Dick Clark Next in House Probe

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—House investigators have come here to check information about the television practices of Dick Clark, idol of teen-agers.

The House subcommittee on Legislative Oversight announced the investigators' trip Tuesday. A spokesman said the information generally concerned the subcommittee's investigation of practices used to promote music.

The subcommittee announced recently that it would investigate payoffs to disc jockeys to play and promote records.

DICK CLARK

Clark's network issued a statement Tuesday night in New York.

The American Broadcasting Co. said it had "examined all the evidence available to us" on Clark's various shows and had concluded its investigation with "renewed faith and confidence in Dick Clark's integrity."

Clark, ABC went on, "has neither solicited nor accepted any personal considerations—money or otherwise—to have any performer appear—or to play any record—on any of his programs."

★ ★ ★

Clark declined all comment.

Earlier, it was announced the 29-year-old TV star had been told by ABC to either give up his outside business interests or his television shows.

Clark rose quickly to fame with his nationally televised disc jockey show, "American Bandstand." He also is master of ceremonies on the Saturday night "Dick Clark Show" from New York and he appears on a Sunday panel show.

Clark dropped the business interests: one-third ownership in a Philadelphia record company, and interests in three music publishing companies.

★ ★ ★

ABC said Clark volunteered to divest himself of these interests in line with a new policy "whereby performers and others who select and play records will be required to divest themselves of all interests in the recording, music publishing and allied fields."

★ ★ ★

ABC said it is investigating all its disc jockey shows.

The producer of Bandstand, Anthony Mamarella, given the same choice as Clark, resigned as producer of both "American Bandstand" and Clark's Saturday Night variety show.

Disc Jockey Hits Payola

Ed McKenzie Blows the Whistle on Record Company 'Payoffs'

Disc Jockey Ed McKenzie, contacted at his Bloomfield Township home this morning, said he was "surprised and honored" to be asked to write a story in the current issue of Life magazine blasting excessive commercialism and "payola" in radio programming.

McKenzie, who lives at 3847 Oakland Dr., quit a $60,000-a-year disc jockey position at WXYZ last March because of what he charged were incessant commercials, subservience to ratings and charts and pressures of "payola."

★ ★ ★

McKenzie has been with a Birmingham area FM station, WHRV, since leaving WXYZ.

"I was very surprised when Life approached me last week to do the story," he said today. "It was just something that came out of the blue.

"Why they chose me to write the story, I don't know. But I consider it an honor," he said.

McKenzie added that he believes "the magazine wanted me to do the story because of increased public interest coming from the current investigations into radio and television practices."

He was interviewed last week and wrote the story Friday, he explained.

In the magazine story McKenzie says:

"Because of the charts that are put together by numbers of music trade publishers that rate the popularity of records, I had to play music on my program that I would never have played otherwise.

"And the charts are phony because of the most disgusting part of the radio industry—payola."

Payola is described by McKenzie as "offering disc jockeys cash to play records they wouldn't ordinarily play."

When asked if he was happier now than last year McKenzie said without hesitation, "much happier. I just had to get away from what I was doing."

In his article, McKenzie writes: "I never took payola because to me it was completely dishonest, but I was often approached by small companies who were having a tough time getting their stuff on the air.

"They would say, 'Well, how

City Thaws Out After Unusual 2-Day Cold Spell

Thursday May Hit High of 40; Mercury at Near Normal Next 5 Days

A "warming trend" began to thaw out Pontiac and most sections of Michigan today in the wake of emergencies created by last night's unseasonable and record cold temperatures.

From a low of 11 degrees at 8 a. m. Tuesday, the mercury fluctuated during the noon hours reaching a high of 16 at various intervals.

A high of 32 degrees is predicted for today with a low of 27 tonight.

Skies will be mostly cloudy with southwesterly winds of 15 to 22 miles per hour becoming westerly 10 to 18 miles per hour tonight. Thursday's forecast calls for a high of 40 degrees.

Temperatures will average near normal over the next five-day period, according to the Weather Bureau, with only minor day-to-day changes Friday through Monday.

The normal maximum is 44, the normal minimum 31.

The Pontiac area can expect a total of one-tenth of an inch precipitation in light showers Saturday or Sunday.

Pontiac's low last night was 11 degrees, the same as that of the previous night when the frigid snap first arrived.

Marquette's thermometer reading of 2 last night was the state's low, compared with several zero readings yesterday.

Snow flurries were reported last night in some parts of Michigan, with Pellston and Traverse City collecting a total of 7 inches each.

POWER CUT OFF

During the height of last night's cold, an Edison Co. transformer blew out in Oak Park cutting off electric power to hundreds of families in a half mile square area.

The homes were without power from approximately 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Housewives suddenly found themselves in the dark.

Dinners being cooked on electric ranges were left half done. Furnaces regulated by electric thermostats were rendered useless.

Many of the families left their homes and moved in with friends and relatives as their homes grew colder.

The highest temperature recorded in downtown Pontiac before 8 a.m. was 14. The temperature at 2 p.m. was 22 with westerly winds at 10 miles per hour.

Icy Temperature Also Hits East; North Warmer

Cities Down Dixie Way Match 25-Degree Mark in Anchorage

By The Associated Press

A pre-winter cold wave that numbed the Rockies and the mid-continent earlier this week stung the East and the heart of Dixie today with the season's coldest weather.

It was colder in many parts of the South—below freezing—than in the snow-covered sections of the Northland, which made a quick recovery after two days of sub-zero blasts.

As gusty northerly winds powered the arctic air into the eastern half of the country, temperatures moderated in the Rockies and north central region. The warming trend followed record low readings for the date in the Midwest Tuesday.

The freezing weather spread southward across the Carolinas, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and south Texas. Temperatures were in the 20s.

Some Southern cities matched the 25-degree mark at Anchorage, Alaska. Some of the cold air seeped into Northern Florida.

Temperatures were in the 20s and teens across the Virginias, Pennsylvania, New York and New England. The icy air also extended over Kentucky and Tennessee. Snow fell in some sections of the Northeast.

MILD AT DENVER

It was a comparatively mild 37 above at Rapid City, S.D., and at Denver the mercury was in the low 40s. It was a chilly 25 at Danville, Va., Meridian, Miss., and Tuscaloosa, Ala.; 26 at Greenville, S.C.; 27 at Baton Rouge, at Atlanta; 29 at Charlotte, N.C., and 30 at Lake Charles, La.

Pittsburgh's 10 above was 36 degrees lower than 24 hours earlier and the below freezing mark at Baton Rouge was 31 degrees lower than Tuesday morning.

Temperatures in the Midwest advanced slowly during the night and early morning. Chicago had near zero weather Tuesday morning and a high of 13 during the day, but it was 16 this morning. Minneapolis reported 18 compared to -2 Tuesday.

Snow fell in sections of the Great Lakes, with seven inches reported at Pellston and Traverse City, Mich., and three inches at Erie, Pa. Flurries flecked areas in the colder air that spread across the northern Appalachians.

New Yorkers bundled up today as a wintery blast knocked the temperature down to 20.3 degrees.

A 30-mile an hour northwest wind added to the discomfort. Record temperature for the date is 18 set in 1936.

Racing was called off at the new $33,000,000 Aqueduct track because the course was frozen to a depth of two inches and too dangerous for the horses and jockeys.

Airport Bonds Plan Discussed

Willman Would Like to Work Out Sale Seen as 'Profitable for All'

The city administration is taking steps that would pave the way for new, locally-financed development at Pontiac Municipal Airport.

"We want to clear the deck there financially," said City Manager Walter K. Willman.

Although no specific construction plans are in mind, Willman said, the need for more hangar space has been mentioned frequently in the past year.

For many months, there has been a waiting list for the 50 individual "T" hangars which the city constructed at the airport in 1948 by means of an $80,000 revenue bond issue.

There's $65,000 still due on the bonds and Willman wants to buy them up.

★ ★ ★

He received permission last night from the City Commission to negotiate a sale with the Pontiac city employes pension board, which holds the bonds.

ENOUGH TO PAY OFF

Marvin Alward, city finance director, said there would be more than $65,000 accumulated in the special airport bond fund by the end of the year — more than enough to pay off the bonds.

Great Lakes Freighters in Trouble

Ice Bogs Down Vital Ore Ships

From Our News Wires

CHICAGO — A record breaking cold snap froze the East and South today and threatened Great Lakes skippers with an early freezeup.

Great Lakes freighters, trying to make up for time lost by the steel strike, battled gale force winds and heavy ice to get vital ore shipments to the recently opened mills.

★ ★ ★

The water was already beginning to freeze at the huge Duluth ore docks on Lake Superior. "The lake is finished steaming and that means a freezeup," a Coast Guard officer at Ashland, Wis., said.

One tugboat sank under the heavy weight of ice, a freighter was reported icebound in Lake Michigan and two barge tows had trouble getting through ice jams on the Mississippi River.

The Coast Guard at Sault Ste. Marie said there were close to 500 freighters still plying the lakes, about 50 of them, all ice-covered but in no immediate danger, passed through the Soo Locks yesterday.

The big freeze already had closed the ship canal through the Keweenaw Peninsula on Lake Superior. The locks on the Fox River in Lake Michigan's Green Bay were frozen so tight that not even Coast Guardsmen's axes could break them open.

Winds of 45 miles an hour and four-degree temperatures at Sault Ste. Marie caused a fishing boat to turn over and sink after its cabin and deck became coated by frozen spray.

The first icebreaker to be dispatched this autumn was ordered from Duluth to the harbor at Ashland, Wis., Coast Guard headquarters in Cleveland reported. The ore carriers James E. Davidson and Howard M. Hanna reported difficulty maneuvering near the ore docks because of ice. The icebreaker Woodrush was dispatched to aid them.

The Coast Guard reported 30 per cent of Ashland Harbor was covered with ice, which is up to six inches thick.

Docks and boathouses here were coated with ice and battered by winds.

State Senate Shies Away From Transportation Tax

LANSING (AP)—Senate Republicans, bowing to strong protests, backed away today from plans to tax bus riders, railroad fares and rail and truck freight shipments.

However, they quickened the search for offsetting new revenues through additional taxes on private residence, commercial and public works construction.

The main goal of the Senate Taxation Committee in a huddle with State Revenue Department experts was to hold together the GOP 74 million dollar emergency muisance tax program without stepping on too many toes.

★ ★ ★

Earlier, Republican senators were shaken in their endeavor by criticism registered in a flurry of letters, telegrams, telephone calls and by hard-working lobbyists.

When the question came up of revenue from the proposed levy on intrastate transportation services, Sen. Carlton H. Morris (R-Kalamazoo) cut it off as "academic."

"I don't think this will be in the bill much longer," Morris said. Sen. Clyde H. Geerlings (R-Holland), committee chairman, agreed.

"The taxes on buses and so forth —that's out," Geerlings said.

Committee members were told they could substantially preserve the revenue value of the services bill by applying tax to labor costs going into nearly all categories of construction.

★ ★ ★

In this area, 7½ million dollars alone could be derived from highway construction and another seven millions from putting the levy on private and commercial building, it was estimated.

A Republican caucus to take stock of the situation was set for this afternoon.

★ ★ ★

It remained to be seen whether the senators would shake off the initial shock and press their tax answer to a showdown vote.

Sen. Frank D. Beadle of St. Clair, GOP majority leader, thought they probably would, but others disagreed.

While the informal debate went on, the state treasury was barer than ever after allocation of $31,600,000 yesterday, mostly for schools, tomorrow's state payroll and long past due bills of state suppliers.

The state's current debt climbed to $82,700,000 headed for $93,500,000 by Nov. 30.

Ah, Yule Spirit —and to All a Good Fight?

LANSING (UPI) — If it had been mentioned 10 months ago when lawmakers convened for the 1959 session, it wouldn't have received an iota of consideration.

But today, lawmakers were thinking about putting up a Christmas tree in the House of Representatives.

Legislators said there was the possibility a tree might be contributed, apparently so lawmakers could get some of the flavor of the Yuletide season.

"There won't be any packages under the tree though," said one legislator. "All the packages have been used up in tax discussions."

Two Missing Deer Hunters From County Found Alive

Two missing hunters from Oakland County have been found, and another from Pontiac was found dead of a heart attack.

An 80-year-old Southfield deer hunter who was lost in the woods near Mio Monday night may lose his nose, doctors at the Mio Medical Center said today.

Elmo E. Richards of 21343 Negaunee St. was found yesterday when a search party of 40 men combed the area.

"He will probably lose his nose but we don't expect him to die," said Dr. Edward Stach. "His nose was frozen during his long exposure."

The other missing hunter, Charles Whaley, 33, of 3840 Elizabeth Lake Rd., Waterford Township, was found today, shivering and cold but otherwise in good condition after being lost overnight in a Kalkaska County swamp, police said.

Lyle A. Sarles, 62, of 1024 Lakeview Ave., was found dead Monday night after suffering a heart attack in his hunting cabin near Glennie.

A former resident of the Oxford area known locally as the "Potato King," Jack Williams, 62, of Mullet Lake, was found killed by a bullet in the back of his head east of Cheboygan today. Williams was found by a member of his own hunting party, Roy Bowers of Cheboygan.

State police said Williams, a retired farmer, apparently was hit by a bullet fired by an unknown hunter.

OK Cancer Weapon for Hospital

The Atomic Energy Commission has tentatively approved installation at Pontiac General Hospital of a big weapon against cancer—the so-called Cobalt "60" machine.

This was disclosed today along with details of a community plan to finance the $50,000 project.

The tentative approval gives almost virtual assurance that the cancer killer will be in operation here next year, probably in about six months, said Dr. Roger E. Crum, assistant radiologist at the hospital.

The City Commission last night gave the hospital permission to construct a special concrete-lined room at the rear of the hospital in which to house the machine.

Construction costs of $13,500 will be absorbed by the hospital's special gift fund of $28,000, said Harold B. Euler, hospital administrator. This fund is made up of private gifts for general improvements at the hospital.

The giant machine, price-tagged at $37,290, is being purchased with the financial help of several downtown Pontiac service clubs.

Scholle: Need Escalator Clause in Social Security

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Congress may be asked to consider escalator clauses in Social Security and other old age assistance on behalf of the nation's senior citizens.

The proposal by Michigan AFL-CIO President August Scholle was unique among many taken under consideration in two days of hearings before a Senate subcommittee probing needs of the aged and aging.

★ ★ ★

Sen. Patrick McNamara (D-Mich) heads the subcommittee which travels next to Miami, Fla., and Detroit before compiling its report.

Staffing director Sidney Spector believes the Scholle recommendation will draw favorable attention.

As Scholle explained in final sessions of the Grand Rapids hearing yesterday, it aims at easing problems of workers who have reached the age of 65 and are eligible to retire.

★ ★ ★

"If we are ever realistically to cope with this problem, Congress is going to have to provide for some type of escalator provision for both tax collections to adequately finance our whole retirement program as well as an escalator clause for retirement benefits," he said.

He opposed "specified amounts of dollars" as no answer to inflation problems for pensioners on fixed, meager income. A specific amount today, Scholle argued, may prove inadequate within 10 years to provide "even a very modest standard of living."

He also called for permission for pensioners to earn, besides their benefits, "an amount up to that annually determined by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics as necessary for a decent minimum standard of living."

McNamara was satisfied that the Grand Rapids hearings accomplished "at least calling attention to the problems of Michigan's 600,000 persons over 65."

There are 16 million persons in that age group throughout the United States and increasing longevity is expected to boost the number to 20 million within 10 years.

The subcommittee's investigation covers fields of medical care, financing adequate income, nursing home standards, age discrimination in employment, compulsory retirement and housing.

More than 20 oldsters directing comments from the floor in two "town hall" sessions indicated they favor priority for eliminating earning restrictions on Social Security recipients, abolishment of compulsory retirement and a halt to inflation.

★ ★ ★

A need for greater cooperation by local, state and federal governments in solving the problem summarized more than 30 formal reports by various officials.

Stolen Deer Meant More Than Just Meal

A Waterford Township man, Clayton Thomas, hopes that whoever stole a deer off the top of his car last night was desperate enough to need the animal for steaks and pot roasts.

Thomas said he was about to give the meat of the spike horn deer to some needy family anyway, but he wanted the hide to complete a new coat for his wife for Christmas.

For two blizzard-swept days, Thomas and his brother-in-law, Robert Dalma, 355 Rivard St., tramped through 3-inch snow near Glennie. They both spotted the deer, shot it at the same time and shortly after headed for home.

Thomas said he parked his car — and deer — in the Huron Bowl parking lot at 9:30 p.m. and went in to wait for his wife who was bowling in a women's league. He figured the best way to tell her about his luck was to show his prize.

At midnight the two went to the car. Not only was the deer missing but all the ropes holding him to the car had been used to cart him away as well.

Thomas wants the deer-hungry thief to enjoy the meat. "But please get that precious hide home to me at 4750 Ross St. as soon as possible," he said.

Hospital May Get Big Cancer Weapon

Rotary Club, has come up with pledges amounting to about one-half the machine's cost, Euler said.

The other half, approximately $18,000, is being donated by Dr. Crum and his associate, Dr. Z. F. Endress, chief radiologist.

The machine will be the first in Oakland County and one of the few in Michigan.

AT 3 OTHER HOSPITALS

Only three hospitals in Michigan have such a machine—Henry Ford and Detroit Memorial in Detroit and University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Euler announced that Dr. C. R. Williams, who has practiced machine therapy at Detroit Memorial for five years, is joining the staff of Pontiac General.

Cobalt therapy on cancer patients is similar to the more common X-ray therapy.

Radioactive waves are directed within the patient's body, trained on cancerous tumors to kill their growth.

But the cobalt waves penetrate the body deeper than X-rays, hitting at the deeper tumors, said Dr. Crum.

Another characteristic of the cobalt waves, he said, is that they do not threaten as much damage to outer tissues as X-rays.

Pontiac General's machine will probably be used exclusively on cancer patients, said Dr. Crum, although at some institutions there have been experiments using the machine for non-medical purposes.

Installation of the machine here means that the treatment will be available more handily to Pontiac patients. At present, Pontiac patients must go either to Detroit or Ann Arbor for Cobalt "60" treatment.

The therapy has the number "60" in its description, said Dr. Crum, because the radio-active material used is an isotope of normal Cobalt, whose atomic number is 59.

The machine resembles a giant X-ray machine, but is bigger and more complicated, said Dr. Crum.

The hospital already has ordered a source of radioactive cobalt from the White Plains, N.J. company that builds the machine.

It takes about eight months to prepare the source and Pontiac General's should be ready in about six months, said Dr. Crum.

To house the machine, the hospital plans to construct a small room at the rear of the hospital's main floor, next to the loading dock.

With a brick exterior, it will harmonize on the outside with the rest of the hospital plant but on the inside will be lined with 16-20 inches of concrete to absorb stray cobalt rays.

For the next two months, Ray says, he'll golf, hike and fish, trying to figure out if Johanna is the girl he wants to marry.

Toledo Debates Building Malls

Trial Ends on Monday; Talk a Permanent One but Not All in Favor

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — With Toledo's test of four downtown shoppers' malls scheduled to end next Monday, planners are debating whether to begin campaigning for permanent mall installations.

The trial malls were installed in the heart of downtown Toledo. Originally, the experiment was to run only 45 days, but the final date was extended.

Ned Skeldon, president of the Lucas County commissioners and the guiding light of the mall committee, said yesterday he favors building permanent malls on Madison avenue, with the cost shared by the city of Toledo and downtown real estate.

Later, he said, the mall committee could decide whether to proceed with permanent malls on Adams street and possibly two other streets.

Cost of building a permanent one-block mall range from Skeldon's estimate of $30,000 to a $100,000 guess by Laurance Murray, secretary-treasurer of the Toledo-Lucas County Plan Commission.

The cost of the experimental malls was just under $20,000, with the city of Toledo paying $15,000 and the downtown merchants contributing $4,143.

In early surveys, merchants of the immediate mall areas indicated they thought the experiment was helping business. Merchants not fronting on the malls were less enthusiastic. There have been no recent surveys.

All Rights Laws May Be Tested

A Universal Precedent Could Be Established by Present Cases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Justice Department official said Tuesday that more court suits would be filed against election officials in southern areas where Negroes are denied the right to register or vote.

Joseph M. F. Ryan Jr., acting head of the Department's civil rights section, said he felt that suits already in court, including one filed against Tennessee election officials Monday, might cover every method by which Negroes are denied their privileges.

Ryan said the Justice Department would continue to file suits although the ones now in court might set the precedent for all possible future cases.

"We have investigations going on in several cases," Ryan said. "Some of them are well on the road, and a couple of them look very good."

He did not say when or where the suits would be filed. However, Ryan said that the Department was not trying to file a suit in each southern state. The first four suits were filed in different states.

Woman Hospitalized After Car Hits Tree

Nora L. Callahan, 35, of 389 E. Beverly St., was taken to Pontiac General Hospital early this morning after her auto went out of control on a sharp curve on Montcalm street and smashed into a tree, according to Pontiac police.

She was listed in fair condition with fractured ribs. She was alone in the auto, said police.

Little Kimberly Wins Desperate Fight for Life

Doctors refused to give up hope when two-year-old Kimberly Fox was brought in to William Beaumont Hospital seven months ago with 65 per cent of her tiny body burned.

Their faith and tremendous efforts have paid off in a way that could not make them happier.

Kimberly went home, a happy bundle in a blanket, earlier this week. She celebrated her third birthday yesterday — very excited by the big cake with a candy mouse and flowers all around.

It was just the cake she had described to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fox of 26803 Alger St., Royal Oak.

"Living proof of a medical miracle" is how the doctors describe Kimberly today.

Critically burned April 14 in a car fire Kimberly admitted kindling herself, the youngster lay near death for months.

The plucky struggle she put up to remain alive was backed daily by specialists and staff members of Beaumont Hospital pooling their medical knowledge.

"There were times when even the finest medical science could contribute did not seem enough," a hospital official said.

Kimberly and the doctors were not alone in their gallant fight. The entire community of Royal Oak joined in drives and benefit dances to raise funds to finance the battle with death.

Today, Kimberly is reminded of the fire whenever someone lights a cigarette. She tells her mother "I'll never play with fire again." You have to believe her, her mother said.

The road to complete recovery still stretches into the future. There will be years of skin grafts and plastic surgery to rebuild scarred tissue.

★ ★ ★

"But it's just wonderful having her home again," exclaimed Mrs. Fox.

12-Town Drain Case Continues

County Will Defend Cost Figures in Court Today

It was Oakland County's turn today to tell how new costs were arrived at for the $47,102,000 12-town storm relief drain.

For one hour and 15 minutes yesterday, Harry N. Dell, attorney for Madison Heights, argued before Circuit Judge William J. Beer that the County Drainage Board failed to follow the law in setting apportionments.

"What the city challenges is the failure of the Drainage Board to evaluate at any time or to any degree what portion of the problem was being created by any municipality and what portion of the benefits was to be derived by any municipality," Dell said.

The county has struggled through court since 1952 trying to build the huge drain to supplement existing drains unable to cope with heavy rains in 14 south Oakland communities.

Madison Heights filed the current lawsuit contending taxpayers of the city would be assessed for transporting Southfield's run-off of rains.

Claude H. Stevens, representing the Drainage Board, was scheduled to present his side this morning. Judge Beer was not expected to make an immediate ruling on whether or not the board acted legally in fixing new costs.

Quit Over Payola, Ed McKenzie Says

much do you want to ride this record for the next three weeks?' They might offer $100 for a one-week ride, which would have meant playing the record several times a day to make it popular.

"Many disc jockeys are on the weekly payroll of five to 10 record companies, which can mean a side income of $25,000 to $50,000 a year . . .

"Payola usually begins when a song plugger or publisher comes to town and takes the jockey out for dinner. The sky's the limit on entertainment — drinks, girls, everything.

"There is always a big follow-up at Christmas. They flood you with liquor, TV sets, hi-fi sets, expensive luggage, big baskets of food, watches, silk shirts, imported sweaters.

"The flow doesn't stop after the holiday season. A record plugger once offered to install a bar in my basement. When one Detroit jockey moved into a new home, his property was landscaped with hundreds of dollars worth of evergreens and flowering shrubs and trees . . .

"Radio station managers are aware of all the bad practices of payola, but I guess they take the attitude that 'the kid isn't making much salary here, so if he can make a little on the side, God bless him.'"

Thieves Busy in Outdoor Skulduggery

The front yards of two area residents were emptier today. Thieves stole a statue and a dinner bell from them yesterday, according to Oakland County sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Robert Rehwoldt, of 1554 Rochester Rd., Avon Township, told deputies someone took a stone statue of the Virgin Mary from her yard.

The statue was 22 inches high and valued at about $15.

The family of Clinton Scott, 12345 Scott Lake Rd., Springfield Township, may be answering a different call for dinner next summer.

Scott reported that thieves had hauled off his 150-pound dinner bell valued at $35 from a post in his yard.

Satchmo Barred for Taking Troupe to Israel

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Louis Armstrong has been banned from Lebanon for taking his troupe to Israel, the head of the public security forces said Tuesday.

Commandant Toufic Jalboud denied in an interview, however, that there was any other reason for barring the American Negro trumpeter. The Egyptian press said last week that Lebanese security officials alleged that Satchmo was leader of an Israeli espionage network.

Jalboud said that shortly after Armstrong and his troupe played in Lebanon last summer they went on to Israel and played there. He had just learned of this and that was the basis for the decision banning further Armstrong visits. As far as he knew Armstrong had not asked for a new Lebanese entry visa.

The commandant explained there was agreement among Arab League states to bar from Arab territory persons who visit Israel or who obtain an Israeli visa. This was part of the joint Arab boycott of Israel.

"For certain persons we can—and do—make an exception. But we see no reason for making an exception in Armstrong's case," he added.

Policeman Hit in Waterford

Reserve Officer Struck by Jeep-Truck While Directing Traffic

A Waterford Township reserve police officer was seriously injured at 6 p.m. yesterday while directing traffic at the intersection of M59 and Elizabeth Lake roads.

Officer Harvey L. Gilchrist, 45, of 460 Lakeside Dr., Waterford Township, was hit by a jeep-truck, traveling east on M59, driven by Charles J. Keeran, 34, of 6319 Wilson Ct., Waterford Township.

The traffic light at the intersection was out of order, and Gilchrist was assisting regular Patrolman Ronald Freeman in directing the heavy homebound traffic.

Keeran told police he saw Freeman directing the traffic with two flares but did not see Gilchrist until he heard a bump and saw the officer lying on the road.

★ ★ ★

Gilchrist was standing on the east side of the center yellow line when he was hit and had been using two flashlights to direct the traffic.

The officer was taken to Pontiac General Hospital with a possible concussion, head cuts, a broken right knee and ankle. His condition was listed as fair by hospital attendants.

★ ★ ★

Gilchrist is regularly employed at the General Motors Truck & Coach Division.

City Teachers Rank High in Average Pay

The average teacher's salary in Pontiac is well above the average of the state, ranked high in the country.

The Michigan Education Assn. today announced Michigan's 1958-59 classroom teacher earned an average salary of $5,150, 11th highest in the United States.

Pontiac's public school teacher earned an average salary of $5,970.

Alaska led all states in teacher's salaries with an average of $6,400, followed closely by New New York, $6,200; and California, $6,050.

Others in the top 10 are Delaware, New Jersey, Connecticut, Arizona, Maryland, Nevada and Washington.

Cranberries OK, Canners Claim

Nation's Producers Ask Flemming to Reassure Public of Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cranberry producers asserted today that their products now on the market are safe to eat. They called on Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming to give that reassurance to the American public.

★ ★ ★

Ambrose E. Stevens, general manager of a farmers cooperative which he said represents 75 per cent of the cranberry crop, said canned cranberry sauce now on store shelves was made from berries harvested in 1958.

Neither the federal food and drug administration nor producers, Stevens said, have any reason to believe that last year's crop was improperly treated in any manner with the weed killer aminotriazole.

"The very careful restrictions made by us on fresh berries also indicate that 10 million pounds of fresh cranberries in grocery stores are also entirely pure," Stevens added.

HARMS RATS

Traces of the weed killer, which has been found to cause cancer in rats, have been detected in some lots of cranberries.

This discovery prompted Flemming to caution the public last week on what he called the possible hazard in eating the favorite Thanksgiving and Christmas season sauce unless it could be identified as coming from a safe area.

Contaminated cranberries were found in Detroit yesterday. However, authorities said there was no danger.

Dr. Joseph G. Molner, city-county health officer, said traces of the weed-killer aminotriazole were found in a shipment of 44,800 cans of cranberries labeled "Grosse Pointe quality."

Molner said most of the contaminated cans had been sold through independent grocery stores and the berries probably were eaten. He ordered any remaining cans bearing the brand name removed from store shelves.

Stevens at a conference called by Flemming presented a five-point industry program designed to relieve Americans of any worry.

★ ★ ★

The industry plan, involving testing, destruction of contaminated crop and research, has already been undertaken to some extent.

The Day in Birmingham

Restore School Mural; Fading Still a Mystery

BIRMINGHAM — Restoration of the mural in the Harlan Elementary School in Bloomfield Township has been completed but the cause of its fading still remains a mystery.

★ ★ ★

The valuable mural depicting education through a child's eyes, painted by Marvin Beerbohm when the school was first opened, was fading in one corner several months ago.

At first it was thought by principal of the school Edward Crandall and artist Beerbohm to be the fault of the sun.

However, after inspection, it was discovered that at 4 p.m. the entire mural was bathed in sun for an hour and 15 minutes.

★ ★ ★

Beerbohm still couldn't determine whether the sun was at fault because it seemed to be worse in some parts than in others.

The only solution, he felt, was to restore its original color. The mural is painted on linen over a plastic base.

For the next month and a half Beerbohm spent two hours a day, two days a week, restoring the six by 20 foot mural.

Dr. Richard L. Featherstone, assistant superintendent of the Birmingham School Board, said that the painting, which was done by "old world methods and should last forever," would be protected from the sun by window drapes should the mural continue to fade.

A science workshop center where teachers can organize science projects, for classroom use, has been set up at Adams School.

The center is equipped with saws, sanders, a drill press, work tables and tools of every type.

The center came about when it was realized that more teachers would incorporate better science teaching into their planning if equipment, instructional direction and physical help were made available.

Approximately 25 teachers from the Birmingham School District are enrolled in the course.

A discussion and demonstration on fire prevention will be presented to the Birmingham Senior Men's Club Friday by the General Motors Truck Division.

★ ★ ★

The discussion group's topic for that day will be "Our Shrinking Dollar—Do You Want a Ten Cent Dollar."

ROBERT D. LONG

Taylor Appoints Chief Assistant

Long Will Be Top Aide to Next Prosecutor of Oakland County

Robert D. Long has been appointed chief assistant prosecutor for Oakland County, it was announced by George F. Taylor, who becomes prosecutor Dec. 1.

★ ★ ★

Taylor made the announcement today as plans were formulated for his own swearing-in ceremony Dec. 1 in Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty's courtroom.

Long, 48, will take over the second-highest post in the prosecutor's office the same day Taylor, the former chief assistant, succeeds Prosecutor Frederick C. Ziem.

Ziem becomes circuit judge Jan. 1. As chief assistant Long will receive $10,000 a year. He received $7,600 as first assistant.

STARTED IN 1946

The new chief assistant was named first assistant in March 1954 by Ziem. He started with the office in September 1946 when he was named assistant by former Prosecutor L. Harvey Lodge.

He didn't stay long, leaving in January 1947 to return to private law practice in Pontiac.

Long was in the Army as a captain from April 1942 to March 1946 serving as executive officer in the military government division in Washington.

★ ★ ★

Before entering the Army he had been in private law practice since 1937.

He was graduated from Michigan State University in 1936.

Before he was named assistant Long served as court clerk for Judge Doty.

WIFE, 3 CHILDREN

Long, who lives with his wife and three children at 48 Delaware Dr., received his law degree from the Detroit College of Law.

Taylor has not named his new first assistant.

★ ★ ★

County Clerk-Register Daniel T. Murphy Jr. will administer the oath of office to Taylor during ceremonies presided over by the five Circuit Court judges.

Two Men Found Dead in Trailer

Hunting Victims Now Stand at 21 in 4-Day Michigan Season

By The Associated Press

Two men were asphyxiated in their trailer Tuesday, bringing to 21 the number of hunters who have died since the opening of Michigan's deer season last Sunday.

The bodies of William Goldberg of Spring Lake and Don Sherwood of Ferrysburg were found by hunters in their trailer in Garfield Township, about 15 miles southeast of Kalkaska.

State Police said their deaths apparently were caused by fumes from a faulty heater. Two hunters had previously died under similar circumstances.

★ ★ ★

Two hunters have been killed by gunshot wounds since the start of the four-day-old season. 14 have died of heart attacks and the cause of another death is unknown.

George Washington died on Dec. 14, 1799.

Willman Has Plan on Airport Bonds

agreed the maneuver would be financially profitable for both sides.

The city would save three per cent interest for the life of the bonds — they run until 1990 — and the pension board would have cash to invest at more attractive interest rates, they said.

Alward believed the pension board could get up to five per cent or better on today's market.

If the bonds were picked up, revenues from hangar rentals would become available for airport operation or hangar construction, Willman said.

Wiping out of the old bond issue would also put the city in a good position to float a new revenue bond issue, it was agreed.

Homer D. Hoskins, airport manager, has often stressed the need for more hangar space.

MORE SPACE NEEDED

The 50 hangars are described as "T" hangars because they are constructed to conform with the "T" shape of a small airplane. The hangars are meshed together in long, rectangular metal buildings.

Each "T" unit cost $1,800 when constructed, but the cost has soared over the years to $4,000 apiece today, Hoskins noted. The 50 were put up by Department of Public Works employes.

Shortage of hangar facilities will be one facet of the airport under scrutiny of the City Commission tomorrow. The seven commissioners will tour the airport as a result of two offers by private capital concerning the airport.

One would like a $2,500,000 aircraft service center providing hangar, maintenance and overnight facilities next to the airport.

The other is an offer to lease Hangar No. 2 to one concern at $18,000 a year, about $8,000 more than the city is getting from the smaller lessees who are sharing the building now.

★ ★ ★

It has been noted that if any of the smaller lessees are forced out of Hangar 2, they would have no place at the airport, unless new facilities are constructed, either by themselves or by the city.

Railroad Poor; President Can't Afford His Car

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — For the man who has everything, how about a president's railroad car this Christmas?

William I. Ginsburg, president of the Rutland Railway, said Tuesday the railroad business is so bad he can't afford to use his private car, even by hooking it onto a freight train for a short trip to Ogdensburg, N. Y.

He told a Public Service Commission hearing: "If anyone wants to buy a president's car, I have one for sale."

Noted Brazilian Composer Dies

Heitor Villa-Lobos Was Author of Over 1,000 Musical Pieces

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The body of Heitor Villa-Lobos, South America's most noted composer, lay in state today in the Ministry of Education.

Villa-Lobos died Tuesday at his home here of a kidney ailment. He was born in Rio de Janeiro at a time when the city kept no birth records and listed his age variously at from 72 to 78 years.

★ ★ ★

Villa-Lobos was the author of more than 1,000 compositions.

He found his chief musical inspiration in Brazil's complex culture, with its Portuguese, African and Indian strains. He used these folk themes and rhythms with great variety.

His father, a cellist, gave Villa-Lobos his first musical training. He went to Europe after World War I, made a name as a conductor and composer, then returned in the mid-1920s to devote his life to Brazil's musical life.

★ ★ ★

He became director of Brazil's department of musical education in 1931, organized his own orchestra in Rio in 1933, and in 1942 founded the National Conservatory of Choral Singing.

He made his first visit to the United States in 1944, and thereafter he conducted frequently there.

Massachusetts' Furcolo Will Run for Senate

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. Foster Furcolo (D) will run for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) in next year's election, he indicated Tuesday. He said his final decision will be made in February.

★ ★ ★

Saltonstall defeated Furcolo for the seat in the 1954 election.

"It's always good to campaign against someone who's beaten you once," the governor told a news conference.

Commission Studies Traffic in Explosives

Some weeks ago Chief Fire Inspector CHARLES METZ, along with GEORGE RICHMOND, president of the Downtown Merchants Association, expressed serious concern over the routing of explosive-laden trucks through the main business section of Pontiac.

★ ★ ★

On August 21 The Press expressed similar concern and suggested that our City government study the situation. Definite action has now been taken and City Attorney William A. Ewart has drawn up an ordinance for the City Commission to study.

★ ★ ★

The proposed ordinance is aimed at preventing a holocaust like the one in Roseburg, Oregon, last summer. It was there that a truck exploded in the heart of town, killing several persons and maiming many.

The PRESS is still of the opinion, along with the Fire Inspector and many of the merchants, that a serious accident could occur in downtown Pontiac. Since this is the case, it is heartening to see our City Commission studying the matter.

Undoubtedly there are many ramifications concerning the type of law which should be passed. But, as we mentioned before, we are of the opinion that other cities have come up with a proper solution which might well suffice here.

★ ★ ★

It does not seem reasonable to believe that we should have to continue over too long a period before some adequate action can be taken. As one Commissioner suggested, we should not move on hysteria, but rather facts. We agree with this reasoning, but at the same time feel early action is necessary in order to prevent some unnecessary destruction and perhaps even killings.

★ ★ ★

Administration to Offer Fresh Farm Program

The Secretary's National Agricultural Advisory Committee has recommended that a move be made toward elimination of controls and lower price supports. It specifically recommends that controls be taken off wheat in 1961.

The commission advises that wheat supports should be cut to 75 per cent of the previous three year market average for the years 1961-63. The floors thereafter should be 90 per cent of the previous three year average. The commission also suggests enlarging the soil bank program.

The root of the trouble is excessive price supports. Because of this farmers now are producing far more food than can be consumed. The Government has over $9 billion invested in surplus commodities and storage bills are enormous.

High price supports came into being to insure farm production during a national emergency. That is long past and every effort to control production has produced more surpluses. Last year, for instance, the smallest number of acres planted in 40 years resulted in the greatest yield in our history. The whole idea of acreage control is obsolete due to advances in agricultural technology.

★ ★ ★

The present unrealistic parity formula is based on the years 1910-1914 and is supposed to give the farmer a fair return on costs and labor. President EISENHOWER and Secretary BENSON hope to give this a more up-to-date look by assessing parity on market averages over the preceding three years. This would mean lower subsidies and farm state Senators and Representatives will be audibly indignant.

★ ★ ★

The crux of the matter is that until the incentive to grow useless crops is removed, the surpluses will keep piling up in Government bins. The only way out is to return to the principles of supply and demand in a free market.

IT IS exceedingly rare that a woman suffers in silence — unless she happens to have lockjaw.

It now is assured that the Pontiac area will be the ski center of our state's largest concentration of population. Local winter resorts are getting ready for the crowds.

Directly on the four lane Dixie Highway, midway between Pontiac and Flint, and with all of the natural and man made advantages, the skiing facilities at Mount Holly have been completely rebuilt during the off season. It only awaits the proper weather and may open much earlier than usual.

The French Strong Man

David Lawrence Says:

Gomulka Strikes at Press, Peace

WASHINGTON — When the Red China regime refuses to permit American newsmen to enter that country, there is a big hullabaloo, but when the Communist leader who runs Poland sends an American newsman home because his dispatches aren't written to suit the government, there's relatively little noise in protest.

LAWRENCE

One would think that the "right to know" crusaders in our country would be so incensed they would be organizing demonstrations of disapproval.

One would suppose that this exhibition of what Communist tyranny really means would raise doubts as to how there can be "peaceful coexistence" in an atmosphere of suspicion, and of what benefit "cultural exchanges" can be when truth is suppressed.

One would suppose, too, that throughout the United States many of the persons who were taken in by the sugar-coated words spoken by Nikita Khrushchev during his visit to America would be taken aback by this evidence of Communist doubletalk.

For of what avail is it to argue for closer relations with Communist countries when the main vehicle of communication—the press—is sabotaged?

The Soviet leader boasted of the superiority of "communism" over "capitalism." But not a word of hope did he ever give out that the peoples living under the Communist system would have a press that could print the truth about public affairs.

The expulsion of A. M. Rosenthal, correspondent for the "New York Times" in Poland, was brought about by Wladyslaw Gomulka, the Polish Communist boss. The foreign office spokesman in Warsaw, acting under Gomulka's instructions, said to Rosenthal:

"The question of falseness or otherwise does not enter. You have written very deeply and in detail about the internal situation, party matters and leadership matters, and the Polish government cannot tolerate such probing reporting."

WHAT HE SAID

And what had Rosenthal written? Here is an excerpt:

"Always moody and irascible, M. Gomulka is more withdrawn these days and seems hotter-tempered than ever. He is said to have a feeling of having been let down—by intellectuals and economists he never had any sympathy for anyway; by workers . . . by suspicious peasants. . . .

"M. Gomulka has made it clear that he thinks there has been too much liberalism among the intellectuals, too much interest in western ways. . . .

"More than ever since 1956 there are barriers between M. Gomulka and some of the men who are important in his party. . . . M. Gomulka runs the Polish Communist ship, but it is not a happy one."

This was a story of friction inside the government. In America and Britain and France and Italy, where there's a free press, differences of opinion can be reported without fear of punishment.

But the Communist concept is that what a foreign correspondent writes must always be pleasing to the powers that be. Indeed, the Soviet government doesn't allow any correspondents to remain in residence in Moscow unless their dispatches to the rest of the world satisfy the Communist regime.

Foreign publications whose editorials are very critical of the Soviets are not permitted to have correspondents regularly behind the Iron Curtain.

Careful scrutiny of all applications for visas is made by the Soviet foreign office, which says, in effect, that unless a correspondent slants his news dispatches or broadcasts to suit the Communists or omits mention of facts unpleasant to the Communists, he cannot remain.

There have been instances in which correspondents who went home for a vacation were not allowed to return. This device is used to shroud in secrecy the refusal of a visa.

Dr. William Brady Says:

Physical Examinations Not Always Necessary

"Please write a column scolding small town doctors for their attitude toward complete physical examinations. When we go to a doctor here and ask for a thorough examination the doctor merely asks, 'What's wrong with you?'

"Recently I read a number of magazine articles urging persons past forty to have periodic examinations for cancer, etc., but again the local doctor's reaction to this request is 'What makes you think you might have cancer?'

DR. BRADY

"Am I a hypochondriac for thinking a periodic physical or health examination is advisable for everybody over forty? (Mrs. R. L.)"

A person in whose family there has been diabetes should report once a year to his doctor for sugar test and advice about food habits and drinking and general exercise.

A person of any age who notices anything out of the ordinary that gives rise to the thought of cancer should go at once to his or her physician for examination, of course leaving it entirely to the physician's judgment what sort of examination or what tests to make.

Mrs. R.L. says she is a very healthy woman, never ill a day with anything more serious than flu or a cold. Yet she keeps thinking it would be a good idea to have a thorough physical examination once in a while.

★ ★ ★

I'm a very healthy man, and I'd hate to waste two or three hours undergoing a "thorough physical examination." I could spend the time a good deal more profitably, I believe, bowling on the green.

★ ★ ★

Physicians themselves rarely submit to periodic physical examinations. Some readers may remember that I told here, a little while ago, of the experiment of the King's County (Brooklyn, N. Y.) Medical Society.

The society resolved that every member should have a health examination, to encourage the laity to do likewise. But only a handful of doctors bothered to have an examination and the society dropped the idea.

Unquestionably periodic health tests make it possible to detect a considerable number of cases of diabetes, tuberculosis, cancer in its earliest stage when treatment is most effective.

But, after all, such disease rarely if ever occurs without symptoms—symptoms which should take the individual to his or her physician.

So I'd say that instead of urging everybody (that is, everybody who has money to spend on a fishing expedition) to report periodically, it would be better for health, for everybody's personal health, to teach people NOT to trifle with symptoms but to go to the family physician then.

This management of the problem would do away with analgesics, sedatives, tranquilizers, tonics, regulators, hypnotics, narcotics, stimulants and the untold evils the indiscriminate use of such dope entails.

So we lost $2,000 each? Norman Buckner must be on the money side or his father was. My dad can only leave me working conditions. I can only leave my children better working conditions, because, union or no union, the money men will only allow me or anyone else who works for aliving is just so much.

Industry wanted to dictate. This country needs a war of independence between the working man and the money man so industry will allow us to make $5,000 a year. Waterford Housewife must be only repeating what she picked up in some conversation over the back fence. She should have been around before the union came into being. Unions were forced upon working people by slavery ideas employers had.

One Who Has Been Through the Mill

Case-Records of a Psychologist:

Bad Life Doesn't Pay for Good One

Lee's tragic case shows the great need for progressive newspapers to lead the way in sound education for happy marriage. His mother admits she is partly to blame, but if she had been taught how to make her marriage happy, four lives would have been saved. And the non-profit booklets like the one offered today are a quick method newspapers use to combat delinquency.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE D-403: Lee S., was 7, when his parents got a divorce.

★ ★ ★

Before he was 18, Lee was sentenced to 30 years in prison for the bludgeon slaying of a Colorado novelty salesman.

CRANE

Earlier this year of 1959, Lee led a prison revolt in Montana, where he killed a Deputy Warden.

Holed up in a tower of the prison, Lee faced an attack from the Montana National Guardsmen, so Lee killed his pal and then blew his own head off, acording to Warden Floyd Powell's final report.

Lee's mother took a bus to Montana to claim the body.

"He was a stinker," she said, "but he paid for it. He blew his head off.

★ ★ ★

"It's partly my fault. I don't think any kid goes bad if his mother and father do their job."

PSYCHOLOGICAL DETECTIVES

Do you readers think Lee paid for his crimes by blowing his head off?

Remember, he killed two innocent men, in addition to slaying his convicted pal. Possibly, he may have paid for the death of his prison pal, but his unworthy life is NOT full payment for the two innocent men!

One of them, a father of young children, was killed in cold blood.

So don't glibly say that a murderer "pays" for his crime because he gets killed.

Even if such a crook slays but one innocent and upright householder, a bad life doesn't pay for a good life!

ACCESSORIES TO CRIME

But Lee's mother is probably right in saying kids don't go bad if their father and mother do their job

Even there, we might demand a few exceptions, for most Counsellors on marriage problems will find occasional "mad dog" youngsters from excellent homes.

And by "excellent homes" I don't refer to financial status or two-car garages, etc.

No, I have personally interviewed grieving parents who went out of their way to help wayward sons or daughters. These good parents also set a fine positive example in their personal lives.

They did about everything in the psychology textbooks, yet still their children went wrong.

For some psychopathic kids get a wrong slant on life very early and stubbornly refuse to conform to the rules of the game. Or they follow a lot of pernicious advertising and bad movie or TV influences, so even good parents may not always keep them straight.

But in general, a broken home certainly predisposes the children therein to delinquency.

And what produces these broken homes in the first place? Often the failure of society to instruct young married couples in the simple A-B-C methods for happy marriage.

Divorces are just as likely to occur because of sins of omission, as from the more evident sins of commission.

Divorce Court Judges, as well as Counsellors everywhere, realize that divorce usually starts in the bedroom, generally due to inadequate facts.

So send for the booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents (non-profit).

This single booklet might have saved Lee's parents from divorce and thus have prevented his murders.

High Corrosion Loss From Salt Predicted

CHICAGO (UPI) — Corrosion damage because of salt spread to thaw snow and ice on highways will cost the nation's auto owners about 10 million dollars this winter, the Rust-Oleum Corp. predicted today.

De-icer salt has been the major cause of rust damage, and is especially hard on chrome, mufflers and tail pipes, the company said.

State Men Get Posts With Building Group

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two Michigan men yesterday were elected to office in the National Building Material Distributors Association.

M. S. McCreery, Jackson, was named vice president, and Walter G. Arsh, Detroit, was named to the board of directors.

Wants NATO Language Aid

Advisory Group Seeks Help Renting Barrier in Afro-Asian Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 15 North Atlantic Treaty nations were asked Tuesday to finance a joint $500,000 program to help lift the "language curtain" separating the West from Asia and Africa.

The program was proposed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) who complained that the West is "tongue-tied" in contrast with the Communists who have undertaken "ambitious" efforts to woo new Afro-Asian nations in their native tongues.

Jackson recommended the four-point program in a report to the fifth annual NATO parliamentians' conference. The weeklong assembly opened Monday in the house caucus room. About 150 lawmakers from all NATO nations except Luxembourg were on hand.

The report was expected to win joint endorsement of the conference's science and cultural affairs committees before it reaches the floor for debate. Jackson is chairman of the science committee.

The report called on the NATO council to launch a language fellowship program, finance support of study institutes and seminars, published a guide to teaching materials and an inventory of teacher resources available to the West, and appoint a language-area adviser.

The council, with headquarters at Paris, is the governing body of the Atlantic alliance. The parliamentians conference has no legislative power, but its recommendations have been influential in shaping NATO policy.

The report complained of an "acute" shortage of Asian and African linguists in the West and said "our teaching tools are sketchy or nonexistent" for 70 important African and Asian languages.

See Annexation in Time

OWOSSO (UPI)—A majority of residents of Owosso, Corunna and Caledonia townships do not favor annexation at this time to the city of Owosso, a survey by Michigan State University has indicated. But, most of those polled said they believed the townships would be joined to the city within 20 years.

He Guards President of Liberia

U.S. Policeman's Job Is Unique

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — A Louisville policeman with a quick eye for trouble is responsible for protecting the life of President Wil-

He is A. Wilson Edwards, a big, muscular Kentuckian who was the first Negro policeman ever to be made a lieutenant in the Louisville police force. For nearly two years Edwards, now 51, has been setting up a Liberian secret service known as "Special Services."

Edwards has made himself so useful the President wants him to stay four more years.

Guarding Tubman is a special ordeal in police work.

"He's a very gregarious man," Edwards says. "And that creates special problems."

The president sees 100 people every day at his office. They all have to be checked. The President also likes to travel — and often to the remote parts of his republic, where police work gets into the domain of jungle exploration and witchcraft. He is also apt to take a notion suddenly to visit some new project in Monrovia, and this sets police bells ringing.

Edwards' 100 men keep a 24-hour watch in six-hour shifts on the presidential mansion.

ADMIRES TUBMAN

The Louisville policeman has become a great admirer of Tubman.

"He's really done a hell of a job," Edwards said. "He goes all over the country, to the schools, the plantations, the farm projects. He's made Liberia a nation."

★ ★ ★

Shortly before the presidential elections last May — Tubman was elected for his fourth term — Edwards and his men arrested 27 persons attempting to bring explosives into Liberia. Edwards thinks they intended to create chaos. The President ordered them all released after the election.

Edwards has a special problem in Liberia because of the 36 tribes speaking different dialects. He is trying to get a man from each tribe in his service.

While the primary function of the force is to protect the President, its secondary aim is "to collect, evaluate and build files of information for future use on subversives, traitors, revolutionists and enemies of the republic."

The Louisville policeman came to the attention of President Tubman through Vice President William R. Tolbert, who visited the United States several years ago. Edwards was assigned to guard him.

★ ★ ★

Tubman's invitation followed in 1957. "I just handed the house keys to the Hacketts next door and came over," Edwards said. The Hacketts are neighbors of the Edwardses, who live at 1023 Southwestern Parkway, Louisville.

Uruguay, tiniest South American republic, depends almost entirely upon its sheep and cattle products for export trade.

Considine Asks Truman About Ike's Trip

'May Be of Great Benefit'

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. — Former President Harry S. Truman looked over two mounds of correspondence on his desk in the beautiful library which bears his name and his historic papers and wishes President Eisenhower well, on the latter's impending 11-nation trip.

"I hope it makes for better understanding of us in those countries," Mr. Truman said of the trip of a successor with whom he has not been on very good terms.

"I hope President Eisenhower comes through the ordeal without damage to himself. There's always danger on a trip as long and active as that. But I think the trip may be of great benefit to all of us, and I hope it will."

Mr. Truman was less enthused over President Eisenhower's newfound relations with Nikita Khrushchev.

★ ★ ★

"I read about all the nice talks," he said of the Russian premier's visit. "I'm sorry, but I just have no confidence in those fellows. The Russians broke 32 agreements with me and ten with President Roosevelt. Khrushchev made a lot of references to thawing out the Cold War. If they had lived up to the Potsdam Agreement, if they had obeyed what they signed, there never would have been a Cold War to thaw out.

"Every American ought to read what they promised there and then betrayed. Get it at any library or good bookstore."

Mr. Truman, who at 75 will campaign for the 1960 Democratic presidential nominee (and try to refrain from plugging for one in advance of the convention), retains his salty view of our life and times.

If he backs away from any topic it is even the barest hint of criticism of President Eisenhower, or any past President of the United States, for that matter. He has enormous respect for the office, and the Truman Library's exhibits show this reverence.

He can disassociate the personality from the position, however. "It remains to be seen how long it will take the country to recover from the steel strike," he said of that economic disaster.

"Things like that could have been averted years ago if the Supreme Court had made (chief justice) Fred Vinson's minority report, when a big strike during my administration went to the Supreme Court, the accepted law of the land.

"Fred argued in his brief that the President has the power, implied perhaps, but the power, to save the country from disaster — military or economic. The majority — it was 6-3 split — never made any sense. Presidential power properly defined could have ended the recent steel strike a long time ago."

Apropos, we asked him why we're having so much trouble in Latin America.

"Don't ask me," he grinned. "We didn't have that kind of trouble when I was around."

Territorial Waters Limits Discussed

LONDON (UPI) — Officials from 10 NATO nations and Spain sought Tuesday to find a common policy on what territorial and fishing water limits should be in the future.

They met for the second time in a confidential conference which opened here.

The United States, Britain, France, Belgium, West Germany, Greece, Italy, The Netherlands, Portugal, Spain and Turkey are participating in informal talks.

Their discussion was understood to center around a United States proposal calling for a six-mile territorial waters limit, plus another six miles for a fishing zone.

The U. S. proposal received considerable support at last year's international conference on the law of the sea at Geneva, but failed to get the required two-thirds majority to be adopted by the full conference.

Master Your Tensions

Help Out Someone Else, You'll Really Be Living

GEORGE S. STEVENSON, M.D. and HARRY MILT

During World War II, Helen, a childless widow of 50, joined the Red Cross and spent her spare time knitting sweaters and rolling bandages. Other women, with sons in the service, wondered why.

Helen's reason: "After my husband died, I got to brooding and pitying myself. So I decided to keep busy and do a patriotic duty at the same time.

After awhile I got to worrying about all those soldiers I didn't even know. Next thing, I had forgotten all about my own worries."

Her experience is a wonderful object lesson. Doing for others benefits you three ways:

1. It breaks the stranglehold of your moodiness.

Tension, unfortunately, fixes your attention on yourself. If, for example, your anxiety is concerned with illness, every twinge is magnified. You can't do anything except sit still and worry.

Even harder to break is a mood of desperation. Doing something for someone else not only breaks the tension but forces your attention away from yourself.

2. It brings to the fore a feeling of strength.

Ronald chose working with home-bound polio victims as his way of breaking tension. This chased away his feelings of self-doubt, he reported, and made him feel worthwhile.

If your tensions are caused by job frustration, doing something for others is especially valuable.

You can get creative satisfaction from helping sick or needy people.

3. It brings forth your generous impulses.

When you are insecure, you feel negative emotions. As you experience positive emotions, by helping, you lose the feeling of insecurity and the tension it creates. Donna, who does volunteer work in an orphanage, expressed it this way:

"My friends tell me I'm a different person when I'm working as a volunteer."

It is never to late to develop the impulse to share and give, or to revive it. You can start simply.

1. SHOW OTHERS

Everybody likes to be noticed, so start noticing them. Say "hello" to your neighbors, the grocery store clerk, the elevator operator, the men and women who work with you, the people you meet on the bus.

★ ★ ★

With people you know a little better, go further. Remark about a new hairdo or clothing. Ask about children, wife, husband. Don't underestimate the effect of these little comments and inquiries.

We assume you show this kind of interest in your own family—or do you?

A very important place to do something is right at home. It may take an effort to listen to your son or daughter tell about what happened at school, or listen to your wife tell about crowded stores and impossible prices, or your husband tell about how he "put over a deal." But make the effort.

And interest in others should go beyond asking, commenting and listening. Ask your neighbor to drop in and try your new cake. When the neighbor's children have birthdays, bake some cookies. Make it a point to ask to lunch some fellow employe who doesn't get asked too often.

WHY NOT HELP OTHERS? — The patient and the volunteer both will feel well when a helping hand is extended.

2. HELP OTHERS

Some people find it very difficult to give either time and attention or material things because they feel it will weaken them and make them more insecure. Yet we know this isn't so. It is giving, not holding, that brings security and helps reduce tensions.

If you make it a practice to give, you will develop a concern for others, and will feel less concerned about yourself.

A good way to start is by making contributions to charitable and service organizations. Even if you give to 20 organizations $2 each, this will still come only to $40. Certainly you spent that amount on some things you wouldn't miss. There is even value in depriving yourself of things you would miss because self-denial is important in developing the "we" feeling.

When it comes time to buy gifts for relatives or friends don't rush out at the last minute and pick up something the recipient will put away in a closet. Take the extra time to select something appropriate, interesting and useful.

And if you are inclined to hold back on essential household expenditures, even though you can afford them, you should make an effort to lossen up. The money may look nicer (to you) in your bank book, but how can you balance that against the resentment your extra-conservative policy creates?

3. JOIN

Better even than giving individually is giving as part of a group. As a member of a service organization you can see large scale improvements taking place in the community. And working with others also helps reduce your concentration on yourself. It helps build up a feeling of inter-dependence essential to emotional well being.

★ ★ ★

Is there anything that any of us — sick or well — craves more than acceptance, friendship, compassion and love of others? But love and acceptance are not for the asking.

They are for giving. And as you give to others — in time and energy, in consideration and attention, in acceptance and love, in material goods — you will win the appreciation and love of those to whom you give.

You also will win for yourself much greater peace of mind, much greater relief from tension.

Norman Thomas Predicts:

Russ Economy, Ours to Meet

(Editor's Note: Few people ever took seriously the six presidential campaigns waged by Socialist Norman Thomas. But despite the "Socialist" label on his ideas, some of them have found a way into accepted practice. On the eve of his 75th birthday, Thomas looks ahead again. In the following exclusive dispatch he predicts that the governmental systems of the United States and Russia will move closer together.)

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Norman Thomas, socialism's chief spokesman in America for two generations, predicted today that neither socialism nor communism will prevail in the world of 1980 but rather a new form of capitalism.

Both the United States and Russia are moving toward this form, he said, but it still will be "garrison state capitalism . . . for security through military strength will be the prime motivating factor."

"It is not socialism or communism that will prevail 20 years from now, if we are to continue as we are now without catastrophe," said the six times unsuccessful candidate for the presidency who will be 75 years old next Friday.

"What we will have is capitalism practiced by the state for the benefit of the state. This will approximate the Russian system, so there will be little to fight over."

By 1980, Thomas said, government and Big Business will have merged, a trend already clearly defined by the mushrooming economic power of a relatively small number of great industrial corporations and the appointive posts of enormous executive power in Washington occupied by their representatives. The vast and expensive efforts of waging a cold war with Russia serve to magnify and hasten this development.

SECURITY AT A PRICE

"Americans seem prostrate before the trend," Thomas said. "All they want is security. State capitalism will give them this, but at what a price!"

The still-handsome veteran of many a proletarian crusade is the first to admit that socialism itself has made little progress in America since some of its social welfare and economic planning precepts were incorporated into Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal.

He says he sometimes feels like a voice crying in the wilderness—but it is a voice that has the respect of some of the nation's best minds.

Thomas' role as something of an elder statesman is amply demonstrated by the impressive list of sponsors for a gala birthday dinner at the starlight roof of the Waldorf-Astoria Wednesday night. The list includes cabinet members, senators, and State Department officials, both in and out of office, and philosophers, union leaders, newspaper publishers, financiers and theologians.

"Pretty nice friends for an old gadfly like me," said Thomas, who last ran for President in 1948.

He has slowed down very little with the years because "I don't feel any different except when I realize I have 15 grandchildren." He still travels up and down America lecturing and writing prolifically "to earn my bread and butter," but he no longer supports the Socialist Party's bid for the White House.

Thomas has had no formal post in the party since he was 70 and does not take a salary from any of the many organizations in which he is an officer. He works out of a sparsely furnished office near Gramercy Park in Manhattan and lives alone in an apartment over his son's garage in Huntington, Long Island.

"There is so much to be done if the socialist ideal of making things work for men instead of making men work for things is to be achieved," he said: "This everlasting exaltation of profit as king is mainly responsible for our lack of morality as revealed in the TV quiz-rigging scandals."

In Thomas' opinion, capitalism in America is neither what Adam Smith nor Karl Marx said it would be. He describes it as "a weird combination of everything—a loose and chaotic type of state capitalism with a lot of free enterprise thrown in."

"If we follow our present road undeterred, we will have a more powerful and more open system of state capitalism," he said. "If Russia follows its present course, the very tight form of state capitalism currently practiced there will have softened to include some free enterprise.

★ ★ ★

"Thus in about 20 years the two systems will reach approximation. It will be a garrison state capitalism for both of us, for security through military strength will be the prime motivating factor—a factor which might necessitate the sacrifice of civil liberties and other freedoms."

The answer to the cold war forces that are sweeping America along toward state capitalism is some kind of effective disarmament, Thomas said. He believes disarmament should be one of the big issues of the 1960 presidential campaign.

"But of course all we'll be treated to is some very blurred campaign oratory," Thomas said. "I can restrain my enthusiasm about all the prospective candidates and the American people probably will, too. The American people are more apathetic about public issues today than at any time I can remember."

He said the tragedy is that the American people are so confused and baffled by world affairs that they are "trying hard not to think about the future at all."

Committee Delays Move

Study Human Relations

The Civic Improvement Advisory Committee will study human relations measures in several Michigan areas before recommending action on a proposed ordinance to the City Commission.

The Committee last night heard a panel discussion on the ordinance in the City Commission chambers.

Panel members were Commissioner Milton R. Henry, sponsor of the ordinance; Everett C. Spurlock, executive secretary of the Urban League; and the Rev. Galen E. Hershey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and a member of the city's human relations committee.

Henry's proposed ordinance calls for the appointment of a full-time secretary-director and other paid staff members to carry out the work of a human relations commission.

The city has a nine-member human relations committee, appointed in August by Mayor Philip E. Rowston. It has not yet held a meeting.

Henry has attacked the committee on grounds its duties and responsibilities are vague.

★ ★ ★

Spurlock, approving of the suggested ordinance, said the proposed commission should make sure the city does not let contracts to bidders whose firms discriminate, issue no licenses to firms displaying bias.

Henry called the employment of a full-time commission head the heart of his ordinance.

Snack Bar 'Trinkets' Bring $39,760 as Art

LONDON (UPI) — Seven ancient sculptures that had been painted over and used as decorations in a snack bar were sold yesterday for $39,760 at Sotheby's Art Auction House.

The sculptures were excavated from the site of Nineveh, in what is now Iraq, 100 years ago, and put in a small private museum. They got their coat of paint when the museum became a snack bar.

Dashes Hopes of Rockefeller

Ex-Senator Knowland Foresees Only One Ballot at Convention

DETROIT (UPI) — Former Senate majority leader William F. Knowland said yesterday "there will be no second ballot at the Republican convention as far as can be seen" and this dims the presidential nomination chances of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Knowland said "time is passing very rapidly" for any building of preconvention strength by Rockefeller among delegations and there are no signs of any Rockefeller "prarie fires."

Since there are only two Republican candidates, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Rockefeller, "This is not a situation where . . . Gov. Rockefeller can sit back and wait for a deadlock to develop," Knowland said.

The former California Republican senator was here for a two-day meeting of the board of directors of the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. He is vice president of the Oakland, Calif., Tribune.

COLLAPSES AND DIES—Col. M. Robert Guggenheim, member of a wealthy copper mining family and former ambassador to Portugal, collapsed and died Monday night in Washington. He was 74. He served in World War I and held the reserve rank of colonel. His mansion in Washington often was the scene of gay parties attended by leading government, military and diplomatic officials.

Port of Muskegon Has Record Year

MUSKEGON (UPI)—The Port of Muskegon, with one more vessel scheduled to arrive, is assured of its most prosperous year.

Port Director Capt. Joseph Cook said 71 foreign ships, excluding Canadian trade, have stopped here in 1959, nearly twice as many as the 38 which stopped during the previous record season of 1958.

The port's direct overseas tonnage has exceeded the 40,000 mark. Last year's overseas tonnage was 17,400 which ranked Muskegon ninth among Great Lakes ports, Cook said.

John Wanamaker Never Returned

The Gray China Cat Sits Alone

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Wanamaker's silent partner still occupies a desk in an office that hasn't been used in 37 years.

★ ★ ★

Late in the afternoon of Sept. 22, 1922, Wanamaker, founder of the big Philadelphia department store, became ill in his office. He went home. He never returned to his desk.

In his eighth-floor office there was a gray china figure of a cat holding a paw over one ear. It is one of many cat statues in the office, and was known as his favorite. He called it "My silent partner."

★ ★ ★

The cat still sits on Wanamaker's desk, guarding a calendar. The calendar was changed to December when Wanamaker died at the age of 84. The date—Dec. 12, 1922—was marked in a black square by someone. It hasn't been touched since.

★ ★ ★

The office is as Wanamaker left it. His bowler hat is on a stand, alongside a bust of Abraham Lincoln. Wanamaker put it there when he came to work that day in late September. He went home without it.

An interoffice buzzer, an old-fashioned upright model telephone, pens, pencils, books and other paraphernalia are on the desk.

★ ★ ★

Dark mahogany bookcases line the walls of the room. Heavy leather chairs surround the dark mahogany desk. From the ceiling hangs an ornate, wrought-iron Victorian chandelier.

★ ★ ★

Wanamaker originally occupied a six-room suite on the store's eighth floor. The store's growth has caused much of the space to be converted to other uses. But the office remains intact.

★ ★ ★

Wanamaker made no request for its preservation. It was one of those things that just happen and has become a store tradition.

Starts $60,000 Mural for Truman Library

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., (AP)—Artist Thomas Hart Benton began work Tuesday on a $60,000 mural for the Truman Library.

Standing by, beaming, was former President Harry S. Truman.

The mural, being bought by the library and the Edwin Austin Abbey Memorial Trust Fund for Mural Painting, depicts events from 1815 to 1850 when Independence was the starting point of the Oregon and Santa Fe trails. It will be 20 feet high and 32 feet long. Benton said he will need two years to finish the job.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONAID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONAID's unequalled rebulking action helps retone flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONAID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONAID today! Introductory size 43¢.

MSU Designs Course to Help Older Driver

EAST LANSING (UPI) — A course designed to help older drivers maintain and improve driving skills has been announced by the Michigan State University highway traffic safety center.

Four weekly sessions of two hours will make up the complete course. Special problems will include defensive driving, personality factors in driving, a review of traffic laws and special hazards encountered by older drivers.

33 Lives Lost in Lake Michigan

Bradley Sank Year Ago Today

DETROIT (UPI) — Just a year ago today 33 crewmen of the limestone carrier Carl D. Bradley lost their lives when a violent storm broke up the vessel in uorthern Lake Michigan.

It was a little before 6 p.m. on Nov. 18, 1958 when the tragedy—one of the worst in the history of the Great Lakes—occurred.

At 5:20 p.m., Coast Guardsmen at Charlevoix picked up a routine message from the vessel. All seemed okay. The seas were rough, but the message from the 615-foot freighter gave no hint of the disaster that was about to happen.

At 5:31 p.m., Charles Petitt, a 20-year-old Coast Guard radio operator from South Beloit, Ill., was shocked with a "mayday" message from the Bradley.

From that time until around 5:45 p.m., young Petitt listened to Captain Roland Bryan's frantic distress calls that the ship was being broken in two by the storm.

Hardly had the "mayday" hit the airwaves, when other members of the Great Lakes sailing fleet swung into action.

Four miles away from the Bradley, Captain Paul Mueller of the German freighter Christian Sartori of the Hamburg-Chicago Line nosed his ship toward the sinking Bradley for a trip that took him about one hour in the stormy lake.

ROUTINE CALLS COSTLY?

An order went out immediately on channel 51 (2182 kilocycles) that other shippers should stay off the air except for emergency calls. Still, every few minutes some skipper or radioman would come in with a routine call — calls that might have cost lives.

There were lives lost—33 of them. Only two survived the Bradley sinking on that black night.

The Sartori did reach the scene, but the only thing in sight was a water tank tossing on the white-capped water.

"I believe all hands are lost," cracked Captain Mueller's voice over the radio in a strong German accent. "No lifeboats visible."

Mueller didn't know it at the time, but off in the darkness four men clung to a raft. Two of them — First Mate Elmer Fleming, then 43, and deckman Frank Mays, then 26—survived.

They spent a night of terror on the raft from shortly before 6 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 18, until 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Battles still rage in courts over damages. Fifteen of the bodies are still missing in the lake. The wreckage may never be salvaged because of the extreme depth of the Bradley's resting place.

This is November again. The storms are back. The ships are back. The conditions are ripe.

★ ★ ★

Despite the newer vessels, the more critical safety regulations and other modern shipping methods, sailors of the Great Lakes still dread last-minute trips in November up and down the unpredictable lakes.

And too, there is a rush due to the winter which is starting to lock in the ships which have been idled so long by the steel strike.

Links Reds With Puerto Ricans

Legislator Sees Small but Hard Core Among N. Y. Population

NEW YORK (AP) — A congressman said Tuesday most Puerto Ricans are loyal Americans but there is "a hard core of Communists" in Puerto Rico and New York City.

The comment came from Rep. Gordon H. Scherer (R-Ohio), a member of the House un-American Activities Subcommittee, as the subcommittee ended two days of hearings here into Communist activity among Puerto Ricans.

Three witnesses were called today. One was ordered out of the hearing room, another withdrew and a third cited the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer some questions. Ten hostile witnesses appeared before the subcommittee yesterday.

The subcommittee will resume the hearing later in the week in San Juan, P.R.

Scherer was the only subcommittee member present. He said he wished to show that "here in New York City and in Puerto Rico there is a hard core of Communists who, neither loyal to the United States or the people of Puerto Rico, are dedicated agents of the Soviet apparatus."

He said core members are "injecting themselves into every activity, into every group, into every movement wherever possible for the purpose of stirring up dissension, hatred and ill-will toward the United States."

McNamara Rejects Johnson in 1960

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Possible candidacy of Democratic majority leader Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas for presidential nomination doesn't meet the approval of Sen. Patrick V. McNamara (D-Mich).

A Democratic gathering at Grand Rapids Monday night heard McNamara say he could not "enthusiastically support" Johnson's candidacy.

He said "there are plenty of candidates I can support for the presidency, but Johnson is not one of them . . . I've dealt with him close up for five years and I just don't think Johnson represents the philosophy of the Democratic party —particularly in Michigan."

Of Teamsters Union President James Hoffa, the senator said:

"He doesn't want any part of me, but I couldn't care less. He's never had any power in politics as far as I can determine. He has always supported losers."

Home Starts Off in October

3rd Straight Monthly Drop Is Laid to Lack of Mortgage Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New home construction dropped 13 per cent in October for the third straight monthly decline, the Commerce Department reports.

★ ★ ★

The decrease was attributed to a scarcity of mortgage money, which has plagued the home-building industry since last spring.

However, commerce officials expect that 1959 still will be the biggest in four years.

The department said work was started on 102,000 private dwelling units in October. This was 13 per cent under the September figure and brought the annual rate down by 11 per cent.

For the first 10 months of the year, new homes were started at an annual rate of 1,356,000, well above the 1,089,000 rate for the same period last year. The total for 1959 is expected to be about 1,300,000.

Since April, when homes were started at an annual rate of 1,434,000, each month except July has brought a drop off.

This reflected the tight money market for home loans which developed along with the general economic uptrend.

★ ★ ★

An expansion of business and consumer spending has increased borrowing and made mortgage money scarcer and interest rates higher this year.

Princess Ferial, Independent at 21, Is Now Teaching

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) —The oldest daughter of ex-King Farouk of Egypt turned 21 Tuesday, happy to have independence in a $35-a-week teaching job.

★ ★ ★

The pretty Princess Ferial teaches shorthand in the exclusive school from which she was graduated five months ago. She really wanted to be a secretary, but her portly father turned thumbs down on the idea.

He said office work did not befit a princess and the lowest-type position he would allow Ferial to take would be her present one.

Ferial did as she was told, but she said she wished she could have done otherwise—secretaries make more money than teachers.

Ferial lives in a small white house on the shores of Lake Geneva, along with her younger sisters, Fawzia and Fadiawn, and their half-brother, 8-year-old Prince Fuad II.

★ ★ ★

Her father often visits the children there, as does their mother, Queen Farida, Farouk's first wife, whom he divorced because she bore him no male heirs.

Other than its chief product, copper, Minnesota produces large amounts of silver, gold, lead, zinc and uranium.

U.S. Plans to Build Radar Site in England

LONDON (UPI) — The United States plans to build a powerful radar station in Britain to give warning of long-range missiles as they are launched, British government sources said today.

The outpost will be part of the chain of early warning posts in Alaska and Greenland, and could spot intercontinental ballistic missiles at the moment of their firing several thousand miles away.

The United States will finance the project, expected to cost several hundred million dollars, and operate it jointly with Britain, the sources said. Several sites have been examined by British and American experts in the past year, with one difficulty the interference in signals caused by the northern lights.

★ ★ ★

A British report from Washington said today that a coastal site near the English-Scottish border has been tentatively chosen. The report could not be confirmed here.

Defer Selecting Aide

EAST LANSING (AP)—Presidents of the nine state colleges and universities have deferred action on selecting a co-ordinator to represent their budget interests before the Legislature. The group said more time is needed to define the nature of the coordinator's job and responsibilities.

Aluminum Used in 1960 Autos Up to 56 Pounds

DETROIT (AP)—There are 56 pounds of aluminum in 1960 model cars, about 43 pounds more than in models of 10 years ago, an official of the aluminum industry said yesterday.

★ ★ ★

V. E. Flaherty of Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Sales, Inc., said a survey by his company showed an average of 56.2 pounds of finished aluminum components on new cars. On 1959 models, he said there were 49.6 pounds of the lightweight metal.

★ ★ ★

Flaherty said the top automotive use of aluminum is in Chevrolet's new Corvair which uses 102.6 pounds. The Corvair has an aluminum engine. He said the Chrysler Valiant has 52.6 pounds per car and Ford's Falcon 49.6 pounds.

Soviet May Attempt Airline Fare War

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—America, home of stiff air line competition, may learn the Soviet brand before long.

James T. Pyle, deputy federal aviation administrator, says the Soviet Union's big air line, Aeroflot, is about to move into the field of international transportation with a price-cutting come-on.

★ ★ ★

"They are challenging us at our own game," Pyle told the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences.

"They will be meeting us head-on in every field of civil aviation. They will be scrambling for passenger, freight and aircraft sales and rentals."

Their main selling point will be high volume and low fares, Pyle predicted.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.

Credit Card Chiseler Caught

Whee! Who Needs Cash?

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — Detectives have ended the coast-to-coast credit card spree of Donald N. J. Sicker, 22, Baltimore, Md., who used a stolen Gulf Oil Co. card to charge everything from auto accessories to hotel bills.

The former door-to-door salesman was arrested here by detectives and accused by the credit manager of the Sheraton-Gibson Hotel of "defrauding an innkeeper."

The hotel official said Sicker owed the hotel $78.92 for room charges, food and other charges during a 24-hour period. He was said to have dashed checks for $56.43 each at the Gibson and Netherland Hilton Hotels, and another for $18.02 at the Metropole Hotel here.

Gulf Oil officials said he had run up a bill totaling $2,384.76 on the stolen card. Sicker admitted the year-long lark on which he used the card to charge merchandise and as identification to cash checks.

★ ★ ★

He told detectives Arthur Guard and Marvin Lacy he left Baltimore one year ago to go to Barstow, Calif., then returned as far as Cincinnati before he was arrested.

Hitchhiking from coast to coast, he bought tires and other auto accessories for a fictitious car, telling clerks his car was in a garage for repairs.

He said he offered to buy gasoline for motorists who picked him up, as payment for his ride.

Car Wouldn't Take Hint

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — He didn't exceed the speed limit or run any stop lights, but Ivory Davis still was arrested. Davis paid a $50 fine for driving his car on the runways at an airport.

Do You Look Blue? May Be Fagged Out

LONDON (AP)—A pack of cigarettes a day for 30 years can make you turn blue and cause your lungs to lose elasticity, a British physician said Tuesday.

Dr. Philip Harvey, consultant physician at London's St. Stephen's Hospital, said cigarette smoking is the biggest single cause of bronchitis.

He wrote in The Medical Press, a publication for British doctors:

"Some 30 years is required at 20 cigarettes a day to produce syanosis (blueness) and other effects, including inelastic lungs in about one-fifth of smokers."

Lung cancer arising from smoking is seen in more and more young people due to "schoolboys adopting the smoking habit," he added.

"The death rate from bronchitis and cancer falls precipitously in those who stop smoking. Those who continue meet with the anticipated and predictable fate."

Kuala Lumpur, capital of Malaya, means "Muddy Mouth." It is located where two rivers meet.

IN BUSINESS BATTLE — Allen Kirby, left, president and chairman of Allegheny Corp., and business executive A. M. Sonnabend, right, appear headed for a proxy fight for control of Allegheny, holding company with large railroad and real estate investments. Sonnabend, president of Hotel Corp. of America, and Botany Mills, Inc., said he had no alternative but to try to elect his own directors at Allegheny because of "static conditions" in the holding company. These two men undoubtedly will make frequent headlines in the months to come.

Cars Get Too Wide for Ontario Roads

TORONTO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Kelso Roberts said today he will warn automobile manufacturers they are making cars too wide for Ontario highways.

He said nine of the 1960 models put out by major auto firms are more than the 80 inches in width prescribed in Ontario's Highway Traffic Act. The widest is 81.5 inches. Roberts did not specify what action might be taken.

Red Chinese Claim Superior Rice Strain

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China claims development of a new strain of rice that contains more than 1,000 grains in each stalk.

Radio Peiping said a 23-year-old peasant research worker crossed the rice plant with barnyard grass to get the new strain.

Russia Claims Revolutionary Auto Engine

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet engineers claim they have developed a new automobile combustion engine that can give five to seven times the power of a similar sized gasoline motor even on the lowest grades of fuel.

The motor is said to be self-adjusting to maintain a steady road speed despite changes in terrain or passenger load.

The newspaper "Literature and Life," which first publicized the motor, said it can run on any kind of fuel, including oil cracking wastes and natural gas. It said combustion was so complete there were virtually no exhaust gases.

So far, the engine is in the first model stage and "Literature and Life" said that "serious scientific research work is necessary to incorporate the new engine into the national economy as soon as possible."

Salad Blends Variety of Fruits, Nuts, Cheese

Make a walnut-fresh fruit holiday salad this way: Cut two avocadoes in half, lengthwise. Fill cavities with a mixture of one small package cream cheese blended with one tablespoon lemon juice and enough cream to soften, and two tablespoons finely chopped toasted California walnuts. Put halves of avocado together (brush with lemon juice) and chill just until set.

To serve, slice avocadoes crosswise, one inch thick, and arrange on a bed of endive. Surround with a spiral of fresh or canned grapefruit sections and fresh or canned mandarin orange sections. Garnish with dates stuffed with California walnut halves and scatter over Pomegranate seeds. Pass a sour cream dressing.

The island of American Samoa came into the possession of the United States in 1900 under a treaty with the Samoan government, and with the consent of Great Britain and Germany.

Crime Discovered After Pair Confess

DRACUT, Mass. (UPI) — A crime was solved here before it was even discovered.

State troopers H. J. Fitzgerald and A. J. Blouin found two men asleep in a parked car. Under questioning the pair admitted breaking into a Newburyport school and stealing a safe containing $100. The empty safe was found in a cemetery.

★ ★ ★

Not until police reported the confession did school authorities discover that the safe was missing.

Fight 'Enemy Education'

MOULTRIE, Ga. (AP) — Termites nearly destroyed some books in the Moultrie Junior High School library. The books dealt with how to get rid of termites.

Mrs. Harry Randall, immediate past president, right, greets Business and Professional Women who braved Tuesday's cold to attend their 40th anniversary dinner at Devon Gables. They are, from left, Vera J. Bassett, Mrs. Anne Stapp and Mrs. Harry G. Dernberger who joined 75 members and guests for dinner and the evening.

A corsage of red roses is pinned to founding member Mrs. H. H. Thatcher by B & PW president Rosamond Haeberle who gave the welcoming speech. Roses and a ruby red color scheme brightened festivities.

Hold Gala Anniversary Dinner

The Pontiac Business and Professional Women's Club observed its 40th anniversary Tuesday evening with a gala dinner at Devon Gables.

Mrs. Raymond L. Cole, chairman of arrangements, also served as toastmistress. Assisting her were Jane E. Danton and Mrs. Norman Dyer.

★ ★ ★

More than 75 members and guests heard speakers assess the tremendous contribution women are making to the economy and well-being of our nation.

★ ★ ★

Rosamond Haeberle, president, gave a brief speech of welcome.

Mrs. Carl Leonard, vocalist, presented two selections from "Kismet"—"This Is My Beloved" and "Baubles, Bangles and Beads." Her encore was the well-loved "Christopher Robin Is Saying His Prayers." Accompanying her was Charles Wilson.

TALKS ON CHALLENGES

Guest speaker was Virginia Allan, membership chairman of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women and executive vice president of the Cahalan Drug chain. A former assistant principal at Redford High School and a resource committee member of the Detroit Public Schools job upgrading program, Miss Allan spoke with forceful authority of the challenges and opportunities facing business and professional women in a rapidly changing world.

The original Pontiac club pre-dated the national organization by a year. Three of its members, Mrs. H. H. Thatcher, the late Anna Nusbaumer and the late Dr. Bertha Oxenius attended the session in St. Louis during World War I where, at the request of the U. S. government, a national organization was founded.

From its original 212 members, the organization has grown to include 350,000 members belonging to more than 3,400 clubs in 23 countries.

"Maintaining its vision of independence, non-partisanship, non-sectarianism and self government, National Federation of Business and Professional Women has become the spokesman of the working women of the world," said Miss Allan.

Citing the growing economic importance of women, Miss Allan stated that by 1975 experts predict that women will equal men in number in the labor force in our country.

Goals that women must strive for with a disciplined determination are equal pay for equal work and the elimination of downgrading of jobs in fields where women predominate, Miss Allan believes.

She went on to say that career women have a moral obligation to attain and maintain high standards of performance in their work and to sponsor and encourage younger women.

According to Miss Allan, it is estimated that with the expanding economy, women may expect to spend 25 years of their lives in the labor market. In order to made this a sound business investment to employe as well as employer, she suggested three projects—the education of young women to the realization that they may work some 25 years; the establishment of more training courses such as those given practical nurses; and the establishment of refresher courses for older women.

★ ★ ★

"To meet the challenge of tomorrow we must take that one step beyond today," concluded Miss Allan.

Past presidents Vera J. Bassett, Grace Heitsch, Mrs. Paul Hammond, Mrs. Dyer, Miss Danton, Ethlynn Peterson, Mary Eleanor Lockman, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Albert Riley, Hazel MacGirr, Josephine Seeley, Harriet Gates, Mrs. Howard McPherson, Mrs. William Salton and Mrs. Harry Randall were introduced.

Long-time member, Mrs. Mary Todd, a vigorous 90, gave the inspirational closing poem, "Gift of a Smile," extemporaneously.

★ ★ ★

Distinguished guests present included Mrs. Henry Campbell, chairman district 10; Mrs. Russell Funk, vice chairman district 10; Mrs. John Taylor, recording secretary Michigan Federation; Mrs. Ross Boyd, past president Michigan Federation, and Mrs. Laura Wetzel, health and safety chairman of the Michigan Federation.

★ ★ ★

Others were Rose Schelonski, secretary-treasurer district 9; Mrs. Lillian Salter, president Ferndale B & PW; Mrs. George Frayer, vice president Keego Harbor B & PW; Mrs. John Vis, president Union Lake B & PW; Helen Ross, Detroit B & PW, and Della Riddering, Grand Rapids B & PW.

Charm's a Subtle Thing

Charm lies in the quirk of a smile, the lift of an eyebrow, the pitch of a voice. The woman who possesses it can be taken for a beauty even though she's not one.

Undoubtedly, she's a woman with a genuine interest in other people, an interest that's not malicious. She's neither a snoop nor a gossip. She doesn't dote on bad news nor pass it along. She's ready to give help where it's needed but she doesn't play Lady Bountiful in the grand manner.

She is, of course, careful about good grooming and conscious of the fact that she's feminine. But her chief concern in life is certainly not clothes. She likes them, finds that a pretty dress does a lot for her. Then she forgets them.

Wool Knits Look Good, Don't Muss or Wrinkle

The woman who does the family chauffeuring or the global traveler knows the importance of clothes that are geared to look and feel good in action. For the long jaunt or the short car hop, the costume of knitted wool has a special gadabout flair that can't be matched.

Slithering in and out of low-slung cars gracefully requires limber clothes as well as a limber body. (So does clambering off and on a bus, for that matter.) Wool knits are as supple as a well trained muscle, flexing easily and smoothly, avoiding those familiar clumsy movements caused by the restriction of fabrics without any give. The driver in a knitted costume is the serene driver.

The pliant, bouncy fiber allows her free play in maneuvering the wheel, and she's at perfect ease with the knowledge that she'll arrive at her destination without a sign of wrinkling or mussing.

As the great seasonal trek gets under way, the active traveler appreciates all the advantages of fashions that live and breathe with her. Whether it's a quick jet hop, or a more leisurely land or sea trip, a wool knit wardrobe contributes immeasurably to the pleasure of the journey.

Knitted wools never look travel-weary or rumpled. The springy fiber bounces back into shape even after being sat on for hours. It's a sure cure for travel fidgets, offering utmost comfort while relaxing en route, with absolutely no constraint or binding.

Because the fiber is alive, knitted wools always look wide-awake and bandbox fresh. Even the dampest sea breezes or muggiest weather can't make them limp or listless. And temperature ups and downs pose no problem, since the porous structure of the fiber allows the skin to breathe, guarding against both overheating and sudden chills.

★ ★ ★

The classic, universally flattering lines of the new wool knit styles add a tremendous bonus of extra wearing mileage either at home or abroad. A costume of a willowy sleeveless sheath and jacket is a virtuoso in both the day and evening wardrobe. The sheath adds a blouse for solo daytime performance, or festive jewelry for dress-up.

Fake Fur Fabric Takes Wear; Is Easy on Budget

The fur hat is big news and every woman in the country wants one.

However, hats of mink, fox, leopard and other fine furs leave a large dent in the clothes budget, and have been out of reach of the average customer up to now.

This season, however, a new development in fake fur fabric makes it possible for almost any girl to own a hat that looks like fur, and has the ability of fine fur to withstand rain and snow. It is a pile fabric made of Verel, a new modacrylic fiber, which doesn't mat or pill, is odorless when wet and is immune to moths and mildew.

The new fake fur is being used in some of the season's newest hat silhouettes, to add a note of elegance to outfits.

About 57 per cent of the nation's forest land is owned by farmers.

Child Imitates Adults in 'Buying' Friends

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

One morning, soon after Clark's parents had moved to a new town, a neighbor's child came over to play with him. As Clark's mother approached the playroom with a plate of cookies, she heard him say to his guest:

"If you'll come over this afternoon, I'll give you that dump truck."

She was horrified. An avid reader of child guidance books, she knew the meaning of Clark's effort to buy himself friendship. His "self-confidence" was in bad shape. He had more confidence in his toy's charm for his visitor than in his own.

So upset was she by discovering the poor state of Clark's self-confidence that she could hardly wait for the guest to leave to say: "You must not give toys to children to make them play with you. They must come to play because they like you."

If Clark's self-confidence was in a bad state before she spoke, it fell apart afterwards. Now he takes no social initiative at all but just moons about the back yard by himself, trusting neither his own charms nor those of his toys to attract friends.

It's very high-minded of child guidance experts to want children to be loved for themselves alone. But they can't always manage this. So we are destructive when we disapprove their efforts to buy good will.

Until they find a better way to get it, we'd better restrain our horror at the method they've got. Otherwise, they're left with no method at all—and this can be very discouraging to self-confidence, indeed.

Child guidance experts who deplore children's efforts to purchase friendship must live in ivory towers. For their fellow grownups do it all the time. Today, it's an accepted business custom to buy a client's good will with gifts of anything from cases of whisky to invitations to Hollywood parties. I myself know a buyer for a large corporation who's so loaded with presents at Christmas time from people who want to buy his good will that it takes him weeks to audit his loot.

So it's all very lovely to want Clark to trust his own value to a friend more than the value of his dump truck. But until big men can do better at self-trust themselves, we aren't entitled to horror at a little boy's failure in it. If grownups have to trust cases of whisky more than their business ability, Clark is certainly entitled to trust his toys more than his social ability.

Fight Dryness

Skin Questions Answered

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Women write to ask me many questions about the skin and its care, what causes it to age, how to recognize skin cancer and many other things. Today I will answer a few of those questions which come most frequently across my desk.

Aging of the skin is due to a drying out process. Changes in the glandular system also play a part. The layer of fat between the skin and muscles narrows and the tissues as a whole become less resilient.

Hormone creams definitely make the skin appear more youthful. This is due to the fact that they plump up the cells by increasing their water content. This is temporary and hormone creams must be used every 24 hours in order to maintain this condition.

Most women develop some brown spots as the years accumulate. No one knows exactly what causes them. This is simply a part of the aging process, but one which occurs long before women are really old, sometimes quite early in life. These are encouraged by overexposure to the sun. If you wish to avoid them, protect yourself with screening creams and stay out of the sun as much as possible.

A letter just came from a woman who said, "Most everyone has some little irregularity or skin defect. How can someone who is not an expert recognize cancer of the skin?"

★ ★ ★

If you have a dark mole (either brown or black) which begins to grow larger, you should see a skin specialist immediately. Also suspect a crust which falls off only to be followed by another crust. Such a spot should be investigated. It is especially suspicious if the spot bleeds. As a general rule, see a physician concerning any mole or lump that grows or fails to heal or disappear.

★ ★ ★

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 49 "Reconditioning at Home" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Try These Exercises for Weak Abdominal Muscles."

Hormone creams definitely make the skin appear more youthful.

Perfume

Wherever you go . . . let heavenly fragrance follow you. If you have a favorite perfume then buy its companion cologne and splash it on your body after each bath. Save the perfume for pulse spots. Your body heat will do the most in bringing out the essence of your cologne.

Since heat rises, start with your feet and legs in the cologne treatment. Thus your scintillating feminine fragrance will seem to come from within.

No dab of perfume behind the ears will ever achieve this effect. We do encourage you to use your special bottle of perfume . . . it will deteriorate with time.

Avoid the Reactions That Give Away Age

By RUTH MILLETT

Your age is showing when—

You stoutly maintain that no young actor has the romantic appeal of such old-timers as Spencer Tracy, Jimmy Stewart and Clark Gable.

You declare emphatically that all the new hit tunes sound exactly alike to you and that it is utterly impossible to understand the words of today's songs.

★ ★ ★

You begin to tap your foot when you hear a song hit of 25 years ago and ask plaintively, "Why don't they write songs like that any more?"

One of your big considerations when buying a car is whether or not it is easy to get in and out of.

You solemnly assure young people that they don't have as much fun today as kids had when you were growing up.

You have an aversion to modern design, modern art, and little foreign cars.

You lump all teen-agers together as being rude, irresponsible, and reckless.

You voice amazement when you hear the starting salaries of today's college graduates or hear how much some high school kid is making a week on a summr job.

You are embarrassed by the frankness of the younger generation.

You think young people today have too much."

You believe young marriages are doomed to failure.

You think the way to see a ball game is to sit at home in an easy chair and watch it on TV.

There's nothing wrong with any of those attitudes. But they are a dead give-away that you're getting on in years.

Dear Abby:

Bathroom Dawdler Makes Children Late

DEAR ABBY: My husband spends anywhere from one hour to an hour and a half in the bathroom every morning. I don't think it should take any ablebodied man that long to shave, shower and brush his teeth. (I think he reads in there.)

I wouldn't object, but we have only one bathroom in our house for my husband, myself and our 3 school - age children, and he often makes the children late for school.

ABBY

My sister-in-law tells me that her husband, who is a brother to my husband, is exactly the same. Does it run in families, I wonder? And can you, or any of your readers, offer a solution? MIN

DEAR MIN: Lack of consideration for others obviously "runs" in your husband's family. Call a family powwow.

Set up a time schedule, allowing each member of the family a fair share of time in the bathroom. (No reading!) Punish all violators. If the gander goofs, he'll have to take his medicine just like the goose and the gosling—with no quack coming!

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Roy and I have just celebrated our fourth wedding anniversary. He didn't even kiss me because he has his foot in a cast. There was another spell between Nov. 6, 1958 and March 19, 1959 when he wouldn't kiss me.

He is okay once you get him going, but he will never start anything on his own.

I feel like a beggar.

Is this the way married life should be? Or am I expecting too much? I would like to have a family, but the way things are going, my chances are small. I am 24 and Roy is 26. What do you suggest? UNLOVED

DEAR UNLOVED: You are not expecting too much and you will never be "expecting" if you don't resolve your problem. Roy is not behaving like a healthy normal man of 26. He needs a physical examination from the feet up.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 14. My brother Jack is 16. Jack isn't getting along with our father mainly because Dad won't let him have a car. Dad says Jack's grades are too poor. Jack worked all summer and saved enough for a down-payment on a second-hand car.

He works weekends and after school so he could pay it off himself.

Dad still says he can't have one anyway. Jack told me he plans to run away. He's been studying maps of Colorado so I know he means it. How can I keep Jack from going through with his plan without telling Dad? WORRIED SIS

DEAR SIS: Unless you have an unusual amount of influence with your brother, this is no job for you. Where's your mother?

Perhaps she can convince Jack that "running away" is no way to solve his problem. If mother isn't able to help, appeal to an adult whose judgment Jack respects. If there is positively no one ot whom Jack will listen, tell your Dad.

What Goes in the Bird's Important Too

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac Press Home Editor

Tomorrow we'll tell you how to roast the turkey. Today we're going to stuff it.

We suppose we'll have the same discussion we have each year at this time. "Why can't I stuff my turkey the night before? My grandmother always did."

And we'll answer as we always do, that it is far safer to wait until just before time to put the turkey into the oven. Stuffing can be as treacherous as custard mixtures in the summer time.

Get everything ready the day before—all your bread cut or crumbled—all the ingredients prepared. Then it will take a very short time to mix them and fill the turkey cavity. You will need about one cup of stuffing per pound of ready-to-cook turkey.

Each year we try to bring you an assortment of different stuffing recipes. Who knows, one of them may turn out to be a favorite that you'll repeat year after year.

★ ★ ★

This first recipe has both fruit and vegetables in addition to the bread. It comes from a Pontiac Press reader, Mrs. Ray Mattson.

Turkey Dressing

½ loaf dry bread
2 small onions
2 apples
1 potato
3 beaten eggs
1 carrot
½ cup melted butter or margarine
½ teaspoon sage
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Salt and pepper

Soak bread in milk or water and wring dry. Grind onions, apples, potato and carrot. Add butter and eggs to bread, then rest of ingredients. Mix thoroughly and stuff turkey lightly.

★ ★ ★

Oyster dressing is a must with at least one family of our acquaintance. But this recipe uses crumbled potato chips as well as bread.

Oyster and Chip Dressing

3 quarts coarse bread crumbs
½ quart coarse crumbled potato chips
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
¾ cup finely chopped celery
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ pound butter
1 onion chopped
1¼ cups chopped oysters

Measure crumbs and mix lightly. Add seasonings and toss well. Melt butter in saucepan, add celery and onion and saute until onions are softened. Then stir in oysters.

Pour over crumbs and mix lightly with a fork. Stuff lightly into 12 lb. turkey.

You may want to use a convenience food, packaged stuffing mix. Try "souping" it up in the manner suggested below.

Chicken-Almond Stuffing

1 (8-ounce) package seasoned bread stuffing mix
1 No. 1 can condensed cream of chicken soup
¼ cup slivered almonds
1 (7 pound) ready-to-cook turkey

Combine stuffing mix, undiluted soup and almonds. Stuff, truss and roast turkey. Yield: 14 servings (½ lb. each).

Strain Boiled Custard

It's a good idea to strain custard (cooked on top of the range) after cooking. This way you can get rid of any tiny amount of coagulated white that has clung to the yolks used in the custard.

Canned Spaghetti Baked With Ham

A heat-and-eat food given a new and delicious twist.

Ham and Spaghetti Twist

3 slices (one-portion size servings) cooked ham
1 green pepper (seeded and cut into thin strips)
1 can (15¾ ounces) spaghetti twists in meatless marinara sauce
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Place ham in heat-resistant glass pie plate (8½ by 1¼ inches). Add green pepper and spaghetti twists and sauce. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven 15 minutes or until hot through; place under broiler a minute or two, or just long enough to brown cheese. Makes 3 servings.

Sweets Baked in Fruit Sauce Are Extra!

Tasters usually appreciate these sweet potatoes because they are not so sweet as the candied variety.

Golden Sweet Potatoes

1 can (1 pound and 7 ounces) whole sweet potatoes packed in syrup
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¾ cup orange juice
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon finely grated orange rind
1 teaspoon finely grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Drain potatoes; turn into a heat-resistant glass pie plate (9½ by 1½ inches).

In a saucepan (1 quart) stir together thoroughly the brown sugar and cornstarch; gradually add orange and lemon juice, stirring until smooth after each addition. Stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened; stir in orange and lemon rind and butter; pour over sweet potatoes.

Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven 15 to 20 minutes or until sauce is bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

Note: This can go into the oven during the time a ham is being glazed.

Follow Experts' Tips on Herb Use

EAST LANSING — A dash of imagination — with a pinch of herbs — can change plain food into a dish worthy of expert chefs. Roberta Hershey, foods and nutrition specialist at Michigan State University, offers some guides for using herbs.

★ ★ ★

1. Start with about one-fourth teaspoon of dried herbs in a dish for four.

★ ★ ★

2. When using fresh herbs, cut or chop the leaves very fine. Use three or four times as much fresh herbs as dried herbs.

3. Cook herbs for a short time. Delicate flavor and aroma are lost when heated too long.

4. For soups and sauces, tie fresh herbs in small bunches, or ground herbs in a cloth bag, and add them during the last half hour of cooking.

5. In uncooked foods, such as vegetable juice cocktails, add dried herbs, tied in a bag, several hours before serving.

★ ★ ★

6. Heating in cooking fat is the best way to draw out flavors.

7. Keep the mixture of herbs subtle — no one flavor should be too pronounced.

The best way to mince parsley is to fold over the top leaves of a small bouquet and cut fine with a scissors; also try this on chives and fresh herbs.

Noodles Make Good Dessert

Noodle desserts are a cherished old German custom. This one is typical, with fruits and nuts and a creamy luscious texture. Try it, you'll find it's a special hit with the men folks.

Old Fashioned Noodle Pudding

1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
8 ounces wide egg noodles (about 4 cups)
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
½ cup seedless raisins
½ cup chopped walnuts
2 medium-sized apples, cored and thinly sliced
½ teaspoon salt

Add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Meanwhile, cream butter or margarine, cheese and sugar together. Combine noodles, butter or margarine mixture and remaining ingredients; mix well. Turn into greased 2½-quart casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour. Serve noodle pudding with whipped cream, if desired.

Makes 6 servings.

Add lots of minced chives to the mayonnaise you are going to use when making cucumber sandwiches.

Pantry Shelf Provides Ingredients for Bisque

There probably is nothing that pleases a hungry man more than to sit down to a meal which is hearty enough to satisfy his gnawing appetite and, at the same time, is full-flavored, wholesome and eye-appealing. But, no matter how menus may meet these requirements to a T, the constant repetition of the same old fare can lessen the pleasure for any man and leave him disinterested in the food he's eating.

Homemakers, who like to see their menfolk happy, try to avoid mealtime monotony by interspersing meat menus with delectable seafood dishes. One way they can accomplish this is through the use of tuna—that real good menu from the sea—for this versatile fish can be prepared in every way that pleases masculine appetites.

Whether served as appetizers, in soups, salads, sandwiches or as entrees, history shows that tuna has always been a favorite food with men whose work and recreation require an abundance of energy and strength.

★ ★ ★

Tuna Bisque, for example, is a dish which is sure to stimulate mealtime interest for the men in your family now that the brisk fall weather is upon us.

Tuna Bisque

1 can condensed cream of celery soup
1 can condensed consomme
1 jar strained carrots
Few drops of Tabasco sauce
½ teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
1 cup light cream
2 cans (6½-ounce) chunk style tuna

Combine soups, carrots, sauces and light cream stirring constantly. Heat over low flame until hot. Stir tuna chunks into soup. Continue to cook until thoroughly hot. Do not boil. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Serve Dip Hot or Cold

A slick dip can be prepared in no time with lively-flavored deviled ham, cream cheese, ketchup and onion. Serve it hot, later on, in your favorite chafing dish!

Lifting the cover of the saucepan several times during the time green vegetables are cooking, will help preserve their attractive

Avon Youngsters Give to Korean Tot

AVON TOWNSHIP — It promises to be a Merry Christmas for a little Korean orphan girl thanks to her "adopted" family, the fourth graders at Elmwood Elementary School here.

★ ★ ★

Yesterday the two fourth grade sections went en masse by bus to the new Pontiac post office to mail a Christmas package to their young friend.

There were two presents in the box — one for the holiday and one for the youngster's seventh birthday Dec. 14.

This is the third year the Elmwood School fourth graders have sponsored a Korean orphan. Previously they "took care" of a boy — but he "outgrew" them, the teachers said.

★ ★ ★

Pupils who can afford it each contribute a small amount of money monthly to keep the tiny Korean girl, Lee Ki Ja, in an orphanage in Seoul.

To raise additional money for their special Christmas project the children sold pop corn, fudge and cookies.

They enclosed a doll, doll clothes, a coloring book and crayons in the package.

WATCH PACKAGE

Accompanied by their teachers, Mrs. Mary Sadler and Mrs. Erma Waun, the pupils watched as their package was weighed, stamped and directed through the mail room.

Another interested spectator was their principal, George E. Shackelford.

The youngsters have a large world map at school upon which they will trace the route of their gift as it is sent across the continent and the Pacific Ocean to its final destination.

They also are busy composing their first letter to Lee. Her picture is on their bulletin board making it easier for them to think of her as a real person.

Before mailing their package, the boys and girls took it around to each room in the school to explain what they were doing. And their enthusiasm was contagious, their teachers said.

The teachers arranged for the "adoption" through the Christian Children's Fund, Inc. in Richmond, Va.

Council Shown 6 Drain Plans

Walled Lake Makes No Decision on Varied Solutions to Problem

WALLED LAKE — Six alternate plans showing how drainage problems here could be relieved were presented to the City Council last night but no decision was reached.

★ ★ ★

Further discussion was tabled until Dec. 15 so Council members could study the proposals more carefully.

The plans had been prepared at the request of the Council by Civil Engineers, Inc., consultants for the city.

The comparative study drawings described how the drainage problem in the vicinity of Decker road north and south of Pontiac Trail could be handled.

★ ★ ★

It was explained that both partially enclosed drainage systems and fully enclosed drainage systems could be used.

The drawings also revealed that cost of the project would range from $32,000 to $225,000.

The Council was told also that the drainage could run off into either Wolverine Lake or Hawk Lake.

SHOW NEEDS

The drawings showed what is required now and what would be needed in the future. All drawings considered the possibility of 10-year rains (exceedingly heavy downpours said to occur about once in 10 years).

★ ★ ★

The Council was told the existing drainage ditch was not adequate.

No specific plan was recommended by the engineering firm. It submitted all six drawings so the Council could study them further.

Mayor Waldo C. Proctor told the Council he would like to see a decision on the plans as soon as possible so a public hearing could be held.

★ ★ ★

City Manager George A. Shaw told Council the drains would be paid off through special assessments over a 10-year period, the maximum time set up by the city charter.

Renews Armada Haunt

'Spook' Prowls Again

ARMADA TOWNSHIP — Shades of the "headless horseman"—only this time it's "Luke, the Spook" who frightens people in Armada Township.

★ ★ ★

The legend of "Luke" has been revived after lying dormant about five years.

Romeo State Police are being plagued by reports of a strange light that hovers in the trees near a bridge on Romeo Plank road near Armada Center road.

Drivers passing over the bridge report that the eerie phenomenon causes their motors to conk out, headlights to go off and other minor misfortunes to strike.

DISTANT VISITORS

The story of "Luke" has spread to such a degree, police said, that carloads of students come to see from as far away as northeast Detroit, Warren, Marine City, Richmond and Utica.

One group of Utica high school boys decided to capitalize on the tale and rigged up a lantern, fastened it to a rope and moved it up and down in a tree.

Another carload of teen-agers saw it, the troopers said, and left their car to investigate.

They chased the Utica boys through the nearby swamp. All the pranksters got for their trouble was wet.

Whenever troopers stop a car in that spot to question the occupants on some routine matter, they find the driver and his passengers usually are teen-agers who are coming to see or have seen "Luke's" phantom orange light.

Officers have decided it's a novel twist to the old "out of gas" routine.

The original settlement at St. Paul, Minn., was called Innijiska. It became St. Paul in 1841.

Family of 9 Left Homeless by Fire

MAYFIELD TOWNSHIP — Fire driven by high winds destroyed the Basil King home here yesterday afternoon, forcing the family of nine to flee in the frigid weather. No one was injured.

★ ★ ★

The house is at 1189 Five Lakes Rd., five miles east of Lapeer. Cause of the blaze and a total estimate of the loss are not known.

Lapeer firemen believe the fire started in the attic.

The Kings have seven children, ranging in age from five to 16 years. All were home when the fire broke out.

READY FOR OPENING — Workmen add final touches to the Keego Center in Keego Harbor for the grand opening tomorrow of three stores in the $90,000 one-story building completed last month. Stores officially opening are Keego Drugs, Gregory Jewelry Store and the Dor-L-Shop. Prizes will be given in a free drawing Saturday evening. Anyone entering the stores during the three-day celebration is eligible for the drawing.

3 Keego Center Stores to Hold Grand Opening

KEEGO HARBOR — The first major business construction this city has seen in 10 years will be climaxed tomorrow when three stores in the new Keego Center Building have their grand opening.

At Orchard Lake road and Pine Lake avenue, they are the Gregory Jewelry Store, the Dor-L Shop and Keego Drugs.

During the three-day event anyone entering the stores and registering will be eligible for the free prizes to be given at a drawing Saturday evening.

Gifts of Gregory Jewelry Store include a necklace, an earring set and a pearl pendant with gold chain.

Keego Drugs will award a $10 gift certificate, a large, stuffed toy animal and a cosmetic set.

★ ★ ★

The Dor-L Shop, which specializes in apparel for men, women and children, will give away three men's sport shirts, a dress, a $10 gift certificate, three $3 gift certificates and jewelry.

The Dor-L Shop and Gregory Jewelry Store have been open several weeks while Keego Drugs moved into its store only this week.

Constructed at a cost of $90,000, the building has parking on three sides for 46 cars. Entrances are only a few feet from any parking space.

Once in the building, there is no need to step outside to go to another store since all three are connected by hallways.

ONE AREA VACANT

The building still has one large area in the rear to be rented.

When it was completed late last month, the owner and contractor, Ernest S. Hull, said the vacant area would be ideal for a shoe store because of its size, but that if necessary it could be partitioned into offices.

Hull said he plans to add a second floor within two years.

★ ★ ★

The building has been constructed so that the new story can be added without interruption to the already existing businesses, he said.

Mount Clemens Fire Damage $500,000

MOUNT CLEMENS (UPI)—Fire broke out in a downtown shoe store today and caused damage estimated in excess of $500,000.

★ ★ ★

The blaze was discovered at the Nunneley Shoe Store, 61 N. Walnut, shortly before 8 a. m. and fire departments from Mount Clemens, Harrison and Clinton townships, and Selfridge Air Force Base were still battling flames more than an hour later.

James Nunneley, who operates the shoe store with his father, said damage to shoes alone would run more than $100,000.

Owners of the adjoining Campus Shop and Waltzer's Men's Wear estimated their losses in merchandise would run even higher from smoke and water damage since both stores had stocked up for the Christmas selling season.

Builders to Be Guests at Thanksgiving Service

ROCHESTER—Special guests at the Sunday evening Thanksgiving Service in the new St. Paul's Methodist Church will be members of the building trades who worked on the edifice.

Featured speaker will be Dr. Arthur Smith, superintendent of the Port Huron District of the Detroit Conference of the Methodist Church.

The service, open to the public, will start at 7:30 p. m. It will include music by St. Paul's Chancel Choir.

The church is at 620 Romeo Rd.

LAKE ORION — The Orion Republican Club will meet at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the Lake Orion Junior High School gymnasium to hear Richard C. Gerhan of Republic Steel Corp., Cleveland.

"The Case of the Vanishing Dollar" will be the subject of Gerhan's talk about inflation.

All Republicans are invited.

All successive bids shall not be less than in multiples of $50.00. Successful bidders shall be required to make a good faith deposit of not less than 5% of the total bid immediately upon completion of sale of each parcel. U.S. Health Men Eye Population

For First Time, Group Asks Family Control Be Studied

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Public Health Assn. today termed soaring population growth a threat to the health of millions, and called for more attention to the means of regulating family size.

The problem should be an integral part of civic health programs the association said.

In the first policy statement ever made on the subject by the 87-year-old professional society, it said: "The public health profession has long taken leadership in defeating disease, disability and death. It must now assume equal leadership in understanding public health implications of population imbalance and in taking appropriate action."

★ ★ ★

The 13,000-member association includes public health officials at community, state, national and inter-American levels.

It said current population increase "threatens the health and well-being of many millions of people."

In some areas, the statement said, the threat is malnutrition or outright starvation; in others, it is increased family stress, reduced educational opportunities, retarded industrial development, crippled economies.

★ ★ ★

"Especially lacking is scientific knowledge concerning human fertility," the association said.

"The healthful effects of family planning and spacing of births has been recognized by leaders of all major religious groups, as well as by leaders in medicine, welfare and public affairs."

Hal Boyle Writes of His Latest Milestone

Get Glasses, Men, So You See the Gals

NEW YORK (AP)—There are certain milestones in living which, once reached, change your life forever.

Such a milestone is your first real case of puppy love, the first time you break a bone and realize that your body is not immortal but mortal, marriage, and your first child.

BOYLE

After that the milestones become a bit glummer. I am thinking of your 40th birthday, the day the dentist says, "I'm sorry, but I'll have to put in a partial plate," and the day you finally decide to wear glasses.

I am at this last landmark now.

For months I have been getting more and more like that near-sighted comic character who lives in a foggy world where everything looks like something else. The harder I squint the less I see.

★ ★ ★

My arms now aren't long enough for me to hold a restaurant menu far enough away to read the items. The telephone company hasn't helped either. Every year it seems to print its phone books in smaller type.

★ ★ ★

The same thing with book publishers. They keep using smaller type, too. The only books I can read comfortably are those my daughter is studying in the first grade, and while I do find them interesting, the plots seem a bit thin to an adult mind. The dialogue also gets a little monotonous, too.

IT'S JUST VANITY

"Your eyes are your work," my wife has been saying for a long time now, "and you're straining them so you'll wind up blind as a bat.

"It's just vanity with you anyway. Why don't you give up and go get yourself tested for some glasses? Glasses are attractive on middle-aged men. It makes them look like executives."

★ ★ ★

"I don't want to look like an executive," I tell her. "I just want to go on looking like Clark Gable—or maybe Marshal Dillon."

I might have gone on getting blinder and blinder until I fell into an open manhole—except for an unusual incident.

I was in a railway terminal the other day and couldn't make out the number on the phone directory. I hailed an elderly stranger and asked his help.

"Certainly," he said, pulling a pair of glasses from his pocket. He gave me the number.

★ ★ ★

"Sonny, why don't you quit fighting time, and get yourself some glasses. You don't know what you're missing," he told me.

★ ★ ★

"Such as what?" I asked.

"Well, are you a girl watcher?" he demanded. I looked quickly in both directions and lowered my voice as I answered, "Isn't everybody?"

"Can you see that pretty girl at the other end of the terminal?" he inquired. I looked where he pointed and had to admit she was pretty much of a blur to me.

Then the old fellow had me don his spectacles. The distant girl leaped into clear vision. She was startlingly beautiful.

★ ★ ★

"Sonny, that's why you should wear glasses," said the elderly stranger. "It enables you to see twice as many pretty girls twice as far away."

★ ★ ★

I made up my mind that instant, I'm going to make an appointment with an eye doctor right away.

A middle-aged man who fights glasses doesn't know what he's missing.

Keep Overcoat Out for Next 30 Days

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Weather Bureau predicted Tuesday that the nation would be lashed with continued wintry weather during the next 30 days with "only transitory periods of warmth."

In its regular 30-day forecast, the Bureau said temperatures would average below seasonal normals in the area between the Appalachians and the Continental Divide in the Pacific Northwest.

The coldest weather was expected in the Central and Northern Plains. Above normal temperatures were predicted in the far Southwest and the Atlantic coastal strip.

Precipitation was expected to exceed normal over the Eastern one-third of the nation, the Northern Plains, the far Southwest, and the Central and Southern West Coast. All other areas would record near normal amounts except for subnormal precipitation over the Pacific Northwest, the Bureau predicted.

Breezy Loretta Young Is a Grandmother Now

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—Actress Loretta Young is a grandmother. Her daughter, Judy, gave birth Monday to a daughter, Maria. Judy is the wife of Joseph Tinney Jr., executive with Revue Productions.

Kentucky's mines produce about 15 per cent of the U.S. bituminous supply.

Twice as many people are engaged in clerical work now as in 1940. Maybe we're more mixed up than ever, but we're getting it all down on paper . . . Marriage is like a TV set — you have to keep paying for it even when it doesn't work. —Earl Wilson.

President Mulls Over Idea to Take Truman on Trip

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower is mulling over a proposal that he ask Harry S. Truman to go along on next month's good-will visit to three continents, a White House spokesman says.

★ ★ ★

Wayne Hawks, acting White House press secretary, told a news conference questioner Tuesday: "He has it under consideration, yes."

★ ★ ★

But one obvious obstacle in the way of turning the President and former President into traveling companions is that for seven years there hasn't been much good-will between them.

★ ★ ★

And a spokesman for Truman said in Kansas City that Truman knew nothing of the idea.

It was Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn) who suggested that Eisenhower make his 20,000-mile tour of 11 nations a bi-partisan affair. He wrote a letter to the chief executive Friday proposing that Eisenhower invite one or more Democrats experienced in international affairs.

OTHERS MENTIONED

In addition to Truman, the senator mentioned Dean Acheson, who was Truman's secretary of state; Adlai E. Stevenson, the loser to Eisenhower in the 1952 and 1956 presidential campaigns; and Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn), a former ambassador in India.

India, with Red China glowering across her northern border, is a high priority point on the tour. Eisenhower will spend more time there than in any other country.

RESTING UP

It is in preparation for the trip that the President is vacationing here at Augusta National Golf Club and storing up as much rest and relaxation as he can. Conferences with Washington officials still take some of his time.

★ ★ ★

For a session today, he called in the five members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff for what Hawks said is one of their periodic meetings with the commander-in-chief.

Charge Perjury in Union Payoff

Ex-Teamster Is Indicted for Falsely Denying He Took Money

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal grand jury indicted a former Teamsters Union member for perjury today, charging he falsely denied taking payoffs from a trucking employer to preserve labor peace.

The eight-count indictment was returned here against Edward F. Weinheimer of the Bronx, N. Y.

The indictment charged that Weinheimer falsely denied to the grand jury that he received cash payments totaling $2,000 during August and September 1957 from his employer, Exhibitors Service Co., Inc., of McKees Rocks, Pa., a trucking firm.

The indictment charged that just before the alleged cash payments, Weinheimer admitted conferring with Teamsters President James R. Hoffa who at the time was a vice president of the union, and with Robert (Barney) Baker, a representative of the Central Conference of Teamsters.

Pontiac Woman Badly Injured When Hit by Car

A Pontiac woman was in poor condition today at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. She was struck by a car on Auburn avenue at Parkhurst street last night.

Pontiac Police said Shirley Cash, 25, of 138 N. Shirley St., suffered head injuries when thrown some 45 feet by the impact.

The driver of the car, Marilyn J. Schlie, 29, of 63 Victory St., told officers the pedestrian, wearing dark clothing, walked in front of her eastbound auto.

She was not held.

The accident took place at 7:30.

State Chamber Backed Locally

Pontiac Area C. of C. Will Send Delegates to Kickoff Meeting

The move for a Michigan Chamber of Commerce has been unanimously supported by the Board of Directors of the Pontiac Area Chamber of Commerce.

★ ★ ★

John W. Hirlinger, manager of the Pontiac chamber, announced that he and several other local delegates will attend an organizational meeting for a state body Dec. 9 in Lansing.

Hirlinger believes a state organization would promote Michigan's economic development and bring increased cooperation between local chambers, trade associations and similar groups.

"Such a group would help Michigan get the kind of publicity necessary to attract new industry and new jobs," he said.

★ ★ ★

Michigan has been without a statewide chamber of commerce for almost 20 years. Of the top eight industrial states, Michigan is the only one without such an organization.

A steering committee, headed by R. P. Briggs of Jackson, executive vice president of Consumers Power Co., has called the organizational meeting.

Erwin D. Canham, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. Paul W. McCracken, professor of business conditions at the University of Michigan, will speak.

Pontiac City Affairs

Further Study Is Asked on Curfew Law

Action on the proposed teen-age curfew was postponed by the City Commission last night in favor of further study by the 70-member Civic Improvement Advisory Committee.

Meeting Monday to discuss the curfew, the committee had called for a study group to delve further into details, particularly on the subject of teen-age acceptance of such a law.

Commissioner Milton R. Henry, who first proposed the ordinance, readily acceded to the committee's request for more time and study.

Action on the proposal was delayed indefinitely.

★ ★ ★

In other action, the Commission approved a license for Community National Bank to construct an overpass between its Saginaw street building and a new, four-story building it contemplates constructing on East Lawrence street.

The overpass would bridge the alleyway between the two buildings. The license allows an enclosed overpass at least 13½ feet high and not more than 12 feet wide.

The Commission also voted to let the bank put up its new building along the same foundation lines as the 70-year-old building that is currently there. The bank said that after most of its construction plans were set, it was discovered that the old building encroached three inches into the public alleyway.

Details of the new building have not been disclosed yet. It is to be used primarily as additional office space.

In keeping with a promise made earlier this year, commissioners voted to space over a period of five years the special assessment payments on the newly-completed paving of Joslyn road between Walton boulevard and the city limits.

Commissioner John A. Dugan asked for the extended payments, noting that many of the property owners affected had unusually large lots and therefore faced unusually high assessments.

Also confirmed were assessment rolls for the paving of Cass avenue, Wisner Stadium to Oakland avenue; blacktopping of Cornell avenue, Baldwin to Carlisle; blacktopping of Longfellow avenue, University to the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern Railroad, and a 525-foot water main on the south side of Walton boulevard east of Telegraph road.

There were no objections at a hearing on the assessment roll covering a new sidewalk on the west side of Lake street, from the south end of the street to the Michigan Airlines Railroad, near Bethune School.

Rogers Disturbed

Mississippi Lynch 'Farce' May Spur Federal Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Mack Charles Parker lynching case—and Mississippi's failure to do anything about it—may bring pressure for a new federal civil rights law.

★ ★ ★

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers said Tuesday the case was "as flagrant and calculated a miscarriage of justice as I know of." He added the Justice Department is "studying the need for some new criminal statute in the civil rights field."

★ ★ ★

Asked if he meant a federal antilynch law, Rogers said "not necessarily." Any such proposal in the 1960 election year would be bound to generate a king-sized controversy in Congress.

Parker, a 23-year-old Negro, was accused last spring in Poplarville, Miss., of raping a pregnant white woman in a car with the woman's five-year-old daughter present.

Before he could be brought to trial, he was dragged from the Poplarville jail by a gang of hooded night riders, shot to death and dumped into a river.

★ ★ ★

Rogers said the FBI investigated the lynching, at a cost of $80,000, and came up with a complete report, including fingerprint evidence on the lynchers.

But the Pearl County grand jury met at Poplarville last week and did nothing about the case. It called no witnesses, although Rogers said FBI men were "ready and willing to testify."

★ ★ ★

Nor did the grand jury examine the FBI report said to have named the men responsible. The local district attorney called the FBI report hearsay but said the jury could have seen it if it wished.

★ ★ ★

Rogers said: "The harm in this case is not confined to Poplarville. The harm results to the United States and our standing before the world.

"You hear a lot about states rights. I believe in states rights also, but I also believe in state responsibility.

"It seems clear to me that if the states are going to disregard responsibilities to the extent of not even calling witnesses in a case like the Poplarville case, then the federal government must consider something else."

Hoffa Accused of Bond Tricks

McClellan Says Union Head Funnels Business Into Shady Firm

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the Senate Rackets Committee has accused Teamster boss James R. Hoffa of funneling union bond business into a firm he said has Chicago gangster connections.

The Labor Department promptly joined forces with the committee to investigate the alleged scheme.

★ ★ ★

The union's court-appointed board of monitors, which has broad cleanup powers enforced by the courts, also swung in beside the governmental bodies to help sort the facts and take appropriate action if needed.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), Rackets Committee chairman, made public a letter he sent yesterday to Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell spelling out his accusations.

The senator said he has information that Hoffa and the union's executive board "have been actively attempting to deliver the lucrative business of bonding Teamster officials throughout the country to an agency whose officers are associated with Allen and Paul Dorfman and with known Chicago racketeers."

★ ★ ★

"If our information is correct, and this is allowed to happen," McClellan continued, "the Teamster membership could again well be faced with excessive expenditures of several millions of dollars, as they were in their previous dealings with the Dorfmans."

The committee has accused Paul Dorfman and his son Allen of collecting $1,650,000 in overcharges as insurance brokers for Teamster welfare and pension funds.

The new inquiry stems from the Teamsters' efforts to comply with a provision of the new labor-management law requiring that union officials who handle union funds should be bonded against losses up to $500,000.

McClellan charged that the union, without waiting for the American Surety Assn. to work out a new and lower schedule of premiums to be charged for the bonds, has tried to swing all its business to Summit Fidelity & Surety Co. of Akron, Ohio.

Sentenced in County, He May Be Paroled

A 39-year-old Detroit man, sentenced to prison for life by the late Oakland County Circuit Judge George B. Hartrick in 1945, is one of four men being considered for parole by the State Parole Board. Hearings will be held Friday.

Ernest Parsons was convicted by a jury of second-degree murder for the Aug. 7, 1944 killing of Louella Parfitt, 19, of Detroit. He is now in the Ionia State Reformatory.

Others to be considered for parole are Alfred Ahern, 57, sentenced in 1924 from Detroit; Clarence Norton, 57, sentenced in 1938 from Detroit; and Robert J. Plante, 29, sentenced in 1949 from Detroit.

Pontiac Chapter Chosen

To Host Underwriters

The Pontiac chapter will be host to approximately 400 delegates and their wives of the Michigan State Assn. of Life Underwriters at next year's annual convention May 2 and 3.

★ ★ ★

The Elks Temple has been selected as the site for the business sessions.

Richard Mineweaser, president of the Pontiac Life Underwriters Assn., along with David Speer, immediate past president, had extended the invitation to hold the convention here.

They announced today that they have been notified the invitation had been accepted by E. Leon Harris, state president.

★ ★ ★

The Michigan association has a membership of close to 3,000 agents with headquarters in Lansing.

Combined with similar associations throughout the country, they form the National Assn. of Life Underwriters, one of the oldest professional organizations in the United States.

Aims of the association are the development of high standards and ethics among agents, protection of policyholder's rights, education of the public to the need of insurance and to attempt to keep governmental controls of the insurance business at a minimum.

Fund Shortage: Petty Cash Box Stolen

Oakland County government is having its financial woes, too. The County Drain Commission reported a sudden loss in funds yesterday.

Robert Evans, deputy drain commissioner, told Pontiac police $60 had been stolen from the petty cash box at the Oakland County Service Building, 550 S. Telegraph Rd.

Flynn's Widow Patrice Wymore Opens in Revue

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Patrice Wymore opened in a revue type musical comedy Tuesday for her first public appearance since her husband, actor Errol Flynn, died last month.

She appeared in a cast featuring Dagmar, Marilyn Maxwell and Julie Wilson.

"I'm working because Errol would have wanted me to," she said. "He took great pride in my accomplishments and he would have wanted me to work. My only regret is that he is not here sitting at ringside."

A packed house watched the performance at a hotel.

Miss Wymore said she plans to establish a home on the Jamaica plantation she and Flynn bought some years ago.

George E. Hill Sworn In Commission Chairman

LANSING (AP)—George E. Hill, 39, former Marquette County prosecutor, was expected to be sworn in today as chairman of the State Public Service Commission.

His appointment by Gov. Williams was unanimously confirmed last night by the Senate.

Hill, a Democrat, replaces Aud. Gen. Otis M. Smith of Flint who resigned as PSC chairman last month to accept his present post.

Hill's first big job will be to read over voluminous testimony in the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. bid for a rate increase of up to 25 million dollars a year.

The case, filed last spring, is nearing decision stage. Final arguments will be heard the first of next month.

One-third of Canada's population lives in Ontario.

There's an 'Orange' on MSU 'Rose' Bush

Spartans Arrive in Warm Miami This Afternoon

Duffy Takes 38 Players South for Friday Game With Hurricanes

EAST LANSING (UP) — Michigan State footballers were flying toward the Orange Bowl while dreaming of the Rose Bowl today.

The chartered plane carrying the 38-man Spartan traveling squad, coaches and party was to leave frigid Lansing at 10 a. m. and arrive at Miami—where the temperature was 84 degrees yesterday—at 2:30 p. m.

Michigan State winds up its football season with the night game Friday against the Hurricanes.

Saturday afternoon the Spartans do some long distance sweating out of the climactic Big Ten action. Wisconsin would have to lose or tie with Minnesota and Northwestern suffer the same fate against Illinois to put MSU in the Bowl on a 4-2 conference record.

He announced that four players lost consideration for the flying sunshine special because they cut a squad meeting Sunday. None were in the top echelon of players and Daugherty refused to release the names.

"They're still otherwise squad members in good standing," he said. "It's a closed incident. I figure they've been punished enough."

Daugherty added that several players with too many cuts in classes, also unidentified, were eleminated from the travel roster.

"We've got to have team unity right down to the end of the season," Daugherty said. "There are no special privileges."

Fullback Blanche Martin, who missed the Northwestern game because of injuries, was the last man added to the traveling list. Sophomore fullback Don Hatcher, who looked like a killer-type carrier against the Wildcats, was nominated for his first away game.

Sophomore Leroy Loudermilk, who has seen little game action this year, was added to the quarterbacks behind Dean Look, Tommy Wilson and Bob Bercich, the latter on defense.

Miami, lead by Fran Curci, a slight senior quarterback, has a 5-3 record. Curci has more than 1,000 yards in total offense in eight games, a new record for the school.

The traveling squad included eight seniors, a dozen juniors and 18 sophomores.

Unitas' Aerials Biggest Threat for Coast Club

Colts Favored to Kick 49ers

By United Press International

The Baltimore Colts, defending National Football League champions, are favored to tie the San Francisco Forty-Niners for the Western Division lead when they clash in Sunday's top game.

The Colts (5-3) trail the Forty-Niners (6-2) by a game and are seven-point favorites to whip the California club in Baltimore's memorial Stadium before a sellout crowd of 55,557.

The New York Giants and Cleveland Browns, tied for the Eastern Division lead with 6-2 records, and the Philadelphia Eagles (5-3) are favored in the other key games. New York is a 5-½ point choice to down the Chicago Cardinals (2-6) at Minneapolis and the Browns are nine-point favorites to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers (3-4-1) at Cleveland. The Eagles entertain the Los Angeles Rams (2-6) and are favored by 3-½ points.

In the other games, the Chicago Bears (4-4) are favored over the Lions (2-5-1) by five points at Detroit and the Packers (3-5) are four-point choices to defeat the Washington Redskins (3-5) at reen Bay.

Each of the 12 teams has four more regular-season games.

★ ★ ★

The Forty-Niners are halfway through a tough, four-game road trip. They lifted their Western lead to two games by winning at Los Angeles but the margin dropped to one when they lost a 14-3 decision to the Bears last Sunday at Chicago. After playing at Baltimore, the Forty-Niners end their road swing at Cleveland.

If they win at Baltimore, the Forty-Niners will assure themselves of at least a one-game lead going into their final two home games against the Colts and Packers. The passing of John Unitas will provide San Francisco's biggest headache Sunday. The Baltimore star has thrown 22 touchdown passes this year, only six less than the N.F.L. season high of 28 set by Sid Luckman of the Bears in 1943.

The Colts have lost only two of their last 12 home games.

★ ★ ★

Charley Conerly and George Shaw, New York's top quarterbacks, are injured but Conerly may see some action against the Cardinals. The Giants, beaten by the Steelers last Sunday, haven't scored a touchdown in the last 11 quarters they have played. They edged the Cardinals, 9-3, two weeks ago on three Pat Summerall field goals.

The Browns entertain the Steeler squad that handed them a 17-7 defeat in their season opener. Cleveland boasts the league's longest current winning streak, five games.

Los Angeles takes a four-game losing streak to Philadelphia. The Eagles could tie for the Eastern lead by winning—if both New York and Cleveland lose.

The Bears, third in the West, trail the Forty-Niners by two games and can cut that deficit to one if they beat the Lions and the Colts down San Francisco. The Redskins visit a Great Bay team that has lost its last five starts.

Celtics Need 2 Overtimes

Pistons Fall, 132-129

DETROIT (UPI)—Walter Dukes, the Detroit Pistons' seven-foot center, is fighting a duel against other basketball giants each time the squad plays games against the Boston Celtics or the Philadelphia Warriors.

Last night, Dukes and big Bill Russell battled as the Celtics took a 132-129 victory in the second overtime period.

Dukes grabbed 23 rebounds in regulation play. Russell had 20 but added eight more in the overtime periods while Dukes was out of action. They ended the game nearly even, Dukes with 21 and Russell 18.

Dukes also out-rebounded Wilt (the Stilt) Chamberlain, a rookie with the Warriors, 19-17 when they met in Dukes' second game this season.

★ ★ ★

The battle last night saw a balanced effort from both teams. Detroit had seven men in double figures and six Celtics were in the 10-or-over scoring bracket.

Regulation play ended tied at 113-113 when referee Mendy Rudolph ruled no basket on a tip-in by Detroit's Archie Dees as the buzzer sounded.

Dees, a former Indiana star, didn't score a point while seeing limited action in regulation time, but netted five as Detroit led most of the way through the first overtime period.

★ ★ ★

Bill Sharman hit from the floor with eight seconds left to force the second extra period. He shared Boston scoring honors with Sam Jones, who was the key in Boston's win, at 28 points.

Gene Shue netted 35 for Detroit to lead both teams.

Jones put Boston into the lead early in the final overtime and accounted for six of his team's nine points in the period.

Dees and Bailey Howell led a Detroit challenge late in the play but Boston stalled and Bob Cousy ended the game with a free shot as the final buzzer went off. Officials failed to tally Cousy's point on the record, but changed it later.

Thomson Puts Them in Front With Hot 67

Sam Snead Shoots 73 as U.S. Golfers Fall Into 5th Place

MELBOURNE (AP)—A brilliant 3-under-par 67 by former British Open champion Peter Thomson shot favored Australia into a 7-stroke first round lead in the Canada Cup golf competition today and a dazzling finish by Sam Snead saved the United States from complete humiliation.

Thomson's 67, coupled with an even par 70 by Kel Nagle, gave the Aussies a 137, seven under the 144 shared by South Africa, Canada and Wales.

★ ★ ★

The United States was one stroke back in fifth place at 145, apparently doomed in the opening round over the 6,853-yard Royal Melbourne Course.

Snead rammed home an eagle on the long 17th and sank a 15-foot birdie on the 18th for a 73 while his partner, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, finished with a steady and creditable 72.

"Seven or eight shots mean nothing in this tournament" said Snead afterward. "You can make them up on nine holes and we have three more days to play."

★ ★ ★

Thomson, the only man on the course who apparently found pleasure in the massive lightning fast greens, took a 3-stroke lead for individual honors over teammate Nagle, Stan Leonard of Canada and Flory Van Donck of Belgium, who tied at 70.

Dave Thomas of Wales had a 71 while Middlecoff was tied at 72 with Harold Henning and Gary Player of South Africa and the surprising Haruyoshi Kobari of Japan.

Snead, golf's greatest money winner and called by some the game's greatest hitter, was a disappointment for a record first day gallery of 12,500 when he duck-hooked tee shots on the first three holes and took a double bogey six at the 12th.

But he finished like a champion. On the 575 yard 17th hole he sent a booming three wood shot 12 feet past the cup, then sank the putt for the only eagle of the tournament. At the 18th, with the huge gallery forming a human wall all the way to the tee, he put his approach flag high 15 feet from the cup and knocked it in for a birdie 3.

★ ★ ★

"I drove like both my arms were broken, worse than I ever have driven in my life," Snead said afterward. "Also I had trouble putting the shot where I wanted it. Here you can hit a perfect shot and still have a bad shot to the green."

Middlecoff played the most poised and confident golf he has shown since he won his second U.S. National Open championship in 1956. From tee to green he was superb but he was unable to get down crucial putts. However, he sank a 15-footer for a birdie at the short fifth and repeated from a difficult downhill position to get his par at the sixth.

Thomson, in familiar surroundings, dropped a 25 footer for a birdie on the third hole and took birds at the 5th and 7th with fine approach shots to within six feet of the cup. His only bogey was at the second where he missed the green for the only time during the round and took a five.

Grand Rapids CC 'A' Champion

Final Prep Ratings Listed

By The Associated Press

What Grand Rapids Catholic Central proved on the field was confirmed unanimously today—the Cougars are Michigan's mythical high school football champions of 1959.

Grand Rapids Catholic earned a perfect score of 80 points in the Associated Press' final Class A poll of the season. The Cougars, unbeaten in nine games, received first place votes on all eight ballots.

Coach Ted Sowle's Grand Rapids city champions won their state title on the basis of a 6-0 showdown victory Saturday over Muskegon Catholic. The Muskegon eleven had been runnerup by eight votes to Grand Rapids Catholic a week ago.

Grand Rapids climbed into first place just last week after Bay City Central, 1958 champion and the state's No. 1 team for 15 weeks, was upset by Pontiac Central.

Muskegon Catholic's defeat and Flint Northern's 19-7 victory Friday over Bay City Central forced a tie for second behind the Cougars. Flint Northern and Muskegon Catholic each polled 66 points.

★ ★ ★

Hamtramck, unbeaten in nine games, was fourth with 54 points. Fifth was Bay City Central, which lost its last two games after going unbeaten for 19 games. The Wolves had 42 points.

Kalamazoo University High school, almost unbeatable since Roy Walters took over as coach nine seasons ago, is the state's mythical Class B Associated Press high school football champion.

The Cubs made an 8-0 record stand up for their first state football title, edging second-place Monroe Catholic by six points in the final AP balloting.

★ ★ ★

Walters took over as football coach in 1951 and inherited a club that hadn't been a winner since the mid-40s. The Cubs were 3-5 under Walters the first season, then 5-3.

In seven seasons since, Kalamazoo U. football teams have compiled an outstanding record of 48 victories, 6 losses and 2 ties.

The 1959 club was led by the running of fullback Terry Duncan and the passing wizardry of Dave Hamilton.

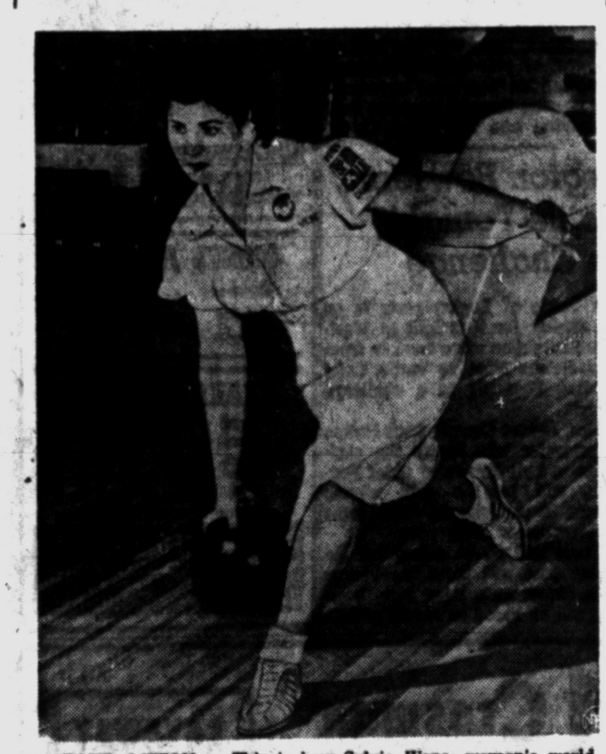
All-Star Pin Points



HAND ACTION — This is how Sylvia Wene, women's world individual match game champion of 1955, delivers her hook.

PERFECT CONSISTENT HOOK

By SYLVIA WENE

Two of four deliveries commonly used in bowling are recommended. The other two are not.

The four deliveries are the straight ball, the hook, the curve and the back-up.

The straight ball is a good delivery for beginners. The hook is the most effective delivery, used by 95 per cent of the top-notchers. The curve is merely a wide breaking hook very difficult to control. The back-up, or reverse curve, is the least effective and most tiresome to deliver.

Discarding the curve and back-up, let's discuss the straight and hook varieties. The straight ball is just what the name implies, one rolled straight to the pins with no arc or curve. It is the easiest to learn to control, especially for the casual bowler, but is not the best strike-getter because the ball deflects easily when it comes in contact with the pins.

It is delivered from the right side of the lane, aimed across the lane into the 1-3 pocket. The fingers of the hand are directly underneath the ball with the thumb at 12 o'clock on a watch dial as the ball is released.

The hook ball is one that travels nearly two-thirds of the way down the lane about nine or 10 boards from the right of the gutter and then hooks sharply into the 1-3 pocket. The hook is imparted because the thumb, in a position at what would be 10 o'clock on a dial, slides from the ball first, followed by the upward lift of the hand with the fingers withdrawing later.

Work to perfect a consistent hook and your scores will be consistently higher.

NCAA Meet Monday

MSU to Host Harriers

EAST LANSING (UPI) — Capt. Crawford Kennedy, who led Michigan State to the NCAA cross country championship last year, is expected to run his last race Monday when MSU hosts the 21st annual NCAA tournament.

★ ★ ★

Kennedy has said he does not plan to try for the Olympic team, but will continue his studies.

A field of 251 runners from 48 colleges and universities is expected for the tournament, and the Spartans, fresh from an IC4A victory Monday, are favored again.

Michigan State won the national title last year as Kennedy finished the snowy run in first place.

★ ★ ★

Chief challengers to the Spartans for team honors seem to be Western Michigan, Houston, Kansas and Army.

★ ★ ★

For Kennedy, it will be the wind-up of a great career which has seen him win one Big Ten, three IC4A and one NCAA individual title. He leads a well-balanced crew which already this fall has nailed down a fifth straight Big Ten title and a fourth straight IC4A crown.

★ ★ ★

The Spartans, host to all 20 previous national meets, are the biggest team winner with seven championships, including three of the last four years.

'Back of Week' Label Awarded to Georgia QB

By The Associated Press

Francis Tarkenton, a 19-year-old junior quarterback at Georgia, today was named "back of the week" by The Associated Press for his performance against Auburn in the game that clinched the Southeastern Conference title for the Bulldogs.

★ ★ ★

With 30 seconds to go, Georgia trailing 13-7, fourth down and 13 to go, Tarkenton hit end Bill Herron in a corner of the end zone. Durward Pennington, a placement specialist, then calmly kicked the extra point that meant victory, 14-13.

★ ★ ★

It was Tarkenton's pinpoint passing to fullback Don Soberdash that set up the score after guard Pay Dye had recovered an Auburn fumble on the Auburn 35. He completed passes for 16 and 9 yards to Soberdash and then finally connected with Herron on a last-chance throw.

Lakers Release Ellis

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minneapolis Lakers Tuesday released Boo Ellis, 6-foot-5 forward whose rebounding helped carry the club to the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division playoff title last year.

The former Niagara University star has had trouble finding the scoring range this season and has been used infrequently.

Union Sportsmen Get Good Contract Deal

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio — Labor negotiations have taken a new turn that would have been unbelievable to trade unionists and industrial barons 50 years ago.

A contract signed by a Springfield manufacturer stipulates that the first day of the rabbit and pheasant hunting season be recognized as a paid holiday for union members.

This proves what every schoolboy has always known — that nothing should be allowed to interfere with hunting on the first day of the season.

Charles Ferries of Houghton has been named to the 12-man training squad for the 1960 Olympic ski team. He is the only midwest Alpine skier on the team.

Dawkins New Rage of Rugby

Out on Limb for Scheffing

Ex-Cub Manager May Pilot A's Next Year, Writer Says

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Star predicted Tuesday night that Bob Scheffing, manager of the Chicago Cubs last season, may be named manager of the Kansas City Athletics this week.

Bob Busby, assistant sports editor, said in his column:

"Look for the announcement of a new manager of the Athletics this week and don't be surprised if its Bob Scheffing, former leader of the Cubs."

There was no immediate comment from club officials. The A's have been without a manager since Harry Craft was relieved of his duties at the close of the season. Craft announced last week he would work for the A's next year in its player development program.

ALL AMERICA AT OXFORD — Pete Dawkins, former All-America from Royal Oak, shows some of the rugby style as he slips by two tacklers to lead Oxford to a 36-0 victory over Blackheath. Dawkins who has played rugby only six times, scored twice in his varsity debut. He attends Oxford on a Rhodes scholarship.

Ex-All America Now Shines as Oxford Player

Royal Oak Gridder Expected to Play in Big Game

LONDON (AP)—Peter Dawkins, former Army All-America halfback and Heisman trophy winner, today was all the rage of rugby union football — the man who took to the English game like a Norwegian takes to skis.

The husky son of a Royal Oak, Mich., dentist came to England as a Rhodes Scholar only six weeks ago and saw rugby for the first time. Now, only seven games later, he's the big tip for a place on Oxford University's team to play Cambridge at Twickenham stadium Dec. 8.

No other American ever moved so quickly. No other American ever stood a chance of winning a coveted "blue," the award for playing against Cambridge, in such a short time.

Dawkins, a quiet, modest athlete from West Point, finds all the publicity surrounding his fabulous success embarrassing.

★ ★ ★

"I just don't want to talk any more about it," Dawkins told a newsman at Oxford. "There are 14 other players on the Oxford team besides me."

That was his attitude too, after scoring two tries (touchdowns) for Oxford against Blackheath last Saturday.

"You are bound to win a 'blue,' you played a fine game," one enthusiastic fan said to Dawkins after the match.

"Well, I don't know about that. I've still got a lot to learn," he replied.

★ ★ ★

But British sports writers are sure that Dawkins is booked to play for Oxford against Cambridge and so set a time record that probably will stand for all time.

It is 28 years since Fred Hoyle of the University of Minnesota played for Oxford on the wing against Cambridge. But it took Hoyle about two seasons of learning to make the team.

Here are just a few British sports writers' comments about Dawkins' play last Saturday.

★ ★ ★

"Two tries, several fine runs, a very fine throw in at the lineouts and a flair for being in the right position at the right time . . ." — The Sunday London Times.

"He scored two good tries (touchdowns), ran well on other occasions, took a pass better than anyone. . ."—The London Telegraph.

"A natural athlete who moves without hesitation. . ."—The London Times.

★ ★ ★

Dawkins, six feet tall and nearly 200 pounds, finds that his football training of side-stepping tackles, swerving his way past opponents and running through a broken field is helping him at Rugby Union.

Colt QB Has Pitched 22 TD Passes

Unitas Close to Aerial Record in NFL

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Johnny Unitas, Baltimore's star quarterback, is close to breaking a National Football League record for the most touchdown passes in one season.

He's only third among leading passers, according to the latest league statistics released today, but he's thrown 22 for touchdowns, the last three in the Colts' 28-24 victory over Green Bay Sunday.

That's only six short of the record set by Chicago's Sid Luckman in 1943. Unitas has four games to go.

Unitas also leads the league in total yards gained passing. He has 2,133 compared with the 1,622 of his closest rival, Norm Van Brocklin of Philadelphia.

★ ★ ★

Frank Ryan of Los Angeles, who hadn't attempted enough passes last week to qualify for passing honors, jumped into first place this week with 68 attempts, 36 completions, 596 yards gained and the all-important average gain of 8.76.

Ralph Guglielmi of Washington was second with 67 attempts, 30 completions, 562 yards and an 8.39 average. Unitas, with 261 attempts and 135 completions, has an 8.17 average.

Among ground gainers, Cleveland's Jimmy Brown still leads the division, although his performance Sunday — 40 yards in 16 carries — was completely overshadowed by teammate Bobby Mitchell's 232 yards in 14 carries.

Brown is tops with 199 attempts, 902 yards gained and a 4.5 average. J. D. Smith, San Francisco, continued in second place with 154 attempts, 756 yards and a 4.9 average. Los Angeles' Ollie Matson held on to third place with 741 yards gained on 136 carries for a 5.4 average.

Ray Berry of Baltimore held first place in pass receiving, although he caught only four Sunday. His totals are 48 catches for 679 yards gained. There was a three-way tie for second place, Lennie Moore and Jim Mutscheller of Baltimore, and Billy Wilson of San Francisco, each with 33.

Other leaders:

Scoring — Brown, Cleveland, 10 touchdowns for 60 points; Bobby Joe Conrad, Chicago, 58 points.

Punting — Don Chandler, New York, 42 kicks, 48.5 average; Yale Lary, Detroit, 29 kicks, 46.2 average.

Punt return — Lew Carpenter, Green Bay, 10 returns, 12.7 average; Abe Woodson, San Francisco, 13 returns, 10.2 average.

Kickoff return — Art Powell, Philadelphia, 10 returns, 31.5 average; George Scott, New York, 10 returns, 25.3 average.

Three Titan Gridders Picked for Gem Bowl

DETROIT (AP) — Three players from the University of Detroit football team have been named to the East's squad in the second annual Gem City bowl on Thanksgiving Day in Erie, Pa.

★ ★ ★

They are halfback Bruce Maher, tackle Grady Alderman and center Ernie Fritsch.

Coach of the East squad will be Frank Reagan of Villanova, while Ara Parseghian of Northwestern will coach the West team in the charity contest.

Hunt Sees AFL Composed Mostly of Rookie Teams

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Lamar Hunt, one of the founders of the American Football League, says the teams will be mostly rookies next fall. But, with appeals of pay, geography and a better chance to play, he hopes his club at least will field the top rookies.

★ ★ ★

Hunt told a news conference yesterday the new league has three groups studying available talent and the information will be pooled. He acknowledged that most of the players drafted by the American Football League at its draft Nov. 23 will also be drafted by the National Football League.

Hold Off Hawks, 105-97

Knicks Win First at Home

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knickerbockers almost blew a 26-point lead in the last seven minutes but held off the St. Louis Hawks for a 105-97 victory—their first in six games and their first of the season at home—in the nightcap of a National Basketball Assn. doubleheader Tuesday night. Syracuse defeated Cincinnati 121-116 in the opener.

The Knicks, who led all the way, had a 92-66 bulge with 7:03 remaining. But the Hawks cut that lead down to eight points in the next 3-½ minutes, outscoring the Knicks 14-0 at one stage.

The Knicks then put it away on a jump shot by Kenny Sears and a drive-in by Mike Farmer for a 98-86 lead with three minutes left.

Sears led the Knick scoring with 25 points, 20 of them in the last half, and Richie Guerin had 19. Cliff Hagan led the cold shooting Hawks with 27 while teammate Bob Pettit managed only 11 points—hitting only 3 of 13 field goal attempts.

Syracuse blew a 10-point lead but hustled back with old guys Dolph Schayes and George Yardley for its victory over the Royals.

Cincinnati trailed until taking a 78-77 edge on Med Park's layup off a fast break with 5:40 left in the third period. The Royals, working behind Wayne Embry and Jack Twyman who combined for nine points, then made it 89-80 with 2:10 left in the period.

The Nats then went on a 19-6 spurt that gave them a 100-95 lead early in the final period. Schayes had nine points and Yardley six in the comeback. And from then on Syracuse was a comfortable eight or nine points ahead until the closing minutes.

2 Ailing Backs Expected to Be Ready to Play

Rio, Julian Work Out With Wolverines After Suffering Injuries

ANN ARBOR (UPI)—Hopes that the University of Michigan's football team may be at full strength for Saturday's encounter with arch-rival Ohio State soared today.

Fullback Tony Rio, who was expected to miss the game because of an injury suffered in the first quarter of last Saturday's encounter with Indiana, was in uniform yesterday as the Wolverines worked out in Yost Field House.

Rio and halfback Fred Julian, who worked out in sweat clothes, worked on defensive maneuvers with the rest of the Wolverines starting team. Julian was expected to be ready for the game Saturday.

As a freshman without a high school reputation, Rio found himself behind a pair of prep All-Americas, John Herrnstein and Jim Byers. With all the glamor boys around and no scholarship to keep him interested, Rio gave up football in the fall of his sophomore year. Though he gave it another fling in the spring he again wasn't invited back.

Rio kept plugging away and toward the end of that season, with the team damaged by injuries, he got his chance. After playing a couple of minutes, he got in 30 minutes in the next to last game against Indiana. In the season's finale against Ohio State, he won a starting role.

★ ★ ★

Last year he started the year as a third-stringer behind Herrnstein and Johnny Walker. Injuries to this pair gave him another chance to move into the starting lineup. Two weeks later the roof caved in on him.

A nationwide gambling story broke and Rio was implicated for selling betting pool cards. Although he said he handled very few of the cards after he began playing regularly, Rio pleaded guilty, was suspended from the squad and placed on probation for the rest of the academic year.

When his probationary period expired in June, he was officially cleared by the University and for the first time was invited back for fall practice. Again he found himself fighting for his old spot with several other players but for the third year in a row he won the job.

This season the soft-spoken economics major has averaged better than four yards per carry — tops on the team — although he consistently has had to hurl himself against some of the best lines in the nation. Rio is the team's best blocking back and a stalwart, hard-hitting linebacker.

BOO! — Gil Mayer would freighten little children in the fearsome-looking mask the Cleveland Barons' goalie will wear when he returns to the hockey wars. It is to protect his recently fractured jaw.

The big four-day Bowling Proprietors' Association of America National Team Match Game Championships begin Saturday with some Oakland County keglers taking part.

Norwest Lanes and Farmington Tool are among the area entries. The strong John F. Ivory team, which bowled at the local Elks recently will also be shooting for top honors.

Preliminary rounds are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday with the four high teams in total pinfall advancing to the finals Monday and Tuesday.

Bel-Aire Lanes is planning a novelty event for Saturday. It's called "The Turkey Bowl" and will be held at the Farmington establishment at Midnight.

Set up for mixed doubles, participants will bowl three games under the 70 per cent handicap system.

There should be a lot of laughs and plenty of topnotch bowling when members of the Cook-Nelson and Chief Pontiac Legion posts collide in a match at Westside Recreation.

League play has featured the bowling front around Pontiac with the return of the Huron Classic to local limelight.

Eight College Gridders Earn Blaik Fellowships

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight senior college football players who plan to go on to graduate studies today were named as winners of the Earl Blaik Fellowships of $500 each.

The eight were chosen by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame and represent each of the NCAA's eight national districts.

★ ★ ★

Col. Earl H. (Red) Blaik, former Army football coach, donated his share of the proceeds from the twice weekly series of football articles he wrote this season for The Associated Press Newsfeatures to pay for the fellowships.

The eight are:

Harry R. Tolly of the University of Nebraska, starting quarterback who is also a mathematics major with a B plus average.

Gerhard H. Schwedes of Syracuse, a halfback who is an All-America candidate as well as an honor student versed in four languages.

★ ★ ★

Paul J. Choquette of Brown, fullback who is an All-Ivy League selection and a Rhodes scholarship nominee.

Neyle Sollie of the University of Tennessee, fullback who is the alternate captain of his team as well as magna cum laude in predentistry.

British Champ Aims for Bout With Ingo

LONDON (AP)—Henry Cooper, British Empire heavyweight champion, today announced he's got one fighter in mind for his next bout—world champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden.

★ ★ ★

Cooper's confidence about a world title fight stemmed from his successful defense of the British title against challenger Joe Erskine last night.

The fight ended after 2:55 of the 12th round with Erskine 192½ sprawled across the ropes and his face lolling over ringside fans.

Erskine had been down for two counts of seven a few minutes earlier. Then Cooper 188¾, waded in and knocked him unconscious with a fusillade of killer punches.

Wolverines Count on Speed

'M' Cagers to Move Fast

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Speed, shooting skill and the sharp eye of junior John Tidwell are the three ingredients being counted on to boster the fortunes of this season's Michigan basketball team.

Coach Bill Perigo's Wolverines, whose tie for second place last year was their best Big Ten finish in 11 years, will rely on deadeye shooting and a swift fastbreak to offset the team's serious lack of height and a strong bench.

★ ★ ★

The squad's prospects also hinge greatly on how well Perigo can fill the spots left vacant by the graduation of M. C. Burton, the league's top scorer and rebounder in 1958, and George Lee, the team's third highest point maker and ninth best scorer in the loop.

Last season, Tidwell poured in 425 makers in 22 games for an average of 19.3 and hit at a 65 per cent clip.

To back Tidwell, Perigo has two good returning veterans, plus a handful of promising letter winners to round out the top six players. Best of the lot are Capt. Terry Miller and center Lovell Farris.

Rounding out the first five will be 6-5 Rich Donley, a Bay City junior, or sharpshooter Dick Clark, a 6-1 sophomore from Gary, Ind., at the other forward and 6-1 Rich Robins of Port Huron at the other guard slot.

U. S. A. Against Russia

1960 Olympics in Rome Should Be Repeat Story

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

ROME (AP) — Who is going to win the 1960 Olympic Games? is another battle shaping up betwen the United States and Russia?

The answer, of course, is that no nation will win because the Olympics aren't run that way. Only individuals win medals.

But as usual various informal scores will be kept and undoubtedly there will be another U.S.A.-U.S.S.R. duel.

At Melbourne in 1956 Russia scored 722 points unofficially against 593 for the United States and won 37 gold medals to 32 for the U.S.A.

The United States, however, took 15 gold medals in men's track and field and one in women's—the central sport of the games

American prospects for 1960 hang in a delicate balance, both overall and in track as well as in the popular sport of swimming. Present indications are that Russia again will dominate the games, thanks to strength in gymnastics, wrestling, and weight-lifting. (At Melbourne Russia garnered 11 gold medals and 181 points in gymnastics).

Performances in track and field have gone up so sharply that it will be touch and go whether the United States can score decisively. In fact, to hold down the entry list, qualifying standards have ben set up that exceed the Olympic records of only a few years back.

Every nation is allowed one entry automatically in each event, but if two or three (the latter is the maximum) athletes are entered, then each must have equalled the qualifying standard. For instance this is :10.4 in the 100 meters, :47.3 in the 400, 3:45 in the 1,500 (the equivalent of a 4:02 mile), 29:40 in the 10,000 (a full minute faster than the American citizens' record), 6-8 ¾ in the high jump, 203-5 in the hammer and 251 in the javelin. In women's track the standards are so tough that it looks now as if only Mrs. Earlene Brown, the Los Angeles weight thrower, and a spring relay team could qualify.

The United States has some top-notch track athletes but winning won't be easy, even for Bobby Morrow, the defending sprint champion, or Ray Norton, the new spring sensation, Jamaica led by over the United States in the 400 at the Pan-American games.

Australia, which dominated the swimming events at Melbourne in 1956, will be back with another band of young, world-record breakers, including the amazing Konrads, Jon and his sister Ilsa. They are favored now to romp off with at least two gold medals each in the free-style. Dawn Fraser, Lorraine Crapp, John Devitt, Murray Rose, Jon and Henricks, medal winners at Melbourne, will be formidable threats again.

The U. S. shapes up as Australia's greatest rival. Young veterans and a new contingent of teenagers will form the squad. Chief hopes of the U. S. include Mike Troy, the world's fastest butterfly stroker, backstroker Frank McKinney, Alan Somers, freestyler Chris von Saltza, versatile Sylvia Ruuska, butterflyers Becky Collins and Nancy Ramey, backstroker Carin Cone, freestylers Jeff Farrell and Elton Follett, and the usual strong divers headed by Olympians Gary Tobian and Mrs. Paula Myers Pope.

Japan will furnish a serious freestyle contender for the Yanks and Aussies in world record holder Tsuyoshi Yamanaka. Ian Black of Scotland and a bevy of Dutch girls also are rated potential medal winners.

(TOMORROW: TOURISTS TO OVER-RUN ROME).

Battered Yvon Durelle Says He's 'Finished'

TORONTO (AP)—"I'm all finished. I'm an old man. My legs are gone. Completely finished and I won't be coming back nowhere."

Thus spoke a battered and bruised Yvon Durelle today. He absorbed a 12th-round knockout from George Chuvao, Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto last night.

The Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight champion from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., needed six stitches to close a cut on his right eyelid.

Millions for Conservation

Budget Requests Set Up

LANSING — The Conservation Department's $26,797,756 budget request for the 1960-61 fiscal year received formal Conservation Commission approval last week.

★ ★ ★

The request, calling for about $9,300,000 more than appropriated to the Department for the current fiscal year, will go to the Legislature for final action during its 1960 session.

Representing the bulk of the increase in the Department's proposed budget is a request for $7,056,585 to finance capital improvements and land purchases for state parks.

The remaining increase above the current year's $17,496,987 budget—$2,244,184—would help relieve staff and equipment needs which have mounted following the recent 15-month austerity program.

★ ★ ★

Commission action was deferred indefinitely on the controversial Blue Lakes Ranch exchange.

Action was also delayed until the Commission's December meeting on changes in park rules and regulations.

Thaw and Deep-Freeze Put Damper on Hunting

(Special to The Pontiac Press)

CURRAN — A thaw Monday and a deep freeze Tuesday put a damper on deer hunting in this Northeastern Michigan "Club Country."

★ ★ ★

Pontiac area hunters complained of the Arctic blast that had the whole Mid-West in an ice box. Six inches of snow in the back areas began to melt a little and then Tuesday morning the temperature plunged to near zero again, putting a thick crust on the snow.

Monday evening Emil Nielsen of Sylvan Lake finally connected with a small four-point buck near the Crow-Bar club. Nielsen's kill followed the pattern of hunting in this Alcona County area.

After many trips from camp to camp since the Sunday morning opening the story was the same. Hunters were taking smaller deer, mostly in the spike-buck, four-pointer class. A trip covering almost 50 miles revealed only few bucks in the near-trophy class.

Last year, Nielsen at Crow-Bar shot a "monster buck" with a spread of about 16 inches.

After 2½ days of hunting, John Cowe and his party at the Cowe-Boys ranch had failed to hang up a deer.

Conservation Department officers in region two reported from Roscommon that they were kept busy because of the army of hunters, many of them armed with doe permits.

The quota of does allowed this year here has been increased because of deer starvation.

Fish Licenses, Law Digests Go to State Dealers

LANSING (UPI) — Conservation Department workers will begin mailing about 1,500,000 copies of Michigan's 1960 fishing licenses and fish law digests to some 4,200 dealers throughout the state this week.

Changes in 1960 fishing laws include:

—Changing the minimum size limit of northern pike from 14 to 20 inches.

—Increasing the creel limit on bluegills from 15 to 25.

—Eliminating a one-dollar permit fee to possess game fish in private ponds.

—The use of more than one, single-pointed hook is limited to manufactured artificial bait.

Houghton Lake Area Opened to Hunters

LANSING — Hunters are reminded that the 10,575-acre Houghton Lake state game area will be open to public shooting during the Nov. 15-30 deer season.

Only a 160-acre tract encircling the area's deer pens will be closed to hunting. This off-limits zone will be posted.

★ ★ ★

Those with special permits for Area 35 may take deer of any age or sex within the state game area. All other hunters, of course, must restrict their shooting to bucks.

Grand Rapids Show Moved Up to Dec. 13

GRAND RAPIDS — Moved ahead from its former mid-January date to Dec. 13, the annual all-breed, AKC-sanctioned dog show of the Grand Rapids Kennel Club will be doubled in size and scope this year.

★ ★ ★

The Grand Rapids show will complete the late fall and early winter Michigan dog show circuit, following the Royal Oak unbenched show Dec. 5 and benched shows at Lansing and Benton Harbor Dec. 6 and 12 respectively.

Entries for the Grand Rapids show will close at noon Dec. 1.

'Coach of Year'

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Curbstone Coaches of Pittsburgh today named Dr. Eddie Baker of Carnegie Tech as small college football coach of the year.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Baker, who is also a practicing dentist, guided his Tartans to a 7-1 record. Tech lost only to Westminster in its final game last Sturday.

All Entries Must Have Proper Weight Slips

By The Press Outdoor Editor

Few more than average "heavy" deer have been reported by Oakland County hunters, as prospective entries for The Press' 1959 big deer "derby". Also, few who have returned with eligible bucks, have complied with rules regarding properly signed weight slips.

All entries, to be properly listed MUST be accompanied by weight slips, signed by the person weighing the deer, by another witness, and by the hunter. Deer may be weighed (dressed-out weight) at food lockers or at any large market.

Importance of the weight slip is understood when estimated weights seldom are the final figures, and usually are much lower. Many a hunter who figures he has an unusually big deer, has been disappointed to discover that it's actual heft is away below expectations.

★ ★ ★

Among the few "official" entries, so far, are several around 150-165 pounds. Phil Collins' 155-pounder is one early leader. Not one near-200 pounder has been reported officially, and the greater number of reports indicate a preponderance of "light" bucks.

★ ★ ★

Another early entry was that of Norman E. Hall, 240 West Ypsilanti, Pontiac, also a 150-pounder that appeared much heavier. The Pontiac Motors worker downed his buck at St. Helens, hunting with his brother Ernest, his father, Ira Hall, and brothers Gerald and Kenneth. Hall's deer had a fine rack, 18-inches wide. Ernest took a 6-pointer.

★ ★ ★

'DEADEYE DIANA' GETS HER DEER!

First Oakland County feminine deerslayer to bring back a trophy from the northern Michigan whitetail country, so far reported, is Mrs. Joe Andrews, 1919 Sylvan Lake Rd. Keego Harbor.

The Keego "Diana" downed a big, fine-antlered 8-pointed while hunting with her husband near West Branch. The buck weighed an estimated 165 pounds. One slug from a 20-gauge shotgun did the trick, Mrs. Andrews reported.

★ ★ ★

"I do a lot of small game hunting—rabbits, squirrels and pheasant, and I like the shotgun. This big deer was standing in a sort of swale, below me, and I had a good shot at about 50 yards," she related.

"The weather was real cold—hit zero Tuesday morning when we left West Branch. There was a lot of snow."

FAMILY 'TEAMS' COLLECT PRIZES

Other brother hunting teams from the Pontiac sector that connected for nice venison prizes included Bill Gasaway, 945 Emerson and Harold, 417 Hickory Lane, who "worked" the John Kowalczyk farm north of Standish. Bill got an 8-point 134-pounder, his brother a 4-pointer. This was Harold's first deer expedition. The deer were shot only 50-yards apart.

★ ★ ★

Phil Collins, 624 Cameron, returned home first of the week, highly elated over his first deer hunting trip near Mancelona. Phil took a 155-pound 8-pointer. He left his dad, Thomas Collins, and an uncle, still hopeful of filling their licenses.

Still another "first-timer" was Donnie Bacon, 256 S. Sanford, who downed a big 8-pointer early on opening day.

★ ★ ★

Probably the youngest area hunter to score was 16-year-old Kenneth Jacobson, Waterford High pupil. Kenneth brought back a four-pointer from Rose City, downed his first buck opening day. The youngster, son of the Ray Jacobson's (5685 Williams Lake Rd.) also bagged his first pheasant on this fall's opener.

Lakes Beginning to Freeze Over

Ice-Fishermen Marking Time

LANSING (UPI) — A lonely figure peering down through a hole in the ice, a thin thread of smoke leaving the chimney of a shanty perched on a frozen lake, a cluster of villages with their queens, honorary mayors and noisy festivals—all are part of Michigan's ice fishing season which rapidly approaches.

"People get excited about ice fishing too early," said A. B. Cook, assistant chief of the state conservation department's fish division. "They've got to be careful early in the season."

Cook said he had thought the winter season might be delayed but "the weather's making ice right now," he said, and that peculiar breed of fishermen—about 200,000-250,000 of them—may be able to take to the lakes soon.

"It all depends on the lakes and local weather conditions," cook said. "Shallow lakes which are warm in summer, such as Houghton Lake, freeze earlier than spring-fed lakes such as Higgins, Crystal and Torch.

"A spring-fed lake with a 45-degree temperature in summer may seem cold, but when it's still nearly the same temperature in winter, it seems lukewarm."

Houghton Lake's Tip-Up Town, named after a tip-up indicator used in pike fishing, hosts one of the largest ice fishing festivals, but other prominent ones are Smeltiana, an organized village with temporary police force and mayor near Charlevoix, and a perch village on Lake Huron near East Tawas.

★ ★ ★

"There are fishermen wherever fish congregate," Cook said. "There is generally not much winter fishing on rivers but fishing for blue gills on the frozen Grand River is important."

Ice fishing is predominently a Lower Peninsula sport. Most participants do not travel far to fish, he said, and the Upper Peninsula has a smaller resident fishing population.

"There is what you might call an ice fishing embargo on non-residents who don't own any property in the state coming into our southern counties," Cook said. "It seems there was some trouble with fishermen coming from Indiana and Ohio to fish in Michigan who were accused of violating laws."

Non-residents who do not pay taxes in this state are not allowed to ice fish in most of the southern tier of counties.

For Conservation Legislation

OK's New Regulations

LANSING — The Conservation Commission stamped its approval on six proposed legislative changes last week. They will be submitted to the Legislature during its 1960 session.

One proposal would allow the State to waive its mineral rights in connection with the sale of Great Lakes submerged lands. This would apply only to cases in which such relinquishments would be considered reasonable. Under present law, bottom lands owners are unable to use their property as security to acquire mortgage monies for further improvements.

Legislation will also be introduced requiring drillers of water wells to obtain licenses and file reports covering their wells.

Another measure would outlaw use of Conibear traps with jaw spreads over five inches.

An amendment will be sent to the Legislature prohibiting hunters from carrying .22 caliber rifles afield in the southern lower peninsula during the firearm deer season unless they possess deer hunting licenses.

Another proposal favors permitting archers to possess and transport strung bows in cars, providing the bows are enclosed or fastened securely in a case or carried in the trunk of an automobile.

The Commission also adopted a measure which would delete the option permitting hunters to possess and transport firearms in cars which are broken down in lieu of being encased or carried in the car's trunk.

Pocket-Sized Fish-Finder

WATERBURY, Conn. — A new scientific gadget has been introduced to aid the angler in the never-ending war betwen man and fish.

★ ★ ★

A plastic device manufactured in Waterbury fits snugly in the pocket. It is a thermometer with a scale that allows fishermen to determine the depth at which various fresh water fish will be found.

★ ★ ★

It is based on the established principle that various fish prefer certain temperatures and will be found at depths where the water temperature is suitable to their tastes.

Tunes Work for Mental Patients

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — For years they have tried it. Since the first world war, and before. But only recently have they proven the startling truth that music—properly controlled and skillfully prescribed—can help cure patients with both physical and mental illnesses.

Researchers in the field today have established what might be called a "music dispensary."

They catalogue musical numbers like drugs. They prescribe them according to the individual needs of each patient.

"And we have found," says the lady who is a backbone of America's tunefull therapy movement, "that in limited experiments, 74 per cent of our patients show definite improvement when exactly the right music is played for them.

"Music has played a large part in the eventual discharge of a great number of patients from mental institutions.

"In many cases, only 13 music sessions constituted the course of treatment."

PRESIDENT OF 'MUSIC'

The woman with the lilting voice is Frances Paperte, at 18 a star of the Chicago Opera Co., and now president of "Music Research Foundation," a non-profit organization founded to explore the scientific benefits of melodic therapy.

During World War I, Miss Paperte was a 14-year-old singing student. She helped entertain returning wounded soldiers, under the auspices of the YMCA. And she still remembers, vividly, the reaction of the convalescing soldiers.

"Music sometimes uplifted them enormously. But the same music that might uplift one man had the power to depress another—sometimes moving him to fits of screaming and sobbing."

It was at these sessions at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station in Illinois long ago that Frances began to wonder whether so powerful an instrument might not be used "as a disciplined tool to cure ill" as effectively as drugs.

Years later, after she'd reached stardom and married, her only daughter was stricken with infantile paralysis and lost the use of both legs. The shock was great.

But Frances remembered the wartime experience—and in Warm Springs, she played and sang music daily for her own child, and the other polio patients.

"They responded with much more vigor and enthusiasm in their daily exercises," Frances recembers. "I knew we were on the right track."

After the outbreak of World War II, Miss Paperte took charge of the American Theater Wing's "Music in Hospitals" program—agreeing to accept the responsibility only if she could base the program on her concept of what was really needed.

She rounded up some of the finest musicians in America, impressing upon them that they were there, not to show how brilliantly they could perform, but to cure patients.

In relation to their individual psychiatric histories, patients were separated into groups which took into account their level of music appreciation, any music "allergies" from which they suffered (music they disliked for any number of psychological reasons), and other carefully resolved considerations.

"Then, that music which best suited the patient's emotional needs and associations was played or sung for each individual or group."

★ ★ ★

Because of the success of the wartime project, the Music Research Foundation was formed. The first president was Fritz Kreisler, and others giving their time included Charles E. Wilson, John L. Lewis, Wendell Wilkie, Eleanor Roosevelt, Bernard Baruch, Gen. Omar Bradley—a distinctive and diffuse band of believers.

Today, experiments have progressed far. Music is now categorized by mood and title, according to the response of various types of patients: "The Bells of St. Mary's" —mildly exciting; "Spring Song" —joyous; Ravel's "Bolero" —markedly exciting, and so on.

The catch, of course, is that every patient—especially the mentally ill—has a different response to a mildly exciting, or a joyous tune. Some will cry when they hear a happy melody.

"That's why I say we're just beginning," Miss Paperte says. But the day may come when musical medicine will take its proper place: The tune alongside the test tube.

Planned Parenthood Has Clergy Advisory Group

NEW YORK (AP) — Formation of a clergymen's national advisory committee, composed of 30 Protestant and Jewish clergymen, was announced yesterday at the opening of the 39th annual meeting of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

The chairman of the committee is the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Protestant Episcopal bishop of California and former dean of the cathedral of St. John the Divine here.

Bishop Pike, who made the announcement, said one of the committee's functions will be to "help secure the incorporation of contraceptive counseling and prescription in maternal-health services throughout the United States."

Grains Ease, Trade Light

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (AP) — The last trading day in November soybeans brought no indication of pressure either way today during the first several minutes of dealings on the board of trade.

Activity was light all around with prices mostly steady to slightly easier. Except for evening up of commitments in November soybeans, the market appeared again to be stalled on dead center in the absence of any new influences.

The open interest in the expiring soybean contract was believed to have been chopped down to about 10 million bushels or less in yesterday's trading. However, brokers said there could be some rather broad swings during the final few minutes.

★ ★ ★

After about an hour wheat was unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel lower, December $2.00⅞; corn unchanged, December $1.12⅝; oats ⅜ to ⅝ higher, December 77½; rye ½ higher to ¼ lower, December $1.33; soybeans unchanged to ½ higher, November $2.21⅛.

Chrysler Ceases Valiant Production

DETROIT (AP)—The national steel shortage cuts further into U.S. auto output today with the halting of production of Chrysler's new small car, Valiant.

The company said approximately 2,700 hourly rated workers are to be laid off at the Valiant assembly plant in Hamtramck tonight. The Hamtramck facility is the lone assembly plant for the Valiant.

★ ★ ★

These latest furloughs will bring to 10,580 the total Chrysler layoffs since the recent steel strike began. The Hamtramck plant will continue to produce Dodge cars, the company said.

Chrysler said it expects enough steel to become available to resume production early next month. The corporation stopped producing Imperials last weekend. It previously discontinued assembly of Dodge trucks. Other Chrysler lines are operating on short work weeks.

Many Stores Here Not Selling Cranberries

Kroger, Wrigley and National Food Store markets in Pontiac report they have not been told by their companies to resume sales of cranberries and cranberry products. They are not on display.

The Food Town supermarkets and People's Food-O-Mat, with three stores each in the city, said they have been assured their cranberry stock is not suspect and yesterday displayed it again.

It was explained their stock is purchased from eastern packers and has been checked and cleared of contamination.

The Atlas Supermarket, 1461 Baldwin Ave., reports its cranberry stock will be kept in the back storeroom. While they are not on display shelves, the cranberries are being sold upon request at Atlas.

Market Stages a Sharp Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market staged a sharp rally early this afternoon, led by steels and rails.

Shares of these two industries, which often move together, were up 1 to 2 points as they ran ahead of the rest of the market.

Gains elsewhere amounted to fractions to around a point, and these were tempered by losers in the same range. Trading was active.

Steels were bolstered by belief that the industry will do well if the dispute with the union is ironed out, and hopes in Wall street that an agreement may be worked out during the current 80-day cooling off period.

Chart followers also pointed out that most steel issues were entitled to a technical recovery after recent declines.

Rails, trading just above 1959 lows, were bolstered by a published report the Pennsylvania Railroad will declare a dividend tomorrow, thereby keeping intact its record of making some payment annually for 111 years. The nation's biggest railroad was ahead around a point.

New York Central was up more than a point. Both stand to benefit substantially from increased carloading if peace is reached in steel.

ASTRONAUT — What looks at first glance like a captured Gulliver from another planet is really something much less menacing. It's a 70-foot-tall "spaceman" built by Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. The helium-filled monster is being readied for the annual Macy Thanksgiving Day parade in New York City.

Judges Retain Slight Hope of Averting Wage Slash

Oakland County will try next year to repeal a law that limits circuit judges' pay to $22,500 a year.

★ ★ ★

However, any action wouldn't come soon enough to satisfy Oakland's five judges who will have their $23,500 yearly pay checks cut by $1,000 next year.

A county official said it's possible supervisors still might grant the present pay while a change in the law is considered.

Berkley Supervisor John G. Semann's legislative committee of the Board of Supervisors yesterday decided to strive for repeal of the pay-restricting law as part of the county's 1960 legislative program.

RULED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

In 1954 former Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard ruled that section of the law limiting the pay unconstitutional.

"If it is unconstitutional why keep it on the books," Semann asked.

His committee will ask the Board of Supervisors Dec. 14 to vote on the proposed repeal.

★ ★ ★

Supervisors in September of last year voted 48-26 to comply with the law, despite assurance from Supervisor Carl F. Ingraham (Birmingham) that it would not be enforced because of Millard's opinion.

As it stands today, the five circuit judges under the approved 1960 budget will receive $10,000 county pay checks to add to their $12,500 state checks.

The salaries committee, however, was waiting on word from Norman R. Barnard, corporation counsel, and Semann's committee before making this final.

COULD TRANSFER FUNDS

Barnard said funds could be transferred from the contingent fund if supervisors decide to keep the judges' pay at $23,500.

Millard ruled it was a violation of the state constitution to cut the state share in cases where counties paid a share, which, added to the $12,500, made a total of $22,500.

The proposed repeal was added to three other "target bills" making up the county's concentrated 1960 program.

They urge restoration of 50-50 state-county welfare costs, a bill to permit consolidation of the Drain Commission office with the Department of Public Works and a proposed law—lost in the tax battle this year — controlling lake levels.

The county's special county suggested following through the merger of the two offices yesterday.

Given a spot also in a small program so as to assure passage—officials believe many suggested laws were lost in the shuffle this year because there were too many bills — are two proposals urged by County Treasurer Charles A. Sparks.

SWITCH REDEMPTION

One would switch redemption tax procedures from the clerk's office to the register of deeds. The other concerns proposed amendments to mental health laws.

In addition, the legislative committee heard, but took no official action, on proposed law changes requested by an association of Oakland township supervisors that would:

1. Return to the townships their percentage of liquor license fees turned over, by act of the 1959 Legislature, to counties where townships don't have organized police forces to enforce liquor laws.

2. Amend the old 1895 annexation law requiring a vote of the area to be annexed as well as the area doing the annexing.

★ ★ ★

3. Amend the drain law whereby newly-incorporated cities would assume full cost of so-called at-large drain bills falling within their boundaries.

4. Change law so that township boards could review all actions of township planning commissions. Today the law permits review only if a commission disapproves a zoning change.

Two GM Divisions Start Work Monday

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — After a three-week suspension caused by the steel strike, the Rochester Products Division of General Motors Corp. will resume production Monday.

General Manager Wallace E. Wilson said last night 1,200 hourly wage workers would be recalled. A total of 1,400 had been laid off but 200 have been recalled since production stopped.

Several hundred other hourly wage employes were kept on for the entire period to perform essential work.

Another GM division here, Delco Appliance, also plans to call back 1,800 of its 2,300 furloughed workers Monday.

Secondary Boycott Rule Altered by Reform Bill

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third of four dispatches by the general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board explaining the new labor reform law. This dispatch deals with secondary boycotts.)

By STUART ROTHMAN
General Counsel NLRB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Plugging loopholes in the "secondary boycott" provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act was clearly a major objective of Congress in adopting the new amendments.

This is one of the most complicated sections of the new law, but there is no doubt that major changes are made in what constitutes illegal secondary boycott action by a union.

Tied closely to these changes is the broad ban against "hot cargo" agreements.

The exact meaning of many parts of the new amendments must still be explored. The pioneering in this area falls upon the general counsel as the one designated by statute to prosecute unfair labor practices. But he can act only after a private party has filed formal charges.

In essence, the changes broaden the secondary boycott ban to outlaw almost any effort to embroil a neutral employer in a union's dispute with another employer. Under the law before the 1959 amendments, a union was forbidden only to urge employes at a neutral employer's place of business to take any kind of strike or boycott action because of a dispute with another employer — such as, for example, asking employes to refuse to handle goods that came from an employer the union had tabbed as "unfair."

THESE ARE OUTLAWED

The drafters of the new law made it clear in the congressional debates and reports that the new amendments were meant to outlaw in addition at least the following conduct:

1. Boycott appeals to an individual employe, or to railway workers, municipal and government employes and others outside the act's definition of employes.

2. Appeals to foremen and other supervisors to direct employes under them not to use or work on another employer's product or goods.

3. Secondary consumer picketing. The standard example of this is picketing before a retail store to urge customers of the store not to buy the products of a manufacturer with which the union has a dispute.

4. Threats of picketing or other economic pressure on an employer in order to get him to refuse to do business with another employer.

5. The making of "hot cargo" agreements by an employer and a union.

Under the old law, all these types of union conduct were held lawful.

The new amendments, however, specifically permit truthful union publicity about a labor dispute with an employer. This publicity does not include picketing at another employer's place of business, but it was said in the debates to include passing out handbills there. Radio and newspaper advertisements also were mentioned as permissible.

★ ★ ★

Such publicity may advise "the public, including consumers and members of a labor organization, that a product or products are produced by an employer with whom the labor organization has a primary dispute and are distributed by another employer."

But the publicity may not interfere with the pickup or delivery of goods at the secondary employer's business by individuals other than employes of the employer involved in the primary dispute.

The new provision which is usually tagged as the ban on "hot cargo" clauses appears to go farther than that.

The most common type of "hot cargo" or "hot goods" clause provides simply that employes will not be discharged or otherwise penalized for refusing to handle goods from an employer designated by the union as "unfair."

Congress apparently meant to make this type of clause void and illegal and the actual words of the new law go on to forbid an employer and a union "to enter into any contract or agreement, expressed or implied" for the employer to boycott the products or services of any other employer. This would appear to outlaw not only oral or written agreements but also arrangements indicated only by what the parties do.

★ ★ ★

Exemptions from some of these provisions, however, are given the building and construction industry and the clothing and apparel industry.

Home Is Destroyed by Oil Fire in Novi

NOVI — Fire destroyed a home on Nine Mile road just inside the village limits yesterday afternoon, leaving only the charred walls and roof standing.

Novi Fire Chief Fred Lyons said the blaze started when the occupant of the house at 40293 Nine Mile Rd. tried to thaw oil lines in his backyard with burning newspaper.

Lyns said strong winds blew the paper into an oil puddle near the frame house, catching it on fire.

★ ★ ★

It took firemen from Novi, Walled Lake, Northville and Farmington Township more than two hours to control the blaze.

Sponsor Sends Larry to National

4-H King Eying Chicago

Larry Middleton, king of the 1959 Oakland County 4-H Club Fair, will go to the National Club Congress being held in Chicago Nov. 29 through Dec. 3, the State Extension Office announced today.

Travel is under sponsorship of business organizations interested in the progress of 4-H Club work.

★ ★ ★

Middleton, 17, of 2610 Stoney Creek Rd., Oakland Township, is being sponsored by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

Muddy water, washouts and a farm pond of mysterious origin helped Middleton to decide on soil and water conservation as his first 4-H Club project when he was 10 years old.

He has won numerable prizes in a wide variety of projects since.

★ ★ ★

But the wisdom of his first choice was proven this year when he was chosen state winner.

The information that Middleton has acquired about contour farming, strip cropping, soil testing, drainage sloping and mapping a farm has helped to increase general crop yield and livestock.

★ ★ ★

His team demonstration on soil conservation, featuring rain and resultant washouts, won a place at the State 4-H Fair and a trip to Boston earlier this year.

As a Congress delegate, Middleton has the opportunity of winning a $400 scholarship given by the sponsors.

Pontiac Girl, 10, Struck by Car; Resting at Home

A 10-year-old Pontiac girl was injured yesterday when struck by a car on her way home from school.

Glenda K. Scarbrough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marchel J. Scarbrough, of 727 Young St., was treated for head and hip injuries at Pontiac General Hospital and released.

The driver, Charles P. Ball, 57, of 636 Lounsberry St., told Pontiac police he was momentarily blinded by a sudden "swirling of snow."

He saw a guard with a stop sign at the school crossing on Montcalm at Wolfe street but was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident, he said.

AFL-CIO Taking Back Dockers Out 6 Years

NEW YORK (UPI) — The AFL-CIO today officially takes back the International Longshoremen's Assn., which it ousted six years ago as racket-dominated.

AFL-CIO President George Meany was to present the ILA with a charter of affiliation in a ceremony at the Commodore Hotel.

The ILA's application for reaffiliation was approved earlier this year by the AFL-CIO Executive Council and the federation's convention, subject to conditions it has fulfilled.

Laughed, Joked in Knife Attack

Bitter Negro From Chicago Said Leader in Mississippi Stabbings

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — "We laughed and joked between ourselves about how the man kept saying he was a good boy, over and over while we were cutting and hitting him. I did not know how bad I had cut this man. I did not care."

★ ★ ★

Police Chief Robert Monaghan said this statement was made by Otto Jones, 18, described as the leader of a group of three Negroes who admitted stabbing three white persons in separate incidents Sunday night and Monday night.

The stabbing victims were Alonzo Dodson, 48, Andy Mills, 16, and Don Morris, 20.

Besides Jones, a native of Amory who returned to Mississippi from Chicago about a month ago, the boys arrested were T. L. Carrothers, 17, and J. D. Little, 16, both of Tupelo.

★ ★ ★

Jones' statement dealt only with the stabbing of Dodson. He said he armed himself with a kitchen knife Sunday night and went out with the intention of cutting some white person "because of the way white people had treated me twice in the past."

Monaghan previously had quoted Jones as saying he had never forgotten a whipping a white truck driver gave him in 1957.

★ ★ ★

Jones had told newsmen the knife attack on a white person was an initiation test for a gang he had formed. Jones said he was a member of the Black Hawk gang in Chicago.

400 Defy Weather to Boost Rocky

HANOVER, N.H. (AP)—An estimated 400 persons braved snow and raw wind Tuesday night to boost Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for the Republican presidential nomination.

★ ★ ★

The gathering following fireworks and a torchlight parade through the streets of the Dartmouth College town was billed as an old-fashioned political rally — one of the first of the 1960 national campaign.

Gov. Rockefeller sent a telegram to the rally thanking the people for their friendship, but he gave no hint as to whether he is a candidate.

The telegram was read to the gathering in Hanover High School auditorium by William G. Saltonstall, headmaster of Exeter Academy and chairman of the New Hampshire for Rockefeller Committee.

Said Saltonstall: "It seems to me that the chief purpose of this rally is to make Gov. Rockefeller hear us in Albany."

★ ★ ★

President John Sloan Dickey of Dartmouth said: "We are not professional politicians, but we are deeply concerned. We want the nation to have a person worthy of its leadership. Nelson Rockefeller comes as close to the perfect president as we might have in God's world."

Director of Weights Fired in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The city director of weights and measures was fired Tuesday in the midst of a spreading probe of butchers who cheat customers and city inspectors who help them do it.

★ ★ ★

The investigation under way before a Brooklyn grand jury was spreading not only to meat markets in other boroughs, but also to marketing practices in other retail food stores.

★ ★ ★

As reports of scale-rigging, payoffs, phony advertising and false labeling of meats came out of the investigation, Mayor Robert F. Wagner fired Fred J. Loughran, director of weights and measures, and ordered new rules and regulations drawn up for the Department of Markets.

Bank Robbers Get Jail Terms

Sideline to Business Brings Sentences of 10-30 Years

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—Four Long Island businessmen who robbed banks as a sideline have been given prison terms ranging from 10 to 30 years.

Nassau County Judge Paul J. Widlitz sentenced the men Tuesday.

They were seized last March while counting $75,000 they had taken during a robbery of the Security National Bank in Massapequa. All pleaded guilty and admitted seven other stickups on Long Island.

The group's leader, Anatole Rylsky, 44, a tavernkeeper, got 15 to 30 years. William McHenry, 31, an insurance salesman, Richard Hatch, 53, a blueprint technician, and Thomas Parks, 27, a plumber, got 10 to 20 years each.

Space Research Cost May Halt Race for Arms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A space magazine editor predicted Tuesday that 20 years from now the nations of the world will be supporting 2,000 men on missions "all over the solar system."

The cost of these missions will be so great, he said, that the nations will have no room left in their budgets for the costs of war.

Therefore, by the hard logic of economics, a world irrevocably bound for the planets also is irrevocably committed to peace, he said.

This appraisal was presented at the annual meeting of the American Rocket Society by Dr. Franco Fiorio of Washington, D. C., editor of the Italian-language magazine Missili & Razzi.

Fiorio addressed an audience most of whose members were, one way or another, involved in military programs for the exploitation of space. He told them, in effect, that they might as well get ready to turn in their soldier suits for space suits.

Williams and Beadle Will Debate Taxes

LANSING (AP)—Gov. Williams will debate taxes with Sen. Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair) when the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce holds its organizational meeting here Dec. 9.

Featured speaker will be Erwin D. Canham, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and editor of the Christian Science Monitor.

Robert P. Briggs of Jackson, chairman of the state chamber steering committee, said the day-long program would "give busy Michigan businessmen and professional men new ideas and fresh viewpoints."

The state group also plans to adopt bylaws and elect officers.

1960 March of Dimes Leaders Meet at MSU

EAST LANSING (AP) — Some 250 volunteer leaders of the 1960 March of Dimes campaign will meet Friday and Saturday at Michigan State University.

Dr. Paul Bagwell, state chairman, reported county chapters of the national foundation are $600,000 in debt to hospitals for polio patient care.

The 1960 campaign also will raise funds for the new areas of birth defects and arthritis.

300 City Pupils Treated

Fluoride Completion Near

More than 300 second and fifth grade children will have received fluoride treatments in the Pontiac schools by Thanksgiving, it was announced today by Josephine Seeley, coordinator of school health services.

★ ★ ★

The series of four dental applications have been completed in these grades for Whitfield, Square Lake, Emmanuel Christian, Willis, Will Rogers, Bagley, Bethune, Whittier and Franklin schools.

Students at Hawthorne and Wever schools are scheduled next.

"Registration for this preventive dental care is $4 per child and $2 for a second eligible child in one family," said Miss Seeley. "Grades served are based on average growth and development of teeth.

NEED PARENTS' OK

"Reliable research shows that the fluoride application reduces the incidence of new cavities by 40 per cent."

Miss Seeley says parental consent cards must be signed and returned for each participating student.

This is the ninth year for the fluoride application program in the Pontiac schools.

★ ★ ★

It consists of four consecutive treatments, including examination, cleansing and four applications of sodium fluoride.

Airport Construction Funds Are Requested

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — The Kent County Aeronautics Board has requested $1,200,000 in federal aid to complete the first stage of development of the county's new airport at Cascade.

The Federal Aviation Agency only last week notified the board it had approved an $895,000 allocation of federal funds for 1960 work on the airport.

County Aeronautics Director John Neacham said the new request for funds is for work scheduled to take place in 1961, including paving and terminal construction.

TWA and Stewards Agree to Arbitrate

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—An agreement to arbitrate a contract dispute has averted a strike by the Air Line Stewards and Stewardesses Assn. against Trans World Airlines.

★ ★ ★

TWA's hostesses had been scheduled to strike this morning.

★ ★ ★

Union president Roland K. Quinn of Chicago said the hostesses want flying time on jets reduced from 85 to 70 hours a month, a 25 per cent wage increase for jet service, and 10 per cent more for work in piston engine planes. Wage rates were not disclosed.

Brigitte's Hubby Still Nervous in the Service

PARIS (UPI) — Fifty million Frenchmen today debated whether it was being in the Army or away from his wife that made Brigitte Bardot's husband nervous in the service.

★ ★ ★

Actor Jacques Charrier, the fearful sobs of his pregnant wife echoing 'round his ears,' went off to the Army two weeks ago.

Two days later he was in an Army hospital with a "case of nerves," partly brought on, he said, by the fact his barracks mates had naked pictures of "BB" all over the walls.

French army officials, being French, diagnosed Charrier's problem as one of l'amour, and prescribed a 48-hour pass with Brigitte as just what the doctor ordered for a case of nerves.

★ ★ ★

Well, BB or no BB, Charrier was back in the hospital today—nerves again.

Army officials said this time Charrier's nervous trouble "has been effectively diagnosed." And this time Brigitte wasn't mentioned as the ideal "medicine girl."

Newspapers were not so understanding as the Army. They wanted to know whether Charrier was dodging the draft.

Calvin College to Start Library Construction

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Construction of a library as the first building on the Knollcrest campus has been authorized by the executive committee of the Calvin College Board of Trustees.

The library is scheduled for completion by 1961 and also will include classrooms and facilities for 750 students.

★ ★ ★

To stock the library, Calvin College leader already have given financial support for the purchase of rare books in an attempt to build the largest collection of Calvinism in the country.

Many of the streets of Montreal are named for saints.

Who Said the Marriage Would Never Last?

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"It's our anniversary — we're married six months ago TODAY!" Liz Taylor called from the divan in the five-bedroom Waldorf suite where she was holding hands with Eddie Fisher. "Tell him," she directed Eddie, "what you got me!"

WILSON

"A mink sweater," Eddie smiled bashfully.

"Something every girl needs," Liz said.

"I never heard of a mink sweater," I confessed.

"Neither had we," Eddie grinned.

Liz, in sky-blue slacks and a well-filled sweater, carefully watching the two dogs, Dodo the Siamese cat which was up on my lap biting my pencil, baby Liza who was up on my lap biting Dodo, shrugged: "You wear it with slacks or something casual." And then a small box for Eddie arrived.

"Open it," she nudged him. "Oh, they left the price tag on."

"Oh, they're beautiful . . . marvelous," Eddie said. Diamond-studded cufflinks, the diamonds in Xs, and some very personal (and unprintable) endearment inscribed below. (They wouldn't even let me peek.)

Eddie stared at his slippers with the monogrammed toes. He opened at the Waldorf Monday, he's starting a music firm angeled by financier Lou Chesler. ("Elizabeth is president"), he's considering TV — so I said, "Why don't you do a TV spec together?"

EDDIE & LIZ

"What would Elizabeth do?" Eddie asked. "She can't sing. She started as a singer. She's TERRIBLE."

"That's right," Liz nodded. "I can't even croak."

It was time for them to get dressed for a celebration, Liz in a Dior coat and hat, black trimmed with white. In answer to another question, Liz said, standing up and showing how lean she is. "I'm not expecting."

"Who said you were?" I asked.

Liz didn't put it in words but her smile of triumph seemed to say "Who didn't?" She added: "When we are expecting, we will let the whole world know."

Burns' Vaudeville Salute Wastes Chance for Fun

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—What happened to vaudeville?

Why, you remember: after radio and motion pictures came along, they invented television and put all of vaudeville into one program called the Ed Sullivan Show.

★ ★ ★

But last night, a so-called 60 minute "valentine to vaudeville" was offered on NBC-TV's Startime. Called "George Burns in 'The Big-time,'" the hour starred Burns (without Allen), Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor and George Jessel.

It sounded like a good idea for a show, but unfortunately, the opportunity for some high-flying fun and displays of showmanship was wasted.

Except for Burns' jaunty cigar-flicking and singing of a medley that included "Red Rose Rag" and "Where Did You Get That Girl?," his intervention during a number by the Kingston Trio, and some electronic tricks that helped Burns introduce his guests at the start of the show, it was an uninspired, draggy, undramatic event that ranged from tolerably good to chaotic.

★ ★ ★

I had expected these four lads to come out and sock across some rousing sharp material — perhaps after throwing away the script—to show the youngsters just what show business and "playing the Palace" was all about in the vaudeville era.

Instead, the jokes were recited without a context in time. As a result, they bombed as old jokes are wont to do, even on TV in 1959.

Chuck Connors and Johnny Crawford, on ABC-TV's Rifleman, had to survive a 60-mile hike through a desert with no water, no horse, a dust storm and Connors' broken leg. It was an effective story of a man and boy against nature; no frontier sadists gunning for the marshal; no booze-filled killers dueling in the sun; no corpses cluttering the saloon.

UPI's Jack V. Fox tells of the most frustrated man in America: this fellow won a fortune on an honest TV quiz show and invested the money in cranberries.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: A series of weekly experimental dramatic shows is being launched by CBS-TV on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 24. The series will present teleplays by established writers as well as new writers, directors and performers who take part in the network's new workshop program, which starts in New York Nov. 29. Albert McCleery, last with NBC's Matinee Theater, will supervise the TV series and the workshop projects.

Ike, World Leaders Will Honor Lincoln

WASHINGTON (AP) — Free world leaders will join President Eisenhower in paying tribute to Abraham Lincoln on Nov. 19, the 96th anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

★ ★ ★

Britain's Harold Macmillan, India's Jawaharlal Nehru, Germany's Konrad Adenauer, Brazil's Kubitschek, Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah, and others will explain during a special one-hour radio documentary what Abraham Lincoln means to them. The program will be broadcast by the Voice of America.

★ ★ ★

"Times and situations have changed but the ideas which he expounded, and by which he lived, endure," Eisenhower said in a recorded statement for the documentary, "In Search of Lincoln."

Marines Seek to Lift Ceiling

Request 25,000 Men Over Present Limits Set by Administration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marine Corps is hoping again for congressional support to lift the 175,000 manpower ceiling imposed by the administration.

"We need 200,000 men," Brig. Gen. Lewis C. Hudson, assistant chief of staff, told newsmen in outlining the corps' present ability and future hopes. Its wishful thinking calls for at least 235,000 men to keep its divisions fully manned and equipped.

★ ★ ★

Congress several times has provided sufficient funds to increase the Marine Corps to 200,000 men, but the administration has impounded the extra money and held the corps to the 175,000-man ceiling it had recommended. Next year's budget is understood to provide once again for 175,000 Marines.

Gen. Hudson and other Marine staff officers at the briefing declined to take issue with budget decisions, but they outlined plans which called for more manpower even as they told of the corps' present strength.

★ ★ ★

At Camp Lejuene, N.C., the 2nd Division has at all times a battalion force of about 1,800 men on a 15-minute alert for movement anywhere in the Atlantic or European area.

With three aircraft carriers adapted to leatherneck needs, three additional battalions can be launched simultaneously by helicopter over or around enemy defenses and fight with atomic or conventional firepower.

★ ★ ★

By 1962, when the corps gets the first of its specially designed and equipped assault carriers and landing ships capable of launching both helicopters and surface landing craft, the Marines will be able to put up to 10,000 men ashore.

General Would Prefer Gas War to Shooting Type

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, the Army's research and development chief, says he would "rather be gassed than shot" if he had to be a war casualty.

Trudeau defended gas as "the most humane system of warfare now in existence."

"We don't shoot condemned criminals, we use the most humane means—gas. Yet when we discuss gas as a weapon of war, there are those who throw up their hands in horror," he said.

Trudeau made his comments Tuesday in an interview with a Baltimore Sun reporter at the Army Chemical Center.

K Tells Press of Missile Might

Says One Factory Has Made 250 H-Rockets in Single Year

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev says one Soviet factory alone has turned out 250 rockets with hydrogen warheads in one year—enough to "raze all our potential enemies off the face of the earth."

"You can well imagine that if this lethal weapon is exploded over some country there will be nothing left there at all," Khrushchev told a meeting of Soviet journalists. But the Soviet government is "ready to sink all this in the sea in the interests of ensuring peace on earth," he said, "if other countries will follow our example."

Khrushchev's speech was made Friday, but his text was not released until Tuesday night.

The Soviet leader said he was making public the rocket production figure to back up his 1958 announcement that the Soviets were turning out intercontinental ballistic missiles. He did not indicate whether the plant he referred to was producing all of the Soviets' nuclear - headed rockets.

"Some in the West claim that the Soviet Union has changed its policy and therefore it has become easier to talk with us," Khrushchev said. "This is wrong, of course. Communists we were born, Communists we live and will not die but continue to march onward as Communists."

Khrushchev said a sincere desire for peace, not any military, economic or political weakness, prompted the proposal for total disarmament he presented to the United Nations during his U.S. visit.

Sir Winston, 84, Indisposed, but Is Better

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill was reported improving today from a chest indisposition.

A spokesman at Churchill's Hyde Park home said that the veteran statesman went to bed early, had a good night and would be up and about later today.

★ ★ ★

Churchill's indisposition forced him to cancel plans for a talk Tuesday with visiting Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who is only 13 months younger than Sir Winston. Churchill also had to pass up the dinner given for the West German leader by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Churchill will be 85 Nov. 30. He has suffered frequently from respiratory ills in recent years.

The household spokesman declined to go into details about Sir Winston's current illness.

Between 35 and 40 per cent of the United States population is either engaged in farming, the production of farm supplies, or the processing and distribution of farm supplies.

Conservative Jews Inaugurate Council

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Representatives of Conservative Jewish congregations in 22 countries have formally inaugurated a World Council of Synagogues.

A spokesman said it was the "first organization representing Jewish communities from so many nations to be established under traditional religious auspices in the whole 5,000 - year span of Jewish history."

The council was formed provisionally two years ago and officially was established Monday when its constitution was adopted at the biennial convention of the United Synagogue of America, with delegates from other countries in attendance.

The United Synagogue is the organization of Conservative congregations in the United States and Canada. It represents about a million persons.

About two million other Jews belong to the Orthodox and Reform branches of Judaism. A world union of progressive Judaism was organized several years ago by the reform movement, but the orthodox group has no comparable body.

Red China Says It Can Control Sex of Chicks

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China claimed tonight that research workers of southeastern Kiangsi Province have successfully controlled the sex of newly hatched chicks and are on the way to controlling that of rabbits.

"A curious thing is happening at the Agricultural Institute in Kiangsi Province," Radio Peiping said. "In one of the laboratories, all newly hatched chicks are hens, and most of the little rabbits are does or female rabbits."

The radio said this is the result of successful experiments in "the sex control of domesticated fowls and animals" carried out by teachers and students since the start of this year.

"So far the sex control of rabbits already has become 70 per cent effective and chickens 100 per cent," the radio said.

Acheson Raps Ike: All Travel No Destination

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson says President Eisenhower's forthcoming 11-nation goodwill tour will produce small results because the chief executive has no clear policy objectives.

"This administration neither negotiates nor acts," Acheson said. "It travels. The mileage clocked . . . is very impressive, but the results are not impressive."

Acheson, chairman of the Democratic Party's advisory council on foreign policy, made the statements at a news conference yesterday. The council met here behind closed doors to draft recommendations for the 1960 Democratic platform.

Acheson accused Eisenhower of substituting "locomotion" for policy and purpose in his exchange of visits with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Acheson said "a government without a policy except locomotion is a very dangerous government to have."

He said he did not oppose personal contacts at the summit level. But he said more could be expected if the President had clear purposes and policy objectives and a better understanding of what is negotiable and what is not.
