President Trims $2 Billion in Welfare, Defense Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration reportedly now expects a surplus of at least $5.5 billion in a fiscal 1970 budget, showing the biggest cutbacks in welfare and defense.

The projected surplus is the result of what one administration source called "a second trip through the wringer" for the record $195.3 billion budget President Nixon inherited from Lyndon Johnson.

Nixon ordered an agency-by-agency review of the Johnson budget, which had forecast a $3.5 billion surplus, as soon as he took office last January. But when it was completed it showed a net increase in outlays — instead of a decrease — so Nixon sent it back for another look.

Announcement of the $5.5 billion to $6 billion surplus today is expected to be followed up with a bundle of revised agency-by-agency requests next week when Congress reconvenes after its Easter recess.

The bulk of the more than $2 billion in spending cuts came out of the budgets for Defense and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird already has disclosed a $1.1-billion cutback. The Pentagon is seeking $900 million less than was in the Johnson budget for antiballistic missile system.

★ ★ ★

A cutback of $1.1 billion reportedly is in store for HEW. This would be about 2 per cent of the department's over-all budget, but actually would amount to a much larger proportionate share.

About $18 billion of the HEW budget is for uncontrollable expenses such as Social Security, Medicare and public assistance, which are safe from budget cutters.

★ ★ ★

Besides defense and welfare, fairly severe cuts have been rumored for space, agriculture and highways.

An increase in the 1970 surplus would be balanced off, in part, by a shrinkage in the surplus for fiscal 1969 which ends June 30.

HELLO! HELLO!—Despite rising water, telephone repairman W. J. Feinback was on the job at Jackson, Minn., where floodwaters of the Des Moines River knocked out phone communications to the town. Feinbeck checked underground telephone lines that were protected by a small sandbag wall.

Flood Damage Mounting

By the Associated Press

Flooding caused mounting damage—over $3 million in one area—and extreme hardship today for persons in five states.

Meanwhile, communities along the Mississippi River braced for the larger water runoff expected from tributaries currently swamping her hinterlands and forcing over 3,000 persons from their homes.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Geological Survey said some rivers are carrying 2½ times more water than during the worst floods ever recorded in the Midwest.

States hit hardest by the heavy snow melt near the Canadian border are Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and, to a lesser degree, Wisconsin.

Rampaging waters from the Souris River in north-central North Dakota crashed through earthen dikes at Minot and sent 2,000 persons fleeing from their homes. County officials estimated damage for the town of 33,000 at $3.25 million.

The Red River, swirling down from Canada on the North Dakota and Minnesota border, forced evacuation of 25 families at Enderlin, N. D. At Wahpeton N.D., the river was six feet above flood stage with a crest expected later today one foot higher than the previous record high set in 1897.

★ ★ ★

At Fargo, N.D., the Red River was 11 feet above flood stage and at Jamestown, N.D., the rising James River pushed through a dike and forced the evacuation of 75 persons from a housing development for elderly persons.

The Big Sioux River crested and began receding yesterday at Sioux Falls, S. D., Sioux City, Iowa, and North Sioux City, S.D., whose 800 residents kept away from their submerged homes unprotected by dikes.

BIGGEST WORRY

The greatest worry at threatened areas along the Big Sioux remained the possibility that the constant pressure and washing of the river would cave in the dikes.

The worst flooding in Iowa occurred in the north-central part of the state on the west fork of the Des Moines River at Estherville. A dozen families were evacuated there because of rising waters, more than 10 feet above flood stage.

★ ★ ★

At Emmetsburg, just south of Estherville, at least six families were forced from their homes and crews worked to protect businesses and about 25 other homes.

At Fort Dodge, below the point where the east and west forks of the Des Moines converge, the river neared the 10-foot flood mark.

RISE CONTINUES

The west fork of the Des Moines continued to rise in lower Minnesota and the Minnesota River, cutting diagonally across the southwest section of the state, ranged from three feet above flood stage at Montevideo to 10 feet above flood level at Mankato. Some 160 families evacuated their homes across the river from Mankato and received aid from emergency Red Cross units which were set up throughout the flooded states.

The Mississippi was over flood stage in a few places in Minnesota and its crest was expected at St. Paul later next week.

Job Corps Cuts to Trigger Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — House backers of the Job Corps hope to force a vote by the end of May on President Nixon's plan to cut back the key poverty program.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz made official yesterday what had been widely reported for several days: 59 of the 113 centers will be closed by July 1.

Plans to open 30 new daytime-only training centers in and near central city areas didn't pacify ardent Job Corps supporters.

Rep. Carl K. Perkins, (D-Ky.,) chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, said the administration plan "will deny hope and opportunity to thousands of underprivileged boys and girls."

HEARINGS PLANNED

His committee plans to resume hearings on the whole poverty program April 21 and similar hearings are planned in the Senate.

Perkins said his committee will give the House a chance to vote on the issue soon, perhaps before the end of May.

★ ★ ★

President Nixon has transferred the Job Corps to the Labor Department from the Office of Economic Opportunity effective July 1. Perkins also hopes to stop the transfer.

In the midst of the blossoming congressional furor over the cuts, there was a report that President Nixon had tapped a popular young Republican congressman from Illinois, Donald Rumsfeld, to head OEO.

TO DEFEND POSITION

The Washington Post said intensive efforts were being made to get the 36-year-old former Navy pilot to take the post so the administration will have a spokesman to defend its poverty program position.

OEO is now headed by an acting director, Bertrand Harding, an appointee of former President Johnson.

Labor Secretary Schultz said closing of the centers—most of them in rural areas and geared to conservation—would save about $100 million. Trainees in the affected centers would be transferred to existing centers where the emphasis will be on industrial training and job placement.

Shultz denied he bowed to congressional pressures in decisions to close or leave open individual centers.

In a 40-page report, Shultz indicated that one of the reasons for closing most of the centers was that they "have not fully performed their mandate to teach, train, retain and place enrollees . . ."

Ticket Holders Like Local Stadium Site

A Pontiac site for a proposed domed stadium to house the Lions and Tigers receives the overwhelming backing of area residents who are among season ticket holders.

More centrally located and easier to get to are the reasons cited repeatedly in viewing the proposed Pontiac site at I-75 and M59 for the two professional sports teams.

A Pontiac Press survey of opinion turned up the following comments:

R. S. Craft Jr. of Consumers Power and his wife, Marion, supervisor of the Community National Bank bond department, have been season ticket holders for Detroit Lions football games since 1950. They add their names to the list of those who wish the proposed domed Lions-Tiger stadium to be built in Pontiac.

LIKE IT CLOSER

"We would very much approve of a stadium that is closer. We have been riding the bus from Northland to downtown Detroit for Lions games for almost 20 years. I also think a stadium here would be quite a boost to the community," Mrs. Craft said.

The Crafts reside at 94 Riviera, Pontiac.

Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon of 1340 Bielby, Waterford Township, would like to see the stadium located in Pontiac because they feel it is a more central location than downtown Detroit.

The McMahons have two season tickets for Detroit Lions football games next season and attended about 10 Detroit Tigers baseball games last year.

ATTORNEY

R. P. Sauer, Pontiac attorney with offices at 309 Pontiac State Bank Building, has had a season ticket to Lions games for the past seven years. He'd like to see the new stadium built in the Pontiac area.

"It's a much better location for everybody. It's more central, more convenient, in a rapidly growing area, and the land here is more reasonable than it would be farther south," Sauer said.

"With traffic the way it is today, a new stadium located in the Pontiac area would increase attendance for years to come," says D. T. Fowler, president of D. T. Fowler Manufacturing Co., 3030 Crooks, Avon Township.

Fowler has had season tickets to Tigers games for the last eight years. He said the tickets are used mostly by his firm's customers. "They hate to go down to Tiger stadium, because of the neighborhood it's in," the manufacturer said.

AF Ends ROTC at 8 Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, citing a lack of student interest and not pressure from antiwar groups, has decided to close out its Reserve Officer Training Corps program at eight schools.

Without pinpointing any single cause for the failure of the program at the eight colleges and universities, an Air Force spokesman said yesterday the schools have failed to generate the required minimum of 15 officers per year.

He denied there was pressure from antiwar groups or faculty members to withdraw the program.

Rebellious students, antiwar groups and some faculty members have strongly criticized ROTC programs in recent months and abolition of all the programs at Harvard was a major issue in the upheaval there during the past week.

DEMANDED PROGRAM END

The Harvard students demanded outright scrapping of ROTC even after the faculty recommended withdrawing credits for it.

★ ★ ★

Schools where the ROTC will be phased out over the next three years are Boston University; Butler University, Indianapolis; Capital University, Columbus, Ohio; Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa; Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago; Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio; Lawrence University of Wisconsin, Appleton, Wis.; and Tufts University, Medford, Mass.

★ ★ ★

These were among 18 schools warned in 1966 that they would have to raise their annual officer output. The other 10 were able to come up to the 15-officer minimum.

Czechoslovakia to Get More Russian Troops

By the Associated Press

More Soviet troops and technical equipment will be moved into Czechoslovakia this month, Prague radio announced today.

The additional Soviet forces will be carried by railroad to places determined in advance, the broadcast declared.

The number of Soviet soldiers who spent the winter in Czechoslovakia and were here prior to the latest crisis in Czechoslovak-Soviet relations has been estimated at 60,000 to 70,000.

Weekend to Be Fair, Mild

A wonderful weekend is forecast for the Pontiac area — fair and mild — just what we wanted.

Here is the official day-by-day report of the U.S. Weather Bureau:

TODAY — Mostly fair with a slight moderating trend. High 58 to 63. Low tonight 32 to 38.

TOMORROW — Fair with little temperature change.

MONDAY — Fair and mild with moderating temperatures.

No precipitation is predicted for the period.

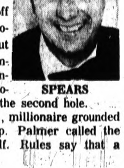
A sunny 31 was the low before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. By 2 p.m. the mercury had soared to 55.

Masters Golf in Third Round

More Problems for Palmer

By FLETCHER SPEARS

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Former champion Arnold Palmer, who just managed to survive the 36-hole cut with a 148, continued to have his problems today during the third round of the Masters golf tournament.



SPEARS

Palmer started play 11 strokes off the pace and proceeded to all but blow himself completely out of contention with a two-stroke penalty on the second hole.

The Latrobe, Pa., millionaire grounded his club in a trap. Palmer called the penalty on himself. Rules say that a club cannot touch ground in a hazard until the actual stroke is taken.

He bogied No. 3, but rallied with birdies on the next two holes.

After an early morning threat of rain, the skies cleared and the weather became warm and breezy.

Australian Bruce Devlin, fourth here last year, shared the lead with Californian Billy Casper with seven-under-par 137, while Bruce Crampton, 142, of Australia; George Knudsen, 143, of Canada; and Player, with 144, are within shooting distance.

★ ★ ★

With the field trimmed, starting times were delayed until after 11 a.m. today, and first to hit onto the lush, 6,980-yard layout were Cary Middlecoff, the 1955 champion, 148, and Dave Hill, the ex-Michigan pro now playing out of Denver, Colo., 148.

Scrambling Casper was paired with the top money winner of the year, Gene Littler 144, and they were slated to leave the tee at 1:44 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Devlin, who birdied the 18th yesterday to tie Casper for the lead, was going at 1:28 p.m., along with 27-year-old Dave Stockton, 142, another Californian who is making his first Masters appearance.

★ ★ ★

Player and rangy George Archer, 140, were on the tee for a 2 p.m. time, while Dan Sikes, 140, and U. S. Amateur champion Bruce Fleisher 144, had a 1:12 time.

Cong Guns Busy Again; Effect Slight

SAIGON (AP) — Vietcong gunners shelled 30 allied bases and towns in a second night of intensified rocket and mortar attacks, military spokesmen reported today. Casualties and damage were termed light.

Vinh Long City, a provincial capital in the Mekong Delta 65 miles southwest of Saigon, was shelled a second time in 17 hours. Spokesmen said 34 mortar rounds exploded near the city police station, killing one civilian and wounding three others. More than 100 mortars fell in the city early yesterday, killing 15 persons and wounding 105.

* * *

Tay Ninh City, another provincial capital hit hard in yesterday's attacks, was untouched but enemy gunners shelled an American base camp three miles west of the city. Spokesmen said one American soldier was killed and six were wounded.

* * *

In Tay Ninh, workers probed through rubble searching for 80 persons listed as missing after the devastating attack.

In Tay Ninh, workers probed through rubble searching for 80 persons listed as missing after the devastating attack.

MUNITIONS DUMP HIT

Twelve persons were known dead and 100 were wounded when enemy rockets slammed into two ammunition dumps, blowing up more than 200 tons of artillery and small arms ammunition. The explosions destroyed about 100 buildings.

* * *

An American adviser said the list of missing persons may be reduced when new counts are taken of survivors in the area. Early counts, he said, were somewhat confused and failed to include some people who were at home and did not attend muster.

* * *

Enemy gunners fired three rocket-propelled grenades into a government center for Vietcong defectors 37 miles northeast of Saigon. South Vietnamese headquarters said three civilians were wounded.

In Saigon, police said terrorists set off a bomb at a transformer station in Cholon, the Chinese section of the capital.

Henry Hits Snag in Surrender of Slaying Suspect

DETROIT (UPI) — A 20-year-old Puerto Rican sought in the killing of a Detroit policeman was still at large today, despite the promise of a black separatist leader that the youth would surrender.

Milton R. Henry, a Pontiac lawyer, reported late yesterday there would be "a delay" in arranging the surrender of Rafael Viera, last known to be living in New York City.

* * *

Viera has been named in a warrant charging him with the slaying of Detroit Patrolman Michael Czapski. He was also named in a federal fugitive warrant and has been the subject of a nationwide manhunt.

* * *

Henry, known as Brother Gaidi in the Republic of New Africa that claims Viera as a "citizen," promised Police Commissioner Johannes F. Spreen he would deliver Viera yesterday.

'CERTAIN DETAILS'

But Spreen said that Henry has since told him that "certain details" of the surrender had not been finalized.

Police contended Viera was still in New York. Henry claimed he was en route to Detroit.

* * *

The RNA, which seeks to set up an independent black nation in five southern states, was meeting at the church and when Czapski and patrolman Richard Worobec stopped to investigate uniformed armed men outside, shooting broke out.

* * *

Responding officers raided the church. Four persons were found wounded inside when the gunfire ceased and 142 were arrested. All but two were later freed.

SECOND ON BOND

Viera was among those released at the suggestion of police. Another man, Alfred Hibbitt, 38, Detroit, was released on an $1,000 bond.

Thursday, he surrendered six hours after Spreen announced he was sought for intent to commit murder in Worobec's wounding. He is being held on $25,000 bond pending an examination next Friday.

Still Time to Enroll for Measles Shots

Parents still have time to enroll kindergarten through third grade students in an antimeasles inoculation program in Waterford Township, Farmington and Walled Lake schools, health officials said today.

* * *

Designed to prevent contraction of three-day measles, otherwise known as rubella, the program is due to begin Monday.

* * *

The vaccine being used is a product of Parke, Davis & Co. The program has the endorsement of the Oakland County Medical Society, the County Osteopathic Association, the County Department of Health and the three boards of education.

ADC Mothers' Problems to Be Aired April 25

Mothers receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) have made two organized protests to the County Social Services Board and will have their problems aired before the human resources committee of the board of supervisors April 25.

The committee voted yesterday to have Ora Hinckley, social services director, and William LeFevre, deputy director, present at that time to discuss the petitions.

* * *

Supervisor James Mathews also pleaded for an opportunity for the mothers, themselves, to appear before the committee at a later date.

* *

Miss Hinckley said six representatives of the Southeast Pontiac National Mothers Group have requested an additional $60 per person for clothing to public assistance recipients each spring and fall. The group was headed by Mrs. Kathyrina Simms of 360 Auburn, Pontiac.

* * *

The mothers reportedly contended that present budget allowances are made from 1961 figures and are not realistic for today's expenses.

STATE ALLOWANCE

The state allows $45 for clothing for a family of five, but the county also makes available clothing from its emergency store at 1 LaFayette, Pontiac.

The Pontiac group also requested that the twice yearly $60 clothing allowance be made in cash rather in goods. A survey undertaken by county auditors to determine whether such a course of action is realistic is still incomplete.

* * *

A second group, calling itself a countywide grievance organization and headed by Mrs. Robert Carpenter, 3831 Orchard, Highland Township, asked for additional clothing, more action on a proposed work incentive program and supplemental funds for furniture and appliances.

* * *

Miss Hickley estimated that granting $60 twice a year to each child on ADC rolls would add $2 million to the county budget.

* * *

Supervisors yesterday worried whether accepting greater responsibility for ADC recipients would be "a foot in the door" to reclaiming ADC responsibility turned over to the state a number of years ago.

The county is currently invloved in the program only to the extent of providing emergency relief such as that afforded by the clothing store last fall.

2 Airlines Lose Promised Routes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two airlines whose good fortune during the Johnson administration stirred charges of political influence have found their promised new Pacific routes swept away by President Nixon's review of the case.

Continental Air Lines and Braniff International Airways, both of which had given jobs to former aides or associates of Lyndon B. Johnson, yesterday lost routes proposed by the Civil Aeronautics Board in the last days of Johnson's power.

Continental had been set to start serving Hawaii, the Trust Territories, Samoa, New Zealand and Australia from Midwest, Southwest, Rocky Mountain and California cities after the CAB overruled recommendation of Examiner Robert L. Park that Eastern Air Lines get the new route to Australia.

In returning the proceeding to the CAB, Nixon said the South Pacific services competing with Pan American should originate in the East and Midwest, and overfly California. This decision would appear to make Eastern once again a leading contender.

NO JUSTIFICATIONS?

The Nixon administration found no economic justification for giving Braniff a route to Hawaii by way of Mexico, as the CAB had decided with Johnson's approval.

One of Nixon's first actions as President was to suspend Johnson's route awards and reopen the case.

* * *

Unconfirmed stories circulating in the Washington rumor mill and in print held that Johnson arranged late last year for his favorite airlines to get cushy new Pacific runs.

But White House sources said President Johnson, aware of the sensitivity of the case, avoided talking to congressmen or airline representatives about it.

News in Brief

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassination by Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was "plain old cold-blooded, first-degree murder," says the prosecution. Lynn D. NEW YORK (AP) — The producer of the hit musical "Hair" has fired two of the stars. And they happen to be the two who wrote the script. The author-actors, James Rado, 29, and Gerome Ragni, 26, were ordered out of the theater Thursday and yesterday and were told that producer Michael Butler had fired them for improvising too much.

Ray Sues on Contracts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray has charged in a federal suit that his former lawyer and biographer were more interested in money than in his right to a fair trial. Ray asked yesterday that an estimated $1 million worth of contracts with his biographer, William Bradford Huie of Hartselle, Ala., and his former attorney, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex., be nullified.

RFK Killing Figure Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kathy Fulmer, who police once thought might have been "the girl in the polka dot dress" in the Robert Kennedy murder, is dead of what officers called an overdose of a drug. Miss Fulmer, 23, a go-go dancer, was one of several young women questioned and cleared after Kennedy was slain in Los Angeles last June. Investigating officers said Miss Fulmer was found in a coma last Monday in a motel room and that she apparently had taken an overdose of Seconal.

Man, 34, Is Charged in Troy Stabbing Case

John E. Blarcom, 34, of Southfield has been charged with attempted murder after stabbing a 25-year-old Troy friend, in her apartment early today.

Helen Wells of 2200 Crooks is listed in serious condition in William Beaumont Hospital, suffering from multiple stab wounds.

Troy police said Blarcom stabbed Miss Wells several times with a paring knife at around 2:10 a.m. and fled to Jackson County where he was arrested by Jackson State Police.

Road Weight Curbs Due to Be Eased

The Oakland County Road Commission announced today that it will lift its springtime weight restrictions on all but a few county roads at 6 a.m. Monday.

Weight limitations will remain in force on two streets and two subdivisions in Avon Township. They are South Boulevard from Adams to Crooks and Adams Road from Walton to Silverbell, as well as Bellarmine Hills and Christian Hills subdivisions.

* * *

In Farmington Township, restrictions will stay on Lytle Road from Gill to Drake and in the Kendallwood and Staman Acres subdivisions.

The High Hill subdivision in Orion Township will also remain under the springtime restrictions.

* * *

Because of the danger of road breakup due to the recent thaw and anticipated rains, no overweight permits will be issued for the next ten days to two weeks, according to the road commission.

Epidemic Hits Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Three persons have died in a cholera epidemic in Khulna city, East Pakistan, officials announced last night.

Sources said during the last seven days 203 cholera patients were admitted to local hospitals, 52 were detained and the rest received emergency treatment.

Birmingham

Urban Design Plan's Aims Are Outlined

BIRMINGHAM — City commissioners fielded questions for the first time on Birmingham's Urban Design Plan earlier this week.

Residents generally appeared pleased with the concept of the $800,000 plan, which will be implemented over a four-year period in accordance with a priority system.

* * *

Major aims of the design plan include:

- Altering—and hopefully stopping problems—of the central business district traffic flow through establishment of a "ring road" system around the business area.
- Preserving the community as a retail drawing card.
- Heading off future "erosion" of the downtown district through implementation of a pedestrian-oriented parklike atmosphere via establishmept of planters, trees, widened and brick-paved sidewalks, fountains and sidewalk benches.

PRESENTATIONS

Numerous presentations of the Urban Design Plan have been made to civic clubs, property owners organizations and other interested groups.

Thursday's session at the Community House, however, was the first opportunity the general public has had to question the City Commission on the Design Plan.

* * *

Most of the questions of "concern" from the audience of approximately 75 persons dealt with the plan's effects on the traffic situation, provisions for multiple-family housing developments and parking.

Commissioners explained the main entrances to the central business district—Maple and Woodward—will never be closed to traffic. Entrances, however, may be closed to cross traffic. There are no plans for establishment of a mall completely closed to traffic, commissioners noted.

TOWN-HOUSE DEVELOPMENT

Residents were told that the Urban Design Plan does call for establishment of town-house development probably in the area now occupied by auto dealer agencies off Woodward.

Commissioners said town-house construction, which would include large tracts of "green-type" areas would be the extent of any further multiple housing type dwellings construction.

* * *

Several persons asked about plans for additional parking facilities, particularly in the area across from the Community House on Bates Avenue.

Residents were advised that engineering and planning studies call for more parking facilities in this area both overhead and underground.

"Nothing has been done nor will be done in the near future until financing is available, Commissioner Ruth McNamee said.

Other questions concered rooftop signs in the business areas, which the commission pointed out, will be prohibited according to the Urban Design Plan's provisions.

Hussein Plan No Shift—Egypt

Israeli, Jordan Troops Clash

By the Associated Press

Arab and Israeli forces clashed on the Jordanian front today as Egypt denied there was anything new in King Hussein's six-point Middle East peace plan.

An Israeli army spokesman said Israeli troops clashed with Jordanian regulars south of the Sea of Galilee after an Arab guerrilla attack on an Israeli patrol. He said the guerrillas opened fire on the patrol with bazookas at 6:30 a.m., and the Jordanian regulars joined in with a mortar barrage lasting 2½ hours.

* * *

The spokesman said the Israeli forces returned the fire without suffering any casualties.

A Jordanian spokesman said the Israelis began shelling South Menshia village at 5:45 a.m., stopped briefly and then resumed again at 6:45 a.m. He said the Jordanians suffered no losses, but claimed five Israeli soldiers were hit by Jordanian gunners.

ARTILLERY DUELS

Today's clash followed artillery duels yesterday across the Jordan River and the Suez Canal.

The semiofficial Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram, which usually reflects the thinking of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said today the peace plan outlined Thursday by King Hussein of Jordan did not represent a shift from the previous Arab position on terms for a settlement.

Washington had viewed as a new development Hussein's statement Thursday that one point in his peace plan would give Israel full navigation rights in the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

COUNTY PAIR SENTENCED — Beverly Hills youths Craig Simoni (left) and Ross G. Witthoeft both 17 were sentenced yesterday in the knife slaying of a Boston College student last August. Simoni received a 10-20 year sentence for manslaughter. Whitthoeft got a suspended sentence of 3-5 years as an accessory to manslaughter, but also got 5-10 years for stealing. They are shown with Plymouth, Mass., Sheriff Adnah Harlow.

Peril to Fishing Spurs Meeting

Gov. Milliken to Chair Meeting of Governors

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken announced Friday he will chair a meeting of western Great Lakes governors, as the state department of natural resources was told that federal pesticide limits for fish could virtually eliminate commercial fishing in the Great Lakes.

Milliken and the governors of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois will meet April 20 at Chicago.

* * *

The governor commented, "This issue has no regard for state boundaries, so a regional conference is essential."

Milliken said he also is asking representatives of the U.S. departments of Interior and Health, Education and Welfare to attend.

INTERIM LIMIT

Indications are that the Federal Food and Drug Administration may establish an interim DDT limit of 3.5 per one million parts in fish flesh.

When pesticide limits for salmon are set, all fish shipments from Michigan will have to be supervised by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Charles Harris, deputy director of resource management in the state department of natural resources said Friday that Great Lakes salmon undoubtedly would not meet the 3.5 standard.

Wayne Tody, department fish division chief, said a rundown of figures collected by several agencies indicated the only commercial fish species in Lake Michigan which would not have DDT levels over 3.5 are smelt and suckers. Tody said that in Lake Huron only yellow perch come under the 3.5 level. Walleyes and whitefish are the only species which still appear to be on the safe side in Lake Superior, he said.

Ford Rejects Hard-Core Worker Plan

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. Friday rejected a union proposal that employes with top seniority be permitted to accept layoffs so hard core workers from the inner city could stay on the job.

The proposition was advanced last month by the United Auto Workers as one way of assuring that the newly employed hard-core Ford workers would not be laid off first when—and if—business slackens.

UAW officials responded to the announcement by accusing Ford of "hiding legalistic subterfuge" in rejecting the proposal.

UAW leaders had suggested instead that high seniority workers be allowed to take the layoffs for which they would be paid about 95 per cent of their regular pay through state unemployment benefits and additional fringe benefits under the UAW-Ford contract.

Both the union and Ford had expressed concern over the prospects of layoffs for the inner city workers, most of them with less than a year's seniority. Under normal contract procedure, the workers with least seniority are the first to be laid off.

Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president-labor relations, met Friday with Ken Bannon, director of the UAW's Ford department to explain the company's theory on the so-called inverse seniority plan.

Denise said, "In the Detroit metropolitan area, where the company was able to do most of its hard-core hiring, there have been comparatively few work force reductions and almost none involving identified hard core hires."

Ford said that one reason it objected to the proposal for inverse seniority was that "large numbers of our older employes possess experience and skills which we need and which could not be supplied by our newest and most inexperienced employes."

* * *

Denise said that the firm's "examination of state unemployment compensation laws leaves us with very serious doubts that employes volunteering for indefinite layoff would meet the eligibility requirements for state unemployment compensation payments or for SUB—Supplemental Unemployment Benefits under the UAW-Ford contract.

He added that if the company had accepted the union's proposal to let high seniority workers volunteer for layoffs "the company would have to retain discretion as to which employes among those volunteering would be permitted to go . . . This situation clearly would contain seeds for serious problems with the morale and management of our work force."

Bannon, a member of the UAW International Executive Board, said the union "is deeply disappointed that in rejecting the UAW proposal, the Ford Motor Co. has chosen not to meet one of the challenges affecting the community and to hide instead behind legalistic subterfuge."

The union spokesman, in a letter to the auto maker, asked that Ford "demonstrate its sincerity by suggesting specific and pertinent solutions to the problem" which, he stated, could result in members of the inner city group now employed at Ford plants being once again "out of work, out of hope and out of heart."

* * *

Ford said its commitment to the hard core workers "remains as broad and as resolute as ever."

Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co. and former chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB) was one of the pioneers of the employ-the-hard-core project. Under it, many applicants who for various reasons previously had been unemployable, were taken in as trainees and then given regular jobs at Ford.

Teachers Can Be on School Board---Kelley

LANSING (AP) — A person may legally serve on the board of education in one school district and at the same time teach in another district, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled today.

"There is no inconsistency or repugnancy between the legal duties of a teacher in one school district," Kelley said in response to a query from former Rep. Allen Rush, R-Lake Orion.

"This is not to say that the Legislature could not, if it so desireed, prohibit this dual holding of public positions by statory enactment," the attorney general added.

volved possible incompatibility of public office and conflict of interest.

"Two public offices are incompatible and may not be simultaneously occupied by the same person when one office is subordinate to the other and subject to its supervisory power in some degree," Kelley said.

This is not the case, he said when a person teaches in one district and serves on another district's education board.

Nor is there conflict of interest, Kelley said, because the teacher, as a board member, represents the interests of the electors in the district where he serves—not the interests of electors in the district where he teaches.

"It is clear," Kelley added, "that the board of education member has no direct interest in the contract with teachers in the district where he serves since he teaches in another school district."

Fans Want Stadium Here

E. C. Whitaker Jr., president of Karen's Carpets Inc., 3750 Dixie, Waterford Township, says that "for purely selfish reasons" he'd like to see a new domed sports stadium erected at I-75 and M59.

Whitaker, a season ticket holder to Tigers games for the past two years, says, he, his employes and customers attended games last year. He feels the Pontiac site would be easier to get to than any others named.

★ ★ ★

"I prefer the Pontiac location because it will be easiest to get to," said Pontiac Attorney Brakie J. Orr.

"I live in Royal Oak, so it will be handy for me. But because of the highways, the Pontiac site will be easily accessible from even Flint, Saginaw and Bay City areas."

CAN HARDLY WAIT

Long-time Lions fan Angus M. Campbell of 4891 Keithdale, Bloomfield Township, can hardly wait for the new stadium.

The tax accountant with offices at 995 W. Huron said, "Let's hurry and get it over on I-75, that's where I want it.

"With that dome you can see the game and enjoy it, not like that decrepit old stadium down in Detroit. It's too crowded there, and they charge to much to park," he said.

(Some area residents reported parking lot operators near Tiger Stadium were charging $4 on opening day.)

"If they're going to be selling bonds, I'd like to buy a few thousand dollars worth," Campbell added.

WIXOM BACKER

Lawrence W. Wiseman of 362 Granda Vista, Wixom, has been going to Detroit to see the Tigers play for 50 years, he said. He remembers when bleacher seats were 50 cents.

He is treasurer of G&W Engineering, 2510 Williams, Waterford Township, and his firm rents a box for Tiger games.

★ ★ ★

Wiseman said he feels sentimental about Tiger Stadium, but complains it's very hard to get into it lately because of the congestion and parking problems.

He said he's looking forward to the stadium being at I-75 and M59, but is not sure how he'll react to the dome. It doesn't seem quite natural, but things change and I'm reconciled," Wiseman said.

PERIPHERAL APPROACH

L. T. Lewis, owner of the Lewis Furniture Co., 62 S. Saginaw, said he favors the Pontiac site because of its easy accessability from all parts of the metropolitan area.

"The I-75 site makes a peripheral approach from 360 degrees possible — from all points of the compass," Lewis, a Lions' season ticket holder, commented. "If the stadium is built there, I think people will find it a very convenient place to come to."

★ ★ ★

Frank Fortino, also a Lions' fan, said the Pontiac site is preferable to him "as a matter of patriotism."

Fortinio of 190 Liberty, an attorney with the Pontiac firm of Fortino and Slater, said either Pontiac or Southfield would be better than Detroit but that "from the angle of what it would do for the city (Pontiac), I'd rather see it here."

★ ★ ★

R. K. Hesberger, president of the Seaman Manufacturing Co., prefers a Pontiac area site for a new metropolitan domed stadium. "Accessibility is the main factor to be considered in choosing a stadium site, and I think the Pontiac area is more favorable than the Detroit river front," Hesberger said.

Forgetful Farmer Pays Off '37 Loan

DENVER (AP) — A farmer from northeastern Colorado gave the government $250 Friday as payment in full for federal loans of $1,100 he received in 1937.

U.S. Atty. Lawrence M. Henry said the farmer, Albert C. O. Packer, apparently forgot about the debt and so did the government. It wasn't until December of last year that the Department of Agriculture sent a "payment due" notice to Packer, who lives in the small town of Joes, Colo.

"You know how bills are," said Packer. "If you aren't reminded to pay them a person kinda forgets."

Suspended Teacher Protests to Milliken

DETROIT (AP)—A suburban Highland Park High School teacher has protested to Gov. William Milliken that she was suspended for one week because she gave police information about the shooting of two Detroit patrolmen.

Marylynn Marcks, a social studies teacher, said in a letter to Milliken today: "I now understand the hesitancy of many citizens to come forward with information that may aid the police."

Miss Marcks, 33, said she learned of her suspension through a special delivery letter from Paul H. Emerich, superintendent of Highland Park schools.

The letter began: "The recent occasion which involved reporting one of your students to the Detroit Police has reached such proportions within the community that I feel it best to suspend you for the period of one week, until Monday, April 21."

Miss Marcks said her suspension came after a conversation with Principal Robert Marion in which she said he expressed disapproval of her not giving him the information before telling police.

The governor's office in Lansing confirmed that the letter had been received and said it would be given top priority consideration.

The letter from Supt. Emerich said an investigation would be undertaken "to make sure all parties are treated fairly."

Miss Marcks said the shooting was discussed in her social studies seminar two days after it occurred. A girl student, whom she declined to identify, said she was at the New Bethel Baptist Church March 29 and saw Patrolman Michael Czapski shot to death and his partner, Patrolman Richard Worobec, wounded.

Postal Union Chief Warns of Restiveness

DETROIT (AP) — Declaring "there never before has been such unrest among the workers," the head of the nation's postal carriers union warned today of possible wildcat strikes.

James H. Rademacher, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers and a former Detroit mailman, said he would not sanction a strike because of the laws against it.

However, he declared, "We are not going to buy this," referring to the Nixon administration's recommendations for a 4 per cent pay increase, bringing letters carriers' beginning salaries to $6,200.

Rademacher, making his first visit to Detroit since his election last fall, also attacked the recommendation of a commission which called for a postal corporation to take over the operation of the Post Office Department.

Peace Corps Is Latest Victim

Nigeria Shuns Yank Influence

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The Nigerian government is systematically reducing American influence in this war-torn country. The latest victim is the Peace Corps program.

Before the Nigerian-Biafran war broke out 21 months ago, there were more than 900 Peace Corps volunteers in eastern, western and northern Nigeria, making it the second largest Peace Corps mission in the world.

By the end of this month there will be only 72 volunteers in the northern region. Peace Corps Director Fran Marcy said there are currently 102 volunteers, but 30 are packing to leave the western region with no prospects of being replaced.

The Peace Corps has been a barometer of Nigerian-American relations.

It got off to a shaky start in 1961 when an American girl, Margery Michelmore, sent a postcard home from Ibaden in the western region describing poor living conditions and city's filth. Students got hold of the card and turned it into an international incident.

The corps survived the Michelmore affair and was riding high until the outbreak of the civil war in July 1967.

The U.S. State Department refused to permit Nigerians to buy military equipment in the United States and criticized the Soviet sale of jet planes to the federal side. Many former volunteers who served in the eastern region, now Biafra, and were withdrawn at the start of the hostilities returned to the United States to form a strong pro-Biafra movement.

In retaliation, Nigeria almost phased out the Peace Corps last year, but then decided at the last minute to ask for teachers for northern Nigeria.

These 72 volunteers arrived last November to begin their two-year terms in the last Nigerian area where the corps is allowed to operate.

Other steps taken by the Lagos government include a ban on U.S.-financed travel to the United States for high-level Nigerian officials and cancellation of a Ford Foundation-sponsored seminar on constitutional law that would have brought American lawyers to Lagos.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy said the Nigerian Ministry of External Affairs ban on U.S. government travel grants was the first time the federal government had given a blanket refusal to expose its officials to the American way of life.

The spokesman said the U.S. government spent $60,000 in 1968 to send 12 prominent Nigerians to the United States and $90,000 the previous year.

Federal Solicitor General A. A. Adediran said the law seminar, which had been scheduled to start this week, has been quietly and indefinitely postponed. He said he knew no reason for the unannounced postponement.

U.S. Shipping Lags

For a nation that is growing more dependent each year on foreign trade, worldwide access to raw materials and the maintenance of sea power superiority, the U.S. has been carrying on an ostrich act that has few if any parallels in the annals of maritime history. Other than for a strong nucleus of modern, merchant ships, our merchant marine has steadily declined over the years since World War II.

★ ★ ★

The extent to which nations of the world are overtaking or passing us in ship tonnage on the high seas was made crystal clear in a Reuters dispatch from London, summarizing ship construction figures for various countries.

★ ★ ★

It pointed out that Japan, the world's major shipbuilding nation, was close to overtaking Norway and Britain as a ship-owning country. In 1967, Japanese shipowners added 2,704,000 tons to their fleet, bringing the total tonnage to over 19.5 million tons. Norway added about a million tons, putting her total tonnage slightly larger than Japan's. The Soviet merchant fleet grew by 1,445,000 tons, ". . . reflecting a policy of breaking into world shipping routes."

★ ★ ★

Throughout the world a total of 12 million tons was added in 1967, making the new total 194 million tons.

While all this was going on, United States ship tonnage dropped substantially. We now have an active United States merchant fleet totaling approximately 12.9 million tons. We rank fifth among the nations. And, particularly significant, the rate of growth of the Soviet fleet was expected to have put it ahead of the U.S. by the end of 1968.

★ ★ ★

Spokesmen for the U.S. Merchant Marine and competent observers in public and private life have long urged the rebirth of a strong U.S. merchant fleet. It is time the Nation listened to their advice.

School Bible Study Gains

In 1966, three years after the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed Bible reading and other religious proceedings in the public schools, nearly 13 per cent of the Nation's schools (and 50 per cent of those in the South) were continuing the practice, according to one investigator.

In the three years since 1966, the percentage has, if anything increased. Many schools never abandoned their traditional practices, but lately others have resumed them in direct defiance of the court's ruling.

★ ★ ★

One such is the public school in Clairton, Pa., south of Pittsburgh, where the school board's decision to reinstitute daily prayer and Bible reading has sparked similar revolts in communities across the State.

★ ★ ★

The Supreme Court banned prescribed devotional services, whether or not attendance was compulsory for pupils. In Clairton, they are both prescribed and compulsory.

"In a time of turmoil in the Country, our parents think the loss of Bible reading in school has contributed to the deterioration of the United States," explains Clairton school superintendent, Dr. ROBERT LAFRANKIE.

"This is not only an act of defiance," says LAFRANKIE, "it is an attempt to survive."

★ ★ ★

But parents delude themselves, and in the end shirk their own responsibilities, if they think that hearing the Bible read for a few minutes in school five days a week will ever instill morality in a child who does not receive supplementary parental instruction in good citizenship in every other area of his daily life.

Nixon Programs Must Be Stable

By EVERETT DIRKSEN

There is a considerable clamor all over the country for action by the Nixon Administration.

DIRKSEN

It is both like and unlike the early days of Franklin D. Roosevelt's presidency, when not only action but quantity as well followed clamor. Therein we can find a moral.

Much of the action of 1933 and 1934 resulted in waste and duplication and, of course, much extravagance. Much of it had to be undone. Those were the penalties of haste.

★ ★ ★

I think back to the beginning of the Social Security Act of 1934. Had a better foundation been laid and had that all-important matter not been so hastily considered, it would probably not have been necessary to plaster the Social Security Act with amendments, year in and year out, to the point where the act has now become a complicated operation.

★ ★ ★

With the Administration of President Richard Nixon, high store is placed not on how fast the programs can be speeded to action, but how soundly conceived and organized those programs will be.

★ ★ ★

In earlier administrations, an antipoverty program was shaped which proved to be both a costly and unsatisfactory undertaking. The program was beset with political considerations, waste and overstaffing, and that program has been costly indeed to the taxpayers of the country. The results have been minimal.

★ ★ ★

Here again, the demonstration was made of not "how fast" but "how sound" was more profitable to the interests of substantial economies and more than that, in the larger interests of service to the people for whom the program was designed.

★ ★ ★

The Nixon Administration emphasizes what is durable, rather than what is dramatic. To consider the point, we only have to recall that incident in the early days of World War I when a great move developed to raise a division of troops to be led by former President Theodore Roosevelt. The plan required the approval of President Woodrow Wilson. He quickly dismissed the whole dramatic idea with the remark, "The business in hand is undramatic."

★ ★ ★

The Nixon Administration is not so interested in programs that might be responsive to group demands, but rather in responsible programs for the over-all, well being of all the country.

★ ★ ★

There are these days many group cleavages. Consider the farmer and the consumer. The farmer is a producer of food, feed, fiber and fruit. The end user of that produce is the consumer. Shall programs to meet the problems of those two groups be slanted to one or the other, or shall it be so tempered as to serve both? The latter is the responsible course.

★ ★ ★

The same attitude must prevail in determining the over-all expenditure by government. To spend beyond a reasonable level of expected revenues can lead to a variety of unhealthy results. Budget deficits can lead to greater tax burdens, higher interest rates, the destruction of initiative, the destruction of incentives and a crimping of our viable enterprise system.

★ ★ ★

To avoid such an undesirable effect on the economy requires a balancing of needs and capacity, and that also is a responsible course.

★ ★ ★

It takes time to develop a sound beginning that will develop into a durable result.

The POWER of FAITH

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

St. Augustine, one of the great theologians of the early Christian church, has possibly had more influence on Christian faith than any of the early church fathers. Born at Tayaste in North Africa in 354, St. Augustine received the best education the Roman Empire had to offer, for at an early age his brilliance and scholarship were apparent.

He became interested in philosophy and began his search for the truth. In the Fourth Gospel, the Psalms and the writings of St. Paul, he found it. This led to his conversion to Christianity and his becoming one of the great defenders of the church and the faith. In 395 he became the Bishop of Hippo in North Africa. With his pen, like St. Paul, he has made influence felt throughout all Christianity to the present time.

From the struggle he had in finding his own power of faith he has given us concepts of it. He wrote, "Faith is to believe what we do not see; and the reward of this faith is to see what we believe."

Also, "Understanding is the reward of faith; therefore, seek not to understand that thou mayest believe, but believe that thou mayest understand."

Confident Living:

Realize Reserve of Inner Power

By NORMAN V. PEALE

A farmer stood in front of his barn watching a light truck move rapidly across his land. His 14-year-old son was at the wheel. The kid was too young to get a license, but he was car crazy — and seemed able. So he had been given permission to drive the pickup around the farm, staying strictly off the public road.

DR. PEALE

But suddenly to his horror the father saw the truck overturn into a ditch. Racing to the spot, he saw there was water standing in the ditch and that the boy, pinned under the truck, was lying with his head partially submerged!

Now this farmer was a small man. According to the newspaper account, he stood 5 feet 7 and weighed 155 lbs. But without an instant's hesitation he jumped down into the ditch, put his hands under the truck, and lifted it just enough so that a farm hand, who came running up, could pull the unconscious boy out from under.

The local doctor came at once, examined the boy, treated him for bruises, and pronounced him otherwise okay.

Meanwhile the father started wondering: He had lifted that truck without stopping to consider if he could. Out of curiosity he tried again. He couldn't budge it. After examining him the doctor said it was a miracle. He said the physical organism did sometimes react to emergency by sending an enormous discharge of adrenalin through the body, giving extra power. That was the only explanation he could offer.

Now of course the capacity to deliver that much adrenalin had to be there in the glands. Nothing could have been activated that wasn't there. The fact is that a person normally has plenty of latent physical power in reserve.

But experiences of this kind tell us something even more important. Something happened to the farmer physically to produce that surge of supernormal strength. But it was more than a physical reaction. Mental and spiritual forces were involved. His mind-response, when he saw his son might die, motivated him to the one way of rescue with no thought but to get that truck off the boy.

Such a crisis summons the latent powers in a person. If he rises to the challenge, it floods him with what you might call spiritual adrenalin, and if the situation calls for great physical strength, the mental state produces it.

Any number of things can serve to activate these reserves of inner power. It doesn't have to be sudden danger or crisis. William H. Danforth, whom I knew when I headed the Ralston Purina Company of St. Louis, was first made aware of his potentials by a dare handed him by a teacher. In his early teens he was a sickly boy, resigned to being a chronic semi-invalid. Then one day this schoolteacher said to him, "I dare you to be the strongest boy in this class. I dare you to chase those chills and fevers out of your system. I dare you to fill your body with fresh air, pure water, wholesome food, and daily exercise until your cheeks are rosy, your chest full and your limbs sturdy."

Recalling that experience in a little book called "I Dare You," Danforth wrote, "As he talked, something seemed to happen inside me. My blood was up. It answered the dare which surged all through my body into tingling fingertips as itching for battle. I chased the poisons out of my system. I built a body that has equaled the strongest boys in that class and has outlived and outlasted most of them. Since that day I haven't lost any time on account of sickness."

Later in life Bill Danforth, whenever he discerned unrealized potentials in other men, would challenge them the same way. For example, there was a young man employed as a mechanic in a company making electric equipment. He had dropped out right after high school to go to work.

He began to watch other men his age getting into much better jobs — the technically trained college graduates. Danforth writes, "I dared him to leave his job and go back to school. Again I saw that priceless light of battle leap into the eyes of a fighter. He had no money, but somehow he got to college, was graduated with honors, and today the might-have-been-mechanic is a prominent electrical engineer."

★ ★ ★

Realize that you have reserves of inner power. Let the challenge of your ambitions, of your aspirations, rouse your slumbering power into action. Dare to be what your best self knows you ought to be; dare to be a bigger human being than you ever were before. Have great hopes and dare to go all out for them. Have great dreams and dare to live them. The more you venture to live greatly, the more you will find within you what it takes.

Present-Day Lawmakers Called 'Biggest Bluffers'

America's present-day lawmakers should go down in history as the biggest "bluffers" ever elected. All this energy is spent on civil rights, disrupting people's rights of property, hampering the police in their work, no prayers in school, etc. Over 33,000 have died in Vietnam, mostly boys drafted by a peacetime draft law.

★ ★ ★

Before it reaches 100,000, our lawmakers should declare a state of war and let all classes become aware of it by having a wartime lottery draft.

Driver Tells of Difficulties on Highway

Recently four other girls and I were driving down Dixie minding our own business when a car with three "hoods" drove along beside us and we couldn't get away from them. We were almost to Richardson's Dairy when they forced us into the oncoming lane. It was lucky there weren't any cars coming because we would have hit them head-on.

★ ★ ★

We got the license number and description of the car and called the Waterford police, but they said there wasn't anything they could do—we must identify the driver. The driver was someone we didn't know—someone who could have pulled a knife on us or even kidnaped one of us. Are we supposed to go up to these "hoods" and ask their names?

'Courtesy Lacking in Some Public Offices'

While making a phone call to our local Social Security Office, the representative literally slammed the receiver down before I could get the last words out. Is the courtesy of saying goodbye passe? I have found this same type of rudeness and even irritability in other government-run offices. I suggest that if these empliyes don't enjoy dealing with the public they find other jobs.

Comments on Students Practicing Weekends

Since when have schools taken over students' weekend activities? At two schools that I know of, if the student doesn't show up for Saturday practice he is benched for a baseball game, when he has shown up for every weekday practice but is working Saturdays and Sundays to help put himself through college. Why break down the young man who is trying to do the best he can?

Question and Answer

I understand sewers are created when the majority of the people indicate they are wanted. Is this true? If so, why weren't people in Waterford asked if they wanted them? I for one don't want them, but we're forced to hook on.

TAXPAYER

REPLY

Supervisor Johnson tells us that while residents can petition for sewers if they feel they need them, a municipality is not required by law to have a public vote in order to construct and charge for sewers. Six townships, including Waterford, entered into a contractual agreement in 1965 with Oakland County Department of Public Works to construct an interceptor to provide sewage treatment in Detroit. No charge for sewers will be made on vacant property until a building requiring sewer hookup is constructed on that property.

Question and Answer

We've been hearing about a great earthquake expected to hit California this month. What are the facts, if any?

MRS. R. D. SCALF
208 W. PRINCETON

REPLY

The facts are that California has many minor (often unfelt by man) quakes every year and some seismologists say the state is overdue for a major quake. However, they say one that would split the state in two is inconceivable and no one can predict the time, place or extent of any earthquake. But, that doesn't deter mystics, soothsayers, fundamentalist preachers and the like who predict various dates this month and later, at which time the whole state is supposed to fall into the ocean. April 4 was the date set by many, but it passed without a tremor. So those who are determined to see such a disaster will have to wait for the next scheduled doomsday, or the next, or the next.

Gen. Bradley, Monty Split on Ike's Strategy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Was Dwight D. Eisenhower right or wrong when he vetoed a British plan to let Field Marshal Bernard Law Montgomery "go it alone" in a single thrust toward Berlin late in World War II?

Absolutely right, says Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who was a classmate of Eisenhower at West Point and one of his top commanders during World War II.

★ ★ ★

Wrong, says Montgomery, now Viscount Montgomery of Alamein; the war might have been shortened if his plan had been adopted.

These divergent viewpoints are set forth in special articles by Bradley and Montgomery that will appear in "Eisenhower: American Hero," a special biography being published next week by American Heritage and United Press International.

FRANK ON TWO SCORES

Montgomery's recollections of Eisenhower are frank on two scores: his great personal admiration for Eisenhower as a diplomat and coordinator of a multinational force, but reservations about his military ability.

★ ★ ★

"While I had a tremendous affection and admiration for Eisenhower, and will always acclaim him as a very great human being, I find it impossible to include him among the great captains of history," Montgomery writes.

★ ★ ★

"But this can be said, and in no uncertain voice-nobody else could have carried the burden of supreme commander in the West in the way he did and keep the nations and warring tribes of generals and air marshals working together to the end. For this alone, the world will always owe him a deep debt of gratitude."

In his recollections, Bradley describes Eisenhower's decision to go ahead with the cross-channel invasion on June 6 as his most difficult one.

'CRUCIAL DECISION'

"Another crucial decision," Bradley adds, "was whether or not we were going to let Montgomery make one single thrust north of the Ruhr toward Berlin. Ike was under terrific pressure from the British to let Monty go it alone, and he took a long time to make that decision.

"I think he felt Montgomery was wrong from the first, but he needed some backing on it, and he finally got it from the American chiefs of staff. So we advanced on a broad front.

★ ★ ★

"I personally think it would have been a great mistake to let Monty have his way. Suppose they had hit him in the flank with the 26 divisions they hit us with in the Ruhr? They'd have ruined him."

Montgomery conceded that historians will argue for years about the proper strategy for the Western Allies following their victory in Normandy.

VIEWS UNCHANGED

"My views have often been expressed; they have never changed," Montgomery writes.

"Eisenhower did not agree. He said the whole Allied line must advance on a broad front, from Switzerland to the North Sea, until the situation became clear.

★ ★ ★

"I pointed out that our logistic resources could not nourish such a movement. We would nowhere be strong enough to get decisive results quickly; the Germans would be given time to recover, and our advance would peter out; the war would go on into 1945, with all that would entail politically vis-a-vis the Russians advancing from the east; the additional loss of life would be severe."

The main text of the 144-page UPI-American Heritage volume was written by Kenneth S. Davis, historian and writer of earlier books on Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson.

Viet Hamlet Aide Tells Firsthand Story of Cong Slaughter

HUE, Vietnam (AP) — A Viet Cong death squad was digging his grave when hamlet official Phan Duy escaped execution in the sand dune massacres of Hue.

Few were so lucky. Grave diggers sifting through three mass graves east of the old imperial capital have found the bodies of more than 500 men, women and children, clubbed and shot to death by the enemy during the 1968 Tet offensive.

★ ★ ★

Duy, a key official of An Ha hamlet seven miles east of Hue, cong's execution list. When knew his name was on the Viet-North Vietnamese and Viet-cong guerrillas seized Hue in February 1968, he moved away from the hamlet into a small house on the outskirts of Hue, hoping to escape detection in the larger mass of townspeople.

He made it through one month of enemy occupation, but when U.S. and South Vietnamese troops recaptured Hue, the enemy pulled back through the area where he was hiding.

On Feb. 28 five Vietcong entered Duy's house.

"They said nothing," he said softly through a translator. "They knew where I was and they knew my duties."

After binding his hands with cord, they asked him to name other people who worked for the government. Duy told them he lived alone and didn't know anything.

★ ★ ★

The Vietcong then marched him seven miles south to a row of houses near the sand dunes, where 135 bodies of slain civilians and unarmed soldiers were found two weeks ago. Duy said he was pushed into a house where four other prisoners were confined.

BEING SHOT UP

The five men remained locked in the house for seven days, walking outside only to go to the toilet. On these walks Duy said he saw more than 100 prisoners being shot up in other houses.

"One day I saw many people in one house, and the next day it was empty," he said. "I knew they already had been killed."

★ ★ ★

On the seventh night, Duy and nine other men, all tied together to a bamboo pole, were told they would be taken elsewhere for "Communist study." The guards took their watches and money, promising both would be returned.

But this time the march only lasted 300 yards. The prisoners' hands were untied and they were told to remove all their outer clothing because they were going to have to cross a river.

GUARDS OVERHEARD

As Duy was undressing he heard his guards talking to a group of Vietcong laborers.

★ ★ ★

"Did you dig the trench yet?" they asked. 'No, not yet, there are too many people and not enough time,' the laborers replied. Three of the six guards then left to help dig the trench, while the other three retied the hands of Duy and his nine fellow prisoners.

★ ★ ★

"It was very cold. It was about midnight. The three guards they left behind were boys about 15 and they covered themselves with blankets," Duy said. "I worked to free my hands because I knew I would be dead in a few minutes."

Duy said he worked loose of the ropes and leaped forward as one guard fired a burst of about 20 shots.

★ ★ ★

"I ran about 300 meters and I saw a pool," Duy said. "I was so tired I fell into the water and covered myself with reeds."

Soon he saw flickering lights pass by his hiding place as the guards searched for him. About 20 minutes later he heared shots.

★ ★ ★

"I knew the prisoners I had been with were dead," Duy said.

★ ★ ★

Hours later Duy emerged from the water and headed toward the lights of the Hue radio tower beacon. He stumbled into the Phu Vang district headquarters and reported what had happened.

★ ★ ★

"I remember on the second day I was held in prison in that house," he said, "other people from my hamlet told me the Vietcong had entered my home and killed my mother. When I returned I found her body still in the house. I was her only son."

Deserters Ask Help

NEW PORT RICHEY, Fla. (AP) — Arthur Moody, whose son "Butch" Moody III 22, was killed in Vietnam in 1965, received a letter this week from the American Deserters Committee in Stockholm asking him to help end "the senselessness and the futility."

Moody says the letter indicated the committee was approaching hundreds of relatives of soldiers lost in Vietnam asking them to put pressure on the U.S. government to end the war.

★ ★ ★

The deserters said in the letter they were appealing to this group "since you have directly suffered a tragic loss, a loss which is made even more tragic since it resulted from a futile and senseless war."

But Moody says the deserters wasted their time on him.

'THEY BELONG THERE'

"Anybody who can't serve their country to the best of their ability belongs in Sweden or Russia or some place like that," Moody, a disabled veteran, said Friday night.

"Butch was a professional soldier," Moody said. "In his letters he said this was a just war and if we didn't fight it there we would some day be fighting in our backyard.

★ ★ ★

"I'm sick and tired of protesters. I protest the protesters."

The letter from Sweden urges: "Write your representatives and senators in Congress and demand that they decisively act to put an end to the Vietnamese conflict. Similarly, turn to President Nixon with the request that he stop the war in Vietnam, thereby showing the same resoluteness of decision as did President Eisenhower during the Korean conflict."

'CONVINCE FRIENDS'

The committee asks relatives of dead soldiers to "convince your friends and acquaintances of the senselessness and the futility of the war in Vietnam."

It suggests this is the way to "fulfill the legacy of your dear departed ones, and also that of other young Americans who have perished on the battlefields of far-off Vietnam."

Future of Indiana City Is in Doubt One Year After Holocaust

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — This eastern Indiana city of 48,500 population sits along U.S. 40 like a little old man with several front teeth missing—and no appointment with a dentist.

A series of explosions and fires ripped through the downtown section on a sunny shopping Saturday a year ago.

Forty-one persons were killed, more than 100 were injured and the property loss ran into millions of dollars. An investigation by city, state and federal officials was unable to pinpoint the cause, but escaping natural gas or gunpowder stored in a sporting goods store were prime suspects.

The tragedy left midtown Richmond almost as haunted as a sealedoff coal mine. Damage was spread over 14 square blocks, with 11 buildings demolished and four other buildings destroyed for all practical purposes.

FIERCE ARGUMENTS

The explosion-ravaged area stands empty in the heart of the 160-year-old city. Raw edges of condemned but unrazed buildings stare at travelers along U.S. 40, the pioneers' old National Road.

There are fierce arguments on what should be done.

* * *

It's every small city's problem, whether its midsection is destroyed in minutes or the big merchants quietly move away to suburban shopping centers.

Richmond was hit both ways. Three of its four downtown department stores moved to outlying shopping centers during the last seven years. The fourth, not badly damaged in the blast, was a family-owned corporation and simply went out of business.

Downtown merchants and city officials are trying to resurrect the blasted area, but they disagree as to whether they're making any progress.

Kenneth Ellis, executive vice president of the Richmond Area Chamber of Commerce, also is skeptical about restoring the downtown area. A survey of major national merchandisers showed none is interested in moving in because they say the potential market is too small, he said.

* * *

William Q. Hale, a banker who is chairman of the city's redevelopment agency, is among the optimists. He feels a revitalized downtown can be anchored to a recently completed new city building, and a post office, city library and bank building which are in the works.

Carl Lipscomb, president of Downtown Richmond Inc., thinks people like to "go downtown" to shop. He has supported his belief with $150,000 in improvements in his downtown kitchen- and bathroom specialty-store.

FLOURISHING

Meanwhile, two huge side-by-side shopping centers, one with a covered mall, are flourishing on the city's east side. They boast four big department stores, and plans have been announced for twin movie theaters next to one of them.

Leo Weiss, who lost a furniture store in the explosion but saved a floor-covering store, has little faith in efforts of the Richmond Department of Redevelopment, which has the main job of restoration.

* * *

"With all due respect to these people," Weiss said, "they want Utopia and don't know how to get it. It looks to me as if the small businesses destroyed are gone forever. About the only chance to revive downtown Richmond as a shopping center would be through an outside syndicate—the kind that builds suburban shopping centers."

Jerome says he believes that obstacles often act as stepping stones to a secure future. He advises students to "strive to fulfill your objective in society by making sufficient use of your abilities."

Cash for Housing

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—The Department of Housing and Urban Development has announced that a $1.7 million grant will be used by the city of Grand Rapids to develop its first public housing project. The funds will provide for clearing of a 37-acre site in the city and relocation of 124 families from the urban renewal area.

Israelis Refuse to Panic Under Strain of Constant Terrorism

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israelis pronounce it "teh-rorr" but they are far from terrorized.

From the hot borders with Lebanon and Jordan to the heart of Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, they face everything from Soviet-made artillery to button mines the size of a dime.

* * *

The feeling is one of faint uneasiness, a pang of fear at certain critical moments, but mostly rage. Life goes on—almost as usual.

In a frontier settlement named Maoz Haim south of the Sea of Galilee, a 25-year-old farmer says: "I'm not afraid of the Arabs' machine guns. I'm not afraid of all those bazookas and mortars. Even shelling—real heavy shelling—doesn't scare me."

But Shuka Yahalom, married with two children, speaks for all 30,000 settlers in the Beisan Valley when he admits: "There is one thing that really terrifies me—mines. I hate mines. They are the most awful weapon a man can imagine."

More than a year has passed since troops staged their massive assault on Karameh, an area the most awful weapon a Arab guerrilla base in Jordan which Israel suspected was sending saboteurs with mines and time-fused bazookas to harass the Jewish state.

* * *

Israeli leaders acknowledged after the attack that "nothing can totally halt the sabotage," but they have battled it effectively so far—on the borders at any rate.

Terror within the cities is a different matter.

15 KILLED BY BOMBS

In Jerusalem, bombs have killed 15 persons and wounded almost 200 in less than a year. One was placed inside a car in a crowded market, another in a supermarket, another in the cafeteria of the Hebrew University. One has gone off in Tel Aviv, killing 1 and wounded 70.

Many have been discovered and defused.

* * *

Nevertheless, markets, coffee shops and cinemas are still crowded.

"It's like fatal road accidents," says Amnon Lapid, a 23-year-old student. "But you don't drive any slower or more carefully. You can't go around in constant fear of being killed in a road accident."

Israel has become one wide, watchful eye.

NUMEROUS ROADBLOCKS

Police roadblocks are on all highways leading in and out of the cities, slowing down traffic to a crawl.

"Sometimes, when you're in a hurry to get to town, the roadblocks are irritating," says a Tel Aviv taxi driver. "But I'm glad they're here."

* * *

Public institutions, especially cinemas and theaters, are heavily guarded. A green-capped civil defense guard stands at the entrance, watching the flow of people, checking handbags and suitcases. If a bag remains behind on a seat, the guard will not hesitate to open and check it. Outside each cinema or other such building is a deep hole into which he can throw an unexploded time bomb or hand grenade.

When guerrilla bombs first rocked Israel, crowds went on rampages against the nearest Arab populace. Not any more.

'PUBLIC FANTASTIC'

"Our public is simply fantastic," boasts police officer Shmuel Eitan. "They don't panic. They're organized. They see something suspicious, they call us. Naturally many calls are false alarms. But a lot of others save countless lives.

Police are conducting an intensive course in schools, teaching children to recognize button mines, plastic bombs, dynamite sticks and time bombs.

* * *

The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, already hit by one bomb which wounded 29 students, is building a security fence around the campus, and organizing a student guard.

For the Jews, the bombs raise some painful moral issues.

USED SAME TACTICS

They remember how some of their own "terrorists" used exactly the same tactics against the British in the 1940s.

Terrorist acts in the occupied Gaza Strip, formerly ruled by Egypt, have not deterred Israelis from going there. Almost every day a hand grenade is thrown or an explosive charge goes off in the refugee-packed strip.

* * *

The guerrilla organizations claim credit for supposedly devastating attacks on Israel, in which scores are claimed killed, and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of military hardware destroyed. The Israelis, officially and unofficially, laugh at such claims.

But in the Beisan Valley, the kibbutzniks never laugh. It is a deadly serious business. And it costs them plenty.

HOURS, MONEY LOST

Valuable work hours are lost as army patrols check outlying roads for mines. The Israelis are spending thousands of dollars tarring more and more dirt tracks through fields. Milk yields from shell-shocked cows have dropped sharply.

* * *

In Gesher, north of Maoz Haim 50-year-old taxi driver Yitzhak Kramer quips: "In winter I wake up at 6, and in a summer at 5. Those are the times when the patrol goes by, gets shot at, and wakes me up."

Outside the kibbutz runs the Beisan Valley highway, which the farmers call "Pilot's highway," because drivers travel along it at breakneck speed after nightfall to avoid possible sniping.

"We take things in stride," says Zvi Gat, one of the leaders of Maoz Haim. "Don't feel sorry for us."

* * *

But there are settlement babies who have never spent a night outside the bomb shelter, and won't until they are 12—unless peace breaks out.

THE LAUGH IS ON YOU –

IF YOU...

. . . sign a contract without reading it thoroughly and understanding all of it.

. . . accept a verbal agreement or verbal guarantee – neither is binding.

. . . don't insist upon – and keep – receipts for business transactions.

Cows Blinded by Curiosity

AUCKLAND (AP) — Curiosity had blinded a number of New Zealand cows. They had stood too long watching welders joining steel pipes which will carry natural gas across the rich Taranaki dairy lands of the North Island.

The minister of electricity, Thomas Shand, said later: "Nobody seemed to appreciate that Taranaki dairy cows and, for that matter, all other herds of cows along the pipeline are endowed with a considerable measure of curiosity.

*

"Nobody explained to them that it is dangerous to watch a welder at work unless you wear dark glasses."

One Inventor decided that if you can't stop the cows watching, you might as well equip them for the job. He has begun making welding glasses for them.

State Marine Killed in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — One Michigan serviceman was on a list of recent Vietnam casualties released Friday by the Defense Department.

Killed in action was Marine Pfc. James A. Staples, son of Leroy Staples of Detroit.

New York's Central Park Has Special Charm for Bird Watchers

By JOE WING

NEW YORK (AP) — Not many New Yorkers realize it, but one of the best hunting grounds on the Eastern seaboard lies right in the heart of Manhattan.

Central Park, hedged in by skyscrapers and stores, mansions and slums, hotels and roaring traffic, has an irresistable attraction each spring for migrating birds. And there they are hunted down inexorably by as eager a lot of bird men as you ever saw.

* * *

About 250 species have been counted in the park at one time or another, and as many as a hundred have been observed there in a single day.

The best hunting is on a cloudy May morning when the warblers are in full flight and when good flying conditions existed the night before south of the city. Then it is that flocks winging in over the sea or over industrialized New Jersey find the park a sylvan haven. Twenty or thirty thousand birds may swarm in on such an occasion.

* * *

Hundreds of bird people, binoculars at the ready and bird guides in pocket, trod the paths and crash through underbrush in the Ramble, a woodsy area near the American Museum of Natural History.

* * *

Many of the bird watchers just drop around during lunch hour or before work or on a day off. But some are led by professionals like Farida Wiley of the American Museum. Neophytes in tow, she has been prowling the park for 20 years or more. A frail looking teacher type, she can walk the legs off many a strong man. A true blue bird watcher like Miss Wiley feels no need to explain this spring madness, but she does express her misgivings. Too many people and too much pesticide, she feels, are threatening the park's bird life.

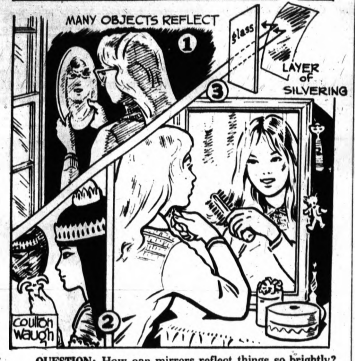
Junior Editors Quiz on MIRRORS



QUESTION: How can mirrors reflect things so brightly?

* * *

ANSWER: Everything we look at, except for perfectly black areas, reflects some of the light which falls upon it. Objects which have a soft porous surface, like cloth, absorb much of the light. Hard-surfaced shiny objects reflect a lot of light to our eyes.

If such objects are shiny enough, they will reflect a full picture of the scene whose light falls on them. If we are looking directly into them this picture will include our own faces.

In (1), Jane looks into a smooth white kitchen plate. The light from the window falls on her face and she can see a dim image of herself in the plate. Ancient peoples early discovered the fun of looking at themselves in shiny surfaces.

In (2), an Egyptian princess uses a polished bronze hand mirror. But the mirrors our millions of modern princesses use are much better (3).

Back of the glass, which acts as a protective layer, is a brilliant coating called silvering, often made of tin and mercury. This gives a surface so highly reflective that we see almost perfect images of ourselves.

(You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

Doctor Hires Orchestra to Conduct Life's Dream

LONDON (AP) — A middle-aged doctor has hired the Royal Albert Hall, the New Philharmonia Orchestra and pianist Fou Ts'ong to realize his life's dream.

Dr. Michael Bialoguski is spending about $7,200 to make his debut as a symphonic conductor at the age of 52. The program on April 29 will include Beethoven's Fourth Symphony and Chopin's Second Piano concerto.

"I suppose it's inevitable that people will regard me as rather eccentric," said the physician. "But I have always had the dream of becoming a conductor and waving my arms about in front of a great orchestra."

Bialoguski fled from his native Poland during World War II and reached Australia with forged papers. He says he was a member of Australia's intelligence service and played a part in the 1954 defection of Soviet spy Vladimir Petrov.

Bialoguski qualified as a physician in Australia, but also took a diploma as a violinist and played occasionally with the Sydney Symphony. Migrating to England, he settled down to medical practice in Epsom, the horse racing center near London, but his musical ambitions still were strong.

Sir Adrian Boult, one of Britain's leading conductors, gave him some encouragement, and that was enough for Bialoguski. He hired the hall, the orchestra and the soloist.

"This is my chance," he told newsmen. "I want the critics to be there and I want people to see me conducting."

Tickets for the concert will be on sale to the public, but the doctor does not expect to make a profit.

"If all goes well," he said, "I would have no hesitation in closing my medical practice and embarking on a full career in music."

And if things don't go so well? "I'm a lucky man. I'm a doctor and I will just carry on."

One obvious advantage of modeling is the line of colorful, swinging ensembles to choose from agrees LaVonne Reschke (Mrs. Frank) (left) and Anne Paige (Mrs. Carl) while picking up their outfits for "Fashion Orbit," slated by the church women of the Church of the Advent. The April 23 showing, with clothing furnished by Peggy's Bloomfield Fashion Shop at The Pontiac Mall, will be held at the Rotunda Inn. Mrs. Reschke resides on Pine View Drive, West Bloomfield Township, and Mrs. Paige, Orchard Lake.

Strong Puritanical Spirit Prevails in Women's Opinions on Abortion

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of articles on abortion and possible changes in the law.)

BY JANET ODELL
Women's Editor, The Pontiac Press

Although the United States is the melting pot of the world, with people from probably every other country, it has remained amazingly Puritanical. It is as if that first band of dissidents from the Church of England who landed on Plymouth Rock in 1620 had put an indelible stamp on American thinking.

This reaction came up again and again in my interviews with women on abortion. Sex is sinful; illegal sex demands that one be punished. If a woman becomes pregnant out of wedlock, let her have the baby and suffer. It serves her right.

That sounds hard and intolerant and hardly in the Judeo-Christian spirit. But it came out time after time. Abortions are all right for married women who need or want them, but not for the unmarried unless they're victims of rape or incest.

OPINION HOLDS

"It won't help young people any to have completely free abortion laws."

"Young girls might take advantage of a liberalized law."

"If a girl thinks she is woman enough to carry on as a woman, then she must accept responsibility as a woman and the results of what her actions are." (This from a 16-year-old.)

"If abortion is easily available, more girls will be promiscuous."

"If you're going to give them a little liberty, they may take a lot."

"In case of rape, abortion is better for the girl. But if she's a hard-headed girl who just ran out with the boys and got pregnant, sure, let her go through with it and have her baby."

All the groups became involved in discussing what a liberal abortion law might do to the morals of young people. It is evident that this subject worries mothers.

SEX EDUCATION

Both the teenagers and a group of professional women talked at great length about the need for good sex education from the preschool age. They see the need for better communication between parents and other adults and today's children.

But overriding it all is a concern for morality.

Monday: Every woman should have a choice.

Antique Show Slated Tuesday

The 17th annual Antique Show and Sale, sponsored by the churchwomen of All Saints Episcopal Church, will begin Tuesday at 11 a.m. in the church on Williams Street.

Running through Thursday, the show will feature its usual display of antique quilts as part of the decoration. A quilt, handmade by the church women will be sold.

★ ★ ★

Buffet luncheon will be served each day from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. with an "express table" for business people who have limited time. In addition, the balcony tea room will be open during the entire show.

COMMITTEE

General chairmen of the show which raises funds to support missionary projects at home and abroad are Mrs. Charles Crittenden and Mrs. Arnold Thingstad.

They are being assisted by Mesdames: Robert C. Tricker Jr., Frederick Cockle, Palmer Strang, Charles Main, William Isgrigg, James Kitchen, Arthur Thomas, Horace Hall, John Riley, William Stricklin and William Maybury.

Others are Bruce Meixsell, Marjorie Baker and Clara Petford.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or at any of the Episcopal churches in the area.

Fund Drive Slow

Mansion Is Too Costly

LANSING (UPI) — Those motorized drapes, the gold-and-crystal chandelier and the hideaway bar in the proposed governor's mansion are providing too rich for political philanthropists, forcing Gov. William G. Milliken to defer his order with a Lansing moving firm.

Milliken and his wife, Helen, won't move from their two-bedroom apartment in East Lansing to the posh governor's residence along the Grand River in southwest Lansing until the $250,000 fund drive to purchase the furnishings is successful.

Reportedly, the campaign, is headed by a committee of former governors, is $100,000 short. Plans to obtain $25,000 pledges from select industrialists have been junked.

APRIL DEADLINE

However, Senate Majority Leader mil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, said indications are the goal will be met by the end of April, after foundations and other organizations interested in contributing to the drive hold their monthly meetings.

"The delay is only temporary," Lockwood said. "We'll get the money by the end of the month, and the governor can move in then."

The Millikens and their family cat have been on standby for two months now. Initially, the delay was attributed to confusion over deed restrictions but that was cleared up by the attorney general March 18.

The mansion, valued at $500,000 without the furnishings, was donated to the state by a Lansing trucking executive Howard Sober. The gift included a provision the state would pay for the furnishings, many of them priceless antiques.

Mrs. Herman Stenbuck, Owego Drive, will be guest of honor May 4 at a dinner celebrating the 21st anniversary of the State of Israel. Long a volunteer in religious and civic affairs, as well as head of the Temple Beth Jacob Cooperative Nursery, Mrs. Stenbuck is leaving in June to take up residence in Israel. The dinner at Congregation B'nai Israel is open to the public. Leon Sirlin is ticket chairman.

Bride Should Consider Color for Ensemble

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: My 18-year-old daughter is getting married this summer. She had the misfortune of having a baby last year, but it died after only living one hour. She was not married.

She would like to know if she can go down the aisle in a white gown, and is it proper to have a big church wedding? Also, is it proper for her to have a shower? All of her friends knew of her condition, and they were all for her one hundred per cent — Mrs. M.

Dear Mrs. M.: Your daughter has never been married before, and the fact that she made an unfortunate mistake some time ago should not prevent her from having as large a church wedding as she wishes. Showers are in order, too. She should not wear a pure white gown.

White is a traditional symbol of virginity and you can be sure there will be snickers and whispers among insensitive acquaintances if she wears a white dress. She can certainly wear a long wedding gown, but choose a very, very pale color; a mere tinge of pink, blue or yellow will counteract any criticism, and at the same time be youthful, beautiful and appropriate.

TWO RINGS

Dear Mrs. Post: I was given a signet ring about 35 years ago which I never remove. My wife is desirous of having another one made for me — with diamonds, yet. I would like to know if it would be considered ostentatious for a male to wear a ring on each hand? — Bob

★ ★ ★

Dear Bob: Yes, it would. A signet ring belongs on the little finger of your left hand or right hand, if you wear a wedding ring, and should not be set with any jewels. If your wife wants to give you a gift suggest a set of cufflinks or a tie-clip with the same insignia as your ring.

Summer Fashions, Luncheon Sponsored by Church Group

The latest word on warm weather wardrobes will be the topic of the day, with "Fashion Orbit," April 23, sponsored by the church women of the Church of the Advent.

The showing, which will feature day and evening wear from Peggy's Bloomfield Fashion Shop at The Pontiac Mall, will be held at the Rotunda Inn. Luncheon is included in the program which begins at 11:30 a.m.

MODELS

Models for the fashion spree, chaired by Mrs. Dirk Millett, are Mrs. Frank Reschke, Mrs. Thomas Branch, Mrs. Leamon Hunt, Mrs. Richard Jacobs, Mrs. Albert Matisse, Mrs. Carl Paige, Mrs. Robert Paul and Mrs. Arthur Sackrison.

★ ★ ★

Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Stanley Lewis of Farmington. Baby sitting service will be made available at the church.

Spokesman SEAMs to Feel American Male Losing Ground

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Hang on, men, help may be on the way.

At least it will be if Carlton M. Brown, self -appointed spokesman for the American male has his way.

Brown and five colleagues — who hid their identities like a woman hides her age — banded together this week to form the Emancipation of the American Male.

SEAM

Called SEAM for short, the group says its goal is to restore the male "to his rightful place at the head of the family."

Brown contended the American male has "spent too much time away from our homes chasing the buck and too much time away from our families watching television."

Brown described himself as an employe of a mental health organization. He said his associates include a psychologist, a newspaper editor and a psychologist but he declined any other information on them.

Brown summarized his group's feelings thusly:

"There are millions of people in America who have gone through hell with their families, in one way or another, and who are waking up to the fact that there is something very wrong in a country that has nine million widows, eight million fathers whom deserted their families, 20 million mentally ill persons, six million alcoholics and eight milion homosexuals, many of them reluctant.

SEAM, he said, would seek to offset the "proliferation of militant feminist organizations" and would advise men on how to regain control of their families and coach women on the art of pleasing and holding onto their husbands."

SEAM also aims at "preserving the family, while encouraging a healthy polarity between the sexes and extolling the sanctity of male and female roles" while freeing the American male from "discriminatory divorce, alimony and child custody laws."

★ ★ ★

"It is time to get away from the TV, comic-strip boob image of the American male who exists only as a sort of servant straight-man for a nagging wife and her smart mouth kids," he concluded in an interview.

Vulgar Display by Youths Upsets a Family Gathering

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Libby, my 17-year-old niece, brought her boyfriend to the grandparents' for Sunday supper. She didn't ASK if she could bring him. She just brought him.

After supper, Libby and her boyfriend picked a comfortable chair in the corner. He sat down, and she sat on top of him, and they spent the entire evening that way. She couldn't keep her hands off him. He didn't say a word. He just grinned and whispered something to Libby once in a while. It's a wonder he didn't grab her and head for the nearest bedroom. It was disgusting.

After everyone left, Grandpa was all shook up to think that his lovely young granddaughter would throw herself at a boy that way. "Just asking for trouble," he says. And Grandma was in tears. All the while Libby's parents were sitting across the room like two stuffed sparrows on a limb.

My husband says I should mind my own business—that Libby has parents to tell her how to act. Should I say something to those stupid parents? Or should I say something to Libby? Or better yet, can YOU say something?

AUNTIE

DEAR AUNTIE: A 17-year-old who would behave this way in the presence of her parents either doesn't know any better, or doesn't care what anyone thinks. And parents who would sit in silence during such a performance are either helpless or gutless. If you think it will help Libby, tell her the facts of life. But hurry!

Pair Repeats Vows During Morning Rite

Carrying a bouquet of roses and Stephanotis, cheryl Jo Lipar was escorted to the altar of St. John Fisher Chapel today where she became the bride of Thomas W. Allen.

For the morning nuptials, the daughter of the John Lipars of Oakshire Street chose a modified A-line gown fashioned with Empire waiste and highlighted with Alencon lace trim.

Lynne Springer of Westland was maid of honor with Theresa Lipar, Mrs. Paul Parker and Mrs. Peter Keffer as bridesmaids.

Best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmott O. Allen of Dearborn Heights was Lee A. Holdridge of Laurel, Md.

Assisting as ushers were Peter Keffer, Robert Kibbie and Paul Parker.

Following a reception at the Elks Lodge of Pontiac, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon trip to the Smoky Mountains.

Home Reflects Dad's Hobby of Railroading

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Freese became interested in trains and railroading during his college days, and now his hobby — shared by his wife and three children — is reflected in the decor of the family's suburban home.

The fireplace has an old railroad tie for its mantle, and wood for the fireplace frame was used originally as the strips between rails at crossings.

A friend gave Freese an old switch lamp for the front lawn, and Freese mounted it on an obsolete switch stand. The lamp is lighted by kerosene, as it was in its earlier railroad era.

Bobby, 11; Mark, 7, and Carol, 4, are fascinated by antique model trains which decorate various parts of the seven-room dwelling. Freese has many framed railroading prints and several shelves of books on trains in the family room. Some of the model trains date from his childhood.

Freese is president of the Peter Webb Harper Method School in Rochester, and when the family takes its annual vacation you know how it travels.

Gregory Is Here

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown (Ann Marie Hodges) of Illinois Avenue announce the birth of a son Gregory David, on April 8.

Grandparents are Vere Hodges of Risdon Court, Bloomfield Township, and the Norman Browns of Packer Drive.

Airborne oceanographers of the U.S. Navy are closely watching sharks along the northern edge of the Gulf Stream to prevent loss of human life and because the sharks interfere with underwater sound-ranging operations.

A late summer wedding is planned by Marcia Karen Porter and James Frederick McVeigh. The bride-elect, who is attending Oakland Community College, is the daughter of the Ralph E. Porters of Davisburg. Her fiance is the son of the Cleon McVeighs of Transparent Drive, Independence Township.

The engagement of their daughter, Sandra M., to Steven M. Tipolt is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Young of Desmond Street. The intended bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tipolt of Seebaldt Street. Aug. 2 vows are planned.

Migraine Sufferers May Be Repressing Violent Emotion

The person who suffers from Migraine headaches may really be the victim of intense rage, and tension headache is often the result of anticipating a "stab in the back."

This is not to say that one's own headache may not have a real, physical cause. But there is psychiatric evidence and opinion to support the supposition that anger, envy, resentment are frequently, if not always, involved in headache.

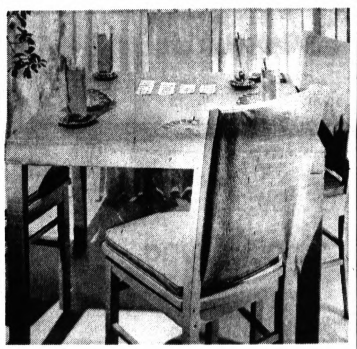
Why, then, do headaches so often strike the mild and unaggressive person? The answer, psychiatrists and neurologists suggest, is just because they are mild and unaggressive.

It isn't that they do not harbor the emotions that lead others to attack their enemies. They repress them, bottle them up, and then express them as a pain in the head or the back of the neck.

Through psychotherapy, such persons have been enabled to understand themselves and the emotions they reject, and have been helped to taper off on the drugs on which they formerly relied.

Dr. H. H. Garner, who heads the department of psychiatry and neurology at Chicago Medical School, employs a wide variety of drugs to relieve the pain — from Gynergen and Cafergot to codeine and others — at the beginning of treating a headache patient.

But he concentrates on finding, with the patient's help, the sources of the "frustration, annoyance, resentment, anger, rage, and envy" which cause it.



"Cayman," an alligator-type upholstery by Colovin, is a deeply embossed vinyl, ideal and durable as a covering for bridge chairs, table tops and table legs. A Columbus Coated fabric, it is available in black, white and four colors. In chain and variety stores, about $2 a yard.

Mom Gets White Meat---Right?

By BETTY CANARY

Recently we had friends in for dinner and what started out as a family-style meal turned into a Teach the Children session. It started with Ralph saying, "When I was a kid we ate last. The table was cleared and we were called for a second setting."

"I wouldn't mind that," his son remarked.

The adults ignored him.

★ ★ ★

"Ha-ha-ha!" Ralph sputtered. (This is his usual signal and we knew reminiscence-time was upon us.) "I always say I was born in the age when kids got the chicken wings and the adults got the white meat and when I had kids, the rules were changed so the parents got the dark meat!

The children ignored him.

The adults ignored him, too, because the truth is Ralph is always saying this.

At this point, however, all adults present joined together in order to treat the children to fascinating tales of working behind soda fountains for 15 cents an hour and how grandpa went to work for the railroad at the age of 13 (sunup to sundown) and how the kids didn't know how good they had it.

SCOLDED

After awhile (I think it was when Ralph told the story about his Uncle Dan having to quit school in the fourth grade) one of the children indicated his state of boredom by yawning. He was reprimanded for this show of ill manners but frankly I thought it not so much ill-mannered as ill-time. I never yawn until Ralph gets to his sad story about his walking to school throught three feet of snow — every day and with cardboard in his shoes, too.

★ ★ ★

It isn't that I don't want my children to appreciate all the luxuries their father and I have tried to give them — a roof over their heads, decent meals and a few music lessons. It's just that I don't believe telling them horror stories about what my parents suffered during the depression is going to get to them. It isn't that they don't believe it but rather that they simply have no real basis of comparison.

Surely there must be some way of getting through to them, although I quickly admit I don't know what it is. And, it isn't because I haven't tried, either. I consulted a psychologist, read lots of books and at one time even got in touch with a woman who reads tea leaves and burnt chicken feathers.

★ ★ ★

I'm not going to stop trying. But, I have a good idea what the outcome will be. Once more my children will face me with outrageous self-possession and quizzical looks. Looks that say, "Mother, what ever happened to your alleged rationality?"

This will be my cure to roll my eyes to the heavens and give my parting shot about The Time Will Come When You'll Wish You Had Listened.

★ ★ ★

What I never tell them is that I always got the white meat of the chicken at home because I was the baby of the family.

City Woman, 21, Is Hurt in Crash

A Pontiac woman is in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital after her car veered off Baldwin Road at E. Fairmont and struck a utility pole yesterday.

Sandra L. Berendt, 21, of 42 Clairmont told Pontiac police that she did not know what happened. The accident occurred at 5:15 p.m.

Police Probe Theft at Home

Police today were investigating the theft of some $1,400 in household goods and $475 in cash from a Pontiac home during the evening.

Lilman Racliff, 30, of 1231 Defrain, told police he discovered the break-in when he returned home about 2 a.m. today.

The home was entered by thieves who pried and kicked open a rear door, according to police. A tire iron believed to have been used in the burglary was found in the house by police.

Racing-Car Designer Speaks

Support for Steam Car Grows

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Racing car designer Andy Granatelli has joined the swelling ranks of industrialists who believe steam-powered automobiles could be a practical answer to the smog problem.

Granatelli, president of STP Corp., told a news conference Friday that his firm and Planning Research Corp. have joined forces to achieve "a significant technical breakthrough" in steam-engine design.

* * *

A proposal to draw up plans for a passenger car using the new design, which he said reduces the size of the power plant system, has been submitted to the National Pollution Control Administration.

The agency recently asked industry for proposals to design steam automobiles as a way of reducing the smog emitted by internal combustion engines. A dozen proposals have been received, including one from industrialist William Lear of Reno, Nev.

DESIGN STUDY

Granatelli said the joint proposal is only for a design study but added: "We are capable of producing such engines within our organization."

Granatelli, who formerly headed the Studebaker division which produced the Paxton steam car in 1957, said the design team includes PRC's computerized systems analysis facilities and STP's engineers, best known for a controversial turbine racing car.

* * *

Granatelli said the proposed engine would amply meet government requirements of 100 horsepower and be able to propel a six passenger car at a cruising speed of 75 miles an hour.

The breakthrough he cited was a reduction in the size of the condenser needed to convert steam back to water after the steam has been used to drive pistons. His design calls for a small jet condenser, which uses water spray to cool steam instantly, in place of a bulky radiator-condenser that collects water as the steam cools.

ON CHEAP FUEL

Like most steam engines, the PRC-STP power plant would run on cheap fuel such as unleaded gasoline or kerosene.

Mishap on I-75 Injuries Man, 30

A Waterford Township man was injured last night when his car tore in two after smashing into a sign pole off I-75 in Pontiac Township.

Paul H. Bourke, 30, of 6866 Longworth is listed in satisfactory condition at Pontiac General Hospital following the 10:15 p.m. accident.

Oakland County sheriff deputies said that Bourke's car left the road just north of the Walton overpass and smashed into a concrete-supported I beam holding the sign.

The speedometer on Bourke's car was broken at 90 miles per hour, deputies said.

GOP Will Mark 47th Birthday of Rep. Broomfield

Republicans of the 18th Congressional District will aid Congressman William S. Broomfield in celebration of his 47th birthday with a dinner-dance at the Raleigh House, Southfield.

Scheduled for April 30, the $10-per-person event will feature a floorshow entitled "Speakeasy Caper." A roaring twenties theme will prevail.

* * *

Doyle Dodge, 1293 Maryland, Birmingham, dinner chairman, said no speeches are scheduled.

Tickets are available at Republican Headquarters, 245 S. Woodward, Birmingham, according to ticket chairman Mrs. Jack McNeilance, 1309 Key West, Troy. Serving with Mrs. McNeilance are Richard Ernst of Bloomfield Hills, Troy Mayor Jules Famularo and Ralph Conselyea of Royal Oak.

It is estimated that 300,000 units of pooled blood plasma are used yearly in the U.S.

Parents Are Alerted on Birth Certificates

County Clerk Lynn D. Allen reminds parents of pre-school children to obtain birth certificates for school registrations now.

Allen said the certificates are available at $2 for the first copy and 50 cents for each additional copy. They may be obtained by enclosing a check in a letter to the clerk's office.

"Don't wait and have to stand in line with the crowds in May and June," the clerk warned.

News in Brief

Clothing, $30 in Kennedy half dollars and a radio were stole in a break-in at an apartment at 429½ Orchard Lake, the occupants, Harold Henderson, 26, and Walter Rand, 28, reported yesterday to Pontiac police.

Woman, 25, Shoots Self Accidentally

A young Ferndale woman was in critical condition today at Crittenton Hospital with a self-inflicted gunshot wound, while her boyfriend was being held in the Oakland County Jail for carrying a concealed weapon.

Katherine M. Jones, 25, of 7251 Granow told Oakland County sheriff's deputies and Rochester police that the weapon, a 38-caliber revolver, accidentally discharged after she threatened to shoot herself.

* * *

The revolver is owned by her companion, Jimmy D. Robertson, 26, of Detroit, who told police that he had brought it back from Vietnam.

He was arrested after it was discovered that the weapon was not registered.

LEFT AVON BAR

The shooting occurred about 2:20 a.m. after the couple had left an Avon Township bar following an argument, according to deputies.

* * *

Robertson said he was driving east on Auburn when Miss Jones pulled the revolver from her purse and held it to her stomach. The bullet went through her and lodged in the car door.

* * *

Robertson said he had kept the gun in the glovebox.

After the shooting, Robertson drove to Rochester where he flagged down a police officer who then led him to the hospital.

Car Victim, 7, Listed Serious

A 7-year-old Waterford Township boy is listed in serious condition in Pontiac General Hospital today after being struck by a car while riding his bicycle yesterday.

* * *

Township police said Scott E. Smith, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith of 1350 Irwin, Waterford Township, was crossing Irwin near Argyll when he was struck by a car driven by Jane Stevenson, 26, of 1126 Edgeorge, Waterford Township, at about 7:20 p.m.

* * *

Miss Stevenson told police that the boy pulled out from a driveway into the road in front of her and she was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting him.

THINK ABOUT IT!

When God created the universe and the things in it, He provided protection for the lowly, slow moving turtle. In modern language, we might even call it a form of social security. God gave the turtle a shell for his house, a protection against elements and enemies. The turtle has only to put his neck out to eat. Far more important though is the thought that even the turtle MUST stick his neck out to go forward.

God made the eagle, too. The eagle roams and soars through spacious skies. Without being told, the eagle instinctively builds a home on high mountain peaks. Miles mean nothing when with strong, undaunted courage the eagle flies through and fights storms, snow and wind when winging for food.

The turtle has its place and purpose. But, isn't it significant and shouldn't we be proud that the eagle, is the emblem of America?

Home Of The James Langs Nestled On Hillside In Waterford Township

Broad Window Walls Reflect Sweeping Back Yard And Maceday Lake

Contemporary Home Stresses Simplicity in Its Interior

Pontiac Press Photos by Ed Vanderworp

JODY HEADLEE
Home Editor, The Pontiac Press

Contemporary in design, the Waterford Township home of the James Langs reflects the beauty of uncluttered space and clean lines in its interior decor.

"We had an interior decorator help us with the furnishings at first," said Mrs. Langs, "But, we couldn't seem to work together . . . a difference in taste, I guess. We preferred simplicity and open spaces.

"Much of our decor follows the Spanish approach because of our love for a little Mexican island, Cozumel. We frequently vacation there and like the colorful simplicity of its Mediterranean influence."

From the slate-floored foyer, one may enter the den, step down a few steps to the living room, climb a short staircase to the kitchen balcony or ascend a longer staircase to the master bedroom. The simple traffic pattern allows easy access to all areas of the home.

"I like the kitchen balcony," said Mrs. Langs. "This way I can work and look out at the lake or down into the living room at the same time."

Two short staircases, one on either end of the balcony, eliminate any traffic woes when the Langs are entertaining.

So the interior decor would not compete with the beauty of the changing outside scene, completely visible from the window-walled living room, the Langs chose olive green carpeting and natural linen draperies as a background.

Twin cordovan swivel chairs can swing easily from the living room's conversation grouping to lake watching. A bronze ceramic Moses stands on the contemporary cabinet before the windows.

FUNCTIONAL BEAMS

Heavy beams mark the 12-foot ceiling.

"They're not just for looks," said Mrs. Langs. "Every beam in this house is functional."

The convenient den is wallpapered in a walnut-patterned vinyl.

Urethane Takes a Bow in Room Setting Exhibit

Molded rigid urethane, a material more and more familiar to the home furnishings industry, was the featured performer in a room setting exhibit previewed recently in New York City.

The concept of the exhibit was "Bridge the Generation Gap with Urethane Materials," and that theme was interpreted in "something old and something new."

The rooms, designed by Ving Smith, A.I.D., for Uniroyal, Inc., are titled "Minimal Mod," and "Mediterranean Melange." The furniture, decorative accessories and architectural detail and trim are all made of urethane foam.

Uniroyal Inc.'s chemical division commissioned designer Ving Smith, A.I.D., to create two contrasting rooms which would show the versatility of molded urethane in currently popular home furnishings styles.

MODERN APPROACH—A living area which almost goes into orbit gets its flight plan from molded free-form furniture, stretch fabric "walls" and modulating light. Urethane shell chairs and couches sit on a platform of shaggy white carpet. The lavender walls fasten the white stretch fabric, which defines the interior space. Mobiles and moving light patterns lend to the feeling of "taking off". The upholstery on the undulating white couch is Chame Naugahyde. The low chairs and sofa are covered in bright red stretch fabric.

VERSATILE

The added drama of the traditional furniture is accomplished with urethane panels used as the sofa base, chest facade, and a variation used as a handsome room divider.

The contemporary "Minimal Mod" room for the "now" generation is the bridge to the present and future. From the stretch fabric ceiling to the undulating loungers, it exemplifies what Smith calls "The sleekly organic look of today."

Today's room is a total environment of light, texture, form — and the unexpected. In an almost mannerist fashion, the eye is fooled by perspective and ambivalence about beginnings and endings. This is the mind-expanding look of tomorrow with no borrowings from the past.

The furniture follows the flowing lines of the room — free and easy curves and shapes in the molded chairs and molded sofa, and the undulating couch in the center.

Color stands by itself here — it is not a "color scheme," but an exciting use of color to create an atmosphere. Bright red, for example, is used for emphasis, like an exclamation point.

Walls create themselves — stretch fabric is used to shape walls and ceilings the way the designer wished. "Who needs four box-like walls when you can have Baroque curves and mysterious spaces?" asks Smith.

"In this free-form room, urethane seems to create its own future — opening the door to its enormous potential for creative design," declared Smith.

Wells Supply Own Water

Americans are fleeing to the suburbs and beyond in droves—and business, industry and recreational facilities are following right behind. The shopping center or industrial complex several miles beyond city limits is getting to be a common sight.

One of the so-called problems faced by ex-urbanites is "where do we get our water?"

* * *

They simply have wells drilled and get their water from the ground. While urbanites are struggling with water shortages and pollution problems, their country cousins have all the water they want when they want it. No periodic water shortages. No water meters.

* * *

There's about 40 times as much ground water as there is fresh surface water in the U.S. Ground water, through individual water systems, already serves about 10 million American families.

* * *

It's a little known fact but wells are the sole or partial source of water for about 30 per cent of our nation's urban community water systems.

OUT OF SIGHT

In view of these facts, why doesn't the public know more about our ground water resources? That's hard to say, but a major reason probably is that you can't see it. Everyone can see and admire a lake, a river or a reservoir. Only those who have a professional reason to be informed know what's underground.

* * *

Yet it may be the solution to the water shortages caused by lack of rain or pollution of surface streams.

* *

For more information on having your own well, write to the Ground Water Resources Institute, 205 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606. Send 25 cents in coin and ask for "How Water Wells Help You Solve Your Water Problems — Easily and Economically!"

More Bathrooms Becoming Must

Now that the two-bath home or apartment has become standard, the trend is toward two-and-a-half or three baths in each home.

* * *

Ceramic tile, long popular as a bathroom surfacing material because of its easy-to-clean practicality, is now also sought for its decorative variety, the trade association of tile manufacturers adds.

Kitchen Is Heart of the Household

The "heart" of the house is the kitchen, and the best location for a family room is right next to it. Most family rooms become a center of snacking and entertaining, which makes the accessibility of the kitchen a necessity.

* * *

Surfaces of the family room should be of an easy-to-clean, stainless and durable material such as ceramic tile.

Built-In Vacuum Is Boon to Homemaker

Once again it's the season for hard work and aching backs — spring housecleaning time! For many homemakers, the chore of vacuuming rugs, drapes and upholstery is made easier this year with a built-in system.

In such a system the duct bag and motor are installed in a remote location, usually the basement, garage or utility room. Rigid plastic tubing leads to wall inlets — very much the way water pipe leads to a faucet or electrical wires to an outlet.

When the homemaker wants to vacuum, she simply inserts the end of a lightweight hose into the inlet, presses a button and proceeds.

• Since the motor is a heavy-duty type, it does a better job of collecting dirt. Since the dust bag and tank are not in the living area, there's no recirculation of dust. The house is cleaner after you vacuum and stays clean longer.

• There's no heavy machine to lift or lug around, no bumping of furniture — nothing but the lightweight hose to carry.

• There's virtually no noise. The housewife can hear the doorbell or telephone, listen to the radio as she works and keep an ear cocked for the whereabouts of her children.

The system comes complete with the usual attachments for carpets, bare floors, upholstery, drapes, venetian blinds, crevices, etc.

For more information, write to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

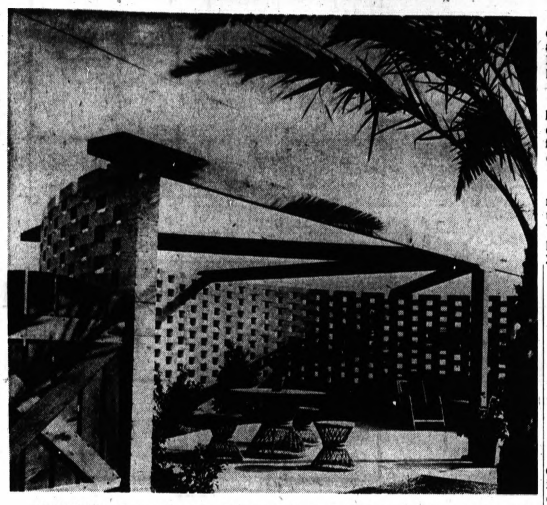
Concrete Masonry

Privacy Wall Expands Outdoor Living



HIDEAWAY—A curved wall with an open-lattice pattern provides protection plus background for an outdoor terrace. The lattice pattern serves as a screen to insure privacy but allows sunlight and breezes to pass through. The wall was built with 4x8x16-in. concrete masonry units.

SECLUSION—A privacy wall of sturdy masonry makes it easy to expand your living area to include more of the outdoors. This attractive wall was built of concrete masonry corner units in 8x8x8-in. dimensions, laid in a stacked-bond pattern. The mortar joints were deeply raked for shadow effects. At far left, units were laid on their side with cores exposed to permit cooling breezes to pass through.

Building a privacy wall of concrete masonry is like adding an extra room to your home. It's an easy way to expand your living area outdoors.

* * *

Inside a walled yard you can have a fireplace for outdoor cooking, a patio for entertaining friends, or simply a place to enjoy the sun.

* * *

Garden walls of concrete masonry can be built in many textures, patterns, and colors. You may want a solid wall for protection from cold winds, or you can choose screen block units which permit free movement of air.

* * *

A garden wall utilizing a decorative block pattern is also very effective in creating a courtyard effect adjacent to your home.

GOOD BASE

For long service life, garden walls need sturdy, solid concrete foundations. A good footing generally is twice the width of the wall.

* * *

For example, a wall built of 8-inch block should have a footing 16 inches wide and 8 inches thick.

* * *

Be sure to check local building codes for foundation requirements and guidelines on height restrictions, requirements for reinforcement, and recommended wall spans between lateral supports for privacy walls.

* * *

For more information on block patterns available for building garden walls, see your local concrete products producer.

A sun deck floor, since it is exposed to the elements, should be surfaced with a durable, weatherproof material such as ceramic or quarry tile.

Spruce Up Your Home for Spring

If your home is ten years old or older and you are tired of it looking like every other home on the block, you can give it a spruce up to end all spruce ups by taking advantage of developments in the painted aluminum field.

Aluminum awnings, door canopies, an aluminum breezeway or carport, plus aluminum shutters will transform a look-alike home into something special.

* * *

Choose a basic color or motif or scheme and follow it throughout the entire awning, canopy, brezeway and shutter installations. The color scheme should contrast suitably with the rest of your home's exterior.

The bright-colored aluminum awnings and other products will give you several advantages besides visual beauty. For one thing, they can go for years without repainting or other maintenance.

COOLER

The window awnings will keep the home cooler in summer and protect furniture from the drying effects of the sun's rays. The door canopies will provide you and guests with a shelter during inclement weather and protect the door finishes. The carport or breezeway adds valuable recreation area.

Further information on awnings and carports can be obtained by writing Alcan Aluminum Corporation, Building Products Division, 100 Erieview Plaza, Cleveland, Ohio, 44114.

Prize-Winning Plants Grow in Clay Pots

When you visit a flower show, you'll notice that virtually all of the prize-winning plants in both professional grower and expert amateur classes have been grown, from start to finish, in porous red clay pots.

Clay containers provide the most natural growing conditions and foster healthiest root development.

Newcomers to pot plant gardening, who may have been disappointed by plants grown in synthetic, non-porous containers, will have better results using the containers preferred by the "pros" and experts.

A diagonal type layout of ceramic floor tiles will help make a small room look larger. The trick is especially effective in entryways, bathrooms, kitchens and outdoor patios.

Your Boiler Needs a Yearly Check-Up, Too

Let's face it. No one really likes his home heating boiler.

You don't sit in front of a boiler as you do your television set. You don't show it off to friends as you do your favorite arm chair.

* * *

You don't even decorate the boiler as you decorate your walls, floors, and ceilings.

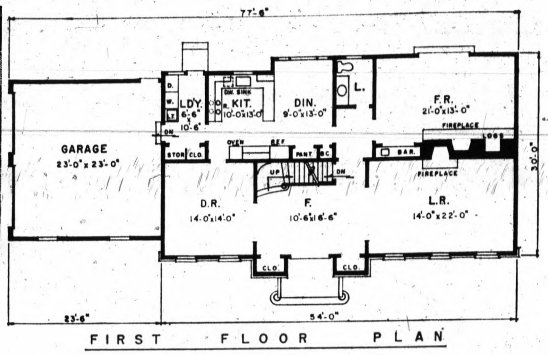
Yet, this unthought-of and unheard-from work machine operates over 3,000 hours a year to keep you and your family completely comfortable.

Only with an efficiently-operating boiler can you enjoy the television, the favorite chair and your decorated walls and floors.

There's no need to decorate your boiler — today many come with highly-styled wood panelling — but it is suggested that you give it a once-a-year checkup.

By having your heating contractor come each year to adjust the controls and replace worn out parts, the boiler will continue to operate at maximum efficiency.

MANY FRENCH ARCHITECTURAL FEATURES are immediately evident in this two-story Chateau. Note how the upper windows break through both the roof and the wall. The dormers in the garage roof, at the left, give extra light, air and space to an upstairs lounge.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN

Home With Comfort as Its Specialty

Here is a French Provincial in a two-story Chateau with a second floor large enough to include four bedrooms, two baths and a lounge.

* * *

Design Z-88 combines the elegance of mass with the tasteful use of ornamental detailing in the typical style of native French architecture.

Elements which catch the eye are the steeped hip roof, curved window heads, continuous moulding around the eaves, wall-faced dormers and diamond-paned windows over the recessed entrance.

The brick front is augmented by wood shingles on the garage and at the front and rear of the house.

A family that requires four bedrooms will find the interior arranged for comfortable movement. Architect William G. Chirgotis has accomplished this with a good traffic plan and sizable rooms.

CENTRAL FOYER

The tone is set by a central foyer stretching 16'6" and containing two clothes closets.

The living room and the dining room are at either side of the foyer. Three windows are along the front wall of the living room, with a fireplace on the opposite wall.

The dining room, with two windows facing the front, is adjacent to the kitchen-dinette, which has its own eating area large enough to accommodate the entire family, either at regular meals or snacktime.

Two windows, one over the sink and a picture unit in the dinette, provide plenty of natural light and a view of the rear yard.

There is a lavatory with a mirrored vanity between the kitchen and the family room at the right.

SLIDING DOORS

Sliding glass doors in the rear wall of the family room give light and access to patio, lounging and garden areas.

A brick fireplace, with a wood bin and a built-in refreshment bar, takes up an entire wall in a rather dramatic fashion.

* * *

To the left of the kitchen is a laundry room, with one door leading to the outside and another to a two-car garage.

Besides two closets in the laundry room, there is enough extra storage space in the garage to take care of such things as garden tools, toys, lawn chairs and the like.

An open staircase leads directly from the entrance foyer to the sleeping areas, with a wide upstairs hall giving an immediate feeling of second-floor spaciousness.

MASTER BEDROOM

The master bedroom has a private bath with a built-in, full-length mirrored vanity and a tiled stall shower. It also has a separate dressing room, complete with a vanity and two closets, one of which is extra large, even for a walk-in.

Just off the master bedroom, turning it into a suite, is a lounging area 17' long, utilizing the space within the garage roof.

* * *

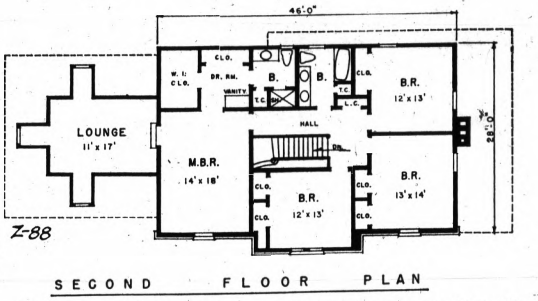
Each of the other three bedrooms is amply supplied with closet space, and there is a linen closet in the hall.

The main bathroom has a tub, towel storage closet, double lavatory and mirrored vanity.

With 1625 square feet of living area on the first floor and an almost equal amount on the second floor, this house will not make even a large family feel as though it were in close quarters. It's definitely designed for comfort.

Z-88 STATISTICS

Design Z-88 has a living room, dining room, kitchen-dinette, family room, foyer, laundry and lavatory on the first floor, totaling 1650 square feet. There are 1525 square feet of habitable space on the second floor, divided among four bedrooms, two baths and a lounge. Over all dimensions are 77' 6" by 30', including the two-car garage. The plans call for a basement, with a stairway downstairs from a foyer location.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN

FLOOR PLANS: Entrance foyer, larger than most, and with two clothes closets rather than the usual one, is typical of generous size of living areas. The 19' of width across the back of the kitchen-dinette allows plenty of room for informal dining.

Take It Easy Contract Job

Have you been putting off bathroom modernization because you just can't face the mess and confusion you expect will come with it?

If so, you can forget such potential headaches by having the total remodeling job handled by one qualified plumbing contractor.

It used to be that you had to deal with half a dozen trades to get a new bathroom — tile setter, carpenter, electrician, "plumber" and so on. And you yourself had to serve as sort of general contractor, getting bids from each trade, scheduling their coming and going and paying them separately.

Not any more. Many contractors now specialize in one-stop remodeling. They assume responsibility for the whole job from delivering sketches to having the work done by their own employes or subcontractors. They even arrange your financing for you.

SHOWROOM

A contractor who specializes in remodeling will have a showroom where his products can be seen in natural settings, and he'll have a remodeling specialist on his staff to help you plan your new bathroom.

* * *

Most remodeling contractors are busy. This is to your advantage because it means they're highly experienced. They'll also scheduled their men and materials carefully, and will be in and out of your home in about a week. Then the whole family can enjoy the beauty and convenience of your new bathroom.

* * *

If you don't already have a plumbing contractor, check the classified ads of your telephone directory for the names of contractors who are members of the local chapter of the National Assn. of Plumbing - Heating-Cooling Contractors.

* * *

This national organization is the oldest one in the building trades and has affiates in all states and most communities. It has an identifying seal with the motto "we sell, install, service and guarantee."

WHAT IS KLINGELHUT FACE BRICK SIDING?
It is the Multi-Purpose Brick Siding that does so many jobs—BETTER
Can be applied to • Frame • Shingle • Block
Klingelhut brick is genuine, individually made, kiln-fired brick of standard dimension except that it is ½ inch thick. It is bonded to ½ inch insulating panels by an exclusive process developed by Klingelhut. This produces an insulating combination equal to 4 inches of blown-in insulation—or 4 feet of solid brick.
• Gives year-round insulation • Reduces fuel costs • Beautifies your home, increases its value • Resists fire • Ends repair and maintenance bills — no painting • Economical to install . . .

BOY'S BEDROOM—A haven for a real he-boy. The attractive, yet practical bright green carpet on the floor can stand up to any game of rough-house. When decorating a boy's room, it's wise to remember a carpeted room is a safer room. Besides being so durable it is highly dirt-resistant and most messy spills can be sponged away in a flash with just detergent suds and water. The menagerie on the wall was created from pieces of carpeting leftover after installation—a fun project for a rainy day. The sturdy maple furniture plus the handsome blue-green plaid fabric on the window and bunk bed makes this a perfect place for homework or hi-jinks.

Banish Bare Floors Says Carpet Industry

Banish the bare bedroom floor. That's the message from the carpet industry.

Extensive research recently completed by the American Carpet Institute shows 62 per cent of American homes have neither a rug nor a carpet in the master bedroom. When you think of those frigid feet on those very cold mornings — and since you spend one third of your life in the bedroom — why not make the surroundings pleasurable.

* * *

A carpeted bedroom is no longer a matter of pure luxury. Modern fibers make carpeting not only possible for master bedrooms — but for nurseries, teenage and in-between age lairs, and guest rooms as well.

* * *

Psychologists and interior designers agree bedrooms should convey a warm and relaxed atmosphere. The choice of warm or vivid colors is purely a personal thing. Of course, when decorating for the younger set, keep in mind children respond to brighter color schemes.

SAFER

Other important reasons why bedrooms should be carpeted — remember it's safer and so much sounder. No more falls on slippery surfaced flooring.

* * *

As for the quiet aspect, nothing muffles disturbing sounds more than wall-to-wall carpeting on the floor and heavier draperies on the windows.

Measurements for Shelving

When buying material for library shelving, remember that boards measure a half inch less than their nominal width.

A 1x12 is 11½ inches wide. Although most books are only seven inches wide, 1x12s usually are recommended for shelves since they'll also accommodate magazines, large art books, even stereo speakers.

Bench Beneficial

Near the back door, build a garden bench of fir 2x4s. You'll find it also makes a dandy serving counter, workbench, and drop-things-off spot for the patio.

HOUSE HUNTING?

All homes, regardless of age or price, have defects. Even minor defects can cause serious damage if neglected or overlooked. For many reasons very few homes get all the maintenance and periodic modernization they require. If you underestimate the amount of needed repairs and improvements, it can cost you hundreds, even thousands of dollars.

Our inspection takes about 3 to 4 hours and covers a checklist of hundreds of items. You get a 15 to 17 page detailed report of our findings. The fee is modest ($50.00 for homes prices up to $20,000). Service is expert, prompt and courteous.

To Help Bedtime Balkiness

Make Child's Room Attractive

You can't "turn off" a child at a specified hour — expecting him to go to sleep simply because his door has been closed and the lights flipped off.

On the contrary, insisting that a child enter a world of silent darkness can make going to bed a fearful experience for him, notes Sally Ames, director of the Sleep Institute of the Spring Air Mattress Company, Chicago, who said:

* * *

"The very nature of sleep with its various levels of consciousness can produce strange phychological and physical sensations. Leading sleep researchers tell us that these experiences can be even more intense in children, who don't understand them and can't adequately express their fears."

Scientists say a child who is secluded in a dark room may imagine terrifying shapes and alarming sounds. When this happens, the child may look at going to bed and the subsequent period of falling asleep as a punishment.

* * *

"Every household must have curfews for the youngsters," Miss Ames commented. "However, if you've been engaging in bedtime battles that leave you exhausted and your child tearful and wide awake, you may find that inflexible rules are causing a major part of the problem."

SUGGESTIONS

Here are some suggestions for a happier bedtime hour.

- If your child is often reluctant to go to bed at night, sound him out on the subject instead of insisting that he obey without question.

He may have some very real fears about going to sleep that can be easily remedied.

For example, there's no logical reason for closing a child's door and making him feel completely alone.

Rather than keeping a child awake, the voices of other members of the family and ordinary household noises can be reassuring and comforting.

TINY LIGHT

There's also no reason why a child must be put to bed in total darkness. A tiny light can banish the shadows that may seem like monsters to an imaginative child.

- Make the youngster's room as attractive as possible. Even very young children respond to pleasant surroundings. A well-decorated room that reflects cheerfulness in its colors and furnishings will encourage the child to play there during the day.

* * *

He's then apt to regard his bedroom as a friendly place of his own and be more inclined to go there willingly when it's bedtime.

- Make sure his bed is comfortable. If your child is a fretful sleeper — waking several times during the night and getting out of bed — there may be a cause for it. He may be too hot or too cold or perhaps a street lamp is shining in his eyes. Or, an old lumpy mattress could be to blame.

Parents often make the mistake of passing along an heirloom mattress to a child when he graduates from his crib. Even though he's much lighter in weight than an adult, a youngster won't rest properly if his mattress is full of ridges and hollows and has sagging springs.

A quality mattress has inner firmness to properly support young, growing bodies. It also has surface comfort to gently cradle a child and add to his sense of security and well-being.

Western hemlock lumber is prized for wall paneling and cabinetwork because it is non-resinous and has close, straight grain.

Safari Setting Leads Way to Sophisticated Approach

Big game room hunters will find the decor of this safari room setting, designed by Schule-McCarville Designs for Hercules Incorporated's Young Designers Series at the National Design Center in New York City, the tops in a new sophisticated back to nature look.

The big news in this room setting is the new upholstery fabrics of Herculon olefin fiber featured on the sectional sleep sofas, walls, screen and accessory seating pieces.

★ ★ ★

By using earthy tones of greens, golds, oranges, yellows and neutrals, the designs create a serenely tame environment. The rich shag carpet — also of man-made fiber in the same family of colors, brings all elements together.

★ ★ ★

It's a real care-free living area for family use or for informal entertaining. Spots and spills on the Herculon fabrics and carpet vanish with a detergent suds and water treatment — and they're so durable they can withstand the rigors of the fiercest younger set.

GUEST SPACE

Big things can happen in small areas with clever planning. Solid color and striped contemporary sectional sleep sofas can put up several last minute guests so comfortably — and there's storage space in a wonderful wooden antique chest, behind the wild but coordinated screen of plaid, striped and solid panels covered in fabrics of Herculon olefin fiber, and extraneous things can also be hidden in the confines of the upholstered cubes — which serve as extra seating too.

★ ★ ★

The use of brass in handsome mirrored table and the trim on the olive Herculon wall covering brings out the warm tones of the deep shag carpet. The use of mirrors can do great wonders as a room stretcher. The canned lighting from the floor sets an exciting mood — throwing off reflections and shadows.

★ ★ ★

Additional accessories such as the yellow plastic lamp, tiger skin wall hanging, antique fan, mask, spears, plus the dried wheat bush country foliage are all very much in keeping with the mystique of the Africana look.

Whether it be for a swinging bachelor pad or a family "tree-tops" retreat, a room for fun and games is the real theme.

JUNGLE DRUMS—A sophisticated safari setting features new lines of upholstery fabrics of easy care Herculon olefin fiber in tones of greens, golds, tangerines and neutrals—used on the sectional sleep sofa, walls, pillows, screen and cubes for seating and storage. The rich deep shag carpet is also of Herculon olefin fiber in the same family of colors, as is the handsome upholstery fabric. The Africana mood is further set with warm antique woods, brass, canned lighting from the floor, exotic dried foliage and animal accessories. It's the perfect pad for a swinging bachelor—or for a family "tree tops" retreat.

Blab Pad Ideal for Teen-Agers

Teens mean telephone troubles, but kids often respond to house rules if given their own blab pad.

★ ★ ★

Panel a corner of the basement with rough pine boards, add a table and old sofa recovered in bright print cotton, install an extension phone and you'll win their hearts and possibly, their cooperation.

Fine Silver Needs Attention

Diamonds may still be a girl's best friend, but to today's homemakers and new brides, gems can't compete with fine household silver as a blue chip investment with lasting fringe benefits.

★ ★ ★

Since prices of sterling silver place settings have just about doubled in the past 10 years, the bride who bought a five-piece sterling flatware setting in 1957 for $29 would have to pay about double that amount for a four-piece setting today.

Even with the rise in price, fine silver for the home is very much in demand. Retail purchases of holloware and flatware in both sterling and silverplate reached an all-time peak of $384 million in 1967, an 87 per cent increase over the $246 million of silver goods sold in 1957.

"This tremendous rise in silver prices has automatically increased the value of older silverware, and therefore put a premium on silver which is kept clean and gleaming at all times.

STERLING

Sterling is one of the few beautiful things in the home that actually thrives on use, and proper care and cleaning improves its beauty and value.

"It's been estimated that, in the course of a lifetime, a spoon will be used an average of 65,000 times. If the spoon is sterling and has had good care, it will never have to be replaced, it will be more beautiful than when new, and its actual market value will have vastly increased," he said.

Since silver is definitely worth more than ever before, it deserves the very best care. To get the utmost enjoyment from silver of all kinds —with the least amount of effort — here are some do's and don'ts.

● For sterling flatware, keep it handy and use it frequently. When the tiny surface scratches which are bound to occur on silver gradually build up, they produce a patina. It is precisely this patina which makes museum pieces of antique silver so extraordinarily luminous and so valuable.

ROTATE

● If your household is small, rotate silver place settings to keep usage uniform.

● If occasionally tarnish develops on fork tines from egg or mayonnaise use a liquid fast-acting dip for instant cleaning.

● Never use an abrasive or aluminum and soda solutions to clean flatware or holloware. Abrasives will scratch the surface and solutions tend to remove the subtle shadows in the crevices of some designs which have been put there with careful oxidation.

● To clean both sterling and silver plate, invest in a specialized silver polish such as Silversmiths' Polish that will clean, polish and protect against tarnish in one operation.

● Dust silver display pieces frequently using special Silversmiths' Gloves that no only remove dirt but renew tarnish-preventing ingredients.

The key to beautiful silver is use and reasonable care. When silver is used for the family as well as guests and for children as well as adults, it will respond with increased beauty in addition to lending an aura of grace and dignity to everyday life.

Add Cap Board

When 2x4-inch toprails are joined over fence post tops, adding a 2x6 cap board protects the joint and gives a stronger, more pleasing line.

Your Spring House Inspection Should Begin at the Top

Spring is the time the wise homeowner makes a very careful inspection of his house. Nothing will age a home as quickly as a heavy winter.

Heavy snows, high winds, alternate freezing and thawing can do an extensive amount of damage. Now is the time to assess just how much has been done.

* * *

Some of the damage may not be readily visible, hence the careful inspection. If not tended to, some of these problems which are minor now can become major ones later on.

First place to check is the roof. Even the roof of a new house may not come through a bad winter unscathed.

CLIMB UP

You may be able to spot most of the trouble from the ground, but a look from the top of a ladder is even better.

Check for torn or curling shingles. Cement them down with a heavy dab of roof coating. Press in place.

* * *

Examine the flashing while you are at it. This you will find around chimneys and in roof valleys where slopes come together.

If the damage is severe get a professional roofer to make the repairs. Small cracks can be taken care of with roof coating.

GUTTERS NEXT

Next in line are the gutters and downspouts. Gutters may be sagging due to the weight of the ice and snow that accumulated during the winter. The gutter should slope gently and evenly in one direction, toward the downspout. Refasten loose hangers.

Clean out any accumulated debris that is in the gutters. There should be a screen or strainer over the opening into the downspout.

* * *

Winter is rough on masonry. Tiny cracks fill with moisture, then with the alternate freezing and thawing they expand. Mortar works loose eventually.

Check carefully if you have a brick or stucco house. Examine the foundation of any house. Clean out crumbling mortar and replace with fresh mortar mix.

CRACKS

Examine sidewalks and drives for cracks that may have opened up during bad weather. Chip out the bad spots and use a concrete patch to repair.

With both mortar and concrete patches remember to moisten the area thoroughly to begin with and then to keep the patch moist until it is cured.

* * *

Check your windows for cracked or missing putty. Remove unsound putty and replace.

Check all calking joints around door and window frames, around the foundation and inside corners where walls meet. Clean out defective calking and recalk.

* * *

If paint has been damaged, scrape off the loose surface, prime and then repaint when the prime coat is thoroughly dry.

Hollywood Bed Package Offered

A new Hollywood bed package now being offered by a leading bedding manufacturer simplifies shopping for the homemaker who's looking for a fashionable yet economical way to furnish a bedroom.

Each package consists of a twin-size mattress, box spring, frame, and a choice of eight headboard styles.

Winter can be hard on houses.

Lumber Prices -- Up, Up and Away

By JAMES L. SRODES
UPI Correspondent

The merry-go-round of charges and criticism over skyrocketing lumber prices is beginning again with no sign of help to the one hit hardest — the homebuyer.

First the homebuilders blamed the lumber dealers. The lumber dealers in turn blamed the government. The government may or may not respond by bringing the charges in full circle.

* * *

But while the carousel of criticism continues, Americans are buying homes at a record rate, partly out of justifiable fear that if they don't buy now, it will cost more later.

They are aware that prices in the last year have been bounding upward at a fantastic rate.

COST UP

As land around urban centers grows more scarce, the cost increases. Inflation has also boosted the cost of borrowing money to buy or build homes. But lumber costs are the biggest single villain.

The average house cost $22,000 a year ago. It is now $1,300 more expensive because of rising lumber prices.

* * *

The cost of ordinary building board has risen 500 per cent. Some grades of plywood have jumped prices 100 per cent.

ONE ANSWER

For the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) the answer to the crisis was easy.

NAHB President Eugene A. Gulledge said: "Some suppliers, not content with prices almost doubling during the past year, are fueling inflation with still higher prices, pleading short supply, lack of transportation and anything else but the real reason — being participants in a system that is charging all the market will bear."

The charge was like a hammer applied to the finely-tuned kneecap of the lumber producers.

* * *

James D. Bronson, president of the National Forest Products Association, said the Gulledge charges were laudable sentiments but should be better used to focus attention on the true roadblock — federal management of national timber lands, which contain 60 per cent of the softwood lumber supply.

The answer, Bronson said, is to allow multiple use of federal forest and wilderness areas by combining park and conservation functions with the cutting of timber for commercial sale.

But nowhere in their statements did either Gulledge or Bronson urge their respective association members to try to hold the price line.

Light Colors Keep Things a Lot Cooler

Light colors reflect the sun's rays. Dark colors absorb them.

If you keep these and the following pointers in mind, you and your home will be a lot cooler this summer.

* * *

First, as to your house, a white or pastel colored roof and siding can be instrumental in keeping your home cooler.

If you plan installing aluminum siding this year, do it now and get the bonus of the additional insulation and reflectivity it provides.

WINDOWS

Even if you can't do anything about your roof or sidewalls, you can do something about your windows.

Unshaded windows are the chief source of heat entry into the home.

On a sunny day, the glass can admit anywhere from 300 to 1000 B.T.U.'s per square foot per hour.

* * *

The most effective sunfighters, are light colored aluminum awnings. They are available in a variety of rigid or roll-up designs and make a home up to 20 degrees cooler.

Patio covers, carports, breezeway covers and porch covers also increase the home's resistance to sun, whether they shade glass, wood or masonry.

As for yourself, you will be a lot more comfortable on the job and around the house in light-colored, light weight, loose fitting clothes.

During the really hot days, eat smaller meals with plenty of fruit and vegetables. Add to your intake of water and fruit juice and sprinkle additional salt on your food.

Arbor Protection

Building a new deck for your home? If it's located in south or west yard, consider an arbor shade roof in your over-all plan.

Bedroom Court Adds Luxury

Opening out a first floor bedroom onto a private court secluded by shrubbery can add to the feeling of spaciousness and luxury in the room.

Paving the court with a natural material like quarry tile — while can also provide a striking bedroom floor — will provide an easy indoor-outdoor transition.

Quality Design in Modest Home

Imaginative design of space will give an impression of quality and luxury in a home even though it has been built at relatively modest cost.

Open planning, high ceilings, different floor elevations and well-planned arrangements for indoor-outdoor living and creative use of decorative surfacing materials like ceramic tile will all help to suggest quality building.

Flush-joint, tongue-and-groove panel boards are cut with square edges. Walls paneled with flush-joint boards are as smooth as flooring.

Labor Strife Menacing British Struggle for Solvency

LONDON (AP) — Labor strife, including strikes and interunion squabbles, is costing Britain millions in lost production and menacing the nation's struggle for solvency.

Sloppy workmanship and industrial inefficiency are raising doubts abroad about Britain's ability to deliver the goods on time and in good condition. Exports are slowed or lost altogether. Markets are lost to competitors. Traditional overseas customers, dismayed by defective goods and delivery delays, turn elsewhere.

★ ★ ★

And Britain's share of world trade drops — from 18.1 per cent in 1958 to 11 per cent last year, even though that trade has been expanding.

Why? What has happened to the British worker and his reputation for craftsmanship and ingenuity?

SHAKING AT ROOTS

Conflict between labor and management, between union and union and even between union leaders and the stewards on the shop floor have shaken the foundations of traditional trade unionism in this country.

Simultaneously, years of government imposed belt-tightening have sapped many workers' desire to work and work well.

★ ★ ★

The situation is driving a wedge between Harold Wilson's Labor party and the workingmen who voted it into power five years ago.

While the government struggles to make Britain solvent, strikes and other labor problems undermine exports.

NATIONAL STRIKE

A national strike at the 23 plants of Ford Motor Co. of Britain in February and March cost the nation $60 million in exports.

Japenese, German, and Swedish shipbuilders win orders after order to supply ever British owners, while the Clydeside yards limp along with the help of government subsidies.

★ ★ ★

The Queen Elizabeth 2, proud flagship-to-be of the Cunard Atlantic fleet, set out at Christmastime for a maiden cruise to the Canary Islands amid all possible publicity and then limped back in shame to Southampton a few days later her turbines stripped of blades, her interior decorations unfinished.

Similar stiuations cover many fields of British manufacturing endeavor.

COMPLAIN OF DELAYS

European auto dealers at the Geneva Motor Show in March complained of delays — as much as six months — in obtaining British car deliveries. When the cars do arrive, they said, bugs have to be ironed out and defective parts replaced.

A few newspapers and politicians here smell a radical leftist conspiracy against the establishment. Others see the trouble as the just "plain bloody-mindedness" of British workers. But many feel the picture has been distorted and that the Briton remains a good worker. His defenders note that British products generally remain of high quality, and cite such items as Rolls Royce products. They say the Queen Elizabeth 2 will prove herself.

★ ★ ★

Nevertheless, it is generally acknowledged that featherbedding and other restrictive practices continue to reduce efficiency and raise industrial costs. Last year 36 million man-hours were lost in strikes, 95.5 per cent of them "unofficial" or wildcat actions sanctioned by no union.

The motor industry, a prime foreign currency earner, had 231 work stoppages last year. Its lost production amounted to $288 million, more than half in exports.

45,000 IDLED

The 24-day Ford strike idled 45,000 workers in the first full production halt for Ford since the company began operating in this country in 1911.

Ford companies in Belgium, West Germany and the Netherlands had to curtail production because they needed component parts from the British plants. They complained of their dependence on British workmen, and there were reports they would take steps to be less dependent.

★ ★ ★

Shop stewards called the Ford strike Feb. 24 on a wildcat basis. Communication had broken down between the 15 unions involved and their rank and file, because of cumbersome and outmoded negotiating procedure.

After months of negotiations, Ford's personnel chief, Leslie Blakeman, had hammered out a package agreement with a committee of six union leaders. This set up a bonus system designed to curb wildcat action. It provided for a special fund to protect Ford employes from work stoppages caused by strikes in other companies supplying parts for production lines.

'PENALTY CLAUSES'

The kicker was that any wildcat strikers would lose these insurance benefits. The workers immediately dubbed them "penalty clauses."

The negotiating committee approved the settlement 3 to 2, with one abstention. The two representatives who voted against came from the two biggest unions at Ford: the Transport and General Workers Union, with 17,500 Ford employes on its rolls, and the Amalgamated Engineering and Foundrymen's Union with 15,000 Ford members. The three voting for the settlement came from unions representing only 21 per cent of the Ford workers.

★ ★ ★

The deal was worked out and approved without consultation with shop stewards, who said they cited the "penalty clauses" and called a strike.

The major unions promptly gave official backing to what had started as a wildcat walkout.

'FRIVOLOUSLY IMPERILED'

Prime Minister Wilson asked "whether those responsible really care about the danger that in the Ford factories of Europe there may be growing determination not to be dependent in the future on British components whose delivery can be so frivolously imperiled."

Wilson raised the specter of a Communist conspiracy behind Britain's continuing labor troubles when he charged that a 1966 strike of seamen was Communist-led. The walkout cost the nation 850,000 man-days and held up exports for weeks.

★ ★ ★

Government officials also noted that one of the principal leaders of the 1967 wildcat strike of dockworkers — with 500,000 man-days lost — was Jack Dash, an avowed Communist.

Parliament is studying proposals to reform the trade unions, providing for secret ballots before an official strike can be called and an obligatory 28-day cooling-off period before an unofficial or wildcat walkout. Violations would be punished by fines to be withheld from strikers' pay.

UNIONISTS IN OPPOSITION

Trade unionists oppose this legislation. Industry said it doesn't go far enough and attacked the government for not seeking immediate enactment of the measure. The bill is not expected to become law until next year.

Strikes are not the only difficulty plaguing industry. Featherbedding, sleeping on the job — especially on the night shift — prolonged tea breaks, even excessive sick leave, are on the long list of employers' complaints.

★ ★ ★

John Brown Ltd., builders of the QE2, had to call in the police to halt wholesale pilfering of the liner's fittings by workmen. In the house of one, police found 30 yards of carpeting, three bookcases, two chests of drawers, five lamp shades, table sets for six, eight gallons of paint, 350 feet of cable, one radiator, a number of tools and some electrical equipment.

The attitude of some workers seems to be that the company is fair game for theft, cheating or worse.

574 TRADE UNIONS

Britain is beset by a proliferation of trade unions — a total of 574. Member poaching and jurisdictional disputes on who does what sometimes tie industry into knots. The Vickers shipyard at Barrow-on-Furness has been tied up for seven months in a dispute over which union can test pipes in a nuclear submarine being built there.

Class consciousness, the feeling of "them and us," is ground deeply into the soul of the British workingman. When he elected Wilson's Labor government to power in 1964, he expected the millenium. Then "our government" in July 1966 legislated a strict policy of deflation and curbed wage raises. Disillusionment was profound.

Aubrey Jones, head of the National Prices and Incomes Board, says the biggest problem facing the government and industry is to find ways to "overcome the alienation of the workers from the purposes of industry, an alienation from which this country probably suffers more than any other."

The task could involve the whole future of this island kingdom as a major industrial power.

Chant 'Christos Anesti'

Greeks Observe Easter

Six million Orthodox Christians in the United States and Canada will celebrate the great festival of Easter tomorrow, one week later than Chrisitans of the Roman Catholic and Protestant faiths.

★ ★

The Orthodox Church adheres to a decree proclaimed during the First Ecumenical Council of Nicaea in 325 A.D. when Bishops from throughout the Christian World determined that the date of Easter would be celebrated on the first Sunday following the first full moon of the Vernal Equinox (March 21). the Hebrew observance of Passover.

This was in order to maintain the Biblical sequence of the events of the Crucifixion.

SACRED PERIOD

For Orthodox Christians Holy Week is the most sacred period of the year. It is culminated in the joyous celebration of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ on Sunday.

The triumphal hymn of the Ressurection "Christos Anesti" will be chanted during the midnight liturgy tonight by the Rev. Costas Kouklis and congregation of St. George Greek Orthodox Church as they hold lighted candles.

Divine Liturgy will begin at 11 p.m. The giving of the Eternal Light Procession for the Ressurection will start at 11:30 p.m. outside the church.

AT MIDNIGHT

The Hymn of the Resurrection at midnight is followed by Matins and Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom.

The church will be plunged into total darkness tonight except for the lone vigil light of the altar. This is the service of resurrection.

When Father Kouklis intones "Come ye and receive light from the unwavering light and glorify Christ who arose from the dead," he lights a taper from the vigil light and turns and lights the tapers held by those close to him.

LIGHT TAPERS

Like a sea of flowing light, taper is lighted from taper, and the light flows from the altar through the church, out to the crowds outside the church who recieve the light on their tapers.

The cry "Christ is risen" and the response "Christ is risen indeed" is heard on all sides and a joyous Easter begins.

The lighted tapers are carefully carried home and a cross is smoked from the candle over the entrance of each Greek home to assure continued blessing for their homes.

The traditional Greek dish for Easter is lamb.

Couple Celebrates 60th Anniversary

The First Church of the Brethren is celebrating the 60th wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. LeRoy W. Shafer at services tomorrow. There will be a special recognition at 11 a.m.

The congregation and the Shafers will join a cooperative dinner in fellowship hall following worship.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Mr. Shafer was pastor of the church for more than 21 years.

An open house for the Shafers' many friends throughout the state is scheduled throughout the state is scheduled from 2 to 5 p.m.

The Rev. and Mrs. Shafer of 81 S. Paddock came to Pontiac in April 1942 from the church in Muskegon. During his pastorate he gave part time to working for the Grand Trunk Western Railroad, retiring in 1954.

In 1961 under the leadership of Pastor Shafer, members completely remodeled the church and installed a new organ. For some 40 years he attended the national and district conferences of his denomination.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Shafer assisted her husband by making calls on the sick at Pontiac General, St. Joseph and Pontiac Osteopathic hospitals. She also made quilts for burned out families.

★ ★ ★

Not only did Mrs. Shafer teach Sunday School classes, she often conducted the evening service. For many years she served as chairman of WCTU, Francis Willard Chapter.

The Shafers celebrated their 50th anniversary in 1959.

A few years ago they entertained the more than 100 couples with their children, whom the Rev. Mr. Shafer had married. Some he had christened as babies.

The Rev. and Mrs. Shafer have four sons, John T. of Owosso and Aubra L., LeRoy W. Jr. and Harold L., all living on farms near Durand. There are 16 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Teen-Age Rally Begins With Concert

The sky was partly overcast last Saturday but even chance of showers didn't keep young people of Columbia Avenue Baptist Church from singing Christian folk songs at the Decency Rally in Kennedy Square, downtown Detroit.

★ ★ ★

The Pontiac group under the leadership of the Rev. Perry Thacker, associate pastor met teen-agers from around the Detroit area to participate in a mass demonstration.

The rally began with a 20-minute concert of Christian folk songs. After the concert about 150 teen-agers marched up Woodward Avenue distributing to shoppers "Good News by a Man Named John," a modern translation of the Book of John in the Bible.

★ ★ ★

At the conclusion of the rally, the teens met at the Baptist Building, 2619 Cass, to be treated to hamburgers and other refreshments.

PURPOSE

When asked if the rally accomplished its purpose, Thacker said, "we came downtown Detroit for a decency rally. Not one of our group was arrested. Not one negative comment was mentioned concerning the rally.

"One policeman told me this was the most peaceful demonstration he had ever been assigned to," he added.

The Rev. Mr. Thacker said "the rally was called to make it clear to the public that some teen-agers have positive positions. These teens know that there is more to life than burning draft cards or smoking pot. Their purpose is to make this evident to the people in the Detroit area."

Thacker stated that the idea of the rally originated about four months ago as he talked with Grover Wilkins III, minister of music at Columbia Church. They decided to do something big with the youth group, he said.

"We made application to Detroit Common Council for the use of Kennedy Square" said Wilkins. "Our petition was granted and our Youth Choir began working up a concert of Christian folk music.

Brenda Wheatley, a student at Waterford Kettering and president of the Youth Choir, said "The reason folk music was used was its ability to communicate with the now generation."

Thacker concluded by saying "Plans are already under way for a decency rally to be held in

Macedonia Church Honors the Miners

The congregation of Macedonia Baptist Church will honor the Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Miner for their 18 years of service to the church and community at services Monday through April 20.

Meetings are scheduled for 7:30 each evening until Sunday when the program is listed at 3:30 p.m.

★ ★ ★

During his pastorate the Rev. Mr. Miner has also worked with civic groups of the community.

Presently he serves on the Pontiac Citizens' Committee on Youth, the committee for Conference on Public Welfare, and as a trustee of Michigan Cancer Foundation, Oakland County Branch.

Pastor Miner is vice president of Wolverine State Congress of Christian Education, and secretary of the Metropolitan District Association.

The Miners have four sons, Lenworth R. Jr. with the Navy, stationed in Guam; Wilford, a student at Western University; Major, a student at Eastern University; and Dennis who attends Jefferson Junior High School.

Mrs. Lula Robinson is general chairman of the anniversary celebration; Mrs. Annie B. Snoddy, cochairman; and Mrs. Nellie E. Alexander, secretary.

Mrs. Ella D. Hardy and Mrs. Dorothy Owens are in charge of the programs.

★ ★ ★

Local congregations will be guests as will the Rev. E. A. Rundless and members of New Liberty Baptist Church, Detroit. The Rev. Dr. T. S. Boone and congregation of King Solomon Baptist Church, Detroit, will also be present.

Services will continue through Tuesday when all Churches of Christ in Southern Michigan will join in the meeting.

Ali B. Jarmen of Homer, Alaska, will be the speaker for the three evenings.

Service Set

The Rev. Pearl Williams will speak at the 7:30 p.m. service tomorrow in St. Martin Prophecy Church, 389 Orchard Lake. The Pontiac Spirituals will sing.

Show Film

Highlights of the World Series will be shown in the film "The Year of the Tiger" during the Father and Son Banquet at Crescent Hills Baptist Church, Waterford Township, Friday evening. The public is invited.

Breakfast Set for Sunday

The missionary department of New Hope Baptist Church will serve breakfast at Hayes Jones Center, Wessen and Bagley, from 8 to 11 a.m. tomorrow.

At 4 p.m. the youth department will sponsor a program at the church, 392 Bloomfield. The Rev. W. L. Cohen will speak and the Youth Choir will sing. Glayds Chappell is president of the group. The Rev. Jesse Long is pastor.

Character and personal force are the only investments that are worth anything — Walt Whitman, American poet.

Clothier Girls Win Contest

Colleen, Kathy and Jeanine Clothier of 1018 Arlene have returned from Kitchener, Ont. where they won the singing contest sponsored by Emmanuel Bible College.

★ ★ ★

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Clothier, they were the only entries from the United States. Others were from Ontario.

All of the contestants attended junior or senior high schools.

The songs the girls sang were "Freedom" and "Castle of Love", with words and music written by Kathy.

The group has made many appearances with Youth for Christ teen teams in the Pontiac Area. The three girls are active in the choir of First United Missionary Church, 149 N. East Blvd.

Colleen and Kathy are students at Pontiac Northern High School and Jeanine attends Madison Junior High. The three take part in choir and band groups.

On June 1 the girls will appear in the Banfield Memorial and Stoville Missionary churches in Toronto, Ont. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Venstra, missionary interns from the Pontiac church, will accompany the girls.

Sunnyvale Chapel Presents Musicale

The 50-voice Chorale of Grace Bible Institute directed by Prof. Henry Wiebe will present a sacred Concert at 11 a.m. tomorrow in Sunnyvale Chapel, 5311 Pontiac Lake, Waterford Township.

The Omaha Chorale has a repertoire of sacred selections, hymns and gospel songs by master composers and contemporary arrangers.

A brass ensemble, a men's quartet and a ladies' trio will also be a part of the musical program.

★ ★ ★

A traditional "say-so" session of spontaneous witness by members will be included. Dr. Waldo Harder, president of the college, will bring the morning message.

Young People Present Play

Young people of Mt. Olive Baptist Church, 458 Central, will present a play entitled "The Devil's Funeral" at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The performance is under the direction of Mrs. Ardell Bell, youth director; and Mrs. Henry Carroll, program chairman. Refreshments will follow. The public is invited.

List Services

Bishop Austin Johnson of the Assembly of Faith Congregational Church, Delray, will preach at Bray Temple Methodist Church, Rockwell and Gagley at 4 p.m. tomorrow. At 7:30 p.m. The Goldenettes, a local singing group, will present a musical program. The Rev. H. V. Grissom is pastor. Mrs. Fannie B. Potter is program chairman.

Bible Way Church to Honor Minister

The Rev. Robert Grant and congregation of Detroit will be guests at Bible Way Missionary Baptist Church, 188 S. East Blvd. for the 3:30 p.m. service.

During the afternoon Pastor Charles Warren will be honored with an appreciation program for his work with the church, and for his concern and gathering of food and funds for the poor people in southern Mississippi.

★ ★ ★

"These meditations are not written to glorify nature, but to attempt to let God speak to us by our becoming sensitive to His world," he added.

Copies of the book will be available.

Guests Invited to Providence

The organ committee of Providence Missionary Baptist Church, 311 Bagley, will be host to the Rev. M. E. Venson and congregation of St. John Baptist Church, Detroit, at the 3:30 p.m. service tomorrow.

★

The Pastor's Chorus of the local church will offer several selections. Mrs. Virginia Cohn is chairman. The Rev. C. L. Goodwin is pastor.

Public Expectations Worry Farmer

HEW Aide 'Well Received'

JAMES FARMER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When James Farmer took a job in the Nixon administration, there was some speculation that he would be regarded by other Negroes as an Uncle Tom. Now the problem seems to be at the opposite extreme.

"I almost have the feeling that I'm the Great Black Hope," Farmer said after completing a six-week lecture tour prior to settling into his office as an assistant secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

The former national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) said he is "tremendously well received" in his swing around the country after the announcement of his appointment.

In fact, he said in the interview, whites as well as blacks may be expecting him to achieve the impossible.

NOT POSSIBLE

"One of the things that concerns me is that expectations are so high that they cannot possibly be met," Farmer said.

Farmer, who expects to have a voice in HEW policy-making across its broad jurisdiction, said he tried to "scale down" overly optimistic hopes of many people during his lecture tour by setting realistic goals.

But Farmer also said it is his intention to get action from the federal government "by using these expectations for additional leverage."

FEW SPECIFICS

Interviewed a short time after his swearing-in, the heavy-set, 48-year-old, booming-voiced assistant secretary was unable to talk in detail about the status of current HEW problems. But he is more than willing to discuss problems of racial relations in the United States and his ideas for solving them.

Farmer entertains no illusions about the possibilities of achieving true integration soon.

"The fact of the matter is that the sum total of integration has declined," he said. "We have managed to achieve desegregation here and there on Friday night, and on Monday morning, find it is resegregated by flight.

"So we've been running up a down escalator there.

"I still maintain integration has to be an ultimate objective, but I see more immediate objectives."

Farmer said the new view of many Negroes, especially the young, is that a kind of "ethnic cohesiveness" should be emphasized rather than efforts to integrate or "disperse" throughout the white-dominated society.

"Dispersion advocates assume the nation is a melting pot" and that individuals can enter the mainstream of society as individuals, he said.

"I don't believe that is quite true. I believe there has to be entry as a group and then they make it or fail to make it as individuals."

Farmer pictured the new "cohesiveness" of blacks as an element of a new strategy to "checkmate racism."

"Racism is very strong and we do the nation and ourselves an injustice and disservice if we deny it," he said.

Farmer said he was talking less about outright hate than about racial "images, stereotypes" implanted in white Americans' minds.

Efforts to "erase racism from the culture" through education and other available means, even with adequate funds, personnel and commitment, cannot show results before "a couple of generations," he declared. "That needs to be done, but we can't wait."

Farmer added: "A second way is to checkmate racism, to concentrate more on reducing the capacity of racism to damage people."

Computers Helping Cities Unsnarl Traffic

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

Experiments in a handful of American cities to use computers to untangle worsening traffic jams are showing encouraging but not spectacular results.

Among the pioneering cities with computer experiments are Chicago, Detroit, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., San Jose, Calif., and three Texas cities—Houston, Austin and Wichita Falls.

★ ★ ★

Officials in San Jose, a city of 400,000, say computer control of 60 lights in a 35-block downtown area has speeded traffic there.

John Hudson, associate director of traffic and transportation for Austin, reported: "Speed has increased 10 miles an hour and the number of times you have to stop has decreased. As a result, there have been fewer accidents." Computers control 42 signal lights in the University of Texas area.

SIMILAR FINDINGS

In Wichita Falls, a city of more than 100,000, officials report a 9 per cent drop in accidents and a 45 per cent drop in the time motorists spend waiting at red lights.

However, computer experiments have so far been unsuccessful in coping with the substantially larger traffic headaches of New York City. After three years of delay, the city is still without an experimental installation and a second manufacturer of components is now involved. One veteran engineer there called the study so far "an engineering fiasco."

Basically, the computer systems use a sensing device to measure the volume of moving or waiting traffic at key spots. This is fed to computers which have been programmed with background on local conditions. The computers then direct the signal lights, telling how much "green time" should be flashed in each direction to open up the traffic flow.

The U.S. Department of Transportation has set aside $200 million for the 1970 fiscal year for major innovations in traffic control, and computers head the list.

CLOSED-CIRCUIT TV

At Houston, the Texas Transportation Institute uses closed-circuit television and a computer to reduce traffic jams along a 6.5-mile inbound stretch of the Gulf Freeway.

Dr. Johan Buhr, a traffic engineer, said traffic volume has increased 10 per cent, yet speeds have gone up 30 per cent and rush hour accidents have been cut nearly in half.

★ ★ ★

Sensing devices located at intervals along the right-hand freeway lane detect gaps in traffic during peak hours.

"When a traffic gap is detected, the computer turns an on-ramp traffic light green so that a motorist reacting in an average manner will reach the freeway at the right time to merge into the gap," Buhr said.

DETROIT, CHICAGO

The Detroit and Chicago systems are similar to Houston's. A four-mile northbound stretch of John Lodge Freeway in Detroit is monitored during rush hours. A three-mile strip on Chicago's Eisenhower Expressway is under computer surveillance.

★ ★ ★

In Wichita Falls, measuring devices buried in the pavement transmit traffic information instantly to a data acquisition and control system which automatically synchronizes traffic lights at 77 intersections.

★ ★ ★

Fort Lauderdale uses a computer that has been essentially limited to inbound-outbound traffic counts, yet has one unique feature: 28 lighted, overhead signs, linked by computer to the stoplights, automatically display the speed for which the signals are set.

What Do Movie Stars Do With Oscar After Winning It?

BY DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — With past Oscar winners, it's the mantelpiece, 2-to-1.

This year, on April 14, there will be another flock of the little statuettes handed out. If tradition is followed, most of them will wind up sitting on someone's mantel, too.

To find out what happened to the Oscars of the past, I asked many winners what they've done with theirs. Here is what they have to say on the subject:

Ed Begley keeps his on his piano, along with other awards he has won. But when he goes on a trip, he is afraid to leave it alone in the house, where it might tempt burglars. He packs it in a green velvet box and puts it in his safe deposit vault for the duration.

TRAVELING OSCAR

Bette Davis has hers on the mantel over the fireplace.

David Niven has a traveling Oscar. It goes where he goes. It winters with him in the Swiss Alps and summers with him on the French Riviera. It has a nice life.

* * *

George Kennedy keeps his on the mantel — although the first night he brought it home, his daughter took it to bed with her.

Fred Zinneman has his in his den — "but you have to look hard for it, it isn't prominently displayed."

USED AS BOOKEND

Mike Nichols' Oscar is on his mantel.

Jane Wyman uses her as a bookend.

Rod Steiger's Oscar is one of two treasures in his New York apartment. The other is is a bust of Ernest Hemingway, whom Rod admires tremendously.

* * *

"Every time I look at the Oscar," Rod says, "and feel my ego swelling, I quickly look over at Hemingway and humility sets in."

Elizabeth Taylor's two are in residence at the Burton-Taylor chalet in Gstaad, Switzerland. There is no mantel, so they live on an elevated crossbeam in the living room.

IN STORAGE

Van Heflin currently has no house, since his divorce, and lives in an apartment. His Oscar is in storage, in (appropriately) a theatrical trunk in the basement. But he has bought property at a new marina and the plans call for a den, and Heflin is going to have a special place in the den for Oscar.

* * *

Designer Helen Rose has hers on her mantel — but it's not an ordinary mantel. She had an immense marble mantel built, with two niches built in for her two Oscars.

* * *

Shelly Winters has two Oscars, sitting on the mantel in her living room in New York. But she's about to move to a new apartment — "and I'm thinking of having the mantel moved to my new place."

Red Buttons' Oscar is another mantel-dweller, but not completely.

'HALF AND HALF'

"I keep it half on my mantel," Red says, "and half in my heart."

Most winners surround the Oscar with other awards or cherished souvenirs.

* * *

Julie Andrews has hers amid dozens of other trophies. James Stewart's statuette is against a wall of favorite stills from his movies.

* * *

Designer Bill Travilla's is parked right under a framed invitation to the White House from Mrs. Lyndon Johnson. Susan Hayward has hers in a case in her trophy room in Florida, in and among fishing trophies.

And then there is Olivia De-Havilland's collection. She writes, from Paris:

"I am looking at them (her Oscars) right now, here in my little boudoir overlooking my garden. They are standing on a shelf of some specially made gray-and-cream bookcases.

"Below them is the red and gold of the Encyclopaedia Britannica; behind them, leaning against the Bordeaux velvet-papered wall, are arranged my five Academy nominations.

"On the shelf above them are disposed my three Look Awards (very handsome black plaques, adorned with a gold medallion); my French Winged Victory Award; my two Cine Review Awards; my National Board of Review of Motion Pictures Award and my Silver Mask Award for "The Snake Pit."

"On the top shelf, and taking the central position, is one of my recent awards . . ."

And so on through several more paragraphs, and several more shelves. Oscar, in Paris, is in good company.

We IRS Targets Seek Shelter From A-Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As April 15 closes in, many Form 1040 victims are grumbling about the situation that enabled a number of millionaires to avoid paying any income taxes last year.

WEST

Some less-affluent taxpayers have demanded that Congress close the tax shelters in which the millionaires found protection.

★ ★ ★

Others have demanded that Congress expand the shelters so that they won't have to pay any taxes, either.

★ ★ ★

Since tax legislation originates in the House Committee on Ways and Means and Loopholes, I contacted a staff expert to get his views on the matter.

HARD TO DISLODGE

"You've got to realize that it isn't easy to dislodge a millionaire from a tax shelter once he is well dug in," he said. "The big problem is finding the shelter in the first place.

★ ★ ★

"They can't be seen from the air, so aerial reconnaissance is useless. Some of them are so artfully camouflaged you could walk right by them and never know they were there.

★ ★ ★

"Our research laboratory has developed some new equipment, such as infrared sensory devices, to help us locate hidden tax shelters. Once we get a shelter pinpointed, the standard technique is to uncover the entrance and drop in a tear gas bomb to flush the millionaires out.

"But often we find that by the time we zero in on a shelter, the millionaires will have already vacated it and moved on to another shelter.

HONEYCOMBED

"The income tax law runs to 930 pages, with an additional 17,000 pages of court interpretations and Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regulations. This vast legal thicket is honeycombed with shelters.

★ ★ ★

"Most of the shelters are spacious and well stocked with provisions. A millionaire who holes up in a tax shelter can survive almost indefinitely."

★ ★ ★

I said, "Well, what are the prospects of constructing a nationwide system of public shelters so that all citizens will have tax protection?"

★ ★ ★

"The cost would be prohibitive," he said. "It would be impossible to provide shelters for the entire population without raising taxes. Which would make the program self-defeating."

"Then what would you recommend?"

★ ★ ★

"I think the best plan might be to create a federal tax defense agency that could supply free blueprints to citizens interested in building their own tax shelters.

★ ★ ★

"Individual shelters can be erected with minimal expense. They won't provide complete protection, but they will usually withstand anything except a direct hit by an IRS auditor."

The rate for uterine cancer has dropped 50 per cent since 1935 because of improved detection methods.

Early Birds Foil Par-Busters at Masters

AP Wirephoto

AUSSIE SHOWS HIS 'ENGLISH'—Australian Bruce Devlin encourages his 35-foot putt from the edge of the 18th green with an emphatic display of "body English" and is happily rewarded with a birdie as the ball drops in the cup. The energetic birdie put him in a first-place tie with Billy Casper at 137, seven-under-par for 36 holes. With the course toughened after Thursday's rash of low scores, Devlin still managed to come in one stroke better than Casper yesterday, posting a 70. The field was cut at 148 and the final two rounds are scheduled for today and Sunday.

Casper, Devlin Deadlocked for Lead After 2nd Round

By FLETCHER SPEARS

AUGUSTA Ga. — A bit of early morning labor by noncontestants tightened the rein on the par-busters here in the 33rd Masters golf championship.

After 23 players slipped under par in the opening round yesterday over the lush rolling 6,980-yard National golf club, the pin placement committee went to work and the effort of that trip forced the field of 82 to toil at hard labor in yesterday's second round. Only 16 beat par.

★ ★ ★

"After yesterday (Thursday) I think they were trying to get even," chuckled South African Gary Player, who could afford a laugh since his two under par 70 was one of the best rounds of the day.

The 70 gave Player, the only foreign entrant ever to win the Masters, a 36-hole total of 144 and insured his presence here for the final 36 holes.

Sharing the top spot with seven under par 137 as play opened in the third round today were first round pace setter Billy Casper Jr. of California and Australian Bruce Devlin.

THREE SHOTS BEHIND

Neither has ever won here although both have come close. Three shots off the pace a 140 were former cowboy George Archer of California and Dan Sikes of Jacksonville Fla.

Among a crowd at 142 were Buick Open champion Tom Weiskopf, just rounding into shape after a six-month stint with the U.S. Army, and former PGA champion Al Geiberger.

★ ★ ★

Among those failing to make the cut (148 or better) were Argentine Roberto de Vicenzo, runner up last year and 58 year old former champion Sam Snead.

Defending champion Bob Goalby checked in with a 76 to go with his opening round 70 for a 146.

★ ★ ★

"The course is about as tough as I've ever seen it," signed Nicklaus, who had a wild day with bogies and birdies en route to a 75. The leaders were in general agreement concerning the condition and the difficulty of the course — excellent and tough.

MADE PLAY DIFFICULT

The toughness could be attributed to the trip of former player Denny Shute (some players insisted the name should be reversed) of Akron, Jon W. Fischer of Cincinnati and Julian Roberts of Atlanta who make up the pin placement committee.

Casper, last year's top money winner on the tour with $205,000, lost a stroke to par on the front side, but rammed home a couple of birdie putts on the incoming nine for his 71.

★ ★ ★

Devlin a slender 31-year-old former plumber, started like Casper with a one over 37 on the front, but the alert Aussie collected birdie putts on Nos. 10 and 11 and finished with a birdie on 18 for an incoming 33.

★ ★ ★

Obviously disgusted with his round, Nicklaus observed that "I couldn't get it close to the hole, up to the hole or in the hole." He had 37 putts while collecting six bogies and three birdies.

DOWNHILL PUTTS

"The (pin) placements were much harder than yesterday," said Sikes. "Nobody is doing anything outstanding out there. Some of those holes are inacessible and you end up with a lot of downhill putts. And there are a lot where you can easily three-putt from 15 feet."

Archer, considered one of the better putters about had three, three-putt greens in his 73 and a ready explanation for his demise.

★ ★ ★

"The secret here is in the putting," he offered.

"I three-putted those greens because I'm not used to greens like those with steep slopes between two plateaus. There aren't any other courses on the tour with greens like that. We usually play greens with very gentle slopes."

★ ★ ★

Archer conceded that he's a "pretty good putter from 20 feet in" and added, "but I don't rate myself a good long putter. I don't practice these long putts because we don't get much of that on the rest of the tour. We usually have only two or three holes where we'll face putts of more than 30 feet.

★ ★ ★

Sikes calls Casper one of the game's top wedge players and Bill had to use all of that skill in a scrambling to a 71 yesterday. Like the others, Casper found the greens difficult.

"I hit some real good shots out there that wound up over the green" said Casper.

It was one of those games yesterday that the Detroit Tigers had to get out of their system.

At least manager Mayo Smith hopes so.

The Tigers outhit the New York Yankees, 10 hits to nine, but committed four errors, left 13 men on base and lost a 9-4 decision.

★ ★ ★

It will be up to Denny McLain to get the Bengals back to winning ways today, but Mel Stottlemyre, the ace of the Yankee mound staff, may have other ideas.

Tomorrow, in a 1:30 p.m. game, the probable starters will be Joe Sparma going against the 1968 American League rookie of the year, Stan Bahnsen.

Earl Wilson, yesterday's starter, looked better than he did anytime in spring training. However, the Yankees took advantage of the Tigers' faculty fielding and had a field day stealing bases as well.

Wilson gave up only four hits and struck out eight in his seven innings, but the first two runs New York scored were unearned and the Bengal hurler had one of the four bad Detroit miscues.

BIG HIT MISSING

New York rookie Bill Burbach, starting his first major leage game, found himself in trouble on a couple occasions but worked his way out of it as the Tigers couldn't come up with the big hit with runners in key positions.

The first New York run in the fourth inning came after Norm Cash dropped a throw at first on a grounder by Bob Murcer. Murcer stole second base and scored on Joe Pepitone's double.

In the sixth inning after a walk to Murcer, a passed ball advanced the runner. Wilson then took a sacrifice attempt by Roy White and threw the ball into right field, allowing Murcer to score.

The Tigers, who managed only three hits off Burbach, appeared to be back in their 1968 form of getting the big runs in the seventh inning or later.

CALL FOR RELIEF

In the seventh, Don Wert singled, Wilson singled and Yankee manager Ralph Houk wasted no time in removing the big 6-foot-4 rookie.

Lindy McDaniel came in and fanned Dick McAuliffe. Mickey Stanley, back at shortstop after a stint at first base, singled home Wert.

After Kaline went down swinging, Norm Cash walked to load the bases. Shortstop Gene Michaels booted Willie Horton's short grounder and Wilson scored the tying run.

★ ★ ★

But Jim Northrup ended the inning with a ground ball.

After Murcer singled in the eighth with one out, Roy White hit one of Wilson's pitches into the right field seats, just inside the 325 foot marker, to give the Yanks a 4-2 lead and that was all for Wilson.

John Hiller could not stop the Yanks as Pepitone — who had a homer, double and two singles in the game — hit to right and went to second on his second stolen base.

Michaels walked and Bill Robinson singled home Pepitone for another run.

In the bottom of the eighth, Freehan's third hit of the game started the inning. With two outs McAuliffe walked, Stanley singled home Freehan, but the two runners were left as Kaline went down swinging.

★ ★ ★

Dick Radatz, who earned his way up from Toledo with a good showing in Florida, gave up the four Yankee runs in the ninth on two singles, an error and Pepitone's first homer of the season.

Freehan's sacrifice fly brought Norm Cash in with the final Tiger run.

MAKES WRONG MOVE—Although the New York Yankees pilfered five bases yesterday on the Tigers, who also were charged with four errors, the Bronx Bombers were unsuccessful on this try to force the Detroit defense into a mistake. Jack Gibbs (41), the Yankees' catcher, slides into the tag of Don Wert while attempting to advance from second base to third when Horace Clarke grounded to shortstop Mickey Stanley in the third inning.

Graebner Keeps Going

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Top-seeded Clark Graebner of New York walloped Bill Bowrey, No. 1 in Australia, 6-4, 6-2 Friday in the Carolinas International Tennis Tournament.

KRUEGER SETS RECORD—Hazel Park's Warren Krueger (center) strains for the tape and a record 9:28.8 clocking, one-tenth faster than Granville (Ohio) entrant Jim Alexander (left) at the finish of Friday's two-mile run in the prestigious Mansfield (Ohio) Relays. Competition continues today with Pontiac Central the defending team champion.

High-Low Scores Recorded

Amateur Joins Select Masters Company

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Young Marvin Giles III joined some select company with his hot-and-cold performance in the first two rounds of the 33rd Masters golf championship.

Giles, 22, a University of Virginia law student, was low amateur here last year opening round 80.

Although he stood little chance of making the cut, Giles came back yesterday with a three-under-par 69, one of the day's top scores, for a 149, missing the cut by a stroke.

Giles' scores bring to mind what can happen on this tough 6,980-yard Augusta National golf club.

TIED FOR LEAD

Back in 1951 Sam Snead, like Giles among the cutoff victims yesterday, started the final round tied for the lead with Skee Riegel at 211.

But disaster struck. Snead went from a third round 68 to a final round 80. Another wild score in the same tournament was recorded by amateur William (Dynamite) Goodloe Jr. He started the final round as the leading amateur and scored an 88 after a third-round 72.

Best bet for amateur stardom here this year is 20-year-old Miami-Dade (Fla.) junior college sophomore Bruce Fleisher, who won the U.S. Amateur championship last year at Columbus, Ohio, on Jack Nicklaus's old stomping grounds — with an even-par 288, but he shot himself out of the tournament Thursday with an

Best bet for amateur stardom here this year is 20-year-old Miami-Dade (Fla.) junior college sophomore Bruce Fleisher, who won the U.S. Amateur championship last year at Columbus, Ohio, on Jack Nicklaus's old stomping grounds — Scioto Country Club. Fleisher, who carded a 69 while playing with Arnold Palmer Thursday, was paired with Bill Casper in yesterday's second round. Fleisher managed a 75 and sits at even-par 144 for the tournament.

A late appearance on the tee cost Tommy Horton of England two strokes.

Tigers to Lose Lolich April 19

Tiger Manager Mayo Smith said yesterday that Mickey Lolich will be lost to Detroit from April 19 to May 3 because of National Guard duty.

Smith said either Pat Dobson or John Hiller would be the team's fourth starting pitcher to take up the vacancy in the rotation.

★ ★ ★

Al Kaline said the outfield is the worst it has been in years. "It is real bumpy," he added.

"If they would roll it it would be okay," said teammate Jim Northrup.

Michigan State Coach Stricken

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State Basketball Coach John Benington was placed in the intensive observation unit at Lansing's Edward W. Sparrow Hospital Friday following a heart attack.

Dr. James Feurig described his condition as "critical," but said he was "holding his own."

Feurig said Benington suffered a coronary following a game of paddleball at the MSU campus.

Benington, 47, the father of nine children, has been head basketball coach for the Spartans for four years.

3 Senators Blank Baltimore Attack

BALTIMORE (AP)—Barry Moore, Casey Cox and Dennis Higgins combined to blank the Baltimore Orioles 4-0 on six hits Friday night as the Washington Senators won their third straight game after losing the season opener.

The Senators, who took a .361 batting average into the game, were held pretty well in check by loser Jim Hardin, but a Boog Powell error led to three unearned runs in the third inning.

★ ★ ★

A bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Mike Epstein scored the first run and after another walk reloaded the bases, Tim Cullen delivered a two-run single.

Ed Brinkman's first home run since 1967 upped Washington's lead to 4-0 in the sixth.

Dave Johnson's leadoff double in the seventh, fifth hit for Baltimore, chased Moore and brought on Cox, who retired the side after issuing a walk.

★ ★ ★

A single by Frank Robinson and a pair of two-out walks loaded the bases for Baltimore in the eighth before Higgins retired pinch hitter Clay Dalrymple on a tap to the mound.

Smith, Hilton Lead Milford

Dan Smith and Dave Hilton each won two events yesterday as Milford downed Clio, 65-53, for its second straight track victory.

Smith captured the 100 and 220, ran a leg on the winning 880 relay team and placed third in the long jump. Hilton was first in the high and low hurdles.

The Redskins had spotted Clio a big lead in the field events.

Pistons Fined

DETROIT (AP) — Jimmy Walker was fined $500 and Otto Moore $100 Friday by Edwin E. Coil, manager of the Detroit Pistons pro basketball team. Coil said they violated their NBA contracts by participating in the recent Michigan Open Basketball tourney in Flint.

Ground Ball Gives Boston Win in 16th

CLEVELAND (AP) — Singles by Rico Petrocelli and Russ Gibson and pinch-hitter George Thomas' ground out brought home the winning run as Boston nipped Cleveland 2-1 Friday in 16 innings.

Petrocelli and Gibson stroked their hits with one out off loser Jack Hamilton before Thomas batted for winning pitcher Bill Landis and grounded out to second, Petrocelli scoring.

Gary Bell Hurls, Bats New Team to Easy Triumph

SEATTLE (AP) — Gary Bell doubled home two runs, scored another and hurled a six-hitter Friday as the expansion Seattle Pilots routed the Chicago White Sox 7-0 in their first home game in the American League.

Beel, drafted from the Boston Red Sox, was given a 3-0 lead on Rich Rollins' run-scoring single in the first inning and Don Mincher's two-run homer in the third off loser Joe Horlen. It was Mincher's second homer of the season.

Bell had only one serious jam, in the third when the White Sox loaded the bases with one out, but Bell struck out Don Pavletich and Buddy Bradford to get out of the inning.

PREVIEW OF STRATEGY—Leading 6-2 in the second inning Friday afternoon against Clarkston, Waterford Mott wanted to squeeze in an insurance run. Gary McIlroy (33) drops what seems to be a perfect bunt to bring home teammate Bill Ziem (23) as Clarkston catcher Bob Klann chases the ball. But McIlroy's bunt hit him while he was still in the batter's box and was ruled fouled. Two pitches later he made sure by bouncing his bunt high off the plate and Ziem again sped in standing up for the fifth run of the Corsairs' big inning.

Smart Parents Display Skills in 3 Title Matches

Pop and Mom showed they could operate either as singles or a duo Thursday night when the Smart look prevailed in the 1969 Pontiac Table Tennis Association's championship playoffs.

Dudley and Barbara Smart and their sons Jeff, 15, and Tim, 13, won the team title in the annual playoffs. Actually, the final results were West Side Mobil 4, China City 2.

★ ★ ★

The Smart family is the West Side Mobil team, setting a precedent for the PTTA League since no family unit has ever won the championship before.

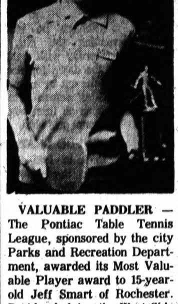
"Dud" Smart upended Vic Doig, 18-21, 21-16, 21-16, and his wife Barb defeated Marilyn Goff, 21-17, 21-18; but the China City crew evened the score with singles victories over the boys.

★ ★ ★

Alex Kelin dumpel Jeff, 21-13, 21-12, and Ken Goff Jr., outlasted Tim, 24-22, 21-19. However, the teen-agers bounced back to combine on a 22-20, 21-6 doubles triumph over Max Kelin and Doig.

The elder Smarts sewed up the championship with a 21-18, 21-17 conquest of the Goffs.

The PTTA also staged a handicap tournament after the regular season and the winners were Jim Ahearn, men's singles; Shirley Dobson, women's singles; Doug Johnson, junior singles; Jim Fiar and Dave Mehlberg, men's doubles; Marilyn Goff and Nancy Heyd, women's doubles; and Sue Osler and Bill Cashin, mixed doubles.



VALUABLE PADDLER — The Pontiac Table Tennis League, sponsored by the city Parks and Recreation Department, awarded its Most Valuable Player award to 15-year-old Jeff Smart of Rochester. Besides helping the West Side Mobil team to the championship, Jeff teamed with Bill Lester recently at Detroit's Cobo Hall to capture the state boys 17-and-under doubles crown.

Petite Jockey Takes Spill at Gulfstream Park

MIAMI (AP) — Petite Diane Crump, first woman jockey to ride against men at a major american track, was knocked unconscious Friday when her horse went down in a bad spill in the fourth race at gulfstream park.

Miss Crump was aboard Misquoia when the horse appeared to clip the heels of Mickey Rablero and Stumble. Misquoia fell, pitching the slender girl to the ground.

Putter Power, ridden by Don Brumfield, fell over Misquoia, throwing Brumfield. Apprentice Bobby Breen, on Bouncing Swifty, veered to the outside and also fell off.

Miss Crump came to in an ambulance as she was rushed to the first aid room at the track.

At the first aid room, Mrs. Betty Waterbury said Miss Crump's injuries didn't appear to be serious.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The University of Tulsa's baseball team defeated Southern Methodist 8-1 Friday for its 20th straight victory.

Corsairs Club Wolves, 8-5, in 1st Game

Waterford Mott turned its hitters loose in the opening two innings and then Randy Cooper and Doug Gaines held off Clarkston's Wolves the rest of the way for an 8-5 opening game victory Friday.

The first three Corsair hitters reached base in the opening inning for a quick 2-0 lead. Roger Strader's first of three hits was a long triple to left field, Bill Ziem doubled to right and Terry Ruffatto's liner to right center went for two bases.

★ ★ ★

The Wolves — losing their third in a row after an opening win — tied the count on a sharp three-bagger to center by Steve Warman, Bob Klann's single and stolen base, and Mike Thomas's run-scoring safety to center in the next inning.

QUICK RESPONSE

But Strader singled home two runs, and Ruffatto did likewise to highlight a five-run last of the second by Mott.

Strader added another single and figured in four runs for Mott, while Ruffatto also had another single and three runs batted in.

Clarkston 021 100 1—5 8 3
Waterford Mott 250 100 x—8 9 2

Yale Track Power Prevails at Imlay

Yale won 9 of the 14 events Friday afternoon to take a triangular track meet from Imlay City and Lakeville.

The winners had 6 points while Imlay and Lakeville tied at 41. Both Yale and the Imlay's Chiefs are members of the Greater Thumb B League.

Mark Dodge of the Chiefs won the hurdles in :17.3 and :22.9. Imlay is now 0-2 in league meets.

A LITTLE UNCOMFORTABLE—The going grew hotter Friday for Billy Casper at the Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Course. Difficult pin placements caused the veteran from California to drop five strokes off his performance of the opening round. Casper's 66-71 rounds find him tied now for first place with Bruce Devlin, seven strokes under par after 36 holes.

Gary Hall, 17, Twice Betters Medley Mark

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A 17-year-old California high school senior showed not once but twice in the National AAU Indoor Swimming and Diving championships that he could beat the 400-yard individual medley America record.

Gary Hall of nearby Garden Grove had bettered the listed American record during a qualifying heat earlier Friday with 4:083. The listed record of 4:08.90 was set in 1965 by Greg Buckingham of the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club.

★ ★ ★

Then in the actual competition, Hall did even better with a 4:00.85 in a field that included Hans Fassnacht, a Long Beach State College student who had set the pending record of 4:07.70 last March 28 at Bloomington, Ind.

Fassnacht placed third Friday with a time of 4:10.72. Dave Johnson of Yale was second with 4:10.40. There is no world record for the event, swum in a 25-yard pool.

Lynn Vadali of the Santa Clara club won the women's 400-yard individual medley with 4:36.78.

Stolen Hockey Trophies Found

TORONTO (AP) — Three trophies stolen earlier this week from the Hockey Hall of Fame were recovered intact Friday.

★ ★ ★

Det. Harold Lambert of the metro police squad, said the trophies were found in a green plastic bag in a shed behind a vacant house in suburban etobicoke after he had received an anonymous telephone call.

There are an estimated 10 million water skiers in the United States.

By JERE CRAIG

Rule No. 27, in the rerating requirements of the American Bowling Congress, remains basically untouched after the annual convention although it seems certain an amendment will be offered at next year's gathering of the delegates.

The controversial rule, aimed primarily at controlling sandbaggers who suddenly capitalize on big handicaps at rich tournaments, did have one change and a clarification made at the annual convention this year in Milwaukee.

The change states that no one can be rerated above a 200 average; while the clarification enables the bowler's league to decide if his league average should be rerated to coincide with the new tournament average.

Thus bowlers whose average is down because of bowling in a tough house may not have to assume their higher tournament average, if they go on a spree while competing on "easier" lanes, when they resume competing in their league.

★ ★ ★

The rule, for those who need a reminder, requires a bowler to submit to a rerating if he (a), has a league average of less than 190 and averages 10 pins or better for 21 tournament games during a 12-month period.

Or (b), if he has an average 15 or more pins higher than his high league mark in each of five tournaments, based only the highest series in each of the five, during a 12-month period.

While the intent is good, the rule does appear harsh since the rerating formula calls for an assessment of 80 per cent of the difference.

★ ★ ★

It is in this area that any amendment next season is likely to concern itself. While not probably, it isn't inconceivable that a fellow with a 188 average could spurt in a series of tournaments and, under the 80 per cent rule, find himself forced to bear a 205 average.

Except now that possibility has been eliminated with the new change and others won't be penalized quite so severely either if the formula is reduced to 65 or 70 per cent.

SPARE PINS

Many leagues are wrapping up their seasons in the next few weeks. Banquets and awards presentations are planned and in some instances, election of new officers is scheduled.

This is the time to think carefully about the past season. Have your teams and individual members been on time, courteous to others when bowling and a credit to the league in their conduct?

Have disputes and misconduct been dealt with promptly and fairly? If there has been any problem with the facilities provided by the establishment or the attitude of the employees toward the league, has it been resolved satisfactorily?

★ ★ ★

The answers to these questions should reflect upon the job performed by the officers and the team representatives. Now is the time to make any necessary changes.

Don't let things slide until next August when the facts will be hazy. If someone has done a good job, let them know it. If he or she doesn't or can't accept the responsibility next season, try to draw upon that person's experience to advise the new leaders.

Much of the success for next season can be initiated right now.

★ ★ ★

Next week will see the final publication of this season's area High Score List. If your league's men or women's top performances rate as standout scores, please submit them by next Wednesday for consideration in the list.

Cubs Extend Win Streak

CHICAGO (AP)—Billy Williams singled home Don Kessinger in the 12th inning Friday to give the Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over the Montreal Expos.

★ ★ ★

Kessinger walked with two out, stole second and took third on John Bateman's wild throw. After Glenn Beckert walked Montreal brought in Dan McGinn to pitch to Williams, who singled to center, breaking up the ball game.

★ ★ ★

Carl Morton, a 25-year-old right-hander making his first big league start and Joe Niekro of the Cubs battled nine innings before each left for a pinch hitter.

Hazel Park Opens 21st Season Monday

Hazel Park Race Track opens its twenty-first season Monday with prospects bright for its most successful thoroughbred meetings.

If the weather is favorable, a crowd of more than 18,000 is expected for the initial card which features the $10,000 inaugural handicap. Ten speed specialists will go to the post for this six-furlong sprint.

Post parade for the first race will begin at 3:20 p.m.

Nobody is brash enough to come right out and say so, but there is a possibility that the opening day turnout could exceed last year's all-time record assembly of 19,751 fans who bet $1,381,555.

Hark the Herald, R. T. Dolese's Fleet Bay, is the early choice in the featured inaugural handicap.

PCHS Trackmen Suffer Beating in First Outing

Pontiac Catholic didn't have enough depth Friday afternoon as Dearborn Sacred Heart spoiled the Titans' track opener with a 70-48 victory on Northern High School's cinders.

The Titans scored well in the field events, taking a first in the high jump with Kellie Dean and a first in the pole vault with Herb Larson, plus three seconds and two thirds.

However, their chief points in the running events were scored by Pat Lenz's victory in the two-mile run, Chuck Amshay's win in the half mile, and Tim Boyer's triumph in the 100-yard dash. They managed only two seconds.

SACRED HEART 70, P. CATHOLIC 48

Pirates Add 4th Straight in Home Start

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Moose pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to their fourth straight victory Friday with a five hitter over Philadelphia, 7-1, on a 12-hit attack that included Jerry May's second home run.

* * *

An opening day crowd of 31,641 at Forbes Field saw Moose tighten up after yielding a home run to Johnny Callison in the second inning.

May's homer over the left field scoreboard opening the third tied the score, and the Pirates took the lead on May's single, a sacrifice and Matty Alou's single in the fifth.

* * *

Rookie Bob Robertson's single and Bill Mazeroskie's sacrifice fly drove in the two runs in the sixth and a double by Alou and singles by Richie Hebner and Willie Stargell increased the margin to 6-1 in the seventh.

* * *

Moose helped send the Phils down to their fourth defeat when he singled in the eighth after Freddie Patek walked. Patek scored the final run on Alou's sacrifice fly.

Torre Leads Attack

Cards Gain First Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Torre, who had only one hit in his first 14 at bats this season rapped a single, a double and a homer Friday as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Mets 6-3 for their victory of the season.

The Cardinals, who have won the National League pennant the past two years, lost their first three games to Pittsburgh.

Torre, acquired last month from Atlanta for Orlando Cepeda, singled in the first inning after Vada Pinson had doubled home Lou Brock.

* * *

Then he triggered a two-run burst in the third with a double and in the seventh sealed the Cards' triumph with his first home run, a 400-foot blast well over the left field wall. All of his hits were off Met starter Jerry Koosman.

METS RALLY

The Mets rallied in the eighth, scoring a run with no outs on singles by Cleon Jones, Ed Charles and Ron Swoboda plus Jerry Grote's sacrifice fly.

But Joe Hoener replaced Gary Waslewski, who had relieved starter Steve Carlton after the first two singles, and pitched out of the jam by getting pinch-hitter Duffy Dyer on a pop and pinch-hitter Al Weis on a grounder.

The Mets scored their first two runs in the sixth on successive singles by Rod Gaspar Ken Boswell and Jones and an error by shortstop Dal Maxville on Swoboda's grounder.

* * *

St. Louis added two in the ninth on Pinson's double, an intentional walk to Torre and Mike Shannon's double.

Jones two-run homer in the Mets' ninth made it close.

Bullard Holds Lead in Magnolia Classic

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Jim Bullard held a one-stroke lead today as the $35,000 PGA Magnolia State Golf Classic moved into its second round.

The young rookie fired a five-under par 32-33-65 over the 35-35-70 Hattiesburg Country Club course, racing up six birdies and a bogey.

Rives McBee had five birds in his 32-34-66. His one bogey came on a missed eight-inch putt.

The event is the PGA's first satellite tournament of the year, staged under a year-old policy of providing action for pros not involved in an invitational tournament such as the Masters, under way in Augusta, Ga.

Opening lead—♣A

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

Today's hand might well cause our modern experts trouble. No one has worked out a truly scientific method of handling a nine-card suit headed by the ace-10.

The bidding in the box took place back in 1930. North and South were two of the greatest players of that day and the bidding in the box shows how they arrived at seven spades. East had no problem with his opening lead. He placed the ace of clubs on the table and North was down one.

★ ★ ★

The difference between 1930 bidding and modern bidding can be shown by listening to South's comments. His first comment was that he might well have opened with a strong two-bid. Two-bids were weaker back then but South's hand did not come close to being worth even a 1930 two-bid.

South's contention was that since he had failed to open with a two-bid, the only way he could show his strength was a jump to three no-trump. A modern player would have merely rebid three diamonds.

So would most of the top players of that day. They would be taking some chance of missing a game, but not much. From the first days of contract, most players have recognized the desirability of getting to game.

Anyway, South did rebid to three no-trump and North jumped to six spades. We do feel that a five-spade call would have been sounder, and South pointed out in several well-chosen words that if North had just bid five spades, South would have carried on to six.

On the other hand, no one twisted South's arm to make him bid the grand slam. He was flying blind in a fog when he made that bid and had no reason to jeopardize game, small slam and rubber.

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1♣	Pass	1♥
Pass	1♠	Pass	2♥
Pass	3♦	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠Q 2 ♥A 10 9 8 7 6 5 ♦8 6 ♣4 2

What do you do now?

A—Pass. Your partner may be trying for a slam but his first rebid was only one spade. Don't tilt at windmills.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding one spade, your partner has jumped to three clubs. You bid three hearts and he raises to four hearts. What do you do now?

Astrological Forecast

By Sydney Omarr
For Sunday

RECREATION HINT: Lunar position favorable for fishing. Activity connected with feet, such as hiking and dancing, Proves rewarding. Church or community theater project offers fine creative outlet.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Not wise to embark upon journey unless really necessary. There are secrets which could affect you. Entire story has yet to be told. Know this—be quiet within. Take it easy.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Relax with friends—but keep business out of it. Small debate is fine—proves stimulating. Not wise, however, to belittle opinions of others. Sense of humor proves a great ally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Conflict of interest could involve mate, partner, important to finish, complete. Permit one close to you to have a say. If patient, picture becomes clear. Think over legal aspects.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may be busy with basic chores. Apply touch of originality. Neighbor, co-worker is willing to aid—accept. Avoid extremes in exercise, eating and drinking. Maintain balance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are stimulated. Creative forces surge. Personal magnetism rises. Opposite sex is attracted. Don't give up something of value for nothing. Control emotions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Come to agreement about situation at home. Take no action until one close to you is consulted. This will prevent emotional wear and tear.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Some relatives prove argumentative. Stick to facts. Be aware of details. Attend to necessities. You get news which enhances employment picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep promise made to children. Special outing could prove rewarding. Steer clear of dispute with member of opposite sex. Make intelligent concession.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You can clear path of obstacles. Co-operation gained from those who hold key to security. Stick close to home base, if practical. Think about gift for loved one.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Apply light touch. Leave details to others. Pursue artistic interests. Develop hobby. Day for visits and visiting. Be free with compliments. Help make others joyous.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friend aids you with special collection. Get accounting. Be practical about finances. Activity indicated in connection with benefit. Be gracious host firm.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Real progress indicated if you are courteous to one in authority. You may be tested. Know this and smile. Accent on opportunity, career potential.

IF SUNDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY change of residence, domestic adjustment could be in offing. You are capable of moving mountains—when you have faith.

For Monday

MENU TIP: Feature color red in food preparations. Do wonders with tomatoes. Feature lively sauces. Don't be afraid of spices. Check cookbook for Mexican specialities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Partnership could split. Hold fast to principles. Plenty of temptation. But realize long-range profit depends upon current delivery. Male partner is restless. Show you are solid.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): What you attempt to keep under cover could be exposed. Maintain balance. Be poised. Laugh at your own foibles. Key to love reveal what must be revealed. Word to wise should be sufficient.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Friends act in eccentric manner. Steer clear of personal involvement in disputes. Those who argue today could be allies tomorrow. Smile and bear it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Sudden change in career, employment picture. Rise above petty details. Means shake off any tendency toward envy, vindictiveness. Parent or one in authority needs understanding.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Not wise to go too far afield. Leave details to others. Your own outlook today is subject to change. Communication could be disturbing. Realize effect is but temporary. Be calm.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Finances need close attention. Read between the lines—check fine print. Don't borrow or lend beyond means. Avoid unnecessary risks. Play waiting game.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Change due in close association, including partnership. Make necessary adjustment. Many today are argumentative. Know this and be wary—especially with opposite sex. No signings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Get family backing for employment change. You tend to be restless, impulsive. You may have what you need now. But revision of methods appears to be a necessity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Road to romance may appear bumpy. You detect flaws in ideal. Sooner you face reality, the better. You will get what you want. But not in manner you expect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Conflict exists between domestic and professional obligations. Fulfill commitments. Money is involved, opportunity for advancement. Show others you are confident.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Finish rather than start. Leave long-range plans for another day. Tie up loose ends. Some ideas lack practical base. Know this and gather additional information.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Hold off on financial transactions. New contact could provide fresh viewpoint. Don't be panicked into quick buy or sale. Stress independence of thought, action.

IF MONDAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you possess intellectual curiosity. You analyze and probe depths of character—would make fine reporter, detective. Special relationship commands more-than-usual attention. Utilize intuitive powers of analysis.

What Wall Street Did

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The two opposing forces which heavily influence the direction of the stock market were dramatically evident the past week as inflation-fighting measures sent the market skidding and peace hopes pulled it up again.

The renewed hopes of some breakthrough in the Vietnam war situation were strong enough to enable the market to shake off a sharp early loss and turn in a winning performance for the week. The Dow Jones industrial average, for example, lost 8.52 Monday but then won it all back again and finished the week with a gain of 6.16 at 933.46. The week previous the Dow had lost 8.18 to 927.30.

"The stock market," according to Argus Research Corp., "is torn between conflicting emotions: Optimism is encouraged by growing hopes for an early Vietnam peace, while pessimism is fostered by the fear that disinflationary fiscal-monetary policies will inevitably slow down the economy and hurt corporate earnings.

* * *

"Periodic disclosures of peace gestures by Washington and Saigon have helped buoy the market in recent weeks in the face of new disinflationary measures by the administration and the Federal Reserve Board. On balance, investors seem to be paying more attention to the messages of peace addressed to Hanoi than to the messages of disinflation addressed to the business and financial community."

* * *

The disinflation message came the previous Thursday after the market closed when the Federal Reserve moved to increase the ediscount rate to 6 per cent from 5½ per cent and to increase by $650 million the amount of money member banks will be required to hold in reserve. The market was closed Good Friday, and Wall Street had three days to think about the Fed's action. On Monday, it got its first chance to act, and a wave of selling came that sent the various major Indicators downward.

Station in Orion Robbed of $95

An armed bandit with a nylon stocking over his face escaped with about $95 following a robbery of a Clark gas station in Orion Township early today.

The Oakland County Sheriff's Department used dogs to track the gunman but his scent was lost about a quarter mile from the station at 799 S. Lapeer.

★ ★ ★

The attendants, Jack Martin, 815 Brown, and Jesse Darnell, 3050 Clarkston, both of Orion Township, told deputies that the robber walked into the station just before 4 a.m.

It was Darnell's first day on the job, and Martin had been employed at the station only a week.

★ ★ ★

They said the gunman was white, about 17 or 18 years old, 5 foot 4, and wore a navy-blue ski jacket over dark brown or dark grey pants.

Five Will Get U-D Medals

James Roche of 425 Dunston, Bloomfield Hills, chairman of the board of General Motors Corp., will be among five recipients of the 1969 University of Detroit president's awards.

★ ★ ★

Others receiving the medals next Wednesday are Ralph Bunche, Detroit-born undersecretary-general of the United Nations; Sixten Ehrling, conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestera; Ogden Nash, a poet; and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers.

★ ★ ★

The Rev. Malcolm Carron, S.J., university president, will present the medals to the recipients for "contributing to the maintenance of the highest ideals of the American way of life."

Rural Tax Reform Meeting Monday

A meeting for all persons interested in rural tax reform is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday at the Lapeer County Center building in Lapeer.

★ ★ ★

The Lapeer County tax reform committee, headed by James Hardy of Dryden Township, will attempt to organize citizen protest against current rural property tax procedures.

NATO Embarks on Peace Quest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization, set up two decades ago as a bristling barrier to European Communist advances, cautiously embarked today on a path that could make it an instrument of lasting peace.

The NATO foreign ministers wound up a two-day anniversary conference Friday proposing to explore with the Soviets and their allies the possibilities for settling specific differences.

★ ★ ★

But they suggested a cautious, step-by-step approach and shunned a Communist plan for a general conference on European security.

The 15 NATO ministers had spent considerable time discussing an invitation issued by the Warsaw pact nations March 17 to a joint European security conference.

INDIRECT REPLY

Their final communique replied indirectly, by bypassing it.

"The allies propose, while remaining in close consultation, to explore with the Soviet Union and the other countries of Eastern Europe which concrete issues best lend themselves to fruitful negotiation and an early resolution."

★ ★ ★

The NATO ministers instructed their ambassadors at NATO's Brussels headquarters to draw up a list that might be negotiated with the Reds, to be given to the next ministerial meeting in Brussels in December.

Diplomats on the U.S. delegation headed by Secretary of State William P. Rogers said three allies did not want to appear to be rejecting the Communist offer outright, in old Cold War style.

VIEWED AS VICTORY

They said the Western leaders and public opinion favored instead focusing positively on what might be done in a practical way to ease East-West difficulties.

The outcome of the NATO deliberations was viewed by West German sources as a victory by middle-road diplomats over their foreign minister, Willy Brandt, who espoused a more favorable response to the Communist overture. However, Brandt pronounced himself satisfied with the outcome.

★ ★ ★

Tending to persuade the Western policy makers toward caution at this time has been the recently renewed Soviet pressures on Czechoslovakia, tough-worded Moscow denunciations of NATO and a Kremlin indication that the United States and Canada would be barred from at least the opening stage of the proposed European settlement conference.

The Washington communique pleased the Americans by welcoming President Nixon's declared intent to start missile curb talks with the Soviets and by warning against leting down the West's guard in the meantime.

'SHOULDN'T RELAX'

"During an era of negotiation the defense posture of the alliance should not be relaxed and premature expectations of solutions to outstanding questions should not be generated," the statement said.

Nixon's three-point plan for tighter NATO political consultation and teamwork in dealing with social problems got a less resounding endorsement, both in the communique and in private allied comment.

★ ★ ★

Diplomats from a number of European countries noted that Nixon's idea for periodic political consultation by deputy foreign ministers has been tried before, without notable success, and that a prominent political council already exists at NATO headquarters.

As for the President's proposition for a special committee on social problems such as city congestion, the ministers favored examining the idea but noted "import work on these problems is already being carried out within other international organizations."

New Library Books

GRANT TAKES COMMAND. By Bruce Catton. Little, Brown, $10.

In this third volume of biography of U. S. Grant, a work ably begun by the late Lloyd Lewis and ably carried forward by Bruce Catton, the unpretentious commander of federal armies in the Civil War emerges in full stature. Here, in the months from Vicksburg to Appomattox, was Grant at his best, pursuing relentlessly the victory which had eluded so many other generals.

★ ★ ★

His one great asset, aside from his own sterling qualities, was the confidence and respect of Abraham Lincoln. One of the most fascinating aspects of "Grant Takes Command" is the development of the relationship between President and general.

There was a time not too many years ago when some historians seemed to take delight in downgrading Grant.

The sad story of his White House years is yet to be told by Catton but it seems a modest hope, in the light of the first three volumes, that we are seeing the definitive appraisal of the man and his works.

HARRISON GRAY OTIS, THE URBANE FERERALIST. By Samuel Eliot Morison Houghton, Mifflin. $12.50.

A man seldom gets to rewrite his own book more than 50 years after the first version appeared. Morison, dean of American historians and author of numerous works on our maritime history, has turned out an even better book at 82 than he did at 26.

★ ★ ★

Not that his previous work on Otis, published as his virgin work in 1913, was an inferior performance.

What average reader — even the history buff (unless a Downeast Yankee) — could tell you straightaway what Harrison Gray Otis stood for?

★ ★ ★

A sincere but not hidebound Federalist, this Boston aristocrat spanned history from the terms of Washington to Polk; a congressman, senator and Boston mayor, his name today is associated most with two very controversial landmarks: the Alien and Sedition Acts and the Hartford Convention.

His support of both has not perpetuated his memory advantageously.

★ ★ ★

Reading this book would benefit as well as delight most of us. It would do ardent Jeffersonians good to hear the Federalists' more convincing arguments presented by such a sympathetic historian as Morison.

And both proponents and critics of present southern states-rights philosophy should be sobered by pondering New England's much earlier version in the Hartford Convention during the War of 1812.

PRAGUE'S 200 DAYS. By Hary Schwartz. Praeger. $5.95.

Here is a very thorough analysis of what happened before, during and after the Russian-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Kremlin - watcher Schwartz goes back to 1948 to summarize the events and influences that led to the crisis of 1968, including the "confessions" and show trials that shook Czechoslovakia in 1953-54.

★ ★ ★

The author interprets Russia's miscalculations over Czechoslovakia as due in part to a division between Kosygin (a dove) and Brezhnev (a hawk). He also points out that this was the second time the Kremlin had made a bad blooper — the first being the Soviet position in the Arab-Israeli war of June 1967.

This is an important book for all serious students of the Red world.

20 Are Injured by Tornadoes

Damage Is Heavy Along Texas Coast

By United Press International

At least 20 persons were injured in damaging tornadoes along the Gulf Coast yesterday and property damage was expected to run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars in the Bay City, Tex., area alone.

Three twisters struck at Bay City, and another touched down at Wadsworth, 10 miles south.

The most damaging tornado smashed into a row of beach houses and trailer homes 22 miles southeast of Bay City at the resort area of Sargent. Twelve persons were hurt at Sargent, non critically.

At least eight persons were hurt at Bay City, none seriously.

TREES UPROOTED

In Victoria, Tex., winds reached as high as 70 miles an hour, uprooting trees. The strong winds caused only minor damage, however.

In western Texas, Odessa reported high winds which overturned trailers, tore the roof from one building and smashed several windows.

★ ★ ★

Heavy rains brought more than four inches to near Victoria in southeastern Texas causing some local flooding yesterday. The Guadalupe River rose to bankful stage.

Thunderstorms today continued to rumble across the Southwestern states from Arizona to Louisiana and north to Colorado today. The storms weakened over Texas late last night, after lashing the Lone Star State with hail, windstorms and torrential rains in addition to the tornadoes.

FLOOD WARNING

A flash flood warning was posted for Austin, Tex., and the nearby hill country after continuing heavy rains west of the city. Hail accompanied thunderstorm activity in many parts of Texas, including San Antonio, Midland and Austin.

One of the heaviest hailstorms pelted the Pecos area of western Texas with hail the size of baseballs, the weather bureau reported.

Clear weather was the rule across most of the rest of the nation today, although parts of the Midwest and Northwestern states experienced flooding.

Boycott Hit by Dearborn GOP Senator

DELANO, Calif. (UPI)—Michigan State Sen. N. Lorraine Beebe, on the eve of her return to Michigan after a five-day fact-finding tour, said the boycott of the California table grapes "is unjustified by any reasonable assessment of the facts."

Mrs. Beebe, a Dearborn Republican, yesterday criticized the boycott on the basis "that the propaganda picture of horrendous conditions in the California vineyards drawn by boycott supporters in Michigan bears no relation to reality."

Labor and management made the dispute and consumers should not be caught in the middle, the lawmaker said.

The California grape boycott caught Michigan attention when it received the support of Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh and the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit.

Mrs. Beebe added that she found little support for the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, "but there is a widespread feeling that the tactics of the union, under the leadership of Cesar Chevez, are hurting rather than helping the farm workers."

Card of Thanks 1

WE WISH TO EXTEND our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, beautiful floral offerings, and mass cards received from our kind friends and neighbors during our recent bereavement in the loss of our beloved son, Edward Souriall, foreman at the Pontiac Motor Division. We especially thank friends, relatives and neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. John Souriall.

In Memoriam 2

IN MEMORY OF OUR beloved husband, and Dad, Eino Johnson who passed away April 12, 1965.
No dearer Father ever lived or dying left so sad,
A family to miss him than you, our darling Dad.
Our hearts still ache with lonliness, our eyes shed man tears,
God alone knows how we miss you, as this ends the fourth year.
Sadly missed by wife, son, daughter, and families.

IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear husband, Louis G. MacFarlane who passed away April 12, 1958.
The years have been long, but you are fondly remembered.
Sadly missed by Kitty and all the family.

SWIMMING POOL ON 1 ACRE OF LAND
Not bad for openers but — in addition there is a georgious 3 bedroom full brick tri-level with 12.6x23 feet paneled family room, with fireplace. Built-in oven and range, carpeted living room, drapes included, large trees shade this secluded lot. The 6x10 bath house keeps the kids from tracking up the floor. So many extras I could go on and on but then one look is worth a million words. Only $39,900, near Rochester. Ask for 266-E.

BRICK COLONIAL IN OXFORD
One of the finest homes in the area, zoned residential or commercial, small store next to property included in price, all the features you'd hope to find for the money you want to spend. Only $21,500 with 29 per cent down on contract. Ask for 356-E.

LAKE FRONT HOME
2 Bedroom "L" shaped ranch, 2 fireplaces, gas heat, garage, large beautifully landscaped lot with 2 patios, immediate possession available, call now and ask for 216-E, we can take your home in trade.

Happiness
We have a "House of Happiness" that stems the Generation Gap.

Happiness is different things to different people. For the children Happiness is:

In pretending the bubbling spring is a wishing well and that the drainage pond, which disappears in summer, is a "Magical Lake". It is in finding crocus buds in the spring, the call of the Redwing Blackbird, hunting wild raspberries in summer, in gathering shagbark hickory nuts in fall, from just-over-the-rail fence, in cracking the nuts for Mother to make a cake, it is in piling the brown leaves and trampling through them to hear their rustle, seeing the green woods of summer changed into a Winter Wonderland by the fall of the first wet snow. Happiness is in snuggling around the huge open fire when the chill fog walls in or the sleeted wind pecks at the window pane and the real ultimate happiness for Children is the red and white barn with room for 2 horses and a pony or two. Also the little red and white playhouse with bunk beds including shelves for the dolls with their clothes and their beds.

But, for the tense and pressured Businessman happiness is:

A wooded retreat and privacy, yes, but also more — a house in good condition with good roof (shake shingles), a good well, septic, pump, plenty of hot water, 4 fireplaces, 2½ baths, plenty of closets, large living room with barn siding paneling, little upkeep inside and out, unusual hand woven wool carpeting. Huge recreation room, large family room, set on 16 secluded acres with blacktop drive, well landscaped by an expert land architect with vision. Plantings of bulbs in the woods, a copperleaf beach, a Russian olive tree with it's delightful scent in springtime, young apple and pear trees, oaks, shagbark hickories, a few pines, Hawthorne and much, much more for Mother and Dad, too.

Happiness for the tired Businessman is:

A place to put his feet on the ground and walk AWAY from the dog-eat-dog competition of today's world and walk IN quiet paths, with a FRIENDLY dog at heel. A place to contemplate, that no matter what the successes or failures or griefs of the past, from the changing seasons. He learns there is always a new BEGINNING, new GROWTH AND New INSPIRATION. A place of quiet contentment. Let us show you this House of Happiness by appoint., house cannot be duplicated for $80,000 today. Price with 16 acres included $105,000. Owner commutes daily to Detroit and has for the past 11 years. In Davisburg area, about 38 miles from Detroit. Mrs. Nelsey, your hostess, call 625-3298 or 634-9825, reverse charges. Film Star Laments 'Troubles' With the Filipino Femmes

By EARL WILSON

OLANGAPO, Philippines—Here in a smallish city where there are an estimated 10,000 "housetitutes," I discovered Michael Caine sadly contemplating a beer at the outdoor commissary for the picture, "Too Late the Hero," while deploring the troubles he has with girls of the Orient.

WILSON

Over in Hong Kong, they'd been blasting Michael for supposedly observing that Chinese girls have good legs but are flat-chested.

"How would I know about their chests?" demanded Michael, denying he'd ever said it. "I couldn't even get a dinner date with one of them.

"I got the impression that Chinese parents don't like their daughters being seen with a Caucasian. I'm sure their mothers say 'But I wouldn't want my daughter to marry one.' The girls hinted that if they went out with me, they would get a bad name and no Chinese man would marry them after that."

★ ★ ★

Michael has characterized the alleged remarks about Chinese girls being flat-chested as "a tempest in a C-Cup."

★ ★ ★

"A friend interceded for me to get me a dinner date with a Chinese girl," Michael said. "The girl said, 'Mr. Caine would have to ring up my mother.' I decided I'd rather eat alone than ring up a bunch of mothers, so that was the end of that."

★ ★ ★

From what he's seen of the Filipino girls, while doing a war film for Bob Aldrich and ABC Pictures Corp., Michael finds them beautiful with long legs and "fabulous skins."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. . . .

Shelley Berman complained jokingly at a "Personality" TV taping, "My pride is hurt when I hear people say, 'Shelley Berman—who's she?'" . . . Jacques Bergerac and Gloria Garrick broke up . . . Stories are going around about a restaurant that asked Bette Davis to leave because she requested Yogi Berra's autograph for a friend, and wouldn't serve coffee to Angela Lansbury because the rest of her table wasn't ready for coffee.

Rock Graziano says he'll never have trouble with TV censorship: "First dey'll hafta figure out what I said" . . . Composer Gladys Shelley, who wrote a theme tune for an airline TV commercial, has never flown—and won't even go up in an elevator.

★ ★ ★

WISH I'D SAID THAT: John C. Bruno described a Broadway character: "He's so two-faced he could give himself mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The corkscrew opens the bottle, and the bottle opens the man."

EARL'S PEARLS: A man told his teen-age son, "I'll make a deal with you. You can start using my car once a week if you start using my razor once a week."

Murray Kouvant read that President Nixon's N.Y. apartment is for sale, and said, "It's the usual story—the owner gets a new job in another city . . ." . . . That's earl, brother.

'LBJ Rejected Report on War by Kissinger'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger traveled to North Vietnam for President Johnson in October 1966 and returned with a report critical of the war that was repudiated by Johnson, says a Harvard dean.

Kissinger, then a professor of government at Harvard, is adviser to President Nixon on national security affairs.

Franklin L. Ford, dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at Harvard, told of Kissinger's trip at a special faculty meeting Friday concerning student demonstrations at the university, and at a news conference.

In defending the Harvard administration's decision to call police last Thursday to remove students occupying University Hall, Ford said that some students had rifled confidential faculty files in the bulding.

LETTERS REPRINTED

Some confidential letters and telegrams, he said, were reprinted Friday in a self-described radical newspaper Old Mole.

Under the heading "Reading the Mail of the Ruling Class," the paper reprinted what it said was a U.S. State Department telegram addressed to Ford dated Oct. 22, 1966.

★ ★ ★

The telegram was said to have been sent by W. Averell Harriman, then ambassador at large for President Johnson, and thanked Harvard "for making professor Kissinger available for his extremely successful mission to South Vietnam.

"That mission was of great importance," the telegram was quoted as saying. "It could only have been carried out by Kissinger and had to be completed prior to the Manila conference."

REPORT CRITICAL

Ford told his news conference that Kissinger not only travelled to South Vietnam but also to the North.

"His report was critical of our war effort and was repudiated by the president," Ford said. Ford did not elaborate further.

"If that's part of collusion with the military, I'd have it any time," he said in answer to student allegations that any connection between the university and the government is bad and favorable only to the military.

Navy to Resume Driving Tests in Sealab Program

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The Navy plans to resume its Sealab 3 program soon, but without the trouble-plagued underwater habitat that figured in the death of an aquanaut.

Capt. William M. Nicholson, head of the Deep Submergence System Project, said the program is being rearranged to include a series of test dives using the Mark 2 diving system.

The Sealab program was halted in February when aquanaut Berry Cannon died while diving to fix leaks in the habitat. An investigation called the cause excessive carbon dioxide.

Nicholson said the diving phase of the program porbably will be held for six or eight months off Long Beach, Calif. When the diivng phase is completed, the habitat will again be lowered and the project resumed, he said.

Charges Are Dropped for 4

KALAMAZOO (AP)— Unlawful assembly charges against four persons arrested during a disturbance on the Western Michigan University campus last week will be dropped, Kalamazoo County Prosecuting Attorney Donald A. Burge said today.

"They have taken polygraph examinations, and interrogation . . . indicated that they were only passing through," Burge said.

This leaves 27 persons charged as adults.

Collegians Collect Birth Defect Funds

BATTLE CREEK (AP)— Students from Albion College staged a demonstration today on a downtown Battle Creek street.

The 40 members of Sigma Chi fraternity stretched a piece of tape for a block along the street and were joined in their effort by about 40 coeds.

Object of the demonstration was to raise funds for the March of Dimes which fights birth defects. Passersby were asked to drop a coin on the tape.

Child's Body Is Recovered

MANISTEE (AP)—The body of a 7-year-old Manistee youth was recovered Friday by a State Police diver from water 20 feet deep in the Big Manistee River. Jeffery Russell had fallen into the river Thursday. Search operations had been under way since shortly after the incident was reported by a group of youths.

The boy was the son of Mrs. Judith Russell of Manistee and Gerald Russell, city manager at Bad Axe and former Scottville city manager.

Bomb on Campus Wounds Employe

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — An employe of the University of California at Santa Barbara was injured critically when a homemade bomb exploded in his arms Friday.

The explosive device enclosed in a cardboard box went off when Dover O. Sharp, a maintenance man, picked it up in the faculty club. University spokesmen said it consisted of a half-gallon wine jug filled with a volatile liquid, a pipe packed with explosives, a timing device and a battery.

Poisoned Eggs Used on Skunks

CHEYENNE, Wyo. AP) — Chicken eggs injected with strychnine—brightly dyed and labeled "poison"—were distributed Friday to landowners in outlaying areas around Cheyenne.

The move was part of a State Communicable Disease Division effort to cut down the skunk population that has been posing a rabies problem for Cheyenne.

Alaska Native Education Hit

Kennedy Unit Hears Claim of Mishandling

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — The education of Alaska natives "has been mishandled, underfinanced and generally misunderstood," the president of the Fairbanks Native Association told a hearing of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's subcommittee on Indian Education here Friday night.

Ralph Perdue said his association's conclusion was based on an exhaustive six-year study of education in Alaska.

★ ★ ★

The formal hearing was held by Kennedy and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., the only subcommittee member to complete the three-day 4,000-mile airplane trip into isolated areas of Alaska to study education problems of the state's Eskimos, Indians and Aleuts.

Three other subcommittee members—Republicans Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, George Murphy of California and William Saxbe of Ohio—abandoned the trip Tuesday. They left after contents of a subcommittee staff memo to Kennedy had been revealed, allegedly outlining ways to utilize the trip for publicity purposes.

'BIPARTIANSHIP'

The Massachusetts Democrat said it was "incredible" that the GOP trio would "inject bipartisanship" into a trip delving into such vital issues.

Friday's hearing was attended by nearly 500 persons.

★ ★ ★

An important factor in the education problems is "the paternalistic or overbearing attitude of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and their instructors toward the students and the people." Perdue testified, "The master-slave relationship which has developed through BIA involvement has overlapped into the field of education."

Perdue said that the failure of many white BIA schoolteachers to understand the native people has resulted in "superficial acceptance but deep-rooted resentment and contempt by the people."

Kennedy, who said the defection of the three Republican subcommittee members "has not stopped our traveling," pledged to carry word of what he had seen and heard to his colleagues in the U.S. Senate.

Kennedy, Mondale and about 30 aides, officials and newsmen, were to leave Alaska via Anchorage early Saturday.

Cadillac Battling to keep Job Center

CADILLAC (AP) — Community leaders in the Cadillac area, in an effort to keep the Hoxey Job Corps center near here open, have indicated they will carry their plea to Washington.

The Hoxey center, designed for up to 112 youths, is one of more than 50 scheduled to be closed this year.

Bob Jones, Chamber of Commerce manager in Cadillac, said, "We hope to convince Washington officials to keep the Hoxey Center open, especially since it was one of the best Job Corps centers. The Hoxey Job Corpsmen have achieved remarkable success."

PONTIAC, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, APRIL 12, 1969

VOL. 127 — NO. 56 ★★★★★ ASSOCIATED PRESS UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL —58 PAGES 10c

President Trims $2 Billion in Welfare, Defense Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration reportedly now expects a surplus of at least $5.5 billion in a fiscal 1970 budget, showing the biggest cutbacks in welfare and defense.

The projected surplus is the result of what one administration source called "a second trip through the wringer" for the record $195.3 billion budget President Nixon inherited from Lyndon Johnson.

★ ★ ★

Nixon ordered an agency-by-agency review of the Johnson budget, which had forecast a $3.5 billion surplus, as soon as he took office last January. But when it was completed it showed a net increase in outlays — instead of a decrease — so Nixon sent it back for another look.

Announcement of the $5.5 billion to $6 billion surplus today is expected to be followed up with a bundle of revised agency-by-agency requests next week when Congress reconvenes after its Easter recess.

The bulk of the more than $2 billion in spending cuts came out of the budgets for Defense and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird already has disclosed a $1.1-billion cutback. The Pentagon is seeking $900 million less than was in the Johnson budget for antiballistic missile system.

★ ★ ★

A cutback of $1.1 billion reportedly is in store for HEW. This would be about 2 per cent of the department's over-all budget, but actually would amount to a much larger proportionate share.

About $18 billion of the HEW budget is for uncontrollable expenses such as Social Security, medicare and public assistance, which are safe from budget cutters.

★ ★ ★

Besides defense and welfare, fairly severe cuts have been rumored for space, agriculture and highways.

An increase in the 1970 surplus would be balanced off, in part, by a shrinkage in the surplus for fiscal 1969 which ends June 30.

HELLO! HELLO!—Despite rising water, telephone repairman W. J. Feinback was on the job at Jackson, Minn., where floodwaters of the Des Moines River knocked out phone communications to the town. Feinbeck checked underground telephone lines that were protected by a small sandbag wall.

Flood Damage Mounting

By the Associated Press

Flooding caused mounting damage—over $3 million in one area—and extreme hardship today for persons in five states.

Meanwhile, communities along the Mississippi River braced for the larger water runoff expected from tributaries currently swamping her hinteralnds and forcing over 3,000 persons from their homes.

★ ★ ★

The U.S. Geological Survey said some rivers are carrying 2½ times more water than during the worst floods ever recorded in the Midwest.

States hit hardest by the heavy snow melt near the Canadian border are Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and, to a lesser degree, Wisconsin.

Rampaging waters from the Souris River in north-central North Dakota crashed through earthen dikes at Minot and sent 2,000 persons fleeing from their homes. County officials estimated damage for the town of 33,000 at $3.25 million.

The Red River, swirling down from Canada on the North Dakota and Minnesota border, forced evacuation of 25 families at Enderlin, N. D. At Wahpeton N.D., the river was six feet above flood stage with a crest expected later today one foot higher than the previous record high set in 1897.

★ ★ ★

At Fargo, N.D., the Red River was 11 feet above flood stage and at Jamestown, N.D., the rising James River pushed through a dike and forced the evacuation of 75 persons from a housing development for elderly persons.

The Big Sioux River crested and began receding yesterday at Sioux Falls, S. D., Sioux City, Iowa, and North Sioux City S.D., whose 800 residents kept away from their submerged homes unprotected by dikes.

BIGGEST WORRY

The greatest worry at threatened areas along the Big Sioux remained the possibility that the constant pressure and washing of the river would cave in the dikes.

The worst flooding in Iowa occurred in the north-central part of the state on the west fork of the Des Moines River at Estherville. A dozen families were evacuated there because of rising waters, more than 10 feet above flood stage.

★ ★ ★

At Emmetsburg, just south of Estherville, at least six families were forced from their homes and crews worked to protect businesses and about 25 other homes.

At Fort Dodge, below the point where the east and west forks of the Des Moines converge, the river neared the 10-foot flood mark.

RISE CONTINUES

The west fork of the Des Moines continued to rise in lower Minnesota and the Minnesota River, cutting diagonally cross the southwest section of the state, ranged from three feet above flood stage at Montevideo to 10 feet above flood level at Mankato. Some 160 families evacuated their homes across the river from Mankato and received aid from emergency Red Cross units which were set up throughout the flooded states.

The Mississippi was over flood stage in a few places in Minnesota and its crest was expected at St. Paul later next week.

Job Corps Cuts to Trigger Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — House backers of the Job Corps hope to force a vote by the end of May on President Nixon's plan to cutback the key poverty program.

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz made official yesterday what had been widely reported for several days: 59 of the 113 centers will be closed by July 1.

Plans to open 30 new daytime-only training centers in and near central city areas didn't pacify ardent Job Corps supporters.

Rep. Carl K. Perkins, (D-Ky.,) chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, said the administration plan "will deny hope and opportunity to thousands of underprivileged boys and girls."

HEARINGS PLANNED

His committee plans to resume hearings on the whole poverty program April 21 and similar hearings are planned in the Senate.

Perkins said his committee will give the House a chance to vote on the issue soon, perhaps before the end of May.

★ ★ ★

President Nixon has transferred the Job Corps to the Labor Department from the Office of Economic Opportunity effective July 1. Perkins also hopes to stop the transfer.

In the midst of the blossoming congressional furor over the cuts, there was a report that President Nixon had tapped a popular young Republican congressman from Illinois, Donald Rumsfeld, to head OEO.

TO DEFEND POSITION

The Washington Post said intensive efforts were being made to get the 36-year-old former Navy pilot to take the post so the administration will have a spokesman to defend its poverty program position.

OEO is now headed by an acting director, Bertrand Harding, an appointee of former President Johnson.

Labor Secretary Schultz said closing of the centers—most of them in rural areas and geared to conservation—would save about $100 million. Trainees in the affected centers would be transferred to existing centers where the emphasis will be on industrial training and job placement.

Shultz denied he bowed to congressional pressures in decisions to close or leave open individual centers.

In a 40-page report, Shultz indicated that one of the reasons for closing most of the centers was that they "have not fully performed their mandate to teach, train, retain and place enrollees . . ."

Ticket Holders Like Local Stadium Site

A Pontiac site for a proposed domed stadium to house the Lions and Tigers receives the overwhelming backing of area residents who are among season ticket holders.

More centrally located and easier to get to are the reasons cited repeatedly in viewing the proposed Pontiac site at I-75 and M59 for the two professional sports teams.

A Pontiac Press survey of opinion turned up the following comments:

R. S. Craft Jr. of Consumers Power and his wife, Marion, supervisor of the Community National Bank bond department, have been season ticket holders for Detroit Lions football games since 1950. They add their names to the list of those who wish the proposed domed Lions-Tiger stadium to be built in Pontiac.

LIKE IT CLOSER

"We would very much approve of a stadium that is closer. We have been riding the bus from Northland to downtown Detroit for Lions games for almost 20 years. I also think a stadium here would be quite a boost to the community," Mrs. Craft said.

The Crafts reside at 94 Riviera, Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon of 1340 Bielby, Waterford Township, would like to see the stadium located in Pontiac because they feel it is a more central location than downtown Detroit.

The McMahons have two season tickets for Detroit Lions football games next season and attended about 10 Detroit Tigers baseball games last year.

ATTORNEY

R. P. Sauer, Pontiac attorney with offices at 309 Pontiac State Bank Building, has had a season ticket to Lions games for the past seven years. He'd like to see the new stadium built in the Pontiac area.

"It's a much better location for everybody. It's more central, more convenient, in a rapidly growing area, and the land here is more reasonable than it would be farther south," Sauer said.

★ ★ ★

"With traffic the way it is today, a new stadium located in the Pontiac area would increase attendance for years to come," says D. T. Fowler, president of D. T. Fowler Manufacturing Co., 3030 Crooks, Avon Township.

Fowler has had season tickets to Tigers games for the last eight years. He said the tickets are used mostly by his firm's customers. "They hate to go down to Tiger stadium, because of the neighborhood it's in," the manufacturer said.

AF Ends ROTC at 8 Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force citing a lack of student interest and not pressure from antiwar groups, has decided to close out its Reserve Office Training Corps program at eight schools.

Without pinpointing any single cause for the failure of the program at the eight colleges and universities, an Air Force spokesman said yesterday the schools have failed to generate the required minimum of 15 officers per year.

He denied there was pressure from antiwar groups or faculty members to withdraw the program.

Rebellious students, antiwar groups and some faculty members have strongly criticized ROTC programs in recent months and abolition of all the programs at Harvard was a major issue in the upheaval there during the past week.

DEMANDED PROGRAM END

The Harvard students demanded outright scrapping of ROTC even after the faculty recommended withdrawing credits for it.

★ ★ ★

Schools where the ROTC will be phased out over the next three years are Boston University; Butler University, Indianapolis; Capital University, Columbus, Ohio; Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa; Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago; Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio; Lawrence University of Wisconsin, Appleton, Wis.; and Tufts University, Medford, Mass.

★ ★ ★

These were among 18 schools warned in 1966 that they would have to raise their annual officer output. The other 10 were able to come up to the 15-officer minimum.

Czechoslovakia to Get More Russian Troops

By the Associated Press

More Soviet troops and technical equipment will be moved into Czechoslovakia this month, Prague radio announced today.

The additional Soviet forces will be carried by railroad to places determined in advance, the broadcast declared.

The number of Soviet soldiers who spent the winter in Czechoslovakia and were here prior to the latest crisis in Czechoslovak-Soviet relations has been estimated at 60,000 to 70,000.

Weekend to Be Fair, Mild

A wonderful weekend is forecast for the Pontiac area — fair and mild — just what we wanted.

Here is the official day-by-day report of the U.S. Weather Bureau:

TODAY — Mostly fair with a slight moderating trend. High 58 to 63. Low tonight 32 to 38.

TOMORROW — Fair with little temperature change.

MONDAY — Fair and mild with moderating temperatures.

No precipitation is predicted for the period.

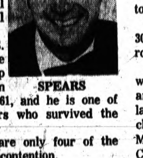
A sunny 31 was the low before 8 a.m. in downtown Pontiac. By 12:30 p.m. the mercury had soared to 54.

Shares Golf Lead With Casper

Aussie Could Capture Masters

By FLETCHER SPEARS

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Odds that a foreign entrant would wear the Masters' golf crown for only the second time were in the 50-50 category as a slimmed-down field of 48 began play at the halfway mark of the event today at trim and beautiful Augusta National Golf Club.



SPEARS

The only non-U.S. player ever to take the championship was South African Gary Player in 1961, and he is one of nine foreign golfers who survived the cut yesterday.

Actually, there are only four of the nine who are in contention.

SHOWERS POSSIBLE

Added to the pressure of the tournament itself was the possibility of showers today and tomorrow.

The weatherman saw rain today as a 30-70 chance, while he pegged tomorrow's finale in the 50-50 neighborhood.

With the field trimmed, starting times were delayed until after 11 a.m. today, and first to hit onto the lush, 6,980-yard layout were Cary Middlecoff, the 1955 champion, 148, and Dave Hill, the ex-Michigan pro now playing out of Denver, Colo., 148.

Scrambling Casper was paired with the top money winner of the year, Gene Littler 144, and they were slated to leave the tee at 1:44 p.m.

★ ★ ★

Devlin, who birdied the 18th yesterday to tie Casper for the lead, was going at 1:28 p.m., along with 27-year-old Dave Stockton, 142, another Californian who is making his first Masters appearance.

★ ★ ★

Player and rangy George Archer, 140, were on the tee for a 2 p.m. time, while Dan Sikes, 140, and U.S. Amateur champion Bruce Fleisher 144, had a 1:12 time.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, 146, joined Kermit Zarley, 146; Knudsen, was paired with Jack Nicklaus, 143, at 12:56, and Arnold Palmer, who just slipped in under the cut at 148, was paired with Bobby Nichols, 147 at 11:36.

Cong Guns Busy Again; Effect Slight

SAIGON (AP) — Vietcong gunners shelled 30 allied bases and towns in a second night of intensified rocket and mortar attacks, military spokesmen reported today. Casualties and damage were termed light.

Vinh Long City, a provincial capital in the Mekong Delta 65 miles southwest of Saigon, was shelled a second time in 17 hours. Spokesmen said 34 mortar rounds exploded near the city police station, killing one civilian and wounding three others. More than 100 mortars fell in the city early yesterday, killing 15 persons and wounding 105.

★ ★ ★

Tay Ninh City, another provincial capital hit hard in yesterday's attacks, was untouched but enemy gunners shelled an American base camp three miles west of the city. Spokesmen said one American soldier was killed and six were wounded.

In Tay Ninh, workers probed through rubble searching for 80 persons listed as missing after the devastating attack.

MUNITIONS DUMP HIT

Twelve persons were known dead and 100 were wounded when enemy rockets slammed into two ammunition dumps, blowing up more than 200 tons of artillery and small arms ammunition. The explosions destroyed about 100 buildings.

An American adviser said the list of missing persons may be reduced when new counts are taken of survivors in the area. Early counts, he said, were somewhat confused and failed to include some people who were at home and did not attend muster.

★ ★ ★

Enemy gunners fired three rocket-propelled grenades into a government center for Vietcong defectors 37 miles northeast of Saigon. South Vietnamese headquarters said three civilians were wounded.

In Saigon, police said terrorists set off a bomb at a transformer station in Cholon, the Chinese section of the capital.

Henry Hits Snag in Surrender of Slaying Suspect

DETROIT (UPI) — A 20-year-old Puerto Rican sought in the killing of a Detroit policeman was still at large today, despite the promise of a black separatist leader that the youth would surrender.

Milton R. Henry, a Pontiac lawyer, reported late yesterday there would be "a delay" in arranging the surrender of Rafael Viera, last known to be living in New York City.

★ ★ ★

Viera has been named in a warrant charging him with the slaying of Detroit Patrolman Michael Czapski. He was also named in a federal fugitive warrant and has been the subject of a nationwide manhunt.

Henry, known as Brother Gaidi in the Republic of New Africa that claims Viera as a "citizen," promised Police Commissioner Johannes F. Spreen he would deliver Viera yesterday.

'CERTAIN DETAILS'

But Spreen said that Henry has since told him that "certain details" of the surrender had not been finalized.

Police contended Viera was still in New York. Henry claimed he was en route to Detroit.

★ ★ ★

The RNA, which seeks to set up an independent black nation in five southern states, was meeting at the church and when Czapski and patrolman Richard Worobec stopped to investigate uniformed armed men outside, shooting broke out.

Responding officers raided the church. Four persons were found wounded inside when the gunfire ceased and 142 were arrested. All but two were later freed.

SECOND ON BOND

Viera was among those released at the suggestion of police. Another man, Alfred Hibbitt, 38, Detroit, was released on an $1,000 bond.

Thursday, he surrendered six hours after Spreen announced he was sought for intent to commit murder in Worobec's wounding. He is being held on $25,000 bond pending an examination next Friday.

Russia Proposes Talks With China

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today offered to start negotiations with Red China in Moscow next Tuesday "or at any other date convenient for the Chinese" in an effort to end their bitter border dispute which has claimed casualties on both sides.

The Soviet Foreign ministry handed the Red Chinese Embassy in Moscow a diplomatic note proposing the talks late yesterday. The document was reported to be brief and to the point.

★ ★ ★

Recent Soviet news reports indicate that there still is considerable tension in the area, including some exchange of firing.

Diplomatic sources felt the Soviets could hardly expect the Chinese, who are deep in the fighting of their party congress, to be prepared for major diplomatic negotiations in a distant capital within four days.

ADC Mothers' Problems to Be Aired April 25

Mothers receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) have made two organized protests to the County Social Services Board and will have their problems aired before the human resources committee of the board of supervisors April 25.

The committee voted yesterday to have Ora Hinckley, social services director, and William LeFevre, deputy director, present at that time to discuss the petitions.

★ ★ ★

Supervisor James Mathews also pleaded for an opportunity for the mothers, themselves, to appear before the committee at a later date.

★ ★ ★

Miss Hinckley said six representatives of the Southeast Pontiac National Mothers Group have requested an additional $60 per person for clothing to public assistance recipients each spring and fall. The group was headed by Mrs. Kathyrina Simms of 360 Auburn, Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

The mothers reportedly contended that present budget allowances are made from 1961 figures and are not realistic for today's expenses.

STATE ALLOWANCE

The state allows $45 for clothing for a family of five, but the county also makes available clothing from its emergency store at 1 LaFayette, Pontiac.

The Pontiac group also requested that the twice yearly $60 clothing allowance be made in cash rather in goods. A survey undertaken by county auditors to determine whethar such a course of action is realistic is still incomplete.

★ ★ ★

A second group, calling itself a countywide grievance organization and headed by Mrs. Robert Carpenter, 3831 Orchard, Highland Township, asked for additional clothing, more action on a proposed work incentive program and supplemental funds for furniture and appliances.

★ ★ ★

Miss Hickley estimated that granting $60 twice a year to each child on ADC rolls would add $2 million to the county budget.

★ ★ ★

Supervisors yesterday worried whether accepting greater responsibility for ADC recipients would be "a foot in the door" to reclaiming ADC responsibility turned over to the state a number of years ago.

The county is currently invloved in the program only to the extent of providing emergency relief such as that afforded by the clothing store last fall.

2 Airlines Lose Promised Routes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two airlines whose good fortune during the Johnson administration stirred charges of political influence have found their promised new Pacific routes swept away by President Nixon's review of the case.

Continental Air Lines and Braniff International Airways, both of which had given jobs to former aides or associates of Lyndon B. Johnson, yesterday lost routes proposed by the Civil Aeronautics Board in the last days of Johnson's power.

★ ★ ★

Continental had been set to start serving Hawaii, the Trust Territories, Samoa, New Zealand and Australia from Midwest, Southwest, Rocky Mountain and California cities after the CAB overruled recommendation of Examiner Robert L. Park that Eastern Air Lines get the new route to Australia.

In returning the proceeding to the CAB, Nixon said the South Pacific services competing with Pan American should originate in the East and Midwest, and overfly California. This decision would appear to make Eastern once again a leading contender.

NO JUSTIFICATIONS?

The Nixon administration found no economic justification for giving Braniff a route to Hawaii by way of Mexico, as the CAB had decided with Johnson's approval.

One of Nixon's first actions as President was to suspend Johnson's route awards and reopen the case.

★ ★ ★

Unconfirmed stories circulating in the Washington rumor mill and in print held that Johnson arranged late last year for his favorite airlines to get cushy new Pacific runs.

But White House sources said President Johnson, aware of the sensitivity of the case, avoided talking to congressmen or airline representatives about it.

News in Brief

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The chief of the Philadelphia police civil disobedience squad says the FBI in Boston has unveiled a plot by militant college students to blow up national shrines in Boston and Philadelphia. The FBI in both Philadelphia and Boston declined comment on the allegations made yesterday by Lt. George Fencl. Fencl spoke of the alleged plot at a hearing for Stephen Fraser, a Temple University student charged with illegal possession of explosives. Fraser is head of the labor committee of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

Sirhan 'Experts' Ripped

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassination by Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was "plain old cold-blooded first-degree murder," says the prosecution. Lynn D. Compton, chief deputy district attorney, began the state's final argument yesterday with a bitter attack on the succession of psychologists who testified Sirhan could not have maturely and meaningfully premeditated Kennedy's assassination last June.

Two 'Hair' Stars Fired

NEW YORK (AP) — The producer of the hit musical "Hair" has fired two of the stars. And they happen to be the two who wrote the script. The author-actors, James Rado, 29, and Gerome Ragni, 26, were ordered out of the theater Thursday and yesterday and were told that producer Michael Butler had fired them for improvising too much.

Ray Sues on Contracts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray has charged in a federal suit that his former lawyer and biographer were more interested in money than in his right to a fair trial. Ray asked yesterday that an estimated $1 million worth of contracts with his biographer, William Bradford Huie of Hartselle, Ala., and his former attorney, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex., be nullified.

RFK Killing Figure Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kathy Fulmer, who police once thought might have been "the girl in the polka dot dress" in the Robest Kennedy murder, is dead of what officers called an overdose of a drug. Miss Fulmer, 23, a go-go dancer, was one of several young women questioned and cleared after Kennedy was slain in Los Angeles last June. Investigating officers said Miss Fulmer was found in a coma last Monday in a motel room and that she apparently had taken an overdose of Seconal.

Road Weight Curbs Due to Be Eased

The Oakland County Road Commission announced today that it will lift its springtime weight restrictions on all but a few county roads at 6 a.m. Monday.

Weight limitations will remain in force on two streets and two subdivisions in Avon Township. They are South Boulevard from Adams to Crooks and Adams Road from Walton to Silverbell, as well as Bellarmine Hills and Christian Hills subdivisions.

★ ★ ★

In Farmington Township, restrictions will stay on Lytle Road from Gill to Drake and in the Kendallwood and Staman Acres subdivisions.

The High Hill subdivision in Orion Township will also remain under the springtime restrictions.

★ ★ ★

Because of the danger of road breakup due to the recent thaw and anticipated rains, no overweight permits will be issued for the next ten days to two weeks, according to the road commission.

Epidemic Hits Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Three persons have died in a cholera epidemic in Khulna city, East Pakistan, officials announced last night.

Sources said during the last seven days 203 cholera patients were admitted to local hospitals, 52 were detained and the rest received emergency treatment.

Birmingham

Urban Design Plan's Aims Are Outlined

BIRMINGHAM — City commissioners fielded questions for the first time on Birmingham's Urban Design Plan earlier this week.

Residents generally appeared pleased with the concept of the $800,000 plan, which will be implemented over a four-year period in accordance with a priority system.

★ ★ ★

Major aims of the design plan include:

- Altering—and hopefully stopping problems—of the central business district traffic flow through establishment of a "ring road" system around the business area.
- Preserving the community as a retail drawing card.
- Heading off future "erosion" of the downtown district through implementation of a pedestrian-oriented parklike atmosphere via establishment of planters, trees, widened and brick-paved sidewalks, fountains and sidewalk benches.

PRESENTATIONS

Numerous presentations of the Urban Design Plan have been made to civic clubs, property owners organizations and other interested groups.

Thursday's session at the Community House, however, was the first opportunity the general public has had to question the City Commission on the Design Plan.

★ ★ ★

Most of the questions of "concern" from the audience of approximately 75 persons dealt with the plan's effects on the traffic situation, provisions for multiple-family housing developments and parking.

Commisisoners explained the main entrances to the central business district—Maple and Woodward—will never be closed to traffic. Entrances, however, may be closed to cross traffic. There are no plans for establishment of a mall completely closed to traffic, commissioners noted.

TOWN-HOUSE DEVELOPMENT

Residents were told that the Urban Design Plan does call for establishment of town-house development probably in the area now occupied by auto dealer agencies off Woodward.

Commissioners said town-house construction, which would include large tracts of "green-type" areas would be the extent of any further multiple housing type dwellings construction.

★ ★ ★

Several persons asked about plans for additional parking facilities, particularly in the area across from the Community House on Bates Avenue.

Residents were advised that engineering and planning studies call for more parking facilities in this area both overhead and underground.

"Nothing has been done nor will be done in the near future until financing is available, Commissioner Ruth McNamee said.

Other questions concered rooftop signs in the business areas, which the commission pointed out, will be prohibited according to the Urban Design Plan's provisions.

Hussein Plan No Shift—Egypt

Israeli, Jordan Troops Clash

By the Associated Press

Arab and Israeli forces clashed on the Jordanian front today as Egypt denied there was anything new in King Hussein's six-point Middle East peace plan.

An Israeli army spokesman said Israeli troops clashed with Jordanian regulars south of the Sea of Galilee after an Arab guerrilla attack on an Israeli patrol. He said the guerrillas opened fire on the patrol with bazookas at 6:30 a.m., and the Jordanian regulars joined in with a mortar barrage lasting 2½ hours.

★ ★ ★

The spokesman said the Israeli forces returned the fire without suffering any casualties.

A Jordanian spokesman said the Israelis began shelling South Menshia village at 5:45 a.m., stopped briefly and then resumed again at 6:45 a.m. He said the Jordanians suffered no losses, but claimed five Israeli soldiers were hit by Jordanian gunners.

ARTILLERY DUELS

Today's clash followed artillery duels yesterday across the Jordan River and the Suez Canal.

The semiofficial Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram, which usually reflects the thinking of President Gamal Abdel Nasser, said today the peace plan outlined Thursday by King Hussein of Jordan did not represent a shift from the previous Arab position on terms for a settlement.

Washington had viewed as a new development Hussein's statement Thursday that one point in his peace plan would give Israel full navigation rights in the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Strong Puritanical Spirit Prevails in Women's Opinions on Abortion

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of articles on abortion and possible changes in the law.)

BY JANET ODELL
Women's Editor, The Pontiac Press

Although the United States is the melting pot of the world, with people from probably every other country, it has remained amazingly Puritanical. It is as if that first band of dissidents from the Church of England who landed on Plymouth Rock in 1620 had put an indelible stamp on American thinking.

This reaction came up again and again in my interviews with women on abortion. Sex is sinful; illegal sex demands that one be punished. If a woman becomes pregnant out of wedlock, let her have the baby and suffer. It serves her right.

That sounds hard and intolerant and hardly in the Judeo-Christian spirit. But it came out time after time. Abortions are all right for married women who need or want them, but not for the unmarried unless they're victims of rape or incest.

OPINION HOLDS

"It won't help young people any to have completely free abortion laws."

"Young girls might take advantage of a liberalized law."

"If a girl thinks she is woman enough to carry on as a woman, then she must accept responsibility as a woman and the results of what her actions are." (This from a 16-year-old.)

"If abortion is easily available, more girls will be promiscuous."

"If you're going to give them a little liberty, they may take a lot."

"In case of rape, abortion is better for the girl: But if she's a hard-headed girl who just ran out with the boys and got pregnant, sure, let her go through with it and have her baby."

All the groups became involved in discussing what a liberal abortion law might do to the morals of young people. It is evident that this subject worries mothers.

SEX EDUCATION

Both the teenagers and a group of professional women talked at great length about the need for good sex education from the preschool age. They see the need for better communication between parents and other adults and today's children.

But overriding it all is a concern for morality.

Monday: Every woman should have a choice.

They are being assisted by Mesdames: Robert C. Tricker Jr., Frederick Cockle, Palmer Strang, Charles Main, William Isgrigg, James Kitchen, Arthur Thomas, Horace Hall, John Riley, William Stricklin and William Maybury.

Others are Bruce Meixsell, Marjorie Baker and Clara Petford.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or at any of the Episcopal churches in the area.

Bride Should Consider Color for Ensemble

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: My 18-year-old daughter is getting married this summer. She had the misfortune of having a baby last year, but it died after only living one hour. She was not married.

She would like to know if she can go down the aisle in a white gown; and is it proper to have a big church wedding? Also, is it proper for her to have a shower? All of her friends knew of her condition, and they were all for her one hundred per cent — Mrs. M.

* * *

Dear Mrs. M.: Your daughter has never been married before, and the fact that she made an unfortunate mistake some time ago should not prevent her from having as large a church wedding as she wishes. Showers are in order, too. She should not wear a pure white gown.

White is a traditional symbol of virginity and you can be sure there will be snickers and whispers among insensitive acquaintances if she wears a white dress. She can certainly wear a long wedding gown, but choose a very, very pale color; a mere tinge of pink, blue or yellow will counteract any criticism, and at the same time be youthful, beautiful and appropriate.

TWO RINGS

Dear Mrs. Post: I was given a signet ring about 35 years ago which I never remove. My wife is desirous of having another one made for me — with diamonds, yet. I would like to know if it would be considered ostentatious for a male to wear a ring on each hand? — Bob

* * *

Dear Bob: Yes, it would. A signet ring belongs on the little finger of your left hand or right hand, if you wear a wedding ring, and should not be set with any jewels. If your wife wants to give you a gift suggest a set of cufflinks or a tie-clip with the same insignia as your ring.

Summer Fashions, Luncheon Sponsored by Church Group

The latest word on warm weather wardrobes will be the topic of the day, with "Fashion Orbit," April 23, sponsored by the churchwomen of the Church of the Advent.

The showing, which will feature day evening wear from Peggy's Bloomfield Fashion Shop at The Pontiac Mall, will be held at the Rotunda Inn. Luncheon is included in the program which begins at 11:30 a.m.

Spokesman SEAMs to Feel American Male Losing Ground

ANN ARBR (AP) — Hang on, men, help may be on the way.

At least it will be if Carlton M. Brown, self appointed spokesman for the American male has his way.

Brown and five colleagues — who hid their identities like a woman hides her age — banded together this week to form the Emancipation of the American Male.

SEAM

Called SEAM for short, the group says its goal is to restore the male "to his rightful place at the head of the family."

Brown contended the American male has "spent too much time away from our homes chasing the buck and too much time away from our families watching television."

* * *

Brown described himself as an employe of a mental health organization. He said his associates include a psychologist, a newspaper editor and a psychologist but he declined any other information on them.

Brown summarized his group's feelings thusly:

"There are millions of people in America who have gone through hell with their families, in one way or another, and who are waking up to the fact that there is something very wrong in a country that has nine million widows, eight million fathers whom deserted their families, 20 million mentally ill persons, six million alcoholics and wight million homosexuals, many of them reluctant.

SEAM, he said, would seek to offset the "proliferation of militant feminist organizations" and would advise men on how to regain control of their families and coach women on the art of pleasing and holding onto their husbands."

SEAM also aims at "preserving the family, while encouraging a healthy polarity between the sexes and extolling the sanctity of male and female roles" while freeing the American male from "discriminatory divorce, alimony and child custody laws."

* * *

"It is time to get away from the TV, comic-strip boob image of the American male who exists only as a sort of servant straight-man for a nagging wife and her smart mouth kids," he concluded in an interview.

Mayor Taylor to Give Welcoming Speech

Mayor William H. Taylor is scheduled to make the speech of welcome when the State convention of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority takes place at Kingsley Inn April 25 through 27.

Convention cochairmen are Mrs. Fred Mueller and Mrs. Joseph Orosey, both of Drayton Plains and the Beta Chi chapter which will host the affair. Theme of the convention is the "Wild

Fund Drive Slow

Mansion Is Too Costly

LANSING (UPI) — Those motorized drapes, the gold-and-crystal chandelier and the hideaway bar in the proposed governor's mansion are providing too rich for political philanthropists, forcing Gov. William G. Milliken to defer his order with a Lansing moving firm.

Milliken and his wife, Helen, won't move from their two-bedroom apartment in East Lansing to the posh governor's residence along the Grand River in southwest Lansing until the $250,000 fund drive to purchase the furnishings is successful.

Reportedly, the campaign, is headed by a committee of former governors, is $100,000 short. Plans to obtain $25,000 pledges from select industrialists have been junked.

APRIL DEADLINE

However, Senate Majority Leader mil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, said indications are the goal will be met by the end of April, after foundations and other organizations interested in contributing to the drive hold their monthly meetings.

"The delay is only temporary," Lockwood said. "We'll get the money by the end of the month, and the governor can move in then."

The Millikens and their family cat have been on standby for two months now. Initially, the delay was attributed to confusion over deed restrictions but that was cleared up by the attorney general March 18.

The mansion, valued at $500,000 without the furnishings, was donated to the state by a Lansing trucking executive Howard Sober. The gift included a provision the state would pay for the furnishings, many of them priceless antiques.

Mrs. Herman Stenbuck, Owego Drive, will be guest of honor May 4 at a dinner celebrating the 21st anniversary of the State of Israel. Long a volunteer in religious and civic affairs, as well as head of the Temple Beth Jacob Cooperative Nursery, Mrs. Stenbuck is leaving in June to take up residence in Israel. The dinner at Congregation B'nai Israel is open to the public. Leon Sirlin is ticket chairman.

Vulgar Display by Youths Upsets a Family Gathering

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Libby, my 17-year-old niece, brought her boyfriend to the grandparents' for Sunday supper. She didn't ASK if she could bring him. She just brought him.

He picked a comfortable chair in the corner. He sat down, and she sat on top of him. and they spent the entire evening that way. She couldn't keep her hands off him. He didn't say a word. He just grinned and whispered something to Libby once in a while. It's a wonder he didn't grab her and head for the nearest bedroom. It was disgusting.

* * *

After everyone left, Grandpa was all shook up to think that his lovely young granddaughter would throw herself at a boy that way. "Just asking for trouble," he says. And Grandma was in tears. All the while Libby's parents were sitting across the room like two stuffed sparrows on a limb.

My husband says I should mind my own business—that Libby has parents to tell her how to act. Should I say something to those stupid parents? Or should I say something to Libby? Or better yet, can YOU say something?

AUNTIE

DEAR AUNTIE: A 17-year-old who would behave this way in the presence of her parents either doesn't know any better, or doesn't care what anyone thinks. And parents who would sit in silence during such a performance are either helpless or gutless. If you think it will help Libby, tell her the facts of life. But hurry!

Hazel Park Opens 21st Season Monday

Hazel Park Race Track opens its twenty-first season Monday with prospects bright for its most successful thoroughbred meetings.

If the weather is favorable, a crowd of more than 18,000 is expected for the initial card which features the $10,000 inaugural handicap. Ten speed specialists will go to the post for this six-furlong sprint.

Post parade for the first race will begin at 3:20 p.m.

Nobody is brash enough to come right out and say so, but there is a possibility that the opening day turnout could exceed last year's all-time record assembly of 19,751 fans who bet $1,381,555.

Hark the Herald, R. T. Dolese's Fleet Bay, is the early choice in the featured inaugural handicap.

PCHS Trackmen Suffer Beating in First Outing

Pontiac Catholic didn't have enough depth Friday afternoon as Dearborn Sacred Heart spoiled the Titans' track opener with a 70-48 victory on Northern High School's cinders.

The Titans scored well in the field events, taking a first in the high jump with Kellie Dean and a first in the pole vault with Herb Larson, plus three seconds and two thirds.

However, their chief points in the running events were scored by Pat Lenz's victory in the two-mile run, Chuck Amshay's win in the half mile, and Tim Boyer's triumph in the 100-yard dash. They managed only two seconds.

Pirates Add 4th Straight in Home Start

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Moose pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to their fourth straight victory Friday with a five hitter over Philadelphia, 7-1, on a 12-hit attack that included Jerry May's second home run.

* * *

An opening day crowd of 31,641 at Forbes Field saw Moose tighten up after yielding a home run to Johnny Callison in the second inning.

May's homer over the left field scoreboard opening the third tied the score, and the Pirates took the lead on May's single, a sacrifice and Matty Alou's single in the fifth.

* * *

Rookie Bob Robertson's single and Bill Mazeroskie's sacrifice fly drove in the two runs in the sixth and a double by Alou and singles by Richie Hebner and Willie Stargell increased the margin to 6-1 in the seventh.

* * *

Moose helped send the Phils down to their fourth defeat when he singled in the eighth after Freddie Patek walked. Patek scored the final run on Alou's sacrifice fly.

Torre Leads Attack

Cards Gain First Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Torre, who had only one hit in his first 14 at bats this season rapped a single, a double and a homer Friday as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Mets 6-3 for their victory of the season.

The Cardinals, who have won the National League pennant the past two years, lost their first three games to Pittsburgh.

Torre, acquired last month from Atlanta for Orlando Cepeda, singled in the first inning after Vada Pinson had doubled home Lou Brock.

* * *

Then he triggered a two-run burst in the third with a double and in the seventh sealed the Cards' triumph with his first home run, a 400-foot blast well over the left field wall. All of his hits were off Met starter Jerry Koosman.

METS RALLY

The Mets rallied in the eighth, scoring a run with no outs on singles by Cleon Jones, Ed Charles and Ron Swoboda plus Jerry Grote's sacrifice fly.

But Joe Hoener replaced Gary Waslewski, who had relieved starter Steve Carlton after the first two singles, and pitched out of the jam by getting pinch-hitter Duffy Dyer on a pop and pinch-hitter Al Weis on a grounder.

The Mets scored their first two runs in the sixth on successive singles by Rod Gaspar Ken Boswell and Jones and an error by shortstop Dal Maxville on Swoboda's grounder.

* * *

St. Louis added two in the ninth on Pinson's double, an intentional walk to Torre and Mike Shannon's double.

Jones two-run homer in the Mets' ninth made it close.

Bullard Holds Lead in Magnolia Classic

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Jim Bullard held a one-stroke lead today as the $35,000 PGA Magnolia State Golf Classic moved into its second round.

The young rookie fired a five-under par 32-33-65 over the 35-35-70 Hattiesburg Country Club course, racing up six birdies and a bogey.

Rives McBee had five birds in his 32-34-66. His one bogey came on a missed eight-inch putt.

The event is the PGA's first satellite tournament of the year, staged under a year-old policy of providing action for pros not involved in an invitational tournament-such as the Masters, under way in Augusta, Ga.
