Canton Provision Controversial Issue in Compensation Measure

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson says he will veto for the second year a hotly controversial bill nullifying the effect of the State Supreme Court's Ford-Canton decision.

The governor disclose his decision yesterday to a group of businessmen and industrialists who told him that the measure would help put thousands of jobless workers and help attract industry to Michigan.

Swainson said he would "gladly" sign the bill if it did not contain "the bitter pill" of the Ford-Canton provision.

The group, members of the Michigan Employers' Unemployment Compensation Bureau, rejected the governor's call for negotiations by employers, union leaders and representatives of the general public to work out an agreement on the controversial labor disputes section.

Frank E. Cooper, attorney for the employers' organization, rejected the proposal as "unrealistic." Previous attempts have failed, he said.

The 1959 Ford-Canton decision permitted Michigan employes of Ford Motor Co. to collect unemployment compensation benefits when they were idled by a strike at a Ford plant in Canton, Ohio.

Employers asserted the decision could force those with multiunit operations to finance strikes against themselves through their contributions to the unemployment compensation fund.

Swainson said he had not intended to reveal his decision on the bill so soon, but let it out when Colin L. Smith, manager of the employers bureau, asked:

"What does the UAW have against it. . . ?"

* * *

"I am not interested in what the UAW has against it," the governor exploded. "I am interested in the best interests of the majority of the people of this state and I object to it. It is unacceptable."

* * *

Monday is the deadline for Swainson to act on the measure. His veto, however, is expected this week since he will leave Friday for the National Conference of Governors in Hershey, Pa.

3 Local Youths Plead Guilty to Firm Break-In

James Fox, 22, of 478 Wyoming St., Richard W. Williams, 19, of 136 Wall St., and Richard P. Molina, 17, of 259 Raeburn St. entered guilty pleas to a charge of breaking and entering at night.

The youths, facing a maximum penalty of 15 years imprisonment each, will be sentenced July 24.

The trio was captured when a man told police he saw three youths breaking in through a door.

Pontiac Drill Team Again Wins Contest

Waterford Unit to Probe Feasibility of Food Law

A Waterford Township Board committee headed by Trustee Loren Anderson will explore the feasibility of a township food ordinance this week and make a report to the board Monday.

* * *

The committee was so instructed last night by Township Supervisor Elmer Johnson following a lengthy discussion on a proposed ordinance.

Donald Fraser, secretary of the Greater Waterford Community Council, appeared before the board to inquire if any action had been taken on establishing a food and health ordinance as recommended to the board by the GWCC earlier this month.

Fraser said that in a rapidly growing community such an ordinance was a must.

"As it stands now, many restaurant owners aren't sure just what the requirements are," he added.

WOULD MAKE CHECKS

The GWCC representative also explained that food handling is presently governed by the State Agricultural Department which won't investigate an establishment unless a formal complaint is made.

He then stated that the county personnel who would help enforce a local ordinance, would also make routine checks.

Anderson questioned the extent of enforcement the county would provide and Johnson said it was his understanding that the county would inform the township of a violation and the local unit would have to take the enforcement action.

Fraser said the proposed ordinance is recommended by the county and patterned after those adopted by several other Oakland County communities. He added that the cost would be neglibible to the township.

* * *

Anderson told board members he would arrange a meeting with county health department officials as soon as possible.

In other action July 16 was set as the hearing of intent date for the proposed blacktopping of Kemp and Preston Sts.

The board also approved the Vista Villa Subdivision plat pending the receipt of signed water agreements and approved several fireworks permits and two carnival licenses.

Man Found Guilty of Bank Robbery

BAY CITY (AP) — A Federal Court jury yesterday found Neil A. McTaggart guilty in the $20,250 robbery of a Unionville bank in October 1960.

★ ★ ★

McTaggart told Federal Judge Frank A. Picard after the verdict was read: "I never did the thing. That is all I can tell you."

McTaggart was jailed pending sentencing later today or tomorrow.

University Curator Dies

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Knowles Burdette Smith, 82, curator of the University of Notre Dame Science Museum, died Sunday. Smith joined the Notre Dame faculty in 1908 and was head of the geology department for many years. He became curator of the museum when he retired from teaching in 1946.

Jim Backus Loves New York in July

NEW YORK (AP) — One of Hollywood's brightest and most outrageous spirits has taken up 13 weeks' residence in New York, delighted at an opportunity to head a summer replacement show.

That attitude, alone, marks Jim Backus as a non-conformist.

"People in Hollywood reacted as if I planned to spend the summer in Rangoon," he related, "and most of them were the ones who carry on about adoring New York because of the museums, the chamber music and good conversation. That's a lot of nonsense — a performer goes where there's work to be done."

★ ★ ★

Backus, who crept into American hearts as the voice of a near-sighted and winsome little cartoon character named Mr. McGoo, will take over next week as host on a revival of CBS' "Talent Scout" program. It will replace "The Garry Moore Show" on Tuesday nights starting July 3.

★ ★ ★

That is only part of the busy Backus's schedule: he also signed for some host work on NBC's "Monitor" radio show.

THIRD BOOK

He and his wife have their third book "What Are You Doing After the Orgy?" in the stores.

He has just finished making a holiday special, an adaptation of Dickens' "Christmas Carol" in which Mr. McGoo plays Scrooge.

★ ★ ★

Recently, too, he's been busy acting in movies—dramatic parts—and he is highly visible in reruns of series made in past years. So New York is almost a vacation for this active man.

★ ★ ★

Backus' first plunge into television consisted of 117 shows called "I Married Joan," in which he played the dignified judge married to comedienne Joan Davis, who has since died. The last program was made in 1955—and the series is still playing around the country.

A TIME VACUUM

"The people who made that series certainly had an eye for the future—particularly for getting future sponsors," Backus said. "We lived in a vacuum and in an absolutely sterile household. I never smoked—not even a pipe—so there was no problem with tobacco. We never drank, of course—when we wanted to be hospitable, we'd offer guests some fruit. We never drove a car, and only once did we crack a topical joke—we mentioned Truman.

★ ★ ★

"The only way people can tell how old those shows are is by looking at my suits and my haircut—it started out long and we are acceptable to anybody who wants to sponsor us."

It is reported that 17 laboratories are currently working on ion engines for the propulsion of space craft. Two of these are to be flight-tested next year.

Over New Constitution

Swainson and Romney Throwing Jabs

LANSING (AP) — George Romney says Gov. Swainson is making unrealistic demands as the price for his support of a proposed new constitution for Michigan.

Swainson fired back — in an exchange of news releases — with a charge that Romney, Republican candidate for governor, was being "typically unclear, confused and evasive" in his comments.

Swainson outlined a nine-point program for changes in the draft of the proposed new document on which the constitutional convention will put its final stamp of approval when it returns Aug. 1.

He called on Romney to rally Republican support for the changes or at least separate the controversial provisions from the remainder of the constitution when voters decide whether to accept it.

Romney, however, called Swainson's proposals "impossible and impractical alternatives . . . and a feeble attempt to take a positive approach."

Romney said Swainson was trying to substitute his judgment and preferences for those of 144 delegates.

★ ★ ★

"This is another sample of what is wrong with Michigan government today — the blind insistence by a ruling clique that everything goes their way and that nothing short of what they want will be permitted.

★ ★ ★

In his counter-counter statement, Swainson said Romney was clear on one point— "He wants no part of any effort to assure constitutional progress. He wants to keep the proposed constitution on a take-it-or-leave-it basis."

★ ★ ★

Swainson contended that he has been consistent in efforts to produce responsible constitutional reform.

CLAIMS CONSISTENCY

"I have been consistent in fighting for pinciple, the record is clear on that," Swainson said, adding:

"The record is also clear that Mr. Romney sold out his announced principles for a political package deal with the mossbacks in the convention."

Swainson said he plans to submit his proposals to the constitutional convention anyway "in the hope that a sufficient number of the majority Republicans will agree to responsible action toward achievement of sound constitutional revisions."

Swainson's proposals call changes in a minimum of nine fields, including finance and taxation, legislative apportionment, local government, the executive branch, civil rights and civil service.

★ ★ ★

Romney, who is vacationing on Lake Huron in Ontario, described them as the kind of unrealistic demands which he said have "led Michigan to its present sorry state of division, deadlock, drift and decline."

Rudy Feels He's Best Talent Scout of All

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Feudin'-and-fussin' Rudy Vallee's blasting "Talent Scouts" Producer Irving Mansfield for hiring Jim Backus as summertime m.c.

"I like Jim—but what talent did HE ever discover . . . as for Arthur Godfrey, what talent did HE ever discover?" roared Rudy at Trader Vic's anniversary party the other A.M.

"But if you said, 'What talent did Rudy Vallee ever discover?' you could name countless . . ."

"Maybe," I said, " you wanted to do the show."

Spoke up Johnny Carson: "That Rudy's such a master of innuendo!"

Lovely actress-singer-model Dodie Marshall auditioned on a very hot day for British star Anthony Newley—and Merrick. Newley's bringing his big London hit, "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off," here under Merrick's banner.

WILSON

"They looked me in the eye afterward and said, 'Thank you very much,' meaning, 'We don't need you.' "I swore I wouldn't work for Merrick if he begged me."

Next morning, Casting Director Michael Shurtleff phoned her that Merrick wanted her for larger part in "Oliver," his other British import.

Though crushed not to work with Newley (whom 7 Arts is building into an international film star also), Dodie's sure Merrick must likewise be a FINE MAN! "I really don't know yet," she says . . . You will, dear, you will.

Ex-Convict Admits Part in 'Execution'

CHICAGO (UPI) — An ex-convict has confessed to police he pumped a revolver slug into the back of a fellow member of a torture bandit gang to prevent the victim from confessing to authorities.

Alex Wallace, 28, who has served prison terms for armed robbery and operating a confidence game, told state's attorney police in Cook County how he and another bandit executed Herbert Kwate, 23, in a ravine 40 miles northwest of Chicago on June 17.

"I told him to lay down, take a big drag on a cigarette and turn over on his face so he couldn't look at me. I aimed right at the back of his shoulder and fired a shot," Wallace said in his confession.

★ ★ ★

He implicated another ex-convict, Gary D'Allessandro, 25, who has served a term for burglary, in the killing.

Hoffa 'Pet Project' in Florida Is Sold

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Sun Valley, Inc., a development project on which Teamster Union President James Hoffa is charged with using union funds and fraudulently promoting as union-backed, was sold yesterday.

Edwin Willis of Titusville, trustee for Sun Valley stockholders, said the 2,000-acre tract of land in Brevard County south of here was sold to the Echo Co. of Milwaukee for an undisclosed sum.

Attorneys for Hoffa and Robert C. McCarthy Jr., a Detroit bank employe charged with him, began pretrial conference in Tampa with U.S. District Judge Joseph P. Lieb. The trial is scheduled to begin Sept. 10.

The two were first indicted at Orlando Dec. 7, 1960. The indictment was dismissed in July 1961, on the ground that the grand jury was improperly chosen. They were reindicted Oct. 11.

Nixon Will Speak July 4 in Denmark

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon will represent the United States in Denmark's celebration of American Independence Day on July 4.

Nixon will speak on the principles of the Declaration of Independence as applied to the world's current ideological conflicts. More than 50,000 persons are expected to hear him at Rebild National Park in Jutland.

Last year the United States was represented by Walt Disney.

Rebild National Park is a 30-acre tract bought in 1909 by Americans of Danish birth and deeded to the Danish government in 1912 with the stipulation that the signing of the American Declaration of Independence be celebrated there each year.

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special)—A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma—the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN*.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Get BRONITIN—available at all drug stores without prescription.

Drainage Plans on Clinton River Outlined by City

$2.6 Million Project Would Place Stretch in Underground Tunnel

A new plan for improving Clinton River drainage was tentatively outlined this morning by City Manager Robert Stierer before the Oakland County Drain Commission.

City commissioners at an informal meeting last night indicated their possible approval of a $2.62 million project for placing a stretch of river in an underground tunnel. This would span from 200 feet west of the Grand Trunk Railroad tracks to Union Street.

However, the city wants to reserve the right to let contracts on the stretch in two sections, the city commissioners agreed.

This would permit doing first only the section from west of the tracks to Pike Street at a cost of $2.12 million.

The commissioners appeared agreed that this section should have priority because of cheaper construction cost while buildings are razed during urban renewal and to dovetail the river project with the perimeter road construction.

"Construction of this stretch during the time the area is clear of buildings while urban renewal is going on also would save the city the astronomical cost of tunneling underground," Harold Kelly of the engineering firm of Jones, Henry and Williams told commissioners.

Open cut construction would cost a total of $2.12 million, commissioners were told. Kelly described soil conditions as making a closed tunneling operation not only expensive but "pretty near impossible."

The city commission can still change its mind on when to go ahead with either or both of the tunnel sections.

However, in any case the total scope of the Clinton River project apparently will be reduced from the $4-million project recommended by the previous city commission in March.

Commissioners last night were told that the section from Union

Resumption Depends on Hearing

PanAm Strike in Balance

NEW YORK (AP)—Possible resumption of the flight engineers' strike against Pan American World Airways hinged on the outcome of a federal court hearing today.

Daniel Kornblum, counsel to the engineers' union, predicted that the U.S. District Court in New York would lift the temporary restraining order which ended the strike four hours after it started last Saturday. Kornblum called the ban clearly untenable under the law.

Ron A. Brown, president of the union, said that if the temporary order is lifted, Pan Am's 500 flight engineers will strike again immediately.

Today's hearing before Judge George Rosling was on whether a full-fledged injunction against a strike should be issued. Union counsel have been called upon to show cause why such an injunction should not be granted.

Rosling issued the temporary order Saturday on a plea by Pan Am. Rosling acted under terms of the National Railway Labor Act, which covers transportation.

Eastern Air Lines — struck Saturday at the same time as Pan Am — has been closed down since then by the walkout of its 575 flight engineers. A spokesman for Eastern said it did not seek an order similar to that obtained by Pan Am because Eastern's position was "somewhat different." He did not elaborate.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said in Washington that negotiations of the AFL-CIO Flight Engineers International Association are deadlocked with both Pan Am and Eastern.

The issue is basically a fight by the engineers against losing jobs to pilots, who are members of the larger AFL-CIO Air Line Pilots Association. Jet airliner cockpit crews are soon to be reduced from four men to three, and the scrap is over who shall get the third seat in the cockpit along with two pilots.

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—A new switch that proved faulty was blamed today for a two-hour power failure which affected several million persons in parts of three states.

Officials said it would take some time to determine what went wrong with the switch at South Dakota's Fort Randall Dam, cutting off 320,000 kilowatts of power to two-thirds of Iowa and Nebraska and parts of South Dakota.

It was the first time the switch had been used, an Army Corps of Engineers' official said.

Coupled with failure of a 100,000-kilowatt generator at Omaha, the interruption in power from the Fort Randall Dam caused power suppliers in adjoining states to "go flat."

The chain reaction was "like a line of dominoes," each causing another failure, one official said.

Omaha, Lincoln, Neb., Des Moines, Iowa, and other cities were cut off from service, but emergency systems throughout the area prevented serious trouble at hospitals and other institutions.

Strategic Air Command headquarters relied on its own emergency system and came through without incident.

'WHAT HAPPENED?'

At Omaha, thousands of persons walked the streets as everything from traffic lights to air conditioning went out.

They asked each other, what happened? Why are the lights out? What does it mean?"

Police rushed from desk duties to jammed intersections to keep traffic moving.

"My electric typewriter wouldn't work," a secretary said, "but not having air conditioning was worst of all." Windows closed since cooling units were installed years ago, opened again. Hundreds of workers peered out at the streets from darkened offices.

Department stores closed their doors behind crowds described as "panicked but really orderly." However, one clerk noted, "I sold six dresses after the power went off."

Warmer Tomorrow After Cool Evening

A cool tonight and pleasant warm summer day tomorrow are in store for Pontiac residents and no rain in sight.

From 10 a.m. yesterday until the same hour today .4 of an inch in rain fell on the downtown area.

Fifty-nine was the low recording in downtown Pontiac preceding 8 a.m. The mercury reading at 1 p.m. was 77.

Congressmen, and Churchmen Oppose Action

Supreme Court Decision Seen Related to U. S. School Aid by Few

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court ruling striking down the saying of official prayers in public schools has stirred a cauldron of criticism from churchmen and members of Congress.

Many of them asked, "How far does it go?"

"The next thing you know, they'll be telling us we can't open our daily House sessions with prayer," said Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va. A Jewish leader, who hailed the decision, felt it made clear that federal funds could not be used to aid parochial schools.

Specifically the court ruled Monday that it is a violation of the Constitution for New York State to authorize the saying of the following prayer in public schools:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

In a 6-1 decision the court said the First Amendment's ban against establishment of a religion means that "it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers for any group of American people to recite as part of a religious program carried on by government."

BROAD IMPACT SEEN

Engineers 'Lie' in Safety Claim

WASHINGTON (AP)— A principal union claim in the present airline labor controversy — that a flight engineer must be a qualified mechanic in order to operate jet planes safely — has been termed pure bunk by the government's top civil aviation official.

★ ★ ★

"Any spokesman for the Flight Engineers Association who claims that air safety is involved, or compromised," Halaby said, "is just irresponsible and distorting the situation for his own end. There is no safety compromise, and there won't be any."

Government officials made public here portions of a news conference Halaby held on the matter Monday at the Investment Banking Association convention at Santa Barbara, Calif.

It was believed to be the first time a top government official has said a jet plane can be operated just as safely whether the flight engineer is a skilled mechanic or not.

In a refinement of the term featherbedding, as indicative of the function of useless employes, Halaby also said that the practice of some airlines in using four-man crews to operate jets is mere "featherbedding." He plainly saw the three-man crews operating for some airlines as sufficient.

Mid-June Sees 15,999 Sales of Pontiac, Tempest

Retail sales of 15,999 new Pontiacs and Tempests were reported by dealers during the middle 10-days of June, it was announced today by Frank V. Bridge, general sales manager for Pontiac Motor Division.

This represents an increase of 59 per cent over the same period a year ago when the figure was 10,054, Bridge said.

★ ★ ★

For the first 20 days in June, Pontiac and Tempest deliveries total 30,222, Bridge said. He added that Pontiac has sold 383,836 cars since the new models first went on sale last September. This is 47,828 more than were sold during the entire 1961 model year.

UF Leaders Meet, Plan 'Commercials'

Leaders of the Pontiac Area United Fund met last night and concentrated on "UF commercials."

A team of business and civic leaders headed by UF General Chairman Fred Haggard met at the Waldron Hotel to shape plans for operations of the UF's commercial division, which solicits contributions from business, government, professional and educational groups.

Bruce Annett, division chairman, met with members of his committee and discussed assignments for the 1962 campaign. Annett said Charles Brown, Pontiac Division manager of Consumers Power Co., will head the chapter plan group which last year raised pledges of $110,399. This section is made up of businesses with 10 or more employes.

SECONDARY GROUP

Heading the small teams — companies of less than 10 employes — is Jack Brannock, an insurance broker. This section raised pledges of $10,492 last year.

Governmental units will be under the direction of David Ewalt, director of the Pontiac Department of Parks and Recreation. Last year this group raised $16,956 in pledges.

Dr. Michael Kozonis will lead two professional groups in their efforts to top the $27,799 pledged a year ago.

Work among educational groups will be led by William Shunck, superintendent of Waterford Township schools. These groups pledged $15,620 a year ago.

Prior to the October opening of the drive, additional committee heads will be named and several hundred solicitors recruited, Annett said.

Scholle Ousted by Republicans

Refuse to Okay Board Appointment; Accused of Spite Work

LANSING (AP) — The controversy over whether Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle should serve on the State Conservation Commission has ended.

★ ★ ★

Senate Republicans decided in a straight party line vote, 18-8, last night to reject Scholle's appointment. The labor leader has been serving on the commission on a tentative basis for more than a year.

Gov. Swainson flayed the Senate action as a demonstration of "cheap, shoddy politics—of government by spite."

In explaining the Senate Business Committee's recommendation that Scholle be turned out, Chairman John W. Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, argued that the Senate was in a fight for survival because of Scholle's Supreme Court suit in reapportionment.

★ ★ ★

"We are in a fight for our own survival — and Mr. Scholle is the motivating center of the attack," Fitzgerald said. "It is time to rise up in righteous indignation."

★ ★ ★

Democrats said Scholle had proven to be an outstanding conservation commissioner, and they accused the Republicans of making a political issue out of the appointment.

Favored Aussie Upset

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., America's No. 3 ranked woman player, turned in the biggest shock of the Wimbledon tennis championships today when she ousted top-seeded Margaret Smith of Australia 1-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Swainson's March for Money Flops

LANSING (AP) Gov. Swainson's plea for a public march on the capitol to demand bigger legislative appropriations produced only about 100 participants today, including 30 school children.

"It was a complete flop," chortled Sen. Lynn O. Francis, R-Midland, Senate majority leader. "This indicates that people are thinking conservatively, and that they have been saddled with all the taxes they can take."

Swainson sent out 2,000 letters last week to groups and individuals, urging them to rally in Lansing and call on the legislature for bigger appropriations for education, mental health and other state programs.

Those who assembled included Democratic legislators, Ingham County party officials and tourists. Swainson told his listeners he had been told that many more demonstrators were on their way.

In a two-minute speech, the governor said he found a great deal of public support for his spending program in tours around the state since last December.

The governor called attention to 1,700 mentally retarded citizens waiting for admission to state institutions as justification for a bigger appropriation for mental health programs.

Airport Plans Awaiting FAA

Supervisors Also Vote Oakland Medical Care Official Survey

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors yesterday left it up to its aviation committee to recommend future plans for the county airport site.

The board also authorized a health and medical care survey costing $15,000.

A resolution to abandon the jet airport, in favor of establishing a community college on the property, was made by Orion Township Supervisor John Lessiter.

His suggestion was offered in light of the fact that the Federal Aviation Agency has rejected the county's plans to establish a major jet air terminal in Pontiac and Orion townships.

TO AWAIT REPORT

Springfield Township Supervisor John Carey, acting chairman of the aviation committee, said his committee would not convene on Lessiter's resolution until after the county has received official notification of the FAA's disapproval.

Announcement of the rejection was made a week ago by U.S. Rep. William S. Broomfield (R-Oakland County), following a communication he received from the FAA regional office at Kansas City.

The request to spend $15,000 for a study of the various hospitalization and health programs of the county was made by Ways and Means Chairman David Levinson, supervisor from Birmingham.

The study is needed "to determine whether these services are being furnished economically and yet consistent with the type and degree of care required," he said.

AUTHORIZE SURVEY

The survey will be conducted by the United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit, along with the appointment of a director and citizens committee here.

It is expected to take 6 to 9 months to complete.

During that time, the survey is expected to offer solutions to administrative and legislative problems, which a preliminary study has indicated are blocking effective medical care in the county.

A third of the survey cost will go towards paying consultants in the fields of welfare, public health, medical engineering, legal and mental health.

The UCS will retain $6,000 of the $15,000 to pay the director here and to cover overhead. The remaining $4,000 is needed for clerical work and incidentals, according to the preliminary report.

In other action, the board empowered the County Road Commission to appropriate right-of-way by virtue of necessity, without first having to appear before a Circuit Court jury.

See No Red China Invasion

Rusk, Lord Home Said to Feel Islands in No Immediate Danger

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home reportedly believe Red China's military buildup in Fukien Province does not foreshadow an attempt on the Nationalist-held offshore islands. They think it may be meant to silence Chiang Kai-shek's threats to invade the mainland.

Spokesmen said Rusk and Home reached this conclusion Monday in wide-ranging talks that paid much attention to the Communist buildup opposite the Nationalist islands of Quemoy and Matsu, just off the Communist mainland.

★ ★ ★

'HELPED TO CLARIFY'

The talks aligning British-American views on Communist threats and inter-Allied problems followed Rusk's meetings with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn. Rusk's aides expressed belief his trip has helped clarify some misconceptions among chief allies of America over aspects of U.S. policy.

★ ★ ★

Rusk's round of talks heralded the start of a period of intensive maneuvering between the Communists and the Western powers.

The three Western Allies sent notes to Moscow Monday calling on the Soviet Union to join four-power talks in Berlin to end violence along the Berlin wall and try to bring peace to the divided city.

AGREE TO ATTEND

Rusk and Home agreed to attend the signing next month of a 14-power pact being written at Geneva to guarantee the neutrality of Laos. If Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko also attends, it would provide an opportunity to confer anew on Berlin, disarmament, nuclear tests and other East-West problems.

★ ★ ★

Summing up the results of Rusk's trip so far, his aides said he had not come over to break up what has been called the Paris-Bonn axis because that would be against America's own interests.

GIVES ASSURANCES

He had not brought along any plan to help France's nuclear weapons program, but he gave assurances that America stands ready to help build up a multilateral European nuclear force dovetailed with American nuclear might.

Rusk told Home that De Gaulle had assured him that Britain's bid for entry into the flourishing Common Market would not be vetoed for political reasons. American diplomat s feel that Britain's entry into the European Economic Community could provide the basis for setting up an American-backed nuclear strike force within the framework of the Atlantic alliance.

Justice Dept. Subpoenas Data

Steel Firm Executives' Expense Accounts Asked in Grand Jury Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department has demanded expense account and other information from steel company executives in continuing a probe into April's on-and-off steel price raise.

★ ★ ★

Informed sources said Monday subpoenas for information from some executives went out about three weeks ago in connection with department efforts to determine whether the price boost involved collusion.

REPORT ACTION

The U.S. Steel Corp. said in New York that the government had subpoenaed telephone numbers and expense account information of some executives.

★ ★ ★

The Dow Jones business news service reported from Pittsburgh that similar records were subpoenaed from Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Wheeling Steel Corp. and that Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. was understood to have been served.

ORDERED BY BOBBY

A grand jury investigation into steel prices was ordered April 12 by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy after seven companies announced $6-a-ton price increases. The inquiry continued after the hike was rescinded in the face of administration protests.

A Justice Department source said the subpoenas were part of the continuing inquiry and do not represent any new investigation, Kennedy declined comment.

The search into expense account information reportedly extends back to June 1961.

Unitarian Members Tell of Temporary Minister

BIRMINGHAM —Robert Marshall, an Ann Arbor bookstore owner, has been named interim minister of the Birmingham Unitarian Church. He succeeds Rev. Lester Mondale who recently resigned.

★ ★ ★

Although trained as a Congregational minister at the Chicago Theological Seminary, Marshall, 41, has for several years been engaged part time in the Unitarian ministry.

Most recently he has been interim minister for the Universalist-Unitarian Church at Horton.

He has also served as guest minister at various Unitarian churches in southeastern Michigan and has been active speaker before campus and community groups in the Ann Arbor area.

In Estes Hearing

Gives Conflicting Verson

WASHINGTON (AP — Lawyer Frank Cain repeated today testimony about a mid-March meeting with Billie Sol Estes that contradicted the story told by Maynard C. Wheeler, president of Commercial Solvents Corp.

Cain, in testimony prepared for the House Government Operations subcommittee, told essentially the same story that he related to a Texas court of inquiry in April about a breakfast meeting at Estes' Pecos, Tex., home.

Wheeler told a sharply different version to the committee June 13 and called Cain's Texas testimony "false and defamatory" and "slander of the most vicious kind."

Cain is a Dallas attorney representing finance companies which had loaned money to Estes. Wheeler's firm also gave Estes extensive credit, for purchase of fertilizer and a start in the grain storage business.

HITS ALL POINTS

Cain touched on all the essential points of his statement in Texas, without any major changes.

This establishes a direct conflict of testimony under oath which subcommittee counsel James Naughton says is likely to reach the Justice Department for study of possible perjury charges.

Naughton, however, says the committee is interested only in finding the truth, not in having anybody prosecuted for perjury.

Estes, 37, a West Texas financier, is under indictment for fraud and his holdings are in receivership.

He is also on trial in Pecos, Tex., on a state charge of felony theft in the sale of liquid fertilizer tanks.

★ ★ ★

Cain testified in Texas that during the meeting with Estes, Wheeler said, "If Billie gets too involved, we can always use him as a consultant in Switzerland."

Cain added, "Billie spoke up and said, "Well, I think Brazil will be better."

He said Wheeler "dropped several names" of high Agriculture Department officials and said "If we have to, why we can step in here and take the place of Billie. We can keep those tanks full, too."

Wheeler denied saying any of the things.

Estes had assigned payments for surplus grain storage to Commercial Solvents as collateral for loans and when arrested, he owed the company more than $5 million.

Prayer Ruling Hit by Solons, Ministers

the Lord's Prayer. The wording of Black's opinion indicated these state laws also violate the First Amendment.

Wrote Black:

"It is neither sacrilegious nor antireligious to say that each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves and those the people choose to look to for religious guidance."

The only dissenter in the decision was Justice Potter Stwart who noted that the Supreme Court's own sessions are opened with the words "God save the United States and this honorable court," and that the House and Senate begin the day with prayers.

CITES ANTHEM

He also observed that the "Star-Spangled Banner" invokes God's help.

★ ★ ★

In the majority decision, Black noted parenthetically that there is nothing in the ruling inconsistent with the fact that school children and others are often called on to express love for our country by reciting historical documents such as the Declaration of Independence which contains references to the deity or by singing officially espoused anthems which include the composer's professions of faith in a supreme being or with the fact that there are many manifestations in our public life of belief in God."

While there were many expressions of protest, there were also voices raised in approval of the ruling.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, an elder in the Mormon Church, remarked:

★ ★ ★

"I don't know how much further we can go to forbid the expression of even the simplest acknowledgement of a belief in God. How long will it be before the daily prayer in Congress is considered a violation of the constitution?"

Evangelist Billy Graham said of the decision:

★ ★ ★

"This is another step toward the secularization of the United States. Followed to its logical conclusion, we will have to take the chaplains out of the armed forces, prayers can not be said in Congress, and the President can not put his hand on the Bible when he takes the oath of office. The framers of the Constitution meant we were to have freedom of religion, not freedom from religion."

In New York, Francis Cardinal Spellman said he was shocked and frightened.

"The decision strikes at the very heart of the godly tradition in which America's children have for so long been raised," he declared.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said he hoped adjustments could be made in the prayer so that it could continue to be used in New York schools.

Sanity of Sheldry Topp Upheld After Testimony

A circuit court decision requiring Sheldry Topp to stand trial for the murder of Charles Davis remained unchanged yesterday despite testimony from two doctors that the defendant is insane.

Judge William J. Beer continued his previous ruling that Topp is mentally competent to face trial after hearing testimony from three doctors and Topp's parents at a sanity hearing.

Drs. Morris Golden of Warren and Ira Altshuler of Southfield, who examined Topp at the Oakland County jail, told the court they considered the 17-year old youth insane and unable to understand the proceedings against him.

Dr. Gisela Schroeder of Pontiac State Hospital, who examined Topp at the hospital and at Detroit's Lafayette Clinic in 1959, said she does not consider the defendant psychotic.

These divided opinions brought the total medical testimony in Topp's case to 4-2, the majority convinced the youth is not insane.

Three other doctors who examined Topp testified at an earlier hearing that he is not psychotic and can assist in his own defense.

Topp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvery J. Topp of Mt. Clemens, were called first to testify at yesterday's hearing. Both said their son had been a "problem" child since he was about 12 years old.

They told the court he had been in trouble for theft, window peeping and entering a girls' restroom at school.

Topp and Dr. Walter Obenauf, superintendent of Pontiac State Hospital, were not called to testify although defense attorney Gilbert Davis submitted their names beforehand as witnesses.

According to Asst. Prosecutor Richard Condit, Topp's examination on first degree murder charges has not been definitely rescheduled. It will be held in Pontiac Township Justice Court, he said, probably sometime next week.

Ban on Prayers Affects 2 Areas

Novi, Bloomfield Hills Schools to Bow to Rules by Supreme Court

Yesterday's U. S. Supreme Court ban on prayers in public schools is expected to bar the practice in the Novi and Bloomfield Hills school districts.

Both school boards had endorsed the practice earlier this year, bowing to heavy public pressure.

★ ★ ★

"I suppose you would consider the ruling a mandate from the Supreme Court, and our local policies have to be in accord with the law of the land."

He added the item would be placed on a board of education future agenda but said he could not set an immediate date.

In Bloomfield Hills, the ruling may be up for discussion at the 8 p.m. July 17 board meeting, according to Supt. Eugene L. Johnson.

★ ★ ★

Johnson today agreed with Culbert that, "offhand, the ruling would appear to be a mandate."

"It would be assumed," he added, "that, since the ruling specified application to governmental agencies, we would be affected."

Johnson added he wanted to read the full ruling before making any further policy changes. Besides, he added, "the prayer issue is no problem during the summer when most of our classes are special courses in junior and senior high schools."

The prayer issue had cropped up in elementary school classes during the regular session, he noted.

The Bloomfield Hills board had originally on Dec. 13 banned prayers in classrooms. However it yielded 4-to-1 to demands for a permissive policy voiced by 500 parents at a public hearing Jan. 16.

In Novi, the school board also had voted 4-to-1 to accept a written policy allowing prayers submitted Feb. 14 by a citizens group.

The city already has begun deepening of a 1,200-foot section westward from East Boulevard.

The bill for the river project will be sent to city taxpayers by the county, if the city commission sticks to its intent expressed last night.

This move would prevent burdening the city's capital improvement fund with the extra tax levy, Stierer explained.

Ransacking, Fire Probed in 2-Unit Area Apartment

PONTIAC TOWNSHIP — Oakland County Sheriff's deputies today are investigating the ransacking of one half of a two-unit terrace apartment at 2420 Auburn Road and a fire set by an arsonist in the unoccupied other half.

Pontiac Fire Chief Carl Schingeck said today the fire about 11:30 p.m. yesterday in the vacant apartment was definitely a case of arson.

Police suspected the arsonist also was responsible for the ransacking of the adjacent apartment occupied by the William E. Foxall family.

Leonard Thompson, 3366 Nichols St., who turned in the alarm, told police he saw a man and woman in front of the apartment while it was burning.

OAS Continues Oran Terror Following Hugh Oil Blaze

ALGIERS (UPI) — The European Secret Army Organization (OAS) resumed its Oran offensive today as weary firefighters brought under control the huge oil fire which terrorists set yesterday.

Plastic bombs shattered telephone exchanges in two districts, cutting communications with two major police stations. A building housing the departmental headquarters of the Health Ministry was burned.

Official sources estimated that nearly half the original European population of 200,000 in Oran now has left the Western port city for France, some 150,000 since June 6.

Unless the current wave of OAS scorched earth terrorism ends quickly, the number leaving is expected to rise sharply.

Reliable sources said that while the fires in the oil storage area of the port were still raging this morning, all danger of the fire spreading now had ceased. No casualties have been reported.

FIRE CONTAINED

For a time the flames threatened to engulf a wide area of the city and harbor but officials said they believed they had contained the blaze to a section of 10 storage tanks.

Flames 90 feet high still leaped up from the fuel oil tanks after daybreak today and an immense shroud of greasy, black smoke hung over the city. The sun looked like a luminous tennis ball through the black haze.

The blaze lighted up the entire waterfront and smothered a four-square mile area with thick smoke. At times firemen could get no closer than 200 yards.

Gen. Joseph Katz, Oran Military Commander, took charge of the battle and flew over the area in a helicopter. Extra firefighters were sent in from the big Mers-El-Keber naval base.

Negro Chips Segregation at Mississippi University

That's the way U.S. Circuit Judge John Minor Wisdom describes James H. Meredith, who has come closer than any Negro in cracking Mississippi's school segregation barrier.

★ ★ ★

Wisdom wrote the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision issued in New Orleans Monday which ordered U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize to issue an injunction forcing the white University of Mississippi to admit Meredith.

★ ★ ★

It took more than a year for Meredith to get the order. Mize, 74, an Ole Miss graduate, rejected his suit several times.

JAMES MEREDITH

SEEKS COMMON GROUND

"I have no argument, fight or struggle with segregation," he said. "I seek only to find a common ground for settlement of our mutual problems. My relationship with whites goes no further."

Meredith described the appellate court decision as a good birthday present. He turned 29 Monday.

★ ★ ★

Meredith said his ambition is best described by Ole Miss registrar Robert B. Ellis, who once said: "This man has a mission in life to correct all the ills of the world."

★ ★ ★

Attorneys for the state of Mississippi used Ellis' description as one reason why Meredith should not be admitted to the 126-year-old university.

Wisdom commented on Ellis description and noted that the defense made strong issue of an Air Force psychiatrists report that Meredith suffered occasional nervous stomach and was extremely concerned with racial problems.

The judge wrote: "it is certainly understandable that a sensitive Negro, especially one overseas, might have a nervous stomach over the racial problem.

★ ★ ★

Meredith is only six credit hours away from graduation at Jackson State (Negro) College. Ole Miss officials say he will lose half his credits by transferring to the university, must take a full year's course to graduate, and will lose his GI educational benefits.

Meredith says he is financially stable and doesn't mind the delays. Married and the father of a 3-year-old son, he owns three farms near his native home of Kosciusko in central Mississippi.

Ole Miss authorities and state officials had no comment on the appeals court decision. They almost certainly will appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court, which recessed Monday until Oct. 1.

Rights Unit Named to Study Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has appointed an advisory committee to study racial discrimination in the armed forces.

The committee, appointed Saturday, is to find means of improving equality of opportunity in the services and also in the housing, school and recreational facilities in communities adjoining military bases.

HEADS UNIT

★ ★ ★

Other members of the committee are Dean Joseph O'Meara of the Notre Dame law school; Nathaniel Colley, a Sacramento, Calif., attorney; Abe Fortas, Washington lawyer; Benjamin Muse, Mannassas, Va., director, Southern Leadership Project; John Sengstacke, editor-publisher, Chicago Defender; and Whitney Young, New York, executive secretary, National Urban League.

Swainson Urges Aid in Campaign Against Litter

LANSING (AP) — Gov. Swainson yesterday asked representatives of Michigan's communications businesses to help the campaign to keep the state's roads, beaches and parks free from litter.

He made the request at a meeting called by Joseph A. Childs, Michigan State Police Commissioner, who heads the "Keep Michigan Beautiful Committee."

Swainson said "Michigan's natural scenic attractions are often marred by careless littering on the part of ordinary citizens," as he asked the group to help an education campaign geared to Michigan's summer and fall vacationers.

★ ★ ★

"The communications industries have always cooperated in worthwhile civic endeavors, the governor said. "I am sure their cooperation in this drive will pay great dividends in making Michigan first in the nation in the cleanliness of our public places."

GM Gets U. S. Contracts for Over $5 Million

DETROIT (AP) — Two Air Force contracts totaling $5,474,271 and two Army contracts totaling $3,616,104 have been awarded to General Motors Corp.

GM's AC Sparkplug Division in Flint will handle some $4 million of the Air Force contracts, an AC Sparkplug plant in Milwaukee the rest. The Army contracts will be handled at the Allison Division in Indianapolis. They call for development of howitzer artillery weapons.

British Put American on Best-Dressed List

LONDON (AP)—American millionaire J. Paul Getty was selected yesterday as one of this nation's 10 best-dressed men.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan failed to make the list, but got honorable mention.

Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, neither made the first 10 nor received mention of any kind. A fashion writer once criticized Prince Philip for wearing his breast pocket handkerchiefs American style — that is, squared and straight across the pocket. The style expert said it was a bad habit that Philip must have picked up in the United States.

The selections are made annually by the Clothing Manufacturers Association.

LIVES IN BRITAIN

Of Getty, the clothing men said: "He has been nominated not because of the size of his wardrobe, or the price he pays for his suits, but simply because he maintains the spirit of these awards — to dress well on each and every occasion."

The clothing men said this showed: "That when in a crisis, a man—just as much as a woman—can obtain a moment of relief by buying an article of clothing."

Rock 'n' roll singer Cliff Richards.

Paint manufactuer Michael Mander.

Racing driver Innes Ireland.

Informed of the award, Getty said: "It came as a complete surprise. I'm pleased of course, but I thought I might be one of the last men to get this one."

Colorado has 40 mountain peaks more than 14,000 feet in altitude.

Are You Registered to Vote in Primaries?

This week has been proclaimed as Voter Registration Week, with registration continuing until July 9. If you are not on the rolls, you cannot vote. Once registered, a citizen must vote once in every four years to protect his eligibility. Otherwise, he must reapply.

Places of registration through the county for the Aug. 7 primaries are city and township halls. If there is any doubt regarding your registration status, call the respective city or township clerk.

The county's present number eligible to vote is 328,615. The high point was for the 1960 presidential election when 356,875 were registered. Of that number, 301,405 voted—a sobering 16 per cent indication of apathy among those qualified.

We believe that now and in the years ahead, government—good government—should be the primary interest of every American. We are touched by it on all levels—Federal, State, Local. And the only way citizens can have a part in it, make their voice heard, influence it, is by action at the polls.

Every election, therefore, is important—whether it be for national headline-making issues or confined to wholly local matters. The important thing is that citizens develop the voting HABIT—that they come to regard it as a sacred privilege—and obligation.

Let your vote conscience make you vote conscious!

Shipping Rate for Pigs Creates Quite a Tale

It dealt with an initial difference of opinion between the station agent of an interurban express company and the consignee of two guinea pigs over the shipping rate to be applied — a lower one if considered "pets"; higher (five cents each) if just "pigs."

★ ★ ★

By the time File No. A6754 became swollen with communications and attendant matter from

- Consignee to Company and referral back to Claim Department;
- Consignee to Claim Department and referral back to Tariff Department;
- Tariff Department to Station Agent;
- Station Agent to Tariff Department;
- Tariff Department to Station Agent, citing Rule 83, General Instructions to Agents;
- Tariff Department to President of company as to whether guinea pigs were pigs or not pigs;
- President to a Prof. Gordon, an authority on such matters, who proved to be in South America;
- Prof. Gordon—eventually—to President, pointing out that the guinea pig was the Cavia aparoea while the common pig was the genus Sus of the family Suidae;
- Audit Department to Station Agent and reply therefrom, followed by continuous exchanges, the guinea pigs totaled 5,043 and occupied almost the entire station premises; two boys had been hired full time to help care for them; a cabbage bill of $64 had been run up—and the consignee had moved, leaving no trace.

The point of all this? We think it is ridiculously analogous to some standard procedures of the mushrooming bureaucracy in Washington.

IN opposing the proposed "medicare" for the aged legislation, the AMA is fighting a losing battle, as every American is either a Senior Citizen or he expects to become one.

READING about the recent "trunk" murder in Chicago brought back memories of the "Roaring Twenties" and gave us an enjoyable painful spell of nostalgia.

IN THE Southeast it has been extremely hot and dry so long that even the grass is wilting slightly.

Retiree's a Goad!

Crisis Is Averted by Exit of Friend

By HOWARD V. HELDENBRAND

A close friend (name and address only under subpoena) is prepared to say "balderdash" to the stories about retirees being lost when they leave the job.

His neighbor (recently retired) is unintentionally working him into the ground. Got his sailboat in the water first, after almost rebuilding it. Keeps his lawn trimmed so that our friend feels guilty about the difference at the lot line. The neighbor stubbornly keeps his place so carefully tended that my C. F. is developing an inferiority complex.

Just at the breaking point, however, our diligent trouble spot over the fence showed his true, friendly colors. He took off for a week, and gave our beleaguered panting friend a loafing and catching up spell.

In Washington:

Administration's Farm Bill Defeat

By PETER EDSON

Picking himself off the floor after the surprise knockdown 215-205 vote which defeated the Kennedy administration farm bill in the House of Representatives, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has already begun to fight another round in his battle to get new legislation through Congress this year.

EDSON

The official line at Department of Agriculture is "no comment" until the full strategy can be worked out.

But it can be stated authoritatively that the administration is not taking the House vote as a complete and final defeat. A six-vote switch would have changed the result in the administration's favor.

As soon as the vote was tallied department officials in charge of the legislation went to work on changes that might be made to get an acceptable bill. They worked most of the night and were at it again early next morning.

The House vote did not kill the bill for the session. It merely sent the bill back to the House Agriculture Committee for reconsideration. The legislation has already been sent back to committee three times. So what comes up next will be a fourth round in a long hard fight.

That puts the business up to House Agriculture Committee Chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N. C., and his 22 Democrats, 14 Republican colleagues. The chairman, sometimes unpredictable, is reported to be willing to make another try. But he has been known to change his mind.

The administration already has a farm bill passed by the Senate. This is an important factor in the decision not to give up after the House licking. The Senate bill is a lot tougher than the final bill on which the House voted.

There is little chance that the Senate bill will be taken up by the House without change. But if any kind of legislation can be put through the House, it will then go to conference with the Senate. And there are good chances that a bill acceptable to the administration can be agreed on.

In trying to analyze what caused the House to reverse itself on the final farm bill vote, after defeating a number of crippling amendments in four days of tough debate, a number of factors are cited. It was no one issue.

Some of the amendments adopted on the floor, like those on release and reapportionment of acreage allotments, lost the administration a few votes.

The 48 anti-administration Democrats — 37 from the South — held the balance of power, obviously. Other defecting Democrats included some city Democrats who don't like to be considered administration rubber stamps.

The circus atmosphere of the House "debate" on the bill also sickened a number of congressmen. They swallowed the amendments but couldn't stomach the whole bill.

The Estes case is not believed to have turned any Democratic votes against the farm bill, but it may have caused some farm belt Republicans who might otherwise have voted for the bill in principle to vote against it.

Opposition to the Kennedy-Freeman program by American Farm Bureau Federation and the cattlemen's organizations influenced many congressmen to vote against it.

★ ★ ★

While Republicans claim the House vote is a repudiation of Kennedy control and regimentation farm proposals, Democrats charge the Republicans with irresponsible action by voting in effect to continue the present farm chaos at a cost to taxpayers of $1 billion a year.

He stated that it was not the responsibility of Republicans to propose solutions to farm problems, but to criticize the Democratic administration at every point.

Dr. Harold Hyman Says:

Preserve Value of Food With Waterless Cooking

We have previously summarized the recommendations of the AMA Council on Food and Nutrition for preserving nutritive values when storing foods. Here are further suggestions for cooking:

Waterless cooking is one of the best ways to develop maximum flavor and to reduce vitamin and mineral losses in food preparation.

As an example, remove a bunch of fresh, tender carrots from refrigerator about a half hour before expected meal. Scrub with stiff vegetable brush. While still dripping wet, place in preheated, thick-bottomed container.

★ ★ ★

Salt lightly. Add one tablespoonful of water (no more). Moisten the inside of a snug-fitting lid. Cover the container. Place over medium heat. Turn burner to low as soon as steam starts to escape. Do not lift lid for 20 minutes.

Just before serving, add butter. Serve while still hot. (Vitamins of the B complex and iron are lost when foods are soaked, overcooked and drained).

★ ★ ★

Do not wash rice. Add only enough water to permit grains to swell. Do not rinse after cooking. These precautions essential to preservation of thiamine and perhaps other constituents of vitamin B complex.

★ ★ ★

Do not sear, rapidly brown or overcook roasts and thus preserve maximum concentrations of vitamin B complex.

Do not cut foods in small pieces. The larger the surface area exposed, the greater the loss of vitamins and minerals.

Serve "pot liquor" with vegetable (contains much of vitamin content especially if large quantity of water is added).

★ ★ ★

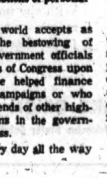
The Country Parson

"Progress is assured by the fact that no matter how much the world improves, future generations also will complain that the world is going to the dogs."

David Lawrence Says:

'Guilt by Association' Is Bad Habit

WASHINGTON—There's a good deal of mudslinging going on here. Scarcely a day goes by that someone's character or integrity isn't being impugned in speeches or in hearings in Congress.



LAWRENCE

Whether its an implication about the Billie Sol Estes case or about profit "windfalls" in the stockpiling controversy, there seems to be no restraint or forbearance.

Most disappointing of all is the strange silence of the so-called "liberals." Time was, during the days of the late Sen. Joe McCarthy, when the air was full of outcries from them about the unfairness of the attacks and especially as to insinuations or innuendoes about disloyalty.

The phrase "guilt by association" was heard repeatedly, and even the Supreme Court of the United States got into the act and denounced the spreading of inferences and assumptions and suspicions as not being the way to deal with questions of personal integrity.

The political world accepts as commonplace the bestowing of "favors" by government officials and by members of Congress upon those who have helped finance their political campaigns or who happen to be friends of other highly placed persons in the government or Congress.

It is done every day all the way from the White House to Congress and back again. It has been done by previous administrations, too.

This doesn't justify it, but it does make ironical some of the professions of virtue which come out of the administration's lectures on the high ideals of modern government, especially on campaign contributions.

ON BILLIE SOL

To date, Billie Sol Estes himself has only been indicted on charges involving fraud and conspiracy. The trial has only just started. He has not yet been declared guilty or innocent.

Those who have had any contacts with him, however, now are held in suspicion.

Even a list of telephone numbers of government officials that he or his associates called over the years is publicized with the inference that maybe something wrong occurred during conversations which, one would suppose, are protected by the right of privacy.

Recently a speech was made in Congress attacking former President Eisenhower with innuendoes about "conflict of interest" and "stockpile subsidies to his business cronies."

It was deplored that a man who, while serving his country as a soldier, had had his medical bills paid by the government, should oppose proposals for government aid to elderly persons for medical care, whether or not they can afford to pay for it themselves.

Nobody rose to point out that Dwight Eisenhower, in the years he gave to military service, could have earned in private enterprise many times his pay as a soldier or even as President.

He is still a veteran, and few will dispute the right of men in the armed forces to receive medical care.

★ ★ ★

In Great Britain and Canada, under the parliamentary system, they conduct legislative inquiries, but they do so judiciously.

They make their reports public after they have gathered all the evidence and formed a judgment thereon.

(Copyright, 1962)

'So What's the Big Debate About Fluoride in Water?'

It'll be wonderful if we get fluoride in our water. Ninety-five per cent of the population is affected by tooth decay. Here we have a simple and inexpensive means of decreasing this rate and yet we debate whether we want it. An individual living with fluoridated water from birth will have a 60 per cent prevention of decay and possibly better.

★ ★ ★

We would pay for it twice over in place of the expense of dental repair. It would cost the taxpayer a mere 6 cents per person per year.

The "poison" retort is ridiculous. You would have to drink 50 bathtubs full of fluoridated water (1 part per million) in one day to get ill.

★ ★ ★

It is only out of pure ignorance that our community does not have fluoridated water now. We should support the Detroit program. All of the U. S. Health Departments support it.

Mrs. Barbara Berg Diehm

'Why Are Cab Stands Being Removed?'

Why is the city taking off the cab stands when we need more? Before election day we get letters from commissioners saying "we're for the people," then when they get elected, they run things as they please and don't do anything for the people. We need cab stands when we go downtown. Be fair.

Blame JFK for Slump

WASHINGTON (AP)— Although there is some dissent within the party about the use of gloom-and-doom tactics, Republicans are pounding the theme that President Kennedy's policies caused the stock market drop.

★ ★ ★

The Senate Republican Policy Committee has added its critical voice to that of the Republican national committee, which has been suggesting that Wall Street has witnessed a "Kennedy crash."

BLAME JFK

In its weekly memo to members, the policy group said that returns from Kennedy's Yale speech June 11 "in which he made ambiguous statements to say the least, about the 'myths' of federal fiscal responsibility began to come home to roost" in market declines.

★ ★ ★

"And so it apparently began to look as if one couldn't strew a time-tested, sound economic altar with fiscal policy garbage, such as an expression at Yale that deficits are just 'sometimes' dangerous," the memo said.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., decried gloom-and-doom statements. But he suggested in the Senate Monday that Kennedy ought to send to Congress now "a tax program for the restoration of business confidence and the acceleration of economic activity."

Injured Youth Passed Despite Missing School

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Everett Knowles missed a lot of classes after his arm was torn off by a train May 23, but the school feels he stayed up with his studies in the hospital.

The 13-year-old youngster, the subject of medical history when his arm was sewn back in an apparently successful operation at Massachusetts General Hospital, got the word Monday—he has been promoted.

Finishing Work on Bomarc Base

Underground Missile Site to Be Key in Air Defense in Canada

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP) — Underground construction crews near the North Bay Bomarc missile base are putting the finishing touches on a $375-million electronic system designed to become one of the keys of North American air defense.

★ ★ ★

SHARING COSTS

It is expected to become operational in 1963 following installation of equipment.

The North Bay complex will also control the Bomarc base being built at La Macaza, Que. Canada and the United States are sharing the cost.

★ ★ ★

"In building this combat center we are pioneering in the field of protective construction," said Air Commodore R. B. Whiting, chief of construction engineering for the Canadian air force.

More than 750 tons of explosive carved out cathedral-sized caverns and subterranean passageways. The finished SAGE project will have a three-story underground building.

OWN POWER PLANT

It also will have diesel generators capable of providing enough electricity to light a town of 3,000 people and to pump in tens of thousands of cubic feet of fresh air every hour. Another chamber is a reservoir, holding five million gallons of water, for cooling the installation.

★ ★ ★

Using radar, radio and digital computers as their ears and eyes, air force personnel will be able to control not only the Bomarc missiles but also manned interceptors which would be called into action against enemy attack.

TO CUT TIME

At present in Canada, the control radar is manually operated, requiring eight or nine minutes for a human to plot a course for an interceptor.

★ ★ ★

SAGE, basically a high-powered computer, will handle the process in a fraction of the time. Canada's newest jet interceptor, the Voodoo, is equipped with a "data-link," which enables SAGE to transmit orders to a pilot without the need for a human intermediary.

Thug Uses Gun to Get $1,000 in Grocery Store

Syria Hits Israel for Border 'Attack'

The charge was made in an official complaint lodged with the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem.

A Syrian spokesman said Israeli troops stationed in Tal Elkadi area on the frontier shelled the Syrian village of Nkhevla with heavy mortar and automatic fire. The Syrians, he said, returned the fire.

Israel has blamed Syria for the incident.

Hopes Dim for Bills to Aid Migrants

(Editor's Note — America's poorest people are 500,000 migrant farm workers and their families who follow the seasons from state to state to harvest the nation's crops. The following dispatch reports on the prospects for congressional action on legislation to relieve their plight.)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Last year, the Senate unanimously approved four bills to combat the poverty, disease and illiteracy which stalk the lives of migrant farm workers and their children.

Church groups, which had vigorously supported the legislation, sat back and breathed easier. They believed the public sentiment about the migrants' plight had been sufficiently aroused to insure that the House would complete congressional action on the bills this year.

It now appears that this assumption may have been unduly optimistic.

"The situation doesn't look good at all," said Father James L. Vizzard, S. J., director of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference. "Despite the hopeful outlook at the beginning of this session, the migrant bill have been pushed aside in the House."

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N. J., who sponsored the legislation in the Senate, said he was still hoping the House will act.

* * *

"It would be a tragedy if Congress adjourned without completing the enactment of these measures," he said. Since this is the last session of the present Congress, adjournment without House action would automatically kill the bills. It would be necessary in the new Congress which meets next January to start all over again from scratch.

$3 MILLION

One of the Senate-approved bills would authorize $3 million in federal grants to states to provide better health care for migrants through special clinics, inoculation programs, etc.

Surveys have shown that about three-fourths of the migrant children have not even received basic shots against diphtheria, typhoid and smallpox. The tuberculosis rate among adult migrants is the highest in the nation.

Another bill would authorize a federal outlay of about $750,000 a year to help states provide special schools for migrant children and adults. Because they are forever moving from one school district to another, migrant children receive spotty education at best.

A large percentage grow up illiterate like their parents, and thus are doomed to continue the same kind of life.

A third bill would provide for federal registration of the "crew leaders" who recruit migrant workers, transport them from place to place, and contract with farmers for their labor.

* * *

The fourth bill would make it a federal crime to put migrant children to work in the fields before they are 12 years old.

Today it is commonplace to see children as young as 6 or 7 at work, trying to add a few pennies to their parents' earnings. The average income for a migrant family, even when everybody works, is less than $900 a year.

BURIED IN COMMITTEE

The child labor and crew leader registration bills have been cleared by the House Education and Labor Committee, but are presently buried in the House Rules Committee, which decides whether a bill actually goes to the floor.

The rules committee has not been sympathetic to migrant legislation in the past. Last year, it refused 9 to 4 to let the House vote on an earlier version of the crew leader bill.

A House education subcommittee headed by Rep. Herbert Zelenko, D-N. Y., is holding hearings this week on the migrant education bill. Zelenko said he is confident the bill will clear his committee, but he declined to speculate what its fate may be in the rules committee.

"We're pushing these bills as hard as we can over here," he said. "But there is strong opposition from farm interests. I don't believe that this opposition comes from the operators of small family farms. I think it is sparked mainly by the big corporate farms, which employ most of the migrant labor, and which have a lot of influence in farm organizations."

Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, who serves as chairman of a special cabinet committee on migrant labor, recently made a personal appeal to Speaker John W. McCormack to put his weight behind the migrant legislation in the House.

"I am certain this legislation enjoys the overwhelming support of the American people," Goldberg said. "It could do much to improve the welfare of people who now live and work under nearly intolerable conditions."

Recognizing that the migrant bills are in serious trouble, religious agencies which have long served as the migrants' only "lobby" in Washington are now swinging into action to alert the public to the situation.

* * *

"Protestant, Catholic and Jewish agencies are all working together on this thing," said Father Vizzard. "We are doing all we can to arouse the nation's conscience, and to let the members of Congress know that Americans do not want to see another year go by without some action to help these miserably deprived and long neglected people."

Detroit Mother, Son Die in N.Y. Mishap

YOUNGSTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — An automobile carrying a Detroit couple and their four children went out of control near this Niagara County community last night and slammed into several guard rails, killing the mother and a five-year-old son.

* * *

Dead were Helen Boss, 36, of Detroit, and her son, Murray.

Mrs. Boss' husband, Dave, 33, who was driving the car, was in critical condition at Ransomville General Hospital, and the three other children—aged 10, 6 and 3—were in satisfactory condition at the same hospital.

Backless Tops New Rage For Wimbledon Women

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The ladies took the court today in the 76th Wimbledon Tennis Championships, which may be remembered as the tournament of the backless top.

Not since Gussie Moran's lace panties startled the Wimbledon throngs in 1949 has there been so much advance excitement about the female form.

Gussie's flippant finery was designed by Teddy Tinling. The same man is behind the latest revolution in fashion, which will drop backs revealingly, exposing a good deal more of the female figure than can easily be remembered in these parts.

LATEST CREATIONS

Maria Bueno of Brazil, twice the women's titleholder, has a dress plunging at the rear to within an inch of her tiny waist.

"It's all completely different from last year and thoroughly in line with contemporary fashion," said Tinling.

★ ★ ★

"I have no wish to give my girls goose pimples but I've had no complaints yet from those who are trying it."

Tinling has dressed the last 10 winners of the women's singles title. As designer for seven of this year's eight seeded players — America's Karen Hantze Susman is the only holdout — he has a better than even chance of doing it again.

The second day of the Wimbledon Championships is traditionally ladies' day, when fashion plays almost as important a part as tennis.

HEMLINES UP

Hemlines, Tinling reported, will be about six inches above the knee—which is some five inches higher than in Miss Moran's day.

"We have aimed," said Tinling, who was a British intelligence officer in World War II, "for an unbroken princess line, casually flitted and bursting into a swirling hem. We have got something much more fluid than in the past and much more akin to what I call the twist line.

★ ★ ★

"You see, we have aimed at the contemporary."

The ladies opened their Wimbledon campaign with Margaret Smith of Australia a firm favorite to clinch the singles title on her second attempt. The holder of the Australia, Italian and French Championships has been beaten only once this year — by Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif.

★ ★ ★

MEN'S DIVISION

The championships opened before a crowd of 20,251 Monday with Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo. last year's losing finalist, leading seven Americans into the second round of the men's singles.

McKinley outpowered a 20-year-old Australian, Owen French, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1, but on balance it was a bad day for Uncle Sam. Eight Americans, including the veteran Gardnar Mulloy, were knocked out in the opening skirmishes and a ninth—Ed Rubinoff of Miami—had his match suspended because of darkness.

Rod Laver, Australian titleholder, and favorite here got off to an impressive start with a comfortable 7-5, 6-1, 6-2 victory over the Indian Davis Cupper Nareth Kumar.

SQUEEZE WORKS — Hector Lopez of the New York Yankees scores from third on a squeeze bunt by Bill Skowron in the sixth inning of yesterday's game with the Tigers. Detroit catcher Mike Roarke waits for the throw which never came. Bengal first baseman Norm Cash fielded the bunt and threw to first, but Skowron beat the ball to the bag. It was the second run scored on a bunt by the Yanks in their 2-0 win.

Lula Wins State Event With 142

Bone Second In PGA

SAUGATUCK — Gene Bone of Pontiac gave par a beating here yesterday, but the best he could do was finish in a three-way tie for second in the Michigan PGA tournament.

The Warwick Hills pro fired a three under 69 over the 6,650-yard par 36-36—72 Hamilton Country Club for a 144 total.

This was two strokes more than Hillcrest's Ben Lula needed to win the 36-hole tournament.

Bone actually lost the tournament during Sunday's opening round when he triple bogied one hole on the way to a 75. In yesterday's final 18 holes, he posted five birdies and two bogies.

One of Lula's first tasks after finishing yesterday, and waiting to see his three closest competitors and their round two strokes off his pace, was convincing his wife, Marjorie, that he had won. First prize in the Michigan PGA is $750.

BEGAN CRYING

"She started to cry when I called her to tell her I won," said Lula. "She said, 'Don't joke with me.' But I told her she should be laughing and it convinced her I won."

Lula had a so-so first round 74, He ran with six others, including defending champion John Barnum of Grand Rapids and host pro Bill Hamilton, four strokes behind first day leader Larry Tomasino of Ann Arbor's Barton Hills. Barnum finished with a 36-hole total of 146,

But while Tomasino's game went sour in the final 18 holes yesterday when he soared to a 77, Lula became a Roman candle. He bagged four birdies and five pars on the front nine and erased two back nine bogies with birds to finish four-under-par. It gave him his 36-hole total two-under-par 142.

WHITEY AT WARK — The Tigers posted plenty of zeroes on the scoreboard yesterday while Whitey Ford was pitching for the Yanks. Ford left the game with one out in the ninth when his arm began bothering him, but Marshall Bridges got the final two outs without a Tiger crossing the plate.

Bow to Ford and Bunts 2-0 Behind Mossi

Scheffing Criticizes Busy Schedule; Host Indians Today Night

It's a double negative that has manager Bob Scheffing moaning the blues.

★ ★ ★

"This year's schedule is the worst I've ever seen, said Scheffing after the Tiger bats were silent again yesterday in a 2-0 loss in the finale of the five-game series with the Yankees.

Mossi was a loser for the fourth straight time, in three of those defeats he gave up a total of six runs while his teammates failed to respond with a single run. Mossi now has been given two runs of support in his last 34 innings.

The Tigers haven't had an off day since June 18. And making matters worse after losing three of the five Yankee games is the invasion of the first-place Cleveland Indians in a twi-night doubleheader tonight.

★ ★ ★

"It's awful," said Scheffing. "Here they give us an off day Thursday.

"By any sensible reasoning Monday should have been an off day after a series with the Yankees."

JONES TO START

A day-night doubleheader Saturday, that 22-inning game in which seven pitchers tolled Sunday and tonight's twinbill has Scheffing's mound staff just about worn out. Jim Bunning, the only Tiger who didn't face the Yankees, will pitch one game tonight. Sam Jones will be pulled in from the bullpen to start the other game.

At least Mossi was beaten in a new way Thursday. The Yankees, with homer King Roger Maris on the bench, resorted to bunts for their runs.

The Yankees got four bunt hits off Mossi and two drove in the Yankees' runs. Phil Linz pushed one past Mossi in the fifth and broke open a scoreless duel with Whitey Ford by scoring Jack Reed from third.

Bill Skowron's squeeze bunt down the first base line in the sixth brought in the other run.

The Tigers could muster only two hits off Ford, before he left with a sore arm in the ninth. They got another one off reliever Marshall Bridges — but failed to score. The Tigers haven't scored a run for 25 innings.

The best chance came yesterday when Jake Wood led off the first with a double and advanced to third on a ground out. But he died there and was the only Tiger runner to get that far.

The defeat dropped the Tigers into seventh place, 6½ games behind Cleveland and four behind the Yankees.

★ ★

The Indains will use Pedro Ramos and either Bob Hartman or Ruben Gomez against them tonight.

Johnson Out to Match Kocsis

JACKSON — Glenn Johnson, one of the great competitive golfers in Michigan amateur history, hopes to equal the record of a very distinguished colleague this weekend.

Johnson will be gunning for his 6th Michigan Amateur golf title, a feat already accomplished by incomparable Chuck Kocsis of Red Run.

The Grosse Ile veteran has annexed the State Amateur crown five times in an eight-year stretch, three of them in a row (1954-1956).

The 52nd edition of the Michigan Amateur tournament gets under way here Wednesday and runs through Sunday with the state's finest players taking dead aim on Johnson's throne.

TWO-DAY TRIALS

Thirty-six hole qualifying rounds are scheduled tomorrow and Thursday at the Country Club of Jackson and neighboring Arbor Hills Golf Club.

A mammoth field of 335 golfers meeting the requirements of an eight-stroke handicap or less will battle for 63 positions for match play starting Friday.

Johnson, exempt from qualifying as defending champion, will join the 63 qualifiers in head-to-head combat. Double rounds of match play are slated daily with the championship being settled Sunday afternoon.

Each qualifying section will play 18 holes at each course. All of the match play portion of the event will be conducted at C.C. of Jackson.

There are 168 players scheduled to tee off tomorrow at Country Club and another 167 at Arbor Hills. Thursday the two sections will switch courses.

7 PONTIAC ENTRIES

Seven Pontiac golfers are entered in the tourney, including Mike Andonian who lost a heartbreaking 1-up decision to Johnson last year in the championship match at this same C.C. of Jackson layout.

Andonian, three-time State Publinx champ, and Frank Pinkham will play their first 18 holes of qualifying at Country Club.

Johnson, a fierce competitor in match play golf who never knows when he's licked, made Andonian the victim of an incredible comeback a year ago. Four down at the turn, Johnson rallied to win the title to climax the greatest comback in state amateur history.

★ ★ ★

EYES ELITE SPOT

Kocsis has not competed in the Michigan Amateur since his last title conquest in 1951.

★ ★ ★

Fisher 2-Hits Japs

Michigan Nine Wins College World Series

HONOLULU (AP) — Fritz Fisher, a lanky left hander, hurled a two-hitter as the University of Michigan won the first annual International Intercollegiate World Series last night, downing Hosei University of Japan 2-1 to take the championship three games to two.

The 20-year-old junior from Adrian who fanned 14 and threw a five-hitter in Friday night's series opener, was working on a no-hitter for nearly eight innings before Kimitaka Hojyo reached first on an infield grounder.

Fisher, selected as the tournament's most valuable player, settled down after being bothered by control trouble in the first inning. He walked four men straight in the opening frame, forcing in Hosei's only run.

Harvey Chapman led off with a single and moved up on a single by Fisher and a ground out. Then Chapman stole home as Kihara went into a full windup. Fisher stole third on the same play and scored on a single by shortstop Dick Honig.

BRIEF THREAT

Hosei, a weak hitting but sharp fielding club, threatened briefly in the seventh when right hander Yutaka Kamata was safe on an error by Chapman at third. Kamata advanced on a sacrifice bunt only to be thrown out attempting to steal third.

Fisher struck out eight and walked five in going the distance, while Kihara fanned six in five innings. Ironman Takayuri Ryu, working for the third day in succession, and captain Katsuhiro Tomotoshi finished up.

The only solid hit off fastballer Fisher was Kamata's sharp single to right with two out in the ninth. Only two other balls were hit to the outfield.

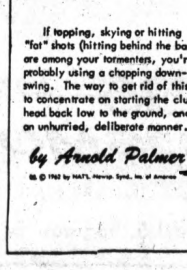
THE PALMER METHOD

TWO SWING CHECKPOINTS

If your game has fallen off, here are two important checks you can make.

The clubface should point away from the ground at a 45-degree angle at the top of the backswing on all full shots with the longer clubs. Closed (face pointing skyward) and open (parallel to ground) positions will cause innumerable errors.



If topping, skying or hitting "fat" shots (hitting behind the ball) are among your tormenters, you're probably using a chopping downswing. The way to get rid of this is to concentrate on starting the clubhead back low to the ground, and in an unhurried, deliberate manner.

Famed Horse Stymie Dies of Heart Attack

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The movie-script life of Stymie, the sixth-ranked money winning thoroughbred of all time, has played out after 21 years.

The fleet son of Equestrian—Stop Watch suffered a fatal heart attack Sunday night at the farm of Dr. Charles Hagyard, where he had been in stud for the past two years.

His record: Winner of 35 races, second in 33 and third in 26. He retired in 1950 as the world's leading money winner with $918,485 after starting 131 times.

Berra Gets Day Off After Catching Marathon

But a weary Bill McKinley, plate umpire in Sunday's 7-hour marathon, had no such break. He had to work at third base in Monday's rematch between the New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers.

"Yogi earned a day off and besides, I only use him on our long days," grinned Manager Ralph Houk, whose Yankees outlasted the Tigers 9-7 and won the longest game in time in baseball history.

"I'm a little tired, that's all," said Berra, who had caught only two previous games this season. "I don't have any cramps in my legs. Matter of fact, I feel pretty good but my hand hurts a little."

Houk also gave Roger Maris, who has been slumping, and Tom Tresh a rest, although Maris came in as a defensive measure in the ninth inning. They went all the way in Saturday's day-night doubleheader and followed it by playing the entire 22 innings Sunday.

"They played the equivalent of five games in two days, so they could use a little rest," Houk said.

★ ★ ★

Jack Reed, whose two-run homer in the 22nd won it for the Yankees, started in Maris' place in center field. Phil Linz, only a pinch hitter Sunday, replaced Tresh at shortstop.

"I only had one cup of water through the whole thing," said McKinley.

STAYED ON FIELD

"None of us umpires left the field in the entire 7 hours. Yogi at least had a chance to go back to the dugout and sit down every half inning. I wonder if he had a good night's sleep. I didn't I woke up about 6 this morning. I couldn't sleep, my legs ached too much.

"The only thing I could compare it to was an Army march—go on, go on, go on. All we ever thought about was 'When will somebody score a run?'"

Heavy Downpour Spoils Baseball, Softball Slates

A heavy downpour yesterday afternoon halted baseball play and forced postponement of softball action scheduled at night.

The only baseball decision reported was a 4-2 Class E triumph in 5½ innings for Pontiac Boys Club over Weinberger Homes. Winner Wally Logan had a big single in a four-run 1st. Moose led St. Mikes 1-0, Felice Market had 300 Bowl 2-1, Pontiac Optimist had 2, Perry Drug 0 and Westside Kiwanis and Pontiac Central were 2-2 in early innings.

A Class A affair matching R. T. Clippers and CIO was put off until Friday at 8 p.m. following a 5:30 PCH-Kiwanis makeup.

Walled Lake Pitcher Fires Perfect Game

John Lundquist, 15, of the White Sox, pitched a perfect game Sunday in the Walled Lake Babe Ruth League. He also had four singles in a 13-0 rout of Union Lake.

Making his 1st start of the season, Lundquist struck out 12 and allowed only one ball to be hit to the outfield in seven innings.

Maxwell Saddened by Trade

DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Maxwell's No. 4 Jersey hung limply in a vacated locker in the Tiger clubhouse and the darling of the Detroit fans suddenly was a member of the Chicago White Sox.

★ ★ ★

A saddened Maxwell—realizing it was bound to happen sooner or later—was informed just before yesterday's game he'd been traded.

He was a Tiger eight seasons —and few players ever enjoyed more popularity with their hometown fans.

"I had a lot of ties here," said Maxwell, emerging from vice president Rick Ferrell's office where he'd come to say farewell. "It's tough to take off after being here eight years.

"But I knew it was coming. I felt it in spring training. But I felt a little better after the trading deadline passed on June 15. Only then did I bring my family here from Paw Paw for the summer.

"Sure, I'm going to report to Chicago. We'll be here against the Tigers next week, won't we?"

Maxwell was in his Tiger uniform yesterday for the last time, taking fielding practice when coach George Myatt yelled that "manager Bob Scheffing wanted to see him inside.

He learned the Tigers had secured waivers on him and traded him to Chicago for rookie Bob Farley.

At 35, Maxwell had outlived his usefulness as a Tiger. Maxwell has a .194 batting average and hit only one home run this year.

Farley is only 24 and his salary is less than half the $25,000 Maxwell is earning. The new outfielder-first baseman was used sparingly by the White Sox. Farley's average is only .189 and he, too, has only one homer.

Race Track Official Dies in Walled Lake

Possible Reversal Seen

Stocks Up in Heavy Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rose today in heavy trading, indicating a possible reversal of the downtrend that has dated to May 28.

A buying trend that began late Monday resumed this morning, and carried key stocks up pennies to more than a dollar.

At 11 a.m., the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 10.04 at 546.31 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock average had risen .77 to 53.22.

"We're crossing our fingers," said one stock analyst. "All the other rallies recently have been shut off by profit-taking but it looks like this one might really stick."

SUPPORT 'LEVEL'

Brokers said that depths hit before this upturn showed signs of constituting a "support level," an area of prices that for technical reasons attracts buyers to the market.

One factor is that the averages have hit a level where stock prices are about 15 times as much as the earnings of the companies they represent. This was viewed as a ratio likely to attract buyers.

A second factor is that the low level was roughly that at which the market three times reached a peak while it was advancing in 1956 and 1957.

Among gainers today, International Business Machines rose $5 to $337.50, Standard Oil (New Jersey) was up 75 cents to $49.25, U.S. Steel gained 25 cents to $42.50, Chrysler was up 87 cents to $42 and American Telephone rose $1.25 to $102.50.
