LBJ: Decision Not to Run Irrevocable

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says his bombshell announcement that "I shall not seek and I will not accept" nomination for another term is "completely irrevocable."

★ ★ ★

Johnson voiced his emotion-packed pronouncement in a television-radio address to the nation last night. Then he met with newsmen in the White House living quarters and sought to dispel any suspicion that he might change his mind or succumb to a draft.

To do this, he used the phrase "completely irrevocable."

Left unanswered was the question of whether Johnson might try to influence the choice of his successor as Democratic standard-bearer. But his words, taken at face value, suggested a hands-off attitude.

Also up in the air were the plans of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who might join Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in the 1968 Democratic sweepstakes.

MOST STUNNING MOVE

A man of many surprises, Johnson's announcement was his most stunning move in a 37-year career in politics. No president eligible to succeed himself has spurned a fight for the office since Harry S. Truman bowed out in 1952 during the controversial Korean War.

Text of Speech, Page A-8; Related Stories, Pages A-2, B-8, C-6, C-11, D-12

Johnson attributed his decision—which aides said was a year in the making — to controversies rending the nation at this time, including the Vietnam war.

"With America's sons in the fields far away, with America's future under challenge right here at home, with our hopes and the world's hopes for peace in the balance every day, I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office — the presidency of your country.

"Accordingly, I shall not seek, and I will not accept, the nomination of my party for another term as your president."

Johnson tacked the disclosure of his very personal decision onto a major Vietnam policy speech in which he announced his broadest-yet peace move: an immediate and indefinite halt in most air and sea bombardment of North Vietnam as "the first step to de-escalate the conflict."

Candidates, politicians of all stripes and ordinary citizens appeared alike in reacting to Johnson's announcement with astonishment.

When the President met with newsmen just before midnight, the questions came quickly:

Was Kennedy's entry into the Democratic primary campaign a factor?

— "It added to the general situation I talked about that existed in the country."

Did he have a personal choice for the Democratic presidential nomination.

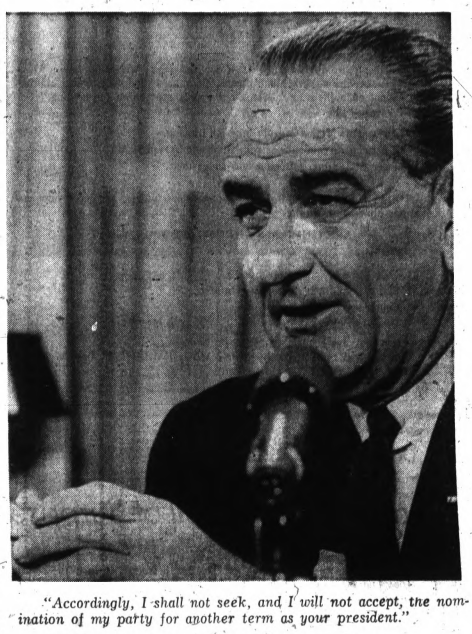
— "I made that clear in the speech," — an apparent allusion to his statement that he had no time for partisan causes.

Would he support any Democratic ticket nominated at the party's August convention?

— "When the time comes I'll make my announcements."

Would his decision strengthen his hand in efforts to end the Vietnam war?

— "I would hope what I did tonight will let me concentrate more effectively on bringing about peace in the world."



"Accordingly, I shall not seek, and I will not accept, the nomination of my party for another term as your president."

RFK Wires Johnson on Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said today he has sent a telegram to President Johnson asking for a meeting soon in the light of the chief executive's withdrawal from the presidential race.

Kennedy said that, despite President Johnson's withdrawal from the presidential race, he does not think the Democratic party now is united behind him.

"No, I wouldn't describe it in those terms," Kennedy said in response to a question at a news conference.

"Do you think the Democratic party is in a better position to capture the presidency than yesterday," he was asked.

★ ★ ★

". . . I think the Democrats can win in November," Kennedy replied. "I think that within the Democratic party we have the discussion of these grave issues that are facing the country, and we don't have that within the Republican party. And I think that's a very healthy influence on the country."

In Mexico City, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, suddenly in a position to seek the Democratic presidential nomination if he wants to, gave no immediate hint of his plans last night.

★ ★ ★

In a brief statement, he said he knew in advance of President Johnson's decision not to seek reelection and deeply regretted that decision.

TO SIGN TREATY

The vice president is in Mexico to sign a treaty banning nuclear weapons in Latin America.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, another announced candidate, readily conceded he was surprised. But he lauded Johnson for a "generous judgment" that he said would clear the way for national reconciliation.

Here are some other comments from leading political figures on President Johnson's decision not to seek reelection:

Sen. J. W. Fulbright: "This lends credence to the belief that he is seeking peace. He has realized the seriousness of this war."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said today he thought President Johnson might "change his mind" if a draft movement developed at the Democratic National Convention in August.

★ ★ ★

Shock and amazement swept over most Michigan political leaders.

PUZZLEMENT

State Rep. William Ryan, a Democrat, was puzzled: "I wonder if Johnson is really out."

But Neil Staebler, Democratic national committeeman from Michigan, was convinced: "I should think one would take him at his word."

Gov. George Romney, a Republican who preceded Johnson in the bow-out parade that included Gov. Rockefeller, said he would make a statement at a news conference tomorrow.

★ ★ ★

To Staebler, it was "one of the great moments of statesmanship in American history."

★ ★ ★

Ryan called it "a very noble thing, putting the good of the country ahead of his own personal goals."

★ ★ ★

State Sen. Sander Levin of Berkley, Michigan's Democratic state chairman, called it a "difficult and momentous" step.

★ ★ ★

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, who said he was "surprised and stunned like every other American," hailed Johnson as having "made a tremendous record as the leader of our country."

Johnson Pleads in Chicago: Let Reason Prevail

CHICAGO (AP) — In his first public appearance since bowing out of 1968 politics, President Johnson voiced a plea today that reason and responsibility prevail "amid all the frenzy and emotion" of an election year.

★ ★ ★

Johnson flew to Chicago, with little advance notice, to address the annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters. In his prepared text Johnson said this season is a time of debate and enlightenment, and "at its worst it is a period of frenzy."

The chief executive warned that "the basic hope of a democracy is that somehow—amid all the frenzy and the emotion—reason will prevail."

He called on his audience to exercise a great sense of responsibility during the campaign season — to be fair, impartial and honest.

★ ★ ★

"This is true," he said, "for broadcasters as well as for presidents—and seekers after the presidency."

SEEKER OF CONSENSUS

Harking back to his stunning announcement of last night, Johnson acknowledged that he has been a seeker of consensus.

★ ★ ★

"Yet along the way," he asserted, "I also learned that no leader can pursue public tranquility as his first goal."

★ ★ ★

Among those greeting Johnson at O'Hare International Airport was Chicago's Democrat mayor, Richard J. Daley, among the chief executive's most prominent backers for the 1968 Democratic presidential nomination.

★ ★ ★

From Chicago, Johnson planned to fly directly back to Washington.

Area Residents to Vote

A fair-housing referendum and another school millage vote are featured today as citizens of seven area communities, two school districts and one township got to the polls.

The referendum will take place in Birmingham, where a city ordinanee passed Nov. 29 by the City Commission and later suspended by public petitions will be on the ballot.

The filing of petitions by a group called the Birmingham Reterendum Committee in January forced the City Commission to either repeal the ordinance or subject it to a public vote.

Bloomfield Hills school district voters will be asked to approve the largest hike — 14 mills — to be requested by any area district this year.

★ ★ ★

In additiog, residents of the City of Bloomfield Hills will be voting on whether to allow the installation of a municipal water system. By charter, the proposal requires a two-thirds majority.

'INCREASE NECESSARY'

School officials have said the increase is necessary because of a $1.3-million deficit facing the district at the end of this school year and because of the district's rapid growth. A total of 10 mills, about 71 per cent of the hike, would be used to pay all costs related to new classrooms and students, they said.

In Lapeer a city charter amendment to allow the establishment of a municipal court is scheduled for a vote.

A $480,000 bond issue for new construction will be on the ballot in the Novi school district, and Rose Township

Flash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials disclosed today the administration is planning a three-phase callup of military forces which would involve the mobilization of around 60,000 men in coming months.

N. Viet Bomb Halt Opposed by Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's order halting most bombing and naval shelling of North Vietnam clashes with the expressed convictions of key military leaders that it is vital to hit harder.

Johnson last night ordered U.S. planes and warships "to make no attacks on North Vietnam, except in the area north of the Demilitarized Zone." Presumably, the order was effective at once.

He permitted strikes only in a sector "where the continuing enemy buildup directly threatens allied forward positions and where the movements of their troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat."

The President's action exempts almost 90 per cent of North Vietnam's 17 million people and most of its territory—including Hanoi, the port of Haiphong and the rice-producing regions of food-short North Vietnam.

Military sources said they believe the bombing and shelling will be compressed into a section south of Dong Hoi, a major point on the supply lines, about 35 miles above the DMZ.

INCLUDES KEY PASS

This section, they said, includes the Mu Gia pass, through which many of North Vietnam's trucks drive with their loads of war supplies and munitions for North Vietnamese and Vietcong soldiers in South Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

One member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff told a reporter privately within the past 10 days that he feels strongly the United States should broaden and intensify the air war against the North.

Other senior officers, contacted after the President's limit-the-bombing order, made it plain they oppose it.

★ ★ ★

Only a few hours before Johnson's speech to the nation, retired Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, a top presidential adviser, decalred himself against a bombing pause.

When Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford was before the Senate Armed Services Committee for confirmation in late January, he said "I do not" favor cessation of bombing of North Vietnam.

"Up until now, I have felt that it would be damaging to our cause," Clifford said at that time. But he indicated the time might come when conditions might change.

Brothers End 42-Year Careers

Two brothers who both came to work for Pontiac Motor Division on the same day in 1926 just to earn enough money to move on to California never moved and today — 42 years later — both are retiring.

In addition to establishing one of the longest service records, the fact that Dain and Cale McKown started and retired on the same day makes theirs one of the rarest cases in Pontiac's personnel files.

Dain had thought of retiring earlier but then Cale mentioned he would be retiring soon it was decided that since they came together they would leave together.

Natives of Arkansas, the brothers remember being out of work in Detroit when it was announced that a new car, the Pontiac, was being introduced and production jobs were available. The two rode a streetcar from Detroit to Pontiac and on April 27, 1926, Dain became a machine operator on small engine parts and Cale was assigned as bell housing machine operator.

"At that time there were no fences around the company property or plant protection men either," Cale recalled.

THROUGH THE RANKS

Both men moved up through the ranks in their respective plants and Dain was instrumental in starting the valve line prior to Pontiac's introduction of the straight eight-cylinder engine.

Harriman Pick for Peace Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, the sophisticated millionaire who held seven jobs under President Harry S. Truman and three under President John F. Kennedy, has been tapped for another presidential mission with a familiar goal: Peace.

Harriman is 76 years old and if North Vietnam's representatives show up at the negotiating table, as President Johnson expressed hope last night they will, they are destined to deal with a U.S. diplomat of almost unparalleled experience.

Johnson said on his nationwide address that Harriman and Soviet Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson will be ready to go to Geneva "or any other suitable place—just as soon as Hanoi agrees to a conference."

Harriman currently is ambassador at large and has for same time been active in U. S. efforts to secure peace talks.

Harriman has journeyed around the world on similar missions since the Cold War began at the close of World War II.

RAN RAILROAD

The scion of one of America's great railroad families—he once ran the Union Pacific Railroad — Harriman first came to Washington when Franklin D. Roosevelt was in the White House, working in key domestic agencies.

Johnson's Default Gives Democratic Lead to Kennedy

News Analysis

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., emerges as the leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination after President Johnson's world-resounding announcement that he will not seek renomination.

The mathematics of politics ordinarily would assure Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., the uncringing challenger of the President's expected bid for a selective term, top place among the contenders for the vacated prize.

But in the emotional year of 1968, the money and the myth of Camelot are all on Kennedy's side.

McCarthy will get a satisfying boost by winning Wisconsin's presidential primary Tuesday after the President's default. But once the balloting is over, some Wisconsin leaders of the Johnson and McCarthy organizations may swing quickly to Kennedy.

★ ★ ★

FIRST COUNTDOWN

McCarthy and Kennedy will face their first countdown at the ballot box on May 7 in Indiana, where the voters are reputed to be considerably more conservative than either.

Both McCarthy and Kennedy have focused their campaign attacks on Johnson's Vietnam policies. Johnson's announcement that he is "substantially reducing" the current level of hostilities on a unilateral basis is exactly what both have called for.

They and other doves who have opposed the President's policies vigorously in the Senate could only applaud the President's decision to eliminate 90 per cent of the air attacks on North Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

Yet in reversing the hard line he has taken, Johnson stuck to the proviso that the bombing lull must be matched by "restraint in Hanoi" if there are to be peace negotiations. But his observation that "the main burden of preserving their freedom must be carried out by the South Vietnamese themselves" fitted exactly the Kennedy-McCarthy precepts.

★ ★ ★

Even in their wildest dreams, however, the dissenters did not expect Johnson to say: "I shall not seek—and will not accept the nomination of my party for another term as your president."

This was not in context with the ideas of almost every political pro. These knowledgable ones thought Johnson would never give up, never obliterate his ambition to become the president who had served longest next to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The reaction of Richard M. Nixon, the leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, that Johnson "may have strengthened his hand in the party and made it possible for him to name his successor" was not shared generally by political leaders.

73 Degrees, Big Snow

March Weather Full of Surprises

Oakland County residents who thrive on variety and surprises must have delighted in the antics of the March weather. The month treated them to the season's warmest day and the heaviest snowfall, all within a week.

The month's high of 73 degrees was reached March 28 and the 12-inch snowfall was March 23. Traffic was nearly paralyzed and commercial business establishments felt a definite pinch for what few employes did manage to report for work had fewer customers to wait on. Many stores closed their doors early.

Total accumulation of snow for the month was 15 inches as compared to 3½ inches which fell the previous March. Total rainfall for last month amounted to .65 of an inch, .40 more than the previous March.

The low of seven degrees was recorded on the 13th. It was 10 degrees warmer than the minus three degrees which was chalked up in March 1967. Mean temperature for last month totaled 38.02 as compared to 33.7 of last March.

There were 19 days of sunshine sprinkled through the month's 31 days to delight area residents and hold out a promise of better things to come.

Hopefully, residents put away their snow shovels and retrieved their lawn equipment from dark corners of garages and basements. Though the shovels were busy at times through the year, they were not as busy as in 1967. Total snow accumulation for this year amounted to 46.3 inches as compared to last year's seasonal total of 61.75 inches.

The last weekend in March was the answer to a gardener's prayer with temperatures in the low 50s, perfect for raking, fertilizing and seeding lawns.

Stripped of Wisconsin Foe, McCarthy Eyes Future, RFK

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — President Johnson has suddenly stripped Wisconsin's presidential primary of its feature contest, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy vowed today an all-out effort in campaigns ahead — with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy the rival.

Wisconson votes tomorrow. But with Johnson out of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, McCarthy said voters of other states must register the choice, "a different choice," now.

Indiana, Nebraska, Oregon and California will be the testing grounds, the Minnesota senator said. In those states, McCarthy and Kennedy, a powerful contender with parallel views on Vietnam, meet in primaries.

McCarthy said he will wage those campaigns "as thoroughly and as hard and as effectively as I can."

Johnson's announcement that he would neither seek nor accept renomination left McCarthy with only a withdrawn opponent to test his prospects in Wisconsin.

Out of the contest for the nomination, Johnson is still on the ballot.

McCarthy, who blazed the trail of opposition to the President in New Hampshire's leadoff primary, said he will forge ahead and plans no major changes.

Soviets Doubtful, Scornful of LBJ

MOSCOW (UPI) — The official Soviet news agency Tass today expressed doubt on President Johnson's decision to shun reelection and scorn on his order to end most of the bombing of North Vietnam.

The agency, in the first Soviet reaction to the President's Sunday night speech, said his announced exit from politics may have been only a maneuver aimed at renomination and reelection.

It reacted negatively to the partial bombing cessation and said:

"By refusing to fully discontinue the barbaric bombing the United States continues to ignore the legitimate demands of the (North) Vietnamese government and world public opinion, which insists on a full and unconditional cessation of bombing and all acts of war against the Vietnamese people."

Eleven hours after Johnson's speech Tass finally made the first Soviet announcement of his decision not to seek reelection.

Chief Asks Citizens Not to Arm

BIRMINGHAM—Chief of Police Darryl L. Bruestle has recommended that a general letter be sent to residents of this city urging cooperation with regular law enforcement agencies in the event of any civil disturbance.

In asking the City Commission to approve sending of the letter with the regular water bill mailing, Bruestle said he felt it might "dispel some of the concern that has been expressed by the community."

The letter, scheduled to be considered at tonight's commission meeting, stresses the ability of established agencies to deal with any disturbances and asks citizens to refrain from arming themselves.

"Overreaction by the public," it states, "may cause police as much or more trouble as the initial incident."

Also on tonight's agenda is a request from residents on Abbey between Oxford and Warwick for stop signs at Abbey and Warwick. A letter, signed by 10 citizens, called attention to the fact that there are no stop signs between Adams and Wimbleton.

In the block from Oxford to Warwick, it noted, there are 14 children 10 years of age and under.

Holly School Walkout Ends

Pickets were withdrawn from around schools in the Holly district today as officials announced that an agreement had been reached to end a walkout involving about 60 bus drivers, custodians and cooks.

Under the agreement, negotiations with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes will be resumed tomorrow, Assistant Supt. of Schools Bruce Mitchell reported.

The work stoppage had halted bus service and the hot lunch program at the district's five schools after bargaining talks broke down Friday.

Attendance will likely be lower than normal today, though no estimate is available, Mitchell said. However, he paced the level of attendance Friday at about 40 per cent in the secondary schools and 50 to 60 per cent in elementary schools.

1-Man, 1-Vote Rule Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today put local government under its one-man, one-vote rule.

The historic 5-3 decision extends the rule to an estimated 80,000 units of local government throughout the land.

One of the dissenters, John M. Harlan, said the decision was "both unjustifiable and ill-advised."

Justice Byron R. White gave the decision in a case from Midland County, Tex., where Mayor Hank Avery of Midland City asked that the county governing body be apportioned on a population basis.

The landmark finding came in these words by White: "We hold that petitioner Avery as a resident of Midland County has a right to a vote for the Commissioners Court of substantial equal weight to the vote of every other resident."

EQUAL PROTECTION

The ruling extends a step taken by the court four years ago in interpreting the mandate of the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution.

"The question now before us," said White, "is whether the 14th Amendment likewise forbids the election of local government officials from districts of disparate size. As has almost every court which has addressed itself to this question, we hold that it does."

Again, White wrote: "It is now beyond question that a state's political subdivisions must comply with the 14th Amendment. The actions of local government are the actions of the state.

"A city, town, or county may no more deny the equal protection of the laws than it may abridge freedom of speech, establish an official religion, arrest without probable cause or deny due process of the law."

Rightist Take-Over Feared by Dr. King

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Congress fails to meet the needs of America's poor, right-wingers will take over the nation and turn the United States into "a fascist state," says Dr. Martin Luther King.

King said yesterday that rioting surpassing last summer's urban violence could lead to a right-wing takeover. And, he added, unless Congress acts — and acts quickly — to solve the problems of the ghetto, rioting will continue.

King met newsmen after speaking against the Vietnam War at services before an overflow crowd of 4,000 at Washington's National Cathedral. The turnout was five times the normal Sunday gathering at the cathedral, near a neighborhood of fashionable, expensive homes.

Road Complaints Cause Headaches

By DICK ROBINSON

Oakland County residents who complain to the County Road Commission about holes in their gravel roads are not the only ones who have headaches.

★ ★ ★

"It is our headache to determine where and when grading work is to be done," says Richard Kincaid, the commission's assistant maintenance superintendent.

Kincaid said residents usually bring poor roads to the attention of the commission but don't realize that funds are inadequate to meet all needs.

Then, too, he says, citizens do complain about the jobs they know very little about.

★ ★ ★

Funds for road grading of gravel roads which are a major portion of the roads under commission jurisdiction come to the commission from gasoline tax and license plate revenues, Bud Speace, supervisor of the account department, said.

BUDGET SET UP

A road maintenance budget is set up for each of 23 townships served by the commission on the basis of 35 per cent for population and 65 per cent for miles of road, according to Speace.

This year's total maintenance budget for the townships is $951,000, a portion of which goes for grading.

Taken out of the townships' budgets are the entire costs for a grading project — wages, rental of equipment and materials, Kincaid said.

★ ★ ★

"In very few cases do the townships pay themselves for the work," Speace reported.

COSTS DEDUCTED

Even so, costs are deducted from the townships budgets. For example, a road grader base wage is $3.23 per hour and a small road grader rents for $5.05 per hour plus 41 cents for the blade.

Kincaid reports that most of the grading is done in the spring and fall with chloride being put on the dirt roads in the summer.

Workers are now grading roads to let the gravel dry out with more extensive jobs to correct ruts later. Residents may even buy gravel and have the road commission spread it.

Two main pieces of equipment used in grading — or called blading by the commission — are a dump truck with a floating blade under it and a motor grader.

1,000 State Indians to Split $932,000

PETOSKEY (UPI) — Some 1,000 Michigan Indians, all of them descendants of the Grand River band of Ottawas, will share in $932,000 awarded them as payment for land deals in which their ancestors were gypped by the government.

Congress is expected to appropriate funds for the award within the next 30 to 60 days following the weekend judgment by the Indian Claims Commission in Washington, according to James Fitzharris of Escanaba, attorney for the Indians.

★ ★ ★

Robert Dominic of Petoskey, tribal leader of Michigan Ottawas and Chippewas, hailed the award as "The first break for Michigan Indians in more than a century."

To be eligible for a share of the $932,000, the persons must be at least one-quarter Ottawa.

The award involves the tribe's sale of 1,140,740 acres of land to the federal government in the Treaty of 1821 when they were paid only 16.8 cents per acre although the going rate for Michigan land was $1.25 per acre at the time. The land is located south of the Grand River near Grand Rapids and extends east to near Kalamazoo in southwest Michigan.

The settlement culminates one phase of a 20-year legal battle launched by Dominic and his tribesmen who claimed their ancestors were shortchanged in several land deals with the federal government.

Still pending is another claims suit, involving 14.8 million acres ceded to the government in the Treaty of 1836 for the same 16.8 cents per acre. The Indians are expecting a nearly $15-million award in this litigation, which is due for settlement later this year.

EQUAL PORTIONS

Dominic said, about 5,000 Michigan Ottawa and Chippewa Indians will share equal portions of the anticipated multi-million dollar settlement.

Most of the Grand River Ottawas who will share in the first settlement now live in an area from Grand Rapids north to Petoskey in West Michigan.

To be eligible they must be able to prove they are one-quarter Ottawa and have their ancestors or themselves listed on the last official federal census of Michigan Indians conducted in 1910. Dominic has spent many years traveling through the state aiding Indians in determining their ancestry.

Dow's Italy Offices Ripped by a Blast

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — An explosion broke windows and tore off doors Saturday night at the Milan offices of Dow Chemical Corp. of Midland, Mich., police said Sunday.

The bomb was wrapped in a sheet of paper with the inscription, "Dow with Johnson, long live Vietnam." Police blamed Chinese Communist sympathizers.

Dow makes napalm, a jellied gasoline which is used in Vietnam by U.S. forces.

Mailman Loses His 'Best Friend'

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — For the first time in six years, mailman Sewell T. Snowman goes about his route today without Tootsie, a small black terrier who has trotted behind him, rain or shine.

A town ordinance effective today requires that any dog out in public be on a leash, and Snowman says his job makes it impossible to bring his dog along that way.

Budgets Main Order of Business

Annual Township Meetings Held

Area townships Saturday held their annual meetings with the main order of business being the approval of 1968-69 township budgets.

Most of the budgets are higher than the current year.

The majority of the town meetings, required by state law, were Saturday afternoon.

Seven area townships have abandoned the town meetings. These include Farmington, Holly, Oxford, Orion, Novi, Bloomfield and West Bloomfield.

Addison

Raises for township officials were deferred Saturday as a five-man committee serving under Joseph Bailey, 1684 W. Leonard, was appointed to study salaries in other townships.

Serving with Bailey will be Norman Dupuie, Hiram Terry, Andrew Anderson, Mrs. Opal Barrett and Mrs. Henry Boris.

A report is to be made back to the township board May 6.

About 45 residents were present to discuss road conditions in the township and confidence was expressed in the newly organized county-wide WHAR organization which seeks improved maintenance. A report on Addison's membership in the program was promised for tonight's regular 7:30 township board meeting.

Treasurer Donald Hickmott reported a special meeting to approve the budget — not yet prepared will be called later.

Avon

A budget of $491,550, up $111,550 from last year, was approved and a resolution authorizing the supervisor to seek 1.5 mills from the County Allocation Board was passed. The township last year operated on 1.4 mills as equalized.

Raises amounting to $700 each for Clerk Thelma Spencer and Treasurer Helen Allen brought their respective salaries to $10,200. Supervisor Cyril Miller was granted a $600 increase, bringing his salary to $12,600.

About 50 people, including a delegation from Brooklands subdivision, were present. Flooding conditions were discussed.

Brandon

The estimated annual budget of $49,732 was approved, Supervisor Richard Wilcox reported.

It contained raises for supervisor from $5,000 to $6,000, for clerk from $2,850 to $3,850, and for treasurer from $3,100 to $4,100.

Commerce

Renewal of the 2-mill property tax for roads is headed for the November ballot.

The 70 residents meeting here Saturday approved putting the proposal to a vote. The millage will finance asphalt paving of 9¼ miles including Crumb, Martin, Richardson, Glengary, Carey, Ford, Duck Lake, Walnut Lake and Sleeth roads.

The township has levied 2 mills for roads for the last 10 years. The present levy expires this December, said Supervisor Robert H. Long.

The 2 mills brings in about $100,000 a year.

Residents made one change in the budget proposed: a $5,000 increase for the planning commission to be used for development of the master plan if federal funds aren't available in six months.

Previously $10,000 has been allocated for the plan. Long said that the $15,000 will complete the plan half-way.

The approved budget calls for expenditures of $222,100 which is an increase of $28,540 over last year. Revenues aren't set, but the budget will be a balanced one, said Long.

Budget increases go for operation of the township's proposed third fire station, use of county computers, and salary increases.

Residents also passed a motion to increase the township board by two trustees to be nominated in the primary election and elected in the November election. The board now has five members.

Board meetings were changed to the second Tuesday of the month at 7:30 p.m. at the Township Hall.

Dryden

The estimated township budget of $23,000 was approved, Clerk Lawrence Wilson reported. In addition, salary raises were voted for the supervisor, from $1,300 to $2,000, and clerk, from $400 to $550.

Groveland

Residents approved raises for several governmental posts. The reimbursement for board of review members was upped from $1.75 to $2.25 per hour; for members of the election board, from $1.50 to $2 per hour.

Township trustees will receive $20 per board meeting, up from $15. Raises in annual salaries were also approved; for the supervisor, from $3,300 to $3,900; for the treasurer and clerk, from $1,800 to $2,400.

★ ★ ★

After Supervisor Earl Rhinevault had announced that the budget had not as yet been completed, an estimated budget of $40,000 was approved. Last year's expenditures totaled about $27,000.

Highland

The 175 residents packed into the Township Hall Saturday passed a motion to employ an assessor to aid the supervisor and present assessor in completing reassessment of the entire township this year.

Also approved was a budget of $154,695 anticipated expenditures and $131,495 anticipated revenues.

The $92,936 increase in costs over the 1967-68 budget includes the $35,000 collected from the 2-mill levy for roads and $17,000 for the fire equipment fund.

The only significant salary increase was for the treasurer who received a $500 raise, making a salary of $6,500.

Independence

A budget increased by $32,000 over last year was approved. About 35 people present saw the adoption of the $243,110 budget.

Raises of $300 each brought Clerk Howard Altman's pay to $10,300 and Treasurer Kenneth Johnson's pay to $9,000.

★ ★ ★

Supervisor Duane Hurfsall, who did not get a raise, said the budget is based on the 1.32 mills allocated by the county for the last 11 years.

Metamora

An estimated budget of $27,625 was approved, according to Township Clerk Doris Hobbins. Last year's expenses amounted to $23,755, while income totaled $23,736.

Residents also approved placing on the public ballot in November a proposal for 1 mill for fire protection.

Milford

The ½-mill residents allocated Saturday to library operation is expected to give the township a deficit budget. This expense is about $11,000 over the proposed budget of $85,595 anticipated expenditures and yet indefinite revenues.

The other budegt increases totaling $18,000 include $2,000 for the road chloride program, $8,000 for cemetery improvement work, and $3,000 for maintenance of the dump.

Oakland

A budget of $95,585, up from last year's $84,446, was adopted and provision was made to levy another ¼ mill if necessary to insure Oakland County Sheriff's Department protection in the area.

About 30 people present voted for a program in which the township contributes a monthly sum to the county enforcement agency for assurance that a car will be on patrol in the area at all times.

Supervisor George Lyon stressed that the ¼ mill would not be levied unless necessary to meet payments.

The group voted to continue participation in a 50-50 program for chloriding the roads. The township pays half and residents pay the other half.

★ ★ ★

Road complaints regarding maintenance and increasing taxes were discussed. Lyon reported that the Board of Review had received 180 complaints and that of those 150 had been adjusted. He noted this was the first session of the review board since a professional appraiser was hired to reevaluate all township property.

Pontiac

A township budget of $492,810 including $158,000 for water and sewer payments on existing lines was approved here. Supervisor Roy Wahl was instructed to seek 2 mills from the County Allocation Board.

The general fund amounts to $334,810 — up $45,630 from last year.

Wahl was granted a $1,200 increase in pay bringing his salary to $10,700. Clerk Greta Block and Treasurer Goldie Mailahn were each awarded $900 raises bringing their salaries to $8,000 each.

Pay raises of between $400 and $500 were awarded the six full-time employes.

A motion to put the question of abolishing the annual meeting on the November ballot passed.

Rose

Township officials were not available for comment on Saturday's meeting.

Shelby

The annual meeting here was shortest — seven minutes long — in Macomb County, Supervisor Kirby Holmes said. The budget was not discussed, since a public hearing on it is scheduled in June. No changes were made in any of the other areas on which discussion is required by law, the supervisor added.

Springfield

An estimated annual budget of $59,750 was approved. Last year's expenditures totaled $43,535, according to Township Clerk Dave Fields.

White Lake

About 120 residents here passed a budget with anticipated revenue of $191,300 and expenditure of $189,673.

Increased costs of $29,003 over the 1967-68 budget will go for salary raises and police and fire department equipment.

For $3,500 the police are getting a new car and new radio. The fire department will also buy a new radio.

Salary increases of $600 went to the clerk and treasurer, (making their new salary $8,600) and assessor (new salary of $8,000).

★ ★ ★

The building inspector's salary goes up $400 to $7,500, and the two full-time firemen's salaries increase $480 to $6,880.

INCREASE DECLINED

Clerical employes also received hourly rate hikes, reported Supervisor James Reid. The supervisor, whose salary is $10,000 a year, declined a salary increase.

"This is basically an austerity budget," Reid said. He expalained that the township is coming to the end of the 10-year cycle of state sales tax return based on the 1960 census.

The tax return is based on a pupulation of 8,300. The township now has about 14,000 residents, Reid informed.

★ ★ ★

The supervisor didn't propose, as planned, the possibility of the township buying more land for office expansion. He explained that more information was needed and that the 2½ hour-meeting was getting too long.

Novi Twp. Asks Injunction Today Against Incorporation Election

NOVI TOWNSHIP — It's another day in court in this township's battle to prevent the May 20 incorporation election of Novi Village.

★ ★ ★

The township today was to request a permanent injunction against the election. Circuit Court Judge William J. Beer was to preside.

The injunction would only be permanently binding on an election based on the petitions proposing home-rule cityhood, explained Township Attorney Emery E. Jacques Jr. The May 20 election is based on such petitions.

The township is asking that the petitions be declared invalid and that a decision by Circuit Judge Arthur E. Moore made in late 1966 be made binding.

★ ★ ★

Moore had declared that incorporation was illegal because the area contains less than the required 500 persons per square mile.

OBJECTIONS LISTED

The township's objections, according to Jacques include:

- The petition's attached map indicates that 510 acres of strictly township land are up for incorporation with the village land.
- The Village Council rejected petitions proposing fourth-class cityhood and shortly afterward accepted petitions proposing home-rule cityhood. The request for the rejection was made by only one of the six persons who circulated the rejected petitions, said Jacques.

★ ★ ★

The latest decision in the conflict between the township and the village came from the State Court of Appeals which made possible the setting of an election date.

The township was denied a request of a rehearing of that case.

Oxford Schools Will Open Building Bond Bids April 16

OXFORD — Bids on the sale of $2.5 million in construction bonds for expansion of school facilities will be opened at a special meeting of the board of education at 8 p.m. April 16.

Supt. of Schools Roger Oberg has been authorized to accept bids on the bonds as the result of a meeting last week.

Another special meeting to review architectural plans for additions to Leonard, Clear Lake and Lakeville elementary schools was set for 8 p.m. April 4.

The board was informed that a 15-member evaluation team of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be in the district Wednesday and Thursday to decide whether the district's accreditation should be continued.

★ ★ ★

A tentative budget of $1,526,454, up 10 per cent from last year, was approved for submission to the County Allocation Board.

APPOINTED TO POST

Oberg noted the increase took into account such items as increased personnel to accommodate growing enrollments and the paving of school parking lots.

Mrs. Ruth Erskine, a former board member, was appointed to fill the unexpired term till June of Mrs. Eloise Smith, who recently resigned because she was moving from the district.

The board also agreed to share with the Senior High student council the cost of purchasing drapes for the high school stage.

To W. Bloomfield Club

State Dem Official Will Speak

James M. McNeely, deputy chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee, will be the featured speaker at the meeting Thursday of the West Bloomfield Democratic Club.

★ ★ ★

Open to the public, the meeting will be held at the township hall, 4460 Orchard Lake, at 8 p.m.

McNeely, who until last month headed the antipoverty program in Oakland County, will join with Paul Livingston, locally active in politics; three high school students; and a college student in discussing the "Generation Gap."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Oliver Risk, president of the club, said it is the purpose of the meeting to find out what young people are thinking.

W. Bloomfield Planners Okay Subdivision Plat

WEST BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP — The planning commission has given tentative approval to the preliminary plat of the 40-acre North Potomac Green subdivision.

The development of William J. Pulte Co. is behind the Township Library on Green Road.

Approval is tentative, awaiting the okay from other official bodies, explained commission Secretary Mrs. Margaret Evans.

Those bodies are the Oakland County Road Commission, Drain Commission, Health Department and Plat Board; the State Conservation Department and the Water Resources Commission; and public utilities.

★ ★ ★

The commission held up approval of the pre-preliminary plat for the subdivisions of David Lewis and Pax Corp.

LARGER LOTS

Lewis is developing about 20 acres on Middle Belt north of Rutledge Park subdivision. The commission asked him to submit a new plat with larger lot sizes, reported Mrs. Evans.

Pax Corporation is planning to build on about 20 acres west of Middle Belt and north of Walnut Lake Road across from Powder Horn Hills subdivision.

The commission wanted time to study use of a swamp on the property, Mrs. Evans said.

★ ★ ★

The commission is also planning a work session to review a request to rezone for apartments about four acres on the northeast corner of Middle Belt and 14 Mile.

The parcel, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bigelow, is surrounded by single-family residences.

Parking Plan Gains in Oxford

OXFORD — The first step in the formation of special assessment rolls for merchants to provide off-street parking in the downtown area has been accomplished, according to Village Manager Robert Smalley.

A report from the Chamber of Commerce on property appraisal in the area bounded on the east side of Washington by Mill, Stanton and East Burdick and on the west by West Burdick, Dennison and Hudson was received by the council.

Smalley was directed to find costs, the extent of the property needed, and the necessity of the improvement proposed.

A letter from the Southeast Council of Governments asking the village to join was tabled until the next regular meeting.

★ ★ ★

Edmund A. Unger was reelected president for his fifth year, and Jay L. Allen was named president pro tem replacing Homer Hight. Other appointments were deferred for two weeks until Councilman Edward Bossardet returns from vacation, Smalley said.

Traffic Improvement Unit Backs Aid Increase for Driver Education

The Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County (TIA) has come out in favor of hiking state aid for driver education programs.

In a joint statement, the Inter-Industry Highway Safety Foundation of Michigan and TIA said it is imperative the Legislature raise the reimbursement rate from $30 per student to the needed $40.

Oakland County High Schools must have more money for driver education if the training programs are going to be effective and do a better job of curtailing traffic fatalities and accidents," said Michael LePere, executive vice president of Inter-Industry.

★ ★ ★

LePere also pointed out that the current lag in the county is a result of increased complexity in driving, a doubling of driver student enrollment and a failure to apply new methods and techniques that have been developed in the field of driver education.

Wixom PTA to Hear Talk on Detroit Riot

He will present slides and an interpretation of last July's riot in Detroit and his view of what to expect in the future.

PTA officers for the coming school year will be nominated.

FARMINGTON — The Farmington Association for Handicapped Children, Inc., holds a general meeting tonight at 8 at East Junior High School, 25000 Middle Belt.

Final plans will be made for the April 27 spring fair. Cochairmen of the fair committee are Des Wyman and Mrs. Joan Tobin.

Coin Club Event Slated

UTICA — The Utica Coin Club will hold its annual spring show May 5 at the American Legion Hall Post 351, located at 46146 Cass.

The show will be open to the public.

Holly School District to Offer Adult Class in Family Camping

HOLLY — A five-week class in family camping will be a feature of spring adult education in this school district.

The class, which will begin April 3 at Holly High School, is one of several to be offered with emphasis on spring and summer activities. Other seasonal offerings will include pleasure boating safety, first aid, golf instruction and flower arranging.

Johnson Detonates a Bombshell

President JOHNSON's announcement to the American people last night can only be described as a bombshell.

Devoting the major part of it to spelling out the Administration's sudden decision to unilaterally de-escalate the Vietnam war, the President reserved for the conclusion his stunner that he "would not seek nor accept the nomination for another term as President."

JOHNSON

The change in attitude with respect to the war, considering the growing opposition to the present conduct of it, held relatively little shock value for the countless millions who made up LBJ's radio and TV audience, but his disavowal of interest in another term as Chief Executive had explosive impact.

★ ★ ★

It is too early to bring into focus the many implications inherent in the two dimensions of Johnson's announcement:

• What effect the shift in Vietnam war strategy will have on America's role in that country and Southeast Asia, and what it portends for the welfare of the South Vietnamese and their newly formed democratic government.

• The bearing it will have on the already surging competition for the Democratic presidential nomination, with Vice President Hubert Humphrey almost certain to become a belated candidate supported by Presidential blessing.

Uppermost in most minds is the question of why LBJ decided against another bid for the presidency — a rare action for an eligible incumbent of the office.

In his announcement, the President said that the move stemmed from his supreme desire to bring peace to Vietnam and the United States, and that he could better serve that end by removing himself from the political arena. Such a step, he explained, would enable him to concentrate fully on his pursuit of peace free of the heavy demands imposed by a campaign for the presidency, and at the same time hopefully to impress Hanoi that the de-escalation decision was no more than a political ploy.

Until events prove otherwise, we're inclined to accept Lyndon Johnson's version of his startling withdrawal from the presidential race, leaving to others the cynicism and searching for hidden motives that might have prompted it.

Voice of the People:

We Need Positive Action on Disaster in Vietnam

Seven years have passed with no positive decision being made on the disaster in Vietnam. More and more boys are dying because we refuse to eliminate the negative thoughts of people who do not care whether a boy dies since they and their families are not affected.

★ ★ ★

It is time to accentuate the positive by being united on whether or not we are at war; eliminate the negative demonstrations by declaring war or "no war;" latch on to the affirmative by giving freedom to every boy or by drafting every boy; and stop messing around with Mr. Inbetween by uniting behind one thought, one decision and one nation.

Letter Comments on Support for Schools

The fact that Catholic schools may be able to ward off or dilute public control of their schools while at the same time gaining public funds should give both Catholic and non-Catholic something to think about. Catholics already exercise what is often a dominant administrative and political direction of public schools. That is what the black power advocates are asking for in their schools. Both are looking for a school system separate and independent of the state but supported by the state.

Comments on Efforts to Repair City Streets

It would be better to save the money and manpower that is used in putting asphalt in the chuckholes around our City this time of year and wait until weather permits to fix the roads properly. The City probably feels that the situation is like pouring water in the ocean—it doesn't do much good but every little bit helps.

Reader Gives Views on War in Vietnam

It makes me sick to read letters from the cowards of America who just sit back and yell about Vietnam. I was confused and asked my cousin to write what he thought of the situation over there. In one letter he said, "We have too much in Vietnam to give it up now." I'm so ashamed of the troublemakers for his sake and all the boys in Vietnam.

Actions of Some People Raise Questions

If white people don't want riots, why do they allow their children to have BB guns to break the windows of my renters? For ten years I have rented to nice people. They are clean and mind their own business, but because their skin is dark some people hate them. When parents allow their children to have BB guns when it's against the law, who is breaking the law, the parents or the kids?

Business Finds Merger Answers Many Problems

Today, the merger has become a major factor in the growth and development of leading corporate enterprises throughout the United States. In 1966 alone, there were more than 1,500 mergers between companies.

Judging by the merger rash so prevalent on the business scene, it might appear that a sure-fire secret of success had at last been found. But such is not the case. Stringing together a series of companies with completely unrelated interests simply for the sake of creating something big makes little sense.

But, on the other hand, if two companies can combine their resources and technical knowhow to solve problems which neither would be able to tackle alone and fill a real need, everybody benefits — the companies involved, their stockholders, employes, customers and the national economy.

Commenting on his own organization's successful merger policy, one of the Nation's leading industrialists observed: "For a company to develop complete competence in the whole range of science would take years. It could scarcely master the current technology, let alone develop new techniques and new products. Society would be the loser because many advances would never reach the market at a price people could afford . . . Thus mergers that combine technologies, that help in the race against time are fundamental building blocks in constructing the corporation of tomorrow."

★ ★ ★

The intelligent, productive merging of one company with another is unquestionably a dynamic force for innovation and development in our economic system. It enables American enterprise not only to keep up with the unprecedented rate of change that surrounds us but to lead in using its resources and vision to make the world a better place to live.

David Lawrence Says:

China's Subversion Widespread

WASHINGTON — Some of the most sensational news of what is going on around the world comes out in small fragments from time to time and is not always pieced together so that people may understand its true significance.

LAWRENCE

Today, for instance, Red China is engaged in a far-reaching revolutionary movement aimed at underdeveloped countries — nearly 100 in number and with two thirds of the world's population.

Subversion and infiltration and the training and arming of terrorist and guerrilla fighters are widespread. Much of this activity has been encouraged by the success of the Red Chinese in Vietnam.

The Peking government now is planting the seeds of more "wars of liberation" patterned after the Vietnam conflict. Information collected from various capitals of the world indicates that the Red Chinese are making substantial progress.

Burma is being threatened, and is moving army units in the area between Red China and India, where the Chinese Reds openly support Burmese rebels. Red China is reaching into northeast India to help rebel tribes.

★ ★ ★

From Cambodia, Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia and Borneo come reports of guerrillas operating with Chinese-made arms.

NOT ALOOF

The Soviet Union is by no means standing aloof.

In the Mideast, for instance, it trains and arms Arab armies, while Red China works with Arab terrorists. Israel has revealed that some of the terrorist leaders captured in recent raids in Jordan had been trained in Red China for such missions.

Throughout Africa, too, Red China is very active.

★ ★ ★

In this hemisphere, the Chinese Reds have a base in Cuba.

AVOIDS INTERFERENCE

Oddly enough, the United Nations, which is supposed to provide a peace-keeping machinery throughout the world, avoids interference in "internal affairs".

This policy is followed even though it is known that domestic conditions in several countries are deliberately worsened from the outside as disorders are instigated by Red Chinese who are experts in revolutionary tactics.

If the strong nations do not unite somehow to thwart the start of small wars around the globe, it seems certain that sooner or later the major powers will find themselves involved, and the problems will be as frustrating as they now are in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

The Red Chinese are delighted with their own progress. Over the weekend, the embassy of Red China in London issued a statement in behalf of the vice premier and foreign minister, Marshal Chen Yi, which said: "The international situation is excellent."

Bob Considine Says:

FDR's Mentor, Farley, Firmly Behind Johnson

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . .

Let there be no question as to where James A. Farley stands on the matter of President Johnson vs. Sen. Robert Kennedy.

CONSIDINE

Speaking in New York not long ago, FDR's mentor and former postmaster general said, "I, frankly, had never expected to see the 100 basic pieces of legislation enacted by Franklin D. Roosevelt equalled. President Johnson has at least equalled and he may have surpassed them . . .

"There isn't any doubt that President Johnson desires to bring this war to a successful conclusion as quickly as possible. The fact that we have not been able to negotiate is no fault of ours. The enemy refuses.

"I'm sure President Johnson has the wholehearted support of the vast majority of the American people . . . I pray that God will give him the health and strength to carry on until it is all over."

Farley and Joseph P. Kennedy Sr., were not friends when they worked in the New Deal. But the former postmaster developed a great attachment for President John F. Kennedy.

BREATHTAKING PACE

Now he's as opposed to his brother as he was to the father.

Farley, who will be 80 in May, has resumed his breathtaking pace and work schedule. Minor surgery caused him to miss his first St. Patrick's Day parade in well over a half a century. But he was philosophical about it the other day.

"Probably just as well," he said with a smile. "If I had gone over to Fifth Avenue that day I might have gotten into an altercation with Bobby."

Ex-Marine Bert Spielvogel, the documentary producer, is a pious man. But he saw too much war at places like Iwo Jima to fret much over the riddling of the Citadel, the principal holy place of battered Hue.

★ ★ ★

"If it is true that God's greatest achievement is the creation of a human being why should we not knock down a man-made 'holy place' to protect human beings from being killed?" he asks.

Science Takes Gander at Gals' Gams

By H. V. HELDENBRAND

At no time in history has the world been so survey prone as it now is. You name it, and somebody'll survey it—for a fee of course.

Heldenbrand

But now our British cousins have launched a survey that should be watched with keenest interest — on international as well as domestic levels.

What is afoot is a survey of women's legs. Nothing new about that you say, especially on the part of male surveyors? Sure, sure, I know —but this one's different.

★ ★ ★

Backed by a university grant, a British lady scientist will study 1,000 pairs of feminine legs on the belief that configuration of a gal's gams are revelatory of her native origin, social standing (pun intended) and intellectual potential. I'm still a disciple of the old-fashioned doctrine that if a girl is born with lucky legs, why waste brains on her?

Just why this fascinating investigation should be given to a woman and money — of which Britain is in noticeably short supply — spent on it, when it could be accomplished for free by letting any man simply do what comes naturally, nobody but an Englishman could explain.

Although girl watching, a euphemism for leg looking, has really come into its own in recent years with the high level of visibility afforded by climbing hemlines, your observer can remember when a public peek at a feminine ankle — women didn't have "legs" in those days — was an experience both rare and provocative.

★ ★ ★

Such exotic but skimpy eyefuls of cheesecake, well shrouded by an assortment of fluttering petticoats, were almost exclusively to be enjoyed when the belles of the day stretched for the high steps of streetcars. In the eyes of the males of the era, any streetcar was named Desirable.

And the boys didn't do much better at bathing beaches in pursuit of pulchritude. True, the skirts of the vintage bathing suits stopped at the knee, but after the eye ran down the unexciting, swathed torso of a lovely to be met by a pair of cotton-sheathed extremities, you felt that something was wrong with the picture.

Judging by today's fashions, there was.

Offhand, I can't think of any item of equipment that combines the aesthetic with the utilitarian as does the distaff shank. Certainly no other anatomical appendage can even give it a run for the money.

If you aren't busy for a few minutes, consider what little difference it makes in the public admiration of the statue of Venus of Milo that the beauty is armless. But had she been sculpted differently and unearthed a century and a half ago without legs instead of arms, you can bet your last icon that the goddess would have gone as scrap statuary instead of into the Louvre.

Significantly, the British legologist (my word) has no intention of subjecting male legs to scientific scrutiny.

"They're not so interesting as women's," she explained—no doubt with her learned tongue in cheek.

But regardless of whether her calf-check conclusions contribute to the leg lore of mankind or are kicked into limbo, the lady just came up with the understatement of the year.

Another Month

The Columbia (S.C.) State

Two months ago, warships of Communist North Korea forcibly seized the USS Pueblo and its 83-man crew while the lightly armed American vessel was conducting intelligence operations in international waters off the North Korean coast.

★ ★ ★

The President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, termed the incident "a wanton, aggressive act," adding: "Clearly, this cannot be accepted."

His words were followed by an Executive Order calling almost 15,000 Air Force, Air National Guard, and Naval Air reservists to active duty.

★ ★ ★

All that happened in January. February has come and gone. We now are beyond the Ides of March and the Pueblo and its crew remain in North Korean hands.

In the words of the President of the United States:

"Clearly, this cannot be accepted."

Shout or Study?

Dallas Morning Star

Amid the roaring controversy of increased taxes and reduced federal spending in Washington, some quiet, thoughtful voices continue to question the relevancy of it all.

Certainly government spending is high and should be reduced. Certainly the income tax drains enough cream off the average workingman's income.

But, even if we cut federal spending and hold the line on taxes, haven't we missed the point of the whole problem?

It was during the first fight over President Johnson's proposed income tax "surcharge" that House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills declared firmly, "We are trying to get this message across: We want to pause in this headlong rush toward ever-bigger government."

★ ★ ★

Since that day in 1967, Rep. Mills has explained and re-explained the position of his committee. It's this: We need not merely cut the federal budget, we must find out why it's so big. Our resources are limited. We are not rich enough for both guns and butter. The time has come to set priorities in spending.

In the last 20 years federal spending has increased by 133 per cent on a per-capita basis. The current cost is $776 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

Fully 20 per cent of the national income passes through the federal till every year. Yet no one man or agency knows where the money's going or how efficiently it is being spent.

★ ★ ★

Congress, whose real power is in control of the national purse strings, has allowed federal spending to double in 20 years.

★ ★ ★

It is not unfair for the taxpayer to demand a report on how and where the money has been invested, what returns it has earned for the nation and what needs of the future should be met with future tax dollars.

Enjoyment . . .

U.S. Halts Attacks on Most of N. Viet

SAIGON (AP) — American bombers and warships halted their attacks on most of North Vietnam today, one day after strikes close to Hanoi, Haiphong and the Chinese border.

The cutback in the bombing ordered by President Johnson was the 10th curtailment in the air war against the Communist North since it began on Feb. 7, 1965.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters said the reduction in the bombing was in effect by the time the President began his television statement announcing it, at 10 a.m. Saigon time.

The U.S. Command said American fighter-bombers confined their attacks on North Vietnam today to the area just above the demilitarized zone, hitting enemy storage complexes, truck convoys and gun positions.

AIRFIELD ATTACKED

Only a few hours before, the U.S. Command announced that American planes yesterday attacked the Cat Bi airfield four miles southeast of the center of Haiphong, the radio communications station 10 miles southeast of Hanoi, a chemical plant 19 miles northeast of Haiphong, the Cam Pha coal area, 44 miles east-northeast of Haiphong, and the Lang Giai railyard, 18 miles below the Chinese border.

Johnson said his de-escalation order applied to "most" of North Vietnam's territory and an area containing almost 90 per cent of its population. This includes the Hanoi-Haiphong industrial heartland and the vital northeast and northwest railroad lines between Hanoi and Communist China.

* * *

The President said the bombing would continue "in the area north of the demilitarized zone where the continuing enemy buildup directly threatens Allied forward positions and where movements of troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat."

Westmoreland's headquarters and the U.S. 7th Air Force refused to outline this area still subject to attack, but it probably extends north to the city of Vinh, about 130 miles above the demilitarized zone.

CONVOYS MAIN TARGET

Most of the air strikes in this area have been against truck convoys believed headed southward with war materials for the 40,000 North Vietnamese troops who are believed menacing the U.S. Marines at Khe Sanh, Con Thien, Gio Linh, Dong Ha and other Allied posts just below the DMZ.

The area from the DMZ to Vinh was excluded from the last bombing pause, at the end of January for Tet, the lunar new year festival.

It was learned that U.S. planes also will continue reconnaissance and aerial photographic missions all over North Vietnam, including the Red River Valley area from Hanoi to the Chinese border.

The President made no reference to the bombing of the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos, over which thousands of tons of war material and thousands of troops move into South Vietnam. Presumably, this air campaign will continue, with more warplanes available to strike the North Vietnamese supply routes and buildup areas in that country.

REFUSE COMMENT

As expected, Westmoreland, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and all other ranking U.S. military and embassy officials refused to comment on the President's orders. But military commanders in Vietnam have long opposed any curtailment of the bombing.

The Hanoi-Haiphong heartland was put off limits to American attack as the northeast monsoons were beginning to lift after six months of heavy clouds and rain. Massive attacks on this area had been expected in April.

Johnson in his speech also called for expansion of the South Vietnamese armed forces, and shortly afterward President Nguyen Van Thieu announced plans for a general mobilization to enlarge the present regular forces of 340,000 men and regional and popular forces of 342,000.

He had said the previous day general mobilization would be necessary if the Vietcong and North Vietnamese continued their attacks, and that it would require the conscription of men 17 to 45 and women as well. Men between the ages of 18 and 33 now are eligible for the draft.

FURTHER INCREASE PLANNED

Thieu previously announced enrollment of 135,000 more soldiers by the end of the year. In a state of the union message to the legislature today, he said this would be achieved by July and "I have made plans to further increase that figure, if necessary, during the second half of this year."

In addition to the bombing cutback, the Air Force got another setback over the weekend. Qualified informants said the newest weapon in America's air arsenal, the F111 fighter-bomber, has been grounded from missions in Vietnam while an investigation is made into the loss of two of the $6-million planes during their first week of combat.

* * *

Six Swing-Wing F111As arrived in Thailand two weeks ago and entered combat a week later. U.S. officials said one was lost somewhere in Southeast Asia last Thursday and another crashed due to mechanical difficulties in Thailand Saturday while en route to a combat area.

Brothers Retire at Pontiac Div.

During World War II the brothers were foremen on the production of the Oerlikon antiaircraft cannon, the Bofors field gun and aircraft torpedoes, all of which were made at Pontiac. They were also active in Pontiac's defense activities in the early 1950s when Cale was made general foreman on the Bofors gun and Dain was general foreman for the rocket assembly.

Cale was then made general foreman of the trans-axle assembly prior to the introduction of the Tempest series. In 1963 he went on special assignment working on tool costs and the zero defects program.

* * *

Dain was later made general foreman of the head line and for the past 10 years his special assignment has been working ahead on the engines for the next model year.

TRAVEL PLANNPD

Dain, who said he enjoyed every minute of this 42 years at Pontiac, plans to use his retirement for travel, hunting and fishing. He and his wife live at 116 Albertson, Rocester. They have a son and daughter who are both married and seven grandchildren.

Looking back over four decades Dain was most impressed with the technological changes he has witnessed.

"It used to be all handwork, but now everything is much more complicated and it takes precision machines and men to do the job," he said.

Cale noted that changes now occur much faster both in personnel promotions and the product.

"We are highly competitive and we must change to stay up to date. I have seen more changesin the past 10 years than I did in the 30 years before that," Cale said.

Retirement for Cale and his wife will mean garden work at their home at 3640 Pontiac Lake, Waterford Township and winters in Florida. they have two married daughters and one married son and five grandchildren.

LBJ's Message of Decision—Complete Text

WASHINGTON (AP) — The text of President Johnson's broadcast talk on the Vietnam war:

Tonight I want to speak to you on peace in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

* * *

No other question so preoccupies our people. No other dream so absorbs the 250 million human beings who live in that part of the world. No other goal motivates American policy in Southeast Asia.

For years, representatives of our government and others have traveled the world — seeking to find a basis for peace talks.

PUBLIC OFFER

Since last September, they have carried the offer I made public at San Antonio.

It was this:

That the United States would stop its bombardment of North Vietnam when that would lead promptly to productive discussions—and that we would assume that North Vietnam would not take military advantage of our restraint.

* * *

Hanoi denounced this offer, both privately and publicly. Even while the search for peace was going on, North Vietnam rushed their preparations for a savage assault on the people, the government, and the allies of South Vietnam.

Their attack—during the Tet holidays—failed to achieve its principal objectives.

NO COLLAPSE

It did not collapse the elected government of South Vietnam or shatter its army — as the Communists had hoped.

It did not produce a "general uprising" among the people of the cities. The Communists were unable to maintain control of any city. And they took very heavy casualties.

* * *

But they did compel the South Vietnamese and their allies to move certain forces from the countryside, into the cities.

They cause widespread disruption and suffering. Their attacks, and the battles that followed, made refugees of half a million human beings.

The Communists may renew their attack. They are, it appears, trying to make 1968 the year of decision in South Vietnam—the year that brings, if not final victory or defeat, at least a turning point in the struggle.

This much is clear:

THEY WON'T SUCCEED

If they do mount another round of heavy attacks, they will not succeed in destroying the fighting power of South Vietnam and its allies.

But tragically, this is also clear: many men—on both sides of the struggle—will be lost. A nation that has already suffered 20 years of warfare will suffer once again. Armies on both sides will take new casualties. And the war will go on.

There is no need for this to be so.

* * *

There is no need to delay the talks that could bring an end to this long and bloody war.

Tonight I renew the offer I made last August to stop the bombardment of North Vietnam. We ask that talks begin promptly, and that they be serious talks on the substance of peace. We assume that during those talks Hanoi would not take advantage of our restraint.

We are prepared to move immediately toward peace through negotiations.

REDUCTION OF HOSTILITY

Tonight, in the hope that this action will lead to early talks, I am taking the first step to de-escalate the conflict. We are reducing substantially reducing —the present level of hostilities.

And we are doing so unilaterally, and at once.

Tonight, I have ordered our aircraft and naval vessels to make no attacks on North Vietnam, except in the area north of the demilitarized zone (DMZ), where the continuing enemy build-up directly threatens allied forward positions, and where movements of troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat.

The area in which we are stopping our attacks includes almost 90 per cent of North Vietnam's population, and most of its territory. Thus there will be no attacks around the principal populated areas, and in the food-producing areas of North Vietnam.

Even this limited bombing of the north could come to an early end—if our restraint is matched by restraint in Hanoi. But I cannot in conscience stop all bombing so long as to do so would immediately and directly endanger the lives of our men and our allies. Whether a complete bombing halt becomes possible in the future will be determined by events.

LESS VIOLENCE

Our purpose in this action is to bring about a reduction in the level of violence that now exists.

It is to save the lives of brave men—and of innocent women and children. It is to permit the contending forces to move closer to a political settlement. Tonight, I call upon the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union —as co-chairmen of the Geneva Conferences, and as permanent members of the United Nations Security Council—to do all they can to move from the unilateral act of de-escalation I have just announced toward genuine peace in Southeast Asia.

* * *

Now, as in the past, the United States is ready to send its representatives to any forum, at any time, to discuss a means of bringing this war to an end.

I am designating one of our most distinguished Americans, Ambassador Averell Harriman, as my personal representative for such talks. In addition, I have asked Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, who returned from Moscow for consultations, to be available to join Ambassador Harriman at Geneva or any other suitable place just as soon as Hanoi agrees to a conference.

RESPONSE SOUGHT

I call upon President Ho Chi Minh to respond positively and favorably to this new step toward peace.

But if peace does not come now through negotiations, it will come when Hanoi understands that our common resolve is unshakeable and our common strength is invincible.

* * *

Tonight, we and other allied nations are contributing 600,000 fighting men to assist 700,000 South Vietnamese troops in defending their country.

Our presence there has always rested on this basic belief: the main burden of preserving their freedom must be carried by the South Vietnamese themselves.

SHIELD FOR S. VIET

We and our allies can only help to provide a shield—behind which the people of South Vietnam can survive and develop. On their efforts—on their determination and resourcefulness—the outcome will ultimately depend.

That small, beleaguered nation has suffered terrible punishment for more than 20 years.

* * *

I pay tribute once again to the great courage and endurance of its people. South Vietnam supports armed forces of almost 700,000 men today—the equivalent of more than 10 million in our own population. Its people maintain their firm determination to be free of domination by the north.

There has been substantial progress in building a durable government during the past three years. The South Vietnam of 1965 could not have survived the enemy's Tet offensive of 1968. The elected government of South Vietnam survived that attack—and is rapidly repairing the devastation it wrought.

FURTHER EFFORTS

The South Vietnamese know that further efforts are required

- To expand their armed forces,
- To move back into the countryside,
- To increase their taxes,
- To select the very best men they have for civil and military responsibility,
- To achieve a new unity within their constitutional government,
- And to include in the national effort all those groups who wish to preserve South Vietnam's control over its own destiny.

* * *

Last week President Thieu ordered the mobilization of 135,000 additional South Vietnamese. He plans to reach—as soon as possible — a total military strength of some 800,000 men.

To achieve this, the Government of South Vietnam started the drafting of 19-year-olds on March 1st. On May 1st, the Government will begin drafting 18-year-olds.

MORE VOLUNTEERS

Last month, 10,000 men volunteered for military service—two and a half times the number of volunteers during the same month last year. Since the middle of January, more than 48,000 South Vietnamese have joined the armed forces—nearly half of them volunteers.

All men in the South Vietnamese armed forces have had their tours of service extended for the duration of the war, and reserves are now being called for active duty.

* * *

President Thieu told his people last week:

"We must make greater efforts and accept more sacrifices because, as I have said many times, this is our country. The existence of our nation is at stake, and this is mainly a Vietnamese responsibility."

* * *

He warned his people that a major national effort is required to root out corruption and incompetence at all levels of government.

EVIDENCE OF RESOLVE

We applaud this evidence of renewed determination on the part of South Vietnam. Our first priority will be to support their effort.

We shall accelerate the re-equipment of South Vietnam's armed forces—to meet the enemy's increased firepower. This will enable them progressively to undertake a larger share of combat operations against the Communists.

* * *

On many occasions I have assured the American people that we would send to Vietnam those forces that are required to accomplish our mission there. With that as our guide, we have previously authorized a force level of approximately 525,000 men.

* * *

Some weeks ago, however—to help meet the enemy's new offensive — we sent to Vietnam about 11,000 additional Marine and airborne troops. They were deployed by air in 48 hours, on an emergency basis. Artillery, tank, aircraft, medical and other units needed to work with and support these infantry troops in combat did not accompany them.

13,500 MORE GIS

In order that these forces may reach maximum combat effectiveness, we should prepare to send — during the next five months — support troops totaling approximately 13,500 men.

* * *

A portion of these men will be made available from our active forces. The balance will come from Reserve component units which will be called up for service.

* * *

Actions we have taken since the beginning of the year

- To re-equip the South Vietnamese forces,
- To meet our responsibilities in Korea, as well as in Vietnam,
- To meet price increases and the cost of activating and deploying reserve forces,
- To replace helicopters and provide the other military supplies we need, will require additional expenditures.

$2.5 BILLION MORE

The estimate of those additional expenditures is 2.5 billion dollars in this fiscal year, and 2.6 billion in the next fiscal year.

These projected increases in expenditures for our national security bring into sharper focus the nation's need for immediate action: to protect the prosperity of the American people and the strength and stability of the dollar.

* * *

On many occasions I have pointed out that, without higher taxes or decreased expenditures, next year's deficit would again be around $20 billion. I have emphasized the need to set strict priorities in our spending. I have stressed that failure to act—promptly and decisively—would raise strong doubts throughout the world about America's willingness to keep its financial house in order.

Yet Congress has not acted. And today we face the sharpest financial threat in the post war era—a threat to the dollar's role as the keystone of international trade and finance.

STOCKHOLM CONFERENCE

Last week, at the monetary conference in Stockholm, the major industrial countries took a big step toward creating a new international monetary asset that will strengthen the international monetary system.

* * *

But to make this system work the United States must bring its balance of payments to—or close to—equilibrium. We must have a responsible fiscal policy. Enactment of a tax increase now, together with expenditure control, is necessary to protect our security, continue our prosperity, and meet the needs of our people.

* * *

What is now at stake is seven years of unparalleled prosperity in those seven years, the real income of the average American—after taxes—rose by almost 30 per cent, a gain as large as that of the preceding 19 years.

The steps we must take to convince the world are exactly the steps we must take to sustain our economic strength at home. In the past eight months, prices and interest rates have risen.

MOVE FOR ACTION

We must move from debate to action. There is, I believe, in both Houses of the Congress—a growing sense of urgency that the situation must be corrected.

My budget in January was a tight one. It fully reflected an evaluation of our most demanding needs.

* * *

But in these budgetary matters, the President does not decide alone. The Congress has the power and the duty to determine appropriations and taxes.

The Congress is now considering proposals for reductions in our national budget.

FISCAL RESTRAINT

As part of a program of fiscal restraint that includes the tax surcharge, I shall approve appropriate reductions in the January budget when and if Congress so decides.

One thing is unmistakably clear: our deficit must be reduced. Failure to act could bring on conditions that would strike hardest at those people we are striving to help.

* * *

The times call for prudence in this land of plenty. I believe we have the character to provide it, and I plead with the Congress to act promptly to serve the national interest, and all the people.

Now let me give you my estimate of the chances for peace:

- The peace that will one day stop the bloodshed in South Vietnam,
- Allow that people to rebuild and develop their land,
- And permit us to turn more fully to our tasks at home.

NO PROMISES

I cannot promise that the initiative I am announcing tonight will be any more successful in achieving peace than the more than thirty others we have undertaken in recent years.

* * *

It is our hope that North Vietnam, after years of fighting that has left the issue unresolved, will now cease its efforts to achieve a military victory and join us in moving toward peace.

There may come a time when South Vietnamese—on both sides—are able to work out a way to settle their differences by free political choice rather than by war.

As Hanoi considers its course, it should be in no doubt of our intentions. It must not miscalculate the pressures within our democracy in this election year.

* * *

We have no intention of widening this war.

But the United States will not accept a fake solution to this long and arduous struggle and call it peace.

No one can foretell the precise terms of an eventual settlement.

NO ANNIHILATION

Our objective in South Vietnam has never been the annihilation of the enemy. It has been to bring about a recognition in Hanoi that its objective—taking over the South by force—could not be achieved.

Peace can be based on the Geneva Accords of 1954—under political conditions that permit the South Vietnamese—all the South Vietnamese—to chart their course free of any outside domination or interference.

* * *

Tonight I also reaffirm the pledge we made at Manila—that we are prepaerd to withdraw our forces from South Vietnam as the other side withdraws its forces to the North, stops infiltration, and the level of violence thus subsides.

* * *

Our goal of peace and self-determination in Vietnam is directly related to the future of Southeast Asia—where much has happened to inspire confidence during the past 10 years. We have done all that we could to contribute to that confidence.

NATIONS PROGRESS

A number of its nations have shown what can be accomplished under conditions of security. Since 1966 Indonesia, the fifth largest nation in the world, has had a government dedicated to peace with its neighbors and improved conditions for its own people. Political and economic cooperation between nations has grown rapidly.

* * *

Every American can take pride in the role we have played in Southeast Asia. We can rightly judge—as responsible Southeast Asians themselves do—that the progress of the past three years would have been far less likely—if not impossible—if America and others had not made the stand in Vietnam.

* * *

At Johns Hopkins University, three years ago, I announced that we would take part in the great work of developing Southeast Asia, including the Mekong Valley—for all the people of the region. Our determination to help build a better land—for men on both sides of the present conflict—has not diminished. Indeed, the ravages of war have made it more urgent than ever.

* * *

I repeat tonight what I said at Johns Hopkins—that North Vietnam could take its place in this common effort just as soon as peace comes.

AIM: WIDER PEACE

Over time, a wider framework of peace and security in Southeast Asia may become possible. The new cooperation of the nations of the area could be a foundation-stone. Certainly friendship with the nations of such a Southeast Asia.

It will come because the people of Southeast Asia want it—those whose armies are at war today, and those who, though threatened, have thus far been spared.

* * *

Peace will come because Asians were willing to work for it—to sacrifice for it—to die for it.

But let it never be forgotten: peace will come also because America sent her sons to help secure it.

NOT AN EASY TASK

It has not been easy—far from it. During the past four and a half years, it has been my fate and responsibility to be commander-in-chief. I have lived — daily—with the cost of this war. I know the pain it has inflicted and the misgivings it has aroused.

Throughout this period, I have been sustained by a single principle:

* * *

—That what we are doing now, in Vietnam, is vital not only to the security of Asia, but to our own security.

Surely we have treaties which we must respect, and commitments we must keep. Resolutions of Congress testify to the need to resist aggression in Southeast Asia.

But the heart of our involvement in South Vietnam has always been America's security.

AID TO INDEPENDENCE

And the larger purpose of our involvement has always been to help the nations of Southeast Asia become independent, self-sustaining members of the world community, at peace with themselves, and with all others.

With such an Asia, our country—and the world—will be far more secure than it is tonight.

* * *

I believe that a peaceful Asia is far nearer to reality, because of what America has done in Vietnam. I believe that the men who endure the dangers of battle there are helping the entire world avoid far greater conflicts than this one.

The peace that will bring them home will come. Tonight I have offered the first in what I hope will be a series of mutual moves toward peace.

PRAYER FOR ACCEPTANCE

I pray that it will not be rejected by the leaders of North Vietnam. I pray that they will accept it as a means by which the sacrifices of their own people may be ended.

* * *

Finally, my fellow Americans, let me say this. Of those to whom much is given, much is asked. I cannot say—no man could say—that no more will be asked of us. Yet I believe that now no less than when the decade began—this generation of Americans is willing to pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe, to assure the survival and the success of liberty.

* * *

Since those words were spoken by John F. Kennedy the people of America have kept that compact with mankind's noblest cause. We shall continue to keep it.

Yet I believe we must always be mindful of this one thing:

* * *

Whatever the trials and tests ahead, the ultimate strength of our country and our cause will lie not in powerful weapons or infinite resources or boundless wealth—but in the unity of our people.

This I believe very deeply.

HIS OWN MAN

Throughout my public career, I have followed the personal philosophy that I am a free man, an American, a public servant, and a member of my party—in that order, always and only. For 37 years in the service of our nation—as congressman, as senator, as vice president, and as your president—I have put the unity of the people first, ahead of any divisive partisanship.

* * *

In these times, as in times before, it is true that a house divided against itself—by the spirit of faction, of party, of region, of religion, of race—is a house that cannot stand.

* * *

There is a division in the American house now. Holding the trust that is mine—as president of all the people—I cannot disregard the peril to the progress of the American people and the hope and prospects of peace for all peoples. I would ask all Americans—whatever their personal interest or concerns—to guard against divisiveness and all its consequences.

* * *

Fifty-two months and 10 days ago, in a moment of tragedy and trauma, the duties of this office fell upon me. I asked then for "your help and God's" that we might continue America on its course, binding up our wounds, healing our history, moving forward in new unity to clear the American agenda and to keep the American commitment for all our people.

COMMITMENT KEPT

United, we have kept that commitment—and enlarged it.

Through all-time to come, America will be a stronger nation, a more just society, a land of greater opportunity and fulfilment because of what we have done together in these years of unparalleled achievement.

* * *

Our reward will come in the life of freedom and peace and hope that our children will enjoy through ages ahead.

What we won when all our people united must not now be lost in suspicion, distrust, and selfishness among any of our people.

PRESIDENCY APART

Believing this as I do, I have concluded that I should not permit the presidency to become involved in the partisan divisions that are developing in this political year.

* * *

With America's sons in the field far away, with America's future under challenge here at home, with our hopes—and the world's hopes—for peace in the balance every day, I do not believe that I should devote an hour of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office.

* * *

Accordingly, I shall not seek —and will not accept—the nomination of my party for another term as your president. Let men everywhere, however, know that a strong, confident, vigilant America stands ready to seek an honorable peace and to stand ready to defend an honored cause, whatever the price, whatever the burden, whatever the sacrifice that duty may require.

Thank you for listening tonight and may God bless all of you.

DECISION-MAKER — President Lyndon Johnson sits at his desk in the White House Saturday afternoon composing the historic statement in which he declined last night to seek another term as president.

How Johnson Said It...

"Accordingly, I shall not seek—and I will not accept—the nomination of my party for another term as your president. Let men everywhere, however, know that a strong, confident, vigilant America stands ready to seek an honorable peace and stands ready to defend an honored cause, whatever the price, whatever the burden, whatever the sacrifice that duty may require."

On Way to Suicide, Something Led Him to Salvation

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the 29th in a series of 40 articles to be published by The Pontiac Press during Lent, telling personal stories of faith in action in the lives of sincere people. Some contributors are famous, others relatively unknown.)

By NEIL HAMILTON
Veteran Actor

I knew exactly where and how I would kill myself.

Not far from Hollywood in the mountains above Santa Monica, there was an old abandoned quarry.

HAMILTON

Many times, on hikes, I had peered shudderingly over the rim. If a man stepped off that cliff, his body might never be found.

Looking back now, more than 20 years later, what I had in mind that day seems madness. But at the time there seemed to be a kind of insane logic in it.

★ ★ ★

I had fallen from the very top of the Hollywood ladder, in the palmy days of the movie industry—with my five-servant home, the second largest swimming pool in California and six secretaries to handle my fan mail—to the level of a man who haunts the second-hand stores to clothe his family.

I was hopelessly in debt and unable to land leading roles any more.

HAD PRAYED

As a Catholic who at one time had planned to join the priesthood, self-destruction should never have entered my mind. I should have turned instinctively to prayer.

But the truth was, I had prayed, frantically, urgently. Nothing had happened. Now I had no words left, no faith, no hope. I felt abandoned, empty, useless, prayed out.

As I made my way toward the quarry, I found that the road I had planned to take was blocked by excavations. So I took another road, a bit longer, that would take me to the same place.

Along the way, I saw a flight of stone steps I had never noticed before. Without meaning to, without reason, I ascended them.

I came to a door I had never seen before. I rang the bell. The door opened, and there stood a familiar, friendly figure, Father Benjamin Bowling, a priest I knew slightly.

"Why, Neil," he said, "how nice to see you. Come in. What are you up to?" And I said, feeling like a man in a dream, "I'm on my way to kill myself."

Father Bowling showed neither shock nor surprise. "Tell me," he said cheerfully, "what do you think of our new club for the students?"

I stared around, bewildered. It was, Father explained, a place where Catholic students at nearby UCLA could come for recreation, friendship, spiritual guidance—a kind of haven from the pressures of college.

★ ★ ★

Father showed me around as if I had been a casual guest. Before long I was telling my whole miserable story.

Father heard me out, then said: "I know how you feel. Failure can be a crushing experience for a man. I came close to it with this club.

TURNED TO A SAINT

"At first I thought I would never raise the money, and then there were so many construction problems I feared the place would never be built.

"That's why I appealed to St. John Bosco. Suddenly everything began to go right. The club is more his doing than mine, I'm sure."

"St. John Bosco?" I repeated. The name was only vaguely familiar.

★ ★ ★

"This time last century," he said, "Father Bosco was working his head off in Turin, Italy, trying to provide housing and education for poor city children. Well, I was trying to do something for young people too, but failing miserably at it, so I asked Don Bosco to help. He must have or we wouldn't be here now."

"I suppose," I conceded.

NEEDS A FRIEND

From my long-ago Sunday school days, I knew that just as friends request each other's prayers, so we can request the prayers of saints.

We can ask the saint to intercede for us by including our prayers with his to the Almighty, although it is God, of course, who answers the prayer. I knew this, as I say, but it was a long time since I had thought of it.

Father Bowling went on: "I feel that Don Bosco is the best friend I've ever had. From what you tell me, you need a friend with a little more faith than you can muster right now, Neil. Why not let Don Bosco be that friend?

"He may already be. You know, sometimes we choose our friends and sometimes they choose us. Ask Don Bosco to join you in your prayers for a job."

I shrugged. "I'm prayed out, Father. I have no more words."

"Then try these words." Father smiled and handed me a tiny booklet. "The prayers in this booklet are a novena recommended by Don Bosco, and they're all written out for you. All you have to do is read them, read them from your heart."

I made the novena, nine days of intensive prayer, representing the nine days the Apostles spent in prayer between Ascension Thursday and Pentecost Sunday, when the Holy Spirit descended upon them.

On the ninth day of prayer, as I was shaving, I heard a voice inside me say clearly and distinctly as though someone had spoken in my ear, "Get in touch with Dan Kelly at Universal today."

If there were one person in Hollywood who would never help Neil Hamilton it was Dan Kelly. He was one of the people I had to see. Dan treated with contempt and arrogance when I was securely perched—so I thought—at the top of the tree. Now he was head casting man at Universal.

But when I told my wife of this extraordinary happening she said quietly, "You'd better call him."

In fear and trembling I called his office. His secretary said she thought she could slip me in there and tried to apologize for my past actions he brushed my apologies aside. There was a job, a part he thought I might fit.

From that moment it was as if a whole series of locked and bolted doors had swung open. And they have kept opening ever since.

Legislature Setting Brisk Pace, Hoping for June Adjournment

LANSING (AP) — The 74th Michigan Legislature is moving along at a brisker pace this year than last, but a long and rocky road still stretches from today to its hoped-for June 26 adjournment.

Unlike last year, lawmakers have been successful this session in sticking to the work deadlines they set themselves at the beginning of the year. Meanwhile, progress has been made on major legislation.

Some reasons behind the speed up include:

- The absence of last year's marathon battles over whether to pass a state income tax, battles that forced a long delay in working on the state budget and left less time for other legislative matters.

* * *

- The fact that fewer bills were introduced this year, because last year's bills were still alive and eligible for passage when the current session began.
- The fact that members of the House of Representatives are up for reelection this year, facing primaries Aug. 6 and the general election Nov. 5. They want to be sure of getting home in time to do some campaigning.

TAX DEBATE

Last year, debates over a state income tax overshadowed everything else in the Michigan Capitol — even the $1-billion-plus budget recommended by Gov. George Romney.

A 2.6 per cent personal income levy was approved, but not until the early hours of July 1 — the day the new fiscal year began.

Meanwhile, uncertainty over whether the revenue-raising tax package would pass made it impossible to peg the level of state spending for the new year. The executive budget bills didn't even come out of committee until mid-June.

* * *

Things are different this year. The Senate has already approved its share of Romney's rewritten $1.3 billion budget, and only two House bills remain to be approved.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

Last year the Legislature, particularly the House, found itself running behind schedule almost at once. The House twice had to extend its deadline for introducing bills when the bill-drafting Legislative Service Bureau found itself jammed with requests.

This year the deadlines for bill introductions and for reporting bills from committee in the House where they originate have both passed without extension.

This year's schedule calls for passage of all bills by one House before a week from Thursday — a tough goal to meet, since the House alone has more than 240 measures on its calendar today. Either chamber could, without the other's permission, extend the deadline for passage of all but budget bills, to April 19.

* * *

The schedule calls for committee action in the second House by May 10, passage in the second House by May 24, and final adjournment on June 26.

TIME-CONSUMPRS

Besides this year's budget bills, lawmakers face some other controversial and probably time-consuming issues that could knock the buggy off the track. Notable examples are open housing and lower court reorganization.

Obviously benefiting from the weeks it spent on the court issue last year, the House has already come up with the needed two-thirds vote for a 54-page measure setting up a new lower court system.

The bill has been in Senate committee for some time, and may emerge in considerably different form. If so, reaching agreement between the House and Senate could eat up valuable session days.

* * *

Open housing, defeated in the House last year, is now before the Senate, where a determined band of opponents is attempting to stall final action. The measure absorbed a lot of time in the House last year, and probably will again if the chamber takes it up.

IN THE HOPPER

Other major items awaiting legislative consideration this year include a $435-million bond issue, unprecedented in Michigan, for recreation and water pollution control; more anti-crime and antiriot bills; various bills to deal with strikes by teachers and other public employes; and a boost in the state minimum wage.

Also: four-year terms for House members; state enforcement of local housing codes; legalized electronic eavesdropping; gubernatorial power to fill vacant judgeships; more greyhound racing; stop and frisk; pesticide controls; and Sunday liquor.

State Fire Peril on Rise Again

By United Press International

The danger of grassland fires through much of Lower Michigan was on the rise again today after fires destroyed hundreds of acres of grassland, brush and forest land over the weekend.

The danger subsided Sunday when scattered showers dampened the dry areas. But, with lower humidity and brisk winds, the areas will again dry out with a resultant increase in the fire danger, the weather bureau at Houghton Lake reported.

* * *

Some 200 acres near Battle Creek, between the airport and Fort Custer were ablaze Saturday with Battle Creek and surrounding community fire departments battling the blazes.

Grassland fires near Jackson Community College at one point threatened several buildings.

* * *

The Galdwin area alone reported 22 separate grass fires in a 24-hour period over the weekend. Other smaller blazes were reported in scattered sections of Eaton, Ingham, Midland and Oscoda counties over the weekend.

Water Line Pact

DETROIT (AP) — Construction began today on water mains which will extend to South Rockford in Western Wayne County, Gerald Remus, general manager of the Detroit Metropolitan Water Services, said the $426,327 contract was awarded to the Boam Co. of Livonia.

LBJ Will Call Some Reserves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson will call a limited number of reservists to active duty during the next five months for service in Vietnam.

The President announced last night that the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended an additional 13,500 support troops be sent to Vietnam to bring certain units to "maximum combat effectiveness."

"A portion of these men will be made available from our active forces," Johnson said. "The balance will come from reserve component units which will be called up for service."

Reds Free 2 U.S. Women

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communists released two American women today 52 days after their capture during the battle for Hue.

A U.S. mission spokesman said Dr. Marjorie Nelson, 29, of Kokomo, Ind., and Sandra Johnson, 25, of Clio, Mich., had been freed near Hue and "are now in American hands."

The spokesman would not disclose where the two women were but said they were undergoing physical examinations adn appeared to be in good health.

Hanoi's Vietnam news agency said yesterday that the two women would be released but did not say how or where.

Their release follows by three days the repatriation of three North Vietnamese seamen captured by the U.S. Navy off North Vietnam in July 1966, a move the United States hoped would prompt further releases of American pilots by the Hanoi government.

Three U.S. aviators were released from North Vietnamese captivity earlier this year, the first ever freed from prison camps in the Communist nation. About 200 U.S. pilots are said interned in North Vietnam.

Jack Valenti Answers Film Critic

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A while back someone wrote to you complaining because motion pictures were getting dirtier and dirtier. And you replied, "Now that Jack Valenti is president of the Motion Picture association, we can all sleep a little better."

I don't know about you, Abby, but I haven't been sleeping any better since Mr. Valenti took over. Could Mr. Valenti be the one who is sleeping? So far I haven't noticed any improvement. If anything, I think movies are dirtier than ever. Why doesn't your Mr. Valenti do something?

ABBY

I don't expect to see this in print. You'll probably just toss it into the wastebasket, but I had to write anyway. Sincerely,

"SOLD OUT"

DEAR SOLD OUT: I didn't toss your letter into the wastebasket. Instead I tossed it into an envelope and sent it to Mr. Valenti. His reply:

"DEAR SOLD OUT: I wish I had all the power you credit me with. If I did, I would change things a mite. When it comes to passing judgment on a film, even the experts can't agree on what is "dirty." What the motion picture code attempts to do in this democratic society — where there is NO censorship — is to inform the public honestly about the content of the film, then let parents make the judgments.

That is the only democratic way. The alternative is despotism, where a small group decides for all.

If parents cannot control and guide their children, are we to deliver that responsibility to the state? And remember, Sold Out, the state is people, "and thus a handful of mortals will be gathering unto themselves one enormous amount of power." Then who would watch the watchers? And who would guard the guardians? Sincerely, Jack Valenti."

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in a home for unwed mothers now. She has decided to give her baby up for adoption. I won't go into the reasons for her decision, but I think she's doing the right thing. She's only 15. She doesn't even want to see the baby. She says it will be easier to forget if she doesn't.

Abby, even though it would be a lie, what harm would there be if I were to tell her that her baby died? I am not asking her doctor to tell the lie — I will take all the responsibility myself. I just want the doctor and the people at the home where she will deliver the baby to back me up on my story.

My daughter has suffered enough already, and I only want to make it easier for her by telling her that her baby died. She won't have to go through life wondering where her child is. I can see only good in this lie, but if you think I'm wrong, please tell me why, and I'll do as you say. Thank you.

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your motives are "good" — but one cannot accomplish good with evil acts. I advise you to forget this scheme. It is morally wrong.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were discussing a letter we had read in your column. It was from a woman who complained because when she and her children said "grace" at the table and thanked God for their food, her husband said, "Don't thank God — thank me. I'm the one who earned the money to put the food on this table!" We joked about it and forgot the incident. But our 5-year-old son didn't forget.

At dinner when he said the blessing, first he said, "Thank you, daddy, for my food." Then he bowed his head and said, "and thank you, God, for my daddy."

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Q. I have just had my first child, and following pregnancy my hair has been falling out. It is so much thinner than it was, if this keeps on I will be bald. I am only 26 years old, and I am frantic. What can I do?

A. This is not an unusual occurrence. Hair loss often follows pregnancy, and this is almost always temporary. Treat your hair gently with moderate brushing and mild shampoos and do not worry.

Within a few months your hair should be normal again. Do not be upset about it. Sometimes emotional stress causes hair loss. This is usually temporary also, but you could create a vicious circle.

★ ★ ★

Q. I bite my fingernails so badly that they are disgraceful looking. I try to hide my hands whenever possible. It just seems that I cannot stop. What do you suggest?

A. The best thing to do is to invest in a weekly professional manicure. Not only that, but take the manicurist into your confidence. Tell her what you are trying to do. If you select an understanding operator it will be very helpful to you.

★ ★ ★

Both you and she will feel the challenge. It is sort of like a small dose of group therapy. At first she will be frustrated because she will have little to work with but you will be ashamed to go back for your next manicure if you have eaten the polish. Try it! It has worked with lots of others.

★ ★ ★

Q. I am only 26 years old but my breasts droop terribly. I have two children, only a year and a half apart. Is there anything I could do?

I wonder if I should have worn special brassieres during my pregnancy? Not all my friends who have babies have this trouble. Help, please!

A. Prevention is easier than correction, although you can improve the situation. Of course body tone and good nutrition may be factors, but it is most important to wear brassieres which give special support during pregnancy and the nursing period. The breasts are much heavier during those times.

Exercise which increases the size of underlying chest muscles will help lift the breasts.

If you would like my free leaflet; "Care During and After Pregnancy," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of The Pontiac Press, Dept. E-600, P.O. Box 9, Pontiac, Mich. 48056.

DREAMS COME TRUE FOR BRIDES-TO-BE

New Bridal Registry

C. R. Haskill

Thanks to a new and unique photographic registry service initiated this week by C. R. Haskill Studios, many brides and brides-to-be will now be able to have their complete wedding photographed and albums given to them as wedding presents.

How often it has been said, "I'm not having wedding photos taken, it's beyond us right now." Yet, the very thing the young bride forsakes in the beginning is the one thing that remains forever, bringing memories of that wonderful day each time photographs are viewed.

Now through "Wedding Photography Registry" a prospective bride can call C. R. Haskill Studios on University Drive in Pontiac and engage a photographer to cover the wedding day festivities. At the same time, she can select the style of wedding photography she prefers — Natural color; the album; wall - hung paintings; frames, etc.

As a gift, C. R. Haskill provides each of his brides a Wedding Guest Book, a portrait for the newspaper free and even rice conveniently packaged for the guests to throw at the happy couple when leaving the church.

Mr. Haskill has also available at special discount prices, invitations and napkins and often quips, "We supply everything but the Bridegroom!"

Why not call C. R. Haskill Studio now at 334-0553 and reserve your wedding date, or stop in at 1 University Drive, Pontiac.

Polly's Pointers

The Men Contribute

Here's a selection from the men, from POLLY'S HOMEMAKING POINTERS, now issued in paperback by Berkley Publishing Co.

● "To prevent soap from dropping to the bottom of the tub when taking a shower, bore a hole through a bar of soap, put a string through the hole and hang the soap around your neck. Or, tie the string around one of the water faucet knobs in a shower stall."

● "Fellows, here is a quickie when you are in a hurry and cannot find a stay for your shirt collar. Use an opened-out paperclip. This will suffice as a temporary stay."

● "The next time you pack a suitcase for your husband place his neckties over the center page of a magazine. Close the magazine and pack it flat at the bottom of the case to prevent creased ties. I am sure he will appreciate the use of a current issue of one of his favorite magazines."

● "Paint household shut-off valves and one section of each pipeline a different color—red for hot water, green for cold water, yellow for the waste line and so on. Keep a chart at hand keying the colors to the correct pipe lines. You will always be able to locate the one you want in an emergency."

● "Keep a plastic drinking straw around to use for an extension to your oil can spout. When a spot is hard to reach, place the straw over the spout to extend it."

● "To prevent scratching the fenders of your car when backing out of the garage, tack a section of an old tire tube on each side of the garage entrance."

● "I use empty cereal boxes for litter bags in the car. When full, I just throw the whole thing into a trash can."

● "I have a good useful tip for the hunting season. In fact, it is good for fishing trips, too. To waterproof matches, dip the heads of the matches in clear nail polish. The match will flare brighter when struck."

Homemaking advice on everything of interest to women is offered in the 224-page, illustrated paperback, "Polly's Homemaking Pointers," now available for only 75 cents through this newspaper.

To get your copy, send your name, address, Zip Code and 75 cents to Polly's Homemaking Pointers, care of The Pontiac Press, P.O. Box 4958, Dept. 480, Chicago, Ill. 60680.

Shifts the Blame for Painful Experience

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My niece, 17, has been committed to a mental hospital. Mrs. Lawrence, my sister-in-law never wanted this child and there were arguments over her discipline between my brother and her all through the girl's childhood. Now she blames what she calls his "softness" toward the girl for her mental illness and is being encouraged to blame him by the psychiatrist she is going to. How can you explain a doctor's support of such cruelty?

ANSWER: I can't. However, psychiatrists operate out of possess. So it's just possible that this one knows that your sister-in-law will blame herself for the girl's condition if she can't blame her husband for it. And that she herself would fall to pieces under her own self-accusation.

BLAME OTHERS

For there are people, you see, who must blame somebody — other people or themselves—for any painful experience life imposes on them.

Otherwise, they would have to look at the fact that our human lives are subject to unforeseeable troubles that we could not avert. And as this is truth they cannot stand, they've got to think of their lives as always controllable.

* * *

And a very comfortable notion it is, too. Like your sister-in-law, it enables them to cast themselves as the heroine (or hero) of the plot — and the other fellow as its villain. But psychiatrists who know that we are neither heroic nor villainous are very quick to spot this infantile view of life in a patient.

The engagement of their daughter, Carol Ann, to Lawrence P. Mazur is announced by the Joseph Bauers of Pickering Street. The bride elect is a graduate of St. Joseph Hospital School of X-Ray Technology. Her fiance, son of the Arthur Mazurs of East Detroit, is a graduate of Macomb Community College and the Detroit Institute of Technology. Vows are set for August.

Resume Wisner Tours

Group tours of the Wisner House and other properties of the Oakland County Pioneer and Historical Society resume today.

The Wisner House served as Gov. Moses Wisner's official residence in 1859-69. It contains extensive artifically-grained woodwork and a thirty foot long parlor with its original furnishings.

SCHOOL

The one room school contains items common to rural education until a generation ago. Hand bells, tin lunch pails and double desks recreate a setting familiar to many, but totally strange to most of today's pupils.

Also on the property are a smokehouse and unusually fine root cellar equipped with the barrels, bins, crocks and jars of a century ago.

Tours may be arranged by contacting the Society at 405 Oakland Avenue.

OU Chorus Will Sing Brahms

The 170-voice University Chorus will present a concert Friday in Oakland University's Sports and Recreation Building, featuring works by Johannes Brahms. The concert, open to the public, will begin at 8 p.m.

Featured numbers will be the "Alto Rhapsodie" with Alice Engram, contralto, as soloist, and the "German Requiem," with Mrs. Carolyn Grimes, soprano, and Murray Hulse, baritone.

John Dovaras, director of choral activities at OU, writes in his program notes that both featured works are being presented almost exactly a century after their completion by Brahms.

He says, "The Latin requiem is a prayer for the peace of the dead. Each of the seven sections closes in a mood of cheerful confidence or loving promise.

"The 'Alto Rhapsodie' is based on a poem by Goethe. The first two sections are dominated by the solo voice. The concluding section, a prayer of reconciliation, opens into one of the finest melodies to come from the pen of Brahms.

"The male chorus, restrained until now, supports and complements the alto voice."

Sixth Graders Act as Tutors

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Sixth graders are teaching first graders in a program at Coolidge School here, with the result that the younger students are learning their lessons better and the older ones are learning patience and trying hard to be good examples, Principal Mrs. Lila Quinn reports.

The first graders work several periods a week with their "teachers." Since they can't write, they dictate stories for the older children to write down. "It is easier for the first graders to learn to read a story they themselves wrote than a textbook story," Mrs. Quinn points out.

Don't 'Go Overboard' on Trip

Fashion and travel are irrevocably linked in the minds — and budgets — of American women. Of 14 million travelers in the past year, perhaps half were fashion-conscious American females faced with two major travel problems: what to take with them and what to buy when they arrived. Some answers to both questions have been suggested by the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA).

A cardinal rule for the wise traveler is "never take more than you need." Keep your baggage at a minimum, and as a rule never have more bags with you than you can handle yourself in a pinch. Even if porters are available at terminals, a "carry your own" policy — especially for women traveling alone — can prove a lifesaver. It can also save you tips and additional charges for excess baggage, as well as time when passing through customs. With a little luck you might also get to the taxi ramp first.

★ ★ ★

Passports, extra photos, visas, health certificates, itineraries, tickets, licenses, money, traveler's checks, and credit cards should be carried in a big, roomy handbag with a secure shoulder strap. Remember, you only have two hands.

★ ★ ★

Your clothes should be packed neatly and the bags chosen with care. Most of the light, sturdy bags on the market should do. But remember that bags take a beating. Size is also important. Some women favor the fold over, hanger type, while others find that they can get more into a pullman style case measuring about 28x20x9 inches.

EMERGENCY

As a second bag, a small matching over-nighter, or a firm, non-crushable hat box type is useful. A large make-up type of case, similar to those used by professional models, also has proved practical. Keep this smaller bag with you, when possible, and have in it whatever you might need in the event of an unscheduled layover or flight cancellation.

★ ★ ★

What to pack will, of course, depend on where you're going, what you plan to do, and how long you'll be away. Plan on clothes for sightseeing, shopping, sports, whether spectator or participating and evenings on the town.

Stain repellent or wash-wear fabrics are functional, as are prints and patterned fabrics which hide stains and colors of medium or darker hues. Separates have proven their versatility to experienced women travelers who find an outlet for their creativity in imaginative mix-and-match combinations.

Above all, common sense and forethought provide the keys to what the fashion-conscious female should carry with her.

What to buy is another problem. Again it will depend on where you are going and, inevitably, on the size of your budget. Here again common sense and the advice of a travel agent is your best ally.

Shop carefully, selectively, and hunt for real bargains. Remember that whatever you buy will have to look smart at home or at school as well as while you're on vacation. The white silk dress that looked perfect in Bermuda must also serve you in Detroit, Dallas, or Berkeley. Be sure it will.

★ ★ ★

Also, beware of "bargains." Plan what you're going to buy before you leave. Compare prices at home with those in the shops where you're vacationing, including fabric, fit and design. Remember that everything isn't always cheaper abroad and that American women, in general, dress better for less than women in most countries.

Newlyweds Honeymoon in Florida

Russell L. Simonson Jr. and his bride, (nee Jeanne Ann Shoots), have departed for a honeymoon trip to Florida following their wedding Saturday in First Methodist Church.

For the evening ceremony, the bride was attired in an A-line satin sheath and matching train accented with seed pearls. Her illusion veil was capped with a tiara.

Miniature white carnations and white roses comprised her bouquet.

★ ★ ★

Linda L. Burder and Robert Whaley assisted as honor attendants.

Other members of the wedding party were bridesmaids Mrs. Robert Whaley and Mrs. Jerry Smith, the bridegroom's sisters, with Bruce McArthur and Danny Simonson ushering.

RECEPTION

Prior to their departure to Florida, the newlyweds joined guests for a reception at Bemis-Olsen Amvets Hall Post 113.

Parents of the bridal couple are Mr. and Mrs. James O. Shoots and the Russell L. Simonsons, both of Clarkston.

Mother of Four Studies Medicine to Help Husband

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — In order to be able to help her doctor husband in work which takes him to all parts of the world, Mrs. Mollie Turpin, 39, and mother of four children ranging in age from 8 to 17, is studying medicine.

★ ★ ★

Now a second-year medical student at Woman's Medical College here, her decision to return to school was as momentous as the one her husband, Dr. James W. Turpin, made when he gave up a lucrative practice in California in 1961 to found Project Concern, Inc. It is a nonprofit relief organization that offers medical care to the needy in Hong Kong, Tijuana, Mexico and South Vietnam.

WHITHER THOU GOEST

Dr. Turpin is gone for months at a time, working, and his wife decided that becoming a doctor herself would be the way to help him most. "It would mean we could work together, no matter where he goes," she says.

Early Era Mail Plane

Last Flight for 249

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP) — Old No. 249, said to be the last of the early-era mail planes, will make its final cross-country flight from San Francisco to Washington for a place in the Smithsonian Institution.

The 50-year-old De Haviland DH4 biplane hasn't been flown since it crashed in the Wasatch Mountains near Coalville, Utah, on Dec. 15, 1922.

★ ★ ★

It was abandoned as a wreck after its pilot got out alive and hiked 36 hours through a blizzard.

J. W. "Bill" Hackbarth, a former mail plane pilot at Rock Springs, Wyo., went looking for the remains recently and piled 600 pounds of bits into a friend's jeep.

★ ★ ★

Helped by others of the 570 members of the Air Mail Pioneers from around the nation, "Old 249" is back together again.

Hackbarth, 67, a pilot-mechanic at the Santa Paula, Calif., airport, plans to fly the rebuilt craft to San Francisco and on April 10 begin to retrace the original mail run.

Grocer Kills Man in Row Over Beer

NEW YORK (AP) — A Manhattan grocer Sunday shot and killed a man who drew a gun when the grocer demanded payment for two cans of beer, police said.

Grocer Sam Goodwin, 55, told police he drew his own revolver from his pocket and fired when threatened by the other man.

The dead man's gun turned out to be a toy.

Pontiac General's Boss Respects Challenge

By L. GARY THORNE
Assistant City Editor—Suburban

Ten years have rolled by since that day, but Harold B. Euler still has respect for the challenge he accepted May 21, 1958.

That was the spring morning following the nearly all-night meeting of the board of trustees of Pontiac General Hospital at which the hospital's administrator — Carl I. Flath — was fired.

Euler, then a trustee, was delegated the task of relating the news to department heads and hospital employes.

The board had picked Euler, who had been a trustee for three years, to take over temporarily as the hospital's administrative chief. The job was made permanent three months later.

★ ★ ★

It was the challenge of the job that attracted Euler, then — at age 53 — a successful businessman. He had owned an operated for 20 years an estate management and tax consultant business in Pontiac. He since has liquidated it.

"I think it was the challenge (of the job)," Euler now says. "No one can realize or appreciate the conditions we found . . . it was a drastic reorganization."

2 COMPLETE CHANGE

Vocationally, it was a complete change for the silver-haired Euler, who exhibits a calm befitting a grandfather of five.

Did he hesitate at the change?

"I was so involved in the first few years I didn't think about the qualms," said the Pontiac General administrator.

Euler said he had been fortunate to acquire young people who "have stayed with me all the way. It's been a team effort."

★ ★ ★

When Euler assumed the reins of Pontiac General, the city-owned hospital was just going into a new addition. Another year-and-a-half was spent in modernizing the old building.

"I think it was a real important decision by the City Commission and the board to go ahead with the modernization," he explained, "otherwise we'd be operating as two different units —old and new."

And what has the last two years brought for Pontiac General?

"The general economic conditions of the area are responsible for the hospital's prosperity," said Euler, who is thankful for the hospital's image locally and nationally.

He explained that the "Pontiac Plan", a system for staffing the hospital's emergency room with doctors on a 24-hour basis, has gained nationwide recognition.

The last decade has also seen giant strides made in the improvement of patient care and an expansion of community services by the general hospital.

★ ★ ★

Euler cites as an illustration the hospital's early entrance into the mental health field in 1961.

Pontiac General has also innovated with the use of automation both in the business office and in the treatment of patients. Euler said a few visitors are now coming to view the hospital's automated business procedures.

Ten years ago Pontiac General had patient billings of about $3.5 million annually. Last year the total billings were about $10.7 million.

In 1958 there were 532 employes, while last year the hospital employed 966.

Euler indicates hospitals, including Pontiac General, can expect to continue to experience rising costs. In his tenure costs have risen an average of 6 per cent each year, according to the 62-year-old Euler.

★ ★ ★

Based on nationwide trends, however, Pontiac General costs have escalated slower than similar type hospitals. In 1967, for example, Euler said the national rise in costs was 15 per cent. Pontiac General, meantime experienced only a 13 per cent rise.

"Two-thirds of our cost is payroll," he explained. "And hospital wages are going to have to be brought up over the next couple of years."

Euler added that industry has about 25 per cent of its cost in payroll, compared to the hospital's two-thirds.

"We've attempted to automate everywhere possible, but even those technicians are expensive," concluded the veteran hospital chief.

Retirement?

It's two years away for Euler, who will soon celebrate his 63rd birthday. He was born on a farm at Bancroft.

Euler is not sure what he'll do when he reaches the hospital's mandatory retirement age of 65. A weekend golfer, he no longer hunts or fishes like he once did.

With Pontiac General undergoing another expansion program, Euler now is more concerned about having the new facilities available early this fall.

Death Valley, Calif., is a sunken desert.

Americans React to LBJ's No: 'Pretty Wonderful,' 'Tragic'

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans, some shocked into disbelief, reacted to President Johnson's announcement that he would not run again with comments ranging from "pretty wonderful" to "tragic."

"He made that announcement?" asked Joseph Kelley of Boston, when asked for his reaction to the President's surprise statement Sunday night.

"I don't believe you," Kelley said. "And if he did, I don't believe him. I'm skeptical about everything that man does."

Donald J. Cohen, an attorney from Manhattan, called Johnson's statement "very moving and tragic."

In San Francisco, however, Don Cote said "I was pleased . . . I think he believed he couldn't win if he did run . . ."

Irving Goldstein, also of San Francisco, disagreed, saying he was "shocked and sorry" that Johnson was not going to run. "It appears that his experience necessitates his continuing in office. I do not think any of the other candidates are qualified."

★ ★ ★

A high school teacher from Denver, Tom Radford, said "It was the closest thing he could do to ending the war. He made the offer at a time when criticism had come to a head in the Democratic party and from the citizenry. It will place the Democrats in a helter-skelter race."

Lack of public support was cited by other persons as a possible reason for Johnson's withdrawal. "As long as the people are not behind him," said Steve Slekovac of St. Petersburg, Fla., "he might as well give up and give somebody else a chance."

HE'S THROUGH

Charles P. Connell, a Manhattan lawyer, said "I think it was a wise decision . . . because of dissension among the people at large." He said he thought Johnson's decision would "have a benign effect on the conflict in Vietnam . . . He is sincere. He is through. He knows it."

Marion G. Newey of Brighton, Mass., said she did not know why Johnson decided not to run. "I can't decide whether he's afraid he'll lose or maybe is worn out," she said.

★ ★ ★

Another Massachusetts woman, Mrs. Joseph Rothernburg of West Roxbury, said she and her husband were "shocked. We're now listening to the tape again trying to soak it in. We felt Johnson was trying his best."

Several persons speculated about what effect Johnson's decisions will have on the political futures of Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota and Robert F. Kennedy of New York, who were challenging the President for the nomination.

William Ryan of Chicago said Johnson's announcement "frees the big Democratic machines in the cities to go for Kennedy or McCarthy. LBJ's withdrawal solves the problem of a fellow like Kennedy."

Disagreeing was Ezra Cornell of Manhattan. "The President's decision was one of the best possible political moves to destroy Robert Kennedy," he said.

★ ★ ★

"Kennedy was attacking Johnson on the basis of the war. Now what's Kennedy got to talk about?"

Jim Clary of Houston said he didn't know what Johnson's decision would mean politically.

"I was just floored," he said. "I think it is going to be a new picture. We'll just have to sit back and evaluate it like the announcer said on the radio."

PEACE TALKS

Others wondered what effect Johnson's stepping down would have on any possible peace talks with North Vietnam.

"I don't see how it will be possible for the North Vietnamese to negotiate with him now," said a Boston woman. "Why would the other side be bound by negotiations with a lame-duck president?"

It's a Year of Surprises

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's stunning decision to leave the White House at the end of his term is the biggest thunderbolt to flash from the political skies in a stormy year of astounding surprises.

With the primary season barely begun and only a handful of convention delegates chosen, three major candidates have quit the battle and a fourth, who was not expected to run at all, now is campaigning hard for the Democratic nomination.

★ ★ ★

Michigan Gov. George Romney was the first to confound the experts when he withdrew from the Republican nomination fight Feb. 28, just 12 days before the New Hampshire primary.

Facing certain defeat in his contest with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Romney said he was getting out because it was clear his candidacy had not won the wide acceptance he had hoped for.

Romney's departure seemed to clear the way for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to take up the race against Nixon.

Even the New Yorker's closest supporters seemed stunned when he announced at a March 21 news conference that he wouldn't run.

★ ★ ★

On the Democratic side, it was not a departure but an arrival that provided the biggest surprise before Johnson sent his shock wave through the world.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who began the year promising to support Johnson for renomination—and as late as Jan. 30 said he would not run against him "under any forseeable circumstances"—found the circumstances more to his liking after the strong New Hampshire primary showing of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Hotel Rates Cut; Copter Trips Planned

Greece Seeks to End Slump in Tourism

ATHENS (AP) — After a bad year in tourism Greece is cutting hotel rates and planning daily helicopter flights to Aegean islands.

Under a decree effective Monday, hotels must decrease their rates 20 per cent. In return, hotels will receive cuts in taxes and pay less for fuel oil and electricity.

★ ★ ★

Scandinavian countries are discouraging citizens from coming to Greece because a dictatorial regime is in power. Americans have been asked to reduce their expenditures abroad.

Travel agents say more Hollanders are coming, and they expect price lures to encourage other nationalities.

French helicopters seating 37 will fly to Delphi and several islands this summer. British planes will fly from London and Paris direct to Rhodes.

Greece depends on tourism to balance its trade deficits. There was a 30 per cent drop in visitors last year after the army took over the government.

Uneasy Coexistence

Fear and Hope Divide Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — In a city where the memory of burning buildings and death in the streets cannot be washed away by the spring rains, fear and hope divide an uneasy coexistence.

Fear has ridden rumor upon rumor from the suburbs to the city slums and back again, goading many people into buying guns for the first time in their lives.

* * *

The hand of fear has cranked out hate pamphlets and irresponsible reports. It has written what could be the preface for another bloody summer.

The people who are working day and night for a better summer live on hope—hope that plots, plans and spends money; hope that something as terrible as last July cannot happen again.

SIMILAR POSITION

In terms of actual preparations, by police and governmental agencies, the city and its neighboring towns are in no vastly different position this spring than they were one year ago.

The City of Detroit has spent nearly one-quarter of a million dollars on new police and fire equipment, including gas masks, ammunition and firearms. But there are no new plans for exotic equipment like tanks or flamethrowers.

* * *

The sheriff's committee of the Wayne County Board of Supervisors asked for $43,450 to buy riot control equipment such as shotguns, rifles, armored vests, shields and walkie-talkies; but the board has delayed the request indefinitely.

Detroit police and firemen have won a pay raise, making them, at $10,300 annually, the highest paid in the country. They hope it will attract the 389 policemen they are short of.

REBUILDING PLANS

There are rebuilding plans involving millions of dollars, all awaiting approval from the federal government. There are 28,400 more people working in the Detroit area than there were one year ago; but the influx of job seekers, lured by recruiting programs, has increased the jobless pool by 1,000 persons.

City police have proposed establishment of neighborhood centers to serve as on-the-street "action lines" where complaints could be reported and corrected.

And Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit has met with mayors of surrounding towns to establish a "hot line" type communications system to warn of impending trouble should rioters move from town to town.

At least two post-riot studies have indicated that the average rioter who looted, killed and burned last July was a lower middle class Negro—one with more than average education who had a job, probably a family.

The implication is that the Negro, once he has tasted middle class life, becomes aware of what he has missed for 300 years, what he is still missing, and what perhaps only a revolution will bring him.

Yet this middle class Negro, and his white counterpart who has become satiated with suburban pleasures, is not being reached according to a member of the New Detroit Committee. Richard F. Huegli, a member of the panel set up to direct riot recovery, said:

MORE GUN SALES

In Detroit, more guns have been registered since the riot — 7,422 of them — than during all of 1966.

And if the middle classes, black and white, aren't being communicated to by the community leaders, they are listening to the voice of rumor — to undocumented tales of planned black attacks on the suburbs and white retaliation in the inner city.

They are reading unattributed reports like this one, from a suburban-city weekly of 15,000 circulation in a white neighborhood:

* * *

"Snipers will travel residential streets sniping on small white children. Enough deaths will result in an armed white army moving on Detroit's inner city. The homeowner has other ideas. Arm. Prepare to defend. Make ready for the beginning of the end.

"This summer hundreds of Detroiters can be expected to perish if and when the riot comes off. Innocent Negroes will join innocent whites as casualties."

A Junior Editors Quiz About RAIN FORESTS

QUESTION: Why are certain woodlands called rain forests?

* * *

ANSWER: Forests seem to love rain. They seem to want to soak up water so the forest floor can remain damp. In doing this, they serve all of us, for forests hold water in, preventing disastrous floods and runoffs.

Many forests grow where there is a change in the seasons; that is, where a dry part of the year will be followed by one of rain. But there is a part of the world, north and south about 20 degrees from the equator, where the climate remains warm all the time and is very damp, except for those areas where special conditions have created deserts.

The fascinating, romantic woodlands in this belt are called tropical rain forests. They range from the great rain forests around the Amazon River in South America to rain forests in Africa, India and southeastern Asia.

Jaguars, tigers, monkeys, parrots and a great many unusual animals live in these forests. Do you see all the animals in our picture? There are nine.

Some interesting rain forests existing in a temperate zone are found in the American northwest, such as the area of the Olympic National Forest (shown in black). Moisture-laden winds blowing continually from the Pacific Ocean release rain as they break against the Cascade Mountains.

U.S. Expert Links Cold Winters, Tornadoes

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — A colder-than-normal winter may portend more tornadoes than usual in the United States this season, a weather specialist reports.

"There is slight evidence to the effect that following a severe winter there is a more than average outbreak of spring thunderstorms which spawn tornadoes," explained Nell Ward, research meteorologist at the National Severe Storm Laboratory.

"There's a good probability of more than an average number of tornadoes."

The "tornado season" opens in April and runs through June.

Ward said the temperature of the Gulf of Mexico rises faster than that of land and air from the Gulf flows strongly over the colder land mass, triggering rains and storms.

"This is an idea of mine and I have done a little research along this line," Ward asserted. "These conditions give us a potentially greater influx of Gulf air and account for our strong southerly winds in the spring."

The laboratory here, a branch of the Department of Commerce, has consolidated into Oklahoma its extensive ground network — which keeps tabs on upper air conditions — in the "tornado alley" states of Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas.

WATCHFUL EYE

Ward said the annual "roughrider" program will resume this year. This consists of aerial surveillance of thunderstorms and tornadoes by Air Force aircraft. England has been participating with planes in recent seasons.

"We are working with limited finances this season and have cut back some programs," Ward said. "However, we have radar equipment on hand and we'll be in full operation in this area.

* * *

Radar is used not only to locate twisters and thunderstorms but to analyze them.

Ward said forecasting tornadoes from a large number of thunderstorms seems remote at the present time, but "tornado cyclone" storms — those in which the entire system rotates — may prove to be predictable some day.

TORNADO SPOT

"Tornadoes," he said, "have favored positions in relation to thunderstorms. They usually are found on the southwest side of a thunderstorm complex."

The month of May is the "primary operating month" for tornadoes, Ward said.

Based on area, Oklahoma has the largest number of tornadoes, followed by Texas and Kansas. Seventy-four per cent of all twisters occur in April, May and June.

Tornadoes usually have a short life span but they are the most violent of all winds that sweep the planet, said the Environmental Science Services Administration — ESSA — at Kansas City.

ESSA reported an average of 638 tornadoes occurred in the United States from 1953 to 1967. Half of them were in April, May and June. The record was 898 tornadoes in 1965. Last year there were about 835.

Fresh Tomato Bounty

Ever hear of the Jerusalem Apple?

Thanks to the adventurous spirit of covered wagon pioneers and their hard working helpmates, this bright, red ripe vitamin C rich vegetable, more familiar to us as the tomato, made its appearance in abundance in western markets during the 1830's. So did mustard greens, onions, rhubarb, and turnips.

Vegetable gardens were planned and planted by far sighted settlers as soon as the family home site was selected. Busy frontier women, living in such no-nonsense places as "Seed-Tick" or "Big Tussle," learned early how excellently juicy tomatoes varied the monotony of salt pork and hominy fare.

They discovered that tomatoes were good prepared in so many different ways! Raw or cooked! Whether chilled, sliced and served with a dressing of vinegar, salt, and pepper—or baked in a green tomato pie. Tomatoes also added zip to meals in chili sauce and catsup.

To enable their families to enjoy the fruit during the winter, pioneer mothers pickled, preserved, pureed, and stewed. Tomatoes were stored in half gallon self-sealing glass jars. No longer is such work in the kitchen required. Now we can enjoy fresh tomatoes during all seasons of the year.

Today's vitamin and calorie-conscious homemakers, too, appreciate the bounty of fresh tomatoes.

To be in peak condition for today's market, tomatoes are handled tenderly as eggs at harvest time, being picked by hand with few mechanical aids.

Tomatoes team well with a host of other foods. "Baked Sea Food Neptune" is a prime example. The tomatoes are delicately complemented with shrimp, lobster, and crab meat.

"Salmon Tomato Triumph" describes the preparation of a salmon filling, presented between cut tomato slices in a novel sandwich effect!

Baked Sea Food Neptune

6 large tomatoes
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup grated carrots
2 tablespoons fresh minced onion
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3/4 cup coarsely chopped cooked shrimp (1 package (7-ounces) frozen shelled shrimp)
1 package (8-ounces) frozen king crab meat, flaked
1 cup coarsely chopped cooked lobster
3 tablespoons dry sherry (optional)
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
2 tablespoons fine bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Cut 1/4 inch slice from stem end of each tomato. Scoop out pulp to make a hollow cup; reserve tomato pulp. Saute green pepper, carrots, and onion in 1/4 cup butter or margarine 5 minutes; stir in flour, salt, sugar, and pepper. Add reserved tomato pulp. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture thickens and boils. Add sea food, sherry, and parsley. Pile into tomato cups. Place in shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with bread crumbs; dot with 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Bake in 375°F. oven about 15 minutes, or until thoroughly heated. Makes 6 servings.

Salmon Tomato Triumph

2 cans (7-3/4 ounces each) salmon, drained
1/4 cup chopped celery
2 teaspoons chopped dill
1 teaspoon fresh minced onion
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 medium-large tomatoes

Combine salmon, celery, dill, and onion in a bowl. Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice, and salt; lightly mix into salmon mixture. Just before serving, cut tomatoes into thirds crosswise. Fill with salmon salad. Serve with lettuce, as desired. Makes 4 servings.

Tiger Bats Boom in Weekend Tilts

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

LAKELAND, Fla. — The Tigers came back.

In fact, they used their power to come back twice to defeat the Atlanta Braves and St. Louis Cardinals by the same score in a pair of weekend games, amid rumors that a trade was in the making.

★ ★ ★

Norm Cash slugged two home runs Saturday afternoon to drive in four runs as the Tigers won 6-5 and yesterday it was a smashing liner down the left field line by pinch hitter Wayne Comer in the 12th inning off Midland's Larry Jaster for the 6-5 triumph.

The Tigers were outhit in both games, but the home run ball was the difference.

Starter Steve Carlton, who had pitched 11 straight scoreless innings in two partial exhibition appearances prior to yesterday, had his streak broken in the first inning when Mickey Stanley climaked a four-run outburst with a 375-foot homer with Al Kaline and Willie Horton on base.

★ ★ ★

The first run scored when Carlton was charged with a balk permitting Ray Oyler to come home from third.

2 CASUALTIES

Although he gave up only four hits in six innings Carlton was wild and had the Tigers hitting the dirt several times. He hit Don Wert with a pitch in the first inning, and then hit Cash on the right elbow in the third frame.

Ed Mathews had to replace Wert at third, and Lennie Green ran for Cash, and then replaced him at first base. Both players had bad bruises according to trainer Bill Behm.

Tiger starter Joe Sparma set 12 Cardinals down in order, helped by a double play in the fourth inning. But in the fifth frame, a double by Ed Spiezo and single by Dick Schofield produced a run.

Schofield had two hits in the game for St. Louis, and ironically, it was his name which was mentioned in a trade rumor.

The 33-year-old shortstop is not listed on the Cardinals' roster and the rumor was that St. Louis was offering him to Detroit for a relief pitcher.

Saturday, the rumor was that Kansas was making overtures for Cash, but nothing came of it.

The Cardinals made it 4-2 in the sixth inning yesterday when Bob Tolan and Curt Flood started the inning with singles and Tolan scored on an infield out by Joe Hague, who replaced Orlando Cepeda in the lineup.

ROUND TRIPPER

Horton, who was still bothered with the bruised shoulder, blasted a round tripper off Carlton in the sixth inning to make it 5-2.

The Cards really lambasted rookie Bob Reed, the University of Michigan student in the eighth inning.

Reed, who was in camp on a 10-day leave from his classes at Michigan, showered and was on his way back to Ann Arbor after he was shelled for three runs and four hits in the eight inning.

Hague, Phil Gagliano and Spiezo each got singles to drive in the runs in the inning.

Rookie Jon Warden entered the game in the ninth inning. He gave up three hits, but he struck out the side in the 11th inning, and he whiffed five batters in his four innings. He received credit for the victory.

Jaster was effective from the time he started in the ninth inning following Hal Gilson, but he walked pinch hitter Bill Freehan to start the 12th frame.

Comer, pinch hitting for Warden, attempted a bunt the first time and when Card third baseman Spiezo moved in, along the third base line, Comer almost tore his head off with the smash which hugged the line and allowed Freehan to score from first with the winning run.

Mickey Lolich, who started Saturday, had six strikeouts in his five innings, but the Tigers had to come back twice to beat the Braves and then hold on in the final inning for the win.

In regard to the trade rumor, the Cardinals indicated they might be interested in Hank Aguirre or Pat Dobson for Schofield.

Schofield had his finest hour with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1960 when he helped them to the pennant with a .333 batting average in 60 games and an average of .425 in the stretch drive that season.

The Tigers showed very little interest in the Cardinals' offer, although there was interest in knowing what Atlanta was ready to offer for Brown.

It seems apparent that Comer will be kept when the team breaks for Detroit Sunday which means that Brown would be expendable, especially with Green in the picture.

AGUIRRE SOLD

On the personnel front, the Tigers today announced the sale of veteran left-hander Hank Aguirre to Los Angeles for an undiscloset amount of cash and a minor league player to be named by Thursday.

He pitched in four games this season, yielding eight hits and four runs in 10 innings.

In regard to the trade rumor, the Cardinals indicated they might be interested in Dennis Ribant for Schofield. Ribant was acquired from Pittsburgh in exchange for Dave Wickersham.

DOWN TO EARTH — Coach Bill Russell of Boston's Celtics reaches out to control a loose ball as he and Detroit's Jim Barry Dischinger fall to the floors in their battle for the ball in the first period of their National Basketball Association game in Boston yesterday. Celtics won, 110-96.

Pistons Facing Do-or-Die Tilt Against Celtics

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons have their backs to the wall.

A four-minute scoring spree Sunday gave the Boston Celtics a 110-96 victory and a 3-2 lead over Detroit in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series.

★ ★ ★

The loss forces the Pistons to win tonight's game at Cobo Arena to stay in contention for the Eastern Division finals.

The Pistons, with Dave DeBusschere showing the way on a 16-point first half performance, led by a point, 50-49, at the half. Then NBA scoring champion Dave Bing, who was limited to three free throws over the first half, paced Detroit to a five-point lead through the middle stages of the third period.

But Boston's veteran cornermen Bailey Howell and Don Nelson took charge with two and a half minutes remaining in the quarter, controlling the rebounding under both boards, and broke the game open with their scoring.

BRIEF SURGE

The twosome ran up seven points apiece in the brief surge that ended with the Celtics on top by seven points and pulling steadily away.

Howell, with 30 points, and Sam Jones with 24 more, paced the Boston attack while seven of Nelson's 11 points came in the decisive rally.

DeBusschere's 26 topped the Detroit shooters. Bing tied with Eddie Miles at 18 each and rookie Jimmy Walker netted 16 in the losing cause.

In other games, the defending champion Philadelphia 76ers took a 3-2 lead over New York with a 123-105 victory, Los Angeles clinched its series against Chicago in five games by rumping the Bulls 122-99 and St. Louis routed San Francisco 129-103 to keep its playoff hopes alive.

GREEN SHINES

Philadelphia's Johnny Green, a Michigan State alumnus, came off the bench to score 16 points in the victory over the Knicks. Green, 34, was a member of the new San Diego Rockets when Philadelphia acquired him to fill in their front-court reserve. The deal proved to be a wise one.

Hal Greer paced the 76ers attack with 38 points, but it was Green's play, particularly in the third quarter when Philadelphia outscored New York 36-24, that proved the difference.

Elgin Baylor scored 15 of his 37 points in the third period, when Los Angeles outscored Chicago 34-19, to help the Lakers make quick work of the Bulls and advance to the Western Division finals. Jerry West added 23 points and Archie Clark had 20 for the Lakers while Jim Washington led Chicago with 24.

★ ★ ★

Bill Bridges and Lou Hudson combined for 54 points as St. Louis, on the brink of elimination, won its second game in five playoff tries against San Francisco. The Warriors, trailing 35-20 after the opening quarter, were never in contention as their high scorer Jeff Mullins, who hit for 130 points in the first four games against the Hawks, was held to 12.

Red Wings Play 5-5 Tie

Stan Mikita Scoring Champ

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stan Mikita and the St. Louis Blues have won the final skirmishes of the National Hockey League's longest season.

Thursday night, an all-out war of attrition begins on four NHL fronts—with Mikita and the Blues in the thick of it.

Chicago's Mikita struck for his 40th goal and two assists Sunday night in the Black Hawks' 5-5 tieless marathon deadlock with Detroit and wrapped up individual scoring title for the fourth time in five years.

The Blues, meanwhile, trimmed Minnesota 5-3 and beat out the North Stars for third place in the West Division—the last spot up for grabs in the expanded 12-team circuit.

In other season finales, New York topped Montreal's East Division champs 4-2; Pittsburgh flattened Philadelphia's expansion West Division titlists 5-1; and Toronto downed Boston 4-1.

PLAYOFF PAIRINGS

Sunday's action brought the curtain down on the 74-game regular schedule and set up the following pairings for Thursday night's openers in the Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals:

East Division—Boston at Montreal; Chicago at New York.

West Division—St. Louis at Philadelphia; Minnesota at Los Angeles.

Mikita, whose 97 points last season matched the all-time record set by teammate Bobby Hull in 1965-66, finished with 87 Sunday night, staving off late challenges by Boston's Phil Esposito and Detroit marvel Gordie Howe.

The Black Hawks spotted Detroit a 3-0 lead in the first period and then scrambled back to tie the Red Wings 5-5.

★ ★ ★

Detroit led 4-3 at the start of the final period, but Doug Mohns pulled Chicago even at 12:39. Dean Prentice of the Red Wings put Detroit ahead 5-4 at 14:46 while Detroit's Gary Jarrett was serving a penalty. However, 12 seconds later Mikita sent a bouncing shot from the point past Detroit ace Roger Crozier.

Prentice netted the Wings' only goal Saturday night when they lost to New York, 3-1, in their home finale.

Esposito scored his 38th goal in Sunday night's tie to Toronto and Boston now has three with 38 points, three behind Mikita. Howe celebrated his 40th birthday in the last game of his 22nd NHL season, scored the 545th goal of his career and moved into a tie with Bobby Hull for second place in all-time goal scoring. Howe is third with 544 goals.

The scoring crown will net Mikita a $1,000 league bonus.

Johnson Paces Huron Victory

Pontiac Central has a new track coach but the team is still in a rut.

★ ★ ★

But it's a pleasant rut, though, a winning one.

Coach Roger Shepler, who took over the Chiefs after veteran Dean Wilson left it to move up to an administrative post, picked up where Wilson left off Saturday as he guided the squad to victory in the 14th annual Huron Relays at Ypsilanti.

It was a remarkable debut for Shepler, who watched as the Chiefs rolled up 44 points to nose out pre-meet favorite Flint Central, the defending champion which came up with 38.

★ ★ ★

Four meet records were broken during the relays, which attracted athletes from 71 schools in Michigan, Ohio and Ontario.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs and Waterford Township produced two of the top outstanding individuals in the meet.

★ ★ ★

Senior Bob Johnson, who ran behind national champ Bill Tipton—now a freshman at Eastern Michigan University—last year, led the Chiefs to victory.

He won two events, the long jump with a leap of 21-feet-8½-inches and the 65-yard high hurdles in eight seconds, and anchored the winning shuttle hurdle relay team. With Johnson on the relay team were Roland Garcia, Cary Wiley and Horace Davis.

★ ★ ★

Waterford's Larry Biskner checked in with a record-breaking performance in the pole vault. He soared 14-feet-1¾-inches, well better than the old mark of 13-feet-2½-inches set by Jerry Klyop of Elyria, O., last year.

★ ★ ★

Among the other top teams in the event were Flint Northern and Ecorse, 34 points apiece; Jackson Parkside 25, Birmingham Seaholm and Dearborn, 22; Midland and Waterford 21; Ypsilanti, Romulus and Lansing Everett, 17.

VAULTER SOARS

The Chiefs scored in one doubtful area and lost points in a 'sure' thing in other events. Senior Walter Terry, who stayed out of pole vaulting for a year because of a knee injury, was a surprise as he turned in a leap of 13 feet to finish second to Biskner. Terry also ran a 2:02 anchor leg on the medley relay team. Jon Costello, one of the area's best distance runners, led at the halfway mark in the mile run but he dropped from the race bacause he was having trouble breathing.

★ ★ ★

Herb Washington turned in a record-breaking effort of 6.2 seconds in the 60-yard dash. The old mark of 6.3 was held by Washington, Bob Manning (Pontiac Central 1958) and Henry Weaver (Mansfield, O., 1961).

★ ★ ★

Ecorse won the mile relay in 3:28.7, topping the old mark of 3:28.9 set by Flint Central in 1966, and the other record broken came in the sprint medley where Dearborn was clocked in 3:38.9, way ahead of the record of 3:40.7 set last year by Mount Clemens.

★ ★ ★

Gene Pankner of Waterford Kettering flipped the shot 54-feet-3¼-inches to place second in that event.

North Farmington had a couple of good performances. John Mann placed second in the high jump with a leap of 6-feet-2-inches, while junior Rick Randall was clocked in 4:29.2 to place second in the mile.

★ ★ ★

Senators Wrap Up Sweep Against Senior Circuit

By the Associated Press

The National League has parted company with the Washington Senators. It's the best thing that's happened to the National League all spring.

Washington pushed over an unearned run in the eighth inning Sunday and edged the Houston Astros 3-2, completing an 11-game exhibition sweep over National League opposition.

★ ★ ★

The victory gave the Senators an overall record of 15-5—best in the exhibition circuit.

Bernie Allen singled in the eighth, moved around to third on two infield outs and scored the winning run on one of three errors committed by Hector Torres, the Astros' rookie shortstop. Ken McMullen delivered the other Washington runs with a homer and sacrifice fly.

Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's All-star third baseman, was hit below the left ear by a Steve Blass pitch in the fifth inning of Pittsburgh's 3-1 victory over the Orioles. Robinson, who was wearing an ear flap on his batting helmet, escaped serious injury but will miss tonight's against the Senators.

Cincinnati pounded the New York Yankees 8-2, scoring seven runs off Mel Stottlemyre in the first three innings. Mel Queen, who blanked New York on two hits through five frames, was the winner.

Tommy Davis' three-run homer and the shutout pitching of Bob Priddy, Bob Locker, Wilbur Wood and Don McMahon led the Chicago White Sox to a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia, ending the Phils' winning streak at five games.

★ ★ ★

Detroit, Minnesota and California won extra innings struggles.

Rod Carew's 12th-inning homer gave the Twins a 3-2 nod over Boston. Elston Howard drove in the Red Sox runs with a single and homer.

Ths Angels spotted Cleveland two runs in the top of the 11th, then rallied in the bottom of the inning for a 6-5 victory on run-scoring singles by Jay Johnstone, Rick Reichardt and Chuck Hinton.

Los Angeles clipped Ron Herbel for six runs in the first three innings and held off San Francisco 9-7 despite homers by the Giants' Willie McCovey and Jackie Hiatt.

★ ★ ★

Atlanta rookie Ron Reed scattered four hits through seven innings and reliever Claude Raymond completed a seven-hit, 2-0 victory for the Braves over the New York Mets, who have been blanked twice in a row and six times.

The Indians' B squad peppered Ken Holtzman for six runs in five innings and ripped the Chicago Cubs 9-2 while the White Sox Bs edged Oakland 4-3 on Rich Severson's RBI single in the 10th inning.

Gym Title for Iowa

CHICAGO (AP) — Iowa will represent the Big Ten in the NCAA gymnastics championships at Tucson, Ariz., next week. The Hawkeyes defeated Michigan and Michigan State in a playoff Saturday. Iowa had 189.8 points to 187.6 for Michigan and 184.4 for MSU.

★ ★ ★

Tony Townson of MSU won the floor exercise, teammate Dave Thor won on the parallel bars and Michigan's Dave Jacobs took the trampoline.

Don May Withdraws

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Don May, who led the Dayton Flyers to the National Invitation Tournament championship, has withdrawn from the Olympic basketball team tryouts, citing physical exhaustion.

He is the latest of several basketball stars to skip the Olympics in Mexico City next fall.

Cougar Goalie Hurt as Team Drops Opener

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Cougars lost more than the opening game of the North American Soccer League Saturday 2-1 at Atlanta. Ace goal keeper Jim Standen was hurt in the 44th minute of the first half and Sunday was fitted with a cast from his upper thigh down to his left ankle.

Standen turned in four shutouts in Jamaica and Haiti as the Cougars won nine of 10 recent exhibitions. A spokesman for the team said Standen will return to Ford Hospital in Detroit Monday. It won't be known until then how long he'll be out of action.

He suffered a ligament injury when he collided with Atlanta Chiefs player Jim McParland.

Substitute Dick Howard allowed the two Chiefs' goals. McParland and Graham Newton scored the Atlanta goals. Lars Heinemann scored Detroit's goal.

★ ★ ★

Two other Cougars were injured, although not seriously. They are Tommy Coakley, with a shoulder injury, and Dick Kaminke, with an injured calf muscle.

The Oakland Clippers defeated the Boston Beacons 2-1 Sunday, and the San Diego Toros beat Kansas City 3-0.

Cool Briton Breaks Ice on PGA Tour

By F. T. MacFEELY

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Not since Ted Ray took the U.S. Open in 1920 had an English golfer won a major American tournament.

Then along came Tony Jacklin, quietly happy Tony Jacklin of the greater Jacksonville open Sunday. He admitted he utilized "Arnie's Army" as his own battery-charger to a 15-under-par 273 and the $20,000 first money.

A golfer with ice water in the veins—the kind that wins and wins and becomes great.

★ ★ ★

At the age of 23, Jacklin is a winner with every promise of joining the ranks of the great—which he thinks of as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Ben Hogan, but with no idea of patterning himself after any one of them.

He said he was nervous, but he never showed it as he faced down Palmer in the final round the man most likely to be his nation's next sports hero.

When the PGA tour stopped at Pensacola a week earlier, Jacklin stumbled to a second-place finish after being on the verge of winning. It might have been the same story at Jacksonville when he bogeyed the 14th and 15th holes on the final round, cutting in half his four-stroke lead.

"Right after I bogeyed those two holes, where I used the wrong clubs, I pushed my drive the next hole to the left," he said. "I thought to myself, 'Don't do anything foolish,' and when I got to the ball, I found it was in perfect position."

PGA FIRST

It was the first time a golfer from England had ever won on the Professional' Golfers Association tour.

Even before Jacklin hit the jackpot, Player was calling him potentially the greatest English golfer since Henry Cotton and

IRON SHOT

He reached the green, 10 feet from the cup and barely missed a birdie. On the 17th he put an iron shot eight feet from the pin and got the birdie.

Long before, Palmer had dropped out of contention after starting the day one stroke in back of Jacklin. Doug Sanders, who couldn't match his golf strokes to his fire-engine-red wardrobe, faded after holding at least a share of the lead through three rounds.

Sanders' 73, with the help of a 40-foot finishing putt, tied him for second at 275 with Don January, Gardner Dickinson, Chi Chi Rodriguez and DeWitt Weaver Jr. Each collected $6,520.

Pontiac Loses State Cage Title at Buzzer

A heartbreaking finish was handed Pontiac's Club 1 Spot Saturday night after it carried its bid for a state recreation basketball title further than any other recent city men's championship team.

The Pontiac quintet gunned down Battle Creek, 90-80 in the state semifinals Saturday afternoon at Dearborn Edsel Ford High School, but dropped a 71-69 title clash to Detroit.

Mark Muhlada's fourth field goal of the game dropped through at the buzzer to hand the Detroiters the victory.

Pontiac's hopefuls had rallied from a 21-16 deficit to take a 37-35 lead at the intermission. Fred Davis scored all of his eight points in the losers' big second quarter surge.

The foul line proved the downfall for Pontiac. It outshot the winners, 29-24 from the field. Larry Edwards, who led the Pontiac scoring with 18 points, made only two of seven free throws as the clubmen hit just 11 charity tosses.

Merv Gallop, who tallied 28 in Detroit's close semifinal win over Flint, hit 13 of 17 foul shots and led all scorers in the title game with 27 points.

Boy Follows Tennis Rule to Showers

MIAMI (UPI) — There's an iron-clad rule in tennis to keep your eye on the ball. One boy did, and wound up in a shower room full of squealing nude girls.

J. Emory Dykes, principal of Ponce de Leon Junior High, explained how it happened last Friday:

Sems the boy, not identified because "he'll take enough kidding as it is," was taking tennis lessons and knocked the ball onto the roof of the school.

He went up to get it, keeping his eye on the ball.

"He did not notice where he was walking" and he fell feet-first through a plastic skylight into the shower room, Dykes said.

Detroit Wins Bantam Title

Sharp Hockey Unit Blanks Final Foe

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Detroit retained its national Bantam Hockey title Sunday by stinging Edina, Minn., 5-0 behind a relentless attack by wingers Mike Dunville and Paul Miller, each scoring twice.

The ultimate fate of the game was determined in a 46-second span of the middle session when first Dunville and then Miller broke through for Detroit goals.

★ ★ ★

Detroit's final goal came at the 2:28 mark of the third period on a rifle shot off the stick of Mark Howe, son of NHL star Gordie Howe, on a power play to make it 4-0. Miller closed out the Detroit scoring with an unassisted goal at 12:28.

Detroit had 55 shots on the Edina goal, while Edina managed only 24 on Motor City goalie Dennis Declerco.

Detroit whipped Edina 4-2 in the finals at Lancaster, Pa., to win the title last year.

Detroit '6' Wins

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — Detroit Burton Title skated to a 5-0 shutout over the Sault Ste Marie VFW Chippewas Sunday to win the National Juvenile Hockey Championship. Seven teams competed in the weekend finals, with Detroit's representative sweeping its three games.

One Vote for Most Valuable

Cesar Didn't Mean to Cause Trouble

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Cesar Tovar is sorry he caused all that trouble.

He didn't mean to. He doesn't like to make waves.

★ ★ ★

Minnesota's dandy, little handy andy was highly honored by that one top vote he got for MVP, but if its all the same to Max Nichols, Cesar would've voted for Carl Yastrzemski and made it unanimous.

That's Cesar Tovar. But that's not Billy Martin.

Martin coaches for the Twins and the first thing he says to do is put it right up there in big letters that he thinks ballplayers don't come much better than Yaz. The second thing Martin says is he agrees with Max Nichols. He also would've voted Cesar Tovar No. 1 in the American League's MVP poll for 1967.

ONE VOTE SHORT

For the background on this you have to go back to last fall.

★ ★ ★

Orlando Cepeda, the Cardinal's' strong boy drew the unanimous votes of 20 baseball writers as the National Leagues MVP and it was generally expected Yastrzemski would do the same over in the American.

But when they finished counting the ballots Yaz had only 19 first-place votes. Cesar Tovar had the other one. It came from Max Nichols, a newspaperman and a darn good one, for the Minneapolis Star.

When the results were announced they caused more pro and con than the New Hampshire primary. Which game was Max Nichols looking at? Didn't he know a great ballplayer when he saw one? And who was this Cesar Tovar?

★ ★ ★

Well, Cesar Tovar happens to be a quiet, little 150-pounder from Venezuela who looks as if an ordinary gust of wind can blow him over. It can't. And it didn't last year when he played in every one of the Twins' 164 games. They don't make 'em like that any more.

But that wasn't all. Tovar played six different positions, everything but pitch, catch and first base, and checked in with a .267 average that included 32 doubles, seven triples, six homers and 47 runs batted in. He tacked on 19 stolen bases for good luck.

"If you followed our ball club all year, you could see why Max Nichols voted for Tovar," says Billy Martin. "I woul've voted for him, too. What if we'd have won the pennant? Look, Yaz had a great year, a fantastic one. But if we won, Tovar would've been the one who did it for us, the same way Yaz did it for Boston.

"The way I saw it, I'd have to vote for Tovar as the MVP. To the Red Sox, no doubt, Yastrzemski was the MVP. Probably to the rest of the league also. But when you're talking about the Twins, Cesar Tovar was the most vaulable player."

Tovar wound up tied for seventh place in the overall MVP balloting with 70 points to Yaz's 272. During the time of the voting last fall, Tovar was minding his own business playing winter ball in Caracas.

"Eet make me feel good," he says about that one top vote." Geeve me confeedence. But Yaz, he have great year and do everything. Eeeef I vote, I vote for him first."

Cranbrook Splits Twinbill in Closing Spring Trek

Special to The Press

CINCINNATI — Although held to four hits in each game, Cranbrook managed a split Saturday with Reading to conclude its annual preseason baseball jaunt with a 2-4 record.

Varsity newcomer "Howdy" Jones was tough in the clutch and trimmed the host team, 7-4, in the opener to register his second mound conquest on the Cranes' trip.

But the Cranbrook pitching and defense collapsed in the nightcap and the Cranes couldn't protect a pair of two-run leads in dropping a 7-3 decision.

Dirk Dieters, the Cranbrook shortstop, had a big game in the opener, scoring three times, singling three times and driving in one run. Jeff DeLorme's double tied the score and he tallied the winning run on Rod Fonda's singles.

Skip Meier drove in two runs with a double and Sandy Heavenrich doubled home the third marker as the visitors took 2-0 and 3-1 leads in the nightcap.

Muskegon Six Makes Finals of IHL Series

By the Associated Press

The high-flying Muskegon Mohawks can relax for a week and watch Dayton and Fort Wayne battle for the right to meet them in the Turner Cup playoff finals of the International Hockey League.

Muskegon defeated Columbus 4-2 Sunday to sweep the best-of-seven semifinal series in four straight games.

★ ★ ★

Dayton, sparked by Cliff Bristow's hat trick, beat Fort Wayne 5-3 Sunday, tying their playoff series at two games each.

Dayton and Fort Wayne play the fifth game in their series Tuesday night in Troy, Ohio.

★ ★ ★

In the Mohawks-Checkers battle, Muskegon snapped a 1-1 tie with three goals in the third period. Ken Kelly, Brian McLay and the Brewer brothers, Carl and Jack, scored for the Mohawks. Ken Saunders and Jules Bouchard fired in goals for the Checkers.

★ ★ ★

The game was played in Port Huron because a circus was appearing at the Columbus stadium.

★ ★ ★

Dayton never trailed in its victory over Fort Wayne. Bob Regis and Barry Merrell each scored for the Gems in addition to Bristow's three-goal feat. Merv Dubchak, Reg Primeau and Randy Gates tallied for Fort Wayne.

Rules, Tactics Limit Cagers

Olympic Hopefuls Ready for Tryouts

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Adapting to international rules remains the biggest hurdle U.S. Olympic basketball candidates must overcome, according to Coach Henry Iba.

"They have to be more aggressive on that board play," Iba said, "and they don't know how to foul for profit yet."

★ ★ ★

Iba made his remarks Saturday after the West beat the East 95-88 in the annual college all-star game held this year in conjunction with the Olympic pretrials.

Both teams, along with the Central and College Division teams of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which also worked out here last week, went to Albuquerque, N.M., Sunday.

OTHER SQUADS

The four squads, plus teams from the Amateur Athletic Union, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, the National Junior College Athletic Association and the Armed Forces, will practice today through Wednesday. They will play three games each in a round-robin competition in the Olympic selection tournament Thursday through Saturday.

★ ★ ★

The Olympic team of 12 and six alternates is expected to be announced Sunday.

Unser Hits Top as Fuel Reaches Bottom in Race

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N. M. ran out of fuel at the checkered flag but still captured the Stardust 150-mile race Sunday, second stop on the United States Auto Club championship trial.

Unser drove his rear engine Eagle Ford to victory after Mario Andretti ran out of fuel with five laps to go.

State Hall of Fame Adds Trio

DETROIT (UPI) — University of Michigan all time great football player and coach Harry G. Kipke, star hockey player Ebbie R. Goodfellow and the late John H. Kobs, for Michigan State baseball coach are the latest Michigan sports figures to be honored by the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame.

The three will be inducted during ceremonies in Cobo Hall May 21 during Michigan Week and bring to 60 the number of honorees enshrined in the Hall of Fame.

They were selected by the state's sports writers and broadcasters.

Kipke starred at the University of Michigan in football, basketball and baseball from 1921 to 1924 and later returned to his alma mater for a nine-year coaching stint beginning in 1929. His all-time Michigan coaching record was 46 victories, 26 losses and five ties.

Goodfellow played 14 seasons with the Detroit Red Wings, both as a forward and a defenseman, and ran up a total of 324 points on 134 goals and 190 assists.

He was the first Red Wing to win the Hart trophy as the National Hockey League's "most valuable player" in 1940.

Kobs, before his death last January, spent 43 years on the Michigan State athletic staff, 39 as head baseball coach.

★ ★ ★

With only four losing seasons, his Spartan baseball squads ran up a record of 557 wins and 364 losses.

Olympics Next for Hoosiers

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Indiana coach Doc Counsilman knows his newly-crowned NCAA swimming champions can't make the Olympics en masse, but he wants them all to try.

"I'm not going to single out Olympic prospects," Counsilman said after his charged-up Hoosiers ended long years of frustration by making a runaway of the 1968 NCAA meet.

★ ★ ★

"We want every boy to train for the trials as long as he has the slightest ghost of a chance —and we think everyone on the team has that," added the veteran mentor who coached the U.S. Olympic team to its smashing success in 1964.

One Hoosier ace whose chances seem more corporeal than spectral has to be Charlie Hickcox, the meet's individual star with three record-breaking victories. The 21-year-old junior from Phoenix, Ariz., lowered American standards with a 1:52.5 clocking in the 200-yard individual medley and a :52.1 in defending his 100-yard backstroke crown, then erased his own NCAA and meet marks with a 1:54.6 effort to retain the 200-yard backstroke title.

ONE GOAL

Asked which event or events he hoped to qualify for in the Olympic trials this summer Hickcox said: "Anything I can possibly get in, I just want to make that team, sir. That's my goal."

The feats of Hickcox and his teammates dominated over-all competition in the three-day meet at Dartmouth University, but UCLA's Mike Burton turned in the biggest single highlight with a historic smashing of the 16-minute barrier in the 1,650-yard freestyle.

★ ★ ★

The 5-foot-9 "Mighty Mite" churned to a 15:59.4 clocking on Saturday's closing night. The feat, comparable to the sub four minute mile in track, erased his own record of 16:08 set a year ago.

"I had no idea I was going that fast until the finish," Burton said.

Burton's teammate Zac Zorn was another individual standout, successfully defending his 50-yard freestyle crown and then setting an American record of :45.3 in the 100.

ELI STAR

Don Schollander of Yale, also pointing for the Olympics and a chance to add to the four gold medals he won at Tokyo in 1964, won the 200-yard freestyle and anchored relay teams which set American records of 3:04.9 in the 400-yard freestyle race and 6:50.7 in the 800-yard freestyle.

The big story of the meet, though, had to be the victory of the long-thwarted Hoosiers, who had won just about every other honor in Counsilman's 10 years at the helm only to miss out on the top prize. For three years (1961-63) a football probation prevented Indiana from competing, then the Hoosiers finished second by heartbreaking margins the next three years and third in 1967.

When Bob Porter got fed up designing parts and pieces for other people's projects, he came to us. And got R&D projects of his own.

We need more people like Bob Porter at Mattel. Young engineers with ambition. Young engineers who know they've got the ability to take charge of consumer product development.

And want the chance to prove it.

We need them because Mattel is expanding faster than most companies ever dream of. With new ideas, new markets, new products. (More than 50% of our line is new every year.)

Right now, we need:

PROJECT ENGINEERS to direct their own project team through the entire consumer product development cycle.

DESIGN SPECIALISTS to take responsibility for the development of small, unusual mechanisms.

PRODUCIBILITY ENGINEERS to supervise projects from manufacturing design stage through engineering pilots.

What does it take to get one of those jobs?

A mechanical engineering background is best. Plus a familiarity with various mass production techniques. And a degree.

But what really counts is the ability to control a project. To make decisions. To work within real time and budget parameters.

In return, we can promise you an excellent salary, plus plenty of financial incentives, including profit sharing and stock option opportunities.

And we can promise you one more thing. Southern California is a great place to live. And raise a family.

Sound good? Then write today, in complete confidence, to Charles Raber, Manager of Professional Employment.

Ashe, Emerson Critical

Tennis Decree Lacks Support

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the world's top players, Roy Emerson and Arthur Ashe, predicted today that the International Lawn Tennis Federation's plan to create a new category — the authorized player — would not work.

"It seems awful complicated to me—I don't think it will work," said Emerson, the veteran Australian who has won all the world's top amateur titles, some several times.

★ ★ ★

"It's ridiculous. I don't think it will last six months," said Ashe, Negro member of the U.S. Davis Cup Team.

Ashe, a lieutenant in the U.S. Army, upset the top-seeded Emerson 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, Saturday night for the men's crown in the Garden Challenge Trophy Tournament.

PRO CONTRACT

It was Emerson's last appearance as an amateur. Today in Los Angeles he is slated to sign a pro contract guaranteeing him $100,000 a year for three years.

The women's title went to Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., who defeated Judy Tegart of Australia 7-5, 7-5. The little Texas girl scored a smashing upset in the semifinal over world amateur queen Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., who also signs a pro contract today for a guaranteed $80,000 over two years.

★ ★ ★

Shortly before the players took the court for the Garden final, the ILTF in Pairs approved a limited number of open tournaments and decided on three categories of players.

They are pros, who play for money, authorized players, top amateurs who can demand appearance and expense money, and pure amateurs, who are supposed to play for the fun of it.

★ ★ ★

"What does that mean?" Ashe asked. "Does it mean that authorized players can still demand money to show up for a tournament? Do they include this on their income tax? What is the difference between an authorized player and a pro?"

"I think it would be better if we have no classification at all," suggested Emerson. "A guy or a girl would just be a player. They would be paid expenses for playing in a tournament.

Boys' Club Five State Champs

The Auburn Heights Boys Club's entry won the state boys' club Intermediate Basketball Championship Saturday at Detroit with a 30-26 victory over Lansing.

★ ★ ★

Coached by Walt Hasler and Harold Hooker, the AHBC quintet had eliminated defending champion Pontiac in the seminfinals, 63-62, and then gained its first state hoop crown behind the 13-point scoring of Dan Avery.

FALLEN RANGER — Goalie Ed Giacomin of New York lies sprawled on the ice after failing in a bid to stop Ralph Backstrom (6) of Montreal, who raises his stick after firing home the shot that tied the game at 2-2 in the second period yesterday in N.Y. However, Giacomin and his Ranger teammates came up with two goals in the third stanza to win, 4-2.

Future Looks Bright for California Angels

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The California Angels, an American League novelty when they challenged for the pennant only one year after being created by expansion, have settled down to being just a good team trying to improve.

The Angels, now eight years old, were fifth last year, 7½ games back, and helped knock Minnesota and Detroit out of the race.

★ ★ ★

The Angels are looking for regulars at four positions.

In addition, pitcher Sammy Ellis, obtained from Cincinnati, was unpredictable.

Ellis, a 22-game winner in 1965, was hit hard as the exhibition season progressed.

While Ellis was having his troubles, the Angels were encouraged by the improvement of Fred Newman, whose arm ailments limited him to only five wins over the last two seasons. Newman was a mainstay of the pitching staff in 1964-65, with 13-10 and 14-16 records.

The Angels are hoping that one of them can join the starting rotation of George Brunet, 11-19 last year, Ricky Clark, 12-11 and Jim McGlothlin, 12-8.

Best of the young pitching candidates are Ken Tatum, 12-6 at San Jose, Calif., and Marty Pattin, 12-11 at Seattle.

Jack Hamilton, 2-0 for the New York Mets and 9-6 for the Angels, and Minnie Rojas, 12-9, head the bullpen corps.

The Angels began the spring with only four certain regulars — Don Mincher, .273 with 25 homers, at first; Bobby Knoop, .245, at second; Jim Fregosi, .290, at short; and Rick Reichardt, .265 with 17 homers, in left.

Catchers Bob Rodgers, .219, and Tom Satriano, .224, were challenged by Bob Taylor, Tom Egan and Orlando McFarlane.

Aurelio Rodriguez, .308 at Seattle, could beat out slick fielding Paul Schaal at third.

★ ★ ★

Chuck Hinton, obtained from Cleveland, was in the centerfield race with Jay Johnstone, .209, and Roger Repoz, .250.

Jimmie Hall, .249, may be platooned in right with Bubba Morton, .313 in 63 games last year.

Veteran Woodie Held, also having a fine spring, lends pinch-hitting and infield strength.

Big Handicap Helps Bowler

Entry From Holland Leading State Men

JACKSON (AP) — Ken Johnson of Holland, bolstered by a 369-pin handicap, swept into the all-events handicap lead with 2,057 points in the Men's State Bowling Tournament during the weekend at Jackson.

Johnson knocked the previous leader, Gulf Hirakes of Battle Creek, who has 2,041, into second place.

In the doubles handicap event, Johnson teamed with Frank Elliott of Holland and rolled 1,357 to take fourth place. Third place in this division was taken over by Sam McKim and Robert Erhardt of the mid-Thumb area with 1,369.

TEAM LEADER

South Haven-Bangor M & M Market captured the lead in the team handicap division, with 3,270. The previous leader, Adrian Black Label, was pushed into second place with 3,250.

Bill Black of Ionia piled up 2,028 to take the all-events handicap lead.

The tournament began Jan. 13 and will end May 18.

Softball on Tap

Team representatives will discuss rules and proceed with organization this evening at a meeting of the Pontiac Church Softball League. The session is slated for 6:30 at the Church of God on Walton Boulevard, just east of Joslyn.

2nd Rich Win for Yarborough

Atlanta 500 Victory for Mercury Driver

ATLANTA (AP) — Cale Yarborough is on top of the racing world right now with two big victories and $70,000 in winnings this year.

Yarborough's perseverance has paid off and the hard-driving blond is in position to become the biggest money-winner ever in one year. He needs about $60,000 to break the record set by Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know if I can break it but I've got a real good start," said Yarborough, who averaged 125 miles an hour in winning the 500-mile Atlanta race worth $20,050. It was his second straight Atlanta title.

Yarborough won a duel with another 1968 Mercury driver, Lee Roy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C. They also finished 1-2 at the Daytona 500 a month ago.

★ ★ ★

Canadian Ski Lass Nears World Title

ROSSLAND, B. C. (AP) — Nancy Greene, Canada's pert snow queen, clinched at least a share of the World Cup Ski title Sunday while Austrian outsider Herbert Huber won the men's giant slalom at the Red Mountain International Ski Meet.

★ ★ ★

Miss Greene, a gold and silver medal winner in the Grenoble Olympics, won the women's giant slalom in one minute 26.85 seconds. Her only serious competitor for the cup, symbol of world ski supremacy, Isabelle Mir of France, was eighth in 1:31.72.

Season Opens Today on Great Lakes

Coho Boom Spreading Like Tidal Wave

By PAUL VAN KOLKEN

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Towns and villages along the shores of Lake Michigan are braced for a tidal wave of business as eager Michigan anglers head out today in quest of the Coho salmon, the existing new game fish that lured thousands to Lake Michigan a year ago.

The spread of the Coho to waters as far south as the Indiana shore shore has caused resort owners and other beneficiaries of the tourist trade to expand or refurbish their establishments.

★ ★ ★

The Conservation Department checked the Coho situation and came up with a report that should further ignite Michiganders to piscatorial pursuits: The Coho are numerous and in good fighting sizes.

The special season on Salmon opened today.

Stan Lievense of the department reported large numbers of Cohos are in virtually every stream from New Buffalo and the Benton Harbor area north to South Haven.

Meanwhile, Steelhead trout and brown trout are legal catches in the Great Lakes, and designated streams.

THREE POUNDS

Livense reported that Coho salmon have been taken that measure between one and one-half and three pounds. Elsewhere weights measured up to five pounds.

"There simply is no other word for the outlook this year," Wesley B. Tebeau of the West Michigan Tourist Association said. "It's fantastic."

Teheau added: "The Coho has converted recreational wasteland into a dynamic fisherman's paradise."

★ ★ ★

He indicated attempts were being made to bring into focus the impact of salmon in Michigan and to organize and prepare for the expected heavy assault of fishermen this season and prevent a repeat of the chaos which developed last year in areas unprepared to handle the influx of fishermen.

Tom Lewis, manager of the Manistee County Board of Commerce said last year camper pickup rigs were parked along residential streets, "the litter was tossed out on lawns. There wasn't any way of enforcing compliance with ordinary sanitary ordinances."

SALES SOARED

Restaurants opened at 2:30 a.m. and piled heaps of rolls, cereals and other self-service items on tables and set up a cash register near a door.

Sales of gasoline and fishing equipment soared.

Manistee's Orchard Beach State Park in September 1966 registered 40 permits, but recorded 823 the same week of the Coho season last year.

Lewis said $650,000 in government funds are being spent this year to add launching sites and improve parking and camp facilities in the Manistee area. He estimated 75 launching ramps would be available this season compared with only four last year.

★ ★ ★

At Orchard Beach new toilet facilities and a shower building are being added and Private investors are adding two ramps on Manistee Lake and renovating the old yacht club, Lewis added.

★ ★ ★

Emmett H. Pullman, dockmaster at the city of Frankfort, said the city was building four launching ramps at a city park and providing additional parking for cars and trailers. He said other docking space was planned by private developers near the public marina.

Three food and drink establishments at Ludington were reported to have remodeled or enlarged this year while two new sporting goods shops were to be opening.

MARINA PLANNED

Further south along Lake Michigan where Coho are reported showing up in nets of commercial fisherman, a $2 million marina and motel complex is planned at Muskegon while a similar development is in the planning stages at South Haven, Tebeau said. Saugatuck and Douglas are preparing launching sites along the Kalamazoo River.

A charter boat industry appeared on the surface this year, spawned by the enthusiasm for the salmon.

Glen F. Bowden, a Ludington contractor, is chairman of a steering committee to establish a "Coho navy" of charter boat operators to follow the salmon schools as they move north in Lake Michigan.

★ ★ ★

"From the initial reaction we expect to have members representing a fleet of about 100 boats," Bowden said. Most of the vessels would accomodate up to six persons.

The past president of the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association, Jerry Buening, predicted a 40 per cent increase this year in tackle sales, "a large part in the Midwest due primarily to the introduction of the Coho, which has put new life into the Midwest market, both for boats and tackle."

The Shakespeare Co. of Kalamazoo, one of several fishing-tackle companies which have introduced lines of Coho equipment, predicts sales of Coho fishing equipment in Michigan alone would reach $500,000 this year.

Shootoff Used to Determine Archery Title

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Ploen of Bloomington, Minn., nosed out Ray Cearley in a shootoff to win the Men's Open title at the 10th annual International Indoor Archery Championships Sunday.

Cearley, from Indianapolis, Ind., fired a perfect 300 score in the final round to force the first shoot off in the history of the tournament. Both men finished with 595 of a possible 600 points.

Ploen nipped Cearley 25 to 24 in the five arrow shootoff.

Dickie Roberts of Three Rivers, Mich., and Fred Hurst of Takoma, Wash., finished in a tie for third with 594.

Ann Butz of Suffern, N.Y., took the Women's Open with 563 points. Pearl Wolfe of St. Louis, Mo., was second at 554 and Dixie Ford, New Castle, Ind., was third at 552.

'Turning Point Reached in Fall'

LBJ Decision Long in Making

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson eased his six-foot-three frame into a maroon chair and said: "I guess the turning point was probably last November."

For some time Johnson had been tossing around in his mind —and talking over with close friends and associates who could keep his secret—the possibility of renouncing the run for another presidential term.

★ ★ ★

He had even come close to making the stunning announcement, which finally came Sunday night, when he delivered his State of the Union message to Congress last Jan. 17.

But with so many more messages on particular phases of his program still on tap, he decided the timing was improper.

LAST DAY OR TWO

So it was not until the last day or two that the President made the final, definite decision against seeking or accepting nomination for a second full term.

His family knew his intention and had what Mrs. Johnson later described as mixed feelings about it. But not many other people did, particularly as to the timing.

★ ★ ★

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had an inkling. So did Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, and Clifford's predecessor, Robert S. McNamara.

The President said he talked with his vice president Sunday morning about what he was considering but didn't tell him he was going to announce a decision that night. He did call Humphrey, who by that time had flown to Mexico City, after the radio-television address from the presidential office.

TURNING POINT

What fixes November in Johnson's mind as the turning point was a visit from the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

"His visit didn't bring it about," Johnson explained at a news conference hurriedly arranged just before midnight in the yellow oval room of the White House living quarters.

★ ★ ★

"His visit coincided with when I turned the corner."

He did let Westmoreland know, though, that he was thinking of foregoing a race for another term. And his press secretary, George Christian, said the President wanted the general's assessment of how an announcement along that line would affect troop morale.

"Westmoreland told him he thought it would be a shock," Christian said, "but not a lasting shock. He pretty well agreed with the President that nobody is indispensable."

'HARD CONSIDERATION'

Christian is one of those who had the President's confidence. He said of the blockbuster announcement:

"I think he really has been giving it hard consideration for about the last year. I think he and Mrs. Johnson have just been counting the days on when they might get out."

★ ★ ★

As long ago as last fall, Christian said, he and the President talked with Gov. John B. Connally of Texas about what Johnson was considering. This was at a time when Connally was trying to reach a decision of his own on whether to run for a fourth term—a decision that also was in the negative.

★ ★ ★

Christian said, too, that he was working during the fall on a speech for Johnson which would have incorporated the Sunday announcement. He said Johnson had in his pocket in writing what would have been the announcement when he addressed Congress on Jan. 17.

DIDN'T KNOW

Recalling how he stood in the back of the House chamber that night, Christian said, "We didn't all know until the last moment whether he was going to do it or not."

Sunday night, Christian had passed the word that there might be an addition to the advance text of Johnson's address to the nation but he said he didn't know whether Johnson actually would use it, and it wouldn't be available ahead of time.

★ ★ ★

Just the day before, at a news conference in the White House Rose Garden, Johnson had disclosed he would address the country on Vietnam policy and "Als talk about other questions of some importance."

Johnson also had something to say about what a reporter described as "a dope story" that "you won't announce your plans as far as 1968 are concerned until the August convention in Chicago."

ACCURATE APPRAISAL

Johnson had the customary answer and an accurate appraisal of the story:

"I will cross that bridge when I get to it.

★ ★ ★

"The fact that it is a dope story is the best evidence of its total unreliability."

With the decision made and announced, the President traded a suit coat for a blue shirt jacket with a mandarin collar and turned up at the post-mortem news conference eating a cup of chocolate pudding—probably low calorie.

Asked how he felt at that point, he smiled and answered:

"I feel as good as a fellow could feel who's gone through what I've gone through today."

★ ★ ★

He hadn't slept well Saturday night. And he and Mrs. Johnson were up early to go to the back door and welcome their returning daughter, Lynda, at 6:45 a.m. She had just returned from the West Coast, where she had seen her husband, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb off for Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

Later, Johnson went to church with daughter Luci and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent. And he said that, off and on during a good part of the day, the family discussed the decision he planned to announce.

Questioned about the family's reaction, the President used the same term his wife had used:

"Oh, I think it's a mixed reaction. I can't really speak for them. But I think they all go along with the decision I made. Lynda hasn't been here and she wasn't sure it was as immediate as it was.

A CLUE

There was a clue, perhaps, to Mrs. Johnson's- thinking last month.

Johnson had seen former Rep. Carl Vinson at a Marietta, Ga., ceremony and was telling Lady Bird with considerable enthusiasm how well Vinson was faring in retirement.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Johnson replied to her husband that Vinson was living proof "that you can leave town."

U.S., Saigon Officials Silent on LBJ; GIs' Reaction Varied

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese officials, taken by surprise, kept silent today about President Johnson's bombing curtailment and his exit from the presidential race while GIs expressed joy, dismay, disbelief and even disinterest.

American military leaders and the South Vietnamese government have openly opposed any letup in the bombing of North Vietnam, but they refused to comment on any part of Johnson's speech.

GI comments on the bombing cutback ranged from "they'll bury all of us" to "This means we'll go home sooner."

One said, "I don't care who is President so long as I get home."

A senior officer on Gen. William C. Westmoreland's staff, who refused to let his name be used, said few American soldiers cared whether Johnson ran for reelection or not.

The average GI is much more concerned about his immediate situation than about who is sitting in the White House,' he said.

Many did react, however. Some thought reporters were pulling an April Fool's joke, and one lieutenant colonel said: "You never want to believe a politician when he makes an announcement like that."

The weekly meeting of the U.S. Mission Council at the American Embassy ran a little longer than usual today, but afterward Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker said: "No one ever comments on the President's remarks except the President. You understand that."

Westmoreland, who is to be relieved in July as commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, told a questioner: "Yes, I have a comment. It's no comment." Last year he said the bombing of North Vietnam was "essential and vital to our military strategy."

COMMANDERS NOTIFIED

Westmoreland also refused to comment on a statement by White House Press Secretary George Christian that Johnson had discussed the possibility of stepping out of the political arena with Westmoreland when the general was in Washington last November.

The top allied commanders in Vietnam apparently were notified Sunday of the President's bombing curtailment order, but both this and his political announcement came as a complete surprise to other military men and South Vietnamese officials listening to Johnson's speech on the U.S. Armed Forces Radio.

★ ★ ★

President Nguyen Van Thieu, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Premier Nguyen Van Loc all declined to comment. There was a flurry of activity at Independence Palace as Thieu met with his chief advisers. Thieu was to make a televised speech Tuesday to the nation which an aide said was planned long ago, but he did no rule out the possibility that the president would comment on Johnson's speech.

The GIs' responses to Johnson's withdrawal from the presidential race generally depended on political leanings. But some took the position of an Air Force pilot who said: "I don't believe anyone coming cold will have the experience or knowledge of events or that a new man stepping into office will be as well prepared as Johnson is at this time."

REMEMBER NASSER?

The Army officer who cautioned wariness of politicians' statements recalled the resignation speech of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser after Egypt lost the Arab-Israeli war last June.

"Remember Nasser?" he said. "Well, the day after he resigned because of his own mistakes, he was firmer in the saddle than ever."

A Vietnamese-Chinese shopkeeper expressed a similar view. "You will see," he said. "This is to make the people love hime all the more."

"Now we'll be getting some damn fool who's been fighting for the job all his life," said Spec. 5 Douglas Willmeroth of San Mateo, Calif.

'DON'T BLAME HIM'

In the streets of Saigon, soldiers who shouted the news to others often met with laughing disbelief. Everyone knew it was April Fool's Day.

"I don't blame him," said an infantry sergeant on his second tour in Vietnam. "He did the best job he knew how. It has begn rough on him and all he got for it was a kick in the head."

★ ★ ★

Staff Sgt. John Archer of Malden, Mass., said: "Johnson is about the only one of the politicians who doesn't want to pull our troops out altogether. The Kennedys and the rest do. I think it's a great mistake that he's not seeking reelection."

A young Vietnamese lieutenant, however, said he felt a new man in the White House would help to end the war.

"Our people are tired of war," he said. "Everybody wants the war to end."

State Dems Hesitant to Make Predictions

DETROIT (UPI)—Michigan's Democratic leaders were in a dilemma today in trying to assess the ramifications of President Johnson's announcement he would not seek reelection.

The effect on the candidacies of Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy were foremost in their statements, but all were hesitant to say who might now get the Democratic nomi- were hesitant to say who might now get the Democratic nomination.

★ ★ ★

Here are some views on the problems facing Michigan Democrats:

● State Sen. Sander M. Levin, state Democratic chairman: "The political picture is obviously altered. But it is too early for any appropriate or useful comment."

● Zolton Ferency, former state Democratic chairman and an open opponent of President Johnson's policies: "It is too soon to rule Johnson out. The administration philosophy, that is my real concern. I am happier now than I used to be to see that we have a chance to change the course of America's policies. I can't see much difference between the policies McCarthy and Kennedy propose. With a split in the party, this may have to be decided at the convention."

● Sen. Philip A. Hart: "I haven't the foggiest idea who the Democratic nominee will be. I think it would be a good idea to leave it up to the delegates to the Democratic National Convention. I have taken the position we should have an open convention. It would be a healthy thing."

● Democratic National Committeeman Neil Staebler: "I don't think we will reach our conclusions without debate. But it can take place in an atmosphere not affected by past circumstances. We are now in a position where we can have free debate and full expression of opinion."

● State Sen. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn, a backer of McCarthy: "We will have to get together and assess the impact before determining our future course. We can't afford the luxury of division anymore. Both Kennedy and McCarthy are saying the same things on the issues and I'd be happy with either man."

● John Weiss, associate professor of history at Wayne State University and chairman of the Michigan McCarthy forces: "I hope it (the President's announcement) improves McCarthy's chances. My main concern is that we get different policies."

● August Gus Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO and long a supporter of President Johnson: "I think the AFL-CIO will support whoever is nominated by the Democrats, particularly if Richard Nixon is the GOP candidate."

London Gold Mart Open; No Speculator Bonanza

LONDON (AP) — London's gold market reopened today and with indications gold's monetary role may be diminishing, there was no major bonanza for speculators whose buying rush closed the market 17 days ago.

This weekend's agreement in Stockholm to create "paper gold"—a new form of international credits for world trade— dealt speculators their biggest blow in months.

In effect, the world's major non-Communist trading nations, excluding France, agreed to accept each other's paper promises to repay part of their trading debts without the security of gold. This could be the first step on a long road leading to the end of gold as money, meaning a decline in the demand for the metal and drop in its price.

The price in the London free market ranged in early trading from $37.50 to $38 an ounce, less than $3 above the price of $35 formerly guaranteed by the United States and six other nations.

To keep the price down in the face of a gold rush which indicated lack of confidence in paper money, the gold pool nations had to supply gold from their own stocks to meet the demand.

TWO-PRICE MARKET

At a meeting in Washington March 17, they decided to continue to settle accounts among themselves by transferring gold at $35 an ounce. But they decided to leave the free market price to fluctuate with supply and demand.

When the London market closed March 28, markets in Paris, Zurich and elsewhere remained open. To the surprise of some authorities and the shock of some gold hoarders, the price of gold rose less than $10 and then fell back. Some had been gambling it would double under panic demand.

But transactions in these small markets were not an accurate gauge. Hence the interest in today's reopening.

A speculator who bought a ton of gold at $35 an ounce and sold today would have a paper profit of nearly $100,000, but cutting into that would be commissions, handling and insurance charges and interest on money borrowed to buy the gold originally.

NO BONANZA

Today's price was "certainly no bonanza for the speculators," one banker said. But it may take several days or longer for a clear trend to emerge.

The big question involves the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of gold bought by big European corporations as a hedge against a feared devaluation of the dollar in the days of the last gold rush.

Britain's RAF Is Facing Cuts

50-Year-Old Arm Still a Potent Deterrent

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Air Force is 50 years old, a shadow of its former strength but still Britain's strongest arm against attack.

The RAF has 2,000 aircraft and 121,400 men but defense cutbacks threaten its strength.

★ ★ ★

Its founding in April 1918 brought under one independent command the men of the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service.

In the last five months of World War I, a variety of "stringbean" bombers escorted by Camel fighters dropped 550 tons of bombs on German industrial targets.

'FINEST HOUR'

The RAF achieved its "finest hour" in World War II by denying to the German Air Force a command of the air such as it needed to invade England. Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the nation Aug. 20, 1940:

"The gratitude of every home in our island, in our empire and indeed throughout the world, except in the abodes of the guilty, goes out to the British airmen, who undaunted by odds, unwearied in their constant challenge and mortal danger, are turning the tide of World War by their prowess and by their devotion.

★ ★ ★

"Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

The foresight of Viscount Trenchard in the '30s laid the groundwork for the expansion of the air force and its equipment with Hurricane and Spitfire fighters and a range of medium bombers which were to make up Britain's front-line strike force at the outbreak of war.

Draft Board Categories Are Defined

The day a youth becomes 18 years of age in the United States, he registers with his local selective service board.

He is listed in one of the following classifications.

- 1-A: Available for military service.
- 1-A-O: Conscientious objector available for noncombatant military service only.
- 1-C: Member of the U.S. armed forces, the Coast and Geodetic Survey or the Public Health Service.
- 1-D: Qualified member of Reserve component, student taking military training including ROTC and accepted aviation cadet application applicant.
- 1-O: Conscientious objector available for civilian work contributing to the maintenance of the national health, safety or interest.
- 1-S: Student deferred by law until graduation from high school or attainment of age of 20, or until end of his academic year at college or university.
- 1-W: Conscientious objector performing civilian work contributing to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest, or who has completed such work.
- 1-Y: Registrant qualified for military service only in time of war or national emergency.
- 2-A: Occupational deferment (other than agricultural and student).
- 2-C: Agricultural deferment.
- 2-S: Student deferment.
- 3-A: Extreme hardship deferment, or registrant with child or children.
- 4-A: Registrant with sufficient prior military service or who is a sole surviving son.
- 4-B: Official deferred by law.
- 4-C: Alien not currently liable for military service.
- 4-D: Minister of religion or divinity student.
- 4-F: Registrant not qualified for any military service.
- 5-A: Registrant over the age of liability for military service.

The address given at the time he registers determines a youth's local board. Changes in status, such as marriage, birth of children, or occupation, must be reported in writing to the local board immediately.

Fungus May Be Answer to Jungle Crop Mystery

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The rain forests of South America are lush and extensive, yet attempts to replace them with agricultural crops usually fail.

The paradox has baffled scientists who see no reason why food crops needed for expanding populations should not grow well on land where jungle growth thrives.

A team from the desert research institute at the University of Nevada may have found a solution to this tropical mystery.

Dr. Frits Went and Dr. Nellie Stark, studying the extremes of climate between the Amazon jungles and Nevada deserts, observed that jungle growth apparently thrives on its own mineral foods, without which conventional crops fail.

★ ★ ★

Key to this organic process, known as direct mineral cycling, is a fungus.

Attached to the tree roots, it digests and absorbs the mineral contest of the tree droppings such as leaves and branches.

The fungus then passes the minerals directly back to the trees in an endless cycle.

Consequently, the trees never have to depend on obtaining minerals from the soil, which serves only a minor function as an anchor for the plants, source of water and a reservoir of bound materials.

Dr. Went said he was using his "belly technique" of crawling on the ground in search of small plants when he saw the mycorrhiza fungus attached to tree roots.

"At least half the feeder roots appeared within one inch of the top of the soil," he said. "Almost all the mineral content of the humus was contained just within the top one inch of the jungle surface and was constantly retained within the root fungus system without ever going into the soil."

"The soil itself is very poor. When the jungle cover is removed, particularly by burning, there is nothing left to hold the minerals for the roots of conventional agricultural plants and the land soon becomes barren," he said.

TV's Pat Paulsen: Our Next President?

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie/Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is it a mammoth put-on, or does Pat Paulsen really have a chance in the presidential race?

THOMAS

There is Paulsen, looking for all the world like a candidate, shaking hands with constitutents and making statements that are innocuous enough to sound like political dialogue.

Mock campaigns for the presidency have been prevalent on the American scene since the years when Eddie Cantor offered his candidacy on radio. Now the immense reach of television has contributed a grass roots campaign for Pat Paulsen, who first achieved note as the totally inept editorialist on the Sunday night "Smothers Brothers Show."

After several weeks of proclaiming his noncandidacy on the air—meanwhile shaking hands with the studio audience after every speech—Paulsen finally acceded to what he termed popular demand and declared himself an active candidate.

Is he serious? It's hard to tell. "I figure I can swing at least 100,000 to 200,000 votes," says Paulsen without the faintest smile. "I feel responsible now; I wouldn't want to take any votes away from somebody I dig."

The man Paulsen digs most, off-camera, is Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota on the Democratic side, and possibly New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller among the Republicans, "although Rockefeller is not a true Republican." The criterion here is that McCarthy is a dove on Vietnam policy and "Rockefeller might be a dove." Paulsen, like his mentors, the Smothers Brothers, is unmistakably dove-ish.

Despite his loyalties, Paulsen claims to be conducting his campaign without fear or favor. "People think I am a flaming liberal," he said with a degree of seriousness, "But I am conservative in many ways."

For one thing, his residence. Pat Paulsen, his wife Betty Jane and three children live in Orange, Calif., the heartland of the most conservative county of the state, and perhaps the nation. This, he admitted, was a historical accident, the result of his having earned a $3,000 check for composing a song for the Smothers brothers; he invested it in a modest home at the geographical center of a number of intimate nightclubs that offered employment for his esoteric brand of humor.

Pat Paulsen was born in South Bend, Wash., and grew up in the San Francisco area, attending Tamalpais High School and San Francisco City College. After service in the Marines, he tried his comic monologues in tiny nightclubs in the Bay area, with the most modest of success. While waiting for fortune to smile, he worked in a gypsum mine, a print shop and as driver of a baby formula truck.

Shifting to Southern California, he was viewed at Pasadena's night spot, The Ice House, by the Smothers brothers and their staff, who sought him as a performer on their forthcoming CBS variety hour. "When I got the word about the job," Pat recalled, "I was cleaning windows in new tract houses in Laguna Beach at $1.50 an hour."

★ ★ ★

Paulsen's deadpan comedy was an immediate hit, and he became a regular with the Smothers Brothers. From editorialist he naturally evolved into presidential candidate, and the campaign seems to be having widespread ramifications. He has heard that he received at least 50 votes in the New Hampshire primary, and 14 votes for mayor of Lansing, Mich. — "which is pretty remarkable when you consider that I wasn't even running for mayor of Lansing, Mich."

The Paulsen handlers are planning a widespread campaign, including a national convention to be held on the Smothers Brothers Summer Show.

Bumper stickers for his candidacy are beginning to appear on the Los Angeles freeways, and some have not been produced by his own backers. The official Paulsen slogan is: "We Can't Stand Pat." He wears a button which proclaims him to be a member of the Straight Talking American Government party. Abbreviated, it reads: the STAG party.

The Paulsen candidacy, as promulgated by the Smothers Brothers writers, has run afoul of the CBS censors, ever aware of the danger of offending politicians or risking the equal time provisions. Paulsen recently went to Washington for a filmed segment in which he visited landmarks, including the White House. At the Lincoln Memorial, he posed for a scene in which he gazed out at the Washington Monument.

The narration, later censored, was to have said: "Destiny is a lonely pinnacle. The distant obelisk stands as a symbol of Washington — giving it to the American people."

Pat Paulsen intends to pursue his campaign through the summer, for better or worse.

SERIOUS CANDIDATE? — Deadpan comic Pat Paulsen, who began his "political career" as the inept editorialist on television's "Smothers Brothers Show," recently bowed to "popular demand" and declared himself a candidate for president. Is he really a candidate? It's hard to tell. "I figure I can swing at least 100,000 to 200,000 votes," says Paulsen, who received at least 50 votes in the recent New Hampshire primary.

Austerity Program Would Hurt Negroes

By WHITNEY YOUNG
Executive Director
National Urban League

The international monetary crisis has led to calls for austerity. That means higher taxes, cutbacks in federal spending and possibly higher interest rates on loans.

YOUNG

This hits home; it's not just a matter for bankers and government officials to worry about. The decisions on how these policies are to be implemented will affect all Americans.

Negroes and city dwellers especially, will be affected by the measures taken since the call for austerity comes at a time when our urban areas are in desperate need of funds.

Although the monetary crisis is serious, the poor shouldn't be made to pay for a national belt-tightening spree.

Higher taxes coupled with spending cutbacks result in a lessening of the economy's expansion. That always means higher unemployment, and you know who is first to be laid off.

Higher interest on loans means that housing construction is cut back, and you know who suffers most from the lack of decent housing.

It's hard to believe that a nation as rich as the United States can find itself in such a position, but now that it has been decided that an austerity program is necessary, we have to make sure that the poor aren't forced to bear the burdens involved.

We've got to take a hard look at national priorities and cut back only on nonessentials.

No. 1 priority has to be the eradication of poverty and discrimination. This is the core of our urban crisis, and we can't pinch pennies while our cities stagnate and poverty flourishes.

The child that's bitten by a rat doesn't want to hear about the London gold exchange. He needs help—and now.

Some people would say that Vietnam should get the highest priority. Without going into the rights and wrongs of that tragic situation, we are already spending about $30 billion per year there.

Further, the cost of the war is always used as an excuse to put off costly programs like housing construction.

Some people want more cuts like those already being made in antipoverty programs, but don't want to cut back on luxuries like supersonic planes and the race to the moon.

Putting a man on the moon by 1970 will cost more than putting the poor in decent homes. Since astronomers assure us that the moon will still be up there past 1970, what's the rush?

All the talk about Vietnam costs has to be de-escalated. Some important domestic measures won't cost a red cent. Open housing for example, would let Negroes live where they wish, yet it costs nothing. So why use the war as an excuse not to do the right thing?

If we can spend money on search-and-destroy missions in Vietnam, we can also spend on search-and-employ programs at home, to recruit and train unemployed Americans for good jobs.

People are always telling me that if the war ended, we could spend $30 billion a year to end poverty. But what guarantee is there that the money would be spent on massive domestic programs?

The last time the government had a lot of unspent money, in 1964, it decided to cut taxes and to let industry get tax credits on new machinery.

So, if the war ended tomorrow (as we all pray), that $30 billion might be spent on aid to the new government in Vietnam, more space programs, and a tax cut.

Unless we move now to come up with domestic programs to break the poverty barrier which traps 30 million American citizens, we might find even less money available later.

If sensible steps are taken this nation can afford both its international commitments and a domestic Marshall Plan for the underprivileged, and it can also cut spending on what should be lower priority items.

Jim: "We haven't spent much time discussing squeezes lately."

Oswald: No, we haven't. Maybe we should remedy that lack right now."

Jim: "Here's a good example. The six no-trump contract is eminently sound since in his hand and dummy's South has four spades, two hearts, three diamonds and three clubs in top cards.

JACOBY

"A rubber bridge player wouldn't worry much about an overtrick because he would be satisfied with scoring 190 below the line plus 500 for the rubber and 750 for the slam, but he might just as well go after the overtrick as a matter of technique."

Oswald: "The basic play for the overtrick is to see if clubs break. If each opponent holds three clubs, South's fourth club becomes the 13th trick. If not, there must be some squeeze possibility since either dummy's fourth diamond or South's own third heart becomes a potential squeeze card."

Jim: "That is the base of all squeezes. You can't make all the tricks without exerting pressure. You exert the pressure and the squeeze operates."

Oswald: "This hand is set up as a simple one-way squeeze against East. South wins the heart opening and runs off four spade tricks. He throws a small heart from dummy. West lets a heart go also, as does East.

"Then South leads a second heart to his hand and East is squeezed. He has to throw away a club or a diamond and either discard gives South his 13th trick.

Jim: "This hand represents a three-suit squeeze situation. Take West's four of hearts and trade it for East's five of diamonds. Now the four spade leads and two heart leads won't bother East because he could only stop clubs anyway.

"West won't be bothered up to that point, but South will squeeze West when he leads out dummy's three top clubs. West will be forced to throw a diamond or his last heart. Either discard will give South the 13th trick."

A—Bid one diamond. You have enough to open two, but there is a little chance that a one diamond opening will be passed out.

West bids one heart. Your partner passes and East jumps to three hearts. What do you do now?

Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, a son-in-law of President Johnson, arrived in Naha, Okinawa, today for two or three days of processing at Camp Butler preparatory to service in Vietnam.

ROBB

Robb, 28, is scheduled for 13 months' duty in Vietnam.

He left Norton Air Force Base, Calif., Saturday after saying goodby to his wife, Lynda Bird, at San Bernardino, Calif.

Marine officials at Da Nang, Vietnam, said yesterday that Robb will be assigned to the 1st Marine Division in the northern combat sector.

Evangelist Begins Australian Crusade

American evangelist Bill Graham arrived in Sydney, Australia, today to begin his second Australian crusade.

Judy Canova Suffers Emphysema Attack

Actress Judy Canova was taken to Lovina Sanitarium in Altadena, Calif., when she suffered an attack of emphysema yesterday, the sheriff's office said.

The 51-year-old comedienne reportedly was taken from a private nursing home. A spokesman for the sanitarium said her condition was good.

Cleveland Advances Told

DETROIT (AP) — "In this country today there is no more urgent business than the urban crisis...the greatest challenge in domestic affairs that Americans have faced during this century," Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes said Sunday.

In a speech before the National School Boards Association the Negro mayor detailed the advances his city has made in attempting "to overcome the deficits accumulated through a quarter century of neglect and abandonment."

One is a new breakfast program which, Stokes said, every school day morning provides breakfast to more than 25,000 children.

Another is a Supplementary Educational Center where Stokes said, "Daily several hundred children from all over the city, including parochial schools white and Negro, come together and study and establish new contacts with other children who they would not be likely to associate with in their normal patterns."

Stokes said Cleveland's schools have increased their courses in vocational education by more than 300 per cent since 1964.

They also established a job placement office which has placed in full-time jobs more than 96 per cent of the inner-city high school graduates who entered the job market, Stokes said.

In a school system where there were no libraries in elementary schools in 1964, Stokes said more than 100 libraries have been opened since then.

The most crucial problem for Cleveland and other cities acr the country, Stokes said, is school financing. He called for much more money from federal government and from state government with the money being distributed on a more equitable basis.

Boys Trapped in Mud Saved

TARZANA, Calif. (AP) — It took 14 men and a helicopter to rescue two 9-year-old boys who went on a frog-hunting expedition.

Jeff McGowan and David Cole of Tarzana were spotted Sunday trapped in several feet of mud in a debris catch-basin, the fire department said.

Two men passing by began the rescue, then called for aid. The boys were pulled to safety after about an hour.

Negro Mayor Quits to Aid on Race Problems

ELSINORE, Calif. (AP) — A Negro who rose from a job of janitor to become Elsinore's mayor is quitting to give more time to helping solve America's racial problems.

"I'm so engrossed in this race problem that I want to serve in the best way I can," says Thomas R. Yarborough, 68, who will leave office April 16.

* * *

Among the things he will do, he says, is to write a book outlining a path to racial peace.

"I think I can do something more far-reaching than what I've been doing here," says Yarborough, mayor for two years of a town with about 4,000 citizens—some 750 of them Negro.

Johnson Peace Bid Hailed; Success Doubted

LONDON (AP) — President Johnson's new overture for peace in Vietnam was welcomed across Europe and by some of America's Asian allies today. But diplomatic authorities in London expect Hanoi to reject it because of the President's companion announcement that he is not a candidate for reelection.

These informants said Johnson's decision not to run again may tempt the Vietnamese Communists—with Red Chinese encouragement—to battle on in hopes of the election of a "peace candidate" who might give them better terms. But the emergence of a "win the war" candidate with a strong chance of being elected probably would convince Hanoi it should negotiate now, these sources said.

There was no immediate comment on the President's speech from the foreign quarters whose reaction mattered most—North Vietnam, the Vietcong and the Soviet Union.

Moscow Radio briefly reported Johnson's decision to curtail the air attacks on North Vietnam but made no mention of his decision not to seek reelection.

CUTBACK WELCOMED

The British government welcomed the bombing cutback, which it said "should offer a further opportunity of achieving a just and honorable peace."

The government said it was "examining urgently how best (it) can respond to President Johnson's invitation to exert (its) influence to end the conflict."

* * *

Presumably the British will renew their pressure for another Geneva conference on Vietnam. Britain and the Soviet Union were cochairmen of the 1954 conference which ended the French war in Vietnam, but so far the Russians have refused to join in calling another such parley.

* * *

A spokesman for Prime Minister Harold Wilson refused to comment on the President's decision to withdraw from the electoral campaign. But some British officials expressed the fear that the U.S. government would become a lame-duck administration that might bring interallied decision-making to a halt until January.

Songwriting Success Writes to Please Himself

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When he begins to rattle off the names "The Look of Love," "What the World Needs Now Is Love," "What's New Pussycat," "I Say a Little Prayer"—Burt Bacharach's humility gets the best of him and he refuses to continue.

"I've stopped counting the hits," says the handsome young composer. "There are more important things."

* * *

Three times nominated for Academy Awards, Bacharach and his collaborator, Hal David, are up this year for "The Look of Love."

Burt admits he'd like to win, "but it's such an honor to be nominated three years in a row. And one realizes, after all, that the Oscar is just a possession."

RIDING THE WAVE

Last year Bacharach was nominated for "Alfie" and the year before for "What's New Pussycat."

Now, with disc jockeys announcing his name along with such record Bacharach, 38, lean and blue-eyed with salt-and-pepper hair, is riding the wave of success like an experienced surfer careful to keep from toppling.

* * *

The cornerstone of his creativity is the belief that he must write songs that please Burt Bacharach.

"At this point, people will tell me a song sounds great even if it's only mediocre. In the end you have to rely on your own ear. If something isn't right I know it, and I have to start again."

THE SECRET

Bacharach, who says he oft works all night to keep up his commitments, has sent songs into the marketplace believing they would flop. "I never thought 'Wives and Lovers' would go," he recalls, "or that 'Alfie' would be popular with both adults and kids."

What is the secret of bridging the generation gap?

* * *

"I don't know. It's some unknown mystique of dramatic and emotional content," says Bacharach. "I guess the kids have become more sophisticated and the adults have become less snobbish."

Raised in New York, he graduated from a Canadian college and several music schools. In 1959 he wrote a song called "Magic Moments" which became a Perry Como hit.

But soon after he was offered the job of conducting the orchestra for an around-the-world concert tour with Marlene Dietrich.

"She's such a marvelous woman, and it was an opportunity for me to see the world," he recalls. "So I went." My friends kept saying, 'Burt, you've got to start writing again. You're letting your talent go to waste.'

* * *

"But I was having such a great time and learning so much that I just didn't care."

Then one day he began composing again, and the hits started piling up.

That was about the same time that he discovered singer Dionne Warwick. He now produces all of her records and manages her career.

He is married to actress Angie Dickinson and they have a daughter, Lea, nearly 2.

* * *

His latest project is scoring the musical version of "The Apartment" scheduled to open on Broadway in the fall. Neil Simon has written the book, Hal David is doing lyrics and David Merrick is producing.

The show is to be called "Promises, Promises," and Merrick is reported so pleased with Burt's score that he has asked him to do another show.

But Burt has no definite plans.

"You know what I really want to do?" he asks? "I want to buy a race horse and race him at Hollywood Park. I've worked my tail off. Now I want to have some fun!"

Stock Market Rally Is Pared

NEW YORK (AP) — A great stock market rally on President Johnson's surprise announcements was pared early this afternoon on a report that North Vietnam hinted it would ignore or reject President Johnson's peace proposal.

★ ★ ★

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 11.91 at 852.58, having backed away from a rise of 17.98 at the end of the first hour.

★ ★ ★

Volume for the first two hours was 10.18 million shares — a mighty total. If trading were to continue at the same pace, it would beat the 16-million-share record set back in 1929.

The ticker tape ran as much as 15 minutes late.

The rush to buy resulted in delayed openings and large opening blocks for many stocks, both blue chips and glamour issues.

★ ★ ★

The president's announcement of Vietnam de-escalation was regarded as undoubtedly bullish, but his decision not to run left some commentators with a feeling of uncertainty.

Fire Damages Drugstore in Highland

A blaze early yesterday morning damaged the Harry Porter Drug Store at 2981 E. Highland, Highland Township.

★ ★ ★

Fighting flames from 1:10 a.m. to 4 a.m. were men from the departments of Highland, West Bloomfield, White Lake and Commerce townships and Milford and Walled Lake.

Estimated loss was $50,000 in stock and $25,000 to the building, according to Highland Township Department's Aassistant Chief Asa Smith.

There was little damage to a bakery test of the drugstore. However, a dry-cleaning business to the west suffered smoke damage, said Smith.

Open Housing Is Before Court

High Tribunal Airing St. Louis Pair's Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today hears arguments contending that open housing is the law of the land under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution and an 1866 Reconstruction statute.

The case was brought by Joseph Lee Jones and his wife, Barbara, a Negro couple from St. Louis allegedly barred because of race from purchasing a house in a "white" subdivision.

The test case seeks to end all discrimination in housing.

The Jones case tests whether a builder may exclude Negroes when selling homes in a new development, but it goes even farther by contending open housing is the law of the land.

★ ★ ★

The Justice Department is giving the couple impressive support, citing the 14th Amendment which guarantees the "equal protection of the laws," and the 1866 law which provides that all citizens shall have the same right to bpy and sell property.

49 CASES

The justices were to hand down opinions on some of the 49 cases under advisement before hearing the Jones' appeal.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark is arguing the Jones case himself instead of leaving it as usual to Solicitor Gen. Erwin N. Griswold or one of Griswold's assistants.

The "equal protection" argument has won many Supreme Court decisions for Negroes, including the famous 1954 school desegregation ruling, but to invoke the 14th Amendment the complaint must allege action by a state, not a private individual.

★ ★ ★

'PUBLIC FUNCTION'

"A private individual who is permitted by the state to perform an essentially public function assumes, along with the governmental powers of the state, its constitutional obligations," the department said.

Mayer argues that the state is not significantly involved and that the 1866 law was not intended to apply to "private or non-official conduct."

Congress is also working on "open housing" but in a wider context. In three stages, a Senate-passed bill would eventually prohibit discrimination in sale or rental not only of apartments, but of single-family homes not sold or rented through brokers. The bill is now in the House Rules Committee.

★ ★ ★

The court ends its term in early June and would be expected to hand down a decision in the Jones case by that time.

The last important decision on open housing, delivered May 3, 1948, was that private real estate covenants designed to keep neighborhoods white cannot be enforced in state courts.

The ruling has stood by itself with almost no decisions stemming from it.

U.S. Tight With Extensions

Tax Deadline Is Strict

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

CUNNIFF

NEW YORK — Between 300,000 and 400,000 individuals are expected to apply for extensions beyond the April 15 deadline for filing federal income tax returns. More than 50 per cent of them might be successful.

Extensions are granted "for any legitimate reason," according to the Internal Revenue Service. But don't get your hopes up. That word "legitimate" is interpreted narrowly.

An earthquake, such as occurred in Alaska four years ago, or floods, such as occur around filing time, are considered legitimate reasons. Serious illness or inability to obtain records may or may not be legitimate.

The majority of extensions are granted for acts of God, such as floods, although automatic 60-day extensions apply to citizens who are out of the country at filing time. In all extension cases, interest must be paid.

Combat zone military and civilian personnel are in an entirely different category. They have six months in which to file after leaving the combat zone. And they pay no interest for their late filing. But this is a rare exception.

If you explain that your accountant is overloaded with work, which might be true around filing time, your chance of obtaining an extension is slim. If, however, your accountant is the only one in town and you can't find another, then you have a chance.

★ ★ ★

Accountants, in fact, are quite disturbed about being turned down on extension applications. The National Public Accountant, a journal, says this letter resulted in a rejection:

"Extension for filing is requested because of my illness with the flu during which I was confined to bed March 8-13, after which my two preschool children also had the flu. Our doctor was Dr.——.

MORE TRAGEDY

"The same week my wife was ordered to bed by Dr. —— of —— hospital with a threatened miscarriage, which did occur on March 25. During the month my office assistant, who is my mother, developed high blood pressure and is now in —— hospital seriously ill."

Not only was the request rejected, said the journal, but a request for reconsideration also was turned down.

The IRS people, often portrayed as coldly dedicated acolytes serving a monster electronic computer that ruthlessly orders people around, are anything but that. They maintain, in their defense, that they must uphold the law.

Sheldon Cohen, Internal Revenue commissioner, says extensions are allowed when:

". . . the taxpayer has made timely and reasonable efforts to file his return on time but finds himself unable to do so because of circumstances beyond his control."

BEFORE DEADLINE

Extension requests must be made before the filing deadline of midnight April 15. The letter should be addressed to the district director. In return the applicant may receive a Form 2688, which requires detailed explanations.

If the request is granted, the individual generally has 60 days from April 15 in which to file. For every day of this time he uses, however, he must pay interest on the amount due at the rate of 6 per cent a year.

★ ★ ★

If the request is denied, the applicant is told to file his return by April 15. If that date already has passed, the applicant is given 10 days from the date of the rejection.

There's another side to the picture though. If the government can't get your refund back to you within 45 days it, too, must pay that same 6 per cent interest. Last year individuals received more than $33 million this way.

Negro Nation in U.S. Set Up on Paper

DETROIT (UPI) — The solemn prediction of the Kerner Commission that the country is edging toward two separate nations became a paper reality today with the formation of a separate, independent Negro nation within the United States.

Black nationalists from throughout the country gathered in Detroit over the weekend at the National Black Government Conference, the founding convention of the new nation.

Milton Henry, spokesman for the convention, founder of the Malcolm X society, which sponsored the convention, and newly elected first vice president of the Republic of New Africa, said Sunday night that a declaration of independence had been signed, a government established and financing for the new nation was under way.

The 150 delegates to the convention had unanimously adopted the position that they "are not now, nor have ever been, citizens of the United States," Henry said. He maintained that citizenship had been thrust upon Negroes without their consent.

Robert F. Williams, formerly a NAACP director in North Carolina but now living in exile in Red China, is the president of the Republic, Henry said. H. Rap Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee now serving a jail term for unlawfully transporting a firearm, is the minister of defense.

The new nation would immediately seek to open negotiations with Washington to establish itself in Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina, he said.

Addison Township Crash Injures Teen

A Madison Heights teen-ager is in serious condition at Crittenton Hospital, Avon Township, following an accident early yesterday in Addison Township.

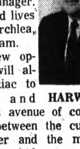
Injured was Donald R. Claybaugh, 17, of 1224 Darling.

Claybaugh was a passenger in a car driven by Harold E. Compton, 16, of 27810 Palmer Lane, Madison Heights, when it left Rochester Road near Brewer and struck a tree. Compton was treated at the hospital and released.

Pontiac Div. Combines 2 Departments

The consolidation of Pontiac Motor Division's owner relations department with the customer relations department has been announced by Thomas L. King, general sales manager.

The combined operation will be directed by John H. Harwood, national customer relations manager.



HARWOOD

Harwood lives at 826 Larchlea, Birmingham.

The new operation will allow Pontiac to intensify and widen its avenue of communications between the customer, the dealer and the manufacturer, King said.

Current customer relations programs include working with dealers on long-range programs, small meetings with owners, the mailing of questionnaires to recent purchasers of Pontiacs and the handling of customer inquiries either through Pontiac's central office staff or its nationwide network of 27 zone offices.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — Our son enters college in 1969, and we hold 25 shares of American Telephone at 71, expecting this investment to help with his expenses. Should we switch to another blue chip or hold for recovery? The same question applies to Great A&P at 35½.—V.S.

A — Though I cannot promise that AT&T will have recovered to your cost price by September, 1969, I do believe you should hold your shares for recovery rather than accept a substantial loss of capital. AT&T is a dominant factor in the communications industry where increasing service demands are a continuing challenge to Bell's vast research facilities. Your shares have excellent long-range potential and might help to finance your son's later years in college.

Meantime you might consider a faster growth stock like Talley Industries or EG&G — both seemingly undervalued — to prepare for 1969. The outlook for Great A&P is brighter than it has been, as slightly higher earnings were reported for fiscal 1968. Management has tightened cost controls and closed out some unprofitable units. You are likely to find better price action, though, in Del Monte, and I suggest you make this switch.

Q — Is Continental Oil a good stock to hold? We are small investors and wonder about choosing as our broker a good friend—outstanding in his business — who lives in another state or someone in our home base who is recommended by friends we trust.—W. R.

A — By all means establish your brokerage account with someone in your city who is well recommended by people whose judgment you trust. You will find it much easier to sit down face-to-face to talk over your plans and possible problems. Continental Oil is a high-grade security. The company's activities are quite broadly diversified into petro-chemicals, fertilizers and coal mining in addition to its original integrated oil operations. Earnings and dividends have been in a strong uptrend for the past 10 years, and future developments look promising.

LBJ Plans for Viet 1st Step---Broomfield

Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-18th District, said today that President Johnson's order limiting the bombing of North Vietnam coupled with his call for a reconvening of the Geneva conference to begin peace negotiations, is "a most hopeful and encouraging sign."

"While I strongly support this effort, it is only a first step," said Broomfield. "It will take more than a unilateral bombing halt and a public plea to resolve our difficulties in Vietnam.

Broomfield said that it was his hope that the President will follow his public statement with maximum pressure through diplomatic channels on the Soviet Union and Great Britain to resume talks at Geneva.

"It also would seem incumbent upon United Nations Secretary General U Thant to call together all parties to the war in Vietnam as another preliminary to a return to Geneva," Broomfield added.

★ ★ ★

"This morning I have sent a wire to U Thant urgently requesting that he follow that course. The President's words have created an opportunity to move the war to the peace table," he said.

★ ★ ★

"It is my hope that the linking of this most important proposal with the President's statement about his own political future will not jeopardize the atmosphere for a sincere effort toward negotiations."

In Memoriam 2

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Daddy Asa B. Lowery who passed away April 1, 1961.
So many things have happened since you were called away.
So many things we'd share with you if only you could have stayed.
We cannot bring the old days back,
Your hand we cannot touch.
But we still have precious memories,
Of the one we loved so much.
Sadly missed by daughters, Pauli, Lynda, and Sally.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Frances L. Fling who passed away 2 years ago today, April 1, 1966.
God saw you getting weaker
So, He did what He thought best.
He came and stood beside you,
And whispered come to rest.
You wished no one a last farewell,
Not even to say goodbye,
You had gone before we knew it
And only God knows why.
Sadly missed by husband, son, daughters, sons-in-law and grandchildren.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF Manuel Garcia who passed away April 1st, 1948.
You're not forgotten father, dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last,
I shall remember thee.
Sadly missed by daughter Dolores Farrell and family.

'No Decision Made Yet' on Blue Shield Rate Cut

LANSING (AP) — A State Insurance Bureau spokesman said today "no decision has been made to effect a reduction" in rates of the Blue Shield medical insurance plan and that the matter still is under review.

Earlier Prof. Max Shain, a public health professor at University of Michigan, had said in Ann Arbor he was informed the state was preparing to order a $20-million yearly cut in Blue Shield rates and he anticipated action within about 10 days.

* * *

Russell Van Hooser, executive assistant to Insurance Commissioner David J. Dykhouse, said in Lansing that since the matter still is under review and no decision has been made, no order obviously is in the drafting state.

"This is a very complex problem requireing a great deal of actuarial study," VanHooser said.

* * *

VanHooser added that he couldn't say what the decision might be or when it might come, emphasizing "No decision has been reached as a result of technical information which has been submitted or as a result of the hearing."

Shain had proposed a $40-million reduction in Blue Shield rates in an appearance at an insurance bureau hearing in Lansing last week.

Man Dies 11 Days After Turning 102

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Charles Shindler died Sunday in a suburban Spencerport nursing home, 11 days after observing his 102nd birthday.

Schindler, a retired barber, was born in Baden-Baden, Germany, on March 20, 1866 and was brought to this country the next year.

A widower since 1917, he leaves four grandchildren, eight great grandchildren and 11 great-great grandchildren.

Just a Game of Chicken?

CHARLESTON, W. VA. (AP) — Charleston police have a rooster tale to add to their collection of "but officer . . ." stories.

The bird was the sole occupant of a car which rolled backward into a fence, causing $100 damage.

Paul Baier of Sissonville told police he left the rooster in his car for several hours. He said the bird must have jumped onto the gear shift lever, pushing it out of the "park" position.

Trunk Lid Pops, Brings Arrest

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —Albuquerque policeman Emil Burbridge reported he saw a car bounce across some railroad tracks and the lid of the trunk pop open.

Burbridge stopped the car to investigate and found eight new tires and 110 packs of cigarettes inside. The driver was arrested when officers discovered eight tires and $180 worth of cigarettes had been taken from a service station.

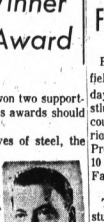
'Supporting' Oscar Winner Would Abolish 'Best' Award

By EARL WILSON

ROME—Tony Quinn, a gentle man, who has won two supporting Oscars, thinks the Best Actor and Best Actress awards should be junked.

Even for a giant like him with alleged nerves of steel, the suspense of waiting for the envelopes to be opened is too much.



WILSON

Not at all superior but more like one pleading for human dignity, Tony said, "I remember very well two years ago sitting there with Rex Harrison, Peter Sellers, Peter O'Toole and Richard Burton. Audrey Hepburn opens the envelope and looks down my side of the aisle and says 'And the winner is REX Harrison!'

"My heart jumped in my mouth. I thought it was a rather undignified position to put all of us in.

"I'll be damned if I'll sit through that again and be told I'm not good enough to win. Every artist does his best and I think that's unfair.

* * *

"Another time I was sitting there with Alec Guinness, Charles Laughton, Tony Franciosa and Marlon Brando. That time they looked down my way, too, and said, 'And the winner is ALEC GUINNESS!' "

Tony laughed. "Marlon Brando came up behind me and said, 'Tony, if you'll tell me your acceptance speech, I'll tell you mine.' "

He'd rehearsed his speech for three months and never had a chance to use it.

* * *

Tony'll forgive any nominee who doesn't show at the April 8 Oscar awards.

"I'd be for picking the five best and giving each one an award and let it go at that," he says.

A Look at TV

Nets Left Speechless

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK — Nothing seen or heard on television in years came close to the drama and surprise of President Johnson's announcement at the conclusion of his speech on Vietnam last night.

* * *

The President, looking intensely serious and a bit drawn, announced he would not seek or accept the Democratic nomination for another term.

It caught all the network correspondents, including the White House reporters, flatfooted. While there were plenty of words tossed around to fill out the midevening hour preempted by the President, the newsmen seemed reluctant to do much more than ask but not answer the questions in the mind of the average viewer.

* * *

What does the President's withdrawal mean to the other presidential hopefuls? Who will benefit? Who will be hurt? Will the enemy respond to his plan for de-escalation?

The speculation will start on the assorted news shows, tonight and there will be, undoubtedly, a rash of news specials.

* * *

"The Lucy Show," now repeating programs shown earlier this season, will not return to CBS. Lucille Ball will be back, starring in a comedy series in the same Monday night half hour, but some drastic changes will occur over the summer.

When Miss Ball returns next September, it will be no longer be as Lucy Carmichael. She will be Lucy Carter, widow with two children. And the children will be her own—Lucie, 17, and Desi Arnaz Jr., 15. Gale Gordon will no longer be Mr. Mooney, the banker, but Uncle Charlie, and Lucy will still be working for him, although no longer in a bank.

The change, Miss Ball explained, comes partly because certain rights to the old property have expired, but mostly because she thought it would be good for the show to change things around a bit. And she also wanted to get her two teenagers into the act.

* * *

"I'd been thinking about it for some time," Lucy said. "But I didn't say anything until about a month ago. At first they thought I was kidding, and then they began to get excited. It won't present any real problems—instead of going to school, they'll have a tutor. And they'll just have to work harder."

A laser beam could enable future spacecraft to store 500 photographs or 10 million bits of scientific data on a square inch strip of magnetic film, space researchers believe.

School Curriculum Features Field Trips

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Annual field trips lasting from four days to six weeks and taking students to every part of the country are part of the curriculum at Calasanctius Preparatory School, organized 10 years ago by the Piarist Fathers.

* * *

The first trip, made when the students are 10 years old, is the Great Lakes geography and history tour.

Traveling by bus, they camp out and do their own cooking, as they do on most of the trips.

Next they go either to the Middle Atlantic States where Civil War sites are visited or to New England for a closeup view of Revolutionary War landmarks.

* * *

Later they travel to the southeastern part of the United States for biology studies.

HEMISFAIR PRACTICE RUN — Water skiers practice their act as the April 6 opening date for Hemisfair '68 is just a week away. The Tower of the Americas, with its revolving top-house, looms in the background as an attraction of the San Antonio, Tex., exposition, which will contain exhibits from all parts of the world.

LBJ's Announcement Follows Truman Script

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson followed the script of a political idol, Harry S. Truman, in stunning the nation with the news he won't seek another term as President.

Johnson is the seventh incumbent president to announce he would not seek reelection. And while such news has probably surprised Americans since the day James Polk gave out the news, no president ever surprised as many people as Johnson did Sunday night.

The President chose to insert his announcement in his lengthy Vietnam speech, broadcast and telecast to a mammoth Sunday night audience at an hour which the broadcasters call "prime time."

Except for six persons, his announcement was totally unexpected, even to the newsmen who watched him read his speech in his oval office. They did not get full transcripts of the speech until after it was finished.

Johnson had confided only in Mrs. Johnson, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, Robert S. McNamara, former Pentagon chief and now president of the World Bank, and press secretary George Christian.

2nd Saturn Launch Nears

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (UPI) — With the last major ground-test hurdle passed, Apollo 6 crewmen today readied the second Saturn 5 rocket for launch Thursday on what may be the final unmanned Apollo test flight.

The important 10-hour mission is designed to qualify the moon rocket for manned launchings, and a success would keep intact the space agency's ambitious plans to send men to the moon as early as mid-1969.

The 363-foot Saturn 5 passed its final big prelaunch test yesterday afternoon.

The exercise was a rehearsal countdown that included fueling the rocket and virtually everything but ignition of its five booster engines.

The countdown test had been stalled twice by separate troubles involving the rocket's first and third stages, but the final seven hours of the test went well yesterday.

* * *

For the Apollo 6 mission, the Saturn 5 will propel its unmanned Apollo spacecraft toward a peak altitude of 13,820 miles. The rocket's third stage will continue on a simulated trajectory to the moon and travel some 320,000 miles from earth.

The Apollo 6 ship is scheduled to drive back into earth's atmosphere at the 25,000-mile-an-hour return speed moon pilots will encounter.

The spacecraft will land near a recovery force in the Pacific Ocean nine hours, 49 minutes after launch.

LBJ: Decision Not to Run Irrevocable

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says his bombshell announcement that "I shall not seek and I will not accept" nomination for another term is "completely irrevocable."

Johnson voiced his emotion-packed pronouncement in a television-radio address to the nation last night. Then he met with newsmen in the White House living quarters and sought to dispel any suspicion that he might change his mind or succumb to a draft.

To do this, he used the phrase "completely irrevocable."

★ ★ ★

Also up in the air were the plans of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who might join Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in the 1968 Democratic sweepstakes.

MOST STUNNING MOVE

A man of many surprises, Johnson's announcement was his most stunning move in a 37-year career in politics. No president eligible to succeed himself has spurned a fight for the office since Harry

Text of Speech, Page A-8; Related Stories, Pages A-2, B-8, C-6, C-11, D-12

S. Truman bowed out in 1952 during the controversial Korean War.

Johnson attributed his decision—which aides said was a year in the making — to controversies rending the nation at this time, including the Vietnam war.

"With America's sons in the fields far away, with America's future under challenge right here at home, with our hopes and the world's hopes for peace in the balance every day, I do not believe that I should devote an hour or a day of my time to any personal partisan causes or to any duties other than the awesome duties of this office— the Presidency of your country.

★ ★ ★

"Accordingly, I shall not seek, and I will not accept, the nomination of my party for another term as your President."

Johnson tacked the disclosure of his very personal decision onto a major Vietnam policy speech in which he announced his broadest-yet peace move: an immediate and indefinite halt in most air and sea bombardment of North Vietnam as "the first step to de-escalate the conflict."

Candidates, politicians of all stripes and ordinary citizens appeared alike in reacting to Johnson's announcement with astonishment.

"I was surprised," said Richard M. Nixon.

★ ★ ★

McCarthy echoed that sentiment but added that Johnson had made a "generous judgment" clearing the way for national reconciliation.

Kennedy withheld immediate comment.

Humphrey, in Mexico City for a treaty-signing ceremony, said he was saddened.

"I can't believe it," said a GI on the street in Saigon.

★ ★ ★

Within half an hour after Johnson finished speaking, small knots of young people turned out to cheer in a light drizzle in front of the White House. One group from George Washington University carried a bedsheet on which they had hastily lettered the legend, "Thanks L.B.J."

N. Viet Bomb Halt Opposed by Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's order halting most bombing and naval shelling of North Vietnam clashes with the expressed convictions of key military leaders that it is vital to hit harder.

Johnson last night ordered U. S. planes and warships "to make no attacks on North Vietnam, except in the area north of the Demilitarized Zone." Presumably, the order was effective at once.

He permitted strikes only in a sector "where the continuing enemy buildup directly threatens allied forward positions and where the movements of their troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat."

The President's action exempts almost 90 per cent of North Vietnam's 17 million people and most of its territory—including Hanoi, the port of Haiphong and the rice-producing regions of food-short North Vietnam.

Military sources said they believe the bombing and shelling will be compressed into a section south of Dong Hoi, a major point on the supply lines, about 35 miles above the DMZ.

INCLUDES KEY PASS

This section, they said, includes the Mu Gia pass, through which many of North Vietnam's trucks drive with their loads of war supplies and munitions for North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers in South Vietnam.

One member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff told a reporter privately within the past 10 days that he feels strongly the United States should broaden and intensify the air war against the North.

Other senior officers, contacted after the President's limit-the-bombing order, made it plain they oppose it.

★ ★ ★

'NOT REMUNERATIVE'

"I have always opposed that . . . because In think in the long run it would not be remunerative unless there are clear indications which are not apparent now," said the former JCS chairman and U.S. ambassador to Saigon.

When Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford was before the Senate Armed Services Committee tor confirmation in late January, he said "I do not" favor cessation of bombing of North Vietnam.

"Up until now, I have felt that it would be damaging to our cause," Clifford said at that time. But he indicated the time might come when conditios might change.

There was no immediate word as to Clifford's current views on the bombing question, although he long has been one of Johnson's chief counselors.

The bombing restriction overshadowed Johnson's announcement adding up to an increase of about 25,000 men in Vietnam.

This boost, to be carried out over a period of about five months, will raise U.S. forces to a new high of 550,000 in Vietnam.

The president's speech carried no indication of any change in the ground strategy of the war.

Harriman Pick for Presidential Peace Mission

WASHINGTON (AP)— W. Averell Harriman, the sophisticated millionaire who held seven jobs under President Harry S. Truman and three under President John F. Kennedy, has been tapped for another presidential mission with a familiar goal: Peace.

Harriman is 76 years old and if North Vietnam's representatives show up at the negotiating table, as President Johnson expressed hope last night they will, they are destined to deal with a U.S. diplomat of almost unparalleled experience.

Johnson said on his nationwide address that Harriman and Soviet Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson will be ready to go to Geneva "or any other suitable place—just as soon as Hanoi agrees to a conference."

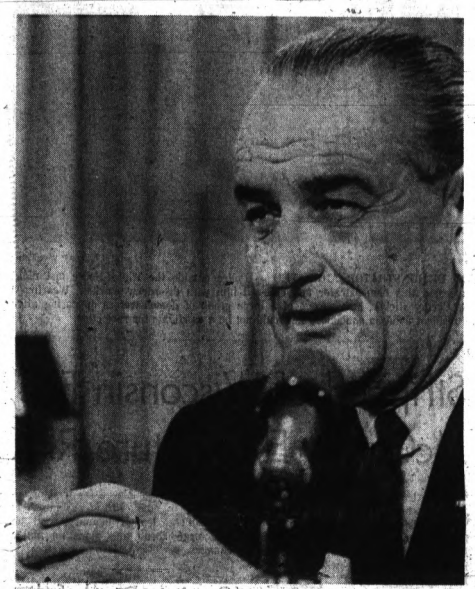
Harriman currently is ambassador at large and has for some time been active in U. S. efforts to secure peace talks.

Harriman has journeyed around the world on similar missions since the Cold War began at the close of World War II.

RAN RAILROAD

The scion of one of America's great railroad families—he once ran the Union Pacific Railroad — Harriman first came to Washington when Franklin D. Roosevelt was in the White House, working in key domestic agencies.

But diplomacy seemed his real love and Roosevelt gave him some challengng posts—work on the Lend Lease program just before the war which often meant European flights through air combat zones, and ambassador to Moscow in 1943.



"Accordingly, I shall not seek, and I will not accept, the nomination of my party for another term as your president."

Seeking a Meeting

Bobby Wires LBJ

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said today he has sent a telegram to President Johnson asking for a meeting soon in the light of the chief executive's withdrawal from the presidential race.

In his first comment since last night's announcement by Johnson, Kennedy said he had praised the president for "subordinating self to country."

Kennedy told a crowded news conference that "I feverently hope" the new move for peace in Vietnam will succeed.

In Mexico City, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, suddenly in a position to seek the Democratic presidential nomination if he wants to, gave no immediate hint of his plans last night.

★ ★ ★

In a brief statement, he said he knew in advance of President Johnson's decision not to seek reelection and deeply regretted that decision.

TO SIGN TREATY

The vice president is in Mexico to sign a treaty banning nuclear weapons in Latin America.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, another announced candidate, readily conceded he was surprised. But he lauded Johnson for a "generous judgment" that he said would clear the way for national reconciliation.

Here are some other comments from leading political figures on President Johnson's decision not to seek reelection:

John M. Bailey, Democratic national chairman: "President Johnson's decision demonstrates his greatness and concern over the future of the nation."

★ ★ ★

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller: No immediate comment.

'SEEKING PEACE'

Sen. J. W. Fulbright: "This lends credence to the belief that he is seeking peace. He has realized the seriousness of this war."

There was no immediate comment from either former President Harry S. Truman or Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said today he thought President Johnson might "change his mind" if a draft movement developed at the Democratic National Convention in August.

★ ★ ★

Shock and amazement swept over most Michigan political leaders.

PUZZLEMENT

State Rep. William Ryan of Democrat was puzzled: "I wonder if Johnson is really out."

But Neil Staebler, Democratic national committeeman from Michigan, was convinced: "I should think one would take him at his word."

Gov. George Romney, a Republican who preceded Johnson in the bow-out parade that included Gov. Rockefeller, could not be reached for comment.

★ ★ ★

To Staebler, it was "one of the great moments of statesmanship in American history."

★ ★ ★

Ryan called it "a very noble thing, putting the good of the country ahead of his own personal goals."

State Sen. Sander Levin of Berkley, Michigan's Democratic state chairman, called it a "difficult and momentous" step.

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit, who said he was "surprised and stunned like every other American," hailed Johnson as having "made a tremendous record as the leader of our country."

Area Residents to Vote

A fair-housing referendum and another school millage vote are featured today as citizens of seven area communities, two school districts and one township got to the polls.

The referendum will take place in Birmingham, whre a city ordinance passed Nov. 29 by the City Commission and later susepnded by public petitins will be on the ballot.

The filing of petitions by a group called the Birmingham Referendum Committee in January forced the City Commission to either repeal the ordinance or subject

Bloomfield Hills school district voters will be asked to approve the largest hike — 14 mills — to be requested by any area district this year.

In addition, residents of the City of Bloomfield Hills will be voting on whether to allow the installation of a municipal water system. By charter, the proposal requires a two-thirds majority.

'INCREASE NECESSARY'

School officials have said the increase is necessary because of a $1.3-million deficit facing the district at the end of this school year and because of the district's rapid growth. A total of 10 mills, about 71 per cent of the hike, would be used to pay all costs related to new classrooms and students, they said.

In Lapeer a city charter amendment to allow the establishment of a municipal court is scheduled for a vote.

A $480,000 bond issue for new construction will be on the ballot in the Novi school district, and Rose Township

LBJ to Chicago to Make Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson flew to Chicago today to address the National Association of Broadcasters.

The White House kept his destination a secret until the presidential jet had taken off from Andrews Air Force Base.

The surprise trip to Chicago was confirmed by an Air Force officer at O'Hare International Airport after it was learned the President's bubble-top automobile arrived by cargo plane.

Secret Service men were stationed in the lobby and other areas of the Conrad Hilton Hotel where the broadcasters are gathered.

Two Brothers Retire From Pontiac Div.

Two brothers who both came to work for Pontiac Motor Division on the same day in 1926 just to earn enough money to move on to California never moved and today — 42 years later — both are retiring.

In addition to establishing one of the longest service records, the fact that Dain and Cale McKown started and retired on the same day makes theirs one of the rarest cases in Pontiac's personnel files.

★ ★ ★

Dain had thought of retiring earlier but then Cale mentioned he would be retiring soon it was decided that since they came together they would leave together.

★ ★ ★

Natives of Arkansas, the brothers remember being out of work in Detroit when it was announced that a new car, the Pontiac, was being introduced and production jobs were available. The two rode a streetcar from Detroit to Pontiac and on April 27, 1926, Dain became a machine operator on small engine parts and Cale was assigned as bell housing machine operator.

★ ★ ★

"At that time there were no fences around the company property or plant protection men either," Cale recalled.

THROUGH THE RANKS

Both men moved up through the ranks in their respective plants and Dain was instrumental in starting the valve line prior to Pontiac's introduction of the straight eight-cylinder engine.

Johnson's Default Gives Democratic Lead to Kennedy

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, DN.Y., emerges as the leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination after President Johnson's world-resounding announcement that he will not seek renomination.

The mathematics of politics ordinarily would assure Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., the uncringing challenger of the President's expected bid for a selective term, top place among the contenders for the vacated prize.

But in the emotional year of 1968, the money and the myth of Camelot are all on Kennedy's side.

McCarthy will get a satisfying boost by winning Wisconsin's presidential primary Tuesday after the President's default. But once the balloting is over, some Wisconsin leaders of the Johnson and McCarthy organizations may swing quickly to Kennedy.

* * *

News Analysis

FIRST COUNTDOWN

McCarthy and Kennedy will face their first countdown at the ballot box on May 7 in Indiana, where the voters are reputed to be considerably more conservative than either.

Both McCarthy and Kennedy have focused their campaign attacks on Johnson's Vietnam policies. Johnson's announcement that he is "substantially reducing" the current level of hostilities on a unilateral basis is exactly what both have called for.

They and other doves who have opposed the President's policies vigorously in the Senate could only applaud the President's decision to eliminate 90 per cent of the air attacks on North Vietnam.

Yet in reversing the hard line he has taken, Johnson stuck to the proviso that the bombing lull must be matched by "restraint in Hanoi" if there are to be peace negotiations. But his observation that "the main burden of preserving their freedom must be carried out by the South Vietnamese themselves" fitted fitted exactly the Kennedy-McCarthy precepts.

* * *

Even in their wildest dreams, however, the dissenters did not expect Johnson to say: "I shall not seek—and will not accept—the nomination of my party for another term as your president."

This was not in context with the ideas of almost every political pro. These knowledgable ones thought Johnson would never give up, never obliterate his ambition to become the president who had served longest next to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The reaction of Richard M. Nixon, the leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, that Johnson "may have strengthened his hand in the party and made it possible for him to name his successor" was not shared generally by political leaders.

73 Degrees, Big Snow

March Weather Full of Surprises

Oakland County residents who thrive on variety and surprises must have delighted in the antics of the March weather. The month treated them to the season's warmest day and the heaviest snowfall, all within a week.

The month's high of 73°degrees was reached March 28 and the 12-inch snowfall was March 23. Traffic was nearly paralyzed and commercial business establishments felt a definite pinch for what few employes did manage to report for work had fewer customers to wait on. Many stores closed their doors early.

Total accumulation of snow for the month was 15 inches as compared to 8½ inches which fell the previous March. Total rainfall for last month amounted to .45 of an inch, .40 more than the previous March.

The low of seven degrees was recorded on the 13th. It was 10 degrees warmer than the minus three degrees which was chalked up in March 1967. Mean temperature for last month totaled 38.02 as compared to 33.7 of last March.

* * *

There were 19 days of sunshine sprinkled through the month's 31 days to delight area residents and hold out a promise of better things to come.

Hopefully, residents put away their snow shovels and retrieved their lawn equipment from dark corners of garages and basements. Though the shovels were busy at times through the year, they were not as busy as in 1967. Total snow accumulation for this year amounted to 46.3 inches as compared to last year's seasonal total of 61.75 inches.

The last weekend in March was the answer to a gardener's prayer with temperatures in the low 50s, perfect for raking, fertilizing and seeding lawns.

Stripped of Wisconsin Foe, McCarthy Eyes Future, RFK

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — President Johnson has suddenly stripped Wisconsin's presidential primary of its feature contest, and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy vowed today an all-out effort in campaigns ahead — with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy the rival.

Wisconsin votes tomorrow. But with Johnson out of the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, McCarthy said voters of other states must register the choice, "a different choice," now.

Indiana, Nebraska, Oregon and California will be the testing grounds, the Minnesota senator said. In those states, McCarthy and Kennedy, a powerful contender with parallel views on Vietnam, meet in primaries.

McCarthy said he will wage those campaigns "as thoroughly and as hard and as effectively as I can."

Johnson's announcement that he would neither seek nor accept renomination left McCarthy with only a withdrawn opponent to test his prospects in Wisconsin.

Out of the contest for the nomination, Johnson is still on the ballot.

McCarthy, who blazed the trail of opposition to the President in New Hampshire's leadoff primary, said he will forge ahead and plans no major changes.

Soviets Doubtful, Scornful of LBJ

MOSCOW (UPI) — The official Soviet news agency Tass today expressed doubt on President Johnson's decision to shun reelection and scorn on his order to end most of the bombing of North Vietnam.

The agency, in the first Soviet reaction to the President's Sunday night speech, said his announced exit from politics may have been only a maneuver aimed at renomination and reelection.

It reacted negatively to the partial bombing cessation and said:

"By refusing to fully discontinue the barbaric bombing the United States continues to ignore the legitimate demands of the (North) Vietnamese government and world public opinion, which insists on a full and unconditional cessation of bombing and all acts of war against the Vietnamese people."

Eleven hours after Johnson's speech Tass finally made the first Soviet announcement of his decision not to seek reelection.

Chief Asks Citizens Not to Arm

BIRMINGHAM—Chief of Police Darryl L. Bruestle has recommended that a general letter be sent to residents of this city urging cooperation with regular law enforcement agencies in the event of any civil disturbance.

In asking the City Commission to approve sending of the letter with the regular water bill mailing, Bruestle said he felt it might "dispel some of the concern that has been expressed by the community."

The letter, scheduled to be considered at tonight's commission meeting, stresses the ability of established agencies to deal with any disturbances and asks citizens to refrain from arming themselves.

"Overreaction by the public," it states, "may cause police as much or more trouble as the initial incident."

Also on tonight's agenda is a request from residents on Abbey between Oxford and Warwick for stop signs at Abbey and Warwick. A letter, signed by 10 citizens, called attention to the fact that there are no stop signs between Adams and Wimbleton.

In the block from Oxford to Warwick, it noted, there are 14 children 10 years of age and under.

Holly School Walkout Ends

Pickets were withdrawn from around schools in the Holly district today as officials announced that an agreement had been reached to end a walkout involving about 60 bus drivers, custodians and cooks.

Under the agreement, negotiations with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes will be resumed tomorrow, Assistant Supt. of Schools Bruce Mitchell reported.

The work stoppage had halted bus service and the hot lunch program at the district's five schools after bargaining talks broke down Friday.

Attendance will likely be lower than normal today, though no estimate is available, Mitchell said. However, he paced the level of attendance Friday at about 40 per cent in the secondary schools and 50 to 60 per cent in elementary schools.

Rightist Take-Over Feared by Dr. King

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Congress fails to meet the needs of America's poor, right-wingers will take over the nation and turn the United States into "a fascist state," says Dr. Martin Luther King.

King said yesterday that rioting surpassing last summer's urban violence could lead to a right-wing takeover. And, he added, unless Cofigress acts — and acts quickly — to solve the problems of the ghetto, rioting will continue.

King met newsmen after speaking against the Vietnam War at services before an overflow crowd of 4,000 at Washington's National Cathedral. The turnout was five times the normal Sunday gathering at the cathedral, near a neighborhood of fashionable, expensive homes.

Stalinist Probe Figure Missing

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The supreme court judge heading an investigation of persecution during Czechoslovakia s Stalinist era has been missing since Thursday, and police say they still have no clues.

Authorities do not rule out foul play or suicide in the case of Dr. Jozef Brestansky, the nation's second-ranking judge, who was reported yesterday to have vanished after leaving his office for the Justice Ministry half a mile away.

Responsible sources said Brestansky had access to all secret records of the Stalinist purges and on a half-hearted rehabilitation in 1964 of some of the victims. They said he was certain to know who played behind-the-scenes roles in the purges and at whose orders the earlier rehabilitation was kept almost completely secret.

The case evoked memories of the death of Charles H. Jordan, an American aid executive who disappeared in Prague last August. His body was retrieved from the Vltava River four days later. That case is still open.

* * *

Brestansky's investigation was launched by the new reformist Communist leadership to rehabilitate victims of Stalinist persecution. About 30,000 cases are involved.

BESTIALITIES SUSPECTED

In the lates issue of the cultural weekly Literarny Disti, writer Filip Jansky said he interviewed survivors of Stalinist jails and "I have the well-founded suspicion that bestialities were committed in our coutry during the 50s."

"People were brought to interrogation like cattle, a bag over their heads, their hands and feet chained, blinded by light, chased by the whip, beaten until they fainted," he wrote.

Road Complaints Cause Headaches

By DICK ROBINSON

Oakland County residents who complain to the County Road Commission about holes in their gravel roads are not the only ones who have headaches.

* * *

"It is our headache to determine where and when grading work is to be done," says Richard Kincaid, the commission's assistant maintenance superintendent.

Kincaid said residents usually bring poor roads to the attention of the commission but don't realize that funds are inadequate to meet all needs.

Then, too, he says, citizens do complain about the jobs they know very little about.

* * *

Funds for road grading of gravel roads which are a major portion of the roads under commission jurisdiction come to the commission from gasoline tax and license plate revenues, Bud Speace, supervisor of the account department, said.

BUDGET SET UP

A road maintenance budget is set up for each of 23 townships served by the commission on the basis of 35 per cent for population and 65 per cent for miles of road, according to Speace.

This year's total maintenance budget for the townships is $85,000, a portion of which goes for grading.

Taken out of the townsships' budgets are the entire costs for a grading project — wages, rental of equipment and materials, Kincaid said.

* * *

"In very few cases do the townships pay themselves for the work," Speace reported.

COSTS DEDUCTED

Even so, costs are deducted from the townships budgets. For example, a road grader base wage is $3.23 per hour and a small road grader rents for $5.05 per hour plus 41 cents for the blade.

Kincaid reports that most of the grading is done in the spring and fall with chloride being put on the dirt roads in the summer.

Workers are now grading roads to let the gravel dry out with more extensive jobs to correct ruts later. Residents may even buy gravel and have the road commission spread it.

Two main pieces of equipment used in grading — or called blading by the commission — are a dump truck with a floating blade under it and a motor grader.

Johnson Detonates a Bombshell

President JOHNSON's announcement to the American people last night can only be described as a bombshell.

Devoting the major part of it to spelling out the Administration's sudden decision to unilaterally de-escalate the Vietnam war, the President reserved for the conclusion his stunner that he "would not seek nor accept the nomination for another term as President."

JOHNSON

The change in attitude with respect to the war, considering the growing opposition to the present conduct of it, held relatively little shock value for the countless millions who made up LBJ's radio and TV audience, but his disavowal of interest in another term as Chief Executive had explosive impact.

★ ★ ★

It is too early to bring into focus the many implications inherent in the two dimensions of Johnson's announcement:

• What effect the shift in Vietnam war strategy will have on America's role in that country and Southeast Asia, and what it portends for the welfare of the South Vietnamese and their newly formed democratic government.

• The bearing it will have on the already surging competition for the Democratic presidential nomination, with Vice President Hubert Humphrey almost certain to become a belated candidate supported by Presidential blessing.

Uppermost in most minds is the question of why LBJ decided against another bid for the presidency — a rare action for an eligible incumbent of the office.

In his announcement, the President said that the move stemmed from his supreme desire to bring peace to Vietnam and the United States, and that he could better serve that end by removing himself from the political arena. Such a step, he explained, would enable him to concentrate fully on his pursuit of peace free of the heavy demands imposed by a campaign for the presidency, and at the same time hopefully to impress Hanoi that the de-escalation decision was no more than a political ploy.

Until events prove otherwise, we're inclined to accept Lyndon Johnson's version of his startling withdrawal from the presidential race, leaving to others the cynicism and searching for hidden motives that might have prompted it.

Voice of the People:

We Need Positive Action on Disaster in Vietnam

Seven years have passed with no positive decision being made on the disaster in Vietnam. More and more boys are dying because we refuse to eliminate the negative thoughts of people who do not care whether a boy dies since they and their families are not affected.

★ ★ ★

It is time to accentuate the positive by being united on whether or not we are at war; eliminate the negative demonstrations by declaring war or "no war;" latch on to the affirmative by giving freedom to every boy or by drafting every boy; and stop messing around with Mr. Inbetween by uniting behind one thought, one decision and one nation.

Letter Comments on Support for Schools

The fact that Catholic schools may be able to ward off or dilute public control of their schools while at the same time gaining public funds should give both Catholic and non-Catholic something to think about. Catholics already exercise what is often a dominant administrative and political direction of public schools. That is what the black power advocates are asking for in their schools. Both are looking for a school system separate and independent of the state but supported by the state.

Comments on Efforts to Repair City Streets

It would be better to save the money and manpower that is used in putting asphalt in the chuckholes around our City this time of year and wait until weather permits to fix the roads properly. The City probably feels that the situation is like pouring water in the ocean—it doesn't do much good but every little bit helps.

Reader Gives Views on War in Vietnam

It makes me sick to read letters from the cowards of America who just sit back and yell about Vietnam. I was confused and asked my cousin to write what he thought of the situation over there. In one letter he said, "We have too much in Vietnam to give it up now." I'm so ashamed of the troublemakers for his sake and all the boys in Vietnam.

Actions of Some People Raise Questions

If white people don't want riots, why do they allow their children to have BB guns to break the windows of my renters? For ten years I have rented to nice people. They are clean and mind their own business, but because their skin is dark some people hate them. When parents allow their children to have BB guns when it's against the law, who is breaking the law, the parents or the kids?

David Lawrence Says:

China's Subversion Widespread

WASHINGTON — Some of the most sensational news of what is going on around the world comes out in small fragments from time to time and is not always pieced together so that people may understand its true significance.

LAWRENCE

Today, for instance, Red China is engaged in a far-reaching revolutionary movement aimed at underdeveloped countries — nearly 100 in number and with two thirds of the world's population.

Subversion and infiltration and the training and arming of terrorist and guerrilla fighters are widespread. Much of this activity has been encouraged by the success of the Red Chinese in Vietnam.

The Peking government now is planting the seeds of more "wars of liberation" patterned after the Vietnam conflict. Information collected from various capitals of the world indicates that the Red Chinese are making substantial progress.

Burma is being threatened, and is moving army units in the area between Red China and India, where the Chinese Reds openly support Burmese rebels. Red China is reaching into northeast India to help rebel tribes.

★ ★ ★

From Cambodia, Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia and Borneo come reports of guerrillas operating with Chinese-made arms.

NOT ALOOF

The Soviet Union is by no means standing aloof.

In the Mideast, for instance, it trains and arms Arab armies, while Red China works with Arab terrorists. Israel has revealed that some of the terrorist leaders captured in recent raids in Jordan had been trained in Red China for such missions.

Throughout Africa, too, Red China is very active.

★ ★ ★

In this hemisphere, the Chinese Reds have a base in Cuba.

AVOIDS INTERFERENCE

Oddly enough, the United Nations, which is supposed to provide a peace-keeping machinery throughout the world, avoids interference in "internal affairs."

This policy is followed even though it is known that domestic conditions in several countries are deliberately worsened from the outside as disorders are instigated by Red Chinese who are experts in revolutionary tactics.

If the strong nations do not unite somehow to thwart the start of small wars around the globe, it seems certain that sooner or later the major powers will find themselves involved, and the problems will be as frustrating as they now are in Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

The Red Chinese are delighted with their own progress. Over the weekend, the embassy of Red China in London issued a statement in behalf of the vice premier and foreign minister, Marshal Chen Yi, which said: "The international situation is excellent."

Business Finds Merger Answers Many Problems

Today, the merger has become a major factor in the growth and development of leading corporate enterprises throughout the United States. In 1966 alone, there were more than 1,500 mergers between companies.

Judging by the merger rash so prevalent on the business scene, it might appear that a sure-fire secret of success had at last been found. But such is not the case. Stringing together a series of companies with completely unrelated interests simply for the sake of creating something big makes little sense.

★ ★ ★

But, on the other hand, if two companies can combine their resources and technical knowhow to solve problems which neither would be able to tackle alone and fill a real need, everybody benefits — the companies involved, their stockholders, employes, customers and the national economy.

Commenting on his own organization's successful merger policy, one of the Nation's leading industrialists observed: "For a company to develop complete competence in the whole range of science would take years. It could scarcely master the current technology, let alone develop new techniques and new products. Society would be the loser because many advances would never reach the market at a price people could afford . . . Thus mergers that combine technologies, that help in the race against time are fundamental building blocks in constructing the corporation of tomorrow."

★ ★ ★

The intelligent, productive merging of one company with another is unquestionably a dynamic force for innovation and development in our economic system. It enables American enterprise not only to keep up with the unprecedented rate of change that surrounds us but to lead in using its resources and vision to make the world a better place to live.

Bob Considine Says:

FDR's Mentor, Farley, Firmly Behind Johnson

NEW YORK — People . . . places . . .

Let there be no question as to where James A. Farley stands on the matter of President Johnson vs. Sen. Robert Kennedy.

CONSIDINE

Speaking in New York not long ago, FDR's mentor and former postmaster general said, "I, frankly, had never expected to see the 100 basic pieces of legislation enacted by Franklin D. Roosevelt equalled. President Johnson has at least equalled and he may have surpassed them . . .

"There isn't any doubt that President Johnson desires to bring this war to a successful conclusion as quickly as possible. The fact that we have not been able to negotiate is no fault of ours. The enemy refuses.

"I'm sure President Johnson has the wholehearted support of the vast majority of the American people . . . I pray that God will give him the health and strength to carry on until it is all over."

Farley and Joseph P. Kennedy Sr., were not friends when they worked in the New Deal. But the former postmaster developed a great attachment for President John F. Kennedy.

BREATHTAKING PACE

Now he's as opposed to his brother as he was to the father.

Farley, who will be 80 in May, has resumed his breathtaking pace and work schedule. Minor surgery caused him to miss his first St. Patrick's Day parade in well over a half a century. But he was philosophical about it the other day.

"Probably just as well," he said with a smile. "If I had gone over to Fifth Avenue that day I might have gotten into an altercation with Bobby."

Science Takes Gander at Gals' Gams

By H. V. HEELDENBRAND

At no time in history has the world been so survey prone as it now is. You name it, and somebody'll survey it—for a fee of course.

Heldenbrand

But now our British cousins have launched a survey that should be watched with keenest interest — on international as well as domestic levels.

What is afoot is a survey of women's legs. Nothing new about that you say, especially on the part of male surveyors? Sure, sure, I know —but this one's different.

★ ★ ★

Backed by a university grant, a British lady scientist will study 1,000 pairs of feminine legs on the belief that configuration of a gal's gams are revelatory of her native origin, social standing (pun intended) and intellectual potential. (I'm still a disciple of the old-fashioned doctrine that if a girl is born with lucky legs, why waste brains on her?)

Just why this fascinating investigation should be given to a woman and money — of which Britain is in noticeably short supply — spent on it, when it could be accomplished for free by letting any man simply do what comes naturally, nobody but an Englishman could explain.

Although girl watching, a euphemism for leg looking, has really come into its own in recent years with the high level of visibility afforded by climbing hemlines, your observer can remember when a public peek at a feminine ankle — women didn't have "legs" in those days — was an experience both rare and provocative.

★ ★ ★

Such exotic but skimpy eyefuls of cheesecake, well shrouded by an assortment of fluttering petticoats, were almost exclusively to be enjoyed when the belles of the day stretched for the high steps of streetcars. In the eyes of the males of the era, any streetcar was named Desirable.

And the boys didn't do much better at bathing beaches in pursuit of pulchritude. True, the skirts of the vintage bathing suits stopped at the knee, but after the eye ran down the unexciting, swathed torso of a lovely to be met by a pair of cotton-sheathed extremities, you felt that something was wrong with the picture.

Judging by today's fashions, there was.

Offhand, I can't think of any item of equipment that combines the aesthetic with the utilitarian as does the distaff shank. Certainly no other anatomical appendage can even give it a run for the money.

If you aren't busy for a few minutes, consider what little difference it makes in the public admiration of the statue of Venus of Milo that the beauty is armless. But had she been sculpted differently and unearthed a century and a half ago without legs instead of arms, you can bet your last icon that the goddess would have gone as scrap statuary instead of into the Louvre.

Significantly, the British legologist (my word) has no intention of subjecting male legs to scientific scrutiny.

"They're not so interesting as women's," she explained—no doubt with her learned tongue in cheek.

But regardless of whether her calf-check conclusions contribute to the leg lore of mankind or are kicked into limbo, the lady just came up with the understatement of the year.

Two months ago, warships of Communist North Korea forcibly seized the USS Pueblo and its 83-man crew while the lightly armed American vessel was conducting intelligence operations in international waters off the North Korean coast.

The President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson, termed the incident "a wanton, aggressive act," adding: "Clearly, this cannot be accepted."

His words were followed by an Executive Order calling almost 15,000 Air Force, Air National Guard, and Naval Air reservists to active duty.

All that happened in January. February has come and gone. We now are beyond the Ides of March and the Pueblo and its crew remain in North Korean hands.

Dallas Morning Star

Amid the roaring controversy of increased taxes and reduced federal spending in Washington, some quiet, thoughtful voices continue to question the relevancy of it all.

Certainly government spending is high and should be reduced. Certainly the income tax drains enough cream off the average workingman's income.

But, even if we cut federal spending and hold the line on taxes, haven't we missed the point of the whole problem?

It was during the first fight over President Johnson's proposed income tax "surcharge" that House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur Mills declared firmly, "We are trying to get this message across: We want to pause in this headlong rush toward ever-bigger government."

★ ★ ★

Since that day in 1967, Rep. Mills has explained and re-explained the position of his committee. It's this: We need not merely cut the federal budget, we must find out why it's so big. Our resources are limited. We are not rich enough for both guns and butter. The time has come to set priorities in spending.

In the last 20 years federal spending has increased by 133 per cent on a per-capita basis. The current cost is $776 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

Fully 20 per cent of the national income passes through the federal till every year. Yet no one man or agency knows where the money's going or how efficiently it is being spent.

★ ★ ★

Congress, whose real power is in control of the national purse strings, has allowed federal spending to double in 20 years.

★ ★ ★

It is not unfair for the taxpayer to demand a report on how and where the money has been invested, what returns it has earned for the nation and what needs of the future should be met with future tax dollars.

Legislature Setting Brisk Pace, Hoping for June Adjournment

LANSING (AP) — The 74th Michigan Legislature is moving along at a brisker pace this year than last, but a long and rocky road still stretches from today to its hoped-for June 26 adjournment.

Unlike last year, lawmakers have been successful this session in sticking to the work deadlines they set themselves at the bebinning of the year. Meanwhile, progess has been made on major legislation.

Some reasons behind the speed up include:

● The absecne of last year's marathon battles over whether to pass a state income tax, battles that forced a long delay in working on the state budget and left less time for other legislative matters.

★ ★ ★

● The fact that fewer bills were introduced this year, because last year's bills were still alive and eligible for passage when the current session began.

● The fact that members of the House of Representatives are up for reelection this year, facing primaries Aug. 6 and the general election Nov. 5. They want to be sure of getting home in time to do some campaigning.

TAX DEBATE

Last year, debates over a state income tax overshadowed everything else in the Michigan Captiol — even the $1-billion-plus budget recommended by Gov. George Romney.

A 2.6 per cent personal income levy was approved, but not until the early hours of July 1 — the day the new fiscal year began.

Meanwhile, uncertainty over whether the revenue-raising tax package would pass made it impossible to peg the level of state spending for the new year. The executive budget bills didn't even come out of committee until mid-June.

★ ★ ★

Things are different this year. The Senate has already approved its share of Romney's rewritten $1.3 billion budget, and only two House bills remain to be approved.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

Last year the Legislature, particularly the House, found itself running behind schedule amost at once. The House twice had to extend its deadline for introducing bills when the billdrafting Legislative Service Bureau found itself jammed with requests.

This year the deadlines for bill introductions and for reporting bills from committee in the House where they originate have both passed without extension.

This year's schedule calls for passage of all bills by one House before a week from Thursday — a tough goal to meet, since the House alone has more than 240 measures on its calendar today. Either chamber could, without the other's permission, extend the deadline for passage of all but budget bills, to April 19.

★ ★ ★

The schedule calls for committee action in the second House by May 10, passage in the second House by May 24, and final adjournment on June 26.

TIME-CONSUMPRS

Besides this year's budget bills, lawmakers face some other controversial and probably time-consuming issues that could knock the buggy off the track. Notable examples are open housing and lower court reorganization.

Obvjously benefiting from the weeks it spent on the court issue last year, the House has already come up with the needed two-thirds vote for a 54-page measure setting up a new lower court system.

The bill has been in Senate committee for some time, and may emerge in considerably different form. If so, reaching agreement between the House and Senate could eat up valuable session days.

★ ★ ★

Open housing, defeated in the House last year, is now before the Senate, where a determined band of opponents is attempting to stall final action. The measure absorbed a lot of time in the House last year, and probably will again if the chamber takes it up.

IN THE HOPPER

Other major items awaiting legislative consideration this year include a $435-million bond issue, unprecedented in Michigan, for recreation and water pollution control; more anti-crime and antiriot bills; various bills to deal with strikes by teachers and other public employes; and a boost in the state minimum wage.

Also: four-year terms for House members; state enforcement of local housing codes; legalized electronic eavesdropping; gubernatorial power to fill vacant judgeships; greyhound racing; stop and frisk; pesticide controls; and Sunday liquor.

State Fire Peril on Rise Again

By United Press International

The danger of grassland fires through much of Lower Michigan was on the rise again today after fires destroyed hundreds of acres of grassland, brush and forest land over the weekend.

The danger subsided Sunday when scattered showers dampened the dry areas. But, with lower humidity and brisk winds, the areas will again dry out with a resultant increase in the fire danger, the weather bureau at Houghton Lake reported.

★ ★ ★

Some 200 acres near Battle Creek, between the airport and Fort Custer were ablaze, Saturday with Battle Creek and surrounding community fire departments battling the blazes.

Grassland fires near Jackson Community College at one point threatened several buildings.

★ ★ ★

The Galdwin area alone reported 22 separate grass fires in a 24-hour period over the weekend. Other smaller blazes were reported in scattered sections of Eaton, Ingham, Midland and Oscoda counties over the weekend.

Let Parents Make Judgments

Jack Valenti Answers Film Critic

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A while back someone wrote to you complaining because motion pictures were getting dirtier and dirtier. And you replied, "Now that Jack Valenti is president of the Motion Picture association, we can all sleep a little better."

ABBY

I don't know about you, Abby, but I haven't been sleeping any better since Mr. Valenti took over. Could Mr. Valenti be the one who is sleeping? So far I haven't noticed any improvement. If anything, I think movies are dirtier than ever. Why doesn't your Mr. Valenti do something?

I don't expect to see this in print. You'll probably just toss it into the wastebasket, but I had to write anyway. Sincerely,

"SOLD OUT"

DEAR SOLD OUT: I didn't toss your letter into the wastebasket. Instead I tossed it into an envelope and sent it to Mr. Valenti. His reply:

"DEAR SOLD OUT: I wish I had all the power you credit me with. If I did, I would change things a mite. When it comes to passing judgment on a film, even the experts can't agree on what is "dirty." What the motion picture code attempts to do in this democratic society — where there is NO censorship — is to inform the public honestly about the content of the film, then let parents make the judgments.

That is the only democratic way. The alternative is despotism, where a small group decides for all.

If parents cannot control and guide their children, are we to deliver that responsibility to the state? And remember, Sold Out, the state is people, "and thus a handful of mortals will be gathering unto themselves one enormous amount of power." Then who would watch the watchers? And who would guard the guardians? Sincerely, Jack Valenti."

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in a home for unwed mothers now. She has decided to give her baby up for adoption. I won't go into the reasons for her decision, but I think she's doing the right thing. She's only 15. She doesn't even want to see the baby. She says it will be easier to forget if she doesn't.

Abby, even though it would be a lie, what harm would there be if I were to tell her that her baby died? I am not asking her doctor to tell the lie — I will take all the responsibility myself. I just want the doctor and the people at the home where she will deliver the baby to back me up on my story.

My daughter has suffered enough already, and I only want to make it easier for her by telling her that her baby died. She won't have to go through life wondering where her child is. I can see only good in this lie, but if you think I'm wrong, please tell me why, and I'll do as you say. Thank you.

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your motives are "good" — but one cannot accomplish good with evil acts. I advise you to forget this scheme. It is morally wrong.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were discussing a letter we had read in your column. It was from a woman who complained because when she and her children said "grace" at the table and thanked God for their food, her husband said, "Don't thank God — thank me. I'm the one who earned the money to put the food on this table!" We joked about it and forgot the incident. But our 5-year-old son didn't forget.

At dinner when he said the blessing, first he said, "Thank you, daddy, for my food." Then he bowed his head and said, "and Thank you, God for my daddy."

Tiger Bats Boom in Weekend Tilts

By BRUNO L. KEARNS
Sports Editor, Pontiac Press

LAKELAND, Fla. — The Tigers came back.

In fact, they used their power to come back twice to defeat the Atlanta Braves and St. Louis Cardinals by the same score in a pair of weekend games, amid rumors that a trade was in the making.

★ ★ ★

Norm Cash slugged two home runs Saturday afternoon to drive in four runs as the Tigers won 6-5 and yesterday it was a smashing liner down the left field line by pinch hitter Wayne Comer in the 12th inning off Midland's Larry Jaster for the 6-5 triumph.

The Tigers were outhit in both games but the home run ball was the difference.

Starter Steve Carlton, who had pitched 11 straight scoreless innings in two partial exhibition appearances prior to yesterday, had his streak broken in the first inning when Mickey Stanley climaxed a four-run outburst with a 375-foot homer with Al Kaline and Willie Horton on base.

★ ★ ★

The first run scored when Carlton was charged with a balk permitting Ray Oyler to come home from third.

2 CASUALTIES

Although he gave up only four hits in six innings Carlton was wild and had the Tigers hitting the dirt several times. He hit Don Wert with a pitch in the first inning, and then hit Cash on the right elbow in the third frame.

Ed Mathews had to replace Wert at third, and Lennie Green ran for Cash and then replaced him at first base. Both players had bad bruises according to trainer Bill Behm.

Tiger starter Joe Sparma set 12 Cardinals down in order, helped by a double play in the fourth inning. But in the fifth frame, a double by Ed Spiezo and single by Dick Schofield produced a run.

★ ★ ★

Schofield had two hits in the game for St. Louis, and ironically, it was his name which was mentioned in a trade rumor.

The 33-year-old shortstop is not listed on the Cardinals' roster and the rumor was that St. Louis was offering him to Detroit for a relief pitcher.

Saturday, the rumor was that Atlanta was making overtures for Gates Brown, but nothing came of it.

The Cardinals made it 4-2 in the sixth inning yesterday when Bob Tolan and Curt Flood started the inning with singles and Tolan scored on an infield out by Joe Hague, who replaced Orlando Cepeda in the lineup.

ROUND TRIPPER

Horton, who was still bothered with the bruised shoulder, blasted a round tripper off Carlton in the sixth inning to make it 5-2.

The Cards really lambasted rookie Bob Reed, the University of Michigan student in the eighth inning.

Reed, who was in camp on a 10-day leave from his classes at Michigan, showered and was on his way back to Ann Arbor after he was shelled for three runs and four hits in the eight inning.

Hague, Phil Gagliano and Spiezo each got singles to drive in the runs in the inning.

★ ★ ★

Rookie Jon Warden entered the game in the ninth inning. He gave up three hits, but he struck out the side in the 11th inning, and he whiffed five batters in his four innings. He received credit for the victory.

Jaster was effective from the time he started in the ninth inning following Hal Gilson, but he walked pinch hitter Bill Freehan to start the 12th frame.

★ ★ ★

Comer, pinch hitting for Warden, attempted a bunt the first time and when Card third baseman Spiezo moved in along the third base line, Comer almost tore his head off with the smash which hugged the line and allowed Freehan to score from first with the winning run.

SATURDAY

Mickey Lolich, who started Saturday, had six strikeouts in his five innings, but the Tigers had to come back twice to beat the Braves and then hold on in the final inning for the win.

In regard to the trade rumor, the Cardinals indicated they might be interested in Hank Aguirre or Pat Dobson for Schofield.

Schofield had his finest hour with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1960 when he helped them to the pennant with a .333 batting average in 60 games and an average of .425 in the stretch drive that season.

Since then, however, he has been shoved around the leagues with San Francisco, Los Angeles and the Yankees. He was released by the Dodgers last December and came into Cardinal camp for a trial.

The Tigers showed very little interest in the Cardinals' offer, although there was interest in knowing what Atlanta was ready to offer for Brown.

It seems apparent that Comer will be kept when the team breaks for Detroit Sunday which means that Brown would be expendable, especially with Green in the picture.

Denny McLain was today's starter against Fritz Peterson of the New York Yankees in Lakeland, as the Grapefruit season moved into the final week.

Gym Title for Iowa

CHICAGO (AP) — Iowa will represent the Big Ten in the NCAA gymnastics championships at Tucson, Ariz., next week. The Hawkeyes defeated Michigan and Michigan State in a playoff Saturday. Iowa had 189.8 points to 187.6 for Michigan and 184.4 for MSU.

Tony Townson of MSU won the floor exercise, teammate Dave Thor won on the parallel bars and Michigan's Dave Jacobs took the trampoline.

DOWN TO EARTH — Coach Bill Russell of Boston's Celtics reaches out to control a loose ball as he and Detroit's Terry Dischinger fall to the floor in their battle for the ball in the first period of their National Basketball Association playoff game in Boston yesterday. Celtics won, 110-96.

Pistons Facing Do-or-Die Tilt Against Celtics

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons have their backs to the wall.

A four-minute scoring spree Sunday gave the Boston Celtics a 110-96 victory and a 3-2 lead over Detroit in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series.

★ ★ ★

The loss forces the Pistons to win tonight's game at Cobo Arena to stay in contention for the Eastern Division finals.

The Pistons, with Dave DeBusschere showing the way on a 16-point first half performance, led by a point, 50-49, at the half. Then NBA scoring champion Dave Bing, who was limited to three free throws over the first half, paced Detroit to a five-point lead through the middle stages of the third period.

But Boston's veteran cornermen Bailey Howell and Don Nelson took charge with two and a half minutes remaining in the quarter, controlling the rebounding under both boards, and broke the game open with their scoring.

BRIEF SURGE

The twosome ran up seven points apiece in the brief surge that ended with the Celtics on top by seven points and pulling steadily away.

Howell, with 30 points, and Sam Jones with 24 more, paced the Boston attack while seven of Nelson's 11 points came in the decisive rally.

DeBusschere's 26 topped the Detroit shooters. Bing tied with Eddie Miles at 18 each and rookie Jimmy Walker netted 16 in the losing cause.

In other games, the defending champion Philadelphia 76ers took a 3-2 lead over New York with a 123-105 victory, Los Angeles clinched its series against Chicago in five games by rumping the Bulls 122-99 and St. Louis routed San Francisco 129-103 to keep its playoff hopes alive.

GREEN SHINES

Philadelphia's Johnny Green, a Michigan State alumnus, came off the bench to score 16 points in the victory over the Knicks. Green, 34, was a member of the new San Diego Rockets when Philadelphia acquired him to fill in their front-court reserve. The deal proved to be a wise one.

Hal Greer paced the 76ers attack with 38 points, but it was Green's play, particularly in the third quarter when Philadelphia outscored New York 36-24, that proved the difference.

Elgin Baylor scored 15 of his 37 points in the third period, when Los Angeles outscored Chicago 34-19, to help the Lakers make quick work of the Bulls and advance to the Western Division finals. Jerry West added 23 points and Archie Clark had 20 for the Lakers while Jim Washington led Chicago with 24.

★ ★ ★

Bill Bridges and Lou Hudson combined for 54 points as St. Louis, on the brink of elimination, won its second game in five playoff tries against San Francisco. The Warriors, trailing 35-20 after the opening quarter, were never in contention as their high scorer Jeff Mullins, who hit for 130 points in the first four games against the Hawks, was held to 12.

Red Wings Play 5-5 Tie

Stan Mikita Scoring Champ

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stan Mikita and the St. Louis Blues have won the final skirmishes of the National Hockey League's longest season.

Thursday night, an all-out war of attrition begins on four NHL fronts—with Mikita and the Blues in the front lines.

★ ★ ★

Chicago's Mikita struck for his 40th goal and two assists Sunday night in the Black Hawks' 5-5 regular season-closing deadlock with Detroit and captured the individual scoring title for the fourth time in five years.

The Blues, meanwhile, trimmed Minnesota 5-3 and beat out the North Stars for third place in the West Division—the last spot up for grabs in the expanded 12-team circuit.

In other season finales, New York topped Montreal's East Division champs 4-2; Pittsburgh flattened Philadelphia's expansion West Division titlists 6-1; and Toronto downed Boston 4-1.

PLAYOFF PAIRINGS

Sunday's action brought the curtain down on the 74-game regular schedule and set up the following pairings for Thursday night's openers in the Stanley Cup playoff quarter-finals:

East Division—Boston at Montreal; Chicago at New York.

West Division—St. Louis at Philadelphia; Minnesota at Los Angeles.

Mikita, whose 97 points last season matched the all-time record set by teammate Bobby Hull in 1965-66, finished with 87 Sunday night, staving off late challenges by Boston's Phil Esposito and Detroit marvel Gordie Howe.

The Black Hawks spotted Detroit a 3-0 lead in the first period and then scrambled back to tie the Red Wings 5-5.

★ ★ ★

Detroit led 4-3 at the start of the final period, but Doug Mohns pulled Chicago even at 12:39. Dean Prentice of the Red Wings put Detroit ahead 5-4 at 14:46 while Detroit's Gary Jarrett was serving a penalty. However, 12 seconds later Mikita sent a bouncing shot from beyond the Detroit blue line that skipped past Wings' Goalie Roger Crozier.

Prentice netted the Wings' only goal Saturday night when they lost to New York, 3-1, in their home finale.

Esposito scored his 38th goal in Sunday night's loss to Toronto and took runnerup honors with 84 points. Howe, who celebrated his 40th birthday in the last game of his 22nd NHL season, settled for a single assist and wound up third with 82 points.

The scoring crown will net Mikita a $1,000 league bonus.

New York's two-goal margin over the Canadiens gave Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin a $250 prize for the best goals-against mark in the second half of the season.

Montreal's Rogatien Vachon and Gump Worsley had nailed te Vezina Trophy with the lowest over-all yield and had a one-goal second half edge over Giacomin going into the game.

But Phil Goyette and Camille Henry beat Vachon in the third period, enabling Giacomin to nip the Montreal duo by one goal as the second-place Rangers completed their finest season in the last 10, four points behind the pennant-winning Canadiens.

Senators Wrap Up Sweep Against Senior Circuit

By the Associated Press

The National League has parted company with the Washington Senators. It's the best thing that's happened to the National League all spring.

Washington pushed over an unearned run in the eighth inning Sunday and edged the Houston Astros 3-2, completing an 11-game exhibition sweep over National League opposition.

★ ★ ★

The victory gave the Senators an over-all record of 15-5—best in the exhibition circuit.

Bernie Allen singled in the eighth, moved around to third on two infield outs and scored the winning run on one of three errors committed by Hector Torres, the Astros' rookie shortstop. Ken McMullen delivered the other Washington runs with a homer and sacrifice fly.

Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's All-star third baseman, was hit below the left ear by a Steve Blass pitch in the fifth inning of Pittsburgh's 3-1 victory over the Orioles. Robinson, who was wearing an ear flap on his batting helmet, escaped serious injury but will miss tonight's against the Senators.

Cincinnati pounded the New York Yankees 8-2, scoring seven runs off Mel Stottlemyre in the first three innings. Mel Queen, who blanked New York on two hits through five frames, was the winner.

Tommy Davis' three-run homer and the shutout pitching of Bob Priddy, Bob Locker, Wilbur Wood and Don McMahon led the Chicago White Sox to a 6-0 victory over Philadelphia, ending the Phils' winning streak at five games.

★ ★ ★

Detroit, Minnesota and California won extra innings struggles.

Red Sarew's 12th-inning homer gave the Twins a 3-2 nod over Boston. Elston Howard drove in the Red Sox runs with a single and homer.

The Angels spotted Cleveland two runs in the top of the 11th, then rallied in the bottom of the inning for a 6-5 victory on run-scoring singles by Jay Johnstone, Rick Reichardt and Chuck Hinton.

Los Angeles clipped Ron Herbel for six runs in the first three innings and held off San Francisco 9-7 despite homers by the Giants' Willie McCovey and Jackie Hiatt.

★ ★ ★

Atlanta rookie Ron Reed scattered four hits through seven innings and reliever Claude Raymond completed a seven-hit, 2-0 victory for the Braves over the New York Mets, who have been blanked twice in a row and six times.

The Indians' B squad peppered Ken Holtzman for six runs in five innings and ripped the Chicago Cubs 9-2 while the White Sox Bs edged Oakland 4-3 on Rich Severson's RBI single in the 10th inning.

Don May Withdraws

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Don May, who led the Dayton Flyers to the National Invitation Tournament championship, has withdrawn from the Olympic basketball team tryouts, citing physical exhaustion.

He is the latest of several basketball stars to skip the Olympics in Mexico City next fall.

Johnson Paces Huron Victory

Pontiac Central has a new track coach but the team is still in a rut.

★ ★ ★

But it's a pleasant rut, though, a winning one.

Coach Roger Shepler, who took over the Chiefs after veteran Dean Wilson left it to move up to an administrative post, picked up where Wilson left off Saturday as he guided the squad to victory in the 14th annual Huron Relays at Ypsilanti.

It was a remarkable debut for Shepler, who watched as the Chiefs rolled up 44 points to nose out pre-meet favorite Flint Central, the defending champion which came up with 38.

★ ★ ★

Four meet records were broken during the relays, which attracted athletes from 71 schools in Michigan, Ohio and Ontario.

★ ★ ★

The Chiefs and Waterford Township produced two of the top outstanding individuals in the meet.

★ ★ ★

Senior Bob Johnson, who ran behind national champ Bill Tipton—now a freshman at Eastern Michigan University—last year, led the Chiefs to victory.

He won two events, the long jump with a leap of 21-feet-8½-inches and the 65-yard high hurdles in eight seconds, and anchored the winning shuttle hurdle relay team. With Johnson on the relay team were Roland Garcia, Cary Wiley and Horace Davis.

★ ★ ★

Waterford's Larry Biskner checked in with a record-breaking performance in the pole vault. He soared 14-feet-1¾-inches, well better than the old mark of 13-feet-7½-inches set by Jerry Klyop of Elyria, O., last year.

★ ★ ★

Among the other top teams in the event were Flint Northern and Ecorse, 34 points apiece; Jackson Parkside 25, Birmingham Seaholm and Dearborn, 22; Midland and Waterford 21; Ypsilanti, Romulus and Lansing Everett, 17.

VAULTER SOARS

The Chiefs scored in one doubtful area and lost points in a 'sure' thing in other events. Senior Walter Terry, who stayed out of pole vaulting for a year because of a knee injury, was a surprise as he turned in a leap of 13 feet to finish second to Biskner. Terry also ran a 2:02 anchor leg on the medley relay team. John Costello, one of the area's best distance runners, led at the halfway mark in the mile run but he dropped from the race bacause he was having trouble breathing.

★ ★ ★

Herb Washington turned in a record-breaking effort of 6.2 seconds in the 60-yard dash. The old mark of 6.3 was held by Washington, Bob Manning (Pontiac Central 1958) and Henry Weaver (Mansfield, O., 1961).

★ ★ ★

Ecorse won the mile relay in 3:28.7, topping the old mark of 3:28.9 set by Flint Central in 1966, and the other record broken came in the sprint medley where Dearborn was clocked in 3:38.9, way ahead of the record of 3:40.7 set last year by Mount Clemens.

★ ★ ★

Gene Pankner of Waterford Kettering flipped the shot 54-feet-3¾-inches to place second in that event.

North Farmington had a couple of good performances. John Mann placed second in the high jump with a leap of 6-feet-2-inches, while junior Rick Randall was clocked in 4:29.2 to place second in the mile.

★ ★ ★

Cougar Goalie Hurt as Team Drops Opener

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Cougars lost more than the opening game of the North American Soccer League Saturday 2-1 at Atlanta. Ace goal keeper Jim Standen was hurt in the 44th minute of the first half and Sunday was fitted with a cast from his upper thigh down to his left ankle.

Standen turned in four shutouts in Jamaica and Haiti as the Cougars won nine of 10 recent exhibitions. A spokesman for the team said Standen will return to Ford Hospital in Detroit Monday. It won't be known until then how long he'll be out of action.

He suffered a ligament injury when he collided with Atlanta Chiefs player Jim McParland.

Substitute Dick Howard allowed the two Chiefs' goals. McParland and Graham Newton scored the Atlanta goals. Lars Heinemann scored Detroit's goal.

★ ★ ★

Two other Cougars were injured, although not seriously. They are Tommy Coakley, with a shoulder injury, and Dick Kaminke, with an injured calf muscle.

The Oakland Clippers defeated the Boston Beacons 2-1 Sunday, and the San Diego Toros beat Kansas City 3-0.

HALL OF FAMERS — Named to Michigan's Hall of Fame Saturday were (from left) John H. Kobs, longtime baseball coach at Michigan State University; Harry G. Kipke, outstanding athlete and coach at the University of Michigan; and Ebbie R. Goodfellow, former Detroit Red Wings' star.

State Hall of Fame Adds Trio

DETROIT (UPI) — University of Michigan all time great football player and coach Harry G. Kipke, star hockey player Ebbie R. Goodfellow and the late John H. Kobs, for Michigan State baseball coach are the latest Michigan sports figures to be honored by the Michigan Sports Hall of Fame.

The three will be inducted during ceremonies in Cobo Hall May 21 during Michigan Week and bring to 60 the number of honorees enshrined in the Hall of Fame.

They were selected by the state's sports writers and broadcasters.

Kipke starred at the University of Michigan in football, basketball and baseball from 1921 to 1924 and later returned to his alma mater for a nine-year coaching stint beginning in 1929. His all-time Michigan coaching record was 46 victories, 26 losses and five ties.

Goodfellow played 14 seasons with the Detroit Red Wings, both as a forward and a defenseman, and ran up a total of 324 points on 134 goals and 190 assists.

He was the first Red Wing to win the Hart trophy as the National Hockey League's "most valuable player" in 1940.

Kobs, before his death last January, spent 43 years on the Michigan State athletic staff, 39 as head baseball coach.

★ ★ ★

With only four losing seasons, his Spartan baseball squads ran up a record of 557 wins and 364 losses.

Olympics Next for Hoosiers

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Indiana coach Doc Counsilman knows his newly-crowned NCAA swimming champions can't make the Olympics en masse, but he wants them all to try.

"I'm not going to single out Olympic prospects," Counsilman said after his charged-up Hoosiers ended long years of frustration by making a runaway of the 1968 NCAA meet.

★ ★ ★

"We want every boy to train for the trials as long as he has the slightest ghost of a chance—and we think everyone on the team has that," added the veteran mentor who coached the U.S. Olympic team to its smashing success in 1964.

One Hoosier ace whose chances seem more corporeal than spectral has to be Charlie Hickcox, the meet's individual star with three record-breaking victories. The 21-year-old junior from Phoenix, Ariz., lowered American standards with a 1:52.5 clocking in the 200-yard individual medley and a :52.1 in defending his 100-yard backstroke crown, then erased his own NCAA and meet marks with a 1:54.6 effort to retain the 200-yard backstroke title.

ONE GOAL

Asked which event or events he hoped to qualify for in the Olympic trials this summer Hickcox said: "Anything I can possibly get in. I just want to make that team, sir. That's my goal."

The feats of Hickcox and his teammates dominated over-all competition in the three-day meet at Dartmouth University, but UCLA's Mike Burton turned in the biggest singel highlight with a historic smashing of the 16-minute barrier in the 1,650-yard freestyle.

★ ★ ★

The 5-foot-9 "Mighty Mite" churned to a 15:59.4 clocking on Saturday's closing night. The feat, comparable to the sub four minute mile in track, erased his own record of 16:08 set a year ago.

"I had no idea I was going that fast until the finish," Burton said.

Burton's teammate Zac Zorn was another individual standout, successfully defending his 50-yard freestyle crown and then setting an American record of :45.3 in the 100.

ELI STAR

Don Schollander of Yale, also pointing for the Olympics and a chance to add to the four gold medals he won at Tokyo in 1964, won the 200-yard freestyle and anchored relay teams which set American records of 3:04.9 in the 400-yard freestyle race and 6:50.7 in the 800-yard freestyle.

The big story of the meet, though, had to be the victory of the long-thwarted Hoosiers, who had won just about every other honor in Counsilman's 10 years at the helm only to miss out on the top prize. For three years (1961-63) a football probation prevented Indiana from competing, then the Hoosiers finished second by heartbreaking margins the next three years and third in 1967.

When Bob Porter got fed up designing parts and pieces for other people's projects, he came to us. And got R&D projects of his own.

We need more people like Bob Porter at Mattel. Young engineers with ambition. Young engineers who know they've got the ability to take charge of consumer product development.

And want the chance to prove it.

We need them because Mattel is expanding faster than most companies ever dream of. With new ideas, new markets, new products. (More than 50% of our line is new every year.)

Right now, we need:

PROJECT ENGINEERS to direct their own project team through the entire consumer product development cycle.

DESIGN SPECIALISTS to take responsibility for the development of small, unusual mechanisms.

PRODUCIBILITY ENGINEERS to supervise projects from manufacturing design stage through engineering pilots.

What does it take to get one of those jobs?

A mechanical engineering background is best. Plus a familiarity with various mass production techniques. And a degree.

But what really counts is the ability to control a project. To make decisions. To work within real time and budget parameters.

In return, we can promise you an excellent salary, plus plenty of financial incentives, including profit sharing and stock option opportunities.

And we can promise you one more thing. Southern California is a great place to live. And raise a family.

Sound good? Then write today, in complete confidence, to Charles Raber, Manager of Professional Employment.

2nd Rich Win for Yarborough

Atlanta 500 Victory for Mercury Driver

ATLANTA (AP) — Cale Yarborough is on top of the racing world right now with two big victories and $70,000 in winnings this year.

Yarborough's perseverance has paid off and the hard-driving blond is in position to become the biggest money-winner ever in one year. He needs about $60,000 to break the record set by Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C.

★ ★ ★

"I don't know if I can break it but I've got a real good start," said Yarborough, who averaged 125 miles an hour in winning the 500-mile Atlanta race worth $20,050. It was his second straight Atlanta title.

Yarborough won a duel with another 1968 Mercury driver, Lee Roy Yarbrough of Columbia, S.C. They also finished 1-2 at the Daytona 500 a month ago.

★ ★ ★

Lee Roy won $9,285 in the race, with Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., pocketing $5,365 for third. Charlie Glozbach of Georgetown, Ind., was fourth and Darel Dieringer of Charlotte, N.C., was fifth.

Canadian Ski Lass Nears World Title

ROSSLAND, B. C. (AP) — Nancy Greene, Canada's pert snow queen, clinched at least a share of the World Cup Ski title Sunday while Austrian outsider Herbert Huber won the men's giant slalom at the Red Mountain International Ski Meet.

★ ★ ★

Miss Greene, a gold and silver medal winner in the Grenoble Olympics, won the women's giant slalom in one minute 26.85 seconds. Her only serious competitor for the cup, symbol of world ski supremacy, Isabelle Mir of France, was eighth in 1:31.72.

Shootoff Used to Determine Archery Title

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Ploen of Bloomington, Minn., nosed out Ray Cearley in a shootoff to win the Men's Open title at the 10th annual International Indoor Archery Championships Sunday.

Cearley, from Indianapolis, Ind., fired a perfect 300 score in the final round to force the first shoot off in the history of the tournament. Both men finished with 595 of a possible 600 points.

Ploen nipped Cearley 25 to 24 in the five arrow shootoff.

Dickie Roberts of Three Rivers, Mich., and Fred Hurst of Takoma, Wash., finished in a tie for third with 594.

Ann Butz of Suffern, N.Y., took the Women's Open with 563 points. Pearl Wolfe of St. Louis, Mo., was second at 554 and Dixie Ford, New Castle, Ind., was third at 552.

Season Opens Today on Great Lakes

Coho Boom Spreading Like Tidal Wave

By PAUL VAN KOLKEN

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — 8 Towns and villages along the shores of Lake Michigan are braced for a tidal wave of business as eager Michigan anglers head out today in quest of the Coho salmon, the existing new game fish that lured thousands to Lake Michigan a year ago.

The spread of the Coho to waters as far south as the Indiana shore shore has caused resort owners and other beneficiaries of the tourist trade to expand or refurbish their establishments.

★ ★ ★

The Conservation Department checked the Coho situation and came up with a report that should further ignite Michiganders to piscatorial pursuits: The Coho are numerous and in good fighting sizes.

The special season on Salmon opened today.

Stan Lievense of the department reported large numbers of Cohos are in virtually every stream from New Buffalo and the Benton Harbor area north to South Haven.

Meanwhile, Steelhead trout and brown trout are legal catches in the Great Lakes, and designated streams.

THREE POUNDS

Livense reported that Coho salmon have been taken that measure between one and one-half and three pounds. Elsewhere weights measured up to five pounds.

"There simply is no other word for the outlook this year," Wesley B. Tebeau of the West Michigan Tourist Association said. "It's fantastic."

Tebeau added: "The Coho has converted recreational wasteland into a dynamic fisherman's paradise."

★ ★ ★

He indicated attempts were being made to bring into focus the impact of salmon in Michigan and to organize and prepare for the expected heavy assault of fishermen this season and prevent a repeat of the chaos which developed last year in areas unprepared to handle the influx of fishermen.

Tom Lewis, manager of the Manistee County Board of Commerce said last year camper pickup rigs were parked along residential streets, "the litter was tossed out on lawns. There wasn't any way of enforcing compliance with ordinary sanitary ordinances."

SALES SOARED

Restaurants opened at 2:30 a.m. and piled heaps of rolls, cereals and other self-service items on tables and set up a cash register near a door.

Sales of gasoline and fishing equipment soared.

Manistee's Orchard Beach State Park in September 1966 registered 40 permits, but recorded 823 the same week of the Coho season last year.

Lewis said $650,000 in government funds are being spent this year to add launching sites and improve parking and camp facilities in the Manistee area. He estimated 75 launching ramps would be available this season compared with only four last year.

★ ★ ★

At Orchard Beach new toilet facilities and a shower building are being added and Private investors are adding two ramps on Manistee Lake and renovating the old yacht club, Lewis added.

★ ★ ★

Emmett H. Pullman, dockmaster of the city of Frankfort, said the city was building four launching ramps at a city park and providing additional parking for cars and trailers. He said other docking space was planned by private developers near the public marina.

Three food and drink establishments at Ludington were reported to have remodeled or enlarged this year while two new sporting goods shops were to be opening.

MARINA PLANNED

Further south along Lake Michigan where Coho are reported showing up in nets of commercial fisherman, a $2 million marina and motel complex is planned at Muskegon while a similar development is in the planning stages at South Haven, Tebeau said. Saugatuck and Douglas are preparing launching sites along the Kalamazoo River.

A charter boat industry appeared on the surface this year, spawned by the enthusiasm for the salmon.

Glen F. Bowden, a Ludington contractor, is chairman of a steering committee to establish a "Coho navy" of charter boat operators to follow the salmon schools as they move north in Lake Michigan.

★ ★ ★

"From the initial reaction we expect to have members representing a fleet of about 100 boats," Bowden said. Most of the vessels would accomodate up to six persons.

The past president of the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association, Jerry Buening, predicted a 40 per cent increase this year in tackle sales, "a large part in the Midwest due primarily to the introduction of the Coho, which has put new life into the Midwest market, both for boats and tackle."

The Shakespeare Co. of Kalamazoo, one of several fishing-tackle companies which have introduced lines of Coho equipment, predicts sales of Coho fishing equipment in Michigan alone would reach $500,000 this year.

'Turning Point Reached in Fall'

LBJ Decision Long in Making

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson eased his six-foot-three frame into a maroon chair and said: "I guess the turning point was probably last November."

For some time Johnson had been tossing around in his mind —and talking over with close friends and associates who could keep his secret—the possibility of renouncing the run for another presidential term.

★ ★ ★

He had even come close to making the stunning announcement, which finally came Sunday night, when he delivered his State of the Union message to Congress last Jan. 17.

But with so many more messages on particular phases of his program still on tap, he decided the timing was improper.

LAST DAY OR TWO

So it was not until the last day or two that the President made the final, definite decision against seeking or accepting nomination for a second full term.

His family knew his intention and had what Mrs. Johnson later described as mixed feelings about it. But not many other people did, particularly as to the timing.

★ ★ ★

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had an inkling. So did Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, and Clifford's predecessor, Robert S. McNamara.

The President said he talked with his vice president Sunday morning about what he was considering but didn't tell him he was going to announce a decision that night. He did call Humphrey, who by that time had flown to Mexico City, after the radio-television address from the presidential office.

TURNING POINT

What fixes November in Johnson's mind as the turning point was a visit from the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

"His visit didn't bring it about," Johnson explained at a news conference hurriedly arranged just before midnight in the yellow oval room of the White House living quarters.

★ ★ ★

"His visit coincided with when I turned the corner."

He did let Westmoreland know, though, that he was thinking of foregoing a race for another term. And his press secretary, George Christian, said the President wanted the general's assessment of how an announcement along that line would affect troop morale.

"Westmoreland told him he thought it would be a shock," Christian said, "but not a lasting shock. He pretty well agreed with the President that nobody is indispensable."

'HARD CONSIDERATION'

Christian is one of those who had the President's confidence. He said of the blockbuster announcement:

"I think he really has been giving it hard consideration for about the last year. I think he and Mrs. Johnson have just been counting the days on when they might get out."

★ ★ ★

As long ago as last fall, Christian said, he and the President talked with Gov. John B. Connally of Texas about what Johnson was considering. This was at a time when Connally was trying to reach a decision of his own on whether to run for a fourth term—a decision that also was in the negative.

★ ★ ★

Christian said, too, that he was working during the fall on a speech for Johnson which would have incorporated the Sunday announcement. He said Johnson had in his pocket in writing what would have been the announcement when he addressed Congress on Jan. 17.

DIDN'T KNOW

Recalling how he stood in the back of the House chamber that night, Christian said, "We didn't know until the last moment whether he was going to do it or not."

Sunday night, Christian had passed the word that there might be an addition to the advance text of Johnson's address to the nation but he said he didn't know whether Johnson actually would use it, and it wouldn't be available ahead of time.

★ ★ ★

Just the day before, at a news conference in the White House Rose Garden, Johnson had disclosed he would address the country on Vietnam policy and "also talk about other questions of some importance."

Johnson also had something to say about what a reporter described as "a dope story" that "you won't announce your plans as far as 1968 are concerned until the August convention in Chicago."

ACCURATE APPRAISAL

Johnson had the customary answer and an accurate appraisal of the story:

"I will cross that bridge when I get to it.

★ ★ ★

"The fact that it is a dope story is the best evidence of its total unreliability."

With the decision made and announced, the President traded a suit coat for a blue shirt jacket with a mandarin collar and turned up at the post-mortem news conference eating a cup of chocolate pudding—probably low calorie.

Asked how he felt at that point, he smiled and answered:

"I feel as good as a fellow could feel who's gone through what I've gone through today."

★ ★ ★

He hadn't slept well Saturday night. And he and Mrs. Johnson were up early to go to the back door and welcome their returning daughter, Lynda, at 6:45 a.m. She had just returned from the West Coast, where she had seen her husband, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb off for Vietnam.

★ ★ ★

Later, Johnson went to church with daughter Luci and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent. And he said that, off and on during a good part of the day, the family discussed the decision he planned to announce.

Questioned about the family's reaction, the President used the same term his wife had used:

"Oh, I think it's a mixed reaction. I can't really speak for them. But I think they all go along with the decision I made. Lynda hasn't been here and she wasn't sure it was as immediate as it was.

A CLUE

There was a clue, perhaps, to Mrs. Johnson's thinking last month.

Johnson had seen former Rep. Carl Vinson at a Marietta, Ga., ceremony and was telling Lady Bird with considerable enthusiasm how well Vinson was faring in retirement.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Johnson replied to her husband that Vinson was living proof "that you can leave town."

U.S., Saigon Officials Silent on LBJ; GIs' Reaction Varied

(Pesaigon)p) — U.S. and South Oetnamese ffiials, taken by surprise, kept silent today bobig curtailment and his exit from the presidential race while GIs expressed joy, dismay, disbelief and even disinterest.

American military leaders and the South Vietnamese government have openly opposed any letup in the bombing of North Vietnam, but they refused to comment on any part of Johnson's speech.

★ ★ ★

GI omments on the bobing cutbak ranged from "they'll bury all of us" to "This means we'll go home sooner."

One said, "I don't care who is President so long as I get home."

A senior office on Gen. William C. Westmorelan's staff, who refused to let his name be used, said few American soldiers cared whether Johnson ran for reelection or not.

"The avera GI is much more concerned about his immediate situation than about who is sitting in the White House," e sid.

Many did react, however. Some thought reporters were pulling an April Fool's joke, and one lieutenant, a colonel said: "You never want to believe a politician when he makes an announcement like that."

The weekly meeting of the U.S. Mission Council at the American Embassy ran a little longer than usual today, but afterward Ambassador Ellsworth Bunkr said: "No one ever comments on the President's remarks except the President. You undersand that."

Westmoreland, who is to be relieve in July as commander of U.S. forces i Vietnam, told a questioner: "Yes, I have a comment. It's no comment." Last year he said the bombing of North VIETNAM "essential andtal to our military strategy."

COMMANDERS NOTIFIED

Westmoreland also refused to comment on a statement by White House Press Secretary George Christian that Johnson had discussed the possibility of stepping out of the political arena with Westmoreland when the general was in Washington last november.

The top allied commanders in Vietnam apparently were notified Sunday of the President's bombing curtailment order, but both this and his political announcement came as a complete surprise to other military men and South Vietnamese officials listening to Johnson's speech on the U.S. Armed Forces Radio.

★ ★ ★

President Nguyen Van Thieu, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Premier Nguyen Van Loc all declined to commnt. There was a flurry f activity at Independence Palace as Thieu met with his chief advisers. Thieu was to make a televised speech Tuesday to the nation which an aide said was planned long ago, tpilot who said: "I don't believe but he did no rule out the possibility that t president would comment on Jonson's spech.

The GIs' responses to Johnsn's withdrawal from the presidential race generally depended on political leanings. But some took the position of an Air Force pilot who said: "I don't believe anyone cominin cold will have the experience or knowledge of events or that a new man stepping into office will be as well prepared as Johnson is at this time."

REMEMBER NASSER?

The Ay officer who cautioned wariness of politicians' statements recalled the resignation speech of Egyptian President Gama Abdel Nasser after Egypt lost the Arab-Israeli war last June.

"Remember Nasser?" he said. "Well, the day after he resigned because of his own mistakes, he was firmer in the saddle than ever.'

A Vietnamese-Chinese shopkeeper expressed a similar "This is to make the people love him all the more."

"Now we'll be getting some damn fool who's been fighting for the job all his life," said Spec. 5 Douglas Willmeroth of San Mateo, Calif.

'DON'T BLAME HIM'

In the streets of Saigon, soldiers who shouted the news to others often met with laughing disbelief. Everyone knew it was April Fool's Day.

"I don't blame him," said an infantry sergeant on his second tour in Vietnam. "He did the best job he knew how. It has been rough on him and all he got for it was a kick in the head."

★ ★ ★

Staff Sgt. John Archer of Malden, Mass., said: "Johnson is about the only one of the politicians who doesn't want to pull our troops out altogether. The Kennedys and the rest do. I think it's a great mistake that he's not seeking reelection."

A young Vietnamese lieutenant, however, said he felt a new man in the White House would help to end the war.

"Our people are tired of war," he said. "Everybody wants the war to end."

State Dems Hesitant to Make Predictions

DETROIT (UPI)—Michigan's Democratic leaders were in a dilemma today in trying to assess the ramifications of President Johnson's announcement he would not seek reelection.

The effect on the candidacies of Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy were foremost in their statements, but all were hesitant to say who might now get the Democratic nomination.

★ ★ ★

Here are some views on the problems facing Michigan Democrats:

● State Sen. Sander M. Levin, state Democratic chairman: "The political picture is obviously altered. But it is too early for any appropriate or useful comment."

● Zolton Ferency, former state Democratic chairman and an open opponent of President Johnson's policies: "It is too soon to rule Johnson out. The administration philosophy, that is my real concern. I am happier now than I used to be to see that we have a chance to change the course of America's policies. I can't see much difference between the policies McCarthy and Kennedy propose. With a split in the party, this may have to be decided at the convention."

● Sen. Philip A. Hart: "I haven't the foggiest idea who the Democratic nominee will be. I think it would be a good idea to leave it up to the delegates to the Democratic National Convention. I have taken the position we should have an open convention. It would be a healthy thing."

● Democratic National Committeeman Neil Staebler: "I don't think we will reach our conclusions without debate. But it can take place in an atmosphere not affected by past circumstances. We are now in a position where we can have free debate and full expression of opinion."

● State Sen. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn, a backer of McCarthy: "We will have to get together and assess the impact before determining our future course. We can't afford the luxury of division anymore. Both Kennedy and McCarthy are saying the same things on the issues and I'd be happy with either man."

● John Weiss, associate professor of history at Wayne State University and chairman of the Michigan McCarthy forces: "I hope it (the President's announcement) improves McCarthy's chances. My main concern is that we get different policies."

● August Gus Scholle, president of the Michigan AFL-CIO and long a supporter of President Johnson: "I think the AFL-CIO will support whoever is nominated by the Democrats, particularly if Richard Nixon is the GOP candidate."

London Gold Mart Open; No Speculator Bonanza

LONDON (AP) — London's gold market reopened today and with indications gold's monetary role may be diminishing, there was no major bonanza for speculators whose buying rush closed the market 17 days ago.

This weekend's agreement in Stockholm to create "paper gold"—a new form of international credits for world trade— dealt speculators their biggest blow in months.

In effect, the world's major non-Communist trading nations, excluding France, agreed to accept each other's paper promises to repay part of their trading debts without the security of gold. This could be the first step on a long road leading to the end of gold as money, meaning a decline in the demand for the metal and drop in its price.

The price in the London free market ranged in early trading from $37.50 to $38 an ounce, less than $3 above the price of $35 formerly guaranteed by the United States and six other nations.

To keep the price down in the face of a gold rush which indicated lack of confidence in paper money, the gold pool nations had to supply gold from their own stocks to meet the demand.

TWO-PRICE MARKET

At a meeting in Washington March 17, they decided to continue to settle accounts among themselves by transferring gold at $35 an ounce. But they decided to leave the free market price to fluctuate with supply and demand.

When the London market closed March 15, markets in Paris, Zurich and elsewhere remained open. To the surprise of some authorities and the shock of some gold hoarders, the price of gold rose less than $10 and then fell back. Some had been gambling it would double under panic demand.

But transactions in these small markets were not an accurate gauge. Hence the interest in today's reopening.

A speculator who bought a ton of gold at $35 an ounce and sold today would have a paper profit of nearly $100,000, but cutting into that would be commissions, handling and insurance charges and interest on money borrowed to buy the gold originally.

NO BONANZA

Today's price was "certainly no bonanza for the speculators," one banker said. But it may take several days or longer for a clear trend to emerge.

The big question involves the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of gold bought by big European corporations as a hedge against a feared devaluation of the dollar in the days of the last gold rush.

Austerity Program Would Hurt Negroes

YOUNG

Executive Director
National Urban League

The international monetary crisis has led to calls for austerity. That means higher taxes, cutbacks in federal spending and possibly higher interest rates on loans.

This hits home; it's not just a matter for bankers and government officials to worry about. The decisions on how these policies are to be implemented will effect all Americans.

Negroes and city dwellers especially, will be effected by the measures taken since the call for austerity comes at a time when our urban areas are in desperate need of funds.

Although the monetary crisis is serious, the poor shouldn't be made to pay for a national belt-tightening spree.

Higher taxes coupled with spending cutbacks result in a lessening of the economy's expansion. That always means higher unemployment, and you know who is first to be laid off.

Higher interest on loans means that housing construction is cut back, and you know who suffers most from the lack of decent housing.

It's hard to believe that a nation as rich as the United States can find itself in such a position, but now that it has been decided that an austerity program is necessary, we have to make sure that the poor aren't forced to bear the burdens involved.

We've got to take a hard look at national priorities and cut back only on nonessentials.

No. 1 priority has to be the eradication of poverty and discrimination. This is the core of our urban crisis, and we can't pinch pennies while our cities stagnate and poverty flourishes.

The child that's bitten by a rat doesn't want to hear about the London gold exchange. He needs help—and now.

Some people would say that Vietnam should get the highest priority. Without going into the rights and wrongs of that tragic situation, we are already spending about $30 billion per year there.

Further, the cost of the war is always used as an excuse to put off costly programs like housing construction.

Some people want more cuts like those already being made in antipoverty programs, but don't want to cut back on luxuries like supersonic planes and the race to the moon.

Putting a man on the moon by 1970 will cost more than putting the poor in decent homes. Since astronomers assure us that the moon will still be up there past 1970, what's the rush?

All the talk about Vietnam costs has to be de-escalated. Some important domestic measures won't cost a red cent. Open housing for example, would let Negroes live where they wish, yet it costs nothing. So why use the war as an excuse not to do the right thing?

If we can spend money on search-and-destroy missions in Vietnam, we can also spend on search-and-employ programs at home, to recruit and train unemployed Americans for good jobs.

People are always telling me that if the war ended, we could spend $30 billion a year to end poverty. But what guarantee is there that the money would be spent on massive domestic programs?

The last time the government had a lot of unspent money, in 1964, it decided to cut taxes and to let industry get tax credits on new machinery.

So, if the war ended tomorrow (as we all pray), that $30 billion might be spent on aid to the new government in Vietnam, more space programs, and a tax cut.

Unless we move now to come up with domestic programs to break the poverty barrier which traps 30 million American citizens, we might find even less money available later.

If sensible steps are taken this nation can afford both its international commitments and a domestic Marshall Plan for the underprivileged, and it can also cut spending on what should be lower priority items.

We can't tell you who turned pure wool double-knits into some of the season's best styles in some of the most fashionable colors—but when you see the label you'll see the name of our most famous maker. Choose from dresses at just 22.90; 3-piece suits at only 35.90; and coat-and-dress ensembles reduced to 45.90. But hurry, for a sale like this can't last very long.

Jim: "We haven't spent much time discussing squeezes lately."

Oswald: No, we haven't. Maybe we sohuld remedy that lack right now."

JACOBY

Jim: "Here's a good example. The six no-trump contract is eminently sound since if his hand and dummy's South has four spades, two hearts, three diamonds and three clubs in top cards.

"A rubber bridge player wouldn't worry much about an overtrick because he would be satisfied with scoring 190 below the line plus 500 for the rubber and 750 for the slam, but he might just as well go after the overtrick as a matter of technique."

Oswald: "The basic play for the overtrick is to see if clubs break. If each opponent holds three clubs, South's fourth club becomes the 13th trick. If not, there must be some squeeze possibility since either dummy's fourth diamond or South's own third heart becomes a potential squeeze card."

Jim: "That is the base of all squeezes. You can't make all the tricks without exerting pressure. You exert the pressure and the squeeze operates."

Oswald: "This hand is set up as a simple one-way squeeze against East. South wins the heart opening and runs off four spade tricks. He throws a small heart from dummy. West lets a heart go also, as does East.

"Then South leads a second heart to his hand and East is squeezed. He has to throw away a club or a diamond and either discard gives South his 13th trick.

Jim: "This hand represents a three-suit squeeze situation. Take West's four of hearts and trade it for East's five of diamonds. Now the four spade leads and two heart leads won't bother East because he could only stop clubs anyway."

"West won't be bothered up to that point, but South will squeeze West when he leads out dummy's three top clubs. West will be forced to throw a diamond or his last heart. Either discard will give South the 13th trick.

Stock Market Roars Ahead

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market roared ahead early today on news of President Johnson's decision not to accept renomination and his halt of the North Vietnam bombing and his renewed offer to Hanoi to enter peace talks.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 12.89 to 853.56 in the first half hour.

Gains outnumbered losses by 12 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange. The ticker tape was late, and a parade of big blocks

Gold-mining stocks showed weakness, many of them being delayed in opening due to pile ups in orders. This was linked to decisions of the Stockholm monetary conference.

Two-point gains were made by Texaco, Standard Oil of California and U. S. Smelting. United Air Lines rose nearly 3.

Gains of a point or better were made by Goodrich, Uniroyal, Zenith, Alcoa, International Nickel and Air Reduction.

Benguet, the Philippine gold miner, lost a fraction. Sunshine Mining, a silver producer, dropped about 1½.

Chrysler opened on a block of 80,000 shares, up 2 at 60.

Opening blocks included:

Magnavox, up 1 at 46 on 28,000 shares; Imperial Corp., up ⅜ at 9¼ on 25,000; Texaco, up 1¾ at 74¼ on 8,900; and Beguet, off ¼ at 10⅜ on 21,000.

On Friday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.4 to 302.7.

Prices were strong on the American Stock Exchange. Mohawk Data Sciences rose about around 2½, Syntex about 2, Diversified Metals, Consolidated Oil & Gas and Alloys Unlimited more than a point.

Open Housing Is Before Court

High Tribunal Airing St. Louis Pair's Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today hears arguments contending that open housing is the law of the land under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution and an 1866 Reconstruction statute.

The case was brought by Joseph Lee Jones and his wife, Barbara, a Negro couple from St. Louis allegedly barred because of race from purchasing a house in a "white" subdivision.

The test case seeks to end all discrimination in housing.

The Jones case tests whether a builder may exclude Negroes when selling homes in a new development, but it goes even farther by contending open housing is the law of the land.

★ ★ ★

The Justice Department is giving the couple impressive support, citing the 14th Amendment which guarantees the "equal protection of the laws," and the 1866 law which provides that all citizens shall have the same right to bpy and sell property.

49 CASES

The justices were to hand down opinions on some of the 49 cases under advisement before hearing the Jones' appeal.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark is arguing the Jones case himself instead of leaving it as usual to Solicitor Gen. Erwin N. Griswold or one of Griswold's assistants.

The "equal protection" argument has won many Supreme Court decisions for Negroes, including the famous 1954 school desegregation ruling, but to invoke the 14th Amendment the complaint must allege action by a state, not a private individual.

★ ★ ★

'PUBLIC FUNCTION'

"A private individual who is permitted by the state to perform an essentially public function assumes, along with the governmental powers of the state, its constitutional obligations," the department said.

Mayer argues that the state is not significantly involved and that the 1866 law was not intended to apply to "private or non-official conduct."

Congress is also working on "open housing" but in a wider context. In three stages, a Senate-passed bill would eventually prohibit discrimination in sale or rental not only of apartments, but of single-family homes not sold or rented through brokers. The bill is now in the House Rules Committee.

★ ★ ★

The court ends its term in early June and would be expected to hand down a decision in the Jones case by that time.

The last important decision on open housing, delivered May 3, 1948, was that private real estate covenants designed to keep neighborhoods white cannot be enforced in state courts.

The ruling has stood by itslef with almost no decisions stemming from it.

U.S. Tight With Extensions

Tax Deadline Is Strict

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

CUNNIFF

NEW YORK — Between 300,000 and 400,000 individuals are expected to apply for extensions beyond the April 15 deadline for filing federal income tax returns. More than 50 per cent of them might be successful.

Extensions are granted "for any legitimate reason," according to the Internal Revenue Service. But don't get your hopes up. That word "legitimate" is interpreted narrowly.

★ ★ ★

An earthquake, such as occurred in Alaska four years ago, or floods, such as occur around filing time, are considered legitimate reasons. Serious illness or inability to obtain records may or may not be legitimate.

The majority of extensions are granted for acts of God, such as floods, although automatic 60-day extensions apply to citizens who are out of the country at filing time. In all extension cases, interest must be paid.

COMBAT PERSONNEL

Combat zone military and civilian personnel are in an entirely different category. They have six months in which to file after leaving the combat zone. And they pay no interest for their late filing. But this is a rare exception.

If you explain that your accountant is overloaded with work, which might be true around filing time, your chance of obtaining an extension is slim. If, however, your accountant is the only one in town and you can't find another, then you have a chance.

★ ★ ★

Accountants, in fact, are quite disturbed about being turned down on extension applications. The National Public Accountant, a journal, says this letter resulted in a rejection:

"Extension for filing is requested because of my illness with the flu during which I was confined to bed March 8-13, after which my two preschool children also had the flu. Our doctor was Dr.——.

MORE TRAGEDY

"The same week my wife was ordered to bed by Dr. —— of —— hospital with a threatened miscarriage, which did occur on March 25. During the month my office assistant, who is my mother, developed high blood pressure and is now in —— hospital seriously ill."

Not only was the request rejected, said the journal, but a request for reconsideration also was turned down.

The IRS people, often portrayed as coldly dedicated acolytes serving a monster electronic computer that ruthlessly orders people around, are anything but that. They maintain, in their defense, that they must uphold the law.

Sheldon Cohen, Internal Revenue commissioner, says extensions are allowed when:

". . . the taxpayer has made timely and reasonable efforts to file his return on time but finds himself unable to do so because of circumstances beyond his control."

BEFORE DEADLINE

Extension requests must be made before the filing deadline of midnight April 15. The letter should be addressed to the district director. In return the applicant may receive a Form 2688, which requires detailed explanations.

If the request is granted, the individual generally has 60 days from April 15 in which to file. For every day of this time he uses, however, he must pay interest on the amount due at the rate of 6 per cent a year.

★ ★ ★

If the request is denied, the applicant is told to file his return by April 15. If that date already has passed, the applicant is given 10 days from the date of the rejection.

There's another side to the picture though. If the government can't get your refund back to you within 45 days it, too, must pay that same 6 per cent interest. Last year individuals received more than $33 million this way.

Negro Nation in U.S. Set Up on Paper

DETROIT (UPI) — The solemn prediction of the Kerner Commission that the country is edging toward two separate nations became a paper reality today with the formation of a separate, independent Negro nation within the United States.

Black nationalists from throughout the country gathered in Detroit over the weekend at the National Black Government Conference, the founding convention of the new nation.

Milton Henry, spokesman for the convention, founder of the Malcolm X society, which sponsored the convention, and newly elected first vice president of the Republic of New Africa, said Sunday night that a declaration of independence had been signed, a government established and financing for the new nation was under way.

UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED

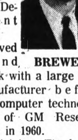
The 150 delegates to the convention had unanimously adopted the position that they "are not now, nor have ever been, citizens of the United States," Henry said. He maintained that citizenship had been thrust upon Negroes without their consent.

Robert F. Williams, formerly a NAACP director in North Carolina but now living in exile in Red China, is the president of the Republic, Henry said. H. Rap Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee now serving a jail term for unlawfully transporting a firearm, is the minister of defense.

The new nation would immediately seek to open negotiations with Washington to establish itself in Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina, he said.

Man Promoted at GM Truck

Robert A. Brewer of Livonia has been promoted to manager of data processing operations at GMC Truck and Coach Division.



BREWER

Brewer was formerly general supervisor of systems and programming in the Systems Development group.

Brewer served in sales and systems work with a large computer manufacturer before joining the computer technology department of GM Research Laboratories in 1960.

Prior to joining Truck and Coach in 1967, he worked with other GM divisions in information processing and computer applications and later was responsible for computer software development and implementation.

Addison Township Crash Injures Teen

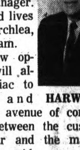
A Madison Heights teen-ager is in serious condition at Crittenton Hospital, Avon Township, following an accident early yesterday in Addison Township.

Injured was Donald R. Clawbaugh, 17, of 1224 Darling. Claybaugh, 17, of 1224 Darling. a car driven by Harold E. Compton, 16, of 27810 Palmer Lane, Madison Heights, when it left Rochester Road near Brewer and struck a tree. Compton was treated at the hospital and released.

Impeachment proceedings are brought by the U.S. House of Representatives.

Pontiac Div. Combines 2 Departments

The consolidation of Pontiac Motor Division's owner relations department with the customer relations department has been announced by Thomas L. King, general sales manager.



HARWOOD

The combined operation will be directed by John H. Harwood, national customer relations manager.

Harwood lives at 826 Larchlea, Birmingham.

The new operation will allow Pontiac to intensify and widen its avenue of communications between the customer, the dealer and the manufacturer, King said.

Current customer relations programs include working with dealers on long-range programs, small meetings with owners, the mailing of questionnaires to recent purchasers of Pontiacs and the handling of customer inquiries either through Pontiac's central office staff or its nationwide network of 27 zone offices.

Fire Damages Drugstore in Highland

A blaze early yesterday morning damaged the Harry Porter Drug Store at 2981 E. Highland, Highland Township.

Fighting flames from 1:10 a.m. to 4 a.m. were men from the departments of Highland, West Bloomfield, White Lake and Commerce townships and Milford and Walled Lake.

Estimated loss was $50,000 in stock and $25,000 to the building, according to Highland Township Department's Aassistant Chief Asa Smith.

There was little damage to a bakery test of the drugstore. However, a dry-cleaning business to the west suffered smoke damage, said Smith.

★ ★ ★

The fire began in the furnace area of the drugstore, Smith said. His department is investigating the cause of the fire.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — Our son enters college in 1969, and we hold 25 shares of American Telephone at 71, expecting this investment to help with his expenses. Should we switch to another blue chip or hold for recovery? The same question applies to Great A&P at 35½.—V.S.

A — Though I cannot promise that AT&T will have recovered to your cost price by September, 1969, I do believe you should hold your shares for recovery rather than accept a substantial loss of capital. AT&T is a dominant factor in the communications industry where increasing service demands are a continuing challenge to Bell's vast research facilities. Your shares have excellent long-range potential and might help to finance your son's later years in college.

Meantime you might consider a faster growth stock like Talley Industries or EG&G — both seemingly undervalued — to prepare for 1969. The outlook for Great A&P is brighter than it has been, as slightly higher earnings were reported for fiscal 1968. Management has tightened cost controls and closed out some unprofitable units. You are likely to find better price action, though, in Del Monte, and I suggest you make this switch.

Q — Is Continental Oil a good stock to hold? We are small investors and wonder about choosing as our broker a good friend—outstanding in his business — who lives in another state or someone in our home base who is recommended by friends we trust.—W. R.

A — By all means establish your brokerage account with someone in your city who is well recommended by people whose judgment you trust. You will find it much easier to sit down face-to-face to talk over your plans and possible problems. Continental Oil is a high-grade security. The company's activities are quite broadly diversified into petro-chemicals, fertilizers and coal mining in addition to its original integrated oil operations. Earnings and dividends have been in a strong uptrend for the past 10 years, and future developments look promising.

LBJ Plans for Viet 1st Step---Broomfield

Congressman William S. Broomfield, R-18th District, said today that President Johnson's order limiting the bombing of North Vietnam coupled with his call for a reconvening of the Geneva conference to begin peace negotiations, is "a most hopeful and encouraging sign."

"While I strongly support his effort, it is only a first step," said Broomfield. "It will take more than a unilateral bombing halt and a public plea to resolve our difficulties in Vietnam.

Broomfield said that it was his hope that the President will follow his public statement with maximum pressure through diplomatic channels on the Soviet Union and Great Britain to resume talks at Geneva.

"It also would seem incumbent upon United Nations Secretary General U Thant to call together all parties to the war in Vietnam as another preliminary to a return to Geneva," Broomfield added.

★ ★ ★

"This morning I have sent a wire to U Thant urgently requesting that he follow that course. The President's words have created an opportunity to move the war to the peace table," he said.

"It is my hope that the linking of this most important proposal with the President's statement about his own political future will not jeopardize the atmosphere for a sincere effort toward negotiations."

Cigarette Ember Leads to Death

PIRU, Calif. (AP) — A cigarette ember that flew in the driver's eye caused a car accident which killed a young North Hollywood woman, the coroner's office said.

Carole Cole, 24, was killed Sunday when the car driven by her husband, Gary Allan Cole, 25, went out of control and rolled over in a field. Authorities said she was thrown from the car and then crushed by it.

LBJ's Announcement Follows Truman Script

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson followed the script of a political idol, Harry S. Truman, in stunning the nation with the news he won't seek another term as President.

Johnson is the seventh incumbent president to announce he would not seek reelection. And while such news has probably surprised Americans since the day James Polk gave out the news, no president ever surprised as many people as Johnson did Sunday night.

The President chose to insert his announcement in his lengthy Vietnam speech, broadcast and telecast to a mammoth Sunday night audience at an hour which the broadcasters call "prime time."

Except for six persons, his announcement was totally unexpected, even to the newsmen who watched him read his speech in his oval office. They did not get full transcripts of the speech until after it was finished.

Johnson had confided only in Mrs. Johnson, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, Robert S. McNamara, former Pentagon chief and now president of the World Bank, and press secretary George Christian.

2nd Saturn Launch Nears

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (UPI) — With the last major ground-test hurdle passed, Apollo 6 crewmen today readied the second Saturn 5 rocket for launch Thursday on what may be the final unmanned Apollo test flight.

The important 10-hour mission is designed to qualify the moon rocket for manned launchings, and a success would keep intact the space agency's ambitious plans to send men to the moon as early as mid-1969.

The 363-foot Saturn 5 passed its final big prelaunch test yesterday afternoon.

The exercise was a rehearsal countdown that included fueling the rocket and virtually everything but ignition of its five booster engines.

The countdown test had been stalled twice by separate troubles involving the rocket's first and third stages, but the final seven hours of the test went well yesterday.

For the Apollo 6 mission, the Saturn 5 will propel its unmanned Apollo spacecraft toward a peak altitude of 13,820 miles. The rocket's third stage will continue on a simulated trajectory to the moon and travel some 320,000 miles from earth.

The Apollo 6 ship is scheduled to drive back into earth's atmosphere at the 25,000-mile-an-hour return speed moon pilots will encounter.

The spacecraft will land near a recovery force in the Pacific Ocean nine hours, 49 minutes after launch.
